§ 28-1. Clerk of superior court has probate jurisdiction.—The clerk of the superior court of each county has jurisdiction, within his county, to take proof of wills and to grant letters testamentary, letters of administration with the will annexed, and letters of administration, in cases of intestacy, in the following cases:

Character of Duties.—The powers and jurisdiction exercised by the clerk pursuant to this section are not those of a servant or ministerial officer or exercised as and for the superior court, but those of an independent tribunal of original jurisdiction. Edwards v. Cobb, 95 N. C. 4, followed in In Re Bowman's Estate, 121 C. 320, 188 S. E. 860, and cases cited.

Summary Proceedings.—The proceedings of the clerk in respect to the exercise of his probate jurisdiction are summary in their nature. Edwards v. Cobb, 95 N. C. 4, 5, 9.

Jurisdiction Exclusive.—Jurisdiction to appoint an administrator of a deceased person, who has died intestate, and to issue letters for the administration of his estate and to issue letters for the administration of his estate as and for the heir at law, are conferred by this section exclusively upon the clerk of the Superior Court of the county in which decedent was domiciled at or immediately previous to his death. Bank v. Commissioners of Yancey, 195 N. C. 673, 680, 681, 143 S. E. 325, and cases cited.

When Jurisdiction Presumed.—Where it is admitted that the plaintiff was regularly appointed administrator, it will be presumed that the clerk acted within his jurisdiction. Vance v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 460, 50 S. E. 860.

More than One Appointment.—When letters of administration are once issued to a person who qualified, the powers of the clerk in that respect are exhausted and the subsequent appointment of another person, before the first appointment is revoked, is void. In re Bowman's Estate, 121 N. C. 373, 28 S. E. 404.

Clerk May Vacate Order Allowing Will to Probate.—The clerk of the superior court, in his probate jurisdiction, has the power to vacate a previous order admitting a will to probate in common form on motion aptly made when it is clearly made to appear that the order of probate was improvidently granted, or that the court had been imposed upon and misled as to the essential and true conditions of the case. In re Smith's Will, 218 N. C. 161, 10 S. E. (2d) 677.

Collateral Attack.—When the clerk under this section has general jurisdiction of the subject matter of the inquiry, a decree appointing an executor or administrator may not be collaterally attacked. Batchelor v. Overton, 158 N. C. 395, 74 S. E. 20; Fann v. North Carolina R. Co., 155 N. C. 136, 71 S. E. 81; Tyler v. Blades Lumber Co., 188 N. C. 268, 124 S. E. 365. But where jurisdictional facts were lacking, it can be so attacked. Reynolds v. Lloyd Cotton Mills, 177 N. C. 412, 99 S. E. 240, and cases cited. And see Vance v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 460, 462, 50 S. E. 860, where the court, after finding that jurisdiction is presumed, declares: "We do not mean to say that the validity of the letters cannot be questioned collaterally, the existence of such assets and their proper situs being jurisdictional matter."

The facts very generally recognized as jurisdictional are stated in this section and where, on application for letters of administration, these facts appear of record, the question of the qualification of the appointee cannot be collaterally assailed. Holmes v. Wharton, 194 N. C. 470, 472, 140 S. E. 93, citing Wharton v. Ins. Co., 178 N. C. 135, 100 S. E. 266. The only exception to this rule is that it may be shown collaterally that the person for whom an administrator has been appointed is not in fact dead, but is still living. Hines v. Foundation Co., 196 N. C. 322, 325, 145 S. E. 612. In such case, the order making the appointment being void, it may be attacked collaterally. Holmes v. Wharton, 194 N. C. 470, 473, 140 S. E. 93, citing Clark v. Homes, 189 N. C. 703, 128 S. E. 20.

A clerk has jurisdiction to appoint an administrator where the affidavit of the applicant presumes the death of the decedent from his absence of seven years and the lack of communication from him. The order and appointment can only be avoided by showing the person not to be in fact dead. Chamblee v. Security Nat. Bank, 211 N. C. 48, 188 S. E. 637.

Evidence that deceased was not domiciled in the county of the clerk, as required by subdivision 1 of this section, was inadmissible in an action for wrongful death. Holmes v. Wharton, 194 N. C. 470, 140 S. E. 93.

The burden of proof to show jurisdictional facts rests upon the person applying for letters. Reynolds v. Lloyd Cotton Mills, 177 N. C. 412, 99 S. E. 240.

1. Where the decedent at, or immediately previous to, his death was domiciled in the county of such state, in whatever place such death may have happened.

In General.—Where the facts stated in this subsection exist, a grant in any county other than that prescribed by the subsection is absolutely void. Johnson v. Corpening, 39 N. C. 216; Collins v. Turner, 4 N. C. 547.

Domicile.—Reynolds v. Southern Mills, 177 N. C. 412, 92 S. E. 240, contains an excellent discussion of "domicile" as distinguished from "residence," "inhabiting," etc.

Change of County Lines.—The county referred to in this subsection is the county at the time of the death of the decedent, and not the one subsequently formed by a change of county lines. Cannon v. Southern Power Co., 173 N. C. 530, 92 S. E. 353.

2. Where the decedent at his death had places of residence in more than one county, the clerk of any such county has jurisdiction.

3. Where the decedent, not being domiciled in this state, died out of the state, leaving assets in the county of such clerk, or assets of such decedent thereafter come into the county of such clerk.

Assets.—If the assets are bona notabilia (chattels or goods of sufficient value to be accounted for) they are sufficient to convey jurisdiction to the clerk. Hyman v. Gaskins, 27 N. C. 267. The value of chattels sufficient to be accounted for has varied at different times, but was finally established at five pounds in 1603. The mere bringing of assets into the jurisdiction is immaterial. Shields v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 119 N. C. 380, 25 S. E. 951.

4. Where the decedent, not being domiciled in this state, died in the county of such clerk, leaving assets in the county of such clerk, or assets of such decedent thereafter come into the county of such clerk.

Provided, that in all cases where the clerk of the superior court is interested in an estate, the judge of the superior court resident in the district or the judge of the superior court holding the courts of the county by regular or special assignment shall have jurisdiction to take proof of wills and grant letters testamentary, letters of administration with the will annexed and letters of administration in cases of intestacy, to audit and approve the accounts of executors and administrators, to make orders and to do any and all things in connection with the administration of estates which the clerk of the superior court might or could have done, had he not been interested in the estate. (Rev., s. 16; Code, s. 1374; C. C. P., s. 433; R. C., c. 46, s. 1; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 115; 1951, c. 165; 1945, c. 543; C. S. 1.)

Cross References.—As to jurisdiction when clerk is disqualified, see § 31-12 and note, and also §§ 2-17 through 2-23.

The 1943 amendment substituted, in subsection 2, the words "places of residence" for the words "his fixed place of domicile." In General.—Where decedents were not domiciled in this state, and died intestate in Henderson county, leaving assets in the state, the clerk of the superior court of Henderson county had jurisdiction in said county to grant letters of administration. In re Franks, 220 N. C. 176, 180, 16 S. E. (2d) 504.

Death by Wrongful Act—The place where a non-resident is killed in this state the cause of action for death by wrongful act is sufficient under this section as a basis for the grant of letters in the county where the injury and death occurred. Vance v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 460.

§ 28-3. Letrers must issue; immediate rights of family.—No person shall enter upon the administration of any decedent's estate until he has obtained from the judge of the superior court an order under the penalty of one hundred dollars, one-half to the use of the informer and the other half to the state; but nothing herein contained shall prevent the family of the deceased from using so much of the crop, stock and provisions on hand as may be necessary, until the widow's year's support is assigned therefrom, as prescribed by law. (Rev., s. 1; Code, s. 1522; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 93; C. S. 3.)

Penalty Not Incurred by Mere Possession.—To incur the penalty provided by this section, something more must have happened than the mere taking of the property. Such taking may make the taker an executor de son tort, but it would not make him incur the penalty unless he entered upon the administration of the estate without first obtaining letters therefor. Administration implies management, not the mere holding of the possession of property. Currie v. Currie, 90 N. C. 553, 556.

§ 28-4. Executor de son tort.—Every person who receives goods or debts of any person dying intestate, or any release of a debt due the intestate, upon a fraudulent intent, or without such valuable consideration as amounts to the value or thereabouts, is chargeable as executor of his own wrong, so far as such debts and goods, coming to his hands, or whereof he is released, will satisfy. (Rev., s. 2; Code, s. 1494; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 67; 43 Eliz. c. 8; C. S. 4.)

Claim under Fraudulent Conveyance.—One who sets up a claim to goods of an intestate under a fraudulent conveyance, and thereby injures the sale of them, does not render himself an executor de son tort. Barnard v. Gregory, 14 N. C. 223. No such person can remove executors and administrators, see §§ 28-32 and note.

As to probate of wills generally, see § 31-12 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the proviso to this section.

The 1943 amendment substituted, in subsection 2, the words "places of residence" for the words "his fixed place of domicile."

v. Miller, 27 N. C. 444.

An infant of tender years cannot be executor de son tort nor be sued as such. See Bailey v. Miller, 27 N. C. 444.

§ 28-5. Form of letters.—All letters must be is-ued in the name of the state, and tested in the amed of the clerk of the superior court, signed ed by him, and sealed with his seal of office, and shall have attached thereto copies of the sec-section of this chapter requiring an inventory to be filed within three months, and of the section requiring annual accounts to be filed. (Rev., s. 36; Code, ss. 1399, 2173; C. C. P., ss. 471, 478; 1871-9,
c. 467; C. S. 5.)

and the note thereto.

Art. 3. Right to Administer.

§ 28-6. Order in which persons entitled.—Letters of administration, in case of intestacy, shall be granted to the persons entitled thereto and applying for the same, in the following order:

Effect of Appointment Out of Order.—The appointment as administrator of a person other than the one designated by the statute is not void, though the proper person has not renounced; but it may be set aside in favor of such proper person provided he has not waived his right to administer.
Garrison v. Cox, 95 N. C. 353.

Where the executor dies, the next of kin, in the order named in the statute, or his appointee, is entitled to administration in preference to the highest creditor. Little v. Berry, 94 N. C. 433.

Right to Renounce and Nominate Another for Appointment Is Recognized.—There is no express provision requiring the clerk to recognize the right of one belonging to a preferred class to renounce his right to qualify and at the same time nominate another for appointment in his stead, but this construction has been uniformly applied by the court. Little v. Berry, 94 N. C. 433.

Cross Reference.—For appointment of widow under twenty-two, see note to § 28-5, par. 1.

Estoppel against Widow.—Though the widow has a prior right to appointment on her own right, her renunciation to a brother of the decedent, where it appears that at the time the letters were duly granted to the brother she has shown no disposition to set up her right before the clerk, the appointment of the brother will stand. Tyrer v. Blades Lumber Co., 188 N. C.
268, 124 S. E. 305.

1. To the husband or widow, except as hereinafter provided.

Cross Reference.—For appointment of widow under twenty-
two, see note to § 28-5, par. 1.

2. To the next of kin in the order of their degree, where they are of different degrees; if of equal degree, to one or more of them, at the discretion of the clerk.

Clerk's Discretion.—Where there are several persons entitled in equal degree to administer, the clerk may select the one in his discretion, is most fit. Garrison v. Cox, 95 N. C. 353.

Right Not Absolute or Exclusive.—The right of the next of kin to administer is not absolute and not exclusive, and if the next of kin does not apply for letters of administration or fail to give bond, some other person may ceased person, after the widow, the right, among themselves, of administration; but this right is not vested in one more than another, and the degree of propinquity does not give a legal priority. The court should select from the class, the person best qualified to take care of the Between brothers, administration will be committed to the one most interested to execute it faithfully. Moore v.

Moore, 12 N. C. 352.

Remedy for阻力 of Kin.—If none of the next of kin can read or write, it is proper for the clerk to refuse to appoint any one of them. In re Saville, 156 N. C. 172, 72 S. E.
220.

Appointee of Next of Kin.—When the next of kin resides abroad, it is in the power and in the duty of the court to grant administration to the appointee of such next of kin.
Smith v. Munroe, 23 N. C. 345. See Ritchie v. McAuslin, 2
N. C. 220.

3. To the most competent creditor who re-vides within the state, and proves his debt on oath before the clerk.

Creditor Postponed to Next of Kin.—If administration cannot be granted to the nearest of kin owing to some incapacity, it shall be granted to the next after him, qualifi-ced to act, and the creditor shall be postponed, if such next of kin claims the right to administer within the time pre-administration, see §§ 59-113 and 55-117. As to who may act in the event the executor fails to apply to have the will proved, see § 31-13. As to public administrator, see § 28-20.

Possessor of Insurance Policy.—The possession of a policy of life insurance authorizes the possessor to administer on the estate of the assured, a nonresident. Page § 28-7. Husband to administer wife's estate; right in surplus.—If any married woman dies wholly or partially intestate, the surviving husband shall be entitled to administer on her personal estate, and shall hold the same, subject to the claims of her creditors and others having rightful demands against her, to his own use, except as hereinafter provided. If the husband dies after his wife, but before administering, his executor or administrator or assignee shall receive the personal property of the said wife, as a part of the estate of the husband, subject as aforesaid, and except as provided by law. (Rev., s. 4; Code, s. 1479; 1871-9, c. 103, s. 32; C. S. 7.)

Exclusive Right to Administrator.—The statute of distribution does not apply to the estate of femme covert dying intestate, and the husband is entitled to administer for his own benefit. Any other person administering has only considered as a trustee for the husband with respect to the residue after payment of debts. Hoppis v. Eskridge, 37
N. C. 34.

Wife Intestate or Testate.—A husband has right to administer the estate of wife, whether she dies intestate or has left a will and named an executor. In re Meyer's Estate, 113 N. C. 545, 19 S. E. 669.

Transfer of Right.—He may transfer this right to another by appointment, or may cause another to be associated with him. And the right is not affected by the filing and probating in common form of a writing signed being the will of the wife. In re Meyer's Estate, 113 N.
C. 545, 19 S. E. 669.

§ 28-7. Husband to administer wife's estate; right in surplus.—If any married woman dies wholly or partially intestate, the surviving husband shall be entitled to administer on her personal estate, and shall hold the same, subject to the claims of her creditors and others having rightful demands against her, to his own use, except as hereinafter provided. If the husband dies after his wife, but before administering, his executor or administrator or assignee shall receive the personal property of the said wife, as a part of the estate of the husband, subject as aforesaid, and except as provided by law. (Rev., s. 4; Code, s. 1479; 1871-9, c. 103, s. 32; C. S. 7.)

Exclusive Right to Administrator.—The statute of distribution does not apply to the estate of femme covert dying intestate, and the husband is entitled to administer for his own benefit. Any other person administering has only considered as a trustee for the husband with respect to the residue after payment of debts. Hoppis v. Eskridge, 37 N. C. 34.

Wife Intestate or Testate.—A husband has right to administer the estate of wife, whether she dies intestate or has left a will and named an executor. In re Meyer's Estate, 113 N. C. 545, 19 S. E. 669.

Transfer of Right.—He may transfer this right to another by appointment, or may cause another to be associated with him. And the right is not affected by the filing and probating in common form of a writing signed being the will of the wife. In re Meyer's Estate, 113 N. C. 545, 19 S. E. 669.
Realty under Equitable Conversion.—Where a wife devised real property under circumstances by which the doctrine of equitable conversion obtained, a court has power to hold that the property is vested in the husband, if he continues to occupy the same. Equitable conversion is reduced to personalty, her husband as personalty, subject to demands of creditors. McLver v. McKinney, 184 N. C. 393, 59 S. E. 2d 345, 133 S. E. 2d 345; Bank of America v. Lockhart, 181 N. C. 527, 13 S. E. 2d 27.

Death of Husband before Administering.—If the husband dies after his wife, without having administered, there is no authority to appoint an administrator upon her estate. In such case the representative of the husband is not entitled to the wife’s estate. Wooten v. Wooten, 123 N. C. 219, 31 S. E. 491.

Partial Intestacy as to Damages for Wrongful Death.—Where a wife dies before her husband, if the death thereafter is not a part of her personal assets. And where she has left a will disposing of all her property and naming another executor, her husband may not administer upon the theory that the will was intestate or on the basis that the intestate is recoverable for wrongful death. Hood v. American Tel., etc., Co., 162 N. C. 92, 77 S. E. 1094.

Wife’s Estate in Remainder for Benefit of Husband.—Where a widow, a remainderman in personal property after a life estate, dies before the life tenant, her administrator upon the death of the life tenant will be entitled to such property for the benefit of her husband. Colson v. Martin, 62 N. C. 125.

Husband’s Administrator as against Wife’s Administrator.—Where a legacy is given to a trustee for the use of a minor, the mother and father, surviving the same, are the personal representative of the husband (the husband surviving the wife, but dying before receiving the legacy in his wife’s favor) and the protector of the legacy. bakery of the wife’s administrator. Coleman v. Hallowell, 54 N. C. 204.

Husband Entitled to Annuity Payable to Wife.—Where the beneficiary of an annuity dies intestate before the death of the husband, the husband is entitled to the annuity. In re Shuford’s Will, 164 N. C. 133, 80 S. E. 420.

Intestate Succession.—Insured named his wife as beneficiary in policies on his life. His wife predeceased him. There were no children born to the marriage. Upon the wife’s death the husband was entitled to the wife’s vested interest in the policies, even before reducing same to possession by administration, the provision of this section not having been modified by § 28-149, par. 8, in cases in which there are no surviving children; and upon the husband’s death, the wife’s heirs who were entitled to the distribution of the proceeds of the policies. Wilson v. Williams, 215 N. C. 407, 2 S. E. (2d) 39.

Husband Becoming Non Compos Mentis.—Where a husband has qualified as the administrator of his deceased wife but removed on account of his since becoming non compos mentis, the administrator of the wife, de bonis non, and equitable conversion is reduced to personalty, her husband as personalty, subject to demands of creditors. Mclver v. McKinney, 184 N. C. 393, 59 S. E. 2d 345, 133 S. E. 2d 345; Bank of America v. Lockhart, 181 N. C. 527, 13 S. E. 2d 27.

Appointee of Nonresident Kin.—But a nonresident next of kin may appoint a resident, and it is within the power as well as the duty of the court to grant administration to the appointee. Smith v. Munroe, 23 N. C. 345; Ritchie v. Mc Austin, 21 N. C. 367.

3. Has been convicted of a felony.

4. Is adjudged by the clerk incompetent to execute the duties of such trust by reason of drunkenness, improvidence or want of understanding.

Itinerant as Incompetent.—Under this provision a person who can not write or read, and has no experience in keeping accounts or in settling estates, is "incompetent." Stephenson v. Stephenson, 49 N. C. 672.

5. Fails to take the oath or give the bond required by law.

Collateral Attack for Mere Irregularity.—When, in disregard of the requirements of this subsection, letters are issued to a foreign executor, this is a mere irregularity and can not be set aside. In re Estate of Wallace, 197 N. C. 334, 148 S. E. 2d 521.

§ 28-9. Effect of disqualification of person entitled. Where an executor named in the will, or any person having a prior right to administer, is under the disqualification of nonage, or is temporarily absent from the state, such person is entitled to six months, after coming of age or after his return to the state, in which to make application for letters testamentary, or letters of administration. (Rev., s. 6; Code, ss. 1377, 2162; C. C. P., s. 457; C. S. 8.)

§ 28-8. Disqualifications enumerated. The clerk shall not issue letters of administration or letters testamentary to any person who, at the time of appearing to qualify—

1. Is under the age of twenty-one years.

A widow under 21 is not eligible to appointment as administrator. The court may, however, appoint an administrator during her minority and, on her arriving at full age, grant her the administration. Wallis v. Wallis, 60 N. C. 78.

2. Is a nonresident of this state; but a nonresident may qualify as executor.

Editor’s Note.—Until the revision of 1905, this subsection disqualified "an alien who is a nonresident of this state." And prior to 1888 there was no disqualification imposed upon aliens. The law was amended in 1888 to disqualify aliens, and in 1905 it was amended so that the nonresident administrator took the oath and gave the bond required by law, he was not included in the disqualifications of this section. See Moore v. Eure, 101 N. C. 11, 67 S. E. 2d 27.

Nonresident Executor.—It is not a valid defense to a suit brought by an executor, that such executor was a nonresident. Bathchever v. Overton, 158 N. C. 395, 74 S. E. 20.

Nonresident Disqualified as Administrator.—A nonresident cannot be appointed an administrator; nor, having been appointed in the state of his intestate’s residence, can he sue in the courts of this state. Hall v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 240, 44 S. E. 2d 879; In re Estate of Banks, 213 N. C. 395, 74 S. E. 2d 879.

Public administrator cannot be removed at the instance of nonresidents who have no right of appointment as administrator in this state, nor having the right to administer upon the estate in this state. Boynton v. Heath, 158 N. C. 488, 74 S. E. 470.

Appointee of Nonresident Kin.—But a nonresident next of kin may appoint a resident, and it is within the power as well as the duty of the court to grant administration to the appointee. Smith v. Munroe, 23 N. C. 345; Ritchie v. Mc Austin, 21 N. C. 367.

During Widow’s Minority.—The court may appoint an administrator during a widow’s minority and, on her arriving at full age, grant her the administration. Wallis v. Wallis, 60 N. C. 78.

Service Required to a Foreign Executor.—If those entitled to administration apply for letters at any time prior to the appointment of a public administrator, even though six months’ period has elapsed, they will have priority to administer under the disqualification of age.

During widow’s minority, grant her the administration. Wallis v. Wallis, 60 N. C. 78.

§ 28-10. Divorce a vinculo or felonious slaying is forfeiture.—When a marriage is dissolved a vinculo, the parties respectively, or when either party is convicted of the felonious slaying of the other, or of being accessory before the fact of such felonious slaying, the party so convicted shall thereby lose all his or her right to administer on the estate of the other, and to a distributive share in the personal property of the other, and every right and estate in the personal estate of the other. (Rev., s. 7; Code, s. 1480; H. B. 248, c. 35, 243, 256, 260; C. C. P., ss. 452, 460; R. C. c. 46, s. 12; C. S. 9.)

Cross Reference.—As to acts barring reciprocal property rights of husband and wife, see §§ 52-19, 52-20, and 52-21.

Editor’s Note.—In Owens v. Owens, 100 N. C. 240, 5 S. E. 794, it was held that a widow: convicted as accessory before the fact to her husband’s murder and confined in prison is entitled to dower. But this rule has in terms been abrogated by the provisions of this section, as to the right of the wife to administer and obtain her distributive share. Where a husband has taken out a policy of life insurance on his own life with his wife as beneficiary and has feloniously killed his wife and then himself, under this section and §§ 28-149 and 52-19, his heirs may not claim under him the proceeds of the policy since the law will not allow a man or those claiming under him to benefit by his own wrong, and the proceeds of the policy are descendable to the next of kin of the wife and not to his heirs at law. Parker v. Potter, 200 N. C. 348, 157 S. E. 68.

§ 28-11. Elopement and adultery of wife is forfeiture.—If any married woman elopes with an adulterer, and shall not be living with her husband at his death, she shall thereby lose all right to a distributive share in the personal property of her husband, and all right to administer on his estate. (Rev., s. 8; Code, s. 1481; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 44; C. S. 11.)

Cross Reference.—See § 52-30.

§ 28-12. Husband's conduct forfeiting rights in wife's estate.—If any husband shall separate himself from his wife, and shall not be living with her at his death, if he shall have deserted her, or shall not be living with her at her death, or if the husband has abandoned his wife, or has maliciously turned her out of doors, and shall not be living with her at her death, he shall thereby lose all his right and estate of whatever character in and to her personal property, and all right to administer on her estate. (Rev., s. 9; Code, s. 1482; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 45; C. S. 12.)

Cross Reference.—See § 52-28.

§ 28-13. Executor may renounce.—Any person appointed an executor may renounce the office by a writing signed by him, and on the same being filed in the superior court, it shall be made a record and filed. (Rev., s. 10; Code, s. 2163; C. C. 1860, s. 450; C. S. 13.)

Cross Reference.—As to resignation of executor or administrator, see § 52-9 et seq.

Common Law and Present Rule.—At common law an administrator or executor who has qualified and entered upon the performance of his duties had no right to resign his office at his own convenience. Nor can he resign now except for causes specified in the statute or for equivalent causes. McIntyre v. Proctor, 145 N. C. 288, 59 S. E. 29; Washington v. Bl unt, 43 N. C. 253.

Must Appear on Record.—Renunciation of executor must appear of record to enable the court to appoint an administrator with the will annexed. Springs v. Irwin, 28 N. C. 27.

Time of Renunciation.—An executor may, by permission of the superior court, renounce all right to the executorship and withdraw from a suit. Sawyer v. Dozier, 27 N. C. 97.

A court of probate may accept this renunciation at any time before the executor intermeddled with the effects of the testator, even after he has proved the will. Mitchell v. Adams, 21 N. C. 298.

The same rule applies to an executor of an executor under a prior will. Mitchell v. Adams, 21 N. C. 298.

But after probate an executor cannot renounce at his own pleasure, and must do so by leave of the court. Mitchell v. Adams, 22 N. C. 532.

Powers of Administrator c. t. a.—After renunciation of the executor, the administrator with the will annexed is competent to exercise his (executor's) powers under the will. Saunders v. Saunders, 108 N. C. 327, 12 S. E. 669.

Revocation of Letters for Cause Only.—The clerk should revoke letters testamentary, where the executor has entered upon performance of his duties, only by order of some competent authority on the part of trustee, and never simply because the parties desire it. McIntyre v. Proctor, 145 N. C. 288, 59 S. E. 39.

Renunciation of Executor.—A renouncing executor may retrace his renunciation at any time before administration granted, and then administer. Any intermeddling with the estate before qualifying is evidence of such retraction. Da Cal, 4 N. C. 61.

Renunciation by Some of Several.—Where there are several persons of the same class entitled to administer renunciation by some of them does not affect the rights of those not renouncing to administer. In re Jones' Estate, 177 N. C. 340, 135 S. E. 653.

Right of Reinstatement.—There are decisions that an executor who has renounced can, under some circumstances, come in and qualify. See Davis v. Inscoe, 84 N. C. 396, 401; Wood v. Sparks, 18 N. C. 385. But there is no case in which he has come in after the lapse of the formalities of this statute and afterwards has qualified, certainly not after the lapse of twenty years. Ryder v. Oates, 173 N. C. 569, 92 S. E. 508.

Expression of Intent Insufficient.—The mere expressed intent of such person entitled to administration by prior right that he would not have anything to do with the administration is no valid renunciation. Williams v. Neville, 108 N. C. 559, 562, 13 S. E. 240.

§ 28-15. Failure to apply as renunciation.—If any person, entitled to letter of administration, fails or refuses to apply for such letters within thirty days after the death of the intestate, the clerk, on application of any party interested, shall issue a citation to such person to show cause, within twenty days after service of the citation, why he should not be deemed to have renounced. If, within the time named in the citation, he neglects to answer or to show cause, he shall be deemed to have renounced his right to administer, and the clerk must enter an order accordingly, and proceed to grant letters to some other person. If no person entitled to administration applies for letters within six months after the death of the intestate, then the clerk may, in his discretion, deem all prior rights renounced and appoint some suitable person to administer such estate. (Rev., s. 12; Code, s. 1380; C. P., s. 460(a); 1888-9, c. 203; C. S. 15.)

Cross Reference.—See note to § 28-30.

In General.—The true intent and meaning of this and the prior sections of this chapter is that the person entitled to administration may have six months after the death of the intestate to assert their rights and comply with the law; and a party wishing to quicken their diligence within that time must apply by citation (the party renouncing) may not by obtaining letters within the six months, deprive the party primarily entitled to administration should such party apply for letters before the expiration of six months from his death, then the clerk may, in his discretion, deem prior rights renounced and appoint some suitable person to administer such estate. (In re Jones' Estate, 177 N. C. 337, 145, 98 S. E. 827.)

Applicable to Intestacy Only. —The provisions of this section contemplate the cases of intestacy. Hence in cases of testamentary where no executor is appointed in the will, the rights of the parties to administer are governed by section 28-6, without reference to the six months limitation contained in this section. In re Jones' Estate, 177 N. C. 337, 145, 98 S. E. 827.

Renunciation Presumed after Six Months.—After the expiration of six months from the death of the decedent, those entitled to prior rights having failed to apply, all rights of preference may be treated as renounced, and a suitable person to administer upon the estate may be appointed. Hill v. Auch, 172 N. C. 727 N. C. 727, 98 S. E. 104.

Appointment Not Revoked after Six Months.—If the next of kin, in answer to citation, name his appointee, and such person, after appointment, fails to qualify, then, though six months have elapsed, the clerk was authorized to appoint another. Williams v. Neville, 108 N. C. 559, 562, 13 S. E. 240.

Appointment Not Revoked after Six Months.—If the parties who have precedence to administer fail to apply within six months from the death of the deceased, an appointment by the clerk of a proper person after that period will not be revoked. Withrow v. DePriest, 119 N. C. 541, 123 S. E. 270.

Failure to Apply within Six Months.—Public Administrator.—Though it is the duty of the public administrator to apply after six months, if, before his appointment at any time, [9] § 28-16. Person named as executor failing to qualify or renounce.—If any person appointed an executor does not qualify or renounce within sixty days after the will is admitted to probate, the clerk of the superior court, on the application of any other executor named in the same will, or any party interested, shall issue a citation to such person to show cause why he should not be deemed to have renounced. If, upon service of the citation, he does not qualify or renounce within such time, not exceeding thirty days, as is allowed in the citation, an order must be entered by the clerk decreeing that such person has renounced his appointment as executor.

Where more than one executor is appointed in any last will and testament duly probated in any court of this State, and one or more of such executors shall have qualified before the clerk of such court, and the other executor or executors shall have failed, within thirty days thereafter to qualify or shall have renounced in writing, then the qualifying executor or executors shall be clothed with all the powers, rights and duties, and be subject to all the obligations imposed upon all of said executors, in and by the terms of said will and the laws of this State, in like manner as if the non-qualifying executor or executors had not been named in said will. This paragraph shall apply to all wills heretofore or hereafter probated. (Rev., s. 13; Code, s. 2164; C. C. P., s. 451; 1931, c. 183; C. S. 16.)

Cross Reference.—See §§ 28-20 and note thereto.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the second paragraph to this section.

Sale by One of Joint Executors.—If one of the joint executors fails to qualify, a sale of lands by the one qualifying is sufficient to pass the estate, without its appearing necessary for the said sale by the clerk of the superior court, and the other executor or executors shall have qualified before the clerk of the court. (Rev., s. 19; Code, s. 1393; 1868-9, c. 113, ss. 2, 5; C. S. 17.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1925, ch. 253, reduced the number of years, for which a public administrator could be appointed, from "eight" to "four".

Property Right.—His office is a property right which can not be revoked unless he fails to perform the duties of his office and obedience to all lawful orders of the clerk or other court touching the administration of the several estates that may come into his hands and such bonds, if executed by individual sureties, shall be renewed every two years. Whenever the aggregate value of the personal property belonging to the several estates in the hands of the public administrator exceeds one-half of his bond, if the bond is signed by personal sureties, or three-fourths of his bond, if the bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company, the clerk shall require him to enlarge his bond in an amount so as to cover all at times at least double the aggregate of the assets of the estates in the hands of said public administrator if the bond is signed by personal sureties or one and one-third times the assets if the bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company. If the personal property of any decedent is insufficient to pay his debts and the charges of administration and it becomes necessary for the said public administrator to apply for the sale of real estate for assets, upon the signing of a judgment ordering the said sale by the clerk of the superior court, or any other court, the clerk shall include the value of the real estate proposed to be sold in the aggregate value of the property belonging to the several estates in the hands of the public administrator. Whenever the aggregate value of the personal property and the real estate that the said administrator has been authorized to sell exceeds one-half of his bond, if the bond is executed by personal surety, or three-fourths of his bond if the bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company, the clerk shall require him to enlarge his bond as hereinbefore provided as though the aggregate consisted only of personal property. (Rev., s. 320; Code, ss. 1390, 1391, 1392; 1868-9, c. 113, ss. 2, 3, 4; 1915, c. 216; 1941, c. 243; C. S. 19.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment made changes in the first two sentences with reference to surety on bond, and added the remainder of the section.

Notice for Failure to Renew Bond.—A public administrator can not be removed for failure to renew his bond without being notified to show cause. Trotter v. Mitchell, 115 N. C. 190, 20 S. E. 386.

Quoted In re Brinson, 73 N. C. 278.

§ 28-18. Oath.—The public administrator shall take and subscribe an oath (or affirmation) faithfully and honestly to discharge the duties of his trust; and the oath so taken and subscribed must be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court. (Rev., s. 19; Code, s. 1393; 1868-9, c. 113, ss. 2, 5; C. S. 18.)

§ 28-19. Bond.—The public administrator shall enter into bond, payable to the state of North Carolina, with two or more sufficient sureties to be justified before and approved by the clerk, or with a duly authorized surety company, in the penal sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000.00), conditioned upon the faithful performance of the duties of his office and obedience to all lawful orders of the clerk or other court touching the administration of the several estates that may come into his hands and such bonds, if executed by individual sureties, shall be renewed every two years. Whenever the aggregate value of the personal property belonging to the several estates in the hands of the public administrator exceeds one-half of his bond, if the bond is signed by personal sureties, or three-fourths of his bond, if the bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company, the clerk shall require him to enlarge his bond in an amount so as to cover all at times at least double the aggregate of the assets of the estates in the hands of said public administrator if the bond is signed by personal sureties or one and one-third times the assets if the bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company. If the personal property of any decedent is insufficient to pay his debts and the charges of administration and it becomes necessary for the said public administrator to apply for the sale of real estate for assets, upon the signing of a judgment ordering the said sale by the clerk of the superior court, or any other court, the clerk shall include the value of the real estate proposed to be sold in the aggregate value of the property belonging to the several estates in the hands of the public administrator. Whenever the aggregate value of the personal property and the real estate that the said administrator has been authorized to sell exceeds one-half of his bond, if the bond is executed by personal surety, or three-fourths of his bond if the bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company, the clerk shall require him to enlarge his bond as hereinbefore provided as though the aggregate consisted only of personal property. (Rev., s. 320; Code, ss. 1390, 1391, 1392; 1868-9, c. 113, ss. 2, 3, 4; 1915, c. 216; 1941, c. 243; C. S. 19.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment made changes in the first two sentences with reference to surety on bond, and added the remainder of the section.

Notice for Failure to Renew Bond.—A public administrator can not be removed for failure to renew his bond without being notified to show cause. Trotter v. Mitchell, 115 N. C. 190, 20 S. E. 386.

Quoted In re Brinson, 73 N. C. 278.

§ 28-20. When to obtain letters.—The public administrator shall apply for and obtain letters on the estates of deceased persons in the following cases:

1. When the period of six months has elapsed from the death of any decedent, and no letters

Due Qualification Prerequisite. — A public administrator acquires no rights or interest to administer an estate until he is qualified to act, the clerk of the superior court having no power to issue administrative appointment without the requisite qualifications of the person applying for appointment. In re Bailey's Will, 182 N. C. 104, 188 S. E. 202.

Prior Right of Others after Six Months. — While the expiration of the six months prior rights to administration may be deemed renounced and a public administrator appointed, yet even after lapse of six months, if he is not as yet appointed, persons of prior right to administration may be appointed in preference to him. In re Bailey's Will, 182 N. C. 104, 188 S. E. 202.

When any person entitled to administration shall request, in writing, the clerk to issue the letters to the public administrator. (Rev., s. 20; Code, s. 1394; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 6; C. S. 20.)

§ 28-21. Powers generally and on expiration of term.—The public administrator shall, in respect to all the several estates in his hands, all the necessary powers, and be subject to all the duties and liabilities of other administrators. On the expiration of the term of office of a public administrator, or his resignation, he may continue to manage the several estates committed to him until he enters into a bond as required by law for administrators. (Rev., s. 21; Code, s. 1395; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 7; 1876-7, c. 239; C. S. 21.)

Powers of Administrator with the Will Annexed. — An administrator cum testamento annexo has all the rights, powers, and is subject to the same duties as if he had been named as executor. Smathers v. Moody, 112 N. C. 797, 17 S. E. 532.

Appointment When There is Executor. — An administrator cum testamento annexo cannot be appointed where there is an executor qualified to act, the clerk of the superior court having no power to issue administrative appointment without the requisite qualifications of the person applying for appointment. Smith v. Sprunt, 191 N. C. 108, 131 S. E. 332.

Waiver of Right to Appointment. — Where a legatee entitled to preferential appointment as administrator c. t. a. has waived his right to be appointed administrator c. t. a., but waits until after the death of the administrator appointed more than a year after testator's death before asserting his right and renouncing in favor of a third person, the legatee has waived his right and his nominee not entitled to appointment as against the nominee of the surviving sisters of testator. In re Estate of Smith, 210 N. C. 622, 188 S. E. 202. See § 28-23 and the note thereto.

§ 28-22. Qualifications and bond.—Administrators with the will annexed shall have the same qualifications and give the same bond as other administrators; but the executor of an executor shall not be entitled to qualify as executor of the first testator. (Rev., s. 15; Code, s. 2167; C. C. P., s. 454; 1905, c. 286; C. S. 23.)

§ 28-24. Administrator c. t. a. must observe will.—In all cases where letters of administration with the will annexed are granted, the will of the testator must be observed and performed by the administrator with the will annexed, both in respect to real and personal property, and an administrator with the will annexed has all the rights and powers, and is subject to the same duties, as if he had been named executor in the will. (Rev., s. 3146; Code s. 2168; C. C. P., s. 455; C. S. 4170.)

Administrator, d. b. n., c. t. a., Not on Same Footing with Executor in Respect of Trusts.—Where a testator named a public administrator de bonis non cum testamento annexo, although clothed with the power, and required to execute the will, according to its legal effect as if he were executor, does not stand upon the same footing in respect to the trust property and required to execute the will as an executor does, and not from the will simply, but from the statute (this section) and he would not be treated as an executor in another state, because his authority is conferred by the law, and not by the will. Grant v. Reese, 94 N. C. 730, 730.

Duties and Liability of Administrator, c. t. a.—Ancillary Administration.—Where a testator died domiciled in this State, leaving debts due by parties in Virginia, the administrator de bonis non cum testamento annexo, and the duties and powers on the bond, are not liable for return to such notes on the inventory in this State and in Virginia. Grant v. Reese, 94 N. C. 730.

Personal Power of Administrator de bonis non cum testamento annexo, and the powers conferred upon the executor by the will are personal to and discretionary with the executor and become extinct at his death they can not be judicially proofed. Where the powers conferred upon the executor by the will are personal to and discretionary with the executor and become extinct at his death they can not be judicially proofed. Under a will directing the executor therein named to continue his trusteeship as long as the executor should think it profitable, and such of the profits as the executor should think it profitable to retain for the support of testator's wife and children to be paid to the wife; also, to invest six thousand dollars, bequeathed by testator to his children, and to have entire control of testator's business, to continue or discontinue it all, or any department of it, at any time he might find it not yielding a reasonable profit, 11. and out of the profits pay to testator's wife, from time to time, such amounts as he might consider actually necessary for her support and the support of the children: Held, that upon the death of the executor and the appointment of an administrator, the trusts therein became extinct at his death. Creech v. Grainger, 106 N. C. 213, 10 S. E. 1032.

Administrator c. t. a. as Trustee.—An administrator, with the will annexed, becomes a trustee for any trusts declared in the will which could pass and be transferred to any one, as much as if he had been named executor. Creech v. Grainger, 106 N. C. 213, 10 S. E. 1032.

Same—Recovery of Lands Held in Trust.—An administrator cum testamento annexo, the latter became entitled to the possession of the land, and can recover the same from those withholding it. Smathers v. Moody, 112 N. C. 791, 17 S. E. 532.

Will Presumed Executed in Contemplation of Section.—It will be presumed that a will will be executed in contemplation of section 128-25 of the Code of 1886, providing that an administrator c. t. a. succeeds to all the rights, powers and duties of the executor. Wachovia Bank, et al., v. King Drug Co., 217 N. C. 502, 11 S. E. 2d 593.

Power to Sell Real Estate.—Administrator c. t. a. may exercise all powers of sale granted the executors by the will regardless of whether they are given the executor virtuose officii or nominatim, unless the language of the will definitely limits the exercise of the power of sale to the person named executor or unless the executor is made the donee of a special trust, given by reason only of peculiar circumstances indicating death of such person, any reason, a delay is necessarily produced in the admission of a will to probate, or in granting letters of administration with the will annexed, the powers of such collector shall cease, but any suit brought by the collector may be continued by his successor, the executor or the administrator, in his own name.

§ 28-26. Qualifications and bond.—Every collector shall have the qualifications and give the bond prescribed by law for an administrator. (Rev., 23; Code, 1384; C. C. P., 464; C. S. 25.)

§ 28-27. Powers of collectors.—Every collector has authority to collect the personal property, preserve and secure the same, and collect the debts and credits of the decedent, and for these purposes he may commence and maintain or defend suits, and he may sell, under the direction of the clerk, any or all of the property, rights and credits of the decedent under his control, and the collector may be continued by his successor, the executor or the administrator, in his own name. Such collector must, on demand, deliver and account.—When letters testamentary, letters of administration or letters of administration with the will annexed are granted, the powers of such collector shall cease, but any suit brought by the collector may be continued by his successor, the executor or the administrator, in his own name. Such collector must, on demand, deliver to the executor or administrator all the property, rights and credits of the decedent under his control, and render an account, on oath, to the clerk of all his proceedings. Such delivery and account may be enforced by citation, order or attachment. (Rev., 23; Code, 1386; C. C. P., 466; R. C., c. 46, s. 1084-9; C. C. P., 466; C. S., 7; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 115; 1924, c. 43; S. C. 27.)

Allowance of Counsel Fee.—A collector who resists the claim of the executor is not entitled to an allowance for § 28-29. Facts to be shown on applying for administration.—On application for letters of administration, the clerk must ascertain by affidavit of the applicant or otherwise—

1. The death of the decedent and his intestacy.

2. Administration upon the estate of a living man and a decree for the sale of his lands are void for lack of jurisdiction.

3. That the applicant is the proper person entitled to administration, or that he applies after the renunciation of the person or persons so entitled.

4. The value and nature of the intestate's property, the names and residences of all parties entitled as heirs or distributees of the estate, if known, or that the same cannot, on diligent inquiry, be procured; which of said parties are minors, and whether with or without guardians, and the names and residences of such guardians, if known. Such affidavit or other proof must be recorded and filed by the clerk. (Rev. s. 26; Code, s. 1381; C. C. P., s. 461; C. S. 28.)

§ 28-30. Right to contest application for letters; proceedings.—Any person interested in the estate may, on complaint filed and notice to the applicant, contest the right of such applicant to letters of administration, and on any issue of fact joined, or matter of law arising on the pleadings, the cause may be transferred to the superior court for trial, or an appeal be taken, as in other special proceedings. (Rev. s. 27; Code, s. 1382; C. C. L., s. 146; C. S. 29.)

Cross Reference.—As to the running of the statute of limitations when there is contest, see § 1-24.

Title of Property Not Question of Fact.—A dispute as to the title of property of the decedent is not such an issue of fact as is contemplated by this section and required by this section to be transferred to the superior court for trial. In re Tapp's Estate, 114 N. C. 248, 19 S. E. 150.

Clerk Exercises Discretion.—The exigencies of administration require the power vested in the clerk of the court removing executors or administrators of an estate, has exercised his discretion in removing it to the clerk, the exercise of this discretion is not appealable to the Supreme Court. Murrill v. Sandlin, 86 N. C. 54.

Clerk Exercises Discretion.—The exigencies of administration require the power vested in the court removing executors or administrators of an estate, has exercised his discretion in removing it to the clerk, the exercise of this discretion is not appealable to the Supreme Court. Murrill v. Sandlin, 86 N. C. 54.

Refusal to Disclose Information.—Refusal on the part of the executor named in the will to disclose information as to the amount and nature of personality coming into his possession, as to other matters relative to his fitness, is a ground for withholding or revoking letters testamentary and granting them to some other person. In re Will of Gulley, 186 N. C. 78, 118 S. E. 839.

Affirmation of Original Jurisdiction.—The clerk under this section has original and primary jurisdiction of a probate judge to revoke letters, subject to review upon appeal, by either clerk, and this section may vest in issues of fact to be tried by a jury in the superior court. In re Will of Gulley, 186 N. C. 78, 118 S. E. 839.

Clerk Exercises Discretion.—The exigencies of administration require the power vested in the clerk of the court removing executors or administrators of an estate, has exercised his discretion in removing it to the clerk, the exercise of this discretion is not appealable to the Supreme Court. Murrill v. Sandlin, 86 N. C. 54.
It is not required that he transfer the cause to the superior court for the trial of the issue. In re Battle, supra.

Necessity of Order to Show Cause. — The clerk cannot appoint a successor, (when the will has named more than one executor), or remove the executor, without a hearing based on notice to show cause why he should not be removed. In re Palmer's Will, 117 N. C. 133, 134, 23 S. E. 568. Nor can he remove a public administrator without such notice. Trotter v. Mitchell, 115 N. C. 190, 20 S. E. 386.

The procedure to remove an executor or administrator for default or misconduct is by order issued by the clerk to the executor or administrator to show cause, and in such proceeding the respondent must be given notice and an opportunity to be heard, with right of appearance. Edwards v. McLawhorn, 218 N. C. 543, 11 S. E. (2d) 563.

Statement of Belief in Affidavit. — A statement in an affidavit for the removal of an executor, of a mere belief that he will misappropriate the funds, is not sufficient for removal. It should state the facts or reasons upon which such belief is based. Neighbors v. Hamlin, 78 N. C. 42.

Failure to Discharge Duties — Ground of Removal. — Where the executor becomes bankrupt and is the owner of no property, and has neglected for six years to file an inventory or return of any sort, and has failed to convert the personal property into money, upon application of the creditors he may be required to give bond or, in default, be removed, Barnes v. Brown, 79 N. C. 401; for failure to make statement of account, Armstrong v. Stone, 77 N. C. 362.

Insolvency in Lifetime of Testator. — But an executor who becomes insolvent after the testator's death, and has neglected for six years to file an inventory or return of any sort, and has failed to convert the personal property into money, upon petition of the residuary legatee alleging failure of the executor to account to the estate for rents and profits, and settling of the estate in his hands, is not such evidence of bad faith or fraudulent concealment, a claim of which it must have been intended that the amount of bond should depend upon the application and examination of the principal named in it, unless the clerk preferred to examine another person. Williams v. Neville, 108 N. C. 559, 565, 66 S. E. 390.

Upon the examination of the applicant, the clerk may value the property at a higher figure than he had previously done. Williams v. Neville, 108 N. C. 559, 565, 66 S. E. 390.

Effect of Failure to Give Proper Bond. — The mere fact that the bond of the representative is not justified before or approved by the court, does not render the bond invalid, nor void, or necessarily voidable. The provisions of this section requiring bond are directory and not essential to the appointment. It is only in the exercise of their jurisdictional functions that the clerks must observe these provisions as a condition precedent to the validity of their acts. The only effect of noncompliance with these requirements is that the representative may be made to give a new proper bond required by statute. See In re Knowles' Estate, 148 N. C. 461, 62 S. E. 549.

Disqualification for Adverse Interest. — Where there is no evidence of bad faith or fraudulent concealment, a claim by the administrator that he owned jointly with the decedent a part of the personal estate of the latter, is not such an adverse interest as to disqualify him in his office. Morgan v. Morgan, 156 N. C. 169, 72 S. E. 206.

Pleading and Procedure. — The application to remove an executor may be made by any person, with or without interest of creditors or beneficiaries, upon petition or formal complaint, setting forth the grounds of application supported by affidavit. The allegations thus made may be met by a demurrer in a proper case, or by answer. Edwards v. Cobb, 95 N. C. 4, 5.

Filing of “Final Report” Does Not Create Vacancy. — The filing of a “final report” by an executor does not create a vacancy or title to administer the estate; and pending any suit or proceeding between parties respecting such revocation, the clerk is authorized to make such interlocutory order as, without injury to the rights and remedies of creditors, may tend to the better securing of the estate. Rev., s. 32; Code, s. 1521; 1866-9, c. 113, s. 82; 92, C. S. 32.

Order to Make Return and Settlement. — The removed administrator is ordered to make a complete and immediate return and settlement of the estate in his hands. Until that is done he is within the jurisdiction of the court. In re Brinson, 73 N. C. 278. See also Long v. Weeks, 71 N. C. 166. Where an executor was removed and an administrator de bonis non appointed.

Order to Surrender Funds. — It is proper for the clerk to order the displaced representative to surrender the funds in his possession belonging to the estate. Battle v. Duncan, 90 N. C. 546, 550.

Clerk Cannot Appoint until Vacancy Exists. — Since a person discharging an executor's duties without authority to represent the estate until his death, resignation or until he has been removed or the letters testamentary revoked in accordance with statutory procedure, the appointment of an administrator to make the settlement of the residuary legatee alleging failure of the executor to account to the estate for rents and profits, is void, the clerk being without jurisdiction to make the appointment. Edwards v. McLawhorn, 218 N. C. 543, 11 S. E. (2d) 563.

Amount of Bond Dependent on What. — The framers of the section contemplated that the amount of bond should depend upon the application and examination of the principal named in it, unless the clerk preferred to examine another person. Williams v. Neville, 108 N. C. 559, 565, 66 S. E. 390.

Effect of Failure to Give Proper Bond. — The mere fact that the bond of the representative is not justified before or approved by the court, does not render the bond invalid, nor void, or necessarily voidable. The provisions of this section requiring bond are directory and not essential to the appointment. It is only in the exercise of their jurisdictional functions that the clerks must observe these provisions as a condition precedent to the validity of their acts. The only effect of noncompliance with these requirements is that the representative may be made to give a new proper bond required by statute. See In re Knowles' Estate, 148 N. C. 461, 62 S. E. 549.

Good faith and the exercise of ordinary care and reasonable diligence are all that is required of executors and administrators, and covered by their bond. Moore v. Plotner, 57 N. C. 543, 547; Smith v. Patton, 131 N. C. 396, 42 S. E. 849; Atkinson v. Whitehead, 66 N. C. 296.

Money Recovered Covered by Bond. — Money applied for by an administrator and paid to an administrator, is received under color of his office and is covered by his bond. Lafferty v. Young, 125 N. C. 296, 34 S. E. 444.

Bonds Not Essential. — The execution of a bond, though incidental, is not an essential condition of an order admitting the plaintiff to prosecute an action as administrator. Hughes v. Hodges, 94 N. C. 56, 61.

When a foreign executor was regularly appointed and qualified his failure to give the bond specified by this section is only an irregularity and not an invalidity, and may be remedied by appointment by order of the court. Overtorn, 158 N. C. 395, 74 S. E. 20.

§ 28-34. Bond; approval; condition; penalty. — Every executor from whom a bond is required by law, and every administrator and collector, before letters are issued, must give a bond payable to the state, with two or more sufficient sureties, to be justified before and approved by the clerk, conditioned that such executor, administrator or collector shall faithfully execute the trust reposed in him and obey all lawful orders of the clerk or other court touching the administration of the estate committed to him. Where such bond is executed by personal sureties, the penalty of such bond must be, at least, double the value of all the personal property of the deceased, but where such bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company, the penalty in such bond may be fixed at not less than one and one-fourth times the value of all the personal property of the deceased. The value of said personal property shall be determined by the clerk by examination of the oath, of the applicant or of some other competent person. If the personal property of any decedent is insufficient to pay his debts and the charges of administration, and it becomes necessary for his executor or administrator to apply for the sale of real estate for assets, and the bond previously given is now demanded. But where both of the real and personal estate of the deceased, such executor (if bond is required of him by law) or administrator shall, before or at the time of filing his petition for such sale, give another bond payable and conditioned as the one above prescribed and with like security, in double the value of the real estate for the sale of which application is made, provided, however, that where such bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company, the penalty of said bond need not exceed one and one-fourth times the value of said real estate. (Rev., s. 1388; 1870-1, c. 93; C. C. P., s. 465; 1935, c. 356; C. S. 1935, § 28-35)

Cross Reference.—See when evidence as to default of principal administrable against sureties in actions on bonds of personal representatives, see § 109-38.

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1925 changed the penalty of the bond as formerly prescribed by the second sentence and added the proviso appearing at the end of the section.

Action May Be Brought on Bond to Recover Amount Due Estate.—Where an administrator, who has not fully administered the estate of his intestate, has died or has been removed from his office, an action may be maintained against any of his personal representatives or against him, as the case may be, and the surety on his bond, to recover the amount due by him to the estate of his intestate, by one who has been duly appointed and has duly qualified as administrator d. b. n. of his intestate. Tuluurt v. Hol-lar, 102 N. C. 405, 9 S. E. 430. The failure to account for and to pay such amount is a breach of the statutory bond. State v. Dunn, 206 N. C. 373, 374, 173 S. E. 906. Applied in State v. Purvis, 208 N. C. 227, 180 S. E. 38.

Bankrupt Executor.—When an executor who is no owner of property has become bankrupt and has failed to file an inventory or return, the court (now the clerk) upon application of creditors may require him to give bond or in default remove him. Barnes v. Brown, 79 N. C. 401. But his inventory or return may require him to give bond or enter into bond. (Rev., s. 28; Code, s. 1515; R. C. c. 16, ss. 12, 13; C. S. 34.)

§ 28-36. When executor may give bond after one year.—Where a nonresident of the state by will sufficient according to the laws of the state, and duly probated and recorded in the proper county, devises real property situated in this state, the executor acting under the will, if he has not intermeddled with the property devised in the will, and if no letters of administration in this state on the estate have been issued subsequent to the probate of the will, may, after the expiration of one year from the testator's death, give bond in double the value of the property devised, and he shall then be entitled to all the rights, powers and privileges of a resident executor. (1909, c. 825; C. S. 35.)

§ 28-37. No bond in certain cases of executor with power to convey.—Where a citizen or subject of a foreign country, or of any other state of the United States, by will sufficient according to the laws of this state, and duly probated and recorded in the proper county, devises real property situated in this state, the executor acting under the will, if he has not intermeddled with the property devised in the will, and if no letters of administration in this state on the estate have been issued subsequent to the probate of the will, may, after the expiration of one year from the testator's death, give bond in double the value of the property devised, and he shall then be entitled to all the rights, powers and privileges of a resident executor. (1909, c. 901; 1925, c. 284; C. S. 36.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1925, c. 284, citizens of other states of the United States were brought into the operation of this section.

§ 28-38. No bond where will does not require bond and co-executor a resident.—A nonresident executor appointed under a will which does not require the executor's bond shall not be required to give bond, if a resident of the state is appointed and qualifies as co-executor, unless the clerk of the court of the county where the will is first probated shall, upon the petition of the creditors or beneficiaries of the estate, deem the bond of the nonresident executor necessary for the protection of the creditors or beneficiaries. This section applies to nonresident executors who qualified before its enactment as well as to those qualifying afterwards. (1911, c. 176; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 86; C. S. 37.)

Editor’s Note.—The only effect of the amendment of 1920, c. 86, was to substitute the words “dispenses with the executor’s bond,” near the beginning of this section, for the original words “does not require the executor’s bond.”

§ 28-39. Certain executor’s deeds without bond before 1911 validated.—Where prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, a nonresident executor has sold and conveyed lands in this state under a power in the will of a citizen of another state or of a foreign country, and the will was executed according to the laws of this state and was duly proved and recorded in the state or foreign country where the testator and his family and the executor resided, the sale and conveyance is valid although the executor prior to the execution of the deed had not given bond or obtained letters in this state. (1911, c. 90; C. S. 38.)

Constitutionality.—This section validating conveyances therein referred to is not unconstitutional as impairing a vested right. Vaught v. Williams, 177 N. C. 77, 97 S. E. 737.

§ 28-40. Oath and bond required before letters issue.—Before letters testamentary, letters of administration with the will annexed, letters of administration or letters of collection are issued to any person, he must give the bond required by law and must take and subscribe an oath or affirmation before the clerk, or before any other officer of any state or country authorized by the laws of North Carolina to administer oaths, that he will faithfully and honestly discharge the duties of his trust, which oath must be filed in the office of the clerk. (Rev., s. 29; Code, ss. 1387, 1388, 2169; C. C. P., ss. 467, 468; 1870-1, c. 93; 1923, c. 56; C. S. 39.)

§ 28-41. Oath before notary; curative statute.—In all cases prior to January the first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, in which any foreign executor qualified or attempted to qualify as such executor by taking and subscribing the oath or affirmation required by law, before a notary public of this or any other state or territory of the United States, instead of taking and subscribing said oath or affirmation before the clerk, and having in all other respects complied with the laws of North Carolina prescribed for and pertaining to the qualification and appointment of foreign executors, such qualification and the letters testamentary issued in all such cases are hereby validated and made legal and binding. In all cases mentioned in this section, wherein such foreign executor has entered upon the discharge of the duties of his trust, he has performed any duty or exercised the powers and authority of such office regularly and according to law, except for the defect in the qualification and issuance of letters testamentary, then all such acts of any such foreign executor are validated and are declared to be legal and binding. (1925, c. 19.)

§ 28-42. Right of action on bond.—Every person injured by the breach of any bond given by an executor, administrator or collector may put the same in suit and recover such damages as he may have sustained. (Rev., s. 30; Code, s. 1516; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 87; C. S. 40.)

Only Good Faith Guaranteed.—Bonds of administrators, executors, guardians, etc., guarantee only good faith. Smith v. Patterson, 102 N. C. 290, 291, 9 S. E. 707; Moore v. Eure, 101 N. C. 11, 7 S. E. 471.

Action in Whose Name.—Actions upon the bonds of guardians, administrators, and executors must be brought in the name of the state. Norman v. Walker, 101 N. C. 24, 7 S. E. 468.

In fact actions on all bonds payable to the state must be brought in the name of the state. The statute requiring the real party in interest to prosecute does not apply to such actions. Carmichael v. Moore, 88 N. C. 29.

But the surety is subject to the requirements of the state's name may be obviated by a motion to amend. Wilson v. Pearson, 102 N. C. 290, 291, 7 S. E. 707. Amendment will be allowed even in the Supreme Court. Grant v. Rogers, 94 N. C. 725.

Breach Not Merged in Judgment.—A judgment for damages cannot merge the cause of action. The latter is satisfied only by actual payment. Wilson v. Pearson, 102 N. C. 290, 291, 7 S. E. 707.

Action against Sureties.—An action can be maintained on an administration bond against the sureties before obtaining judgment against the administrator. Chairman of Court v. Moore, 6 N. C. 22; Williams v. Hicks, 5 N. C. 437; Strickland v. Murphy, 23 N. C. 745; Bratton v. Davidson, 79 N. C. 423.

What Constitutes Breach of Bond.—Bonds of administrators, executors, etc., guarantee good faith and reasonable care. Smith v. Patton, 131 N. C. 395, 42 S. E. 849; Moore v. Eure, 101 N. C. 11, 7 S. E. 471; Atkinson v. Whitehead, 66 N. C. 266; Smyre v. Badger, 92 N. C. 706. Executors or administrators may have a right to refuse to pay a claim until the same is established by judgment. Gill v. Davenport, 81 N. C. 311, c. 1614.

Where an administrator pays taxes out of the fund of the estate assessed against his intestate as guardian, it is an improper disbursement and his bond is liable therefor. Worthy v. Brower, 93 N. C. 344. So also where he pays inferior debts. Id.

Where a devastavit is charged the primary liability rests upon the administrator. But a failure to apply for license to sell land for taxes is not itself a breach of such bond. Hawkins v. Carpenter, 88 N. C. 403.

Where an administrator fails to exhibit in court his final account at the end of two years from his qualification, the estate assessed against his intestate as guardian, it is an improper disbursement and his bond is liable therefor. Worthy v. Brower, 93 N. C. 344. So also where he pays inferior debts. Id.

An act of administrator done with the concurrence of the creditor will not entitle the latter to charge the former with a devastavit. Cain v. Hawkins, 50 N. C. 142.

An act of administrator done with the concurrence of the creditor will not entitle the latter to charge the former with a devastavit. Cain v. Hawkins, 50 N. C. 142.

An act of administrator done with the concurrence of the creditor will not entitle the latter to charge the former with a devastavit. Cain v. Hawkins, 50 N. C. 142.

Breach of bond here defined as an act of administrator done with the concurrence of the creditor will not entitle the latter to charge the former with a devastavit. Cain v. Hawkins, 50 N. C. 142.

Suretyship.—Any surety on the bond of an administrator, executor or collector, who is in danger of sustaining loss by his suretyship, may exhibit his petition on oath to the clerk of the superior court wherein the bond was given, setting forth particularly the circumstances of his case, and asking that such executor, administrator or collector be removed from office, or that he give security to indemnify the petitioner against apprehended loss, or that the petitioner be released from responsibility on account of any future breach of the bond. The clerk shall issue a citation to the principal in the bond, requiring him, within ten days after service thereof, to answer the petition. In the case of the surety, if the surety is the estate entitled to relief, he may grant the same in such manner and to such extent as may be just. And if the principal in the bond gives new or additional security, to the satisfaction of the clerk, within such reasonable time as may be required, the clerk may make an order releasing the surety from liability on the bond for any subsequent act, default or misconduct of the principal. (Rev., s. 33; Code, s. 1519; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 90; C. S. 41.)

§ 28-44. On revocation of letters, bond liable to successors.—When the letters of an executor, administrator or collector are revoked, his bond may be prosecuted by the person or persons succeeding to the administration of the estate, and a recovery may be had thereon to the full extent of any damage, not exceeding the penalty of the bond, sustained by the estate of the decedent by the acts or omissions of such executor, administrator or collector, at or before a day to be named in the order revoking the letters. The order revoking the letters must be served on the surety or sureties, and a copy thereof must forthwith be transmitted to the person having charge of the property received and not duly administered. Moneys so recovered shall be assets in the hands of the person recovering them. (Rev., s. 31; Code, s. 1517; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 88; C. S. 42.)

Cross Reference.—See annotations to § 28-42.

Administrator Must Sue.—The administrator de bonis non must first sue on the bond of a defaulting executor who precede him, before he can obtain a license to sell the real estate for the payment of the debts. Carlton v. Byers, 70 N. C. 691. But where the preceding administrator is insolvent, his bond lost, and sureties unknown, the administrator de bonis non need not bring suit before he can obtain such license. Brittain v. Dickson, 104 N. C. 547, 10 S. E. 701.

Action—By Whom Brought.—The action on the bond of the removed representative must be brought by the administrator de bonis non, and not by the next of kin. Tulburt v. Hollar, 102 N. C. 406, 9 S. E. 410.

§ 28-45. When new bond or new sureties required.—If complaint be made on affidavit to the clerk of the superior court that the surety on any bond of an executor, administrator or collector is insufficient, or that one or more of such sureties is or is about to become a nonresident of this state, or that the bond is inadequate in amount, the clerk must issue an order requiring the principal in the bond to show cause why he should not give a new bond, or further security, as the case may be. On the return of the order duly executed, if the objections in the complaint are found valid, the clerk shall make an order requiring the party to give further surety or a new bond in a larger amount within a reasonable time. (Rev., s. 32; Code, s. 1518; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 90; 1927, c. 62, s. 90.)

Mortgage Instead of Bond.—An administrator who is also the heir of the intestate cannot satisfy the requirement of an additional bond or security by mortgaging lands of his intestate, as such lands are already liable for the debts. In re Sellars, 118 N. C. 573, 24 S. E. 490.

voked.—If any person required to give a new bond, or further security, or security to indemnify, under §§ 28-43 and 28-45, fails to do so within the time specified in any such order, the clerk must forthwith revoke the letters issued to such person, whose right and authority, respecting the estate, shall thereupon cease. (Rev., s. 34; Code, s. 1520; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 91; C. S. 44.)

Notice to Show Cause Essential.—A judgment removing a public administrator or collector, pursuant to the clause in the bond, without notice to show cause, is not only irregular but void. Trotter v. Mitchell, 115 N. C. 190, 20 S. E. 386.

Clerk Has Jurisdiction.—The clerks of the superior courts have jurisdiction of proceedings for the removal of executors and administrators. Edwards v. Cobb, 95 N. C. 4.

Art. 9. Notice to Creditors.

§ 28-47. Advertisement for claims.—Every executor, administrator and collector, within twenty days after the granting of letters, shall notify all persons having claims against the decedent to the same in such manner and to such extent as may be just. And if the principal in the bond gives new or additional security, to the satisfaction of the clerk, within such reasonable time as may be required, the clerk may make an order releasing the surety from liability on the bond for any subsequent act, default or misconduct of the principal. (Rev., s. 39; Code, ss. 1421, 1422; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 29; 1881, c. 278, s. 2; C. S. 45.)

Local Modification.—Nash: 1931, c. 64.

Cost of Claim.—The last sentence of this section formerly provided "The cost of publishing in a paper shall in no case exceed two dollars and fifty cents". This provision was enacted by the Revisal of 1905, and appeared in all codes since that time. Section 1-596, which provides in substance that payment for legal advertising shall not be in excess of the local commercial rate of the newspaper selected, was enacted by F. L. 1919, c. 45, and had the effect of repealing the two dollar and fifty cent provision in view of the fact that section 1-596 was enacted by the General Assembly of 1919 and it was provided by C. S. 915 that "all papers and any other means of advertising the publication of the general assembly shall be deemed to repeal any conflicting provisions contained in the Consolidated Statutes." Therefore, the provisions of section 1-596 control the publication cost.

Time of Presenting Claims.—Before distribution of the estate to the next of kin, it is the duty of the administrator or collector to pay the debts of the estate, provided such debts may have made in good faith. Mallard v. Patterson, 192 N. C. 255, 13 S. E. 93.

Advertisement Essential to Bar Claims.—The mere lapse of time does not bar the creditor's claims against the estate. Only where the advertisement provided under this section has been made does the statute of limitation begin to run. Love v. Ingram, 104 N. C. 600, 10 S. E. 77. But see, Morissette v. Britton, 127 N. C. 57, 37 S. E. 474; Love v. Ingram, supra. But see, Morissette v. Hill, supra.

Cited, in Park View Hospital Ass'n v. Peoples Bank, etc., Co. 211 N. C. 244, 189 S. E. 706.

§ 28-48. Proof of advertisement.—A copy of the advertisement directed to be posted or published in pursuance of § 28-47, with an affidavit, taken before some person authorized to administer oaths, of the proprietor, editor or foreman of the newspaper wherein the same appeared, to the effect that such notice was published for six weeks in said newspaper, or an affidavit stating that such notices were posted, shall be filed in the office of the clerk by the executor, administrator or collector. The affidavit or affidavit shall be deemed a record of the court, and a copy thereof, duly certified by the clerk, shall be received as conclusive evidence of the fact of publication in all the courts of this state. (Rev., s. 40; Code, s. 1423; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 31; C. S. 46.)

Necessity of Proof.—When an administrator pleads to a bill the provision of law which prescribes the time of bringing suits against him, he is bound to show by proof that he advertised as required by the statute. Gilliam v. Willey, 54 N. C. 128.

§ 28-49. Personal notice to creditor.—The executor, administrator or collector may cause the notice to be personally served on any creditor, who shall, thereupon, within six months after personal service thereof, exhibit his claim, or be forever barred from maintaining any action thereon. (Rev., s. 41; Code, s. 1424; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 32; 1885, c. 96; C. S. 47.)

Cross Reference.—See annotations under § 28-47.

Art. 10. Inventory.

§ 28-50. Inventory within three months.—Every executor, administrator and collector, within three months after his qualification, shall return to the clerk, on oath, a just, true and perfect inventory of all the real estate, goods and chattels of the deceased, which have come to his hands, or which he is of any manner charged for him, which inventory shall be signed by him and be recorded by the clerk. He shall also return to the clerk, on oath, within three months after each sale made by him, a full and itemized account thereof, which shall be signed by him and recorded by the clerk. (Rev., s. 42; Code, s. 1396; R. C., c. 46, s. 16; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 8; C. S. 48.)

Conclusiveness of Inventory.—An inventory is but prima facie evidence to charge the executor with assets, so as to call on him to prove to rebut it. Hoover v. Miller, 51 N. C. 79. It is prima facie evidence of the solvency of persons owing debts to the estate and described in the inventory. It may be shown that the personal representative made errors in describing and noting the debts. But it seems that it is not evidence against an administrator de bonis non. Grant v. Reese, 94 N. C. 720.

Statement of Doubtful Debts.—Where an executor returns an inventory of debts without stating that some of the debts are doubtful, he will be held responsible for them, unless he can show that there were set offs against them, or that the debtors were insolvent. Graham v. Davidson, 22 N. C. 155. But where he inventories them as "doubtful", prima facie he will not be chargeable with them. Coan v. S. E. Ed. Co., 44 N. C. 490, s. 8; W. C. 289.

Return of Joint Executors.—Either one of joint executors making a joint return of inventory are answerable for what appears therein, if it does not show what came to the hand of the other alone. Graham v. Davidson, 22 N. C. 155.

Barred of Commissions.—Failure to file an inventory coupled with acts of gross negligence and want of care in the conduct of the estate, will disbar the personal representative of his right to commissions. Grant v. Reese, 94 N. C. 720; Stonestreet v. Frost, 125 N. C. 640, 31 S. E. 636.

Removal from Office.—Where the executor failed to file the inventory required and was also guilty of other acts of mismanagement it was held that he could be compelled to give bond and be removed from his office. Barnes v. Brown, 79 N. C. 401.

May Be Compelled to Account or File Inventory.—If the personal representative has failed to file his inventory or his accounts, he can be compelled to do so upon application to the superior court. Atkinson v. Ricks, 140 N. C. 418, 51 S. E. 230.

Transfer of Funds to Other Jurisdiction.—The inventory required by this section must be filed before the transfer of money to another jurisdiction. Grant v. Rogers, 94 N. C. 755, 762.

§ 28-51. Compelling the inventory.—If the inventory and account of sale specified in § 28-50 are not returned as therein prescribed, the clerk must issue an order requiring the executor, administrator or collector to file the same within the time specified in the order, which shall not be less than twenty days, or to show cause why an attachment should not be issued against him. If, after due service of such order, the executor, administrator, or collector does not, in the return day of the order, file such inventory or account of sale, or obtain further time to file the same, the clerk shall have power to vacate the office of administrator, executor or collector. And under all proceedings provided for in this section, the defaulting executor, administrator or collector shall be personally liable for the costs of such proceeding to be taxed against him by the clerk of the superior court, or deducted from any commissions which may be found due such executor, administrator or collector upon final settlement of the estate. And the sheriffs of the several counties to whom a process is directed under the provisions of this section shall serve the same without demanding their fees in advance. (Rev., s. 43; Code, s. 1397; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 9; 1929, c. 9, s. 1; 1933, c. 100; C. S. 49.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added next to the last sentence to this section. Public Laws 1933, c. 100 added the last sentence of this section as it now reads.

Clerk's Original Jurisdiction.—Under this section the clerk has original jurisdiction remove the representative for not filing the inventory required. Edwards v. Cobb, 95 N. C. 4, 8.

Clerk Has Power to Remove even Independent of Statute.—The clerk has power of removal for the failure of the administrator to discharge the duties of his office as prescribed by law and even when invoking the aid of statute the power of removal is inherent in the office at common law, and must of necessity be so to prevent a failure of justice. Taylor v. Biddle, 71 N. C. 1, 5.

§ 28-52. New assets inventoried.—When further property of any kind, not included in any previous return, comes to the hands or knowledge of any executor, administrator or collector, he must cause the same to be returned, as hereinbefore prescribed, within three months after the possession or discovery thereof; and the making of such return of new assets, from time to time, may be enforced in the same manner as the case of the first inventory. (Rev., s. 44; Code, s. 1398; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 10; C. S. 50.)

§ 28-53. Trustees in wills to file inventories and accounts.—Trustees appointed in any will admitted to probate in this state, into whose hands assets come under the provisions of the will, shall file in the office of the clerk of the county where the will is probated inventories of the assets and annual and final accounts thereof, such as are required of executors and administrators. The power of the clerk to enforce the filing and his duties in respect to audit and record shall be the same as in such cases. This section shall not apply to any will in which a different provi-
Art. 11. Assets.

§ 28-54. Distinction between legal and equitable assets abolished.—The distinction between legal and equitable assets is abolished. All assets, whether real or personal, that accrue after the death of a deceased, and all assets shall be applied in the discharge of debts in the manner prescribed by this chapter. (Rev., s. 45; Code, s. 1406; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 14; C. S. 53.)

What Constitutes Assets — Rents Liable for Debts.—The rents on devised land may be subject to the personal representative to the payment of the debts of deceased. (Rev., s. 50; Code, s. 1404; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 15; C. S. 54.)

Same—Rent Accruing before and after Death.—Rent due for the occupation of an equitable estate in land, in the lifetime of the cestui que trust, goes to his personal representative, that accruing after his death goes to his heirs. Fleming v. Chunn, 57 N. C. 422; Rogers v. McKenzie, 65 N. C. 218.

Same — All Chattels Assets.—All the chattels of an intestate are assets, if the administrator by reasonable diligence might have possessed himself, of them. Gray v. Swain, 9 N. C. 1.

Same—Pension for Pension Not Asset.—A warrant for a pension issued after death of pensioner does not become a part of his assets, but must be returned to the state for cancellation. In re Smith, 130 N. C. 41 S. E. 858.

Same—Lands as Assets.—Land is not an asset until it is sold and the proceeds received by the personal representative. Wilson v. Bynum, 92 N. C. 718; Fike v. Green, 64 N. C. 375; Dugger v. Wool, 65 N. C. 379; Hawkins v. Carpenter, 89 N. C. 603.

§ 28-55. Trust estate in personalty.—If there are not sufficient real and personal assets of the deceased to satisfy all the debts and liabilities of deceased, together with the costs and charges of administration, the personal representative shall have the right to sue for and recover any and all personal property which the deceased may in any wise have transferred or conveyed with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors, and any money or property so recovered shall constitute assets of the estate in the hands of the personal representative for the payment of debts. But if the fraudulent alienee of deceased has sold the property or estate so fraudulently acquired by him to a bona fide purchaser for value without notice of the fraud, then such fraudulent alienee shall be liable to the personal representative for the value of the property and estate so acquired and disposed of. If the whole recovery from any fraudulent alienee of a decedent shall not be necessary for the payment of the debts of decedent and the costs and charges of administration of his estate, the surplus shall be returned to such fraudulent alienee or his assigns. (Rev., s. 50; C. S. 57.)

Cross References.—As to recover, see § 39-15 et seq.

§ 28-56. Crops ungathered at death.—The crops of every deceased person, remaining ungathered at his death, shall, in all cases, belong to the executor, administrator or collector, as part of the personal assets, and shall not pass to the widow with the land assigned as dower; nor to the devisee by virtue of any devise of the land, unless such intent be manifest and specified in the will. (Rev., s. 47; Code, s. 1408-9; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 11; C. S. 53.)

§ 28-57. Proceeds of real estate sold to pay debts are personal assets.—All proceeds arising from the sale of real property, for the payment of debts, as hereinafter provided, shall be deemed personal assets in the hands of the executor, administrator or collector, and applied as though the proceeds were the proceeds of personal estate. (Rev., s. 48; Code, s. 1404; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 12; C. S. 55.)

§ 28-58. Surplus of proceeds of real estate sold for debts is real asset.—All proceeds from the sale of real estate, as hereinafter provided, which may not be necessary to pay debts and charges of administration, shall, notwithstanding, be considered real assets, and as such shall be paid by the executor, administrator or collector to such persons as would have been entitled to the land had it not been sold. (Rev., s. 49; Code, s. 1405; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 13; C. S. 56.)

Cross References.—As to assignments to § 28-57.

§ 28-60. Debt due from executor not discharged by appointment.—The appointing of any person executor shall not be a discharge of any debt demanded from such person to the testator. (Rev., s. 51; Code, s. 1431; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 40; C. S. 58.)

Appendix to Executor whether He Acts or Not.—This section applies to any executor who acts as well as to one who does not act under the appointment. Moore v. Miller, 62 N. C. 339.
All persons succeeding to the real or personal property of a decedent, by inheritance, devise, bequest or distribution, shall be liable jointly, but not separately, for the debts of such decedent. (Rev., s. 52; Code, s. 1528; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 99; C. S. 50.)

Editor's Note. — Not only persons succeeding to the property of the deceased are jointly liable (to the proper extent) for the payment of the debts, but also third persons to whom the debt was讓人ted. See § 28-93. Persons liable for debts to observe priorities. — Every person who is liable for the debts of a decedent must observe the same preferences in the payment thereof as are established in this chapter; nor shall the commencement of an action by a creditor give his debt any preference over others. (Rev., s. 55; Code, s. 1531; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 101; C. S. 61.)

Cross Reference. — As to provision prohibiting creation of lien by suit against representative, see § 28-114 et seq.

§ 28-62. Persons liable for debts to observe priorities.—Every person who is liable for the debts of a decedent must observe the same preferences in the payment thereof as are established in this chapter; nor shall the commencement of an action by a creditor give his debt any preference over others. (Rev., s. 55; Code, s. 1531; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 101; C. S. 61.)

Cross Reference. — As to provision prohibiting creation of lien by suit against representative, see § 28-114 et seq.

§ 28-63. Judgment against heirs, etc., apportioned; costs.—In any such action the recovery must be apportioned in proportion to the assets or property received by each defendant, and judgment against each must be entered accordingly. Costs in such actions must be apportioned among the several defendants, in proportion to the amount of the recovery against each of them. (Rev., s. 54; Code, s. 1530; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 101; C. S. 61.)

Cross Reference. — As to provision prohibiting creation of lien by suit against representative, see § 28-114 et seq.

§ 28-65. Existence of other debts of prior or equal class.—The defendants in such action may show that there are unsatisfied debts of a prior class or of the same class with that in suit. If it appears that the value of the property acquired by them does not exceed the debts of a prior class, judgment must be rendered in their favor. If it appears that the value of the property acquired by them exceeds the amount of debts which are entitled to a preference over the debt in suit, the whole amount which the plaintiff shall recover is only such a portion of the excess as is a just proportion to the other debts of the same class with that in suit. (Rev., s. 56; Code, s. 1532; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 101; C. S. 63.)

Who Are Defendants. — Debts against deceased persons must be sued by civil action against the personal representative. Hence the "defendants" referred to in this section are the executors and administrators. The phrase "the value of property acquired by them," refers to assets in the hands of the representative. Heilig v. Board, 64 N. C. 710, 712.

§ 28-66. Debts paid taken as unpaid as against heirs, etc.—If any debts of a prior class to that in which the suit is brought, or of the same class, have been paid by any defendant, the amount of the debts so paid shall be estimated, in ascertaining the amount to be recovered, in the same manner as if such debts were outstanding and unpaid, as prescribed in § 28-65. (Rev., s. 57; Code, s. 1533; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 104; C. S. 64.)

§ 28-67. Compelling contribution among heirs, etc.—The remedy to compel contribution shall be by petition or action in the superior court or before the judge in term time against the personal representatives, devisees, legatees, and heirs also of the decedent if any part of the real estate be undivided, within two years after probate of the will, and setting forth the facts which entitle the party to relief; and the costs shall be within the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 58; Code, s. 5808.)

Section an Exception to Certain Rule.—The remedy given by this section is an exception to the rule that in actions for devisees, and heirs to whom undevised land has descended. It has no application to contributions among common who claim by descent. Wharton v. Wilkerson, 92 N. C. 408, 414.

§ 28-68. Payment to clerk of sums not exceeding $300 due and owing intestates.—Where any person dies intestate and at the time of his or her death there is a sum of money owing to the said intestate not in excess of three hundred dollars, such sum may be paid into the hands of the clerk of the superior court, whose receipt for same shall be a full and complete release and discharge for such debt or debts, and the said clerk of the superior court is authorized and empowered to pay out such sum or sums in the following manner: First, for satisfaction of widow's year's allowance, after same has been assigned in accordance with law, if such be claimed; second, for payment of funeral expenses, and if there be any surplus the same to be disposed of as is now provided by law. This section shall apply to the counties of Randolph, Guilford, Edgecombe, Cabarrus, Iredell, Moore, Johnston, Rutherford, Stanly, Davidson, Currituck, Yadkin, Alexander, Stokes, Clay, Greene, Wayne, Franklin, Macon, Beaufort, Swain, Haywood, Caldwell, Burke, Gates, Rockingham, Graham, Lee, Person, Catawba, Davie, Tarrell, Perquimans, Transylvania, Duplin, Hyde, Pender, Surry, Alamance, Lincoln, Granville, Chowan, Hoke, Vance, Montgomery, Durham, Wake, Hartnett, Buncombe, Union, Onslow, Nash, Halifax, Hertford, Mecklenburg, Robeson, Orange, Pasquotank, McDowell, Rowan, New Hanover, Martin, Forsyth, Polk, Warren, Caswell, Yancey, Wilkes, and Lenoir counties.

Editor's Note.—The purpose of this section is to expedi the settlement of a decedent's estate by permitting the representative to discover assets of the estate through and upon the authority of the probate court without hav ing to resort, independently, to the rather slow and expensiv process of claim and delivery proceedings. As the section seems to provide only for the situation where a party "admits" that the property held belongs to the dec edent's estate and refuses for an inadequate reason to give it up, it would seem that the representative would still have to utilize claim and delivery proceedings in the case where the party in possession of the property denies that it belongs to the estate of the deceased. It is doubtful that the section would, by inference, authorize the clerk to try the title to such property. 15 N. C. Law Rev., 352.
Art. 13. Sales of Personal Property.

§ 28-73. Executor or administrator may sell without court order.—Every executor and administrator shall have power in his discretion and without court order.—Every executor and administrator shall have power in his discretion and without court order. (Rev., s. 63; Code, s. 1408; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 16; C. S. 66.)

For Application of Proceeds Purchaser Not Responsible.—A purchaser of personalty from the personal representative does not, by virtue of the latter's absolute power to dispose of the personalty, have to see to the proper application of the purchase price. This, even though the decedent has created a particular separate fund for the payment of his debts. But if the purchase be tainted with collusion, he will be held responsible for its proper application. Tyrrell v. Armistead, 41 N. C. 74; Cox v. First Nat. Bank, 119 N. C. 40, 305, 26 S. E. 22; Odell v. House, 16 N. C. 422, 427.

§ 28-74. Collector may sell only on order of court.—All sales of personal property by collectors shall be made only upon order obtained, by motion, from the clerk of the superior court, who shall specify in his order a descriptive list of the property to be sold. (Rev., s. 61; Code, s. 1409; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 17; C. S. 67.)

§ 28-75. Terms and notice of public sale.—All public sales of personal property by executors, administrators or collectors shall be made on credit or for cash after twenty days' notification posted at the court house and four public places in the county. The purchaser gets good title, unless he purchased mala fide and for the purpose of devastavit. Polk v. Robinson, 41 N. C. 235; Wilson v. Doster, 42 N. C. 231. Where he receives from the personal representative of the decedent the transaction is presumably mala fide. Hendrick v. Ginley, 114 N. C. 543, 546, 19 S. E. 598; Dancy v. Duncan, 96 N. C. 111, 117, 1 S. E. 455; Wilson v. Doster, supra; Latham v. Moore, 39 N. C. 167.

Editor's Note.—This section was rewritten by the codifiers and, as rewritten, adopted by the General Assembly of 1943. As formerly written, it seemed to require that all sales of personal property should be publicly made. The view expressed in Pate v. Kennedy, 104 N. C. 234, 10 S. E. 188, that this statute, as formerly written, was mandatory, has not been accepted in later cases, and it is now well established that a personal representative may sell at private sale under certain prescribed conditions. Felton v. Felton, 213 N. C. 194, 195 S. E. 533. See also § 28-76.

The case of Wynns v. Alexander, 22 N. C. 58, held that the common-law rule on this point is not repealed by this section and that the section is merely directory. See also Dickson v. Crawford, 112 N. C. 629, 17 S. E. 158; Cox v. First Nat. Bank, 119 N. C. 302, 305, 26 S. E. 22; Odell v. House, 144 N. C. 647, 648, 57 S. E. 395.

§ 28-76. Clerk may order private sale in certain cases; advance bids.—Whenever the executor or administrator of any estate shall be of the opinion that the interests of said estate will be promoted and conserved by selling the personal property belonging to it at private sale instead of selling same at public sale, such executor or administrator may, upon a duly verified application to the clerk of the Superior Court, obtain an order to sell, and may sell, such personal property at private sale for the best price that can be obtained, and shall report such sales to the clerk for confirmation; and upon satisfactory proof that said personal property has been sold for a fair and adequate price, such sale shall be confirmed by the said clerk.

Clerk may order private sale in certain cases; advance bids.—Whenever the executor or administrator of any estate shall be of the opinion that the interests of said estate will be promoted and conserved by selling the personal property belonging to it at private sale instead of selling same at public sale, such executor or administrator may, upon a duly verified application to the clerk of the Superior Court, obtain an order to sell, and may sell, such personal property at private sale for the best price that can be obtained, and shall report such sales to the clerk for confirmation; and upon satisfactory proof that said personal property has been sold for a fair and adequate price, such sale shall be confirmed by the said clerk.

The said sale or sales of personal property shall not be deemed closed under ten days from the filing of such report; and if in ten days from the filing of such report the sale price is increased by the deposit of ten (10) per cent with the said clerk, the said clerk shall order a new sale thereof. The clerk may in his discretion, require the person making such advance bid to execute a good and sufficient bond in a sufficient amount to guarantee compliance with his said offer. If no advance bid is offered for the property and if no exception is filed thereto within said period of ten (10) days, the same shall be confirmed.

Where the estate consists in whole or in part of perishable property the executor or administrator may sell such perishable property at private sale without order or confirmation by the clerk of the Superior Court.

Editor's Note.—The 1925 Act repealed the former law and substituted in lieu thereof the first, second, and third paragraphs. The 1939 Act added the last paragraph. See also 4 N. C. L. Eng., § 28-76.

Liability of Fiduciary.—If the fiduciary sells at public sale the price actually obtained is his justification. But if he sells at a private sale, he is liable for the true value, without reference to the price obtained. Cannon v. Jenkins, 16 N. C. 422, 427.

Thus, in the absence of fraud or collusion, notes may be sold at private sale. But the burden of proof of fair and full price, in such a case, rests upon the representative Odell v. House, 144 N. C. 647, 57 S. E. 395.

Editors note.—The 1925 Act repealed the former law and substituted in lieu thereof the first, second, and third paragraphs. The 1939 Act added the last paragraph. See also 4 N. C. L. Eng., § 28-76.

Effect of Section upon Discretion of Judge and Clerk.—The provisions of this section do not take away from the clerk or judge on appeal, the sound discretionary power of determining whether a public or a private sale would best subserve the interests of the parties, or prevent them from selling at a private sale in proper cases. The section is permissive and not mandatory upon them. In re Brown's Estate, 185 N. C. 398, 117 S. E. 291; Felton v. Felton, 213 N. C. 194, 195 S. E. 531.

Editors note.—The 1925 Act repealed the former law and substituted in lieu thereof the first, second, and third paragraphs. The 1939 Act added the last paragraph. See also 4 N. C. L. Eng., § 28-76.

Refusal to Confirm.—In an appeal upon refusal to confirm the sale under this section, the presumption is that there was sufficient evidence to sustain the findings of fact upon which the refusal is based. In re Brown's Estate, 185 N. C. 128, 117 S. E. 291.
§ 28-77. Confirmation required on objection of interested party.—When any person interested, either as creditor or legatee, on the day of sale objects to the confirmation of any sale made by the personal representative, the court, after the report of the sale, shall name a time for the confirmation, and the court shall hold a hearing thereon. See Alexander v. Atlantic, et al., Co., 144 N. C. 83, 56 S. E. 697.

The proviso as to the hours designated was added by the Public Laws of 1927, Art. 14, Sales of Real Property.

§ 28-78. Hours of public sale; penalty.—All public sales or rentings provided for in this chapter shall be between the hours of ten o'clock a. m. and four o'clock p. m. of the day on which the sale or renting is to be made, except that in towns or cities of more than five thousand inhabitants public sales of goods, wares, and merchandise may be continued until the hour of ten o'clock at night. Provided, a certain hour for such sales shall be named and the sale shall begin within one hour after the time fixed, unless postponed as provided by law, or delayed by other sales; and every executor, administrator or collector who otherwise makes any sale or renting shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any person suing for the same. (Rev., s. 66; Code, s. 1411; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 21; C. S. 71.)

§ 28-79. Confirmation required on objection of interested party.—When any person interested, either as creditor or legatee, on the day of sale objects to the confirmation of any sale made by the personal representative, the court, after the report of the sale, shall name a time for the confirmation, and the court shall hold a hearing thereon. See Alexander v. Atlantic, et al., Co., 144 N. C. 83, 56 S. E. 697.

The proviso as to the hours designated was added by the Public Laws of 1927, Art. 14, Sales of Real Property.
the widow from claiming her dower right by metes and bounds in her husband's land: Provided, further, if the person entitled to said dower shall not claim the same by metes and bounds in her husband's lands, or elect to receive the income from one-third of the net proceeds of said sale, within the time allowed by law for filing pleadings in such special proceeding, such person shall be presumed to have elected to receive such dower interest in cash as provided in this section.

Where land is sold as provided in this section, and in lieu of paying cash therefor the purchaser executes a note or mortgage payable to the order of the decedent, there shall be paid to the widow from claiming her dower right by metes and bounds in the husband's lands, or elect to receive the income in such special proceeding, such person shall be entitled to receive the income within the time allowed by law for filing pleadings in such special proceeding, such person shall be presumed to have elected to receive such dower interest in cash as provided in this section.

Proceedings for the sale of the real estate of a decedent brought by his personal representative to create assets with which to pay debts must be instituted in the county where the land or part thereof lies. If the land to be sold consists of one or more contiguous tracts lying in more than one county or consists of two or more separate tracts lying in different counties, proceedings may be instituted in any county in which any part of the land is situated, and the court of such county wherein the proceedings for sale are first brought shall have jurisdiction to proceed to a final disposition of said proceedings as if all of said land were situated in the county where the proceedings were instituted. Where the land to be sold consists of one or more contiguous tracts lying in more than one county, said land shall be advertised in all counties in which any part of said land lies, but the sale shall be conducted at the courthouse door of the county in which the proceedings were instituted. Proceedings for sale are first brought shall have jurisdiction to proceed to a final disposition of said proceedings as if all of said land were situated in the county where the proceedings were instituted. Where the land consists of two or more distinct tracts lying in different counties, each tract shall be advertised in and sold at the courthouse door of the county in which it lies. Certified copies of the proceedings under the seal of the court of the county in which the proceedings were instituted, together with certified copies of the letters testamentary or letters of administration of the personal representative, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of each county, where in any part of the land lies and shall be recorded in the record of orders and decrees in special proceedings in said office. (Rev. s. 68; Code, s. 1436; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 42; 1923, c. 55; 1935, c. 43; 1937, c. 70; 1943, c. 637; C. S. 74.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment inserted that part of the third sentence of the third paragraph beginning with the words: "Provided, further, if..."

The amendment would meet the demands of convenience where the part of the land to be sold is situated in a county different from that in which the proceedings for sale were instituted. It is likely that more interested purchasers will be found in the county where the land lies. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 352.

The provisions relating to the widow's dower were inserted by the Public Laws of 1923, ch. 393, s. 5.

The amendment of 1935 added the third paragraph as it appeared before the 1937 amendment.

The 1945 amendment rewrote the second sentence of the first paragraph and inserted the second paragraph.
If the personality has been wasted by the representative, his successor must first resort to his bond before proceeding against the lands. Lilly v. Wooley, 94 N. C. 412; Cifflin v. Saunders, 67 N. C. 241; and the jurisdiction of the clerk is thereby suspended, and real property of the decedent remained subject to sale, to Sell Realty.—As long as the estate remained unsettled, limitation bars the right and duty of the personal representative to sell lands to make assets to pay the debts of the estate without showing its actual application is sufficient. Clement v. Cozart, 107 N. C. 695, 12 S. E. 254. Though not shown, where the former is insolvent, his bond lost, and sureties unknown. Brittain v. Dickson, 104 N. C. 547, 10 S. E. 701; Brittain v. Pritchard, 88 N. C. 445; Clement v. Cozart, 107 N. C. 695, 697, 12 S. E. 704.

When Application Filed.—The application may be filed at any time after the administrator ascertains that there is an insufficiency of assets, even before he can possibly support the personal representative, or file the application of it to the debtor. Blount v. Pritchard, 88 N. C. 445.

Notice to Creditors.—No notice to creditors is required to be given under this section. Thompson v. Cox, 53 N. C. 311.

Compulsory Sale by Judgment Creditor.—After the docking of the judgment, the judgment debtor conveyed the property. After the death of the judgment debtor, execution was issued, and the judgment creditor instituted this action to compel the sheriff to sell the land under the execution, to arrive at the debts to which the judgment debtor was not warranted by law, and the sale thereof would be void. Flynn v. Runley, 212 N. C. 25, 192 S. E. 808.

The Federal District Court has jurisdiction of a bill in equity by the United States to subject to payment a judgment land situated in this state which had descended to the heirs of the judgment debtor, there being no personal assets. United States v. Mudd, 254 Fed. 872.

Nature of Proceedings.—A proceeding to sell the land under this section is a special proceeding before the clerk.
§ 28-82. When representatives authorized to rent, borrow or mortgage.—Such executor, administrator or collector, in lieu of asking for an order to determine the whole matter. Baker v. Carter, 127 N. C. 92, 94, 37 S. E. 81.

§ 28-82. When representatives authorized to rent, borrow or mortgage.—Such executor, administrator or collector, in lieu of asking for an order authorizing him to rent out the same for a term of not exceeding three years, and if it appears to the court that the best interests of the heirs at law and devisees of the deceased will be promoted by granting such order and that it is probable that the rents derived from the real estate during the term will be sufficient to pay off and discharge the debts and the costs of the administration, the superior court may, with the consent of the creditors, make such order upon such terms as may be best for the heirs at law, devisees and creditors of the estate; or if it is made to appear to the court that such executor, administrator or collector is able to borrow sufficient money with which to pay off and discharge all valid and just claims against the estate of the deceased, then the court shall have the power to authorize such executor or administrator to borrow money for the purpose of paying off and discharging such claims and authorizing him to rent the real estate for a term not exceeding three years and to apply the rents to the repayment of the money thus borrowed, and the said estate shall be and remain liable for the payment of such sums as may be borrowed under such order of the court to the same extent and no further as the estate was liable for the indebtedness of the deceased to pay off and discharge the debt for which the said sums were borrowed. All orders made by the court pursuant to this section shall be approved by the judge residing in or holding the courts of the district in which such county is situated.

In lieu of renting said property or borrowing on the general credit of the estate, as hereinbefore authorized, the said executor, or administrator, may apply by petition, verified by oath, to the Superior Court, showing that the interest of the beneficiaries of the estate, for which he is executor or administrator, would be materially promoted by mortgaging the said estate, in whole or in part to secure funds to be used for the benefit of said estate, setting out the application to be made of the proceeds of said loan and if all or a part of its creditors have agreed to accept an amount less than the full amount of their debt that fact shall appear, which proceeding shall be conducted as in other cases of special proceedings: and the truth of the matter alleged in the petition having been ascertained by satisfactory proof, a decree may thereupon be made that a mortgage be made by such executor or administrator, in his representative capacity, in such way and on such terms as may be most advantageous to the interest of said estate: but no mortgage shall be made until approved by the judge of the court, nor shall the same be valid unless the order or decree therefor is confirmed and directed by the judge and the proceeds of the mortgage shall be exclusively applied and secured to such purposes and on such trusts as the judge shall specify: Provided, the proceeds from said sale shall be used exclusively for the discharge of all existing creditors, except such as shall file a writing in said cause agreeing to other terms set out in said writing.

The said executor or administrator shall not mortgage the property of said estate for a term of years in excess of the term fixed by the court in its decree. The word "mortgage" wherever used herein, shall be construed to include "deeds of trust." (Acts 1913, c. 49, s. 1; 1927, c. 225, s. 1; C. S. 75.)

When an administrator, in good faith, petitioning the mortgagor or property of the estate to pay debts, personally pays the debts of the estate, he is entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the creditors whose debts he has paid, and upon the execution of the mortgage, upon order of court, is entitled to repay himself from the proceeds of the loan. Caffey v. Osborne, 210 N. C. 252, 186 S. E. 364.

§ 28-83. Conveyance of lands by heirs within two years voidable; judicial sale for partition.—All conveyances of real property of any decedent made by any devisee or heir at law within two years of the death of the decedent shall be void as to the creditors, executors, administrators and collectors of such decedent, except as hereinafter provided, but such conveyances to bona fide purchasers for value and without notice, if made after two years from the death of the decedent, shall be valid even as against creditors: Provided, that if the decedent was a non-resident, such conveyances shall not be valid unless made after two years from the grant of letters. But such conveyances shall be valid, if made five years from the death of a non-resident decedent, notwithstanding no letters testamentary or letters of administration shall have been granted. Such conveyances, if made before the expiration of the time required by this section to have elapsed in order for same to be valid as against creditors, shall, upon the expiration of such time, become good and valid to the same extent as if made after the expiration of such time, unless in the meantime an action or proceeding shall have been instituted in the proper court to subject the land therein described to payment of the decedent's debts.

A judicial sale of real property of a decedent hereafter made under order of a court of competent jurisdiction for partition shall be valid as to creditors, executors, administrators and collectors of such decedent irrespective of the time made. If such sale is made within two years of death of such decedent or before the estate shall have been fully administered, the personal representative of such decedent must be joined as plaintiff or made a party defendant. The court shall in the order of confirmation of any sale made within two years of the death of a decedent set aside such part of the proceeds of sale representing the interest of such decedent for application upon the debts, if any, of the decedent by requiring payment of the same into the hands of such personal representative or of the court itself, to be held by such personal representative or the court subject to claims of creditors for a period of two years from date of death of decedent, or until such estate is fully administered. Personal representatives shall be allowed commissions on only so much of said proceeds of sale, so coming into their hands, as may be necessary to discharge the trusts of creditors. (Rev., s. 70; Code, s. 1449; 1868-9, c. 118, s. 105; 1925, c. 355; 1939, c. 106; 1943, c. 411, 763; C. S. 746.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 made the limitation begin to run from the date of the decedent's death rather than from the grant of letters and added the proviso to the first sentence. The 1941 amendment inserted the second sentence of the first paragraph. For comment on the 1939 amendatory act, see 17 N. C. L. Rev. 359.

The first 1943 amendment inserted in the first sentence the words "except as hereinafter provided." It also added the last sentence of the first paragraph. The amendatory act, which was ratified March 3, 1943, provided: "This act shall apply to conveyances heretofore made as well as to those hereafter made, except that conveyances heretofore made, if invalid at that time, shall not in any event become valid as against creditors until expiration of six months from the ratification of this act."

The second 1941 amendment added the second paragraph.

Many of the following cases were decided prior to the 1935 amendment which fact accounts for the references to two years from grant of letters rather than to two years from death of decedent.

Only Purchaser without Notice Protected. — Prior to 1869, a purchaser from the heirs after 2 years of the grant of letters, even though he have notice of the existence of the debt, is protected by the words of Section 28-81 supra.

Heirs LIABLE for the Price. — The heirs having sold the land after 2 years of the grant of letters, are liable to the creditor for the price received, and for the whole price, not for aliquot shares of the debt. Hinton v. Whitehurst, 71 N. C. 66; Davis v. Perry, 96 N. C. 260, 1 S. E. 610. Armstrong v. Powell, 97 N. C. 155, 166, 2 S. E. 235.

Conditionally Void. — The conveyances under this section, are only conditionally void, i. e., contingent upon the personal estate proving insufficient to pay the debts. Davis v. Perry, 96 N. C. 260, 1 S. E. 610. See also First Nat. Bank v. Zollicoffer, 199 N. C. 620, 623, 155 S. E. 449.

Conveyances of real property within two years from the grant of letters, are sufficient to discharge the debts of the decedent, and personal representatives, and as to them, only in the case the personal assets are insufficient to pay the debts and costs of administration; they are, therefore, never entitled to operate to the prejudice of creditors. Goodwin v. Buckner, 201 N. C. 78, 81, 159 S. E. 1. See also, Cox v. Wright, 218 N. C. 342, 11 S. E. (2d) 258.

Voidable Merely. — A conveyance to a purchaser not for value is not, under this section, ipso facto void, but at the mercy of the grantor, i. e., may be rescinded and the conveyance set aside.

Mortgage after Two Years Followed by Sale Is Valid. — Where an heir executed a deed of trust more than two years after the grant of letters and the same was foreclosed, and the purchaser at the sale transferred title to a bona fide purchaser who had no actual knowledge that the property was liable to foreclosure by administration on account of the death of the decedent, the estate, it was held that the fact that it appeared from the records that the estate had not been settled does not amount to notice that the granting party was not in possession of title and the purchaser was a bona fide purchaser without notice, and the land is not subject to sale. Johnson v. Barefoot, 238 N. C. 706, 182 S. E. 477.

Proviso. — After a Purchaser before Two Years. — If the land is sold within the two years, and after the two years have expired resold by the vendee to a purchaser for value without notice that the latter gets good title. Murchison v. Whitted, 87 N. C. 465.

Agreement Consummated after Two Years.—An agreement by the heir for the sale of land, though entered into before the expiration of two years, if consummated after such time is valid as against creditors of the estate. Donoho v. Patterson, 70 N. C. 649.

To What Purchaser without Notice Protected. — The purchaser for value contemplated by this section is, with respect to consideration paid by him, to be assimilated to a purchaser for value under the statute of 12 Eliz., viz: he need not have paid all of the purchase money. The test of "purchaser for value" is not the same under this section with the test in certain equity cases where the purchaser is required to prove that he paid the price in money or other value, as, when the same has been paid in money or otherwise, he need only prove he receives notice. Arrington v. Arrington, 114 N. C. 151, 166, 19 S. E. 351. Hence even a purchaser upon credit is "purchaser for value." "Arrington v. Arrington, supra; Beasley v. Bray, 98 N. C. 266, 3 S. E. 497.

Deed of trust creditor is a purchaser for value within the meaning of this section. Francis v. Reeves, 137 N. C. 269, 277 S. E. 258.

A deed conveying the timber on the land descended falls within the purview of this section. Camp Mfg. Co. v. Linwood, 132 N. C. 158, 43 S. E. 472.

Admissibility of Evidence.—In proceeding for partition, defendants claimed sole seizin. The evidence tended to show that defendants' grantor owned an undivided interest in the locus in quo as tenant in common with her brother. The defendants' grantor was the sole heir at law of her brother and executed deed to defendants purporting to convey the entire tract of land less than two months after her brother's death. Plaintiff introduced in evidence testimony of the brother's administrator that he had sold the brother's interest in the land to make assets to pay debts of the estate, and offered in evidence court records of the summons, pleadings, judgments, and decrees, executed by the commissioner to plaintiff in the proceeding to sell lands to make assets, and the judgment in plaintiff's favor with interest thereon, and the filing of the petition for the sale of the land by the administrator, and the inability of defendants to dispose of their interest. Held: the evidence is admissible to show that the brother's administrator had sold the interest in the land to make assets to pay debts of the estate, and to show the judgment in plaintiff's favor.

Conveyance by deemse in fraud of creditors. The real estate subject to sale under this chapter shall include all the deemed may have conveyed with intent to defraud his creditors, and all rights of entry and rights of action and all other rights and interest in lands, tenements and hereditaments which he may devise, or by law would descend to his heirs: Provided, that lands so fraudulently conveyed shall not be taken from any one who purchased them for a valuable consideration and without a knowledge of the fraud.

CROSS REFERENCES.—As to personalty see § 28-59; as to fraudulent conveyances, see § 39-15 et seq.

Conveyance Must Be by the Deceased. — Where a heir executed a deed of trust more than two years after grant of letters and the same was foreclosed, and the proceeds of the land the same as the other creditors. Held: that the land could not be sold for the payment of A's debts. Rhem v. Hall, 218 N. C. 786, 182 S. E. 477.

Conveyance to Wife and Children. — Property conveyed by the decedent to his wife and children without consideration in fraud of his creditors while insolvent may, under this section, be recovered and sold by the administrator on behalf of the creditors. Webb v. Atkinson, 122 N. C. 683, 29 S. E. 949; Webb v. Atkinson, 124 N. C. 447, 32 S. E. 737.

Relation of Section 28-81 to This Section.—The provisions of this and section 28-81 hinge together. Hence a compliance with both is necessary. Clement v. Coxart, 107 N. C. 695, 697, 12 S. E. 254.

Conveyance Must Be in Fraud of Creditors. — Under this section lands conveyed cannot be sold unless it can be shown that they were conveyed in fraud of his creditors. McCaskill v. Graham, 121 N. C. 150, 28 S. E. 264.

Innocent Purchaser's Rights Protected. — Under this section an administrator cannot be compelled to sell property fraudulently conveyed and in the hands of an innocent purchaser. Harrington v. Hatton, 129 N. C. 146, 39 S. E. 780.

Effect of bona fide purchase from fraudulent grantee. — When an executor, administrator or collector files his petition to sell lands which have been fraudulently conveyed, and of which there has been a subsequent bona fide sale, whereby he cannot have a decree of sale of the land, the court may give judgment in favor of such executor, administrator or collector for the value of the land, against all persons who may have fraudulently purchased the same; and if the whole recovery is not necessary to pay the debts and charges, the residue shall be restored to the person of whom the recovery was made. (Rev., s. 73; Code, s. 1447; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 52; C. S. 78.)

§ 28-86. Contents of petition for sale.—The petition, which must be verified by the oath of the applicant, shall set forth, as far as can be ascertained:

1. The amount of debts outstanding against the estate.

2. The value of the personal estate, and the application thereof.

3. A description of all the legal and equitable real estate of the decedent, with the estimated value of the respective portions or lots.

4. The names, ages and residences, if known, of the devisees and heirs at law of the decedent. (Rev., s. 77; Code, s. 1437; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 43; C. S. 75.)

The Purpose of Requisites in Application.—The personal estate, when divided, is the primary fund, and land is the secondary fund for the payment of debts, and the design of the act giving authority to the personal representative to sell and administer on the proceeds of lands in the requisites to its debts and the value and application of the personal estate, is that it may be seen that the personal estate is insufficient to pay the debts. If a petition be drawn in accordance with these requirements so as to show the insufficiency of the personal fund, the necessity of resorting to the real estate to supply the deficiency will then be apparent. Shields v. McDowell, 82 N. C. 137, 138; Neighbors v. Evans, 210 N. C. 570, 187 S. E. 796. See also, Barkley v. Thomas, 220 N. C. 341, 346, 17 S. E. (2d) 482.

As the purpose of this section is to enable the court to see whether a sale is necessary, a petition which simply states that the personal estate "is wholly insufficient to pay the debts," without setting forth the value of the personal estate, is defective. McNeill v. McBryde, 112 N. C. 408, 411, 16 S. E. 541. A petition which simply states that the personal estate "is insufficient to pay the debts," is defective. "The courts do not decide upon facts, but only as far as can be ascertained," for these quoted words used in this section, according to grammatical construction qualify each of the sub-divisions of this section. Clement v. Cozart, 107 N. C. 695, 697, 12 S. E. 254; Shields v. McDowell, 82 N. C. 151.

Burden of proof that the conveyance was fair and for a full consideration is upon the grantee. Webb v. Atkinson, 122 N. C. 683, 689, 29 S. E. 940.

Contemplation of the sale of real estate as the only means of satisfying the claims of the creditors of a deceased debtor in which he may have conveyed in fraud of creditors, is subject to sale. Mannix v. Ihrig, 76 N. C. 299; Waugh v. Blevins, 68 N. C. 167.

Only Debtor's Interest Subject to Sale.—Under this section the personal representative of a deceased debtor in which he may have conveyed in fraud of creditors, is subject to sale. Heck v. Williams, 79 N. C. 437; Egerton v. Jones, 107 N. C. 264, 290, 12 S. E. 7.

A petition which sets forth the deeds of the former administrator was sued on and exhausted. Monger v. Kelly, 115 N. C. 254, 20 S. E. 374. But see Lilly v. Wolley, 94 N. C. 412; Clement v. Cozart, 107 N. C. 695, 697, 12 S. E. 254, which declare that such bond must have been exhausted.

Allegation that the assets of the decedent are insufficient to pay the debts, and that a sale of property fraudulently conveyed is necessary, is held sufficient. Sullivan v. Field, 112 N. C. 519, 16 S. E. 735.

A petition which fails to state the value of the personal estate and the application thereof is defective and demurrable. McNeill v. McBryde, 112 N. C. 408, 16 S. E. 841. See Blount v. Fritchard, 88 N. C. 445, where it is said that license may be granted even where there has been no application of the personality, though where there has been an application the petition must state.

Verification of Application.—In Stradley v. King, 84 N. C. 635, where the application for the sale of land was not verified by the administrator's oath, and the guardian for the infant defendant had not answered, the court said with respect to the omission of the oath: "This omission, while not a requirement that the petition for an order of sale of the decedent's lands be supported by oath and that an answer be put in on behalf of infant defendants, is not a departure therefrom fatal to the validity of the decree of sale made without, yet this departure from the statute, followed by the precipitate action of the Court in confirming the sale on the very day when it was required and without opportunity afforded for objection, in our opinion warrants the order which reopens the case for such defenses as the infant defendants may be able to set up."

§ 28-87. Heirs and devisees necessary parties.—No order to sell real estate shall be granted till the heirs or devisees of the decedent have been made parties to the proceeding, by service of summons, either personally or by publication, as required by law: Provided, that in any proceedings for the sale of land to make assets, when there are heirs of said decedent, or there may be heirs of said decedent whose names and residences are unknown, and it is desired to make all unknown heirs of said decedent parties to said proceedings, and the personal representative shall make such representation in his petition, then all unknown heirs of the said decedent shall be made parties defendant in the said action, as unknown heirs of said decedent naming him, and thus denominated and under this name all said unknown heirs shall be served with summons by publication as now regularly provided by law for the service of summons by publication in the Superior Court, and upon such service being had, the court shall appoint some discreet person as guardian ad litem, for said unknown heirs, and summons shall issue to him as such. Said guardian ad litem shall file answer for said unknown heirs, and defend for them, and he may be paid such sum as the court may fix, to be paid as other costs out of the estate. Upon the filing of the answer by said guardian ad litem, all said unknown heirs shall be before the court for the purposes of the action to the same extent as if each had been served with summons, and any claim that they may make to said real estate so sold shall be transferred to the funds in the hands of the personal representative to the same extent as other distributees of said estate and no further. This proviso shall apply to actions now pending, and all proceedings to sell land for assets heretofore had, where unknown heirs have been summoned by publication, are hereby validated. (Rev., s. 74; Code, s. 1438, 1868-9, c. 113, s. 44; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 3, s. 1; C. S. 80.)

Cross Reference.—As to joinder of beneficiary when the executor or administrator institutes an action, see § 1-58. Ed. 2009. 2

§ 28-88. Adverse claimant to be heard.—When the land, which is sought to be sold, is claimed by another person under any pretense whatsoever, such claimant shall be admitted to be heard as a party to the proceeding, upon affidavit of his claim, and if the issue be found for the petitioner he shall have his writ of possession and order of sale accordingly. (Rev., s. 76; Code, s. 1441; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 47; C. S. 81.)

Issue as to Title.—Where the order of sale is granted without determining an issue of title raised under this section, the order is void, and the title of the purchaser with notice of such issue is voidable. Perry v. Peterson, 98 N. C. 167, 37 S. E. 299; Stancil v. Gay, 92 N. C. 462; Harrison v. Harrison, 106 N. C. 282, 11 S. E. 356.

§ 28-89. Upon issues joined, transferred to term.—When an issue of law or fact is joined between parties, the course of the proceeding shall be as prescribed in such cases for other special proceedings. (Rev., s. 78; Code, s. 1440; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 47; C. S. 82.)

Issue of Law Submitted to Judge.—Where a demurrer is filed to the petition before the clerk, the issue of law thereby raised must, under this section, be certified to the Judge at chambers. Then the judge must transmit his decision thereon to the clerk; it is error for him to direct an order of sale after overruling the demurrer. Jones v. Hemphill, 77 N. C. 42. of § 1-404 shall not apply. Upon the coming in of the report of the sale and the confirmation thereof, title shall be made by such person, and at such time as the court may prescribe, and in all cases where the persons in possession have been made parties to the proceeding, the court may grant an order for possession. (Rev., s. 80; Code, s. 1444; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 49; 1917, c. 127, s. 1; 1935, c. 72; C. S. 85.

Editor's Note.—The 1935 amendment inserted the next to the last sentence of the section relating to the nonapplicability of this section to sales in which payment is not an arbitrable rent, but a sound legal discretion. Tillett v. Aydlett, 90 N. C. 551; Tillett v. Aydlett, 93 N. C. 15.

When Entitled to Possession.—The purchaser is not entitled to an order for possession if the defendants are not in possession when the order of sale is made. Marcom v. Wyatt, 117 N. C. 129, 23 S. E. 169.

Confirmation Necessary.—Before a purchaser at a judicial sale can be held to his bid, the sale must be confirmed by the court, and then in the same proceedings a rule issued to show cause why he should not be compelled to comply with the terms of the order of sale. Tillett v. Aydlett, 93 N. C. 15.

Confirmation.—After the confirmation of the sale, the bid may be rejected in the sound discretion of the court at any time before confirmation. Harrell v. Blythe, 140 N. C. 415, 53 S. E. 232.

Confirmation of the sale is a condition precedent to the exercise of the executor's right to convey title. Joyce v. Futrell, 136 N. C. 301, 47 S. E. 694.

Unsigned Decree of Sale.—It is not essential to the validity of the decree that it should be signed. Sledge v. Elliott, 116 N. C. 712, 21 S. E. 797.

Decree Not Conclusive of Debts.—The decree of the sale is not conclusive of the debts, and any right as personal representative in his application for the sale of the land. Latta v. Russ, 53 N. C. 111.

Setting Aside Decree and Confirmation.—A decree and confirmation of sale will not be set aside as against bona fide purchasers, at the instance of infant heirs not served with process, if not made within a reasonable time, and in the absence of a valid defense to the sale. Glisson v. Glisson, 153 N. C. 185, 69 S. E. 55.

