Preface

This Cumulative Supplement contains the general laws of a permanent nature enacted at the 1945, 1947 and 1949 Sessions of the General Assembly, and brings to date the annotations included in the General Statutes of North Carolina of 1943.

Amendments of former laws are inserted under the same section numbers appearing in the General Statutes, and new laws appear under the proper chapter headings. Editors' notes point out many of the changes effected by the amendatory acts.

Chapter analyses show new sections and also old sections with changed captions. The index is confined mainly to new laws and such amendatory laws as are not reflected in the original index. In addition, the index includes many references enlarging upon the treatment of certain topics found in the original volumes of the General Statutes.

The members of the North Carolina Bar are requested to communicate any defects they may find in the General Statutes or in this Supplement, and any suggestions they may have for improving the General Statutes, to the Division of Legislative Drafting and Codification of Statutes of the Department of Justice, or to The Michie Company, Law Publishers, Charlottesville, Virginia.

GEORGE P. SMITH, JR.,
Editor in Chief.

Constitution of North Carolina

ARTICLE I

Declaration of Rights

§ 1. The equality and rights of persons.—That we hold it to be self-evident that all persons are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, the enjoyment of the fruits of their own labor, and the pursuit of happiness. (Const. 1868; 1945, c. 634, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the election held pursuant to Session Laws 1945, c. 634.

Meaning of "Liberty."—The term "liberty," as used in this section and § 17 of this article, does not consist simply of the right to be free from arbitrary physical restraint or servitude, but is deemed to embrace the right of man to be free in the enjoyment of the faculties with which he has been endowed by his Creator, subject only to such restraints as are necessary for the common welfare. It includes the right of the citizen to be free to use his faculties in all lawful ways; to live and work where he will; to earn his livelihood by any lawful calling; to pursue any livelihood or vocation, and for that purpose to enter into all contracts which may be proper, necessary, and essential to his carrying out these purposes to a successful conclusion. State v. Ballance, 229 N. C. 764, 51 S. E. (2d) 731.

This section does not preclude the legislature from making classifications and distinctions in the application of laws provided they are reasonable and just and not arbitrary. Motley v. State Board of Barber Examiners, 228 N. C. 337, 45 S. E. (2d) 550, 175 A. L. R. 253.

Statute making certain war veterans eligible for license to practice barbering without being examined does not violate this section. Motley v. State Board of Barber Examiners, 228 N. C. 337, 45 S. E. (2d) 550, 175 A. L. R. 253. See § 86-11.1.

Statute Regulating Practice of Optometry.—A portion of § 90-115, relating to the practice of optometry, was held violative of this section. Palmer v. Smith, 229 N. C. 612, 51 S. E. (2d) 8.

Statute providing for the licensing and supervision of photographers (G. S. chap. 92) is violative of this section. State v. Ballance, 229 N. C. 764, 51 S. E. (2d) 731.

Cited in Brumley v. Baxter, 225 N. C. 691, 36 S. E. (2d) 281, 162 A. L. R. 930.

§ 7. Exclusive emoluments, etc.—No person or set of persons are entitled to exclusive or separate emoluments or privileges from the community but in consideration of public services. (Const. 1868; 1945, c. 634, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the election held pursuant to Session Laws 1945, c. 634.

The state cannot authorize city to donate property, or to grant privileges to one class of citizens not enjoyed by all, except in consideration of public services. Brumley v. Baxter, 225 N. C. 691, 36 S. E. (2d) 281, 285, 162 A. L. R. 930, citing Brown v. Board of Com'rs, 223 N. C. 744, 28 S. E. (2d) 104, 106.

Motivation of Legislation.—The constitutional limitation contained in this section, has been frequently invoked by supreme court to strike down legislation conferring special privileges not in consideration of public service, but where the motivation is for a public purpose and in the public interest, and does not confer exclusive privilege, legislation has been upheld. Brumley v. Baxter, 225 N. C. 691, 36 S. E. (2d) 281, 286, 162 A. L. R. 930.

This section does not preclude the legislature from making classifications and distinctions in the application of laws provided they are reasonable and just and not arbitrary. Motley v. State Board of Barber Examiners, 228 N. C. 337, 45 S. E. (2d) 550, 175 A. L. R. 253.

An expenditure by a municipality for special training of a police officer does not grant an exclusive emolument or privilege to the officer contrary to this section. Green v. Kitchin, 229 N. C. 450, 50 S. E. (2d) 545, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 500.

Services in the armed forces during war are "public services" within the meaning of this section. Motley v. State Board of Barber Examiners, 228 N. C. 337, 45 S. E. (2d) 550, 175 A. L. R. 253; Brumley v. Baxter, 225 N. C. 691, 36 S. E. (2d) 281, 285, 162 A. L. R. 930.

Statute making certain war veterans eligible for license to practice barbering without being examined does not violate this section. Motley v. State Board of Barber Examiners, 228 N. C. 337, 45 S. E. (2d) 550, 175 A. L. R. 253. See § 86-11.1.

Exempting corporations chartered prior to a certain date from the proscription against emptying into streams substances inimical to fish violates this section. State v. Glidden Co., 228 N. C. 664, 46 S. E. (2d) 860. See § 113-172.

Contract to Relieve Railway of Expense of Removing Tracks Held Valid.—The state highway commission agreed to appropriate a sum of money for the improvement of a city street upon condition that tracks and facilities of a street railway company be removed therefrom. The railway company was operating under a franchise having twenty more years to run, which provided that the railway company should save the city harmless from any damage resulting from the construction of its tracks. The city entered into a contract with the railway company providing that in consideration of abandonment of its franchise along said street the city would acquire for it an alternate right of way and would remove the tracks from the street. The court held that the promise by the city to remove the tracks did not constitute a special emolument not in consideration of public service. Boyce v. Gastonia, 227 N. C. 139, 41 S. E. (2d) 355.

Statute including deputy sheriffs within term "employee" as used in Workmen's Compensation Act (G. S. § 97-2) held consonant with the provisions of this section. Towe v. Yancey County, 224 N. C. 579, 31 S. E. (2d) 754.

Gratuity to Individual for Adjusting Claim Is Unauthorized.—This section constitutes a specific constitutional prohibition against gifts of public money, and the legislature has no power to compel or even to authorize a municipal corporation to pay a gratuity to an individual to adjust a claim which the municipality is under no legal obligation to pay. Brown v. Board of Com'rs, 223 N. C. 744, 745, 28 S. E. (2d) 104.

§ 11. In criminal prosecutions.—In all criminal prosecutions, every person charged with crime has the right to be informed of the accusation and to confront the accusers and witnesses with other testimony, and to have counsel for defense, and not be compelled to give self-incriminating evidence, or to pay costs, jail fees, or necessary witness fees of the defense, unless found guilty. (Const. 1868; 1945, c. 634, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the election held pursuant to Session Laws 1945, c. 634.

Information as to Accusation.—

The constitutional right of the accused in a criminal prosecution, to be informed of the accusation against him and to confront his accusers and witnesses with other testimony, carries with it, not only the right to face one's "accusers and witnesses with other testimony," but also the opportunity fairly to present one's defense. State v. Utley, 223 N. C. 39, 25 S. E. (2d) 195.

Confrontation—Does Not Apply to Civil Actions.—The right accorded defendant in a criminal prosecution to confront the witnesses against him does not apply to civil actions. Chesson v. Kieckhefer Container Co., 223 N. C. 378, 380, 26 S. E. (2d) 904.

Same—Not Denied by Refusing Motion to Continue.—There is no denial of prisoner's right to confrontation by the refusal of a motion to continue, on the ground of the absence of a material, expert, fingerprint witness, it appearing that the state's solicitor agreed that he would not, and did not offer evidence as to fingerprints. State v. Rising, 223 N. C. 747, 28 S. E. (2d) 221.

The constitutional right to be represented by counsel is further implemented by § 15-4. State v. Chesson, 228 N. C. 259, 45 S. E. (2d) 563.

A defendant has the constitutional right to be represented by counsel whom he has selected and employed, and in prosecutions for capital felonies the court has an inescapable duty to assign counsel to a person unable to employ one. State v. Gibson, 229 N. C. 497, 50 S. E. (2d) 520.

Contemplates Reasonable Opportunity to Prepare Defense.—The constitutional guarantee of the right of counsel requires that the accused and his counsel shall be afforded a reasonable time for the preparation of his defense. State v. Gibson, 229 N. C. 497, 50 S. E. (2d) 520, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 544.

The constitutional right to be represented by counsel contemplates not only that accused shall have the privilege of engaging counsel, but also that he and his counsel shall have a reasonable opportunity in the light of all attendant circumstances to investigate, prepare, and present his defense. State v. Speller, 230 N. C. 345, 53 S. E. (2d) 294.

After the convening of the term the trial court ordered a special venire from another county to try a negro charged with rape. Counsel for defendant challenged the array on the ground that persons of defendant's race had been excluded from the jury list solely because of their race, and the court refused the request of counsel for time to investigate and secure evidence in support of such challenge to the array, but counsel obtained evidence from members of the special venire and bystanders of the courtroom tending to sustain the challenge. It was held that as it appeared that defendant was prejudiced by denial of reasonable opportunity to procure evidence in support of his challenge to the array, a new trial was awarded for the denial of defendant's constitutional right to be properly represented by counsel. Id.

But the denial of a continuance is not prejudicial error where the record fails to show that it would have enabled defendant and his counsel to obtain additional evidence or otherwise present a stronger defense. State v. Gibson, 229 N. C. 497, 50 S. E. (2d) 520.

And Depends upon Nature of Offense.—In capital felonies the provision relative to counsel is regarded as not merely permissive but mandatory. This is indicated by § 15-5 and by numerous decisions of the supreme court. But in cases of misdemeanors and felonies less than capital it has been the uniform practice in this jurisdiction to regard these provisions as guaranteeing the right of persons accused to be represented by counsel, and the right to have counsel assigned if requested and the circumstances are such, for financial or other reasons, as to show the apparent necessity of counsel for the protection of the defendant's rights. State v. Chesson, 228 N. C. 259, 45 S. E. (2d) 563.

In cases less than capital the propriety of providing counsel depends upon the circumstances of the individual case, within the sound discretion of the trial judge. State v. Chesson, 228 N. C. 259, 45 S. E. (2d) 563.

And defendant's ignorance and unfamiliarity with legal matters are not alone sufficient to render appointment of counsel mandatory in a prosecution for less than a capital offense. State v. Chesson, 228 N. C. 259, 45 S. E. (2d) 563.

Self-Incrimination—Scope of Protection.—

The constitutional inhibition against self-incrimination is directed against compulsion, and not against voluntary admissions, confessions, or testimony freely given on the trial. Such statements, confessions, and testimony voluntarily given on a former trial are received against the accused as his admissions. State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 804, 28 S. E. (2d) 560.

Same—Forced Production of Incriminating Documents Not Allowed.—

The introduction in evidence of incriminating papers taken from the defendant at the time of the arrest does not infringe the constitutional guarantee against self-incrimination, under this section, and when he takes the stand in his own behalf he waives his constitutional right against self-incrimination. State v. Shoup, 226 N. C. 69, 36 S. E. (2d) 697, distinguishing State v. Hollingsworth, 191 N. C. 595, 132 S. E. 667, appearing in the original, where defendant was required in open court to hand over incriminating documents.

As to compelling accused to speak so that witness may identify his voice, see note, 27 N. C. Law Rev. 262.

When Motion for Continuance Presents Question of Law.—When a motion for continuance, in a criminal case, is based on a right guaranteed by the Federal and State Constitutions, 14th Amend. U. S. Constitution, Art. I, sec. 17 and this section, the question presented is one of law and not of discretion, and the decision of the court below is reviewable. State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 321, 26 S. E. (2d) 322.

Proposed Amendment.—Session Laws 1949, c. 579, proposed that this section be amended by adding thereto the following: "But any person, when represented by counsel, may, under such regulations as the legislature shall prescribe, waive indictment in all except capital cases."

This section sufficiently explains the function of the grand jury as a part of the court. It is competent to send to the grand jury as many bills of indictment as may be necessary to get before them necessary witnesses and evidence from which they may decide the propriety of submitting the accused to trial. State v. Lewis, 226 N. C. 249, 250, 37 S. E. (2d) 691.

§ 13. Right of jury.—No person shall be convicted of any crime but by the unanimous verdict of a jury of good and lawful persons in open court. The Legislature may, however, provide other means of trial, for petty misdemeanors, with the right of appeal. (Const. 1868; 1945, c. 634, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the election held pursuant to Session Laws 1945, c. 634.

The word "jury" as here used signifies a body of twelve men in a court of justice duly selected and impaneled in the case to be tried. State v. Emery, 224 N. C. 581, 583, 31 S. E. (2d) 858.

A jury of ten men and two women does not suffice as a jury of "good and lawful men" within the meaning of this section. Id.

Failure of defendant in a criminal prosecution to exhaust his peremptory challenges does not affect his right to attack an illegally constituted jury. State v. Emery, 224 N. C. 581, 31 S. E. (2d) 858.

Cited in Gregory v. Travelers Ins. Co., 223 N. C. 124, 25 S. E. (2d) 398, 147 A. L. R. 283 (con. op.); State v. White, 225 N. C. 351, 34 S. E. (2d) 139; State v. Crandall, 225 N. C. 148, 154, 33 S. E. (2d) 861 (dis. op.).

Cross Reference.—See annotations under § 14-3.

Cruel and Unusual Punishment.—

A sentence to 18 months labor on the roads entered upon defendant's plea of guilty to a charge of drawing and uttering a worthless check was held not to be "cruel and unusual" in a constitutional sense. State v. White, 230 N. C. 513, 53 S. E. (2d) 436.

When no time is fixed by the statute, imprisonment for two years, as in the case of an assault with a deadly weapon, will not be held to be cruel and unusual, and violative of this section. State v. Crandall, 225 N. C. 148, 150, 33 S. E. (2d) 861.

Ordinarily even the strong arm of the law may not invade one's dwelling except under authority of a proper search warrant. In re Walters, 229 N. C. 111, 47 S. E. (2d) 709.

Imprisonment for failure to pay a sum of money is prohibited except to enforce an appropriate judicial order which has been willfully disobeyed so as to constitute contempt of court. Stanley v. Stanley, 226 N. C. 129, 37 S. E. (2d) 118.

Cross References.—As to validity of statute prohibiting discharge of deleterious matter into streams, see note to § 113-172. As to meaning of term "liberty," see § 1 of this article.

The term "law of the land" means the general law, the law which hears before it condemns; which proceeds upon inquiry, and renders judgment only after trial. It means the regular course of the administration of justice through the courts of competent jurisdiction, after the manner of such courts. Procedure must be consistent with the fundamental principles of liberty and justice. State v. Chesson, 228 N. C. 259, 45 S. E. (2d) 563.

Due Process of Law.—The term "law of the land" as used in this section is synonymous with "due process of law." State v. Ballance, 229 N. C. 764, 51 S. E. (2d) 731.

Restraints upon Police Power.—"Law of the land" under this section in relation to the exercise of the state police power, imposes flexible restraints which are satisfied if the act in question is not unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious and the means selected have a real and substantial relation to the objects sought to be attained.

State v. Whitaker, 228 N. C. 352, 45 S. E. (2d) 860, affirmed in 335 U. S. 525, 69 S. Ct. 251, 93 L. Ed. 201.

The legislature may make classifications and distinctions in the application of laws provided they are reasonable and just and not arbitrary. Motley v. State Board of Barber Examiners, 228 N. C. 337, 45 S. E. (2d) 550, 175 A. L. R. 253.

Exclusion of Negroes from Grand Jury. — The evidence disclosed that the names of Negroes were printed in red and the names of white persons were printed in black in preparing names for the jury box, and that in drawing the names from the box the names of Negroes were without exception rejected. It was held that the motion of defendant, a Negro, to quash the indictment found by a grand jury so selected, should have been allowed, since such systematic and arbitrary exclusion of Negroes from the grand jury deprived him of his constitutional rights. State v. Speller, 229 N. C. 67, 47 S. E. (2d) 537.

Zoning Regulations.—The fact that a lot would be more valuable if devoted to a nonconforming use does not deprive the owner of property without due process of law when the zoning regulations are uniform in their application to all within the respective districts, and the differentiation of the uses of property within the respective districts is in accordance with a comprehensive plan in the interest of the health, safety, morals or general welfare of the entire community. Kinney v. Sutton, 230 N. C. 404, 53 S. E. (2d) 306.

Statutes declaring that the right to work shall not be dependent upon membership or non-membership in a labor union, and prohibiting certain agreements between employers and labor organizations (§§ 95-78 to 95-84), do not violate this section. State v. Whitaker, 228 N. C. 352, 45 S. E. (2d) 860, affirmed in 335 U. S. 525, 69 S. Ct. 251, 93 L. Ed. 201.

Statute making certain war veterans eligible for license to practice barbering without standing an examination does not violate this section. Motley v. State Board of Barber Examiners, 228 N. C. 337, 45 S. E. (2d) 550, 175 A. L. R. 253. See § 86-11.1.

Statute Regulating Practice of Optometry.—A portion of § 90-115, relating to the practice of optometry, was held violative of this section. Palmer v. Smith, 229 N. C. 612, 51 S. E. (2d) 8.

Statute providing for licensing and supervision of photographers (G. S. chap. 92) is violative of this section. State v. Ballance, 229 N. C. 764, 51 S. E. (2d) 731.

When Motion for Continuance Presents Question of Law.—Ordinarily, whether a cause shall be continued is a matter which rests in the sound discretion of the trial court and, in the absence of gross abuse, is not subject to review on appeal, but when the motion is based on a right guaranteed by the Federal and State Constitutions, 14th Amend., U. S. Const., Art. I, section 11 and this section, the question presented is one of law and not of discretion, and the decision of the court below is reviewable. State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 321, 326, 26 S. E. (2d) 322.

Cited in Reidsville v. Slade, 224 N. C. 48, 29 S. E. (2d) 215; Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 33 S. E. (2d) 129; State v. Glidden Co., 228 N. C. 664, 46 S. E. (2d) 860; Worley v. Pipes, 229 N. C. 465, 50 S. E. (2d) 504.

§ 19. Controversies at law respecting property.—In all controversies at law respecting property, the ancient mode of trial by jury is one of the best securities of the rights of the people, and ought to remain sacred and inviolable. No person shall be excluded from jury service on account of sex. (Const. 1868; 1945, c. 634, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the election held pursuant to Session Laws 1945, c. 634.

As to less than unanimous jury verdicts in civil cases, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 539.

In General.—

The ancient mode of trial by jury has been preserved in our present Constitution. Chesson v. Kieckhefer Container Co., 223 N. C. 378, 26 S. E. (2d) 904.

The word "jury" is to be given the signification which it had when the Constitution was adopted, i. e., a body of twelve men in a court of justice duly selected and impaneled in the case to be tried. State v. Emery, 224 N. C. 581, 583, 31 S. E. (2d) 858.

Right Not Unqualified.—

The right to trial by jury applies exclusively to actions in which legal rights are involved. State v. Great Southern Trucking Co., 223 N. C. 687, 695, 28 S. E. (2d) 201 (con. op.)

Cited in Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 33 S. E. (2d) 129.

§ 26. Religious liberty.—All persons have a natural and inalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences, and no human authority should, in any case whatever, control or interfere with the rights of conscience. (Const. 1868; 1945, c. 634, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the election held pursuant to Session Laws 1945, c. 634.

A municipal ordinance prohibiting the handling of venomous and poisonous reptiles in such manner as to endanger the public health, safety and welfare, will not be held invalid upon defendants' contention that the ordinance interferes with the exercise of their religious practices. State v. Massey, 229 N. C. 734, 51 S. E. (2d) 179.

The common-law rule against perpetuities is recognized and enforced in this state. The rule is not one of construction but a positive mandate of law to be obeyed irrespective of the question of intention. Its primary purpose is to restrict the permissible creation of future interests and prevent undue restraint upon or suspension of the right of alienation. Whenever the future interest takes effect, or the right of alienation is suspended beyond the period stipulated in the rule, it is violative thereof. Mercer v. Mercer, 230 N. C. 101, 52 S. E. (2d) 229.

As against Private Trusts.—The rule against perpetuities applies to private trusts. And when a private trust violates the rule the court will not limit the duration of the trust but will declare the whole trust invalid. Mercer v. Mercer, 230 N. C. 101, 52 S. E. (2d) 229, holding devise of property in trust void because violative of rule.

Statute Regulating Practice of Optometry.—A portion of § 90-115, relating to the practice of optometry, was held violative of this section. Palmer v. Smith, 229 N. C. 612, 51 S. E. (2d) 8.

Statute relating to licensing and supervision of photographers (G. S. 92) tends to create a monopoly in violation of this section. State v. Ballance, 229 N. C. 764, 51 S. E. (2d) 731.

ARTICLE II

Legislative Department

Delegation of Power to Determine Facts.—The legislature cannot delegate its power to make a law; but it can make a law to delegate a power to determine some facts or state of facts upon which the law makes, or intends to make, its own action depend. State v. Curtis, 230 N. C. 169, 52 S. E. (2d) 364.

Proposed Amendments.—The amendment of this section proposed by Session Laws 1947, c. 361, failed of adoption at the general election held on November 2, 1948.

Session Laws 1949, c. 1267, proposed that this section be amended to read as follows: "Pay of members and presiding officers of the General Assembly.—The members of the General Assembly for the term for which they have been elected shall receive as a compensation for their services the sum of fifteen dollars ($15.00) per day for each day of their session, for a period not exceeding ninety days; and should they remain longer in session they shall serve without compensation. The compensation of the presiding officers of the two houses shall be twenty dollars ($20.00) per day for a period not exceeding ninety days. Should an extra session of the General Assembly be called, the members and presiding officers shall receive a like rate of compensation for a period not exceeding twenty-five days."

Municipal Board of Control is a creature of the General Assembly within the provisions of this section. Hunsucker v. Winborne, 223 N. C. 650, 27 S. E. (2d) 817.

Statute including deputy sheriffs within term "employee" as used in Workmen's Compensation Act (G. S. § 97-2) held consonant with the provisions of this section. Towe v. Yancey County, 224 N. C. 579, 31 S. E. (2d) 754.

Expenditure of Surplus Unencumbered Funds.—Although the General Assembly cannot authorize a diversion of a county's sinking funds which are necessary to pay outstanding sinking fund bonds, it can direct the expenditure of surplus unencumbered sinking funds, provided the expenditure is for a public purpose. Johnson v. Marrow, 228 N. C. 58, 44 S. E. (2d) 468.

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the general election of November 7, 1944.

ARTICLE IV

Judicial Department

Remedial Writs Controlling Proceedings of Inferior Courts.—The supreme court is vested with authority to issue any remedial writ necessary to give it general supervision and control over the proceedings of inferior courts. State v. Cochran, 230 N. C. 523, 53 S. E. (2d) 663.

Writ of Error Coram Nobis.—The supreme court, in its supervisory power, has authority to entertain a petition for permission to apply to the superior court for a writ of error coram nobis. In re Taylor, 230 N. C. 566, 53 S. E. (2d) 857. As to allowance of petition where trial court failed to appoint counsel, see note to § 15-4.

Writ of Certiorari.—

Where the case is not one in which the alleged error appears on the face of the record proper, which might be corrected in supreme court's supervisory power under this section, but it is to review a ruling of the court entered on motion after trial, as well as an application for certiorari, it was held that since the case was one in which the state had no right of appeal, a dismissal must necessarily follow. State v. Todd, 224 N. C. 776, 32 S. E. (2d) 313.

Stated in State v. Thompson, 226 N. C. 651, 39 S. E. (2d) 823.

S.; this section, Const. of North Carolina. Dalton v. State Highway, etc., Comm., 223 N. C. 406. 27 S. E. (2d) 1.

Proposed Amendment.—Session Laws 1949, c. 393, proposed that this section be amended to read as follows: "Judicial districts for superior courts.—The General Assembly shall divide the state into a number of judicial districts which number may be increased or reduced and shall provide for the election of one or more superior court judges for each district. There shall be a superior court in each county at least twice in each year to continue for such time in each county as may be prescribed by law."

Proposed Amendment.—Session Laws 1949, c. 775, proposed that this section be amended to read as follows: "Sec. 11. Judicial districts; rotation; special superior court judges; assignment of superior court judges by chief justice.—Each judge of the superior court shall reside in the district for which he is elected. The General Assembly may divide the state into a number of judicial divisions. The judges shall preside in the courts of the different districts within a division successively; but no judge shall hold all the courts in the same district oftener than once in four years. The General Assembly may provide by general laws for the selection or appointment of special or emergency superior court judges not assigned to any judicial district, who may be designated from time to time by the chief justice to hold court in any district or districts within the state; and the General Assembly shall define their jurisdiction and shall provide for their reasonable compensation. The chief justice, when in his opinion the public interest so requires, may assign any superior court judge to hold one or more terms of superior court in any district."

As to rotation of superior court judges, see leading article in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 181. See also, § 26 N. C. Law Rev. 334.

The Power of Special and Emergency Judges Is Defined, etc.—

Under this section, the power and authority of special and emergency judges is defined and limited by the words "in the courts which they are appointed to hold"; and the General Assembly is without power to grant such judges jurisdiction in excess of this definite limitation. Shepard v. Leonard, 223 N. C. 110, 25 S. E. (2d) 445.

This section does not confer or authorize the legislature to confer any "in chambers" or "vacation" jurisdiction upon special judges assigned to hold a designated term of court. Shepard v. Leonard, 223 N. C. 110, 113, 25 S. E. (2d) 445.

The legislature has full authority to provide for appeals to the superior court by licensees whose driving licenses have been suspended or revoked by the discretionary action of the department of motor vehicles. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696. See § 20-25.

In accord wtih original. See Hopkins v. Barnhardt, 223 N. C. 617, 27 S. E. (2d) 644.

In summary proceeding in ejectment, based upon affidavit that defendant had entered into possession of house and lot and refused to vacate the house, justice of peace had no jurisdiction in absence of allegation that relationship of landlord and tenant existed and that defendant was holding over. ARTICLE V

Revenue and Taxation

Editors Note.—

For a brief discussion of this section, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 504.

Meaning of "Public Purpose."—A tax or an appropriation is for a public purpose if it is for the support of the government, or for any of the recognized objects of the government. Green v. Kitchin, 229 N. C. 450, 50 S. E. (2d) 545, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 500. As to what are "public purposes," for which a municipality may levy taxes, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 504.

"Public purpose, as we conceive the term to imply, when used in connection with the expenditure of municipal funds from the public treasury, refers to such public purpose within the frame of governmental and proprietary power given to the particular municipality, to be exercised for the benefit, welfare and protection of its inhabitants and others coming within the municipal care. It involves reasonable connection with the convenience and necessity of the particular municipality whose aid is extended in its promotion." Nash v. Tarboro, 227 N. C. 283, 287, 42 S. E. (2d) 209, quoting Greensboro-High Point Airport Authority v. Johnson, 226 N. C. 1, 36 S. E. (2d) 803.

There can be no lawful tax which is not levied for a public purpose. Nash v. Tarboro, 227 N. C. 283, 42 S. E. (2d) 209.

The fact that moneys are paid to an individual does not affect the character of the expenditure, since the object of the expenditure and not to whom paid determines whether it is for a public purpose. Green v. Kitchin, 229 N. C. 450, 50 S. E. (2d) 545, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 500.

An expenditure by a municipality for special training of a police officer is for a public purpose. Green v. Kitchin, 229 N. C. 450, 50 S. E. (2d) 545, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 500.

Municipal Airport Is Public Purpose.—The construction and maintenance of a municipal airport for a city of more than ten thousand inhabitants, engaged in many industries and pursuits, is for a public purpose within the meaning of this section, and no right guaranteed by the 14th Amendment to the Federal Constitution will be injuriously affected thereby. Turner v. Reidsville, 224 N. C. 42, 29 S. E. (2d) 211; Reidsville v. Slade, 224 N. C. 48, 29 S. E. (2d) 215.

The cost of constructing and maintaining a hotel is not a public purpose, within the meaning of this section. Nash v. Tarboro, 227 N. C. 283, 290, 42 S. E. (2d) 209.

The word "trades" as used in this section means any employment or business engaged in for gain or profit. Nesbitt v. Gill, 227 N. C. 174, 41 S. E. (2d) 646.

The purchase of horses or mules for the purpose of resale, at wholesale or retail, is a trade within the meaning of this section, and the imposition of a license tax on such trade is valid. Id.

Proposed Amendment. — The amendment of this section proposed by Session Laws 1947, c. 784, failed of adoption at the general election held on November 2, 1948.

The provisions of this section now constitute the dominant or controlling limitation upon the power of local units to contract debts or to issue bonds, and its provisions are superimposed upon the limitations contained in article 7, § 7, and in article 5, § 6, of the Constitution. Coe v. Surry County, 226 N. C. 125, 36 S. E. (2d) 910, 912.

Bonds are outstanding within the meaning of this section until actually paid and canceled, or delivered to the county for cancellation. Coe v. Surry County, 226 N. C. 125, 36 S. E. (2d) 910, 912.

Thus, where county bonds were payable at a certain banking institution on the first day of a county fiscal year, and before the close of the next preceding fiscal year the county made available funds for payment thereof, the bonds were outstanding at the close of the latter year within the meaning of this section. Id.

In an election for the issuance of county bonds for a new school building, a necessary expense, a favorable vote of the majority of those voting is sufficient to validate the bond resolution and authorize the issuance and sale of the proposed bonds. Mason v. Moore County Board of Com'rs, 229 N. C. 626, 51 S. E. (2d) 6.

Cited in Jefferson Standard Life Ins. Co. v. Guilford County, 225 N. C. 293, 301, 34 S. E. (2d) 430.

Assessments on public school property for special benefits thereto, caused by the improvement of the street on which it abuts, are not embraced within the prohibition of this section exempting property belonging to the State or to municipal corporations from taxation. Raleigh v. Raleigh City Administrative Unit, 223 N. C. 316, 26 S. E. (2d) 591.

Proposed Amendment.—The amendment of this section proposed by Session Laws 1947, c. 421, failed of adoption at the general election held on November 2, 1948.

In accord with original. See Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Duplin County, 226 N. C. 719, 40 S. E. (2d) 371.

Levy for Public Welfare.—The board of county commissioners of Beaufort County having levied, in the year 1942, a tax rate of fifteen cents on the one hundred dollars property valuation for general purposes, the limit fixed by this section, the levy for public welfare or poor relief was limited to a rate of five cents on the one hundred dollars property valuation, and any levy for public welfare or poor relief, in excess thereof, was held invalid. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Beaufort County, 224 N. C. 115, 29 S. E. (2d) 201.

Levy for Home for Aged.—Under this section Cumberland County is authorized by the Act of 1923 to levy annually five cents only on the one hundred dollar valuation, for maintaining county homes for the aged and infirm and for similar purposes. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Cumberland County, 223 N. C. 750, 28 S. E. (2d) 238.

Upkeep of county buildings and upkeep and maintenance of county home for the aged and infirm are general expenses and must be covered in the fifteen-cent levy limited for general purposes. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Duplin County, 226 N. C. 719, 40 S. E. (2d) 371.

ARTICLE VI

Suffrage and Eligibility to Office

§ 1. Who may vote.—Every person born in the United States, and every person who has been naturalized, twenty-one years of age, and possessing the qualifications set out in this article, shall be entitled to vote at any election by the people of the State, except as herein otherwise provided. (Const. 1868; Convention 1875; 1899, c. 218; 1900, c. 2; 1945, c. 634, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the election held pursuant to Session Laws 1945, c. 634.

"Residence" Defined.—

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See State v. Chaplin, 228 N. C. 705, 47 S. E. (2d) 12.

This constitutional provision applies primarily to an incoming person who is not permitted to exercise political rights until after he has been in the state and the voting precinct for the prescribed periods. State v. Chaplin, 228 N. C. 705, 47 S. E. (2d) 12.

And Not to a Citizen Temporarily Absent.—This constitutional provision is not designed to disfranchise a citizen of the state when he leaves his home and goes into another state or into another county of this state for temporary purposes with the intention of retaining his home and of returning to it when the objects which call him away are attained. State v. Chaplin, 228 N. C. 705, 47 S. E. (2d) 12.

ARTICLE VII

Municipal Corporations

§ 7. No debt or loan except by a majority of voters.—No county, city, town, or other municipal corporation shall contract any debt, pledge its faith or loan its credit, nor shall any tax be levied or collected by any officers of the same except for the necessary expenses thereof, unless approved by a majority of those who shall vote thereon in any election held for such purpose. (1947, c. 34.)

II. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the general election of November 2, 1948. For a brief comment on the amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 395.

Rule and Exception Thereto.—Under this section approval of taxation by popular vote is the rule, and the power to impose a tax for a necessary expense without a vote is the exception. Purser v. Ledbetter, 227 N. C. 1, 40 S. E. (2d) 702.

Function Must Be Public.—A municipal corporation cannot, even with express legislative sanction, embark on any private enterprise or assume any function which is not in a legal sense public. Brown v. Board of Com'rs, 223 N. C. 744, 28 S. E. (2d) 104.

Where appropriations were made by two cities and county to airport authority out of funds not derived from ad valorem taxes and funds were free from other specified purpose or legal commitment, no question of credit or taxation in violation of this section is involved. Greensboro-High Point Airport Authority v. Johnson, 226 N. C. 1, 36 S. E. (2d) 803, distinguishing Sing v. Charlotte, 213 N. C. 60, 195 S. E. 271.

III. NECESSARY EXPENSES.

A. General Considerations and Applications.

Legislative Declaration and Municipal Commissioners Finding That Tax Is for Necessary Expense, etc.—

In accord with original. See Purser v. Ledbetter, 227 N. C. 1, 40 S. E. (2d) 702.

What Are "Necessary Expenses."—

Where the purpose for which a proposed expense is to be incurred by a municipality is the maintenance of public peace or administration of justice, or partakes of a governmental nature, or purports to be an exercise by the municipality of a portion of the state's delegated sovereignty, the expense is a necessary expense within this section, and may be incurred without a vote of the people. Green v. Kitchin, 229 N. C. 450, 50 S. E. (2d) 545, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 500.

Bonds for establishing and maintaining playgrounds, in populous, industrial city, for its children, are for a necessary expense within the meaning of Art. VII, § 7 of the North Carolina Constitution and it is not required that the issuance of the bonds be submitted to a vote of qualified electors of the municipality. Atkins v. Durham, 210 N. C. 295, 186 S. E. 330.

The imposition of a tax or the expenditure of funds derived therefrom for municipal parks and recreational facilities is for a public purpose but it is not for a necessary municipal expense, within the meaning of this section, and the expenditure of funds for this purpose derived from a tax imposed without a referendum will be enjoined by the courts. Purser v. Ledbetter, 227 N. C. 1, 40 S. E. (2d) 702.

The Legislature is without power to authorize a municipal corporation to issue its bonds and levy a tax for the payment of the principal and interest on such indebtedness, in order to enable it to obtain funds for the construction and maintenance of a municipal hotel. Nash v. Tarboro, 227 N. C. 283, 290, 42 S. E. (2d) 209.

Operating and Improving Airport.—

The construction, maintenance and operation of an airport by a city is a public purpose for which funds may be provided by taxation, when approved by a vote of the majority of the qualified voters in accordance with this section. Reidsville v. Slade, 224 N. C. 48, 29 S. E. (2d) 215.

An expenditure by a municipality for special training of a police officer is a necessary expense within the meaning of this section. Green v. Kitchin, 229 N. C. 450, 50 S. E. (2d) 545, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 500.

B. School Bonds or Taxation.

As to school district bonds or taxes for athletic stadium, see Boney v. Board of Trustees, 229 N. C. 136, 48 S. E. (2d) 56.

Editor's Note.—The word "remembered" in the second line of the Editor's Note in the original should read "renumbered."

ARTICLE VIII

Corporations Other than Municipal

Legislature May Create Corporation for Public Purpose.—The legislative power as to state and political and administrative subdivisions thereof is restrained only by the limitations imposed by the State Constitution or that of the United States, and there is no constitutional limitation on power of the General Assembly to create a corporation for a public purpose. Brumley v. Baxter, 225 N. C. 691, 36 S. E. (2d) 281, 284, 162 A. L. R. 930.

In General.—
Municipal corporations derive their powers almost solely from legislative enactment under this section, and are subject to statutory restrictions and regulations of their taxing power. Purser v. Ledbetter, 227 N. C. 1, 40 S. E. (2d) 702.

The authority of cities and towns as instrumentalities for the administration of local government may be enlarged, abridged or withdrawn entirely at the will or pleasure of the legislature. Rhodes v. Asheville, 230 N. C. 134, 52 S. E. (2d) 371; Murphy v. Webb & Co., 156 N. C. 402, 72 S. E. 460.

ARTICLE IX

Education

Duty on Legislature.—
The establishment and operation of the public school system is under the control of the legislative branch of the government, subject only to the pertinent constitutional provisions as to uniformity, as provided in this section, and length of term, as provided in the following section. Coggins v. Board of Education, 223 N. C. 763, 28 S. E. (2d) 527.

Legislative Function.—
The establishment and operation of the public school system is under the control of the legislative branch of the government, subject only to pertinent constitutional provisions as to uniformity, as provided in the preceding section, and length of term, as provided in this section. Coggins v. Board of Education, 223 N. C. 763, 767, 28 S. E. (2d) 527.

This section was designed in its entirety to secure two wise ends, namely: (1) To set apart the property and revenue specified therein for the support of the public school system; and (2) to prevent the diversion of public school property and revenue from their intended use to other purposes. Boney v. Board of Trustees, 229 N. C. 136, 48 S. E. (2d) 56.

The maintenance of an athletic field and playground is a proper use of school funds, since physical training is a legitimate function of education. Boney v. Board of Trustees, 229 N. C. 136, 48 S. E. (2d) 56.

An agreement under which a graded school district, without monetary consideration, was to transfer in fee to a municipality a tract of school property, and the municipality was to construct thereon an athletic stadium and grant the graded schools of the district free and unlimited use of the stadium and grounds during the school term except when required for regularly scheduled games of a professional baseball association, did not constitute a diversion of school property in contravention of this section. Id.

The right of succession by escheat to all property, when there is no wife or husband or parties entitled to inherit or take under the statutes of descent and distribution, has been conferred upon the University of North Carolina by this section, and extended by several statutes which are now G. S., 116-20 through 116-25. Board of Education v. Johnston, 224 N. C. 86, 88, 29 S. E. (2d) 126.

§ 8. State Board of Education.—The general supervision and administration of the free public school system, and of the educational funds provided for the support thereof, except those mentioned in section five of this article, shall, from and after the first day of April, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five, be vested in the State Board of Education to consist of the Lieutenant Governor, State Treasurer, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and ten members to be appointed by the Governor subject to confirmation by the General Assembly in joint session. The General Assembly shall divide the State into eight educational districts, which may be altered from time to time by the General Assembly. Of the appointed members of the State Board of Education, one shall be appointed from each of the eight educational districts, and two shall be appointed as members at large. The first appointments under this section shall be: Two members appointed from educational districts for terms of two years; two members appointed from educational districts for terms of four years; two members appointed from educational districts for terms of six years; and two members appointed from educational districts for terms of eight years. One member at large shall be appointed for a period of four years and one member at large shall be appointed for a period of eight years. All subsequent appointments shall be for terms of eight years. Any appointments to fill vacancies shall be made by the Governor for the unexpired term, which appointments shall not be subject to confirmation. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall be the administrative head of the public school system and shall be secretary of the board. The board shall elect a chairman and vice chairman. A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The per diem and expenses of the appointive members shall be provided by the General Assembly. (Const. 1868; 1941, c. 151; 1943, c. 468.)

A Constitutional Right.—The right to a homestead is guaranteed by the constitution. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Only Residents Entitled to Homestead.—Evidence held insufficient to support finding by the court that judgment debtor is resident and entitled to homestead. Scott & Co. v. Jones, 230 N. C. 74, 52 S. E. (2d) 219.

Duration of Homestead.—The homestead as allowed lasts during the life of the owner thereof; and, after his death, it lasts during the minority of his children, or any one of them, and the widowhood of his widow, unless she be the owner of a homestead in her own right. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Presumption of Continuance.—Once acquired the homestead is presumed to continue. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Allotment Unnecessary.—See note to § 1-369.

The only way property may lose its homestead character, after the homestead has been allotted, is by death, abandonment or alienation. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Homestead interest in land is terminated by the owner's removal from the state. Scott & Co. v. Jones, 230 N. C. 74, 52 S. E. (2d) 219.

Cited in Sample v. Jackson, 225 N. C. 380, 35 S. E. (2d) 236.

Wife May Not Convey Real Estate by Estoppel.—By this section and the laws of this State a married woman is incapable of making a valid conveyance of her real estate without the written assent of her husband and privy examination duly taken and certified. Hence, she may not convey it by estoppel, fraudulently divest herself of coverture, if such characterization be preferred. Buford v. Mochy, 224 N. C. 235, 239, 29 S. E. (2d) 729.

The renunciation of a will is not a conveyance which requires the written assent of the husband, as provided in this section. Perkins v. Isley, 224 N. C. 793, 32 S. E. (2d) 588.

Statute providing that earnings and damages from personal injury are wife's property (G. S. § 52-10) should be read in the light of this section. Helmstetler v. Duke Power Co., 224 N. C. 821, 32 S. E. (2d) 611.

§ 8. How deed for homestead may be made.—Nothing contained in the foregoing sections of this article shall operate to prevent the owner of a homestead from disposing of the same by deed; but no deed made by the owner of a homestead shall be valid without the signature and acknowledgment of his wife. (1943, c. 662.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the general election of November 7, 1944.

ARTICLE XII

Militia

Stated in In re Yelton, 223 N. C. 845, 28 S. E. (2d) 567.

Officers in the militia are liable to be called out to suppress riots or insurrection, "and to repel invasion." In re Yelton, 223 N. C. 845, 852, 28 S. E. (2d) 567.

ARTICLE XIV

Miscellaneous

Legislative Authority Required.—

Moneys paid into the hands of the state treasurer by virtue of a state law become public funds for which the treasurer is responsible and may be disbursed only in accordance with legislative authority. Gardner v. Board of Trustees, 226 N. C. 465, 38 S. E. (2d) 314.

§ 7. Holding office.—No person who shall hold any office or place of trust or profit under the United States, or any department thereof, or under this State or under any other state or government, shall hold or exercise any other office or place of trust or profit under the authority of this State, or be eligible to a seat in either House of the General Assembly: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall extend to officers in the militia, notaries public, justices of the peace, commissioners of public charities, or commissioners for special purposes. (1943, c. 432.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by vote at the general election of November 7, 1944.

Purpose.—

This section was never intended to discourage public officials from assuming military leadership in time of emergency. In re Yelton, 223 N. C. 845, 852, 28 S. E. (2d) 567.

Under this section, which is intended and designed to prevent or inhibit double office-holding, except in certain instances, it is not permissible for one person to hold two offices at the same time. In re Advisory Opinion, 226 N. C. 772, 39 S. E. (2d) 217, 221.

Definition of Public Office.—An office is a public station, or employment, conferred by appointment of government and the term embraces the idea of tenure, duration, emolument, and duties. In re Advisory Opinion, 226 N. C. 772, 39 S. E. (2d) 217, 220.

Where the office which judge proposed to accept carried with it some of the attributes of sovereignty, and perforce invested him with governmental authority, he would be holding an office or place of trust or profit under the United States, or a department thereof, within the meaning of this section. Id.

Effect of Acceptance of Similar Office.—

Under this section which is intended and designed to prevent or inhibit double office-holding, except in certain instances, it is not permissible for one person to hold two offices at the same time. The acceptance of a second office, which is forbidden or incompatible with the office already held, operates ipso facto to vacate the first. In re Yelton, 223 N. C. 845, 28 S. E. (2d) 567.

One who holds an office or place or trust under authority of this state forfeits such office or place of trust when he accepts another office or place of trust which is forbidden by this section or is incompatible with the office or place of trust already held, and the acceptance of the second forbidden or incompatible office or place of trust, operates ipso facto to vacate the first. In re Advisory Opinion, 226 N. C. 772, 39 S. E. (2d) 217, 221.

Persons within Prohibited Degree.—Every person who has one-eighth negro blood in his veins is within the prohibited degree set out in this section and § 51-3. State v. Miller, 224 N. C. 228, 29 S. E. (2d) 751.

Art. 2. General Provisions.

This Right Is Alternative.—
In accord with original. See New Hanover County v. Sidbury, 225 N. C. 679, 36 S. E. (2d) 242, 243.

This section cannot be construed to mean that litigant may not first appear in person and then later through counsel. New Hanover County v. Sidbury, 225 N. C. 679, 36 S. E. (2d) 242, 243.

Thus, litigant who elects to employ counsel at any stage of proceedings may not be deprived of his services for the reason he has theretofore appeared in person and it is error for the court to undertake so to do. Id.

However, a party is entitled to appear in propria persona, and when a defendant insists upon this right notwithstanding his ability to employ counsel and the efforts of the trial judge to assign him counsel, it cannot be pressed successfully on appeal that he was prejudiced by the action of the trial court in failing to provide counsel and in permitting him wide latitude in the introduction of evidence. State v. Pritchard, 227 N. C. 168, 41 S. E. (2d) 287.

Cited in In re Taylor, 229 N. C. 297, 49 S. E. (2d) 749.

Art. 3. Limitations, General Provisions.

When personal services are rendered with the understanding that compensation is to be made in the will of the recipient, payment therefor does not become due until death, and the statutes of limitation do not begin to run until that time. Stewart v. Wyrick, 228 N. C. 429, 45 S. E. (2d) 764.

This section has no application to a proceeding to set aside a void judgment of foreclosure. Johnston County v. Ellis, 226 N. C. 268, 38 S. E. (2d) 31.

Where the defendant is a nonresident of the state the statute of limitations has not run. Lassiter v. Powell, 164 F. (2d) 186.

Stated in Holderness v. Hamilton Fire Ins. Co., 54 F. Supp. 145.

Purpose of Filing Claim.—If a judgment creditor of a deceased judgment debtor wishes to protect himself against the running of the statute of limitations as against the debt, he must file his claim with the personal representative of the deceased. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Evidence Sufficient to Overrule Motion to Nonsuit.—Where plaintiff showed that shortly after the defendant's steamship collided with bridge, proceedings were instituted in the United States district court, in which it was ordered that all suits arising out of the collision be stayed, and immediately after plaintiff's claim was dismissed in that court for want of jurisdiction, it instituted present action, plaintiff's evidence was sufficient to overrule motion to nonsuit on the ground of the bar of the statute of limitations. State Highway, etc., Comm. v. Diamond Steamship Transp. Corp., 226 N. C. 371, 38 S. E. (2d) 214.

The words "new action," "new suit," and "original suit."
In accord with original. See Bourne v. Southern Ry. Co., 224 N. C. 444, 31 S. E. (2d) 382.

Judgment of Nonsuit on Merits of Case, etc.—
A judgment of nonsuit does not bar a subsequent action on the same cause instituted within one year unless the evidence is substantially identical, and therefore the plea of res judicata to the second cause cannot be determined from the pleadings alone. Craver v. Spaugh, 227 N. C. 129, 41 S. E. (2d) 82.

Effectiveness of doctrine of lis pendens ought to prevail so long as equities have not themselves been determined or dismissed, but by appropriate statute are kept within the care of the law and the prospective adjudication by the court. It is difficult to see how this section, intended to accomplish this result, could be made effective in any other way. Goodson v. Lehmon, 225 N. C. 514, 35 S. E. (2d) 623, 164 A. L. R 510.

Where a decree of dismissal expressly reserves to plaintiff right to begin another proceeding, such grant of authority continues the operation of the lis pendens. A fortiori, this section, giving such permission as a matter of law, must be read into every final judgment of nonsuit entered by any court, and of this law all persons affected must take notice. Goodson v. Lehmon, 225 N. C. 514, 35 S. E. (2d) 623, 164 A. L. R. 510.

Applied in State Highway, etc., Comm. v. Diamond Steamship Transp. Corp., 226 N. C. 371, 38 S. E. (2d) 214.

III. PART PAYMENT.

The principle that making a payment on a note repels the statute is not altered by the provisions of this section, for it expressly provides that "this section does not alter the effect of any payment of principal or interest." The decisions treating of this provision hold that the effect of this clause is to leave the law as it was prior to the adoption of this section as regards the effect of a partial payment in removing the bar of the statute of limitations. Smith v. Davis, 228 N. C. 172, 45 S. E. (2d) 51, 174 A. L. R. 643.

Section Abrogated Common Law Maxim.—
The maxim is no longer in force in this state, except as otherwise provided by statutory exceptions. Guilford County v. Hampton, 224 N. C. 817, 32 S. E. (2d) 606.

When Statute Does Not Apply.—
Notwithstanding the inclusive provisions of this section it has been uniformly held that no statute of limitations runs against the state, unless it is expressly named therein. Raleigh v. Mechanics, etc., Bank, 223 N. C. 286, 293, 26 S. E. (2d) 573.

The annotation under this section in the original should be deleted.

Art. 4. Limitations, Real Property.

Plaintiff Must Rely upon Strength of Own Title.—In actions involving title to real property, the state not being a party, title is conclusively presumed out of the state without presumption in favor of either party, and plaintiff must rely upon the strength of his own title. Smith v. Benson, 227 N. C. 56, 40 S. E. (2d) 451.

May Show Title Out of State.—
In accord with original. See Ward v. Smith, 223 N. C. 141, 25 S. E. (2d) 463.

Stated in Ramsey v. Ramsey, 224 N. C. 110, 29 S. E. (2d) 340.

I. GENERAL NOTE ON ADVERSE POSSESSION.

A. General Consideration.

Definition.—
Possession of real property to be adverse must be actual possession, and must be open, decided and as notorious as the nature of the property will permit, indicating assertion of exclusive ownership, and of intention to exercise dominion over it against all other claimants. The possession must be continuous, though not necessarily unceasing, for the statutory period, and of such character as to subject the property to the only use of which it is susceptible. Vance v. Guy, 223 N. C. 409, 413, 27 S. E. (2d) 117.

Effect of Holding Portion of Land under Colorable Title.—Where one enters into possession of land under a colorable title which describes the land by definite lines and boundaries, and occupies and holds adversely a portion of the land within the bounds of his deed, by construction of law his possession is extended to the outer bounds of his deed, and possession so held adversely for seven years ripens his title to all the land embraced in his deed which is not actually occupied by another. Vance v. Guy, 223 N. C. 409, 413, 27 S. E. (2d) 117.

Where the title deeds of two rival claimants lap upon each other, and neither is in the actual possession of any of the land covered by both deeds, the law adjudges the possession of the lappage to be in the one who has the better title. If one be seated on the lappage and the other not, the possession of the whole interference is in the former. If both have actual possession of some part of the lappage, the possession of the true owner, by virtue of his superior title, extends to all not actually occupied by the other. Vance v. Guy, 224 N. C. 607, 611, 31 S. E. (2d) 766.

B. Character of Possession.

Sufficiency of Possession.—In actions between individual litigants when one claims title to land by adverse possession and shows such possession (1) for seven years under color, or (2) for twenty years without color, either showing is sufficient to establish title in this jurisdiction. Ward v. Smith, 223 N. C. 141, 142, 25 S. E. (2d) 463.

The possession of one tenant in common is in law the possession of all his cotenants, unless and until there has been an actual ouster or a sole adverse possession for twenty years, receiving rents and profits and claiming the land as his own from which actual ouster would be presumed. Winstead v. Woolard, 223 N. C. 814, 28 S. E. (2d) 507.

II. NOTE TO SECTION 1-38.

Cross Reference.—See note to § 1-39.

This section has no reference to titles good in themselves, but is intended to protect apparent titles void in law. Lofton v. Barber, 226 N. C. 481, 39 S. E. (2d) 263, 264.

Character of Possession under Section.—
Where deed was regular upon its face and purported to convey title without limitation, reservation or exception, it was at least color of title to the entire interest in the land it purported to convey so that grantee and those claiming under her who immediately went into possession and remained in exclusive possession thereof for "12 or 15 years" acquired title by their adverse possession under color, if not by their deed. Lofton v. Barber, 226 N. C. 481, 39 S. E. (2d) 263, 265.

Applied in Layden v. Layden, 228 N. C. 5, 44 S. E. (2d) 340; Hughes v. Oliver, 228 N. C. 680, 47 S. E. (2d) 6; Grady v. Parker, 230 N. C. 166, 52 S. E. (2d) 273.

Cited in Parham v. Henley, 224 N. C. 405, 30 S. E. (2d) 372; Perry v. Alford, 225 N. C. 146, 33 S. E. (2d) 665; Ramsey v. Nebel, 226 N. C. 590, 39 S. E. (2d) 616; Smith v. Benson, 227 N. C. 56, 40 S. E. (2d) 451.

Where one tenant in common claims sole seizin and adverse possession under a void judgment, his status as to any title by adverse possession must be determined by this section, rather than the seven-year statute, § 1-38. Ange v. Owens, 224 N. C. 514, 31 S. E. (2d) 521.

Tenants in Common—Possession of One Possession of All.—
The possession of one tenant in common is the possession of all his cotenants unless and until there has been an actual ouster or sole adverse possession for twenty years. Parham v. Henley, 224 N. C. 405, 30 S. E. (2d) 372.

Where the owner of a lot encroaches upon a strip of the adjacent lot and builds structures located partly thereon, the owner of the adjacent lot is not estopped by his silence and failure to object from asserting his title thereto in an action in ejectment, and does not lose his title thereto until such adverse user has continued for the twenty years necessary to ripen title by adverse possession, under this section, the user not being under color of title. Ramsey v. Nebel, 226 N. C. 590, 39 S. E. (2d) 616.

A grantee cannot tack adverse possession of predecessor in title as to land not embraced within the description in his deed, and therefore where he has been in possession for less than twenty years, he cannot establish title by adverse possession to land lying outside the boundaries of his deed. Ramsey v. Ramsey, 229 N. C. 270, 49 S. E. (2d) 476; Simmons v. Lee, 230 N. C. 216, 53 S. E. (2d) 79.

In all controversies and litigation wherein it shall be made to appear from the public records that there has been at some previous time a separation or severance between the surface and the subsurface rights, title or properties of an area, no holder or claimant of the subsurface title or rights therein shall be entitled to evidence or prove any use of the surface, by himself or by his predecessors in title or of lesses or agents, as adverse possession against the holder of said surface rights or title; and likewise no holder or claimant of the surface rights shall be entitled to evidence or prove any use of the subsurface rights, by himself, or by his predecessors in title or of lessees or agents, as adverse possession against the holder of said subsurface rights, unless, in either case, at the time of beginning such allegedly adverse use and in each year of the same, said party or his predecessor in title so using shall have placed or caused to be placed upon the records of the register of deeds of the county wherein such property lies and in a book therein kept or provided for such purposes, a brief notice of intended use giving (a) the date of beginning or recommencing of the operation or use, (b) a brief description of the property involved but sufficiently adequate to make said property readily locatable therefrom, (c) the name and, if known, the address of the claimant of the right under which the operation or use is to be carried on or made and (d) the deed or other instrument, if any, under which the right to conduct such operation or to make such use is claimed or to which it is to be attached. (Rev., s. 386; Code, s. 146; C. C. P., s. 25; 1945, c. 869; C. S. 432.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the above paragraph at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

For comment on the 1945 amendment, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 355.

Loyalty Is to Title and Not to Landlord.—The rule that tenant's possession is possession of the landlord, and that tenant under lease may not maintain an action against his landlord involving title during the period of lease without first surrendering the possession he has under the lease, does not apply where after the renting title of landlord has terminated or has been transferred either to third person or the tenant himself, for, under the doctrine as it now prevails, the loyalty required is to the title, not to the person of the landlord. Lofton v. Barber, 226 N. C. 481, 39 S. E. (2d) 263, 265.

Where tenant acquired the title of his landlord tenant's leasehold estate was merged in the greater estate conveyed by his deed, and thereafter he was under no obligation to recognize his former landlord as such or to surrender possession to him before asserting title thus acquired. Id.

Section Does Not Apply Where Tenant's Claim Is Based on Landlord's Title.—The rule that the possession of the tenant is possession of the landlord, precluding adverse possession by tenant without first surrendering the possession he has under the lease, obtains only when tenant seeks to assert a title adverse to that of the landlord or assumes an attitude of hostility to his title or claim of title, and does not obtain where tenant, or those claiming under him, do not assert title hostile to that of the landlord, but are acknowledging, asserting, and relying upon that title, as acquired in due course by them. The strength of his title is the foundation of their claim. Lofton v. Barber, 226 N. C. 481, 39 S. E. (2d) 263, 265.

Cited in Guilford County v. Hampton, 224 N. C. 817, 32 S. E. (2d) 606.

Art. 5. Limitations, Other than Real Property.

Effect of Failure to Plead Particular Section.—Defendant's allegations that plaintiff's cause of action on bond coupons had accrued more than ten years prior to the institution of the action and was barred under the provisions of this section, is a sufficient pleading of statute of limitations, although no specific reference is made to the particular sections of the statute applicable. Jennings v. Morehead City, 226 N. C. 606, 39 S. E. (2d) 610.

Burden of Proof.—Where defendant sufficiently pleads the statute of limitations the burden is upon plaintiff to show that his action was commenced within the time permitted by the statute, and upon his failure to do so, nonsuit is proper. Jennings v. Morehead City, 226 N. C. 606, 39 S. E. (2d) 610.

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's note.—

See 22 N. C. Law Rev., 146 for comment touching on this section.

Plea of Statute against Administrator Available to Distributee.—In an action by plaintiff to recover his distributive share of an estate, where defendant administrator sets up and pleads debts of plaintiff's due intestate as an offset, the claims of both plaintiff and defendant being legal, the doctrine of equitable set-off has no application and the plea of the statute of limitations is available to plaintiff as a valid defense to the affirmative claim of offset pleaded by defendant. Perry v. First Citizens Bank and Trust Co., 223 N. C. 642, 27 S. E. (2d) 636.

Applied in Layden v. Layden, 228 N. C. 5, 44 S. E. (2d) 340; Bell v. Chadwick, 226 N. C. 598, 39 S. E. (2d) 743.

Cited in Raleigh v. Mechanics, etc., Bank, 223 N. C. 286, 26 S. E. (2d) 573.

III. SUBS. (2) SEALED INSTRUMENTS.

When Statute Begins to Run—Coupons of Bonds.—

Where bond coupons are negotiable in form and payable to the bearer, and have been detached from the bonds and the bonds sold, the statute of limitations begins to run against each of them from their respective dates of maturity, and in such instance a contention that the coupons were incident to the principal obligation of the bond and were valid during the life of the bond is untenable. Jennings v. Morehead City, 226 N. C. 606, 39 S. E. (2d) 610, distinguishing Knight v. Braswell, 70 N. C. 709.

Application to Bills, Notes, etc.—

Where plaintiff offered in evidence a note, apparently executed by defendant and another as joint obligors, with the word "seal" in brackets opposite the name of each, nothing else appearing, this would repel the three-year statute of limitations, as sealed instruments against principals are not barred until lapse of ten years. Lee v. Chamblee, 223 N. C. 146, 25 S. E. (2d) 433.

Where action was instituted on note under seal on 10 February, 1943 and last payment had been made upon the note on 1 October, 1933, the action was not barred by this section as the statute commenced again to run from the day when the last payment was made. Sayer v. Henderson, 225 N. C. 642, 35 S. E. (2d) 875, citing Green v. Greensboro Female College, 83 N. C. 449, 454, 35 Am. Rep. 579.

IV. SUBS. (3) MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE.

Where partial payment is made on a note secured by deed of trust, action to foreclose the instrument is not barred until ten years from date of such payment. Smith v. Davis, 228 N. C. 172, 45 S. E. (2d) 51, 174 A. L. R. 643.

V. SUBS. (4) REDEMPTION OF MORTGAGE.

Applied in Hughes v. Oliver, 228 N. C. 680, 47 S. E. (2d) 6.

This section makes uniform the periods of limitation against railroad companies for damages or compensation for lands taken for rights of way or use and occupancy. Carolina, etc., Ry. Co. v. Piedmont Wagon, etc., Co., 229 N. C. 695, 51 S. E. (2d) 301, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 579.

11. For the recovery of any amount under and by virtue of the provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight and amendments thereto, said act being an act of congress. (Rev., s. 395; Code, s. 155; C. C. P., s. 34; 1895, c. 165; 1889, cc. 269, 218; 1899, c. 15, s. 71; 1901, c. 558, s. 23; 1913, c. 147, s. 4; 1945, c. 785; C. S. 441.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added subsection 11. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

I. IN GENERAL.

This section is not applicable to an action specifically brought under provisions of § 105-414. Miller v. McConnell, 226 N. C. 28, 36 S. E. (2d) 722.

An action to recover damages for patent infringement and for appropriating and using confidential information relating to the patent was governed by subsections 5 and 9 of this section and not by § 1-56. Reynolds v. Whitin Mach. Works, 167 F. (2d) 78.

Cited in King v. Richardson, 136 F. (2d) 849 (dis. op.); State Highway, etc., Comm. v. Diamond Steamship Transp. Corp., 226 N. C. 371, 38 S. E. (2d) 214.

II. SUBSECTION ONE—CONTRACTS.

Application to Sealed Instruments—In General.—Civil action, to recover on six promissory notes under seal executed December 3, 1929, and maturing one each year for five successive years, which was begun on August 30, 1940, was not barred by the limitation in this section or ten year statute of limitation in § 1-47. Bell v. Chadwick, 226 N. C. 598, 39 S. E. (2d) 743.

Same—Sureties.—

The three-year statute of limitations is applicable to sureties on sealed instruments as well as on instruments not under seal. Lee v. Chamblee, 223 N. C. 146, 25 S. E. (2d) 433.

An action on a note under seal against an endorser on the note is ordinarily barred after three years from the maturity of the note, even though the endorsement is under seal. Hertford Bkg. Co. v. Stokes, 224 N. C. 83, 86, 29 S. E. (2d) 24.

Claims for Services.—In absence of special contract to compensate plaintiff for his services to defendant's intestate by will effective at defendant's death, the statute of limitations bars all claims for services except those rendered within three years. Grady v. Faison, 224 N. C. 567, 31 S. E. (2d) 760.

Recovery cannot be had upon assumpsit or quantum meruit for personal services rendered in reliance upon the oral contract to devise when the action is instituted more than three years after the death of the promisor, and the statute of limitations is pleaded in bar. Dunn v. Brewer, 228 N. C. 43, 44 S. E. (2d) 353.

Plea of Statute against Administrator Available to Distributee.—In an action by plaintiff to recover his distributive share of an estate, where defendant administrator sets up and pleads debts of plaintiff's due intestate as an offset, the claims of both plaintiff and defendant being legal, the doctrine of equitable set-off has no application and the plea of the statute of limitations is available to plaintiff as a valid defense to the affirmative claim of offset pleaded by defendant. Perry v. First Citizens Bank and Trust Co., 223 N. C. 642, 27 S. E. (2d) 636.

Cited in Sayer v. Henderson, 225 N. C. 642, 35 S. E. (2d) 875.

III. SUBSECTION TWO—LIABILITY CREATED BY STATUTE.

An action by county against inmate of county home to secure reimbursement or indemnity for sums expended for upkeep in the home comes within this section. Guilford County v. Hampton, 224 N. C. 817, 32 S. E. (2d) 606.

IV. SUBSECTION THREE—TRESPASS UPON REALTY.

Action in Tort for Continuing Trespass. — Plaintiffs alleged that construction of dam caused progressive injury to their land from improper drainage, and that the mere construction was the cause of the injury. It was held that the action being limited to "injury and damage" caused by the "construction" of the dam, rests in tort, and the trespass being continuous rather than a renewing or intermittent one, and the action not being for an appropriation of plaintiffs' property or an easement therein by reason of the operation of the dam, the action was barred by the three-year statute of limitations. Tate v. Western Carolina Power Co., 230 N. C. 256, 53 S. E. (2d) 88.

IX. SUBSECTION NINE—FRAUD OR MISTAKE.

Same—Sufficiency of Evidence.—

See Small v. Dorsett, 223 N. C. 754, 28 S. E. (2d) 514.

Action to Remove Cloud from Title.—The right to maintain an action to remove a cloud from a title is a continuing one to which the statute of limitations is not applicable. Cauble v. Trexler, 227 N. C. 307, 314, 42 S. E. (2d) 77.

§ 1-53. Two years.—Within two years—

1. All claims against counties, cities and towns of this state shall be presented to the chairman of the board of county commissioners, or to the chief officers of the cities and towns, within two years after the maturity of such claims, or the holders shall be forever barred from a recovery thereon; provided, however, that the provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to claims based upon bonds, notes and interest coupons, except claims based upon bonds, notes and interest coupons of a county, city, town, township, road district, school district, school taxing district, sanitary district or water district which mature on or after March first, one thousand nine hundred forty-five, and which have been incorporated in and are subject to the terms of a plan of composition or refinancing of indebtedness providing for exchange of bonds and adjustment of interest thereon and pursuant to which any bonds have been exchanged, shall be presented within two years after maturity or, if such bonds, notes and interest coupons have matured subsequent to March twenty-second, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five but prior to March first, one thousand nine hundred forty-five, such claims shall be presented within two years after March first, one thousand nine hundred forty-five, or the holders of any such claims shall be forever barred from recovery thereon, and any such claims shall be presented to the officer or officers charged by law with the payment of the same or with providing for such payment.

2. An action to recover the penalty for usury.

3. The forfeiture of all interest for usury. (Rev., s. 396; Code, ss. 756, 3836; 1874-5, c. 243; 1876-7, c. 91, s. 3; 1895, c. 69; 1931, c. 231; 1937, c. 359; 1945, c. 774; C. S. 442.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment added the exception to the proviso of paragraph 1.

As to necessity for presenting tort claims, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 145.

I. IN GENERAL.

Cited in Jennings v. Morehead City, 226 N. C. 606, 39 S. E. (2d) 610.

II. ACTIONS TO WHICH APPLICABLE.

An action for relief against an executor must be filed within ten years after the action accrues. King v. Richardson, 136 F. (2d) 849, 867 (dis. op.).

An action by the beneficiaries of a trust to establish a constructive or resulting trust in certain stock sold by the executor-trustee, to recover the property, and for an accounting, is not barred by laches or the statute of limitations if brought within ten years from the date of the accrual of the cause of action. Jarrett v. Green, 230 N. C. 104, 52 S. E. (2d) 223.

An action to recover damages for patent infringement and for appropriating and using confidential information relating to the patent was governed by subsections 5 and 9 of § 1-52 and not by this section. Reynolds v. Whitin Mach. Works, 167 F. (2d) 78.

Art. 6. Parties.

I. REAL PARTIES IN INTEREST.

C. Actions Concerning Realty.

Reformation of Deed of Trust.—

In an action to reform a deed, all parties claiming an interest in the land or any part thereof, purported to have been conveyed by the instrument sought to be reformed, and whose interest will be affected by the reformation of the instrument, are necessary parties to the action. Kemp v. Funderburk, 224 N. C. 353, 355, 30 S. E. (2d) 155.

Lease of Hunting Rights.—The grantor of land reserved the hunting rights and later leased them. Defendant successor to grantee refused to permit the lessee to enter upon the property for the purpose of hunting. It was held that the lessee and not the lessor was the proper party to maintain an action against defendant for damages. Jones v. Neisler, 228 N. C. 444, 45 S. E. (2d) 369.

III. ASSIGNMENTS.

Effect in General.—

The provision in the first sentence as to assignment means merely that the statute does not authorize for the first time the assignment of a "thing in action not arising out of contract" which was not assignable under the existing law. The provision does not in itself forbid the assignment of all choses in action not arising out of contract. American Surety Co. v. Baker, 172 F. (2d) 689.

The assignee of a contract to convey real estate may maintain an action thereon against the seller for specific performance. Harry's Cadillac-Pontiac Co. v. Norburn, 230 N. C. 23, 51 S. E. (2d) 916.

Distinction between Next Friend and Guardian ad Litem.—A next friend is appointed to bring or prosecute a proceeding in which the infant suitor is plaintiff or seeks to assert some positive right, while a guardian ad litem is appointed to defend, and the distinction between them in legal effect is substantial and not merely formal. Johnston County v. Ellis, 226 N. C. 268, 38 S. E. (2d) 31.

Thus, while a next friend, in the prosecution of some positive relief for an infant suitor, may be called upon to defend against incidental or opposing rights, such as offsets, counterclaims, or other defenses or demands connected with the original claim, a next friend of minor heirs at law seeking to set aside a tax foreclosure is not required to defend a mortgage foreclosure asserted by an intervener in the action, and his representation of the minors in such unrelated and independent cause does not legally exist. His office as next friend becomes functus officio. Id.

As to minor veterans, see § 165-16.

Where Minors Not Represented by Guardian Ad Litem in Suit to Enforce Tax Lien.—In a suit to enforce a tax lien by foreclosure where the affidavit, orders and notices appear sufficient in form to constitute service by publication of notice of summons in accordance with prescribed procedure upon all persons named therein, including heirs at law, both adult and minors, under § 1-98, yet the minors, if any, not having been represented by a guardian ad litem would not be bound by the judgment of confirmation rendered in the action. McIver Park, Inc. v. Brinn, 223 N. C. 502, 512, 27 S. E. (2d) 548.

Exception that judgment was rendered before sufficient time had elapsed after notice as prescribed by this section was held not borne out by the record. Garner v. Phillips, 229 N. C. 160, 47 S. E. (2d) 845.

Cited in Johnston County v. Ellis, 226 N. C. 268, 38 S. E. (2d) 31.

Where, in an action for divorce against a person who has been declared non compos mentis, process has been duly served in accordance with § 1-97 (3). Guardian ad litem under this section must answer, and demurrer on the ground that marital relation is so personal only the spouse may elect to prosecute or defend the action and that defendant's inability to appear and answer in person defeats the jurisdiction of the court, is untenable. Smith v. Smith, 226 N. C. 544, 39 S. E. (2d) 458.

Cited in McIver Park, Inc. v. Brinn, 223 N. C. 502, 27 S. E. (2d) 548; Johnston County v. Ellis, 226 N. C. 268, 38 S. E. (2d) 31.

Scope of Section.—This section contemplates that all persons necessary to a complete determination of the controversy, the matter in litigation, and affected by the same in some way, as between the original parties to the action, may, in some instances, and must in others, be made parties plaintiff or defendant. But it does not imply that any person who may have cause of action against the plaintiff alone, or cause of action against the defendant alone, unaffected by the cause of action as between the plaintiff and defendant, may or must be made a party. It does not contemplate the determination of two separate and distinct causes of action, as between the plaintiff and a third party, or the defendant and a third party, in the same action. It is only when, as between the original parties litigant, other parties are material or interested, that it is proper to make them parties. Moore v. Massengill, 227 N. C. 244, 246, 41 S. E. (2d) 655, citing McDonald v. Morris, 89 N. C. 99.

This section does not authorize the joinder of a party claiming under an independent cause of action not essential to a full and complete determination of the original cause of action. Moore v. Massengill, 227 N. C. 244, 245, 41 S. E. (2d) 655.

Requisite Interest of New Party.—To entitle one to the benefits of this section allowing new parties to be brought in, such additional parties must have a legal interest in the subject matter of the litigation; and the interest of a new party must be of such direct and immediate character that he will either gain or lose by the direct operation and effect of the judgment. Griffin & Vose v. Non-Metallic Minerals Corp., 225 N. C. 434, 35 S. E. (2d) 247.

Discretion of the Court.—As a general rule the trial court has the discretionary power to make new parties, especially when necessary in order that there may be a full and final determination and adjudication of all matters involved in the controversy. Service Fire Ins. Co. v. Horton Motor Lines, 225 N. C. 588, 35 S. E. (2d) 879.

The fact that plaintiff alone, without joinder of the owner, could not maintain the action does not limit the discretionary power of the judge. Id.

Where one partner is sued individually for a tort committed by him in the course of the partnership business, the court even after judgment may direct that the other partner be made a party. Dwiggins v. Parkway Bus Co., 230 N. C. 234, 52 S. E. (2d) 892.

In action by purchaser against real estate brokers to recover earnest money paid, wherein the seller was a necessary party to a complete determination of the controversy, denial of motion for his joinder as additional party defendant was held reversible error. Lampros v. Chipley, 228 N. C. 236, 45 S. E. (2d) 126.

Death, Resignation or Removal of Representative.—Once personal representative of estate is duly appointed, if such representative dies, resigns or is removed, the law contemplates a continuity of succession until estate has been fully administered, and upon death, resignation or removal of representative, who has properly brought action for wrongful death, action does not abate. Harrison v. Carter, 226 N. C. 36, 40, 36 S. E. (2d) 700, 164 A. L. R. 697.

§ 1-75. Procedure on death of party.—When a party to an action in the superior court dies pending the action, his death may be suggested before the clerk of the court where the action is pending, during vacation. It is then the duty of the clerk to issue a summons to the party who succeeds to the rights or liabilities of a deceased defendant, commanding him to appear before him within thirty days after the service of the summons, and answer the complaint, and the issue joined by the filing of the answer stands for trial at the succeeding term of the superior court. It is the duty of the clerk to issue a notice to the party succeeding to the rights of a deceased party who will be necessary to the prosecution of the action to final judgment to appear and become party plaintiff; and if the party made plaintiff files an amended complaint, the defendant has thirty days after notice of same in which to file an answer thereto, and the issue thus made up stands for trial at the succeeding term. For good cause shown, the clerk may extend the time of filing such answer to a day certain, but the clerk shall not extend such time more than once, nor for a period of time exceeding twenty days, except with the consent of the parties. (Rev., ss. 416, 417, 418; 1887, c. 389; 1949, c. 46; C. S. 462.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment substituted in the second sentence the words "within thirty days after the service of the summons" for the words "on a day named in the summons, which must be at least twenty days after its service." It also substituted "thirty days" for "twenty days" in the third sentence and added the last sentence. For brief comment on 1949 amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 438.

Art. 7. Venue.

I. IN GENERAL.

Applied in Holden v. Totten, 224 N. C. 547, 31 S. E. (2d) 635.

V. RECOVERY OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Recovery as Sole Object.—

If an action be one in which the recovery of personal property is not the sole or chief relief demanded, it is not removable to the county in which the personal property is located; but, if the recovery of specific personal property is the principal relief sought, the action is removable to the county where the property is situated. House Chevrolet Co. v. Cahoon, 223 N. C. 375, 26 S. E. (2d) 864.

Section Does Not Apply to Actions for Monetary Recovery.—This section applies only to action for the recovery of specific tangible articles of personal property and not to actions for monetary recovery. Flythe v. Wilson, 227 N. C. 230, 41 S. E. (2d) 751.

Applicable to All Actions against Administrators.—

This section applies to all actions against executors and administrators in their official capacity, whether upon their bonds or not. Godfrey v. Tidewater Power Co., 224 N. C. 657, 32 S. E. (2d) 27.

Domesticated foreign corporations are residents of the state for purposes of venue of the state courts. Hill v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 229 N. C. 728, 51 S. E. (2d) 183.

A foreign corporation domesticated under § 55-118 may sue and be sued under the rules and regulations which apply to domestic corporations, and is entitled to have an action against it, instituted by a nonresident, removed to the county of its main place of business in this state. In such case § 1-80 does not apply. Id.

Construed with Other Provisions for Venue.—

Section 1-77 relates to particular cases, and this section is intended to cover all cases for which provision is not otherwise made. Hence, in the event of conflict, the former section expressing a particular intention will be taken as an exception to the general provision. Godfrey v. Tidewater Power Co., 224 N. C. 657, 659, 32 S. E. (2d) 27.

Fiduciaries.—In determining the residence of fiduciaries for the purpose of venue or citizenship, the personal residence of the fiduciary controls, in the absence of statute. This is true as to receivers, trustees, executors and administrators, including statutory receivers of banks. Hartford Acci., etc., Co. v. Hood, 225 N. C. 361, 34 S. E. (2d) 204.

§ 1-83. Change of venue.—If the county designated for that purpose in the summons and complaint is not the proper one, the action may, however, be tried therein, unless the defendant, before the time of answering expires, demands in writing that the trial be conducted in the proper county, and the place of trial is thereupon changed by consent of parties, or by order of the court.

The court may change the place of trial in the following cases:

1. When the county designated for that purpose is not the proper one.

2. When the convenience of witnesses and the ends of justice would be promoted by the change.

3. When the judge has, at any time, been interested as party or counsel.

4. When motion is made by the plaintiff and the action is for divorce and the defendant has not been personally served with summons. (Rev., s. 425; Code, s. 195; C. C. P., s. 69; R. C., c. 31, ss. 115, 118; 1870-1, c. 20; 1945, c. 141; C. S. 470.)

§ 1-87.1. Dismissal of action arising out of state when parties are nonresidents.—For the convenience of parties and witnesses and in the interest of justice, any judge of any court in this state may dismiss without prejudice any civil action over which such court has jurisdiction if the court shall find that:

(1) The cause of action arose out of the state, and

(2) The defendant is a nonresident of this state, and

(3) The plaintiff is a nonresident of this state or the deceased person in behalf of whose estate the action has been instituted was at the time of his death a nonresident of this state. (1949, c. 676.)

Editor's Note.—For brief comment on this section, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 438.

Art. 8. Summons.

Delivery to Sheriff Fixes Beginning of Action.—In a civil action, the delivery of summons and copy of complaint to the sheriff for service fixes the beginning of the action as of that date. Raleigh v. Mechanics and Farmers Bank, 223 N. C. 286, 26 S. E. (2d) 573.

Whenever a summons is issued for service under the provisions of § 1-104 it may be served by the sheriff or other process officer of the county and state where the defendant resides at any time within thirty (30) days after the date of its issue. (Rev., ss. 430, 431; Code, ss. 200, 203, 213; C. C. P., s. 74; 1876-7, cc. 85, 241; 1919, c. 304, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 96, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 92, s. 1; 1927, c. 66, s. 1; 1927, c. 132; 1929, c. 237, s. 1; 1935, c. 343; 1939, c. 15; 1945, c. 664; C. S. 476.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment added the above sentence at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Summons Loses Vitality if Not Served within Prescribed Time.—In order to bring a defendant into court and hold him bound by its decree, in the absence of waiver or voluntary appearance, a summons must be issued by the clerk and served upon him by the officer within ten days after date of issue, and if not served within that time the summons must be returned by the officer to the clerk with proper notation. Then, if plaintiff wishes to keep his case alive, he must have an alias summons issued. In the event of failure of service within the time prescribed, the original summons loses its vitality. It becomes functus officio. There is no authority in the statute for the service of that summons on defendant after the date therein fixed for its return, and if plaintiff desires the original action continued, he must cause alias summons to be issued and served. Green v. Chrismon, 223 N. C. 723, 726, 28 S. E. (2d) 215.

Cited in Smith v. Smith, 226 N. C. 544, 39 S. E. (2d) 458.

§ 1-95. Alias and pluries.—When the defendant in a civil action or special proceeding is not served with summons within ten days, the plaintiff may sue out an alias or pluries summons, returnable in the same manner as original process. An alias or pluries summons may be sued out at any time within ninety (90) days after the date of issue of the next preceding summons in the chain of summonses. Provided, however, that in case of tax suits and special assessment foreclosure suits brought under the provisions of § 105-391 and § 105-414, as amended, an alias or pluries summons may be sued out at any time within two years after the issuance of the original summons, whether any intervening alias or pluries summons has heretofore been issued or not, and after the issuance of such alias or pluries summons, the chain of summonses may be kept up as in any other action. (Rev., s. 437; Code, s. 205; R. C., c. 31, s. 52; 1777, c. 115, ss. 23, 71; 1929, c. 237, s. 2; 1931, c. 264; 1945, c. 163; C. S. 480.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment made the proviso applicable to special assessment foreclosure suits and inserted the reference to § 105-414.

Alias Summons Must Be Sued Out within Ninety Days.—

An alias or pluries summons must be served within ninety days after the date of issue of the next preceding summons in the chain of summonses, if the plaintiff wishes to avoid a discontinuance. The word "may" in this statute means "must." Green v. Chrismon, 223 N. C. 723, 28 S. E. (2d) 215.

When Discontinuance Occurs.—

In order to bring a defendant into court and hold him bound by its decree, in the absence of waiver or voluntary appearance, a summons must be issued by the clerk and served upon him by the officer within ten days after date of issue; and if not served within that time, the summons must be returned, with proper notation, and alias or pluries summons issued and served in accordance with the statute, otherwise the original summons loses its vitality and becomes functus officio and void. Green v. Chrismon, 223 N. C. 723, 28 S. E. (2d) 215.

5. Every nonresident individual who is engaged in business in this state and who conducts such business through an agent, employee, trustee, or other representative in this state, or who is a member of a partnership, firm, or unincorporated organization or association, or beneficiary or shareholder in a business trust doing business in this state, shall be subject to process in any action or proceeding in any court of competent jurisdiction in this state arising out of or connected with such business in this state, and such process may be served upon such agent, employee, trustee, or other representative or upon any person in this state receiving or collecting money with respect to such business, or upon any member of such partnership, firm, organization or association residing in this state or upon any person residing in this state who is authorized to act or contract for or collect or receive money on behalf of such partnership, firm, organization, association, or business trust with respect to its business in this state. Within five days after such service the plaintiff or petitioner or his attorney shall send by registered mail to said nonresident individual at his last address, if known, a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint or petition with a statement calling attention to the provisions hereof and of the expiration of the time to answer or demur. Such service shall bind such individual as fully and effectually as if it had been made upon him personally. But no final decree shall be entered unless the presiding judge at the trial shall find as a fact that the plaintiff mailed by registered mail with the return receipt request to the last known address of the defendant a copy of the summons and complaint in the action. The return postal receipt shall be evidence of the mailing of said summons and complaint as herein provided for. (1945, c. 123.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment added the last two sentences of subsection 5. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

For comment on the 1943 amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 319.

II. SERVICE ON CORPORATIONS.

A. Corporations Generally.

Subsection 1 of this section was intended to facilitate service on a corporation, and to resolve any doubt as to who might be validly served. Townsend v. Carolina Coach Co., 229 N. C. 523, 50 S. E. (2d) 567.

And a person who receives money for a corporation need not be its employee or agent in order for service of process on such person to be effective. Townsend v. Carolina Coach Co., 229 N. C. 523, 50 S. E. (2d) 567.

Summons against defendant bus company was served on a bus station employee who sold tickets for defendant as well as for others, and who was employed by third parties operating the bus station. Money collected for the tickets was received by the ticket seller as the employee of the operators and turned over by them to the defendant. It was held that the service of the summons on the ticket seller was sufficient. Id.

B. Foreign Corporations.

In action by domestic corporation against defendant foreign corporation, which had removed all property from State except intrastate franchise, service of process upon one time lessee of franchise was invalid, and mere fact that lessee was process agent of his own corporation did not make him process agent of defendant nor was he a "local" agent within the meaning of this section. Central Motor Lines v. Brooks Transp. Co., 225 N. C. 733, 36 S. E. (2d) 271, 162 A. L. R. 1419.

IV. SERVICE ON INSANE PERSONS.

Process in Divorce Action.—This section provides the method of service of process on insane persons generally in all classes of actions against them, and process in an action for divorce may be served under its provisions. Smith v. Smith, 226 N. C. 544, 39 S. E. (2d) 458.

§ 1-98. Service by publication.—Where the person on whom the service of the summons is to be made cannot, after due diligence, be found in the state, and that fact appears by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court, or a judge thereof and it in like manner appears that a cause of action exists against the defendant in respect to whom service is to be made, or that he is a proper party to an adoption proceeding instituted in this state, or that he is a proper party to an action relating to real property in this state, such court or judge may grant an order that the service be made by publication of a notice in either of the following cases:

9. Where the action or proceeding is for the adoption of a minor child or children, residents of the state, whose parent or parents are necessary parties to the action or proceeding, and the said parent or parents are nonresidents of the state or cannot, after due and diligent search, be found within the state.

10. Where the action is for annulment of marriage. (Rev., s. 442; Code, ss. 218, 221; 1885, c. 380; 1889, cc. 108, 263; 1895, c. 334; 1947, c. 838; 1949, c. 85; C. S. 484.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—

The 1947 amendment inserted in the preliminary paragraph the words "or that he is a proper party to an adoption proceeding instituted in this state." It also added subsection 9. The 1949 amendment added subsection 10. As subsections 1 through 8 were not affected by the amendments they are not set out.

For brief comments on the 1947 and 1949 amendments, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 392, 27 N. C. Law Rev. 452.

For an article criticising certain aspects of the procedural divorce law and recommending changes thereof, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 192.

The affidavit on which the order of service by publication is made is jurisdictional, and it is always best to use the form suggested in the statute. The omission from the affidavit of those averments on which service of notice by publication is substituted for personal service would be fatal to the proceeding. But the statement in the affidavit that the applicant has a "good" cause of action, of a certain character, is not no classed. Neither this section nor § 1-99 requires the applicant to swear to the merits of his cause of action—only to say that he has one and the purpose thereof. Simmons v. Simmons, 228 N. C. 233, 45 S. E. (2d) 124.

Same—Necessity for Averment of Due Diligence.—

The jurisdiction of the court, where substituted service is sought, depends upon the factual representations made to it under statutory procedure. Since this method of giving notice is out of the ordinary, a strict compliance with this section has always been deemed to be necessary. Averment as to due diligence is jurisdictional and its absence is a fatal defect. Rodriguez v. Rodriguez, 224 N. C. 275, 29 S. E. (2d) 901.

An averment in an affidavit that "defendant . . . after diligent inquiry cannot be found in the state of North Carolina" is in substantial compliance with this section and supports an order for service by publication. Simmons v. Simmons, 228 N. C. 233, 45 S. E. (2d) 124.

Same—Amendment.—

While an affidavit, upon which substituted service is based, may be amended, such amendment will not validate a prior judgment rendered upon the defective service, which judgment is void for want of jurisdiction. Rodriguez v. Rodriguez, 224 N. C. 275, 29 S. E. (2d) 901.

Necessity That Minors Be Represented by Guardian.—In a suit to enforce a tax lien by foreclosure, where the affidavit, orders and notices appear sufficient in form to constitute service by publication upon all persons named therein, both adult and minors, their heirs and assigns, known and unknown, under this section, yet, minors, if any, must be represented by guardian, or guardian ad litem, otherwise such minors are not bound by the judgments in the action. McIver Park, Inc. v. Brinn, 223 N. C. 502, 27 S. E. (2d) 548.

An action for specific performance under this section is in the nature of an action in rem, and a contract for the conveyance of real property may be enforced against a nonresident. In such cases the court has the power to determine who is entitled to the property and to vest title by decree in the party entitled to the same. Voehringer v. Pollock, 224 N. C. 409, 412, 30 S. E. (2d) 374.

III. SERVICE BY PUBLICATION ON NONRESIDENT WITH PROPERTY WITHIN STATE.

In General.—

To make valid substituted service under this section, the nonresident defendant not only must have property in the state, but the subject of the suit must be within the jurisdiction, or under the control of the court by attachment, restraining order, or otherwise. Southern Mills v. Armstrong, 223 N. C. 495, 27 S. E. (2d) 281, 148 A. L. R. 1248.

The cost of publishing a summons in a newspaper shall be in accordance with the provisions of § 1-596 of the General Statutes of North Carolina. (Rev., s. 443; Code, s. 219; 1903, c. 134; C. C. P., c. 84; 1876-7, c. 241, s. 3; 1949, c. 205, s. 1; C. S. 485.)

Local Modification.—Nash: 1949, c. 205, s. 2.

Editor's Note.—For an article criticising certain aspects of the procedural divorce law, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 192.

The 1949 amendment rewrote the second sentence. As the first sentence was not changed it is not set out.

The statutory provisions as to time and method of giving notice by publication are mandatory. And service of process by publication upon an individual nonresident is valid only when the provisions of the statutes authorizing constructive service have been strictly complied with. Southern Mills v. Armstrong, 223 N. C. 495, 27 S. E. (2d) 281, 148 A. L. R. 1248. The primary purpose of the requirements as to publication is to give notice to the defendant, and publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the county is permitted as the most likely means available for that purpose. Hence, the minimum time prescribed is essential for establishing constructive notice. Publication for a period, or in a manner, less than that prescribed would be insufficient in law to bring the defendant constructively into court or justify a judgment based thereon. Scott & Co. v. Jones, 230 N. C. 74, 52 S. E. (2d) 219.

The expression "not less than once a week for four successive weeks" contemplates a publication once each week for four consecutive weeks, and this requires that the publications be spaced substantially at intervals of 7 days for four successive weeks. The four publications need not occupy the full period of 28 days and may be deemed completed with less than that number of days intervening between first and last publication when considered in connection with the statutory provision (§ 1-100) that service shall be deemed complete 7 days after last publication. Thus, under the statutes now in effect, a publication on the 1st, 8th, 15th and 22nd would be sufficient, though there be less than 28 days between the first and last publication. Scott & Co. v. Jones, 230 N. C. 74, 52 S. E. (2d) 219.

A publication on Saturday of one week and on Monday of each of the following three weeks, is insufficient to meet the requirements of the statute. Id.

The order for publication need not state that the newspaper is the one most likely to give notice to the person to be served. Smith v. Smith, 226 N. C. 506, 39 S. E. (2d) 391, 394.

Presumption in Favor of Sufficient Publication.—An order for publication of notice of summons being made by a court of record there is a presumption in favor of the rightfulness of its decrees, and it will be presumed that the statutory findings and determination had been made without specific adjudication in the order to that effect. Smith v. Smith, 226 N. C. 506, 39 S. E. (2d) 391, 394.

This section does not require applicant to swear to the merits of his cause of action—only to say that he has one and the purpose thereof. Simmons v. Simmons, 228 N. C. 233, 45 S. E. (2d) 124.

A judgment rendered upon an insufficient publication of notice of summons and attachment is void and does not constitute a lien upon the lands of the judgment debtor. Scott & Co. v. Jones, 230 N. C. 74, 52 S. E. (2d) 219.

Cited in In re Estate of Smith, 226 N. C. 169, 37 S. E. (2d) 127.

§ 1-100. When service by publication complete; time for pleading.—In the cases in which service by publication is allowed, the summons is deemed served at the expiration of seven days from the date of the last publication, and the party so served is then in court. Such party shall have twenty days thereafter in civil actions and ten days in special proceedings in which to answer or demur. (Rev., s. 444; Code, s. 227; C. C. P., s. 88; 1939, c. 49, s. 1; 1945, c. 158; C. S. 487.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment substituted the words "seven days from the date of the last publication" for the words "the time prescribed by the order of publication."

As to effect of amendment, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 331.

Validation of Certain Judgments.—For act validating certain judgments, orders, etc., in actions in which summons was served by publication without complying with § 1-100, as amended in 1945, see Session Laws 1947, c. 666. See also 25 N. C. Law Rev. 394.

Effect of General Appearance.—

A defendant who makes a general appearance thereby waives irregularities in the service of summons and subjects himself to the jurisdiction of the court. The same result follows when defendant obtains time within which to answer. Wilson v. Thaggard, 225 N. C. 348, 34 S. E. (2d) 140.

Where the controverted matter of custody of his two children was originally presented to the juvenile court by appellant, it was held that he may not be heard to complain of irregularity, since the proceeding was instituted at his instance, and he was personally present in court for the hearing which he had invoked. In re Prevatt, 223 N. C. 833, 836, 28 S. E. (2d) 564.

§ 1-104. Personal service on nonresident.—When the place of residence of a person out of the state is known and the same is made to appear by affidavit or in a verified complaint, in lieu of publication in a newspaper it is sufficient to mail a copy of the summons, notice or other process, accompanied by a statement as to the nature of the action or proceeding, to the sheriff or other process officer of the county and state where the defendant resides, who shall serve same according to its tenor. The process officer who serves the paper shall, in making his return, use a form of certificate substantially as follows:

County of .....

Affidavit of Service of Summons;

Clerk's Certificate

I, ... [Sheriff or other process officer] of the county [or city] of ....., State of ....., being duly sworn, do certify that on the .... day of ....., 19.., I served the summons and accompanying statement hereto attached by delivering a copy of the same to ....., the defendant(s) therein named.

..... [Sheriff or other process officer]

I, ..., Clerk of the ..... Court of the County [or City] of ....., State of ....., do certify that said court is a court of record having the seal hereto attached; that ..... is well known to me as ..... [Sheriff or other process officer] of said county [or city] of ....., and that he has full power and authority to serve any and all legal processes issuing from courts of this state; that said ..... personally appeared before me this day and made and subscribed the above affidavit relative to service of summons on .....

This the .... day of ....., 19..

Clerk of the ..... Court of the County [or City] of ....., State of .....

Provided, that in all cases where service of process has been made upon a nonresident based upon a verified complaint in conformity with the amendment set forth in this section, all such service of process is hereby declared to be lawful, legal and valid, and all orders, judgments and decrees based thereon are declared to be legal and valid and binding upon all of the parties thereto, and all proceedings based upon the same are hereby validated, except that this proviso shall not apply to pending litigation. Rev., s. 448; 1891, c. 120; 1943, c. 543; 1945, c. 139; C. S. 491.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment inserted in line four the words "or in a verified complaint," and added the proviso at the end of the section. The amendment mentioned in the proviso refers to the insertion of the quoted words.

What Sheriff's Return Must Show.—When service of process on a nonresident, through the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, as provided in this section, is sought, it is essential that the sheriff's return show that such service was made as specifically required, and that a copy of the process be sent defendant by registered mail and return receipt therefor and plaintiff's affidavit of compliance be attached to summons and filed. Propst v. Hughes Trucking Co., 223 N. C. 490, 27 S. E. (2d) 152.

Applied in MacClure v. Accident, etc., Ins. Co., 229 N. C. 305, 49 S. E. (2d) 742.

Cited in Propst v. Hughes Trucking Co., 223 N. C. 490, 27 S. E. (2d) 152.

§ 1-107.1. Service upon motor vehicle dealers not found within the state.—(a) The application for and obtaining of a license from the commissioner of revenue to engage in any business activity under the provisions of subsection (4) of § 105-89, relating to motor vehicle dealers, shall be deemed equivalent to the appointment by such licensee of the commissioner of revenue, or his successor in office, to be his true and lawful attorney upon whom may be served all summonses or other lawful process in any action or proceeding against such licensee resulting from any claim arising out of any business carried on or conducted pursuant to or authorized by said license, and said application for and obtaining of said license shall be a signification of his agreement that any such process against him shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served on him personally.

(b) Service of such process shall be made by leaving a copy thereof, with a fee of one dollar ($1.00), in the hands of said commissioner of revenue, or in his office, and such service shall be sufficient service upon the said licensee provided that notice of such service and a copy of the process are forthwith sent by registered mail by the plaintiff or commissioner of revenue to the defendant and the defendant's return receipt and the plaintiff's affidavit of compliance herewith are appended to the summons or other process and filed with said summons, complaint and other papers in the cause. The court in which the action is pending shall order such continuance as may be necessary to afford the defendant reasonable opportunity to defend the action.

(c) The commissioner of revenue shall keep a record of all such processes, which shall show the day and hour of service upon him. When the registry return receipt shall be returned to the commissioner of revenue, he shall deliver it to the plaintiff on request and keep a record showing the date of its receipt by him and its delivery to the plaintiff.

(d) Service of process may not be made by the method provided in this section unless the person on whom the service is to be made cannot, after due diligence, be found in this state, and that fact is established by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court or a judge thereof. (1947, c. 817, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For a brief discussion of this section, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 392.

§ 1-108. Defense after judgment on substituted service.—The defendant against whom publication is ordered, or who is served under the provisions of §§ 1-104 through 1-107.1, or his representatives, on application and sufficient cause shown at any time before judgment, must be allowed to defend the action; and, except in an action for divorce or annulment or in an action for the foreclosure of county or municipal taxes, the defendant against whom publication is ordered, or his representatives, may in like manner, upon good cause shown, be allowed to defend after judgment, or at any time within one year after notice thereof, and within five years after its rendition, on such terms as are just; and if the defense is successful and the judgment or any part thereof has been collected or otherwise enforced, such restitution may be compelled as the court directs.

(1947, c. 817, s. 2; 1949, c. 256.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1947 amendment substituted "1-107.1" for "1-107" in line three of the first sentence. And the 1949 amendment inserted the words "or annulment" in lines six and seven. As the other sentences were not affected by the amendments they are not set out.

For a brief comment on the 1949 amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 452.

Judgments by Default.—

A nonresident served by publication is entitled to an order setting aside a judgment by default of inquiry, upon good cause shown, within one year after rendition of the judgment or notice thereof, and such notice referred to in this section means actual notice, and therefore evidence disclosing that defendant did not have actual notice of the pendency of the action is sufficient to support the trial court's finding that he had no notice thereof. Russell v. Edney, 227 N. C. 203, 41 S. E. (2d) 585.

Art. 9. Prosecution Bonds.

3. File with him a written authority from a judge or clerk of a superior court, authorizing the plaintiff to sue as a pauper: Provided, however, that the requirements of this section shall not apply to counties, cities and towns; provided, further, that counties, cities and towns may institute civil actions and special proceedings without being required to give a prosecution bond or make deposit in lieu of bond. (Rev., s. 450; Code, s. 209; R. C., c. 31, s. 40; C. C. P., s. 71; 1935, c. 398; 1949, c. 53; C. S. 493.)

Editor's Note. — The 1949 amendment inserted the word "counties" in lines five and six of subsection 3. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Formal Order Fixing Amount of Bond Not Required.—Neither formal order fixing the amount of the defense bond required of defendant in actions for the recovery of real property, nor notice to plaintiff, is required. Privette v. Allen, 227 N. C. 164, 41 S. E. (2d) 364.

An action to establish a parol trust, with prayer that defendant be directed to execute deed to plaintiff, is not an action for recovery or possession of real property within the meaning of this section and plaintiff is not entitled to have the answer stricken and judgment by default final rendered for failure of defendant to file bond. Hodges v. Hodges, 227 N. C. 334, 335, 42 S. E. (2d) 82.

Substantial Compliance with Section.—Where, in an action in ejectment, defendant, after consultation with the clerk, tenders justified bond in the minimum amount required by this section, and the clerk accepts the bond and makes notation thereof on the records, there is a substantial compliance with the statute and plaintiff's remedy if he deems the bond insufficient is by motion in the cause. Privette v. Allen, 227 N. C. 164, 41 S. E. (2d) 364.

Waiver.—The requirement that the defendant must "execute and file" a defense bond, or in lieu thereof a certificate and affidavit as provided by § 1-112, may be waived unless seasonably insisted upon by the plaintiff. Calaway v. Harris, 229 N. C. 117, 47 S. E. (2d) 796.

Art. 11. Lis Pendens.

§ 1-116. Filing of notice of suit.—In actions affecting the title to real property, the plaintiff, at the time of issuing the summons, or at any time after the time of filing the complaint, or when at any time after a warrant of attachment is issued, or a defendant when he sets up an affirmative cause of action in his answer and demands substantive relief, or at any time after the time of filing his answer, if it is intended to affect real estate, may file with the clerk of each county in which the property is situated a notice of the pendency of the action, containing the names of the parties, the object of the action, and the description of the property in that county affected thereby. (Rev., s. 460; Code, s. 229; C. C. P., s. 90; 1917, c. 106; 1949, c. 260; C. S. 500.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section and inserted the words "at the time of issuing the summons" in lines two and three. See 27 N. C. Law Rev. 475.

This section is designed to supplement the registration law and to provide a simple and readily available means of ascertaining the existence of adverse claims to land not otherwise disclosed by the registry. Notice under the act is required to give constructive notice to prospective purchasers when the claim is in derogation of the record. Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 5, 33 S. E. (2d) 129.

The effect of lis pendens and the effect of registration are in their nature the same thing. They are only different examples of the operation of the rule of constructive notice. They are each record notices upon the absence of which a prospective innocent purchaser may rely. Id.

The filing of notice under this section is essential to give constructive notice to those who are not directly interested in the proceedings. Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 5, 33 S. E. (2d) 129.

Lis pendens notice under this section is not exclusive. Nor is it designed to protect intermeddlers. Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 6, 33 S. E. (2d) 129.

"Action" as used in this section embraces all judicial proceedings affecting the title to real property or in which title to land is at issue. Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 5, 33 S. E. (2d) 129.

Applies to Action in Another County.—

The pending action does not constitute notice as to land in another county until and unless notice thereof is filed in the county in which the land is located. Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 4, 33 S. E. (2d) 129.

§ 1-116.1. Extending time to file complaint when notice of suit already filed; issuance of notice with summons; when notice inoperative or cancelled.— In all actions as defined in § 1-116 in which notice of pendency of the action is filed prior to the filing of the complaint, the plaintiff shall first obtain from the clerk a written order extending the date for filing the complaint as is provided in § 1-121 of the General Statutes of North Carolina. A copy of the aforesaid order of the clerk and a copy of the notice of the pendency of the action shall be served on the defendant, or defendants, at the time of the service of summons. Provided, that in all such cases if the complaint is not filed within the time fixed by the order or orders of the clerk, entered in conformity with the provisions of § 1-121 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, the notice of lis pendens shall become inoperative and of no effect. Provided further, that if the complaint is not filed within the time fixed by the order or orders of the clerk, the clerk may on his own motion and shall on the ex parte application of any interested party cancel such notice of lis pendens by appropriate marginal entry on the original record, which entry shall recite the failure of the plaintiff to file his complaint within the time allowed. Such applications for cancellation, when made in a county other than that in which the action was instituted, shall include a certificate over the hand and seal of the clerk of the county in which the action was instituted that the plaintiff did not file his complaint within the time allowed. The fees of the clerk may be recovered against the plaintiff and his surety. (1949, c. 260.)

§ 1-120.1. Article applicable to suits in federal courts.— The provisions of this article shall apply to suits affecting the title to real property in the federal courts. (1945, c. 857.)

Editor's Note.—As to lis pendens in federal courts, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 330.

It would seem that the Advisory Committee notes under Rule 64 of Civil Procedure for the District Courts of the United States (1938 Edition, p. 139) support the validity of this statute.

Art. 12. Complaint.

When the complaint is not filed at the time of the issuance of the summons the clerk shall, when the complaint is filed, make an order directing the sheriff to serve a copy of such complaint on each of the defendants by delivery of a copy thereof to each of them, and the sheriff shall within ten days make such service and make a written return, on the paper containing the order issued to him, showing the date of service and the date of return, or, if for any reason he is unable to make service, he shall show in his return the reason therefor. If the sheriff's return shows that service of copy of the complaint as provided above has not been made on a defendant because such defendant is not to be found in the county where the summons was originally served on him, and the plaintiff causes affidavit to be made and filed showing that such defendant cannot, after due diligence, be found in the state, it shall not be necessary to make, or attempt to make, service thereof on such defendant in any other manner. (Rev., ss. 465, 466; Code, ss. 206, 232, 238; C. C. P., s. 92; 1868-9, c. 76, s. 3; 1870-1, c. 42, s. 3; 1919, c. 304, s. 2; 1927, c. 66, s. 3; 1949, c. 1113, s. 1; C. S. 505.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote the former last three sentences of this section to appear as the two sentences above. As the first three sentences were not changed by the amendment they are not set out.

For comment on the 1949 amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 432.

Duty to Plead though Copy of Complaint Not Delivered.—A defendant, having made a general appearance, by motion to set aside a default judgment, which was allowed and time granted defendant in which to plead, it is his duty to answer or demur, even though a copy of the complaint filed has not been delivered to him as required by this section, and, upon his failure to do either, the court has authority to enter judgment by default and inquiry, without notice. Wilson v. Thaggard, 225 N. C. 348, 34 S. E. (2d) 140.

Amendment of Order Extending Time for Filing Complaint.—The trial court below permitted plaintiffs to amend order extending time to file complaint, served together with the summons, to show the nature and purpose of the suit as required by this section, and denied a motion to dismiss for want of proper service of process. The case was affirmed by an equally divided court. Whitehurst v. Anderson, 228 N. C. 787, 44 S. E. (2d) 358.

III. STATEMENT OF FACTS CONSTITUTING THE CAUSE OF ACTION.

Material and Essential Rather than Collateral or Evidential Facts Must Be Stated.—The meaning of this section is that the complaint shall contain the material, essential, and ultimate facts upon which the right of action is based, and not collateral or evidential facts, which are only to be used to prove and establish the ultimate facts. Chason v. Marley, 223 N. C. 738, 28 S. E. (2d) 223.

The function of the complaint is to state the ultimate and decisive facts which constitute the cause of action but not the evidence necessary to prove such issuable facts. Long v. Love, 230 N. C. 535, 53 S. E. (2d) 661.

Plaintiff need not set forth the full contents of the contract which is the subject matter of his action, nor incorporate the same in the complaint by reference to a copy thereof attached as an exhibit. He must allege in a plain and concise manner the material, ultimate facts which constitute his cause of action. The production of evidence to support the allegations thus made may and should await the trial. Wilmington v. Schutt, 228 N. C. 285, 45 S. E. (2d) 364.

Facts Supporting Provisional Remedy.—In an action for assault and battery in which the provisional remedy of arrest and bail is invoked, it is appropriate for plaintiff to allege in the complaint the facts necessary to support the provisional remedy of arrest and bail, notwithstanding that such facts were also set out in the affidavit filed as a basis for the provisional remedy. In such case a motion to strike allegations that the injury was willful, wanton or malicious, is properly denied. Long v. Love, 230 N. C. 535, 53 S. E. (2d) 661.

Motion to Strike Out Redundant Matter, etc.—

Where, in an action attacking the administratrix and guardian in the administration of an estate on the ground of fraud, recitals and denunciations of fraud in matters not necessary to a statement of any cause of action set forth in the pleading should be stricken as a matter of right upon motion made in apt time. Privette v. Morgan, 227 N. C. 264, 41 S. E. (2d) 845.

IV. DEMAND FOR RELIEF.

This section contemplates that the complaint should set forth a demand for relief to which the plaintiff supposes himself entitled. Griggs v. Stoker Service Co., 229 N. C. 572, 50 S. E. (2d) 914.

But Relief Is Granted in Absence of Prayer Therefor.—Notwithstanding this section, the decisions have consistently followed the rule that under the code of civil procedure the relief to be granted in an action does not depend upon that asked for in the complaint, but upon whether the matters alleged and proved entitle the complaining party to the relief granted, and this is so in the absence of any prayer for relief. Griggs v. Stoker Service Co., 229 N. C. 572, 50 S. E. (2d) 914.

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of this section in connection with the right to join in one action that right of an injured person to sue for personal injury and the right of the personal representative to sue conferred by the wrongful death statute, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 84.

For an article recommending this section be changed to conform to corresponding provision in Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 245.

In accord with original. See Ezzell v. Merritt, 224 N. C. 602, 31 S. E. (2d) 751.

The purpose of this section is to permit the consolidation of causes of action when the facts as to all may be stated as a connected whole, are so restricted in scope that they may be examined in relation to each other, and are directed to the same subject matter which constitutes one general right. Pressley v. Great Atlantic, etc., Tea Co., 226 N. C. 518, 39 S. E. (2d) 382, 384.

Same — Section Relating to Counterclaim. — The purpose and intent of subsection 1 of this section and subsection 1 of § 1-137, relating to causes which may be pleaded as counterclaims, are substantially the same, i. e., to permit the trial in one action of all causes of action arising out of one contract or transaction connected with the same subject of action, and therefore decisions on one of the statutes is authority on the other. Hancammon v. Carr, 229 N. C. 52, 47 S. E. (2d) 614.

This section should be liberally construed to the end that justiciable controversies may be expeditiously adjusted by judicial decree at a minimum of cost to the litigants and the public. Pressley v. Great Atlantic, etc., Tea Co., 226 N. C. 518, 39 S. E. (2d) 382, 383.

Joinder Is Subject to Restrictions.—The joinder of causes of action is not primarily instigated by the court, but is done on the initiative of the parties seeking to assert and enforce their rights by final judgment of the court; and while under the supervision of the court it is not a matter of discretion but is subject to the restrictions provided in this section. Horton v. Perry, 229 N. C. 319, 49 S. E. (2d) 734.

Whether legal or equitable, the joinder of causes of action and the parties to whom they belong must come within the provisions of this chapter, unless by some special modifying statute or recognized rule of practice an exception is created. Fleming v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 229 N. C. 397, 50 S. E. (2d) 45.

Consolidation of Actions Distinguished.—There is a substantial difference between the consolidation of cases for the convenience of trial and the joinder of causes of action for judicial determination in their combined aspect. The former is in the exercise of the inherent power of the court and, in applicable cases, in its discretion; but this may be exercised only for the purpose of trial, and in that declared purpose will be found its limitations;—it cannot annul or suspend the statute relating to joinder. Horton v. Perry, 229 N. C. 319, 49 S. E. (2d) 734.

Provision Requiring Each Cause of Action to Be Stated Separately.—When a plaintiff seeks to recover in one action on two or more causes of action, he must state each cause of action separately, setting out in each the facts upon which that cause of action rests. King v. Coley, 229 N. C. 258, 49 S. E. (2d) 648.

Is Improperly Arranged as Printed in General Statutes.—The provision of this section requiring each cause of action to be stated separately, as printed in the General Statutes of 1943, is so arranged as to make it appear that it relates only to subsection 7. However, the history of the statute, as well as the language used, indicates that it applies to each and every case in which two or more causes of action are joined in the same complaint. The last sentence in subsection 7 should appear in a separate and distinct paragraph following that subsection. King v. Coley, 229 N. C. 258, 49 S. E. (2d) 648.

Effect of Dismissal upon Appeals from Preliminary Orders.—Upon the dismissal of an action for misjoinder of parties and causes, appeals from all preliminary orders such as for an audit of the books of one of defendants are dismissed. Southern Mills v. Summit Yarn Co., 223 N. C. 479, 27 S. E. (2d) 289.

Where Defect in Pleading Relates Merely to Misjoinder.—If the defect in the pleading, upon demurrer under this section, relates merely to misjoinder of actions, the court will, under § 1-132, salvage the action by ordering it to be divided into as many actions as are necessary for determination of the causes of action stated; but where there is a misjoinder both of causes and of parties, this procedure cannot be followed. Southern Mills v. Summit Yarn Co., 223 N. C. 479, 27 S. E. (2d) 289.

Cited in Corbett v. Hilton Lbr. Co., 223 N. C. 704, 28 S. E. (2d) 250; Hatcher v. Williams, 225 N. C. 112, 33 S. E. (2d) 617.

II. CAUSES OF ACTION WITH REFERENCE TO TRANSACTION, OR SUBJECT OF ACTION.

The General Rule.—

In accord with original. See Owen v. Hines, 227 N. C. 236, 41 S. E. (2d) 739.

Where the matter is wholly distinct and did not stem out of the transaction set out in the original complaint and is not sufficiently correlated thereto, the real objection would be noncompliance with this section. Nassaney v. Culler, 224 N. C. 323, 326, 30 S. E. (2d) 226.

Each cause of action must relate to one general right, and each must be so germane to it as to be regarded as a part thereof. Pressley v. Great Atlantic, etc., Tea Co., 226 N. C. 518, 39 S. E. (2d) 382, 383.

The complaint is multifarious unless all the causes of action alleged therein arose out of one and the same transaction or series of transactions forming one course of dealing, and all tending to one end. Id.

If grounds of bill are not entirely distinct and wholly unconnected, if they arise out of one and the same transaction or series of transactions, forming one course of dealing and tending to one end; if one connected story can be told of the whole, the complaint is not subject to attack by demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action. Id.

The "subject of action" means the thing in respect to which the plaintiff's right of action is asserted, whether it be specific property, a contract, a threatened or violated right, or other thing concerning which an action may be brought and litigation had. Hancammon v. Carr, 229 N. C. 52, 47 S. E. (2d) 614.

The connection with the subject of action must be immediate and direct. A remote, uncertain, partial connection is not enough to satisfy the requirements of the statute. Hancammon v. Carr, 229 N. C. 52, 47 S. E. (2d) 614.

Mental Incompetency and Undue Influence.—In action to set aside deed on ground of mental incompetency of grantor, and duress and undue influence on part of grantees, a demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action was properly overruled. Mental incompetency and weakness of mind are not too far apart psychologically or too radically inconsistent as to require assertion in separate actions. Goodson v. Lehmon, 225 N. C. 514, 35 S. E. (2d) 623, 164 A. L. R. 510.

IV. CAUSES OF ACTION FOR TORT TO PERSON OR PROPERTY.

Complaint alleging that plaintiff was injured by defendant's negligence and that thereafter defendant wrongfully discharged him is subject to demurrer for misjoinder as two causes of action have no interdependent connection and are not connected with same subject matter. Pressley v. Great Atlantic, etc., Tea Co., 226 N. C. 518, 39 S. E. (2d) 382, distinguishing Hamlin v. Tucker, 72 N. C. 502; Peitzman v. Zebulon, 219 N. C. 473, 14 S. E. (2d) 416.

Art. 13. Defendant's Pleadings.

§ 1-125. When defendant appears and pleads; petition to remove to federal court; extension of time; clerk to mail answer to plaintiff.—The defendant must appear and demur or answer within thirty (30) days after the service of summons upon him, or within thirty (30) days after the final determination of a motion to remove as a matter of right, or after the final determination of a motion to dismiss upon a special appearance, or after the final determination of any other motion required to be made prior to the filing of the answer, or after final judgment overruling demurrer, or after the final determination of a motion to set aside a judgment by default under § 1-220, or to set aside a judgment under § 1-108. Upon the filing in a district court of the United States of a petition for the removal of a civil action or proceeding from a court in this state and the filing of a copy of the petition in the state court, the state court shall proceed no further therein unless and until the case is remanded; and in the event it shall be finally determined in the United States courts that the case was not removable or was improperly removed, or for other reason should be remanded, and a final order is entered remanding the case to the state court, the defendant or defendants, or any other party who would have been permitted or required to file a pleading had the removal proceedings not been instituted, will have thirty (30) days after the filing in such state court of a certified copy of the order of remand to file motions or demur, answer or otherwise plead. If the time is extended for filing the complaint, and a copy of the complaint, when filed, is served on the defendant, then, in such case, the defendant shall have thirty days after the date when the copy of the complaint was served on him, pursuant to G. S. § 1-121, or the defendant shall have thirty days after the final date fixed for filing the complaint, whichever is the later date, in which to plead. If the time is extended for filing complaint, and a copy of the complaint, when filed, is not served on the defendant, then, in such case, said defendant shall have thirty days after the date of the sheriff's return showing that service was not made of such complaint, pursuant to G. S. § 1-121, or the defendant shall have thirty days after the final day fixed for filing the complaint, whichever is the later date, in which to plead. The clerk shall not extend the time for filing answer or demurrer more than once nor for a period of time exceeding twenty days except by consent of parties. The defendant shall, when he files answer, likewise file at least one copy thereof for the use of the plaintiff, and his attorney; and the clerk shall not receive and file any answer until and unless such copy is filed therewith. The clerk shall forthwith mail the copy of answer filed to the plaintiff or his attorney of record. This section shall also apply to all courts of record inferior to the superior court, where any defendant resides out of the county from which the summons is issued and no court of record inferior to the superior court shall fix such return date at less than thirty (30) days. (Rev., s. 473; Code, 207; 1870-1, c. 42, s. 4; 1919, c. 304, s. 3; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 92, s. 1, par. 3; 1927, c. 66, s. 4; 1935, c. 267; 1949, c. 808, s. 1; c. 1113, s. 2; C. S. 509.)

Editor's Note.—The first 1949 amendment inserted the present second sentence. The second 1949 amendment inserted the present third and fourth sentences in lieu of the former second sentence. For comment on amendments, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 432.

Where purported special appearance did not challenge the jurisdiction of the court and it could not be treated as a demurrer, the court properly concluded that it was not a valid plea, but having overruled it without finding that it was irrelevant and frivolous and made in bad faith for purpose of delay, leave to answer should have been granted. New Hanover County v. Sidbury, 225 N. C. 679, 36 S. E. (2d) 242, 243.

Applied in New Hanover County v. Sidbury, 225 N. C. 679, 36 S. E. (2d) 242.

Art. 14. Demurrer.

I. IN GENERAL.

Demurrer Does Not Admit Conclusions of Law.—The office of a demurrer is to test the sufficiency of a pleading, admitting for the purpose the truth of factual averments well stated and such relevant inferences as may be deduced therefrom, but it does not admit any legal inferences or conclusions of law asserted by the pleader. General American Life Ins. Co. v. Stadiem, 223 N. C. 49, 51, 25 S. E. (2d) 202.

Section Differs from § 1-183.—Under this section demurrer to plaintiff's pleadings challenges the sufficiency of the pleadings, and is different in purpose and result from demurrer to the evidence under § 1-183, which challenges the sufficiency of the evidence. Coleman v. Whisnant, 226 N. C. 258, 37 S. E. (2d) 693, 694.

Applied in Goodson v. Lehmon, 225 N. C. 514, 35 S. E. (2d) 623, 164 A. L. R. 510; Boney v. Parker, 227 N. C. 350, 42 S. E. (2d) 222; Bledsoe v. Coxe Lbr. Co., 229 N. C. 128, 48 S. E. (2d) 50.

IV. PENDENCY OF ANOTHER ACTION.

Availed of by Demurrer or Answer.—Where a prior action is pending between the same parties, involving substantially the same subject matter, the second action will be dismissed upon demurrer if the pendency of the prior action appears on the face of the complaint. But if the fact does not so appear, objection may be raised by answer (§ 1-133) and treated as a plea in abatement. Dwiggins v. Parkway Bus Co., 230 N. C. 234, 52 S. E. (2d) 892.

Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, any such demurrer, upon ten days' notice to the adverse party, may be heard and passed upon out of term by the resident judge of the district or by any judge regularly assigned to hold the courts of the district. (1919, c. 304, s. 4; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 92, s. 5; 1949, c. 147; C. S. 513.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the above sentence at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 434.

Within thirty days after the return of the judgment upon the demurrer, if there is no appeal, or within thirty days after the receipt of the certificate from the supreme court, if there is an appeal, if the demurrer is sustained the plaintiff may move, upon three days' notice, for leave to amend the complaint. If this is not granted, judgment shall be entered dismissing the action. If the demurrer is overruled the answer shall be filed within thirty days after the receipt of the judgment, if there is no appeal, or within thirty days after the receipt of the certificate of the supreme court, if there is an appeal. Otherwise the plaintiff shall be entitled to judgment by default final or by default and inquiry according to the course and practice of the court. (1919, c. 304, ss. 6, 7; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 92, ss. 7, 8; 1949, c. 972; C. S. 515.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment substituted "thirty days" for "ten days" so as to make the section consistent with § 1-125. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 434.

Dismissal for Failure to Amend.—A failure to amend the complaint after judgment sustaining demurrer thereto works a dismissal. Webb v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 574, 46 S. E. (2d) 700.

Where causes of action alleged in the complaint are improperly joined, the action need not be dismissed. Pressley v. Great Atlantic, etc., Tea Co., 226 N. C. 518, 39 S. E. (2d) 382, 384.

Misjoinder of Causes and Parties.—

If the defect in the pleading related merely to misjoinder of actions, the court might, under this section, salvage the action by ordering it to be divided into as many actions as are necessary for determination of the causes of action stated; but where there is a misjoinder both of causes of actions and of parties who have no community of interest, this proceeding cannot be followed. Southern Mills v. Summit Yarn Co., 223 N. C. 479, 485, 27 S. E. (2d) 289.

In a suit by a county against three defendants to foreclose a tax lien on five tracts of land, title to tracts 1, 2, and 3, being in E. L. for life with remainder to E. J., title to tract 4 being in E. L. in fee and the other defendants never having had any interest therein, and title to tract 5 being in E. J., and the other defendants never having had any interest therein, the joinder of the third defendant, H. F., was mere surplusage and not fatal, as he was not a necessary party; but a joint demurrer for misjoinder of actions and parties should have been sustained, since there can be no division of the action under this section. Moore County v. Burns, 224 N. C. 700, 32 S. E. (2d) 225.

Pendency of Another Suit.—See note to § 1-127.

One partner was sued individually for damages resulting in a collision occurring while driving a partnership vehicle in the course of the partnership business. Thereafter the individual partners instituted suit in another county against the plaintiff in the first action to recover damages resulting to them out of the same collision. It was held that the parties to the two actions were identical for the purposes of a plea in abatement, and the second action was abated in the supreme court upon the plea, the remedy in the second action being by counterclaim in the first. Dwiggins v. Parkway Bus Co., 230 N. C. 234, 52 S. E. (2d) 892.

Demurrer after Answer.—

Art. 15. Answer.

I. IN GENERAL.

The plea of res judicata cannot be presented by demurrer, unless the facts supporting it appear on the face of the complaint. It must be taken by answer. Hampton v. North Carolina Pulp Co., 223 N. C. 535, 27 S. E. (2d) 538.

Cited in Smoke Mount Industries v. Fisher, 224 N. C. 72, 29 S. E. (2d) 128.

II. CLAIMS ARISING OUT OF PLAINTIFF'S DEMAND.

A. General Rules and Instances.

Same Purpose as Subsection 1 of § 1-123.—See note to § 1-123.

Tort against Contract Claim.—

Under subsection 1 of this section, a cause of action ex delicto may be pleaded as a counterclaim to an action ex contractu provided it arises out of the same transaction or is connected with the same subject of action. Hancammon v. Carr, 229 N. C. 52, 47 S. E. (2d) 614.

A cause of action in tort may be pleaded as a counterclaim to an action on contract only if it rests upon some wrong or breach of duty committed by plaintiffs in making or performance of the contract. Id.

Where plaintiff sued her former husband to recover a monetary consideration under a written separation agreement, defendant's counterclaim for slander sounds in tort and is not "a cause of action arising out of the contract or transaction set forth in the complaint as the foundation of plaintiff's claim, or connected with the subject of actions" within the purview of the statute. Smith v. Smith, 225 N. C. 189, 34 S. E. (2d) 148.

The "subject of the action" means the thing in respect to which plaintiff's right of action is asserted, whether it be specific property, a contract, a threatened or violated right, or other thing concerning which an action may be brought and litigation had. Hancammon v. Carr, 229 N. C. 52, 47 S. E. (2d) 614.

To be "connected with the subject of the action", the connection must be immediate and direct. A remote, uncertain, partial connection is not enough to satisfy the requirements of the statute. Hancammon v. Carr, 229 N. C. 52, 47 S. E. (2d) 614.

The cross action must have such relation to plaintiff's claim that the adjustment of both is necessary to a full and final determination of the controversy. This means that it must be so interwoven in plaintiff's cause of action that a full and complete story as to the one cannot be told without relating the essential facts as to the other. And mere historical sequence, or the fact that a connected story may be told of the whole, is not alone sufficient. Hancammon v. Carr, 229 N. C. 52, 47 S. E. (2d) 614.

Plaintiffs cashed a check for the payee upon his endorsement and gave the payee in exchange merchandise and money. The maker of the check stopped payment on it, and plaintiffs procured a warrant charging the maker with issuing a worthless check. The prosecution was nol prossed on appeal from the recorder's court. Plaintiffs then instituted an action to recover on the check. It was held that defendant maker was not entitled to set up a cross action for abuse of process. Id.

Overtime and Payments under Fair Labor Standards Act.—A complaint, alleging a breach by defendant of his contract to make patterns and cut goods for plaintiff, states a cause of action ex contractu, notwithstanding such breach may have been caused by defendant's neglect and failure to perform his obligations thereunder; and defendant may, therefore, plead as a counterclaim overtime, under payment and penalties under the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938. Smoke Mount Industries v. Fisher, 224 N. C. 72, 29 S. E. (2d) 128.

Demurrer to answer will not be sustained if sufficient facts can be gathered from pleadings to entitle defendant to some relief, notwithstanding answer fails to state separately cause or causes relied on for affirmative relief and the matters relied on as defenses, as required by this section and Rule 20(2) of the supreme court. Pearce v. Pearce, 226 N. C. 307, 37 S. E. (2d) 904.

Motion for Nonsuit.—While contributory negligence is an affirmative defense which the defendant must plead and prove, a defendant may take advantage of his plea of contributory negligence by a motion for a compulsory judgment of nonsuit under § 1-183 when the facts necessary to show the contributory negligence are established by the plaintiff's own evidence. Bundy v. Powell, 229 N. C. 707, 51 S. E. (2d) 307.

Art. 16. Reply.

Applied in Williams v. Thompson, 227 N. C. 166, 41 S. E. (2d) 359.

The right to reply is not restricted to cases in which defendant pleads a counterclaim, but a reply is proper if the answer alleges facts which, if established, entitle defendant to some relief. Williams v. Thompson, 227 N. C. 166, 41 S. E. (2d) 359.

Cited in Watson v. Lee County, 224 N. C. 508, 31 S. E. (2d) 535; Smith v. Smith, 225 N. C. 189, 34 S. E. (2d) 148.

Art. 17. Pleadings, General Provisions.

The requirement as to verification of subsequent pleadings may be waived, except in those cases where the form and substance of the verification is made an essential part of the pleading; as in an action for divorce in which a special form of affidavit is required, § 50-8, in a proceeding to restore a lost record, § 98-14, and in an action against a county or municipal corporation, § 153-64. Calaway v. Harris, 229 N. C. 117, 47 S. E. (2d) 796.

Plaintiff, filing verified complaint in an action in the nature of an action to quiet title, waives verification of the answer by filing reply and allowing the matter to go to two hearings before the referee and failing to interpose objection until after an adverse referee's report. Id.

Failure to Verify Amended Answer. — Where a verified complaint is filed and defendants file a verified answer, the fact that an amended answer, which merely amplifies the defense of the original answer, is not verified, does not justify the court in disregarding the defense. Calaway v. Harris, 229 N. C. 117, 47 S. E. (2d) 796.

Instance of Sufficient Verification.—

A petition in proceedings for contempt which is verified in accordance with the form prescribed by this section is sufficient to give the court jurisdiction of the persons named when the facts set forth in the petition constituting a sufficient basis for judgment of contempt are stated to be within the knowledge of affiant and not upon information and belief. Safie Mfg. Co. v. Arnold, 228 N. C. 375, 45 S. E. (2d) 577.

Action for Annulment of Marriage.—Where testimony of a witness as to her bigamous marriage with defendant is competent, the complaint filed by her in an action to annul the marriage is competent for the purpose of corroborating her testimony. State v. Phillips, 227 N. C. 277, 41 S. E. (2d) 766.

In prosecution for larceny of an automobile, permitting solicitor to cross-examine defendant in regard to allegation made by defendant in his complaint in a prior civil action for the purpose of impeaching defendant's testimony, by showing defendant had made two contradictory statements about the matter, both of which the solicitor contended were incorrect, was not an impingement upon this section, since the purpose and effect was not to prove the fact alleged in the pleading, but to the contrary. State v. McNair, 226 N. C. 462, 38 S. E. (2d) 514.

In accord with original. See Moss-Marlow Bldg. Co. v. Jones, 227 N. C. 282, 41 S. E. (2d) 742.

The denial of a motion under § 1-153 to make a pleading more definite does not preclude defendant from applying for a bill of particulars. Lowman v. Asheville, 229 N. C. 247, 49 S. E. (2d) 408.

In Favor of Pleader.—

Pleading must be liberally construed, and every reasonable intendment and presumption must be in favor of the pleader. A pleading must be fatally defective before it will be rejected as insufficient. Corbett v. Hilton Lbr. Co., 223 N. C. 704, 709, 28 S. E. 250. See Sandlin v. Yancey, 224 N. C. 519, 31 S. E. (2d) 532; Ferrell v. Worthington, 226 N. C. 609, 39 S. E. (2d) 812, 815; Winston v. Williams, etc., Lbr. Co., 227 N. C. 339, 42 S. E. (2d) 218.

If in any portion of the complaint or to any extent it presents facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action or if facts sufficient for that purpose fairly can be gathered from it, the pleading will stand, "however inartificially it may have been drawn or however uncertain, defective and redundant may be its statements, for, contrary to the common-law rule, every reasonable intendment and presumption must be made in favor of the pleader." Presnell v. Beshears, 227 N. C. 279, 281, 41 S. E. (2d) 835.

Statement of Cause of Action.—

In the construction of a pleading to determine whether or not the allegations meet the requirements laid down by the court, we are directed by statute to construe such allegations liberally with a view to substantial justice between the parties. Kemp v. Funderburk, 224 N. C. 353, 355, 30 S. E. (2d) 155.

Answer Not Rejected Unless Fatally Defective.—

Both this section and the decisions of the Supreme Court require that the pleading be liberally construed, and that every reasonable intendment and presumption must be in favor of the pleader. A pleading must be fatally defective before it will be rejected as insufficient. Dickensheets v. Taylor, 223 N. C. 570, 576, 27 S. E. (2d) 618, citing Anderson Cotton Mills v. Royal Mfg. Co., 218 N. C. 560, 11 S. E. (2d) 550.

Cited in Wilson v. Chastain, 230 N. C. 390, 53 S. E. (2d) 290.

§ 1-153. Irrelevant, redundant, indefinite pleadings.—If irrelevant or redundant matter is inserted in a pleading, it may be stricken out on motion of any person aggrieved thereby, but this motion must be made before answer or demurrer, or before an extension of time to plead is granted. When the allegations of a pleading are so indefinite or uncertain that the precise nature of the charge or defense is not apparent, the court may require the pleading to be made definite and certain by amendment. Any such motion to strike any matter out of any pleading may, upon ten days' notice to the adverse party, be heard out of term by the resident judge of the district or by any judge regularly assigned to hold the courts of the district. (Rev., s. 496; Code, s. 261; C. C. P., s. 120; 1949, c. 146; C. S. 537.)

Cross References.—

In the last line of the 2nd paragraph in the original the "25" should be "55."

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the last sentence. For brief comment on the amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 434.

Defendant Not Deprived of Any Substantial Right.—Irrelevant, redundant or evidential matter may be stricken from the pleading upon motion of party aggrieved, and the order striking such matter from the pleading does not deprive defendant of any substantial right. Brown v. Hall, 226 N. C. 732, 40 S. E. (2d) 412.

In accord with 4th paragraph in original. See Patuxent Development Co. v. Bearden, 227 N. C. 124, 41 S. E. (2d) 85.

Ordinarily whether or not the trial judge grants a motion to make a pleading more definite, as provided in this section, is within his discretion. And where there is nothing on the record to indicate that the motion was denied as a matter of law, it will be presumed the judge denied it in his discretion. Lowman v. Asheville, 229 N. C. 247, 49 S. E. (2d) 408.

A motion to strike made before pleading or extension of time to plead, is made as a matter of right, while such motion not made in apt time is addressed to the discretion of the court. Brown v. Hall, 226 N. C. 732, 40 S. E. (2d) 412.

Allegations to Support Provisional Remedy.—In an action for assault and battery in which the provisional remedy of arrest and bail is invoked, it is appropriate for plaintiff to allege in the complaint the facts necessary to support the provisional remedy of arrest and bail, notwithstanding that such facts were also set out in the affidavit filed as a basis for the provisional remedy. Long v. Love, 230 N. C. 535, 53 S. E. (2d) 661.

Denial of motion to make pleading more definite does not preclude bill of particulars. Lowman v. Asheville, 229 N. C. 247, 49 S. E. (2d) 408.

Motion to Strike Upheld.—In action for damages that part of defendant's answer containing stipulation that plaintiff had taken nonsuit in prior action for same collision and paid costs, together with summons and complaint in former action was properly stricken from pleadings as not being germane to case. Brown v. Hall, 226 N. C. 732, 40 S. E. (2d) 412.

Motion to Strike Denied.—In an action for assault and battery in which the provisional remedy of arrest and bail is invoked, motion to strike allegations that the injury was willful, wanton and malicious, is properly denied, since plaintiff is entitled to allege facts necessary to support the provisional remedy. Long v. Love, 230 N. C. 535, 53 S. E. (2d) 661.

Applications in Divorce Actions.—

In an action for divorce the charge of wilful abandonment of defendant by plaintiff and the defense of recrimination do not amount to a cross cause, and are deemed controverted by the adverse party. Taylor v. Taylor, 225 N. C. 80, 33 S. E. (2d) 492.

Order of Substitution Not Reviewable.—

Art. 18. Amendments.

Editor's Note.—
For a discussion of this section, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 76.

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of this section, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 76.

Liberal Allowance on Proper Terms—Exception.—
In order to facilitate the determination of causes on their merits, in the furtherance of justice, the courts have wide powers with respect to amendments to pleadings. Amendments, which are permitted in order to conform the pleading to the proof, are limited to those which do not change substantially the claim or defense. Bank of Ashe v. Sturgill, 223 N. C. 825, 28 S. E. (2d) 511.

"Anything May Be Amended at Any Time."—
In accord with original. See McDaniel v. Leggett, 224 N. C. 806, 32 S. E. (2d) 602.

Relation Back Doctrine.—
In the absence of showing that the rights of innocent third persons would be injuriously affected, an amendment relates back to the commencement of the action. McDaniel v. Leggett, 224 N. C. 806, 810, 32 S. E. (2d) 602.

Amendment of Affidavit upon Which Substituted Service Based.—While an affidavit upon which substituted service is based may be amended, and ordinarily in that respect comes under the provisions of this section, such amendment will not validate a prior judgment rendered upon the defective service, which judgment is necessarily void because of want of jurisdiction. Rodriguez v. Rodriguez, 224 N. C. 275, 283, 29 S. E. (2d) 901.

Applied in Smith v. Smith, 226 N. C. 506, 39 S. E. (2d) 391.

II. DISCRETIONARY POWERS OF THE COURT.

Powers Discretionary.—
An application for leave to amend a pleading after time for filing has expired is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court, and its ruling thereon is not reviewable in the absence of abuse of discretion. Hooper v. Glenn, 230 N. C. 570, 53 S. E. (2d) 843.

Where plaintiff learned the facts for the first time when defendant was examined adversely, and over objection was allowed to file an amendment to the complaint, it was held that this was a matter resting in the sound discretion of the trial court. Hatcher v. Williams, 225 N. C. 112, 33 S. E. (2d) 617.

Instances of New Cause Not Introduced.—
In a suit by an administratrix against a business associate of her intestate and others for an accounting as to properties purchased, for the joint account of such intestate and such associate, with moneys furnished by plaintiff's intestate for their joint enterprise, an amendment to the complaint, alleging fraud in concealing property purchased for such joint account and failure to account therefor, is allowable as a cause of action arising out of the same transaction and connected with the same subject of action. Hatcher v. Williams, 225 N. C. 112, 33 S. E. (2d) 617.

Ruling on Motion Not Reviewable on Appeal.—A discretionary ruling on a motion to amend pleadings is not reviewable on appeal. Byers v. Byers, 223 N. C. 85, 25 S. E. (2d) 466.

A motion to amend pleading is discretionary with the trial court and is not reviewable on appeal. Pharr v. Pharr, 223 N. C. 115, 25 S. E. (2d) 471.

III. INTRODUCING NEW CAUSE OF ACTION, DEFENSE OR RELIEF.

Permissible When It Introduces No New Cause.—
The court in its discretion may allow an amendment to pleadings setting up new matter, even where the transaction occurred after the action was brought, provided it does not assume the role of a new and entirely different claim. Nassaney v. Culler, 224 N. C. 323, 30 S. E. (2d) 226.

Except in proper instances a party to a suit should not be allowed to change his position with respect to a material matter in the course of litigation. . . . Especially is this so where the change of front is sought to be made between the trial and appellate courts. Hylton v. Mount Airy, 227 N. C. 622, 626, 44 S. E. (2d) 51.

Plaintiff sued to recover a truck purchased by him which he permitted his brother to drive under a rental agreement. Plaintiff's evidence was to the effect that the truck plus certain rent money and money belonging to plaintiff were used in the swap of the truck for another vehicle. It was held that the trial court had discretionary power to allow plaintiff to amend to assert his right to recover the new vehicle by virtue of a resulting or a constructive trust, since the amendment does not change the nature of the case or add any cause of action. Baker v. Baker, 230 N. C. 108, 52 S. E. (2d) 20.

V. AMENDMENTS OF PROCESS.

Absence of Clerk's Signature.—
Where a clerk of the Superior Court received and docketed summons and complaint in a civil action, affixed the seal of court to the summons and sent the papers with necessary fees to the sheriff of another county for service, and the papers were properly served and returned to the clerk issuing same, who then signed the summons, upon motion of defendant to dismiss upon special appearance, the court has power, in its discretion, to allow the summons to be amended by affixing thereto the signature of the clerk. North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank v. Aycock, 223 N. C. 837, 28 S. E. (2d) 494.

Summons Issued under Erroneous Name.—In a civil action, where summons is issued and served and complaint filed against defendant under an erroneous name, and such defendant, on special appearance, moves to dismiss for want of jurisdiction on that ground, and plaintiff files a motion to amend summons and complaint to conform to defendant's true name, there is no error in allowing the motion to correct the mistake. Propst v. Hughes Trucking Co., 223 N. C. 490, 27 S. E. (2d) 152.

VI. AMENDMENTS AS TO PARTIES.

Generally.—
As a general rule the trial court has the discretionary power to make new parties, especially when necessary in order that there may be a full and final determination and adjudication of all matters involved in the controversy. Service Fire Ins. Co. v. Horton Motor Lines, 225 N. C. 588, 35 S. E. (2d) 879.

VIII. SPECIFIC INSTANCES.

Petition Omitting Portion of Land.—When lands of a deceased person are sold in a partition proceeding and it appears from the pleadings and evidence that it was the manifest intention of all parties that the entire lands of decedent were included in the sale, but by mistake a tract of 1.3 acres was omitted from the specific description in the petition, although announced at the sale as included, a motion in the cause by the purchaser, or his assignee, is the proper procedure to have the mistake corrected by amendment nunc pro tunc, and the court may make its decree conform thereto. McDaniel v. Leggett, 224 N. C. 806, 32 S. E. (2d) 602.

Subchapter VII. Pre-Trial Hearings; Trial and Its Incidents.

Art. 18A. Pre-Trial Hearings.

§ 1-169.1. Pre-trial dockets and cases placed thereon; pre-trial orders; time for hearings and matters for consideration.—The clerk of the superior court of every county shall maintain a pre-trial docket. Upon written request of counsel for any party, filed with the clerk and served upon counsel for all other parties after issue has been joined and not less than ten days prior to the term at which the case is to be tried, a civil case, except a case specified in § 1-169.5, shall be placed on this docket. The judge holding court in the district or the presiding judge, at any time after issue has been joined, may, in his discretion, order that any civil case except a case specified in § 1-169.5, be placed on the pre-trial docket. Except by order of the presiding judge, no case on this docket shall be tried until a pre-trial order has been entered therein in conformity with this article, but this shall not be construed to prohibit the calendaring of any case for trial prior to the pre-trial hearing or the entry of such order.

Pre-trial hearings in the cases on the pre-trial docket shall be held on the first day of every term of superior court for the trial of civil cases only, preference being given to those cases on such docket which are calendared for trial at the same term. The attorneys for the parties shall appear before the presiding judge to consider:

1. Motions to amend or supplement any pleading.
2. The settling of the issues.
3. The advisability or necessity of a reference of the case, either in whole or in part.
4. The possibility of obtaining admissions of facts and of documents which will avoid unnecessary proof.
5. Facts of which the court is to be asked to take judicial notice.
6. The determination of any other matters which may aid in the disposition of the case.
7. In the discretion of the presiding judge, the hearing and determination of any motion, or the entry of any order, judgment or decree, which the presiding judge is authorized to hear, determine, or enter at term.

Following the hearing the presiding judge shall enter an order reciting the stipulations made and the action taken. Such order shall control the subsequent course of the case unless in the discretion of the trial judge the ends of justice require its modification.

After the entry of the pre-trial order, the case shall stand for trial and may be tried at the same term in which the pre-trial hearing is held or at a subsequent term, as ordered by the judge. (1949, c. 419, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Section 6 of the chapter from which this article was codified made it effective as of March 18, 1949, for purposes of pre-trial hearings under § 1-169.3. With respect to pre-trial hearings under § 1-169.1 or § 1-169.4, this article was made effective on October 1, 1949, as to civil cases in which issue is joined.

For comment on this article, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 430.

§ 1-169.2. Time allotted to hearings; summoning of jurors.—The presiding judge may devote any additional day or days of the term to pre-trial hearings as he may find necessary or desirable. In the event pre-trial hearings, herein provided for, do not consume the whole of the first day of the term, the presiding judge may proceed to the consideration of the motion docket or any other matters not requiring the intervention of a jury. At the time jurors are to be summoned for the first week of the term, the clerk of the superior court shall determine whether it is probable that the pre-trial docket and other matters not requiring the intervention of a jury will consume the first day of the term and, in accordance with such determination, shall direct the sheriff to summon the jurors for the first or second day of the term. (1949, c. 419, s. 2.)

§ 1-169.3. Hearings out of term and in or out of the county or district.—Upon agreement of counsel for all parties to any civil case, the resident judge or the regular judge holding the courts in the district may hold pre-trial hearings out of term and in or out of the county or district. At any such hearing the authority of the judge shall be the same as at pre-trial hearings conducted at term time. (1949, c. 419, s. 3.)

§ 1-169.4. Disposition of pre-trial docket at mixed terms.—At terms of the superior court devoted to both civil and criminal matters, the pre-trial docket shall be the order of business after the criminal docket has been disposed of, or may be considered earlier in the discretion of the presiding judge. (1949, c. 419, s. 4.)

§ 1-169.5. Application of article.—The provisions of this article shall not apply to uncontested divorce cases or to proceedings after judgment by default, and shall apply to special proceedings only after transfer to the civil issue docket. (1949, c. 419, s. 5.)

§ 1-169.6. Hearings in county and municipal courts, etc.—Effective October 1, 1949, the judge of every court, other than the superior court, having jurisdiction to try civil cases beyond the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace, may in his discretion, upon not less than five days' notice, direct the attorneys in any civil case at issue in his court, including those in which issue was joined prior to October 1, 1949, to appear before him for a pre-trial hearing for consideration of the matters set forth in § 1-169.1. Upon request for pre-trial hearing by the attorney for any party to a civil case at issue in his court, the judge shall, upon not less than five days' notice to the attorneys for the other parties, order such a pre-trial hearing. After each such pre-trial hearing, the judge shall enter an order as contemplated by § 1-169.1. (1949, c. 419, s. 7.)

Art. 19. Trial.

Cited in Lockhart v. Lockhart, 223 N. C. 123, 25 S. E. (2d) 465.

§ 1-173. Issues of fact.—Every issue of fact joined on the pleadings, and inquiry of damages ordered to be tried by a jury, must be tried at the term of the court next ensuing the joinder of issue or order for inquiry, if the issue was joined or order made more than ten days before such term, but if not, they may be tried at the second term after the joinder or order: Provided, that uncontested cases in which no answer has been filed may be tried at any term after the time for filing answers has expired. (Rev., s. 528; Code, s. 400; C. C. P., s. 226; 1923, c. 54; 1925, c. 5; C. S. 557; 1945, c. 989.)

The 1945 amendment added the proviso.

Continuances are not favored, as a general rule, and ought not to be granted unless the reasons therefor are fully established. State v. Gibson, 229 N. C. 497, 50 S. E. (2d) 520.

Continuance Discretionary with Judge.—Ordinarily a motion for a continuance on the ground of a want of time for counsel for accused to prepare for trial is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial judge, and his ruling thereon is not subject to review on appeal in the absence of circumstances showing that he has grossly abused his discretionary power. State v. Gibson, 229 N. C. 497, 50 S. E. (2d) 520.

Continuance to Prepare Defense.—Where the record fails to show that a requested continuance would have enabled defendant and his counsel to obtain additional evidence or otherwise present a stronger defense, the denial of the motion is not prejudicial. State v. Gibson, 229 N. C. 497, 50 S. E. (2d) 520, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 544.

An application for a continuance should be supported by an affidavit showing sufficient grounds for the continuance, and this section contemplates that this is to be done. State v. Gibson, 229 N. C. 497, 50 S. E. (2d) 520.

§ 1-180. Judge to explain law, but give no opinion on facts.—No judge, in giving a charge to the petit jury, either in a civil or criminal action, shall give an opinion whether a fact is fully or sufficiently proven, that being the true office and province of the jury, but he shall declare and explain the law arising on the evidence given in the case. He shall not be required to state such evidence except to the extent necessary to explain the application of the law thereto; provided the judge shall give equal stress to the contentions of the plaintiff and defendant in a civil action, and to the state and defendant in a criminal action. (Rev., s. 535; Code, s. 413; C. C. P., s. 237; R. C., c. 31, s. 130; 1796, c. 452; 1949, c. 107; C. S. 564.)

I. EDITOR'S NOTE.

The 1949 amendment rewrote this section. It did not alter the provision prohibiting the judge from stating an opinion on the facts. But it materially changed the rest of the section. See 27 N. C. Law Rev. 435 containing a discussion of the change made by the amendment. This change should be borne in mind in considering the cases referred to in this note.

II. OPINION OF JUDGE.

A. General Considerations.

In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See State v. Woolard, 227 N. C. 645, 647, 44 S. E. (2d) 29.

This section was intended to keep inviolate the line between the functions of court and jury—the one as dispenser of the law, the other as triers of the facts—, and thus to preserve the integrity of trial by jury. But it does more. It provides a co-operative program by which these parts of the court may work together as a single intelligent agency in judicial investigation and determination. Morris v. Tate, 230 N. C. 29, 51 S. E. (2d) 892.

A Substantial Right of Litigants.—

This section confers a substantial legal right upon litigants, and "calls for instructions as to the law upon all substantial features of the case." McNeill v. McNeill, 223 N. C. 178, 182, 25 S. E. (2d) 615.

This section forbids the judge to intimate his opinion in any form whatever, it being the intent of the law to insure to each and every litigant a fair and impartial trial before the jury. State v. Owenby, 226 N. C. 521, 39 S. E. (2d) 378, 379.

Credibility of Witnesses Is for Jury.—No judge at any time during the trial of a cause is permitted to cast doubt upon the testimony of a witness or to impeach his credibility. The cold neutrality of an impartial judge should constantly be observed, as the slightest intimation from the bench will always have great weight with the jury. State v. Auston, 223 N. C. 203, 25 S. E. (2d) 613.

A statement of the court, made prior to the time the case was called for trial, indicating that he would not try the case until defendants were apprehended, does not violate this section, since this section relates only to the expression of opinion during the trial of the case. State v. Lippard, 223 N. C. 167, 25 S. E. (2d) 594.

Directing a Verdict.—

Even in cases where the evidence justifies an instructed verdict, the credibility of the evidence is for the sole determination of the jury, and therefore a recapitulation of the evidence may be necessary. Morris v. Tate, 230 N. C. 29, 51 S. E. (2d) 892.

The correct form of an instructed verdict is that if the jury "find from the evidence the facts to be as all the evidence tends to show you will answer the issue" rather than a direction as to how the jury should find the issue, since the credibility of the evidence remains the function of the jury. Morris v. Tate, 230 N. C. 29, 51 S. E. (2d) 892.

Evidence Insufficient to Justify Instructed Verdict. — In an action to quiet title, the evidence was not so unequivocal and not so clear in its inferences as to justify an instructed verdict in plaintiffs' favor. Morris v. Tate, 230 N. C. 29, 51 S. E. (2d) 892.

In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See State v. Jones, 227 N. C. 402, 404, 42 S. E. (2d) 465.

Where there is no assignment of error in the record for failure of the court to state the evidence and declare and explain the law arising thereon, exceptions on this ground will not be considered on appeal. State v. Spivey, 230 N. C. 375, 53 S. E. (2d) 259.

Correctness of Instructions Will Be Presumed.—Upon review by certiorari of the denial of defendant's motion for a new trial on the ground that he was denied due process of law in the trial resulting in his conviction, it will be presumed that the trial court correctly instructed the jury as to the facts of the case, in the absence of suggestion to the contrary. State v. Chesson, 228 N. C. 259, 45 S. E. (2d) 563.

A broadside exception to the charge will not be considered, but appellant must point out wherein the charge failed to comply with the provisions of this section. State v. Sutton, 230 N. C. 244, 52 S. E. (2d) 921.

Applied in In re Evans' Will, 223 N. C. 206, 25 S. E. (2d) 556; Starnes v. Tyson, 226 N. C. 395, 38 S. E. (2d) 211; State v. Ellison, 226 N. C. 628, 39 S. E. (2d) 824; State v. Correll, 228 N. C. 28, 44 S. E. (2d) 334; State v. McMahan, 228 N. C. 293, 45 S. E. (2d) 340; Barringer v. Barringer, 228 N. C. 790, 46 S. E. (2d) 849; Wyatt v. Queen City Coach Co., 229 N. C. 340, 49 S. E. (2d) 650.

Thomas, 225 N. C. 156, 33 S. E. (2d) 871; State v. Bullins, 226 N. C. 142, 36 S. E. (2d) 915; Perry v. First Citizens Nat. Bank, etc., Co., 226 N. C. 667, 40 S. E. (2d) 116; Brown v. Loftis, 236 N. C. 762, 40 S. E. (2d) 421.

B. What Constitutes an Opinion.

In General.—

The slightest intimation from a judge as to the strength of the evidence, or as to the credibility of the witness, will always have great weight with the jury, and, therefore, we must be careful to see that neither party is unduly prejudiced by any expression from the bench which is likely to prevent a fair and impartial trial. State v. Woolard, 227 N. C. 645, 44 S. E. (2d) 29, citing State v. Ownby, 146 N. C. 677, 61 S. E. 630.

The judge may indicate to the jury what impression the evidence has made on his mind, or what deductions he thinks should be drawn therefrom, without expressly stating his opinion in so many words. This may be done by his manner or peculiar emphasis or by his so arraying and presenting the evidence as to give one of the parties an undue advantage over the other; or, again the same result may follow the use of language or from an expression calculated to impair the credit which might not otherwise and under normal conditions be given by the jury to the testimony of one of the parties. State v. Woolard, 227 N. C. 645, 44 S. E. (2d) 29, citing State v. Benton, 226 N. C. 745, 40 S. E. (2d) 617.

No judge at any time during the trial of a cause is permitted to cast doubt upon the testimony of a witness or to impeach his credibility. State v. Owenby, 226 N. C. 521, 39 S. E. (2d) 378.

No assumption of fact or opinion expressed or fairly inferable from the charge respecting the credibility of the testimony can be made by the trial court without violating this section. State v. Love, 229 N. C. 99, 47 S. E. (2d) 712.

Evidence Tends to Show.—

The use of the convenient formula "the evidence tends to show" is not considered expression of an opinion upon the evidence in violation of the prohibition of this section. Thompson v. Davis, 223 N. C. 792, 798, 28 S. E. (2d) 556; State v. Jackson, 228 N. C. 656, 46 S. E. (2d) 858.

C. Illustrative Cases.

1. Remarks Held Not Erroneous.

b. Remarks Concerning Witnesses.

Statement That Other Evidence Corroborates Witness.—A charge that ". . . and the state contends that the evidence in the case" is sufficient to establish guilt beyond a reasonable doubt and that upon the testimony of the main witness for the state "and other evidence which corroborates this testimony" the jury should return a verdict of guilty, is not an expression of opinion that "the other evidence" did corroborate the witness since it is clear that both phrases related to the statement of contentions of the state. State v. McKnight, 226 N. C. 766, 40 S. E. (2d) 419.

Remark That Witness Has Fully Answered Question.—

Where court was of the opinion that state's witness on cross-examination by defendant's counsel had answered interrogations sufficiently, and that witness said she had tried to tell the truth and did not recall all the particulars of the evidence given by her in the former trial, the remark was not an expression of opinion by the court as to the truthfulness of the witness, but was solely to suggest to counsel that her answers to his question were complete, in the discharge of the court's right and duty to control the cross-examination. State v. Stone, 226 N. C. 97, 36 S. E. (2d) 704, citing State v. Mansell, 192 N. C. 20, 133 S. E. 190.

In a prosecution for manslaughter the use by the court of the word "killing," in referring to the degrees of homicide cognizable under the bill of indictment, is not harmful error where its use could not be interpreted as an expression of opinion by the court, considering the charge as a whole and the connection in which the word was used. State v. Scoggins, 225 N. C. 71, 33 S. E. (2d) 473.

Where Court Is Merely Identifying Exhibits.—A remark of the court that it would allow the introduction of fingerprints as found at the scene of the alleged offense and the fingerprints of defendant for the purpose of identification will not be held for error as an expression of opinion that the fingerprints were actually taken from the scene, it being obvious that the court was merely identifying the exhibits offered by the state. State v. Hooks, 228 N. C. 689, 47 S. E. (2d) 234.

Reference to Document as Will of Deceased.—In a caveat proceeding reference in the court's charge to a paper-writing as the will of the deceased was held not reversible error as an expression of opinion in contravention of this section where it appeared that the court was only following the example set by counsel for caveators in the examination of some of the witnesses, and the jury understood that they were trying a caveat filed to the paper-writing which had been probated in common form as the will of the deceased, and because of the caveat it was then being offered for probate in solemn form. In re Will of McDowell, 230 N. C. 259, 52 S. E. (2d) 807.

2. Remarks Held Error.

b. Remarks Concerning Witnesses.

Comments on Witnesses.—

In a prosecution for carnal knowledge of a female child over twelve and under sixteen years of age, the repeated remark of the court in directing the sheriff to quiet the spectators, made immediately after cross-examination of prosecutrix to impeach her testimony, that "you people cannot laugh at the predicament of this poor little girl; the only difference between you and she is that you have not been caught," was held to violate this section, as tending to invoke sympathy for prosecutrix and thereby bolster her testimony and as tending to impair the effect of defendant's plea of not guilty. State v. Woolard, 227 N. C. 645, 44 S. E. (2d) 29.

In prosecution for having carnal knowledge of female under sixteen years of age the disparagement of the defendant's witness and the expression of opinion that prosecutrix was not a delinquent, though inadvertently made in the presence of the jury, entitles defendant to another hearing. State v. Owenby, 226 N. C. 521, 39 S. E. (2d) 378, 379.

c. Remarks Concerning Weight and Credibility of Testimony.

Contentions of the Parties.—The manner of stating the contentions of the parties, if indicative of the court's opinion, is within the prohibition of this section, and where court in stating state's contentions in regard to the disinterestedness of officers who testified and the weight to be given the testimony of a doctor as an expert witness, together with a later statement that the evidence was "rather clear" was held error as an expression of opinion by court upon weight of the evidence. State v. Benton, 226 N. C. 745, 40 S. E. (2d) 617.

Remarks as to Testimony of Officer.—Where an officer purchased liquor in order to obtain evidence against a suspect, and voluntarily testified for the prosecution, an instruction which left the impression that his credibility was enhanced by the fact that he was an officer in the performance of his duty, and that he was protected from prosecution by § 18-8, was held erroneous as an expression of opinion on the credibility of the testimony. State v. Love, 229 N. C. 99, 47 S. E. (2d) 712.

Instruction as to Uncorroborated Testimony in Perjury Trial.—While the uncorroborated testimony of one witness might convince the jury, beyond a reasonable doubt, of the guilt of accused in a criminal trial for perjury, it is not sufficient in law; and instructions, therefore, that if the jury is so satisfied from the evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt, they should return a verdict of guilty, is erroneous as failing to comply with this section. State v. Hill, 223 N. C. 711, 28 S. E. (2d) 100.

Instruction as to Title to Land.—Plaintiffs and defendant claimed the locus under respective state grants. Defendant contended that plaintiffs' grant could not be accurately located and that, if located, covered only a portion of the locus. The court held that an instruction that by the two grants introduced in evidence title had been shown out of the state, must be held for error as an expression of opinion that the grant under which plaintiffs claim was valid and that it had been located to cover the land in question. Davis v. Morgan, 228 N. C. 78, 80, 44 S. E. (2d) 593.

III. EXPLANATION OF LAW AND EVIDENCE.

A. General Considerations of the Charge.

The Object of Instructions.—

In accord with original. See State v. Friddle, 223 N. C. 258, 25 S. E. (2d) 751.

The chief purposes of the charge are clarification of the issues, elimination of extraneous matters, and declaration and application of the law arising upon the evidence. State v. Jackson, 228 N. C. 656, 46 S. E. (2d) 858.

The chief purpose of a charge is to aid the jury clearly to comprehend the case, and to arrive at a correct verdict, and this statute imposes upon the trial judge the positive duty of instructing the jury as to the law upon all of the substantial features of the case. If the mandatory requirements of this section are not observed, there can be no assurance that the verdict represents a finding by the jury under the law and the evidence presented. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Exception Must Be Specific.—

An exception to the court's charge, that it failed to state in a plain and correct manner the evidence and law arising thereon as provided in this section, is a broadside exception and presents no question for decision. Baird v. Baird, 223 N. C. 729, 28 S. E. (2d) 225.

Objection to a charge for not complying with this section must state specifically how the charge failed to measure up to the requirements of this section. Steele v. Coxe, 225 N. C. 726, 727, 36 S. E. (2d) 288.

And Based on Proper Assignment of Error.—An exception for the failure of the court to comply with the provisions of this section must be based upon a proper assignment of error on this ground. State v. Muse, 230 N. C. 495, 53 S. E. (2d) 529.

Exception and Assignment of Error.—An exception, for failure to charge the jury as required by this section, must be taken in the same manner as any other exception to the charge, and an assignment of error based thereon must particularize and point out specifically wherein the court failed to charge the law arising on the evidence—otherwise it becomes a mere broadside and will not be considered unless pointed out in some other exception. State v. Britt, 225 N. C. 364, 34 S. E. (2d) 408.

Errors Should Be Pointed Out before Verdict.—Any omission to state the evidence or to charge in any particular way should be called to the attention of the court before verdict, so that the judge may have an opportunity to correct the oversight. Ellis v. Wellons, 224 N. C. 269, 29 S. E. (2d) 884.

Any error or omission in the statement of the evidence by court must be called to the attention of the court at the trial to avail the defendant any relief on his appeal. State v. Thompson, 226 N. C. 651, 39 S. E. (2d) 823, 824.

Evidence towards Which Instruction Directed Must Appear.—The law requires the judge to "state in a plain and correct manner the evidence given in the case and declare and explain the law arising thereon." The function of the appellate court on review is to determine whether this has been adequately done, and it cannot perform that office in the absence of the evidence toward which the instruction was directed. Shepherd v. Dollar, 229 N. C. 736, 51 S. E. (2d) 311.

Where Record Shows Charge Was Correct and No Objection Made.—Where it was stipulated in the record that the court correctly charged the jury on all phases of the case in compliance with this section, and the issues submitted were not objected to by defendants, it was held that the verdict of the jury must be upheld. Ward v. Smith, 223 N. C. 141, 142, 25 S. E. (2d) 463.

B. Explanation Required.

1. In General.

Rule Stated.—

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See State v. Friddle, 223 N. C. 258, 25 S. E. (2d) 751.

In accord with 4th paragraph in original. See State v. Biggs, 224 N. C. 722, 32 S. E. (2d) 352.

In accord with 6th paragraph in original. See McNeill v. McNeill, 223 N. C. 178, 25 S. E. (2d) 615.

It is the duty of the judge, under the provisions of this section, to state in a plain and correct manner the evidence given in the case and to declare and explain the law arising thereon, without expressing any opinion upon the facts. State v. Owenby, 226 N. C. 521, 39 S. E. (2d) 378, 379.

Discretion of the Court.—The manner in which the trial judge shall state the evidence and declare and explain the law arising thereon must necessarily be left in large measure to his sound discretion and good judgment, but he must charge on the different aspects presented by the evidence, and give the law applicable thereto. Van Gelder Yarn Co. v. Mauney, 228 N. C. 99, 44 S. E. (2d) 601.

Contention of Parties.—

It is not required by this section, or other statute, that the contentions of the litigants be stated at all although it is found to be a convenient method of integrating and presenting to the jury the subjects for consideration; and there is no rule making it mandatory. "When, however, the judge states the contentions of one of the parties, he must fairly charge also as to the contentions of the adversary litigant." In re Will of West, 227 N. C. 204, 209, 41 S. E. (2d) 838.

2. Statement of Evidence.

In General.—

This section sensibly requires, on the part of the judge, a statement of the evidence to which he is attempting to apply the law, though the decisions have rationalized the statute so that the statement of the evidence it requires may be dispensed with when the facts are simple. Morris v. Tate, 230 N. C. 29, 51 S. E. (2d) 892.

Recapitulation Unnecessary.—

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See State v. Thompson, 226 N. C. 651, 39 S. E. (2d) 823, 824.

Failure of the court to charge the jury as to the degree of circumstantial proof required to convict is not error, charge that jury should be satisfied from the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt of defendant's guilt in order to justify conviction being sufficient on the degree of proof required. State v. Shoup, 226 N. C. 69, 36 S. E. (2d) 697.

Where Judge Was under Impression Certain Material Facts Were Introduced in Evidence.—Where the court in its charge called material facts to the attention of the jury, supported by the statement of the court, as well as of counsel, that it was under the impression that they were introduced in evidence, and they were not withdrawn but were to be rejected and not considered only in the event the jury did not so recall, it was held that this was not a statement "in a plain and correct manner" of "the evidence given in the case." Curlee v. Scales, 223 N. C. 788, 791, 28 S. E. (2d) 576.

3. Explanation of Law.

In accord with 1st, 2nd and 3rd paragraphs in original. See Van Gelder Yarn Co. v. Mauney, 228 N. C. 99, 102, 44 S. E. (2d) 601.

The mandate of this section is not met by a statement of the general principles of law, without application to the specific facts involved in the issue. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Judge Must Explain Law as It Relates to Testimony.—The judge must declare and explain the law as it relates to the various aspects of the testimony offered. By this it is meant that this section requires the judge to explain the law of the case, to point out the essentials to be proved on the one side or the other, and to bring into view the relations of the particular evidence adduced to the particular issues involved. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

When a person is on trial for a statutory crime, it is not sufficient for the court merely to read the statute under which he stands indicted. The statute should be explained, the essential elements of the crime thereby created outlined and the law as thus defined should be applied to the evidence in the case. This "calls for instructions as to the law upon all substantial features of the case." State v. Sutton, 230 N. C. 244, 52 S. E. (2d) 921, citing Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484; State v. Fain, 229 N. C. 644, 50 S. E. (2d) 904.

Party Must Request.—

Where the court in its charge substantially complies with this section, if defendant desires further elaboration and explanation, he should tender prayers for instructions; otherwise, he cannot complain. State v. Gordon, 224 N. C. 304, 30 S. E. (2d) 43.

Where no special instructions were prayed and no omission of evidence, nor error in the stating thereof, was called to the attention of the court by defendant, and the court directed the attention of the jury to the principal questions which were under investigation and explained the law applicable thereto, it was held that this was all required of him by this section in the absence of prayers for special instructions. Ellis v. Wellons, 224 N. C. 269, 273, 29 S. E. (2d) 884.

An exception for failure of the court to charge upon the question of manslaughter, without exception to any portion of the charge or exception under this section, on the ground that the court failed to explain the law arising on the evidence and pointing out wherein the court failed to comply with this section does not properly present the question for review. State v. Brooks, 228 N. C. 68, 44 S. E. (2d) 482.

Effect of Failure to Request Special Instructions.—A litigant does not waive his statutory right to have the judge charge the jury as to the law upon all of the substantial features of the case by failing to present requests for special instructions. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

C. Illustrative Cases.

Failure to Give Elaborate Definition of Slander.—In an action for damages for slander, where in his charge to the jury the trial judge properly and fairly stated the evidence pertinent to the issues, and the contentions of the parties, in compliance with this section, and it appeared that the jury sufficiently understood the elements of actionable defamation necessary to be found before any liability could attach to defendants, there was no error in the court's failure to give a more elaborate definition of slander. Gillis v. Great Atlantic, etc., Tea Co., 223 N. C. 470, 27 S. E. (2d) 283.

Instruction as to Fornication and Adultery.—

Upon trial in the superior court, after appeal by the male defendant only from a conviction of fornication and adultery in the recorder's court, a charge that, if the jury find from the evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt, that this defendant, not being married to the woman, did lewdly and lasciviously bed and cohabit with her and violated the statute, they should bring in a verdict of guilty, and if they should fail to so find, they should bring in a verdict of not guilty, substantially complies with this section in the absence of request for further instructions. State v. Davenport, 225 N. C. 13, 33 S. E. (2d) 136.

Age and Chastity of Prosecutrix in Prosecution for Carnal Knowledge.—Where defendant, in a prosecution for carnal knowledge of a girl over twelve and under sixteen years of age, offers evidence of the immoral character of the prosecutrix and denies his identity as the perpetrator of the offense, an instruction which omits the age and chastity of prosecutrix as elements of the offense fails to meet the mandatory requirements of this section, and an exception thereto will be sustained. State v. Sutton, 230 N. C. 244, 52 S. E. (2d) 921.

Force Used in Defense of Home—Eviction of Trespassers.—When, in the trial of a criminal action charging an assault or kindred crime, there is evidence from which it may be inferred that the force used by defendant was in defense of his home, he is entitled to have the evidence considered in the light of applicable principles of law. In such event, it becomes the duty of the court to declare and explain the law arising thereon, and failure to so instruct the jury on such substantive feature is prejudicial error. And the same rule applies to the right to evict trespassers from one's home. State v. Spruill, 225 N. C. 356, 34 S. E. (2d) 142.

Right of Self-Defense.—Where state's evidence tended to show a deliberate, premeditated killing with a deadly weapon, and there was no evidence that the killing was in self-defense, and defendant offered no evidence, the failure of court to instruct the jury upon the right of self-defense was not error. State v. Deaton, 226 N. C. 348, 38 S. E. (2d) 81.

Violent Character of Deceased.—Where defendant introduced evidence that deceased was a man of violent character, an instruction during the trial to the effect that such evidence was competent upon the plea of self-defense, without any instruction in the charge or elsewhere applying the evidence to the question of defendants' reasonable apprehension of death or great bodily harm from the attack which their evidence tended to show that deceased had made on them, is insufficient to meet the requirements of this section, notwithstanding the absence of a request for special instructions. State v. Riddle, 228 N. C. 251, 45 S. E. (2d) 366.

Specific Intent in Robbery.—In a prosecution for robbery the court should charge that the taking of the property must be with a specific intent on the part of the taker to deprive the owner of his property permanently and to convert it to his own use, and an instruction merely that the taking must be with felonious intent is insufficient. State v. Lunsford, 229 N. C. 229, 49 S. E. (2d) 410.

Recommendation of Life Imprisonment.—In a prosecution for burglary in the first degree it is error for the court to fail to charge the jury that it may return a verdict of guilty of burglary in the first degree with recommendation of imprisonment for life. State v. Mathis, 230 N. C. 508, 53 S. E. (2d) 666.

Law of Circumstantial Evidence.—The duty imposed upon the trial court by this section to "declare and explain the law" arising in the case on trial does not require the court to instruct the jury upon the law of circumstantial evidence in a criminal action involving both direct and circumstantial testimony, where the state relies principally upon the direct evidence, and the direct evidence is sufficient, if believed, to warrant the conviction of the accused. State v. Hicks, 229 N. C. 345, 49 S. E. (2d) 639.

Legal Effect of Alibi.—Evidence of an alibi is substantive, and defendant is entitled to an instruction as to the legal effect of his evidence of alibi if believed by the jury. State v. Sutton, 230 N. C. 244, 52 S. E. (2d) 921.

Instruction to Disregard Previous Inconsistent Instructions.—The action of the trial court in prefacing a special instruction with a charge that the jury should disregard previous instructions if and to the extent of inconsistency with the instructions about to be given, is not approved, but in the instant case it was held not prejudicial. State v. Jackson, 228 N. C. 656, 46 S. E. (2d) 858.

