REPORT ON ACTIVITIES OF 2017-2018

North Carolina's Natural Heritage Program (NCNHP) has prepared this report to summarize program activities occurring during calendar years 2017 and 2018, as directed by the North Carolina Nature Preserves Act (GS 143B-135.250-.272),

Established in 1976, NCNHP is a unit of the Division of Land and Water Stewardship, within the Department of Natural and Cultural Resources (DNCR). Nine of the twelve staff positions are funded with an appropriation from the state budget.

NCNHP works in partnership with a variety of state and federal agencies, private organizations, individuals and corporations to: 1) identify the most unique and irreplaceable natural areas of North Carolina, 2) share information about these natural areas, and 3) establish state nature preserves with participating agencies, for the benefit of present and future generations.

NCNHP is the North Carolina component of an international network of natural heritage programs that share a common methodology and a commitment to documenting occurrences of rare species and natural areas across the United States, Canada, and Latin America. The 86 programs that comprise this network are affiliated through NatureServe, a private, nonprofit organization.

Program activities of 2017 and 2018 are summarized in this report under the three major program areas of NCNHP: Information Services, Inventory, and Natural Area Conservation.

INFORMATION SERVICES

North Carolina's Natural Heritage Program has developed the state's most comprehensive database of biodiversity information by combining on-the-ground surveys with advanced GPS and GIS technology. Government, industry, the military, and conservation groups all trust NHP data to make important economic development, infrastructure investment, and land conservation decisions. NCNHP biologists are recognized for their decades of field expertise and commitment to complete and accurate data, and our client-focused analysts respond to hundreds of large-scale and site-specific information requests annually. We are committed to providing timely, creative, high-quality solutions to a wide variety of environmental and development planning needs. Our data systems are linked with powerful mapping tools – now accessible online 24/7.

North Carolina is fortunate to have a variety of outstanding biologists working independently or as part of state and federal conservation agencies, at universities, as independent consultants, or in private conservation organizations. Working as part of this informal network of exceptional naturalists, NCNHP consolidates the information collected about rare species, high quality natural communities, and natural areas and makes it available for a variety of uses, including conservation and development planning. The information is also used to weigh the ecological significance of various sites and to evaluate the likelihood and consequences of ecological impacts. This information supports informed evaluations of the possible impacts of development projects before plans have been finalized. Finally, this information facilitates the establishment of priorities for the protection of North Carolina's natural areas.

Information Requests

NCNHP maintains interactive online maps at their website (<https://ncnhde.natureserve.org/>), including a project review feature that generates tables of records occurring within specified project areas and allows users to view locations of natural heritage records. The online information database also generates reports of rare species, high quality natural communities, natural areas, and conservation managed areas, summarized by county or by USGS quadrangle. NCNHP hosts monthly workshops to help data customers learn to use the array of services NCNHP now provides online. Workshops are tailored to specific user groups, including government partners, private consultants, land managers, and conservation grant applicants. This web-based information system has been well received, both by partner agencies and the public. This service is updated quarterly and is expected to reduce the workload for staff while allowing easier access to the most requested information. Due to technical and financial limitations, NCNHP began charging a modest annual fee to users to help recover the costs associated with providing the data online. The Rules Review Commission approved the rules for fees during the September 20, 2018 meeting and fees went into effect October 1, 2018.

During 2017 and 2018, NCNHP staff provided 5,072 responses to individuals, federal and state agencies, consulting firms, academic institutions, conservation organizations, and city and county governments, and responded to an uncounted number of telephone inquiries (Figure 1). As of December 2018, 475 individuals in 110 organizations have active user accounts for the Data Explorer website.

Publications

NCNHP produces four reference publications (listed below). These publications are used by numerous state, private, and federal agencies, including the U.S. Department of Defense, the N.C. Department of Transportation, the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission, Duke Energy, and various corporations, as well as environmental consultants, academic institutions, and the public. The publications are provided at cost upon request. In addition, NCNHP provides digital files of these publications on the website (<http://www.ncnhp.org/>).

Natural Heritage Program reference publications:

- Natural Heritage Program List of the Rare Animal Species of North Carolina;
- Natural Heritage Program List of the Rare Plant Species of North Carolina;

- Classification of the Natural Communities of North Carolina;
- Priority List of Natural Areas.