Recital of Authority in the Decree.—When the representative exercises the power of sale conferred under an order of the court, if he fails to recite in the deed the source of his authority, the implication is that he exercised the power so conferred. Coffin v. Cook, 106 N. C. 376, 11 S. E. 371.

§ 28-93. Court may order private sale; terms; sale reopened.—If it is made to appear to the court in petition and by satisfactory proof that there will be more for the interest of said estate to sell such real estate by private sale, the court may authorize said petitioner, or any commissioner appointed by the court, to sell the same at private sale, either in whole or in part, for cash in hand, or upon deferred payments, with interest from date of sale, in such a manner as to size of lots, place of sale, terms of credit and security for payment of purchase money as shall be fixed in the order of sale, and if upon a time sale the deferred payments to be secured by mortgage or deed of trust upon the property, or by the retention of the title thereto until the purchase money is paid. When any order for private sale has been or may hereafter be made by any superior court of the state, the provisions of § 45-28, not inconsistent with this section shall apply; and the court may order upon motion of any person interested in the proceeds of such sale, filed in writing within ten days from the date and report of sale, together with satisfactory proof that said real property has not been sold for its real value, require the sale to be reopened, and thereupon the court may issue an order for the sale of such premises at public sale, as required by § 45-28, and in such order the court may require such premises to be sold in such parcels and on such terms as to the court may seem most advantageous to the estate. All sales of land conducted prior to February 10, 1927 under authority of this section in which the deferred payments were extended over a period longer than two years, are hereby validated. (1917, c. 127, s. 2; 1927, c. 16; C. S. 86.)

Cross References.—See annotations under § 28-92. As to proceeds of realty sold to pay debts, see §§ 28-57 and 28-58.

Editor's Note.—The Public Laws of 1927 c. 16, omitted from this section the restriction limiting deferred payments to a period of two years, and added certain provisions as to the manner of sale.

Resale.—In a special proceeding by an administrator to sell land to make assets to pay debts whether the bid be required under this section of the decree of sale, § 45-28, or motion be made by a party interested in the proceeds for an order of resale under this section only, it is clear that a private sale is open to either course for ten days from the date and report of sale. During that period the bidder acquires no right of possession or title. He is merely a preferred bidder. Howard v. Ray, 222 N. C. 710, 24 S. E. (2d) 559.

§ 28-94. Undevised realty first sold. —When any part of the real estate of the testator descends to his heirs by reason of its not being devised or disposed of by the will, such undevised real estate shall first be chargeable with payment of debts, in proportion, as far as it will go, of the real estate that is devised, unless from the will it appears otherwise to be the wish of the testator. (Rev., s. 69; Code, s. 1430; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 39; C. S. 87.)

Cross Reference.—As to proceeds of realty sold to pay debts, see §§ 28-57 and 28-58.

Will Not Be Disturbed.—By virtue of this section a decree for the sale of the land should direct a sale in such a way as to disturb as little as practicable the will of the testator. Tillett v. Aydlett, 90 N. C. 551, 553.

§ 28-95. Specifically devised reality; contribution. —If, upon the hearing of any petition for the sale of real estate to pay debts, under this chapter, the court decrees a sale of any part that may have been specifically devised, the devisee shall be entitled to contribution from other devisees, according to the principles of equity in regard to contribution among legatees. And the children and issue provided for in this chapter shall be regarded as specific devisees in such contribu-
§ 28-96. Under power in will, sales public or private.—Sales of real property made pursuant to authority given by will, unless the will otherwise directs, may be public or private, and on such terms as, in the opinion of the executor, are most advantageous to those interested therein. (Rev., s. 84; Code, s. 1503; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 75; C. S. 89.)

§ 28-97. Where executor with power dies, power executed by survivor, etc.—When any or all of the executors of a person making a will of lands to be sold by his executors die, fail or for any cause refuse to take upon them the administration; or, after having qualified, shall die, resign, or for any cause be removed from the position of executor; or when there is no executor named in a will devising lands to be sold, in every such case such executor or executors as survive or retain the burden of administration, or the administrator de bonis non, may sell and convey such lands; and all such conveyances which have been or shall be made by such executors or administrators shall be effectual to convey the title to the purchaser of the estate so devised to be sold. (Rev., s. 82; Code, s. 1493; 1889, c. 461; C. S. 90.)

Effect of Section on Common Law Rule.—At common law an executor had no control over realty, and hence a power conferred upon him by the will to sell the realty did not pass upon his death to the administrator d. b. n. c. t. a. But this section has changed the common law rule in this respect. C. S. 91.)

Sale by Administrator d. b. n. c. t. a.—The case of an administration with the will annexed where no executors were appointed is (at present) both within the letter and the spirit of this section. Hence where a testator empowers his executor to sell lands, but fails to designate any executor, the administrator d. b. n. c. t. a. can, under this section exercise that right. Hester v. Hester, 37 N. C. 330, 332.

Upon the death or removal of the executors named in the will, the administrator c. t. a. succeeds to all rights, powers and duties of the executors, and he may exercise all powers, duties and responsibilities of the executor, without regard to whether they are given the executor virtute officii or nominativum, unless the language of the will definitely limits the exercise of the power of sale to the person named executor or executors. Clark v. Waddell, 72 N. C. 233; 9 S. E. 932.

§ 28-98. Death of vendor under contract; representative to convey.—When any deceased person has bona fide sold any lands, and has given a bond or other written contract to the purchaser to convey the same, and the bond or other written contract has been duly proved and registered in the county where the lands are situated, if within the state, or, if not in the state, shall be proved before the clerk of the superior court and registered in the county where the obligee lives or obligor died, his executor, administrator or collector may execute a deed to the purchaser conveying such estate as shall be specified in the bond or other written contract; and such deed shall convey the title as fully as if it had been executed by the deceased obligor. Provided, that no deed shall be made but upon payment of the price, if the condition of the bond or other written contract is, (Rev., s. 83; Code, s. 1492; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 65; 1874-5, c. 251; 1876, c. 494.)

Editor's Note.—Before the enactment of this section, the heirs of the vendor were the proper persons on whom the purchaser had the right to call for the conveyance. See Earle v. McDougal, 12 N. C. 16. Osborne v. McMillan, 30 N. C. 109; Twitty v. Lovelace, 97 N. C. 54, 2 S. E. 661.

Formerly this section applied only to cases where the vendor had executed a bond. It did not extend to agreements to convey made upon other considerations. Hodges v. Hodges, 22 N. C. 72.

Registration and Payment Prerequisites.—Unless the contract for the sale of the lands, bond or other written contract to convey the same, and the bond or other written contract has been duly proved and registered and the purchase money has been paid in full, no deed conveying the lands shall be made. Taylor v. Hargrove, 101 N. C. 145, 7 S. E. 647.

§ 28-99. Title in representative for estate; he or she may sell and convey.—In the case of a deceased person holding title to real property, the representative thereof has the same rights to convey the estate as if the deceased person had held title to the estate. Cited in Anderson v. Bridgers, 209 N. C. 456, 184 S. E. 78.

§ 28-100. Rights of heirs in estate of deceased.—In an action brought by the personal representative of an obligor in a bond for title to subject the bond to the payment of the purchase money, the heirs of the obligor are necessary parties. But if the bond referred to in this section is proved and registered and the section has been complied with, in proceedings for the sale of such land, the presence of the heirs is perhaps not necessary. Grubb v. Lookahill, 100 N. C. 271, 6 S. B. 390.

Bilateral Contracts Contemplated.—This section contemplates only contracts of a bilateral nature. Hence where the optionee of a bilateral contract has exercised the option the representative has, under this section, no power to convey; and the optionee's remedy is against the heir or the devisee. Noten v. Dennis Simmons Co., 174 N. C. 68, 93 S. E. 456.

Warranty of Title. —This section empowers the representative to convey only such interest as the vendor could sell. Hence where the vendor contracts to sell his interest in the land, the representative cannot be expected to warrant the title of the land. Twitty v. Lovelace, 97 N. C. 54, 2 S. E. 661.

Deed Inoperative.—A deed executed by the representative before the contract for sale has been proven and registered and the purchase money paid in full is inoperative. Taylor v. Hargrove, 101 N. C. 145, 7 S. E. 647.

§ 28-99. Title in representative for estate; he or successor to convey.—When land is conveyed to a personal representative for the benefit of the estate he represents, he may sell and convey same upon such terms as he may deem just and for the advantage of said estate; which shall be public, after due advertisement, as for judicial sales, unless the conveyance is made to the party entitled to the proceeds. If such land is not conveyed by such personal representative during his life or term of office, his successor may sell and convey such land as if the title had been made to him: Provided, If the predecessor has contracted in writing to sell said lands, but fails to convey same, his successor in office may so upon payment of the purchase price. (Rev., s. 71; 1905, c. 342; C. S. 92.)

§ 28-100. Sales of realty devised upon contingent remainder, executory devise or other limitation validated.—In all cases where real property devised upon contingent remainder, executory devise, or other limitation, shall have been sold and conveyed for a fair price in good faith by the executor named in said will, or by an administrator with the will annexed, for the purpose of making assets with which to pay the debts of said estate, under the mistaken belief that said will authorized such sale, and the proceeds of such sale shall have been applied to the payment of the indebtedness of such estate, and it shall be made to appear in any action brought by the purchaser of said land, or those claiming under such purchaser, that such executor, or other personal representative would have been entitled in a proper proceeding brought for that purpose to an order of court to sell said land for the purpose of making assets with which to pay the indebtedness of such estate, then such sale so made by such executor, or other representative, shall be valid and binding upon all such contingent remaindermen, executory devises, or other persons, who would have taken such property under said will upon the contingency or contingencies therein mentioned, notwithstanding said sale shall have been made by such executor or other personal representative without obtaining such order of the court. And in any such action instituted by the purchaser of such land, or those claiming under him, for the purpose of removing a cloud from the title thereto all contingent remaindermen, executory devises, or other persons entitled to claim under any limitation in said will, or may, go to minors, or persons under disability, or to sales of lands made under the circumstances narrated in § 28-100, or any action brought for the purpose of making assets with which to pay the indebtedness of the said estate and the cost of the administration thereof, and represented therein in the manner hereinafter provided: Provided, however, that this law shall not apply to any sale of land made in which the executor or other personal representative shall have been either directly or indirectly the purchaser thereof. (1923, c. 70, s. 1; C. S. 92(a.).)

Editor's Note.—This section is confined in application to sales occurring prior to January 1, 1925. See § 28-102.

For a review of this act in the North Carolina Law Review, see 1 N. C. L. R. 315.

Validity, Operation and Effect. — This statute is curative and retrospective, and is constitutional, legal, and does not interfere with or destroy vested rights. A retrospective law, as in the case of this statute, curing defects in acts that have been done, or authorizing or confirming the exercise of powers, is valid in those cases in which the Legislature originally had authority to confer the power or to authorize the act. Charlotte Consol. Const. Co. v. Brockenbrough, 187 N. C. 65, 77, 121 S. E. 7.

§ 28-101. Presumption; burden of proof.—Where the purchaser; or any lands made under the circumstances narrated in § 28-100, or any person holding or claiming the same under or through such purchaser, shall have been in the peaceable possession thereof for more than twenty years without any adverse claim having been asserted to the same by any person claiming under such will, and the records of the administration of the said estate do not affirmatively show what disposition has been made of the proceeds of the sale of such land, then it shall be presumed, prima facie, that the proceeds of the sale of said land have been applied to the payment of the necessary indebtedness of the said estate and the cost of the administration thereof, and the burden of proof to the contrary shall be upon the defendants in said action. (1923, c. 70, s. 2; C. S. 92(b.).)

Cross Reference.—See note under § 28-100.

Editor's Note.—This section is confined in application to sales occurring prior to January 1, 1925. See § 28-102.

§ 28-102. Application of sections 28-100 and 28-101.—Sections 28-100 and 28-101 shall apply only to sales of lands made under the circumstances narrated in those sections, occurring prior to January 1, 1925. (1923, c. 70, s. 3; 1925, c. 48; C. S. 92(c.).)

Cross Reference.—See note under § 28-100.

Editor's Note. — Prior to the act of 1925, ch. 48, the application of the two preceding sections was confined to sales occurring prior to February 24, 1923.

§ 28-103. Validation of certain bona fide sales of real estate to pay debts made without order of court.—In all cases where sales of real estate have been made by administrators of deceased persons, in good faith and upon a valuable consideration, to obtain assets to pay debts of the estate, and deeds have been executed by such administrators to the purchasers, who have paid the purchase price thereof, and no action has been taken by the heirs of such deceased persons to annul such sales by litigation or otherwise, such sales are hereby validated. The recitals contained in such a deed that the sale was made under order or license of the court for the purpose of obtaining assets to pay debts of the estate and that the proceeds of sale of said land have been applied to the payment of the necessary indebtedness of the estate and the cost of administration thereof shall be presumed to be prima facie correct: Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to any sale of land in which the administrator of such deceased person shall have been directly or indirectly the purchaser thereof, and nothing herein shall prevent such sale from being impeached for fraud.

This section shall only apply to sales by administrators made prior to January 1, 1920. (1931, c. 146; 1933, c. 31.)

Editor's Note.—This Act became effective March 21, 1931.

First, Class. Debts which by law have a specific lien on property to an amount not exceeding the value of such property.

A deed of trust executed to secure a debt which by law had a specific lien on property, as provided by the first class, has priority over the payment of taxes provided for in the fifth subdivision of the statute. Farmville Oil, etc., Co. v. Bourne, 205 N. C. 337, 339, 171 S. E. 568.

Second class. Funeral expenses.

Editor's Note.—The burial expenses, from the nature of things, are not an indebtedness of the deceased, for they accrue after his death; nor are they cost of administration. Yet from necessity they are chargeable upon the assets of the estate, and to establish the order of payment between claimants to such expense, and to determine the settlement of his estate. These have heretofore been considered as a duty of the representative. The intention of the Legislature is that the assets of a decedent shall be administered, as far as may be done, in accordance with the priorities fixed by its terms, as to come within the first class mentioned in the statute. Stewart v. Dear, 205 N. C. 37, 38, 169 S. E. 804.

Section Construed to Favor Bankruptcy Rule.—Upon the scope of this section for administering the estate of a person deceased or to modify the statutory direction as to the order of priority of classes, this section provides for the administration of the assets of the representative for the benefit of all the creditors. Atkinson v. Ricks, 140 N. C. 418, 421, 53 S. E. 229. As stated in 9 N. C. L. Rev. 404, the preamble of the Act indicates that it is to apply where no order of court was obtained or where the court proceedings authorizing and confirming the sales have been lost without being recorded. As to its constitutionality against the charge of disturbing vested rights, see Charlotte Consol. Const. v. Brockenhourb, 187 N. C. 65, 121 S. E. 7. As to validation of sales of real estate devised upon limitation made prior to January 1, 1925, see §§ 28-100 to 28-102.

Atkinson v. Ricks, 140 N. C. 418, 421, 53 S. E. 229. As stated in 9 N. C. L. § 28-106. No preference within class.—No executor, administrator or collector shall give to any debt any preference whatever, either by paying it out of its class or by paying thereon more than a pro rata proportion in its class. (Rev., c. 87; Code, ss. 1417, 1418; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 24; 1941, c. 271; C. S. 93.)

Editor's Note.—The prohibition embodied in this section is not a preference in the representative. Hence a solvent person in his lifetime may by his will make preferences in favor of himself or of any one who would otherwise be a pro rata creditor. But, as upon his death his effects and property vest in his representative who must pay the debts first, if the estate is insolvent the representative cannot assent to the payment of preferences before the payment of prior debts as prescribed in the preceding section. The result is that preferences made by an insolvent decedent are rendered ineffective for all purposes. See Moore v. Byers, 65 N. C. 242.

Paying by Honest Mistake. — If the representative pays a debt belonging to an inferior class in preference to a debt of a higher dignity, though he does it through an honest mistake, he is chargeable for the same. Moye v. Albright, 42 N. C. 62.

Stated in Park View Hospital Ass'n v. Peoples Bank, etc., Co., 211 N. C. 244, 189 S. E. 766.

§ 28-107. When payment out of class held valid.—Where any executor or administrator has paid any debt of his testator or intestate before all the debts of higher dignity have been paid and satisfied, and the estate of such testator or intestate was at the time of such payment solvent, but has since been rendered insolvent by the insolvency of the debtors of the estate, or otherwise, without any fault or want of diligence on the part of the executor or administrator, in all

Sixth class. Wages due to any domestic servant or mechanical or agricultural laborer employed by the deceased, which claim for wages shall not extend to a period of more than one year next preceding the death; or if such servant or laborer was employed for the year current at the decease, then from the time of such employment; for medical services within the twelve months preceding the decease; for drugs and all other medical supplies necessary for the treatment of such deceased person during the last illness of such person, said period of last illness not to exceed twelve months.

Indorsing or Accounting.—The indorsement or accounting of any estate to any person before any proceeding against such estate, shall not, in any subsequent proceeding, be necessary as an evidence of due diligence, if agreed to by the parties in the proceeding.
such cases payments thus made shall be deemed and held valid in law, and shall be allowed to such executor or administrator in all suits by creditors of the estate seeking to charge such executor or administrator with assets of the estate or with devastavit thereof, without regard to the dignity of the debt thus paid, or on which such suit may be brought. (Rev., s. 96; Code, s. 1496; 1869-70, c. 150; C. S. 95.)

Section Declaratory of Existing Law.—Even in the absence of this section the principle which it inculcates would hold true under legal and equitable principles. Coggins v. Flythe, 113 N. C. 102, 114 S. E. 96.

§ 28-108. Debts due representative not preferred.—No property or assets of the decedent shall be held valid in law, and shall be allowed to such creditor as against other creditors of the same class; but such debt must be established upon the same proof and paid in like manner and order as required by law in case of other debts. (Rev., s. 89; Code, s. 1420; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 28; C. S. 96.)

§ 28-109. Debts not due represented.—Debts not due may be paid on a rebate of interest thereon for the time unexpired. (Rev., s. 90; Code, s. 1419; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 27; C. S. 97.)

§ 28-110. Affidavit of debt may be required.—Upon any claim being presented against the estate, the executor, administrator or collector may require the affidavit of the claimant or other satisfactory evidence that such claim is justly due, that no payments have been made thereon, and that there are no offsets against the same, to the knowledge of the claimant; if any payments have been made, or any offsets exist, their nature and amount must be stated in such affidavit. (Rev., s. 91; Code, s. 1425; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 33; C. S. 98.)

§ 28-111. Disputed debt may be referred.—If the executor, administrator or collector doubts the justness of any claim so presented, he may enter into an agreement, in writing, with the claimant, to refer the matter in controversy, whether the same be of a legal or equitable nature, to one or more disinterested persons, not exceeding three, whose proceedings shall be the same in all respects as if such reference had been ordered in an action. Such agreement to refer, and the award thereupon, shall be filed in the clerk's office where the letters were granted, and shall be a lawful voucher for the personal representative. The same may be impeached in any proceeding against the personal representative for fraud therein: Provided, that the right to refer claims under this section shall extend to claims in favor of the estate as well as those against it. (Rev., s. 92; Code, s. 1426; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 34; 1872-3, c. 141; C. S. 99.)

Purpose of Section.—The section was intended to create an expeditious and inexpensive mode by which controversies between executors, administrators or collectors and claimants against the estate of testators and intestates may be settled and determined. State v. Potter, 107 N. C. 415, 12 S. E. 55; In re Reynolds' Estate, 221 N. C. 449, 20 S. E. (2d) 348.

The proceeding authorized by this section is based upon agreement of the parties. It is not an action, nor a consent reference under the code. It lacks the ordinary incidents of a legal suit, and is not subject to appeal. In re Reynolds' Estate, 221 N. C. 449, 20 S. E. (2d) 348.

Effect of Agreement to Arbitrate.—An agreement to arbitrate and to award under this section is competent evidence to prove the indebtedness of the estate. Such an agreement is, where there is no fraud or collusion, binding upon the heirs even though they were not parties to the proceedings. Lasitter v. Upchurch, 107 N. C. 411, 12 S. E. 63.

Finding as Judgment.—The finding of arbitrators under this section, if not settled by the parties, is a finding of fact and is subject to review in the superior court. In re Reynolds' Estate, 221 N. C. 449, 20 S. E. (2d) 348.

Only those having a pecuniary interest in the estate may be heard to impeach the result for fraud or collusion. Lasitter v. Upchurch, 107 N. C. 411, 12 S. E. 63.

Not Applicable to Creditor's Suit under Sec. 28-122.—The proceedings authorized by this section are between a creditor and personal representative, and have no application to creditor's bill under section 28-122 instituted to take the administration into the hands of the court. Dunn v. Beaman, 126 N. C. 766, 36 S. E. 172.

When Action to Settle Claim against Executor Barred.—Where a claim against an executor is rejected by him in writing and is not referred in accordance with the provisions of this section, an action thereon is barred if not brought within six months after the rejection of the claim by the executor. Batts v. Batts, 198 N. C. 395, 151 S. E. 868.

Thus, while § 28-105 classifies funeral expenses as a debt of the estate, the amount due therefor cannot be regarded as a debt which is referred to the arbitrators, and where the funeral expenses of the decedent are paid by the executrix, the payment is not an offset. In re Shutt, 214 N. C. 684, 200 S. E. 372.

Vacation of Reference.—Where clerk appointed a referee to hear claims against the estate of a deceased under this section, and thereafter approved the report of the referee, it then became a controversy, and the arbitrators had no authority in the premises and this ruling was unchallenged, such ruling vacated the supposed reference, and ended the matter. In re Shutt, 214 N. C. 684, 200 S. E. 372.

Appeal.—Where a claimant and the personal representative voluntarily execute a written agreement referring the claim to disinterested persons under this section, the referees are not required to decide the matter according to law, and their report is conclusive and neither party is entitled to appeal therefrom upon exceptions, there being no provision in this section for appeal, the proceeding being neither a civil action nor a special proceeding nor a judicial order. In re Reynolds' Estate, 221 N. C. 449, 20 S. E. (2d) 348.

§ 28-112. Disputed debt not referred, barred in six months.—If a claim is presented to and rejected by the executor, administrator or collector, and not referred as provided in § 28-111, the claimant must, within six months, after due notice in writing of such rejection, or after some part of the debt becomes due, commence an action for the recovery thereof, or be forever barred from maintaining an action thereon. (Rev., s. 93; Code, s. 1427; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 35; 1913, c. 3, s. 1; C. S. 100.)

Cross Reference.—As to effect of admission of claim by personal representative upon running of statute of limitations, see § 1-22.

Strictly Construed.—The language of this section is positive and explicit, and must be enforced in accordance with its terms. Morris v. Hill, 142 N. C. 355, 358, 55 S. E. 193.

A party asserting the right as assignee of an insurance policy to retain the proceeds thereof for obligations he contracted were forced by the assignment, may be barred, under this section, from asserting such right after the lapse of more than six months as against the administrator of the deceased insured in the administrator's action to recover the proceeds of the policy. Holbrook v. Hargrove, 181 N. C. 250, 184 S. E. 366.

Counterclaim Barred.—A claim barred under this section was [35 3] can not be pleaded even by way of counterclaim, in an action against the executor, administrator, or collector. [16x547]shall any costs be recovered in such action chargeable for any assets that he may have paid in satisfaction of any debts, legacies or distributive shares before such action was commenced; nor shall any costs be recovered in such action against the executor, administrator, or collector. (Rev., s. 94; Code, s. 1428; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 37; C. S. 101.)

§ 28-113. If claim not presented in twelve months, representative discharged as to assets paid. [16x574]in section 28-47 had not been given. Morrisey v. Hill, 143 N. C. 593, 55 S. E. 691.

—in an action brought on a claim which was not presented within twelve months from the first publication of the general notice to creditors, the executor, administrator, or collector shall not be chargeable for any assets that he may have paid in satisfaction of any debts, legacies or distributive shares before such action was commenced; nor shall any costs be recovered in such action against the executor, administrator, or collector. (Rev., s. 94; Code, s. 1428; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 37; C. S. 101.)

The purpose of this section is to relieve administrators, executors and collectors from liability for assets they may pay or distribute to a person or persons entitled to have the same as to claims not presented within the prescribed time, and as well to facilitate and encourage the prompt settlement of the estates of deceased persons. Mallard v. Richmond, 51 N. E. 383, 35 S. E. 675.

Administrator May Hold Funds for Twelve Month Period. [17x528](Rev., s. 94; Code, s. 1428; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 37; C. S. 101.)

—Under this section a claimant who has not presented his claim within twelve months from the first publication of the general notice to creditors, is allowed to assert his demand only as against undistributed assets of the estate and without cost against the executor. In re Estate of Bost, 211 N. C. 440, 443, 190 S. E. 756.

—No lien shall be created by the commencement of a suit against an executor, administrator or collector. (Rev., s. 95; Code, s. 1432; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 41; C. S. 102.)

§ 28-115. When costs against representative allowed. [17x348]account, if he approve the same, he must endorse his approval thereon, which shall be deemed prima facie evidence of correctness. (Rev., s. 99; Code, s. 1399; C. C. P., s. 478; 1871-2, c. 46; C. S. 105.)

—No costs shall be recovered in any action against an executor, administrator or collector, unless it appears that payment was unreasonable delayed or neglected, or that the defendant refused to refer the matter in controversy, in which case the court may award such costs against the defendant personally, or against the estate, as may be just. (Rev., s. 97; Code, s. 1429; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 38; C. S. 103.)

The word "accounts" as used in this section means "a statement in writing of debts and credits, or of receipts and payments; a list of items of debts and credits, with their respective dates." It does not include the debtor's or the estate's payment and settlement. State v. Dunn, 134 N. C. 663, 668, 46 S. E. 949.

Prima Facie Evidence Only. —The sworn account referred to in this section is only prima facie evidence. It is not conclusive as against any person adversely interested. The statute merely shifts the burden of proof. Allen v. Royston, 107 N. C. 278, 282, 10 S. E. 566; In re Hege, 205 N. C. 655, 172 S. E. 345; Brady v. Pfaff, 210 N. C. 808, 186 S. E. 340.

A report showing all debts paid except a mortgage in default, if presented, constitute a final account, since the duties and obligations of administration continue until all debts are paid or all assets exhausted under this section. Creech v. Wilder, 212 N. C. 162, 193 S. E. 291.

Recorded Account Is Competent Evidence in Collateral Suit. The account required by this section must be recorded as required in § 2-42. Such account therefore is not hearsay but is competent evidence in a collateral suit. Bridgers v. Turner, 127 N. C. 57, 59, 57 S. E. 630; In re Hege, 205 N. C. 655, 172 S. E. 345; Brady v. Pfaff, 210 N. C. 808, 186 S. E. 340.

A report showing all debts paid except a mortgage in default, if presented, constitute a final account, since the duties and obligations of administration continue until all debts are paid or all assets exhausted under this section. Creech v. Wilder, 212 N. C. 162, 193 S. E. 291.

Recorded Account Is Competent Evidence in Collateral Suit. The account required by this section must be recorded as required in § 2-42. Such account therefore is not hearsay but is competent evidence in a collateral suit. Bridgers v. Turner, 127 N. C. 57, 59, 57 S. E. 630; In re Hege, 205 N. C. 655, 172 S. E. 345; Brady v. Pfaff, 210 N. C. 808, 186 S. E. 340.

§ 28-117. Annual accounts. —Every executor, administrator and collector shall, within twelve months from the date of his qualification or appointment, and annually, so long as any of the estate remains in his control, file, in the office of the clerk of the superior court, an inventory and account, under oath, of the amount of property received by him, or invested by him, and the manner and nature of such investment, and his receipts and disbursements for the past year in the form of debit and credit. He must produce vouchers for all payments. The clerk may examine or cause such accounting party, or any other person, concerning the receipts, disbursements or any other matter relating to the estate; and, having carefully revised and audited such account, if he approve the same, he must endorse his approval thereon, which shall be deemed prima facie evidence of correctness. (Rev., s. 99; Code, s. 1399; C. C. P., s. 478; 1871-2, c. 46; C. S. 105.)

Duty of Clerk to Accept Executive's Annual Account. — Where property is devised or bequeathed by a will, upon certain trusts, and the testator does not appoint a trustee, it is the duty of the executor, to carry out the provisions of the will. It is error for the clerk to refuse to accept an annual account tendered by the executor for a year more than two years after the executor qualified but during the life of the trust estate. In re Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., [35]
§ 28-118. Clerk may compel account.—If any executor, administrator or collector omits to account, as directed in § 28-117, or renders an insufficient and unsatisfactory account, the clerk shall forthwith order such executor, administrator or collector to render a full and satisfactory account, as required by law, within twenty days after service of the order. Upon return of the order, duly served, if such executor, administrator or collector fails to or refuses to exhibit such account, the clerk may issue an attachment against him for a contempt and commit him till he exhibit such account, and may likewise remove him from office. And the sheriffs of the several counties to whom a process is directed under the provisions of this section shall serve the same without demanding their fees in advance. (Rev., s. 100; Code, s. 1400; C. C. P., s. 479; 1933, c. 99; C. S. 106.)

Editor's Note.—The last sentence of this section as it now reads was added by Public Laws 1933, c. 99.

Original Jurisdiction.—Under this section the clerk has original jurisdiction to remove. Edwards v. Cobb, 95 N. C. 8.

Applied in In re Hege, 205 N. C. 265, 172 S. E. 345.

§ 28-119. Vouchers presumptive evidence.—Vouchers are presumptive evidence of disbursement, without other proof, unless impeached. If lost, the accounting party must, if required, make oath to that fact, setting forth the manner of loss, and state the facts and content of the voucher. And this section shall apply to guardians, collectors, trustees and to all other persons acting in a fiduciary character. (Rev., s. 101; Code, s. 1401; C. C. P., s. 480; C. S. 107.)

Independent of this section receipts of living persons are not strictly legal evidence to show a full administration. Costen v. McDowell, 107 N. C. 546, 549, 12 S. E. 432; Drake v. Drake, 82 N. C. 443, 445.

§ 28-120. Gravestones authorized.—It is lawful for executors and administrators to provide suitable gravestones to mark the graves of their testators or intestates, and to pay for the cost of erecting the same, and the cost thereof shall be paid as funeral expenses and credited as such in final accounts. The cost thereof shall be in the sound discretion of the executor or administrator, having due regard to the value of the estate and to the interests of creditors and needs of the widow and distributees of the estate. Where the executor or administrator desires to spend more than one hundred dollars for such purpose he shall file his petition before the clerk of the court, and such order as will be made by the court shall specify the amount to be expended for such purpose. Provided, however, that if the net estate is of a value in excess of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000), the executor or administrator may, in his discretion, expend not more than five hundred dollars ($500) for this purpose without securing the order of court required herein. (Rev., s. 102; 1905, c. 444; 1923, c. 4; 1941, c. 102; C. S. 108.)

Editor's Note.—The third sentence of this section as it formerly stood provided that the order be approved by the resident judge of the district. This was omitted by the act of 1925.

The 1941 amendment added the proviso at the end of the section. For comment on this amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 236.

Scope of Section.—This section was held inapplicable where executors, in obedience to testimonial instructions, expended more than $100 for a gravestone when the court appeared to be solvent, but in fact it was insolvent. In re Estate of Bost, 211 N. C. 440, 190 S. E. 736.

§ 28-121. Final accounts.—An executor or administrator may be required to file his final account for settlement in the office of the clerk of the superior court by a citation directed to him, at any time after two years from his qualification, at the instance of any person interested in the estate; but such account may be filed voluntarily any time; and, whether the accounting be voluntary or compulsory, it shall be audited and recorded by the clerk. (Rev., s. 103; Code, s. 1402; C. C. P., s. 481; C. S. 109.)

Jurisdiction.—Formerly the probate court had jurisdiction to make the representative account. Rowland v. Thompson, 63 N. C. 110, 112. Under this section the clerk of the superior Court has jurisdiction. McNeill v. Hodges, 105 N. C. 52, 54, 11 S. E. 356.

When Section Not Applicable.—This statutory requirement is not applicable where the last possessor of the executor by death shall not be able to perform within two years from his qualification. In re Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 385, 390, 186 S. E. 510. See § 28-192.

Review of Order to File Final Account and Turn Over Assets.—Where the clerk orders an executor to file final account and turn over the assets of the trust estate to itself as trustee, which order is made as a matter of law upon facts not and not as a matter of discretion, the order is reviewable by the Superior Court upon appeal. In re Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 385, 186 S. E. 510. Ex Parte Proceeding No Estoppel.—The order, if the clerk, whether under this or under § 28-117, is an ex parte proceeding, and does not work an estoppel upon the parties as a judgment in inter partes proceedings would. In this respect this section is established in the same way as before the enactment of this section when the receipts of living persons were not strictly legal evidence to show a full administration. Costen v. McDowell, 107 N. C. 546, 549, 12 S. E. 432; Drake v. Drake, 82 N. C. 443, 445.

Presumption of Correctness of Account.—When ex parte accounts are filed under this section, they are, as a matter of law, to be taken as correct until shown to be erroneous. Turner v. Turner, 104 N. C. 566, 572, 10 S. E. 606.

Auditing a Judicial Act.—The phrase "audit an account" [37]
Creditor's proceeding for accounting.—Any creditor of a deceased person may, within the times prescribed by law, prosecute a special proceeding or a civil action before the judge in his representative capacity to compel him to an account of his administration, and to pay the creditors what may be payable to them respectively. (Rev., s. 104; Code, s. 1448; 1871-2, c. 213; 1876-7, c. 241, s. 6; C. S. 110.)

The purpose of this section was to unite all the creditors in one special proceeding, in order to bring the personal representative to an account after two years and to compel the representative to an account after two years and to compel an application of the assets by payment to the creditors whose debts have been ascertained. Graham v. Tate, 77 N. C. 120, 125.

Other Creditors May Come In.—Where a creditor has instituted special proceedings under this section, all or any of the creditors not designated by name are at liberty to come in and share the benefits of the suit. Every creditor has an inchoate interest in the suit, and is, in an essential sense, a party to the action. Dobson v. Simonton, 93 N. C. 268.

Process or General Notice Essential.—Unless personally served with a general notice, a creditor is not bound by special proceedings instituted under this section by another creditor. Hester v. Lawrence, 102 N. C. 319, 8 S. E. 915.

Summons and Complaints Necessary.—Special proceedings under this section must be by summons and complaint. Id.

Enjoining Creditor.—A creditor who chooses not to come in, and resorts to an independent action, may be enjoined by the court for any such action taken by the creditor in the main suit. Dobson v. Simonton, 93 N. C. 268, 270.

Creditor's Suit Distinguished.—A special proceeding under this section differs from a creditor's bill in that in the latter case the creditors make themselves parties, while in the former case they are required to do so. Patterson v. Miller, 72 N. C. 516.

Nature of Creditor's Suit.—The mere filing by a creditor of a claim with the clerk gives him a standing in the court, and is all that is required of him unless the claim is contested. Isler v. Moore, 91 N. C. 376, 379.

Nature of Superior Court's Jurisdiction.—Under this section the Superior Court has original jurisdiction over proceedings instituted against the representative. Bratton v. Davidson, 77 N. C. 423.

Correlation of Sec. 28-111 to This Section.—The proceedings authorized by section 28-111 are between a creditor and the representative, and have no application to situations arising under the provisions of this section, or in the administration into the hands of the court. Dunn v. Beaman, 126 N. C. 766, 36 S. E. 172.
§ 28-123. Rules which govern creditor's proceeding.—The special proceeding shall be governed by the rules of practice prescribed for special proceedings, except so far as the same are modified by this chapter. (Rev., s. 105; Code, s. 1449; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 2; C. S. 111.)

Cross Reference.—For general statutes governing procedure in special proceedings see § 1-393 et seq. § 1-391 et seq.

Summary and Complaint.—As the proceedings under the preceding section are not ex parte proceedings, within the contemplation of section 1-400, but are adverse within the meaning of section 1-394, except so far as the same are modified by this chapter, the proceedings are commenced by summons and complaint. Isler v. Murphy, 76 N. C. 52, 53.

The creditors subsequently coming in, however, need not file a new complaint, unless their claim is denied. Id.

§ 28-124. When and where summons returnable.—The summons in said special proceeding shall be returnable before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which letters testamentary or of administration were granted, and on a day not less than forty nor more than one hundred days after the issuance thereof, and not less than twenty days after the service thereof. (Rev., s. 106; Code, s. 1450; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 3; C. S. 112.)

Effect of Irregularity in the Time of Return.—Notwithstanding the irregularity in the time of the return as required by this section, the proceedings are valid unless objected to. Brooks v. Brooks, 97 N. C. 136, 141, 1 S. E. 487.

§ 28-125. Clerk to advertise for creditors.—On issuing the summons, the clerk shall advertise for all creditors of the deceased to appear before him on or before the return day and file the evidences of their claims. (Rev., s. 107; Code, s. 1451; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 4; C. S. 114.)

Failure to Publish Assignable on Appeal.—Failure to publish as required by this and the succeeding section, is an error which may be assigned by the representative in an appeal from a judgment of the clerk to the Superior Court in terms of the act of which this section is a part, except on this ground has been taken before the clerk. Hester v. Lawrence, 102 N. C. 319, 8 S. E. 915.

It is the duty of the clerk to advertise as directed by statute. Warden v. McKinnon, 94 N. C. 378, 388.

The proceedings, however, are not void for lack of advertisement (which is considered as a mere irregularity), unless objected to. Brooks v. Brooks, 97 N. C. 136, 12 S. E. 487.

The mode of advertisement under this section is regulated by the provisions of section 28-126. Hester v. Lawrence, 102 N. C. 319, 8 S. E. 915.

§ 28-126. Publication of advertisement.—The advertisement shall be published at least once a week for not less than four weeks in some newspaper which may be thought by the clerk the most likely to inform all the creditors, and shall also be posted at the courthouse door for not less than thirty days. If, however, the estate does not exceed three thousand dollars in value, and the creditors are supposed by the clerk all to reside within the county or to be known, publication in a newspaper may be omitted, and in lieu thereof the advertisement shall be posted at four public places in the county, besides the courthouse door. Proof of personal service on a creditor or that a copy of the advertisement was sent to him by mail at his usual address shall be as to him equivalent to publication. (Rev., s. 108; Code, s. 1452; 1903, c. 134; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 5; C. S. 114.)

Cross Reference.—See annotations under § 28-125.

Advertised Both Published and Posted.—The advertisement under this section must be both published in a newspaper, and posted at the court house door. Hester v. Lawrence, 102 N. C. 319, 8 S. E. 915.

§ 28-127. Creditors to file claims and appoint agent.—The creditors of the deceased on or before the required day shall file with the clerk the evidences of their demands, and every creditor on filing such claim shall endorse thereon or otherwise name some person or place within the town in which the court is held, upon whom or where notices in the cause may be served or left; otherwise he shall be deemed to have notice of all motions, orders and proceedings in the cause filed or made in the clerk's office. (Rev., s. 109; Code, s. 1453; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 6; C. S. 115.)

§ 28-128. Proof of claims.—If the evidence of the demand is other than a judgment, or some writing signed by the deceased, it shall be accompanied by the oath of the creditor, or, if he be nonresident or infirm or absent, or in any other proper case, of some witness of the transaction, or of some agent of the deceased, that to the best of his knowledge and belief the claim is just, and that all due credits have been given. (Rev., s. 110; Code, s. 1454; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 7; C. S. 116.)

§ 28-129. Representative to file claim; notice to creditors.—On the day fixed for the appearance of the personal representative shall on oath give to the clerk a list of all claims against the deceased of which he has received notice or has any knowledge, with the names and residences of the claimants to the best of his knowledge and belief; and if any person so named has failed to file evidence of his claim, the clerk shall immediately cause a notice requiring him to do so to be served on him, which may be done by posting the same, directed to him at his usual address. (Rev., s. 111; Code, s. 1455; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 8; C. S. 117.)

§ 28-130. Clerk to exhibit to representative claims filed.—On the day fixed for the appearance of the personal representative, the clerk shall exhibit to him a list of all the claims filed in his office, with the evidences thereof. (Rev., s. 112; Code, s. 1456; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 9; C. S. 118.)

§ 28-131. If representative denies claim, creditor notified.—Within five days thereafter the personal representative shall state in writing on said list, or on a separate paper, which of said claims he disputes in whole or in part. The clerk shall then notify the creditor, as above provided, that his claim is disputed, and the creditor shall thereupon file the claim in the clerk's office, and the proceeding on his said claim, and the pleadings shall be as in other cases. (Rev., s. 113; Code, s. 1457; 1871-2, c. 215, s. 10; C. S. 119.)

Each Complaint Distinct Proceeding.—Where, under this section, the claims of two or more creditors have been disputed and the issue joined upon the complaints sent to the superior court in pursuance of the succeeding section, the complaint of each creditor constitutes a distinct proceeding to be proceeded separately so as to "let each tub stand on its own bottom." Graham v. Tate, 77 N. C. 120, 124.

§ 28-132. Issues joined; cause sent to superior court.—If the issues joined be of law, the clerk shall send the papers to the judge of the superior court for trial, as is provided for by the chapter on Civil Procedure in like cases. If the issue shall be of fact, the clerk shall send so much of the record as may be necessary to the next term of the superior court for trial. (Rev., s. 114; Code, s. 1458; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 11; C. S. 120.)

Title of the Proceeding.—When, under this section, issues upon several complaints have been sent to the superior court, attorney the title of the cause should be in the name of the creditors who instituted the special proceedings, it is proper to make a further title setting out the name of the creditor upon whose complaint the issues are raised.

Graham v. Tate, 77 N. C. 129, 124.

For example: x, (the original creditor) v. y, (administrator). Issues on the complaint of x. In this way the complaint of the several creditors will be kept separate and unnecessary confusion avoided.

§ 28-133. When representative personally liable for costs.—If any personal representative denies the liability of his deceased upon any claim evid-ced as is provided in this chapter, and the issue is finally decided against him, the costs of the trial shall be paid by him personally, and not allowed out of the estate, unless it appears that he had reasonable cause to contest the claim and did so bona fide. (Rev., s. 115; Code, s. 1459; 1871-2, c.
213, s. 12; C. S. 121.)

Cross Reference.—See annotation under § 28-115.

Correlation of This and Section 28-122.—This section applies to cases where the administrator unreasonably denies a claim filed under section 28-122. Valentine v. Britton, 127
N. C. 57, 59, 37 S. E. 74.

§ 28-134. Court may permit representative to appear after return day.—If the personal representative fails to appear on the return day, the clerk or judge of the superior court may permit him afterward to appear and plead on such terms as may be just. (Rev., s. 116; Code, s. 1460; 1871-2, c.
213, s. 13; C. S. 122.)

§ 28-135. Clerk to state account.—Immediately after the return day the clerk or judge shall procceed to hear such evidence as shall be brought before him, and to state an account of the dealings of the personal representative with the esteate of his deceased according to the course of his court. (Rev., s. 117; Code, s. 1461; 1871-2, c. 213,
s. 14; C. S. 123.)

§ 28-136. Exception to report; final report and judgment.—After the clerk has stated the account and prepared his report, he shall notify all the parties to examine and except to the same. Any party may then except to the same in whole or in part. The clerk shall then pass on the exceptions and prepare and sign his final report and judgment, of which the parties shall have notice. (Rev., s. 118; Code, s. 1462; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 15; C. S.

Applied in In re Estate of Bost, 211 N. C. 440, 190 S. E. 756.

§ 28-137. Appeal from judgment; security for costs.—Any party may appeal from a final judgment of the clerk to the judge of the superior court in term time, on giving an undertaking with surety, or making a deposit, to pay all costs which shall be recovered against him. If any creditor appeals and gives such security, his appeal shall be deemed an appeal by all who are damaged by the judgment, and no other creditor shall be required to give any undertaking. (Rev., s. 119; Code, s. 1464; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 17; C. S. 125.)

Applied in In re Estate of Bost, 211 N. C. 440, 190 S. E. 756.

§ 28-138. Papers on appeal filed and cause docket.—On an appeal the clerk shall file his report and judgment and all the papers in his office as clerk of the superior court, and enter the case on his trial docket for the next term. (Rev., s. 120; Code, s. 1465; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 18; C. S. 126.)

§ 28-139. Prior creditors not affected by appeal may docket judgments.—If the exceptions and questions, from the decision on which the appeal is taken, affect only the creditors in one or more classes, the creditors in the prior classes by the leave of the clerk, or of the judge of the superior court, may docket their judgments and issue execution thereon. (Rev., s. 121; Code, s. 1466; 1871-
2, c. 213, s. 19; C. S. 127.)

§ 28-140. Judgment where assets sufficient to pay a class.—If upon taking the account it is admitted, or is found, without appeal, that the defendant has assets sufficient, after the deduction of all proper costs and charges, to pay all the claims which have been presented of any one or more of the classes, the clerk shall give judgment in favor of the creditors whose debts of such classes have been admitted, or adjudged by any competent court; and if any claim in any preferred class is in litigation, the amount of such claim, with the probable cost of the litigation, shall be left in the hands of the personal representative, and not car-rried to the credit of any subsequent class until the litigation is ended. (Rev., s. 122; Code, s.

§ 28-141. Judgment where assets insufficient to pay a class.—If the assets are insufficient to pay in full all the claims of any class, the amounts thereof having been found or admitted as aforesaid, the clerk may adjudge payment of a certain part of such claims, proportionate to the assets applicable to debts of that class. (Rev., s. 123; Code, s. 1468; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 21; C. S. 129.)

§ 28-142. Contents of judgment; execution.—All judgments given by a judge or clerk of the superior court against a personal representative for any claim against his deceased shall declare—

1. The certain amount of the creditor’s demand.

2. The amount of assets which the personal representative has applicable to such demand.

Execution may issue only for this last sum with interest and costs. (Rev., s. 124; Code, s. 1469; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 22; C. S. 130.)

§ 28-143. When judgment to fix with assets.—
No judgment of any court against a personal representative shall fix him with assets, except a judgment of the judge or clerk, rendered as aforesaid, or the judgment of some appellate court rendered upon an appeal from such judgment. All other judgments shall be held merely to ascertain the debt, unless the personal representative by pleading expressly admits assets. (Rev., s. 125; Code,
s. 1470; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 23; C. S. 131.)

A judgment against an executor or administrator in his representative capacity merely establishes the debt sued on and does not constitute a lien upon the lands of the estate, in the absence of a stipulation in the judgment to the contrary, until leave of court is granted for execution for failure of the representative to pay the ratable part of such An absolute judgment against the representative neither fixes the defendant with assets nor disturbs the order of administration. It merely ascertains the debt sued on. Dunn
v. Barnes, 73 N. C. 273, 277.

Where a warranty deed was not registered until several years after the death of the grantor, during which time several judgments were obtained against the personal representative of the grantor, and the grantee in the deed sold same after the judgments had been docketed to a purchaser for value by warranty deed, it was held that under the provisions of this and §§ 28-144 and 28-148 the judgments did not constitute a lien on the land in violation of the warranty against encumbrances. Tucker v. almond, 209 N. C. 233, 183 S. E. 407.

§ 28-144. Form and effect of execution.—All executions issued upon the order or judgment of the judge or clerk or of any appellate court against any personal representative rendered as aforesaid, shall run against the goods and chattels of the deceased, and if none, then against the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of the representative. And all such judgments docketed in any county shall be a lien on the property for which execution is adjudged as fully as if it were against him personally. (Rev., s. 126; Code, s. 1471; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 24; C. S. 132.)

§ 28-145. Report is evidence of assets only at date.—The account and report and adjudication by the judge, clerk or any appellate court shall not be evidence as to the assets except on the day to which such adjudication relates. (Rev., s. 127; Code, s. 1472; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 25; C. S. 133.)

§ 28-146. Creditor giving security may show subsequent assets.—Any creditor may afterwards, on filing an affidavit by himself or his agent that he believes that assets have come to the hands of the personal representative since that day, and on giving an undertaking, with surety, or making a deposit for the costs of the personal representative, sue out a summons against him alleging subsequent assets, and the proceedings thereon shall be as hereinbefore prescribed, so far as the same may be necessary. (Rev., s. 128; Code, s. 1473; 1871-2, c. 213, s. 26; C. S. 134.)

§ 28-147. Suits for accounting at term.—In addition to the remedy by special proceeding, actions against executors, administrators, collectors and guardians may be brought originally to the superior court at term time; and in all such cases it is competent for the court which said action is brought to order a personal representative or of the creditors general to appear and account to be taken by such person or persons as said court may designate, and to adjudge the application or distribution of the fund ascertained, or to grant other relief, as the nature of the case may require. (Rev., s. 129; Code, ss. 215, 1511; 1876-7, c. 241, s. 6; C. S. 135.)

In Nature of Bill in Equity.—A suit by the beneficiaries under a will to have the executor account for mismanagement of the estate in the nature of a bill in equity to charge and falsify the executor's account. Thigpen v. Farmers' Banking, etc., Co., 203 N. C. 291, 168 S. E. 720.

Extent of Jurisdiction.—The jurisdiction and the powers of the court in actions of this nature is very comprehensive as to the purposes contemplated by them. Hence the court is vested with all powers, such as the power to grant injunctions, appoint receivers, etc., to effect just and equitable settlement of the controversies. Godwin v. Watford, 107 N. C. 168, 171, 11 S. E. 1051.

Under this section the superior court has jurisdiction to entertain suits brought not only by creditors, but also by any person interested in the proper administration of an estate. It may bring the creditors in as defendants and proceed to recover the estate. It may bring the creditors in as defendants and proceed to recover the estate. It may bring the creditors in as defendants and proceed to recover the estate.

§ 28-148. Proceedings against land, if personal assets fail.—If it appears at any time during, or upon, or after the taking of the account of a personal representative that his personal assets are insufficient to pay the debts of the deceased in full, and that he died seized of real property, it is the duty of the judge or clerk, at the instance of any party, to issue a summons in the name of the personal representative or of the creditors generally, to the heirs, devisees and others in possession of the lands of the deceased, to appear and show cause why said lands should not be sold for assets. Upon the return of the summons the proceeding shall be as is directed in other like cases. (Rev., ss. 130, 131; Code, ss. 1474, 1475; 1871-2, c. 213, ss. 27, 28; C. S. 136.)

Necessity of Summons.—In a case falling under the provisions of this section, it is unnecessary for the clerk herein in the summons referred to in this section where the parties are all in court. Dickey v. Dickey, 118 N. C. 956, 958, 24 S. E. 715.

Order of Distribution—The surplus of the estate, in case of intestacy, shall be distributed in the following manner, except as hereinafter provided.

In General.—At early common law the king took all the personalty and afterwards the crown passed this prerogative to the church, which took all the personalty except the real estate. Afterwards the crown passed this prerogative to the church, which took all the personalty except the real estate. By statute 13 Ed. III. (A. D. 1358) the church was required to appoint an administrator who should be next of blood kin, and this relationship was computed by the civil law, and not by the common law, which was used in computing relationship in the descent of land. Subsequently by statute 21 Henry VIII (A. D. 1530) the administrator was appointed by the ordinary and was required to be the widow or next of kin, or both, who after paying the intestate’s debts and the reasonable parts for the children and personalty to the same extent as in the descent of real property; and where the aunts and uncles of the deceased must take, the children of those who have died may take their personalty in their own right until the statutes of 22-23 and 29 Charles II, which required the surplus to be distributed among the next of kin in the manner provided in two previous statutes which became known as the Statute of distribution.

Under the English statute 22, 23, and 29, Charles II, the mother as well as the father succeeded to all the personal effects of his children who died intestate, and without will or issue, to the exclusion of brothers and sisters of the deceased. And this is the law now in this state.

For an analysis of the classification and the classification of the intestate’s debts and the reasonable parts for the children and personalty to the same extent as in the descent of real property; and where the aunts and uncles of the deceased must take, the children of those who have died may take their personalty in their own right until the statutes of 22-23 and 29 Charles II, which required the surplus to be distributed among the next of kin in the manner provided in two previous statutes which became known as the Statute of distribution.

mother. If one of the parents is dead at the
the time of the death of the child, the surviving parent shall be entitled to the whole of the estate.
The terms "father" and "mother" shall not apply to a step-parent, but shall apply to a parent by adoption: Provided, that a parent, or parents, who has willfully abandoned the care, custody, nurture and maintenance of such child to its kindred, relatives or other person, shall forfeit all and every right to participate in any part of said child's estate under the provisions of this section.

Editor's Note. — Prior to the amendment of 1915, (Pub.
Laws, 1915, c. 37) this section entitled the father to the whole of the estate of a deceased child. Hence it was formerly held that the father of a deceased child in the lifetime of the father, may not recover for the mutilation of the child's body, Floyd v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 167 N. C. 55, 83 S. E. 12. By the Public Laws of 1927, c. 231, the proviso to this section was added.

Natural and Adopting Parents. — Natural parents, in case of adoption, are allowed to prevail over adopting parents in the distribution of a child's estate. Edwards v. Yearby, 168
N. C. 663, 85 S. E. 19; 5 N. C. L. R. 73.

Right of Divorced Husband to Share in Recovery for Distributee of Proceeds of War Risk Insurance Policy.
Where the husband has abandoned his wife and infant child, and the wife has obtained a divorce, and a recovery is had for the wrongful death of the child by her mother, who has again married, and has quallified as administratrix of her infant child, under the provisions of this clause of this section casting the inheritance upon the father and mother under stated conditions when both are living, the father is entitled to half the money recovered by the mother for the wrongful death of their infant child, though under a separate statute he has lost the right to its care and custody by a former adjudication of Right of Action for Mutilation of Child's Dead Body. — A father's relation to his minor child and the consequent duties imposed on him by law clothes him with a preferential right of action over the mother of the child to bring an action to recover damages for the mutilation of its death. The provisions of this section do not affect the result. Stephenson v. Duke University, 202 N. C. 624, 163

S. E. 658.

Distribution of Proceeds for Wrongful Death. —When the rights of action created by statute for wrongful death does not constitute an asset of the estate, but belongs to the beneficiaries designated by this section and § 28-173 as the beneficiaries of the recovery, the administrator in bringing the action by the receiver therein, until his wife's administrator has accounted for his trust or distributed the assets of his wife, will bar the recovery in an action by the administrator of the wife may recover from the husband notes made payable to the wife and husband in consideration of the sale of her real property, and that the husband was entitled only to his distributive share through the administration.

9. If a married woman dies intestate, leaving a husband but no children, the surviving husband shall be entitled to all the personal estate of which his wife died intestate. (Rev., s. 132; Code, s.
11477; R. C., s. 64, s. 1; R. S., s. 64, s. 1; 1893, s. insured killed beneficiary, see note to § 28-10. As to rules of descent, see § 29-1.

§ 28-150. Advancements to be accounted for. — Children who shall have any estate by the settlement of the intestate, or shall be advanced by him in his lifetime, shall account with each other for the same in the distribution of the estate in the manner as provided by the second rule in the chapter entitled descents, and shall also account for the same to the widow of the intestate in ascertaining her child's part of the estate. (Rev., s. 133; Code, s. 1483; 1868-9, s. 113, s. 54; C. S. 138.)

Advancement Defined. — An advancement is defined to be equivocable gift in present of money, goods, or personal, by a parent to a child to enable the latter to anticipate the inheritance or succession of the property of the former to the extent of the gift. Thompson v. Smith, 160 N. C. 256, 257, 75 S. E. 1000.

Creatures of Statute Law. — Advancements are the creatures
Adoptions are restricted by this section to gifts from a parent to a child, and ordinarily grandchildren may not be held accountable for gifts to themselves, but must account for sums paid by intestate for her schooling and expenses incurred after she was eighteen or twenty years old, but no charge was made for expenses of rearing the grandchild. Upon the facts found by the referee the charge of advancements was correct. Wolfe v. Galloway, 211 N. C., 361, 190 S. E., 213.

§ 28-152. Illegitimates next of kin to mother and to each other.—Every illegitimate child of the mother dying intestate, or the issue of such illegitimate child deceased, shall be considered among her next of kin, and as such shall be entitled to a share of her personal estate as prescribed in this chapter. Illegitimate children, born of the same mother, shall be considered legitimate as between themselves and their representatives, and their personal estate shall be distributed in the same manner as if they had been born in lawful wedlock. And in case of the death of any such child or his issue, without leaving issue, his estate shall be distributed among his mother and all such persons as would be his next of kin if all such children had been born in lawful wedlock. (Rev., ss. 156, 137; Code, ss. 1486, 1487; 1868-9, c. 113, ss. 57, 59; 110, c. 140.)

Cross References.—As to effects of legitimation, see § 49-11. As to descent of real property to and among illegitimates, see § 29-1, rules 9 and 10.

Editor's Note.—At common law bastards were incapable of creating personal blood flows in their veins; hence, in the absence of other persons lawfully entitled to the property, the property escheated to the lord. They were considered the children of nobody, and consequently could have no interest in, nor were they entitled to, any part of the property of the parent and surrounding circumstances at the time of the gift. The intention of the donor was determined by the express terms of the section. Davis v. Duke, 1 N. C., 526, 527. In this section the words uses the words "advanced by him in his lifetime." It is believed that the construction put upon the statute would still hold true.

But gifts made to the grandchildren are not so required. Davis v. Haywood, 54 N. C., 253; Skinner v. Wyne, 55 N. C., 48.

Return of Advancements as to the Widow.—Before the act of 1794, advancements were not required to be brought into the hotchpot for the benefit of the widow. But since this act, the policy of equality between the widow and the children is acknowledged; the grandchild is accountable for advancement of every kind soever, such child shall cause to be given to the administrator or collector of the estate an inventory, on oath, setting forth therein the particulars by him or her received of the intestate in his or her lifetime. In case any child who had, in the lifetime of the intestate, received a part of said estate, refuses to give such inventory, he shall be considered to have had and received his full share of the deceased's estate, and shall not be entitled to receive any further part or share. (Rev., ss. 134, 135; Code, ss. 1484, 1485; 1868-9, c. 113, ss. 55, 56; C. S. 139.)

Restricted Meaning of Section.—The general words of this section requiring the child to give an inventory of "any personal property of what nature or kind soever" have uniformly been held to have a restricted meaning, in that every gift of personal property by a donor is not necessarily an advancement. Bradsher v. Cannady, 76 N. C., 445, 446. Expenses for Schooling, etc., Properly Charged as Advancements.—Intestate's grandchild, a daughter of intestate's deceased daughter, was charged with advancements for expenses for her schooling and expenses incurred after she was eighteen or twenty years old, but no charge was made for expenses of rearing the grandchild. United States v. Wells, 211 N. C., 361, 190 S. E., 213.

§ 28-153. Children advanced to render inventory; effect of refusal.—Where any parent dies intestate, who had in his or her lifetime given to, or formally been held to have a restricted meaning, in that every gift of personal property by a donor is not necessarily an advancement, Bradsher v. Cannady, 76 N. C., 445, 446. v. Lillard, 107 N. C., 486, 491, 12 S. E., 462.

Advancements by the Mother. — The original statute (1 Rev., ss. 134, 135; Code, ss. 1484, 1485; 1868-9, c. 113, ss. 55, 56; C. S. 139.) advancements were not required to be brought into the hotchpot for the benefit of the widow. But since this act, the policy of equality between the widow and the children is acknowledged; the grandchild is accountable for advancement of every kind soever, such child shall cause to be given to the administrator or collector of the estate an inventory, on oath, setting forth therein the particulars by him or her received of the intestate in his or her lifetime. In case any child who had, in the lifetime of the intestate, received a part of said estate, refuses to give such inventory, he shall be considered to have had and received his full share of the deceased's estate, and shall not be entitled to receive any further part or share. (Rev., ss. 134, 135; Code, ss. 1484, 1485; 1868-9, c. 113, ss. 55, 56; C. S. 139.)

§ 28-154. Allotment to after-born child in real estate. — The share of an after-born child in real estate shall be allotted to him out of any lands not devised, if there is enough for that purpose; and if there is none devised, or not enough, then the whole share, or the deficiency, as the case may be, shall be made up of the lands devised; and so much thereof shall be taken from the several devises according to their respective values, as near as may be convenient, as will make the devisees entitled to their respective distributive shares as such.
in the personal estate shall be paid and delivered to him out of any such estate not bequeathed, if there is enough for that purpose; and if there is none undisposed of, or not enough, then the whole share or the deficiency, as the case may be, shall be made up from the estate bequeathed: and so much shall be taken from the several legacies, according to their respective values, as will make the proper share of such child. (Rev., s. 139; Code, s. 1537; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 109; C. S. 142.)

§ 28-154. Child Not en Ventre Sa Mere.—Before a child can be entitled to a distributive share under the statute of distribution, in general, it must appear that he was either in being or en ventre sa mere at the time of the death of the intestate. Thus a half child of the intestate born ten months and a half after her death is not entitled to a distributive share, though born before distribution. Grant v. Bustin, 21 N. C. 77.

Contributions as of What Time.—Contribution to make up the share of a child born after the execution of his father's will, must be made by the legatees in proportion to their respective interests under the will, dated as of the time when the estate was settled, or should have been settled, by the executor, bearing interest from such time. Johnson v. Chapman, 54 N. C. 130.

§ 28-155. Allotment of personality from proceeds of realty.—If, after undisposed of, or not enough to make up his share of such estate, then the surplus of undisposed land, or as much as be necessary, shall be sold and the proceeds applied to making up his share of personal estate. And if, after satisfaction of the child's share of personal estate out of property undisposed of by the will, there is a surplus of such property, then the surplus thereof shall be applied, as far as it will go, in exoneration of land, both devised and descended; and the same shall be set apart and secured as real estate to such child, if an infant or non compos. (Rev., s. 140; Code, s. 1538; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 110; C. S. 143.)

§ 28-156. Effect of allotment of realty; contribution to equalize burden.—Upon the allotment to such child of any real estate in the manner aforesaid, he shall thenceforth be seized thereof in fee simple; and the court shall give judgment, whereby the devisors and legatees of the devisee and legatee whose lands and legacies more have been taken away than in proportion to the respective values of said lands and legacies, against such of said devisors and legatees of whose lands and legacies a just proportion has not been taken away, for such sums as will make the contribution on the part of each and every of them equitable, and in the ratio of the values of the several devises and legacies. (Rev., s. 141; Code, s. 1539; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 111; C. S. 144.)

§ 28-157. After-born child on allotment deemed devisee or legatee.—An after-born child after such decrees shall be considered and deemed in law a legatee and devisee as to his portion, shall be styled as such in all legal proceedings, and shall be liable to all the obligations and duties by law imposed on such: Provided, that all judgments or decrees bona fide obtained against the devisors and legatees previously to the preferring of any petition, and which were binding on or ought to operate upon the lands and chattels devised or bequeathed, shall be carried into execution and effect notwithstanding, and the petitioner shall take his portion completely subject thereto: Provided further, that any suit instituted against the devisors and legatees previously to such petition shall not be abated or abatable thereby nor by the decree thereon, but shall go on as instituted, and the judgment and decree, unless obtained by collusion, be carried into execution; but on the filing of the petition, during the pendency of such suit, the petitioner, by guardian, if an infant, may become a defendant in the suit. (Rev., s. 142; Code, s. 1540; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 112; C. S. 145.)

§ 28-158. Before settlement executor may have claimants' shares in estate ascertained.—In case no petition is filed within two years, as herein prescribed, the executor or administrator with the will annexed, before he shall pay or deliver the legacies in the will given, or before paying to the next of kin of the testator any residue undisposed of by the will, shall call upon the legatees, devisees, heirs and next of kin, and the said after-born child, by petition in the superior court, to distribute their respective claims, and shall pray the court to ascertain the share to which said child shall be entitled, and to apportion the shares and sums to which the legatees, devisees, heirs or next of kin shall severally contribute toward the share to be allotted to said child, and the court shall adjudge and decree accordingly. (Rev., s. 143; Code, s. 1541; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 113; C. S. 146.)

§ 28-159. Legacy or distributive share recoverable after two years.—Legacies and distributive shares may be recovered from an executor, administrator or collector by petition preferred in the superior court, at any time after the lapse of two years from his qualification, unless the executor, administrator or collector shall sooner file his final account for settlement. The suit shall be commenced and the proceeding therein conducted as prescribed in other cases of special proceedings. (Rev., s. 144; Code, s. 1510; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 83; C. S. 147.)

What Court Has Jurisdiction.—Under this section the Probate Court of the Superior Court of the county where an action is brought to the regular term of the Superior Court has exclusive jurisdiction of proceedings for the recovery of legacies and distributive shares. When, however, a specific pecuniary legacy has been given, and has been assented to by the executor, administrator or collector shall severally contribute toward the share to be allotted to said child, and the court shall adjudge and decree accordingly. (Rev., s. 143; Code, s. 1541; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 113; C. S. 146.)

Proof of Assets.—While under this section a petition may be filed before the clerk of the Superior Court for the recovery of a legacy and prosecuted as in other cases of special proceedings unless the personal representative has assented to the legacy or the admission of assets is otherwise made to appear, a recovery can be had only upon proof that assets have either come or should have come into his hands applicable to the payment of the legacy. Unless this is done, judgment in legatee's favor is reversible error. York v. McCall, 160 N. C. 275, 278, 76 S. E. 884.

Jurisdiction in Special Proceeding.—Under this section the clerk of the superior court has original jurisdiction by special proceedings for the recovery of legacies, etc. But where an action is brought for the same to the regular term of the superior court, the defect is cured by the act of 1870, 1871, ch. 105 (Bat. Rev. ch. 17, secs. 425, 426). Bell v. King, 70 N. C. 189.

In special proceeding to remove administratrix, her rights as distributee may not be determined; such rights being determinable only in an action or proceeding in which both she and the administrator are parties. In re Banks' Estate, 213 N. C. 382, 196 S. E. 351.

Injunction or Special Proceeding.—In a special proceeding for the recovery of a legacy, etc. But where an action is brought for the same to the regular term of the superior court, the defect is cured by the act of 1870, 1871, ch. 105 (Bat. Rev. ch. 17, secs. 425, 426). Bell v. King, 70 N. C. 189.

tent for any executor, administrator or collector, at any time after twelve months from the date of letters testamentary or of administration, to pay into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where such letters were granted, any moneys belonging to the legatees or distributees of the estate of his testator or intestate, and such payment shall have the effect to discharge such executor, administrator or collector and his sureties on his official bond to the extent of the amount so paid. (Rev., s. 145; Code, s. 1543; 1881, c. 305, s. 1; C. S. 148.)

§ 28-161. On payment clerk to sign receipt.—It is the duty of the clerk, in the cases provided for in § 28-160, to receive such money from any executor, administrator or collector, and to execute a receipt for the same under the seal of his office. (Rev., s. 146; Code, s. 1544; 1881, c. 305, s. 3; C. S. 3.)

§ 28-162. Recovery of Moneys Paid into Clerk’s Office.—A similar proceeding as provided in sections 28-147 and 28-159 may be maintained against the clerk either by special proceedings or civil action in the superior court in cases where the representative has paid the money in his hands into the office of the clerk under section 28-160. Ex parte Cassidey, 95 N. C. 225, 227.

Editor’s Note.—The provisions of this section are to be considered as realty belonging to the heirs or devisees. Thomas v. Connelly, 104 N. C. 343, 346, 10 S. E. 520.

Deposit of Moneys of Heirs.—The deposit authorized by this section refers to moneys belonging to the legatees or distributees of the estate. It does not refer to funds belonging to the heirs, such as proceeds of realty after payment of debts, which by the terms of sec. 28-58 are considered as realty belonging to the heirs or devisees. Thomas v. Connelly, 104 N. C. 343, 346, 10 S. E. 520.

Recovery of Moneys.—Where funds belonging to a minor are paid into the hands of the clerk of the Superior Court by an administrator under the provisions of this section, during the minority of the administrator and his sureties, in regard thereto, it is not required by §§ 28-160 and 2-46 that the clerk invest the funds, upon interest, unless so directed, the clerk being liable for such funds as an insurer, and the clerk and his sureties are not liable for the amount of interest the funds would have drawn if they had been so invested, but if the funds are actually invested by the clerk he is liable for the interest actually received therefrom. Williams v. Hooks, 199 N. C. 489, 154 S. E. 628.

§ 28-163. Extension of time for final accounts and settlement. — The final account always precedes the settlement, for without it there is no way of telling what is due. Self v. Shugart, 135 N. C. 185, 196, 47 S. E. 484.

Statute of Limitation.—After ten years from the expiration of the two years’ period prescribed by this section, an action for settlement against the personal representative will be barred by the statute of limitation. Edwards v. Lembree, 191 N. C. 229, 131 S. E. 142.

This section gives the personal representative two years to make a final settlement but he may be sued within ten years thereafter. Healey v. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 48 F. Supp. 307, 210.

§ 28-163. Extension of time for final accounts when funds are in closed banks.—Where as much as twenty-five per cent of the estate of any decedent is represented in deposits in a bank or trust company in course of liquidation, the personal representative of such decedent shall, in the discretion of the clerk of the superior court, within ninety days after the payment of the final dividend in which to file his final account. The several § 28-164. Retention of funds to satisfy claims not due or in litigation.—If, on a final accounting before the judge or clerk, it appears that any claim exists against the estate which is not due, or on which suit is pending, the judge or clerk shall allow a sum sufficient to satisfy such claim, or the proportion to which it may be entitled, to be retained in the hands of the executor, administrator or collector, for the purpose of being applied to the payment when due or when recovered, with the expense of contesting the same. The order allowing such sum to be retained must specify the amount and nature of the claim. (Rev., s. 148; Code, s. 1489; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 90; C. S. 151.)

No Allowance for Contingent Liabilities. — Claims for which an allowance will be made to the representative, within the contemplation of this section, are such claims as are existing and capable of being ascertained and not a mere contingency, and which may never ripen into a cause of action, such as the contingent liability of a surety or co-security on an administration bond. Adams v. Durham, etc., R. Co., 110 N. C. 385, 14 S. E. 857.

§ 28-165. After final account representative may petition for settlement.—An executor, administrator or collector who has filed his final account for settlement, by any time thereafter, file his petition against the parties interested in the due administration of the estate, in the superior court of the county in which he qualified, or before the judge in term time, setting forth the facts, and praying for an account and settlement of the estate committed to his charge. The petition shall be proceeded on in the manner prescribed by law, and, at the final hearing thereof, the judge or clerk may make such order or decree in the premises as shall seem to be just and right. (Rev., s. 150; Code, s. 1325; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 96; C. S. 152.)

Payment of Debt Necessary. — The personal representative should pay all debts before beginning a proceeding under this section. Carlson v. Byers, 93 N. C. 302, 304.

Allegations of Petition.—Where the petition filed under this section does not state that the personal representative has filed a final account or that he has the funds ready in hand for distribution, the petition will be dismissed. Moore v. Rankin, 172 N. C. 599, 603, 90 S. E. 759; Self v. Shugart, 135 N. C. 185, 196, 47 S. E. 464.

§ 28-166. Payment into court of fund due absent defendant or infant.—When any balance of money or other estate which is due an absent defendant or infant without guardian is found in the hands of an executor, administrator or collector who has preferred his petition for settlement, the court or judge may direct such money or other estate to be paid into court, to be invested upon interest, or otherwise managed under the direction of the judge, for the use of such absent person or infant. (Rev., s. 151; Code, s. 1526; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 97; 1893, c. 317; C. S. 153.)

Cross Reference.—As to the manner of investment of funds in the hands of clerks of court under color of their office, see § 2-54 et seq. It has been suggested in 9 N. C. L. R. 399 that this section is implicitly repealed in part by those sections.

§ 28-167. Procedure where person entitled unheard of for seven years.—When the party entitled to the money has not been heard of for seven years or more, the fund shall be distributed among the next of kin of the absent deceased person as prescribed by statute, in the following manner: An administrator shall be appointed to make a party to a special proceeding in which a verified petition shall be filed setting forth the facts, with names of the parties entitled, and the proceedings conducted as other special proceedings, and the order disposing of the fund shall be approved and confirmed by the judge, either at term or at chambers, (Rev., s. 151; Code, s. 1526; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 97; 1893, c. 317; C. S. 154.)

§ 28-169. When legacies may be paid in two years.—It is in the power of the judge or court, on petition or action, within two years from the qualification of an executor, administrator or collector, to adjudge the payment in full or partially, of legacies and distributive shares, on such terms as the court deems proper, when there is no necessity for retaining the fund. (Rev., s. 155; Code, s. 1512; C. S. 156.)

Expiration of Two Years Not Prerequisite. — The provision of this section is only a legislative affirmation of the law as it existed before the code. The allowance of two years to the representative is intended as an indulgence; it does not authorize him to defer the settlement until the expiration of that time, without necessity. Clements v. Rogers, 91 N. C. 63, 65.

It follows that in a petition filed under the representative for settlement absence of allegation that two years have elapsed since his qualification is immaterial, where it is alleged that the estate is solvent and that there is no reason why the representative should further retain the fund. Leonard v. Leonard, 107 N. C. 168, 170, 11 S. E. 1051.

Call for Account within Two Years. — The representative may be called upon by the legatees or the next of kin to account for or manage distributive funds and legacies even before the expiration of two years from the time of grant of administration. Hobbs v. Craige, 23 N. C. 332.

§ 28-170. Commissions allowed representatives. — Executors, administrators, testamentary trustees, collectors, or other personal representatives or fiduciaries shall be entitled to commissions to be fixed in the discretion of the clerk not to exceed five per cent upon the amount of receipts, includ-
Ch. 28. Administration

§ 28-171. Liability and compensation of clerk. — Every clerk of the superior court who may be intrusted with money or other estate in such case shall be liable on his official bond for the faithful discharge of the duties enjoined upon him by the judge in relation to said estate, and he may receive such compensation for his services as the judge may allow. (Rev., s. 152; Code, s. 1327; 1868-9, c. 93; C. S. 198.)

Art. 19. Actions by and against Representative.

§ 28-172. Action survives to and against representative. — Upon the death of any person, all debts owing to him, accounts, and rights to prosecute or defend any action or special proceeding, existing in favor of or against such person, except as hereinafter provided, shall survive to and against the executor, administrator or collector of his estate. (Rev., s. 156; Code, s. 1490; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 63; C. S. 159.)

Cross Reference. — As to abatement of actions, see § 1-74. Editor’s Note. — The rule of the common law is that a person’s right of action dies with the person. But great changes in this respect have been wrought by various statutes, and the maxim actio personalis mortuorum personalis is now maintainable by or against his personal representative. Suskin v. Maryland Trust Co., 214 N. C. 347, 199 S. E. 276.

The rule of the common law that a personal right of action dies with the person has been changed by this section. It was formerly held that this section did not change the common law rule that a right of action sounding in tort for personal injuries does not survive the tortfeasor or the injured person where the injury did not cause death. In view of the express terms of sec. 28-175, which then declared in long and intricate language that the recovery was upon a different theory than that allowed by the common law, it was necessary that the appeals should be dismissed. Stroud v. Western Union Tel. Co., 130 N. C. 299, 302, 41 S. E. 484.

But this provision of sec. 28-175 no longer exists. The inference is that the action has been statutorily limited to one based on a tangible physical injury, and such a limitation is reasonable and is in harmony with the policy of the state. The rule of the common law that a personal right of action dies with the person has been changed by this section and § 1-74 and, except in the instances specified in § 28-175, an action originally maintainable by or against a deceased person, and transferred to his representative under § 28-176, is not lost by his death. See Mast v. Sapp, 140 N. C. 533, 536, 53 S. E. 350.
broad provisions of this section, irrespective of whether the injury has caused death or not; and that the provisions of section 28-173 specifying the actions which will not survive the death of the injured party will be deemed to have failed. See Fuguey v. A. & W. Ry. Co., 199 N. C. 499, 153 S. E. 167.

As to those actions which are not based on a tangible physical injury, however, such as for mental anguish, etc., this analogy between such actions and actions for libel and slander which by express terms of section 28-175 are still declared not to survive.

Relation of Revival and Survival.—The general rule is that wherever an action can be revived against the representative, it will also survive against him. Butler v. Keelth, 51 N. C. 490.

This section does not revive the action against a distributee, but against the personal representative. Healey v. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 46 F. Supp. 207, 210.

The breach of the condition subsequent contained in a deed entitles the grantor during his life, of his heirs after his death, to bring suit for the land or to declare the estate forfeited, but does not entitle the administrator to bring such suit, this section not being applicable. Barkley v. Thomas, 220 N. C. 541, 17 S. E. (2d) 462.

Vindictive Damages.—The cause of action for treepass may survive against the representative of the trespassor, no vindictive damages may be recovered in such action. Rippey v. Miller, 33 N. C. 247.

§ 28-173. Death by wrongful act; recovery not assets; dying declarations;—When the death of a person is caused by a wrongful act, neglect or default of another, such as would, if the injured party had lived, have entitled him to an action for damages therefor, the person or corporation that would have been so liable, and his or their executors, administrators, collectors or successors shall be liable to an action for damages, to be brought within one year after such death, by the executor, administrator or collector of the deceased; and this notwithstanding the death, and although the wrongful act, neglect or default, causing the death, amounts in law to a felony. The amount recovered in such action is not liable to be applied as assets, in the payment of debts or legacies, except as to burial expenses of the deceased, but shall be disposed of as provided in this chapter for the distribution of personal property in case of intestacy.

In all actions brought under this section the amount from payment of debts was inserted by Public Law 1931, c. 235, § 1, and the provision that the personal representative may recover the amount from payment of debts was inserted by Public Law 1929, c. 654, § 1. § 28-173. Death by wrongful act; recovery not assets; dying declarations;—When the death of a person is caused by a wrongful act, neglect or default of another, such as would, if the injured party had lived, have entitled him to an action for damages therefor, the person or corporation that would have been so liable, and his or their executors, administrators, collectors or successors shall be liable to an action for damages, to be brought within one year after such death, by the executor, administrator or collector of the deceased; and this notwithstanding the death, and although the wrongful act, neglect or default, causing the death, amounts in law to a felony. The amount recovered in such action is not liable to be applied as assets, in the payment of debts or legacies, except as to burial expenses of the deceased, but shall be disposed of as provided in this chapter for the distribution of personal property in case of intestacy.

Hence it must be alleged and proved by the plaintiff to make out a cause of action and is not required to be pleaded as a statute of limitations. Bennett v. North Carolina R. Co., 159 N. C. 345, 74 S. E. 883; Albritt v. Mike, 221 N. C. 122, 1 S. E. 59; Hanie v. Penland, 193 N. C. 806, 138 S. E. 165.

The requirement that the action shall be brought within one year of the occurrence of the wrongful death applies equally to the person of the defendant and it must be shown by the plaintiff that he has complied therewith, and it is not necessary for the defendant to plead it as a statute of limitations. 145 S. E. 771.

Provision as to Time Strictly Construed. — This provision requiring suit to be brought within one year after the death must be strictly complied with, and a new action therefor may be only commenced within one year. 525, 526; Whitehead v. Branch, 230 N. C. 507, 17 S. E. (2d) 637. And no explanation as to why the action was not brought within such time can avail. Best v. Kinston, 106 N. C. 205, 10 S. E. 997.

Forfeiture of Rights to Survivors. — Where it appeared upon the face of the record that more than a year had elapsed since the death of the deceased, and no administratrix or executor of the deceased had taken any steps towards the commencement of suit, it was held that the plaintiff had thereby lost his right of action. George v. Mitchell, 198 N. C. 397, 151 S. E. 857.

Provision as to Time Strictly Construed. — This provision as to time strictly construed, is expressly intended to allow a full time to the personal representatives of the deceased to have all necessary arrangements made, before they are required to bring suit. Fleming v. R. R., 128 N. C. 80, 38 S. E. 253.

Conflict of Laws. — This section confers a right not existing at common law, and the provision that the action be brought within one year after the occurrence of the wrongful death is neither a statute of limitations, nor a statute of repose, nor a statute of restraint of suit. Christian v. Railroad Co., 136 N. C. 127, 126 S. E. 103.

Where a person is alleged to have caused the death of another, the cause of action lies against the executor and administrator of the deceased defendant under the provisions of this section. Scarlett v. Norwood, 115 N. C. 284, 285, 20 S. E. 459.

Administratrix of a deceased employee who has received compensation for the employee's death under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act is thereby barred from prosecuting any other remedy for the injury, she may, under this section, pending the hearing before the Industrial Commission, institute an action against a third person whose negligent acts caused the death of the intestate, and where the injury and the death are the result of the same negligent acts, the action against such third person tort-feasor. Whitehead v. Branch, 230 N. C. 507, 17 S. E. (2d) 637.

Nature of Suit. — The statute requires the suit to be brought by the administrator in his official and not in his private or individual capacity. He must sue as administrator of the deceased. Hall v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 345, 348, 59 S. E. 679.

Under this section an administrator sues in his own right and not en autre droit. Christian v. Railroad Co., 136 N. C. 127, 126 S. E. 103.

Hence under this section an action cannot be maintained by a widow as such, but must be brought by the personal representative of the deceased. Bennett v. North Carolina R. Co., 159 N. C. 345, 74 S. E. 883; Howell v. Commissioners, 121 N. C. 362, 28 S. E. 362; Craig v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 189 N. C. 137, 126 S. E. 312, 313.

Nor can a husband as such sue for the wrongful death of his wife. Hood v. American Tel., etc., Co., 162 N. C. 70, 77 S. E. 1096. See also, White v. Holding, 217 N. C. 129, 7 S. E. (2d) 24. 923.

Suit Must Be Brought by Personal Representative. — The personal representative of the deceased, his executor or administrator, etc., can alone maintain an action for damages for his wrongful death under the provisions of this section. Hanes v. Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 191 N. C. 13, 16, 131 S. E. 402; Hood v. American Tel., etc., Co., 162 N. C. 70, 77 S. E. 1096. See also, White v. Holding, 217 N. C. 129, 7 S. E. (2d) 24. 923.

Appointment of Administrator. — A cause of action under this section is sufficient for the appointment of an administrator. Vance v. Railroad, 138 N. C. 460, 464, 50 S. E. 650. But where a deceased has left a will disposing of all his property, then naming an executor, the right of action against a defendant for his wrongful death must be by the executor named. Hood v. American Tel., etc., Co., 162 N. C. 70, 77 S. E. 1096.

Foreign Administrator Cannot Sue. — A foreign administrator cannot bring an action under this section. Hall v. Southern R. Co., 149 N. C. 108, 62 S. E. 899. Therefore when an administrator does not qualify in this state until after the commission of the tort, the plaintiff cannot, under this section, bring an action against the defendant from the date of his intestate he cannot bring the action. Id. Vance v. Railroad, 138 N. C. 460, 50 S. E. 650.
IV. DISTRIBUTION OF RECOVERY.

In General.—With reference to the disposition of the recovery this section materially differs from the English statute and the statute in most of the states which generally provide for designated classes, such as the wife, the children, the administrator appointed by the court of another state, the defect may be taken by demurrer, since such plaintiff does not have legal capacity to sue and the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

Admissibility of Evidence.—In an action for wrongful death, the admissibility of evidence of dying declarations to instances of wrongful death, does not change any vested rights, and is applicable in cases where such death was caused before its passage. This is a general statute changing the rule of evidence, in vested interest, and which the law-making power can extend its benefits to all by the will. Williams v. Randolph, etc., R. Co., 182 N. C. 267, 105 S. E. 915. And this change is valid and constitutional. Tatman v. Andrews Mfg. Co., 180 N. C. 627, 103 S. E. 423.

What Declarations Permitted.—This section permits in evidence declarations of the act of killing and circumstances immediately attendant on the act, which constitutes a part of the res gestae, and which declare the act, or the actual danger of death, and made in full apprehension thereof, and when the death accordingly ensued. Tatman v. Andrews Mfg. Co., 180 N. C. 627, 103 S. E. 423.

For the dying declarations of a person for whose death an action has been brought under this section are competent as evidence, provided the preliminary facts are made to appear. Southwell v. R. R., 189 N. C. 417, 127 S. E. 361. Otherwise they are not admissible. Holmes v. Wharton, 194 N. C. 470, 140 S. E. 93.

Where declarant was fatally injured in an automobile accident, declarations made by him the night before and two days before undertaking the journey are not admissible as dying declarations. Gassaway v. Gassaway, 230 N. C. 604, 18 S. E. 2d 130.

Declarations Must Have Been Voluntary.—In case of the admission of dying declarations, as in criminal actions for homicide, the dying declarations of one whose wrongful death has been caused to be admissible upon the trial of such action, the defendant must have been voluntarily made while the declarant was in extremis or under a sense of impending death, and declared to the existence of the life of the deceased must have been part of the res gestae. Dellingr v. Elliott Building Co., 187 N. C. 845, 123 S. E. 78.

§ 28-174. Damages recoverable for death by wrongful act.—The plaintiff in such action may recover such damages as are a fair and just compensation for the pecuniary injury resulting from such death. (Rev. s. 60; Code, s. 1499; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 71; R. C., c. 1, s. 10; C. S. 161.)

Mental Anguish Not to Be Considered.—Where the plaintiff brings an action, under this section, as administrator of his son, his recovery is limited to the value of the life and he is not entitled to any damages for mental anguish in this form of action, nor for the loss of the services of his child. Byrd v. Express Co., 139 N. C. 271, 51 S. E. 851.

Evidence as to Number of Children Inadmissible.—In an action for death under this section, evidence of the number of children left by the deceased who are not surviv- ing is inadmissible. Neill v. Wilson, 146 N. C. 242, 245, 59 S. E. 674.

Nature and Quantum of Damages Recoverable.—It is well settled that no damages are to be allowed as a sol- idum or a punishment. Kesler v. Smith, 66 N. C. 154; Bradley v. Great. N. C. R., 89 N. C. 98, 67 S. E. 8; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Catlett, 177 Fed. 71; Collier v. Arrington, 61 N. C. 356.

This section restricts the recovery for malpractice to compensatory damages. Gray v. Little, 127 N. C. 809, 57 S. E. 270.

In an action for wrongful death under this section the jury may consider the pecuniary loss of such as shall accrue to the following, the loss of wages, income from industry, skill, and business, and the admission of testimony that the deceased had a 200-acre farm, a comfortable home, and a plenty for his family to eat and had to require them to make the assessment of damages in any particular way.” Poe v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 526, 54 S. E. 406.

No “Hard and Fast Rule” Prescribed.—“This court has not prescribed any ‘hard and fast rule’ by which to bind the jury in making the estimate of what sum should be given or to require them to make the assessment of damages in any particular way.” Poe v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 526, 54 S. E. 406.

Nature of Quantum of Damages Recoverable.—It is well settled that no damages are to be allowed as a solidum or a punishment. Kesler v. Smith, 66 N. C. 154, 157; Bradley v. Great. N. C. R., 89 N. C. 98, 67 S. E. 8; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Catlett, 177 Fed, 71; Collier v. Arrington, 61 N. C. 356.

This section restricts the recovery for malpractice to compensatory damages. Gray v. Little, 127 N. C. 809, 57 S. E. 270.

In an action for wrongful death under this section the jury may consider the pecuniary loss of such as shall accrue to the following, the loss of wages, income from industry, skill, and business, and the admission of testimony that the deceased had a 200-acre farm, a comfortable home, and a plenty for his family to eat and had to require them to make the assessment of damages in any particular way.” Poe v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 526, 54 S. E. 406.

No “Hard and Fast Rule” Prescribed.—“This court has not prescribed any ‘hard and fast rule’ by which to bind the jury in making the estimate of what sum should be given or to require them to make the assessment of damages in any particular way.” Poe v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 526, 54 S. E. 406.
business, etc., of the deceased is indispensable. Burton v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 82 N. C. 505.

The instruction for the determination of the quantum of damages is an important one, and should take into consideration all the pecuniary advantages from the continuance of the life of the deceased. Burton v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 82 N. C. 505.

The correct rule touching the quantum of damages is the reasonable expectation of pecuniary advantage from the continuance of the life of the deceased. Burton v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 82 N. C. 505.

The measure of damages for the wrongful killing of a mother of children is not to be ascertained by the pecuniary advantages of the children if she had lived out her expectancy, with or without regard to the number of her children and the intellectual and moral training she might have given them. Bradley v. Ohio River, etc., R. Co., 122 N. C. 972, 30 S. E. 8.

"It has been held by this court, in several similar cases, that the statute does not limit the recovery to actual pecuniary loss proved on the trial." Russell v. Windsor Steamboat Co., 126 N. C. 901, 909, 36 S. E. 191.

Under the statute the jury assesses the value of the life of the decedent in solido, which is disbursed under the statute of distributions. Horton v. Seaboard, etc., R. Co., 175 N. C. 477. Carter v. Asheville Power, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 130, 131 S. E. 400.

In ascertaining the net earnings the jury should deduct only the reasonably necessary personal expenses of the decedent, and only what he had spent for his family, or those dependent upon him, should not be deducted. Carter v. Railroad, 139 N. C. 499, 52 S. E. 642.

The total amount or net accumulated income, upon which the compensation is based, must be ascertained as of the time when the expectancy expired in contemplation of the fact that the deceased failed to live out his expectancy, and that the pecuniary advantages of the continuance of his life, character, habits, health, capacity, etc., of the deceased, Carter v. Railroad, 139 N. C. 499, 52 S. E. 642.

In such an action the value of the life before twenty-one years of age is recoverable. Gurley v. Southern Power Co., 172 N. C. 690, 695, 90 S. E. 943.

The court cannot instruct the jury in any case, when death is caused by the wrongful act of the defendant, that upon any state of facts it is their duty to render a verdict against the plaintiff, as the "reasonable expectation of pecuniary advantage from the continuance of the life of the deceased," is necessarily an inference of fact from all of the evidence and can only be drawn by the jury. Carter v. Railroad, 139 N. C. 499, 52 S. E. 642.

The meaning of damages, in the case of the wrongful death of a child, is necessarily an inference of fact from all of the evidence and can only be drawn by the jury. Carter v. Railroad, 139 N. C. 499, 52 S. E. 642.

The damages recoverable for the wrongful death of another negligently caused is the net present pecuniary worth of the deceased, to be ascertained by deducting the probable cost of his own living and his ordinary or usual expenses, from the probable gross income derived from his own exertions, based upon his life expectancy. Carpenter v. Asheville Power, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 130, 131 S. E. 400; Purnell v. Railroad, 139 N. C. 573, 130 S. E. 313; Russell v. Windsor Steamboat Co., 126 N. C. 961, 967, 36 S. E. 191.

In estimating damages under this section, the question is, did the defendant suffer any pecuniary loss by reason of the fact that the deceased failed to live out his expectancy, and in what respects? There is a necessity to consider the entire life, character, habits, health, capacity, etc., of the deceased. Carter v. Railroad, 139 N. C. 499, 52 S. E. 642.

In an action for death under this section it is competent to prove the age, strength, health, skill, industry, habits and character of the deceased, with a view to arrive at his pecuniary worth to his family. Kesler v. Smith, 66 N. C. 154.

Instructions as to Damages.—Where the evidence disclosed that intestate was a young man 18 years of age, of sober and industrious habits, that at the time of his death he was a newspaper photographer of skill and ability, and the court correctly instructed the jury as to the method of ascertaining the present net worth or deceased by the refusal of a requested instruction that since the administrator had not shown the amount of any earning on the part of the intestate, the jury should not speculate as to what his earnings had been, is not error. Queen City Coach Co. v. Lee, 218 N. C. 320, 11 S. E. (2d) 341.

2. Causes of action for false imprisonment and assault and battery.
3. Causes where the relief sought could not be enjoyed, or granting it would be nugatory, after death. (Rev., s. 157; Code, s. 1491; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 64; 1915, c. 38; C. S. 162.)

Cross Reference.—As to abatement of actions, see § 1-74.

Editor's Note.—This section formerly contained an additional provision that "even an effect which the jury may believe results from such injury does not cause the death of the injured party" shall not survive. But this provision was omitted by the amendment of 1915, ch. 38. See Editor's Note under section 28-177.

In General.—Except as specified in this section, an action originally maintainable by or against a deceased person is now maintainable by or against his personal representative. Suskin v. Maryland Trust Co., 214 N. C. 347, 199 S. E. 276.

§ 28-176. To sue or defend in representative capacity.—All actions and proceedings brought by or against executors, administrators or collectors, upon any cause of action or right to which the estate is the real party in interest, must be brought by or against them in their representative capacity. (Rev., s. 157; Code, s. 1507; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 79; C. S. 164.)

Cross References.—As to joinder of beneficiary, see § 1-63. As to when heirs and devisees are necessary parties, see § 28-87.

Heirs and Next of Kin as Parties.—The heirs and next of kin of a deceased person may be made parties to an action on account against the personal representative, although they allege collusion between the plaintiff and the representative. Byrd v. Byrd, 117 N. C. 523, 23 S. E. 324.

Application to Administrator d. b. n.—The provisions of this section apply to suits brought by administrator de bonis non, as well as to original administrator, and are mandatory. There is no middle ground. Rogers v. Gooch, 87 N. C. 468.

§ 28-177. Service on or appearance by one binds all.—In actions against several executors, administrators or collectors, they are all to be considered as one person, representing the decedent; and if the summons is served on one or more, but not all, the plaintiff may proceed against those served, and if he recovers, judgment may be entered against all. (Rev., s. 161; Code, s. 1508; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 81; C. S. 165.)

ecution in such action.—An action may be brought by a creditor against an executor, administrator or collector on a demand at any time after it is due, but no execution shall issue against the excutor, administrator or collector on a judgment therein against him without leave of the court, upon notice of twenty days and upon proof that the defendant has refused to pay such judgment its ratable part, and such judgment shall be a lien for such assets or real property at any time subsequent to the death of the decedent. (Rev., s. 1513; 1866-9, c. 113, s. 85; C. S. 169.)

Art. 20. Representative’s Powers, Duties and Liabilities.

§ 28-182. Representative may maintain appropriate suits and proceedings.—Executors, administrators or collectors may maintain any appropriate action or proceeding to recover assets, and to recover possession of the real property of which executors are authorized to take possession by will; and to recover for any injury done to such assets or real property at any time subsequent to the death of the decedent. (Rev., s. 159; Code, s. 1501; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 73; C. S. 170.)

Cross Reference.—As to recovery of assets, see §§ 28-69 to 28-73.

Recovery of Realty by Administrator d. b. n. c. t. a.—Where an executor is entitled, under this section, to the possession of the land, his successor, an administrator de bonis non, cum testamento annexo, is entitled to the same rights and remedies as his predecessor in office. Smithers v. Moody, 112 N. C. 791, 795, 175 S. E. 332.

§ 28-183. Representative may purchase for estate to prevent loss.—At any auction sale of real property belonging to the estate, the executor, administrator or collector may bid in the property and take a conveyance to himself as executor, administrator or collector for the benefit of the estate when, in his opinion, this is necessary to prevent a loss to the estate. (Rev., s. 85; Code, s. 1503; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 77; C. S. 171.)

In Sale of Realty Only.—This section authorizes the representatives to bid at the sale of realty only. Hence the non-statutory rule that a representative cannot bid at his own sale applies in sales of personalty. Woody v. Smith, 65 N. C. 116, 118.

§ 28-184. Representatives hold in joint tenancy.—Every estate vested in executors, administrators or collectors, as such, shall be held by them in joint tenancy. (Rev., s. 166; Code, s. 1502; 1865-9, c. 113, s. 74; C. S. 172.)

§ 28-185. Representatives liable for devastavit.—The executors and administrators of persons who, as rightful executors or as executors in their own wrong, or as administrators, shall waste or convert to their own use any estate or assets of any person deceased, shall be chargeable in the same manner as their testator or intestate might have been. (Rev., s. 167; Code, s. 1495; 1868-9, c. 113, s. 68; C. S. 173.)

§ 28-181. Action to continue, though letters revoked.—In case the letters of an executor, administrator or collector are revoked, pending an action to which he is a party, the adverse party may, notwithstanding, continue the action against him in order to charge him personally. If such party does not elect to proceed, within six months after notice of such revocation, the action may be continued against the successor of the executor, administrator or collector in the action against the estate, in the same manner as in case of death. (Rev., s. 165; Code, s. 1514; 1866-9, c. 113, s. 85; C. S. 169.)

Chapter 29. Descents.

Sec. 29-1. Rules of descent. — When any person dies seized of any inheritance, or of any right thereto, or entitled to any interest therein, not having devised the same, it shall descend under the following rules: (Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, s. 1; C. S. 1654.)

Cross References.—As to right of aliens to take by descent, see § 64-1. As to the distribution of estates, see §§ 28-149 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The English canons of descent were brought to this country by the early colonists and were established and prevailed here in the provincial governments. In North Carolina they survived the Revolution and remained in force until 1794. Certain principles found in the English Act, such as the males inheriting before the females, the eldest son only inheriting, and the half blood being excluded from the inheritance, seemed repugnant to the republican principles of the new land and thus the Legislature was led to make the changes which now distinguish this section from the English Act. For a detailed discussion of this subject, see Clement v. Cauble, 55 N. C. 82.

For cases dealing with the former provision governing descent to aliens, see Campbell v. Campbell, 58 N. C. 246; Rutherford's Heirs v. Wolfe, 10 N. C. 272. For a descriptive survey of the descent to aliens, see Campbell v. Campbell, 58 N. C. 246; Rutherford's Heirs v. Wolfe, 10 N. C. 272.

Definition.—Descent is the devolution of real property to the heir or heirs of one who dies intestate, the transmission by succession or inheritance. See Bouvier's Law Dict., 4th ed., s. 178. For a descriptive survey of the descent to aliens, see Campbell v. Campbell, 58 N. C. 246; Rutherford's Heirs v. Wolfe, 10 N. C. 272.

Kinds of Descent.—Descents are of two sorts: lineal, as from father to son, or grandfather to son or grandson; and collateral, as from brother to brother, and cousin to cousin, etc. See Levy v. McCarter, 6 Pet. 102, 8 L. Ed. 14. A descent may be said to be mediate or immediate, in regard to mediate or immediate descent of the estate or right; or it may be said to be mediate or immediate, in regard to the mediateness or immediateness of the pedigrees or degree of consanguinity. id.

Descent Regulated by Statute.—Descents in this State are regulated, not by the common law, but by statutes. University v. Markham, 174 N. C. 338, 349, 93 S. E. 845. And thus are regulated entirely by the Legislature. Edwards v. Yearby, 168 N. C. 663, 85 S. E. 19.

By virtue of this section an heir takes only the undevised inheritance of which the ancestor was seized at the time of his death. Gossen v. McCullers, 202 N. C. 357, 162 S. E. 740.

Title Vests Immediately.—Upon the death of an intestate ancestor, the title to his estate descends and vests at once in the intestate's issue, subject to the attenuation by descent in the future like an executory devise. Harris v. Russell, 124 N. C. 547, 32 S. E. 958.

"Lawful Heirs" as Used in Will.—The expression "lawful heir" in a will, applied to describe those who are to take a bequest of personalty, means that such sort of property in cases of intestacy. Nelson v. Blue, 63 N. C. 659, 18 S. E. 733.

Section Held Not to Apply to Person Dying before Its Enactment.—The provisions of this section held not to affect the distribution of an estate of a person dying prior to the enactment of the statute, the provision of the statute that it should apply to estates of such persons whose estates had not then been distributed being inoperative, and an illegitimate person dying prior to the enactment of the statute leaving only the brothers of his mother, or their legal representatives, him surviving, leaves no person surviving him entitled to inherit from him, and his property, both real and personal, held to vest immediately in the University of North Carolina. The Constitution and laws of the United States, Carter v. Smith, 209 N. C. 788, 185 S. E. 15.

Rule 1, Lineal descent. Every inheritance shall lineally descend forever to the issue of the person who died last seized, entitled or having any interest therein, but shall not lineally ascend, except as hereinafter provided. (Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C. c. 38, Rule 1; C. S. 1654.)

Cross Reference.—As to seizin, see notes under rule 12.

Actual or Legal Seizin Unnecessary.—By the terms of this paragraph and paragraph 12, neither actual nor legal seizin is necessary to make the stock in the devolution of estates. Sears v. McBride, 70 N. C. 152; Early v. Early, 134 N. C. 258, 267, 46 S. E. 503.

Descent of Remains.—Where a remainderman dies before the life tenant, by the death of the life tenant the remainder descends to the heirs at law of the original remainderman. Early v. Early, 134 N. C. 258, 267, 46 S. E. 503.

Distinguishing Lawrence v. Pitt, 46 N. C. 344 and King v. Scooggins, 92 N. C. 29, which cases were decided under the former provisions.

Rule 2, Females inherit with males, younger with older children; advancements. Females shall inherit equally with males, and younger with older children: Provided, that when a parent dies intestate, having in his or her lifetime settled upon or advanced to any of his or her children any real or personal estate, such child so advanced in the estate shall be utterly excluded from any share in the real estate descended from such parent, except so much thereof as will, when added to the real estate advanced, make the share of him who is advanced equal to the share of those who may not have been advanced, or not equally advanced. And any child so advanced in personal estate shall be utterly excluded from any share in the personal estate of which the parent died possessed, except so much thereof as will, when added to the personal estate advanced, make the share of him who is advanced equal to the share of those who may not have been advanced, or not equally advanced. And in case any of the children has been advanced in real estate, make the share of him who is advanced equal to the share of those who may not have been advanced, or not equally advanced. And in case any one of the children has been advanced in real estate of greater value than an equal share thereof which may come to the other children, he or his legal representatives shall be charged in the distribution of the personal estate of such deceased parent with the excess of value of such real estate so advanced as aforesaid, over and above an equal share as aforesaid. And in case any of the children has been advanced in personal estate of greater value than an equal share thereof which shall come to the other children, he or his legal representatives shall be charged in the division of the real estate, if there be any, of the excess in value, which he may have received as aforesaid, over and above an equal distributive share of the personal estate. (Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C. c. 38, s. 1, Rule 2; 1784, c. 204, s. 2; 1808, c. 739; 1844, c. 51, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 1554.)

Cross References.—As to advancements generally, see §§ 28-150 and 28-151. As to the right of adopted children to inheritance, see §§ 28-156 and 28-160.

Priority Abolished.—This rule abolishes the priority of the male over the female line, and places them upon a perfect equality, both as to collateral and lineal descents. Bell v. Dozier, 12 N. C. 333, 334.

Providing for Equality.—This section was never intended to interfere in any case where the parent himself had by his will produced an inequality by giving to one of his children either land or chattels and not to the others. Where he dies totally intestate as to all his property of every kind, then the act provides for an equality, as near as it can, by directing that such of the children as have been advanced by the intestate in his lifetime, in either real or personal estate, shall be charged with the advancement of the division of both. Jenkins v. Mitchell, 57 N. C. 207, 212.

Owner's Wishes Respected.—This section contains nothing to exclude the intent and circumstances of the case, but leaves in force and in effect all the statutes, the provisions of the Statute of Distributions, as well as under our act on the subject, it has always been held that no advancements are advancements to him to be accounted for, the amount of which shall come to the other children, he or his legal representatives shall be charged in the division of the real estate, if there be any, of the excess in value, which he may have received as aforesaid, over and above an equal distributive share of the personal estate. (Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C. c. 38, s. 1, Rule 2; 1784, c. 204, s. 2; 1808, c. 739; 1844, c. 51, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 1554.)

Adancements Regulated Early by Statute.—The doctrine of advancements was the subject of statutory enactments in England as early as the reign of Charles II. (22 and 23 Car. II., 1682-83). Nobles v. Davenport, 134 N. C. 256, 299, 111 S. E. 180.

Definitions of Advancement.—An advancement is said to be an irrevocable gift in praesenti of money or of property, real or personal, to a child by a parent, to enable the donee to anticipate his inheritance or succession to the extent of the gift. 14 Cyc., 162, Thompson v. Smith, 160 N. C. 255, 267, 73 S. E. 1010; Noble v. Davenport, 133 N. C. 207, 209, 111 S. E. 180. For further definition of advancement, see Holister v. Attmore, 58 N. C. 371; Meadows v. Meadows, 33 N. C. 148; Southern Distributing Co. v. Carraway, 189 N. C. 420, 175 S. E. 427; Parker v. Eason, 213 N. C. 115, 195 S. E. 360.

An advancement is a gift in praeasenti by a parent to a child for the purpose of advancing the latter in life, and thus for the child to anticipate the inheritance to the extent of the advancement. Paschal v. Paschal, 199 N. C. 40, 147 S. E. 680.

Where a son insures his life for the benefit of his mother in case she survives him, and otherwise to his estate, and some of the premiums on the policy are paid by the insurance company, and some by the mother, upon the prior death of the mother the administrator may not recover from the son the premiums paid by the mother on the theory that they were advancements to him to be accounted for, the arrangement appearing to be their joint enterprise. Id.

Same.—Small Presents Not Included.—An advancement is a gift of money or property for the preferment and setting of a child in life, not necessarily of a small value or such as are required for the maintenance or education of the child. The latter are the natural duties of the parent which he is required to perform. Meadows v. Meadows, 33 N. C. 148; Brader v. Cassidy, 76 N. C. 445; Kiger v. Terry, 119 N. C. 46, 458, 26 S. E. 38; Thompson v. Smith, 160 N. C. 256, 257, 73 S. E. 1010.

Applications Only in Case of Total Intestacy.—Under the English statute of distributions, as well as under our act on the subject, it has always been held that no advancements were to be accounted for except in cases of total intestacy. Brown v. Brown, 37 N. C. 309; Jenkins v. Mitchell, 57 N. C. 207, 212.

Hence advancements in land by a father are not to be brought into hotchpot and accounted for in the division among his children of his real estate, unless the father dies intestate. Brown v. Brown, 37 N. C. 309; Jenkins v. Mitchell, 57 N. C. 207, 212.

Presumption and Burden of Proof.—The doctrine of advancements is based on the idea that parents are presumed to to intend, in the absence of a will, an equality of division among all the lineal descendants of a deceased intestate, prima facie an advancement, that is, property transferred or money paid in anticipation of a distribution of his estate. Ex parte Griffin, 143 N. C. 116, 54 S. E. 1007; James v. Jamison, 26 N. C. 331; Thompson v. Smith, 160 N. C. 256, 258, 75 S. E. 1010; Noble v. Davenport, 183 N. C. 207, 111 S. E. 190.

Same—Nominal Consideration.—If land is conveyed by a deed or instrument, prima facie an advancement is presumed, and the burden of proof is then on the grantee or donee to show that an advancement was not intended. Kiger v. Terry, 119 N. C. 456, 459, 26 S. E. 38.

Same—Value Consideration.—But when the deed recites a valuable and substantial consideration, especially when it is near the full value of the land or other property, the burden then to prove it an advancement is upon the person claiming it to be such. Kiger v. Terry, 119 N. C. 456, 459, 26 S. E. 38.

Same—Intention of Parent Governs.—Making proper allowance for the burden of proof, as fixed by the presumption arising out of the nature or circumstances of the gift, the question of whether there was a clear gift, a loan, or an advancement, is to be settled by ascertaining what was the intention of the parent. Melvin v. Bullard, 82 N. C. 34, 40; Harper v. Harper, 92 N. C. 300; Kiger v. Terry, 119 N. C. 456, 26 S. E. 38; Thompson v. Smith, 160 N. C. 256, 258, 75 S. E. 1010.

Same—Parol Evidence.—And in the determination of whether a loan, a gift or an advancement was intended parol evidence is admissible. Kiger v. Terry, 119 N. C. 456, 459, 26 S. E. 38.

Value Determined.—Ordinarily the value of an advancement is to be determined as of the date of its making, and on an accounting no interest is to be charged against an advancement prior to the date of the testator or intestate, the value of which, by will or devises, is extended beyond the death of the parent or testator. Southern Distributing Co. v. Carraway, 189 N. C. 420, 127 S. E. 427. See also, Stallings v. Stallings, 16 N. C. 298, 301. See also, Stallings v. Stallings, 16 N. C. 298, 301.

Where an intestate had put slaves into the possession of his child, and afterwards made a deed of gift of them, the advancement must take effect and be estimated as of the date of the deed and not of the commencement of the possession. Shiver v. Brock, 55 N. C. 137; Ward v. Riddick, 57 N. C. 22.

Examples of Advancement.—Property put into the possession of a child on his setting out in life, suitable to housekeeping and family purposes, is not to be considered as a present but as an advancement. Shiver v. Brock, 55 N. C. 137.

Under this paragraph an estate, pur autre vie, given to a child by an intestate father, is subject to be brought into hotchpot as an advancement in the division of other lands. Dixon v. Croward, 57 N. C. 354. One-half an estate in land given by an intestate by deed to his daughter and her husband is subject to be brought into hotchpot, i.e.

Application to Grandchildren.—Grandchildren are bound to bring in the gift to their parents, but not to those to themselves. This rule being restricted to gifts from a parent to a child, and not including donations to grandchildren. Headen v. Headen, 42 N. C. 159, 161. See Shiver v. Brock, 55 N. C. 137.

Rule 3, Lineal descendant represents ancestor. The lineal descendants of any person deceased shall represent their ancestor, and stand in the same place as the person himself would have done had he been living. (Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 3; 1808, c. 739; C. S. 1654.)

A Copy of English Canon.—This section is an almost verbatim copy of the English canon and should receive the same construction as has been given to that rule. Clement v. Cauble, 55 N. C. 83, 91.

Right of Representation Indefinite.—In rules of the descent of real estate, the right of representation is indefinite, as well among collateral as lineal kindred. Johnston v. Chesser, 59 N. C. 146, 147.

Realty Descends Per Stirpes.—In the descent of real estate, the next collateral relations of the person last seized, who are of equal degree, take per stirpes, and not per capita. Clement v. Cauble, 55 N. C. 82; Haynes v. Johnson, 58 N. C. 124; Crump v. Fawcett, 70 N. C. 345.

Personalty Distributed Per Capita.—Where a fund comes solely by devise and not by advancement, and at the time of the intestate's death were and are now all in equal degree, the next of kin of the intestate, section 28-149 requires that the fund shall be distributed per capita. Ellis v. Harris, 140 N. C. 513, 43 S. E. 17.

Heirs of Trustee Take Nothing.—Where a trustee, in accordance with a proviso of the trust, passes his bare legal title to another, there was nothing to descend to his heir at his death. Fleming v. Barden, 126 N. C. 450, 36 S. E. 17.

Rule 4, Collateral descent of estate derived from ancestor. On failure of lineal descendants, and where the inheritance has been transmitted by descent from an ancestor, or has been derived by gift, devise or settlement from an ancestor, to whom the person thus advanced would, in the event of such ancestor's death, have been the heir or one of the heirs, the inheritance shall descend to the next collateral relations, capable of inheriting, of the person last seized, who were of the blood of such ancestor, subject to the two preceding rules. (Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 4; 1808, c. 739; C. S. 1654.)

Editor's Note.—Under rule 5, purchased estates—in the popular sense of the term purchase—descend to the near collateral relations of the person last seized, and not to his maternal line. While under this rule descended estates and certain excepted purchased estates descend to the nearest relations of the propositus, who were of the blood of the person last seized, or from whom the purchased estates excepted, including those derived by gift, devise or settlement, are those where the purchaser would have been an heir in case of the ancestor's death, that is, those excepted purchased estates of particular parents, same footing with a descent. The question whether the purchaser or donee would have been an heir is determined as of the time of the purchase. And thus where a purchaser at the time of the purchase whom an heir had the ancestor died, rule 5 applies and collateral relations of both parties on maternal lines inherit, even though a subsequent act of the Legislature made such purchaser an heir. See Burgwyn v. Devreux, 23 N. C. 593.

This fourth rule has for its principal object the securing to the family of the man, by whose industry the property was acquired, the enjoyment of such property in preference to those who have no consanguinity with him. Poison v. Pettaway, 159 N. C. 650, 652, 75 S. E. 935; Wilkerson v. Bracken, 24 N. C. 315.

In General.—When an estate goes to a person through a sale or conveyance to others, and that person dies without issue, it results back to those on whose conveyance the inheritance has been transmitted who would be heirs of the ancestor from whom it originally descended, or by whom it was originally settled. Wilkerson v. Pettaway, 159 N. C. 650, 652, 75 S. E. 935.

Construed with Rule 6.—This rule and rule 6 are in pari materia and should be construed together, and it was clearly intended that they should be. Paul v. Carter, 153 N. C. 26, 57 S. E. 905.

Under Rules 4, 5 and 6 of this section a grandson of the devisee of lands does not take lands by descent from him when his father is living at the time of his grandfather's death, very often he would have been an heir in case of the same lands and interest and the devisee that he would have taken under this rule if his father had not been living, and he acquires a new estate by purchase, descendible to his heirs at law under the canons of descent. Peel v. Corey, 196 N. C. 79, 144 S. C. 259.

Applies When There Is No Will.—This rule is confined to cases where there is no other disposition of the land by the will which would interfere with the prescribed course of descent. Kirkman v. Smith, 174 N. C. 60, 606, 94 S. E. 423.

Blood of Ancestor Necessary.—In order for a collateral relation of the half blood to inherit under this paragraph, he must be of the blood of the purchasing ancestor from whom the lands descend. Poison v. Pettaway, 159 N. C. 650, 75 S. E. 930; Little v. Buie, 58 N. C. 10; McMichal v. Moore, 58 N. C. 471; Noble v. Williams, 167 N. C. 112, 83 S. E. 180.

Collateral Relations Take Per Stirpes.—When lands descend to collateral relations under this section the collateral

Where Contingency Happens.—Under a deed of gift of lands from a father to his son with contingent limitation over to the issue of another son, in the event the former should die without issue, the limitation over is not to the heirs general, but to the children who take on the happening of the contingency which would divest the title of the first taker, and where this contingency has happened and the estate goes over to the contingent remainderman, the latter takes from the grantor under the deed. Stevens v. Wooten, 190 N. C. 378, 130 S. E. 13.

Failure of Contingency.—Where lands were devised to be sold upon the happening of a certain event which failed to happen, it was held that the land was never converted into personalty but remained realty and belonged to the heirs at law of the testator. Elliott v. Lotfin, 160 N. C. 301, 76 S. E. 236.

If there were a person died intestate and without lineal descendants, the real estate inherited by him from his father descended to his brother, who was his next collateral relation capable of inheriting of the blood of his father. Jones v. Hoggard, 108 N. C. 178, 181, 12 S. E. 906, 907.

Where land was devised to a grandson by his paternal grandfather, and the devisee died in the lifetime of his father, the devise of the son to the heir one of the heirs of the devisor, the estate passed to his uncles and aunts on the mother's side as well as those on the side of the father, the devisee's parents then being dead. Osborne v. Widenhouse, 56 N. C. 55.

