

Initiated in 2016, The UNC laboratory schools advance learning and teaching by including the best thinking from our universities and school partners to ensure the youngest members of our academic community excel. By 2019, nine UNC universities will open lab schools serving K-8 students in low-performing localities.

Laboratory Schools Commitments

- Deliver high expectations to prepare students for college and life
- Ensure students learn to read and communicate effectively
- Address the academic, social, and emotional needs of all students
- Harness the benefits of partnerships to strengthen learning, teaching, and school leadership

Progress

Stages:	1 Proposal Development	2 Planning	3 Implementation	4 School Operation
Opened 2017	 Summary: ECU partnered with Pitt County Schools to open a K-5 school focused on literacy and wrap-around supports. They have 72 students enrolled in Grades 2-4 this year.			Current Stage: School Operation
	 Summary: WCU partnered with Jackson County Public Schools to open the Catamount School serving grades 6-8. They have 57 students enrolled in Grades 6-8 this year.			Current Stage: School Operation
Opening 2018	 Summary: ASU is partnering with Winston-Salem/Forsyth County Schools to open a K-5 school focused on early-grades literacy located at Middle Fork Elementary School			Current Stage: Planning
	 Summary: UNCG is partnering with Rockingham County Schools to open a K-5 school focused on early-grades literacy located at Moss Street Elementary School			Current Stage: Planning
	 Summary: UNCW is partnering with New Hanover County Schools to open a K-8 school located at D.C. Virgo Preparatory Academy.			Current Stage: Planning
Opening 2019	 Summary: UNCC is in discussions with Charlotte Mecklenburg Schools to open a K-5 school.			Current Stage: Proposal Development
	 Summary: UNCP is in discussions with Public Schools of Robeson County to open an elementary school.			Current Stage: Proposal Development
	 Summary: NCCU is beginning the planning process to engage a partner.			Current Stage: Proposal Development
		Summary: A ninth university will be identified.		Current Stage: Proposal Development