Copies of county natural area inventory reports or rare species accounts are available upon request. A database of publications is searchable online at: <http://ncnhp.org/web/nhp/searchable-publications>. A list of all NCNHP reports in 2017 and 2018 is included in Appendix A.

INVENTORY

NCNHP natural area inventory efforts are conducted as part of a comprehensive effort to identify the most significant natural areas for Dedication as Nature Preserves and Registry as Natural Heritage Areas. Natural area surveys are also conducted when possible for protection-focused projects on behalf of partners such as the NC Clean Water Management Trust Fund. Inventories are also conducted with partners for particular rare species or natural communities.

2017-2018 Natural Area Inventories

A Natural Area Inventory is a systematic search for the best examples of natural communities and locations of rare species throughout a predefined location. The identification of these natural areas is a fundamental step in the effort to conserve our state's biodiversity. The conservation of these natural areas can greatly enhance the quality of life for the residents of North Carolina.

Inventory reports include maps and descriptions of the most important natural areas and their ecological significance. This information benefits a wide range of users, from individual landowners to various government agencies. Private consultants and permit applicants use these inventories to determine what species are likely to be involved in development applications. State agencies and local land trusts rely on Natural Heritage data to make informed decisions about land and water use and site conservation. Due to staff limitations, the NCNHP did not conduct field surveys for any county-wide inventories in the 2017-2018 biennium. Funding for natural area inventories was historically provided by the Natural Heritage Trust Fund. Whenever possible, matching funds were secured from local governments or raised by a partner, such as a land trust. The Natural Heritage Trust Fund was eliminated in 2013. NCNHP continues to pursue funding and partners for natural area inventories.

Natural area inventories conducted by NCNHP staff help North Carolina agencies prioritize acquisition of conservation lands. For example, the North Carolina Division of Parks and Recreation was awarded a grant from the Clean Water Management Trust Fund (CWMTF) in 2018 to expand South Mountains State Park in Burke County in the Jacob Fork Watershed. This site was included in the Natural Heritage Program report, An Inventory of the Natural Areas of Burke County North Carolina (2002). Conservation of this site protects a large portion of the wild core of the South Mountains (Figure 2).

In 2018, the CWMTF also awarded funding for the North Carolina Coastal Land Trust to protect approximately 5,494 acres at Salters Creek Landing along Long Bay adjacent to the U.S. Marine Corps' bombing range, the Piney Island Bombing Range, and the Cedar Island National Wildlife Refuge in Carteret County. This tract helps protect the Atlantic Natural Area (Figure 3), which supports populations of threatened Black Rail and endangered Red-cockaded Woodpecker and high quality natural communities, at the same time supporting compatible natural areas that will enhance the ability of the Department of Defense to continue conducting military training in North Carolina.

2017-2018 Rare Species and Natural Community Inventories

In addition to county-focused surveys, NCNHP inventories the distribution and habitats of rare species of the state and the remaining high-quality or rare examples of natural communities. Many of these inventories are conducted in cooperation with partners who are interested in setting aside land for conservation, including the Wildlife Diversity Program of the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission, the Plant Conservation Program of the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, and private landowners.

Table 1 shows inventories conducted during 2017-2018 (see also Figure 4). Natural areas or species of interest are listed in alphabetical order by county. Permission to access sites was received from local partners prior to inventory activities by North Carolina Natural Heritage Program staff biologists.

Table 2 provides an overview of the natural heritage Biotics database that contains the core of NCNHP information. This database summarizes information about the occurrences of rare species, significant natural communities, and natural areas in North Carolina. An Element Occurrence is an area of land or water that is currently or was historically occupied by rare plants or animals, exemplary or unique natural communities, or important animal assemblages.

NATURAL AREA CONSERVATION

Conservation Managed Areas

NCNHP maintains a dataset of lands managed, at least partially, for conservation. Knowledge of the extent and location of these lands is crucial for implementation of the North Carolina State Wildlife Action Plan and for the preservation of the state's biodiversity. The majority (85-90 percent) of land in North Carolina is privately owned. Lands in public ownership include 65 state game lands, 66 state park units including natural areas, 12 national wildlife refuges, 12 state forests, 4 national forests, and numerous county and city parks. There are also at least 21 private land trusts acquiring land and easements throughout the state. NCNHP provides the GIS files for all conservation managed lands in North Carolina to the N.C. Center for Geographic Information and Analysis for the N.C. OneMap Initiative and to the USGS Protected Areas Database, following national standards.