Necessity for Defining Legal Status of Party.—The evidence disclosed that intestate was pushing a handcart on the right side of the highway, and that he was struck from the rear by defendant's vehicle traveling in the same direction. Plaintiff contended that the handcart was a vehicle and that §§ 20-146 and 20-149 applied. Defendant contended that intestate was a pedestrian and was required by § 20-174(d), to push the handcart along the extreme left-hand side of the highway. It was held that an instruction failing to define intestate's status and explain the law arising upon the evidence fails to meet the requirements of this section. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Inadvertently Omitting Issue as to Title in Charge in Replevin Action.—In action in replevin to recover possession of an automobile judge charged jury that if they were satisfied by the greater weight of the evidence of the truth of it, they should find in favor of the plaintiff or answer the first issue as to ownership "yes." It was held that charge inadvertently ignored the fact that title to the ownership of car was still at issue, and may be taken as assuming the fact that it was sufficiently proved or as expressing an opinion on the weight and sufficiency of the evidence. James v. James, 226 N. C. 399, 38 S. E. (2d) 168, 170.

Contradictory Evidence.—In civil action for damages resulting from collision between vehicles of plaintiff and defendant at street intersection, where the city maintained traffic signals, the evidence being sharply contradictory as to whether plaintiff or defendant violated the traffic signal by entering intersection on a red light, it was held that court erred, in its charge to jury, by failing to state in a plain and concise manner the evidence offered as to right of way between the parties and to declare and explain the law applicable thereto. Stewart v. Yellow Cab Co., 225 N. C. 654, 36 S. E. (2d) 256.

Burden of Proof.—Where defendant was seeking a monetary recovery of plaintiffs the burden of proving the right to such recovery was upon defendant, and failure to instruct jury as to this issue was error. Crain v. Hutchins, 226 N. C. 642, 39 S. E. (2d) 831, 832.

Negligence.—An instruction that if the jury should find certain specific facts from the greater weight of the evidence such conduct "would be negligence" instead of "would constitute negligence," was held not an expression of opinion in violation of this section, even when considered with a subsequent instruction applying the rule of the prudent man to the conduct of defendant when confronted by an emergency. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 227 N. C. 412, 413, 42 S. E. (2d) 593.

Reckless Driving.—An instruction that if the jury is satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant is guilty of reckless driving to convict him, otherwise to acquit him, is insufficient in a prosecution under § 20-140, to meet the requirements of this section since it fails to explain the law or apply the law to the facts as the jury should find them to be. State v. Flinchem, 228 N. C. 149, 44 S. E. (2d) 724.

The charge, in a prosecution for reckless driving and driving at an excessive speed, both as to the statement of the evidence and the law arising on the essential features of the evidence, was held to be in substantial compliance with the requirements of this section. State v. Vanhoy, 230 N. C. 162, 52 S. E. (2d) 278.

Mere Reading of Speed Regulations Is Insufficient.—The mere reading of the statutory speed regulations, laid down in § 20-141, without separating the irrelevant provisions from those pertinent to the evidence and without application of the relevant provisions to the evidence adduced, is insufficient to meet the requirements of this section. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Respondeat Superior.—In Webb v. Statesville Theatre Corp., 226 N. C. 342, 38 S. E. (2d) 84, it was held that the failure of court to charge jury upon the principle of respondeat superior was not error as failing to declare and explain the law arising on the evidence where defendant admitted the relationship of master and servant and the case was tried throughout on that theory.

Requirement of Section Complied with.—The charge of the court in State v. Thompson, 227 N. C. 19, 40 S. E. (2d) 620, was held to have complied with the requirement of this section. See also, Glosson v. Trollinger, 227 N. C. 84, 40 S. E. (2d) 606.

Time Limit for Request for Instructions.—Requests for special instructions must be in before the beginning of the argument. State v. Morgan, 225 N. C. 549, 35 S. E. (2d) 621.

Defendant's request for special instruction to jury while the solicitor was arguing the case and after counsel for defendant had completed his argument was too late to form a basis for a successful exceptive assignment of error. Id.

Section Mandatory.—It is within the sound discretion of the trial judge to give or to refuse prayer for instruction that is not in writing and signed as required by this section. State v. Spencer, 225 N. C. 608, 35 S. E. (2d) 887.

A Party Must Aptly Tender Written Request for Special Instructions.—If a litigant desires a fuller or more detailed charge by the court to the jury, it is incumbent upon him to ask therefor by presenting prayers for special instructions. Woods v. Roadway Express, 223 N. C. 269, 25 S. E. (2d) 856.

The court is at liberty to disregard oral requests for instructions which do not relate to a substantial and essential feature of the case. State v. Hicks, 229 N. C. 345, 49 S. E. (2d) 639.

The supreme court cannot indulge in speculation as to the form of an instruction, where no prayer for the instruction as required by this section appears in the record. Kearney v. Thomas, 225 N. C. 156, 33 S. E. (2d) 871.

Editor's Note.—In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See Avent v. Millard, 225 N. C. 40, 33 S. E. (2d) 123.

As to note on evidence to be considered on motion to nonsuit, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 243.

This section is procedural and does not affect the principles of demurrer to the evidence as it existed at common law. Gregory v. Travelers Ins. Co., 223 N. C. 124, 128, 25 S. E. (2d) 398, 147 A. L. R. 283 (con. op.).

Section Strictly Followed.—Since the allowance of a motion for judgment as of nonsuit is based upon purely statutory grounds, the requirement of this section must be strictly followed. Avent v. Millard, 225 N. C. 40, 33 S. E. (2d) 123.

Effect of Motion.—By its motion for a compulsory nonsuit under this section, and its prayers for a directed verdict, the defendant challenges the sufficiency of the evidence to support the cause of action alleged. Potter v. National Supply Co., 230 N. C. 1, 51 S. E. (2d) 908.

Time to Make Motion to Nonsuit.—In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See Avent v. Millard, 225 N. C. 40, 33 S. E. (2d) 123.

Failure to Renew Motion at Close of All the Evidence.—Defendant, by offering evidence and failing to renew his motion for judgment as in case of nonsuit at the close of all the evidence, as provided in this section, waives his exception to the denial of such motion entered when plaintiff first rested his case. Hawkins v. Dallas, 229 N. C. 561, 50 S. E. (2d) 561.

Motion to Nonsuit Is a Question of Law.—A motion to nonsuit tests the sufficiency of the evidence to carry the case to the jury and support a recovery. The question thus presented is a question of law and is always to be decided by the court. Ward v. Smith, 223 N. C. 141, 25 S. E. (2d) 463.

Court Does Not Pass on Credibility or Weight of Evidence.—In ruling on a motion for nonsuit, the court does not pass on the credibility of the witnesses or the weight of the testimony. Bundy v. Powell, 229 N. C. 707, 51 S. E. (2d) 307.

Plaintiff's Evidence Is Taken as True.—In passing upon a motion for a compulsory nonsuit under this section, the court must assume the evidence in behalf of the plaintiff to be true and must extend to the plaintiff the benefit of every fair inference which can be reasonably drawn therefrom by the jury in favor of the plaintiff. Hughes v. Thayer, 229 N. C. 773, 51 S. E. (2d) 488.

The evidence favorable to plaintiffs is taken as true. Stokes v. Edwards, 230 N. C. 306, 52 S. E. (2d) 797.

And All Conflicts Resolved in His Favor.—In determining whether or not the trial court erred in denying the defendant's motion for an involuntary nonsuit or in refusing to direct a verdict for the defendant in conformity to its requests for instructions, the supreme court must take it for granted that the evidence tending to support the plaintiff's claim is true and must resolve all conflicts of testimony in his favor. Potter v. National Supply Co., 230 N. C. 1, 51 S. E. (2d) 908. See Bundy v. Powell, 229 N. C. 707, 51 S. E. (2d) 307.

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See Wingler v. Miller, 223 N. C. 15, 25 S. E. (2d) 160; Ross v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 223 N. C. 239, 25 S. E. (2d) 852; Lindsey v. Speight, 224 N. C. 453, 31 S. E. (2d) 371; Atkins v. White Transp. Co., 224 N. C. 688, 32 S. E. (2d) 209; Buckner v. Wheeldon, 225 N. C. 62, 33 S. E. (2d) 480.

When Demurrer Entered at Close of All the Evidence.—When considering defendant's demurrer to the evidence entered at the close of all the evidence, that is, motion for judgment as in case of nonsuit entered at that stage of the trial, pursuant to provisions of this section, the evidence is to be taken in the light most favorable to plaintiff, and he is to be given the benefit of every fact or inference of fact pertaining to the issues involved, which may be reasonably deduced from the evidence. Garrett v. Garrett, 229 N. C. 290, 49 S. E. (2d) 643.

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See Gregory v. Travelers Ins. Co., 223 N. C. 124, 25 S. E. (2d) 398, 147 A. L. R. 283; Pappas v. Crist, 223 N. C. 265, 25 S. E. (2d) 850; Buckner v. Wheeldon, 225 N. C. 62, 33 S. E. (2d) 480.

Upon a motion as of nonsuit so much of defendant's evidence as is favorable to the plaintiff or tends to explain or make clear that which has been offered by plaintiff may be considered, but that which tends to establish another and a different state of facts or which tends to contradict or impeach the evidence offered by plaintiff is to be disregarded. Atkins v. White Transp. Co., 224 N. C. 688, 690, 32 S. E. (2d) 209; Bundy v. Powell, 229 N. C. 707, 51 S. E. (2d) 307.

The court will consider only the evidence which tends to support plaintiff's claim upon a motion for judgment as of nonsuit at the close of all evidence. Stell v. First Citizens Bank, etc., Co., 223 N. C. 550, 27 S. E. (2d) 524.

Nonsuit in Favor of Party Having Burden of Proof.—A judgment of nonsuit is never permissible in favor of the party having the burden of proof upon evidence offered by him. MacClure v. Accident, etc., Ins. Co., 229 N. C. 305, 49 S. E. (2d) 742.

There is but one exception to this rule: When the plaintiff offers sufficient evidence to constitute a prima facie case in an action in which the defendant has set up an affirmative defense, and the evidence of the plaintiff establishes the truth of the affirmative defense as a matter of law, a judgment of nonsuit may be entered. Id.

In the absence of such evidence or admissions on the part of the plaintiff it does not matter how clearly the matter appears in the evidence of the defendant, decision is not thereby shifted to the court as a matter of law, since the question of credibility still remains. Id.

When Motion Should Be Disallowed.—

Upon a motion for judgment as of nonsuit, the whole evidence must be taken in the light most favorable for plaintiff and the motion disallowed if there is any reasonable inference of defendant's proximately causative negligence, unless, in plaintiff's own evidence, there is such a clear inference of contributory negligence that reasonable minds could not come to a contrary conclusion. Jackson v. Browning, 224 N. C. 75, 29 S. E. (2d) 21.

Where defendants failed to lodge their motion for dismissal of the action and for a judgment as in case of nonsuit when plaintiff had introduced his evidence and rested his case, the granting of such a motion after all the evidence on both sides was in was unauthorized and error. Avent v. Millard, 225 N. C. 40, 33 S. E. (2d) 123.

Where Only Some of Defendants Move for Nonsuit.—When the only defendants who have any interest adverse to plaintiff move for judgment of nonsuit, which is granted, objection and exception thereto, upon the theory that only some of defendants lodged the motion, are untenable. Daughtry v. Daughtry, 223 N. C. 528, 27 S. E. (2d) 446.

Exception Considered on Appeal.—

In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See Atkins v. White Transp. Co., 224 N. C. 688, 32 S. E. (2d) 209.

Evidence Sufficient for Jury—Illustrative Cases.—

In an action for damages for personal injuries to plaintiff by negligence of defendant, where plaintiff's evidence tended to show that she was driving her car, at 20 to 25 miles per hour, south on a city street towards its intersection with another street running east and west, and that defendant's truck was approaching the intersection from the west and was 125 feet distant from the intersection when plaintiff entered same, and said truck, running at 45 miles per hour, struck plaintiff's car, which was within 4 feet of the curb on the south side of the intersection, knocking it 70 feet into a stone wall across the street, motion of nonsuit was properly denied. Crone v. Fisher, 223 N. C. 635, 27 S. E. (2d) 642.

In an action to recover damages for fraud where plaintiff, a woman 65 years of age and of no business experience and of limited education, sued defendant, a banker of large financial interests, and plaintiff's evidence tended to show that she consulted defendant, an old and intimate friend, about investing money and he invested her money in 1929 in a note secured by real estate mortgage, over four years past maturity, defendant assuring plaintiff that the note was "as good as gold," that he would look out for its collection and payment of taxes on the property and that the principal could be collected at any time, whereas the property was not worth the debt and defendant did not collect the interest regularly and allowed the realty securing the note to be sold for taxes in 1942, without notice to plaintiff, and plaintiff suffered a heavy loss from the investment, the allowance of motion for nonsuit was error. Small v. Dorsett, 223 N. C. 754, 28 S. E. (2d) 514.

In an action to recover damages for malpractice against a physician, where all the evidence tended to show that plaintiff, a patient in defendant's hospital and admittedly in an insane condition, got under her bed and could not be removed by the nurses, whereupon defendant took hold of her arm and pulled so hard that he heard the bone break, and failed to reduce or immobilize the fracture in a reasonable time, but sent for her father and delivered her to him, declining to treat her further, there was error in sustaining a motion for judgment as of nonsuit. Groce v. Myers, 224 N. C. 165, 29 S. E. (2d) 553.

Where plaintiff, a passenger in defendant's motor vehicle, brought an action to recover damages for personal injuries received from the alleged negligence of defendant's driver, when the car in which they were driving at about 35 to 40 miles per hour, on a paved highway, in fair weather, about seven-thirty a. m., suddenly left the road, ran down an embankment and turned over, causing the plaintiff's injuries, motion for judgment as of nonsuit, for lack of evidence of negligence, was held properly refused. Boone v. Matheny, 224 N. C. 250, 29 S. E. (2d) 687.

In an action for damages, based on abuse of process, where plaintiff's evidence tended to show that defendant procured the issuance of a warrant against plaintiff for disposing of mortgaged property and offered not to have it served if plaintiff would pay the amount claimed by defendant, and that, after plaintiff's arrest under the warrant and imprisonment, defendant offered to procure his release if plaintiff would pay or work out the amount claimed, there is sufficient evidence of motive and intent to carry the case to the jury and motion for judgment as of nonsuit was properly denied. Ellis v. Wellons, 224 N. C. 269, 29 S. E. (2d) 884.

In an action to recover damages for the wrongful death of plaintiff's intestate caused by a collision between the automobile of plaintiff's intestate and a truck of defendant, where plaintiff's evidence tended to show, though no eyewitness testified, that defendant's truck was being operated on its left-hand side of the highway and the coupe of plaintiff's intestate was being operated on its right-hand side of the highway, at the time of the collision between the two vehicles going in opposite directions, there was error in the allowance of a motion for judgment as of nonsuit at the close of plaintiff's evidence. Wyrick v. Ballard, etc., Co., 224 N. C. 301, 29 S. E. (2d) 900.

In divorce action, where evidence for plaintiff tends to show a living separate and apart for the statutory period and that plaintiff has resided in the state for six months, and defendant offered evidence of wrongful abandonment and recrimination, there is error in allowing a motion for judgment as of nonsuit. Taylor v. Taylor, 225 N. C. 80, 33 S. E. (2d) 492.

Upon a charge of fornication and adultery, it was held that there was sufficient evidence to support a conviction and motion for nonsuit was properly denied. State v. Davenport, 225 N. C. 13, 33 S. E. (2d) 136.

Upon a warrant charging defendant with violating § 60-136, which regulates the occupancy of seats by white and colored passengers in street cars or other passenger vehicles or motor buses, it was held that there was sufficient evidence for jury and motion for nonsuit was properly denied. State v. Brown, 225 N. C. 22, 33 S. E. (2d) 121.

In an action to recover damages for alleged injuries to plaintiff resulting from an admitted automobile collision, motion by defendants for judgment as of nonsuit held properly denied. Hobbs v. Queen City Coach Co., 225 N. C. 323, 34 S. E. (2d) 211.

When Nonsuit Proper—Illustrative Cases.—

Where defendant was confronted with an emergency, and the evidence did not disclose a failure on his part to exercise ordinary care in the operation of his automobile under the circumstances, defendant's motion for judgment as of nonsuit was held properly granted. O'Kelly v. Barbee, 223 N. C. 282, 284, 25 S. E. (2d) 750.

In an action to recover damages against defendant by plaintiff, who was an employee of a transportation company engaged in delivering caustic soda, a dangerous substance, by truck to defendant's mills, where plaintiff alleged negligence by defendant, it was held that defendant owed no duty to plaintiff to furnish a safe place, suitable appliances, and sufficient help, and since plaintiff on his own evidence, was guilty of contributory negligence, judgment of nonsuit was proper. Morrison v. Cannon Mills Co., 223 N. C. 387, 26 S. E. (2d) 857.

Where there was not sufficient evidence to be submitted to the jury of plaintiff being down or in an apparently helpless condition on the track, so that the engineer or fireman saw, or, by the exercise of ordinary care in keeping a proper lookout, could have seen such helpless condition of plaintiff in time to have stopped the train before striking him, there was no error in the ruling of the court, and the judgment as in case of nonsuit was properly entered. Battle v. Southern Ry. Co., 223 N. C. 395, 26 S. E. (2d) 859.

In an action for the negligent injury by defendant of plaintiff, who drove a tractor, to which were attached plows, on the railroad track of defendant, where it stalled and plaintiff remained on the track in an attempt to get the tractor and plows across, after he had seen defendant's train approaching, until injured, judgment of nonsuit was proper. Wilson v. Southern Ry. Co., 223 N. C. 407, 26 S. E. (2d) 900.

Where plaintiff was injured in an aeroplane crash, the pilot being negligent in not having a license, it was held that there was no evidence that this negligence was the proximate cause of the injury, the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur did not apply, and judgment as of nonsuit was proper. Smith v. Whitley, 223 N. C. 534, 27 S. E. (2d) 442.

Where in consideration of an agreement by his son and daughter to support him, plaintiff executed a fee simple deed, conveying all of his real estate to such son and daughter and about a year thereafter changed his mind and wanted his land back, and there was no evidence of fraud or undue influence, motion for judgment as of nonsuit was properly allowed. Gerringer v. Gerringer, 223 N. C. 818, 28 S. E. (2d) 501.

Where the evidence tended to show that defendant's servant, contrary to orders and without his master's knowledge, took deceased and other boys, also employees of defendant, at their request, on a pleasure ride in the master's truck, and, while so engaged on the public highway, the truck struck a hole and plaintiff's intestate was thrown out and killed, defendant's demurrer to the evidence should have been sustained. Rogers v. Black Mountain, 224 N. C. 119, 29 S. E. (2d) 203.

In action by owner of automobile against operator of a parking lot to recover for theft of the car upon the theory of bailment, where evidence tended to show that contract signed by plaintiff obligated defendant to permit the vehicle to occupy parking space in the lot, that ordinarily driver parked and removed car herself, taking the keys with her, but that on the occasion in question the driver left vehicle at the gas pumps on the lot with the keys in the car, and that car was taken by a person unknown, it was held the evidence was insufficient to show a bailment and motion for judgment as of nonsuit was proper. Freeman v. Myers Automobile Service Co., 226 N. C. 736, 40 S. E. (2d) 365.

Motion for judgment as of nonsuit held proper in action for injuries to plaintiff caused by defendant's "magic eye" doors, Watkins v. Taylor Furnishing Co., 224 N. C. 674, 31 S. E. (2d) 917; in action to recover double indemnity on insurance policy. McLain v. Shenandoah Life Ins. Co., 224 N. C. 837, 32 S. E. (2d) 592; in action to set up and foreclose alleged lost mortgage, Downing v. Dickson, 224 N. C. 455, 31 S. E. (2d) 378; in action for wrongful death, Eldridge v. Church Oil Co., 224 N. C. 457, 31 S. E. (2d) 381; in action for damages from negligent operation of defendant's automobile, Ray v. Post, 224 N. C. 665, 32 S. E. (2d) 168; in divorce action, Dudley v. Dudley, 225 N. C. 83, 33 S. E. (2d) 489; Moody v. Moody, 225 N. C. 89, 33 S. E. (2d) 491; in broker's action for commission, Bolich-Hall Realty, etc., Co. v. Disher, 225 N. C. 345, 34 S. E. (2d) 200.

In accord with 3rd paragraph in original. See Crone v. Fisher, 223 N. C. 635, 27 S. E. (2d) 642; Atkins v. White Transp. Co., 224 N. C. 688, 32 S. E. (2d) 209.

In accord with 3rd and 7th paragraphs in original. See Daughtry v. Cline, 224 N. C. 381, 30 S. E. (2d) 322; Bundy v. Powell, 229 N. C. 707, 51 S. E. (2d) 307.

"It is the prevailing and permissible rule of practice to enter judgment of nonsuit in a negligence case, when it appears from the evidence offered on behalf of the plaintiff that his own negligence was the proximate cause of the injury, or one of them." Bailey v. North Carolina R. Co., 223 N. C. 244, 247, 25 S. E. (2d) 833, quoting Godwin v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 220 N. C. 281, 17 S. E. (2d) 137.

Contributory negligence is an affirmative defense which the defendant must plead and prove (§ 1-139). Nevertheless, a defendant may take advantage of his plea of contributory negligence by a motion for a compulsory judgment of nonsuit under this section when the facts necessary to show the contributory negligence are established by the plaintiff's own evidence. Bundy v. Powell, 229 N. C. 707, 51 S. E. (2d) 307.

The court cannot allow a motion for judgment of nonsuit on the ground of contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff in actions for personal injury or of the decedent in actions for wrongful death if it is necessary to rely either in whole or in part on testimony offered by the defense to sustain the plea of contributory negligence. Id.

Same—Evidence Sufficient to Sustain Nonsuit.—

Where the driver of plaintiff's loaded truck, trailing defendants' bus at 25 to 30 miles per hour and within 20 feet, on a street 25 to 30 feet wide with an open space on the left of from 12 to 17 feet, saw the bus begin to stop and "slammed on his brakes," as he was too near to turn aside or stop, hitting the bus with such force that the front of the truck was practically demolished and the bus was badly damaged, defendants' motion for judgment as of nonsuit on the ground of contributory negligence should have been sustained. Atkins v. White Transp. Co., 224 N. C. 688, 32 S. E. (2d) 209.

Evidence Sufficient to Deny Nonsuit.—

In an action for alleged damages to plaintiff's stock of goods by the willful, wanton, and malicious negligence of defendants, employees of the state highway commission, where the plaintiff's evidence tended to show that defendants, in charge of a sweeper and blower in working the highway near plaintiff's store, without warning, so used the sweeper and blower as to throw such a cloud of dirt and filth through the open windows and doors of the store that the merchandise therein was badly damaged, there is ample evidence for the jury and allowance of motion for judgment as of nonsuit, was erroneous. Miller v. Jones, 224 N. C. 783, 32 S. E. (2d) 594.

Plaintiff's evidence was to the effect that intestate had an unobstructed view along the track upon which the train approached for only 600 feet, that intestate looked and listened immediately before traveling onto the crossing, that the crossing was in bad repair and the car stalled on the track, and was hit by the speeding train seven seconds after its approach could have been reasonably apprehended. It was held that defendant railroad company's motion to nonsuit on the ground of contributory negligence should have been denied notwithstanding defendants' testimony that plaintiff drove upon the track in the path of the oncoming train and defendants' photographic evidence showing an entirely different situation at the crossing. Bundy v. Powell, 229 N. C. 707, 51 S. E. (2d) 307.

Setting Aside after Refusal of Motion.—
In accord with original. See Watkins v. Grier, 224 N. C. 334, 30 S. E. (2d) 219.

Refusal of defendant's motion for nonsuit and his failure to offer evidence should not be considered as conclusively establishing the credibility of plaintiff's evidence. Grady v. Faison, 224 N. C. 567, 31 S. E. (2d) 760.

Applied, in action for loss of services and consortium of wife as result of taxi accident, in Watkins v. Grier, 224 N. C. 339, 30 S. E. (2d) 223; in action for wrongful death of child by drowning in pond created by a stopped drain, in Hedgepath v. Durham, 223 N. C. 822, 28 S. E. (2d) 503; in action for damages sustained from falling on step down from lobby into defendant's store, in Benton v. United Bank Bldg. Co., 223 N. C. 809, 28 S. E. (2d) 491; in action to set aside deed on ground of incompetency, duress and undue influence, in Goodson v. Lehmon, 225 N. C. 514, 35 S. E. (2d) 623, 164 A. L. R. 510. For other cases applying section, see Bourne v. Southern Ry. Co., 225 N. C. 43, 33 S. E. (2d) 239; Chason v. Marley, 224 N. C. 844, 32 S. E. (2d) 652; Stafford v. Yale, 228 N. C. 220, 44 S. E. (2d) 872; Sisson v. Royster, 228 N. C. 298, 45 S. E. (2d) 351; Penland v. Southern R. Co., 228 N. C. 528, 46 S. E. (2d) 303; Bethune v. Bridges, 228 N. C. 623, 46 S. E. (2d) 711; Hahn v. Perkins, 228 N. C. 727, 46 S. E. (2d) 854.

Judge's Findings of Fact Are Conclusive.—Where the parties consent to trial by the court without a jury, the findings of the court are as conclusive as a verdict of the jury if supported by competent evidence. Poole v. Gentry, 229 N. C. 266, 49 S. E. (2d) 464.

When an action is tried by the court without a jury pursuant to the provisions of this section, the findings of fact of the trial judge are conclusive, and are not subject to review on appeal, in the absence of exceptions that they are not supported by evidence. Cannon v. Blair, 229 N. C. 606, 50 S. E. (2d) 732.

Applied in Griggs v. Stoker Service Co., 229 N. C. 572, 50 S. E. (2d) 914.

Findings of Judge Conclusive.—
Findings of fact by the court, when a jury trial has been waived by consent, will not be disturbed on appeal, if based upon competent evidence. Fish v. Hanson, 223 N. C. 143, 25 S. E. (2d) 461.

Art. 20. Reference.

II. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

How Right of Trial by Jury Preserved.—In order to preserve the right to trial by jury in a compulsory reference, a party must object to the order of reference at the time it is made, file exceptions to particular findings of fact made by the referee, tender appropriate issues based on the facts pointed out by the exceptions and raised by the pleadings, and demand a jury trial on each of the issues thus tendered. Simmons v. Lee, 230 N. C. 216, 53 S. E. (2d) 79.

Right Waived by Failure to Follow Appropriate Procedure.—The right to trial by jury in civil cases may be waived, and in reference cases the failure to except to the findings of the referee or properly to preserve the right to jury trial has been uniformly held to constitute a waiver. Chesson v. Kieckhefer Container Co., 223 N. C. 378, 26 S. E. (2d) 904.

While a compulsory reference, under this section, does not deprive either party of his constitutional right to trial by jury on the issues of fact arising on the pleadings, such right is waived by failure to follow the appropriate procedure. Simmons v. Lee, 230 N. C. 216, 53 S. E. (2d) 79.

Party Should Tender Issues of Fact Arising on Pleadings.—A party should not tender issues as to questions of fact presented by his exceptions to the findings of the referee, but should tender issues of fact arising on the pleadings and relate his issues of fact to his exceptions and to the findings of fact by number, and demand a jury trial as to each of such issues. Simmons v. Lee, 230 N. C. 216, 53 S. E. (2d) 79, wherein compulsory reference was ordered in special proceeding to establish boundary line.

Jury Trial on Issues.—
In reference cases the trial by jury is restricted by this section to the written evidence taken before the referee, which sufficiently complies with the constitutional mandate, if the testimony is taken under oath in the manner prescribed by law, with opportunity to cross-examine. Chesson v. Kieckhefer Container Co., 223 N. C. 378, 26 S. E. (2d) 904.

When Findings of Referee Are Conclusive.—On a reference without objection, the findings of the referee, when approved by the trial court, are conclusive on appeal, unless there be no evidence to support them or some error of law has been committed in the hearing of the cause. Williamson v. Spivey, 224 N. C. 311, 30 S. E. (2d) 46.

Pleas of Estoppel, Laches and Adverse Possession.—Where in an action to redeem land sold under foreclosure under order of court and for an accounting, defendants plead estoppel, laches and title by adverse possession for seven years under color (§ 1-38), it is error for the court to resolve the pleas in bar against defendant and order a compulsory reference, since defendants are entitled to an adequate hearing on their pleas in bar before reference can properly be ordered. Grady v. Parker, 230 N. C. 166, 52 S. E. (2d) 273.

In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See Lindsay v. Brawley, 226 N. C. 468, 38 S. E. (2d) 528.

Upon appeal in a consent reference the superior court has the power to confirm the findings of the referee in whole or in part, to set aside the findings in whole or in part and substitute other findings supported by the evidence. Ramsey v. Nebel, 226 N. C. 590, 39 S. E. (2d) 616.

Art. 21. Issues.

Error to Submit Issue Not Raised by Pleadings.—
It is error for the court to submit to the jury issues not arising on the pleadings. McCullen v. Durham, 229 N. C. 418, 50 S. E. (2d) 511.

Editor's Note.—
In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See Griffin v. United Services Life Ins. Co., 225 N. C. 684, 686, 36 S. E. (2d) 225.

Ordinarily the form and number of issues in a civil action are left to the sound discretion of the judge and a party cannot complain because a particular issue was not submitted to jury in the form tendered. Griffin v. United Services Life Ins. Co., 225 N. C. 684, 686, 36 S. E. (2d) 225.

When Sufficient.—
The issues submitted together with the answers thereto must be sufficient to support a judgment disposing of the whole case. Griffin v. United Services Life Ins. Co., 225 N. C. 684, 686, 36 S. E. (2d) 225, citing Tucker v. Satterthwaite, 120 N. C. 118, 27 S. E. 45.

Case Remanded for Insufficient Issues.—In an action to recover on policy of life insurance, where there were issues squarely raised by the pleadings, supported by evidence, as to valid delivery and payment of first premium, and court declined to submit such issues or to submit others of similar import, which would be determinative of questions presented, supreme court will remand for new trial. Griffin v. United Services Life Ins. Co., 225 N. C. 684, 36 S. E. (2d) 225.

Art. 22. Verdict and Exceptions.

Applied in State v. Lovelace, 228 N. C. 186, 45 S. E. (2d) 48.

3. In any trial or hearing no exception need be taken to any ruling upon an objection to the admission of evidence. Such objection shall be deemed to imply an exception by the party against whom the ruling was made. (Rev., s. 554; Code, s. 412; C. C. P., s. 236; 1949, c. 150; C. S. 590.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added subsection 3. As subsections 1 and 2 were not changed they are not set out. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 435.

Discretion of the Judge.—

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See Ziglar v. Ziglar, 226 N. C. 102, 36 S. E. (2d) 657; King v. Byrd, 229 N. C. 177, 47 S. E. (2d) 856; Carolina Coach Co. v. Central Motor Lines, 229 N. C. 650, 50 S. E. (2d) 909.

In accord with 6th paragraph in original. See Alligood v. Shelton, 224 N. C. 754, 32 S. E. (2d) 350.

Where motion to set aside a verdict involves no question of law or legal inference, the motion is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court, and its ruling thereon is not subject to review in the absence of abuse of discretion. Pruitt v. Ray, 230 N. C. 322, 52 S. E. (2d) 876.

Art. 23. Judgment.

Cited in Moore v. Moore, 224 N. C. 552, 31 S. E. (2d) 690.

§ 1-209. Judgments authorized to be entered by clerk; sale of property; continuance pending sale; writs of assistance and possession.

Judgment of Voluntary Nonsuit.—

Under this section, conferring on the clerks of the superior court authority to enter judgments of nonsuit, the authority is limited to judgments of voluntary nonsuit. Moore v. Moore, 224 N. C. 552, 555, 31 S. E. (2d) 690.

In wife's action against husband for separate maintenance and counsel fees, judgment entered by clerk, upon findings of fact that parties had resumed marital relations, dismissing the action as of voluntary nonsuit, was a nullity and void upon its face, as it was manifestly not voluntary. Id.

Jurisdiction of clerk of superior court to order foreclosure of mortgages is given by this section, in connection with § 1-211, and is an incidental jurisdiction conditioned upon the rendition by the clerk of a judgment by default for the debt secured by the mortgage in favor of the mortgage creditor and against the mortgage debtor. Johnston County v. Ellis, 226 N. C. 268, 38 S. E. (2d) 31, 38.

I. IN GENERAL.

A. Failure to File Answer.

Effect of Failure Promptly to Take Judgment by Default.—

In action on note and to foreclose trust deed failure of plaintiffs to move promptly for judgment after they are entitled by lapse of prescribed time or the expiration of the time allowed by consent order does not work a discontinuance. King v. Rudd, 226 N. C. 156, 37 S. E. (2d) 116.

Applied in Hodges v. Hodges, 227 N. C. 334, 42 S. E. (2d) 82.

Cited in Whitaker v. Raines, 226 N. C. 526, 39 S. E. (2d) 266; Scott & Co. v. Jones, 230 N. C. 74, 52 S. E. (2d) 219.

II. NATURE AND ESSENTIALS.

A. Definite Debt.

Sum Certain or Computable.—

Under this section, default judgment can be made only upon a failure to answer a verified pleading where the sum due is "capable of being ascertained by computation," and where it is necessary to hear evidence to ascertain title to mortgage debt and the amount of the debt, clerk is without jurisdiction to order foreclosure. Johnston County v. Ellis, 226 N. C. 268, 38 S. E. (2d) 31, 38.

VI. SETTING ASIDE.

Sections 1-272, 1-273 and 1-274 Are Inapplicable.—Sections 1-272, 1-273 and 1-274, regulating appeals from the clerk of the superior court to the judge, are inapplicable to appeals from orders or judgments entered by the clerk pursuant to this section or § 1-212, since the jurisdiction of the judge under this and the following section is original as well as appellate. Moody v. Howell, 229 N. C. 198, 49 S. E. (2d) 233.

For Jurisdiction of Judge to Set Aside Default Judgment Is Original.—The judge of a superior court has concurrent jurisdiction with the clerk of the court to enter judgments by default, and to vacate such judgments, and the jurisdiction of the judge on motion to set aside a default judgment entered by the clerk is original as well as appellate. Moody v. Howell, 229 N. C. 198, 49 S. E. (2d) 233.

Judgment Is Valid Lien When No Attack Made.—Where a judgment by default final instead of by default and inquiry has been rendered for goods sold and delivered on open account, the judgment is not void but is merely irregular, and when no attack is made upon it at the hearing, it constitutes a valid lien upon the lands of the judgment debtor. Scott & Co. v. Jones, 230 N. C. 74, 52 S. E. (2d) 219.

The effect of the failure of the defendants to appear in response to the summons and complaint personally served upon them was to establish pro confesso in the plaintiff a right of action of the kind properly pleaded in the complaint and thereupon the plaintiff became entitled as a matter of law to recover on the cause of action set out in his complaint. Presnell v. Beshears, 227 N. C. 279, 280, 41 S. E. (2d) 835.

Appeals from Judgments Entered by Clerk. — Sections 1-272, 1-273 and 1-274, regulating appeals from the clerk of the superior court to the judge, are inapplicable to appeals from orders or judgments entered by the clerk pursuant to this section or § 1-211, since the jurisdiction of the judge under this and the preceding section is original as well as appellate. Moody v. Howell, 229 N. C. 198, 49 S. E. (2d) 233.

Jurisdiction of Judge Is Concurrent and Original.—The judge of a superior court has concurrent jurisdiction with the clerk of the court to enter judgments by default, and to vacate such judgments, and the jurisdiction of the judge on motion to set aside a default judgment entered by the clerk is original as well as appellate. Moody v. Howell, 229 N. C. 198, 49 S. E. (2d) 233.

Under the former statute, providing that no judgment shall be entered by the clerk except on Monday, unless otherwise provided, a judgment rendered by the clerk on any other day was void. Ange v. Owens, 224 N. C. 514, 31 S. E. (2d) 521.

Legislature Cannot Validate Void Judgment.—This section was directly intended to validate judgments not rendered on Monday as required by the former statute. However, it is well understood that the legislature has no power to validate a void judgment. Ange v. Owens, 224 N. C. 514, 31 S. E. (2d) 521.

§ 1-218. Rendered in vacation.—In all cases where the superior court in vacation has jurisdiction, and all of the parties unite in the proceedings, they may apply for relief to the superior court in vacation, or in term time, at their election. (Rev., s. 559; Code, s. 230; 1871-2, c. 3; 1937, c. 361; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 598.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, struck out the former second paragraph relating to confirmation of judicial sales.

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—See notes to §§ 1-211, 1-212.

As to opening default judgment for negligence of attorney, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 84.

Applies Only to Matters of Fact.—

The relief given under this section, on the ground of "mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect" refers to mistake of fact and not of law. Rierson v. York, 227 N. C. 575, 578, 42 S. E. (2d) 902.

However, the larger part of the court's jurisdiction under this section is invoked under "excusable neglect" where there is neither mistake of law nor fact. Id.

So a judgment may be set aside for excusable neglect irrespective of whether the neglect is induced by mistake of fact or law. Id.

Excusable Neglect and Meritorious Defense.—

Court held without discretion to vacate default judgment except upon a finding of fatal irregularity or excusable neglect and meritorious defense. Wilson v. Thaggard, 225 N. C. 348, 34 S. E. (2d) 140.

Excusable Neglect Alone Is Insufficient.—A party, moving in apt time under the provisions of this section, to set aside a judgment taken against him, on the ground of excusable neglect, not only must show excusable neglect, but also must make it appear that he has a meritorious defense to the plaintiff's cause of action. Hanford v. McSwain, 230 N. C. 229, 53 S. E. (2d) 84.

Existence of a meritorious cause of action is a prerequisite to relief on motion to vacate former judgment. Craver v. Spaugh, 226 N. C. 450, 38 S. E. (2d) 525, 527.

Meritorious Defense Must Be Shown.—

Where defendant was indicted for breaking and entering, and upon his failure to appear judgment nisi was entered against him and his surety, and sci. fa. issued and served upon defendant surety, and upon return of the sci. fa. judgment absolute was entered against defendant and his surety, and subsequently, defendants made a motion to set the judgment aside because of surprise and excusable neglect alleging that they had been misled because the motion for judgment absolute did not appear for hearing on the printed calendar of cases to be heard at that term, it was held that the motion was properly denied since defendants made no allegation that they had any meritorious defense, and none was presented on the hearing of their motion. State v. O'Connor, 223 N. C. 469, 27 S. E. (2d) 88.

The question of meritorious defense becomes immaterial in the absence of sufficient showing of excusable neglect. Johnson v. Sidbury, 225 N. C. 208, 210, 34 S. E. (2d) 67; Whitaker v. Raines, 226 N. C. 526, 39 S. E. (2d) 266, 267.

Surprise at the action of the court did not constitute ground for setting aside judgment under this section. This section does not afford relief from a judgment on the ground of mistake of law. Crissman v. Palmer, 225 N. C. 472, 35 S. E. (2d) 422.

Where deed with the notary's certificate showed his commission expired before date of deed and grantee had been in possession thereof approximately twenty years, and the plaintiff in his reply, on file some time before the trial, had denied that there had been a valid registration of the deed under which defendant claimed mineral interests, and the record of the commissioning of notaries was at all times available to grantee, he could not claim surprise or inadvertence because record showed notary's commission had not expired. Id.

Cited in Tomlins v. Cranford, 227 N. C. 323, 42 S. E. (2d) 100.

II. THE RELIEF.

Discretionary with the Judge.—

The discretionary power of the trial court to set aside a default judgment for mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect is a legal discretion and reviewable. Rierson v. York, 227 N. C. 575, 42 S. E. (2d) 902.

III. APPLICATION OF THE PRINCIPLES.

A. Neglect of Party.

Where Summons Regularly Served.—

Where, notwithstanding the summons and complaint in a civil action were duly served on defendant and copies left with him, defendant failed for a period of thirty days to acquaint himself with their contents and to file an answer or other defense, attributing his inattention and neglect to the similarity of the title of the case to a former action and to his preoccupation in the duties of his profession, there is no evidence in law to constitute such excusable neglect as would relieve an intelligent and active businessman from the consequences of his conduct as against diligent suitors proceeding in accordance with the statute. Johnson v. Sidbury, 225 N. C. 208, 34 S. E. (2d) 67.

Failure to File Proper Answer.—Where there are no findings of fact which would show excusable neglect on the part of defendants, or that the failure to file proper answer and undertaking was due to excusable neglect, it is error for court to allow defendant's motion to set aside judgment. Whitaker v. Raines, 226 N. C. 526, 39 S. E. (2d) 266, 267.

Sickness of Attorney.—Findings that the neglect of the defendant was due to the incapacity of her lawyer induced by serious illness, that she had used due diligence and that the attorney's neglect should not be imputed to her, and that defendant has a meritorious defense, is sufficient to support the court's order setting aside a default judgment under this section. Rierson v. York, 227 N. C. 575, 42 S. E. (2d) 902.

B. Neglect of Counsel.

Excusable neglect of an attorney, who fails to file an answer for the defendants, may not be attributable to his clients. Gunter v. Dowdy, 224 N. C. 522, 31 S. E. (2d) 524.

Where plaintiff issued summons and filed complaint, serving both on defendant, who in apt time employed an attorney to make answer and resist the suit, and judgment by default was taken by plaintiff, no answer having been filed in consequence of the illness and death of the wife of defendant's attorney and the prolonged illness of the attorney himself, such circumstances constitute excusable neglect under this section. Id.

IV. PLEADING AND PRACTICE.

Appeal from Order of Clerk.—

The clerk of the superior court has authority to relieve a party from an irregular judgment or one taken against him by mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect; and, on appeal in such cases from the clerk, the judge shall hear and pass upon the matter de novo, finding the facts and entering his judgment accordingly. Gunter v. Dowdy, 224 N. C. 522, 31 S. E. (2d) 524.

Discretion of Judge Not Reviewable on Appeal.—

Where, on a motion to set aside a default judgment under this section the trial court finds facts sufficient to support the conclusion that the litigant's neglect was excusable, objection to the order setting aside the default judgment on the ground that the facts were insufficient to show a mistake of fact, is untenable, the finding of excusable neglect and meritorious defense being sufficient to support the judgment, and the supreme court being bound by the findings when supported by evidence. Rierson v. York, 227 N. C. 575, 576, 42 S. E. (2d) 902.

Findings of Court Conclusive.—Upon motion to set aside a judgment under this section, the findings of the court as to excusable neglect and meritorious defense are conclusive on appeal when supported by evidence, but such findings are not conclusive if made under a misapprehension of the law, in which instance the cause will be remanded to the end that the evidence be considered in its true legal light. Hanford v. McSwain, 230 N. C. 229, 53 S. E. (2d) 84.

Relief Limited to That Demanded Where No Answer Filed.—

Superior court had power, by a default judgment, to declare debtor's deed conveying realty to wife fraudulent and void as to suing creditors, but court acted in excess of its jurisdiction when it ordered wife to reconvey the lands to her husband and attempted to make the judgment effective as a transfer of title, where there was nothing in the cause of action stated by the creditors which rendered such action either necessary, or upon which it could be properly based. Lane v. Becton, 225 N. C. 457, 35 S. E. (2d) 334, 336.

Section Is Partially Superseded by § 47-27.—The provision of this section that judgments in which transfers of title are declared shall be registered under the same rules prescribed for deeds is superseded, as to judgments in eminent domain proceedings, by the later enactment of chap. 148, Public Laws of 1917 (§ 47-27), exempting decrees of courts of competent jurisdiction in condemnation proceedings from the requirement as to registration. Carolina Power, etc., Co. v. Bowman, 228 N. C. 319, 45 S. E. (2d) 531. See also note to § 40-19.

I. IN GENERAL.

Order of Resale of Realty Does Not Prolong Life of Lien.—Where the bid for real estate, offered at a sale held under authority of an execution within the period of ten years next after the date of rendition of the judgment upon which the execution issued, is raised and resales are ordered successively under the provision of § 45-28 by which the final sale so ordered takes place on a date after the expiration of said period of ten years, such orders do not have the effect of prolonging the statutory life of lien of the judgment within the provisions and meaning of this section. Cheshire v. Drake, 223 N. C. 577, 27 S. E. (2d) 627. For comment on this decison, see 22 N. C. Law Rev. 146.

II. CREATION OF THE LIEN AND PRIORITIES.

A. Sufficiency.

1. Realty.

A docketed judgment fixes the lien and the debtor cannot escape it. Moore v. Jones, 226 N. C. 149, 36 S. E. (2d) 920, 922.

B. Priorities.

Between Judgment and Subsequent Mortgage.—A docketed judgment has priority over a subsequently recorded mortgage. Moore v. Jones, 226 N. C. 149, 36 S. E. (2d) 920, 922.

III. PROPERTY SUBJECT TO THE LIEN.

A. Property Located in County Where Judgment Docketed.

In General.—The owner of a docketed judgment has a lien on all the real estate of his debtor within his county. Moore v. Jones, 226 N. C. 149, 36 S. E. (2d) 920, 922.

V. LOSS OF THE LIEN.

In General.—The lien of a judgment, created upon real estate by the provisions of this section, is for a period of ten years from the date of the rendition of the judgment and such lien ceases to exist at the end of that time, unless suspended in the manner set out in the statute. It is in the interest of public policy that this statue should be strictly construed. Cheshire v. Drake, 223 N. C. 577, 27 S. E. (2d) 627.

Lien Is Lost if Sale Not Made in Ten Years.—This section and § 1-306 clearly manifest the legislative intent that the process to enforce the judgment lien and to render it effectual must be completed by a sale within the prescribed time. Hence, it follows that the lien upon lands of a docketed judgment is lost by the lapse of ten years from the date of the docketing, and this notwithstanding execution was begun, but not completed, before the expiration of the ten years. The only office of an execution is to enforce the lien of the judgment by a sale of the lands, and this must be done before the lien is lost. The execution adds nothing by way of prolongation to the life of the lien. McCullen v. Durham, 229 N. C. 418, 50 S. E. (2d) 511.

Effect of § 45-28.—An execution sale held less than ten days before the expiration of ten years after the rendition of the judgment was held ineffective, since under former § 45-28, the sale under execution could "not be deemed to be closed under ten days," in order to afford opportunity for an increase in the bid, and thus the sale could not be consummated within the ten year period. The contentions that the sheriff's deed related back to the day of the sale, and that delay on the part of the sheriff in executing the deed or making formal return could not adversely affect the rights of the purchaser, were inapposite. McCullen v. Durham, 229 N. C. 418, 50 S. E. (2d) 511.

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of this section in connection with Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 245.

This Section Creates a New Right.—At common law no right of action for contribution existed between or among joint tort-feasors who were in pari delicto, thus the right is statutory, and its use necessarily depends upon the terms of this section. Godfrey v. Tidewater Power Co., 223 N. C. 647, 649, 27 S. E. (2d) 736.

Its Purpose.—The intent and purpose of this section is to permit a defendant, who has been sued in a tort action, to bring into the action for purpose of enforcing contribution, any joint tort-feasor, against whom the plaintiff could have originally brought suit in the same action. Wilson v. Massagee, 224 N. C. 705, 713, 32 S. E. (2d) 335.

The purpose of the statute is to permit defendants in tort actions to litigate mutual contingent liabilities before they have accrued, so that all matters in controversy growing out of the same subject of action may be settled in one action, though the plaintiff in the action may be thus delayed in securing his remedy. Evans v. Johnson, 225 N. C. 238, 34 S. E. (2d) 73.

But it was not the purpose and it is not the effect of this section to create a cause of action in contribution between joint tort-feasors when the lex loci delicti gives none. Charnock v. Taylor, 223 N. C. 360, 26 S. E. (2d) 911, 148 A. L. R. 1126.

Right Must be Enforced According to Form of Section.—The right to contribution comes from this section, and it is to be enforced according to the form of this section. Tarkington v. Rock Hill Printing, etc., Co., 230 N. C. 354, 53 S. E. (2d) 269.

What Must Be Alleged and Proved to Enforce Contribution.—Where a judgment has been obtained, arising out of a joint tort, and only one of the joint tort-feasors was a party and judgment against him alone, to enable such judgment debtor to recover, under this section, against the other joint tort-feasor, he must allege and prove, in an action de novo, the negligence of his alleged joint tort-feasor, the defendant, and his duty of contribution. Charlotte v. Cole, 223 N. C. 106, 25 S. E. (2d) 407.

Right Is Not One of Subrogation.—This section gives to one joint tort-feasor, who is sued, the right to bring in others jointly liable with him and to require them to contribute proportionately to the payment of any judgment which the plaintiff may recover, but this would not include the right to step into the plaintiff's shoes and prosecute any claim which he might have against them. The right sought to be enforced is one of contribution, and not one of subrogation. Tarkington v. Rock Hill Printing, etc., Co., 230 N. C. 354, 53 S. E. (2d) 269.

It Is Not Dependent on Plaintiff's Continued Right to Sue.—The right of one joint tort-feasor to enforce contribution against another is said to spring from the plaintiff's suit. This right of contribution, however, projects itself beyond the plaintiff's suit, and is not dependent upon the plaintiff's continued right to sue both or all the joint tort-feasors. Godfrey v. Tidewater Power Co., 223 N. C. 647, 27 S. E. (2d) 736, 149 A. L. R. 1183. It is the joint tort and common liability to suit which gives rise to the right to "enforce contribution" under this section. Tarkington v. Rock Hill Printing, etc., Co., 230 N. C. 354, 53 S. E. (2d) 269.

Enforcement of Right of Contribution after Payment of Judgment.—The right of contribution may be enforced after the liability to the injured party has been extinguished by payment of the judgment and its transfer to a trustee for the benefit of the paying judgment debtor. Godfrey v. Tidewater Power Co., 223 N. C. 647, 27 S. E. (2d) 736.

Assignment to Third Party Necessary to Claim Subrogation.—See Stewart v. Parker, 225 N. C. 551, 35 S. E. (2d) 615.

Plaintiff Cannot Be Compelled to Sue Joint Tort-Feasors.—In so far as plaintiff is concerned, when he has elected to sue only one of joint tort-feasors, the others are not necessary parties and plaintiff cannot be compelled to pursue them; nor can the original defendant avail himself of this section to compel plaintiff to join issue with a defendant he has elected not to sue. Original defendant cannot rely on the liability of the party brought in to the original plaintiff, but must recover, if at all, upon the liability of such party to him. Charnock v. Taylor, 223 N. C. 360, 26 S. E. (2d) 911, 148 A. L. R. 1126.

Original Defendant Cannot Bring in Injured Third Persons.—This section neither directly nor by implication authorizes the bringing in of persons who are apprehended to have been damaged or injured, at the convenience of the tort-feasor in determining the right to contribution in one trial. Fleming v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 229 N. C. 397, 50 S. E. (2d) 45.

On Allegation That Plaintiff Was Joint Tort-Feasor.—This section provides that a tort-feasor sued by the injured person may bring in joint tort-feasors as parties defendant, but it does not authorize a party sued for negligent injury to join injured third persons upon its allegation that plaintiff was a joint tort-feasor in causing the calamity resulting in injury to himself and such third parties, and thus force such injured third parties to prosecute their claims in plaintiff's action. Fleming v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 229 N. C. 397, 50 S. E. (2d) 45.

Presumption as to Authority of Attorney to Transfer Judgment.—Upon the transfer on the judgment docket of a judgment by an attorney of record, acting under authority expressly granted by this section, nothing appearing to indicate that the attorney received less than full value, there is a presumption that such attorney acted within the scope of his authority, and the burden is on the party seeking to set the transfer aside to prove that no such authority existed. Harrington v. Buchanan, 224 N. C. 123, 29 S. E. (2d) 344.

Defendants May File Cross Action to Join Others as Joint Tort-Feasors.—

This section means that in an action arising out of a joint tort wherein judgment may be rendered against two or more persons or corporations, who are jointly and severally liable, and not all who are so jointly and severally liable as joint tort-feasors have been made parties defendant, those who are sued may at any time before judgment, upon motion, have the other such joint tort-feasors brought in and made parties defendant in order to determine and enforce contribution. Wilson v. Massagee, 224 N. C. 705, 710, 32 S. E. (2d) 335.

Burden Is on Original Defendant to Prove Cross Action.—Where plaintiff does not demand any relief against a codefendant joined by the original defendant as a joint tort-feasor, the burden is on the original defendant to prove his cross action for contribution, and upon motion of the codefendant for nonsuit on the cross action the evidence must be considered in the light most favorable to the original defendant upon that cause. Pascal v. Burke Transit Co., 229 N. C. 435, 50 S. E. (2d) 534.

Joint and Several Judgment in Favor of Plaintiff Held Error.—Where plaintiffs seeks no affirmative relief against a codefendant joined by the original defendant for the purpose of enforcing contribution against it as a joint tort-feasor, it is error for the court to enter joint and several judgments in favor of plaintiffs against both defendants upon the jury's finding that both were guilty of actionable negligence, since the liability of the codefendant is solely to the original defendant on its claim for contribution. Pascal v. Burke Transit Co., 229 N. C. 435, 50 S. E. (2d) 534.

Res Judicata.—The owner and driver of a car recovered judgment against the driver and owner of a truck for damages sustained in a collision upon verdict of the jury establishing, inter alia, that the plaintiff therein was not guilty of contributory negligence. Thereafter the passengers in the car sued the owner and driver of the truck for injuries sustained in the same collision. It was held that as between the parties thereto the prior judgment was res judicata on the question of whether the driver of the car was guilty of negligence contributing to the collision, and bars the right of the owner and driver of the truck from joining the driver of the car as a joint tort-feasor in the second action, § 1-240, notwithstanding that the plaintiffs in the second action were not parties thereto or bound by the judgment, and could have joined the driver of the car as a party defendant had they so elected. Tarkington v. Rock Hill Printing, etc., Co., 230 N. C. 354, 53 S. E. (2d) 269.

Interstate Commerce.—Where plaintiff sues a defendant under § 28-173, alleging that her intestate was killed by the negligence of the defendant, the defendant cannot join as a joint tort-feasor under this section, a railway company by which the plaintiff's intestate was employed in interstate commerce. Wilson v. Massagee, 224 N. C. 705, 709, 32 S. E. (2d) 335.

Cited in Godfrey v. Tidewater Power Co., 224 N. C. 657, 32 S. E. (2d) 27; McIntyre v. Monarch Elevator, etc., Co., 230 N. C. 539, 54 S. E. (2d) 45.

§ 1-246. Assignment of judgment to be entered on judgment docket, signed and witnessed.—No assignment of judgment shall be valid at law to pass any property as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration from the donor, bargainor, or assignor, but from the entry of such assignment on the margin of the judgment docket opposite the said judgment, signed by the owner of said judgment, or his attorney under power of attorney or his attorney of record, and witnessed by the clerk or the deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which said judgment is docketed: Provided, that when an assignment of judgment is duly executed by the owner or owners of the judgment and recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the judgment is docketed and a specific reference thereto is made on the margin of the judgment docket opposite the judgment to be assigned, it shall operate as a complete and valid transfer and assignment of the judgment. (1941, c. 61; 1945, c. 154.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment added the proviso.

Art. 24. Confession of Judgment.

§ 1-247. When and for what.—A judgment by confession may be entered without action either in or out of term, either for money due or to become due, or to secure any person against contingent liability on behalf of the defendant, or both, in the manner prescribed by this article.

A judgment by confession may be entered for alimony or for support of minor children, and when the same shall have been entered as provided by this article, such judgment shall be binding upon the defendant, and the failure of the defendant to make any payments, as required by such judgment, shall, upon proper cause shown to the court, subject him to such penalties as may be adjudged by the court as in any other case of contempt of its orders, subject to authority of the court to modify said judgment thereafter for proper cause shown as provided by law in case of adverse judgments in proceedings for such alimony or support. (Rev., s. 580; Code, s. 570; C. C. P., s. 325; 1947, c. 95; C. S. 623.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment added the second paragraph. The apparent purpose of the amendment is expressly to authorize a simplified method for converting an agreement between the parties into a judgment enforceable by contempt. Under prior case law, such an agreement, if made a part of a consent judgment in the sense that the judgment itself orders the payments to be made, can give rise to contempt proceedings; but if the consent judgment merely approves the agreement, without expressly ordering the payments to be made, it is enforceable only as a contract. 25 N. C. Law Rev. 389.

Art. 25. Submission of Controversy without Action.

Applied in Blades v. Norfolk Southern Ry. Co., 224 N. C. 32, 29 S. E. (2d) 148, with reference to sufficiency of deed to convey title; Prince v. Barnes, 224 N. C. 702, 32 S. E. (2d) 224; Schaeffer v. Haseltine, 228 N. C. 484, 46 S. E. (2d) 463.
Cited in State Distributing Corp. v. Travelers Indemnity Co., 224 N. C. 370, 30 S. E. (2d) 377 (dis. op.).

Art. 26. Declaratory Judgments.

§ 1-253. Courts of record permitted to enter declaratory judgments of rights, status and other legal relations.

In General.—
While proceedings under this article have been given a wide latitude, nevertheless they are not without limitation, and it can hardly be said the court is expected to lend its general equity jurisdiction to such proceedings. Brandis v. Trustees of Davidson College, 227 N. C. 329, 331, 41 S. E. (2d) 833.

Question of Insurer's Liability.—Insurer who issued liability policy insuring defendant's truck for "business-pleasure" use could invoke the provisions of Uniform Declaratory Judgment Act to determine whether the truck was being used at time of accident within exception clause of policy. Lumber Mut. Cas. Ins. Co. v. Wells, 225 N. C. 547, 35 S. E. (2d) 631.

Action to Determine Right to Easement.—An action to obtain a judicial declaration of plaintiffs' right to an easement appurtenant and by necessity over the lands of defendants is authorized by this article, and the superior court has jurisdiction, it not being a special proceeding to establish a cartway which must be instituted before the clerk. Carver v. Leatherwood, 230 N. C. 96, 52 S. E. (2d) 1.
Applied in Oxford Orphanage v. Kittrell, 223 N. C. 427,

In action by executor under Declaratory Judgment Act for construction of will and to determine validity of assignment of interest in legacy, motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction denied where the controversy over the validity of assignment was originally brought into court by executor, as it is entitled to have matter determined in present proceeding. First Security Trust Co. v. Henderson, 226 N. C. 649, 39 S. E. (2d) 804.

A proceeding may not be maintained under this and other sections of this article by trustees under a will to invoke the general equitable powers of the court to authorize them to sell, mortgage or lease a part of the trust property for benefit and preservation of the trust, since such remedy goes far beyond a mere declaration of plaintiffs' rights or a mere obtaining of direction to plaintiffs to do or refrain from doing any act in their fiduciary capacity. Brandis v. Trustees of Davidson College, 227 N. C. 329, 41 S. E. (2d) 833. For comment upon the decision in this case, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 69.

Applied in Citizens Nat. Bank v. Corl, 225 N. C. 96, 33 S. E. (2d) 613.

The purpose of this section is to grant "declaratory relief" and remove uncertainties when properly presented. Brandis v. Trustees of Davidson College, 227 N. C. 329, 331, 41 S. E. (2d) 833.

Question of Insurer's Liability.—Where insurer alleged exclusion from liability on policy and insured alleged coverage, and coverage was conceded unless use of vehicle was within exception clause in policy, the issue of exclusion was an issue of fact which should have been determined by jury and rendering judgment on pleadings was error. Lumber Mut. Cas. Ins. Co. v. Wells, 225 N. C. 547, 35 S. E. (2d) 631.

Art. 27. Appeal.

II. CERTIORARI.

B. General Consideration.

Substitute for Appeal.—

"As no appeal lay, a certiorari as a substitute therefor cannot be granted." State v. Todd, 224 N. C. 776, 32 S. E. (2d) 313, quoting Guilford County v. Georgia Co., 109 N. C. 310, 13 S. E. 861.

D. Requirements of Application.

Mere Allegation of Fraud Is Insufficient.—In Hunsucker v. Winborne, 223 N. C. 650, 657, 27 S. E. (2d) 817, it was held that conceding the complaint to be a petition for writ of certiorari to review the ruling of the Municipal Board of Control in respect to the sufficiency of the signatures to a petition to change the name of a town, it fails to make proper showing of merit, upon which alone certiorari will issue, since the mere allegation in a pleading that an act was induced by fraud is insufficient.

Only the party aggrieved may appeal from the Superior Court to the Supreme Court. Watkins v. Grier, 224 N. C. 334, 30 S. E. (2d) 219.

Where no error is found on plaintiff's appeal from a judgment in defendant's favor, defendant's appeal on the ground that the entire proceeding was void will be dismissed, since only the party aggrieved may appeal. In re Westover Canal, 230 N. C. 91, 52 S. E. (2d) 225.

Appeals for Purposes of Delay.—One who challenges neither the proceeding nor the judgment below and appeals only for purposes of delay, is not the "party aggrieved" within the meaning of this section. Stephenson v. Watson, 226 N. C. 742, 40 S. E. (2d) 351.

Appeal by Garnishee and Delinquent Taxpayer.—Where a proceeding to garnishee funds in a bank account belonging to a delinquent taxpayer, under § 105-242, is dismissed for want of jurisdiction, neither the garnishee nor the alleged delinquent taxpayer is the "party aggrieved," within the meaning of this section and neither may prosecute an appeal. Gill v. McLean, 227 N. C. 201, 41 S. E. (2d) 514.

Where defendant was granted new trial in superior court on two of his exceptions, he could not have the rulings upon his other exceptions reviewed unless reversible error appeared on plaintiff's appeal, as defendant was not the "party aggrieved" within the meaning of this section. Starnes v. Tyson, 226 N. C. 395, 38 S. E. (2d) 211, 213.

Section Does Not Apply Where Judge and Clerk Have Concurrent Jurisdiction.—This section and §§ 1-273 and 1-274, regulating appeals from the clerk of the superior court to the judge, have no application in regard to appeals from orders and decrees in proceedings over which the judge of the superior court has concurrent jurisdiction. Moody v. Howell, 229 N. C. 198, 49 S. E. (2d) 233.

Review of Ruling Where Clerk Had Original Jurisdiction.—In order to entitle the judge of the Superior Court to review a ruling of the clerk in a matter in which the latter has original jurisdiction the procedure prescribed by this section must be followed. Muse v. Edwards, 223 N. C. 153, 25 S. E. (2d) 460.

An appeal from a void order of the clerk of the superior court cannot be dismissed as frivolous. In re Sale of Land of Sharpe, 230 N. C. 412, 53 S. E. (2d) 302.

Cross Reference.—As to procedure where judge and clerk have concurrent jurisdiction, see note to § 1-272.

Cross Reference.—As to procedure where judge and clerk have concurrent jurisdiction, see note to § 1-272.

Judge May Determine Entire Controversy.—

Where the clerk of the superior court exceeds his authority or is without jurisdiction to make the decree, if the cause comes within the general jurisdiction of the superior court and invokes the proper exercise of its power, by virtue of this section the judge upon appeal may proceed to consider and determine the matter as if originally before him. McDaniel v. Leggett, 224 N. C. 806, 32 S. E. (2d) 602.

Appeal from Action of Clerk in Probate Proceedings.—Upon appeal to the superior court from action of the clerk taken in the exercise of his probate jurisdiction, the jurisdiction of the superior court is derivative, and this section does not apply. In re Will of Hine, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526.

Thus where a clerk is without jurisdiction to make an order in probate proceedings, by reason of the filing of a caveat and the transfer of the cause to the civil issue docket, the error is not cured by the order of the resident judge of the superior court who heard the motion on appeal and affirmed the order of the clerk. Id.

II. APPEAL IN GENERAL.

B. From What Decisions, Orders, etc., Appeal Lies.

Final Judgment.—

In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See Privette v. Privette, 230 N. C. 52, 51 S. E. (2d) 925.

Interlocutory Orders.—

In accord with 8th paragraph in original. See Privette v. Privette, 230 N. C. 52, 51 S. E. (2d) 925.

Motions to Strike Allegations from Pleadings and Motions.—While the supreme court may entertain an appeal from an order denying a motion to strike allegations from the pleadings, since the pleadings are read to the jury and chart the course of the trial and determine in large measure the competency of the evidence, and therefore denial of the motion may impair or imperil substantial rights, this reasoning does not apply to motions to strike allegations from a motion before the court, since no substantial right is likely to be impaired or seriously imperiled by the denial of the motion. Privette v. Privette, 230 N. C. 52, 51 S. E. (2d) 925.

Exceptions to and Motion to Strike Referee's Report.—An appeal from the overruling of exceptions to the report of the referee and to the overruling of the motion that the entire evidence reported by the referee be stricken because not signed by the witnesses, § 1-193, will be dismissed as premature. Bakami Constr., etc., Co. v. Thomas, 230 N. C. 516, 53 S. E. (2d) 519.

C. What Supreme Court Will Consider.

Moot Question.—

Appellate courts will not hear and decide what may prove to be only a moot case, or review a judgment at the instance of appellants who represent that compliance will be forthcoming only in the event of a favorable decision. In re Morris' Custody, 225 N. C. 48, 50, 33 S. E. (2d) 243.

Applied in Mason v. Moore County Board of Com'rs, 229 N. C. 626, 51 S. E. (2d) 6.

Record Must Show Appeal by Party Seeking Review.—Appeal by the party seeking review is necessary to give the supreme court jurisdiction, and this fact must appear by appeal entry of record, and in the absence of appeal entry of record the purported appeal must be dismissed. The supreme court is without power to correct the record, since it can have no jurisdiction of the cause, nor may counsel correct the record proper by stipulation. Mason v. Moore County Board of Com'rs, 229 N. C. 626, 51 S. E. (2d) 6.

II. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS—COUNTERCASE.

Where Record Constitutes Case on Appeal.—Upon exception and appeal from judgment denying a motion upon facts found and incorporated in the judgment, the record constitutes the case on appeal, and appellant is not required to serve a statement of case on appeal, and motion to dismiss for his failure to do so will be denied. Privette v. Allen, 227 N. C. 164, 41 S. E. (2d) 364.

When Case on Appeal Essential.—In Russos v. Bailey, 228 N. C. 783, 47 S. E. (2d) 22, it is said: "Exceptions which point out alleged errors occurring during the progress of a trial in which oral testimony is offered can be presented only through a 'case on appeal' or 'case agreed' * * * This is the sole statutory means of vesting this court with jurisdiction to hear the appeal." Western North Carolina Conference v. Talley, 229 N. C. 1, 47 S. E. (2d) 467.

Applied in State v. Cannon, 227 N. C. 336, 42 S. E. (2d) 343; Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 227 N. C. 374, 42 S. E. (2d) 407.

VI. RELIEF GRANTED.

Exceptions Relating to Oral Testimony Treated as Nullity.—Where there is no case on appeal, exceptions relating to the oral testimony must be treated as a nullity, leaving only the exception to the judgment, which presents the sole question whether upon the facts found and admitted the court correctly applied the law. Russos v. Bailey, 228 N. C. 783, 47 S. E. (2d) 22.

Court Can Reverse Only for Error on Face of Record.—Where there is no proper statement of case on appeal the supreme court can determine only whether there is error on the face of the record proper. Western North Carolina Conference v. Talley, 229 N. C. 1, 47 S. E. (2d) 467.

Appellant's Duty When Case Settled.—

Where the trial court adopts appellant's statement of case with modifications, appellant is under duty to have the statement of case as modified redrafted and submitted to the judge for signature, and upon failure to do so there is no "case on appeal." Western North Carolina Conference v. Talley, 229 N. C. 1, 47 S. E. (2d) 467.

Duty of Judge.—

The trial judge alone has jurisdiction to modify, amend or strike out entries of appeal or extension of time for service of case on appeal and countercase, or motion to strike out purported case on appeal. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 227 N. C. 374, 42 S. E. (2d) 407.

He Cannot Settle Case by Anticipatory Order.—When oral evidence is offered, the judge cannot settle the case on appeal by an anticipatory order. Russos v. Bailey, 228 N. C. 783, 47 S. E. (2d) 22; Western North Carolina Conference v. Talley, 229 N. C. 1, 47 S. E. (2d) 467.

A recitation by the court in the entries of appeal that the evidence should be included in the case on appeal is insufficient as a settlement of case on appeal where oral evidence has been offered, since such anticipatory order cannot settle or determine what evidence was adduced at the hearing. Russos v. Bailey, 228 N. C. 783, 47 S. E. (2d) 22.

Judge May Act Only Where Counsel Disagree.—The trial court is without authority to settle a case on appeal until and unless there is a disagreement of counsel. Russos v. Bailey, 228 N. C. 783, 47 S. E. (2d) 22.

Failure of Judge to Settle Case.—Under this section, the judge is given power to settle the case on appeal, and ordinarily, the only supervision which may be exercised over the judge charged with this duty is to see that it is performed. Lindsay v. Brawley, 226 N. C. 468, 38 S. E. (2d) 528, 530.

Effect of Absence of Judge from District.—

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 227 N. C. 374, 42 S. E. (2d) 407.

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 227 N. C. 374, 42 S. E. (2d) 407.

Errors and omissions in the case on appeal are corrected upon certiorari and cannot be brought upon exception taken at the time the case is settled. Lindsay v. Brawley, 226 N. C. 468, 38 S. E. (2d) 528, 530.

Motion to Dismiss Allowed.—On appeal to supreme court from order dismissing motion to have respondent subjected to contempt order for refusal to pay amounts due under prior judgment, where pleadings in action in which judgment was entered were not brought up as a part of the record and such pleadings were a necessary part of the record as determining the character of the action and jurisdiction and power of the court, motion to dismiss appeal was allowed. Campbell v. Campbell, 226 N. C. 653, 39 S. E. (2d) 812.

The 1937 amendment to this section does not permit the filing of an affidavit of the party appealing or certificate of counsel when no such certificate or affidavit was filed within the time prescribed by this section. Clark v. Clark, 225 N. C. 687, 689, 36 S. E. (2d) 261.

Purpose of Section.—The statutory provision for appeals in forma pauperis is to preserve the right of appeal to those who, by reason of their poverty, are unable to make a reasonable deposit or give security for the payment of costs incurred on appeal to the supreme court. It is not to be used as a subterfuge to escape payment of costs which otherwise might be taxed against the appellant. Perry v. Perry, 230 N. C. 515, 53 S. E. (2d) 457.

Section Mandatory.—

Requirements of this section, relating to appeals to supreme court from the superior court in a civil action, without making the deposit or giving the security required by law for such appeals, are mandatory and jurisdictional, and unless this section is complied with, the supreme court will take no cognizance of the case, except to dismiss it. Clark v. Clark, 225 N. C. 687, 36 S. E. (2d) 261.

The requirements of this section, allowing appeals in forma pauperis, are mandatory, not directory, and a failure to comply with the requirements deprives the supreme court of any appellate jurisdiction. Williams v. Tillman, 229 N. C. 434, 50 S. E. (2d) 33.

Affidavit Is Essential.—Where the order allowing the appeal in forma pauperis is not supported by the statutory affidavit, there can be no authority for granting the appeal in forma pauperis, and the supreme court acquires no jurisdiction and can take no cognizance of the case except to dismiss it from the docket. Williams v. Tillman, 229 N. C. 434, 50 S. E. (2d) 33.

Right of Party to Appeal In Forma Pauperis. — On the hearing of an order to show cause why defendant should not be attached for contempt for willful failure to comply with an order that he make monthly subsistence payments to his wife, the court entered an order upon its finding that defendant was earning $300.00 per month, and permitted defendant to appeal from the order in forma pauperis. The cause was remanded to the end that the court may determine whether defendant was in fact entitled to appeal in forma pauperis. Perry v. Perry, 230 N. C. 515, 53 S. E. (2d) 457.

An appeal from an interlocutory order stays all further proceedings in the lower court in regard to matters relating to the specific order appealed from, but the action remains in the lower court and it may proceed upon any other matter included in the action upon which action was reserved or which was not affected by the judgment appealed from. Safie Mfg. Co. v. Arnold, 228 N. C. 375, 45 S. E. (2d) 577.

II. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.

Trial De Novo.—
When an appeal is taken from the judgment of a justice of the peace to a superior court, it shall be reheard, that is, heard de novo. Brake v. Brake, 228 N. C. 609, 46 S. E. (2d) 643.

On appeal to the Superior Court from a judgment of a justice of the peace, defendants are entitled to a trial de novo, even when they are called and fail to appear. Globe Poster Corp. v. Davidson, 223 N. C. 212, 25 S. E. (2d) 557.

V. DISMISSAL FOR FAILURE TO DOCKET—RECORDARI.

When Appeal Not Dismissed.—
The statute relating to the Greensboro municipal-county court prescribed that appeals therefrom should be governed by the rules governing appeals from justices of the peace. Through no fault of appellant, its appeal was not filed within ten days after notice of appeal in open court, but was filed during the next succeeding term of the superior court. If it had been filed within the ten-day period, it would not have been on the superior court docket for ten days prior to the beginning of the term. It was held that appellee is not entitled to dismissal of the appeal at such term of the superior court notwithstanding appellant's failure to apply for recordari. Starr Elec. Co. v. Lipe Motor Lines, 229 N. C. 86, 47 S. E. (2d) 848.

The issuance of an execution does not prolong the life of a lien, nor stop the running of the statute of limitation. Cheshire v. Drake, 223 N. C. 577, 583, 27 S. E. (2d) 627.

Payment of Fees, etc.—
In accord with original. See State Board of Education v. Gallop, 227 N. C. 599, 606, 44 S. E. (2d) 44.

Sale Must Be Completed within Ten Years.—This section and § 1-234 clearly manifest the legislative intent that the process to enforce the judgment lien and to render it effectual must be completed by a sale within the prescribed time. Hence, it follows that the lien upon lands of a docketed judgment is lost by the lapse of ten years from the date of the docketing, and this notwithstanding execution was begun, but not completed, before the expiration of the ten years. The only office of an execution is to enforce the lien of the judgment by a sale of the lands, and this must be done before the lien is lost. The execution adds nothing by way of prolongation to the life of the lien. McMullen v. Durham, 229 N. C. 418, 50 S. E. (2d) 511.

Execution Sale Held Less than Ten Days before Expiration of Ten Years.—See notes to § 1-234.

Effect of Enjoining Execution.—A party may not enjoin execution on a judgment until the statute of limitations has run and then plead the bar of the statute against the judgment. Holden v. Totten, 228 N. C. 204, 44 S. E. (2d) 874.

§ 1-307. Issued from and returned to court of rendition.—Executions and other process for the enforcement of judgments can issue only from the court in which the judgment for the enforcement of the execution or other final process was rendered; and the returns of executions or other final process shall be made to the court of the county from which it issued. In all cases prior to the first day of March, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five, where a judgment has been rendered in the superior court of one county and the transcript thereof has been docketed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of some other county or counties, all executions heretofore issued on such docketed transcript of judgment and all homestead proceedings, execution sales, judicial sales and assignments related thereto and based thereon are hereby declared to be lawful, legal and binding upon all purchasers, judgment debtors, judgment creditors, assignors and assignees, and on all parties to the original action and on all parties to or affected by any proceedings related to or based upon such execution, and all such sales, purchases, proceedings and assignments are hereby validated. (Rev., s. 623; Code, s. 444; 1871-2, c. 74; 1881, c. 75; 1945, c. 773; C. S. 669.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the second sentence.

By this statute the legislature has fixed the life of an execution. It begins on the day of the issuance of the execution, and by limitation terminates ninety days from the date of it. It may not be returned in less than forty days but must be returned in ninety days. Hence, under this statute an execution should be made returnable "not less than forty nor more than ninety days" from its date. And while failure to follow the statute makes an execution irregular, the life of it as fixed by the statute is not affected. Gardner v. McDonald, 223 N. C. 555, 557, 27 S. E. (2d) 522.

Provided, that where the facts are found by a jury, the verdict shall contain a finding of facts establishing the right to execution against the person; and where jury trial is waived and the court finds the facts, the court shall find facts establishing the right to execution against the person. (Rev., s. 625; Code, s. 447; 1891, c. 541, s. 2; C. C. P., s. 260; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 673.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment added the above proviso at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out. The 1947 amendment is apparently simply a recognition of existing case law. 25 N. C. Law Rev. 390.

Art. 29A. Judicial Sales.

Part 1. General Provisions.

§ 1-339.1. Definitions.—(a) A judicial sale is a sale of property made pursuant to an order of a judge or clerk in an action or proceeding in the superior court, including a sale pursuant to an order made in an action in court to foreclose a mortgage or deed of trust, but is not

(1) A sale made pursuant to a power of sale
   a. Contained in a mortgage, deed of trust, or conditional sale contract, or
   b. Granted by statute with respect to a mortgage, deed of trust, or conditional sale contract, or

(2) A resale ordered with respect to any sale described in subsection (a) (1), where such original sale was not held under a court order, or

(3) An execution sale, or

(4) A sale ordered in a criminal action, or

(5) A tax foreclosure sale, or

(6) A sale made pursuant to article 4 of chapter 35 of the General Statutes, relating to sales of estates held by the entireties when one or both spouses are mentally incompetent, or

(7) A sale made in the course of liquidation of a bank pursuant to G. S. § 53-20, or

(8) A sale made in the course of liquidation of an insurance company pursuant to article 17A of chapter 58 of the General Statutes, or

(9) Any other sale the procedure for which is specially provided by any statute other than this article.

(b) As hereafter used in this article, "sale" means a judicial sale. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Section 6 of the act inserting this article makes it effective as of Jan. 1, 1950. Section 4 of the act provides that it shall not apply to any judicial sale when the original order of sale has been issued prior to such effective date, and § 5 provides that the present law shall remain in effect for the completion of judicial sales to which the act, under § 4, does not apply.

For a brief discussion of this article, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 479.

§ 1-339.2. Application of Part 1.—The provisions of Part 1 of this article apply to both public and private sales except where otherwise indicated. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.3. Application of article to sale ordered by clerk; by judge; authority to fix procedural details.—(a) The procedure prescribed by this article applies to all sales ordered by a clerk of the superior court.

(b) The procedure prescribed by this article applies to all sales ordered by a judge of the superior court, except that the judge having jurisdiction may, upon a finding and a recital in the order of sale of the necessity or advisability thereof, vary the procedure from that herein prescribed, but not inconsistently with G. S. § 1-339.6 restricting the place of sale of real property, and not inconsistently with G. S. § 1-339.27 (a) and G. S. § 1-339.36 requiring that a resale be ordered when an upset bid is submitted.

(c) The judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction has authority to fix and determine all necessary procedural details with respect to sales in all instances in which this article fails to make definite provisions as to such procedure. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.4. Who may hold sale.—An order of sale may authorize the persons designated below to hold the sale:

(1) In any proceeding, a commissioner specially appointed therefor; or

(2) In a proceeding to sell property of a decedent, the administrator, executor or collector of such decedent's estate;

(3) In a proceeding to sell property of a minor, the guardian of such minor's estate;

(4) In a proceeding to sell property of an incompetent, the guardian or trustee of such incompetent's estate;

(5) In a proceeding to sell property of an absent or missing person, the administrator, collector, conservator, or guardian of the estate of such absent or missing person;

(6) In a proceeding to foreclose a deed of trust, the trustee named in the deed of trust;

(7) In a receivership proceeding, the receiver. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.6. Place of public sale.—(a) Every public sale of real property shall be held in the county where the property is situated unless the property consists of a single tract situated in two or more counties.

(b) A public sale of a single tract of real property situated in two or more counties may be held in any one of the counties in which any part of the tract is situated. For the purposes of this section, a "single tract" means any tract which has a continuous boundary, regardless of whether parts thereof may have been acquired at different times or from different persons, or whether it may have been subdivided into separate units or lots or whether it is sold as a whole or in parts.

(c) A public sale of personal property may be held at any place in the state designated in the order. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.7. Presence of personal property at public sale required.—The person holding a public sale of personal property shall have the property present at the place of sale unless the order of sale provides otherwise as authorized by G. S. § 1-339.13 (c). (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.8. Public sale of separate tracts in different counties.—(a) When an order of public sale directs the sales of separate tracts of real property situated in different counties, exclusive jurisdiction over such sale remains in the superior court of the county where the proceeding, in which the order of sale was issued, is pending, but there shall be a separate advertisement, sale and report of sale with respect to the property in each county. In any such sale proceeding, the clerk of the superior court of the county where the original order of sale was issued, has jurisdiction with respect to the resale of separate tracts of property situated in other counties as well as in the clerk's own county, and an upset bid may be filed only with such clerk, except in those cases where the judge retains resale jurisdiction pursuant to G. S. § 1-339.27.

(b) The report of sale with respect to all sales of separate tracts situated in different counties shall be filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the order of sale was issued, and is not required to be filed in any other county.

(c) The sale, and each subsequent resale, or each such separate tract shall be subject to a separate upset bid; and to the extent deemed necessary by the judge or clerk of the superior court of the county where the original order of sale was issued, the sale of each tract, after an upset bid thereon, shall be treated as a separate sale for the purpose of determining the procedure applicable thereto.

(d) When real property is sold in a county other than the county where the proceeding, in which the sale was ordered, is pending, the person authorized to hold the sale shall cause a certified copy of the order of sale to be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county where such property is situated. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.9. Sale as a whole or in parts.—(a) When real property to be sold consists of separate lots or other units or when personal property consists of more than one article, the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction may direct specifically

(1) That it be sold as a whole, or

(2) That it be sold in designated parts, or

(3) That it be offered for sale by each method, and then sold by the method which produces the highest price.

(b) When real property to be sold has not been subdivided but is of such nature that it may be advantageously subdivided for sale, the judge or clerk having jurisdiction may authorize the subdivision thereof and the dedication to the public of such portions thereof as are necessary or advisable for public highways, streets, alleys, or other public purposes.

(c) When an order of sale of such real or personal property as is described in subsection (a) of this section makes no specific provision for the sale of the property as a whole or in parts, the person authorized to make the sale has authority in his discretion to sell the property by whichever method described in subsection (a) of this section he deems most advantageous. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.10. Bond of person holding sale.—(a) Whenever a commissioner specially appointed or a trustee in a deed of trust is ordered to sell property, the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction

(1) May in any case require the commissioner or trustee, before receiving the proceeds of the sale, to furnish bond to cover such proceeds, and

(2) Shall require the commissioner or trustee to furnish such bond when the commissioner or trustee is to hold the proceeds of the sale other than for immediate disbursement upon confirmation of the sale.

(b) Whenever any administrator or collector of a decedent's estate, or guardian or trustee of a minor's or incompetent's estate, or administrator, collector, conservator or guardian of an absent or missing person's estate, is ordered to sell property, the judge or clerk having jurisdiction shall require such fiduciary, before receiving the proceeds of the sale, to furnish bond or to increase his then existing bond, to cover such proceeds.

(c) Whenever an executor is ordered to sell real property, the judge or clerk having jurisdiction shall require such executor, before receiving the proceeds of the sale, to furnish bond to cover such proceeds, unless the will provides otherwise, in which case the judge or clerk may require such bond.

(d) Whenever a receiver is ordered to sell real property, the judge having jurisdiction may, when he deems it advisable, require the receiver to furnish bond, or to increase his then existing bond, to cover such proceeds.

(e) The bond required by this section need not be furnished when the property is to be sold by a duly authorized trust company acting as commissioner or fiduciary.

(f) The bond shall be executed by one or more sureties and shall be subject to the approval of the judge or clerk having jurisdiction.

(g) If the bond is to be executed by personal sureties, the amount of the bond shall be double the amount of the proceeds of the sale to be received by the commissioner or fiduciary, if such amount can be determined in advance, and, if not, such amount as the judge or clerk may determine to be approximately double the amount of the proceeds to be received. If the bond is to be executed by a duly authorized surety company, the amount of the bond shall be one and one-fourth times the amount of the proceeds determined as set out in this subsection.

(h) The bond shall be payable to the state of North Carolina for the use of the parties in interest. A bond furnished by a commissioner or by a trustee in a deed of trust shall be conditioned that the principal in the bond shall comply with the orders of the court made in the proceeding with respect to the funds received and shall properly account for the proceeds of the sale received by him. A bond furnished by any other fiduciary shall be conditioned as required by law for the original bond required, or which might have been required, of such fiduciary at the time of his qualification.

§ 1-339.11. Compensation of person holding sale.—(a) If the person holding a sale is a commissioner specially appointed or a trustee in a deed of trust, the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction shall fix the amount of his compensation and order the payment thereof out of the proceeds of the sale.

(b) If the person holding a sale is any other person, the judge or clerk may, but is not required to, fix his compensation and order the payment thereof out of the proceeds of the sale; when compensation is not fixed in this manner, compensation may be fixed and paid in the usual manner provided with respect to such fiduciary for receiving and disbursing funds. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.12. Clerk's authority to compel report or accounting; contempt proceeding.—Whenever any person fails to file any report or account, as provided by this article, or files an incorrect or incomplete report or account, the clerk of the superior court, having jurisdiction, on his own motion or on motion of any interested party, may issue an order directing such person to file a correct and complete report or account within twenty days after service of the order on him. If such person fails to comply with the order, the clerk may issue an attachment against him for contempt, and may commit him to jail until he files such correct and complete report or account. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

Part 2. Procedure for Public Sales of Real and Personal Property.

§ 1-339.13. Public sale; order of sale.—(a) Whenever a public sale is ordered, the order of sale shall

(1) Designate the person authorized to hold the sale;

(2) Direct that the property be sold at public auction to the highest bidder;

(3) Describe real property to be sold, by reference or otherwise, sufficiently to identify it;

(4) Describe personal property to be sold, by reference or otherwise, sufficiently to indicate its nature and quantity;

(5) Designate, consistently with G. S. § 1-339.6, the county and the place therein at which the sale is to be held; and

(6) Prescribe the terms of sale, specifying the amount of the cash deposit, if any, to be made by the highest bidder at the sale.

(b) The order of public sale may also, but is not required to

(1) State the method by which the property shall be sold, pursuant to G. S. § 1-339.9;

(2) Direct any posting of the notice of sale or any advertisement of the sale, in addition to that required by G. S. § 1-339.17 in the case of real property or G. S. § 1-339.18 in the case of personal property, which the judge or clerk of the superior court deems advantageous.

(c) The order of public sale may provide that personal property need not be present at the place of sale when the nature, condition or use of the property is such that the judge or clerk ordering the sale deems it impractical or inadvisable to require the presence of the property at the sale. In such event, the order shall provide that reasonable opportunity be afforded prospective bidders to inspect the property prior to the sale, and that notice as to the time and place for inspection shall be set out in the notice of sale. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.14. Public sale; judge's approval of clerk's order of sale.—An order of public sale of personal property in which a minor or incompetent has an interest, which is made by a clerk of the superior court, shall not be effective, except in the case of perishable property as provided by G. S. § 1-339.19, unless and until such order is approved by the resident judge or the judge regularly holding the courts of the district. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.15. Public sale; contents of notice of sale.—The notice of public sale shall

(1) Refer to the order authorizing the sale;

(2) Designate the date, hour and place of sale;

(3) Describe real property to be sold, by reference or otherwise, sufficiently to identify it, and may add such further description as will acquaint bidders with the nature and location of the property;

(4) Describe personal property to be sold sufficiently to indicate its nature and quantity, and may add such further description as will acquaint bidders with the nature of the property;

(5) State the terms of the sale, specifying the amount of the cash deposit, if any, to be made by the highest bidder at the sale; and

(6) Include any other provisions required by the order of sale to be included therein. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.16. Public sale; time for beginning advertisement.—An order of sale may provide for the beginning of the advertisement of sale at any time after the order is issued. If the order does not specify such time, the advertisement may be begun at any time after the order is issued. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.17. Public sale; posting and publishing notice of sale of real property.—(a) The notice of public sale of real property shall

(1) Be posted, at the courthouse door in the county in which the property is situated, for thirty days immediately preceding the sale,

(2) And in addition thereto,

a. If a newspaper qualified for legal advertising is published in the county, the notice shall be published in such a newspaper once a week for at least four successive weeks, but

b. If no such newspaper is published in the county, the notice shall be posted at three other public places in the county for thirty days immediately preceding the sale.

(b) When the notice of public sale is published in a newspaper,

(1) The period from the date of the first publication to the date of the last publication, both dates inclusive, shall not be less than twenty-two days, including Sundays, and

(2) The date of the last publication shall not be more than seven days preceding the date of sale.

(c) When the real property to be sold is situated in more than one county, the provisions of subsections (a) and (b) shall be complied with in each county in which any part of the property is situated.

(d) In addition to the foregoing, the notice of public sale shall be otherwise posted or the sale shall be otherwise advertised as may be required by the judge or clerk pursuant to the provisions of G. S. § 1-339.13 (b) (2). (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.18. Public sale; posting notice of sale of personal property.—(a) The notice of public sale of personal property, except in the case of perishable property as provided by G. S. § 1-339.19, shall be posted, at the courthouse door, in the county in which the sale is to be held, for ten days immediately preceding the date of sale.

(b) In addition to the foregoing, the notice of public sale shall be otherwise advertised as may be required by the judge or clerk of the superior court pursuant to the provisions of G. S. § 1-339.13 (b) (2). (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.19. Public sale; exception; perishable property.—If personal property to be sold at public sale is determined by the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction to be perishable property because subject to rapid deterioration, he may order the sale thereof to be held at such time and place and upon such notice to be given in such manner and for such length of time as he deems advisable. The order of sale of such perishable property of a minor or incompetent when made by the clerk need not be approved by the judge. Confirmation of any sale of such perishable property is not necessary unless required by the order of sale. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.20. Public sale; postponement of sale.—(a) A person authorized to hold a public sale may postpone the sale to a day certain not later than six days, exclusive of Sunday, after the original date for the sale

(1) When there are no bidders, or

(2) When, in his judgment, the number of prospective bidders at the sale is substantially decreased by inclement weather or by any casualty, or

(3) When there are so many other sales advertised to be held at the same time and place as to make it inexpedient and impracticable, in his judgment, to hold the sale on that day, or

(4) When he is unable to hold the sale because of illness or for other good reason, or

(5) When other good cause exists.

(b) Upon postponement of public sale the person authorized to hold the sale shall personally, or through his agent or attorney

(1) At the time and place advertised for the sale, publicly announce the postponement thereof, and

(2) On the same day, attach to or enter on the original notice of sale or a copy thereof posted at the courthouse door, as provided by G. S. § 1-339.17 in the case of real property or G. S. § 1-339.18 in the case of personal property, a notice of the postponement.

(c) The posted notice of postponement shall

(1) State that the sale is postponed,

(2) State the hour and date to which the sale is postponed,

(3) State the reason for the postponement, and

(4) Be signed by the person authorized to hold the sale, or by his agent or attorney.

(d) If a public sale is not held at the time fixed therefor and is not postponed as provided by this section, or if a postponed sale is not held at the time fixed therefor, the person authorized to make the sale shall report the facts with respect thereto to the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction, who shall thereupon make an order for the public sale of the property to be held at such time and place and upon such notice to be given in such manner and for such length of time as he deems advisable. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.21. Public sale; time of sale.—(a) A public sale shall begin at the time designated in the notice of sale or as soon thereafter as practicable, but not later than one hour after the time fixed therefor unless it is delayed by other sales held at the same place.

(b) No public sale shall commence before 10:00 o'clock A. M. or after 4:00 o'clock P. M.

(c) No public sale shall continue after 4:00 o'clock P. M., except that in cities or towns of more than 5000 inhabitants, as shown by the most recent federal census, sales of personal property may continue until 10:00 o'clock P. M. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.22. Public sale; continuance of uncompleted sale.—A public sale commenced but not completed within the time allowed by G. S. § 1-339.21 shall be continued by the person holding the sale to a designated time between 10:00 o'clock A. M. and 4:00 o'clock P. M. the next following day, other than Sunday. In case such continuance becomes necessary, the person holding the sale shall publicly announce the time to which the sale is continued. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

risdiction; but such objection to the completion of the sale of any article of property shall not prevent the completion of the sale of articles of property to which no objection is made where the same have been separately sold. When a judge or clerk having jurisdiction fails or refuses to confirm a sale of property which has thus been objected to, the procedure for a new sale of such property, including a new order of sale, shall be the same as if no such attempted sale has been held. This subsection shall not apply to perishable property sold pursuant to G. S. § 1-339.19.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (a), the person holding a public sale of personal property shall deliver the property to the purchaser immediately upon compliance by the purchaser with the terms of the sale.

(c) The person holding a public sale may execute and deliver a bill of sale or other muniment of title for any personal property sold, and, upon application of the purchaser, shall do so when required by the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.24. Public sale; report of sale; when final as to personal property.—(a) The person holding a public sale shall, within five days after the date of the sale, file a report thereof with the clerk of the superior court of the county where the proceeding for the sale is pending.

(b) The report shall be signed by the person authorized to hold the sale, or by his agent or attorney and shall show

(1) The title of the action or proceeding;

(2) The authority under which the person making the sale acted;

(3) The date, hour and place of the sale;

(4) A description of real property sold, by reference or otherwise, sufficient to identify it, and, if sold in parts, a description of each part so sold; and

(5) A description of personal property sold, sufficient to indicate the nature and quantity of the property sold to each purchaser;

(6) The names of the purchasers;

(7) The price at which the property, or each part thereof, was sold and that such price was the highest bid therefor; and

(8) The date of the report.

(c) The report of sale of personal property, when confirmation of the sale is not required, may include such additional information as is required by G. S. § 1-339.31 or G. S. § 1-339.32, whichever is applicable, and when such additional information is included, the report shall constitute the final report of sale of personal property. If the report does not include the additional information required by G. S. § 1-339.31 or G. S. § 1-339.32, the final report required by those sections shall be subsequently filed. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.25. Public sale; upset bid on real property; compliance bond.—(a) An upset bid is an advanced, increased or raised bid whereby a person offers to purchase real property theretofore sold, for an amount exceeding the reported sale price by ten per cent (10%) of the first $1000 thereof plus five per cent (5%) of any excess above $1000, but in any event with a minimum increase of $25, such increase being deposited in cash with the clerk of the superior court, with whom the report of the sale was filed, within ten days after the filing of such report. An upset bid need not be in writing, and the timely deposit with the clerk of the required amount, together with an indication to the clerk as to the sale to which it is applicable, is sufficient to constitute the upset bid, subject to the provisions of subsection (b).

(b) The clerk of the superior court may require a person submitting an upset bid also to deposit a cash bond, or, in lieu thereof at the option of the bidder, a surety bond, approved by the clerk, conditioned on compliance with the upset bid. The amount of such bond shall not exceed the amount of the upset bid less the amount of the required deposit.

(c) The clerk of the superior court may in the order of resale require the highest bidder at a resale had pursuant to an upset bid to deposit with the clerk a cash bond, or, in lieu thereof at the option of the bidder, a surety bond, approved by the clerk, conditioned on compliance with his bid. The bond shall be in such amount as the clerk deems adequate, but in no case greater than the amount of the bid of the person being required to furnish the bond.

(d) A compliance bond, such as is provided for by subsections (b) and (c), shall be payable to the state of North Carolina for the use of the parties in interest and shall be conditioned on the principal obligor's compliance with his bid. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The second "is" in the third line from the end of subsection (a) appears in the printed act as "if", being in all probability a typographical error.

§ 1-339.26. Public sale; separate upset bids when real property sold in parts; subsequent procedure.—When real property is sold at public sale in parts, as provided by G. S. § 1-339.9, the sale, and each subsequent resale, of any such part shall be subject to a separate upset bid; and, to the extent the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction deems advisable, the sale of each such part shall thereafter be treated as a separate sale for the purpose of determining the procedure applicable thereto. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.27. Public sale; resale of real property; jurisdiction; procedure.—(a) When an upset bid is submitted to the clerk of the superior court, together with a compliance bond if one is required, a resale shall be ordered.

(b) In any case in which a judge has jurisdiction of the original sale, he may provide by order that jurisdiction is retained for resale purposes, and in such case when an upset bid is submitted, the judge having jurisdiction shall make the order of resale. In all cases where the judge does not retain jurisdiction of a sale for resale purposes, and in all cases where a sale is originally ordered by a clerk, the clerk shall make the order of resale and shall have jurisdiction of the proceeding for resale purposes. Whenever the original order of sale is made by the judge, the terms of any resale ordered by the clerk shall be consistent with terms of the original order, and the final order of confirmation shall be made by the judge having jurisdiction of the proceeding.

(c) Notice of any resale to be held because of an upset bid shall

(1) Be posted, at the courthouse door in the county in which the property is situated, for fifteen days immediately preceding the sale,

(2) And in addition thereto,

a. If a newspaper qualified for legal advertising is published in the county, the notice shall be published in such a newspaper once a week for at least two successive weeks, but

b. If no such newspaper is published in the county, the notice shall be posted at three other public places in the county for fifteen days immediately preceding the sale.

(d) When the notice of resale is published in a newspaper,

(1) The period from the date of the first publication to the date of the last publication, both dates inclusive, shall not be less than eight days, including Sunday, and

(2) The date of the last publication shall not be more than seven days preceding the date of sale.

(e) When the real property to be resold is situated in more than one county, the provisions of subsection (c) of this section shall be complied with in each county in which any part of the property is situated.

(f) The person making a resale shall report the resale in the same manner as required by G. S. § 1-339.24.

(g) When there is no bid at a resale other than the upset bid resulting in such resale, the person who made the upset bid is deemed the highest bidder at the resale. Such sale remains subject to a further upset bid and resale pursuant to this article.

(h) Resales may be had as often as upset bids are submitted in compliance with this article.

(i) Except as otherwise provided in this section, all the provisions of this article applicable to an original sale are applicable to resales. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.28. Public sale; confirmation of sale.—(a) No public sale of real property may be consummated until confirmed

(1) By the resident judge of the district or the judge regularly holding the courts of the district, in those cases in which the sale was originally ordered by a judge, or

(2) By the clerk of the superior court in those cases in which the sale was originally ordered by the clerk.

(b) No public sale of real property of a minor or incompetent originally ordered by a clerk may be consummated until confirmed both by the clerk and by the resident judge of the district or the judge regularly holding the courts of the district.

(c) No public sale of real property may be confirmed until the time for submitting an upset bid, pursuant to G. S. § 1-339.25, has expired.

§ 1-339.29. Public sale; real property; deed; order for possession.—(a) Upon confirmation of a public sale of real property, the person authorized to hold the sale, or such other person as may be designated by the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction, shall prepare and tender to the purchaser a duly executed deed for the property sold and, upon compliance by the purchaser with the terms of sale, shall deliver the deed to the purchaser.

(b) A person executing a deed to real property being conveyed pursuant to a public sale may recite in the deed, in addition to the usual provisions, substantially as follows

(1) The authority for making the sale,

(2) The title of the action or proceeding in which the sale was had,

(3) The name of the person authorized to make the sale,

(4) The fact that the sale was duly advertised,

(5) The date of the sale,

(6) The name of the highest bidder and the price bid,

(7) That the sale has been confirmed,

(8) That the terms of the sale have been complied with, and

(9) That the person executing the deed has been authorized to execute it.

(c) The judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction of the proceeding in which the property is sold may grant an order for possession of real property so sold and conveyed, as against all persons in possession who are parties to the proceeding. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.30. Public sale; failure of bidder to make cash deposit or to comply with bid; resale.—(a) If an order of public sale requires the highest bidder to make a cash deposit at the sale, and he fails to make such required deposit, the person holding the sale shall at the same time and place again offer the property for sale.

(b) When the highest bidder at a public sale of personal property not required to be confirmed fails to make the cash payment, if any, required by the terms of the sale, the person holding the sale shall at the same time and place again offer the property for sale. In the event no other bid is received, a new sale may be advertised in the regular manner provided by this article for an original sale.

(c) When the highest bidder at a public sale of personal property required to be confirmed fails to comply with his bid within ten days after notice given by the person holding the sale or after a bona fide attempt to give such notice that the sale has been confirmed, the judge or clerk having jurisdiction may order a resale. The procedure for such resale is the same in every respect as is provided by this article in the case of an original public sale of personal property.

(d) When the highest bidder at a public sale or resale of real property fails to comply with his bid within ten days after the tender to him of a deed for the property or after a bona fide attempt to tender such deed, the judge or clerk having jurisdiction may order a resale. The procedure for such resale of real property is the same in every respect as is provided by this article in the case of an original public sale of real property except that the provisions of G. S. § 1-339.27 (c), (d) and (e) apply with respect to the posting and publishing of the notice of such resale.

(e) A defaulting bidder at any sale or resale is liable on his bid, and in case a resale is had because of such default, he shall remain liable to the extent that the final sale price is less than his bid plus all costs of such resale or resales.

(f) Nothing in this section deprives any person of any other remedy against the defaulting bidder. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.31. Public sale; report of commissioner or trustee in deed of trust.—(a) A commissioner or a trustee in a deed of trust, authorized pursuant to G. S. § 1-339.4 to hold a public sale of property, shall, in addition to all other reports required by this article, file with the clerk of the superior court an account of his receipts and disbursements as follows:

(1) When the sale is for cash, a final report shall be filed within thirty days after receipt of the proceeds of the sale;

(2) When the sale is wholly or partly on time and the commissioner or trustee is not required to collect deferred payments, a final report shall be filed within thirty days after receipt of the cash payment, if any is required, and the receipt of all securities for the purchase price;

(3) When the commissioner or trustee is required to collect deferred payments,

a. He shall file a preliminary report within thirty days after receipt of the cash payment, if any is required, and the receipt of all securities for the purchase price, and

b. If the period of time during which he is required to collect deferred payments extends over more than one year, he shall file an annual report of his receipts and disbursements, and

c. After collecting all deferred payments, he shall file a final report.

(b) The clerk shall audit and record the reports and accounts required to be filed pursuant to this section. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.32. Public sale; final report of person, other than commissioner or trustee in deed of trust.—An administrator, executor or collector of a decedent's estate, or a receiver, or a guardian or trustee of a minor's or incompetent's estate, or an administrator, collector, conservator or guardian of an absent or missing person's estate, is not required to file a special account of his receipts and disbursements for property sold at public sale pursuant to this article unless so directed by the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction of the sale proceeding, but shall include in his next following account or report, either annual or final, an account of such receipts and disbursements. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

Part 3. Procedure for Private Sales of Real and Personal Property.

§ 1-339.33. Private sale; order of sale.—Whenever a private sale is ordered, the order of sale shall

(1) Designate the person authorized to make the sale;

(2) Describe real property to be sold, by reference or otherwise, sufficiently to identify it;

(3) Describe personal property to be sold, by reference or otherwise, sufficiently to indicate its nature and quantity; and

(4) Prescribe such terms of sale as the judge or clerk of the superior court ordering the sale deems advisable. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.34. Private sale; exception; certain personal property.—(a) Notwithstanding any provisions of this article, property described below may be sold at private sale at the current market price after first obtaining an order of sale:

(1) Property consisting of stocks, bonds or other securities the current market value of which is established by sales on any stock or securities exchange supervised or regulated by the United States government or any other of its agencies or departments, or

(2) Property consisting of stocks, bonds or other securities which are not sold on any stock or securities exchange supervised or regulated by the United State government or any other of its agencies or departments, but which are found by the judge or clerk having jurisdiction to have a known or readily ascertainable market value, or

(3) Property consisting of cattle, hogs, or other livestock, or cotton, corn, tobacco, peanuts or other farm commodities or produce, found by the judge or clerk having jurisdiction to have a known or readily ascertainable market value.

(b) Property determined by the judge or clerk having jurisdiction to be perishable property because subject to rapid deterioration may be sold at private sale after first obtaining an order of sale.

(c) Any sale made pursuant to this section is not subject to an upset bid, and is not required to be confirmed, but such sale is final. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.35. Private sale; report of sale.—(a) The person holding a private sale shall, within five days after the date of the sale, file a report with the clerk of the superior court of the county where the proceeding for the sale is pending.

(b) The report shall be signed and shall show

(7) The date of the report. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.36. Private sale; upset bid; subsequent procedure.—(a) Every private sale of real or personal property, except a sale of personal property as provided by G. S. § 1-339.34, is subject to an upset bid on the same conditions and in the same manner as is provided by G. S. § 1-339.25.

(b) When an upset bid is made for property sold at private sale, subsequent procedure with respect thereto shall be the same as for the public sale of real property for which an upset bid has been submitted, except that the notice of resale of personal property need not be published in a newspaper, but shall be posted as provided by G. S. § 1-339.17. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.37. Private sale; confirmation.—If no upset bid for property sold at private sale is submitted within ten days after the report of sale is filed, the sale may then be confirmed, and the provisions of G. S. § 1-339.28 (a) and (b) are applicable to such confirmation whether the property sold is real or personal. Unless otherwise provided in the order of sale, no confirmation is required or any sale held as provided by G. S. § 1-339.34. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.38. Private sale; real property; deed; order for possession.—(a) Upon confirmation of a private sale of real property, the person authorized to hold the sale, or such other person as may be designated by the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction, shall prepare and tender to the purchaser a duly executed deed for the property sold and, upon compliance by the purchaser with the terms of the sale, shall deliver the deed to the purchaser.

(b) The judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction of the proceeding in which the property is sold may grant an order for possession of real property so sold and conveyed, as against all persons in possession who are parties to the proceeding. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.39. Private sale; personal property; delivery; bill of sale.—Upon compliance by the purchaser with the terms of a private sale of personal property, and upon confirmation of the sale when confirmation is required by G. S. § 1-339.37, the person authorized to hold the sale, or such other person as may be designated by the judge or clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction, shall deliver the property to the purchaser, and may execute and deliver a bill of sale or other muniment of title, and, upon application of the purchaser, shall do so when required by the judge or clerk having jurisdiction. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.40. Private sale; final report.—(a) A commissioner or a trustee in a deed of trust authorized pursuant to G. S. § 1-339.4 to hold a private sale of property shall make such a final report as is specified in G. S. § 1-339.31.

Art. 29B. Execution Sales.

Part 1. General Provisions.

§ 1-339.41. Definitions.—(a) An execution sale is a sale of property by a sheriff or other officer made pursuant to an execution.

(b) As used in this article,

(1) "Sale" means an execution sale;

(2) "Sheriff" means a sheriff or any officer authorized to hold an execution sale. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Section 6 of the act inserting this article makes it effective as of Jan. 1, 1950. Section 4 of the act provides that it shall not apply to any execution sale held pursuant to any execution issued prior to such effective date, and § 5 provides that the present law shall remain in effect for the completion of execution sales to which the act, under § 4, does not apply.

For a brief discussion of this article, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 479.

§ 1-339.42. Clerk's authority to fix procedural details.—The clerk of the superior court who issues an execution has authority to fix and determine all necessary procedural details with respect to sales in all instances in which this article fails to make definite provisions as to such procedure. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.43. Days on which sale may be held.—A sale may be held on any day except Sunday. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.44. Place of sale.—(a) Every sale of real property shall be held at the courthouse door in the county where the property is situated unless the property consists of a single tract situated in two or more counties.

(b) A sale of a single tract of real property situated in two or more counties may be held at the courthouse door in any one of the counties in which any part of the tract is situated, but no sheriff shall hold any sale outside his own county. As used in this section, a "single tract" means any tract which has a continuous boundary, regardless of whether parts thereof may have been acquired at different times or from different persons or whether it may have been subdivided into other units or lots, or whether it is sold as a whole or in parts.

§ 1-339.46. Sale as a whole or in parts.—When real property to be sold consists of separate lots or other units or when personal property consists of more than one article, the sheriff may sell such real or personal property as a whole or in designated parts, or may offer the property for sale by each method, and then sell the property by the method which produces the highest price; but regardless of which method is followed, the sheriff shall not sell more property than is reasonably necessary to satisfy the judgment together with the costs of the execution and the sale. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.47. Sale to be made for cash.—Every sale shall be made for cash. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.48. Life of execution.—If an execution is issued on a judgment, within the time provided by G. S. § 1-306, and a sale, by authority of that execution, is commenced within the time provided by G. S. § 1-310, the sale, including any resale, may be had and completed even though such sales, resales or other procedure are had after the time when the execution is required to be returned by G. S. § 1-310, or after the time within which an execution could be issued with respect to such judgment pursuant to the provisions of G. S. § 1-306. For the purpose of this section, a sale is commenced when the notice of sale is first published in the case of real property as required by G. S. § 1-339.52, or first posted in the case of personal property as required by G. S. § 1-339.53. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.49. Penalty for selling contrary to law.—A sheriff or other officer who makes any sale contrary to the true intent and meaning of this article shall forfeit two hundred dollars to any person suing for it, one-half for his own use and the other half to the use of the county where the offense is committed. (Rev., s. 649; Code, s. 461; R. C., c. 45, s. 18; 1820, c. 1066, s. 2; 1822, c. 1153, s. 3; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 696.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 act, effective Jan. 1, 1950, transferred this section from § 1-337.

§ 1-339.50. Officer's return of no sale for want of bidders; penalty.—When a sheriff or other officer returns upon an execution that he has made no sale for want of bidders, he must state in his return the several places he has advertised and offered for sale the property levied on; and an officer failing to make such statement is on motion subject to a fine of forty dollars; and every constable, for a like omission of duty, is subject to a fine of ten dollars, for the use and benefit of the plaintiff in the execution; for which, on motion of the plaintiff, judgment shall be granted by the court to which, or by justice to whom, the execution shall be returned. Nothing in, nor any recovery under, this section is a bar to any action for a false return against the sheriff or other officer. (Rev., s. 650; Code, s. 462; R. C., c. 45, s. 19; 1815, c. 887; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 697.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 act, effective Jan. 1, 1950, transferred this section from § 1-338.

Part 2. Procedure for Sale.

§ 1-339.51. Contents of notice of sale.—The notice of sale shall

(1) Refer to the execution authorizing the sale;

(2) Designate the date, hour and place of sale;

(3) Describe real property to be sold, by reference or otherwise, sufficiently to identify it, and may add such further description as will acquaint bidders with the nature and location of the property;

(4) Describe personal property to be sold sufficiently to indicate its nature and quantity, and may add such further description as will acquaint bidders with the nature of the property; and

(5) State that the sale will be made to the highest bidder for cash. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.52. Posting and publishing notice of sale of real property.—(a) The notice of sale of real property shall

(1) Be posted, at the courthouse door in the county in which the property is situated, for thirty days immediately preceding the sale,

(2) And in addition thereto,

a. If a newspaper qualified for legal advertising is published in the county, the notice shall be published in such a newspaper once a week for at least four successive weeks; but

b. If no such newspaper is published in the county, the notice shall be posted at three other public places in the county for thirty days immediately preceding the sale.

(b) When the notice of sale is published in a newspaper,

(1) The period from the date of the first publication to the date of the last publication, both dates inclusive, shall not be less than twenty-two days, including Sundays, and

(2) The date of the last publication shall not be more than seven days preceding the date of sale.

(c) When the real property to be sold is situated in more than one county, the provisions of subsections (a) and (b) shall be complied with in each county in which any part of the property is situated. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.53. Posting notice of sale of personal property.—The notice of sale of personal property, except in the case of perishable property as specified in G. S. § 1-339.56, shall be posted, at the courthouse door in the county in which the sale is to be held, for ten days immediately preceding the date of sale. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.54. Notice to judgment debtor of sale of real property.—In addition to complying with G. S. § 1-339.52, relating to posting and publishing the notice of sale, the sheriff shall, at least ten days before the sale of real property,

(1) If the judgment debtor is found in the county, serve a copy of the notice of sale on him personally, or

(2) If the judgment debtor is not found in the county,

a. Send a copy of the notice of sale by registered mail to the judgment debtor at his last address known to the sheriff, and

b. Serve a copy of the notice of sale on the judgment debtor's agent, if there is in the county a person known to the sheriff to be an agent who has custody or management of, or who exercises control over, any property in the county belonging to the judgment debtor. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.55. Notification of governor and attorney general.—When the state is a stockholder in any corporation whose property is to be sold under execution, notice in writing shall be given by the sheriff by registered mail to the governor and the attorney general at least thirty days before the sale, stating the time and place of the sale and including a copy of the process under the authority of which such sale is to be made. Any sale held without complying with the provisions of this section is invalid with respect to the state. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.56. Exception; perishable property.—If, in the opinion of the sheriff, any personal property levied on under execution is perishable because subject to rapid deterioration, he shall forthwith report such levy, together with a description of the property, to the clerk of the superior court, and request instructions as to the sale of such property. If the clerk then determines that the property is such perishable property, he shall thereupon order a sale thereof to be held at such time and place and upon such notice to be given in such manner and for such length of time as he deems advisable. If the clerk determines that the property is not perishable, he shall order it to be sold in the same manner as other nonperishable property. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.57. Satisfaction of judgment before sale completed.—If, prior to the time fixed for a sale, or prior to the expiration of the time allowed for submitting any upset bid, payment is made or tendered to the sheriff of the judgment and costs with respect to which the execution was issued, and the sheriff's fees, commissions and expenses which have accrued, together with any expenses incurred on account of the sale or proposed sale including costs incurred in caring for the property levied on, then any right to effect a sale pursuant to the execution ceases. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.58. Postponement of sale.—(a) The sheriff may postpone the sale to a day certain not later than six days, exclusive of Sunday, after the original date for the sale.

(1) When there are no bidders, or

(2) When, in his judgment, the number of prospective bidders at the sale is substantially decreased by inclement weather or by any casualty, or

(3) When there are so many other sales advertised to be held at the same time and place as to make it inexpedient and impracticable, in his judgment, to hold the sale on that day, or

(4) When he is unable to hold the sale because of illness or for other good reason, or

(5) When other good cause exists.

(b) Upon postponement of a sale, the sheriff shall

(1) At the time and place advertised for the sale, publicly announce the postponement thereof, and

(2) On the same day, attach to or enter on the original notice of sale or a copy thereof, posted at the courthouse door, as provided by G. S. § 1-339.52 in the case of real property or G. S. § 1-339.53 in the case of personal property, a notice of the postponement.

(c) The posted notice of postponement shall

(2) State the hour and date to which the sale is postponed,

(3) State the reason for the postponement, and

(4) Be signed by the sheriff.

(d) If a sale is not held at the time fixed therefor and is not postponed as provided by this section, or if a postponed sale is not held at the time fixed therefor, the sheriff shall report the facts with respect thereto to the clerk of the superior court, who shall thereupon make an order for the sale of the property to be held at such time and place and upon such notice to be given in such manner and for such length of time as he deems advisable, but nothing herein contained shall be deemed to relieve the sheriff of liability for the nonperformance of his official duty. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.59. Procedure upon dissolution of order restraining or enjoining sale.—(a) When, before the date fixed for a sale, a judge dissolves an order restraining or enjoining the sale, he may, if the required notice of sale has been given, provide by order that the sale shall be held without additional notice at the time and place originally fixed therefor, or he may, in his discretion, make an order with respect thereto as provided in subsection (b).

(b) When, after the date fixed for a sale, a judge dissolves an order restraining or enjoining the sale, he shall by order fix the time and place for the sale to be held upon notice to be given in such manner and for such length of time as he deems advisable. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.60. Time of sale.—(a) A sale shall begin at the time designated in the notice of sale or as soon thereafter as practicable, but not later than one hour after the time fixed therefor unless it is delayed by other sales held at the same place.

(c) No sale shall continue after 4:00 o'clock P. M., except that in cities or towns of more than five thousand inhabitants, as shown by the most recent federal census, sales of personal property may continue until 10:00 o'clock P. M. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.61. Continuance of uncompleted sale.—A sale commenced but not completed within the time allowed by G. S. § 1-339.60 shall be continued by the sheriff to a designated time between 10:00 o'clock A. M. and 4:00 o'clock P. M. the next following day, other than Sunday. In case such continuance becomes necessary, the sheriff shall publicly announce the time to which the sale is continued. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.62. Delivery of personal property; bill of sale.—A sheriff holding a sale of personal property shall deliver the property to the purchaser immediately upon receipt of the purchase price. The sheriff may also execute and deliver a bill of sale or other muniment of title for any personal property sold, and, upon application of the purchaser, shall do so when required by the clerk of the superior court of the county where the property is sold. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.63. Report of sale.—(a) The sheriff shall, within five days after the date of the sale, file a report thereof with the clerk of the superior court.

(b) The report shall be signed and shall show

(1) The title of the action or proceeding;

(2) The authority under which the sheriff acted;

(3) The date, hour and place of the sale;

(4) A description of real property sold, by reference or otherwise, sufficient to identify it, and, if sold in parts, a description of each part so sold;

(5) A description of personal property sold, sufficient to indicate the nature and quantity of the property sold to each purchaser;

(6) The name or names of the person or persons to whom the property was sold;

(7) The price at which the property, or each part thereof, was sold and that such price was the highest bid therefor; and

(8) The date of the report. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.64. Upset bid on real property; compliance bond.—(a) An upset bid is an advanced, increased or raised bid whereby a person offers to purchase real property theretofore sold, for an amount exceeding the reported sale price by ten per cent (10%) of the first $1000 thereof plus five per cent (5%) of any excess above $1000, but in any event with a minimum increase of $25, such increase being deposited in cash with the clerk of the superior court, with whom the report of the sale was filed, within ten days after the filing of such report. An upset bid need not be in writing, and the timely deposit with the clerk of the required amount, together with an indication to the clerk as to the sale to which it is applicable, is sufficient to constitute the upset bid, subject to the provisions in subsection (b).

(b) The clerk of the superior court may require the person submitting an upset bid also to deposit a cash bond, or, in lieu thereof at the option of the bidder, a surety bond, approved by the clerk, conditioned on compliance with the upset bid. The amount of such bond shall not exceed the amount of the upset bid less the amount of the required deposit.

(c) The clerk of the superior court may in the order of resale require the highest bidder at a resale had pursuant to an upset bid to deposit with the clerk a cash bond, or, in lieu thereof at the option of the bidder, a surety bond, approved by the clerk, conditioned on compliance with his bid. The bond shall be in such amount as the clerk deems adequate but in no case greater than the amount of the bid of the person being required to furnish the bond.

(d) A compliance bond, such as is provided for by subsections (b) and (c), shall be payable to the state of North Carolina for the use of the parties in interest and shall be conditioned on the principal obligor's compliance with his bid. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.65. Separate upset bids when real property sold in parts; subsequent procedure.—When real property is sold in parts, as provided by G. S. § 1-339.46, the sale, and each subsequent resale, of any such part shall be subject to a separate upset bid; and to the extent the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction deems advisable, the sale of each such part shall thereafter be treated as a separate sale for the purpose of determining the procedure applicable thereto. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.66. Resale of real property; jurisdiction; procedure.—(a) When an upset bid on real property is submitted to the clerk of the superior court, together with a compliance bond if one is required, the clerk shall order a resale.

(b) Notice of any resale to be held because of an upset bid shall

(1) Be posted, at the courthouse door in the county in which the property is situated, for fifteen days immediately preceding the sale,

(2) And in addition thereto,

a. If a newspaper qualified for legal advertising is published in the county, the notice shall be published in such a newspaper once a week for at least two successive weeks; but

b. If no such newspaper is published in the county, the notice shall be posted at three other public places in the county for fifteen days immediately preceding the sale.

(c) When the notice of resale is published in a newspaper,

(1) The period from the date of the first publication to the date of the last publication, both dates inclusive, shall not be less than eight days, including Sunday, and

(2) The date of the last publication shall not be more than seven days preceding the date of sale.

(d) When the real property to be resold is situated in more than one county, the provisions of subsections (b) and (c) shall be complied with in each county in which any part of the property is situated.

(e) The sheriff shall report the resale in the same manner as required by G. S. § 1-339.63.

(f) When there is no bid at a resale other than the upset bid resulting in such resale, the person who made the upset bid is deemed the highest bidder at the resale. Such sale remains subject to a further upset bid and resale pursuant to this article.

(g) Resales may be had as often as upset bids are submitted in compliance with this article.

(h) Except as otherwise provided in this section, all the provisions of this article applicable to an original sale are applicable to resales. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

Order for Resale Does Not Prolong Life of Judgment.—Where the bid for real estate offered at a sale held under authority of an execution within the period of ten years next after the date of rendition of the judgment, upon which the execution issued, was raised and resales were ordered successively under the provisions of a former statute of similar import, by which the final sale so ordered took place on a date after the expiration of said period of ten years, such orders did not have the effect of prolonging the statutory life of lien of the judgment within the provisions and the meaning of § 1-234. Cheshire v. Drake, 223 N. C. 577, 27 S. E. (2d) 627.

§ 1-339.67. Confirmation of sale of real property.—No sale of real property may be consummated until the sale is confirmed by the clerk of the superior court. No order of confirmation may be made until the time for submitting an upset bid, pursuant to G. S. § 1-339.65, has expired (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.68. Deed for real property sold; property subject to liens.—(a) Upon confirmation of a sale of real property, the sheriff, upon order of the clerk of the superior court, shall prepare and tender to the purchaser a duly executed deed for the property sold and, upon compliance by the purchaser with the terms of the sale, shall deliver the deed to the purchaser.

(b) Any real property sold under execution remains subject to all liens which became effective prior to the lien of the judgment pursuant to which the sale is held, in the same manner and to the same extent as if no such sale had been held. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.69. Failure of bidder to comply with bid; resale.—(a) When the highest bidder at a sale of personal property fails to pay the amount of his bid, the sheriff shall at the same time and place immediately resell the property. In the event no other bid is received, a new sale may be advertised in the regular manner provided by this article for an original sale.

(b) When the highest bidder at a sale or resale of real property fails to comply with his bid within ten days after the tender to him of a deed for the property or after a bona fide attempt to tender such deed, the clerk of the superior court who issued the execution may order a resale. The procedure for such resale is the same in every respect as is provided by this article in the case of an original sale of real property except that the provisions of G. S. § 1-339.66 (b), (c) and (d) apply with respect to the posting and publishing of the notice of such resale.

(c) A defaulting bidder at any sale or resale is liable on his bid, and in case a resale is had because of such default, he shall remain liable to the extent that the final sale price is less than his bid plus all costs of such resale or resales.

(d) Nothing in this section deprives any person of any other remedy against the defaulting bidder. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.70. Disposition of proceeds of sale.—(a) After deducting all sums due him on account of the sale, including the expenses incurred in caring for the property so long as his responsibility for such care continued, the sheriff shall pay the proceeds of the sale to the clerk of the superior court who issued the execution, and the clerk shall furnish the sheriff a receipt therefor.

(b) The clerk shall apply the proceeds of the sale so received to the payment of the judgment upon which the execution was issued.

(c) Any surplus shall be paid by the clerk to the person legally entitled thereto if the clerk knows who such person is. If the clerk is in doubt as to who is entitled to the surplus, or if adverse claims are asserted thereto, the clerk shall hold such surplus until rights thereto are established in a special proceeding pursuant to G. S. § 1-339.71. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

§ 1-339.71. Special proceeding to determine ownership of surplus.—(a) A special proceeding may be instituted before the clerk of the superior court by any person claiming any money, or part thereof, paid into the clerk's office under G. S. § 1-339.70, to determine who is entitled thereto.

(b) All other persons who have filed with the clerk notice of their claim to the money or any part thereof, or who, as far as the petitioner or petitioners know, assert any claim to the money or any part thereof, shall be made defendants in the proceeding.

(c) If any answer is filed raising issues of fact as to the ownership of the money, the proceedings shall be transferred to the civil issue docket of the superior court for trial. When a proceeding is so transferred, the clerk may require any party to the proceeding who asserts a claim to the fund by petition or answer to furnish a bond for costs in the amount of $200.00, or otherwise comply with the provisions of G. S. § 1-109.

(d) The court may, in its discretion, allow a reasonable attorney's fee for any attorney appearing in behalf of the party or parties who prevail, to be paid out of the funds in controversy, and shall tax all costs against the losing party or parties who asserted a claim to the fund by petition or answer. (1949, c. 719, s. 1.)

Art. 29C. Validating Sections.

§ 1-339.72. Validation of certain sales.—All sales of real property under execution, deed of trust, mortgage or other contracts made since February 21, 1929, where the original sale was published for four successive weeks, and any re-sale published for two successive weeks shall be and the same are in all respects validated as to publication of notice. (Rev., s. 646; 1901, c. 742; 1949, c. 719, s. 3; C. S. 693.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 act, effective Jan. 1, 1950, transferred § 1-335 to this section.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, this section appeared as the former last sentence of § 28-93.

Art. 30. Betterments.

Rule Stated.—One, who in good faith under colorable title, enters into possession of land under a mistaken belief that his title is good, and who is subsequently ejected by the true owner, is entitled to compensation for the enhanced value of the land due to improvements placed on the land by him. Rogers v. Timberlake, 223 N. C. 59, 25 S. E. (2d) 167.

Plaintiff is not confined to a common law action for improvements, if indeed such right may be enforced by independent action. Rhyne v. Sheppard, 224 N. C. 734, 736, 32 S. E. (2d) 316.

Where defendants disclaim all right and title to a part of the locus, in an action of ejectment, plaintiffs are entitled to recover the reasonable rental value of that part for the three years next preceding the institution of the action. Hughes v. Oliver, 228 N. C. 680, 47 S. E. (2d) 6.

Rents and Rental Values as Related to Betterments.—Under this section, in an action involving betterments, rents and rental values of the lands, which were obtained by defendants solely by reason of the improvements put on the lands by themselves, cannot be used to offset compensation to defendants for these improvements. Harrison v. Darden, 223 N. C. 364, 26 S. E. (2d) 860.

Art. 31. Supplemental Proceedings.

Nature of Proceedings, etc.—
The proceedings under this section are in the nature of equitable proceedings. Johnson Cotton Co. v. Reaves, 225 N. C. 436, 35 S. E. (2d) 408, 413.

The court has the power to order production of proper papers pertinent to the issue to be tried, and in possession of the opposite party. Johnson Cotton Co. v. Reaves, 225 N. C. 436, 35 S. E. (2d) 408, 413.

Where the examination of the debtor in supplementary proceedings shows that his books of accounts contain evidence material to the investigation he should be required to produce them. Id.

Accounting of Partnership Affairs.—In order to ascertain if there are any assets of the partnership remaining, a full accounting of the partnership affairs is appropriate, and should be had. Johnson Cotton Co. v. Reaves, 225 N. C. 436, 35 S. E. (2d) 408.

Section Refers to Property of Debtor at Time of Order.—When this section and § 1-360 are read either singly or as a component part of this article, it is plain that a supplemental proceeding against a third person is designed to reach and apply to the satisfaction of the judgment property of the judgment debtor in the hands of the third person or debts due to judgment debtor by the third person at the time of the issuance and service of the order for the examination of the third person. Motor Finance Co. v. Putnam, 229 N. C. 555, 50 S. E. (2d) 670.

Prospective Earnings Are Not Property. — Prospective earnings of the judgment debtor are neither property nor a debt, and may not be reached in supplemental proceedings against the employer of the judgment debtor. Motor Finance Co. v. Putnam, 229 N. C. 555, 50 S. E. (2d) 670.

Section Applies Only to Debts Due at Time of Order.—When this section and § 1-358 are read either singly or as a component part of this article it is plain that a supplemental proceeding against a third person is designed to reach and apply to the satisfaction of the judgment property of the judgment debtor in the hands of the third person or debts due to the judgment debtor by the third person at the time of the issuance and service of the order for the examination of the third person. Motor Finance Co. v. Putnam, 229 N. C. 555, 50 S. E. (2d) 670.

Prospective Earnings Are neither Property nor Debt.—Prospective earnings of the judgment debtor are neither property nor a debt, and may not be reached in supplemental proceedings against the employer of the judgment debtor. Motor Finance Co. v. Putnam, 229 N. C. 555, 50 S. E. (2d) 670.

Earnings for Sixty Days.—
In the 1st paragraph in the original the last line should read, "debts and not for taxes due."

Paying Salary Accruing after Issuance of Order.—An employer cannot be held in contempt for paying salary accruing to a judgment debtor after issuance and service on the employer of an order in proceedings supplemental to execution, since the order, properly construed, speaks as of the date of its issuance, and since in law the order could not apply to prospective earnings of the judgment debtor. Motor Finance Co. v. Putnam, 229 N. C. 555, 50 S. E. (2d) 670.

Art. 32. Property Exempt from Execution.

I. IN GENERAL.

Cited in Sample v. Jackson, 225 N. C. 380, 382, 35 S. E. (2d) 236.

A. Nature of Homestead.

Homestead Is Not Offspring of Judgment Debt.—The homestead, whether allotted on the voluntary petition of the owner or by the sheriff under execution, is not the offspring of and does not draw its life blood from a judgment debt. It stems from the constitution and "it is not the condition of the homesteader that creates the homestead condition, but the force of the constitution, attaching to and acting upon the land." Thomas v. Fulford, 217 N. C. 667, 23 S. E. 635; Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 670.

II. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS AND PURPOSE.

A. In General.

Purpose of Homestead Provision.—
The purpose of the homestead provision of the constitution is to surround the family home with certain protection against the demands of urgent creditors. It carries the right of occupancy free from levy or sale under execution so long as the claimant may live unless alienated or abandoned. It is the place of residence which the homesteader may improve and make comfortable and where his family may be sheltered and live, beyond the reach of those financial misfortunes which even the most prudent and sagacious cannot always avoid. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Homestead Is Vested Right.—
Title to the homestead is vested in the owner by the constitution and no allotment by the sheriff is necessary to create the right or vest the title. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

III. JUDGMENTS AND LIENS—SUSPENSION OF LIMITATIONS.

Statute Is Not Tolled in Respect to Debt as Such.—The allotment of homestead suspends the running of the statute of limitations against the judgment as a lien upon the property embraced in the homestead, but does not toll the statute in respect to the debt as such or the personal liability of the debtor for the payment thereof. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Payment of Judgment Does Not Extinguish Homestead.—Payment of the judgment under which homestead has been allotted does not extinguish the homestead, and does not start the running of the statute against judgments then of record or thereafter docketed. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Purpose of Allotment by Sheriff.—No sale can be had until the homestead is first ascertained and set apart to the judgment debtor. The allotment by the sheriff is only for the purpose of ascertaining whether there be any excess of property over the homestead which is subject to sale under execution. Lambert v. Kinnery, 74 N. C. 348; Gheen v. Summey, 80 N. C. 187; Littlejohn v. Egerton, 77 N. C. 379. The issuance of the execution and the levy thereunder merely set in motion the machinery through which the homestead is valued and set apart to the owner. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Allotment Does Not Create Homestead Right.—When a sheriff is seeking to collect a judgment under execution issued to him, he must, before levying upon the real property of the debtor, proceed to have the debtor's homestead allotted as required by this section. But this does not create the homestead right. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Provided, that the return of the appraisers of their proceedings as described in this section shall be invalid, void, and of no effect as to the rights of third persons or parties or as to the rights of persons, firms or corporations who are not parties to the judgment or proceeding unless said return is filed with the judgment roll in the action, and the minutes of the same entered on the judgment docket, and a certified copy thereof under the hand of the clerk shall be registered in the office of the register of deeds for the county. (Rev., ss. 688, 689; Code, ss. 503-4; 1868-9, c. 137, ss. 3-4; 1877, c. 272; 1945, c. 912; C. S. 731.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the above proviso at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Same—When Registration Not Necessary.—

The registration of a certified copy of the report of the appraisers is indispensable only when the allotment is made on petition of the homesteader; when the homestead is laid off by the sheriff, failure to register report of the appraisers is an irregularity insufficient to invalidate the allotment. For statutory change on this aspect, see amendment of this section. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Where in bankruptcy proceedings homestead was allotted in certain lands, subject to a specified judgment the court held that as against this judgment there was no determination of the extent of debtor's homestead in the lands, and the judgment creditor was not remitted to reallotment of homestead either by suit in equity or by application to the clerk under this section, but could proceed by levy of execution and allotment of homestead. Sample v. Jackson, 226 N. C. 408, 38 S. E. (2d) 155.

Insolvency or the need for protection against sale is not a prerequisite to a homestead's allotment. While the homestead may have real beneficial value only when the owner is in debt and pressed by final process of the court, it is ever operative. A resident occupant of real property, though free from debt and possessed of great wealth, may, if he so elects, have it set apart to him on his own voluntary petition. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Art. 33. Special Proceedings.

Cited in Green v. Chrismon, 223 N. C. 723, 28 S. E. (2d) 215.

Boundary Disputes.—

Where in a special proceeding under chapter 38 of General Statutes, to establish a boundary line, the defendant, by his answer, denies the petitioner's title and pleads the twenty years' adverse possession under § 1-40, as a defense, the proceeding is assimilated to an action to quiet title (§ 41-10) and the clerk, as directed by this section, should "transfer the cause to the civil issue docket for trial during term upon all issues raised by pleadings," in accordance with rules of practice applicable to such actions originally instituted in that court. Simmons v. Lee, 230 N. C. 216, 53 S. E. (2d) 79.

Applied in Jernigan v. Jernigan, 226 N. C. 204, 37 S. E. (2d) 493.

§ 1-404. Reports of commissioners and jurors.—Every order or judgment in a special proceeding imposing a duty on commissioners or jurors must prescribe the time within which the duty must be performed, except in cases where the time is prescribed by statute. The commissioners or jurors shall within twenty days after the performance of the duty file their report with the clerk of the superior court, and if no exception is filed to it within ten days, the court may proceed to confirm the same on motion of any party and without special notice to the other parties. (Rev., s. 723; 1893, c. 209; 1945, c. 778; C. S. 763.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted "ten" for "twenty" in line nine.

Art. 34. Arrest and Bail.

Complaint May Allege Facts Necessary to Support Provisional Remedy.—In an action for assault and battery in which the provisional remedy of arrest and bail is invoked, it is appropriate for plaintiff to allege in the complaint the facts necessary to support the provisional remedy of arrest and bail, notwithstanding that such facts were also set out in the affidavit filed as a basis for the provisional remedy. Long v. Love, 230 N. C. 535, 53 S. E. (2d) 661.

Thus a motion to strike allegations that the injury was willful, wanton or malicious is properly denied, since plaintiff is entitled to allege facts necessary to support the provisional remedy. Id.

Art. 35. Attachment.

Part 1. General Provisions.

§ 1-440.1. Nature of attachment.—(a) Attachment is a proceeding ancillary to a pending principal action, is in the nature of a preliminary execution against property, and is intended to bring property of a defendant within the legal custody of the court in order that it may subsequently be applied to the satisfaction of any judgment for money which may be rendered against the defendant in the principal action.

(b) No personal judgment, even for costs, may be rendered against a defendant unless

(1) Personal service within the state is had on
   a. The defendant, or
   b. A process agent authorized by him, or
   c. A process agent authorized expressly or impliedly by law, or unless

(2) The defendant makes a general appearance.

(c) Although there is no personal service on the defendant, or on an agent for him, and although he does not make a general appearance, judgment may be rendered in an action in which property of the defendant has been attached which judgment shall provide for the application of the attached property, by the method set out in § 1-440.46, to the satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim as established in the principal action. If plaintiff's claim is not thereby satisfied in full, subsequent actions for the unsatisfied balance are not barred. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1947 amendment rewrote this article, which formerly consisted of §§ 1-440 to 1-471 appearing in the original volume, to read as set forth herein. Therefore the named sections have been superseded.

For a brief account of the 1947 amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 386.

Applied in Whitaker v. Wade, 229 N. C. 327, 49 S. E. (2d) 627.

§ 1-440.2. Actions in which attachment may be had.—Attachment may be had in any action the purpose of which, in whole or in part, or in the alternative, is to secure a judgment for money, or in any action by a wife for alimony or for maintenance and support, but not in any other action. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.3. Grounds for attachment.—In those actions in which attachment may be had under the provisions of § 1-440.2, an order of attachment may be issued when the defendant is

(1) A nonresident, or

(2) A foreign corporation, or

(3) A domestic corporation, whose president, vice-president, secretary or treasurer cannot be found in the state after due diligence, or

(4) A resident of the state who, with intent to defraud his creditors or to avoid service of summons,

b. Keeps himself concealed therein, or

(5) A person or domestic corporation which, with intent to defraud his or its creditors,

a. Has removed, or is about to remove, property from this state, or

b. Has assigned, disposed of, or secreted, or is about to assign, dispose of, or secrete, property. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Section Is Exclusive.—The ancillary writ of attachment may be issued only on one or more of the grounds specified by this section. Whitaker v. Wade, 229 N. C. 327, 49 S. E. (2d) 627.

Grounds Must Appear by Affidavit.—The grounds upon which an ancillary writ of attachment is issued must be made to appear by affidavit. Whitaker v. Wade, 229 N. C. 327, 49 S. E. (2d) 627.

§ 1-440.4. Property subject to attachment.—All of a defendant's property within this state which is subject to levy under execution, or which in supplemental proceedings in aid of execution is subject to the satisfaction of a judgment for money, is subject to attachment under the conditions prescribed by this article. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Cash Deposited as Security in Lieu of Bond.—The right of a nonresident defendant in the cash voluntarily deposited by him as security in lieu of bond for his appearance to answer a criminal charge preferred against him is liable to garnishment; and the purposes for which the cash was deposited having been accomplished by defendant's appearing, and later giving a new recognizance for his appearance, the entire amount of the deposit is subject to the lien of the attachment. White v. Ordille, 229 N. C. 490, 50 S. E. (2d) 499.

§ 1-440.5. By whom order issued; when and where; filing of bond and affidavit.—(a) An order of attachment may be issued by

(1) The clerk of the superior court in which the action has been, or is being, commenced, or by

(2) The resident judge, the judge regularly holding the superior courts of the district, or any judge holding a term of superior court in the county in which the action has been, or is being, commenced.

(b) An order of attachment issued by a judge may be issued as follows:

(1) The resident judge of the district, or the judge regularly holding the superior courts of the district, may issue the order in open court or in chambers, at term or in vacation, and within or without the district.

(2) Any other judge holding a term of superior court in the county may issue the order in open court.

(c) In those cases where the order of attachment is issued by the judge, such judge shall cause the bond required by § 1-440.10 and the affidavit required by § 1-440.11 to be filed promptly with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the action is pending. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.6. Time of issuance with reference to summons or service by publication.—(a) The order of attachment may be issued

(1) In those cases where a summons is issued, at the time the summons is issued or at any time thereafter, or

(2) In those cases where service is by publication, at the time the order of publication is made or at any time thereafter.

(b) No order of attachment may be issued in any action after judgment in the principal action is had in the superior court. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.7. Time within which service of summons or service by publication must be had.—

(a) When an order of attachment is issued before the summons is served,

(1) If personal service within the state is to be had, such personal service must be had within thirty days after the issuance of the order of attachment;

(2) If such personal service within the state is not to be had,

a. Service of the summons outside the state, in the manner provided by § 1-104, must be had within thirty days after the issuance of the order of attachment, or

b. Service by publication must be commenced not later than the thirty-first day after the issuance of the order of attachment. If publication is commenced, such publication must be completed as provided by § 1-99, unless the defendant appears in the action or unless personal service is had on him within the state.

(b) Upon failure of compliance with the applicable provisions of subsection (a) of this section, either the clerk or the judge shall, upon the motion of the defendant or any other interested party, make an order dissolving the attachment, and the defendant shall have all the rights that would accrue to him under the provisions of § 1-440.45, the same as if the principal action had been prosecuted to judgment and the defendant had prevailed therein. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Applied in Scott & Co. v. Jones, 230 N. C. 74, 52 S. E. (2d) 219.

§ 1-440.8. General provisions relative to bonds.—(a) Any bond given pursuant to the provisions of this article shall be executed by the party required to furnish the bond and by

(1) A surety company authorized to do business in this state, as provided by § 109-17, or by

(2) One or more individual sureties, as may be required by the court.

(b) Each individual surety shall execute an affidavit, to be attached to the bond, stating that he is a resident of the state and that he is worth the amount specified in the bond exclusive of property exempt from execution and over and above all his liabilities.

(c) Any bond given pursuant to any provisions of this article shall be subject to the approval of the court.

(d) It is not a defense in an action on any bond given pursuant to this article that

(1) The court had no jurisdiction to require or accept bond, or

(2) The order of attachment was improperly granted, or

(3) There was any other irregularity in the attachment proceeding. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.9. Authority of court to fix procedural details.—The court of proper jurisdiction, before which any matter is pending under the provisions of this article, shall have authority to fix and determine all necessary procedural details in all instances in which the statute fails to make definite provision as to such procedure. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Part 2. Procedure to Secure Attachment.

§ 1-440.10. Bond for attachment.—

(a) Before the court issues an order of attachment, the plaintiff must furnish a bond as follows:

(1) The amount of the bond shall be such as may be fixed by the court issuing the order of attachment and shall be such as may be deemed necessary by the court in order to afford reasonable protection to the defendant, but shall not be less than two hundred dollars ($200.00);

(2) The condition of the bond shall be that a. If the order of attachment is dissolved, dismissed or set aside by the court, or

b. If the plaintiff fails to obtain judgment against the defendant, the plaintiff will pay all costs that may be awarded to the defendant and all damages that the defendant may sustain by reason of the attachment, the surety's liability, however, to be limited to the amount of the bond. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.11. Affidavit for attachment; amendment.—

(a) To secure an order of attachment, the plaintiff, or his agent or attorney in his behalf, must state by affidavit

(1) In every case:

a. The plaintiff has commenced or is about to commence an action, the purpose of which, in whole or in part, or in the alternative, is to secure a judgment for money, and the amount thereof,

b. The nature of such action, and

c. The ground or grounds for attachment (one or more of those stated in § 1-440.3); and

(2) In those cases described below, the additional facts indicated:

a. If the action is based on breach of contract, that the plaintiff is entitled to recover the amount for which judgment is sought over and above all counterclaims known to him;

b. If it is alleged as a ground for attachment that the defendant has done, or is about to do, any act with intent to defraud his creditors, the facts and circumstances supporting such allegation.

(b) A verified complaint may be used as the affidavit required by this section.

(c) The court, in its discretion, at any time before judgment in the principal action, may allow any such affidavit to be amended even though the original affidavit is wholly insufficient.

(d) An amendment of an insufficient affidavit of attachment relates to the beginning of the attachment proceeding, and no rights based on such irregularity can be required by any third party by any subsequent attachment intervening between the original affidavit and the amendment. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.12. Order of attachment; form and contents.—

(a) If the matters required by § 1-440.11 (a) are shown by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court and if the bond required by § 1-440.10 is furnished, the court shall issue an order of attachment which shall

(1) Show the venue, the court in which the action has been, or is being, commenced, and the title of the action;

(2) Run in the name of the state and be directed to the sheriff of a designated county;

(3) State that an affidavit for the attachment of the defendant's property has been filed with the court in the action, that the required attachment bond has been executed and delivered to the court and that it has been made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that the allegations of the plaintiff's affidavit for attachment are true;

(4) Direct the sheriff to attach and safely keep all of the property of the defendant within the sheriff's county which is subject to attachment, or so much thereof as is sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's demand, together with costs and expenses;

(5) Direct that the order of attachment be returned to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending;

(6) Show the date of issuance; and

(7) Be signed by clerk or the judge issuing the order.

(b) The order of attachment shall not contain a return date, but shall be returned to the clerk as provided by § 1-440.16. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.13. Additional orders of attachment at time of original order; alias and pluries orders.—

(a) At the time the original order of attachment is issued, or thereafter, one or more additional orders, as the request of the plaintiff, may be issued, and any such additional order may be directed to the sheriff of any county in which the defendant may have property.

(b) After the original order or orders have been returned, if no property or, in the opinion of the plaintiff, insufficient property has been attached thereunder, alias or pluries orders may be issued prior to judgment, at the request of the plaintiff, and such alias or pluries orders may be directed to the sheriff of any county in which the defendant may have property. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

(a) When the original order of attachment is issued in an action in which an order is thereafter issued for service by publication of a notice as provided by § 1-98, the order of publication shall direct that the published notice include notice of the issuance of the order of attachment.

(b) When the original order of attachment is issued after the order of publication is made, a notice of the issuance of the order of attachment shall be published once a week for four successive weeks in some newspaper published in the county in which the action is pending, such publication to be commenced within thirty days after the issuance of the order of attachment. Such notice shall show

(1) The county and the court in which the action is pending,

(2) The names of the parties,

(3) The purpose of the action, and

(4) The fact that on a date specified an order was issued to attach the defendant's property.

(c) If no newspaper is published in the county in which the action is pending, the notice

(1) Shall be published once a week for four successive weeks in some newspaper published in the same judicial district, or

(d) When an order of attachment is issued in an action in which service on the defendant is to be, or has been, had in the manner provided by § 1-104 in lieu of personal service on the defendant,

(1) A notice of the issuance of the order of attachment shall also be served on the defendant in the same manner as is provided for service of notice by § 1-104, which notice shall show the same facts with reference to the attachment as are required by subsection (b) of this section, or

(2) A notice of the issuance of the order of attachment shall be published in the manner provided by subsections (b) or (c) of this section. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Applied in Scott & Co. v. Jones, 230 N. C. 74, 52 S. E. (2d) 219.

Part 3. Execution of Order of Attachment; Garnishment.

§ 1-440.15. Method of execution.—

(a) The sheriff to whom the order of attachment is directed shall note thereon the date of its delivery to him and shall promptly execute it by levying on the defendant's property as follows:

(1) The levy on real property shall be made as provided by § 1-440.17;

(2) The levy on stock in a corporation shall be made as provided by § 1-440.19;

(3) The levy on goods stored in a warehouse shall be made as provided by § 1-440.20;

(4) The levy on tangible personal property in the possession of the defendant shall, except as provided in § 1-440.19, be made as provided by § 1-440.18;

(5) The levy on tangible personal property belonging to the defendant but not in his possession, or on any indebtedness to the defendant, or on any other intangible personal property belonging to the defendant, shall, except as provided by §§ 1-440.19 and 1-440.20, be made as provided by § 1-440.25 relating to garnishment.

(b) The sheriff is not required to levy upon personal property before levying upon real property.

(c) In order for the sheriff to make any levy, it is not necessary for him to deliver to the defendant or any other person any copy of the order of attachment or any other process except in the case of garnishment as provided by § 1-440.25. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.16. Sheriff's return.—

(a) After the sheriff has executed an order of attachment, he shall promptly make a written return showing all property levied upon by him and the date of such levy. In such return, he shall describe the property levied upon in sufficient detail to identify the property clearly. The sheriff forthwith shall deliver the order of attachment, together with his return, to the court in which the action is pending.

(b) If garnishment process is issued, as provided by §§ 1-440.23 and 1-440.24, the sheriff shall include in his return a report of his proceedings with respect to such garnishment and shall return to the court the original process issued to the garnishee.

(c) If the sheriff makes no levy within ten days after the issuance of the order of attachment, he forthwith shall deliver to the court, in which the action is pending, the order, and any other process relating thereto, together with his return showing that no levy has been made and the reason therefor. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

(a) In order to make a levy on real property, the sheriff need not go upon the land or take control over it, but he

(1) Shall make an endorsement upon the order of attachment or shall attach thereto a statement showing that he thereby levies upon the defendant's interest in the real property described in such endorsement or statement, describing the real property in sufficient detail to identify it clearly, and

(2) Shall, as promptly as practicable, certify such levy, and the names of the parties to the action, to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land lies.

(b) Upon receipt of the sheriff's certificate, the clerk shall dock the levy, as provided by § 1-440.33. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

The sheriff may make a valid levy under a warrant of attachment on real property without going on the property. The levy is made effective by the endorsement thereof on the execution or warrant of attachment. The jurisdiction of the court dates from the levy, but the lien becomes effective when certified to the clerk and indexed. Voehringer v. Pollock, 224 N. C. 409, 30 S. E. (2d) 374.

§ 1-440.18. Levy on tangible personal property in defendant's possession.—The sheriff shall levy on tangible personal property in the possession of the defendant by seizing and taking into his possession so much thereof as will be sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's demands. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.19. Levy on stock in corporation.—

(a) The sheriff may levy, as on tangible property, on a share of stock in a corporation by seizing the certificate of stock

(1) When the certificate is in the possession of the defendant, and

(2) When, by the law of the state in which the corporation is incorporated, the property interest of the stockholder is embodied in the certificate of stock, as is provided by the Uniform Stock Transfer Act or similar legislation.

(b) The sheriff may levy on a share of stock in a corporation by delivery of copies of the garnishment process to the proper officer or agent of such corporation, as set out in § 1-440.26,

(1) When, by the law of the state in which the corporation is incorporated, the property interest of the stockholder is not embodied in the certificate of stock, or

(2) When, by the law of the state in which the corporation is incorporated, the property interest of the stockholder is embodied in the certificate of the stock, as is provided by the Uniform Stock Transfer Act or similar legislation, and

a. Such certificate has been surrendered to the corporation which issued it, or

b. The transfer of such certificate by the holder thereof has been restrained or enjoined.

(c) A restraining order or injunction against the transfer of a certificate of stock, when proper in an attachment proceeding, may be granted by the clerk or judge pursuant to a motion in the cause to which the attachment is ancillary. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.20. Levy on goods in warehouses.—(a) The sheriff may levy on goods delivered to a warehouseman for storage, by delivering copies of the garnishment process to the warehouseman, or to the proper officer or agent for the corporate warehouseman, as set out in § 1-440.26,

(1) If a negotiable warehouse receipt has not been issued with respect thereto, or

(2) If a negotiable warehouse receipt has been issued with respect thereto, and

a. Such receipt is seized, or

b. Such receipt is surrendered to the warehouseman who issued it, or

c. The transfer of such receipt by the holder thereof is restrained or enjoined.

(b) A restraining order or injunction against the transfer of a negotiable warehouse receipt, when proper in an attachment proceeding, may be granted by the clerk or judge pursuant to a motion in the cause to which the attachment is ancillary. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.21. Nature of garnishment.—(a) Garnishment is not an independent action but is a proceeding ancillary to attachment and is the remedy for discovering and subjecting to attachment

(1) Tangible personal property belonging to the defendant but not in his possession, and

(2) Any indebtedness to the defendant and any other intangible personal property belonging to him.

(b) A garnishee is a person, firm, association, or corporation to which such a summons as specified by § 1-440.23 is issued. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.22. Issuance of summons to garnishee.—(a) A summons to garnishee may be issued

(1) At the time of the issuance of the original order of attachment, by the court making such order, or

(2) At any time thereafter prior to judgment in the principal action, by the court in which the action is pending.

(b) At the request of the plaintiff, such summons to garnishee shall, at either such time, be issued to each person designated by the plaintiff as a garnishee. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.23. Form of summons to garnishee.—The summons to garnishee shall be substantially in the following form:

State of North Carolina

In the Superior Court

(1) Whether, at the time of the service of this summons upon you, or at any time since then until the date of your answer, you were indebted to the defendant or had any property of his in your possession and, if so, the amount and nature thereof; and

(2) Whether, according to your knowledge, information or belief, any other person is indebted to the defendant or has any property of the defendant in his possession and, if so, the name of each such person.

This the ..... day of ....., 19...

§ 1-440.24. Form of notice of levy in garnishment proceeding.—The notice of levy to be served on the garnishee shall be substantially in the following form:

State of North Carolina

In the Superior Court

..... County
Plaintiff,
.....,
vs.
....., Defendant, and
....., Garnishee.

Notice of Levy

benefit of the defendant, and upon all debts owed by you to the defendant.

You are notified that a lien is hereby created on all the tangible property of the defendant in your possession, and that if you surrender the possession of, or transfer to anyone, any property belonging to the defendant, or if you pay any debt you owe the defendant, unless the same is delivered or paid to me or to the court for such proper disposition as the court may determine, you will be subject to punishment as for contempt, and that judgment may be rendered against you for the value of such property not exceeding the full amount of plaintiff's claim and costs of the action.

This the ..... day of ....., 19...

§ 1-440.25. Levy upon debt owed by, or property in possession of, the garnishee.—The levy in all cases of garnishment shall be made by delivering to the garnishee, or a process agent authorized by him or expressly or impliedly authorized by law, or some representative of a corporate garnishee designated by § 1-440.26, a copy of each of the following:

(1) The order of attachment,

(2) The summons to garnishee, and

§ 1-440.26. To whom garnishment process may be delivered when garnishee is corporation.—

(a) When the garnishee is a domestic corporation, the copies of the process listed in § 1-440.25 may be delivered to the president or other head, secretary, cashier, treasurer, director, managing agent or local agent of the corporation.

(b) When the garnishee is a foreign corporation, the copies of the process listed in § 1-440.25 may be delivered only to the president, treasurer or secretary thereof personally and while such officer is within the state, except that a. If the corporation has property within this state, or

b. If the cause of action arose in this state, or

c. If the plaintiff resides in this state, the copies of the process may be delivered to any of the persons designated in subsection (a) of this section.

(c) A person receiving or collecting money within this state on behalf of a corporation is deemed to be a local agent of the corporation for the purpose of this section. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.27. Failure of garnishee to appear.—

(a) When a garnishee, after being duly summoned, fails to file a verified answer as required, the clerk of the court shall enter a conditional judgment for the plaintiff against the garnishee for the full amount for which the plaintiff shall have prayed judgment against the defendant, together with such amount as in the opinion of the clerk will be sufficient to cover the plaintiff's costs.

(b) The clerk shall thereupon issue a notice to the garnishee requiring him to appear not later than ten days after the date of service of the notice, and show cause why the conditional judgment shall not be made final. If, after service of such notice, the garnishee fails to appear within the time named and file a verified answer to the summons to the garnishee, or if such notice cannot be served upon the garnishee because he cannot be found within the county where the original summons to such garnishee was served, then in either such event, the clerk shall make the conditional judgment final. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

(a) When a garnishee admits in his answer that he is indebted to the defendant, or was indebted to the defendant at the time of service of garnishment process upon him or at some date subsequent thereto, the clerk of the court shall enter judgment against the garnishee for the smaller of the two following amounts:

(1) The amount which the garnishee admits that he owes the defendant or has owed the defendant at any time from the date of the service of the garnishment process to the date of answer by the garnishee, or

(2) The full amount for which the plaintiff has prayed judgment against the defendant, together with such amount as in the opinion of the clerk will be sufficient to cover the plaintiff's costs.

(b) When a garnishee admits in his answer that he has in his possession personal property belonging to the defendant, with respect to which the garnishee does not claim a lien or other interest, the clerk of the court shall enter judgment against the garnishee requiring him to deliver such property to the sheriff, and upon such delivery the garnishee shall be exonerated as to the property so delivered.

(c) When a garnishee admits in his answer that, at or subsequent to the date of the service of the garnishment process upon him, he had in his possession property belonging to the defendant, with respect to which the garnishee does not claim a lien or other interest, but that he does not have such property at the time of his answer, the clerk of the court shall at a hearing for that purpose determine, upon affidavits filed, the value of such property, unless the plaintiff, the defendant and the garnishee agree as to the value thereof, or unless, prior to the hearing, a jury trial thereon is demanded by one of the parties. The clerk shall give the parties such notice of the hearing as he may deem reasonable and by such means as he may deem best.

(d) When the value of the property has been determined as provided in subsection (c) of this section the court shall enter judgment against the garnishee for the smaller of the two following amounts:

(1) An amount equal to the value of the property in question, or

(2) The full amount for which the plaintiff has prayed judgment against the defendant, together with such amount as in the opinion of the clerk will be sufficient to cover the plaintiff's costs.

(e) When a garnishee alleges in his answer that the debt or the personal property due to be delivered by him to the defendant will become payable or deliverable at a future date, and the plaintiff, within twenty days thereafter, files a reply denying such allegation, the issue thereby raised shall be submitted to and determined by a jury.

If it is not denied that the debt owed or the personal property due to be delivered to the defendant will become payable or deliverable at a future date, or if it is so found upon the trial, judgment shall be given against the garnishee which shall require the garnishee at the due date of the indebtedness to pay the plaintiff such an amount as is specified in subsection (a) of this section, or at the deliverable date of the personal property to deliver such property to the sheriff in order that it may be sold to satisfy the plaintiff's claim.

(f) In answer to a summons to garnishee, a garnishee may assert any right of set-off which he may have with respect to the defendant in the principal action.

(g) With respect to any property of the defendant which the garnishee has in his possession, a garnishee, in answer to a summons to garnishee, may assert any lien or other valid claim amounting to an interest therein. No garnishee shall be compelled to surrender the possession of any property of the defendant upon which the garnishee establishes a lien or other valid claim amounting to an interest therein, which lien or interest attached or was acquired prior to service of the summons to garnishee, and such property only may be sold subject to the garnishee's lien or interest. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

(a) In addition to any other instances when issues of fact arise in a garnishment proceeding, issues of fact arise

(1) When a garnishee files an answer such that the court cannot determine therefrom whether the garnishee intends to admit or deny that he is indebted to, or has in his possession any property of, the defendant, or

(2) When a garnishee files an answer denying that he is indebted to, or has in his possession any property of, the defendant, or was indebted to, or had in his possession any property of, the defendant at the time of the service of the summons upon him or at any time since then, and the plaintiff, within twenty days thereafter, files a reply alleging the contrary.

(b) When a jury finds that the garnishee owes the defendant a specific sum of money or has in his possession property of the defendant of a specific value, or owed the defendant a specific sum of money or had in his possession property of the defendant of a specific value at the time of the service of the summons upon him or at any time since then, the court shall enter judgment against the garnishee for the smaller of the two following amounts:

(1) The amount specified in the jury's verdict, or

(2) The full amount for which the plaintiff has prayed judgment against the defendant, together with such amount as in the opinion of the clerk will be sufficient to cover the plaintiff's costs. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.30. Time of jury trial.—All issues arising under § 1-440.28 or § 1-440.29 shall, when a jury trial is demanded by any party, be submitted to and determined by a jury at the same time the principal action is tried, unless the judge, on motion of any party for good cause shown, orders an earlier trial or a separate trial. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.31. Payment to defendant by garnishee.—Any garnishee who shall pay to the defendant any debt owed the defendant or deliver to the defendant any property belonging to the defendant, after being served with garnishment process, and while the garnishment proceeding is pending, shall not thereby relieve himself of liability to the plaintiff. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

(a) Pursuant to a judgment against a garnishee, execution may be issued against such garnishee prior to judgment against the defendant in the principal action. The court may issue such execution without notice or hearing. All property seized pursuant to such execution shall be held subject to the order of the court pending judgment in the principal action.

(b) The court, pending judgment in the principal action, may permit the property to remain in the garnishee's possession upon the garnishee's giving a bond in the same manner and on the same conditions as is provided by § 1-440.39 with respect to the discharge of an attachment by the defendant. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Part 4. Relating to Attached Property.

§ 1-440.33. When lien of attachment begins; priority of liens.—

(a) Upon securing the issuance of an order of attachment, a plaintiff may cause notice of the issuance of the order to be filed with the clerk of the court of any county in which the plaintiff believes that the defendant has real property which is subject to levy pursuant to such order of attachment. Upon receipt of such notice the clerk shall promptly docket the same on the lis pendens docket.

(b) When the clerk receives from the sheriff a certificate of levy on real property as provided by § 1-440.17, the clerk shall promptly note the levy on his judgment docket and index the same. When the levy is thus docketed and indexed,

(1) The lien attaches and relates back to the time of the filing of the notice of lis pendens if the plaintiff has prior to the levy caused notice of the issuance of the order of attachment to be properly entered on the lis pendens docket of the county in which the land lies, as provided by subsections (a) of this section.

(2) The lien attaches only from the time of the docketing of the certificate of levy if no entry of the issuance of the order of attachment has been made prior to the levy on the lis pendens docket of the county in which the land lies.

(c) A levy on tangible personal property of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee, when made in the manner provided by § 1-440.25, creates a lien on the property thus levied on from the time of such levy.

(d) If more than one order of attachment is served with respect to property in possession of the defendant or is served upon a garnishee, the priority of the order of the liens is the same as the order in which the attachments were levied, subject to the provisions of subsection (b) of this section, relating to the time when a lien of attachment begins with respect to real property.

(e) If two or more orders of attachment are served simultaneously, liens attach simultaneously, subject to the provisions of subsection (b) of this section, relating to the time when a lien of attachment begins with respect to real property.

(f) If the funds derived from the attachment of property on which liens become effective simultaneously are insufficient to pay the judgments in full of the simultaneously attaching creditors who have liens which began simultaneously, such funds are prorated among such creditors according to the amount of the indebtedness of the defendant to each of them, respectively, as established upon the trial.

(g) If more than one order of attachment is served on a garnishee, the court from which the first order of attachment was issued shall, upon motion of the garnishee or of any of the attaching creditors, make parties to the action all of the attaching creditors, who are not already parties thereto in order that any questions of priority among the attaching creditors may be determined in that action and in that court. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.34. Effect of defendant's death after levy.—

(a) In case of the death of the defendant, after the issuance of an order of attachment and after a levy is made thereunder but before service of summons is had or before an appearance is entered in the principal action, the levy shall remain in force

(1) If the cause of action set forth by the plaintiff in the principal action is one which survives, and

(2) If service is completed on the personal representative of the defendant within three months from the date of his qualification.

(b) If a levy has been made upon real property and the defendant dies before such real property is sold pursuant to the attachment, the lien of the attachment shall continue but the judgment may be enforced only through the defendant's personal representative in the regular course of administration. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.35. Sheriff's liability for care of attached property; expense of care.—The sheriff is liable for the care and custody of personal property levied upon pursuant to an order of attachment just as if he had seized it under execution. Upon demand of the sheriff, the plaintiff shall advance to the sheriff from time to time such amount as may be required to provide the necessary care and to maintain the custody of the attached property. The expense so incurred in caring for and maintaining custody of attached property shall be taxed as part of the costs of the action. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Part 5. Miscellaneous Procedure Pending Final Judgment.

§ 1-440.36. Dissolution of the order of attachment.—

(a) At any time before judgment in the principal action, a defendant whose property has been attached may specially or generally appear and move, either before the clerk or the judge, to dissolve the order of attachment.

(b) When the defect alleged as grounds for the motion appears upon the face of the record, no issues of fact arise, and the motion is heard and determined upon the record.

(c) When the defect alleged does not appear upon the face of the record, the motion is heard and determined upon the affidavits filed by the plaintiff and the defendant, unless, prior to the actual commencement of the hearing, a jury trial is demanded in writing by the plaintiff or the defendant. Either the clerk or the judge hearing and determining the motion to dissolve the order of attachment shall find the facts upon which his ruling thereon is based. If a jury trial is demanded by either party, the issues involved shall be submitted and determined at the same time the principal action is tried, unless the judge, on motion of any party for good cause shown, orders an earlier trial or a separate trial. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Remedy in This Section Is Not Exclusive.—When the defendant contests the grounds on which the writ issued, this section provides a ready means of attack upon the writ without awaiting the trial of the main issue. But this remedy is not exclusive. He may make the necessary allegations in his answer by way of defense and await the trial. Whitaker v. Wade, 229 N. C. 327, 49 S. E. (2d) 627. See § 1-440.41.

The jury having found that the attachment was wrongfully issued, it was proper for the court to dissolve the attachment and discharge the defendant's surety from liability. Whitaker v. Wade, 229 N. C. 327, 49 S. E. (2d) 627.

§ 1-440.37. Modification of the order of attachment.—At any time before judgment in the principal action, the defendant may apply to the clerk or the judge for an order modifying the order of attachment. Such motion shall be heard upon affidavits. If the order is modified, the court making the order of modification shall make such provisions with respect to bonds and other incidental matters as may be necessary to protect the rights of the parties. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.38. Stay of order dissolving or modifying an order of attachment.—Whenever a plaintiff appeals from an order dissolving or modifying an order of attachment, such order shall be stayed and the attachment lien with respect to all property theretofore attached shall remain in effect until the appeal is finally disposed of. In order to protect the defendant in the event that an order dissolving or modifying an order of attachment is affirmed on appeal, the court from whose order the appeal is taken may, in its discretion, require the plaintiff to execute and deposit with the clerk an additional bond with sufficient surety and in an amount deemed adequate by the court to indemnify the defendant against all losses which he may suffer on account of the continuation of the lien of the attachment pending the determination of the appeal. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.39. Discharge of attachment upon giving bond.—

(a) Any defendant whose property has been attached may move, either before the clerk or the judge, to discharge the attachment upon his giving bond for the property attached. If no prior general appearance has been made by such defendant, such motion shall constitute a general appearance.

(b) The court hearing such motion shall make an order discharging such attachment upon such defendant's filing a bond as follows:

(1) If it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the court by affidavit that the property attached is of a greater value than the amount claimed by the plaintiff, the court shall require a bond in double the amount of the judgment prayed for by the plaintiff, and the condition of such bond shall be that if judgment is rendered against the defendant, the defendant will pay to the plaintiff the amount of the judgment and all costs that the defendant may be ordered to pay, the surety's liability, however, to be limited to the amount of the bond. (2) If it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the court by affidavit that the property attached is of less value than the amount claimed by the plaintiff, the court shall, upon affidavits filed, determine the value thereof and shall require a bond in double the amount of such value, and the condition of the bond shall be that if judgment is rendered against the defendant, the defendant will pay to the plaintiff an amount equal to the value of such property.

(c) If a bond is filed as provided in subsection (b) of this section, all property of such defendant then remaining in the possession of the sheriff pursuant to such attachment, including, but not by way of limitation, money collected and the proceeds of sales, shall be delivered to the defendant and shall thereafter be free from the attachment.

(d) The discharge of an attachment as provided by this section does not bar the defendant from exercising any right provided by §§ 1-440.36, 1-440.37 or 1-440.40. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.40. Defendant's objection to bond or surety.—

(a) At any time before judgment in the principal action, on motion of the defendant, the clerk or judge may, if he deems it necessary in order to provide adequate protection, require an increase in the amount of the bond previously given by or required of the plaintiff.

(b) At any time before judgment in the principal action the defendant may except to any surety upon any bond given by the plaintiff pursuant to the provisions of this article, in which case the surety shall be required to justify, and the procedure with respect thereto shall be as is prescribed for the justification of bail in arrest and bail proceedings. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.41. Defendant's remedies not exclusive. —The exercise by the defendant of any one or more rights provided by §§ 1-440.36 through 1-440.40 does not bar the defendant from exercising any other rights provided by those sections. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Stated in Whitaker v. Wade, 229 N. C. 327, 49 S. E. (2d) 627.

§ 1-440.42. Plaintiff's objection to bond or surety; failure to comply with order to furnish increased or new bond.—

(a) At any time before judgment in the principal action, on motion of the plaintiff, the clerk or judge may, if he deems it necessary in order to provide adequate protection, require an increase in the amount of the bond previously given by or required of any defendant, garnishee or intervenor.

(b) At any time before judgment in the principal action the plaintiff may except to any surety upon any bond given by any defendant, garnishee or intervenor pursuant to the provisions of this article, in which case the surety shall be required to justify, and the procedure with respect thereto shall be as is prescribed for the justification of bail in arrest and bail proceedings.

(c) Upon failure of a defendant, garnishee or intervenor to comply with an order requiring an increase in the amount of a bond previously given, or upon failure to comply with an order requiring a new bond when the surety on the previous bond is unsatisfactory, the court may, in addition to any other action with respect thereto, issue an order or attachment directing the sheriff to seize and take into his possession property released upon the giving of the previous bond, if the person failing to comply with the order still has possession of the same. Such property when retaken into his possession by the sheriff shall be subject to all the provisions of this article relating to attached property. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.43. Remedies of third person claiming attached property or interest therein.—Any person other than the defendant who claims property which has been attached, or any person who has acquired a lien upon or an interest in such property, whether such lien or interest is acquired prior to or subsequent to the attachment, may

(1) Apply to the court to have the attachment order dissolved or modified, or to have the bond increased, upon the same conditions and by the same methods as are available to the defendant, or

(2) Intervene and secure possession of the property in the same manner and under the same conditions as is provided for intervention in claim and delivery proceedings. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.44. When attached property to be sold before judgment.—

(a) The sheriff shall apply to the clerk or to the judge for authority to sell property, or any share or interest therein, seized pursuant to an order of attachment,

(1) If the property is perishable, or

(2) If the property is not perishable, but

a. Will materially deteriorate in value pending litigation, or

b. Will likely cost more than one-fifth of its value to keep pending a final determination of the action, and

c. Is not discharged from the attachment lien in the manner provided by § 1-440.39 within ten days after the seizure thereof.