Rule 5, Collateral descent of estate not derived from ancestor. —Failure of lineal descendants, and where the inheritance has not been transmitted by descent or derived as aforesaid from an ancestor, or where, if so transmitted or derived, the blood of such ancestor is extinct, the inheritance shall descend to the next collateral relation capable of inheriting, of the person last seized, whether of the paternal or maternal line, subject to the second and third rules. (Rev. s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 5; 1808, c. 739; C. S. 1634.)

Descendant Estate.—Where an estate has been transmitted by descent, and the blood of the acquiring ancestor has become extinct, upon the death of the person last seized intestate and without issue, the estate descends to the nearest collateral relations. University v. Brown, 23 N. C. 449.

Necessary Qualification.—In the descent of acquired estates the only qualifications necessary to a collateral is that he be the nearest relation of the person last seized. Bell v. Dorsey, 12 N. C. 333.

Illegitimate Children.—A devise of lands by the testator to his wife for life and at her death to him and his heirs carries the title to the land upon the death of the wife to her illegitimate children as her heirs to the exclusion of his legitimate children. Battle v. Shore, 197 N. C. 449, 149 S. E. 590.

Illegitimate Not Included.—An illegitimate child is not a collateral relation of, and capable of inheriting from, a legitimate child of the same mother, under this section. Wilson v. Wilson, 189 N. C. 85, 126 S. E. 181, 182.

Married Brother or Sister.—Where a son acquires land by deed from his father and pays a valuable consideration therefor, and dies without lineal descendants prior to his father's death, intestate, the land descends to the collateral relations of the son whether of the whole or half-blood, and the inheritance is not limited to the collateral relations of the son who are also of the blood of the father, the grantor. Ex parte Barefoot, 201 N. C. 395, 394, 160 S. E. 366.

Rule 6, Half blood inherits with whole; parents from child. Collateral relations of the half blood shall inherit equally with those of the whole blood, and the degrees of relationship shall be computed according to the rules which prevail in descents at common law: Provided, that in all cases where the person last seized leaves no issue capable of inheriting, nor brother, nor sister, nor issue of such, the inheritance shall vest in the father and mother, as tenants in common if both are living, and if one of them is living, then in such survivor. (Rev. s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 6; 1808, c. 739; 1915, c. 9, s. 1; C. S. 1654.)

In General.—The court, in McMichal v. Moore, 56 N. C. 471, said: "This general provision in favor of the father and mother expressly departs from the principle of keeping the inheritance in the blood of the first purchaser, which, for feudal reasons, was strictly adhered to by the common law, and which is retained in our statutes in regard to collateral relations, except for the purpose of preventing an intestate, the parents are by the statute looked upon as lineal relations. Under the plain language of the statute, it is their common-law principle is put entirely out of the way." Weeks v. Quinn, 135 N. C. 425, 426, 47 S. E. 596.

Construed with Rule 4.—This rule and rule 4 are in pari materia, and should be construed together and harmonized; and thus construed, the collateral relations of the half blood inherit equally with those of the whole blood as to the devises under the provisions of this rule, where, under the requirements of canon 4, they are of the blood of the ancestor from whom the estate was derived. Paul v. Carter, 133 N. C. 26, 65 S. E. 905; Noble v. Williams, 167 N. C. 112, 83 S. E. 180.

Personal Property.—Under this rule, claimants of the half blood are entitled to the same share of the inheritance in the blood of the testator as they would have if the whole blood in the distribution of personal property. In re Skinner’s Estate, 173 N. C. 706, 707, 100 S. E. 382.

Woman Blooms Ancestor Immaterial.—The surviving father or mother of the person seized of land, under a devise, or leaving issue capable of inheriting, or brothers, or sisters, or the issue of such, will take the inheritance under the provisions of this rule without regard to the question whether such parent or sister of the blood of the purchasing an- cestor. McMichal v. Moore, 56 N. C. 471.

Natural Parent Prevalent.—Where a child by adoption dies seized of realty, without leaving a brother or sister, and the property is claimed by both the adopted and natural father, this section confers it upon the latter. Edwards v. Yearby, 168 N. C. 663, 85 S. E. 19. (By virtue of § 48-6 this rule no longer has effect.)

Proviso Conditional.—The word "if" as used in the proviso to this rule is one of condition, and the estate will not vest if it is not complied with, being, in this case, a condition precedent. University v. Markham, 174 N. C. 338, 342, 93 S. E. 845.

Thus the fact that the mother was living at the death of her child is made a condition precedent to the vesting of the estate, and the claimant who discovers should the propitius have outlived the mother. University v. Markham, 174 N. C. 338, 93 S. E. 845.

Widow’s Heirs Inherit.—Where one is survived by his daughter and wife, and the daughter dies before the widow, the heirs of the deceased widow and not those of the husband, inherit the estate, and it is immaterial whether the daughter or widow were in possession. Weeks v. Quinn, 135 N. C. 425, 47 S. E. 596.

Effect of Amendment of 1915.—Upon the death of a minor child who takes an estate in remainder as a new propositus after the death of his mother, under his grandfather’s will, with both a brother or sister or issue of such, the inheritance is cast, under this rule of the canons of descent before the amendment of 1915, upon the father if living, the amend- ment having the effect of making the father and mother tenants in common if both of them are living, and if only one of them is living then in such survivor. Allen v. Parker, 187 N. C. 376, 121 S. E. 665.

Rule 7, Unborn infant may be heir. —No in- heritance shall descend to any person, as heir of the person last seized, unless such person shall be in life at the death of the person last seized, or shall be born within ten lunar months after the death of the person last seized. (Rev. s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 7; 1803, c. 1210; C. S. 1654.)

When Rule Applies. —This rule applies only where the person last seized has died since the passage of the rule. Rutherford v. Green, 37 N. C. 121.

Inheritance Vests Immediately.—Upon the death of the father seized of lands, his wife then being sequester, the in- heritance will immediately vest in the child en ventre sa mere. Deal v. Sexton, 144 N. C. 157, 56 S. E. 691.
Child Born after Ten Months.—An estate is not divested out of one upon whom it has devolved by the birth of a child more than ten lunar months after the death of the propositus. Britton v. Miller, 63 N. C. 269.

Rule 8, Widow or husband may take as heir. When any person dies intestate, leaving none who can claim as heir to such deceased person, but leaving surviving a widow or husband, such widow or husband shall be deemed his heir and as such inherit his estate. (Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 8; 1801, c. 575, s. 1; 1925, c. 7; C. S. 1654.)

Editor's Note.—Previous to the amendment of this rule by ch. 7, Pub. Laws 1925, it was provided that a widow should be deemed an heir of her husband in case of his death, leaving none other who could claim as an heir. The amendment makes the rule mutual between husband and wife.

The word "intestate" is inserted in the first line. Construing the original rule before this word was added the Supreme Court held that the rule could only apply to property not devised by the husband. Hence, if the husband's will gave a life estate to the widow, the widow, though surviving him, could not be said to be his "legal heir," and the widow failed to dissent to the will, the rule would not apply. Therefore, in such case, if the husband had no legal heirs, the property, at the death of the husband, would go to the widow as his "legal heir." See Grantham v. Jinnette, 177 N. C. 229, 98 S. E. 724. The addition of the word "intestate" seems to modify the Grantham v. Jinnette decision. Undoubtedly such terms will be construed parallel, as well as a total intestacy. See 4 N. C. Law Rev. 15.

When Rule Applies.—In express terms this paragraph provides that the widow shall be the heir only when there is no one else who can claim as heir. University v. Markham, 174 N. C. 338, 93 S. E. 845; Powers v. Kite, 83 N. C. 156. Bryant v. Bryant, 190 N. C. 372, 374, 130 S. E. 21.

Same—No Will.—This paragraph applies only if there is no will or a will not disposing of the entire estate. Grant- ham v. Jinnette, 177 N. C. 229, 98 S. E. 724.

Widow Prevals Over Illegitimate Half-Brother.—Dece- dent left a wife and no descendents or collateral relatives except an illegitimate half-brother. The wife and not the half-brother is the heir in such case. Wilson v. Wilson, 189 N. C. 85, 126 S. E. 181.

Rule 9, Illegitimate children inherit from mother. Every illegitimate child of the mother and the descendants of any such child deceased shall be considered an heir: Provided, however, that where the mother leaves legitimate and illegitimate children such illegitimate child or children shall not be capable of inheriting of such mother any land or interest therein which was conveyed or devised to such mother by the father of the legitimate child or children; but such illegitimate child or descendant shall not be allowed to claim, as representing such mother, any part of the estate of her kindred, whether lineal or collateral. (Rev., s. 1556, Rule 9; Code, s. 1281; R. C., c. 38, Rule 10; 1799, c. 522; 1913, c. 71; C. S. 1654.)

Cross References.—See also, rule 10 and annotations there- to. As to distribution of property among illegitimate chil- dren, see § 28-152. As to effects of legitimation, see § 49-11.

In General.—This rule breaks the connection at the mother in the ascending line when it is necessary to pur- suit her kindred, either lineal or collateral. The construction given to this rule is, that if an illegiti- mate or natural-born child shall die intestate without leaving any child or children, his or her estate shall descend to and be equally divided among his or her brothers and sisters, born of the body of the same mother, and their representatives, whether legitimate or illegitimate, in the same manner and under the same regulations and restric- tions as if he had been born in wedlock. Powers v. Kite, 83 N. C. 156, 157.

The illegitimates mentioned in this rule are those who are the children of the same mother, and they inherit as representing themselves and their representatives, as if they were legitimate. Bettis v. Avery, 140 N. C. 204, 210, 55 S. E. 854.

Representatives Must Be Legitimized.—This rule was construed in Powers v. Kite, 83 N. C. 156. In considering that construction it will be noted that the words "whether legitimate or illegitimate"
follow the words "and their representatives." But in Tucker v. Tucker, 108 N. C. 235, 266, 13 S. E. 5, Clark, J., held that while the rule allows illegitimate children to be legitimate as between themselves and their respective parents, such children shall themselves be legitimate representatives of the illegitimate child. Bryant v. Bryant, 190 N. C. 372, 374, 130 S. E. 21.

Bastards Do Not Inherit from Legitimate.—The rule does not apply to descents from a legitimate child, and the law in this State, with respect to such descents, is the same now as it was when the opinion in Flintham v. Holder, 16 N. C. 343, was delivered at December term, 1836. It was then held to be the law that "bastards can never inherit but from the mother and from each other," thus the law remains. Wilson v. Wilson, 189 N. C. 85, 88, 126 S. E. 249.

Legitimates May Inherit from Bastards.—Where there are children of the same mother, some born in wedlock and some illegitimate, the former class may inherit from the latter. Flintham v. Holder, 16 N. C. 343. Thus where an illegitimate brother died intestate and without issue, his legitimate brothers and sisters shared in the inheritance. McBryde v. Patterson, 78 N. C. 412.

Law Ignores the Father.—There is no half blood between illegitimates; they are treated as children without a father of any kind. The law takes no notice of him, for they trace only through the mother. Ash v. Camp Mfg. Co., 153 N. C. 90, 112 S. E. 516.

Must Claim through Brother.—A legitimate, who does not claim directly from a brother or sister, or from the issue of heirs of either, but from an illegitimate first cousin, who has no such right, title, or interest, may, under the rule, assert his interest or claim to the inheritance. It may be possible that if there are two brothers coming under this description, and one of them, being illegitimate, marries and has issue, the other, who is legitimate, may establish a claim to the inheritance.

Rule Differs from Older Statutes.—This section was a departure from the English law as settled by 29 Charles II, which enacts (according to the ancient rule of law) that "heir of a parent of severance, to his next of kin, and does not fall within the residuary clause. Carolina Power Co. v. Haywood, 186 N. C. 313, 119 S. E. 500.

Rule 11, Estate for life of another, not devised, deemed inheritance. Every estate for the life of another, not devised, shall be deemed an inheritance of the deceased owner, within the meaning and operation of this chapter. (Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C. c. 38, Rule 12; C. S. 1654.)

Rule Differs from Older Statutes.—This section was a departure from the English law as settled by 29 Charles II, which enacts (according to the ancient rule of law) that where there is no special occupant in whom the estate may vest, the tenant per autre vie may devise it by will, or it shall go to the executors or administrators, and be as seen in their hands for payment of debts; and the other, that of 14 Geo. II, c. 30, which enacts that the surplus of such estate per autre vie, after payment of debts, shall go in a course of distribution like a chattel interest. Brown v. Brown, 108 N. C. 235, 13 S. E. 5.

Rule 12, Seizin defined. Every person, in whom a seizin is required by any of the provisions of this chapter, shall be deemed to have been seized, if it may have had any right, title or interest in the inheritance. (Rev., s. 1556; Code, s. 1281; R. C. c. 38, Rule 13; C. S. 1654.)

Cross References.—See also, rule 1. As to distributees of illegitimates, see § 28-152. As to effects of legitimation, see § 49-2.

Common Law.—At the common law, seizin signified the possession or occupation of the soil by a free holder, one who has at least a life estate in the land. This seizin was of two kinds—seizin in deed or in fact, which was the same as the equivalent of the common law term of possession or occupation of the land with the intent, as is sometimes said, to cast a freehold interest and seizin in law, which was a bare right to possess or occupy the land or freehold, or, as otherwise defined, a right of immediate possession according to the nature of the estate. Early v. Early, 134 N. C. 258, 254, 46 S. E. 503.

Secured—Complete with Seizin under Rule.—The seizin, either in law or in deed, of the common law is not the seizin of the statute. The former requires that there shall be either actual possession or the right of immediate possession, which is that is required under the present section to constitute a sufficient seizin for the creation of a new stock of inheritance or stripes of descent is that the person from whom the descent is claimed should have had, at the time of the descent cast, some right, title or interest in the inheritance, whether vested or contingent. For the language of the statute is explicit that a person having any such right, title, or interest shall be deemed to have been seized thereof. Early v. Early, 134 N. C. 258, 267, 46 S. E. 303; Severt v. Lussi, 222 N. C. 531, 23 S. E. (2d) 829.

Trust for Wife Descends to Her Heirs.—The resulting trust in favor of the wife in lands the title to which has been acquired by her husband by deed is now descendible to her heirs under this rule, though she may not have been in separate possession thereof during her life. Barrett v. Brewer, 153 N. C. 547, 69 S. E. 614, cited and distinguished. Tyndall v. Tyndall, 186 N. C. 272, 119 S. E. 353.

New Proposition Created by Will.—A devise of land to testator's two daughters for life, and at the death of either, or both of them, said land shall go to the child or children of each, the child or children representing the mother in interest, it was held, upon the marriage of one of them, and having issue born alive, the issue so born taken by purchase of the estate, for the blood of the testator. Tucker v. Tucker, 108 N. C. 235, 238, 13 S. E. 516.

Issue of Contingent Remainderman Inherit.—Under the provisions of this chapter, if the descent is to the issue of the testator's two children, a devise to the daughter of the testator and her issue, upon the death of the testator's son without issue, is such an interest as is descendible to the issue of the daughter when she has died before the happening of the contingency. Hines v. Reynolds, 181 N. C. 343, 107 S. E. 144.

Upon an estate to W. during his life, and at his death to his eldest son, not then in esse, with residuary clause to the testator's children; upon the happening of the contingency, his devise to the children, to his heirs, to the issue of the daughter when she has died before the happening of the contingency. Hines v. Reynolds, 181 N. C. 343, 107 S. E. 144.

Upon an estate to W. during his life, and at his death to his eldest son, not then in esse, with residuary clause to the testator's children; upon the happening of the contingency, his devise to the children, to his heirs, to the issue of the daughter when she has died before the happening of the contingency. Hines v. Reynolds, 181 N. C. 343, 107 S. E. 144.

Upon an estate to W. during his life, and at his death to his eldest son, not then in esse, with residuary clause to the testator's children; upon the happening of the contingency, his devise to the children, to his heirs, to the issue of the daughter when she has died before the happening of the contingency. Hines v. Reynolds, 181 N. C. 343, 107 S. E. 144.

Upon an estate to W. during his life, and at his death to his eldest son, not then in esse, with residuary clause to the testator's children; upon the happening of the contingency, his devise to the children, to his heirs, to the issue of the daughter when she has died before the happening of the contingency. Hines v. Reynolds, 181 N. C. 343, 107 S. E. 144.

Relation to Section 51-5.—There is this marked distinction between this section and section 51-5, that it is important in dealing with the competency of the declarations of a parent. Section 51-5 deals with marriage, and it is because the relationship of husband and wife is established that the children born in wedlock are legitimate, while this rule does not validate the cohabitation, but simply confers the right to inherit, and this right is limited to the estates of the parents. Bettis v. Avery, 140 N. C. 314, 187, 52 S. E. 584; Croom v. Whitehead, 174 N. C. 305, 310, 93 S. E. 854.

All Colored Parents Included.—This rule is a valid law as to descents after its passage, and renders legitimate the children of all colored parents living together as man and wife, born before 1 January, 1868, even the children of a woman of mixed blood, whose mother was a white woman, who lived with a slave as his wife at the time of their birth. Woodward v. Blue, 103 N. C. 109, 9 S. E. 492.

Rule Legitimates Children Only as to Inheritance.—Persons born in slavery, of slave parents, and who were not legitimated by their parents marrying subsequent to the war, are not legitimated by this paragraph, except to the extent of inheriting from their parents. Tucker v. Tucker, 103 N. C. 215, 9 S. E. 492.

Applies to Estate of Parents Only.—This paragraph conveys the right of inheritance upon the children only as to the estate of their parents, not as to collaterals. Tucker v. Bellamy, 98 N. C. 31, 4 S. E. 34; Tucker v. Tucker, 108 N. C. 593, 11 S. E. 5; Bettis v. Avery, 140 N. C. 854, 52 S. E. 584; Croom v. Whitehead, 174 N. C. 305, 310, 93 S. E. 854; Bryant v. Bryant, 190 N. C. 372, 374, 130 S. E. 21.

Operates Only Prospectively.—This rule operates only prospectively and cannot divest any estate theretofore acquired. Tucker v. Bellamy, 98 N. C. 31, 33, 4 S. E. 34; Jones v. Hoggard, 108 N. C. 178, 12 S. E. 906, 907.

No Rights Conferred on Collaterals.—This paragraph legitimates the children of colored parents, who were born before the first day of January, 1868, and merely extends the children's right of inheritance to the estate of the father, which was before that restricted to the estate of the mother, but it does not transmit any title to the plaintiff, who is claiming the land in dispute as heirs of an illegitimate first cousin. Bettis v. Avery, 140 N. C. 184, 52 S. E. 594.

Illegitimates Excluded.—Where a man and woman, both slaves, cohabited as husband and wife for several years, but separated prior to emancipation and children were born while this relation existed and after the separation the woman entered into a similar relation with another slave, which continued until after the end of the war, when the parties duly acknowledged and had recorded the fact of union. Jones v. Hoggard, 108 N. C. 178, 12 S. E. 906, 907.

Two Conditions Essential.—The two essential conditions necessary to give effect to this paragraph are cohabitation existing at the birth of the child, and the legitimacy of the party from whom the property claimed is derived. Woodward v. Blue, 103 N. C. 109, 116, 9 S. E. 492; Woodward v. Blue, 107 N. C. 407, 410, 12 S. E. 453; Croom v. Whitehead, 174 N. C. 305, 310, 93 S. E. 854; Spaugh v. Hartman, 104 N. C. 154, 64 S. E. 79.

Cohabitation Is a Presumption Only.—The cohabiting does not alone confer legitimacy, though it furnishes presumptive evidence that the child is the issue of the persons thus living and indicating their relations; but the presumed fact is open to disproof, and to be determined, as other facts, upon the force of the evidence adduced, which may be sufficient to overcome the presumption. Woodward v. Blue, 103 N. C. 109, 116, 9 S. E. 492.

Cohabitation Must Have Been Exclusive.—In order to come within the provision of this paragraph, legitimating the children of colored parents living together as man and wife, etc., and thus giving them the rights of inheritance, an exclusive cohabitation must be shown, as signified by the expression, "living together as man and wife," and not casual sexual intercourse. Spaugh v. Hartman, 105 N. C. 454, 54 S. E. 198.

The cohabitation must be exclusive in the sense that it must show a single, not a polygamous, relation. Branch v. Walker, 102 N. C. 34, 40, 8 S. E. 896; Croom v. Whitehead, 174 N. C. 305, 310, 93 S. E. 854.

Evidence.—The quasi marriage relation necessary to legitimize the children of colored parents, under the provision of this paragraph may be shown in evidence by reputation, cohabitation, declarations and conduct, under the same general rule of evidence applicable to establish the fact of marriage. Nelson v. Hunter, 140 N. C. 598, 599, 53 S. E. 439, cited and approved; Spaugh v. Hartman, 135 N. C. 454, 64 S. E. 198.

Same.—Rule Less Strict than Where Legal Marriage.—To repeal the inference of paternity, drawn from the mere fact of cohabitation, the same stringent rules do not prevail as in cases of established legal marriage, when, to bastardize the issue, there must be full, affirmative, repelling proof, such as impotency, nonaccess and the like, or the presumption of legitimacy will stand. Woodward v. Blue, 103 N. C. 109, 116, 9 S. E. 492.

Art. 1. Dissent from Will.

§ 30-1. Time and manner of dissent. — Every widow may dissent from her husband's will before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such will is proved, at any time within six months after the probate. The dissent may be in person, or by attorney authorized in writing, executed by the widow and attested by at least one witness and duly proved. The dissent, whether in person or by attorney, shall be filed as a record of court. If the widow be an infant or insane, she may dissent by her guardian. (Rev. § 30-10; Code, § 2108; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 37; C. S. 4096.)

Cross Reference. — See annotation to § 30-5.

Sec. 30-10. Judgment and order for commissioners. — Where the widow is a minor without a guardian, she may dissent by her guardian. (Rev. § 30-10; Code, § 2108; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 37; C. S. 4096.)

Cross Reference. — See annotation to § 30-5.

Art. 2. Effect of dissent.

§ 30-2. Effect of dissent — Upon such dissent, the widow shall have the same rights and estates in the real and personal property of her husband as if he had died intestate. (Rev. § 30-10; Code, § 2109; R. C., c. 118, s. 12; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 38; C. S. 4097.)

Cross Reference. — As to distribution in case of intestacy, see § 30-19. As to descent in case of intestacy, see § 39-1, class 8.

Generally. — The "estate" referred to is dower; the "rights" referred to are the year's support and child's support as a distributee, both of which are legal rights, enforceable at law and not in equity. The "rights" in a court of equity except when by law may be invoked to enforce her legal rights. Drewry v. Bank, etc., Co., 173 N. C. 664, 92 S. E. 593.

The words "as if he had died intestate" are not limited to the ordinary meaning of the husband dying without making a will, but include the case of his death without effectually disposing of his property. Corporation Commission v. Dunn, 174 N. C. 697, 44 S. E. 47.

Method of Determining Widow's Share. — In ascertaining the distributive share of a widow who dissent from her husband's will, all of his personal estate, whether consisting of advancements heretofore made to children, or legacies to grandchildren or to strangers, is to be brought together, and her share is to be taken out of it pursuant to the statute of distributions. Arrington v. Dorsten, 77 N. C. 357.

Dissent Accelerates the Vesting of the Property. — Where property is devised to the widow during her life and then to a university and she dissents thereto, such property vests immediately in the university if the property is not given to the widow in her dower. Trustees v. Borden, 132 N. C. 476, 44 S. E. 47.

Right Subject to Inheritance Tax. — The donor right in favor of the husband taken by the dissenting widow is subject to the inheritance tax. Corporation Commission v. Dunn, 174 N. C. 679, 685, 94 S. E. 481.

Widow as Donee of Power. — Where the widow is the donee of a discretionary power, by dissenting from the will she renounces all gifts whether of estates or powers under it, at least of such powers as imply personal trust and confidence. Hinton v. Hinton, 68 N. C. 100, 104.

§ 30-3. Widow's interest not liable for husband's debts. — The donor or right of donor of a widow, and such lands as may be devised to her by his will, if such lands do not exceed the quantity she would be entitled to by right of dower, [ 61 ]
although she has not disserted from such will, shall not be subject to the payment of debts due from the estate of her husband, during the term of her life. (Rev., s. 3082; Code, ss. 2104, 2105; R. C., c. 118, s. 8; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 34; 1791, c. 351, s. 4; C. S. 4098.)

Generally.—This section secures a provision out of the husband's land to the widow in two cases: (1) Where dower has been actually assigned, as in cases of intestacy, and dower and dissent from the husband's will, and (2) where the husband devises lands to the wife, which are presumed to be in lieu of dower. Simonton v. Houston, 78 N. C. 468. Exempt from Judgment.—Dower assigned to a widow who dissents from her husband's will is subject to neither debts nor legacies, Bray v. Lamb, 17 N. C. 372, 374, and where the personalty is insufficient to pay the debts the land is sold subject to this right of dower. Higdon v. Higdon, 206 N. C. 62, 64, 173 S. E. 273.

§ 30-5. In what property widow entitled to dower.—Subject to the provision in § 30-4, every married woman, upon the death of her husband intestate, or in case she shall dissent from his will, or in case she shall dissent from his will, or in case she shall dissent from his will, she shall be entitled to an estate for her life in one-third of all the lands, tenements and hereditaments whereof her husband was seized and possessed at any time during the coverture, in which the third part shall be included the dwelling-house in which her husband usually resided, together with offices, out-houses, buildings and improvements thereunto belonging or appurtenant; she shall in like manner be entitled to such an estate in all legal rights of redemption and equities of redemption or other equitable estates in lands, tenements and hereditaments whereof her husband was seized in fee at any time during the coverture, subject to all valid encumbrances existing before the coverture or made during it with her free consent lawfully appearing thereto. The jury summoned for the purpose of assigning dower to a widow shall not be restricted to assign the same in every separate and distinct tract of land, but may allot her dower in one or more tracts, having a due regard to the interest of the heirs as well as to the right of the widow. This section shall not be construed so as to compel the jury selected to allot dower to allot the dwelling-house in which the husband usually resided, when the widow shall request that the same be allotted in other property. (Rev., s. 3084; Code, c. 2103; R. C., c. 118, s. 3; R. S., c. 121, s. 3; 1827, c. 46; 1869-70, c. 176; 1883, c. 175; 1908, c. 132; C. S. 4100.)

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION OF DOWER

Editor's Note.—It is practically impossible in a work of this nature to give a full treatment and discussion of the whole law of this important subject, for any one of the innumerable issues which arise in litigation on this topic could be the basis of a lengthy article. As will be seen from the front analysis, the editor has endeavored to present the viewpoint of the practitioner, to place hereunder a cross reference which contains part of the specific section of this book and to deal with those topics which appear to have a bearing on the most troublesome issues in the decided cases.

Positive Law Is Basis of Dower.—The contract of marriage does not vest in the wife her right of dower. The right is not regarded as a conveyance from contract, although the contract of marriage is a prerequisite to its existence. The positive law appears to sustain the position of the practitioner, to place hereunder a cross reference which contains part of the specific section and to deal with those topics which appear to have a bearing on the most troublesome issues in the decided cases.

Right of Dower Is a Legal Right.—The right of a widow is a legal right and is prior to that of the heir. Cameron v. Murphy, 174 N. C. 679, 681, 94 S. E. 481; Rose v. Rose, 63 N. C. 391.

Right of Dower Does Not Vary with the Wife’s Right of Dower. This right is not regarded as varying from contract, although the contract of marriage is a prerequisite to its existence.

As to exemption from debts and legacies, see note to Law of Situs Governors. — The existence and incidents of the right of dower are determined by the law of the state in which the husband resides during coverture, and the establishment of the domicile of the parties for the purpose of the marriage or the domiciliation of the parties. Corporation Commission v. Dunn, 174 N. C. 679, 81 S. E. 481. The law of the state in which the husband resides is also the law consummating the consummation of the husband's death is the governing law. Id.

Where Dissent of Wife Not Necessary. — It will be noticed that the widow's right to claim dower is subject to the two conditions, that the husband dies intestate and that he dissent from his will. In other words, this and the foregoing section give the widow the right to elect whether she will take under the provisions of the will or the intestacy. This takes under the intestacy is considered a continuation of the estate in the nature of a chose in action, which, upon assignment of dower, becomes a life estate in the property and widow. Vannoy v. Green, 206 N. C. 77, 173 S. E. 277.

Not Consummated Until Death of Husband. — A married woman has an inchoate right or estate in one-third in value of all the lands of which her husband was seized and possessed during coverture, but its enjoyment is postponed by law until his death, and is contingent upon her surviving him. Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113 N. C. 312, 313, 18 S. E. 188. And the inchoate dower in the lifetime of her husband has her dower allotted even though his lands are sold under execution. Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113 N. C. 312, 313, 18 S. E. 219.

Upon the death of a husband, the widow's right of dower becomes consummated, and is a vested and vested right of property in the nature of a chose in action, which, upon assignment of dower, becomes a life estate in the property possessed by her husband during the marriage or the domicile of the parties. Corporation Commission v. Dunn, 174 N. C. 679, 81 S. E. 481. In summarizing the nature of this right, it is said in 2 S. E. 219.

Seizin of Estate of Inheritance Necessary. — The seizin to the right of dower being a substantial right, possessing in contemplation of its attributes, is to be estimated and valued as such." And in Dolley v. Coln, 14 Wall 472, 479, 20 L. Ed. 830, it is said: "A wife having only an inchoate right of dower has no present title to the land, either legal or equitable."—Ed. Note.

It must be remembered that the widow's lands are sold by a receiver appointed by the court, and the husband and wife join in the receiver's deed to the purchaser, who assumes prior mortgage indebtedness thereon, and the parties agree that the widow's inchoate dower attaches to the proceeds of the sale, and the cash value of the inchoate right is computable by the wife is entitled thereto among the other creditors of the husband. American Blower Co. v. Mackenzie, 197 N. C. 152, 147 S. E. 829, laying down rule for computing present value of right of dower.

Although inchoate dower has a present value, the enjoyment of the estate is expressly postponed by statute until after the husband's death, and is contingent upon the widow surviving him. Higdon v. Higdon, 206 N. C. 62, 173 S. E. 271.

Cited in Honeycutt v. Burleson, 198 N. C. 37, 38, 150 S. E. 634.

II. PROPERTY SUBJECT TO DOWER.

A. In General.

Editor's Note.—The courts have followed the clear and unambiguous terms of this section in the determination of just what property is subject to the dower right of the widow. The cases given below will illustrate that the property must be real estate which is the wife's personal property, is the widow required to dissent from this will in order to lay claim to dower in the defeasible fee of which the widow has no title or estate in the property which he could dispose of by will. Now when the husband dies having a devise to his widow of a life estate in land, and the limitation is defeated at his death because of the non-performance of the condition thereof, then he has no legal title or estate in the land which he could dispose of by will. When the husband takes a defeasible title to lands and the limitation is defeated, this will in order to lay claim to dower in the defeasible fee of which the husband has no right to dower or that the husband dies leaving a will disposing of all the personal property, is the widow required to dissent from this will in order to lay claim to dower in the defeasible fee of which the husband was seized and possessed during coverture, but its enjoyment is postponed by law until his death, and is contingent upon her surviving him. Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113 N. C. 312, 313, 18 S. E. 188. And the inchoate dower in the lifetime of her husband has her dower allotted even though his lands are sold under execution. Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113 N. C. 312, 313, 18 S. E. 219.

The widow has no right under this section, to select the dwelling-house, and not conferring the right of seized by her dying before her husband.'

Not Consummated Until Death of Husband. — A married woman has an inchoate right or estate in one-third in value of all the lands of which her husband was seized and possessed during coverture, but its enjoyment is postponed by law until his death, and is contingent upon her surviving him. Wing v. Green, 206 N. C. 77, 173 S. E. 277.

Una phenomenon subject to the dower right of the husband. But whatever constitutes the basis of this section has reference to property which may be the subject of a devise. The husband in this case has no right to dower. The husband's death is the governing law. Id. The widow has no right under this section, to select the dwelling-house, and not conferring the right of seized by her dying before her husband.'

Not Consummated Until Death of Husband. — A married woman has an inchoate right or estate in one-third in value of all the lands of which her husband was seized and possessed during coverture, but its enjoyment is postponed by law until his death, and is contingent upon her surviving him. Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113 N. C. 312, 313, 18 S. E. 188. And the inchoate dower in the lifetime of her husband has her dower allotted even though his lands are sold under execution. Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113 N. C. 312, 313, 18 S. E. 219.

Upon the death of a husband, the widow's right of dower becomes consummated, and is a fixed and vested right of property in the nature of a chose in action, which, upon assignment of dower, becomes a life estate in the property possessed by her husband during the marriage or the domicile of the parties. Citizens Bank, etc., Co. v. Watkins, 215 N. C. 25, 1 S. E. (2d) 85.

The widow has no right under this section to select the land to constitute her dower, the provision providing that the commissioners need not select the dwelling-house if the widow does not express a desire that it be selected. See also, 2 S. E. 219.

Valuation of Property.—A widow is not entitled to have dower of the improved value of her husband's estate, but she must take it according to the value as it was in his lifetime. Campbell v. Murphy, 55 N. C. 357.

Right of Dower.—The claim of dower becomes a vested right upon allotment, continuing from the death of her husband, and from that time she is entitled to the usufruct of the same, notwithstanding the opposite may have been kept out of possession. In re Gorham, 177 N. C. 271, 98 S. E. 717.

Same.—Where Lands Sold to Pay Debts of Deceased.—In case of a sale of the lands to make assets to pay the debts of the deceased, the widow is entitled to interest on her proportionate part from the sale until payment, charging her interest in return, for such sums as she may be entitled to the estate. In re Gorham, 177 N. C. 271, 98 S. E. 717.

Partnership Property.—Real estate belonging to a partnership is subject to dower in favor of a widow of one of the partners, and in case of the death of the partner, the partnership assets are sold to pay partnership debts, the surplus retains its character as real estate and descends to the heir, so that the heir takes subject to the widow's right of dower. In re Gorham, 177 N. C. 271, 98 S. E. 717.

Mortgaged Property.—Under this section where an entire transaction was in effect an indirect mortgage on the property of a father, and his children received no consid- eration and no conveyed beneficial interest, but the interest of the sole beneficial interest in the lands was in the father, and upon his death his widow is entitled to dower rights in the lands. Stack v. Stack, 202 N. C. 461, 163 S. E. 560.

Efland v. Efland, 96 N. C. 488, 1 S. E. 888.

The original Act of 1784 read "seized or possessed." The section now reads "seized and possessed," the substitution of the word "and" for the word "or" having been made by the Act of 1836. This substitution, however, does not affect the substantive meaning and intent of the section, and is said in Weir v. Tate, 39 N. C. 264, 278, to be only a clerical error. This being true the section as it now reads is to be given the same construction as it received prior to the exchange of these words. Under this construction it would seem that the word "possessed" is surplusage, and at least on one occasion, Efland v. Efland, supra, the court has so ever understood why it was placed in the section. Weir v.
Tate, supra. This view seems to be rested on the fact that whether or not the husband has been seized of the land, the widow's right to dower rests upon the theory that the requisite of seizin is satisfied, the possession, so far as required, having arisen in various forms, and have involved the actual possession of a freehold estate and the former to the right to the immediate possession or enjoyment of a

When Husband Deemed to Be Seized.—The husband is generally deemed to be seized of any land, "when he may have had any right, title, or interest in the inheritance." 112 N. C. 600, 685, 24 S. E. 429.

2. Application.

Editor's Note. — The determination of the question as to whether or not the husband has been seized of the land, within the meaning of the judicial construction placed on the word as used in this section, has been the most fruitful source of litigation of the whole subject of dower.
The contests which have been waged around this particular requisite have arisen in various forms, and have involved all kinds of estates and interests. However, the conclusions reached by the courts are believed to be placed on the word as used in this section, probably has been the most fruitful source of litigation of the whole subject of dower.
The general doctrine of the rule in Shelley's Case may be stated generally as follows: "If the husband dies within the meaning of the section for, as we have already seen, seizin as here used means an estate of inheritance. See note of Barnes v. Roper, ante, this note, analysis line II, B. 1.

The reason for preventing the wife from recovering under the rule of the Thompson case, just noted, was the fact that the words "born of his wife" were held to qualify and explain "the lawful heirs of the husband," and that the son was not the lawful heir of the husband.

For a discussion of the rule in Shelley's Case, see the note to section 41.1—Ed. Note.

listerd for otherwise the widow is not entitled to dower out of

be held that a deed for land had been delivered, but from whom it had been abstracted before registration, has a right to her dower in such land, the husband having an incomplete legal title.

Rent.—In a U. S. Supreme Court case, Herbert v. Wren, 7
Cranch 370, 3 L. Ed. 374, it was held that if a wife join her husband in a lease for years, she is still entitled to dower in the rent.

Estate at Will.—At common law a wife had no right of dower in an estate at will. See Duncan v. Navassa Phosphate Co., 137 U. S. 647, 34 L. Ed. 826.

III. PLEADING AND PRACTICE.

Only One Proceeding Necessary.—This section gives the widow dower in all the lands of which the husband was seized during coverture, and this provision contemplates that the dower proceeding shall be the one proceeding in which the husband shall have been seized during coverture. See Duncan v.
Navassa Phosphate Co., 137 U. S. 647, 34 L. Ed. 826.

The rationale of this section tends to indicate that there should be only one proceeding for the allotment of dower, whether it is a dower proceeding or a proceeding for partition of land, in which widow is entitled to dower, and that proceeding should be in the county where "the dwelling house in which her husband usually resided" is situated.
High v. Pearce, 230 N. C. 266, 274, 17 S. E. (2d) 108 (conversational). (Rev.) and cases cited therein.

There is no statute of limitations in regard to the writ of dower; and if her case is not affected by the statute of preemptions, her widow is entitled to account for a delay.
Campbell v. Murphy, 55 N. C. 357.

Parties.—As to who are necessary parties, see section 30-12 and the note thereto.

§ 30-6. Dower not affected by conveyance of husband; exception.—No alienation of the husbond alone, with or without covenant of warranty, shall have any other or further effect than to pass his interest in such estate, subject to the dower right of his wife: Provided, that a mortgage or trust deed by the husband to secure the purchase money, or any part thereof, of land bought by him, shall, without the wife executing the deed, be effectual to pass the whole interest according to the provisions of the said deed. (Rev. s. 3085; Code, s. 2105; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 35; C. S. 4101.)

Cross Reference.—As to private examination of wife, see § 39-7 and annotation thereto.

Editor's Note.—Under this section as it formerly stood no joinder of the wife in a conveyance by the husband was required. Under this section as it stood under the old law, the wife was given dower only in those lands of which the husband died seized. That section no longer requires seizin at the death of the husband, but only a seizin of inheritance thereafter, which must have been a complete and utter seizure of an estate of inheritance within the meaning of the words as used in this section. But if the rule in Shelley's Case is inapplicable, then the husband takes only a life estate out of which dower cannot be had, and this because the husband will not have been "seized" within the meaning of this section for, as we have already seen, seizin as here used means an estate of inheritance. See note of Barnes v. Roper, ante, this note, analysis line II, B. 1.

The reason for preventing the wife from recovering under the rule of the Thompson case, just noted, was the fact that the words "born of his wife" were held to qualify and explain "the lawful heirs of the husband," and that the son was not the lawful heir of the husband.

For a discussion of the rule in Shelley's Case, see
taken away by the change of the wording of section 30-5, and the wife's right, although, in a sense, a qualified one, is preserved by the husband's conveyance to his wife of the right of dower, assuming of course, the existence of the essential elements. It necessarily follows, then, that all purchasers, etc., take the property conveyed by the husband, subject to the right of dower, and section 30-6 is merely a statutory protection thereof.

This section is modified by section 30-9 to the extent that the husband of an insane or lunatic wife may alienate his property without her joinder provided the terms of that section are complied with.

Generally.—It is an established principle that every citizen has the right to enjoy the fruits of his own labor, and when his earnings are invested in land, the rule is that he acquires with the title the incidental right of absolute and un-restrained alienation. However there are a few instances where a right is vested in the husband to reach some beneficent end; the provision that the wife must join in a conveyance by her husband constitutes one of these restrictions. But this and the other restrictions must be construed and carried out the kindly purpose for which they were created, with no more restraint on the power of alienation than is necessary to make them effectual. Hughes v. Hodges, 103 N. C. 236, 9 S. E. 437.

Non Joinder of Wife—Dowerable Property Retained.—Where the husband has sold and conveyed portions of his land for valuable consideration without the joinder of the wife, but the land sold was subject to dower, the original deed is not void, though it does not convey the quantity which permit that dower be assigned out of the lands descended and according to the provisions of this section, the purchasers have a right to require that dower be shown and, if it is not shown, they have a right to have the purchase price returned to them. Case v. Fittsmon, 209 N. C. 783, 184 S. E. 818.

§ 30-7. Dower conveyed by wife's joinder in deed.—The right to dower under this chapter shall pass and be effectual against any widow or person claiming under her upon the wife joining with her husband in the deed of conveyance and being privately examined as to her consent thereto in the manner prescribed by law. (Rev. s. 3056; Code, s. 2107; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 30; C. S. 4102.)

See annotations to § 30-8.

Inchoate Right of Dower as Collateral Security.—The wife by joining in her husband's mortgage given on his lands may convey, as additional security to his debt, her inchoate right of dower. Griffin v. Griffin, 191 N. C. 227, 131 S. E. 583.

Same—Forclosure.—A deed of trust given by the husband and joined in by the wife unreservedly of her inchoate right of dower, may be enforced under its terms and conditions to pay off the debt it secures, and completely bars the inchoate right of dower. Griffin v. Griffin, 191 N. C. 227, 131 S. E. 583.

Where a wife joins in the execution of a mortgage or deed of trust, she is entitled to executory dower, and is considered as having the right of dower, and upon foreclosure after her husband's death she may not assert her dower in the land as against the purchaser at the foreclosure sale, although, her position being executory dower, she is entitled to assert a claim against her husband's estate to the amount of the value of her dower. Realty Purchase Corp. v. Hail, 213 N. C. 363, 194 S. E. 651.

Same—Equity Will Not Intervene.—Equity will not interfere in behalf of the wife who has unreservedly joined in a mortgage on her husband's lands, to restrain the sale according to the terms and conditions of the mortgage, even though she is entitled to a foreclosure sale of the lands outside of the wife's inchoate interest, and if not sufficient, subject her interest to sale for the payment of her husband's debt. Griffin v. Griffin, 191 N. C. 227, 131 S. E. 585.

Joinder Makes Wife a Surety.—When the wife encumbers her inchoate right of dower by joining in a mortgage of her land to secure her debt she becomes her surety, Griffin v. Lynch, 208 N. C. 391, 126 S. E. 469.

§ 30-8. Conveyance of home site with wife's assent.—No deed or other conveyance, except to secure purchase money, made by the owner of a home site, which shall include the residence and other buildings together with the particular lot or tract of land upon which the residence is situated, whether actually occupied by said owner or not, shall be valid to pass possession or title during the lifetime of the wife without the voluntary signature and assent of her wife, signed on her private examination according to law. Provided, the wife does not commit adultery, or has not abandoned and does not abandon the husband and apart from him. Provided further, that all married women under the age of twenty-one shall have the same privilege to renounce their dower rights in and to the home site as is now conferred upon married women twenty-one years and over, and, the deed or other conveyances thereof made by the owner of a home site with the voluntary signature and assent of his wife, signed on her private examination according to law. Even though the wife be under twenty-one years of age, shall be valid and immediately pass possession and title thereto as of the date thereof, even though the wife of said owner was under twenty-one years of age at the time of such signature and assent. (1919, c. 133; 1937, c. 69; C. S. 4103.)

Cross Reference.—As to mortgage of household and kitchen furniture, see § 39-3.

Editor's Note.—Section 30-9 passed by the Public Laws of 1923, is undoubtedly intended to modify this section in that it allows the husband in certain specified cases to alienate the property concerned without the joinder of his wife.

The 1927 amendment directed that the last two provisos be added at the end of this section.

In Coker v. Virginia-Carolina Joint-Stock Land Bank, 208 N. C. 391, 126 S. E. 469, it was held that § 30-9 is not to be construed to include a conveyance by the owner of a home site as is now conferred upon married women twenty-one years and over:

Provided further, that all conveyances of a home site, as defined in this section, made prior to February 27, 1937, by the owner thereof, with the voluntary signature and assent of his wife, signed on her private examination according to law, shall be valid and pass the title and possession thereto as of the date thereof, even though the wife of said owner was under twenty-one years of age at the time of such signature and assent. (1919, c. 133; 1937, c. 69; C. S. 4103.)

In General.—In Southern State Bank v. Summer, 188 N. C. 697, 688, 125 S. E. 489, the court said: "The value of the 'home site' is not fixed by the statute. It is not certain as to whether it is the site of the residence, or the lands within, the homestead right. Nothing is said as to whether it is superior to the rights of heirs or the claims of creditors. It has been suggested that the statute may apply, and probably was intended to apply only as against those claiming [65] under a deed from the husband without his wife's proper joiner. We leave its interpretation for future consideration.

The amendment of 1935 made this section applicable to the renunciation of curtesy and assent to conveyances of real property.

Art. 3. Allotment of Dower.

§ 30-11. By agreement between widow and heir. — If the personal property of a decedent be sufficient to pay his debts and charges of administration, the heir or devisee with the widow may, by deed, agree to an assignment of her dower. (Rev., s. 3087; Code, s. 2110; 1869-9, c. 93, s. 39; C. S. 4104.)

There is nothing in this or the following section to indicate that the widow may select her dower or "endow herself." Vannoy v. Green, 506 N. C. 77, 173 S. E. 277.

§ 30-12. Petition filed in superior court. — If no such agreement be made, the widow may apply for assignment of dower by petition in the superior court, and, if she fail to make such application within three months after the death of her husband, any heir or devisee may file a petition reciting the facts that the widow is entitled to dower on certain lands and has not applied for it, and demand that her dower be assigned to her. In all cases the widow and all heirs and devisees and persons in possession of, or claiming estates in, the lands shall be made parties, and the court shall hear and pass upon the petition in like manner as in other cases of special proceedings. (Rev., s. 3088; Code, ss. 2111, 2112; 1891, c. 133; 1869-9, c. 93, ss. 40, 41; C. S. 4105.)

Cross Reference. — As to the statute of limitations for allotment of dower upon lands not in actual possession of the widow, see § 46-15 and annotations thereto. In General. — The remedy by petition, as prescribed by this section, is a substitute for the action of dower at law. McKnight v. Turner, 179 N. C. 127, 150 S. E. 497.

§ 30-9. Conveyance without joinder of insane wife; certificate of lunacy. — Every man whose wife is a lunatic or insane may bargain, sell, lease, mortgage, transfer and convey any of his real estate by deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust or lease executed, probated and registered in accordance with law shall convey all the estate and interest therein intended to be granted in the land conveyed, free and exempt from the dower rights and all other interests of his wife. (Rev., s. 3087; Code, s. 2110; 1869-9, c. 93, ss. 40, 41; C. S. 4105.)

Editor's Note.—Attention is called to the fact that sections two of the act of 1923, which enacted this section, provided that the certificate of the court in which the wife was adjudged a lunatic or declared insane, or the superintendents of an insane institution of the state, or any other state, shall certify under his hand and seal that she has been adjudged a lunatic or declared insane, and that her sanity has not been declared restored as is provided by law, and this certificate must be attached to the husband's deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust, or lease. Such deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust or lease executed, probated and registered in accordance with law shall convey all the estate and interest therein intended to be granted in the land conveyed, free and exempt from the dower rights and all other interests of his wife. The amendment of 1935 made this section applicable to the renunciation of curtesy and assent to conveyances of real property.

Dissent Essential to Jurisdiction. — The entry of a dissent by the widow is an incident to the jurisdiction of the superior court, and not to the court in chancery. Gatewood v. Tomlinson, 113 N. C. 312, 18 S. E. 318. The amendment of 1935 made this section applicable to the renunciation of curtesy and assent to conveyances of real property.

§ 30-10. Renouncement of dower. — All married persons under the age of twenty-one years shall have the same privilege to renounce their dower rights and rights of curtesy and to give their written assent to conveyances of real property as are now conferred upon married persons twenty-one years old and over. (1923, c. 67, c. 2; 1935, c. 18; C. S. 4103(b).)

Cross Reference.—See also, § 52-13.

Editor's Note.—Attention is called to the fact that sections two of the act of 1923, which enacted this section, provided that the certificate of the court in which the wife was adjudged a lunatic or declared insane, or the superintendents of an insane institution of the state, or any other state, shall certify under his hand and seal that she has been adjudged a lunatic or declared insane, and that her sanity has not been declared restored as is provided by law, and this certificate must be attached to the husband's deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust, or lease. Such deed, mortgage deed, deed of trust, or lease executed, probated and registered in accordance with law shall convey all the estate and interest therein intended to be granted in the land conveyed, free and exempt from the dower rights and all other interests of his wife. of the superior court, the widow's dissent is to be made and entered upon the minutes of the court. Rev., s. 30-231.
Assignment before Allotment.—Where the right to a dow er has been assigned before allotment, the assignee's remedy to enforce it is by civil action in term; the clerk of the court in whose jurisdiction Par ton v. Allison, 109 N. C. 674, 14 S. E. 107.
Allotment by Heirs.—In McMillan v. Turner, 52 N. C. 456, 5 N. C. 323, it was held that the husband assigns the widow her dower, and also that twenty years con tinuous possession by the widow of a certain tract of land claimed as dower, is sufficient to raise a presumption that such assignment had been made. But as to the last point mentioned, i. e., allotment by heirs, see Freeman's Heirs v. Ramsey, 189 N. C. 790, 128 S. E. 404, where it is held that the assignation of dower is exclusive.
Administrator as a Party.—If there is no prayer against the administrator he is not a necessary party to a bill for the assignment of dower. Campbell v. Murphy, 55 N. C. 17.
Creditor as Parties.—Creditors are not necessary parties to the proceedings, Ramsour v. Ramsour, 63 N. C. 231; but the court may permit a creditor of a person, who died seized and possessed of lands to be made a party to the proceed ing and contest the claim of the widow. Welfare v. Wel fare, 108 N. C. 272, 12 S. E. 1025.
Clerk Must Make Exceptions within Allotted Time.— While creditors of an estate may be permitted to contest the widow's allotment of dower in proper instances upon the ground that the allotment is excessive, they must pursue the aggrieved course by the time the court has appointed a port of the jury, and their motion to be made parties in order to contest the allotment of dower, made almost three months after approval by the court of the clerk's confirmation of the jury's report, is too late. Poindexter v. Call, 208 N. C. 62, 179 S. E. 335.
Judgment Conclusive upon All Claimants.—The judgment in the proceeding to allot and set apart to the widow her dower is intended by this section to be and is conclusive upon the heirs, devisees or other claimants who may be parties as to the title of the husband and the rights of the widow. Boyd v. Redd, 118 N. C. 680, 685, 24 S. E. 420.
Same—Where Lessee Not Made Party. — The lessee of lands for a term during the continuance of the lease after the death of the deceased owner, is a proper and necessary party to proceedings to lay off the widow's dower wherein the lessee was interested, and where he has not been made a party he is not bound by the judgment in his action of ejectment and to recover damages against the widow, administrator and heirs at law. Ingram v. Corbit, 177 N. C. 318, 99 S. E. 18.

§ 30-13. Assignment of dower.—If dower be adjudged, it shall be assigned by a jury of three persons qualified to act as jurors, unless one of the parties demand a greater number, not exceeding twelve, who shall be summoned by the sheriff to meet on the premises or some part thereof, and to be sworn by the sheriff or other person judged, it shall be assigned by a jury of three persons, and the jury's report to the court is conclusive upon all claimants. Welfare v. Welfare, 108 N. C. 272, 12 S. E. 1025.

Judgment Conclusive upon All Claimants.—The judgment in the proceeding to allot and set apart to the widow her dower is intended by this section to be and is conclusive upon the heirs, devisees or other claimants who may be parties as to the title of the husband and the rights of the widow. Boyd v. Redd, 118 N. C. 680, 685, 24 S. E. 420.

Same—Where Lessee Not Made Party. — The lessee of lands for a term during the continuance of the lease after the death of the deceased owner, is a proper and necessary party to proceedings to lay off the widow's dower wherein the lessee was interested, and where he has not been made a party he is not bound by the judgment in his action of ejectment and to recover damages against the widow, administrator and heirs at law. Ingram v. Corbit, 177 N. C. 318, 99 S. E. 18.

§ 30-13. Assignment of dower.—If dower be adjudged, it shall be assigned by a jury of three persons qualified to act as jurors, unless one of the parties demand a greater number, not exceeding twelve, who shall be summoned by the sheriff to meet on the premises or some part thereof, and to be sworn by the sheriff or other person authorized to administer oaths, shall proceed to allot and set apart to the widow her dower in said premises according to law and make report of their proceedings under their hands within five days to the clerk of the superior court.

When the husband dies seized and possessed of lands in any other county than that in which dower is to be assigned, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which dower is to be assigned shall, upon application of the widow entitled to dower, issue a commission to the sheriff of such other county requiring him to summon three or more persons, as may be asked in said application, qualified to act as juro rs, to go upon the lands of said husband in the superior court of the county in which said husband shall countersign the same as their report to the clerk issuing said commission; and said report in the hands of the jury summoned to assign the dower shall be considered by them a true valuation of the lands mentioned in the report, and said last-mentioned jury shall be deemed to have met on the lands thus assessed and shall assign dower accordingly. But if agreeable to and convenient to the jury so summoned or appointed, as the case may be, in the county where the proceeding is pending, for the allotment of dower, said jury may go upon, view and assign and allot the land which lies in any other county or counties; and when so viewed, assessed and allotted, if it or any part of it be allotted as dower, their acts shall be valid and their allotment of dower be as valid, as if all of the land of the deceased husband lay in the county where the proceeding was brought and pending, upon properly certified copy of such allotment being filed and recorded in such other county or counties, other than the one in which the original proceedings were instituted, in which lands acted upon do lie.

If either party to the proceeding shall demand it, the clerk shall appoint three persons qualified to act as jurors, unless one of the parties demands a greater number, and then not exceeding twelve, who shall meet on the premises or some part thereof, and after being duly sworn by the clerk or someone authorized to administer oaths, shall proceed to allot and set apart to the widow her dower in said premises according to law and make report of their proceedings under their hands, or the hands of a majority of them, within five days to the clerk of the Superior Court; and when the jurors are so appointed the sheriff will not countersign the report nor take any part in the proceedings, except that the clerk may cause notice to be served on the jurors so appointed, if he deems or finds it necessary. (Rev., s. 3089; Code, s. 2113; 1893, c. 314: 1908-9, c. 93, s. 42; 1931, c. 393; 1939, c. 339; C. S. 4106.)

1939 Amendment added the second sentence of the second paragraph.

Signature of Sheriff Unnecessary.—It is not required that the sheriff attest the report of the jury by signing it the same. Brickhouse v. Sutton, 99 N. C. 101, 5 S. E. 380.

Where Secondary Evidence of Report Admissible.—Where it appeared that the report of the jury fully described the land of the wife, which had been lost, and the omission of a certain line in the record was made in copying it upon the record, it was held that the report is a part of the record and secondary evidence of its contents is admissible. Wells v. Harrell, 152 N. C. 218, 67 S. E. 584.

Manner of Allotment of Mortgaged Lands.—In a petition for dower, where the lands consisted principally of different parcels mortgaged in several deeds by husband and wife, the allotment should not be in part of the lands as if unencumbered or subject to the same encumbrance, but in each parcel separately, and then the widow can work out her relief by asserting her equity against each creditor, as he seeks to enforce his security. Askew v. Askew, 103 N. C. 285, 290, 9 S. E. 646.

The remedy against an excessive assignment of dower is by action of ejectment and to recover damages against the sheriff, for whom the sheriff is not required to render an account of which it is competent for the court to hear affidavits with view to ascertain the facts. Welfare v. Welfare, 108 N. C. 272, 12 S. E. 1025.

Power of Court.—Ordinarily, the court, before which exceptions to the report of the jury in the allotment of dower is heard, is the sole judge whether a reassignment or successive reassignments shall be made. Poindexter v. Call, 208 N. C. 62, 179 S. E. 335.
§ 30-14 Notice to parties of meeting of jury.—The parties to such proceeding, or their attorneys, if within the county, shall be notified of the time and place of meeting of the jury appointed to assign dower, at least five days before the meeting. (Rev. s. 3090; Code, s. 2114; 1888-9, c. 91, s. 43; C. S. 4107.)

Art. 4. Year's Allowance.

§ 30-15. When widow entitled to allowance.—Every widow of an intestate, or of a testator from whose will she has dissented, shall, unless she has forfeited her right thereto as provided by §§ 52-19 and 52-20, be entitled, in addition to her distributive share, to an allowance the value of five hundred dollars for her support for one year after his death. Such allowance shall be exempt from any lien, by judgment or execution, acquired against the property of the husband. (Rev. s. 3091; Code, s. 2116; 1888-9, c. 93, s. 81; 1871-2, c. 103, s. 44; 1850, c. 42; 1889, c. 499, s. 2; C. S. 4108.)

Cross References.—As to property subject to allowance, see § 30-18 and annotations thereto. As to effect of widow's adultery, see § 32-20. As to when children entitled to an allowance, see § 30-18.

Purely a Statutory Right.—The right of a widow to a year's support is purely statutory. Broadnax v. Broadnax, 110 N. C. 432, 76 S. E. 216. See Drewry v. Raleigh Savings Bank and Trust Co., 173 N. C. 664, 92 S. E. 593.

Priority Over Creditors.—Rule Stated.—The widow is given her right to her years support against all general creditors, but no better title to the property assigned her than her husband had under his will, which was done, and both parties assented to the report in writing, it was held that the widow in the absence of fraud and undue influence was estopped by the antenuptial contract re-linquishing all claim to any property of her husband. Perkins v. Bloom, 97 N. C. 559.

Award under Will as Estoppel.—Where the widow and the executor by mutual consent selected three men to lay off the dowry land and execute and deliver a patent therefor, and the husband's will, which was done, and both parties assented to the report in writing, it was held that the widow in the absence of fraud and undue influence was estopped by the antenuptial contract relinquishing all claim to any property of her husband. Perkins v. Bloom, 97 N. C. 559.

Antenuptial Contract as a Bar.—A widow is barred from recovering a year's support by an antenuptial contract relinquishing all claim to any property of her husband. Perkins v. Bloom, 97 N. C. 559.

Award under Will as Estoppel.—Where the widow and the executor by mutual consent selected three men to lay off the dowry land and execute and deliver a patent therefor, and the husband's will, which was done, and both parties assented to the report in writing, it was held that the widow in the absence of fraud and undue influence was estopped by the antenuptial contract relinquishing all claim to any property of her husband. Perkins v. Bloom, 97 N. C. 559.

Next Friend as Representative of Minor Widow.—In disposing of a minor widow's estate, provided the proceeding is not for the purpose of releasing the minor widow from the duties of her status, the court has power to appoint a next friend to act in the minor widow's behalf. (Rev., ss. 3096, 3098; Code, ss. 2120, 2122; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 12; 1870-1, c. 253; 1889, c. 496, 531; 1891, c. 13; C. S. 4113, 4115.)

Assignment under Section Not Exclusive.—The assignment of a year's provision under this section does not serve as a bar to the assignment of the whole estate. Simpson v. Careen, 97 N. C. 115, 2 S. E. 668; Medley v. Dunlop, 91 N. C. 527.

The decision in this case appears to have been changed in the case of Jones v. Layne, 144 N. C. 600, 57 S. E. 372, in which it is held that a widow, whose husband died domiciled in another state, is entitled to her year's support in this State in which there is a fund due her husband, if the widow is a bona fide resident in this State. The reason given for this ruling is that the fiction that personal property is being considered as belonging to the domicil of the owner applies only to the distribution of the assets of the one deceased, and has no application to payment of debts, legacies, costs of administration, etc. See Moye v. May, 43 N. C. 131, also Story Conf. Laws, 354. When it is recalled that the year's support given to the widow is superior to all these claims, then this, coupled with the fact that it seems well settled that the fiction that personal property is being considered as belonging to the domicil of the owner applies only to the distribution of the assets of the one deceased, will be ample reason for the ruling in the Jones case. Further support may also be found in the very purpose and object of the enactment of the Legislature giving to the widow her year's support. See In re Hayes, 112, N. C. 76, 77, 16 S. E. 904; Kimball v. Deming, 27 N. C. 418. Ed. Note.

Adultery Prior to Enactment of Section, Not a Bar.—A widow is not barred of her right to a year's support under this section by reason of adultery committed prior to the passage of this section. See In re Cook v. Sexton, 79 N. C. 325.

Where husband predeceased by wife, see note of In re S. T. S., 111 N. C. 40, 16 S. E. 553; and see § 30-14. When Husband Died a Citizen of Foreign State.—The widow of a man who dies a citizen of another state is not entitled to a year's support out of the assets of the decedent in this State, and the fact that she became a citizen of this State after her husband's death is immaterial, since her relations to the estate and her right to share in it are fixed at the intestate's death, and by the laws of his domicil. to preclude her right to an increase thereof under section 30-26 et seq. Mann v. Mann, 173 N. C. 178, 86 S. E. 353.

The reasons for this construction are two-fold. (1) The year's provision is intended for the immediate and pressing needs of the widow and children, and is not given them as a substitute for any time held to be personal to the widow—be it personal estate, has been given a year's allowance out of his estate, to an allowance of the widow personally, and to enable her at that mournful time to preclude her right to an increase thereof under section 30-17. When children entitled to an allowance.

—Whenever any parent dies leaving any child under the age of fifteen years, including an adopted child, or a child with whom the widow may be pregnant at the death of her husband, or any other person under the age of fifteen years residing with the deceased parent at the time of the death to whom the deceased parent or the surviving parent stood in loco parentis, every such child shall be entitled, besides its distributive share of the personal estate of such deceased parent, to an allowance of one year's provision from the personal estate of the deceased parent at the time of the death to provide this situation, a statute was passed in 1889 (c. 496, § 30-17. When children entitled to an allowance.

Education of Child before Filing of Application.—Where two children under the age of fifteen years, one of whom was at the death of his father, and one died before the application for the year's provision was filed, it was held that the widow was entitled to an allowance for two children. In re Hayes, 112 N. C. 76, 77, 16 S. E. 94.

This decision was rested on the ground that the chief object of this and the foregoing sections is to provide for the dependent family of the deceased residing with the widow at the death of the husband, and not at the date of her application. As was said in the early case of Kimball v. Deming, 27 N. C. 418, cited and approved in In re Hayes, supra, 'the purpose of the legislature was to make provision for the immediate and pressing needs of the widow personally, and to enable her at that mournful juncture to keep her family about her for a short season, prevent the necessity of scattering her children abroad, until time and circumstances should be made suitable for selecting suitable situations for them.'—Ed. Note.

Entire Allowance to Widow. —It is proper to make the entire allowance to the widow and none to the minor children, but the existence of such children may be a bar, the widow being charged with their care and support. Drewry v. Bank, etc., Co., 173 N. C. 664, 92 S. E. 393.

§ 30-18. From what property assigned. —Such allowance shall be assigned from the crop, stock and provisions or any other personal property of the deceased in his possession at the time of his death, if there be a sufficiency thereof in value: and if there be a deficiency, it shall be made up by the personal representative from the personal estate of the deceased. (Rev., s. 3005; Code, s. 2117; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 9; 1923, c. 92; C. S. 4112.)

Editor's Note.—The words "or any personal property" after the word "provisions" were inserted by the Public Laws of 1939. The insertion of these words takes away all doubt as to whether or not the enumerated classes of property herein contained were meant to exclude all other property. In re Hayes, supra. It is submitted that the addition of these words to this section was not intended to make all the personal property of the deceased subject to the widow's allowance in the first place, but to make it plain that personal property, following the enumeration of specific classes (real estate, crop, stock, and provisions) must, under the maxim ejusdem generis, be restricted to things of the same kind as those specifically mentioned and enumerated. This seems to be the only possible construction to give to the new words since the section in all its other respects is left without any change whatever, and note must be taken of the clause that "if there be a deficiency it shall be made up by the personal representative from the personal estate of the deceased." Unless the newly inserted words are given the limited meaning ascribed to them in the cited cases, the provision would be surplusage but would be meaningless. In other words, the door to the personal estate of the deceased has been opened wider but has not been opened to its fullest extent. For example, since the words used in this section seem to contemplate only personal property of a tangible nature, the intangible property would still be outside the scope of the provision from which the widow's allowance may be taken, unless it is necessary to make up a deficiency.

"Stock." —In an early case, Van Norden v. Prim, 3 N. C. 149, the word "stock" contained in this section was construed to mean "all personal property to be used at her pleasure." Kimball v. Deming, 27 N. C. 418; Simpson v. Cureton, 9 N. C. 112, 116, 2 S. E. 668, 670. As a consequence, if the husband dies leaving no widow, or if the widow died before her year's allowance was assigned to her, no allowance could be set aside for the surviving children as such. Kimball v. Deming, supra. To remedy this situation, a statute was passed in 1889 (c. 496, codified as § 30-17 of the General Statutes of N. C.), which provided that in case there was no widow, or if she died before her year's allowance was set aside, an allotment still could be made for the benefit of the child of any age under the age of fifteen years. See In re Stewart, supra. The 1939 amendment amended and rewrote this statute so as to substitute the widow's year's allowance from the concept of its inclusion in the widow's allotment, and to give him an independent legal status of his own for the purpose of receiving a year's allowance. The statute carries this further by adding that if the widow survives the father, it shall be paid to her for the child's benefit "in lieu of the allowance heretofore made such widow on account of her own year's provision."—Ed. Note.

CH. 30. WIDOWS—YEAR'S ALLOWANCE

§ 30-19. Time of Valuation. —The widow's allowance must be made on the basis of the property's value at the time of the application, and not at the time of the testator's death. In re Haywood, N. C. 131, 136.
have her year's support assigned to her therefrom. Broad-

Failure to Pay Deficiency.—An administrator is personally liable if he has assets to pay a deficiency and he fails to pay it. Irvin v. Hughes, 82 N. C. 210.

§ 30-19. Value of property ascertained. — The value of stock, crop and provisions or any other personal estate of the deceased, and if any, so much thereof as they shall be entitled to hand, and assign to the widow and to the children, as well as that of the articles consumed, shall be ascertained by a justice of the peace and two persons qualified to act as jurors of the county in which administration was granted or the will proved. (Rev., s. 3097; Code, s. 2121; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 13; C. S. 4114.)

§ 30-20. Procedure for assignment. — Upon the application of the widow, or whenever it shall appear that a child is entitled to an allowance as provided by § 30-18, the justice shall apply to a justice of the peace in the township in which the deceased resided, or some adjoining township, to summon two persons qualified to act as jurors, who, having been sworn by the justice to act impartially as commissioners shall, with him, ascertain the person or persons entitled to an allowance according to the provisions of this chapter, and examine the crop, stock, and provisions and any other personal property on hand, and assign to the widow and to the children, if any, so much thereof as they shall be entitled to by law. Any deficiencies shall be made up from any of the personal estate of the deceased, and also from any debt or debts known to be due the deceased. Such assignment shall vest in the widow and children such property, and the right to collect the debts thus allotted. (Rev., s. 3098; Code, s. 2122; 1870-1, c. 263; 1891, c. 13; 1899, c. 531; C. S. 4115.)

§ 30-21. Report of commissioners. — The commissioners shall make and sign three lists of the articles assigned to each person, stating their quantity and value, and the deficiency to be paid by the personal representative. Where the allowance is to the widow, one of these lists shall be delivered to her. Where the allowance is to a child, one of these lists shall be delivered to the widow or surviving parent with whom the child is living; or to the child's guardian or next friend if the child is not living with said widow or surviving parent; or to the child if said child is not living with the widow or surviving parent and has no guardian or next friend. One list shall be delivered to the personal representative. One list shall be returned by the justice, within twenty days after the assignment, to the Superior Court of the county, and the clerk shall file and record the same and enter judgment against the personal representative, to be paid when assets shall come into his hands, for any residue found in favor of the person entitled to the allowance. (Rev., s. 3099; Code, s. 2123; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 15; C. S. 4116.)

Filing of List of Articles Mandatory. — The filing and retaining of the list of articles allotted to the widow, as her year's support, as required by this section, is essential to its validity, and to the vesting in her of the property or debt allotted to the widow. Kiff v. Kiff, 95 N. C. 72.

Reasonable Certainty Required. — The allotment to the widow must be made with such reasonable certainty, in regard to the thing allotted, as to indicate what property was intended by the commissioners, otherwise the allotment will be void. Kiff v. Kiff, 95 N. C. 72. Under this principle the item, "labor for 3½ years, $273," was held void. Id.

§ 30-22. Fees of commissioners. — Any person appointed by any justice of the peace to allot or set apart to any widow and/or child a year's allowance under the statute, and who shall serve, shall be paid the sum of one dollar a day or fraction of a day engaged, and the same shall be taxed as a part of the bill of costs of the proceeding. (1907, c. 223; 1913, c. 18; C. S. 3900.)

§ 30-23. Right of appeal. — The personal representative, or the widow or child by his guardian or next friend, or any creditor, legatee or distributee of the deceased, may appeal from the finding of the commissioners to the superior court of the county, and, within ten days after the assignment, cite the adverse party to appear before such court on a certain day, not less than five nor exceeding ten days after the service of the citation. (Rev., s. 3100; Code, s. 2124; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 16; 1897, c. 442; C. S. 4117.)

Evidence to Support Findings as Bar to Appeal. — The findings of the judge in the special proceedings for the allotment of the year's support will not be reviewed on appeal where there is evidence to support such findings. Drewry v. Bank, etc., Co., 173 N. C. 664, 92 S. E. 593.

§ 30-24. Hearing on appeal. — At or before the day named, the appellant shall file with the clerk a copy of the assignment and a statement of his exceptions thereto, and the issues thereby raised shall be decided as other issues are directed to be. When the issues shall have been decided, judgment shall be entered accordingly, if it may be without injustice, without remitting the proceedings to the commissioners. (Rev., s. 3101; Code, s. 2125; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 17; C. S. 4118.)

§ 30-25. Personal representative entitled to credit. — Upon the settlement of the accounts of the personal representative, he shall be credited with the articles assigned, and the value of the deficiency assessed as aforesaid, if the same shall have been paid, unless the allowance be impeached for fraud or gross negligence in him. (Rev., s. 3102; Code, s. 2126; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 18; C. S. 4119.)

§ 30-26. When above allowance is in full. — If the estate of a deceased be insolvent, or if his personal estate does not exceed two thousand dollars, the allowances for the year's support of his widow and the children shall not, in any case, exceed the value prescribed above; and the allowances made to them as above prescribed shall preclude them from any further allowances. (Rev., s. 3103; Code, s. 2127; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 19; C. S. 4120.)

All allowance under section 30-20 does not preclude operation of this section, see note of Mann v. Mann, 173 N. C. 20, 91 S. E. 355, under section 30-20.

Part 3. Assigned in Superior Court.

§ 30-27. Widow or child may apply to superior court. — It shall not, however, be obligatory on a widow or child to have the support assigned as above prescribed. Without application to the personal representative, the widow, or the child through his guardian or next friend, may, at any time within one year after the decedent's death, apply to the superior court of the county in which administration was granted to have a year's support assigned. (Rev., s. 3104; Code, s. 2128; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 20; C. S. 4121.)

§ 30-28. Nature of proceeding; parties.—The application shall be by summons, as is prescribed for special proceedings, in which the personal representative of the deceased, if there be one other than the plaintiff, the largest known creditor, or legatee, or some distributee of the deceased, living in the county, shall be made defendant, and the proceedings shall be as prescribed for special proceedings between parties. (Rev., s. 3105; Code, s. 2129; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 21; C. S. 4122.)

§ 30-29. What complaint must show.—In the complaint the plaintiff shall set forth, besides the facts entitling plaintiff to a year's support and the value of the support claimed, the further facts that the estate of the decedent is not insolvent, and that proper officer of the county, commanding him to summon a justice of the peace and two indifferent persons qualified to act as jurors of the county, to thereupon issue an order to the sheriff or other officer of the county, to cite the personal representative, or any creditor, distributee or legatee of the deceased, within twenty days after service of the notice, and answer the same; and, after the return of the report, may file exceptions thereto. The plaintiff shall be notified thereof and cited to appear before the court on a certain day, within twenty and not less than ten days after service of the notice, and answer the same; the case shall thereafter be proceeded in, heard and decided as provided in special proceedings between parties. (Rev., s. 3106; Code, s. 2130; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 22; C. S. 4123.)

§ 30-31. Duty of commissioners; amount of allowance.—The said commissioners shall be sworn by the justice and shall proceed as prescribed in this chapter, except that they may assign to the plaintiff a value sufficient for the support of plaintiff according to the estate and condition of the decedent and regard to the limitations set forth in this chapter; but the value allowed shall be fixed with due consideration for other persons entitled to allowances for year's support from the decedent's estate; and the total value of all allowances shall not in any case exceed the one-half of the average annual net income of the deceased for three years next preceding his death. This report shall be returned by the justice to the court. (Rev., s. 3108; Code, s. 2132; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 24; C. S. 4123.)

Definition of Annual Net Income.—The provision of this section that the allowance shall not exceed "the one-half of the annual net income of the deceased for three years next preceding his death" means the one-half of one year's net income, determined by the average annual income for the three years next preceding the decease, and not one-half of the sum total of the annual net income for the three year period. Holland v. Henson, 189 N. C. 742, 128 S. E. 145.

Allowance Sustained Where Discretion Not Abused.—Where the estate of the deceased husband is large and in good condition, and he received a net annual income for three years prior to his death of over $38,500, an allowance of $12,500 for a year's support to his widow with minor son, less the value of the household furniture, is not an abuse of the superior court's discretion which the supreme court will review. Drewry v. Raleigh Sav. Bank, etc., Co., 173 N. C. 664, 92 S. E. 593.

§ 30-32. Exceptions to the report.—The personal representative, or any creditor, distributee or legatee of the deceased, within twenty days after the return of the report, may file exceptions thereto. The plaintiff shall be notified thereof and cited to appear before the court on a certain day, within twenty and not less than ten days after service of the notice, and answer the same; the case shall thereafter be proceeded in, heard and decided as provided in special proceedings between parties. (Rev., s. 3109; Code, s. 2133; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 25; C. S. 4126.)

§ 30-33. Confirmation of report; execution.—If the report shall be confirmed, the court shall so declare, and execution shall issue to enforce the judgment as in like cases. (Rev., s. 3110; Code, s. 2134; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 26; C. S. 4127.)

31-21. Validation of wills heretofore certified and recorded.

Art. 1. Execution of Will.

§ 31-1. Infants incapable.—No person shall be capable of disposing of real or personal estate by will until he or she shall have attained the age of twenty-one years. (Rev. s. 3111; Code, s. 2137; R. C. c. 119, s. 2; 1811, c. 280; C. S. 4128.)

Under the prior law, see Williams’s Legatees v. Heirs at Law, 44 N. C. 271, where it was held that an infant between twenty-one and eighteen could dispose of personal estate by will.

A will executed by a minor’s father is not sufficient grounds for a court of equity to refuse the petition of the minor’s guardian to be authorized and directed to enter proceedings to attack a consent judgment on grounds of irregularity and that it was not binding on the minor, it appearing that the purported will executed by the minor’s father seeking to divest the minor’s interest in trust estates was void under this section, the minor’s father at the time of executing the instrument being under twenty-one years of age. In re Reynolds, 206 N. C. 276, 173 S. E. 729.

§ 31-2. Married woman capable.—A married woman owning real or personal property may dispose of the same by will. (Rev. s. 3112; Code, s. 2138; R. C. c. 119, s. 3; 1844, c. 88, s. 8; C. S. 4129.)

§ 31-3. Formal execution. — No last will or testament shall be good or sufficient, in law, to convey or give any estate, real or personal, unless such last will shall have been written in the testator’s lifetime and signed by him, or by some other person in his presence and by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by two witnesses at least, no one of whom shall be interested in the devise or bequest of the estate, except as hereinafter provided; or, unless such last will and testament be found among the valuable papers and effects of any deceased person, or shall have been lodged in the hands of any person for safekeeping, and the same shall be in the handwriting of such deceased person, with his name subscribed thereto or inserted in some part of such will; and if such handwriting shall be proved by three credible witnesses, who verify believe such will and every part thereof is in the handwriting of the person whose will it appears to be, then such will shall be sufficient to give and convey real and personal estate. (Rev. s. 3113; Code, s. 2136; R. C. c. 119, s. 1; 1784, c. 201, s. 11; 1784, c. 225, s. 5; 1840, c. 54; C. S. 4131.)

Editor’s Note.—The Statute of Frauds in England, in relation to wills, and this section upon the same subject, have in view the same object, namely, the protection of the heirs-at-law, and next of kin of a decedent, from the effect of a forged or false paper as a will. For that purpose, many forms and ceremonies are required to be observed in the execution of such instruments. With regard to attested wills, the requisites of the English statute, and this section, except as to the number of witnesses, are substantially the same. The courts, in both countries, have demanded a strict compliance with these provisions of the law. The same policy must govern the courts of this State when they come to decide whether the requisitions of this section have been complied with in the execution of a paper writing, propounded as a holograph will. See Little v. Lockman, 49 N. C. 495, 496.

Natural Right to Dispose of Property by Will.—The right to dispose of property by will is not a natural right, but one conferred and regulated by statute. Peace v. Edwards, 170 N. C. 64, 86 S. E. 807.

Necessity of Animus Testandi.—The distinguishing feature of all genuine testamentary instruments, whatever their form, is that the paper-writing must appear to be written in the testator’s lifetime, that the testator intended it should operate as his will, or as a codicil to it. In re Perry, 193 N. C. 397, 398, 137 S. E. 145.

For a memorandum written and signed by the testator to take effect as his will, it must, among other requisites, show the testator's then present intention to dispose of his property, and be signed by him at the time of his death. Other formalities that have been observed, a "pack" of letters containing a note in his favor, with the indorsement written thereon, and signed by him, a long time prior to his death, and signed by his attorney, does not operate either as a valid holograph will or codicil, Id.

Where the animus testandi appears as doubtful or ambiguous, the instrument must be construed together. In re Will of Harrison, 183 N. C. 457, 111 S. E. 867.

Proposers whereupon introduce ample evidence that the paper-writing was in the handwriting of deceased and that it is evident, considering its wording and the circumstances surrounding same, that the testator intended it to operate as his will, is competent. fact of there being a signature of one subscribing witness to a will of land does not prevent it from being proved as a holograph will; and it is no objection to the probate of a script as a holograph will that it has one subscribing witness, and was intended to be the last will and testament, which intent was frustrated by the fact that the second attesting witness was incompetent. Hill v. Bell, 61 N. C. 122, 124.

Deposit Not Required.—The testator’s signature to the will is required though it is not required that the paper-writing be subscribed or dated. Therefore an undated will, when the name of the testator, in his own handwriting, is the body of the writing, be admitted into effect as those bearing dates and subscribed by the testator. Peace v. A paper-writing in the handwriting of testator, duly proved and authenticated by testator and found among her valuable papers after her death, which paper-writing contains dispositive words sufficient to dispose of the estate, is valid as a holograph will under this section and § 31-18, subsection 2, and it is not necessary that the writing be dated or show the place of execution. In re Parson’s Will, 207 N. C. 584, 178 S. E. 78.

tion must be accompanied with animus testandi; the decision seems to be clearly unsound, inasmuch as the letter in question discloses no such intention. This conclusion is supported by later decisions of the court which in express terms refused to follow the decision of Allen v. Davis, see Spencer v. Spencer, 163 N. C. 83, 79 S. E. 291. It is believed that if the writer of the letter indicates clearly that by mailing it to the addressee he intends to deposit it as a will, no further act by the addressee to accept it will be required. See the case of In re Ledford's Will, 176 N. C. 610, 97 S. E. 482; 12 N. C. Law Rev. 199.

§ 31-4. Execution of power of appointment by will.—No appointment, made by will in the exercise of any power, shall be valid unless the same be executed in the manner by law required for the execution of wills; and every will, executed in such manner, shall, so far as respects the execution and attestation thereof, be a valid execution of a power of appointment by will, notwithstanding it shall have been expressly required that a will made in exercise of such power should be executed with some additional or other form of execution or solemnity. (Rev., s. 3114; Code, s. 2139; R. C., c. 119, s. 4; 1844, c. 88, s. 9; C. S. 4132.) Cross Reference.—See also, § 31-43.

Art. 2. Revocation of Will.

§ 31-5. Revocation by writing or by cancellation or destruction.—No will or testament in writing, or any clause thereof, shall be revocable otherwise than by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing declaring the same, or by burning, canceling, tearing, or obliterating the same, by the testator himself, or in his presence and by his direction and consent; but all wills or testaments shall remain and continue in force until the same be burnt, canceled, torn, or obliterated, or by his consent and direction; or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator, signed by him, or some other person in his presence and by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by two witnesses at least; or unless the same be altered or revoked by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the testator, all of which shall be in the handwriting of the testator, and his name subscribed thereto or inserted therein, and lodged by him with some person for safe-keeping, or left by him in some secure place, or among his valuable papers and effects, every part of which will or codicil or other writing shall be proved to be in the handwriting of the testator, by three witnesses at least. (Rev., s. 3115; Code, s. 2176; R. C., c. 119, s. 22; 1784, c. 204, s. 14; 1819, c. 1004, ss. 1, 2; 1840, c. 62; C. S. 4133.)

Material Alteration Necessary.—In order for there to be a revocation of a will, in whole or in part, under the provisions of this section, there must be an existing will of the testator to cancel, but there must be the physical act of cancellation; and while it is not required that the words should be entirely effaced where the cancellation is in part, so as to make the same illegible, the portion erased must be of such significance as to effect a material alteration in the meaning of the will or the clause of the will that is challenged on the issue. In re Love's Will, 186 N. C. 714, 120 S. E. 479.

Same—Primary Controlling Clause Unaltered, Effect.—Where the primary or controlling clause of a will remains unaltered by the obliteration by the testator of words therein and the unobliterated words remaining are sufficient to carry the designated property to the devisee, it will not amount to a revocation within the intent and meaning of this section; nor will the obliteration of the name of any other beneficiary be sufficient as to him, when it appears that the intent of the revocation by the testator was dependent upon the successful revocation of the principal alterations from the erasures were insufficient to effectuate a legal cancellation. In re Love's Will, 186 N. C. 714, 120 S. E. 479.

Presumption of Revocation Will Cannot Be Found.—It being shown that a will was once in existence and last found after his death, a presumption arises that it was destroyed by his consent with intent to cancel it. Scoggins v. Turner, 98 N. C. 135, 3 S. E. 739.

Revocation of Holographic Will.—It seems clear that a holographic will may be revoked just as an attested will may, i.e., (1) by burning, canceling, tearing, or obliterating the same, by another will, which may be holographic or attested, provided only that the statutory requirements in each case are complied with; or (2) by a revocatory paper, necessary on the holographic revocation. See 14 L. R. A. N. S. 968 and 112 Am. St. Rep. 822, 2 N. C. Law Rev. 110.

Revocatory Paper Must Be a Testamentary Paper.—Where the writing offered as operating a revocation of a will of the testator contains none of the elements of a testamentary paper, it cannot be helped by evidence aliunde, and hence has no revocatory effect. Davis v. King, 89 N. C. 437.

Effect of Disposal of Articles Already Bequeathed.—A bequest of personal property in a trunk which contained the bequeathed articles, and which was opened and rifled of the deceased, although it purports to be a subsequent will containing a revoking clause or provisions inconsistent with those of the previous will, or by a subsequent declaration, must be of such significance as to effect a material alteration in the meaning of the will or the clause of the will that is challenged on the issue. In re Love's Will, 186 N. C. 714, 120 S. E. 479.

Interlineations and Annotations Held Insufficient to Show Revocation.—Where, testator, in his own handwriting, makes certain interlineations and annotations upon his will, which had been properly executed and marked through certain words of the will, and it appears that such alterations were insufficient to constitute a holographic will and were made with the intent of altering the will at some future date in accordance with the alterations, but that such alterations were not made with the intent to revoke the will in whole or in part, such interlineations and annotations are insufficient to show a revocation of the will, intent to revoke being essential to a revocation as distinguished from a modification of the will by testator under this section. In re Will of Roediger, 209 N. C. 470, 184 S. E. 74.

Revised Section Prior to Section.—See early case of Giles v. Giles, 1 N. C. 377, prior to the enactment of this section, where it is held that a will of real estate in writing may be revoked by parol if the words of revocation denote a present intention to revoke. Revisited by Parol Declaration.—A revocation of a will of real estate carried completely into effect cannot be revoked by any subsequent declaration by parol. Giles v. Giles, 1 N. C. 377.

§ 31-6. Revocation by marriage; exception.—All wills shall be revoked by subsequent marriage of the maker except a will made in exercise of a power of appointment, when the real or personal estate thereby appointed would not, in default of such appointment, pass to his heirs, executor or administrator, or the person entitled as his next of kin, under the statute of distributions. (Rev., s. 3116; Code, s. 2177; R. C., c. 119, s. 23; 1844, c. 88, s. 10; C. S. 4134.)

Reproduction by Parol Not Effective.—Under this section the will of a married woman is revoked by another marriage contracted after the will was made by her verbal declaration, during the last coverture, that said paperwriting was her last will and testament without any further execution thereof. It is to be done with the statute, does not constitute a reexecution and republication of her last will and testament. In Chappell v. White, 146 N. C. 571, 573, 160 S. E. 635, construed in 1875 by an exceptionally able court, and the opinion delivered by Chief Justice Pearson in a notable case, which has been since repeatedly cited and approved.

Parol Evidence to Fasten Constructive Trust.—Since the enactment of this section, parol evidence is incompetent to fasten upon a devise of land a constructive or implied trust.

Subsequent Birth or Adoption of Child.—The subsequent birth or adoption of a child or the subsequent adoption of one under our statute, does not revoke the will of the father under this section as in case of subsequent marriage under section 31-6. Sorrell v. Sorrell, 193 N. C. 439, 137 S. E. 306.

Value of holographic will does not affect revocation.

While after-born children not provided for in the will of their deceased parent may claim by inheritance their part of the estate, under section 31-45, it does not amount to revocation of the entire will. Fawcett v. Fawcett, 191 N. C. 679.

executor or administrator competent.—An executor or administrator may testify in favor of the will, even by renouncing and releasing his interest, and he is still incompetent as to any will that was made before January, 1856. Gunter v. Gunter, 48 N. C. 44.

May be Examined for Both Parties.—Under this section one named as executor in a receipt, propounded as a will, though named as plaintiff in an issue devisavit vel non, may be examined in the cause as an executor, and as such may testify in favor of the will, even by renouncing and releasing his interest, and he is still incompetent as to any will that was made before January, 1856. Gunter v. Gunter, 48 N. C. 44.

§ 31-7. No revocation by altered circumstances.

—No will shall be revoked by any presumption of an intention on the ground of an alteration in circumstances.

Where Construed, Approved and Cited.—This statute was approved in 1864, in Cook v. Redman, 27 N. C. 625, in which a trust of this kind was upheld. Chappell v. White, 146 N. C. 571, 60 S. E. 635.

Parol Evidence to Fasten Constructive Trust.—Since the enactment of this section parol evidence is incompetent to fasten upon a devise of land a constructive or implied trust in favor of another. Chappell v. White, 146 N. C. 571, 60 S. E. 635.

Conveyance, etc., Not to Affect Provisions of Will.—No conveyance or act made or done subsequently to the execution of a will of, or relating to, any real or personal estate therein comprised, except an act by which such will shall have been revoked, shall prevent the operation of the will with respect to any estate or interest in such real or personal estate as a testator shall have power to dispose of by will at the time of his death. (Rev., s. 3118; Code, s. 2179; R. C. C. 119, s. 25; 1844, c. 88, s. 11; C. S. 4136.)

in General.—This section avoids only the devise or bequest to the attesting witness and to his and her wife and privies, and leaves the other dispositions made in the will in unimpaired force and operation. Vester v. Collins, 101 N. C. 114, 116, 7 S. E. 687.

Interest of Witness to Holographic Will Not Avoided.—One who is a devisee of a holographic will may testify in favor of the will, without losing his interest thereunder. His interest in the estate, interest, legacy, or appointment shall, so far only as concerns such person attesting the execution of such will or the wife or husband of such person, or any person claiming under such person, or wife or husband, be void; and such person so attesting shall be admitted as a witness to prove the execution of such will, or the validity or invalidity thereof. (Rev., s. 3120; Code, s. 2475; R. C. C. 119, s. 10; C. S. 4136.)

Competency of Widow and Devisee.—The widow and devisee of the testator is a competent witness to prove the execution of such will, or to prove the validity or invalidity thereof. (Rev., s. 3120; Code, s. 2146; R. C. C. 119, s. 9; C. S. 4137.)

Purpose of Section.—This section was intended to give the benefit of the executor's testimony to every person who should be interested, either in the establishment or defeat of the will, that all gifts to them or to their husbands or wives are annulled, and all temptations to swerve from the truth are taken away. Hamp- ton v. Hardin, 88 N. C. 592.

Interest of One Who Does Not Sign as Witness Not Avoided.—One who signs his name on a holographic will, propounded as a will, though not a subscribing witness of a will that the statute requires to be attested by two witnesses, and to the attesting witness. Hence a devisee under a holographic will is a competent witness to prove the will, without losing his interest thereunder. His interest in the results affects only the credit to be given to his testimony. Hampton v. Hardin, 88 N. C. 592.

Competency of Witness—Question of Law.—If a witness to a will is interested as a legatee thereunder, he is a competent witness to prove the will, the effect being to deprive the court of the right to exclude him by a competency of the statute to render the competency of a witness a question for the court and not a question for the jury. The competency of a witness is a question for the court alone, and when he offers to testify, and to be determined by the court. McElwee v. Smith, 103 N. C. 70.

Object in Avoiding Witnesses' Interest.—It was to remove all improper influences and secure impartiality, in such as are called for by the execution of the will, that all gifts to them or to their husbands or wives are annulled, and all temptations to swerve from the truth are taken away. Hamp- ton v. Hardin, 88 N. C. 592, 593.

Competency of Widow and Devisee.—The widow and devisee of the testator is a competent witness to prove the fact that the script propounded was found among the valu-

Art. 4. Depository for Wills.

—The clerk of the superior court in each county of North Carolina shall be required to keep a receptacle or depository in which any person who desires to do so may file his or her will for safekeeping; and the clerk shall make a charge of fifty cents (50c) for the filing of such will, and shall, upon written request of the testator, or the duly authorized agent or attorney for the testator, permit said will or testament to be withdrawn from said depository or receptacle at any time prior to the death of the testator: Provided, that the contents of said will shall not be made public or open to the inspection of any one other than the testator or his duly authorized agent until such time as the said will shall be offered for probate. (1937, c. 435, § 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section, which makes it possible for a testator during his lifetime to file his will for safekeeping with the probate judge, represents a rather progressive step in the law of wills. If taken advantage of by testators, it may prevent the loss or fraudulent destruction of many validly executed wills, and may tend to prevent the offer of forged wills for probate and contests of wills upon written request of the testator, or the duly authorized agent or attorney for the testator, permitting a testator during his lifetime to file his will for safekeeping with the probate judge, as provided in sec. 941 [2-20]; and in either case, the procedure would provide a simple and speedy method of obtaining the probate of wills, in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county whose clerk was a subscribing witness thereto, or a devisee or legatee thereunder, or who had a pecuniary interest in the property disposed of by such will and the clerk in said last mentioned county is hereby authorized to type letters to personal representatives, who may qualify and administer the estate in said will as if it originally probated in said county, and the title to all property, both real and personal, conveyed and devised in said will shall always be effectual as if the said will had been originally probated and recorded in said last mentioned county. (Rev., s. 3129; Code, s. 2151; C. C. P., s. 439; 1919, c. 15; 1921, c. 99; 1923, c. 14; C. S. 4139.)

Cross References.—As to jurisdiction of the clerk see §§ 28-1 and 28-2. As to disqualification of clerk, see §§ 2-17 through 2-21. As to conveyances within two years of the death of the decedent where there is no will, see § 28-81. As to rights of innocent purchasers when will withheld from probate, see § 31-39.

Editor's Note.—The provisions of this section, which concern the probating of wills where the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction to probate it is a subscribing witness thereto, are added by the amendment of 1921, (Public Laws 1921, c. 99), and the similar provisions where such clerk is a devisee or legatee thereunder, are added by the amendment of 1923, (Public Laws 1923, c. 14).

While the amending statutes expressly refer to this section, they more particularly affect §§ 1 [28-1] and 2 [28-2], of the code defining the jurisdiction of the clerk in administrations, and §§ 929 [2-17], 940 [2-19] and 941 [2-20], as to the disqualification of a subscribing witness where the person who has interest in the property disposed of by the will, is added by the amendment of 1923, (Public Laws 1923, c. 14).

No Limitation to Probate a Will—Exception.—In the absence of a subscribing witness, the will may be probated, when he is one of the two subscribing witnesses. Section 940 [2-19]; Trenwith v. Smallwood (1923) 111 N. C. 132, 15 S. E. 1030. The procedure would then be under the amended statute, or by application to the judge, as provided in sec. 941 [2-20]; and in either case, the will, after probate, would be returned to the clerk of the original county to proceed with the administration of the estate under the will, he is disqualified by sec. 929 [2-17]; but this may be waived, and he may then proceed as if the defect did not exist. Section 940 [2-19]. If this defect is not waived, there is a presumption, that the subsequent amendment says that the petition may be filed and probate taken before the clerk of any adjoining county and when a certified return is made to the clerk of the original county, he may proceed to appoint the personal representative. Section 941 [2-20] provides that application may be made to the proper judge for an order to remove the proceedings to the clerk of any adjoining county, in the same district, or the judge himself may make all necessary orders for the settlement of the estate. There appears to be a conflict between the two statutes in this respect, unless the recent amendment is limited to the mere fact of probate; but that is all that is meant, the amendment is not necessary, since the same result may be readily obtained under the former statute. The application for disqualification of the personal representative is as much a judicial act as any other order made in the settlement of the estate; and to allow the clerk who is interested to proceed in the matter without a proper order, would make the same result a matter of extra-judicial action, contrary to the general policy of the law. Land Co. v. Jennett, (1901), 128 N. C. 3, 37 S. E. 954. The purpose of the amendment is to provide a simple and speedy method of obtaining the probate of a will, when the clerk was disqualified, and this has been done; but how far it was intended to change the former practice, if at all, is one of case of interest, is not clearly shown." 1 N. C. Law Rev. 314.

In General.—This section and § 31-15, by implication at least, require the probate of a will. Wells v. Odum, 207 N. C. 220, 176 S. E. 562.

No Limitation toProbate a Will—Exception.—In the ab—sence of some statute to the contrary, there is no limit upon the time after a testator's death within which a will may be proven. When the death of the testator so as to vest title from that date as to bona fide purchasers.—Ed. Note.

Title Descends to Heirs Subject to Be Divested.—The title of the land descends, with the effects of the testator, subject to be divested in favor of the devisee, when the will is duly admitted to probate. Floyd v. Herring, 66 N. C. 409, 411.

Limitation as to Lost Wills Prior to Statute.—See McCormick v. Jernigan, 110 N. C. 406, 411, where it is held that no statute of limitation applies to the probate of a lost will. This case was decided prior to the amendment of 1919, which sets a limitation to the probate of all lost wills. The right of bona fide purchasers are involved.

Citation to those in interest is not necessary to the probate of a will in common form, and when probated the paper-writing is valid and operative as a will and may not be attacked collaterally.

§ 31-13. Executor failing, beneficiary may apply.—If no executor apply to have the will proved within sixty days after the death of the testator, any devisee or legatee named in the will, or any other person interested in the estate, may make such application, upon ten days notice thereof, to the executor. (Rev., s. 3132; Code, s. 2152; C. C. P., s. 440; C. S. 4140.)

Cross Reference.—A to who may apply for letters of administration in case of intestacy, see § 28-6 et seq.

Notice to Executor in Probating a Codicil.—Before others interested in the probate of a will may apply for its probate ten days previous notice must be given the executor therein named, and where an executor has probated and qualified under the will, it is equally necessary to give the statutory notice before offering for probate a separate paper-writing as a codicil. Spencer v. Spencer, 163 N. C. 83, 79 S. E. 291.

§ 31-14. Clerk to notify legatees and devisees of wills of probate. —The clerks of the superior court of the state are hereby required and directed to notify by mail, all legatees and devisees who have probated and qualified under the will in solemn form, of the probate of wills therein named, designated in wills filed for probate in their respective counties. All expense incident to such notification shall be deemed a proper charge in the administration of the respective estates. (1933, c. 133.)

While this requirement appears to be mandatory, it does not seem to be prerequisite to the probate of the will itself. Nor does it assume the status and importance of a citation to those in interest "to see the proceedings," as an ex parte proceeding and not binding on caveators upon the issue of the validity of the will, and the admission in evidence in the proceeding and not binding on caveators upon the issue of the validity of the will, and the admission in evidence in the proceeding of a will is not a prerequisite to the probate of the will itself. Apparently the purpose of the statute is to expedite the settlement of the estate of a person who no longer has living relatives, to exhibit the same in his court for probate, and to assist the court in the performance of such duty, in good faith, regardless of the facts, shall, by summons, compel any person in the state, having in possession the last will of any decedent, to exhibit the same in his court for probate; and whoever being duly summoned refuses, in contempt of the court, to produce such will, or (the same having been parted with by him) refuses to inform the court on oath where such will is, or in what manner he has disposed of it, shall, by order of the clerk of the superior court, be committed to the jail of the county, there to remain without bail till such will be produced or accounted for, and due submission made for the contempt. (Rev., s. 3124; Code, s. 2154; C. C. P., s. 442; C. S. 4141.)

Cross References.—See annotations to § 31-12. As to the effect of a decedent being in possession of a will for one year, see § 14-77.

In General.—A petition before the clerk of the superior court alleging that the respondents were in possession of a later will than that probated in another county, and that the respondents had withheld, for the purpose of reviving, etc., is a proceeding under this section to compel the production of a will. Williams v. Bailey, 177 N. C. 37, 97 S. E. 721.

Failure of Petitioners to Pursue Proceedings—Discharge of Respondents.—Where the respondents in proceedings to compel the production of a will before the clerk at the time set for the hearing, and in writing under oath fully and accurately state the facts, the court may, for failure to offer evidence, or request an examination, as to be divested in favor of the devisee, when the will is duly admitted to probate, or (the same having been parted with by him) refuses to inform the court on oath where such will is, or in what manner he has disposed of it, shall, by order of the clerk of the superior court, be committed to the jail of the county, nesses touching the execution of a will, and he shall embody the substance of such proofs and examinations, in case the will is admitted to probate, in his certificate of the probate thereof, which certificate must be recorded with the will. The proofs and examinations as taken must be filed in the office. (Rev., s. 3126; Code, s. 2149; C. C. P., s. 437; C. S. 4143.)

Former Practice.—Formerly the court of pleas and quarter sessions had jurisdiction of the probate of wills, and there was at that time no provision in the statute requiring the taking of the proofs of writing or for recording the probate. The practice was to exhibit the will before the court and offer the proofs of execution, and for an entry to be made upon the record, and the will was not recorded until the certificate of the superior court, upon the minutes of the adjudication, and the clerk, acting under the authority of the court, then recorded the will upon the will book. In most instances he also recorded a memorandum of the proceedings before the court, but this was not done in all cases. Poplin v. Hatley, 179 N. C. 163, 166, 8 S. E. 1038.

Presumption of Valid Recordation.—The requirements of this section did not obtain in the probate of a will in the old practice before the court of pleas and quarter sessions; and where the records show that a will sought to be set aside for improper probate, valid on its face, has been transcribed upon the records of that court, it is presumed to have been duly admitted to probate and properly transcribed upon the record, the burden being upon the caveator to show to the contrary. Poplin v. Hatley, 179 N. C. 163, 166, 8 S. E. 1038.

Presumption of Validty.—A will of a competent testator, recorded in the county where the land lies, the will is sufficient. Roscoe v. Roper Lumber Co., 124 N. C. 42, 32 S. E. 857.

§ 31-18. Manner of probate.—Wills and testaments must be admitted to probate only in the following manner:

1. In case of a written will, with witnesses, on the oath of at least two of the subscribing witnesses, if living; but when any one or more of the subscribing witnesses to such will are dead, or reside out of the state, the same after due diligence is found within the state, or are insane or otherwise incompetent to testify, then such proof may be taken of the handwriting, both of the testator and of the witness or witnesses so dead, absent, insane or incompetent, and also of such other circumstances as will satisfy the clerk of the superior court of the genuineness and the due execution of such will. In all cases where the testator executed the will by making his mark, and where any one or more of the subscribing witnesses are dead or reside out of the state, or are insane or otherwise incompetent to testify, it shall not be necessary to produce the handwriting of the testator, but proof of the handwriting of the subscribing witness or witnesses so dead, absent, insane or incompetent shall be sufficient. The probate of all wills herefore taken in compliance with the requirements of this section are hereby declared to be valid.

2. In case of a holograph will, on the oath of at least three credible witnesses, who state that they verily believe such will and every part thereof is in the handwriting of the person whose will it purports to be, and whose name must be subscribed thereto, or inserted in some part thereof. It must further appear upon the oath of some one of the subscribing witnesses, or of some other credible person, that such will was found among the valuable papers and effects of the decedent, or was lodged in the hands of some person for safe-keeping.

3. In case of a nuncupative will, on the oath of at least two credible witnesses present at the making thereof, who state that they were specially required to hear witness thereto by the testator himself. It must also be proved that such nuncupative will was made in the testator's last sickness, in his own habitation, or where he had been previously resident for at least ten days, unless he died on a journey or from home. No nuncupative will shall be proved by the witnesses after six months from the making thereof, unless it was put in writing within ten days from such making; nor shall it be proved till a citation has been first issued or publication been made for six weeks in some newspaper published in the state, to call in the widow and next of kin to contest such will if they think proper. (Rev., s. 3127; Code, s. 2148; 1893, c. 269; 1901, c. 278; C. C. P., s. 435; C. S. 4144.)

I. IN GENERAL.—ATTES TED WILLS.

Evidence Must Show Subscribing in Presence of Testator.—Under sec. 31-3 and this section regulating the manner in which wills shall be attested and admitted to probate, it is essential, not only that the document shall be subscribed in the presence of the testator by at least two witnesses, but that the evidence upon which the will is admitted to probate must show that fact. In re Thomas, 111 N. C. 409, 411, 1 S. E. 469.

Proof of Handwriting of Testator Where One Witness Alive.—Upon an issue of devisavit vel non, purporting to be signed by the testator himself, it is necessary for the proponent to show, to the satisfaction of the superior court, that the handwriting of the testator and his signature to the will is alive, the matter being competent evidence in this respect. Watson v. Hinson, 162 N. C. 72, 77 S. E. 1898. [Quoted in Cartwright v. Jones, 215 N. C. 108, 1 S. E. (2d) 359.]

II. HOLOGRAPHIC WILLS.

The phrase, “among the valuable papers and effects of,” etc., used in this section, does not necessarily and without exception mean among the most valuable papers, etc., Winstead v. Bowman, 68 N. C. 170.

The probate of a holograph will, where the writing propounded as the holograph will of deceased was found in his home in a washstand or bureau drawer in which he also kept deeds and receipts, is sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the question of its genuineness, and the probate of the holograph will is not affected by the evidence as to its genuineness among his valuable papers and effects as required by this section since the requirement of the statute is met if the paper writing at large among papers and effects regarded by decedent as valuable. In re Williams' Will 215 N. C. 259, 1 S. E. (2d) 857.

Effect of Provisions of Section 8-51.—Where the validity of a holograph will depends upon its being left with the beneficiary for safe keeping, his testimony thereof, after the death of the testator, is a transaction or commu-

Handwriting Goes to Jury on Testimony of Three Witnesses.—Testimony of three witnesses that the paper writing propounded as the holograph will of decedent was in his handwriting takes the case to the jury as to this requirement, notwithstanding conflicting testimony of caveator. In re Williams' Will, 215 N. C. 259, 1 S. E. (2d) 857.

In re Brown's Will.—In an action to prove a 'destructive' holographic will, the propounder must show that the instrument in the handwriting of the deceased and signed by him once existed and was destroyed under circumstances that would be probative of the authenticity of such writing. If, in such proof, there is a failure of the proof of the res and a non suit is proper. Hewett v. Murray, 218 N. C. 569, 11 S. E. (2d) 241.

III. NUNCAPUTIVE WILL.

Same—English Statute of Frauds.—The statutory provisions in relation to nuncaputive wills have existed in this State since 1784, and they are substantially the same as those in the Statute of Frauds, 29 Car. II., ch. 3, sec. 19, 20; and these provisions have always been strictly construed and enforced by the courts, both in this State and in England. Smith v. Smith, 63 N. C. 637, 639.

Strict Compliance—Necessary—Purpose of Requirements.—The requisites of this statutory provision must be strictly complied with and observed, in all material respects, in order to prevent opportunity for fraudulent purposes or to avoid the possibility of obtaining undue advantage of persons in their last sickness as to the final disposition of their property; and also to prevent mischiefs from the omission, refusal, or failure, on the part of such persons as would be disposed to obtain undue advantage of such wills. The purpose of such requisites is to prevent the fabrication of such wills; they are necessary, and it is essential to observe them strictly. Brown v. Brown, 6 N. C. 350; Rankin v. Rankin, 31 N. C. 156; Webster v. Webster, 50 N. C. 95; Haden v. Bradshaw, 60 N. C. 259; Smith v. Smith, 63 N. C. 637; Bundrick v. Haygood, 106 N. C. 468, 11 S. E. (2d) 421; Long v. Foust, 101 N. C. 114, 11 S. E. 889.

WITNESSES MUST BE CALLED TO IN WITNESS TRANSACTION.—Where a person in extremis, and conscious of it, desires to make a will, said she wanted to give to her two other persons but did not call them thereto, or either of them, to witness to her will, and they did so, and it is shown that the testator state her wishes in the presence of two witnesses, it is sufficient that the testator saw the witnesses and charged them to bear witness to his will, that he did so, and it is shown that the witness "bear witness" to the will, that be- side, testator gave specific directions for the disposition of his property, and thereupon the contents of the will were declared at a time when he was physically unable to execute it, is invalid as a nuncaputive will. Bundrick v. Haygood, 106 N. C. 468, 11 S. E. 423.

Same.—Designation by Name Not Necessary.—It is suf- ficient that the testator saw the witnesses and charged them to bear witness to his will, and they did so, and it is shown that the testator state his wishes in the presence of two witnesses, to wit: (1) his intent that it should be a written will is evi- dent from his words, "I desire made of my property and that he desired his provi- sions carried out, without reading or having the paper read at the time, but relying upon the assertion of a person then present that it contained his wishes as dictated by him severally made on a paper writing within ten days next after the dictation was made to one witness alone; (2) there was no sufficient declaration then and there of the testator's wishes in the presence of two witnesses from which they could reduce their recollection to writing within four days before his death. Kennedy v. Douglas, 151 N. C. 336, 66 S. E. 216.

The declaration of a testator made in the presence of two witnesses that a paper writing contained the disposition he desired made of his property and that he desired its provi- sions carried out, without reading or having the paper read at the time, but relying upon the assertion of a person then present that it contained his wishes as dictated by him severally made on a paper writing within ten days after the dictation was made to one witness alone; (2) there was no sufficient declaration then and there of the testator's wishes in the presence of two witnesses from which they could reduce their recollection to writing within four days before his death. Kennedy v. Douglas, 151 N. C. 336, 66 S. E. 216.
transferred all its assets and liabilities to another bank or trust company doing business in North Carolina, such latter bank or trust company shall be deemed substituted for and shall have all the rights and powers of the former bank or trust company. (Rev., s. 3128; Code, s. 2150; C. C. P., c. 438; 1929, c. 150; 1941, c. 70; C. S. 4145.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the proviso with the words "or shall have sold and transferred all its assets and liabilities to another bank or trust company doing business in North Carolina," which were added by the 1941 amendment.

Court's Notice or Intimation.—A will probated in common form before the clerk of the superior court is conclusively valid until declared void by a competent tribunal, and may be offered in evidence in proceedings to establish the validity of the will, until vacated on appeal, or declared void by a competent tribunal in a proceeding instituted for that purpose. It cannot be vacated in a collateral manner. Underwood v. Miles, 196 N. C. 599, 143 S. E. 130; In re Will of Cooper, 196 N. C. 418, 145 S. E. 782.

Before the probate in common form is not subject to collateral attack, but is binding or conclusive unless set aside in the manner prescribed. Mills v. Mills, 196 N. C. 599, 143 S. E. 130; In re Will of Cooper, 196 N. C. 418, 145 S. E. 782.

Until so set aside it is conclusively presumed to be the will of the testator. In re Will of Cooper, 196 N. C. 418, 145 S. E. 782.

A will which has been duly probated in common form may not be collaterally attacked even for fraud. Crowell v. Bradsher, 203 N. C. 492, 166 S. E. 731.

Probate a Judicial Act.—Conclusive Presumption of Validity.—Probate of a will by the clerk of the superior court is a judicial act, and his certificate is conclusive evidence of the validity of the will, until vacated on appeal, or declared void by a competent tribunal in a proceeding instituted for that purpose. It cannot be vacated in a collateral manner. McCollum v. Spivey, 123 N. C. 678, 31 S. E. 857.

An order of the clerk adjudging a will to be fully proved in common form is not "conclusive in evidence of the validity of the will" under this section, on the issue of the validity of the will of the testator. Underwood v. Miles, 28 N. C. 402; McClure v. Spivey, 123 N. C. 678, 31 S. E. 857.

The revocation of the probate in common form did not have the effect of annulling the administration properly granted. Holt v. Ziglar, 163 N. C. 390, 79 S. E. 805.

A will which has been probated in common form is not "conclusive in evidence of the validity of the will" under this section, on the issue of the validity of the will of the testator. Underwood v. Miles, 28 N. C. 402; McClure v. Spivey, 123 N. C. 678, 31 S. E. 857.

An order of the clerk adjudging a will to be fully proved in common form is not "conclusive in evidence of the validity of the will" under this section, on the issue of the validity of the will of the testator. Underwood v. Miles, 28 N. C. 402; McClure v. Spivey, 123 N. C. 678, 31 S. E. 857.

The revocation of the probate in common form did not have the effect of annulling the administration properly granted. Holt v. Ziglar, 163 N. C. 390, 79 S. E. 805.

Determination of the validity of a will shall be made by the evidence offered in the proceedings thereon, and any evidence of the genuineness of the handwriting of the testator to the instrument in controversy. Croom v. Sugg, 110 N. C. 599, 14 S. E. 748.

§ 31-20. Wills filed in clerk's office.—All original wills shall remain in the clerk's office, among the records of the court where the same shall be proved, and to such wills any person may have access, as to the other records. If said will contains a devise of real estate, outside said county where said will is probated, then a copy of the said will, together with the probate of the same, certified under the hand and seal of the clerk of the superior court of said county may be recorded in the book of wills and filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of any county in the state in which said land is situated with the effect as to passing the title to said real estate as if said will had originally been probated and filed in said county. The court shall grant or refuse to grant jurisdiction to probate the same. (Rev., s. 3129; Code, s. 2173; R. C., c. 119, s. 19; 1777, c. 115, s. 59; 1921, c. 108, s. 1; C. S. 4146.)

Editor's Note.—All but the first sentence of this section was added by the amendment of 1921, Public Laws, ch. 108, c. 172.

When Devisees Entitled to Rents and Profits until Probate Set Aside—Where there is no evidence tending to show that any of the devisees in said will procured its execution by undue or fraudulent influence, the devisees and their ancestors had any property, upon a duly certified copy or probate of the same, the same effect as to passing the title to said real estate as contained therein, to the extent to which any title to real estate was affected by the revocation of the probate in common form. (Rev., s. 3129; Code, s. 2173; R. C., c. 119, s. 19; 1777, c. 115, s. 59; 1921, c. 108, s. 1; C. S. 4146.)

§ 31-21. Validation of wills heretofore certified and recorded.—All wills which have prior to March 9, 1921, been certified and recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of any county, substantially following the provisions of this section, are validated and approved as to the conveyance and transfer of any title to real estate as contained therein, to said devisees and their ancestors, and the clerk of the superior court of said county had jurisdiction to probate the same, provided the probates and witnesses to the said wills are sufficient and according to law. (1921, c. 108, s. 2; C. S. 4146(a).)
§ 31-24. Probate when witnesses are nonresident; examination before notary public.—Where one or more of the subscribing witnesses to the will of a testator, resident in this state, reside in another state, or in another county in this state than the one in which the will is being probated, the examination of such witnesses may be had, taken and subscribed in the form of an affidavit, before a notary public residing in the county and state in which the witnesses reside; and the affidavits, so taken and subscribed, shall be transmitted by the notary public, under his hand and official seal, to the clerk of the court before whom the will has been filed for probate. If such affidavits are, upon examination by the clerk, found to establish the facts necessary to be established before the clerk to authorize the probate of the will if the witnesses had appeared before him personally, then it shall be the duty of the clerk to order the will to be probated, and record the will with the same effect as if the subscribing witnesses had appeared before him in person and been examined under oath. (1917, c. 183; 1933, c. 114; C. S. 4149.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 114, inserted, near the beginning of this section, the words "or in another county in this state than the one in which the will is being probated", after the words "where difficulty is encountered in securing the personal appearance of witnesses who reside within the state but at a distance from the county of probate." 11 N. C. Law Rev. 262.

§ 31-25. Probate when witnesses in another county.—When a will is offered for probate in one county of this state and the witnesses reside in another county, the clerk of the court before whom such will is offered shall have power and authority to issue a subpoena to the witnesses requiring them to appear before him and prove the will; and the clerk shall likewise have power and authority to issue a commission to take the deposition of such witnesses when they reside more than seventy-five miles from the place where the will is to be probated, such deposition and commission to be returned and the clerk to adjudge the will to be duly proven. Also, when it shall be found as a fact under affidavit with other proof, by the clerk of any county where a will is to be probated, that any witness to the will resides outside of the county, or inside of the county, and seventy-five miles or less from the place where the will is to be probated, and that the witness is so infirm of body as to be unable to appear in person before the clerk to prove the will, then the clerk shall have the power and authority to issue a commission to take the deposition of the witness, the commission and deposition of the witness to be returned, and the clerk to adjudge the will to be duly proved thereon as if the witness had appeared in person before him. (Rev., s. 3132; 1899, c. 55; 1911, c. 13; 1923, c. 59; C. S. 4150.)