Conservation Planning Tool

The North Carolina Conservation Planning Tool synthesizes the priorities of the state's land conservation agencies and organizations to help inform decisions and guide land protection and planning efforts statewide. This comprehensive interactive map shows a relative order of conservation significance, supporting cost-effective land investment decisions. The data and maps included in the assessments can be used independently or in combination with information from additional sources. By coordinating assessment data, users can identify natural areas that provide multiple resource priorities.

The Conservation Planning Tool has been presented in workshops with N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission staff to a range of audiences that includes partners from federal, state, and local agencies, regional planning organizations, universities, and nonprofit conservation organizations. The accuracy and usefulness of the information provided in the Conservation Planning Tool has been widely accepted and, in many cases, incorporated into local and regional planning efforts. The N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission provides support for updating the maps with the most current data two times each year.

2017-2018 Dedications and Registries

The NCNHP encourages conservation and stewardship of natural areas through two programs that create Dedicated Nature Preserves (DNP) and Registered Heritage Areas (RHA) under the Nature Preserves Act (GS 143B-135.250-.272). Dedicated Nature Preserves, owned by state agencies, local governments, or nonprofit conservation groups, are permanently protected through a legally binding agreement with DNCR to manage the land for conservation of its natural heritage values. State-owned land can only be removed from dedication upon approval of the governor and the Council of State. Owners of Registered Heritage Areas have also signed a voluntary, though nonbinding, agreement with DNCR demonstrating their commitment to protecting the natural heritage values of their property. These landowners may also receive help with biological surveys and management recommendations to help ensure survival of the rare species or natural communities on their property.

During this biennium, NCNHP has worked with partner agencies, including the State Property Office, to dedicate natural areas under the Nature Preserves Act. Six new Dedicated Nature Preserves were created in 2017-2018, and twenty-four were amended. In all, 11,323 acres were added to the Dedicated State Nature Preserve system. Overall, 182 properties totaling 432,999 acres have been designated as Dedicated State Nature Preserves (Tables 3 and 4).

During the past two years, NCNHP has continued to provide assistance in the selection and nomination for registration or dedication of natural areas. We are especially pleased private landowners have maintained their interest in setting up agreements with the N.C. Department of Natural and Cultural Resources to protect and manage natural areas for their natural heritage resource values. In the past two years, 130 of Chatham, LLC entered several new acquisitions onto the Registry of Natural Heritage Areas. Some of these ecologically important areas were not large, but added to an extensive network of nature preserves, such as Mike Mountain–Pinnacle Mountain, which contributes to a conservation corridor linking the South Mountains to Hickorynut Gorge.

Another exciting project accomplished this past biennium involved a Memorandum of Understanding between the Natural Heritage Program, the N.C. Plant Conservation Program, and Duke Energy Progress, LLC, recognizing the 3 parties' mutual interest in managing the transmission line right of way at Boiling Spring Lakes Dedicated Nature Preserve for the benefit of the rare plants present. The parties to the agreement recognize that the successful management of rare, threatened, and endangered species, sensitive or exemplary natural communities, and other significant natural features on public utility transmission rights-of-way depends on close cooperation between the public utility, the underlying landowner, and DNCR's Natural Heritage Program.

Overall, the Natural Heritage Program continues to work with private landowners and public land managing agencies to support voluntary conservation of natural areas across the state. Figure 5 shows the percentage of the priority natural areas identified by the Natural Heritage Program that are protected within conservation areas for each county. At the two extremes, all of the priority natural areas known from Swain County are within protected areas, and none of the priority natural areas identified in Lenoir or Wilson Counties are protected. No priority natural areas have yet been identified in Greene County. The majority of North Carolina counties fall within the middle range with 25% – 75% of identified natural areas protected (shown in green). Appendix B provides a list of all the priority natural areas identified for each county, along with a list of managed areas protecting all or part of each natural area.

Natural Communities

Part of the NCNHP mission has been to classify and describe the natural communities of North Carolina in publications. A natural community is defined as “a distinct and reoccurring assemblage of populations of plants, animals, bacteria, and fungi naturally associated with each other and their physical environment.” Community classification accounts for a wide variety of ecological components, so that the natural community types represent differences in local-scale ecosystem function and structure, as well as differences in species composition. We define natural communities that are the result of the processes of nature, that differ in ways that are enduring and significant, and that would be found again in other places with similar environments. Natural communities are central to the work of the NCNHP. Tracking occurrences of good examples of them is one of the major portions of the program’s inventory and database work. Work is ongoing on a descriptive book to provide more information on the state’s natural communities.