(b) If the court so orders, the property described in subsection (a) of this section shall thereupon be sold under the direction of the court unless the discharge of the same is secured by the defendant or other person interested therein, in the manner provided by § 1-440.39, prior to such sale. The proceeds of such sale shall be liable for any judgment obtained in the principal action and shall be retained by the sheriff to await such judgment. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Part 6. Procedure after Judgment.

§ 1-440.45. When defendant prevails in principal action.—

(a) If the defendant prevails in the principal action, or if the order of attachment is for any reason dissolved, dismissed or set aside, or if service is not had on the defendant as provided by § 1-440.7,

(1) The defendant shall be entitled to have delivered to him

a. All bonds taken for his benefit whether filed in the proceedings or taken by an officer, and

b. The proceeds of any sales and all money collected, and

c. All attached property remaining in the officer's hands, and

(2) Any garnishee shall be entitled to have vacated any judgment theretofore taken against him.

(b) Either the clerk or the judge shall have authority, upon motion of the defendant or any garnishee, to make any such order as may be necessary or proper to carry out the provisions of subsection (a) of this section.

(c) The defendant may recover in the original principal action on any bond taken for his benefit therein, or he may maintain an independent action thereon. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Prior to 1947, there was no provision in this article for the assessment of damages in the original action against the plaintiff and his surety for the wrongful issuance of a warrant of attachment. The defendant was compelled to pursue his remedy by independent action after the groundlessness of the action or the ancillary writ was judicially determined. Whitaker v. Wade, 229 N. C. 327, 49 S. E. (2d) 627.

Claim on Bond May Not Be Heard at Original Hearing.—Subsection (c) of this section does not mean that defendant's claim against plaintiff's bond may be heard and damages assessed at the original hearing. It provides instead that such damages are to be assessed in the same action, at the election of the defendant, after judgment on the main issue. Defendant's cause of action on the bond is bottomed on the wrongful issuance of the writ. The groundlessness of the writ is an essential element of his right to damages and this cannot completely exist or appear until that fact is judicially determined either by judgment vacating the writ or judgment against the plaintiff in the main action. Then only does defendant's cause of action on the bond arise and become complete. His proper remedy is by motion in the cause after judgment. Whitaker v. Wade, 229 N. C. 327, 49 S. E. (2d) 627.

Remedy Is by Motion after Judgment or Subsequent Independent Action.—Where it is determined upon the trial of the main issue that plaintiff's averment upon which attachment was issued was false, defendant may have damages assessed for the wrongful attachment either upon motion in the cause after judgment or by subsequent independent action. Whitaker v. Wade, 229 N. C. 327, 49 S. E. (2d) 627.

(a) If judgment is entered for the plaintiff in the principal action, the sheriff shall satisfy such judgment out of money collected by him or paid to him in the attachment proceeding or out of property attached by him as follows:

(1) After paying the costs of the action, he shall apply on the judgment as much of the balance of the money in his hands as may be necessary to satisfy the judgment.

(2) If the money so applied is not sufficient to pay the judgment in full, the sheriff shall, upon the issuance of an execution on the judgment, sell sufficient attached property, except debts and evidences of indebtedness to satisfy the judgment.

(3) While the judgment remains unsatisfied, and notwithstanding the pendency of the sale of any personal or real property as provided by paragraph (2) of this subsection, the sheriff shall collect and apply on the judgment any debts or evidences of indebtedness attached by him.

(4) If, after the expiration of six months from the docketing of the judgment, the judgment is not fully satisfied, the sheriff shall, when ordered by the clerk or judge, as provided in subsection (b) of this section, sell all debts and notes and other evidences of indebtedness remaining unpaid in his hands, and shall apply the net proceeds thereof, or as much thereof as may be necessary, to the satisfaction of the judgment. To forestall the running of the statute of limitations, earlier sale may be ordered in the discretion of the court.

(b) In order to secure the sale of the remaining debts and evidences of indebtedness as provided in subsection (a) (4) of this section, the plaintiff may move therefor, either before the clerk or the judge, and shall submit with his motion

(1) His affidavit setting forth fully the proceedings had by the sheriff since the service of the attachment, listing or describing the property attached, and showing the disposition thereof, and

(2) The affidavit of the sheriff that he has endeavored to collect the debts or evidences of indebtedness and that there remains uncollected some part thereof.

Upon the filing of such motion, the court to which the motion is made shall give the defendant or his attorney such notice of the hearing thereon as the court may deem reasonable, and by such means as the court may deem best. Upon the hearing, the court may order the sheriff to sell the debts and other evidences of indebtedness remaining in his hands, or may make such other order with respect thereto as the court may deem proper.

(c) In case of the sale of a share of stock of a corporation or of property in a warehouse for which a negotiable warehouse receipt has been issued, the sheriff shall execute and deliver to the purchaser a certificate of sale therefor, and the purchaser shall have all the rights with respect thereto which the defendant had.

(d) When the judgment and all costs of the proceedings have been paid, the sheriff, upon demand of the defendant, shall deliver to the defendant the residue of the attached property or the proceeds thereof. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.47. Powers of justice of the peace; procedure.—

(a) A justice of the peace has the same powers with respect to attachment proceedings in actions of which he has jurisdiction which a clerk or judge of the superior court had with respect to attachment proceedings in actions of which the superior court has jurisdiction.

(b) The procedure with respect to attachment in courts of justices of the peace shall conform as nearly as practicable to the procedure of the superior court, and the statutes relating to attachment in the superior court shall be in effect and shall govern the procedure in so far as it is practicable to apply them except as otherwise provided in §§ 1-440.48 through 1-440.56 of this article. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.49. To whom order issued by justice of the peace is directed.—An order of attachment issued by a justice of the peace may be directed to any constable or other lawful officer of a county, who shall have the same powers and duties with respect thereto which the sheriff has with respect to an order of attachment issued by the superior court. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.50. Issuance of order by justice of the peace to another county.—When a justice of the peace issues an order of attachment to a county other than his own, such order may not be served in such county unless there is endorsed on or attached to the order the certificate of the clerk of the superior court of the justice's county certifying that the justice issuing the order is a justice of the peace and that the signature on the order is in the handwriting of the justice. It is the duty of the clerk of the superior court to issue such certificate upon application and the payment of the fee therefor. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.51. Notice of attachment in justice of the peace courts when no personal service.—When an order of attachment is issued by a justice of the peace and there is no personal service of the summons on the defendant against whom the attachment is issued, notice of the attachment need not be published in a newspaper, but, between the issuance of the order and the trial of the principal action, notice of the attachment must be posted for thirty days at the county courthouse door. Such notice shall state:

(1) The county and the township and the name of the justice of the peace before whom the action is pending,
(2) The names of the parties,
(3) The purpose of the action, and
(4) The fact that on a date specified an order of attachment was issued against the defendant. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.52. Allowance of time for attachment and garnishment procedure in justice of the peace courts.—In order that sufficient time may be allowed in any action before a justice of the peace for the parties to exercise such rights with respect to attachment and garnishment as are hereinbefore provided for, within the same periods of time as are allowed therefor in the superior court, the justice of the peace before whom the principal action has been, or is being, commenced has all such powers with respect to fixing the time for the defendant to appear and answer, granting continuances and fixing the time for the trial, as may be necessary or proper for that purpose, notwithstanding the provisions of §§ 7-136 and 7-149, Rule 15. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.53. Certificates of stock and warehouse receipts; restraint of transfer not authorized in justice of the peace courts.—Nothing in this article is intended to authorize any justice of the peace to restrain or enjoin the transfer of a certificate of stock or a warehouse receipt. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

(a) Upon securing the issuance of an order of attachment by a justice of the peace, a plaintiff may cause notice of the issuance of the order to be filed with the clerk of the court of any county in which the plaintiff believes that the defendant has real property which is subject to levy pursuant to such order of attachment. Upon receipt of such notice the clerk shall promptly docket the same on the lis pendens docket.

(b) A justice of the peace has no authority to issue an execution to sell real property attached in any action commenced in his court. Whenever in any such action real property has been attched, the justice of the peace, upon rendering judgment in the principal action, shall deliver to the clerk of the superior court of his county a copy of the judgment rendered by him together with the original order of attachment.

(c) If judgment was rendered against the defendant whose property was attached, the clerk shall docket the judgment and shall thereupon issue execution directing the sale of the real property attached as shown by the officer's return made pursuant to § 1-440.17, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgment. If judgment was not rendered against the defendant whose property was attached, the clerk shall make an entry on his judgment docket showing the discharge of the attachment.

§ 1-440.55. Trial of issue of fact in justice of the peace court.—When an issue of fact is raised pursuant to the provisions of § 1-440.28 or § 1-440.29, the justice of the peace may try such issue unless a jury trial is demanded. If a jury trial is demanded, proceedings with respect thereto shall be conducted as in other jury trials before a justice of the peace. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

§ 1-440.56. Jurisdiction with respect to recovery on bond in justice of the peace court.—Notwithstanding the provisions of § 1-440.45(c), the defendant may recover on the plaintiff's bond in the principal action in a court of the justice of the peace only when the amount of the bond does not exceed two hundred dollars ($200.00). (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Part 8. Attachment in Other Inferior Courts.

§ 1-440.57. Jurisdiction of inferior courts not affected.—Nothing in this article shall be construed to change in any manner the jurisdiction of any court inferior to the superior court with respect to attachment. (1947, c. 693, s. 1.)

Continuing Trespass.—
When relief is sought against a continuing trespass, a restraining order may properly issue without allegation of insolvency; and this ancillary remedy may be available in an action where the title to land is at issue, but may not be used as an instrument to settle a dispute as to the possession, or to effect an ouster. § 1-493. What judges have jurisdiction.

Restraining Orders.—
Where a restraining order is made returnable before a judge assigned to the district at a place outside of the district and after the courts were over, but before the end of the term of the assignment, such judge has jurisdiction to hear the application and to grant injunction until the hearing. Reidsville v. Slade, 224 N. C. 48, 54, 29 S. E. (2d) 215.

Where an action to try title is pending, a judge of the superior court has judicial power to issue an order restraining a party from further action as proceeding to obtain possession against a tenant of the adverse party. Massengill v. Lee, 228 N. C. 35, 44 S. E. (2d) 356.

Modification of Previously Granted Injunction.—
A Superior Court judge assigned to a district has, during the period of assignment, jurisdiction of all "in Chambers" matters arising in the district, including restraining orders and injunctions, and he may, in an adjoining district, vacate or modify a temporary injunction issued without notice. § 1-502. In what cases appointed.

This section is expressly made applicable to all receivers. Ledbetter v. Farmers Bank, etc., Co., 142 F. (2d) 147, 149.

Section Does Not Limit Power of Court to Appoint Receiver.—The power of the court to appoint a receiver in proper cases and upon a proper showing is not limited by this section or § 55-147. Sinclair v. Moore Central R. Co., 228 N. C. 389, 45 S. E. (2d) 555.

This section was enacted for the benefit and protection of a defendant against whom an application for a receiver is prosecuted. It authorizes the judge in his discretion, upon the filing of the undertaking therein stipulated, "to refuse the appointment of a receiver." Sinclair v. Moore Central R. Co., 228 N. C. 389, 45 S. E. (2d) 555.

Plaintiff Estopped by Acceptance of Bond by Court.—
Plaintiffs who are parties at the time the court accepts bond filed pursuant to this section, and denies application for appointment of a receiver, are thereby estopped from further prosecuting their application for a receiver, and the court is without authority to revoke such order at a subsequent term over objection of defendants. Sinclair v. Moore Central R. Co., 228 N. C. 389, 45 S. E. (2d) 555.

Effect of Failure to Require Bond.—
An order appointing a receiver is not void because of an inadequate bond. Ledbetter v. Farmers Bank, etc., Co., 142 F. (2d) 147, 150, citing Nesbitt & Bro. v. Turrentine, 83 N. C. 536.

The determination of the amount of the bond is within the discretion of the court. Ledbetter v. Farmers Bank, etc., Co., 142 F. (2d) 147, 150.

And Mortgagee Is Not Liable for Suggesting Inadequate Bond.—The fact that mortgagees suggested an inadequate amount in the bond of a receiver was held not to thereby render them legally liable to the mortgagor. Ledbetter v. Farmers Bank, etc., Co., 142 F. (2d) 147, 150.

§ 1-505. Sale of property in hands of receiver.—The resident judge or the judge assigned to hold any of the courts in any judicial district of North Carolina shall have power and authority to order a sale of any property, real or personal, in the hands of a receiver duly and regularly appointed by the superior court of North Carolina upon such terms as appear to be to the best interests of the creditors affected by said receivership. Except as provided in G. S. § 1-506 the procedure for such sales shall be as provided in article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes. (1931, c. 123, s. 1; 1949, c. 719, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, added the second sentence.

Art. 39. Deposit or Delivery of Money or Other Property.

Tender of Judgment under § 1-541. — Where defendant admits liability under its own construction of the contract for a part of the amount alleged by plaintiff to be due thereunder, plaintiff is entitled, under this section, to judgment for such amount without prejudice to the litigation of the balance claimed to be due him, which right may not be defeated by defendant's tender of judgment under § 1-541. McKay v. McNair Inv. Co., 228 N. C. 290, 45 S. E. (2d) 358.

Art. 41. Quo Warranto.

§ 1-521. Trials expedited.—All actions to try the title or right to any state, county or municipal office shall stand for trial at the next term of court after the summons and complaint have been served for thirty days, regardless of whether issues were joined more than ten days before the term; and it is the duty of the judge to expedite the trial of these actions and to give them precedence over all others, civil or criminal. It is unlawful to appropriate any public funds to the payment of counsel fees in any such action. (Rev., s. 833; Code, s. 616; 1901, c. 42; 1874-5, c. 173; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 876.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote this section.

Art. 43. Nuisance and Other Wrongs.

Obstruction of Fish in Their Passage Upstream.—The rule that a riparian owner is not entitled to maintain an action for the reason that he had sustained no peculiar injury through the obstruction of fish in their upstream passage to his fishery, has not been rendered obsolete by this section and the prescription of a right to sue in like cases. Hampton v. North Carolina Pulp Co., 49 F. Supp. 625, 631.

§ 1-539.1. Damages for unlawful cutting or removal of timber.—Any person not being the bona fide owner thereof or agent of the owner who shall knowingly and without the consent and permission of the bona fide owner enter upon the land of another and injure, cut or remove any valuable wood, timber, shrub or tree therefrom, shall be liable to the owner of said land for double the value of such wood, timber, shrubs or trees so injured, cut or removed. (1945, c. 837.)

A defendant may not defeat the purpose of § 1-510 by undertaking to make a tender under this section. McKay v. McNair Inv. Co., 228 N. C. 290, 45 S. E. (2d) 358.

§ 1-543. Disclaimer of title in trespass; tender of judgment.—In actions of trespass upon real estate, the defendant in his answer may disclaim any title or claim to the lands against which the trespass is alleged, may allege that the trespass was by negligence or involuntary, and may make a tender or offer of sufficient amends for the trespass. In the event of such disclaimer, defense and offer by the defendant, the plaintiff is required to file a reply before trial, with respect to the defendant's allegation that the trespass was negligent or involuntary, and that a sufficient tender has been made.

If the plaintiff controverts such answer or a part thereof, and at the trial verdict is found for the defendant or the plaintiff is nonsuited, other than voluntarily, then in either such event he is barred from the said action.

All costs incurred after the defendant's disclaimer and tender shall be charged against the plaintiff in the event the jury finds for the defendant on the issues of disclaimer and tender, or in the event the plaintiff is nonsuited. (Rev., s. 863; Code, s. 577; Rev. Code, c. 31, s. 79; 1715, c. 2, s. 7; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 898.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment inserted the second sentence of the first paragraph, added the last paragraph and made other changes.

Art. 45. Arbitration and Award.

Common Law Method of Arbitration Adopted.—Where the method of arbitration adopted by the parties is in accordance with procedure at common law, and not with that prescribed in this article, plaintiff's motion to strike report of arbitrator must be considered in light of common law. Tarpley v. Arnold, 226 N. C. 679, 40 S. E. (2d) 33.

The common law governs a written agreement for arbitration which is not in accordance with the procedure prescribed by this article. Brown v. Moore, 229 N. C. 406, 50 S. E. (2d) 5.

Art. 46. Examination of Parties.

Editor's Note.—As to inspection of chattels, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 398.

Time Provisions of Section Available.—After complaint is filed, and before answer is filed, the provisions of this and the following sections are available to defendant for adverse examination of plaintiffs to procure information to file answer. Fox v. Yarborough, 225 N. C. 606, 35 S. E. (2d) 885.

Premature Appeal.—

Upon verified application for examination of an adverse party, under this and the following section, the affidavit complying with the requirements of the statutes, an appeal from an order granting the application is premature and will be dismissed. Sudderth v. Simpson, 224 N. C. 181, 29 S. E. (2d) 550. See also, Fox v. Yarborough, 225 N. C. 606, 35 S. E. (2d) 885.

However, supreme court may in its discretion elect to consider the appeal on its merit. Fox v. Yarborough, 225 N. C. 606, 35 S. E. (2d) 885.

Art. 47. Motions and Orders.

§ 1-584. Petition to remove to federal court; order by the court.—When it shall appear to a court of this state that a petition for removal of any action or proceeding pending therein has been filed in a district court of the United States, the state court may then, upon its own motion or the motion of a party to the action or proceeding, order that no further proceedings be had in the state court unless and until the action or proceeding has been remanded to the state court by the United States court and a certified copy of the order of remand is filed with the clerk; but failure to enter such order shall not entitle the state court or any party to proceed; the appearance of a party for the purpose of making the above mentioned motion shall not affect or be deemed a waiver of the right to remove. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 92, s. 16; 1925, c. 282, s. 2; 1949, c. 808, s. 2; C. S. 913(b).)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section. For a brief comment on this amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 477.

Art. 48. Notices.

§ 1-589. Service by telephone or registered mail on witnesses and jurors.—Sheriffs, constables and other officers charged with service of such process may serve subpoenas for witnesses and summonses for jurors by telephone or by registered mail, and such service shall be valid and binding on the person served. When such process is served by telephone the return of the officer serving it shall state it is served by telephone. When served by registered mail a copy shall be mailed and a written receipt requested of the addressee and such receipt shall be filed with the return and be a necessary part thereof. (1915, c. 48; 1925, c. 98; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 918.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment substituted in the last sentence the words "requested of the addressee" for the word "demanded."

Art. 49. Time.

Actions on Judgments.—Where a judgment was rendered on October 20, 1873, and an action was brought on the judgment on October 20, 1883, it was held that the statute barring actions on judgments in ten years was not a defense. Cook v. Moore, 95 N. C. 1. Judgment in this case was inadvertently entered for the defendant; the mistake was corrected in Cook v. Moore, 100 N. C. 294, 6 S. E. 795, 6 Am. St. Rep. 587.

Art. 50. General Provisions as to Legal Advertising.

§ 1-596. Charges for legal advertising. — The publication of all advertising required by law to be made in newspapers in this state shall be paid for at not to exceed the local commercial rate of the newspapers selected. Any public or municipal officer or board created by or existing under the laws of this state that is now or may hereafter be authorized by law to enter into contracts for the publication of legal advertisements is hereby authorized to pay therefor prices not exceeding said rates.

No newspaper in this state shall accept or print any legal advertising until said newspaper shall have first filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which it is published a sworn statement of its current commercial rate for the several classes of advertising regularly carried by said publication, and any owner or manager of a newspaper violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1919, c. 45, ss. 1, 2; 1945, c. 635; 1949, c. 205, s. 1½; C. S. 2586.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted the first "or" in line six for "of" and rewrote the former last sentence of the first paragraph so as to make it subject to the former limitations prescribed by § 1-99 with respect to the cost of service by publication. The 1949 amendment struck out such last sentence.

§ 1-598. Sworn statement prima facie evidence of qualification; affidavit of publication.—Whenever any owner, partner, publisher, or other authorized officer or employee of any newspaper which has published a notice or any other paper, document or legal advertisement within the meaning of § 1-597 has made a written statement under oath taken before any notary public or other officer or person authorized by law to administer oaths, stating that the newspaper in which such notice, paper, document, or legal advertisement was published, was, at the time of such publication, a newspaper meeting all of the requirements and qualifications prescribed by § 1-597, such sworn written statement shall be received in all courts in this state as prima facie evidence that such newspaper was at the time stated therein a newspaper meeting the requirements and qualifications of § 1-597. When filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of any county in which the publication of such notice, paper, document or legal advertisement was required or authorized, any such sworn statement shall be deemed to be a record of the court, and such record or a copy thereof duly certified by the clerk shall be prima facie evidence that the newspaper named was at the time stated therein a qualified newspaper within the meaning of § 1-597. Nothing in this section shall preclude proof that a newspaper was or is a qualified newspaper within the meaning of § 1-597 by any other competent evidence. Any such sworn written statement shall be prima facie evidence of the qualifications on any newspaper at the time of any publication of any notice, paper, document, or legal advertisement published in such newspaper at any time from and after the first day of May, 1940.

The owner, a partner, publisher or other authorized officer or employee of any newspaper in which such notice, paper, document or legal advertisement is published, when such newspaper is a qualified newspaper within the meaning of § 1-597, shall include in the affidavit of publication of such notice, paper, document or legal advertisement a statement that at the time of such publication such newspaper was a qualified newspaper within the meaning of § 1-597. (1939, c. 170, s. 1½; 1947, c. 213, ss. 1, 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote this section. A provision making a false statement a misdemeanor was eliminated from this section by the 1947 amendment. The effect of this deletion may well be to bring false swearing in the affidavit within the purview of the perjury statute, § 14-209, thus making it a felony. 25 N. C. Law Rev. 450.

Two Distinct Remedies Provided.—Our statutes provide two separate and distinct remedies—one in behalf of the injured individual for a specific fund to which he is entitled or on account of a particular wrong committed against him by the clerk, as provided for in § 109-34, and one in behalf of the clerk against his predecessor in office to recover possession of records, books, papers, and money in the hands of the outgoing clerk by virtue or under color of his office, as provided for in this section. Where Clerk Sought to Be Removed Made Affirmative Allegations.—In an action by the clerk of the Superior Court against his predecessor in office, for possession of records, books and funds, under this section, where defendant denied the allegations of the complaint that plaintiff was duly appointed clerk to fill a vacancy caused by the removal of defendant and qualified as such, and also made further affirmative allegation to like effect, there was error in allowing a motion to strike such affirmative allegations. State v. Watson, 223 N. C. 437, 27 S. E. (2d) 144.

Provided, that the clerk's office in the respective counties may observe such office hours and holidays as authorized and prescribed by the board of

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote the proviso appearing as the last sentence of the section. As the first two sentences were not changed they are not set out.

Five per cent commission shall be allowed the clerk on all fines, penalties, amendments and taxes paid the clerk by virtue of his office; and three per cent on all sums of money not exceeding five hundred dollars placed in his hands by virtue of his office, except on judgments, decrees, executions, and deposits under article three of chapter forty-five; and upon the excess over five hundred dollars of such sums, one per cent.

Chapter 3. Commissioners of Affidavits and Deeds.

§ 3-1. Appointment by governor; term; oath.—The governor is authorized to appoint and commission one or more commissioners in any foreign country, state or republic, and in such of the states of the United States, or in the District of Columbia, or any of the territories, colonies or dependencies as he may deem expedient, who shall continue in office for two years from the date of their appointment, unless sooner removed by the governor. Before such commissioner proceeds to perform any duty by virtue of this chapter, he shall take and subscribe an oath before a justice of the peace or clerk of a court of record in the city or county in which he resides well and faithfully to execute and perform all the duties of such commissioner, according to the laws of North Carolina; which oath shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. (Rev., ss. 926, 927; Code, ss. 632, 633; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 963.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment inserted after the word "peace" in line twelve the words "or clerk of a court of record."

Chapter 4. Common Law.

Extent of Common Law.—

So much of the common law as has not been abrogated or repealed by statute is in full force and effect in this state. Scholtens v. Scholtens, 230 N. C. 149, 52 S. E. (2d) 350; Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 332, 38 S. E. (2d) 105.

The common law rights and disabilities of husband and wife are in force in this state except in so far as they have been abrogated or repealed by statute. Scholtens v. Scholtens, 230 N. C. 149, 52 S. E. (2d) 350.

The common law writ of error coram nobis to challenge the validity of petitioner's conviction for matters extraneous the record, is available under our procedure. In re Taylor, 230 N. C. 566, 53 S. E. (2d) 857.

Survival of Actions.—Since at common law, causes of action for wrongful injury, whether resulting in death or not, did not survive the injured party, the survival of such actions is solely by virtue of statute. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 332, 38 S. E. (2d) 105.

Punishment When No Penalty Expressly Provided.—The common-law rule obtains in this state that where a statute enacted in the public interest commands an act to be done or proscribes the commission of an act, and no penalty is expressly provided for its breach, its violation may be punished as for a misdemeanor. State v. Bishop, 228 N. C. 371, 45 S. E. (2d) 858.

Chapter 5. Contempt.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Nature of Offenses—Jury Trial.—Contempt proceedings may be resorted to in civil or criminal actions, and though contempt is criminal in its nature, respondents therein are not entitled to trial by jury. Safie Mfg. Co. v. Arnold, 228 N. C. 375, 45 S. E. (2d) 577.

IV. SUBDIVISION IV.

Failure to obey a court order cannot be punished for contempt unless the disobedience is willful, which imports knowledge and a stubborn purpose. Lamm v. Lamm, 229 N. C. 248, 49 S. E. (2d) 403.

Where defendant testifies that his failure after knowledge to obey a court order for the payment of alimony pendente lite was due to his lack of financial means, and no evidence is presented at the hearing tending to negative the truth of defendant's explanation or to establish as an affirmative fact that he possessed the means wherewith to comply with the order, the court's finding that defendant willfully disobeyed the order is not supported by the record, and judgment committing him to imprisonment for contempt must be set aside. Id.

An order of court not "lawfully issued" may not be the basis on which to found a proceeding for contempt. Patterson v. Patterson, 230 N. C. 481, 53 S. E. (2d) 658.

Upon application for custody of children after decree of divorce, the resident judge entered a temporary order awarding the custody to the father, and issued an order to defendant wife to appear outside the county and outside the district to show cause why the temporary order should not be made permanent. It was held that the judge was without jurisdiction to hear the matter outside the district, and an order issued upon the hearing of the order to show cause was void ab initio. Id.

Temporary Restraining Orders.—A court has inherent power, necessary to the maintenance of judicial authority, to punish as for contempt the willful violation of its orders, including temporary restraining orders. Safie Mfg. Co. v. Arnold, 228 N. C. 375, 45 S. E. (2d) 577.

Failure to Comply with Separation Agreement.—Husband could not be adjudged in contempt for failure to comply with separation agreement entered into prior to the institution of divorce action, judgment in which provided that it should not affect or invalidate the separation agreement. Brown v. Brown, 224 N. C. 556, 31 S. E. (2d) 529.

§ 5-6. Courts and officers empowered to punish.—Every justice of the peace, referee, commissioner, clerk of the superior court, inferior court, criminal court, or judge of the superior court, or justice of the supreme court, or board of commissioners of each county, or the utilities commission, or member of the industrial commission, has power to punish for contempt while sitting for the trial of causes or engaged in official duties. (Rev., s. 942; Code, ss. 651, 652; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; 1945, c. 533; C. S. 983.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment inserted the words "or member of the industrial commission."

§ 5-9. Trial of proceedings in contempt.—Proceedings as for contempt shall be by an order directing the offender to appear within a reasonable time and show cause why he should not be attached for contempt. In all proceedings for contempt and in proceedings as for contempt, the judge or other judicial officer who issues the rule or notice to the respondent may make the same returnable before some other judge or judicial officer. When the personal conduct of the judge or other judicial officer or his fitness to hold his judicial position is involved, it is his duty to make the rule or notice returnable before some other judge or officer. Nothing herein contained shall apply to any act or conduct committed in the presence of the court and tending to hinder or delay the due administration of the law, nor to proceedings for the disobedience of a judicial order rendered in any pending action. (Rev., s. 945; Code, s. 655; 1915, c. 4; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 986.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote the first sentence.

Chapter 6. Costs.

Art. 1. Generally.

This section does not include expenses for returning defendants to this state from points without the state. State v. Patterson, 224 N. C. 471, 473, 31 S. E. (2d) 380.

§ 6-5. Jurors' tax fees.—On every indictment or criminal proceeding, tried or otherwise disposed of in the superior or criminal courts, the party convicted, or adjudged to pay the costs, shall pay a tax of four dollars unless a different jury tax is prescribed elsewhere. In every civil action in any court of record for which different jury taxes are not prescribed by law the party adjudged to pay the costs shall pay a tax of five dollars; but this tax shall not be charged unless a jury shall be impaneled. Said tax fees shall be charged by the clerk in the bill of costs, and collected by the sheriff, and by him paid into the county treasury. And the fund thus raised in any county shall be set apart for the payment of the jurors attending the courts thereof. (Rev., s. 1253; Code, s. 732; R. C., c. 28; 1830, c. 1; 1879, c. 325; 1881, c. 249; 1905, c. 348; 1909, c. 1; 1919, c. 319; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 1229.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment inserted the words "unless a different jury tax is prescribed elsewhere" at the end of the first sentence. It also inserted in the second sentence the words "for which different jury taxes are not prescribed by law."

Costs Properly Adjudged after Decision of the Supreme Court.—After decision of the supreme court modifying and affirming a judgment of the superior court on appeal from the referee allowances constituting items of costs may be adjudged as provided by this section. Clark v. Cagle, 226 N. C. 230, 37 S. E. (2d) 672.

Art. 3. Civil Actions and Proceedings.

Where one of defendants in injunction suit seeks affirmative relief by way of specific performance, the taxing of costs is in the discretion of the trial court since the controversy is of an equitable nature. Consequently the order of the court apportioning the costs will not ordinarily be disturbed on appeal upon affirmance of the judgment. Chandler v. Cameron, 229 N. C. 62, 47 S. E. (2d) 528, 3 A. L. R. (2d) 571.

The expense of employing attorneys in the successful defense of a suit for damages for tort is not allowable as part of the costs or recoverable in the absence of an express agreement therefor. Queen City Coach Co. v. Lumberton Coach Co., 229 N. C. 534, 50 S. E. (2d) 288.

Allowance to Referee.—

Where, in a suit to obtain advice and instruction of the court for the proper distribution of the assets of the estate, the cause is referred to a referee, the taxing of the referee's fee is within the discretion of the court, and order of the court pro rating the referee's fee between the funds derived from sale of realty to make assets and the personal property of the estate will not be disturbed. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

§ 6-22. Petitioner to pay costs in certain cases.—The petitioner shall pay the costs in the following proceedings:

1. In petitions for draining or damming lowlands where the petitioner alone is benefited.

(1945, c. 635.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added at the end of subsection 1 the words "where the petitioner alone is benefited." As the other subsections were not affected by the amendment they are not set out.

Art. 5. Liability of Counties in Criminal Actions.

§ 6-36. County to pay costs in certain cases; if approved, audited and adjudged.—In a criminal action, if there is no prosecutor designated by the court as liable for the costs under the provisions of General Statutes § 6-49, and the defendant is acquitted or convicted and unable to pay the costs, or a nolle prosequi is entered, or judgment arrested, the county shall pay the clerks, sheriffs, constables, justices and witnesses one-half their lawful fees; except in capital cases and in prosecutions for forgery, perjury, or conspiracy, when they shall receive full fees. No county shall pay any such costs unless the same are approved, audited and adjudged against the county as provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 1283; Code, ss. 733, 739; R. C., c. 28, s. 8; R. S., c. 28, s. 12; 1874-5, c. 247; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 1259.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote the first part of the first sentence.

In New Hanover County, in a criminal action, if the defendant is convicted and serves out his sentence on the public roads of the county, the county shall pay one-half of the fees as provided in the first sentence of General Statutes § 6-36. (Rev., s. 1283; 1905, c. 511; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 1260.)

In Northampton and Sampson counties where in criminal proceedings before the recorder's court, the grand jury, or superior court the defendant is found not guilty or a true bill is not found by the grand jury, or the defendant is found guilty and is sentenced by the court to serve on the roads or a term in jail, then the said county shall pay full fees to the sheriff, officer, or constable who served any process in such proceeding. (1937, c. 43; 1947, c. 427.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendments rewrote the next to last paragraph and made the last paragraph applicable to Sampson County. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendments it is not set out.

Provided, where the cause has been removed, said costs shall be paid by the county in which the offense was committed instead of the county from which the appeal is taken. (Rev., s. 1284; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 1261.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment added the above proviso at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Art. 7. Liability of Prosecutor for Costs.

§ 6-49. Prosecutor liable for costs in certain cases; court determines prosecutor.—In all criminal actions in any court, if the defendant is acquitted, nolle prosequi entered, or judgment against him is arrested, or if the defendant is discharged from arrest for want of probable cause, the costs, including the fees of all witnesses whom the judge, court or justice of the peace before whom the trial took place shall certify to have been proper for the defense and prosecution, shall be paid by the prosecutor, whether marked on the bill or warrant or not, whenever the judge, court of justice is of the opinion that there was not reasonable ground for the prosecution, or that it was not required by the public interest. If a greater number of witnesses have been summoned than were, in the opinion of the court, necessary to support the charge, the court may, even though it is of the opinion that there was reasonable ground for the prosecution, order the prosecutor to pay the attendance fees of such witnesses, if it appear that they were summoned at the prosecutor's special request.

Every judge or justice is authorized to determine who the prosecutor is at any stage of a criminal proceeding, whether before or after the bill of indictment has been found, or the defendant acquitted: Provided, that no person shall be made a prosecutor after the finding of the bill, unless he shall have been notified to show cause why he should not be made the prosecutor of record. (Rev., s. 1295; Code, s. 737; 1889, c. 34; R. C., c. 35, s. 37; 1799, c. 4, s. 19; 1800, c. 558; 1868-9, c. 277; 1874-5, c. 151; 1879, c. 49; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 1271.)

Art. 8. Fees of Witnesses.

§ 6-52. Fees and mileage of witnesses.—The fees of witnesses, whether attending at a term of court or before the clerk, or a referee, or commissioner, or arbitrator, shall be such amount per day as the board of commissioners of the respective counties may fix, to be not less than one dollar per day and not more than three dollars per day, except in the counties of Union, Nash, Brunswick, Haywood, Polk, Swain, Alleghany, Anson, Graham, Ashe, Dare, Alexander, Cleveland, Clay, Transylvania, Harnett, Stanley, Mitchell, Burke, Franklin, Greene, Johnston, and Henderson, in which counties the fees shall be one dollar per day. (Rev., s. 2803; Code, ss. 2860, 3756; 1891, c. 147; 1905, cc. 279, 522; P. L. 1911, c. 402; Ex. Editor's Note.—The first 1947 amendment struck out "Surry" from the list of counties in the first sentence, and the second 1947 amendment made changes in the first proviso.

The 1949 amendment struck out "Randolph" from the list of counties.

The provisions herein as to the amount of lifetime pay shall relate back to and become effective as of the fourth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, and the state treasurer is authorized and directed to pay on the warrant of the state auditor the salary of any justice or judge as affected by such provisions, less any amount heretofore paid. (1921, c. 125, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 20, ss. 1, 2; 1927, cc. 133, 201; 1935, cc. 233, 400; 1937, c. 199; 1939, c. 258; 1943, c. 543; 1945, c. 790; 1949, c. 1092; C. S. 3884(a).)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment provided for retirement of supreme court justices upon attaining age of 80 years.

The 1949 amendment inserted the provision, beginning in line twenty-seven, relating to the compensation of retired judges for holding court.

§ 7-54. Governor to make appointment of four special judges.—The governor of North Carolina may appoint four persons who shall possess the requirements and qualifications of special judges as prescribed by article four, section eleven, of the constitution, and who shall take the same oath of office and otherwise be subject to the same requirements and disabilities as are or may be prescribed by law for judges of the superior court, save the requirements of residence in a particular district, to be special judges of the superior court of the state of North Carolina. Two of the said judges shall be appointed from the Western Judicial Division and two from the Eastern Judicial Division, as now established. The governor shall issue a commission to each of said judges so appointed whose term of office shall begin from his appointment and qualification and end June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred and fifty-one, and the said commission shall constitute his authority to perform the duties of the office of a special judge of the superior court during the time named herein. (1927, c. 206, s. 1; 1929, c. 137, s. 1; 1931, c. 29, s. 1; 1933, c. 217, s. 1; 1935, c. 97, s. 1; 1937, c. 72, s. 1; 1939, c. 31, s. 1; 1941, c. 51, s. 1; 1943, c. 58, s. 1; 1945, c. 153, s. 1; 1947, c. 24, s. 1; 1949, c. 681, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—

Present §§ 7-54 to 7-61 were codified from Session Laws 1949, c. 681, which was practically a re-enactment of the former sections without change except as to dates.

For comment on the 1943 amendment to this and the following seven sections, see 21 N. C. Law Rev. 342.

§ 7-55. Removal of special judges; filling vacancies.—Each special judge so appointed by the governor shall be subject to removal from office for the same causes and in the same manner as regular judges of the superior court; and vacancies occurring in the offices created by §§ 7-54 to 7-61 shall be filled by the governor in like manner for the unexpired term thereof. (1927, c. 206, s. 2; 1929, c. 137, s. 2; 1931, c. 29, s. 2; 1933, c. 217, s. 2; 1935, c. 97, s. 2; 1937, c. 72, s. 2; 1939, c. 31, s. 2; 1941, c. 51, s. 2; 1943, c. 58, s. 2; 1945, c. 153, s. 2; 1947, c. 24, s. 2; 1949, c. 681, s. 2.)

§ 7-56. Further appointments.—The governor is further authorized and empowered, if in his judgment the necessity exists therefor, to appoint at such time as he may determine, not exceeding four additional judges, two of whom shall be residents of the Western Judicial Division and two of whom shall be residents of the Eastern Judicial Division, whose terms of office shall begin from his or their appointment and qualification and end June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred and fifty-one. All of the provisions of §§ 7-54 to 7-61 applicable to the four special judges shall be applicable to the four special judges authorized to be appointed under this section. (1927, c. 206, s. 3; 1929, c. 137, s. 3; 1931, c. 29, s. 3; 1933, c. 217, s. 3; 1935, c. 97, s. 3; 1937, c. 72, s. 3; 1939, c. 31, s. 3; 1941, c. 51, s. 3; 1943, c. 58, s. 3; 1945, c. 153, s. 3; 1947, c. 24, s. 3; 1949, c. 681, s. 3.)

§ 7-57. Extent of authority.—The authority herein conferred upon the governor, pursuant to article four, section eleven, of the constitution of North Carolina, to appoint such special judges shall extend to regular as well as special terms of the superior court, with either civil or criminal jurisdiction, or both, as may be designated by the statutes or by the governor pursuant to law.

§ 7-58. Same power and authority as regular judges.—To the end that such special judges shall have the fullest power and authority sanctioned by article four, section eleven, of the constitution of North Carolina, such judges are hereby vested, in the courts which they are duly appointed to hold, with the same power and authority in all matters whatsoever that regular judges holding the same courts would have. A special judge duly assigned to hold the court of a particular county shall have during said term of court, in open court and in chambers, the same power and authority of a regular judge in all matters whatsoever arising in that judicial district that could properly be heard or determined by a regular judge holding the same term of court. (1927, c. 206, s. 5; 1929, c. 137, s. 5; 1931, c. 29, s. 5; 1933, c. 217, s. 5; 1935, c. 97, s. 5; 1937, c. 72, s. 5; 1939, c. 31, s. 5; 1941, c. 51, s. 5; 1943, c. 58, s. 5; 1945, c. 153, s. 5; 1947, c. 24, s. 5; 1949, c. 681, s. 5.)

Motions in the Cause Made at Term in Civil Actions.—Civil actions pending on the civil issue docket of a county are always subject to motion in the cause. These motions may be made before the judge at term. In many instances they may be made out of term. When made at term the judge presiding, whether regular or special, has jurisdiction. To this extent this section has full constitutional sanction. Shepard v. Leonard, 223 N. C. 110, 113, 25 S. E. (2d) 445.

Special Judge May Hear Matter out of Term by Consent.—Once having acquired jurisdiction at term a special or emergency judge, by consent, may hear the matter out of term nunc pro tunc. Shepard v. Leonard, 223 N. C. 110, 25 S. E. (2d) 445.

§ 7-59. Salary and expenses; terms; practice of law.—The special judges so appointed shall receive the same salary and traveling expenses as now are, or may be, paid or allowed to judges of the superior court for holding their regularly assigned courts, and they shall hold all such regular and special terms of court as they may be directed and assigned by the governor to hold, without additional compensation: Provided, that no person appointed under §§ 7-54 to 7-61 shall engage in the practice of law. (1927, c. 206, s. 6; 1929, c. 137, s. 6; 1931, c. 29, s. 6; 1933, c. 217, s. 6; 1935, c. 97, s. 6; 1937, c. 72, s. 6; 1939, c. 31, s. 6; 1941, c. 51, s. 6; 1943, s. 58, s. 6; 1945, c. 153, s. 6; 1947, c. 24, s. 6; 1949, c. 681, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 act omitted the word "private" formerly appearing before the word "practice" in the last line.

§ 7-60. Powers after commission expires.—The special judges herein provided for are hereby fully authorized and empowered to settle cases on appeal and to make all proper orders in regard thereto after the time for which they were commissioned has expired. (1927, c. 206, s. 7; 1929, c. 137, s. 7; 1931, c. 29, s. 7; 1933, c. 217, s. 7; 1935, c. 97, s. 7; 1937, c. 72, s. 7; 1939, c. 31, s. 7; 1941, c. 51, s. 7, 1943, c. 58, s. 7; 1945, c. 153, s. 7; 1947, c. 24, s. 7; 1949, c. 681, s. 7.)

§ 7-61. Effect on sections 7-50 and 7-51.—Nothing in §§ 7-54 to 7-60 shall in any manner affect §§ 7-50 to 7-51. (1927, c. 206, s. 8; 1929, c. 137, s. 8; 1931, c. 29, s. 8; 1933, c. 217, s. 8; 1935, c. 97, s. 8; 1937, c. 72, s. 8; 1939, c. 31, s. 8; 1941, c. 51, s. 8; 1943, c. 58, s. 8; 1945, c. 153, s. 8; 1947, c. 24, s. 8; 1949, c. 681, s. 8.)

Art. 8. Jurisdiction.

I. IN GENERAL.

Action in Summary Ejectment.—Superior courts and courts of justices of the peace have concurrent jurisdiction of actions in summary ejectment. Stonestreet v. Means, 228 N. C. 113, 44 S. E. (2d) 600.

Awarding Custody of Child.—After a decree for absolute divorce entered by the recorder's court of Nash county, the court entered an order awarding the custody of the child of the marriage under § 50-13, and defendant appealed to the superior court. It was held that if the recorder's court had jurisdiction to enter the order, the hearing in the superior court on appeal was de novo, while if the jurisdiction of the recorder's court did not include jurisdiction to award the custody of the child, the petition might be considered an application to the judge of the superior court, and the superior court had jurisdiction to enter a different order awarding the custody of the child, since in no event was its jurisdiction derivative. Brake v. Brake, 228 N. C. 609, 46 S. E. (2d) 643.

Cited in State v. Bentley, 223 N. C. 563, 27 S. E. (2d) 738 (con. op.); State v. Grimes, 226 N. C. 523, 39 S. E. (2d) 394.

Provided, that this section shall not apply to the counties of Alleghany, Cabarrus, Caswell, Cherokee, Clay, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Davidson, Edgecombe, Gaston, Gates, Graham, Granville, Guilford, Harnett, Henderson, Hertford, Hyde, Iredell, Jones, Lenoir, New Hanover, Pamlico, Perquimans, Rockingham, Rutherford, Scotland, Surry, Union and Warren. (1919, c. 299; 1923, c. 98; 1941, c. 265; 1945, c. 164; c. 628, s. 1; C. S. 1437.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendments struck out "Cumberland" and "Halifax" from the list of counties exempted from the provisions of this section, thereby making it applicable to said counties. As only the proviso was affected by the amendments the rest of the section is not set out.

Court First Taking Cognizance Excludes Other Court.—Where a recorder's court and the superior court have concurrent jurisdiction, the court first taking cognizance of the offense has jurisdiction thereof to the exclusion of the other. State v. Reavis, 228 N. C. 18, 44 S. E. (2d) 354.

Where Record Failed to Show Conflict of Jurisdiction.—While an appeal from a judgment of recorder's court upon warrant charging unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale on a certain date was pending in Superior Court, that court did not have jurisdiction to try defendant on a bill of indictment, of later date than the warrant, charging the same offense, where the record contained nothing to show that the offenses were the same. Hence, the record failed to present conflict of jurisdiction between recorder's court under § 7-222, and Superior Court under this section. State v. Suddreth, 223 N. C. 610, 613, 27 S. E. (2d) 623.

Cited in State v. Bentley, 223 N. C. 563, 27 S. E. (2d) 738 (con. op.); State v. Grimes, 226 N. C. 523, 39 S. E. (2d) 394.

§ 7-65. Jurisdiction in vacation or at term.—In all cases where the superior court in vacation has jurisdiction, and all of the parties unite in the proceedings, they may apply for relief to the superior court in vacation, or in term time, at their election. The resident judge of the judicial district and the judge regularly presiding over the courts of the district, shall have concurrent jurisdiction in all matters and proceedings where the superior court has jurisdiction out of term: Provided, that in all matters and proceedings not requiring the intervention of a jury or in which trial by jury has been waived, the resident judge of the judicial district shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the judge holding the courts of the district and the resident judge in the exercise of such concurrent jurisdiction may hear and pass upon such matters and proceedings in vacation, out of term or in term time: Provided, further, that all matters and proceedings heretofore passed upon by the resident judge of the judicial district according to and in conformity with the proviso first above set forth, prior to the date of the ratification of this Act, are hereby validated and declared to be in full force and effect, and all decisions, orders, decrees and judgments of whatsoever nature and kind heretofore entered and signed by the resident judge of the judicial district prior to the date of the ratification of this Act and according to and in conformity with the proviso first above set forth, are hereby validated and declared to be lawful, in full force and effect and binding upon the parties thereto, except that nothing herein contained shall be construed as applicable to or in any manner affecting pending litigation. (Rev., s. 1501; Code, c. 10, s. 230; 1871-2, c. 3; 1939, c. 69; 1945, c. 142; C. S. 1438.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment added the provisos.

As to jurisdiction of resident judge, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 329.

Jurisdiction to Order Payment of Expenses Out of the Recovery.—In an action by taxpayers against public officers under § 128-10, to recover public funds unlawfully expended, plaintiffs disclaimed in their complaint any right personally to participate in the recovery. After recovery, and the entry of a consent judgment dismissing appeals, and after payment of the judgment, the resident judge, on petition of one of the original taxpayer plaintiffs, is then without jurisdiction under this section to order payments, out of the recovery, of such petitioner's expenses and counsel fees. Hill v. Stanbury, 224 N. C. 356, 30 S. E. (2d) 150, commented on in 23 N. C. Law Rev. 40.

Resident judge issued order to defendant wife to appear outside county and outside district to show cause why temporary order awarding custody of children to husband should not be made permanent. It was held that the judge was without jurisdiction to hear the matter outside the district, and an order issued upon the hearing of the order to show cause was void ab initio. Patterson v. Patterson, 230 N. C. 481, 53 S. E. (2d) 658.

It also struck out the former provision relating to sentence to work upon the roads of another county.

§ 7-453. Duties of council.—It is the duty of the judicial council:

1. To make a continuing study of the administration of justice in this state, and the methods of administration of each and all of the courts of the state, whether of record or not of record.

2. To receive reports of criticisms and suggestions pertaining to the administration of justice in the state.

3. To recommend to the legislature, or the courts, such changes in the law or in the organi-

Chapter 8. Evidence.

Art. 1. Statutes.

Laws of Tennessee.—This section requires our courts to take judicial notice of the laws of Tennessee. Charnock v. Taylor, 223 N. C. 360, 26 S. E. (2d) 911, 148 A. L. R. 1126.

Applied in Lewis v. Furr, 228 N. C. 89, 44 S. E. (2d) 604.

No Evidence of Certification or Publication.—The refusal to permit police officer to testify on cross-examination as to existence and contents of a paper-writing which purported to be an ordinance of the city, was not error where there was no evidence that purported ordinance had been certified, as required by this section, or that it had been printed and published by the city as provided in § 160-272. Toler v. Savage, 226 N. C. 208, 37 S. E. (2d) 485, 486.

App. Supp. 1001-17), as now or hereafter amended, or a duly certified copy of such finding, shall be received in any court, office or other place in this state as prima facie evidence of the death of the person therein found to be dead, and the date, circumstances and place of his disappearance. (1945, c. 731, s. 1.)

§ 8-37.2. Report or record that person missing, interned, captured, etc.—An official written report or record, or duly certified copy thereof, that a person is missing, missing in action, interned in a neutral country, or beleaguered, besieged or captured by an enemy, or is dead, or is alive, made by any officer or employee of the United States authorized by the act referred to in § 8-37.1, or by any other law of the United States to make same, shall be received in any court, office or other place in this state as prima facie evidence that such person is missing, missing in action, interned in a neutral country, or beleaguered, besieged or captured by an enemy, or is dead, or is alive, as the case may be. If a copy purports to have been certified by a person authorized by law to certify the same, such certified copy shall be prima facie evidence of his authority so to certify. (1945, c. 731, s. 3.)

Bills of lading in evidence.—In all actions by or against common carriers or in the trial of any criminal action in which it shall be thought necessary to introduce in evidence any bills of lading issued by said common carrier or by a connecting carrier, it shall be competent to introduce in evidence any paper-writing purporting to be the original bill of lading, or a duplicate thereof, upon proof that such paper purporting to be such bill of lading or duplicate was received in due course of mail from consignor or agent of said carrier or connecting carrier, or delivered by said common carrier to the consignee or other person entitled to the possession of the property for which said paper purports to be the bill of lading: Provided, that such purported bill of lading shall not be declared to be the bill of lading unless the said purported bill of lading is first exhibited by the plaintiff or his agent or attorney to the defendant or its attorney, or its agent upon whom process may be served, ten days before the trial where the point of shipment is in the state, and twenty days when the point of shipment is without the state. Upon such proof and introduction of the bill of lading, the due execution thereof shall be prima facie established. (1915, c. 287; 1945, c. 97; C. S. 1785.)

Cited in Perry v. First-Citizens Bank, etc., Co., 223 N. C. 642, 27 S. E. (2d) 636.

Art. 5. Life Tables.

Formal Proof Unnecessary.—The mortuary table in this section is one of the prevailing mortality tables put into statutory form so as to permit its use without formal proof. Rea v. Simowitz, 225 N. C. 575, 35 S. E. (2d) 871, 162 A. L. R. 999.

Tables Not Conclusive.—

The mortuary table is merely evidence of life expectancy to be considered with other evidence as to the health, constitution and habits of the deceased, and an instruction making the expectancy set out in this section definitive and conclusive not only violates the evidence rule, but also § 1-180 prohibiting the expression of an opinion "whether a fact is fully or sufficiently proven." Starnes v. Tyson, 226 N. C. 395, 38 S. E. (2d) 211.

Life Expectancy of Child under Ten.—Although the tables set out in this section do not afford evidence of the life expectancy of a child under ten years of age, this does not leave the plaintiff destitute of proof, and the jury may consider evidence as to the constitution, health, vigor, habits and the like of the deceased as a basis for determining probable expectancy of life. Rea v. Simowitz, 226 N. C. 379, 38 S. E. (2d) 194, 196.

This statutory mortality table is not founded on any statistical information based on experience concerning children under ten years of age and does not give or purport to give the probable expectancy of life of such infants. Hence as to them it is irrelevant. Rea v. Simowitz, 225 N. C. 575, 35 S. E. (2d) 871, 162 A. L. R. 999.

Before a jury may consider the mortuary table there must be precedent proof of age, bringing the deceased clearly within the class of selected lives tabulated in the table, and in the absence of such proof it is error to direct the jury to consider it. Id.

However, a jury may consider evidence as to the constitution, health, vigor, habits and the like of an infant as a basis for determining his probable expectancy of life and other available mortality tables which list ages below ten years may be used in evidence upon proper identification and authentication. Id.

Interest Rate.—Annuities, under this section, must be computed at four and one-half per cent and not at six per cent. Smith v. Smith, 223 N. C. 433, 27 S. E. (2d) 137.

Art. 7. Competency of Witnesses.

Editor's Note.—The trend of the development of the rules of evidence has been to remove personal disqualification to testify. State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 386, 50 S. E. (2d) 37.

—In the trial of any criminal action or proceedings in any court in which the question of paternity arises, the court before whom the matter may be brought, upon motion of the defendant, shall direct and order that the defendant, the mother and the child shall submit to a blood grouping test; provided, that the court, in its discretion, may require the person requesting the blood grouping test to pay the cost thereof. The results of such blood grouping tests shall be admitted in evidence when offered by a duly licensed practicing physician or other qualified person.

In the trial of any civil action, the court before whom the matter may be brought, upon motion of either party, shall direct and order that the defendant, the plaintiff, the mother and the child shall submit to a blood grouping test; provided, that the court, in its discretion, may require the person requesting the blood grouping test to pay the cost thereof. The results of such blood grouping tests shall be admitted in evidence when offered by a duly licensed practicing physician or other duly qualified person. (1949, c. 51.)

Editor's Note.—For a brief discussion of this section, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 456.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

The door is opened, under this section, by the representative of deceased taking the stand, only in respect to the transaction or set of facts about which such representative testifies. If one party opens the door as to one transaction, the other party cannot swing it wide in order to admit another independent transaction. Batten v. Aycock, 224 N. C. 225, 29 S. E. (2d) 739.

Personal letters written by decedent to his granddaughter, one of the propounders of his will, were held admissible over the objection that they constituted personal transactions with the deceased which are prohibited by the "dead man's statute." In re Will of McDowell, 230 N. C. 259, 52 S. E. (2d) 807.

Stated in State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 386, 50 S. E. (2d) 37.

Cited in Hinson v. Morgan, 225 N. C. 740, 36 S. E. (2d) 266; Bell v. Chadwick, 226 N. C. 598, 39 S. E. (2d) 743.

II. THE SECTION DISQUALIFIES WHOM.

A. Parties to the Action.

Testimony of Representative of Deceased.—When defendant, representative of deceased, is examined in behalf of himself and his co-representative concerning a personal transaction between plaintiff and deceased, under this section, he thus opens the door and makes competent the testimony of his adversary concerning the same transaction. Batten v. Aycock, 224 N. C. 225, 29 S. E. (2d) 739.

Testimony as to Handwriting of Deceased.—The plaintiff on his examination-in-chief, in an action against an executor or administrator, is competent to testify to the handwriting of deceased from his general knowledge, but not to testify that he saw deceased actually sign the particular instrument. Batten v. Aycock, 224 N. C. 225, 29 S. E. (2d) 739.

B. Persons Interested in the Event of the Action.

2. Applications.

A. Partner.—

Where one partner is (a) a party to the action, (b) is interested in the event of the action, and (c) the other partner is dead, because his lips are sealed in death the living partner is incompetent to testify in his own behalf to any transaction or communication between himself and the intestate concerning his relationship to the co-partnership and to relate certain conversations he had with deceased about the assets of the partnership. Wingler v. Miller, 223 N. C. 15, 20, 25 S. E. (2d) 160.

In a suit by distributees to recover from administrators and surviving partner money found on the person of decedent and claimed by his partner, testimony of the partner, concerning his relations to the partnership and the relation of certain conversations he had with deceased about the assets of the partnership, is clearly inadmissible under this section. Wingler v. Miller, 223 N. C. 15, 25 S. E. (2d) 160.

III. WHEN THE DISQUALIFICATION EXISTS.

Receipt of Money from Person Now Deceased.—Where, in an action to establish a claim against an estate, plaintiff introduces evidence that prior to his death decedent had received the funds in dispute, testimony by her that she had never received any part of the funds is tantamount to testifying that decedent had not paid her any part thereof, and is incompetent under this section. Wilson v. Ervin, 227 N. C. 396, 397, 42 S. E. (2d) 468.

Testimony by the maker of notes as to transactions with deceased payee tending to establish non-liability was properly excluded as coming within prohibition of this section. Perry v. First Citizens Nat. Bank, etc., Co., 226 N. C. 667, 40 S. E. (2d) 116.

IV. SUBJECT MATTER OF THE TRANSACTION.

This section applies to caveat proceedings notwithstanding that they are in rem, with the exception that beneficiaries under the will are competent to testify as to transactions with deceased testator solely upon the issue of testamentary capacity. In re Lomax's Will, 226 N. C. 498, 39 S. E. (2d) 388.

Illustrative Case.—In a civil action by plaintiffs against defendant for rents allegedly received by defendant's intestate from plaintiffs' property, evidence of plaintiffs, that deceased went into possession of the premises, shortly after default in payments to a mortgagee, for the purpose of collecting the rents and applying same to plaintiffs' mortgage indebtedness, that afterwards defendant's intestate purchased the property and plaintiffs executed notes to defendant's intestate and saw a deed for the premises in the possession of deceased, is excluded by this section as personal transactions and communications with defendant's intestate. McMichael v. Pegram, 225 N. C. 400, 35 S. E. (2d) 174.

V. EXCEPTIONS.

Illustrations.—
The prohibition against a beneficiary testifying as to transactions with deceased testator on the question of undue influence relates solely to transactions with the deceased, and a beneficiary is competent to testify as to circumstances tending to show undue influence on the part of the propounder unrelated to any transaction which the witness had with testator. In re Lomax's Will, 226 N. C. 498, 39 S. E. (2d) 388.

Relationship of Physician and Patient Must Exist.—
The relationship of patient and physician within the purview of this section, does not exist between a defendant and an alienist examining him in regard to his sanity. State v. Litteral, 227 N. C. 527, 528, 43 S. E. (2d) 84.

Editor's Note.—For note concerning confessions, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 364.

As to compelling accused to speak so that witness may identify his voice, see note in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 262.

Treated as Other Witnesses.—
In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See State v. Auston, 223 N. C. 203, 25 S. E. (2d) 613.

Same—Where Introduced by Defendant.—
In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See State v. McKinnon, 223 N. C. 160, 25 S. E. (2d) 606.

Admission before Magistrate.—
There is a distinction to be observed between the statement made by a prisoner on his preliminary examination before a magistrate under § 15-89, and his testimony given under this section as a witness on the trial of the cause. On the former, he is to be advised of his rights, and such examination is not to be on oath. On the latter, accused, at his own request, but not otherwise, is competent but not compellable to testify, and, of course, his testimony thus given is received under the sanction of an oath. State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 804, 806, 28 S. E. (2d) 560.

Where the examining magistrate takes the preliminary statement of a prisoner under the compulsion of an oath, contrary to the provisions of § 15-89, and without the advice of counsel, such statement may not be used against him on the trial, because, being thus induced, it is deemed to be involuntary. But this has no application to the testimony of a defendant given voluntarily as a witness in his own behalf under this section. State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 804, 807, 28 S. E. (2d) 560.

Erroneous Instructions. —
A charge to the jury to "very carefully and very cautiously scrutinize" defendant's testimony is not to be commended. State v. Auston, 223 N. C. 203, 25 S. E. (2d) 613.

Failure to Testify—How Far Subject to Comment.—The failure of defendant to testify in his own behalf should not be made the subject of comment by the court except to inform the jury that a defendant may or may not testify in his own behalf as he may see fit, and that his failure to testify does not create any presumption against him. State v. McNeill, 229 N. C. 377, 49 S. E. (2d) 733.

Cited in State v. Foster, 228 N. C. 72, 44 S. E. (2d) 447.

§ 8-56. Husband and wife as witnesses in civil action.—In any trial or inquiry in any suit, action or proceeding in any court, or before any person having, by law or consent of parties, authority to examine witnesses or hear evidence, the husband or wife of any party thereto, or of any person in whose behalf any such suit, action or proceeding is brought, prosecuted, opposed or defended, shall, except as herein stated, be competent and compellable to give evidence, as any other witness on behalf of any party to such suit, action or proceeding. Nothing herein shall render any husband or wife competent or compellable to give evidence for or against the other in any action or proceeding in consequence of adultery, or in any action or proceeding for divorce on account of adultery; or in any action or proceeding for or on account of criminal conversation, except that in actions of criminal conversation brought by the husband in which the character of the wife is assailed she shall be a competent witness to testify in refutation of such charges: Provided, however, that in all such actions and proceedings, the husband or wife shall be competent to prove, and may be required to prove, the fact of marriage. No husband or wife shall be compellable to disclose any confidential communication made by one to the other during their marriage. (Rev., s. 1636; Code, s. 588; C. C. P., s. 341; 1866, c. 43, ss. 3, 4; 1919, c. 18; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 1801.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment struck out the words "except to prove the fact of marriage" formerly appearing after the word "adultery" in line fifteen, and added the proviso at the end of the second sentence.

As to competency of husband and wife to testify in action for criminal conversation, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 206.

Same—Protected.—
In the wife's action for criminal conversation with her husband and the alienation of his affections, testimony by the wife relative to statements made to her by her husband tending to show his illicit relationship with defendant are incompetent. Knighten v. McClain, 227 N. C. 682, 683, 44 S. E. (2d) 79.

Testimony Is Limited to Proof of Marriage.—Conceding that in a prosecution for bigamous cohabitation, as in a prosecution for bigamy, the wife is competent to testify against the husband to prove the fact of marriage, her testimony is limited to proof of the fact of marriage and any testimony by her as to other incriminating facts, such as testimony tending to show that they had not been divorced, is incompetent. State v. Setzer, 226 N. C. 216, 37 S. E. (2d) 513.

A nonresident defendant while in the state in compliance with conditions of a bail bond is not exempt from the service of process. Hare v. Hare, 228 N. C. 740, 46 S. E. (2d) 840.

Art. 10. Depositions.

§ 8-71. Manner of taking depositions in civil actions.—Any party in a civil action or special proceeding, upon giving notice to the adverse party or his attorney as provided by law, may take the depositions of persons whose evidence he may desire to use, without any special order therefor, unless the witness shall be beyond the limits of the United States.

Depositions shall be taken on commission, issuing from the court and under the seal thereof, by one or more commissioners, who shall be of kin to neither party, and shall be appointed by the clerk; or depositions may be taken by a notary public of this state or of any other state or foreign country, or any commissioner of oaths or commissioner of deeds of any foreign country, or by any officer of the army of the United States or marine corps having the rank of captain or higher, by any officer of the United States navy or United States coast guard having the rank of lieutenant, senior grade, or higher, or by any officer of the United States merchant marine having the rank of lieutenant, senior grade, or higher, without a commission issuing from the court. No official seal shall be required of said military or naval officials, but they shall sign their name, designate rank, name of ship or military division, and date, without a commission issuing from the court.

Depositions shall be subscribed and sealed up by the commissioners or notary public, and returned to the court, the clerk whereof or the judge holding the court, if the clerk is a party to the action, shall open and pass upon the same, after having first given the parties or their attorneys not less than one day's notice; and all such depositions, when passed upon and allowed by the clerk, without appeal, or by the judge upon appeal from the clerk's order, or by the judge holding the court, when the clerk is a party to the action, shall be deemed legal evidence, if the witness be competent, subject, however, to such objections as subsequently might be made according to law.

Any party in a civil action or special proceeding pending in the courts of this state, may take the depositions of any person in the armed forces of the United States or any person in the service of the United States government in a civilian capacity while serving outside of continental United States, by filing in the office of the clerk of the court where such action or proceeding is pending, a statement showing the name and post office or fleet post office address of such person, together with the written interrogatories which are desired to be propounded to such person, and serve a copy thereof on the adverse party or parties to such action, or their attorneys, whereupon, within ten days after the service of said copy, said adverse party or parties may file in said clerk's office such written cross-interrogatories as said adverse party or parties may desire to propound to such person, and after the expiration of said ten days, and as promptly as may be, the clerk of said court shall issue a commission to any commissioned officer of any of the armed forces of the United States, without otherwise naming him, with which the person to be so examined is connected, and mail the same, together with said interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, if any, to the person so to be examined, at the address stated, authorizing any such officer upon presentation of such papers to him to propound the interrogatories and cross-interrogatories to said person, under oath, and record his answers thereto, and the deposition so taken shall be signed by such person and sworn to before, and subscribed by, his said officer, and returned to the said clerk in a sealed envelope.

Any deposition taken in the manner herein provided and transmitted to the clerk of the court where such action or special proceeding is pending, shall be deemed legal evidence, if the witness be competent, subject to opening such deposition and passing upon the same as provided by this section. (Rev., s. 1652; Code, s. 1357; 1911, c. 158; R. C., c. 31, s. 63; 1881, c. 279; 1893, c. 360; 1943, c. 160, s. 1; 1945, c. 22; 1947, c. 781; 1949, c. 864; C. S. 1809.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment added the last two paragraphs and the 1947 amendment added the reference to objections at the end of the third paragraph.

The 1949 amendment inserted, beginning in line four of the fourth paragraph the words "or any person in the service of the United States government in a civilian capacity while serving outside of continental United States."

For comment on the 1945 amendment, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 339.

The competency, in proper cases, of written depositions for the production of proof in civil actions is unquestioned. In such cases, it sufficiently complies with the constitutional mandate if the testimony was taken under oath in the manner prescribed by law, with opportunity to cross-examine. Chesson v. Kieckhefer Container Co., 223 N. C. 378, 380, 26 S. E. (2d) 904.

Attorney Mailing Deposition to Clerk.—Where the notary public taking a deposition in another state seals the same in an envelope addressed to the clerk of the superior court, the fact that the attorney of the party offering the deposition in evidence brings the sealed envelope back with him to this state and drops it in the mail, as requested by the notary, does not render the deposition incompetent. Randle v. Grady, 228 N. C. 159, 45 S. E. (2d) 35.

§ 8-75. Depositions in justices' courts.—Any party in civil action before a justice of the peace may take the depositions of all persons whose evidence he may desire to use in the action, and in order to do so may apply to the clerk of the superior court for a commission to take the same; or such deposition may be taken by a notary public of this or any other state, or of a foreign country, without a commission issuing from the court.

The proceedings in depositions in a civil action before a justice of the peace shall be in all respects as if such action were in the superior court.

When any such depositions are returned to the clerk, they shall be opened and passed upon by the clerk, and delivered to the justice of the peace before whom the trial is to be had; and the reading and using of said depositions shall conform to the rules of the superior court. (Rev., s. 1646; Code, s. 1359; 1872-3, c. 33; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 1813.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote the former first sentence of this section to appear as the first two paragraphs above.

Editor's Note.—
In the 15th line of this section in the original the word "county" should be "country."

Art. 12. Inspection and Production of Writings.

Acquiring Information Necessary to Filing of Complaint.—In an action against a clinic and doctors for alleged tortious defamation and disclosures of confidential information acquired professionally, plaintiff was held entitled to an order requiring defendants to produce specified papers and documents to afford information necessary to the filing of the complaint. Nance v. Gilmore Clinic, 230 N. C. 534, 53 S. E. (2d) 531, distinguishing Flanner v. Saint Joseph Home, 227 N. C. 342, 42 S. E. (2d) 225, in that the matter sought to be discovered in that case was not necessary as a basis for filing the complaint but related to a matter which it would have been improper to allege or which was not necessary to the statement of the cause of action. The case distinguished does not hold that the statute is not available in seeking information to enable plaintiff to draft his complaint. Only in respect to the discovery of evidence does the opinion hold that pleadings must first be filed and an issue raised to which the evidence sought must be pertinent.

Where Information to Be Used in Action against Third Party.—Though the point was not in issue, the court in Flanner v. Saint Joseph Home, 227 N. C. 342, 345, 42 S. E. (2d) 225, stated that plaintiff may not proceed under this section to examine the defendant's records and documents for the purpose of obtaining information to form the basis of an action against a third party.

The Affidavit Supporting an Order for Inspection, etc.—In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See Flanner v. Saint Joseph Home, 227 N. C. 342, 42 S. E. (2d) 225.

Chapter 9. Jurors.

Art. 2. Petit Jurors; Attendance, Regulation and Privileges.

Art. 1. Jury List and Drawing of Original Panel.

§ 9-1. Jury list from taxpayers of good character.—The board of county commissioners for the several counties, at their regular meetings on the first Monday in June in the year 1947, or the jury commissions or such other legally constituted body as may in the respective counties be charged by law with the duty of drawing names of persons for jury service, at the times of their regular meetings, and every two years thereafter, shall cause their clerks to lay before them the tax returns for the preceding year for their county, and a list of names of persons who do not appear upon the tax lists, who are residents of the county and over twenty-one years of age, from which lists the board of county commissioners or such jury commissions shall select the names of such persons who reside in the county who are of good moral character and have sufficient intelligence to serve as members of grand and petit juries. A list of the names thus selected by the board of county commissioners or such jury commissions shall be made out by the clerk of the board of county commissioners or such jury commissions and shall constitute the jury list of the county and shall be preserved as such.

The clerk of the board of county commissioners or such jury commissions, in making out the list of names to be laid before the board of county commissioners or such jury commissions, may secure said lists from such sources of information as deemed reliable which will provide the names of persons of the county above twenty-one years of age residing within the county qualified for jury duty. There shall be excluded from said lists all those persons who have been convicted of any crime involving moral turpitude or who have been adjudged to be non compos mentis. (Rev., s. 1957; Code, ss. 1722, 1723; 1806, c. 694; 1889, c. 559; 1899, c. 729; 1897, cc. 117, 539; 1899, c. 729; 1937, cc. 19, 200; 1941, c. 92; 1947, c. 1007, s. 1; C. S. 2312.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment added the second paragraph and made other changes. For discussion of amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 334, 445.

Session Laws 1947, c. 217, provides that this chapter as amended shall govern the making up of the jury lists and the drawing of jurors in Columbus county.

As to discrimination against negroes in selection of jury, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 185.

Rejection of prospective jurors for want of good moral character and sufficient intelligence is available to the county commissioners as a general objection only when the jury list is being prepared, and not after the names are in the box. State v. Speller, 229 N. C. 67, 47 S. E. (2d) 537.

As to right of women to serve on juries, see note in 25 N. C. Law Rev. 152, discussing case of State v. Emery, 224 N. C. 581, 31 S. E. (2d) 858, denying such right.

Editor's Note.—
Session Laws 1947, c. 272 repealed the sixth paragraph of this section which read as follows: "In Hertford county fifteen extra jurors shall be drawn and summoned for the second week."

§ 9-5. Fees of jurors.—All jurors in the superior court shall receive such amount per day as the board of commissioners of their respective counties shall fix, not less than ($3.00) three dollars per day and not more than ($6.00) six dollars per day; provided, that the said commissioners of the respective counties may establish different rates of compensation for different classes of said superior court jurors within the limitations set out above.

In addition to the compensation above provided for, all jurors shall receive a travel allowance of five (5) cents per mile while coming to the countyseat and returning home, the distance to be computed by the usual route of public travel; provided, that this allowance shall be paid on the basis of one round trip per calendar week for each calendar week in which attendance is required. (Rev., s. 2798; 1919, c. 85, ss. 1, 2; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 61, ss. 1, 3; 1921, c. 62, s. 1; 1947, c. 1015; 1949, c. 915; C. S. 3892.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote this section, and the 1949 amendment rewrote the first paragraph.

Session Laws 1945, c. 228, regulating the fees of jurors in Granville county was repealed by Session Laws 1949, c. 662, which provided that such fees shall be as provided in this section.

"Freeholders."—

An order for a special venire properly specifies that the veniremen are to be freeholders. State v. Anderson, 228 N. C. 720, 47 S. E. (2d) 1.

Review.—The rulings of the judge on questions as to the competency of jurors are not subject to review on appeal unless accompanied by some imputed error of law. State v. DeGraffenreid, 224 N. C. 517, 31 S. E. (2d) 523; State v. Davenport, 227 N. C. 475, 492, 42 S. E. (2d) 686; State v. Suddreth, 230 N. C. 239, 52 S. E. (2d) 924.

A juror during homicide trial had sister of deceased as one of his passengers in a four mile automobile trip. Defendant moved to set aside the verdict. The juror stated upon oath that he did not know his passenger was the sister of the deceased, and the court found upon investigation that the case was not discussed during the ride. It was held that exception to refusal of motion was not reviewable. State v. Suddreth, 230 N. C. 239, 52 S. E. (2d) 924.

The trial court's findings, upon supporting evidence, that persons of defendant's race were not excluded from the petit jury on account of race or color, are conclusive on appeal, and defendant's exception to the overruling of his challenge to the array on that ground presents no reviewable question of law. State v. Reid, 230 N. C. 561, 53 S. E. (2d) 849.

Cited in State v. Lord, 225 N. C. 354, 34 S. E. (2d) 205; State v. Anderson, 228 N. C. 720, 47 S. E. (2d) 1.

§ 9-17. Jurors impaneled to try case furnished with accommodations; separation of jurors.—When a jury, impaneled to try any cause, is put in charge of an officer of the court, the said officer shall furnish said jury with such accommodation as the court may order, and the same shall be paid for by the party cast or by the county, under the order and in the discretion of the judge of the court.

It shall be within the discretion of the presiding judge of the superior court, in the trial of any capital felony or other criminal case, to permit the jurors to be separated while the jury has under consideration such case. In the event the jury is composed of men and women, the court may, in its discretion, appoint more than one officer to have charge of the jury and one of such officers may be a man and the other officer a woman; and the court may, in its discretion, permit the members of the jury of opposite sexes to be provided separate rooming accommodations when not actually engaged in deliberations as jurors and pending the bringing in of a verdict in such cases. (Rev., s. 1978; Code, s. 1736; 1876-7, c. 173; 1889, c. 44; 1947, c. 1007, s. 2; C. S. 2327.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment added the second paragraph. For discussion of amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 334, 445.

§ 9-19. Exemptions from jury duty.—All practicing physicians, licensed druggists, telegraph operators who are in the regular employ of any telegraph company or railroad company, train dispatchers who have the actual handling of either freight or passenger trains, regularly licensed pilots, regular ministers of the gospel, officers or employees of a state hospital for the insane, active members of a fire company, funeral directors and embalmers, printers and linotype operators, all millers of grist mills, all United States railway postal clerks and rural free delivery mail carriers, locomotive engineers, brakemen and railroad conductors in active service, radio broadcast technicians, announcers, and optometrists, registered or practical nurses in active practice and practicing attorneys at law, and all members of the national guard, North Carolina state guard and members of the civil air patrol, naval militia, officers reserve corps, enlisted reserve corps, and the naval reserves, who comply with and perform all duties required of them as members of the national guard, naval militia, officers reserve corps, enlisted reserve corps, and the naval reserves, shall be exempt from service as jurors. On the first day of January and July of each year, the commanding officer of each company, troop, battery, detachment, or division of the national guard, naval militia, officers reserve corps, enlisted reserve corps, and the naval reserves, of North Carolina, shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such company, troop, battery, detachment, or division is located a statement giving the name and rank of each member of his organization who has performed all military duties during the preceding six months; and any member of such military organization whose name does not appear upon such statement shall not receive the benefit of the exemption provided for herein during the six months immediately following the filing of the statement.

The board of county commissioners of any county in North Carolina may, in their discretion, exempt any ex-confederate soldier in their county from jury duty who shall apply to them for exemption.

The clerk of the superior court of each county is hereby empowered to excuse from jury duty any person or persons exempt under the first sentence of this section prior to the convening of the term of court for which such person or persons are required to serve as jurors.

When any woman is summoned to serve on any regular or tales jury, she or her husband may appear before the clerk of the superior court and certify that she desires to be excused from jury service for one of the following causes: (1) that she is ill and unable to serve; (2) that she is required to care for her children who may be under twelve years of age; (3) that some member of her family is ill which requires her presence and attention; whereupon the clerk in his discretion may excuse her from jury service and so notify the judge of the superior court upon convening the court. Local Modification.—Onslow: 1949, c. 696.

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment inserted in the first paragraph the words "North Carolina state guard and members of the civil air patrol."

The 1947 amendment added the fourth paragraph and inserted in the first paragraph the words "registered or practical nurses in active practice and practicing attorneys at law." For discussion of amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 334, 445.

Applied in State v. Stanley, 227 N. C. 650, 44 S. E. (2d) 196.

Art. 4. Grand Jurors.

§ 9-25. Grand juries in certain counties.—At the first fall and spring terms of the criminal courts held for the counties of Craven, Gaston, Guilford, Mecklenburg, Moore, Pitt, Richmond, New Hanover, McDowell, Durham, Cumberland, Lenoir, Columbus, Nash, Johnston, Vance, Wayne, Iredell, and Wake, grand juries shall be drawn, the presiding judge shall charge them as provided by law, and they shall serve during the remaining fall and spring terms, respectively. In the event of vacancies occurring in the grand jury of Pitt or McDowell county, the judge holding the court of said county may, in his discretion, order a new juror drawn to take the oaths prescribed and to fill any vacancy occurring thereon.

A grand jury for Montgomery county shall be selected at each July term of the superior court in the usual manner, which said grand jury shall serve for a period of one year from the time of their selection. In the event a vacancy or vacancies shall occur in the grand jury of Montgomery county, the resident judge of the fifteenth judicial district or the judge holding the court of said county may, in his discretion, order a new juror or jurors drawn to take the oaths prescribed and to fill any vacancy or vacancies occurring thereon. The resident judge of the fifteenth judicial district or the presiding judge shall have the power, in his discretion, to appoint an assistant foreman of the grand jury in Montgomery county and said assistant foreman so appointed shall, in the case of death, absence, or disqualification for any reason of the foreman, discharge the duties of the foreman of said grand jury.

Local Modification.—Scotland: 1947, c. 641; Washington: 1947, c. 373.

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment inserted the words "or McDowell" in the second sentence of the first paragraph. The 1947 amendment added the second and third sentences of the eighteenth paragraph. As the other paragraphs were not affected by the amendments they are not set out.

As to arbitrary exclusion of Negroes from grand jury, see State v. Speller, 229 N. C. 67, 47 S. E. (2d) 537.

§ 9-28. Grand jury to visit jail and county home.—Every grand jury, while the court is in session, shall visit the county home for the aged and infirm, the workhouse, if there is one, and the jail, examine the same, and especially the apartments in which inmates and prisoners shall be confined; and they shall report to the court the condition thereof and of the inmates and prisoners confined therein, and also the manner in which the jailer or superintendent has discharged his duties.

It shall not be necessary for any grand jury in any county to make any inspections or submit any reports with respect to any county offices or agencies other than those required by the first paragraph of this section, nor for any judge of the superior court to charge the grand jury with respect thereto. (Rev., s. 1972; Code, s. 785; R. C., c. 30, s. 3; 1816, c. 911, s. 3; 1949, c. 208; C. S. 2337.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the second paragraph.

Art. 5. Special Venire.

Discretion of Court.—A motion for a special venire, both as a matter of practice and under this section and § 9-30, is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court, and denial of the motion is not reviewable except upon abuse of discretion. State v. Strickland, 229 N. C. 201, 49 S. E. (2d) 469.

Freeholders.—An order for a special venire properly specifies that the veniremen are to be freeholders. State v. Anderson, 228 N. C. 720, 47 S. E. (2d) 1.

The failure of the trial judge to sign the order for a special venire does not alone invalidate the special venire, it having been ordered and summoned in all other respects in conformity with statute. State v. Anderson, 228 N. C. 720, 47 S. E. (2d) 1.

Order Substantially a Special Writ of Venire Facias.—A written order entitled as of the action, commanding the sheriff to summon a special venire of twenty-five freeholders from the body of the county to appear on a specified date to act as jurors in the case, is in substance a special writ of venire facias. State v. Anderson, 228 N. C. 720, 47 S. E. (2d) 1.

Applied in State v. Strickland, 229 N. C. 201, 49 S. E. (2d) 469, treated under § 9-29.

Certificate Prima Facie Evidence.—The certificate of the notary establishes prima facie that electors were sworn as required by statute when they signed the affidavits accompanying their absentee ballots. State v. Chaplin, 229 N. C. 797, 48 S. E. (2d) 37.

—All acknowledgments taken and other official acts done by any person who has heretofore been appointed as a notary public, but who at the time of acting had failed to qualify as provided by law, shall, notwithstanding, be in all respects valid and sufficient; and property conveyed by instruments in which the acknowledgments were taken by such notary public are hereby validated and shall convey the properties therein purported to be conveyed as intended thereby. (1945, c. 665.)

—(a) The acts of any person heretofore performed after appointment as a notary public and prior to qualification as a notary public

(1) In taking any acknowledgment, or
(2) In notarizing any instrument, or
(3) In performing any act purportedly in the capacity of a notary public are hereby declared to be valid and of the same legal effect as if such person had qualified as a notary public prior to performing any such acts.

(b) All instruments with respect to which any such person as is described in subsection (a) of this section has purported to act in the capacity of a notary public shall have the same legal effect as if such person acting as a notary public had in fact qualified as a notary public prior to performing any acts with respect to such instruments. (1947, c. 313; 1949, c. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment re-enacted this section without change.

Chapter 11. Oaths.

Art. 2. Forms of Official and Other Oaths.

Jury—Officer of

You swear (or affirm) that you will keep every person sworn on this jury in some private and convenient place when in your charge. You shall not suffer any person to speak to them, neither shall you speak to them yourself, unless it be to ask them whether they are agreed in their verdict, but with leave of the court; so help you, God.

(1947, c. 71.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment changed the form of oath provided for a jury officer. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Chapter 12. Statutory Construction.

§ 12-1. No public-local or private act may amend or repeal public law unless latter is referred to in caption.

Cited in Carroll v. North Carolina State Firemen's Ass'n, 230 N. C. 436, 53 S. E. (2d) 524.

VI. DEFINITIONS.

Juror.—A woman is incompetent to serve as a juror. State v. Emery, 224 N. C. 581, 31 S. E. (2d) 858, discussed in note in 23 N. C. Law Rev. 152.

Chapter 14. Criminal Law.

Art. 1. Felonies and Misdemeanors.

An assault with intent to commit rape is a felony. State v. Gay, 224 N. C. 141, 143, 29 S. E. (2d) 458.

Cited in State v. Gregory, 223 N. C. 415, 27 S. E. (2d) 140; State v. Bentley, 223 N. C. 563, 27 S. E. (2d) 738 (con. op.); State v. Mounce, 226 N. C. 159, 36 S. E. (2d) 918.

Cited in State v. Mounce, 226 N. C. 159, 36 S. E. (2d) 918.

Infamous Offense.—A statute, which names the punishment for all misdemeanors, where no specific punishment is prescribed, and provides that if the offense be "infamous," it shall be punished as a felony, necessarily refers to the degrading nature of the offense, and not to the measure of punishment. State v. Surles, 230 N. C. 272, 52 S. E. (2d) 880.

An attempt to commit burglary constitutes a felony and is punishable by imprisonment in the state prison for a term not in excess of ten years, since it is an infamous offense or done in secrecy and malice, or both, within the purview of the statute. State v. Surles, 230 N. C. 272, 52 S. E. (2d) 880.

Excessive Punishment.—

In a prosecution charging assault with intent to commit rape, where at the conclusion of the State's evidence defendant tendered a plea of guilty of an assault upon a female, and the court accepted defendant's plea and found as a fact that the female referred to was a child nine years of age and defendant was thirty-four years of age, and also that the assault was aggravated, shocking and outrageous, the accepted plea is for a misdemeanor under § 14-33, and judgment that defendant be confined to the State's Prison for not less than eight nor more than ten years, is a violation of N. C. Const., Art. I, sec. 14, and this section. State v. Tyson, 223 N. C. 492, 27 S. E. (2d) 113.

Cited in State v. Perry, 225 N. C. 174, 33 S. E. (2d) 869.

Art. 2. Principals and Accessories.

One cannot become an accessory after the fact until the offense has become an accomplished fact. Thus, a person cannot be convicted as an accessory after the fact to a murder because he aided the murderer to escape, when the aid was rendered after the mortal wound was given but before death ensued, as a murder is not complete until the death results. State v. Williams, 229 N. C. 348, 49 S. E. (2d) 617.

Art. 4. Subversive Activities.

—It shall be unlawful for any person to:

1. By word of mouth or writing advocate, advise or teach the duty, necessity or propriety of overthrowing or overturning the government of the United States or a political subdivision of the United States by force or violence; or,

2. Print, publish, edit, issue or knowingly circulate, sell, distribute or publicly display any book, paper, document, or written or printed matter in any form, containing or advocating, advising or teaching the doctrine that the government of the United States or a political subdivision of the United States should be overthrown by force, violence or any unlawful means; or,

3. Organize or help to organize or become a member of or voluntarily assemble with any society, group or assembly of persons formed to teach or advocate the doctrine that the government of the United States or a political subdivision of the United States should be overthrown by force, violence or any unlawful means.

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Whenever two or more persons assemble for the purpose of advocating or teaching the doctrine that the government of the United States or a political subdivision of the United States should be overthrown by force, violence or any unlawful means, such an assembly is unlawful, and every person voluntarily participating therein by his presence, aid or investigation, shall be guilty of a felony and punishable by a fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Every editor or proprietor of a book, newspaper or serial and every manager of a partnership or incorporated association by which a book, newspaper or serial is issued, is chargeable with the publication of any matter contained in such book, newspaper or serial. But in every prosecution therefor, the defendant may show in his defense that the matter complained of was published without his knowledge or fault and against his wishes, by another who had no authority from him to make the publication and whose act was disavowed by him as soon as known.

No person shall be employed by any department, bureau, institution or agency of the state of North Carolina who has participated in any of the activities described in this section, and any person now employed by any department, bureau, institution or agency and who has been or is engaged in any of the activities described in this section shall be forthwith discharged. Evidence satisfactory to the head of such department, bureau, institution or agency of the state shall be sufficient for refusal to employ any person or cause for discharge of any employee for the reasons set forth in this paragraph. (1947, c. 1028.)

Art. 6. Homicide.

§ 14-17. Murder in the first and second degree defined; punishment.—A murder which shall be perpetrated by means of poison, lying in wait, imprisonment, starving, torture, or by any other kind of willful, deliberate and premeditated killing, or which shall be committed in the perpetration or attempt to perpetrate any arson, rape, robbery, burglary or other felony, shall be deemed to be murder in the first degree and shall be punished with death: Provided, if at the time of rendering its verdict in open court, the jury shall so recommend, the punishment shall be imprisonment for life in the state's prison, and the court shall so instruct the jury. All other kinds of murder shall be deemed murder in the second degree, and shall be punished with imprisonment of not less than two nor more than thirty years in the state's prison. (Rev., s. 3631; 1893, cc. 85, 281; 1949, c. 299, s. 1; C. S. 4200.)

I. EDITOR'S NOTE.

The 1949 amendment rewrote this section and inserted the proviso to the first sentence. Section 5 of the amendatory act provides that it shall be effective as of March 11, 1949, no excepting trials for offenses committed prior thereto. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 449.

For a brief history of this section in connection with sufficiency of indictment for murder in the first degree, see State v. Kirksey, 227 N. C. 445, 42 S. E. (2d) 613.

II. MURDER IN GENERAL.

Applied in State v. Montgomery, 227 N. C. 100, 40 S. E. (2d) 614; State v. Lampkin, 227 N. C. 620, 44 S. E. (2d) 30; State v. Parrott, 228 N. C. 752, 46 S. E. (2d) 851.

Cited in State v. Gause, 227 N. C. 26, 40 S. E. (2d) 463; State v. Ewing, 227 N. C. 107, 40 S. E. (2d) 600.

III. MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE.

Death Sentence Is Mandatory.—Upon conviction of murder in the first degree the law commands the sentence of death. State v. Nash, 226 N. C. 608, 39 S. E. (2d) 596; State v. Anderson, 228 N. C. 720, 47 S. E. (2d) 1.

Unless Jury Recommends Life Imprisonment.—The 1949 amendment inserted the proviso relating to life imprisonment. See 27 N. C. Law Rev. 449.

Deliberation and Premeditation—Presumption.—When a homicide is perpetrated by means of poison, lying in wait, imprisonment, starving or torture, the means and method used involves planning and purpose. Hence, the law presumes premeditation and deliberation. The act speaks for itself. State v. Dunheen, 224 N. C. 738, 32 S. E. (2d) 322.

Malice "Aforethought."—In criminal prosecution charging murder, failure of the court to use adjective "aforethought" in defining murder in the first degree, was not error. "Malice aforethought" was a term used in defining murder prior to the time of the adoption of the statute dividing murder into degrees. As then used it did not mean an actual, express or preconceived disposition; but imported an intent, at the moment, to do without lawful authority, and without the pressure of necessity, that which the law forbade. As used in C. S., 4200, now this section, the term "premeditation and deliberation" is more comprehensive and embraces all that is meant by "aforethought," and more. Therefore, the use of "aforethought" is no longer required. State v. Hightower, 226 N. C. 62, 64, 36 S. E. (2d) 649.

Killing in Perpetration of Robbery.—When the evidence offered in a criminal prosecution tends to show a homicide committed in the perpetration or attempt to perpetrate a robbery, the offense is murder in the first degree within the specific language of this section. State v. Biggs, 224 N. C. 722, 32 S. E. (2d) 352.

Killing in Perpetration of Rape.—Proof that a homicide was committed in the perpetration or attempted perpetration of rape makes the crime murder in the first degree and dispenses with the necessity of proof of premeditation and deliberation. State v. Mays, 225 N. C. 486, 35 S. E. (2d) 494; State v. King, 226 N. C. 241, 37 S. E. (2d) 684.

All Conspirators Are Guilty, etc.—Where there is a conspiracy to rob and one of the conspirators kills in the attempt to perpetrate the robbery, each of the conspirators is guilty. State v. Bennett, 226 N. C. 82, 36 S. E. (2d) 708.

IV. MURDER IN THE SECOND DEGREE.

Same—Presumption.—Where evidence establishes killing with deadly weapon, the presumption of malice goes no further than murder in the second degree, and if state seeks conviction of murder in the first degree it has the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the homicide was committed with deliberation and premeditation. State v. Floyd, 226 N. C. 571, 39 S. E. (2d) 598, 599.

Instruction held reversible error. State v. Clark, 225 N. C. 52, 33 S. E. (2d) 245.

V. PLEADING AND PRACTICE.

Form of Indictment.—This section does not require an allegation or count to be contained in the bill of indictment as to the means used in committing the murder. The statute only classifies the crime as to degree and punishment in the manner therein set forth. State v. Smith, 223 N. C. 457, 27 S. E. (2d) 114.

Evidence of Killing in Perpetration of Rape.—In a prosecution for murder in the first degree, testimony that in his voluntary confession defendant stated he entered deceased's house to rape her was competent to show that killing was done in perpetration or attempt to perpetrate rape, which constitutes murder in first degree without proof of premeditation and deliberation. State v. King, 226 N. C. 241, 37 S. E. (2d) 684.

Sufficiency of Evidence for Submission to Jury.—Evidence tending to show that defendant perpetrated or attempted to perpetrate the crime of arson upon a dwelling house, and thereby proximately caused the deaths of the occupants, is sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the charge of murder in the first degree. State v. Anderson, 228 N. C. 720, 47 S. E. (2d) 1.

Where Jury May Be Instructed to Return First Degree Verdict, etc.—

Where there was abundant evidence tending to establish that homicide was committed in the perpetration of capital felony rape, and that defendant was the one who committed the offense, and no element of murder in the second degree or manslaughter was made to appear, court properly limited the possible verdicts to guilty of murder in first degree or not guilty. State v. Mays, 225 N. C. 486, 35 S. E. (2d) 494.

Where evidence tends to show murder committed in the perpetration of robbery pursuant to a conspiracy and that both defendants were present and participated in the crime, the court properly limited the jury to verdicts of guilty of murder in the first degree or not guilty. State v. Matthews, 226 N. C. 639, 39 S. E. (2d) 819.

Art. 7. Rape and Kindred Offenses.

§ 14-21. Punishment for rape.—Every person who is convicted of ravishing and carnally knowing any female of the age of twelve years or more by force and against her will, or who is convicted of unlawfully and carnally knowing and abusing any female child under the age of twelve years, shall suffer death: Provided, if the jury shall so recommend at the time of rendering its verdict in open court, the punishment shall be imprisonment for life in the state's prison, and the court shall so instruct the jury. (Rev., s. 3637; Code, s. 1101; R. C., c. 34, s. 5; 18 Eliz., c. 7; 1868-9, c. 167, s. 2; 1917, c. 29; 1949, c. 299, s. 4; C. S. 4204.)

Cross References.—

The cross reference in the original to § 14-214 should be to § 15-169.

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section. Section 5 of the amendatory act provides that it shall be effective as of March 11, 1949, not excepting trials for offenses committed prior thereto. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 449.

Age of Consent.—

Carnally knowing any female of the age of twelve years or more by force and against her will is rape; and carnally knowing and abusing any female child under the age of twelve years is also rape. State v. Johnson, 226 N. C. 671, 40 S. E. (2d) 113.

Under the second clause of this section relating to unlawfully and carnally knowing and abusing any female child under the age of twelve years, neither force nor lack of consent need be alleged or proven, and such child is by virtue of this section presumed incapable of consenting. State v. Johnson, 226 N. C. 266, 37 S. E. (2d) 678, 679.

Necessary Allegations—"By Force and against Her Will."—An indictment for rape must use the words "by force" or their equivalent in describing the manner in which the assault was accomplished. State v. Benton, 226 N. C. 745, 40 S. E. (2d) 617.

An indictment for rape of a female twelve years of age or more which charged that defendants did violently and feloniously ravish and carnally know but failed to charge that offense was committed forcibly and against her will is fatally defective, it being necessary in order to support the death penalty that both elements be alleged and proven. State v. Johnson, 226 N. C. 266, 37 S. E. (2d) 678.

When indictment charging rape is insufficient for failure to allege that offense was committed "forcibly" and "against her will," the allowance of motion in arrest of judgment does not preclude subsequent trial of defendants upon proper bills. Id.

"Forcibly" Can Be Supplied by Any Equivalent Word.—The absence of both "forcibly" and "against her will" in the indictment is fatal, but "forcibly" can be supplied by any equivalent word. It is not supplied by the use of the word "ravish," but is sufficiently charged by the words "feloniously and against her will." State v. Johnson, 226 N. C. 266, 37 S. E. (2d) 678, 679.

Instructions.—

An instruction which fails to charge that the carnal knowledge of the prosecutrix must have been accomplished by force and against her will to constitute the crime of rape must be held for reversible error. State v. Simmons, 228 N. C. 258, 45 S. E. (2d) 121.

In a prosecution against two defendants for rape of prosecutrix, at different times on the same night, where the State's evidence tended to show that the assaults were made separately, without evidence that either defendant aided and abetted the other, there was reversible error in a charge that, if the intent to ravish and carnally know prosecutrix existed in the mind of one of defendants, or both of them, at any time during the assault, they would be guilty of an assault with intent to commit rape. State v. Walsh, 224 N. C. 218, 29 S. E. (2d) 743.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—In State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 804, 809, 28 S. E. (2d) 560, it was held that all the evidence showed carnal knowledge and abuse of a female child under the age of twelve years.

In State v. Brown, 227 N. C. 383, 42 S. E. (2d) 402, the court held that there was sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict of guilty of rape.

Applied in State v. Gibson, 229 N. C. 497, 50 S. E. (2d) 520.

Cited in State v. Swink, 229 N. C. 123, 47 S. E. (2d) 852.

In accord with 3rd paragraph in original. See State v. Gay, 224 N. C. 141, 29 S. E. (2d) 458; State v. Moore, 227 N. C. 326, 42 S. E. (2d) 84; State v. Overcash, 226 N. C. 632, 39 S. E. (2d) 810.

A jury may not convict an accused of assault with intent to commit rape without evidence and findings, upon proper instructions, that defendant committed an assault upon the person of prosecutrix with intent at the time to ravish and carnally know her, by force and against her will, notwithstanding any resistance she might make. State v. Walsh, 224 N. C. 218, 29 S. E. (2d) 743.

Instruction that the mere touching of prosecutrix, without regard to her consent, would be an assault with intent to commit rape if the defendant at the time intended to ravish in the event it became necessary to do so to accomplish his purpose, was erroneous for disregarding the essential element of unlawfulness, rudeness or violence which makes the taking hold of a female an assault. State v. Overcash, 226 N. C. 632, 39 S. E. (2d) 810, 811.

Evidence Held Insufficient.—In State v. Moore, 227 N. C. 326, 42 S. E. (2d) 84, the court held that the evidence was insufficient to sustain a verdict of assault with intent to commit rape.

Editor's Note.—Session Laws 1947, c. 383, amending §§ 14-319, 51-2 and 51-3 provides that its provisions shall in no wise affect this section.

The state need not charge or prove that accused knew female child was under age of consent. One having carnal knowledge of such a child, does so at his peril, and his opinion as to her age, is immaterial. State v. Wade, 224 N. C. 760, 762, 32 S. E. (2d) 314.

Use of term "statutory rape" in the charge was not prejudicial error where charge contained correct definition, and properly placed burden of proof on the state, as to each essential element of the offense. State v. Bullins, 226 N. C. 142, 36 S. E. (2d) 915.

Failure to give a correct charge on the element of age is error in a prosecution under this section. State v. Sutton, 230 N. C. 244, 52 S. E. (2d) 921.

Or Chastity.—Where defendant, in a prosecution for carnal knowledge of a girl over twelve and under sixteen years of age, offers evidence of the immoral character of the prosecutrix and denies his identity as the perpetrator of the offense, an instruction which omits the age and chastity of prosecutrix as elements of the offense fails to meet the mandatory requirements of § 1-180, and an exception thereto will be sustained. State v. Sutton, 230 N. C. 244, 52 S. E. (2d) 921.

Instruction Held Prejudicial.—In a prosecution under this section, where defendant offered evidence of the immoral character of the prosecutrix and her sister and aunt, a charge that such testimony was not competent upon the question of guilt or innocence, but that it was material as bearing upon the likelihood of defendant indulging in such conduct, was prejudicial error. State v. Sutton, 230 N. C. 244, 52 S. E. (2d) 921.

Evidence of Improper Advances of Similar Nature.—In a prosecution under this section allegedly committed upon defendant's daughter, testimony of an older daughter, that within the past three years defendant several times had made to her improper advances of a similar nature, was competent solely for the purpose of showing intent or guilty knowledge. State v. Edwards, 224 N. C. 527, 31 S. E. (2d) 516.

Evidence held sufficient to support conviction in a prosecution under this section. State v. Bryant, 228 N. C. 641, 46 S. E. (2d) 847.

Variance as to Time.—

Time is not of the essence of the offense denounced by this section, and on trial of an indictment for carnal knowledge of a female under 16 years of age a variance between allegation and proof as to the date is not material, the statute of limitations not being involved. State v. Baxley, 223 N. C. 210, 25 S. E. (2d) 621.

Editor's Note.—Session Laws 1947, c. 383, amending §§ 14-319, 51-2 and 51-3 provides that its provisions shall in no wise affect this section.

Art. 8. Assaults.

"To wound" is distinguished from "to maim" in that the latter implies a permanent injury to a member of the body or renders a person lame or defective in bodily vigor. State v. Malpass, 226 N. C. 403, 38 S. E. (2d) 156, 157.

Where there was no evidence of permanent injury to the privy parts of the prosecuting witness, it was error for the court to submit to jury the question of the guilt of defendant under this section. Id.

The law of self-defense in cases of homicide applies also in cases of assault with intent to kill, and an unsuccessful attempt to kill cannot be justified unless the homicide would have been excusable if death had ensued. It follows that where an accused has inflicted wounds upon another with intent to kill such other, he may be absolved from criminal liability for so doing upon the principle of self-defense only in case he was in actual or apparent danger of death or great bodily harm at the hands of such other. State v. Anderson, 230 N. C. 54, 51 S. E. (2d) 895.

An indictment which follows substantially the language of this section as to its essential elements meets the requirements of law. State v. Randolph, 228 N. C. 228, 45 S. E. (2d) 132.

In an indictment charging an assault with intent to kill "and murder" the words "and murder" are surplusage and place no additional burden on the state. State v. Plemmons, 230 N. C. 56, 52 S. E. (2d) 10.

"A certain knife" is a sufficient description of the weapon in an indictment for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. State v. Randolph, 228 N. C. 228, 45 S. E. (2d) 132.

Injury Need Not Be Described in Indictment.—In an indictment, under this section, it is not necessary to describe the injury further than in the words of the statute. State v. Gregory, 223 N. C. 415, 27 S. E. (2d) 140.

Omission of "Assault with a Deadly Weapon" from Charge to Jury.—When accused is indicted, under this section, for an assault with intent to kill and with a deadly weapon, the omission, by the court in its charge, of "assault with a deadly weapon" from the catalogue of permissible verdicts, does not deprive the jury of the statutory authority to consider it. State v. Bentley, 223 N. C. 563, 27 S. E. (2d) 738.

The term "intent to kill" is self-explanatory and the trial court is not required to define the term in its charge. State v. Plemmons, 230 N. C. 56, 52 S. E. (2d) 10.

The deadly character of a weapon may be inferred by the jury from the manner of its use and the injury inflicted, and evidence of slashes with a knife across the upper arm and lower back along the belt line, producing cuts requiring 16 stitches to close, is sufficient for the jury to infer that the knife was a deadly weapon. State v. Randolph, 228 N. C. 228, 45 S. E. (2d) 132.

Admissibility of Evidence.—See State v. Oxendine, 224 N. C. 825, 32 S. E. (2d) 648.

The introduction in evidence of the weapon used is not requisite to the admission of testimony as to the manner of its use and the injuries inflicted in establishing the character of the weapon as deadly. State v. Randolph, 228 N. C. 228, 45 S. E. (2d) 132.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—

In a prosecution under this section it was held that the evidence was amply sufficient to sustain a verdict of "guilty of an assault with a deadly weapon." State v. Cody, 225 N. C. 38, 33 S. E. (2d) 71.

Applied in State v. Jones, 229 N. C. 276, 49 S. E. (2d) 463; State v. Muse, 229 N. C. 536, 50 S. E. (2d) 311.

Cited in State v. Perry, 225 N. C. 174, 33 S. E. (2d) 869; State v. Williams, 229 N. C. 348, 49 S E. (2d) 617.

§ 14-33. Punishment for assault.—(a) In all cases of an assault, with or without intent to kill or injure, the person convicted shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court, subject to the provisions of subsection (b).

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a), the punishment in cases of assaults, assaults and batteries, and affrays shall not exceed a fine of fifty dollars ($50.00) or imprisonment for thirty days, when no deadly weapon has been used and no serious damage done except in cases of:

(1) Assault with intent to kill, or

(2) Assault with intent to commit rape, or

(3) Assault or assault and battery by any man or boy over eighteen years old on any female person, or

(4) The person committing the assault, (excluding and excepting parents, school teachers, guardians or persons in loco parentis), is eighteen years old or over, and the person on whom the assault is committed is under the age of twelve years.

(c) In all cases of assault, assault and battery, and affrays, wherein deadly weapons are used and serious injury is inflicted, and the plea of the defendant is self-defense, evidence of former threats against the defendant by the person alleged to have been assaulted by him, if such threats shall have been communicated to the defendant before the altercation, shall be competent as bearing upon the reasonableness of the claim of apprehension by the defendant of death or serious bodily harm, and also as bearing upon the amount of force which reasonably appeared necessary to the defendant, under the circumstances, to repel his assailant. (Rev., s. 3620; Code, s. 987; 1870-1, c. 43, s. 2; 1873-4, c. 176, s. 6; 1879, c. 92, ss. 2, 6; 1911, c. 193; 1933, c. 189; 1949, c. 298; C. S. 4215.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section. See 27 N. C. Law Rev. 450.

This section creates no new offense and relates only to punishment. Under its provisions all assaults and assaults and batteries not made felonious by other statutes are general misdemeanors punishable in the discretion of the court, except where no deadly weapon had been used and no serious damage done, the punishment may not exceed a fine of $50 or imprisonment for 30 days, unless the assault is committed upon a female by a man or boy over 18 years of age. Assaults and assaults and batteries upon a female by a man or boy over 18 years of age are expressly excluded from the proviso or exception and they remain general misdemeanors. State v. Jackson, 226 N. C. 66, 67, 36 S. E. (2d) 706.

Punishment—Extent.—

Where in a trial of an indictment, under the preceding section, defendant is convicted of an assault with intent to kill and judgment rendered that defendant serve not less than three nor more than four years in the State's prison, there is error, as the offense described in the verdict is at most a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court as provided by this section. State v. Gregory, 223 N. C. 415, 27 S. E. (2d) 140.

When no time is fixed by the statute, imprisonment for two years, as in the case of an assault with a deadly weapon, will not be held to be cruel and unusual, and violative of article I, section 14 of the constitution. State v. Crandall, 225 N. C. 148, 150, 33 S. E. (2d) 861.

Where the offense charged, an assault wherein serious damage was inflicted, was a misdemeanor, conviction thereof did not support judgment of imprisonment in the state's prison from two to five years. State v. Malpass, 226 N. C. 403, 38 S. E. (2d) 156.

Effect of Acquittal on Part of Verdict.—The fact that the jury convicted defendant of assault with a deadly weapon, after it had acquitted him in a previous part of the verdict of assault with a deadly weapon doing serious injury, does not entitle him to his discharge on his motion in arrest of judgment. State v. Bentley, 223 N. C. 563, 27 S. E. (2d) 738.

Jurisdiction Where No Deadly Weapon Used and No Serious Injury Done.—Long prior to the enactment of the preceding section, the Legislature had dealt with the general subject of assault—including assault as known at the common law—and had attempted to lay down a schedule of punishments according to the aggravation of the offense, and at the same time, by the first proviso of this section, taken in connection with Art. IV, sec. 27, of the Constitution, carved out of the general jurisdiction of assaults given the courts an original and exclusive jurisdiction in the courts of the justice of the peace, where no deadly weapon had been used and no serious injury inflicted. State v. Gregory, 223 N. C. 415, 418, 27 S. E. (2d) 140.

Presumption That Accused Is over Eighteen.—Where a male defendant is charged with an assault upon a female there is a rebuttable presumption that defendant is over 18 years of age, which presumption, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, is evidence to be considered by the jury; but this does not imply that the jury is not required to determine defendant's age. State v. Lewis, 224 N. C. 774, 32 S. E. (2d) 334, citing State v. Lefler, 202 N. C. 700, 163 S. E. 873; State v. Jones, 181 N. C. 546, 106 S. E. 817.

Jury to Determine Defendant's Age.—In order to support the sentence as for a general misdemeanor it is required that the jury determine in its verdict specifically or by reference to the charge, that defendant is a male and was over eighteen years of age at the time of the assault. State v. Grimes, 226 N. C. 523, 39 S. E. (2d) 394.

Where there is no finding by jury that defendant was a man or boy over eighteen years of age at the time of the assault, judgment is not supported by the verdict, and a venire de novo will be ordered. Id.

Evidence Sufficient under Section.—

Where a female was approached at night on a city street by defendant, who made improper proposals and indecently exposed his person, without touching the said female, who thereupon ran a short distance to her home, the evidence is insufficient to support a conviction of assault with intent to commit rape, although it would warrant a conviction of an assault upon a female. State v. Gay, 224 N. C. 141, 29 S. E. (2d) 458.

In a criminal prosecution upon an indictment charging defendant with assault with intent to commit rape wherein defendant tendered to the court a plea of guilty of an assault upon a female, it was held that while the court found that the assault was aggravated, shocking and outrageous to the sensibilities and decencies of right-thinking citizens, the court did not find the offense to be infamous and that the plea tendered by defendant, and accepted by the court, did not constitute a plea of guilty to an infamous offense, but, on the contrary, constituted a plea of guilty of a misdemeanor punishable as provided in this section. State v. Tyson, 223 N. C. 492, 493, 27 S. E. (2d) 113.

In State v. Moore, 227 N. C. 326, 42 S. E. (2d) 84, the court held the evidence sufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty of assault upon a female.

Evidence Insufficient.—In State v. Silver, 227 N. C. 352, 42 S. E. (2d) 208, the court held the evidence insufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty of an assault upon a female.

Accidental Discharge of Gun, etc.—

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See State v. Boldin, 227 N. C. 594, 595, 42 S. E. (2d) 897.

Art. 10. Kidnapping and Abduction.

Definition.—Under this section kidnapping is the taking and carrying away of a human being by physical force or by fraud, done unlawfully or without lawful authority, and a charge to jury defining the offense as forcibly taking and carrying away of a human being is erroneous as being incomplete definition of the crime. State v. Witherington, 226 N. C. 211, 37 S. E. (2d) 497.

Taking and Carrying Away.—Under this section, regardless of the means used, by which the taking and carrying away of a human being is effected, there must be further finding that such taking and carrying away was unlawful or done without lawful authority, or effected by fraud. State v. Witherington, 226 N. C. 211, 213, 37 S. E. (2d) 497.

Use of Wrong Expression in Charge to Jury.—The rule that what the court says to the jury is to be considered in its entirety and contextually saves from successful attack the use, on a trial for abduction, of the expression "taken out," where the jury must have understood from the entire charge that the court meant thereby "taken away." State v. Truelove, 224 N. C. 147, 29 S. E. (2d) 460.

Art. 11. Abortion and Kindred Offenses.

This section and § 14-45 create separate and distinct offenses, the first statute being designed to protect the life of a child in ventre sa mere, and the second being primarily for the protection of the woman. State v. Jordon, 227 N. C. 579, 42 S. E. (2d) 674; State v. Green, 230 N. C. 381, 53 S. E. (2d) 285.

The words "either pregnant or quick with child" contained in this section mean "pregnant with child that is quick," since otherwise the words "or quick with child" would be merely confusing surplusage, and since the sine qua non of the offense is the intent to destroy the child in ventre sa mere, which must be quick before it has independent life. State v. Jordon, 227 N. C. 579, 42 S. E. (2d) 674; State v. Green, 230 N. C. 381, 53 S. E. (2d) 285.

Thus, evidence that defendant, with intent to produce a miscarriage, gave a certain drug to a woman within thirty days after she had conceived, is insufficient to be submitted to the jury in a prosecution under this section since in such instance the child could not be quick. State v. Jordon, 227 N. C. 579, 42 S. E. (2d) 674.

Joinder of Offenses.—

Upon the trial on an indictment charging the performance of an operation on a woman (1) quick with child, with intent to destroy the child, and (2) with intent to procure a miscarriage, there was a verdict of guilty, and upon the jury being polled, each juror stated that the verdict related to the first count, which verdict was entered; and upon retirement and further consideration of the second count, as instructed, the verdict on that count was not guilty, the defendant is not prejudiced thereby. State v. Dilliard, 223 N. C. 446, 27 S. E. (2d) 85.

Nonsuit for Variance.—Where warrant charged that defendant feloniously advised a woman pregnant with child to take certain medicines with intent to destroy such child, and the evidence tended to show that this was prior to the time the child was quick, nonsuit for fatal variance should have been allowed. State v. Green, 230 N. C. 381, 53 S. E. (2d) 285.

See annotations under § 14-44.

Evidence.—In a prosecution for aiding and abetting in an abortion, it was held that the evidence was sufficient to take the case to the jury. State v. Manning, 225 N. C. 41, 33 S. E. (2d) 239; State v. Choate, 228 N. C. 491, 46 S. E. (2d) 476.

Where defendant's defense to a charge of criminal abortion is that the operation was necessary to save the life of the mother, evidence that defendant had committed previous abortions is competent to show animus; but where defendant denies he performed the operation charged, evidence of previous abortions committed by him is incompetent. State v. Choate, 228 N. C. 491, 46 S. E. (2d) 476.

Art. 14. Burglary and Other Housebreaking.

In General.—

Burglary is a common law offense, the elements of which are the breaking and entering during the nighttime of a dwelling or sleeping apartment with intent to commit a felony therein and whether the building is occupied at the time affects only the degree. State v. Mumford, 227 N. C. 132, 41 S. E. (2d) 201.

The purpose of the statute is to protect the habitations of men, where they repose and sleep, from meditated harm. State v. Surles, 230 N. C. 272, 52 S. E. (2d) 880.

The sleeping apartment referred to in this section is one in which a person regularly sleeps. State v. Foster, 129 N. C. 704, 40 S. E. 209. And a room in a storehouse in which there is a cot occasionally occupied at night by a guard is not a sleeping apartment within the terms of the statute. United States v. Brandenburg, 144 F. (2d) 656.

Evidence held sufficient to overrule defendant's motion to nonsuit in a prosecution for burglary. State v. Surles, 230 N. C. 272, 52 S. E. (2d) 880.

The jury may convict of an attempt to commit burglary in the second degree where the prosecution is for burglary in the first degree. State v. Surles, 230 N. C. 272, 52 S. E. (2d) 880.

Verdict of Guilty in First Degree upon Trial for Burglary in Second Degree Set Aside.—Where defendant was tried for burglary in the second degree on indictment charging burglary in the first degree, and the verdict, as rendered, showed defendant was convicted of burglary in the first degree, or was guilty "as charged in the bill of indictment," the fact that clerk certified "that defendant was guilty of second degree burglary as charged in the bill of indictment" which was merely the clerk's interpretation of verdict, rather than a precise certification of it, was not sufficient to deny motion to set aside verdict. State v. Jordan, 226 N. C. 155, 37 S. E. (2d) 111.

—Any person convicted, according to due course of law, of the crime of burglary in the first degree shall suffer death: Provided, if the jury when rendering its verdict in open court shall so recommend, the punishment shall be imprisonment for life in the state's prison, and the court shall so instruct the jury. Anyone so convicted of burglary in the second degree shall suffer imprisonment in the state's prison for life, or for a term of years, in the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3330; Code, s. 994; 1889, c. 434, s. 2; 1870-1, c. 222; 1941, c. 215, s. 1; 1949, c. 299, s. 2; C. S. 4233.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section. Section 5 of the amendatory act provides that it shall be effective as of March 11, 1949, not excepting trials for offenses committed prior thereto. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 449.

It is error for the court to fail to charge the jury in a prosecution for burglary in the first degree that it may return a verdict of guilty of burglary in the first degree with recommendation of imprisonment for life. State v. Mathis, 230 N. C. 508, 53 S. E. (2d) 666.

Permissible Verdicts When Jury Finds Facts Constituting Burglary in First Degree.—Taking §§ 14-52 and 15-171 together, when in a case in which the charge is burglary in the first degree the jury finds from the evidence and beyond a reasonable doubt facts constituting burglary in the first degree, one of three verdicts may be returned: (1) Guilty of burglary in the first degree, which carries a mandatory death sentence; (2) guilty of burglary in the first degree, with recommendation of imprisonment for life, which calls for a sentence to life imprisonment; and (3) if the jury "deem it proper so to do," guilty of burglary in the second degree, for which the sentence may be life imprisonment, or imprisonment for a term of years in the discretion of the judge. State v. Mathis, 230 N. C. 508, 53 S. E. (2d) 666.

Formerly a verdict of guilty of burglary in the first degree made a death sentence mandatory. But since the enactment of the proviso in 1941, when the jury recommends imprisonment for life, the death penalty is thereby eliminated, and sentence of life imprisonment is mandatory. State v. Mathis, 230 N. C. 508, 53 S. E. (2d) 666.

Cited in State v. Jordan, 226 N. C. 155, 37 S. E. (2d) 111.

Intent Must Be Shown.—

Felonious intent is an essential element of the crime defined in this section. It must be alleged and proved, and the felonious intent proven must be the felonious intent alleged, which is the "intent to steal." State v. Friddle, 223 N. C. 258, 260, 25 S. E. (2d) 751.

Proof of Breaking Not Essential.—Housebreaking or nonburglarious breaking is a statutory and not a common law offense, and under this section it is unlawful to enter a dwelling with intent to commit a felony therein, either with or without a breaking, and therefore while evidence of a breaking, when available, is always relevant, proof of a breaking is not essential to sustain conviction. State v. Mumford, 227 N. C. 132, 41 S. E. (2d) 201.

Indictment under This Section or § 14-51.—Where on appeal defendant's motion to set aside the verdict should have been allowed for want of evidence of defendant's guilt of second degree burglary and want of charge of second degree burglary in the indictment, upon the new trial ordered, defendant may be tried upon the original bill of burglary in the first degree, or upon an indictment under this section. State v. Locklear, 226 N. C. 410, 38 S. E. (2d) 162.

Applied in State v. Minton, 228 N. C. 518, 46 S. E. (2d) 296.

Under this section, the gravamen of the offense is the possession of burglar's tools without lawful excuse, and the burden is on the State to show two things: (1) That the person charged was found having in his possession an implement or implements of housebreaking enumerated in, or which come within the meaning of the statute; and (2) that such possession was without lawful excuse. State v. Boyd, 223 N. C. 79, 83, 25 S. E. (2d) 456.

But the phrase "without lawful excuse" must be construed in the spirit of this section, and, even though the possession of the pistols and blackjack be unlawful, and even though defendants possessed the pistols and blackjack for the purpose of personal protection in the unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquor, such possession is not within the meaning of this section. State v. Boyd, 223 N. C. 79, 85, 25 S. E. (2d) 456.

Separate Offenses.—The offense of being armed with any dangerous weapon with intent to break and enter a dwelling or other building and commit a felony therein, and the offense of possessing, without lawful excuse, implements of housebreaking, are separate and distinct offenses, under this section, the first requiring a presently existing intent to break and enter, and the second mere possession, without lawful excuse, of implements of housebreaking, which infers no personal intent but rather the purpose for which the implements are kept. State v. Baldwin, 226 N. C. 295, 37 S. E. (2d) 898.

Judicial Knowledge of Housebreaking Implements.—Although a Stillson wrench, a brace, drills of varying sizes, detonating caps, flashlight batteries, gloves, dynamite, bullets, a drill chuck key, and other like articles, are articles having legitimate uses, the court will take judicial knowledge that they are, in combination, implements of housebreaking. State v. Baldwin, 226 N. C. 295, 37 S. E. (2d) 898.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—In State v. Boyd, 223 N. C. 79, 84, 25 S. E. (2d) 456, it was held that the evidence failed to show that any of the articles found in the automobile was an implement made and designed for the express purpose of housebreaking, within the terms of this section.

Evidence tending to show that officers searched a car owned by defendant and to which defendant had the key, and found therein implements which, in combination, as a matter of common knowledge, are implements of housebreaking, is sufficient to overrule defendant's motion to nonsuit in a prosecution under this section. State v. Baldwin, 226 N. C. 295, 37 S. E. (2d) 898.

Cited in State v. Surles, 230 N. C. 272, 52 S. E. (2d) 880.

"Burglary with explosives" was unknown to the common law. Obviously, it is separate and distinct from the crime of burglary named in § 14-51. United States v. Brandenburg, 144 F. (2d) 656.

Applied in In re McKnight, 229 N. C. 303, 49 S. E. (2d) 753.

Art. 15. Arson and Other Burnings.

—Any person convicted according to due course of law of the crime of arson shall suffer death: Provided, if the jury shall so recommend, at the time of rendering its verdict in open court, the punishment shall be imprisonment for life in the state's prison, and the court shall so instruct the jury. (Rev., s. 3335; Code, s. 985; R. C., c. 34, s. 2; 1870-1, c.

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section. Section 5 of the amendatory act provides that it shall be effective as of March 11, 1949, not excepting trials for offenses committed prior thereto. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 449.

Evidence held admissible in prosecution for arson as tending to show ill will towards occupants of house burned and as being part of res gestae. State v. Smith, 225 N. C. 78, 33 S. E. (2d) 472.

The death sentence is mandatory upon a verdict of guilty of arson when there is no recommendation by the jury in respect to the punishment. State v. Anderson, 228 N. C. 720, 47 S. E. (2d) 1.

Art. 16. Larceny.

§ 14-71. Receiving stolen goods.—If any person shall receive any chattel, property, money, valuable security or other thing whatsoever, the stealing or taking whereof amounts to larceny or a felony, either at common law or by virtue of any statute made or hereafter to be made, such person knowing the same to have been feloniously stolen or taken, he shall be guilty of a criminal offense, and may be indicted and convicted, whether the felon stealing and taking such chattels, property, money, valuable security or other thing, shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice; and any such receiver may be dealt with, indicted, tried and punished in any county in which he shall have, or shall have had, any such property in his possession or in any county in which the thief may be tried, in the same manner as such receiver may be dealt with, indicted, tried and punished in the county where he actually received such chattel, money, security, or other thing; and such receiver shall be punished as one convicted of larceny. (Rev., s. 3507; Code, s. 1074; R. C., c. 34, s. 56; 1797, c. 485, s. 2; 1949, c. 145, s. 1; C. S. 4250.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment substituted "criminal offense" for "misdemeanor" in line eight. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 448.

As to elements of crime of receiving stolen goods, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 192.

The criminality of the action denounced by this section consists in receiving with guilty knowledge and felonious intent goods which previously had been stolen. Sufficient evidence of all the essential elements of the offense must be made to appear in order to sustain a conviction. State v. Yow, 227 N. C. 585, 587, 42 S. E. (2d) 661.

Test of Felonious Intent.—In a prosecution under this section, the test of felonious intent is whether the prisoners knew, or must have known, that the goods were stolen, not whether a reasonably prudent person would have suspected strangers calling at a very early morning hour. State v. Oxendine, 223 N. C. 659, 27 S. E. (2d) 814.

The Inference or Presumption, etc.—

In accord with original. See State v. Yow, 227 N. C. 585, 587, 42 S. E. (2d) 661.

Recent possession of stolen property, without more, raises no presumption in a prosecution for receiving stolen goods with knowledge that they had been feloniously stolen, and an instruction that recent possession raised no presumption of guilt but raised a presumption of fact to be considered by the jury in passing upon the guilt or innocence of defendant, must be held for reversible error. State v. Larkin, 229 N. C. 126, 47 S. E. (2d) 697.

Conviction of Larceny Is Tantamount to Acquittal on Charge of Receiving.—Upon an indictment for larceny and for receiving property, knowing the same to have been stolen, a verdict of guilty of larceny is tantamount to an acquittal on the charge of receiving. State v. Holbrook, 223 N. C. 622, 27 S. E. (2d) 725.

Evidence held sufficient to go to jury upon charge of receiving stolen property with knowledge that it had been feloniously stolen. State v. Larkin, 229 N. C. 126, 47 S. E. (2d) 697.

Punishment.—Upon a plea of nolo contendere to a charge of receiving cigarettes of the value of $75.00 knowing them to have been stolen, a sentence of imprisonment at hard labor for not less than three years nor more than five years is within the limits prescribed by this section and §§ 14-1, 2 and 3, and therefore defendant's contention that the punishment imposed is excessive for the offense charged is not meritorious. State v. Mounce, 226 N. C. 159, 36 S. E. (2d) 918.

Applied in State v. Law, 228 N. C. 443, 45 S. E. (2d) 374.

Cited in State v. Law, 227 N. C. 103, 40 S. E. (2d) 699.

§ 14-72. Larceny of property, or the receiving of stolen goods, not exceeding one hundred dollars in value.—The larceny of property, or the receiving of stolen goods knowing them to be stolen, of the value of not more than one hundred dollars, is hereby declared a misdemeanor, and the punishment therefor shall be in the discretion of the court. If the larceny is from the person, or from the dwelling by breaking and entering, this section shall have no application: Provided, that this section shall not apply to horse stealing. In all cases of doubt the jury shall, in the verdict, fix the value of the property stolen. (Rev., s. 3506; 1895, c. 285; 1913, c. 118, s. 1; 1941, c. 178, s. 1; 1949, c. 145, s. 2; C. S. 4251.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment substituted "one hundred" for "fifty" in the catchline of this section and also in the first sentence. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 448.

Evidence.—In a prosecution for larceny and receiving of paper, evidence of size, weight, quantity and value of the paper, from experienced witnesses, who based their opinions on personal observation, is admissible to show a value of more than $50 (now $100) to establish a felony under this section. State v. Weinstein, 224 N. C. 645, 31 S. E. (2d) 920.

Cited in State v. Jones, 227 N. C. 47, 40 S. E. (2d) 458.

§ 14-73. Jurisdiction of the superior courts in cases of larceny and receiving stolen goods.—The superior courts shall have exclusive jurisdiction of the trial of all cases of the larceny of property, or the receiving of stolen goods knowing them to be stolen, of the value of more than one hundred dollars. (1913, c. 118, s. 2; 1941, c. 178, s. 2; 1949, c. 145, s. 3; C. S. 4252.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment substituted "one hundred" for "fifty" near the end of the section. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 448.

For subsequent law affecting this section, see § 14-73.1.

§ 14-73.1. Jurisdiction generally in cases of larceny and receiving stolen goods; petty misdemeanors.—The offenses of larceny and the receiving of stolen goods knowing the same to have been stolen, which are made misdemeanors by article 16, subchapter V, chapter 14 of the General Statutes, as amended, are hereby declared to be petty misdemeanors, and jurisdiction to hear, try and finally dispose of such offenses committed within their respective territorial jurisdictions, is hereby vested in all courts established by a special act of the legislature or pursuant to the provisions of chapter 7 of the General Statutes which now possess jurisdiction of misdemeanors which are punishable in the discretion of the court. (1949, c. 145, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—For brief comment on section, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 448.

§ 14-75. Larceny of chose in action.—If any person shall feloniously steal, take and carry away, or take by robbery, any bank-note, check or other order for the payment of money issued by or drawn on any bank or other society or corporation within this state or within any of the United States, or any treasury warrant, debenture, certificate of stock or other public security, or certificate of stock in any corporation, or any order, bill of exchange, bond, promissory note or other obligation, either for the payment of money or for the delivery of specific articles, being the property of any other person, or of any corporation (notwithstanding any of the said particulars may be termed in law a chose in action), such felonious stealing, taking and carrying away, or taking by robbery, shall be a crime of the same nature and degree and in the same manner as it would have been if the offender had feloniously stolen, or taken by robbery, money, goods or property of the same value, and the offender for every such offense shall suffer the same punishment and be subject to the same pains, penalties and disabilities as he should or might have suffered if he had feloniously stolen or taken by robbery money, goods or other property of such value. (Rev., s. 3498; Code, s. 1064; R. C., c. 34, s. 20; 1811, c. 814, s. 1; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 4254.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted the word "crime" for the word "felony" in line seventeen and the words "the same value" for the words "any value" in line twenty-one. It also inserted the word "such" before the word "value" in the last line.

Art. 17. Robbery.

The primary purpose and intent of the legislature in enacting this section, was to provide for more severe punishment for the commission of robbery when such offense is committed or attempted with the use or threatened use of firearms or other dangerous weapons. It does not add to or subtract from the common law offense of robbery except to provide that when firearms or other dangerous weapons are used in the commission or attempted commission of the offense sentence shall be imposed as therein directed. State v. Jones, 227 N. C. 402, 405, 42 S. E. (2d) 465.

The main element of the offense is force or intimidation occasioned by the use or threatened use of firearms. State v. Mull, 224 N. C. 574, 31 S. E. (2d) 764.

It is not necessary to describe accurately or prove the particular identity or value of the property, further than to show it was the property of the person assaulted or in his care, and had a value. State v. Mull, 224 N. C. 574, 31 S. E. (2d) 764.

An indictment for robbery with firearms will support a conviction of the lesser offenses of common law robbery, assault, larceny from the person, or simple larceny, if there is evidence of guilt of such lesser offenses. State v. Bell, 228 N. C. 659, 46 S. E. (2d) 834. See §§ 15-169, 15-170, and notes.

Evidence.—Upon a conviction of robbery with firearms, the verdict conforming to the charge and evidence, there is no error where evidence, of a demand on the victim for property not mentioned in the indictment, was admitted without objection and referred to in the court's charge. State v. Mull, 224 N. C. 574, 31 S. E. (2d) 764.

Art. 18. Embezzlement.

The offense of embezzlement is exclusively statutory, and this section does not embrace a vendor in an executory contract of purchase and sale. State v. Blair, 227 N. C. 70, 40 S. E. (2d) 460.

Fraudulent intent which constitutes a necessary element of embezzlement, within the meaning of this section, is the intent of the agent to embezzle or otherwise willfully and corruptly use or misapply the property of the principal or employer for purposes other than those for which the property is held. State v. Gentry, 228 N. C. 643, 46 S. E. (2d) 863.

Evidence Sufficient to Go to Jury.—The evidence tended to show that prosecuting witness requested defendant to refinance a chattel mortgage on the witness' automobile, that defendant agreed to do so for a fee, that defendant obtained cash from a finance company on a second chattel mortgage and notes executed by the witness or purported to have been executed by him, and advised the witness that he had sent the money to pay off the prior mortgage, that the prior mortgage was not paid, and that defendant refused to reimburse the witness. It was held that the evidence was sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the charge of embezzlement by defendant of funds received by him as agent of the prosecuting witness. State v. Gentry, 228 N. C. 643, 46 S. E. (2d) 863.

§ 14-96.1. Report to commissioner.—Whenever any insurance company, its manager, general agent or other representative knows or has reasonable cause to believe that any agent, broker or other representative of such company is guilty under the preceding section, it shall be the duty of such company, its manager, general agent or other representative, within thirty days after acquiring such knowledge to file with the commissioner a complete statement of all the relevant facts and circumstances. All such reports shall be privileged communications, and when filed in good faith shall in nowise subject the company or individuals making the same to any liability whatsoever. The commissioner may suspend the license to do business in this state of any insurance company, its general manager, agent or other representative who willfully fails to comply with this section. (1945, c. 382.)

Art. 19. False Pretenses and Cheats.

Elements of the Crime.—

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See State v. Davenport, 227 N. C. 475, 492, 42 S. E. (2d) 686.

The Indictment.—

Indictment held sufficient in State v. Davenport, 227 N. C. 475, 42 S. E. (2d) 686.

Evidence held insufficient to sustain conviction in prosecution under this section. State v. Yancey, 228 N. C. 313, 45 S. E. (2d) 348.

§ 14-101. Obtaining signatures by false pretenses.—If any person, with intent to defraud or cheat another, shall designedly, by color of any false token or writing, or by any other false pretense, obtain the signature of any person to any written instrument, the false making of which would be punishable as forgery, he shall be punishable by fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the state's prison for a term of not less than one year nor more than five years, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3433; Code, s. 1026; 1871-2, c. 92; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 4278.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1945 amendment this section also applied to obtaining property by false pretenses.

Warrant Must Allege Intent to Cheat.—A warrant charging defendant with obtaining a money advance under promise to do certain work, and with failure to perform the work, without alleging that the advance was obtained with intent to cheat or defraud, is fatally defective. State v. Phillips, 228 N. C. 446, 45 S. E. (2d) 535.

The word "credit" as used herein shall be construed to mean an arrangement or understanding with the bank or depository for the payment of any such check or draft. The part of this section in brackets shall only apply to Pitt county, Robeson county, Iredell county, Martin county, Lee county, Rutherford county, Bladen county, Cumberland county, Mecklenburg county, Catawba county, Sampson county, Alleghany county, Lenoir county, Randolph county, Gaston county, Hoke county, Madison county, Burke county, Transylvania county, Rockingham county, Halifax county, Hertford county, Richmond county, Chatham county, Pamlico county, Wake county, Haywood county, Granville county, Davidson county, Anson county, Carteret county, Davie county, Forsyth county, Greene county, Jackson county, Henderson county, Stokes county, Onslow county, Macon county, Currituck county, Chowan county, Vance county, Edgecombe county, Northampton county, Stanly county, Cabarrus county, Mitchell county, Yancey county, Avery county, Alamance county, Franklin county, Yadkin county, Caldwell county, Gates county, Ashe county, Washington county, Nash county, Johnston county, Duplin county, Wayne county, Guilford county, Rowan county, Bertie county, Moore county, Harnett county, Columbus county, Watauga county, Lincoln county, Caswell county, Orange county, Buncombe county, Wilkes county, Hyde county, Swain county, Clay county, Graham county, Cherokee county, Scotland county, Union county, Surry county, Jones county and Beaufort county. (1925, c. 14; 1927, c. 62; 1929, c. 273, ss. 1, 2; 1931, cc. 63, 138; 1933, cc. 43, 64, 93, 170, 265, 362, 458; 1939, c. 346; 1949, cc. 183, 332.)

Editor's Note.—The first 1949 amendment added Jones county and the second 1949 amendment added Beaufort county to the list of counties set out in the third paragraph. As only this paragraph was affected by the amendments the rest of the section is not set out.

It is not the attempted payment of a debt that is condemned by the statute, but the giving of a worthless check and its consequent disturbance of business integrity. State v. White, 230 N. C. 513, 53 S. E. (2d) 436.

Punishment.—A sentence to 18 months' labor on the roads entered upon defendant's plea of guilty to a charge of drawing and uttering a worthless check was held not to be "cruel and unusual" in a constitutional sense. State v. White, 230 N. C. 513, 53 S. E. (2d) 436.

Art. 20. Frauds.

§ 14-117.1. Use of words "army" or "navy" in name of mercantile establishment.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation, to use the words "army" or "navy" or either, or both, in the name or as a part of the name of any mercantile establishment in this state which is not in fact operated by the United States government or a duly authorized agency thereof.

Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) nor more than five hundred dollars ($500.00) for the first offense, and not less than fifty dollars ($50.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) for each subsequent such offense. (1945, c. 879.)

Local Modification.—Beaufort: 1949, c. 857.

Circumstantial evidence held to sustain conviction of blackmail. State v. Strickland, 229 N. C. 201, 49 S. E. (2d) 469.

Art. 22. Trespasses to Land and Fixtures.

Applied in State v. Marsh, 225 N. C. 648, 36 S. E. (2d) 244.

As to larceny of wood from land, see § 14-80.

Editor's Note.—

Cited in State v. Swanson, 223 N. C. 442, 27 S. E. (2d) 122.

Art. 26. Offenses against Public Morality and Decency.

Cited in State v. Reid, 230 N. C. 561, 53 S. E. (2d) 849.

Evidence.—
In a prosecution under this section allegedly committed upon defendant's daughter, testimony of an older daughter, that within the past three years defendant several times had made to her improper advances of a similar nature, was competent solely for the purpose of showing intent or guilty knowledge. State v. Edwards, 224 N. C. 527, 31 S. E. (2d) 516.

In accord with original. See State v. Smith, 223 N. C. 199, 25 S. E. (2d) 619.

Requirement as to Innocence and Virtue.—Where there was evidence of the good reputation of prosecutrix before and at the time of the alleged illicit intercourse, it was held that this meets the requirement of this section on the element of innocence and virtue. State v. Smith, 223 N. C. 199, 201, 25 S. E. (2d) 619.

Testimony of Woman Must Be Corroborated as to Each Element.—
To convict defendant of seduction as defined in this statute the testimony of prosecutrix alone is not sufficient. There must be independent supporting evidence of each essential element of the crime. State v. Smith, 223 N. C. 199, 201, 25 S. E. (2d) 619.

Supporting Evidence Need Not Be Direct.—
Testimony supporting prosecutrix, on an indictment for seduction under this section, need not be in the form of direct evidence, for it is seldom possible to produce such proof in respect to some of the elements of the offense. Facts and circumstances tending to support her statements are sufficient. State v. Smith, 223 N. C. 199, 25 S. E. (2d) 619.

Cited in State v. Hill, 223 N. C. 711, 28 S. E. (2d) 100.

Constitutionality.—This section, making bigamous cohabitation in this State a felony is valid and offends neither the Federal nor State Constitutions. State v. Williams, 224 N. C. 183, 29 S. E. (2d) 744, aff'd in Williams v. State, 325 U. S. 226, 65 S. Ct. 1092, 89 L. Ed. 1577, 157 A. L. R. 1366.

Second Marriage Out of State.—
In a prosecution for bigamous cohabitation based upon a second marriage in another state, the state must prove beyond a reasonable doubt, each of the essential elements of the offense. State v. Setzer, 223 N. C. 216, 37 S. E. (2d) 513.

Aiding and Abetting by Marrying Outside of State.—In a prosecution upon an indictment charging defendant with aiding and abetting bigamy by entering into a marriage with a person then married and not divorced, evidence tending to show that the bigamous marriage was contracted in another state ousts the jurisdiction of the courts and requires dismissal. State v. Jones, 227 N. C. 94, 40 S. E. (2d) 700.

Foreign Divorces.—
In first paragraph in original the citation should be "175 N. C. 754."

While decrees of divorce granted citizens of this State by the courts of another state, standing alone, are taken as prima facie valid, they are not conclusive; and, when challenged in a prosecution under this section, for bigamous cohabitation, the burden is on defendants to show to the satisfaction of the jury that they had acquired bona fide domiciles in the State granting their divorces and that such divorces are valid. State v. Williams, 224 N. C. 183, 29 S. E. (2d) 744, aff'd in Williams v. State, 325 U. S. 226, 65 S. Ct. 1092, 89 L. Ed. 1577, 157 A. L. R. 1366.

A man and a woman, domiciled in North Carolina, left their spouses in North Carolina, obtained decrees of divorce in Nevada, married and returned to North Carolina to live. Prosecuted in North Carolina for bigamous cohabitation, they pleaded the Nevada divorce decrees in defense but were convicted. The court held that, upon the record, the judgments of conviction were not invalid as denying the Nevada divorce decrees the full faith and credit required by Art. IV, § 1 of the Constitution. Williams v. State, 325 U. S. 226, 65 S. Ct. 1092, 89 L. Ed. 1577, 157 A. L. R. 1366, aff. State v. Williams, 224 N. C. 183, 29 S. E. (2d) 744.

Prima Facie Case Made Out.—Upon issues of traverse on indictment for bigamous cohabitation, the prosecution offering evidence tending to show that defendants had been previously married, that their respective spouses were still living, that defendants had undertaken to contract a marriage in another state and thereafter had cohabited with each other in this State, a prima facie case is made out and a demurrer to the evidence was properly overruled. State v. Williams, 224 N. C. 183, 29 S. E. (2d) 744, aff'd in Williams v. State, 325 U. S. 226, 65 S. Ct. 1092, 89 L. Ed. 1577, 157 A. L. R. 1366.

Plea of Former Jeopardy Properly Overruled.—Where, in a criminal prosecution for bigamous cohabitation, there is a conviction and judgment chiefly on the grounds of insufficient service, which on appeal is affirmed by the Supreme Court and reversed by the Supreme Court of the United States and remanded, upon the second trial on the issue of domicile only, the plea of former jeopardy and motion to dismiss were properly overruled. State v. Williams, 224 N. C. 183, 29 S. E. (2d) 744, aff'd in Williams v. State, 325 U. S. 226, 65 S. Ct. 1092, 89 L. Ed. 1577, 157 A. L. R. 1366.

Venue.—
The last line in this paragraph in original should be "87 L. Ed. 279."

Where the bigamous cohabitation took place in one county and the parties were apprehended in another county, the prosecution may be instituted in the county of their apprehension. State v. Williams, 224 N. C. 183, 29 S. E. (2d) 744, aff'd in Williams v. State, 325 U. S. 226, 65 S. Ct. 1092, 89 L. Ed. 1577, 157 A. L. R. 1366.

For history of section, see State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 386, 50 S. E. (2d) 37.

Offense Is Statutory. — The offense of fornication and adultery is statutory. State v. Ivey, 230 N. C. 172, 52 S. E. (2d) 346.

"Lewdly and lasciviously cohabit" implies habitual intercourse in the manner of husband and wife, and together with the fact of not being married to each other, constitutes the offense, and in plain words draws the distinction between single or nonhabitual intercourse and the offense the statute means to denounce. State v. Davenport, 225 N. C. 13, 17, 33 S. E. (2d) 136; State v. Ivey, 230 N. C. 172, 52 S. E. (2d) 346.

Both defendants need not be convicted of mutual intent to violate the law before conviction of one of them can be sustained. State v. Davenport, 225 N. C. 13, 33 S. E. (2d) 136.

The warrant or indictment must set forth the essential elements of the offense of fornication and adultery. State v. Ivey, 230 N. C. 172, 52 S. E. (2d) 346.

A warrant charging that defendant did lewdly and lasciviously associate with a woman to whom he was not married and "did engage in an act of intercourse" with her, fails to charge the statutory offense of fornication and adultery, and judgment against defendant was arrested by the supreme court ex mero motu. Id.

Evidence.—
On a prosecution upon indictment charging fornication and adultery, where the state's evidence tended to show that defendants were constantly together, day and night, on the streets and in several different homes maintained by the male defendant, and that they were arrested late at night in one of these homes, no other person being in the house at the time, both defendants coming out of the same bedroom, there was sufficient evidence to support a conviction. State v. Davenport, 225 N. C. 13, 33 S. E. (2d) 136.

Where defendant was charged with fornication and adultery with one of the orphanage girls under his supervision, testimony of another orphanage girl that defendant made improper advances to her is competent for the purpose of showing attitude, animus and purpose of defendant, and as corroborative of the state's case. State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 386, 50 S. E. (2d) 37.

Circumstantial Evidence.—
The guilt of defendants or of a defendant, in a prosecution for fornication and adultery, must be established in almost every case by circumstantial evidence. It is never essential to conviction that a single act of intercourse be shown by direct testimony. State v. Davenport, 225 N. C. 13, 33 S. E. (2d) 136.

The proviso in this section relates to extra-judicial declarations, and does not prevent a woman jointly charged with the offense from testifying as a witness at the trial of her paramour to facts, otherwise competent, which are within her personal knowledge, where at the time she testifies her plea of nolo contendere has been accepted by the state, and she is no longer on trial. The prohibition of the proviso is directed not to the person testifying but against the use in evidence of such person's previous admissions or confessions. State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 386, 50 S. E. (2d) 37, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 365.

Corroboration of Paramour.—Where, in a prosecution for fornication and adultery, the person jointly charged has testified as to the facts forming the basis of the prosecution, testimony that she had made substantially the same statements to another upon the investigation is competent for the purpose of corroboration. State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 386, 50 S. E. (2d) 37.

Testimony of an admission made by defendant that "he was guilty" of another charge based upon sexual relations with the other party, is competent as an admission of acts which with other similar acts tend to prove the offense of fornication and adultery. State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 386, 50 S. E. (2d) 37.

Proper Instruction.—In a prosecution for fornication and adultery, an instruction that if the jury found beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant and his alleged paramour, not being married to each other, engaged in sexual intercourse with each other, with such frequency during the period to which the testimony related, that these illicit relations were habitual, they should return a verdict of guilty, is without error. State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 386, 50 S. E. (2d) 37.

§ 14-197. Using profane or indecent language on public highways, counties exempt.—If any person shall, on any public road or highway and in the hearing of two or more persons, in a loud and boisterous manner, use indecent or profane language, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. The following counties shall be exempt from the provisions of this section: Brunswick, Camden, Cleveland, Craven, Dare, Macon, Martin, Pasquotank, Pitt, Stanly, Swain, Tyrell and Washington. (1913, c. 40; Pub. Loc. Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 65; 1933, c. 309; 1937, c. 9; 1939, c. 73; 1945, c. 398; 1947, cc. 144, 959; 1949, c. 845; C. S. 4352.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment struck out Transylvania from the list of exempted counties, the 1947 amendments struck out Beaufort and Orange and the 1949 amendment struck out Watauga.

§ 14-199. Obstructing way to places of public worship.—If any person shall maliciously stop up or obstruct the way leading to any place of public worship, or to any spring or well commonly used by the congregation, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3776; Code, s. 3669; R. C., c. 97, s. 5; 1785, c. 241; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 4354.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment struck out the words "and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days" formerly appearing at the end of this section.

Art. 27. Prostitution.

Cited in State v. Harrill, 224 N. C. 477, 31 S. E. (2d) 353.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—In a criminal prosecution for permitting property to be used for prostitution where the State's evidence tended to show that defendant owned the property so used, which was across the road from his residence, that defendant's wife was one of the operators of the place of ill fame and that its general reputation was bad, motion for judgment as of nonsuit was held properly denied. State v. Herndon, 223 N. C. 208, 25 S. E. (2d) 611.

Stated in State v. Harrill, 224 N. C. 477, 31 S. E. (2d) 353.

Art. 28. Perjury.

Definition of Perjury.—Perjury, as defined by common law and enlarged by this section, is a false statement under oath, knowingly, willfully and designedly made, in a proceeding in a court of competent jurisdiction, or concerning a matter wherein the affiant is required by law to be sworn, as to some matter material to the issue or point in question. State v. Smith, 230 N. C. 198, 52 S. E. (2d) 348.

Essential Elements.—

This section does not specifically define perjury or state all the elements essential to constitute the crime. It enlarges the scope of the criminality of a false oath, and prescribes punishment. The definition is derived from the common law. State v. Smith, 230 N. C. 198, 52 S. E. (2d) 348.

False Statement Must Be Material to Issue.—A false statement under oath must be so connected with the fact directly in issue as to have a legitimate tendency to prove or disprove such fact, in order to be material to the issue and constitute a basis for a prosecution for perjury. State v. Smith, 230 N. C. 198, 52 S. E. (2d) 348.

In a prosecution for willful failure of defendant to support his illegitimate child, defendant swore he had not had sexual intercourse with prosecutrix and was not the father of her child, and testified as to the number of times he had visited prosecutrix. In a subsequent prosecution for perjury it was made to appear that defendant had visited prosecutrix or had been seen with her more times than he had admitted under oath, but there was no evidence that he was the father of the child. It was held that the proof of false testimony did not relate to matters determinative of the issue in the first prosecution, and the evidence was insufficient to withstand nonsuit in the prosecution for perjury. Id.

The suborner of perjury and the perjurer stand on an equal footing, especially in respect of turpitude and punishment. State v. Cannon, 227 N. C. 338, 42 S. E. (2d) 344.

Art. 31. Misconduct in Public Office.

§ 14-250. Publicly owned vehicle to be marked.—It shall be the duty of the executive head of every department of the State Government, and of any county, or of any institution or agency of the State, to have painted on every motor vehicle owned by the State, or by any county, or by any institution or agency of the State, a statement with letters of not less than three inches in height, that such car belongs to the State or to some county, or institution or agency of the State, and that such car is "for official use only." Provided, however, that no automobile used by any officer or official in any county in the State for the purpose of transporting, apprehending or arresting persons charged with violations of the laws of the State of North Carolina, shall be required to be lettered. Provided, further, that in lieu of the above method of marking vehicles owned by any agency or department of the State government, it shall be deemed a compliance with the law if such vehicles have painted or affixed on the side thereof a circle not less than eight inches in diameter showing a replica of the Seal of the State and the designation of the department or agency to which the vehicle belongs. (1925, c. 239, s. 4; 1929, c. 303, s. 1; 1945, c. 866.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment added the last proviso.

Art. 33. Prison Breach and Prisoners.

§ 14-257. Permitting escape of or maltreating hired convicts.—If any person charged in any way with the control or management of convicts, hired for service outside of the state's prison, shall negligently permit them to escape, or shall maltreat them, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; but this provision shall not be held to relieve any person from any other criminal liability. (Rev., s. 3659; Code, s. 3450; 1881, c. 127, s. 2; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 4405.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment inserted the word "other" in the last line.

Art. 35. Offenses against the Public Peace.

§ 14-269. Carrying concealed weapons.—If anyone, except when on his own premises, shall willfully and intentionally carry concealed about his person any bowie knife, dirk, dagger, slung shot, loaded cane, brass, iron or metallic knuckles, razor, pistol, gun or other deadly weapon of like kind, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court. Upon conviction or submission, the deadly weapon with reference to which the defendant shall have been convicted shall be ordered disposed of by the presiding judge at the trial in one of the following ways:

(a) If the deadly weapon with reference to which the defendant shall have been convicted is a pistol or gun, and the rightful owner of the same is a person other than the defendant, such rightful owner may, at the time of defendant's conviction or submission, file a petition with the judge presiding at the trial for the recovery of such weapon and the same shall be returned to said owner upon a finding by the court (1) that he is now entitled to possession of same, and (2) that he was unlawfully deprived of possession without his consent or acquiescence.

(b) If the deadly weapon with reference to which the defendant shall have been convicted is a bowie knife, dirk, dagger, slung shot, loaded cane, brass, iron or metallic knuckles, razor or weapon of like kind, the same shall be destroyed. However, pistols or guns may be confiscated and ordered turned over to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the trial is held by the judge presiding at the trial. Under the direction of said clerk of the superior court the weapon shall be sold after one advertisement in a newspaper having a general circulation in the county, at public auction, which shall be held at least once a year. The proceeds of the sale of the weapon or weapons shall go to the general fund of the county in which the weapon or weapons were confiscated and sold. The clerk of the superior court shall keep a record and inventory of all weapons received by him and sold under his direction; provided, however, that in any case the presiding judge may, if the facts so justify, order any pistol or gun returned to the defendant.

This section shall not apply to the following persons: Officers and enlisted personnel of the armed forces of the United States when in discharge of their official duties as such and acting under orders requiring them to carry arms or weapons, civil officers of the United States while in the discharge of their official duties, officers and soldiers of the militia and the state guard when called into actual service, officers of the state, or of any county, city, or town, charged with the execution of the laws of the state, when acting in the discharge of their official duties. (Rev., s. 3708; Code, s. 1005; 1917, c. 76; 1919, c. 197, s. 8; 1923, c. 57; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 30; 1929, cc. 51, 224; 1947, c. 459; 1949, c. 1217; C. S. 4410.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1947 amendment the confiscation and destruction of a weapon carried by a person convicted under this section was mandatory in all cases, even though the weapon may have been stolen by the convicted person from one who had a right to possess it. See 25 N. C. Law Rev. 402.

The 1949 amendment rewrote this section. See 27 N. C. Law Rev. 450.

Local Modification.—Carteret: 1947, c. 174.

§ 14-275.1. Disorderly conduct at bus or railroad station or airport.—Any person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than fifty dollars ($50.00) or imprisonment for not more than thirty days, in the discretion of the court, if such person while at, or upon the premises of, (1) any bus station, depot or terminal, or (2) any railroad passenger station, depot or terminal, or (3) any airport or air terminal used by any common carrier, or (4) any airport or air terminal owned or leased, in whole or in part, by any county, municipality or other political subdivision of the state, or privately owned airport shall (a) engage in disorderly conduct, or (b) use vulgar, obscene or profane language, or (c) on any one occasion, without having necessary business there, loiter and loaf upon the premises after being requested to leave by any peace officer or by any person lawfully in charge of such premises. (1947, c. 310.)

Editor's Note.—The title of the act inserting this section refers only to airports and airport terminals.

Art. 37. Lotteries and Gaming.

In General.—

This section refers to persons who promote, make or draw, publicly or privately, a lottery, by whatever name, while C. S., 14-291.1, deals only with those persons who shall "sell, barter or cause to be sold or bartered, any ticket, token, certificate or order," etc. Thus it is apparent that the two statutes not only act upon different persons and serve purposes which are not the same but also they deal with different conditions. One inveighs against trafficking in lottery tickets and the other is designed to affect those persons engaged in promoting a particular kind of lottery. State v. Robinson, 224 N. C. 412, 414, 30 S. E. (2d) 320.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—Evidence held insufficient to show violation of this section. State v. Heglar, 225 N. C. 220, 34 S. E. (2d) 76.

Applied in State v. King, 224 N. C. 329, 30 S. E. (2d) 230.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—Evidence held insufficient to show violation of this section. State v. Heglar, 225 N. C. 220, 34 S. E. (2d) 76.

See annotations under § 14-290.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—Evidence held insufficient to show violation of this section. State v. Heglar, 225 N. C. 220, 34 S. E. (2d) 76.

Punishment.—A sentence and fine imposed upon conviction of violating this section are in personam; an order of confiscation entered under § 14-299 is in rem and is no part of the personal judgment against the accused. State v. Richardson, 228 N. C. 426, 45 S. E. (2d) 536. See note to § 14-299.

A confiscation order entered under this section is no part of the personal judgment imposed under § 14-291.1. Hence, a defendant may comply with the personal judgment entered against him upon conviction of violating § 14-291.1, and at the same time prosecute an appeal from an order of confiscation entered under this section, whether embraced in the same judgment or not; but the failure to appeal the personal judgment, while not estopping him for further contesting the order of confiscation, forever precludes him from contesting the fact of guilt. State v. Richardson, 228 N. C. 426, 45 S. E. (2d) 536.

Applied in State v. Marsh, 225 N. C. 648, 36 S. E. (2d) 244.

Testimony.—In a prosecution under this section it is competent for witnesses who have examined and studied the machines in question to testify as to their physical description and operation. State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 552, 50 S. E. (2d) 668.

Evidence.—Where it was admitted that the machines in question were owned by one defendant and rented by him to the other defendants, testimony of an officer, who had examined and studied the machines, that from his observation they could be converted, or reconverted, to coin slot operated machines by simple mechanical changes was evidence sufficient to overrule defendants' demurrer, and the fact that the witness failed to complete a demonstration of the conversion of such a machine because of lack of soldering tools, did not amount to a failure of the state's evidence upon the critical issue. State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 552, 50 S. E. (2d) 668.

Art. 39. Protection of Minors.

§ 14-319. Marrying females under sixteen years old.—If any person shall marry a female under the age of sixteen years, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3368; Code, s. 1083; R. C., c. 34, s. 46; 1820, c. 1041, ss. 1, 2; 1947, c. 383, s. 1; C. S. 4444.)

The 1947 amendment raised the minimum marriage age of females from fourteen to sixteen.

§ 14-320. Separating child under six months old from mother.—It shall be unlawful for any person to separate or aid in separating any child under six months old from its mother for the purpose of placing such child in a foster home or institution, or with the intent to remove it from the state for such purpose, without the written consent of either the county superintendent of public welfare of the county in which the mother resides, or of the county in which the child was born, or of a private child-placing agency duly licensed by the state board of public welfare; but the written consent of any of the officials named in this section shall not be necessary for a child when the mother places the child with relatives or in a boarding home or institution inspected and licensed by the state board of public welfare. Such consent when required shall be filed in the records of the official or agency giving consent. Any person or agency violating the provisions of this section shall, upon conviction, be fined not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500.00) or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1917, c. 59; 1919, c. 240; 1939, c. 56; 1945, c. 669; 1949, c. 491; C. S. 4445.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section.

Art. 40. Protection of the Family.

§ 14-322. Abandonment by husband or parent.—If any husband shall willfully abandon his wife without providing her with adequate support, or if any father or mother shall willfully abandon his or her child or children, whether natural or adopted, without providing adequate support for such child or children, he or she shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, that the abandonment of children by the father or mother shall constitute a continuing offense and shall not be barred by any statute of limitations until the youngest living child shall arrive at the age of eighteen years. (Rev., s. 3355; Code, s. 970; 1868-9, c. 209, s. 1; 1873-4, c. 176, s. 10; 1879, c. 92; 1925, c. 290; 1949, c. 810; C. S. 4447.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section and made it applicable to abandonment by mother. It also made the offense of abandoning a child apply to both natural and adopted children. See 27 N. C. Law Rev. 451.

The Purpose of This Section.—In accord with original. See State v. Carson, 228 N. C. 151, 44 S. E. (2d) 721.

Section Must Be Strictly Construed.—State v. Carson, 228 N. C. 151, 153, 44 S. E. (2d) 721.

It relates only to legitimate children. An illegitimate child is not protected thereby. Allen v. Hunnicutt, 230 N. C. 49, 52 S. E. (2d) 18, citing State v. Gardner, 219 N. C. 331, 13 S. E. (2d) 529.

Husband's duty to provide support is not a debt in the legal sense of the word, but an obligation imposed by law, and penal sanctions are provided by this section for its wilful neglect or abandonment. Ritchie v. White, 225 N. C. 450, 35 S. E. (2d) 414.

Abandonment Must Be Willful.—In accord with original. See State v. Carson, 228 N. C. 151, 153, 44 S. E. (2d) 721.

Continuing Offense.—Due to continuing nature of the crime under this section, a person, arrested in Georgia and sought to be extradited to North Carolina, who temporarily came into the state after the commission of the crime, although for an innocent purpose, was a fugitive from justice when he again departed from the state. Daugherty v. Hornsby, 151 F. (2d) 799, 800.

Both Abandonment and Non-Support Must Be Proved.—The husband's act becomes criminal when and only when he, having willfully or wrongfully separated himself from his wife, intentionally and without just cause or excuse, ceases to provide adequate support for her according to his means and station in life. State v. Carson, 228 N. C. 151, 152, 44 S. E. (2d) 721, citing State v. Hooker, 186 N. C. 761, 120 S. E. 449.

Presence in State When Crime Committed.—In habeas corpus proceeding, in which petitioner, charged with a violation of this section was held under warrant of governor of Georgia, evidence did not carry petitioner's burden of showing that he was not in North Carolina when the crime was committed. Daugherty v. Hornsby, 151 F. (2d) 799, 800.

An instruction which omits the element of willful abandonment as a necessary predicate for a verdict of guilty is reversible error. State v. Gilbert, 230 N. C. 64, 51 S. E. (2d) 887.

Husband's duty to provide support is not a debt in the legal sense of the word, but an obligation imposed by law, and penal sanctions are provided by this section for its wilful neglect or abandonment. Ritchie v. White, 225 N. C. 450, 35 S. E. (2d) 414.

Art. 42. Public Drunkenness.

§ 14-335. Local: Public drunkenness.—

1. By a fine of not more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, in the counties of Alamance, Ashe, Brunswick, Burke, Cherokee, Clay, Cleveland, Dare, Davidson, Davie, Duplin, Franklin, Gaston, Greene, Harnett, Haywood, Henderson, Hyde, Johnson, Lincoln, Madison, McDowell, Mitchell, Moore, Northampton, Orange, Pitt, Richmond, Rutherford, Scotland, Stanly, Union, Vance, Warren, Washington, Wayne, Wilkes and Yadkin, and at Pungo in Beaufort county. (1907, cc. 305, 785, 900, 976; 1908, c. 113; 1909, c. 815; Pub. Loc. 1915, c. 790; Pub. Loc. 1917, cc. 447, 475; Pub. Loc. 1919, cc. 148, 200; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 5; 1929, c. 135; 1931, c. 219; 1935, c. 49, s. 1; 1935, c. 208; 1937, cc. 46, 96, 286, 329, 443; 1941, cc. 334, 336; 1945, cc. 215, 254; 1947, c. 12, s. 1; c. 109; 1949, cc. 215, 217, 1193; C. S. 4458.)

5. By fine of not more than fifty dollars ($50.00) or imprisonment for not more than thirty days, in Wake county. (1907, c. 908; 1949, c. 246; C. S. 4458.)

8. By a fine of fifteen dollars or imprisonment for ten days for the first offense; by a fine of twenty-five dollars or imprisonment for twenty days for the second offense; by a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for thirty days for the third and subsequent offenses, in the King high school district, Stokes county and in Graham county. (1933, c. 287; 1949, c. 215.)

10. In Caldwell, Catawba, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Nash, Pender, and Wilson counties, by a fine, for the first offense of not more than fifty dollars, or imprisonment for not more than thirty days; for the second offense within a period of twelve months by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, or imprisonment for not more than sixty days; and for the third offense within any twelve months' period, such third offense is to be declared a misdemeanor, punishable within the discretion of the court. (1935, cc. 284, 350; 1943, c. 268, ss. 1-3; 1945, cc. 215, 254; 1949, c. 1154.)

12. In Edgecombe and Lenoir counties, by a fine, for the first offense, of not more than fifty dollars ($50.00), or imprisonment for not more than thirty days; for the second offense within a period of twelve months, by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars ($100.00), or imprisonment for not more than sixty days; and for the third offense within any twelve months' period such offense is declared a misdemeanor, punishable as a misdemeanor within the discretion of the court. (1937, c. 95; 1949, c. 217.)

15. It shall be unlawful for any person to be drunk and disorderly in any public place or on any public road or street in Avery county, and any person convicted of a violation hereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than ten dollars ($10.00) nor more than fifty dollars ($50.00) for each offense, or be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, at the discretion of the court. (1947, c. 12, s. 2; c. 445; 1949, c. 891.)

Editor's Note.—The first 1945 amendment transferred Catawba County from subsection 1 to subsection 10. The second 1945 amendment transferred Harnett County from subsection 10 to subsection 1. The 1947 amendments struck out "Avery" from the list of counties in subsection 1, inserted "Lenoir" therein and added subsection 15.

The 1949 amendments inserted "Davidson" in the list of counties in subsection 1; transferred Graham County from subsection 1 to subsection 8; transferred Lenoir County from subsection 1 to subsection 12; increased the maximum punishment in Wake County; made "Caldwell" subject to subsection 10; and changed the law relating to Avery County. Chapter 1193 of Session Laws 1949 superseded chapter 49, which provided for the insertion of Davidson County in subsection 11.

Only the subsections affected by the amendments are set out.

Public-Local Laws 1929, c. 1, and Public-Local Laws 1931, c. 32, changed the punishment for conviction of public drunkenness in Macon County, as provided in subsection 13 of this section, to a fine of not less than ten dollars, nor more than fifty dollars, or imprisonment for 30 days.

Art. 43. Vagrants and Tramps.

Insufficient Warrant.—A warrant charging defendant with living in the county without visible means of support and without working is insufficient to charge defendant with vagrancy. State v. Harris, 229 N. C. 413, 50 S. E. (2d) 1.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—Evidence in a prosecution under this section held insufficient to support a conviction. State v. Oldham, 224 N. C. 415, 30 S. E. (2d) 318.

Art. 46. Regulation of Landlord and Tenant.

§ 14-358. Local: Violation of certain contracts between landlord and tenant.—If any tenant or cropper shall procure advances from his landlord to enable him to make a crop on the land rented by him, and then willfully abandon the same without good cause and before paying for such advances with intent to defraud the landlord; or if any landlord shall contract with a tenant or cropper to furnish him advances to enable him to make a crop, and shall willfully fail or refuse, without good cause, to furnish such advances according to his agreement with intent to defraud the tenant, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Any person employing a tenant or cropper who has violated the provisions of this section, with knowledge of such violation, shall be liable to the landlord furnishing such advances for the amount thereof, and shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. This section shall apply to the following counties only: Alamance, Alexander, Beaufort, Bertie, Bladen, Cabarrus, Camden, Caswell, Chatham, Chowan, Cleveland, Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Currituck, Duplin, Edgecombe, Gaston, Gates, Greene, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Johnston, Jones, Lee, Lenoir, Lincoln, Martin, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Nash, Northampton, Onslow, Pamlico, Pender, Perquimans, Pitt, Randolph, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Rutherford, Sampson, Stokes, Surry, Tyrrell, Vance, Wake, Warren, Washington, Wayne and Wilson. (Rev., s. 3366; 1905, cc. 297, 383, 445, 820; 1907, c. 84, s. 1; 1907, c. 595, s. 1; 1907, cc. 8, 639, 719, 869; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 26; 1925, c. 285, s. 2; Pub. Loc. 1925, c. 211; Pub. Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment inserted the words "with intent to defraud the landlord" in line six, and the words "with intent to defraud the tenant" following the word "agreement" in line eleven. It also rearranged the names of the various counties in the section so as to appear in alphabetical order.

Yadkin County was added to the list of counties contained in this section by Public-Local Laws, 1915, c. 18.

§ 14-359. Local: Tenant neglecting crop; landlord failing to make advances; harboring or employing delinquent tenant.—If any tenant or cropper shall procure advances from his landlord to enable him to make a crop on the land rented by him, and then willfully refuse to cultivate such crops or negligently or willfully abandon the same without good cause and before paying for such advances with intent to defraud the landlord; or if any landlord who induces another to become tenant or cropper by agreeing to furnish him advances to enable him to make a crop, shall willfully fail or refuse without good cause to furnish such advances according to his agreement with intent to defraud the tenant, or if any person shall entice, persuade or procure any tenant, lessee or cropper, who has made a contract agreeing to cultivate the land of another, to abandon or to refuse or fail to cultivate such land with intent to defraud the landlord, or after notice shall harbor or detain on his own premises, or on the premises of another, any such tenant, lessee or cropper, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. Loc. 1927, c. 614; 1929, c. 5, s. 1; 1931, c. 44; 1931, c. 136, s. 2; 1939, c. 95; 1945, c. 635; 1949, c. 83; C. S. 4481.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment inserted provisions relating to intent to defraud, and rearranged the names of the various counties in the section so as to appear in alphabetical order. The 1949 amendment made this section applicable to Hoke County.

Art. 48. Animal Diseases.

Art. 52. Miscellaneous Police Regulations.

Circumstantial evidence of defendant's guilt of transmitting a threatening letter held sufficient to sustain conviction and overrule defendant's motion for judgment as of nonsuit. State v. Strickland, 229 N. C. 201, 49 S. E. (2d) 469.

§ 14-401.3. Inscription on gravestone or monument charging commission of crime.—It shall be illegal for any person to erect or cause to be erected any gravestone or monument bearing any inscription charging any person with the commission of a crime, and it shall be illegal for any person owning, controlling or operating any cemetery to permit such gravestone to be erected and maintained therein. If such gravestone has been erected in any graveyard, cemetery or burial plot, it shall be the duty of the person having charge thereof to remove and obliterate such inscription. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1949, c. 1075.)

§ 14-401.4. Identifying marks on machines and apparatus.—Whoever removes, alters, defaces, covers, or destroys the manufacturer's serial number, or any other manufacturer's number or distinguishing number or identification mark, upon any machine or other apparatus, for the purpose of concealing or destroying the identity of any such machine or other apparatus, or takes in his possession any such machine or apparatus from which the manufacturer's serial number, or any other manufacturer's number or distinguishing number or identification mark, has been removed, altered, defaced, covered, or destroyed for the purpose of concealing or destroying the identity of such machine or other apparatus, knowing at the time of taking possession, of such removal, alteration, defacement, covering, or destruction and with the intent to defraud shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon plea of guilty or conviction shall be punished in the discretion of the court: Provided, that this section shall not be construed to apply to electric storage batteries. (1949, c. 928.)

Art. 53. Sale of Weapons.

§ 14-402. Sale of certain weapons without permit forbidden.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation in this state to sell, give away, or dispose of, or to purchase or receive, at any place within the state from any other place within or without the state, unless a license or permit therefor shall have first been obtained by such purchaser or receiver from the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such purchase, sale, or transfer is intended to be made, any pistol, so-called pump-gun, bowie knife, dirk, dagger, slung-shot, blackjack or metallic knucks. (1947, c. 781.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment inserted "slung-shot" and "blackjack" in the list of weapons in the first paragraph. As the second paragraph was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Art. 54. Sale, etc., of Pyrotechnics.

§ 14-410. Manufacture, sale and use of pyrotechnics prohibited; public exhibitions permitted; common carriers not affected.—It shall be unlawful for any individual, firm, partnership or corporation to manufacture, purchase, sell, deal in, transport, possess, receive, advertise, use or cause to be discharged any pyrotechnics of any description whatsoever within the state of North Carolina: Provided, however, that it shall be permissible for pyrotechnics to be exhibited, used or discharged at public exhibitions, such as fairs, carnivals, shows of all descriptions and public celebrations: Provided, further, that the use of said pyrotechnics in connection with public exhibitions, such as fairs, carnivals, shows of all descriptions and public celebrations, shall be under supervision of experts who have previously secured written authority from the board of county commissioners of the county in which said pyrotechnics are to be exhibited, used or discharged: Provided, further, that it shall not be unlawful for a common carrier to receive, transport, and deliver pyrotechnics in the regular course of its business. (1947, c. 210, s. 1.)