§ 31-26. Probate of wills of members of the armed forces.—In addition to the methods already provided in existing statutes therefor, the will of a member of the armed forces of the United States, or the merchant marine, executed while in the active service of the United States, shall be admitted to probate (whether there were subscribing witnesses thereto or not, if they, or either of them, is out of the state at the time said will is offered for probate) upon the oath of at least three credible witnesses that the signature to said will is in the handwriting of the person whose will it purports to be. Such will so proven shall be effective to devise real property as well as to bequeath personal estate of all kinds. This section shall not apply to cases pending in courts and at issue on the date of its ratification. (1919, c. 216; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 39; 1943, c. 218; C. S. 4151.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1943 amendment, which was ratified on February 23, 1943, this section applied only to soldiers and sailors.

§ 31-27. Certified copy of will of nonresident recorded.—Whenever any will made by a citizen or subject of any other state or country is duly proven and allowed in such state or country according to the laws thereof, a copy or exemplification of such will and of the proceedings had in connection with the probate thereof, duly certified, and authenticated by the clerk of the court in which such will has been proven and allowed, if within the United States, or by any ambassador, minister, consul or commercial agent of the United States under his official seal, when produced or exhibited before the clerk of the superior court of any county wherein any kind of property of the testator may be, shall be allowed, filed and recorded in the same manner as if the original and not a copy had been produced, proved and allowed before such clerk. But when any will contains any devise or disposition of real estate in this state, such devise or disposition shall not have any validity or operation unless the will is executed according to the laws of this state, and that fact must appear affirmatively from the testimony of a witness or witnesses to such will, or from findings of fact or recitals in the order of probate, or otherwise, in such manner as any copy or exemplification of the will and probate proceedings. If it does not so appear, the clerk before whom the will is exhibited shall have power to issue a commission to take proofs touching the execution of the will, as prescribed in § 31-22, and the same may be adjudged duly proved, and shall be recorded as herein provided. (Rev., s. 3133; Code, s. 2156; 1885, c. 393; [82]
Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the words "'and the handwriting of the other subscribing witness,' in the first sentence and made other changes in the section. The amendment, which became effective March 15, 1941, provided that it should not affect pending litigation.

On comment on this amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 547.

Note that the statement in the first syllabus of Whitton v. Peace, 188 N. C. 298, 124 S. E. 571, stating: "semble, a will properly attested and otherwise sufficient under the laws of another state would operate to pass title to lands situated here," is erroneous, unless it is qualified by saying: provided it also conformed to the requirements of the law of this State. The statute in plain and express terms declares such wills invalid as to really devised in the State, unless the wills were duly probated in the State where they were made.

§ 31-28. Probates validated where proof taken by commissioner or another clerk.—In all cases where the probate of any will made prior to March 8, 1899 in common form before any clerk of the superior courts of this state, where the testimony of the subscribing witnesses has been taken in the state or out of it by any commissioner appointed by said clerk or taken by any other clerk of the superior courts in any other county of this state, and the will admitted to probate upon such testimony, the proceedings are validated. (Rev., s. 3184; 1899, c. 680; C. S. 4153.)

§ 31-29. Probates in another state before 1860 validated. — In all cases where any will devises land in this state, and the original will was duly admitted to probate in some other state prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty, and a certified copy of such will and the probate thereof has been admitted to probate and record in any county in this state, and it in any way appears from such recorded copy that there were two subscribing witnesses to such will, and its execution was proved by the examination of such witnesses when the original was admitted to probate, such will shall be held and considered, and hereby is held valid for the purpose of passing title to the lands devised thereby, situated in this state, as fully and completely as if the original will had been duly executed and admitted to probate and recorded in this state in accordance with the laws of this state. (1913, c. 93, s. 1; C. S. 4155.)

§ 31-30. Validation of wills recorded without probate by subscribing witnesses. In all cases where wills and testaments were executed prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five (1875), and which appear as recorded in the record of last wills and testaments to have had two (2) or more witnesses thereto, and such last wills and testaments were admitted to probate and recorded in the record of wills in the proper county in this state prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight (1888), without having been duly probated in this state, provided the wills and such wills were presented to the clerk of the superior court in any county in this state where the makers of said wills owned property, and where the makers of such wills lived and died, and were by such clerks recorded in the record of wills for his county, said wills and testaments or exemplified copies thereof, so recorded, if otherwise sufficient, shall have the effect to pass the title to real or personal property, or both, therein devised and bequeathed, to the same extent and as completely as if the execution thereof had been duly proven by the two (2) subscribing witnesses thereto in the manner provided by law of this state. Nothing herein shall be construed to prevent such wills from being impeached for fraud. (1921, c. 66; C. S. 4157(a).)

§ 31-31. Validation of wills admitted on oath of one subscribing witness.—In all cases where last wills and testaments which appear as recorded in the record of last wills and testaments to have had two (2) subscribing witnesses thereto and such last wills and testaments were admitted to probate and recorded in the record of wills in the proper county in this state prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety (1890) upon the oath and examination of one of the witnesses, such proof being taken in writing and recorded, and the certificate of probate of the Clerk of the Court states that such a will is proven by one of the subscribing witnesses thereto and the handwriting of the other subscribing witness being a non-resident is proven under oath, and such a will and certificate has been recorded in the record of wills of the proper county, such a will is hereby validated as fully as if the proof of the handwriting of the non-resident witness had been taken in regular form in writing and recorded. (1929, c. 41, ss. 1, 2.)

Art. 6. Caveat to Will. § 31-32. When and by whom caveat filed.—At the time of application for probate of any will, and the probate thereof in common form, or at any time within seven years thereafter, any person entitled under such will, or interested in the estate, may appear in person or by attorney before the clerk of the superior court and enter a caveat to the probate of such will: Provided, That if any person entitled to file a caveat be within the age of twenty-one years, or insane, or immature at the time of death of the testator, or the time the testator was fixed at a reasonable time. See In re Hedgepeth, 150 N. C. 245, 63 S. E. 1025. In that case it was held that the seven years’ limitation intended by the amendatory act did not apply to caveats filed prior to the amendment to a will probated before the amendment. See also, In re Will Beauchamp, 146 N. C. 254, 59 S. E. 687; Etheridge v. Corprew’s Executors, 48 N. C. 14; Gray v. Maer, 20 N. C. 250; Maxwell, 20 N. C. 41; In re Dupree, 163 N. C. 256, 259, 79 S. E. 611.

Until the amendment of 1925 married women were extended an additional period of three years after the removal of the disability of coverture. But the amendatory act did not apply to caveats filed prior to the amendment. See In re Witherington’s Will, 186 N. C. 152, 159 S. E. 11, 12.

In General.—By this section, the legislature recognized that it is against the sound public policy to allow probate of wills and settlements of property rights thereunder to be established in common form and require the propounder to act, of their removal from the State many years prior to 1907. In re Beauchamp, 146 N. C. 254, 59 S. E. 687.

Common Law Limitation Applied After Amendment.—As the amendatory act did not apply to caveats filed prior to the amendments, it was held that the right to caveat the will was barred.

Forty Years of Laches.—An action to probate a will in common form was defeated because the propounder knew of the will probates in common form and required the propounder to be estopped to file a second caveat to the paper-writing, nor bound by the former judgment therein sustaining the validity of the paper-writing propounded. Mills v. Mills, 195 N. C. 143, 143 S. E. 30.

Proceedings Transferred to Civil Issue Docket.—Where a caveat to a will is duly filed, with the required bond, etc., at the time the paper-writing is offered for probate, it is required of the clerk that the proceeding be transferred to the civil-issue docket for the trial of the issue of devisavit vel non, and all further steps are stayed in the matter until its settlement. In re Dupree, 163 N. C. 256, 79 S. E. 611.

Nature of Proceedings.—The proceedings in the matter of probating a will are summary and at first it is ordinarily ex parte, and the contest of it is begun by filing a caveat under this section. In re Haygood’s Will, 101 N. C. 619, 7 S. E. 582.

Caveat Proceeding in Rem—Nonsuit.—Proceedings to caveat a will are in rem involving the rights of the beneficiaries as named in the will, and those of the opposing heir at law, and the nature of the section is such that it is ordinarily ex parte, and the contest of it is begun by filing a caveat under this section. In re Haygood’s Will, 101 N. C. 619, 7 S. E. 582.

Who May Caveat the Will.—The right to interfere in a question of probate belongs to a party in interest, which means a party having an interest in the subject-matter of the probate of the instrument to the prejudice of the party. In re Thompson, 178 N. C. 540, 542, 101 S. E. 107; Armstrong v. Baker, 31 N. C. 109, 114.

In this section it is held only one interested person to caveat a will, under this section, and it becomes the duty of the clerk thereupon to bring in interested persons, under § 31-33. When they come in they may align themselves as they will, and the probate of the will is determined by the court to determine whether on such facts the presumption of the validity of the paper-writing propounded. Mills v. Mills, 195 N. C. 143, 143 S. E. 30.

Suspension of Limitation.—Application to Caveat Barred.—Chap. 78, Laws 1898, suspending the running of the statute of limitations, has no application to a caveat to a will theretofore probated and for which there was no such statute prior to 1907. In re Beauchamp, 146 N. C. 254, 59 S. E. 687.

Suspension of Limitation.—Application to Caveat Barred.—Chap. 78, Laws 1898, suspending the running of the statute of limitations, has no application to a caveat to a will theretofore probated and for which there was no such statute prior to 1907. In re Beauchamp, 146 N. C. 254, 59 S. E. 687.

What Propounder Must Prove upon Caveat Being Filed.—Upon the filing of a caveat to a will probated in common form the propounder must show that the will per testes may be heard upon the subject. In re Thompson, 178 N. C. 540, 542, 101 S. E. 107.
will or that it had not been destroyed by the testator or trial the propounder carries the burden of proof to establish the formal execution of the will. This he must do by proving the will in solemn form. In re Rowland, 202 N. C. 355, 357, 152 S. E. 897.

Application to Clerk within the Time No Excuse, When.—When the parties seeking to caveat a will have forfeited their right to do so by unreasonable delay and acquiescence, the mere fact that they had applied to the clerk several times when their rights would have been allowed, and the clerk declined to entertain the application, because the parties failed to give a proper bond as required by law, does not affect the result, for no caveat is properly constituted until the statutory requirements are met; and if it had been so constituted, the absence of notice issued in reasonable time works a discontinuance. In re Dupree, 163 N. C. 256, 79 S. E. 611.

Proof in Common Form Valid Until Set Aside.—The probate of a will in common form is valid until set aside, and the right to require probate in solemn form may be forfeited, either by acquiescence or unreasonable delay, now seven years, under this section. In re Beauchamp, 146 N. C. 254, 59 S. E. 687.

Effect of Infancy, Absence from the State.—Where the common law presumption of forfeiture of the right to caveat when absence from the State or acquiescence prevails, the matters of infancy, (overcourt,) and absence from the State are not necessarily controlling, but they are considered as rebutting the presumption. If the common law presumption will prevail, and more especially is this true in its application to the absence from the State of a party claiming under the will, when he had first remained in possession of the property for more than a year and the court determines that he is one where jurisdiction could be acquired by publication.

In re Dupree, 163 N. C. 256, 79 S. E. 611. Good Faith Claimants Protected until Probate Attacked.—All persons who claim in good faith under a will which has been duly probated in common form as provided by statute are protected by its provisions, until the probate is attacked by a caveat proceeding instituted as provided by this section. Whitehurst v. Hinton, 209 N. C. 390, 184 S. E. 66.

§ 31-33. Bond given and cause transferred to trial docket.—Upon any caveatator giving bond, with sufficient surety to be approved by the clerk, in the sum of two hundred dollars, payable to the propounder of the will, conditioned to pay all costs which may be adjudged against such caveatator in the superior court by reason of his failure to prosecute his suit with effect, or deposit the money or give a mortgage in lieu of such bond, or shall file affidavits and satisfy the clerk of his inability to give such bonds or secure such costs, the clerk shall transfer the cause to the superior court for trial; and he shall also forthwith issue a citation to all devisees, legatees or other parties in interest within the state, and cause publication to be made, for four weeks, in some newspaper printed in the state, for nonresidents to appear at the term of the superior court, to which the proceeding is transferred to and to make themselves proper parties to the proceeding, if they choose. At the term of court to which the proceeding is transferred to the court, on motion to that effect shall be made by the propounder, and before trial, the judge shall require any of the persons so cited, either those who make themselves parties with the caveatators or whose interests appear to him antagonistic to that of the propounders of the will, and who shall appear to him to be able so to do, to file such bond within such time as he shall direct and before trial; and if a failure to file such bond the judge shall dismiss the action. (Rev. s. 3137; Code, s. 2159; 1899, c. 13; 1901, c. 748; C. C. P., s. 447; 1909, c. 74; C. S. 4159.)

Bringing in Interested Persons.—In this state it takes only one interested person to caveat a will under § 31-32 and it becomes the duty of the clerk, under this section, to give notice to all interested persons. When the time comes they may align themselves as they will. Bailey v. Maclin, 215 N. C. 150, 1 S. E. (3d) 372.

Trial by Jury.—The probate of a will in solemn form is a proceeding in a civil nature, and the issue raised by the caveat must be tried by a jury and the propounder and caveatator may not waive trial by jury and submit the issue to the court for an agreement as to the proofs of facts. In re Will of Rodeger, 209 N. C. 470, 184 S. E. 74. Cited in Mills v. Mills, 195 N. C. 595, 596, 143 S. E. 139.

§ 31-34. Prosecution bond required in actions to contest wills.—When any action is instituted to contest a will the clerk of the superior court will require the prosecution bond required in other civil actions: Provided, however, that provisions for bringing suit in forma pauperis shall also apply to the provisions of this section. (1937, c. 383.)

Editor's Note.—The purpose of this section is not entirely clear. The usual method of contesting a will is to file a caveat, either at the time the will is presented for probate, or within seven years thereafter. This is said to be neither a civil action nor a special proceeding, but is in the nature of a proceeding in rem, in which the propounder has the burden of establishing the formal execution of the will, and the caveatators the burden of showing that it is not a valid will. It may be the purpose of the statute to require the propounder to give bond when a caveat is filed, so as to have the costs secured by both parties. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 352.

§ 31-35. Affidavit of witness as evidence. Whenever the subscribing witness to any will shall die, or be absent beyond the state, it shall be competent upon any issue of devisavit vel non to give in evidence the affidavits and proofs taken by the clerk upon admitting the will to probate in common form, and such affidavit and proceedings before the clerk shall be prima facie evidence of the due and legal execution of said will. (Rev. s. 3121; 1890, c. 680, s. 2; C. S. 4160.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1927 (Pub. Laws, c. 119), the representative can not be made to stop, upon a nonresidents to appear at the term of the superior court, to which the proceeding is transferred and to make themselves proper parties to the proceeding, if they choose. At the term of court at which the proceeding is transferred to the court, on motion to that effect shall be made by the propounder, and before trial, the judge shall require any of the persons so cited, either those who make themselves parties with the caveatators or whose interests appear to him antagonistic to that of the
The filing of a caveat suspends further proceedings in the administration of the estate, but does not deprive the executor or executrix of the right to the possession of the assets of the estate. Elledge v. Hawkins, 208 N. C. 757, 199 S. E. 248.

Effect of Caveat upon Rights and Duties of Representative.

The executor is not divested of all his representative powers; nor is the first probate vacated absolutely when the caveat is entered. An executor, or administrator c. t. a., after the will is proved in common form, may be sued, and by leave of court may proceed in the collection of debts due the deceased. An executor, or administrator c. t. a., after the will is proved in common form. may be sued, and by leave of court may sell property to pay debts, but cannot pay legacies or devises. Vickers v. Leigh, 104 N. C. 246, 257, 10 S. E. 358.

The filing of a caveat suspends further proceedings in the administration of the estate, but does not deprive the executor or executrix of the right to the possession of the assets of the estate. Elledge v. Hawkins, 208 N. C. 757, 199 S. E. 248.

Effect of Absence of Order to Suspend Proceeding.—In the absence of an order to suspend further proceedings upon the filing of a caveat, as provided by this section, the acts of the executor in filing a petition or proceeding with the sale of the land were not void nor were the rights of purchasers from the estate of the estate of the deceased. The presumption established by this section that a devise of land shall be construed in fee, etc., gives way to the intent of the testator as gathered from the entire will controls its interpretation; and this rule applies to the construction of deeds as for devises. Vickers v. Leigh, 104 N. C. 246, 257, 10 S. E. 358.

The filing of a caveat suspended further proceedings in the administration of the estate, but does not deprive the executor or executrix of the right to the possession of the assets of the estate. Elledge v. Hawkins, 208 N. C. 757, 199 S. E. 248.

Effect of Absence of Order to Suspend Proceeding.—In the absence of an order to suspend further proceedings upon the filing of a caveat as provided by this section, the acts of the executor in filing a petition or proceeding with the sale of the land were not void nor were the rights of purchasers from the estate of the deceased. Roberts v. Saunders, 192 N. C. 191, 134 S. E. 451.

Thus under a devise to the testator's wife of all of his "estate real and personal," and by a later paragraph all of the rest of the testator's property "as above stated" during her widowhood, and should she remarry her dower "according to law": It was held only a life estate, according to the testator's intent, is given to his widow, and her conveyance of a fee-simple title is ineffectual, the statutory presumption of a fee-simple title being inoperative. Roberts v. Saunders, 192 N. C. 191, 134 S. E. 451.

Where the testator, by bequeathing or devising property to a person, expresses a wish or desire as to its use or disposition, such expression is entitled to full effect; if the testator intended to pass an estate in fee, it was held, on the ground that without the use and benefit with the expressed intent that it should be the duty of such cierk, and he is hereby directed that final judgment has been entered, either sustaining or setting aside such will. (1929, c. 81.)

Art. 7. Construction of Will.

Editor's Note.—The trend of judicial decisions for years has been toward relaxing the rigor of the common-law rule, that without words of inheritance it creates an estate of greater dignity than for life could be created by deed. While devises were held, after the statute of wills, to be of a species of nature excepting those which construed them more liberally than deeds; and where, without the use and benefit with the expressed intent that it should be the duty of such cierk, and he is hereby directed that final judgment has been entered, either sustaining or setting aside such will. (1929, c. 81.)

Editor's Note.—The trend of judicial decisions for years has been toward relaxing the rigor of the common-law rule, that without words of inheritance it creates an estate of greater dignity than for life could be created by deed. While devises were held, after the statute of wills, to be of a species of nature excepting those which construed them more liberally than deeds; and where, without the use and benefit with the expressed intent that it should be the duty of such cierk, and he is hereby directed that final judgment has been entered, either sustaining or setting aside such will. (1929, c. 81.)
vest in him absolutely with full right to dispose of it, with limitation over should he die without children surviving, if not disposed of by him during his life, under the provisions of this section. If he died leaving no issue of his body, the devise to the estate to one of less dignity, the devisee took a fee-simple title thereto, and could convey a good title to the purchaser.

The rule that a general devise will be construed to be in fee, applies only when the language employed by testator fails to show a clear intent to convey an estate of less dignity. Hampton v. West, 212 N. C. 315, 193 S. E. 290.

An unrestricted devise of real estate passes the fee, but a devise with power of full management and control, as a devisee's share to descend to other grandchildren, such devises vest a fee simple estate in the first devisee, defeasible only on condition that he dies without leaving heirs of his body. Whitley v. Garfield, 114 N. C. 24, 45 S. E. 904.

Fee Simple with Power of Appointment.—A devise to A, and to such of his issue as he may appoint. In such a devise the devisee is given the power of disposal of the fee simple, unless an intent to convey an estate of less dignity is apparent from the will, and regard will be had to the natural objects of the testator's bounty, and the testator's intention as gathered from the whole instrument will be given effect unless it is contrary to some rule of law or public policy. Jolley v. Humphries, 204 N. C. 672, 169 S. E. 417.

Under this section the fee generally passes upon a devise of the proceeds of land when an intention to separate the income from the principal is not expressed, or where the devise is general and the devisee is given the power of disposal, the devisee will take the fee simple, unless it be not disposed of by the first taker. Harmbright v. Carroll, 204 N. C. 496, 168 S. E. 817.

In conflicts between wills and courts will endeavor to ascertain the intent of the testator as expressed in the words used, and in cases of doubt resort may be had to the usual canons of interpretation, and a devise will be construed to be in fee unless it is apparent from the will that the testator intended to convey an estate of less dignity. Bell v. Gilliam, 200 N. C. 411, 157 S. E. 60.

A general devise to a testator's wife with subsequent items provides that one-half of the estate "remaining" at her death should go to his adopted son in fee, and the other half, in part, should go to his natural children, vesting the absolute title thereto in the testator's wife, rebutting the presumption that the testator had the power to convey the entire estate by deed in fee simple, unless the terms of the devise indicate the testator intended to convey an estate of less dignity. Bell v. Gilliam, 200 N. C. 411, 157 S. E. 60.

Devise for "Use and Benefit without Let or Hindrance."—Where testator left property in trust with power in his wife to demand that trustee turn over property to her "for her benefit and without let or hindrance," the devisee could not recover the property, since the devisee had no right to his devisees' share to descend to her children, vests the fee in the widow, and did not convey to the widow a fee simple, not being the kind of trust set up by the will. Follows v. Durify, 165 N. C. 305, 79 S. E. 631.

Conflicting Expressions—Which Controls.—Where a testator devises all of his estate to his wife, clearly and unmistakably in fee, a different intent may not be inferred from subsequent provisions of the will. Follows v. Durify, 165 N. C. 305, 79 S. E. 631.

Conflicting Interest—General Interest Prevails.—The provisions of this section, while laying down a rule of construction, still leave the question of the intention of the testator open for construction, and where there is a particular, and a general paramount interest apparent in the same will, and they clash, the general interest must prevail. Leeper v. Neagle, 94 N. C. 338.

Section Does Not Apply to Devise to Trustee.—Where a devise created no interest in certain lands in favor of testator's husband, a devise to the husband in an active trust for the purpose of carrying out the wishes of her father for the care of his widow, this section has no application to the devise to the husband as trustee in an active trust for the purpose of carrying out the wishes of her heirs upon the termination of the will. Stephens v. Clark, 211 N. C. 84, 189 S. E. 191.

Devise Creating a Life Estate.—In Alexander v. Alexander, 210 N. C. 221, 186 S. E. 319, it was held that the devise created an estate limited at most to the life of the widow, and did not convey to the widow a fee simple, notwithstanding the provisions of this section and notwithstanding the existence of a provision in the will that the estate to a per stirpes gen- erally or indefinitely with power of disposition ordinarily carries the fee, since it is apparent from the words of the devise that the testator had no intention to vest the fee simple.

Void Restriction on Alienation.—Where a restriction on alienation was declared void, the devise was unrestricted and vested the fee in the devisee. Williams v. McPherson, 215 N. C. 565, 5 S. E. (2d) 230.

Probate necessary to pass title; recordation in county where real estate lies; rights of innocent purchasers.—No will shall be effectual to pass real or personal estate unless it shall have been duly proved and allowed in the proper court of the proper county, and a duly certified copy thereof shall be recorded in the office of the superior court clerk of the county wherein the land is situate, and the probate of a will devising real estate shall be conclusive as to the execution thereof, against the heirs and devisees of the testator, whenever the probate thereof, under the like circumstances, would be conclusive against the next of kin and legatees of the testator: Provided, that the probate and registration of any will shall not affect the rights of innocent purchasers for value from the heirs at law of the testator when such purchase is made more than two years after the death of such testator, unless the will has been fraudulently withheld from probate. (Rev., s. 3139; Code, s. 2174; R. C. c. 119, s. 20: 1784, c. 225, s. 6: 1915, c. 219; C. S. 4163.)

Cross Reference.—As to further provisions relative to wills fraudulently withheld from probate, see § 31-12.

Probate of a Descriptive Will.—The probate of a will containing a description of real estate is a prerequisite to its validity as a conveyance of real estate. Osborne v. Leak, 89 N. C. 433; Paul v. Davenport, 217 N. C. 262, 265, 102 S. E. 386.

No Statute of Limitation to Nullify a Will.—There is no statute of limitations as to when a will may be admitted to probate and section 47-18 has no application to wills: the probate, when proved, allowed and recorded, as the statute requires, becomes effective and relates back to the date of the devisee, passing the title from that date, avoiding all disposition or conveyances of the property by the heirs contrary to the provisions of the will, unless the claimants are protected by the statute of limitations or some recognized equitable principle. Cooley v. Lee, 170 N. C. 18, 66 S. E. 270.

Probate Not Retroactive as to Recordation.—This section requiring copies of wills to be recorded in the county wherein the deviser resides is prospective in effect, and the devisees for value from the heirs at law of the testator, immediately prior to the testator's death, pass real or personal estate unless it shall have been duly proved and recorded, and the ordinary registration acts having no application to wills; they became effective from the date of the devisees from that date against all dispositions or conveyances from the heirs to the contrary. Barnhardt v. Morrison, 178 N. C. 563, 101 S. E. 218.

Same—Amendment Not Retroactive.—The amendment of this statute has been prospective in effect, and the right of the devisees, under the amendment, to have unlimited time to probate the will will not be affected except from the effective date of the amendment. Barnhardt v. Morrison, 178 N. C. 563, 101 S. E. 218. That is the devisees will have two years after the effective date of the amendment to have their will probated.—Ed. Note.

§ 31-40. What property passes by will.—Any testator, by his will duly executed, may devise, bequeath, or dispose of all real and personal estate which he shall be entitled to at the time of his death, whether by will or not if so devised, bequeathed, or disposed of, while he shall be living, or any estate in the land (before the breach of the condition, the testator having a mere possibility of reverter) at the date of the amendment to have their will probated.—Ed. Note.

§ 31-41. Will relates to death of testator.—Every will shall be construed, with reference to the real and personal estate comprised therein, to speak and take effect as if it had been executed immediately prior to the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will. (Rev., s. 3141; Code, s. 2141; R. C. c. 119, s. 16: 1844, c. 88, s. 3: C. S. 4165.)

The General Rule Expounded.—This general rule seems to be applicable only to personal property. A will is not capable of deliberately creating an interest in real estate prior to the time of death of the testator. However, a will may be effectual to pass real estate, and it is only when the will describes a specific subject of gift with sufficient particularity to show that the subject interest is the subject of the act and not just a prospective event, but the date of the will refers to actual conditions. Hilts v. Mercer, 125 N. C. 71, 74, 34 S. E. 106.

Exception to General Rule.—Ordinarily a will will be construed as if it had been executed immediately prior to the death of the testator, and it is only when the will describes a specific subject of gift with sufficient particularity to show that the subject interest is the subject of the act and not just a prospective event, but the date of the will refers to actual conditions. Tyler v. Meadows, 215 N. C. 733, 3 S. E. (2d) 264.

Section Relates to Subject Matter, and Not the Objects of the Will.—This section, making the will speak of the death, relates to the subject matter of disposition only, and does not in any manner interfere with the construction in regard to the objects of the gift. For this reason is that this is the right to prior declarator's speech as of the date of their execution, and not as of the date of a testator's death under the rule of construction promulgated by this section. Williams v. Nunn, 89 N. C. 547.

Devises of "the Whole of My Lands" Passes After-Acquired Property.—A devise of "the whole of my lands" to devisees, includes land acquired by the testator after the publication of the subject of his will, whether the devisee is heir or residuary legatee, in fact, whether a devisee or legatee would have been an heir at law of testator had he survived him, but the wife by a prior marriage are entitled to the personalty, since the wife would not have been an heir at law of testator had she survived him, but the children of the wife by a prior marriage have been a distributee of the personal estate of her husband had she survived him, and this section providing that in such case the legacy should not lapse but should pass to the surviving issue of the legatee, the statute clearly recognizing the distinction between real and personal property for the purposes of devolution. Farnell v. Dungan, 207 N. C. 174, 175, 148 S. E. 113.

Section a Prototype of English Statute.—This section enacted in 1844, is a copy of the English statute upon the same subject. The English statute provides for such devises as shall fail or be void: (1) by reason of such devise being contrary to law; (2) by reason of such devise being contrary to law; (3) or otherwise incapable of taking effect. Holton v. Jones, 133 N. C. 399, 405, 45 S. E. 765.

This section should not be construed with § 31-44.—Neither a present nor an immediate devise is a residuary devise, and it is not interrelated with the purpose of devolution. Beach v. Gladstone, 94 N. C. 298; Cuclalenson v. X., 106 N. C. 227.

Construction of Residuary Clause in General.—In a specific gift, you must look to see whether that particular item is the residuary gift is reduced to the level of a specific gift, and ceases to be a residuary gift. Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 173, 88 S. E. 141.

Construction of Residuary Clause to Prevent Intestacy.—A residuary devise is a devise that should be construed so as to prevent an intestacy as to any part of the testator's estate, unless there is an apparent intent to the contrary, plainly and unequivocally expressed in the writing. Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 173, 88 S. E. 141.

Intestacy Not Favored.—No one supposes that he has failed in his disposition to dispose of all of his property by his will, and the courts should endeavor to make out such an intention and to uphold the testamentary plan, so that the testator may not, as to some of his estate, have died intestate. Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 174, 88 S. E. 141.

whether a clause is a residuary clause is not dependent upon any particular form of expression but upon the intention of the testator, and where a will provides that after the termination of a life estate that the whole estate should be distributed among a specific class, where the legasy requests, distributed among a specific class, where the legacy of one of the class lapses by the death of the legatee prior to the testator's death, the amount of such legacy is thrown in the fund, under the testamentary plan, so that some item is excluded, so that, to use the language of one of the authorities, what hitherto has purported to be the residuary gift is reduced to the level of a specific gift, and ceases to be a residuary gift. Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 173, 88 S. E. 141.

CHAPTER 31—WILLS—CONSTRUCTION OF WILL
§ 31-42. Lapsed and void devises pass under residuary clause, unless a contrary intention shall appear. There will be no lapsed devise in such will carried in such devise in such will which shall fail or be void by reason of the death of the devisee in the lifetime of the testator, or by reason of such devise being contrary to law or otherwise incapable of taking effect, shall be included in the residuary devise (if any) contained in such will: Provided, there shall be no lapse of the devise or legacy by reason of the death of the devisee or legatee during the lifetime of the testator, if such devisee or legatee should have been an heir at law or distributee of such testator had he died intestate, and if such devisee or legatee shall leave issue surviving him; and if there is issue surviving, then the said issue shall have the devise or bequest named in the will (Rev., § 31-42; Code, § 2144; R. C., c. 119, s. 7; 1844, c. 58, s. 4; 1919, c. 28; C. S. 4166.)

In the Absence of Statute Heirs Prevail over Residuary Devise. In the absence of statute, upon general principles, the heir at law is favored as much as possible, even to the detriment of a residuary devisee; and, accordingly, a specific devisee named in the will, not found upon the "heir" and not the residuary legatee, in fact, whether a devisee lapse or was void ab initio, the residuary devise does not absorb it. Holton v. Jones, 133 N. C. 399, 403, 45 S. E. 765.

Rights of Collateral Heirs. Where the owner of real and personal property executed a will devising and bequeathing all his property, both real and personal, to his wife, the collateral heirs at law of the testator are entitled to the real property, the devise to the wife having lapsed by reason of the prior declarator's speech, upon the application to prevent such lapse of the devise, since the wife would not have been an heir at law of testator had she survived him, but the children of the wife by a prior marriage are entitled to the personalty, since the wife would not have been an heir at law of testator had she survived him, but the children of the wife by a prior marriage have been a distributee of the personal estate of her husband had she survived him, and this section providing that in such case the legacy should not lapse but should pass to the surviving issue of the legatee, the statute clearly recognizing the distinction between real and personal property for the purposes of devolution. Farnell v. Dungan, 207 N. C. 174, 175, 148 S. E. 113.

Lapsed Devises for Misdescription.—A general residuary devise carries lapsed and void legacies, and property which is the subject of a devise which fails by reason of a misdescription. 40 Cyc., 1563 to 1577; Gardner on Wills, 418; Faison v. Middleton, 171 N. C. 170, 173, 88 S. E. 141.

Subject-Matter of Void Legacy Is Included in Residuary Legacy. Under the provisions of this section, the property which is the subject-matter of a void legacy, is included within the residuary legacy provided by the will, and should be delivered by the executor to the residuary legatees.

§ 31-43. General gift by will an execution of power of appointment.—A general devise of the real estate of the testator, or of his real estate in any place or in the occupation of any person mentioned in the will, or otherwise described in a general manner, shall be construed to include any real estate, or any real estate to which such description shall extend, as the case may be, which he may have power to appoint in any manner he may think proper; and shall operate as an execution of such power, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will; and in like manner a bequest of the personal estate of the testator, or any bequest of personal property, described in a general manner, shall be construed to include any personal estate, or any personal estate to which such description shall extend, as the case may be, which he may have power to appoint in any manner he may think proper, and shall operate as an execution of such power, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will. (Rev., s. 3143; Code, s. 2143; R. C., c. 119, s. 8; 1844, c. 5; C. S. 4167.)

Cross Reference.—See also, § 31-4.

Power Not Exercised in Express Terms—Construction of Entire Will.—Where the execution by will of a power is not exercised in express terms by reference to the power or the subject thereof, the construction must be given by looking to the whole instrument and giving effect to the intent therein manifested. Johnston v. Knight, 117 N. C. 122, 23 S. E. 92; Walsh v. Friedman, 219 N. C. 297, 21 S. E. (2d) 250.

Power Not Exercised by Residuary Power.—Unless Contrary Intention Shown.—Unless there is something to show a contrary intention on the part of a testator, a general residuary devise will operate as an execution of a power to dispose of any property by will. Johnston v. Knight, 117 N. C. 122, 23 S. E. 92.

§ 31-44. Gifts to children dying before testator pass to their issue.—When any person, being a child or other issue of the testator, to whom any real or personal estate shall be devised or bequeathed for any estate or interest not determinable at the death of the child, shall die in the lifetime of the testator, leaving issue, and any such issue of such person shall be living at the death of the testator, such devise or bequest shall not lapse, but shall take effect and vest a title to such estate in the issue surviving, if there be any, in the same manner, proportions and estates as if the death of such person had happened immediately after the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will. (Rev., s. 3143; Code, s. 2143; R. C., c. 119, s. 8; C. S. 4168.)

Former Law.—Prior to the year 1816, the law was such that if a devise or bequest were made by a testator to his child, and such child died in his lifetime, leaving issue, the devise or legacy would lapse and fall into the residuum, if there were any residuary clause in the will; or, if there were none, would be intestate property, and descend to the heirs-at-law, or be distributed among the next of kin of the testator, according to the nature of the property. Smith v. Smith, 58 N. C. 305, 307.

§ 31-45. After-born children share in testator's estate.—Children born after the making of the parent's will, and whose parent shall die without making any provision for them, shall be entitled to such share and proportion of the parent's estate as if he or she had died intestate, and the rights of any such after-born child shall be a lien on every part of the parent's estate, until his several share thereof is set apart in the manner prescribed in §§ 28-153 to 28-158. (Rev., s. 3143; Code, s. 2145; 1808-9, c. 113, s. 82; C. S. 4169.)

Editor's Note.—See 12 N. C. Law Rev. 403, for note on "Deviote by Child Adopted after Execution of Adopting Parent's Will."

Section Not Intended to Direct a Parent to Make Provision for Child.—This section is construed as not intending to control a parent as to the provision he should make for his child, but to apply when by inadvertence or mistake the after-born child has not been provided for. Unless the omission was intentional, or provision is made for the child, either under the will or some settlement or provision ultra, the after-born child takes his share, and the statute applies whether there was one or more children. Flanner v. Flanner, 160 N. C. 126, 75 S. E. 936.

"Without Making Any Provision" Constrained.—The true meaning of the section has been held in Meares v. Meares, 26 N. C. 192, and King v. Davis, 91 N. C. at pp. 142, 147, to be that "without making any provision" is not intended to be construed to mean that there must be a gift of certain property or thing for the children, for that would be merely adopting the popular misconception of "cutting one off with a shilling," but that "without making any provision" means any arrangement or circumstances tending to show that the testator had these children in mind when the will was made and without any indication that it was his purpose to disinherit them. Thomason v. Julian, 133 N. C. 399, 310, 45 S. E. 636.

Express Exclusion of Children Tantamount to Making Provision.—A will expressly excluding the children of the testator born after the execution thereof "makes a provision for them" within the meaning of this section and such children do not share in the estate as though the testator had died intestate. Thompson v. Julian, 133 N. C. 399, 310, 45 S. E. 636.

Inadequacy of Provision Immaterial.—If any provision is made for an after-born child, the court cannot say that it is inadequate. The statute only applies when no provision at all has been made. King v. Davis, 91 N. C. 142.

Knowledge of Testator as to Child En Vente Sa Mere Immaterial.—The beneficent provisions of this section are not affected by the presumptive knowledge of the father, from the condition of his wife, that at the time he made the will he must have anticipated the birth, but upon the fact that the child was born thereafter. Christian v. Carter, 193 N. C. 337, 137 S. E. 596.

It is the subsequent birth, not the father's knowledge, which effects the partial revocation. Id.

Under Section 29-1 and This Section Child Will Inherit Land Subjected to Dower.—A child for whom no provision was made, will, under the rule of descent, section 29-1, and under this section, inherit the real estate of which his father dies seized, subjected to the dower of the widow, his mother. Nicholson v. Nicholson, 190 N. C. 122, 129 S. E. 148.

Under this section where there is a devise to a wife "to do with as she thinks best for herself and the children," and a child is born two months after the testator's death, such child is not entitled to a share in the estate but is provided for as one of "the children" under the will in view of rule 7, § 29-1. Bowls v. Durham Realty, etc., Co., 189 N. C. 368, 127 S. E. 254.

Not Applicable to Adopted Children—Illegitimate Children.—This section applies only to natural born children of the testator, and does not apply to adopted children. Sorrell v. Sorrell, 193 N. C. 439, 137 S. E. 306. Illegitimate children subsequently adopted, however, fall within the class of natural children. King v. Davis, 91 N. C. 142.

Entire Will is Not Revoked.—While afterborn children not provided for in the will of their deceased parent may claim by inheritance their part of the estate, under this section, it does not amount to revocation of the entire will. Fawcett v. Fawcett, 191 N. C. 679, 132 S. E. 796.

§ 32-1. Short title.—This chapter may be cited as the Uniform Fiduciaries Act. (1923, c. 85, s. 14; C. S. 1864(d).)

Editor's Note.—This and the following sections constitute the Uniform Fiduciaries Act which was recommended by the national conference of commissioners on uniform state laws in 1922.

The general purpose is to establish uniform and definite rules in place of divers and indefinite rules now prevailing as to the restrictions on fiduciary obligations, and to facilitate the performance by fiduciaries of their obligations, rather than to favor any particular class of persons dealing with them. In order to prevent occasional breaches of fiduciary duty it is suggested by the commissioners that fear that inadequate protection to beneficiaries will result is partially dissipated by the fact that the English courts have adopted similar rules which work well in practice.

With this general purpose in mind the law is framed so that its application is restricted to the liabilities of the persons dealing with fiduciaries and does not deal with the liabilities of the fiduciaries themselves. It contemplates only situations where the persons dealing with a fiduciary know him to be such so that questions relating to actual or constructive notice of the existence of the trust or other fiduciary obligations are not within the scope of the act. It was suggested by the commissioners that fear that inadequate protection to beneficiaries will result is partially dissipated by the fact that the English courts have adopted similar rules which work well in practice.

It should be observed that in none of the situations dealt with in this act is the standard of due care or negligence made the test of liability. While the act recognizes that there are instances when the person dealing with the fiduciary should be held liable, it proceeds upon the theory that this is true only when acting with actual knowledge or in bad faith, and in such instances only does the person deal with an actual or constructive agent.

Same—Prior Law.—Under the law of this State prior to this statute, the law as to the various classes of fiduciaries has varied just a little but it was held very generally that where one accepted the assets of the estate held in trust by the fiduciary in payment of an individual debt, he was charged with notice and considered a party to the wrong, and thus a dealer at his peril. So it has been held that in equity (in the early cases the rule at law was otherwise) the executor or administrator can make no valid sale or pledge of the assets as a security for or in payment of his own debt on the theory that the transaction itself gives the purchaser or mortgagee notice of the misapplication. Powell v. Jones, 36 N. C. 337, 338; Bradshaw v. Simpson, 41 N. C. 245, 246. Although the purchaser in good faith at a sale was protected, Gray v. Armistead, 41 N. C. 74. It was settled law, therefore, that when a person got from an administrator, or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, property which they had no actual or constructive knowledge of the trust, it was probable that they had no actual or constructive notice of the existence of the trust; for, as the trustee has no right to sell without the permission of the court or interest of the parties, the purchaser was charged with notice. Power v. Armistead, 41 N. C. 231; Hendrick v. Gidney, 114 N. C. 543, 546, 19 S. E. 598.

The purchasers from fiduciaries who had no right to sell without prior permission of the court may be divided into two classes: those who had actual or constructive notice of the misapplication, and those who did not have such notice. When one purchases from a fiduciary and does not have actual or constructive notice of the fact that the fiduciary is not such as he represents himself to be, he is charged with constructive notice of the existence of the trust; for, as the trustee has no right to sell without permission of the court or interest of the parties, the purchaser was charged with notice. The decision in this case follows the rule in the earlier cases.

§ 32-2. Definition of terms.—1. In this chapter unless the context or subject-matter otherwise requires:

"Bank" includes any person or association of persons, whether incorporated or not, carrying on the business of banking.

"Fiduciary" includes a trustee under any trust, expressed, implied, resulting or constructive, executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, curator, receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, assignee for the benefit of creditors, partner, agent, officer of a corporation, public or private, public officer, or any other person acting in a fiduciary capacity for any person, trust or estate.

"Person" includes a corporation, partnership, or other association, or two or more persons having a joint or common interest.

"Principal" includes any person to whom a fiduciary as such owes an obligation.

2. A thing is done "in good faith" within the meaning of this chapter when it is in fact done honestly, whether it be done negligently or not. (1923, c. 83, s. 1; C. S. 1864 (e).)

Cross Reference.—As to what constitutes the business of banking, see § 32-1.

Origin of Definitions.—"Bank."—The definition of "banks" contained in this section was taken from the Uniform Negotiable Instruments Act, section 25-1.

Origin of Definitions.—"Fiduciary."—As used hereinafter as here defined is a combination of the definitions in the Negotiable Instruments Act, G. S. § 25-1, the Uniform Warehouse Receipt Act, G. S. § 57-2, the Uniform Stock Transfer Act, G. S. § 55-102, the Uniform Partnership Act, G. S. § 59-32, and section 76 of the Uniform Sales Act (which latter act has not been adopted in North Carolina).

"Fiduciary."—The definitions of "fiduciary" and "principal" are both new with this act. However, it is well to observe that two classes of fiduciaries are contemplated: (1) Those holding property in their own name, and (2) those dealing with property which is held in the name of the principal. Different provisions are necessarily made in some of the following sections in regard to these two classes of fiduciaries.

Same.—"Good Faith."—The definition of "good faith" is taken verbatim from section 76 of the Uniform Sales Act; the Uniform Warehouse Receipt Act, G. S. § 57-2; section 52 of the Uniform Bills of Lading Act; the Uniform Stock Transfer Act, G. S. § 55-102. "Good Faith" is not defined in the N. L. L. sections 25-1 et seq.

It will probably be of interest to point out that in the tentative draft of the Uniform Commercial Code (second draft) it ended with a definition of "bad faith" in the following language: "And a thing is done in bad faith when it is in fact done dishonestly." This was omitted by a vote of the National Conference. The N. L. L. contains no definition of "bad faith."

The courts have held that the test of good faith is the subjective test of honesty, and not the objective test of due care. See Brannan's Neg. Inst. Laws, pp. 187 et seq.

§ 32-3. Application of payments made to fiduciaries.—A person who in good faith pays or transfers to a fiduciary any money or other property held in trust by the fiduciary, or by the principal authorized to receive, is not responsible for the proper application thereof by the fiduciary; and any right or title acquired from the fiduciary in consideration of such payment or transfer is not invalid in consequence of a misapplication by the fiduciary. (1923, c. 83, s. 2; C. S. 1864 (f).)

Editor's Note.—It was pointed out by the commissioners drafting this act in submitting it to the conference that it applies only when the fiduciaries are authorized to receive the property. Therefore, where a bank does not have authority to receive any property, the banks may be held to pay such property to the person having a prior or subsequent interest.

This section is based upon statutes existing in England, Alabama, Colorado, Delaware, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Dakota, and Wisconsin.

It was stated in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 291 that this section accords with the North Carolina decisions, Tyrell v. Morris, 21 N. C. 559; Gray v. Armstead, 41 N. C. 74; Kails v. Weil, 164 N. C. 84; 80 S. E. 229, unless a change results from the elimination by the definition of "fiduciary" in section 55-102. The definitions, authoritative and ill-defined, between some classes of fiduciaries. Exum v. Bowden, 39 N. C. 281; Gray v. Armstead, supra.

§ 32-4. Registration of transfer of securities held by fiduciaries.—If a fiduciary in whose name are registered shares of stock, bonds or other securities of any corporation, public or private, or company or other association, or of any trust, transfers the same, such corporation or company or other association, or any of the managers of the trust, or its or their transfer agent, is not bound to inquire whether the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in making the transfer, or to see to the performance of the fiduciary obligations, and is liable for registering such transfer only when registration of the transfer is made with actual knowledge that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in making the transfer, or with knowledge of such facts that the action in registering the transfer amounts to bad faith. (1923, c. 85, s. 3; C. S. 1864 (g).)

Editor's Note.—This section is based upon a Massachusetts statute which was patterned with the N. L. L. relating to trustees. See Gen. Laws, ch. 232, section 21, Cum. St. ch. 253, sect. 21. There are similar statutes in Delaware (Rev. Code 1935, section 3590); Kentucky (St. 1909, section 4169); Pennsylvania (Purdon's Dig. 3 ed. 4950, section 7), and a very recent statute in Illinois.

This section applied only when the stock or securities are registered in the name of the fiduciary and has no application when it is in the name of the principal. In cases where the fiduciary registered in the name of the decedent and the executor or administrator wished to transfer it to his own name or that of a third person, it does not, therefore, interfere with the provisions of the inheritance tax laws.

In submitting this section, the framers called attention to the various practices with respect to the manner of registering stock on the corporate registers. It was pointed out that in England by statute no notice of the trust is registered upon the books of the corporation, that similar provisions are made in some of the following sections in regard to these two classes of fiduciaries. Whether it be done negligently or not.

§ 32-5. Transfer of negotiable instrument by fiduciary.—If any negotiable instrument payable or indorsed to a fiduciary as such is indorsed by a fiduciary, or if any negotiable instrument payable or indorsed to his principal is indorsed by a fiduciary, or if any negotiable instrument is indorsed to a fiduciary or indorsed by his principal, it is not bound to inquire whether the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in indorsing or delivering the instrument, and is not chargeable with notice that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary unless he takes the instrument with actual knowledge of such breach or with knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounts to bad faith. If, however, such instrument is transferred by the fiduciary in payment of or as security for a personal debt of the fiduciary to the actual knowledge of the creditor, or is transferred in any transaction known by the transferee to be for the personal benefit of the fiduciary, the creditor or other transferee is liable to the principal if the fiduciary in fact commits a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in indorsing or delivering the instrument. (1923, c. 85, s. 4; C. S. 1864 (h).)

Editor's Note.—This and the two following sections deal with paper drawn or indorsed by fiduciaries.

One of the primary purposes of this section is to bring the rule as to instruments negotiated by or to fiduciaries to notice of a defect in the Purdon's Digest section 25-62. Notwithstanding that section 25-62 provides that, to constitute notice of an infirmity in an instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating it, the person to whom it is negotiated must have bad actual knowledge of the defect or infirmity or knowledge of such facts as to make the taking amount to bad faith, the courts generally have ignored the N. I. L. and held that where the fiduciary relation is shown on its face, the payee or indorsee is bound to make inquiry. But if there is nothing upon the face of the instrument to indicate a deficiency, the holder in due course whether negligent or not unless he acted in bad faith. So courts unconsciously substituted the objective test of negligence for the subjective test of the holder in due course. The second section of § 32-6 contra the N. I. L. and thus sections supplement it.

North Carolina has followed the uniform application of the N. I. L. See Texaway Hotel Co., 162 N. C. 28, 3 S. E. 276. See also 1 N. I. L. Rev. 291.

In § 32-6 the cases are divided into two situations requiring different rules. (1) Where the instrument is given in a transaction not known by the taker to be for the principal benefit of the fiduciary, the creditor or other payee is liable to the principal if the fiduciary commits a breach of his obligations as fiduciary in fact. If a bank, drawing such instrument to the credit of the fiduciary in fact, acts in bad faith, the courts generally hold for the plaintiff. See § 53-59. The purpose of these sections is to lay down uniform rules making banks acting solely as depositories liable only to the creditor of the fiduciary and delivered to it in payment of withdrawals have been made, whether payable to the fiduciary personally, or payable to a third person and by him transferred to the fiduciary, and is thereafter transferred by the fiduciary, whether in payment of a personal debt of the fiduciary or otherwise, the transferee is not bound to inquire whether the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in transferring the instrument, and is not chargeable with notice that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary unless he takes the instrument with actual knowledge of such breach or with knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounts to bad faith.

(2) The next situation is where the taker knows the instrument to be given for the personal benefit of the fiduciary. If the instrument is given in a transaction not known to the taker to be for the personal benefit of the fiduciary, such instrument in the name of his principal, fails to pay the check with actual knowledge that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligations as fiduciary in drawing the check or with knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounts to bad faith.

§ 32-8. Deposit in name of fiduciary as such.

If a deposit is made in a bank to the credit of a fiduciary as such, the bank is authorized to pay the amount of the deposit or any part thereof upon the check of the fiduciary, signed with the name in which such deposit is entered, without being liable to the principal, unless the bank pays the check with actual knowledge that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in drawing the check or with knowledge of such facts that its action in paying the check amounts to bad faith.

Editor's Note.—See note under section 32-5.

Cross Reference.—As to deposits made in trust for infants, see § 55-59.

Cross Reference.—As to the three following sections deal with depositories of the funds of a fiduciary, see §§ 32-9 to 32-11.

Evidence Sufficient for Jury.—Admissions by defendant that it entered into contracts for the sale of certain lands to an individual and that in payment of the sum due upon the execution of the contracts it accepted checks drawn on the corporation, together with evidence that the individual had no authority to so use the corporate funds, that the corporation was not indebted to him, and that the transaction was not made for the corporation's benefit was sufficient to be submitted to the jury in an action by the receiver of the corporation under the provision of this section. LaVectia v. North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank, 216 N. C. 35, 9 S. E. 2d (34-4).

Judgment on the Pleadings.—Allegations of defendant's acceptance of a corporate check in payment of individual obligation of the president does not entitle the plaintiff to judgment on the pleadings. LaVectia v. North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank, 216 N. C. 28, 9 S. E. 2d 276.

Evidence Sufficient for Jury.—If a check or other bill of exchange is drawn by a fiduciary as such or in the name of his principal by a fiduciary empowered to draw such instrument in the name of his principal, payable to the fiduciary personally, or payable to a third person and by him transferred to the fiduciary, and is thereafter transferred by the fiduciary, whether in payment of a personal debt of the fiduciary or otherwise, the transferee is not bound to inquire whether the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in transferring the instrument, and is not chargeable with notice that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary unless he takes the instrument with actual knowledge of such breach or with knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounts to bad faith.

Editor's Note.—See note under section 32-5.

§ 32-6. Check drawn by fiduciary payable to third person.

If a check or other bill of exchange is drawn by a fiduciary as such, or in the name of his principal by a fiduciary empowered to draw such instrument in the name of his principal, the payee is not bound to inquire whether the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligations as fiduciary in drawing or delivering the instrument, and is not chargeable with notice that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligations as fiduciary unless he takes the instrument with actual knowledge of such breach or with knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounts to bad faith. If, however, such a check is payable to the drawee bank and is delivered to it in payment of or as security for a personal debt of the fiduciary to it, the bank is liable to the principal if the fiduciary in fact commits a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in drawing or delivering the check.

Cross Reference.—As to deposits made in trust for infants, see § 55-59.

Editor's Note.—This and the three following sections deal with depositories of the funds of a fiduciary.

The purpose of these sections is to lay down uniform rules making banks acting solely as depositories liable only when they have actual knowledge of the fiduciary's breach of duty or when acting in bad faith. The purpose for which withdrawals have been made, whether payable to the fiduciary personally or as such, or to third persons. But a depository has been bound to make inquiry where the fiduciary pays a personal debt out of fiduciary funds deposited in the bank.

Editor's Note.—See note under section 32-5.
CHAPTER 33. GUARDIAN AND WARD

This and the two following sections are in accord with the tendency of the North Carolina decisions as indicated in Bank v. Clapp, 76 N. C. 482; Bank v. Insurance Co., 150 N. C. 770, 64 S. E. 902; Miller v. Bank, 176 N. C. 152, 96 S. E. 977. They are also in accord with the general weight of authority. U. S. Fidelity, etc., Co. v. Bank, 77 W. Va. 665, 88 S. E. 109; Duckett vy. Natl. Mechanics Bank, 56 Md. 400, 38 Atl. 983. See also 1 N. C. Law Rev. 291.

§ 32-9. Deposit in name of principal. — If a check is drawn upon the account of his principal in a bank by a fiduciary who is empowered to draw checks upon his principal's account, the bank is authorized to pay such check without being liable to the principal, unless the bank pays the check with actual knowledge that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in drawing such check, or with knowledge of such facts that its action in paying the check amounts to bad faith. If, however, such a check is payable to the drawee bank and is delivered to it in payment of or as security for a personal debt of the fiduciary to it, the bank is liable to the principal if the fiduciary in fact commits a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in drawing or delivering the check. (1923, c. 85, s. 8; C. S. 1864(1).)

§ 32-10. Deposit in fiduciary's personal account. — If a fiduciary makes a deposit in a bank to his personal credit of checks drawn by him upon an account in his own name as fiduciary or of checks payable to him as fiduciary or of checks drawn by him upon an account in the name of his principal if he is empowered to draw checks thereon, or checks payable to his principal and indorsed by him, if he is empowered to indorse such checks, or if he otherwise makes a deposit of funds held by him as fiduciary, the bank receiving such deposit is not bound to inquire whether the fiduciary is committing thereby a breach of his obligation as fiduciary; and the bank is authorized to pay the amount of the deposit or any part thereof upon the personal check of the fiduciary without being liable to the principal, unless the bank receives the deposit or pays the check with actual knowledge that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in making such deposit or in drawing such check, or with knowledge of such facts that its action in receiving the deposit or paying the check amounts to bad faith. (1923, c. 85, s. 9; C. S. 1864(m.).)

Editor's Note.—See note under section 32-9.

§ 32-11. Deposit in names of two or more trustees. — When a deposit is made in a bank in the name of two or more persons as trustees and a check is drawn upon the trust account by any trustee or trustees authorized by the other trustee or trustees to draw checks upon the trust account, neither the payee nor other holder nor the bank is bound to inquire whether it is a breach of trust to authorize such trustee or trustees to draw checks upon the trust account, and is not liable unless the circumstances be such that the action of the payee or other holder be such that the bank amounts to bad faith. (1923, c. 85, s. 10; C. S. 1864(n.).)

Editor's Note.—This section is limited in its application to trustees. It is a general rule that one trustee cannot bind his co-trustees unless authorized by him to do so, and that a trustee can delegate only such of his duties as are ministerial. It is questionable whether or not the drawing of a check is a ministerial duty as a general rule. Probably as to the principal it is, but not as to income. But be that as it may, neither the bank nor payees or other holders are put upon inquiry as to the authority. This section applies only to trustees and not to other classes of fiduciaries, and its application is limited to checks, according to the opinion of the drafters. See 1 N. C. L. Rev. 292, to the same effect.

§ 32-12. Cases not provided for in chapter. — In any case not provided for in this chapter the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant and those rules of law and equity relating to trusts, agency, negotiable instruments and banking, shall continue to apply. (1923, c. 85, s. 12; C. S. 1864(p.).)

§ 32-13. Uniformity of interpretation. — This chapter shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it. (1923, c. 85, s. 13; C. S. 1864(q.).)

Chapter 33. Guardian and Ward.

Sec. 33-1. Jurisdiction in clerk of superior court.
33-2. Appointment by parents; effect; powers and duties of guardian.
33-3. Mother’s guardianship on death of father.
33-4. Appointment on divorce of parents.
33-5. Appointment when father living.
33-6. Separate appointment for personal and estate; yearly support specified; payments allowed in accounting.
33-10. Interlocutory orders on revocation.
33-11. Resignation; effect; accounting on resignation.

Art. 2. Guardian’s Bond.

33-12. Bond to be given before receiving property.
33-13. Terms and conditions of bond; increased on sale of realty.
33-14. To be recorded in clerk’s office; action on bond.
33-15. Where several wards with estate in common, one bond sufficient.
33-16. Renewal of bond every three years; enforcement.
33-17. Relief of endangered sureties.
33-19. Liability of clerk for other defaults.

Art. 3. Powers and Duties of Guardian.

33-20. To take charge of estate.
§ 33-1. Creation and Termination of Guardianship.

§ 33-1. Jurisdiction in clerk of superior court. The clerks of the superior court within their respective counties have full power, from time to time, to take cognizance of all matters concerning orphans and their estates and to appoint guardians in all cases of infants, idiots, lunatics, inebriates, and inmates of the Caswell training school: Provided, that guardians shall be appointed by the clerks of the superior courts in the counties in which the infants, idiots, lunatics, or inebriates reside, unless the guardians be the next of kin of such incompetents or a person designated by such next of kin in writing filed with the clerk, in which case, guardians may be appointed by the clerk of the superior court in any county in which is located a substantial part of the estates belonging to such incompetents. (Rev., s. 1766; Code, s. 1951.)

Cross Reference.—As to guardianship of insane persons, see § 35-2 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added the proviso at the end of this section.

In General.—The powers which the court of equity formerly had and exercised in regard to orphans and their estates are now conferred upon the clerk of the superior court by this section and section 33-6. Duffy v. Williams, 133 N. C. 95, 197 S. E. 548.

Place of Appointment.—The domicile of an infant is universally held to be the fittest place for the appointment of a guardian of his person and estate, although, for the protection of either, a guardian may be appointed in any state where the person or any property of the infant may be found. Clarke v. Clarke, 178 U. S. 186, 193, 20 S. Ct. 873, 44 L. Ed. 1028.

Under this section the appointment of a guardian in a county other than the one in which the ward's surviving parent resides or the ward's estate is situated is void. Duke v. Johnston, 281 N. C. 189 S. E. 2d 694.

Appointment by Legislature.—An act of the Legislature authorizing a certain person "to act as guardian of another without giving bond, is constitutional, and is in itself an appointment without intervention of the clerk. Henderson v. Bowd, 116 N. C. 795, 21 S. E. 692.

Matter of Discretion.—The appointment of a guardian is a matter of discretion, the exercise of which cannot be reviewed by the Supreme Court. Battle v. Vick, 15 N. C. 294.

Same—Choice of Infant.—The court in appointing a guardian was not bound by the choice of the minor, but could appoint the person, who, in his discretion, would best perform the duty. Wynne v. Always, 3 N. C. 38; Grant v. Whitsake, 5 N. C. 231.

Person Related to Ward.—Courts are empowered to appoint as guardian such person as they may think proper, without regard to the kinship of the guardian to the ward. Mills v. McAllister, 2 N. C. 303.

Custody of Child.—The jurisdiction of clerks of the superior court in the appointment of guardians of infants, etc., does not extend to a case where the petitioner asks for the control of another. In re Lewis, 88 N. C. 31.

Removal of Guardian.—A ward may not bring an action against a guardian such person as they may think proper, without regard to the kinship of the guardian to the ward. In re Lewis, 88 N. C. 31.

§ 33-2. Appointment by parents; effect; powers and duties of guardian.—Any father, though he be a minor, may, by deed executed in his lifetime and with the written consent and privy examination of the mother, if she be living, or by his last will and testament in writing, if the mother be dead, dispose of the custody and tuition of any of his infant children, being unmarried, and whether born at his death or in ventre sa mere, for such time as the children may remain under twenty-one years of age, or for any less time. Or in case the father is dead and has not exercised his said right of appointment, or has willfully abandoned his wife, then the mother, whether of full age or minor, may do so. Every such appointment shall be good and effectual against any person claiming the custody and tuition of such child or children. Every guardian by deed or will shall have the same powers and rights and be subject to the same liabilities and regulations as other guardians: Provided, however, that in the event it is so specifically directed in said deed or will such guardian so appointed shall be permitted to qualify and serve without giving bond, unless the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction of said guardianship shall find as a fact and adjudge that the interest of such minor or incompetent would be best served by requiring such guardian to give bond. (Rev., ss. 1762, 1763, 1764; Code, ss. 1562, 1563, 1564; R. C., c. 54, § 1762; 1763, c. 69, § 1565-9, c. 291; 1881, c. 64: 1911, c. 120; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 51; 1941, c. 26; C. S. 2151.)

Cross References.—As to habeas corpus for custody of children, see §§ 17-39 and 17-40. As to adoption of children, see § 42-1 et seq.

Editor's Note.—In the second sentence of this section the words "in ventre sa mere" were added by Public Laws, Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 21. The 1941 amendment added the proviso.

For comment on the 1941 amendment, see 19 N. C. L. Rev. 479.

Rights of Both Parents Recognized.—In this section and in others, the Legislature has recognized the human as well as the natural rights of the father and mother, and the superior court, vested in the guardian and the subordinate, the present and the inchoate, rights of the father and the mother, and has wisely provided that both the parents shall have adequate opportunity to be heard and, except in rare cases, shall give their consent before the legal relation is severed or the domestic circle is broken. Truelove v. Parker, 191 N. C. 430, 436, 132 S. E. 295.

And this right is superior to the claims of every one, except those to whom he may have committed their custody and tuition by deed, or unless he is found to be unfit for their care and custody. Latham v. Ellis, 116 N. C. 30, 20 S. E. 1032.

The parents have, prima facie, the right to the custody and control of their infant children as a natural and substantive right not lightly to be denied or interfered with by action of the courts; but this right is not universal and absolute and may be modified and disregarded by the court when it is made to appear that the welfare of the children clearly requires it. Brickell v. Hines, 179 N. C. 254, 102 S. E. 209; In re Warren, 178 N. C. 43, 100 S. E. 76; Atkinson v. Downing, 175 N. C. 244, 95 S. E. 487; In re Means, 176 N. C. 307, 97 S. E. 39; State v. Burnett, 179 N. C. 735, 102 S. E. 711.

Father Should Not Be Regarded as Wrongdoer When He Acts in Good Faith with Child's Money.—Under this section the father is natural guardian for his minor children he should not be regarded as a trespasser or a wrongdoer when he acts in good faith with his child's money and makes purchases for its benefit. Lifsey v. Bullock, 11 F. Supp. 728.

Appointment by Deed or Will.—A father can not appoint a guardian for his children, nor impose on any one the duties and responsibilities in this behalf, unless by deed executed in his lifetime, or by his last will and testament, in writing. Peyton v. Smith, 22 N. C. 325.

No one has a right to the guardianship of an infant, except him who is the infant's testamentary guardian or as appointed by the father by deed or by the court. Long v. Rhymes, 6 N. C. 122.

Same.—Interpretation.—Where it can clearly be collected from the will of a father that certain persons are thereby appointed to have the custody of the persons and the estate of his children, until they arrive at age, such an appointment will be held to constitute them guardians, as though the appropriate term had been used. Peyton v. Smith, 22 N. C. 325.

Applies Only to Own Children.—A testator cannot appoint a testamentary guardian except to his own children. Camp v. F. T. Martin, 90 N. C. 615.

Same.—Grandchildren.—This section, allowing a father to appoint a guardian by deed or will to his children, does not authorize a grandfather so to appoint a guardian for his grandchildren. Williamson v. Jordan, 45 N. C. 46.

In case of the death of the father of an infant, the mother of such child surviving such father shall immediately become the natural guardian of such child to the same extent and in the same manner, plight and condition as the father would be if living; and the mother in such case shall have all the powers, rights and privileges, and be subject to all the duties and obligations of a natural guardian. But this shall not be construed as abridging the powers of the courts over minors and their estates and over the guardians of wards. (Rev., s. 1765; Code, s. 1565; 1883, c. 364; C. S. 2152.)

Mother Entitled to Custody.—If a child's mother is a suitable person she is entitled to its custody even though some other person may be more suitable. Ashby v. Page, 156 N. C. 338; 11 S. E. 261, citing Mitchell v. Mitchell, 67 N. C. 307.

Same.—Cannot Dispose of Child.—It may be questioned, whether in this State a mother is entitled to the custody of her child, though a minor, so as to confer upon another the right to have the custody and control thereof. In re Lewis, 88 N. C. 31, 33.

§ 33-4. Appointment on divorce of parents.—When parents are divorced and a child is entitled to any estate, the court granting the divorce must certify that fact to the clerk of the superior court, to the end that he may appoint a fit and proper person to take the care and management of such estate, whose powers and duties shall be the same in all respects as other guardians, except that a guardian so appointed shall not have any authority over the person of such child, unless the guardian be the father or mother. (Rev., s. 1770; Code, s. 1571; R. C., c. 54, s. 4; 1838, c. 16; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 9; C. S. 2153.)

§ 33-5. Appointment when father living.—The clerk of the superior court may appoint a guardian of the estate of any minor, although the father of such minor be living. And the guardian so appointed shall be governed in all respects by the laws relative to guardians of the estate in other cases, but shall have no authority over the person of such minor. (Rev., s. 1771; Code, s. 1572; R. C., c. 54, ss. 4, 7; 1806, c. 707; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 10; C. S. 2154.)

Cross Reference.—As to appointment of guardian when child born to parents in marriage is under the jurisdiction of juvenile court is thereby promoted, see § 110-37.

§ 33-6. Separate appointment for person and estate yearly support specified; payments allowed in accounting.—Instead of a general guardianship to one person, the clerk of the superior court may commit the tuition and custody of the person to one and the charge of his estate to another, whenever at any time during minority, inebriety, idiocy or lunacy, it appears most conducive to the proper care of the orphan's, inebriate's, idiot's, or lunatic's estate, and to his suitable maintenance, nurture and education. In such cases the clerk must order what yearly sums of money or other provisions shall be allowed for the support and education of the orphan, or for the maintenance of the idiot, lunatic or inebriate, and may prescribe the time in which and manner in which the same shall be paid; but such allowance may, upon application and satisfactory proof made, be reduced or enlarged, or otherwise modified, as the ward's condition in life and the kind and value of his estate may require. All payments made by the guardian of the estate to the tutor of the person, according to any such order, shall be deemed just disbursements and be allowed in the settlement of his accounts; but for the payment thereof by the one and the receipt thereof by the other merely, no commissions shall be allowed to either, though commissions may be allowed to the tutor of the person on his disbursements only. (Rev., ss. 1767, 1768, 1769; Code, ss. 1567, 1568, 1569; R. C., c. 54, s. 3; 1810, C. 34; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 6, 7; C. S. 2155.)

Cross References.—As to expenses and disbursements credited to guardian, see § 33-42. As to commissions, see §§ 33-43.

§ 33-7. Proceedings on application for guardianship.—On application to any clerk of the superior court for the custody and guardianship of any infant, idiot, lunatic, inebriate, or inmate of the Caswell training school, it is the duty of such clerk to inform himself of the circumstances of the case on the oath of the applicant, or of any other person, and if none of the relatives of the infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school are present at such application, the clerk must assign, or for any other good cause he may assign, a day for the hearing; and he shall thereupon direct notice thereof to be given to such of the relatives and to such other persons, if any, as he may deem it proper to notify. On the hearing he shall ascertain, on oath, the amount of the property, real and personal, of the infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school, and the value of the rents and profits of the real estate, and he may grant or refuse the application, or commit the guardianship to some other person, as he may think best for the interest of the infant, idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or inmate of the Caswell training school. (Rev., ss. 1772; Code, s. 1620; C. C. P., s. 174; 1917, c. 41, s. 2; C. S. 2156.)

In General.—When a guardian is appointed he must assert his right to the custody of his ward by a civil action against the persons in charge of him, while they in turn, if so advised, can take proper steps to assert their rights in the court. In re Barker, 210 N. C. 617, 188 S. E. 205.

Habeas Corpus Not Proper.—Except as between parents, under section 17-39, the right of the custody of a child cannot be determined under the writ of habeas corpus, the object of that writ is to remove an illegal restraint. In re Parker, 144 N. C. 170, 172, 55 S. E. 878.

Application Should Be in Writing.—The interests of minors are under the care of the court, and to the end that the same may be protected in suits brought by or against them, the court should see that the next friend or guardian ad litem be appointed upon due consideration of an application in writing, and not upon a simple suggestion. Morris v. Gentry, 89 N. C. 248, 249.

Applicant Not to File Notice.—Failure to notify the relative in custody of the child of proceedings to appoint a guardian is an irregularity, under this section, which does not render the appointment of the guardian void, though it is not communicated to such relative. In re Parker, 144 N. C. 170, 172, 55 S. E. 878.

While the failure to notify the relatives of an alleged incompetency of the hearing to determine the incompetence is an irregularity, it does not render the appointment of a guardian in the proceedings void, but gives the relatives an opportunity to attack such appointment, and where, upon such attack, the court finds upon supporting evidence that the guardian appointed is a fit and suitable person, the relatives are not entitled to the removal of the guardian. In re Barker, 210 N. C. 617, 188 S. E. 205.

§ 33-8. Letters of guardianship.—The clerk of the superior court must issue to every guardian appointed by him a letter of appointment, which shall be signed by him and sealed with the seal of his office. (Rev., ss. 1773; Code, s. 1621; C. C. P., c. 475; C. S. 2157.)

The appointment of a guardian can be shown only by the records in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court by which the appointment was made, by letters of appointment issued by the clerk as required by this section, and parol evidence tending to show appointment is incompetent. Buncombe County v. Cain, 210 N. C. 766, 188 S. E. 399.

§ 33-9. Removal by clerk.—The clerks of the superior court have power, on information or complaint made, at all times to remove guardians and appoint successors, to make and establish rules for the better administration of the affairs of minors, and for the better education and maintenance of wards; and it is their duty to do so in the following cases:

1. Where the guardian wastes or converts the money or estate of the ward to his own use.
2. Where the guardian in any manner mismanages the estate.
3. Where the guardian neglects to educate or maintain the ward in a manner suitable to his or her degree.
4. Where the guardian is legally disqualified to act as a person would be to be appointed administrator.
5. Where the guardian or his sureties are likely to become insolvent or nonresidents of the state.

Application Should Be in Writing.—The use of a guardian of the funds of his ward for his own use is sufficient to warrant his removal. Ury v. Brown, 129 N. C. 270, 40 S. E. 4.

Discretion of Clerk.—The choosing of a guardian by the court is a discretion vested in the court, subject to such control of the court as is necessary to protect the minor. In re Barker, 210 N. C. 617, 188 S. E. 205.

Removal without Cause Error.—An order by a superior court clerk in cause pending before him for the removal of a testamentary guardian, where none of the provisions of this section are alleged nor found as a fact by the clerk, is improperly made, and will be set aside upon proceedings properly instituted to that end. Sanderson v. Sanderson, 79 N. C. 369.

Funds in Jeopardy.—A testamentary guardian ought not to be removed without a showing of such waste, insolvency, misconduct that the ward will be unable to recover the balance due on the final settlement. Sanderson v. Sanderson, 79 N. C. 369.

A ward may not bring an action in the Superior Court by his next friend to remove her guardian and appoint another, the Superior Court in such instance being without jurisdiction. Moses v. Moses, 234 N. C. 657, 169 S. E. 273.

Removal beyond State.—Where a guardian to an infant, appointed by a county court in this State, removed to another state, taking with him a part of the property of the ward, the ward will be unable to recover the balance due on the final settlement. Sanderson v. Sanderson, 79 N. C. 369.

In all cases where the letters of a guardian are revoked, the clerk of the superior court may, from time to time, pending any controversy in respect to such removal, make such interlocutory orders and decrees as will tend to the better securing the estate of the ward, or other party seeking relief by such revocation. (Rev., s. 1775; Code, s. 1607; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 44; C. S. 2130.)

§ 33-11. Resignation; effect; accounting on resignation.—Any guardian wishing to resign his trust may apply in writing to the superior court, setting forth the circumstances of his case. If, at the time of making the application, he also exhibits his final account for settlement, and if the clerk of the superior court is satisfied that the guardian has been faithful and has truly accounted, and if a competent person can be procured to succeed in the guardianship, or the clerk of the superior court may be appointed receiver of the estate of the ward, and if so appointed the clerk of the superior court may accept the resignation of the guardian and discharge him from the guardianship. But the guardian so discharged and his sureties are still liable in relation to all matters connected with the trust before the resignation. (Rev., s. 1776; Code, s. 1608; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 45; 1921, c. 555; C. S. 2140.)

Cross References.—See also, §§ 36-9 et seq. As to appeal from the clerk's decision, see §§ 36-13 and 36-14. As to final account by the resigning guardian, see §§ 33-41 and 36-15. As to effective date of resignation, see § 36-16. As to appointment of a successor, see § 36-17.

Editor's Note.—In the second sentence of this section the words "for the clerk of the superior court may be appointed receiver of the estate of the ward and if so appointed were added by Public Laws, 1921, ch. 95.

§ 33-12. Bond to be given before receiving property.—No guardian appointed for an infant, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate, shall be permitted to receive property of the infant, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate until he shall have given sufficient security, approved by a judge, or the court, to account for and apply the same under the direction of the court. (Rev., s. 1777; Code, s. 1573; C. C. P., s. 357; C. S. 2161.)

Cross References.—As to giving bond in surety company, see §§ 58-13 and 58-14.

Editor's Note.—In the fourth sentence of this section the words "for the clerk of the superior court may be appointed receiver of the estate of the ward and if so appointed were added by Public Laws, 1921, ch. 95.

Presumption of Giving of Bond.—When the fact that a guardian was appointed is admitted, a presumption arises that a guardian bond was given, since such a bond is a prerequisite to the appointment. Kell v. Maget, 18 N. C. 414.

Same.—No Denial Permissible.—Where there is evidence that one had been appointed and had acted as guardian, neither he nor his administrators can deny that he was guardian on the ground that he had not given bond. Latham v. Wilcox, 99 N. C. 367, 6 S. E. 711.

Omission by the clerk to take the bond required on the appointment does not impair the efficacy of the appointment. Howerton v. Sexton, 104 N. C. 75, 10 S. E. 148, cited in note in 33 L. R. A., N. &., 762.

Liability.—A guardian and his bondsmen are liable for all moneys due the ward which he has collected or ought to have collected. Loftin v. Cobb, 126 N. C. 58, 35 S. E. 230.

Same.—Guardian's Administrator Appointed.—Where the administrator of a lunatic becomes guardian, he and his bondsmen become liable for any balance due from the solvent estate of the former guardian. Loftin v. Cobb, 126 N. C. 58, 35 S. E. 230.

Notes.—Parties to Action on Bond.—Where an assistant clerk of the Superior Court has been appointed guardian of the estate of a minor by the clerk and has given bond and has defaulted, causing loss to the estate of the minor, upon the minor's coming of age he and the new guardian appointed may sue upon the guardianship bond and where he does so neither the clerk of the Superior Court nor his sureties on his bond is a necessary party, so far as his action is concerned. Phipps v. Royal Indemnity Co., 201 N. C. 551, 161 S. E. 69.

§ 33-13. Terms and conditions of bond; increased on sale of realty.—Every guardian of the estate, before letters of appointment are issued to him, must give a bond payable to the state, with two or more sufficient sureties, to be acknowledged before and approved by the clerk of the superior court, and to be jointly and severally bound. Where such bond is executed by personal sureties the penalty in such bond must be double, at least, the value of all personal property and the rents and profits issuing from the real estate of the ward, which value is to be ascertained by the clerk of the superior court by the examination, on oath, of the applicant for guardianship, or any other person, but where such bond shall be executed by a duly authorized surety company, the penalty in such bond may be fixed at not less than one hundred thousand dollars, in a sum equal to the value of all the personal property and rents and profits from real estate exceeds the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, in a sum equal to the value of all the personal property and rents and profits from real estate, plus ten per cent of the value of all the personal property and rents and profits from real estate belonging to the estate. The bond must be conditioned that such guardian shall faithfully execute the trust reposed in him as such, and obey all lawful orders of the clerk or judge touching the guardianship of the estate committed to him. If, on application by the guardian, the court or judge shall decree a sale for any of the causes prescribed by law of the property of such infant, idiot, lunatic or insane person, before such sale be confirmed, the guardian shall be required to file a bond as now required in double the amount of the real property so sold, except where such bond is executed by a duly authorized surety company, in which case the penalty of said bond need not exceed one and one-fourth times the amount of said real property so sold. (Rev., ss. 323, 1778; Code, s. 1574; R. C., c. 54, s. 5; 1702, c. 69, s. 7; 1825, c. 1285, s. 2; 1833, c. 17; 1908-9, c. 201, s. 11; 1874-5, c. 914-1925, c. 151; 1911, c. 595; C. S. 2162.)

Local Modification.—Craven: 1935, c. 147.

Cross References.—As to statute of limitations on the bond, see §§ 1-59 and 1-52. As to renewal of bond, see §§ 33-16. As to action on bond, see §§ 33-14 and notes. As to reduction of guardian's bond upon his delivery of registered securities to the clerk of court, see § 36-4. As to liability of clerk for taking insufficient bond, see § 33-18.

Editor's Note.—The proviso in regard to bonds where the value of the personal property and rents and profits from real estate exceeds the sum of one hundred thousand dollars was added by Public Laws 1925, c. 131.

Editor's Note.—Section 185 of the Public Laws of 1935 changed the penalty as specified in the second sentence in this section and added the exception appearing at the end of the section relating to cases where bond is executed by surety company.

This section contemplates that the bond shall be signed and acknowledged by the guardian as principal, as well as by the sureties. Cheshire v. Howard, 207 N. C. 566, 571, 178 S. E. 348.

Not Strictly a Record.—A guardian's bond is not strictly a record of the court, although the fact that it was made and accepted may therefore be brought on the bond after its loss or destruction, without any previous application to the court to restore it as a record. Harrell v. Hare, 70 N. C. 658, 660.

Failure to Collect Money.—Where a guardian ought to receive a certain amount of money and does not, but takes something else, his own bond for instance, in place of the money, he and his sureties are liable. Avent v. Womack, 72 N. C. 397.

Bank Intermingling Trust Funds.—The bank, as guardian, in not investing the funds of its ward, but intermingling it with other funds of its bank, was faithless to the trust reposed in it, and, under the terms of this section, its bondsman must suffer the loss for such faithlessness. Roebuck v. National Surety Co., 300 N. C. 196, 156 S. E. 531.

For the bank intermingling the funds of its ward, no larger account could have been made to the bank, which was made as shown on its annual account was admissible against it. Jan as shown of his annual account was admissible against him. Jones v. Pierce, 197 N. C. 348, 349, 148 S. E. 418.

§ 33-14. To be recorded in clerk's office; action on bond. — The bond so taken shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court appointing the guardian; and any person injured by a breach of the condition thereof may prosecute a suit thereon, as in other actions. (Rev., 1779; Code, s. 1575; R. C., c. 54, s. 5; 1868-9, c. 291, s. 12; C. S. 2163.)

Acceptance without Guardian's Signature is Irregularity. — The acceptance and approval of the bond by the clerk of the Superior Court without the signature of the guardian as principal is an irregularity, but such irregularity does not render the bond void either as to the principal or as to his sureties. Cheshire v. Howard, 207 N. C. 356, 375, 175 S. E. 348.

Jurisdiction. — The clerk has no jurisdiction of a suit on a guardian's bond unless the guardian is a resident of the county. Rowland v. Thompson, 65 N. C. 110.

In Name of State. — An action on a guardian's bond should be in the name of the State, for the benefit of the plaintiff, and the sureties, if any, are persons acting in the capacity of sureties for the bond, and not in the name of the ward, and not in the name of the State, for the benefit of the plaintiff. (Rev., s. 1780; Code, s. 1576; R. C., c. 54, s. 8; 1822, c. 1161; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 13; C. S. 2164.)

Proper Relator.—Under the old system, a trustee appointed by the court of equity was a proper relator in an action on a guardian's bond to recover a trust fund. Jones v. Brown, 67 N. C. 475, distinguishing State v. Lightfoot, 26 N. C. 306; Governor v. Deaver, 25 N. C. 56; Waugh v. Miller, 33 N. C. 235. See also State v. Pettie v. Roisseau, 94 N. C. 355.

A creditor of a guardian is not a proper relator in an action upon the guardian's bond. McKinnon v. McKinnon, 81 N. C. 201.

Condition Set Out. — In an action on a guardian's bond, it is necessary that conditions of the bond which are alleged to have been broken should be set forth in the complaint. McKinnon v. McKinnon, 81 N. C. 201.

Evidence. — Evidence of a balance in the hands of a guardian as shown of his annual account was admissible against him. Jones v. Deaver, 58, 35 S. E. 230.

Same. — Bond Must Be Proved. — A guardian's bond is not a record, and, before it can be read in evidence in any case, it must be proved like all other bonds. Butler v. Durham, 38 N. C. 589.

Defenses. — The same defense which might be made to an action at law or suit in equity, brought in the name of the ward himself against the guardian, is good in an action brought on the guardian's bond. Clark v. Cordon, 30 N. C. 383.

Same. — Prior Settlement. — A full settlement of a suit brought by a ward on a guardian's bond, made after the ward becomes of age, in the presence of the ward's mother, and by the advice of her counsel, and a final judgment thereon, is a bar to a subsequent action on the bond. Dean v. Bagdale, 80 N. C. 215.

Same. — Statute of Limitations. — An action by the ward against the sureties on the bond of the guardian is barred after three years from the time the ward becomes twenty-one years old if the guardian makes no final settlement, and within the penalty of the bond, and to be discharged on payment of the damages sustained. Anthony v. Estes, 101 N. C. 541, § 8 E. 547.

Same. — Measure of Damages. — The measure of damages in an action upon a guardian's bond for a failure to perform any duty required of him is the amount of the principal received, with compound interest at six per cent until the ward arrives at full age. Topping v. Windley, 99 N. C. 4, 5 S. E. 14.

§ 33-15. Where several wards with estate in common, one bond sufficient. — When the same person is appointed guardian to two or more minors, idiots, lunatics or insane persons possessed of one estate in common, the clerk of the superior court may take one bond only in such case, upon which each of the minors or persons for whose benefit the bond is given, or their heirs or personal representatives, may have a separate action. (Rev., s. 1789; Code, s. 1576; R. C., c. 54, s. 8; 1822, c. 1161; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 13; C. S. 2164.)

Editor's Note. — The 1943 amendment added the proviso.

Same. — Clerk's Liability. — The question of the clerk's liability for failure to enforce the renewal of the guardian's bond has caused some conflicting decisions. In Lee v. Watson, 29 N. C. 289, it was decided by a divided court that, "the clerk and his sureties are responsible for neglect in failing to enforce renewal of the bond, and were bound to make compensation to the orphans for any loss they sustained thereby." Later in Jones v. Biggs, 46 N. C. 354, on the same question a divided court decided that the clerk was not liable. That the clerk and his sureties are not liable was also decided in Sullivan v. Lowe, 54 N. C. 500, the opinion being per curiam, and this is the law today.

Where a guardian gives several successive bonds for the faithful discharge of his trust, the sureties on each bond standing in the same capacity, and each bond being secured by a surety on another bond; the only qualification to the rule being that the sureties are bound to contribution only according to the amount of the principal in each class is bound. Thornton v. Barbour, 204 N. C. 383, 595, 169 S. E. 153; Jones v. Hays, 38 N. C. 502.

§ 33-17. Relief of endangered sureties. — Any surety of a guardian, who is in danger of sustaining loss by his suretyship, may file his complaint before the clerk of the superior court where the guardianship was granted, setting forth the circumstances of his case and demanding relief; and thereupon the guardian shall be required to answer the complaint within twenty days after service of the summons. If, upon the hearing, the clerk of the superior court deem the surety entitled to relief, the same may be granted by compelling the guardian to give a new bond, or to indemnify the surety against apprehended loss, or by the removal of the guardian from his trust; and in case the guardian fail to give a new bond or security to indemnify when required to do so within reasonable time, the clerk of the superior court must enter a peremptory order for his removal, and his authority as guardian shall thereupon cease. (Rev., s. 1783; Code, s. 1606; R. C., c. 54, s. 35; 1762; c. 69, ss. 21, 22; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 43; C. S. 2166.)

Giving New Bond with Other Sureties.—A surety to a guardian's bond is not discharged from responsibility for giving a new bond with other sureties. Jones v. Blanton, 41 N. C. 115.

Liability of New Sureties.—When, under this section, new sureties are ordered to be given, the sureties given by the new sureties extend to the entire guardianship, retrospective as well as prospective. Such a bond is at least an additional and cumulative security for the ward. Rev. v. Bell, 18 N. C. 475.

Where Counter-Security Given.—Where the sureties of a guardian obtained an order for counter-security, and at that time the guardian owed his ward, and never afterwards returned an account nor made a payment, no presumption of satisfaction at that or any subsequent time arose from the fact that he was then able to pay the sum he owed; and the sureties on the first bond were liable for it, though the order for counter-security expressly released them. Foye v. Bell, 18 N. C. 475.

The clerk is not empowered by any express statute to release sureties, upon bonds approved by him, especially at a time when the principal is in default. This section provides a remedy for dissatisfied sureties upon guardians bonds, but release is not one of the remedies therein contemplated. Thornton v. Barbour, 204 N. C. 383, 587, 169 S. E. 151.

§ 33-18. Liability of clerk for insufficiency bond.—If any clerk of the superior court shall commit the estate of an infant, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate to the charge or guardianship, and shall fail within taking good and sufficient security for the same as directed by law, such clerk shall be liable, on his official bond, for the loss, or by the removal of the guardian from his authority, or by the removal of the guardian from his trust; and in case the guardian fail to give a new bond or security to indemnify when required to do so within reasonable time, the clerk of the superior court must enter a peremptory order for his removal, and his authority as guardian shall thereupon cease. (Rev., s. 1783; Code, s. 1606; R. C., c. 54, s. 35; 1762; c. 69, ss. 21, 22; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 43; C. S. 2166.)

Liability of New Sureties.—When, under this section, new sureties are ordered to be given, the sureties given by the new sureties extend to the entire guardianship, retrospective as well as prospective. Such a bond is at least an additional and cumulative security for the ward. Rev. v. Bell, 18 N. C. 475.

Where Counter-Security Given.—Where the sureties of a guardian obtained an order for counter-security, and at that time the guardian owed his ward, and never afterwards returned an account nor made a payment, no presumption of satisfaction at that or any subsequent time arose from the fact that he was then able to pay the sum he owed; and the sureties on the first bond were liable for it, though the order for counter-security expressly released them. Foye v. Bell, 18 N. C. 475.

The clerk is not empowered by any express statute to release sureties, upon bonds approved by him, especially at a time when the principal is in default. This section provides a remedy for dissatisfied sureties upon guardians bonds, but release is not one of the remedies therein contemplated. Thornton v. Barbour, 204 N. C. 383, 587, 169 S. E. 151.

Compromise of Claim.—A ward is not bound by a compromise of his guardian and which later became insolvent does not will be inferred and the compromise will be set aside without a specific finding of actual fraud. Bunch v. Foreman Effect of Failure.—The giving of the bonds required of guardians and administrators is not essential to the validity of the appointment itself; the failure to take the bond, however, subjects the officer whose duty it is to see that it is made, to all damages sustained by the ward for the non-performance of his official duty. Jones v. Briggs, 46 N. C. 364.

§ 33-19. Liability of clerk for other defaults.—If any clerk of the superior court shall willfully or negligently do, or omit to do, any other act prohibited, or other duty imposed upon him by law, by which act or omission the estate of any ward suffers damage, he shall be liable therefor as directed in § 33-18. (Rev., s. 1785; Code, s. 1615; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 52; C. S. 2165.)

Editor's Note.—Former Provision.—Formerly the clerk was required to make a record of any compromise attempted of the docket the names of the justices who were present at the granting of a guardianship; and he was also required to make the same entry on the guardian's bond. The purpose of requiring such record was an easy means of determining which of the justices were on the bench in the event that they had been guilty of such negligence in respect to the compromise attempted of the docket. In bonds as to the action of the infant according to the provisions of the statute, State v. Koonce, 51 N. C. 379, 380.

Art. 3. Powers and Duties of Guardian.

§ 33-20. To take charge of estate. — Every guardian shall take possession, for the use of the ward, of all his estate, and may bring all necessary actions therefor. (Rev., s. 1786; Code, s. 1588; R. C., c. 54, s. 21; 1762; c. 69, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 25; C. S. 2169.)

Cross References.—As to power of guardians to lend portions of the estates of their wards, see § 24-4. As to the personal liability of the guardian for stock held for the use of the ward, see §§ 53-40 to 53-49; as to voting as stockholder, see §§ 55-113, 105-153, and 105-154. As to payment of taxes, see § 105-412. As to investment and deposit of funds generally, see § 36-1 et seq. As to estate of deceased, see §§ 53-55 to 53-60; in bonds guaranteed by United States, see § 33-44; in mortgages of federal housing administration, etc., see § 53-61.

In General.—The rule of diligence established by the decided cases is that a guardian in the management of his ward's estate must act in good faith and with that care and judgment which an ordinary prudent man would exercise in his own affairs. Covington v. Leak, 67 N. C. 363, 364; Tracy v. Wilson, 74 N. C. 368, 369; State v. Mebane, 63 N. C. 315; Litton v. Wilcox, 83 N. C. 21, 26.

The rights and powers of guardians are considered as strictly local; and not as entitling them to exercise any authority over the person or personal property of their wards in other states. Lamar v. Mico, 112 S. U. S. 452, 470, 5 S. Ct. 231, 26 L. Ed. 753.

Payment of funds to a guardian by Veterans' Bureau under War Risk Insurance Act vests title in the ward and quiets the rights of any person thereafter claiming personal for real security; and, if he does it bonafide, he is not being an amount due the U. S. Government, the Government having discharged its obligation by payment to the guardian. In re Home Savings Bank, 204 N. C. 454, 463, 168 S. E. 688.

Under this section the guardian can select the forum, as there is no statute to the contrary. Lawson v. Langley, 214 N. C. 23, 197 S. E. 299.

Power to Bind Ward by Contract.—A contract made by a guardian within his authority, will be binding upon his ward upon his attaining full age. United States Mortgage Co. v. Spence, 188 U. S. 313; 39 S. Ed. 672, 33 S. L. Ed. 341.

Recovery of Realty. — A guardian having no title to the land of his ward, it is not his duty to sue for the recovery of realty. Cross v. Craven, 188 U. S. 331, 26 S. E. 940.

Guardian as Exchange Property. — A guardian, having personal surety for a debt due to his ward, may exchange that personal for real security; and, if he does it bona fide, he is not responsible to his ward. Christians v. Wright, 38 N. C. 271, 7 S. E. 374.

Compromise of Claim.—A ward is not bound by a compromise of his guardian of the former's claim for damages to the estate of the ward, for the performance of the duties of the court to which the guardian should account; and in no event when the compromise is due to the gross negligence of the guardian, or in bad faith, and is manifestly unfair to the estate of the ward, and for the performance of his duty; and when such are found to be the facts, legal fraud will be inferred and the compromise will be set aside without a specific finding of actual fraud. Bunch v. Foreman Blades Lumber Co., 174 N. C. 8, 93 S. E. 374.

Statute of limitations upon discovery of fraud, see John-§ 33-21. How sales and rentals made. — All sales and rentings by guardians shall be publicly made, between the hours of nine o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M., after twenty days notice posted at the courthouse and four other public places in the county. But, upon petition by the guardian, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land is situated, or of the county wherein the guardian has qualified, may make an order, on satisfactory evidence, upon the oath of at least two disinterested freeholders acquainted with the said land, that the best interests of the said ward will be subserved by a private renting of said land, allowing the guardian to rent the land privately. The terms of all such rentings shall be reported to the said clerk of the superior court and be approved by him. The proceeds of all sales of personal estate and rentings of real property, except the rentings of lands leased for agricultural purposes, when not for cash, shall be secured by bond and executed by guardians. Although such security shall not be necessary to the sale or renting of lands leased for agricultural purposes, the proceeds of all sales of personal estates and real estate by a guardian shall be made publicly, and, upon the terms therein prescribed, are peremptory and leave no discretion to such guardians. Pate v. Kennedy, 104 N. C. 234, 10 S. E. 188.

Same.—Not Discretionary with Guardian.—The provisions of this section that all sales or renting of personal and real property by a guardian shall be made publicly, and, upon the terms therein prescribed, are peremptory and leave no discretion to such guardians. Does not apply to sales made under section 33-22, the lessee may not hold the land for the lessee's purposes, nor for his false warranty thereof. Coxe v. Whitmire Motor Sales Co., 190 N. C. 833, 130 S. E. 841.

§ 33-22. When lands may be leased. — The guardian may lease the lands of an infant for a term not exceeding the end of the current year in which the infant shall become of age, or die in nonage. But no guardian, without leave of the clerk of the superior court, shall lease any land of his ward without impeachment of waste, or for a term of more than three years, unless at a rent not less than three per centum on the assessed taxable value of the land. (Rev., s. 1789; Code, s. 1590; 1891, c. 83; 1901, c. 97; R. C., c. 54, s. 26; 1793, c. 391; C. S. 2171.)

Public Renting Required.—This section implicitly declares it to be to the interest of the wards to rent the lands publicly. Loss v. Whitmore, 119 N. C. 431, 23 S. E. 646.

Same.—Not Discretionary with Guardian.—The provisions of this section that all sales or renting of personal and real property by a guardian shall be made publicly, and, upon the terms therein prescribed, are peremptory and leave no discretion to such guardians. Pate v. Kennedy, 104 N. C. 234, 10 S. E. 188.

Same.—Purpose of Provision.—The purpose of these precise and stringent regulations is to give notice to the public of the time, place and terms of such “sales and rentings,” and thus encourage and promote competition and obtain better prices and higher rents for the property sold or let, and, also, to prevent the exercise of possible bad judgment, imprudence, lack of caution, collusion and fraud on the part of guardians. Pate v. Kennedy, 104 N. C. 234, 216, 10 S. E. 188.

Same.—Effect of Violation.—Where a lease by the guardian of his ward's lands was not publicly made, as required by this section, he, not approved by the clerk of the superior court, as required by section 33-22, the lessee may not hold the ward's estate liable for the false representation of the guardian's agent as to the value of the leased property for the lessor's prices, nor for his false warranty thereof. Coxe v. Whitmire Motor Sales Co., 190 N. C. 833, 130 S. E. 841.

Same.—Application.—This section, requiring sales by guardians, does not apply to sales made by the guardian by direction of the superior court in exercise of its general jurisdiction in equity. Barcello v. Hapgood, 118 N. C. 712, 24 S. E. 124. The section restricts the guardian and not the court. Id.

Court May Order Private Sale.—It is not irregular or erroneous to order the sale of an infant's land to be made privately by the guardian. Barcello v. Hapgood, 118 N. C. 712, 24 S. E. 124.

§ 33-23. When guardians to cultivate lands of wards. — Where any parent of a minor child qualifies as guardian of such child, and the ward owns or is entitled to the possession of any real estate used or which may be used for agricultural purposes, such guardian may make application to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the land is situated for permission to cultivate it, and the petition shall set forth the nature, extent and location of the same. It shall then be the duty of the clerk to appoint three disinterested resident freeholders, who shall go upon the land and, after being sworn to act impartially, assess the annual rental value thereof. The commissioners shall report their proceedings and findings to the clerk within ten days after the notification of their appointment, and if the clerk shall deem the same to be the interest of the ward he shall make an order allowing the guardian to cultivate the land for a term not exceeding three years at the annual rental value assessed by the commissioners to be paid to the ward by the guardian. The term, however, shall not extend beyond the minority of the minor. The commissioners shall receive as compensation for said services the same fees as are allowed commissioners in partition of real estate. (1909, c. 177; C. S. 1917, c. 1247.)

Cross Reference.—As to compensation of commissioners in partition of real estate, see § 1-408.

§ 33-24. Guardians' powers enlarged to permit cultivation of ward's lands or continuation of ward's business.—In addition to the powers given to guardians under the general laws of the State, all guardians may, upon presentation of satisfactory evidence, with approval of the clerk of superior court, which approval must be concurred in by the resident judge or other regular or special judge holding courts in the district, cause lands to be cultivated and make such contracts with reference thereto as said guardian may deem to be to the best interest of his ward's estate, and under the direction of the clerk of superior court, with the approval of the resident judge or other regular or special judge holding courts in the district, continue to operate any business or business enterprise of his ward and make such contracts, agreements, and settlements with reference thereto as the clerk of superior court, with the approval of said resident judge or other regular or special judge holding courts in the district, may determine necessary or find to be to the best interest of the estate. (1935, c. 24.)

§ 33-25. Guardians and other fiduciaries authorized to buy real estate foreclosed under mortgage executed to them.—On application of the guardian or other fiduciary of any idiot, inebriate, lunatic, non compos mentis or any person incompetent from want of understanding to manage his own affairs for any cause or reason, or any minor or infant, or any other person for whom such guardian or fiduciary has been appointed, by pe-tion, verified upon oath, to the superior court, showing that the purchase of real estate is necessary to avoid a loss to the said ward's estate by reason of the inadequacy of the amount bid at foreclosure sale; and under a mortgage or deed of trust securing the re-payment of funds previously loaned the mortgagor by said guardian or other fiduciary, and that the interest of the ward would be materially promoted by said purchase the proceeding shall be conducted as in other cases of special proceedings; and the truth of the matter alleged in the petition being ascertained by satisfactory proof, or by affidavit of three disinterested freeholders over twenty-one years of age who reside in the county in which said land lies, a decree may thereupon be made that said real estate be purchased by such person; but no purchase of real estate shall be made until approved by a judge of the superior court, nor shall the same be valid, nor any conveyance of the title made, unless confirmed and directed by a judge, and action only in compliance with the terms and conditions set out in said order and judgment. (1935, c. 156.)

§ 33-27. Personal representative of guardian to pay over to clerk.—In all cases where a guardian of any minor child or of an idiot, lunatic, inebriate or insane person dies, it is competent for the executor or administrator of such deceased guardian, at any time after the grant of letters testamentary or of administration, to pay into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where such deceased guardian was appointed, any moneys belonging to any such minor child, idiot, lunatic, inebriate, and any such payment shall have the effect to discharge the estate of said deceased guardian and his sureties upon his guardian bond to the extent of the amount so paid. (Rev., s. 1794; Code, s. 1622; 1881, c. 301, s. 2; C. S. 2176.)

Cross Reference.—As to a mortgage to guardian, see § 45-19.

No Action between Administrators.—The administrator of a deceased ward is not entitled to recover, in an action against the administrator of the deceased guardian, any money which came into the guardian's hands as proceeds of real estate belonging to the ward sold under a decree of court for partition. Allison v. Robinson, 78 N. C. 61.

§ 33-28. Collection of claims; duty and liability.—Every guardian shall diligently endeavor to collect, by all lawful means, all bonds, notes, obligations or moneys due his ward when any debtor or his sureties are likely to become insolvent, on pain of being liable for the same. (Rev., s. 1795; Code, s. 1595; R. C., c. 54, s. 23; 1762, c. 69, s. 10; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 30; C. S. 2177.)

Cross Reference.—As to compound interest on obligations due to guardians, see § 34-4. As to criminal liability of guardians for non-payment of funds, see § 14-90.

General Liability.—A guardian is liable not only for what he does receive, but for what he ought to receive; and if he oufrightly or wilfully neg- lects his duties and does not, but takes something else, his own bond for instance, in the place of money, he and his sureties are liable. Avent v. Womack, 72 N. C. 33.

Same—Diligence and Good Faith.—A guardian is responsible, not only for what he receives, but for all he might have received by the exercise of ordinary diligence and the highest degree of good faith. Armfield v. Brown, 73 N. C. 61.

A guardian, who acted in good faith and was not guilty of culpable negligence, was held not to be responsible for omitting to collect a note during the late war, when it appeared that both of the two obligors were solvent during the war, and were made insolvent by its results. Love v. Louisa, 69 N. C. 70.

Need Not Resort to Extraordinary Remedies.—Guardians are not responsible for losses to their wards attributable to their not having resorted to new and extraordinary remedies if the result of the same is doubtful. White v. Robinson, 64 N. C. 698.

Accepting Unsecured Note.—A guardian who accepts an unsecured note in payment of a debt due his ward is guilty of laches, and is not entitled to the amount of such note. Covington v. Leak, 65 N. C. 594.

Power to Collect and Compromise Debts.—It is held in the U. S. Supreme Court that a guardian, unless restricted by statute, may collect or compromise and release debts due to the ward, subject to the liability to be called to account if he has acted without due regard to the ward's interest. May v. Equitable Life Assurance Society, 152 U. S. 499, 503, 38 L. Ed. 523.

Accepting Smaller Sum.—Where a guardian accepts from an administrator a smaller sum than the wards' share in the estate, the wards may, at their option, sue the guardian or the administrator for the deficiency. Alexander v. Alexander, 120 N. C. 472, 27 S. E. 121.

Failure to Ascertain Amount Due.—Where a guardian carelessy and without deliberation accepts a fund from an insolvent debtor an amount less than they are entitled to receive from a fund, he is liable to the wards for the difference. Culp v. Sandford, 112 N. C. 604, 16 S. E. 761, distinguishing Gutton v. Wilson, 63 N. C. 21, and other decisions cited.

Failure to Sue before Insolvency.—Where a guardian fails to sue on note due his ward's estate until the parties thereto are insolvent, he is liable for his negligence. Diggins v. Phyth, 113 N. C. 102, 18 S. E. 96.

Failure to Sue—Surety Knowing of Obligor's Insolvency.—Where a guardian waited six months after the principal in a note held by him as guardian died insolvent before he sued the surety, who also became insolvent before the suit was brought, the surety having known the whole time of the true condition of the obligors, it was held that by his laches he made himself responsible for the loss of the debt. Williamson v. Williams, 59 N. C. 63, distinguishing Guppy v. Ivey, 53 N. C. 370; Davis v. Marcum, 57 N. C. 189.

§ 33-29. Liability for lands sold for taxes.—If any guardian suffer his ward's lands to lapse or become forfeited or be sold for nonpayment of taxes or other dues, he shall be liable to answer for the full value thereof to his ward. (Rev., s. 1796; Code, s. 1595; R. C., c. 54, s. 27; 1762, c. 69, s. 14; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 32; C. S. 2178.)

§ 33-30. Liability for costs.—All fees and costs of the superior court for issuing orders, citations, summonses or other process against guardians for their supposed defaults shall be paid by the party found in default. (Rev., s. 1797; Code, s. 1611; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 48; C. S. 2179.)

Cross Reference.—As to oswelry to be paid by guardian, see § 46-12.

Art. 4. Sales of Ward's Estate.

§ 33-31. Special proceedings to sell; judge's approval required.—On application of the guardian by filed petition verified upon oath, to the superior court, showing that the interest of the ward would be materially promoted by the sale or mortgage of any part of his estate, real or personal, the proceeding shall be conducted as in other cases of special proceedings; and the truth of the matter alleged in the petition being ascertained by satisfactory proof, a decree may thereupon be made that a sale or mortgage be had by the person in such way and on such terms as may be most advantageous to the interest of the ward; but no sale or mortgage shall be made until approved by the judge of the court, nor shall the same be valid, nor any conveyance of the title made, unless confirmed and directed by the judge, and the proceeds of the sale or mortgage shall be exclusively applied and secured to such ends as the court shall specify. The guardian may not mortgage the property of his ward for a term of years in excess of the term fixed by the court in its decree. The word "mortgage" whenever used herein shall be construed to include deeds in trust. (Rev., s. 1798; Code, s. 1603; R. C., c. 54, §§ 211, 1621, 1622; 1827, c. 35, 1606-89; C. 201, s. 39; 1917, c. 238, s. 1; 1923, c. 67, s. 1; C. S. 2180.)

Cross References.—As to sale of estate of an idiot, insane, or lunatic, see §§ 35-10 and 35-11. As to release of land condemned under the powers of eminent domain, see § 35-22.

Editor's Note.—In the next to the last sentence in this section a change was made by Public Laws 1923, ch. 67, section 1. The former provision was that a guardian could not mortgage his ward's property for a term of years "exceeding the minority of the ward." This limitation was stricken out and the term made dependent upon the decree of the court.

Not Applicable to Settlement or Partition.—This section does not apply either to the settlement of estates or to partition. Clark v. Carolina Holmes, 189 N. C. 703, 128 S. E. 20, 29.

Presumption That Statutory Requirements Have Been Met.—Although this section must be strictly complied with, where those requirements are met the mortgage of the guardian's ward's land, and the clerk has entered an order thereon, for which order has been approved by the court, there is a presumption that the statutory requirements have been met. Quick v. Federal Land Bank, 208 N. C. 562, 181 S. E. 746.

Where the guardian's application for a loan stated that the proceeds thereof were to be used to purchase live stock necessary to the proper operation of the farm, to erect buildings on the land, and to provide improvements as defined by the Board of Agriculture, the court, under the presumption that the provisions of this section were followed, the mortgage is valid and binding upon the ward's estate as to the funds used for permanent improvements on the land, but as to the funds used to purchase live stock the mortgage is void as to the wards, such fund not having been used to materially promote their interest, and the mortgage on the wards' estate in remainder, to the extent of the proceeds used to purchase live stock should be set aside upon their petition therefor filed upon their coming of age.

Jurisdiction.—The previous court of equity had authority upon the ex parte petition of the plaintiffs, while they were infants, suing by their mother as next friend, to order and approve execution of a mortgage on same by the guardian for a period exceeding the minority of the wards, such statutory power, together with the inherent jurisdiction of the court over the estates of infants, give courts of equity plenary jurisdiction to order and approve a mortgage to a guardian to execute a lease on the real estate belonging to his wards for a period exceeding the guardianship term for the wards, upon its finding that such power would be to the best interest of the wards. Charles Stores Co., 215 N. C. 380, 1 S. E. (2d) 848, 121 A. L. R. 147.

Must Be Represented.—The court may sell the land of minors for better investment, when they are properly represented before the court. Hutchinson v. Hutchinson, 136 N. C. 671, 56 S. E. 149.

Impounded by Court.—The next friend of an infant ought always to be appointed by the court, and really he is an officer of the court, under its supervision and control. Tate v. Mott, 96 N. C. 19, 2 S. E. 176.

Removal.—The court has power, for good cause shown, to remove the next friend of an infant litigant, and appoint another as often as may be necessary. Tate v. Mott, 96 N. C. 19, 2 S. E. 176.

Power of Representative.—The power of a guardian to make disposition of his ward's real estate is very carefully regulated and a sale is not allowed except on petition filed, and the order is confirmed by all the judges of the court, upon approval of the judge. Morton v. Lumber Co., 127 N. C. 163, 106, 100 S. E. 322.

Representative May Be a Party.—The guardian or next friend of an infant is not properly speaking a party to the action, although his name appears in the record. Tate v. Mott, 96 N. C. 19, 2 S. E. 176.

Notice to Infant Unnecessary.—It is not essential that the infant should know that an action has been brought in his favor by a next friend, as his incapacity to judge for himself is presumed, but the court may inquire into the propriety of the action and take such steps as may be necessary. Tate v. Mott, 96 N. C. 19, 2 S. E. 176.

Sale May Be Private.—The sale by order of the court may be either public or private, see section 41-11, and suits for the sale of contingent interests, see section 41-11.

S. E. 402. As to procedure for the sale of contingent interests, see section 41-11.

Equity Court May Authorize Lease Extending Beyond Per- iode of Minority.—Since the superior courts in proper instances have authority to order a sale of infants' real estate and to order and approve execution of a mortgage on same by the guardian for a period exceeding the minority of the wards, such statutory power, together with the inherent jurisdic- tion of the court over the estates of infants, give courts of equity plenary jurisdiction to order and approve a mortgage to a guardian to execute a lease on the real estate belonging to his wards for a period exceeding the guardianship term for the wards, upon its finding that such power would be to the best interest of the wards.

 Barberio v. Hapgood, 118 N. C. 712, 24 S. E. 124. Section 31-21 does not apply when the sale is by order of court.

Guardian Cannot Purchase.—It is well settled that a guardian cannot purchase at his own sale, and that all such purchases may be treated as invalid, at the option of the wards, even when no unfairness in the sale and purchase has been shown. Practice of the Superior Courts, 201 N. C. 576, 194 A. S. 426.

Guardian Appointed by Court.—Where a guardian obtains a decree of a court of equity for the sale of his ward's land, it must appear upon the record to be for any loss in consequence of such sale, that he willfully practiced a deception on the court by false allegations and false evidence, or by industriously concealing material facts. Harrison v. Bradley, 60 N. C. 13.

When Guardian Liable.—Where a guardian obtains a decree of a court of equity for the sale of his ward's land, it must appear upon the record to be for any loss in consequence of such sale, that he willfully practiced a deception on the court by false allegations and false evidence, or by industriously concealing material facts. Harrison v. Bradley, 60 N. C. 13.

Where an order confirming a sale of lands for partition does not provide for the disbursement of the funds, and the sum received is properly paid into court and properly disbursed to the parties, the share of the minors therein being less than one hundred dollars and being paid to their mother for their benefit, under § 2-33, the sale was not void. Ex parte McDougall, 14 N. C. 531, 4 S. E. 426.

Where Order Violated.—It is proper for the court, before intervening rights have accrued, upon affidavit of one who has been adjudged an idiot in proceedings before the clerk, and a guardian is appointed, to grant a temporary restraining order, with notice to show cause, and at the hearing thereof to continue the order to the final hearing, when it appears the guardian has not the interest in lands of his ward and made title thereto, without complying with the terms of the order of sale, contrary to the provisions of the order of sale. In re Propriety of N. C. 532, 57 S. E. 434.

Proof Required.—It is held that in addition to the verified petition of the guardian, the clerk shall require other satisfactory proof of the truth of the matter alleged, such as to justify discharging the functions of a chancellor, where sales of this character do not include a provision for proceedings in courts of equity, always referred the petition to the clerk and master, who took evidence and reported their conclusions to the court. It is usual, since these large and important equitable functions are conferred upon the clerk, to accompany the petition with affidavits showing the necessity for the sale. The practice is to be modified, and should not, without good cause, be departed from. In re Propst, 144 N. C. 562, 567, 57 S. E. 345.

Sale Without Probate Court.—Where a sale of real estate is made by the court, without any means to ascertain the necessity for a sale, excepted to be made, and that it should be “first advertised at the court house and three other public places,” and no bid be received, and the sale is ordered to be made, the same is void, it was held, that it was not to error to set aside the sale and direct another. In re Dickerson, 111 N. C. 108, 114, 15 S. E. 1025.

An emergency judge has no power to approve and confirm an order of the court for the sale or mortgage of lands by guardian. An emergency court is not holding court in the county. Ipock v. North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank, 206 N. C. 791, 175 S. E. 127.

Approval Nunc Pro Tunc.—Where a guardian executed a notice of sale of the estate of his wards approved by a foreign judge, without the approval of the judge, and the judge later approved the order the nunc pro tunc, the defect was cured so as to make the sale valid. Wilcock v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 205 N. C. 311, 170 S. E. 333. Pick v. North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank, 206 N. C. 791, 797, 175 S. E. 127.

No guardian may be authorized to join with the life tenant in executing a mortgage on lands in which his wards own the remainder in order to make conveyance, it was held, that it was not to error to set aside the sale and direct another. In re Dickerson, 111 N. C. 108, 114, 15 S. E. 1025.

When Foreign Guardian May Sell.—Where a foreign guardian has complied with the provisions of sections 33-48 and 33-49 which authorize him to withdraw the estate of his wards to the place of their residence and to a court of foreign jurisdiction to sell the same proceeds, and the same proceedings may be had against the personal or real estate as may be sufficient to discharge such debt or demand; and the order of the court shall particularly specify what property is to be sold and the terms of sale; but no real estate shall be sold under this section, in any case, without the revision and confirmation of the order therefor by the judge of the superior court. The proceeds of sale under this section shall be considered as assets in the hands of the guardian for the benefit of creditors, in like manner as assets in the hands of a personal representative; and the same proceedings may be had against the guardian with respect to such assets as might be taken against an executor, administrator or collector in similar cases. (Rev., ss. 1800, 1801: Code, ss. 1601, 1605; R. C., c. 54, s. 34; 1790, c. 311, s. 5; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 41, 42; C. S. 2182.)

Ascertainment That Debts Are Due.—The court should first ascertain that there are debts due from the ward, which render the sale of the property expedient, and they should also select the part or parts of his property which can be disposed of with least injury to the ward. Leary v. Fletcher, 23 N. C. 295.

An order authorizing a guardian, under certain circumstances, to sell the land of his ward, must first show that it was adjudged that there were debts due from the ward, and then specify what particular land is to be sold for their payment. Spruill v. Davenport, 48 N. C. 42.

Same—Amount Need Not Be Shown.—The amount of the debts, or to whom due, need not be set forth in the order. See Trueblood, 48 N. C. 96; Spruill v. Davenport, 48 N. C. 42.

Sale—Void When Debt Not Shown.—A sale of a ward’s land without the judgment of the court is void, and must first show that it was adjudged that there were debts due from the ward, which render the sale of the property expedient, and they should also select the part or parts of his property which can be disposed of with least injury to the ward. Cofield v. McLean, 49 N. C. 15.

Specifying Land to Be Sold.—An order that the guardian shall sell the land of his ward, or so much thereof as will be sufficient to discharge his debts, is fatally defective and void, and vests no title in those who bought at the sale.

Where the order "to sell the land of the ward named in the petition, adjoining the lands of A., B., and others, the heirs-at-law was improperly admitted a party defendant. Such claims shall be set up in this proceeding. Boddin v. Sanderlin, 90 N. C. 546.