The Carolina Vegetation Survey, in coordination with NCNHP, has been systematically amassing the largest set of vegetation plot data ever collected in the state. Data collection has continued on this project, and systematic analysis of the previously collected data is beginning. The National Vegetation Classification offers different perspectives on the crucial vegetation component of natural communities in North Carolina and other states. NCNHP incorporates results from these efforts into natural community concepts and the NCNHP data management system, as well as offering feedback and data to these undertakings. The NCNHP currently has about 7,678 records of high quality natural communities across the state, and new examples are found each year through the work of NCNHP biologists and partners. In 2018, NCNHP participated in the NatureServe national data exchange, for the first time contributing natural community Element Occurrence records to the national dataset. Natural community publications are available for free download at <http://www.ncnhp.org/>.

Fees for Online Access to Data

During 2017-2018, the Natural Heritage Program established rules for the fees authorized by S.L. 2014-100 and 2015-241 to defray the costs associated with maintaining its Natural Heritage Data Explorer website – an online interface through which external users access Natural Heritage Program data. The NCNHP established fees for nongovernment organizations and individuals to access natural heritage inventory data and services. Federal, state, and local government agencies are exempt from these fees. For online access to NCNHP data, individuals and nongovernment organizations may choose from the following options: annual subscription for online access – $600 per user or $100 per online project review request with no annual subscription; for downloadable Geographic Information System (GIS) data, all individuals and organizations may pay $100 per request; for customized environmental review services or biological surveys of land or water, individuals and nongovernment organizations shall pay $65 per hour, with a minimum of one hour’s rate for time required.

The fees will be used to defray the costs associated with responding to inquiries requiring customized environmental review services, the costs associated with developing, improving, or maintaining technology that supports an online interface for external users to access NCNHP data, the inventory of natural areas conducted under the Natural Heritage Program, and informational programs for owners of natural areas. Fees collected under these provisions are receipts of DNCR and used for supporting the operations of the NCNHP. The new rules adopted by the Rules Review Commission September 20, 2018 and effective October 1, 2018 are shown below.

07 NCAC 13H .0404 NATURAL HERITAGE PROGRAM FEES; INVENTORY DATA, ENVIRONMENTAL SERVICES, AND DATA

(a) Individuals may obtain access to Natural Heritage Program (NHP) data by purchasing a subscription at <https://ncnhde.natureserve.org/> as set forth in Paragraph (b) of this Rule.

(b) Data subscriptions shall be available in accordance with the following fee schedules:

(1) Annual subscription for online project review: six hundred dollars ($600.00) per individual user. Annual subscription shall include 12 months of access to reports and maps of rare species, natural areas, and nature preserves related to a user specified geographic location. Reviews conducted by NHP shall not be included with an annual subscription. Access shall last for 12 months from the purchase date of the subscription.

(2) Online project review with no annual subscription: one hundred dollars ($100.00) per project review request. Online project review with no annual subscription shall include a generated map of a rare species, natural community, natural area, and nature preserves for user specified geographic location.

(3) Customized environmental review services: sixty-five dollars ($65.00) per hour. Customized environmental review services shall include a report and a map, prepared by NHP of rare species, natural communities, natural areas, and nature preserves related to a user specified geographic location.

(4) Electronic Geographic Information Systems (GIS) files of natural heritage element occurrence records: one hundred dollars ($100.00) per county, species, or eight-digit hydrologic unit code (HUC) established by the U.S. Geological Survey. NHP shall provide updated GIS files upon request for the same county, species, or eight-digit HUC for a 12-month period from delivery of the initial GIS files.

(5) Biological field surveys: sixty-five dollars ($65.00) per hour. Biological field surveys shall include an observation summary and habitat assessment of maps, rare species, natural communities, natural areas, and nature preserves for the user specified project area.

(c) Federal, State, local government, and nonprofit agencies using natural heritage data to establish or manage nature preserves in accordance with this Section shall be exempt from fees set forth in Paragraph (b) of this Rule.