§ 14-411. Sale deemed made at site of delivery.—In case of sale or purchase of pyrotechnics, where the delivery thereof was made by a common or other carrier, the sale shall be deemed to be made in the county wherein the delivery was made by such carrier to the consignee. (1947, c. 210, s. 2.)

§ 14-412. Possession prima facie evidence of violation. — Possession of pyrotechnics by any person, for any purpose other than those permitted under this article, shall be prima facie evidence that such pyrotechnics are kept for the purpose of being manufactured, sold, bartered, exchanged, given away, received, furnished, otherwise disposed of, or used in violation of the provisions of this article. (1947, c. 210, s. 3.)

§ 14-413. Permits for use at public exhibitions.—For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this article, the board of county commissioners of any county are hereby empowered and authorized to issue permits for use in connection with the conduct of public exhibitions, such as fairs, carnivals, shows of all descriptions and public exhibitions, but only after satisfactory evidence is produced to the effect that said pyrotechnics will be used for the aforementioned purposes and none other. (1947, c. 210, s. 4.)

§ 14-414. Pyrotechnics defined; exceptions.—For the proper construction of the provisions of this article, "pyrotechnics," as is herein used, shall be deemed to be and include any and all kinds of fireworks and explosives, which are used for exhibitions or amusement purposes: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the manufacture, purchase, sale, transportation, and use of explosives or signaling flares used in the course of ordinary business or industry, or shells or cartridges used as ammunition in firearms. Art. 55. Handling of Poisonous Reptiles.

§ 14-416. Handling of poisonous reptiles declared public nuisance and criminal offense.—The intentional exposure of human beings to contact with reptiles of a venomous nature being essentially dangerous and injurious and detrimental to public health, safety and welfare, the indulgence in and inducement to such exposure is hereby declared to be a public nuisance and a criminal offense, to be abated and punished as provided in this article. (1949, c. 1084, s. 1.)

§ 14-417. Regulation of ownership or use of poisonous reptiles.—It shall be unlawful for any person to own, possess, use, or traffic in any reptile of a poisonous nature whose venom is not removed, unless such reptile is at all times kept securely in a box, cage, or other safe container in which there are no openings of sufficient size to permit the escape of such reptile, or through which such reptile can bite or inject its venom into any human being. (1949, c. 1084, s. 2.)

§ 14-418. Prohibited handling of reptiles or suggesting or inducing others to handle.—It shall be unlawful for any person to intentionally handle any reptile of a poisonous nature whose venom is not removed, by taking or holding such reptile in bare hands or by placing or holding such reptile against any exposed part of the human anatomy, or by placing their own or another's hand or any other part of the human anatomy in or near any box, cage, or other container wherein such reptile is known or suspected to be. It shall also be unlawful for any person to intentionally suggest, entice, invite, challenge, intimidate, exhort or otherwise induce or aid any person to handle or expose himself to any such poisonous reptile in any manner defined in this article. (1949, c. 1084. s. 3.)

§ 14-419. Investigation of suspected violations; seizure and examination of reptiles; destruction or return of reptiles.—In any case in which any law enforcement officer has reasonable grounds to believe that any of the provisions of this article have been or are about to be violated, it shall be the duty of such officer and he is hereby authorized, empowered, and directed to immediately investigate such violation or impending violation and to forthwith seize the reptile or reptiles involved, and all such officers are hereby authorized and directed to deliver such reptiles to the respective county health authorities for examination and tests of such reptiles by such authorities or other qualified authorities to which the county health authorities may refer the same, for the purpose of ascertaining whether said reptiles contain venom and are poisonous. If such health authorities, or other qualified authorities designated by them to make such examinations and tests, find that said reptiles are dangerously poisonous, it shall be the duty of the officers making the seizure, and they are hereby authorized and directed to forthwith destroy such reptiles; but if said health authorities, or other qualified authorities by them designated to make such examination and tests, find that the reptiles are not dangerously poisonous, and are not and cannot be harmful to human life, safety, health or welfare, then it shall be the duty of such officers to return the said reptiles to the person from whom they were seized. (1949, c. 1084, s. 4.)

§ 14-420. Arrest of persons violating provisions of article.—If the examination and tests made by the county health or other qualified authorities as provided herein show that such reptiles are dangerously poisonous, it shall be the duty of the officers making the seizure, in addition to destroying such reptiles, also to arrest all persons violating any of the provisions of this article. (1949, c. 1084, s. 5.)

§ 14-421. Exemptions from provisions of article.—This article shall not apply to the possession, exhibition, or handling of reptiles by employees or agents of duly constituted museums, laboratories, educational or scientific institutions in the course of their educational or scientific work. (1949, c. 1084, s. 6.)

§ 14-422. Violation made misdemeanor.—Any person violating any of the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1949, c. 1084, s. 7.)

Chapter 15. Criminal Procedure.

Art. 1. General Provisions.

Right Is a Mandate in Capital Felony Cases.—The right to have counsel as well as the right of confrontation is guaranteed. Art. I, sec. 11, N. C. Const. Where the crime charged is a capital felony this right becomes a mandate. State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 321, 327, 26 S. E. (2d) 322; State v. Hedgebeth, 228 N. C. 259, 45 S. E. (2d) 563; In re Taylor, 229 N. C. 297, 49 S. E. (2d) 749; In re Taylor, 230 N. C. 566, 53 S. E. (2d) 857. See note to § 15-5. As to right made statutory, see § 15-4.1.

And Discretionary in Cases Less than Capital.—The appointment of counsel for a defendant charged with felonies less than capital is within the discretion of the trial court. In re Taylor, 230 N. C. 566, 53 S. E. (2d) 857.

A defendant has the constitutional right to be represented by counsel, and to have counsel assigned if requested where the circumstances are such as to show apparent necessity of counsel to protect his rights, but in the absence of request the propriety of providing counsel for a person accused of an offense less than a capital felony rests in the sound discretion of the trial judge. State v. Chesson, 228 N. C. 259, 45 S. E. (2d) 563.

Petition for Writ of Coram Nobis Granted for Failure to Appoint Counsel.—Where verified petition for leave to apply to the superior court for writ of error coram nobis, the record in the cases in which petitioner was convicted, and habeas corpus proceedings instituted by him, make it appear that petitioner was confronted with indictments for capital offenses and indictments for felonies less than capital, and that the trial court failed to appoint counsel to represent him notwithstanding his alleged inability to employ counsel and his request for counsel, the petition will be allowed in respect of the capital felonies and denied in respect of the felonies less than capital upon such prima facie showing. In re Taylor, 230 N. C. 566, 53 S. E. (2d) 857.

Counsel Allowed Reasonable Time to Prepare Case.—The two—the right to counsel and the right of confrontation—are closely interrelated and, together, form an integral part of a fair trial. Hence, this requirement as incorporated in this section, was not intended to be a mere formality. It does not contemplate that counsel shall "be compelled to act without being allowed reasonable time within which to understand the case and prepare for the defense." State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 321, 327, 26 S. E. (2d) 322. See note to Art. I, § 11, N. C. Const.

§ 15-4.1. Appointment of counsel for indigent defendants in capital cases; continuance where appointment delayed.—When any person is bound over to the superior court to await trial for an offense for which the punishment may be death, the clerk of the superior court in the county shall, if he believes that the accused may be unable to employ counsel, within five days notify the resident judge of the district or any superior court judge holding the courts of the district and request the immediate appointment of counsel to represent the accused. If the judge is satisfied that the accused is unable to employ counsel, he shall appoint counsel to represent the accused as soon as may be practicable. He may appoint counsel at any time regardless of whether notified by the clerk and before preliminary examination.

In any capital case where the appointment of counsel is delayed until the term of court at which the accused is arraigned, on motion of counsel for the accused the case shall be continued until the next ensuing term of criminal court. (1949, c. 112.)

Editor's Note.—For brief comment on section, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 422.

Counsel in Capital Cases Mandatory.—This section indicates that in capital felonies the provisions of § 11, Article I of the Constitution and G. S., § 15-4 relative to counsel are regarded as not merely permissive but mandatory. State v. Hedgebeth, 228 N. C. 259, 45 S. E. (2d) 563.

§ 15-10.1. Detainer; purpose; manner of use.—Any person confined in the state prison of North Carolina, subject to the authority and control of the state highway and public works commission, or any person confined in any other prison of North Carolina, may be held to account for any other charge pending against him only upon a written order from the court in which the charge originated upon a case regularly docketed, directing that such person be held to answer the charge pending in such court; and in no event shall the prison authorities hold any person to answer any charge upon a warrant or notice when the charge has not been regularly docketed in the court in which the warrant or charge has been issued: Provided, that this section shall not apply to any state agency exercising supervision over such person or prisoner by virtue of a judgment, order of court or statutory authority. (1949, c. 303.)

Art. 3. Warrants.

Local Modification.—City of Concord: 1945, c. 82.

Editor's Note.—For statute affecting this section as to warrants issued by a justice of the peace or by the chief officer of a city or town, see § 15-22 as amended by Session Laws 1949, c. 168.

Whenever a justice of the peace or the chief officer of a city or town shall attach to his warrant a certificate under the hand and seal of the clerk of the superior court of his county certifying that he is a justice of the peace of the county or the chief officer of a city or town in the county and that the warrant bears his genuine signature, the warrant may be executed in any part of the state in like manner as warrants issued by justices of the supreme court, judges of the superior court, or judges of criminal courts without any indorsement of any justice of the peace or magistrate of the county in which it may be served. (Rev., s. 3160; Code, s. 1136; 1917, c. 30; 1901, c. 668; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 5; 1949, c. 168; C. S. 4526.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the above sentence at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out. See 27 N. C. Law Rev. 451.

Art. 4. Search Warrants.

§ 15-25. In what cases issued, and where executed.—If any credible witness shall prove, upon oath, before any justice of the peace, or mayor of any city, or chief magistrate of any incorporated town, or the clerk of any court inferior to the superior court, that there is a reasonable cause to suspect that any person has in his possession, or on his premises, any property stolen, or any and all personal property and all tickets, books, papers and documents used in connection with and operation of lotteries or any gaming or gambling, or any false or counterfeit coin resembling, or apparently intended to resemble, or pass for, any current coin of the United States, or of any other state, province or country, or any instrument, tool or engine whatsoever, adapted or intended for the counterfeiting of any such coin; or any false and counterfeit notes, bills or bonds of the United States, or of the state of North Carolina, or of any other state or country, or of any county, city or incorporated town; or any instrument, tool or engine whatsoever, adapted or intended for the counterfeiting of such note, bill or bond, it shall be lawful for such justice, mayor or chief magistrate of any incorporated town to grant a warrant, to be executed within the limits of his county or of the county in which such city or incorporated town is situated, and for the clerk of any court inferior to the superior court to grant a warrant, to be executed within the territorial jurisdiction of such court, all such warrants to be directed to any proper officer, authorizing him to search for such property, and to seize the same, and to arrest the person having in possession or on whose premises may be found such stolen property, or any and all personal property and all tickets, books, papers and documents used in connection with and operation of lotteries or any gaming or gambling, counterfeit coin, counterfeit notes, bills or bonds, or the instruments, tools or engines for making the same, and to bring them before any magistrate of competent jurisdiction, to be dealt with according to law. (Rev., s. 3163; Code, s. 1171; 1868-9, c. 178, subc. 3, s. 38; 1941, c. 53; 1949, c. 1179; C. S. 4529.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment authorized the issuance of search warrants by clerks of courts inferior to the superior court.

Ordinarily officers of the law may not invade one's home except under authority of a search warrant issued in accord with pertinent statutory provisions. In re Walters, 229 N. C. 111, 47 S. E. (2d) 709.

Respondent refused to permit officers to enter his home for the purpose of serving civil process on a third person. There was no evidence that the person sought was actually in respondent's home at the time. It was held that respondent was within his rights in refusing admittance to the officers, and his act in so doing cannot be held for contempt of court on the ground that it tended to obstruct or embarrass the administration of justice. Id.

Art. 6. Arrest.

Cited in State v. Phillips, 229 N. C. 538, 50 S. E. (2d) 306.

Applied in State v. Hooper, 227 N. C. 633, 44 S. E. (2d) 42.

Duty of City Police Officer.—A police officer within the limits of his city may summarily and without warrant arrest a person for a misdemeanor committed in his presence. But in such case it is the duty of the officer to inform the person arrested of the charge against him and immediately take him before someone authorized to issue criminal warrants and have warrant issued, giving him opportunity to provide bail and communicate with counsel and friends. Perry v. Hurdle, 229 N. C. 216, 49 S. E. (2d) 400.

§ 15-47. Arresting officer to inform offender of charge, allow bail except in capital cases, and permit communication with counsel or friends.

Where accused persons were informed of the charge against them as required by this section and none of them made a request to be allowed to communicate with relatives or friends or to obtain counsel, objection to the failure of officers to inform them of the charge against them and their right to have counsel, cannot be sustained. State v. Thompson, 224 N. C. 661, 32 S. E. (2d) 24.

Art. 8. Extradition.

Cross Reference.—

The cross reference in original to Appendix VI should be to Appendix IV.

Where defendant paid expenses of sheriff in returning him to state without extradition, it was held error to order the state to pay such expenses of the sheriff under this section. State v. Patterson, 224 N. C. 471, 31 S. E. (2d) 380.

A nonresident defendant is not exempt from service of civil process while his presence in the state is in compliance with the conditions of a bail bond. Hare v. Hare, 228 N. C. 740, 46 S. E. (2d) 840.

A nonresident defendant in a criminal proceeding pending in the state is immune from personal service of process in a civil action arising out of the same facts as the criminal proceeding only when he is brought into the state by, or after waiver of extradition proceeding. By the same token, if such defendant be immune from personal service of such process only under those circumstances, his property within the state would be immune from attachment and garnishment only when so brought into the state by defendant. White v. Ordille, 229 N. C. 490, 50 S. E. (2d) 499.

Quoted in Hare v. Hare, 228 N. C. 740, 46 S. E. (2d) 840.
Cited in White v. Ordille, 229 N. C. 490, 50 S. E. (2d) 499.

Art. 9. Preliminary Examination.

Application of Section.—The provisions of this section are applicable only to preliminary judicial examinations. State v. Grass, 223 N. C. 31, 32, 25 S. E. (2d) 193.

Distinction between Examination under This Section and That under § 8-54.—There is a distinction between the statement made by a prisoner on his preliminary examination before a magistrate under this section, and his testimony given under § 8-54, as a witness on the trial of the cause. On the former, he is to be advised of his rights, the examination is not under oath, and, should it be taken contrary to the statute, it may not be used against him at the trial. On the latter, accused, at his own request, but not otherwise, is competent but not compellable to testify and his testimony thus given is under oath and may be used at any subsequent stage of the prosecution. State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 804, 28 S. E. (2d) 560.

Confession Admissible Though Defendant Not Advised of His Rights.—In a prosecution for murder, where defendant confessed shortly after the homicide to officers, one of whom was the coroner, such confession is not inadmissible because defendant was not advised of his rights under this section. State v. Grass, 223 N. C. 31, 25 S. E. (2d) 193.

Cross Reference.—As to testimony being used as evidence, see § 15-100 and notes.

In General.—

The effect of this section and §§ 15-88 and 15-91 is to extend the common-law principle, and their purpose was to make these preliminary examinations, when properly taken, certified and filed, in the nature of an official record, to be read in evidence on mere identification, and they do not and were not intended to restrict or entrench upon the common-law principle that evidence of this kind, when repeated by a witness under proper oath, and who can and does swear that his statements contain the substance of the testimony as given by the dead or absent witness, shall be received in evidence on the second trial. And well considered authority is to the effect that stenographers' notes, when the stenographer who took them goes on the stand and swears that they are accurate and correctly portray the evidence as given by the witness, come well within the principle. State v. Ham, 224 N. C. 128, 131, 29 S. E. (2d) 449.

Art. 10. Bail.

Accused May Deposit Cash in Lieu of Bond.—The law contemplates that a defendant in a criminal prosecution may give security for his appearance to answer to the charge and the supreme court has held that the fact that defendant of his own volition, chooses to deposit the amount of the bond required in cash is not a violation of the statute, but a compliance with its spirit and meaning. White v. Ordille, 229 N. C. 490, 50 S. E. (2d) 499, citing State v. Mitchell, 151 N. C. 716, 66 S. E. 202.

Cash deposited by accused as security for his appearance remains his property subject to the conditions of a recognizance, the justice of the peace becoming the custodian of the cash for the benefit of the state only in so far as the debt of accused to the state is concerned. If defendant fails to perform the conditions, the deposit will be subject to forfeiture. But if he perform the conditions, the cash deposit would be returnable to him. This is a right which he may enforce against the custodian of the deposit. White v. Ordille, 229 N. C. 490, 50 S. E. (2d) 499.

And Is Liable to Attachment.—A defendant in a criminal prosecution in a justice of the peace court of the state of North Carolina, who is a nonresident of the state, and who voluntarily deposits with the justice of the peace cash in lieu of bond for his appearance before the justice of the peace for a preliminary hearing, has such property right and interest in the deposit as is liable to attachment and garnishment at the instance of his creditor pending such preliminary hearing. White v. Ordille, 229 N. C. 490, 50 S. E. (2d) 499.

Recognizance Explained.—
A recognizance in a criminal proceeding is an acknowledgment by the defendant that he is indebted to the state in an amount fixed by the court, conditioned upon his personal appearance at a time and place specified by the court to answer the charge against him, to stand and abide the judgment of the court and not to depart without leave of court. White v. Ordille, 229 N. C. 490, 50 S. E. (2d) 499.

Local Modification.—Haywood: 1945, c. 875.

Art. 11. Forfeiture of Bail.

Trial Judge Has Discretion.—
In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See State v. Clarke, 222 N. C. 744, 24 S. E. (2d) 619; State v. Wiggins, 228 N. C. 76, 44 S. E. (2d) 471.

Art. 13. Venue.

Crime Where Alleged.—
Where there is no challenge to the indictment prior to a plea of guilty, under this section the offense is deemed to have been committed in the county alleged in the indictment. State v. McKeon, 223 N. C. 404, 26 S. E. (2d) 914.

Art. 15. Indictment.

Granting Order Is within Court's Discretion.—
The granting or denial of motions for bills of particulars is within the discretion of the court and not subject to review except for palpable and gross abuse thereof. State v. Lippard, 223 N. C. 167, 25 S. E. (2d) 594.

What Is Sufficient under Section.—
An indictment of murder in the first degree need not allege deliberation and premeditation, an indictment in the form prescribed by this section being sufficient. State v. Kirksey, 227 N. C. 445, 446, 42 S. E. (2d) 613.

Statements Not Necessary.—
A bill of indictment, drawn in the statutory form as required by this section, includes the charge of murder committed in the perpetration of a robbery, without a specific allegation or count to that effect. State v. Smith, 223 N. C. 457, 27 S. E. (2d) 114.

Variance between Allegata and Probata.—Where indictment charged capital felony of murder in the language of this section and contained every necessary averment, proof that murder was committed in the perpetration of felony constituted no variance between allegata and probata. State v. Mays, 225 N. C. 486, 35 S. E. (2d) 494.

When Order of Consolidation Made in Capital Cases.—
An order of consolidation in capital cases will be made when seasonably brought to the court's attention, and not at a time when the validity of the whole trial might be threatened by the consolidation. State v. Harris, 223 N. C. 697, 28 S. E. (2d) 232.

Motion to Consolidate Is Not an Assent to a Mistrial.—
A motion to consolidate three capital cases in medias res pending the taking of testimony on the trial of one of them, is not an assent to a mistrial in order to effect a consolidation. State v. Harris, 223 N. C. 697, 28 S. E. (2d) 232.

Consolidation Is within Discretionary Power of Trial Court.—
Upon the consolidation and trial together over defendants' objection of two indictments the first against all three of defendants for abduction of a fourteen-year-old girl, and the second against two of the three defendants for an assault with intent to commit rape upon the abducted child during the abduction, while a verdict of guilty on the first charge and a verdict of not guilty on the second would seem to render the exception to the consolidation feckless, the right to consolidate was in the sound discretion of the trial court. State v. Truelove, 224 N. C. 147, 29 S. E. (2d) 460.

Entering Judgment on Each Offense upon General Verdict of Guilty.—
Ordinarily where separate bills of indictment are returned and the bills are consolidated for trial, as authorized by this section, the counts contained in the respective bills will be treated as though they were separate counts in one bill, and where there are several counts and each count is for a distinct offense, a general verdict of guilty will authorize the imposition of a judgment on each count. State v. Braxton, 230 N. C. 312, 52 S. E. (2d) 895.

II. GENERAL EFFECT.

Liberal Construction.—
This section provides against quashal for mere informality or refinement, and judgments are no longer stayed or reversed for non-essential or minor defects. State v. Davenport, 227 N. C. 475, 491, 42 S. E. (2d) 686.

Where the Indictment Contains Sufficient Matter, etc.—
In accord with original. See State v. Davenport, 227 N. C. 475, 491, 42 S. E. (2d) 686.

Applied in State v. Blanton, 227 N. C. 517, 42 S. E. (2d) 663.

III. DEFECTS CURED.

A. In General.

Stripping Nonessential Words from Warrant.—A warrant which, stripped of nonessential words, charges defendant with unlawful possession of a quantity of nontax-paid whiskey, is sufficient to survive a motion to quash. State v. Camel, 230 N. C. 426, 53 S. E. (2d) 313.

B. Omissions and Mistakes.

Wrong County in Caption.—
In accord with original. See State v. Davis, 225 N. C. 117, 33 S. E. (2d) 623.

The omission of the caption of a bill of indictment does not constitute ground for arrest of judgment. State v. Davis, 225 N. C. 117, 33 S. E. (2d) 623.

When Time Need Not Be Charged.—
While an appeal from conviction in a recorder's court upon a warrant, charging unlawful possession on a certain date of intoxicating liquors for the purpose of sale, was pending in the Superior Court, that court had jurisdiction to try defendant on a bill of indictment of a later date charging the same offense, where the record contains nothing to show that the offenses are identical. Time is not of the essence and need not be specified in the indictment. State v. Suddreth, 223 N. C. 610, 27 S. E. (2d) 623.

Art. 17. Trial in Superior Court.

Cited in State v. Lord, 225 N. C. 354, 34 S. E. (2d) 205; State v. Anderson, 228 N. C. 720, 47 S. E. (2d) 1.

Cross Reference.—As to arbitrary right of jury to convict defendant of lesser degree of the crime charged, see § 15-170 and note thereto.

When Section Applicable.—
In accord with original. See State v. Sawyer, 224 N. C. 61, 29 S. E. (2d) 34.

Same—Assault with Intent to Rape.—
Upon an indictment for an assault with intent to commit rape, even though the evidence is insufficient to support a verdict, motion for judgment of dismissal or nonsuit cannot be granted, as defendant may be convicted of an assault. State v. Gay, 224 N. C. 141, 29 S. E. (2d) 458.

Where in a prosecution under a bill of indictment charging assault with intent to commit rape the evidence discloses an assault but is insufficient to prove the intent necessary for a conviction of this offense, defendant is entitled to nonsuit on the offense charged, but is not entitled to his discharge, since he may be convicted under the bill of indictment for assault upon a female as though this offense had been separately charged in the bill. State v. Moore, 227 N. C. 326, 42 S. E. (2d) 84.

Where Jury's Verdict Is for an Offense of Lesser Degree.—Where all the evidence points to a graver crime and the jury's verdict is for an offense of a lesser degree, although illogical and incongruous, it will not be disturbed, since it is favorable to accused. State v. Bentley, 223 N. C. 563, 27 S. E. (2d) 738.

Applied in State v. Johnson, 227 N. C. 587, 42 S. E. (2d) 685; State v. Lunsford, 229 N. C. 229, 49 S. E. (2d) 410, treated in note under § 15-170.

Cited in State v. Gregory, 223 N. C. 415, 27 S. E. (2d) 140; State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 804, 28 S. E. (2d) 560; State v. Bell, 228 N. C. 659, 46 S. E. (2d) 834, treated under § 15-170.

Indictment for Attempt or Complete Offense.—In accord with original. See State v. Parker, 224 N. C. 524, 31 S. E. (2d) 531.

Defendant Entitled to Complete Charge.—In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See State v. DeGraffenreid, 223 N. C. 461, 27 S. E. (2d) 130.

And Conviction of Offense Charged Does Not Cure Error.—A verdict of guilty of the offense charged in the indictment does not cure error of the court in failing to submit to the jury the question of defendant's guilt of less degrees of the crime. State v. McNeill, 229 N. C. 377, 49 S. E. (2d) 733.

The general rule of practice is, that when it is permissible under the indictment to convict the defendant of "a less degree of the same crime," and there is evidence to support the milder verdict, the defendant is entitled to have the different views arising on the evidence presented to the jury under proper instructions, and an error in this respect is not cured by a verdict finding the defendant guilty of a higher degree of the same crime, for in such case, it cannot be known whether the jury would have convicted of the lesser degree if the different views, arising on the evidence, had been correctly presented in the court's charge. State v. Childress, 228 N. C. 208, 45 S. E. (2d) 42.

Evidence Must Justify Conviction in Lesser Degree.—In accord with 3rd paragraph in original. See State v. Sawyer, 224 N. C. 61, 29 S. E. (2d) 34.

A defendant may be convicted of a less degree of the crime charged, or for which he is being tried, when there is evidence to support the milder verdict. State v. Jordan, 226 N. C. 155, 37 S. E. (2d) 111, 112; State v. Locklear, 226 N. C. 410, 38 S. E. (2d) 162, 163.

Where the evidence was sufficient to carry the case to the jury upon the charge of assault with intent to commit rape but the jury returned a verdict of guilty of an assault upon a female, the defendant being a male person over 18 years of age, such verdict was authorized by this section. State v. Morgan, 225 N. C. 549, 35 S. E. (2d) 621.

Where the evidence justified such action, the court properly charged the jury that defendant might be acquitted of felonious assault and battery with intent to kill charged in the indictment, and convicted of an assault of lower degree, namely, an assault with a deadly weapon. State v. Anderson, 230 N. C. 54, 51 S. E. (2d) 895.

Uncontradicted Evidence Showing Defendant Guilty of More Serious Offense.—This and the preceding section were not intended to give to the jury the arbitrary right or discretion to convict a defendant of a lesser degree of the crime charged or of a less serious offense than that charged, if the uncontradicted evidence shows beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of the more serious offense charged in the bill of indictment. State v. Brown, 227 N. C. 383, 42 S. E. (2d) 402.

Where all the evidence tends to show that defendants feloniously took money from the person of prosecuting witness by violence and against his will through the use or threatened use of firearms, the court properly limits the jury to a verdict of guilty of robbery with firearms or a verdict of not guilty, there being no evidence warranting court in submitting the question of defendants' guilt of less degrees of the crime. State v. Bell, 228 N. C. 659, 46 S. E. (2d) 834.

It would be without precedent to try defendant for one offense and to convict him of another and greater offense, even though the conviction be of a higher degree of the same offense for which he is being tried. State v. Jordan, 226 N. C. 155, 37 S. E. (2d) 111, 112.

Instruction Limiting Verdict to Less Degree.—In accord with original. See State v. Gay, 224 N. C. 141, 29 S. E. (2d) 458.

In a prosecution for murder, where the evidence raises a question as to whether or not the killing was intentional, this section requires that the question of the defendant's guilt of manslaughter be submitted to the jury with proper instructions. State v. McNeill, 229 N. C. 377, 49 S. E. (2d) 733.

Where there is evidence to support a charge of murder and evidence to support the defendant's plea of homicide by misadventure, and also evidence of manslaughter, this section requires that the "less degree of the same crime" be submitted to the jury with proper instructions. State v. Childress, 228 N. C. 208, 45 S. E. (2d) 42.

In a prosecution for burglary in the first degree, it is permissible for the jury to convict the defendant of an attempt to commit burglary in the second degree. State v. Surles, 230 N. C. 272, 52 S. E. (2d) 880.

In Prosecution for Robbery.—Testimony of defendants in a prosecution for robbery that they took the pistol from prosecuting witness to prevent him from harming them or some other person, requires the court to submit the question of each defendant's guilt of simple assault to the jury as a lesser offense included in the crime charged, since such verdict would be justified in the event the jury should find that defendants took the pistol without intent to steal it, but were not warranted in doing so on the principle of self-protection. State v. Lunsford, 229 N. C. 229, 49 S. E. (2d) 410.

Applied in State v. Jones, 227 N. C. 402, 42 S. E. (2d) 465; State v. Jones, 229 N. C. 276, 49 S. E. (2d) 463.

Cited in State v. Gregory, 223 N. C. 415, 27 S. E. (2d) 140; State v. Bentley, 223 N. C. 563, 27 S. E. (2d) 738 (con. op.); State v. Farrell, 223 N. C. 804, 28 S. E. (2d) 560; State v. Grimes, 226 N. C. 523, 39 S. E. (2d) 394; State v. Lunsford, 229 N. C. 229, 49 S. E. (2d) 410; State v. Fowler, 230 N. C. 470, 53 S. E. (2d) 853.

This section relates to indictments for burglary in the first degree only, and has no bearing on an appeal from a verdict of guilty of rape. State v. Brown, 227 N. C. 383, 385, 42 S. E. (2d) 402.

Instruction as to Second Degree Burglary Mandatory.—This section gives the jury the right to render a verdict of guilty of burglary in the second degree, not only where the evidence tends to show certain facts, but, "upon the findings of facts sufficient to constitute burglary in the first degree as defined by the statute—if they deem it proper so to do." This instruction is mandatory. State v. Brown, 227 N. C. 383, 385, 42 S. E. (2d) 402; State v. Hooper, 227 N. C. 633, 635, 44 S. E. (2d) 42.

Thus, the right of the jury under this section is not dependent upon the finding of certain facts as set forth in a charge on burglary in the second degree. State v. Hooper, 227 N. C. 633, 635, 44 S. E. (2d) 42.

Conviction in Second Degree Authorized.—Under this section as amended a defendant is entitled, as a matter of right, to have the jury instructed that they may elect to render a verdict of guilty of burglary in the second degree if they deem it proper so to do. State v. McLean, 224 N. C. 704, 32 S. E. (2d) 227.

Conviction of Attempt to Commit Burglary in Second Degree.—In a prosecution for burglary in the first degree, it is permissible for the jury to convict the defendant of an attempt to commit burglary in the second degree. State v. Surles, 230 N. C. 272, 52 S. E. (2d) 880.

Permissible Verdicts When Jury Finds Facts Constituting Burglary in First Degree.—Taking §§ 14-52 and this section together, when in a case in which the charge is burglary in the first degree the jury finds from the evidence and beyond a reasonable doubt facts constituting burglary in the first degree, one of three verdicts may be returned: (1) Guilty of burglary in the first degree, which carries a mandatory death sentence; (2) guilty of burglary in the first degree, with recommendation of imprisonment for life, which calls for a sentence to life imprisonment; and (3) if the jury "deem it proper so to do," guilty of burglary in the second degree, for which the sentence may be life imprisonment, or imprisonment for a term of years in the discretion of the judge. State v. Mathis, 230 N. C. 508, 53 S. E. (2d) 666.

Verdict of Guilty in First Degree upon Trial for Burglary in Second Degree Set Aside.—See this catchline in note to § 14-51.

Sufficiency of Indictment.—For a brief history of this section in connection with sufficiency of indictment for first degree murder, see State v. Kirksey, 227 N. C. 445, 42 S. E. (2d) 613.

Evidence.—
In accord with original. See State v. Gause, 227 N. C. 26, 40 S. E. (2d) 463.

Compared with Section 1-183.—
In accord with original. See State v. Hill, 225 N. C. 74, 33 S. E. (2d) 470.

Ascertaining Whether Any Competent Evidence.—When the court is to rule upon a demurrer to the evidence in a criminal case, it is required merely to ascertain whether there is any competent evidence to sustain the allegations of the indictment, the evidence being construed in the light most favorable to the state. State v. Murdock, 225 N. C. 224, 34 S. E. (2d) 69.

A trial judge, in passing upon a motion for a judgment as of nonsuit, under the provisions of this section is not bound by the measure or quantum of proof by which the state must prove a defendant's guilt before the jury can convict him. State v. Davenport, 227 N. C. 475, 493, 42 S. E. (2d) 686.

Sufficiency of Evidence May Be Challenged if Motion Timely Made.—
A motion for judgment as of nonsuit, in a criminal case under this section must be made at the close of the state's evidence and, if denied, renewed at the close of all the evidence, otherwise the benefit of the exception to the court's refusal to grant the motion is lost. State v. Hill, 225 N. C. 74, 33 S. E. (2d) 470.

To present the question of the sufficiency of the evidence upon appeal, a motion to nonsuit should be made at the close of the state's evidence, and exception noted upon its denial, and if defendant introduces evidence the motion should be renewed at the close of all the evidence, and if again overruled another exception should be noted, in which event the assignment of error should be based upon the second exception. State v. Perry, 226 N. C. 530, 39 S. E. (2d) 460; State v. Weaver, 228 N. C. 39, 40, 44 S. E. (2d) 360.

Motion Must Be Renewed—Waiver.—
When defendants in a criminal prosecution, at the close of the State's evidence, move to dismiss and for nonsuit, and, after these motions are overruled, introduce evidence but fail to renew such motions at the close of all evidence, the exceptions to the refusal of such motions at the close of the State's evidence are waived. State v. Epps, 223 N. C. 740, 28 S. E. (2d) 219. See also, State v. Jackson, 226 N. C. 760, 40 S. E. (2d) 417.

Only Incriminating Evidence Need Be Considered, etc.—
On a demurrer to the evidence only the State's evidence is to be considered, and the defendant's evidence is not to be taken into account, unless it tends to explain or make clear that offered by the State. State v. Oldham, 224 N. C. 415, 416, 30 S. E. (2d) 318.

When Motion Denied.—
A motion for judgment of nonsuit must be denied, if there be any substantial evidence—more than a scintilla—to prove the allegations of the indictment. State v. Weinstein, 224 N. C. 645, 31 S. E. (2d) 920.

On trial upon an indictment for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, motion for judgment of nonsuit was properly denied. State v. Oxendine, 224 N. C. 825, 32 S. E. (2d) 648.

When an intentional killing with a deadly weapon has been established, the law implies malice, and the state cannot be nonsuited. State v. Brooks, 228 N. C. 68, 71, 44 S. E. (2d) 482.

Where the evidence was substantially similar to that introduced at a former trial, decision of the supreme court on the former appeal that evidence was sufficient to be submitted to the jury is res judicata on question of nonsuit or sufficiency of evidence. State v. Stone, 226 N. C. 97, 36 S. E. (2d) 704.

Where the indictments contain two separate charges and the state takes a voluntary nonsuit upon the first count, defendant's contention that the nonsuit established his innocence of acts charged under that count which also constituted essential elements of the offense charged in the second count, must be presented by a plea of former jeopardy or former acquittal, and not by motion for judgment as of nonsuit, under this section, and the failure of a plea of former jeopardy amounts to a waiver of his rights in the premises. State v. Baldwin, 226 N. C. 295, 37 S. E. (2d) 898.

Where a complete defense is established by the State's case, on a criminal indictment, the defendant should be allowed to avail himself of a motion for nonsuit under this section. State v. Boyd, 223 N. C. 79, 25 S. E. (2d) 456; State v. Watts, 224 N. C. 771, 32 S. E. (2d) 348.

The evidence of accomplices is sufficient to carry the case to the jury and to justify a refusal of motion to nonsuit. State v. Rising, 223 N. C. 747, 28 S. E. (2d) 221.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—
In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See State v. Johnson, 226 N. C. 671, 40 S. E. (2d) 113.

On appeal in criminal cases supreme court cannot pass upon the weight of the evidence but only whether there is sufficient evidence to support conviction. State v. Shoup, 226 N. C. 69, 36 S. E. (2d) 697.

On a motion for judgment as of nonsuit in a criminal case the evidence must be considered in the light most favorable to the State. State v. Herndon, 223 N. C. 208, 25 S. E. (2d) 611. See State v. McMahan, 224 N. C. 476, 31 S. E. (2d) 357.

In a criminal prosecution, under §§ 14-290, 14-291, and 14-291.1, the court erred in the refusal of defendants' motion of nonsuit. State v. Heglar, 225 N. C. 220, 34 S. E. (2d) 76.

On a motion for judgment of nonsuit the evidence must be considered in the light most favorable for the state, and if there be any competent evidence to support the charge contained in the bill of indictment the case is one for the jury. State v. Scoggins, 225 N. C. 71, 33 S. E. (2d) 473.

On the trial of several defendants, upon an indictment for robbery, where the evidence against one of the defendants raises no more than a suspicion of his guilt, a motion to dismiss as to such defendant should be allowed. State v. Ham, 224 N. C. 128, 29 S. E. (2d) 449.

Same—Prosecution for Homicide.—In a prosecution for felonious slaying evidence held sufficient to go to the jury. State v. Stone, 224 N. C. 848, 32 S. E. (2d) 651.

Defendant's motion to nonsuit is properly denied when the evidence tends to show an intentional killing with a deadly weapon, since the credibility and sufficiency of the defendant's evidence in mitigation or excuse is for the jury to consider and decide. State v. Robinson, 226 N. C. 95, 36 S. E. (2d) 655.

Where defendant, in a prosecution for murder, admitted that he intentionally and without provocation fired the gun which resulted in the death of deceased, a police officer, to prevent deceased from arresting him, and offered no excuse or explanation in mitigation for his act, except that he did not make up his mind and determine to kill deceased, there is evidence of premeditation and deliberation and evidence sufficient to sustain a verdict of murder in the first degree, and motion for nonsuit, was properly overruled. State v. Matheson, 225 N. C. 109, 33 S. E. (2d) 590.

In a prosecution of two persons for murder, where the state's evidence tended to show that deceased was standing near another person on a city sidewalk, when the first defendant called upon deceased to stop bothering his cousin and the deceased said he was not bothering anyone, whereupon the first defendant shot a pistol at deceased twice, and then the second defendant took the gun from the first defendant and shot at deceased twice, deceased falling to the ground at the second shot and dying on the way to the hospital, there being only one wound on deceased, a shot through the heart, there is ample evidence for the jury and the first defendant's motion for judgment as of nonsuit was properly denied. State v. Williams, 225 N. C. 182, 33 S. E. (2d) 880.

Same—Murder in Perpetration of Robbery.—Where two witnesses saw two of defendants enter a store, both witnesses being present, hold up the proprietor with pistols and shoot and kill him and flee, and two other witnesses saw both of these defendants run out of the store and enter and drive away in a car with third defendant, all four of these witnesses picking out defendants from a number of prisoners in a city jail about 30 days after the homicide and positively identifying them and their car, without denial on the part of the prisoners, and other persons identifying same defendants as the perpetrators of another hold-up just before their arrest, there was sufficient identification and evidence of murder for the jury and motion for nonsuit was properly denied. State v. Biggs, 224 N. C. 722, 32 S. E. (2d) 352.

Same—Assault with Intent to Kill.—
In a prosecution for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, resulting in injury, it was held that there was ample evidence to sustain conviction and motion to dismiss under this section was properly denied. State v. Cody, 225 N. C. 38, 33 S. E. (2d) 71.

In a criminal prosecution for a felonious assault with intent to kill, where the state's evidence tended to show that defendant, while the prosecuting witness was having a row in her place of business with one of her servants, left the room and returned almost immediately with a shotgun and shot the prosecuting witness at close range, inflicting serious injury, there was sufficient evidence for the jury, and motion for judgment as of nonsuit was properly denied. State v. Murdock, 225 N. C. 224, 34 S. E. (2d) 69.

Same—Seduction.—In a prosecution for seduction it was held that where facts and circumstances tended to support prosecutrix's statements a motion for nonsuit should be denied. State v. Smith, 223 N. C. 199, 201, 25 S. E. (2d) 619.

Same—Rape.—

Positive testimony of rape by prosecutrix is sufficient to carry the case to the jury, even when her evidence is denied by defendant and nonsuit under this section was held properly denied. State v. Vicks, 223 N. C. 384, 26 S. E. (2d) 873.

Evidence of defendant's guilt of rape held sufficient to overrule his motion to nonsuit. State v. Speller, 230 N. C. 345, 53 S. E. (2d) 294.

Same—Receiving Stolen Goods.—In a prosecution for larceny and receiving, where the state's evidence tended to show that strangers to defendants stole a barrel of molasses, hid it among some trees in a pasture, offered to sell it to defendants, who agreed to buy at a price considerably below the market and went in the nighttime to inspect and remove their purchase and were in the act of having it rolled out to their truck when the officer arrived, there is sufficient evidence to convict of an attempt to feloniously receive stolen property, knowing it to have been stolen, and motion of nonsuit was properly refused. State v. Parker, 224 N. C. 524, 31 S. E. (2d) 531.

Same—Recent Possession of Stolen Goods.—

Where three defendants bought goods, paying full value, about 2 a. m. from two strangers, who represented that they must dispose promptly of the merchandise from their business because both had been called to the armed forces, and one defendant promptly admitted all the facts to the officers while the other two first denied and then admitted the purchase, the State's witness who accompanied the thieves saying on cross-examination that the accused persons had no knowledge of the theft, the element of scienter is wanting and demurrer should have been sustained. State v. Oxendine, 223 N. C. 659, 27 S. E. (2d) 814.

Same—Evidence Raising Suspicion Only.—

Upon a motion for nonsuit under this section, if there be any evidence tending to prove the fact in issue or which reasonably conduces to its conclusion as a fairly logical and legitimate deduction, the case should be submitted to the jury. But where there is merely a suspicion or conjecture in regard to the charge in the bill of indictment, the motion should be allowed. State v. Boyd, 223 N. C. 79, 25 S. E. (2d) 456; State v. Kirkman, 224 N. C. 778, 32 S. E. (2d) 328; State v. Murphy, 225 N. C. 115, 33 S. E. (2d) 588.

Where the evidence, taken in the light most favorable to the state, on motion by defendants for judgment as of nonsuit in a criminal prosecution, raises no more than a suspicion as to the guilt of defendants, the same is insufficient to support a verdict of guilty and the motion must be allowed. State v. Hegler, 225 N. C. 220, 34 S. E. (2d) 76.

In accord with original. See State v. Gay, 224 N. C. 141, 29 S. E. (2d) 458; State v. Johnson, 227 N. C. 587, 42 S. E. (2d) 685.

Same—Refusal to Support Child.—In proceeding on indictment instituted more than 13 years after the birth of an illegitimate child, charging defendant with willful neglect and refusal to support the child, whose paternity had been established in bastardy proceeding instituted under C. S., 265-279, the action was held barred under § 49-4 and motion for judgment of nonsuit was sustained. State v. Dill, 224 N. C. 57, 29 S. E. (2d) 145.

Same—Unlawful Sale of Intoxicating Liquors.—In a criminal prosecution for the unlawful possession of intoxicating liquors for the purpose of sale, where all the evidence tended to show that accused had concealed in the apartment occupied as a residence by himself and family, above a store operated by him, five pints of tax-paid liquor the seals on which had not been broken, and a sixth pint was found by officers at the back door of the store, where an unknown person was seen to "set something down," and some empty bottles, apparently wine bottles, were also found in the store, motion of defendant for judgment of nonsuit should have been sustained. State v. Suddreth, 223 N. C. 610, 27 S. E. (2d) 623.

In a prosecution for possession of intoxicating liquor for purpose of sale, where the evidence tended to show only that there was found in the yard of defendant's house an automobile containing 42 gallons of liquor, upon which no tax had been paid, defendant testifying that the car was not his, but was driven by a stranger, got out of order and defendant helped push it onto his premises, where it remained several days while he was away from home, and it was subsequently driven away by someone unknown to him, the refusal of defendant's motion for judgment of nonsuit was error. State v. Kirkman, 224 N. C. 778, 32 S. E. (2d) 328.

Where defendant at time of arrest said illicit whiskey belonged to him but at trial denied any knowledge of the liquor or its ownership, an issue of fact was presented for jury and motion to dismiss under this section was properly overruled. State v. Stutts, 225 N. C. 647, 35 S. E. (2d) 881.

Same—Operation of Motor Vehicle after License Suspended.—In a criminal prosecution for the operation of a motor vehicle after the operator's license had been revoked, where the state's evidence tended to show that defendant was tried and convicted in recorder's court, for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants, as James Stewart had his license revoked for one year, that the records show no license issued to James Stewart but show one to James Tyree Stewart of the same county as defendant, who admitted that his name was James Tyree Stewart when the highway patrolman went to take up his license, and that defendant was seen operating a motor vehicle upon the public highway within one year of such conviction and there had been no reinstatement of the revocation, there is sufficient evidence to sustain a conviction and motion for nonsuit, was properly refused. State v. Stewart, 224 N. C. 528, 31 S. E. (2d) 534.

Same—Violation of Hit and Run Drivers' Law.—In a prosecution under G. S., § 20-166, the state introduced testimony of a statement by defendant that he had just driven the highway in question but that he had no knowledge or notice that he had struck any vehicle or injured any person during the trip. This statement was not contradicted or shown to be false by any other fact or circumstance in evidence. The statement was held binding upon the state, and defendant's motion for judgment of nonsuit was sustained in the supreme court for want of evidence that defendant knew he had been involved in an accident resulting in injury to a person. State v. Ray, 229 N. C. 40, 47 S. E. (2d) 494.

Conflicting Evidence.—

In a criminal prosecution for larceny and receiving a bicycle, where the evidence tended to show that the bicycle was taken in the night from a parked truck, and was found near the same place about eight months thereafter in the possession of defendants, who made contradictory and false statements about how they came by it, there is not sufficient evidence to convict and a motion for nonsuit should have been granted. State v. Cameron, 223 N. C. 449, 27 S. E. (2d) 81.

Testimony by state witness that defendant made a declaration of innocence does not entitle defendant to judgment as of nonsuit, since such self-serving declaration does not rebut any proof by the state. State v. Baldwin, 226 N. C. 295, 37 S. E. (2d) 898.

Variance.—

Where it was alleged that defendant committed larceny of money and valuable papers, and the evidence tended to show, at most, an attempt to commit larceny of two suitcases or baggage, it was held that there was a fatal variance between the allegata and the probata, of which defect defendant could take advantage under his exception to the disallowance of his motion for judgment as of nonsuit. State v. Nunley, 224 N. C. 96, 97, 29 S. E. (2d) 17.

Demurrer to the Evidence Properly Sustained.—

See State v. Harvey, 228 N. C. 62, 44 S. E. (2d) 472, wherein the identity of the accused was not established; State v. Coffey, 228 N. C. 119, 44 S. E. (2d) 886, wherein it was held that taking all the state's evidence to be true did not exclude a reasonable hypothesis of defendant's innocence.

Demurrer to the Evidence Properly Denied.—

See State v. Dilliard, 223 N. C. 446, 27 S. E. (2d) 85, evidence showing guilt in abortion; State v. Gordon, 224 N. C. 304, 30 S. E. (2d) 43, wherein evidence showed possession of liquor with intent to sell same unlawfully; State v. King, 224 N. C. 329, 30 S. E. (2d) 230, wherein evidence sustained conviction of operating a lottery; State v. Rivers, 224 N. C. 419, 30 S. E. (2d) 322, wherein evidence tended to show that prisoner killed deceased, while the two were quarreling over some trivial matters, defendant admitting the killing but alleging that he shot deceased to repel an assault; State v. Peterson, 225 N. C. 540, 35 S. E. (2d) 645, wherein evidence offered held sufficient to repel the motion to dismiss under this section.

Applied in State v. Edwards, 224 N. C. 577, 31 S. E. (2d) 762; State v. Peterson, 226 N. C. 255, 37 S. E. (2d) 591;

Art. 18. Appeal.

Cited in State v. Crandall, 225 N. C. 148, 33 S. E. (2d) 861.

§ 15-177.1. Appeal from justice of the peace or inferior court; trial anew or de novo.—In all cases of appeal to the superior court in a criminal action from a justice of the peace or other inferior court, the defendant shall be entitled to a trial anew and de novo by a jury, without prejudice from the former proceedings of the court below, irrespective of the plea entered or the judgment pronounced thereon. (1947, c. 482.)

§ 15-179. When state may appeal.—An appeal to the supreme or superior court may be taken by the state in the following cases, and no other. Where judgment has been given for the defendant—

1. Upon a special verdict.
2. Upon a demurrer.
3. Upon a motion to quash.
4. Upon arrest of judgment.
5. Upon a motion for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence, but only on questions of law.
6. Upon declaring a statute unconstitutional. (Rev., s. 3276; Code, s. 1237; 1945, c. 701; C. S. 4649.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment inserted the words "or superior" in line two and added subdivisions 5 and 6.

As to appeals by the state, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 338.

Judgment Bases on Unconstitutionality of Statute.—Where the court enters judgment of not guilty, after a purported special verdict, on the conclusion that the statute on which the criminal prosecution was based is unconstitutional, the state has no right of appeal under this section. State v. Mitchell, 225 N. C. 42, 33 S. E. (2d) 134.

An appeal by the state from a judgment granting a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence falls within the expression "and no other," as used in this section, albeit the state seeks to present only a question of law. State v. Todd, 224 N. C. 776, 32 S. E. (2d) 313.

Applied in State v. Lovelace, 228 N. C. 186, 45 S. E. (2d) 48; State v. Glidden Co., 228 N. C. 664, 46 S. E. (2d) 860.

Appeals in Criminal Cases, etc.—

The statute does not provide for an appeal in criminal cases except from a final judgment. Hence, upon the indictment of members of the armed forces of the United States by state authorities, an appeal from an adverse ruling on objection to jurisdiction is premature. State v. Inman, 224 N. C. 531, 31 S. E. (2d) 641.

Applied in State v. Cannon, 227 N. C. 336, 42 S. E. (2d) 343.

Applied in State v. Lampkin, 227 N. C. 620, 44 S. E. (2d) 30; State v. Parrott, 228 N. C. 752, 46 S. E. (2d) 851.

Cited in State v. Brooks, 224 N. C. 627, 31 S. E. (2d) 754.

The affidavit for appeal in forma pauperis must be made during the trial term or within ten days after the adjournment thereof in order for the supreme court to acquire jurisdiction of the appeal, but in a capital case the supreme court will nevertheless examine the exception or exceptions defendant undertakes to have considered on the appeal. State v. Harrell, 226 N. C. 743, 40 S. E. (2d) 205.

Art. 19. Execution.

Cited in State v. Hawley, 229 N. C. 167, 48 S. E. (2d) 35; State v. Gibson, 229 N. C. 497, 50 S. E. (2d) 520.

Cited in State v. Montgomery, 227 N. C. 100, 40 S. E. (2d) 614.

Judgment Must Show Degree of Murder.—Where the judgment upon a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree states that the defendant had been convicted of murder, the cause must be remanded in order that it appear on the face of the judgment that the conviction was for murder in the first degree, since the judgment alone is certified to the warden of the state penitentiary. State v. Montgomery, 227 N. C. 100, 40 S. E. (2d) 614.

§ 15-190. A guard or guards or other person to be named and designated by the warden to execute sentence.

Cited in State v. Montgomery, 227 N. C. 100, 40 S. E. (2d) 614.

Upon appeal from sentence of death, it is necessary that the supreme court find that there was no error in the trial before the sentence can be carried out. State v. Hawley, 229 N. C. 167, 48 S. E. (2d) 35.

Art. 20. Suspension of Sentence and Probation.

An order suspending the imposition or execution of sentence on condition is favorable to the defendant, and when he sits by as the order is entered and does not appeal, he impliedly consents and thereby waives or abandons his right to appeal on the principal issue of his guilt or innocence and commits himself to abide by the stipulated conditions. He may not thereafter complain that his conviction was not in accord with due process of law. He is relegated to his right to contest imposition of judgment or execution of sentence for want of evidence to support a finding that conditions imposed have been breached, or that the conditions are unreasonable or unenforceable, or are for an unreasonable length of time. And the court may not pronounce judgment or invoke execution, after adjournment of the term, so long as defendant observes the conditions imposed. State v. Miller, 225 N. C. 213, 34 S. E. (2d) 143.

Where on conviction of defendant in a criminal case and judgment and execution are suspended on condition, without appeal taken, the court moves to impose sentence on the grounds of conditions broken, the defenses available to defendant involve questions of fact for the judge and not issues of fact for the jury, and no appeal is provided by statute from an adverse ruling, so that defendant's remedy is by certiorari or recordari. Art. 21. Segregation of Youthful Offenders.

§ 15-210. Purpose of article.—It is the purpose of this article to improve the chances of rehabilitation of youthful offenders sentenced to imprisonment by preventing, as far as practicable, their association during their terms of imprisonment with older and more experienced criminals. (1947, c. 262, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For brief comment on article, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 404. As to prison camp for youthful and first term offenders, see §§ 148-49.1 to 148-49.5.

§ 15-211. Definition of "youthful offender."—As used in this article a "youthful offender" is a person

(1) Who, at the time of imposition of sentence, is less than twenty-one years of age, and

(2) Who has not previously served a term or terms or parts thereof totaling more than six months in jail or other prison. (1947, c. 262, s. 1.)

§ 15-212. Sentence of youthful offender.—Any judge of any court who sentences a youthful offender to imprisonment in the state prison or to jail to be assigned to work under the state highway and public works commission, if in his opinion such person will be benefited by being kept separate, while performing his sentence, from prisoners other than youthful offenders, shall, as a part of the sentence of such person, provide that he shall be segregated as a youthful offender. (1947, c. 262, s. 1.)

§ 15-213. Duty of state highway and public works commission as to segregation of youthful offenders.—The state highway and public works commission shall segregate all youthful offenders whose sentences provide for such segregation and shall neither quarter nor work such prisoners, except in cases of emergency or when temporarily necessary, with other prisoners not coming within that classification.

The state highway and public works commission shall, in so far as is possible, provide personnel specially qualified by training, experience and personality to operate units that may be set up to effect the segregation provided in this article. (1947, c. 262, s. 1.)

§ 15-214. Extension to persons sentenced prior to July 1st, 1947.—(a) The benefits of this article, as far as practicable, shall also be extended to:

(1) All persons who on July 1st, 1947, shall be serving sentences in the state prison or sentences to jail with assignment to work under the state highway and public works commission, and

(2) All persons who shall be so sentenced prior to July 1st, 1947, even though they begin to serve such sentences after that date,

Provided such persons at the time of imposition of sentence came within the meaning of the term "youthful offender" as used in this article.

(b) The state highway and public works commission shall determine which of the prisoners coming within the provisions of subsection (a) of this section will probably be benefited by being segregated as provided in § 15-213, and such prisoners shall thereafter be so segregated as if their sentences so provided. (1947, c. 262, s. 1.)

§ 15-215. Termination of segregation.—The state highway and public works commission shall have authority to terminate the segregation as a youthful offender of any prisoner who, in the opinion of the commission, exercises a bad influence upon his fellow prisoners, or fails to take proper advantage of the opportunities offered by such segregation. (1947, c. 262, s. 1.)

§ 15-216. Persons to whom article not applicable.—(a) Since offenders who may be sentenced to terms of less than six months, but who come within the meaning of the term "youthful offender" as used in this article, may be placed upon probation if the judge imposing sentence is of the opinion that they may be rehabilitated, this article shall not apply to any person sentenced for a term of less than six months.

(b) Since special provision has already been made for suitable quarters for women prisoners, and since judges may specifically assign women convicted of offenses to such quarters, this article shall not apply to women. (1947, c. 262, s. 1.)

Chapter 17. Habeas Corpus.

Art. 2. Application.

Proceedings to obtain control of a minor child between persons with whom the child had been placed for adoption and welfare officers seeking to place the child with his family are not proceedings under this section, to set the infant free but is a proceeding to fix and determine the right of custody. In re Thompson, 228 N. C. 74, 44 S. E. (2d) 475.

Habeas corpus is inappropriate to test the validity of a trial which resulted in conviction and final judgment against petitioner, both by reason of established procedure and also by this section. In re Taylor, 229 N. C. 297, 49 S. E. (2d) 749.

Art. 7. Habeas Corpus for Custody of Children in Certain Cases.

When Section Applies.—Habeas corpus to determine the right to the custody of a child applies only when the issue arises between husband and wife who are living in a state of separation without being divorced. Robbins v. Robbins, 229 N. C. 430, 50 S. E. (2d) 183. Such jurisdiction is ousted immediately upon the filing of the complaint in an action for divorce between the parties. Phipps v. Vannoy, 229 N. C. 629, 50 S. E. (2d) 906.

Proceeding Is Equitable.—A proceeding under this section, involving custody of children, is, notwithstanding the fact that it is statutory, equitable, in view of the wide latitude given the court, the definite personal nature of the orders, and the fact that the welfare and rights of infants are involved. In re Biggers, 226 N. C. 647, 39 S. E. (2d) 805, 806.

A decree awarding custody under this section does not oust the jurisdiction of the court under § 50-13 to hear and determine a motion in the cause for the custody of the child in a subsequent divorce action between the parties. Robbins v. Robbins, 229 N. C. 430, 50 S. E. (2d) 183.

Jurisdiction of Juvenile Court.—

Original jurisdiction has been conferred upon the juvenile court, under § 110-21, to find a child delinquent or neglected, but this statute does not repeal this section, and is not inconsistent therewith. The Superior Court as such has exclusive jurisdiction, by writ of habeas corpus, to hear and determine the custody of children of parents separated but not divorced. In re Prevatt, 223 N. C. 833. 28 S. E. (2d) 564.

Controversy between Father and Maternal Grandparents.—See In re McGraw, 228 N. C. 46, 44 S. E. (2d) 349.

Same—Jurisdiction of Juvenile Court.—It has been held that habeas corpus is not an appropriate writ to determine the custody of a child in a controversy between the father and the parents of his deceased wife, but that jurisdiction of such a case is vested exclusively in the juvenile court by § 110-21(3). Phipps v. Vannoy, 229 N. C. 629, 50 S. E. (2d) 906. But see next following paragraph.

Same—Effect of 1949 Amendment to § 50-13.—It seems that the 1949 amendment to § 50-13 was intended to overrule Phipps v. Vannoy, 229 N. C. 629, 50 S. E. (2d) 906, in so far as it held that original jurisdiction was in the juvenile court under § 110-21(3) to determine custody of a child as between the father and the child's maternal grandparents, when the mother had secured custody in the divorce action but subsequently died. The amendment provides that controversies not provided for in this section or elsewhere in § 50-13 may be determined in a special proceeding instituted by either of the parents, or by the surviving parent if the other be dead, in the superior court of the county wherein the petitioner, or the respondent or the child is a resident at the time of filing the petition. 27 N. C. Law Rev. 452.

Modification of Earlier Order.—In a proceeding under this section the contention that entry of an earlier order was res judicata and therefore court had no authority to modify order at subsequent term without allegations or affidavits showing conditions had changed was without merit where earlier order specified that for change in conditions question of custody could be further heard and modification was based on finding of fact that there had been substantial change in circumstances of parties. Ridenhour v. Ridenhour, 225 N. C. 508, 35 S. E. (2d) 617.

Judgment Based on Consent of Parties.—When the jurisdiction of court is invoked, a judgment based on consent of parties is not a mere affirmation of a civil contract, but an order which carries with it the sanctions of the jurisdiction invoked, and one of those sanctions is imprisonment for contempt of court. In re Biggers, 226 N. C. 647, 39 S. E. (2d) 805, 806.

Effect of Failure to Give Notice.—In a proceeding under this section, the failure to give statutory notice of the hearing, when a full hearing was had, was held not to invalidate an order with respect to care and custody. Ridenhour v. Ridenhour, 225 N. C. 508, 35 S. E. (2d) 617.

No Action by Father of Illegitimate Child.—Habeas corpus will not lie at the instance of the father of an illegitimate child to obtain its custody and control from its mother. In re McGraw, 228 N. C. 46, 44 S. E. (2d) 349.

Applied in In re Barwick, 228 N. C. 113, 44 S. E. (2d) 599; In re Biggers, 228 N. C. 743, 47 S. E. (2d) 32.

Chapter 18. Regulation of Intoxicating Liquors.

Art. 1. The Turlington Act.

The Turlington Act remains in full force and effect except as modified by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act of 1937, codified as article 3 of this chapter, and as thus modified is the primary law in territory which has not elected to come under the A. B. C. Act. State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904.

The Two Acts Must Be Read Together.—To ascertain the status of the law regulating the possession, transportation, and sale or possession for the purpose of sale, of intoxicating beverages in nonconforming territory—territory where A. B. C. stores have not been established — the Turlington Act and the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act of 1937 must be read together. State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904.

Sloe Gin Is Intoxicating Liquor.—Testimony that defendant had in his possession sloe gin is evidence of possession of intoxicating liquor. State v. Holbrook, 228 N. C. 582, 46 S. E. (2d) 842.

Cited in McCotter v. Reel, 223 N. C. 486, 27 S. E. (2d) 149.

State's Regulations in Relation to Interstate Commerce Clause.—Both by the Constitution of the United States (Amendment XXI) and this chapter liquor has been placed in a category somewhat different from other articles of commerce, and the State's regulations thereof should not be held obnoxious to the interstate commerce clause, unless clearly in conflict with granted federal powers and congressional action thereunder. State v. Hall, 224 N. C. 314, 30 S. E. (2d) 158.

The exemption from criminal liability for the transportation of liquor into or through a county not within the provisions of article 3 of this chapter applies to liquor being transported from a county which is under the provisions of § 18-49, or from without the state as provided in § 18-58. State v. Holbrook, 228 N. C. 582, 46 S. E. (2d) 842. See State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904.

The possession of nontax-paid liquor in any quantity anywhere in the state is, without exception, unlawful. State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904.

Possession of One Gallon of Tax-Paid Liquor for Personal Use.—A person living in a county which has not elected to come under the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act may lawfully transport to and keep in his private dwelling, for his own use, not more than one gallon of tax-paid liquor; but subject to this exception, possession within such territory of any quantity of liquor is prima facie evidence that its possession is in violation of this section. State v. Wilson, 227 N. C. 43, 40 S. E. (2d) 449.

A person living in nonconforming territory may lawfully transport, in sealed containers, to his own private dwelling for family uses, not in excess of one gallon of tax-paid liquor at any one time, provided it is acquired from an A. B. C. store in this state or legally purchased in another state (§§ 18-49, 18-58), and he may there keep and possess the same for family use. State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904.

Burden of Showing Right to Possess.—The Turlington Act contemplates that no person shall transport or have in his possession for the purpose of sale any intoxicating liquor. There are exceptions and, ordinarily, the burden is on him who asserts that he comes within the exception to show by way of defense that he is one of that class authorized by law to have intoxicants in his possession. State v. Gordon, 224 N. C. 304, 30 S. E. (2d) 43. See also notes to §§ 18-49 and 18-58.

Purchase or Sale in Mecklenburg County.—The Alcoholic Beverage Control Acts have not modified this section in such a manner as to permit the purchase or sale of intoxicating liquors in Mecklenburg County, which has not authorized the establishment of A. B. C. stores. State v. Gray, 223 N. C. 120, 25 S. E. (2d) 434.

Evidence That Liquor Is Not Tax-Paid Admissible.—In a prosecution under this section, evidence tending to show that the liquor in defendant's possession was not tax-paid is competent. State v. Wilson, 227 N. C. 43, 40 S. E. (2d) 449.

Testimony by officers searching without a warrant that they found a quantity of nontax-paid liquor in defendant's car was held competent. State v. Vanhoy, 230 N. C. 162, 52 S. E. (2d) 278.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—Evidence that officers found two full bottles of nontax-paid whiskey in defendant's car immediately after arresting him for driving the car recklessly and at excessive speed is sufficient to support his conviction of illegal transportation of intoxicating liquor. State v. Vanhoy, 230 N. C. 162, 52 S. E. (2d) 278.

Same—To Deny Nonsuit.—

The state's evidence tending to show that officers found in defendant's car, which defendant was driving, four fifth-gallon bottles of intoxicating liquor intact and four broken bottles from which some of the contents had leaked out, all of which contained or had contained sloe gin, is sufficient to overrule defendant's motion to nonsuit in a prosecution under this section for transportation and possession of intoxicating liquor in a county which has not elected to come under article 3 of this chapter. State v. Holbrook, 228 N. C. 582, 46 S. E. (2d) 842.

The charge in a prosecution for the unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquor was held to be in substantial compliance with the requirements of § 1-180. State v. Vanhoy, 230 N. C. 162, 52 S. E. (2d) 278.

§ 18-6. Seizure of liquor or conveyance; arrests; sale of property.—When any officer of the law shall discover any person in the act of transporting, in violation of the law, intoxicating liquor in any wagon, buggy, automobile, water or air craft, or other vehicle, it shall be his duty to seize any and all intoxicating liquor found therein being transported contrary to law. Whenever intoxicating liquor transported or possessed illegally shall be seized by an officer he shall take possession of the vehicle and team or automobile, boat, air or water craft, or any other conveyance, and shall arrest any person in charge thereof. Such officer shall at once proceed against the person arrested under the provisions of this article in any court having competent jurisdiction; but the said vehicle or conveyance shall be returned to the owner upon execution by him of a good and valid bond, with sufficient sureties, in a sum double the value of the property, which said bond shall be approved by said officer and shall be conditioned to return said property to the custody of said officer on the day of trial to abide the judgment of the court. All liquor seized under this section shall be held and shall upon the acquittal of the person so charged be returned to the established owner, and shall within ten days from conviction or default of appearance of such person be destroyed: Provided that any taxpaid liquor so seized shall within ten days be turned over to the board of county commissioners, which shall within ninety days from the receipt thereof turn it over to hospitals for medicinal purposes, or sell it to legalized alcoholic beverage control stores within the state of North Carolina, the proceeds of such sale being placed in the school fund of the county in which such seizure was made, or destroy it. Unless the claimant can show that the property seized is his property, and that the same was used in transporting liquor without his knowledge and consent, with the right on the part of the claimant to have a jury pass upon his claim, the court shall order a sale by public auction of the property seized, and the officer making the sale, after deducting the expenses of keeping the property, the fee for the seizure, and the cost of the sale, shall pay all liens, according to their priorities, which are established, by intervention or otherwise at said hearing or in other proceeding brought for said purpose, as being bona fide and as having been created without the lienor having any notice that the carrying vehicle was being used for illegal transportation of liquor, and shall pay the balance of the proceeds to the treasurer or the proper officer in the county who receives fines and forfeitures, to be used for the school fund of the county. All liens against property sold under the provisions of this section shall be transferred from the property to the proceeds of the sale of the property. If, however, no one shall be found claiming the team, vehicle, water or air craft, or automobile, the taking of the same, with a description thereof, shall be advertised in some newspaper published in the city or county where taken, or, if there be no newspaper published in such city or county, in a newspaper having circulation in the county, once a week for two weeks and by handbills posted in three public places near the place of seizure, and if no claimant shall appear within ten days after the last publication of the advertisement, the property shall be sold, and the proceeds, after deducting the expenses and costs, shall be paid to the treasurer or proper officer in the county who receives fines and forfeitures, to be used for the school fund of the county: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize any officer to search any automobile or other vehicle or baggage of any person without a search warrant duly issued, except where the officer sees or has absolute personal knowledge that there is intoxicating liquor in such vehicle or baggage (1923, c. 1, s. 6; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 3411(f).)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment inserted the provisions as to returning seized liquor to the owner, turning it over to hospitals or selling it.

This section does not provide for seizure of all intoxicating liquor found in vehicle, but for seizure of any and all intoxicating liquor found therein being transported contrary to law. State v. Gordon, 225 N. C. 241, 34 S. E. (2d) 414.

Confiscation and Forfeiture Are Mandatory.—Where one, who was in possession of seized liquor at the time he was arrested for unlawful acts with respect thereto, pleads guilty to charges of unlawful possession and unlawful transportation of this liquor and thereupon personal judgment is rendered against him, the provisions of this section are mandatory that the judgment also order the confiscation and forfeiture of the liquor so unlawfully possessed and transported. State v. Hall, 224 N. C. 314, 30 S. E. (2d) 158.

Jurisdiction to declare forfeiture of a vehicle used in the transportation of intoxicating liquor is in the court which has jurisdiction of the offense charged against the person operating the vehicle. State v. Reavis, 228 N. C. 18, 44 S. E. (2d) 354.

Order Confiscating Car. — Defendant admitted ownership of the car in which two bottles of nontax-paid whiskey were being transported at the time of his arrest, and he was found guilty of unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquor. This was held sufficient to sustain the court's order confiscating his car and ordering it sold in conformity with the statute. State v. Vanhoy, 230 N. C. 162, 52 S. E. (2d) 278.

Order for Forfeiture Nunc Pro Tunc.—Where defendant has been convicted of illegal transportation of nontax-paid liquor, the court may at a subsequent term enter an order nunc pro tunc for the forfeiture and sale of the vehicle used for such transportation. State v. Mayhor, 226 N. C. 645, 39 S. E. (2d) 833.

Where a vehicle is seized by a municipal police officer for illegal transportation of intoxicating liquor, the vehicle is in the custody of the officer or of the law and not the municipality. State v. Law, 227 N. C. 103, 40 S. E. (2d) 699.

Cited in State v. Gordon, 224 N. C. 304, 30 S. E. (2d) 43.

§ 18-6.1. Officers to refer to state courts cases involving vehicles seized and arrests made for unlawful transportation.—All members of the state highway patrol and other state and local law enforcing officers shall, whenever seizing any vehicle on account of the unlawful transportation of intoxicating beverages, or making arrests of persons on account of same, refer the cases to the state court having jurisdiction thereof, to be determined by such state court in accordance with the law of this state. Any such officer who shall, in violation of this section, refer such cases to courts of another jurisdiction, shall be guilty of misfeasance in office and subject to a fine of one hundred dollars ($100.00). (1945, c. 779.)

Only a witness required to testify under compulsion is granted immunity from prosecution by this section. Hence an officer, who purchased liquor in order to obtain evidence against a suspect and voluntarily testified for the prosecution, could not claim the immunity afforded by this section, and it was error to instruct the jury to the contrary. State v. Love, 229 N. C. 99, 47 S. E. (2d) 712.

Section Does Not Apply in Prosecution under § 18-50.—The statutory presumption from the fact of possession does not arise in a prosecution under § 18-50 for possessing nontax-paid liquor for the purpose of sale. State v. McNeill, 225 N. C. 560, 35 S. E. (2d) 629.

The possession in one's dwelling of not more than one gallon of liquor upon which the tax has been paid raises no presumption that the possession is unlawful. This applies even though the dwelling is in dry territory. And in order to convict the state must establish by independent evidence, unaided by any presumption, that the possession is unlawful. In such case, in the absence of evidence of possession of nontax-paid liquor or more than one gallon of tax-paid intoxicating beverage, prima facie evidence of the violation of the statute is wanting. State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904.

The presence of four bottles containing less than a gallon of whiskey in a cabin near his filling station which was occupied by defendant would not be sufficient to constitute prima facie evidence that the liquor was being kept for the purpose of sale. State v. Watts, 224 N. C. 771, 32 S. E. (2d) 348.

Where a person has in his possession tax-paid intoxicating liquors in quantity not in excess of one gallon, in his private dwelling in a county in which the sale of such intoxicating liquors is not authorized by § 18-36 et seq., nothing else appearing, such possession is not now prima facie evidence that such intoxicants are so possessed for the purpose of sale under this section. State v. Suddreth, 223 N. C. 610, 27 S. E. (2d) 623.

Proof of the possession of more than one gallon of intoxicating liquor, even though it is found in the private dwelling of defendant and the tax thereon has been paid, is prima facie evidence that such liquor is unlawfully possessed and is being kept for the purpose of sale. Defendant is protected against the presumption of illegality or the rule of evidence created by this section only so long as he does not possess more than one gallon. Where he possesses more than one gallon he has the burden to rebut the prima facie evidence by showing that such possession not only comes within the exceptive provisions of this section, but also that it was legally acquired and transported to his dwelling and kept there for family uses only. State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904. See §§ 18-49, 18-58.

Evidence tending to show that more than one gallon of intoxicating liquor upon which the tax had not been paid was found in a house owned by defendant in dry territory justifies an instruction to the effect that it is unlawful to possess at any one time more than one gallon of intoxicating liquor even in the possessor's home when defendant offers no evidence tending to show that the liquor was acquired from an A. B. C. store in this state or was purchased in another state and legally transported to his residence in quantities of not more than one gallon at any one time. State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904.

Burden of Proving Proper Purposes.—

The provision of this section making it lawful to possess liquor in a private dwelling for family purposes is an exception to the general rule, and the burden of proof in respect thereto is on defendant. State v. Wilson, 227 N. C. 43, 40 S. E. (2d) 449.

Testimony that defendant frequently sleeps in a house is insufficient to show that it is his private dwelling within the meaning of this section. State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904.

Instruction Using Language of This Section Proper.—In a prosecution for unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale in a county which has not elected to come under the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, the court may properly charge the law in the language of this section and § 18-13, since the law therein stated constitutes a material part of the law of the case. State v. Wilson, 227 N. C. 43, 40 S. E. (2d) 449.

Prima Facie Case for Jury.—In a prosecution for the unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale, evidence that defendant, who resided four miles from the still, came to the still and got one-half gallon of nontax-paid whiskey and left with it, is sufficient to make out a prima facie case for the jury. State v. Graham, 224 N. C. 347, 30 S. E. (2d) 151.

Where, in a prosecution under § 18-2 for unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale in a county which has not elected to come under the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, the state offers evidence that defendant had in his possession approximately 17½ gallons of liquor, and there is no evidence that defendant's possession was for the use of himself, his family and bona fide guests, defendant's motion to nonsuit is properly denied, since this section applies. State v. Wilson, 227 N. C. 43, 40 S. E. (2d) 449.

Stated in State v. Peterson, 226 N. C. 255, 37 S. E. (2d) 591.

Legislative Intent.—Our statutes seem to indicate the legislative intent to be that liquor itself, when the subject of unlawful traffic and capable of harmful effects, offends the law and should be regarded as a nuisance and contraband, to be summarily destroyed or otherwise disposed of. Only in case of failure to establish a violation of the law is the restoration of the liquor permitted. However, the processes of our courts are available to anyone legally interested to present his claim for seized liquor, and his plea will be heard. State v. Hall, 224 N. C. 314, 30 S. E. (2d) 158.

Hearing Contemplated.—While § 18-6 provides only for a hearing in respect of the seized vehicle used in transporting intoxicating liquor contrary to law, because thereunder the liquor itself is to be destroyed, this section clearly contemplates a hearing in the criminal case to determine the "established owner" or rightful claimant. This remedy appears adequate and is approved. State v. Gordon, 225 N. C. 241, 34 S. E. (2d) 414.

Local Modification.—Montgomery: 1949, c. 68, s. 1.

This section shall apply to the following counties only: Alleghany, Ashe, Avery, Bladen, Buncombe, Caswell, Catawba, Chowan, Craven, Duplin, Forsyth, Beaufort, Hyde, Hoke, Lee, Lenoir, Lincoln, Mecklenburg, New Hanover, Onslow, Pamlico, Pender, Perquimans, Richmond, Rockingham, Sampson, Scotland, Vance, Wake, Washington, Watauga, Wilkes, Wilson and Yancey. (1927, c. 42; Pub. Loc. 1933, c. 160; 1947, c. 207.)

The 1947 amendment inserted "Scotland" in the list of counties in the second paragraph. As the first paragraph was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

3. The possession of more than one gallon of wine at any one time, whether in one or more places; or

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment substituted in subsection 3 the words "one gallon of wine" for the words "three gallons of vinous liquors." As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out. Section 1 of the amendatory act provides that the types of wine included under the provisions of this act shall include all types of wine as defined in subsection (b) of § 18-64 and article 5 of this chapter. And section 4½ of the amendatory act provides that it shall apply only to the counties and cities that have or may establish alcoholic beverage control stores.

Section Harmonizes with § 18-11.—The provisions of § 18-11 are subjective in character, and harmonize with the prima facie rule of evidence as to possession of more than one gallon of spirituous liquors as contained in this section. State v. Suddreth, 223 N. C. 610, 615, 27 S. E. (2d) 623.

Instructions.—Where an instruction, that "the possession of more than one gallon of liquor constitutes prima facie evidence of unlawful possession for the purpose of sale in violation of G. S., 18-32," is directed to a count charging unlawful possession for the purpose of sale, and defendant is convicted on that count and on two other counts of unlawful possession, and sentences imposed run concurrently, conceding the charge to be erroneous, it cannot avail defendant, who must show error affecting the whole case. State v. Gordon, 224 N. C. 304, 30 S. E. (2d) 43.

Evidence.—

In a criminal prosecution, charging defendant with the possession of whiskey for purpose of sale, where the state's evidence showed the presence of four tax-paid, unbroken bottles, containing less than a gallon of whiskey, in the cabin of defendant near his filling station, and four other tax-paid, unbroken bottles, containing four-fifths of a gallon in another cabin near-by on defendant's premises, occupied by a woman who claimed these four bottles as her own purchase for her own use, the evidence was insufficient to make out a prima facie case. State v. Watts, 224 N. C. 771, 32 S. E. (2d) 348.

Evidence Sufficient to Support Adverse Verdict.—Evidence in State v. Gordon, 224 N. C. 304, 307, 30 S. E. (2d) 43, held amply sufficient to support an adverse verdict without resort to any statutory presumption, as provided in this section.

Stated in State v. Peterson, 226 N. C. 255, 37 S. E. (2d) 591.

Art. 3. Alcoholic Beverage Control Act of 1937.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Act is of statewide operation but does not repeal the Turlington Act, which remains in full force except as modified by the A. B. C. Act. State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904. See note to § 18-1.

Prima Facie Evidence of Possession for Purpose of Sale. Where a person has in his possession so-called tax-paid intoxicating liquors in quantity not in excess of one gallon in his private dwelling in a county in which the sale of such intoxicating liquors is not authorized under and by virtue of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, nothing else appearing, such possession is not now prima facie evidence that such intoxicating liquors are possessed by such person for the purpose of being sold, and such prima facie rule of evidence, prescribed by § 18-11, is in irreconcilable conflict with the provisions of this article, and to such extent is repealed thereby. State v. Suddreth, 223 N. C. 610, 613, 27 S. E. (2d) 623.

(n) To permit the establishment of warehouses for the storage of alcoholic beverages within the state, the storage of alcoholic beverages in warehouses already established, and to prescribe rules and regulations for the storage of such beverages and the withdrawal of the same therefrom. Such warehousing or bailment of alcoholic beverages as may be made hereunder shall be for the convenience of delivery to alcoholic boards of control and others authorized to purchase the same and shall be under the strict supervision and subject to all of the rules and regulations of the state board of control relating thereto. (1937, c. 49, s. 4, cc. 237, 411; 1945, c. 954.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment inserted the words "and others" after the word "control" in line nine of subsection (n). As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

§ 18-48. Possession illegal if taxes not paid; punishment and forfeiture for violations; possession in container without proper stamp, prima facie evidence.

Possession Unlawful without Exception.—The possession of nontax-paid liquor in any quantity anywhere in the state is, without exception, unlawful. State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904.

This section and § 18-50 are on an equal footing, and neither prescribes nor includes a lesser offense or an offense of lesser degree. State v. McNeill, 225 N. C. 560, 35 S. E. (2d) 629.

Sufficiency of Warrant.—A warrant which, stripped of nonessential words, charges defendant with unlawful possession of a quantity of nontax-paid whiskey, is sufficient to survive a motion to quash. State v. Camel, 230 N. C. 426, 53 S. E. (2d) 313.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—In a prosecution under this section on a warrant charging possession of nontax-paid liquor, evidence by the state that six gallons of liquor and a jar of "white liquor" were found on defendant's premises, without evidence that the containers did not bear a revenue stamp of the federal government or a stamp of any of the county A. B. C. boards, is insufficient to sustain conviction. The court will not take judicial notice that "white liquor" means nontax-paid liquor. State v. Wolf, 230 N. C. 267, 52 S. E. (2d) 920.

Evidence of defendant's illegal possession of a considerable quantity of nontax-paid whiskey was held sufficient to carry the case to the jury and his motion to nonsuit was properly denied. State v. Camel, 230 N. C. 426, 53 S. E. (2d) 313.

Confiscation of Car.—Defendant admitted ownership of the car in which two bottles of nontax-paid whiskey were being transported at the time of his arrest, and he was found guilty of unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquor. This was held sufficient to sustain the court's order confiscating his car and ordering it sold in conformity with statute. State v. Vanhoy, 230 N. C. 162, 52 S. E. (2d) 278.

§ 18-49. Transportation, not in excess of one gallon, authorized; transportation in course of delivery to stores.

Exemption Is Matter of Defense.—This section, permitting the transportation of alcoholic beverages not in excess of one gallon from a county which has elected to come under this article to another county not coming under the provisions of the article, is a matter of defense, and it is incumbent upon the defendant to bring his case within the exemption either from the state's evidence or from his own. State v. Holbrook, 228 N. C. 582, 46 S. E. (2d) 842.

Stated in State v. Peterson, 226 N. C. 255, 37 S. E. (2d) 591.

Before any person shall transport over the roads and highways of this state any alcoholic beverages in excess of one gallon within, into or through the state of North Carolina for delivery to a federal reservation exercising exclusive jurisdiction, or in transit through this state to another state, such person shall post with the state board of alcoholic beverage control a bond with surety approved by the said board, payable to the state of North Carolina in the penal sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00), running in the name of the state of North Carolina, conditioned that such person will not unlawfully transport or deliver any alcoholic beverages within, into or through the state of North Carolina, the forfeiture to be in case of conviction paid to the school fund of the county in which the seizure is made and any such county shall have the right to sue for the same. When such alcoholic beverages are desired to be transported within, into or through the state of North Carolina, such transportation shall be engaged in only under the following conditions:

(1) Statement as to Bond and Bill of Lading Required.—There shall accompany such alcoholic beverages a statement signed by the chairman or secretary of the state board of alcoholic beverage control showing that the bond hereinbefore required has been furnished and approve There shall accompany such alcoholic beverages at all times during transportation a bill of lading or other memorandum of shipment signed by the consignor showing an exact description of the alcoholic beverages being transported, the name and address of the consignor, the name and address of the consignee, the route to be traveled by such vehicle while in the state of North Carolina, and such route must be substantially the most direct route, from the consignor's place of business to the place of business of the consignee.

(2) Route Stated in Bill of Lading to Be Followed.—Vehicles transporting alcoholic beverages shall not substantially vary from the route specified in the bill of lading or other memorandum of shipment.

(3) Names of True Consignor and Consignee Must Appear.—The name of the consignor on any such bill of lading or other memorandum of shipment shall be the name of the true consignor of the alcoholic beverages being transported and such consignor shall be only a person who has a legal right to make such shipment. The name of the consignee on any such bill of lading or memorandum of shipment shall be the name of the true consignee of the alcoholic beverages being transported and who had previously authorized in writing the shipment of the alcoholic beverages being transported and who has a legal right to receive such alcoholic beverages at the point of destination shown on the bill of lading or other memorandum of shipment.

(4) Officers May Require Driver to Exhibit Papers.—The driver or any person in charge of any vehicle so transporting such alcoholic beverages shall, when required by any sheriff, deputy sheriff or other police officer having the power to make arrests, exhibit to such officer such papers or documents required by this law to accompany such shipment. (1945, c. 457, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The act inserting this and the following three sections became effective July 1, 1945.

For comment on the act inserting this and the following three sections, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 352.

§ 18-49.2. Transportation in excess of one gallon prohibited, exceptions; regulations of A. B. C. board.—The wilful transportation of alcoholic beverages within, into or through the state of North Carolina in quantities in excess of one gallon is prohibited except for delivery to federal reservations to which has been ceded exclusive jurisdiction by the state of North Carolina, or in transporting it through this state to another state in accordance with the provisions of § 18-49.1 and such regulations as may be adopted by the state board of alcoholic beverage control pursuant to this section. The state board of alcoholic beverage control may adopt further regulations governing the transportation of alcoholic beverages within, into and through the state of North Carolina in quantities in excess of one gallon, for delivery to federal reservations or in transit through this state to another state, as it may deem necessary to confine such transportation to legitimate purposes and may issue transportation permits in accordance with such regulations. (1945, c. 457, s. 2.)

§ 18-49.3. Violation of section 18-49.1 or 18-49.2 a misdemeanor; seizure and disposition of vehicle and alcoholic beverages.—Any person who shall wilfully transport alcoholic beverages in excess of one gallon within, into or through the state of North Carolina in violation of the provisions of § 18-49.1, or such regulations as may be adopted by the state board of alcoholic beverage control as authorized by § 18-49.2, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. Any vehicle so illegally transporting such alcoholic beverages and the alcoholic beverages being so illegally transported shall be taken in possession by the officer upon arrest of the person engaged in such illegal transportation and, upon conviction of such person or upon forfeiture of bond and failure of such person to appear for trial, such vehicle shall be disposed of as is provided in § 18-6 and any alcoholic beverages so seized shall be disposed of as is provided in § 18-13. (1945, c. 457, s. 3.)

§ 18-49.4. Exceptions to the application of sections 18-49.1 to 18-49.3.—The provisions of §§ 18-49.1 to 18-49.3 shall not apply to those beverages defined in § 18-64 purchased from a person licensed to sell the same in this state, and those light wines which may be transported as authorized by article six of this chapter, and the wines defined in article five of this chapter. Nothing in said §§ 18-49.1 to 18-49.3 shall be construed to prevent the transportation of alcoholic beverages to be sold under the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven, and amendments thereto, or to prevent the transportation of alcoholic beverages not in excess of one gallon, as authorized by law prior to the passage of said sections; nothing contained in the said sections shall be construed to prohibit the transportation in this state of alcoholic beverages legally acquired for one's own personal use and transported as now authorized by the laws of this state; and nothing contained in the said sections shall affect sleeping car companies or railroads in the lawful operations of their business. (1945, c. 457, ss. 3, 4.)

No Presumption of Intent to Sell Arises from Possession.—In a prosecution under this section no presumption of intent to sell arises from the unlawful possession of illicit liquor, and the state must prove not only unlawful possession of illicit liquor but also the intent to sell, unaided by any presumption or rule of evidence. State v. Peterson, 226 N. C. 255, 37 S. E. (2d) 591; State v. Wilson, 227 N. C. 43, 40 S. E. (2d) 449.

One Charged with Violation of This Section Cannot Be Convicted under § 18-48.—Where defendant was charged with violation of this section and there was no other count or charge in the warrant she could not be convicted under § 18-48, as these two statutes defining misdemeanors are on equal footing and neither prescribes nor includes a lesser offense or offense of lesser degree. State v. McNeill, 225 N. C. 560, 35 S. E. (2d) 629.

A conviction on insufficient evidence on a warrant charging unlawful possession of illicit liquor for the purpose of sale under this section, cannot be sustained on the ground that the evidence might be sufficient to sustain a conviction of possession of a quantity of nontax-paid liquor under § 18-48. State v. Peterson, 226 N. C. 255, 37 S. E. (2d) 591.

Evidence Insufficient to Carry Case to Jury.—In prosecution under this section evidence tending to show that officers of the law were reluctantly admitted in defendant's house, that the officers heard whispering within the house before they were admitted, that in the kitchen there were defendant, his wife, and a man with whiskey on his breath, and in the front room a man and a woman, that they found in the kitchen a half-gallon jar, with a few drops of whiskey in it, and two glasses and a five-gallon bucket of slops, nearly full, smelling of liquor, and that there was fifty cents in change on the stove, was insufficient to overrule motion for judgment as of nonsuit. State v. Peterson, 226 N. C. 255, 37 S. E. (2d) 591.

In prosecution under this section where only evidence offered by the state was through its officers, including police officer's uncontradicted testimony that defendant said nontax-paid liquor found in the room was for sick child, such evidence negatived possession for the purpose of sale, and was insufficient to carry case to jury. State v. McNeill, 225 N. C. 560, 35 S. E. (2d) 629.

One-Gallon Exemption Is Matter of Defense.—The exemption from criminal liability for bringing into the state not more than one gallon of liquor is a matter of defense, and the defendant must bring his case within the exemption, either from the state's evidence or from his own. State v. Holbrook, 228 N. C. 582, 46 S. E. (2d) 842.

Cited in State v. Suddreth, 223 N. C. 610, 27 S. E. (2d) 623; State v. Barnhardt, 230 N. C. 223, 52 S. E. (2d) 904.

§ 18-61. County elections as to liquor control stores; application of Turlington Act; time of elections.

In a county which has not elected to come under the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, the Turlington Act, as modified by the later statute, is in full force and effect. State v. Wilson, 227 N. C. 43, 40 S. E. (2d) 449.

Art. 4. Beverage Control Act of 1939.

Provisions in Pari Materia.—The different provisions of Public Laws of 1939, ch. 158, relative to granting license for the sale of beer and wine, are pari materia and must be read together as one connected whole. McCotter v. Reel, 223 N. C. 486, 27 S. E. (2d) 149.

Sale of Beer.—Generally speaking, it is unlawful to sell beer in North Carolina. But the sale thereof is not unlawful, provided the seller is duly licensed under, and makes sale in accord with the provisions of this article. State v. Cochran, 230 N. C. 523, 53 S. E. (2d) 663. And see §§ 18-126, 18-129 et seq.

(b) Unfortified wines, as used in this article, shall mean wine of an alcoholic content produced only by natural fermentation or by the addition of pure cane, beet, or dextrose sugar and having an alcoholic content of not less than five per centum (5%) and not more than fourteen per centum (14%) of absolute alcohol, the per centum of alcohol to be reckoned by volume, which wine has been approved as to identity, quality and purity by the state board of alcoholic control as provided in this chapter.

The 1945 amendment, effective May 1, 1945, added that part of paragraph (b) appearing after the word "volume" in line eight. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment, effective May 1, 1945, directed that the above sentence be inserted as the second sentence of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

§ 18-68. Bottler's license.—Any person who shall engage in the business of receiving shipments of the beverages enumerated in § 18-64, subsection (a) in barrels or other containers, and bottling the same for sale to others for resale, shall pay an annual license tax of two hundred fifty dollars ($250.00); and any person who shall engage in the business of bottling the beverages described in § 18-64, subsection (b), shall pay an annual license tax of two hundred fifty dollars ($250.00): Provided, however, that any person engaged in the business of bottling the beverages described in § 18-64, subsection (a) and also the beverages described in § 18-64, subsection (b), or either, shall pay an annual license tax of four hundred dollars ($400.00); provided further, the license provided by this section for the bottling of the beverages described in § 18-64 (b) shall not be issued to any person who does not have a permit to engage in the business of bottling the beverages described in § 18-64 (b) from the board of alcoholic control as provided in this chapter. No other license tax shall be levied upon the businesses taxed in this section, but licenses under this section shall be liable for the payment of the taxes imposed by § 18-81 in the manner therein set forth. (1939, c. 158, s. 505; 1941, c. 339, s. 4; 1945, c. 903, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment, effective May 1, 1945, added the proviso at the end of the second paragraph. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

§ 18-78. Revocation or suspension of license; rule making power of state board of alcoholic control.—If any licensee violates any of the provisions of this article or any rules and regulations under authority of this article or fails to superintend in person or through a manager, the business for which the license was issued, or allows the premises with respect to which the license was issued to be used for any unlawful, disorderly, or immoral purposes, or knowingly employs in the sale or distribution of beverages any person who has been convicted of a felony involving moral turpitude or adjudged guilty of violating the prohibition laws within two years or otherwise fails to carry out in good faith the purposes of this article, the license of any such person may be revoked by the governing board of the municipality or by the board of county commissioners after the licensee has been given an opportunity to be heard in his defense. Whenever any person, being duly licensed under this article, shall be convicted of the violation of any of the prohibition laws or of any of the provisions of this article or of any rule or regulation of the state board of alcoholic control on the premises herein licensed, it shall be the duty of the court to revoke said license. Whenever any license which has been issued by any municipality, any board of county commissioners, or by the commissioner of revenue has been revoked, it shall be unlawful to reissue said license for said premises to any person for a term of six months after the revocation of said license.

The state board of alcoholic control shall have the power to adopt, repeal and amend rules and regulations to carry out the provisions of this article and to revoke or suspend the state permit of any licensee for a violation of the provisions of this article or of any rule or regulation adopted by said board. Whenever there shall be filed with the state board of alcoholic control a certified copy of a judgment of a court convicting a licensee of a violation of the prohibition laws, of any provision of this article or of any rule or regulation issued by said board, said board shall forthwith revoke the permit of such licensee. The revocation or suspension of a permit issued by the state board of alcoholic control shall automatically revoke or suspend any and all state, county and municipal licenses issued to such licensee under the authority of this article, and the revocation or suspension of either a state, county or municipal license shall automatically revoke or suspend any other licenses issued to the licensee under the authority of this article. (1939, c. 158, s. 514; 1943, c. 400, s. 6; 1949, c. 974, s. 14.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment substituted "state board of alcoholic control" for "commissioner of revenue," and rewrote the second paragraph. Section 17 of the amendatory act provides that it shall apply to all licenses issued for the license year 1949-1950 and thereafter. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 463.

As to dismissal of certiorari to review revocation of license by town authorities for violation of this section, see Harney v. Mayor and Board of Com'rs, 229 N. C. 71, 47 S. E. (2d) 535.

§ 18-78.1. Prohibited acts under license for sale for consumption on premises.—No holder of a license authorizing the sale at retail of beverages, as defined in § 18-64, for consumption on the premises where sold, or any servant, agent, or employee of the licensee, shall do any of the following upon the licensed premises:

(1) Knowingly sell such beverages to any person under eighteen (18) years of age.

(2) Knowingly sell such beverages to any person while such person is in an intoxicated condition.

(3) Sell such beverages upon the licensed premises or permit such beverages to be consumed thereon, on any day or at any time when such sale or consumption is prohibited by law.

(4) Permit on the licensed premises any disorderly conduct, breach of peace, or any lewd, immoral, or improper entertainment, conduct, or practices.

(5) Sell, offer for sale, possess, or permit the consumption on the licensed premises of any kind of alcoholic liquors the sale or possession of which is not authorized under his license. (1943, c. 400, s. 6; 1945, c. 708, s. 6; 1949, c. 974, s. 15.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment struck out provisions as to revocation and suspension of licenses. Section 17 of the amendatory act provides that it shall apply to all licenses issued for the license year 1949-1950 and thereafter. See 27 N. C. Law Rev. 463.

§ 18-81. Additional tax.—(a) In addition to the license taxes herein levied, a tax is hereby levied upon the sale of beverages enumerated in § 18-64, subsection (a) of seven dollars and fifty cents ($7.50) per barrel of thirty-one gallons, or the equivalent of such tax in containers of more or less than thirty-one gallons, and in bottles or other containers of not more than twelve ounces, a tax of two and one-half cents per bottle or container, and in bottles or containers of the capacity of one quart, or its equivalent, a tax of six and two-thirds cents per bottle or container: Provided fruit cider of alcoholic content not exceeding that provided in this article may be sold in bottles or other containers of not more than six ounces at a tax of five-eighths of a cent per bottle or container.

(b) The payment of the tax imposed by the preceding subsection shall be evidenced as to containers of one quart, or its equivalent, or less, by the affixing of crowns or lids to such containers in which beverages are placed, received, stored, shipped, or handled, and upon which the tax has been paid at the rate prescribed in the preceding subsection.

(r) In addition to the license taxes herein levied, a tax is hereby levied upon the sale of beverages described in section 18-64, subsection (b) of sixty cents (60 cts.) per gallon. The foregoing tax to apply to naturally fermented wines. The tax on imitation, sub-standard or synthetic wines (as defined in the United States Treasury Regulations) shall be two dollars and forty cents ($2.40) per gallon.

These additional taxes levied under this subsection shall be paid to the commissioner of revenue by the wholesale distributor or bottler of such beverages.

Reports shall be made to the commissioner of revenue in such form as he may prescribe on or before the tenth day of each month, for all beverages sold by such wholesale distributor or bottler within the preceding month, and such reports when filed shall be accompanied by a remittance of the amount of tax shown to be due. Failure to file the reports herein prescribed and pay the tax as shown to be due thereon shall subject such wholesale distributor or bottler to a penalty of five per centum of the amount of the tax due, per month from the date the tax is due.

If the wholesale distributor or bottler shall refuse to make the reports required under this section, then such reports shall be made by the commissioner or his duly authorized agents from the best information available, and such reports shall be prima facie correct for the purposes of this section, and the amount of tax due thereby shall be a lien against all the property of the taxpayer until discharged by payments, and if payment is not made within thirty days after demand therefor by the commissioner or his duly authorized agents, there shall be added not more than one hundred per centum as damages, together with interest at the rate of one per centum per month from the time such tax was due. If such tax be paid within thirty days after notice by the commissioner, then there shall be added not more than ten per centum as damages, per month from the time such tax was due until paid.

The commissioner for good cause may extend the time for making any report required under the provisions of this section, and may grant such additional time within which to make such report as he may deem proper, but the time for filing any such report shall not be extended beyond the fifteenth day of the month next succeeding the regular due date of such report. If the time for filing a report be extended, interest at the rate of one-half of one per centum per month from the time the report was required to be filed to the time of payment shall be added and paid.

(s) If any dealer, either at wholesale or retail shall expose for sale or have in his possession either in storage or on display any nontax-paid beverages enumerated under § 18-64 (a) and (b), the commissioner of revenue shall have the authority to revoke any privilege license issued under this article to said dealer and said license shall not be renewed for the balance of the tax year; in addition, the commissioner may refuse to issue new license to such dealer unless the dealer can satisfactorily show to the commissioner of revenue that he will in the future comply with the provisions of this article and the rules and regulations of the commissioner issued under authority hereof.

The taxes levied in this section are in addition to the taxes levied in Schedule E of the Revenue Act.

(t) From the taxes collected annually under subsection (a) and subsection (r) of this section amounts equivalent to one-half thereof shall be allocated and distributed, upon the basis herein provided, to counties and municipalities wherein such beverages may be licensed to be sold under the provisions of this article. The amounts distributable to each county and municipality entitled to the same under the provisions of this subsection shall be determined upon the basis of population therein as shown by the latest federal decennial census. Where such beverages may be licensed to be sold in both the county and municipality, allocation of such amounts shall be made to both the county and the municipality on the basis of population. Where such beverages may be licensed to be sold in a municipality in a county wherein the sale of such beverages is otherwise prohibited, allocation of such amounts shall be made to the municipality on the basis of population; provided, however, that where the sale of such beverages is prohibited within defined areas within a county or municipality, the amounts otherwise distributable to such county or municipality on the basis of population shall be reduced in the same ratio that such areas bear to the total area of the county or municipality, and the amount of such reduction shall be retained by the state: Provided, further, that if said area within a county is a municipality for which the population is shown by the latest federal decennial census, reduction of such amounts shall be based on such population rather than on area. The commissioner of revenue shall determine the amounts distributable to each county and municipality, for the period July 1st, 1947, to September 30th, 1947, inclusive, and shall distribute such amounts within sixty (60) days thereafter; and the commissioner of revenue annually thereafter shall determine the amounts distributable to each county and municipality for each twelve-month period ending September 30th and shall distribute such amounts within sixty (60) days thereafter. Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment, effective May 1, 1945, made changes in subsections (a) and (b). It also made changes in the first paragraph of subsection (r) and inserted subsection (s) immediately before the last paragraph. The 1947 amendment made changes in subsections (a) and (r) and added subsection (t). As subsections (c) through (q) were not affected by the amendments they are not set out.

Section 10 of the 1947 amendatory act provides: "The new tax rates herein provided shall become effective July 1st, 1947, and said rates shall apply to all beverages enumerated in G. S. § 18-64 which are sold or offered for sale after that date, whether shipped into the state prior to that date or not. Prior to the sale after that date of beverages on which has been paid the tax at the rate applicable prior to that date, report shall be made to the commissioner of revenue as to such beverages and the increased tax thereon shall be paid."

§ 18-81.1. Use of funds allocated to counties and municipalities.—The funds allocated to counties and/or municipalities under subsection (t) of § 18-81 may be used by said counties or municipalities as any other general or surplus funds of said unit may be used. (1947, c. 1084, s. 11.)

§ 18-83. Nonresident manufacturers and wholesale dealers to be licensed. — From and after April thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, every nonresident desiring to engage in the business of making sales of the beverages described in § 18-64, to wholesale dealers licensed under the provisions of this article, shall first apply to the commissioner of revenue for a permit so to do. The commissioner of revenue may require of every such applicant that a bond in a sum not to exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) be executed by such applicant and deposited with the commissioner, conditioned upon the faithful compliance by such applicant with the provisions of this article, and particularly that such applicant shall not make sales of any of the beverages described in section 18-64 to any person in this state except a duly licensed wholesale dealer. Upon the payment of a license tax of one hundred fifty dollars ($150.00), if the commissioner is satisfied that said applicant is a bona fide manufacturer or distributor of the beverages defined in § 18-64, he shall then issue a permit to such applicant which shall bear a serial number. The license issued under this section to any person who does not have a permit from the board of alcoholic control as provided in this chapter for the sale for resale of beverages described in § 18-64 (b) shall only permit said licensee to engage in the business of selling for resale the beverages described in § 18-64(a). Every holder of such nonresident permit and license shall thereafter put the number of such permit on every invoice for any quantity of beverages sold by such licensee to any wholesale dealer in North Carolina. Upon the failure of any such licensee to comply with all the provisions of this article, the commissioner of revenue may revoke such permit or license.

Any resident manufacturer licensed under § 18-67 shall not be required to post the bond required by this section. (1939, c. 158, s. 518½; 1945, c. 903, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment, effective May 1, 1945, inserted the fourth sentence.

§ 18-83.1. Resident wholesalers shall not purchase beverages for resale from unlicensed nonresidents.—It shall be unlawful for any resident wholesale distributor or bottler to purchase any of the beverages described in § 18-64 for resale within this state from any nonresident who has not procured the permit or license required in the preceding section. (1945, c. 708, s. 6.)

§ 18-88.1. Wine for sacramental purposes exempt from tax.—The tax levied in this article upon the sale of beverages described in § 18-64 (b) shall not apply to sacramental wines received by ordained ministers of the gospel under the provisions of § 18-21. (1945, c. 708, s. 6.)

§ 18-89. Administrative provisions. — The commissioner of revenue and the authorized agents of the state department of revenue shall have and exercise all the rights, duties, powers, and responsibilities in enforcing this article that are enumerated in the Revenue Act in administering taxes levied in Schedule B of that act. Any person, firm or corporation engaging in any activity for which a state, county, or municipal license is required under this article without obtaining said license, or continuing any such activity after the expiration of any state, county, or municipal license, granted under this article, shall be subject to the same liability for criminal prosecution, and for penalties, as is prescribed in § 105-109. (1939, c. 158, s. 523; 1945, c. 708, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment, effective May 1, 1945, added the second sentence.

§ 18-90.2. Revocation of license upon revocation of permit.—Whenever the state board of alcoholic control shall certify to the commissioner of revenue that any permit issued by said board under the provisions of this chapter has been cancelled or revoked, the commissioner of revenue shall thereupon immediately revoke any license which has been issued under this article to the person whose permit has been revoked by said board, and such revocation by the commissioner shall not entitle the person whose license was revoked to any refund of taxes or license fees paid for or under said license. (1945, c. 903, s. 12.)

§ 18-91.1. Persons, firms, or corporations engaged in more than one business to pay on each.— When any person, firm or corporation is engaged in more than one business or trade which is made under the provisions of this article subject to state license taxes, such person, firm, or corporation shall pay the license taxes prescribed in this article for each separate business or trade. (1945, c. 708, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendments struck out the word "not" formerly appearing after the word "quantities" in line eight.

§ 18-99. Application of other laws; sale of sweet wines; licensing of wholesale distributors. — The provisions of article 3 of this chapter shall apply to fortified wines: Provided, in any county in which the operation of alcoholic beverage control stores is authorized by law, it shall be legal to sell sweet wines for consumption on the premises in hotels and restaurants which have a Grade A rating from the state board of health, and it shall be legal to sell said wines in drug stores and grocery stores for off premises consumption; such sales however shall be subject to the rules and regulations of the state alcoholic beverage control board. For the purpose of this section, sweet wines shall be any wine made by fermentation from grapes, fruits or berries, to which nothing but pure brandy has been added, which brandy is made from the same type of grape, fruit or berry, which is contained in the base wine to which it is added, and having an alcoholic content of not less than fourteen per centum (14%) and not more than twenty per centum (20%) of absolute alcohol, reckoned by volume, and approved by the state board of alcoholic control as to identity, quality and purity as provided in this chapter: Provided further that the state alcoholic control board shall approve and authorize the licensing of wholesale wine distributors in such counties where alcoholic board control stores are operated. (1945, c. 780.)

Art. 8. Establishment of Standards for Lawful Wine; Permits, etc.

§ 18-109. Powers of state board of alcoholic control.—The state board of alcoholic control shall be referred to herein as "the board". The board is authorized and empowered:

(1) To adopt rules and regulations establishing standards of identity, quality and purity for the wines described in § 18-64 (b) and in article five of this chapter. These standards shall be such as are deemed by said board to best protect the public against wine containing deleterious, harmful or impure substances or elements, or an improper balance of elements, and against spurious or imitation wines and wines unfit for beverage purposes. Provided, nothing in this or in any other section of this article or act shall authorize said board to increase the alcoholic content of the wines described in § 18-64 (b) and in article five of this chapter, or to permit the sale or possession of any wines in any county of the state where the same are now or shall hereafter be prohibited by law.

(2) To issue permits to resident or non-resident manufacturers, wineries, bottlers, and wholesalers, or any other persons selling wine for the purpose of resale, or offering wine for sale for the purpose of resale, whether on their own account or for or on behalf of other persons, which permit shall only authorize the possession or sale in this state of wines meeting the standards adopted by the board; and to revoke any such permit on violation of any of the provisions of this article or of any of the rules and regulations promulgated under the authority of this article.

(3) To test wines possessed or offered for sale, or sold in this state and to make chemical or laboratory analyses of said wines or to determine in any other manner whether said wines meet the standards established by said board; to confiscate and destroy any wines not meeting said standards; to enter and inspect any premises upon which said wines are possessed or offered for sale; and to examine any and all books, records, accounts, invoices, or other papers or data which in any way relate to the possession or sale of said wines.

(4) To take all proper steps for the prosecution of persons violating the provisions of this article, and for carrying out the provisions and intent thereof.

(5) To employ such personnel as may be necessary for the efficient administration and enforcement of this article, subject to the provisions of the Executive Budget Act.

(6) To exercise all other powers which may be reasonably implied from the granting of express powers herein, together with such other powers as may be incidental to, or convenient for, the carrying out and performance of the powers and duties herein given to said board; and to exercise any and all of the powers granted said board under § 18-39 which are needed for the proper administration and enforcement of this article.

(7) The advertisement and sale of wine in this state shall be subject to all existing laws and the following additional authority and powers hereby expressly granted to the board:

(a) The board, in its discretion, may approve or disapprove all forms of advertising of wine, including the type and amount of display material which may be used in the place of business of a retail permit holder;

(b) The board shall have the sole power, in its discretion, to determine the fitness and qualification of an applicant for a permit to sell wine at retail. The board shall inquire into the character of the applicant, the location, general appearance and type of place of business of the applicant;

(c) The board shall have authority, in its discretion, to determine the number of retail permits to be granted in any locality. In addition to the powers herein granted to the state board of alcoholic control, said board is authorized and empowered to adopt rules and regulations regulating and fixing the hours of sale in the several counties and municipalities therein in which wine is authorized to be sold. The board shall not issue a permit hereunder for the sale of wine in any pool room or billiard parlor or in any other place of business, of whatsoever kind and character, if in the discretion of the board, it is not a proper place for the sale of wine;

(d) The board shall require that all retail permit holders keep their places of business clean, well lighted and in an orderly manner;

(e) Every person intending to apply for any permit to sell wine at retail hereunder shall, not more than thirty (30) days and not less than ten (10) days before applying to the board for such permit, make application to the county and municipal authority, as provided for in chapter 18, article IV, of the General Statutes of North Carolina, and shall post a notice of such intention on the front door of the building, place or room where he proposes to engage in such business, or publish such notice at least once in a newspaper published in or having a general circulation in the county, city or town wherein such person proposes to engage in such business;

(f) Every person desiring a permit under the provisions of this subsection shall, after publishing notice of his intention as provided in subsection (e) above, file with the board an application therefor on forms provided by the board and a statement in writing and under oath setting forth such information as the board shall require;

(g) Any objections to the issuance of the permit to an applicant shall be filed in writing with the board and the board shall not refuse to grant any such permit except upon a hearing held after ten (10) days' notice to the applicant of the time and place of such hearing, which notice shall contain a statement of the objections to granting such permit and shall be served on the applicant by sending same to the applicant by registered mail to his last known post office address. The applicant shall have the right to produce evidence in his behalf at the hearing and be represented in person or by council;

(h) All persons holding a license to sell wine at retail at the time of the enactment of this law shall be deemed to have complied with all requirements of the board in filing application for a permit to sell wine at retail, except operators of pool rooms and billiard parlors, but shall be subject to the action of the board in suspension or revocation of licenses, as provided for herein. All permits shall be for a period of one year unless sooner revoked or suspended and shall be renewable May first of each calendar year;

(i) The board shall certify to the department of revenue the names and addresses of all persons to whom the board has issued permits and no license issued to an applicant shall be valid until the applicant has obtained the permit, as provided by this subsection;

(j) The board may suspend or revoke any permit issued by it if in the discretion of the board it is of the opinion that the permittee is not a suitable person to hold such permit or that the place occupied by the permittee is not a suitable place, or that the number of permits issued should be reduced;

(k) Before the board may suspend or revoke any permit issued under the provisions of this subsection, at least ten (10) days' notice of such proposed or contemplated action by the board shall be given to the affected permittee. Such notice shall be in writing, shall contain a statement in detail of the grounds or reasons for such proposed or contemplated action of the board, and shall be served on the permittee by sending the same to such permittee by registered mail to his last known post office address. The board shall in such notice appoint a time and place when and at which the said permittee shall be heard as to why the said permit shall not be suspended or revoked. The permittee shall at such time and place have the right to produce evidence in his behalf and to be represented by counsel;

(l) The action of the board in refusing to issue a permit or in suspending or revoking same pursuant to the provisions of this subsection shall not be subject to review by any court nor shall any mandamus lie in such case;

(m) In case where the board suspends or revokes a permit, the board shall grant the permittee a reasonable length of time in which to dispose of his stock.

(8) All licenses shall be issued under the provisions of article IV of chapter 18 of the General Statutes. The granting of a permit hereunder to sell wine shall be required in addition to the requirements of article IV of chapter 18 of the General Statutes as to securing a license to sell wine at retail. (1945, c. 903, s. 1; 1947, c. 1098, ss. 2, 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote the preliminary paragraph and added subsections (7) and (8). Section 3 of the amendatory act provides that the act shall not repeal any special, public-local or private act prohibiting the sale of wine in any county in this state, or any act authorizing the board of commissioners of any county of this state, or the governing board of any municipality, in its discretion, to prohibit the sale of wine; and shall not repeal any act prohibiting the sale of wine by vote of the people of any county or municipality and any county or municipality in which wine is permitted to be sold hereafter under the provisions of article 11 of this chapter.

For discussion of this act, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 350.

§ 18-110. Duties of persons possessing wine or offering the same for sale.—All persons possessing or offering for sale or reselling any of the wines described in § 18-64 (b) and in article five of this chapter, shall keep clear, complete and accurate records which will reveal the sources from which said wines were acquired, the date of acquisition, and any other information which may be required to be preserved by rules and regulations of the board. All such persons shall freely permit representatives of the board to enter and inspect the premises upon which such wines are possessed or offered for sale, to test and analyze any of such wines, and to examine all books, records, accounts, invoices, or other papers or data relating to such wines. (1945, c. 903, s. 1.)

§ 18-111. Statement of analysis to be furnished.—Manufacturers, wineries, bottlers, and wholesalers, or any other persons selling wine for the purpose of resale, whether on their own account or for or on behalf of other persons, shall, upon the request of the board, furnish a verified statement of a laboratory analysis of any wine sold or offered for sale by such persons. (1945, c. 903, s. 1.)

The sale of wines without such a permit, or the sale with such a permit of wines not approved by the board, shall be unlawful. (1945, c. 903, s. 1.)

Any permit issued under authority hereof shall be subject to suspension or revocation by the board when it appears that the permit holder has violated any of the provisions of this article. Provided, however, that when the board shall determine that any person has violated any of the provisions hereof, before his permit shall be either suspended or revoked, he shall be given five (5) days written notice, by registered mail, advising the permit holder of the charges against him and fixing a day, hour and place for a hearing, which hearing shall be conducted by the board. The permit holder shall be entitled to appear in person or be represented by counsel at such hearing. (1945, c. 903, s. 1.)

§ 18-113.1. Misdemeanor for retailer to sell unapproved wines.—It shall be unlawful for any person selling at retail any of the wines described in § 18-64 (b) and in article five of this chapter, to sell wines, the brands of which are not on the approved list of wines prepared by the state board of alcoholic control, unless specific authority for the sale of said wines has been obtained from said board. It shall be the duty of all retailers to secure from the state board of alcoholic control an approved list of wines and it shall be unlawful for retailers to purchase from manufacturers, wholesalers or distributors any wines not on said approved list, unless specific authority for such purchase is obtained from the state board of alcoholic control.

It shall be unlawful for any person other than a manufacturer, distributor or bottler to buy, or to sell at retail to any one person, more than one gallon of wine at any one time, whether in one or more places.

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction, be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1945, c. 903, s. 1; 1949, c. 1251, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment inserted the second paragraph. Section 4½ of the amendatory act provides that its provisions shall apply only to the counties and cities that have established or may establish alcoholic beverage control stores.

§ 18-116. Effective date; disposition of wines on hand. — This article shall be effective from and after the ratification of this article. Provided, no standards adopted by the state board of alcoholic control shall be effective until thirty days after the adoption of the regulation establishing said standards; and provided further, that any person affected by the adoption of any standard by the board shall be granted sixty days after the effective date of the standard within which to dispose of any wines on hand at the effective date of said standard which do not comply with said standard. (1945, c. 903, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The act inserting this article was ratified on March 19, 1945.

§ 18-116.1. Additional power of local governing body to suspend or revoke retail wine license.— In addition to the other grounds provided by law for refusing to grant, or for revoking or suspending wine licenses, the governing body of any county or city may revoke or suspend the license of any retail licensee within its jurisdiction for violating any existing law or regulation of the board concerning the sale of wine. In any proceeding before such governing body for the revocation or suspension of a retailer's license, the licensee shall be given due notice of the charges against him, and be given an opportunity to appear personally and by counsel in his defense. (1949, c. 1251, s. 4.)

C. boards may, within their respective counties, suspend or revoke any permit for the sale of wine if in the discretion of the local A. B. C. board it is of the opinion that the permittee is not a suitable person to hold such permit, or that the place occupied by the permittee is not a suitable place, or that the number of permits issued should be reduced; provided, further, that the local A. B. C. boards shall have and retain at all times the discretionary right to limit, within the territory over which they have jurisdiction, the sale of wine to A. B. C. stores exclusively, if in the opinion of a local A. B. C. board conditions warrant such restriction. (1949, c. 1251, s. 4.)

See note under § 18-116.1.

§ 18-116.3. Effect of revocation of license or permit by local authority.—In the event any county or municipality, through its governing body, shall for cause revoke any license, such revocation shall automatically revoke any other wine license or permit held by the licensee; and in all cases where a permit is revoked by the board or a local A. B. C. board, such revocation shall render void any state, county, or municipal license issued hereunder. (1949, c. 1251, s. 4.)

See note under § 18-116.1.

C. officers as inspectors.—All officers, inspectors and investigators appointed by either the state board or local A. B. C. boards shall have authority to investigate the operation of the licensed premises of all persons licensed under this article, to examine the books and records of such licensee, to procure evidence with respect to the violation of this article, or any rules and regulations adopted thereunder, and to perform such other duties as the board may direct. Such inspectors shall have the right to enter any such licensed premises in the state in the performance of their duty, at any hour of the day or night when wine is being sold or consumed on such licensed premises. Refusal by such permittee or by any employee of a permittee to permit such inspectors to enter the premises shall be cause for revocation or suspension of the permit of such permittee. The officers, inspectors and investigators so appointed shall, after taking the oath prescribed for peace officers, have the same powers and authority, including the right to serve all criminal process and to make arrests, as other peace officers.

All alcoholic beverage control officers now employed, or who may hereafter be employed, may be used by the board, or the local A. B. C. boards, as inspectors in counties and cities having alcoholic beverage control stores, and shall be vested with all powers and authority as herein vested in inspectors. (1949, c. 1251, s. 4.)

commissioners of Rutherford, Montgomery, Chatham, Gates, Hertford, Moore, Buncombe, Caswell, Duplin, Rockingham, Cleveland and Richmond counties shall have full power and authority, by resolution duly adopted, to regulate or prohibit the sale of wine within said respective counties, except that it may not prohibit the sale of wine in any municipality of said counties unless the governing body adopts a resolution prohibiting the sale of wine within the corporate limits of said municipality. (1945, c. 1076, s. 1; 1947, c. 886, s. 1; c. 918, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By Session Laws 1945, c. 961, the commissioners of Swain county, and the governing authority of any municipality therein, may decline to issue any licenses authorized under this chapter for the sale of wine. And by Session Laws 1945, cc. 927, 1092, the commissioners of Bladen county may do the same.

(b) Petition requesting election. — Upon the presentation to it of a petition signed by fifteen per cent (15%) of the registered voters of the county that voted for governor in the last election requesting that an election be held for the purpose of submitting to the voters of the county the question of whether or not wine or beer or both shall legally be sold therein, the county board of elections shall call an election for the purpose of submitting said question or questions to the voters of the county.

(c) Requirements concerning petition.—No petition filed pursuant to the provisions of this article shall be considered by the county board of elections unless said petition shall state upon its face that at the election requested by those signing the petition there shall be submitted to the voters (1) the question of the legal sale of wine or (2) the question of the legal sale of beer or (3) the question of the legal sale of both wine and beer. Nor shall any petition be considered unless it states that the signers thereof are registered voters of the county in which the election is requested.

(d) Time of calling election.—Whenever a petition for an election is presented to the county board of elections pursuant to the provisions of this article, said board shall within thirty (30) days call the election petitioned for.

(e) Notice and conduct of election. — Thirty days' public notice shall be given of any election called pursuant to the provisions of this article prior to the opening of the registration books for the same, and such election shall be held under the same law and regulations as are provided for the election of members of the general assembly, except that no absentee ballots shall be voted in said election.

(f) Restrictions as to time of election.—No election shall be held pursuant to the provisions of this article in any county within sixty (60) days of the holding of any general election, special election, or primary election in said county or any municipality thereof.

(g) Time between elections. — Whenever an election is held pursuant to the provisions of this article in any county, no other election pursuant to the provisions of this article shall be held in such county within three (3) years of the holding of the preceding election pursuant to the provisions of this article: Provided, that this subsection shall not prevent the holding of a municipal election in such county as hereinafter provided within three (3) years of the holding of said county election. (1947, c. 1084, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Section 5 of the act from which this article was codified provided that no election shall be called pursuant to its provisions within 160 days after its effective date of July 1, 1947.

For brief discussion of act from which this article was codified, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 382.

If such an election is called to determine whether or not wine and/or beer shall be sold within the county, the ballot shall contain the following:

☐ For the legal sale of wine
☐ Against the legal sale of wine
☐ For the legal sale of beer
☐ Against the legal sale of beer

§ 18-126. Effect of vote for or against sale of beer or wine.—(a) Vote on sale of beer.—If a majority of the votes cast in such election shall be for the legal sale of beer, then the governing board of the county and the governing board of each municipality in said county shall issue licenses to sell beer as defined in G. S. § 18-64 as provided in chapter 18 of the General Statutes notwithstanding any public, special, local or private act to the contrary, whether passed before or after the ratification of this article.

If a majority of the votes cast in such election shall be against the legal sale of beer, then after the expiration of sixty (60) days from the day on which the election is held it shall be unlawful to sell or possess for the purpose of sale in the county, either within or without the corporate limits of municipalities therein, any beer of more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol by volume, and such sale or possession for the purpose of sale shall constitute a misdemeanor, the punishment for which shall be in the discretion of the court. This paragraph shall not apply to any municipality in which an election is held as hereinafter provided after the holding of a county election, and at which a majority of the votes cast shall be for the sale of beer.

(b) Vote on sale of wine.—If a majority of the votes cast in such election shall be for the legal sale of wine, then the governing board of the county and the governing board of each municipality in said county shall issue to applicants entitled to same licenses to sell wine as defined in G. This paragraph shall not apply to any municipality in which an election is held as hereinafter provided after the holding of a county election, and at which a majority of the votes cast shall be for the sale of wine. (1947, c. 1084, s. 3.)

Where defendant was convicted of the unlawful sale of tax-paid beer in a trial free from error, the solicitor formally admitted that at the time of the sale, defendant possessed and displayed licenses for the sale of beer from the city, county and state, which "were then in full force and effect." The supreme court stayed the judgment, since the judicial admission of the solicitor brought the sale within the protective provisions of the statute and disclosed that no criminal offense had been committed. State v. Cochran, 230 N. C. 523, 53 S. E. (2d) 663.

§ 18-127. Elections in certain municipalities after majority vote in county against sale of wine or beer.—After the holding of a county election pursuant to the provisions of this article in which a majority of the votes cast is against the legal sale of wine or beer or both, the governing board of any municipality in said county having a population of one thousand (1,000) or more according to the last federal census shall call an election to determine whether or not the beverage or beverages, the legal sale of which has been prohibited as a result of said county election, shall legally be sold within the corporate limits of said municipality notwithstanding the results of the county election. An election authorized by this section shall be called by the governing board of the municipality only upon being presented with a petition signed by fifteen per cent (15%) of the registered voters of said municipality that voted for the governing body of such municipality in the last primary or election in whichever voted the greatest number of votes requesting that such election be held.

The petition shall state whether the election is to be held to determine whether or not wine or beer or both is legally to be sold within said municipality, but no election shall be held in said municipality to determine whether or not any beverage is legally to be sold therein unless the sale of such beverage has been prohibited in the county in which said municipality is located. No petition shall be considered unless it complies with this paragraph nor unless it states that the signers thereof are registered voters of the municipality in which the election is requested.

The provisions of this article, including the laws and regulations adopted by reference, relating to county elections, including the provisions relating to the calling of elections, notice of elections, holding of elections, ballots, and results of elections, are hereby in all respects made applicable to any municipal election held pursuant to the provisions of this section except that the county board of elections shall not conduct any such election.

If a majority of the votes cast in any election held pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be against the sale of the beverage or beverages voted on, then the sale or possession for the purpose of sale of such beverage or beverages shall constitute a misdemeanor, the punishment for which shall be in the discretion of the court as hereinbefore provided.

If a majority of the votes cast in any election held pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be for the sale of the beverage or beverages voted on, then the governing board of said municipality shall issue to applicants entitled to same licenses to sell such beverage or beverages as defined in G. S. §§ 18-64 and 18-99 as provided in chapter 18 of the General Statutes, notwithstanding the result of the county election or any public, special, local or private act to the contrary, whether passed before or after the ratification of this article. (1947, c. 1084, s. 4.)

The distribution and sale of beer in this state shall be subject to all existing laws and the following additional authority and powers are hereby expressly granted to the board.

The board shall have the sole power, in its discretion, to determine the fitness and qualifications of an applicant for a permit to sell, manufacture or bottle beer. The board shall inquire into the character of the applicant, the location, general appearance and type of place of business of the applicant. (1949, c. 974, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Section 19 of the act from which this article was codified made it effective from and after April 14, 1949.

(10) That the applicant is not the holder of a federal special tax liquor stamp;

§ 18-131. Application to be verified; refusal or revocation of permit; penalty for false statement; independent investigation of applicant.—The application must be verified by the affidavit of the applicant before a notary public or other person duly authorized by law to administer oaths. The foregoing provisions and requirements are mandatory prerequisites for the issuance of a permit and in the event any applicant fails to qualify under the same, or if any false statement is knowingly made in any application, permit shall be refused. If a permit is granted on any application, containing a false statement knowingly made, said permit shall be revoked and the applicant upon conviction shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to the penalty provided by law for misdemeanors. In addition to the information furnished in any application, the chief of malt beverage division shall make such additional and independent investigation of each applicant, and of the place to be occupied, as deemed necessary or advisable. (1949, c. 974, s. 2.)

§ 18-132. Permit revoked if federal special tax liquor stamp procured.—If an applicant, after obtaining a permit, shall procure a federal special tax liquor stamp, the board shall revoke his permit forthwith. (1949, c. 974, s. 3.)

§ 18-133. Notice of intent to apply for permit; posting or publication of notice; objections to issuance of permit and hearing thereon.—Every person intending to apply for any permit to sell beer at retail hereunder shall, not more than thirty days and not less than ten days before applying to the board for such permit, give written notice of such intention to the county and municipal authorities in which applicant proposes to maintain his business, and shall post a notice of such intention on the front door of the building, place or room where he proposes to engage in such business, or publish such notice at least once in a newspaper published in or having a general circulation in the county, city or town wherein such persons propose to engage in such business.

Any objections to the issuance of the permit to an applicant shall be filed in writing with the board and the board shall not refuse to grant any such permit except upon a hearing, if requested in writing by applicant, held after ten days notice to the applicant of the time and place of such hearing, which notice shall contain a statement of the objections to granting such permit and shall be served on the applicant by sending same to the applicant by registered mail to the address given in his application. The applicant shall have the right to produce evidence in his behalf at the hearing and be represented in person or by counsel. (1949, c. 974, s. 4.)

§ 18-134. Status of persons holding license at time of ratification of article.—All persons holding a license to sell beer at retail at the time of the ratification of this article shall be deemed to have complied with all the requirements of the board in filing application for a permit to sell beer at retail; provided, however, that such licensee shall make application for a permit in the manner prescribed in this article on or before June 30, 1949, and upon failure to make such application, such license held by such retailer shall be void. (1949, c. 974, s. 5.)

§ 18-135. Certification to department of revenue of permits issued; issuance of license; revocation of permit or license.—The board shall certify to the department of revenue the names, locations and addresses of all persons to whom the board has issued permits, and no license issued to an applicant (subject, however, to the provisions of § 18-134) shall be valid until the applicant has obtained the permit as provided by this article.

Provided, however, that when a permit has been issued by the board the permittee, upon payment of fees now provided by law, shall have license issued to him by the commissioner of revenue and by the governing body of any county or municipality wherein said permittee shall conduct his business. In all cases where a permit is revoked by the board, such revocation shall render void any state, county or municipal license issued hereunder and in the event any county or municipality through its governing body shall for cause revoke any license such revocation shall automatically revoke any other malt beverage license or permit held by the licensee.

Provided, further, however, that the jurisdiction herein conferred upon the board to revoke or suspend permits shall not preclude the governing body of any county or municipality from revoking or suspending the license of any retail licensee within its jurisdiction for violating any existing law regulating the sale of malt beverages or of the provisions of this article. In any proceeding before such governing body for the revocation or suspension of a retailer's license, the licensee shall be given due notice of the charges against him and be given an opportunity to appear personally and by counsel in his defense. (1949, c. 974, s. 6.)

§ 18-136. Suspension or revocation of permit upon personal disqualification, etc.—The board may suspend or revoke any permit issued by it if in the discretion of the board it is the opinion that the permittee is not a suitable person to hold such permit or that the place occupied by the permittee is not a suitable place. (1949, c. 974, s. 7.)

§ 18-137. Hearing upon suspension or revocation of permit.—Before the board may suspend or revoke any permit issued under the provisions of this article, at least ten days notice of such proposed or contemplated action by the board shall be given to the affected permittee. Such notice shall be in writing, shall contain a statement in detail of the grounds or reasons for such proposed or contemplated action of the board, and shall be served on the permittee by sending the same to such permittee by registered mail to his last known post office address. The board shall in such notice appoint a time and place when and at which the said permittee shall be heard as to why the said permit shall not be suspended or revoked. The permittee shall at such time and place have the right to produce evidence in his behalf and to be represented by counsel. (1949, c. 974, s. 8.)

§ 18-138. Rules and regulations for enforcement of article.—The board is hereby vested with power to adopt rules and regulations for carrying out the provisions of this article, but not inconsistent herewith, and to amend or repeal such regulation. Every regulation or amendment thereto adopted by the board shall become effective on the tenth day after the date of its adoption and the filing of a certified copy thereof in the office of the secretary of state. (1949, c. 974, s. 9.)

§ 18-139. Effect of article on existing local regulations as to sale of beer.—Nothing in this article shall require any county or municipality to issue licenses for any territory where the sale of beer is prohibited by special legislative act or for any area where the sale or possession for the purpose of sale of beer is unlawful as a result of local option election, and this article shall not repeal any special, public-local or private act prohibiting the sale of beer in any county in this state, or any act authorizing the board of commissioners of any county of this state, or the governing body of any municipality, in its discretion, to prohibit the sale of beer. (1949, c. 974, s. 10.)

§ 18-140. Chief of malt beverage division and assistants; inspectors.—(a) To more adequately insure the strict enforcement of the regulations of the board and of the provisions of this article, the board shall appoint a person to be known and designated as "chief of malt beverage division", who shall be in charge of the administration of such division and who shall be paid such compensation as the board with the approval of the governor shall fix. Said board in addition to said chief of malt beverage division may appoint one or more assistants to the chief of the malt beverage division, all of whom shall have full authority to make investigations, hold hearings and to make findings of fact. Upon the approval of the said board of the findings and orders of suspension or revocation of the permit of any licensee, such findings of said chief, assistant or assistants shall be deemed to be the findings and the order of the board. The board shall employ an adequate number of field men to be designated as "inspectors", not less than fifteen in number who shall devote their full time to the enforcement of the provisions of this article and such rules and regulations as may be promulgated thereunder by the board.

(b) Such inspectors shall investigate the operation of the licensed premises of all persons licensed under this article, examine the books and records of such licensee, procure evidence with respect to the violation of this article or any rules and regulations adopted thereunder and perform such other duties as the board may direct Such inspectors shall have the right to enter any such licensed premises in the state in the performance of their duty at any hour of the day or night when beer is being sold or consumed on such licensed premises. Refusal by such permittee or by any other employee of a permittee to permit such inspectors to enter the premises shall be cause for revocation or suspension of the permit of such permittee. The inspectors so appointed shall, after taking the oath prescribed for peace officers, have the same power and authority in the enforcement of this article as other peace officers. Such inspectors shall be paid such compensation as may be fixed by the board with the approval of the governor.

(c) All alcoholic beverage control officers now employed or who may hereafter be employed may be used by the board as inspectors in counties and cities having alcoholic beverage control stores in addition to the other inspectors provided for under this article, and shall be vested with all powers and authority as herein vested in inspectors. (1949, c. 974, s. 11.)

§ 18-141. Sale of beer during certain hours prohibited.—No beer shall be sold between the hours of 11:00 P. M. and 7:30 A. M. and no permit shall authorize sale thereof during said hours. (1949, c. 974, s. 12.)

Effect on § 18-105.—Section 18-105, which prohibits the sale of beer and/or wine after 11:30 P. M., is implicitly repealed as to the sale of beer by the provision in this section that beer may not be sold after 11:00 P. M. Nothing in this article, however, purports to change the hours of permissible on premises consumption of beer, which are set by § 18-106 at 7:00 A. M. to 12:00 midnight. 27 N. C. Law Rev. 463.

§ 18-142. Keeping places of business clean, etc.—The board shall require that all retail permit holders keep their places of business clean, well lighted and in an orderly manner. (1949, c. 974, s. 13.)

§ 18-143. Appropriation for malt beverage division.—For the efficient administration and enforcement of this article, an appropriation is hereby made for the use of the state board of alcoholic control, which appropriation shall be in addition to the appropriation to the state board of alcoholic control in the biennial appropriation acts, of a sum in an amount not less than three per cent (3%) and not more than five per cent (5%) of the total malt beverage taxes collected by the commissioner of revenue, the percentage within the limitations herein provided to be determined by the state board of alcoholic control and certified to the director of the budget. The appropriation herein provided shall be deducted before the distribution as provided under subsection (t) of § 18-81, G. S., is made. The director of the budget shall estimate the amount of the appropriation to be provided by the percentage of collections requested by state board of alcoholic control and shall make advance allocation based upon such estimate, and the enforcement fund provided by such appropriation shall be set up in a special fund to be designated as "the malt beverage control and enforcement fund". (1949, c. 974, s. 16.)

§ 18-144. Application of article.—This article shall apply to all licenses to be issued for the license tax year 1949-1950 and thereafter. (1949, c. 974, s. 17.)

Chapter 19. Offenses against Public Morals.

§ 19-1. What are nuisances under this chapter.—Whoever shall erect, establish, continue, maintain, use, own, or lease any building, erection, or place used for the purpose of lewdness, assignation, prostitution, gambling, or illegal sale of whiskey, or illegal sale of narcotic drugs as defined in the Uniform Narcotic Drug Act is guilty of nuisance, and the building, erection, or place, or the ground itself, in or upon which such lewdness, assignation, prostitution, gambling, or illegal sale of liquor is conducted, permitted, or carried on, continued, or exists, and the furniture, fixtures, musical instruments and contents, are also declared a nuisance, and shall be enjoined and abated as hereinafter provided. (1919, c. 288; Pub. Loc. 1913, c. 761, s. 25; 1949, c. 1164; C. S. 3180.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment inserted in lines five and six the words "or illegal sale of narcotic drugs as defined in the Uniform Narcotic Drug Act."

Applied in State v. Lancaster, 228 N. C. 157, 44 S. E. (2d) 733.

Cited in State v. Alverson, 225 N. C. 29, 33 S. E. (2d) 135; State v. Gordon, 225 N. C. 241, 249, 34 S. E. (2d) 414 (con. op.).

Public Nuisances.—This and the following sections are not applicable to proceedings brought to abate a public nuisance as defined by § 90-103. State v. Townsend, 227 N. C. 642, 44 S. E. (2d) 36.

Procedure Cannot Be Invoked against Alcoholic Control Board.—It was never intended that the procedure here invoked to abate a nuisance should be applied against an alcoholic control board set up under color of legislative authority, or against one who rents a building to such a board for the purpose of operating a liquor control store. State v. Lancaster, 228 N. C. 157, 158, 44 S. E. (2d) 733.

Art. 1. Department of Motor Vehicles.

§ 20-1. Department of motor vehicles created; powers and duties.—A department of the government of this state, to be known as the department of motor vehicles, is hereby created. It is the intent and purpose of this article, and it shall be liberally construed to accomplish that purpose, to transfer and consolidate under one administrative head in the department of motor vehicles agencies now operated under the department of revenue and dealing with the subject of the regulation of motor vehicular traffic, whether such activities are at present handled directly by the commissioner of revenue or by the motor vehicle bureau, the auto theft bureau, the division of highway safety, the major of the state highway patrol, the officials handling the Uniform Driver's License Act; and the department of motor vehicles shall succeed to and is hereby vested with all the powers, duties and jurisdiction now vested by law in any of said agencies; provided, however, all powers, duties and functions relating to the collection of motor fuel taxes, and the collection of the gasoline and oil inspection taxes, shall continue to be vested in and exercised by the commissioner of revenue, and wherever it is now provided by law that reports shall be filed with the commissioner or department of revenue as a basis for collecting the motor fuel or gasoline and oil inspection taxes, or enforcing any of the laws regarding the motor fuel or gasoline and oil inspection taxes, such reports shall continue to be made to the department of revenue and the commissioner of motor vehicles shall make available to the commissioner of revenue all information from the files of the department of motor vehicles which the commissioner of revenue may request to enable him to better enforce the law with respect to the collection of such taxes: Provided, further, nothing in this article shall deprive the utilities commissioner of any of the duties or powers now vested in him with regard to the regulation of motor vehicle carriers. (1941, c. 36, s. 1; 1949, c. 1167.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment made changes rendered necessary by reason of the transfer of the administration of the gasoline and oil inspection law to the department of agriculture.

§ 20-2. Commissioner of motor vehicles.—The department of motor vehicles shall be under control of an executive officer to be designated as the commissioner of motor vehicles, who shall be appointed by the governor and be responsible directly to the governor and subject to removal by the governor at his discretion and without requirement of the assignment of any cause. The commissioner shall be paid an annual salary to be fixed by the governor, with the approval of the advisory budget commission, payable in monthly installments, and shall likewise be allowed his traveling expenses when away from Raleigh on official business.

In any action, proceeding, or matter of any kind, to which the commissioner of motor vehicles is a party or in which he may have an interest, all pleadings, legal notices, proofs of claim, warrants for collection, certificates of tax liability, executions, and other legal documents may be signed and verified by the assistant commissioner on behalf of the commissioner. (1941, c. 36, s. 2; 1945, c. 527.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the second paragraph.

Art. 2. Uniform Driver's License Act.

§ 20-7. Operators' and chauffeurs' licenses; expiration; examinations; fees.—(a) No person except those expressly exempted under § 20-8 shall operate a motor vehicle upon any highway in this state unless such person upon application has been licensed as an operator or chauffeur by the department under the provisions of this article.

(b) Every application for an operator's or chauffeur's license shall be made upon the approved form furnished by the department.

(c) No person shall hereafter be issued an operator's license until it is determined that such person is physically and mentally capable of safely operating motor vehicles over the highways of the state. In determining whether or not a person is physically and mentally capable of safely operating motor vehicles over the highways of the state, the department shall require such person to demonstrate his capability by passing an examination, which may include road tests, oral and in the case of literate applicants written tests, and tests of vision, as the department may require.

(d) The department shall cause each person who has heretofore been issued an operator's license to be examined or re-examined, as the case may be, to determine whether or not such person is physically and mentally capable of safely operating motor vehicles over the highways of the state. Those persons found, as a result of such examination or re-examination, to be capable of safely operating motor vehicles over the highways of the state shall be reissued operators' licenses; and those persons found to be incapable of safely operating motor vehicles over the highways of the state shall not be reissued operators' licenses. The examination required by this subsection may include such road tests, oral and in the case of literate applicants written tests, and tests of vision, as the department may require. The department may once reissue operators' licenses without examination to licensed operators who have passed an operator's examination given by the department subsequent to July 1st, 1945, and prior to July 1st, 1947.

(e) The department is hereby authorized to grant unlimited licenses or licenses containing such limitations as it may deem advisable. If any applicant shall suffer from any physical defect or disease which affects his or her operation of a motor vehicle, the department may require to be filed with it a certificate of such applicant's condition signed by some medical authority of the applicant's community designated by the department. This certificate shall in all cases be treated as confidential. Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prevent the department from refusing to issue a license, either limited or unlimited, to any person deemed to be incapable of operating a motor vehicle with safety to himself and to the public: Provided, that nothing herein shall prohibit deaf persons from operating motor vehicles who in every other way meet the requirements of this section.

(f) The operators' licenses issued under this section shall automatically expire on the birthday of the licensee in the fourth year following the year of issuance; and no new license shall be issued to any operator after the expiration of his license until such operator has again passed the examination specified in this section.

(g) Every chauffeur's license shall expire June 30th of each year and shall be renewed annually, after an examination, which may include road tests, oral and in the case of literate applicants written tests, and tests of vision, as the department may require: Provided, that the commissioner of motor vehicles may, in proper cases, waive the examination required by this subsection.

(h) Upon receipt of information that the physical or mental condition of any person has changed since his or her examination for an operator's or chauffeur's license and before a new examination is required by this section, the department may, after ten (10) days' written notice, require such person to take another examination to determine his or her capability to operate safely motor vehicles over the highways of the state. If such person is found to be capable of safely operating vehicles over the highways of the state, license shall be reissued to him or her and no fee shall be collected by the department for such examination and reissuance of license. If such person is found to be incapable of safely operating vehicles over the highways of the state, no license shall be issued or reissued to him or her unless such person shall subsequently pass an examination given by the department.

(i) For the examination and issuance or reissuance of an operator's or chauffeur's license or the reissuance of an operator's or chauffeur's license without an examination, the licensee shall pay to the department a fee of two dollars ($2.00).

(j) The fees collected under this section and § 20-14 shall be placed in a special fund to be designated the "Operators' and Chauffeurs' License Fund" and shall be used under the direction and supervision of the assistant director of the budget for the administration of this section.

(k) Any person operating a motor vehicle in violation of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in this section.

(l) Any person who, except for lack of instruction in operating a motor vehicle would be qualified to obtain an operator's license under this article, may apply for a temporary learner's permit, and the department shall issue such permit, entitling the applicant, while having such permit in his immediate possession, to drive a motor vehicle upon the highways for a period of thirty (30) days, during daylight hours. Any such learner's permit may be renewed, or a new permit issued for an additional period of thirty (30) days. Such person must, while operating a motor vehicle over the highways, be accompanied by a licensed operator or chauffeur who is actually occupying a seat beside the driver.

(m) Every operator's or chauffeur's license issued by the department shall bear thereon the distinguishing number assigned to the licensee and shall contain the name, age, residence address and a brief description of the licensee, who, for the purpose of identification and as a condition precedent to the validity of the license, immediately upon receipt thereof, shall endorse his or her regular signature in ink upon the same in the space provided for that purpose unless a facsimile of his or her signature appears thereon. Such license shall be carried by the licensee at all times while engaged in the operation of a motor vehicle. However, no person charged with failing to so carry such license shall be convicted, if he produces in court an operator's or chauffeur's license theretofore issued to him and valid at the time of his arrest.

(n) All operators' licenses issued by the department of motor vehicles prior to July 1, 1947 shall expire as follows and the holders thereof shall not be permitted to operate motor vehicles over the highways of North Carolina unless they secure new operators' licenses as required by law:

(1) A license issued to a person whose last or surname begins with the letter "A" or the letter "B" shall expire April 6, 1949;

(2) A license issued to a person whose last or surname begins with the letter "C" or the letter "D" shall expire April 6, 1949;

(3) A license issued to a person whose last or surname begins with the letters "E", "F" or "G" shall expire April 6, 1949;

(4) A license issued to a person whose last or surname begins with the letters "H", "I", "J" or "K" shall expire at midnight, June 30, 1949;

(5) A license issued to a person whose last or surname begins with the letter "L" or the letter "M" shall expire at midnight, December 31, 1949;

(6) A license issued to a person whose last or surname begins with the letters "N", "O", "P" or "Q" shall expire at midnight, June 30, 1950;

(7) A license issued to a person whose last or surname begins with the letters "R", "S" or "T" shall expire at midnight, December 31, 1950;

(8) A license issued to a person whose last or surname begins with the letters "U", "V", "W", "X", "Y" or "Z" shall expire at midnight, June 30, 1951.

(o) The punishment for a violation of this section shall be a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) or imprisonment for not less than thirty (30) days, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. (1935, c. 52, s. 2; 1943, c. 649, s. 1; c. 787, s. 1; 1947, c. 1067, s. 10; 1949, c. 583, ss. 9, 10; c. 826, ss. 1, 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote this section. The 1949 amendments inserted present subsections (m) and (n), renumbered former subsection (m) as (o) and deleted the former provision of subsection (a) relating to the operation of a motor vehicle while under instruction of and accompanied by a licensed operator.

Driving without a License Is Negligence Per Se.—Under this section it is negligence per se for one to drive a motor vehicle without a license, but such negligence must be the proximate cause of injury in order to be actionable. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 692, 40 S. E. (2d) 345.

§ 20-16. Authority of department to suspend license.—(a) The department shall have authority to suspend the license of any operator or chauffeur without preliminary hearing upon a showing by its records or other satisfactory evidence that the licensee:

1. Has committed an offense for which mandatory revocation of license is required upon conviction;

2. Has been involved as a driver in any accident resulting in the death or personal injury of another or serious property damage, which accident is obviously the result of the negligence of such driver, and where such property damage has not been compensated for;

3. Is an habitually reckless or negligent driver of a motor vehicle;

4. Is incompetent to drive a motor vehicle;

5. Is an habitual violator of the traffic laws;

6. Has permitted an unlawful or fraudulent use of such license;

7. Has committed an offense in another state, which if committed in this state would be grounds for suspension or revocation;

8. Has been convicted of illegal transportation of intoxicating liquors;

9. Has, within one (1) year, been convicted of two or more charges of speeding in excess of fifty-five (55) and not more than seventy-five (75) miles per hour, or of one or more charges of reckless driving and one or more charges of speeding in excess of fifty-five (55) and not more than seventy-five (75) miles per hour; or

10. Has been convicted of operating a motor vehicle at a speed in excess of seventy-five (75) miles per hour.

(b) Pending an appeal from a conviction of any violation of the motor vehicle laws of this state, no driver's or chauffeur's license shall be suspended by the department of motor vehicles because of such conviction or because of evidence of the commission of the offense for which the conviction has been had.

(c) Upon suspending the license of any person as hereinbefore in this section authorized, the department shall immediately notify the licensee in writing and upon his request shall afford him an opportunity for a hearing as early as practical within not to exceed twenty (20) days after receipt of such request in the county wherein the licensee resides unless the department and the licensee agree that such hearing may be held in some other county, and such notice shall contain the provisions of this section printed thereon. Upon such hearing the duly authorized agents of the department may administer oaths and may issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant books and papers and may, except as provided in section 20-231, require a re-examination of the licensee. Upon such hearing the department shall either rescind its order of suspension, or good cause appearing therefor, may extend the suspension of such license. (1935, c. 52, s. 11; 1947, c. 893, ss. 1, 2; c. 1067, s. 13; 1949, c. 373, ss. 1, 2; c. 1032, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The first 1947 amendment added the last clause of paragraph 2 of subsection (a) and made changes in former subsection (b). The second 1947 amendment added paragraphs 9 and 10 to subsection (a).

The first 1949 amendment inserted the present subsection (b) and redesignated former subsection (b) as subsection (c). The second 1949 amendment inserted in line sixteen of subsection (c) the words "except as provided in section 20-231." For brief discussion of these amendments, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 371, 372.

Judgment in Excess of Jurisdiction of Superior Court.—A judgment of the Superior Court requiring a defendant to surrender his license to drive a motor vehicle and prohibiting him from operating such vehicles for a specified period, is in excess of the jurisdiction of such court and is void. State v. Cooper, 224 N. C. 100, 29 S. E. (2d) 18.

Power to suspend or revoke a driver's license is exclusively in the department of motor vehicles subject to review by the superior court. State v. Warren, 230 N. C. 299, 52 S. E. (2d) 879.

Discretionary suspensions and revocations of licenses by the department of motor vehicles are reviewable under § 20-25, but mandatory revocations under § 20-17 are not so reviewable. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696. See State v. Cooper, 224 N. C. 100, 29 S. E. (2d) 18.

Construed with § 20-23.—This section and § 20-23 are parts of the same statute relating to the same subject matter and must be construed in pari materia. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

The language of subsection (7) of this section and § 20-23 is almost identical. This section is the real source of authority. The latter section prescribes a rule of evidence and adds the power of revocation, when this section is the basis of action. Id.

Conviction of Drunken Driving in Another State.—Upon a receipt of notification from the highway department of another state that a resident of this state had there been convicted of drunken driving, the department of motor vehicles has the right to suspend the driving license of such person. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 301, 45 S. E. (2d) 370.

A provision in a judgment in a prosecution for violation of a statutory provision regulating the operation of motor vehicles, that defendant's license be surrendered and that defendant not operate a motor vehicle on the public highways for a stipulated period, is void and will be stricken on appeal. State v. Warren, 230 N. C. 299, 52 S. E. (2d) 879.

§ 20-17. Mandatory revocation of license by department.—The department shall forthwith revoke the license of any operator or chauffeur upon receiving a record of such operator's or chauffeur's conviction for any of the following offenses when such conviction has become final:

1. Manslaughter (or negligent homicide) resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle.

2. Driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or a narcotic drug.

3. Any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle is used.

4. Failure to stop and render aid as required under the laws of this state in the event of a motor vehicle accident.

5. Perjury or the making of a false affidavit or statement under oath to the department under this article or under any other law relating to the ownership of motor vehicles.

6. Conviction, or forfeiture of bail not vacated, upon two charges of reckless driving committed within a period of twelve months.

7. Conviction, or forfeiture of bail not vacated, upon one charge of reckless driving while engaged in the illegal transportation of intoxicants for the purpose of sale. (1935, c. 52, s. 12; 1947, c. 1067, s. 14.)

Cross Reference.—As to power to suspend or revoke license generally, see § 20-16 and note.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1947 amendment this section was divided into subsections (a) and (b). The amendment struck out subsection (b) relating to extension of period of suspension or revocation.

Review of Revocation.—Mandatory revocations under this section are not reviewable under § 20-25. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

Evidence that defendant had been convicted for operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicants, was competent on the question as to whether a driver's license issued to defendant had been legally revoked. State v. Stewart, 224 N. C. 528, 31 S. E. (2d) 534.

§ 20-19. Period of suspension or revocation.—(a) When a license is suspended under paragraph 9 of § 20-16, the period of suspension shall be not less than sixty (60) days nor more than six (6) months, as may seem just and proper to the department.

(b) When a license is suspended under paragraph 10 of § 20-16, the period of suspension shall be not less than six months and not more than one year.

(c) When a license is suspended under any other provision of law, the period of suspension shall be not more than one year.

(d) When a license is revoked because of a second conviction for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor or a narcotic drug, the department shall not grant application for a new license until the expiration of three years.

(e) When a license is revoked because of a third or subsequent conviction for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor or a narcotic drug the department shall never grant application for a new license: Provided, that the department may, after the expiration of five years, grant an application for a new license upon satisfactory proof that the former licensee has been of good behavior for the past five years, and that his conduct and attitude is such as to entitle him to favorable consideration.

(f) When a license is revoked for any other reason, the department shall not grant application for a new license until the expiration of one year. (1935, c. 52, s. 13; 1947, c. 1067, s. 15.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 20-23. Suspending resident's license upon conviction in another state.

Construed with § 20-16.—See note to § 20-16.

And § 20-25.—This section and § 20-25 must be construed in pari materia. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

Conviction of Drunken Driving.—Upon a receipt of notification from the highway department of another state that a resident of this state had there been convicted of drunken driving, the department of motor vehicles has the right to suspend the driving license of such person. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 301, 45 S. E. (2d) 370.

Notice May Be from Any Source.—This section does not limit the notice of conviction in another state, upon which the department may act, to notice from a judicial tribunal or other official agency. Under the wording of the statute, from whatever source the notice may come, the department may act. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

§ 20-24. When court to forward license to department and report convictions.—(a) Whenever any person is convicted of any violation of the motor vehicle laws of this State, a notation of such conviction shall be entered by the court upon the license of the person so convicted. Whenever any person is convicted of any offense for which this article makes mandatory the revocation of the operator's or chauffeur's license of such person by the department, the court in which such conviction is had shall require the surrender to it of all operators' and chauffeurs' licenses then held by the person so convicted and the court shall thereupon forward the same, together with a record of such conviction, to the department.

(b) Every court having jurisdiction over offenses committed under this article, or any other law of this State regulating the operation of motor vehicles on highways, shall forward to the department a record of the conviction of any person in said court for a violation of any said laws, and may recommend the suspension of the operator's or chauffeur's license of the person so convicted.

(c) For the purpose of this article the term "conviction" shall mean a final conviction. Also, for the purposes of this article a forfeiture of bail or collateral deposited to secure a defendant's appearance in court, which forfeiture has not been vacated, shall be equivalent to a conviction.

(d) After November 1, 1935, no operator's or chauffeur's license shall be suspended or revoked except in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1935, c. 52, s. 18; 1949, c. 373, ss. 3, 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment repealed former subsection (d) and redesignated former subsection (e) as subsection (d).

Meaning of Forfeiture of Bail or Collateral.—"Bail" as here used means security for a defendant's appearance in court to answer a criminal charge there pending. Ordinarily it is evidenced by a bond or recognizance which becomes a record of the court. The forfeiture thereof is a judicial act. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

The mere deposit of security with an arresting officer or magistrate pending issuance and service of warrant, which deposit is retained without the semblance of judicial or legal forfeiture is not a forfeiture of "bail" within the meaning of subsection (c) of this section. Id.

By the 1941 Act, chapter 36, the power to suspend or revoke drivers' licenses after July 1, 1941, vested exclusively in the newly created Department of Motor Vehicles, subject to the same right of review by the Superior Court as existed prior to that date. State v. Cooper, 224 N. C. 100, 101, 29 S. E. (2d) 18.

Construed with § 20-23.—This section and § 20-23 must be construed in pari materia. In re Wright, 288 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

The jurisdiction vested by this section is not a delegation of legislative and administrative authority. The review is judicial and is governed by the standards and guides which are applicable to other judicial proceedings. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

And failure of the section to provide standards for the guidance of the courts does not invalidate it or negate the jurisdiction. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

Such jurisdiction is not the limited, inherent power of courts to review the discretionary acts of an administrative officer. The power is conferred by statute, and the statute must be looked to in order to ascertain the nature and extent of the review contemplated by the legislature. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 301, 45 S. E. (2d) 370.

The Section Imposes Additional Jurisdiction.—The court has inherent authority to review the discretionary action of an administrative agency, whenever such action affects personal or property rights, upon a prima facie showing, by petition for a writ of certiorari, that such agency has acted arbitrarily, capriciously, or in disregard of law. This section dispenses with the necessity of an application for writ of certiorari, provides for direct approach to the courts and enlarges the scope of the hearing. That the legislature had full authority to impose this additional jurisdiction upon the courts is beyond question. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

But no discretionary power is conferred upon the court in reviewing the suspension or revocation of driving licenses, and the court may determine only if, upon the facts, petitioner's license is subject to suspension or revocation under the provisions of the statute. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

Discretionary suspensions and revocations of driving licenses by the department of motor vehicles are reviewable under this section. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696; State v. Cooper, 224 N. C. 100, 29 S. E. (2d) 18.

By Trial De Novo.—All suspensions, cancellations and revocations of driving licenses made in the discretion of the department of motor vehicles, whether under §§ 20-16, 20-23 or any other provision of this chapter, are reviewable by trial de novo. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

The hearing in the superior court is de novo, and the court is not bound by the findings of fact or the conclusion of law made by the department. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 301, 45 S. E. (2d) 370.

But mandatory revocations under § 20-17 are not reviewable. And no right accrues to a licensee who petitions for a review of the order of the department when it acts under the terms of § 20-17, for then its action is mandatory. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 584, 46 S. E. (2d) 696.

Hearing by Department Is Prerequisite to Court Review.—Section 20-16(b) provides for a rehearing by the department of motor vehicles upon application of a licensee whose license has been suspended, and this procedure should be followed and should be made to appear in the petition before review by the superior court. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 301, 45 S. E. (2d) 370.

Cancellation of Suspension.—Petitioner was arrested in South Carolina charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants. He gave bond for appearance, but no warrant was served on him and no trial had, and his bond was forfeited. His license was suspended by the department of motor vehicles upon information of the highway department of South Carolina that he had been found guilty of driving while intoxicated. Upon review the superior court found, in addition, that the suspension was based upon misinformation and further that petitioner in fact was not guilty. It was held that the findings supported the court's order directing the respondent to cancel the suspension and to restore license to petitioner. In re Wright, 228 N. C. 301, 45 S. E. (2d) 370.

§ 20-28. Unlawful to drive while license suspended or revoked. — (a) Any person whose operator's or chauffeur's license has been suspended or revoked other than permanently, as provided in this article, who shall drive any motor vehicle upon the highways of the state while such license is suspended or revoked, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred dollars ($200.00) or imprisonment in the discretion of the court, or both such fine and imprisonment. In addition, the defendant's license shall be suspended or revoked, as the case may be, for an additional period of double the period of the suspension or revocation in effect at the time of his or her apprehension for a violation of this section.

(b) Any person whose license has been permanently revoked, as provided in this article, who shall drive any motor vehicle upon the highways of the state while such license is permanently revoked shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be imprisoned for not less than one year. (1935, c. 52, s. 22; 1945, c. 635; 1947, c. 1067, s. 16.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted "shall" for "may" in line six. The 1947 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 20-29. Surrender of license.—Any person operating or in charge of a motor vehicle, when requested by an officer in uniform, or, in the event of accident in which the vehicle which he is operating or in charge of shall be involved, when requested by any other person, who shall refuse to write his name for the purpose of identification or to give his name and address and the name and address of the owner of such vehicle, or who shall give a false name or address, or who shall refuse, on demand of such officer or such other person, to produce his license and exhibit same to such officer or such other person for the purpose of examination, or who shall refuse to surrender his license on demand of the department, or fail to produce same when requested by a court of this State, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in this article. Pickup notices for operators' or chauffeurs' licenses or revocation or suspension of license notices and orders or demands issued by the department for the surrender of such licenses may be served and executed by patrolmen or other peace officers, and such patrolmen and peace officers, while serving and executing such notices, orders and demands, shall have all the power and authority possessed by peace officers when serving and executing warrants charging violations of the criminal laws of the State. (1935, c. 52, s. 23; 1949, c. 583, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the second sentence.

§ 20-29.1. Commissioner may require reexamination; issuance of limited or restricted licenses.—The commissioner of motor vehicles, having good and sufficient cause to believe that a licensed operator or chauffeur is incompetent or otherwise not qualified to be licensed, may, upon written notice of at least five days to such licensee, require him to submit to a reexamination to determine his competency to operate a motor vehicle. Upon the conclusion of such examination, the commissioner shall take such action as may be appropriate, and may suspend or revoke the license of such person or permit him to retain such license, or may issue a license subject to restrictions. Refusal or neglect of the licensee to submit to such reexamination shall be grounds for the suspension or revocation of his license. The commissioner may, in his discretion and upon the written application of any persons qualified to receive an operator's or chauffeur's license, issue to such person an operator's or chauffeur's license restricting or limiting the licensee to the operation of a single prescribed motor vehicle or to the operation of a particular class or type of motor vehicle. Such a limitation or restriction shall be noted on the face of the license, and it shall be unlawful for the holder of such limited or restricted license to operate any motor vehicle or class of motor vehicle not specified by such restricted or limited license, and the operation by such licensee of motor vehicles not specified by such license shall be deemed the equivalent of operating a motor vehicle without any chauffeur's or operator's license. Any such restricted or limited licensee may at any time surrender such restricted or limited license and apply for and receive an unrestricted operator's or chauffeur's license upon meeting the requirements therefor. (1943, c. 787, s. 2; 1949, c. 1121.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the provisions pertaining to the issuance of limited or restricted licenses.

Instruction.—An instruction to the effect that it would be negligence per se for defendant to permit his child under the legal driving age to operate his automobile but that defendant could not be held liable unless the jury found from the preponderance of the evidence that such negligence was the proximate or one of the proximate causes of the injury, was held sufficient to cover this aspect of the case. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 227 N. C. 412, 414, 42 S. E. (2d) 593.

§ 20-34. Unlawful to permit violations of this article.

Permitting Violation Is Negligence Per Se.—Under this section it is negligence per se for the owner of a car or one having it under his control to permit a person under legal age to operate same, but such negligence must be proximate cause of injury in order to be actionable. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 692, 40 S. E. (2d) 345.

Editor's Note.—For comment on the 1943 amendment, see 21 N. C. Law Rev. 358.

Authority to License and Regulate Taxicabs.—In adopting this section the General Assembly delegated the authority to license taxicabs and regulate their use on public streets to the several municipalities. Suddreth v. Charlotte, 223 N. C. 629, 27 S. E. (2d) 650.

In the exercise of this delegated power, it is the duty of the municipal authorities in their sound discretion, to determine what ordinances or regulations are reasonably necessary for the protection of the public or the better government of the town; and when in the exercise of such discretion an ordinance is adopted, it is presumed to be valid; and, the courts will not declare it invalid unless it is clearly shown to be so. State v. Stallings, 230 N. C. 252, 52 S. E. (2d) 901.

Under such delegated power a city may require, as a condition incident to the privilege of operating a taxicab on its streets, that the driver of such taxicab shall wear a distinctive cap or other insignia while operating a taxicab, to show that he is a duly licensed taxicab driver. Id.

Any person other than the licensee who shall operate any motor vehicle equipped with any such special license plate as is authorized by this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction subject to punishment in the discretion of the court. (1949, c. 143.)

This exemption shall extend also to any tractor and trailer or semi-trailer while on any trip within a radius of ten miles from the point of loading. This section shall not be construed as granting any exemption to farm tractors and trailers or semi-trailers which are operated on a for hire basis, whether money or some other thing of value is paid or given for the use of such tractors and trailers or semi-trailers. (1937, c. 407, s. 16; 1943, c. 500; 1949, c. 429.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote paragraph (f). As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Application for specially constructed, reconstructed, or foreign vehicle; inspection of foreign vehicles before registration.—(a) In the event the vehicle to be registered is a specially constructed, reconstructed, or foreign vehicle, such fact shall be stated in the application, and with reference to every foreign vehicle which has been registered outside of this state, the owner shall surrender to the department all registration cards and certificates of title or other evidence of such foreign registration as may be in his possession or under his control, except as provided in sub-division (b) hereof.

(b) Where, in the course of interstate operation of a vehicle registered in another state, it is desirable to retain registration of said vehicle in such other state, such applicant need not surrender, but shall submit for inspection said evidence of such foreign registration, and the department in its discretion, and upon a proper showing, shall register said vehicle in this state but shall not issue a certificate of title for such vehicle.

(c) Before any motor vehicle, which has been registered or licensed for use in any other state or foreign country, can be registered for use upon the highways of this State, as required by the motor vehicle laws, the person applying for said license shall be required to file with the motor vehicle department a certificate signed by a member of the state highway patrol showing that the motor vehicle has been inspected by said official, and that the same is in such mechanical condition as to meet the requirements and laws of this State as to motor vehicles which may be lawfully operated upon the streets and highways of this State. The members of the state highway patrol shall be required to make the necessary inspections of such motor vehicles and when, from such inspections, it is found that such motor vehicles desired to be registered in this State are in such mechanical condition as to meet the requirements of the laws of the State, furnish the certificate herein provided for to the applicant without any charge being made for such services. (1937, c. 407, s. 18; 1949, c. 675.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added subsection (c) to this section.

The necessity for subsection (c) of this section arose out of the repeal of the 1947 Motor Vehicle Inspection Law, §§ 20-183.2 to 20-183.8. It is intended to prevent the state from becoming a dumping ground for vehicles that cannot pass the vehicle inspection laws of other states. 27 N. C. Law Rev. 471.

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote subsection (c) and the 1947 amendment added the proviso thereto. As subsections (a) and (b) were not changed by the amendments they are not set out.

Part 4. Transfer of Title or Interest.

If the registration plates are not subject to transfer the registration card and plates may be retained by the transferor of the vehicle and no endorsement would be necessary.

(b) The owner of any vehicle registered under the foregoing provisions of this article, transferring or assigning his title or interest thereto, shall also endorse an assignment and warranty of title in form approved by the department upon the reverse side of the certificate of title or execute an assignment and warranty of title of such vehicle and a statement of all liens or encumbrances thereon, which statement shall be verified under oath by the owner, who shall deliver the certificate of title to the purchaser or transferee at the time of delivering the vehicle, except that where a deed of trust, mortgage, conditional sale or title retaining contract is obtained from purchaser or transferee in payment of purchase price or otherwise, the lien holder shall forward such certificate of title papers to the department within twenty days together with necessary fees, or deliver such papers to the purchaser at the time of delivering the vehicle, as he may elect, but in either event the penalty provided in section 20-74 shall apply if application for transfer is not made within twenty days. Any owner selling or transferring his interest to a motor vehicle who willfully fails or refuses to endorse an assignment of title shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1937, c. 407, s. 36; 1947, c. 219, ss. 4, 5.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote subsection (a) and added the last sentence of subsection (b).

§ 20-73. New owner to secure transfer of registration and new certificate of title.—The transferee within twenty days after the purchase shall apply to the department for a transfer of registration of the vehicle and shall present the certificate of title endorsed and assigned as hereinbefore provided to the department, and make application for and obtain a new certificate of title for such vehicle except as otherwise permitted in sections 20-75 and 20-76. Any transferee willfully failing or refusing to make application for title shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1937, c. 407, s. 37; 1939, c. 275; 1947, c. 219, s. 6.)

The 1947 amendment added the second sentence.

§ 20-76. Title lost or unlawfully detained.—Whenever the applicant for the registration of a vehicle or a new certificate of title thereto is unable to present a certificate of title thereto by reason of the same being lost or unlawfully detained by one in possession, or the same is otherwise not available, the department is hereby authorized to receive such application and to examine into the circumstances of the case, and may require the filing of affidavits or other information; and when the department is satisfied that the applicant is entitled thereto and that § 20-72 has been complied with it is hereby authorized to register such vehicle and issue a new registration card, registration plate or plates and certificates of title to the person entitled thereto, upon payment of proper fee for duplicate title and/or replacement. (1937, c. 407, s. 40; 1947, c. 219, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment inserted the reference to § 20-72.

§ 20-77. Transfer by operation of law; liens.—(a) Whenever the title or interest of an owner in or to a vehicle shall pass to another by operation of law, as upon order in bankruptcy, execution sale, repossession upon default in performing the terms of a lease or executory sales contract, or otherwise than by voluntary transfer, the transferee shall secure a transfer of registration to himself and a new certificate of title upon proper application, payment of the fees provided by law, and presentation of the last certificate of title, if available and such instruments or documents of authority or certified copies thereof as may be sufficient or required by law to evidence or effect a transfer of interest in or to chattels in such cases: Provided, however, transfers of registration shall only be made as provided for in § 20-64, sub-sections (a), (b) and (c).

(b) In the event of transfer as upon inheritance, devise or bequest, the department shall, upon receipt of a certified copy of a will, letters of administration and/or a certificate from the clerk of the superior court showing that the motor vehicle registered in the name of the decedent owner has been assigned to his widow as part of her year's support, transfer both title and license as otherwise provided for transfers. However, if no administrator has qualified or the clerk of the superior court refuses to issue a certificate, the department may upon affidavit showing satisfactory reasons therefor effect such transfer; provided, that if a decedent dies intestate leaving surviving a spouse and a minor child or children, or a spouse and a child or children mentally incompetent, whether of age or not, and no guardian has been appointed for said child or children, the surviving spouse shall be authorized to transfer the interest of the child or children in said motor vehicle, as provided in this subsection, to a purchaser thereof, but the new title so issued shall not affect the validity nor be in prejudice of any creditor's lien.

(c) Mechanic's or Storage Lien.—In any case where a vehicle is sold under a mechanic's or storage lien, the department shall be given a twenty-day notice as provided in § 20-114.

(d) The owner of a garage, storage lot or other place of storage shall have a lien for his lawful and reasonable storage charges on any motor vehicle deposited in his place of storage by the owner or any other person having lawful authority to make such storage, and may retain possession of the motor vehicle until such storage charges are paid. If the storage charges are not paid when due, the garage owner or other storage keeper may satisfy said lien as follows:

1. The garage owner or storage keeper shall give written notice to the person who made the storage, to the registered owner, if known, and to any other persons known to claim any lien on or other interest in the motor vehicle. Such notice shall be given by delivery to the person, or by registered letter addressed to the last known place of business or abode of the person to be notified.

2. The notice shall contain a description of the motor vehicle; an itemized statement of the claim for storage charges; a demand that the storage charges be paid on or before a day specified, not less than ten days from the delivery of the notice if it is personally delivered or from the time when the notice should reach its destination according to the due course of post if the notice is sent by mail; and a statement that unless the storage claim is paid on or before the day specified, the motor vehicle will be advertised for sale and sold at auction at a specified time and place.

