The next step in improving the emergency services response to autism emergencies is to provide several one-day educational seminars. This would allow the emergency responder to receive valuable information from autism specialist, opportunities to network with other emergency responders, and the ability to ask detailed questions, thus improving the emergency responder community as a whole.

The purpose of this request is to ask for funding that will enable our division to create an insurance crime educational program. This program will be geared towards marketing our division as the sole law enforcement agency in the State of North Carolina dedicated to combating insurance related crimes. We are hoping to tie this initiative in with our 65th anniversary. Our division is statutorily directed to combat insurance related crimes. We have the authority that no other entities possess when it comes to investigating these type crimes.

We plan on creating a program that can be shared with citizens, industry and law enforcement throughout North Carolina. This program will discuss history, general statutes, best practices, prevention ideas, and many other topics.

To fund the NCDOT State Fair exhibits for 2010 (and the future). The exhibits will provide insurance-related information and life-safety and fire prevention information. Both exhibits will educate the public and fall within the Charter.

32 Comments

The exhibits will provide informational brochures and promotional items that include the NCDOT's statewide toll free consumer hotline and contact information. It will also provide educational brochures about the Department's Healthcare Review program and the Senior's Health Insurance Information Program (SHIP). The exhibits will also focus on increasing awareness of car seat and child passenger safety, pedestrian safety, fire and burn prevention and safety, bike and helmet safety, NC seatbelt laws and more.

31 Comments	The Department is reaching out to college campuses across North Carolina to provide students with information about the federal healthcare reform legislation. We recognize that several provisions within the legislation directly affect college-age citizens - many of whom may have questions, but don't know where to find answers. Further, we recognize that college-age population is historically uninsured group, and the federal reform will provide a way to provide coverage at affordable price. We plan to distribute reference guides to both the UNC System and the state's private universities via the N.C. Independent Colleges & Universities association. The guides will also provide contact information for the Department's Consumer Helpline and www.ncdoi.com/healthcarereform .