Volunteers

In 2017-2018, 15 NCNHP volunteers worked a total of 294 hours. Work included assisting staff in monitoring Dedicated Nature Preserves and surveying for rare plants and animals. In addition to these contributions, many field biologists voluntarily provided Element Occurrence records to the Natural Heritage Program database.

NATURAL HERITAGE PROGRAM STAFF

NCNHP staff are recognized across the state for their ecological expertise and knowledge of conservation practices. Program staff are listed below.

Permanent Staff

Jame Amoroso, Conservation Information Specialist (receipt-funded)
Misty Buchanan, Natural Heritage Program Director
Rodney Butler, Business Services Coordinator
Wesley Knapp, Western Regional Field Biologist
Suzanne Mason, Conservation Information Manager (receipt-funded)
Scott Pohlman, Nature Preserve Property Manager
Judith Ratcliffe, Zoologist
Laura Robinson, Botanist
Michael Schafale, Community Ecologist
Nathan Shepard, Eastern Regional Field Biologist
Michelle Warf, Conservation Information Manager
Meredith Wojcik, Wildlife Data Manager (receipt-funded)

Temporary Staff

Laura Hamon, Field Botanist (receipt-funded, beginning December 17, 2018)
Stephanie Horton, Project Manager (receipt-funded, beginning August 4, 2018)
Linda Rudd, Special Projects
Samantha Tessel, Special Projects (receipt-funded, through October 5, 2018)
Julie Tuttle, Special Projects (receipt-funded, through October 10, 2018)

Interns

Ronald Lipscomb, Dedicated Nature Preserve monitoring, diversity intern,
North Carolina Central University
Chastan Swain, legal intern, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

MAJOR ACTIVITIES PLANNED FOR 2019-2020

- I. Survey lands purchased by state agencies and develop agreements for creating or expanding Dedicated Nature Preserves; monitor preserves and respond to questions from land managers and landowners as needed.
- II. Survey lands owned by private and nonprofit organizations, and local and federal governments, to aid in adding, expanding, and monitoring Registered Heritage Areas; monitor lands and respond to questions from land managers and landowners as needed.
- III. Conduct natural area surveys in special project areas, including military buffers, electric utility rights-of-way, and other potential conservation areas at the request of landowners.
- IV. Continue updating Element Occurrences records and Element Ranks for animals, plants, and natural communities tracked by NCNHP.
- V. Provide natural heritage data and analysis upon request and improve the online interface of the North Carolina Natural Heritage Data Explorer; increase awareness of heritage data available online by providing training to government agencies, land trusts, and private consulting firms.
- VI. Expand the natural heritage customer base by promoting the fee-based services especially among consultants and private corporations.
- VII. Participate in data exchange with the national NatureServe office, to incorporate NCNHP data into nationwide network of heritage data.
- VIII. Provide data and analytical support to the Clean Water Management Trust Fund for review of grant applications; survey sites as necessary.
- IX. Enter Element Occurrence Records of Species of Greatest Conservation Need into the Biotics data management system; gather records in collaboration with the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission.
- X. Conduct training and education – for example, AEP workshops and volunteer orientation and training.
- XI. Continue writing the descriptive book on natural communities, posting portions on the website for immediate use as they are created.
- XII. Continue analysis of Carolina Vegetation Survey plot data for improvement to existing natural community classifications.
- XIII. Conduct status survey of Venus flytrap populations, in collaboration with the North Carolina Plant Conservation Program and public and private landowners.

APPENDIX B

North Carolina Natural Heritage Program Biennial Protection Plan List of Natural Areas 2019

North Carolina Natural Heritage Program NATURAL AREAS

INTRODUCTION

The North Carolina Natural Heritage Program (NCNHP) compiles the N.C. Department of Natural and Cultural Resources' list of natural areas as required by the Nature Preserves Act (NCGS Chapter 143B-135.250-.272 of Part 42). The list is based on the program's inventory of the natural diversity in the state. Natural areas are evaluated on the basis of the occurrences of rare plant and animal species, rare or high quality natural communities, and special animal habitats, collectively termed the elements of natural diversity. They represent the program's estimates of the best locations for supporting natural diversity in the state based on Natural Heritage Program surveys and information provided by other agencies, such as the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission and the North Carolina Division of Parks and Recreation. Natural Areas are given priority ratings that indicate the degree of their importance for conservation. The complete list of natural areas is available for free download at the publications page of the NCNHP website, <http://www.ncnhp.org/>. Inclusion on this list does not directly confer protection to a site. Instead, the information on natural areas included in the Biennial Protection Plan is intended to help guide the conservation decisions affecting the state's biodiversity at multiple levels, including through the creation of Dedicated Nature Preserves and Registered Heritage Areas. The list includes both protected and unprotected areas. Inclusion on this list does not mean that public access exists. Permission of the landowner is needed to access all lands not open to the public.