Proceeds Subject to Attachment.—Money from the sale of land which belonged to wards is subject to attachment in the hands of the clerk after the confirmation of the sale. Leroy v. Jacobosky, 136 N. C. 443, 48 S. E. 796.

Priority in Payment.—When a guardian of an infant, under an order of court, sells his ward's land for payment of debts of the ancestor, he is bound to observe the same priority in the payment of the debts as an administrator or executor in applying the personal assets. Merchant v. Sanderlin, 25 N. C. 503.

Sale of Lunatic's Property.—A guardian of a lunatic may, by order of the court, rightfully sell the personal property of his ward for the payment of his debts, provided there be no fraud in the proceeding. Howard v. Thompson, 30 N. C. 367. As to sale or renting of lunatics' estates, see sec. 35-10 et seq.

§ 33-34. To sell perishable goods on order of clerk.—Every guardian shall sell, by order of the clerk of the superior court, all such goods and chattels of his ward as may be liable to perish or be the worse for keeping. Every such order shall be entered in the order record of the superior court and must contain a descriptive list of the property to be sold, with the terms of sale. (Rev, s. 1787; Code, s. 1589; R. C., c. 54, s. 22; 1762, c. 69, s. 10; 1508-9, c. 201, s. 26; C. S. 2170.)

§ 33-35. When timber may be sold.—In case the land cannot be rented for enough to pay the taxes and other dues thereof, and there is not money sufficient for that purpose, the guardian, with the consent of the clerk of the superior court, may annually dispose of or use so much of the lightwood, and box or rent so many pine trees, or sell so much of the timber on the same, as may raise enough to pay the taxes and other duties thereon, and no more. (Rev., s. 1790; Code, s. 1596; R. C., c. 54, s. 27; 1762, c. 69, s. 14; 1868, c. 201, s. 14; C. S. 2170.)

Sale without Order of Court.—Where a guardian sold timber on the land of his ward without an order of the court, as required by this section, and took a note for the purchase money, the maker of such note cannot sue on such note, and the court may declare the contract set up the failure of the guardian to observe the statutory mandate. Evans v. Williamson, 79 N. C. 86.

Art. 3. Returns and Accounting.

§ 33-36. Return within three months.—Every guardian, within three months after his appointment, shall exhibit an account, upon oath, of the estate of his ward, to the clerk of the superior court; but such time may be extended by the guardian, within three months after his appointment, to set out the manner in which he has invested the ward's estate, and the nature of the securities held as guardian. State v. Gooch, 97 N. C. 186, 1 S. E. 653.

What Set Out.—It is the duty of a guardian in making his annual returns to set out the manner in which he has invested the ward's estate, and the nature of the securities held as guardian. State v. Gooch, 97 N. C. 186, 1 S. E. 653.

Accounts Prima Facie Correct.—The ex parte settlements made by guardians, executors and administrators with the assets having jurisdiction of such matters, are, when accepted by the court, prima facie correct, and while not conclusive upon creditors or next of kin, and strict proof and specific allegations of errors are not required as in actions to surcharge a stated account, nevertheless the burden is on the party attacking them to establish, by a preponderance

§ 33-37. Procedure to compel return.—In cases of default to exhibit the return required by § 33-36, the clerk of the superior court must issue an order requiring the guardian to file such return forthwith, or to show cause why an attachment should not issue against him. If, after due service of the order, the guardian does not, on the return day of the order, file such return, or obtain further time to file the same, the clerk of the superior court shall issue an attachment against him, and commit him to the common jail of the county till he files such return. (Rev., s. 1803; Code, s. 1578; R. C., c. 54, s. 12; 1762, c. 69, s. 15; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 15; C. S. 2184.)

§ 33-38. Additional assets to be returned.—Whenever further property of any kind, not included in any previous return, comes to the hands or knowledge of any guardian, he must cause the same to be returned within three months after the possession or discovery thereof; and the making of such return of new assets, from time to time, may be enforced in the same manner as prescribed in § 33-37. (Rev., s. 1804; Code, s. 1579; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 16; C. S. 2185.)

§ 33-39. Annual accounts.—Every guardian shall, within twelve months from the date of his qualification or appointment, and annually, so long as any of the estate remains in his control, file in the office of the clerk of the superior court an inventory and account, under oath, of the amount of property received by him, or invested by him, and the manner and nature of such investment, and his receipts and disbursements for the past year in the form of debit and credit. He must produce vouchers for all payments. The clerk of the superior court may examine on oath such accounting party, or any other person, concerning the receipts, disbursements or any other matter relating to the estate; and having carefully reviewed and audited such account, if he approve the same, he must indorse his approval thereon, which shall be deemed prima facie evidence of correctness. (Rev., s. 1805; Code, s. 1617; R. C., c. 54, ss. 11, 12; 1762, c. 69, ss. 9, 15; 1871-2, c. 46; C. S. 2186.)

Cross References.—As to clerk's power to audit the account of guardian, see § 2-16. As to vouchers being evidence of disbursement, see § 28-119.

Definition of "Account."—An account is defined to be "a statement in writing of debts and credits, or of receipts and payments; a list of items of debts and credits with their respective dates." Black's Dictionary, p. 17. In this section the word is used in this ss. 50, and when not only an account, but payment or settlement is intended, additional words are used to express that idea. State v. Dunn, 134 N. C. 663, 1 S. E. 668, 46 S. E. 949.

Good Faith Essential.—There is no trust known to the law which so urgently calls for good faith as that which subsists between the guardian and his ward; and no higher evidence can be offered of that good faith than perfect candor, full information, and minute, detailed accounts. Moore v. Askew, 85 N. C. 199, 202.

What Set Out.—It is the duty of a guardian in making his annual returns to set out the manner in which he has invested the ward's estate, and the nature of the securities which he holds as guardian. State v. Gooch, 97 N. C. 186, 1 S. E. 653.

Accounts Prima Facie Correct.—The ex parte settlements made by guardians, executors and administrators with the assets having jurisdiction of such matters, are, when accepted by the court, prima facie correct, and while not conclusive upon creditors or next of kin, and strict proof and specific allegations of errors are not required as in actions to surcharge a stated account, nevertheless the burden is on the party attacking them to establish, by a preponderance

Ward Can Demand Annual Statement.—A ward is entitled to demand of his guardian an annual statement of the manner and nature of his investments of his estate. Moore v. Askew, 55 N. C. 199.

Account as Evidence.—The annual account of a guardian is entitled to presumptive evidence against him, and presumptive evidence against his sureties. Loftin v. Cobb, 126 N. C. 38, 35 S. E. 210.

§ 33-40. Procedure to compel accounting.—If any guardian omit to account, as directed in § 33-39, or renders an insufficient and unsatisfactory account, the clerk of the superior court shall forthwith order such guardian to render a full and satisfactory account, as required by law, within twenty days after service of the order. Upon return of the order, duly served, if such guardian fail to appear or refuse to exhibit such account, the clerk of the superior court may issue an attachment against him for contempt and commit him till he exhibits such account, and may likewise remove him from office. And in all proceedings hereinafter the defaulting guardian will be liable personally for all the proceeds, including the costs of service of all notices or writs incidental to, or thereby accruing, or the amount of the costs of such proceeding may be deducted from any commissions which may be found due said guardian on settlement of the estate. Where a corporation is guardian, the president, cashier, trust officer or the person or persons having charge of the particular estate for said corporation, or the person to whom the duty of making reports of said estate has been assigned by the officers or directors of said corporation, may be proceeded against and committed to jail as herein provided as if he or they were the guardian or guardians personally: Provided, it is found as a fact that the failure or omission to file such account or to obey the order of the court in reference thereto is willful on the part of the officer charged therewith: Provided further, the corporation itself may also be fined and/or removed as punishment for failure to file its final account with the receipts of the ward, in full settlement, to complete the record in his office, for the section states such account "will be recorded." Sell v. Shuggart, 135 N. C. 185, 189, 47 S. E. 484.

"Audit" Explained.—When the section directs that the clerk shall "audit" the account, it implies that he shall purify and make it proper, which he is held to be just and convenient in such cases. Rowl nd v. Thompson, 64 N. C. 714, 717.

Jurisdiction.—The clerk of the superior court has jurisdiction of such a proceeding, between the guardian and ward's personal representative. McLean v. Breeze, 113 N. C. 390, 18 S. E. 694; McNeill v. Hodges, 105 N. C. 52, 11 S. E. 265; Rowland v. Thompson, 65 N. C. 110.

The superior court had no original jurisdiction of an action for an account by an existing guardian of infant children of the guardian's wards. Application for a new guardian action should have been brought in the court of probate (now the clerk). Sudderth v. McCombs, 65 N. C. 186.

Same.—Appeal.—From the judgment of the clerk an appeal will lie to the superior court of the state of the facts obtained jurisdiction of the cause will retain it until it is finally disposed of. Rowland v. Thompson, 65 N. C. 110.

Settlement as Defense.—Where in a suit on a guardianship account it appears that the account between the guardian and ward had been settled, and that the guardian gave his own bond to the ward, which was received by the latter in satisfaction of the balance due, and he then gave his guardian a receipt for the balance due, it was held that this was a sufficient defense to the suit on the guardian bond. State v. Cordon, 30 N. C. 179.

Action Barred in Ten Years.—Ten years after the ward becomes of age bars an action by him against his guardian for settlement. Dunn v. Beaman, 126 N. C. 366, 36 S. E. 529.

When Action Barred as to Sureties.—An action for breach of the guardianship bond based upon this section is barred as to the sureties after three years from the date the guardian should have made payment, and the fact that the guardian continued to pay the ward interest on the amount due the ward for several years after the ward's majority does not affect the running of the statute as to the sureties. State v. Fountain, 205 N. C. 217, 171 S. E. 85. See Cooley v. Scarlett, 214 N. C. 31, 197 S. E. 623.

Judgment Is an Estoppel.—The clerk of the superior court, having jurisdiction of a proceeding to compel a guardian for a settlement, a judgment rendered therein is not estoppel to an action in the superior court between the same parties and upon the same question, and can not be attacked collaterally, but can be impeached for fraud only by a direct proceeding for that purpose. Donnelly v. Wilcox, 113 N. C. 458, 18 S. E. 339.

Distributees May Have Accounting.—The express trust existing between the guardian and ward terminates at death of the latter, and the ward's distributees may give letters of administration taken out and call for an accounting. Lowder v. Hathcock, 150 N. C. 438, 439, 64 S. E. 194.

Effect of Wrongful Settlement.—Where a guardian surrenders his office in March to one whom he supposed to be his legal successor and made a settlement with him, though he was not regularly appointed guardian until March, the settlement was valid, but in all cases, in good faith, it was held that the management of the fund from March to December must be treated as an exercise of an agency of the former guardian, whose bond is responsible for the resulting therefrom. Jennings v. Copeland, 90 N. C. 572.

§ 33-42. Expenses and disbursements credited to guardian.—Every guardian may charge in his annual account all reasonable disbursements and expenses of his office. It is to be borne in mind that the guardian may not disburse money or make payments to himself, or to his sureties, out of the profits of the ward's estate, for his education and maintenance, the guardian shall be allowed and paid for the same out of the profits of the estate in any other year; but such disbursements must, in all cases, be suitable to the degree and circumstances of the estate of the ward. (Rev., s. 1808; Code, s. 1619; R. C., c. 54, s. 28; 1762, c. 69, ss. 18, 19; 1799, c. 536, § 2; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 49; C. S. 2189.)

Cross References.—As to payments allowed in accounting, see § 33-66. As to expense of bond being lawful expense, see § 43-52.

In General.—A guardian should be charged with what he receives, and credited with what he pays out, when it does not appear that he collected anything prematurely, or kept on hand any unreasonable sum. Freeman v. Wilson, 74 N. C. 368.

Paying Debts Due.—When the guardian in good faith pays debts that ought to be paid, and by so doing the ward's estate, for no prudent purpose, will be allowed credit for disbursements of assets in his business, in McLean v. Breeze, 113 N. C. 390, 392, 18 S. E. 694; Adams v. Thomas, 83 N. C. 557.

Earning Incomes of Estate.—In paying the accounts of a guardian, he cannot, except under rare circumstances, be allowed disbursements beyond the income of his ward. Caffey v. McMichael, 64 N. C. 507; Johnston v. Haynes, 68 N. C. 14.

A guardian will not be permitted to use more than the accruing profits of his ward's estate in the maintenance and education of the ward, except with the sanction of the court, or in case of urgent necessity. Tharington v. Tharington, 99 N. C. 118, 5 S. E. 414.

Same—Clerk May Allow.—The clerk of the superior court may allow a guardian credit for money necessarily expended in the education of the ward, though the amount exceeded the income and was made without the permission of the clerk. Duffy v. Williams, 113 N. C. 195, 45 S. E. 140.

Same—Lunatic's Debts.—Where, in the settlement of the guardian's account, the lunatic is dead and his only child is of age, and it appears that the guardian, in good faith, paid debts due the ward, without applying to the court for leave, is not entitled to charge the ward with it. Shaw v. Cogle, 63 N. C. 377.

But fees paid by a guardian to the counsel for services rendered in obtaining an unfair settlement with the ward, and in aiding the guardian to cover up the fraud, cannot be allowed the latter in his settlement. Johnston v. Haynes, 68 N. C. 599.

Father as Guardian.—A father, or his trustee, in settling his accounts as guardian for his children, has no right to charge the children with the amount expended for their education, as Willer v. Turner, 37 N. C. 473.

A father, though be the natural guardian of his minor child's estate, is not ordinarily permitted to charge for his maintenance, and, if able, he is himself bound to maintain his own pusiness where he was guilty of gross negligence in not managing his ward's business with skill, in McLean v. Breeze, 113 N. C. 390, 392, 18 S. E. 694.

Stepfather as Guardian.—Where a stepfather becomes guardian to his stepchild, he is not entitled to charge for board and other necessaries furnished to his ward antecedently to his appointment as guardian; the infant being incompetent to contract therefor. Barnes v. Ward, 45 N. C. 579.

Payments to Mother for Board of Wards after Majority.—A guardian is not entitled to commissions on payments made for his ward for goods bought of a firm of which the guardian was a member, but not on charges for board while the ward lived in his family. Williamson v. Williams, 59 N. C. 62.

Rate of Commissions. — Reasonable commissions will always be allowed to a guardian unless in cases of fraud or very culpable negligence. The rate will depend upon a variety of circumstances, such as the amount of the estate, the trouble in managing it, whether fees have been paid to counselor for assisting him in the management, the last of which will not be more than 10 per cent. Shutt v. Carloss, 36 N. C. 558.

Same—Gross Negligence.—A guardian is not entitled to commissions on money collected and used by him in his own business where he was guilty of gross negligence in its management. Towle v. Dey, 65 N. C. 590.

When Ward Boards with Guardian.—A guardian is entitled to commissions on payments made for his ward for goods bought of a firm of which the guardian was a member, but not on charges for board while the ward lived in his family. Williamson v. Williams, 59 N. C. 62.

Art. 6. Public Guardians.
§ 33-45. Bond of public guardian; increasing bond.—The public guardian shall enter into bond with three or more sureties, approved by the clerk in the penal sum of six thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned faithfully to perform the duties of his office and obey all lawful orders of the superior court or other courts touching said guardianship of all wards, money or estate that may come into his hands. Whenever the aggregate value of the real and personal estate belonging to his several wards exceeds one-half the bond herein required the clerk of the superior court shall require him to enlarge his bond in amount so as to cover at least double the aggregate amount under his control as guardian. (Rev., ss. 321, 322; Code, ss. 1557, 1558; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 2, 3; C. S. 2192.)

§ 33-46. Powers, duties, liabilities, compensation.—The powers and duties of said public guardian shall be the same as other guardians, and he shall be subject to the same liabilities as other guardians under the existing laws, and shall receive the same compensation as other guardians. (Rev., s. 1761; Code, s. 1561; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 6, 7; C. S. 2193.)

Cross Reference.—As to payment of money due minor insurance beneficiary to public guardian, see § 2-52.

§ 33-47. When letters issue to public guardian.—The public guardian shall apply for and obtain letters of guardianship in the following cases:

1. When a period of six months has elapsed from the discovery of any property belonging to any minor, idiot, lunatic, insane person or inebriate, without guardian.

2. When any person entitled to letters of guardianship shall request in writing the clerk of the superior court to issue letters to the public guardian; but it is lawful and the duty of the clerk of the superior court to revoke said letters of guardianship at any time after issuing the same upon application in writing by any person entitled to qualify as guardian, setting forth a sufficient cause for such revocation. (Rev., s. 1760; Code, s. 1561; 1874-5, c. 221, ss. 6, 7; C. S. 2194.)

Art. 7. Foreign Guardians.

§ 33-48. Right to removal of ward's personalty from state.—Where any ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person, residing in another state or territory, or in the District of Columbia, or Canada, or other foreign country, is entitled to any personal estate in this state, or personal property substituted for realty by decree of court, or to any part of the proceeds from the sale of real estate, whether the same be in the hands of any person, guardian residing in this state, or of any executor, administrator or other person holding for the ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person, or if the same (not being adversely held and claimed) be not in the lawful possession or control of any person, the guardian of the ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person, duly appointed at the place where such ward, idiot, lunatic or insane person resides, or in the event no guardian has been appointed the court or officer of the court authorized by the laws of the state or territory or for the District of Columbia or Canada or other foreign country to receive moneys belonging to any infants, idiots, lunatics or insane persons when no guardian has been appointed, any person, may apply to have such estate removed to the hands of any guardian, idiot, lunatic or insane person by petition filed before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the property or some portion thereof is situated; which shall be proceeded with as in other cases of special proceedings. (Rev., s. 1816; Code, ss. 1598, 1601; R. C., c. 54, s. 29; 1820, c. 1044; 1842, c. 38; 1868-9, c. 201, ss. 35, 38; 1874-5, c. 168; 1913, c. 86, s. 1; 1937, c. 307; C. S. 2195.)

Cross Reference.—See also § 36-6 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment made provision for the event "infant" has been appointed." It also substituted "infant" for "ward" in a subsequent part of the section.

In General.—Where it appeared that the property in this State of a ward residing in another state consisted of good bonds and stocks, purchased in the hands of the last guardian, a part of which arose from the sale of land, and the ward was nearly of age, and there was no special necessity made to appear for making a transfer of the property, the court of equity, in the exercise of its discretion, refused to order a transfer of the estate to the hands of a guardian appointed in such other state. Douglas v. Caldwell, 59 N. C. 20.

Local Guardian Next Friend.—When any ward is domiciled in another state, and no foreign guardian has been duly appointed in the state of his residence and that of his wards, and has filed a certified copy of his appointment, with a bond sufficient both as to the amount and the surety, the court of equity, in the exercise of its discretion, refused to order a transfer of the estate of his wards and in conformity with this section and section 33-49, with his petition to the clerk of the court, as required by these statutes, it is not necessary that a local guardian be appointed, but the court in that State, before which the matter is properly pending, may order that the foreign guardian be permitted to withdraw the estate of his wards to the place of foreign jurisdiction. Cilley v. Geinzer, 183 N. C. 528, 111 S. E. 865.

Foreign Guardian as Next Friend.—A guardian appointed in another state has no authority to represent his wards in suits and proceedings in this State, but when he brings suit for them as guardian it will be treated as if he were their next friend. Tate v. Mott, 96 N. C. 19, 2 S. E. 69.

When Guardian Must Be Resident.—Where the infant grandchildren of the testator take upon a contingency, as directed by the will, properly probated here, it is required by the law of the state of residence of the ward, according to our law, unless the funds have been properly removed to another state, under this section and section 33-49, and the law of this State governs the interpretation of the will, the testator domiciled here, Cilley Geinzer, 183 N. C. 714, 110 S. E. 61.

A guardian in another state of nonresident wards may proceed to obtain possession of the property bequeathed to the wards and in the hands of an executor in this State under a will duly probated here under the provisions of this section; § 36-7, relating to property in the hands of a trustee residing in this State, is not applicable. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Walton, 198 N. C. 790, 153 S. E. 401.

—The petitioner must show to the court a copy of his appointment as guardian and bond duly authenticated, and must prove to the court that the bond is sufficient, as well in the ability of the sureties as in the financial ability of the sureties to protect the estate of his wards and in conformity with this section and section 33-49, and the law of this State governs the interpretation of the will, the testator domiciled here. Cilley Geinzer, 183 N. C. 714, 110 S. E. 61.

A guardian in another state of nonresident wards may proceed to obtain possession of the property bequeathed to the wards and in the hands of an executor in this State under a will duly probated here under the provisions of this section; § 36-7, relating to property in the hands of a trustee residing in this State, is not applicable. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Walton, 198 N. C. 790, 153 S. E. 401.

—The petitioner must show to the court a copy of his appointment as guardian and bond duly authenticated, and must prove to the court that the bond is sufficient, as well in the ability of the sureties as in the financial ability of the sureties to protect the estate of his wards and in conformity with this section and section 33-49, and the law of this State governs the interpretation of the will, the testator domiciled here. Cilley Geinzer, 183 N. C. 714, 110 S. E. 61.

Cross Reference.—As to who may be defendants, see § 1-69.
Art. 8. Estates without Guardian.

§ 33-50. Duty of grand jury as to orphans and guardians.—The grand jury of every county is charged with and shall present to the superior court the names of all orphan children that have no guardian or are not bound out to some trade or employment. They shall further inquire of all abuses, mismanagement and neglect of all such guardians as are appointed by the clerk of the superior court. The clerk of the superior court shall, at each term of the superior court, lay before the grand jury a list of all the guardians acting in his county or appointed by him. (Rev., s. 1810; Code, s. 1609; R. C., c. 54, s. 18; 1762, c. 69, s. 17; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 46; C. S. 2197.)

§ 33-51. Solicitor to apply for receiver for orphans' estates.—Whenever the name of an orphan, having any estate and for whom no suitable person will become guardian, is presented by a grand jury, the clerk of the superior court must give notice thereof forthwith to the solicitor of the state for the judicial district, who shall apply in behalf of the orphan a list of all the guardians acting in his county where such presentment was made, to the end that a receiver be appointed. (Rev., s. 1811; Code, s. 1610; R. C., c. 54, s. 19; 1816, c. 43; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 47; C. S. 2198.)

§ 33-52. Solicitor to prosecute bond of guardian removed without a successor.—Whenever any guardian is removed, and no person is appointed to succeed in the guardianship, the clerk of the superior court shall certify the name of such guardian, or of himself as guardian, to the grand jury of the judicial district, who shall apply in behalf of the orphan to the judge of the superior court of the county where such presentment was made, to the end that a receiver be appointed. (Rev., s. 1812; Code, s. 1584; R. C., c. 54, s. 14; 1844, c. 41; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 21; C. S. 2199.)

Infant Not a Party.—The action required by this section to be taken by the solicitor, in the cases provided for, is properly an action brought by him for the benefit of the ward, the guardian having been removed, and the infant is not a necessary, perhaps not a proper, party to it. Becton v. Becton, 56 N. C. 419; Temple v. Williams, 91 N. C. 82.

Allowance Pendente Lite.—During the pendency of an action under this section a guardian and the sureties on his bond by his ward for an account and settlement, and while the same is under reference and before the report of the referee is complete and finally acted on, and before any of the ward's estate is in possession of the court, the superior court has no power to order the guardian and his sureties to the solicitor, for securing the estate of the ward. (Rev., s. 1812; Code, s. 1584; R. C., c. 54, s. 14; 1844, c. 41; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 21; C. S. 2199.)

§ 33-53. Judge to appoint receiver; his rights and duties.—The judge of the superior court, either residing in or presiding over the courts of the district, before whom such action is brought, shall have power to appoint the clerk of the superior court or some discreet person as a receiver to take possession of the ward's estate, to collect all moneys due to him, to secure, lend, invest or apply the same for the benefit and advantage of the ward, under the direction and subject to such rules and orders in every respect as the said judge may from time to time make in regard thereto; and the accounts of such receiver shall be returned, audited and settled as the judge may direct. The receiver shall be allowed such amounts for his time, trouble and responsibility as seem to the judge reasonable and proper; and such receivership may be continued until some suitable person can be procured to take the guardianship. (Rev., s. 1813; Code, s. 1585; R. C., c. 54, s. 15; 1844, c. 41, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 23; C. S. 2200.)

Cross Reference.—As to receivers, see § 1-501 et seq. When Appointed.—The mere poverty of the executrix does not authorize the court, against the will of the testator, to appoint a receiver of the estate of an infant. Fairbain v. Fisher, 57 N. C. 395.

The appointment of a receiver for an insane person's estate should be made only on the motion of the solicitor, after the wife and one or more adult children, if there are such, or some near relative or friend, have been before the judge at chambers or in term. In re Hybart, 118, C. 159, 66 S. E. 988.

Clerk Appointed.—Under this section the court has authority to appoint a clerk of the superior court receiver of an infant's estate. Waters v. Melson, 112 N. C. 89, 16 S. E. 918.

Same.—The Order.—Where, in an order of court appointing "J. A. M., clerk of the superior court," receiver of the infant's estate, the clerk was not named as receiver and the "clerk of the superior court," it was held that the intention of the court to appoint M. as receiver in his official capacity was not indicated. Waters v. Melson, 112 N. C. 89, 16 S. E. 918.

Same.—Does Not Have Guardian's Power.—A receiver appointed to take charge of a ward's estate when the guardian is removed, is not invested with the powers of a guardian, but acts under the control of the court until another guardian is appointed. Temple v. Williams, 91 N. C. 82.

General Liability.—As a general rule, a receiver is responsible for his own neglect only, and is protected when he acts in entire good faith. State v. Gooch, 97 N. C. 186, 1 S. E. 653.

Same.—Similar to Guardian's.—When a receiver is appointed to take charge of an infant's estate who has no guardian, and is directed to lend out the money and pay the income over to the ward, he will be held to the same accountability as a guardian. State v. Gooch, 97 N. C. 186, 1 S. E. 653.

Failure of Bank.—A receiver may keep money in a bank as a safe place of deposit, or may use the bank as a means of transmitting money to distant places, and if he uses reasonable diligence, he will not be held liable if the bank fails. State v. Gooch, 97 N. C. 186, 1 S. E. 653.

Where a receiver is appointed to take charge of an infant's estate and invest the same, and report to the court annually, and he deposited a portion of the money in a bank in another state to his credit as receiver, on which deposit he was paid interest by the bank, which afterwards failed, it was held that the receiver was liable for the loss, as he had failed to report to the court the manner in which he invested the infant's estate, although he had acted in the best faith. State v. Gooch, 97 N. C. 186, 1 S. E. 653.

Official Bond Liable—Former Provisions.—The liability of a receiver who acts in whole or in part as receiver of an infant's estate and remits the same, is not only for the breach of his official bond and its purposes but for any breach of his official duties as a receiver, and hence not embraced by his official bond and its purposes. Kerr v. Brandon, 84 N. C. 128; State v. Odum, 86 N. C. 432; Syme v. Bunting, 91 N. C. 48, 52; State v. Boone, 108 N. C. 78, 83, 12 S. E. 897.

Same—Sureties.—But now when the clerk of the superior court is appointed to take charge of the wards' estate under this section, he takes and holds the funds by virtue of his office as clerk, and his sureties upon his official bond as such officer are liable for any failure of duty on his part in that respect. State v. Upchurch, 110 N. C. 62, 14 S. E. 642.

The sureties on the clerk's official bond are liable for any breach of his duties as receiver. Waters v. Melson, 112 N. C. 89, 16 S. E. 918.

Action against Receiver.—It is not necessary to obtain leave of the court before commencing an action for failure of the clerk to fulfill his duty when appointed receiver under this section. State v. Upchurch, 110 N. C. 63, 14 S. E. 642.

Same—Burden of Proof.—The burden is upon a receiver and his sureties to show that he used due diligence in investing the money in his hands. Waters v. Melson, 112 N. C. 89, 16 S. E. 918.

Same—Present Law.—Where the appointment of a receiver is conferred upon the clerk under the statute authorizing the court to commit the estate of an infant to "some discreet person," it was held that the same is protected by his bond as clerk. State v. Odum, 86 N. C. 432.

§ 33-54. When receiver to pay over estate.—When another guardian is appointed, he may apply by motion, on notice, to the judge of the superior court for an order upon the receiver to pay over all the money, estate and effects of the ward; and if no such guardian is appointed, then the infant, on coming of age, or in case of his death, his executor, administrator or collector, and the heir or personal representative of the idiot, lunatic or insane person, shall have the like remedy against the receiver. (Rev., s. 1814; Code, s. 1815; C. C. P., s. 2201.)

Settlement Not Conclusive.—A settlement made with a receiver, even if had under direction of the court, is not conclusive against the ward, but only raises a presumption that the account and settlement are correct. Such presumption may be disproved. Temple v. Williams, 91 N. C. 23.

§ 33-56. Appointment.—When it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the clerk of the superior court, or a judge of the superior court having jurisdiction of the appointment of guardians, that any person has disappeared from the community of his residence, and his whereabouts remains unknown in such community for a period of three (3) months, and cannot, after diligent inquiry, be ascertained; and that such person has property in the state and property rights within its jurisdiction which may be affected by his absence, or may need protection and administration; and that such person has made no provision for the management of his affairs; such clerk of the superior court or judge of the superior court may appoint a guardian of the estate and property of such person as may, by law be done in the case of minors and persons non compos mentis, and with the like powers and duties with respect to such estate. (1933, c. 49, s. 1.)

§ 33-57. Jurisdiction.—The clerk of the superior court of the county of the last residence of such absent person shall have prior rights to jurisdiction of such appointment, but the appointment may be made by the clerk of the superior court of any county in the state where such person has property, after the expiration of six months from the time of such disappearance, if no prior appointment has been made. (1933, c. 49, s. 2.)

§ 33-58. Powers and duties; bond. — The guardian, so appointed, shall have all the powers and duties with respect to the property and estate of such absent person as are now, or may be hereafter, conferred by law upon guardians generally; and before entering into the discharge of the duties of his guardianship, he shall be required to enter into such bond as is now required by law in such cases, for the faithful performance of his trust and for the accounting of the property, moneys and assets of the estate coming into his hands as guardian. (1933, c. 49, s. 3.)

§ 33-59. General laws applicable.—The public laws relating to guardianships, and particularly this chapter, as far as by their terms they may be applicable, and as far as they are not modified by this article, shall apply to guardians so appointed. (1933, c. 49, s. 3.)

§ 33-60. Other managerial powers conferred.—In addition to the powers given to guardians under the general laws of the state, such guardians may, by approval of the court, apply funds in his hands to the satisfaction of obligations of such absent person, renew notes and other obligations, pledge property for loans necessary in carrying on or liquidating the affairs of such absent person; cause lands to be cultivated, where such business was previously carried on, and make such contracts with reference thereto as he may deem to the best interest of the estate, and, under the direction of the court and with its approval, continue to operate any business or business enterprise of such person, and make such contracts, agreements and settlements in reference thereto as may be necessary, or to the best interests of the estate. (1933, c. 49, s. 4.)

§ 33-61. Discharge of guardian upon return of missing person.—Upon the return of such absent person, and within six months from the filing of the petition by such person to be restored to his property and to the management of his estate, the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction of the said guardianship shall require a settlement of the estate by the guardian so appointed, and shall cause to be turned over to such person all of the said estate then in his hands as guardian and, after the payment of such reasonable costs and commissions as may be authorized by law, and, upon the filing of a financial account by the said guardian, he shall be discharged. (1933, c. 49, s. 5.)

§ 33-62. Guardian not liable except for misconduct.—No action shall be maintained against such guardian, or the sureties on his bond, by reason of his appointment, taking over and managing the property of such absent person, or any of his acts with respect to the said estate, where it appears that they were done under authority of this article, but only for recovery because of the misconduct in office of the bad faith of such guardian, or the waste of the assets of the estate through mismanagement, amounting to gross carelessness or in violation of the law. (1933, c. 49, s. 6.)

Sec. 34-1. Title.—This chapter shall be known as "The Veterans' Guardianship Act." (1929, c. 33, s. 1.)

§ 34-2. Definitions.—In this chapter:

The term "person" includes a partnership, corporation or an association.

The term "Bureau" means the United States Veterans' Bureau or its successor.

The terms "estate" and "income" shall include only moneys received by the guardian from the Bureau and all earnings, interests and profits derived therefrom.

The term "benefits" shall mean all moneys payable by the United States through the Bureau.

The term "Director" means the Director of the United States Veterans' Bureau or his successor.

The term "State Service Officer" means such person indicating the necessity for the same.

The term "ward" means a beneficiary of the Bureau.

The term "guardian" as used herein shall mean any person acting as a fiduciary for a ward. (1929, c. 33, s. 2.)

§ 34-3. Appointment of guardian for wards entitled to benefits from United States Veterans' Bureau.—Whenever, pursuant to any law of the United States or regulation of the Bureau, the Director requires, prior to payment of benefits, that a guardian be appointed for a ward, such appointment shall be made in the manner herein-after provided. (1929, c. 33, s. 3.)

§ 34-4. Guardian may not be named for more than five wards; exceptions; banks and trust companies, or where wards are members of same family.—Except as hereinafter provided it shall be unlawful for any person to accept appointment as guardian of any ward if such proposed guardian shall at that time be acting as guardian for five wards. If any case, upon presentation of a petition by an attorney of the Bureau under this section alleging that a guardian is acting in a fiduciary capacity for more than five wards and requesting his discharge for that reason, the court, upon proof substantiating the petition, shall require a final accounting forthwith from such guardian and shall discharge such guardian in said case.

The limitations of this section shall not apply where the guardian is a bank or trust company acting for the wards' estates only. An individual may be guardian of more than five wards if they are all members of the same family. (1929, c. 33, s. 4.)

§ 34-5. Petition for appointment of guardian.—A petition for the appointment of a guardian may be filed in any court of competent jurisdiction by or on behalf of any person who under existing law is entitled to priority of appointment. If there be no person so entitled or if the person so entitled shall neglect or refuse to file such a petition within thirty days after mailing of notice by the Bureau to the last known address of such person indicating the necessity for the same a petition for such appointment may be filed in any court of competent jurisdiction by or on behalf of any responsible person residing in this State.

The petition for appointment shall set forth the name, age, place of residence of the ward, the names and places of residence of the nearest relative, if known, and the fact that such ward is entitled to receive moneys payable by or through the Bureau and shall set forth the amount of moneys then due and the amount of probable future payments.

The petition shall also set forth the name and address of the person or institution, if any, having actual custody of the ward.

In the case of a mentally incompetent ward the petition shall show that such ward has been rated incompetent on examination by the Bureau and in accordance with the laws and regulations governing the Bureau. (1929, c. 33, s. 5.)

§ 34-6. Certificate of Director prima facie evidence of necessity for appointment.—Where a petition is filed for the appointment of a guardian of a minor ward a certificate of the Director, or his representative, setting forth the age of such minor as shown by the records of the Bureau and the fact that the appointment of a guardian is a condition precedent to the payment of any moneys due the minor by the Bureau, shall be prima facie evidence of the necessity for such appointment. (1929, c. 33, s. 6.)

§ 34-7. Same in regard to guardianship of mentally incompetent wards.—Where a petition is filed for the appointment of a guardian of a
mentally incompetent ward a certificate of the Director, or his representative, setting forth the fact that such person has been rated incompetent by the Bureau on examination in accordance with the laws and regulations governing such Bureau, and that the fact of an appointment is a condition precedent to the payment of any moneys due such person by the Bureau, shall be prima facie evidence of the necessity for such appointment. (1929, c. 33, s. 7.)

§ 34-8. Notice of filing of petition.—Upon the filing of a petition for the appointment of a guardian, under the provisions of this chapter, the court shall cause such notice to be given as provided by law. (1929, c. 33, s. 8.)

§ 34-9. Qualifications of guardian; surety bond. —Before making an appointment under the provisions of this chapter the court shall be satisfied that the guardian whose appointment is sought is a fit and proper person to be appointed. Upon the appointment being made the guardian shall execute and file a surety bond to be approved by the court in an amount not less than the sum then due and estimated to become payable during the ensuing year. The said bond shall be in the form and be conditioned as required of guardians appointed under the guardianship laws of this state. The court shall have power from time to time to require the guardian to file an additional bond. No bond shall be required of the banks and trust companies licensed to do trust business in North Carolina. (1929, c. 33, s. 9.)

Cross Reference.—As to bond required of guardians appointed under the guardianship laws of this state, see § 33-12 et seq.

§ 34-10. Guardian's accounts to be filed; hearing on accounts.—Every guardian, who shall receive on account of his ward any moneys from the bureau, shall file with the court annually, on the anniversary date of the appointment, in addition to such other accounts as may be required by the court, a full, true, and accurate account under oath of all moneys so received by him, of all disbursements thereof, and showing the balance thereof in his hands at the date of such account and how invested. A certified copy of each of such accounts filed with the court shall be sent by the guardian to the office of the bureau having jurisdiction over the area in which such court is located.

At the time such account is filed the clerk of superior court shall require the guardian to exhibit to the court all investments and bank statements showing cash balance and the clerk of superior court shall certify on the original account and the certified copy which the guardian sends the bureau that an examination was made of all investments and cash balance and that same are correctly stated in the account. If objections are raised to such accounting, the court shall fix a time and place for the hearing thereon not less than fifteen days nor more than thirty days from the date of filing such objections, and notice shall be given by the court to the aforesaid bureau office and state service officer by mail not less than fifteen days prior to the date fixed for the hearing. Notice of such hearing shall also be given to the guardian. (1929, c. 35, s. 10; 1933, c. 262, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 262, omitted the last two sentences of this section as it formerly read and inserted the last three sentences of the present section in lieu thereof. The next to the last and the last sentence as they now read are practically the same as the omitted provision. The third from the last sentence is new with the amendment. See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 232, for summary of this section.

§ 34-11. Failure to file account cause for removal.—If any guardian shall fail to file any account of the moneys received by him from the Bureau on account of his ward within thirty days after such account is required by either the court or the Bureau, or shall fail to furnish the Bureau a copy of his accounts as required by this chapter, such failure shall be grounds for removal. (1929, c. 33, s. 11.)

§ 34-12. Compensation at 5 per cent; additional compensation; premiums on bonds.—Compensation payable to guardians shall not exceed 5 per cent of the income of the ward during any year. In the event of extraordinary services rendered by a guardian the court may, upon petition and after hearing thereon, authorize additional compensation therefor, payable from the estate of the ward. Notice of such petition and hearing shall be given the proper office of the Bureau and the State Service Officer in the manner provided in § 34-10. No compensation shall be allowed on the corpus of an estate received from a preceding guardian. The guardian may be allowed from the estate of his ward reasonable premiums paid by him to any corporate surety upon his bond. (1929, c. 33, s. 12.)

Where the clerk entered an order allowing a guardian additional compensation for extraordinary services and the Veterans Administration failed to perfect its appeal from the clerk's order, and thereafter applied to the judge of the Superior Court for a writ of certiorari, the petition for certiorari was denied upon the court's finding of laches and demerit. In re Snakegrove, 200 N. C. 679, 182 S. E. 335.

§ 34-13. Investment of funds.—Every guardian shall invest the funds of the estate in any of the following securities:

(a) United States government bonds.
(b) State of North Carolina bonds issued since the year one thousand eight hundred seventy-two.
(c) By loaning the same upon real estate securities in which the guardian has no interest, such loans not to exceed fifty per cent (50%) of the actual appraised or assessed value, whichever may be lower, and said loans when made to be evidenced by a note, or notes, or bond, or bonds, under seal of the borrower and secured by first mortgage or first deed of trust. Said guardian before making such investment on real estate mortgages shall secure a certificate of title from some reputable attorney certifying that the same is the first lien on real estate and also setting forth the tax valuation thereof for the current year: Provided, said guardian may purchase with said funds a home or farm for the sole use of said ward or his dependents upon petition and order of the clerk of superior court, said order to be approved by the resident or presiding judge of the superior court, and provided further that copy of said petition shall be forwarded to said bureau before consideration thereof by said court.

It shall be the duty of guardians who shall have funds invested other than as provided for [116] in this section to liquidate same within one year from the passage of this law: Provided, however, that upon the approval of the judge of the superior court, either residing in or presiding over the courts of the district, the clerk of the superior court may authorize the guardian to extend from time to time, the time for sale or collection of any such investments; that no extension shall be made to cover a period of more than one year from the time the extension is made.

The clerk of the superior court of any county in the state or any guardian who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment or both in the discretion of the court. (1929, c. 33, s. 13; 1933, c. 262, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment by Public Laws 1933, c. 262, this section merely provided that the guardian should invest the funds as allowed by the law or approved by the court.

Purchase of home for use of dependent sister, see Patrick v. Branch Bkg., etc., Co., 216 N. C. 525, 55: EB. (2d) 724.

§ 34-14. Application of ward's estate.—A guardian shall not apply any portion of the estate of his ward for the support and maintenance of any person other than his ward, except upon order of the court after a hearing notice of which has been given the proper officer of the Bureau and the State Service Officer in the manner provided in § 34-10. (1929, c. 33, s. 14.)

§ 34-15. Certified copy of record required by Bureau to be furnished without charge.—Whenever a copy of any public record is required by the Bureau or State Service Officer to be used in determining the eligibility of any person to participate in benefits made available by such Bureau, the official charged with the custody of such public record shall without charge provide the applicant for such benefits or any person acting on his behalf or the representative of such Bureau or State Service Officer with a certified copy of such record. (1929, c. 33, s. 15.)

§ 34-16. Commitment to Veterans' Administration, etc., for care or treatment. (1) Whenever, in any proceeding under the laws of this state for the commitment of a person alleged to be of unsound mind or otherwise in need of confinement in a hospital or other institution for his proper care, it is determined after such adjudication of the status of such person as may be required by law that commitment to a hospital for mental disease or other institution is necessary for safekeeping or treatment and it appears that such person is eligible for care or treatment by the Veterans' Administration or other agency of the United States government, the court, upon receipt of a certificate from the Veterans' Administration or such other agency showing that facilities are available and that such person is eligible for care or treatment therein, may commit such person to said Veterans' Administration or other agency. The person whose commitment is sought shall be personally served with notice of the pending commitment proceeding in the manner as provided by the law of this state; and nothing in this section shall affect his right to appear and be heard in the proceedings. Upon commitment, such person, when admitted to any facility operated by any such agency within or without this state shall be subject to the rules and regulations of the Veterans' Administration or other agency. The chief officer of any facility of the Veterans' Administration or institution operated by any other agency of the United States to which the person is so committed shall, with respect to such person, be vested with the same powers as superintendents of state hospitals for mental diseases within this state with respect to retention of custody, transfer, parole or discharge. Jurisdiction is retained in the committing or other appropriate court of this state at any time to inquire into the mental condition of the person so committed, and to determine the necessity for continuance of his restraint, and all commitments pursuant to this section are so conditioned.

(2) The judgment or order of commitment by a court of competent jurisdiction of another state or of the District of Columbia, committing a person to the Veterans' Administration, or other agency of the United States government for care or treatment shall have the same force and effect as to the committed person while in this state as a final judgment from which is situs in the court entering the judgment or making the order of commitment, and the courts of the committing state, or of the District of Columbia, shall be deemed to have retained jurisdiction of the person so committed for the purpose of inquiring into the mental condition of such person, and of determining the necessity for continuance of his restraint; as is provided in subsection (1) of this section with respect to persons committed by the courts of this state. Consent is hereby given to the application of the law of the committing state or district in respect to the authority of the chief officer of any facility of the Veterans' Administration, or of any institution operated in this state by any other agency of the United States to retain custody, or transfer, parole or discharge the committed person.

(3) Upon receipt of a certificate of the Veterans' Administration or such other agency of the United States that facilities are available for the care or treatment of any person heretofore committed to any hospital for the insane or other institution in the care or treatment of persons similarly afflicted and that such person is eligible for care or treatment, the superintendent of the institution may cause the transfer of such person to the Veterans' Administration or other agency of the United States for care or treatment. Upon effecting any such transfer, the committing court or proper officer thereof shall be notified thereof by the transferring agency. No person shall be transferred to the Veterans' Administration or other agency of the United States if he be convicted of a felony or of any other offense, or if he has been acquitted of the offense solely on the ground of insanity, unless prior to transfer the court or other authority originally committing such person shall enter an order for such transfer after appropriate motion and hearing.

Any person transferred as provided in this section shall be deemed to be committed to the Veterans' Administration or other agency of the United States pursuant to the original commitment. (1929, c. 33, s. 16; 1943, c. 492.)

ward for whom a guardian has been appointed under the provisions of this chapter or other laws of this state shall have attained his or her majority, and if incompetent shall be declared competent by the Bureau and the court, and when any incompetent ward, not a minor, shall be declared competent by said Bureau and the court, the guardian shall upon making a satisfactory accounting be discharged upon a petition filed for that purpose. (1929, c. 33, s. 17.)

§ 34-18. Construction of chapter.—This chapter shall be construed liberally to secure the beneficial intents and purposes thereof and shall apply only to beneficiaries of the Bureau. (1929, c. 33, s. 18.)

Art. 1. Inebriates.

§ 35-1. Inebriates defined. — Any person who habitually, whether continuously or periodically, indulges in the use of intoxicating liquors, narcotics or drugs to such an extent as to stupify his mind and to render him incompetent to transact ordinary business with safety to his estate, or who renders himself, by reason of the use of intoxicating liquors, narcotics or drugs, dangerous to himself or person or property, or who, by the frequent use of liquor, narcotics or drugs, renders himself cruel and intolerable to his family, or fails from such cause to provide his family with reasonable necessities of life, shall be deemed an inebriate:

Provided, the habit of so indulging in such use is at the time of inquisition of at least one year's standing. (Rev., s. 1892; Code, s. 1671; 1891, c. 15, s. 7; 1903, c. 543; 1879, c. 329; C. S. 2234.)

Art. 2. Guardianship and Management of Estates of Incompetents.

§ 35-2. Inquisition of lunacy; appointment of guardians. — Any person, in behalf of one who is deemed an idiot, inebriate, or lunatic, or incompetent from want of understanding to manage his mind and to render him incompetent to transact his own affairs by reason of the excessive use of intoxicating drinks, or other cause, may file a petition before the clerk of the superior court of the county where such supposed idiot, inebriate or lunatic resides, setting forth the facts, duly verified by the oath of the petitioner; whereupon such clerk shall issue an order, upon notice to the supposed idiot, inebriate or lunatic, to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to summon a jury of twelve men to inquire into the state of such supposed idiot, inebriate or lunatic. Upon the return of the sheriff summoning said jury, the clerk of the superior court shall swear and organize said jury and shall preside over said hearing, and the jury shall make return of their proceedings under their hand to the clerk, who shall file and record the same; and he shall proceed to appoint a guardian of any person so found to be an idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent person by inquisition of a jury, as in cases of orphans.

Either the applicant or the supposed idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent person may appeal from the finding of said jury to the next term of the superior court, when the matters at issue shall be regularly tried de novo before a jury, and pending such appeal, the clerk of the superior court shall not appoint a guardian for the said supposed idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent person, but the resident judge of the district, or the judge presiding in the district may in his discretion appoint a temporary receiver for the alleged incompetent pending the appeal. The trial of said appeal in the superior court shall have precedence over all other causes.

The jury shall make return of their proceedings under their hand to the clerk, who shall file and record the same; and he shall proceed to appoint a guardian of any person so found to be an idiot, inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent person by inquisition of a jury, as in cases of orphans.

The effect of this section is to provide that the proceedings in case of insanity of a citizen of another state, or of an alien, see § 122-64. As to service of summons upon an insane person, see § 1-97, et seq. As to bond required upon the finding of a jury of idiocy or lunacy; and later classes are "inebriates and those who are incompetent for want of understanding to manage their own affairs, by reason of the excessive use of intoxicating drinks or other cause." These additions were made originally in the Code of Civil Procedure, and have been brought forward in subsequent codes.

This section was amended in 1919, Acts 1919, ch. 54, and the right of appeal given to the parties. In 1921, Acts 1921, ch. 156, sec. 1, this section was again amended and the latter portion, regarding the commitment of incompetents to the State hospital, was added. The Act of 1929 added the changes to this section.

Public Laws 1913, c. 192, added the last two sentences abolishing advanced fees of sheriffs and juries.

The effect of this section is to provide that the proceeding may be commenced by the filing of the petition, and that the inquisition may be held upon the notice thereto provided being served upon the alleged incompetent, thereby dispensing with the necessity of issuing a summons. The notice to an incompetent to appear at the time and place named to present evidence and show cause, if any, why he should not be declared incompetent serves every function of a summons. In re Barker, 201 N. C. 617, 620, 188 S. E. 205.

General Consideration. — This section clearly makes four classes of persons for whom guardians may be appointed.
namely, idiots, lunatics, inebriates, and those who are incompetents from want of understanding to manage their own affairs, because of the excessive use of intoxicating drinks or other cause.

(1) An idiot or natural fool is one that has no understanding from his native understanding, but of whom the excessive use of intoxicating

(2) A lunatic one who has possessed reason, but through disease, grief, or other cause has lost it. The term is especially applicable to one who has lucid intervals and manifest control of the law; the recover his reason.

(3) An inebriate is defined in

(4) The fourth class of persons mentioned in this section must really be embraced under the head of lunatics, that is, those who are incompetent from want of understanding to manage their own affairs must be complete. As in lunacy, there must be a total privation of understanding; mere weakness of mind will not be sufficient to place a person in the relation of a lunatic. These four classes are not mentioned in the statute. In re Anderson, 132 N. C. 243, 246, 43 S. E. 649.

Distribution as to Jurisdiction.—The effect of this action has been to confer upon the clerks original and exclusive jurisdiction to issue writs from time to time, as may be necessary, for the purpose of ascertaining, by the inquisition of a jury, whether a party be an idiot or a lunatic, or if, having been found to be a lunatic, whether he has become of sound mind again; and to make all orders that may be necessary upon the return of the inquisition. After an idiot or lunatic has thus been found to be such, and put under guardianship of the court, he has only such jurisdiction over his estate, both real and personal, and has power to direct the sale of the same, or any part thereof, and to make all necessary orders for the application of the proceeds to the necessities of the idiot or lunatic and his family. Dowell v. Jacks, 58 N. C. 417, 419.

An affidavit filed in accordance with this section, concerning the alleged lunacy of a person, the subject of an inquisition of lunacy, is incompetent from want of understanding to manage his own affairs, because of the excessive use of intoxicating bricks or other cause. The order of commitment be without warrant of law, the Superior Court obtains jurisdiction upon appeal from the denial of the motion before the clerk to strike out the order, which motion expressly requested that the cause "be reinstated upon the docket." In re Dewey, 206 N. C. 714, 175 S. E. 161.

Presence of Party.—The alleged lunatic has a right to be present at the inquest, and if this right be denied him, it is good cause for setting aside the inquisition. But where an inquisition, taken by order of a court of competent jurisdiction, is returned by such court, it is to be respected like other judgments of a court, until it be reversed or superseded. Bethes v. McLennon, 23 N. C. 253, cited in note in 23 L. R. A. 742.

A finding of the jury that a person, the subject of an inquisition of lunacy, is incompetent from want of understanding to manage his own affairs is such as to require the clerk to appoint a guardian for him, whatever the cause may be, whether it be incompetency found in the inquisition or not. This is true even where the jury finds that the defendant is not a lunatic or idiot. In re Anderson, 132 N. C. 243, 43 S. E. 649. An inquisition of incompetency to understand is prima facie evidence of incompetency, and the certificates of the Regional Medical Officer of the United States Veterans' Bureau shall be all the proof required as to the incapacity of said veteran to receive such funds and to the necessity of a guardian. Guardians for such veterans shall be subject to the same provisions of law as guardians of idiots, inebriates, lunatic, and incompetent persons in this State.

Any guardian or trustee appointed prior to April 3, 1939, under the provisions of this section of certificate issued by the superintendent of any hospital licensed and supervised by the State of North Carolina, and any and all proceedings based thereon are hereby validated. (Rev. ss. 1891, 4609; Code, § 1927, c. 292; 1927, c. 160; 1930, c. 320; C. S. 2296).

Editor's Note.—The 1927 amendment added the latter part of the first paragraph relating to the appointment of guardians for World War Veterans. The 1939 amendment inserted after the word "Columbia" in the fifth line the words "or in any hospital for insane in this State or in any State, territorial or Governmental asylum or hospital for the insane in this State, or in any other state or territory, or in the District of Columbia, or in any hospital licensed and supervised by the State of North Carolina, the certificate of the superintendent of such hospital declaring such veteran to be insane, and memory, which certificate shall be sworn to and subscribed before the clerk of the Superior Court or any notary public, or the clerk of any court of record in the county, in which such hospital is situated and certified under the seal of court, shall be sufficient evidence to authorize to appoint a guardian for such idiot, lunatic or insane person.

Further, the clerks of the different counties of this State are also authorized to appoint guardians for any person entitled to the benefits of the World War Veterans' Act of nineteen hundred and twenty-four as amended, where it shall appear from the certificate of the Regional Medical Officer of the United States Veterans' Bureau of North Carolina that the disability or incompetency declared by the United States Government as incompetent to receive the funds to be paid to him under said Acts of Congress, and such certificate shall be all the proof required as to the incapacity of said veteran to receive such funds and as to the necessity of a guardian. Guardians for such veterans shall be subject to the same provisions of law as guardians of idiots, inebriates, lunatic, and incompetent persons in this State.

§ 35-3. Guardian appointed on certificate from hospital for insane.—If any person is confined in any State, territorial or Governmental asylum or hospital for the insane in this State, or in any other state or territory, or in the District of Columbia, or in any hospital licensed and supervised by the State of North Carolina, the certificate of the superintendent of such hospital declaring such veteran to be insane, and memory, which certificate shall be sworn to and subscribed before the clerk of the Superior Court or any notary public, or the clerk of any court of record in the county, in which such hospital is situated and certified under the seal of court, shall be sufficient evidence to authorize to appoint a guardian for such idiot, lunatic or insane person.

§ 35-4. Restoration to sanity or sobriety; effect; how determined.—When any insane person or inebriate becomes of sound mind and memory, or becomes competent to manage his property, he is authorized to manage, sell and control all his property in as full and ample a manner as he could do before he became insane or inebriate, and a petition in behalf of such person may be filed in the superior court of the county of his residence, or before the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein such person is confined or held; provided, however, that in all cases where a guardian has been appointed the cause of action shall be tried in the county where the guardianship is pending, and said guardian shall be made a party to such action before final determination thereof, setting forth the facts, duly verified by the oath of the petitioner. (This petition may be filed by the petitioner formally adjudged to be insane, lunatic, inebriate or incompetent; or by any friend or relative of said person; or by the guardian of said person), whereupon the clerk shall issue an order, upon notice to the person alleged to be no longer insane or inebriate, to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to summon a jury of six freeholders to inquire into the sanity of the alleged sane person, formerly a lunatic, or the sobriety of such alleged restored person, formerly an inebriate. The jury shall make return of their proceedings under their hands to the clerk, who shall file and record the same, and if the jury find that the person whose mental or physical condition inquired of is of sound mind and memory, or is no longer an inebriate, or the case may be, the said person is authorized to manage his affairs, make contracts and sell his property, both real and personal, as if he had never been insane or inebriate. (Rev., s. 1893; Code, s. 1672; 1901, c. 191; 1903, c. 80; 1879, c. 324, s. 4; 1937, c. 311; 1941, c. 145; C. S. 2287.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment inserted in this section the words appearing in parenthesis.

The 1941 amendment provided for filing the petition in the county where such guardianship is pending, and said guardian has been appointed, in which case the petition is to be filed in the county where such guardianship is pending. A commitment under this act may be brought before the judge at chambers or in term. Zewe v. Ware, 182 N. C. 555, 109 S. E. 568.

Removal of Guardian.—Ex parte proceedings to remove a guardian of an insane person, without notice to such guardian, are void. Sims v. Sims, 121 N. C. 297, 28 S. E. 407. See Rev. 486.

Constitutionality of Section.—The constitutional provision preserving the right to a trial by jury applies only to cases in which the prerogative existed at common law or by statute at the time the Constitution was adopted, and this section, requiring that only six freeholders be summoned to inquire into the sanity of the person alleged to be insane, is constitutional, not requiring a jury of twelve. Groves v. Ware, 182 N. C. 555, 109 S. E. 568.

Appeal.—Petitioner, who had been adjudged non compos mentis under section 35-2, filed this petition under this section, requiring that only six freeholders be summoned to inquire into the sanity of the person alleged to be insane, and the clerk's order was voided for the discharge of her guardian and the possession of her property. Upon the finding of the jury she was adjudged no longer insane and the prayers of her petition granted. Her guardian appealed to the superior court. It was held that the appeal should have been dismissed, since this section does not provide for appeal. Whether the clerk's order could be reviewed by the superior court pursuant to a writ of certiorari, and whether the clerk's order was void ab initio on the ground that the person adjudged insane cannot file a petition under this section, held not presented for decision, but semble, the clerk's order was voidable and not void, and it was error for the superior court to dismiss the proceeding. In re Sylviant, 212 N. C. 97, 191 S. E. 422.

A guardian of an incompetent may not appeal from the finding of the jury or the order of the clerk entered thereon declaring such person sane and competent in proceedings under this section, the court having no interest adverse to such declaration and there being no right of appeal given him by statute. In re Dry, 216 N. C. 427, 5 S. E. (2d) 142.

§ 35-5. Legal rights restored upon certificate of sanity by superintendent of hospital. — Any person who has been declared of unsound mind and memory by reason of the excessive use of intoxicating drink or other causes, and said person is the maker or one of the makers, a surety or one of the indorsers of any note, bond, or other obligation for the payment of money, which is due or past due at the time of the appointment of the guardian, or shall thereafter become due prior to the settlement of the estate of said ward, the guardian of said ward's estate is hereby authorized and empowered to execute, as such guardian, a new note, bond, or other obligation for the payment of money, in the same capacity as the ward was obligated, for the same amount or less, but not greater than the sum due on the original obligation. Such new note shall be in lieu of the original obligation of the ward, whether made payable to the original holder or to another. Such guardian is authorized and empowered to renew said note, bond, or other obligation for the payment of money from time to time; and said note, bond, or other obligation so executed and renewed shall be binding upon the estate of said ward to the same extent and in the same manner and with the same effect that the original bond, note, or other obligation executed by the ward was binding upon his estate: Provided, the time for final payment of the note, bond, or other obligation for the payment of money, or any renewal thereof by said guardian shall not extend beyond a period of two years from the qualification of the original guardian as such upon the estate of said ward. (1927, c. 45, s. 1.)

§ 35-9. Guardian not liable.—The execution of any note, bond or other obligation for the payment of money mentioned in § 35-8 by the guardian of the inebriate, lunatic, or incompetent, shall not be held or construed to be binding upon the said guardian personally. (1927, c. 45, s. 2.)

Art. 3. Sales of Estates. § 35-10. Clerk may order sale, renting or mortgage.—When it appears to any clerk of the superior court by report of the guardian of any idiot, inebriate, or lunatic, that his personal estate has been exhausted, or is insufficient for his support, and that he is likely to become chargeable on the county, the clerk may make an order for the sale, mortgage or renting of his personal or real estate, or any part thereof, in such manner and upon such terms as he may deem advisable. Such order shall specify particularly the property thus to be disposed of, with the terms of renting or sale or mortgage, and shall be entered at length on the records of the court; and all sales and rentals and conveyances by mortgages or deeds in trust made under this section shall be valid to convey the interest and estate directed to be sold or conveyed by mortgage or deed in trust, and the title thereof shall be conveyed by such person as the clerk may appoint on confirming the sale; or the clerk may direct the guardian to file his petition for such purpose. (Rev., s. 1896; Code, s. 1674; R. C. c. 57, s. 4; 1801, c. 589; 1931, c. 184, s. 1; C. S. 2891.)

Cross References.—See annotations under § 35-11. As to manner in which sales and rentals shall be made, see § 33-21 et seq., and § 33-31.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 amended this and § 35-11 to permit the mortgaging, under order of the Clerk of the Superior Court, of the personal or real estate of any idiot, inebriate, or lunatic in order that such incompetent may be adequately supported, his debts paid, or his property disposed of if such disposal be to his best interests. Under the former law the property could only be sold or rented. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 592.

Judicial Character of Sales.—Sales of real property of a lunatic in proceedings before the proper probate judge or clerk of the superior court of North Carolina acting as a probate court are judicial sales. Rexford v. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., 181 Fed. 462.

§ 35-11. Purposes for which estate sold or mortgaged; parties; disposition of proceeds.—When it appears to the clerk, upon the petition of the guardian of any idiot, inebriate, or lunatic, that a sale or mortgage of any part of his real or personal estate is necessary for his maintenance, or for the discharge of debts unavoidably incurred for his maintenance, or when the clerk is satisfied that the interest of the idiot, inebriate or lunatic would be materially and essentially promoted by the sale or mortgage of any part of such estate; or when any part of his real estate is required for public purposes, the clerk may order a sale thereof to be made by such person, in such way and on such terms as he shall adjudge. The clerk, if he be deemed proper, may direct to be made parties to such petition the next of kin or presumptive heirs of such nonsane person or inebriate. And if on the hearing the clerk orders such sale or mortgage, the same shall be made and the proceeds applied and secured, and shall descend and be distributed in such manner as is provided for the sale of infants' estates decreed in like cases to be sold on application of their guardians, as directed in the chapter entitled Guardian and Ward. The word "mortgage" whenever used herein shall be construed to include deeds in trust. (Rev., s. 1897; Code, s. 1675; R. C., c. 57, s. 5; 1931, c. 184, s. 2; C. S. 2892.)

Cross References.—As to sale of estates of wards generally, see § 33-31 et seq. As to release of lands condemned under the eminent domain, see § 40-22.

Jurisdiction of Superior Courts in Sale of Prior Debts.—The superior courts have jurisdiction to hear and determine an action instituted by a creditor of a lunatic for the recovery of a debt pre-existing the lunacy. Blake v. Respass, 77 N. C. 193.

Clerk Has No Power to Pay Prior Debts of Lunatic.—This section confers no power upon the clerk to provide for the payment of the debts of a lunatic contracted prior to the lunacy. Blake v. Respass, 77 N. C. 193.

How Property Sold for Pre-Existing Debt.—Property of a lunatic may be sold by the order of a committee of a court in its equitable jurisdiction, for the payment of pre-existing debts. Rexford v. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., 181 Fed. 462.

Sale of Lunatic's Contingent Interest.—This section does not confer jurisdiction on the clerks of courts to order the sale of contingent interests of lunatics, in lands; and suits to sell such interests, when the circumstances of the lunatic require it, should be determined in the superior court, in its equitable jurisdiction. Smith v. Witter, 174 N. C. 616, 94 S. E. 402.

Clerk's Jurisdiction Not Affected by Petition for Sale. The probate court having jurisdiction, it shall not be lawful for a petition for the allotment of a maintenance for a lunatic and his family to discharge debts unavoidably incurred for that purpose, or for the disaffirmance of a sale of real estate to provide a fund thereof, and also to make provisions for the care and preservation of the lunatic's estate, it was not ousted of jurisdiction because the guardian's petition also prayed for a sale to provide for the payment of pre-existing debts. Rexford v. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., 181 Fed. 462.

Title of Purchaser.—A purchaser of real property at a sale held by a lunatic's commissioner under a probate order is not chargeable with errors or irregularities in the proceedings; it is sufficient, if the court had jurisdiction of the parties and subject-matter, that the commissioner acted under a decree purporting to confer power of sale. Rexford v. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., 181 Fed. 462.

How Judgment against Lunatic Satisfied.—If the lunatic has property which cannot be reached by execution, or for which the execution has been in some way stayed, such property shall be distributed in like manner as is provided for the sale of infants' estates decreed in like cases to be sold on application of their guardians, as directed in the chapter entitled Guardian and Ward.

Sale of land of wife of lunatic upon petition.—When the wife of a lunatic owns real estate in her own right the sale which will promote her interest, a sale of the same may be made upon the order of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the land lies, under the petition of the wife of said lunatic and the guardian of the lunatic husband, and the proceeds of said sale shall be paid to the wife of said lunatic.

section not mandatory.—the remedies given by this section and sec. 52-5 are in the alternative, and optional by the wife as to which may be pursued. lancaster v. lancaster, 178 n. c. 22, 100 s. e. 120.

§ 35-13. mortgage or sale of estates held by the entireties; special proceeding before clerk.—in all cases where a husband and wife shall be seized of property as an estate by the entireties, and the wife or the husband or both shall be or become mentally incompetent to execute a conveyance of the estate so held, and the interest of said parties shall make it necessary or desirable that such property be mortgaged or sold, it shall be lawful for the mentally competent spouse and/or the guardian of the mentally incompetent spouse, and/or the guardians of both (where both are mentally incompetent) to file a petition with the clerk of the superior court in the county where the lands are located, setting forth all facts relative to the status of the owners, and showing the necessity or desirability of the sale or mortgage of said property, and the clerk, after first finding as a fact that either the husband or wife, or both, are mentally incompetent, shall have power to authorize the interested parties and/or their guardians to execute a mortgage, deed of trust, deed, or other conveyance of such property, provided it shall appear to said clerk's satisfaction that same is necessary or to the best advantage of the parties, and not prejudicial to the interest of the mentally incompetent spouse. (1935, c. 59, s. 1.)

editor's note.—for a complete analysis of this article, see 11 n. c. law rev. 376.

§ 35-15. general law applicable; approved by judge.—the proceedings herein provided for shall be conducted under and shall be governed by laws pertaining to special proceedings, and it shall be necessary for any sale or mortgage or other conveyance herein authorized to be approved by the resident judge or the judge holding the courts in the judicial district wherein the property is located. (1935, c. 59, s. 2.)

cross reference.—as to general law on special proceedings, see § 1-393 et seq.

§ 35-16. proceeding valid in passing title.—any mortgage, deed, or deed of trust executed under authority of this article by a regularly conducted special proceeding as provided shall have the force and effect of passing title to said property to the same extent as a deed executed jointly by husband and wife, where both are mentally capable of executing a conveyance. (1935, c. 59, s. 3.)

§ 35-17. clerk may direct application of funds; purchasers and mortgages protected.—in all cases conducted under this article it shall be competent for the court, in its discretion, to direct the application of funds arising from a sale or mortgage of such property in such manner as may appear necessary or expedient for the protection of the interest of the mentally incompetent spouse: Provided, however, this section shall not be construed as requiring a purchaser or any other party advancing money on the property to see to the proper application of such money, but such purchaser or other party shall acquire title unaffected by the provisions of this section. (1935, c. 59, s. 4.)

§ 35-18. prior sales and mortgages validated.—any and all special proceedings under which estates by the entireties have been sold or mortgaged prior to march 5, 1935, under circumstances contemplated in this article are hereby in all respects ratified and confirmed, provided that such proceeding or proceedings are otherwise regular and conformable to law. (1935, c. 59, s. 5.)

art. 5. surplus income and advancements.

§ 35-19. income of insane widowed mother used for children's support.—when a father dies leaving him surviving minor children and a widow who is the mother of such children, but leaving no sufficient estate for the support and maintenance of such minor children, and the mother is or becomes insane and is so declared according to law, and such insanity continues for twelve months thereafter, and she has an estate which is placed in the hands of a guardian or other person, as provided by law, the estate of such insane mother shall in such cases as are provided for in § 35-20 be made liable for the support, maintenance and education of the class of persons mentioned in said section to the same extent, in the same manner and under the same rules and regulations as applies to estates of fathers thereunder. (rev., s. 1899; 1905, c. 546; c. s. 2295.)

§ 35-20. advancement of surplus income to certain relatives.—when any nonsane person, of full age, and not having made a valid will, has children or grandchildren (such grandchildren being the issue of a deceased child), and is possessed of an estate, real or personal, whose annual income is more than sufficient abundantly and amply to support himself, and to support, maintain and educate the members of his family, with all the necessaries and suitable comforts of life, it is lawful for the clerk of the superior court for the county in which such person has his residence to order from time to time, and so often as may be judged expedient, that fit and proper advancements be made, out of the surplus of such income, to any such child, or grandchild, not being a member of his family and entitled to be supported, educated and maintained out of the estate of such person. Whenever any nonsane person of full age, not being married and not having issue, be possessed, or his guardian be possessed for him, of any estate, real or personal, or of an income which is more than sufficient amply to provide for such person, it shall be lawful for the clerk of the Superior Court for the county in which such person resided prior to insanity to order from time to time, and so often as he may deem expedient, that fit and proper advancements be made, out of the surplus of such estate or income, to him or her parents, brothers and sisters, or grandparents to whose support, prior to his insanity, he contributed in whole or in part. (Rev., s. 1900; Code, s. 1677; R. C., c. 57, s. 9; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 93; C. S. 2296.)

The evidence tended to show that petitioner is the sister of a World War veteran, that prior to the time he was drafted he gave her what assistance he could for her support, and that he sent her money after he was in the army, that he is unmarried and has no other dependents, that he became incurably insane and was placed in a government hospital where he is being taken care of without charge, that his guardian has on hand $22,046.81, representing payments on his War Risk Insurance, and that petitioner is destitute and without means of support. Held: The clerk of the superior court, with the approval of the resident judge or presiding judge, or the clerk, has the power, upon proper findings from the evidence, to order guardian to purchase a home in the name of the incompetent for the use of petitioner, and to advance petitioner a reasonable sum monthly for her support. Patrick v. Branch Bkg., etc., 236 N. C. 525, 5 S. E. (2d) 724.

§ 35-21. Advancement to adult child or grandchild.—When such nonsane person is possessed of a real or personal estate in excess of an amount more than sufficient to abundantly and amply support himself with all the necessaries and suitable comforts of life and has no minor children nor immediate family dependent upon him for support, education or maintenance, such advancements may be made out of such excess of the principal of his estate to such child or grandchild of age for the better promotion or advancement in life or in business of such child or grandchild: Provided, that the order for such advancement shall be approved by the resident or presiding judge of the district who shall find the facts in said order of approval. (1935, c. 136, s. 1.)

§ 35-22. For what purpose and to whom advanced. — Such advancements shall be ordered only for the better promotion in life of such as are of age, or married, and for the maintenance, support and education of such as are under the age of twenty-one years and unmarried; and in all cases the sums ordered shall be paid to such persons as, in the opinion of the clerk, will most effectually execute the purpose of the advancement. (Rev., s. 1901; Code, s. 1678; R. C., c. 57, s. 10; C. S. 2297.)

§ 35-26. Advancements to be secured against waste.—It is the duty of the clerk to withhold advancements from such persons as will probably waste them, or so to secure the same, when they may have families, that it may be applied to their support and comfort; but any sum so advanced shall be regarded as an advancement to such persons. (Rev., s. 1905; Code, s. 1682; R. C., c. 57, s. 14; C. S. 2301.)

§ 35-27. Appeal; removal to superior court.—Any person made a party may appeal from any order of the clerk; or may, when the pleadings are finished, require that all further proceedings shall be had in the superior court. (Rev., s. 1906; Code, s. 1683; R. C., c. 57, s. 15; C. S. 2302.)

§ 35-28. Advancements only when insanity permanent. — No such advancement shall be allowed under this chapter but in cases of such permanent and continued insanity as that the nonsane person shall be judged by the nonsane person as to be incapable, notwithstanding any lucid intervals, to make advancements with prudence and discretion. (Rev., s. 1907; Code, s. 1684; R. C., c. 57, s. 16; C. S. 2303.)

§ 35-29. Decrees suspended upon restoration of sanity.—Upon such insane person being restored to sanity, every order made for advancements shall cease to be further executed, and his estate shall be discharged of the same. (Rev., s. 1908; Code, s. 1685; R. C., c. 57, s. 17; C. S. 2304.)

Art. 6. Detention, Treatment, and Cure of Inebriates.

§ 35-30. "Inebriate" defined.—For the purposes of this article, the word "inebriate" is defined to be a person habitually so addicted to alcoholic drinks or narcotic drugs as to be a proper subject for restraint, care, and treatment. (1921, c. 156, s. 2; C. S. 2304(a).)

§ 35-31. Petition for examination; warrant for hearing; action without petition; evidence.—Upon petition of any two of the following persons, to-wit, the wife, husband, parent, child, committee of the estate of an inebriate, or next friends of such person, or, if there be no such persons, then of two citizens of the county wherein the alleged inebriate resides, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the said alleged inebriate resides shall issue his warrant requiring the inebriate, on
The petition shall not be considered unless it sets forth that the person named therein is an inebriate within the scope of this article, and unless it be accompanied by the affidavits or affidavit of at least two reputable physicians, stating that they have examined the alleged inebriate, and that he is a proper subject for restraint, care, and treatment, or the clerk may, on his own initiative, where he has information and reasonable grounds to believe that a particular person is an inebriate and is a fit subject for restraint, care, and treatment, cause such person to be brought before him and proceed to hear and try the question of whether or not he is an inebriate within the definition of § 35-30. If two reputable physicians shall certify before him that such person is an inebriate, he may commit such an inebriate as herein provided to the department of the state hospital at Raleigh for the care and treatment of such inebriate. (1921, c. 156, s. 3; 1941, c. 226; C. S. 2304(b).)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment rewrote the first sentence of this section so as to permit the petition to be filed by any two citizens in the absence of those specified.

—If after such hearing the clerk is satisfied that the alleged inebriate is a proper subject for restraint, care, and treatment, he shall commit the inebriate to the department for inebriates at the state hospital in Raleigh, where he shall be treated, subject to the same rules and regulations as provided for the treatment and care of curable insane persons, and he shall be discharged therefrom under the same rules and regulations. (1921, c. 156, s. 4; C. S. 2304(c).)

§ 35-33. Inquiry as to estate of inebriate; minors; costs; expenses.—After the clerk shall determine that an inebriate is a fit subject to be committed to the department for inebriates as aforesaid, he shall go further and inquire as to whether said inebriate is indigent or not in such way that he has not in his own right sufficient estate or property to bear the cost and expense of his restraint, care, and treatment while in the institution. If he is so indigent, then he shall inquire further whether or not the petitioning wife or husband has sufficient estate to pay such costs. If the inebriate is a minor he shall determine whether his particular guardian or parent has sufficient estate of the inebriate or his own, if a parent, to pay such costs. In any of these instances, if sufficient estate or property is found to pay such costs, the clerk shall adjudge the payment from such estate, and in all cases, if the petitioning parent has property sufficient to pay, he shall be adjudged to pay costs of the treatment of his minor child. But if in none of these cases sufficient property is found to pay such costs and expenses, the inebriate shall be declared indigent and the actual cost and expense of restraint, care, and treatment of indigent inebriates as herein defined shall be borne and paid by the county from which the inebriate is committed: Provided, that there shall not be included in such cost and expense any charge except for board and clothing. (1921, c. 156, s. 5; C. S. 2304(d).)

§ 35-34. Inebriate submitting himself for treatment.—Any inebriate within the definition of § 35-30 who wishes to submit himself for care and treatment in the department for inebriates at the state hospital in Raleigh, may be received therein as a patient upon his presentation of himself personally at the institution and making arrangements with the superintendent for the actual cost of his detention and treatment. He shall signify his desire in writing, and promise therein to submit himself to the rules and regulations for the government of the institution. When this is done he shall be detained therein and given adequate care and attention. After he has been so detained for thirty days he may secure his release and discharge by ten days notice in writing to the superintendent, or to any one of the assistant physicians in charge of such institution: Provided, said physician or physicians are satisfied that said inebriate has sufficiently recovered to return to his home and not become a menace or charge to society. (1921, c. 156, s. 6; C. S. 2304(e).)

§ 35-35. Department for inebriates. — It shall be the duty of trustees and superintendent of the state hospital at Raleigh to set apart a department for such inebriates on or before the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two: Provided that, if in the course of care and treatment of said inebriates it develops that they have criminal, mental, or other symptoms indicating they can not be properly taken care of in this department, the superintendent of the hospital is hereby authorized to transfer such patients to any other department under his care, that, in his opinion, the circumstances may justify. (1921, c. 156, s. 7; 1933, c. 341; C. S. 2304(f).)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 341, added the proviso relating to inebriates in the state hospital at Raleigh.

Art. 7. Sterilization of Persons Mentally Defective.

§ 35-36. State institutions authorized to sterilize mental defectives.—The governing body or responsible head of any penal or charitable institution supported wholly or in part by the state of North Carolina, or any subdivision thereof, is hereby authorized and directed to have the sterilization performed upon any mentally diseased, feebleminded or epileptic inmate or patient thereof, as may be considered best in the interest of the mental, moral, or physical improvement of the patient or inmate, or for the public good: Provided, however, that no operation described in this section shall be lawful unless and until the provisions of this article shall first be complied with. (1933, c. 224, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 254, for full review of this and following sections.

Constitutionality.—The Act of 1929, c. 34, entitled, "an act to provide for the sterilization of the mentally defective and feebleminded inmates of charitable and penal institutions of the state of North Carolina," was held unconstitutional, being in violation of the provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment, § 1, of the Constitution of the United States, and of the State Constitution, Art. I, § 17, there being no provision in the statute giving a person ordered to be sterilized notice and a hearing or afforded an opportunity to appeal to the courts. Brewer v. Valk, 204 N. C. 186, 167 S. E. 638. The defect does not exist in the present statute. See § 35-46.

§ 35-37. Operations on mental defectives not in institutions.—It shall be the duty of the board of commissioners of any county of North Carolina, at the public cost and expense, one of the operations described in § 35-35, performed upon any mentally diseased, feeble-minded or epileptic resident of the county, not an inmate of any public institution, upon the request and petition of the superintendent of public welfare or other similar public official performing in whole or in part the functions of such superintendent, or of the next of kin, or the legal guardian of such mentally defective person: Provided, however, that no operation described in this section shall be lawful unless and until the provisions of this article shall be first complied with. (1933, c. 224, s. 2.)

§ 35-38. Restrictions on such operations.—No operation under this article shall be performed by other than a duly qualified and registered North Carolina physician or surgeon, and by him only upon a written order signed after complete compliance with the procedure outlined in this article by the responsible executive head of the institution or board, or the superintendent of public welfare, or other similar official performing in whole or in part the functions of such superintendent, or the next of kin or legal guardian having custody of the feebleminded, mentally defective or epileptic inmate, patient or non-institutional individual. (1933, c. 224, s. 3.)

§ 35-39. Prosecutors designated; duties.—If the person upon whom the operation is to be performed is an inmate or patient of one of the institutions mentioned in § 35-36, the executive head of such institution or his duly authorized agent shall act as prosecutor of the case. The county superintendent of public welfare may act as prosecutor or petitioner in instituting sterilization proceedings in the case of any feeble-minded, epileptic, or mentally diseased person who is on parole from a state institution, and in the case of any such person who is an inmate of a state institution, when authorized to do so by the superintendent of such institution. If the person upon whom the operation is to be performed is an inmate or patient of a charitable or penal institution supported by the county, the executive head of such institution or his duly authorized agent, or the county superintendent of welfare or such other official performing in whole or in part the functions of such superintendent of the county in which such county institution is situated, shall act as petitioner in instituting proceedings before the eugenics board. If the person to be operated upon is not an inmate of any such public institution, then the superintendent of welfare or such other official performing in whole or in part the functions of such superintendent of the county of which said inmate, patient, or non-institutional individual is to be sterilized is a resident, shall be the prosecutor. It shall be the duty of such prosecutor promptly to institute proceedings as provided by this article in any or all of the following circumstances:

1. When in his opinion it is for the best interest of the mental, moral or physical improvement of the patient, inmate, or non-institutional individual to be operated upon, to procreate a child or children who would have a tendency to serious physical, mental, or nervous disease or deficiency.

2. When in his opinion it is for the public good that such patient, inmate or non-institutional individual be operated upon.

3. When in his opinion such patient, inmate, or non-institutional individual would be likely, unless operated upon, to procreate a child or children who would have a tendency to serious physical, mental, or nervous disease or deficiency.

4. When requested to do so in writing by the next of kin or legal guardian of such patient, inmate or non-institutional individual.

5. In all cases as provided for in § 35-35. (1933, c. 224, s. 4; 1935, c. 463, s. 1; 1937, c. 243.)

Cross Reference.—As to necessity of sterilization of one adjudged insane before issuance of marriage license, see § 51-12.

Editor's Note.—The 1935 amendment inserted the third sentence of this section, and the 1937 amendment inserted the second sentence.

§ 35-40. Eugenics board of N. C. created.—There is hereby created the eugenics board of North Carolina. All proceedings under this article shall be begun before the said eugenics board. This board shall consist of five members and shall be composed of: (1) the commissioner of public welfare of North Carolina, (2) the secretary of the state board of health of North Carolina, (3) the chief medical officer of an institution for the feebleminded or insane of the state of North Carolina, not located in Raleigh, (4) the chief medical officer of the state hospital at Raleigh, (5) the attorney general of the state of North Carolina. Any one of these officials may for the purpose of a single hearing delegate his power to act as a member of said board to an assistant: Provided, said delegation is made in writing, to be included as a part of the permanent record in said case. The said board shall from time to time elect a chairman from its own membership and adopt and from time to time modify rules governing the conduct of proceedings before it, and from time to time select the member of the said board designated above as the chief medical officer of an institution for the feebleminded or insane of the state of North Carolina not located in Raleigh. (1933, c. 224, s. 5.)

§ 35-41. Quarterly meetings. — The board of eugenics shall meet at least quarterly in each year in Raleigh for the purpose of hearing all cases that may be brought before it and shall continue in session with appropriate adjournments until all current applications and other pending business have been disposed of. The members shall receive no additional compensation for their services. (1933, c. 224, s. 6.)

§ 35-42. Secretary of board and duties.—The board shall appoint a secretary not a member of the board who shall conduct the business of the board between the times of the regular meetings. Such secretary shall receive all petitions, keep the records, call meetings, and in general act as the executive of said board in such matters as may be delegated to him by said board. (1933, c. 224, s. 7.)

§ 35-43. Proceedings before board. — Proceedings under this article shall be instituted by the petition of said petitioner to the eugenics board. Such petition shall be in writing, signed by the petitioner and duly verified by his affidavit to the best of his knowledge and belief. It shall set forth the facts of the case and the grounds of his opinion. The petition shall also contain a statement of the mental and physical status of the patient verified by the affidavit of at least one physi-or can by reasonable investigation be learned by said prosecutor, they or either of them, as the case may be, shall be served likewise with a copy of said petition and notice and shall be entitled to at least fifteen days' notice of the said hearing: Provided, That the procedure described in this section shall not be necessary in the case of any operation for sterilization or asexualization provided for in this article if the parent, legal or natural guardian, or spouse or next of kin of the inmate, patient or non-institutional individual shall submit to the superintendent of the institution of which the subject is a patient or inmate or to the superintendent of public welfare of the county in which the subject is residing, regardless of whether the subject is a legal resident of such county, a duly witnessed petition requesting that sterilization or asexualization be performed upon said inmate, patient or non-institutional individual, provided the other provisions of this article are complied with. Any operation authorized in accordance with this proviso may be performed immediately upon receipt of the authorization from the eugenics board. (1933, c. 224, s. 9; 1933, c.

463, ss. 3, 6.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1935, chapter 463, section 6 added the proviso at the end of this section. Section 3 of the same act added the last sentence to the first paragraph.

§ 35-45. Consideration of matter by board.—
The said board at the time and place named in said notice, with such reasonable continuances from time to time and from place to place as the said board may determine, shall proceed to hear and consider the said petition and evidence offered in support of and against the same:
Provided, that the said board shall give opportunity to said inmate, patient or individual resident to attend the said hearings in person if desired by him or if requested by his guardian or next of kin, or the solicitor.

The said board may receive and consider as evidence at the said hearings the commitment papers and other records of the said inmate or patient with or in any of the aforesaid institutions as certified by the superintendent or executive official, together with such other evidence as may be offered by any party to the proceedings.

Any member of the said board shall have power for the purposes of this article to administer oaths to any witnesses at such hearing.

Depositions may be taken, as in other civil cases, by any party after due notice and read in evidence, if otherwise pertinent.

Any party to the said proceedings shall have the right to be represented by counsel at such hearings.

A stenographic transcript of the proceedings at such hearings duly certified by the petitioner and the inmate, patient or individual resident, or his guardian or next of kin, or the solicitor, shall be made and preserved as part of the records of the case. (1933, c. 224, s. 10.)

§ 35-46. Board may deny or approve petition.—The said board may deny the prayer of the said petition or if, in the judgment of the board, the case falls within the intent and meaning of one or more of the circumstances mentioned in § 35-39, and an operation of asexualization or sterilization seems to said board to be for the best interest of the mental, moral or physical improvement of the said patient, inmate or individual resident or for the public good, it shall be the duty of the board to approve said recommendation in whole or in part or to make such order as under all the circumstances of the case may seem appropriate, within fifteen days after the conclusion of said hearings, and to send to the prosecutor a written order, signed by at least three members of the board, directing him to proceed with the operation as provided in this article. Said order shall contain the name of the specific operation which is to be performed and the date when said operation is to be performed.

If the board disapproves the petition, the case may not be brought up again except on the request of the inmate, patient, or individual resident, or his guardian, or one or more of his next of kin, husband, wife, father, mother, brother, or sister, until one year has elapsed.

Nothing in this article shall be construed to empower or authorize the board to interfere in any manner with the right of the patient, inmate, or individual resident, or his guardian or next of kin to select a competent physician of his own choice for consultation or operation at his own expense. (1933, c. 224, s. 11.)

§ 35-47. Orders may be sent parties by registered mail; consenting to operation.—Any order granting the prayer of the petition, in whole or in part, may be delivered to the petitioner by registered mail, return receipt demanded, to all parties in the case, including the legal guardian, the solicitor and the next of kin of the inmate, patient, or individual resident. It shall be the duty of the said guardian, the solicitor and the next of kin to protect by such measures as may seem to them in their sole discretion sufficient and appropriate the rights and best interests of the said inmate, patient, or individual resident.

If the inmate, patient or individual resident, or the next of kin, legal guardian, solicitor of the county, and guardian appointed as herein provided, shall not before, shall consent in writing to the operation as ordered by the board, such operation shall take place at such time as the said prosecutor petitioning shall designate. (1933, c. 224, s. 12.)

§ 35-48. Right of appeal to superior court.—If it appears to the inmate, patient or individual resident, or to his or her representative, guardian, parent or next of kin, or to the solicitor, that the proceedings taken are not in accordance with the law, or that the reasons given for asexaualization or sterilization are not adequate or well founded, or for any other reason the order is not legal, or is not legal as applied to this inmate, patient or individual resident, he or she may within fifteen days from the date of such order have an appeal of right to the superior court of the county in which said inmate or patient resided prior to admission to the institution, or to the county in which the non-institutional individual resides. This appeal may be taken by giving notice in writing to any member of the board and to the other parties to the proceeding, including the doctor who is designated to perform the said operation. Upon the giving of this notice the petitioner within fifteen days thereafter shall cause a copy of the petition, notice, evidence and orders of the said board certified by any member thereof to be sent to the clerk of the said court, who shall file the same and docket the appeal to be heard and determined by the said court as soon thereafter as may be practicable.

The presiding judge of said superior court may hear the appeal upon affidavit or oral evidence and in determining such an appeal may consider the record of the proceedings before the eugenics board, including the evidence therein appearing together with such other legal evidence as may be offered to the said judge by any party to the appeal. In hearing such an appeal the general public may be excluded and only such persons admitted thereto as have direct interest in the case.

Upon such appeal the said superior court may affirm, revise, or reverse the orders of the said board appealed from and may enter such order as it deems just and right and which it shall certify to the said board. The pendency of such appeal shall automatically, and without more, stay proceedings under the order of the said board until the appeal be completely determined. Should the decision of the superior court uphold the plaintiff’s objection, such decision unless appealed from will annul the order of the board to proceed with the operation, and the matter may not be brought up again until one year has elapsed except by the consent of the plaintiff or his next of kin, or his legal representatives. Should the court affirm the order of the board, then, if no notice of appeal to the supreme court is filed within ten days after such decision, said board’s recommendation as affirmed shall be put into effect at a time fixed by the original prosecutor or his successor in office and the inmate, patient or individual shall be asexualized or sterilized as provided in this article.

In this appeal the person for whom an order of asexualization or sterilization has been issued shall be designated as the plaintiff, and the prosecutor presenting the original petition shall be designated as defendant. (1933, c. 224, s. 13; 1935, c. 463, s. 4.)

Cross Reference.—See note to § 35-36.

Editor’s Note.—The second paragraph of this section was changed by the 1935 amendment. The amendment also inserted in the second sentence of the fourth paragraph the words “unless appealed from.”

§ 35-49. Appeal costs.—The cost of appeal, if any, to the superior or higher courts, shall be taxed as in civil cases. If the case is finally determined in favor of the plaintiff, the costs shall be paid by the county. (1933, c. 224, s. 14; 1935, c. 463, s. 5.)

Editor’s Note.—The amendment of 1935 omitted the paragraph of this section which provided that the record before the board was conclusive as to facts.

§ 35-50. Appeal to supreme court.—Any party to such appeal to the superior court may, within ten days after the date of the final order therein, apply for an appeal to the supreme court, which shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine the same upon the record of the proceedings in the superior court and to enter such order as it may find the superior court should have entered.

The pendency of an appeal in the supreme court shall operate as a stay of proceedings un-§ 35-51. Civil or criminal liability of parties limited. Neither the said petitioner nor any other person legally participating in the execution of the provisions of this article shall be liable, either civilly or criminally, on account of such participation, except in case of negligence in the performance of said operation. (1933, c. 224, s. 16.)

§ 35-52. Necessary medical treatment unaffected by article.—Nothing contained in this article shall be construed so as to prevent the medical or surgical treatment for sound therapeutic reasons of any person in this state, by a physician or surgeon licensed in this state, which treatment may incidentally involve the nullification or destruction of the reproductive functions. (1933, c. 224, s. 17.)

§ 35-53. Permanent records of proceedings before board.—Records in all cases arising under this article shall be filed permanently with the secretary of the said eugenics board. Such records shall not be open to public inspection except for such purposes as the court may from time to time approve. (1933, c. 224, s. 18.)

§ 35-54. Construction of terms.—Where the inmates, patients, or non-institutional individuals are referred to in this article as of the masculine or feminine gender, the same shall be construed to include the feminine or masculine gender as well. Wherever the term individual resident appears in this article, it shall be construed to mean non-institutional individual. (1933, c. 224, s. 19.)

§ 35-55. Discharge of patient from institution.—Before any inmate or patient designated in §§ 35-36 and 35-39, shall be released, paroled or discharged, it shall be the duty of the governing body or responsible head of any institution above mentioned to comply with the procedure set out in this article, whenever a written request for the institutionalization or sterilization of said inmate or patient is filed with the governing body or responsible head of the institution in which such inmate or patient has been legally confined. This written request may be made by any public official or by the legal guardian or next of kin of any inmate or patient not later than thirty days prior to the date of said parole or discharge. Upon the receipt of the signed approval of the eugenics board as described in this article, it shall be the duty of said governing board or responsible head to issue an order for the performance of the operation upon said inmate or patient, and the operation must be performed before the release, parole or discharge of any such inmate or patient. (1933, c. 224, s. 20.)

§ 35-57. Temporary admission to state hospitals for sterilization.—Any feeble-minded, epileptic, or mentally diseased person, for whom the eugenics board of North Carolina has authorized sterilization, may be admitted to the appropriate state hospital for the performance of such operation. The order of the eugenics board authorizing a surgeon on the regular or consulting staff of the hospital to perform the operation will be sufficient authority to the superintendent of such hospital to receive, restrain, and control the patient until such time as it is deemed wise to release such patient. All such admissions shall be at the discretion of the superintendent of the state hospital, and in making any agreement with any county or state institution to perform such operations, the state hospital may collect a fee which shall not be greater than the cost of such operation and the cost of care and maintenance for the duration of the operation and the time required for the patient to recuperate.

The order of the eugenics board and the agreement of the person or persons referred to in this article, whenever a written request for the admission of such patient has been made in accordance with the provisions of this article, to admit such patient shall be full and sufficient authority for the prosecutor or the sheriff of the county to deliver such patient to the proper state hospital. (1937, c. 221.)

Art. 8. Temporary Care and Restraint of Inebriates, Drug Addicts and Persons Insane.

§ 35-58. Hospitals and sanatoriums may restrain and treat alcohol and drug addicts.—The superintendent, manager, or owner of any public or private hospital, sanatorium, or institution, upon the written request of two duly licensed physicians, not connected with any hospital, public or private, and the husband, wife, guardian, or in the case of an unmarried person having no guardian, by some one of the next of kin, may receive, care for and restrain in such hospital, sanatorium, or institution, as a patient, for a period not exceeding twenty days, any alcoholic or drug addict, or any person needing immediate care and treatment because such person has become addicted to the intemperate use of narcotics, hypnotic drugs or alcoholic drinks, to such an extent that he has lost the power of self control. Such request for the admission of such patient shall be in writing and filed at such hospital, sanatorium, or institution, at the time of the reception of such patient, or within twenty-four hours thereafter, and such written request shall be held and considered as a commitment of such patient to the said hospital, sanatorium, or institution, for a period of not exceeding twenty days. The superintendent, manager, or owner of such hospital, sanatorium, or institution shall not detain or restrain any person received as above provided for more than twenty days and shall not be liable in damages to such person or his personal representative or guardian on account of such restraint: Provided, the same is exercised and administered in a humane manner, without violence or personal injury. (1933, c. 213, s. 1.)

§ 35-59. Use of restraining devices limited. — No restraint in the form of muffs or mitts with lock buckles, or waist straps, wristlets, anklelets, or camisoles, head-straps, protection sheets or simple sheets when used for restraint or other device interfering with freedom shall be imposed upon any patient in such hospital, sanatorium, or institution, unless applied in the presence of the superintendent, or of the physician, or of an as-

States are responsible, farm loan bonds issued by Federal land banks, or in bonds of the state of North Carolina issued since the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two; or in drainage bonds duly issued under the provisions of article 8 of chapter entitled Drainage; and in settlements by guardians, executors, administrators, trustees, and others acting in a fiduciary capacity, such bonds or other securities of the United States, and such bonds of the state of North Carolina, and such drainage bonds, shall be deemed cash to the amount actually paid for same, including the premium, if any, paid for such bonds or other securities, and may be invested as such by the transfer thereof to the persons entitled. (Rev., s. 1792; Code, s. 1594; 1870-1, c. 197; 1885, c. 389; 1917, c. 6, s. 9; 1917, c. 67, s. 1; 1917, c. 152, s. 7; 1917, c. 191, s. 1; 1917, c. 269, s. 5; C. S. 4018.)

§ 36-2. Investment of trust funds in county, city, town, or school district bonds.—Guardians, executors, administrators, trustees, and others acting in a fiduciary capacity, are authorized to invest funds in their hands as such fiduciaries in bonds issued by any county, city, town or school district, of the state of North Carolina subsequent to January first, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, provided that the net debt of such county, city, town or school district does not exceed ten (10%) per cent of the assessed valuation of the property therein subject to taxation for the payment of such bonds, in the same manner, to the same extent and with the same legal consequence as fiduciaries are now authorized to invest such funds in bonds of the state of North Carolina under the provisions of § 36-1. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 63; 1931, c. 257; C. S. 4018(a).)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 made this section applicable to city, town and school district bonds.

§ 36-3. Investment in building and loan and federal savings and loan associations.—Guardians, executors, administrators, clerks of the superior court and others acting in a fiduciary capacity may invest funds in their hands as such fiduciaries in stock of any building and loan association organized and licensed under the laws of this state: Provided, that no such funds may be so invested unless and until authorized by the insurance commissioner. Provided further, that such funds may be invested in stock of any federal savings and loan association organized under the laws of the United States, upon approval of an officer of the Home Loan Bank at Winston-Salem, or such other governmental agency as may hereafter have supervision of such associations. (1933, c. 549, s. 1; 1937, c. 14.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added the second proviso.

§ 36-4. Investment in registered securities.—Any guardian having in hand surplus funds belonging to a minor ward may, if he so elects, invest the same in registered securities within the classes designated by §§ 36-1 and 36-2, the registration of said securities as to principal only to be in the name of said minor ward.

Upon delivery of such registered securities to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the estate of said minor ward is being administered, said clerk of the superior court shall give said guardian a receipt for the same and said clerk of the superior court shall thereafter hold said securities for said ward, subject only to final disposition thereof to be approved by the resident judge or presiding judge of the superior court: Provided, however, all income accruing therefrom shall be paid to said guardian in the same manner and for the same purposes as the any other income of said estate derived from other sources.

Whenever any guardian shall have delivered to the clerk of the superior court registered securities as hereinbefore provided, he shall be entitled to credit in his account as guardian for the amount actually expended for such securities, and his bond as such guardian shall thereupon be reduced in an amount equal in proportion to the total amount of the bond as the funds expended for the securities are to the total amount of the estate covered by such bond. (1933, c. 449; 1943, c. 96.)

Local Modification.—Craven: 1935, c. 449.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1943 amendment the latter part of the third paragraph read as follows: "in an amount equal to twice the amount of the funds actually invested in said securities." As to effect of section, see 13 N. C. Law Rev. 386.

§ 36-4.1. Investment in life, endowment or annuity contracts of legal reserve life insurance companies.—(1) Executors, administrators c. t. a., trustees and guardians legally holding funds or assets belonging to, or for the benefit of, minors or others may, upon petition filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said fiduciary has qualified, be authorized by an order of such clerk of superior court and approved by either the resident judge or a judge of the superior court at term time, to invest such funds or assets, or part thereof, in single premium life, endowment or annuity contracts; any such fiduciaries may be authorized by order of the clerk of the superior court, upon approval by the judge as above provided, to invest the earnings, or part thereof, of such trust funds or assets, without encroaching upon the principal, in any annual premium life, endowment or annuity contracts of legal reserve life insurance companies duly licensed and qualified to transact business within the state: Provided, that where any such annual premium contract has been purchased as herein authorized any such fiduciary may, upon authorization of the clerk of the superior court and approval of the judge as above specified, encroach upon and use the principal of such trust funds or assets in order to pay subsequent premiums and thereby prevent a lapsation or forfeiture of any such insurance contract purchased pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(2) Such contracts may be issued on the life, or lives, of a ward, or wards, and beneficiary, or beneficiaries of a trust fund, or upon the life of any person in whose life the said ward or beneficiary has an insurable interest, and shall be so drawn by the insuring company, that the proceeds or avails thereof shall be the sole property of the person, or persons whose funds are invested therein. Such contracts may not be purchased from any such company for which such executor, administrator c. t. a., guardian or trustee is acting as agent, or receives any commission, or part of any commission, directly or indirectly paid by such company to its agent soliciting and/or selling such contract.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, no insurance contracts as specified in subsection (1) may be purchased by any executor, administrator, c. t. a., trustee, or guardian if the trust agreement or other instrument, if any, under which such fiduciary has qualified and is acting provides otherwise. (1943, c. 473, ss. 1-3.)

§ 36-5. Trust funds deposited at trustee’s risk.—
No provision in any charter or certificate of organization of any corporation permitting deposits therein by any guardian, executor or other trustee or fiduciary, or by any county, bonded or other officer, shall operate or be construed to relieve or discharge them, or either of them, from official responsibility, or to relieve them, or either of them, or their sureties, from liability on their official bonds. (Rev., s. 1793; 1889, c. 470; C. S. 4019.)

Cross Reference.—As to deposit of trust funds, see §§ 32-8 to 32-11.

Art. 2. Removal of Trust Funds from State.

§ 36-6. Proceeding to remove trust funds of nonresidents.—When any personal estate in this state is vested in a trustee resident therein, and those having the beneficial interest in the said estate are nonresidents of this state, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the said trustee resides may, on a petition filed for that purpose, order him or his personal representative to pay, transfer, and deliver the said estate, or any part of it, to a nonresident trustee appointed by some court of record in the state in which the said beneficiary or beneficiaries reside. No such order of any clerk shall be valid and in force until approved by the resident judge of said judicial district, or the judge holding court in such district. (1911, c. 161, s. 1; C. S. 4020.)

Cross Reference.—As to guardian’s right to remove ward’s personalty from the state, see § 33-48.

§ 36-7. Removal ordered on notice; bond of nonresident trustee.—No such order shall be made, in the case of a petition, until notice of the application shall have been given to all persons interested in such trust estate, as now required by law in other special proceedings, nor until the court shall be satisfied by authentic documentary evidence that the nonresident trustee, appointed as aforesaid, has given bond, with sufficient surety, for the faithful execution of the trust, nor until it is satisfied that the payment and removal of such estate out of the state will not prejudice the right of any person interested or to become interested therein. (1911, c. 161, s. 2; C. S. 4021.)

Cross References.—As to bond in surety company, see § 109-35 et seq. As to mortgage in lieu of bond, see § 109-24 et seq. As to cash deposit in lieu of bond, see § 109-32.

§ 36-8. Order of removal discharges resident trustee.—When any guardian or committee, trustee or other person in this state, shall pay over, transfer, or deliver any estate in his hands or vested in him, under any order or decree made in pursuance of this article, he shall be discharged from all responsibility therefor. (1911, c. 161, s. 3; C. S. 4023.)
§ 36-12. Resignation allowed; costs; judge's approval.—In making an order allowing the fiduciary to resign the clerk shall make such order concerning the costs of the proceedings and commissions to the fiduciary as may be just. If there is no appeal from the decision and order of the clerk within the time prescribed by law, the proceedings shall be submitted to the judge of the superior court and approved by him before the same become effective. (1911, c. 39, s. 3; C. S. 4026.)

§ 36-13. Appeal; stay effected by appeal.—Any party in interest may appeal from the decision of the clerk to the judge at chambers, and in such event the procedure shall be the same as in other special proceedings as now provided by law. If the clerk allows the resignation, and an appeal is taken from his decision, such appeal shall have the effect to stay the judgment and order of the clerk until the cause is heard and determined by the judge upon the appeal taken. (1911, c. 39, s. 4; C. S. 4027.)

§ 36-14. On appeal judge determines facts.—Upon an appeal taken from the clerk to the judge, the judge shall have the power to review the findings of fact made by the clerk and to find the facts or to take other evidence, but the facts found by the judge shall be final and conclusive upon any appeal to the supreme court. (1911, c. 39, s. 5; C. S. 4028.)

§ 36-15. Final accounting before resignation.—No executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary shall be allowed or permitted to resign his trust until he shall first file with the court his final account of the trust estate, and until the court shall be satisfied that the said account is true and correct. (1911, c. 39, s. 6; C. S. 4029.)

Cross References.—As to vouchers being presumptive evidence, see § 28-119. As to fee for auditing final accounts, see § 2-35.

§ 36-16. Resignation effective on settlement with successor.—In case the resignation of the fiduciary is accepted by the court, the same shall not go into effect, or release or discharge the fiduciary from liability, until he shall have accounted to his successor in full for all moneys, securities, property or other assets or things of value in his possession or under his control or which should be in his possession or under his control belonging to the trust estate. (1911, c. 39, s. 6; C. S. 4030.)

§ 36-17. Court to appoint successor; bond required.—If the court shall allow any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary to resign his trust upon compliance with the provisions of this article, it shall be the duty of the court to proceed to appoint some fit and suitable person as the successor of such executor, administrator, guardian, trustee or other fiduciary; and the court shall require the person so appointed to give bond with sufficient surety, approved by the court, in a sum double the value of the property to come into his hands, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties as such fiduciary and for the payment to the persons entitled to receive the same of all moneys, assets, or other things of value which may come into his hands. All bonds executed under the provisions of this article shall be filed with the clerk, and shall be recorded in his office in a book kept for that purpose. (1911, c. 39, s. 7; C. S. 4031.)

§ 36-18. Rights and duties devolve on successor.—Upon the acceptance by the court of the resignation of any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, or other fiduciary, and upon the appointment by court of his successor in the manner provided by this article, the substituted trustee shall succeed to all the rights, powers, and privileges, and shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities, and responsibilities that were imposed upon the original trustee. (1911, c. 39, s. 8; C. S. 4032.)

Art. 4. Charitable Trusts.

§ 36-19. Trustees to file accounts.—When real or personal property has been granted by deed, will, or otherwise, for such charitable purposes as are allowed by law, it shall be the duty of those to whom are confided the management of the property and the execution of the trust, to deliver in writing a full and particular account thereof to the clerk of the superior court of the county where the charity is to take effect, on the first Monday in February in each year, to be filed among the records of the court, and spread upon the record of accounts. (Rev., s. 3922; Code, s. 2342; R. C., c. 18, s. 1; 1832, c. 14, s. 4; 45 Eliz., c. 4; C. S. 4033.)

§ 36-20. Action for account; court to enforce trust.—If § 36-19 be not complied with, or there is reason to believe that the property has been mismanaged through negligence or fraud, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court to give notice thereof to the attorney-general or solicitor who represents the state in the superior court for that county; and it shall be his duty to bring an action in the name of the state against the grantees, executors, or trustees of the charitable fund, calling on them to render a full and minute account of their proceedings in relation to the administration of the fund and the execution of the trust. The attorney-general or solicitor may also, at the suggestion of two reputable citizens, commence an action as aforesaid; and, in either case, the court may make such order and decree as shall seem best calculated to enforce the performance of the trust. (Rev., s. 3923; Code, ss. 2343, 2344;
Trust Estate Is Not Forfeited.—The trustees of a charitable trust who violate the provisions of the trust are subject to the procedure prescribed by this section, and where the trust is created by will the trust estate is not forfeited in whole or in part, but upon the order of the court that the moneys derived have been diverted to other uses than the testator intended. Humphrey v. Board of Trustees, 203 N. C. 201, 165 S. E. 547.

§ 36-21. Not void for indefiniteness; title in trustee; vacancies. No gift, grant, bequest or devise, whether in trust or otherwise, to religious, educational, charitable or benevolent uses or for the purpose of providing for the care or maintenance of any part of any cemetery, public or private, shall be invalid by reason of any indefiniteness or uncertainty of the objects or beneficiaries of such trust, or because said instrument confers upon the trustee or trustees discretionary powers in the selection and designation of the objects or beneficiaries of such trust in carrying out the purposes thereof, or by reason of the same in contravening any statute or rule against perpetuities. If a trustee or trustees are named in the instrument creating such a gift, grant, bequest or devise, the legal title to the property given, granted, bequeathed or devised for such purpose shall vest in such trustee or trustees and its or their successor or successors duly appointed in accordance with the terms of such instrument. If no trustee or trustees be named in said instrument, or if a vacancy or vacancies shall occur in the trusteeship, and no method is provided in such instrument for filling such vacancy or vacancies, then the Superior Court of the proper county shall appoint a trustee or trustees, pursuant to § 36-9, to execute said trust in accordance with the true intent and meaning of the instrument creating the same. Such trustee or trustees when so appointed shall be vested with all the power and authority, discretionary or otherwise, conferred by such instrument. (1925, c. 264, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—See 16 N. C. L. Rev. 22.

Charitable trusts are not subject to the rule against perpetuities, this section being merely declaratory of the existing law, and limitations over from one charity to another may be applied without contravening any statute or rule against perpetuities. Williams v. Williams, 215 N. C. 739, 3 S. E. (2d) 114.

Charitable trusts are not subject to the rule against perpetuities. Penick v. Bank of Wadeborough, 218 N. C. 286; 12 S. E. (2d) 253.

Appointment of Trustee upon Occurrence of Vacancy.—Where land is conveyed to trustees and their successors for specified charitable purposes, the court may appoint trustees upon failure of the successors to the original trustees, since equity will not permit a trust to fail for want of a trustee. Wills v. Clark, 214 N. C. 526, 199 S. E. 20.

§ 36-22. Trusts created in other states valid. —Every such religious, educational or charitable trust created by any person domiciled in another state, which shall be valid under the laws of the state of the domicile of such creator or donor, shall be deemed and held in all respects valid and effectual in this State, even though one or more of the trustees be not originally residents of this State, and the trust created thereby shall be deemed and held valid as in said trust shall reside or be located in a foreign state. (1925, c. 264, s. 2.)

§ 36-23. Application of section 36-22. —Section 36-22 shall apply to all trusts heretofore or hereafter created in which one or more of the beneficiaries or objects of such trust shall reside or be located in this State. (1925, c. 264, s. 3.)

Art. 5. Uniform Trusts Act.

§ 36-24. Definitions. — As used in this article unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires:
1. “Person” means an individual, a corporation, a partnership, an association, a joint stock company, a trust, an unincorporated organization or two or more persons having a joint or common interest.
2. “Trustee” includes trustees, a corporate as well as a natural person and a successor or substitute trustee.

3. “Relative” means a spouse, ancestor, descendant, brother or sister.

4. “Affiliate” means any person directly or indirectly controlling or controlled by another person, as hereinabove defined, or any person under direct or indirect common control with another person. It includes any person with whom a trustee has an express or implied agreement regarding the purchase of trust investments by each from the other, directly or indirectly, except a broker or stock exchange.

5. “Trust” means an express trust only. (1939, c. 197, s. 1.)

Editor’s Note.—For comment on this uniform act, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 396.

§ 36-25. Bank account to pay special debts.—1. Whenever a bank account shall, by entries made on the books of the depositor or the funds at the time of the deposit, be created exclusively for the purpose of paying dividends, interest or interest coupons, salaries, wages, or pensions or other benefits to employees, and the depositor at the time of opening such account does not expressly otherwise declare, the depositor shall be deemed a trustee of such account for the creditors to be paid therefrom, subject to such power of revocation as the depositor may have reserved by agreement with the bank.

2. If any beneficiary for whom such a trust is created does not present his claim to the bank for payment within one year after it is due, the depositor who created such trust may revoke it as to such creditor. (1939, c. 197, s. 2.)

§ 36-26. Loan of trust funds.—Except as provided in § 36-27, no corporate trustee shall lend trust funds to itself or an affiliate, or to any director, officer, or employee of itself or of an affiliate; nor shall any noncorporate trustee lend trust funds to himself, or to his relative, employer, employee, partner, or other business associate. (1939, c. 197, s. 3.)

§ 36-27. Funds held by bank for investment or distribution.—Funds received or held by a bank as fiduciary awaiting investment or distribution shall be promptly invested, distributed or deposited to the credit of the trust department in the commercial department of the bank or another bank: Provided, that the bank or the commercial department shall first deliver to the trust department, as collateral security, securities eligible for the investment of the sinking funds of the state of North Carolina equal in market value to such deposited funds, or readily marketable commercial bonds having, at the time of the deposit, a rating equal to one hundred and twenty-five per cent (125%) of the funds so deposited; and such collateral security shall be held by the trust department in trust and for the special benefit of the estate or fund for which the deposit was made, or, in case the deposit consists of uninvested or undistributed funds belonging to several estates or trust funds, then in trust for the special benefit of said estates or funds in proportion to their respective interest in such deposits. The said securities shall at all times be kept separate and apart from the other assets of the trust department and proper records shall be kept by the proper officer in connection therewith. If such funds are deposited in a bank insured under the provisions of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the above collateral security will be required only for that portion of uninvested balances of each trust which are not fully insured under the provisions of that corporation. “Investment” and/or “invested” shall not be construed to include savings accounts or certificates or deposits in any bank. (1939, c. 197, s. 4.)

§ 36-28. Trustee buying from or selling to self.—No trustee shall directly or indirectly buy or sell any property for the trust from or to itself or an affiliate; or from or to a director, officer, or employee of such trustee or of an affiliate; or from or to a relative, employer, partner, or other business associate. (1939, c. 197, s. 5.)

§ 36-30. Corporate trustee buying its own stock.—No corporate trustee shall purchase for a trust shares of its own stock, or its bonds or other securities, or the stock, bonds or other securities of an affiliate. (1939, c. 197, s. 7.)

§ 36-31. Voting stock.—A trustee owning corporate stock may vote it by proxy, but shall be liable for any loss resulting to the beneficiaries from a failure to use reasonable care in deciding how to vote the stock and in voting it. (1939, c. 197, s. 8.)

Cross References.—As to trustee’s power to vote stock, see also § 55-111. As to liability as stockholder, see § 60-17.

§ 36-32. Banks holding stock in name of nominee.—A bank holding stock as fiduciary may hold it in the name of a nominee, without mention of the trust in the stock certificate or stock registration book: Provided, that (1) the trust records and all reports or accounts rendered by the fiduciary clearly show the ownership of the stock by the fiduciary and the facts regarding its holdings; (2) the nominee shall not have possession of the stock certificate or access thereto except under the immediate supervision of the fiduciary. The fiduciary shall personally be liable for any loss to the trust resulting from any act of such nominee in connection with such stock so held. (1939, c. 197, s. 9.)

§ 36-33. Powers attached to office.—Unless it is otherwise provided by the trust instrument, or an amendment thereof, or by court order, all powers of a trustee shall be attached to the office and shall not be personal. (1939, c. 197, s. 10.)

§ 36-34. Powers exercisable by majority. —1. Unless it is otherwise provided by the trust instrument, or an amendment thereof, or by court order, any power vested in three or more trustees may be exercised by a majority of such trustees; but no trustee who has not joined in exercising a power shall be liable to the beneficiaries or to others for the consequences of such exercise, nor shall a dissenting trustee be liable for the consequences of an act in which he joins at the direction of the majority trustees, if he expressed his dissent in writing to any of his cotrustees at or before the time of such joinder.

2. Nothing in this section shall excuse a cotrustee from liability for inactivity in the administration of the trust nor for failure to attempt to prevent a breach of trust. (1939, c. 197, s. 11.)

Cross Reference.—As to right of trustee where only a naked trust is created, see § 41-3.

§ 36-33. Contracts of trustee. — 1. Whenever a trustee shall make a contract which is within his powers as trustee, or a predecessor trustee shall have made such a contract, and a cause of action shall arise thereon, the party in whose favor the cause of action has accrued may sue the trustee in his representative capacity, and any judgment rendered in such action in favor of the plaintiff shall be collectible (by execution) out of the trust property. In such an action the plaintiff need not prove that the trustee could have secured reimbursement from the trust fund if he had paid the plaintiff's claim.

2. No judgment shall be rendered in favor of the plaintiff in such action unless he proves that within thirty days after the beginning of such action, or within such other time as the court may fix, and more than thirty days prior to obtaining the judgment, he notified each of the beneficiaries known to the trustee who then had a present interest, or in the case of a charitable trust the attorney general and any corporation which is a beneficiary or agency in the performance of such charitable trust, of the existence and nature of the action. Such notice shall be given by mailing copies thereof in postpaid envelopes addressed to the parties to be notified at their last known addresses. The trustee shall furnish the plaintiff a list of the parties to be notified, and their addresses, within ten days after written demand therefor, and notification of the persons on such list shall constitute compliance with the duty placed on the plaintiff by this section. Any beneficiary, or in the case of charitable trusts the attorney general and any corporation which is a beneficiary or agency in the performance of such charitable trust, may intervene in such action and contest the right of the plaintiff to recover.