3. If payment is not made by the day specified in the notice, a sale of the motor vehicle may be had to satisfy the lien. The sale shall be held at the place where the vehicle was stored, or if such place is manifestly unsuitable for the purpose, at the court house in the county where vehicle was stored. The advertisement of such sale shall contain the name and address of the registered owner of the vehicle, if known or ascertainable; the name and address of the person who made the storage; a description of the motor vehicle, including the make, year of make, model, motor number, serial number and license number, if any; a statement of the amount of storage charges; and the place, date and hour of sale. The advertisement shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper published in the place where such sale is to be held. The sale shall not be held less than fifteen days from the time of the first publication. If there is no newspaper published in such place, the advertisement shall be posted at least ten days before such sale in not less than three conspicuous public places in such place. A copy of said advertisement shall be sent to the commissioner of motor vehicles at least twenty days prior to the sale. From the proceeds of the sale the garage owner or storage keeper shall satisfy his lien, including the reasonable charges of notice, advertisement and sale. The balance, if any, shall be held by the garage owner or storage keeper and delivered on demand to the person to whom he would have been bound to deliver or justified in delivering the motor vehicle. If no claim is made for said balance within ten days the garage owner or storage keeper shall immediately pay such balance into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the sale was held, and the clerk shall hold said money for twelve months for delivery on demand to person entitled thereto, and if no claim is made within said period, said balance shall escheat to the University of North Carolina.

4. At any time before the motor vehicle is so sold any person claiming a right of property or possession therein may pay the garage owner or storage keeper the amount necessary to satisfy his lien and to pay the reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred in serving notices and advertising and preparing for the sale up to the time of such payment, and upon receiving such payment, the garage owner or storage keeper shall deliver the motor vehicle to the person making such payment if he is a person entitled to the possession thereof.

Where no specific agreement is made at the time of storage regarding the time when storage charges shall be due, such charges shall be due ninety days after the storage commenced. (1937, c. 407, s. 41; 1943, c. 726; 1945, cc. 289, 714.)

The first 1945 amendment inserted the proviso in the second sentence of subsection (b). The second 1945 amendment added subsection (d).

§ 20-78. When department to transfer registration and issue new certificate.—(a) The department, upon receipt of a properly endorsed certificate of title and application for transfer of registration, accompanied by the required fee, shall transfer the registration thereof under its registration number to the new owner, and shall issue a new registration card and certificate of title as upon an original registration.

(b) The department shall maintain a record of certificates of title issued and may, after three (3) years from year of issue, at its discretion, destroy such records, maintaining at all times the records of the last two owners.

The commissioner is hereby authorized and empowered to provide for the photographic or photostatic recording of certificate of title records in such manner as he may deem expedient. The photographic or photostatic copies herein authorized shall be sufficient as evidence in tracing of titles of the motor vehicles designated therein, and shall also be admitted in evidence in all actions and proceedings to the same extent that the originals would have been admitted. (1937, c. 407, s. 42; 1943, c. 726; 1947, c. 219, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote subsection (b).

Part 5. Issuance of Special Plates.

§ 20-79. Registration by manufacturers and dealers.—(a) Every manufacturer of or dealer in motor vehicles, trailers or semi-trailers shall apply to the motor vehicle department for a license as such upon official forms and shall in his application give the name of the manufacturer or dealer and his bona fide address of each partner; if a corporation, the name of the corporation and the state of incorporation; the bona fide address of the place of business; whether a dealer in new vehicles or in used vehicles and shall state how long in business. The plates so issued may during the calendar year for which issued be transferred from one vehicle to another owned and operated by such manufacturer or dealer. The license and plates issued under this section shall be in lieu of the registration of such vehicle.

Any person to whom license and number plates are issued under the provisions of this subsection upon discontinuing business as a dealer or manufacturer shall forthwith surrender to the department license and all number plates so issued to him.

No person, firm, or corporation shall engage in the business of buying, selling, distributing or exchanging motor vehicles, trailers or semi-trailers in this State unless he or it qualifies for and obtains the license required by this section.

Any person, firm, or corporation violating any provision of this subsection shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and for each offense shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00).

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote subsection (a). The 1949 amendment inserted the next to last paragraph of subsection (a). It also substituted in the first and second lines of the last paragraph the words "any provision" for the words "the provisions," and made said paragraph applicable to "firm or corporation." As subsections (b) through (e) were not affected by the amendments they are not set out.

§ 20-80. National guard plates.—The commissioner shall cause to be made each year a sufficient number of automobile license plates to furnish each officer of the North Carolina National Guard with a set thereof, said license plates to be in the same form and character as other license plates now or hereafter authorized by law to be used upon private passenger vehicles registered in this state, except that such license plates shall bear on the face thereof the following words, "National Guard." The said license plates shall be issued only to officers of the North Carolina National Guard, and for which license plates the commissioner shall collect fees in an amount equal to the fees collected for the licensing and registering of private vehicles. The adjutant general of North Carolina shall furnish to the commissioner each year, prior to the date that licenses are issued, a list of the officers of the North Carolina National Guard, which said list shall contain the rank of each officer listed in the order of his seniority in the service, and the said license plates shall be numbered, beginning with the number two hundred and one and in numerical sequence thereafter up to and including the number eleven hundred, according to seniority, the senior officer being issued the license bearing the numerals two hundred and one. Upon transfer of the ownership of a private passenger vehicle upon which there is a license plate bearing the words national guard, said plates shall be removed and the authority to use the same shall thereby be canceled; however, upon application to the commissioner, he shall reissue said plate to the officer of the national guard to whom the same were originally issued, and upon said reissue the commissioner shall collect fees in an amount equal to the fees collected for the original licensing and registering of said private passenger vehicle as is now or may be prescribed by law. A taxicab shall be defined as any motor vehicle, seating nine or fewer passengers, operated upon any street or highway on call or demand, accepting or soliciting passengers indiscriminately for hire between such points along streets or highways as may be directed by the passenger or passengers so being transported, and shall not include motor vehicles or motor vehicle carriers as defined in subsection (k) of § 62-103. Such taxicab shall not be construed to be a common carrier nor its operator a public service corporation.

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendments added that part of subsection (c) beginning with the proviso, and rewrote subsection (f). The 1947 amendments made changes in subsections (b), (c), (e) and (g). And the 1949 amendment added the last proviso to subsection (e). Only the subsections affected by the amendments are set out.

§ 20-88. Property hauling vehicles. — (a) Determination of Weight.—For the purpose of licensing, the weight of the several classes of motor vehicles used for transportation of property shall be the gross weight and load, to be determined by the manufacturer's gross weight capacity as shown in an authorized national publication, such as "Commercial Car Journal" or the statistical issue of "Automotive Industries," all such weights subject to verification by the commissioner or his authorized deputy, and if no such gross weight on any vehicle is available in such publication, then the gross weight shall be determined by the commissioner or his authorized agent: Provided, that any determination of weight shall be made only in units of one thousand pounds or major fraction thereof, weights of over five hundred pounds being counted as one thousand and weights of five hundred pounds or less being disregarded. Semi-trailers licensed for use in connection with a truck or truck-tractor shall in no case be licensed for less gross weight capacity than the truck or truck-tractor with which it is to be operated. The gross weight of a single unit equipped with three or more axles may be computed for license fee at a rate not in excess of the rate on trucks and semi-trailers of the same gross weight.

In licensing truck-tractors to be used in connection with a trailer or semi-trailer, the license on the truck-tractor may be limited to twenty thousand pounds gross weight and any weight in excess of twenty thousand pounds may be licensed on the trailer or semi-trailer.

(c) The minimum rate for any vehicle licensed under this section shall be twelve dollars ($12.00), except that the license fee for a trailer having not more than two wheels with a gross weight of vehicle and load not exceeding twenty-five hundred (2500) pounds and towed by a vehicle licensed by the commissioner for not more than four thousand (4000) pounds gross weight or a passenger car shall be three dollars ($3.00) for any part of the license year for which said license is issued: Provided, however, that any such trailers operated for hire shall be taxed at the same rate as contract hauler vehicles: Provided, further, that in addition to the motor vehicle licenses authorized to be issued pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, the department shall issue, upon application therefor, a license plate for trucks marked "farmer," which shall be issued upon evidence satisfactory to the department that the applicant is a farmer and is actually engaged in the growing, raising and producing of farm products as an occupation. License plates issued under authority of this section shall be placed upon motor trucks engaged exclusively in the carrying or transportation of applicant's farm products, raised or produced on his farm, and farm supplies, and not engaged in hauling for hire: Provided further that the department shall issue necessary rules and regulations providing for the recall, transfer, exchange or cancellation of "farmer" license plates issued hereunder when trucks bearing such shall be sold and/or transferred. Applicants for license plates herein authorized shall pay therefor at a rate equal to one-half the present registration fee provided for trucks by this chapter; provided that the minimum rate for any vehicle licensed under this proviso shall be ten dollars ($10.00); and provided, further, persons applying for "farmer" license under the provisions of this section shall not be entitled to the benefits of § 20-95. The term "farmer" as used in this section means any person engaged in the raising, growing and producing of farm products on a farm not less than ten acres in area, and who does not engage in the business of buying farm products for resale; and the term "farm products" means any food crop, cattle, hogs, poultry, dairy products and other agricultural products designed and to be used for food purposes. Provided, such "farmer" license may be transferred if the new owner executes a statement on a form prescribed by the motor vehicle department showing that he is entitled to a "farmer" license; otherwise the same shall be surrendered and the new owner must pay the difference in the fee for a "farmer" license and the type of license required for the new operation as of the date of such transfer.

(e) Franchise Haulers.—Franchise haulers shall pay an annual license tax as per the above schedule of rates for each vehicle unit, and in addition thereto six per cent of the gross revenue derived from such operations: Provided, said additional six per cent shall not be collectible unless and until and only to the extent that such amount exceeds the license tax or deposit per the above schedule: Provided, further, franchise haulers operating from a point or points in this state to another point or points in this state shall be liable for a tax of six per cent on the gross revenue earned in such intrastate hauls. Franchise haulers operating between a point or points within this state and a point or points without this state shall be liable for a six per cent tax only on that proportion of the gross revenue earned between terminals in this state and terminals outside this state that the mileage in North Carolina bears to the total mileage between the respective terminals. Franchise haulers operating through this state from a point or points outside this state to a point or points outside this state shall be liable for a six per cent tax on that proportion of the gross revenue earned between such terminals as the mileage in North Carolina bears to the total mileage between the respective terminals. In no event shall the tax paid by such franchise haulers be less than the license tax or deposit shown on the above schedule, except where a franchise is hereafter issued by the utilities commission for service over a route within the state which is not now served by any franchise hauler the six per cent gross revenue tax may be reduced to four per cent for the first two years only. The tax prescribed in this subsection is levied as compensation for the use of the highways of this state and for the special privileges extended such franchise haulers by this state.

In lieu of the six per cent gross revenue tax levied by this subsection and the deposit required by subsection (b) of this section, franchise haulers may elect to pay a flat rate according to the highest rate provided by subsection (b) of this section for vehicles and loads of the same gross weight operated by contract haulers. The election to so pay must be made at the time license plates are applied for and may not thereafter be changed during the license year except that for the license year 1949 such election, if one is made, must be made on or before July 1, 1949. Vehicles registered and licensed during the license year and after the election herein provided for has been made, must be registered and licensed and the operator shall pay taxes on the operation thereof according to the election made. A failure by a franchise hauler to make an election under this paragraph shall render such franchise hauler liable for the deposit required by subsection (b) of this section and the six per cent gross revenue tax levied by this subsection.

(1945, c. 569, s. 1; c. 575, s. 1; c. 576, s. 3; c. 956, ss. 1, 2; 1949, cc. 355, 361.)

Editor's Note.—

The first 1945 amendment added the second paragraph of subsection (a). The second 1945 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1946, struck out a former exception provision in subsection (e). The third 1945 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1945, added the proviso at the end of subsection (c) and the fourth 1945 amendment, effective April 1, 1945, inserted in the first sentence of subsection (c) the words "a vehicle licensed by the commissioner for not more than four thousand (4,000) pounds gross weight or."

The first 1949 amendment rewrote the first sentence of subsection (c). The second 1949 amendment added the second paragraph of subsection (e).

Only the subsections affected by the amendments are set out.

§ 20-89. Method of computing gross revenue of franchise bus carriers and haulers.—In computing the gross revenue of franchise bus carriers and franchise haulers, revenue derived from the transportation of United States mail or other United States government services shall not be included. All revenue earned both within and without this state from the transportation of persons or property, except as herein provided by franchise bus carriers and franchise haulers whether on fixed schedule routes or by special trips or by auxiliary vehicles not licensed as franchise haulers, whether owned by the franchise hauler or hired from another for the transportation of persons or property within the limits of the designated franchise route shall be included in the gross revenue upon which said tax is based. Provided, however, that whenever any person licensed as a franchise property hauler transports his own property, other than for his own use, he shall be liable for a tax on such transportation, computed at six percent (6%) of the gross charges authorized by the utilities commission or interstate commerce commission on such operation if it had been for hire; and franchise haulers shall maintain accurate records of all operations involving transportation of their own property, in order that said tax may be correctly computed, paid and audited.

When vehicles are leased from other operators who are licensed as contract haulers or franchise haulers, any amounts paid to such operators under said lease may be deducted by the lessees from gross revenue on which tax is based in the event adequate records and receipts are maintained so as to clearly reflect such payments. Any revenue earned by a franchise hauler under a lease shall be included in the gross revenue upon which said tax is based. (1937, c. 407, s. 53; 1943, c. 726; 1945, c. 414, s. 2; c. 575, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—
The first 1945 amendment added the second paragraph. The second 1945 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1946, added the proviso at the end of the first paragraph.

(d) If any franchise bus carrier or franchise hauler shall fail, neglect, or refuse to keep such records or to make such reports or pay tax due as required, and within the time provided in this article, the commissioner shall immediately inform himself as best as he may as to all matters and things required to be set forth in such records and reports, and from such information as he may be able to obtain, determine and fix the amount of the tax due the state from such delinquent operator for the period covering the delinquency, adding to the tax so determined and as a part thereof an amount equal to five per cent (5%) of the tax, to be collected and paid. The said commissioner shall proceed immediately to collect the tax including the additional five per cent (5%). Any such franchise hauler or franchise bus carrier, having no records on the basis of which the commissioner can determine the amount of the tax due by such carrier, shall be assessed on each vehicle at the rate applicable for contract haulers, and any bonds or deposits theretofore made shall be applied on such assessment and any further amount shall be collected as provided by law.

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the last sentence of subsection (d), and the 1947 amendment inserted the words "or pay tax due" in line three of subsection (d). As the other subsections were not affected by the amendments they are not set out.

§ 20-92. Revocation of franchise registration. —The failure of any franchise bus carrier or any franchise hauler to pay any tax levied under this article, and/or to make reports as is required, shall constitute cause for revocation of registration and franchise, and the commissioner is hereby authorized to seize the registration plates of any such delinquent carrier and require the cessation of the operation of such vehicles, and the utilities commission may revoke any franchise or permit issued such carrier. (1937, c. 407, s. 56; 1945, c. 575, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1946, added at the end of this section the words "and the utilities commission may revoke any franchise or permit issued such carrier."

§ 20-94. Partial payments.—In the purchase of licenses, where the gross amount of the license to any one owner amounts to more than four hundred dollars ($400.00), half of such payment may, if the commissioner is satisfied of the financial responsibility of such owner, be deferred until June first in any calendar year upon the execution to the commissioner of a draft upon any bank or trust company upon forms to be provided by the commissioner in an amount equivalent to one-half of such tax, plus a carrying charge of one-half of one per cent (½ of 1%): Provided, that any person using any tag so purchased after the first day of June in any such year, without having first provided for the payment of such draft, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any such draft being dishonored and not paid shall be subject to the penalties prescribed in § 20-178 and shall be immediately turned over by the commissioner to his duly authorized agents and/or the state highway patrol, to the end that this provision may be enforced. When the owner of the vehicles for which a draft has been given sells or transfers ownership to all vehicles covered by the draft, such draft shall become payable immediately, and such vehicles shall not be transferred by the department until the draft has been paid. (1937, c. 407, s. 58; 1943, c. 726; 1945, c. 49, ss. 1, 2; 1947, c. 219, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment substituted "June" for "April" in lines seven and fourteen, and reduced the carrying charge from two per cent to one-half of one per cent.
The 1947 amendment added the last sentence.

§ 20-95. Licenses for less than a year.—Licenses issued on or after April first of each year and before July first for all vehicles, except two-wheel trailers under one thousand five hundred pounds weight pulled by passenger cars, shall be three-fourths of the annual fee. Licenses issued on or after July first and before October first, except two-wheel trailers under one thousand five hundred pounds weight pulled by passenger cars, shall be one-half the annual fee. Licenses issued on or after October first, except on two-wheel trailers under one thousand five hundred pounds weight pulled by passenger cars, shall be one-fourth of the annual fee. (1937, c. 407, s. 59; 1947, c. 914, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment, which struck out the words "franchise haulers and" formerly appearing after the word "except" in line three, is effective as of January 1, 1948.

§ 20-96. Overloading. — The commissioner, or his authorized agent, may allow any owner of a motor vehicle for transportation of property to overload said vehicle by paying the fee at the rate per hundred pounds which would be assessed against such vehicle if its gross weight capacity provided for such load; but such calculation shall be made only in units of one thousand pounds or major fraction thereof, excessive weights of five hundred pounds or less being disregarded and weights of more than five hundred pounds and not more than one thousand pounds being counted as one thousand. It is the intent of this section that every owner of a motor vehicle shall procure license in advance to cover any overload which may be carried. Any owner failing to do so, and whose vehicle shall be found in operation on the highways carrying an overload in excess of one ton over the weight for which such vehicle is licensed, shall pay in addition to the normal tax levied in this article an additional tax of ten dollars ($10.00) per each thousand pounds in excess of the licensed weight of such vehicle. Nonresidents operating under the provisions of section 20-83 shall be subject to the additional tax provided in this section when their vehicles are operated with more than one ton in excess of the licensed weight or, regardless of the licensed weight, more than one ton in excess of the maximum weight provided for in section 20-118. Any person who shall willfully violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor in addition to being liable for the additional tax herein prescribed. (1937, c. 407, s. 60; 1943, c. 726; 1949, c. 583, s. 8; c. 1207, s. 4½; c. 1253.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendments inserted the next to the last sentence and changed the amount of tax from three to ten dollars.

Local Modification.—City of Durham: 1949, c. 412.

Editor's Note.—

For comment on the 1943 amendment, see 21 N. C. Law Rev. 358.

§ 20-99. Remedies for the collection of taxes.—1. If any tax imposed by this chapter, or any other tax levied by the state and payable to the commissioner of motor vehicles, or any portion of such tax, be not paid within thirty days after the same becomes due and payable, and after the same has been assessed, the commissioner of motor vehicles shall issue an order under his hand and official seal, directed to the sheriff of any county of the state, commanding him to levy upon and sell the real and personal property of the taxpayer found within his county for the payment of the amount thereof, with the added penalties, additional taxes, interest, and cost of executing the same, and to return to the commissioner of motor vehicles the money collected by virtue thereof within a time to be therein specified, not less than sixty days from the date of the order. The said sheriff shall, thereupon, proceed upon the same in all respects with like effect and in the same manner prescribed by law in respect to executions issued against property upon judgments of a court of record, and shall be entitled to the same fees for his services in executing the order, to be collected in the same manner. Upon the issuance of said order to the sheriff, in the event the delinquent taxpayer shall be the operator of any franchise bus carrier or franchise hauler vehicle, the franchise certificate issued to such operator shall become null and void and shall be cancelled by the utilities commissioner, and it shall be unlawful for any such franchise bus carrier or the operator of any franchise hauler vehicle to continue the operation under said franchise.

2. Bank deposits, rents, salaries, wages, and all other choses in action or property incapable of manual levy or delivery, hereinafter called the intangible, belonging, owing, or to become due to any taxpayer subject to any of the provisions of this chapter, or which has been transferred by such taxpayer under circumstances which would permit it to be levied upon if it were tangible, shall be subject to attachment or garnishment as herein provided, and the person owing said intangible, matured or unmatured, or having same in his possession or control, hereinafter called the garnishee, shall become liable for all sums due by the taxpayer under this chapter to the extent of the amount of the intangible belonging, owing, or to become due to the taxpayer subject to the set off of any matured or unmatured indebtedness of the taxpayer to the garnishee. To effect such attachment or garnishment the commissioner of motor vehicles shall serve or cause to be served upon the taxpayer and the garnishee a notice as hereinafter provided, which notice may be served by any deputy or employee of the commissioner of motor vehicles or by any officer having authority to serve summonses. Said notice shall show:

(1) The name of the taxpayer and his address, if known:

(2) The nature and amount of the tax, and the interest and penalties thereon, and the year or years for which the same were levied or assessed, and

(3) Shall be accompanied by a copy of this subsection, and thereupon the procedure shall be as follows:

If the garnishee has no defense to offer or no set off against the taxpayer, he shall, within ten days after service of said notice, answer the same by sending to the commissioner of motor vehicles by registered mail a statement to that effect, and if the amount due or belonging to the taxpayer is then due or subject to his demand, it shall be remitted to the commissioner with said statement, but if said amount is to mature in the future, the statement shall set forth that fact and the same shall be paid to the commissioner upon maturity, and any payment by the garnishee hereunder shall be a complete extinguishment of any liability therefor on his part to the taxpayer. If the garnishee has any defense or set off, he shall state the same in writing under oath, and, within ten days after service of said notice, shall send two copies of said statement to the commissioner by registered mail; if the commissioner admits such defense or set off, he shall so advise the garnishee in writing within ten days after receipt of such statement and the attachment or garnishment shall thereupon be discharged to the amount required by such defense or set off, and any amount attached or garnished hereunder which is not affected by such defense or set off shall be remitted to the commissioner as above provided in cases where the garnishee has no defense or set off, and with like effect. If the commissioner shall not admit the defense or set off, he shall set forth in writing his objections thereto and shall send a copy thereof to the garnishee within ten days after receipt of the garnishee's statement, or within such further time as may be agreed on by the garnishee, and at the same time he shall file a copy of said notice, a copy of the garnishee's statement, and a copy of his objections thereto in the superior court of the county where the garnishee resides or does business where the issues made shall be tried as in civil actions.

If judgment is entered in favor of the commissioner of motor vehicles by default or after hearing, the garnishee shall become liable for the taxes, interest and penalties due by the taxpayer to the extent of the amount over and above any defense or set off of the garnishee belonging, owing, or to become due to the taxpayer, but payments shall not be required from amounts which are to become due to the taxpayer until the maturity thereof, nor shall more than ten per cent of any taxpayer's salary or wages be required to be paid hereunder in any one month. The garnishee may satisfy said judgment upon paying said amount, and if he fails to do so, execution may issue as provided by law. From any judgment or order entered upon such hearing either the commissioner of motor vehicles or the garnishee may appeal as provided by law. If, before or after judgment, adequate security is filed for the payment of said taxes, interest, penalties, and costs, the attachment or garnishment may be released or execution stayed pending appeal, but the final judgment shall be paid or enforced as above provided. The taxpayer's sole remedies to question his liability for said taxes, interest, and penalties shall be those provided in § 105-267, as now or hereafter amended or supplemented. If any third person claims any intangible attached or garnished hereunder and his lawful right thereto, or to any part thereof, is shown to the commissioner, he shall discharge the attachment or garnishment to the extent necessary to protect such right, and if such right is asserted after the filing of said copies as aforesaid, it may be established by interpleader as now or hereafter provided by the General Statutes in cases of attachment and garnishment. In case such third party has no notice of proceedings hereunder, he shall have the right to file his petition under oath with the commissioner at any time within twelve months after said intangible is paid to him and if the commissioner finds that such party is lawfully entitled thereto or to any part thereof, he shall pay the same to such party as provided for refunds by § 105-407 and if such payment is denied, said party may appeal from the determination of the commissioner to the superior court of Wake county or to the superior court of the county wherein he resides or does business. The intangibles of a taxpayer shall be paid or collected hereunder only to the extent necessary to satisfy said taxes, interest, penalties, and costs. Except as hereinafter set forth, the remedy provided in this section shall not be resorted to unless a warrant for collection or execution against the taxpayer has been returned unsatisfied: Provided, however, if the commissioner is of opinion that the only effective remedy is that herein provided, it shall not be necessary that a warrant for collection or execution shall be first returned unsatisfied, and in no case shall it be a defense to the remedy herein provided that a warrant for collection or execution has not been first returned unsatisfied: Provided, however, that no salary or wage at the rate of less than two hundred dollars ($200.00) per month, whether paid weekly or monthly, shall be attached or garnished under the provisions of this section.

3. In addition to the remedy herein provided, the commissioner of motor vehicles is authorized and empowered to make a certificate setting forth the essential particulars relating to the said tax, including the amount thereof, the date when the same was due and payable, the person, firm, or corporation chargeable therewith, and the nature of the tax, and under his hand and seal transmit the same to the clerk of the superior court of any county in which the delinquent taxpayer resides or has property; whereupon, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court of the county to docket the said certificate and index the same on the cross index of judgments, and execution may issue thereon with the same force and effect as an execution upon any other judgment of the superior court; said tax shall become a lien on realty only from the date of the docketing of such certificate in the office of the clerk of the superior court and on personalty only from the date of the levy on such personalty and upon execution thereon no homestead or personal property exemption shall be allowed.

4. The remedies herein given are cumulative and in addition to all other remedies provided by law for the collection of said taxes. (1937, c. 407, s. 63; 1945, c. 576, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote this section.

Part 8. Anti-Theft and Enforcement Provisions.

(d) The department shall rescind and cancel the certificate of title to any vehicle which has been erroneously issued or fraudulently obtained or is unlawfully detained by anyone not entitled to possession.

(e) The department shall rescind and cancel the license and dealer plates issued to any person when it is found that false or fraudulent statements have been made in the application for the same, and when and if it is found that the applicant does not have a bona fide place of business as provided by this article. (1937, c. 407, s. 74; 1945, c. 576, s. 5; 1947, c. 220, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added subsection (d), and the 1947 amendment added subsection (e). As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendments it is not set out.

(b) To display or cause or permit to be displayed or to have in possession any registration card, certificate of title or registration number plate knowing the same to be fictitious or to have been canceled, revoked, suspended or altered, or to wilfully display an expired license or registration plate on a vehicle knowing the same to be expired.

(d) To fail or refuse to surrender to the department, upon demand, any title certificate, registration card or registration number plate which has been suspended, canceled or revoked as in this article provided.

(e) To use a false or fictitious name or address in any application for the registration of any vehicle or for a certificate of title or for any renewal or duplicate thereof, or knowingly to make a false statement or knowingly to conceal a material fact or otherwise commit a fraud in any such application. A violation of this subsection shall constitute a misdemeanor punishable in the discretion of the court not to exceed two years. (1937, c. 407, s. 75; 1943, c. 592, s. 2; 1945, c. 576, s. 6; c. 635; 1949, c. 360.)

The first 1945 amendment added at the end of subsection (b) the words "or to wilfully display an expired license or registration plate on a vehicle knowing the same to be expired." The second 1945 amendment inserted a comma after the words "certificate" in line two of subsection (d). The 1949 amendment rewrote subsection (e). As only these subsections were affected by the amendments the rest of the section is not set out.

Part 9. The Size, Weight, Construction and Equipment of Vehicles.

(e) No combination of vehicles coupled together shall consist of more than two units and no such combination of vehicles shall exceed a total length of forty-eight feet exclusive of front and rear bumpers, subject to the following exceptions: Said length limitation shall not apply to vehicles operated in the daytime when transporting poles, pipe, machinery or other objects of a structural nature which cannot readily be dismembered, nor to such vehicles transporting such objects operated at nighttime by a public utility when required for emergency repair of public service facilities or properties, but in respect to such night transportation every such vehicle and the load thereon shall be equipped with a sufficient number of clearance lamps on both sides and marker lamps upon the extreme ends of said projecting load to clearly mark the dimensions of such load: Provided, that the state highway and public works commission shall have authority to designate any highways upon the state system as light-traffic roads when, in the opinion of the commission, such roads are inadequate to carry and will be injuriously affected by the maximum load, size, and/or width of trucks or busses using such roads as herein provided for, and all such roads so designated shall be conspicuously posted as light-traffic roads and the maximum load, size and/or width authorized shall be displayed on proper signs erected thereon. The operation of any vehicle whose gross load, size and/or width exceed the maximum shown on such signs over the roads thus posted shall constitute a misdemeanor: Provided further, that no standard concrete highway, or other highway built of material of equivalent durability, and not less than eighteen feet in width, shall be designated as a light-traffic road: Provided further, that the limitations placed on any road shall not be less than eighty per cent (80%) of the standard weight, unless there shall be available an alternate improved route of not more than twenty per cent (20%) increase in the distance; provided, however, that such restriction of limitations shall not apply to any county road, farm-to-market road, or any other road of the secondary system.

(1945, c. 242, s. 1; 1947, c. 844.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment substituted "forty-eight" for "forty-five" in line four of subsection (e), and the 1947 amendment added the proviso at the end of the subsection. As the other subsections were not changed they are not set out.

§ 20-117.1. Equipment required on all semi-trailers operated by contract or franchise haulers.—(a) On every semi-trailer having a gross weight in excess of 3,000 pounds there shall be at least the following lighting devices and reflectors:

(2) On the rear, one red tail lamp; one red or amber stop light; two red clearance lamps, one at each side; two red reflectors, one at each side.

(3) On each side, one amber side-marker lamp, located at or near the front; one red side-marker lamp, located at or near the rear; one amber reflector, located at or near the front; one red reflector, located at or near the rear.

(b) Side-marker lamps may be combined with clearance lamps. Side-marker lamps may be in combination with clearance lamps and may use the same light source.

(c) Clearance, side-marker and tail lamps shall when lighted be capable of being seen at a distance of 500 feet under normal atmospheric conditions during the time when lights are required.

(d) Stop lights shall be actuated by application of the service (foot) brakes and shall be capable of being seen and distinguished from a distance of 100 feet to the rear of the motor vehicle in normal daylight; but shall not project a glaring or dazzling light. The stop light may be incorporated with the tail lamp.

(e) Every reflector mounted on a motor vehicle shall be of such size and characteristics as to be readily visible at night from all distances within 500 feet to 50 feet from the motor vehicle when directly in front of a normal headlight beam. Whether or not the rear reflectors are incorporated in tail lamps, they shall be located on the rear of the motor vehicle at opposite sides and shall also meet the requirements as to visibility as set forth in this paragraph.

(f) Rear-vision mirror. Every tractor shall be equipped with at least one rear-vision mirror, firmly attached to the motor vehicle and so located as to reflect to the driver a view of the highway to the rear.

(g) Fuel container not to project. No part of any fuel tank or container or intake pipe shall project beyond the sides of the motor vehicle.

(h) Flag or light at end of load. Whenever the load on any vehicle shall extend more than four feet beyond the rear of the bed or body thereof, there shall be displayed at the end of such load, in such position as to be clearly visible at all times from the rear of such load, a red flag not less than twelve inches both in length and width, except that between one-half hour after sunset and one-half hour before sunrise there shall be displayed at the end of any such load a red light plainly visible under normal atmospheric conditions at least two hundred feet from the rear of such vehicle. (1949, c. 1207, s. 1.)

§ 20-118. Weight of vehicles and load.—No vehicle or combination of vehicles shall be moved or operated on any highway or bridge when the gross weight thereof exceeds the limits specified below:

(a) When the wheel is equipped with high-pressure pneumatic, solid rubber or cushion tire, eight thousand pounds.

(c) The gross weight on any one axle of the vehicle when the wheels attached to said axle are equipped with high-pressure solid rubber or cushion tires, sixteen thousand pounds.

(d) When the wheels attached to said axle are equipped with low-pressure pneumatic tires, eighteen thousand pounds.

(e) For the purposes of this section an axle load shall be defined as the total load on all wheels whose centers are included within two parallel transverse vertical planes not more than forty-eight inches apart.

(f) For the purposes of this section every pneumatic tire designed for use and used when inflated with air to less than one hundred pounds pressure shall be deemed a low-pressure pneumatic tire, and every pneumatic tire inflated to one hundred pounds pressure or more shall be deemed a high-pressure pneumatic tire.

(g) The gross weight of any vehicle having two axles shall not exceed thirty thousand pounds, unless used in connection with a combination consisting of four axles or more. For the purpose of determining the maximum weight to be allowed for passenger busses to be operated upon the highways of this State, the commissioner of motor vehicles shall require, prior to the issuance of license, a certificate showing the weight of such bus when fully equipped for the road; and no such bus shall be licensed except those heretofore in use in this State if the weight fully equipped shall exceed twenty-two thousand, five hundred (22,500) pounds; and no special permit shall be issued for any bus in excess of the limits herein specified.

(h) The gross weight of any vehicle or combination of vehicles having three axles shall not exceed forty-four thousand pounds. For the purpose of determining gross weight, no axle shall be considered unless the wheels thereof are equipped with adequate brakes.

(i) The gross weight of any vehicle or combination of vehicles having four or more axles shall not exceed fifty-six thousand pounds. For the purpose of determining gross weight, no axle shall be considered unless the wheels thereof are equipped with adequate brakes.

(j) The gross weight with normal load of passengers of any vehicle propelled by electric power obtained from trolley wires, but not operated upon rails, commonly known as an electric trackless trolley coach, which is operated as a part of the general trackless trolley system of passenger transportation of the city of Greensboro and vicinity, shall not exceed thirty thousand pounds.

(k) No vehicle shall be operated on any highway the weight of which, resting on the surface of such highway, exceeds six hundred pounds upon any inch of tire roller or other support.

(l) Provided, however, that no vehicle or combination of vehicles which has an axle load in excess of eighteen thousand (18,000) pounds shall be allowed on any highway or portion of highway that has not been designated by the state highway and public works commission as a heavy duty highway.

Any vehicle or combination of vehicles may exceed the weight limitations hereinbefore set out by not more than five per centum (5%). Vehicles or combinations of vehicles having a gross weight in excess of forty thousand (40,000) pounds shall not be licensed or allowed to use the highways of the State, unless the engine furnishing the motive power of such vehicle or combination of vehicles shall have a piston displacement of three hundred (300) cubic inches, or more. Vehicles or combinations of vehicles having a gross weight in excess of fifty thousand (50,000) pounds shall not be licensed or allowed to use the highways of the State, unless the engine furnishing the motive power of such vehicles or combinations of vehicles shall have a piston displacement of three hundred fifty (350) cubic inches, or more. (1937, c. 407, s. 82; 1943, c. 213, s. 2; 1943, cc. 726, 784; 1945, c. 242, s. 2; c. 569, s. 2; c. 576, s. 7; 1947, c. 1079; 1949, c. 1207, s. 2.)

The 1949 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 20-118.1. Peace officer may weigh vehicle and require removal of excess load.—Any peace officer having reason to believe that the weight of a vehicle and load is unlawful is authorized to weigh the same either by means of portable or stationary scales, and may require that such vehicle be driven to the nearest scales in the event such scales are within two miles. The officer may then require the driver to unload immediately such portion of the load as may be necessary to decrease the gross weight of such vehicle to the maximum therefor specified in this article. All material so unloaded shall be cared for by the owner or operator of such vehicle at the risk of such owner or operator. (1927, c. 148, s. 37; 1949, c. 1207, s. 3.)

The 1949 amendment added the last sentence to this section.

§ 20-120. Operation of flat trucks on state highways regulated; trucks hauling leaf tobacco in barrels or hogsheads.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to operate, or have operated on any public highway in the state any open, flat truck loaded with logs, cotton bales, boxes or other load piled on said truck, without having the said load securely fastened on said truck. Any person violating the provisions of this paragraph shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

It shall be unlawful for any firm, person or corporation to operate or permit to be operated on any highway of this state a truck or trucks on which leaf tobacco in barrels or hogsheads is carried unless such barrels or hogsheads are reasonably securely fastened to such truck or trucks by metal chains or wire cables or tarpaulin, or manila or hemp ropes of not less than one-half inch in diameter, to hold said barrels or hogsheads in place under any ordinary traffic or road condition. Any person violating the provisions of this paragraph shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars ($50.00) or imprisoned not more than thirty (30) days: Provided that the provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to any truck or trucks on which the hogsheads or barrels of tobacco are arranged in a single layer, tier, or plane, it being the intent of this paragraph to require the use of metal chains or wire cables only when barrels or hogheads of tobacco are stacked or piled one upon the other on a truck or trucks. Nothing in this paragraph shall apply to trucks engaged in transporting hogsheads or barrels of tobacco between factories and storage houses of the same company unless such hogsheads or barrels are placed upon the truck in tiers. In the event the hogsheads or barrels of tobacco are placed upon the truck in tiers same shall be securely fastened to the said truck as hereinbefore provided in this paragraph. (1939, c. 114; 1947, c. 1094.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment added the second paragraph.

Violation of this section is negligence per se, but such violation must be proximate cause of injury to become actionable. Tysinger v. Coble Dairy Products, 225 N. C. 717, 36 S. E. (2d) 246, 250.

A charge as to proper brakes on motor vehicles, in compliance with this section, where the evidence shows no mention of brakes, is a harmless inadvertence. Hopkins v. Colonial Stores, 224 N. C. 137, 29 S. E. (2d) 455.

Cited in Atkins v. White Transp. Co., 224 N. C. 688, 32 S. E. (2d) 209 (dis. op.).

(d) Rear Lamps: Every motor vehicle and every trailer or semi-trailer which is being drawn at the end of a train of vehicles shall carry at the rear a lamp of a type which has been approved by the commissioner and which exhibits a red light plainly visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of five hundred feet to the rear of such vehicle, and so constructed and placed that the number plate carried on the rear of such vehicle shall under like conditions be so illuminated by a white light as to be read from a distance of fifty feet to the rear of such vehicle, and every trailer or semi-trailer shall carry at the rear, in addition to a rear lamp as above specified, a red reflector of a type which has been approved by the commissioner and which is so designed, located as to a height and maintained as to be visible for at least five hundred feet when opposed by a motor vehicle displaying lawful undimmed headlights at night on an unlighted highway. Such reflector shall be placed at the extreme end of the load.

Notwithstanding the provision of the first paragraph of this subsection, it shall not be necessary for a trailer, licensed for not more than 2500 pounds, to carry or be equipped with a rear lamp, provided such vehicle is equipped with and carries at the rear two red reflectors, each not less than four inches in diameter, and to be of a type approved by the commissioner, and which are so designed, located as to height and maintained as for each reflector to be visible for at least five hundred feet when approached by a motor vehicle displaying lawful undimmed headlights at night on an unlighted highway, such reflectors to be placed at the extreme end of the load.

Editor's Note.—

The 1947 amendment added the second paragraph of subsection (d). As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Purpose of Section.—This section was enacted to minimize the hazards incident to the movement of motor vehicles upon the public roads during the nighttime. Thomas v. Thurston Motor Lines, 230 N. C. 122, 52 S. E. (2d) 377.

Violation as Negligence Per Se.—The operation of a tractor-trailer on the highways at night without the rear and clearance lights burning as required by this section is negligence per se. Thomas v. Thurston Motor Lines, 230 N. C. 122, 52 S. E. (2d) 377.

Disabled Vehicle. — A tractor-trailer standing on the paved portion of a highway at nighttime is required to have the rear and clearance lights burning as provided by this section, regardless of whether or not the vehicle is disabled within the meaning of § 20-161(c). Thomas v. Thurston Motor Lines, 230 N. C. 122, 52 S. E. (2d) 377.

Bicycle Being Carried by Pedestrian.—Plaintiff's evidence was to the effect that at nighttime he was carrying a child's bicycle, too small for him to ride, across a street intersection to a repair shop, and that he was hit by a vehicle entering the intersection against the stop light at a high rate of speed. The court held that the refusal to give defendants' requested instruction that the failure to have a light on the bicycle was a violation of subsection (f) of this section was not error, since under the circumstances plaintiff was a pedestrian rather than a cyclist. Holmes v. Blue Bird Cab, 227 N. C. 581, 582, 43 S. E. (2d) 71.

Evidence Requiring Submission to Jury.—Evidence that the car in which plaintiff was riding as a guest struck defendant's trailer which was standing across the highway in the car's lane of traffic, and that the trailer did not have burning the lights required by this section, is sufficient to overrule defendant's motion to nonsuit and motion for a directed verdict in its favor on the issue of negligence, since the question of proximate cause under the evidence is for the jury. Thomas v. Thurston Motor Lines, 230 N. C. 122, 52 S. E. (2d) 377.

Applied in McKinnon v. Howard Motor Lines, 228 N. C. 132, 44 S. E. (2d) 735; Pascal v. Burke Transit Co., 229 N. C. 435, 50 S. E. (2d) 534.

—It shall be unlawful for any person to drive upon the highways of this state any vehicle displaying red lights visible from the front of said vehicle. The provisions of this section shall not apply to police cars, highway patrol cars, ambulances, wreckers, fire fighting vehicles or vehicles of a voluntary lifesaving organization that have been officially approved by the local police authorities and manned or operated by members of such organization while on official call or to such lights as may be prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission. (1943, c. 726; 1947, c. 1032.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote the second sentence.

Violation Is Negligence Per Se.—

Parking on a paved highway at night, without flares or other warning, is negligence. Allen v. Dr. Pepper Bottling Co., 223 N. C. 118, 25 S. E. (2d) 388.

Cited in McKinnon v. Howard Motor Lines, 228 N. C. 132, 44 S. E. (2d) 735.

—No person shall drive any motor vehicle equipped with any television viewer, screen, or other means of visually receiving a television broadcast which is located in the motor vehicle at any point forward of the back of the driver's seat, or which is visible to the driver while operating the motor vehicle. (1949, c. 583, s. 4.)

Part 10. Operation of Vehicles and Rules of the Road.

Cross Reference.—For cases construing a similar section now repealed, see note to § 14-387 in original.

Necessity That Causal Connection Be Shown.—The violation of § 20-154 and this section, if conceded, is not sufficient to sustain a prosecution for involuntary manslaughter, unless a causal relation is shown between the breach of the statute and the death. State v. Lowery, 223 N. C. 598, 27 S. E. (2d) 638.

Violation Must Be Shown Beyond a Reasonable Doubt.—Before the state is entitled to a conviction under this section, it must show beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was driving a motor vehicle on a public highway of the state while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs. State v. Carroll, 226 N. C. 237, 37 S. E. (2d) 688.

Permitting Intoxicated Person to Drive.—When an owner places his motor vehicle in the hands of an intoxicated driver, sits by his side, and permits him, without protest, to operate the vehicle on a public highway while in a state of intoxication, the owner is as guilty as the man at the wheel. State v. Gibbs, 227 N. C. 677, 678, 44 S. E. (2d) 201.

"Under the Influence" Defined.—A person is under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs, within the meaning and intent of this section, when he has drunk a sufficient quantity of intoxicating beverages or taken a sufficient amount of narcotic drugs to cause him to lose the normal control of his bodily or mental faculties, or both, to such an extent that there is an appreciable impairment of either or both of these faculties. State v. Carroll, 226 N. C. 237, 37 S. E. (2d) 688.

In prosecution under this section, an instruction that defendant was under the influence of intoxicants if he had drunk a sufficient amount to make him think or act differently than he would otherwise have done, regardless of the amount, and that he was "under the influence" if his mind and muscles did not normally co-ordinate or if he was abnormal in any degree from intoxicants was held without error. State v. Biggerstaff, 226 N. C. 603, 39 S. E. (2d) 619.

No Distinction between One Who Is Drunk and One under the Influence of Liquor.—The legislature did not intend that any distinction between a person who is drunk and one under the influence of liquor should be made in the interpretation and enforcement of this statute. State v. Carroll, 226 N. C. 237, 37 S. E. (2d) 688, 690.

Instruction on Intoxication Held Erroneous.—An instruction that a person is under the influence of intoxicating liquor when "he has drunk a sufficient quantity of alcoholic liquor or beverage to affect, however slightly, his mind and his muscles, his mental and his physical faculties" is erroneous. State v. Carroll, 226 N. C. 237, 37 S. E. (2d) 688.

Sufficiency of Evidence of Intoxication.—The testimony of two witnesses to the effect that from the detection of some "foreign" odor of an intoxicant from the mouth of a man whom they had not seen before, and who had been knocked unconscious by a blow on the head, they were of opinion he was under the influence of intoxicating liquor, standing alone, was insufficient to constitute substantial evidence that the man, previously, while driving an automobile on the highway, had been under the influence of intoxicants to the extent held necessary in State v. Carroll, 226 N. C. 237, 37 S. E. (2d) 688, to constitute violation of this section. State v. Flinchem, 228 N. C. 149, 150, 44 S. E. (2d) 724.

Portion of Sidewalk as Highway.—The portion of a sidewalk between a street and a filling station, open to the use of the public as a matter of right for the purposes of vehicular traffic, is a "highway" within the meaning of this section. State v. Perry, 230 N. C. 361, 53 S. E. (2d) 288.

When Nonsuit Proper.—Officers who reached the scene of an accident some thirty minutes after it occurred testified that in their opinion defendant driver was intoxicated or under the influence of something, and one of them testified that he smelled something on defendant's breath, but both testified that they did not know whether defendant's condition was due to drink or to injuries sustained by him in the accident. It was held that the evidence raises no more than a suspicion or conjecture as to whether defendant was driving under the influence of liquor or narcotic drugs, and defendant's motion as of nonsuit should have been allowed. State v. Hough, 229 N. C. 532, 50 S. E. (2d) 496.

Evidence held sufficient to be submitted to the jury on a charge of driving a motor vehicle on the highways while under the influence of intoxicants in violation of this section. State v. Blankenship, 229 N. C. 589, 50 S. E. (2d) 724.

In Prosecution for Manslaughter.—Evidence that defendant was driving on the public highways of the state while under the influence of intoxicating liquor in violation of this section, and was driving recklessly in violation of § 20-140, which proximately caused the death of a passenger in his car, is sufficient to be submitted to the jury in a prosecution for manslaughter. State v. Blankenship, 229 N. C. 589, 50 S. E. (2d) 724.

Duty of Judge to Charge as to Good Character of Defendant.—Where defendant was charged with operating a motor vehicle on the public highway while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, in the absence of request it was not incumbent upon the trial judge to charge specifically as to the effect of evidence of the good character of the defendant. This was not an essential feature of the case. State v. Glatly, 230 N. C. 177, 52 S. E. (2d) 277.

Duty to Keep Car under Control and Decrease Speed When Special Hazards Exist.—The driver of an automobile is required at all times to operate his vehicle with due regard to traffic and conditions of the highway, and keep his car under control and decrease speed when special hazards exist by reason of weather or highway conditions or when necessary to avoid colliding with any other vehicle. This requirement, as expressed in this section and § 20-141, constitutes the hub of the motor vehicle law around which other provisions regulating the operation of motor vehicles revolve. Cox v. Lee, 230 N. C. 155, 52 S. E. (2d) 355.

Ability to Stop within Radius of Lights.—And one who operates a motor vehicle during the nighttime must take notice of the existing darkness which limits visibility to the distance his headlights throw their rays, and he must operate his motor vehicle in such manner and at such speed as will enable him to stop within the radius of his lights. Cox v. Lee, 230 N. C. 155, 52 S. E. (2d) 355.

Sufficiency of Evidence for Jury.—

Allegation that defendant violated the provisions of this section, in that truck was operated carelessly and heedlessly in willful and wanton disregard of rights and safety of others, at a speed and in a manner to endanger or be likely to endanger person and property and by operating same to the left, when he could have turned to the right and passed without striking plaintiff's testator, was not supported by evidence. Tysinger v. Coble Dairy Products, 225 N. C. 717, 36 S. E. (2d) 246, 251.

Evidence held sufficient to be submitted to the jury on a charge of reckless driving in violation of this section. State v. Blankenship, 229 N. C. 589, 50 S. E. (2d) 724; State v. Holbrook, 228 N. C. 620, 46 S. E. (2d) 843.

In Prosecution for Manslaughter.—Evidence that defendant was driving on the public highways of the state while under the influence of intoxicating liquor in violation of § 20-138, and was driving recklessly in violation of this section, which proximately caused the death of a passenger in his car, is sufficient to be submitted to the jury in a prosecution for manslaughter. State v. Blankenship, 229 N. C. 589, 50 S. E. (2d) 724.

Evidence held sufficient to justify conviction of reckless driving. State v. Steelman, 228 N. C. 634, 46 S. E. (2d) 845.

The state's evidence tending to show that defendant was driving some eighty to ninety miles per hour over a highway on which several other vehicles were moving at the time, is sufficient to overrule defendant's motion to nonsuit and sustain a conviction of reckless driving. State v. Vanhoy, 230 N. C. 162, 52 S. E. (2d) 278.

The charge in a prosecution for reckless driving was held to be in substantial compliance with the requirements of § 1-180. State v. Vanhoy, 230 N. C. 162, 52 S. E. (2d) 278.

Applied in State v. Flinchem, 228 N. C. 149, 44 S. E. (2d) 724.

Quoted in State v. Wooten, 228 N. C. 628, 46 S. E. (2d) 868.

§ 20-141. Speed restrictions.—(a) No person shall drive a vehicle on a highway at a speed greater than is reasonable and prudent under the conditions then existing.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, it shall be unlawful to operate a vehicle in excess of the following speeds:

1. Twenty miles per hour in any business district;

2. Thirty-five miles per hour in any residential district;

3. Forty-five miles per hour in places other than those named in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this subsection for vehicles other than passenger cars, regular passenger vehicles, pick-up trucks of less than one ton capacity, and school busses loaded with children;

4. Fifty-five miles per hour in places other than those named in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this subsection for passenger cars, regular passenger carrying vehicles, and pick-up trucks of less than one ton capacity.

(c) The fact that the speed of a vehicle is lower than the foregoing limits shall not relieve the driver from the duty to decrease speed when approaching and crossing an intersection, when approaching and going around a curve, when approaching a hill crest, when traveling upon any narrow or winding roadway, or when special hazard exists with respect to pedestrians or other traffic or by reason of weather or highway conditions, and speed shall be decreased as may be necessary to avoid colliding with any person, vehicle, or other conveyance on or entering the highway in compliance with legal requirements and the duty of all persons to use due care.

(d) Whenever the state highway and public works commission shall determine upon the basis of an engineering and traffic investigation that any speed hereinbefore set forth is greater than is reasonable or safe under the conditions found to exist at any intersection or other place or upon any part of a highway, said commission shall determine and declare a reasonable and safe speed limit thereat, which shall be effective when appropriate signs giving notice thereof are erected at such intersection or other place or part of the highway.

(e) The foregoing provisions of this section shall not be construed to relieve the plaintiff in any civil action from the burden of proving negligence upon the part of the defendant as the proximate cause of an accident.

(f) Whenever local authorities within their respective jurisdictions determine, upon the basis of an engineering and traffic investigation, that the speed permitted under this article at any intersection is greater than is reasonable or safe under the conditions found to exist at such intersection, such local authority shall determine and declare a reasonable and safe speed limit thereat, which shall be effective when appropriate signs giving notice thereof are erected at such intersection or upon the approaches thereto.

(f1) Local authorities in their respective jurisdictions may in their discretion fix by ordinance such speed limits as they may deem safe and proper on those streets which are not a part of the state highway system and which are not maintained by the state highway and public works commission, but no speed limit so fixed for such streets shall be less than twenty-five miles per hour, and no such ordinance shall become or remain effective unless signs have been conspicuously placed giving notice of the speed limit for such streets. A violation of any ordinance adopted pursuant to the provisions of this subsection shall constitute a misdemeanor punishable by a fine not to exceed fifty dollars ($50.00) or a prison sentence of not more than thirty days.

(g) Local authorities in their respective jurisdictions may, in their discretion, authorize by ordinance higher speeds than those stated in subsection (b) hereof upon through highways or upon highways or portions thereof where there are no intersections or between widely spaced intersections: Provided, that signs are erected giving notice of the authorized speed.

Local authorities shall not have authority to modify or alter the basic rules set forth in subsection (a) herein, nor in any event to authorize by ordinance a speed in excess of fifty miles per hour.

(h) No person shall drive a motor vehicle at such slow speed as to impede or block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic, except when reduced speed is necessary for safe operation or in compliance with law. Police officers are hereby authorized to enforce this provision by directions to drivers, and in the event of wilful disobedience to this provision and refusal to comply with the direction of an officer in accordance herewith, the continued slow operation by a driver shall be a misdemeanor.

(i) The state highway and public works commission shall have authority to designate and appropriately mark certain highways of the state as truck routes.

(j) Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in § 20-180. (1937, c. 297, s. 2; c. 407, s. 103; 1939, c. 275; 1941, c. 347; 1947, c. 1067, s. 17; 1949, c. 947, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote this section. The 1949 amendment inserted subsection (f1).

For a brief comment of the 1949 amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 473.

Regulation of Speed at Night.—

Curves on the road and darkness are conditions a motorist is required to take into consideration in regulating his speed "as may be necessary to avoid colliding with any person, vehicle, or other conveyance." He must operate his automobile at night in such manner and at such speed as will enable him to stop within the radius of his lights. Allen v. Dr. Pepper Bottling Co., 223 N. C. 118, 119, 25 S. E. (2d) 388.

A motorist must operate his automobile at night in such manner and at such speed as will enable him to stop within the radius of his lights. Wilson v. Central Motor Lines, 230 N. C. 551, 54 S. E. (2d) 53; Allen v. Dr. Pepper Bottling Co., 223 N. C. 118, 25 S. E. (2d) 388.

One who operates a motor vehicle during the nighttime must take notice of the existing darkness which limits visibility to the distance his headlights throw their rays, and he must operate his motor vehicle in such manner and at such speed as will enable him to stop within the radius of his lights. Cox v. Lee, 230 N. C. 155, 52 S. E. (2d) 355.

Colliding with Vehicle Parked on Highway at Night without Signals.—The driver of a car is not required to anticipate that vehicles will be parked on the highway at night without the warning signals required by statute, but this does not relieve him of the duty to keep a proper lookout and not to exceed a speed at which he can stop within the radius of his lights, taking into consideration the darkness and atmospheric conditions. Wilson v. Central Motor Lines, 230 N. C. 551, 54 S. E. (2d) 53. See § 20-161(a).

Where plaintiff's own evidence discloses that his lights and brakes were in good condition, that he was driving with his lights full on at thirty-five miles per hour, that he could see 150 feet ahead despite the darkness and heavy fog, and that he failed to see any obstruction and hit the rear of a truck parked on the highway in his lane of traffic without lights or warning flares, the evidence discloses contributory negligence on his part as a matter of law. Wilson v. Central Motor Lines, 230 N. C. 551, 54 S. E. (2d) 53.

Failure to Slacken Speed or Give Signal at Intersection.—Plaintiffs' evidence tending to show that defendant's tractor with trailer was being driven at a speed of 35 miles per hour and entered an intersection with another highway without slackening speed or giving signal or warning, and collided with the truck in which plaintiffs' intestates were riding, which had already entered the intersection, is sufficient to overrule defendant's motions as of nonsuit on the issue of negligence, notwithstanding that defendant's vehicle was being operated upon the dominant highway. Nichols v. Goldston, 228 N. C. 514, 46 S. E. (2d) 320.

Limitation upon Privilege of Driving at Maximum Rate.—By provision of this section, speed in excess of that which is reasonable and prudent under the circumstances when special hazards exist by reason of traffic, weather or highway conditions, is unlawful notwithstanding that the speed may be less than the prima facie limits prescribed. Hoke

v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 692, 40 S. E. (2d) 345.

Motorist Must Decrease Speed When Special Hazards Exist.—A speed greater than is reasonable and prudent under the conditions then existing is prohibited by this section, and the duty is imposed upon the driver to decrease the speed of his automobile when special hazard exists with respect to pedestrians or other traffic. Baker v. Perrott, 228 N. C. 558, 46 S. E. (2d) 461.

The driver of an automobile is required at all times to operate his vehicle with due regard to traffic and conditions of the highway, and keep his car under control and decrease speed when special hazards exist by reason of weather or highway conditions or when necessary to avoid colliding with any other vehicle. This requirement, as expressed in this section and § 20-140, constitutes the hub of the motor vehicle law around which other provisions regulating the operation of motor vehicles revolve. Cox v. Lee, 230 N. C. 155, 52 S. E. (2d) 355.

Curves and hills in the road are conditions a motorist is required to take into consideration in regulating his speed "as may be necessary to avoid colliding with any person, vehicle, or other conveyance." Tyson v. Ford, 228 N. C. 778, 47 S. E. (2d) 251.

Evidence Tending to Show "Speed Greater than Is Reasonable and Prudent."—Evidence tending to show that the driver of a truck was traveling 35 to 40 miles per hour in an early morning fog which limited visibility to 100 or 125 feet, that he had overtaken a vehicle traveling in the same direction and was attempting to pass such vehicle 250 or 300 feet before reaching a curve, and collided with plaintiff's car which approached from the opposite direction, was held sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the issue of the negligence of the driver of the truck. Winfield v. Smith, 230 N. C. 392, 53 S. E. (2d) 251.

Burden of Showing Proximate Cause.—Plaintiff in a civil action has the burden of showing that excessive speed, when relied upon by him, was a proximate cause of injury. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 692, 40 S. E. (2d) 345.

Sufficient Evidence to Overrule Defendant's Motion to Nonsuit in Prosecution for Manslaughter.—

The state's evidence tending to show that defendant was driving some eighty to ninety miles per hour over a highway whereon several other vehicles were moving at the time, is sufficient to overrule defendant's motion to nonsuit and sustain a conviction of reckless driving under § 20-140, and driving at a speed in excess of fifty-five miles per hour in violation of this section. State v. Vanhoy, 230 N. C. 162, 52 S. E. (2d) 278.

Under this section prior to the 1947 amendment, evidence of speed greater than was reasonable and prudent under the conditions then existing and, in any event, in excess of 45 miles per hour, was evidence of negligence. Steelman v. Benfield, 228 N. C. 651, 46 S. E. (2d) 829.

Under this section prior to the 1947 amendment, where plaintiff's evidence tended to show that the driver was operating defendant's bus at a rate of 40 to 50 miles an hour in heavy traffic around a curve on an upgrade, an instruction that a speed of 45 miles per hour, rather than a speed in excess of 45 miles per hour, was prima facie evidence that the speed was unlawful, was held not prejudicial in view of the requirement in subsection 5(c) to reduce speed below the prima facie limits prescribed in traversing a curve or when special hazards exist with respect to other traffic. Garvey v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 228 N. C. 166, 45 S. E. (2d) 58.

Evidence Negativing Excessive Speed.—In Tysinger v. Coble Dairy Products, 225 N. C. 717, 36 S. E. (2d) 246, 250, it was held that in the light of admitted facts as to the length of marks on the shoulder of highway and the point at which truck came to rest, suggestion of a speed of forty-five miles per hour as the truck was leaving the highway and going on the shoulder was contrary to human experience.

Evidence held to show violation of this section, and to warrant submission to the jury of the issue of defendants' negligence. Winfield v. Smith, 230 N. C. 392, 53 S. E. (2d) 251.

The charge, in a prosecution for reckless driving and driving at an excessive speed, both as to the statement of the evidence and the law arising on the essential features of the evidence, was held to be in substantial compliance with the requirements of § 1-180. State v. Vanhoy, 230 N. C. 162, 52 S. E. (2d) 278.

Mere Reading of This Section Held Insufficient.—The mere reading of the statutory speed regulations laid down in this section, without separating the irrelevant provisions from those pertinent to the evidence and without application of the relevant provisions of the evidence adduced, is insufficient to meet the requirements of § 1-180. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Necessity of Referring to Subsection 4(c).—So material is the application of subsection 4(c) to questions of liability arising out of violation of statutory speed regulations where special hazards or unusual circumstances are shown that in Kolman v. Silbert, 219 N. C. 134, 12 S. E. (2d) 915, it was held error that the trial court in that case charged the jury as to the speed limits fixed by this section without calling attention to the clause above referred to. Garvey v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 228 N. C. 166, 45 S. E. (2d) 58.

Applied in Sparks v. Willis, 228 N. C. 25, 44 S. E. (2d) 343; State v. Blankenship, 229 N. C. 589, 50 S. E. (2d) 724.

Cited in Crone v. Fisher, 223 N. C. 635, 27 S. E. (2d) 642; Hobbs v. Queen City Coach Co., 225 N. C. 323, 331, 34 S. E. (2d) 211.

§ 20-143. Vehicles must stop at certain railway grade crossings.

As to article on automobile accidents at railroad crossings, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 223.

§ 20-145. When speed limit not applicable.—

The speed limitations set forth in this article shall not apply to vehicles when operated with due regard for safety under the direction of the police in the chase or apprehension of violators of the law or of persons charged with or suspected of any such violation, nor to fire department or fire patrol vehicles when traveling in response to a fire alarm, nor to public or private ambulances when traveling in emergencies, nor to vehicles operated by the duly authorized officers, agents and employees of the North Carolina Utilities Commission when traveling in performance of their duties in regulating and checking the traffic and speed of busses, trucks, motor vehicles and motor vehicle carriers subject to the regulations and jurisdiction of the North Carolina Utilities Commission. This exemption shall not, however, protect the driver of any such vehicle from the consequence of a reckless disregard of the safety of others. (1937, c. 407, s. 107; 1947, c. 987.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment inserted the reference to the utilities commission.

A person walking along a public highway pushing a handcart is a pedestrian within the purview of § 20-174(d), and is not a driver of a vehicle within the meaning of this section and § 20-149. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Proximate Cause.—

Where there was testimony of witnesses who were at the scene of the collision almost immediately after it occurred to the effect that they saw glass, flour and mud on the south side of the highway, intestate's right side and defendant's left side of the highway, and nothing of the kind on the opposite side of the highway, the north side, it was held that this was evidence that defendant's truck was being operated in violation of this and the two following sections, which required defendant to drive his truck on his right side of the highway and to give plaintiff's coupe half of the main traveled portion of the roadway as nearly as possible, and that this violation proximately caused the collision which resulted in the death of plaintiff's intestate. Wyrick v. Ballard, etc., Co., 224 N. C. 301, 303, 29 S. E. (2d) 900.

Negligence Per Se.—

A violation of this section is negligence per se, but to be actionable, such negligence must be proximate cause of injury. Tysinger v. Coble Dairy Products, 225 N. C. 717, 36 S. E. (2d) 246, 251. See Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 692, 40 S. E. (2d) 345.

Driving to Left to Avoid Collision.—Where bus driver cut his bus to the left and crossed the center line in an effort to avoid the collision, it was held that under the circumstances of case, such act was not negligence. Ingram v. Smoky Mountain Stages, 225 N. C. 444, 35 S. E. (2d) 337.

Evidence Sufficient to Show Violation of This Section.—

A passenger in the truck driven by intestate testified to the effect that intestate was driving on his right side of the road in an ordinary manner, that defendant's tractor with trailer-tanker was traveling in the opposite direction, and that the truck hit the trailer-tanker which was sticking out to its left as the tractor was being driven to its right of the road, resulting in intestate's death. It was held that the testimony is sufficient to support an inference that the defendant violated this section in failing to drive his tractor-trailer on his right half of the highway, proximately causing the death of plaintiff's intestate, and compulsory nonsuit was error. Gladden v. Setzer, 230 N. C. 269, 52 S. E. (2d) 804.

Cross Reference.—See annotations under § 20-146.

Violation as Negligence.—Violation of this section is negligence per se. Hobbs v. Queen City Coach Co., 225 N. C. 323, 331, 34 S. E. (2d) 211.

A violation of this section would be negligence per se, and if such violation were proximate cause of the injury it would be actionable. Wallace v. Longest, 226 N. C. 161, 37 S. E. (2d) 112; Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 692, 40 S. E. (2d) 345.

Assumption That Vehicle Will Turn to Right.—

In accord with original. See Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 227 N. C. 412, 418, 42 S. E. (2d) 593.

The rule that a motorist traveling on his right or seasonably turning thereto has the right to assume that a car approaching from the opposite direction will comply with this section, and turn to its right in time to avoid a collision, is not applicable to a motorist who runs completely off the road to his right, loses control, and hits a car standing still completely off the hard surface on its left side of the highway with its lights on, since the rule merely absolves a motorist from blame if he continues at a reasonable rate of speed in his line of travel in reliance on the assumption, but does not relieve him from the duty of knowing the position of his car on the highway from his own observation. Webb v. Hutchins, 228 N. C. 1, 44 S. E. (2d) 350.

Notwithstanding the right of a motorist to so assume, still this does not lessen his duty to conform to the requirement of exercising due care under the existing circumstances, that is, to conform to the rule of the reasonably prudent man. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 227 N. C. 412, 418, 42 S. E. (2d) 593, citing Sebastian v. Horton Motor Lines, 213 N. C. 770, 197 S. E. 539.

Proximate Cause Is for Jury.—Proximate cause is a matter for consideration of the jury under the law as declared by the court. Wallace v. Longest, 226 N. C. 161, 37 S. E. (2d) 112, 116.

Where evidence tended to show that driver of defendant's truck, in meeting the pick-up truck in which plaintiffs were riding, was not passing on his right side of highway, and was not giving oncoming truck at least one-half of the main traveled portion of the roadway as nearly as possible, in violation of the provisions of this section, question of whether defendant's truck was on left side of highway and, if so, whether proximate cause of collision would be for jury. Id.

Evidence held sufficient to show violation of this section. State v. Wooten, 228 N. C. 628, 46 S. E. (2d) 868.

Evidence held to show violation of this section and to warrant submission to the jury of the issue of defendants' negligence. Winfield v. Smith, 230 N. C. 392, 53 S. E. (2d) 251.

Evidence tending to show that the driver of a truck was traveling 35 to 40 miles per hour in an early morning fog which limited visibility to 100 or 125 feet, that he had overtaken a vehicle traveling in the same direction and was attempting to pass such vehicle 250 or 300 feet before reaching a curve, and collided with plaintiff's car which approached from the opposite direction, was held sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the issue of the negligence of the driver of the truck. Id.

Charge to Jury.—In an action for damages caused by the collision of two motor vehicles, a charge that "If plaintiff has satisfied you from the evidence and by the greater weight that on this occasion the driver of the defendant's truck at the time of the collision failed to drive the defendant's truck upon the right half of the highway, then that would constitute negligence on the part of defendant's driver," seems to be in accord with this section. Hopkins v. Colonial Stores, 224 N. C. 137, 140, 29 S. E. (2d) 455.

Cited in Ingram v. Smoky Mountain Stages, 225 N. C. 444, 35 S. E. (2d) 337.

A violation of this section is negligence per se. Kleibor v. Colonial Stores, 159 F. (2d) 894.

A person walking along a public highway pushing a handcart is a pedestrian within the purview of § 20-174(d) and is not a driver of a vehicle within the meaning of § 20-146 and this section. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Applied in State v. Holbrook, 228 N. C. 620, 46 S. E. (2d) 843.

Negligence Per Se.—

It is negligence per se for a motorist to overtake and pass another vehicle proceeding in the same direction at an intersection of a highway, unless permitted to do so by a traffic officer. Donivant v. Swain, 229 N. C. 114, 47 S. E. (2d) 707.

Evidence Sufficient to Show Violation of This Section.—The evidence tended to show that the driver of an automobile overtook and attempted to pass a truck proceeding in the same direction at an intersection of streets in a municipality at which no traffic officer was stationed, and that the vehicle collided when the driver of the truck made a left turn at the intersection. Held: It was error for the court to instruct the jury that the provisions of subsection (c) of this section did not apply. Donivant v. Swain, 229 N. C. 114, 47 S. E. (2d) 707.

Evidence tending to show that the driver of a truck was traveling 35 to 40 miles per hour in an early morning fog which limited visibility to 100 or 126 feet, that he had overtaken a vehicle traveling in the same direction and was attempting to pass such vehicle 250 or 300 feet before reaching a curve, and collided with plaintiff's car which approached from the opposite direction, was held sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the issue of the negligence of the driver of the truck. Winfield v. Smith, 230 N. C. 392, 53 S. E. (2d) 251.

Evidence held to show violation of this section and to warrant submission to the jury of the issue of defendants' negligence. Id.

Stated in Tysinger v. Coble Dairy Products, 225 N. C. 717, 36 S. E. (2d) 246.

§ 20-152. Following too closely.—(a) The driver of a motor vehicle shall not follow another vehicle more closely than is reasonable and prudent, with regard for the safety of others and due regard to the speed of such vehicles and the traffic upon and condition of the highway.

(b) The driver of any motor truck, when traveling upon a highway outside of a business or residence district, shall not follow another motor truck within three hundred feet, but this shall not be construed to prevent one motor truck overtaking and passing another. (1937, c. 407, s. 114; 1949, c. 1207, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment substituted "three" for "one" in line four of subsection (b).

Contributory Negligence.—In Killough v. Williams, 224 N. C. 254, 255, 29 S. E. (2d) 697, plaintiff was held not guilty of contributory negligence in following too closely in the rear of a truck with which he collided.

Applied in State v. Holbrook, 228 N. C. 620, 46 S. E. (2d) 843.

Stated in State v. Steelman, 228 N. C. 634, 46 S. E. (2d) 845.

Circumstances Warranting Inference of Negligence.—The plaintiff was lawfully in an intersection, standing in a position where he was clearly visible to the driver of the defendants' taxicab as the latter approached the intersection. The taxi driver, had he been keeping a proper lookout, could have seen plaintiff in ample time to avoid a collision. Instead he "cut the corner" in violation of subsection (a) of this section without giving any signal or warning of his approach. A collision resulted. These circumstances, unrebutted, warranted an inference of negligence and were sufficient to require the submission of appropriate issues to the jury. Ward v. Bowles, 228 N. C. 273, 45 S. E. (2d) 354.

§ 20-154. Signals on starting, stopping or turning.—(a) The driver of any vehicle upon a highway before starting, stopping or turning from a direct line shall first see that such movement can be made in safety, and if any pedestrian may be affected by such movement shall give a clearly audible signal by sounding the horn, and whenever the operation of any other vehicle may be affected by such movement, shall give a signal as required in this section, plainly visible to the driver of such other vehicle, of the intention to make such movement.

(b) The signal herein required shall be given by means of the hand and arm in the manner herein specified, or by any mechanical or electrical signal device approved by the department, except that when a vehicle is so constructed or loaded as to prevent the hand and arm signal from being visible, both to the front and rear, the signal shall be given by a device of a type which has been approved by the department.

Whenever the signal is given the driver shall indicate his intention to start, stop, or turn by extending the hand and arm from and beyond the left side of the vehicle as hereinafter set forth.

Left turn—hand and arm horizontal, forefinger pointing.

Right turn—hand and arm pointed upward.

Stop—hand and arm pointed downward.

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote the first paragraph of subsection (b).

The stopping of a bus on the traveled portion of the highway to receive or discharge a passenger must be done with due regard to the provisions of this section. Banks v. Shepard, 230 N. C. 86, 52 S. E. (2d) 215.

Violation of Section as Negligence Per Se.—Mere stopping on the highway is not prohibited by law, and the fact of stopping in itself does not constitute negligence. It is the stopping without giving a signal, approved by statute, whenever the operation of any other vehicle may be affected thereby. A violation of the statute is negligence per se. Conley v. Pearce-Young-Angel Co., 224 N. C. 211, 29 S. E. (2d) 740.

The failure to give a signal as required by statute, before stopping a motor vehicle on a public highway, is negligence; and ordinarily it is for the jury to determine whether or not such negligence was the proximate cause of the injury. Banks v. Shepard, 230 N. C. 86, 52 S. E. (2d) 215.

Causal Relation.—The violation of this section and of § 20-138, if conceded, is not sufficient to sustain a prosecution for involuntary manslaughter unless a causal relation is shown between the breach of the statute and the death. State v. Lowery, 223 N. C. 598, 601, 27 S. E. (2d) 638.

Intervening Negligence Insulating Primary Negligence.—Plaintiff's evidence tended to show that plaintiff was standing at the rear of a car parked completely off the hard surface on the right, that a car traveling at a speed of 45 to 50 miles per hour slowed down rapidly as it came near the parked car, that the driver of a truck following 250 feet behind the car, immediately he saw the brake light on the car, applied his brakes without effect and then applied his hand brake and skidded off the highway, striking the rear of the car and the plaintiff. Oncoming traffic prevented the truck driver from turning to the left. The driver of the truck testified that had his brakes been working properly he did not think he would have had any trouble stopping the truck. Held: Even conceding negligence on the part of the driver of the car in violating this section, the intervening negligence of the driver of the truck in driving at excessive speed or in operating the car with defective brakes, insulated any negligence of the driver of the car as a matter of law, since neither the intervening negligence nor the resulting injury could have been reasonably anticipated by the driver of the car from his act in rapidly decreasing speed. Warner v. Lazarus, 229 N. C. 27, 47 S. E. (2d) 496.

Evidence Insufficient to Show Mechanical or Electrical Signal.—Plaintiff, a passenger in a bus, was injured when a truck following the bus collided with the rear thereof when the bus was stopped on the highway to permit a passenger to alight. Defendant bus company admitted that its driver gave no hand signal, but introduced evidence of a rule of the utilities commission as to the required lighting equipment on motor vehicles and evidence that the bus had been inspected and approved by an inspector of the utilities commission, and certificate of title issued by the department of motor vehicles, together with testimony of the driver that the stop lights were on only when the brakes were on and then only if one stopped the bus suddenly, and that he slowed down gradually before stopping the bus. Held: The evidence is insufficient to show that a mechanical or electrical signal as required by this section was given, and appellant's motion to nonsuit was properly denied. Banks v. Shepard, 230 N. C. 86, 52 S. E. (2d) 215.

§ 20-155. Right-of-way.—(a) When two vehicles approach or enter an intersection and/or junction at approximately the same time, the driver of the vehicle on the left shall yield the right-of-way to the vehicle on the right except as otherwise provided in § 20-156.

(b) The driver of a vehicle approaching but not having entered an intersection and/or junction, shall yield the right-of-way to a vehicle already within such intersection and/or junction whether the vehicle in the junction is proceeding straight ahead or turning in either direction: Provided, that this subsection shall not be interpreted as giving the right-of-way to a vehicle already in an intersection and/or junction when said vehicle is turning either to the right or left unless the driver of said vehicle has given a plainly visible signal of intention to turn as required in section 20-154.

(c) The driver of any vehicle upon a highway within a business or residence district shall yield the right-of-way to a pedestrian crossing such highway within any clearly marked cross-walk, or any regular pedestrian crossing included in the prolongation of the lateral boundary lines of the adjacent sidewalk at the end of a block, except at intersections where the movement of traffic is being regulated by traffic officers or traffic direction devices. (1937, c. 407, s. 117; 1949, c. 1016, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote subsection (b).

Entering Intersection "at Approximately the Same Time."—It cannot be held as a matter of law that plaintiff's automobile and defendants' truck approached or entered the intersection "at approximately the same time," when the latter was 125 feet away from the intersection when the former was entering it, and when plaintiff's automobile had crossed within four feet of the opposite curb when defendants' truck collided therewith. Crone v. Fisher, 223 N. C. 635, 637, 27 S. E. (2d) 642.

Entering Intersection Ahead of Other Car.—If plaintiff's automobile enters the intersection of two streets, at a time when the approaching car of defendant is far enough away to justify a person in believing that, in the exercise of reasonable care and prudence, he may safely pass over the intersection ahead of the oncoming car, the plaintiff has the right-of-way and it is the duty of the defendant to reduce his speed and bring his car under control and yield. Yellow Cab Co. of Charlotte v. Sanders, 223 N. C. 626, 27 S. E. (2d) 631.

If Vehicle on Left Has Already Entered Intersection.—This section does not apply if the driver on the right, at the time he approaches the intersection and before reaching it, in the exercise of reasonable prudence ascertains that the vehicle on his left has already entered the intersection. Kennedy v. Smith, 226 N. C. 514, 39 S. E. (2d) 380.

§ 20-158. Vehicles must stop at certain through highways.—(a) The state highway and public works commission, with reference to state highways, and local authorities, with reference to highways under their jurisdiction, are hereby authorized to designate main traveled or through highways by erecting at the entrance thereto from intersecting highways signs notifying drivers of vehicles to come to full stop before entering or crossing such designated highway, and whenever any such signs have been so erected it shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle to fail to stop in obedience thereto. No failure so to stop, however, shall be considered contributory negligence per se in any action at law for injury to person or property; but the facts relating to such failure to stop may be considered with the other facts in the case in determining whether the plaintiff in such action was guilty of contributory negligence.

(b) This section shall not interfere with the regulations prescribed by towns and cities.

(c) When a stop light has been erected or installed at any intersection in this State outside of the corporate limits of a municipality, no operator of a vehicle approaching said intersection shall enter the same with said vehicle while the stop light is emitting a red light or stop signal for traffic moving on the highway and in the direction that said approaching vehicle is traveling.

(d) Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than ten dollars or imprisoned not more than ten days. (1937, c. 407, s. 120; 1941, c. 83; 1949, c. 583, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1949 amendment inserted present subsection (c) and redesignated former subsection (c) as subsection (d).

Failure to Stop at Intersection Not Negligence Per Se.—The failure of a motorist traveling upon a servient highway to stop in obedience to a sign before entering an intersection with a dominant highway is not negligence per se and is insufficient alone to make out a prima facie case of negligence, but is only evidence of negligence to be considered along with other facts and circumstances adduced by the evidence, and an instruction that failure to stop in obedience to the sign is negligence, must be held for reversible error. Hill v. Lopez, 228 N. C. 433, 45 S. E. (2d) 539. See Nichols v. Goldston, 288 N. C. 514, 46 S. E. (2d) 320; Lee v. Robertson Chemical Corp., 229 N. C. 447, 50 S. E. (2d) 181.

The stopping of a passenger bus on paved portion of highway outside of business or residential districts, for the purpose of permitting passenger to alight, is not parking or leaving a vehicle standing, within the meaning of this section. Morgan v. Carolina Coach Co., 225 N. C. 668, 36 S. E. (2d) 263.

"The mere fact that the driver of a bus stops such vehicle on the traveled portion of the highway, for the purpose of receiving or discharging a passenger, nothing else appearing, will not be held to be a violation of § 20-161. Leary v. Norfolk Southern Bus Corp., 220 N. C. 745, 18 S. E. (2d) 426; Peoples v. Fulk, 220 N. C. 635, 18 S. E. (2d) 147; Conley v. Pearce-Young-Angel Co., 224 N. C. 211, 29 S. E. (2d) 740; Morgan v. Carolina Coach Co., 228 N. C. 280, 45 S. E. (2d) 339." Banks v. Shepard, 230 N. C. 86, 52 S. E. (2d) 215.

Parking in a Residential or Business District.—The parking or leaving standing of any vehicle in a business or residential district is not a violation of this section. Hammett v. Miller, 227 N. C. 10, 17, 40 S. E. (2d) 480.

Parking on a paved highway at night, without flares or other warning, is negligence. Allen v. Dr. Pepper Bottling Co., 223 N. C. 118, 25 S. E. (2d) 388.

Negligent Parking Need Not Be Anticipated.—Where defendant leaves his truck unattended, partly on a paved or improved portion of a state highway, between sunset and sunup, without displaying flares or lanterns not less than two hundred feet to the front and rear of the vehicle, it is an act of negligence, and the driver of the car in which plaintiff was riding, traveling at about 30 to 35 miles per hour on his right side of the road, under conditions which made it impossible for him to see more than a few feet ahead, although apparently guilty of negligence, is not under the duty of anticipating defendant's negligent parking, so that the concurrent negligence of the two made the resulting collision inevitable and an exception to the denial of a motion of nonsuit cannot be sustained. Caulder v. Gresham, 224 N. C. 402, 30 S. E. (2d) 312.

Evidence Not Showing Contributory Negligence.—Where evidence tended to show that defendant's mud-spattered truck was parked on a dark, foggy morning, with all four wheels on the pavement without lights, flares, or any other mode of signal, and had been so parked for some time, and that plaintiff was compelled to dim his lights, when about 20 feet south of defendant's truck, in response to the dimmed lights of an oncoming car the lights of this car partly blinding plaintiff, who collided with the rear of defendant's truck, motion for nonsuit on the ground of contributory negligence was properly refused. Cummins v. Southern Fruit Co., 225 N. C. 625, 36 S. E. (2d) 11.

Evidence of Negligence Sufficient to Go to Jury.—Evidence that a disabled truck was left standing on the hard-surface of a highway at night without warning flares or lanterns as required by subsection (a) of this section, and that a car, approaching from the rear, collided with the back of the truck, resulting in injuries to the driver and passengers in the car, is held sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the issue of negligence in each of the actions instituted by the driver and occupants of the car against the driver and owner of the truck. Wilson v. Central Motor Lines, 230 N. C. 551, 54 S. E. (2d) 53.

Applied in Parkway Bus Co. v. Coble Dairy Products Co., 229 N. C. 352, 49 S. E. (2d) 623.

Driver Must Stop at Scene of Accident.—This section requires the driver of a vehicle involved in an accident to stop at the scene, and in the event the accident involves the injury of any person, it requires him to give his name, address, operator's license and the registration number of his vehicle, and to render reasonable assistance to the injured person. State v. Brown, 226 N. C. 681, 40 S. E. (2d) 34.

Where defendant admitted that he knew he had hit a man and did not stop or return to the scene, his own testimony disclosed a violation of this section, and his good faith in stopping 200 yards away from the accident and obtaining aid for the injured man before proceeding on his way to his home was immaterial on the issue of guilt or innocence and the exclusion of testimony to this effect was without error. Id.

Knowledge of Accident Is Essential Element of Offense.—Knowledge of the driver that his vehicle had been involved in an accident resulting in injury to a person is an essential element of the offense of "hit and run driving." State v. Ray, 229 N. C. 40, 47 S. E. (2d) 494.

Former Jeopardy.—In a prosecution for hit and run driving the trial court properly refused to submit an issue of former acquittal based upon a prior prosecution for involuntary manslaughter arising out of the same collision, since the offenses are different, both in law and in fact, and therefore the plea of former jeopardy is inapposite as a matter of law. State v. Williams, 229 N. C. 415, 50 S. E. (2d) 4.

§ 20-169. Powers of local authorities. — Local authorities, except as expressly authorized by § 20-141 and § 20-158, shall have no power or authority to alter any speed limitations declared in this article or to enact or enforce any rules or regulations contrary to the provisions of this article, except that local authorities shall have power to provide by ordinances for the regulation of traffic by means of traffic or semaphores or other signaling devices on any portion of the highway where traffic is heavy or continuous and may prohibit other than one-way traffic upon certain highways, and may regulate the use of the highways by processions or assemblages and except that local authorities shall have the power to regulate the speed of vehicles on highways in public parks, but signs shall be erected giving notices of such special limits and regulations. (1937, c. 407, s. 131; 1949, c. 947, s. 2.)

Prior to the 1949 amendment the first reference in line

three was to "§ 20-141, subsection (g)," instead of "§ 20-141."

Part 11. Pedestrians' Rights and Duties.

§ 20-174. Crossing at other than cross-walks.

Duty of Pedestrian to Yield Right of Way.—It is the duty of pedestrian, in crossing highway at a point other than within a marked cross-walk or within an unmarked cross-walk at an intersection, to yield right of way to truck approaching upon the roadway. Tysinger v. Coble Dairy Products, 225 N. C. 717, 36 S. E. (2d) 246.

Pedestrian Need Not Yield Right of Way at Unmarked Intersection.—An instruction placing the duty upon a pedestrian to yield the right of way to vehicles in traversing a highway at an unmarked intersection of highways must be held for error. Gaskins v. Kelly, 228 N. C. 697, 47 S. E. (2d) 34.

A person walking along a public highway pushing a handcart is a pedestrian within the purview of subsection (d) of this section, and is not a driver of a vehicle within the meaning of §§ 20-146 and 20-149. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Handcart Is Not "Vehicle."—A person pushing a handcart along the highway is a pedestrian within the purview of subsection (d) of this section, since a handcart, being propelled solely by human power, is not a vehicle as defined by § 20-38(ff). Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Motorist Must Use Due Care to Avoid Striking Pedestrian on Wrong Side of Highway. — The evidence disclosed that intestate was pushing his handcart on the right-hand side of the highway in violation of subsection (d) of this section, and was struck from the rear by a vehicle traveling in the same direction. Plaintiff's evidence was to the effect that the operator of the vehicle was traveling at excessive speed and failed to keep a proper lookout. It was held that the fact that intestate was traveling on the wrong side of the road did not render him guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law upon the evidence, since the operator of a vehicle is under the duty notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (d) to exercise due care to avoid colliding with any pedestrian upon the highway. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484. For a discussion of this case, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 274.

Subsection (e) States the Common Law.—Both the common law and subsection (e) of this section provide that notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (d) "every driver of a vehicle shall exercise due care to avoid colliding with any pedestrian upon any roadway." Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Necessity for Instruction.—The evidence disclosed that intestate was pushing a handcart on the rightside of the highway, and that he was struck from the rear by defendant's vehicle traveling in the same direction. Plaintiff contended that the handcart was a vehicle and that § 20-146 and § 20-149 applied. Defendant contended that intestate was a pedestrian and was required by subsection (d) of this section to push the handcart along the extreme left-hand side of the highway. Held: An instruction failing to define intestate's status and explain the law arising upon the evidence fails to meet the requirements of § 1-180. Lewis v. Watson, 229 N. C. 20, 47 S. E. (2d) 484.

Applied in Sparks v. Willis, 228 N. C. 25, 44 S. E. (2d) 343 (subsection (e)).

Part 11A. Blind Pedestrians—White Canes or Guide Dogs.

§ 20-175.1. Public use of white canes by other than blind persons prohibited.—It shall be unlawful for any person, except one who is wholly or partially blind, to carry or use on any street or highway, or in any other public place, a cane or walking stick which is white in color or white tipped with red. (1949, c. 324, s. 1.)

Section 6 of the act from which this part was codified provides that it shall become effective on Jan. 1, 1950.

§ 20-175.2. Right-of-way at crossings, intersections and traffic control signal points; white cane or guide dog to serve as signal for the blind.—At any street, road or highway crossing or intersection, where the movement of traffic is not regulated by a traffic officer or by traffic control signals, any blind or partially blind pedestrian shall be entitled to the right-of-way at such crossing or intersection, if such blind or partially blind pedestrian shall extend before him at arm's length a cane white in color or white tipped with red, or if such person is accompanied by a guide dog. Upon receiving such a signal, all vehicles at or approaching such intersection or crossing shall come to a full stop, leaving a clear lane through which such pedestrian may pass, and such vehicle shall remain stationary until such blind or partially blind pedestrian has completed the passage of such crossing or intersection. At any street, road or highway crossing or intersection, where the movement of traffic is regulated by traffic control signals, blind or partially blind pedestrians shall be entitled to the right-of-way if such person having such cane or accompanied by a guide dog shall be partly across such crossing or intersection at the time the traffic control signals change, and all vehicles shall stop and remain stationary until such pedestrian has completed passage across the intersection or crossing. (1949, c. 324, s. 2.)

§ 20-175.3. Rights and privileges of blind persons without white cane or guide dog.—Nothing contained in this part shall be construed to deprive any blind or partially blind person not carrying a cane white in color or white tipped with red, or being accompanied by a guide dog, of any of the rights and privileges conferred by law upon pedestrians crossing streets and highways, nor shall the failure of such blind or partially blind person to carry a cane white in color or white tipped with red, or to be accompanied by a guide dog, upon the streets, roads, highways or sidewalks of this state, be held to constitute or be evidence of contributory negligence by virtue of this part. (1949, c. 324, s. 3.)

§ 20-175.4. Violations made misdemeanor.—Any person violating any provision of this part shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars ($50.00) or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, or both. (1949, c. 324, s. 4.)

Part 12. Penalties.

Quoted in State v. Wooten, 228 N. C. 628, 46 S. E. (2d) 868.

§ 20-179. Penalty for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs.—Every person who is convicted of violating § 20-138, relating to habitual users of narcotic drugs or driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs, shall, for the first offense, be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) or imprisonment for not less than thirty (30) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. For a second conviction of the same offense, the defendant shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred dollars ($200.00) or imprisonment for not less than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. For a third or subsequent conviction of the same offense, the defendant shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars ($500.00) or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court. (1937, c. 407, s. 140; 1947, c. 1067, s. 18.)

§ 20-180. Penalty for speeding and reckless driving.—Every person convicted of violating § 20-140 or § 20-141 shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1937, c. 407, s. 141; 1947, c. 1067, s. 19.)

Art. 3A. Motor Vehicle Law of 1947.

Part 1. Safe Use of Streets and Highways.

§ 20-183.1. Rights, privileges and duties; declarations of policy.—Fully cognizant of the fact that the preservation of human life is a sacred duty and obligation of the legislative, the judicial, and the executive branches of the government, the general assembly hereby recognizes the following rights, privileges, and duties, and makes the following declarations of policy:

(a) Each of the citizens of the state of North Carolina has the right and privilege of using the streets and highways of the state either as a pedestrian or a motorist or both, without needless exposure to accident, injury, or death occasioned by the reckless or otherwise unlawful operation by others of vehicles over or upon said streets and highways;

(b) The right and privilege of any person to use the streets and highways of the state is, however, subject to the right and privilege of other persons to use said streets and highways in a safe, lawful, sane, and prudent manner;

(c) In order to secure to law-abiding and prudent pedestrians and motorists the full enjoyment of the right and privilege herein declared to exist, those operators of vehicles who are heedless of the duties and obligations imposed upon them and unmindful of the rights of others shall be barred from the streets and highways of the state;

(d) To guarantee to motorists and pedestrians the safe use of the streets and highways of the state is the purpose of the general assembly in enacting this act. (1947, c. 1067, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The act from which this section was codified inserted §§ 20-183.1 to 20-183.8, repealed §§ 20-13 and 20-36, and amended §§ 20-7, 20-16, 20-17, 20-19, 20-28, 20-141, 20-179, 20-180 and 20-188. Except as otherwise expressly provided, the act is effective from July 1, 1947.

Session Laws 1947, c. 1067, s. 23, provides: "Notwithstanding any express repeal contained in this act or any repeal implied from its terms and provisions, the existing laws of the state shall be and continue in full force and effect with respect to all acts done, committed or occurring prior to the effective dates of the respective parts or sections of this act affected or which ought to be affected by their terms and provisions and with respect to all liabilities, penalties, and punishments incurred or which ought to have been incurred with respect to said acts done, committed, or occurring prior to the effective dates of the respective parts or sections of this act."

Session Laws 1947, c. 1067, s. 24, provides: "When in any part or section of this act a greater or higher punishment, penalty, or loss of rights or privileges is imposed for a second or subsequent conviction of any offense than is imposed for a first conviction of such offense, no conviction occurring prior to the effective date of the part or section under which the punishment, penalty, or loss of rights or privileges is to be imposed shall be considered as a prior conviction of such offense in determining whether or not the conviction under any part or section of this act is a second or subsequent conviction of such offense."

Part 2. Inspection of Motor Vehicles.

Art. 4. State Highway Patrol.

§ 20-185. Personnel; appointment; salaries.—The state highway patrol shall consist of a commanding officer, whose rank shall be designated by the governor, and such additional subordinate officers and men as the commissioner of motor vehicles, with the approval of the governor and advisory budget commission, shall direct. Members of the state highway patrol shall be appointed by the commissioner, with the approval of the governor, and shall serve at the pleasure of the governor and commissioner. The commanding officer, other officers and members of the state highway patrol shall be paid such salaries as may be established by the division of personnel of the budget bureau. (1929, c. 218, s. 1; 1931, c. 381; 1935, c. 324, s. 1; 1937, c. 313, s. 1; 1941, c. 36; 1947, c. 461, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1947 amendment the commanding officer was designated as "major."

Members of the state highway patrol, in addition to the duties, power and authority hereinbefore given, shall have the authority throughout the state of North Carolina of any police officer in respect to making arrests for any crimes committed in their presence and shall have authority to make arrests for any crime committed on any highway. (1929, c. 218, s. 4; 1933, c. 214, ss. 1, 2; 1935, c. 324, s. 3; 1939, c. 387, s. 2; 1941, c. 36; 1945, c. 1048; 1947, c. 1067, s. 20.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment changed the above paragraph which was added at the end of this section by the 1945 amendment. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendments it is not set out.

As to duty to refer to state courts cases involving vehicles seized or arrests made for unlawful transportation of liquor, see § 18-6.1.

As to power of highway patrolman to make arrests, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 338.

§ 20-191. Establishment of district headquarters.—The department of motor vehicles shall supply at its various district offices, or at some other point within the district if it shall be deemed advisable, suitable district headquarters, and the necessary clerical assistance for the commanding officer of the force at his headquarters in Raleigh and at the several district headquarters. (1929, c. 218, s. 6; 1937, c. 313, s. 1; 1941, c. 36; 1947, c. 461, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment substituted "commanding officer" for "major."

§ 20-192. Shifting of patrolmen from one district to another.—The commanding officer of the state highway patrol under such rules and regulations as the department of motor vehicles may prescribe shall have authority from time to time to shift the forces from one district to another, or to consolidate more than one district force at any point for special purposes. (1929, c. 218, s. 7; 1937, c. 313, s. 1; 1941, c. 36; 1947, c. 461, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment substituted "commanding officer" for "major."

Art. 5. Enforcement of Collection of Judgments against Irresponsible Drivers of Motor Vehicles.

Art. 7. Miscellaneous Provisions Relating to Motor Vehicles.

§ 20-217. Motor vehicles to stop for school, church and Sunday school busses in certain instances.—Every person using, operating, or driving a motor vehicle upon or over the roads or highways of the State of North Carolina, or upon or over any of the streets of any of the incorporated towns and cities of North Carolina, upon approaching from any direction on the same highway any school bus transporting children to or from school or any church or Sunday school bus transporting children to or from church or Sunday school, while such bus is stopped and engaged in receiving or discharging passengers therefrom upon the roads or highways of the state or upon any of the streets of any incorporated cities and towns of the state, shall bring such motor vehicle to a full stop before passing or attempting to pass such bus and shall remain stopped until said passengers are received or discharged at that place and until the "stop signal" of such bus has been withdrawn or until such bus has moved on.

The provisions of this section are applicable only in the event the school, church or Sunday school bus bears upon the front and rear thereof a plainly visible sign containing the words "school bus" or the words "church bus" or "Sunday school bus" in letters not less than five inches in height.

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not to exceed fifty dollars ($50.00) or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days. (1925, c. 265; 1943, c. 767; 1947, c. 527.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1947 amendment made this section applicable also to church and Sunday school busses.

A violation of this section is negligence per se, but such violation must be proximate cause contributing to injury and death of intestate to warrant recovery on that ground. Morgan v. Carolina Coach Co., 225 N. C. 668, 36 S. E. (2d) 263, 266.

Evidence Failing to Show Violation of This Section.—The evidence tended to show that a school bus and two following cars stopped on the right side of the highway, that two children alighted, one of whom ran immediately in front of the bus across the highway, and the other, a boy eight years old, waited until the three vehicles were in motion and crossed the highway after the third vehicle had passed, and was struck by defendant's truck operated by defendant's agent which was traveling in the opposite direction about thirty miles per hour, and which failed to give any warning of its approach and failed to reduce speed prior to the collision. Held: Although the evidence fails to show a violation of the letter of this section, since the school bus was in motion and its stop signal had been withdrawn prior to the impact, the evidence is sufficient to be submitted to the jury upon the issues of the negligence of the driver of the truck and the contributory negligence of defendant's intestate. Hughes v. Thayer, 229 N. C. 773, 51 S. E. (2d) 488.

§ 20-218. Standard qualifications for school bus drivers; speed limit.—No person shall drive or operate a school bus over the public roads of North Carolina while the same is occupied by children unless said person shall be fully trained in the operation of motor vehicles, and shall furnish to the superintendent of the schools of the county in which said bus shall be operated a certificate from the highway patrol of North Carolina, or from any representative duly designated by the commissioner of motor vehicles, and the chief mechanic in charge of school busses in said county showing that he has been examined by a member of the said highway patrol, or a representative duly designated by the commissioner of motor vehicles, and said chief mechanic in charge of school busses, in said county and that he is a fit and competent person to operate or drive a school bus over the public roads of the state.

It shall be unlawful for any person to operate or drive a school bus loaded with children over the public roads of North Carolina at a greater rate of speed than thirty-five miles per hour.

Any person violating paragraph two of this section shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than fifty dollars ($50.00) or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (1937, c. 397, ss. 1-3; 1941, c. 21; 1943, c. 440; 1945, c. 216.)

The 1945 amendment inserted after the word "patrol" in line thirteen the words "or a representative duly designated by the commissioner of motor vehicles."

Art. 9. Motor Vehicle Safety and Financial Responsibility Act.

§ 20-224. Title.—The short title of this article shall be "Motor Vehicle Safety and Responsibility Act." (1947, c. 1006, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For discussion of this article, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 455.

§ 20-225. Purposes and construction of article.—The purposes of this article are to promote greater safety in the operation of motor vehicles in this state and to require financial responsibility of reckless, inefficient and irresponsible operators of motor vehicles, and of operators and owners of motor vehicles involved in accidents; and it is the legislative intent that this article be liberally construed so as to effectuate these purposes, as far as legally and practically possible. (1947, c. 1006, s. 2.)

§ 20-226. Definitions.—Unless a different meaning is clearly required by the context—

"Chauffeur" means every person who is employed for the principal purpose of operating a motor vehicle, and every person who drives a motor vehicle while in use as a public or common carrier of persons or property.

"Motor vehicle" means every vehicle which is self-propelled, or designed for self-propulsion, and every vehicle drawn, or designed to be drawn, by a motor vehicle, and includes every device in, upon or by which any person or property is or can be transported or drawn upon a highway, except devices moved by human or animal power, and devices used exclusively upon stationary rails or tracks, and vehicles used in this state but not required to be licensed by the state.

"Person" includes individuals, firms, partnerships, associations, corporations, receivers, trustees, assignees for the benefit of creditors, executors, and administrators, but does not include the state of North Carolina or any political subdivision thereof.

Masculine terms include feminine.—Whenever the masculine form of a word is used herein, it shall be construed to include the feminine, unless the context clearly requires the contrary. (1947, c. 1006, s. 3.)

§ 20-227. Motor vehicle liability policy defined; provisions and requisites of policy; coverage, etc. —(1) "Motor vehicle liability policy," when used herein, means an owner's or an operator's policy of liability insurance certified, as provided by this article, by an insurance carrier licensed to do business in this state, or by an insurance carrier not licensed to do business in this state upon compliance with the provisions of this article, as proof of financial responsibility, or a policy issued under the provisions of the assigned risk plan prescribed by this article and issued by an insurance carrier authorized to transact business in this state, to or for the benefit of the named insured.

(2) Every owner's policy shall—

(a) Designate by explicit description, or by appropriate reference, all motor vehicles with respect to which coverage is intended to be granted;

(b) Insure as insured the person named, and any other person using or responsible for the use of the motor vehicle with the permission, expressed or implied, of the named insured, or any other person in lawful possession; and

(c) Insure the insured or other person against loss from any liability imposed by law for damages, including damages for care and loss of services because of bodily injury to or death of any person, and injury to or destruction of property caused by accident and arising out of the ownership, use or operation of such motor vehicle or motor vehicles within this state, any other state of the United States, any territory, district or possession of the United States and under its exclusive control, the District of Columbia, the Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland, or any province or territorial subdivision of either subject to a limit exclusive of interest and costs, with respect to each motor vehicle, of five thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of one person in any one accident, and, subject to the limit for one person, to the limit of ten thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of two or more persons in any one accident, and to a limit of one thousand dollars because of injury to or destruction of property of others in any one accident.

(3) Every operator's policy shall insure the person named therein as insured against loss from liability imposed upon him by law for damages, including damages for care and loss of services because of bodily injury to or death of any person, and injury to or destruction of property, arising out of the use by him of any motor vehicle not owned by him, within the territorial limits and subject to the limits of liability set forth with respect to an owner's policy.

(4) Every policy of insurance subject to the provisions of this article—

(a) Must contain an agreement that the insurance is provided in accordance with the coverage defined in this article as respects bodily injury, death, property damage and destruction, and that it is subject to all the provisions of this article and of the laws of this state relating to this kind of insurance;

(b) May grant any lawful coverage in excess of or in addition to the coverage herein specified, and this excess or additional coverage shall not be subject to the provisions of this article, but shall be subject to other applicable laws of this state.

(5) Every policy shall be subject to the following provisions which need not be contained therein:

(a) The liability of any insurance carrier to the insured under a policy becomes absolute when loss or damage covered by the policy occurs, and the satisfaction by the insured of a judgment for the loss or damage shall not be a condition precedent to the right or duty of the carrier to make payment on account of the loss or damage.

(b) No policy shall be cancelled or annulled, as respects any loss or damage, by any agreement between the carrier and the insured after the insured has become responsible for the loss or damage, and any attempted cancellation or annullment shall be void.

(c) If the death of the insured occurs after the insured has become liable during the policy period, for loss or damage covered by the policy, the policy shall not be terminated by the death with respect to the liability, and the insurance carrier shall be liable thereunder as though death had not occurred.

(d) Upon the recovery of a judgment against any person for loss or damage if the person or the decedent he represents was at the accrual of the cause of action insured against the liability under the policy, the judgment creditor shall be entitled to have the insurance money applied to the satisfaction of the judgment.

(e) If the death, insolvency, or bankruptcy of the insured occurs within the policy period, the policy, during the unexpired portion of the period, shall cover the legal representative of the insured.

(f) No statement made by the insured or on his behalf, and no violation of the terms of the policy, shall operate to defeat or avoid the policy so as to bar recovery within the limits provided in this article.

(6) Any policy may provide—

(a) That the insured, or any other person covered by the policy shall reimburse the insurance carrier for payments made on account of any accident, claim or suit involving a breach of the terms, provisions or conditions of the policy;

(b) For proration of the insurance with other applicable valid and collectible insurance.

(7) Insurance carriers, authorized to issue policies as provided in this article, may, pending the issuance of the policy, execute an agreement to be known as a binder, which shall not be valid beyond thirty days from the date it becomes effective, or may, in lieu of a policy, issue an endorsement to an existing policy, each of which shall be construed to provide indemnity or protection in like manner and to the same extent as a formal policy. The provisions of this article apply to such binders and endorsements.

(8) When an insurance carrier has certified a policy under the provisions of this article, the insurance so certified cannot be cancelled or terminated until at least twenty days after a notice of cancellation or termination of the insurance has been filed in the office of the commissioner, except that a policy subsequently procured and certified shall, on the effective date of its certification, terminate the insurance previously certified with respect to any motor vehicle designated in both certificates. Provided, that when an insurance carrier has certified a policy under the provisions of this article, such policy shall be deemed to be continued in full force and effect and to provide the insured with financial responsibility as required by this article until twenty days after notice of cancellation or termination of the policy, whether such cancellation or termination is by reason of the expiration of the term of the policy or for other cause, it being the intent of this proviso to permit insurance carriers to issue renewal or substitute policies meeting the requirements of this article without the necessity of furnishing to the commissioner new certificates of insurance coverage upon the issuance of each renewal or substituted policy, and it being the further intent of this proviso to authorize the commissioner to rely upon the original certificate of liability insurance coverage so long as the insured maintains with the same insurance carrier adequate insurance coverage meeting the requirements of this article.

(9) No policy required under this article shall be issued or delivered in this state unless it complies with the terms and conditions of this article, and with all other applicable and not inconsistent laws of the state now or hereafter in force.

(10) Several policies of one or more insurance carriers which together meet the relevant requirements of this article shall be deemed a "motor vehicle liability policy" within the meaning of this article.

(11) Policies issued under the provisions of this article shall not insure any liability of the employer on account of bodily injury to, or death of, an employee of the insured for which benefits are payable under any workmen's compensation law. (1947, c. 1006, s. 4; 1949, c. 1161.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the proviso to subsection (8).

§ 20-228. Commissioner authorized to adopt regulations and administer article.—The commissioner shall administer and enforce the provisions of this article, and he is authorized to adopt regulations for its administration in accordance with the guiding principles prescribed in, and not inconsistent with, the terms of this article. (1947, c. 1006, s. 5.)

§ 20-229. When article does not apply.—This article, except its provisions as to the filing of proof of financial responsibility by a common carrier for its drivers and chauffeurs, does not apply to any vehicle operated under a permit or certificate of convenience and necessity issued by the North Carolina utilities commission, if public liability and property damage insurance for the protection of the public is required to be carried upon it, or to any motor vehicle owned by the state of North Carolina, or any political subdivision thereof. However, this article shall not be construed to exempt the driver or operator of any motor vehicle owned by the state of North Carolina, or any political subdivision thereof, from the provisions of this article. (1947, c. 1006, s. 6.)

§ 20-230. Proof of financial responsibility must be given when driver's license is suspended or revoked.—Nothing in this article shall affect the authority or duty of the department of motor vehicles to issue, suspend or revoke operator's and chauffeur's license under the Uniform Drivers' License Act, article 2, chapter 20, of the General Statutes, and any amendments thereto; and any person whose operator's or chauffeur's license has been revoked or suspended under the provisions of the Uniform Drivers' License Act, as amended, shall not be entitled to have said license again issued or reinstated until such person shall have given and thereafter maintains proof of his financial responsibility, as provided in this article. Provided, in order to maintain the validity of any such reissuance or reinstatement, such person shall not be required to maintain such proof of financial responsibility, under this article, for more than two years after the reissuance or reinstatement of such license. (1947, c. 1006, s. 7; 1949, c. 977.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the proviso to this section.

For a brief comment on the 1949 amendments to this and the following section, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 471.

§ 20-231. Revocation of license and registration certificates and plates upon conviction of certain offenses; provisions for reinstatement when proof of financial responsibility given.—The commissioner shall immediately revoke the operator's and chauffeur's license issued to any person, resident or nonresident, upon receiving a record of such person's conviction or forfeiture of bail in connection with any of the offenses set forth in General Statutes, § 20-17, and any amendments thereto, and such operator's and chauffeur's licenses shall remain suspended and revoked for at least one year, and shall not be reinstated or renewed thereafter unless and until such person shall have given, and thereafter maintains, proof of financial responsibility as provided in this article. Provided, in order to maintain the validity of any such reissuance or reinstatement, such person shall not be required to maintain such proof of financial responsibility, under this article, for more than two years after the reissuance or reinstatement of such license.

Whenever the motor vehicle operator's or chauffeur's license of any person has been suspended, cancelled or revoked under the provisions of sections 20-16 or 20-17 and the period of such suspension, cancellation or revocation shall have expired, and such person shall have met the requirements of this article if required to furnish proof of financial responsibility as a condition precedent to the right to have such license restored or reissued, such license shall be immediately restored or reissued to such person without a re-examination of such person if such person would not have been required to be re-examined at the time of the application for the restoration or reissuance of the license, if the offense for which the license was suspended, cancelled or revoked had not been committed; provided, however, if such person has not been re-examined since July 1, 1947, any license issued to such person shall expire at the same time as licenses issued to persons whose last names begin with the same letter as such person's, as provided in subsection (n) of section 20-7. (1947, c. 1006, s. 8; 1949, c. 977; c. 1032, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The first 1949 amendment added the proviso to the first paragraph of this section. The second 1949 amendment added the second paragraph.

§ 20-232. Revocation of licenses of mental incompetents and inebriates; procedure.—(a) The commissioner, upon receipt of notice that any person has been (1) legally adjudged to be insane, or a congenital idiot, an imbecile, epileptic or feeble-minded, or (2) committed to, or has entered, an institution as an inebriate or an habitual user of narcotic drugs, shall forthwith revoke his license and registration, but he shall not revoke the license if the person has been adjudged competent by judicial order or decree, or discharged as cured from an institution for the insane or feeble-minded, for the cure of inebriates, or for the treatment of habitual users of narcotic drugs, upon a certificate of the person in charge that the releasee is competent.

(b) In any case in which the person's license or registration has been revoked or suspended prior to his release it shall not be returned to him unless the commissioner is satisfied that he is competent to operate a motor vehicle with safety to persons and property and only then if he gives and maintains proof of financial responsibility.

(c) The clerk of the court in which any such adjudication is made shall forthwith send a certified copy of abstract thereof to the commissioner.

(d) The person in charge of every institution of any nature for the care or cure of the insane, idiots, imbeciles, epileptic, feeble-minded, inebriates or habitual users of narcotic drugs, shall forthwith report to the commissioner in sufficient detail for accurate identification the admission of every patient. (1947, c. 1006, s. 9.)

§ 20-233. Appeal from action of commissioner; review by court of record; effect.—Any person aggrieved by an order or act of the commissioner requiring a suspension or revocation of his license or registration under the provisions of this article, may file a petition in any court of record having criminal jurisdiction in the city or county in which the petitioner resides, for a review, but the commencement of such a proceeding shall not suspend the order or act, unless for good cause shown, a stay is allowed by the court pending final determination of the review. (1947, c. 1006, s. 10.)

§ 20-234. Revocation or suspension of license, etc., for failure to satisfy judgment.—(a) The commissioner shall suspend the operator's or chauffeur's license and all of the registration certificates and registration plates issued to any person who has failed for a period of sixty days to satisfy any judgment in amounts and upon a cause of action as hereinafter stated, immediately upon receiving authenticated report as hereinafter provided to that effect.

(b) The commissioner shall not, however, revoke the license of an owner, operator or chauffeur if the insurance carried by him was in a company which was authorized to transact business in this state and which subsequent to an accident involving the owner or operator and prior to settlement of the claim therefor went into liquidation, so that the owner, operator or chauffeur is thereby unable to satisfy the judgment arising out of the accident. (1947, c. 1006, s. 11.)

§ 20-235. Judgment specifically defined.—The judgment herein referred to means any judgment for more than fifty dollars for damages because of injury to or destruction of property, including loss of its use, or any judgment for damages, including damages for care and loss of services, because of bodily injury to or death of any person arising out of the ownership, use or operation of any motor vehicle. (1947, c. 1006, s. 12.)

§ 20-236. Commissioner's duty to revoke or suspend license, etc.—The commissioner shall take action as required in the two preceding sections upon receiving proper evidence that the person has failed for a period of sixty days to satisfy any judgment, in amount and upon a cause of action as stated in the two preceding sections, rendered by a court of competent jurisdiction of this state, any other state of the United States, the United States, any territory, district or possession of the United States and under its exclusive control, the District of Columbia, the Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland, or any province or territorial subdivision of either. (1947, c. 1006, s. 13.)

§ 20-237. When judgment deemed satisfied; credits on judgment.—(a) Every judgment herein referred to shall for the purpose of this article be deemed satisfied: (1) when paid in full or when five thousand dollars has been credited upon any judgment or judgments rendered in excess of that amount because of bodily injury to or death of one person as the result of any one accident; or (2) when, subject to the limit of five thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of one person, the judgment has been paid in full or when the sum of ten thousand dollars has been credited upon any judgment or judgments rendered in excess of that amount because of bodily injury to or death of two or more persons as the result of any one accident; or (3) when the judgment has been paid in full or when one thousand dollars has been credited upon any judgment or judgments rendered in excess of that amount because of injury to or destruction of property of others as a result of any one accident.

(b) Payments made in settlement of any claims because of bodily injury, death or property damage arising from a motor vehicle accident shall be credited in reduction of the amount provided for in this section. (1947, c. 1006, s. 14.)

§ 20-238. Installment payments on judgment by order of court.—A judgment debtor upon five days' notice to the judgment creditor may apply to the court in which the judgment was obtained for the privilege of paying it in installments and the court, without prejudice to other legal remedies which the judgment creditor may have, may so order, fixing the amounts and times of payment of the installments. (1947, c. 1006, s. 15.)

§ 20-239. Installments in default; licenses, etc., subject to revocation and suspension.—If the judgment debtor fails to pay any installments as permitted by the order of the court, then, upon notice of default, the commissioner shall forthwith suspend the license and registration certificates and registration plates of the judgment debtor until the judgment is satisfied as provided in this article, except that the judgment debtor may apply, after due notice to the judgment creditor, to the court which allowed installment payment of the judgment, within thirty days after the default, for resumption of the privilege of paying the judgment in installments, if past due installments are first paid. (1947, c. 1006, s. 16.)

Editor's Note.—The word "payment" in the fourth line from the end of this section does not appear in the authenticated copy of the act in the office of the secretary of state but has been supplied by the editor as expressing the obvious intent of the legislature.

§ 20-240. Effect of court order permitting installment payments.—The commissioner shall not suspend a license or registration of a motor vehicle, and shall restore any license or registration suspended following nonpayment of a judgment, if the judgment debtor obtains an order from the court in which the judgment was rendered permitting payment of the judgment in installments, and if the judgment debtor gives proof of his future financial responsibility as hereinafter provided, but default in payment of any installment will render the license or registration subject to suspension. (1947, c. 1006, s. 17.)

§ 20-241. Judgment creditor may consent to issuance or renewal of licenses pending satisfaction of judgment, upon proof of financial responsibility.—If the judgment creditor consents in writing, in such form as the commissioner prescribes, that the judgment debtor be allowed license and registration certificates and plates, the commissioner may allow same, notwithstanding default in the payment of the judgment or any installment thereof, for six months from the date of consent and thereafter until it is revoked in writing, if the judgment debtor furnishes proof of his future financial responsibility as hereinafter provided. (1947, c. 1006, s. 18.)

§ 20-242. Proof of financial responsibility required of unlicensed person at fault in accident.—Any unlicensed person involved in a motor vehicle accident, in which it should be determined that he is at fault, involving damages in excess of fifty dollars, must show and thereafter maintain proof of financial responsibility, as defined in this article, before obtaining license. (1947, c. 1006, s. 19.)

§ 20-243. State responsible for safekeeping of deposits held by treasurer under this article.—The state shall be responsible for the safekeeping of all bonds, cash and securities deposited with the treasurer of the state under the provisions of this article and if the deposit or any part thereof be lost, destroyed, or misappropriated the state shall make good the loss to any person entitled thereto. Bonds, cash or securities so deposited shall only be released by the treasurer upon consent of the commissioner given in conformity with the terms of this article. (1947, c. 1006, s. 20.)

§ 20-244. Bankruptcy listing of claim for damages does not relieve judgment debtor hereunder.—A discharge in bankruptcy listing a claim for damages arising out of the operation of a motor vehicle shall not relieve the judgment debtor from any of the requirements of this article. (1947, c. 1006, s. 21.)

dent alike.—(a) Whenever by the laws of this state the commissioner has the power to suspend or revoke (1) the license of a resident operator or chauffeur, or (2) the registration certificates and registration plates of a resident owner, he is empowered (1) to suspend or revoke the license or to forbid the operation of a motor vehicle in this state by a nonresident operator or chauffeur, and (2) to forbid the operation within this state of any motor vehicle of a nonresident owner.

(b) Every provision of this article applies to any person who is not a resident of this state under the same circumstances as they would apply to a resident; and no nonresident may operate any motor vehicle in this state and no motor vehicle owned by him may be operated in this state, unless and until the nonresident, or the owner of the motor vehicle, if another person, has complied with the requirements of this article with respect to furnishing security and giving proof of future financial responsibility. (1947, c. 1006, s. 22.)

§ 20-246. Commissioner to transmit record of conviction in North Carolina to officials of home state of nonresident.—Upon conviction of a nonresident or in case any unsatisfied judgment results in suspension of a nonresident's driving privileges in this state and the prohibition of the operation within this state of any motor vehicle owned by him, or upon suspension of a nonresident's driving privileges in this state and the prohibition of the operation within this state of any motor vehicle owned by the nonresident pursuant to any other provision or provisions of this article, the commissioner shall transmit a certified copy of the record of the conviction or the unsatisfied judgment or any other action pursuant to this article resulting in suspension of a nonresident's driving privileges in this state and the prohibition of the operation within this state of any motor vehicle owned by such nonresident to the commissioner of motor vehicles or officer performing the functions of a commissioner in the state, the District of Columbia, any territory, district or possession of the United States and under its exclusive control, the Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland, or any province or territorial subdivision of either, in which the nonresident resides. (1947, c. 1006, s. 23.)

§ 20-247. Suspension or revocation upon conviction or adverse judgment against North Carolina resident in out-of-state court.—(a) The commissioner shall suspend or revoke the license and registration certificate and plates of any resident of this state upon receiving notice of his conviction, in a court of competent jurisdiction of this state, any other state of the United States, the United States, any territory, district or possession of the United States and under its exclusive control, the District of Columbia, the Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland, or any province or territorial subdivision of either, of an offense therein, which if committed in this state would be grounds for the suspension or revocation of the license granted to him, or registration of any motor vehicle registered in his name.

(b) The commissioner shall take like action upon receipt of notice that a resident of this state has failed, for a period of thirty days, to satisfy any final judgment in amount and upon a cause of action as stated herein, rendered against him in a court of competent jurisdiction of any other state of the United States, the United States, any territory, district or possession of the United States and under its exclusive control, the District of Columbia, the Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland or any province or territorial subdivision of either. (1947, c. 1006, s. 24.)

§ 20-248. Proof of financial responsibility by owner on behalf of chauffeur or member of household.—When the commissioner finds that any person required to give proof or furnish security under this article is or later becomes a chauffeur or motor vehicle operator, however designated, or a member of the immediate family or household, in the employ or home of an owner of a motor vehicle, the commissioner shall accept proof of financial responsibility given by the owner in lieu of proof by such person to permit him to operate a motor vehicle for which the owner has given proof as herein provided. In case the person is one who is furnished proof of financial responsibility by his employer, he shall not be required to furnish security. The commissioner shall designate the restrictions imposed by this section on the face of such person's, operator's, or chauffeur's license. (1947, c. 1006, s. 25.)

§ 20-249. Proof of financial responsibility on behalf of another by owner who holds certificate from utilities commission.—If the owner of a motor vehicle is one whose vehicles are operated under a permit or certificate of convenience and necessity issued by the state utilities commission, proof by the owner on behalf of another as provided by this article may be made if there is filed with the commissioner satisfactory evidence that the owner has complied with the law with respect to his liability for damage caused by the operation of vehicles by providing the required insurance or other security, or has qualified as a self-insurer as described in § 20-275. (1947, c. 1006, s. 26.)

§ 20-250. Revoked and suspended licenses, certificates and plates to be surrendered to commissioner; penalty for failure.—(a) Any person whose operator's or chauffeur's license or registration certificates or registration plates have been suspended or revoked as provided in this article and have not been reinstated shall immediately return every such license, registration certificate and set of registration plates held by him to the commissioner. Any person wilfully failing to comply with this requirement is guilty of a misdemeanor.

(b) The commissioner is authorized to take possession of any license, registration certificate or set of registration plates upon their suspension or revocation under the provisions of this article or to direct any police officer to take possession of and return them to the office of the commissioner. (1947, c. 1006, s. 27.)

§ 20-251. Proof of financial responsibility specifically defined.—Proof of financial responsibility means proof of ability to respond in damages for liability thereafter incurred arising out of the ownership, maintenance, use or operation of a motor vehicle, in the amount of five thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of any one person, and subject to a limitation of five thousand dollars, for one person, in the amount of ten thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of two or more persons in any one accident, and in the amount of one thousand dollars because of injury to or destruction of property in any one accident. Proof in these amounts shall be furnished for each motor vehicle registered by the person. (1947, c. 1006, s. 28.)

§ 20-252. Proof of financial responsibility; how made.—(a) Proof of financial responsibility may be made: (1) by filing with the commissioner the written certificate of any insurance carrier, authorized to do business in this state, certifying that there is in effect a motor vehicle liability policy for the benefit of the person required to furnish proof of financial responsibility. This certificate shall give the effective date of the policy which must be the same date as the effective date of the certificate and, unless the policy is issued to a person who is not the owner of a motor vehicle, must designate by explicit description or by appropriate reference all motor vehicles covered. The commissioner is authorized to accept from the holder of a restricted or limited chauffeur's or motor vehicle operator's license, as proof of financial responsibility, a certificate of an insurance carrier, authorized to do business in this state, certifying that there is in effect a motor vehicle liability policy for the benefit of the holder of such license covering the operation by such person of a motor vehicle in accordance with the restriction or limitation to which such person's chauffeur's or operator's license is subject; (2) by filing with the commissioner proof that a satisfactory bond has been executed; (3) that an adequate deposit of cash or securities has been made; or (4) that self-insurance certificates have been filed.

(b) No motor vehicle shall be, or continue to be, registered in the name of any person required to file proof of financial responsibility unless it is so designated in the certificate. (1947, c. 1006, s. 29; 1949, c. 1160.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment inserted in subsection (a) the provision as to proof of financial responsibility of holder of restricted or limited operator's license.

§ 20-253. Nonresidents; how proof of financial responsibility established.—The nonresident owner of a foreign vehicle may give proof of financial responsibility by filing with the commissioner a written certificate or certificates of an insurance carrier not authorized to transact business in this state, but authorized to transact business in the state, the District of Columbia, any territory, district or possession of the United States and under its exclusive control, the Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland, or any province or territorial subdivision of either, in which each motor vehicle described in the certificate is registered; or if the nonresident does not own a motor vehicle, then in the like jurisdiction in which the insured resides and otherwise conforming to the provisions of this article, and the commissioner shall accept the same if the insurance carrier, in addition to having complied with all other provisions of this article as requisite shall (1) execute a power of attorney authorizing the commissioner to accept service on its behalf of notice or process in any action arising out of a motor vehicle accident in this state; (2) duly adopt a resolution, which shall be binding upon it, declaring that its policies are to be deemed to be varied to comply with the law of this state and the terms of this article relating to the terms of motor vehicle liability policies issued herein; (3) agree to accept as final and binding the judgment of any court of competent jurisdiction in this state from which judgment no appeal is, or can be taken, duly rendered in any action arising out of a motor vehicle accident; or (4) deposit with the treasurer of North Carolina cash or securities such as are mentioned in § 20-264 or the surety bond of a company authorized to do business in North Carolina, equal in value to eleven thousand dollars for each insurance policy filed as proof of financial responsibility. (1947, c. 1006, s. 30.)

§ 20-254. Nonresident may elect to file certificate of insurance carrier authorized to transact business in this state; default of foreign insurance carriers; effect.—(a) If a nonresident required to file a certificate of insurance under this article files the certificate of insurance of a company authorized to do business in this state the provisions of the foregoing section shall not apply.

(b) If any foreign insurance carrier which has qualified to furnish proof of financial responsibility defaults in any of its undertakings or agreements, the commissioner shall not thereafter accept any certificate of that carrier so long as the default continues and shall revoke licenses theretofore granted on basis of its policies unless the default be immediately repaired. (1947, c. 1006, s. 31.)

§ 20-255. Liability under other statutes not affected; article not applicable to certain policies.—This article does not apply to or affect (1) policies of automobile insurance against liability which may now or hereafter be required by any other law of this state but such policies if endorsed to conform to the requirements of this article shall be accepted as proof of financial responsibility when required under this article; (2) policies insuring solely the insured named in the policy against liability resulting from the maintenance, use or operation by persons in the insured's employ or in his behalf of motor vehicles now owned by the insured. (1947, c. 1006, s. 32.)

§ 20-256. Bond as proof of financial responsibility.—A person required to give proof of financial responsibility may file with the commissioner a bond meeting the requirements of this article. (1947, c. 1006, s. 33.)

§ 20-257. Nature of bond required; sureties.—The bond referred to in the foregoing section shall be executed by the person giving proof and by a surety company duly authorized to transact business in this state, or by the person giving proof and by one or more individual sureties owning real estate within this state and having an equity therein in at least the amount of the bond, which real estate shall be scheduled therein, but the commissioner may not accept any real estate bond unless it is first approved by the clerk of the superior court of county wherein the real estate is located. (1947, c. 1006, s. 34.)

§ 20-258. Conditions of bond to conform to those of motor vehicle liability policy.—The commissioner shall not accept any such bond unless it is conditioned for payments in amounts and under the same circumstances as would be required in a motor vehicle liability policy furnished by the person giving proof. (1947, c. 1006, s. 35.)

§ 20-259. Cancellation of bond; notice required.—No such bond shall be cancelled unless twenty days' prior written notice of cancellation is given the commissioner but cancellation of the bond shall not prevent recovery thereon with respect to any right or cause of action arising prior to the date of cancellation. (1947, c. 1006, s. 36.)

§ 20-260. Bond constitutes a lien in favor of state; notice of cancellation; recordation of bond.—(a) A bond with individual sureties shall constitute a lien in favor of the state upon the real estate of any individual surety, which lien shall exist in favor of any holder of any final judgment against the principal on account of damage to property or injury to or death of any person or persons resulting from the ownership, maintenance, use or operation of his, or any other, motor vehicle, upon the recording of the bond in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the real estate is located.

(b) Notice of cancellation is to be signed by the commissioner or by someone designated by him and the seal of the department placed thereon. Notwithstanding any other provision of law the register of deeds shall record the notice in the books kept for the recording of deeds and shall index the same in the indexes thereto for grantors and grantees, under the respective names of the individual sureties in the column for grantors, and the State of North Carolina in the column for grantees, for which he shall receive the sum of two dollars and fifty cents to be paid by the principal in full payment of all services in connection with the recordation and release of the bond. The register of deeds shall place on the notice a statement showing the time of recording and the book and page of recording and return the notice to the commissioner. (1947, c. 1006, s. 37.)

§ 20-261. Release of bond by commissioner; certificate of cancellation.—When a bond with individual sureties filed with the commissioner is no longer required under this article, the commissioner shall, upon request, cancel it as to liability for damage to property or injury to or death of any person or persons thereafter caused, and when a bond has been cancelled by the commissioner or otherwise he shall upon request furnish a certificate of the cancellation signed by him or by someone designated by him with the seal of the department thereon. The certificate, notwithstanding any other provision of law, may be recorded in the office of the register of deeds in which the bond was admitted to record. (1947, c. 1006, s. 38.)

§ 20-262. Discharge of lien of bond by order of court.—Upon satisfactory proof that the bond has been cancelled and that there are no claims or judgments against the principal in the bond on account of damage to property or injury to or death of any person or persons resulting from the ownership, maintenance, use or operation of a motor vehicle of the principal caused while the bond was in effect, the clerk of the superior court in the county in which the bond was admitted to record, may enter an order discharging the lien of the bond on the real estate of the sureties thereon, upon their petition and at their proper cost. (1947, c. 1006, s. 39.)

§ 20-263. Judgment creditor may sue on bond or proceed against parties to bond, if judgment unsatisfied.—(a) If a final judgment rendered against the principal on the bond filed with the commissioner as provided in this article be not satisfied within sixty days after its rendition, the judgment creditor may, for his own use and benefit and at his sole expense, bring an action on the bond in the name of the state against the company or persons executing the bond.

(b) When the sureties on the bond are individuals the judgment creditor may proceed against any or all parties to the bond at law for a judgment or for a decree and foreclosure of the lien on the real estate of the sureties. The proceeding may be against one, all or intermediate number of parties to the bond and when less than all are joined other or others may be impleaded in the same proceeding and after final judgment or decree other proceedings may be instituted until full satisfaction be obtained. (1947, c. 1006, s. 40.)

§ 20-264. Deposit of cash or securities as proof of financial responsibility.—A person may give proof of financial responsibility by delivering to the commissioner eleven thousand dollars in cash, or in securities, such as fiduciaries may invest in under General Statutes, chapter 36, as amended. (1947, c. 1006, s. 41.)

§ 20-265. State treasurer custodian of deposits; depletion of deposits; duties of treasurer.—(a) All money or securities so delivered to the commissioner shall be placed by him in the custody of the state treasurer and shall be subject to execution to satisfy any judgment within the limits on amounts required by this article for motor vehicle liability insurance policies.

(b) Whenever the moneys or securities are subjected to attachment, garnishment, execution, or other legal process, or are otherwise depleted or threatened with depletion or impairment in amount or value the depositor must immediately furnish additional moneys or securities, free from lien, claim, or threat of impairment, in sufficient amount or value fully to comply with the requirements of this article.

(c) The treasurer shall notify the commissioner promptly of any depletion, impairment, or decrease or of any legal threat of depletion, impairment, or decrease in the value of the securities or in the moneys on deposit with him under the provisions of this article. (1947, c. 1006, s. 42.)

§ 20-266. Cancellation or substitution of bond or certificate of insurance; legal determination of disputes as to ownership or liability.—(a) The commissioner may cancel any bond or return any certificate of insurance, and upon the substitution and acceptance by him of other adequate proof of financial responsibility, pursuant to this article, and upon his direction to such effect, the state treasurer shall return any money or securities on deposit with him to the person entitled thereto.

(b) The commissioner and the treasurer, or either, may proceed by bill of interpleader for the determination of any dispute as to ownership of or rights in any deposit, and may have recourse to any other appropriate proceeding for determination of any question that arises as to their rights or liabilities or as to the rights or liabilities of the state under this article. (1947, c. 1006, s. 43.)

§ 20-267. Commissioner must require replacement of unsatisfactory proof of financial responsibility.—Whenever any proof of financial responsibility filed by any person under the provisions of this article no longer fulfills the purpose for which required the commissioner shall require other proof of financial responsibility as required by this article and shall suspend his operator's or chauffeur's license, registration certificate and registration plates pending the furnishing of proof as required. (1947, c. 1006, s. 44.)

§ 20-268. When commissioner may consent to cancellation or release of bonds, policies, funds or securities; waiver of requirement of proofs of financial responsibility.—The commissioner, upon request and subject to the provisions of the succeeding section, shall consent to the cancellation of any bond or insurance policy, or to the return to the person entitled thereto of any money or securities deposited pursuant to this article as proof of financial responsibility, or he shall waive the requirements of filing proof of financial responsibility, in the event (1) of the death of the person on whose behalf the proof was filed; or (2) of his permanent incapacity to operate a motor vehicle; or (3) that the person who has given proof of financial responsibility surrenders his operator's or chauffeur's license, and all of his registration certificates and registration plates to the commissioner. (1947, c. 1006, s. 45.)

§ 20-269. When commissioner may not release proof.—(a) Notwithstanding the provisions of the preceding section, the commissioner shall not release the proof in the event: (1) any action for damages upon a liability included in this article is then pending; or (2) any judgment upon any such liability is then outstanding and unsatisfied; or (3) the commissioner has received notice that the person involved has within the period of twelve months immediately preceding been involved as a driver in any motor vehicle accident.

(b) An affidavit of the applicant of the nonexistence of these facts shall be sufficient evidence thereof in the absence of evidence in the records of the department to indicate the contrary. (1947, c. 1006, s. 46.)

§ 20-270. Re-establishment of proof as requisite to reissuance of license.—Whenever any person to whom proof has been surrendered as provided in § 20-268 applies for an operator's or chauffeur's license or the registration of a motor vehicle, the application shall be refused unless the applicant re-establishes proof as requisite. (1947, c. 1006, s. 47.)

§ 20-271. Commissioner to furnish abstract of record of licensee.—The commissioner upon request shall furnish any insurance carrier or any person or surety a certified abstract of the operating record of any person subject to the provisions of this article, which abstract shall fully designate the motor vehicles, if any, registered in the name of the person, and if there exists no record of the conviction of the person of a violation of any provisions of any statute or ordinance relating to the operation of a motor vehicle or of any injury or damage caused by him as provided in this article the commissioner shall so certify, upon the payment to him of a fee of one dollar ($1.00); provided further, however, that such certified abstract shall not be admissible in evidence in any court proceedings. (1947, c. 1006, s. 48.)

§ 20-272. Operation of motor vehicle while revocation or suspension of license, etc., in effect; penalties.—Any person whose operator's or chauffeur's license or registration certificate or other privilege to operate a motor vehicle has been suspended or revoked, restoration thereof or the issuance of a new license or registration certificate being contingent upon the furnishing of proof of financial responsibility and who, during the period of suspension or while revocation is in effect, or in the absence of full authorization from the commissioner, drives any motor vehicle upon any highway, and any nonresident from whom the privilege of operating any motor vehicle on the highways of this state has been withdrawn as provided in this article who operates a motor vehicle in this state, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1947, c. 1006, s. 49.)

§ 20-273. Forgery of evidence of ability to respond in damages; penalties.—Any person who forges or without authority signs any evidence of ability to respond in damages as required by the commissioner in the administration of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1947, c. 1006, s. 50.)

§ 20-274. Additional penalties.—Any person who violates any provision of this article for which another penalty is not prescribed by law shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1947, c. 1006, s. 51.)

§ 20-275. Self-insurers.—(a) Any person may become a self-insurer who shall obtain from the commissioner a certificate of self-insurance as provided for in subsection (b) of this section; (b) the commissioner may, in his discretion and upon the application of such a person, issue a certificate of self-insurance when he is reasonably satisfied that such person is possessed and will continue to be possessed of financial ability to respond to judgment as hereinbefore described, obtained against such person arising out of the ownership, maintenance, use, or operation of any such person's motor vehicles; (c) upon the due notice and hearing, the commissioner may in his discretion and upon reasonable grounds cancel a certificate of self-insurance. (1947, c. 1006, s. 52.)

§ 20-276. Assignment of risk.—The commissioner of insurance, after consultation with representatives of the insurance carriers licensed to write motor vehicle liability insurance in this state, shall consider such reasonable plans and procedures as such insurance carriers may submit to him for the equitable apportionment among such insurance carriers of those applicants for motor vehicle liability insurance who are entitled to such coverage under this article but who are unable to secure such insurance through ordinary methods.

Upon the approval by the commissioner of insurance of any such plans and procedures thus submitted, all insurance carriers licensed to write motor vehicle liability insurance in this state, as a prerequisite to further engaging in writing such insurance in this state shall formally subscribe to, and participate in, such plans and procedures so submitted.

In the event the commissioner of insurance, in the exercise of his discretion, does not approve any plan so submitted, or should no such plan be submitted, then the commissioner of insurance shall formulate and put into effect reasonable plans and procedures for the apportionment among such insurance carriers of all such applications for motor vehicle liability insurance submitted to him in accordance with the provisions of this article by persons entitled to coverage under this article but unable to obtain such coverage through ordinary methods.

Should no such plan be submitted by the insurance carriers and approved by the commissioner of insurance, then, as a prerequisite to further engaging in the selling of motor vehicle liability insurance in this state, every insurance carrier licensed to write motor vehicle liability insurance in this state shall formally subscribe to and participate in the plans and procedures formulated by the commissioner of insurance as provided in this section, and every such insurance carrier shall accept any and all risks assigned to it by the commissioner of insurance under such plan and shall upon payment of a proper premium issue a policy covering the same, such policy to meet at least the minimum requirements for establishing financial responsibility as provided in this article.

Every person who has been unable to obtain a motor vehicle liability insurance policy through ordinary methods shall have the right to apply to the commissioner of insurance to have his risk assigned to an insurance carrier licensed to write, and writing motor vehicle liability insurance in this state, and the insurance carrier shall issue a motor vehicle liability policy which will meet at least the minimum requirements for establishing financial responsibility, as provided for in this article. In each instance where application is made to the commissioner of insurance to have a risk assigned to an insurance carrier, it shall be deemed that the applicant has been denied the issuance of a liability insurance policy, and the commissioner of insurance shall, upon receipt of such application, which shall have attached thereto a statement from the motor vehicles department that the suspension of the applicant's license will be no longer in effect after the date noted therein, immediately assign the risk to an insurance carrier which carrier shall be required, as a prerequisite to the further engaging in selling motor vehicle liability insurance in this state, to issue a motor vehicle liability policy which will meet at least the minimum requirements for establishing financial responsibility, as provided for in this article.

The power granted the commissioner of insurance under the provisions of this article to deny, directly or indirectly, insurance to any person applying for insurance hereunder, shall be restricted to persons whose license has been suspended and continues to be suspended by the department of motor vehicles under authority of section 20-16 or otherwise and the power of the commissioner of insurance to approve the revocation or cancellation of insurance under the provisions of this article shall be exercised only when the department of motor vehicles suspends the license of the insured under the authority granted to it under the motor vehicles act.

The commissioner of insurance shall have the authority to make reasonable rules and regulations for the assignment of risks to insurance carriers.

The commissioner of insurance shall establish, or cause to be established, such rate classifications, rating schedules, rates, rules and regulations to be used by insurance carriers issuing assigned risk motor vehicle liability policies in accordance with this article, as appear to him to be proper.

In the establishment of rate classification, rating schedules, rates, rules and regulations, the commissioner of insurance shall be guided by such principles and practices as have been established under his statutory authority to regulate motor vehicle liability insurance rates, and he may act in conformity with his statutory discretionary authority in such matters, and may in his discretion assign to the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office, or other state bureau or agency any of the administrative duties imposed upon him by this article.

The commissioner of insurance is empowered, if in his judgment he deems such action to be justified after reviewing all information pertaining to the applicant or policyholder available from his records, the records of the department of motor vehicles, or from other sources—

(a) To refuse to assign an application.

(b) To approve the rejection of an application by an insurance carrier.

(c) To approve the cancellation of a motor vehicle liability policy by an insurance carrier; or

(d) To refuse to approve the renewal or the reassignment of an expiring policy.

The commissioner of insurance shall not be held liable for any act, or omission, in connection with the administration of the duties imposed upon him by the provisions of this article, except upon proof of actual malfeasance.

The provisions of this article relevant to assignment of risks shall be available to nonresidents who are unable to obtain a motor vehicle liability insurance policy with respect only to motor vehicles registered and used in this state. (1947, c. 1006, s. 53; 1949, c. 1209, ss. 1, 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the second sentence to the fifth paragraph and inserted the sixth paragraph.

For a brief discussion of the 1949 amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 459.

§ 20-277. Judgments subsequently obtained arising out of accidents prior to effective date of article unaffected.—Persons against whom judgments are obtained subsequent to the effective date of this article, as a result of an action for damages arising out of an accident involving the operation of a motor vehicle prior to the effective date of this article, are not subject to the provisions hereof. (1947, c. 1006, s. 54.)

§ 20-278. Clerk of court required to furnish abstract of convictions and judgments.—The clerk of the court, or the court when it has no clerk shall forward to the commissioner a certified copy or abstract of any conviction, and of any forfeiture of bail or collateral deposited to secure a defendant's appearance in court unless the forfeiture has been vacated, upon a charge of a violation of any of the offenses set forth in § 20-17 of the General Statutes, and any amendments thereto, and a certified copy or abstract of any judgment for damages, the rendering and nonpayment of which judgment, under the terms of this article, require the commissioner to suspend the operator's or chauffeur's license and registrations in the name of the judgment debtor. Every such copy or abstract of conviction or forfeiture shall be forwarded to the commissioner immediately upon the expiration of fifteen days after the conviction or forfeiture, and every such copy or abstract of judgment shall be forwarded to the commissioner immediately upon the expiration of sixty days after the judgment has become final by expiration without appeal or other action of the time within which appeal or other action might have been perfected, or has become final by affirmation on appeal, and has not been otherwise stayed or satisfied. (1947, c. 1006, s. 55.)

§ 20-279. Other remedies unaffected.—This article shall not be construed to prevent the plaintiff in any action at law from relying for security upon any other remedy now or hereafter provided by law. (1947, c. 1006, s. 56.)

Chapter 22. Contracts Requiring Writing.

§ 22-1. Contracts charging representative personally; promise to answer for debt of another.

Section Is Not Applicable to Action on Parol Trust.—The portion of this section providing in substance that an action on a promise to pay the debt of another may not be maintained unless the agreement upon which it is based shall be in writing, and signed by the party charged, or by some other person lawfully authorized, is not applicable to an action on a parol trust. Cuthrell v. Greene, 229 N. C. 475, 50 S. E. (2d) 525.

Plaintiff alleged that her employer changed the beneficiary in a policy of insurance on his life to another employee under an agreement, understood, discussed and acquiesced in by all parties, that upon his death such other employee would pay out of the proceeds of such insurance the balance due on a mortgage on plaintiff's home, and thus recompense both employees for services faithfully rendered. It was held that the action was one to establish a parol trust and not one to recover on a promise by the employer to answer for the debt of plaintiff, and therefore this section had no application. Id.

Or to Promise Creating Original Obligation.—Where the promise is for the benefit of the promisor, and he has a personal, immediate, and pecuniary benefit in the transaction, or where the promise to pay the debt of another is all or part of the consideration for property conveyed to the promisor, or is a promise to make good notes transferred in payment of property, the promise is valid although in parol. If, however, the promise does not create an original obligation, and it is collateral, and is merely superadded to the promise of another to pay the debt, he remaining liable, the promisor is not liable, unless there is a writing; and this is true whether the promise is made at the time the debt is created or not. Myers v. Allsbrook, 229 N. C. 786, 51 S. E. (2d) 629.

The mere fact that there may be a new consideration for the oral promise of a defendant to pay the subsisting debt of another is not sufficient of itself to take the promise out of the prohibition of the statute of frauds. To say that any consideration will take a promise based thereon out of the statute is to make the statute useless. For if there is no consideration the promise is invalid without the statute. The statute is aimed at what were valid contracts; that is to say, it makes invalid contracts not in writing which would otherwise have been valid. Myers v. Allsbrook, 229 N. C. 786, 51 S. E. (2d) 629.

Promise to Pay Out of Money Placed in Hands of Promisor by Debtor.—While the statute of frauds does not apply to an oral promise to pay the debt of another out of money or property which the debtor has placed in the hands of the promisor for the purpose of paying the debt, evidence tending to show that the debtor entrusted certain funds to the promisor for the purpose of carrying on the debtor's business, without evidence that he entrusted the funds for the specific purpose of paying debtor's debts, is insufficient to bring the promise within this rule. Myers v. Allsbrook, 229 N. C. 786, 51 S. E. (2d) 629.

Facts Showing Promise within Statute.—The evidence was to the effect that a check given by an automobile retailer to plaintiff in payment of a car was returned unpaid, that plaintiff went to the debtor's place of business and that defendant, who was the debtor's brother, and who was handling the business during debtor's illness, told plaintiff to redeposit the check in about two weeks and that if it were not then paid by the bank he would send plaintiff a cashier's check for part and a personal check for the balance. It was alleged that after the debtor's death the defendant and two others purchased the business, but it was not alleged that at the time of the promise defendant contemplated purchasing the business or any interest therein. Held: While the evidence is sufficient to justify a finding that defendant personally promised to pay the check if his brother's funds were insufficient, and plaintiff's forbearance to take any action on the check for a period of two weeks was sufficient consideration for the promise, there is no allegation that the defendant made the promise to obtain any personal advantage from such forbearance, and therefore the promise comes within the statute of frauds, and defendant's motion to nonsuit was properly allowed. Myers v. Allsbrook, 229 N. C. 786, 51 S. E. (2d) 629.

I. IN GENERAL.

Purpose to Prevent Fraud.—

A suitor will not be permitted to make use of the statute of frauds, not to prevent a fraud upon himself, but to commit a fraud upon his adversary. Johnson v. Noles, 224 N. C. 542, 31 S. E. (2d) 637.

Who May Plead Statute.—Any person, plaintiff or defendant, against whom enforcement is sought may plead the statute of frauds against a contract voidable under the statute of frauds. Davis v. Lovick, 226 N. C. 252, 37 S. E. (2d) 680.

Parol Trusts.—

Where co-tenants of the equity in lands, subject to a mortgage, agreed orally among themselves that one of their number, himself or through another for him, should bid off the lands at foreclosure sale, the other co-tenants refraining from bidding, and hold the same in trust for the benefit of all the co-tenants, to be sold and proceeds divided, after reimbursing the purchaser for his outlay, the agreement was held not in violation of the statute of frauds. Embler v. Embler, 224 N. C. 811, 32 S. E. (2d) 619.

Effect of Noncompliance.—

Our statute of frauds affects not only the enforcement of contracts coming within its terms but also their validity. Jamerson v. Logan, 228 N. C. 540, 46 S. E. (2d) 561.

Rights of Vendee under Parol Contract.—

In accord with original. See Dupree v. Moore, 227 N. C. 626, 629, 44 S. E. (2d) 37.

Purchaser Takes with Notice of Enforceable Parol Lease.—Purchaser of real property takes with notice that the premises may be under parol lease for a term not exceeding three years, but beyond that period he is protected by provision that the lease must have been in writing. Wright v. Allred, 226 N. C. 113, 37 S. E. (2d) 107, 108.

Recovery on Quantum Meruit for Services Rendered Pursuant to Parol Contract.—A parol contract to devise realty in consideration of personal services is unenforceable under the statute of frauds, but where the services have been rendered in reliance upon the promise to devise, the law substitutes in place of the unenforceable promise a valid promise to pay the reasonable worth of the services, and recovery may be had upon quantum meruit, the mainspring of the statute of frauds being to prevent frauds and not to promote them. Stewart v. Wyrick, 228 N. C. 429, 45 S. E. (2d) 764.

As to recovery on quantum meruit for services rendered pursuant to oral contract to devise, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 417.

Applied in Russos v. Bailey, 228 N. C. 783, 47 S. E. (2d) 22.

Cited in Buford v. Mochy, 224 N. C. 235, 29 S. E. (2d) 729; Williams v. Joines, 228 N. C. 141, 44 S. E. (2d) 738.

II. WHAT CONSTITUTES AN INTEREST IN OR CONCERNING LAND.

Growing trees are a part of the land, and a contract for the sale thereof comes within the meaning and intent of the statute of frauds. Johnson v. Wallin, 227 N. C. 669, 44 S. E. (2d) 83.

A Contract to Devise Real Property.—

An oral contract to give or devise real estate is void by reason of the statute of frauds, and no action for a breach thereof can be maintained. Daughtry v. Daughtry, 223 N. C. 528, 27 S. E. (2d) 446. See Neal v. Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., 224 N. C. 103, 29 S. E. (2d) 206.

A parol promise to devise land is not subject to specific enforcement. Coley v. Dalrymple, 225 N. C. 67, 69, 33 S. E. (2d) 477, citing Daughtry v. Daughtry, 223 N. C. 528, 27 S. E. (2d) 446.

An agreement to devise realty is within the statute of frauds, and an agreement to bequeath personalty, simpliciter, is not. Stewart v. Wyrick, 228 N. C. 429, 45 S. E. (2d) 764.

An indivisible contract to devise real and personal property comes within the statute of frauds. Jamerson v. Logan, 228 N. C. 540, 46 S. E. (2d) 561.

Mortgage Absolute in Form.—For discussion of effect of this section upon mortgage deeds absolute in form, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 405.

Lease for One Year with Provision for Renewals.—An oral lease of realty for one year, together with provision for annual renewals for four successive years, is but a single contract, the agreement for renewal being a part of and inseparable from lease for the original term, and holding for extended term would be under the original oral lease, and contract may not be divided so as to validate it for the initial period and disregard the other portion of the contract. Wright v. Allred, 226 N. C. 113, 37 S. E. (2d) 107, 108.

Parol Lease for Three Years.—

A parol lease agreement for more than three years is void. Barbee v. Lamb, 225 N. C. 211, 34 S. E. (2d) 65.

Lease for Duration of Life Estate.—An agreement by the remainderman to rent the locus in quo from the life tenant for the entire period of the life estate is for an indefinite term and one which may last beyond three years and therefore such agreement comes within this section. Davis v. Lovick, 226 N. C. 252, 37 S. E. (2d) 680.

III. SUFFICIENCY OF COMPLIANCE WITH SECTION.

A. In General.

As to Seal.—

A seal is not necessary to the validity of a lease regardless of the length of the term, and the common law, which did not require leases to be in writing, is in full force and effect, modified only by the requirement of this section that a lease of more than three years be in writing. Moche v. Leno, 227 N. C. 159, 41 S. E. (2d) 369.

Receipts for principal and interest and for taxes, in which no mention is made of any agreement by the person signing same to sell or convey land, are insufficient under the provisions of this section. Chason v. Marley, 224 N. C. 844, 32 S. E. (2d) 652.

Mere Recital of Agreement in Pleading Is Not Waiver of Statute.—A party is not estopped by his pleading from asserting the defense of the statute of frauds unless the pleading asserts the voidable contract as a necessary basis for the relief sought, and the mere recital of the parol agreement in the pleading does not adopt it or ratify it or waive the right to thereafter assert the statute in subsequent pleadings. Davis v. Lovick, 226 N. C. 252, 37 S. E. (2d) 680.

Writing Must Describe Subject Matter.—In order to take an agreement relating to land out of the statute of frauds, the writing must describe the subject matter with certainty or refer to matters aliunde from which the description can be made certain. Searcy v. Logan, 226 N. C. 562, 39 S. E. (2d) 593.

Sufficiency of Description.—

A memorandum "Received of C. L. $50.00 for home place where he now lives which he has no deed for" dated and signed by the owner of land is sufficiently definite to admit of parol evidence for the purpose of identifying the land, and memorandum being sufficient under statute of frauds, purchaser may introduce another receipt executed by owner, even though it does not purport to identify the land, and show by parol that it was part of the consideration for the land contracted to be conveyed. Searcy v. Logan, 226 N. C. 562, 39 S. E. (2d) 593.

C. Statement of Consideration.

Contract Must Fix the Price.—A contract for the sale of land or any interest therein, must fix the price, and where it does not, plaintiff cannot establish by parol evidence a change as to one of the essential terms of the contract as this would open the door to "all the mischiefs which the statute was intended to prevent." Harvey v. Linker, 226 N. C. 711, 713, 40 S. E. (2d) 202.

Change of Purchase Price in Option.—Where purchase price of land was changed in an option it constituted a new contract, unenforceable unless signed by the parties to be charged. Harvey v. Linker, 226 N. C. 711, 712, 40 S. E. (2d) 202.

V. PLEADING AND PRACTICE.

Estoppel by Pleading.—See Davis v. Lovick, 226 N. C. 252, 37 S. E. (2d) 680.

When Statute Is Pleaded, Parol Evidence Is Incompetent.—When the statute of frauds is specifically pleaded, testimony of a contract or promise to lease land exceeding in duration three years from making thereof, resting entirely in parol, is incompetent. Wright v. Allred, 226 N. C. 113, 37 S. E. (2d) 107.

Defendant's failure to object to parol evidence offered to show the existence of the contract is not a waiver of his defense of the statute of frauds, a fortiori if the evidence admitted without objection does not tend to show the existence of the contract but tends only to support a recovery on implied assumpsit, since the denial of the contract casts the burden on plaintiff to establish his cause of action by legal evidence. Jamerson v. Logan, 228 N. C. 540, 46 S. E. (2d) 561.

Complaint Good in Ejectment Independent of Contract.—Where plaintiff alleged that he was life tenant of realty and defendant, remainderman, was in possession under parol agreement to pay a stipulated sum yearly rental to the life tenant, with proviso that the amount should be increased as his necessities might require, that he had demanded an increased rental which defendant had refused to pay, and that he had thereupon demanded possession and defendant admitted allegations except increase of rental, it was held that complaint was good in action in ejectment independently of rental contract, and plaintiff was not estopped from pleading the statute of frauds in his reply. Davis v. Lovick, 226 N. C. 252, 37 S. E. (2d) 680.

General Issue or General Denial.—In a suit to enforce specific performance of an oral contract to convey land, the denial of the contract in the answer raises the defense of the statute of frauds. Grady v. Faison, 224 N. C. 567, 31 S. E. (2d) 760.

In an action on a contract to convey land, the defense being that the contract is not in writing as required by this section the parties sought to be charged may simply deny the contract or plead the statute of frauds, or they may do both, and if either plea is made good the contract cannot be enforced. Chason v. Marley, 224 N. C. 844, 32 S. E. (2d) 652.

Denial of the contract as alleged is sufficient to raise the defense of the statute of frauds, since it places the burden upon plaintiff of establishing the contract by competent evidence, and if the contract be within the statute, the writing itself is the only competent evidence to prove its existence. Jamerson v. Logan, 228 N. C. 540, 46 S. E. (2d) 561.

Demurrer.—

Procedurally, the defense of the statute of frauds cannot be taken advantage of by demurrer; it can only be raised by answer. This may be done in either of two ways: The defendant may plead the statute, in which case when it develops on the trial that the contract is in parol, it must be declared invalid; or the defendant may enter a general denial, and on trial may object to the parol evidence to establish the contract, which will be equally fatal to the maintenance of the action. Embler v. Embler, 224 N. C. 811, 815, 32 S. E. (2d) 619.

Chapter 23. Debtor and Creditor.

Art. 1. Assignments for Benefit of Creditors.

§ 23-2. Trustee to file schedule of property.

Editor's Note.—In line six of this section in the original volume the word "and" should read "an."

Chapter 24. Interest.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Intent to Charge Usurious Interest.—
To constitute a usurious transaction, corrupt intent to take more than the legal rate of interest is an essential element. Bailey v. Inman, 224 N. C. 571, 573, 31 S. E. (2d) 769.

Where Person Is Not Entitled to Statutory Penalty.—
In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See Bailey v. Inman, 224 N. C. 571, 573, 31 S. E. (2d) 769.

Cited in Flythe v. Wilson, 227 N. C. 230, 41 S. E. (2d) 751.

§ 24-5. Contracts, except penal bonds, and judgments to bear interest; jury to distinguish principal.

Assessments against Policyholder in Mutual Insurance Company.—In Miller v. Barnwell Bros., 137 F. (2d) 257, 263, it was held that under this section interest should be allowed on assessments against policyholder in mutual insurance company under policies in suit from the dates of the respective demands by the receiver.

Chapter 25. Negotiable Instruments.

Art. 1. General Provisions.

§ 25-3. What constitutes reasonable time.

Cross Reference.—
The cross reference under this section in the original volume should be to § 25-151 instead of to § 25-48.

Art. 2. Form and Interpretation.

§ 25-15. When payable to bearer.—The instrument is payable to bearer (1) when it is expressed to be so payable; or (2) when it is payable to a person named therein or to bearer; or (3) when it is payable to the order of a fictitious or nonexisting or living person not intended to have any interest in it, and such fact was known to the person making it so payable, or known to his employee or other agent who supplies the name of such payee; or (4) when the name of the payee does not purport to be the name of any person; or (5) when the only or last endorsement is an endorsement in blank. (Rev., s. 2159; 1899, c. 733, s. 9; 1949, c. 953; C. S. 2990.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section. For comment on the 1949 amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 427.

Art. 3. Consideration.

Burden of Proof.—
When plaintiff declares on a past-due negotiable note, regular in form, and offers evidence of its execution by defendants, a prima facie case is made out, which imposes upon defendant the burden of going forward with evidence to rebut the presumption created by this section, or incur the risk of an adverse verdict. Beam v. Wright, 224 N. C. 677, 32 S. E. (2d) 213.

§ 25-30. What constitutes consideration.

A person who accepts a check for a pre-existing debt owed him by the maker is a purchaser for value. National Bank v. Marshburn, 229 N. C. 104, 47 S. E. (2d) 793.

Art. 5. Rights of Holder.

Defective Title—Holder's Burden of Proof.—
Upon proof of fraud in the inception of the contract, the burden shifts to the holder of a negotiable instrument to show that he is a holder in due course for value and without notice of the infirmity. Hancammon v. Carr, 229 N. C. 52, 47 S. E. (2d) 614.

Art. 6. Liabilities of Parties.

Indorsement by Board of Directors.—Where a resolution, by the board of directors of a corporation, authorized two of their number, by their signatures, to bind each of the directors individually on any notes due by the company or renewals thereof, the indorsement of such notes, by the two directors so authorized, binds the other directors as indorsers only and not as principals. Hertford Bkg. Co. v. Stokes, 224 N. C. 83, 29 S. E. (2d) 24.

Art. 11. Acceptance.

§ 25-144. Liability of drawee retaining or destroying bill; conditional payment of checks by drawee banks.—Where a drawee to whom a bill is delivered for acceptance destroys the same or refuses within twenty-four hours after such delivery, or within such other period as the holder may allow, to return the bill accepted or nonaccepted to the holder, he will be deemed to have accepted the same.

Any payment made by a drawee bank for a check presented to it shall be conditional, subject to revocation, unless the bank accepts or certifies the check; but such conditional payment shall become unconditional at midnight of the next business day following the presentment of the check unless prior to such time the check is returned by the drawee bank, either by delivery, or by deposit in the mails, to the bank or person presenting it; provided, that this section shall not prevent the presentment and payment of checks on other terms, in accordance with clearing house rules or practices, or pursuant to special collection agreements, and shall not apply to checks presented over the counter otherwise than for credit to a depositor's account. (Rev., s. 2287; 1899, c. 733, s. 137; 1949, c. 954; C. S. 3119.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the second paragraph.

Art. 17. Promissory Notes and Checks.

Cited in National Bank v. Marshburn, 229 N. C. 104, 47 S. E. (2d) 793.

In General.—

The payee of an unaccepted, uncertified check has no right of action against the bank upon which the check is drawn, for he is in no position to allege a breach of legal duty and no action at law can be maintained except there is shown to have been a failure in the performance of some legal duty. General American Life Ins. Co. v. Stadiem, 223 N. C. 49, 25 S. E. (2d) 202.

the last known residence of such absent person, shall have jurisdiction over such decedent's estate.

The administrator so appointed shall have all the powers and duties with respect to the property and estate of such missing person as are now or may be hereafter conferred by law upon administrators generally; and before entering upon the discharge of the duties of such administration he shall be required to enter into such bond as is now required by law in the matter of administration of estates of deceased persons, with the additional requirement that such bond shall include as a basis the value of all real estate or interest in real estate in addition to the value of the personal property of the estate committed to his charge.

The public laws relating to the administration of the estates of decedents, including the laws relating to the distribution of personal property and the devolution of real estate, shall apply to the estates of such missing persons.

No action shall be maintained against such administrator, or the sureties on his bond, by reason of his appointment and taking over the administration of such estate, or any of his acts with reference to said estate, where it appears they were done under authority of this section, except for failure to administer said estate as is now provided under G. S. chapter 28. (1947, c. 921.)

Editor's Note.—For discussion of section, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 423.

Art. 3. Right to Administer.

§ 28-6. Order in which persons entitled; nomination by person renouncing right to administer. —(a) Letters of administration, in case of intestacy, shall be granted to the persons entitled thereto and applying for the same, in the following order:

1. To the husband or widow, except as hereinafter provided.

2. To the next of kin in the order of their degree, where they are of different degrees; if of equal degree, to one or more of them, at the discretion of the clerk.

3. To the most competent creditor who resides within the state, and proves his debt on oath before the clerk.

4. To any other person legally competent.

(b) Any person who renounces his right to qualify as administrator may at the same time nominate in writing some other qualified person to be named as administrator, and such designated person shall be entitled to the same priority of right to qualify as administrator as the person making the nomination. Provided, that the qualification of the appointee shall be within the discretion of the clerk of court. (Rev., s. 3; Code, s. 1376; C. C. P., s. 456; R. C., c. 46, ss. 2, 3; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 115; 1949, c. 22; C. S. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment designated the former section as subsection (a) and added subsection (b). For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 413.

This section and § 28-149 must be construed in pari materia as separate parts of a single scheme of devolution. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co. v. Shelton, 229 N. C. 150, 48 S. E. (2d) 41.

If there is no child, the husband takes the whole personal estate of his wife who dies intestate. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co. v. Shelton, 229 N. C. 150, 48 S. E. (2d) 41. See § 28-149 and note.

§ 28-10. Divorce a vinculo or felonious slaying is forfeiture.

Heir Murdering Ancestor Excluded from Beneficial Interest in Estate.—The fact that this and other sections forfeiting a murderer's interest in the estate of his victim (§§ 30-4 and 52-19) apply only to the relation of husband and wife does not deprive equity of the power of excluding an heir who has murdered his ancestor from all beneficial interest in the estate of his victim. Garner v. Phillips, 224 N. C. 160, 47 S. E. (2d) 845. For suggested revisal of this section and related statutes, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 232.

§ 28-15. Failure to apply as renunciation.

Art. 4. Public Administrator.

Local Modification.—Forsyth: 1945, c. 58.

Cited in In re Estate of Loflin, 224 N. C. 230, 29 S. E. (2d) 692.

Art. 5. Administrator with Will Annexed.

§ 28-24. Administrator cum testamento annexo must observe will.—Whenever letters of administration with the will annexed are issued, the will must be observed and performed by such administrator, both with respect to real and personal property. Such administrator has all the rights and powers, discretionary or otherwise, unless a contrary intent clearly appears from the will, and is subject to the same duties, as if he had been named executor in the will. (Rev., s. 3146; Code s. 2168; C. C. P., s. 455; 1945, c. 162; C. S. 4170.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote this section. For comment on the 1945 amendment, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 362.

Cited in Welch v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 226 N. C. 357, 38 S. E. (2d) 197.

Art. 6. Collectors.

§ 28-25. Appointment of collectors.

Pending Probate and Filing of Will.—Pending the appointment and qualification of administrator or probate and filing of will, collector may be appointed in order that action for wrongful death may be instituted within the statutory time. Harrison v. Carter, 226 N. C. 36, 39, 36 S. E. (2d) 700, 164 A. L. R. 697, citing In re Palmer's Will, 117 N. C. 133, 23 S. E. 104.

Art. 7. Appointment and Revocation.

This section does not empower the clerk to set aside probate in common form upon proffer of proof of a later will. In re Will of Puett, 229 N. C. 8, 47 S. E. (2d) 488.

Quoted in Harrison v. Carter, 226 N. C. 36, 39, 36 S. E. (2d) 700, 164 A. L. R. 697.

§ 28-32. Letters revoked on application of surviving husband or widow or next of kin, or for disqualification or default.

Clerk Has Primary and Original Jurisdiction.—The appointment of one as administrator of an estate should be revoked upon renunciation of the widow, who has a prior right to administer the estate or to nominate in her stead, and the clerk of the court has jurisdiction and should appoint on her request a fit and competent person nominated by her. In re Estate of Loflin, 224 N. C. 230, 29 S. E. (2d) 692.

Clerk Exercises Discretion.—In revoking letters of administration under this section the clerk exercises a legal discretion which is reviewable on appeal. In re Galloway's Estate, 229 N. C. 547, 50 S. E. (2d) 563.

Question Determinable by Clerk.—In a proceeding under this section for revocation of letters of administration, the question determinable by the clerk is solely whether the administrators have been guilty of default or misconduct in the due execution of their office, and the rights and liabilities of adverse parties in the estate may not be litigated in such proceeding. In re Galloway's Estate, 229 N. C. 547, 50 S. E. (2d) 563.

Remand of Cause.—Where heirs at law of an estate were appointed administrators of the estate, an order of the clerk revoking the letters of administration upon consideration of evidence of their failure to account for rents and profits from the realty is based upon a confusion of their duties, obligations and liabilities as administrators and their rights and liabilities as heirs at law, and the cause will be remanded in order that the evidence may be considered in its true legal light. In re Galloway's Estate, 229 N. C. 547, 50 S. E. (2d) 563.

§ 28-33. On revocation, successor appointed and estate secured.

The clerk is required to immediately appoint some person to succeed in administration of the estate, and it is immaterial in so far as continuity of the succession is concerned, whether successor be administrator d. b. n., executor, administrator c. t. a., administrator c. t. a., d. b. n., or collector. Harrison v. Carter, 226 N. C. 36, 40, 36 S. E. (2d) 700, 164 A. L. R. 697.

Art. 8. Bonds.

§ 28-34. Bond; approval; condition; penalty.—Every executor from whom a bond is required by law, and every administrator and collector, before letters are issued, must give a bond payable to the state, with two or more sufficient sureties, to be justified before and approved by the clerk, conditioned that such executor, administrator or collector shall faithfully execute the trust reposed in him and obey all lawful orders of the clerk or other court touching the administration of the estate committed to him. Where such bond is executed by personal sureties, the penalty of such bond must be, at least, double the value of all the personal property of the deceased, but where such bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company, the penalty in such bond may be fixed at not less than one and one-fourth times the value of all the personal property of the deceased. Notwithstanding the provisions of the preceding sentence, the clerk of the superior court may, when the value of the assets to be administered by the personal representative exceeds $100,000.00, accept bond in an amount equal to the value of the assets plus ten per cent (10%) thereof. The value of said personal property shall be ascertained by the clerk by examination, on oath, of the applicant or of some other competent person. If the personal property of any decedent is insufficient to pay his debts and the charges of administration, and it becomes necessary for his executor or administrator to apply for the sale of real estate for assets, and the bond previously given is not double the value of both the real and personal estate of the deceased, such executor (if bond is required of him by law) or administrator shall, before or at the time of filing his petition for such sale, give another bond payable and conditioned as the one above prescribed and with like security, in double the value of the real estate for the sale of which application is made, provided, however, that where such bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company, the penalty of said bond need not exceed one and one-fourth times the value of said real estate. (Rev., s. 319; Code, s. 1388; 1870-1, c. 93; C. C. P., s. 468; 1935, c. 386; 1949, c. 971; C. S. 33.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment inserted the third sentence. For a brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 409.

§ 28-39.1. Conveyances by foreign executors validated.—If any nonresident executor, acting under a power of sale contained in the last will and testament of a citizen and resident of another state or foreign country, executed according to the laws of this state and duly proven and recorded in the state or foreign country wherein the testator and his family and said executor resided, and now or hereafter recorded in this state, shall have sold and conveyed real estate situated in this state prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five, then said sale and conveyance so had and made shall be as valid and sufficient in law as though such executor had given bond and obtained letters of administration in this state prior to the execution of such deed. (1945, c. 652.)

Art. 9. Notice to Creditors.

§ 28-47. Advertisement for claims.—Every executor, administrator and collector, within twenty days after the granting of letters, shall notify all persons having claims against the decedent to exhibit the same to such executor, administrator or collector, on or before a day to be named in such notice; which day must be twelve months from the day of the first publication of such notice. The notice shall be published once a week for six consecutive weeks in a newspaper qualified to publish legal advertisements, if any such newspaper is published in the county. If there is no newspaper published in the county, then the notice shall be posted at the courthouse and four other public places in the county. Personal representatives are not required to publish the notices herein provided for when the deceased person did not own any real property or any interest in real property at the time of his death and the only assets of the estate consist of proceeds received for wrongful death. (Rev., s. 39; Code, ss. 1421, 1422; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 29; 1881, c. 278, s. 2; 1945, c. 635; 1949, c. 47; c. 63, s. 1; C. S. 45.)

Local Modification.—Forsyth: 1949, c. 621, s. 4.

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted "on" for "at" in line six. The 1949 amendments rewrote the second sentence and added the last sentence. For brief comment on the 1949 amendments, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 414.

Art. 11. Assets.

§ 28-68. Payment to clerk of sums not exceeding $500 due and owing intestates.—Where any person dies intestate and at the time of his or her death there are sums of money owing to the said intestate not in excess of five hundred dollars ($500), such sum may be paid into the hands of the clerk of the superior court, whose receipt for same shall be a full and complete release and discharge for such debt or debts, and the said clerk of the superior court is authorized and empowered to pay out such sum or sums in the following manner: First, for satisfaction of widow's year's allowance, after same has been assigned in accordance with law, if such be claimed; second, for payment of funeral expenses, and if there be any surplus the same to be disposed of as is now provided by law. (1921, c. 93; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 65; Ex. Sess. 1924, cc. 15, 58; 1927, c. 7; 1929, cc. 63, 71, 121; 1931, c. 21; 1933, cc. 16, 94; 1935, cc. 69, 96, 367; 1937, cc. 13, 31, 55, 121, 336, 377; 1939, cc. 383, 384; 1941, c. 176; 1943, cc. 24, 114, 138, 560; 1945, cc. 152, 178, 555; 1947, cc. 203, 237; 1949, cc. 17, 81, 691, 762; C. S. 65(a).)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendments made this section applicable to the counties of Madison, Washington and Chatham, respectively.
The 1947 amendments made this section applicable to Scotland and Northampton counties, respectively.
The first, second and fourth 1949 amendments made this section applicable to Carteret, Richmond and Sampson counties, respectively. The third 1949 amendment rewrote the section, making it applicable throughout the state, and increasing the maximum amount involved from three hundred to five hundred dollars.