The list of natural areas and their significance ratings is based on the best available information. All data used in our assessments are obtained from field surveys. Only species, communities, and other features of biodiversity that were actually observed are used in our evaluations of their significance.

This information is compiled in the program's Biotics Database and conforms to standards established by the nationwide network of Natural Heritage Programs in partnership with NatureServe. These standards include the specifications for recording and evaluating individual occurrences of NCNHP elements, as well as guidelines for estimating the degree of imperilment of these elements at the state and global levels.

Data used in our evaluations of natural areas are updated on an ongoing basis. The Protection Plan is produced every two years. This list updates the set of known natural areas and their ratings. It is possible that some sites have been damaged or destroyed since they were last visited. More information on these natural areas may be obtained from the Natural Heritage Program. For contact information, as well as direct access to many of our datasets, see our website at www.ncnhp.org.

ORGANIZATION OF THE LIST

Natural Area Name

The list of North Carolina's most biologically significant natural areas is organized by county, and then alphabetically by natural area name. Names of Aquatic Habitats begin with a three-digit code indicating the river basin. River basin codes match those used by the N.C. Division of Water Resources.

Acres

The number of acres included within the natural area boundary (rounded off to the nearest whole number).

Representational Value

Natural areas are placed in one of five categories, based on the natural areas' importance in protecting the best occurrences of individual natural heritage elements. NCNHP uses several factors to determine which natural areas contain the highest priority natural occurrences of each element. These include Element Occurrence (EO) rank, which assesses the quality and condition of each occurrence, and global rarity rank (or G rank), which is a measure of rarity as well as the imperilment on a global level, both developed by NatureServe. Based on these variables, the relative importance rank for each occurrence is assigned.

Representational Value	Definition
R1 (Exceptional)	Natural area contains one of the best two examples of G1 or G2 Elements.
R2 (Very High)	Natural area contains the 3 rd or 4 th best examples in the state of G1-G2 Elements, and/or one of the best two examples of other Elements.
R3 (High)	Natural area contains the 5 th to 8 th best examples in the state of G1-G2 Elements and/or the 3 rd to 6 th best occurrences of other Elements within it.
R4 (Moderate)	Natural area contains the 9 th to 12 th best examples in the state of G1-G2 Elements within it and/or the 7 th to 10 th best occurrences of other Elements within it.
R5 (General)	Natural area contains one of the 30 best examples in the state of Elements within it that do not qualify for categories R1-R4.

Collective Value

Natural areas are placed in one of five categories based on the number and rarity of the elements they contain. The Collective Value Rating sums the number of elements in a natural area, and the rarity of those elements, weighted by their degree of imperilment at both the global level (G-Rank) and just within North Carolina (S-Rank). The imperilment scores are assigned to each extant element occurrence on a 10-point scale, based on their combination of G-Ranks and S-Ranks. The highest scores are given to elements that are considered imperiled at both the global (G1) and state (S1) levels with successively smaller scores given to elements that are considered more secure (G5S5 being considered secure at both the global and state levels).

Collective Value Rating	Cumulative Element Score	Minimum Number of Elements
C1 (Exceptional)	91 and above	10
C2 (Very High)	61-90	7
C3 (High)	31-60	4
C4 (Moderate)	11-30	2
C5 (General)	2-10	1

Managed Areas Protecting All or Part of the Natural Area

These are fee simple properties and permanent easements where conservation is one of the management goals. This includes lands with a variety of management policies, from preserves established to protect natural areas or ecological values and multiple use public lands, to military bases where rare species and natural communities often coexist with military training. Examples include National and State Parks, Game Lands, Dedicated and Registered areas, National Forests, military bases, local parks and open space lands, land trust preserves, and perpetual conservation easements held by private conservation organizations or by the government.

Inclusion of an area in this list in no way implies that the area is open to the public. Managed areas are listed alphabetically, not necessarily in order of size or importance of protecting the natural area.