3. The plaintiff may also hold the trustee who makes the contract personally liable on such contract, if the contract does not exclude such personal liability. The addition of the word "trustee" or the words "as trustee" after the signature of a trustee to a contract shall be deemed prima facie evidence of an intent to exclude the trustee from personal liability. (1939, c. 197, s. 12.)

Cross References.—As to endorsement of a negotiable instrument by trustee, see § 25-50. As to costs when trustee is a party to an action, see § 6-31.

§ 36-36. Exoneration or reimbursement for torts.

—1. A trustee who has incurred personal liability for a tort committed in the administration of the trust is entitled to exoneration therefor from the trust property if he has not discharged the claim, or to be reimbursed therefor out of trust funds if he has paid the claim, if (1) the tort was a common incident of the kind of business activity in which the trustee was properly engaged for the trust or, (2) although the tort was not a common incident of such activity if neither the trustee nor any officer or employee of the trustee was guilty of personal fault in incurring the liability.

2. If a trustee commits a tort which increases the value of the trust property, he shall be entitled to exoneration or reimbursement with respect thereto to the extent of such increase in value, even though he would not otherwise be entitled to exoneration or reimbursement.

3. Nothing in this section shall be construed to change the existing law with regard to the liability of trustees of charitable trusts for torts of themselves or their employees. (1939, c. 197, s. 13.)

§ 36-37. Tort liability of trust estate.—1. Where a trustee of his predecessor has incurred personal liability for a tort committed in the course of his administration, the trustee in his representative capacity may sue and collection had from the trust property, if the court shall determine in such action that (1) the tort was a common incident of the kind of business activity in which the trustee or his predecessor was properly engaged for the trust; or (2) that, although the tort was not a common incident of such activity, neither the trustee nor his predecessor, nor any officer or employee of the trustee or his predecessor, was guilty of personal fault in incurring the liability; or (3) that, although the tort did not fall within classes (1) or (2) above, it increased the value of the trust property. If the tort is within classes (1) or (2) above, collection may be had of the full amount of damage proved; and if the tort is within class (3) above, collection may be had only to the extent of the increase in the value of the trust property.

2. In an action against the trustee in his representative capacity under this section the plaintiff need not prove that the trustee could have secured reimbursement from the trust fund if he had paid the plaintiff's claim.

3. No judgment shall be rendered in favor of the plaintiff in such action unless he proves that within thirty days after the beginning of the action, or within such other period as the court may fix and more than thirty days prior to obtaining the judgment, he notified each of the beneficiaries known to the trustees who then had a present interest of the existence and nature of the action. Such notice shall be given by mailing copies thereof in postpaid envelopes addressed to the persons on such list shall constitute compliance with the duty placed on the plaintiff by this section. Any beneficiary may intervene in such action and contest the right of the plaintiff to recover.

4. The trustee may also be held personally liable for any tort committed by him, or by his agents or employees in the course of their employment, subject to the rights of exoneration or reimbursement provided in § 36-36.

§ 36-38. Withdrawals from mingled trust funds.

—Where a person who is a trustee of two or more trusts has mingled the funds of two or more trusts in the same aggregate of cash, or in the same bank or brokerage account or other investment, and a withdrawal is made therefrom by the trustee for his own benefit, or for the benefit of a third person not a beneficiary or creditor of one or more of the trusts, or for an unknown purpose, such a withdrawal shall be charged first to the amount of cash, credit, or other property of the trustee in the mingled fund, if any, and after the exhaustion of the trustee's cash, credit, or other property, then to the several trusts in proportion to their several interests in the cash, credit, or other property at the time of the withdrawal. (1939, c. 197, s. 15.)

§ 36-39. Unenforceable oral trust created by deed.—1. When an interest in real property is conveyed by deed to a person which is unenforceable on account of the statute of frauds and the intended trustee or his successor in interest still holds title but refuses to carry out the trust on account of the statute of frauds, the intended trustee or his successor in interest, except to the extent that the successor in interest is a bona fide purchaser of a legal interest in the real property in question, shall be under a duty to convey the interest in real property to the settlor or his successor in interest. A court having jurisdiction may prescribe the conditions upon which the interest shall be conveyed to the settlor or his successor in interest.

2. Where the intended trustee has transferred part or all of his interest and it has come into the hands of a bona fide purchaser, the intended trustee shall be liable to the settlor or his successor in interest for the value of the interest thus transferred at the time of its transfer, less such offsets as the court may deem equitable. (1939, c. 197, s. 16.)

§ 36-40. Power of settlor.—The settlor of any trust affected by this article may, by provision in the instrument creating the trust if the trust was created by a writing, or by oral statement to the trustee at the time of the creation of the trust if the trust was created orally, or by an amendment of the trust if the settlor reserved the power to amend the trust, relieve his trustee from any or all of the duties, restrictions, and liabilities which would otherwise be imposed upon him by this article; or alter or deny to his trustee any or all of the privileges and powers conferred upon the trustee by this article; or add duties, restrictions, liabilities, privileges, or powers, to those imposed or granted by this article; but no act of the settlor shall relieve a trustee from the duties, restrictions, and liabilities imposed upon him by §§ 36-26, 36-27 and 36-28. (1939, c. 197, s. 17.)

§ 36-41. Power of beneficiary.—Any beneficiary of a trust affected by this article may, if of full legal capacity and acting upon full information, by written instrument delivered to the trustee relieve the trustee as to such beneficiary from any or all of the duties, restrictions, and liabilities which would otherwise be imposed on the trustee by this article, except as to the duties, restrictions, and liabilities imposed by §§ 36-26, 36-27 and 36-28. Any such beneficiary may release the trustee from liability to such beneficiary for past violations of any of the provisions of this article. (1939, c. 197, s. 18.)

§ 36-42. Power of the court.—A court of competent jurisdiction may, for cause shown and upon notice to the beneficiaries, relieve a trustee from any or all of the duties and restrictions which would otherwise be placed upon him by this article, or wholly or partly excuse a trustee who has acted honestly and reasonably from liability for violations of the provisions of this article. (1939, c. 197, s. 19.)

§ 36-43. Liabilities for violations of article.—If a trustee violates any of the provisions of this article, he may be removed and denied compensation in whole or in part; and any beneficiary, co-trustee, or successor trustee may treat the violation as a breach of trust. (1939, c. 197, s. 20.)

§ 36-46. Time of taking effect.—This article shall take effect the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine and shall apply in the construction of and operation under (a) all agreements containing trust provisions entered into subsequent to March 15, 1941; (b) all wills made by testators who shall die subsequent to March 15, 1941; and (c) all other wills and trust agreements and trust relations in so far as such terms do not impair the obligation of contract or deprive persons of property without due process of law under the Constitution of the State of North Carolina or of the United States of America. (1939, c. 197, s. 23; 1941, c. 269.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment struck out a part of the original section and substituted therefor that part of this section beginning with the words "in the construction."

For comment on this amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 546.

§ 36-47. Establishment of common trust funds.—Any bank or trust company qualified to act as fiduciary in this state may establish one or more common trust funds for the purpose of furnishing investments to itself as fiduciary, or to itself and another or others, as co-fiduciaries; and may, as such fiduciary or co-fiduciary, invest funds which it lawfully holds for investment in interests in such common trust fund or funds, if such investment is not prohibited by the instrument, judgment, decree, or order creating such fiduciary relationship or by an amendment thereof, and if, in the case of co-fiduciaries, the bank or trust company procures the consent of its co-fiduciary or co-fiduciaries to such investment. (1939, c. 200, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 594.

§ 36-48. Court accountings.—Unless ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction the bank or trust company operating such common trust fund or funds shall not be required to render a court accounting with regard to such fund or funds; but it may, by application to the superior court, secure approval of an accounting on such conditions as the court may establish. This section shall not affect the duties of the trustees of the participating trusts under the common trust fund to render accounts of their several trusts. (1939, c. 200, s. 2.)

All common trust funds established under the provisions of this article shall be subject to the rules and regulations of the state banking commission. (1939, c. 200, s. 3.)

Chapter 37. Uniform Principal and Income Act.

Sec.
37-1. Definition of terms.
37-3. Income and principal; disposition.
37-4. Apportionment of income.
37-5. Corporate dividends and share rights.
37-6. Premium and discount bonds.
37-7. Principal used in business.
37-8. Principal comprising animals.
37-10. Principal subject to deprecation.
37-12. Expenses; trust estates.

(1) All receipts of money or other property paid or delivered as rent of realty or hire of personalty or dividends on corporate shares payable other than in shares of the corporation itself, or interest on money loaned, or interest on or the rental or use value of property wrongfully withheld or tortiously damaged, or otherwise in return for the use of principal, shall be deemed income unless otherwise expressly provided in this chapter.

(2) All receipts of money or other property paid or delivered as the consideration for the sale or other transfer, not a leasing or letting, or property forming a part of the principal, or as a repayment of loans, or in liquidation of the assets of a corporation, or as the proceeds of property taken on eminent domain proceedings where separate awards to tenant and remainderman are not made, or as proceeds of insurance upon property forming a part of the principal except where such insurance has been issued for the benefit of either tenant or remainderman alone, or otherwise as a refund or replacement or change in form of principal, shall be deemed principal unless otherwise expressly provided in this chapter. Any profit or loss resulting upon any change in form of principal shall inure to or fall upon principal.

(3) All income after payment of expenses properly chargeable to it shall be paid and delivered to the tenant or retained by him if already in his possession or held for accumulation where legally so directed by the terms of the transaction by which the principal was established, while the principal shall be held for ultimate distribution as determined by the terms of the transaction by which it was established or by law. (1937, c. 190, s. 3.)

§ 37-4. Apportionment of income. — Whenever a tenant shall have the right to income from periodic payments, which shall include rent, interest on loans and annuities, but shall not include dividends on corporate shares, and such right shall cease and determine by death or in any other manner at a time other than the date when such periodic payments should be paid, he or his personal representative shall be entitled to that portion of any such income next payable which amounts to the same percentage thereof as the time elapsed from the last due date of such periodic payments to and including the day of the determination of his right of the total period during which such income would normally accrue. The remaining income shall be paid to the person next entitled to income by the terms of the transaction by which the principal was established. But no action shall be brought by the trustee or tenant to recover such apportioned income or any portion thereof until after the day on which it would have become due to the tenant but for the determination of the right of the tenant entitled thereto. The provisions of this section shall apply whether an ultimate remainderman is specifically named or not. Likewise when the right of the first tenant accrues at a time other than the payment dates of such periodic payments, he shall only receive that portion of such income which amounts to the same percentage thereof as the time during which he has been so entitled is of the total period during which such income would normally accrue; the balance shall be a part of the principal. (1937, c. 190, s. 4.)

Cross Reference.—As to apportionment in the case of renting real estate, see § 42-2 et seq.

§ 37-5. Corporate dividends and share rights. — (1) All dividends on shares of a corporation forming a part of the principal which are payable in the shares of the corporation shall be deemed principal. Subject to the provisions of this section, all dividends payable otherwise than in the shares of the corporation itself, including ordinary and extraordinary dividends and dividends payable in shares or other securities or obligations of corporations, other than the declaring corporation, shall be deemed income. Where the trustee shall have the option of receiving a dividend, either in cash or in the shares of the declaring corporation, it shall be considered as a cash dividend and deemed income, irrespective of the choice made by the trustee.

(2) All rights to subscribe to the shares or other securities or obligations of a corporation accruing on account of the ownership of shares or other securities in such corporation, and the proceeds of any sale of such rights, shall be deemed principal. All rights to subscribe to the shares or other securities or obligations of a corporation accruing on account of the ownership of shares or other securities in another corporation, and the proceeds of any sale of such rights, shall be deemed income.

(3) Where the assets of a corporation are liquidated, amounts paid upon corporate shares as cash dividends declared before such liquidation occurred or as arrears of preferred or guaranteed dividends shall be deemed income; all other amounts paid upon corporate shares on disbursements of the corporate assets to the stockholders shall be deemed principal. All disbursements of corporate assets to the stockholders, whenever made, which are designated by the corporation as a return of capital or division of corporate property shall be deemed principal.

(4) Where a corporation succeeds another by merger, consolidation or reorganization or otherwise acquires its assets, and the corporate shares of the succeeding corporation are issued to the shareholders of the original corporation in like proportion to, or in substitution for, their shares of the original corporation, the two corporations shall be considered a single corporation in applying the provisions of this section. But two corporations shall not be considered a single corporation under this section merely because one owns corporate shares of or otherwise controls or directs the other.

(5) In applying this section the date when a dividend accrues to the person who is entitled to it shall be held to be the date specified by the corporation as the one on which the stockholders entitled thereto are determined, or in default thereof the date of declaration of the dividend. (1937, c. 190, s. 5.)

§ 37-6. Premium and discount bonds.—Where any part of the principal consists of bonds or other obligations for the payment of money, they shall be deemed principal at their inventory value or in default thereof at their market value at the time the principal was established, or at their cost where purchased later, regardless of their par or maturity value; and upon their respective maturities or upon their sale any loss or gain realized thereon shall fall upon or inure to the principal. (1937, c. 190, s. 6.)

§ 37-7. Principal used in business.—(1) Whenever a trustee or a tenant is authorized by the terms of the transaction by which the principal was established, or by law, to use any part of the principal in the continuance of a business which the original owner of the property comprising the principal had been carrying on, the net profits of such business attributable to such principal shall be deemed income.

(2) Where such business consists of buying and selling property, the net profits for any period shall be ascertained by deducting from the gross returns during and the inventory value of the property at the end of such period, the expenses during and the inventory value of the property at the beginning of such period.

(3) Where such business does not consist of buying and selling property, the net income shall be computed in accordance with the customary practice of such business, but not in such way as to decrease the principal.

(4) Any increase in the value of the principal used in such business shall be deemed principal, and all losses in any one calendar year, after the expenses are deducted from such business for that year has been exhausted, shall fall upon principal. (1937, c. 190, s. 7.)

§ 37-8. Principal comprising animals. — Where any part of the principal consists of animals employed in business, the provisions of § 37-7 shall apply; and in other cases where the animals are held as a part of the principal, partly or wholly because of the offspring or increase which they are expected to produce, all offspring or increase shall be deemed principal to the extent necessary to maintain the original number of such animals and the remainder shall be deemed income; and in all other cases such offspring or increase shall be deemed income. (1937, c. 190, s. 8.)

any part of the principal consists of property in lands from which may be taken timber, minerals, oils, gas or other natural resources, and the trustee or tenant is authorized by law or by the terms of the transaction by which the principal was established to sell, lease or otherwise develop such natural resources, and no provision is made for the disposition of the net proceeds thereof after the liquidation of expenses and carrying charges on such property, such proceeds, if received as rent on a lease, shall be deemed income, but if received as consideration, whether as royalties or otherwise, for the permanent severance of such natural resources from the lands, shall be deemed principal to be invested to produce income. Nothing in this section shall be construed to abrogate or extend any right which may otherwise have accrued by law to a tenant to develop or work such natural resources for his own benefit. (1937, c. 190, s. 9.)

§ 37-10. Principal subject to depletion.—Where any part of the principal consists of property subject to depletion, such as leaseholds, patents, copyrights and royalty rights, and the trustee or tenant in possession is not under a duty to change the form of the investment of the principal, the full amount of rents, royalties or return from the property shall be income to the tenant; but where the trustee or tenant is under a duty, arising either by law or by the terms of the transaction by which the principal was established, to change the form of the investment, either at once or as soon as it may be done without loss, then the return from such property not in excess of five per centum per annum of its fair inventory value, or in default thereof its market value at the time the principal was established, or at its cost where purchased later, shall be deemed income and the remainder principal. (1937, c. 190, s. 10.)

§ 37-11. Unproductive estate.—(1) Where any part of a principal in the possession of a trustee consists of realty or personalty which for more than a year, and until disposed of as hereinafter stated, has not produced an average net income of at least one per centum per annum of its fair inventory value, or in default thereof its market value at the time the principal was established, or of its cost where purchased later, and the trustee is under a duty to change the form of the investment as soon as it may be done without sacrifice of value and such change is delayed, but is made before the principal is finally distributed, then the tenant, or in case of his death his personal representatives, shall be entitled to share in the net proceeds received from the property as delayed income to the extent hereinafter stated.

(2) Such income shall be the difference between the net proceeds received from the property and the amount which, had it been placed at simple interest at the rate of five per centum per annum for the period during which the change was delayed, would have produced the net proceeds at the time of change, but in no event shall such income be more than the amount by which the net proceeds exceed the fair inventory value of the property or in default thereof its market value at the time the principal was established or its cost where purchased later. The net proceeds shall consist of the gross proceeds received from the property, less any expenses incurred in disposing of it and less all carrying charges which have been paid out of principal during the period while it has been unproductive.

(3) The change shall be taken to have been delayed from the time when the duty to make it first arose, which shall be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to be one year after the trustee first received the property or if unproductive, otherwise one year after it became unproductive.

(4) If the tenant has received any income from the property or has had any beneficial use thereof during the period while the change has been delayed, his share of the delayed income shall be reduced by the amount of such income received or the value of the use had.

(5) In the case of successive tenants the delayed income shall be divided among them or their representatives according to the length of the period for which each was entitled to income. (1937, c. 190, s. 11.)

§ 37-12. Expenses; trust estates.—(1) All ordinary expenses incurred in connection with the trust estate or with its administration and management, including regularly recurring taxes assessed against any portion of the principal, water rates, premiums on insurance taken upon the estates of both tenant and remainderman, interest on mortgages on the principal, ordinary repairs, trustees' compensation except commissions computed on principal, compensation of assistants, and court costs and attorneys' and other fees on regular accountings, shall be paid out of income. But such expenses where incurred in disposing of, or as carrying charges on, unproductive estate as defined in § 37-11, shall be paid out of principal, subject to the provisions of sub-section two of § 37-11.

(2) All other expenses, including trustee's commissions computed upon principal, cost of investing or reinvigorating principal, attorneys' fees and other costs incurred in maintaining or defending any action to protect the trust or the property or assure the title thereof, unless due to the fault or cause of the tenant, and cost of, or assessments for, improvements to property forming part of the principal, shall be paid out of principal. Any tax levied by any authority, federal, state or foreign, upon profit or gain defined as principal under the terms of sub-section two of § 37-3 shall be paid out of principal, notwithstanding said tax may be denominated a tax upon income by the taxing authority.

(3) Expenses paid out of income according to sub-section one which represent regularly recurring charges shall be considered to have accrued from day to day, and shall be apportioned on that basis whenever the right of the tenant begins or ends at some date other than the payment date of the expenses. Where the expenses to be paid out of income are of unusual amount, the trustee may distribute them throughout an entire year or part thereof, or throughout a series of years. After such distribution, where the right of the tenant ends during the period, the expenses shall be apportioned between tenant and remainderman on the basis of such distribution.

(4) Where the costs of, or special taxes or assessments for, an improvement representing an addition of value to property held by the trustee as part of principal are paid out of principal, as provided in sub-section two, the trustee shall reserve out of income and add to the principal each year a sum equal to the cost of the improvement divided by the number of years of the reasonably expected duration of the improvement. (1937, c.

190, s. 12.)

§ 37-13. Expenses; non-trust estates.—(1) The provisions of § 37-12, so far as applicable and excepting those dealing with costs of, or special taxes, or assessments for, improvements to property, shall govern the apportionment of expenses between tenants and remaindermen where no trust has been created, subject, however, to any legal agreement of the parties or any specific direction of the taxing or other statutes; but where either tenant or remainderman has incurred an expense for the benefit of his own estate, and without the consent or agreement of the other, he shall pay such expense in full.

(2) Subject to the exceptions stated in sub-section one the cost of, or special taxes or assessments for, an improvement representing an addition of value to property forming part of the principal shall be paid by the tenant, where such improvement cannot reasonably be expected to outlast the estate of the tenant. In all other cases a portion thereof only shall be paid by the tenant, while the remainder shall be paid by the remainderman.
Such portion shall be ascertained by taking that percentage of the total which is found by dividing the present value of the tenant's estate by the present value of an estate of the same form as that of the tenant, except that it is limited for a period corresponding to the reasonably expected duration of the improvement. The computation of present values of the estates shall be made on the expectancy basis set forth in the "American Ex-pertence Tables of Mortality," and no other evidence of duration or expectancy shall be considered. (1937, c. 190, s. 13.)

§ 37-14. Uniformity of interpretation. — This chapter shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it. (1937, c. 190,
s. 14.)

§ 37-15. Short title.—This chapter may be cited as the Uniform Principal and Income Act. (1937,
c. 190, s. 15.)

Chapter 38.

Boundaries.

38-4. Surveys in disputed boundaries.

§ 38-1. Special proceeding to establish. — The owner of land, any of whose boundary lines are in dispute, may establish any of such lines by special proceedings in the superior court of the county in which the land or any part thereof is situated. (Rev., s. 325; 1893, c. 22; C. S. 361.)

Cross Reference. — As to special proceeding generally, see § 1-393 et seq.

Object of the Doctrine of the Section. — This section grew out of and is in some respects similar to the common law “writ of perambulation,” although the procedure hereunder tends greatly to simplify the procedure obtaining under the former law. Until the passage of this section the consent of both adjoining land owners was necessary in order to have the dispute as to the bounds of their respective estates judicially determined. Under the present law either of the adjoining proprietors acting as a matter of right is entitled to have the land processed, without the other’s consent, and, where there has been an annual occupation, have the controverted matters settled by the court under the influence of its discretion. Green v. Williams, 144 N. C. 60, 63, 58 S. E. 549.

Purpose of Processioning. — The primary object of this section and the provisions of the section is to facilitate the speedy determination of disputed boundaries between adjoining land owners who do not contest the other’s title to their respective tracts. Parker v. Taylor, 133 N. C. 189, 45 S. E. 473. Title to the land is not in issue unless so made by the pleadings, Cole v. Seawell, 132 N. C. 349, 67 S. E. 753; but when placed in issue by the defendant’s denial of the plaintiff’s ownership then, by sec. 1-399, the pending special proceedings are converted into a civil action to quiet title and the court will try all the issues in controversy therewith. Woody v. Fountain, 143 N. C. 90, 55 S. E. 425.

Relief under the Section—Injunctions. — To warrant the granting of an injunction in the cases of special proceedings, the relief sought must be subsidiary to the relief asked in the special proceedings, Hunt v. Snead, 64 N. C. 176; and since this section gives no substantive relief—settles no rights, or titles to property, but only locates the disputed lines by an order issued by the court, it will be treated as an answer since it contains all that is required by the section. Scott v. Kellum, 117 N. C. 664, 23 S. E. 306.

Dispute as to Boundary Necessary. — To sustain an action to establish the true dividing line between adjoining owners of land, a dispute as to the location of the line must be shown or the case on appeal will be dismissed in the Supreme Court. Wood v. Hughes, 195 N. C. 185, 141 S. E. 569.

Effect of Binding Agreement. — Where, in proceedings to establish the disputed boundaries between adjoining lands, a binding executed agreement between the parties has been established by uncontradicted evidence, the plaintiff is estopped from proceeding under this section, and there is no error in the court’s holding that the completed agreement of arbitration operated as an estoppel as a matter of law. Lower v. Smith, 201 N. C. 642, 644, 161 S. E. 222.

Procedure. — As the procedure for the application of this section is such as to require the court to determine the true boundary line, and to settle the disputed questions in controversy, it is in the nature of a special proceeding. (Rev., s. 326; 1893, c. 22; 1903, c. 21; C. S. 362.)

§ 38-2. Occupation sufficient ownership. — The occupation of land constitutes sufficient ownership for the purposes of this chapter. (Rev., s. 326; 1893, c. 22; 1903, c. 21; C. S. 362.)

Sufficiency of Ownership. — When Title Not in Dispute. — The owner of land, who in possession thereof, in this section, to mean possession, and uniformly hold that one in (a) possession of the land, and (or) (b) whose title thereto is not disputed so that no issue is raised save only that of the location of the boundary, has sufficient ownership to avail himself of the special proceedings herein provided for. Williams v. Hughes, 124 N. C. 3, 32 S. E. 125; Parker v. Taylor, 133 N. C. 105, 45 S. E. 473.

Where it is admitted that plaintiff’s title was not in dispute, and that defendant’s title was not in dispute except as to the true boundary line, the refusal of the court to enter judgment in favor of the plaintiff, in addition to the issue as to the true boundary line, will not be held error. Clark v. Dill, 208 N. C. 421, 183 S. E. 281.

Same. — When Title Is in Dispute. — Where, however, the defendant puts in issue his title to the land in issue, the case has taken the form of a civil action, then the plaintiff can no longer rest his case by merely proving his occupation of the land as evidencing the boundary, but must go further and prove his title to the land. Woody v. Fountain, 143 N. C. 67, 55 S. E. 425. See also Williams v. Hughes, 124 N. C. 3, 32 S. E. 325.

§ 38-3. Procedure. — 1. Petition; Summons; Hearing. — The owner shall file his petition under oath stating therein facts sufficient to constitute the location of such line as claimed by him and making defendants all adjoining owners whose interest may be affected by the location of said line. The clerk shall thereupon issue summons to the defendants as in other cases of special proceedings. If the defendants fail to answer, judgment shall be given establishing the line according to petition. If the answer deny the location set out in the petition, the clerk shall issue an order to the county surveyor or, if cause shown, to any competent surveyor to survey said line or lines according to the contention of both parties, and make report of the same with a map at a time to be fixed by the clerk, not more than thirty days from date of order; to which time the cause shall be continued. The cause shall then be heard by the clerk upon the location of said line or lines and judgment given determining the location thereof.

Cross Reference. — As to special proceedings generally, see § 1-393 et seq.

Compliance with the Procedural Steps Mandatory. — This section must be strictly followed in all material respects, and any flagrant or negligent departure therefrom will be fatal to the proceedings. Forney v. Williamson, 98 N. C. 329, 4 S. E. 463. But the Court will look to the substance and not to the form of the pleadings, and where an affidavit contains a full and explicit denial of the line set out in the plaintiff’s petition it will be treated as an answer since it contains all that is required by the section. Scott v. Kellum, 117 N. C. 664, 23 S. E. 180.

Effect of Misjoinder of Parties. — A proceeding under the provisions of this section to establish the true dividing line between adjoining owners of land, will be dismissed without the county surveyor or, if cause shown, to any competent surveyor to survey said line or lines according to the petition of both parties, and make report of the same with a map at a time to be fixed by the clerk, not more than thirty days from date of order; to which time the cause shall be continued. The cause shall then be heard by the clerk upon the location of said line or lines and judgment given determining the location thereof.

Burden of Proof. — Upon the institution of the proceedings to ascertain the true dividing line between the lands the burden of proof is upon the plaintiff to establish such line, Woody v. Fountain, 143 N. C. 67, 55 S. E. 425; Hill v. Daiton, 140 N. C. 9, 52 S. E. 273, and this burden does not shift to the defendant merely because, in addition to denying the line to be established by the plaintiff, he alleges another to be the dividing line. Garris v. Harrington, 167 N. C. 86, 83 S. E. 253.

The plaintiff is the actor and has the burden of establishing the true location of the dividing line. McCañes v. Baldwin, 212 N. C. 292, 192 S. E. 207.

Applicability of Doctrine of Res Judicata. — Title to Land Not in Issue. — Where the only fact in issue is the establishment and location of the boundary line, then the judgment of the clerk is, to this extent, binding on the parties and they may not again litigate on this precise point. Whitaker v. Garren, 167 N. C. 658, 83 S. E. 769. But his judgment may not estop the parties from asserting in a separate action title in the land, Nash v. Shute, 182 N. C. 528, 109 S. E. 353.

Same.—Title in Issue.—Where, however, the parties join issue upon the title and the case is transferred to the regular term of the court a judgment therein estops the parties both as to the title and the location of the line. Whitaker v. Garren, 167 N. C. 658, 83 S. E. 759. See also, Nash v. Shute, 182 N. C. 528, 109 S. E. 353, the court in this case, saying: "...the law confines on the clerk no jurisdiction to settle questions of title. He can only authoritatively determine the location of a disputed line... The parties are therefore not concluded by his judgment in respect to questions of title."

When Title Is Put in Issue—Injunctive Relief.—When defendant in a processioning proceeding puts title in issue, the true dividing line, and therefore injunctive relief will not lie at the instance of one party to enjoin the other from retaining possession of the disputed strip, pending the final determination of the proceeding, even in the superior court on appeal, since the restraint sought is not germane to the subject of the action. Jackson v. Jackson, 216 N. C. 401, 5 S. E. (2d) 234.

Evidence—Generally. — The general rules for ascertaining boundaries apply equally well when recourse is had through special proceedings. Power Co. v. Savage, 170 N. C. 625, 87 S. E. 629. See also, Woodard v. Harrell, 191 N. C. 194, 132 S. E. 12, containing dicta to the effect that parol evidence of location of boundary line may be properly admitted, if the parties were merely locating the true boundary line, but not to show verbal agreement to change the true dividing line. See also The Surveyor’s Report.—The surveyor, when acting under this section, is not in any sense a referee and his report to the court should not contain conclusions of law, but should merely set forth a detailed account of the facts of the case and what lines were disputed or how far they were disputed, and solely the location of the true dividing line, and therefore injunctive relief will not lie at the instance of one party to enjoin the other from retaining possession of the disputed strip, pending the final determination of the proceeding, even in the superior court on appeal, since the restraint sought is not germane to the subject of the action. See Jackson v. Jackson, 216 N. C. 401, 5 S. E. (2d) 234.

When Transfer to Regular Term Required.—The jurisdiction of the clerk in these special proceedings is limited in its scope. It extends only to those cases in which the only fact in issue is the location of the boundary line between the lands. Where the title to the land is put in issue the clerk has no authority to pass on any question involved but must transfer the whole proceedings to the regular term of the court. Brown v. Hutchinson, 155 N. C. 205, 71 S. E. 302; Smith v. Johnson, 127 N. C. 43, 49 S. E. 62; Parker v. Taylor, 135 N. C. 103, 45 S. E. 473.

2. Appeal to Term.—Either party may within ten days after such determination by the clerk serve notice of appeal from the ruling of the clerk determining the said location. When notice of appeal is served it shall be the duty of the clerk to transmit the issues raised before him to the next term of the superior court of the county for trial by a jury, when the question shall be heard de novo.

Parties on Appeal.—Under the provision contained in this section for the appeal by either party to the regular term of the court, other parties having an interest in the locus in quo may, upon motion, be permitted to come in. Batts v. Bridgen, 147 N. C. 133, 60 S. E. 897.

3. Survey After Judgment.—When final judgment is given in the proceeding the court shall issue an order to the surveyor to run and mark the line or lines as determined in the judgment. The surveyor shall make report including a map of the line as determined, which shall be filed with the judgment roll in the cause and entered with the judgment on the special proceedings docket.

4. Procedure as in Special Proceedings.—The procedure under this chapter, the jurisdiction of the court, and the right of appeal shall, in all respects, be the same as in special proceedings except as herein modified. (Rev., s. 326; 1893, c. 22; 1903, c. 51; C. S. 353.)

§ 38-4. Surveys in disputed boundaries.—When in any suit pending in the superior court the boundaries of lands are drawn in question, the court may, if deemed necessary, order a survey of the lands in dispute, agreeable to the boundaries and lines expressed in each party’s titles, and other surveys as shall be deemed useful; which surveys shall be made by two surveyors appointed by the court, one to be named by each of the parties, or by one surveyor, if the parties agree; and the surveyors shall attend according to the order of the court, and make the surveys, and shall make as many accurate plans thereof as shall be ordered by the court; and for such surveys the court shall make a proper allowance, to be taxed as among the costs of the suit. (Rev., s. 1594; Code, s. 939; R. C., c. 31, s. 119; 1779, c. 157; 1766, c. 292; C. S. 364.)

Allowance for Costs of Survey.—The word “courts,” as used in the last provision of this section, refers to the judge, and not to the clerk, and where the trial judge has failed to make an order allowing compensation to the surveyor, the clerk has no power to make the allowance; but on appeal from the clerk’s refusal, such order will be made by the judge of the Superior Court, Cannon v. Briggs, 174 N. C. 740, 54 S. E. 519; LaRoque v. Kennedy, 156 N. C. 360, 72 S. E. 454.

Discretion of Court.—This section vests in the court a sound discretion within the limits defined. Vance v. Pritchard, 218 N. C. 273, 10 S. E. (2d) 225.

Chapter 39: Conveyances.

Sec. 39-8. Acknowledgment at different times and places; before different officers; order immaterial.

39-9. Abstinence of wife’s examination does not preclude her from being a witness to deed as to husband.

39-10. Officers authorized to take privy examination.

39-14. [Repealed.]

Art. 3. Fraudulent Conveyances.

39-16. Conveyance with intent to defraud purchasers void.

39-17. Voluntary conveyance evidence of fraud as to existing creditors.

39-20. bona fide purchaser of mortgaged property not affected by illegal consideration of note secured.

Art. 1. Construction and Sufficiency.

§ 39-1. Fee presumed,” though word “heirs” omitted.—When real estate is conveyed to any person, the same shall be held and construed to be a conveyance in fee, whether the word “heirs” is used or not, unless such conveyance in plain and express words shows, or it is plainly intended by the conveyance or some part thereof, that the grantor meant to convey an estate of less dignity.

Cross Reference.—As to presumption of conveyance in fee simple when deed and registry of conveyance destroyed, see § 8-21.

Editor’s Note.—This section changes the common-law rule that in order to convey a fee simple the word “heirs” should appear either in the premises or the habendum of the deed. Carolina Real Estate Co. v. Bland, 152 N. C. 225, 67 S. E. 453. Even prior to the enactment of the section the courts of this State commenced to draw away from the strictness of the common-law rule in this respect, and a perusal of a large number of cases bearing upon and controlling the subject show a marked tendency to mitigate the harshness of the law. So an exception as to devises and equitable estate had already been made. (See Whitchard v. Whilterhurst, 181 N. C. 79, 106 S. E. 453; Hollowell v. Manly, 179 N. C. 262, 167 S. E. 396, relating to a conveyance in trust.) And a series of cases established the proposition that the word “heirs,” when used as indicative of the estate to be granted, no matter where the word appeared in the instrument, would be transposed and inserted so as to cause the instrument to operate as a fee simple. Smith v. Proctor, 139 N. C. 314, 51 S. E. 889.

Same.—Fee Simple Presumed Unless Clear Intent Otherwise.—All conveyances of land executed since the passage of the act are to be taken to be in fee simple, unless the intention of the grantor is plainly manifest in some part of the instrument to convey an estate of less dignity. It is the legislative will that the intention of the grantor and not the technical words of the common law shall govern. Triplett v. Williams, 149 N. C. 394, 398, 63 S. E. 79.

And by this section, a deed though not using the word “heirs”, is a conveyance in fee, unless the contrary intention appears. Holloway v. Green, 167 N. C. 91, 83 S. E. 243.

Same.—Method prescribed not exclusive.—Where the presumption found in this section is rebutted by the fact that the deed in this case intended to convey only a life estate which is manifest from the many restraining expressions contained therein. Boomer v. Grantham, 281 N. C. 203, 163 S. E. 662.

Same.—Fee Simple Presumed Unless Clear Intent Otherwise.—All conveyances of land executed since the passage of the act are to be taken to be in fee simple, unless the intention of the grantor is plainly manifest in some part of the instrument to convey an estate of less dignity. It is the legislative will that the intention of the grantor and not the technical words of the common law shall govern. Triplett v. Williams, 149 N. C. 394, 398, 63 S. E. 79.

And by this section, a deed though not using the word “heirs”, is a conveyance in fee, unless the contrary intention appears. Holloway v. Green, 167 N. C. 91, 83 S. E. 243.

The section was applied where the intent of the donor, appearing by proper construction of a deed, was to give a simple estate to his child by his marriage. Sharpe v. Brown, 177 N. C. 294, 98 S. E. 825.

The granting clause of a deed was to one of the grantor’s sons, his heirs and assigns, and following the description “this deed is conveyed to the said grantee to him his life-time and then to his boy children” with habendum to the son “and his heirs and assigns their only use and behoof for ever” with warranty to the said son “and his heirs and assigns.” It was held that the portion of the habendum restraining assignment except to the brothers of the grantor is not an assignment of a life estate as with an assignment of the fee, and to hold that the grant to the “son and his heirs” conveyed the fee simple would require that other portions Although a deed to lands executed and delivered prior to this deed between the granting clause and habendum. Tripplett v. Williams, 149 N. C. 394, 63 S. E. 79.

Deeds Executed Prior to Effective Force of Section.—Although a deed to lands executed and delivered prior to the effective force of this section would pass an estate in fee simple if the deed entirely omitted the word "heirs" or other appropriate words of inheritance, a deed executed before such date to a school committee, and the conveyance being in fee simple, would pass a fee simple title to the lands conveyed therein. Tucker v. Smith, 199 N. C. 502, 154 S. E. 820.

Deed to Husband and Wife and Heirs of Wife.—A deed conveying lands to a husband and wife only and to the heirs of the latter, does not pass the fee to the former by virtue of this section, for as to him it is plainly intended that the grantor meant to convey an estate of less dignity. Sprinkle v. Sprinkle, 149 N. C. 223, 62 S. E. 918.

Restraint of Alienation.—Where a conveyance is construed under this section to be in fee, any attempt of restraint upon alienation is ineffective. Where the grantor intended simply to pass a fee simple title to the lands conveyed therein, Holloway v. Green, 167 N. C. 91, 83 S. E. 246.

Retention of Mineral Rights.—Under this section where a mineral is left upon the premises, which is hereby excepted, the mineral found upon the premises, which is hereby excepted, is sufficient under this section to admit of parol evidence of identification.

Capable of Being Reduced to Certainty.—A description contained in a deed or contract to convey lands is sufficiently definite to admit of parol evidence of identification when it is capable of being reduced to certainty by reference to something extrinsic to which the instrument refers. Katz v. Daughtrey, 198 N. C. 91, 151 S. E. 879.

§ 39-3. Conveyances to slaves.—When it is made to appear that any gift or conveyance has been made to any person, while a slave, of any lands or tenements, whether the same was conveyed by deed or parol, and the bargainee or donee has put such land or tenements or any part thereof into actual possession of the same, such possession shall have continued for the term of years prior to the ninth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and seventy: Provided, further, that any absence from the premises from the first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, shall not be held as an abandonment or discontinuance of the possession: Provided, also, that this section shall not affect the interest of a bona fide purchaser for value from the grantor or bargainor of the lands or tenements in dispute. (Rev., s.
shall not affect the interest of a bona fide purchaser for value from the grantor or bargainor 949; Code, s. 1278; 1869-70, c. 77; C. S. 993.)

deed to land sold under execution, see § 1-316. As to sheriff's deed for trust estate, see § 1-316. As to sheriff's deed on sale of estate of redemption, see § 1-317. As to duty of sheriff or other officers to execute deed for property sold under execution, see § 1-319.

A tax deed executed by an "ex-sheriff" may be authorized under this section. Manufacturing Co. v. Rosey, 144 N. C.
370, 57 S. E. 2; McNair v. Boyd, 163 N. C. 478, 79 S. E. 966.

When Executed by Successor.—A deed made by a successor in office does not apply to a case where one having himself of office has expired; and when he dies or removes or tax collector dies having a tax list in his hands other than the present succession. (Rev., ss. 950, 951; Code, s. 1267; R. C.
s. 37, s. 30; 1891, c. 212; C. S. 993.)

Where Not Applicable to Will.—Where a man made a will in which he set aside money or money due to a certain the widow died in 1899, the slaves cannot take under the will.

§ 39-4. Conveyances by infant trustees.—When an infant is seized or possessed of any estate in trust, whether by way of mortgage or otherwise, for another person who may be entitled in law to have a conveyance of such estate, or may be declared to be seized or possessed, in the course of any proceeding in the superior court, the court may decree that the infant shall convey and assure such estate, in such manner as it may direct, to such other person; and every conveyance and assurance made in pursuance of such decree shall be as effectual in law as if made by a person of full age. (Rev., s. 1036; Code, s. 1365; R. C.
c. 37, s. 27; 1821, c. 1116, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 994.)

Editor's Note.—The general rule is that the contracts of infants are voidable at the option of the infant, and when avoided, the contract is null and void ab initio. Pippen v.

Editor's Note.—The grantor in any future contingent interest to some person or after create a voluntary trust estate in real or by way of mortgage or otherwise, for another person who may be entitled in law to have a conveyance of such estate, or may be declared to be seized or possessed, in the course of any proceeding in the superior court, the court may decree that the infant shall convey and assure such estate, in such manner as it may direct, to such other person; and every conveyance and assurance made in pursuance of such decree shall be as effectual in law as if made by a person of full age. (Rev., s. 1036; Code, s. 1365; R. C. c. 37, s. 27; 1821, c. 1116, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 994.)

A tax deed executed by an "ex-sheriff" may be authorized under this section. Manufacturing Co. v. Rosey, 144 N. C. 370, 57 S. E. 2; McNair v. Boyd, 163 N. C. 478, 79 S. E. 966.

§ 39-6. Revocation of deeds of future interest made to persons not in esse.—The grantor in any voluntary conveyance in which some future interest in real estate is conveyed or limited to a person not in esse may, at any time before he comes into being, revoke by deed such interest so conveyed or limited. This deed of revocation shall be registered as other deeds; and the grantor of like interest for a valuable consideration may, with the joinder of the person from whom the consideration moved, revoke said interest in like manner. The grantor, maker or trustee who has heretofore created or may hereafter create a voluntary trust estate in real or personal property for the use and benefit of himself or of any other person or persons in esse with a future contingent interest to some person or persons not in esse or not determined until the happening of a future event may at any time, prior to the happening of the contingency vesting the future estates, revoke the grant of the same in that person or persons in esse or not determined by a proper instrument to that effect; and the grantor of like interest for a valuable consideration may, with the joinder of the person from whom the consideration moved, revoke said interest in like manner: Provided that in the event the instrument creating such estate has been recorded, then the deed of revocation of such estate shall be likewise recorded before it becomes effective: Provided, further, that this section shall not apply to any instrument hereafter executed creating such a future contingent interest when said instrument expressly state in effect that the grantor, maker, or trustor may not revoke such interest: Provided, further, that this section shall not apply to any instrument hereafter executed whether or not such instrument contains express provision that it is irrevocable unless the grantor, maker, or trustor shall within six months after the effective date of this proviso either revoke such future interest. It shall be with the trustee an instrument stating or declaring that it is his intention to retain the power to revoke under this section: Provided, further, that in the event the instrument creating such estate has been recorded, then the revocation or declaration shall likewise be recorded before it becomes effective. (Rev., s. 1045; 1893, c. 498; 1899, c. 305; 1941, c. 264; 1943, c. 437; C. S. 996.)

Cross Reference.—As to registration of deeds, see §§ 47-17, 47-18 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the last sentence to this section down to the second proviso. Formerly the section applied only to voluntary conveyances; as amended, it includes the creation of voluntary trusts in real or personal property only for the benefit of the grantor, maker, or trustor, and of persons not in esse, but for the benefit of persons determinable upon the happening of a future event. Furthermore, as amended, it applies to voluntary trusts heretofore created as well as to such as may be created hereafter.

The 1943 amendment inserted before the first proviso the words beginning with “and the grantor.” The amendment became effective March 15, 1941, and did not affect pending litigation. For comment on this enactment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 278.

The 1943 amendment added the last three provisos after this section.

For article commenting on this section, see 20 N. C. Law Rev. 207.

Section Not Retroactive.—This section does not apply to deeds executed prior to its enactment. Roe v. Journeigan, 175 N. C. 261, 95 S. E. 495; Roe v. Journeigan, 181 N. C. 189, 156 S. E. 186.

Though vested rights may not be affected by retroactive laws, contingent interests may be affected thereby, and where there is a voluntary trust with the limitation over the remainder in esse, who consented to the revocation of a trust given by this section is not within the constitution. Stanback v. Citizen’s Nat. Bank, 197 N. C. 20, 148 S. E. 313.

Constitutionality was upheld in Stanback v. Citizen’s Nat. Bank, 197 N. C. 292, 148 S. E. 313. Mere expectations of future contingent interests provided for persons not in esse do not constitute vested rights such as would deprive the legislature of the power to enact this section authorizing revocation of a voluntary grant. MacMillan v. Branch Banking, etc., Co., 221 N. C. 352, 20 S. E. (2d) 276.

Voluntary Trusts.—A trust estate in personality created by the donor in consideration of one dollar and natural love and affection is a voluntary trust revocable by the donor under this section. Stanback v. Citizen’s Nat. Bank, 197 N. C. 292, 148 S. E. 313.

Where a voluntary trust is created in bank stock for the life of the donor or until he reach the age of fifty years, and in contemplation of the donor’s death, in the absence of issue to his next of kin, those who take in remainder take upon a contingency, the vesting of which depends upon the uncertain happening of a future event, and the execution by the donor, Stanback v. Citizen’s Nat. Bank, 197 N. C. 292, 148 S. E. 313. Where a woman receives property without restriction from her husband and the deed evidences a deed in marriage and her hereditary interests do not ipso facto become vested, and she may revoke the trust upon giving a sufficient deed to that effect and in compliance with the provisions of this section. MacRae v. Commerce Union Trust Co., 199 N. C. 714, 715, 155 S. E. 614.

Plaintiff executed a voluntary trust in personally with direction that the income therefrom be paid to her for life and upon her marriage, depending upon their reaching a certain age, the trust estate is to be passed to her issue or in the event of her marriage, depending upon their reaching a certain age, the trust estate is to be passed to her issue. No provision for the withdrawal of the trust estate is made by the donor, and the donor’s right to revoke under this section is not within the constitution. Stanback v. Citizens Nat. Bank, 221 N. C. 352, 20 S. E. (2d) 276.

Law Governing Power of Revocation of Trust Settlement—Where the daughter of a British subject takes property absolutely from her husband under his will upon her marriage, and marries in North Carolina, executing in this State a deed of settlement in trust, without consideration, the deed is a conveyance of the property to a trust estate agreed to under this section. MacMillan v. Branch Banking, etc., Co., 221 N. C. 352, 20 S. E. (2d) 276.

The waiver of the right of revocation by the trustor of a voluntary trust is without consideration and does not prejudice the power of revocation by the donor under this section. MacMillan v. Branch Banking, etc., Co., 221 N. C. 352, 20 S. E. (2d) 276.

Art. 2. Conveyances by Husband and Wife.

§ 39-7. Instruments affecting married woman’s title; husband to execute; privy examination. — Every conveyance, power of attorney or other instrument affecting the estate, right or title of any married woman in lands, tenements or hereditaments must be executed by such married woman and her husband, and due proof or acknowledgment thereof must be made as to the husband and due acknowledgment thereof must be made by the wife, and her private examination, touching her voluntary assent to such instrument, shall be taken separate and apart from her husband, and such acknowledgment or proof as to the execution by the husband and such acknowledgment or proof as to the execution by the wife and her private examination shall be taken and certified as provided by law. Any conveyance, power of attorney, contract to convey, mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument executed by any married woman in the manner by this chapter provided, and executed by her husband also, shall be valid in law to pass, bind or charge the estate, right, title and interest of such married woman in and to all such lands, tenements and hereditaments or other estate, real or personal, as shall constitute the subject-matter or be embraced within the terms and conditions of such instrument or purport to be passed, bound, charged or conveyed thereby. (Rev., s. 922; Code, s. 1256; 1999, c. 293, s. 9; C. C. F., s. 429, subsec. 6; 1868-9, c. 277, s. 15; C. S. 997.)

1. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.
Editor's Note.—In arriving at the legislative intent and a sound construction of this section, it must be considered in connection with Article X, Section 6, of the Constitution of North Carolina, and Chapter 52 of the General Statutes. The Constitution secures to a feme covert her property, real and personal, acquired before or after marriage, as her sole and separate estate and property. However, if this requirement is not met, the instrument merely as a witness is a sufficient "written assent." Jennings v. Hinton, 123 N. C. 48, 35 S. E. 182; or a letter written by him is sufficient. Prinkley v. Ballance, 126 N. C. 393, 35 S. E. 611; Stallings v. Walker, 176 N. C. 321, 324, 97 S. E. 25.

Execute Same Instrument.—This section clearly contemplates that the same instrument of writing shall be executed by both husband and wife. Slocomb v. Ray, 123 N. C. 371, 31 S. E. 849; Green v. Bennett, 120 N. C. 394, 27 S. E. 142.

Order of Procedure.—It is contemplated and required by the statute that the deed shall be first acknowledged by the husband and wife, and that her privy examination shall be taken afterwards; or if, for any of the causes specified in the statute, this cannot be done, then, first, the husband must make known to the proper officer to take her acknowledgment and privy examination his intention to convey the real estate; and, second, he must acknowledge the execution of the deed, or it must be proved as to him by witnesses before a judge or the county court, and then, upon suggestion to the judge or county court, as directed by the statute, the commission may go out to take the privy examination of the wife. Graves v. Johnson, 172 N. C. 176, 178, 90 S. E. 112.

B. Husband's Acknowledgment and Proof Thereof.

Time of acknowledgment.—While the husband and wife must both be parties to the same deed, there is manifestly no requirement in the language of the statute that the act of acknowledgment by both should be contemporaneous. Lineberger v. Tidwell, 123 N. C. 571, 574, 31 S. E. 829; Green v. Bennett, 120 N. C. 394, 27 S. E. 142.

Same.—Husband executes first. —The deed is none the less effective to pass the title of the wife because the husband has voluntarily acknowledged it before she does. But after executing the deed, the instrument merely as a witness is a sufficient "written assent." Jennings v. Hinton, 123 N. C. 48, 35 S. E. 182; or a letter written by him is sufficient. Prinkley v. Ballance, 126 N. C. 393, 35 S. E. 611; Stallings v. Walker, 176 N. C. 321, 324, 97 S. E. 25.

Must be proved as to husband.—The statute has changed to permit the receipt of the acknowledgment of the husband to be taken afterwards. One of the real causes for changing the law (§ 39-8), but this section still requires the acknowledgment of the husband or proof of his execution of the deed to pass the title of the wife. And the principle announced, that the General Assembly has power to prescribe the form in which the assent of the husband to the execution of a deed by the wife shall be evidenced, is unimpeached. See Lineberger v. Tidwell, 123 N. C. 571, 574, 31 S. E. 829, construes section 1256 of the Code (1883), Revisal, sec. 992, Consolidated Statutes, § 992, which is a Revisal; see section 1256, Consolidated Statutes, § 992, which is a Revisal; and see section 1256, Consolidated Statutes, § 992, which is a Revisal.

The husband, but not proved as to him, was ineffectual to pass the title of the wife, although her acknowledgment and private examination were taken. The fact that the grantor was compelled to take the public examination of the wife did not destroy the validity of the deed. See Price v. Blankinship, 174 N. C. 759, 94 S. E. 519.

Consent Proved and Recorded after Wife's Death.—No title by a woman to her dower in land is binding upon the grantee from recovering possession during her husband's life, until such conveyance be signed by both the husband and wife; and a deed made and signed in due form by the wife, in which thereafter the husband writes in his name as a grantor, and after her death, acknowledges its execution before the clerk, is invalid to pass title. Hensley v. Blankinship, 174 N. C. 759, 94 S. E. 519.

Consent Proved and Recorded before Wife's Death.—When only interest is dower.—Where the only interest is dower, the power of attorney sufficient in form by the heirs at law of a deceased owner of land, as tenants in common, but one of them, a feme covert, until she is privily examined by the proper authorities, whose leading purpose was to facilitate alienation by married women. Burgess v. Wilson, 13 N. C. 306, 306, and left the statute unchanged as to married women, while the evils and inconveniences resulting from the provisions of this section, both the owner of land, as tenants in common, but one of them, a feme covert, until she is privily examined by the proper authorities. This section offers a safeguard which ought to be retained. Graves v. Johnson, 172 N. C. 176, 179, 90 S. E. 113.

When Only Interest Is Dower.—Where the only interest is dower, the power of attorney sufficient in form by the heirs at law of a deceased owner of land, as tenants in common, but one of them, a feme covert, until she is privily examined by the proper authorities, whose leading purpose was to facilitate alienation by married women. Burgess v. Wilson, 13 N. C. 306, 306, and left the statute unchanged as to married women, while the evils and inconveniences resulting from the provisions of this section, both the owner of land, as tenants in common, but one of them, a feme covert, until she is privily examined by the proper authorities. This section offers a safeguard which ought to be retained. Graves v. Johnson, 172 N. C. 176, 179, 90 S. E. 113.

Veto Power of Husband.—While the husband has no interest in the wife's property, he has a "veto" power over the alienation of her realty by withholding his written consent. Section 47-67 of this Code, which was held in the Barrett case not to apply so as to impair or divest the rights of a feme covert acknowledged the execution of a deed, and the judgment of a competent superior court, the deed was then a conveyance of record and could not be collaterally impeached in an action of ejectment. Wright v. Player, 72 N. C. 94.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the enactment of this section a deed made by husband and wife, conveying the wife's land, was required to be first acknowledged by the husband before the acknowledgment and private examination of the wife. This order of acknowledgment and private examination was taken. It has said that the only defect in the private examination in question was that it was taken a few minutes or hours before the husband's acknowledgment on the same day of the execution of the deed by him. Obviously such stringent and technical requirements could hardly be said to be in line with the spirit of a statute whose leading purpose was to facilitate alienation by married women, or as said in Barfield v. Combs, 15 N. C. 514, "object of this statute is to make it easy to pass any title or interest whatsoever."

—In all cases of deeds or other instruments executed by husband and wife and requiring registration, the probate of such instruments as to the husband and acknowledgment and private examination of the wife may be taken before different officers authorized by law to take probate of deeds, and at different times and places, whether before one or more officials, in this state or only one in this state and the other in another state or country. And in taking the probate of such instruments executed by husband and wife, including the private examination of the wife, it is immaterial whether the execution of the instrument was proven as to or acknowledged by the husband before or after the acknowledgment and private examination of the wife. (Rev., s. 953; 1899, c. 225, s. 9; 1895, c. 136; C. S. 998.)
When Husband and Wife not of State.—When the husband and wife reside in a foreign country her acknowledgment, etc., may be taken by an ambassador, etc., of the United States, or by the mayor or other chief officer of the city or town of her residence, or if that officer is not qualified, by a Military Officer. — An acknowledgment and private examination taken by the provost marshal of the city of New Bern while that place was in possession of the State of North Carolina, although the absence of fraud and the like, is good, having a similar effect as foreign judgments.

§ 39-10. Officers authorized to take private examination.—The officers authorized by law to take private examinations of real property are (1) any instrument to which her assent is or may be necessary, and to certify the fact of such private examination, see § 47-18 and annotations.

§ 39-11. Certain conveyances not affected by fraud if private examination regular.—No deed conveying lands nor any instrument required or allowed by law to be registered, executed by husband and wife since the eleventh of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, if the private examination was properly taken or not, but no such instrument shall be the act or deed of the wife unless her private examination is taken according to law. (Rev., s. 955; 1899, c. 235, s. 8; 1901, c. 637; C. S. 1909.)

Cross Reference.—As to provision that clerk of the superior court pass on certificate of acknowledgment and other registration, see § 47-14.

When Assent of Wife Not Needed.—An unembarrassed conveyance of land, no matter when the land was acquired, may be conveyed the same, absolutely, or by way of trust or mortgage, free of all homestead rights, without the assent of the husband, subject only to her right of dower, except in the following cases: (1) where the conveyance is fraudulent as to creditors, and the conveyance is still required to pass the title or interest of the wife; (2) where no homestead has been allotted, but there are judgments against the wife, subject only to her right of dower, except in the following cases: (1) where the conveyance is fraudulent as to creditors, and the conveyance is still required to pass the title or interest of the wife; (2) where no homestead has been allotted in other lands. Hughes v. Hodges, 102 N. C. 236, 9 S. E. 437.

Acknowledgment of Husband Required.—The acknowledgment of the husband or proof of his execution of the deed is still required to pass the title or interest of the wife. Graves v. Johnson, 127 N. C. 176, 179, 90 S. E. 113.

§ 39-9. Absence of wife's examination does not affect deed as to husband.—When an instrument purports to be signed by a husband and wife the instrument may be ordered registered, if the acknowledgment of the husband is duly taken, whether the private examination of the wife is properly taken or not, but no such instrument shall be the act or deed of the wife unless her private examination is taken according to law. (Rev., s. 955; 1899, c. 235, s. 8; 1901, c. 637; C. S. 1909.)

Cross Reference.—As to provision that clerk of the superior court pass on certificate of acknowledgment and other registration, see § 47-14.

When Privy Examination Not Taken.—In an action to secure borrowed money, she may not have it set aside upon the ground that the private examination of the wife was thereto certified by the probate office, see § 47-18 and annotations.

Constitutional Requirement as to Homestead.—By the sixth section of the tenth Article of the Constitution, a deed made by the owner of a homestead without the voluntary signature and assent of his wife is void. Wittkower v. Gitney, 124 N. C. 437, 441, 32 S. E. 731.

§ 39-10. Officers authorized to take private examination.—The officials authorized by law to take private examinations and acknowledgments of the execution of any instrument are empowered to take the private examination of any married woman, when her private examination is necessary, touching her free and voluntary assent to the execution of any instrument to which her assent is or may be necessary, and to certify the fact of such private examination. (Rev., s. 955; 1899, c. 235, s. 6; C. S. 1909.)

Cross Reference.—As to officials authorized by law to take acknowledgments, see §§ 2-16, paragraph 13, 47-1, 47-2, 47-3, 10-c.
§ 39-12. Power of attorney of married woman. — All conveyances which may be made by any person under a power of attorney from any feme covert, freely executed by her with her husband, shall be valid to all intents and purposes to pass the estate, right and title which said feme covert may have in such lands, tenements and hereditaments mentioned or included in such power of attorney. (Rev., s. 957; Code, s. 1257; R. C., c. 37, s. 11; 1798, c. 510; C. S. 1002.)

Cross Reference. — As to registration of power of attorney, see § 47-28.

§ 39-13. Wife need not join in purchase-money mortgage. — The purchaser of real estate who does not pay the whole of the purchase money at the time when he takes a deed for title may make a mortgage or deed of trust for securing the payment of such purchase money, or such part thereof as may remain unpaid, which shall be good and effectual against his wife as well as himself, without requiring her to join in the execution of such mortgage or deed of trust. (Rev., s. 958, Code, s. 1272; 1868-9, c. 204; 1907, c. 12; C. S. 1003.)

Cross Reference. — As to dower generally, see § 30-4 et seq. As to property in which widow is entitled to dower, see § 30-5. As to deed of husband alone, purchase money mortgages as exception, see § 30-6.

Dower Right Subject to Defeat. — The dower right of a feme covert may be defeated by a mortgage of the husband alone, whether for the purpose of purchasing land, or for the purpose of purchasing another mortgage, for the security of the original mortgage, or by the conveyance of land mortgaged, or by the conveyance of any interest in such land as may be exempt as a homestead. (Rev., s. 958, Code, s. 1272; 1868-9, c. 204; 1907, c. 12; C. S. 1003.)

§ 39-14: Repealed by Session Laws 1943, c. 543.

Editor's Note. — Chapter 65 of the Public Laws of 1921, now codified as section 30-9, was a re-enactment of this section. However, that act contained no specific repeal of this section. The 1943 act accomplished the repeal in specific terms.

Art. 3. Fraudulent Conveyances.

§ 39-15. Conveyance with intent to defraud creditors void. — For avoiding and abolishing feigned, covinous and fraudulent gifts, grants, alienations, conveyances, bonds, suits, judgments and executions, as well of lands and tenements as of goods and chattels, which may be contrived and devised of fraud, to the purpose and intent to delay, hinder and defraud creditors and others of their just and lawful actions and debts, every gift, grant, alienation, bargain and conveyance of lands, tenements and hereditaments, goods and chattels, by writing or otherwise, and every bond, suit, judgment and execution, at any time had or made, to or for any intent or purpose last before declared and expressed, shall be deemed and taken (only as against that person, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, whose actions, debts, accounts, damages, penalties and forfeitures by such covinous or fraudulent devices and practices aforesaid, are, shall, or might be in anywise disturbed, hindered, delayed or defrauded) to be utterly void and of no effect; any pretense, color, feigned consideration, expression of use, or any other matter or thing to the contrary notwithstanding; and in all actions by creditors to set aside gifts, grants, alienations and conveyances of lands and tenements and judgments purporting to be liens on the same on the ground that such gifts, grants, alienations, conveyances and judgments are feigned, covinous and fraudulent hereunder, it shall be no defense to the action to allege and prove that the lands and tenements alleged to be so conveyed or encumbered do not exceed in value the homestead allowed by law as an exemption: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the sale under execution or other final process, obtained on any debt during the continuance of the homestead, of any interest in such land as may be exempt as a homestead. (Rev., s. 960; Code, s. 1545; 1893, c. 78; R. C., c. 50, s. 1; 50 Edw. III, c. 6; 13 Eliz., c. 5, s. 2; 1715, c. 7, s. 4; C. S. 1005.)

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.

Editor's Note. — This section is a substantial re-enactment of the statute 13 Eliz., C. 5, sec. 2. Bank v. Adrian, 116 N. C. 357, 547, 21 S. E. 792. Prior to its enactment it was necessary to invoke the aid of a court of equity to have a deed declared void for fraud, and where, under a statutory proviso, deeds were pronounced void as against creditors (in order to secure a formal declaration of their invalidity, the moving party must have asked for relief that would have been formerly administered solely in a court of equity. Farthing v. Carrington, 116 N. C. 315, 328, 22 S. E. 759), it was a period in the judicial history of this state. It was held that courts of law might hear evidence and pass even incidentally upon the question whether a deed was fraudulent under 13 Eliz. Logan v. Simmons, 18 N. C. 13, 1840; Anns. 311; Hummington v. Encrady & Bro. v. Skinner, 31 N. C. 191; Helsms v. Green, 105 N. C. 251, 259, 11 S. E. 470; Wharton on Evidence, sec. 131. 13 Eliz., is declaratory of the common law so far as regards existing creditors. The remedy given to subsequent creditors was entirely upon the enactment of the statute. In this sense the statute is sometimes spoken of as being in affiliation [154]

It applies to voluntary conveyances of personality, as well as realty, as against creditors. Garrison v. Brice, 48 N. C. 498.

Prevents Passage of Any Estate.—The section makes fraudulent conveyances absolutely void, and in that way prevents the passing of any estate whatever, as against creditors of the grantor. Smith v. Banks, 105 N. D. 473, 149 N. E. 668; Brown v. Hume, 129 N. C. 195, 201, 9 S. Ct. 37, 32 L. Ed. 370.

The conveyance Made by Debtor.—The section operating, as it does, to wholly avoid the conveyances coming within its purview, can be applied only to conveyances made by the debtor himself. Gowing v. Rich, 23 N. C. 553.

Mortgagor Considered as Owner.—In expounding the statute against fraudulent conveyances, the mortgagor is considered the owner of the estate, and the mortgagee an encumbrancer. Wall v. White, 14 N. C. 105, 107.

II. WHAT CONSTITUTES FRAUD.

A. In General.

Rule Stated.—In Aman v. Walker, 165 N. C. 224, 227, 81 S. E. 162, it was held that the principles to be deduced from the authorities as to fraudulent conveyances are: (1) If the grantor did not retain property fully sufficient and available to pay his debts then existing, and there is no actual intent to defraud, the conveyance is valid. (2) If the conveyance is voluntary and made with the actual intention upon the part of the grantor did not retain property fully sufficient and available to pay his debts then existing, it is invalid as to creditors; but it cannot be impeached by subsequent creditors, unless they have knowledge or notice of such fraud. See, in this connection, § 39-15. Black v. Sanders, 46 N. C. 67; Warren v. Maley, 85 N. C. 12, 14; Credle v. Carraway, 64 N. C. 422, 424; Worthy v. Brady, 91 N. C. 263, 269; Savage v. Knight, 92 N. C. 491, 495; Clement v. Cozart, 112 N. C. 412, 420, 17 S. E. 486; Hobbs v. Cashwell, 152 N. C. 183, 188, 67 S. E. 495; Powell Bros. v. McConnell Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 52, 58, 68 S. E. 926. (3) If the conveyance is voluntary and made with the actual intent upon the part of the grantor to defraud creditors, it is void, although this fraudulent intent is not participated in by the grantees, and although property sufficient and available to pay existing debts is retained. (4) If the conveyance is voluntary and made with the actual intent to defraud creditors upon the part of the grantor alone, not participated in by the grantee or of which he has notice, it is void. Black v. Sanders, 46 N. C. 67; Warren v. Maley, 85 N. C. 12, 14; Credle v. Carraway, 64 N. C. 422, 424; Worthy v. Brady, 91 N. C. 263, 269; Savage v. Knight, 92 N. C. 491, 495; Clement v. Cozart, 112 N. C. 412, 420, 17 S. E. 486; Hobbs v. Cashwell, 152 N. C. 183, 188, 67 S. E. 495; Powell Bros. v. McConnell Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 52, 58, 68 S. E. 926.

Evidence of Intent.—The rule laid down by Mr. Justice Story in 22 V. 144, 226, 173 U. S. 144, 148, 5 S. Ct. 81, 28 IL. Ed. 670, is that the fraud which will be sustained as against creditors, must be intended, or the person does and intends to do that which from its conveyances the law pronounces fraudulent, he is held to have intended the fraud inseparable from the act. Chetham v. Woodsworth, 80 N. C. 161, 161, cited in note in 23 IL. R. A., 616, 279, 41, 327, 11 Ed. 370.

Fraud a Compound Question of Law and Fact. — In Crow v. Holland, 12 N. C. 481, 482, it was said: "Fraud is a compound question of law and fact. The facts going to establish it are decided by a jury. Whether, when the fraud is established, there is to be the object to be secured be bona fide due, and itself tinge'd with no vicious ingredient.

The Sufficiency of Intent. — It is not necessary that there should have been an intent to hinder, delay, and defraud. An intent either to hinder and delay, or an intent to defraud, is sufficient. Peeler v. Peeler, 109 N. C. 628, 14 S. E. 59.

Same—Actual Delay Need Not Result. — In the language of Lord Ellenborough in Mieux v. Howell, 4 East., 113: "The Act of Fraud and Defraud (as I understand it) was meant to prevent deeds, etc., fraudulent in their concoction, and not merely such as in their effect might delay or hinder the creditors." Quoted in Moore v. Hinnant, 89 N. C. 455, 459.

"It is clear, however, from the language of the statute of 13 Elizabeth, remarks a recent author after a full discussion of the subject, "that its provisions were directed exclusively against conveyances made with an actual intent upon the part of the debtors to hinder, delay or defraud creditors, as distinguished from the mere effect or operation of such conveyances. The expressions in the preamble, 'devised and contrived,' (to the end,) 'purpose and intent,' etc., leave no room for doubt on this point. Hence it has been sometimes very expressively designated, as the statute against fraudulent intents in alienation." Moore v. Hinnant, 89 N. C. 455, 460, quoting Burrill Assign, sec. 332.

Intent as Poisonous Element. — The intention of a conveyance to accomplish the object of the assignee, or the assignee's lawyer to execute it, and if any of these latter be covinous, the intent is necessarily so. Stone v. Marshall, 52 N. C. 300, 390.

Acts fraudulent in view of the law, because of their necessary tendency to delay or obstruct the creditor in pursuance of his legal remedy, do not cease to be such because the fraud as an independent fact was not then to this purpose. The person does and intends to do that which from its conveyances the law pronounces fraudulent, he is held to have intended the fraud inseparable from the act. Chetham v. Woodsworth, 80 N. C. 161, 161, cited in note in 23 IL. R. A., 616, 279, 41, 327, 11 Ed. 370.

Mutuality of Fraudulent Intent.—In Horbach v. Hill, 112 N. C. 144, 51 S. E. 670, 144 U. S. 144, 148, 5 S. Ct. 81, 28 IL. Ed. 670, it was said that the fraud which will be sustained as against creditors, must be intended, or the person does and intends to do that which from its conveyances the law pronounces fraudulent, he is held to have intended the fraud inseparable from the act. Chetham v. Woodsworth, 80 N. C. 161, 161, cited in note in 23 IL. R. A., 616, 279, 41, 327, 11 Ed. 370.

Evidence of Intent.—The rule laid down by Mr. Justice Story in 22 V. 144, 226, 173 U. S. 144, 148, 5 S. Ct. 81, 28 IL. Ed. 670, is that the fraud which will be sustained as against creditors, must be intended, or the person does and intends to do that which from its conveyances the law pronounces fraudulent, he is held to have intended the fraud inseparable from the act. Chetham v. Woodsworth, 80 N. C. 161, 161, cited in note in 23 IL. R. A., 616, 279, 41, 327, 11 Ed. 370.

Same—Reservation of Exemptions. — The reservation of exemptions allowed by law in a deed of assignment is no evidence of a fraudulent intent. Barber v. Buffaloe, 111 N. C. 380, 45 S. E. 386.

Intent Not Clear—Badges of Fraud. — It is true that courts and juries cannot see and know the intent of an assignor except from his words and acts. Where he expresses his intent—his purpose to be—to defraud his creditors, we need not look further. This will avoid the assignment. But if he had not so declared his purpose, then we have to look to his action to ascertain his intent, and if by which the assignment was made—to what are called the "badges of fraud." Byr- stey v. Stallings, 124 N. C. 55, 64, 32 S. E. 384. These "badges of fraud" constitute the subject of the next succeeding analysis line of this note.

C. Badges of Fraud.

Badges of Fraud Defined.—As stated in the last paragraph under the preceding analysis line of this note it frequently becomes necessary, in order to ascertain the debtor's intentions, to look for what are designated as "badges of fraud." These badges of fraud are suspicious circumstances that overhanging a transaction, and where the parties to it withhold testimony that it is exclusively within their power to produce, and that would remove all uncertainty, if believed, as to its character, the law puts the interpretation upon such conduct as it will. In such cases as this, the presumption is that fraud is implied. Where the personal estate is not invaded, and a conveyance executed within four months of the registration of the deed of trust, to raise money by the firm to pay its debts, it was held that when the parties have united in a transaction to defraud creditors to show that he bought for a valuable consideration and without notice, from a fraudulent grantor, a purchaser from a trustee, under a conveyance containing upon its face a evidence of a fraudulent purpose to defeat creditors, takes with notice of such evidence, Eigenbrun v. Smith, 98 N. C. 207, 4 S. E. 122. Rights of Wife.—If the widow or the wife of the deceased, or for possession of the land conveyed to defraud creditors. The court held that when the parties have united in a transaction to defraud another or others, or the public, or the due administration of justice, or which is against the public policy or contra bonos mores, the courts will not enforce it against each other. Bank v. Adrian, 116 N. C. 537, 540, 21 S. E. 792. Although a purchaser may pay a full price for the property, yet if he purchased with the intent to aid his vendor to defeat the latter's creditors his purchase will be void. Eigenbrun v. Smith, 98 N. C. 207, 4 S. E. 122. When a husband to his wife is attacked for fraud, the onus is upon the wife to show that a consideration, in the shape of money paid, the discharge of a debt due from him to her, or something of value, actually passed. Peeler v. Peeler, 109 N. C. 628, 14 S. E. 263. The burden is on the purchaser of property conveyed to defraud creditors to show that he bought for a valuable consideration and without notice. Cox v. Wall, 132 N. C. 730, 44 S. E. 653.

IV. RIGHTS AND REMEDIES OF CREDITORS.

Editor's Note.—It would seem that this article dealing with fraudulent conveyances would have to be deleted from your next edition. It is but a statement of the law as it now stands and as it has been held by the courts. It reminds us of the need of a new Code for the protection of creditors.

Minor children are not creditors of their father's for their past support furnished them by another, and for which their personal estate was not invaded, and a conveyance executed for their benefit, is not fraudulent, even though the instrument be set aside by them under this section. Bryant v. Bryant, 212 N. C. 6, 192 S. E. 864.

Preference of Creditors.—It is stated in emphatic terms by Gaston, J., speaking for the court in Hafner v. Irwin, 23 N. C. 10, 11, 3 S. E. 748: “Every creditor of an insolvent or embarrassed man, to the exclusive satisfaction of the claims of some of his creditors, has necessarily a tendency to defeat or hinder his other creditors in the collection of their demands. But if the sole purpose of such an act be the discharge of an honest debt, it does not fall under the operation of the statute against fraudulent conveyances.”

It is entirely well settled, both in England and America, that, where by law a person, insolvent, in the keeping circumstances, has a right to prefer certain creditors to whom he is under special obligations, where done in good faith and without fraud, though by such preference the fund for the payment of the debt be diminished, it is not void.

But an agreement by which a conveyance, made for the purpose of preferring creditors, to be kept secret until the time when the debtor has an opportunity to get beyond the reach of process issued by his other creditors, renders the conveyance fraudulent as against other creditors, as intended to defeat or defraud them.

Conveyance to Defeat Claims for Torts.—A secret conveyance of a mill made to defeat, hinder or delay a party injured by the erection or continuance of his works upon the grantor's property, is void as to all persons whose claims are, shall or may be defrauded thereby. As to pre-existing debts such a deed would be ipso facto fraudulent and void. Morgan v. McCullard, 18 N. C. 221.

Where a deed was executed to evade the payment of any judgment that might be recovered against the grantor in an action for slander pending at the time of its execution, it is fraudulent, under the section, as to his creditors.

Secret Trusts.—In Clement v. Cozart, 109 N. C. 173, 179, 13 S. E. 812, it was said that if a deed be made, showing upon its face a full valuable consideration, but upon the particular provision, a secret trust that the vendee shall not pay anything therefor, but shall hold the same in contemplation of insolvency for the benefit of the vendor, so as to protect and shield the property against any debts that he may owe at the time on any liabilities that he may subsequently incur, such a deed would be void as to all persons whose claims are, shall or may be defrauded thereby. As to pre-existing debts such a deed would be ipso facto fraudulent and void.

Absolute Transfers Intended as Security.—A deed absolute but executed upon a parol agreement for redemption, is, in law, fraudulent and void against the creditors of the vendor.

Surety on Bond.—The liability of a principal to indemnify a surety on a bond is an existing liability at the time of the bond being taken or held by or for the person claiming the benefit of the bond.

When Insolvent Debtor Improves Wife's Estate. — An insolvent debtor cannot withdraw money from his own estate and give it to his wife to be invested by her in the purchase or improvement of her property, and to ex-tent, when it is done, creditors may subject the property so purchased or improved to the payment of their claims.

Prior and Subsequent Creditors. — At common law, conveyance of part only of the grantor's property, is, in respect to subsequent creditors seeking satisfaction out of the property conveyed, merely evidence of fraud, the consideration of which belongs to the assignor, and allowed the assignor to remain in possession free of rent; this was evidence of a secret trust and benefit to the assignor, and the turning point in the case.

When Wife Participates in Husband's Bank Deposits. — When the wife participates in her husband's depositing his money in her name at a bank for the purpose of defrauding his creditors, the attempted appropriation is void under this section which was enacted to prevent fraudulent gifts, and in an appropriate action the deposit will be considered and dealt with as if it stood in the name of the husband.

When Trustee in Bankruptcy May Have Conveyance Set Aside.—A trustee in bankruptcy is entitled to have a fraudulent conveyance set aside and to recover the property conveyed, goods and chattels, if the same be made with the actual intent in fact to defraud such person who has purchased or shall purchase in fee simple or for lives, for rents, for years, and in fee simple remainder or remainders, goods and chattels, or to defraud such as shall purchase any rent or profit out of the same, shall be deemed utterly void against such person and others claiming under him who shall purchase for the full value thereof the same lands or hereditaments, goods and chattels, or rents or profits out of the same, without notice before and at the time of his purchase of the conveyance, charge, lease or encumbrance, by him alleged to have been made with intent to defraud; and possession taken or held by or for the person claiming under such alleged fraudulent conveyance, charge, lease or encumbrance shall be always deemed and taken as notice in law of such conveyance.
provenance to break through the distinction between land and equity."

In Plummer v. Worley, 35 N. C. 423, Ruffin, C. J., uses this language "It is true that the statute of 27 Eliz. is in its importance of its provisions to "things personal"; but it is in affirmative of the common law." It is apparent that reference is here made to the dictum of Lord Mansfield, and the inference is indisputably suggested that the principle is to be extended to "things personal," but the idea is not followed out in the decision. So it came to be a settled and unbroken holding in this State that the section applied only to land. However, the need for an extension of its provisions to "things personal" has latterly been felt. So, while the rule was too well established for the courts to break away, the statute brought relief by extending the section to "goods and chattels," the change appearing in section 1546 of the Code of 1883.

Section Constricted with Registration Act.—This section and the Registration Act (Sections 47-17 to 47-20) were both intended to prevent fraud, and must be construed together with that view. Austin v. Staten, 126 N. C. 783, 36 S. E. 338.

First Bona Fide Purchaser Protected.—27 Elizabeth being intended for the benefit of purchasers, the first bona fide purchaser, whether from the fraudulent vendor or vendee, is within its operation. Hole v. Henderson, 14 N. C. 12. "Purchaser" Defined.—The term "purchaser" is not used in the same sense as is the idea of "settlor," who conveys to an estate by his own act. It is to be received in its popular meaning as denoting one who buys for money, and, as we think, buys fairly and of course at a fair price. Fullenwider v. Roberts, 20 N. C. 430, 465, citing Upton v. Bailey, 51 N. H. 455. The Legislature thought proper in 1840 to declare that no person shall be deemed a purchaser unless he purchased the land for the full value thereof, without notice, at the time of his purchase, of the conveyance by him alleged to be fraudulent. Hiatt v. Wade, 30 N. C. 340, 342.

Second Purchaser Must Be Bona Fide. — The second purchaser must be a bona fide purchaser before the Act of 1885, still be a bona fide purchaser, and for full value. We do not mean to say that he should have paid every dollar the land was worth, but he should have paid a reasonable fair price, such as would be paid by a purchaser of a legal advantage. Crump v. Black, 41 N. C. 321, 324.

Curing Invalidity. — It is a settled principle that a deed voluntary or even fraudulent in its creation, and voidable by a purchaser, may become good by matter ex post facto. See Sumner v. Hicks, 2 Black 532, 535, 17 L. Ed. 355. But such an assignee takes title subject to any equity, or other right, that attaches to the property in the hands of the debtor. Carpenter v. Duke, 144 N. C. 291, 293, 56 S. E. 698.

§ 39-17. Voluntary conveyance evidence of fraud as to existing creditors.—No voluntary gift or settlement of property by one indebted shall be deemed or taken to be void in law, as to creditors of the donor or settler prior to such gift or settlement, by reason merely of such indebtedness, in property, at the time of making such gift or settlement, fully sufficient and available for the satisfaction of the then creditors, be retained by such donor or settler; but the indebtedness or condition of the donor or settler at such time shall be held and taken, as well with respect to creditors prior to such creditors subsequent to such gift or settlement, to be evidence only from which an intent to defray, hinder or deprive creditors may be inferred; and in any trial shall, as such, be submitted by the court to the jury, with such observations as may be right and proper. (Rev., s. 962; Code, s. 1547; R. C., c. 50, s. 3; 1840, c. 28, ss. 3, 4; C. S. 1007.)

Gifts of Visible Estate and Retention of Choses in Action. — Gifts of visible estates cannot be defeated, where the donor or settlor had resources in stocks or other securities of value at the time of his purchase, in the possession of the fraudulent donee. Wade v. Hiatt, 32 N. C. 302, 303.

When Donor Is Unable to Pay Debts. — It is a well settled rule of law in this state, that no voluntary deed can be set aside, revoked, rescinded, or annulled, to a legacy, before he has paid all of the debts of his testator; but the debt due to a creditor who is able to pay his debts at the time of the execution of the deed. Hobbs v. Cashwell, 152 N. C. 183, 188, 67 S. E. 495; McCranie v. Finchum, 89 N. C. 373.

When Conveyance Avoided Only as between Parties to Action. — When the court, in an action under this section has declared a voluntary conveyance void as to the plaintiff, and decreed that it be "set aside, revoked, rescinded, and annulled," it is avoided only as between the parties to the action. Stigges v. Portis Min. Co., 206 Fed. 534, 538; Allred v. Smith, 135 N. C. 443, 47 S. E. 597, 65 L. R. A. 929.

Legatee Must Suffer Loss. — The assent of an executor to a legacy, before he has paid all of the debts of his testator, void as to the creditors, for it is a fraud, an act in violation of the maxim, "A man must be just before he is generous." So long as the executor is solvent, no debt can be left unpaid, for he is liable to the creditors de bonis propriis, by reason of the devastation. If the executor be insolvent, the loss must fall upon the legatee. Pullen v. Hutchins, 67 N. C. 428, 432.

Conveyance to Son.—Where a deed to the grantor's son is impeached as a voluntary gift upon the ground that he did not retain property "fully sufficient and available for the satisfaction of his then creditors," as required by the section, evidence of the contrary was required if it be true that the presumption is invalid if not made with a fraudulent intent and enough property is retained for all his creditors. Worthy v. Brady, 91 N. C. 263.

But where such a deed provides that the grantee shall support the grantor in his old age and in any other way with the condition imposed, it is not voluntary within the meaning of the section, but rests upon a valuable consideration. Worthy v. Brady, 91 N. C. 264.

A voluntary conveyance is not avoided by the fact that the grantor was indebted at the time, if he afterwards paid the debt. Smith v. Reavis, 29 N. C. 341.

Conveyance from Husband and Wife.—A voluntary conveyance of land by husband and wife is not avoidable by the courts on the ground that the conveyance is prohibited by the statute, as husband and wife may own and hold title to real estate and certain shares of stock of the father, of the value of seven thousand dollars, and the husband has not retained sufficient property out of which to pay his then existing creditors, and the son has acted in good faith without notice or knowledge, the transfer of the stock to the son is not invalid as against the father's creditors beyond the amount he has expended for the support of the child. Jeter v. Jeter, 137 N. C. 183, 188, 67 S. E. 495; McCannel v. Finchum, 89 N. C. 373.

Conveyances to Wife.—A conveyance of lands to husband and wife by the grantee was valid although the instrument did not contain a provision for the security of the creditors, and the son will not be considered as fraudulent with respect to his father's creditors. Booth v. Holmes, 177 N. C. 524, 527, 99 S. E. 365.

Same.—When a voluntary deed of land or other property made to a son by a father unable to pay his debts is void per se as to creditors; indeed, such a deed to any person is void, and such a deed appearing, the court has no power to give the grantee title to the land. Smith v. O'Neil, 177 N. C. 133, 134, 123 S. E. 288.

When Value Determined—A commissioner's deed of sale from a bankrupt of some of his personal property was not void, and when this is established and the conveyance is not fraudulent, a judgment obtained thereon, and operating as a gift to her within the meaning of this section, is valid. Shaver vy. Alterton, 151 U. S. 607, 625, 14 S. Ct. 442, 38 L. Ed. 286.

A voluntary conveyance is necessarily and in law fraudulent as to creditors, under this section, evidence of the tax valuation of the other lands of the debtor at the time of the voluntary conveyance is competent on the issue of intent to hinder, delay and defraud creditors as tending to show the debtor made a voluntary conveyance of property with a fraudulent intent and enough property is retained to satisfy his debts. Smith v. O'Neil, 177 N. C. 133, 134, 123 S. E. 288.

Prior and Subsequent Creditors.—The controlling principle is stated in Aman v. Walker, 165 N. C. 224, 227, 61 S. E. 162, as follows: "If the conveyance is voluntary, and the grantor did not retain property fully sufficient and available to pay his then existing creditors, the conveyance is not avoidable by reason of the tax valuation, but it cannot be impeached by subsequent creditors without proof of the existence of a debt at the time of its execution, which is unpaid, and when this is established and the conveyance is declared invalid, the proceeds of the property are subjected to the payment of creditors generally." Sutton v. Wills, 177 N. C. 524, 527, 99 S. E. 365.

A voluntary conveyance is necessarily and in law fraudulent as to creditors, whether fraudulent or not, depends upon the bona fides of the transaction, and the question of his intent to defraud has no significance. Garland v. Arrowood, 177 N. C. 371, 39 S. E. 100.

When Question of Fraud for Jury.—The section only requires the question of fraud to be submitted to a jury, in cases where property fully sufficient and available to pay the then existing creditors of the debtor is not afterwards paid to his then existing creditors. O'Daniel vy. Crawford, 15 N. C. 197, in which the subject of fraudulent conveyances is elaborately discussed in accordance with the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. O'Daniel vy. Crawford, 15 N. C. 197, 20 N. C. 128, 176 S. E. 288.

§ 39-18. Marriage settlements void as to existing creditors.—Every contract and settlement of property made by any man and woman in consideration of a marriage between them, for the benefit of such man or woman, or of their issue, whether the same be made before or after marriage, shall be void as against creditors of the parties making the same respectively, existing at the time of such marriage, if the same is antenuptial, or at the time of making such contract or settlement if the same is postnuptial. (Rev. s. 965; § 39-18. Marriage settlements void as to existing creditors.—Every contract and settlement of property made by any man and woman in consideration of a marriage between them, for the benefit of such man or woman, or of their issue, whether the same be made before or after marriage, shall be void as against creditors of the parties making the same respectively, existing at the time of such marriage, if the same is antenuptial, or at the time of making such contract or settlement if the same is postnuptial. May Surrender Curtesy Initiative. — Since the Act of 1848, a husband has the right to surrender his estate as tenant by the curtesy initiative and let it merge in the reversion of his权益, who is not in debt at the time, but their rights are not secured, and as to subsequent purchasers without notice, and creditors, if made with intent to delay or defraud them. Kelly Mar. Women, Chapter 6, sec.
9. See as to rights of creditors in cases of curtesy, § 135-15. See also Davis, 60 N. C. 491, 497.

Same—Proceeds to Separate Use of Wife. — And an agreement made before marriage to which the wife shall receive such a price in personal property and hold the same to her separate use to enable her to lay it out in the purchase of another tract of land, is valid, such price not vesting in the husbandjure marital, and therefore not subject to claims of his cred-

Application.—Where, in 1863, a husband about to enter military service made a deed to his wife of certain land for her support, but retained sufficient property to pay for her support, but retained sufficient property to pay ally, see § 52-1 et seq.

Editor's Note. — In Reiger v. Davis, 67 N. C. 185; Lassiter v. Davis, 64 N. C. 498, and the class of cases of which they are the leading representatives, the question as to the burden of proof was not involved. The court decides in those cases whether a fraudulent conveyance was made, once unless it appears that the vendee was not a party to the fraud, or purchased without any notice of the fraudulent in-

Intended as Proviso.—The purpose of the Legislature in enacting this section was to constitute an independent provision, operating as a proviso to the other sections on the donor and claiming the title from him, and thus prevent the title to the bona fide purchaser, by carrying it back to the donor or other good consideration of the estate or property conveyed, sold, mortgaged or assigned, property not affected by illegal consideration of note secured.—No conveyance or mortgage, made to secure the payment of any debt or the performance of any contract or agreement shall be deemed void as against any purchaser for valuable or other good consideration of the estate or property conveyed, sold, mortgaged or assigned, by reason that the consideration of such debt, contract or agreement is forbidden by law, if such purchaser, at the time of his purchase, did not have notice of the unlawful consideration of such debt, contract or agreement. (Rev., s. 965; Code,

See note under § 39-19.

§ 39-19. Purchasers for value and without notice protected.—Nothing contained in the preceding sections shall be construed to impeach or make void any conveyance, interest, limitation of use or uses, of or in any lands or tenements, goods or chattels, bona fide made, upon and for good consideration, to any person not having notice of such fraud. (Rev., s. 964; Code, s. 1548; R. C.,

S. E. 635.

Effect.—In Young v. Lathrop, 67 N. C. 41, 72, Am. Rep. 603, the court held that the section was a provision, operating as a proviso to the other sections on the donor and claiming the title from him, and thus prevent the title of the first purchaser from being impeached and made void." Cox v. Wall, 132 N. C. 730, 741, 44 S. E. 635.

Bona Fide Purchaser before Execution Sale. — Where a fraudulent grantee of land conveyed it to a bona fide purchasers for value without notice of the fraud, after a creditor of the fraudulent grantor had obtained a judgment against him in a suit on a note which is tainted with usu.

Bona Fide Purchaser Gets Good Title.—Under this sec-

out notice of the illegality of the consideration of the said debt his title is not affected thereby. McNeill v. Riddle, 66 N. C. 290.

§ 39-21. Bona fide purchaser of fraudulently conveyed property treated as creditor.—Purchasers of estates previously conveyed in fraud of creditors or purchasers shall have like remedy and relief as creditors might have had before the sale and purchase. (Rev., s. 966; Code, s. 1550; R. C., c. 50, s. 6; C. S. 1011.)

§ 39-22. Persons aiding debtor to remove to defraud creditors liable for debts.—If any person removest or aids and assists in removing any debtor out of any county in which he has resided for the space of six months, or more, with the intent, by such removing, aiding or assisting, to delay, hinder or defraud the creditors, or any of them, of such debtor, the person so removing, aiding or assisting therein, and his executors or administrators, shall be liable to pay all the debts which the debtor removed may justly owe in the county from which he was so removed; and the same may be recovered by the creditors, their executors or administrators, by a civil action. (Rev., s. 1939; Code, s. 1551; R. C., c. 50, s. 14; 1820, c. 1063; C. S. 1012.)

What Constitutes Aid and Assistance.—Aid or assistance is the doing of some act whereby the party is enabled, or it is made easier for him to do the principal act, or effect some primary purpose. Wiley & Co. v. McRee, 47 N. C. 349, 351.

Where a party persuades a debtor, who is temporarily absent from the county of his residence, not to go back into that county, but to go to distant parts, and promises, if he will do so, to send his property from his residence to him, and does afterwards send such property to him, and aids him with money to abscond from where he then is, and goes part of the way with him, for the purpose of defrauding his creditors, he is liable under the section. Moore v. Rogers, 48 N. C. 91.

Where a party, having the money of his principal in his hands, in a fair and honest purpose, paid it to his son fraudulently to assist him in absconding, the mere fact that, in a settlement of accounts between the principal and the agent, the former allowed the latter's bill for money thus spent in purchase of land in the name of another, was a reason sufficient to subject the principal. Moore v. Rogers, 51 N. C. 297.

Same—Carrying Debtor to Railway Station.—Where a party, with his horse and buggy, carried a debtor to a railroad station, and placed the money belonging to him to leave the State, with the intent to assist him in the purpose of avoiding his creditors, it was held to be a fraudulent removal within the statute. Moffitt v. Burgess, 53 N. C. 342.

Same—Property Not Carried Entirely Out of County.—Where a debtor removes out of a county with intent to defraud his creditors, a person, who knowing of such intent, helps him by carrying him or his property a part of the way in order to assist him in getting him out of the county, becomes bound for his debts, although he did not convey the debtor or his goods entirely out of the county, and the act of helping him in the purpose of avoiding his creditors, was held to be a fraudulent removal within the statute. Godsey v. Bason, 30 N. C. 360.

Same—Aid without Acts.—There is no distinction between frauds consisting mainly in acts, and those which consist mainly in words, the latter being the only measure of the plaintiff's right of action and the defendant's liability being, that the one should have been damaged in consequence of the fraud of the other. McNeill v. Riddle, 44 N. C. 347.

Same—Mere Advice Insufficient.—Simply advising a debtor to run away, though the advice be given to delay, etc., is not equivalent to aiding and assisting, and will not sustain an action under the statutes against the fraudulent removing of debtors. Wiley & Co. v. McRee, 47 N. C. 349, 351.

Knowledge of Particular Debt Unnecessary.—Where a person knows that a creditor has a lien on the property of a debtor, it is no defense to a suit brought by a creditor if it is not necessary to show that this person had knowledge of any particular debt due from the debtor, but is sufficient if the circumstances of the case indicate the justness of the lien was made with a view to defraud creditors. Godsey v. Bason, 30 N. C. 360.

One Arrested under Writ of Capias Ad Respondendum.—The bail of a person arrested under a writ of capias ad respondendum may maintain an action on the case at common law against one for fraudulently aiding and assisting the principal to remove from the county, in consequence whereof he had to pay the debt sued on. March v. Wilson, 6 N. C. 143.

Surety on Constable's Bond Not Creditor.—A surety on a constable's bond, upon which there has been a breach, but no judgment nor payment by him, is not a creditor, so as to entitle him to recover against one for fraudulently removing his principal. Booe v. Wilson, 46 N. C. 182.

Measure of Damages.—In an action under this section the measure of damages is the amount of the debt due by the debtor to the plaintiff. Godsey v. Bason, 30 N. C. 360.

Same.—Jury in Suit by Different Creditors.—An action on the case, brought by A. against B., for fraudulently removing a debtor, is tried, and a verdict found for defendant. The same jury are tendered in a case of C. against B. for the same act of removing, and are challenged by the plaintiff. They are under a legal bias by reason of having decided the case of A. against B., and the challenge ought to be allowed, and this although additional evidence could be adduced in the second trial. Baker v. Harris, 60 N. C. 271.

Intent of Escaped Debtor Immaterial.—The declaration of a debtor fraudulently removed, that "he intended to get the defendant into a scrape," was held to be immaterial. Moffitt v. Burgess, 53 N. C. 342.

§ 39-23. Sales in bulk presumed fraudulent.—The sale in bulk of a large part, or the whole of a stock of merchandise, otherwise than in the ordinary course of trade and in regular and usual prosecution of the seller's business, shall be prima facie evidence of fraud, and void as against the creditors of the seller, unless the seller, at least seven days before the sale, makes an inventory showing the quantity and, so far as possible, the cost price to the seller of such articles included in the sale, and shall seven days before the proposed sale notify the creditors of the proposed sale, and the price, terms and condition thereof. If the owner of said stock of goods shall at any time before the sale execute a good and sufficient bond, to a trustee therein named, in an amount equal to the actual cash value of the stock of goods, and conditioned that the seller will apply the proceeds of the sale, subject to the right of the owner or owners to retain therefrom the personal property exception or exemptions as are allowed by law, so far as they will go in payment of debts actually owing by the owner or owners, then the provisions of this section shall not apply. Such sale of merchandise in bulk shall not be presumed to be a fraud as against any creditor or creditors who shall not present his or their claim or make demand upon the purchaser in good faith or on the trustee named in any bond given as provided herein, within twelve months from the date of maturity of his claim, and any creditor who does not present his claim or make demand either upon the purchaser in good faith or on the trustee named in a bond within twelve months from the date of its maturity shall be barred from recovering on his claim on such bond, or as against the purchaser, in good faith, of such stock of goods in bulk. Nothing in this section shall prevent voluntary assignments or deeds of trust for the benefit of creditors as now allowed by law, or apply to sales by executors, administrators, receivers or assignees under a voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors, or trustees in bankruptcy, or by any public officers under judicial process. (1907, c. 623; 1913, c. 30, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 66, s. 1; 1933, c. 190; C. S. 1013.)

Cross References.—As to power of corporation to sell, transfer and convey property in course of business, see §§ 55-26, et seq. As to assignments for benefit of creditors, see §§ 23-3, et seq.
Editor's Note.—The words "seven days before the proposed sale," near the end of the first sentence, were substituted by Public Laws 1933, c. 190, for the words "within said time."

Constitutionality.—This section is not unconstitutional or void as an unwarranted limitation of the right to sell and dispose of property. Fender v. Speight, 159 N. C. 612, 75 S. E. 251.

Same.—Valid Exercise of Police Power.—This section regulating the sale of merchandise in bulk, with certain requirements as to notice to creditors, inventories, etc., making such sales, contrary to the provisions of the statute, prima facie evidence of fraud and void as against creditors of the seller, is a valid exercise of the police powers of government to bar such fraudulent disposition and prevent such fraudulent in the trial of an issue, as to its validity. Raleigh Tire, etc., Co. v. Morris, 181 N. C. 184, 106 S. E. 562; Whitmore-Ligon Co. v. Hyatt, 175 N. C. 117, 95 S. E. 38; Gallup & Co. v. Rozier, 172 N. C. 283, 90 S. E. 209; Pennell v. Robinson, 164 N. C. 257, 80 S. E. 417.

Construed Strictly.—The statute making void as against creditors a sale of a large part of the whole of a stock of merchandise in bulk, unless the requirements of the act are complied with, is in derogation of the common law, and must be strictly construed. Swift & Co. v. Tempelos, 178 N. C. 487, 101 S. E. 8, 106:4SRA. 562.

A sale in bulk of a large part or the whole of a stock of merchandise under the conditions set forth in the statute, without an inventory and proper notice to creditors or without an undertaking to account for the proceeds, is absolutely void as to creditors and may be made available for their debts and claims. Gallup & Co. v. Rozier, 172 N. C. 283, 90 S. E. 209; Pennell v. Robinson, 164 N. C. 257, 80 S. E. 417; Whitmore-Ligon Co. v. Hyatt, 175 N. C. 117, 95 S. E. 38.

Merchandise Defined.—Within the intent and meaning of the section the word "merchandise" is limited to things ordinarily bought and sold in the way of merchandise, subject of commerce and traffic, and does not include a stock of provisions or supplies kept in a restaurant to be prepared and served to customers for meals, or to the furniture and fixtures used therein in connection with conducting the business of a restaurant. Swift & Co. v. Tempelos, 178 N. C. 487, 101 S. E. 8.

"Sale" within Statute.—Where a bankrupt transfers a large part of his stock of goods to a corporation, which does not assume any of the debts, but merely issues its capital stock in payment, the sale is void as against creditors of the vendor, is in derogation of the common law, and must be strictly construed. First Nat. Bank v. Raleigh Savings & Trust Co., 37 F. (2d) 301.

Subsequent Creditors Not Included.—This section applies only to creditors of the seller at the time of the sale and not to creditors of the corporation, the latter, however, may maintain an action against execution of his judgment creditor. Whitmore-Ligon Co. v. Hyatt, 175 N. C. 117, 95 S. E. 38.

When Question for Jury.—In an action to set aside the sale of a stock of merchandise in bulk as void against creditors, it is for the jury to determine the fact as to whether the seller had complied with the statutory requirements as to notice, to creditors, etc., upon his evidence that he had done so, under proper instructions from the court; and a charge in effect that if he had failed in this respect the transaction was prima facie fraudulent, and not that it was void as reversible error. Gallup & Co. v. Rozier, 172 N. C. 283, 90 S. E. 209.

Liability of Purchaser. — Where a dealer in automobile supplies has sold his stock of merchandise in bulk to those whose business it is to use such material in making repairs for their customers, the latter may not avoid liability to the creditors of the vendor on the ground that they were not dealers in such wares under the doctrine announced in Swift & Co. v. Tempelos, 178 N. C. 487, 101 S. E. 8, for the sale of the original creditor is itself void for noncompliance with this section. Raleigh Tire, etc., Co. v. Morris, 181 N. C. 184, 106 S. E. 562.

Purchaser Not Liable. — Under the provisions of this section, the vendor, at most, would be entitled to have the transfer set aside, but not to hold the purchaser personally liable. Goldman & Co. v. Chank, 200 N. C. 384, 156 S. E. 919, distinguishing but not deciding whether sale was contrary to section.

Art. 4. Voluntary Organizations and Associations.

§ 39-24. Authority to acquire and hold real estate.—Voluntary organizations and associations of individuals organized for charitable, fraternal, religious, or patriotic purposes, when organized for the purposes which are not prohibited by law, are hereby authorized and empowered to acquire real estate and to hold the same in their common or corporate names: Provided, that voluntary organizations and associations of individuals, within the meaning of this article, shall not include associations, partnerships or copartnerships which are organized to engage in any business, trade, or vocation. (1939, c. 133, s. 1.)

Cross References.— As to unlawfulness of associations, etc., maintaining places for receiving, keeping, etc., liquors, see § 18-15. As to secret political and military organizations forbidden, see § 14-10.

§ 39-25. Title vested; conveyance; probate.—Where real estate has been or may be hereafter conveyed to such organizations or associations in their common or corporate names the said title shall vest in said organizations, and may be conveyed by said organization in its common name, when such conveyance is authorized by resolution of the body duly constituted and held, by a deed signed by its chairman or president, and its secretary or treasurer, or such officer as is the custodian of its common seal with its official seal affixed, the said conveyance to be proven and probated in the same manner as provided by law for deeds by corporations, and conveyances thus made by such organizations, and associations shall convey good and fee simple title to said lands. (1939, c. 133, s. 2.)

Cross References.— As to power of corporation to convey, see §§ 55-40. As to probate and regulation for corporate conveyances, see §§ 47-41, 47-16.

§ 39-26. Effect as to conveyances by trustees. — Nothing in this article shall be deemed in any manner to change the law with reference to the holding and conveyance of land by the trustees of churches or other voluntary organizations where such land is conveyed to and held by such trustees (1939, c. 133, s. 3.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of trustees of a religious body to convey property, see § 61-4.

§ 39-27. Prior deeds validated.—All deeds here-tofore executed in conformity with this article are declared to be sufficient to pass title to real estate held by such organizations. (1939, c. 133, s. 4.)

Art. 5. Sale of Building Lots in North Carolina.

§ 39-28. Application for permit to sell.—After March 9, 1927, before a building lot or lots in a new sub-division of real estate is offered for sale or sold in North Carolina wherein it is represented or agreed that streets, sidewalks, water, sewer, lights or other improvements are to be made for the benefit of the purchaser or purchasers, the developer, from the corporation, partnership, or association offering the same for sale shall first apply to the Clerk of the Superior Court of the county wherein the building lot or lots are situated for a permit to so sell said lots. (1927, c. 216, s. 1.)

tion of the lots or lot with an estimate of the cost of the improvement proposed to be made on each lot as a whole; the estimate of cost so made shall be certified as approximately correct by a civil engineer or county surveyor licensed to practice in the State of North Carolina. (1927, c. 210, s. 2.)

§ 39-30. Investigation by clerk; bond. — Upon the filing of said application and the certificate of the cost of the improvement, the clerk of the court shall satisfy himself that the land or lots are located in his county and he shall also satisfy himself of the genuineness of the application and certificate of the engineer or county surveyor, and shall, if so satisfied, require a good and sufficient bond, in a sum equal to the amount certified by the engineer or county surveyor as the approximate cost of the improvement or improvements, with a corporation licensed to do business in the State of North Carolina as surety thereon, conditioned to save the purchaser or purchasers of each lot or lots harmless to the amount of the estimated and certified cost of the proposed improvement on each lot or lots so purchased. (1927, c. 210, s. 3.)

§ 39-31. Application, certificate, bond and order filed as permanent record.—The clerk of the Superior Court shall preserve the application, certificate and bond and his orders thereon as a permanent record for the benefit of any party whose rights are affected thereby and shall, when the provisions of this article have been fully complied with, and when a filing fee of one dollar has been paid, issue a permit to the applicant to sell said lot or lots. (1927, c. 210, s. 4.)

§ 39-32. Penalty for violation. — Any person, firm or corporation selling or offering for sale any building lot or lots in violation of the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1927, c. 210, s. 5.)

§ 39-33. Method of release or limitation of power.—A release or limitation of a power of appointment with respect to real or personal property exercisable by deed or will or otherwise may be effected, if such power may be released or limited under the laws of this state, by the execution by the holder of such power of an instrument in writing stating that the power is released or limited to the extent set forth therein, and the delivery of such instrument to any person who might be adversely affected if such power were exercised or to the fiduciary or one of the fiduciaries, if any, having possession or control of the property over which the power is exercisable. (1943, c. 665, s. 1.)

§ 39-34. Method prescribed in § 39-33 not exclusive.—The method of release prescribed in § 39-33 is not exclusive, and this article shall not invalidate or be construed to invalidate any instrument or contract of release or limitation of a power not executed and delivered in the manner provided in § 39-33, or as invalidating any other act of release or limitation of a power, whether such instrument, contract or act has been heretofore executed or may be hereafter executed, delivered or done. (1943, c. 665, s. 2.)

§ 39-35. Requisites of release or limitation as against creditors and purchasers for value.—No release or limitation of a power of appointment after the effective date of this article which is made by the owner of the legal title to real property in this state shall be valid as against creditors and purchasers for a valuable consideration until an instrument in writing setting forth the release or limitation is executed and acknowledged in the manner required for a deed and recorded in the county where the real property is. (1943, c. 665, s. 3.)

Editor’s Note.—The act from which this article was codified was ratified March 8, 1943.

§ 39-36. Necessity for actual notice of release or limitation to bind fiduciary.—No fiduciary having possession or control of property over which a power of appointment is exercisable shall be bound or affected by any release or limitation of such power without actual notice thereof. (1943, c. 665, s. 1.)

Chapter 40. Eminent Domain.

Art. 1. Right of Eminent Domain.

Sec. 40-1. Corporation in this chapter defined.

40-2. By whom right may be exercised.

40-3. Right to enter on and purchase lands.

40-4. Power of railroad companies to condemn land for union depots, double-tracking, etc.

40-5. Condemning land for industrial sidings.

40-6. Condemnation by schools for water supply.

40-7. Condemnation for steamboat wharves and warehouses.

40-8. May take material from adjacent lands.

40-10. Dwelling-houses and burial grounds cannot be condemned.

Art. 2. Condemnation Proceedings.

40-12. Petition filed; contains what; copy served.

§ 40-1. Corporation in this chapter defined.—For the purposes of this chapter, unless the context clearly indicates the contrary, the word "corporation" includes the bodies politic and natural persons, enumerated in the following section, which possess the power of eminent domain. (C. S. 1705.)

§ 40-2. By whom right may be exercised.—The right of eminent domain may, under the provisions of this chapter, be exercised for the purpose of constructing their roads, canals, pipe lines originating in North Carolina for the transportation of petroleum products, lines of wires, or other works, which are authorized by law and which involve a public use or benefit, by the bodies politic, corporation, or persons following:

1. Railroads, street railroads, plankroad, tramroad, turnpike, canal, pipe lines originating in North Carolina for the transportation of petroleum products, telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting, public water supply, flume, or incorporated bridge companies.

2. Municipalities operating water systems and sewer systems and all water companies operating under charter from the state or license from municipalities, which may maintain public water supplies, for the purpose of acquiring and maintaining such supplies.

3. Person or persons, firms, corporations or copartnerships operating or authorized by law to operate electric light plants, or distributing electric current for lights or power, or for the purpose of constructing wires, poles or other necessary things, and for such purposes or things.

4. Public institutions of the state for the purpose of providing public supplies. or for other necessary purposes of such institutions.

5. School committees of public school districts, county boards of education, boards of trustees or of directors of any corporation holding title to real estate upon which any public school, private school, high school, academy, university or college is situated, in order to obtain a pure and adequate water supply for such school, college or university.

6. The department of conservation and development in the administration of the laws relating to fish and fisheries.

7. Any educational, penal, hospital or other institution incorporated or chartered by the state of North Carolina, for the furtherance of any of its purposes, such institution being wholly or partly dependent upon the state for maintenance, and such institution shall be in need of land for its location, or such institution shall be in need of adjacent land for necessary enlargement or extension, or for land for the building of a road or roads or a side-track for railroads, necessary to the proper operations and completion of any such institution, and shall so declare through its board of directors, trustees or other governing boards by a resolution inserted in the minutes at a regular meeting or special meeting called for that purpose, such institution shall have all the powers, rights and privileges of eminent domain given under this chapter, to condemn and procure such land, and shall follow the procedure established under this chapter.

8. Franchised motor vehicle carriers or union bus station companies organized by authority of the utilities commission, for the purpose of constructing and operating union bus stations: Provided, that this subsection shall not apply to any city or town having a population of less than sixty thousand. (Rev., s. 2575; Code, s. 1698; R. C. c. 61, s. 9; 1832, c. 92, s. 1; 1874-5, c. 83; 1907, cc. 39, 458, 783; 1911, c. 62, ss. 25, 26, 27; 1917, cc. 51, 132; 1923, c. 205; Ex. As to condemnation for drainage ditches, see § 151-6 et seq.

I. SOURCE OF POWER.

Editor's Note.—The phrase "eminent domain" was first used by Hugo Grotius, celebrated writer and publicist, in 1625. Grotius says, "The property of subjects is under the eminent domain of the State, so that the state or he who acts in its name and behalf can acquire and dispose of the property, not only in case of extreme necessity, in which even private persons have a right over the property of others, but for ends of public utility, to which those who would suppose a necessary power that private ends should give way." Grotius De Jure Belli et Pacis, Lib. 3, c. 20.

The right of eminent domain or right of taking private property for public use is one of the inherent attributes of every sovereign state. It lies dormant in the state until the right to exercise it is granted by the state to some public or quasi public corporation. Thereafter the right is exercised by the state itself. Politz v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 60 Fed. 316, 317. See also Adirondack R. Co. v. New York State, 176 U. S. 335, 346, 20 S. Ct. 460, 44 L. Ed. 623.

As adopted in 1919 this section contained but five subsections. Subsection 6 was added by c. 118, Public Laws of 1924 and subsection 7 by c. 205, Public Laws 1923. Public Laws 1941, § 254, added subsection 8. For comment on subsection 8 see 19 N. C. 451, § 254.

The 1937 amendment inserted the reference to pipe lines in the first sentence of this section, and also in subsection 7. The 1939 amendment changed subsection 3.

I. SOURCE OF POWER.

Definitions.—Eminent domain is the power of a governing body to take private property for public uses upon payment of a just compensation. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 158 Penn. St. 540, 27 L. Ed. 923.

I. SOURCE OF POWER.

Founded on Necessity.—This power, or right of eminent domain, is possessed by the government, and may be exercised by the Legislature or under its authority. Unless vested in some private corporation or privy in the exercise of the powers of the government, neither the government nor the state could hold together. It is peculiarly fit to be wielded by the Legislature—it is a power founded on necessity. Raleigh, etc., R. Co. v. Wissler, 160 N. C. 451, 458.

It was a right at common law and is not a right in equity or the creature of a statute. And while the time of its exercise may be prescribed by statute, the right itself is superior to any statute. Kohl v. United States, 91 U. S. 357, 377, 23 L. Ed. 449.

All private property is held subject to the necessities of the state, to the end that the state may take private property or real property whenever its necessities or the exigencies of the occasion demand. United States v. Lynch, 188 U. S. 445, 465, 23 S. Ct. 133, 49 L. Ed. 139.

All property here held by tenancy for the state, and all contracts made subject to the right of eminent domain. Long Island Water Supply Co. v. Brooklyn, 166 U. S. 685, 692, 17 S. Ct. 718, 41 L. Ed. 952.

Legislature Has Exclusive Control.—The method of taking land for a public use is within the exclusive control of the Legislature, limited by organic law, and the courts cannot help the injured landowner, when the state is the defendant, to get anything more than the statutory compensation. Durham v. Rigsbee, 141 N. C. 128, 53 S. E. 531.

A public service corporation has no power to condemn land by its own power, and may only exercise the power under the authority given by a valid statute to do so. Carolina-Tennessee Power Co. v. Hiwassee River Power Co., 173 N. C. 668, 96 S. E. 99.

II. STRICT CONSTRUCTION.

In General.—In construing statutes which are claimed to authorize the exercise of the power of eminent domain, a strict rather than liberal construction is the rule, and statutes assume to call into active operation a power which, however essential to the existence of the Government, is in derogation of the common and inherent rights of the people. Wherever the statute reaches the discretion with which the owner usually had of his property. Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Penneforward Lumber, etc., Co., 132 N. C. 642, 652, 44 S. E. 358; Board v. Forrest, 193 N. C. 519, 117 S. E. 431.

The exercise of the power is in derogation of common right, and all laws conferring such power must be strictly construed. Emerick v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 25, 10 S. E. 1041. And the exercise can be exercised only in the mode pointed out in the statute conferring it. Allen v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 102 N. C. 381, 9 S. E. 4. As to condemnation for railroad, see §§ 193-1 et seq. The exercise of the power is given to the county board of education to condemn land for school purposes in derogation of a common-law right, and its terms will be strictly construed as to the extent or limit of the power given. Board v. Forrest, 193 N. C. 519, 117 S. E. 431.

A corporation furnishing electricity for public use may condemn lands of a private owner necessary for its transmission lines under the provisions of this section, but it is unlawful for a power company to enter upon and take the lands of the owner for such purpose without complying with the statutory procedures. Crisp v. Nanthala Power, etc., Co., 201 N. C. 468, 135 S. E. 845.

Power Not Implied.—The power of eminent domain cannot be implied or inferred from vague or doubtful language. Commissioners v. Carpenter, 153 N. C. 66, 68 S. E. 971.

General Act Governs.—The provisions of the general railroad act prevail over provisions of the charter of a railroad company, unless the charter specifically designates and repeals these provisions of the general act. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 27, 10 S. E. 1041.

III. NATURE AND PURPOSE.

Purpose of Grant.—The right of eminent domain is granted because the public interest requires that private property shall be taken for public use under the circumstances and in the manner prescribed by law. Raleigh, etc., R. Co. v. Mecklenberg Mfg. Co., 166 N. C. 168, 173, 82 S. E. 5.

The right of eminent domain can only be exercised where the property taken is to be used for the benefit of the public, and under no circumstances can it be taken for a private use, as the taking of the property of one for the benefit of another is a deprivation of a constitutional right. Strickley v. Highland Boy Gold Min., Co., 203 U. S. 359, 370, 26 S. Ct. 591, 40 L. Ed. 881.

Draining Public Road.—Digging a ditch across private land for the purpose of draining a public road, is condemnation for a public use, as the taking of private property for a public use. State v. New, 120 N. C. 731, 41 S. E. 1084.

Remedy for Abuse.—If, after acquiring the land under condemnation for a public use, a company should devote it to private purposes, there is a remedy by quo warranto and otherwise. Wadsworth Land Co. v. Piedmont Tract Co., 162 N. C. 314, 315, 78 S. E. 297.

IV. EXTENT OF POWER.

Discretion of Grantee.—A perusal of this entire chapter will clearly disclose that the extent and limit of the rights are acquired by variously and rather largely to be referred to the companies or grantees of the power, and only becomes an established law by the exercise of the discretion of the company or corporation, and does not give the power to take the property, unless the charter specifically designates and repeals these provisions of the general act. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 27, 10 S. E. 1041.

