This Article shall provide State and private remedies against farm equipment manufacturers for persons injured by new farm equipment failing to conform to express warranties.

"§ 106-92.25. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

- (1) Agricultural equipment. Any self-propelled vehicle designed primarily for and used in the occupation or business of farming.
- (2) Consumer. A purchaser, other than for purposes of resale, of new agricultural equipment or any subsequent purchaser, other than for purpose of resale, to whom such equipment is transferred during the duration of a manufacturer's express written warranty applicable to such equipment.

"§ 106-92.30. Protection against defective agricultural equipment; applicability of Article.

- (a) If agricultural equipment does not conform to all applicable express written warranties, and the consumer reports the nonconformity to the manufacturer, its agent, or its authorized dealer during the later of (i) the term of such express written warranties or (ii) the period of one year following the date of original delivery of the equipment to the first consumer, the manufacturer, its agent, or its authorized dealers shall make, or arrange to have made, repairs necessary to conform the equipment to the express written warranties, whether or not these repairs are made after the expiration of such term or such one-year period.
- (b) If the manufacturer or its authorized dealers do not conform the equipment to any applicable express written warranty by repairing or correcting any defect or condition which substantially impairs the use and market value of the equipment to the consumer after a reasonable number of attempts, the manufacturer or its authorized dealer shall replace the equipment with comparable equipment acceptable to the consumer, charging the consumer only a reasonable allowance for prior use of the equipment by the consumer, or accept the return of the equipment from the consumer and refund to the consumer the cash purchase price, including sales tax, license fees, registration fees, and any similar governmental charges, less such a reasonable allowance for prior use. Refunds shall be made to the consumer and lien holder or holder of a security interest, if any, as their interests may appear.

- (c) For purposes of this section, a reasonable allowance for prior use shall be the greater of the following:
 - (1) The fair rental value of the equipment.
 - (2) The sum of (i) an amount attributable to use by the consumer or others prior to the consumer's first report of the nonconformity to the manufacturer or its authorized dealers, (ii) an amount attributable to use by the consumer or others during any period subsequent to such report when the vehicle is not out of service by reason of repair of the reported nonconformity, and (iii) an amount attributable to use by the consumer of equipment provided by the manufacturer or its authorized dealers while the equipment is out of service by reason of repair of the reported nonconformity.

"§ 106-92.35. Presumption.

- (a) It is presumed that a reasonable number of attempts have been undertaken to conform equipment to the applicable express written warranties if, within the express written warranty term or during the period of one year following the date of the original delivery of the equipment to the first consumer, whichever is later, (i) the same nonconformity has been subject to repair four or more times by the manufacturer or its authorized dealers, but such nonconformity continues to exist or (ii) the equipment is out of service by reason of repair for a cumulative total of 30 or more calendar days. However, those days shall not be counted when the consumer has been provided by the manufacturer or its authorized dealers with the use of other equipment which performs the same function or has been offered the use of such equipment.
- (b) The term of an express written warranty, the one-year period, and the 30-day period shall be extended by any period of time during which repair services are not available to the consumer because of war, invasion, strike, fire, flood, or other natural disasters.
- (c) The presumption provided in this section shall not apply against a manufacturer unless the manufacturer has received prior direct written notification from or on behalf of the consumer and been offered an opportunity to cure the alleged defect. If the address of the manufacturer is not readily available to the consumer, the written notification shall be mailed to an authorized dealer. The authorized dealer shall upon receipt forward such notification to the manufacturer.

"§ 106-92.40. Affirmative defense.

It is an affirmative defense to any claim under this Article that (i) an alleged nonconformity does not substantially impair the use and market value or (ii) a nonconformity is the result of abuse or neglect, or of modifications or alterations of the equipment not authorized by the manufacturer.

"§ 106-92.45. Civil action by the consumer.

A consumer injured by reason of any violation of the provisions of this Article may bring a civil action against the manufacturer.

"§ 106-92.50. Statute of limitation.

An action brought under this Article shall be commenced within the later of (i) six months following expiration of the express written warranty term or (ii) 24 months following the date of the original delivery of the equipment to the consumer.

"§ 106-92.55. Preservation of other remedies.

Nothing in this Chapter shall in any way limit or impair the rights or remedies which are otherwise available to a consumer under any other law."

SECTION 2. The sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) in funds is appropriated on a nonrecurring basis for the 2020-2021 fiscal year from the General Fund to the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services for consumer education and enforcement of this act.
