Service Impact Notes regarding Contractual and Intensive Intervention Services:

- While the section encumbers funds for contractual services, providers are reimbursed based on a daily rate and bed utilization. Providers may earn up to the maximum contracted amount. Expenditure of funds encumbered varies annually and is dependent upon vendor performance and viable referrals received.
- The section continues to need expansion dollars to address the increase in contract costs (food, fuel, staff retention, maintenance) as a direct result of economic demands. Contract adjustments to lower bed capacities offer a temporary solution to support the sustainability of current services.
- Modification of residential models to address an older population are in place with intervention curricula and restorative justice practices being introduced to address older population needs.
- The section requests expansion dollars to meet the residential reentry needs for our emerging adult population, specifically transitional living home and independent living models for males and females. Modification of the Chowan multi-purpose group home residential model to a transitional living home model was completed in FY 24-25 to support services for a growing JJ emerging adult population.
- Compulsory cost shifting due to increased service costs associated with the rebid and award of a new crisis and assessment services contract, with a reduction of $600K in regionally based intensive intervention services to sustain these essential services.
- The section requests an appropriation to support remediation services required under S.L. 2023-114.

⁸ In support of footnote #7, this line meets the minimum requirements of reporting on the full amount of funds transferred to JCPC funds.