Art. 13. Sales of Personal Property.

§ 28-72.1. Procedure when no order of sale is obtained.—The procedure set out in this article is applicable when an order of sale is not obtained, but when an order of sale is obtained, the procedure for the sale shall be as provided in article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes. (1949, c. 719, s. 2.)

§ 28-74. Collector may sell or rent only on order of court.—All sales or rentals of personal property by collectors shall be made only upon order obtained, by motion, from the clerk of the superior court. (Rev., s. 61; Code, s. 1409; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 17; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 67.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, made this section applicable to "rentals", and struck out the words "who shall specify in his order a descriptive list of the property to be sold" formerly appearing after the word "court" at the end of the section.

§ 28-75. Terms and notice of public sale.—All public sales of personal estate by executors or administrators shall be made on credit or for cash after twenty days' notification posted at the court house and four public places in the county. (Rev., s. 64; 1893, c. 346; 1919, c. 66; 1925, c. 267; 1939, c. 167; 1947, c. 468; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 69.)

per cent (6%) on such one-third of the net sale price, at her election, one-third of the net proceeds shall be paid into the office of the clerk of the superior court and the income on said one-third shall be paid to her annually: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to deprive the widow from claiming her dower right by metes and bounds in her husband's land: Provided, further, if the person entitled to said dower shall not claim the same by metes and bounds in her husband's lands, or elect to receive the income from one-third of the net proceeds of said sale, within the time allowed by law for filing pleadings in such special proceeding, such person shall be presumed to have elected to receive said dower interest in cash as provided in this section.

Where land is sold as provided in this section, and in lieu of paying cash therefor the purchaser executes a note or notes secured by a mortgage or deed of trust, and there are insufficient funds from said sale with which to pay the person entitled to dower her interest in full as provided in this section, said person shall be entitled to the legal rate of interest on the unpaid balance of her dower interest until same is paid in full. (Rev., s. 68; Code, s. 1436; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 42; 1923, c. 55; 1935, s. 43; 1937, c. 70; 1943, c. 637; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 74.)

Art. 15. Proof and Payment of Debts of Decedent.

§ 28-105. Order of payment of debts.

This section relates exclusively to application of personal property, the only estate with which the administrator has any right to deal. Moore v. Jones, 226 N. C. 149, 36 S. E. (2d) 920.

The Lien of a Docketed Judgment.—

Where realty sold under order of court to make assets is subject to a docketed judgment and a subsequently recorded mortgage, the judgment must be satisfied in full before application of any part of the proceeds to the mortgage or to the payment of other debts. Moore v. Jones, 226 N. C. 149, 36 S. E. (2d) 920, 922.

There is nothing in this section, or in any other provision of the law, that indicates intent to nullify the lien of a docketed judgment or to destroy any right acquired under the law prior to the death of the judgment debtor. Id.

Where debtor's lands are sold under order of court to make assets, proceeds remain real estate until all liens are discharged and are to be applied to payment of liens in the order of their priority, and only the residue, if any, is payable to administrator as personal property to be distributed in the order provided by this section. Moore v. Jones, 226 N. C. 149, 36 S. E. (2d) 920, 922, citing Murchison v. Williams, 71 N. C. 135.

In such case no part of the proceeds may be taxed with costs of administration. However, a referee's fee by § 6-21 is taxable in the discretion of the court. Williams v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

§ 28-111. Disputed debt may be referred.

Filing Claim.—If the judgment creditor wishes to share in the distribution of the personal estate of his deceased judgment debtor, and to protect himself against the running of the statute of limitations as against the debt (§ 1-22), he must file his claim with the personal representative of the deceased. William v. Johnson, 230 N. C. 338, 53 S. E. (2d) 277.

Cited in Craver v. Spaugh, 226 N. C. 450, 38 S. E. (2d) 525.

Illustration.—Thus, in action against administrator to enforce claim against estate which had been rejected and not referred, a suit not instituted within six months of receipt of written notice of rejection is barred. Craver v. Spaugh, 226 N. C. 450, 38 S. E. (2d) 525; Craver v. Spaugh, 227 N. C. 129, 41 S. E. (2d) 82.

Art. 16. Accounts and Accounting.

§ 28-120.1. Perpetual care of cemetery lot.—It shall be lawful for an executor or administrator to provide for perpetual care for the lot upon which is located the grave of his testator or intestate, and the cost thereof shall be paid and credited as such in final accounts: Provided, that the provisions of this subsection shall be applicable to an interment made in a cemetery authorized by law to operate as a perpetual care cemetery or association, and the cost thereof shall be in the sound discretion of the executor or administrator having due regard to the value of the estate and to the interest of the widow and legatees or distributees of the estate. Provided, where the executor or administrator desires to spend more than two hundred fifty dollars ($250.00) for such purpose he shall file his petition before the clerk of the superior court and such order as will be made by the court shall specify the amount to be expended for such purpose. (1945, c. 756.)

§ 28-121.1. Final accounts; immediate settlement.—The personal representative of a deceased person who did not own any real property or any interest in real property at the time of his death may file his final account for settlement at any time within one year after his appointment when the only assets of the estate consist of proceeds received for wrongful death. (1949, c. 63, s. 2.)

Extent of Jurisdiction.—While the clerk of the Superior Court has exclusive original jurisdiction as to matters of probate and the judge has no power therein unless the matter is brought before him by appeal, the Superior Court in term is by this section constituted a forum for the settlement of controversies over estates. State v. Griggs, 223 N. C. 279, 25 S. E. (2d) 862.

Concurrent Jurisdiction.—

In accord with 1st and 2nd paragraphs in original. See Privette v. Morgan, 227 N. C. 264, 41 S. E. (2d) 845.

Court Will Look Beyond Nominal Party Plaintiff.—Where an administrator instituted action for wrongful death against intestate's husband upon allegations that the husband's negligence caused the death of his intestate, and intestate left no children surviving her, it was held that the husband being the sole beneficiary of any recovery under this section, the courts will look beyond the nominal party plaintiff, and recovery will not be allowed under the principle that a wrongdoer will not be permitted to enrich himself as a result of his own misconduct. I. IN GENERAL.

Not a Common-Law Right.—

In accord with original. See Wilson v. Massagee, 224 N. C. 705, 32 S. E. (2d) 335; Webb v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 574, 46 S. E. (2d) 700; Lewis v. North Carolina State Highway, etc., Comm., 228 N. C. 618, 46 S. E. (2d) 705.

The right to maintain an action for wrongful death is purely statutory. No such right existed at common law, and the provisions of this section authorizing the institution and maintenance of such an action are no more binding upon the courts than the provisions of this section which direct how the recovery in such action shall be distributed. Davenport v. Patrick, 227 N. C. 686, 689, 44 S. E. (2d) 203.

Creates New Cause of Action.—

The wrongful death statutes (now this and the following section), confer a new right of action with damages limited to fair and just compensation for the pecuniary injury resulting from death, recoverable by the personal representative for the benefit of the next of kin. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 332, 38 S. E. (2d) 105. See McCoy v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 229 N. C. 57, 47 S. E. (2d) 532.

Right Must Be Asserted in Conformity with Section.—The right to maintain an action for damages for wrongful death must be asserted in conformity with this section. Webb v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 574, 46 S. E. (2d) 700.

Recovery of Burial Expenses.—A cause of action does not exist for the recovery of burial expenses in an action for wrongful death separate and apart from the right to recover for the wrongful death. Davenport v. Patrick, 227 N. C. 686, 691, 44 S. E. (2d) 203.

What Constitutes a Cause of Action.—

Plaintiff must show failure on part of defendant to exercise proper care in performance of some legal duty which the defendant owed plaintiff's testator under the circumstances in which they were placed and that such negligent breach of duty was the proximate cause of injury which produced death—a cause that produced the result in continuous sequence, and without which it would not have occurred, and one from which any man of ordinary prudence could have foreseen that such result was probable under the existing facts. Tysinger v. Coble Dairy Products, 225 N. C. 717, 36 S. E. (2d) 246, 249.

Enforcement of Right of Contribution by Parties Defendant.—One of several defendants, in an action for wrongful death arising out of a joint tort, may have still another joint tort-feasor brought in and made a party defendant for the purpose of enforcing contribution, where plaintiff's right of action against such other tort-feasor, originally subsisting, has been lost by the lapse of time. Godfrey v. Tidewater Power Co., 223 N. C. 647, 27 S. E. (2d) 736.

Nonsuit.—In a civil action under this and the succeeding section to recover damages for alleged wrongful death, where issues of fact are raised which the jury alone may decide, it is error for the court to allow a motion for judgment as of nonsuit. Henson v. Wilson, 225 N. C. 417, 35 S. E. (2d) 245.

Applied in Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 227 N. C. 412, 42 S. E. (2d) 593; Hahn v. Perkins, 228 N. C. 727, 46 S. E. (2d) 854.

Cited in Barber v. Minges, 223 N. C. 213, 25 S. E. (2d) 837; Morgan v. Carolina Coach Co., 225 N. C. 668, 36 S. E. (2d) 263; United States v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 64 F. Supp. 289; Martin v. Currie, 230 N. C. 511, 53 S. E. (2d) 447.

II. LIMITATION OF THE ACTION.

Condition Affecting Cause.—

The one year limitation in this section has been consistently construed as a condition precedent to maintenance of the right of action. Moore v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 153 F. (2d) 782. See also, Harrison v. Carter, 226 N. C. 36, 39, 36 S. E. (2d) 700; Webb v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 574, 46 S. E. (2d) 700, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 160; McCoy v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 229 N. C. 57, 47 S. E. (2d) 532; Wilson v. Chastain, 230 N. C. 390, 53 S. E. (2d) 290.

And when the action is not brought within the prescribed time the liability created by the statute ceases. Lewis v. North Carolina State Highway, etc., Comm., 228 N. C. 618, 46 S. E. (2d) 705; Webb v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 574, 46 S. E. (2d) 700, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 160.

The personal representative must allege and prove that the action is instituted within the time prescribed. Wilson v. Chastain, 230 N. C. 390, 53 S. E. (2d) 290. See Webb v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 574, 46 S. E. (2d) 700, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 160.

Provision as to Time Strictly Construed.—

In accord with original. See McCoy v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 229 N. C. 57, 47 S. E. (2d) 532.

Where a demurrer is sustained to the complaint and an amended complaint is thereafter filed, the action is instituted for the purpose of applying the provisions of this section from the date the amended complaint was filed, since the action could not be maintained on the original complaint. Webb v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 574, 46 S. E. (2d) 700, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 160.

Demurrer.—The fact that the amended complaint stating for the first time a cause of action for wrongful death is filed more than one year after the death of plaintiff's intestate may be taken advantage of by demurrer. Webb v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 574, 46 S. E. (2d) 700, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 160.

Effect of Soldier's and Sailor's Relief Act.—At the time of intestate's death plaintiff administrator was in the armed forces. Plaintiff was appointed administrator within one year after discharge from the army and instituted this suit for wrongful death. Intestate had other adult children not in the armed forces. It was held that the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, Title 50, U. S. C. A., sec. 525, does not justify maintenance of the action more than one year after intestate's death, since plaintiff in an action for wrongful death, even though a distributee, does not maintain the action as in his own right but solely in his official capacity as a representative of the estate. McCoy v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 229 N. C. 57, 47 S. E. (2d) 532.

Action Instituted within Prescribed Limitation.—In an action for wrongful death it was alleged that death occurred "on or about midnight of November 21-22, 1947, and which is less than one year next preceding the institution of this action." The summons and complaint were stamped "filed Nov. 22, 1948, at 2:35 p. m." It was held that a demurrer on the ground that it appeared upon the face of the complaint and record that the action was not brought within one year of death, was properly overruled. Wilson v. Chastain, 230 N. C. 390, 53 S. E. (2d) 290.

Probate of Will in Another State.—Where duly appointed administrator instituted action for wrongful death within time allowed and on motion of defendant order was entered revoking the letters and appointing administrator c. t. a. upon discovery of will probate in another state, and later administrator c. t. a. resigned, original administrator who at instance of beneficiary of estate was appointed administrator c. t. a., d. b. n., could enter the action for wrongful death as plaintiff. Harrison v. Carter, 226 N. C. 36, 36 S. E. (2d) 700.

Conflict of Laws.—
In Moore v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 153 F. (2d) 782, the court was held bound by the interpretation of the North Carolina supreme court that the one year time limit of this section constitutes "a statute of limitation."

III. PARTIES TO THE ACTION.

In General.—While any sum recovered is not a part of decedent's estate, such sum can only be recovered in name of personal representative, and must be distributed under laws of intestacy in this state. Harrison v. Carter, 226 N. C. 36, 36 S. E. (2d) 700, citing Neill v. Wilson, 146 N. C. 242, 59 S. E. 674; Hines v. Foundation Co., 196 N. C. 322, 145 S. E. 612.

Suit Must Be Brought by Personal Representative.—
The personal representative alone can maintain the action, and only in his official capacity. He sues in his own right and not en autre droit. McCoy v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 229 N. C. 57, 47 S. E. (2d) 532.

The real party in interest in an action under this section is not the administrator, but the beneficiary under the statute for whom the recovery is sought. Davenport v. Patrick, 227 N. C. 686, 688, 44 S. E. (2d) 203.

IV. DISTRIBUTION OF RECOVERY.

The North Carolina law is materially different from that of most states in that distribution is made, not to designated classes, but in accordance with the canons of descent and distribution. McCoy v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 229 N. C. 57, 47 S. E. (2d) 532.

Existence of Beneficiaries Immaterial.—
In accord with original. See Davenport v. Patrick, 227 N. C. 686, 688, 44 S. E. (2d) 203; McCoy v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 229 N. C. 57, 47 S. E. (2d) 532, holding that evidence as to the number of children left is inadmissible.

Rights of Distributees Fixed.—
In accord with original. See Davenport v. Patrick, 227 N. C. 686, 689, 44 S. E. (2d) 203.

Joinder.—Where plaintiff sues defendant under this section, alleging that her intestate was killed by his negligence, defendant may not join as a joint tort-feasor under § 1-240 a railway company by which the plaintiff's intestate was employed in interstate commerce. Wilson v. Massagee, 224 N. C. 705, 709, 32 S. E. (2d) 335.

V. ADMISSION OF DECLARATIONS.

Testimony of Statement Held Inadmissible.—In a workmen's compensation case, testimony of a statement by an officer shortly before his death from coronary occlusion that he "had had a time all the morning" arresting three men who resisted him, is incompetent as a dying declaration, not having been brought within the terms of this section. West v. North Carolina Dept. of Conservation and Development, 229 N. C. 232, 49 S. E. (2d) 398.

§ 28-174. Damages recoverable for death by wrongful act.

Nature and Quantum of Damages Recoverable.—
Exemplary or punitive damages are not recoverable in an action for wrongful death. Martin v. Currie, 230 N. C. 511, 53 S. E. (2d) 447.

The measure of damages in an action for wrongful death is the present worth of the pecuniary loss suffered by those entitled to the distribution of the recovery, which is to be measured by the probable gross income of the deceased during his life expectancy less the probable cost of his own living and usual or ordinary expenses. Hanks v. Norfolk, etc., R. R., 230 N. C. 179, 52 S. E. (2d) 717.

In action for wrongful death of child nine years of age the rule for measuring damages is that expectancy of life may be determined by jury based upon constitution, health and habits of the infant and where the jury was so instructed, it was not error for the court in illustrating the rule to use figures fifty and twenty in referring to life expectancy. Rea v. Simowitz, 226 N. C. 379, 38 S. E. (2d) 194.

Where injured person lives for 31 days, and thereafter dies as a result of injuries, personal representative may recover damages sustained by injured person during his lifetime, and for the benefit of the next of kin the pecuniary injury resulting from death, the amounts recoverable being determinable upon separate issues without overlapping. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 332, 38 S. E. (2d) 105.

The measure of damages for wrongful death is the present value of the accumulations of income which would have been derived from person's own exertions, after deducting the probable cost of living and ordinary expenses, based upon person's life expectancy. Rea v. Simowitz, 226 N. C. 379, 38 S. E. (2d) 194, 196.

Recovery for pain and suffering and for hospital and medical expenses relate to a single cause of action and should be submitted upon a single issue of damages. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 332, 38 S. E. (2d) 105.

Evidence Held Competent in General.—In an action for wrongful death, evidence relating to the age, health and life expectancy of deceased, his earning capacity, his habits, his ability and skill, the business in which he was employed and the means he had of earning money is competent. Hanks v. Norfolk, etc., R. R., 230 N. C. 179, 52 S. E. (2d) 717.

The inventory of the estate of the deceased showing salary due decedent at the time of death and the present action for wrongful death as the total assets of the estate, is competent as an aid to the jury in arriving at a proper estimate of the pecuniary worth of the decedent to those entitled to the distribution of the recovery. Hanks v. Norfolk, etc., R. R., 230 N. C. 179, 52 S. E. (2d) 717.

Evidence Showing Attitude of Deceased towards His Family.—In an action for wrongful death verified complaint in an action heretofore instituted by deceased against his wife for absolute divorce, alleging that he and his wife had entered into an agreement respecting custody and support of the minor children of the marriage, and setting forth the agreement, is competent upon the issue of damages to show the attitude of the deceased toward his family. Hanks v. Norfolk, etc., R. R., 230 N. C. 179, 52 S. E. (2d) 717.

Authenticated copies of court records showing that deceased was sentenced for nonsupport of his minor children, with sentence suspended on condition that he pay a stipulated sum weekly for their support, was held competent on the issue of damages, since it imported more than a single act of dereliction and revealed a serious defect of character. Hanks v. Norfolk, etc., R. R., 230 N. C. 179, 52 S. E. (2d) 717.

Complaint and order for temporary alimony which had not been served on deceased because of his death were properly excluded. Hanks v. Norfolk, etc., R. R., 230 N. C. 179, 52 S. E. (2d) 717.

Evidence as to Number of Children Inadmissible.—
In accord with original. See McCoy v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 229 N. C. 57, 47 S. E. (2d) 532.

Evidence of the pecuniary state of defendant is irrelevant in an action for wrongful death, and objection is properly sustained to a question asked defendant as to the amount of land he owned. Martin v. Currie, 230 N. C. 511, 53 S. E. (2d) 447.

Cited in United States v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 64 F. Supp. 289.

Editor's Note.—
Public Laws of 1915, ch. 38, which amended the survival statutes (now this section and § 28-172) by striking out the words "or other injuries to the person, where such injury does not cause death of the injured party" from the exceptions to the causes of action which survive, has the effect of prescribing that causes of actions for wrongful injury do survive the death of the injured party. Hoke v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 226 N. C. 332, 38 S. E. (2d) 105.

§ 28-176. To sue or defend in representative capacity.

Action to collect note payable to decedent and maturing before his death must be instituted by the representative of his estate in his representative capacity. Cannon v. Cannon, 228 N. C. 211, 45 S. E. (2d) 34.

There is no statutory authority for a foreign executor or administrator to come into our courts and prosecute or defend an action in his representative capacity. Cannon v. Cannon, 228 N. C. 211, 45 S. E. (2d) 34.

Art. 22. Estates of Missing Persons.

§ 28-193. Petition for administration; service upon next of kin, etc.; notice to appear and answer.—When, by verified application or petition for probate of a will or letters of administration, it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the clerk of the superior court that any person has disappeared from the community of his or her residence, that his or her whereabouts are unknown, and that such absentee has not been heard from in said community within seven years last past, such clerk shall cause summons and a copy of said petition to be served upon all persons shown therein to be in possession of property of the missing person and all next of kin of said missing person who are known and shown to reside within this state, and, by publication provided by G. S. § 1-99, said clerk shall give notice of such petition, directing the missing person, his or her spouse, heirs and next of kin, to appear before his court within twenty days from service of said notice and answer or demur to the allegations contained in said petition. (1949, c. 581.)

Editor's Note.—For discussion of this article, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 410.

§ 28-194. Appointment of guardian ad litem; notice to produce evidence that missing person, etc., alive; presumption and declaration of death; administration of estate.—Upon failure of the missing person to appear as provided in the preceding section, said clerk shall appoint some suitable person or persons to act as guardian ad litem for the missing person and such spouse and child, or issue thereof, who may be living but have made no appearance, and shall cause to be published once a week for four weeks a notice requiring the missing person, spouse and children or their issue, if alive, or any other person for them, to produce to the court evidence of the continuation in life of the missing person, spouse, child or issue thereof. If within twenty days from service of such notice evidence is not produced to the clerk that the missing person is alive, he or she shall be presumed to be deceased, may be so declared by the clerk upon hearing of said petition, and the estate of the missing person may thereupon be administered as provided in this article and by law. (1949, c. 581.)

§ 28-195. Findings of clerk as to spouse and issue of missing person.—If it shall appear from the aforesaid petition that the spouse of the missing person is also missing and has not been heard from in the community of his or her residence within seven years last past, or if it appears therein that said missing person had no child at the time of disappearance and that no child has been so heard from within said seven-year period, upon the hearing of said petition, if the spouse of the missing person does not appear, and there is no evidence that such spouse is alive, it shall be presumed that such spouse is deceased, or if no child or issue thereof appears, and there is no evidence that a child or issue thereof be alive, it shall be presumed that said missing person died without a child or issue thereof surviving, and the clerk may so find as to said spouse, child or issue thereof. (1949, c. 581.)

§ 28-196. Effect of declaration and findings.—Until set aside on subsequent appearance in said proceeding by the missing person, spouse, child or issue thereof, such declaration and finding or findings shall be conclusive, and effective as of the date thereof, in the administration of the estate of the missing person, in subsequent sales or partition of his or her property, and in determination of any other interest, estate or trust to be vested or contingent upon the death of such missing person. (1949, c. 581.)

§ 28-197. Validity of conveyances of real property of missing persons.—All conveyances of real property of said missing person made by any devisee or heir at law within two years of said declaration and findings shall be void as to said missing person, his or her spouse and unknown children or issue thereof, but such conveyances to bona fide purchasers for value, if made after said two-year period, shall be valid. (1949, c. 581.)

§ 28-198. Distribution of property held by or in trust for missing person; bond of distributee.—Before any distribution of property held by or in trust for the missing person is made, the persons entitled to such distribution shall give their bond, with such sureties as the clerk may require, or secured by the property so received, conditioned that if the missing person, spouse, children or issue thereof, shall in fact be alive at the time, they will, respectively, refund to whosoever may be entitled thereto, the property or amounts received with interest thereon, but no surety or security shall be required when the missing person has been absent for a period of twenty-five years and has not been heard from in the community of his or her residence during said period. (1949, c. 581.)

§ 28-199. Limitation of action on bond; civil immunity of purchasers for value and fiduciaries.—No action shall be instituted on such bond after the expiration of two years from date thereof, no action may be maintained against the purchaser for value of any property sold by any administrator, executor or other fiduciary pursuant to the declaration or findings authorized in this article, and no action may be maintained against any administrator, executor or other fiduciary for any act done prior to revocation of the probate or letters authorized by this article in reliance upon said declaration or findings, or under authority of this article. (1949, c. 581.)

§ 28-200. Action against distributee for recovery of property or its value.—Nothing in this article shall bar any action, or affect the statute of limitation applicable thereto, brought by any missing person, spouse, child or issue thereof, to recover any property delivered to and in possession of a distributee as authorized in this article, or to recover from any distributee the value of any property alienated by him, but the possession of such distributee shall be deemed to be adverse and the statute of limitation shall begin to run as against such action from the date of the declaration and findings of the clerk as provided in this article. (1949, c. 581.)

§ 28-201. Jurisdiction of clerk of county of last known residence or where property located; publication of notices.—The clerk of the superior court of the county of the last known residence of the missing person shall have prior right to jurisdiction of the proceedings provided for in this article and probate of a will or appointment of an administrator for the estate of a missing person, but if no prior appointment has been made after the expiration of ten years from such disappearance, jurisdiction may be assumed by the clerk of the superior court of any county in which the missing person had property, or in which property is held in trust for him: Provided, that when jurisdiction is assumed by the clerk of any county other than that of the last known residence of the missing person, the notices required in this article shall be published in the county of the court taking jurisdiction and in the county where the missing person had a last known residence. (1949, c. 581.)

Chapter 29. Descents.

Rule 2, Females inherit with males, younger with other children; advancements.

Provides for Equality.—
The purpose of Rule 2 is to produce equality among those equally entitled to property descending from a parent, in accord with the presumed intention of the parent. Harrelson v. Gooden, 229 N. C. 654, 50 S. E. (2d) 901.

Definition of Advancement.—
In its legal sense an advancement is an irrevocable gift in praesenti of money or property, real or personal, to a child by a parent, to enable the donee to anticipate his inheritance to the extent of the gift. Harrelson v. Gooden, 229 N. C. 654, 50 S. E. (2d) 901.

Presumption.—
When a parent dies intestate having previously made a conveyance of land of substantial value to one of several children for a nominal consideration, the presumption is that he intended the land thus conveyed as an advancement. Harrelson v. Gooden, 229 N. C. 654, 50 S. E. (2d) 901.

Intention of Parent Governs.—
Whether the gift is an advancement or not depends on the intention of the parent at the time the gift is made. Harrelson v. Gooden, 229 N. C. 654, 50 S. E. (2d) 901.

The nature of the gift, the consideration expressed, and the circumstances under which it is made are material in determining the intention. Id.

Payments Made for Land Conveyed as an Advancement.—
In ascertaining the value of an advancement of realty for the purpose of equalizing the heirs' share in the real estate, or in charging the child advanced in the distributive share of the personalty in the event the advancement exceeds the value of his share of the realty, the commissioners should take into consideration any payments found to have been made for the land conveyed as an advancement. Harrelson v. Gooden, 229 N. C. 654, 50 S. E. (2d) 901.

Rule 4, Collateral descent of estate derived from ancestor.

In General.—
This rule applies where, and only to the extent that, the inheritance (1) has been transmitted by descent from an ancestor, or (2) has been derived by gift, devise or settlement from an ancestor, to whom the person thus advanced would, in the event of such ancestor's death, have been the heir or one of the heirs. Jones v. Jones, 227 N. C. 424, 429, 42 S. E. (2d) 620.

A husband who had acquired real estate by descent, devised same to his wife by will. The wife took by purchase, and since she is not an "heir," the provisions of this rule do not apply, and upon her death without lineal descendants the land descends to her collateral heirs rather than to those of her husband. Id.

Rule 6, Half blood inherits with whole; parents from child.

Personal Property.—
The citation to this paragraph in the original should be "178 N. C. 442, 444."

Rule 10, Heirs of illegitimate. Illegitimate children shall be considered legitimate as between themselves and their representatives, and their estates shall descend accordingly in the same manner as if they had been born in wedlock; and upon the death of an illegitimate child not leaving issue capable of inheriting, his estate shall descend in the following order:

(1) To the children of his mother, whether legitimate or illegitimate, or their issue.

(2) If there are no such children or their issue, then to the mother.

(3) If there are no such children or their issue, nor mother, then to the brothers and sisters of the mother, or their issue.

(4) If there are none who can take under paragraphs (1), (2), or (3) of this rule, then to the surviving spouse.

Nothing herein shall be construed to change the existing rules with respect to curtesy and dower or other rights of inheritance by virtue of marriage, nor to allow illegitimate children to inherit from legitimate children of the same mother. (Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 11; 1935, c. 256; 1945, c. 520; C. S. 1654.)

Rule Prior to 1935.—Prior to 1935 when an illegitimate child died leaving no issue and his mother had predeceased him, the collateral relatives of the mother could not inherit from her illegitimate child. Board of Education v. Johnston, 224 N. C. 86, 29 S. E. (2d) 126.

Rule 14, Succession and inheritance rights of adopted child. An adopted child shall be entitled by succession or inheritance to any real property by, through, and from its adoptive parents the same as if it were the natural, legitimate child of the adoptive parents.

Rule 15, Succession and inheritance rights of adoptive parents. The adoptive parents shall be entitled by succession or inheritance to any real property by, through, and from an adopted child the same as if the adopted child were the natural, legitimate child of the adoptive parents.

Rule 16, Succession and inheritance rights of legitimate children. When any child born out of wedlock shall have been legitimated in accordance with the provisions of G. S. § 49-10 or G. S. § 49-12 such child shall be entitled to all the rights of succession or inheritance to any real property of its father and mother as it would have had had it been born their issue in lawful wedlock. (1947, c. 832.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote Rule 10 and the 1947 amendment added Rules 14, 15 and 16. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendments, it is not set out.

For comment on the 1945 amendment, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 347.

For discussion of the 1947 amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 443.

Chapter 30. Widows.

Art. 1. Dissent from Will.

§ 30-1. Time and manner of dissent.

Cross Reference.—
See 23 N. C. Law Rev. 380 for elections under will.

Filing of Dissent Is Ministerial in Nature.—Where clerk was one of the executors of the will, the act of filing a dissent was purely ministerial, and the clerk was not disqualified to receive and file the written dissent. In re Smith's Estate, 226 N. C. 169, 37 S. E. (2d) 127, 128.

Notice to Executors and Devisees.—The fact that no previous notice of husband's will is given to the executors or devisees of filing of widow's dissent is immaterial as this and the following section do not require notice. In re Smith's Estate, 226 N. C. 169, 37 S. E. (2d) 127, 128.

Disposal of Motion to Strike Dissent.—Where widow duly filed dissent, and executor moved to strike on the ground that husband had obtained a decree of absolute divorce, and widow moved in the court in which the divorce decree had been rendered to set aside the decree for want of legal service and for fraud, it was held that while the motion to set aside the divorce decree is pending, it was error for court to strike out the dissent. In re Smith's Estate, 226 N. C. 169, 37 S. E. (2d) 127.

Dissent to Will Probated in Another State.—Testator died in South Carolina and his will was duly probated there. His widow filed a dissent valid under the laws of the state. The court held that she was entitled to her dower rights in lands owned by testator within North Carolina upon the filing of an authenticated copy of the will as proven and probated, without also dissenting here. Coble v. Coble, 227 N. C. 547, 42 S. E. (2d) 898.

Stated in In re Smith's Estate, 226 N. C. 169, 37 S. E. (2d) 127.

Art. 2. Dower.

§ 30-4. Who entitled to dower.

Heir Murdering Ancestor Excluded from Beneficial Interest in Estate. — The fact that this and other sections forfeiting a murderer's interest in the estate of his victim (§§ 28-10 and 52-19) apply only to the relation of husband and wife does not deprive equity of the power of excluding an heir who has murdered his ancestor from all beneficial interest in the estate of his victim. Garner v. Phillips, 229 N. C. 160, 47 S. E. (2d) 845. For suggested revisal of this section and related statutes, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 232.

Applied in Artis v. Artis, 228 N. C. 754, 47 S. E. (2d) 228.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION OF DOWER.

Where Trustees and Cestuis Are Identical Persons.—Under an active trust, which gives trustees power to sell and convey lands, in their discretion, such trustees and cestuis being identical persons, the respective wives of the trustees have no dower interests in the land and are not necessary parties to a conveyance. Blades v. Norfolk Southern Ry. Co., 224 N. C. 32, 29 S. E. (2d) 148.

Applied in Artis v. Artis, 228 N. C. 754, 47 S. E. (2d) 228.

Applied in Artis v. Artis, 228 N. C. 754, 47 S. E. (2d) 228.

§ 30-7. Dower conveyed by wife's joinder in deed.—The right to dower under this chapter shall pass and be effectual against any widow or person claiming under her upon the wife joining with the husband in the deed of conveyance and by her acknowledgment of the same as provided by law. (Rev., s. 3086; Code, s. 2107; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 36; 1945, c. 73, s. 1; C. S. 4102.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted at the end of the section the words "by her acknowledgment of same as provided by law" for the words "being privately examined as to her consent thereto in the manner prescribed by law."

§ 30-8. Conveyance of home site by wife's joinder in deed or other conveyance.—No deed or other conveyance, except to secure purchase money, made by the owner of a home site, which shall include the residence and other buildings together with the particular lot or tract of land upon which the residence is situated, whether actually occupied by said owner or not, shall be valid to pass possession or title during the lifetime of the wife except upon the wife joining with her husband in the deed or other conveyance and her acknowledgment of same as provided by law: Provided, the wife does not commit adultery, or has not abandoned and does not abandon the husband and live separate and apart from him: Provided, further, that all married women under the age of twenty-one shall have the same privilege to renounce their dower rights in and to the home site as is now conferred upon married women twenty-one years and over, and the deed or other conveyance thereof made by the owner of a home site with the joinder and acknowledgment of his wife, even though the wife be under twenty-one years of age, shall be valid and immediately pass possession and title thereto as though said married women were twenty-one years or over: Provided, further, that all conveyances of a home site, as defined in this section, made prior to February twenty-seven, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven, by the owner thereof, with the voluntary signature and assent of his wife, signified on her private examination according to law, shall be valid and pass the title and possession thereto as of the date thereof, even though the wife of said owner was under twenty-one years of age at the time of such signature and assent. (1919, c. 123; 1937, c. 69; 1945, c. 73, s. 2; C. S. 4103.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment substituted the exception clause immediately preceding the first proviso for the words "without the voluntary signature and assent of his wife, signified on her private examination according to law." The amendment also made a somewhat similar substitution in the second proviso.

The husband, without joinder of his wife, conveyed the home site to his wife and one of his sons. In special proceedings for partition instituted after the husband's death it was determined that the wife was entitled to dower in all of his lands but no dower was actually allotted to her and the lands other than the home site were partitioned among all the children. It was found as a fact that the value of the home site did not exceed the value of one-third interest in all the lands of which the husband died seized. It was held that the allotment to the wife of a life estate in the home site as and for the value of her dower is without error, since the grantees in the deed took subject to dower. Artis v. Artis, 228 N. C. 754, 47 S. E. (2d) 228.

§ 30-9. Conveyance without joinder of insane wife; certificate of lunacy.—Every man whose wife is a lunatic or insane may bargain, sell, lease, mortgage, transfer and convey any of his real estate by deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust or lease, without the signature of his wife: Provided, that the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the wife was adjudged a lunatic or declared insane, or the superintendent of an insane institution of the state, or any other state shall certify under his hand and seal that she has been adjudged a lunatic or declared insane, and that her sanity has not been declared restored as is provided by law, and this certificate must be attached to the husband's deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust, or lease. Such deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust or lease executed, probated and registered in accordance with law shall convey all the estate and interest as therein intended of the grantor in the land conveyed, free and exempt from the dower rights and all other interests of his wife: Provided, this section shall not apply to the homestead of the husband which has been actually allotted. (1923, c. 65, s. 1; 1945, c. 73, s. 3; C. S. 4103(a).)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment struck out the words "or private examination" formerly appearing after the word "signature" in line five.

Art. 3. Allotment of Dower.

§ 30-12. Petition filed in superior court.—If no such agreement be made, the widow may apply for assignment of dower by petition in the superior court, and, if she fail to make such application within three months after the death of her husband, any heir, devisee, owner, or other person having any interest in said land, or claiming estates in, may file a petition reciting the facts that the widow is entitled to dower in certain lands and has not applied for it and demand that her dower be assigned to her. In all cases the widow and all heirs and devisees and persons in possession of, or claiming estates in, the lands shall be made parties, and the court shall hear and pass upon the petition in like manner as in other cases of special proceedings. And in all such cases the clerk of the superior court, upon application by the widow, shall have authority to issue a writ of assistance to place her in possession of the land allotted to her as dower. (Rev., s. 3088; Code, ss. 2111, 2112; 1891, c. 133; 1868-9, c. 93, ss. 40, 41; 1945, c. 116; 1947, c. 141; C. S. 4105.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment inserted in the first sentence the words "owner, or other person having any interest in said land, or claiming estates in."
The 1947 amendment added the last sentence.

Art. 4. Year's Allowance.

Part 3. Assigned in Superior Court.

§ 30-27. Widow or child may apply to superior court.

Irrelevant Allegations in Answer.—Upon petition for allotment of a widow's year's allowance, allegations in the answer to the effect that the widow did not need an allotment for her support, that deceased's will evidenced a desire that the widow should receive no part of the estate, and that defendants were the aged and infirm parents of deceased dependent upon the estate left them by the will, are irrelevant to the issues and could not be shown in evidence, and were properly stricken upon motion, since even the reading of the pleadings would be highly prejudicial to petitioner. Edwards v. Edwards, 230 N. C. 176, 52 S. E. (2d) 281.

§ 30-32. Exceptions to the report.—The personal representative, or any creditor, distributee or legatee of the deceased, within ten days after the return of the report, may file exceptions thereto. The plaintiff shall be notified thereof and cited to appear before the court on a certain day, within twenty and not less than ten days after service of the notice, and answer the same; the case shall thereafter be proceeded in, heard and decided as provided in special proceedings between parties. (Rev., s. 3109; Code, s. 2133; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 25; 1947, c. 484, s. 1; C. S. 4126.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment substituted "ten" for "twenty" in line three. Section 5 of the amendatory act provides that estates, proceedings and actions pending on June 30th, 1947, shall not be affected by its provisions.

31-10.1. Corporate trustee not disqualified by witnessing of will by stockholder.

Art. 5. Probate of Will.

31-31.1. Validation of probates of wills when witnesses examined before notary public; acts of deputy clerks validated.

Art. 1. Execution of Will.

I. IN GENERAL.

Natural Right to Dispose of Property by Will.—
The right to dispose of property by will is conferred and regulated by statute, and therefore letters written by a member of the armed forces which are not offered or proven in the manner or form prescribed by this section and § 31-26, are ineffectual as a testamentary disposition of property. Wescott v. First, etc., Nat. Bank, 227 N. C. 39, 40 S. E. (2d) 461.

The testamentary disposition of property is governed by statute. In re Will of Puett, 229 N. C. 8, 47 S. E. (2d) 488.

Compliance with Statute Required.—In order that a paper-writing, designed as a testamentary disposition of property, may effectuate this purpose it must have been executed and proven in strict compliance with the statutory requirements. In re Will of Puett, 229 N. C. 8, 47 S. E. (2d) 488.

Applied in In re Will of Goodman, 229 N. C. 444, 50 S. E. (2d) 34.

II. SIGNING, ATTESTATION AND DATE.

Signing in Presence of Witnesses Not Necessary.—
It is not required that testator sign the will in the presence of the attesting witnesses. In re Will of Etheridge, 229 N. C. 280, 49 S. E. (2d) 480.

Art. 2. Revocation of Will.

§ 31-5. Revocation by writing or by cancellation or destruction.—No will or testament in writing, or any clause thereof, shall be revocable otherwise than by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing declaring the same, or by burning, canceling, tearing, or obliterating the same, by the testator himself, or in his presence and by his direction and consent; but all wills or testaments shall remain and continue in force until the same be burnt, canceled, torn, or obliterated by the testator, or in his presence and by his consent and direction; or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator, signed by him, or some other person in his presence and by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by two witnesses at least; or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator, all of which shall be in the handwriting of the testator, and his name subscribed thereto or inserted therein, and lodged by him with some person for safekeeping, or left by him in some secure place, or among his valuable papers and effects, every part of which will or codicil or other writing shall be proved to be in the handwriting of the testator, by three witnesses at least: Provided, that where a married person makes a will or testament devising or bequeathing property to his or her spouse, a subsequent absolute divorce of the parties shall operate as a revocation of that portion of the will or testament which devises or bequeaths property to the spouse of the testator or testatrix and the property described in such portion of the will shall pass under an appropriate residuary clause, if any, of the will. If there is no appropriate residuary clause, such property shall descend or be distributed as if the testator or testatrix had died intestate. (Rev., s. 3115; Code, s. 2176; R. C., c. 119, s. 22; 1784, c. 204, s. 14; 1819, c. 1004, ss. 1, 2; 1840, c. 62; 1945, c. 140; C. S. 4133.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the proviso at the end of the section.

Cited in In re Will of Goodman, 229 N. C. 444, 50 S. E. (2d) 34.

§ 31-6. Revocation by marriage; exceptions.—A will is revoked by the subsequent marriage of the maker, except as follows:

(1) A will made prior to the marriage of the maker which contains an express statement to the effect that it is made in contemplation of marriage to a person named therein is not revoked by the maker's marriage to such person.

(2) A will made in the exercise of a power of appointment, or so much thereof as is made in the exercise of a power of appointment, if the real or personal estate thereby appointed would not, in default of such appointment, pass to the maker's heirs or next of kin, is not revoked by the maker's subsequent marriage. (Rev., s. 3116; Code, s. 2177; R. C., c. 119, s. 23; 1844, c. 88, s. 10; 1947, c. 110; C. S. 4134.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment inserted the provision contained in subsection (1) and made changes in the provision contained in subsection (2).

Applied in Potter v. Clark, 229 N. C. 350, 49 S. E. (2d) 636.

Art. 3. Witnesses to Will.

§ 31-10.1. Corporate trustee not disqualified by witnessing of will by stockholder.—A corporation named as a trustee in a will is not disqualified to act as trustee by reason of the fact that a person owning stock in the corporation signed the will as a witness. (1949, c. 44.)

Art. 5. Probate of Will.

Applied in In re Will of Hine, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526.

§ 31-17. Proof and examination in writing.

The will of a nonresident recorded here, under this section should include as a muniment of title, the proceedings in dissent as same appear of record in the probate court in the county in which the will was probated. Coble v. Coble, 227 N. C. 547, 42 S. E. (2d) 898.

Applied in In re Will of Hine, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526.

Compliance with Statutory Requirements.—In order that a paper-writing, designed as a testamentary disposition of property, may effectuate this purpose it must have been executed and proven in strict compliance with the statutory requirements. In re Will of Puett, 229 N. C. 8, 47 S. E. (2d) 488.

Applied in In re Will of Hines, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526.

Cited in McMillan v. Robeson, 225 N. C. 754, 36 S. E. (2d) 235.

§ 31-19. Probate conclusive until vacated; substitution of consolidated bank as executor or trustee under will.

Conclusively Valid until Declared Void.—When executed, proven and recorded in manner and form as prescribed, a paper-writing designed as a testamentary disposition of property is given conclusive legal effect as the last will and testament of the decedent, subject only to be vacated on appeal or declared void by a court of competent jurisdiction in a proceeding instituted for that purpose. Until so set aside it is presumed to be the will of the testator. In re Will of Puett, 229 N. C. 8, 47 S. E. (2d) 488.

Cannot Be Attacked Collaterally.—

A probated will constitutes a muniment of title unassailable except in a direct proceeding. Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 5, 33 S. E. (2d) 129; In re Will of Puett, 229 N. C. 8, 47 S. E. (2d) 488.

Where a paper-writing has been duly probated in common form, offer of proof of a will alleged to have been subsequently executed by the testatrix is a collateral attack, and the clerk is without jurisdiction to set aside the probate upon such proof. In re Will of Puett, 229 N. C. 8, 47 S. E. (2d) 488.

The probate of a will may be set aside upon motion after notice where it is clearly made to appear that the court was imposed upon or misled, but otherwise the probate is conclusive and cannot be collaterally attacked, and the paper-writing stands as the last will and testament until declared void in a direct proceeding in the nature of a caveat under § 31-32. In re Will of Puett, 229 N. C. 8, 47 S. E. (2d) 488.

Clerk May Not Set Aside Probate on Grounds Determinable by Caveat.—While the clerk of the superior court in proper instances may set aside a probate in common form, he may not do so on grounds which are properly determinable by caveat. In re Will of Hine, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526.

After Cause Transferred to Civil Issue Docket.—See note to § 31-36.

Effect of Order of Clerk.—An order of the clerk adjudging paper writing to be fully proved in common form is not "conclusive in evidence of the validity of the will," under this section, on the issue of devisavit vel non, but as between the probated instrument and the prior purported wills, the former stands until "declared void by a competent tribunal." In re Neal's Will, 227 N. C. 136, 138, 41 S. E. (2d) 90.

Cross Reference.—

See note to § 31-21.

Statute Not Retroactive.—Public Laws 1921, ch. 21 (§§ 31-20, 31-21), does not control rights which accrued prior to its enactment. Hence, when an original will probated in 1910 is invalidated by judicial decree, a certified copy thereof recorded in another county becomes void and one who purchases with notice of the caveat cannot convey any title thereunder, either before or after notice of its invalidity has been filed in the county where the certified copy has been recorded. The only purpose of such certified copy was to give notice of the source of title. Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 33 S. E. (2d) 129.

§ 31-26. Probate of wills of members of the armed forces.—In addition to the methods already provided in existing statutes therefor, a will executed by a person while in the armed forces of the United States or the Merchant Marine, shall be admitted to probate (whether there were subscribing witnesses thereto or not, if they, or either of them, is out of the state at the time said will is offered for probate) upon the oath of at least three credible witnesses that the signature to said will is in the handwriting of the person whose will it purports to be. Such will so proven shall be effective to devise real property as well as to bequeath personal estate of all kinds. This section shall not apply to cases pending in courts and at issue on the date of its ratification. (1919, c. 216; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 39; 1943, c. 218; 1945, c. 81; C. S. 4151.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment substituted in the first sentence the words "a will executed by a person while in the armed forces of the United States or the merchant marine" for the words "the will of a member of the armed forces of the United States, or the merchant marine, executed while in the active service of the United States."

For comment on the 1943 amendment, see 21 N. C. Law Rev. 381.

§ 31-27. Certified copy of will of nonresident recorded.

Due Record and Certificate of Foreign Probate—Effect.—A will, duly proven and allowed in New York according to this section, when it appears that an exemplified copy thereof so showing has been recorded here in the county where the land lies, is admissible in evidence in the courts of this state, as a link in a chain of title. Vance v. Guy, 223 N. C. 469, 27 S. E. (2d) 117.

Applied in In re Will of Chatman, 228 N. C. 246, 45 S. E. (2d) 356.

§ 31-31.1. Validation of probates of wills when witnesses examined before notary public; acts of deputy clerks validated.

—Whenever any last will and testament has been probated, based upon the examination of the subscribing witness or the subscribing witnesses, taken before a notary public in the county in which the will is probated, or taken before a notary public of any other county, it is hereby in all respects validated and shall be sufficient to pass the title to all real and personal property purported to be transferred thereby.

All acts heretofore performed by deputy clerks of the superior court in taking acknowledgments, examining witnesses and probate of any wills, deeds and other instruments required or permitted by law to be recorded, are hereby validated. Nothing herein contained shall affect pending litigation. (1945, c. 822.)

Art. 6. Caveat to Will.

§ 31-32. When and by whom caveat filed.

When Proceeding in Nature of Caveat Necessary.—Where there is no allegation that the probate of the will was otherwise than in strict accord with the statute, and there is no suggestion that the court was imposed upon or misled, the validity of the will may be attacked only by direct proceeding in the nature of a caveat under this section. In re Will of Puett, 229 N. C. 8, 47 S. E. (2d) 488.

Statute Gives Right and Outlines Procedure.—In this jurisdiction the right to contest a will by caveat is given by statute; and the procedure to be followed is outlined in the statute conferring the right. In re Will of Brock, 229 N. C. 482, 50 S. E. (2d) 555.

Caveat a Proceeding in Rem—Nonsuit.—

When a will is probated in common form, any interested party may appear and enter a caveat. But a caveat is an in rem proceeding. In effect it is nothing more than a demand that the will be produced and probated in open court, affording caveators an opportunity to attack it for the causes and upon the grounds set forth and alleged in the caveat. It is an attack upon the validity of the instrument purporting to be a will and not an "action affecting the title to real property." The will and not the land devised is the res involved in the litigation. Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 4, 33 S. E. (2d) 129.

The contest of a will by caveat is not an ordinary civil action, but a special proceeding in rem leading to the establishment of the will as a testamentary act under the issue devisavit vel non. The in rem nature of the proceeding dominates the investigation, and in many important respects the parties litigant have little of the usual control over the course of trial on the issue. In re Will of Brock, 229 N. C. 482, 50 S. E. (2d) 555.

Once the will is propounded for probate in solemn form the proceeding must go on until the issue devisavit vel non is appropriately answered; and no nonsuit can be taken by the propounders or by the caveators. In re Will of Brock, 229 N. C. 482, 50 S. E. (2d) 555. See In re Will of Hine, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526.

A caveat to a will may be filed only by persons "entitled under such will or interested in the estate." And § 31-33, directing the issue of citations, "to all devisees, legatees, or other parties in interest," does not enlarge the definition of interest given in this section. In re Will of Brock, 229 N. C. 482, 50 S. E. (2d) 555.

It is immaterial whether those appearing and protesting call themselves interveners, objectors or caveators if they place themselves in opposition to the propounders. By a caveat legal rights are put in stake. In re Will of Rowland, 202 N. C. 373, 162 S. E. 897; In re Will of Puett, 229 N. C. 8, 47 S. E. (2d) 488.

Applied in In re Will of Hine, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526.

—When a caveator shall have given bond with surety approved by the clerk, in the sum of two hundred dollars ($200.00), payable to the propounder of the will, conditioned upon the payment of all costs which shall be adjudged against such caveator in the superior court by reason of his failure to prosecute his suit with effect, or when a caveator shall have deposited money or given a mortgage in lieu of such bond, or shall have filed affidavits and satisfied the clerk of his inability to give such bond or otherwise secure such costs, the clerk shall transfer the cause to the superior court for trial; and he shall also forthwith issue a citation to all devisees, legatees or other parties in interest within the state, and cause publication to be made, for four weeks, in some newspaper printed in the state, for nonresidents to appear at the term of the superior court, to which the proceeding is transferred and to make themselves proper parties to the proceeding, if they choose. At the term of court to which such proceeding is transferred, or as soon thereafter as motion to that effect shall be made by the propounder, and before trial, the judge shall require any of the persons so cited, either those who make themselves parties with the caveators or whose interests appear to him antagonistic to that of the propounders of the will, and who shall appear to him to be able so to do, to file such bond within such time as he shall direct and before trial; and on failure to file such bond the judge shall dismiss the proceeding. (Rev., s. 3136; Code, s. 2159; 1899, c. 13; 1901, c. 748; C. C. P., s. 447; 1909, c. 74; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 4159.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote the first sentence down to the semicolon. For brief comment on amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 478.

The persons interested are not cited as parties to the proceeding but merely as interested persons to view proceedings and participate if they elect to do so, although no doubt the court, when properly and timely advised, would cause citation to issue to anyone designated by statute as interested who has been omitted. In re Will of Brock, 229 N. C. 482, 50 S. E. (2d) 555.

In a caveat proceeding, neither the grantees in deeds executed by testator prior to his death nor the persons to whom such grantees have conveyed the property, either before or after testator's death, nor the heirs at law of deceased grantees are necessary parties to the determination of the issue of devisavit vel non when such persons are not beneficiaries under the will nor heirs of testator, and therefore, even if it be conceded they are proper parties, the trial judge, in the exercise of his discretion, is under no legal obligation to order citations to bring them in. Id.

When Personal Representative of Executrix Not Necessary Party.—Where the executrix has fully administered the estate and filed her final account prior to the filing of a caveat, and has died pending the caveat proceeding, it is not necessary that the court appoint a personal representative for the deceased executrix nor an administrator d. b. n. for the estate of the testator so that they may be made parties to the proceeding. In re Will of Brock, 229 N. C. 482, 50 S. E. (2d) 555.

Waiver of Jury Trial—Nonsuit.—Upon the proper filing of a caveat the cause must be transferred to the civil issue docket where the proceeding is in rem for trial by jury, and neither party may waive jury trial, consent that the court hear the evidence and find the determinative facts or have nonsuit entered at his instance. In re Will of Hine, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526.

§ 31-35. Affidavit of witness as evidence.—Whenever the subscribing witness to any will shall die, or be insane or mentally incompetent, or be absent beyond the state, it shall be competent upon any issue of devisavit vel non to give in evidence the affidavits and proofs taken by the clerk upon admitting the will to probate in common form, and such affidavit and proceedings before the clerk shall be prima facie evidence of the due and legal execution of said will. (Rev., s. 3121; 1899, c. 680, s. 2; 1947, c. 781; C. S. 4160.)

The 1947 amendment inserted after the word "die" in line two the words "or be insane or mentally incompetent."

For brief comment on amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 478.

The clerk of a superior court cannot enter an order vacating the probate of a will after a caveat has been filed and the cause transferred to the civil issue docket of the superior court for trial in term. In re Will of Hine, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526. See note to § 31-19.

Where the clerk of the superior court has admitted to probate in common form a purported will and two purported codicils as the last will and testament of a deceased, and caveat has been properly filed as to the second codicil and the cause transferred to the civil issue docket, the clerk may not thereafter upon motion expunge from his records the entire probate proceedings and reprobate the purported will and second codicil on the ground that the second codicil revoked the first. In re Will of Hine, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526.

Error Held Not Cured by Affirmance of Order.—Where a clerk is without jurisdiction to make an order in probate proceedings, by reason of the filing of a caveat and the transfer of the cause to the civil issue docket, the error in making the order is not cured by the order of the resident judge of the superior court who heard the motion on appeal and affirmed the order, for the jurisdiction of the superior court in such a case is derivative, and § 1-276 does not apply. In re Will of Hine, 228 N. C. 405, 45 S. E. (2d) 526.

§ 31-37. Superior court clerks to enter notice of caveat on will book; final judgment also to be entered.

Applied in Lewis v. Furr, 228 N. C. 88, 44 S. E. (2d) 604.

Art. 7. Construction of Will.

§ 31-38. Devise presumed to be in fee.

Section 39-1 pertaining to the construction of deeds is similar in wording and effect to this section, and what has been held in applying the rule of construction as to wills is pertinent in applying the rule of construction as to deeds. Artis v. Artis, 228 N. C. 754, 47 S. E. (2d) 228.

An unrestricted devise of realty, nothing else appearing, constitutes a devise in fee. Elder v. Johnston, 227 N. C. 592, 42 S. E. (2d) 904.

Unless the intent of the testator to devise an estate of less dignity can be gathered from the instrument construed from its four corners, an unrestricted or indefinite devise of real property is a devise in fee simple, and a subsequent clause expressing a wish, desire or even direction for the disposition of what remains at the death of the devisee, will not be allowed to defeat the devise nor limit it to a life estate. Taylor v. Taylor, 228 N. C. 275, 45 S. E. (2d) 368.

The clause "I give, devise and bequeath" to named devisee, described realty, standing alone, constitutes a devise in fee simple. Buckner v. Hawkins, 230 N. C. 99, 52 S. E. (2d) 16.

A devise of real estate to devisees "to do as they like with it", with subsequent provision that after their death whatever property is left should go to testatrix' niece vests the fee simple in the beneficiaries first named. Taylor v. Taylor, 228 N. C. 275, 45 S. E. (2d) 368.

A devise generally to one person with limitation over to another of "whatever is left" at the death of the first taker is regarded as a devise in fee simple. Taylor v. Taylor, 228 N. C. 275, 45 S. E. (2d) 368, citing Patrick v. Morehead, 85 N. C. 62, 39 Am. Rep. 684; Carroll v. Herring, 180 N. C. 369, 104 S. E. 892.

§ 31-39. Probate necessary to pass title; recordation in county where land lies; rights of innocent purchasers.

Ownership under will is not made dependent upon the certified copy directed to be recorded in the county where the land lies. Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 7, 33 S. E. (2d) 129.

§ 31-41. Will relates to death of testator.

Any property acquired after making of will, by reversion or otherwise, is subject to its terms. Ferguson v. Ferguson, 225 N. C. 375, 35 S. E. (2d) 231.

§ 31-42. Lapsed and void devises pass under residuary clause.

Who Are Distributees.—A distributee is a person who has the right under the statute of distribution to a share in the surplus estate of an intestate; one entitled to take a share of an estate of a decedent, under the statute of distribution; one to whom something has to be distributed in the division of an estate; a person upon whom personal property devolves by act of law in cases of intestacy. Those who take by succession the estate of a person who dies intestate are named and defined in § 28-149. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co. v. Shelton, 229 N. C. 150, 48 S. E. (2d) 41.

Must Be Determined as of Date of Death of Testatrix.—Who would have been distributees of the estate had the testatrix died intestate must be determined as of the date of her death and not as of the date of the execution of her will. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co. v. Shelton, 229 N. C. 150, 48 S. E. (2d) 41.

Rights of Collateral Heirs.—

Where a wife dies leaving her surviving a husband but no issue, he is her sole distributee, and her collateral kin are not entitled to share in the estate and are not "distributees." Wachovia Bank, etc., Co. v. Shelton, 229 N. C. 150, 48 S. E. (2d) 41.

If the will expresses an intent that a legacy shall not lapse in the event the legatee predeceases testatrix, the statutory provision for lapse does not apply. This intent need not be stated in exact terms, but is to be ascertained from the four corners of the will. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co. v. Shelton, 229 N. C. 150, 48 S. E. (2d) 41, wherein will showed no intent that legacy should not lapse upon prior death of legatee.

Whether a conveyance of property in general terms or by general description constitutes a valid exercise of a power of appointment is governed by this section in respect to the exercise of such power by will. Schaeffer v. Haseltine, 228 N. C. 484, 46 S. E. (2d) 463.

Will held a valid exercise of power of appointment under this section, there being nothing in the will to indicate any contrary intent. Schaeffer v. Haseltine, 228 N. C. 484, 46 S. E. (2d) 463.

Applied in Phillips v. Phillips, 227 N. C. 438, 42 S. E. (2d) 604.

Chapter 32. Fiduciaries.

Ground for actionable negligence in the transfer of stocks is greatly narrowed by this section. Carolina Tel., etc., Co. v. Johnson, 168 F. (2d) 489.

Corporation Not Negligent.—In action for negligence in registering transfer of wards' stock, which was registered in guardian's name, this section was a defense where corporation had no "actual knowledge" either of the commission by the fiduciary of a breach of his obligation or of facts revealing bad faith in the transfer. Carolina Tel., etc., Co. v. Johnson, 168 F. (2d) 489.

Insistence by corporation upon a further decree was not a requisite of diligence where decree authorized guardian to partition stock and retain his wards' portion either in shares or money, and the corporation might with reason have believed the guardian was thereby entitled to reduce his wards' shares to cash. Carolina Tel., etc., Co. v. Johnson, 168 F. (2d) 489.

§ 33-1. Jurisdiction in clerk of superior court.—The clerks of the superior court within their respective counties have full power, from time to time, to take cognizance of all matters concerning orphans and their estates and to appoint guardians in all cases of infants, idiots, lunatics, inebriates, and inmates of the Caswell training school: Provided, that guardians shall be appointed by the clerks of the superior courts in the counties in which the infants, idiots, lunatics, or inebriates reside, unless the guardians be the next of kin of such incompetents or a person designated by such next of kin in writing filed with the clerk, in which case, guardians may be appointed by the clerk of the superior court in any county in which is located a substantial part of the estates belonging to such incompetents, or unless an infant resides with an individual who is domiciled in the state of North Carolina and who is guardian of such infant's estate, in which case a guardian of the person of such infant may be appointed by the clerk of the superior court in the county in which the guardian of such infant's estate is domiciled. (Rev., s. 1766; Code, s. 1566; R. C., c. 54, s. 2; 1762, c. 69, ss. 5, 7; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 4; 1917, c. 41, s. 1; 1935, c. 467; 1945, c. 902; C. S. 2150.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment added that part of this section beginning with the words "or unless" in line sixteen.

For comment on this amendment, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 340.

§ 33-1.1. Absence of natural guardian.—Where there is no natural guardian of a minor or where a minor has been abandoned, and in either event the minor requires service from the department of public welfare, until the appointment of a guardian of the person for said minor under this chapter, the superintendent of public welfare of the county in which such minor resides shall be the guardian of the person of said minor: Provided, however, that nothing in this section shall be construed as changing or affecting the appointment or the duties or powers of any next friend of, or any guardian or trustee of the property or estate of, any minor, or any existing laws relative to the handling or disposition of the property of any minor. (1947, c. 413, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—For brief comment on this section, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 413.

§ 33-2. Appointment by parents; effect; powers and duties of guardian.—Any father, though he be a minor, may, by his last will and testament in writing, if the mother be dead, dispose of the custody and tuition of any of his infant children, being unmarried, and whether born at his death or in ventre sa mere for such time as the children may remain under twenty-one years of age, or for any less time. Or in case the father is dead and has not exercised his said right of appointment, or has willfully abandoned his wife, then the mother, whether of full age or minor, may do so. Every such appointment shall be good and effectual against any person claiming the custody and tuition of such child or children. Every guardian by will shall have the same powers and rights and be subject to the same liabilities and regulations as other guardians: Provided, however, that in the event it is so specifically directed in said will such guardian so appointed shall be permitted to qualify and serve without giving bond, unless the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction of said guardianship shall find as a fact and adjudge that the interest of such minor or incompetent would be best served by requiring such guardian to give bond. (Rev., ss. 1762, 1763, 1764; Code, ss. 1562, 1563, 1564; R. C., c. 54; 1762, c. 69; 1868-9, c. 201; 1881, c. 64; 1911, c. 120; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 21; 1941, c. 26; 1945, c. 73, s. 20; 1947, c. 413, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 2151.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment made changes in the first sentence and the 1947 amendment struck out the former references to deeds.

For brief comment on the 1947 amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 413.

Art. 2. Guardian's Bond.

§ 33-13. Terms and conditions of bond; increased on sale of realty.

Surety as a Party in Interest.—When a guardian fails to "faithfully execute the trust reposed in him as such," upon which his bond is conditioned, the surety thereon is subjected to liability, and as a party in interest is entitled to have the wrong remedied. Maryland Cas. Co. v. Lawing, 223 N. C. 8, 13, 25 S. E. (2d) 183.

§ 33-13.1. Clerk may reduce penalty of bond of guardian or trustee.—The clerks of the superior court within their respective counties shall have full power and authority from time to time to order that the penalty of a bond of a guardian or trustee be reduced to a stated sum under the following circumstances:

When a guardian or trustee has disbursed either income or income and principal of the estate according to law, either for the purchase of real estate, or the support and maintenance of the ward or the ward and his dependents, or any lawful cause, and when the personal assets and income of the estate from all sources in the hands of the guardian or trustee have been so diminished, the penalty of the bond of such guardian or trustee may be reduced in the discretion of the clerk to an amount not less than the amount which would be required if the guardian or trustee were first qualifying to administer such personal assets and annual income. (1947, c. 667.)

Art. 3. Powers and Duties of Guardian.

Cited in The Severance, 152 F. (2d) 916.

§ 33-21. How rentals made.—All rentings by guardians shall be publicly made, between the hours of ten o'clock a. m. and four o'clock p. m., after twenty days' notice posted at the courthouse and four other public places in the county. But, upon petition by the guardian, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land of the ward is situated, or of the county wherein the guardian has qualified, may make an order, on satisfactory evidence, upon the oath of at least two disinterested freeholders acquainted with the said land, that the best interests of the said ward will be subserved by a private renting of said land, allowing the guardian to rent the land privately. The terms of all such rentings shall be reported to said clerk of the superior court and be approved by him. The proceeds rentings of real property, except the rentings of lands leased for agricultural purposes, when not for cash, shall be secured by bond and good security. (Rev., s. 1788; Code, s. 1590; 1891, c. 83; 1901, c. 97; R. C., c. 54, s. 26; 1793, c. 391; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 2171.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, this section applied to sales as well as to rentings. The amendment directed the striking out of the words "of all sales of personal estate and" formerly following the word "proceeds" in the first line of the last sentence. The words "of all" in the quoted deletion were apparently directed to be stricken by inadvertence, and it would seem that it was the probable intent of the legislature to retain them between "proceeds" and "rentings" in the first line of the last sentence.

§ 33-24. Guardians' powers enlarged to permit cultivation of ward's lands or continuation of ward's business.

Cited in First Citizens Bank, etc., Co. v. Parker, 225 N. C. 480, 35 S. E. (2d) 489.

Art. 4. Sales of Ward's Estate.

§ 33-31. Special proceedings to sell; judge's approval required.—On application of the guardian by petition, verified upon oath, to the superior court, showing that the interest of the ward would be materially promoted by the sale or mortgage of any part of his estate, real or personal, the proceeding shall be conducted as in other cases of special proceedings; and the truth of the matter alleged in the petition being ascertained by satisfactory proof, a decree may thereupon be made that a sale or mortgage be had by such person, in such way and on such terms as may be most advantageous to the interest of the ward; all petitions filed under the authority of this section wherein an order is sought for the sale or mortgage of the ward's real estate or both real and personal property shall be filed in the superior court of the county in which all or any part of the real estate is situated; if the order of sale demanded in the petition is for the sale or mortgage of the ward's personal estate, the petition may be filed in the superior court of the county in which any or all of such personal estate is situated; no mortgage shall be made until approved by the judge of the court, nor shall the same be valid, nor any conveyance of the title made, unless confirmed and directed by the judge, and the proceeds of the sale or mortgage shall be exclusively applied and secured to such purposes and on such trusts as the judge shall specify. The guardian may not mortgage the property of his ward for a term of years in excess of the term fixed by the court in its decree. The word "mortgage" whenever used herein shall be construed to include deeds in trust. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to divest the court of the power to order private sales as heretofore ordered in proper cases. The procedure for a sale pursuant to this section shall be provided by article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes. (Rev., s. 1798; Code, s. 1602; R. C., c. 54, ss. 32, 33; 1827, c. 33; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 39; 1917, c. 258, s. 1; 1923, c. 67, s. 1; 1945, c. 426, s. 1; c. 1084, s. 1; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 2180.)

Editor's Note.—
The first 1945 amendment, as changed by the second 1945 amendment, added that part of the first sentence beginning with the words "all petitions filed" in line thirteen and ending with the last semi-colon.

The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, struck out the words "sale or", formerly appearing before the word "mortgage" in line twenty-three, and added the last sentence. For brief comment on the amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 458.

For act validating proceedings instituted by guardian relating to estate of ward under provisions of this chapter, see Session Laws 1945, c. 426, s. 8.

§ 33-31.1. Procedure when real estate lies in county in which guardian does not reside.—In all cases where a guardian is appointed under the authority of chapter thirty-three and chapter thirty-five of the General Statutes of North Carolina, and such guardian applies to the court for an order to sell or mortgage all or some part of his ward's real estate, and such real estate is situated in a county other than the county in which the guardian is appointed and qualified, it shall be the duty of the guardian to first apply to the clerk of the court of the county in which he was appointed and qualified for an order showing that the sale or mortgage of his ward's real estate is necessary, or that the interest of his ward would be materially promoted thereby. The clerk of the superior court to whom such application is made shall hear and pass upon the same and enter his findings and order as to whether or not said sale or mortgage of the ward's real estate is necessary, or would materially promote the interest of the ward, and said order and findings shall be certified to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the ward's land, or some part of same, is located and before whom any petition or application is filed for the sale of said land. Such findings and orders so certified shall be considered by the court or the clerk of the court along with all other evidence and circumstances in passing upon the petition in which an order is sought for the sale of said land. Before such findings and orders shall become effective the same shall be approved by the judge holding the courts of the district or by the resident judge. (1945, c. 426, s. 7; 1949, c. 724, ss. 1-3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment inserted the references to the estate of the ward being materially promoted and added the last sentence.

§ 33-33. Sale of ward's estate to make assets.—When a guardian has notice of a debt or demand against the estate of his ward, he may apply by petition, setting forth the facts, to the clerk of the superior court, for an order to sell so much of the personal or real estate as may be sufficient to discharge such debt or demand; and the order of the court shall particularly specify what property is to be sold and the terms of the sale; the procedure shall be as provided by article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes; all petitions filed under the authority of this section wherein an order is sought for the sale of a ward's real estate or both real and personal property shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which all or any part of the real estate is situated; if the order of sale demanded in the petition is for the sale of the ward's personal estate, the petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of superior court of the county in which all or any of said personal estate is situated. The proceeds of sale under this section shall be considered as assets in the hands of the guardian for the benefit of creditors, in like manner as assets in the hands of a personal representative; and the same proceedings may be had against the guardian with respect to such assets as might be taken against an executor, administrator or collector in similar cases. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to divest the court of the power to order private sales as heretofore ordered in proper cases. (Rev., ss. 1800, 1801; Code, ss. 1604, 1605; R. C., c. 54, s. 34; 1789, c. 311, s. 5; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 41, 42; 1945, c. 426, s. 2; c. 1084, s. 2; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 2182.)

Cross Reference.—See § 33-31.1.

Editor's Note.—The first 1945 amendment struck out the words "wherein the guardianship was granted" formerly appearing after the word "court" in line four. And the amendment, as changed by the second 1945 amendment, inserted that part of the first sentence beginning with the word "all" in line ten.

The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, inserted the words "the procedure shall be as provided by article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes", beginning in line eight. It also struck out the former last clause of the first sentence relating to the revision and confirmation of the order of sale.

§ 33-34. To sell perishable goods on order of clerk.—Every guardian shall sell, by order of the clerk of the superior court, all such goods and chattels of his ward as may be liable to perish or be the worse for keeping. The procedure for the sale shall be as provided by article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes. (Rev., s. 1787; Code, s. 1589; R. C., c. 54, s. 22; 1762, c. 69, s. 10; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 26; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 2170.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, rewrote the second sentence.

Art. 4A. Guardians' Deeds Validated When Seal Omitted.

§ 33-35.1. Deeds by guardians omitting seal, prior to Jan. 1st, 1944, validated.—All deeds executed prior to the first day of January, 1944, by any guardian, acting under authority obtained by him from the superior court as required by law, in which the guardian has omitted to affix his seal after his signature and/or has omitted to affix the seal after the signature of his ward shall be good and valid, and shall pass the title to the land which the guardian was authorized to convey: Provided, however, this section shall not apply to any pending litigation. (1947, c. 531.)

Art. 5. Returns and Accounting.

Counsel Fees.—

The employment of counsel for legal advice and assistance in connection with the administration of the wards' estate is a proper expense to be charged in the guardian's account, if in reasonable amount, and for the benefit of the wards. Maryland Cas. Co. v. Lawing, 225 N. C. 103, 108, 33 S. E. (2d) 609.

Where the interests of the guardian and wards are antagonistic and the services rendered by the attorney are in the interest of the former rather than the latter the obligation to pay therefor is the individual liability of the guardian. Maryland Cas. Co. v. Lawing, 225 N. C. 103, 108, 33 S. E. (2d) 609, citing Lightner v. Boone, 221 N. C. 78, 88, 19 S. E. (2d) 144.

§ 33-42.1. Guardian required to exhibit statements.—At the time the accounts required by this article or other provisions of law are filed, the clerk of the superior court shall require the guardian to exhibit to the court all investments and bank statements showing cash balance, and the clerk of superior court shall certify on the original account that an examination was made of all investments and the cash balance, and that the same are correctly stated in the account. (1947, c. 596.)

Art. 7. Foreign Guardians.

The petition and proceeding prescribed by this section are jurisdictional, in order to authorize the transfer of the funds of an infant domiciled in this state to a guardian in another state; and an order, by the judge of the Superior Court or clerk, for its transfer otherwise is void. State v. Sawyer, 223 N. C. 102, 25 S. E. (2d) 443.

§ 33-49. Contents of petition; parties defendant.—The petitioner must show to the court a copy of his appointment as guardian and bond duly authenticated, and must prove to the court that the bond is sufficient, as well in the ability of the sureties as in the sum mentioned therein, to secure all the estate of the ward wherever situated: Provided, that in all cases where a banking institution, resident and doing business in a foreign state, is a guardian of any person or infant, and such banking institution is not required to execute a bond to qualify as guardian under the laws of the state wherein said guardian qualified and was appointed guardian of such infant, or infants, and no sureties are or were required by the state in which said banking institution qualified as guardian, and this fact affirmatively appears to the court, then the personal property and estate of such infant, or other person, may be removed from this state without the finding of a court with reference to any sureties, and the court in which the petition for the removal of the property of the ward is filed may order the transfer and removal of the property of the ward, and the payment and delivery of the same to the nonresident guardian of said ward without regard to whether a nonresident guardian has filed a bond with sureties; and the finding of the court that the said guardian is a banking institution and has duly qualified and been appointed guardian of said ward under the laws of the state where said ward, or wards, is or are residents, shall be sufficient. Any person may be made a party defendant to the proceeding who may be made a party defendant in civil actions under the provisions of the chapter entitled Civil Procedure. (Rev., ss. 1817, 1818; Code, ss. 1599, 1600; R. C., c. 54, s. 30; 1820, c. 1044, s. 2; 1842, c. 38; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 36, 37; 1949, c. 253; C. S. 2196.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the proviso at the end of the first sentence. For brief account of amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 458.

§ 33-49.1. Transfer of guardianship.—When any ward, mental defective, or mentally disordered person, for whom a guardian or trustee has been appointed, lives in a county in this state other than the county in which letters were issued to such guardian or in which such trustee was appointed, the trustee or guardian may, by petition filed with the clerk of court of the county in which letters were issued or in which he was appointed, transfer the guardianship or trusteeship to the county of the residence of the ward, mental defective or mentally disordered person. Upon the removal of such guardianship or trusteeship, the clerk of the court of the county to which it is removed shall have the same powers and authority as he would have had if he had originally issued the letters of guardianship or appointed the trustee, and all reports and accounts required by law to be filed by the guardian or trustee shall be filed with the clerk of the court of the county to which such guardianship or trusteeship is removed. (1945, c. 194.)

Art. 9. Guardians of Estates of Missing Persons.

Purpose of Article.—This article was enacted to provide for the preservation and protection of the estate of a person who has disappeared from the community of his residence and whose whereabouts has been unknown for three months or more and cannot, after diligent inquiry, be ascertained. Carter v. Lilley, 227 N. C. 435, 436, 42 S. E. (2d) 610.

It relates solely to estates of living persons, and where in a proceeding thereunder the court finds that the missing person is dead under the presumption of death arising from seven years' absence, the administration of the estate of such missing person becomes a matter for the probate court and proceedings under the statute are coram non judice. Carter v. Lilley, 227 N. C. 435, 42 S. E. (2d) 610.

Art. 10. Conservators of Estates of Missing Persons.

§ 33-63. Appointment of conservators for property of certain persons reported missing, etc.—Whenever a person, hereinafter referred to as an absentee, has been reported missing, or interned in a neutral country or beleaguered, besieged or captured by an enemy, and he has an interest in any form of property in this state and has not provided an adequate power of attorney authorizing another to act in his behalf in regard to such property or interest, the clerk of the superior court of the county of such absentee's legal domicile or of the county where such property is situated, upon petition alleging the foregoing facts and showing the necessity for providing care of the property of such absentee made by any person who would have an interest in the property of the absentee were such absentee deceased, after notice to, or on receipt of proper waivers from the heirs and next of kin of the absentee as provided by law for the administration of an estate, and upon good cause being shown, may, after finding the facts to be as aforesaid, appoint any suitable person a conservator to take charge of the absentee's estate, under the supervision and subject to the further orders of the court. (1945, c. 469, s. 1.)

§ 33-64. Surety bond required; powers and duties.—The conservator shall post a surety bond in the same amount and under the same conditions as is required of guardians under the general guardianship laws of North Carolina, and shall possess the same powers and authority, and be subject to the same duties and requirements of guardians generally in this state. (1945, c. 469, s. 2.)

§ 33-65. Clerk may require provision for dependents.—The clerk of the superior court, if petitioned for that purpose by any interested person, may, if he finds it proper to do so, require the conservator to make ample and suitable provisions out of the estate in his hands for the support of the wife or husband and infant children of such absentee, as well as any other person dependent upon such absentee for support and maintenance. (1945, c. 469, s. 3.)

§ 33-66. Termination of conservatorship.—At any time upon petition signed by the absentee, or on petition of an attorney in fact acting under an adequate power of attorney granted by the absentee, the court shall direct the termination of the conservatorship and the transfer of all property held thereunder to the absentee or to the designated attorney in fact. Likewise, if at any time subsequent to the appointment of a conservator it shall appear that the absentee has died and an executor or administrator has been appointed for his estate, the court shall direct the termination of the conservatorship and the transfer of all property of the deceased absentee held thereunder to such executor or administrator. (1945, c. 469, s. 4.)

Art. 11. Guardians of Children of Service Men.

§ 33-67. Clerk of superior court to act as temporary guardian to receive and disburse allotments and allowances.—In all cases where a citizen of this state is serving in the armed forces of the United States and has made an allotment or allowance to his child, children or other minor dependents as provided by the war time allowances to Service Men's Dependents Act or any other act of Congress, and the mother of said child, children or other minor dependents or other person of lawful age designated in said allowance or allotment to receive such moneys and disburse them for the benefit of said minor dependents shall die or become mentally incompetent, and such person so serving in the armed forces of the United States shall be reported as missing in action or as a prisoner of war and shall be unable to designate another person to receive and disburse said allotment or allowance to said minor dependents; then and in such event the clerk of the superior court of the county of the legal residence of said service man or person serving in the armed forces of the United States, is hereby authorized and empowered to act as temporary guardian of such minor dependents for the purpose of receiving and disbursing such allotments and allowance funds for the benefit of such minor dependents. (1945, c. 735.)

Editor's Note.—The act from which this section was codified provides that it shall be retroactive in effect.

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment substituted in the next to the last sentence of this section the words "the North Carolina veterans commission" for the words "state service officer." As only this sentence was affected by the amendment the rest of the section is not set out.

§ 34-12. Compensation as 5 per cent; additional compensation; premiums on bonds.—Compensation payable to guardians shall not exceed 5 per cent of the income of the ward during any year. In the event of extraordinary services rendered by such guardian the court may, upon petition and after hearing thereon, authorize additional compensation therefor, payable from the estate of the ward. (1929, c. 33, s. 14; 1945, c. 723, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted the words "North Carolina Veterans Commission" for the words "State Service Officer."

For subsequent statute affecting this section, see § 34-14.1.

§ 34-14.1. Payment of pension funds to dependent relatives.—It shall be lawful for guardians of insane or incompetent persons who receive pensions or other benefits from the government of the United States of America on account of military service to pay to dependent relatives such an amount as shall be approved by the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction over said guardian, and when approved by a superior court judge.

The word "relative," as used herein, shall mean father, mother, brother, sister, nephew, niece, uncle, aunt, or any other relative, who, prior to appointment of said guardian, received any part of their maintenance from said ward. (1945, c. 479, ss. 1, 2.)

(1929, c. 33, s. 15; 1945, c. 723, s. 2.)

Art. 1. Definitions.

Editor's Note.—Prior to Session Laws 1945, c. 952, s. 1, the title of this chapter was "Insane Persons and Incompetents."

§ 35-1.1. Definitions of mental disease, mental defective, etc.—The words "mental disease," "mental disorder" and "mental illness" shall mean an illness which so lessens the capacity of the person to use his customary self-control, judgment, and discretion in the conduct of his affairs and social relations as to make it necessary or advisable for him to be under treatment, care, supervision, guidance, or control. The terms shall be construed to include "lunacy," "unsoundness of mind," and "insanity."

A "mental defective" shall mean a person who is not mentally ill but whose mental development is so retarded that he has not acquired enough self-control, judgment, and discretion to manage himself and his affairs, and for whose own welfare or that of others, supervision, guidance, care, or control is necessary or advisable. The term shall be construed to include "feeble-minded" "idiot," and "imbecile," (1945, c. 952, s. 2.)

Art. 2. Guardianship and Management of Estates of Incompetents.

§ 35-2. Inquisition of lunacy; appointment of guardian.—Any person, in behalf of one who is deemed a mental defective, inebriate, or mentally disordered, or incompetent from want of understanding to manage his own affairs by reason of the excessive use of intoxicating drinks, or other cause, may file a petition before the clerk of the superior court of the county where such supposed mental defective, inebriate or mentally disordered person resides, setting forth the facts, duly verified by the oath of the petitioner; whereupon such clerk shall issue an order, upon notice to the supposed mental defective, inebriate or mentally disordered person, to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to summon a jury of twelve men to inquire into the state of such supposed mental defective, inebriate or mentally disordered person. Upon the return of the sheriff summoning said jury, the clerk of the superior court shall swear and organize said jury and shall preside over said hearing, and the jury shall make return of their proceedings under their hand to the clerk, who shall file and record the same; and he shall proceed to appoint a guardian of any person so found to be a mental defective, inebriate, mentally disordered, or incompetent person by inquisition of a jury, as in cases of orphans.

Either the applicant or the supposed mental defective, inebriate, mentally disordered, or incompetent person may appeal from the finding of said jury to the next term of the superior court, when the matters at issue shall be regularly tried de novo before a jury, and pending such appeal, the clerk of the superior court shall not appoint a guardian for the said supposed mental defective, inebriate, mentally disordered, or incompetent person, but the resident judge of the district, or the judge presiding in the district, may in his discretion appoint a temporary receiver for the alleged incompetent pending the appeal. The trial of said appeal in the superior court shall have precedence over all other causes.

The jury shall make return of their proceedings under their hands to the clerk, who shall file and record the same; and he shall proceed to appoint a guardian of any person so found to be a mental defective, inebriate, mentally disordered or incompetent person by inquisition of a jury as in cases of orphans. If the person so adjudged incompetent shall be an inebriate within the definition of § 35-1, the clerk shall proceed to commit said inebriate to the department for inebriates at the state hospital in Raleigh for treatment and cure. He shall forward to the superintendent of said state hospital a copy of the record required herein to be made, together with the commitment, and these shall constitute the authority to said superintendent to receive and care for such said inebriate. The expenses of the care and cure of said inebriate shall constitute a charge against the estate in the care of his guardian. If, however, such estate is not large enough to pay such expenses, the same shall be a valid charge against the county from which said inebriate is sent. Provided, where the person is found to be incompetent from want of understanding to manage his affairs, by reason of physical and mental weakness on account of old age and/or disease and/or other like infirmities, the clerk may appoint a trustee instead of guardian for said person. The trustee appointed shall be subject to the laws now or which hereafter may be enacted for the control and handling of estates by guardians. The clerks of the superior courts who have heretofore appointed guardians for persons described in this proviso are hereby authorized and empowered to change said appointment from guardian to trustee. The sheriffs of the several counties to whom a process is directed under the provisions of this section shall serve the same without demanding their fees in advance. And the juries of the several counties upon whom a process is served under the provisions of this section shall serve and make their returns without demanding their fees in advance. (Rev., s. 1890; Code, s. 1670; C. C. P., s. 473; 1919, c. 54; 1921, c. 156, s. 1; 1929, c. 203, s. 1; 1933, c. 192; 1945, c. 952, s. 3; C. S. 2285.)

Local Modification.—Guilford: 1945, c. 102.

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment substituted "mental defective" for "idiot" and "mentally disordered" and "mentally disordered person" for "lunatic."

Mental incapacity is only cause for appointment of a guardian under this section. The section does not make physical incapacity alone, however complete, grounds for such appointment. The court is authorized to step in and delegate the power to manage the property of another only when that person has lost his mental capacity to do so in his own behalf. Goodson v. Lehmon, 224 N. C. 616, 31 S. E. (2d) 756.

Review by Superior Court Where Incompetent Judged Competent.—Where a person has been adjudged incompetent, under this section, and a trustee of his property appointed, and thereafter, upon petition before the clerk under § 35-4, by the person so adjudged incompetent, after his trustee or guardian has been made a party as required, he is found competent by a jury and is so adjudged by the clerk, the Superior Court has power to review the matter, on application of the trustee or guardian, and it would seem that the procedure provided in this section on appeal might appropriately be followed, although certiorari would ordinarily be proper. In re Jeffress, 223 N. C. 273, 25 S. E. (2d) 845.

Cited in McNeill v. McNeill, 223 N. C. 178, 25 S. E. (2d) 615.

§ 35-2.1. Guardian appointed when issues answered by jury in any case.—When a jury in the trial of any civil or criminal case shall find, in answer to appropriate issues, that a person is insane or without sufficient mental capacity to conduct business, it shall have the same effect as an adjudication before the clerk of the superior court and the clerk may forthwith appoint a guardian or trustee for the person so adjudged insane or incompetent. (1945, c. 96.)

§ 35-3.1. Ancillary guardian for insane or incompetent nonresident having real property in state.—Whenever it shall appear by petition, application, and due proof to the satisfaction of any clerk of the superior court of North Carolina that:

(1) There is real property situate in the county of said clerk in which a nonresident of the state of North Carolina has an interest or estate;

(2) That said nonresident is insane or incompetent and that a guardian has been appointed and is still serving for him or her in the state of his or her residence; and

(3) That such incompetent or insane non-resident has no guardian in the state of North Carolina;

Such clerk of the superior court before whom such petition, application and satisfactory proof is made shall thereupon be fully authorized and empowered to appoint in his county an ancillary guardian, which guardian shall have all the powers, duties and responsibilities with respect to the estate of said insane person, or incompetent, in the state of North Carolina as guardians otherwise appointed now have; and such ancillary guardian shall annually make an accounting to the court in this state and remit to the guardian in the state of the ward's residence any net rents of said real estate, or any proceeds of sale, to the guardian of the state of residence of said insane person, or incompetent.

A transcript of the record of any court of record appointing a guardian of a nonresident in the state of his residence shall be conclusive proof of the fact of incompetency or insanity and of the appointment of such guardian of the residence of the insane person or incompetent. Provided, that such transcript shall show that such guardianship is still in effect in the state of the ward's residence, and that the incompetency of the ward still exists.

Upon the appointment of an ancillary guardian in this state under this article, the clerk of the superior court shall forthwith notify the clerk of the superior court of the county of the ward's residence, and shall also notify the guardian in the state of the ward's residence. (1949, c. 986.)

Editor's Note.—For brief comment on this section, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 457.

§ 35-4. Restoration to sanity or sobriety; effect; how determined; appeal.

The petitioner may appeal from the finding of said jury to the next term of the superior court, when the matters at issue shall be regularly tried de novo before a jury. (Rev., s. 1893; Code, s. 1672; 1901, c. 191; 1903, c. 80; 1879, c. 324, s. 4; 1937, c. 311; 1941, c. 145; 1949, c. 124; C. S. 2287.)

Local Modification.—Guilford: 1945, c. 102.

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the above sentence at the end of the section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Appeal.—

On petition before the clerk under § 35-2, to declare a person incompetent from want of understanding to manage his affairs, which may be filed by any person in behalf of the one deemed incompetent, either petitioner or respondent is permitted to appeal from the finding of the jury to the next term of the Superior Court, when the matters at issue are to be regularly tried de novo before a jury. Conversely, no such right of appeal is provided by this section, when the preceding is for restoration to competency. In re Jeffress, 223 N. C. 273, 274, 25 S. E. (2d) 845.

§ 35-4.1. Discharge of guardian by clerk on testimony of one or more practicing physicians. — When any person for whom a guardian has been appointed by reason of his commitment to and confinement in a state hospital or private hospital for mental cases or state school for the feeble-minded shall have been discharged from that commitment by the hospital or school, he may petition, or in his behalf his natural or legal guardian or any interested responsible person may petition, the clerk of superior court of the county of his residence or the clerk of superior court of the county in which the guardian was appointed for the discharge of such guardian. The guardian shall be notified thereupon and made a party to such action, which shall be held in, or transferred to, if requested by the guardian, the county in which the guardian was appointed.

The clerk shall hold a hearing, which at the option of the petitioner may be without jury, and shall appoint one or more licensed physicians to examine the person in question and to make an affidavit as to his mental state and competency to conduct his business, make contracts and sell property. If the hearing is before a jury and the jury determines that such person is competent, or if the hearing is without a jury and the clerk determines that such person is competent on the basis of evidence presented by the interested parties and the medical affidavits, the clerk shall discharge the guardian, and the person shall be able to conduct his affairs and business, make contracts, and transfer property as if he never had been committed or declared incompetent. When any such determination by the jury or the clerk, in the absence of a jury, is adverse to the person in whose behalf such petition has been presented, such petitioner may appeal from the finding of said jury or clerk to the next term of the superior court, when the matters at issue shall be regularly tried de novo before a jury. (1947, c. 537, s. 22; 1949, c. 124.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote the second paragraph.

§ 35-4.2. Restoration of rights of mentally disordered persons where no guardian had been appointed.—When any person who shall have been committed to a state hospital or state school for the feeble-minded or to a private hospital for mental cases and for whom no guardian has been appointed shall have been discharged from that commitment, he may petition or in his behalf any interested person may petition the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such person has residence for the restoration of any rights of which he may have been deprived by his commitment.

The clerk shall then hold a hearing, which at the option of the petitioner may be without jury, and shall appoint one or more licensed physicians to examine the person in question, and to make an affidavit as to his mental state and competency to conduct his business, make contracts, and sell property. On the basis of evidence presented by the person and the medical affidavit or affidavits the clerk shall determine the competency of the person and may if it is deemed proper issue an order restoring any rights of which the person may have been deprived by his commitment. (1947, c. 537, s. 23.)

Art. 3. Sales of Estates.

§ 35-10. Clerk may order sale, renting or mortgage.—When it appears to any clerk of the superior court by report of the guardian of any mental defective, inebriate or mentally disordered person, that his personal estate has been exhausted, or is insufficient for his support, and that he is likely to become chargeable on the county, the clerk may make an order for the sale, mortgage or renting of his personal or real estate, or any part thereof, in such manner and upon such terms as he may deem advisable. The procedure for any sale made pursuant to this section shall be as provided by article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes. Any order made under the authority of this section for the sale, mortgage or renting of real estate, or both real and personal property, shall be made by and all proceedings shall be had before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which all or any part of the real estate is situated; if the order applied for is for the sale, mortgage or renting of personal property, then said order may be made and the proceedings may be had before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which all or any part of the personal property is situated; such order shall specify particularly the property thus to be disposed of, with the terms of renting or sale or mortgage, and shall be entered at length on the records of the court and all sales and rentings and conveyances by mortgages or deeds in trust made under this section shall be valid to convey the interest and estate directed to be sold or conveyed by mortgage or deed in trust, and the title thereof shall be conveyed by a commissioner to be appointed by the clerk; or the clerk may direct the guardian to file his petition for such purpose. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to divest the court of the power to order private sales as heretofore ordered in proper cases. (Rev., s. 1896; Code, s. 1674; R. C., c. 57, s. 4; 1801, c. 589; 1931, c. 184, s. 1; 1945, c. 426, s. 3; c. 952, s. 4; c. 1084, s. 3; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 2291.)

Editor's Note.—

The first 1945 amendment inserted that part of the third sentence ending with the second semi-colon, and substituted near the end of the sentence the words "a commissioner to be appointed by the clerk" for the words "such person as the clerk may appoint on confirming the sale." The second 1945 amendment substituted, in the first sentence, "mental defective" for "idiot" and "mentally disordered person" for "lunatic." The third 1945 amendment added the last sentence.

The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, inserted the second sentence.

See § 33-31.1.

For act validating proceedings instituted by guardian relating to estate of ward under provisions of this chapter see Session Laws 1945, c. 426, s. 8.

§ 35-11. Purposes for which estate sold or mortgaged; parties; disposition of proceeds.—When it appears to the clerk, upon the petition of the guard ian of any mental defective, inebriate or mentally disordered person, that a sale or mortgage of any part of his real or personal estate is necessary for his maintenance, or for the discharge of debts unavoidably incurred for his maintenance, or when the clerk is satisfied that the interest of the mental defective, inebriate or mentally disordered person would be materially and essentially promoted by the sale or mortgage of any part of such estate; or when any part of his real estate is required for public purposes, the clerk may order a sale thereof to be made by such person, in such way and on such terms as he shall adjudge. The clerk, if it be deemed proper, may direct to be made parties to such petition the next of kin or presumptive heirs of such person with mental disorder or inebriate. And if on the hearing the clerk orders such sale or mortgage, the same shall be made and the proceeds applied and secured, and shall descend and be distributed in like manner as is provided for the sale of infants' estates decreed in like cases to be sold on application of their guardians, as directed in the chapter entitled Guardian and Ward. The word "mortgage" whenever used herein shall be construed to include deeds in trust. All petitions filed under the authority of this section wherein an order is sought for the sale or mortgage of real estate, both real and personal property, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which all or any part of the real estate is situated; if the order of sale sought in the petition is for the sale or mortgage of personal property, the petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which any or all of such personal property is situated. The procedure for any sale made pursuant to this section shall be provided by article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes. (Rev., s. 1897; Code, s. 1675; R. C., c. 57, s. 5; 1931, c. 184, s. 2; 1945, c. 426, s. 4; c. 952, s. 5; c. 1084, s. 4; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 2292.)

Editor's Note.—The first 1945 amendment, as changed by the third 1945 amendment, added the next to last sentence. The second 1945 amendment substituted, in the first sentence, "mental defective" for "idiot" and "mentally disordered person" for "lunatic." And it substituted "person with mental disorder" for "nonsane person" in the second sentence.

The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, added the last sentence.

§ 35-12. Sale of land of wife of lunatic upon petition.—Where the wife of a lunatic owns real estate in her own right the sale of which will promote her interest, a sale of the same may be made upon the order of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the land lies, upon the petition of the wife of said lunatic and the guardian of the lunatic husband, and the proceeds of said sale shall be paid to the wife of said lunatic. The procedure for any sale made pursuant to this section shall be as provided by article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes. (Rev., s. 1898; Code, s. 1687; 1881, c. 361; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 2293.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, added the second sentence.

Editor's Note.—

The first 1945 amendment, as changed by the second 1945 amendment, added the above sentence at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendments it is not set out.

§ 35-31. Petition for examination; warrant for hearing; action without petition; evidence; confinement; time and notice of hearing.

If the petition or supplemental affidavit, filed pursuant to this section, states that the alleged inebriate's condition is such as to endanger either himself or others, or if the sheriff or other person serving the warrant, or the clerk who issued the warrant, believes that the alleged inebriate's condition is such as to endanger either himself or others, the clerk may order that such inebriate be confined in the county jail, or in a place specifically designed for the care and confinement of such persons, until he is judicially declared to be or not to be an inebriate and, if found to be an inebriate, until he (or she) is accepted as a patient in the proper state institution or until he is otherwise discharged according to law.

The hearing before the clerk of the superior court shall be held at the courthouse at such time and upon such notice to the alleged inebriate, as the clerk may determine. (1921, c. 156, s. 3; 1941, c. 226; 1949, c. 980; C. S. 2304(b).)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the above two paragraphs at the end of this section. As the original section was not changed it is not set out.

§ 35-35.1. Commitment of inebriates for mental disorders.—Whenever an inebriate under a commitment to the state hospital at Raleigh is found to be suffering from a mental disorder he may be committed as a mentally disordered person by having two physicians not connected with the state hospital at Raleigh examine him at the request of the superintendent of the state hospital at Raleigh, without removing said inebriate and alleged mentally disordered person from the state hospital. If these said two physicians find that the inebriate is mentally disordered, they shall sign the usual affidavit for commitment of an individual as mentally disordered and forward same to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the inebriate is settled: whereupon the said clerk of court may declare the said person committed to the proper hospital as a mentally disordered person as provided in this chapter. Upon adjudication the superintendent shall notify the sheriff of the county in which the alleged mentally disordered person is settled, and it shall be said sheriff's duty to convey the mentally disordered person to the proper hospital. (1945, c. 952, s. 6.)

Art. 7. Sterilization of Persons Mentally Defective.

§ 35-40.1. Eugenics board authorized to accept gifts.—The eugenics board of North Carolina is hereby authorized and empowered to accept gifts from any source to be used by the board for the furtherance of the purposes for which said board was created. (1945, c. 784.)

§ 35-44. Copy of petition served on patient.—(a) A copy of said petition, duly certified by the secretary of the said board to be correct, must be served upon the inmate, patient or individual resident, together with a notice in writing signed by the secretary of the said board designating the time and place not less than twenty days before the presentation of such petition to said board when and where said board will hear and pass upon such petition. It shall be sufficient service if the copy of said petition and notice in writing be delivered to said inmate, patient or individual resident, and it shall not be necessary to read the above mentioned document to said patient, inmate or individual resident.

(b) A copy of said petition, duly certified to be correct, and the said notice must also be served upon the legal or natural guardian or next of kin of the inmate, patient or individual resident.

(c) If there is no next of kin, or if next of kin cannot after due and diligent search be found, or if there be no known legal or natural guardian of said inmate, patient or individual resident and the said inmate, patient or individual resident is of such mental condition as not to be competent reasonably to conduct his own affairs, then the said prosecutor shall petition the clerk of the superior court or the resident judge of the district or the judge presiding at a term of superior court of the county in which the inmate, patient or individual resident resides, who shall appoint some suitable person to act as guardian ad litem of the said inmate, patient or individual resident during and for the purpose of proceedings under this article, to defend the rights and interests of the said inmate, patient or individual resident. And such guardian ad litem shall be served likewise with a copy of the aforesaid petition and notice, and shall under all circumstances be given at least twenty days' notice of said hearing. Such guardian ad litem may be removed or discharged at any time by the said court or the judge thereof either in term or in vacation and a new guardian ad litem appointed and substituted in his place.

(d) If the said inmate, patient or individual resident be under twenty-one years of age and has a living parent or parents whose names and addresses are known or can by reasonable investigation be learned by said prosecutor, they or either of them, as the case may be, shall be served likewise with a copy of said petition and notice and shall be entitled to at least twenty days' notice of the said hearing: Provided, that the procedure described in this section shall not be necessary in the case of any operation for sterilization or asexualization provided for in this article if the parent, legal or natural guardian, or spouse or next of kin of the inmate, patient or non-institutional individual shall submit to the superintendent of the institution of which the subject is a patient or inmate, or to the superintendent of public welfare of the county in which this subject is residing, regardless of whether the subject is a legal resident of such county, a duly witnessed petition requesting that sterilization or asexualization be performed upon said inmate, patient or non-institutional individual, provided the other provisions of this article are complied with. Any operation authorized in accordance with this proviso may be performed immediately upon receipt of the authorization from the eugenics board. (1933, c. 224, s. 9; 1935, c. 463, ss. 3, 6; 1947, c. 93.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote this section.

Art. 8. Temporary Care and Restraint of Inebriates, Drug Addicts and Persons Insane.

§ 35-58. Hospitals and sanatoriums may restrain and treat alcohol and drug addicts.

Action for Abuse of Void Process.—Plaintiff alleged that she had been received in defendant's institution on the authority of a letter from one who claimed to have been appointed her guardian and that she was detained for a longer period than 20 days. It was also alleged that the entire proceeding "was totally null and void" and later was so determined by the courts. It was held that plaintiff could not be permitted to maintain, as against demurrer, a cause of action for abuse of process upon allegation that the process was totally null and void. McCartney v. Appalachian Hall, Inc., 230 N. C. 60, 51 S. E. (2d) 886.

Art. 9. Mental Health Council.

§ 35-61. Creation of council; membership; chairman.—There is hereby created a mental health council to be composed of the following persons: The superintendent of mental hygiene, the chairman of the North Carolina hospitals board of control, the commissioner of public welfare, the director of the division of psychiatric and psychological services of the state board of public welfare, the general business manager for institutions, the state public health officer, a representative of the North Carolina clerks of court association, the superintendent of the North Carolina state board of public instruction, the commissioner of correctional institutions, the psychiatric advisor on the advisory panel of medical specialists for the physical restoration program of the division of vocational rehabilitation of the North Carolina state board of public instruction, a representative of the medical society of the state of North Carolina, a representative of the North Carolina neuropsychiatric association, a representative of the North Carolina mental hygiene society, a representative of the department of psychiatry of each of the four-year medical schools in the state.

The mental health council shall choose its own chairman. (1945, c. 952, s. 61.)

§ 35-62. Functions; meetings; annual report.—The function of the mental health council shall be to consider ways and means to promote mental health in North Carolina and to study needs for new legislation pertaining to mental health of the citizens of the state. The council shall meet at least twice a year and shall file an annual report with the governor. (1945, c. 952, s. 61.)

§ 35-63. Members not state officers. — The members of the mental health council shall not be considered as state officers within the meaning of article XIV, section seven of the North Carolina constitution. (1945, c. 952, s. 61.)

Local Modification.—Forsyth: 1945, c. 876, s. 4.

§ 36-4. Investment in registered securities.— Any guardian or trustee having in hand surplus funds belonging to a minor ward, incompetent person, or persons non compos mentis, may, if he so elects, invest the same in registered securities within the classes designated by §§ 36-1 and 36-2, the registration of said securities as to principal only to be in the name of said minor ward, incompetent person, or persons non compos mentis.

Upon delivery of such registered securities to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the estate of said minor ward, incompetent person, or persons non compos mentis, is being administered, said clerk of the superior court shall give said guardian or trustee a receipt for the same and said clerk of the superior court shall thereafter hold said securities for said ward, incompetent person, or person non compos mentis, subject only to final disposition thereof to be approved by the resident judge or presiding judge of the superior court: Provided, however, all income accruing therefrom shall be paid to said guardian or trustee in the same manner and for the same purposes as any other income of said estate derived from other sources.

Whenever any guardian or trustee shall have delivered to the clerk of the superior court registered securities as hereinbefore provided, he shall be entitled to credit in his account as guardian or trustee for the amount actually expended for such securities, and his bond as such guardian or trustee shall thereupon be reduced in an amount equal in proportion to the total amount of the bond as the funds expended for the securities are to the total amount of the estate covered by such bond. (1935, c. 449; 1943, c. 96; 1945, c. 713.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment made this section applicable to trustees and incompetent persons.

§ 36-5.1. Employee trusts.—Pension, profit sharing, stock bonus, annuity or other employee trusts established by employers for the purpose of distributing the income and principal thereof to some or all of their employees, or the beneficiaries of such employees, shall not be invalid as violating any laws or rules against perpetuities or restraints on the power of alienation of title to property; but such trusts may continue for such period of time as may be required by the provisions thereof to accomplish the purposes for which they are established. (1945, c. 8.)

Art. 4. Charitable Trusts.

The rule against perpetuities does not apply to charitable trusts. American Trust Co. v. Williamson, 228 N. C. 458, 46 S. E. (2d) 104.

Devise Giving Trustees Power to Convey.—A devise of property in trust subject to an intervening life estate, with direction to the trustees to keep the principal invested and use the proceeds for purposes designated, gives the trustees the power to convey the real estate in fee, since the right to invest and use the proceeds necessarily implies the power to convert into proceeds by sale. Hall v. Wardwell, 228 N. C. 562, 46 S. E. (2d) 556.

§ 36-23.1. Gifts, etc., for religious, educational, charitable or benevolent uses or purposes.—1. Declaration of Policy.—It is hereby declared to be the policy of the state of North Carolina that gifts, transfers, grants, bequests, and devises for religious, educational, charitable, or benevolent uses or purposes, or for some or all of such uses or purposes, are and shall be valid, notwithstanding the fact that any such gift, transfer, grant, bequest, or devise shall be in general terms, and this section shall be construed liberally to effect the policy herein declared.

2. No Gift, Transfer, etc., Invalid for Indefiniteness.—No gift, transfer, grant, bequest, or devise of property or income, or both, in trust or otherwise, for religious, educational, charitable, or benevolent purposes, or for some or all of such purposes, is or shall be void or invalid because such gift, transfer, grant, bequest, or devise is in general terms, or is uncertain as to the specific purposes, objects, or beneficiaries thereof, or because the trustee, donee, transferee, grantee, legatee, or devisee, or some or all of them, is given no specific instructions, powers, or duties as to the manner or means of effecting such purposes. When any such gift, transfer, grant, bequest, or devise has been or shall be made in general terms the trustee, donee, transferee, grantee, legatee, or devisee, or other person, corporation, association, or entity charged with carrying such purposes into effect, shall have the right and power: to prescribe or to select from time to time one or more specific objects or purposes for which any trust or any property or income shall be held and administered; to select or to create the machinery for the accomplishment of such objects and purposes, selected as hereinabove provided, or as provided by the donor, transferor, grantor, or testator, including, by way of illustration but not of limitation, the accomplishment of such objects and purposes by the acts of such trustee or trustees, donee, transferee, grantee, legatee, or devisee, or their agents or servants, or by the creation of corporations or associations or other legal entities for such purpose, or by making grants to corporations, associations, or other organizations then existing, or to be organized, through and by which such purposes can or may be accomplished, or by some or all of the said means of accomplishment, or any other means of accomplishment not prohibited by law.

3. Enforcement.—Any gift, transfer, grant, bequest, or devise for religious, educational, charitable, or benevolent uses or purposes which is or shall be valid under the provisions of this section may be enforced in a suit for a writ of mandamus by the attorney general of the state of North Carolina in any court of the state having original jurisdiction in equity, and such court shall have the power to enter judgment requiring the trustee, donee, transferee, grantee, legatee, or devisee, as the case may be, to make such selection as may be required of the purposes for which the property or income, or both, shall be applied, and the means, method, and manner of applying the same. The remedy for enforcement as herein provided is in addition to any other means of enforcement now in existence or which may be hereafter provided for by act of the general assembly.

4. Construction with Other Acts.—This section is in addition to any prior act or acts of the general assembly adopted for the purpose of preserving and sustaining any gift, transfer, grant, bequest, or devise for religious, educational, charitable, or benevolent uses or purposes, and any such prior act or acts or any part thereof which will aid the provisions of this section in sustaining and preserving any such gift, transfer, grant, bequest, or devise shall be read and construed in conjunction herewith. (1947, c. 630, ss. 1-4.)

Editor's Note.—For discussion of this section, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 476. As to the doctrine of cy pres in North Carolina, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 591.

Art. 5. Uniform Trusts Act.

§ 36-29. Trustee selling from one trust to another trust.—No trustee shall as trustee of one trust sell property to itself as trustee of another trust: Provided, assets of trust held by any bank or trust company under the supervision of the state banking commission may be sold or transferred from one trust to another trust if such transfer is expressly authorized by the instrument creating the trust to which the transfer is made, or if such transfer is approved by the board of directors by unanimous vote at a regular meeting, such action being recorded in the minutes. (1939, c. 197, s. 6; 1945, c. 127, s. 3; c. 743 s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The first 1945 amendment added the proviso. The second 1945 amendment substituted "to" for "from" in line eight.

§ 36-32. Banks holding stock or bonds in name of nominee.—A bank holding stock or bonds as fiduciary may hold it in the name of a nominee, without mention of the trust in the stock or bonds certificate or stock or bonds registration book. Provided, that (1) the trust records and all reports or accounts rendered by the fiduciary clearly show the ownership of the stock or bonds by the fiduciary and the facts regarding its holdings; (2) the nominee shall not have possession of the stock or bonds certificate or access thereto except under the immediate supervision of the fiduciary. The fiduciary shall personally be liable for any loss to the trust resulting from any act of such nominee in connection with such stock or bonds so held. (1939, c. 197, s. 9; 1945, c. 292.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment inserted the word "or bonds" after the word "stock" wherever it appeared in this section.

Chapter 38. Boundaries.

Call for Named Corner Is Binding.—Plaintiffs in a processioning proceeding, under this chapter, are bound by the call in their deed for a named corner whether it be marked or unmarked. Cornelison v. Hammond, 224 N. C. 757, 32 S. E. (2d) 326.

Procedure.—In a processioning proceeding under this chapter, where the only issue is the true boundary line, plaintiffs, as a matter of right, are entitled to have that issue answered by jury so that controversy may be ended by judicial decree, as the statute is expressly designed to provide a means of settlement by an orderly proceeding in court. Cornelison v. Hammond, 225 N. C. 535, 35 S. E. (2d) 633.

Applied in Tice v. Winchester, 225 N. C. 673, 36 S. E. (2d) 257.

Cited in Kelly v. King, 225 N. C. 709, 36 S. E. (2d) 220.

A defense bond is not required in a special proceeding to establish boundaries. Roberts v. Sawyer, 229 N. C. 279, 49 S. E. (2d) 468.

Issue Is Location of Dividing Line.—In processioning proceeding under this chapter, when cause is heard on appeal, unless pleadings are complicated by other allegations, the only issue is, where is the true location of dividing line. Cornelison v. Hammond, 225 N. C. 535, 35 S. E. (2d) 633.

Proceeding Assimilated to Action to Quiet Title.—If tit becomes involved in a processioning proceeding, the proceeding becomes in effect an action to quiet title under § 41-1 Roberts v. Sawyer, 229 N. C. 279, 49 S. E. (2d) 468.

Same—Transfer to Civil Issue Docket.—Where in a speci proceeding under this chapter to establish a boundary lir the defendant denies by answer the petitioner's title a pleads twenty years' adverse possession (§ 1-40) as a d fense, the proceeding is assimilated to an action to qu title (§ 41-10) and the clerk, as directed by § 1-399, shou "transfer the cause to the civil issue docket for trial du ing term upon all issues raised by pleadings," in accordar with rules of practice applicable to such actions originally instituted. Simmons v. Lee, 230 N. C. 216, S. E. (2d) 79.

Same—Issues Raised—Waiver of Jury Trial.—Where a s cial proceeding to establish a boundary line is assi lated to an action to quiet title by the defendant's answ the issues raised by the pleadings are (1) whether petitior own the land described in his petition, and (2) as to location of the land so described. In such case if defe ant does not tender issues pertinent to the issues ab stated he waives his right to a trial by jury. Simmons Lee, 230 N. C. 216, 53 S. E. (2d) 79.

Same—Compulsory Reference—Exceptions Not Giving R to Jury Trial.—Where compulsory reference is ordered i special proceeding to establish a boundary line, upon fendant's denial of petitioners' title and plea of title twenty years adverse possession, defendant's exception to the order of reference and exceptions to findings of fact made by the referee do not entitle him to a jury trial when he tenders issues which relate only to questions of fact based upon his exceptions and fails to tender issues of fact which arise upon the pleadings and to relate such issues to his exceptions and to the findings by their respective numbers. Simmons v. Lee, 230 N. C. 216, 53 S. E. (2d) 79.

Cited in Roberts v. Sawyer, 229 N. C. 279, 49 S. E. (2d) 468.

Chapter 39. Conveyances.

Art. 1. Construction and Sufficiency.

Art. 2. Conveyances by Husband and Wife.

Art. 5A. Control Corners in Real Estate Developments.

Art. 1. Construction and Sufficiency.

§ 39-1. Fee presumed, though word "heirs" omitted.

Same Rule as for Construction of Devises.— Decisions construing § 31-38, pertaining to the construction of wills, are pertinent in construing this section, since the statutes are similar in wording and effect. Artis v. Artis, 228 N. C. 754, 47 S. E. (2d) 228.

A devise generally or indefinitely with power of disposition creates a fee. Hardee v. Rivers, 228 N. C. 66, 67, 44 S. E. (2d) 476.

Rejection of Repugnant Clause Where Granting Clause and Habendum Convey Fee.— Where the granting clause and the habendum convey the entire estate in fee simple, and the warranty is in harmony therewith, a clause in any other part of the instrument which undertakes to divest or limit the fee simple title will be rejected as repugnant to the estate and interest conveyed. Artis v. Artis, 228 N. C. 754, 47 S. E. (2d) 228; Pilley v. Smith, 230 N. C. 62, 51 S. E. (2d) 923.

Applied in Jackson v. Powell, 225 N. C. 599, 35 S. E. (2d) 892.

Application.— When land is described as adjoining or bounded by certain other tracts, and (1) there are certain other identifying terms such as "known as the A tract;" or (2) there are references to an identifiable muniment or source of title, such as the same land conveyed by B to C; or (3) the land is designated by such a term as the home place of D; or (4) adjoining landowners are named and it is shown that grantor has no other land in the vicinity which may be embraced within such bounds, the description is not void for vagueness and it may be aided by parol evidence. Peel v. Calais, 224 N. C. 421, 31 S. E. (2d) 440.

Editor's Note.— For comment on the 1943 amendment, see 21 N. C. Law Rev. 359.

1943 Amendment Is Constitutional.— Even though the statutory power of revocation of a voluntary conveyance of future interests in lands limited to persons not in esse be regarded as a vested right, the 1943 amendment to this section, giving the grantor six months after its effective date to exercise the right of revocation or to file notice of intention to do so, is a reasonable limitation, and therefore the application of the limitation of the amendment to deeds executed prior to its effective date is constitutional. Pinkham v. Unborn Children of Pinkham, 227 N. C. 72, 40 S. E. (2d) 690.

Power of Revocation Is Not a Vested Right.— The right to revoke a voluntary conveyance of future interests in lands limited to persons not in esse is a personal power and privilege created by this section and not a vested right within constitutional protection. Pinkham v. Unborn Children of Pinkham, 227 N. C. 72, 40 S. E. (2d) 690.

Power Rests Solely in the Grantor.— The power to revoke future interests conveyed by voluntary deeds to persons not in esse under the provisions of this section, rests solely in the grantor conveying such interests, and where deeds are executed by owner of lands to each of his children for the purpose of dividing his lands among them, the fact that each of the children joins in the deeds to the others gives them no right upon the death of the grantor to revoke the contingent limitation over to unborn children of one of them, since they cannot succeed the grantor in the power of revocation and are strangers to that power. Pinkham v. Unborn Children of Pinkham, 227 N. C. 72, 40 S. E. (2d) 690.

Equity Jurisdiction over Trusts Is Not Involved.— In determining the validity of a deed revoking a voluntary conveyance of future interests limited to persons not in esse, the equitable jurisdiction of the court over trust estates is not involved. Pinkham v. Unborn Children of Pinkham, 227 N. C. 72, 40 S. E. (2d) 690.

When Child "in Being".— Grantor executed deed to his son for life and then to his son's children in fee. Thereafter the grantor and the grantee undertook to revoke the restrictive provision in the deed and joined in conveying the title to a third person. A child was born of the marriage of the grantee in the original deed less than 280 days after the attempted revocation. It was held that the child was in esse at the time of the attempted revocation and therefore the revocation was ineffectual. For the purpose of capacity to take under a deed and for the purpose of inheritance, it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary that a child is in esse 280 days prior to its birth. Mackie v. Mackie, 230 N. C. 152, 52 S. E. (2d) 352.

A child born June 9, 1898, was "in being" within the meaning of this section on January 15, 1898. Id.

Applied, as to revocation within six months after effective date of 1943 amendment, in Kirkland v. Deck, 228 N. C. 439, 45 S. E. (2d) 538.

§ 39-6.1. Validation of deeds of revocation of conveyances of future interests to persons not in esse.

—All deeds or instruments heretofore executed, revoking any conveyance of future interest made to persons not in esse, are hereby validated insofar as any such deed of revocation may be in conflict with the provisions of General Statutes § 39-6.

All such deeds of revocation heretofore executed are hereby validated and no such deed of revocation shall be held to be invalid by reason of not having been executed within the six-month period prescribed in the third proviso of General Statutes § 39-6. (1947, c. 62.)

Editor's Note.— The act from which this section was codified became effective on February 11, 1947, and provided that its provisions shall not affect pending litigation.

Art. 2. Conveyances by Husband and Wife.

§ 39-7. Instruments affecting married woman's title; husband to execute. — Every conveyance, power of attorney, or other instrument affecting the estate, right or title of any married woman in lands, tenements or hereditaments must be executed by such married woman and her husband, and due proof or acknowledgment thereof must be made as to the husband and due proof or acknowledgment thereof must be made as to the wife, and such acknowledgment or proof as to the execution by the husband and such acknowledgment or proof as to the execution by the wife shall be taken and certified as provided by law. Any conveyance, power of attorney, contract to convey, mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument executed by any married woman in the manner by this chapter provided, and executed by her husband also, shall be valid in law to pass, bind or charge the estate, right, title and interest of such married woman in and to all such lands, tenements and hereditaments or other estate, real or personal, as shall constitute the subject matter or be embraced within the terms and conditions of such instrument or purport to be passed, bound, charged or conveyed thereby. (Rev., s. 952; Code, s. 1256; 1899, c. 235, s. 9; C. C. P., s. 429, subsec. 6; 1868-9, c. 277, s. 15; 1945, c. 73, s. 4; C. S. 997.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment omitted provisions relating to the private examination of the wife.

For repeal of laws requiring private examination of married women, see § 47-116.

§ 39-8. Acknowledgment at different times and places; before different officers; order immaterial. —In all cases of deeds, or other instruments executed by husband and wife and requiring registration, the probate of such instruments as to the husband and due proof or acknowledgment of the wife may be taken before different officers authorized by law to take probate of deeds, and at different times and places, whether both of said officials reside in this state or only one in this state and the other in another state or country. And in taking the probate of such instruments executed by husband and wife, it is immaterial whether the execution of the instrument was proven as to or acknowledged by the husband before or after due proof as to or acknowledgment of the wife. (Rev., s. 953; 1899, c. 235, s. 9; 1895, c. 136; 1945, c. 73, s. 5; C. S. 998.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment omitted provisions relating to the private examination of the wife.

For repeal of laws requiring private examination of married women, see § 47-116.

This section has no application to parol trusts, and does not prohibit their establishment by parol evidence. Thompson v. Davis, 223 N. C. 792, 794, 28 S. E. (2d) 556.

§ 39-9. Absence of wife's acknowledgment does not affect deed as to husband.—When an instrument purports to be signed by a husband and wife the instrument may be ordered registered, if the acknowledgment of the husband is duly taken, but no such instrument shall be the act or deed of the wife unless proven or acknowledged by her according to law. (Rev., s. 954; 1899, c. 235, s. 8; 1901, c. 637; 1945, c. 73, s. 6; C. S. 999.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment omitted provisions relating to the private examination of the wife.

For repeal of laws requiring private examination of married women, see § 47-116.

§ 39-11. Certain conveyances not affected by fraud if acknowledgment or privy examination regular.—No deed conveying lands nor any instrument required or allowed by law to be registered, executed by husband and wife since the eleventh of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, if the acknowledgment or private examination of the wife is thereto certified as prescribed by law, shall be invalid because its execution or acknowledgment was procured by fraud, duress or undue influence, unless it is shown that the grantee or person to whom the instrument was made participated in the fraud, duress or undue influence, or had notice thereof before the delivery of the instrument. Where such participation or notice is shown, an innocent purchaser for value under the grantee or person to whom the instrument was made shall not be affected by such fraud, duress or undue influence. (Rev., s. 956; 1889, c. 389; 1899, c. 235, s. 10; 1945, c. 73, s. 7; C. S. 1001.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment inserted the words "acknowledgment or" in line five.

For repeal of laws requiring private examination of married women, see § 47-116.

Applied, as to married woman's attack upon certificate of acknowledgment and privy examination, in Lee v. Rhodes, 230 N. C. 190, 52 S. E. (2d) 674.

§ 39-13.1. Validation of certain deeds, etc., executed by married women without private examination.—No deed, contract, conveyance, leasehold or other instrument executed since the seventh day of November, one thousand nine hundred and forty-four, shall be declared invalid because of the failure to take the private examination of any married woman who was a party to such deed, contract, conveyance, leasehold or other instrument. (1945, c. 73, s. 21½.)

Art. 3. Fraudulent Conveyances.

III. RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF PARTIES AND PURCHASERS.

Conveyance Is Valid between the Parties.—The power of the court to set aside a fraudulent conveyance at the instance of creditors is derived from this section, which has not penalized such a transaction by declaring the deed utterly void as against all persons and for all purposes, but has expressly limited the remedy to the aggrieved creditor and has left the deed as it stands between the parties. Lane v. Becton, 225 N. C. 457, 35 S. E. (2d) 334.

§ 39-23. Sales in bulk presumed fraudulent.—The sale in bulk of a large part or the whole of a stock of merchandise, otherwise than in the ordinary course of trade and in regular and usual prosecution of the seller's business, shall be void against the creditors of the seller, unless the seller at least seven days before the sale, makes an inventory showing the quantity and, so far as possible, the cost price to the seller of such articles included in the sale, and shall seven days before the proposed sale notify the creditors of the proposed sale, and the price, terms and conditions thereof. Such sale, even though the above requirements as to inventory and notice are fully complied with, renders the transaction prima facie fraudulent, and open to attack on such grounds by creditors of the seller. If the owner of said stock of goods shall at any time before the sale execute a good and sufficient bond, to a trustee therein named, in an amount equal to the actual cash value of the stock of goods, and conditioned that the seller will apply the proceeds of the sale, subject to the right of the owner or owners to retain therefrom the personal property exemption or exemptions as are allowed by law, so far as they will go in payment of debts actually owing by the owner or owners, then the provisions of this section shall not apply. Such sale of merchandise in bulk shall not be presumed to be a fraud as against any creditor or creditors who shall not present his or their claim or make demand upon the purchaser in good faith of such stock of goods and merchandise, or to the trustee named in any bond given as provided herein, within twelve months from the date of maturity of his claim, and any creditor who does not present his claim or make demand either upon the purchaser in good faith or on the trustee named in a bond within twelve months from the date of its maturity shall be barred from recovering on his claim on such bond, or as against the purchaser, in good faith, of such stock of goods in bulk. Nothing in this section shall prevent voluntary assignments or deeds of trust for the benefit of creditors as now allowed by law, or apply to sales by executors, administrators, receivers or assignees under a voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors, trustees in bankruptcy, or by any public officers under judicial process. (1907, c. 623; 1913, c. 30, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 66, s. 1; 1933, c. 190; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 1013.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment struck out the words "prima facie evidence of fraud, and" formerly appearing after the word "be" in line four, and inserted the second sentence.

Art. 5A. Control Corners in Real Estate Developments.

§ 39-32.1. Requirement of permanent markers as "control corners."—Whenever any person, firm or corporation shall hereafter divide any parcel of real estate into lots and lay off streets through such real estate development and sell or offer for sale any lot or lots in such real estate development, it shall be the duty of such person, firm or corporation to cause one or more corners of such development to be designated as "control corner" and to affix or place at such control corner or corners permanent markers which shall be of such material and affixed to the earth in such a manner as to insure as great a degree of permanence as is reasonably practical. (1947, c. 816, s. 1.)

As to maps of streets and sidewalks in subdivisions, see § 160-226.

§ 39-32.2. Control corners fixed at time of recording plat or prior to sale.—Such control corner or corners, as described in § 39-32.1, and such permanent marker or markers, as described in § 39-32.1, must be designated and affixed at the time of recording the plat of said land or prior to the first sale of any lot or lots constituting a part of the real estate development which said person, firm or corporation has caused to be laid off in lots with designated streets. (1947, c. 816, s. 2.)

§ 39-32.3. Recordation of plat showing control corners.—Upon designating a control corner and affixing a permanent marker, said person, firm or corporation shall cause to be filed in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the real estate development is located a map or plat showing the location of the control corner or corners and permanent marker or markers with adequate and sufficient description to enable a surveyor to locate such control corner or marker. The register of deeds shall not accept for registration or record any map or plat of a real estate subdivision or development made after the effective date of this article, unless the location of such control corner or corners is shown thereon. (1947, c. 816, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—Section 6 of the act from which this article was codified made it effective on July 1st, 1947.

§ 39-32.4. Description of land by reference to control corner; use of control corner to fix distances and boundaries prima facie evidence of correct method.—Any lot or lots sold or otherwise transferred at the time of or subsequent to the establishment of a control corner may be described in any conveyance so as to include a reference to the location of said lot or lots which are being conveyed with respect to the control corner. Thereafter the use of the control corner in ascertaining distances so as to establish boundary lines of lots within or originally within such real estate development may be admissible as evidence in any court and shall be prima facie evidence of the correct method of determining the boundaries of any lot or lots within any such real estate development. (1947, c. 816, s. 4.)

Art. 3. Public Works Eminent Domain Law.

Such proceedings may be instituted in the superior court in any county in which any part of the real property or of the proposed public works project is situate. The clerk of the superior court shall cause said proceedings to be heard and determined without delay. All condemnation proceedings shall be preferred cases, and shall be entitled to precedence over all other civil cases.

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote the second sentence of the second paragraph. As the first and third paragraphs were not affected by the amendment they are not set out.

§ 40-43. Hearing of objections by clerk of superior court.—If no objections are filed to the special master's report, the clerk of the superior court (but only on motion of the petitioner unless title to the property has vested in the petitioner) shall enter a final judgment fixing the compensation to be paid for the property and the persons entitled to such compensation. If any objections are filed to the special master's report, the clerk of the superior court on the date specified in the aforesaid order shall hear and determine such questions of law and fact as are raised by such exceptions and may approve, disapprove or modify the special master's findings or may reject the special master's report in toto. In the event the special master's report is rejected in toto, the clerk of the superior court shall at once appoint another special master in the same manner that the first special master was appointed, and such special master shall have the same powers and duties as the special master first appointed, except that notice of the time for filing claims and of the hearing of the special master may be given by registered mail to all persons who have appeared in the proceedings or their attorneys of record at their last known addresses, and no other notice shall be necessary. If the clerk of the superior court shall approve the special master's report, with or without modification, the clerk of the superior court (but only on motion of the petitioner unless title to the property has previously vested in the petitioner) shall enter a final judgment, fixing the compensation to be paid for such property and the persons entitled to such compensation.

If title to said property has not previously been vested in the petitioner, the title and right to possession of said property shall vest in the petitioner immediately upon the entry of such final judgment and upon the deposit in court by the petitioner of the amount of the judgment fixed by the clerk of the superior court as the compensation for such property. Upon the entry of such judgment and the vesting of title aforesaid, the clerk of the superior court shall designate the day (not exceeding thirty days thereafter, except upon good cause shown) on which the parties in possession of said property shall be required to surrender possession to the petitioner. (1935, c. 470, s. 1; 1947, c. 781.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment substituted "clerk of the superior court" for "court" at seven places in the section.

Chapter 41. Estates.

Sec.

41-11.1. Sale, lease or mortgage of property held by a "class", where membership may be increased by persons not in esse.

§ 41-1. Fee tail converted into fee simple.

III. APPLICATION AND ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.

Same—Life Estate with Limitation over to Bodily Heirs.—

A devise to one and his "bodily heirs," if testatrix intended to use the term in its strict technical sense, would violate the rule against perpetuities, or might create a fee tail, and in either case a fee simple would vest in the first taker. Elledge v. Parrish, 224 N. C. 397, 30 S. E. (2d) 314.

The use of the word "children" following the life estate does not create a fee simple estate or a fee tail estate which would be converted by this section into a fee simple est where a will devises real estate to the three daughters testator, naming them, "during the time of their natu lives" and provides that "the share of each one of my s daughters shall upon her death go to her children and th heirs absolutely," in that the word "children" is a word purchase. Moore v. Baker, 224 N. C. 133, 136, 29 S. (2d) 452.

Word "Heirs" Not Used in Technical Sense.—The rule Shelley's case does not apply to a devise to testator's gra children during the term of their natural lives, then their bodily heirs, or issue surviving them," with lim tion over of the share of any grandchild who should without issue to his next of kin, since it is apparent the word "heirs" was not used in its technical sense, the grandchildren take only a life estate. Williams Johnson, 228 N. C. 732, 47 S. E. (2d) 24.

Conveyance to Husband and Wife for Life Then to H of the Body of Feme Grantee.—A deed conveyed to husb and wife a life estate and expressed grantor's intent to convey only a lifetime right to said grantees, with provision that said grantees should have and hold said tract of land during their natural lives and then to the heirs of the body of the feme grantee. It was held that the husband took only a life estate, and the conveyance being to the wife and then to the heirs of her body, the rule in Shelley's case applies, and the estate in fee tail conveyed to the wife is converted by this section into a fee simple absolute. Edgerton v. Harrison, 230 N. C. 158, 52 S. E. (2d) 357.

Illustrative Cases.—

A conveyance to one for "his lifetime, and at his death to his heirs, if any, his heirs," invokes the application of the rule in Shelley's case and vests a fee in the first taker. The use of the phrase "if any" does not prevent the application of the rule, since there is no limitation over. Glover v. Glover, 224 N. C. 152, 29 S. E. (2d) 350.

§ 41-2. Survivorship in joint tenancy abolished; proviso as to partnership.—In all estates, real or personal, held in joint tenancy, the part or share of any tenant dying shall not descend or go to the surviving tenant, but shall descend or be vested in the heirs, executors, or administrators, respectively, of the tenant so dying, in the same manner as estates held by tenancy in common: Provided, that estates held in joint tenancy for the purpose of carrying on and promoting trade and commerce, or any useful work or manufacture, established and pursued with a view of profit to the parties therein concerned, are vested in the surviving partner, in order to enable him to settle and adjust the partnership business, or pay off the debts which may have been contracted in pursuit of the joint business; but as soon as the same is effected, the survivor shall account with, and pay, and deliver to the heirs, executors and administrators respectively of such deceased partner all such part, share, and sums of money as he may be entitled to by virtue of the original agreement, if any, or according to his share or part in the joint concern, in the same manner as partnership stock is usually settled between joint merchants and the representatives of their deceased partners. (Rev., s. 1579; Code, s. 1326; R. C., c. 43, s. 2; 1784, c. 204, s. 6; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 1735.)

Editor's Note.—

Prior to the 1945 amendment this section also applied to "assigns."

Survivorship Must Be Pursuant to Contract.—Since the abolition of survivorship in joint tenancy, the right of survivorship in personalty, if such right exists, must be pursuant to contract and not by operation of law or statutory provision. Wilson v. Ervin, 227 N. C. 396, 399, 42 S. E. (2d) 468.

Instrument Ineffective to Provide for Survivorship.—While this section may not preclude tenants in common from providing for survivorship by adequate contract inter sese, an instrument executed by them which merely expresses a general intent that the survivor should take the fee, without any words of conveyance, is ineffective. The execution by the administrator of the deceased tenant in common of a deed to the surviving tenant, made under the supposed authority of the contract, is without effect. Pope v. Burgess, 230 N. C. 323, 53 S. E. (2d) 159.

Section 59-74 is to be read in connection with this section respecting the settlement of partnership affairs by surviving partners. Coppersmith v. Upton, 228 N. C. 545, 46 S. E. (2d) 565.

The fact that the surviving partner instituting action on a partnership asset has not filed a bond as required by § 59-74, is not ground for nonsuit, since the requirement of a bond is for the protection of the estate of the deceased partner, and the objection is not available to one who is merely a debtor of the partnership. This conclusion is consonant with § 59-75, which provides that upon failure of the surviving partner to file bond, the clerk of the superior court shall appoint a collector of the partnership upon application of any person interested in the estate of the deceased partner. Coppersmith v. Upton, 228 N. C. 545, 46 S. E. (2d) 565.

Cited in Buffaloe v. Barnes, 226 N. C. 313, 38 S. E. (2d) 222.

Roll Must Be Called as of Death of First Taker.—To determine the effectiveness of a limitation over the roll must be called as of the date of the death of the first taker. Turpin v. Jarrett, 226 N. C. 135, 37 S. E. (2d) 124.

Where a will sets up a trust with provision that the income therefrom be divided among named beneficiaries for life and the corpus proportionately to their issue upon their deaths, with further provision that if a beneficiary should die without issue, his share of the corpus should become a part of, and be distributed in accordance with, the residuary clause, held, the person entitled to each share of the corpus is contingent upon whether each of the life beneficiaries dies with or without issue surviving, and therefore the will sets up a contingent and not a vested limitation, and the roll must be called as to each share of the corpus as of the death of its life beneficiary. Van Winkle v. Berger, 228 N. C. 473, 46 S. E. (2d) 305.

Applied in Conrad v. Goss, 227 N. C. 470, 42 S. E. (2d) 609.

§ 41-5. Unborn infant may take by deed or writing.

Unborn Infant Takes from Time of Conception.—This section gives the same capacity to an unborn infant to take property as such infant has under the law governing its right to take by inheritance or devise, which is from the time of conception. Mackie v. Mackie, 230 N. C. 152, 52 S. E. (2d) 352.

For the purpose of capacity to take under a deed, it will be presumed in the absence of contrary evidence that a child is in esse 280 days prior to its birth. Id.

§ 41-7. Possession transferred to use in certain conveyances.

Passive Trust for Husband and Wife.—Where a husband purchases realty and has the deed made to a trustee of a passive trust for the benefit of himself and wife, nothing else appearing, the instrument creates an estate by entirety. Akin v. First Nat. Bank, 227 N. C. 453, 42 S. E. (2d) 518.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

If title becomes involved in a processioning proceeding under §§ 38-1 to 38-4, the proceeding becomes in effect an action to quiet title under this section. Roberts v. Sawyer, 229 N. C. 279, 49 S. E. (2d) 468. See note to § 38-3.

II. NATURE AND SCOPE.

C. What Constitutes Cloud.

Invalid Judgment.—

An action to quiet title or to remove a cloud from the title is equitable in its nature, and may now be maintained to remove from the title a cloud created by the apparent lien of an invalid judgment docketed in the county where the land lies. Holden v. Totten, 224 N. C. 547, 551, 31 S. E. (2d) 635.

III. ACTIONS.

A. In General.

No defense bond is required in an action to quiet title under this section. Roberts v. Sawyer, 229 N. C. 279, 49 S. E. (2d) 468.

§ 41-11. Sale, lease or mortgage in case of remainders.

The clerk of the superior court is authorized to make all orders for the sale, lease or mortgage of property under this section, and for the reinvestment or securing and handling of the proceeds of such sales, but no sale under this section shall be held or mortgage given until the same has been approved by the resident judge of the district, or the judge holding the courts of the district at the time said order of sale is made. The approval by the resident judge of the district may be made by him either in term or at chambers. All orders of approval under said statute by judges resident in the district heretofore made either in term or at chambers are hereby ratified and validated.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment added the last two sentences of the third paragraph. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

For brief discussion of amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 390.

Cited in Cole v. Cole, 229 N. C. 757, 51 S. E. (2d) 491.

II. ACTIONS IN SUPERIOR COURT FOR SALE.

Where Guardian Appointed after Sale.—In a proceeding under this section to sell all the contingent interest in certain lands of minors and unborn children, where petitioners were represented by a guardian, judgment of sale signed on the day before the guardian's appointment was void. Butler v. Winston, 223 N. C. 421, 27 S. E. (2d) 124.

Plaintiff Must Have Vested Interest.—In a proceeding under this section to sell real property in which there is a contingent interest, plaintiff must be a person having a vested interest in the property to be sold and the sale must be passed upon by the judge of the Superior Court at term. The contingent interest alone cannot be sold. Butler v. Winston, 223 N. C. 421, 27 S. E. (2d) 124.

Section Does Not Limit Power of Court over Trusts.—This section, authorizing those who have a vested interest in land with contingent remainders over to persons not in being to petition for and procure the sale thereof for reinvestment, does not limit the power of the court to supervise the administration of trust estates and to enter such orders and decrees in respect thereto as circumstances may require, so that interest of contingent remaindermen and other beneficial owners may be sold to preserve trust estate from destruction. First-Citizens Bank, etc., Co. v. Rasberry, 226 N. C. 586, 39 S. E. (2d) 601, 603.

Effect of Omission of Persons Having Contingent Interests.—An order of sale and judgment of confirmation will not be vacated on the ground that certain contingent remaindermen were not made parties to the proceedings to sell, where the interest of the contingent remaindermen has, since the sale, been extinguished by failure of the contingency. Beam v. Gilkey, 225 N. C. 520, 35 S. E. (2d) 641.

Judgment against Person Having No Interest.—Irregularity of entering a consent judgment against testator's minor grandson without investigation and approval of the court may be disregarded where the minor had no interest. Beam v. Gilkey, 225 N. C. 520, 35 S. E. (2d) 641.

§ 41-11.1. Sale, lease or mortgage of property held by a "class", where membership may be increased by persons not in esse.—Wherever there is a gift, devise, bequest, transfer or conveyance of a vested estate or interest in real or personal property, or both, to persons described as a class, and at the effective date thereof, one or more members of the class are in esse, and there is a possibility in law that the membership of the class may later be increased by one or more members not then in esse, a special proceeding may be instituted in the superior court for the sale, lease or mortgage of such real or personal property, or both, as provided in this section.

All petitions filed under this section wherein an order is sought for the sale, lease or mortgage of real property, or of both real and personal property, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which all or any part of the real property is situated. If the order sought is for sale, lease or mortgage of personal property, the petition may be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which any or all of such personal estate is situated.

All members of the class in esse shall be parties to the proceeding, and where any of such members are under legal disability, their duly appointed general guardians or their guardians ad litem shall be made parties. The clerk of the superior court shall appoint a guardian ad litem to represent the interests of the possible members of the class not in esse, and such guardian ad litem shall be a party to the proceeding.

Upon a finding by the clerk of the superior court that the interests of all members of the class, both those in esse and those not in esse, would be materially promoted by a sale, lease or mortgage of any such property, he shall enter an order that the sale, lease or mortgage be made, and shall appoint a trustee to make such sale, lease or mortgage, in such manner and on such terms as the clerk may find to be most advantageous to the interests of the members of the class, both those in esse and those not in esse; but no sale, lease or mortgage shall be made, or shall be valid, until approved and confirmed by the resident judge of the district, or the judge holding the courts of the district. As a condition precedent to receiving the proceeds of the sale, lease or mortgage, the trustee shall be bonded in the same manner as a guardian for minors.

In the event of a sale of any such property, the proceeds of sale shall be owned in the identical manner as the property was owned immediately prior to the sale; provided, the trustee appointed by the clerk as provided above may hold, manage, invest and reinvest said proceeds for the benefit of all members of the class, both those in esse and those not in esse, until the occurrence of the event which will finally determine the identity of all members of the class; all such investments and reinvestments shall be made in accordance with the laws of North Carolina relating to the investment of funds held by guardians or minors; and all the provisions of G. S. § 36-4, relating to the reduction in bonds of guardians or trustees upon investment in certain registered securities and the deposit of the securities with the clerk of the superior court, shall be applicable to the trustee appointed hereunder.

In the event the proceeds of sale shall be paid over to a trustee and invested by him as authorized above, the entire income actually received by the trustee from such investment shall be paid by said trustee periodically, and not less often than annually, in equal shares to the living members of the class as they shall be constituted at the time of each such payment, or to the duly appointed guardians of any such living members under legal disability.

In the event the court orders a lease of the property, the proceeds from the lease shall be first used to defray the expenses, if any, of the upkeep and maintenance of the property, and the discharge of taxes, liens, charges and encumbrances thereon, and any remaining proceeds shall be paid over by the trustee in their entirety, no less often than annually, in equal shares to the living members of the class as they shall be constituted at the time of each such payment or to the duly appointed guardians of any such members under legal disability.

Payments of income to the living members of the class as aforesaid shall constitute a full and final acquittance and disposition of the income so paid, it being the intent of this section that only the living members of the class (as they may be constituted at the time of each respective income payment) shall be entitled to the income which is the subject of the respective payment, and the possible members of the class not in esse shall not share in, or become entitled to the benefit of any income payment made prior to the time that such members are born and become living members of the class.

In the event that there has been a sale of any of the property, and the proceeds of sale are being held, managed, invested and reinvested by a trustee as provided above, any member of the class who is of legal age and who is not otherwise under legal disability may sell, assign and transfer his entire right, title and interest (both as to principal and income) in the funds or investments so held by the trustee. Upon receiving written notice of such sale, assignment or transfer, the trustee shall recognize the purchaser, assignee and transferee as the lawful successor in all respects whatsoever to the right, title and interest (both as to principal and income) of the seller, assignor and transferor; but no such sale, transfer or assignment shall divest the trustee of his legal title in, or possession of, said funds or investments or (except as provided above) affect his administration of the trusts for which he was appointed.

The court shall order a mortgage of the property only for one or more of the following purposes: (1) to provide funds for the costs and expenses of court incurred in carrying out any of the provisions of this section; (2) to provide funds for the necessary upkeep and maintenance of the property; (3) to make reasonable improvements to the property; (4) to pay off taxes, other existing liens, charges and encumbrances on the property. The mortgagee shall not be held responsible for the application of the funds secured or derived from the mortgage. As used in this section, references to mortgages shall also apply to deeds of trust executed for loan security purposes.

Every trustee appointed pursuant to the provisions of this section shall file with the clerk of the superior court an inventory and annual accounts in the same manner as is now provided by law with respect to guardians.

The superior court shall allow commissions to the trustee for his time and trouble in the effectuation of a sale, lease or mortgage, and in the investment and management of the proceeds, in the same manner and under the same rules and restrictions as allowances are made to executors, administrators, and collectors.

Provided, however, this section shall not be applicable where the instrument creating the gift, devise, bequest, transfer or conveyance specifically directs, by means of the creation of a trust or otherwise, the manner in which the property shall be used or disposed of, or contains specific limitations, conditions or restrictions as to the use, form, investment, leasing, mortgage, or other disposition of the property.

And provided further, this section shall not alter or affect in any way laws or legal principles heretofore, now, or hereafter existing relating to the determination of the nature, extent or vesting of estates or property interests, and of the persons entitled thereto. But where, under the laws and legal principles existing without regard to this section, a gift, devise, bequest, transfer or conveyance has the legal effect of being made to all members of a class, some of whom are in esse and some of whom are in posse, the procedures authorized hereby may be utilized for the purpose of promoting the best interests of all members of the class, and this section shall be liberally construed to effectuate this intent. The remedies and procedures herein specified shall not be exclusive, but shall be cumulative, in addition to, and without prejudice to, all other remedies and procedures, if any, which now exist or hereafter may exist either by virtue of statute, or by virtue of the inherent powers of any court of competent jurisdiction, or otherwise.

The provisions of this section shall apply to gifts, devises, bequests, transfers, and conveyances made both before and after the effective date of this section. (1949, c. 811, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Section 3 of the act inserting this section made it effective upon its ratification on April 5, 1949. For discussion of this section, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 415.

Chapter 42. Landlord and Tenant.

Art. 2. Agricultural Tenancies.

Art. 1. General Provisions.

§ 42-3. Term forfeited for nonpayment of rent.

Necessity for Demand.—Where lease contains no forfeiture clause for failure to pay rent, and lessee, after lessor's death, pays rent to lessor's personal representative to the knowledge of lessor's heir, the heir, who made no demand for the rent, may not declare the lease forfeited, since in the absence of a forfeiture clause, this section applies, and forfeiture under it is not effective until the expiration of ten days after demand. First-Citizens Bank, etc., Co. v. Frazelle, 226 N. C. 724, 40 S. E. (2d) 367.

Cited in Rountree v. Thompson, 226 N. C. 553, 39 S. E. (2d) 523.

§ 42-14. Notice to quit in certain tenancies.

Insufficient Notice.—In an action in summary ejectment under § 42-26 proof of notice given the 14th of the month to quit the premises on or before the first of the following month is insufficient to show the statutory notice terminating the term, when it appears that the original occupancy was taken on the 18th of the month and plaintiff offers no evidence as to the date of the month the term began or when the monthly rentals became due. Stafford v. Yale, 228 N. C. 220, 44 S. E. (2d) 872.

Art. 2. Agricultural Tenancies.

Editor's Note.—For article on agricultural tenancies in the southeastern states, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 274.

§ 42-22.1. Failure of tenant to account for sales under tobacco marketing cards.

—Any tenant or share cropper having possession of a tobacco marketing card issued by any agency of the state or federal government who sells tobacco authorized to be sold thereby and fails to account to his landlord, to the extent of the net proceeds of such sale or sales, for all liens, rents, advances, or other claims held by his landlord against the tobacco or the proceeds of the sale of such tobacco, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be punished by a fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court. (1949, c. 193.)

Editor's Note.—For brief comment on this section, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 466.

§ 42-23. Terms of agricultural tenancies in certain counties. — All agricultural leases and contracts hereafter made between landlord and tenant for a period of one year or from year to year, whether such tenant pay a specified rental or share in the crops grown, such year shall be from December first to December first, and such period of time shall constitute a year for agricultural tenancies in lieu of the law and custom heretofore prevailing, namely from January first to January first. In all cases of such tenancies a notice to quit of one month as provided in § 42-14 shall be applicable. If on account of illness or any other good cause, the tenant is unable to harvest all the crops grown on lands leased by him for any year prior to the termination of his lease contract on December first, he shall have a right to return to the premises vacated by him at any time prior to December thirty-first of said year, for the purpose only of harvesting and dividing the remaining crops so ungathered. But he shall have no right to use the houses or outbuildings or that part of the lands from which the crops have been harvested prior to the termination of the tenant year, as defined in this section.

This section shall only apply to the counties of Anson, Ashe, Bladen, Brunswick, Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Duplin, Edgecombe, Gaston, Greene, Halifax, Hoke, Jones, Lenoir, Lincoln, Montgomery, Onslow, Pender, Pitt, Robeson, Sampson, and Yadkin. (Pub. Loc. 1929, c. 40; Pub. Loc. 1935, c. 288; Pub. Loc. 1937, cc. 96, 600; Pub. Loc. 1941, c. 41; 1943, c. 68; 1945, c. 700; 1949, c. 136.)

Local Modification.—Columbus: 1947, c. 783.

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment made this section applicable to Craven, Edgecombe, Greene, Halifax, Jones, Lenoir, Onslow and Pitt counties.

The 1949 amendment made this section applicable to Montgomery county.

Art. 3. Summary Ejectment.

§ 42-26. Tenant holding over may be dispossessed in certain cases.

I. APPLICATION AND SCOPE.

Jurisdiction Is Statutory.—Jurisdiction of a justice of the peace in summary ejectment proceedings is purely statutory, and may be exercised only in cases where the relationship of landlord and tenant exists, and the tenant holds over after the expiration of his term, or has otherwise violated the provisions of his lease. Howell v. Branson, 226 N. C. 264, 37 S. E. (2d) 687; Goins v. McLoud, 228 N. C. 655, 46 S. E. (2d) 712, holding that the remedy does not extend to a tenant at sufferance or at will.

Remedy Is Restricted to Cases Enumerated.—The remedy by summary proceedings in ejectment is restricted to those cases expressly provided by this section. Howell v. Branson, 226 N. C. 264, 37 S. E. (2d) 687, 688, citing Hauser v. Morrison, 146 N. C. 248, 59 S. E. 693.

As to insufficient notice to quit in action under this section, see Stafford v. Yale, 228 N. C. 220, 44 S. E. (2d) 872, treated in note under § 42-14.

Cited in Seligson v. Klyman, 227 N. C. 347, 42 S. E. (2d) 220.

V. THE ACTION.

Cross Reference.—As to concurrent jurisdiction of justices of the peace and superior courts in actions of summary ejectment, see note to § 42-23.

Appeal Where Defendant Has Surrendered Possession.—In a summary ejectment proceeding, under this and the following sections of this article, where the subject of the litigation, the right of plaintiffs to immediate possession of premises, had been disposed of by the surrender of same by defendants to plaintiffs and no other question was raised in the court below, appeal was dismissed. Cochran v. Rowe, 225 N. C. 645, 36 S. E. (2d) 75.

The "oath in writing" required by this section must allege facts essential to confer jurisdiction. Howell v. Branson, 226 N. C. 264, 37 S. E. (2d) 687, 688.

Jurisdiction Is Not Exclusive.—Courts of justices of the peace do not have exclusive original jurisdiction of actions in summary ejectment under § 42-26 but the superior courts have concurrent jurisdiction of such actions as provided by § 7-63. Stonestreet v. Means, 228 N. C. 113, 44 S. E. (2d) 600.

Applied in Rogers v. Hall, 227 N. C. 363, 42 S. E. (2d) 347.

Cited in Seligson v. Klyman, 227 N. C. 347, 42 S. E. (2d) 220.

Cited in Seligson v. Klyman, 227 N. C. 347, 42 S. E. (2d) 220.

§ 42-32. Damages assessed to trial.—On appeal to the superior court, the jury trying issues joined shall assess the damages of the plaintiff for the detention of his possession to the time of the trial in that court; and, if the jury finds that the detention was wrongful and that the appeal was without merit and taken for the purpose of delay, the plaintiff, in addition to any other damages allowed, shall be entitled to double the amount of rent in arrears, or which may have accrued, to the time of trial in the superior court. Judgment for the rent in arrears and for the damages assessed may, on motion, be rendered against the sureties to the appeal. (Rev., s. 2006; Code, s. 1775; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 28; 1945, c. 796; C. S 2371.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment inserted the provision allowing plaintiff to recover double amount of delinquent rent when detention of leased property is wrongful.

Effect of Emergency Price Control Act.—Where rental value of premises was fixed by rent control office, local statutes authorizing collection of double rents or other damages did not entitle plaintiff to collect an amount exceeding maximum rent fixed by O. P. A. McGuinn v. McLain, 225 N. C. 750, 36 S. E. (2d) 377.

The fact that landlord obtained permission from rent control office of O. P. A. to institute action under local law for the possession of his property, did not release property from the provisions of the emergency price control act of 1942. Id.

Cited in Seligson v. Klyman, 227 N. C. 347, 42 S. E. (2d) 220.

Section Does Not Apply to Actions under § 42-26.—This section applies to actions to recover possession of demised premises "upon a forfeiture for the nonpayment of rent" and not to actions to recover possession of property for one of the causes enumerated in § 42-26. Seligson v. Klyman, 227 N. C. 347, 42 S. E. (2d) 220.

§ 42-34. Undertaking on appeal; when to be increased.—Either party may appeal from the judgment of the justice, as is prescribed in other cases of appeal from the judgment of a justice; upon appeal to the superior court either plaintiff or defendant may demand that the same shall be tried at the first term of said court after said appeal is docketed in said court, and said trial shall have precedence in the trial of all other cases, except in cases of exceptions to homesteads: Provided, that said appeal shall have been docketed at least ten days prior to the convening of said court: Provided further, that in the event the trial before the justice of the peace takes place at least fifteen days prior to the convening of said superior court, said appeal shall upon the demand of either plaintiff or defendant, be docketed in time to be tried at said first term of said superior court after said trial before the justice of the peace: Provided, further, that the presiding judge in his discretion, may make up for trial in advance any pending case in which the rights of the parties or the public require it; but no execution commanding the removal of a defendant from the possession of the demised premises shall be suspended until the defendant gives an undertaking in an amount not less than one year's rent of the premises, with sufficient surety, who shall justify and be approved by the justice, to be void if the defendant pays any judgment which in that or any other action the plaintiff may recover for rent, and for damages for the detention of the land. At any term of the superior court of the county in which such appeal is docketed after the lapse of one year from the date of the filing of the undertaking above mentioned, the tenant, after legal notice to that end has been duly executed on him, may be required to show cause why said undertaking should not be increased to an amount sufficient to cover rents and damages for such period as to the court may seem proper, and if such tenant fails to show proper cause and does not file such bond for rents and damages as the court may direct, or make affidavit that he is unable so to do and show merits, his appeal shall be dismissed and the judgment of the justice of the peace shall be affirmed. (Rev., s. 2008; Code, s. 1772; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 25; 1883, c. 316; 1921, c. 90; Ex. Sess., 1921, c. 17; 1933, c. 154; 1937, c. 294; 1949, c. 1159; C. S. 2373.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment inserted the second proviso to the first sentence.

Chapter 43. Land Registration.

Sec. Art. 4. Registration and Effect.

43-17.1. Issuance of certificate upon death of registered owner; petition and contents; dissolution of corporation; certificate lost or not received by grantee.

Art. 1. Nature of Proceeding.

Proceeding Is in Rem.—A proceeding under the Torrens Law is a proceeding in rem. Davis v. Morgan, 228 N. C. 78, 44 S. E. (2d) 593.

Improvements.—There is nothing in this chapter, known as the Torrens Laws, which prevents the courts from proceeding to determine the value of improvements claimed by defendants, who have been evicted under plaintiff's superior title, in accordance with the terms of an unassailed judgment to which plaintiff was a party and ascertained by a consent reference. Harrison v. Darden, 223 N. C. 364, 26 S. E. (2d) 860.

§ 43-3. Rules of practice prescribed by attorney-general.

Except as otherwise specially provided in this chapter, registered land is subject to the jurisdiction of the courts in the same manner as if not so registered. Harrison v. Darden, 223 N. C. 364, 367, 26 S. E. (2d) 860.

Art. 4. Registration and Effect.

§ 43-17.1. Issuance of certificate upon death of registered owner; petition and contents; dissolution of corporation; certificate lost or not received by grantee.

Like procedure may be followed as herein set forth upon the dissolution of any corporation which is the registered owner of any estate or interest in the land which has been brought under this chapter.

In the event the registered certificate of title has been lost and after due diligence cannot be found, and this fact is made to appear by allegation in the petition, such registered certificate of title need not be attached to the petition as hereinabove required, but the legal representatives of the deceased registered owner shall be made parties to the proceeding. If such persons are unknown or, if known cannot after due diligence be found within the state, service of summons upon them may be made by publication of the notice prescribed in § 43-17.2. In case the registered owner is a corporation which has been dissolved, service of summons upon such corporation and any others who may have or claim any interest in such land thereunder shall be made by publication of the notice containing appropriate recitals as required by § 43-17.2.

If any registered owner has by writing conveyed or attempted to convey a title to any registered land without the surrender of the certificate of title issued to him, the person claiming title to said lands under and through said registered owner by reason of his or its conveyance may file a petition with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land is registered and in the proceeding under which the title was registered praying for the cancellation of the original certificate and the issuance of the new certificate. Upon the filing of such petition notice shall be published as prescribed in § 43-17.2. The clerk of the superior court with whom said petition is filed shall by order determine what additional notice, if any, shall be given to registered owners. If the registered owner is a natural person, deceased, or a corporation dissolved the court may direct what additional notice, if any, shall be given. The clerk shall hear the evidence, make findings of fact, and if found as a fact that the original certificate of the registered owner has been lost and cannot be found, shall enter his order directing the register of deeds to cancel the same and to issue a new certificate to such person or persons as may be entitled thereto, subject to such claims or liens as the court may find to exist.

Any party within ten days from the rendition of such judgment or order by the clerk of superior court of the county in which said land is registered may appeal to the superior court in term time, where the cause shall be heard de novo by the judge, unless a jury trial be demanded, in which event the issues of fact shall be submitted to a jury. From any order or judgment entered by the superior court in term time an appeal may be taken to the supreme court in the manner provided by law. (1943, c. 466, s. 1; 1945, c. 44.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the above four paragraphs at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

This section modifies the common law rule of lis pendens. Its purpose is to stabilize titles by requiring recordation of all deeds, mortgages, or other paper writings which transfer or encumber the title to land. Whitehurst v. Abbott, 225 N. C. 1, 5, 33 S. E. (2d) 129.

Art. 6. Method of Transfer.

Applied in Harrison v. Darden, 223 N. C. 364, 26 S. E. (2d) 860.

Chapter 44. Liens.

Art. 8. Perfecting, Recording, Enforcing and Discharging Liens.

Art. 13. Factors' Liens.

Art. 14. Assignment of Accounts Receivable and Liens Thereon.

Art. 1. Mechanics', Laborers' and Materialmen's Liens.

§ 44-2. On personal property repaired.

Provided, that in selling any motor vehicle under the provisions of this section, a twenty day notice in advance of such sale shall be given the commissioner of motor vehicles. (Rev., s. 2017; Code, s. 1783; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 3; 1945, c. 224; C. S. 2435.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the above proviso at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Art. 2. Subcontractors', etc., Liens and Rights against Owners.

This section was intended to provide protection for laborers and materialmen furnishing labor or material for the construction of public works commensurate with that afforded them while engaged in private construction. Owsley v. Henderson, 228 N. C. 224, 45 S. E. (2d) 263.

Parties May Contract for Protection in Addition to Statutory Minimum.—This section prescribes the minimum protection that must be furnished, but does not undertake to stipulate the maximum. The indemnity company will not be permitted to afford protection less than that required by law. On the other hand it may assume any additional liability and provide any additional protection it and the assured may agree upon. Owsley v. Henderson, 228 N. C. 224, 45 S. E. (2d) 263.

Provisions of Section Incorporated in Contract. — The insurance contract must provide the protection required by law. To that end the provisions of this section, if not actually included in the written agreement, are incorporated therein by operation of law. Owsley v. Henderson, 228 N. C. 224, 45 S. E. (2d) 263.

Liability for Rental Charges for Equipment.—A bond for public construction conditioned upon the satisfaction of all claims and demands incurred in the performance of the contract and payment for labor and material, is held to include rental cost of pneumatic machinery or equipment hired to do mechanical work in furtherance of the contract. And the liability for rental charges is not limited to the time such equipment was in actual operation. Owsley v. Henderson, 228 N. C. 224, 45 S. E. (2d) 263.

Art. 8. Perfecting, Recording, Enforcing and Discharging Liens.

§ 44-38.1. Liens on personal property created in another state.—No mortgage, deed of trust, or other encumbrance created upon personal property while such property is located in another state is or shall be a valid encumbrance upon said property which has been, or may be, removed into this state as to purchasers for valuable consideration without notice to creditors, unless and until such mortgage, deed of trust, or other encumbrance is or was actually registered or filed for registration in the proper office in the state from which same was removed. (1949, c. 1129.)

Editor's Note.—This section is apparently designed to get away from the rule laid down by the supreme court in 194 in General Finance, etc., Corp. v. Guthrie, 227 N. C. 431 42 S. E. (2d) 601. See 27 N. C. Law Rev. 440.

Art. 9. Liens upon Recoveries for Personal Injuries to Secure Sums Due for Medical Attention, etc.

Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph one of this section, no lien therein provided fo shall be valid with respect to any claims arisin with respect to any future actions unless the per son or corporation entitled to the lien therein pro vided for shall file a claim with the clerk of th court in which said civil action is instituted with in 30 days after the institution of such action.

No liens of the character provided for in th first paragraph of this section shall hereafter b valid with respect to money that may be recovere in any pending civil actions in this state unles claims based on such liens are filed with the cler of the court in which the action is pending with in 90 days after the ratification of the 194 amendment.

No action shall lie against any clerk of cou or any surety on any clerk's bond to recover ar claims based upon any lien or liens created by th first paragraph of this section when recovery h heretofore been had by the person injured, ar no claims against such recovery were filed wi the clerk by any person or corporation, and th clerk has otherwise disbursed according to la the money recovered in such action for person injuries. (1935, c. 121, s. 1; 1947, c. 1027.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment, ratified and eff tive April 5, 1947, added the three paragraphs above at end of this section. As the first paragraph was not chan by the amendment it is not set out.

Section 2 of the amendatory act provides that noth in the act shall be construed as affecting §§ 44-50 and 4 of the General Statutes, except to fix the time within which such claims must be filed.

For discussion of the 1947 amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 450.

Art. 10. Agricultural Liens for Advances.

§ 44-54. Price to be charged for articles advanced limited.

Editor's Note.—

Session Laws 1945, c. 694, by repealing Public Laws 1929, c. 262, made §§ 44-54 to 44-59 fully applicable to Lenoir county.

Art. 13. Factors' Liens.

§ 44-70. Definitions. — The terms "factor" and "factors" wherever used in this article means persons, firms, banks, and corporations, and their successors in interest, who advance money to manufacturers or processors on the security of materials, goods in process, or merchandise, whether or not they are employed to sell such materials, goods in process, or merchandise. (1945, c. 182, s. 1.)

§ 44-71. Factors' liens; filing notice of lien.— If so provided by any written agreement, all factors shall have a continuing general lien upon all materials, goods in process, and merchandise from time to time consigned to or pledged with them, whether in their constructive, actual or exclusive occupancy or possession or not, for all their loans and advances to or for the account of the person creating the lien (hereinafter called the borrower), together with interest thereon and also for the commissions, obligations, indebtedness, charges, and expenses properly chargeable against or due from said borrower and for the amounts due or owing upon any notes or other obligations given to or received by them for or upon account of any such loans or advances, interest, commissions, obligations, indebtedness, charges, and expenses, and such lien shall be valid from the time of filing the notice hereinafter referred to, whether such materials, goods in process, or merchandise shall be in existence at the time of the agreement creating the lien or at the time of filing such notice or shall come into existence subsequently thereto or shall subsequently thereto be acquired by the borrower; provided there shall be placed and maintained on the door of, or in a conspicuous place at, one of the principal entrances of the place of business or other premises in or at which such materials, goods in process, and merchandise, shall be located, kept or stored, the name of the factor in legible lettering and a designation of said factor as factor; and provided further, that a notice of the lien is filed stating:

1. The name of the factor, the name under which the factor does business, if an assumed name; the principal place of business of the factor within the state, or if he has no place of business within the state, his principal place of business outside of the state; and if the factor is a partnership or association, the name of the partners, and if a corporation, the state under whose laws it was organized.

2. The name of the borrower, and the interest of such person in the materials, goods in process, and merchandise, as far as known to the factor.

3. The general character of materials, goods in process, and merchandise subject to the lien, or which may become subject thereto, the date of the agreement and the period of time during which such loans or advances may be made under the terms of the agreement providing for such loans or advances and for such lien. Amendments of the notice may be filed from time to time to record any changes in the information contained in the original, subsequent or amended notices. (1945, c. 182, s. 2.)

§ 44-72. Registration.—Such notice shall be acknowledged or proven by the factor or his duly authorized representative in the form of acknowledgments to deeds. The notice so acknowledged shall be filed for registration in the office of the register of deeds in the county wherein the property referred to in the notice is located and shall be recorded and cross indexed in the same manner as chattel mortgages. The fees for acknowledging and recording shall be the same as those provided for by law for acknowledging and recording chattel mortgages. (1945, c. 182, s. 3.)

§ 44-73. Effect of registration. — Such notice may be filed at any time after the making of the agreement and shall be effectual from the time of the filing thereof as against all claims of unsecured creditors of the borrower and as against subsequent liens of creditors, except that if, pursuant to the laws of this state, a lien should subsequently attach to the materials, goods in process, or merchandise in favor of a processor, dyer, mechanic, or other artisan, or in favor of a landlord, then the lien of the factor on such materials, goods in process, or merchandise shall be subject to such subsequent lien. When materials, goods in process, or merchandise subject to the lien provided for by this article are sold in the ordinary course of the business of the borrower, such lien, whether or not the purchaser has knowledge of the existence thereof, shall terminate as to the materials, goods in process or merchandise. (1945, c. 182, s. 4.)

§ 44-74. Satisfaction and discharge.—Upon payment or satisfaction of the indebtedness secured by any lien specified in this article the factor, his assignee or duly authorized representative, attorney or attorney in fact, may in the presence of the register of deeds or his deputy acknowledge the satisfaction of the provisions of such lien, whereupon the register of deeds or his deputy shall forthwith make upon the margin of the record of such lien an entry of such acknowledgment of satisfaction, which shall be signed by the factor, his assignee or duly authorized representative, attorney or attorney in fact and witnessed by the register of deeds or his deputy, who shall affix his name thereto.

Upon the exhibition of the original notice to the register of deeds or his deputy, where the same is registered, with the endorsement of payment and satisfaction appearing thereon by the factor, his duly authorized representative, attorney or attorney in fact, the register of deeds or his deputy shall cancel the lien by entry of "satisfaction" on the margin of the record.

Such satisfaction as herein above set forth shall operate as a release of all claims of the factor set forth in the said notice. All notices of liens filed pursuant to this article and not satisfied as herein above set forth shall be and remain in full force and effect under this article without further or other filing. (1945, c. 182, s. 5.)

§ 44-75. Common-law lien. — When any factor, or any third party for the account of any such factor, shall have possession of materials, goods in process, or merchandise, such factor shall have a continuing general lien, as set forth in § 44-71, without filing the notice and posting the sign provided for in this article. (1945, c. 182, s. 6.)

§ 44-76. Construction.—This article is to be construed liberally to secure the beneficial interest and purpose thereof. A substantial compliance with its several provisions shall be sufficient for the validity of a lien and to give jurisdiction to the courts to enforce the same. Nothing in this article shall be construed as affecting or limiting any existing or future lien at common law or any rights at common law, or any right given by any other statute, and as to any transaction falling within the provisions both of this article and of any other statute of this state requiring or permitting filing, registering, consent, publication, notices, or formalities of execution, the factor shall not be required to comply with the provisions of any such other statute. (1945, c. 182, s. 7.)

Art. 14. Assignment of Accounts Receivable and Liens Thereon.

§ 44-77. Definitions.—In this article, unless otherwise clearly indicated by the context:

(1) "Account" or "account receivable" means a presently subsisting right to the present or future payment of money—

(a) under an existing contract,

(b) not including a building or construction contract,

(c) the assignment of which right is not subject to special statutory provisions not contained in this article,

(d) which right to payment is not secured under a chattel mortgage, deed of trust, conditional sale, or other instrument, which is required to be recorded in order that no assignee from the assignor and no creditor of the assignor can after such recordation acquire any rights in the account assigned, or in the proceeds thereof in any form, superior to the rights of the beneficiary of such recorded instrument, and,

(e) which right to payment is not represented by a judgment, negotiable instrument, or other instrument, the surrender, presentation, possession or indorsement of which customarily gives to the owner, holder or indorsee the right to payment thereon.

(2) "Assignee," "assignment," "assignor," and "debtor" are limited respectively to assignee, assignment, and assignor of, and a debtor on, an account receivable.

(3) "Assignment" includes an assignment for value as security and the creation by agreement of a lien on an account.

(4) "Assignee" and "assignor" shall include persons, firms, partnerships, associations and corporations. "Assignee" and "assignor" in § 44-78 shall include prospective assignees and assignors.

(5) "Filing assignee" or "filing assignor" means a person, firm, partnership, association or corporation designated as assignee or assignor in a recorded notice of assignment.

(6) "Value" means any consideration, other than a seal, sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent claim of any kind against any person, firm, partnership, association or corporation constitutes value when an account or other property is taken in satisfaction thereof or as security therefor. (1945, c. 196, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The act from which this article was codified expressly provides in § 9 that it shall not apply to assignments made prior to its effective date, May 1, 1945.

§ 44-78. Filing of notice of assignment; cancellation.—(1) The assignment of accounts receivable may be protected by the filing of a statement to be known as a "notice of assignment" which shall be signed by the assignor and the assignee and acknowledged by the assignor before an officer authorized to take acknowledgments, and probated as other instruments are now probated, which shall contain:

(a) The name and mailing address within this state of both assignor and assignee, or if either the assignor or the assignee has no mailing address within the state, the mailing address outside the state,

(b) A statement that the assignor has assigned or intends to assign, or has assigned and intends to assign one or more accounts to the named assignee.

(2) It shall not be necessary to describe the account or accounts in any manner in the notice of assignment.

(3) The place for filing the notice of assignment shall be the office of the register of deeds of the county wherein the assignor, if an individual, resides; or if a domestic or domesticated corporation, in the county wherein said corporation has its statutory principal place of business in this state. If the assignor is a resident or nonresident firm, partnership, association or a nonresident individual or a foreign undomesticated corporation, then the notice of assignment shall be filed in the office of the register of deeds of any county wherein the assignor has a place of business.

(4) The notice of assignment shall be for a definite period of time stated therein, but may be extended for a definite period of time by a statement containing the book and page where the original notice of assignment is recorded, and signed, probated and recorded in the same manner as the notice of assignment. Any such extension statement must be filed within the period of time prescribed in the original notice of assignment or last extension thereof and when filed shall be effective as of the time of the filing of the original notice of assignment.

(5) An account shall be deemed located in this state:

(a) if the transaction out of which the account arose occurred in this state, or if payment is to be made in this state, or

(b) if the account has been transferred to this state so that the place of payment of the account is in this state, or

(c) in all other cases where an account is deemed located in this state under general rule of law.

(6) The register of deeds shall index and record

each notice or assignment, or extension statement, in the same manner as chattel mortgages; and for indexing and recording the same the register of deeds shall receive the same fee as is provided by law for the recording and indexing of short form chattel mortgages.

(7) The notice of assignment may be cancelled of record at any time by the assignee or by his duly authorized attorney in fact, or upon presentation by the assignor or the assignee of the original notice of assignment marked satisfied in full by the assignee, but such cancellation shall not affect the protection afforded to accounts already assigned under a protected assignment. The cancellation of the original notice of assignment shall operate as a cancellation of all extension statements. (1945, c. 196, s. 2.)

§ 44-79. Filing of notices of discontinuance of assignment.—(1) A filing assignor may at any time file a "notice of discontinuance of assignment," signed by him and designating the book and page where the original notice of assignment to be discontinued is recorded, stating that he will not make any further assignments to the designated assignee after a specified date. Such notice, to be effective, shall be receipted for by the assignee or accompanied by an affidavit that a copy has been forwarded to the assignee by registered mail and such affidavit shall state the registration number. The filing of such notice of discontinuance shall not affect the protection afforded to accounts already assigned under a protected assignment.