It was a right at common law and is not a right in equity or the creature of a statute. And while the time of its exercise may be prescribed by statute, the right itself is superior to any statute. Kohl v. United States, 91 U. S. 357, 377, 23 L. Ed. 449.

All private property is held subject to the necessities of the state, to the end that the state may take private property or real property whenever its necessities or the exigencies of the occasion demand. United States v. Lynch, 188 U. S. 445, 465, 23 S. Ct. 133, 49 L. Ed. 139.

All property here held by tenancy for the state, and all contracts made subject to the right of eminent domain. Long Island Water Supply Co. v. Brooklyn, 166 U. S. 685, 692, 17 S. Ct. 718, 41 L. Ed. 952.

Legislature Has Exclusive Control.—The method of taking land for a public use is within the exclusive control of the Legislature, limited by organic law, and the courts cannot help the injured landowner, when the state is the defendant, to get anything more than the statutory compensation. Durham v. Rigsbee, 141 N. C. 128, 53 S. E. 531.

A public service corporation has no power to condemn land by its own power, and may only exercise the power under the authority given by a valid statute to do so. Carolina-Tennessee Power Co. v. Hiwassee River Power Co., 173 N. C. 668, 96 S. E. 99.

A Continuing Power.—The power of eminent domain conferred on any public service corporation by this section is not necessarily exhausted by a single exercise of the power, but, within the limits established by the general law or special charter, a subsequent or further exercise of the power may be permissible. Yadkin River Power Co. v. Wissler, 160 N. C. 269, 76 S. E. 267.

Rights Acquired.—Only an easement in lands passes from the owner to a railroad company under condemnation proceedings. See note to section 40-2. The right of private property taken by the railroad company cannot be successfully contested by the owner, unless the proceeding is void for the public use. See Pumpelly v. Green Bay Co., 13 Wall. 166, 2 L. Ed. 357.

Necessity for Compensation.—By the general law of European nations and the common law of England it was a qualification of the right of eminent domain that compensation be paid for the public use. See, e.g., Pumpelly v. Green Bay Co., 13 Wall. 166, 2 L. Ed. 357.

V. TO WHOM GRANTED.

Editor's Note.—The cross references above should be referred to for a list of the various corporations to which the right is granted. See note to section 40-2.

Public Service Corporations.—Where a corporation is authorized by its charter to generate and sell electricity, build dams and hydroelectric plants necessary to the generation of such hydroelectric power, and is therein given power of eminent domain to acquire the necessary rights of way and lands for its dams and the ponding of water, such corporation has the power to exercise the economist right to take private property. Ward v. Wilminton, etc., R. Co., 194 N. C. 893, 140 S. E. 715; City of New York v. Kaiser, 311 N. Y. 703, 28 N. E. 2d 737.

The right of a corporation, having the statutory powers, to condemn lands for a public use is not affected or impaired because it so happens that the use of his land is necessary for the exercise of its franchise or the discharge of its duties. Watts v. Lenor, etc., Turnpike Co., 141 N. C. 129, 51 S. E. 407.

Unconstitutional Unless Compensation Provided.—A statute authorizing a corporation to take private property for a public use is unconstitutional, unless compensation therefor be paid. See, e.g., E. & N. R. Co. v. Winslow, 158 N. C. 173, 74 S. E. 641; Phillips v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 193 N. C. 513, 41 S. E. 1022.

Whenever the government in the exercise of its governmental rights takes property, the ownership of which it concedes to be in an individual, it impliedly promises to pay therefor. Stamey v. Brunswick, 189 N. C. 166, 126 S. E. 105, 106 S. E. 497.

VI. COMPENSATION ESSENTIAL.

As to determining compensation, see note to section 40-17.

Definition of Compensation.—The word compensation imports that a wrong or injury has been inflicted, which must be expressed in money. Money must be paid to the extent of the injury, whether or more than less than the value of the property. Daumen v. Ross, 167 U. S. 548, 17 S. Ct. 962, 51 L. Ed. 1137.

Necessity for Compensation.—By the general law of the United States, and not to the government of the State, the principle is so grounded in natural equity that it has never been denied to be a part of the law of North Carolina. Bennett v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 83 N. C. 489, 110 S. E. 297.
§ 40-4. Power of railroad companies to condemn land for union depots, double-tracking, etc.—Any railroad company operating a line of railroad in North Carolina whenever it shall find it necessary to occupy any land for the purpose of getting to a union depot, or for such purpose as may be necessary to carry out the orders of the utilities commission. Whenever it is necessary for any railroad company doing business in this state to cross the streets or streets in a town or city in order to carry out the orders of the utilities commission, to construct an industrial siding, the power is hereby conferred upon such railroad company to occupy such street or streets of any such town or city within the state: Provided, license so to do be first obtained from the board of aldermen, board of commissioners, or other governing authorities of such town or city. (1911, c. 292; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 1; C. S. 1709.)

§ 40-6. Condemnation by schools for water supply.—If the school authorities mentioned in subsection 5 of § 40-2 shall be unable to agree with the owners of any land which, or the use of which, it is necessary to appropriate in obtaining a pure and adequate water supply for the school, they shall file a petition for the condemnation of such lands in conformity with the provisions of this chapter. In addition to the particulars required to be set out in § 40-12, the petition shall state whether the water supply is desired to be obtained from a spring, from a stream, or by digging artesian wells. The proceedings for such condemnation shall conform to the requirements of this chapter. No greater amount of land in area or width shall be condemned under this section than is necessary to obtain a pure and adequate water supply.

Any person holding title to land upon which any school, public or private, is located is empowered to obtain water supplies from the springs, streams or arterial wells the use of which is acquired under this section by building intakes, reservoirs, digging ditches, laying pipes or doing such other things as may be needful to obtain the water supply. (1907, c. 671; C. S. 1710.)

Cross Reference.—As to condemning of land for school buildings, see § 115-85.

§ 40-7. Condemnation for steamboat wharves and warehouses.—Upon the order of the utilities commission that any steamboat company provide wharf and warehouse facilities as may be deemed reasonable and just, at any particular point, such company shall have power to condemn land for such purpose in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 52; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 1; C. S. 1711.)

Cross Reference.—As to power and duty of Utilities Commission to require steamboat companies to provide wharf and warehouse facilities, see § 62-39.

§ 40-8. May take material from adjacent lands.—For the purpose of constructing and operating its works and necessary appurtenances thereto, or of repairing them after they shall have been made, or of enlarging or otherwise altering them, the corporation entitled to exercise the powers of eminent domain may, at any time, enter on any adjacent lands, and cut, dig, and take therefrom, any wood, stone, gravel, water or earth, which may be deemed necessary: Provided, that they shall not, without the consent of the owner, destroy or injure any ornamental or fruit trees. (Rev., s. 2576; Code, s. 1702; R. C., c. 61, s. 22; 1874-5, c. 83; 1907, c. 39, s. 2; C. S. 1712.)

In General.—The power of condemnation granted to these companies is not confined to a right of way, delimited by surface boundaries, but may be extended to cutting of trees or removing obstructions outside of these boundaries, as may be required for the reasonable preservation and protection of their lines and other property. Yadkin River Power Co. v. Wissler, 160 N. C. 269, 275, 76 S. E. 267.

Compensation.—The owner of the land is entitled to compensation for the cutting of cross-ties on land not included in the right-of-way, and the negligent filling of ditches instead of building bridges over them in constructing the roads necessary to remove the timber, and for breaking down fences. Waters v. Greenleaf-Johnson Lumber Co., 115 N. C. 648, 20 S. E. 718.

§ 40-9. How material paid for.—If for the value of the damages done to the owner by reason of the acts mentioned in § 40-8 the parties may be unable to agree, the same shall be valued in the manner hereinafter provided. (Rev., s. 2577; Code, s. 1703; R. C., c. 61, s. 23; 1874-5, c. 83; C. S. 1713.)

§ 40-10. Dwelling-houses and burial grounds cannot be condemned.—No such corporation shall be allowed to have condemned to its use, without the consent of the owner, his dwelling-house, yard, kitchen, garden or burial ground, unless condemnation of such property is expressly authorized in its charter or by some provision of this code. (Rev., s. 2578; C. S. 1714.)

Cross Reference.—As to acquisition of residence property, graveyards, etc., by electric, telegraph and power companies, see § 56-6.

Exercise of Discretion Not Permitted.—The principle arising under the general power to condemn, leaving the matter largely within the discretion of the governing authorities seeking condemnation, does not apply to the statutory exceptions. Selma v. Nobles, 183 N. C. 332, 111 S. E. 543.

No Application to Tenant Houses.—This section does not apply to tenant houses, but only to the dwellings of the owners. The right derives from their ownership and is primarily for their own private reasons and mental reasons; and which could not exist where such owner is a corporation renting the dwellings to its tenants. Raleigh v. R. C. v. Mecklenburg Mfg. Co., 166 N. C. 168, 169, 75 S. E. 245.

Subsequent Use by Owner Not Protected.—When a provision in a charter of a railroad company or a deed granting it a right of way prohibited it from entering upon the yard, garden, burial ground, etc., of the owner, the right of the right of way was so used at the date of its acquisition, the right of the company would not be interfered with by the fact that it has since been appropriated to such use. Railroad v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263; Dargan v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 131 N. C. 623, 625, 43 S. E. 979.

Nuisance by Taking Under Section.—The creation and maintenance of which not only interferes with the right of lands of private owners is a taking within the principle of eminent domain and condemnation proceedings thereunder, and within the exception contained in this section, with rights; therefore this is not a taking, and the statute is not violated. Selma v. Nobles, 183 N. C. 332, 111 S. E. 543.

Municipal Corporations.—Where a city, under its charter, is given the same power to condemn lands of private owners, to the extent of the public needs, and in the exercise of that power is bound by the restrictions placed on them by this section. Selma v. Nobles, 183 N. C. 332, 111 S. E. 543.

House Not Property of Railroad.—A house standing on the right of way does not become the property of the company. Shields v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 129 N. C. 1, 6, 39 S. E. 390; Raleigh v. R. C. v. Mecklenburg Mfg. Co., 166 N. C. 168, 82 S. E. 5.

The North Carolina National Park Commission created by Public Acts 1927, c. 48, is an agency of the State created by statute, vested with the power of eminent domain, and is not subject to the limitations provided in this section and § 40-11. Yarbrough v. Park Commission, 196 N. C. 284, 145 S. E. 563.

Art. 2. Condemnation Proceedings.

—If any corporation, enumerated in § 40-2, possessing by law the right of eminent domain in this state, is unable to agree for the purchase of any real estate required for purposes of its incorporation or for the purposes specified in this chapter, it shall have the right to acquire title to the same in the manner prescribed by the general proceedings herein prescribed. (Rev., s. 2579; Code, s. 1703; 1909; 1885, c. 168; 1893, c. 63; 1901, cc. 41, s. 2; 1899, c. 64; 1903, cc. 565, 159, s. 16; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 13; C. S. 1715.)

Cross Reference.—As to special proceedings generally, see § 1-393 et seq.

Proceeding Governed by Same Rules Laid Down for Civil Actions.—As a proceeding to condemn land under statutory power is a special proceeding and is so denominated by this section, the requirements of § 1-393 that "except as otherwise provided," special proceedings shall be governed by the rules of civil procedure. Where a railroad and other public service corporation has made the entry, appropriated the right of way, constructed its road and is operating the same, and neither party has been suit to resort to the statute remedy, the owner of the land has the right at his election to sue for permanent damages and on payment of the same the easement will pass to the defendant. Mason v. Durham County, 175 N. C. 638, 641, 96 S. E. 110, citing sec. 99-9 et seq. of this code.

Applications to All Railroads.—The method of proceeding for the condemnation of land by railroad corporations prescribed by this section is applicable to all railroads, whether formed under the general law or special act of incorporation. Allen v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 122 N. C. 381, 9 S. E. 4; McIntyre v. Western, etc., Co., 67 N. C. 278.

Prior Attempt to Agree Mandatory.—The statutory method of condemning a right of way can be exercised only when the owner has had no previous agreement for the terms of acquisition. Allen v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 102 N. C. 381, 9 S. E. 4.

Attempt to Acquire Title.—The clause, "the corporation had not been able to acquire title therefor," has no reference to the pecuniary resources of the corporation; it may apply to the owner's refusal to sell except at a price which in the judgment of the corporation is excessive, to cases in which the owner by reason of some disability cannot convey his title, and likewise in other instances. Western Power Co. v. Moses, 191 N. C. 744, 746, 133 S. E. 5.

It is not required of a quasi public service corporation authorized to condemn land under the provisions of section 40-2, that it first endeavor to agree with the owners, when it is made to appear that infants have an interest therein, and otherwise that a title to the lands could not be acquired in this way. Western Power Co. v. Moses, 191 N. C. 744, 133 S. E. 5.

No Right of Entry Until Payment.—In case the parties cannot agree, then the company may proceed to condemn the land, and the company does not acquire the right to enter for the purpose of constructing the road until the amount of the appraisement has been paid into court. State v. Wells, 147 N. C. 371, 157 S. E. 591.

No Application to Trespasser.—The provisions of this section only apply to the mode of acquiring title to real estate required for the construction of roads. But trespassers committed outside of the right of way in building the road, and for such trespasses the corporations are liable in a civil action. Bridgers v. Dill, 97 N. C. 222, 1 S. E. 767.

Condemnation of Land by Board of Education.—Sections 40-11 to 40-19 apply only to those corporations enumerated in section 40-2, and have no application to a county board of education condemning land for school buildings, such proceedings are controlled by section 115-85, Board v. Forrest, 193 N. C. 519, 530, 137 S. E. 431.

§ 40-12. Petition filed; contains what; copy served.—For the purpose of acquiring such title to the corporation, or the owner of the land sought to be condemned, may present a petition to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the real estate described in the petition is situated, praying for the appointment of commissioners of appraisal. Such petition shall be signed and verified according to the rules and practice of such court; and if filed by the corporation it must contain a description of the real estate which the corporation seeks to acquire; and it must, in effect, state that the corporation is duly incorporated, and that it is its intention in good faith to conduct and carry on the public business authorized by its charter, stating in detail the nature of such public business, and the specific use of such land; that the land described in the petition is necessary for the proposed business, and that the corporation has not been able to acquire title thereto, and the reason of such inability. The petition, whether filed by the corporation or the owner of the land, must also state the names and places of residence of the parties, so far as the same can by reasonable diligence be ascertained, who own or have, or claim to own or have, estates or interests in the said real estate; and if any such persons are infants, their ages, as near as may be, must be stated; and if any such persons are idiots or persons of unsound mind or are unknown, that fact must be stated, together with such other allegations and statements of liens or encumbrances on said real estate as the corporation or the owner may see fit to make. A summons as in other cases of special proceedings, together with a copy of the petition, must be served on all persons whose interests are to be affected by the proceedings, at least ten days prior to the hearing of the same by the court. (Rev., s. 2580; Code, s. 1944; 1893, c. 306; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 14; 1907, c. 783, s. 3; C. S. 1716.)

Cross References.—As to summons in contested special proceedings, see §§ 1-394, 1-395. As to service of map and profile in condemnation proceeding by a railroad, see § 60-71.

Editor's Note.—In Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 23, 10 S. E. 1041 the court states that the reasons for the requirements which are found in this section of the statute are not within the experience of modern times. The court stated that the idea that the roads could locate their route according to their discretion, and they could not be controlled by the courts unless they abused their discretion. The remedy was usually by injunction which caused a great deal of litigation and delay both to the road and to the landowner. It was therefore deemed necessary, so that the landowner might know what land was intended to be appropriated and could have his grievances adjusted, to require the filing of maps, profiles, etc.

Strict Compliance.—This section stating the requisites of a petition in condemnation proceedings must be strictly complied with or the proceedings will be dismissed. Johnson City, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 23, 10 S. E. 1041.

Summons Should Issue.—The proceeding authorized by this section is a special proceeding and a summons should issue as in all other cases. R. v. Lumber Co., 132 N. C. 644, 42 S. E. 743, 44 S. E. 563.

General Language Permitted.—It is not essential that the particular language of the statute should be used. If the facts alleged plainly show that the petitioner has been unable to acquire title to the right of way by agreement, and the reason of the failure to do so, the averments of a petition not strictly in accordance with the statute. Durham v. Rigbee, 141 N. C. 128, 53 S. E. 331.

Petition Must Allege.—It is necessary for the petition in condemnation proceedings to allege, and the burden is upon the petitioner to show, a previous effort to acquire title to the right of way by agreement, and the reason of the failure to do so. In the absence of a proper petition the proceeding should be dismissed. Johnson City, etc., R. Co., 148 N. C. 59, 61 S. E. 683; Power Co., v. Moses, 191 N. C. 784, 131 S. E. 120.

And the petition, whether filed by an owner or by the company, should state the names of all persons interested, and all of them should be in court before the Commissioners are appointed. Hill v. Glendon, etc., Mfg. Co., 113 N. C. 259, 18 S. E. 171.

Same.—Where Landowner Files.—It is not necessary that the petition filed by a landowner in proceedings for the assessment of damages for land taken by a railroad company for a right of way, shall state that the petitioners and the company have failed to come to an agreement as to the sum to be paid, such averment being necessary only when the railroad company is the plaintiff. Johnson City, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 148 N. C. 59, 61 S. E. 683; Power Co. v. Moses, 191 N. C. 784, 131 S. E. 120.

Description of Property Sought To Be Acquired Is Necessarty.—A description of the part of a railroad company that is sought to be appropriated must be as clear and specific as the particular language of the statute should be used. If the facts alleged plainly show that the petitioner has been unable to acquire title to the right of way, privilege, or easement to run is necessary. Gastonia v. Glenn, 218 N. C. 510, 11 S. E. (2d) 459.

Fraudulent Deed May Be Set Aside.—Where a deed for a part of what has been granted from the state to a railroad company has been made by the part of a railroad company, the superior court has jurisdiction to set aside the conveyance, but cannot go further in the same action, and ascertain and enforce payment of damages suffered by the grantor by reason of the appropriation of his land as a right of way by the company, although such appropriation was made by the company under the deed in question. Allen v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 102 N. C. 381, 9 S. E. 4.

Co-tenant Can File Petition.—The fact that a co-tenant of land has granted a right of way to a railroad company will not prevent the other co-tenant from proceeding for the assessment of damages sustained by him, nor will such facts prevent the co-tenant who has made such grant from becoming a party to the proceedings and having his rights adjusted thereunder. Allen v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, supra; State v. Wells, 142 N. C. 590, 55 S. E. 210.

FRAUDULENT DEED MAY BE SET ASIDE.—Where a deed for a part of what has been granted from the state to a railroad company has been made by the part of a railroad company, the superior court has jurisdiction to set aside the conveyance, but cannot go further in the same action, and ascertain and enforce payment of damages suffered by the grantor by reason of the appropriation of his land as a right of way by the company, although such appropriation was made by the company under the deed in question. Allen v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 102 N. C. 381, 9 S. E. 4.

Co-tenant Can File Petition.—The fact that a co-tenant of land has granted a right of way to a railroad company will not prevent the other co-tenant from proceeding for the assessment of damages sustained by him, nor will such facts prevent the co-tenant who has made such grant from becoming a party to the proceedings and having his rights adjusted thereunder. Allen v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, supra; State v. Wells, 142 N. C. 590, 55 S. E. 210.

In condemnation proceedings, the statement required by this section, that the plaintiff has not been able to acquire title to the land, and the reason of such inability, is the requisites of a petition in condemnation proceedings to allege, and the burden is upon the petitioner to show, a previous effort to acquire title to the right of way by agreement, and the reason of the failure to do so. In the absence of a proper petition the proceeding should be dismissed. Johnson City, etc., R. Co., 148 N. C. 59, 61 S. E. 683.

Section Does Not Apply to Telegraph Companies.—As much as section 56-7 sets forth all the necessary statements for the notice of a railroad company to its shareholders and the procedure it provides for its service, only so much of the railroad law as directs proceedings after the petition is before the court is made applicable to telegraph companies, and section 40-12 cannot be made to apply to telegraph companies. Phillips v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 130 N. C. 513, 525, 41 S. E. 1022.

Limit of Plaintiff's Recovery Where Evidence Is Insufficient to Show Taking Was for Private Purpose.—Where there is no evidence to show that the railroad or other public works crossing over a road was for a private purpose sufficient to raise an issue of fact, the plaintiff is remitted to his rights under this section and § 156-19 for the recovery of just compensation. Rous v. State Highway, etc., Comm., 209 N. C. 648, 184 S. E. 513.

Waiver of Preliminary Hearing.—Where it is stipulated by the parties in the preliminary proceeding showing that a hearing before commissioners appointed by the clerk under the provisions of this section should be waived, and judgment is rendered determining the amount of damages, and on appeal by the plaintiffs in the Supreme Court affirmed, the defendant is not entitled to an amparo proceeding and the court also finds the error in the exclusion of another element of compensation to which the plaintiff is entitled, on the subsequent trial to determine the amount recoverable on such other element of compensation, the parties are bound by the stipulation waiving a preliminary hearing by commissioners, and plaintiff's exceptions to the trial of the issue will not be sustained. State v. Wilmington-Wrightsville Beach Causeway Co., 205 N. C. 508, 171 S. E. 859.

What Constitutes Waiver.—Where a city is sued for damages by a water company for the subsequent crossing of its water supply pipe on the plaintiff's lands, and it is made to appear that the pipe line is upon the state's highway over the plaintiff's land, the plaintiff, as the servient owner, may maintain his action, and the denial of the waiver of the right that the plaintiff should have proceeded before the clerk under this section, and the plaintiff may maintain his action of trespass in the superior court. Rouse v. Kinston, 193 N. C. 481, 137 S. E. 495.

§ 40-13. How process served.—The summons and a copy of the petition shall be served in the same manner as in special proceedings. (Rev., s. 2581; Code, s. 1944; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 14; C. S. 1717.)

Cross Reference.—As to service of summons in special proceedings generally, see §§ 1-394, 1-395.

Editor's Note.—In the case of Click v. Western, etc., R. Co., 98 N. C. 390, 4 S. E. 183, referring to a proceeding instituted against a railroad company by the owner of land the court said: "This is neither a special proceeding nor a civil action as defined by the code. It is a summary proceeding."

This construction is overruled in Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Permeaden Lumber, etc., Co., 132 N. C. 644, 653, 44 S. E. 353, and the court in dismissing the demurrer, stated that this case was properly called a special proceeding and therefore a summons issued should in all cases as in others.

§ 40-14. Service where parties unknown.—If the person on whom such service of summons and petition is to be made is unknown, or his residence is unknown and cannot by reasonable diligence be ascertained, then such service may be made under the direction of the court, by publishing a notice, stating the time and place within which such person must appear and plead, the object thereof, with a description of the land to be affected by the proceedings, in a newspaper printed in the county where the land is situated, once in each week, for four weeks previous to the time fixed by the court, and if there be no paper printed in such county, then in a newspaper printed in the city of Raleigh. (Rev., s. 2582; Code, s. 1944, subsec. 5; C. S. 1718.)

§ 40-15. Orders served as in special proceedings in absence of other provisions.—In all cases not herein otherwise provided for, service of orders, notices, and other papers in the special proceedings hereinbefore mentioned or may be made as in other special proceedings. (Rev., s. 2583; Code, s. 1944, subsec. 7; C. S. 1719.)

§ 40-16. Answer to petition; hearing; commissioners appointed.—On presenting such petition to the superior court, with proof of service of a copy thereof, and of the summons, all or any of the persons whose estates or interests are to be affected by the proceedings may answer such petition and show cause against granting the prayer of the same, and may disprove any of the facts alleged in it. The court shall hear the proofs and allegations of the parties, and if no sufficient cause is shown against granting the prayer of the petition, it shall make an order for the appointment of three disinterested and competent freeholders who reside in the county where the premises are to be appraised, for the purposes of the company, and shall fix the time and place for the first meeting of the commissioners. (Rev., s. 2584; Code, s. 1945; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 15; C. S. 1720.)

Finding of Facts Conclusive.—In condemnation proceedings where the right of eminent domain is claimed by the company, and the findings upon which the judgment is rendered determining the amount of damages, and on appeal by the company from the findings, the court will not sustain a collateral attack, and they shall be as conclusive as the judgment of the court. Phillips v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 130 N. C. 513, 525, 41 S. E. 1022.

Limit of Plaintiff's Recovery Where Evidence Is Insufficient to Show Taking Was for Private Purpose.—Where there is no evidence to show that the railroad or other public works crossing over a road was for a private purpose sufficient to raise an issue of fact, the plaintiff is remitted to his rights under this section and § 156-19 for the recovery of just compensation. Rous v. State Highway, etc., Comm., 209 N. C. 648, 184 S. E. 513.

Same.—Charter Cannot Be Attacked.—The charter of a corporation cannot be collaterally attacked, and a direct proceeding for condemnation must be brought to annul it. But if the corporation were on its face inoperative and void, a court would so declare it in any proceedings to condemn lands by virtue of the eminent domain claim thereunder. Johnson v. City, etc., R. Co., 184 N. C. 69, 61 S. E. 883.

Same.—Advisability of Project.—The advisability of widening a street is a matter committed by law to the sound discretion of the aldermen, with the exercise of which neither the defendants nor the courts can interfere. It is a political and administrative measure of which the defendants are not even entitled to notice or to be heard. Durham v. Riggsbee, 141 N. C. 128, 53 S. E. 531.

Same.—Denial That Land Necessary.—A railroad company is entitled to so much of the way of right as may be necessary for the purpose of the company, and the denial by a company in any proceeding in which it seeks such portion that the portion in controversy is necessary for the purposes of the company does not raise an issue of fact to be determined by a jury, as the company is the judge of the necessity and extent of such use. Railroad v. Olive, 142 N. C. 59, 51 S. E. 193; Holly Shelter R. Co. v. Newton, 133 N. C. 136, 45 S. E. 494.

What Matters Issuable.—A perusal of the entire statute discloses that the extent and limit of the rights to be acquired are primarily and very largely referred to the companies or grantees of the power, and only becomes an issue capable of determination in the case of the company when the company in any proceeding brought to condemn lands by virtue of the right of eminent domain claimed thereunder, by its charter or otherwise, purports to raise any question of law or fact issuable or otherwise to be considered on appeal to the superior court from his award of damages, as provided by law. Selma v. Nobles, 183 N. C. 122, 111 S. E. 541.

Rights Protected by Injunction.—And the rights of the parties may be protected in the meantime from interference by an injunction issued by the judge on application made in the same cause when it appears to the judge in such proceeding that the portion in controversy is necessary for the purposes of the company, and in any proceeding in which the company seeks such portion that the portion in controversy is necessary, or that the company is seeking to acquire such portion for any purpose other than the purposes for which it is granted the power to acquire such portion, the judge shall have power to make such order for the temporary preservation of the rights of the parties as the nature of the case demands, including the power to make such order as to the possession and use of the property as will best effectuate the purposes of the company, and to continue such order until the rights of the parties have been determined by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Where issuable matters are raised before the clerk under this section he should pass upon these matters presented in the record, have the land assessed through commissioners, with the exercise of which neither the parties nor the courts can interfere. It is a political and administrative measure of which the defendants are not even entitled to notice or to be heard. Durham v. Riggsbee, 141 N. C. 128, 53 S. E. 531.

No Appeal from Order Appointing Commissioners.—An order appointing commissioners to assess damages is interlocutory, and no appeal will be taken or subscribed to appear they that will fairly and impartially appraise the lands mentioned in the petition. Any one of them may issue subpoena, administer oaths to witnesses, and grant the adjournment of the proceedings before them from time to time in their discretion. Whenever they meet, except by the appointment of the court or pursuant to adjournment, they shall cause ten days notice of such meeting to be given to the parties who are to be affected by their proceedings, or their agent or attorney. They shall view the premises described in the petition, hear the proofs and allegations of the parties, and reduce the testimony, if any is taken by them, to writing; and after the testimony is closed in each case, and without any unnecessary delay, and before proceeding to the examination of any other claim, a majority of them all being present and acting, shall ascertain and determine the compensation which ought justly to be made by the corporation to the party or parties owning or interested in the real estate appraised by them. They shall report the same to the court within ten days after the same (Rev. s. 2585; Code, C. S. 1971.)

Editor's Note.—In the published Acts of 1871-72, ch. 138 a large part of section 18 was erroneously printed under section 16. This error was repeated in the Revised, ch. 99, Sec. 218, of the American Union Tel. Co. v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, Code, C. S. 420, 421. In the Code of 1893 these included sections 16-18 of ch. 138 supra. In the Consolidated Statutes sections 1721 and 1723 both contained a part of section 18 was erroneously printed under section 1946. This latter provision was repealed in 1891, Laws 1891, ch. 160. The courts have subsequently construed this repeal to mean a restoration of the old rule as stated in Freddie's Case, supra. Southport, etc., R. Co. v. Platt Landy, 135 N. C. 266, 45 S. E. 538; But the evidence of the legislature as to the meaning of this section when the proceeding is begun. Western Carolina Power Co. v. Hayes, 193 N. C. 104, 107, 136 S. E. 353. Evidence Admissible.—In a proceeding to condemn land for a right of way, evidence to show the value of the land taken shall be admissible. Blue Ridge Power Co. v. Parker, 105 N. C. 246, 248, 11 S. E. 328. But a tax list is not admissible for that purpose. Id.

Just Compensation.—It seems to be the general rule in this country that land is taken for the use of a corporation, and where the use of the land is such as to make it a "just compensation," under our general statute, is such compensation after special benefits peculiar to the landowner is entitled to just compensation. Phila. v. Asheville Electric Light Co., 138 N. C. 533, 51 S. E. 740; But the evidence of the legislature as to the meaning of this section when the proceeding is begun. Western Carolina Power Co. v. Owner at Time of Taking Is One to Be Paid.—Compensation for property taken in the exercise of the power of eminent domain is due to the owner at the time of the taking, and not to the owner at an earlier or later date. Empie v. United States, 131 F. (2d) 481.

The right to condemnation of access does not arise merely upon the erection of easements which they are attached. Id.

For the right to flood lands upon which the defendant has constructed its road and imposed a burden, he has nothing to be "taken," and therefore nothing for which he is entitled to compensation. Abernathy v. South, etc., R. Co., 150 N. C. 97, 104, 63 S. E. 180.

Eminent Domain.—In the exercise of the power of eminent domain, the right of a defendant to receive no special benefit is conclusive. Southport, etc., Co. v. Platt Land, 133 N. C. 266, 45 S. E. 589.

§ 40-18. Form of commissioners' report.—When the commissioners shall have assessed the damages, they shall forthwith make and subscribe a written report of their proceedings, in substance as follows:

To the Clerk of the Superior Court of County:

We, ........, commissioners appointed by the court to assess the damages that have been and will be sustained by ........, the owner of certain land lying in the county of ........, which the .......... corporation proposes to condemn for its use, do hereby certify that we met on ........ (or the day to which we were regularly adjourned), and, having first been duly sworn, we visited the premises of the owner, and after taking into full consideration the quality and quantity of the land aforesaid, the additional fencing likely to be occasioned by the work of the corporation, and all other inconveniences likely to result to the owner, we have estimated and do assess the damages aforesaid at the sum of $ ................

We have estimated the special benefits which the said owner will receive from the construction of said works to be the sum of $ ................

Given under our hands, the ........ day of ........, A. D. 19 ....... (Rev., s. 2586; Code, s. 1700; R. C., c. 61, s. 17; 1874-5, c. 83; C. S. 1722.)

Editor's Note.—It was formerly provided that the report of the commissioners be made to the court. In Hanes v. North Carolina R. Co., 109 N. C. 490, 13 S. E. 896 the court held that this provision was not mandatory but directory only and the omission of the seal was not a fatal defect.

Report Need Not State Particulars.—The report of the commissioners will not be set aside because it fails to show in what the benefits assessed consist, where no objection was made when the report was submitted. Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 99 N. C. 131, 3 S. E. 927.

Description of Land Not Essential.—A report of the commissioners is not invalid because it does not contain a description of the property to be condemned. In Hanes v. North Carolina R. Co., 109 N. C. 490, 13 S. E. 896.

But as the easement is conveyed to the petitioner by the report, it is not necessary that it should describe wherein, or in what manner, or to what degree, it seems that the said easement should be described therein as fully and correctly as it would be in a grant. Railroad v. Land Co., 137 N. C. 330, 336, 49 S. E. 350.

Cited in Ayden v. Lancaster, 197 N. C. 556, 560, 150 S. E. 40.
No Appeal to Judge at Chambers.—No appeal lies to the judge at chambers under this section. R. v. v. Stewart, 132 N. C. 486, 492, 13, S. E. 896.

Effect of Appeal.—The appeal, provided by this section, from the superior court in condemnation proceedings, under sec. 40-12, takes the entire record up for review upon questions of fact to be tried by jury in term before the judge, nor is the writ of certiorari, if the judgment has been made and confirmed. Johnson City, etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., etc, specific provision for appeal in conformity with the constitutional due-process clause, under the general statute (this section), applying to municipal corporations, this right of appeal is preserved, and the charter provisions or the order of the charter or the code, acting as the reason unconstitutional by the courts. Long v. Rockingham, 187 N. C. 199, 121 S. E. 461.

In condemnation proceedings instituted by a town for the taking of lands for a public municipal purpose, the owner is entitled to a trial by jury in the Superior Court to determine his damages when he has duly preserved the right by his exceptions and proper procedure, and when the taking of lands for a public municipal purpose, the taking of lands for use as a sidewalk by the defendant municipality, the jury finds plaintiff is entitled to an adequate amount of money, or any part of it, to be paid as compensation for the real estate taken, the court may direct the money to be paid into the said court by the corporation, and may determine who is entitled to the same and direct to whom the money shall be paid, and any discretion order a reference to ascertain the facts on which such determination and order are to be made. (Rev., s. 2590; Code, s. 1956; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 28; C. S. 1729.)

§ 40-22. Title of infants, persons non compos, and trustees without power of sale, acquired.—In case any title or interest in real estate be vested by any corporation for its purposes shall be vested in any trustee not authorized to sell, release and convey the same, or in any infant, idiot, or person of unsound mind, the superior court shall have power, by a special proceeding, on petition, to authorize and empower such trustee or the general guardian or committee of such infant, idiot, or person of unsound mind, to sell and convey the same to such corporation, on such terms as may be just; and in case any such infant, idiot, or person of unsound mind has no general guardian or committee, the said court may appoint a special guardian or committee for the purpose of making such sale, release or conveyance, and may require such security from such general or special guardian or committee as said court may deem proper. But before any conveyance or release authorized by this section shall be executed, the terms on which the same is to be executed shall be reported to the court on oath; and if the court is satisfied that such terms are just to the party interested in such real estate, the court shall confirm the report and direct the proper conveyance or release to be executed, which shall have the same effect as if executed by an owner of said land having legal power to sell and convey the same. (Rev., s. 2590; Code, s. 1956; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 28; C. S. 1729.)

§ 40-23. Rights of claimants of fund determined.—If there are adverse and conflicting claimants to the money, or any part of it, to be paid as compensation for the real estate taken, the court may direct the money to be paid into the said court by the corporation, and may determine who is entitled to the same and direct to whom the money shall be paid, and any discretion order a reference to ascertain the facts on which such determination and order are to be made. (Rev., s. 2591; Code, s. 1947; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 19; C. S. 1727.)

Editor's Note.—The purpose of this section is to prevent a corporation, having the right of eminent domain, from being indefinitely postponed in acquiring title and going on with its work or from being subjected to a succession of suits for compensation. Under the provisions of the section the company acquires the right of way and the court distributes the compensation. See Abernathy v. South, etc., R. Co., 150 N. C. 97, 104, 63 S. E. 180.

§ 40-24. Attorney for unknown parties appointed; pleadings amended; new commissioners appointed.—The court shall appoint some competent attorney to appear for and protect the rights of any party in interest who is unknown or whose residence is unknown, and who has not appeared in the proceedings by an attorney or agent, and shall make an allowance to said attorney for his services, which shall be taxed as costs of the proceeding. The court shall also have power at any time to amend any defect or informality in any of the special proceedings authorized by this chapter as may be necessary, or to cause new parties to be added, and to direct such further notices to be given to any party in interest as it deems proper; and also to appoint other commissioners in place of any who shall die, refuse or neglect to serve or be incapable of serving. (Rev., s. 2592; Code, s. 1948; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 20; C. S. 1728.)

Counsel fees for attorneys appointed under this section are provided for in section 40-19. See Durham v. Davis, 171 N. C. 305, 89 S. E. 431; North Carolina R. Co. v. Goodwin, 110 N. C. 175, 110 S. E. 657.

§ 40-25. Court may make rules of procedure in. —In all cases of appraisal under this chapter where the mode or manner of conducting all or any of the proceedings to the appraisal and the proceedings consequent thereon are not expressed or provided for by the statute, the courts before whom such proceedings may be pending shall have the power to make all the necessary orders and give the proper directions to carry into effect the object and intent of this chapter, and the practice in such cases shall conform as near as may be to the ordinary practice in such courts. (Rev., s. 2593; Code, s. 1949; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 21; C. S. 1729.)

In General.—The provisions of the statute regarding the mode of procedure and rules of practice are indefinite and obscure, and the Legislature, recognizing the difficulty of doing more than outlining the practice so as to enable the rights of the parties, has conferred upon the court the power to make rules of procedure when they are not ex-presumably provided by the statute. Abernathy v. South, etc., R. Co., 150 N. C. 97, 103, 63 S. E. 180.

§ 40-26. Change of ownership pending proceeding.—When any proceedings of appraisal shall have been commenced, no change of ownership by voluntary conveyance or transfer of the real estate or other subject-matter of the appraisal, or any interest therein, shall in any manner affect such proceedings, the same may be carried on and perfected as if no such conveyance or transfer had been made or attempted to be made. (Rev. s. 2594; Code, s. 1950; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 22; C. S. 1730.)

Subsequent Purchaser May Recover.—An owner of land who acquires title subsequent to the location by a railroad company is not barred of his remedy for compensation where the location was not finished and he begins his action. Hendrick v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 101 N. C. 617, 7 S. E. 236; Beattie v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 108 N. C. 429, 11 S. E. 935.

Until a purchase or condemnation, the corporation's occupation is without title, and the conveyance of the land will pass to the vendee the right to compensation for damages. Liverman v. Roanoke, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 52, 13 S. E. 734.

Action for Unlawful Entry Personal.—The damages incident to the act of an unlawful entry upon land by a railway corporation are personal to the owner of the land and do not pass by his subsequent conveyance of the premises. Liverman v. Roanoke, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 52, 13 S. E. 734.

The purchaser at the mortgage sale, while not entitled to the damages incident to the act of entry, might recover compensation for the land appropriated to the use of the company. Liverman v. Roanoke, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 52, 13 S. E. 734.

The right to convey the land is not affected by the mere filing of condemnation proceedings, nor by appraisers' without confirmation and payment, as all rights would pass to the grantee. Nantahala Power, etc., Co. v. Whiting Mfg. Co., 209 N. C. 560, 562, 184 S. E. 48, citing Liverman v. Roanoke, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 52, 13 S. E. 734; Beal v. Durham, etc., R. Co., 136 N. C. 298, 48 S. E. 674.

§ 40-27. Defective title; how cured.—If at any time after an attempt to acquire title by appraisal of damages or otherwise it shall be found that the title thereby attempted to be acquired is defective, the corporation may proceed anew to acquire or perfect such title in the same manner as if no appraisal had been made, and at any stage of such new proceedings the court may authorize the corporation, if in possession, to continue in possession, and if not in possession, to take possession and use such real estate during the pendency and until the final conclusion of such new proceedings, and may stay all actions or proceedings against the corporation on account thereof, on such corporation paying into court a sufficient sum or giving security as the court may direct to pay the compensation therefor, which shall be determined, and in every such case the party interested in such real estate may conduct the proceedings to a conclusion if the corporation delays or omits to prosecute the same. (Rev. s. 2594; Code, s. 1950; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 23; C. S. 1731.)

§ 40-28. Title to state lands acquired.—The secretary of state shall have power to grant to any railroad company any land belonging to the people of this state which may be required for the purposes of its road, on such terms as may be agreed on by them, or such company may acquire title thereto by appraisal, as in the case of all other lands of individuals; and if any land belonging to a county or town is required by such company for the purposes of the road, the county or town officers having the charge of such land may grant such land to such company for such compensation as may be agreed upon. (Rev. s. 2506; Code, s. 1955; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 27; C. S. 1732.)

§ 40-29. Quantity which may be condemned for certain purposes:

1. Right of way of railroad.—The width of the land condemned for any railroad shall not be less than eighty feet nor more than one hundred, except where the road may run through a town, when it may be of less width; or where there may be deep cuts or high embankments, when it may be of greater width.

2. Plankroads, etc.—No greater width of land than sixty feet shall be condemned for the use of any plankroad, tramroad, canal, street railroad or turnpike; or greater width than sixteen feet for the use of a flume.

3. Depot or station.—No greater quantity of land than two acres, contiguous to any plankroad, plankroad, tramroad, turnpike, or canal, shall be condemned at one place for a depot or station. (Rev. s. 2597; Code, ss. 1707, 1708, 1709; R. C. c. 61, ss. 27, 28, 29; 1853, c. 92; 1874-5, c. 83; 1907, c. 39; C. S. 1733.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of railroad companies to condemn more than two acres, see § 40-4.

When Section Applies.—If the charter prescribes no maximum or minimum width of the right of way, then paragraph 1 of this section applies, and the company shall have the right to use therein specified subject to the right of the owner to recover compensation by compliance with section 1-31, paragraphs 1 and 2, and Griffith v. R. R., 191 N. C. 84, 88, 131 S. E. 415.

Owner's Right to Use.—To the extent that the land covered by the right of way is not presently required for the purposes of the road, the railroad company may use the same in a manner not inconsistent with the full and proper enjoyment of the easement. Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. McLean, 134 N. C. 448, 74 S. E. 461; Earhardt v. Southern R. Co., 157 N. C. 358, 72 S. E. 1062; Railroad v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 273, 55 S. E. 261; Goldsboro Lumber Co. v. Hines Bros. Lumber Co., 126 N. C. 254, 35 S. E. 458; Railroad v. Szigethy, 130 N. C. 257, 131 S. E. 779; Colt v. Owenby-Wofford Co., 166 N. C. 136, 138, 81 S. E. 1067.

Same—Permitting Others to Use.—The grant of a right of way of a specified width does not preclude the grantor from such use of his land himself or permitting the same.
§ 40-30. Title of article.—This article may be referred to as the "Public Works Eminent Domain Law." (1935, c. 470, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For act authorizing North Carolina Cape Hatteras Seashore Commission, created by Public Laws 1939, c. 257, to condemn land according to the procedure contained in this article, see Public Laws 1941, c. 100.

§ 40-31. Finding and declaration of necessity. — (a) It is hereby declared that widespread unemployment exists throughout the State, making it impossible for many people in the State to support themselves and their families; that these conditions create a public emergency and constitute a menace to the health, safety, morals and welfare of the people of the State; that it is essential that public works projects, financed in whole or in part by the United States of America or by the State, be commenced as soon as possible in order to reduce and relieve this unemployment and prevent irreparable injury to the people of the State; that to this end, it is necessary to provide a method for the expeditious acquisition of any lands necessary for such public works projects; that such public works projects are hereby declared to be in furtherance of the public welfare and to be public uses and purposes for which public money may be spent and private property acquired; and that the necessity in the public interest for the provision hereinafter enacted is hereby declared as a matter of legislative determination.

(b) Without limitation upon the generality of the foregoing paragraph it is hereby declared that insanitary or unsafe dwelling accommodations exist in various areas of the State and that consequently many persons of low income are forced to reside therein; that these conditions cause an increase in and spread of disease and crime, constitute a menace to the health, safety, morals and welfare of the citizens of the State, impair economic values and are not being, and cannot within a reasonable time be corrected by the investment of private capital available for profit-making enterprises; that the clearance, removal and reconstruction of the areas in which insanitary or unsafe conditions exist and the provision of safe and sanitary dwelling accommodations for persons of low income are public uses and purposes for which private property may be acquired. (1935, c. 470, s. 2.)

§ 40-32. Definitions.—The following terms when ever used or referred to in this article shall have the following respective meanings unless a different meaning clearly appears from the context:

(a) "Public works project" shall mean any work or undertaking which is financed in whole or in part by a federal agency, as herein defined, or by a state public body, as herein defined.

(b) "Federal agency" shall mean the United States of America, the federal emergency administration of public works, or any other agency or instrumentality, corporate or otherwise, of the United States of America.

(c) "State public body" shall mean this State or any county, city, town, municipal corporation, authority, or any other subdivision, agency, or instrumentality, corporate or otherwise, thereof.

(d) "Authorized corporation" shall mean any corporation or association engaged or about to engage in any public works project, as herein defined, for a public use. Provided, that the construction of said public works project and its conduct thereafter by the corporation or association shall be subject to regulation or supervision by a federal agency, as heretofore defined, or a state public body, as herein defined, whether by virtue of an agreement, provision of law, or otherwise.

(e) "Real property" or "property" or "land" shall include all lands, including improvements and fixtures thereon, lands under water, all easements and hereditaments, corporeal and incorporeal, and every estate, interest and right, legal or equitable, in lands or water, and all rights, interests, privileges, easements, encumbrances, and franchises relating to the same, including terms for years and liens by way of judgment, mortgage or otherwise.

(f) "Court" shall mean the court in which jurisdiction over proceedings hereunder is vested by the provisions of § 40-33.

(g) "Petitioner" shall mean the one by whom proceedings for the acquisition of real property, as herein defined, are instituted hereunder pursuant to the provisions of § 40-33. (1935, c. 470, s. 3.)

§ 40-33. Filing of petition; jurisdiction of court; entry upon land by petitioner. — Any federal agency, state public body or authorized corporation may institute proceedings hereunder for the acquisition of any real property necessary for any public works project. Such proceedings may be instituted in the superior court in any county in which any part of the real property or of the proposed public works project is situate. The court, whether during a term or during a vacation, shall cause said proceedings to be heard and determined without delay. All condemnation proceedings shall be preferred cases, and shall be entitled to precedence over all other civil cases.

The petitioner may enter upon the land proposed to be acquired for the purpose of making a survey and of posting any notice thereon which § 40-34. Form of petition.—A proceeding may be instituted hereunder by the filing of a petition which shall be sufficient if it sets forth:

(a) The name of the petitioner.

(b) A description of the property, sufficient for the identification thereof, to which there may be attached a plat or map thereof.

(c) A statement that the acquisition of such property by the petitioner is necessary for a public works project and a brief general description of said public works project.

(d) A statement that the proceedings are being instituted under this article.

(e) A suitable prayer for relief. (1935, c. 470, s. 5.)

§ 40-35. Inclusion of several parcels.—Any number of parcels of land, whether owned by the same or different persons and whether contiguous or not, may be included and condemned in one proceeding: Provided, such parcels are to be used for a single public works project. (1935, c. 470, s. 6.)

§ 40-36. Notice of proceedings.—Notice of such proceedings shall be given by one publication in a newspaper having a general circulation in each county in which any part of the property sought to be condemned is located. Such publication shall be at least twenty days and not more than thirty days prior to the date set for the hearing of the validity of the proceedings. Such notice shall be in substantially the following form (the blanks being appropriately filled):

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Notice is hereby given that ................. (here insert name of petitioner) has filed a petition in the above court under the Public Works Eminent Domain Law, to acquire by condemnation for ......................... (here give brief general description of the public works project for which the land is sought to be acquired) the following described land:

(Here describe the land sufficiently for the identification thereof. Such description may be by use of a plat or map.)

Notice is further given that on ............ (here insert date of hearing, which must be at least twenty days and not more than thirty days after the date of publication) there will be a hearing in this court, at the opening thereof, for (1) determining the validity of said proceedings and the right of the petitioner, if it so elects, to take title to and possession of such property prior to final judgment, as authorized by § 40-45, of the Public Works Eminent Domain Law, and any persons having any interest in or lien upon the above described property shall be deemed to have waived their rights thereafter to object to the court's decision with respect to such issues, unless prior to said date they shall have filed in writing with the clerk of said court their objections thereto; (2) the appointment of a special master to determine the compensation to be awarded for such property and the persons entitled thereto; (3) the fixing of the date and place at which said special master shall hear and determine the compensation to be paid for such property and the person entitled thereto.

Notice is further given that all claims or demands for compensation because of the taking and condemnation of such property must be filed with the above court before ....................... (here insert date fifteen days after the date above specified for the court hearing), or the same shall be deemed waived.

Dated, the .............. day of ............., A. D., ..........................................................

Clerk of said Court.

Notice of such proceedings shall also be given (a) by posting a copy of the above notice in conspicuous places on the real property sought to be condemned, (b) by filing a copy thereof in the office of the clerk of the court in which such proceedings are pending, and (c) by filing a copy thereof in the proper office or offices for the filing of its lits pendens in each county in which any part of the real property is situated.

Such publication, posting and filing shall constitute a legal and sufficient notice to all persons having any interest in or lien upon the property described in said notice. The filing of such notice in the aforesaid county office shall also be a constructive notice of the proceeding to any person who subsequently acquires any interest in or lien upon said property, and the petitioner shall take all property condemned under this article free of the claims of any such person. (1935, c. 470, s. 7.)

§ 40-37. Determination of issues raised by objections; waiver by failure to file; final judgment; guardian ad litem.—All persons who have not filed written objections with the court prior to the time of the hearing specified in the notice prescribed by § 40-36 shall be deemed to have waived the right to file objections as to the sufficiency and validity of the petition, the proceedings and the relief sought thereby, and as to the right of the petitioner to take title and possession prior to final judgment, as authorized by § 40-45.

The court, at the time specified in said notice, after hearing and determining all issues of fact and law raised by the objections which have been filed, if any there be, shall enter a final judgment with respect to such issues, and thereafter there shall remain for determination only the amount of the compensation to be paid and the persons entitled thereto.

If any infant or other person under a legal disability shall not have appeared in the proceedings by his duly authorized legal representative, the court shall appoint a guardian ad litem to represent such person's interest in the proceedings before the special master. (1935, c. 470, s. 8.)

§ 40-38. Appointment of special master.—The court, at the time of said hearing, shall appoint a special master to fix the amount of damages and compensation for the taking and condemnation of the property described in the petition and the persons entitled thereto, and to report thereon to the court. The special master shall be a disinterested person not related to any one having an interest in or lien upon the property sought to be condemned. The compensation of said special

Immediately after his appointment and taking of oath, the special master shall cause notice to be sent by registered mail to all persons who have appeared in the proceedings or to their attorneys of record and to all others having any interest in or lien upon the property sought to be condemned, as shown by the record of the proper county office or offices for the recording of documents pertaining to such real estate, and to all guardians ad litem appointed pursuant to the provisions of § 40-37, such notice to be addressed to such persons at their respective last known addresses. Such notice shall be substantially in the following form (with the blanks appropriately filled):

IN THE .......... COURT FOR THE .......... OF .......... TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Notice is hereby given that .......... (here insert name of petitioner) has filed a petition in the above court under the Public Works Eminent Domain Law to acquire by condemnation for .......... (here give brief general description of the public works project for which the land is sought to be acquired), the following described land:

(Here describe the land sufficiently for the identification thereof. Such description may be by use of a plat or map.)

All persons having an interest in or lien upon the above described property, for which compensation will be demanded, are hereby notified that all claims or demands for compensation by reason of the taking and condemnation of such property shall be filed in writing with said court before .......... (here insert date at least fifteen days after the date set for the court hearing in the notice specified in § 40-36, hereof), and shall be deemed waived unless so filed, and that on ............ a hearing will be held by the special master at .......... (insert time and place fixed by the court for such hearing in blanks) with respect to (1) the amount of compensation to be paid for the property sought to be condemned, and (2) the persons entitled to such compensation.

Dated .......... day of .........., A. D., .......... Special master appointed by said Court.

The special master shall also cause a copy of said notice to be posted in conspicuous places on the property sought to be condemned.

After such notice by mailing and posting, the special master, on the date for hearing specified in the aforesaid notice, shall proceed immediately to hear and determine the question of just compensation for the taking and condemnation of the property and the persons entitled to such compensation. To this end, the special master may issue subpoenas, administer oaths to witnesses, and receive evidence and cause same to be recorded. (1935, c. 470, s. 10.)

§ 40-40. Evidence admissible; increase in value; improvements.—For the purpose of determining the value of the land sought to be condemned and fixing just compensation therefor, the following evidence (in addition to other evidence which is relevant, material and competent) shall be relevant, material and competent and shall be admitted and considered by the special master:

(a) Evidence that a building or improvement is unsafe or insanitary or a public nuisance, or is in a state of disrepair, and of the cost to correct any such condition, notwithstanding that no action has been taken by local authorities to remedy any such condition.

(b) Evidence that any state public body, charged with the duty of abating or requiring the correction of nuisances or like conditions or demolishing unsafe or insanitary structures, issued an order directing the abatement or correction of any conditions existing with respect to said building or improvement or the demolition of said building or improvement, and of the cost which compliance with any such order would entail.

(c) Evidence of the last assessed valuation of the property for purposes of taxation and of any affidavits or tax returns made by the owner in connection with such assessment which state the value of such property and of any income tax returns of the owner showing sums deducted on account of obsolescence or depreciation of such property.

(d) Evidence that such buildings and improvements are being used for illegal purposes or are being so overcrowded as to be dangerous or injurious to the health, safety, morals or welfare of the occupants thereof and the extent to which the rentals therefrom are enhanced by reason of such use.

(e) Evidence of the price and other terms upon any sale or the rent reserved and other terms of any lease or tenancy relating to such property or to any similar property in the vicinity when the sale or leasing occurred or the tenancy existed within a reasonable time of the hearing.

The award of compensation shall not be increased by reason of any increase in the value of the property resulting from the public works project to be placed thereon.

No allowance shall be made for improvements begun on property after the publication of the notice specified in § 40-36, except upon good cause being shown. (1935, c. 470, s. 11.)

§ 40-41. Report of special master.—The report of the special master must be filed with the clerk of the court in which said proceeding is pending within thirty days after the date of the taking of the oath, unless further time is granted by the court. The court shall grant additional time for the filing of the report only on a showing that the report cannot, with all due diligence, be prepared within the time fixed. (1935, c. 470, s. 12.)

§ 40-42. Notice of report.—Upon the filing of such report by the special master, the court, without delay, shall fix a date for the hearing of any objections filed thereto. Notice that said report has been filed, that all objections thereto [178] must be filed with the court within ten days after the date of the mailing of such notice and that the court has fixed a certain date (which shall be stated therein) for the hearing of such objections. The objections shall be given by sending a copy of such notice by registered mail to all persons who have appeared in the proceeding or their attorneys of record at their last known addresses. Upon the expiration of ten days after the mailing of such notice, all objections to the report shall be deemed waived by all persons who have not filed written objections with the court. (1935, c. 470, s. 13.)

§ 40-43. Hearing of objections by the court.
—If no objections are filed to the special master's report, the court (but only on motion of the petitioner unless title to the property has vested in the petitioner) shall enter a final judgment fixing the compensation to be paid for the property and the persons entitled to such compensation. If any objections are filed to the special master's report, the court on the date specified in the aforesaid order shall hear and determine such questions of law and fact as are raised by such exceptions and may approve, disapprove or modify the special master's findings or may reject the special master's report in toto. In the event the special master's report is rejected in toto, the court shall at once appoint another special master in the same manner that the first special master was appointed, and such special master shall have the same powers and duties as the special master first appointed, except that notice of the time for filing claims and of the hearing of the special master may be given by registered mail to all persons who have appeared in the proceedings or their attorneys of record at their last known addresses, and no other notice shall be necessary. If the court shall approve the special master's report, with or without modification, the court (but only on motion of the petitioner unless title to the property has previously vested in the petitioner) shall enter a final judgment, fixing the compensation to be paid for such property and the persons entitled to such compensation.

If title to said property has not previously been vested in the petitioner, the title and right to possession of said property shall vest in the petitioner immediately upon the entry of such final judgment and upon the deposit in court by the petitioner of the amount of the judgment fixed by the court as the compensation for such property. Upon the entry of such judgment and the vesting of title aforesaid, the court shall designate a day (not exceeding thirty days after such filing, except upon good cause shown) on which the parties in possession of said property shall be required to surrender possession to the petitioner. (1935, c. 470, s. 14.)

§ 40-44. Certified copy of judgment.—Upon the rendition of the final judgment vesting title in the petitioner, the clerk of the court shall make and certify, under the seal of the court, a copy or copies of such judgment, which shall be filed or recorded in the proper county office or offices for the recording of documents pertaining to the real property described therein, and such filing or recording shall constitute notice to all persons of the contents thereof. A copy of the judgment certified by the clerk of the court as aforesaid shall be competent and admissible evidence in any proceedings at law or in equity. (1933, c. 470, s. 15.)

§ 40-45. Declaration of taking; property deemed condemned; fixing day for surrender of property; security for compensation and payment of award.
—At any time at or after the filing of the petition referred to in § 40-34, and before the entry of final judgment, the petitioner may file with the clerk of the court a declaration of taking signed by the duly authorized officer or agent of the petitioner declaring that all or any part of the property described in said petition is to be taken for the use of the petitioner.

 Said declaration of taking shall be sufficient if it sets forth: (1) a description of the property, sufficient for the identification thereof, to which there may be attached a plat or map thereof; (2) a statement of the estate or interest in said property being taken; and (3) a statement of the sum of money estimated by the petitioner to be just compensation for the property taken.

Upon the filing of said declaration of taking and the deposit in court, to the use of the persons entitled thereto, of the amount of the estimated compensation stated in said declaration title to the property specified in said declaration shall vest in the petitioner and said property shall be deemed to be condemned and taken for the use of the petitioner, and the right to just compensation for the same shall vest in the persons entitled thereto. Upon the filing of the declaration of taking, the court shall designate a day (not exceeding thirty days after such filing, except upon good cause shown) on which the parties in possession shall be required to surrender possession to the petitioner. In the event that the petitioner is an authorized corporation, the court, prior to directing surrender of possession to the petitioner, shall require such security to be given, in addition to the amount deposited in court, as will reasonably assure the payment of any amount ultimately determined as the compensation to be paid.

The ultimate amount of compensation shall be fixed in the manner heretofore specified. If the amount so fixed shall exceed the amount so deposited in court by the petitioner, the court shall enter judgment against the petitioner in the amount of such deficiency, together with interest at the rate of six per centum per annum on such deficiency from the date of the vesting of title to the date of the entry of the final judgment (subject, however, to abatement for use, income, rents or profits derived from such property by the owner thereof subsequent to the vesting of title in the petitioner) and the court shall order the petitioner to deposit the amount of such deficiency in court. (1935, c. 470, s. 16.)

§ 40-46. Right to dismiss petition.—At any time prior to the vesting of title to the property in the petitioner, the petitioner may withdraw or dismiss its petition with respect to any or all of the property therein described. (1935, c. 470, s. 17.)

§ 40-47. Divesting title of owner.—Upon vesting of title to any property in the petitioner, all the right, title and interest of all persons having any interest therein or lien thereupon shall be divested immediately, and such persons thereafter
§ 40-48. Payment of award into court and disbursement thereof.—The payment into court by the petitioner of the amount of any award or the deposit into court by the petitioner of the amount of any award or the deposit in court of the amount estimated by the petitioner to be the just compensation for the property taken or condemned shall be deemed to be a payment or deposit of money for the use of the persons entitled thereto. Such payment or deposit shall constitute a payment to the persons entitled thereto to the extent of the moneys so paid or deposited into court.

Any such payment shall be as valid and effectual in all respects as if it were made by the petitioner directly to the person entitled thereto or, in the case of a person under legal disability, to his guardian, whether or not (a) such person or his whereabouts is known or unknown, (b) such person is under a legal disability, or (c) there are adverse or conflicting claims to such awards. The money paid into court shall be secured in such manner as may be directed by the court and shall be paid out by the special master to the persons found to be entitled thereto by the final judgment of the court. (1935, c. 470, s. 19.)

§ 40-49. Recovery of award.—If an award shall be paid to a person not entitled thereto, the sole recourse of the person to whom it should have been paid shall be against the person to whom it shall have been paid. In such event the person entitled to the award may sue for and recover the same, with the lawful interest and costs of suit, as such money had and received to his use by the person to whom the same shall have been paid. (1935, c. 470, s. 20.)

§ 40-50. Appeal.—Any time within thirty days from the filing of any interlocutory or final order or judgment by the court, any person or persons of record in the proceedings, who shall have filed exceptions at any stage of the proceedings within the time and in the manner specified, may appeal therefrom, but only with respect to those questions or issues which were raised by such exceptions.

The taking of an appeal shall not operate to stay the proceedings under this article except when the person or persons appealing shall have obtained a stay of the execution of the judgment or order appealed from, in which event the proceedings shall be stayed only with respect to the person or persons appealing and their respective interests in the proceedings. Upon the taking of an appeal the proceedings shall be deemed severed as to the person or persons appealing and their respective interests in the proceedings.

Any interlocutory or final order or judgment shall be final and conclusive upon all persons affected thereby who have not appealed within the time herein prescribed.

Any petitioner, other than an authorized corporation, may appeal without giving bond; but any other person or persons appealing shall give bond, with good and sufficient surety, to be approved by the court, conditioned to pay all costs taxed against appellant on such appeal. (1935, c. 470, s. 21.)

§ 40-51. Costs.—If the petitioner, prior to the making of the award, shall have tendered to an interested person for his property or deposited in court for such property an amount which such interested person refused to accept or agree to as just compensation, all costs shall be assessed against such person in the event that the aforementioned amount tendered or deposited is equal to or in excess of the award fixed or confirmed by the court with respect to such parcel. (1935, c. 470, s. 22.)

§ 40-52. Powers conferred are supplemental.—The powers conferred by this article shall be in addition and supplemental to and not in substitution for the power conferred by any other law. The power of eminent domain may be exercised hereunder, notwithstanding that any other law may provide for the exercise of said power for like purposes and without regard to the requirements, restrictions or procedural provisions contained in any other law. Procedure hereunder, which is not prescribed herein, shall be that which is otherwise prescribed by the law of the State. (1935, c. 470, s. 23.)

§ 40-53. Necessity for certificate of public convenience and necessity from utilities commission.—Notwithstanding any finding of public convenience and necessity, either in general or specific, by the terms of this article, the right of eminent domain shall not be exercised unless and until a certificate of public convenience and necessity for such project has been issued by the utilities commission of North Carolina, and the proceedings leading up to the issuing of such certificate of public convenience and necessity, for such project has been heard and determined by the utilities commission of North Carolina, and the proceedings leading up to the issuing of such certificate of public convenience and necessity, and the right to appeal therefrom shall be as now provided by any such project is hereby vested with full power and authority to investigate and examine all projects set up or attempted to be set up under the provisions of this article and determine the question of the public convenience and necessity for said project. (1935, c. 470, s. 25.)

—RULE IN SHELLEY'S CASE.

I. General Considerations.

Editor's Note.—Estates are now held in the British Isles granted by William, the Conqueror (1085), and by Bruce, after the battle of Bannockburn, (1314), estates tail general or special, estates tail male and estates tail female. This system, one of the last relics of the feudal system, is so pregnant with involved technical problems, and so potent an economic and social order. The heavy tax brought about the possession of the masses. The system gained a foot-hold in America during Colonial days, but, with the advent of Independence, this hierarchy, under our conception of freedom, could not exist. So it was that primogeniture, which existed under the Mosaic as well as the English Law, never took root in the states of the American Union. Estates tail were soon abolished. Of these estates it is only necessary to say that they existed in this State in Colonial days; that by section 43 of the Constitution of 1776 it was provided that, "The future Legislature of this State shall regulate entails in such a manner as to prevent perpetuities;" that in 1784 the Legislature passed the act by which all estates tail then in existence were converted into fee-simple estates, and it was enacted that estates tail not already in existence should be deemed to be in fee simple.

Ill. APPLICATION AND ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.

A devise to B and her heirs, the words "heirs of her body," are limited to the issue of B, and not to her personal representatives. Harrington v. Garris, 134 N. C. 24, 45 S. E. 904. See the Editor's Note to § 41-6.

Where land is devised to a person for life at her death, and a reverter or limitation over in the event the wife should die without surviving children and not to the birth of issue, there being issue born at the date of conveyance, the devise is in the form of a life estate, subject to a reverter or limitation over in the event of the death of the grandson without children, then to the "heirs of her body," and if she dies without children, then to the "heirs of her body." Harrington v. Grimes, 163 N. C. 76, 79 S. E. 301, cited and applied in Merchants Nat. Bank v. Dortch, 190 N. C. 104, 135 S. E. 591.

Where a husband conveys his lands to his wife for life and then to "the surviving heirs of her body," he creates an estate tail which is converted by this section, into a fee simple absolute in the widow, and her husband takes no interest in the land, § 41-6, not being applicable, since it applies only when the preceding estate is conveyed to the "ancestor" of the land, to the "bodily heirs" of the devisees named after the birth of issue, in the absence of a reverter or limitation over in the event the wife should not have children born to her marriage with testator. Shaw v. Ilsley, 219 N. C. 753, 134 S. E. (2d) 614.

A devise of land to a widow and the heirs of her body by her late husband creates an estate tail which is converted by this section into a fee simple absolute in the widow, and her children take no interest in the land, to the "ancestor" of the land, to the "bodily heirs" of the devisees named after the birth of issue, in the absence of a reverter or limitation over in the event the wife should not have children born to her marriage with testator. Shaw v. Ilsley, 219 N. C. 753, 134 S. E. (2d) 614.

A devise of land to A. and "her heirs by the body of R." vests in the wife a fee tail special, converted by this section into a fee simple, and her estate is not affected or limited to the issue of the testators. Leathers v. Gray, 101 N. C. 162, 7 S. E. 657.

A devise of land to A. and "her heirs by the body of R." vests in the wife a fee tail special, converted by this section into a fee simple, and her estate is not affected or limited to the issue of the testators. Leathers v. Gray, 101 N. C. 162, 7 S. E. 657.

For further consideration including a resume of the rule, see the Editor's Note to § 41-6.
An estate in remainder to the testator's son "and to his bodily heirs," vests a life estate in the land in H., with an estate tail in remainder to the son, which, under our statute, is converted into a fee simple. And upon the falling in of the life estate, the son can convey a good fee-simple title. Chamblee v. Broughton, 120 N. C. 450, 170 S. E. 111; Leathers v. Gray, 101 N. C. 162, 7 S. E. 657, cited and distinguished. Howard v. Edwards, 181 N. C. 624, 143 S. E. 210.

Illustrative Cases.—A devise of lands to the wife of the testator for life, and at her death or remarriage to her two children, by name, for their natural lives or for the lives of their issue, and then to H., with an estate tail, converted by this section into a fee simple. Washburn v. Biggerstaff, 195 N. C. 624, 143 S. E. 210.

A deed to a married woman and her heirs by her present husband, which, in the case of his death, should divide and "parties of the second part, their heirs and assigns," is held to convey to the married woman a fee tail special, which is converted into a fee simple by this section. Whitler v. Aremong, 219 N. C. 121, 12 S. E. (2d) 906.

Cited in Williamson v. Cox, 218 N. C. 177, 10 S. E. (2d) 662.

§ 41-2. Survivorship in joint tenancy abolished; proviso as to partnership.—In all estates, real or personal, held in joint tenancy, the party or share of any tenant dying shall not descend or go to the surviving tenant, but shall descend or be vested in the heirs, executors, or administrators, or assigns, respectively, of the deceased tenant, so dying, in the same manner as estates held by tenants in common. Provided, that estates held in joint tenancy for the purpose of carrying on and promoting trade and commerce, or any useful work or manufacture, established and pursued with a view of profit to the parties therein concerned, are vested in the surviving partner, in order to enable him to settle and adjust the partnership business, or pay off the debts which may have been contracted in pursuit of the joint business; but as soon as the same is effected, the survivor shall account with, and pay, and deliver to the heirs, executors, administrators and assigns respectively of such deceased partner all such part, share, and sums of money as he may be entitled to by virtue of the original agreement, if any, or according to the tenancy in the joint tenancy as the same manner as partnership stock is usually settled between joint merchants and the representatives of their deceased partners.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.

Editor's Note.—Joint tenancy is a child of the common law, wholly without a statutory basis. It has long been looked upon by the Courts, especially in the States with marked disfavor. As a result of being singed out by the questioning eye of the judiciary, it has fallen easy prey to the operation of legislation. In most of the American States it has been abolished, either wholly or in part.

The right of survivorship, its chief distinguishing feature, has been the one most disliked by Court and Legislature. The abolition of joint tenancy has been made by the statutes, being spared only when the instrument conveying the estate expressly, or by necessary implication, shows that the intention is to create such an estate.

Joint tenancy is abolished by this section, defeasible upon the testator's son dying without issue, and where there is an ultimate limitation over to persons coming within its terms, the testator's son and his bodily heirs, vests a life estate in the land in H., with an estate tail in remainder to the son, which, under our statute, is converted into a fee simple. And upon the falling in of the life estate, the son can convey a good fee-simple title. Ziegler v. Love, 185 N. C. 40, 115 S. E. 887.

In the absence of a statute abolishing joint tenancy, the right of survivorship differentiates the joint tenancy from the partnership. In the case of the partnership the survivors hold in the nature of trustees, until the deceased's interests were placed in the hands of those entitled thereto by law. This section, abolishing survivorship, accomplishes practically the same result in the case of joint tenancy, as it does in the case of partnership.

In the ancient language of the law joint tenancies were said to hold "per me et per tout," the true interpretation of this section is to be found in the statute 'vests a good fee-simple title.' Chamblee v. Broughton, 120 N. C. 450, 454.

Powell v. Morisey, 84 N. C. 421.

Same—Premises Enlarged by Habendum.—Where in the premises of a deed a life estate is given to one mother and her children, such deed operates to convey an estate for life to the mother and an estate in fee in reversion to her two children. Vass v. Freeman, 84 N. C. 421.

Severance.—By Marriage and Act of 1784.—A widow and her two children were joint tenants of a slave. By the marriage of the widow her joint tenancy was severed, as was that of the children, by the act of 1784. (Article X, Code, ch. 43, § 2, now this section.) And in a suit in trover to recover the value of such property, it was held that the title passes to the purchaser, whether the agreement of the parties was to be arrived at in the division of the premises of a deed a life estate is given to a mother alone, or when the estate by entireties is given to one, the whole belongs to the survivor.  Eason v. Eason, 159 N. C. 439, 75 S. E. 797.

Same—Not Abolished.—By Rev. Sec. 6), conferring upon a married woman the same rights of property as real estate, if the personal property of the partner is purchased in fee by partnership funds and for partnership purposes is subject to partnership debts, to the exclusion of the heir or widow of the deceased. Wicker, 141 N. C. 95, 53 S. E. 478; Bruce v. Williams, 131 N. C. 667, 42 S. E. 998.

Equal Rights to Possession.—Joint tenants of a chattel have equal rights to its possession. Cole v. Terry, 19 N. C. 252; Lucas v. Wasson, 14 N. C. 398.

Same—Same—Title of Purchaser.—If one joint owner of a crop sells to the other his share of it to pay a debt, and it is divided in the presence of both, for the purpose of ascertaining the amount to be credited on the debt, there is no trespass in the purchasing partner removing the property, though forbidden by the other. Warbritton v. Savage, 49 N. C. 250.

Same—Same—Title of Purchaser.—If one joint owner of a crop sells to the other his share of it, to pay a debt he owed him, and it is divided in the presence of both, for the purpose of ascertaining the amount to be credited on the debt, there is no trespass in the purchasing partner removing the property, though forbidden by the other. Vass v. Freeman, 84 N. C. 221, 227.

When Remaindermen Take as Tenants in Common.—A deed of gift, executed by W. B. to his son J. B., during his natural life only, and then to return to the male children of the said J. B., lawfully begotten of his body, for the want of such to return to the male children of my other sons W and J, and to their issue, and not by moiety. In the event of the survivor's death, the remainder is given to his heirs. Witherington v. Williams, 1 N. C. 422.

Legacies May Hold as Joint Tenant.—The legatees may hold as joint tenants in common, though forbidden by the other. West v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 630, 53 S. E. 477; Bynum v. Wicker, 141 N. C. 95, 96, 53 S. E. 478.

Incidents of Survivorship.—By Marriage and Act of 1784.—A widow and her two children were joint tenants of a slave. nerships fund descend to the heir at law, it is immaterial whether the heir of the deceased partner claims his interest by deed from him or by inheritance. Sherrod v. Mayo, 156 N. C. 144, 72 S. E. 216.

Same—Heir Claiming by Deed.—The heir at law to whom a deceased partner had conveyed by deed his share of lands purchased with partnership funds is entitled to the lands against the surviving partners, in an action by the latter for possession for the purpose of carrying out the partnership affairs, when it appears that the partnership personality is sufficient for the purpose of paying the partnership debts and satisfying any claim the surviving partner may have, and there is no provision in the articles of the partnership agreement of a contrary purpose. Sherrod v. Mayo, 156 N. C. 144, 72 S. E. 216.

IV. ACTIONS BY, AGAINST, AND BETWEEN JOINT TENANTS.

Actions by and against Joint Tenants.—It seems to be well settled that joint tenants must sue jointly, differing in that respect from tenants in common. Mr. Freeman says: "Whenever the title of the cotenants, as in the case of joint tenants and coparceners, is joint, the action may be also joint, and whenever, as in tenancy in common, such tenant is deemed to possess a separate and distinct estate, the remedy of each must be separately and distinctly pursued. Joint tenants being seized by permutating the tenancy, the duties of one are duties of the other. But one and the same title, jointly interpled and be interpleaded. If twenty joint tenants be, and they be disjoined, each shall have his separate cause of action because they have but one joint title." Cotenancy, 329. To the same effect is Sedgwick and Wait Trials, etc., sec. 302. Cameron v. Hicks, 141 N. C. 21, 34, 53 S. E. 728.

Actions between Joint Tenants—Trover.—The exclusive possession of the plaintiff, an action by one joint tenant will not entitle the other to maintain trover against him for it. Cole v. Terry, 19 N. C. 252. A person claiming under a joint tenancy, which tenants in common are permitted to make a joint demise and recover in respect to their interests. Alred v. Smith, 135 N. C. 443, 47 S. E. 597. The difference is in this: Joint tenants must join in one demise because of the essence of unity; tenants in common may join, or, if they prefer, may sue separately, because there is no unity of title. It would seem to follow that joint tenants must recover in respect to their title, and if they fail in that, they cannot recover at all." Cameron v. Hicks, 141 N. C. 21, 35, 53 S. E. 728.

Provisions of Section Prevail over Rule of Stare Decisis.—The section does not interfere with the application of the principles laid down in Shelley's Case in determining the nature and extent of the precedent estate. This is declared in Sanderlin v. Deford, 47 N. C. 75, in construing a will executed in 1838. King v. Utley, 85 N. C. 59, 61. See under analogous lines, 78 C. S. 525, 528, 95 S. E. 881.

Provisions of Section Prevail over Rule of Stare Decisis.—A vested interest in lands cannot be established under the doctrine of stare decisis in direct conflict with the expression of a statutes' contingent limit of the estate, where the decisions relied upon are upon a construction of a written instrument made or executed before the statutory enactment and excepted by it from its provisions, and the subsequent decisions of affirmance of the old rule of construction are either conflicting among themselves or upon a construction of the statute, when a contrary intent is "expressly and plainly declared in the face of the deed or will." Patterson v. McCormick, 177 N. C. 448, 452, 99 S. E. 401.

Cross References.—As to survivorship among trustees with power of sale, see § 45-8. As to limitation on actions by cotenants of personal property, see § 1-29.

The trustees of a trust estate hold as joint tenants, and not as tenants in common. Hicks v. Hicks, 141 N. C. 21, 53 S. E. 728; Webb v. Borden, 145 N. C. 188, 58 S. E. 1083.

§ 41-4. Limitations on failure of issue.—Every contingent limitation in any deed or will, made to depend upon the dying of any person without heir or heirs of the body, or without issue or issues of the body, or without children, or offspring, or descendant, or other relative, shall be held and interpreted a limitation to take effect when such person does not having such heir, or issue, or offspring, or descendant, or other relative (as the case may be) survive the date of his death, or born to him within ten lunar months thereafter, unless the intention of such limitation be otherwise, and expressly and plainly declared in the face of the deed or will creating it: Provided, that the rule of construction contained in this section shall not extend to any deed or will made and executed before the fifteenth of January, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-eight. (Rev., s. 1851; Code, s. 1327; R. C., c. 43, s. 3; 1827, c. 7; C. S. 1737.)

Purpose.—This section was enacted for the primary purpose of making it easy for the grantor, by fixing a definite time when the estate of the first taker shall become absolute, and also to establish a rule of interpretation by which the estate of the first taker shall be affected by the death of the cotenant, the common-law rule being that a contrary intent appears on the face of the instrument. Kirkman v. Smith, 174 N. C. 603, 94 S. E. 423; Harrell v. Hagan, 140 N. C. 111, 60 S. E. 99; Sain v. Baker, 128 N. C. 256, 58 S. E. 838; Bell v. Kessler, 175 N. C. 525, 528, 95 S. E. 881.

Provision is Obligatory.—The rule laid down by the statute is obligatory on the courts and must be observed in all cases except, as provided by the statute, when a contrary intent is "expressly and plainly declared in the face of the deed or will." Patterson v. McCormick, 177 N. C. 448, 452, 99 S. E. 401.

For purposes of this section, "issue" includes the surviving spouse and the issue of the surviving spouse, and any person marrying after the death of a predeceasing issue. § 41-5.
Rule in Hilliard v. Kearney.—Under the rule at common law a contingency dependent upon death without issue was void for remoteness because it referred to an indefinite failure of嗣子 at any time, such as the termination of the life estate, or some other designated period, and held that the phrase “dying without issue”, was to be referred to a death of the devisee, but the holder of the particular estate itself, and the determinable quality of such an estate, or interest, will continue to affect it till the event occurs by which same is to be determined.1” Patterson v. McCormick, 177 N. C. 448, 456, 99 S. E. 401.

Rule When Ambiguity in Will.—Where there is ambiguity in the will, the Court has held that where the devise is leived for life with contingent limitation over, shall be at the death of the testatrix or that of the first taker, under the principle that the law favors the early vesting of estates, the former will be taken; and where it clearly appears from the terms of the will and surrounding circumstances that was the intent of the testatrix, it will not be affected by the section, by which a contingent limitation depending upon the dying of a person without heir, etc., is to vest at the death of such person. Westfield v. Reynolds, 191 N. C. 402, 133 S. E. 168.

Doctrine of Shifting Uses and Executory Devices.—The section is a rule of construction upholding the second and earlier vesting of estates in lieu of any contingency on the death of heirs, etc., and does not change the application of the doctrine of shifting uses and executory devises in determining the nature and extent of the precedent estate. Sessions v. Sessions, 144 N. C. 121, 56 S. E. 687.

“Children” Does Not Extend to Grandchildren.—A devise to “wife and children” of the testator will not include therein his grandchildren, unless the contrary intention is shown by necessary implication from the terms or expressions used in the will. Thompson v. Batts, 168 N. C. 530, 84 S. E. 858.

A Base and Unqualified Fee.—O devised his lands to certain of his children, S., D., and J. By item 3 of the will a certain tract was devised to D. and “the lawful heirs of his body.” Perrett v. Bird, 153 N. C. 220, 67 S. E. 507.

Illustrative Cases.—An estate to M. and her bodily heirs is converted into a fee simple under our statute, § 41-1, without further limitation, but followed by the words “if no heirs, said lands shall go back to my estate,” the devise will go over to the heirs of the grantor at the death of M., upon the nonhappening of the event as a shifting use under the statute of uses, 27 Hen. VIII., ch. 10; § 41-7, whereunder a fee may be created by a fee, and under the Will, the event is by the statutes for the contingency, by the will of the testator, to the second taker upon the happening of the contingency, under the doctrine of shifting uses and by way of executive devise, and is not a qualification of the prior estate of the testator, but a contingency as declared by the section. Sessions v. Sessions, 144 N. C. 121, 56 S. E. 687.

1 Couch's Annotations—At common law, it is a well-settled rule that a devisee is entitled to take a fee simple estate, defeasible upon his death without issue, unless the contrary intent appears from the will itself; and upon his death and nonhappening of the event as a shifting use, the devise will go over to the heirs of the testator, provided no issue is left, and upon his death and nonhappening of the contingency named, the inheritance passes di
A devise of land to L. with limitation that if she “shall die leaving issue surviving her, then to such issue and their issue forever,” but if she “die without issue surviving her, the same in the premises, with warranty to her and the lawful heirs of her body, creates an estate tail constituting the same in both forms of limitation,” the intent of the grantor by proper construction was to limit over the estate to M.

The same was held in lots of cases involving estates tailing where the limitation would be different under the act. Rice v. Rigsbee, 215 N. C. 757, 3 S. E. (2d) 331; Perry v. Satterwhite, 21 N. C. 69, opinion by Gaston, J.; Brown v. Lipsite, 166 N. C. 529, 80 S. E. 249. Editor’s Note.—In many of the cases dealing with estates tailing, the rule in Shelley’s Case is referred to and the question is raised as to whether or not the rule is abrogated by this section, and answered in the negative in the splendid opinion of Justice Blackstone in Shelley’s Case, 1 Ex. Cham. 439, 448, 122 Eng. Rep. 839, 84 S. E. 101. For the purpose of showing the relation of the rule to this section, it will be fitting to give a brief resume of the rule.

The rule takes its name from an early case decided in the reign of Queen Elizabeth (Shelley’s Case, 1 Rep. 94), though even at that time the principle it enunciated was considered an ancient dogma of the common law. Indeed Justice Blackstone traced it to a case decided in the reign of Edward II. However, be that as it may, what is probably the earliest intelligible decision on the subject is that of Chancellor Pollock’s Case, 112 Eng. Rep. 848, 455, 95 S. E. 601.

Limitation Explained.—The word limitation has two-fold sentence, expressing the limits or bounds to the quantity of an estate; and the other, the derivative sense; namely, that of an entire sentence, creating and actually or constructively marking out the quantity of an estate." 2
In our statute, the word is manifestly used in its derivative or secondary sense, which is made very clear to us by the learned, and able editor of Gonzales Justice Shepherd

Does Not Deprive Defendant of Right.—The section deprives the defendant of no right, but affords him every opportunity of defending the validity of his title; but in the interest of peace and the settlement of controversies, it allows his adversary to put to the test of early judicial investigation, and does not compel plaintiff to wait on the defendant's pleasure as to the time when the inquiry shall be made, and thus give defendant an unfair advantage over him. Jersey City v. Lembeck, 31 N. J. Eq., 265; Carolina-Tennessee Power Co. v. Hiawassee River Power Co., 175 N. C. 668, 684, 96 S. E. 99.

Restraining Sale under Execution.—Under this section the sheriff's sale of land by execution under a judgment may now be restrained by suit in equity when it will operated to an undue delay or prejudice to the owner of the lands. Milliz v. Bazemore, 194 N. C. 324, 139 S. E. 453.

II. NATURE AND SCOPE.

A. Purpose.

General Observations. — In a recent case the Supreme Court gave the section a broad interpretation in order to carry out the evident purpose of its enactment, and said: "Having reference to the broad and inclusive language of the statute, its purpose to complain of the hardship and injustice sought to be accomplished, we are of opinion that the law, as its terms clearly import, was designed and intended to afford a remedy wherever one owns or has an estate or interest in real property, whether he is in or out of possession, and another wrongfully sets up a claim to an estate or interest therein which purports to affect adversely the estate or interest of the true owner and which is reason-ably calculated to burden and embarrass such owner in the full and proper enjoyment of his proprietary rights, including the right to dispose of the same at its fair market value, and which also involves and is wrongful, and which would be against public interest, and is against the public policy, and at its trial he had an estate in or title to the land, cannot be sustained. It is only required that he have such an interest in the land as that the claim of the defendant is adverse to him." Rumbo v. Gay Mfg. Co., 129 N. C. 9, 10, 39 S. E. 581; Walton v. Perkins, 33 Minn. 357; Holmes v. Chester, 26 N. J. Eq. 81."

B. Interest Necessary to Bring Action.

Editor's Note.—In the case of Rutherford v. Ray, 147 N. C. 253, 61 S. E. 57, it was held that suit may be instituted by any person against any other person claiming an interest adverse to his title.

In Plotkin v. Merchants Bank, et al., 188 N. C. 711, 715, 125 S. E. 541, it was held that "the contention that a plaintiff in an action brought under this section must allege and prove that at the commencement of the action he had the legal title to the land, cannot be sustained. It is only required that he have such an interest in the land as that the claim of the defendant is adverse to him." In Plotkin v. Bank, et al., supra, at page 733, it is said: "The plaintiff is not required to have possession as a condition precedent to his right of action, nor will the apparent invalidity of defendant's title deprive him of the statutory remedy. It is only required that he have such an interest in the land as that the claim of the defendant is adverse to him." In Plotkin v. Bank, et al., supra, at page 733, it is said: "The plaintiff is not required to have possession as a condition precedent to his right of action, nor will the apparent invalidity of defendant's title deprive him of the statutory remedy. It is only required that he have such an interest in the land as that the claim of the defendant is adverse to him."

the complaint, as not stating a cause of action, was properly overruled, this section being sufficiently broad to entitle plaintiff to bring a suit under this section. Exum v. Carolina R. Co., 222 N. C. 222, 22 S. E. (2d) 424.

Defendant Need Only Be Claimant.—It is true that under the act of the Legislature, 1893, ch. 6, now this section, a plaintiff in equity need not allege an adverse title without showing that the defendant is an occupant or any more than a claimant of the land in controversy. Duncan v. Hall, 117 N. C. 445, 446, 23 S. E. 362.

Sufficiency of Terms—Alleged—When Occupation Is Alleged.——This section removed the necessity for alleging the defendant was in possession. The plaintiff may now set out his claim of title, and if defendant disclaims any adverse claim, the plaintiff shall be entitled to recover the title without showing that the defendant is an occupant or any more than a claimant of the land in controversy. Duncan v. Hall, 117 N. C. 445, 446, 23 S. E. 362.

Allegation of Nonpayment of Taxes.——In a suit to remove a cloud on the title to lands, the suggestion that plaintiff’s ancestors have not, for many years, paid the tax levied, is not sufficient to raise the issue of delivery under this section the court’s constructions. Alford v. Asheville Land Co. v. Lange, 150 N. C. 26, 30, 63 S. E. 164.

When Occupation Is Alleged.——But where he alleges an occupation as the cause of action, not only must the allegations be made, but the suggestion that defendant is in possession. This section removed the necessity for alleging the defendant was in possession. Duncan v. Hall, 117 N. C. 445, 446, 23 S. E. 362.

Allegation of Nonpayment of Taxes.——In a suit to remove a cloud on a plaintiff’s title to land, alleges that the plaintiff is the owner of the locus in quo, and asks for a declaration of title to the land, the suggestion that defendant is in occupation is sufficient to raise the issue against him. Duncan v. Hall, 117 N. C. 445, 446, 23 S. E. 362.

Appraisement.——When occupation is alleged, the suggestion that defendant is in possession, and is necessary to sustain the suit, is sufficient to raise the issue. Johnston v. Kramer Bros. & Co., 203 Fed. 733, 741.

Sufficient to Raise Issue.——Where the complaint in a suit to remove a cloud upon plaintiff’s title to land, alleges that the plaintiff is the owner of the locus in quo, and asks for a declaration of title to the land, the suggestion that defendant is in occupation is sufficient to raise the issue. Johnston v. Kramer Bros. & Co., 203 Fed. 733, 741.

Pleadings Sufficient for Determination of Damages as in Condemnation Cases.—In this section, and in addition to the fact that general relief was prayed, the parties specifically asked that their rights be determined, and defendant, relying upon the right of eminent domain, asserted its right to flood lands in which plaintiff has an interest, and suggested that his interest was not sufficient to raise the issue. Johnston v. Kramer Bros. & Co., 203 Fed. 733, 741.

Possession to Delivery of Deed.——Delivery of a deed is essential to its validity, and where the pleadings and evidence raise the issue of delivery under this section the court’s refusal to allow an issue thereon entitles the plaintiff to a new trial. Ferguson v. Ferguson, 206 N. C. 480, 174 S. E. 304.

Pleadings Sufficient for Determination of Damages as in Condemnation Cases.—In this section, and in addition to the fact that general relief was prayed, the parties specifically asked that their rights be determined, and defendant, relying upon the right of eminent domain, asserted its right to flood lands in which plaintiff has an interest, and suggested that his interest was not sufficient to raise the issue. Johnston v. Kramer Bros. & Co., 203 Fed. 733, 741.

Concurrent Jurisdiction.——Where there is an action pending in the State Courts to try the title to lands under this section, the State Courts have thereby acquired jurisdiction over the real estate, it is true that under the act of the Legislature, 1893, ch. 6, now this section, there is a right to a sale or lease of the property by a Federal Court of Equity, as it merely regulates procedure and does not create any substantive right. And, even if it could be inferred that a person interested in an equitable right to land under the state law, might authorize the trial by a federal court of equity of what is in essence an action of ejectment, for the reason that in such action the defendant is entitled under the federal constitution to a trial by jury. Wood v. Phillips, 50 F. (2d) 714, 716.

§ 41-11. Sale, lease or mortgage in case of remainders.—In all cases where there is a vested interest in real estate, and a contingent remainder over to persons who are not in being, or who in any contingency has not yet happened which will determine who the remaindermen are, there may be a sale, lease or mortgage of the property by a proceeding in the superior court, which proceeding shall be conducted in the manner pointed out in this section. Said proceeding may be commenced by summons by any person having a vested interest in the land, and all persons in esse who are interested in said land shall be made parties defendant and served with summons in the manner and manner now provided by law for the service of summons in other civil actions, as provided by § 1-94, and service of summons upon nonresidents, or persons whose names and residences are unknown, shall be by publication. As now required by law or such service in lieu of publication as now provided by law. In cases where the remainder will or may go to minors, or persons under other disabilities, or to persons not in being, or whose names and residences are not known, or who may in any contingency become interested in said land, but because of such contingency cannot be ascertained, the clerk of the superior court shall, after due inquiry of persons who are in no way interested in or connected with such proceeding, designate and appoint some discreet person as guardian ad litem, to represent such remainderman, upon whom summons shall be served as provided by law for other guardians ad litem, and it shall be the duty of such guardian ad litem to defend such actions, and when counsel is needed to represent him, to make this known to the clerk, who shall by an order give instructions as to the employment of counsel and the payment of fees.

The court shall, if the interest of all parties require or would be materially enhanced by it, order a sale of such property or any part thereof for reinvestment, either in purchasing or in improving real estate, less expense allowed by the court for the proceeding and sale, and such newly acquired or improved real estate shall be held upon the same contingencies and in like manner as was the property ordered to be sold. The court may authorize the loaning of such money subject to its approval until such time when it can be reinvested in real estate. And after the sale of such property in all proceedings hereunder, where there is a life estate, in lieu of said interest or investment of proceeds to which the life tenant would be entitled to, or to the use of, the court, may in its discretion order the value of said "life tenants' share" during the probable life of such life tenant, to be ascertained as now provided by law, and paid out of the proceeds of such sale absolutely, and the remainder of such proceeds be reinvested as herein provided. Any person or persons owning a life estate in lands which are unproductive and from which the income is insufficient to pay the taxes on and reasonably upkeep of said lands shall be entitled to maintain an action to compel the court to hold or mortgage given until the same has been acquired by the resident judge of the district, or the judge holding the courts of the district at the time said order of sale is made.

The court may authorize the temporary reinvestment, pending final investment in real estate, of funds derived from such sale in any direct obligation of the United States of America or any indirect obligation guaranteed both as to principal and interest or bonds of the state of North Carolina issued since the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two; but in the event of such reinvestment, the commissioners, trustees or other officers appointed by the court to hold such funds shall hold the bonds in their possession and shall pay to the life tenant and owner of the vested interest in the lands sold only the interest accruing on the bonds, and the principal of the bonds shall be held subject to final reinvestment and to such expense only as is provided in this section. Temporary reinvestments, as aforesaid, in any direct obligation of the United States of America or any indirect obligation guaranteed both as to principal and interest or state bonds heretofore made with the approval of the court of all or a part of the funds derived from such sales are ratified and declared valid. The court shall, if the interest of the parties require it and would be materially enhanced by it, order such property mortgaged for such term and on such condition as to the court seems proper and to the best interest of the interested parties. The proceeds derived from the mortgage shall be used for the purpose of adding improvements to the property or to remove existing liens on the property as the court may direct, but for no other purpose. The mortgagees shall not be held responsible for determining the validity of the liens, debts and expenses where the court directs such liens, debts and expenses to be paid. In all cases of mortgages under this section the court shall authorize and direct the guardian representing the interest of minors and the guardian ad litem representing the interest of those persons unknown or not in being to join in the mortgage for the purpose of conveying the interest of such person or persons. In all cases of mortgages under this section the owner of the vested interest or his or her legal representative shall within six months from the date of the mortgage file with the court an itemized statement showing how the money derived from the said mortgage has been expended, and shall exhibit to the court receipts for said money. Said report shall be audited in the same manner as provided for the auditing of guardian's accounts. The owner of the vested interest or his or her legal representative shall collect the rents and income from the property mortgaged and apply the proceeds first to taxes and discharge of interest on the mortgage and the annual curtailment as provided thereby, or if said person uses or occupies said premises he or she shall pay the said annual interest and curtailments and said party shall enter into a bond to be approved by the court for the faithful performance of the duties hereby imposed, and such person shall annually file with the court a report and receipts showing that taxes, interest and the curtailment as provided by the mortgage have been paid.

The mortgagee shall not be held responsible for the application of the funds secured or derived from the mortgage. The word mortgage whenever used herein shall be construed to include deeds in trust. I. General Considerations.

Editor's Note.—The 1925 amendment inserted in the fourth paragraph the provisions as to state bonds and made other changes.

The section was further amended by the Laws 1927, ch. 124, so as to permit a life tenant to bring an action for sale and reinvestment without joinder of remaindermen or reversions.

The rights of persons not sui juris to be protected by a disinterested attorney appointed by the court. The amendment, being remedial in its nature, is made applicable to all cases where any title or interest in such lands was acquired before, as well as after, its enactment, with a proviso exempting pending litigation from its effect.

The only change effected by the 1933 amendment occurs in the second paragraph of the section. In the next to the last sentence of that paragraph, Public Laws of 1933, c. 123 inserted, following the word "proceeds", the word "reinvestment", the words "for the purpose of obtaining funds for improving other non-productive," etc.

The amendment of 1935 inserted the proviso at the end of the second sentence of the fifth paragraph relating to existing liens.

The 1941 amendment inserted the word "lease" in the first sentence of the second paragraph and in the third paragraph. It also added the provision that the mortgagees shall not be held responsible for determining the validity of liens, etc., where the court directs such liens, etc., to be paid. For comment on the 1941 amendment, see 19 N. C. L. Rev. 548.
The 1943 amendment made changes in the fourth paragraph. And, as amended by Acts 1943, c. 729, it expressly provided that its intent and purpose was "to provide for the sale of contingent remainders in United States bonds and bonds guaranteed as to principal and interest by the United States.

Constitutionality and Validity.—Rev. sec. 1590, now this section, providing for the sale of contingent remainders, is constitutional and valid. Smith v. Miller, 151 N. C. 620, 66 S. E. 556. This section does not interfere with the essential rights of ownership but operating in addition to those already possessed, is constitutional and valid. Pendlen v. Will, 150 N. C. 219, 58 S. E. 556.

Retroactive Effect.—In Springs v. Scott, 132 N. C. 484, 44 S. E. 116, Mr. Justice Connor, speaking for the Court as to the validity of chapter 97, Laws 1933 (Rev. sec. 1590), said: "A valid and necessary exercise of legislative power upon the will considered in that case and the estates that were created thereby, demonstrates by reason and authority that the act is valid, even when attempted to reach back and affect estates already created, the will, so far though only as it is permitted to apply to interests not yet vested. Anderson v. Wilkins, 142 N. C. 134, 159, 55 S. E. 272.

The decision in Springs v. Scott was approved in Waddell v. United Cigar Stores, 195 N. C. 805, 15 S. E. (2d) 273. To prevent any possible doubt of the existence of the contingency has not happened which shall determine the interest of all parties in remainder, whether in esse or not, when the proviso of both statutes have been fully and accurately followed the purchaser at the commissioner's sale may be binding upon beneficiaries not in esse, when their interests are same as those of persons in being who are subject to due process of the jurisdiction of the court. While the courts of this State do not have inherent power to order the sale of real estate limited to a tenant for life, with remainder to children or issue, upon failure thereof, the court has the power to order the private sale of lands for the purpose of dividing the proceeds among tenants in common. Ryder v. Oates, 173 N. C. 569, 93 S. E. 585.

When Applicable.—This section and § 41-12 apply only to a sale of property in which there are or have been contingent interests, in the well v. United Cigar Stores, 195 N. C. 434, 142 S. E. 272. A lease authorized by the decree of a court of chancery may be binding upon beneficiaries not in esse, when their interests are same as those of persons in being who are subject to due process of the jurisdiction of the court. Waddell v. United Cigar Stores, 195 N. C. 434, 142 S. E. 555, containing illustrative provisions, held that the objection to the extent that it may extend beyond the term of the trust.

In Stepp v.法定的，均需经法院决定。在斯普林斯诉斯科特案中，法官帕默说："这个修正案（私法1927年，124），其中的地产是未生产的，如，等等，扩展了权利以包括土地地契，在那里有未到期的再留代价和剩余的法律规定在第41节-41-12，如果裁决，已被引用，因此参考只能引用到剩余的再留代价。

Mortgage for Permanent Improvements.—The locus in quo was devised to testator's daughter for life with limitation over to the daughter's children. The daughter and her husband expended large sums in making permanent improvements up to the time of their death, and the court, upon the application of the holder of the mortgage, held that the sale was made to the best interest of all parties in remainder after the expiration of the life estate in esse and a party to the proceeding to represent the class, and, that upon the sale, and the title made pursuant thereto, the purchaser acquires good title as against all persons in esse or in possesse. Springs v. Scott, 132 N. C. 484, 44 S. E. 116.

The court has the power to order the private sale of lands affected with contingent interests under the provisions of this section, under the court's order, subject to its future approval of the sale, when it is made to appear that the best interests of the testator, the testator's estate, and the estate of all others in remainder, whether in esse or not, are served. Delaney v. Clark, 196 N. C. 282, 145 S. E. 398.

Failure to Serve Summons on Infant—Setting Aside Sale.—Where in proceedings to sell lands affected with contingent interests the provisions of § 41-11, have been observed, and the clerk has appointed a guardian ad litem for the infant, the sale is still valid, even upon return of the proper sales and also unsecured notes made by the life tenant representing a part of the mortgage, used in making said improvements. It was held that since the remaindermen are in no way liable for any sums expended by the life tenant in making permanent improvements, the finding by the court the execution of the mortgage to secure the improvement of the reversion, that the execution of the mortgage to refinance the indebtedness should be reversed. Hall v. Hall, 269 N. C. 66, 152 S. E. 2d 407. (Public Laws 1927, c. 124).
sold by order of the judge of the superior court in term, on appeal in proceedings in partition improperly brought before the clerk, by retaining jurisdiction for the purpose of settling the controversy. Ryder v. Oates, 173 N. C. 569, 45 S. E. 556.

Where an action is wrongfully brought before the clerk of the superior court and is taken to the superior court by appeal, the superior court having original jurisdiction, it will be retained for hearing. Springs v. Scott, 135 N. C. 543, 44 S. E. 116.

When No Appeal Taken Parties Estopped.—Where an executor under a will with power to sell the lands of his intestate, made parties to the action under the power of appointment, to her children and grandchildren, in order to exercise the power of appointment, to her children and grandchildren, it was therein authorized to make. Hayden v. Hayden, 178 N. C. 259, 100 S. E. 315.

Same.—Payment of Betterments.—Where a preliminary judgment in proceedings to sell lands with contingent interests provides for the payment of betterments to the life tenant, and in this respect the judgment is not appealed to or appealed from, it is conclusive upon the parties as now estopped. Pendleton v. Williams, 175 N. C. 246, 95 S. E. 500.

Who May Institute Suit.—Proceedings to have lands sold that are subject to a life estate, with limitation over, appealed from, or where the sale of the lands affected with unascertainable contingent remainders is ordered sold under the provisions of this section, it is now required by the amendatory act of 1919, chapters 17 and 259, and in all cases where property is sold that is subject to a life estate, with limitation over, or a life estate, with provision for an investment, especially in the unfurnished condition in which it was had, sold that are subject to a life estate, with limitation over, such proceeding can be brought only by proper parties in interest. DeLamater v. Dawson, 208 N. C. 501, 190 S. E. 490.

In proceedings under the section certain contingent interests in land held in trust were sold and the Trustee was authorized to restrict the use of the property was asked, and the Commissioner to act in furtherance of its object. Poole v. Thompson, 183 N. C. 588, 112 S. E. 323.

Public or Private Sale Permissible.—The sale of estates affected with contingent interests, made under the provisions of this chapter, if the court is of the opinion that the public interest requires the sale, will be retained for hearing. Springs v. Scott, 135 N. C. 543, 44 S. E. 116.

Judgment in proceedings to sell lands with contingent interests is a vested interest with remainder over to persons not in being, or when the contingency has not yet happened, etc. Pendleton v. Williams, 175 N. C. 246, 95 S. E. 500.

Where an action brought under the provisions of the section authorizing the sale of property held in trust for the exclusive benefit of a minor, if there is a vested interest with remainder over to persons not in being, or when the contingency has not yet happened, etc. Pendleton v. Williams, 175 N. C. 246, 95 S. E. 500.

Pendleton v. Williams, 175 N. C. 246, 95 S. E. 500.

Effect of Omitting Bond.—In all cases where property affected with contingent interests is ordered sold under the provisions of this section, it is now required by the amendatory act of 1919, chapters 17 and 259, and in all cases where property is sold that is subject to a life estate, with limitation over, if the bond made to procure money for building the hotel, but only having funds sufficient to erect the skeleton work of the hotel, other of the lands were decreed by the court to be sold, the record of the proceedings to have lands sold, that are subject to a life estate, with limitation over, such proceeding can be brought only by proper parties in interest. DeLamater v. Dawson, 208 N. C. 501, 190 S. E. 490.

Where the sale of land affected with remote contingent interests made under the provisions of this section, and where the sale of land affected with remote contingent interests in land held in trust, the only fund available to the estate in trust was the proceeds of the sale of the real estate in trust, to the best interests of the parties will be promoted, subject to approval of the court. Poole v. Thompson, 183 N. C. 588, 112 S. E. 323.

Where Commissioner's Authority Was Limited to Sale of Property and Distribution of Proceeds.—Where a commissioner was authorized by the court to make an investment or reinvestment of funds under the provisions of this section, and there were no restrictions in regard to the use of the property of the estate, and in the commissioner's discretion, that the interest involved should be the court to the approval, the proceeds of the sale, when it is shown that, as to the one or the other, or both, public or private sale is permissible, subject to approval of the court. Poole v. Thompson, 183 N. C. 588, 112 S. E. 323.

Public or Private Sale Permissible.—The sale of estates affected with contingent interests, made under the provisions of this chapter, if the court is of the opinion that the public interest requires the sale, will be retained for hearing. Springs v. Scott, 135 N. C. 543, 44 S. E. 116.

Where the sale of land affected with remote contingent interests not ascertainable at the time, the court may order the property disposed of by either of public or private sale, when it is shown that, as to the one or the other, or both, public or private sale is permissible, subject to approval of the court. Poole v. Thompson, 183 N. C. 588, 112 S. E. 323.

Where the provisions of this section have been observed in the sale of lands affected with contingent interests, the commissioner appointed to make the sale may effect the loaned out by him or otherwise invested as required by law until the happening of the contingency, except that it should be so modified as to require that interest on these loans be allowed the owners of the particular estate, whether the estate, under correct interpretation of the deed, be one for life to be enlarged into a fee, or a fee sempiterni, determinable on their death without issue, it appearing that they were given the usufruct of the land. Pendleton v. Williams, 175 N. C. 248, 249, 95 S. E. 500. It would seem then that by order of court, the reinvestment of the proceeds of sale or the proceeds of the estate, when it is properly made to appear that the best interest of the parties so require. Midyette v. Lycoming Timber, etc., Co., 185 N. C. 423, 117 S. E. 386.

The sale of an estate in remainder affected under the provisions of the section acquires a fee simple title, upon payment of the purchase money, and upon paying it into court, under its order, when it is properly established that the sale is required by the necessities of the case and the successful carrying out of the dominant purposes of the trust. Midyette v. Riggsbee, 179 N. C. 437, 441, 102 S. E. 780.

The sale of an estate in remainder affected under the terms of a will with certain ultimate and contingent interests, will not be affected by a clause in the will requiring the court to see to the application of the funds, its safety being taken care of by the court in its final decree. DeLaaney v. Clerk, 176 N. C. 286, 145 S. E. 398.

Same.—Takes Fee Simple Title.—A purchaser at a sale of land with contingent interests allowed under the provisions of the section acquires a fee simple title, upon payment of the purchase money, and upon paying it into court, under its order, is not required to see to the proper application of the funds, its safety being taken care of by the court in its final decree. DeLaaney v. Clerk, 176 N. C. 286, 145 S. E. 398.

Sale for Reinvestment.—A purchaser of devised lands affected with a life estate and contingent interest, the court should also require its completion within six months, with the terms and conditions imposed by the conveyance, in order that the transfer be validated by derivative jurisdiction in the superior court, on appeal, under the provisions of this section, it being required that the proceedings be originally and exclusively in the hands of an officer of the court with jurisdiction, and not preventing the administration of the trust estate, and not preventing the exercise of the powers of the court, to division and sale of such interest, when the circumstances of the case so require. Midyette v. Lycoming Timber, etc., Co., 185 N. C. 423, 117 S. E. 386.

The sale of timber growing upon lands affected with a life estate and contingent interest, the holder of the vested interest, may be supplied by amendment or supplementary decree. Pendleton v. Williams, 175 N. C. 248, 249, 95 S. E. 500.

Same.—Supplementary Decree. Where an order has been made for the sale of timber growing upon lands affected with contingent interests, the court should also require its completion within six months, with the terms and conditions imposed by the conveyance, and have them remotely interested represented by guardians ad litem for the protection of their interests; and where it is made to appear that the interest of all parties require, or that the property is required to be sold, either in purchasing or improving real estate, etc., or in vested temporarily to be held under the same contingencies, the proceeding be ordered to be sold.

Purchaser's Liability Ends When Money Paid into Court.—A purchaser of devised lands affected with a life estate and contingent interest under the provisions of the section acquires a fee simple title, upon payment of the purchase money, and upon paying it into court, under its order, is not required to see to the proper application of the funds, its safety being taken care of by the court in its final decree. DeLaaney v. Clerk, 176 N. C. 286, 145 S. E. 398.

Sale for Reinvestment.—A tenant for life in lands may not by adversary proceedings against the remaindermen compel the sale of the property, or any part thereof, for reinvestment, with the terms and conditions imposed by the conveyance, in order that the transfer be validated by derivative jurisdiction in the superior court, on appeal, under the provisions of this section, it being required that the proceedings be originally and exclusively in the hands of an officer of the court with jurisdiction, and not preventing the exercise of the powers of the court, to division and sale of such interest, when the circumstances of the case so require. Midyette v. Lycoming Timber, etc., Co., 185 N. C. 423, 117 S. E. 386.
to a purchaser she had secured for a certain price would enable her to make improvements on the land then without income, to make houses on other parts of the land more profitable for rental purpose, etc., that the property as it stood was rapidly depreciating, and there were no available funds, otherwise, to meet the necessary and in- sistent demands. Held, a demurrer was bad, and properly overruled. Middendorf v. Riggsbee, 179 N. C. 437, 102 S. E. 780.

Where the grantors in a deed have erroneously assumed that they had title to the lands they conveyed in fee, but which was affected by future contingent interest not at present ascertainable, and thereafter bring action to make title under the provisions of this section, which authorizes the sale of land affected by such contingencies, and in these proceedings have protected the interest of the remote re- mainderman by the appointment for a guardian ad litem, and have fully set forth the facts and circumstances of the former sale, and bring in the proceeds and submit them to the jurisdiction and orders of the court, the final judgment properly authorizing and confirming the sale, and being had in conformity with the provisions of the statute, perfects the title and same will inure to the benefit of the covenantee in the former deed, and for a breach of this covenant is recoverable. Myer v. Thompson, 183 N. C. 543, 112 S. E. 328.

This proceeding in which the order for the sale of the said lot has been made not was instituted and has not been conducted in accordance with this section. The power of sale has not been exercised by virtue of the statute. The proceeding was brought before the clerk, and not in term. The minors are not represented by guardian ad litem ap- pointed to represent next friend appointed by the clerk. The order of sale was signed, not during the term of the superior court in Haywood county, but by the judge holding the courts of the twentieth district (which in- cludes Haywood county) at Sylva, in Jackson county, in said district. The order of sale cannot therefore be held valid. Lide v. Wells, 190 N. C. 37, 128 S. E. 477, 480.

Where the complaint of a life tenant alleges that the land is unproductive and income therefrom is insufficient to pay the taxes and reasonable upkeep, and prays that the land be sold in accordance with this section, the demurrer of the vested remaindermen is improperly sustained, the complaint alleging at least one good cause for action. Stepp v. Stepp, 200 N. C. 237, 156 S. E. 804.

In a suit regarding the management of the trust estate where the trustee and the testator's wife and children are parties and the one living grandchild is made a party defend- ant and is represented by a guardian ad litem, who also represents as a class the other grandchildren not in esse, all parties having an interest in the estate are properly parties to the suit, and the judgment of the court is binding as to all interests. Spencer v. McClennigan, 202 N. C. 662, 163 S. E. 753.

§ 41-12. Sales or mortgages of contingent re- maindermen validated.—In all cases where property has been conveyed by deed, or devised by will, upon contingent remainder, executory devise, or other limitations, where a judgment of a superior court authorizing and confirming the sale, and being had in conformity with the provisions of the statute, perfects the title and same will inure to the benefit of the covenantee in the former deed, and for a breach of this covenant is recoverable. (Rev., s. 1591; 1905, c. 93; 1923, c. 64; 1935, c. 36; C. S. 1745.)

Cross Reference.—As to revocation of deeds of future inter- ests made to persons not in esse, see § 39-6.

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1905 this section was made to apply to mortgages and deeds of trust. The amendment also added the clause just preceding the proviso requiring the remote interest to vest before the validating act of 1905 this section was made to apply to mortgages and deeds of trust. The validation also added the clause just preceding the proviso requiring the remote interest to vest before the validating act of 1905.

Constitutionality and Validity.—The section is a valid exercise of legislative po-.er. Anderson v. Wilkins, 142 N. C. 154, 155 S. E. 272.

In all cases where property in being or whose estates had not then vested: Where the contingency had then happened were parties, in actions or special proceedings where all persons in being who would have taken such property if the contingency had then happened were parties, the contingency had then happened were parties,...
Chapter 42. Landlord and Tenant.

§ 42-1. Lessor and lessee not partners. — No lessor of property, merely by reason that he is to receive as rent or compensation for its use a share of the proceeds or net profits of the business in which it is employed, or any other uncertain consideration, shall be held a partner of the lessee. (Rev., s. 1982; Code, s. 1744; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 33) C. S. 2342.)

In General.—The lessor and lessee are not partners. State v. Keith, 126 N. C. 1114, 1115, 36 S. E. 169. Thus, where B. and W. was to do the work, and the crops were to be equally divided, it was held that this was not an agricultural partnership. Lawrence v. Week, 107 N. C. 119, 12 S. E. 120. See also Day v. Stevens, 88 N. C. 83, explaining and correcting Curtis v. Cash, 84 N. C. 41.

Duration.—A demise may be for a day as well as for a year, and may be terminable at the will of the lessor. It is not ended until the property is returned to the owner. United States v. Shea, 153 U. S. 178, 189, 190, 14 S. Ct. 519, 38 L. Ed. 403.

The legal understanding of a lease for years is a contract for the possession and profits of land, for a determinate period, with the compensation of rent. Thomas v. Railroad Co., 101 U. S. 71, 79, 25 L. Ed. 956. Effect of Words "Grant" and "Demise."—In a United State's Supreme Court case it was held that the words "grant" and "demise" in a lease for years create an implied warranty of title and a covenant of quiet enjoyment. See Scott v. Rutherford, 92 U. S. 107, 23 L. Ed. 486.

§ 42-2. Attornment unnecessary on conveyance of reversions, etc.—Every conveyance of any rent, reversion, or remainder in lands, tenements or hereditaments, otherwise sufficient, shall be deemed complete without attornment by the hold-} ers of particular estates in said lands: Provided, no holder of a particular estate shall be prejudiced by any act done by him as holding under his grantor, without notice of such conveyance. (Rev., s. 947; Code, s. 1764; 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 9; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 17; C. S. 2342.)

Purpose of Section.—This section was passed to protect landlords who made verbal or written leases of real property of any kind in which is fixed a definite time for the payment of the rent reserved therein, there shall be implied a forfeiture of the term upon failure to pay the rent within ten days after a demand is made by the lessor or his agent on said lessee for all past-due rent, and the lessor may forthwith enter and dispossess the tenant without having declared such forfeiture or reserved the right of reentry in the lease. (1919, c. 34; C. S. 2343.)

§ 42-3. Term forfeited for nonpayment of rent. —In all verbal or written leases of real property of any kind in which is fixed a definite time for the payment of the rent reserved therein, there shall be implied a forfeiture of the term upon failure to pay the rent within ten days after a demand is made by the lessor or his agent on said lessee for all past-due rent, and the lessor may forthwith enter and dispossess the tenant without having declared such forfeiture or reserved the right of reentry in the lease. (1919, c. 34; C. S. 2343.)

Written into Leases.—The section writes into a contract of a lease of lands, when the lease is silent thereon, a forfeiture of the lease upon failure of the lessee to pay the rent within ten days after a demand is made by the lessor or his agent for all past due rent, with right of the lessor to enter and dispossess the lessee. Ryan v. Rey-

§ 42-4. Recovery for use and occupation.—When any person occupies land of another by the permission of such other, without any express agreement for rent, or upon a parol lease which is void, the lessor is entitled to recover for the use and occupation, and if by such parol lease a certain rent was reserved, such reservation may be received as evidence of the value of the occupation. (Rev., s. 1986; Code, s. 1746; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 5; C. S. 2344.)

