Mike Bryant
County Manager
Charlotte Mecklenburg Government Center
600 E. 4th Street, 11th Floor
Charlotte, NC 28202

Dear Manager Bryant:

Dominique Moody was six years old. She weighed 27 pounds when she died.

That fact should stop every person in Mecklenburg County government cold. A six-year-old child does not reach that condition in silence. She does not suffer that level of neglect without warning signs. She does not die that way unless the systems responsible for protecting her fail.

NCDHHS has now put that failure in writing. In its May 20, 2026, corrective action letter, NCDHHS found that four out of five screened-out reports involving her guardians met the definition of abuse or neglect but were “screened out with no further assessment of the children’s safety.” NCDHHS also found that contacts were not frequent enough to ensure safety, CPS history was not reviewed, significant collateral contacts were not made, and inaccurate case decisions resulted in “no services being provided to ensure the safety of the children.”

That is not a bad judgment call. It is not a paperwork mistake. It is a child protection system failing at the one job that matters most, protecting children. And they did not just fail Dominique Moody. NCDHHS reviewed 122 unrelated CPS reports and assessments and found a broad, systemic lack of appropriate safety planning. In 52% of intakes, workers did not ask sufficient questions to explore alleged maltreatment. In 36% of cases involving allegations that may have met the criminal definition of child abuse, the files did not contain verbal and written notification to the District

Attorney and law enforcement. Safety plans were adequate in only 43% of reviewed cases.

Simply put, Mecklenburg County failed Dominique Moody. And based on the findings in this report, it is now clear why county officials resisted this Committee's efforts to obtain records in the county's custody. The truth is difficult. But it will not stay hidden.

The public deserves to know how a child as vulnerable as Dominique could come to the attention of Mecklenburg County DSS and still die in such unspeakable conditions. The Committee intends to find out. We will use every ounce of our statutory authority to get answers, identify the failures, and ensure a tragedy like this never happens again.