(2) The register of deeds shall record such notices of discontinuance and index same as required for chattel mortgages, and shall make an entry of the filing thereof upon the recorded notice of assignment to which it relates. For recording a notice of discontinuance of assignment and making the entry, the register of deeds shall receive the fee allowed by law for the recording and indexing of short form chattel mortgages. (1945, c. 196, s. 3.)

§ 44-80. Protected assignments. — (1) An assignment becomes protected:

(a) at the time of the filing of a notice of assignment contemporaneously with, or subsequently to, such assignment, or

(b) at the time of the filing of the notice of assignment, as to an assignment made after the filing of the notice of assignment, if the assignment is taken within the period specified in the notice of assignment or in any extension statement or on or before the date specified in the notice of discontinuance of assignment, or

(c) if no notice of assignment is on file in accordance with the provisions of § 44-78, then upon the giving of written notice to the debtor that the account has been assigned to the named assignee.

(2) When an assignment becomes protected, it shall be deemed to have been fully perfected at that time, and no bona fide purchaser from the assignor, no creditor of any kind of the assignor, and no other assignee or transferee of the assignor, in any event shall have, or be deemed to have, acquired any right in the account so transferred or in the proceeds thereof, or in any obligation substituted therefor, superior to the rights of the protected assignee therein.

(3) As between protected assignees the one who first protects his assignment has the superior right. (1945, c. 196, s. 4.)

§ 44-81. Statement of accounts assigned or of balance due.—The assignee shall, upon written demand of the assignor, furnish the assignor with a statement in writing of the balance due by the assignor to the assignee and a list of all accounts assigned as security thereof. Any third person who in good faith acts upon said information and furnishes valuable consideration in reliance thereon shall be protected. (1945, c. 196, s. 5.)

§ 44-82. Rights between debtor and assignee.—In any case where, acting without actual knowledge of an assignment of an account to a protected assignee, the debtor in good faith pays all or part of the account to the assignor, or to a creditor, subsequent purchaser, or other assignee or transferee, or other person holding a lien upon, or interest or right in or to such account, such payment shall be an acquittance and release to the debtor to the extent of such payment, and such person so receiving payment shall be a trustee of any sums so paid and shall be accountable and liable therefor to the assignee who, under the provisions of this article, has superior rights and is entitled to such sums so paid by the debtor. (1945, c. 196, s. 6.)

§ 44-83. Validity as to third person; acts of assignor; dominion and control. — The validity, effect, and relative priority or lien of a protected assignment of an account as to third persons shall not be affected by failure to notify the debtor thereof or by any act or omission of the assignor with respect to the assigned account or the proceeds thereof.

Any permission by the assignee to the assignor to exercise dominion and control over a protected assigned account or the proceeds thereof shall not invalidate the assignment as to third persons. (1945, c. 196, s. 7.)

§ 44-84. Returned goods. — (1) Where the assignor has possession of goods which gave rise to an assigned account, the interest of a protected assignee therein shall be superior to those of the general or judgment creditors of the assignor but subject to the rights of purchasers and lienees, who, in good faith, acquired their interest in the specific goods for value and without actual notice of the assignee's interest.

(2) The assignor shall hold in trust for the assignee:

(a) the proceeds of an assigned account in any form.

(b) goods which gave rise to the account in the assignor's possession, and

(c) the proceeds of the sale or lien referred to in (1) above.

(3) The assignment of an account includes the assignment of an account arising from a resale of the goods which gave rise to the assigned account. (1945, c. 196, s. 8.)

Art. 2A. Sales under Power of Sale.

Part 1. General Provisions.

§ 45-21.1. Definitions.—As used in this article, "sale" means only a sale of real or personal property pursuant to—

(1) An express power of sale contained in a mortgage, deed of trust, or conditional sale contract, or

(2) A power of sale provided by statute with respect to a mortgage or deed of trust of personal property, or conditional sale contract, which does not contain an express power of sale. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The act inserting this and the two following articles, and transferring and repealing certain sections under article 3, is effective as of Jan. 1, 1950. See Session Laws 1949, c. 720, s. 7. Section 6 of the act provides that it does not apply to any sale commenced prior to such effective date, and that a sale has been commenced if a notice of sale has been posted or published. And § 5 provides: "The present law shall remain in effect for the completion of sales under power of sale to which this act, under section 6, does not apply."

For a brief discussion of this article, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 479.

§ 45-21.2. Article not applicable to foreclosure by court action.—This article does not affect any right to foreclosure by action in court, and is not applicable to any such action. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.3. Days on which sale may be held.—A sale may be held on any day except Sunday. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.4. Place of sale of real property.—(a) Every sale of real property shall be held in the county where the property is situated unless the property consists of a single tract situated in two or more counties.

(b) A sale of a single tract of real property situated in two or more counties may be held in any one of the counties in which any part of the tract is situated. As used in this section, a "single tract" means any tract which has a continuous boundary, regardless of whether parts thereof may have been acquired at different times or from different persons, or whether it may have been subdivided into other units or lots, or whether it is sold as a whole or in parts.

(c) When a mortgage or deed of trust with power of sale of real property designates the place of sale within the county, the sale shall be held at the place so designated.

(d) When a mortgage or deed of trust with power of sale of real property confers upon the mortgagee or trustee the right to designate the place of sale, the sale shall be held at the place within the county designated by the mortgagee or trustee in the notice of sale.

(e) When a mortgage or deed of trust with power of sale of real property does not designate, or confer upon the mortgagee or trustee the right to designate, the place of sale, or when it designates as the place of sale some county in which no part of the property is situated, such real property shall be sold as follows:

(1) Property situated wholly within a single county shall be sold at the courthouse door of the county in which the land is situated.

(2) A single tract of property situated in two or more counties may be sold at the courthouse door of any one of the counties in which some part of the real property is situated. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.5. Place of sale of personal property.—(a) When a mortgage, deed of trust or conditional sale contract designates the county in which a sale of personal property shall be held or the place of sale within the county, the terms of the instrument shall be complied with.

(b) When the instrument does not designate the county in which a sale of personal property shall be held, the sale may be held in any county—

(1) When such instrument is recorded, if it has been recorded as provided by G. S. § 47-20 or G. S. § 47-23; or

(2) Where the property, or any part thereof, is located when the mortgagee, trustee or vendor takes possession of, or repossesses, it.

(c) When the instrument does not designate the particular place of sale within the county, the sale shall be held at such place therein as is designated in the notice of sale by the mortgagee, trustee or vendor. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.6. Presence of personal property at sale required.—The person holding a sale of personal property shall have the property present at the place of sale unless—

(1) The instrument containing the power of sale specifically provides otherwise, or

(2) Prior to the sale, the clerk of the superior court in his discretion, upon application of any interested party, and upon notice being given, as provided by article 48 of chapter 1, to all parties in interest, issues an order authorizing the sale to be held without the property being present because the nature, condition or use of the property is such that the clerk deems it impractical or inadvisable to require the presence of the property at the sale. In such event, the order shall provide that reasonable opportunity be afforded prospective bidders to inspect the property prior to the sale, and that notice as to the time and place for inspection be set out in the notice of sale. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.7. Sale of separate tracts in different counties.—(a) When the property to be sold consists of separate tracts of real property situated in different counties, there shall be a separate advertisement, sale and report of sale of the property in each county. The report of sale for the property in any one county shall be filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such property is situated. The sale, and each subsequent resale, of each such tract shall be subject to a separate upset bid. The clerk of the superior court of the county where the property is situated has jurisdiction with respect to resale of property situated within his county. To the extent the clerk deems necessary, the sale of each separate tract within his county, with respect to which an upset bid is received, shall be treated as a separate sale for the purpose of determining the procedure applicable thereto.

(b) The exercise of the power of sale with respect to a separate tract of property in one county does not extinguish or otherwise affect the right to exercise the power of sale with respect to tracts of property in another county to satisfy the obligation secured by the mortgage or deed of trust. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.8. Sale as a whole or in parts.—(a) When the instrument pursuant to which a sale is to be held contains provisions with respect to whether the property therein described is to be sold as a whole or in parts, the terms of the instrument shall be complied with.

(b) When the instrument contains no provisions with respect to whether the property therein described is to be sold as a whole or in parts, the person exercising the power of sale may, in his discretion, subject to the provisions of G. S. § 45-21.9, sell the property as a whole or in such parts or parcels thereof as are separately described in the instrument, or he may offer the property for sale by each method and sell the property by the method which produces the highest price.

(c) This section does not affect the equitable principle of marshaling assets. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.9. Amount to be sold when property sold in parts; sale of remainder if necessary.—(a) When a person exercising a power of sale sells property in parts pursuant to G. S. § 45-21.8 he shall sell as many of such separately described units and parcels as in his judgment seems necessary to satisfy the obligation secured by the instrument pursuant to which the sale is being made, and the costs and expenses of the sale.

(b) If the proceeds of a sale of only a part of the property are insufficient to satisfy the obligation secured by the instrument pursuant to which the sale is made and the costs and expenses of the sale, the person authorized to exercise the power of sale may readvertise the unsold property and may sell as many additional units or parcels thereof as in his judgment seems necessary to satisfy the remainder of the secured obligation, and the costs and expenses of the sale. The readvertisement of such sale shall be made as provided by G. S. § 45-21.17 in the case of real property or G. S. § 45-21.18 in the case of personal property.

(c) When the entire obligation has been satisfied by a sale of only a part of the property with respect to which a power of sale exists, the lien on the part of the property not so sold is discharged.

(d) The fact that more property is sold than is necessary to satisfy the obligation secured by the instrument pursuant to which the power of sale is exercised does not affect the validity of the title of any purchaser of property at any such sale. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.10. Requirement of cash deposit at sale.—(a) If a mortgage or deed of trust contains provisions with respect to a cash deposit at the sale, the terms of the instrument shall be complied with.

(b) If the instrument contains no provision with respect to a cash deposit at the sale, the mortgagee or trustee holding the sale of real property may require the highest bidder immediately to make a cash deposit not to exceed ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the bid up to and including $1,000, plus five per cent (5%) of any excess over $1,000.

(c) If the highest bidder fails to make the required deposit, the person holding the sale may at the same time and place immediately reoffer the property for sale. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.11. Application of statute of limitations to serial notes.—When a series of notes maturing at different times is secured by a mortgage, deed of trust or conditional sale contract and the exercise of the power of sale for the satisfaction of one or more of the notes is barred by the statute of limitations, that fact does not bar the exercise of the power of sale for the satisfaction of indebtedness represented by other notes of the series not so barred. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.12. Power of sale barred when foreclosure barred.—(a) Except as provided in subsection (b), no person shall exercise any power of sale contained in any mortgage, deed of trust or conditional sale contract, or provided by statute, when an action to foreclose the mortgage or deed of trust, or to enforce the conditional sale contract, is barred by the statute of limitations.

(b) If a sale pursuant to a power of sale contained in a mortgage, deed of trust or conditional sale contract, or provided by statute, is commenced within the time allowed by the statute of limitations to foreclose such mortgage or deed of trust, or to enforce such conditional sale contract, the sale may be completed although such completion is effected after the time when commencement of an action to foreclose would be barred by the statute. For the purpose of this section, a sale is commenced when the notice of the sale is first posted or published as provided by this article or by the terms of the instrument pursuant to which the power of sale is being exercised. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.13. Conditional sale contract; mortgage or deed of trust of personal property; statutory power of sale.—When a conditional sale contract or mortgage or deed of trust of personal property, does not contain an express power of sale a power of sale is hereby conferred upon the vendor, mortgagee or trustee, which power may be exercised in the same manner as an express power of sale, except as provided by G. S. § 45-21.18. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.14. Clerk's authority to compel report or accounting; contempt proceeding.—Whenever any person fails to file any report or account, provided by this article, or files an incorrect or incomplete report or account, the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction on his own motion or the motion of any interested party, may issue an order directing such person to file a correct and complete report or account within twenty days after service of the order on him. If such person fails to comply with the order, the clerk may issue an attachment against him for contempt, and may commit him to jail until he files such correct and complete report or account. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.15. Trustee's fees.—(a) When a sale has been held, the trustee is entitled to such compensation, if any, as is stipulated in the instrument.

(b) When no sale has actually been held, compensation for a trustee's services is determined as follows:

(1) If no compensation for the trustee's services in holding a sale is provided for in the instrument, the trustee is not entitled to any compensation;

(2) If compensation is specifically provided for the trustee's services when no sale is actually held, the trustee is entitled to such compensation;

(3) If the instrument provides for compensation for the trustee's services in actually holding a sale, but does not provide compensation for the trustee's services when no sale is actually held, the trustee is entitled to such compensation as the parties agree upon;

(4) If the instrument provides for compensation for the trustee's services in actually holding a sale, but does not provide compensation for the trustee's services when no sale is actually held, and the parties are not able to agree as to the trustee's compensation, then five per cent (5%) of the amount of the obligation secured by the instrument, not exceeding the amount stipulated in the instrument as compensation for the trustee's services in actually holding a sale, shall be deposited with the clerk of the superior court. Such sum shall be held by the clerk until the trustee's compensation is fixed by the clerk, upon petition by the trustee, after notice to the person who deposited such sum. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

Part 2. Procedure for Sale.

§ 45-21.16. Contents of notice of sale.—The notice of sale shall—

(1) Refer to the instrument pursuant to which the sale is held;

(2) Designate the date, hour and place of sale consistent with the provisions of the instrument and this article;

(3) Describe real property to be sold substantially as it is described in the instrument containing the power of sale, and may add such further description as will acquaint bidders with the nature and location of the property;

(4) Describe personal property to be sold substantially as it is described in the instrument pursuant to which the power of sale is being exercised, and may add such further description as will acquaint bidders with the nature of the property;

(5) State the terms of the sale provided for by the instrument pursuant to which the sale is held, including the amount of the cash deposit, if any, to be made by the highest bidder at the sale; and

(6) Include any other provisions required by the instrument to be included therein. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.17. Posting and publishing notice of sale of real property.—(a) When the instrument pursuant to which a sale of real property is to be held contains provisions with respect to posting or publishing notice of sale of the real property, such provisions shall be complied with, and compliance therewith is sufficient notice.

(b) When the instrument pursuant to which a sale of real property is to be held contains no provision with respect to posting or publishing notice of the sale of real property, the notice shall—

(1) Be posted, at the courthouse door in the county in which the property is situated, for thirty days immediately preceding the sale.

(2) And in addition thereto,

a. If a newspaper qualified for legal advertising is published in the county, the notice shall be published in such a newspaper once a week for at least four successive weeks; but

b. If no such newspaper is published in the county, the notice shall be posted at three other public places in the county for thirty days immediately preceding the sale.

(c) When the notice of sale is published in a newspaper,

(1) The period from the date of the first publication to the date of the last publication, both dates inclusive, shall not be less than twenty-two days, including Sundays, and

(2) The date of the last publication shall not be more than seven days preceding the date of sale.

(d) When the real property to be sold is situated in more than one county, the provisions of subsections (a) or (b) whichever is applicable, and subsection (c) shall be complied with in each county in which any part of the property is situated. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

Effect of Notice to Discontinue Publication of Notice of Sale.—A notice, from the trustee in a mortgage or deed of trust to a person authorized by him to advertise a sale of the property thereunder, to withhold or discontinue publication of the notice of sale, withdraws from such person any authority to advertise or sell the property and breaks the continuity of publication of notice required by former § 1-325, and no subsequent renewal of authority can bridge the gap or restore the publication to its original status. Smith v. Bank of Pinehurst, 223 N. C. 249, 25 S. E. (2d) 859.

§ 45-21.18. Posting notice of sale of personal property; mailing notice when statutory power of sale exercised.—(a) When an instrument containing an express power of sale of personal property contains provisions with respect to posting or publishing a notice of sale of the property, such provisions shall be complied with, and compliance therewith is sufficient notice.

(b) When the instrument pursuant to which a sale of personal property is to be held contains no provision with respect to posting or publishing notice of the sale, the notice of sale, except in the case of perishable property as described in G. S. § 45-21.19, shall be posted, at the courthouse door in the county in which the sale is to be held, for ten days immediately preceding the sale.

(c) When a mortgage or deed of trust of personal property, or a conditional sale contract, contains no express power of sale, any person exercising the statutory power of sale provided therefor, in addition to the posting of notice required by subsection (b), shall, at least ten days before the date of sale, mail by registered mail a copy of the notice of sale to the mortgagor or grantor in case of a mortgage or deed of trust of personal property, or the vendee in case of a conditional sale contract—

(1) At the actual address of the mortgagor, grantor or vendee, if such address is known to the mortgagee, trustee or vendor, or

(2) At the address, if any, furnished the mortgagee, trustee or vendor by the mortgagor, grantor or vendee, when the actual address is not known to the mortgagee, trustee or vendor.

(d) If the actual address of the mortgagor, grantor or vendee is not known to the mortgagee, trustee or vendor, and if no address of the mortgagor, grantor or vendee has been furnished to the mortgagee, trustee or vendor, no mailing of a copy of the notice of sale pursuant to subsection (c) is required. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.19. Exception; perishable property.—If, in the opinion of a person who is about to exercise a power of sale of personal property, the property is perishable because subject to rapid deterioration, such person may report such fact together with a description of the property to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the property is to be sold, and apply for authority to sell the property at an earlier date than this article would otherwise permit. If the clerk determines that the property is such perishable property, he shall order a sale thereof to be held at such time and place and upon such notice to be given in such manner and for such length of time as he deems advisable. If the clerk makes no such order, the person authorized to hold the sale shall proceed as if the matter had not been presented to the clerk. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.20. Satisfaction of debt after publishing or posting notice, but before completion of sale.—A power of sale is terminated if, prior to the time fixed for a sale, or prior to the expiration of the time for submitting any upset bid after a sale or resale has been held, payment is made or tendered of—

(1) The obligation secured by the mortgage, deed of trust or conditional sale contract, and

(2) The expenses incurred with respect to the sale or proposed sale, which in the case of a deed of trust also include compensation for the trustee's services under the conditions set forth in G. S. § 45-21.15. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.21. Postponement of sale.—(a) Any person exercising a power of sale may postpone the sale to a day certain not later than six days, exclusive of Sunday, after the original date for the sale—

(1) When there are no bidders, or

(2) When, in his judgment, the number of prospective bidders at the sale is substantially decreased by inclement weather or by any casualty, or

(3) When there are so many other sales advertised to be held at the same time and place as to make it inexpedient and impracticable in his judgment, to hold the sale on that day, or

(4) When he is unable to hold the sale because of illness or for other good reason, or

(5) When other good cause exists.

(b) Upon postponement of a sale, the person exercising the power of sale shall personally, or through his agent or attorney—

(1) At the time and place advertised for the sale, publicly announce the postponement thereof, and

(2) On the same day, attach to or enter on the original notice of sale or a copy thereof, posted at the courthouse door, as provided by G. S. § 45-21.17 in the case of real property or G. S. § 45-21.18 in the case of personal property, a notice of the postponement.

(c) The posted notice of postponement shall—

(1) State that the sale is postponed,

(2) State the hour and date to which the sale is postponed,

(3) State the reason for the postponement, and

(4) Be signed by the person authorized to hold the sale, or by his agent or attorney.

(d) If a sale is not held at the time fixed therefor and is not postponed as provided by this section, or if a postponed sale is not held at the time fixed therefor, the person authorized to hold the sale may readvertise the property in the same manner as he was required to advertise the sale which was not held, and may hold a sale at such later date as is fixed in the new notice of sale. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.22. Procedure upon dissolution of order restraining or enjoining sale.—(a) When, before the date fixed for a sale, a judge dissolves an order restraining or enjoining the sale, he may, if the required notice of sale has been given, provide by order that the sale shall be held without additional notice at the time and place originally fixed therefor, or he may, in his discretion, make an order with respect thereto as provided in subsection (b).

(b) When, after the date fixed for a sale, a judge dissolves an order restraining or enjoining the sale, he shall by order fix the time and place for the sale to be held upon notice to be given in such manner and for such length of time as he deems advisable. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.23. Time of sale.—(a) A sale shall begin at the time designated in the notice of sale or as soon thereafter as practicable, but not later than one hour after the time fixed therefor unless it is delayed by other sales held at the same place.

(b) No sale shall commence before 10:00 o'clock A. M. or after 4:00 o'clock P. M.

(c) No sale shall continue after 4:00 o'clock P. M., except that in cities or towns of more than five thousand inhabitants, as shown by the most recent federal census, sales of personal property may continue until 10:00 o'clock P. M. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.24. Continuance of uncompleted sale.—A sale commenced but not completed within the time allowed by G. S. § 45-21.23 shall be continued by the person holding the sale to a designated time between 10:00 o'clock A. M. and 4:00 o'clock P. M. the next following day, other than Sunday. In case such continuance becomes ne essary, the person holding the sale shall publicly announce the time to which the sale is continued. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.25. Delivery of personal property; bill of sale.—The person holding a sale of personal property shall deliver the property to the purchaser immediately upon receipt of the purchase price. The person holding the sale may also execute and deliver a bill of sale or other muniment of title for any personal property sold, and upon application of the purchaser, shall do so when required by the clerk of the superior court of the county where the property is sold. No report of such sale is necessary. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.26. Preliminary report of sale of real property.—(a) The person exercising a power of sale of real property, shall, within five days after the date of the sale, file a report thereof with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the sale was had.

(b) The report shall be signed by the person authorized to hold the sale, or by his agent or attorney, and shall show—

(1) The authority under which the person making the sale acted;

(2) The name of the mortgagor or grantor;

(3) The name of the mortgagee or trustee;

(4) The date of the sale;

(5) A reference to the book and page in the office of the register of deeds, where the instrument is recorded or, if not recorded, a description of the property sold, sufficient to identify it, and, if sold in parts, a description of each part so sold;

(6) The name or names of the person or persons to whom the property was sold;

(7) The price at which the property, or each part thereof, was sold, and that such price was the highest bid therefor;

(8) The name of the person making the report; and

(9) The date of the report. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.27. Upset bid on real property; compliance bond.—(a) An upset bid is an advanced, increased or raised bid whereby any person offers to purchase real property theretofore sold, for an amount exceeding the reported sale price by ten per cent (10%) of the first $1000 thereof plus five per cent (5%) of any excess above $1000, but in any event with a minimum increase of $25, such increase being deposited in cash with the clerk of the superior court, with whom the report of the sale was filed, within ten days after the filing of such report. An upset bid need not be in writing, and the timely deposit with the clerk of the required amount, together with an indication to the clerk as to the sale to which it is applicable, is sufficient to constitute the upset bid, subject to the provisions of subsection (b).

(b) The clerk of the superior court may require the person submitting an upset bid also to deposit a cash bond, or, in lieu thereof at the option of the bidder, a surety bond, approved by the clerk. The amount of such bond shall not exceed the amount of the upset bid less the amount of the required deposit.

(c) The clerk of the superior court may in the order of sale require the highest bidder at a resale had pursuant to an upset bid to deposit with the clerk a cash bond, or, in lieu thereof at the option of the bidder, a surety bond, approved by the clerk. The bond shall be in such amount as the clerk deems adequate, but in no case greater than the amount of the bid of the person being required to furnish the bond.

(d) A compliance bond, such as is provided for by subsections (b) and (c), shall be payable to the state of North Carolina for the use of the parties in interest and shall be conditioned on the principal obligor's compliance with his bid. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

Mortgagor or Trustor May Make Advanced Bid.—Under former § 45-28, of similar import to this and the two following sections, the mortgagor or trustor was entitled to procure resales through advanced bids made in conformity with the statute. In re Sale of Land of Sharpe, 230 N. C. 412, 53 S. E. (2d) 302.

And Repeatedly Procure Resales Thereby.—The fact that the trustor repeatedly procured resales through the making of advanced bids in compliance with former § 45-28 worked no legal wrong upon the cestui and was within the trustor's right, even though he procured such upset bids for the purpose of delaying foreclosure and the recovery by the cestui of the indebtedness. In re Sale of Land of Sharpe, 230 N. C. 412, 53 S. E. (2d) 302.

Clerk Cannot Require Larger Deposit than That Required by Statute. — Under former § 45-28, it was held that the clerk had no authority to require a cash deposit for an upset bid in excess of that prescribed by the statute, or to require a person desirous of making an advance bid to deposit 15% of such bid in cash or certified or cashier's check. In re Sale of Land of Sharpe, 230 N. C. 412, 53 S. E. (2d) 302

Applied, as to former § 45-28, in McCullen v. Durham, 229 N. C. 418, 50 S. E. (2d) 511.

§ 45-21.28. Separate upset bids when real property sold in parts; subsequent procedure.—When real property is sold in parts, as provided by G. S. § 45-21.8, the sale and each subsequent resale, of any such part is subject to a separate upset bid; and, to the extent the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction deems advisable, the sale of each such part shall thereafter be treated as a separate sale for the purpose of determining the procedure applicable thereto. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.29. Resale of real property; jurisdiction; procedure.—(a) When an upset bid on real property is submitted to the clerk of the superior court, together with a compliance bond if one is required, the clerk shall order a resale.

(b) Notice of any resale to be held because of an upset bid shall—

(1) Be posted, at the courthouse door in the county in which the property is situated, for fifteen days immediately preceding the sale.

(2) And in addition thereto,

a. If a newspaper qualified for legal advertising is published in the county, the notice shall be published in such a newspaper once a week for at least two successive weeks; but

b. If no such newspaper is published in the county, the notice shall be posted at three other public places in the county for fifteen days immediately preceding the sale.

(c) When the notice of resale is published in a newspaper,

(1) The period from the date of the first publication to the date of the last publication, both dates inclusive, shall not be less than eight days, including Sunday, and

(2) The date of the last publication shall not be more than seven days preceding the date of sale.

(d) When the real property to be resold is situated in more than one county, the provisions of subsections (b) and (c) shall be complied with in each county in which any part of the property is situated.

(e) The person holding the resale shall report the resale in the same manner as required by G. S. § 45-21.26.

(f) When there is no bid at a resale other than the upset bid resulting in such resale, the person who made the upset bid is deemed the highest bidder at the resale. Such resale remains subject to other upset bids and resales pursuant to this article.

(g) Resales may be had as often as upset bids are submitted in compliance with this article.

(h) Except as otherwise provided in this section, all the provisions of this article applicable to an original sale are applicable to resales.

(i) The clerk of the superior court shall make all such orders as may be just and necessary to safeguard the interests of all parties, and shall have authority to fix and determine all necessary procedural details with respect to resales in all instances in which this article fails to make definite provision as to such procedure. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

Clerk Must Order Resale Each Time Upset Bid Is Placed. —Under former § 45-28 it was held that the clerk of the superior court was required to order a resale of property foreclosed under power contained in a deed of trust each time an advance bid was made in accordance with the statute, regardless of how often an upset bid may be placed. In re Sale of Land of Sharpe, 230 N. C. 412, 53 S. E. (2d) 302. See notes to § 45-21.27.

He May Not Make Orders Abrogating Rights Conferred by Statute. — The provision of former § 45-28 that the clerk should make such orders as may be just and necessary to safeguard the interests of all parties did not authorize him to enter orders abrogating rights conferred by the statute. In re Sale of Land of Sharpe, 230 N. C. 412, 53 S. E. (2d) 302.

§ 45-21.30. Failure of bidder to make cash deposit or to comply with bid; resale.—(a) If the terms of a sale of real or personal property require the highest bidder to make a cash deposit at the sale, and he fails to make such required deposit, the person holding the sale shall at the same time and place again offer the property for sale.

(b) When the highest bidder at a sale of personal property for cash fails to pay the amount of his bid, the person holding the sale shall at the same time and place again offer the property for sale. In the event no other bid is received, a new sale may be advertised in the regular manner provided by this article for an original sale.

(c) When the highest bidder at a sale or resale of real property fails to comply with his bid upon tender to him of a deed for the property or after a bona fide attempt to tender such deed, the person authorized to sell the property may hold a resale. The procedure for such resale is the same in every respect as is provided by this article in the case of an original sale of real property except that the provisions of G. S. § 45-21.29 (b), (c) and (d) apply with respect to the posting and publishing of the notice of such resale.

(d) A defaulting bidder at any sale or resale is liable on his bid, and in case a resale is had because of such default, he shall remain liable to the extent that the final sale price is less than his bid plus all costs of such resale or resales.

(e) Nothing in this section deprives any person of any other remedy against the defaulting bidder. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.31. Disposition of proceeds of sale; payment of surplus to clerk.—(a) The proceeds of any sale shall be applied by the person making the sale, in the following order, to the payment of—

(1) Costs and expenses of the sale, including the trustee's commission, if any, and a reasonable auctioneer's fee if such expense has been incurred;

(2) Taxes due and unpaid on the property sold, as provided by G. S. § 105-408, if the property sold is real property;

(3) Special assessments, or any installments thereof, against the property sold, which are due and unpaid, as provided by G. S. § 105-408, if the property sold is real property;

(4) The obligation secured by the mortgage, deed of trust or conditional sale contract.

(b) Any surplus remaining after the application of the proceeds of the sale as set out in subsection (a) shall be paid to the person or persons entitled thereto, if the person who made the sale knows who is entitled thereto. Otherwise, the surplus shall be paid to the clerk of the superior court of the county where the sale was had—

(1) In all cases when the owner of the property sold is dead and there is no qualified and acting personal representative of his estate, and

(2) In all cases when he is unable to locate the persons entitled thereto, and

(3) In all cases when the mortgagee, trustee or vendor is, for any cause, in doubt as to who is entitled to such surplus money, and

(4) In all cases when adverse claims thereto are asserted.

(c) Such payment to the clerk discharges the mortgagee, trustee or vendor from liability to the extent of the amount so paid.

(d) The clerk shall receive such money from the mortgagee, trustee or vendor and shall execute a receipt therefor.

(e) The clerk is liable on his official bond for the safekeeping of money so received until it is paid to the party or parties entitled thereto, or until it is paid out under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.32. Special proceeding to determine ownership of surplus.—(a) A special proceeding may be instituted before the clerk of the superior court by any person claiming any money, or part thereof, paid into the clerk's office under G. S. § 45-21.31, to determine who is entitled thereto.

(b) All other persons who have filed with the clerk notice of their claim to the money or any part thereof, or who, as far as the petitioner or petitioners know, assert any claim to the money or any part thereof, shall be made defendants in the proceeding.

(c) If any answer is filed raising issues of fact as to the ownership of the money, the proceeding shall be transferred to the civil issue docket of the superior court for trial. When a proceeding is so transferred, the clerk may require any party to the proceeding who asserts a claim to the fund by petition or answer to furnish a bond for costs in the amount of $200.00 or otherwise comply with the provisions of G. S. § 1-109.

(d) The court may, in its discretion, allow a reasonable attorney's fee for any attorney appearing in behalf of the party or parties who prevail, to be paid out of the funds in controversy, and shall tax all costs against the losing party or parties who asserted a claim to the fund by petition or answer. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

§ 45-21.33. Final report of sale of real property.—(a) A person who holds a sale of real property pursuant to a power of sale shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county where the sale is held a final report and account of his receipts and disbursements within thirty days after the receipt of the proceeds of such sale. Such report shall show whether the property was sold as a whole or in parts and whether all of the property was sold. The report shall also show whether all or only a part of the obligation was satisfied with respect to which the power of sale of property was exercised.

(b) The clerk shall audit the account and record it.

(c) The person who holds the sale shall also file with the clerk—

(1) A copy of the notices of sale and resale, if any, which were posted, and

(2) A copy of the notices of sale and resale, if any, which were published in a newspaper, together with an affidavit of publication thereof, if the notices were so published.

(d) The clerk's fee for auditing and recording the final account is a part of the expenses of the sale, and the person holding the sale shall pay the clerk's fee as part of such expenses. (1949, c. 720, s. 1.)

Art. 2B. Injunctions; Deficiency Judgments.

§ 45-21.34. Enjoining mortgage sales or confirmations thereof on equitable grounds.—Any owner of real estate, or other person, firm or corporation having a legal or equitable interest therein, may apply to a judge of the superior court, prior to the confirmation of any sale of such real estate by a mortgagee, trustee, commissioner or other person authorized to sell the same, to enjoin such sale or the confirmation thereof, upon the ground that the amount bid or price offered therefor is inadequate and inequitable and will result in irreparable damage to the owner or other interested person, or upon any other legal or equitable ground which the court may deem sufficient: Provided, that the court or judge enjoining such sale or the confirmation thereof, whether by a temporary restraining order or injunction to the hearing, shall, as a condition precedent, require of the plaintiff or applicant such bond or deposit as may be necessary to indemnify and save harmless the mortgagee, trustee, cestui que trust, or other person enjoined and affected thereby against costs, depreciation, interest and other damages, if any, which may result from the granting of such order or injunction: Provided further, that in other respects the procedure shall be as is now prescribed by law in cases of injunction and receivership, with the right of appeal to the supreme court from any such order or injunction. (1933, c. 275, s. 1; 1949, c. 720, s. 3.)

Cross Reference.—As to effective date and application of act inserting this article, see note under § 45-21.1.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1949 amendment, effective as of Jan. 1, 1950, this section appeared as § 45-32.

§ 45-21.35. Ordering resales before confirmation; receivers for property; tax payments.—The court or judge granting such order or injunction, or before whom the same is returnable, shall have the right before, but not after, any sale is confirmed to order a resale by the mortgagee, trustee, commissioner, or other person authorized to make the same in such manner and upon such terms as may be just and equitable: Provided, the rights of all parties in interest, or who may be affected thereby, shall be preserved and protected by bond or indemnity in such form and amount as the court may require, and the court or judge may also appoint a receiver of the property or the rents and proceeds thereof, pending any sale or resale, and may make such order for the payment of taxes or other prior lien as may be necessary, subject to the right of appeal to the supreme court in all cases. (1933, c. 275, s. 2; 1949, c. 720, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1949 amendment, effective as of Jan. 1, 1950, this section appeared as § 45-33.

§ 45-21.36. Right of mortgagor to prove in deficiency suits reasonable value of property by way of defense.—When any sale of real estate or personal property has been made by a mortgagee, trustee, or other person authorized to make the same, at which the mortgagee, payee or other holder of the obligation thereby secured becomes the purchaser and takes title either directly or indirectly, and thereafter such mortgagee, payee or other holder of the secured obligation, as aforesaid, shall sue for and undertake to recover a deficiency judgment against the mortgagor, trustor or other maker of any such obligation whose property has been so purchased, it shall be competent and lawful for the defendant against whom such deficiency judgment is sought to allege and show as matter of defense and off-set, but not by way of counter-claim, that the property sold was fairly worth the amount of the debt secured by it at the time and place of sale or that the amount bid was substantially less than its true value, and, upon such showing, to defeat or off-set any deficiency judgment against him, either in whole or in part: Provided, this section shall not affect nor apply to the rights of other purchasers or of innocent third parties, nor shall it be held to affect or defeat the negotiability of any note, bond or other obligation secured by such mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument: Provided, further, this section shall not apply to foreclosure sales made pursuant to an order or decree of court nor to any judgment sought or rendered in any foreclosure suit nor to any sale made and confirmed prior to April 18, 1933. (1933, c. 275, s. 3; 1949, c. 720, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1949 amendment, effective as of Jan. 1, 1950, this section appeared as § 45-34.

§ 45-21.37. Certain sections not applicable to tax suits.—Sections 45-21.34 through 45-21.36 do not apply to tax foreclosure suits or tax sales. (1933, c. 275, s. 4; 1949, c. 720, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment, effective as of Jan. 1, 1950, rewrote § 45-35 to appear as this section.

§ 45-21.38. Deficiency judgments abolished where mortgage represents part of purchase price; deficiency judgment under conditional sale contract. —In all sales of real property by mortgagees and/or trustees under powers of sale contained in any mortgage or deed of trust executed after February 6, 1933, or where judgment or decree is given for the foreclosure of any mortgage executed after February 6, 1933, to secure payment of the balance of the purchase price of real property, the mortgagee or trustee or holder of the notes secured by such mortgage or deed of trust shall not be entitled to a deficiency judgment on account of such mortgage, deed of trust or obligation secured by the same: Provided, said evidence of indebtedness shows upon the face that it is for balance of purchase money for real estate: Provided, further, that when said note or notes are prepared under the direction and supervision of the seller or sellers, he, it, or they shall cause a provision to be inserted in said note disclosing that it is for purchase money of real estate; in default of which the seller or sellers shall be liable to purchaser for any loss which he might sustain by reason of the failure to insert said provision as herein set out.

Whenever a power of sale contained in a conditional sale contract, or granted by statute with respect thereto, is exercised, and the proceeds of such sale are not sufficient to defray the expenses thereof, and also the expenses of retaking, keeping and storing the goods and the balance due upon the purchase price, the seller may recover the deficiency from the buyer, or from anyone who has succeeded to the obligations of the buyer. (1933, c. 36; 1949, c. 720, s. 3; c. 856.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the first 1949 amendment, effective as of Jan. 1, 1950, the first paragraph of this section appeared as § 45-36. The second paragraph was derived from the second 1949 act cited to the section and became effective April 8, 1949.

Foreign Executed Mortgage on Foreign Realty.—This section does not limit the jurisdiction of the federal district court in an action by a nonresident for a deficiency judgment amounting to $3,000 where the land mortgaged was in Virginia and the deed of trust signed by defendant was a Virginia contract securing notes signed by defendant and made payable at a bank in Roanoke, Virginia. Bullington v. Angel, 56 F. Supp. 372, affirmed in Angel v. Bullington, 150 F. (2d) 679, holding that this section did not bar action in federal district court in North Carolina for deficiency judgment under a contract executed in Virginia and valid there. But see Angel v. Bullington, 330 U. S. 183, 67 S. Ct. 657, 91 L. Ed. 557, reversing such case on the ground that the decision of the North Carolina supreme court denying a deficiency judgment in a previous suit on the same contract was res judicata.

Art. 2C. Validating Sections; Limitation of Time for Attacking Certain Foreclosures.

§ 45-21.39. Limitation of time for attacking certain foreclosures on ground trustee was agent, etc., of owner of debt.—1. No action or proceeding shall be brought or defense or counterclaim pleaded later than one year after March 14, 1941 in which a foreclosure sale which occurred prior to January 1, 1941, under a deed of trust conveying real estate as security for a debt is attacked or otherwise questioned upon the ground that the trustee was an officer, director, attorney, agent or employee of the owner of the whole or any part of the debt secured thereby, or upon the ground that the trustee and the owner of the debt or any part thereof have common officers, directors, attorneys, agents or employees.

2. This section shall not be construed to give or create any cause of action where none existed before March 14, 1941, nor shall the limitation provided in subsection one hereof have the effect of barring any cause of action based upon grounds other than those mentioned in said section, unless the grounds set out in subsection one are an essential part thereof.

3. This section shall not be construed to enlarge the time in which to bring any action or proceeding or to plead any defense or counterclaim; and the limitation hereby created is in addition to all other limitations now existing. (1941, c. 202; 1949, c. 720, s. 4.)

Cross Reference.—As to effective date and application of act inserting this article, see note to § 45-21.1.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, this section appeared as § 45-22.

§ 45-21.40. Real property; validation of deeds made after expiration of statute of limitations where sales made prior thereto.—In all cases where sales of real property have been made under powers of sale contained in mortgages or deeds of trust and such sales have been made within the times which would have been allowed by the statute of limitations for the commencement of actions to foreclose such mortgages or deed of trust, and the execution and delivery of deeds in consummation of such sales have been delayed until after the expiration of the period which would have been allowed by the statute of limitations for the commencement of actions to foreclose such mortgages or deeds of trust as a result of the filing of raised or increased bids, such deeds in the exercise of the power of sale are hereby validated and are declared to have the same effect as if they had been executed and delivered within the period allowed by the statute of limitations for the commencement of actions to foreclose such mortgages or deeds of trust. (1943, c. 16, s. 2; 1949, c. 720, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, this section appeared as § 45-26.1.

§ 45-21.41. Orders signed on days other than first and third Mondays validated; force and effect of deeds.—In all actions for the foreclosure of any mortgage or deed of trust which has heretofore been instituted and prosecuted before the clerk of the superior court of any county in North Carolina, wherein the judgment confirming the sale made by the commissioner appointed in said action, and ordering the said commissioner to execute a deed to the purchaser, was signed by such clerk on a day other than the first or third Monday of a month, such judgment of confirmation shall be and is hereby declared to be valid and of the same force and effect as though signed and docketed on the first or third Monday of any month, and any deed made by any commissioner or commissioners in any such action where the confirmation of sale was made on a day other than a first or third Monday of the month shall be and is hereby declared to have the same force and effect as if the same were executed and delivered pursuant to a judgment of confirmation properly signed and docketed by the clerk of the superior court on a first or third

Art. 4. Discharge and Release.

§ 45-37. Discharge of record of mortgages and deeds of trust.

This subsection shall be applicable from and after one year from the date of the ratification of this act to all instruments executed prior to the enactment of chapter one hundred and ninety-two of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, and any person affected hereby shall have until said date to file the affidavit with the register of deeds referred to herein or make the entry on the margin of the record as herein provided for; provided, also, that this subsection shall be applicable from and after July 1st, 1947, to all instruments executed subsequent to March 6th, 1923, and prior to January 2nd, 1924, and any person affected by this proviso shall have until July 1st, 1947, to file the affidavit with the register of deeds referred to herein or make the entry on the margin of the record as herein provided for. (Rev., s. 1046; Code, s. 1271, 1870-1, c. 217; 1891, c. 180; 1893, c. 36; 1901, c. 46; 1917, c. 49, s. 1; 1917, c. 50, s. 1; 1923, c. 192, s. 1; 1923, c. 195; 1935, c. 47; 1945, c. 988; 1947, c. 880; C. S. 2594.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment, ratified March 20, 1945, added the first part of the above sentence at the end of subsection 5; and the 1947 amendment added the proviso. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendments only this sentence is set out.

For brief comment on the 1947 amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 407.

Not Retroactive.—

It has been uniformly held [before the 1945 and 1947 amendments] that subsection 5 of this section is prospective and does not apply to mortgages, deeds of trust or other instruments securing the payment of money which were executed prior to the enactment of the statute. Thomas v. Myers, 229 N. C. 234, 49 S. E. (2d) 478. But see amendments of 1945 and 1947.

The primary purpose sought to be accomplished by the fifth clause of this section was to promote freer marketability in cases where old and unsatisfied mortgages and deeds of trust, securing debts, were hampering real estate transaction, and this economic purpose is adequately accomplished by furnishing protection to parties who extend credit or purchase for a valuable consideration "from and after" the expiration of the fifteen year period. Smith v. Davis, 228 N. C. 172, 45 S. E. (2d) 51, 174 A. L. R. 643.

The first clause of the caption or title of the act from which the fifth clause of this section is derived indicates the primary purpose of the act, that is, to facilitate the examination of titles. Id.

Subsection 5 Does Not Protect Persons Purchasing or Extending Credit within Fifteen Year Period.—Subsection 5 of this section was not enacted for the purpose of protecting parties who extend credit or purchase for a valuable consideration within the fifteen year period fixed by the statute, but only "from and after" its expiration. Thomas v. Myers, 229 N. C. 234, 49 S. E. (2d) 478.

The presumption of payment of a mortgage or deed of trust provided for in the fifth clause of this section arises in favor of creditors or purchasers for valuable consideration from the mortgagor or trustor who extend credit or purchase after the expiration of the fifteen year period, and does not arise in favor of those who become creditors or purchasers for valuable consideration prior thereto. Smith v. Davis, 228 N. C. 172, 45 S. E. (2d) 51, 174 A. L. R. 643.

Removal of Deed of Trust as Cloud on Title.—Where a deed of trust is executed subsequent to the effective date of subsection 5 of this section, and the note thereby secured falls due more than fifteen years prior to plaintiffs' purchase of the property, and no affidavit is filed or marginal entry is made on the record by the register of deeds as required by the statute, plaintiffs are entitled to have the deed of trust removed in so far as it constitutes a cloud on their title. Thomas v. Myers, 229 N. C. 234, 49 S. E. (2d) 478.

§ 45-37.1. Validation of certain entries of cancellation made by beneficiary or assignee instead of trustee.—In all cases where, prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty, it appears from the margin or face of the record in the office of the register of deeds of any county in this state that the original beneficiary named in any deed of trust, trust indenture, or other instrument intended to secure the payment of money and constituting a lien on real estate, or his assignee of record, shall have made an entry purporting to fully satisfy and discharge the lien of such instrument, and such entry has been signed by the original payee and beneficiary in said deed of trust, or other security instrument, or by his assignee of record, or by his or their properly constituted officer, agent, attorney, or legal representatives, and has been duly witnessed by the register of deeds or his deputy, all such entries of cancellation and satisfaction are hereby validated and made full, sufficient and complete to release, satisfy and discharge the lien of such instrument, and shall have the same effect as if such entry had been made and signed by the trustee named in said deed of trust, or other security instrument, or by his duly appointed successor or substitute. (1945, c. 986.)

§ 45-38. Entry of foreclosure.—In case of foreclosure of any deed of trust, or mortgage, the trustee or mortgagee shall enter upon the margin of the record thereof the fact of such foreclosure and the date when, and the person to whom, a conveyance was made by reason thereof. In the event the entire obligation secured by a mortgage or deed of trust is satisfied by a sale of only a part of the property embraced within the terms of the mortgage or deed of trust, the trustee or mortgagee shall make an additional notation as to which property was sold and which was not sold. (1923, c. 192, s. 2; 1949, c. 720, s. 2; C. S. 2594(a).)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, added the second sentence. Section 6 of the amendatory act provides that it shall not apply to any sale commenced prior to said effective date. For brief comment on the amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 479.

Editor's Note.—The repealing act is effective as of Jan. 1, 1950. See note under §§ 45-23 to 45-26.

§ 45-42.1. Corporate cancellation of lost mortgages by register of deeds.—Upon affidavit of the secretary and treasurer of a corporation showing that the records of such corporation show that such corporation has fully paid and satisfied all of the notes secured by a mortgage or deed of trust executed by such corporation and such payment and satisfaction was made more than twenty-five years ago, and that such mortgage or deed of trust was made to a corporation which ceased to exist more than twenty-five years ago, and such affidavit shall further state that the records of such corporation show that no payments have been made on such mortgage by the corporation executing such mortgage or deed of trust for twenty-five years, the register of deeds of the county in which such mortgage or deed of trust is recorded is authorized and empowered to file such affidavit and record the same in his office and make reference thereto on the margin of the record in which the said mortgage or deed of trust is recorded, and, upon making such entry, the said mortgage or deed of trust shall be deemed to be cancelled and satisfied and the said register of deeds is hereby authorized to cancel the same of record: Provided, that this section shall not apply to any mortgagor corporation except those in which the state of North Carolina owns more than a majority of the capital stock and shall not apply to any mortgage or deed of trust in which the principal amount secured thereby exceeds the sum of fifteen thousand dollars: Provided, such cancellation shall not bar any action to foreclose such mortgage or deed of trust instituted within ninety days after the same is cancelled. (1945, c. 1090.)

Chapter 46. Partition.

Art. 1. Partition of Real Property.

Art. 2. Partition Sales of Real Property.

Art. 4. Partition of Personal Property.

Art. 1. Partition of Real Property.

I. IN GENERAL.

Applied in Moore v. Baker, 224 N. C. 133, 29 S. E. (2d) 452.

III. PLEA OF SOLE SEIZIN.

Burden of Proof.—

Where defendants in partition deny co-tenancy and plead sole seizin, the burden is upon plaintiffs to show title in the parties by tenancy in common. Johnson v. Johnson, 229 N. C. 541, 50 S. E. (2d) 569.

Applied in Buffaloe v. Barnes, 226 N. C. 313, 38 S. E. (2d) 222.

§ 46-7.1. Compensation of commissioners.—The clerk of the superior court is hereby authorized to fix the compensation of commissioners for the partition or division of lands at a sum not in excess of six dollars ($6.00) per day each for the time devoted to the performance of their duties as such commissioners. (1949, c. 975.)

§ 46-8. Oath of commissioners. — The commissioners shall be sworn by a justice of the peace, the sheriff or any deputy sheriff of the county, or any other person authorized to administer oaths, to do justice among the tenants in common in respect to such partition, according to their best skill and ability. (Rev., s. 2492; Code, s. 1893; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 2; 1945, c. 472; C. S. 3220.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment authorized sheriffs and deputies to administer the oath.

Equality in value must be afforded by the assessment of an owelty charge. Moore v. Baker, 224 N. C. 498, 502, 31 S. E. (2d) 526.

§ 46-17. Report of commissioners; contents; filing.—The commissioners, within a reasonable time, not exceeding sixty days after the notification of their appointment, shall make a full and ample report of their proceedings, under the hands of any two of them, specifying therein the manner of executing their trust and describing particularly the land or parcels of land divided, and the share allotted to each tenant in severalty, with the sum or sums charged on the more valuable dividends to be paid to those of inferior value. The report shall be filed in the office of the superior court clerk: Provided, that the clerk of the superior court may, in his discretion, for good cause shown, extend the time for the filing of the report of said commissioners for an additional period not exceeding sixty days. This proviso shall be applicable to proceedings now pending for the partition of real property. (Rev., s. 2494; Code, s. 1896; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 5; 1949, c. 16; C. S. 3228.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the proviso.

§ 46-19. Confirmation and impeachment of report.—If no exception to the report of the commissioners is filed within ten days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party after confirmation may impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby. (Rev., s. 2494; Code, s. 1896; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 5; 1947, c. 484, s. 2; C. S. 3230.)

The 1947 amendment substituted "ten" for "twenty" in line two. Section 5 of the amendatory act provides that estates, proceedings and actions pending on June 30th, 1947, shall not be affected by its provisions.

Art. 2. Partition Sales of Real Property.

§ 46-25. Sale of standing timber on partition; valuation of life estate.—When two or more persons own, as tenants in common, joint tenants or co-partners, a tract of land, either in possession, or in remainder or reversion, subject to a life estate, or where one or more persons own a remainder or reversionary interest in a tract of land, subject to a life estate, then in any such case in which there is standing timber upon any such land, a sale of said timber trees, separate from the land, may be had upon the petition of one or more of said owners, or the life tenant, for partition among the owners thereof, including the life tenant, upon such terms as the court may order, and under like proceedings as are now prescribed by law for the sale of land for partition: Provided, that when the land is subject to a life estate, the life tenant shall be made a party to the proceedings, and shall be entitled to receive his portion of the net proceeds of sales, to be ascertained under the mortuary tables established by law. (Rev., s. 2510; 1895, c. 187; 1949, c. 34; C. S. 3236.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section. For brief comment on the amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 475.

Section Is Permissive.—The statute authorizing partition sale of standing timber is permissive rather than mandatory. Chandler v. Cameron, 229 N. C. 62, 47 S. E. (2d) 528, 3 A. L. R. (2d) 571.

Provision in Judgment Requiring Actual Partition of Timber.—A tenant in common, without the knowledge or authorization of his co-tenants, contracted to sell the timber on the entire tract. Thereafter he joined his co-tenants in a timber deed to another person. In an action brought by the grantee in the deed against the vendee in the contract to sell, a provision of the judgment that if the vendee elected to purchase the timber covered by the contract, there should be actual partition of the timber between the vendee and the grantee, was upheld. Chandler v. Cameron, 229 N. C. 62, 47 S. E. (2d) 528, 3 A. L. R. (2d) 571.

§ 46-27. Sale of land required for public use on cotenant's petition.—When the lands of joint tenants or tenants in common are required for public purposes, one or more of such tenants, or their guardian for them, may file a petition verified by oath, in the superior court of the county where the lands or any part of them lie, setting forth therein that the lands are required for public purposes, and that their interests would be promoted by a sale thereof. Whereupon the court, all proper parties being before it, and the facts alleged in the petition being ascertained to be true, shall order a sale of such lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary. The expenses, fees and costs of this proceeding shall be paid in the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 2518; Code, s. 1907; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 16; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 3238.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, struck out the words "in the manner and on the terms it deems expedient" formerly ending the second sentence.

§ 46-28. Sale procedure.—The procedure for a partition sale shall be the same as is provided in article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes. (Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 3239.)

(Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 3241.)

Clerk not to appoint self, assistant or deputy to sell real property.—No clerk of the superior court shall appoint himself or his assistant or deputy to make sale of any property in any proceeding before him. (Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1906; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 15; 1899, c. 161; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 3242.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1950, rewrote this section.

Sale of personal property on partition.—If a division of personal property owned by any persons as tenants in common, or joint tenants, cannot be had without injury to some of the parties interested, and a sale thereof is deemed necessary, the court shall order a sale to be made as provided in article 29A of chapter 1 of the General Statutes. (Rev., s. 2519; Code, s. 1919; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 29; 1949, c. 719, s. 2; C. S. 3255.)

The commissioner shall make certificate of acknowledgment or proof and shall return the same to the clerk of the superior court, whereupon he shall adjudge that such conveyance, power of attorney or other instrument is duly acknowledged or proved and shall order the same to be registered. (Rev., s. 991; Code, s. 1258; 1869-70, c. 185; 1945, c. 73, s. 9; C. S. 3295.)

§ 47-7. Such proofs and acknowledgments may also be taken before any judge of the superior court or justice of the supreme court, and the instruments may be probated and ordered to be registered by such judge or justice, in like manner as is provided by law for probates by clerks of the superior court in other cases. Provided, that nothing contained herein shall prevent the clerk of the superior court who is a party to any instrument, or who is a stockholder or officer of any bank or other corporation which is a party to any instrument, from adjudicating and ordering such instruments for registration as have been acknowledged or proved before some justice of the peace or notary public. All probates, adjudications and orders of registration made prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty, by any such clerk of conveyances or other papers in which said clerk is an interested party, or other papers by any corporation in which such clerk also is an officer or stockholder, are hereby validated and declared sufficient for all such purposes. (Rev., s. 995; 1891, c. 102; 1893, c. 3; 1913, c. 148. s. 1; 1921, c. 92; 1921, c. 106, s. 2; 1939, c. 210, s. 1; 1945, c. 73, s. 10; C. S. 3299.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment substituted "acknowledgment" for "privy examination."

§ 47-12. Proof of attested writing.—In all instruments required or permitted by law to be registered including deeds and mortgages on real estate executed by a married woman, where her husband is not the grantee, and attested by subscribing witness, the said instruments may be proven and probated by the oath and examination of such subscribing witness before any official authorized by law to take proof, probate or acknowledgments of such instruments, and if such witness is dead or out of the state, or of unsound mind, the execution of the same may be proven before any official authorized to take the proof and acknowledgment of such instrument by proof of the handwriting of such subscribing witness or of the handwriting of the maker, and this shall likewise apply to the execution of instruments by married women: Provided, that no instrument required or permitted by law to be registered shall be proven, probated or ordered to be registered upon the oath and examination of a subscribing witness who is also the grantee named in said instrument, and the registration of any instrument which has been proven and admitted to probate upon the oath and examination of a subscribing witness who is the grantee in said instrument shall be void: Provided, further, that nothing herein shall invalidate the registration of any instrument registered prior to the ninth day of April, A. D. one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five. (Rev., s. 997; 1899, c. 235, s. 12; 1935, c. 168; 1937, c. 7; 1945, c. 73, s. 11; 1947, c. 991, s. 1; 1949, c. 815, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 3303.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment made this section applicable to proof of execution of instruments by married women.

The 1947 amendment rewrote the first sentence.

For brief comment on the 1947 amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 406.

The 1949 amendment struck out the comma formerly preceding the word "including" in line three and also the comma formerly preceding the word "executed" in line four.

§ 47-13. Proof of unattested writing.—If an instrument required or permitted by law to be registered has no subscribing witness, the execution of the same may be proven before any official authorized to take the proof and acknowledgment of such instrument by proof of the handwriting of the maker and this shall likewise apply to proof of execution of instruments by married women. (Rev., s. 998; 1899, c. 235, s. 11; 1945, c. 73, s. 12; C. S. 3304.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment made this section applicable to proof of execution of instruments by married women.

Art. 2. Registration.

§ 47-17. Probate and registration sufficient without livery.

Formal Deed Regarded as Feoffment in Enforcing Parol Trust.—In properly constituted cases indicating the propriety of equitable relief in declaring and enforcing a parol trust, the formal deed by which the legal title is held is regarded as a feoffment not inconsistent with the trust sought to be established. Thompson v. Davis, 223 N. C. 792, 795, 28 S. E. (2d) 556.

§ 47-18. Conveyances, contracts to convey, and leases of land.

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—As to priority by recordation, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 376. As to effect of recordation on title by estoppel, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 376.

The Object of Probate and Registration.—

This section was enacted for the purpose of providing a plan and a method by which an intending purchaser or encumbrancer can safely determine just what kind of a title he is in fact obtaining. Chandler v. Cameron, 229 N. C. 62, 47 S. E. (2d) 528, 3 A. L. R. (2d) 571.

Cited in Ricks v. Batchelor, 225 N. C. 8, 33 S. E. (2d) 68; Carolina Power, etc., Co. v. Bowman, 228 N. C. 319, 45 S. E. (2d) 531.

II. REGISTRATION AS BETWEEN THE PARTIES.

Contract Specifically Enforceable between Parties.—A written contract to convey standing timber is specifically enforceable as between the parties without registration, and after registration is specifically enforceable even against subsequent purchasers for value. Chandler v. Cameron, 229 N. C. 62, 47 S. E. (2d) 528, 3 A. L. R. (2d) 571.

III. WHAT INSTRUMENTS AFFECTED.

Exclusive Right to Sell Given by Owner of Property to Broker.—Where an exclusive right to sell property given by the owner to a real estate broker is not registered as required by this section, third parties may deal with the locus as if there were no contract, since no notice, however full and formal, will take the place of registration. Eller v. Arnold, 230 N. C. 418, 53 S. E. (2d) 266.

Plaintiff broker alleged that he had been given exclusive contract to sell certain property, that he secured a prospect, and that thereafter the prospect and another real estate broker entered into an agreement under which the prospect, after the expiration of plaintiff's option, purchased the property through the other broker upon such other broker's agreement to split commission. Held: In the absence of allegation that plaintiff's option was registered the complaint fails to state a cause of action. Id.

A contract to convey standing timber constitutes a contract to convey land within the meaning of this section. Chandler v. Cameron, 229 N. C. 62, 47 S. E. (2d) 528, 3 A. L. R. (2d) 571.

Section Neither Requires Nor Authorizes Registration of Mere Personal Contract.—This section requires recordation of all deeds, contracts to convey, and leases for more than three years affecting the title to real property. But it neither requires nor authorizes the registration of a mere personal contract. Chandler v. Cameron, 229 N. C. 62, 47 S. E. (2d) 528, 3 A. L. R. (2d) 571.

IV. RIGHTS OF PERSONS PROTECTED.

This section protects purchasers for value against an unregistered contract to convey land, that is, where an owner of land contracts to convey land, such contract, until registered in the county where the land lies, is ineffective as against any who purchases for value from him. Eller v. Arnold, 230 N. C. 418, 53 S. E. (2d) 266.

Allegations that third persons conspired to deprive plaintiff of his rights under an unregistered option does not state a cause of action against such third persons, since in the absence of registration such third persons have a legal right to deal with the property as if there were no option and an agreement to do a lawful act cannot constitute a wrongful conspiracy. Eller v. Arnold, 230, N. C. 418, 53 S. E. (2d) 266.

V. NOTICE.

No Notice Will Supply Want of Registration.—

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See State Trust Co. v. Braznell, 227 N. C. 211, 41 S. E. (2d) 744; Turner v. Glenn, 220 N. C. 620, 18 S. E. (2d) 197; Chandler v. Cameron, 229 N. C. 62, 47 S. E. (2d) 528, 3 A. L. R. (2d) 571.

Record of Instrument Not Required to Be Recorded Does Not Constitute Notice.—The record of an instrument does not constitute constructive notice, if it is not of a class which is authorized or required by law to be recorded. Chandler v. Cameron, 229 N. C. 62, 47 S. E. (2d) 528, 3 A. L. R. (2d) 571.

The registration of an instrument operates as constructive notice only when the statute authorizes its registration and then only to the extent of those provisions which are within the registration statutes. Id.

Registration Is Not Notice as to After-Acquired Interest.—A written contract executed by a tenant in common, without the knowledge or authorization of his cotenants, to sell the timber on the entire tract, was recorded. The tenant in common later acquired an additional interest in the land. It was held that registration was constructive notice to all subsequent purchasers as to the tenant's original interest but the vendee's right to demand conveyance of the timber as to the after-acquired interest rested upon the personal contract of the vendor, which was not required to be recorded by this section, and therefore registration was not notice to subsequent purchasers as to such after-acquired title. Chandler v. Cameron, 229 N. C. 62, 47 S. E. (2d) 528, 3 A. L. R. (2d) 571.

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—As to effect of recordation statutes on mortgages and sales of automobiles on credit, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 173. As to mortgages, deeds of trust and other encumbrances created on personal property while such property is located in another state, see § 44-38.1, discussed in 27 N. C. Law Rev. 440.

Cited in Universal Finance Co. v. Clary, 227 N. C. 247, 41 S. E. (2d) 760; General Finance, etc., Corp. v. Guthrie, 227 N. C. 431, 42 S. E. (2d) 601.

III. INSTRUMENTS AFFECTED.

Section Makes No Exception in Favor of Mortgage Executed in Another State.—The uniform sales act of the state wherein the property was purchased and the conditional sales contract registered in accordance with its laws cannot be given an effect contrary to the provisions of our registration statutes, this section and § 47-23, since our statutes make no exception in favor of a conditional sale contract or chattel mortgage executed and effected in another state when the property embraced in such instrument is subsequently brought into this state. Universal C. I. T. Credit Corp. v. Walters, 230 N. C. 443, 53 S. E. (2d) 520. See § 44-38.1.

Personal Property in State Temporarily.—Where personal property subject to a conditional sale contract or chattel mortgage is brought into this state by the nonresident purchaser while he is on a temporary visit, the personalty does not acquire a situs here within the meaning of our registration statute, and such lien is not required to be registered in any county of this state. Universal C. I. T. Credit Corp. v. Walters, 230 N. C. 443, 53 S. E. (2d) 520. See § 44-38.

For subsequent statute providing for photographic recording, see §§ 153-9.1 to 153-9.7.

Editor's Note.—As to effect of recordation statutes on mortgages and sales of automobiles on credit, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 173.

Laws of Foreign State Cannot Alter Effect of Section.—The uniform sales act of the state wherein the property was purchased and the conditional sales contract registered in accordance with its laws cannot be given an effect contrary to the provisions of our registration statutes, § 47-20 and this section since our statutes make no exception in favor of a conditional sale contract or chattel mortgage executed and effected in another state when the property embraced in such instrument is subsequently brought into this state. Universal C. I. T. Credit Corp. v. Walters, 230 N. C. 443, 53 S. E. (2d) 520. See § 44-38.1.

Property Temporarily in State.—Where personal property subject to a conditional sale contract or chattel mortgage is brought into this state by the nonresident purchaser while he is on a temporary visit, the personalty does not acquire a situs here within the meaning of our registration statute, and such lien is not required to be registered in any county of this state. Universal C. I. T. Credit Corp. v. Walters, 230 N. C. 443, 53 S. E. (2d) 520. See § 44-38.1.

An automobile purchased by a nonresident in another state and subject to a conditional sale contract, registered in accordance with the laws of such other state, was brought into this state by the nonresident while on a temporary visit. The automobile was seized under execution of a judgment obtained here against the nonresident. Held: The lien of the conditional sale contract is superior to the lien obtained by levy under execution. Universal C. I. T. Credit Corp. v. Walters, 230 N. C. 443, 53 S. E. (2d) 520.

Editor's Note.—

A deed of gift is absolutely void, when not registered within two years after its making. Ferguson v. Ferguson, 225 N. C. 375, 35 S. E. (2d) 231.

Unregistered Deed Void Ab Initio after Two Years.—Between the parties thereto a deed of gift, not registered, is good during the two years after the making of it, but upon failure to register it within such time, it becomes void ab initio and title vests in grantor. Winstead v. Woolard, 223 N. C. 814, 28 S. E. (2d) 507.

Evidence held to support finding that instrument was executed for valuable consideration and therefore not void under this section. Cannon v. Blair, 229 N. C. 606, 50 S. E. (2d) 732.

The provision of this section exempting decrees of condemnation from the requirement of registration is not repealed by the amendments of Chap. 107, Public Laws of 1919, and Chap. 750, Session Laws of 1943, and an easement created by judgment in condemnation proceedings is good as against creditors and purchasers for value from the owner of the servient tenement notwithstanding the absence of registration. Carolina Power, etc., Co. v. Bowman, 228 N. C. 319, 45 S. E. (2d) 531.

The provision of this section exempting decrees of courts of competent jurisdiction in condemnation proceedings from the requirement as to registration supersedes the provisions of § 40-19 that a copy of the judgment in eminent domain proceedings be registered in the county where the land lies, and the provision of § 1-228 that judgments in which transfers of title are declared shall be registered under the same rules prescribed for deeds. Id.

For subsequent statute providing for photographic recording, see §§ 153-9.1 to 153-9.7.

Art. 3. Forms of Acknowledgment, Probate and Order of Registration.

§ 47-38. Acknowledgment by grantor. — Where the instrument is acknowledged by the grantor or maker, or where a married woman is a grantor or maker, the form of acknowledgment shall be in substance as follows:

(Rev., s. 1002; 1945, c. 73, s. 13; C. S. 3323.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment made this section applicable to married women.

§ 47-39. Form of acknowledgment of conveyances and contracts between husband and wife.— When an instrument or contract purports to be signed by a married woman and such instrument or contract comes within the provisions of § 52-12 of the General Statutes, the form of certificate of her acknowledgment before any officer authorized to take the same shall be in substance as follows:

North Carolina, ... County.

And I do further certify that it has been made to appear to my satisfaction, and I do find as a fact, that the same is not unreasonable or injurious to her.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1945 amendment this section related to the private examination of married women.

For repeal of laws requiring private examination of married women, see § 47-116.

§ 47-40. Husband's acknowledgment and wife's acknowledgment before the same officer.—Where the instrument is acknowledged by both husband and wife or by other grantor before the same officer the form of acknowledgment shall be in substance as follows:

I (here give name of official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give names of the grantors whose acknowledgment is being taken) personally appeared before me this day and acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing (or annexed) instrument.

(Rev., s. 1004; 1899, c. 235, s. 8; 1901, c. 299; 1945, c. 73, s. 15; C. S. 3325.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1945 amendment the certificate contained a provision as to the private examination of a married woman.

If the deed or other instrument is executed by the signature of the president, vice-president, presiding member or trustee of the corporation, and sealed with its common seal and attested by its secretary or assistant secretary, the following form of proof and certificate thereof shall be deemed sufficient:

And the said A. B. acknowledged the said writing to be the act and deed of said corporation.

If the officer before whom the same is proven be the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is offered for registration, he shall add to the foregoing certificate the following: "Let the instrument with the certificate be registered."

All corporate conveyances probated and recorded prior to February 14, 1939, wherein the same was attested by the assistant secretary, instead of the secretary, and otherwise regular, are hereby validated as if attested by the secretary of the corporation.

(Rev., s. 1005; 1899, c. 235, s. 17; 1901, c. 2, s. 110; 1905, c. 114; 1907, c. 927, s. 1; 1939, c. 20, ss. 1, 2; 1943, c. 172; 1947, c. 75, s. 1; 1949, c. 1224, s. 1; C. S. 3326.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote the third and fourth paragraphs from the end of the original section to appear as the first two paragraphs above. Section 2 of the amendatory act validated the recordation of all corporate conveyances probated and recorded prior to July 1, 1947, which had been executed and admitted to registration in accordance with the above rewritten provisions, and which were otherwise regular.

The 1949 amendment added at the end of the section the form of probate for contracts for the purchase of personal property.

The last two paragraphs of the original section, which appear as paragraphs three and four above, are set out for convenience though they have not been changed. The portion of the section preceding the paragraphs rewritten by the 1947 amendment has not been set out.

For brief comment on the 1949 amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 440.

Cross Reference.—For section amending this section, see § 47-43.1 and note.

§ 47-43.1. Execution and acknowledgment of instruments by attorneys or attorneys in fact.—When an instrument purports to be executed by parties acting through another by virtue of a power of attorney, it shall be sufficient if the attorney or attorney in fact signs such instrument either in the name of the principal by the attorney or attorney in fact or signs as attorney or attorney in fact for the principal; and if such instrument purports to be under seal, the seal of the attorney in fact shall be sufficient. For such instrument to be executed under seal, the power of attorney must have been executed under seal. (1949, c. 66, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Section 1 of the act inserting the above section provides that § 47-43 is amended by adding § 47-43.1 at the end thereof. Section 2 of the act, read in conjunction with section 4, provides that all instruments executed prior to February 11, 1949, which satisfy the requirements of the act, and are otherwise valid as to form and substance, shall be deemed sufficient and valid in law.

For brief comment on this section, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 421.

Art. 4. Curative Statutes; Acknowledgments; Probates; Registration.

§ 47-48. Clerk's certificate failing to pass on all prior certificates.

The provisions of this section shall apply to all instruments recorded in any county of this state prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five. (1917, c. 237; 1945, c. 808, s. 1; C. S. 3330.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the above sentence at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

§ 47-50. Order of registration omitted.—In all cases prior to March 3, 1949, where it appears from the records in the office of the register of deeds of any county in this state that the execution of a deed of conveyance or other instrument by law required or authorized to be registered was duly acknowledged, as required by the laws of the state of North Carolina, and the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of such county has properly proved and adjudged that the certificate or certificates of the official before whom such acknowledgment was taken is in due form, except that the order for registration by said clerk was omitted, any and all such probates and registration are hereby validated, and the record of such deeds of conveyance, or other instruments authorized or required to be registered, may be read in evidence upon the trial or hearing of any cause with the same force and effect as if the same had been duly ordered registered. (1911, cc. 91, 166; 1913, c. 73; 1915, c. 179, s. 1; 1941, cc. 187, 229; 1949, c. 493; C. S. 3332.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment changed the date in line two from January 1, 1941 to March 3, 1949.

§ 47-53. Probates omitting official seals, etc.—In all cases where the acknowledgment, private examination, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage, or other instrument authorized or required to be registered has been taken or had by or before any commissioner of affidavits and deeds of this state, or clerk or deputy clerk of a court of record, or notary public of this or any other state, territory, or district, and such deed, mortgage, or other instrument has heretofore been recorded in any county in this state, but such commissioner, clerk, deputy clerk, or notary public has omitted to attach his or her official or notarial seal thereto, or if omitted, to insert his or her name in the body of the certificate, or if omitted, to sign his or her name to such certificate, if the name of such officer appears in the body of said certificate or is signed thereto, or it does not appear of record that such seal was attached to the original deed, mortgage, or other instrument, or such commissioner, clerk, deputy clerk, or notary public has certified the same as under his or her "official seal," or "notarial seal," or words of similar import, and no such seal appears of record or where the officer uses "notarial" in his or her certificate and signature shows that "C. S. C.," or "clerk of superior court," or similar exchange of capacity, and the word "seal" follows the signature, then all such acknowledgments, private examinations or other proofs of such deeds, mortgages, or other instruments, and the registration thereof, are hereby made in all respects valid and binding. The provisions of this section apply to acknowledgments, private examinations, or proofs taken prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five: Provided, this section does not apply to pending litigation. (Rev., s. 1012; 1907, cc. 213, 665, 971; 1911, c. 4; 1915, c. 36; 1929, c. 8, s. 1; 1945, c. 808, s. 2; C. S. 3334.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment inserted, after the word "thereto" in line thirteen, the words "or if omitted, to insert his or her name in the body of the certificate, or if omitted, to sign his or her name to such certificate, if the name of such officer appears in the body of said certificate or is signed thereto." It also inserted the words "or where the officer uses 'notarial' in his or her certificate and signature shows that 'C. S. C.,' or 'clerk of superior court,' or similar exchange of capacity, and the word 'seal' follows the signature."

§ 47-64. Probates before officers, stockholders or directors of corporations prior to January 1, 1945.—No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including privy examination of married women, of any deed, mortgage or deed of trust to which instrument a corporation is a party, executed prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five, shall be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof or privy examination was an officer, stockholder, or director in said corporation; but such proofs and acknowledgments and the registration thereof, if in all other respects valid, are declared to be valid. Nor shall the registration of any such instrument ordered to be registered be held invalid by reason of the fact that the clerk or deputy clerk ordering the registration was an officer, stockholder or director in any corporation which is a party to any such instrument. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 41; 1929, c. 24, s. 1; 1943, c. 135; 1945, c. 860; C. S. 3346.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment substituted "forty-five" for "forty-three" in line six.

§ 47-99. Certificate of clerks without seal.—All certificates of acknowledgment and all verifications of pleadings, affidavits, and other instruments executed by clerks of the Superior Court of the State prior to March 1, 1945, and which do not bear the official seal of such clerks, are hereby validated in all cases in which the instruments bearing such acknowledgment or certification are filed or recorded in any county in the State other than the county in which the clerk executing such certificates of acknowledgment or verifications resides, and such acknowledgments and verifications are hereby made and declared to be binding, valid and effective to the same extent and in the same manner as if said official seal had been affixed. (1925, c. 248; 1945, c. 798.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted in line five "March 1, 1945" for "March 10, 1925."

§ 47-102. Absence of notarial seal.—Any deed executed prior to the first day of January, nineteen hundred and forty-five, and duly acknowledged before a North Carolina notary public, and the probate recites "witness my hand and notarial seal," or words of similar import, and no seal was affixed to the said deed, shall be ordered registered by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land lies, upon presentation to him: Provided, the probate is otherwise in due form. (1935, c. 130; 1943, c. 472; 1945, c. 808, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted "forty-five" for "thirty-five" in line three.

§ 47-108.2. Acknowledgments and examinations before notaries holding some other office.—In every case where deeds or other instruments have been acknowledged, and where privy examination of wives had, before a notary public, when the notary public at the time was also holding some other office, and the deed or other instrument has been otherwise duly probated and recorded, such acknowledgment taken by, and such privy examination had before such notary public is hereby declared to be sufficient and valid. (1945, c. 149.)

§ 47-108.3. § 48-1. Legislative intent; construction of chapter.—The General Assembly hereby declares as a matter of legislative policy with respect to adoption that—

(1) The primary purpose of this chapter is to protect children from unnecessary separation from parents who might give them good homes and loving care, to protect them from adoption by persons unfit to have the responsibility of their care and rearing, and to protect them from interference, long after they have become properly adjusted in their adoptive homes, by natural parents who may have some legal claim because of a defect in the adoption procedure.

(2) The secondary purpose of this chapter is to protect the natural parents from hurried decisions, made under strain and anxiety, to give up a child, and to protect foster parents from assuming responsibility for a child about whose heredity or mental or physical condition they know nothing, and to prevent later disturbance of their relationship to the child by natural parents whose legal rights have not been fully protected.

(3) When the interests of a child and those of an adult are in conflict, such conflict should be resolved in favor of the child; and to that end this chapter should be liberally construed. (1949, c. 300.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 act rewrote this chapter of the General Statutes as amended by Session Laws 1945, cc. 155, 787 and 788, and inserted the present thirty-five sections in lieu of the former fifteen sections. For discussion of the 1949 act, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 418.

Act Rewriting Chapter Inoperative.—Chapter 885 of the Session Laws of 1947, purporting to rewrite this chapter was held inoperative and void by reason of the fact that the enacting clause prescribed by art. II, sec. 21, of the constitution of North Carolina was omitted. In re Advisory Opinion, 227 N. C. 708, 43 S. E. (2d) 73. For discussion of the invalid act, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 392, 408.

Construction Should Be Fair and Reasonable.—The right of adoption is not only beneficial to those immediately concerned, but likewise to the public, and construction of the statute should not be narrow or technical, but rather fair and reasonable, where all material provisions of the statute have been complied with. Locke v. Merrick, 223 N. C. 798, 28 S. E. (2d) 523.

§ 48-2. Definitions.—In this chapter, unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires—

(1) "Adult person" means any person who has attained the age of twenty-one years.

(2) "Licensed child-placing agency" means any agency operating under a license to place children for adoption issued by the state board of public welfare, or in the event that such agency is in another state or territory or in the District of Columbia, operating under a license to place children for adoption issued by a governmental authority of such state, territory, or the District of Columbia, empowered by law to issue such licenses.

(3) For the purpose of this chapter, an abandoned child shall be any child under the age of eighteen years who has been willfully abandoned at least six consecutive months immediately preceding institution of an action or proceeding to declare the child to be an abandoned child.

(4) "Readoption" means an adoption by any person of a child who has been previously legally adopted. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-3. Who may be adopted.—Any minor child, irrespective of place of birth or place of residence, may be adopted in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-4. Who may adopt children.—(a) Any person over twenty-one years of age may petition in a special proceeding in the superior court to adopt a minor child and may also petition for a change of the name of such child. If the petitioner has a husband or wife living, competent to join in the petition, such spouse shall join in the petition.

(b) Provided, however, that if the spouse of the petitioner is a natural parent of the child to be adopted, such spouse need not join in the petition but need only to give consent as provided in G. S. § 48-7 (d).

(c) Provided further, that the petitioner or petitioners shall have resided in North Carolina, or on federal territory within the boundaries of North Carolina, for one year next preceding the filing of the petition. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-5. Parents, etc., not necessary parties to adoption proceedings upon finding of abandonment.—(a) In all cases where a court of competent jurisdiction has declared a child to be an abandoned child, the parent, parents, or guardian of the person, declared guilty of such abandonment shall not be necessary parties to any proceeding under this chapter nor shall their consent be required.

(b) In the event that a court of competent jurisdiction has not heretofore declared the child to be an abandoned child, then on written notice of not less than ten days to the parent, parents, or guardian of the person, the court in the adoption proceeding is hereby authorized to determine whether an abandonment has taken place.

(c) If the parent, parents, or guardian of the person deny that an abandonment has taken place, this issue of fact shall be determined as provided in G. S. § 1-273, and if abandonment is determined, then the consent of the parent, parents, or guardian of the person shall not be required. Upon final determination of this issue of fact the proceeding shall be transferred back to the special proceedings docket for further action by the clerk.

(d) A copy of the order of the court declaring a child abandoned must be filed in the proceeding with the petition in which case consent must be given or withheld in accordance with G. S. § 48-subsection (2). (1949, c. 300.)

Cross Reference. — For case decided under § 48-5 as stood prior to the 1949 revision of this chapter, see no to § 48-10.

Former § 48-10, to which this section corresponds, provided that parents or guardians who had been declared a juvenile court to be unfit to have the custody of the ch were not necessary parties to adoption proceedings.

was held that this provision was intended to apply only to final, absolute and unconditional determination of unfitness, and not to a judgment of unfitness retained "for further orders as the continued welfare of said child and changing conditions may require." In re Morris, 224 N. C. 487, 31 S. E. (2d) 539.

§ 48-6. When consent of father not necessary.—In the case of a child born out of wedlock and when said child has not been legitimated prior to the time of the signing of the consent, the written consent of the mother alone shall be sufficient under this chapter and the father need not be made a party to the proceeding. (1949, c. 300.)

Cross Reference.—For cases decided under § 48-6 as it stood prior to the 1949 revision of this chapter, see notes to § 48-23.

§ 48-7. When consent of parents or guardian necessary.—(a) Except as provided in G. S. § 48-5, and G. S. § 48-6, and if they are living and have not released all rights to the child and consented generally to adoption as provided in G. S. § 48-9, the parents or surviving parent or guardian of the person of the child must be a party or parties of record to the proceeding and must give written consent to adoption, which must be filed with the petition.

(b) In any case where the parents or surviving parent or guardian of the person of the child whose adoption is sought are necessary parties and their address is known, or can by due and diligent search be ascertained, that fact must be made known to the court by proper allegation in the petition or by affidavit and service of process must be made upon such person as provided by law for service of process on residents of the state or by service of process on non-residents as provided in G. S. § 1-104.

(c) If the address of such person cannot be ascertained for the purpose of service of process service of process cannot be made as hereinbefore provided, that fact must be made known to the court by proper allegation in the petition or by affidavit to the effect that after due and diligent search such person cannot be found for the purpose of service of process. Service of process upon such person may then be made by publication of summons as provided by G. S. § 1-98 et seq., and as provided by law.

(d) When a stepparent petitions to adopt a stepchild, consent to the adoption must be given by the spouse of the petitioner, and this adoption shall not affect the relationship of parent and child between such spouse and the child. (1949, c. 300.)

Editor's Note.—As to revocability of consent in adoption proceedings, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 293.

§ 48-8. Capacity of parents to consent.—A parent who has not reached the age of twenty-one years shall have legal capacity to give consent to adoption and to release such parent's rights in a child, and shall be as fully bound thereby as if such parent had attained twenty-one years of age. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-9. When consent may be given by persons other than parents.—(a) In the following instances written consent sufficient for the purposes of adoption filed with the petition shall be sufficient to make the person giving consent a party to the proceeding and no service of any process shall be made upon such person.

(1) When the parent, parents, or guardian of the person of the child, has in writing surrendered the child to a superintendent of public welfare of a county or to a licensed child placing agency and at the same time in writing has consented generally to adoption of the child, the superintendent of public welfare or the executive head of such agency may give consent to the adoption of the child by the petitioners. A county superintendent of public welfare may accept the surrender of a child who was born in the county or whose parent or parents have established residence in the county.

(2) If the court finds as a fact that there is no person qualified to give consent, or that the child has been abandoned by one or both parents or by the guardian of the person of the child, the court shall appoint some suitable person or the county superintendent of public welfare of the county in which the child resides to act in the proceeding as next friend of the child to give or withhold such consent. The court may make the appointment immediately upon such determination and forthwith may make such further orders as to the court may seem proper.

(b) The surrender of the child and consent for the child to be adopted given by the parent or guardian of the person to the superintendent of public welfare or to the licensed child placing agency shall be filed with the petition along with the consent of the superintendent of public welfare or of the executive head of the agency to the adoption prayed for in the petition.

(c) Where the child has been surrendered to an agency operating under the laws of another state, and authorized by such state to place children for adoption, the written consent of such agency shall be sufficient for the purposes of this chapter. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-10. When child's consent necessary.—In any proceeding under this chapter, a child who is twelve years of age or over or who becomes twelve years of age before the granting of the final order must also consent to the proposed adoption. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-11. Consent not revocable.—No consent described in G. S. §§ 48-6, 48-7, or 48-9, shall be revocable by the consenting party after the entering of an interlocutory decree or a final order of adoption when entering of an interlocutory decree has been waived in accordance with the provisions of G. S. § 48-21: Provided, no consent shall be revocable after six months from the date of the giving of the consent; provided further, that when the consent has been given generally to a superintendent of public welfare or to a duly licensed child placing agency, it shall not be revocable after thirty days from the date of the giving of the consent. When the consent of any person or agency is required under the provisions of this chapter, the filing of such consent with the petition shall be sufficient to make the consenting person or agency a party of record to the proceeding. (1949, c. 300.)

Cross Reference.—For case decided under § 48-11 as it stood prior to the 1949 revision of this chapter, see note to § 48-34.

§ 48-12. Nature of proceeding; venue.—Adoption shall be by a special proceeding before the clerk of the superior court. The petition may be filed in the county:

(1) Where the petitioners reside; or
(2) Where the child resides; or
(3) Where the child resided when it became a public charge; or
(4) In which is located any licensed child placing agency or institution operating under the laws of this state and having custody of the child or to which the child shall have been surrendered as provided in G. S. § 48-9. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-13. Reference to parental status.—No reference shall be made in any petition, interlocutory decree, or final order of adoption to the marital status of the natural parents of the child sought to be adopted, to their fitness for the care and custody of such child, nor shall any reference be made therein to any child being born out of wedlock.

In the case of a child born out of wedlock and not legitimated prior to the time of the signing of the consent, an affidavit setting forth such facts sufficient to show that only the consent required under G. S. § 48-6 is necessary shall be filed with and become a part of the report provided for in G. S. § 48-16. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-14. Use of original name of child unnecessary; name used in proceedings for adoption.—(a) Only in the report required by G. S. § 48-16 on the investigation of the conditions and antecedents of the child sought to be adopted shall the original name of the child given by the natural parent or parents be necessary.

(b) In the petition, interlocutory decree, and final order of adoption and in all other papers related to the case the name selected by the petitioner or petitioners as the name for the child may be used as the true and legal name and the original name shall not be necessary. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-15. Petition for adoption.—(a) The caption of the petition shall be substantially as follows:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE SUPERIOR COURT
.....COUNTY
BEFORE THE CLERK

(b) The petition may be prepared on a standard form to be supplied by the state board of public welfare, or may be typewritten, giving all the information hereinafter required.

(c) Such petition must state:

(2) the information necessary to show that the court to which the petition is addressed has jurisdiction;
(3) when the petitioners acquired custody of the child, and from what person or agency;
(4) the birth date and state or county of birth of the child, if known;
(5) the name used for the child in the proceeding;
(6) that it is the desire of the petitioners that the relationship of parent and child be established between them and said child;
(7) their desire, if they have such, that the name of the child be changed together with the new name desired;
(8) the desire of the petitioners that the said child shall, upon adoption, inherit real and personal property in accordance with the statutes of descent and distribution;
(9) the value of the personal property and of the real estate owned by the child as far as can be ascertained;
(10) that the petitioners are fit persons to have the care and custody of the child;
(11) that they are financially able to provide for him; and
(12) that there has been full compliance with the law in regard to consent to adoption.

(d) The petition must be signed and verified by the petitioners and must be filed in triplicate. The original of the petition shall be held in the office of the clerk of the superior court, a copy sent to the state board of public welfare, and a copy sent to the superintendent of public welfare or to the licensed child placing agency concerned with the order of reference.

(e) The names of the adopting parents must be indexed on the plaintiffs' or petitioners' side of the cross index of special proceedings. The child's name as used in the proceeding must be indexed on the defendants' or respondents' side of such index. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-16. Investigation of conditions and antecedents of child and of suitableness of foster home.—(a) Upon the filing of a petition for adoption the court shall order the county superintendent of public welfare, or a licensed child placing agency through its authorized representative, to investigate the condition and antecedents of the child for the purpose of ascertaining whether he is a proper subject for adoption, to make appropriate inquiry to determine whether the proposed foster home is a suitable one for the child, and to investigate any other circumstances or conditions which may have a bearing on the adoption and of which the court should have knowledge.

(b) The court may order the superintendent of public welfare of one county to make an investigation of the condition and antecedents of the child and the superintendent of public welfare of another county or counties to make any other part of the necessary investigation.

(c) The county superintendent or superintendents of public welfare of the authorized representative of such agency described hereinbefore must make a written report within sixty days to his or their findings, on a standard form or following an outline supplied by the state board of public welfare, for examination by the court of adoption. Such report shall be filed with the clerk as a part of the official papers in the adoption proceeding but shall not be retained permanently in the office of the clerk. The clerk shall in no wise be responsible for the permanent custody of the report and said report shall not be open to public inspection except upon order of the court as provided in G. S. § 48-26. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-17. Interlocutory decree of adoption.—(a) Upon examination of the written report, required in G. S. § 48-16, the court may issue in triplicate an interlocutory decree of adoption giving the care and custody of the child to the petitioners. Such interlocutory decree must be issued within six months of the filing of the petition unless a final order is entered as provided in G. S. § 48-21 (c). It may be issued on a standard form supplied by the state board of public welfare or may be typewritten, giving all the information hereinafter required.

(b) The interlocutory decree must state:

(1) that all necessary parties are properly before the court and that the time for answering has expired;

(2) the name of the child used in the petition;

(3) the full names of the petitioners and their county of residence;

(4) the fact and date of filing of the petition;

(5) when the petitioners acquired custody of the child and from what person or agency and that proper consent has been given;

(6) that the petitioners are fit persons to have the care and custody of the child;

(7) that the petitioners are financially able to provide for him;

(8) that the child is a suitable child for adoption; and

(9) that the adoption is for the best interests of the child. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-18. Effect of interlocutory decree.—(a) Upon issuance of the interlocutory decree the child shall remain or be placed in the care and custody of the petitioners pending further orders of the court. Such decree shall be provisional only and may be rescinded or modified at any time prior to the final order. Until the final order is made, the child shall be a ward of the court having jurisdiction.

(b) When a husband and wife have petitioned jointly to adopt and an interlocutory decree has been entered, and the death of one spouse occurs before the time for the entering of the final order, the petition of the living petitioner shall not be invalidated by the fact of the death of the other petitioner, and the court may proceed to grant the adoption to the surviving petitioner. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-19. Report on placement after interlocutory decree.—When the court enters an interlocutory decree of adoption, it must order the county superintendent of public welfare or a licensed child placing agency through its duly authorized representative to supervise the child in its adoptive home and report to the court on the placement on a standard form or following an outline supplied by the state board of public welfare, such report being for examination by the court before entering any final order. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-20. Dismissal of proceeding.—(a) If at any time between the filing of a petition and the issuance of the final order completing the adoption it is made known to the court that circumstances are such that the child should not be given in adoption to the petitioners, the court may dismiss the proceeding.

(b) The court before entering an order to dismiss the proceeding must give notice of not less than five days of the motion to dismiss to the petitioners, to the county superintendent of public welfare or licensed child placing agency having made the investigation provided for in G. S. § 48-16, and to the state board of public welfare, and they shall be entitled to a hearing to admit or refute the facts upon which the impending action of the court is based.

(c) Upon dismissal of an adoption proceeding, the custody of the child shall revert to the county superintendent of public welfare or licensed child placing agency having custody immediately before the filing of the petition. If the placement of the child was made by its natural parents directly with the adoptive parents, the superintendent of public welfare of the county in which the petition was filed shall be notified by the court of such dismissal and said superintendent of public welfare shall be responsible for taking appropriate action for the protection of the child. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-21. Final order of adoption; termination of proceeding within three years.—(a) If no appeal has been taken from any order of the court, the court must complete or dismiss the proceeding by entering a final order within three years of the filing of the petition. A final order of adoption must not be entered earlier than one year from the date of the interlocutory decree except as hereinafter provided.

(b) If an appeal is taken from any order of the court, the proceeding must be completed by the court by entering a final order of adoption or a final order dismissing the proceeding within two years from the final judgment upon the appeal.

(c) Upon examination of the written report required under G. S. § 48-16, the court may, in its discretion, waive the entering of the interlocutory decree and the probationary period and grant a final order of adoption when the child is by blood a grandchild, nephew or niece of one of the petitioners or is the stepchild of the petitioner.

(d) Upon examination of the written report required under G. S. § 48-16, the court may, in its discretion, shorten the probationary period between the granting of the interlocutory decree and the final order of adoption by the length of time the child has resided in the home of the petitioners prior to the granting of the interlocutory decree; provided, that the child was placed in the home of the petitioners by a superintendent of public welfare or by a licensed child placing agency and such fact has been certified to the court by the superintendent of public welfare or the executive head of the child placing agency, but no final order shall be entered until the child shall have resided in the home of the petitioners for a period of one year. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-22. Contents of final order.—(a) The final order of adoption must be entered in triplicate and may be made on a standard form furnished by the state board of public welfare or may be typewritten, giving all the information hereinafter required.

(b) The final order of adoption must state:

(1) that all necessary parties are properly before the court and that the time for answering has expired;

(2) the name of the child used in the proceeding;

(3) the full names of the petitioners and their county of residence;

(4) the date when the petitioners acquired custody of the child and from what person or agency and that proper consent has been given;

(5) the fact and date of the filing of the petition;

(6) the fact and date of the interlocutory decree if such a decree has been entered;

(7) that the petitioners are fit persons to have the care and custody of the child;

(8) that the petitioners are financially able to provide for him;

(9) that the child is a suitable child for adoption; and

(10) that the adoption is for the best interests of the child.

(c) The order shall thereupon decree the adoption of the child by the petitioners and may order that the name of the child be changed to that requested in the petition. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-23. Effect of final order.—The final order forthwith shall establish the relationship of parent and child between the petitioners and the child, and, from the date of the signing of the final order of adoption, the child shall be entitled to inherit real and personal property from the adoptive parents in accordance with the statutes of descent and distribution. (1949, c. 300.)

History of Former § 48-6.—For a brief history of former § 48-6, to which this section corresponds, and the effect of the 1941 amendment thereto, see Phillips v. Phillips, 227 N. C. 438, 42 S. E. (2d) 604.

For comment on the 1945 amendment to former § 48-6, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 346.

Conclusiveness of Proceedings.—Under former § 48-6, to which this section corresponds, it was held that adoption proceedings are conclusive as to persons who were parties thereto, and as to their privies, notwithstanding a defect as to a party who would be entitled to disregard them as not binding on him, but who does not complain of his nonjoinder. Locke v. Merrick, 223 N. C. 798, 28 S. E. (2d) 523.

Right of Adopted Child to Inherit.—Under former § 48-6, as it stood prior to the 1941 amendment, the effect of the adoption was simply to create a personal status between the adoptive parent and the child adopted, so that the adopted child might inherit from the adoptive parent such estate of the adoptive parent as such parent, during his lifetime, might voluntarily have given to such child. Phillips v. Phillips, 227 N. C. 438, 42 S. E. (2d) 604.

Under former § 48-6, as it stood prior to the 1941 amendment, the adopted child could not inherit through the adoptive parent, or from any source other than the "estate of the petitioner." The right to inherit was limited to the property of the adoptive parent, and the adopted child could not inherit from his father's ancestors or other kindred, or be a representative of them. Id.

§ 48-24. Recordation of adoption proceedings.—(a) Only the final order of adoption or the final order dismissing the proceeding, and no other papers relating to the proceeding, shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court in the county in which the adoption takes place.

(b) A copy of the petition, the consent, the report on the condition and antecedents of the child and the suitability of the foster home, a copy of the interlocutory decree, the report on the placement, and a copy of the final order must be sent by the clerk of the superior court to the state board of public welfare in the following order:

(1) Within ten days after the petition is filed with the clerk of the superior court, a copy of the petition giving the date of the filing of the original petition, and the consent must be filed by the clerk with the state board of public welfare.

(2) Within ten days after an interlocutory decree is entered, a copy of the interlocutory decree giving the date of the issuance of the decree and the report to the court on the condition and antecedents of the child and the suitability of the foster home must be filed by the clerk with the state board of public welfare. When the interlocutory decree is waived, as provided in G. S. § 48-21 the said report and the recommendation to waive the interlocutory decree shall be so filed by the clerk.

(3) Within ten days after the final order of adoption is made the clerk must file with the state board of public welfare the report on the supervision of the placement during the interlocutory period, and a copy of the final order.

(c) The said board must cause all papers and reports related to the proceeding to be permanently indexed and filed. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-25. Record not to be made public; violation a misdemeanor.—(a) Neither the original file of the proceeding in the office of the clerk nor the recording of the proceeding by the state board of public welfare shall be open for general public inspection.

(b) With the exception of the information contained in the petition, the interlocutory decree, and the final order, it shall be a misdemeanor for any person having charge of the file or of the record to disclose, except as provided in G. S. § 48-26, any information concerning the contents of any other papers in the proceeding. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-26. Procedure for opening record for necessary information.—(a) Any necessary information in the files or the record of an adoption proceeding may be disclosed, to the party requiring it, upon a written motion in the cause before the clerk of original jurisdiction who may issue an order to open the record. Such order must be reviewed by a judge of the superior court and if, in the opinion of said judge, it be to the best interest of the child or of the public to have such information disclosed, he may approve the order to open the record.

(b) The original order to open the record must be filed with the proceeding in the office of the clerk of the superior court. If the clerk shall refuse to issue such order, the party requesting such order may appeal to the judge who may order that the record be opened, if, in his opinion, it be to the best interest of the child or of the public. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-27. Procedure when appeal is taken.—(a) In the event of an appeal from ruling of the clerk in an adoption proceeding, the clerk must impound all papers and reports not open to the public pending final determination of the appeal. Within ten days after final determination of the appeal, the clerk must forward all papers and reports as specified in G. S. § 48-24.

(b) The clerk must not at any time furnish to anyone copies or certified copies in the proceeding other than the petition, the interlocutory decree, and the final order. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-28. Questioning validity of adoption proceeding.—(a) After the final order of adoption is signed, no party to an adoption proceeding no anyone claiming under such a party may later question the validity of the adoption proceeding by reason of any defect or irregularity therein, jurisdictional or otherwise, but shall be fully bound thereby, save for such appeal as may be allowed by law. No adoption may be questioned by reason of any procedural or other defect by anyone not injured by such defect, nor may any adoption proceeding be attacked either directly or collaterally by any person other than a natural parent or guardian of the person of the child. The failure on the part of the clerk of the superior court, the county superintendent of public welfare, or the executive head of a licensed child placing agency to perform any of the duties or acts within the time required by the provisions of this section shall not affect the validity of any adoption proceeding.

(b) The final order of adoption shall have the force and effect of, and shall be entitled to, all the presumptions attached to a judgment rendered by a court of general jurisdiction. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-29. Change of name; report to state registrar; new birth certificate to be made.—(a) For proper cause shown the court may decree that the name of the child shall be changed to such name as may be prayed in the petition. When the name of any child is so changed, the court shall forthwith report such change to the bureau of vital statistics of the state board of health. Upon receipt of the report, the state registrar of the bureau of vital statistics shall prepare a new birth certificate for the child named in the report which shall contain the following information: full adoptive name of child, sex, race, date of birth, full name of adoptive father, full maiden name of adoptive mother, and such other pertinent information not inconsistent herewith as may be determined by the state registrar. The city and county of residence of the adoptive parents shall be shown as the place of birth, and the names of the attending physician and the local registrar shall be omitted. No reference shall be made on the new certificate to the adoption of the child, nor shall the adopting parents be referred to as foster parents.

(b) The state registrar shall place the original certificate of birth and all papers in his hand pertaining to the adoption under seal which shall not be broken except in the manner provided in G. S. § 48-26 for the opening of the record of adoption. Thereafter when a certified copy of the certificate of birth of such person is issued it shall be in the form of a birth registration card containing only the full name, birth date, state of birth, race, sex, date of filing, and birth certificate number, except when an order of a court shall direct the issuance of a copy of the original certificate of birth in the manner hereinbefore provided.

(c) The state registrar shall send a copy of the new birth certificate to the register of deeds of the county where the adoption proceedings were instituted. Upon receipt of the said certificate the register of deeds shall cause it to be filed and indexed in the same manner as provided by law in the case of original birth certificates. Whenever a record of the original birth certificate of the adopted child is also on file in the same county the register of deeds of said county is authorized, empowered, and directed, upon filing the new certificate, to remove and destroy such record of the said original certificate. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-30. Guardian appointed when custody granted of child with estate.—When the court grants the petitioners custody of a child, if the child is an orphan and without guardian and possesses any estate to be administered, the court must appoint a guardian as provided by law. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-31. Rights of adoptive parents.—When a child is adopted pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, the adoptive parents shall not thereafter be deprived of any rights in the child, at the instance of the natural parents or otherwise, except in the same manner and for the same causes as are applicable in proceedings to deprive natural parents of the children. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-32. Readoption of child previously adopted.—Any minor child may be readopted in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. All provisions relating to the natural parent or parents shall apply to the adoptive parent or parents, except that in no case of readoption shall a natural parent be made a party to the proceedings nor shall the consent of a natural parent be necessary. For the purposes of service of process, necessary parties, and consent, the adoptive parent shall be substituted for the natural parent. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-33. Procuring custody of child by forfeiting parents declared crime.—Any parent whose rights and privileges have been forfeited as provided by G. S. § 48-5 and who shall, otherwise than by legal process, procure the possession and custody of such child with respect to whom his rights and privileges have been forfeited shall be guilty of a crime, and shall be punished as for abduction. (1949, c. 300.)

§ 48-34. Past adoption proceedings validated.—All proceedings for the adoption of minors in courts of this state are hereby validated and confirmed and the orders and judgments heretofore entered therein are declared to be binding upon all parties to said proceedings and their privies and all other persons, until such orders or judgments shall be vacated as provided by law; provided that this section shall not apply to litigation pending on the effective date of this chapter in which the validity of a prior adoption proceeding is involved. (1949, c. 300.)

In an adoption proceeding in 1923, where the court found that the parents of a minor child had abandoned such child and the evidence on which the finding was made does not appear in the record, there is a presumption that it was sufficient to sustain the finding. Locke v. Merrick, 223 N. C. 798, 28 S. E. (2d) 523.

§ 48-35. Prior proceedings not affected.—Adoption proceedings pending on date of ratification shall not be affected, except that the provisions of G. S. § 48-34 shall apply thereto, and such proceedings shall be completed in accordance with provisions of the statutes in effect at the time such proceedings were instituted; provided that the petitioners in proceedings pending on date of ratification may discontinue such proceedings by taking voluntary nonsuits and, upon paying the costs accrued in such discontinued proceedings, may institute new proceedings under the provisions of this chapter, in which cases of all of the provisions of this chapter shall apply. (1949, c. 300.)

Chapter 49. Bastardy.

Art. 1. Support of Illegitimate Children.

Art. 2. Legitimation of Illegitimate Children.

Art. 1. Support of Illegitimate Children.

Stated in State v. Dill, 224 N. C. 57, 29 S. E. (2d) 145.

§ 49-2. Non-support of illegitimate child by parents made misdemeanor.

Editor's Note.—

For note concerning this chapter, see 22 N. C. Law Rev. 250.

For discussion of problems arising under this article, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 305.

Duty of Support Not Primarily for Benefit of Child.—The duty of a putative father to support his illegitimate child was not created primarily for the benefit of the child. The legislation is social in nature and was enacted to prevent illegitimates from becoming public charges. The benefit to the child is incidental. Such rights as it may have must be enforced under this section and in accord with the procedure therein prescribed. Allen v. Hunnicutt, 230 N. C. 49, 52 S. E. (2d) 18.

Remedy Is Exclusive.—This chapter and § 7-103 provide an exclusive remedy to compel a father to provide for the support of his illegitimate child, and these statutes do not authorize the child to maintain a civil action to compel its father to provide for its support. Allen v. Hunnicutt, 230 N. C. 49, 52 S. E. (2d) 18.

As stated in Burton v. Belvin, 142 N. C. 151, 55 S. E. 71, the natural obligation of the father to support will be enforced under the statute recognizing the obligation and imposing the duty. Allen v. Hunnicutt, 230 N. C. 49, 52 S. E. (2d) 18.

The Begetting of an Illegitimate Child Is Not of Itself a Crime.—

The only "prosecution" contemplated by this legislation is that grounded on the willful neglect or refusal of any parent to support and maintain his or her illegitimate child, the mere begetting of the child not being denominated a crime. State v. Dill, 224 N. C. 57, 58, 29 S. E. (2d) 145; State v. Stiles, 228 N. C. 137, 141, 44 S. E. (2d) 728.

And the question of paternity is incidental to the prosecution for nonsupport. State v. Bowser, 230 N. C. 330, 53 S. E. (2d) 282.

Willfulness Is Essential Element of Offense.—

Willfulness is an essential element of the offense denounced by this section, and a verdict "guilty of failure to support and maintain his bastard child" is insufficient to support a judgment. State v. Allen, 224 N. C. 530, 31 S. E. (2d) 530.

Willfulness of the refusal to support one's illegitimate child is an essential ingredient of the offense denounced by this section, and must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt; and instructions, which fail to so charge, deprive defendant of his right to have the jury consider his willfulness as an issuable fact. State v. Hayden, 224 N. C. 779, 32 S. E. (2d) 333.

Under this section, the neglect or refusal to support an illegitimate child must be willful and it must be so charged in the warrant or bill of indictment, and the omission of such allegation is fatal. State v. Morgan, 226 N. C. 414, 38 S. E. (2d) 166, 168; State v. Vanderlip, 225 N. C. 610, 35 S. E. (2d) 885.

"Willful" Defined.—The word "willful," when used in this section creating an offense, means the act is done purposely and deliberately in violation of the law; it means an act done without any lawful justification, reason or excuse. State v. Stiles, 228 N. C. 137, 140, 44 S. E. (2d) 728.

State Must Prove Paternity of Child and Willful Neglect.—

In order to convict defendant under this section the burden is on the state to show not only that he is the father of the child, and that he had refused or neglected to support and maintain it, but further that his refusal or neglect is willful, that is, intentionally done, "without just cause, excuse or justification," after notice and request for support. State v. Hayden, 224 N. C. 779, 32 S. E. (2d) 333; State v. Stiles, 228 N. C. 137, 139, 44 S. E. (2d) 728; State v. Ellison, 230 N. C. 59, 52 S. E. (2d) 9.

Amendment of Warrant.—The trial court has authority to permit the solicitor to amend a warrant charging defendant with willful failure to support his illegitimate child by inserting the word "maintain," so as to charge his willful failure to support and maintain his illegitimate child. State v. Bowser, 230 N. C. 330, 53 S. E. (2d) 282.

Jurisdiction Determined by Age of Defendant at Time He Is Charged.—Where defendant is over sixteen years of age during the time he is charged with willfully neglecting or refusing to support his illegitimate child, the superior court and not the juvenile court has jurisdiction, notwithstanding that conception of the child occurred prior to defendant's sixteenth birthday. State v. Bowser, 230 N. C. 330, 53 S. E. (2d) 282.

Admissibility of Testimony of Prosecutrix as to Nonaccess of Husband.—In a prosecution of defendant for willful failure to support his illegitimate child conceived during wedlock of the mother, the admission of testimony by the prosecutrix as to the nonaccess of the husband at the time of conception is error entitling defendant to a new trial. State v. Bowman, 230 N. C. 203, 52 S. E. (2d) 345.

Evidence Held Sufficient.—Evidence in prosecution of defendant for willful neglect or refusal to support his illegitimate child held sufficient to overrule motions to nonsuit. State v. Bowser, 230 N. C. 330, 53 S. E. (2d) 282.

Verdict Held Insufficient.—A verdict of "guilty of willful nonsupport of illegitimate child" is insufficient in that it fails to fix the paternity of the child. State v. Ellison, 230 N. C. 59, 52 S. E. (2d) 9.

§ 49-4. When prosecution may be commenced.

—The prosecution of the reputed father of an illegitimate child may be instituted under this chapter within any of the following periods, and not thereafter:

1. Three years next after the birth of the child; or

2. Where the paternity of the child has been judicially determined within three years next after its birth, at any time before the child attains the age of fourteen years; or

3. Where the reputed father has acknowledged paternity of the child by payments for the support thereof within three years next after the birth of such child, three years from the date of the last payment, whether such last payment was made within three years of the birth of such child or thereafter: Provided, the action is instituted before the child attains the age of fourteen years.

The prosecution of the mother of an illegitimate child may be instituted under this chapter at any time before the child attains the age of fourteen years. (1933, c. 228, s. 3; 1939, c. 217, s. 3; 1945, c. 1053.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment rewrote this section.

As to effect of amendment, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 331.

Maximum Time for Prosecution Is Six Years from Birth.—

A prosecution of the father of an illegitimate child for the willful neglect and refusal to support such child, whose paternity had been established under the old law, C. S., 265-279, and which prosecution originated more than 13 years after the birth of the child, was held barred under the terms of this section, since the prosecution was a new and independent proceeding, rather than a motion in the original proceeding to enforce the order of support as contemplated by the 1933 Act. State v. Dill, 224 N. C. 57, 29 S. E. (2d) 145.

§ 49-7. Jurisdiction of inferior courts; issues and orders.

The court before whom the matter may be brought upon motion of the defendant, shall direct and order that the defendant, the mother and the child shall submit to a blood grouping test; provided, that the court in its discretion may require the person requesting a blood grouping test to pay the cost thereof; that the results of a blood group ing test shall be admitted in evidence when offered by a duly licensed practicing physician or other duly qualified person; provided, that from a finding of the issue of paternity against the defendant, the defendant shall have the same right to an appeal as though he had been found guilty of the crime of willful failure to support a bastard child. (1933, c. 228, s. 6; 1937, c. 432, s. 2; 1939, c. 217, ss. 1, 4; 1945, c. 40; 1947, c. 1014.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment added all of the above paragraph at the end of this section except the last proviso, which was added by the 1947 amendment. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendments it is not set out.

For comment on the 1945 amendment, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 343.

For comment on the 1947 amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 412.

Effect of § 8-50.1.—While this section is not expressly repealed, it would seem to be superseded by § 8-50.1, which: (1) contains virtually identical provisions applicable to "any criminal action or proceedings in which the question of paternity arises;" and (2) extends legislative approval of use of the blood grouping evidence to "any civil action." 27 N. C. Law Rev. 456.

Modification of Orders.—
This and the following section contemplate initial findings and an order of support, subject to modification or increase from time to time, and to be enforced by such prescribed supplemental orders as the exigencies of the case may require. State v. Dill, 224 N. C. 57, 58, 29 S. E. (2d) 145.

§ 49-8. Power of court to modify orders; suspend sentence, etc.

Cross Reference.—See annotations under § 49-7.

Art. 2. Legitimation of Illegitimate Children.

§ 49-10. Legitimation.—The putative father of any child born out of wedlock may apply by a verified written petition filed in a special proceeding in the superior court of the county in which he resides, praying that such child be declared legitimate. The mother, if living, and the child shall be necessary parties to the proceeding, and the full names of the father, mother and the child shall be set out in the petition. If it appears to the court that the petitioner is the father of the child, the court may thereupon declare and pronounce the child legitimated; and the full names of the father, mother and the child shall be set out in the court order decreeing legitimation of the child. The clerk of the court shall record the order in the record of orders and decrees and it shall be cross-indexed under the name of the father as plaintiff or petitioner on the plaintiffs' side of the cross-index, and under the name of the mother, and the child as defendants or respondents on the defendants' side of the cross-index. (Rev., s. 263; Code, s. 39; 1947, c. 663, s. 1; C. S. 277.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote this section.

For a brief account of the 1947 amendments to this article, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 414.

§ 49-12. Legitimation by subsequent marriage.—When the mother of any child born out of wedlock and the reputed father of such child shall intermarry or shall have intermarried at any time after the birth of such child, the child shall in all respects after such intermarriage be deemed and held to be legitimate and entitled to all the rights in and to the estate, real and personal, of its father and mother that it would have had had it been born in lawful wedlock. (1917, c. 219, s. 1; 1947, c. 663, s. 2; C. S. 279.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment struck out "illegitimate" formerly appearing before the word "child" in line one and inserted after the word "child" the words "born out of wedlock."

§ 49-13. New birth certificate on legitimation.—A certified copy of the order of legitimation when issued under the provisions of G. S. § 49-10 shall be sent by the clerk of the superior court under his official seal to the state registrar of vital statistics who shall then make a new birth certificate bearing the full name of the father.

When a child is legitimated under the provisions of G. S. § 49-12 the state registrar of vital statistics shall make a new birth certificate bearing the full name of the father upon presentation of a certified copy of the marriage license issued to the father and the mother of the child. (1947, c. 663, s. 3.)

Chapter 50. Divorce and Alimony.

§ 50-1. Jurisdiction.—The superior court and such other courts as are now or may hereafter be so vested by statute shall have concurrent jurisdiction of actions for divorce and alimony, or either. (Rev., s. 1557; Code, s. 1282; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 45; 1949, c. 264, s. 1; C. S. 1655.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1949 amendment this section applied only to the superior court.

Section Not Jurisdictional—Waiver.—
The provision of this section, that summons shall be returnable to court of the county in which either plaintiff or defendant resides, is not jurisdictional but relates to venue, and may be waived, and if an action for divorce be instituted in any other county, it may be tried there, unless defendant before the time of answering expires demands in writing that trial be had in the proper county. Smith v. Smith, 226 N. C. 506, 39 S. E. (2d) 391, 393.

§ 50-4. What marriages may be declared void on application of either party.—The superior court in term time, on application made as by law provided, by either party to a marriage contracted contrary to the prohibitions contained in the chapter entitled Marriage, or declared void by said chapter, may declare such marriage void from the beginning, subject, nevertheless, to the second proviso contained in § 51-3. (Rev., s. 1560; Code, s. 1283; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 33; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 1658.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment inserted the word "second" in the last line.

§ 50-5. Grounds for absolute divorce.

4. If there has been a separation of husband and wife, whether voluntary or involuntary, provided such involuntary separation is in consequence of a criminal act committed by the defendant prior to such divorce proceeding, and they have lived separate and apart for two successive years, and the plaintiff or defendant in the suit for divorce has resided in this state for six months.

6. In all cases where a husband and wife have lived separate and apart for ten consecutive years, without cohabitation, and are still so living separate and apart by reason of the incurable insanity of one of them, the court may grant a decree of absolute divorce upon the petition of the sane spouse: Provided, the evidence shall show that the insane spouse is suffering from incurable insanity, and has been confined for ten consecutive years next preceding the bringing of the action in an institution for the care and treatment of the mentally disordered. Provided further, that proof of incurable insanity be supported by the testimony of two reputable physicians, one of whom shall be a staff member or the superintendent of the institution wherein the insane spouse is confined, and one regularly practicing physician in the community wherein such husband and wife reside, who has no connection with the institution in which said insane spouse is confined.

In all decrees granted under this subsection in actions in which the husband is the plaintiff the court shall require him to provide for the care and maintenance of the insane defendant as long as she may live, compatible with his financial standing and ability, and the trial court will retain jurisdiction of the parties and the cause, from term to term, for the purpose of making such orders as equity may require to enforce the provisions of the decree requiring the plaintiff to furnish the necessary funds for such care and maintenance. In the event of feme defendant's continued confinement in an institution for the mentally disordered, it shall be deemed sufficient support and maintenance if the plaintiff continue to pay and discharge the monthly payments required of him by the institution, such payments to be in amounts equal to those required of patients similarly situated. In all such actions wherein the wife is the plaintiff and the insane defendant has insufficient income and property to provide for his care and maintenance, then in the discretion of the court, the court may require her to provide for the care and maintenance of the insane defendant as long as he may live, compatible with her financial standing and ability, and the trial court will retain jurisdiction of the parties and the cause, from term to term, for the purpose of making such orders as equity may require to enforce the provisions of the decree requiring plaintiff to furnish the necessary funds for such care and maintenance.

Service of process shall be had upon the regular guardian for said defendant spouse, if any, and if no regular guardian, upon a duly appointed quardian ad litem and also upon the superintendent or physician in charge of the institution wherein the insane spouse is confined. Such guardian or guardian ad litem shall make an investigation of the circumstances and notify the next of kin of the insane spouse or the superintendent of the institution of the action and whenever practical confer with said next of kin before filing appropriate pleadings in behalf of the defendant.

In all actions brought under this subsection, if the jury finds as a fact that the plaintiff has been guilty of such conduct as has conduced to the unsoundness of mind of the insane defendant, the relief prayed for shall be denied.

The plaintiff or defendant must have resided in this state for six months next preceding institution of any action under this section.

In any action for absolute divorce upon any of the grounds set forth in this section, allegation and proof that the plaintiff or defendant has resided in North Carolina for at least six months next preceding the filing of the complaint shall constitute compliance with the residence requirements for prosecuting any such action for divorce. (Rev., s. 1561; Code, s. 1285; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 35; 1879, c. 132; 1887, c. 100; 1889, c. 442; 1899, c. 29; 1903, c. 490; 1905, c. 499; 1907, c. 89; 1911, c. 117; 1913, c. 165; 1917, cc. 25, 57; 1921, c. 63; 1929, c. 6; 1931, c. 397; 1933, c. 71, ss. 1, 2; 1943, c. 448, s. 2; 1945, c. 755; 1949, c. 264, ss. 2, 5; c. 417; C. S. 1659.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added subsection 6. The first 1949 amendment inserted the words "or defendant" in line seven of subsection 4 and rewrote subsection 6. The second 1949 amendment added the paragraph at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendments it is not set out.

For comment on the 1943 amendment, see 21 N. C. Law Rev. 347.

For comment on the 1945 amendment, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 340.

For a brief summary of the 1949 amendments to this section and §§ 50-6 and 50-8, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 453.

Sufficiency of Allegations.—Allegations that husband cohabited and committed adultery with another woman and that illicit relations continued over a period of time notwithstanding the protestations and pleas of the wife, states a cause of action for absolute divorce. Pearce v. Pearce, 226 N. C. 307, 37 S. E. (2d) 904.

Separation Defined.—

Separation, as this word is used in the divorce statutes, implies living apart for the entire period in such manner that those who come in contact with them may see that the husband and wife are not living together. Young v. Young, 225 N. C. 340, 34 S. E. (2d) 154.

For the purpose of obtaining a divorce under this or the succeeding section, separation may not be predicated upon evidence which shows that during the period the parties have held themselves out as husband and wife living together, nor when the association between them has been of such a character as to induce others, who observed them, to regard them as living together in the ordinary acceptation of that descriptive phrase. Id.

Instance of insufficient evidence of separation by mutual agreement and living separate and apart as is contemplated by this and the succeeding section. Id.

Separation Must Have Been Voluntary in Its Inception.—Where plaintiff's cause of action is couched in the language of this section, he must prove his case secundum allegata by showing that the separation was voluntary in its inception. Pearce v. Pearce, 225 N. C. 571, 35 S. E. (2d) 636.

Assent to Separation Obtained by Fraud.—If the assent of wife is obtained by fraud or deceit, the separation is not voluntary within the meaning of this section. Pearce v. Pearce, 225 N. C. 571, 35 S. E. (2d) 636.

Sufficiency of Evidence of Residence.—Plaintiff's testimony that he had been continuously a resident of North Carolina up to the time he went to another state for temporary work, and that he returned here once or twice a month and did not intend to make his home in such other state but intended to remain a citizen of North Carolina, is held sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the question of his residence in this State for the period prescribed by this and the following section. Welch v. Welch, 22(N. C. 541, 39 S. E. (2d) 457.

The fact that plaintiff went to another state to engage temporarily in work there, and, upon mistaken advice instituted an action for divorce in such other state upon allegations of residence therein, is evidence against him on the issue of his residence in this state for the statutory period but is not conclusive and does not constitute an estoppel. Id.

§ 50-6. Divorce after separation of two years on application of either party.—Marriages may be dissolved and the parties thereto divorced from the bonds of matrimony on the application of either party, if and when the husband and wife have lived separate and apart for two years, and the plaintiff or defendant in the suit for divorce has resided in the state for a period of six months. This section shall be in addition to other acts and not construed as repealing other laws on the subject of divorce. (1931, c. 72; 1933, c. 163; 1937, c. 100, ss. 1, 2; 1943, c. 448, s. 3; 1949, c. 264, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1949 amendment inserted the words "or defendant" in line six.

For comment on the 1943 amendment, see 21 N. C. Law Rev. 347.

Jurisdictional Averments.—

Where complaint alleges, and there is evidence tending to show, that husband and wife, "have lived separate and apart for two years" next immediately preceding the institution of the action, and that plaintiff "has resided in the state for a period of six months," nothing else appearing, the establishment of these allegations by proof would entitle plaintiff to a divorce. This section so provides. Taylor v. Taylor, 225 N. C. 80, 82, 33 S. E. (2d) 492.

"Living Apart."—

If a plaintiff, in a divorce action on grounds of separation, contributes to the support of his wife, solely in an attempt to fulfill the obligation imposed by statute, his conduct is not inconsistent with a legal separation; but, if he makes such payments in recognition of his marital status and in discharge of his marital obligations, there is no living separate and apart within the meaning of the statute. Williams v. Williams, 224 N. C. 91, 29 S. E. (2d) 39.

Meaning of "Separation."—See note under § 50-5.

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See Dudley v. Dudley, 225 N. C. 83, 33 S. E. (2d) 489.

The separation contemplated by this section is apparently unrestricted. Taylor v. Taylor, 225 N. C. 80, 82, 33 S. E. (2d) 492.

The expression used in Byers v. Byers, 222 N. C. 298, 22 S. E. (2d) 902, "that the bare fact of living separate and apart for the period of two years, standing alone, will not constitute a cause of action for divorce," should be viewed in the light of its setting, and construed accordingly. It was not intended as a delimitation of the statute. Byers v. Byers, 223 N. C. 85, 89, 25 S. E. (2d) 466.

Separation means cessation of cohabitation, and cohabitation means living together as man and wife, though not necessarily implying sexual relations. Cohabitation includes other marital responsibilities and duties. Young v. Young, 225 N. C. 340, 34 S. E. (2d) 154; Dudley v. Dudley, 225 N. C. 83, 33 S. E. (2d) 489.

A separation by act of the parties, or one of them, or under order of court a mensa et thoro, suffices to meet the terms of this section. Taylor v. Taylor, 225 N. C. 80, 82, 33 S. E. (2d) 492.

"Separation" would not include an involuntary living apart, where there had been no previous separation, such as might arise from the incarceration or insanity of one of the parties. Id.

"Judicial Separation" Included.—A legal separation for the requisite period of two years is ground for divorce under this section. The separation here contemplated includes a "judicial separation" as well as one brought about by the act of the parties, or one of them. Lockhart v. Lockhart, 223 N. C. 559, 27 S. E. (2d) 444.

The discontinuance of sexual relations is not in itself a living "separate and apart" within the meaning of the statute, and a divorce will be denied where it appears that, during the period relied upon, the parties had lived in the same house. Dudley v. Dudley, 225 N. C. 83, 33 S. E. (2d) 489.

Separation Must Be Voluntary in Inception.—In an action for divorce, based upon two years' separation by mutual consent, plaintiff must not only show that he and defendant have lived separate and apart for the statutory period, but also that the separation was voluntary in its inception. Williams v. Williams, 224 N. C. 91, 29 S. E. (2d) 39.

Husband Not Entitled to Divorce on His Own Criminal Conduct.—

In accord with original. See Byers v. Byers, 223 N. C. 85, 25 S. E. (2d) 466 (action under 1937 amendment).

Spouse May Not Obtain Divorce Solely on Own Dereliction.—It is not to be supposed the General Assembly intended in enacting this section to authorize one spouse willfully or wrongfully to abandon the other for a period of two years and then reward the faithless spouse a divorce for the wrong committed, in the face of a plea in bar based on such wrong. Nor is it to be ascribed as the legislative intent that one spouse may drive the other from their home for a period of two years, without any cause or excuse, and then obtain a divorce solely upon the ground of such separation created by complainant's own dereliction. Byers v. Byers, 223 N. C. 85, 90, 25 S. E. (2d) 466; Pharr v. Pharr, 223 N. C. 115, 25 S. E. (2d) 471.

The party in the wrong in the face of a plea in bar based on such wrong cannot obtain a divorce under the provisions of this section. Pharr v. Pharr, 223 N. C. 115, 117, 25 S. E. (2d) 471, following Byers v. Byers, 223 N. C. 85, 25 S. E. (2d) 466.

Where Issues to Be Passed on by Jury.—In an action under this section, where complaint alleges sufficient facts and defendant in her answer sets up a divorce a mensa with alimony granted her on the grounds of abandonment, to which plaintiff replied without admission of wrongful or unlawful conduct on his part, a judgment for defendant on the pleadings is erroneous, as there are issues of fact raised to be tried by a jury. Lockhart v. Lockhart, 223 N. C. 123, 25 S. E. (2d) 465.

Defenses.—Where defendant, in an action for divorce on the grounds of two years' separation, set up plaintiff's wrongful conduct and willful abandonment of defendant and also recrimination, either defense, if established, would defeat plaintiff. The burden, however, rests upon defendant to establish these defenses, which are affirmative. Taylor v. Taylor, 225 N. C. 80, 33 S. E. (2d) 492.

Pleading.—It is unnecessary to set out in the complaint the cause for the separation, or to allege that it was without fault on the part of plaintiff, or to aver that it was by mutual agreement of the parties. Taylor v. Taylor, 225 N. C. 80, 82, 33 S. E. (2d) 492.

Plaintiff may particularize as to the character of the separation by alleging that it was by mutual consent, abandonment, etc., in which event, if material to the cause of action, the burden would rest with plaintiff to prove the case secundum allegata. Id.

In an action under this section it was held that the mere statement in the answer that the allegation in complaint "that plaintiff and defendant have not lived together as man and wife since April 1, 1942, is not denied," was not an admission of a "separation." Moody v. Moody, 225 N. C. 89, 33 S. E. (2d) 491.

Where Recrimination Established.—This section does not authorize the granting of a divorce to one spouse where the other pleads and establishes recrimination. Pharr v. Pharr, 223 N. C. 115, 117, 25 S. E. (2d) 471.

Husband's Failure to Support Children Does Not Bar Action.—Under this and preceding section plaintiff's admission that he had been convicted for failing to support the children of his marriage is not alone sufficient to defeat his action for divorce on the ground of two years' separation. Welch v. Welch, 226 N. C. 541, 39 S. E. (2d) 457.

Evidence of Conjugal Relations within Two Years before Action.—Evidence that less than two years before the institution of divorce action defendant visited plaintiff at army camp and plaintiff visited defendant on furloughs, and that at such times they cohabited as man and wife, was sufficient to negative conclusion that conjugal relations had ceased for the period prescribed by this section, and supported verdict in defendant's favor and judgment denying plaintiff's suit for divorce on the grounds of two years' separation. Mason v. Mason, 226 N. C. 740, 40 S. E. (2d) 204.

To establish a domicile, there must be a residence, and the intention to make it a home or to live there indefinitely. Bryant v. Bryant, 228 N. C. 287, 45 S. E. (2d) 572.

Plaintiff must be physically present in this state and have the intention of making his residence here a permanent abiding place in order to be domiciled here within the meaning of this section, making residence in this state for six months a jurisdictional prerequisite to the institution of an action for divorce on the grounds of two years' separation. Id.

The fact that a person obtains automobile license and ration cards in another state, giving such state as his residence, while competent on the question of domicile, is not conclusive. Bryant v. Bryant, 228 N. C. 287, 45 S. E. (2d) 572.

Finding of Court as to Residence.—The finding of the court, supported by evidence, that plaintiff was physically present in this state for more than six months prior to instituting action for divorce and that he regarded his residence here as a permanent home, is sufficient to support judgment denying defendant's motion in the cause to set aside the divorce decree on the ground of want of the jurisdictional requirement of domicile. Bryant v. Bryant, 228 N. C. 287, 45 S. E. (2d) 572.

How Decree Attacked on Ground of Nonresidence.—The proper procedure to attack a divorce decree on the ground that plaintiff had not been a resident of the state for six months preceding the institution of the action is by motion in the cause. Bryant v. Bryant, 228 N. C. 287, 45 S. E. (2d) 572.

Applied in Nall v. Nall, 229 N. C. 598, 50 S. E. (2d) 737.

The lapse of seven years from the time of the separation does not bar a cross-action for divorce a mensa on the ground of constructive abandonment, or application for alimony pendente lite, either by laches or any statute of limitation. Nall v. Nall, 229 N. C. 598, 50 S. E. (2d) 737.

Alimony.—Where in the husband's action for divorce a vinculo, the wife sets up a cross-action for divorce a mensa, the court has the power to make an order for the payment of alimony upon the jury's determination of the issues in favor of the wife. Norman v. Norman, 230 N. C. 61, 51 S. E. (2d) 927.

In an action for divorce, a verified answer and cross-action setting forth a cause of action for divorce a mensa, is sufficient to sustain an order allowing alimony pendente lite. Nall v. Nall, 229 N. C. 598, 50 S. E. (2d) 737.

Only the Party Injured Is Entitled to a Divorce under This Section.—

In accord with original. See Lawrence v. Lawrence, 226 N. C. 624, 39 S. E. (2d) 807.

When the misconduct of the complaining party is calculated to and does reasonably induce the conduct of defendant, relied upon in an action for divorce a mensa et thoro he or she, as the case may be, will not be permitted to take advantage of his or her own wrong, and the decree of divorcement will be denied. Byers v. Byers, 223 N. C. 85, 89, 25 S. E. (2d) 466, citing Page v. Page, 161 N. C. 170, 76 S. E. 619.

Acts Constituting Abandonment.—

It is not necessary for the husband to depart from his home and leave his wife in order to abandon her. By cruel treatment or failure to provide for her support, he may compel her to leave him, which would constitute abandonment by the husband. Blanchard v. Blanchard, 226 N. C. 152, 36 S. E. (2d) 919, 920, holding evidence insufficient to show abandonment by husband.

Abandonment imports willfulness and maliciously turning the spouse out of doors. Brooks v. Brooks, 226 N. C. 280, 37 S. E. (2d) 909, 912.

Allegation of actual physical violence is not required under this section. Pearce v. Pearce, 226 N. C. 307, 37 S. E. (2d) 904.

Complaint Must Show Plaintiff's Innocence.—

In a cross-action under this section, the omission of an allegation that plaintiff's conduct was without provocation on defendant's part is fatal. Pearce v. Pearce, 225 N. C. 571, 35 S. E. (2d) 636.

Conduct of Defendant Must Be Set Out with Particularity.—When a wife bases her action for alimony without divorce upon the grounds that her husband has been guilty of cruel treatment of her and of offering indignities to her person within the meaning of the statute pertaining to divorce from bed and board, she "must meet the requisite" of this section and not only set out with particularity the acts on the part of her husband and upon which she relies, but she is also required to allege, and consequently to prove, that such acts were without adequate provocation on her part. Best v. Best, 228 N. C. 9, 12, 44 S. E. (2d) 214.

Under this section plaintiff must set out with particularity the language and conduct on the part of defendant relied upon, and must allege and prove that such acts were without adequate provocation on her part. Lawrence v. Lawrence, 226 N. C. 624, 39 S. E. (2d) 807.

A wife who seeks to assert a cause of action under this section must allege with particularity the language and conduct relied upon as constituting such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable and her life burdensome. Pearce v. Pearce, 225 N. C. 571, 35 S. E. (2d) 636.

Examples of Sufficient Cause.—

Allegations that the husband had been living in adultery, had repeatedly avowed his loss of affection for and his desire to be rid of his wife, had ejected her from his bed, and finally ordered her from his home, saying that he never intended to live with her again, states a cause of action. Pearce v. Pearce, 226 N. C. 307, 37 S. E. (2d) 904.

Failure to Allege and Prove That Husband's Accusations of Infidelity Were False.—In action for divorce a mensa et thoro and for subsistence, plaintiff alleged that defendant had repeatedly accused her of having sexual relations with her foster father and other men, and her evidence tended to show that all of the specific acts of abuse and misconduct complained of occurred in connection with this accusation. Plaintiff further alleged that she had been faithful and dutiful, and that defendant's acts of abuse and misconduct were without provocation or justification, but did not specifically allege or testify that the accusation was false. It was held that defendant's motion for judgment as of nonsuit should have been allowed, since even if the allegation denying provocation or justification be taken as denial of the charge of infidelity, plaintiff offered no testimony in support of such denial. Lawrence v. Lawrence, 226 N. C. 624, 39 S. E. (2d) 807.

Allegations of Habitual Drunkenness.—Allegations in complaint that defendant had been an habitual drunkard during the prior three years are sufficient to state a cause of action for divorce from bed and board under this section. Best v. Best, 228 N. C. 9, 44 S. E. (2d) 214.

Applied in Sumner v. Sumner, 227 N. C. 610, 44 S. E. (2d) 40.

Cited in Lockhart v. Lockhart, 223 N. C. 559, 27 S. E. (2d) 444; Stanley v. Stanley, 226 N. C. 129, 37 S. E. (2d) 118.

§ 50-8. Affidavit to be filed with complaint; affidavit of intention to file complaint.—The plaintiff in a complaint seeking either divorce or alimony, or both, shall file with his or her complaint an affidavit that the facts set forth in the complaint are true to the best of affiant's knowledge and belief. The plaintiff shall also set forth in such affidavit, either that the facts set forth in the complaint, as grounds for divorce, have existed to his or her knowledge at least six months prior to the filing of the complaint, and that complainant or defendant has been a residence of the state for six months next preceding the filing of the complaint; or, if the wife be the plaintiff, that the husband is removing, or about to remove, his property and effects from the state, whereby she may be disappointed in her alimony: Provided, however, that if the cause for divorce is two years separation then it shall not be necessary to set forth in the affidavit that the grounds for divorce have existed at least six months prior to the filing of the complaint, it being the purpose of this proviso to permit a divorce after a separation of two years without waiting an additional six months for filing the complaint: Provided, that if the plaintiff is a nonresident the action shall be brought in the county of the defendant's residence and summons personally served upon the defendant. If any wife files in the office of the superior court clerk of the county where she resides an affidavit, setting forth the fact that she intends to file a petition or bring an action for divorce against her husband, and that she has not had knowledge of the facts upon which the petition or action will be based for six months, she may reside separate and apart from her husband. If she fails to file her petition or bring her action for divorce within ninety days after the six months have expired since her knowledge of the facts upon which she intends to file her said petition or bring her said action, then she shall not be entitled any longer to the benefit of this section. (Rev., s. 1563; Code, s. 1287; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 46; 1869-70, c. 184; 1907, c. 1008, s. 1; 1925, c. 93; 1933, c. 71, ss. 2, 3; 1943, c. 448, s. 1; 1947, c. 165; 1949, c. 264, s. 4; C. S. 1661.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment, effective July 1, 1947, struck out a portion of the first sentence thereby eliminating the necessity for alleging in an affidavit in an action for divorce that there has been no collusion in bringing such action. The amendatory act, which did not apply to pending litigation, validated all judgments rendered before the effective date in actions for divorce where the affidavit failed to allege that there was no collusion between husband and wife.

For brief comment on the 1947 amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 412.

The 1949 amendment inserted the words "or defendant" in lines five and six of the second sentence, and added the second proviso thereto.

Verification of Subsequent Pleadings May Not Be Waived.—The requirement that when one pleading in a court of record is verified, every subsequent pleading in the same proceeding, except a demurrer, "must be verified also," is one which may be waived, except in those cases where the form and substance of the verification is made an essential part of the pleading; as in an action for divorce in which a special form of affidavit is required under this section, in a proceeding to restore a lost record, § 98-14, and in an action against a county or municipal corporation, § 153-64. Calaway v. Harris, 229 N. C. 117, 47 S. E. (2d) 796.

False Affidavit.—In an action for divorce the affidavit, required by this section in connection with the complaint, is jurisdictional, and a complaint accompanied by a false statutory affidavit, if it be properly so found, would be regarded as insufficient to empower the court to grant a decree of divorce; and the correct procedure for relief against the decree would be by motion in the cause. Young v. Young, 225 N. C. 340, 34 S. E. (2d) 154, wherein the plaintiff was held to have practiced imposition upon the court.

Proof Must Correspond to Allegations.—In accord with original. See Young v. Young, 225 N. C. 340, 34 S. E. (2d) 154.

Cited in Hodges v. Hodges, 226 N. C. 570, 39 S. E. (2d) 596.

§ 50-9. Effect of answer of summons by defendant.—In all cases upon an action for a divorce absolute, where judgment of divorce has heretofore been granted and where the plaintiff has caused to be served upon the defendant in person a legal summons, whether by verified complaint or unverified complaint, and such defendant answered such summons, and where the trial of said action was duly and legally had in all other respects and judgments rendered by a judge of the superior court upon issues answered by a judge and jury, in accordance with law, such judgments are hereby declared to have the same force and effect as any judgment upon an action for divorce otherwise had legally and regularly. (1929, c. 290, s. 1; 1947, c. 393.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment inserted near the beginning of the section the words "where judgment of divorce has heretofore been granted and."

§ 50-10. Material facts found by jury; parties cannot testify to adultery.

Question for Jury.—Where the facts in a divorce action were in dispute the case was one for the jury. Taylor v. Taylor, 225 N. C. 80, 33 S. E. (2d) 492.

Evidence in divorce action held insufficient to carry case to jury. Moody v. Moody, 225 N. C. 89, 33 S. E. (2d) 491.

Quoted in State v. Davis, 229 N. C. 386, 50 S. E. (2d) 37.

No Permanent Alimony.—

Alimony, both temporary and permanent, may be awarded in statutory proceedings for alimony without divorce and in an action for divorce a mensa et thoro; in an action for absolute divorce temporary alimony pendente lite but not permanent alimony may be awarded. Stanley v. Stanley, 226 N. C. 129, 37 S. E. (2d) 118, 120, citing Duffy v. Duffy, 120 N. C. 346, 27 S. E. 28.

Prior Award of Alimony Preserved.—Under the proviso in this section, a prior award of alimony is protected from annulment by a decree in absolute divorce based on two years separation, which would otherwise probably have resulted. Stanley v. Stanley, 226 N. C. 129, 37 S. E. (2d) 118, 121.

But Mere Separation Agreement Is Not Protected.—This section does not protect a mere separation agreement as an award of alimony, and it is, therefore, not only against public policy, but contrary to this section, that permanent alimony should be the outcome of an action for divorce a vinculo. Stanley v. Stanley, 226 N. C. 129, 37 S. E. (2d) 118, 121.

A judgment for subsistence, entered in an action for alimony without divorce survives a judgment for absolute divorce obtained under the two year separation statute. Simmons v. Simmons, 223 N. C. 841, 28 S. E. (2d) 489.

§ 50-13. Custody of children in divorce.

Provided, custody of children of parents who have been divorced outside of North Carolina, and controversies respecting the custody of children not provided for by this section or section 17-39 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, may be determined in a special proceeding instituted by either of said parents, or by the surviving parent if the other be dead, in the superior court of the county wherein the petitioner, or the respondent or child at the time of filing said petition, is a resident.

Editor's Note. — The 1949 amendment rewrote the first sentence of the second paragraph. As only this sentence was changed, the rest of the section is not set out.

The welfare of the child at the time of the contest is controlling in determining the right to the custody of the child as between its divorced parents. Hardee v. Mitchell, 230 N. C. 40, 51 S. E. (2d) 884.

In applying this statute the question of granting the custody and tuition of the child to the father or mother is discretionary with the court. The welfare of the child is the paramount consideration, or, as stated in In re Lewis, 88 N. C. 31, "the polar star by which the discretion of the court is to be guided." Brake v. Brake, 228 N. C. 609, 46 S. E. (2d) 643.

Remedy of Plaintiff in Divorce Suit Is by Motion in the Cause.—Where a wife institutes suit for divorce, her remedy to require the defendant to provide support for a minor child of the marriage is by motion in the cause, which may be filed either before or after final judgment. Winfield v. Winfield, 228 N. S. 256, 45 S. E. (2d) 259.

Where Divorce Decree Entered in Another State.—A decree for absolute divorce which awarded the custody of the child of the marriage was entered in another state and the parties thereafter moved to this state. The proper procedure for either party to determine the right to the custody of the child is by a special proceeding under this section. Hardee v. Mitchell, 230 N. C. 40, 51 S. E. (2d) 884.

Effect of Death of Party.—Under this section as it stood prior to the 1949 amendment, after the death of a mother to whom the custody of a child has been awarded pursuant to this section, the court in which the divorce action was pending had no jurisdiction to determine the custody of the child in a controversy between the father and the parents of the deceased mother. Under § 110-21 (3), jurisdiction of such a proceeding was vested exclusively in the juvenile branch of the superior court of the county in which the child resided or was to be found. Phipps v. Vannoy, 229 N. C. 629, 50 S. E. (2d) 906. The 1949 amendment was intended to overrule this case. 27 N. C. Law Rev. 452.

Custody of Grandparents.—Where the custody of a minor child has been awarded the mother in a divorce proceeding and subsequently, after both parents, who are proper and fit persons to have the custody of such child, have moved out of the state, the child being left by the mother with her parents, residents of the state and highly proper persons to rear the child, upon petition of the father for custody of the child, the court has authority under this section, to order that the child continue in the custody of the grandparents. Walker v. Walker, 224 N. C. 751, 32 S. E. (2d) 318.

Support and Counsel Fees Pendente Lite Where Husband Denies Paternity.—Where, upon the wife's motion in the cause to require defendant to provide support for the minor child of the marriage, made after decree of absolute divorce, the husband files affidavit denying paternity, and at his instance the issue is transferred to the civil issue docket, the trial court has the discretionary power to order defendant to provide for support of the child and counsel fees pendente lite. Winfield v. Winfield, 228 N. C. 256, 45 S. E. (2d) 259.

Jurisdiction.—Upon the institution of a divorce action the court is vested with jurisdiction of the children of the marriage for the purpose of entering orders respecting their care and custody. But the action is not instituted, within the meaning of this rule, until and unless the court acquires jurisdiction of the person of the defendant, and is subject to the fundamental requirement of notice and opportunity to be heard. If both parents are in court and subject to its jurisdiction, an order may be entered, in proper instances, binding the parties and enforceable through its coercive jurisdiction. Coble v. Coble, 229 N. C. 81, 47 S. E. (2d) 798.

Decree under § 17-39 Does Not Oust Jurisdiction.—A decree awarding the custody of a child under the provisions of § 17-39 does not oust the jurisdiction of the court to hear and determine a motion in the cause for the custody of the child in a subsequent divorce action between the parties. Robbins v. Robbins, 229 N. C. 430, 50 S. E. (2d) 183.

Domicile of Husband Not Necessarily Domicile of Wife and Children. — Where the husband in his divorce action alleges that he had notified his wife that he would no longer live with her as husband and wife, he may not assert the fictional unity of persons for the purpose of maintaining that his domicile was the domicile of his wife and children. Coble v. Coble, 229 N. C. 81, 47 S. E. (2d) 798.

Proceeding Is In Rem.—The awarding of the custody of the children in an action for divorce is in rem, and the court must have jurisdiction over the children, who are the res, or must have jurisdiction of the person of their custodian who is given notice and an opportunity to be heard in order to have authority to enforce its decree by coercive action. Coble v. Coble, 229 N. C. 81, 47 S. E. (2d) 798.

Necessity for Service.—Where a parent is about to abscond and take her children beyond the jurisdiction of the court for the purpose of avoiding the service of process, the court may act and act promptly. But even then its order becomes effective and binding only upon service. Coble v. Coble, 229 N. C. 81, 47 S. E. (2d) 798.

Judge Is without Jurisdiction to Hear Matter outside District.—Upon application for the custody of the children of the marriage after decree of divorce, the resident judge entered a temporary order awarding the custody to the father, and issued an order to defendant wife to appear outside the county and outside the district to show cause why the temporary order should not be made permanent. Held: The judge was without jurisdiction to hear the matter outside the district, and an order issued upon the hearing of the order to show cause was void ab initio. Patterson v. Patterson, 230 N. C. 481, 53 S. E. (2d) 658.

Jurisdiction to Award Custody of Children without the State.—In so far as this section undertakes to vest a judge with authority, without the service of process and without notice, to enter an effective binding order awarding the custody of an infant beyond the confines of the state, it is invalid. Coble v. Coble, 229 N. C. 81, 47 S. E. (2d) 798.

Order Made without Jurisdiction and in Denial of Due Process.—An order of a judge of the superior court awarding custody of minor children to a plaintiff under this section, is made without jurisdiction and in denial of due process of law, when at the time such order was made there had been neither service of summons upon nor notice to the defendant, and when both the defendant and the minor children were without the state. Coble v. Coble, 229 N. C. 81, 47 S. E. (2d) 798.

Modification of Decree.—

A decree awarding custody of the child of the marriage as between its divorced parents is determinative of the present rights of the parties, but is not permanent and may be later modified by the court upon change of conditions. Hardee v. Mitchell, 230 N. C. 40, 51 S. E. (2d) 884.

Findings Sufficient to Sustain Decree.—Findings that the parties had been married and divorced, that the wife was a person of good character, resident in this state, that the husband is financially responsible, and that the best interest of the minor child of the marriage would be promoted by awarding its custody to the wife, is sufficient to sustain decree awarding its custody to her and requiring him to make contributions for the support of the child. Hardee v. Mitchell, 230 N. C. 40, 51 S. E. (2d) 884.

§ 50-15. Alimony pendente lite; notice to husband.

I. IN GENERAL.

Cited in Stanley v. Stanley, 226 N. C. 129, 37 S. E. (2d) 118.

II. APPLICATION AND PROCEEDINGS THEREON.

In an action for divorce, a verified answer and cross-action setting forth a cause of action for divorce a mensa, is sufficient to sustain an order allowing alimony pendente lite. Nall v. Nall, 229 N. C. 598, 50 S. E. (2d) 737.

III. PREREQUISITES TO AWARD.

A. Entitled to Relief.

Adultery Does Not Bar Alimony Pendente Lite.—In action by wife for divorce a mensa, allegation of adultery on part of wife does not bar alimony pendente lite, as provision making adultery of wife bar to alimony is a part of § 50-16, but is not included in this section. Lawrence v. Lawrence, 226 N. C. 221, 37 S. E. (2d) 496.

The lapse of seven years from the time of the separation does not bar a cross-action for divorce a mensa on the ground of constructive abandonment or application for alimony pendente lite, either by laches or any statute of limitation. Nall v. Nall, 229 N. C. 598, 50 S. E. (2d) 737.

V. THE ORDER.

A. In General.

An order for support is not final, and may be modified or set aside on a showing of changed conditions. Byers v. Byers, 223 N. C. 85, 92, 25 S. E. (2d) 466.

§ 50-16. Alimony without divorce.

Two separate remedies are provided by this section, one for alimony without divorce, and one for reasonable subsistence and counsel fees pendente lite. The amounts allowed are determined by the trial court in its discretion and are not reviewable. Either party may apply for a modification at any time before the trial of the action. Oldham v. Oldham, 225 N. C. 476, 35 S. E. (2d) 332.

Jurisdiction Depends on Statute.—Jurisdiction over the subject matter of divorce or an action for alimony without divorce is given only by statute. Hodges v. Hodges, 226 N. C. 570, 39 S. E. (2d) 596, 597.

Husband's duty to provide support is not a debt in the legal sense of the word, but an obligation imposed by law, and penal sanctions are provided by this section for its wilful neglect or abandonment. Ritchie v. White, 225 N. C. 450, 35 S. E. (2d) 414.

Cross Action in Suit for Divorce.—If alimony without divorce, under this section, were the nature and purpose of the pleading, it could not be maintained by cross-action in a suit for divorce instituted by the husband. Ericson v. Ericson, 226 N. C. 474, 38 S. E. (2d) 517, 518.

Complaint Must Be Verified.—The court does not obtain jurisdiction in an action brought for relief under the provisions of the statutes relating to divorce, alimony, or divorce and alimony, unless the complaint is verified, and the form of the verification depends upon the character of the relief sought. Hodges v. Hodges, 226 N. C. 570, 39 S. E. (2d) 596, 597.

The provision of this section is mandatory as to the verification of pleadings but relieves the wife of the necessity of filing the affidavit required by § 50-8, and substitutes therefor the form prescribed for the verification of pleadings in ordinary civil actions. Id.

Complaint Must Allege Good Cause.—

In accord with 2nd paragraph in original. See Best v. Best, 228 N. C. 9, 12, 44 S. E. (2d) 214.

In an action under this section, as in an action for divorce a mensa et thoro by the wife, she must not only set out with some particularity the acts of cruelty upon the part of the husband, but she must aver, and consequently offer proof, that such acts were without adequate provocation on her part. The omission of such allegations is fatal and demurrer will be properly sustained. Howell v. Howell, 223 N. C. 62, 25 S. E. (2d) 169; Best v. Best, 228 N. C. 9, 13, 44 S. E. (2d) 214.

The essential elements required to be alleged in an action for alimony without divorce under this section are (1) separation of the husband from the wife, and (2) his failure to provide her with necessary subsistence according to his means and condition in life. Trull v. Trull, 229 N. C. 196, 49 S. E. (2d) 225.

Allegation That Acts of Husband Were without Provocation.—An allegation in an action for alimony without divorce that the separation of defendant from plaintiff wife was without fault or misconduct on her part, is a sufficient allegation that his acts were without provocation on her part. Trull v. Trull, 229 N. C. 196, 49 S. E. (2d) 225.

Complaint Praying for Subsistence and Other Relief. — Where a complaint alleges certain acts of misconduct constituting bases for divorce, both absolute and from bed and board, with prayer for relief demanding subsistence for the plaintiff and the minor child of the marriage, and for such other relief as may be just and proper, without prayer for divorce, the cause is an action for alimony without divorce under this section. Brooks v. Brooks, 226 N. C. 280, 37 S. E. (2d) 909.

Suit Not Barred by Separation Agreement.—Jurisdiction of the court invoked under this section was not barred by separation agreement pleaded, where wife sued for alimony and support without divorce on grounds of specific acts of cruelty by husband and declared intention to sue for divorce in two years. Butler v. Butler, 226 N. C. 594, 39 S. E. (2d) 745, 747.

Action for Divorce Is Not Defeated by Order for Support.—An order for support, either pendente lite or under this section, without more, would not perforce defeat an action for divorce under ch. 100, Public Laws 1937 (§ 50-6). Byers v. Byers, 223 N. C. 85, 92, 25 S. E. (2d) 466.

A money judgment for arrears of alimony, not by its terms conditional and on which execution was directed to issue, was not subject to modification or recall under this section; and hence was entitled to full faith and credit. Barber v. Barber, 323 U. S. 77, 65 S. Ct. 137, 89 L. Ed. 114.

A judgment for subsistence survives a judgment of absolute divorce obtained by defendant under this section. Simmons v. Simmons, 223 N. C. 841, 842, 28 S. E. (2d) 489.

Amount.—

In accord with 1st paragraph in original. See Best v. Best, 228 N. C. 9, 14, 44 S. E. (2d) 214; Barwick v. Barwick, 228 N. C. 109, 112, 44 S. E. (2d) 597, citing Oldham v. Oldham, 225 N. C. 476, 35 S. E. (2d) 332.

The allowance of subsistence and counsel fees pendente lite is in the discretion of the trial court, who is not required to make formal findings of fact upon such a motion, unless the charge of adultery is made against the wife; and the court's ruling will not be disturbed in the absence of abuse of discretion. Phillips v. Phillips, 223 N. C. 276, 25 S. E. (2d) 848.

When allowable, the amount of attorneys' fees in an action for alimony without divorce is within the sound discretion of the court below and is unappealable except for abuse of that discretion. The statute itself, however, contains some guides to the exercise of that discretion and practice has developed others. Within the rule of reasonableness the court must consider along with other things the condition and circumstances of the defendant. Generally speaking, in this respect this section runs parallel with § 50-15 regarding allowances for attorneys' fees. Stadiem v. Stadiem, 230 N. C. 318, 52 S. E. (2d) 899.

Discretion Is Not Absolute and Unreviewable.—The allowance of support and counsel fees pendente lite in a suit by wife against husband for divorce or alimony without divorce is not an absolute discretion to be exercised at the pleasure of the court and unreviewable, but is to be exercised within certain limits and with respect to factual conditions. Butler v. Butler, 226 N. C. 594, 39 S. E. (2d) 745, 747.

Elements to Be Considered in Allowing Counsel Fees.—There are so many elements to be considered in a pendente lite allowance of attorneys' fees for wife suing for alimony without divorce. The nature and worth of the services, the magnitude of the task imposed, reasonable consideration for the defendant's condition and financial circumstances, and many other considerations are involved. Stadiem v. Stadiem, 230 N. C. 318, 52 S. E. (2d) 899.

Effect of Abandonment of Suit.—The fact that after the institution of an action for alimony without divorce the client abandons the suit instituted in this state and institutes a suit for divorce in another state, and counsel employed here are permitted to withdraw, since no further services could be performed, does not affect such counsel's right to an order allowing them counsel fees out of the property of defendant for the services performed here in good faith. Stadiem v. Stadiem, 230 N. C. 318, 52 S. E. (2d) 899.

Court May Enter Second Order Allowing Additional Counsel Fees.—The fact that an order allowing counsel fees has been entered in an action under this sction does not preclude the court from thereafter entering a second order allowing additional counsel fees for subsequent services. Stadiem v. Stadiem, 230 N. C. 318, 52 S. E. (2d) 899.

Amount of Additional Counsel Fees Held Not Unreasonable.—On an appeal from an order allowing additional counsel fees under this section, the amount was held not so unreasonable as to constitute an abuse of discretion. Stadiem v. Stadiem, 230 N. C. 318, 52 S. E. (2d) 899.

No Allowance Where Plaintiff, in Law, Has No Case.—Discretion in allowance of support to a wife while suing husband under this section, is confined to consideration of necessities of the wife on the one hand, and the means of the husband on the other, but to warrant such allowance court is expected to look into the merits of the action, and would not be justified in allowing subsistence and counsel fees where the plaintiff, in law, has no case. Butler v. Butler, 226 N. C. 594, 39 S. E. (2d) 745, 747.

Grounds for Relief.—Under this section there are available to the wife not only the grounds specifically set forth, but also any ground that would constitute cause for divorce from bed and board under § 50-7, or cause for absolute divorce under § 50-5. Brooks v. Brooks, 226 N. C. 280, 37 S. E. (2d) 909.

Plaintiff, in order to obtain affirmative relief under the provisions of this section, must meet the requirements of § 50-7 for divorce from bed and board. Blanchard v. Blanchard, 226 N. C. 152, 36 S. E. (2d) 919.

Adultery Revived after Condonation.—Under this section an allegation of adultery cannot be held fatally defective on the ground that it sets forth facts amounting to condonation when the complaint also alleges acts of misconduct committed by defendant after the reconciliation which revive the old grounds. Brooks v. Brooks, 226 N. C. 280, 37 S. E. (2d) 909.

Indignities.—The acts of a husband which will constitute such indignities to the person of his wife, as to render her condition intolerable and life burdensome, largely depend upon the facts and circumstances in each particular case. And such facts and circumstances are for the jury to pass upon unaffected by any temporary order entered for subsistence and attorney's fees. Barwick v. Barwick, 228 N. C. 109, 112, 44 S. E. (2d) 597.

If the wife is compelled to leave the home of the husband because he offers such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable and life burdensome, his acts constitute in law an abandonment of the wife by the husband, and allegations to this effect are sufficient to state a cause of action for alimony without divorce. Id.

Cruelty Causing Wife to Leave Home.—When the husband by cruel treatment renders the life of the wife intolerable or puts her in such fear for her safety that she is compelled to leave the home, the abandonment is his, and is sufficient ground for alimony without divorce. Eggleston v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 668, 47 S. E. (2d) 243.

Establishing One Cause for Divorce Is Sufficient, etc.—Where complaint alleges adultery and also sets forth acts of misconduct constituting a basis for divorce from bed and board, the failure of the complaint to allege that the misconduct was without adequate provocation is not fatal, since such allegation is not necessary in an action for absolute divorce on the ground of adultery, and this ground, independently, is sufficient to sustain the action for alimony without divorce. Brooks v. Brooks, 226 N. C. 280, 37 S. E. (2d) 909.

Allegations of Habitual Drunkenness.—Allegations in a complaint that defendant had been an habitual drunkard during the prior three years is sufficient to state a cause of action for alimony without divorce under the term "shall be a drunkard" within the meaning of this section. Best v. Best, 228 N. C. 9, 44 S. E. (2d) 214.

Where complaint states a cause of action it is a sufficient basis for an order allowing alimony pendente lite. Brooks v. Brooks, 226 N. C. 280, 37 S. E. (2d) 909.

Only Adultery Is Absolute Bar to Allowance.—There is no defense that limits the power of the trial court to award subsistence pendente lite, under this section, except the defense of wife's adultery, so that the reasonableness of a separation agreement need not be determined before the court can award temporary allowances. Oldham v. Oldham, 225 N. C. 476, 35 S. E. (2d) 332.

Allowance as a Legal Right.—Generally, excluding statutory grounds for denial, allowance of support to an indigent wife while prosecuting a meritorious suit against her husband under this section is so strongly entrenched in practice as to be considered an established legal right. Butler v. Butler, 226 N. C. 594, 39 S. E. (2d) 745, 747.

What Must Be Proved to Obtain Subsistence and Counsel Fees Pendente Lite.—Subsistence and counsel fees pendente lite may now be allowed under this section, and although plaintiff does not ask for divorce, she must charge and prove such injurious conduct on the part of the husband as would entitle her to a divorce a mensa et thoro, at least. Abandonment, failure to support, and adultery, are sufficient to satisfy the statute. Phillips v. Phillips, 223 N. C. 276, 277, 25 S. E. (2d) 848.

Applied in Lawrence v. Lawrence, 226 N. C. 221, 37 S. E. (2d) 496; Lamm v. Lamm, 229 N. C. 248, 49 S. E. (2d) 403.

Chapter 51. Marriage.

Art. 1. General Provisions.

§ 51-1. Requisites of marriage; solemnization. No justice of the peace who holds the office of register of deeds shall, while holding said office, perform any marriage ceremony. (Rev., s. 2081; Code, s. 1812; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 3; 1908, c. 47; 1909, c. 704, s. 2; 1909, c. 897; 1945, c. 839; C. S. 2493.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment added the above sentence at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

§ 51-2. Capacity to marry.—All unmarried persons of eighteen years, or upwards, of age, may lawfully marry, except as hereinafter forbidden: Provided, that persons over sixteen years of age and under eighteen years of age may marry under a special license to be issued by the register of deeds, which said special license shall only be issued after there shall have been filed with the register of deeds a written consent to such marriage, signed by one of the parents of any such person or signed by the person standing in loco parentis to such male or female, and the fact of the filing of such written consent shall be set out in said special license: provided, that when the special license is procured by fraud and misrepresentation, the parent or person standing in loco parentis of the male or female shall be a proper party plaintiff in an action to annul said marriage. When an unmarried female between the ages of twelve and sixteen is pregnant or has given birth to a child and such unmarried female and the putative father of her child, either born or unborn, shall agree to marry and consent in writing to such marriage is given by one of the parents of the female, or by that person standing in loco parentis to such female, or by the guardian of the person of such female, or by the superintendent of public welfare of the county of residence of either party, such written consent shall be sufficient authorization for the register of deeds to issue a special license to marry. All couples resident of the state of North Carolina who marry in another state must file a copy of their marriage certificate in the office of the register of deeds of the home county of the groom within thirty days from the date of their return to the state, as residents, which certificate shall be indexed on the marriage license record of the office of the register of deeds and filed with marriage license in his office; the fee for the filing and indexing said certificate shall be fifty cents: Provided, the failure to file said certificate shall not invalidate the marriage. (Rev., s. 2082; Code, s. 1809; R. C., c. 68, s. 14; 1871-2, c. 193; 1923, c. 75; 1933, c. 269, s. 1; 1939, c. 375; 1947, c. 383, s. 2; C. S. 2494.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment rewrote this section. For brief account of amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 414.

§ 51-3. Want of capacity; void and voidable marriages.—All marriages between a white person and a negro or Indian, or between a white person and person of negro or Indian descent to the third generation, inclusive, or between a Cherokee Indian of Robeson county and a negro, or between a Cherokee Indian of Robeson county and a person of negro descent to the third generation, inclusive, or between any two persons nearer of kin than first cousins, or between a male person under sixteen years of age and any female, or between a female person under sixteen years of age and any male, or between persons either of whom has a husband or wife living at the time of such marriage, or between persons either of whom is at the time physically impotent, or is incapable of contracting from want of will or understanding, shall be void: Provided, double first cousins may not marry; and provided further, that no marriage followed by cohabitation and the birth of issue shall be declared void after the death of either of the parties for any of the causes stated in this section, except for that one of the parties was a white person and the other a negro or Indian, or of negro or Indian descent to the third generation, inclusive, and for bigamy; provided further, that no marriage by persons either of whom may be under sixteen years of age, and otherwise competent to marry, shall be declared void when the girl shall be pregnant, or when a child shall have been born to the parties unless such child at the time of the action to annul shall be dead. (Rev., s. 2083; Code, s. 1810; R. C., c. 68, ss. 7, 8, 9; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 2; 1887, c. 245; 1911, c. 215, s. 2; 1913, c. 123; 1917, c. 135; 1947, c. 383, s. 3; 1949, c. 1022; C. S. 2495.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment substituted "sixteen" for "fourteen" in line eleven. For brief comment on amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 414.

The 1949 amendment added the last proviso at the end of the section. For brief comment on amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 453.

What "Negro Descent" Includes.—
Every person who has one-eighth Negro blood in his veins is within the prohibited degree within the meaning of the Constitution and this section. State v. Miller, 229 N. C. 228, 229, 29 S. E. (2d) 751.

Art. 2. Marriage License.

§ 51-8.1. Nonresidents required to apply for license forty-eight hours before issuance.—No marriage license shall be issued by any register of deeds for the marriage of any two persons, both of whom are nonresidents of the state of North Carolina, unless application for such license has been on file in the office of the register of deeds issuing the license for at least forty-eight hours. Such application must be made in writing and filed subject to public inspection in the office of the register of deeds to which the application is made and shall give the names of the parties to the marriage, their race, ages, and residence addresses. For receiving and filing such application the register of deeds shall collect a fee of fifty cents (50c).

Any register of deeds who knowingly or without reasonable inquiry, personally or by his deputy, violates any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars ($200.00) to any parent, guardian, or other person standing in loco parentis, who sues for the same.

This section shall only apply to Bertie and Pamlico counties. (1945, cc. 1046, 1103; 1947, cc. 288, 289, 391, 538; 1949, cc. 13, 62, 329.)

Editor's Note.—The original section applied to Bertie, Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Dare, Gates, Hertford, Hyde, Martin, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Tyrrell and Washington counties. The 1947 amendments struck out Chowan, Currituck, Dare, Gates, Martin, Pasquotank and Perquimans from the list of counties. And the 1949 amendments struck out Camden, Hertford, Tyrrell and Washington. The title of the act (1949, c. 13) striking out Tyrrell and Washington refers only to Washington county.

§ 51-9. Health certificates required of applicants for licenses.—No license to marry shall be issued by the register of deeds of any county to a male or female applicant therefor except upon the following conditions: The said applicant shall present to the register of deeds a certificate executed within thirty days from the date of presentation showing that, by the usual methods of examination made by a regularly licensed physician, no evidence of any venereal disease was found. Such certificate shall be accompanied by the original report from a laboratory approved by the state board of health for making such tests showing that the Wassermann or any other approved test of this nature was made, such tests to have been made within thirty days of the time application for license is made. Before any laboratory shall make such tests or any serological test required by this section, it shall apply to the North Carolina state board of health for a certificate of approval; and such application shall be in writing and shall be accompanied by such reports and information as shall be required by the North Carolina state board of health. The North Carolina state board of health may, in its discretion, revoke or suspend any certificate of approval issued by it for the operation of such a laboratory; and after notice of such revocation or suspension, no such laboratory shall operate as an approved laboratory under this section.

Furthermore, such certificate shall state that, by the usual methods of examination made by a regularly licensed physician, no evidence of tuberculosis in the infectious or communicable stage was found.

And, furthermore, such certificate shall state that, by the usual methods of examination made by a regularly licensed physician, the applicant was found to be not subject to epileptic attacks, an idiot, an imbecile, a mental defective, or of unsound mind. (1939, c. 314, s. 1; 1941, c. 218, s. 1; 1945, c. 577, s. 1; 1947, c. 929.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment struck out the words "in the infectious or communicable stage" formerly appearing after the word "disease" in line nine, and substituted in line fourteen the words "was made" for the words "is negative."

The 1947 amendment added the last two sentences of the first paragraph.

§ 51-10. Exceptions to section 51-9.—Exceptions to § 51-9, in case of persons who have been infected with a venereal disease, are permissible only under the following conditions:

(1) When the applicant has completed treatment and is certified by a regularly licensed physician as having been cured or probated, and when said physician has certified that he has informed both the applicant and the proposed marital partner of any possible future infectivity of the applicant,

(2) When the applicant is found to be in that stage of such disease that is not communicable to the marital partner as certified by a regularly licensed physician, provided that the applicant signs an agreement to take adequate treatment until cured or probated,

(3) When the applicant is pregnant and it is necessary to protect the legitimacy of the offspring, provided that the applicant signs an agreement to take adequate treatment until cured or probated,

(4) When the applicant and the proposed marital partner are both infected with the same disease and have signed an agreement to take treatment until cured or probated. (1939, c. 314, s. 2; 1945, c. 577, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 51-12. Eugenic sterilization for persons adjudged of unsound mind, etc.

For comment on the 1943 amendment, see 21 N. C. Law Rev. 348.

§ 51-20. Marriage license tax.—The board of commissioners of any county may levy a tax of four dollars ($4.00) on each marriage license issued, which tax shall be collected by the register of deeds of the county in which the license is issued. All such marriage license taxes collected by the register of deeds shall promptly be placed in the county general fund.

The register of deeds of each county shall submit to the board of commissioners on the first Monday in January, April, July, and October of each year a sworn statement or report in detail, showing the names of the persons to whom marriage licenses have been issued during the preceding three months, and accompany such sworn report or statement with the amount of such taxes collected by him or that should have been collected by him in the preceding three months.

This section shall not be construed to modify in any manner the provisions of §§ 51-2 or 51-8.1.

Nothing in this section shall prevent any register of deeds whose compensation is derived from fees from retaining such fees as heretofore allowed by law to such register of deeds for issuing said license. (1947, c. 831, s. 1.)

Chapter 52. Married Women.

Art. 3. Free Traders.

Sec.
52-22 to 52-25. [Repealed.]

Art. 1. Powers and Liabilities of Married Women.

§ 52-1. Property of married woman secured to her.

Chapter Creates No New Rights in Husband.—The provisions of this chapter, in so far as the husband is concerned, constitute in the main abridgements of rights he had as to his wife's property under the common law, and do not purport to create in him, as against her, rights he did not have at common law. Scholtens v. Scholtens, 230 N. C. 149, 52 S. E. (2d) 350.

A husband may not maintain an action against his wife for a personal tort committed by her against him during coverture, since this common law disability has not been abrogated or repealed by statute. Scholtens v. Scholtens, 230 N. C. 149, 52 S. E. (2d) 350.

§ 52-2. Capacity to contract.—Subject to the provisions of § 52-12, regulating contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate, every married woman is authorized to contract and deal so as to affect her real and personal property in the same manner and with the same effect as if she were unmarried, but no conveyance of her real estate shall be valid unless made with the written assent of her husband as provided by section six of article ten of the constitution, and the execution of the same acknowledged or proven as required by law. (Rev., s. 2094; Code, s. 1826; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 17; 1911, c. 109; 1945, c. 73, s. 16; C. S. 2507.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment omitted the requirement of privy examination of the wife.

As to effect of amendment on this and other sections, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 357.

The Effect of This Section.—
This statute contains a permanent delimitation making a conveyance of real estate invalid unless with the written assent of the husband. Buford v. Mochy, 224 N. C. 235, 29 S. E. (2d) 729.

Statute providing that earnings and damages from personal injury are wife's property (§ 52-10), should be read in light of this section. Helmstetler v. Duke Power Co., 224 N. C. 821, 32 S. E. (2d) 611.

II. POWERS CONFERRED.

Oral Agreement to Hold Land in Trust for Husband.—A married woman is under no legal handicap which would prevent her from entering into an oral agreement with her husband to hold title to real estate for his benefit or for their joint benefit. Carlisle v. Carlisle, 225 N. C. 462, 35 S. E. (2d) 418.

Husband and Wife May Form Business Partnership.—This section has been held to vest the wife with the power to contract with the husband so as to create a business partnership. Eggleston v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 668, 47 S. E. (2d) 243.

§ 52-4. Conveyance or lease of wife's land requires husband's joinder.—No lease or agreement for a lease or sublease or assignment by any married woman of her lands or tenements, or chattels real, to run for more than three years, or to begin in possession more than six months after its execution, or any conveyance of any freehold estate in her real property, shall be valid, unless the same be executed by her and her husband, and proven or acknowledged by them. (Rev., s. 2096; Code, s. 1834; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 26; 1945, c. 73, s. 17; C. S. 2509.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment omitted the requirement of privy examination of the wife.

Cited in Buford v. Mochy, 224 N. C. 235, 29 S. E. (2d) 729 (dis. op.).

§ 52-7. Husband cannot convey, et cetera, wife's land without her consent; not liable for his debts.—No real estate belonging at the time of marriage to females nor any real estate by them subsequently acquired nor any real estate of a married woman shall be subject to be sold or leased by the husband for the term of his own life or any less term of years, except by and with the consent of his wife first had and obtained, to be ascertained and effectuated by deed and due proof or acknowledgment according to law. And no interest of the husband whatever in such real estate shall be subject to sale to satisfy any execution obtained against him; and every such sale is hereby declared null and void. (Rev., s. 2097, Code, s. 1840; R. C., c. 56; 1848, c. 41; 1945, c. 73, s. 18; C. S. 2510.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment omitted certain dates and the requirement of privy examination.

In General.—
A married woman is now entitled to recover in tort for all pecuniary loss sustained by her, including nursing and care, and loss from inability to perform labor or to carry on her household duties. This transfers to the wife, the husband's common-law right of action to recover for her services and for imposed nursing and care occasioned by the tort of another. Helmstetler v. Duke Power Co., 224 N. C. 821, 824, 32 S. E. (2d) 611.

"The effect of the legislation on the subject is to equalize the legal status of husband and wife, and to deny to each any overlapping recovery on account of the other's loss or injury." Id.

Services rendered by a married woman outside the home and not within the scope of her household or domestic duties, would properly be recoverable on implied assumpsit or quantum meruit in her own name. Coley v. Dalrymple, 225 N. C. 67, 70, 33 S. E. (2d) 477.

Read in Light of Other Laws.—This section should be read in the light of Art. X, sec. 6, of the constitution which protects a married woman in the sole ownership of her property, and also in connection with § 52-2, which seeks to secure to her the free use of her property. Helmstetler v. Duke Power Co., 224 N. C. 821, 823, 32 S. E. (2d) 611.

The mutual rights and duties growing out of the marital relationship are not affected by this and the following sections relating to the capacity of married women to contract and dispose of their property as if they were unmarried. Ritchie v. White, 225 N. C. 450, 35 S. E. (2d) 414.

A married woman is still a feme covert with the rights, privileges and obligations incident to such status under the law. Coley v. Dalrymple, 225 N. C. 67, 69, 33 S. E. (2d) 477, citing Buford v. Mochy, 224 N. C. 235, 29 S. E. (2d) 729.

This section does not relieve a married woman of her marital obligations, or deny to her the privilege of sharing in the family duties and aiding in such work as the helpmeet of her husband, when minded so to do. Coley v. Dalrymple, 225 N. C. 67, 69, 33 S. E. (2d) 477, citing Helmstetler v. Duke Power Co., 224 N. C. 821, 32 S. E. (2d) 611.

Effect on Rights of Husband.—
When a married woman is negligently injured by the tort of another, her husband cannot maintain an action to recover damages sustained by him through (1) imposed nursing and care, (2) loss of his wife's services, (3) mental anguish, and (4) loss of consortium. Under existing law, the injured spouse alone may sue for his or her earnings or damages for personal injuries. Helmstetler v. Duke Power Co., 224 N. C. 821, 32 S. E. (2d) 611.

Quoted in Carlisle v. Carlisle, 225 N. C. 462, 35 S. E. (2d) 418.

Cited in Scholtens v. Scholtens, 230 N. C. 149, 52 S. E. (2d) 350.

§ 52-12. Contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate.—(a) No contract between husband and wife made during their coverture shall be valid to affect or change any part of the real estate of the wife, or the accruing income thereof for a longer time than three years next ensuing the making of such contract, or to impair or change the body or capital of the personal estate of the wife, or the accruing income thereof, for a longer time than three years next ensuing the making of such contract, unless such contract is in writing, and is duly proven as is required for the conveyances of land; and such examining or certifying officer shall incorporate in his certificate a statement of his conclusions and findings of fact as to whether or not said contract is unreasonable or injurious to her. The certificate of the officer shall be conclusive of the facts therein stated. But the same may be impeached for fraud as other judgments may be.

(b) This section shall not apply to any judgment of the superior court which, by reason of its being consented to by a husband and his wife, or their attorneys, may be construed to constitute a contract between such husband and wife. (Rev., s. 2107; Code, s. 1835; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 27; 1945, c. 73, s. 19; 1947, c. 111; C. S. 2515.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment omitted the requirement of privy examination of the wife.

The 1947 amendment added subsection (b).

Legislature Did Not Intend to Reduce Marriage to a Commercial Basis.—While in ordinary transactions married women are permitted to deal with their earnings and property practically as they please or as free traders, the general assembly did not intend to reduce the institution of marriage, or the obligations of family life, to a commercial basis. Ritchie v. White, 225 N. C. 450, 35 S. E. (2d) 414.

Effect of Fraud or Want of Consideration.—Where the jury finds that a release signed by the wife in favor of the husband was procured by fraud, the husband's contention that the fact that the acknowledgment of the release taken in conformity with this section precludes attack of the release for want of consideration, is untenable, since in such instance there is no contract to which the provisions of this section could apply. Garrett v. Garrett, 229 N. C. 290, 49 S. E. (2d) 643.

Judgment on Pleadings.—In an action by a wife against her former husband to enforce a separation agreement between them, executed in accordance with this section, plaintiff was held entitled to have the court render judgment on the pleadings in her favor. Smith v. Smith, 225 N. C. 189, 34 S. E. (2d) 148.

Cited in Buford v. Mochy, 224 N. C. 235, 29 S. E. (2d) 729 (dis. op.); Bass v. Moore, 229 N. C. 211, 49 S. E. (2d) 391.

II. TRANSACTIONS INCLUDED.

Section Applies to Every Form of Conveyance Except Testamentary Devise.—A married woman cannot convey her real property to her husband directly or by any form of indirection without complying with the provisions of this section. Any manner of conveyance—testamentary devises excepted—otherwise than as therein provided is void. Ingram v. Easley, 227 N. C. 442, 444, 42 S. E. (2d) 624, containing specific examples of transactions that are void for want of compliance with this section.

Contract Fixing Monthly Allowance to Wife.—A contract between husband and wife, which does not purport to divest the wife of dower or the husband of curtesy, but which does fix the sum of money the wife is to receive from her husband each month thereafter, as long as the agreement remains in effect, for her support and the support of their minor child, is within the class of contracts which, in order to be valid and binding on the parties, must be executed in the manner and form required by this section, and, not being so executed, the same is void as to the wife and also as to the husband. Daughtry v. Daughtry, 225 N. C. 258, 34 S. E. (2d) 435.

Conveyance of Wife's Land to Third Party in Trust for Husband.—The law will not permit the salutary object of this section to protect married women to be circumvented by indirection, and a wife may not effectually convey her real estate to a third person to be held in trust by him for the husband or to be conveyed by him to the husband unless the examining or certifying officer incorporates in his certificate his conclusions that the conveyance "is not unreasonable or injurious to the wife." McCullen v. Durham, 229 N. C. 418, 50 S. E. (2d) 511.

Agreement to Hold in Trust Land Conveyed to Wife by Third Party.—A married woman may enter into a parol agreement with her husband to hold title to real estate conveyed to her by a third party, for his benefit or for their joint benefit. Such an agreement would not involve her separate estate; consequently the contract is not required to be executed in the manner set forth in this section. Bass v. Bass, 229 N. C. 171, 48 S. E. (2d) 48.

Contract Creating Business Partnership. — Husband and wife may enter into a contract creating a business partnership between them under § 52-2, but where the wife's separate estate is involved as a part of the partnership property, the provision of this section must be observed. Eggleston v. Eggleston, 228 N. C. 668, 47 S. E. (2d) 243.

IV. EFFECT OF NONCOMPLIANCE.

Separation agreement which was not executed in manner required by this section and § 52-13 was void ab initio, and where execution of such agreement appears from pleadings in husband's action for divorce on ground of two years separation, allegations of wife's answer must be weighed in the light of this fact. Pearce v. Pearce, 226 N. C. 307, 37 S. E. (2d) 904; Pearce v. Pearce, 225 N. C. 571, 35 S. E. (2d) 636.

Partnership Agreement.—A husband and wife may enter into a partnership agreement and be answerable for the partnership debts made for or on behalf of the firm with third parties. But, as between themselves, where the partnership agreement purports to affect or change any part of the real estate of the wife or the accruing income thereof, for a longer period than three years next ensuing the making of the contract, or if the agreement impairs or changes the body or capital of the personal estate of the wife, or accruing income thereof for a longer period than three years next ensuing the agreement, the contract is void and unenforceable unless executed in accordance with this section. Carlisle v. Carlisle, 225 N. C. 462, 35 S. E. (2d) 418.

Estoppel of Husband.—

A deed by husband to wife, acknowledged as required by this section, intending to convey and conveying in fee land held by such husband and wife by entireties, is an estoppel against the husband, his heirs and others standing in privity to him, although the deed contains no technical covenants. Keel v. Bailey, 224 N. C. 447, 31 S. E. (2d) 362.

Conveyance Void Where Officer Fails to State His Conclusions in Certificate.—A conveyance of her land by a wife to her husband is void if the officer taking the acknowledgment of the wife fails to state in his certificate his conclusions that the conveyance "is not unreasonable or injurious to her" as required by this section. McCullen v. Durham, 229 N. C. 418, 50 S. E. (2d) 511.

§ 52-13. Contracts between husband and wife generally; releases.

Legislature Did Not Intend to Reduce Marriage to a Commercial Basis.—While in ordinary transactions married women are permitted to deal with their earnings and property practically as they please or as free traders, the general assembly did not intend to reduce the institution of marriage, or the obligations of family life, to a commercial basis. Ritchie v. White, 225 N. C. 450, 35 S. E. (2d) 414.

Art. 2. Acts Barring Reciprocal Property Rights of Husband and Wife.

§ 52-19. Divorce a vinculo and felonious slaying a bar.

Heir Murdering Ancestor Excluded from Beneficial Interest in Estate.—The fact that this section and the other statutory provisions that a murderer shall forfeit all interest in the estate of his victim, §§ 28-10 and 30-4, are applicable only to the relation of husband and wife does not deprive equity of the power of declaring an heir who has murdered his ancestor a constructive trustee for the benefit of those who would have taken if the murderer had predeceased the intestate. Garner v. Phillips, 229 N. C. 160, 47 S. E. (2d) 845. For suggested revision of this section and related statutes, see 26 N. C. Law Rev. 232.

Cited in Buford v. Mochy, 224 N. C. 235, 29 S. E. (2d) 729 (dis. op.).

Art. 3. Free Traders.

Chapter 53. Banks.

Art. 1. Definitions.

§ 53-1. "Bank," "surplus," "undivided profits," and other words defined.

The term "bank" shall be construed to mean any corporation, other than building and loan associations, industrial banks, and credit unions, receiving, soliciting, or accepting money or its equivalent on deposit as a business.

(1945, c. 743, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment rewrote the second paragraph. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Art. 2. Creation.

§ 53-2. How incorporated.—Any number of persons, not less than five, who may be desirous of forming a company and engaging in the business of establishing, maintaining, and operating banks of discount and deposit to be known as commercial banks, or engaging in the business of establishing, maintaining, and operating offices of loan and deposits to be known as savings banks, or of establishing, maintaining, and operating banks having departments for both classes of businesss, or operating banks engaged in doing a trust and fiduciary business, shall be incorporated in the manner following and in no other way; that is to say, such persons shall, by a certificate of incorporation under their hands and seals set forth:

(1947, c. 781.)

The 1947 amendment inserted the word "and" after the word "trust" in the twelfth line, and struck out the words "and surety" formerly appearing after the word "fiduciary" in the same line. As only the preliminary paragraph was affected by the amendment the rest of the section is not set out.

§ 53-15. Repealed by Acts 1947, c. 696.

Art. 3. Dissolution and Liquidation.

(16) Unclaimed Dividends Held in Trust.—The unclaimed dividends remaining in the hands of the commissioner of banks for six months after the order for final distributions shall be held in trust for the several depositors and creditors of the liquidated bank; and the money so held by him shall be paid over to the persons respectively entitled thereto as and when satisfactory evidence of their right to the same is furnished. In case of doubtful or conflicting claims the commissioner of banks shall have authority to apply to the superior court of the county, by motion in the pending action, for an order from the resident or presiding judge of the superior court directing the payment of the moneys so claimed. When issues of fact are raised by said motion, the same may upon request of any claimant, be submitted to the jury for determination as other issues of fact are determined. The interest earned on the unclaimed dividend so held shall be applied toward defraying the expenses incurred in the distribution of such unclaimed dividends. The balance of interest, if any, shall be deposited and held as other funds of the banking department to the credit of the commissioner of banks. After the commissioner of banks has held the unclaimed dividend held in trust by him under the provisions of this statute for the several depositors and creditors of the liquidated bank for a period of ten years he is hereby given the authority to pay the principal amount of such unclaimed dividends to the University of North Carolina, to be held by the University of North Carolina without liability for profit or interest until a just claim therefor shall be preferred by the parties entitled thereto. Upon payment of the said unclaimed dividends to the University of North Carolina, the commissioner of banks shall be fully discharged from all further liability therefor.

The 1947 amendment added the last two sentences to subsection 16. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

For brief discussion of the 1947 amendment and other provisions relating to escheats, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 421. See also 26 N. C. Law Rev. 110.

In determining residence of fiduciaries for purposes of venue or citizenship, the personal residence of the fiduciary controls, in the absence of statute. This is true as to statutory receivers of banks. Hartford Acci., etc., Co. v. Hood, 225 N. C. 361, 34 S. E. (2d) 204.

Art. 6. Powers and Duties.

§ 53-48. Loans, limitations of.—The total direct and indirect liability of any person, firm or corporation, other than a municipal corporation for money borrowed, including in the liabilities of a firm, the liabilities of the several members thereof, shall at no time exceed twenty per cent of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, or fractional part thereof, of the unimpaired capital and permanent surplus of the bank and not more than ten per cent of the excess of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars of the unimpaired capital and permanent surplus of the bank: Provided, however, that the discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actual existing values, the discount of solvent trade acceptances, or other solvent commercial or business paper actually owned by the person, firm or corporation negotiating the same and the purchase of any notes, the making of any loans, secured by not less than a like face amount of bonds of the United States or state of North Carolina or certificates of indebtedness of the United States, shall not be considered as money borrowed within the meaning of this section: Provided, further, that the limitations of this section shall not apply to loans or obligations to the extent that they are secured or covered by guarantees or by commitments or agreements to take over or purchase the same, made by any federal reserve bank or by the United States or any department, board, bureau, commission or establishment of the United States, including any corporation wholly owned directly or indirectly by the United States. (1921, c. 4, s. 29; 1923, c. 148, s. 6; 1925, c. 119, s. 1; 1927, c. 47, s. 7; 1937, c. 419; 1943, c. 204; 1945, c. 127, s. 1; C. S. 220(d).)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment inserted in line nineteen the words "the making of any loans."

§ 53-58. Check or note sent direct to bank on which drawn; photostatic copies of lost items; presentation of original by innocent holder.—Any bank receiving for collection or deposit any check, note, or other negotiable instrument drawn upon or payable at another bank, located in another town or city, whether within or without this state, may forward such instrument for collection, direct to the bank on which it is drawn, or at which it is payable, and such method of forwarding direct to the payer bank shall be deemed due diligence, and the failure of such payer bank, because of its insolvency or other default, to account for the proceeds thereof, shall not render the forwarding bank liable therefor: Provided, however, such forwarding bank shall have used due diligence in other respects in connection with the collection of such instrument.

In any case where checks, notes, or other negotiable instruments are transmitted by one bank to another in the process of collection and the same shall be lost or shall be destroyed, the bank last forwarding the same, or any bank in the chain of collection handling such items prior to their loss or destruction, may furnish photostatic copies of such checks, notes or other negotiable instruments, and such photostatic copies, when forwarded by the last forwarding bank before such instruments were lost or destroyed, shall be taken and treated as the original items which they represent and the bank to which forwarded and any bank subsequent thereto through which the same are forwarded to the bank upon which the same are drawn shall be relieved of any liability for treatment of the same as originals; provided, however, that the bank last forwarding such items shall be solely liable for payment upon any original of such items if subsequently presented for payment to such bank by an innocent holder, although the bank is not the drawee bank. (1921, c. 4, s. 39; 1949, c. 818; C. S. 220(n).)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the second paragraph. For comment on the amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 427.

§ 53-62. Establishment of branches.—Any bank doing business under this chapter may establish branches in the cities in which they are located, or elsewhere, after having first obtained the written approval of the commissioner of banks, which approval may be given or withheld by the commissioner of banks, in his discretion, and shall not be given until he shall have ascertained to his satisfaction that the public convenience and advantage will be promoted by the opening of such branch. Such branch banks shall be operated as branches of and under the name of the parent bank, and under the control and direction of the board of directors and executive officers of said parent bank. The board of directors of the parent bank shall elect a cashier and such other officers as may be required to properly conduct the business of such branch, and a board of managers or loan committee shall be responsible for the conduct and management of said branch, but not of the parent bank or of any branch save that of which they are officers, managers, or committee: Provided, that the commissioner of banks shall not authorize the establishment of any branch, the paid-in capital stock of whose parent bank is not sufficient in an amount to provide for the capital of at least twenty-five thousand dollars for the parent bank, and at least twenty-five thousand dollars for each branch which it is proposed to establish in cities or towns of three thousand population or less; nor less than thirty thousand dollars in cities and towns whose population exceeds three thousand, but does not exceed ten thousand; nor less than fifty thousand dollars in cities and towns whose population exceeds ten thousand, but does not exceed twenty-five thousand; nor less than one hundred thousand dollars in cities and towns whose population exceeds twenty-five thousand. All banks operating branches prior to February 18, 1921, shall, within a time limit to be prescribed by the commissioner of banks, cause said branch bank to conform to the provisions of this section: Provided, however, that any bank with a capital stock (including both common and preferred) of one million ($1,000,000.00) dollars or more may without additional capital establish and operate such number of branches or agencies in the state of North Carolina as the commissioner of banks may in his discretion permit; but a bank operating branches under this proviso shall at all times maintain an unimpaired capital of at least one million ($1,000,000.00) dollars: Provided further, that the commissioner of banks shall not permit the establishment of additional branches, and/or agencies unless said bank maintains its capital stock and surplus in ratio of one to ten to its deposits; Provided that in small communities having no other banking facilities, and upon a finding by the commissioner of banks that the public convenience and advantage will be promoted thereby, the opening of "tellers window agencies or branches" of then existing banks may be permitted, but no more than one such agency or branch may be so opened in any one community nor shall any bank be permitted to open such an agency or branch when its unimpaired capital and surplus in proportion to deposits is below that herein required: provided, further, that the state banking commission may authorize the establishment of a teller's window only, for a bank in the community in which its home office or a branch thereof is located, without the allocation of additional capital for said teller's window as otherwise provided by law. (1921, c. 4, s. 43; Ex. Sess. 1921 c. 56, s. 2; 1927, c. 47, s. 8; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1933, c. 451, s. 1; 1935, c. 139; 1947, c. 990; C. S. 220(r).)

The 1947 amendment added the last proviso to the section.

Art. 7. Officers and Directors.

§ 53-86. Directors, officers, etc., accepting fees, etc. — No gift, fee, commission, or brokerage charge shall be received, directly or indirectly, by any officer, director, or employee of any bank doing business under this chapter, on account of any transaction to which the bank is a party. Any officer, director, employee, or agent who shall violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be and thereafter remain ineligible as an officer, director, or employee of any bank doing business under this chapter. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the payment of necessary and proper attorney's fees to any licensed attorney for professional services rendered, and nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to commissions on insurance and surety bond premiums. (1921, c. 4, s. 57; 1947, c. 695; C. S. 221(i).)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment added the words following the comma in the last sentence.

§ 53-90. Officers and employees shall give bond.

This Statute Enters into and Forms a Part of the Bond.— The provision of this section requiring officers and employees of a bank to give bond in an amount required by the directors and upon such form as may be approved by the commissioner of banks, is the only statutory provision which becomes a part of the bond. Hartford Acci., etc., Co. v. Hood, 226 N. C. 706, 40 S. E. (2d) 198.

Effect of Renewal of Bond.—

Where a bond guaranteeing the payment of any loss sustained through the dishonesty of a bank official while "in the continuous employment of a bank" after a specified date, is kept in force for a period of years by the payment of the stipulated annual premium, recovery on the bond is limited to the maximum liability therein stipulated for losses occurring during the life of the bond, and the contention that the surety is liable for defalcations to the amount of the penal sum of the bond for each of the years during which the bonds is kept in force, is untenable. Hartford Acci., etc., Co. v. Hood, 226 N. C. 706, 40 S. E. (2d) 198, distinguishing Hood v. Simpson, 206 N. C. 748, 175 S. E. 193.

Art. 8. Commissioner of Banks and Banking Department.

The state banking commission, which has heretofore been created, shall hereafter consist of the state treasurer and the attorney general, who shall serve as ex officio members thereof, and seven members who shall be appointed by the governor. Four members of the said commission shall be practical bankers and the remainder of the membership of said commission shall be selected so as to fairly represent the business, manufacturing, farming and dairying interests of the state. The present membership of said banking commission shall continue until the first day of April, 1951, and the governor shall appoint the two additional members thereof to serve until said time. Thereafter, three of the members of said commission shall be appointed for terms of two years and four of the members of said commission shall be appointed for terms of four years, and thereafter all members of said commission who are appointed by the governor shall be appointed for terms of four years. The appointive members of said commission shall receive as compensation for their services the same per diem and expenses as is paid to the members of the advisory budget commission, which compensation shall be paid from the fees collected from the examination of banks, as provided by law.

Editor's Note. — The 1949 amendment rewrote the second paragraph. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

§ 53-104. Commissioner of banks shall have supervision over, etc.—Every bank or corporation transacting the business of banking, or doing a banking business in connection with any other business, under the laws of and within this state, and any individual, partnership, association, or corporation which undertakes or attempts to transact the business of banking, or do a banking business in connection with any other business, shall be under the supervision of the commissioner of banks. It shall be his duty to execute and enforce through the state bank examiners and such other agents as are now or may hereafter be created or appointed, all laws which are now or may hereafter be enacted relating to banks as defined in this chapter. For the more complete and thorough enforcement of the provisions of this chapter, the state banking commission is hereby empowered to promulgate such rules, regulations, and instructions, not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter, as may in its opinion be necessary to carry out the provisions of the laws relating to banks and banking as herein defined, and as may be further necessary to insure such safe and conservative management of the banks under its supervision as will provide adequate protection for the interests of the depositors, creditors, stockholders, and public in their relations with such banks. All banks doing business under the provisions of this chapter shall conduct their business in a manner consistent with all laws relating to banks and banking, and all rules, regulations, and instructions that may be promulgated or issued by the state banking commission. (1921, c. 4, s. 63; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1939, c. 91, s. 2; 1945, c. 743, s. 1; C. S. 222(a).)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment rewrote the first sentence and struck out the former first part of the second sentence reading: "The commissioner of banks shall exercise control of and supervision over the banks doing business under this chapter, and."

Art. 9. Bank Examiners.

§ 53-122. Fees for examinations and other services.

(f) In the first half of each calendar year, the state banking commission shall review the estimated cost of maintaining the office of the commissioner of banks for the next fiscal year, and, if the estimated fees provided for under paragraphs (a) and (b) shall exceed the estimated cost of maintaining the office of the commissioner of banks for the next fiscal year, then the state banking commission may reduce by uniform percentage the fees provided for in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section but not in a percentage greater than fifty per cent (50%) nor to an amount which will reduce the amount of the fees to be collected below the estimated cost of maintaining the office of the commissioner of banks for the next fiscal year. (1921, c. 4, s. 77; 1927, c. 47, s. 15; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1943, c. 733; 1945, c. 467; C. S. 223(f).)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment increased the reduction allowed in subsection (f) from 25 to 50 per cent. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

Art. 11. Industrial Banks.

§ 53-136. Industrial bank defined.—The term "industrial bank," as used in this article shall be construed to mean any corporation organized or authorized under this article which is engaged in receiving, soliciting or accepting money or its equivalent on deposit and in lending money to be repaid in weekly, monthly, or other periodical installments or principal sums as a business: Provided, however, this definition shall not be construed to include building and loan associations, commercial banks, or credit unions. (1923, c. 225, s. 1; 1945, c. 743, s. 1; C. S 225(a).)

Editor's Note.—
Prior to the 1945 amendment this section related only to corporations engaged in lending money. The amendment substituted at the end of the section the words "commercial banks, or credit unions" for the words "or commercial or savings banks."

§ 53-137. Manner of organization.—Any number of persons, not less than five, may organize an industrial bank by setting forth in a certificate of incorporation, under their hands and seals, the following:

1. The name of the industrial bank.
2. The location of its principal office in this state.
3. The nature of its business.
4. The amount of its authorized capital stock which shall be divided into shares of ten, twenty, twenty-five, fifty, or one hundred dollars each: Provided, fractional shares may be issued for the purpose of complying with the requirements of § 53-88.
5. The names and post office addresses of subscribers for stock, and the number of shares subscribed by each. The aggregate of such subscriptions shall be the amount of the capital with which the industrial bank will begin business.
6. Period, if any, limited for the duration of the industrial bank.

This section shall not apply to banks organized and doing business prior to the adoption of this section. (1923, c. 225, s. 2; 1945, c. 743, s. 1; C. S. 225 (b).)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment rewrote this section.

1. To discount and negotiate promissory notes, drafts, bills of exchange and other evidence of indebtedness, and to loan money on real or personal security and reserve lawful interest in advance upon such loans, and to discount or purchase notes, bills of exchange, acceptances or other choses in action.

2. Upon the making of a loan or discount, to deduct in advance, from the proceeds of such loan, interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum (6%) per annum upon the amount of the loan from the date thereof until the maturity of the final installment, notwithstanding that the principal amount of such loan is required to be repaid in installments.

3. To charge for loans made pursuant to this section a fee of two dollars and fifty cents on installment loans of fifty dollars or less and on loans in excess of fifty dollars, one dollar for each fifty dollars or fraction thereof loaned, up to and including two hundred and fifty dollars, and for loans in excess of two hundred and fifty dollars, one dollar for each two hundred and fifty dollars excess or fraction thereof, to cover expenses, including any examination or investigation of the character and circumstances of the borrower, comaker, or surety. An additional fee of five dollars may be charged on such loans where same are secured by mortgage on real estate. No charge shall be collected unless a loan shall have been made.

Editor's Note.—
Prior to the 1945 amendment the charge for a loan was one dollar for each fifty dollars or fraction thereof loaned, up to and including loans of two hundred and fifty dollars. The 1949 amendment rewrote subsections 1 and 2. As only subsections 1, 2 and 3 were affected by the amendments the rest of the section is not set out.

For comment on the 1949 amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 425.

For such license the licensee shall pay to the state banking commission an annual license fee of two hundred dollars ($200.00), which shall be remitted to the state treasurer for the use of the commissioner of banks in the supervision of banks acting in a fiduciary capacity, insofar as it may be necessary, and the surplus, if any, shall remain in the state treasury for the use of the general fund of the state. The board of directors may adopt any other direct periodic reduction of principal plan that will require complete repayment of such loans: Provided, no plan of payment shall be adopted that will not mature and pay off the loan within twenty years from the date of the making thereof: Provided further, the board of directors may authorize the renewal or extension of the time of repayment of any loan theretofore made. Every person who has obtained or shall obtain a loan upon this or any other plan, or who has assumed or shall assume payment of a loan theretofore made upon this or any other plan or who shall be obligated upon any loan held by an association, shall be by reason thereof a member of the association making or holding such loan and shall be deemed a member until such loan is fully paid or assumed by another person or persons acceptable to the association. Such association may issue certificates of stock or membership to such member, but certificates shall not be necessary or required. (1937, c. 18; 1945, c. 189, s. 1.)

(1941, c. 64; 1945, c. 189, s. 2; 1947, c. 694.)

The commissioner of insurance shall collect a fee of five dollars from each association filing such statement, and the fees shall be paid into the state treasury to be credited to the general fund. (Rev., s. 3895; 1905, c. 435, s. 12; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 5188.)

The 1947 amendment struck out the former second sentence of clause 2. As only this clause was changed the rest of the section is not set out.

SUBCHAPTER IV. CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS.

Art. 16. Organization of Associations.

§ 54-111. Nature of the association.—Any number of persons, not less than five, may associate themselves as a mutual association, society, company, or exchange, for the purpose of conducting any agricultural, housing, horticultural, forestry, dairy, mercantile, mining, manufacturing, telephone, electric light, power, storage, refrigeration, flume, irrigation, water, sewerage, or mechanical business on the mutual plan. For the purposes of this subchapter, the words association, company, corporation, exchange, society, or union shall be construed to mean the same; Provided that the membership of agricultural organizations incorporated under this subchapter shall consist of producers of agricultural products, handled by such organizations or by organizations owned and controlled by such producers; provided further, that the membership of housing organizations incorporated under this subchapter shall consist only of veterans. (1915, c. 144, s. 1; 1925, c. 179, ss. 1, 2; 1931, c. 447; 1949, c. 1042, ss. 1, 2(a); C. S. 5242.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment inserted "housing" in line five and added the last proviso.

§ 54-111.1. Low-rent veterans' housing projects; non-profit co-operative housing corporations.—There may be organized under the laws of this state low-rent veterans' housing projects which may be converted into projects with federal assistance, if and when such federal assistance becomes available; and non-profit co-operative ownership housing corporations the permanent occupancy of the dwelling of which is restricted to members of such corporation all of whom must be veterans, or a project constructed by a non-profit corporation organized for the purpose of construction of homes for members of the corporation all of whom shall be veterans, at prices, costs, or charges comparable to the prices, costs, or charges proposed to be charged such members. Provided, however, that nothing contained in this section shall be construed as exempting any property of any such association from ad valorem taxation. (1949, c. 1042, s. 3.)

§ 54-112. Use of term restricted.—No corporation or association hereafter organized or doing business for profit in this state shall be entitled to use the term "mutual" as part of its corporate or other business name or title, unless it has complied with the provisions of this subchapter; and any corporation or association violating the provisions of this section may be enjoined from doing business under such name at the instance of any shareholder of any association legally organized under this subchapter. (1915, c. 144, s. 18; 1925, c. 179, s. 1; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 5243.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment changed the word "hereinafter" in line two to read "hereafter" and changed the word "for" in the said line to read "or."

§ 54-117. General corporation law applied; dealing in products of, or renting to, non-members.—All mutual associations shall be maintained in accordance with the general corporation law, except as otherwise provided for in this subchapter. And no corporation or association hereafter organized under this subchapter for doing business in this state shall be permitted to deal in the products of non-members to an amount greater in value than such as are handled by it for members. Provided, no housing corporation or association hereafter organized under this subchapter shall be permitted to rent to non-members for a period longer than ninety days. (1915, c. 144, s. 17; 1925, c. 179, s. 1; 1931, c. 447, s. 2; 1949, c. 1042, s. 2(b); C. S. 5248.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the proviso.

Art. 18. Powers and Duties.

§ 54-124. Nature of business authorized.—An association created under this subchapter shall have power to conduct any agricultural, housing, horticultural, forestry, dairy, mercantile, mining, manufacturing, telephone, electric light, power, storage, refrigeration, flume, irrigation, water, sewerage, or mechanical business, on the mutual plan. (1915, c. 144, s. 8; 1925, c. 179, ss. 1, 2; 1949, c. 1042, s. 2; C. S. 5255.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment inserted the word "housing."

Chapter 55. Corporations.

Art. 4. Powers and Restrictions.

Art. 15A. Amendments Extending Corporate Existence Validated.

Art. 2. Formation.

§ 55-2. How created.—Three or more persons who desire to engage in any business, or to form any company, society, or association, not unlawful, except railroads other than street railways, or banking or insurance, or building and loan associations, may be incorporated in the following manner only (except those corporations which are to be and remain under the patronage and control of the state, and which are created by the state for charitable, educational and reformatory purposes): Such persons shall, by a certificate of incorporation, under their hands and seals, set forth—

(1945, c. 635.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote the exception clause appearing within the parentheses in the first sentence. As only the introductory paragraph was affected by the amendment the rest of the section is not set out.

§ 55-11. Public parks and drives.

Local Modification.—Mecklenburg: 1945, c. 304.

Art. 4. Powers and Restrictions.

12. To make contributions or gifts to corporations, trusts, community chests, funds, foundations, or associations organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, literary, scientific, or educational purposes or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, when such contributions or gifts are authorized or approved by its board of directors: Provided, that such contributions or gifts during any income year of the corporation do not exceed five per centum (5%) of its net income as computed under article four, Schedule D, of chapter one hundred five, of the General Statutes, disregarding for such purpose the aggregate amount of such contributions or gifts: Provided further, that the assets of the corporation exceed its liabilities immediately after any such contribution or gift is made. (Rev., s. 1128; Code, ss. 663, 666, 691, 692, 693; 1893, c. 59; 1901, c. 2, s. 1; 1909, c. 507, s. 1; 1925, c. 235; 1925, c. 298; 1929, c. 269; 1939, c. 279; 1945, c. 775; C. S. 1126.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added subsection 12. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

IV. RIGHTS AS TO PROPERTY.

Necessity for Authorization by Directors to Sell Corporate Property.—Corporate directors are trustees of its property, and usually a corporation may sell, transfer and convey its corporate real estate only when authorized to do so by its board of directors. And the statutory provisions may be supplemented by stipulation in the corporation's by-laws. Tuttle v. Junior Bldg. Corp., 228 N. C. 507, 46 S. E. (2d) 313.

In the absence of charter provisions or by-laws to the contrary, the president of a corporation is the general manager of its corporate affairs, and his contracts made in the name of the corporation in the general course of business and within the apparent scope of his authority are ordinarily enforceable, but ordinarily he has no power to sell or contract to sell the real or personal property of the corporation without authority from its board of directors. Id.

Corporation Having General Power to Buy and Sell Realty.—Paragraph 11, which requires the holders of ⅔ of the stock to approve the action of the directors of a corporation in selling the entire corporate property, does not apply to the sale of realty by a corporation having general power to buy and sell real estate, and the fact that such corporation is an incorporated fraternal association and contracts to sell its building designated as the fraternal order building does not bring the transaction within the statute when the building is not used for permanent office, home or other facility in carrying on its business. Tuttle v. Junior Bldg. Corp., 227 N. C. 146, 41 S. E. (2d) 365.

The purpose of this section was, in recognition of reciprocal duties, to prevent a foreign corporation from accepting protection of our laws in the transaction of its ordinary business, create obligations and, by reason of its remoteness from any forum available to a local citizen, secure immunity from liability. State Highway, etc., Comm. v. Diamond Steamship Transp. Corp., 225 N. C. 198, 34 S. E. (2d) 78.

Within reasonable limits the statute should be liberally construed to accomplish its remedial purpose. State Highway, etc., Comm. v. Diamond Steamship Transp. Corp., 225 N. C. 198, 34 S. E. (2d) 78.

Service on Secretary of State.—Every state has the undoubted right to provide for service of process upon any foreign corporation doing business therein; to require such companies to name agents upon whom service may be made; and also to provide that in case of the company's failure to appoint such an agent, service, in proper cases, may be made upon an officer designated by law. But the power to designate by statute the officer upon whom service in suits against foreign corporations may be made relates to business and transactions within the jurisdiction of the state enacting the law. Central Motor Lines v. Brooks Transp. Co., 225 N. C. 733, 36 S. E. (2d) 271, 162 A. L. R. 1419.

Transitory Cause of Action Arising in Another State.—In action to recover damages for tort occurring in New Jersey by a domestic corporation against a foreign corporation, formerly domesticated in North Carolina with a local process agent, but which had withdrawn all personnel and property from the state, except an intrastate franchise for transportation of freight, it was held service of process on lessee of defendant's franchise was invalid, as was service on the secretary of state under this section. Central Motor Lines v. Brooks Transp. Co., 225 N. C. 733, 36 S. E. (2d) 271, 162 A. L. R. 1419.

What Constitutes Doing Business.—No satisfactory general definition can be made of the phrase "doing business" as found in our statutes, and, generally speaking, each case must be determined on its own facts. The question is one of fact, and must be determined largely according to the facts of each individual case, rather than by the application of fixed, definite, and precise rules. State Highway, etc., Comm. v. Diamond Steamship Transp. Corp., 225 N. C. 198, 201, 34 S. E. (2d) 78.

The court has been careful not to bring within the purview of the statute sporadic activities of a foreign corporation which are not directly in performance of its charter functions, or which are not of such a character as to indicate a course of business which might be expected to recur as opportunity offered; but the nature of the activities themselves, their magnitude, the multiplicity of contacts, the possibility that incidents may occur and liabilities be created—especially where the entrance into the state is in the ordinary prosecution of the business which the corporation is chartered to carry on and is carrying on, and which definitely regards the state as a theater for future transactions of a like sort as often as occasion might arise—these are important considerations in determining whether a corporation is, in a given instance, doing business in the state. On a single visitation to the state the matter in hand may explode into a multitude of transactions of far-reaching importance. Id.

Where a vessel of defendant foreign corporation, a regular carrier of freight in the coastwise trade, entered the port of Wilmington and discharged a substantial part of its valuable cargo in the regular course of business, and was there damaged by striking a bridge and remained some months in said port, undergoing repairs and having considerable business dealings with local residents, the service of process upon the secretary of state was valid and sufficient to bring defendant into court. Id.

Where defendant foreign corporation leased airports to individual defendant and by terms of agreement lessor was to furnish planes, parts, repairs, etc., to provide insurance for airports to be operated in name of corporate defendant, with right to demand lessee devote full time to business, and to furnish forms for keeping the records, it was held that corporation was doing business in this state so as to subject it to jurisdiction of courts and that process served on it under this section was valid. Harrison v. Corley, 226 N. C. 184, 37 S. E. (2d) 489.

Same—Question of Fact.—

In accord with original. See Harrison v. Corley, 226 N. C. 184, 37 S. E. (2d) 489.

Same—Question Is One of Due Process under the United States Constitution.—Whether defendant, on the day the alleged liability for damages was incurred, was engaged in business activities within the state, and thus was validly served with process under this section, is a question of due process of law under the constitution of the United States which must be determined in harmony with the decisions of the supreme court of the United States. Harrison v. Corley, 226 N. C. 184, 37 S. E. (2d) 489, 491.

Franchise to Transport Freight Is Property.—Intrastate franchise for the transportation of freight in North Carolina, owned by foreign corporation, is "property" within the meaning of this section. Central Motor Lines v. Brooks Transp. Co., 225 N. C. 733, 36 S. E. (2d) 271, 162 A. L. R. 1419.

Discontinuance of Business.—The statute authorizes service of process on the secretary of state, in an action by a resident of this state against a foreign corporation, after the business, once carried on by defendant, has been discontinued. State Highway, etc., Comm. v. Diamond Steamship Transp. Corp., 225 N. C. 198, 34 S. E. (2d) 78.

The provisions for service of summons, under this section, are a condition on which a foreign corporation is allowed to do business, and are accepted by it when it enters the state and engages in business without domesticating or appointing a process agent. It cannot, by the simple expedient of closing shop and departing the jurisdiction, withdraw such assent so as to defeat a suit on an action which arose while it was engaged in business. Harrison v. Corley, 226 N. C. 184, 37 S. E. (2d) 489, 493.

§ 55-41. Certain corporate conveyances validated.—All deeds and conveyances of land in this state, made by any corporation of this state prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred forty-eight, executed in its corporate name and signed and attested by its proper officers, from which the corporate seal was omitted, shall be good and valid, notwithstanding the failure to attach said corporate seal. (1939, c. 23; 1949, c. 436.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment changed the date from 1938 to 1948.

§ 55-41.2. Certain conveyances of corporations now dissolved validated.—All deeds and conveyances of land in this state, made by any corporation of this state prior to January 1, 1939, executed in its corporate name and signed by either its president, vice-president, or secretary, and sealed with the common seal of the corporation, where said corporation has been dissolved for at least seven years, and said deed or conveyance has been on record for at least seven years, shall be good and valid, notwithstanding the failure of one of such officers to sign such instrument. (1949, c. 825.)

§ 55-43. Conditional sale contracts.—Contracts, in writing, for the purchase of personal property by corporations, providing for a lien on the property or the retention of title thereto by the vendor or as a security for the purchase price, or any part thereof, or chattel mortgages, chattel deeds of trust and conditional sales of personal property, are sufficiently executed if signed in the name of the corporation by the president, secretary or treasurer in his official capacity, and may be acknowledged and ordered to registration as is now provided by law for the execution, acknowledgment and registration of deeds by natural persons. (1909, c. 335, s. 1; 1949, c. 1224, s. 2; C. S. 1139.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment rewrote this section and inserted the words "or chattel mortgages, chattel deeds of trust and conditional sales of personal property." For brief comment on the amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 440.

§ 55-44. Mortgaged property subject to execution for labor, clerical services, and torts.—Mortgages, deeds of trust or other conveyances upon condition of public service corporations upon their property or earnings cannot exempt said property or earnings from execution for the satisfaction of any judgment obtained in courts of the state against such corporations for labor and clerical services performed, or torts committed whereby any person is killed or any person or property injured. (Rev., s. 1131; Code, s. 1255; 1879, c. 101; 1897, c. 334; 1901, c. 2, s. 2; 1915, c. 201, s. 1; 1929, cc. 29, 256; 1931, c. 238; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 1140.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment inserted the words "deeds of trust or other conveyances upon condition."

Art. 5. Directors and Officers.

§ 55-48. Directors.—The business of every corporation shall be managed by its directors who must be at least three in number but such directors need not be stockholders in the corporation unless the articles of incorporation or the by-laws so provide. A corporation may, by its certificate of incorporation or by-laws, determine the number of shares a stockholder must own to qualify him as a director. The directors shall be chosen annually by the stockholders at the time and place provided in the by-laws, and shall hold office for one year and until others are chosen and qualified in their stead; but by so providing in its certificate of incorporation, a corporation may classify its directors in respect to the time for which they will severally hold office, the several classes to be elected for different terms, but no class may be elected for a shorter period than one year, or for a longer period than five years, and the term of office of at least one class must expire in each year. A corporation which has more than one kind of stock may, by so providing in its certificate of incorporation, confer the right to choose the directors of any class upon the stockholders of such class, to the exclusion of the others. One director of every corporation of this state shall be, and only one need be, an actual resident of the state, notwithstanding the provisions of the charter or any other act.

Every nonprofit, nonstock corporation which has been or may be organized under the laws of this state may, in its charter or by-laws, provide for the selection of its board of trustees or board of directors by election by the members or subscribers, or by selection by other designated as sociations, corporations or individuals, or by any combination of such methods of election set forth in the charter or by-laws. (Rev., ss. 1147, 1148; 1901, c. 2, ss. 14, 44; 1937, c. 179; 1945, c. 200; 1949, c. 917; C. S. 1144.)

Editor's Note. — The 1945 amendment added the second paragraph. The 1949 amendment rewrote the first sentence of the first paragraph and eliminated the former requirement that a director be a stockholder, or the guardian of a stockholder, etc.

The 1945 amendatory act provides: "The selection of any board of trustees or board of directors of a nonprofit, nonstock corporation by any of the methods authorized by this act is hereby ratified, validated and confirmed, and the acts of any such board shall be construed to be the acts of the corporation: Provided, that this section shall not apply to pending litigation."

For brief comment on the 1949 amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 440.

Applied in Thomas v. Baker, 227 N. C. 226, 41 S. E. (2d) 842.

Character of Audit Required.—Dictionary definitions alone will not determine the character of the audit required under this section upon demand by the stockholder. Some discretion must certainly be vested in the court to see, at least, that it reasonably reflects the information customarily given in audits of that kind, so that the interested stockholder may be able to discover whether the assets of the company are being administered in accordance with sound corporate practice. Southern Mills v. Summit Yarn Co., 223 N. C. 479, 486, 27 S. E. (2d) 289.

Misjoinder of Causes of Action.—Where plaintiff, in a suit against two corporate defendants, joins a cause of action based upon an alleged breach of contract by one of defendants only, with a cause of action against the other defendant to compel an audit of its affairs, under this section, on demand of a stockholder, and also, in the same complaint, asserts another cause of action against the first defendant for fraud and deceit, judgment of the court below, overruling defendants' demurrers, was held properly reversed and the action dismissed. Southern Mills v. Summit Yarn Co., 223 N. C. 479, 27 S. E. (2d) 289.

§ 55-56. Liability for fraud.—In case of fraud by the officers, directors, managers, or stockholders, in a corporation, the court shall adjudge personally liable to creditors and others injured thereby the officers, directors, managers, and stockholders who were concerned in the fraud. (Rev., s. 1155; Code, s. 686; 1901, c. 2, s. 107; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 1152.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted "officers" for "president" in line two.

Art. 6. Capital Stock.

§ 55-66. Decrease of capital stock.—The decrease of capital stock may be effected by—

1. Retiring or reducing any class of the stock.
2. Drawing the necessary number of shares by lot for retirement.
3. The surrender by every stockholder of his shares and the issue to him in place thereof of a decreased number of shares.
4. The purchase at not above par of certain shares for retirement.
5. Retiring shares owned by the corporation.
6. Reducing the par value of shares.

No such decrease of capital stock decreases the liability of any stockholder whose shares have not been fully paid, for debts of the corporation theretofore contracted. (Rev., s. 1164; 1901, c. 2, s. 32; 1939, c. 221; 1949, c. 950; C. S. 1161.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment struck out provisions of the last paragraph relating to publication of certificate decreasing capital stock and liability of directors in default of such publication. For brief comment on the amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 440.

Quoted in part in Rex-Hanover Mills Co. v. United States, 53 F. Supp. 235.

§ 55-67. Certificates and duplicates. — Every stockholder shall be entitled to have a certificate signed by the president or a vice-president and by the treasurer or an assistant treasurer or the secretary or an assistant secretary of the corporation certifying the number of shares owned by him in such corporation; provided, however, that where such certificate is signed by a transfer agent, or an assistant transfer agent, or by a transfer clerk acting on behalf of the corporation and a registrar, the signature of any such president, vice-president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, secretary or assistant secretary upon such certificate may be facsimile, engraved or printed. In case any officer or officers who shall have signed, or whose facsimile signature or signatures shall have been placed upon any such certificate or certificates, shall cease to be such officer or officers of the corporation, whether because of death, resignation or otherwise, before such certificate or certificates shall have been delivered by the corporation, such certificate or certificates may nevertheless be adopted by the corporation and be issued and delivered with the same effect as if the person or persons who signed such certificate or certificates, or whose facsimile signature or signatures shall have been placed thereon, had not ceased to be such officer or officers of the corporation. A corporation may issue a new certificate of stock in the place of any certificate theretofore issued by it, alleged to have been lost or destroyed, and the directors authorizing such issue of a new certificate may require the owner of the lost or destroyed certificate, or his legal representatives, to give the corporation a bond, in such sum as they may direct, as an indemnity against any claim that may be made against the corporation. A new certificate may be issued without requiring any bond when, in the judgment of the directors, it is proper to do so. (Rev., ss. 1165, 1166; 1885, c. 265; 1901, c. 2, s. 94; 1927 c. 173; 1949, c. 809; C. S. 1162.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment added the proviso to the first sentence and inserted the second sentence. For brief comment on the amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 441.

Art. 7. Capital Stock without Nominal or Par Value.

§ 55-73. Corporations which may create shares without nominal or par value. Classes of stock or debentures.—Any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized under the laws of this state, whether under a special act of legislature or otherwise, except banks, trust companies and insurance companies, may, in its original certificate of incorporation, articles of association, charter or any amendment thereof, create shares of stock with or without nominal or par value, and may create two or more classes of stock or debentures, any class or classes of which may be with or without nominal or par value, with such designations, preferences, voting powers, restrictions and qualifications as shall be fixed in such certificate of incorporation, articles of association, charter or amendment thereof, or by resolution adopted by those holding a majority of the outstanding capital stock entitled to vote. Subject to any provisions so fixed, every share without nominal or par value shall equal every other such share. (1921, c. 116, s. 1; 1925, c. 262, s. 1; 1949, c. 929; C. S. 1167(a).)

Editor's Note. — The 1949 amendment substituted "a majority" for "two-thirds" in line sixteen. For brief comment on the amendment, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 440.

§ 55-77. Tax on certificate of incorporation or amendments.—The tax upon the certificate of incorporation, or extension or renewal of corporate existence, or increase of capital stock without nominal or par value shall be the same as if each share of stock had a par or face value of one hundred dollars. (1921, c. 116, s. 5; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 1167(e).)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment substituted "of" in line two for "or."

Art. 8. Uniform Stock Transfer Act.

§ 55-97. Lost or destroyed certificate.

Editor's Note.—
The 2nd word in the 2nd paragraph of this section as it appears in original should be "issuance."

Art. 9. Meetings, Elections and Dividends.

§ 55-110. Votes stockholders entitled to; cumulative voting.—Unless otherwise provided in the charter or by-laws of a corporation, at every election each stockholder is entitled to one vote in person, or by proxy duly authorized in writing, for each share of the capital stock held by him, but no proxy may be voted after three years from its date. No share of stock may be voted which has been transferred on the books of the corporation within twenty days of an election. The certificate of incorporation of any corporation authorized to issue shares of capital stock may provide that at all elections of directors, managers or trustees, each stockholder is entitled to as many votes as equal the number of his shares of stock multiplied by the number of directors, managers, or trustees to be elected, and that he may cast all of his votes for a single director, manager, or trustee, or may distribute them among the number to be voted for, or any two or more of them, as he sees fit. This right of cumulative voting may be exercised in the absence of charter provision when at the time of the election the stock transfer book of such corporation discloses, or it otherwise appears, that more than one-fourth of the capital stock of the corporation is owned or controlled by one person. A stockholder owning or controlling more than twenty-five per cent of the stock has the same right to vote cumulatively as any other stockholder; and no amendment of the charter or by-laws of a corporation can abrogate or abridge any right herein conferred. The right to vote cumulatively cannot be exercised unless some stockholder announces in open meeting, before the voting for directors, trustees, or managers begins, his purpose to exercise such right, and then every other stockholder may likewise vote cumulatively. (Rev., ss. 1183, 1184; 1907, c. 457, s. 1; 1909, c. 827, s. 1; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 1173.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment inserted the second sentence in lieu of the words "nor may there be voted at any election a share of stock which has been transferred on the books of the corporation within twenty days prior to the election."

Section Is Constitutional.—This section, empowering the court to continue corporate officers in their respective offices with the same authority and emoluments enjoyed by them prior to controversy, provides an emergency remedy which does not affect the status of the corporation but merely preserves the status quo pending determination of controversy in order that the corporation may continue to function, not under the supervision of the court, but by virtue of corporate authority theretofore given, and therefore the remedy violates no constitutional right of stockholders or directors but only imposes upon them the rules of fair play in the exercise of their property rights. Thomas v. Baker, 227 N. C. 226, 41 S. E. (2d) 842.

This section is remedial in character. Thomas v. Baker, 227 N. C. 226, 41 S. E. (2d) 842.

Corporation Is Not a Necessary Party.—In a proceeding under this section it is not necessary that the corporation, as such, be joined as a party, since its inability to take corporate action is the very situation which the section seeks to remedy. Thomas v. Baker, 227 N. C. 226, 41 S. E. (2d) 842.

It is the intent of this section that the corporation shall continue to function pending settlement of the dispute, not under the supervision of the court, but by virtue of corporate authority theretofore bestowed. Hence this summary proceeding to avoid temporary corporate paralysis. Thomas v. Baker, 227 N. C. 226, 229, 41 S. E. (2d) 842.

Authority and Emoluments of Officers Continued in Office.—In a proceeding under this section, an order continuing corporate officers in their respective offices necessarily carries with it authorization and direction that such officers should continue to exercise the same functions and receive the same emoluments as before the controversy giving rise to the proceeding. Thomas v. Baker, 227 N. C. 226, 41 S. E. (2d) 842.

Dispute as to Powers of President.—Where the directors of a corporation are evenly divided in a dispute as to whether its president should exercise managerial powers, and by reason of such division are unable to elect any officers of the corporation or resolve their differences over the management of the corporation, the superior court has jurisdiction in the premises under this section upon petition properly filed. Thomas v. Baker, 227 N. C. 226, 41 S. E. (2d) 842.

Interference with Officers in Performance of Their Duties.—The jurisdiction of the superior court to grant relief against the wrongful interference with the officers in the performance of their duties or the wrongful refusal of an officer to perform the duties of his office cannot be invoked in a proceeding under this section. Thomas v. Baker, 227 N. C. 226, 41 S. E. (2d) 842.

Mandamus to Compel Dividends.—
A mandamus, or mandatory injunction, can only operate in personam; and in an action under this section, to compel the directors of a domestic corporation to pay dividends, so far as substituted service of process on nonresident directors is relied upon, the proceeding is a nullity. Southern Mills v. Armstrong, 223 N. C. 495, 27 S. E. (2d) 281, 148 A. L. R. 1248.

§ 55-116. Dividends from profits only; directors' liability for impairing capital.

Quoted in part in Rex-Hanover Mills Co. v. United States, 53 F. Supp. 235.

Art. 10. Foreign Corporations.

This section must be read in connection with § 55-38, and the implication of consent with respect to the foreign corporation rendering itself liable to process is no stronger in the one than in the other. In Southern R. Co. v. Allison, 190 U. S. 326, 23 S. Ct. 713, 47 L. Ed. 1078 (reversing the decision of supreme court in Allison v. Southern R. Co., 129 N. C. 336, 40 S. E. 91, and incidentally overruling Debnam v. Southern Bell Tel., etc., Co., 126 N. C. 831, 36 S. E. 269, 65 L. R. A. 915, and Beach v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 399, 42 S. E. 856), the United States supreme court interpreted North Carolina domestication law as a licensing statute rather than one creating a new corporation. Under this section or § 55-58, or both taken together, the controlling distinction lies in the extent to which the presumption of implied consent may be indulged in without infraction of the federal right. Central Motor Lines v. Brooks Transp. Co., 225 N. C. 733, 738, 36 S. E. (2d) 271, 162 A. L. R. 1419.

Effect of Compliance.—When a foreign corporation complies with the provisions of this section, it subjects itself to the laws of this state and acquires in return certain compensating rights and privileges. Among these is the right to sue and be sued in the state courts under the rules and regulations which apply to domestic corporations. Hill v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 229 N. C. 728, 51 S. E. (2d) 183.

For purposes of venue domesticated foreign corporations are residents of the state. Hill v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 229 N. C. 728, 51 S. E. (2d) 183.

Section 1-80 Does Not Apply.—A foreign corporation domesticated under this section may sue and be sued under the rules and regulations which apply to domestic corporations, and is entitled to have an action against it, instituted by a nonresident, removed to the county of its main place of business in this state. In such case § 1-80 does not apply. Hill v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 229 N. C. 728, 51 S. E. (2d) 183.

Art. 11. Dissolution.

Evidence Showing Continuance of Corporate Entity.—Evidence that upon destruction of an incorporated boys' school by fire the remainder of its property and its student body were removed to the site of a girls' school but that it maintained the same activities as far as possible, and that the trustees of the boys' school continued to be elected separately, was held sufficient to support finding that the school had kept its entity and had not lost its right to sue or to take property because of asserted merger with the girls' college. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co. v. Plumtree School for Boys, 229 N. C. 738, 51 S. E. (2d) 477.

Where a corporation is dissolved in any manner and six months shall have elapsed after the expiration of its corporate existence as continued by or pursuant to the foregoing provisions of this section for the purposes therein expressed, and any share of any stockholder of any money or other property in any division of money or other property among the stockholders of such corporation shall then remain in the hands of the directors of such corporation, such share shall escheat to the University of North Carolina to be held without liability for profit or interest until a just claim therefor shall be preferred by the party or parties entitled thereto. The provisions hereof shall apply to any corporation heretofore dissolved as well as to corporations hereafter dissolved. (Rev., s. 1200; Code, s. 667; 1901, c. 2, s. 58; 1939, c. 250, s. 1; 1947, c. 613; C. S. 1193.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1947 amendment added the above paragraph at the end of this section. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

For brief discussion of the 1947 amendment and other provisions relating to escheats, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 421.

Art. 13. Receivers.

Section Does Not Limit Power of Court.—The power of the court to appoint a receiver in proper cases is not limited by this section or § 1-502. Sinclair v. Moore Cent. R. Co., 228 N. C. 389, 45 S. E. (2d) 555.

§ 55-149. Title and inventory.—All of the real and personal property of an insolvent corporation, wheresoever situated, and all its franchises, rights, privileges and effects, upon the appointment of a receiver, forthwith vest in him, and the corporation is divested of the title hereto. Within thirty days after his appointment he shall lay before the court a full and complete inventory of all estate, property, and effects of the corporation, its nature and probable value, and an account of all debts due from and to it, as nearly as the same can be ascertained, and shall make a report of his proceedings to the superior court at such times as the court may direct during the continuance of the trust. (Rev., ss. 1224, 1225; 1901, c. 2, ss. 75, 80; 1945, c. 635; C. S. 1210.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted near the end of the section the words "such times as the court may direct" for the words "every civil term."

§ 55-153. Report on claims to court; exceptions and jury trial.—It is the duty of the receiver to report to the term of the superior court subsequent to a finding by him as to any claim against the corporation, and exceptions thereto may be filed by any person interested, within ten days after notice of the finding by the receiver, and not later than within the first three days of the said term; and, if, on an exception so filed, a jury trial is demanded, it is the duty of the court to prepare a proper issue and submit it to a jury; and if the demand is not made in the exceptions to the report the right to a jury trial is waived. The judge may, in his discretion, extend the time for filing such exceptions. Provided, that no court shall issue any order of distribution or order of discharge of a receiver until said receiver has proved to the satisfaction of the court that written notice has been mailed to the last known address of every claimant who has properly filed claim with the receiver, to the effect that such orders will be applied for at a certain time and place therein set forth and by producing a receipt issued by the United States post office, showing that such notice has been mailed to each of such claimant's last known address at least twenty days prior to the time set for hearing and passing upon such application to the court for said orders of distribution and/or discharge. (Rev., s. 1230; 1901, c. 2, s. 83; 1945, c. 219; C. S. 1213.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the proviso.

Where objections were filed by a creditor of a corporation in the hands of a receiver to an order allowing a claim against such corporation, which order adjudicated material and controverted issues of fact without consent, evidence or findings, it was held error to deny a motion to set aside the allowance of such claim and refuse to grant a hearing on such objections alleging facts which if true would constitute a valid defense to such claim. Peoples Bank, etc., Co. v. Tar River Lbr. Co., 224 N. C. 432, 31 S. E. (2d) 353. See also, Peoples Bank, etc., Co. v. Tar River Lbr. Co., 224 N. C. 153, 29 S. E. (2d) 348.

Exceptions Not Filed within Time Prescribed.—Exceptions filed and made a part of the record are not void as a matter of law because not filed within the first three days of the term of court commencing next after the filing of the receiver's report, in the absence of motion to strike or order to that effect, and a judgment entered on the basis that such exceptions were not before the court for consideration will be remanded. Benson v. Roberson, 226 N. C. 103, 36 S. E. (2d) 729.

The power to extend time for filing exceptions to receiver's report is expressly given by this section. Benson v. Roberson, 226 N. C. 103, 36 S. E. (2d) 729, 730.

Art. 14. Taxes and Fees.

§ 55-158. Taxes for filing; secretary of state not to file corporate papers until prescribed fees, etc., paid.

3. Extension or renewal of corporate existence of any corporation, forty dollars ($40.00).

4. Change of name, change of nature of business, amended certificate of incorporation (other than those authorizing increase of capital stock and those extending or renewing corporate existence), decrease of capital stock, increase or decrease of par value of, or number of shares, forty dollars.

(1945, c. 635; 1947, c. 1042.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment inserted in subsection 4 the words "and those extending or renewing corporate existence." The 1947 amendment rewrote subsection 3. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendments it is not set out.

Art. 15A. Amendments Extending Corporate Existence Validated.

§ 55-164.1. Validation of amendments to corporate charters extending corporate existence.—In every case where a private corporation, chartered under the general laws of the state of North Carolina, has continued to act and do business as a corporation after the expiration of its period of existence as theretofore fixed in its charter, and has thereafter filed in the office of the secretary of state an amendment to its charter to extend or renew its corporate existence, such amendment is hereby validated and made effective for all intents and purposes to the same extent and with the same effect as if such amendment had been made within the period of such corporation's existence as theretofore fixed in its charter. (1947, c. 504, s. 1.)

§ 55-164.2. Limitation of actions attacking validity of corporate action on grounds amendment not filed during corporate existence.—No action or proceeding shall be brought or defense or counterclaim pleaded later than one year after the ratification of this article in which either the continued existence of such corporation or the validity of any of the contracts, acts, deeds, rights, privileges, powers, franchises and titles of such corporation is attacked or otherwise questioned on the grounds that such amendment was not filed within the period of such corporation's existence as theretofore fixed in its charter. (1947, c. 504, s. 2.)

The act from which this article was codified was ratified on March 25, 1947, and provides that it shall not affect pending litigation.

§ 55-164.3. Clarification of intent of preceding section.—In no event shall the limitation provided in § 55-164.2 bar any action, proceeding, defense or counterclaim based upon grounds other than those mentioned in § 55-164.2, unless the grounds set out in § 55-164.2 are an essential part thereof. (1947, c. 504, s. 3.)

Art. 16. Consolidation or Merger.

Editor's Note.—

Chapter 56. Electric, Telegraph, and Power Companies.

§ 56-5. Grant of eminent domain; exception as to mills and water-powers.

Applied in Carolina Power, etc., Co. v. Bowman, 229 N. C. 682, 51 S. E. (2d) 191.

Chapter 57. Hospital and Medical Service Corporations.

Sec.
57-19. Merger or consolidation, proceedings for.
57-20. Commissioner of insurance determines corporations exempt from this chapter.

§ 57-1. Regulation and definition; application of other laws; profit and foreign corporations prohibited.

As to authority of state board of health to establish sanitary standards and methods of inspection for private hospitals, etc., see §§ 130-280 to 130-282.

§ 57-3. Hospital and physician contracts.—Any corporation organized under the provisions of this chapter may enter into contracts for the rendering of hospital service to any of its subscribers by hospitals approved by the American Medical Association and/or the North Carolina Hospital Association, and may enter into contracts for the furnishing of, or the payment in whole or in part for, medical services rendered to any of its subscribers by duly licensed physicians. All obligations arising under contracts issued by such corporations to its subscribers shall be satisfied by payments made directly to the hospital or hospitals and/or physicians rendering such service, or direct to the subscriber or his, her, or their legal representatives upon the receipt by the corporation from the subscriber of a statement marked paid by the hospital(s) and/or physician(s) or both rendering such service, and all such payments heretofore made are hereby ratified. Nothing herein shall be construed to discriminate against hospitals conducted by other schools of medical practice. (1941, c. 338, s. 3; 1943, c. 537, s. 2; 1947, c. 820, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment rewrote the latter part of the second sentence.

§ 57-6. Issuance of certificate.

(a) The applicant is established as a bona fide non-profit hospital service corporation as defined by this chapter.

(1947, c. 820, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment added to subsection (a) the words "as defined by this chapter." As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

§ 57-7. Subscriber contracts; required and prohibited provisions.

2. Contracts may be issued which entitle one or more persons to benefits thereunder, provided that persons entitled to benefits thereunder, other than the certificate holder, are either spouse, lawful or legally adopted child of the certificate holder or his spouse, or other members of the immediate family of the certificate holder who reside in the same household with certificate holder and are legally, equitably, or morally dependent upon and rely upon certificate holder to a material degree for the reasonable necessities of life, such as food, clothing, lodging, maintenance, support, and/or education.

5. A hospital service corporation may issue a master group contract with the approval of the commissioner of insurance provided such contract and the individual certificates issued to members of the group, shall comply in substance to the other provisions of this chapter. Any such contract may provide for the adjustment of the rate of the premium or benefits conferred as provided in said contract, and in accordance with an adjustment schedule filed with and approved by the commissioner of insurance. If such master group contract is issued, altered or modified, the subscriber's contracts issued in pursuance thereof are altered or modified accordingly, all laws and clauses in subscribers' contracts to the contrary notwithstanding. Nothing in the chapter shall be construed to prohibit or prevent the same. Forms of such contract shall at all times be furnished upon request of subscribers thereto. (1941, c. 338, s. 7; 1947, c. 820, ss. 3, 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote subsection 2 and the second sentence of subsection 5. As the other subsections were not affected by the amendment they are not set out.

§ 57-8. Investments and reserves.

Any such corporation may accumulate and maintain a contingent reserve in excess of the reserve hereinabove provided for, not to exceed an amount equal to six times the average monthly expenditures for hospital and/or medical claims and administrative and selling expenses.

(1947, c. 820, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment substituted "six" for "three" in line four of the next to last paragraph. As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

§ 57-12. Licensing of agents.

For said examination applicant shall pay the sum of ten ($10.00) dollars: Provided, that where an applicant has already paid the ten ($10.00) dollar examination fee prescribed in section 105-228.7, such applicant shall not be required to pay an additional examination fee.

(1947, c. 1023, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment substituted in the proviso to the fifth sentence "section 105-228.7" for "sub-section three of section 105-121". As the rest of the section was not affected by the amendment it is not set out.

§ 57-15. Amendments to certificate of incorporation.—Any corporation subject to the provisions of this chapter may hereafter amend its charter in the following manner only:

1. (a) A meeting of the board of directors, trustees or other governing authority shall be called in accordance with the by-laws specifying the amendment to be voted upon at such meeting.

(b) If at such meeting two-thirds of the directors, trustees or other governing authority present vote in favor of the proposed amendment, then the president and secretary shall under oath make a certificate to this effect, which certificate shall set forth the call for such meeting, a statement showing service of such call upon all directors, and a certified copy of so much of the minutes of the meeting as relate to the adoption of the proposed amendment;

(c) Said officers shall cause said certificate to be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper in Raleigh and in the county where the corporation's principal office is located, or posted at the courthouse door if no newspaper be published within the county. Said printed or posted notices shall be in such form and of such size as the commissioner may approve, and in addition to setting forth in full the certificate required in paragraph (b) shall state that application for amending the corporation's charter in the manner specified has been proposed by the board of directors, trustees, or other governing authority, and shall also state the time set for the meeting of certificate holders thereby called to be held at the principal office of the corporation to take action on the proposed amendment. A true copy of such notice shall be filed with the commissioner. Such publication and filing of notice shall be completed at least thirty days prior to the date set therein for the meeting of the certificate holders and due proof thereof shall be filed with the commissioner at least fifteen days prior to the date of such meeting. If the meeting at which the proposed amendment is to be considered is a special meeting, rather than a regular annual meeting of certificate holders, such special meeting can be called only after the commissioner has given his approval in writing, and the published notice shall show the fact of such approval. At said meeting those present in person or represented by proxy shall constitute a quorum.

(d) If at such certificate holders' meeting two-thirds of those present in person or by proxy shall vote in favor of any proposed amendment, the president and secretary shall make a certificate under oath setting forth such fact together with the full text of the amendment thus approved. Said certificate shall, within thirty days after such meeting, be submitted to the commissioner for his approval as conforming to the requirement of law, and it shall be the duty of the commissioner to act upon all proposed amendments within ten days after filing of such certificates with him. Should the commissioner approve the proposed amendment or amendments, he shall certify this fact, together with the full text of such amendments as are approved by him to the secretary of state who shall thereupon issue the charter amendment in the usual form. Should the commissioner disapprove of any amendment, then the same shall not be allowed.

2. All charters and charter amendments heretofore issued upon application of the board of directors, trustees or other governing authority of any corporations subject to the provisions of this chapter are hereby validated. (1941, c. 338, s. 15; 1947, c. 820, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 57-16. Cost plus plans. — Any corporation organized under the provisions of this chapter shall be authorized as agent of any other corporation, firm, group, partnership, or association, or any subsidiary or subsidiaries thereof, municipal corporation, state, federal government, or any agency thereof, to administer on behalf of such corporation, firm, group, partnership, or association, or any subsidiary or subsidiaries thereof, municipal corporation, state, federal government, or any agency thereof, any group hospitalization or medical service plan, promulgated by such corporation, firm, group, partnership, or association, or any subsidiary or subsidiaries thereof, municipal corporation, state, federal government, or any agency thereof, on a cost plus administrative expense basis, provided said other corporation, firm, group, partnership, or association, or any subsidiary or subsidiaries thereof, municipal corporation, state, federal government, or any agency thereof shall have had an active existence for at least one (1) year preceding the establishment of such plan, and was formed for purposes other than procuring such group hospitalization and/or medical service coverage on a cost plus administrative expense basis, and provided only that administrative costs of such a cost plus plan administered by a corporation organized under the provisions of this chapter, acting as an agent as herein provided, shall not exceed the remuneration received therefor, and provided further that the corporation organized under this chapter administering such a plan shall have no liability to the subscribers or to the hospitals for the success or failure, liquidation or dissolution of such group hospitalization or medical service plan and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to require of said corporation, firm, group, partnership, or association, or any subsidiary or subsidiaries thereof, municipal corporation, state, federal government, or any agency thereof, conformity to the provisions of this chapter if such group hospitalization is administered by a corporation organized under this chapter, on a cost plus expense basis. The administration of any cost plus plans as herein provided, shall not be subject to regulation or supervision by the commissioner of insurance. (1941, c. 338, s. 16; 1943, c. 537, s. 9; 1947, c. 820, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment rewrote portions of this section.

§ 57-18. Construction of chapter as to single employer plans; associations exempt.—Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to affect or apply to hospital or medical service plans which limit their membership to employees and the immediate members of the families of the employees of a single employer or his or its subsidiary or subsidiaries and which plans are operated by such employer or such limited group of the employees; nor shall this chapter be construed to affect or apply to any non-stock, non-profit medical service association which was, on January first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-three, organized solely for the purpose of, and actually engaged in, the administration of any medical service plan in this state upon contracts and participating agreements with physicians, surgeons, or medical societies, whereby such physicians or surgeons underwrite such plan by contributing their services to members of such association upon agreement with such association as to the schedule of fees to apply and the rate and method of payment by the association from the common fund paid in periodically by the members for medical, surgical and obstetrical care; and such hospital service plans, and such medical service associations as are herein specifically described, are hereby exempt from the provisions of this chapter. The commissioner of insurance may require from any such hospital service plan or medical service association such information as will enable him to determine whether such hospital service plan or medical service association is exempt from the provisions of this chapter. (1941, c. 338, s. 18; 1943, c. 537, s. 10; 1947, c. 140.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1947 amendment inserted the words "or his or its subsidiary or subsidiaries" after the word "employer" in line six.

§ 57-19. Merger or consolidation, proceedings for.—Any two (2) or more hospital and/or medical service corporations organized under and/or subject to the provisions of this chapter as determined by the commissioner of insurance may, as shall be specified in the agreement hereinafter required, be merged into one of such constituent corporations, herein designated as the surviving corporation, or may be consolidated into a new corporation to be formed by the means of such consolidation of the constituent corporations, which new corporation is herein designated as the resulting or consolidated corporation, and the directors and/or trustees, or a majority of them, of such corporations as desire to consolidate or merge, may enter into an agreement signed by them and under the corporate seals of the respective corporations, prescribing the terms and conditions of consolidation or merger, the mode of carrying the same into effect and stating such other facts as can be stated in the case of a consolidation or merger, stated in such altered form as the circumstances of the case require, and with such other details as to conversion of certificates of the subscribers as are deemed necessary and/or proper.

Said agreement shall be submitted to the certificate holders of each constituent corporation, at a separate meeting thereof, called for the purpose of taking the same into consideration; of the time, place and object of which meeting due notice shall be given by publication once a week for two consecutive weeks in some newspaper published in Raleigh, North Carolina and in the counties in which the principal offices of the constituent corporations are located, and if no such paper is published in the county of the principal office of such constituent corporations, then said notice shall be posted at the courthouse door of said county or counties for a period of two weeks.

Said printed or posted notices shall be in such form and of such size as the commissioner of insurance may approve. A true copy of said notices shall be filed with the commissioner of insurance.

Such publication and filing of notices shall be completed at least fifteen (15) days prior to the date set therein for the meeting, and due proof thereof shall be filed with the commissioner of insurance at least ten days prior to the date of such meeting.

At this meeting those present in person or represented by proxy shall constitute a quorum and said agreement shall be considered and voted upon by ballot in person or by proxy or both taken for the adoption or rejection of the same; and if the votes of two thirds of those at said meeting voting in person or by proxy shall be for the adoption of the said agreement, then that fact shall be certified on said agreement by the president and secretary of each such corporation, under the seal thereof.

The agreement so adopted and certified shall be signed by the president or vice president and secretary or assistant secretary of each of such corporations under the corporate seals thereof and acknowledged by the president or vice president of each such corporation before any officer authorized by the laws of this state to take acknowledgment of deeds to be the respective act, deed, and agreement of each of said corporations.

The said agreement shall be submitted to and approved by the commissioner of insurance, in advance of the merger or consolidation and his approval thereof shall be indicated by his signature being affixed thereto under the seal of his office.

The commissioner shall not approve any such plans, unless, after a hearing, he finds that it is fair, equitable to certificate holders and members, consistent with law, and will not conflict with the public interest.

The agreement so certified and acknowledged with the approval of the commissioner of insurance noted thereon, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and shall thenceforth be taken and deemed to be the agreement and act of consolidation or merger of said corporations; and a copy of said agreement and act of consolidation or merger duly certified by the secretary of state under the seal of his office shall also be recorded, in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county of this state in which the principal office of the surviving or consolidated corporation is, or is to be established, and in the office of the clerks of the superior courts of the counties of this state in which the respective corporations so merging or consolidating shall have their original certificates of incorporation recorded, and also in the office of the register of deeds in each county in which either or any of the corporations entering into merger or consolidation owns any real estate; and such record, or a certified copy thereof, shall be evidence of the agreement and act of consolidation or merger of said corporations, and of the observance and performance of all acts and conditions necessary to have been observed and performed precedent to such consolidation or merger. When an agreement shall have been signed, authorized, adopted, acknowledged, approved, and filed and recorded as hereinabove set forth in this section, for all purposes of the laws of this state, the separate existence of all constituent corporations, parties to said agreement, or of all such constituent corporations except the one into which the other or others of such constituent corporations have been merged, as the case may be, shall cease and the constituent corporations shall become a new corporation, or be merged into one of such corporations, as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of said agreement, possessing all the rights, privileges, powers and franchises as well of a public as of a private nature, of each of said constituent corporations, and all and singular, the rights, privileges, powers and franchises of each of said corporations, and all property, real, personal and mixed, and all debts due to any of said constituent corporations on whatever account, shall be vested in the corporation resulting from or surviving such consolidation or merger, and all property, rights, privileges, powers, and franchises and all and every other interest shall be thereafter as effectually the property of the resulting or surviving corporation as they were of the several and respective constituent corporations, and the title to any real estate, whether vested by deed or otherwise, under the laws of this state, vested in any such constituent corporations shall not revert or be in any way impaired by reason of such consolidation or merger; provided, however, that all rights of creditors and all liens upon the property of either of or any of said constituent corporations shall be preserved, unimpaired, limited in lien to the property affected by such lien at the time of the merger or consolidation, and all debts, liabilities, and duties of the respective constituent corporations shall thenceforth attach to said resulting or surviving corporation, and may be enforced against it to the same extent as if said debts, liabilities, and duties had been incurred or contracted by it; and further provided that notice of any said liens, debts, liabilities, and duties is given in writing to the resulting or surviving corporation within six months after the date of the filing of the agreement of merger in the office of the secretary of state. All such liens, debts, liabilities, and duties of which notice is not given as provided herein are forever barred. The certificate of incorporation of the surviving corporation shall be deemed to be amended to the extent, if any, that the changes in its certificates of incorporation are stated in the agreement of merger. All certificates theretofore issued and outstanding by each constituent corporation and in good standing upon the date of the filing of such agreement with the secretary of state without reissuance thereof by the resulting or surviving corporation shall be the contract and agreement of the resulting or surviving corporation with each of the certificate holders thereof and subject to all terms and conditions thereof and of the agreement of merger filed in the office of the secretary of state.

Any action or proceeding pending by or against any of the corporations consolidated or merged may be prosecuted to judgment as if such consolidation or merger had not taken place, or the corporations resulting from or surviving such consolidation or merger may be substituted in its place.

The liability of such constituent corporations to the certificate holders thereof, and the rights or remedies of the creditors thereof, or persons doing or transacting business with such corporations, shall not, in any way, be lessened or impaired by the consolidation or merger of two or more of such corporations under the provisions of this section, except as provided in this section.

When two or more corporations are consolidated or merged the corporation resulting from or surviving such consolidation or merger shall have the power and authority to continue any contracts which any of the constituent corporations might have elected to continue. All contracts entered into between any constituent corporations and any other persons shall be and become the contract of the resulting corporations according to the terms and conditions of said contract and the agreement of consolidation or merger.

For the filing of the agreement as hereinabove provided, the secretary of state is entitled to receive such fees only as he would have received had a new corporation been formed.

Any agreement for merger and/or consolidation as shall conform to the provisions of this section, shall be binding and valid upon all the subscribers, certificate holders and/or members of such constituent corporations, provided only that any subscriber, certificate holder and/or member who shall so indicate his disapproval thereof to the resulting, consolidated or surviving corporation within ninety days after the filing of said agreement with the secretary of state shall be entitled to receive all unearned portions of premiums paid on his certificate from and after the date of the receipt of the application therefor by the resulting, surviving, or consolidated corporation; each subscriber, certificate holder and/or member who shall not so indicate his or her disapproval of said agreement and said merger within said period of ninety days is deemed and presumed to have approved said agreement and said merger and/or consolidation and shall have waived his or her right to question the legality of said merger and/or consolidation.

No director, officer, subscriber, certificate holder and/or member as such of any such corporation, except as is expressly provided by the plan of merger or consolidation, shall receive any fee, commission, other compensation or valuable consideration whatever, for in any manner aiding, promoting or assisting in the merger or consolidation. (1947, c. 820, s. 8.)

§ 57-20. Commissioner of insurance determines corporations exempt from this chapter.—The commissioner of insurance may require from any corporation writing any hospital service contracts and any corporation writing medical service contracts or both, such information as will enable him to determine whether such corporation is subject to the provisions of this chapter. SUBCHAPTER I. INSURANCE DEPARTMENT.

Art. 1. Title and Definitions.

Editor's Note.—For article "The 1945 Revision of the Insurance Laws of North Carolina" by Robert H. Wettach, see 23 N. C. Law Rev. 283.

For changes made by the Session Laws of 1947, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 429.

§ 58-2. Definitions.—In this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires,

(a) "Commissioner" means commissioner of insurance of North Carolina.

(b) "Department" means department of insurance of North Carolina.

(c) "Company" or "insurance company" or "insurer" shall be deemed to include any corporation, association, partnership, society, order, individual or aggregation of individuals engaging or proposing or attempting to engage as principals in any kind of insurance business, including the exchanging of reciprocal or inter-insurance contracts between individuals, partnerships and corporations.

(d) "Domestic company" means a company incorporated or organized under the laws of this state.

(e) "Foreign company" means a company incorporated or organized under the laws of the United States or of any jurisdiction within the United States other than this state.

(f) "Alien company" means a company incorporated or organized under the laws of any jurisdiction outside of the United States.

(g) "Person" includes an individual, aggregation of individuals, corporation, company, association and partnership.

(h) The singular form shall include the plural, and the masculine form shall include the feminine wherever appropriate. (Rev., s. 4678; 1899, c. 54, s. 1; 1945, c. 383; C. S. 6261.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 58-3. Contract of insurance.—A contract of insurance is an agreement by which the insurer is bound to pay money or its equivalent or to do some act of value to the insured upon, and as an indemnity or reimbursement for, the destruction, loss, or injury of something in which the other party has an interest. (Rev., s. 4679; 1899, c. 54, s. 2; 1945, c. 383; C. S. 6262.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted the words "the insurer is bound" for the words "one party for a consideration promises," and inserted the words "or reimbursement."

Art. 2. Commissioner of Insurance.

§ 58-6. Salary of commissioner.—The salary of the commissioner of insurance shall be seven thousand five hundred dollars a year, payable monthly. (Rev., s. 2756; 1899, c. 54, ss. 3, 8; 1901, c. 710; 1903, c. 42; 1903, c. 771, s. 3; 1907, c. 830, s. 10; 1907, c. 994; 1909, c. 839; 1913, c. 194; 1915, cc. 158, 171; 1917, c. 70; 1919, c. 247, s. 4; 1921, c. 25, s. 1; 1933, c. 282, s. 5; 1935, c. 293; 1937, c. 342; 1945, c. 383; 1947, c. 1041; C. S. 3874.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment increased the salary from six thousand to six thousand and six hundred dollars.

The 1947 amendment increased the salary to seven thousand five hundred dollars. And Session Laws 1949, c. 1278, effective April 23, 1949, provides that the salary, from and after the expiration of the present term of office of the commissioner, shall be nine thousand dollars per year, payable in equal monthly installments.

§ 58-7.1. Chief deputy commissioner.—The commissioner shall appoint and may remove at his discretion a chief deputy commissioner, who, in the event of the absence, death, resignation, disability or disqualification of the commissioner, or in case the office of commissioner shall for any reason become vacant, shall have and exercise all the powers and duties vested by law in the commissioner. He shall receive such compensation as fixed and provided by the Budget Bureau. (1945, c. 383.)

§ 58-7.2. Chief actuary.—The commissioner shall appoint and may remove at his discretion a chief actuary, who shall receive such compensation as fixed and provided by the Budget Bureau. (1945, c. 383.)

§ 58-7.3. Other deputies, actuaries, examiners and employees.—The commissioner shall appoint or employ and may remove at his discretion such other deputies, actuaries, examiners, clerks and other employees as may be found necessary for the proper execution of the work of the Insurance Department, at such compensation as shall be fixed and provided by the Budget Bureau. (1945, c. 383.)

§ 58-9. Powers and duties of commissioner.—The commissioner shall:

(1) See that all laws of this state governing insurance companies, associations, orders or bureaus relating to the business of insurance are faithfully executed, and to that end he shall have power and authority to make rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, to enforce, carry out and make effective the provisions of this chapter, and to make such further rules and regulations not contrary to any provision of this chapter which will prevent practices injurious to the public by insurance companies, fraternal orders and societies, agents and adjusters. The commissioner may likewise, from time to time, withdraw, modify or amend any such regulation.

(2) Furnish to the companies, associations, orders or bureaus required by this chapter to report to him, the necessary blank forms for the statements required, which forms may be changed by him from time to time when necessary to secure full information as to the standing, condition and such other information desired of companies, associations, orders or bureaus under the Insurance Department.

(3) Receive and thoroughly examine each annual statement required by this chapter and prepare an abstract of each annual statement at the expense of the company, association, order or bureau making the same and receive therefor the sum of four dollars. If the annual statement is made in compliance with the laws of this state, the commissioner shall publish the abstract of the same, at the expense of the company, association, order or bureau making it, in one of the newspapers of the state, which newspaper may be selected by the company, association, order or bureau making the statement, if within thirty days after the filing of the statement, the commissioner is notified in writing of the name of the paper selected.

(4) Report in detail to the Attorney General any violations of the laws relative to insurance companies, associations, orders and bureaus or the business of insurance, and he shall have power to institute civil actions or criminal prosecutions either by the Attorney General or such other attorney as the Attorney General may select, for any violation of the provisions of this chapter.

(5) Upon a proper application by any citizen of this state, give a statement or synopsis of the provisions of any insurance contract offered or issued to such citizen.

(6) Administer by himself or by his deputy all oaths required in the discharge of his official duty. (Rev., s. 4689; 1899, c. 54, s. 8; 1905, c. 430, s. 3; 1945, c. 383; 1947, c. 721; C. S. 6269.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote this section. The 1947 amendment added to the first sentence of subsection (1) the provision as to rules and regulations, struck out former subsection (4) and renumbered the remaining subsections.

§ 58-9.1. Orders of commissioner; when writing required.—Whenever by any provision of this chapter, the commissioner is authorized to grant any approval, authorization or permission or to make any other order affecting any insurer, insurance agent, insurance broker or other person or persons subject to the provisions of this chapter, such order shall not be effective unless made in writing and signed by the commissioner or by his authority. (1945, c. 383.)

§ 58-9.2. Examinations, investigations and hearings; notice of hearing.—All examinations, investigations and hearings provided for by this chapter may be conducted by the commissioner personally or by one or more of his deputies, actuaries, examiners or employees designated by him for the purpose. All hearings shall, unless otherwise specially provided, be held at such time and place as shall be designated in a notice which shall be given by the commissioner in writing to the person cited to appear, at least ten days before the date designated therein. The notice shall state the subject of inquiry and the specific charges, if any. It shall be sufficient to give such notice either by delivering it to such person or by depositing the same in the United States mail, postage prepaid, and addressed to the last known place of business of such person. (1945, c. 383.)

§ 58-9.3. Court review of orders and decisions.—(1) Any order or decision made, issued or executed by the commissioner, except an order to make good an impairment of capital or surplus or a deficiency in the amount of admitted assets, shall be subject to review in the Superior Court of Wake County on petition by any person aggrieved filed within thirty days from the date of the delivery of a copy of the order or decision made by the commissioner upon such person. A copy of such petition for review as filed with and certified to by the clerk of said court shall be served upon the commissioner or in his absence upon some one in active charge of the department within five days after the filing thereof. If such petition for review is not filed within the said thirty days the parties aggrieved shall be deemed to have waived the right to have the merits of the order or decision reviewed and there shall be no trial of the merits thereof by any court to which application may be made by petition or otherwise, to enforce or restrain the enforcement of the same.

(2) The commissioner shall within thirty days, unless the time be extended by order of court, after the service of the copy of the petition for review as provided in paragraph (1) of this section, prepare and file with the clerk of the superior court of Wake county a complete transcript of the record of the hearing, if any, had before him, and a true copy of the order or decision duly certified. The order or decision of the commissioner if supported by substantial evidence shall be presumed to be correct and proper. The court may change the place of hearing, (a) upon consent of the parties; or (b) when the convenience of witnesses and the ends of justice would be promoted by the change; or (c) when the judge has at any time been interested as a party or counsel. The cause shall be heard by the trial judge as a civil case upon transcript of the record for review of findings of fact and errors of law only. It shall be the duty of the trial judge to hear and determine such petition with all convenient speed and to this end the cause shall be placed on the calendar for the next succeeding term for hearing ahead of all other cases except those already given priority by law. If on the hearing before the trial judge it shall appear that the record filed by the commissioner is incomplete, he may by appropriate order direct the commissioner to certify any or all parts of the record so omitted.

(3) The trial judge shall have jurisdiction to affirm or to set aside the order or decision of the commissioner and to restrain the enforcement thereof.

(4) Appeals from all final orders and judgments entered by the Superior Court in reviewing the orders and decisions of the commissioner may be taken to the Supreme Court of North Carolina by any party to the action as in other civil cases.

(5) The commencement of proceedings under this section shall not operate as a stay of the commissioner's order or decision, unless so ordered by the court, except orders increasing or reducing rates and orders affecting the continuation of the license of a rating organization. (1945, c. 383; 1947, c. 721.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote subsection (2) and substituted "trial judge" for "court" in line one of subsection (3). For comment on the amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 439.

§ 58-11. Office of commissioner a public office; records, etc., subject to inspection.—The office of the commissioner shall be a public office and the records, reports, books and papers thereof on file therein shall be accessible to the inspection of the public, except as the commissioner, for good reason, may decide otherwise, or except as may be otherwise provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 4683; 1899, c. 54, ss. 9, 77; 1907, c. 1000, s 1; 1945, c. 383; C. S. 6271.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 58-14. Reports of commissioner to the governor and general assembly.—The commissioner shall biennially submit to the general assembly, through the governor, a report of his official acts, including a summary of official rulings and regulations. The commissioner shall, from time to time, report to the general assembly any change which in his opinion should be made in the laws relating to insurance and other subjects pertaining to his department. On or before the first day of February of each year in which the general assembly is in session he shall make to the governor the recommendations called for in this section, to be transmitted to the general assembly, with the last annual report of this department, including receipts and disbursements. (Rev., ss. 4687, 4688; 1899, c. 54, ss. 6, 7, 10; 1901, c. 391, s. 2; 1911, c. 211, s. 2; 1927, c. 217, s. 5; 1945, c. 383; C. S. 6273.)

Editor's Note.—

The 1945 amendment added at the end of the first sentence the words "including a summary of official rulings and regulations."

§ 58-15. Authority over all insurance companies; no exemptions from license.—Every insurance company must be licensed and supervised by the commissioner of insurance, and must pay all licenses, taxes, and fees as prescribed in the insurance laws of the state for the class of company, association, or order to which it belongs. No provision in any statute, public or private, may relieve any company, association, or order from the supervision prescribed for the class of companies, associations, or orders of like character, or release it from the payment of the licenses, taxes, and fees prescribed for companies, associations, and orders of the same class; and all such special provisions or exemptions are hereby repealed. It is unlawful for the commissioner of insurance to grant or issue a license to any company, association, or order, or agent for them, claiming such exemption from supervision by his department and release for the payment of license, fees, and taxes. (Rev., s. 4691; 1903, c. 594, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1945, c. 383; C. S. 6274.)

Editor's Note. — The 1945 amendment struck out the words "association or order, as well as every bond, investment, dividend, guarantee, registry, title guarantee, debenture, or such other like company (not strictly an insurance company, as defined in the general insurance laws)." The stricken words formerly appeared after the word "company" in line two.

§ 58-16. Examinations to be made. — Before granting certificates of authority to an insurance company to issue policies or make contracts of insurance the commissioner shall be satisfied, by such examination and evidence as he sees fit to make and require, that the company is otherwise duly qualified under the laws of the state to transact business therein. As often as once in three years he shall personally or by his deputy visit each domestic insurance company and thoroughly inspect and examine its affairs, especially as to its financial condition and ability to fulfill its obligations and whether it has complied with the laws. He shall also make an examination of any such company whenever he deems it prudent to do so, or upon the request of five or more of the stockholders, creditors, policyholders, or persons pecuniarily interested therein, who shall make affidavit of their belief, with specifications of their reasons therefor, that the company is in an unsound condition. Whenever the commissioner deems it prudent for the protection of policyholders in this state he shall in like manner visit and examine, or cause to be visited and examined by some competent person appointed by him for that purpose, any foreign insurance company applying for admission or already admitted to do business in this state, and such company shall pay the proper charges incurred in this examination, including the expenses of the commissioner or his deputy and the expenses and compensation of his assistants employed therein. The refusal of any insurer to submit to examination or the refusal or failure of an insurer to pay the expenses of examination upon presentation of a bill therefor by the commissioner, shall be grounds for the revocation or refusal of a license. The commissioner is authorized to make public any such revocation or refusal of license as he may determine and to give his reasons therefor. The commissioner shall promptly institute a civil action to recover the expenses of examination against any insurer which refuses or fails to pay. For these purposes the commissioner or his deputy or persons making the examination shall have free access to all the books and papers of the insurance company that relate to its business, and to the books and papers kept by any of its agents, or to the books and papers of any affiliated or subsidiary corporations or partnerships that affect the affairs or financial condition of said company and may summon, administer oaths to, and examine as witnesses, the directors, officers, agents, and trustees of any such company, and any other person, affiliate or subsidiary in relation to its affairs, transactions, and condition. (Rev., s. 4692; 1899, c. 54, s. 13; 1945, c. 383; C. S. 6275.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment inserted the fifth, sixth and seventh sentences. It also made the last sentence applicable to affiliates and subsidiaries.

§ 58-16.1. Examination dispensed with under certain circumstances.—Before ordering or making the examination provided for in section 58-16 of any foreign or alien company, the commissioner shall first inquire of the insurance department of the state or country (if there be any such department therein), in which is located the principal office of such company, as to the financial and business standing and solvency of such company. If, upon such inquiry, it shall appear that such company is of good financial and business standing, and is solvent, and it be certified, in writing, attested by the seal (if any) of the insurance department of the state or country wherein is located the principal office of such company, that it has been examined by the insurance department of such state or country in the manner prescribed by the laws thereof, and was by such examination found to be in sound condition, that there is no reason to doubt its solvency, and that it is still permitted, under the laws of such state or country, to do business therein, then in the discretion of the commissioner, further examination may be dispensed with, and the information so obtained, and such certificate so furnished, may be accepted as sufficient evidence of the solvency of such company. (1945, c. 383.)

§ 58-16.2. Results of examination not to be made public until company is given opportunity to be heard; exception.—Pending, during and after the examination of any domestic, foreign or alien insurance company neither the commissioner nor his representative or representatives shall make public or allow to be made public the financial statement, findings or report of examination, or any report affecting the status or standing of the company examined until the company has either accepted and approved the final report of examination or has been afforded a reasonable opportunity to be heard thereon and to answer or rebut any statements or findings therein. Such hearing, if requested, shall be informal and private.

If within thirty days after the final report of examination has been submitted to it, the company examined has neither notified the commissioner of its acceptance and approval of the report nor requested to be heard thereon, the report shall thereupon be filed as a public document and shall be open to public inspection.

The provisions of this section shall not, however, prohibit the commissioner from taking any action provided for, or from exercising any power conferred by, any other provision of this chapter to suspend or revoke the license of any insurance company. (1945, c. 383.)

§ 58-18. Investigation of charges.—Upon his own motion or upon complaint being filed by a citizen of this state that a company authorized to do business in the state has violated any of the provisions of this chapter, the commissioner shall investigate the matter, and, if necessary, examine, under oath, by himself or his accredited representatives the president and such other officer or agents of such companies as may be deemed proper; also all books, records, and papers of the same. In case the commissioner shall find upon substantial evidence that any complaint against a company is justified, said company, in addition to such penalties as are imposed for violation of any of the provisions of this chapter, shall be liable for the expenses of the investigation, and the commissioner shall promptly present said company with a statement of such expenses. If the company refuses or neglects to pay, the commissioner is authorized to bring a civil action for the collection of these expenses. (Rev., s. 4694; 1899, c. 54, s. 111; 1903, c. 438, s. 11; 1921, c. 136, s. 4; 1925, c. 275, s. 6; 1945, c. 383; C. S. 6277.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 58-21. Annual statements to be filed with commissioner.—Every insurance company shall file in the office of the commissioner of insurance, on or before the first day of March in each year, in form and detail as the commissioner of insurance prescribes, a statement showing the business standing and financial condition of such company, association, or order on the preceding thirty-first day of December, signed and sworn to by the chief managing agent or officer thereof, before the commissioner of insurance or some officer authorized by law to administer oaths. The commissioner of insurance shall, in December of each year, furnish to each of the insurance companies authorized to do business in the state two or more blanks adapted for their annual statements. (Rev., s. 4698; 1899, c. 54, ss. 72, 73, 83, 90, 97; 1901, c. 706, s. 2; 1903, c. 438, s. 9; 1945, c. 383; C. S. 6280.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment struck out the words "association, or order—domestic, through its officers, and foreign, through its general agent—" formerly appearing after the word "company" in line one.

§ 58-25. Record of business kept by companies and agents; commissioner may inspect.—All companies, agents, or brokers doing any kind of insurance business in this state must make and keep a full and correct record of the business done by them, showing the number, date, term, amount insured, premiums, and the persons to whom issued, of every policy or certificate or renewal. Information from these records must be furnished to the commissioner of insurance on demand, and the original books of records shall be open to the inspection of the commissioner when demanded. (Rev., s. 4696; 1899, c. 54, s. 108; 1903, c. 438, s. 11; 1945, c. 383; C. S. 6284.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment struck out the words "his deputy or clerk" formerly appearing after the word "commissioner" in the last line.

§ 58-25.1. Commissioner may require special reports.—The commissioner may also address to any authorized insurer or its officers any inquiry in relation to its transactions or condition or any matter connected therewith. Every corporation or person so addressed shall reply in writing to such inquiry promptly and truthfully, and such reply shall be verified, if required by the commissioner, by such individual, or by such officer or officers of a corporation, as he shall designate. (1945, c. 383.)

§ 58-27. Books and papers required to be exhibited.—It is the duty of any person having in his possession or control any books, accounts, or papers of any company licensed under this chapter, to exhibit the same to the commissioner of insurance or to any deputy, actuary, accountant, or persons acting with or for the commissioner of insurance. Any person who shall refuse, on demand, to exhibit the books, accounts, or papers, as above provided, or who shall knowingly or wilfully make any false statement in regard to the same, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., ss. 3494, 4697; 1899, c. 54, s. 76; 1907, c. 1000, s. 3; 1945, c. 383; C. S. 6286.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment struck out the words "order, or person" formerly appearing after the word "company" in line three.

§ 58-27.1. Insurance advisory board; organization and powers.—(1) There shall be in the Insurance Department an insurance advisory board which shall consist of seven members. The commissioner shall be a member of the board and its chairman and executive head. The remaining six members shall be appointed by the Governor and any of them may be removed from office by the Governor whenever, in his judgment, the public interest may require. Of the six members appointed, three shall have had experience of such a nature as to make them familiar with the purposes and practices of the insurance business. Three members shall be appointed for two years and three for four years, and thereafter all appointments shall be for a term of four years and until a successor has been appointed; and in case of a vacancy for any reason, the Governor shall appoint a member to fill the unexpired term of office. The members of the insurance advisory board shall receive no salary but shall be paid for their services seven dollars ($7.00) per diem and their expenses. The board shall meet in regular session at least once each three months on call of the chairman. Special meetings may be had at any time upon call of the commissioner, or at the request of any two members of the board. The board may adjourn its meetings from day to day or until a day certain until all its business has been transacted. The commissioner shall keep a record of all proceedings of the board, which records shall be open to the public inspection.

(2) The insurance advisory board shall have power to consider and, by a majority vote of its members present, to make recommendations to the commissioner upon any matter which may be submitted to the board.

(3) The insurance advisory board shall, within three months of the ratification of this subsection promulgate rules and regulations to provide for the holding of public hearings before the commissioner of insurance, or any person employed by the insurance department authorized by the commissioner to act in his stead, on such proposals, to revise an existing rating schedule the effect of which is to increase or decrease the charge for insurance or to set up a new rating schedule, as are subject to the approval of the commissioner and as, in the judgment of the board, are of such nature and importance as to justify and require a public hearing. The board shall have authority to determine by such rules and regulations the circumstances under which such public hearings shall be held and the commissioner of insurance shall hold public hearings in accordance with such rules and regulations. From time to time the board may revise and change its promulgated rules and regulations in such manner as, in its judgment, the public interest may require. (1945, c. 383; 1949, c. 1079, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment, which added subsection (3), became effective on April 21, 1949. See 27 N. C. Law Rev. 460.

§ 58-27.2. Public hearings on revision of existing schedule or establishment of new schedule; publication of notice.—(1) Whenever any statutory or licensed insurance rating bureau or any insurance company making its own rate filings makes any proposal to revise an existing rating schedule the effect of which is to increase or decrease the charge for insurance, or to set up a new rating schedule, and such rating schedules are subject to the approval of the commissioner, such bureau or company shall file its proposed change and supporting data with the commissioner who shall thereafter, before acting upon any such proposal, order a public hearing thereon, if such hearing is required by the rules and regulations adopted by the insurance advisory board and then in accordance therewith, and fix a time and place for such hearing not earlier than twenty days thereafter. The bureau or the company making such proposal shall, not more than ten days prior to the time of such public hearing, cause to be published in a daily newspaper or newspapers published in North Carolina, and in accordance with the rules and regulations of the insurance advisory board, a notice, in the form and content approved by the commissioner, setting forth the nature and effect of such proposal and the time and place of the public hearing to be held.

(2) The provisions of this section shall be applicable to all rating bureaus operating in North Carolina and all companies making independent filings under the provisions of chapters 58 and 97 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, and shall be in addition to any requirements otherwise made specifically applicable to said bureaus and companies. (1949, c. 1079, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—As to appropriation for administration of section, see Session Laws 1949, c. 1079, s. 2.

Art. 3. General Regulations for Insurance.

Applied in Glover v. Rowan Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 228 N. C. 195, 45 S. E. (2d) 45.

Instruction.—The evidence tended to show that in her application for hospital insurance plaintiff inadvertently misrepresented that she did not have hernia, and that subsequent to the issuance of the policy plaintiff was hospitalized for appendicitis. The court held that a charge to the effect that the misrepresentation would bar recovery if the hernia in any way contributed to the hospitalization or materially affected the acceptance of the risk by insurer so that insurer would not have written the policy in the form it was issued if the existence of the hernia had been known, was without error, the question of materiality of the misrepresentation being for the jury upon the evidence. Carroll v. Carolina Cas. Ins. Co., 227 N. C. 456, 42 S. E. (2d) 607, discussed in 26 N. C. Law Rev. 78.

§ 58-30.1. Additional or coinsurance clause.—No insurance company or agent licensed to do business in this state may issue any policy or contract of insurance covering property in this state which shall contain any clause or provision requiring the insured to take or maintain a larger amount of insurance than that expressed in such policy, nor in any way provide that the insured shall be liable as a coinsurer with the company issuing the policy for any part of the loss or damage to the property described in such policy, and any such clause or provision shall be null and void, and of no effect: Provided, the coinsurance clause or provision may be written in or attached to a policy or policies issued when there is printed or stamped on the filing face of such policy or on the form containing such clause the words "coinsurance contract," and the commissioner may, in his discretion, determine the location of the words "coinsurance contract" and the size of the type to be used. If there be a difference in the rate for the insurance with and without the coinsurance clause the rates for each shall be furnished the insured upon request. (1915, c. 109, s. 5; 1925, c. 70, s. 4; 1945, c. 377; 1947, c. 721; C. S. 6441.)

Cross Reference.—See § 58-177 and notes thereto.

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote § 58-181 as this section.

The 1947 amendment added the latter part of the proviso and made other changes therein.

§ 58-30.2. Group plans other than life, annuity or accident and health.—No policy of insurance other than life, annuity or accident and health may be written in North Carolina on a group plan which insures a group of individuals under a master policy at rates lower than those charged for individual policies covering similar risks. The master policy and certificates, if any, shall be first approved by the commissioner and the rate, premiums or other essential information shall be shown on the certificate. (1945, c. 377.)

§ 58-31.1. Proof of loss forms required to be furnished.—When any company under any insurance policy requires a written proof of loss after notice of such loss has been given by the insured or beneficiary, the company or its representative shall furnish a blank to be used for that purpose. If such forms are not so furnished within fifteen days after the receipt of such notice the claimant shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this policy as to proof of loss, upon submitting within the time fixed in the policy for filing proofs of loss, written proof covering the occurrence, character, and extent of the loss for which claim is made. (1945, c. 377.)

§ 58-33. Companies must do business in own name.—Every insurance company must conduct its business in the state in, and the policies and contracts of insurance issued by it shall be headed or entitled only by, its proper or corporate name. (Rev., s. 4811; 1899, c. 54, s. 18; 1945, c. 377; C. S. 6292.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment struck out the words "foreign or domestic" formerly appearing after the word "company" in line one.

§ 58-33.1. Must not pay death benefits in services.—No insurance company now doing business in this state or that may hereafter be authorized to do business in this state issuing contracts providing benefits in the event of death shall issue any contract providing for the payment of benefits in merchandise or service to be rendered to such policyholder or his beneficiary. (1945, c. 377.)

§ 58-35. Unearned premium reserves.—Every insurance company other than life and real estate title insurance shall maintain unearned premium reserves equal to the unearned portions of the gross premiums charged on unexpired or unterminated risks and policies, provided, that excluding commissions thereon, unmatured installment premiums on such risks and policies may be treated as admitted assets or allowed as deductions from liabilities in computing the necessary reserves therefor, subject to regulations issued by the commissioner. No deductions may be made from the gross premiums in force except for original premiums cancelled on risks terminated or reduced before expiration, or except for premiums paid or credited for risks reinsured with other solvent assuming insurers. Premiums charged for bulk or portfolio reinsurance assumed from other insurers shall be included as premiums in force on the basis of the original premiums and the original terms of the policies of the ceding insurer. Reinsurance ceded to such an assuming insurer may be deducted on the basis of original premiums and original terms except in the case of excess loss or catastrophe reinsurance which may be deducted only on the basis of actual reinsurance premiums and actual reinsurance terms. The commissioner of insurance may accept the valuation made by the company upon such evidence of its correctness as the commissioner may require.

If in the opinion of the commissioner the above method does not produce an adequate reserve he may require the company to calculate its unearned premium reserve upon the monthly pro rata fractional basis, or, if necessary, on each respective risk from the date of the issuance of the policy, and in case of premiums covering indefinite terms he may prescribe special regulations. (Rev., s. 4704; 1899, c. 54, s. 67; 1901, c. 391, s. 5; 1907, c. 1000, s. 4; 1945, c. 377; 1947, c. 721; C. S. 6294.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment repealed the former section and inserted in lieu thereof the present section and sections 58-35.1 and 58-35.2.

The 1947 amendment substituted in lines five and six the word "unterminated" for the word "undetermined", and added the proviso to the first sentence.

For comment on 1947 amendment, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 440.

§ 58-35.1. Loss reserves of fire and marine insurance companies.—In any determination of the financial condition of any fire or marine or fire and marine insurance company authorized to do business in this state, such company shall be charged, in addition to its unearned premium liability as prescribed in section 58-35, with a liability for loss reserves in an amount equal to the aggregate of the estimated amounts payable on all outstanding claims reported to it which arose out of any contract of insurance or reinsurance made by it, and in addition thereto an amount fairly estimated as necessary to provide for unreported losses incurred on or prior to the date of such determination, and including, both as to reported and unreported claims, an amount estimated as necessary to provide for the expense of adjusting such claims, and there shall be deducted, in determining such liability for loss reserves, the amount of reinsurance recoverable by such company, in respect to such claims, from assuming insurers. (1945, c. 377.)

§ 58-35.2. Loss and loss expense reserves of casualty insurance and surety companies. — 1. In determining the financial condition of any casualty insurance or surety company and in any financial statement or report of any such company, there shall be included in the liabilities of such company loss reserves and loss expense reserves at least equal to the amounts required under the provisions of this section, and the amount of such reserves shall be diminished by allowance or credit for reinsurance recoverable from assuming insurers. The date as of which such determination, statement or report is made is hereinafter referred to as the date of determination.

2. For all outstanding losses, other than those incurred under policies of workmen's compensation, employer's liability or personal injury liability insurance, such loss reserves shall include the following:

(a) The aggregate estimated amounts due or to become due on account of all losses and claims incurred but not paid, including the estimated liability on any notice received by the company of the occurrence of any event which may result in a loss.

(b) The aggregate amounts of liability for all losses incurred but on which no notice has been received, estimated in accordance with the company's prior experience, if any, otherwise in accordance with the experience of similar companies under similar contracts of insurance. The estimated liabilities for such losses under all its bonds, policies or contracts of, or covering any of the risks of, fidelity insurance, shall be not less than ten per cent of the net premiums in force thereon, and the estimated liabilities for all such losses under all its surety contracts shall be not less than five per cent of the net premium in force thereon.

In any loss reserves computed in accordance with rules or regulations prescribed by the commissioner under the provisions of subsections seven or eight there shall be included, for liability upon all losses incurred but on which no notice has been received, an amount not less than that indicated by the company's experience.

3. The reserves for outstanding losses and loss expenses under policies of personal injury liability insurance and under policies of employer's liability insurance, except as provided in subsections seven and eight, shall be computed as follows:

(a) For all liability suits being defended under policies written:

(1) Ten years or more prior to the date of determination, one thousand five hundred dollars for each suit.

(2) Five or more and less than ten years prior to the date of determination, one thousand dollars for each suit.

(3) Three or more and less than five years prior to the date of determination, eight hundred fifty dollars for each suit. In any event the total loss and loss expense reserves for all such liability policies written more than three years prior to the date of determination shall be not less than the aggregate of the estimated unpaid losses and loss expenses under such policies computed on an individual case basis.

(b) For all such liability policies written during the three years immediately preceding the date of determination, such reserves shall be the sum of the reserves for each such year, which shall be sixty per cent of the earned premiums on liability policies written during such year less all loss and loss expense payments made under such policies written in such year. In any event such reserves for each of such three years shall be not less than the aggregate of the estimated unpaid losses and loss expense for claims incurred under liability policies written in the corresponding year computed on an individual case basis.

4. The reserves for outstanding losses and loss expenses under policies of workmen's compensation insurance, except as provided in subsections seven and eight, shall be computed as follows:

(a) For all such compensation policies written more than three years prior to the date of determination, such reserves shall be the present values, at three and one-half per cent interest per annum, of the determined and estimated future loss and loss expense payments under such policies computed on an individual case basis.

(b) For all such compensation policies written during the three years immediately preceding the date of determination, such reserve shall be the sum of the reserves for each such year, which shall be sixty-five per cent of the earned premiums on such compensation policies written during such year less all loss and loss expense payments made under such policies written in such year. In any event such reserves for each of such three years shall be not less than the present values at three and one-half per cent interest per annum, of the determined and estimated unpaid losses and loss expenses in connection with claims incurred under compensation policies written in the corresponding year computed on an individual basis.

5. The earned premiums referred to in this section shall be computed as follows: Determine the gross premiums charged on all such policies written or assumed, including all determined excess and additional premiums thereon; then deduct return premiums thereon other than premiums returned to policyholders as dividends, and deduct premiums for reinsurance ceded thereon to assuming insurers, and from such net premiums deduct the unearned premiums on such policies in force. The policy year basis as used in this section means the year in which a policy is written and all premiums, losses and loss expenses relating to policies written in such year shall be credited or charged to such year.

The terms "loss payments" and "loss expense payments" as used in this section shall be determined by including all payments to claimants under such policies, payments for medical and surgical attendance, legal expenses, salaries and expenses of investigators, adjusters and field men, apportionable salaries and expenses of the home office and branch offices and all other payments made by such insurer on account of claims under such policies, whether such payments shall be allocated to specific claims or unallocated. Loss and loss expense payments shall be reduced by the amount of reinsurance recovered therefor from any assuming insurer.

6. All unallocated payments of liability loss expenses on policies referred to in subsection three, made in a given calendar year subsequent to the first four years in which an insurer has been issuing liability policies shall be distributed by policy years as follows: Thirty-five per cent shall be charged to that year, forty per cent to the preceding year, ten per cent to the second year preceding, ten per cent to the third year preceding and five per cent to the fourth year preceding. Such payments made in each of the first four calendar years in which an insurer issued liability policies shall be distributed by policy years as follows: In the first calendar year one hundred per cent shall be charged to that year, in the second calendar year fifty per cent to that year and fifty per cent to the preceding year, in the third calendar year forty per cent to that year and forty per cent to the preceding year and twenty per cent to the second year preceding, and in the fourth calendar year thirty-five per cent to that year and forty per cent to the preceding year and fifteen per cent to the second year preceding and ten per cent to the third year preceding. A schedule showing such distribution shall be included in the annual statement.

All unallocated payments of compensation loss expenses on policies referred to in subsection four, made in a given calendar year subsequent to the first three years in which an insurer has been issuing compensation policies shall be distributed by policy years as follows: Forty per cent shall be charged to that year, forty-five per cent to the preceding year, ten per cent to the second year preceding and five per cent to the third year preceding. Such payments made in each of the first three calendar years in which an insurer issues compensation policies shall be distributed by policy years as follows: In the first calendar year one hundred per cent shall be charged to that year, in the second calendar year fifty per cent to that year and fifty per cent to the preceding year, in the third calendar year forty-five per cent to that year, and forty-five per cent to the preceding year and ten per cent to the second year preceding. A schedule showing such distribution shall be included in the annual statement.

7. Whenever in the judgment of the commissioner the loss and loss expense reserves of any casualty or surety company doing business in this state calculated in accordance with the foregoing provisions are inadequate, he may, in his discretion, modify the formulas hereinbefore set forth or prescribe any other basis which will produce adequate reserves. Each insurer that writes liability or compensation policies shall include in the annual statement required by law a schedule of its experience thereunder in such form as the commissioner may prescribe.

8. For the purpose of determining loss reserves every casualty insurance and every surety company doing business in this state shall keep a complete and itemized record showing all losses and claims on which it has received notice, including all notices received by it of the occurrence of any event which may result in a loss. (1945, c. 377.)

§ 58-39. Revocation, suspension and refusal to renew license.—The license of any insurer, including fraternal orders and societies, may in the discretion of the commissioner be suspended or revoked or its renewal refused, (1) whenever it fails or refuses to comply with any law, order or regulation applicable to it; (2) whenever its condition is unsound, or its assets above its liabilities, exclusive of capital, are less than the amount of its capital or required minimum surplus; (3) whenever it has published or made to the department or to the public any false statement or report; (4) whenever it refuses to submit to any examination authorized by law; (5) whenever it is found to make a practice of unduly engaging in litigation, or delaying the investigation of claims or the adjustment or payment of valid claims.

Any such suspension, revocation or refusal to renew a license may also be made applicable to the license of an agent who is a party to such default or improper practice. (Rev., ss. 4703, 4705; 1899, c. 54, ss. 66, 75, 112; 1901, c. 391, s. 5; 1947, c. 721; C. S. 6297.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 58-39.1. Limitation of risk.—Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, no insurer doing business in this state shall expose itself to any loss on any one risk in an amount exceeding ten per cent of its surplus to policyholders. Any risk or portion of any risk which shall have been reinsured shall be deducted in determining the limitation of risk prescribed in this section. This section shall not apply to life insurance or to the insurance of marine risks, or marine protection and indemnity risks, or workmen's compensation or employer's liability risks, or to certificates of title or guaranties of title or policies of title insurance. For the purpose of determining the limitation of risk under any provision of this chapter, "surplus to policyholders" shall (a) be deemed to include any voluntary reserves, or any part thereof, which are not required by or pursuant to law, and (b) be determined from the last sworn statement of such insurer on file with the commissioner pursuant to law, or by the last report on examination filed by the commissioner, whichever is more recent at the time of assumption of such risk. In applying the limitation of risk under any provision of this chapter to alien insurers, such provision shall be deemed to refer to the exposure to risk and to the surplus to policyholders of the United States branch of such alien insurer. (1945, c. 377.)

§ 58-39.2. Limitation of liability assumed.—No company transacting fidelity or surety business in this state shall expose itself to any loss on any one fidelity or surety risk or hazard in an amount exceeding ten per centum of its policyholders' surplus, unless it shall be protected in excess of that amount by

(a) Reinsurance in such form as to enable the obligee or beneficiary to maintain an action thereon against the company reinsured jointly with such reinsurer and, upon recovering judgment against such reinsured, to have recovery against such reinsurer for payment to the extent in which it may be liable under such reinsurance and in discharge thereof; or

(b) The co-suretyship of such a company similarly authorized; or

(c) By deposit with it in pledge or conveyance to it in trust for its protection of property; or

(d) By conveyance or mortgage for its protection; or

(e) In case a suretyship obligation was made on behalf or on account of a fiduciary holding property in a trust capacity, by deposit or other disposition of a portion of the property so held in trust that no future sale, mortgage, pledge or other disposition can be made thereof without the consent of such company; except by decree or order of a court of competent jurisdiction;

Provided: (1) That such company may execute what are known as transportation or warehousing bonds for United States Internal Revenue taxes to an amount equal to fifty per centum of its policyholders' surplus; (2) that, when the penalty of the suretyship obligation exceeds the amount of a judgment described therein as appealed from and thereby secured, or exceeds the amount of the subject matter in controversy or of the estate in the hands of the fiduciary for the performance of whose duties it is conditioned, the bond may be executed if the actual amount of the judgment or the subject matter in controversy or estate not subject to the supervision or control of the surety is not in excess of such limitation; and (3) that, when the penalty of the suretyship obligation executed for the performance of a contract exceeds the contract price, the latter shall be taken as the basis for estimating the limit of risk within the meaning of this section.

No such company shall, anything to the contrary in this section notwithstanding, execute suretyship obligations guaranteeing the deposits of any single financial institution in an aggregate amount in excess of ten per centum of the policyholders' surplus of such surety, unless it shall be protected in excess of that amount by credits in accordance with sub-divisions (a), (b), (c) or (d) of this section: Provided, nothing in this section shall be construed to make invalid any contract entered into by such company with another person, firm, corporation or municipal corporation, notwithstanding any provisions of this section. (1911, c. 28; 1931, c. 285; 1945, c. 377; C. S. 6382.)

The 1945 amendment rewrote former § 58-119 and transferred it to this section.

§ 58-39.3. Reinsurance, when permitted; effect on reserves.—1. Every insurer authorized to do an insurance business in this state, hereinafter called the "ceding insurer" may, subject to the limitations of this chapter, reinsure its risks and policy liabilities in any other solvent insurer, hereinafter called the "assuming insurer", with the effects herein prescribed; but no prohibition or limitation herein contained shall invalidate any such contract of reinsurance as between the parties thereto. The commissioner shall have authority to make investigations and call for information relating to all contracts of reinsurance and when in his judgment such reinsurance contracts are not satisfactory he may disallow credit therefor as an admitted asset or as a deduction from loss and unearned premium reserve.

2. For the purpose of determining the financial condition of a ceding insurer, it shall, in addition to any credit allowed against its loss reserves, receive credit for such reinsurance calculated in the following manner:

(a) In the case of reinsurance of the whole or any part of any risk other than as specified in paragraph (b) following, the ceding insurer shall receive credit for such reinsurance by way of deduction from its unearned premium liability calculated in accordance with the provisions of section 58-35.

(b) In the case of reinsurance of the whole or any part of any life insurance or annuity or noncancellable disability risk, the ceding insurer shall receive credit, by way of deduction from its reserve liability, in an amount not exceeding the amount of the reserve on the reinsured portion of such risk which the ceding insurer would have maintained if such portion had not been reinsured.

Nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to permit the ceding insurer to receive through the cession of the whole or any part of any risk or risks any advantage whereby its unearned premium reserve, or the net amount of its valuation reserves, as the case may be, is reduced below the required amount thereof by the provisions of this chapter.

3. For the purpose of determining the financial condition of any assuming insurer, such insurer shall be charged with an amount in its unearned premium liability equal to the amount of the deduction specified in paragraph (a) of subsection two, and in its valuation reserve liability with an amount at least equal to the amount which it would be required to maintain in accordance with the provisions of this chapter if it were the direct insurer of such assumed risks on the basis specified in the reinsurance agreement.

4. The commissioner may revoke or suspend the license of any company violating the provisions of this section. (1945, c. 377.)

§ 58-39.4. Definitions.—1. An "insurance agent" is hereby defined to be an individual designated in writing by any insurance company lawfully licensed to do business in this state, to act as its agent, with authority to solicit, negotiate and effect contracts of insurance in its behalf, to collect the premiums thereon, or to do any of such acts.

2. An "insurance broker" is hereby defined to be an individual who being a licensed agent, procures insurance through a duly authorized agent of an insurer for which the broker is not authorized to act as agent.

3. A "general agent" is hereby defined to be an individual designated in writing by an insurance company lawfully licensed to do business in this state to act for it as agent or manager and with additional authority to appoint, designate or supervise local agents within a specified territory.

4. A "special agent" is hereby defined to be an individual other than an officer, manager, or general agent of the insurer, employed by an insurer or general agent to work with and assist agents in soliciting, negotiating, and effectuating insurance in such insurer or in the insurers represented by the general agent.

5. An "insurance adjuster" is hereby defined to be any person who for compensation, fee or commission as an employee of an insurance company, so designated by such company on forms furnished by the commissioner, investigates or reports to his principal relative to claims arising under insurance contracts other than life, annuities, health or accident on behalf solely of the insurer.

6. An "independent adjuster" is hereby defined to be any person who for compensation, fee or commission as an independent contractor, or as an employee of an independent contractor, investigates or reports to an insurer relative to claims arising under contracts other than life, annuities, health or accident on behalf solely either of the insurer or the insured.

7. An attorney at law who adjusts insurance losses from time to time incidental to the practice of his profession, an adjuster of marine losses, or a special agent who adjusts for companies for which he is licensed as agent is not deemed to be an "adjuster" for the purposes of this chapter. A person who investigates and reports on claims arising under the terms of a hail insurance policy shall be deemed to be an employee of an insurance company for the purposes of this section. (1947, c. 922; 1949, c. 958, s. 1.)

Editor's Note. — The 1949 amendment struck out former subsection 5 and inserted in lieu thereof subsections 5, 6 and 7.

For changes made by the 1947 act in the laws relating to insurance agents, brokers and adjusters, see 25 N. C. Law Rev. 441.

§ 58-39.5. Independent insurance adjuster to obtain license.—Every independent insurance adjuster shall obtain annually from the commissioner a license under the seal of his office showing that he is authorized to act as an independent adjuster for companies licensed to do business in this state. Every such independent adjuster shall on demand exhibit his license to any representative of the insurance department or to any person interested in a loss under adjustment. (1949, c. 958, s. 1.)

Editor's Note. — For act relating to licenses of insurance adjusters for the current year and to chapter 958 of the Session Laws of 1949, see Session Laws 1949, c. 1244.

§ 58-39.6. Companies to file authorization for independent adjusters.—Every insurance company licensed to do business in this state who uses for adjustment purposes the services of an independent adjuster shall be required to file in the office of the commissioner a statement of authorization containing the names of those independent adjusters who are authorized, on its behalf, to investigate and report on claims arising under insurance contracts, other than life, annuities, health or accident, issued by such companies. No independent adjuster shall make any investigation, report or settlement of any claim on behalf of any company which has not filed in the office of the commissioner a written statement authorizing the licensee to act on its behalf as provided herein. (1949, c. 958, s. 1.)

§ 58-40.1. Insurance brokers must procure license.—Every insurance broker shall be required to obtain annually from the commissioner a license under the seal of his office, showing that he is authorized to procure insurance through duly authorized agents of insurers for which he is not authorized to act as agent. Such license shall be issued to cover only those kinds of insurance authorized by his agent's license. Every such broker shall, on demand, exhibit his license to any representative of the insurance department or to any person from whom he shall solicit insurance. (1947, c. 922.)

§ 58-40.2. Bond required of brokers.—1. Every applicant for a resident broker's license or for the renewal thereof shall file with the application and shall thereafter maintain in force while so licensed a bond in favor of the State of North Carolina for the use of aggrieved parties, executed by an authorized corporate surety approved by the commissioner, in the amount of five thousand dollars. The bond may be continuous in form, and total aggregate liability on the bond may be limited to the payment of five thousand dollars. The bond shall be conditioned on the accounting by the broker to any person requesting the broker to obtain insurance, for moneys or premiums collected in connection therewith.

2. Any such bond shall remain in force until the surety is released from liability by the commissioner, or until the bond is canceled by the surety. Without prejudice to any liability accrued prior to such cancellation, the surety may cancel the bond upon thirty days' advance notice in writing filed with the commissioner. (1947, c. 922.)

§ 58-40.3. Broker's authority and commissions.—1. A broker, as such, is not an agent or other representative of an insurer, and does not have power, by his own act, to bind an insurer for which he is not agent upon any risk or with reference to any insurance contract.

2. An insurer or agent shall have the right to pay to a broker licensed under this chapter, and such broker shall have the right to receive from the insurer or agent, the customary commissions upon insurance placed in the insurer by the broker. (1947, c. 922.)

§ 58-41. Agent's and adjuster's qualifications.—Before a license is issued to an insurance agent, general agent, independent adjuster or adjuster in this state, the agent, general agent, independent adjuster or adjuster shall apply for license on forms to be prescribed by the commissioner; in all cases where application is made for the license mentioned herein except those licenses of independent adjusters, the company for which the agent, general agent, or adjuster desires to act shall also apply for the license on forms to be prescribed by the commissioner; and before he issues a license to such agent, general agent, independent adjuster or adjuster, the commissioner shall satisfy himself that such license, if issued. shall serve the public interest and that the person applying for license as an agent, general agent, independent adjuster, or adjuster:

(a) Be twenty-one years of age or over;

(b) Be a bona fide resident of and actually reside in this state, except as provided in §§ 58-43 and 58-51.2;

(d) Be a trustworthy person;

(e) Has not wilfully violated any of the insurance laws of this state;

(f) Has had special education, training or experience of sufficient duration and extent reasonably to satisfy the commissioner that he possess the competence necessary to fulfill the responsibilities of an agent, general agent, independent adjuster or adjuster.

No license may be issued to any agent whose premium writings represented by the premiums on contracts of insurance signed, countersigned, issued or sold by him for the general public during the preceding year, shall not exceed those on insurance signed, countersigned, issued or sold by him covering his own property or life and the property and lives of members of his immediate family, his employer and his employees; but this limitation shall not be deemed to apply to agents originally licensed and duly qualified prior to the ratification of this law. (1913, c. 79, s. 1; 1915, 109, ss. 6, 7, c. 166, s. 7; 1931, c. 185; 1945, c. 458; 1947, c. 922; 1949, c. 958, s. 1; C. S. 6299.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment added the second paragraph.
The 1947 amendment rewrote the rest of the section.
The 1949 amendment made the first paragraph apply to "independent adjusters," and inserted "independent adjuster" in subsection (f).

§ 58-41.1. Examinations for license.—1. Each applicant for license as agent, general agent, independent adjuster or adjuster shall, prior to the issuance of any such license, personally take and pass to the satisfaction of the commissioner an examination in writing given by the commissioner as a test of his qualifications and competence; but this requirement shall not apply to:

(a) Applicants for license under section 58-41.2 and as agents for companies or associations specified in section 58-131.9;

(b) Applicants who have, within the three year period next preceding the date of application, not including time spent in military service of the United States during war, been licensed in this state in the same capacity and to engage in the same kinds of insurance for which they were previously licensed;

(c) Applicants for an agent's, general agent's, independent adjuster's or adjuster's license covering the same kinds of insurance as authorized by the license then held by them except as provided in paragraph 2 of this section:

(d) Applicants for license to write ocean marine insurance whenever the commissioner deems the applicant to be qualified by past experience to deal in such insurance.

2. The commissioner may require any licensed agent, general agent, independent adjuster or adjuster to taker and successfully pass an examination in writing, testing his competence and qualifications as a condition to the continuance or renewal of his license, if the licensee has been guilty of any violation of any provision of this chapter. If a person fails to pass such an examination, the commissioner shall revoke all licenses issued in his name and no license shall be issued until such person has successfully passed an examination as provided in this chapter.

3. Each examination shall be as the commissioner prescribes and shall be of sufficient scope to test the applicant's knowledge of the terms and provisions of the policies or contracts of insurance he proposes to effect or types of claims or losses he proposes to adjust, and of the duties and responsibilities of and the laws of this state applicable to such a license.

4. The answers of the applicant to any such examination shall be written by the applicant under the commissioner's supervision. The commissioner shall give examinations at such times and places within this state as he deems necessary reasonably to serve the convenience of both the commissioner and applicants. The commissioner shall require a waiting period of at least ninety days' duration before giving a new examination to an applicant who has failed to pass a previous similar examination.

5. The commissioner shall collect in advance the examination fee provided in section 105-228.7. (1947, c. 922; 1949, c. 958, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1949 amendment inserted references to "independent adjuster" in the first paragraph and paragraph (c) of subsection 1. It also made the same insertion in subsection 2.

§ 58-41.2. Limited license.—1. The commissioner may issue limited licenses as travel insurance agents to employees of common carriers of persons, or to individuals or employees of persons engaged in selling transportation on such common carriers.

2. Travel insurance agents are restricted to the sale of insurance to individuals entitled to transportation on a common carrier, as follows:

(a) Transportation ticket policies of accident insurance;

(b) Baggage insurance on the personal effects of such individuals while in transit. (1947, c. 922.)

§ 58-41.3. Temporary license.—1. The commissioner may issue an agent's, general agent's or broker's temporary license in the following circumstances:

(a) To applicants for licensing as agent of a life insurer pending the passing of the examination provided for in section 58-41.1;

(b) To the personal representative of a deceased licensed agent, general agent or broker, or to his surviving spouse or to some other proper person in case the personal representative or surviving spouse does not apply or is not qualified therefor;

(c) To an employee, legal guardian or spouse of a licensed agent, general agent or broker becoming disabled because of sickness, insanity or injury, or to some other proper person.

2. An individual to be eligible for any such temporary license must be qualified as for a permanent license except as to experience, training or the taking of the examination.

3. The fee paid to the commissioner for issuance of a temporary license as specified in section 105-228.7 shall be credited toward the fee required for a permanent license which is issued to replace the temporary license prior to the expiration of such temporary license.

4. No such temporary license shall be effective for more than ninety days in any twelve month period and shall automatically terminate upon such licensee's failing the examination required in section 58-41.1. The commissioner may refuse so to license again any person who has previously held a temporary license.

5. An individual requesting a temporary license on account of death or disability of an agent, general agent or broker shall not be so licensed for any insurer as to which such agent, general agent or broker was not licensed at the time of death or commencement of disability. (1947, c. 922.)

§ 58-42. Revocation of license.—When the commissioner is satisfied that any insurance agent, general agent, special agent, independent adjuster, adjuster, broker or nonresident broker licensed by this state has wilfully violated any of the insurance laws of this state, or has wilfully over-insured property or has wilfully misrepresented any policy of insurance, or has dealt unjustly with or wilfully deceived any person in regard to any insurance policies, or has exercised coercion in obtaining an application for or in selling insurance, or, on demand, has failed or refused to pay over or deliver to the company which he represents, or has represented, any money or property in his hands belonging to the company, or has become in any way disqualified according to any of the provisions necessary for obtaining or holding such license as set out in this chapter, or has obtained or attempted to obtain any license through wilful misrepresentation or fraud, the commissioner may immediately suspend his license or licenses and shall forthwith give to such licensee ten days' notice of the charge or charges and of a hearing thereon, and if the commissioner finds there has been any of the violations hereinbefore set forth, he shall specifically set out such finding and shall revoke the license of such agent, general agent, special agent, independent adjuster, adjuster, broker or nonresident broker for all the companies which he represents in this state. Such agent, general agent, special agent, independent adjuster, adjuster, broker, or nonresident broker shall have the right to have such revocation reviewed as provided in section 58-9.3. For the purposes of investigation under this section the commissioner shall have all the power conferred upon him by section 58-44.4. (1913, c. 79, §§ 2, 3; 1915, c. 166, § 7; 1929, c. 301, § 1; 1943, c. 434; 1945, c. 458; 1947, c. 922; 1949, c. 958, s. 1; C. S. 6300.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment substituted, in the second sentence, the words "as provided in § 58-9.3" for the words "by any judge of the superior court of Wake county upon appeal."

The 1947 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1948, rewrote the section.

The 1949 amendment inserted the words "independent adjuster" at three places in this section.

§ 58-43. Nonresident agents forbidden; exception.—No nonresident of the state shall be licensed as an agent to do business in the state, except as a special agent or organizer, and except as a representative of a life insurance company, and then only when he reports his business for record as North Carolina business to some general or district agent of his company in the state, or having territory within the state. No such nonresident shall be licensed to represent a life insurance company in this state unless he is licensed to represent the same company in his home state and meets the licensing requirements of this chapter. (Rev., s. 4707; 1899, c. 54, s. 108; 1903, c. 438, s. 11; 1945, c. 458; 1947, c. 922; C. S. 6301.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment added the second sentence and inserted in the first sentence the words "and except as a representative of a life insurance company."

The 1947 amendment inserted the words "as an agent" in line two.

§ 58-44. Resident agents required.—All business done in this state by insurance companies doing the business of insurance as defined in subsections 3 to 22 inclusive of section 58-72 shall be transacted by their regularly authorized agents residing in this state, or through applications of such agents; and all policies so issued must be countersigned by such agents. It shall be unlawful for any salaried officer, manager or other representative of any such company to transact for his company any of the business of a licensed agent unless he himself shall be a bona fide resident licensed agent. (Rev., s. 4810; 1899, c. 54, ss. 107, 108; 1903, c. 438, s. 11; 1911, c. 196, s. 5; 1913, c. 140, s. 3; 1921, c. 136, s. 3; 1925, c. 70, s. 1; 1945, c. 458; C. S. 6302.)

Editor's Note.—
The 1945 amendment repealed the former section and inserted in lieu thereof the present section and the three following sections, which were rewritten from former sections 58-170 and 58-171.

§ 58-44.1. Agents not to pay commissions to nonresidents or unlicensed persons.—No licensed agent of any insurer shall pay directly or indirectly, any commission or brokerage or other valuable consideration on account of any policy of insurance on any risk in this state to any person not licensed in this state to act as agent for the same kind of insurance, provided however that with respect to the kinds of insurance as defined in subsections 3 to 22 inclusive of section 58-72 an agent may pay to a licensed nonresident broker not exceeding fifty per centum of the regular commissions allowed upon the issuance of such policies. (Rev., s. 4766; 1903, c. 488, s. 2; 1905, c. 170, s. 2; 1923, c. 4, s. 70; 1925, c. 70, s. 6; 1945, c. 458; 1947, c. 922; C. S. 6430.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote § 58-170 as this and the two succeeding sections.

The 1947 amendment, effective Jan. 1, 1948, rewrote this section.

§ 58-44.2. Licensing non-resident brokers. — The commissioner may license a non-resident as an insurance broker to represent companies doing the business of insurance as defined in subsections 3 to 22 inclusive of section 58-72, upon application made in the form prescribed by the commissioner, and upon such applicant's filing an affidavit setting forth that he will not during the period of the license place, directly or indirectly, any insurance on any risk located in this state except through licensed agents of companies licensed to do business in this state, that he is a bona fide broker, and proposes to hold himself out as such. The fee for such license shall be as fixed in the Revenue Act. For any violation of the terms on which such license is issued the commissioner may revoke the same. (Rev., s. 4766; 1903, c. 488, s. 2; 1905, c. 170, s. 2; 1923, c. 4, s. 70; 1925, c. 70, s. 6; 1945, c. 458; C. S. 6430.)

§ 58-44.3. Discrimination forbidden.—No company doing the business of insurance as defined in subsections 3 to 22 inclusive of section 58-72, nor its agents, shall make any discrimination in favor of any person, and all provisions of this chapter prohibiting discrimination by companies doing the business of insurance as defined in subsections 1 and 2 of section 58-72, shall equally apply to the companies referred to herein and to their agents. (Rev., s. 4766; 1903, c. 488, s. 2; 1905, c. 170, s. 2; 1923, c. 4, s. 70; 1925, c. 70, s. 6; 1945, c. 458; C. S. 6430.)

§ 58-44.4. Revocation of license for violation; power of commissioner.—When the commissioner has information of a violation of any of the provisions of sections 58-169, 58-44, 58-44.1, 58-44.2, and 58-44.3, he shall immediately investigate or cause to be investigated such violation, and if any such insurance company has violated any of said provisions he may immediately revoke its license for not less than three nor more than six months for a first offense, and for each offense thereafter for not less than one year. If a licensed insurance agent violates or causes to be violated any of the provisions of said sections, he may for the first offense have his license revoked for all companies for which he has been licensed for not less than three nor more than six months, and for the second offense he shall have his license revoked for all companies for which he is licensed, and he shall not thereafter be licensed for any company for one year from the date of the revocation. For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of said sections the commissioner is authorized and empowered to examine persons, administer oaths, and require production of papers and records. A failure or refusal on the part of any such insurance company, licensed to do business in this state, or representative thereof, to appear before the commissioner when requested to do so, or to produce records and papers, or answer under oath, subjects such company, or representative, to the penalties of this section. (Rev., s. 4767; 1903, c. 488, ss. 3, 4; 1945, c. 458; C. S. 6431.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote § 58-171 as this section.

§ 58-45. Agents personally liable, when.—Any agent representing an insurer is personally liable on all contracts of insurance unlawfully made by or through him, directly or indirectly, for any company not authorized to do business in the state. A person or citizen of the state who fills up or signs any open policy, certificate, blank or coupon of, or furnished by, an unlicensed company, agent, or broker, the effect of which is to bind any insurance in an unlicensed company on property in this state, is the agent of such company, and personally liable for all licenses and taxes due on account of such transaction. (Rev., s. 4813; 1899, c. 54, s. 70; 1903, c. 438, s. 7; 1947, c. 922; C. S. 6303.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment substituted at the beginning of the section the words "Any agent representing an insurer" for the words "An insurance agent."

§ 58-46. Payment of premium to agent valid; obtaining by fraud a crime.—Any agent or broker who acts for a person other than himself negotiating a contract of insurance is, for the purpose of receiving the premium therefor, the company's agent, whatever conditions or stipulations may be contained in the policy or contract. Such agent or broker knowingly procuring by fraudulent representations payment, or the obligation for the payment, of a premium of insurance, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned for not more than one year. (Rev., ss. 3486, 4814; 1899, c. 54, s. 69; 1947, c. 922; C. S. 6304.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment substituted "Any" for "An insurance" in line one.

What Constitutes Payment to Company.—Payment of the initial premium on a policy of life insurance to one who is a soliciting agent or broker of the company to solicit the insurance and deliver the policy, constitutes payment to the company by virtue of this section. Creech v. Sun Life Assur. Co., 224 N. C. 144, 29 S. E. (2d) 348.

§ 58-47. Representing unlicensed company prohibited; penalty.—If any person shall unlawfully solicit, negotiate for, collect or transmit a premium for a contract of insurance or act in any way in the negotiation or transaction of any unlawful insurance with an insurance company not licensed to do an insurance business in North Carolina, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall pay a fine of not less than two hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned for not less than one nor more than two years, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3484; 1899, c. 54, s. 94; 1907, c. 1000, s. 8; 1945, c. 458; C. S. 6305.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment increased the minimum fine from one hundred to two hundred dollars, added the provision as to imprisonment, and rewrote the section generally.

§ 58-48. Agent failing to exhibit license.—If any agent representing an insurer or any broker shall, on demand of any person from whom he shall solicit insurance, fail to exhibit a certificate from the commissioner of insurance bearing the seal of his office, and dated within one year from such demand, he shall be fined five dollars or imprisoned ten days for each offense. (Rev., s. 3485; 1899, c. 54, s. 81; 1947, c. 922; C. S. 6306.)

Editor's Note.—The 1947 amendment struck out in line two the words "of any insurance company," and inserted in lieu thereof the words "representing an insurer or any broker".

§ 58-49. Agents making false statements.—If any agent, examining physician, or other person shall knowingly or willfully make any false or fraudulent statement or representation in or with reference to any application for insurance or publication with reference to any or shall make any such statement for the purpose of obtaining any fee, commission, money or benefit from any company engaged in the business of insurance in this state, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred ($100.00) dollars nor more than five hundred ($500.00) dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or by both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3487; 1899, c. 54, s. 60; 1945, c. 458; 1947, c. 922; C. S. 6307.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted "application" for "publication" in line five and inserted the reference to publication.

The 1947 amendment struck out "solicitor" formerly appearing after the word "any" in line two.

§ 58-50. Agents signing certain blank policies.—No agent shall sign any blank contract or policy of insurance, and any agent guilty of violating this section shall, upon conviction, be fined for each offense not less than one hundred ($100.00) dollars nor more than two hundred ($200.00) dollars; provided, however, that transportation ticket policies of accident insurance and baggage insurance policies may be countersigned in blank for issuance only through coin operated machines, subject to regulations prescribed by the commissioner. (Rev., s. 3488; 1899, c. 54, ss. 108, 109; 1911, c. 196, s. 6; 1945, c. 458; 1947, c. 922; C. S. 6308.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote this section. The 1947 amendment added the proviso.

§ 58-51. Adjuster acting for unauthorized company.—If any person shall act as independent adjuster or adjuster on a contract made otherwise than as authorized by the laws of this state, or by any insurance company or other person not regularly licensed to do business in the state, or shall adjust or aid in the adjustment, either directly or indirectly, of a claim arising under a contract of insurance not authorized by the laws of the state, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than two hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned not less than six months nor more than two years, or both, in the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3482; 1899, c. 54, s. 114; 1945, c. 458; 1949, c. 958, s. 1; C. S. 6309.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment substituted the words "claim arising under a contract of insurance" for the words "loss by fire on property located in this state, incurred on a contract."

The 1949 amendment made this section applicable to independent adjusters.

§ 58-51.1. Agent may adjust.—On behalf and on request of an insurer for which he is licensed, any agent may from time to time act as an adjuster and investigate and report upon claims without being required to be licensed as an adjuster. (1947, c. 922.)

§ 58-51.2. Nonresident adjusters.—The commissioner may license a nonresident as an insurance adjuster upon his compliance with all the requirements of this chapter applicable to resident adjusters. No license shall be required of an adjuster licensed as such in another state for the adjustment in this state of a single loss, or of losses arising out of a catastrophe common to all such losses. (1947, c. 922.)

§ 58-51.3. Companies and agents to transact business through licensed agents.—No insurance company, nor any agent of any insurance company shall on behalf of such company or agent knowingly permit any person not licensed as an insurance agent as provided by law to solicit insurance, negotiate for, collect or transmit a premium for a contract of insurance or to act in any way in the negotiation for any contract or policy of insurance; provided, no license shall be required of a person making and transmitting deductions for premiums under pay roll deduction plans for life, accident and/or health insurance. (1949, c. 1120.)

Editor's Note.—For brief comment on this section, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 461.

§ 58-52. Agent acting without a license or violating insurance law.—If any person shall assume to act either as principal, agent, broker, independent adjuster or adjuster without license as is required by law, or pretending to be a principal, agent, broker, independent adjuster or adjuster, shall solicit, examine, or inspect any risk, or shall examine into, adjust, or aid in adjusting any loss, or shall receive, collect, or transmit any premium of insurance, or shall do any other act in the soliciting, making or executing any contract of insurance of any kind otherwise than the law permits, or as principal or agent shall violate any provision of law contained in this chapter, the punishment for which is not elsewhere provided for, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall pay a fine of not less than one hundred ($100.00) dollars nor more than five hundred ($500.00) dollars, or be imprisoned for not less than one nor more than two years, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3490; 1899, c. 54, s. 115; 1945, c. 458; 1949, c. 958, s. 1; C. S. 6310.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment reduced the minimum fine from two hundred to one hundred dollars and made other changes.

The 1949 amendment made this section applicable to independent adjusters.

§ 58-52.1. Process against nonresident licensees.—1. Each licensed nonresident agent, adjuster or broker shall by the act of acquiring such license thereby be deemed to appoint the commissioner as his attorney to receive service of legal process issued against the agent, adjuster or broker in this state upon causes of action arising within this state.

2. The appointment shall be irrevocable for as long as there could be any cause of action against the agent, adjuster or broker arising out of his insurance transactions in this state.

3. Duplicate copies of such legal process against such agent, adjuster or broker shall be served upon the commissioner either by a person competent to serve a summons, or through registered mail. At the time of such service the plaintiff shall pay to the commissioner a fee of one dollar, taxable as costs in the action to defray the expense of such service.

4. Upon receiving such service, the commissioner shall forthwith send one of the copies of the process, by registered mail with return receipt requested, to the defendant agent, adjuster or broker at his last address of record with the commissioner.

5. The commissioner shall keep a record of the day and hour of service upon him of all such legal process. No proceedings shall be had against the defendant agent, adjuster or broker, and such defendant shall not be required to appear, plead or answer until the expiration of forty days after the date of service upon the commissioner. (1947, c. 922.)

§ 58-53. Informer to receive half of penalty.—The person, if other than the commissioner of insurance or his deputy, upon whose complaint a conviction is had for violation of the law prohibiting insurance in or by companies not authorized to do business in the state, or for soliciting, examining, inspecting any risk, or receiving, collecting, or transmitting any premium, or adjusting or aiding in the adjustment of a loss, under a contract made otherwise than as authorized by the laws of this state, is entitled to one-half of the penalty recovered therefor. (Rev., s. 4831; 1899, c. 54, s. 93; 1945, c. 377; C. S. 6311.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment struck out 'foreign" formerly appearing before "companies" in line four.

§ 58-53.1. Citizens authorized to procure policies in unlicensed foreign companies.—(1) What Applicant Must Show.—The commissioner, upon the annual payment of a fee of twenty dollars, may issue licenses to citizens of this state, subject to revocation at any time, permitting the person named therein to procure policies of insurance on property in this state in foreign or alien insurance companies not authorized to transact business in the state. Before the person named in such a license may procure any insurance in such companies or on any property in this state, he must execute and file with the commissioner an affidavit that he is unable to procure in companies admitted to do business in the state the amount of insurance necessary to protect such property, and may only procure insurance under such license after he has procured insurance in companies admitted to do business in this state to the full amount which those companies are willing to write on the property. If the person licensed under the provisions of this section procures insurance on property of others in such nonadmitted companies he shall stamp or write upon the filing face and the first page of each policy so issued the words "This company is not licensed to do business in North Carolina."

(2) Account and Report.—Each person so licensed must keep a separate account of the business done under the license, a certified copy of which account he shall forthwith file with the commissioner, showing the exact amount of such insurance placed by any person, firm or corporation, the gross premium charged thereon, the companies in which the same is placed, the date and terms of the policies, and also a report in the same detail of all such policies canceled and the gross return premium thereon.

(3) Bond Filed.—Before receiving such license the applicant therefor shall execute and deliver to the commissioner a bond in the penal sum of one thousand dollars, with such sureties as the commissioner may approve, with a condition that the licensee will faithfully comply with all the requirements of sections 58-53.1, 58-53.2 and 58-53.3, and will file with the commissioner in January of each year, a sworn statement of the gross premiums charged for insurance procured or placed, and the gross returned premiums on such insurance canceled under such license during the year ending on the thirty-first day of December next preceding, and at the time of filing such statement will pay into the treasury of the state a sum equal to five per centum of such gross premiums, less return premiums, so reported, or pay such tax at the time of taking out and delivering such policy or policies. (Rev., ss. 4715, 4769; 1899, c. 54, ss. 68, 95; 1903, c. 438, s. 7, c. 680; 1945, c. 378; C. S. 6425.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment rewrote former § 58-165 as this section.

§ 58-53.2. Punishment for failure to file affidavit and statements.—If any person licensed to procure insurance in an unauthorized foreign or alien company shall procure, or act in any manner in the procurement or negotiation of, insurance in any unauthorized foreign or alien company, and shall neglect to make and file the affidavit and statements required by the preceding section, he shall forfeit his license and be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both. (Rev., ss. 3483, 4769; 1899, c. 54, ss. 68, 95; 1945, c. 378; C. S. 6426.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment transferred this section from section 58-166 and inserted the words "or alien."

§ 58-53.3. Tax deducted from premium; reports filed.—When any person procures insurance on any property located in this state with an insurance company not licensed to do business in this state, it shall be the duty of such person to deduct from the premium charged on the policy or policies issued for such insurance five per centum of the premium and remit the same to the commissioner of insurance of the state, at the same time reporting to the commissioner of insurance the name of the company or companies issuing the policy or policies, the location of the property insured, and the premium charged. The commissioner of insurance shall pay the said amounts to the treasurer of the state. If such report is not made on or before the thirtieth days of July and January of each year for the business done prior to July first and January first preceding, there shall be added to the amount of taxes thereon the sum of one per centum on the first day of each month thereafter. (1915, c. 109, s. 8; 1945, c. 378; C. S. 6427.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment struck out the words "or corporation" formerly appearing after the word "person" in lines one and five and substituted in lines one and two the words "procures insurance on" for the words "shall insure." This section formerly appeared as § 58-167.

§ 58-54. Forms to be approved by commissioner of insurance.—It is unlawful for any insurance company doing business in this state to issue, sell, or dispose of any policy, contract, or certificate, or use applications in connection therewith, until the forms of the same have been submitted to and approved by the commissioner of insurance of North Carolina, and copies filed in the insurance department. (1907, c. 879; 1913, c. 139; 1945, c. 377; C. S. 6312.)

Editor's Note.—The 1945 amendment struck out the words "association, order or society" formerly appearing after the word "company" in line two.

Art. 3A. Unfair Trade Practices.

§ 58-54.1. Declaration of purpose.—The purpose of this article is to regulate trade practices in the business of insurance in accordance with the intent of Congress as expressed in the Act of Congress of March 9, 1945 (Public Law 15, 79th Congress), by defining, or providing for the determination of, all such practices in this state which constitute unfair methods of competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices and by prohibiting the trade practices so defined or determined. (1949, c. 1112.)

Editor's Note.—For brief discussion of this article, see 27 N. C. Law Rev. 461.

§ 58-54.2. Definitions.—When used in this article: (a) "Person" shall mean any individual, corporation, association, partnership, reciprocal exchange, inter-insurer, Lloyds insurer, fraternal benefit society, and any other legal entity engaged in the business of insurance, including agents, brokers and adjusters. (b) "Commissioner" shall mean the commissioner of insurance of this state. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.3. Unfair methods of competition or unfair and deceptive acts or practices prohibited.—No person shall engage in this state in any trade practice which is defined in this article as or determined pursuant to this article to be an unfair method of competition or an unfair or deceptive act or practice in the business of insurance. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.4. Unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices defined.—The following are hereby defined as unfair methods of competition and unfair and deceptive acts or practices in the business of insurance:

(1) Misrepresentations and false advertising of policy contracts.—Making, issuing, circulating, or causing to be made, issued or circulated, any estimate, illustration, circular or statement misrepresenting the terms of any policy issued or to be issued or the benefits or advantages promised thereby or the dividends or share of the surplus to be received thereon, or making any false or misleading statement as to the dividends or share or surplus previously paid on similar policies, or making any misleading representation or any misrepresentation as to the financial condition of any insurer, or as to the legal reserve system upon which any life insurer operates, or using any name or title of any policy or class of policies misrepresenting the true nature thereof, or making any misrepresentation to any policyholder insured in any company for the purpose of inducing or tending to induce such policyholder to lapse, forfeit, or surrender his insurance.

(2) False information and advertising generally.—Making, publishing, disseminating, circulating, or placing before the public, or causing, directly or indirectly, to be made, published, disseminated, circulated, or placed before the public, in a newspaper, magazine or other publication, or in the form of a notice, circular, pamphlet, letter or poster, or over any radio station, or in any other way, an advertisement, announcement or statement containing any assertion, representation or statement with respect to the business of insurance or with respect to any person in the conduct of his insurance business, which is untrue, deceptive or misleading.

(3) Defamation.—Making, publishing, disseminating, or circulating, directly or indirectly, or aiding, abetting or encouraging the making, publishing, disseminating or circulating of any oral or written statement or any pamphlet, circular, article or literature which is false, or maliciously critical of or derogatory to the financial condition of an insurer, and which is calculated to injure any person engaged in the business of insurance.

(4) Boycott, coercion and intimidation.—Entering into any agreement to commit, or by any concerted action committing, any act of boycott, coercion or intimidation resulting in or tending to result in unreasonable restraint of, or monopoly in, the business of insurance.

(5) False financial statements.—Filing with any supervisory or other public official, or making, publishing, disseminating, circulating or delivering to any person, or placing before the public, or causing directly or indirectly, to be made, published, disseminated, circulated, delivered to any person, or placed before the public, any false statement of financial condition of an insurer with intent to deceive.

Making any false entry in any book, report or statement of any insurer with intent to deceive any agent or examiner lawfully appointed to examine into its condition or into any of its affairs, or any public official to whom such insurer is required by law to report, or who has authority by law to examine into its condition or into any of its affairs, or, with like intent, wilfully omitting to make a true entry of any material fact pertaining to the business of such insurer in any book, report or statement of such insurer.

(6) Stock operations and insurance company advisory board contracts.—Issuing or delivering or permitting agents, officers, or employees to issue or deliver, agency company stock or other capital stock, or benefit certificates or shares in any common-law corporation, or securities or any special or any insurance company advisory board contracts or other contracts of any kind promising returns and profit as an inducement to insurance.

(7) Unfair discrimination.—(a) Making or permitting any unfair discrimination between individuals of the same class and equal expectation of life in the rates charged for any contract of life insurance or of life annuity or in the dividends or other benefits payable thereon, or in any other of the terms and conditions of such contract. (b) Making or permitting any unfair discrimination between individuals of the same class and of essentially the same hazard in the amount of premium, policy fees, or rates charged for any policy or contract of accident or health insurance or in the benefits payable thereunder, or in any of the terms or conditions of such contract, or in any other manner whatever.

(8) Rebates.—(a) Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, knowingly permitting or offering to make or making any contract of life insurance, life annuity or accident and health insurance, or agreement as to such contract other than as plainly expressed in the contract issued thereon, or paying or allowing, or giving or offering to pay, allow, or give, directly or indirectly, as inducement to such insurance, or annuity, any rebate of premiums payable on the contract, or any special favor or advantage in the dividends or other benefits thereon, or any valuable consideration or inducement whatever not specified in the contract; or giving, or selling, or purchasing or offering to give, sell, or purchase as inducement to such insurance or annuity or in connection therewith, any stocks, bonds, or other securities of any insurance company or other corporation, association, or partnership, or any dividends or profits accrued thereon, or anything of value whatsoever not specified in the contract. (b) Nothing in clause 7 or paragraph (a) of clause 8 of this section shall be construed as including within the definition of discrimination or rebates any of the following practices: (i) in the case of any contract of life insurance or life annuity, paying bonuses to policyholders or otherwise abating their premiums in whole or in part out of surplus accumulated from nonparticipating insurance, provided, that any such bonuses or abatement of premiums shall be fair and equitable to policyholders and for the best interests of the company and its policyholders; (ii) in the case of life insurance policies issued on the industrial debit plan, making allowance to policyholders who have continuously for a specified period made premium payments directly to an office of the insurer in an amount which fairly represents the saving in collection expense; (iii) readjustment of the rate of premium for a group insurance policy based on the loss or expense experienced thereunder, at the end of the first or any subsequent policy year of insurance thereunder, which may be made retroactive only for such policy year. (c) No insurer or employee thereof, and no broker or agent shall pay, allow, or give, or offer to pay, allow, or give, directly or indirectly, as an inducement to insurance, or after insurance has been effected, any rebate, discount, abatement, credit or reduction of the premium named in a policy of insurance, or any special favor or advantage in the dividends or other benefits to accrue thereon, or any valuable consideration or inducement whatever, not specified in the policy of insurance. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as prohibiting the payment of commissions or other compensation to regularly appointed and licensed agents and to brokers duly licensed by this state; nor as prohibiting any participating insurer from distributing to its policyholders dividends, savings or the unused or unabsorbed portion of premiums and premium deposits. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.5. Power of commissioner.—The commissioner shall have power to examine and investigate into the affairs of every person engaged in the business of insurance in this state in order to determine whether such person has been or is engaged in any unfair method of competition or in any unfair or deceptive act or practice prohibited by § 58-54.3 of this article. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.6. Hearings, witnesses, appearances, production of books and service of process.—(a) Whenever the commissioner shall have reason to believe that any such person has been engaged or is engaging in this state in any unfair method of competition or any unfair or deceptive act or practice defined in § 58-54.4, and that a proceeding by him in respect thereto would be to the interest of the public, he shall issue and serve upon such person a statement of the charges in that respect and a notice of the hearing thereon to be held at the time and place fixed in the notice, which shall not be less than ten days after the date of the service thereof.

(b) At the time and place fixed for such hearing, such person shall have an opportunity to be heard and to show cause why an order should not be made by the commissioner requiring such person to cease and desist from the acts, methods or practices so complained of. Upon good cause shown, the commissioner shall permit any person to intervene, appear and be heard at such hearing by counsel or in person.

(c) Nothing contained in this article shall require the observance at any such hearing of formal rules of pleading or evidence.

(d) The commissioner, upon such hearing, may administer oaths, examine and cross-examine witnesses, receive oral and documentary evidence, and shall have the power to subpoena witnesses, compel their attendance, and require the production of books, papers, records, correspondence, or other documents which he deems relevant to the inquiry. The commissioner, upon such hearing, may, and upon the request of any party shall, cause to be made a stenographic record of all the evidence and all the proceedings had at such hearing. If no stenographic record is made and if a judicial review is sought, the commissioner shall prepare a statement of the evidence and proceeding for use on review. In case of a refusal of any person to comply with any subpoena issued hereunder or to testify with respect to any matter concerning which he may be lawfully interrogated, the superior court of Wake county, on application of the commissioner, may issue an order requiring such person to comply with such subpoena and to testify; and any failure to obey any such order of the court may be punished by the court as a contempt thereof.

(e) Statements of charges, notices, orders, and other processes of the commissioner under this article may be served by anyone duly authorized by the commissioner, either in the manner provided by law for service of process in civil actions, or by registering and mailing a copy thereof to the person affected by such statement, notice, order, or other process at his or its residence or principal office or place of business. The verified return by the person so serving such statement, notice, order, or other process, setting forth the manner of such service, shall be proof of the same, and the return postcard receipt for such statement, notice, order, or other process, registered and mailed as aforesaid, shall be proof of the service of the same. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.7. Cease and desist orders and modifications thereof.—(a) If, after such hearing, the commissioner shall determine that the method of competition or the act or practice in question is defined in § 58-54.4 and that the person complained of has engaged in such method of competition, act or practice in violation of this article, he shall reduce his findings to writing and shall issue and cause to be served upon the person charged with the violation an order requiring such person to cease and desist from engaging in such method of competition, act or practice.

(b) Until the expiration of the time allowed under § 58-54.8 (a) of this article for filing a petition for review (by appeal) if no such petition has been duly filed within such time or, if a petition for reveiw has been filed within such time, then until the transcript of the record in the proceeding has been filed in the superior court, as hereinafter provided, the commissioner may at any time, upon such notice and in such manner as he shall deem proper, modify or set aside in whole or in part any order issued by him under this section.

(c) After the expiration of the time allowed for filing such a petition for review if no such petition has been duly filed within such time, the commissioner may at any time, after notice and opportunity for hearing, reopen and alter, modify or set aside, in whole or in part, any order issued by him under this section, whenever in his opinion conditions of fact or of law have so changed as to require such action or if the public interest shall so require. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.8. Judicial review of cease and desist orders.—(a) Any person required by an order of the commissioner under § 58-54.7 to cease and desist from engaging in any unfair method of competition or any unfair or deceptive act or practice defined in § 58-54.4 may obtain a review of such order by filing in the superior court of Wake county, within thirty days from the date of the service of such order, a written petition praying that the order of the commissioner be set aside. A copy of such petition shall be forthwith served upon the commissioner, and thereupon the commissioner forthwith shall certify and file in such court a transcript of the entire record in the proceeding, including all the evidence taken and the report and order of the commissioner. Upon such filing of the petition and transcript such court shall have jurisdiction of the proceeding and of the question determined therein, shall determine whether the filing of such petition shall operate as a stay of such order of the commissioner, and shall have power to make and enter upon the pleadings, evidence, and proceedings set forth in such transcript a decree modifying, affirming or reversing the order of the commissioner, in whole or in part. The findings of the commissioner as to the facts, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive.

(b) To the extent that the order of the commissioner is affirmed, the court shall thereupon issue its own order commanding obedience to the terms of such order of the commissioner. If either party shall apply to the court for leave to adduce additional evidence, and shall show to the satisfaction of the court that such additional evidence is material and that there were reasonable grounds for the failure to adduce such evidence in the proceeding before the commissioner, the court may order such additional evidence to be taken before the commissioner and to be adduced upon the hearing in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as to the court may seem proper. The commissioner may modify his findings of fact, or make new findings by reason of the additional evidence so taken, and he shall file such modified or new findings which, if supported by substantial evidence shall be conclusive, and his recommendations, if any, for the modification or setting aside of his original order, with the return of such additional evidence.

(c) A cease and desist order issued by the commissioner under § 58-54.7 shall become final:

(1) Upon the expiration of the time allowed for filing a petition for review if no such petition has been duly filed within such time; except that the commissioner may thereafter modify or set aside his order to the extent provided in § 58-54.7 (b); or

(2) Upon the final decision of the court if the court directs that the order of the commissioner be affirmed or the petition for review dismissed.

(d) No order of the commissioner under this article or order of a court to enforce the same shall in any way relieve or absolve any person affected by such order from any liability under any other laws of this state. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.9. Procedure as to unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices which are not defined.—(a) Whenever the commissioner shall have reason to believe that any person engaged in the business of insurance is engaging in this state in any method of competition or in any act or practice in the conduct of such business which is not defined in § 58-54.4, that such method of competition is unfair or that such act or practice is unfair or deceptive and that a proceeding by him in respect thereto would be to the interest of the public, he may issue and serve upon such person a statement of the charges in that respect and a notice of a hearing thereon to be held at a time and place fixed in the notice, which shall not be less than ten days after the date of the service thereof. Each such hearing shall be conducted in the same manner as the hearings provided for in § 58-54.6. The commissioner shall, after such hearing, make a report in writing in which he shall state his findings as to the facts, and he shall serve a copy thereof upon such person.

(b) If such report charges a violation of this article and if such method of competition, act or practice has not been discontinued, the commissioner may, through the attorney general of this state, at any time after ten days after the service of such report cause a petition to be filed in the superior court of this state of the county wherein the person resides or has his principal place of business, to enjoin and restrain such person from engaging in such method, act or practice. The court shall have jurisdiction of the proceeding and shall have power to make and enter appropriate orders in connection therewith and to issue such writs as are ancillary to its jurisdiction or are necessary in its judgment to prevent injury to the public pendente lite. To the extent that the order of the commissioner is affirmed, the court shall thereupon issue its order commanding obedience to the terms of such order of the commissioner.

(c) A transcript of the proceedings before the commissioner including all evidence taken and the report and findings shall be filed with such petition. If either party shall apply to the court for leave to adduce additional evidence and shall show, to the satisfaction of the court, that such additional evidence is material and there were reasonable grounds for the failure to adduce such evidence in the proceeding before the commissioner the court may order such additional evidence to be taken before the commissioner and to be adduced upon the hearing in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as to the court may seem proper. The commissioner may modify his findings of fact or make new findings by reason of the additional evidence so taken, and he shall file such modified or new findings with the return of such additional evidence.

(d) If the court finds that the method of competition complained of is unfair or that the act or practice complained of is unfair or deceptive, that the proceeding by the commissioner with respect thereto is to the interest of the public and that the findings of the commissioner are supported by the weight of the evidence, it shall issue its order enjoining and restraining the continuance of such method of competition, act or practice. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.10. Judicial review by intervenor.—If the report of the commissioner does not charge a violation of this article, then any intervenor in the proceedings may within ten days after the service of such report, cause a notice of appeal to be filed in the superior court of Wake county for a review of such report. Upon such review, the court shall have authority to issue appropriate orders and decrees in connection therewith, including, if the court finds that it is to the interest of the public, orders enjoining and restraining the continuance of any method of competition, act or practice which it finds, notwithstanding such report of the commissioner, constitutes a violation of this article. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.11. Penalty.—Any person who wilfully violates a cease and desist order of the commissioner under § 58-54.7, after it has become final, and while such order is in effect, shall forfeit and pay to the commissioner for the use of the public schools of the county or counties in which the act or acts complained of occurred a sum to be determined by the commissioner not to exceed $1,000 for each violation, which if not paid may be recovered in a civil action instituted in the name of the commissioner in a court of competent jurisdiction in Wake county. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.12. Provisions of article additional to existing law.—The powers vested in the commissioner by this article shall be additional to any other powers to enforce any penalties, fines or forfeitures authorized by law with respect to the methods, acts and practices hereby declared to be unfair or deceptive. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-54.13. Immunity from prosecution.—If any person shall ask to be excused from attending and testifying or from producing any books, papers, records, correspondence or other documents at any hearing on the ground that the testimony or evidence required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture, and shall notwithstanding be directed to give such testimony or produce such evidence, he must none the less comply with such direction, but he shall not thereafter be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty of forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may testify or produce evidence pursuant thereto, and no testimony so given or evidence produced shall be received against him upon any criminal action, investigation or proceeding, provided, however, that no such individual so testifying shall be exempt from prosecution or punishment for any perjury committed by him while so testifying and the testimony or evidence so given or produced shall be admissible against him upon any criminal action, investigation or proceeding concerning such perjury, nor shall he be exempt from the refusal, revocation or suspension of any license, permission or authority conferred, or to be conferred, pursuant to the insurance law of this state. Any such individual may execute, acknowledge and file in the office of the commissioner a statement expressly waiving such immunity or privilege in respect to any transaction, matter or thing specified in such statement and thereupon the testimony of such person or such evidence in relation to such transaction, matter or thing may be received or produced before any judge or justice, court, tribunal, grand jury or otherwise, and if so received or produced such individual shall not be entitled to any immunity or privilege on account of any testimony he may so give or evidence so produced. (1949, c. 1112.)

§ 58-63. Schedule of fees and charges.—The commissioner of insurance shall collect and pay into the state treasury fees and charges as follows:

1. For filing and examining statement preliminary to admission, twenty dollars; for filing and auditing annual statement, ten dollars; for filing any other papers required by law, one dollar; for each certificate of examination, condition, or qualification of company or association, two dollars; for each seal when required, one dollar; for filing charter and other papers of a fraternal order, preliminary to admission, twenty-five dollars.

2. To be paid to the publisher, for the publication of each financial statement, nine dollars.

3. The commissioner shall receive for copy of any record or paper in his office ten cents per copy sheet and one dollar for certifying same, or any fact or data from the records of his office; for examination of any foreign company, twenty-five dollars per diem and all expenses, and for examining any domestic company, actual expenses incurred; for the examination and approval of charters of companies, five dollars. The traveling and other expenses of accountants, and other examiners when engaged in the work of examination shall be paid by the companies, associations, or orders under investigation. For the investigation of tax returns and the collection of any delinquent taxes disclosed by such investigation, the commissioner may, in lieu of the above per diem charge, assess against any such delinquent company the expense of the investigation and collection of such delinquent tax, a reasonable percentage of such delinquent tax, not to exceed ten per centum (10%) of such delinquency, and in addition thereto.

4. He shall collect all other fees and charges due and payable into the state treasury by any company, association, order, or individual under his department. cies of domestic life insurance companies, one cent for every thousand dollars of the whole amount insured by its policies so valued."

SUBCHAPTER II. INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Art. 6. General Domestic Companies.

§ 58-72. Kinds of insurance authorized.—The kinds of insurance which may be authorized in this state, subject to the other provisions of this chapter, are set forth in the following paragraphs. Nothing herein contained shall require any insurer to insure every kind of risk which it is authorized to insure. The power to do any kind of insurance against loss of or damage to property shall include the power to insure all lawful interests in such property and to insure against loss of use and occupancy, rents and profits resulting therefrom; but no kind of insurance shall be deemed to include life insurance or insurance against legal liability for personal injury or death unless specified herein. In addition to any power to engage in any other kind of business than an insurance business which is specifically conferred by the provisions of this chapter, any insurer authorized to do business in this state may engage in such other kind or kinds of business to the extent necessarily or properly incidental to the kind or kinds of insurance business which it is authorized to do in this state. Each of the following paragraphs indicates the scope of the kind of insurance business specified therein;

1. "Life insurance," meaning every insurance upon the lives of human beings and every insurance appertaining thereto. The business of life insurance shall be deemed to include the granting of endowment benefits; additional benefits in the event of death by accident or accidental means; additional benefits operating to safeguard the contract from lapse, or to provide a special surrender value, in the event of total and permanent disability of the insured, including industrial sick benefit; and optional modes of settlement of proceeds.

2. "Annuities," meaning all agreements to make periodical payments where the making or continuance of all or of some of a series of such payments, or the amount of any such payment, is dependent upon the continuance of human life, except payments made under the authority of subsection one.

3. "Accident and health insurance," meaning (a) insurance against death or personal injury by accident or by any specified kind or kinds of accident and insurance against sickness, ailment or bodily injury except as specified in paragraph (b) following; and (b) non-cancellable disability insurance, meaning insurance against disability resulting from sickness, ailment or bodily injury, (but not including insurance solely against accidental injury) under any contract which does not give the insurer the option to cancel or otherwise terminate the contract at or after one year from its effective date or renewal date.