Cross Reference.—As to contracts requiring writing, see § 22-2.

§ 42-5. Rent apportioned, where lease terminated by death.—If a lease of and, in which rent is reserved, payable at the end of the year or other certain period of time, is determined by the death of any person during one of the periods in which the rent was growing due, the lessor or his personal representative may recover a part of the rent which becomes due after the death, subject to all just allowances; and if any security was given for such rent it shall be apportioned in like manner. (Rev., s. 1987; Code, s. 1747; 1869-9, c. 156, s. 6; C. S. 2345.)

§ 42-6. Rents apportioned, where right to payment terminated by death.—In all cases where rents, rent charges, annuities, pensions, dividends, or any other payments of any description, are made payable at fixed periods to successors in the lessors could only recover for the time the premises were occupied. Harty v. Harris, 120 N. C. 408, 411, 27 S. E. 90.

§ 42-7. In lieu of emblements, farm lessee holds out year, with rents apportioned.—When any lease for years of any land let for farming during a certain period of time, is determined by the death of the lessee, without any provision for successive owners, but the right to payment terminates upon the death of the lessee. Wells v. Guard-ian Life Ins. Co., 213 N. C. 173, 195 E. 394, 116 A. L. R. 130.

§ 42-8. Grantees of reversion and assigns of lease have reciprocal rights under covenants.—The grantor in a conveyance of reversion in land, disability or hereditaments has the like advantages and remedies by action or entry against the holders of particular estates in such real property, and their assigns, for nonpayment of rent, and for the nonperformance of other conditions and agreements contained in the instruments by the tenants of such particular estates, as the grantor or lessor or his heirs might have; and the holders of such particular estates, and their assigns, have the like advantages and remedies against the grantee of the reversion, or any part thereof, for any conditions and agreements contained in such instruments, as they might have had against the grantor or his lessors or his heirs. (Rev., s. 1989; Code, s. 1765; 32 Hen. VIII, c. 34; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 18; C. S. 2348.)

§ 42-9. Agreement to rebuild, how construed in case of fire.—An agreement in a lease to repair a demised house shall not be construed to bind the contracting party to rebuild or repair in case the house shall be destroyed or damaged to more than one-half of its value, by accidental fire not occurring from the want of ordinary diligence on his part. (Rev., s. 1985; Code, s. 1752; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 11; C. S. 2349.)

Common Law Rule.—In 24 Cyc., 1089 the common law rule is stated as follows: "According to the common law, when a tenant is injured by fire, unless it is caused by his own fault, the landlord is liable to third persons for injuries caused by the failure to keep the premises in repair, the liability may be extended to the owner, where the condition existed at the time the premises were leased, and for months and years, and the owner knew of it and had opportunity to repair it at the solicitation of the tenant. Knight v. Foster, 163 N. C. 329, 79 S. E. 614.

§ 42-10. Tenant not liable for accidental damage.—A tenant for life, or years, or for a less term, shall not be liable for the demolition of demised premises accidentally, and notwithstanding reasonable diligence on his part, unless he so contract. (Rev., s. 1991; Code, s. 1751; 1868-9, C. 156, s. 10; C. S. 2350.)

Duty of Landlord and Tenant Distinguished.—I Jaggard Torts, 223, thus sums up the law: "Normally, the occupant and not the owner or landlord is liable to third persons for negligence while in the premises caused by accidental fire, and only where it is without fault," citing a number of cases. Chambers v. North River Line, 179 N. C. 199, 202, 102 S. E. 198.

Changes Made by Section.—This section was enacted to change the rule, formerly existing, but limits its application to the demolition of a house by accidental fire, and only where it is damaged to more than half its value. It does not apply to a case where the destruction is not by fire, but by ice and flood. Chambers v. North River Line, 179 N. C. 199, 202, 102 S. E. 198.

The word "maintain" is practically the same thing as repair, which means to restore to a sound or good state, after decay, injury, dilapidation, or partial destruction. Chambers v. North River Line, 179 N. C. 199, 202, 102 S. E. 198.

§ 42-11. Willful destruction by tenant misdemeanoor.—If any tenant shall, during his term or after its expiration, wilfully and unlawfully demolish, destroy, deface, injure or damage any tenement house, uninhabited house or other out-house, belonging to his landlord or upon his premises by removing parts thereof or by burning, or in any other manner, or shall unlawfully and willfully burn, destroy, pull down, injure or remove any fence, wall or other inclosure or any part thereof, built or standing upon the premises of such landlord, or shall willfully and unlawfully cut down or destroy any timber, fruit, shade or ornamental tree belonging to said landlord, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3868; Code, s. 1761; 1883, c. 224; C. S. 2351.)

Cross References.—As to burning or destroying crops, see § 14-141. As to larceny of ungathered fruit and crops, see § 14-142. As to other regulations of landlord and tenant, see §§ 14-158, 14-359.

Meaning of "Willful."—The word willful as used in this section means something more than an intention to do a thing. It implies the doing of the act purposely and deliberately, indicating a purpose to do it, without authority—careless whether he has the right or not—in violation of law, and it is this which makes the criminal intent, without which one cannot be brought within the meaning of a criminal statute. State v. Whitener, 93 N. C. 590, 592.

Same.—Where Acts Bona Fide.—If the defendants reasonably believed the buildings to belong to them, and to be not illegally moved the buildings, etc., they are not guilty of removing them "willfully" so as to bring their act within the meaning of this section. State v. Rowland Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 614, 69 S. E. 59.

Right to Remove Certain Fixtures.—It is intimated that an away-going tenant has the right to remove fixtures put on the premises by himself for his own convenience. State v. Rowland Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 610, 612, 613, 69 S. E. 58. Approved in State v. Morgan, 156 N. C. 628, 630, 48 S. E. 670.

Houses Covered by Section.—For meaning of "tenement house," "uninhabited house," and "outhouse" as used in this section, see State v. Rowland Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 610, 612, 613, 69 S. E. 58.

The Indictment.—An indictment charging the defendant with burning a dwelling house occupied by him "as leasor," under the provisions of this section. State v. Graham, 121 N. C. 621, 28 S. E. 409.
Burdens of Proof.—In an indictment under this section the burden of proving that the act complained of was the act of the tenant or lessee is on the State to establish, first, that the relation of landlord and tenant existed, and, second, that during the tenant's term or after its expiration he did willfully and unlawfully injure the tenement-house. State v. Swearingen, 192 N. C. 457, 135 S. E. 896.

Evidence.—In the trial of an indictment for burning a dwelling house occupied by the defendant as lessee, evidence that defendant was not the owner of the property at a prior time is inadmissible. State v. Graham, 121 N. C. 623, 28 S. E. 499.

§ 42-12. Lessee may surrender, where building destroyed or damaged.—If a demised house, or other building, is destroyed during the term, or so much damaged that it cannot be made reasonably fit for the purpose for which it was hired, except at an expense exceeding one year's rent of the premises, and the damage or destruction occurs without negligence on the part of the lessee or his agents or servants, and there is no agreement in the lease respecting repairs, or providing for such a case, and the use of the house damaged or destroyed was the main inducement to the hiring, the lessee may surrender his estate in the demised premises by a writing to that effect delivered or tendered to the landlord within ten days from the damage or destruction, and by paying or tendering at the same time all rent in arrear, and a part of the rent growing due at the time of the damage or destruction, proportionate to the time between the last period of payment and the occurrence of the damage or destruction, and the lessee shall be henceforth discharged from all rent accruing afterwards; but the landlord is entitled to recover the rent for the unexpired term of the lease. This section shall not apply if a contrary intention appear from the lease. (Rev., s. 1993; Code, s. 1733; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 12; C. S. 2352.)

In General.—An inspection of this section will show that not only is it in terms confined to a demised house or other building but that it expressly excepts from its provisions those leases in which there is an "agreement respecting repairs." Also by its express terms it requires, as a condition precedent to its application, that a lessee "surrender his estate in the demised premises by a writing to that effect, delivered or tendered to the landlord within ten days after the damage or destruction," Chambers v. North River Line, 179 N. C. 199, 202, 102 S. E. 196.

Reasonable Time.—Where the controversy is made to depend upon the question whether, when the landlord had received the rent for May, it was held, that the rent had been paid, and as to June, because not ending with the month. Simons v. Varman, 122 N. C. 199, 29 S. E. 332, cited in notes in 25 L. R. A., N. S., 857, 858.

Verbal Notice Sufficient.—A verbal notice by landlord to tenant is sufficient. Section 1-585 applies to a different class of notices. Pinder v. Call, 182 N. C. 366, 109 S. E. 26. Notice in Certain Tenancies.—A tenancy from year to year may be terminated by a notice to quit given one month or more before the end of the current year of the tenancy; a tenancy from month to month by a like notice of seven days; a tenancy from week to week, of two days. (Rev., s. 1984; Code, s. 1750; 1891, c. 227; 1908-9, c. 156, s. 9; C. S. 2354.)

Local Modification.—Forsyth: 1935, c. 119; Halifax: 1935, c. 22; Hertford: 1939, c. 357; Montgomery: 1925, c. 196, s. 2; Randolph: 1925, c. 196, s. 2. }

Notice to quit a tenancy shall be for a reasonable time in which to make the repairs if made, and for a breach of the lease. Miles v. Walker, 179 N. C. 497, 102 S. E. 884.

Reasonable Time.—Where the controversy is made to depend upon whether the lessee is entitled to surrender the lease under its written terms, evidence that three days had elapsed or that one month or more had elapsed, upon the repairs necessary and the time the repairs were made, is sufficient to sustain an affirmative verdict that they were made in a reasonable time. Archibald v. Swearingen, 192 N. C. 476, 135 S. E. 896.

Where the terms of a lease fully provide for the rights of the parties upon destruction of the property by fire, such rights will be adjudged by the court according to the agreement, without reference to this section, or the common law. Grant v. Borden, 204 N. C. 415, 168 S. E. 492.

Damage Insufficient to Enable Lessee to Surrender Premises.—Carolina Mtg. Co. v. Massic, 205 N. C. 146, 183 S. E. 425.

§ 42-13. Wrongful surrender to other than landlord misdemeanor.—Any tenant or lessee of lands who shall willfully, wrongfully and with intent to defraud the landlord or lessor, give up the possession of the rented or leased premises to any person other than his landlord or lessor, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3682; Code, s. 1760; 1883, c. 138; C. S. 2336.)

§ 42-14. Notice to quit in certain tenancies.—A tenancy from year to year may be terminated by a notice to quit given one month or more before the end of the current year of the tenancy; a tenancy from month to month by a like notice of seven days; a tenancy from week to week, of two days. (Rev., s. 1984; Code, s. 1750; 1891, c. 227; 1908-9, c. 156, s. 9; C. S. 2354.)

Effect of Notice.—On May 18, 1897, a landlord gave a tenant from month to month notice "to get out within thirty days." The landlord had received the rent for May. It was held, that unless the rent had been paid, and as to June, because not ending with the month. Simmons v. Arman, 122 N. C. 199, 29 S. E. 332, cited in notes in 25 L. R. A., N. S., 857, 858.

Verbal Notice Sufficient.—A verbal notice by landlord to tenant is sufficient. Section 1-585 applies to a different class of notices. Poindexter v. Call, 182 N. C. 366, 109 S. E. 26. Tenancies at Will.—Where a person is put in possession of land by the owner, without any agreement for rent, and with an express provision that he shall quit when the owner may require him to do so, he is not a tenant at will. Where a tenant is originally put in possession as a tenant from year to year, and, after the commencement of a year, is there an express lease for a certain time and an agreement to quit at the end of that term, no notice of the tenancy will terminate the tenancy after such time. Williams v. Bennett, 26 N. C. 122.

Where one occupied land claiming it as his own, and, in possession was demanded refusal. It was held that he could not be held to have means to the judge, Heed v. Head, 52 N. C. 630, cited in note in 25 L. R. A., N. S., 405.
of the lease as far as the same may be applied to existing agricultural tenancies. Murrill v. Palmer, 164 N. C. 59, 80 S. E. 55; Holton v. Andrews, 151 N. C. 340, 66 S. E. 212; Harty v. Harris, 120 N. C. 408, 27 S. E. 90; Scheelk v. Koch, 119 N. C. 80, 21 S. E. 91; White v. Michael, 124 N. C. 291. But it is competent to rebut the presumption that he is a tenant from year to year by proof of a special agreement. Harris v. Harris, 120 N. C. 408, 27 S. E. 90.

Same Day Notice.—It was not error to charge the jury that, if the tenant leased the premises at five dollars per month and had held over several months, paying the same rent without any new agreement, he was a tenant from month to month, and entitled to fourteen days' (now seven days') notice to quit. Branton v. O'Briant, 93 N. C. 99.

Effect of Leaving Premises after Waiver of Notice.—A tenant from year to year, who waives his right to notice to quit, and goes out of possession, has no right to go back on the premises. Torrans v. Stricklin, 52 N. C. 50.

Different Agreement Not Prohibited.—This section does not preclude the parties from making a different agreement as to notice of intention to terminate tenancy. Cherry v. Whitehurst, 216 N. C. 340, 4 S. E. (2d) 909.

Art. 2. Agricultural Tenancies.

§ 42-15. Landlord's lien on crops for rents, advances, etc., enforcement.—When lands are rented or leased by agreement, written or oral, for agricultural purposes, or are cultivated by a cropper, unless otherwise agreed between the parties to the lease or agreement, any and all crops raised on said lands shall be deemed and held to be vested in possession of the lessor or his assigns at all times, until the rents for said lands are paid and until all the stipulations contained in the lease or agreement are performed, or damages in lieu thereof paid to the lessor or his assigns, and until said party or his assigns is paid for all advancements made and expenses incurred in making and saving said crops. A landlord, to entitle himself to the benefit of the lien herein provided for, must conform as to the prices charged for the advance to the provisions of the article Agricultural Liens, in the chapter Liens.

This lien shall be preferred to all other liens, and the lessor or his assigns is entitled, against the lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, who removes the crop or any part thereof from the lands without the consent of the lessor or his assigns, or against any other person who may get possession of said crop or any part thereof, to the remedies given in an action upon a claim for the delivery of personal property.

Provided, that when advances have been made by the federal government or any of its agencies, to any tenant or tenants on lands under the control of any guardian, executor and/or administrator for the purpose of enabling said tenant or tenants to grow crops, and the crops grown on said land, the said guardian, executor, and/or administrator may waive the above lien in favor of the federal government, or any of its agencies, making said advances (Rev., s. 1928; Code, s. 1751; 1876-7, c. 283; 1917, c. 134; 1933, c. 219; C. 2353."

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 219, added the provisions now appearing in the section, the general effect of which is the summarization of the 1933 amendment, see 11 N. C. L. Rev., 265.

A Statutory Remedy.—In Howland v. Forlaw, 108 N. C. 597, 13 S. E. 73, the court held that the common-law remedy of a landlord for his crop is not a lien and that, except as specifically given by statute, a landlord has no lien on the product of the leased property for rent. Reynolds v. Taylor, 144 N. C. 165, 167, 56 S. E. 871.

Advances or Advances and Liens.—A statutory lien is only when lands are rented or leased for agricultural purposes. Reynolds v. Taylor, 144 N. C. 165, 167, 56 S. E. 871.

What "Crops" Include.—The words "crop raised" mean simply the crop grown or gathered during the year. The word "raised" appears nowhere else in the section, nor in succeeding sections, only the word "crops" is used. The Legislature had in mind no distinction between fructus industriales (products obtained by labor and cultivation) and fructus naturales (products which emanate from the power of nature alone), and therefore there is no need of any word "naturally grown" or the like. State v. Crooke, 123 N. C. 1053, 1056, 44 S. E. 32.

The section gives the landlord a lien for his rent "on any and all crops," that is, on all that is "raised, cut or gathered" in that season from his land. State v. Crooke, 123 N. C. 1053, 1057, 44 S. E. 32.

The operation of a mortgage or agricultural lien in respect to crops is confined to crops then or about to be planted, and when it is for expenses incurred in making and saving said crops. It is not to extend further than those planted in the season next after the execution of the instrument. Wooten v. Hill, 98 N. C. 49, 3 S. E. 846.

Same—Hay.—Hay is ordinarily embraced in the word "crops," as used in this section, because it naturally seems, when it is merely a spontaneous growth, as crab-grass, which sprang up after another crop is housed. State v. Crooke, 132 N. C. 1053, 1056, 44 S. E. 32.

What Constitutes One a Cropper.—An agreement by him who cultivates land that the owner who advances "guano, seed-wheat," etc., shall out of the crop be repaid in wheat for such advancements, constitutes the former a cropper, and not a tenant. State v. Burwell, 63 N. C. 561.

Cropper Has No Estate.—A cropper has no estate in the land, and his possession is that of the landlord. State v. Austin, 123 N. C. 740, 11 S. E. 731.

When Lessee Has Lien.—When a lessee sublets a part of the farm he becomes lessor to his sublessee and is entitled to the same lien on his crop which the statute gives a lessor. Moore v. Faison, 132 N. C. 52, 44 S. E. 71; Perry v. Perry, 127 N. C. 23, 37 S. E. 71; and therefore holds a prior lien to a mortgagor of the crops. Perry v. Perry, 127 N. C. 23, 37 S. E. 71. The lien of the original landlord is not, however, impaired. State v. Austin, 123 N. C. 740, 11 S. E. 731.

Agreements between Tenants.—Where A and B, tenants in common, agreed to make partition of lands and fix the boundaries, and A agreed that B should occupy the whole and pay to him a portion of the crop raised thereon, it was held, that although this was valid as an agreement for partition, it did not constitute a lease, so as to create the relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties. Medlin v. Steele, 75 N. C. 154.

II. LIEN OF LESSOR.

Landlord's Lien Superior.—The landlord's lien, where the same attaches, by the express terms of the statute is made to take precedence over that of any third person for advances, notwithstanding the priority of the latter in time. Sprull v. Arrington, 109 N. C. 12, 13 S. E. 779; Crinkley v. Egerton, 133 N. C. 444, 18 S. E. 669. And this presumption is to the extent of the advances made for the v. Hill, 98 N. C. 49, 3 S. E. 846. See Wise Supply Co. v. Davis, 194 N. C. 328, 139 S. E. 599.

A contract expressed and purporting to be a lease of lands for agricultural purposes, does not change the relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties upon the ground that if the amount of stipulated rent should be paid, and the landlord, before he had a right to credit upon the purchase of the land at a stated price, it not appearing that the transaction of the contemplated purchase had been made under option given; and that the landlord or one of his agents having validly assigned his lien may enforce his lien under this section in priority to the lien, under § 44-52, of one furnishing advancements for the cultivation of the crop. Wise Supply Co. v. Davis, 194 N. C. 359, 142 S. E. 599.

§ 42-15

The landlord’s lien under this section does not attach to a crop made entirely in a year subsequent to that in which the crop was furnished to the tenant. Brooks v. Garrett, 195 N. C. 452, 142 S. E. 486.

The statutory landlord’s lien under this section is superior to that of one furnishing supplies to the tenant under § 44-52, and the landlord, with the landlord raises a certain crop, the lien for advancements attaches to such crop, and where the landlord has received the payment for the entire crop including the special crop under separate contract with the cropper and pays himself the amount due as rent, the lien for advancements attaches to the surplus and the holder of the lien may recover thereon from the landlord. Glover v. Dail, 194 N. C. 422, 142 S. E. 599.

Third Person Charged with Notice.—Every person who makes advancements to a tenant or cropper of another does so with the knowledge that the landlord has a lien that he may have on the tenant’s crop is preferred to all others, and the risk is his if the tenant does not satisfy the lien by complying with the contract and all stipulated obligations. Thigpen v. Maget, 107 N. C. 39, 46, 12 S. E. 272.

Same.—Caveat Emptor.—This section gives a landlord the title to the crop until the rent is actually paid (whether cash or crop, by state or personal), and such title is not impaired by the fact that the tenant conveys the crop to a third person, who takes without notice of the landlord’s claim. Rule caveat emptor applies. Belcher v. Grimes, 83 N. C. 88, 8 S. E. 185.

Liability to Other Lienholders.—A landlord is liable to account to persons who have a lien for supplies furnished for the value of such supplies furnishing the tenant, but not as lienholders. Crimble v. Egerton, 113 N. C. 142, 146, 18 S. E. 341.

Liability of Landlord for Marketing of Tenant’s Tobacco.—The landlord and tenant act (this section) gives the landlord a lien on the tenant’s crop until a division has been made and the share of the landlord had been set apart to him in severalty. Deaver v. Rice, 20 N. C. 567; Gordon v. Armstrong, 27 N. C. 409; Suggs v. Forlaw, 91 N. C. 659, 18 S. E. 98; Howland v. Forlaw, 108 N. C. 567, 569, 13 S. E. 173.

Section Applies Only to Landlord and Tenant.—Except in the case of land and tenant provided for specifically by this section, the lessor has no lien upon the product of the leased property as rent; it is for all purposes, until division, deemed vested in the tenant, and his sale to third persons before the rent is paid and advancement set apart constitutes good title. Howland v. Forlaw, 108 N. C. 567, 13 S. E. 173.

Where the occupant of land is a vendees or mortgagee of its owner, although he may for some purposes consider a tenant at will at the time of sale, at the time of sale, the improvements of this section, is vested in the landlord. Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 27, 16 S. E. 924.

Vested in Lessor.—All crops raised on the land, whether by tenant or cropper, are by this section deemed to be vested in the landlord, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, until the rents and advancements are paid. State v. Austin, 123 N. C. 749, 31 S. E. 731; Smith v. Tindall, 107 N. C. 88, 12 S. E. 121; Batts v. Sullivan, 182 N. C. 127, 108 S. E. 111; Rhoads v. Smith-Douglass Fertilizer Co., 230 N. C. 21, 16 S. E. (2d) 408.

Same.—For His Protection.—For the lessor’s protection, as between him and the tenant, the possession of the crop is deemed vested in the lessor. State v. Higgins, 126 N. C. 1112, 36 S. E. 113.

Lessor May Use Force.—An attempt to appropriate and carry off the crop may be repelled by the landlord by force, provided no more force is used than is necessary to protect his possession. State v. Austin, 123 N. C. 749, 31 S. E. 731.

Actual Possession in Tenant.—Though the constructive possession of the crop is vested by statute in the landlord, yet, during the cultivation, and for all purposes of making and gathering the crop, the actual possession is in the tenant until the rent is paid and advancement set apart, or until such time as a division shall be made. State v. Copeland, 86 N. C. 692, 694.

Same.—May Maintain Action.—As against third parties the tenant may maintain an action in possessio both of the land and crop while it is being cultivated, and he may maintain an action in his own name for any injury thereto. Bridgers v. Dill, 97 N. C. 222, 1 S. E. 767. And the ownership of the crop is well recognized as his in the indictment. State v. Higgins, 126 N. C. 1112, 36 S. E. 113.

But in Desert Salt Co. v. Tarpey, 142 U. S. 241, 245, 31 S. Ct. 158, 35 L. Ed. 599, it was stated, as follows: "The Tenant Has Insurable Interest.—That the possession and title to the crop are deemed vested in the landlord does not divest the tenant of an insurable interest in the crops before the crops have been harvested. "It is well settled that any person has an insurable interest in property by the existence of which he may gain an advantage, or by the destruction of which he will suffer a loss. 'Tis not that he has an interest in the crop, or any part of it, he becomes liable civilly and criminally. Jordan v. Bryan, 103 N. C. 59, 9 S. E. 135.

When Action Lies.—The action will lie, not only where the crops are removed from the land leased, but also in a case where the tenant or cropper, or any other person, takes the crops into his absolute possession and denies the right of the landlord thereto. Livingston v. Farish, 89 N. C. 140.

Collusion and Fraud.—Where landlord and tenants under a contract of sale entered into, or any other contract with his lessee, precluded the landlord's protection, and it cannot, either by the terms of the statute or by any fair construction, be resorted to before the time fixed for division, unless the tenant is about to remove the crop from the land leased, or from the land of which he has obtained possession under the contract; otherwise, the tenant might be sued for parcel of the crop as it was gathered. Neither the language nor the spirit of the statute permits this. Jordan v. Bryan, 103 N. C. 59, 65, 9 S. E. 135.

Not a Personal Property Exemption.—The right to enforce the landlord's lien cannot be defeated by the lessee's claiming the crop as a part of his personal property exemption. Durham v. Speck, 113 N. C. 172.

Action against Tenant by Third Party.—In an action against a tenant to recover damages for his failure to deliver a crop under his contract of sale, the defense that the tenant had paid in advance and that his contract was therefore illegal, is not available, when it is shown that the landlord had consented to the sale and had thereafter taken possession of the crop at the tenant's request. Lee v. Melton, 174 N. C. 794, 91 S. E. 997.

Lessee can of course, as against strangers, have no greater right of possession than his lessor.

Tenant's Liability.—If the tenant, at any time before satisfaction of the landlord's lien, takes the crops into his absolute possession and denies the right of the landlord thereto. Livingston v. Farish, 89 N. C. 140.

Tenants' Liability.—If the tenant, at any time before satisfaction of the landlord's lien, takes the crops into his absolute possession and denies the right of the landlord thereto. Livingston v. Farish, 89 N. C. 140.

Tenant's Remedy.—That the tenant's liability is not terminated by his being sued for the possession of the crop; otherwise, the tenant might be sued for parcel of the crop as it was gathered. Neither the language nor the spirit of the statute permits this. Jordan v. Bryan, 103 N. C. 59, 65, 9 S. E. 135.

Not a Personal Property Exemption.—The right to enforce the landlord's lien cannot be defeated by the lessee's claiming the crop as a part of his personal property exemption. Durham v. Speck, 113 N. C. 172.
§ 42-17. Action to settle disputes between parties.—When any controversy arises between the parties, and neither party avails himself of the provisions of this chapter, it is competent for either party to proceed at once to have the matter determined in the court of a justice of the peace, if the amount claimed is two hundred dollars or less, or in the superior court of the county where the property is situated if the amount so claimed is more than two hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 1995; Code, s. 1756; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 3; C. S. 2337.)

Editor’s Note.—This and the following section were formerly part of the same section and should be read together. This should be noted in considering the following annotations.

In General.—It is quite apparent that this and the following section contemplate an action to determine a dispute growing out of the agreement, and the rights of one without the possession of the lessee, cropper or assignee of either, and this intent is very clearly expressed in the terms used in the enactment. It is a method of settling a controversy without resort to any possessory actions authorized in the antecedent sections. Wilson v. Respass, 86 N. C. 112, 115.

Purpose.—The purpose of the section is to provide a summary mode for ascertaining a disputed liability, and, in case of delay, to secure the fruits of the judgment by requiring of the lessee, as a condition of his remaining in possession, to put the holder of the judgment in the enjoyment of what may be recovered. Deloatch v. Coman, 90 N. C. 185, 188.

No Application to Vendee.—This and the following sections, like section 43-15, are plainly inapplicable where the occupant of land is a vendee or mortgagee. Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 27, 31, 16 S. E. 924.

§ 42-18. Tenant’s undertaking on continuance or appeal.—In case there is a continuance or an appeal from the justice’s decision to the superior court, the lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, shall be allowed to retain possession of said property upon his giving an undertaking to the lessor or his assigns, or the adverse party, in a sum double the amount of the claim, if such claim does not amount to more than the value of such property, otherwise to double the value of such property, with good and sufficient surety, to be approved by the justice of the peace or the clerk of the superior court, conditioned for the faithful payment to the adverse party of such damages as he shall recover in said action. (Rev., s. 1995; Code, s. 1756; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 3; C. S. 2338.)

§ 42-19. Crops delivered to landlord on his undertaking.—In case the lessee or cropper, or the assigns of either, at the time of the appeal or continuance mentioned in § 42-18, fails to give the undertaking therein required, then the constable or other lawful officer shall deliver the property into the actual possession of the lessor or his assigns, upon the lessor or his assigns giving to the adverse party an undertaking in double the amount of said property, to be justified as required in § 42-18, conditioned for the forthcoming of such property, or the value thereof, in case judgment is pronounced against him. (Rev., s. 1996; Code, s. 1757; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 4; C. S. 2359.)

Court Will Not Restrain Lessor.—Where the lessor has taken possession of the crop, and is solvent and has been required to give the bond of indemnity, the court will not restrain him from selling the crop. Wilson v. Respass, 86 N. C. 112. In such a case it seems that the tenant cannot lose any possession of the crop, and the crop is in the possession of the lessor 42-18 since that section contemplates non-intervention on the part of the court and not a removal of possession from one party to another. Id.

§ 42-20. Crops sold, if neither party gives undertaking.—If neither party gives the undertaking described in § 42-18 and § 42-19, it is the duty of the justice of the peace or the clerk of the superior court to issue an order to the constable or sheriff, or other lawful officer, directing him to take into his possession all of said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the claimant's demand and costs, and to sell the same under the rules and regulations prescribed by law for the sale of personal property under execution, and to hold the proceeds thereof subject to the decision of the court upon the issue or issues pending between the parties. (Rev., s. 1997; Code, s. 1758; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 5; C. S. 2360.)

§ 42-21. Tenant's crop not subject to execution against landlord.—Whenever servants and laborers in agriculture shall by their contracts, oral or written, be entitled, for wages, to a part of the crops cultivated by them, such part shall not be subject to sale under executions against their employers, or the owners of the land cultivated. (Rev., s. 1998; Code, s. 1796; C. S. 2361.)

§ 42-22. Unlawful seizure by landlord or removal by tenant misdemeanor.—If any landlord shall unlawfully, willfully, knowingly and without process of law, and unjustly seize the crop of a tenant when there is nothing due him, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any lessee or cropper, or the assignees of either, or any other person, shall remove a crop, or any part thereof, from land without the consent of the lessor or his assigns, and without giving him or his agent five days notice of such intended removal, and before satisfying all the liens held by the lessor or his assignees, on said crop, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., ss. 3664, 3665; Code, s. 1793; 1876-7, c. 283, s. 6; 1883, c. 83; C. S. 2362.)

I. In General. II. The Indictable Act. III. The Intent. IV. Notice. V. The Indictment.

I. IN GENERAL. Purpose of Section.—The leading and material part of the purpose is to keep the crops on the land, so that they may be easily seen, known, identified and protected, and to prevent fraud and fraudulent practices that would be greatly facilitated by preventing crops from being kept on the land, as is required by the statute. State v. Williams, 106 N. C. 646, 648, 10 S. E. 901. The purpose of this section is to render the statutory provisions and regulations of the preceding sections more effective. The section is not intended to confer or give any right or privilege that light and in that view. It embraces both the landlord and the tenant, and intends the more effectually to secure their respective rights as prescribed. State v. Ewing, 106 N. C. 755, 757, 11 S. E. 10.

Applies Only to Specified Liens.—It will be observed that the section does not extend to, and embrace, all liens the landlord. State v. Williams, 106 N. C. 646, 648, 10 S. E. 901. The gathering and preservation of crops was not the evil intended by the statute in severing the crops from the land and storing them on it simply for the purpose of protecting them has been doubted, but it has been held that he may do so in good faith for such purpose; he may not go beyond the statute in severing the crop to his own use, by feeding it to his stock without the consent of the landlord, this was a removal within the meaning of this section and indictable. Varner v. Spencer, 72 N. C. 381.

Extends to Receivers.—This section extends to and protects receivers charged with the management of lands. State v. Turner, 106 N. C. 693, 695, 10 S. E. 1025. The lessor's rights cannot be abridged by any statute. Varner v. Spencer, 72 N. C. 381; State v. Powell, 84 N. C. 921.

Implied from the Act. — The statute broadly forbids the removal of the crops, or any part of them, from the land, except in the case and in the way prescribed, and that without regard to the actual intent. The removal implies the intent in making the removal is material. State v. Williams, 106 N. C. 646, 10 S. E. 901; State v. Crook, 132 N. C. 615, 615, 44 S. E. 32.

II. THE WRONGFUL ACT. A Misdemeanor Only. — The offense of removing crops, without payment, or giving notice of such removal, although it may have been committed secretly, or at night, is a simple misdemeanor, and cannot be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary. State v. Turner, 106 N. C. 691, 693, 10 S. E. 1026.

Actual Seizure Unnecessary. — To constitute the offense of an unlawful seizure of crops by the landlord, under this section, it is not essential that the landlord should take forcible or, even manual possession of them; the offense will be complete if he exercises that possession or control which prevents the tenant from gathering and removing his crop in a peaceable manner. State v. Ewing, 106 N. C. 755, 11 S. E. 10.

Possession Important. — An indictment for larceny will not lie against a lessee or cropper for secretly appropriating the crop to his own use, even if done with a felonious intent, where he is in the actual possession of the same. State v. Copeland, 132 N. C. 621, 132 S. E. 855. The indictment for larceny will lie against a lessee or cropper for secretly appropriating the crop to his own use, where his actual possession thereof has terminated by a delivery to the landlord. State v. King, 98 N. C. 648, 4 S. E. 44.

Gathering the Crop. — How far the tenant might be justified under the statute in severing the crops from the land and storing them on it simply for the purpose of protecting them has been doubted, but it has been held that he may do so in good faith for such purpose; he may not go beyond the statute in severing the crop to his own use, by feeding it to his stock without the consent of the landlord, this was a removal within the meaning of this section and indictable. Varner v. Spencer, 72 N. C. 381.

Without Notice.—An averment in an indictment for removing a crop, "without having given any notice of such intended removal" is equivalent to the averment that the tenant removed the crop without giving "five days' notice." State v. Powell, 94 N. C. 921.

Burden of Proof. — In order to convict the defendant of the offense of removing a crop without the consent of the landlord, the burden is on the State to show that the defendant had not given his landlord the statutory five days' previous notice before the crop had been removed. State v.
Fouchee, 117 N. C. 766, 767, 23 S. E. 247.

2. Where a tenant in possession of real estate holds over after his term has expired.

3. When any tenant or lessee of lands or tenements, who is in arrear for rent or has agreed to cultivate the demised premises and to pay a lien on such crop as a security for the rent, desert the demised premises, and leaves them unoccupied and cultivated. (Rev., s. 2001; Code, ss. 1766; 1777; 4 Geo. II, c. 28; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 19; 1905, cc. 297, 299, 830; C. S. 345.)

V. The Action.

This section shall only apply to the counties of Anson, Ashe, Bladen, Brunswick, Columbus, Cumberland, Duplin, Gaston, Hoke, Lincoln, Fender, Robeson, Sampson, and Yadkin. (Pub. Loc. 1939, c. 40; Pub.
Loc. 1935, c. 288; Pub. Loc. 1937, cc. 96, 600; Pub. Loc. 1941,
c. 41; 1945, c. 68.)

§ 42-24. Turpentine and lightwood leases.—This chapter shall apply to all leases or contracts to lease turpentine trees, or use lightwood for purposes of making tar, and the parties thereto shall be fully subjected to the provisions and penalties of this chapter. (Rev., s. 1999; Code, s. 1762; 1893, c. 517; 1876-7, c. 283; 7; C. S. 2363.)

Extension of Section 42-22.—This section extends section 42-22 to "all leases or contracts to lease turpentine trees," and thus it is made a misdemeanor for the lessee of turpentine trees to remove any part of the turpentine crop in the like case as when the removal of the crop by an агricultural tenant is made such offense. State v. Turner, 106 N. C. 691, 692, 10 S. E. 1026.

Cited in Farmville Oil, etc., Co. v. Bourne, 205 N. C.
337, 339, 171 S. E. 368.

§ 42-25. Mining and timber land leases.—If in a lease of land for mining, or of timbered land for the purpose of manufacturing the timber into goods, rent is reserved, and if it is agreed in the lease that the minerals, timber or goods, or any portion thereof, shall not be removed until the payment of the rent, in such case the lessor shall have the rights and be entitled to the remedy given by this chapter. (Rev., s. 2000; Code, s.
1763; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 16; C. S. 2364.)

Not a Lease.—Where the owner of lands conveys the timber standing and growing thereon, with provision that the timber for cutting and removing it will be extended upon payment of a certain sum, this is not a leasehold interest but an estate in fee. Carolina Timber Co. v. Wells, 171 N.
C. 262, 83 S. E. 337.

Art. 3. Summary Ejectment.

§ 42-26. Tenant holding over may be disposed dissolved in certain cases.—Any tenant or lessee of any house or land, and the assigns under the tenant or legal representatives of such tenant or lessee, who holds over and continues in the possession of the demised premises, or any part thereof, without the permission of the landlord, and after demand made for its surrender, may be removed from such premises in the manner hereinafter prescribed in any of the following cases:

1. When a tenant in possession of real estate holds over after his term has expired.

2. When the tenant or lessee, or other person under him, has done or omitted any act by which, according to the stipulations of the lease, his estate has ceased.

3. When any tenant or lessee of lands or tenements, who is in arrear for rent or has agreed to cultivate the demised premises and to pay a part of the crop to be made thereon as rent, or who has given to the lessor a lien on such crop as a security for the rent, desert the demised premises, and leaves them unoccupied and cultivated. (Rev., s. 2001; Code, ss. 1766; 1777; 4 Geo. II, c. 28; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 19; 1905, cc. 297, 299, 830; C. S. 345.)

II. Holding Over.

III. Breach of a Provision of Lease.

IV. Rights of the Parties.

V. The Action.
I. APPLICATION AND SCOPE.

The basis and scope of summary ejectment actions in actions between landlord and tenant are established by this section. Warren v. Breedlove, 219 N. C. 383, 387, 14 S. E. (2d) 43. Rights of Landlord to Tenancy in Possession—The summary remedy in ejectment provided by this section for the ousting of tenants who hold over after the expiration of the term is restricted to cases where the relation between the landlord and tenant is that of landlord and tenant. Looney v. Jordan, 146 N. C. 248, 59 S. E. 693; McCombs v. Wallace, 66 N. C. 481; Hughes v. Mason, 84 N. C. 473; McIver v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 163 N. C. 544, 545, 79 S. E. 1107. This section sets up in summary ejectment the relationship of landlord and tenant, and when title to the property is in issue, the jurisdiction of the court of justice in ejectment is properly dispensed with in case of nonsuit upon appeal to the Superior Court. Frudential Ins. Co. v. Totten, 203 N. C. 431, 16 S. E. (2d) 316.

Summary ejectment will lie only where the relationship of landlord and tenant existed between the parties under a lease, contract, express or implied, and the tenant has held over after the expiration of the term, and while it is necessary that the tenant's entry should have been under a demise, it need not be for a definite term, a tenancy at will being sufficient. Simons v. Leburn, 219 N. C. 42, 12 S. E. (2d) 644.

Not Coextensive with Doctrine of Estoppel.—The remedy by summary proceedings in ejectment given by this section is not the same as the court of general jurisdiction, where one enters and holds land under another, but is restricted to the case where the relation between the parties is simply that of landlord and tenant. McLaurin v. McIntyre, 167 N. C. 350, 83 S. E. 627; Hauser v. Morrison, 146 N. C. 248, 249, 59 S. E. 693.

Some Contract or Lease Required.—This section was only intended to provide an equitable remedy in ejectment, where the tenant entered into possession under some contract or lease, either written or implied, with the supposed landlord, or with some person under whom the landlord claimed in privity, or where the tenant entered into possession with some person who had so entered. McCombs v. Wallace, 66 N. C. 481.

Where Purchase Changed to Lease.—Where one unconditionally surrenders his rights under the contract of purchase and enters into the possession of the land, he may be evicted by summary proceedings under this section; and it is not necessary that he should actually surrender the possession of the land to the lessee at the hands of the lessor. Riley v. Jordan, 75 N. C. 180.

Two Classes Excluded.—The construction of this section excludes the operation of the act two classes, viz., tenants at will where the tenancy entered into possession under some contract or lease, either written or implied, with the supposed landlord, or with some person under whom the landlord claimed in privity, or where the tenant entered into possession with some person who had so entered. McCombs v. Wallace, 66 N. C. 481.

When Section Does Not Apply.—The remedy by summary ejectment before a justice of the peace, under this section et seq., is not available when there is a relation of mortgagor and mortgagee, or vendor and vendee.

Where a verbal lease does not provide for its termination by payment of relatively a reduction in the rental price fixed by his contract, he must prove that such eviction was caused by the plaintiff, or one acting under his authority, or one paying relatively a reduction in the rental price fixed by his contract, acceptance of rent by the landlord which is not coextensive with the doctrine of estoppel arising out of contract, express or implied, and the tenant has held over after the expiration of the term, and while it is necessary that the tenant's entry should have been under a demise, for instance, when title to the property is in issue, the jurisdiction of the court of justice in ejectment is properly dispensed with in case of nonsuit upon appeal to the Superior Court. Frudential Ins. Co. v. Totten, 203 N. C. 431, 16 S. E. (2d) 316.

When Payment of Rent Does Not Operate.—It seems that it is not a wrongful holding over when the tenant has been compelled to continue his occupation of necessity; for instance, when the tenant has paid rent after the expiration of the term, and while it is necessary that the tenant's entry should have been under a demise, for instance, when title to the property is in issue, the jurisdiction of the court of justice in ejectment is properly dispensed with in case of nonsuit upon appeal to the Superior Court. Frudential Ins. Co. v. Totten, 203 N. C. 431, 16 S. E. (2d) 316.

Effect of Recognition. The landlord may treat his tenant, who holds over, as a trespasser and eject him, or he may recognize him as tenant; but when such recognition is given, and the tenant acts in possession solely by reason of the necessity of holding over, the landlord is entitled to the use of such a character that removal could not be presently made without serious danger to the patient. Murrill v. Palmer, 164 N. C. 50, 54, 89 S. E. 55.

III. BREACH OF A PROVISION OF LEASE.

Condition Must Be in Lease.—A summary proceeding in ejectment is not the proper remedy when the lessee's term cannot be maintained where the contract of lease contained no condition, the breach of which would authorize a re-entry by the lessor. The mere failure to pay rent upon "a lease at dollars a year, paying relatively a reduction in the rental price fixed by his contract, he must prove that such eviction was caused by the plaintiff, or one acting under his authority, or one paying relatively a reduction in the rental price fixed by his contract, acceptance of rent by the landlord which is not coextensive with the doctrine of estoppel arising out of contract, express or implied, and the tenant has held over after the expiration of the term, and while it is necessary that the tenant's entry should have been under a demise, for instance, when title to the property is in issue, the jurisdiction of the court of justice in ejectment is properly dispensed with in case of nonsuit upon appeal to the Superior Court. Frudential Ins. Co. v. Totten, 203 N. C. 431, 16 S. E. (2d) 316.

When Payment of Rent Does Not Operate.—It seems that it is not a wrongful holding over when the tenant has been compelled to continue his occupation of necessity; for instance, when the tenant has paid rent after the expiration of the term, and while it is necessary that the tenant's entry should have been under a demise, for instance, when title to the property is in issue, the jurisdiction of the court of justice in ejectment is properly dispensed with in case of nonsuit upon appeal to the Superior Court. Frudential Ins. Co. v. Totten, 203 N. C. 431, 16 S. E. (2d) 316.

Suit for Rescission Cannot Be Sustained on Appeal. —Where one enters into possession under a lease, or reserve the right of re-entry for breach of the terms of the lease, the lessee cannot maintain actions in ejectment against the landlord for breach of such terms, and the action must be brought by the lessee before the lease expires. McKinnon v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 163 N. C. 544, 545, 79 S. E. 1107; McDonald v. Ingram, 124 N. C. 272, 274, 32 S. E. 677.

IV. RIGHTS OF THE PARTIES.

Tenant May Dispute Assignment.—A tenant cannot dispute the title of his landlord but where an action of ejectment is brought by one claiming to be an assignee of the landlord, the tenant may dispute the assignment. Readman v. Jones, 65 N. C. 388, 391.
§ 42-27. Local: Refusal to perform contract for ground for dispossession.—When any tenant or cropper who enters into a contract for the rental of land for the current or ensuing year willfully neglects or refuses to perform the terms of his contract, the owner of the land may recover the possession of the premises. This section applies only to the following counties: Alleghany, Anson, Beaufort, Bertie, Bladen, Brunswick, Burke, Cabarrus, Camden, Carteret, Caswell, Chatam, Chowan, Cleveland, Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Currituck, Davidson, Duplin, Edgecombe, Franklin, Gaston, Gates, Greene, Guilford, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Hoke, Hyde, Jackson, Johnston, Jones, Lenoir, Martin, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Nash, Northampton, Onslow, Pasquotank, Pender, Perquimans, Pitt, Polk, Randolph, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Rutherford, Sampson, Swain, Tyrrell, Union, Wake, Wayne, Washington, Wilson, Yadkin, Moore, Surry and Stokes. (Rev. s. 2001, subsec. 4; Code, s. 1766, 1777; 4 Geo. II, c. 26; 1869-70, s. 19; 1905, c. 297, 299, 320; 1907, c. 45, s. 153; 1909, c. 40, 550; Pub. Loc. Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 66; 1931, c. 50, 194, 446; 1933, c. 56, 485; 1935, c. 39; 1943, c. 69, 115, 459; C. S. 2366.)

Editor's Note.—The Acts of 1931 added Moore, Rutherford, Stokes and Surry counties to this section. Public Laws 1933, c. 86, 485, added Pasquotank and Polk counties to this section, although Pasquotank had already been added by chapter 66 of the Public-Law Local Laws of the 1924 Extra Session.

Public Laws 1935, chapter 39 added Guilford to the list of counties to which this section is applicable. The 1943 amendments made this section applicable to Hoke, Brunswick and Davie counties.

§ 42-28. Summons issued by justice on verified complaint.—When the lessor or his assigns, or his or her agent or attorney, makes oath in writing, before any justice of the peace of the county in which the demised premises are situated, stating such facts as constitute one of the cases described in § 42-26 and § 42-27, and describing the premises and asking to be put in possession thereof, the justice shall issue a summons reciting the substance of the oath, and requiring the defendant to appear before him or some other justice of the county, at a certain place and time (not to exceed five days from the issuing of the summons) to be determined by the court, and if the same be found for the plaintiff, an estoppel of the defendant to appear before him or some other justice of the county, at a certain place and time (not to exceed five days from the issuing of the summons, without the consent of the plaintiff or his agent or attorney), to answer the complaint. The plaintiff or his agent or attorney may in his oath claim rent in arrear, and damage for the occupation of the premises since the cessation of the tenancy of the lessee: Provided, the sum claimed shall not exceed two hundred dollars; but if he omits to make such claim, he shall not be thereby prejudiced in any other action for their recovery. (Rev. s. 2002; Code, s. 1767; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 20; 1869-70, c. 212; C. S. 2367.)

When Defendant Denies Tenancy.—In a proceeding before a justice of the peace under this section, where the defendant denies the alleged tenancy, it is the duty of the justice to require and try the issue of tenancy. Foster v. Perry, 77 N. C. 160.

Question of Jurisdiction.—The question of jurisdiction is not to be determined by matter set up in the answer, but the issues in the case of the existence of the tenancy and the burden of proving that the tenancy has terminated is on the plaintiff. Poindexter v. Call, 182 N. C. 366, 109 S. E. 26.

Evidence.—See Hargrove v. Cox, 180 N. C. 360, 104 S. E. 757.
§ 42-29. Service of summons.—The officer receiving such summons shall immediately serve it by the delivery of a copy to the defendant or by leaving a copy at his usual or last place of residence, with some adult person, if any such be found there; or, if the defendant has no usual place of residence in the county and cannot be found therein, by fixing a copy on some conspicuous part of the premises claimed. (Rev., s. 2003; Code, s. 1768; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 21; C. S. 2368.)

§ 42-30. Judgment by default or confession.—The summons shall be returned according to its tenor, and if on its return it appears to have been duly served, and if the defendant fails to appear, or admits the allegations of the complaint, the justice shall give judgment that the defendant be removed from, and the plaintiff be put in possession of, the demised premises; and if any rent or damages for the occupation of the premises after the cessation of the estate of the lessee, not exceeding two hundred dollars, be claimed in the oath of the plaintiff as due and unpaid, the justice may find the fact to be. (Choate Rental Co. v. Justice, 211 N. C. 54, 188 S. E. 609.)

Tenant May Hold after Adverse Judgment.—Where both plaintiff and an interpleading third party claim to be landlords of the defendant, if a judgment by default is taken against the tenant, no writ of possession can issue until the determination of the controversy between the plaintiff and the interpleading defendant. Rollins v. Rollins, 76 N. C. 264.

Same.—When Evicted.—If in an action for the recovery of real estate in which a third person claiming as landlord of the defendant has been made a party defendant, judgment is taken against the tenant defendant and he is evicted, he retains the rights of a tenant under the instrument of writing required in actions in summary ejectment, it does not provide an exception to the requirement of § 1-57, that "every action must be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest." (Rev., s. 2004; Code, s. 1779; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 22; C. S. 2370.)

Effect of Provision for Renewal.—A provision for renewal in a lease is not itself a renewal so as to vest an estate, yet it gives an equity which may be set up as a defense in a summary proceeding in ejectment. (McAdoo v. Callum Bros. & Co., 86 N. C. 419.)

Typographical Error.—The section is, however, subject to the common law rule that the landlord and tenant or a lessee and the lessor are not bound by the acquiescence of either in a lease or renewal clause, for the reason that the landlord and tenant or lessee and lessor are not parties to such a clause but are bound only by the contract of lease as actually executed. (Rev., s. 2005; Code, s. 1775; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 23; C. S. 2370.)

Cross Reference.—As to jury trial in the court of a justice of the peace, see § 7-150 et seq.

§ 42-31. Trial by justice; jury trial; judgment; execution.—If the defendant by his answer denies any material allegation in the oath of the plaintiff, the justice shall hear the evidence and give judgment as he shall find the facts to be. If either party demands a trial by jury, it shall be granted under the rules prescribed by law for other trials by jury before a justice; and if the jury finds that the allegation in the plaintiff's oath, which entitles him to be put in possession, is true, the justice shall give judgment that the defendant be removed from and the plaintiff put in possession of the demised premises, and also for such rent and damages as shall have been assessed by the jury, and for costs; and shall issue his execution to carry the judgment into effect. (Rev., s. 2005; Code, s. 1770; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 23; C. S. 2370.)

§ 42-32. Damages assessed to trial.—On appeal to the superior court, the jury trying the issue joined shall assess the damages of the plaintiff for the detention of his possession to the time of the trial in that court, and judgment for the rent in arrear and for the damages assessed may, on motion, be rendered against the sureties to the appeal. (Rev., s. 2006; Code, s. 1775; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 28; C. S. 2371.)

§ 42-33. Rent and costs tendered by tenant.—If, in any action brought to recover the possession of demised premises upon a forfeiture for the nonpayment of rent, the tenant, before judgment given in such action, pays or tenders the rent due and the costs of the action, all further proceedings in such action shall cease. If the plaintiff further prosecutes his action, and the defendant pays into court for the use of the plaintiff a sum equal to that which shall be found to be due, and the costs, to the time of such payment, or to the time of a tender and refusal, if one has occurred, the defendant shall recover from the plaintiff all subsequent costs; the plaintiff shall be allowed to receive the sum paid into court for his use, and the proceedings shall be stayed. (Rev., s. 2007; Code, s. 1773; 4 Geo. II, c. 25, s. 4; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 29; C. S. 2372.)

To Protect Tenant.—This section was passed in the interest of the tenant. A landlord could bring an action after demand as required by the statute, when each installment of rent was due. The tenant had to pay the rent and cost before judgment or get out. This section was to protect the tenant from hasty eviction, at the same time the land-§ 42-34. Undertaking on appeal; when to be increased.—Either party may appeal from the judgment of the justice, as prescribed in other cases of appeal from the judgment of a justice; upon appeal to the superior court either plaintiff or de-defendant may demand that the same shall be tried at the first term of said court after said appeal is docketed in said court, and said trial shall have precedence in the trial of all other cases, except the cases of exceptions to homesteads: Provided, that said appeal shall have been docketed at least ten days prior to the convening of said court:

Provided, further, that the presiding judge, in his discretion, may take up for trial in advance any pending case in which the rights of the parties or the public requirement require a trial commending the removal of a defendant from the possession of the demised premises shall be suspected until the defendant gives an undertaking in an amount not less than one year's rent of the premises, with sufficient surety, who shall justify and be approved by the justice, to be void if the defendant pays any judgment which in that or any other action the plaintiff may recover for rent, and for damages for the detention of the land. At any term of the superior court of the county in which such appeal is docketed after the lapse of one year from the date of the filing of the undertaking above mentioned, the tenant and sureties may be taken up for trial. Where a defendant has been duly executed on him, may be required to show cause why said undertaking should not be increased to an amount sufficient to cover rents and damages for such period as to the court may seem proper, and if such tenant fails to show proper cause and does not file such bond for rents and damages as the court may direct, or make affidavit that he is unable so to do and show merits, his appeal shall be dismissed and the judgment of the justice shall be affirmed. (Rev., s. 2009; Code, s.
17-150, c. 155, s. 25; 1883, c. 316; 1921, c. 90; Fx. Sess., 1924, c. 17; 1923, c. 154;
1937, c. 294; C. 2-735.)

Local Modification.—Burke: Pub. Lee, 1927, c. 57, Davie, Granville, Iredell, Mecklenburg, Swain, Watauga: C. 2573.
Justice Has Discretion as to Surety.—On an application to a justice of the peace for a suspension of execution after a recovery has been had against a tenant, his justice has a discretion as to the sufficiency of the surety, which a judge will not review, in the absence of any suggestion that the justice acted dishonestly or capriciously. Steadman v.
Jones, 65 N. C. 388.

Power to Increase Bond.—If the bonds should become impaired or if the litigation should become protracted to such an extent as to require additional security to protect the plaintiffs in their rents, then under this section the superior court can require additional security. Feathernote v. Carr, 122 N. C. 800, 802, 44 S. E. 592.

Not only is it within the jurisdiction and power of the superior courts to have the bonds increased or strengthened, but under their general powers in equity, outside of that section, if they are of a quasi-judicial nature or if their power must be shown by proper averment and proof, or an action against the sureties will be premature. Blackmore v. Wind-ers, 144 N. C. 212, 67 S. E. 874.

Judgment Prior to Action on Bond.—A bond, with surety conditioned upon the payment of any judgment given in summary proceedings in ejectment, makes the obtaining of the judgment a condition precedent to a recovery thereon against the sureties; and the obtaining of such a judgment must be shown by proper averment and proof, or an action against the sureties will be premature. Blackmore v. Wind-ers, 144 N. C. 212, 67 S. E. 874.

Precedence in Trial.—An appeal from the judgment of a Justice in the trial of all other cases, except those involving exceptions to homesteads, is entitled to the precedence in the trial of the term of the superior court commencing next after the docketing of the appeal. Roediger v. Sapos, 217 N. C.
95, 6 S. E. (2d) 801.

§ 42-35. Restitution of tenant, if case quashed, etc., on appeal.—If the proceedings before the justice are brought before a superior court and quashed, or judgment is given against the plaintiff, the superior or other court in which final judgmence is given shall, if necessary, restore the de-defendant to the possession, and issue such writs as are proper for that purpose. (Rev., s. 2009;
Code, s. 17-150, c. 155, s. 25; 1883, c. 316;
1921, c. 90; Fx. Sess., 1924, c. 17; 1923, c. 154;
1937, c. 294; C. 2-735.)

When Writ Given.—When a party is put out of possession of land, or compelled to pay money, under a judgment which is afterwards reversed or set aside, the court will restore the party to the possession, and order the judgment to be set aside at the time of the Superior Court commencing next after the docketing of the appeal. Lytle v. Lyle, 94 N. C.
522.

A Part of the Judgment.—Whenever a party is put out of possession by process of law, and the proceedings are adjudged void, an order for a writ of restitution is a part of the judgment. Perry v. Tupper, 70 N. C. 538; Meroney v.
Wright, 84 N. C. 336.

Where on trial of summary ejectment before a justice of the peace, judgment was rendered for the plaintiff, who was put in possession by process of law, and the judgment was decided against the defendant, upon the ground that the lease had not terminated, the defendant is entitled to a writ of restitution as a part of the judgment in his favor. Meroney v.
Wright, 84 N. C. 336.

§ 42-36. Damages to tenant for dispossession, if proceedings quashed, etc.—If, by order of the justice, the plaintiff is put in possession, and the proceedings shall afterwards be quashed or reversed, the defendant may recover damages of the plaintiff for his removal. (Rev., s. 2010; Code, s. 1776; 1868-9, c. 156, s. 30; C. S. 2375.)

Sufficient Allegation.—A complaint in an action by a tenant for wrongful eviction by summary proceedings, alleging that by reason thereof the plaintiff was deprived of his house and garden for shelter and support of his family, and was distressed in body and mind and put to great mortification and shame and loss of employment, sufficiently alleges damages other than the loss of crops. Burwell v. Brodie, 134 N. C. 546, 47 S. E. 47.

Assessment of Damages.—Under this section a tenant who secures the reversal of summary proceedings against him may have damages for eviction assessed in the original or in a separate action. Burwell v. Brodie, 134 N. C. 546, 47 S. E. 47.

Recovery by Landlord.—Where a landlord wrongfully evicts a tenant he can recover for advancements to the tenant before the eviction but not for labor performed by himself after the eviction. Burwell v. Brodie, 134 N. C. 546, 47 S. E. 47.

Art. 4. Forms.

§ 42-37. Forms sufficient.—The following forms, or substantially similar, shall be sufficient in all proceedings under this chapter:

Oath of Plaintiff

North Carolina, .... County.

A. B., plaintiff, against C. D., defendant. Summary proceedings in ejectment.

The plaintiff (his agent or attorney) maketh oath that the defendant entered into the possession of a piece of land in said county (describe the land) as a lessee of the plaintiff (or as lessee of E. F., who, after the making of the lease, assigned his estate to the plaintiff, or otherwise, as the fact may be); that the term of the defendant expired on the day of ......... 19, (or that his estate has ceased by nonpayment of rent, or otherwise, as the fact may be); that the plaintiff has demanded the possession of the premises of the defendant, who refused to surrender it, but holds over; that the estate of the plaintiff is still subsisting, and the plaintiff asks to be put in possession of the premises.

The plaintiff claims....dollars for rent from the...... day of ......... 19, to the...... day of ......... 19, and also....dollars for the occupation of the premises since the...... day of ......... 19, to the date hereof.

§ 43-1. Jurisdiction in superior court.—For the purpose of enabling all persons owning real estate within this state to have the title thereto settled and registered, as prescribed by the provisions of this chapter, the superior court of the county in which the land lies in the state shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all petitions and proceedings had thereupon, under the rules of practice and procedure prescribed for special proceedings except as herein otherwise provided. (1913, c. 90, s. 1; C. S. 2377.)

§ 43-2. Proceedings in rem; vests title. — The proceedings under any petition for the registration of land, and all proceedings in the court in relation to registered land, shall be proceedings in rem against the land, and the decrees of the court shall operate directly on the land, and vest and establish title thereto in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. (1913, c. 90, s. 2; C. S. 2378.)

§ 43-3. Rules of practice prescribed by attorney-general. — The attorney-general, with the approval of the supreme court, shall from time to time make, change, revise and revoke rules of practice in the superior court for the administration of this chapter. He shall in like manner prescribe forms for use in such court, and in the notation of the registry of titles of memorials, claims, liens, lis pendens, and all other involuntary charges upon and to such registered lands. Whenever a question shall arise in the administration of this chapter as to the proper method

§ 43-4. Assurance fund provided; investment. 43-50. Action for indemnity. 43-51. Satisfaction by third person or by treasurer. 43-52. Payment by treasurer, if assurance fund is insufficient. 43-53. Treasurer subrogated to right of claimant. 43-54. Assurance fund not liable for breach of trust; limit of recovery. 43-55. Statute of limitation as to assurance fund.

Sec. 43-17. Issuance of certificate upon death of registered owner; petition and contents.
43-17.2. Publication of notice; service of process.
43-17.3. Answer by person claiming interest.
43-17.4. Hearing by clerk of superior court; orders and decrees; cancellation of old certificate and issuance of new certificate.
43-17.5. Issuance of new certificate validated.
43-18. Registered owner’s estate free from adverse claims; exceptions.
43-19. Adverse claims existing at initial registry; affidavit; limitation of action.
43-20. Decree and registration run with the land.
43-21. No right by adverse possession.
43-22. Jurisdiction of courts; registered land affected only by registration.
43-23. Priority of right.
43-24. Compliance with this chapter due registration.
43-25. Release from registration.

Art. 5. Adverse Claims and Corrections after Registration.

43-26. Limitations.
43-27. Adverse claim subsequent to registry; affidavit of claim requisite to enforcement; limitation.
43-28. Suit to enforce adverse claim; summons and notice necessary.
43-29. Judgment in suit to enforce adverse claim; register to file.
43-30. Correction of registered title; limitation of adverse claims.

Art. 6. Method of Transfer.

43-31. When whole of land conveyed.
43-32. Conveyance of part of registered land.

Editor’s Note.—This chapter is known generally as the Torrens Law. The principle of the “Torrens System” is conveyance by registration and certificate instead of by deed, and assimilates the transfer of land to the transfer of stocks in corporations. For a discussion of the history and development of the Torrens system, see Cape Lookout Co. v. Gold, 167 N. C. 63, 83 S. E. 3; and “The Torrens System—After Thirty-Five Years," 30 N. C. L. Rev. 359.

Chapter to Be Liberally Construed.—This statute is not in derogation of common right, but is of a remedial character, and should be liberally construed according to its intent. Cape Lookout Co. v. Gold, 167 N. C. 63, 83 S. E. 2; Dillon v. Brocker, 178 N. C. 65, 100 S. E. 191; Perry v. Morgan, 219 N. C. 377, 14 S. E. (2d) 46.

Amendment of Pleadings and Parties.—Under the provisions of this section, the judge of the superior court is given authority over the whole proceedings before the clerk, and may require reformation of the process, pleadings or decrees, or entries, and therefore he has authority to allow parties defendant to be made and enlarge the time within which to file answers. Empire Mfg. Co. v. Spruill, 169 N. C. 618, 86 S. E. 522.

Consolidation of Proceedings.—A proceeding for the purpose of registering title and an injunction to prevent trespass, involving the same land and the same parties may be consolidated. Blount v. Sawyer, 189 N. C. 210, 126 S. E. 512.

Cited in Brinson v. Lacy, 195 N. C. 394, 396, 142 S. E. 517.

§ 43-3. Rules of practice prescribed by attorney-general. — The attorney-general, with the approval of the supreme court, shall from time to time make, change, revise and revoke rules of practice in the superior court for the administration of this chapter. He shall in like manner prescribe forms for use in such court, and in the notation of the registry of titles of memorials, claims, liens, lis pendens, and all other involuntary charges upon and to such registered lands. Whenever a question shall arise in the administration of this chapter as to the proper method of protecting or asserting any right or interest under the law, and the method of procedure is in doubt, it shall be the duty of the clerk or register of deeds to notify the attorney-general, who, with the approval of the supreme court, shall prescribe a rule covering such case. (1913, c. 90, s. 31; C. S. 2379.)

Art. 2. Officers and Fees.

§ 43-4. Examiners appointed by clerk. — The clerk of the superior court of each county shall appoint three or more examiners of titles, who shall be licensed attorneys at law, residing in the state of North Carolina. They shall qualify by taking oath before the clerk to faithfully discharge the duties of such office, which oath shall be filed in the office of the clerk. The term of office shall be two years. Examiners of titles shall have and exercise the jurisdiction and perform the duties hereinafter prescribed, and receive the fees herein provided. They shall not appear in or have any connection with any proceeding instituted under the provisions of this chapter, and they shall be subject to removal at will by such clerk or judge of the superior court. (1913, c. 90, s. 3; 1917, c. 63; C. S. 2380.)

§ 43-5. Fees of officers. — The fees to be allowed the clerks and sheriffs in this proceeding shall be the same as now allowed by law to clerks and sheriffs in other special proceedings. The examiner hereinbefore provided for shall receive, as may be allowed by the clerk, a minimum fee of five dollars for such examination of each title of property assessed upon the tax books at the amount of five thousand dollars or less; for each additional thousand dollars of assessed value of property so examined he shall receive fifty cents; for examination outside of the county he shall receive a reasonable allowance. There shall be allowed to the register of deeds for copying the plat upon registration of titles book one dollar; for issuing the certificate and new certificates under this chapter, fifty cents for each; for noting the entries or memorandum required and for the entries noting the cancellation of mortgages and all other entries, if any, herein provided for, a total of twenty-five cents for the entry or entries connected with one transaction. The county or other surveyor employed under the provisions of this chapter shall not be allowed to charge more than forty cents per hour for his time actually employed in making the survey and the map, except by agreement with the petitioner; Provided, however, that a minimum fee of two dollars in any case may be allowed. There shall be no other fees allowed of any nature except as herein provided, and the bond of the register, clerk and sheriff shall be liable in case of any mistake, malfeasance, or misfeasance as to the duties imposed upon them by this chapter in as full a manner as such bond is now liable by law. (1913, c. 90, s. 30; C. S. 2381.)

Art. 3. Procedure for Registration.

§ 43-6. Who may institute proceedings. — Any person, being in the peaceable possession of land within the state and claiming an estate of inheritance therein, may prosecute a special proceeding in rem against all the world in the superior court for the county in which such land is situate, to establish his title thereto, to determine all adverse claims and have the title registered. Any number of the separate parcels of land claimed by the petitioner may be included in the same proceeding, and any one parcel may be established in several parts, each of which shall be clearly and accurately described and registered separately, and the decree therein shall operate directly upon the land and establish and vest an indefeasible title thereto. Any person in like possession of lands within the state, claiming an interest or estate less than the fee therein, may have his title thereto established under the provisions of this chapter, without the registration and transfer features herein provided. (1913, c. 90, s. 4; C. S. 2382.)

§ 43-7. Land lying in two or more counties. — In every proceeding to register title, in which it is alleged in the petition or made to appear that the land therein described, whether in one or more parcels, is situated partly in one county and partly in another, or is situated in two or more counties, that is to say, when an entire tract, or two or more entire tracts, are situated in two or more counties (but not separate or several tracts situated in different counties) it shall be competent to institute the proceedings before the clerk of the superior court of any county in which any part of such tract lying in two or more counties is situated, and said clerk shall have jurisdiction both of the parties and of the subject-matter as fully as if the land was situated wholly in his county; but upon the entry of a final decree of registration of title, the clerk by or before whom the same was rendered shall certify a copy thereof to the register of deeds of every county in which said land or any part thereof is situated, and the same shall be there filed and recorded; and every such register of deeds, upon demand of the person entitled and payment of requisite fees therefor, shall issue and deliver a certificate of title for that part of said land situated in his county. This section shall apply and become effective in all cases or proceedings heretofore conducted before any clerk of the superior court of this state for registration of title, as in this chapter authorized, when the land described in the petition as an entire tract was situated in two or more counties, as aforesaid; and upon the filing and recording of a certified copy of the final decree or decree of registration therein, the register of deeds shall issue and deliver a certificate of title to the present owner or person entitled to the same, for that part of the land situated in his county, as aforesaid, upon payment or tender of proper fees therefor. (1919, c. 82, s. 1; C. S. 2383.)

§ 43-8. Petition filed; contents. — Suit for registration of title shall be begun by a petition to the court by the persons claiming, singly or collectively, to own or have the power of appointing or disposing of an estate in fee simple in any land, whether subject to liens or not. Infants and other persons under disability may sue by guardian or trustee, as the case may be, and corporations as in other cases now provided by law; but deemed an admission of the allegations of the petition. The petition shall be signed and sworn to by each petitioner, and shall contain a full description of the land to be registered as hereinafter provided, together with a plot of same by metes and bounds, corners to be marked by permanent markers of iron, stone or cement; it shall show when, how and from whom it was acquired, and whether or not it is now occupied, and if so, by whom; and it shall give an account of all known liens, interests, equities, and claims, adverse or otherwise, vested or contingent, upon such land. Full names and addresses, if known, of all persons who may be interested by marriage or otherwise, including ad-joining owners and occupants, shall be given. If any person shall be unable to state the metes and bounds, the clerk may order a preliminary survey. (1913, c. 90, s. 5; C. S. 2984.)

See note under § 43-50.

Attaching Proceedings under Torrens Act Because Clerk Did Not Sign Jurat.—Where the petitioner, to have his title to land registered under the provisions of the Torrens Act has signed an oath reciting that he has been duly sworn, he may not contend that the oath lacked validity under the requirement of this section upon the ground that the clerk of the court had not signed the jurat, and that in consequence the proceedings which followed were absolutely void, and thereafter, upon his own motion have them set aside. Morgan v. Beaufort, etc., R. Co., 197 N. C. 559, 152 S. E. 235. 1937 N. C. 142 S. E. 317.

§ 43-9. Summons issued and served; disclaimer.—The clerk of the court shall issue a summons directed to the sheriff of every county in which persons named as interested may reside, such persons being made defendants, and the summons shall be returnable as in other cases of special proceedings, except that the return shall be at least thirty days from the date of the summons. The summons shall all be served at least ten days before the return thereof and the return recorded in the same manner as in other special proceedings, and all parties under disabilities shall be represented by guardian, either general or ad litem. If the persons named as interested are not residents of the state of North Carolina, and their residence is known, which must appear by affidavit, the summons must be served on such nonresidents as is now prescribed by law for service of summons on nonresidents.

Any party defendant to such proceeding may file a disclaimer of any claim or interest in the land described in the petition, which shall be deemed an admission of the allegations of the petition, and the decree shall bar such party and all persons thereafter claiming under him, and such party shall not be liable for any costs or expenses of the proceeding except such as may have been incurred by reason of his delay in pleading. (1913, c. 90, s. 5; C. S. 2385.)

§ 43-10. Notice of petition published.—In addition to the summons issued, prescribed in the foregoing section, the clerk of the court shall, at the time of issuing such summons, publish a notice of the filing thereof containing the names of the petitioners, the names of all persons named in the petition, together with a short but accurate description of the land and the relief demanded, in some secular newspaper published in the county wherein the land is situate, and having general circulation in the county; and if there be no such paper, then in a newspaper in the county nearest thereto and having general circulation in the county wherein the land lies, once a week for eight issues of such paper. The notice shall set forth the title of the cause and in legible or conspicuous type the words "To whom it may concern," and shall give notice to all persons of the relief demanded and the return day of the summons: Provided, that no final order or judgment shall be entered in the cause until there is proof and adjudication of publication as in other cases of publication of notice of summons. The provisions of this section, in respect to the issuing and service of summons and the publication of the notice, shall be mandatory and essential to the jurisdiction of the court to proceed in the cause: Provided, that the recital of the service of summons and publication in the decree or in the final judgment in the cause, and in the certificate issued to the petitioner as hereinafter provided, shall be conclusive evidence thereof. The clerk of the court shall also record a copy of said notice in the list pendens docket of his office and cross-index same as other notices of lis pendens and shall also certify a copy thereof to the Superior Court of each county in which any part of said land lies, and the clerk thereof shall record and cross index same in the list pendens records of his office as other notices of lis pendens are recorded and cross-indexed. (1913, c. 90, s. 7; 1915, c. 128, s. 1; 1919, c. 82, s. 2; 1925, c. 257; C. S. 2386.)

See note under § 43-50.

Editor's Note.—The last sentence of the section was added by the Public Laws of 1925, ch. 257.

Sufficiency of Publication.—Where the summons in proceedings to register lands has been issued and served under the provisions of section 43-9, it is not requisite to the validity of the proceedings that the publication of notice of filing should have been made on exactly the day the summons was issued, if the publication has been made in the manner prescribed by this section. Cape Lookout Co. v. Gold, 167 N. C. 63, 83 S. E. 3.

Waiver of Objection to Publication.—In proceedings to register a title, where a party claiming an interest in the lands waives his rights to object on the grounds of the irregularity in the publication of notice by appearing and answering the petition, Cape Lookout Co. v. Gold, 167 N. C. 63, 83 S. E. 3.

§ 43-11. Hearing and decree.—1. Referred to Examiner.—Upon the return day of the summons the petition shall be set down for hearing upon the pleadings and exhibits filed. If any party claiming an interest in the land described in the petition, or any lien thereon, shall file an answer, the petition and answer, together with all exhibits filed, shall be referred to the examiner of titles, who shall proceed, after notice to the petitioner and the persons who have filed answer or answered, to hear the cause upon such parol or documentary evidence as may be offered or called for—take testimony, and in addition thereto make such independent examination of the title as may be necessary. Upon his request the clerk shall issue a commission under the seal of the court for taking such testimony as shall be beyond the jurisdiction of such examiner.

2. Examiner's Report.—The examiner shall, within thirty days after such hearing, unless for good cause the time shall be extended, file with the clerk a report of his conclusions of law and fact, setting forth the state of such title, any liens or encumbrances thereon, by whom held, amount due thereon, together with an abstract of title to the lands and any other information in regard thereto affecting its validity.

3. Exceptions to Report.—Any of the parties to the proceeding may, within twenty days after such report is filed, file exceptions, either to the conclusions of law or fact. Whereupon the clerk shall transmit the record to the judge of the superior court for his determination thereof; such judge may on his own motion certify any issue of fact arising upon any such exceptions to the superior court of the county in which the proceeding is pending, for a trial of such issue by jury, and he shall so certify such issue of fact for trial by jury upon the demand of any party to the proceeding. If, upon consideration of such record, or the record and verdict of issues to be certified and tried by jury, the title be found in the petitioner, the judge shall enter a decree to that effect, ascertaining all limitations, liens, etc., declaring the land entitled to registration accordingly, and the same, together with the record, shall be docketed by the clerk of the court as in other cases, and a copy of the decree certified to the register of deeds of the county for registration as hereinafter provided. Any of the parties may appeal from such judgment to the supreme court, as in other special proceedings.

4. No Judgment by Default.—No judgment in any proceeding under this chapter shall be given by default, but the court must require an examination of the title in every instance except as respects the rights of parties who, by proper pleadings, admit the petitioner’s claim. If, upon the return day of the summons and the day upon which the petition is set down for hearing, no answer be filed, the clerk shall refer the return day of the summons and the day upon which the petition is set down for hearing, no answer be filed, the clerk shall refer the

§ 43-12. Effect of decree; approval of judge.—Every decree rendered as hereinbefore provided shall bind the land and bar all persons and corporations claiming title thereto or interest therein; quiet the title thereto, and shall be forever binding and conclusive upon and against all persons and corporations, whether mentioned by name in the order of publication, or included under the general description, “to whom it may concern”; and every such decree so rendered, or a duly certified copy thereof, as also the certificate of title issued thereon to the person or corporation therein named as owner, or to any subsequent transferee or purchaser, shall be conclusive evidence that such person or corporation is the owner of the land therein described, and no other evidence shall be required in any court of this state of his or its right or title thereto. It shall not be an exception to such conclusiveness that the person is an infant, lunatic or is under any disability, but such person may have recourse upon the indemnity fund hereinafter provided for, for any loss he may suffer by reason of being so concluded. Such decrees shall not be binding on and include the State of North Carolina or the State Board of Education unless notice of such proceeding and copy of petition, etc., as provided in this chapter, are served on the Governor and on the State Board of Education personally and generally. Such decree shall, in addition to being signed by the clerk of the court, be approved by the judge of the superior court, who shall review the whole proceeding and have power to require any reformation of the process, pleading, decrees or entries. (1913, c. 90, s. 9; 1919, c. 82, s. 3; 1925, c. 263; C. S. 2388.)

§ 43-13. Manner of registration.—The county commissioners of each county shall provide for the register of deeds in the county a book, to be called Registration of Titles, in which the register shall enroll, register and index, as hereinbefore mentioned, all the decrees so rendered, and the copy of the petition and all subsequent transfers of title, and note all voluntary and involuntary transactions in any wise affecting the title to the land, authorized to be entered thereon. If the title be subject to trust, condition, encumbrance or the like, the words “in trust,” “upon condition,” “subject to encumbrance,” or like appropriate insertion shall indicate the fact and fix any person dealing with such certificate with notice of the particulars of such limitations upon the title as appears upon the registry. No erasure, alteration, or amendment shall be made upon the registry after entry and issuance of a certificate of title except by order of a court of competent jurisdiction. (1913, c. 90, s. 10; 1919, c. 236, s. 1; C. S. 2389.)

§ 43-14. Cross-indexing of lands by registers of deeds. — Where any land is brought into the Torrens’ System and under said system is registered in the public records of the registrar’s office, said register shall cross-index the registration in the general cross-index for deeds in his office. (1931, c. 286, s. 2.)

§ 43-15. Certificate issued. — Upon the registration of such decree the register of deeds shall issue an owner's certificate of title, under the seal of his office, which shall be delivered to the owner or his agent duly authorized, and shall be substantially as follows:

State of North Carolina—County of .

The certificate of

... hereby certify that the title is registered in the name of , the to and situate in said county and state, described as follows: (Here describe land as in decree.)

Estate ........ (here name the estate and any limitation or encumbrance thereon, as fee simple, upon condition, in trust, subject to incumbrance, and the like).

Under decree of the land court of ......... county, entitled ............

Registered No. ......., Book No. ......., page .......

Witness my hand and seal, at office at ......... this ....... day of ........., A. D. 19....

(Seal) ............ Register of Deeds. (1913, c. 90, s. 10; C. S. 2390.)

§ 43-16. Certificates numbered; entries thereon.—All certificates of title to land in the county shall be numbered consecutively, which number shall be retained as long as the boundaries of the land remain unchanged, and a separate page or more, with appropriate space for subsequent entries, shall be devoted to each title in the registration of titles book for the county. Every entry made upon any certificate of title in such book or upon the owner's certificate, under any of the provisions of this chapter, shall be signed by the register of deeds and minutely dated in conformity with the dates shown by the entry book. (1913, c. 90, s. 11; C. S. 2391.)

§ 43-17. New certificate issued, if original lost. —Whenever an owner's certificate of title is lost or destroyed, the owner or his personal representative may petition the court for the issuance of a new certificate. Notice of such petition shall be published once a week for four successive weeks, under the direction of the publisher with the clerk of the court, showing a general circulation in the county in which the land is situated, a notice signed by the clerk of the superior court, setting forth in substance the nature of the petition, a description of the land affected thereby, and the relief therein prayed for, and notifying all persons having or claiming any interest or estate in the land to appear at a time therein specified, which shall be at least thirty days after the first publication of said notice, to show cause, if any exists, why the relief prayed for in the petition should not be granted. An affidavit shall be filed by the publisher with the clerk of the court, showing a full compliance of this requirement. Upon a filing of said petition, the petitioner shall serve upon all persons, firms or corporations known to have any interest or estate in the lands referred to in the petition, and the personal representative, the devisees, if any, and all heirs at law of the deceased registered owner of the said land. In the event any of the persons upon whom service of summons is to be made are nonresidents of the state of North Carolina, service may be made by publication in the manner prescribed by law for the service of summons in special proceedings. (1943, c. 466, s. 1.)

§ 43-17.2. Publication of notice; service of process. — Upon the filing of such duly verified petition, the petitioner shall cause to be published once a week for four weeks, in some newspaper having a general circulation in the county in which the land is situated, a notice signed by the clerk of the superior court, setting forth in substance the nature of the petition, a description of the land affected thereby, and the relief therein prayed for, and notifying all persons having or claiming any interest or estate in the land to appear at a time therein specified, which shall be at least thirty days after the first publication of said notice, to show cause, if any exists, why the relief prayed for in the petition should not be granted. An affidavit shall be filed by the publisher with the clerk of the court, showing a full compliance of this requirement. Upon a filing of said petition, the petitioner shall serve upon all persons, firms or corporations known to have any interest or estate in the lands referred to in the petition, and the personal representative, the devisees, if any, and all heirs at law of the deceased registered owner of the said land. In the event any of the persons upon whom service of summons is to be made are nonresidents of the state of North Carolina, service may be made by publication in the manner prescribed by law for the service of summons in special proceedings. (1943, c. 466, s. 1.)

§ 43-17.3. Answer by person claiming interest. — Any person asserting a claim or any interest in such registered land may, at any time prior to December 31 of the year in which the proceeding is completed for in section 43-17.4, file such answer or other pleadings as may be proper, asserting his rights or claims to the property referred to in the petition. (1943, c. 466, s. 1.)

mine all matters presented upon the petition and such pleadings as may be filed in this proceeding, and shall make such orders and decrees therein as may be found to be proper from the facts as ascertained and determined by the court. The court is authorized and empowered to order and direct that the outstanding registered certificate of title to the land shall be surrendered and cancelled in the office of the register of deeds, and that a new certificate of title shall be issued, showing therein the owner or owners of the land described in the original certificate and the nature and character of such ownership: Provided, the clerk of the superior court shall not authorize the issuance of the new certificate of title until the fees provided in § 43-49 have been paid. Upon the surrender and cancellation by the register of deeds of the outstanding certificate of title, the new certificate of title shall be registered and cross-indexed in the same manner provided for the registration of the original certificate, and the register of deeds shall issue a new certificate of title in the same manner and form as provided for the original certificate. The said new certificate shall have the same force and effect as the original certificate of title and shall be subject to the same provisions of law with reference thereto. (1943, c. 466, s. 1.)

§ 43-17.5. Issuance of new certificate validated. Whenever heretofore any registered certificate of title has been surrendered by the heirs or devisees of any deceased registered owner of any registered title and the registered certificate of title of such deceased owner has been surrendered and cancelled and a new certificate of title issued to a purchaser or to such heirs or devisees, the same is hereby validated and confirmed and made effectual to the same extent as though such new certificate had been issued in compliance with the provisions of this chapter. (1943, c. 466, s. 1.)

§ 43-18. Registered owner’s estate free from adverse claims; exceptions.—Every registered owner of any estate or interest in land bought under this chapter shall, except in cases of fraud to which he is a party or in which he is a privy, without valuable consideration paid in good faith, and except when any registration has been procured through forgery, hold the land free from any and all adverse claims, rights or encumbrances not noted on the certificate of title, except (1) liens, claims or rights arising or existing under the laws or constitution of the United States which the statutes of this state cannot require to appear of record under registry laws; (2) taxes and assessments thereon due the state or any county, city or town therein, but not delinquent; (3) any lease for a term not exceeding three years, under which the land is actually occupied. (1913, c. 90, s. 25; C. S. 2393.)

§ 43-19. Adverse claims existing at initial registry; affidavit; limitation of action.—Any person making any claim to or asserting any lien or charge upon registered land, existing at the initial registry of the same and not shown upon the register or adverse to the title of the registered owner, and for which no other provision is herein made for asserting the same in the registry of titles, may make an affidavit thereof setting forth his interest, right, title, lien or demand, and how and under whom derived, and the character and nature thereof. The affidavit shall state his place of residence and designate a place at which all notices relating thereto may be served. Upon the filing of such affidavit in the office of the clerk of the superior court, the clerk shall order a note thereof as in the case of charges or encumbrances, and the same shall be entered by the register of deeds. Action shall be brought upon such claim within six months after the entry of such note, unless for cause shown the clerk shall extend the time. Upon failure to commence such action within the time prescribed therefor, the clerk shall order a cancellation of such note. If any person shall wantonly or maliciously or without reasonable cause procure such notation to be entered upon the registry of titles, having the effect of a cloud upon the registered owner’s title, he shall be liable for all damages the owner may suffer thereby. (1913, c. 90, s. 25; C. S. 2394.)

§ 43-20. Decree and registration run with the land.—The obtaining of a decree of registration and the entry of a certificate of title shall be construed as an agreement running with the land, and the same shall ever remain registered land, subject to the provisions of this chapter and all amendments thereof. (1913, c. 90, s. 26; C. S. 2395.)

§ 43-21. No right by adverse possession.—No title to nor right or interest in registered land in derogation of that of the registered owner shall be acquired by prescription or adverse possession. (1913, c. 90, s. 27; C. S. 2396.)

§ 43-22. Jurisdiction of courts; registered land affected only by registration.—Except as otherwise specially provided by this chapter, registered land and ownership therein shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the courts in the same manner as if it had not been registered; but the registration shall be the only operative act to transfer or affect the title to registered land, and shall date from the time the writing, instrument or record to be registered is duly filed in the office of the register of deeds, subject to the provisions of this chapter; no voluntary or involuntary transaction shall affect the title to registered lands until registered in accordance with the provisions of this chapter: Provided, that all mortgages, deeds, surrendered and canceled certificates, when new certificates are issued for the land so deeded, the other paper-writings, if any, pertaining to and affecting the registered estate or estates herein referred to, shall be filed by the register of deeds for reference and information, but the registration of titles book shall be and constitute sole and conclusive legal evidence of title, except in cases of mistake and fraud, which shall be corrected in the manner and provided for the correction of papers authorized to be registered. (1913, c. 90, s. 38; C. S. 2397.)

No Distinction between Original Parties and Purchasers. —The statute draws no distinction between the original parties to deeds or contracts affecting title of lands registered under its provisions and creditors or purchasers, and in respect to such registration these stand upon the same footing. Dillon v. Brooker, 178 N. C. 65, 100 S. E. 191. [221]
§ 43-23. Priority of right.—In case of conflicting claims between the registered owners the right, title or estate derived from or held under the older certificate of title shall prevail. (1913, c. 90, s. 29; C. S. 2398.)

§ 43-24. Compliance with this chapter due registration. — When the provisions of this chapter have been complied with, all conveyances, deeds, contracts to convey or leases shall be considered duly registered, as against creditors and purchasers, in the same manner and as fully as if the same had been registered in the manner herefore provided by law for the registration of conveyances. (1913, c. 90, s. 32; C. S. 2399.)

§ 43-25. Release from registration. — Whenever the record owner of any estate in lands, the title to which has been registered or attempted to be registered in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, desires to have such estate released from the provisions of said chapter in so far as said chapter relates to the form of conveyance, so that such estate may ever thereafter be conveyed, either absolutely or upon condition or trust, by the use of any desired form of conveyance, other than the certificate of title as prescribed by said chapter, such owner may present his owner's certificate of title to such registered estate to the register of deeds of the county wherein such land lies, with a memorandum or statement written by him on the margin thereof in the words following, or words of similar import, to wit: “(I or we) .................., being the owner (or owners) of the registered estate evidenced by this certificate of title, do hereby release said estate from the provisions of chapter forty-three of the General Statutes of North Carolina in so far as said chapter relates to the form of conveyance, so that hereafter the said estate may, and shall be forever until again hereafter registered in accordance with the provisions of said chapter and acts amendatory thereof, conveyed, either absolutely or upon condition or trust, by any form of conveyance other than the certificate of title prescribed by said chapter, and in the same manner as if said estate had never been registered.” Which said memorandum or statement shall further state that it is made pursuant to the provisions of this section, and shall be signed by such record owner and attested by the register of deeds under his hand and official seal, and a like memorandum or statement so entered, signed and attested upon the margin of the record of the said owner's certificate of title in the registration of titles book in said register's office, with the further notation made and signed by the register of deeds on the margin of the certificate of title in the registration of titles book showing that such entry has been made upon the owner's certificate of title; and thereafter any conveyance of such registered estate, or any part thereof, by such owner, his heirs or assigns, by means of any desired form of conveyance other than such certificate of title shall be as valid and effectual to pass such estate of the owner according to the tenor and purport of such conveyance in the same manner and to the same extent as if such estate had never been so registered. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 40.)

Art. 5. Adverse Claims and Corrections after Registration. § 43-26. Limitations. — No decree of registration heretofore issued, and no certificate of title heretofore issued pursuant thereto, shall be adjudged invalid, revoked, or set aside, unless the action or proceeding in which the validity of such decree or of the certificate of title issued pursuant thereto is attacked or called in question be commenced or the defense alleging the invalidity thereof be interposed within twelve months from March 10, 1919.

No decree of registration hereafter entered and no certificate of title hereafter issued pursuant thereto shall be adjudged invalid or revoked or set aside, unless the action or proceeding in which the validity of such decree or of the certificate of title issued pursuant thereto is attacked or called in question be commenced or the defense alleging the invalidity thereof be interposed within twelve months from the date of such decree.

No action or proceeding for the recovery of any right, title, interest, or estate in registered land adverse to the title established and adjudicated by any decree of registration heretofore entered shall be maintained unless such action or proceeding be commenced within twelve months from the date last mentioned; and no action or proceeding for the recovery of any right, title, interest, estate in registered land, adverse to the right established by any decree of registration hereafter shall be maintained unless such action or proceeding be commenced within twelve months from the date of such decree.

No action or proceeding for the enforcement or foreclosure of any lien upon or charge against registered land which existed at the date when any decree of registration was heretofore entered, and which was not recognized or established by such decree, shall be maintained, unless such action or proceeding be commenced within twelve months from the date above mentioned; and no action or proceeding for the enforcement or foreclosure of any lien upon or charge against registered land in existence at the date of any decree of registration hereafter entered, and which is not recognized and established by such decree, shall be maintained, unless such action or proceeding be commenced within twelve months from the date of such decree. (1919, c. 236, s. 1; C. S. 2400.)

§ 43-27. Adverse claim subsequent to registry; affidavit of claim prerequisite to enforcement; limitation. — Any person claiming any right, title, or interest in registered land adverse to the registered owner thereof, arising subsequent to the date of the original decree of registration, may, if no other provision is made for registering the same, file with the register of deeds of the county in which such decree was rendered or certificate of title thereto was issued, a verified statement in writing, setting forth fully the right, title, or interest so claimed, how or from whom it was acquired, and a reference to the number, book, and page of the certificate of title of the registered owner, together with a description of the land by metes and bounds, the adverse claimant's place of residence and his post-office address, and, if a nonresident, he shall designate or appoint the said register of deeds to receive all notices directed to or to be served upon such adverse claimant in connection with the claim by him made, and such statement shall be noted and filed by said register of deeds as an adverse claim; but no action or proceeding to enforce such adverse claim shall be maintained unless the same be commenced within six months of the filing of the statement thereof. (1919, c. 236, s. 1; C. S. 2401.)

§ 43-28. Suit to enforce adverse claim; summons and notice necessary. — Upon the institution of any action or proceeding to enforce such adverse claim, notice thereof shall be served upon the register of deeds, who shall enter upon the registry a memorandum that suit has been brought or proceeding instituted to determine the validity of such adverse claim; and summons or notice shall be served upon the holder or claimant of the registered title or certificate or other person against whom such adverse claim is alleged, as provided by law for the institution of suits or proceedings in the courts of this state.

If no notice of the institution of an action or proceeding to enforce an adverse claim be served upon the register of deeds and upon the holder of the registered title or certificate, or other person, as aforesaid, within seven months from the date of filing the statement of adverse claim, the register of deeds shall cancel the adverse claim so filed and make a memorandum setting out that no notice of suit or proceeding to enforce the same had been served upon him within seven months as herein required, and that such adverse claim was therefore canceled; and thereafter no action or proceeding shall be begun or maintained to enforce such adverse claim in any of the courts of this state. (1919, c. 236, s. 1; C. S. 2402.)

§ 43-29. Judgment in suit to enforce adverse claim; register to file. — The court shall certify its judgment to the register of deeds; if such adverse claim be held valid, the register of deeds shall cancel such adverse claim upon the registry, noting thereon the adverse claimant of the registered title or certificate or other person against whom such adverse claim was therefore canceled; and thereafter no notice of suit or proceeding to enforce the same shall be done by order or judgment of the court, or he may file and record a certified copy of the judgment or order of the court thereon; if such adverse claim be held invalid the register of deeds shall cancel such adverse claim upon the registry, noting thereon that the same was done by order or judgment of the court, or he may file and record a certified copy of the judgment or order of the court thereon. (1919, c. 236, s. 1; C. S. 2403.)

§ 43-30. Correction of registered title; limitation of adverse claims. — Any registered owner or other claimant under the registered title may at any time apply to the court in which the original decree was entered, by petition, setting out that registered interests of any description, whether vested, contingent, expectant or inchoate, have terminated and ceased, or that new interests have arisen or been created which do not appear upon the certificate, or that any error or omission was made in entering or issuing the certificate or any duplicate thereof, or that the name of any person on the certificate has been changed, or that the registered owner had married or, if registered as married, that the marriage has been terminated, or that a corporation which owned registered lands has been dissolved, without conveying the same or transferring its certificate within three years after the dissolution, or any other reasonable and proper ground of correction or relief; and such court may hear and determine the petition after notice to all parties in interest, and may make such order or decree as may be appropriate and lawful in the premises; but nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize any such court to open any original decree of registration which was entered more than twelve months prior to the filing of such petition, and nothing shall be done or ordered by the court to divest or impair the title or other interest of a purchaser who holds a transfer or certificate of title for value and in good faith. No action or proceeding shall be commenced or maintained to set up or establish any right, claim, interest or estate adverse to the order or decree or certificate of title issued thereon made or entered upon any petition or other proceeding authorized by this section, unless the same shall be brought and instituted within six months from the date of such order or decree authorized by this section. (1919, c. 236, s. 1; C. S. 2404.)

Art. 6. Method of Transfer.

§ 43-31. When whole of land conveyed. — Whenever the whole of any registered estate is transferred or conveyed the same shall be done by a transfer or conveyance upon or attached to the certificate substantially as follows:

A B and wife (giving the names of the parties owning land described in the certificate and their wives) hereby, in consideration of ........ dollars, sell and convey to C D (giving name of purchaser) the lot or tract of land, as the case may be, described in the certificate of title hereto attached.

The same shall be signed and properly acknowledged by the parties and their wives and shall have the full force and effect of a deed in fee simple: Provided, that if the sale shall be in trust, upon condition, with power to sell or other unusual form of conveyance, the same shall be set out in the deed, and shall be entered upon the registration of titles book as hereinafter provided; that upon presentation of the transfer, together with the certificate of title, to the register of deeds, the transaction shall be duly noted and registered in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, and certificate of title so presented shall not be cancelled and a new certificate with the same number issued to the purchaser thereof, which new certificate shall fully refer by number and also by name of holder to former certificate just canceled. (1913, c. 90, s. 12; C. S. 2405.)

Necessity of Affidavit and Notation. — A contract to convey lands where the owner has registered it, under the Torrens Law, cannot be specifically enforced until the complainant has filed an affidavit and had notation made on the books as required by this section. Dillon v. Broeker, 178 N. C. 65, 140 S. E. 191.

§ 43-32. Conveyance of part of registered land. — The transfer of any part of a registered estate, either of an undivided interest therein or of a separate lot or parcel thereof, shall be made by an instrument of the transfer or conveyance similar in form to that herein provided for the § 43-33. Duty of register of deeds upon part conveyance. — Upon presentation to the register of deeds of an instrument of transfer or conveyance of an undivided interest in a registered estate, in proper form as above prescribed, it shall be his duty to cancel the certificate of title attached thereto and to issue to each owner a new certificate of title, each bearing the same number as the original certificate of title and accurately specifying and describing the extent and the amount of the interest retained or of the interest transferred, as the case may be. Upon presentation to the register of deeds of an instrument of transfer or conveyance of a separate lot or parcel of a registered estate, in proper form as above prescribed, it shall be his duty to cancel the certificate of the title attached thereto and to issue to each owner a new certificate of title, each bearing a new number and describing the separate lot or parcel retained or transferred, as the case may be, either by metes and bounds or by reference to a map or plat attached thereto. (1919, c. 82, s. 4; C. S. 2407.)

§ 43-34. Subdivision of registered estate.—Any owner of a registered estate who may desire to subdivide the same may make application in writing to the register of deeds for the issuance of a new certificate of title for each subdivision, to which application shall be attached a map having clearly indicated thereon the boundaries of the whole of the registered estate in question and of each lot or parcel for which he desires a new certificate of title. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the register of deeds, upon payment by such applicant of necessary surveyor's fees, if any are required, and of the amount herein provided for issuing the certificates of title and recording the map, to cancel the certificate of title attached to said application and to issue to each owner new certificates of title, each bearing a new number, for each lot or parcel shown upon the said map, describing such lot or parcel in such certificates either by metes and bounds or by reference to a map or plat attached thereto. (1919, c. 82, s. 4; C. S. 2408.)

§ 43-35. References and cross-references entered on register. — In all cases the register of deeds shall place upon the register of title books and upon the certificate of title of each registered estate therein, references and cross-references to the new certificates issued as above provided, in accordance with the provisions of this article, and the new certificates issued shall fully refer by number and by name to the holder to the canceled certificate in place of which they are issued. (1919, c. 82, s. 4; C. S. 2409.)

§ 43-36. When land conveyed as security. — 1. Whole land conveyed. Whenever the owner of any registered estate shall desire to convey same as security for debt, it may be done in the following manner, by a short form of transfer, substantially as follows, to wit: A B and wife (giving names of all owners or holders of certificates and their wives) hereby transfer to C. D. the tract or lot of land described as No. __________ in registration of titles book for __________ county, a certificate for the title for same being hereto attached, to secure a debt of __________ dollars, due to __________ of __________ county and state, on the __________ day of __________, __________, evidenced by bond (or otherwise as the case may be) dated the __________ day of __________, __________. In case of default in payment of said debt with accrued interest, __________ days notice of sale required.

The same shall be signed and properly acknowledged by the parties making same, and shall be presented, together with the owner's certificate, to the register of deeds, whose duty it shall be to note upon the owner's certificate and upon the certificate of title in the registration of titles book the name of the trustee, the amount of debt, and the date of maturity of same.

2. Part of land conveyed. When a part of the registered estate shall be so conveyed, the register of deeds shall note upon the book and owner's certificate the part so conveyed, and if the same be required and the proper fee paid by the trustee, shall issue what shall be known as a partial certificate, over his hand and seal, setting out the portion so conveyed.

3. Effect of transfer. All transfers by such short form shall convey the power of sale upon due advertisement at the county courthouse and in some newspaper published in the county, or adjoining county, in the same manner and as fully as is now provided by law in the case of mortgages and deeds of trust and default therein.

4. Other encumbrances noted. All registered encumbrances, rights or adverse claims affecting the estate represented thereby shall continue to be noted, not only upon the certificate of title in the registration book, but also upon the owner's certificate, until same shall have been released or discharged. And in the event of second or other subsequent voluntary encumbrances the holder of the certificate may be required to produce such certificate for the entry thereon or attachment thereto of the note of such subsequent charge or encumbrance as provided in this article.

5. Other forms of conveyance may be used. Nothing in this section nor this chapter shall be construed to prevent the owner from conveying such land, or any part of the same, as security for a debt by deed of trust or mortgage in any form which may be agreed upon between the parties thereto, and having such deed of trust or mortgage recorded in the office of the register of deeds as other deeds of trust and mortgages are recorded: Provided, that the book and page of the record at which such deed of trust or mortgage is recorded shall be entered by the register of deeds upon the owner's certificate and also on the registration of titles book.

6. Sale under lien; new certification. Upon foreclosure of such deed of trust or mortgage, or sale under execution for taxes or other lien or charge, the fact of such foreclosure or sale shall be reported by the trustee, mortgagee or other person authorized to make the same, to the register of deeds of the county in which the land lies, and, upon satisfactory evidence thereof, it shall be his duty to call in and cancel the outstanding certificate of title for the land so sold, and to issue a new certificate in its place to the purchaser or other person entitled thereto; and the production of such outstanding certificate and its surrender by the holder thereof may be compelled, upon notice to him, by motion before and order of the clerk of the superior court in the original proceeding or the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land lies; but the right of appeal from such order may be exercised and shall be allowed as in other special proceedings, and pending any such appeal the rights of all parties shall be preserved. (1913, c. 90, s. 14; 1915, c. 245; 1919, c. 82, s. 5; C. S. 2410.)

§ 43-37. Owner's certificate presented with transfer. — In voluntary transactions the owner's certificate of title must be presented along with the writing or instrument conveying or effecting the sale, and thereupon and not otherwise the register shall be authorized to register the conveyance or other transaction upon proof of payment of all delinquent taxes or liens, if any, or if such payment be not shown the entry and new certificate shall note such taxes or liens as having priority thereto. (1913, c. 90, s. 15; C. S. 2411.)

§ 43-38. Transfers probated; partitions; contracts. — All transfers of registered land shall be duly executed and probated as required by law upon like conveyances of other lands, and in all cases of change in boundary by partition, subdivision or addition of land there shall be an accurate survey and permanent marking of boundaries and accurate plots, showing the courses, distances and markings of every portion thereof, which shall be duly proved and registered as upon the initial registration. Such transfers shall be presented to the register of deeds for entry upon the registration of titles book and upon the owner's certificate within thirty days from the date thereof, or become subject to any rights which may accrue to any other person by a prior registration. All leases or contracts affecting land for a period exceeding three years shall be in writing, duly proved before the clerk of the superior court, recorded in the register's office, and noted upon the registry and upon the owner's certificate. (1913, c. 90, ss. 15, 32; C. S. 2412.)

§ 43-39. Certified copy of court noted. — In voluntary transactions a certificate from the proper state, county or court officer, or certified copy of the order, decree or judgment of any court of competent jurisdiction shall be authority for him to order a proper notation thereof upon the registration of titles book, and for the register of deeds to note the transaction under the direction of the court. (1913, c. 90, s. 16; C. S. 2413.)

§ 43-40. Production of owner's certificate required. — Whenever owner's certificate is not presented to the register along with any writing, instrument or record filed for registration under this chapter, he shall forthwith send notice by registered mail to the owner of such certificate, requesting him to produce the same in order that a memorial of the transaction may be made thereon; and such production may be required by subpoena duces tecum or by other process of the court, if necessary. (1913, c. 90, s. 17; C. S. 2414.)

§ 43-41. Registration notice to all persons. — Every voluntary or involuntary transaction, which if recorded, filed or entered in any clerk's office would affect unregistered land, shall, if duly registered in the office of the proper register as the case may be, and not otherwise, be notice to all persons from the time of such registration, and operate, in accordance with law and the provisions of this chapter, upon voluntary registered land in the county of such registration. (1913, c. 90, s. 18; C. S. 2415.)

§ 43-42. Conveyance of registered land in trust. — Whenever a writing, instrument or record is filed for the purpose of transferring registered land in trust, or upon any equitable condition or limitation expressed therein, or for the purpose of creating or declaring a trust or other equitable interest in such land, the particulars of the trust, condition, limitation or other equitable interest shall not be entered on the certificate, but it shall be sufficient to enter in the book and upon the certificates a memorial thereof by the terms "in trust" or "upon condition" or in other apt words, and to refer by number to the writing, instrument or record authorizing or creating the same. And if express power is given to sell, encumber or deal with the land in any manner, such power shall be noted upon the certificates by the term "with power to sell" or "with power to encumber," or by other apt words. (1913, c. 90, s. 19; C. S. 2416.)

§ 43-43. Authorized transfer of equitable interests registered. — No writing or instrument for the purpose of transferring, encumbering or otherwise dealing with equitable interests in registered land shall be registered unless the power thereto enabling has been expressly conferred by or has been reserved in the writing or instrument creating such equitable instrument, or has been declared to exist by the decree of some court of competent jurisdiction, which decree must also be registered. (1913, c. 90, s. 20; C. S. 2417.)

§ 43-44. Validating conveyance by entry on margin of certificate. — In all cases where the owner of any estate in lands, the title to which has been registered or attempted to be registered in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, has before August 21, 1904, and subsequent to such registration made any conveyance of such estate, or any portion thereof, by any form of conveyance sufficient in law to pass the title thereto if the title to said lands had not been so registered, the record owner and holder of the certificate of title covering such registered estate may enter upon the margin of his certificate of title in the registration of titles book a memorandum showing that such registered estate, or a portion thereof, has been so conveyed, and further showing the name of the grantee or grantees and the number of the book and the page thereof where such conveyance is recorded in the office of the register of deeds, and make a like entry upon the owner's certificate of title held by him, both of such entries to be signed by him and witnessed by the register of deeds and attested by the seal of the office of the register of deeds upon said owner's certificate, with the further notation made and signed by the register of deeds on the margin of the certificate of title in the registration of titles book showing that such entry has been made upon the owner's certificate of title, and thereupon such conveyance shall become and be as valid and effectual to pass such estate of the owner according to the tenor and purport of such conveyance as if the title to said lands had never been so registered, whether such conveyance be in form absolute or upon condition of trust; and in all cases where such conveyance has been made before August 21, 1924, upon the making of the entries herein authorized by the record owner and holder of such owner's certificate of title, the grantee and his heirs and assigns shall thereafter have the same right to convey the said estate or any part of the same in all respects as if the title to said lands had never been so registered. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 41.)

Editor's Note.—The effect of this section is summarized in 3 N. C. Law Rev. 19.

Art. 7. Liens upon Registered Lands.

§ 43-45. Docketed judgments.—Whenever any judgment of the superior court of the county in which the registered estate is situated shall be duly docketed in the office of the clerk of the superior court, it shall be the duty of the clerk to certify the same to the register of deeds. The register of deeds shall thereupon enter the certificate of title, the date, and the amount of the judgment, and the same shall be a lien upon unregistered lands of the judgment debtor. (1913, c. 90, s. 22; C. S. 2418.)

Cited in In re Wallace, 212 N. C. 490, 193 S. E. 819.

§ 43-46. Notice of delinquent taxes filed. — It shall be the duty of the sheriff or other collector of taxes or assessments of each county and town, not later than the first day of March in each year, to file an exact memorandum of the delinquency, if any, of any registered land for the non-payment of the taxes or assessments thereon, including the penalty thereon, in the office of the register of deeds for registration, and if such officer fails to perform such duty, and there shall be subsequent to such day a transfer of the land as hereinbefore provided, the grantee shall acquire a good title free from any lien for such taxes and assessments, and such sheriff or other collector of taxes and his sureties shall be liable for the payment of the taxes and assessments with the penalty and interest thereon. (1913, c. 90, s. 21; C. S. 2419.)

§ 43-47. Sale of land for taxes; redemption.—Whenever any sale of registered land is made for delinquent taxes or levies, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other officer making such sale to file forthwith a memorandum thereof for registration in the office of the register of deeds; and thereupon the registered owner shall be required to produce his certificate for cancellation, and a new owner's certificate shall be issued in favor of the purchaser, and the land shall be transferred on the land books to the name of such purchaser, unless such delinquent charges and all penalties and interest thereon be paid in full before the expiration of ninety days from the date of such sale; and the certificate of title shall be entered upon the certificate of title and also upon any such new owner's certificate, reserving the privilege of redemption in accordance with the law. In case of any redemption under this section of land sold for taxes, a note of the fact shall be duly registered, and if an owner's certificate has been issued to any purchaser, the same shall be canceled and a new one shall be issued to the person who has redeemed. (1913, c. 90, ss. 22, 23; C. S. 2420.)

§ 43-48. Sale of unredeemed land; application of proceeds. — If there be no redemption of land under the preceding section, in accordance with the law, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other collector of taxes in the county or town in which the land lies to sell the same at public auction for cash, first giving such notice of the time and place of sale as is prescribed for execution sales, and the proceeds of sale shall be applied, first, to the payment of all taxes and assessments then due to the state, county and town, with interest, penalty and costs; second, to the payment of all sums paid by any person who purchased at the former tax sale, with interest and the additional sum of five dollars; third, to the payment of a commission to the officer making the sale of five per centum on the first three hundred dollars and two per centum on the residue of the proceeds; fourth, to the satisfaction of any liens other than the taxes and assessments registered against the land in the order of their priorities; fifth, and the surplus, if any, to the person in whose name the land was previous to sale for taxes, subject to redemption as provided herein, his heirs, personal representatives or assigns. A note of the sale under this section shall be duly registered, and a certificate shall be entered and an owner's certificate issued in favor of the purchaser in whom title shall be thereby vested as registered owner, in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. Nothing in this section shall be so construed as to affect or divert the title of a tenant in reversion or remainder to any real estate which has been returned delinquent and sold on account of the default of the tenant for life in paying the taxes or assessments thereon. (1913, c. 90, s. 23; C. S. 2421.)

§ 43-49. Assurance fund provided; investment. —Upon the original registration of land and also upon the entry of certificate showing the title as registered owners in heirs or devisees, there shall be paid to the clerk of the court one-tenth of one per cent of the assessed value of the land for taxes, as an assurance fund, which shall be paid over to the state treasurer, who shall be liable therefor upon his official bond as for other monies received by him in his official capacity. He shall keep all the principal and interest of such fund invested, except as required for the payment of indemnities, in bonds and securities of the United States, of this state, or of counties and other municipalities within the state. Such investment shall be made upon the advice and concurrence of the governor and council of state, and he shall make report of such funds and the investment thereof to the general assembly biennially. (1913, c. 90, s. 33; C. S. 2423.)

Cross Reference.—As to investment by state treasurer in bonds issued or guaranteed by the United States, see § 53-44.

§ 43-50. Action for indemnity.—Any person who, without negligence on his part, sustains loss or damage or is deprived of land, or of any estate or interest therein, through fraud or negligence or in consequence of any omission, mistake, misfeasance, or misdescription in any certificate of title or in any entry or memorandum in the registration book, and who, by the provisions of this chapter, is barred or in any way precluded from bringing an action for the recovery of such land or interest or estate therein or claim upon same, may bring an action in the superior court of the county in which the land is situate for the recovery of compensation for such loss or damage from the assurance fund. Such action shall be against the state treasurer and all other persons who may be liable for the fraud, negligence, omission, mistake or misfeasance; but if such claimant has the right of action against another for the recovery of such property, or of the estate or interest therein, or of the claim upon same, he shall exhaust such remedy before resorting to the assurance fund. (1913, c. 90, s. 34; C. S. 2423.)

Negligence of Plaintiff Barring Recovery.—A Torrens proceeding under this chapter duly commenced prior to the enactment of Public Laws 1919, c. 31 (§ 1-117 and § 1-118), constituted a “lis pendens.” So such proceedings while pending was notice to a mortgagee of the land without the necessity of the filing of a formal lis pendens, and where the mortgagee failed to protect himself under the provisions and operation of this chapter before the hearing of said motion, the said Clerk of the Superior Court shall issue a citation to all names of all persons owning an interest in said land, or of the estate or interest therein, or of the claim upon same, he shall exhaust such remedy before resorting to the assurance fund. (1913, c. 90, s. 35; C. S. 2423.)

§ 43-51. Satisfaction by third person or by treasurer.—If there are defendants other than the state treasurer, and judgment is rendered in favor of the plaintiff and against the treasurer and some or all of the other defendants, execution shall first be issued against the other defendants, and if such execution is returned unsatisfied in whole or in part, and the officer returning the same shall certify that it cannot be collected from the property and effects of the other defendants, or if the judgment be against the treasurer only, the clerk of the court shall cause notice to be given to the execution to the state auditor, who shall issue his warrant therefor upon the state treasurer, and the same shall be paid. In all such cases the treasurer may employ counsel who shall receive reasonable compensation for his services from the assurance fund. (1913, c. 90, s. 35; C. S. 2423.)

§ 43-52. Payment by treasurer, if assurance fund insufficient.—If the assurance fund shall be insufficient at any time to meet the amount called for by any such certificate, the treasurer shall pay the same from any funds in the treasury not otherwise appropriated; and in such case any amount thereafter received by the treasurer on account of the assurance fund shall be transferred to the general funds of the treasury until the amount advanced shall have been paid. (1913, c. 90, s. 36; C. S. 2423.)

§ 43-53. Treasurer subrogated to right of claimant.—In every case of payment by the treasurer from the assurance funds under the provisions of this chapter the treasurer shall be subrogated to all the rights of the plaintiff against all and every other person or property or securities to a trustee, or by the improper exercise of any power of sale in benefit of the assurance fund. (1913, c. 90, s. 37; C. S. 2423.)

§ 43-54. Assurance fund not liable for breach of trust; limit of recovery. —The assurance fund shall not be liable to pay any loss, damage or deprivation occasioned by a breach of trust, whether expressed, constructive or implied, by any registered owner who is a trustee, or by the improper exercise of any power of sale in a mortgage or deed of trust. Nor shall any plaintiff recover as compensation under the provisions of this chapter more than the fair market value of the land at the time when he suffered the loss, damage or deprivation thereof. (1913, c. 90, s. 38; C. S. 2423.)

§ 43-55. Statute of limitation as to assurance fund.—Action for compensation from the assurance fund shall be begun within three years from the time the cause of action accrued. In cases of infancy or other disability now recognized by law, persons under such disability shall have one year after the removal of such disability within which to begin the action. (1913, c. 90, s. 39; C. S. 2428.)

§ 43-56. Proceedings.—Any land brought under the provisions and operation of this chapter before April 16, 1931, may be removed and excluded therefrom by a motion in writing filed in the original cause wherein said land was brought under the provisions and operation of said chapter, and upon the filing of a petition therein showing the names of all persons owning an interest in said land and of all lien holders, mortgagees and trustees of record, and the description of said land. Upon the filing of said petition the Clerk of the Superior Court shall issue a citation to all parties interested and named in the petition, and upon the return date of said citation and upon the hearing of said motion, the said Clerk of the Superior Court may enter a decree in said cause removing and excluding said land from the provisions and operation of this chapter, and transfer and conveyance of said land may be made therefor as other common law conveyances. (1931, c. 286, s. 1.)

Editor’s Note.—No procedure is provided for in case the petition should be contested. And while the legislature rather loosely provides that the clerk, upon rendering his decree excluding the land, also may decree that subsequent transfers of said land may be made "as other common law conveyances," it obviously means that such transfers should be effected by deeds duly probated and registered under our present laws. The amendment makes no specific provision for the recordation of the Clerk's decree as notice that the particular tract of land is no longer registered under the Torrens Act.

The Torrens system of land registration, though highly desirable from many points of view, has never been extensively used in North Carolina. Since 1913, when the Act was passed, scarcely five hundred titles have been registered under it. The present amendment now makes possible the 'unregistering' of these titles. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 392.

§ 43-57. Existing liens unaffected.—Nothing in § 43-56 shall be construed to impair or remove any lien or encumbrance existing against said land.

§ 44-1. On buildings and property, real and personal.—Every building built, rebuilt, repaired or improved, together with the necessary lots on which such building is situated, and every lot, farm or vessel, or any kind of property, real or personal, not herein enumerated, shall be subject to the lien to the party to the contract, was followed by the enactment of the price and value of work performed and materials furnished in the construction of any building or structure. The lien 'for the payment of all debts contracted for labor performed. 'The mechanic's lien is broader and includes the 'work done,' i.e., the 'building built' or superstructure placed on the premises, Broyhill v. Gaither, 142 Wis. 245, 142 N. E. 355.

contract for the furnace at the price itemized in the statement. King v. Elliott, 197 N. C. 93, 147 S. E. 701.

Priority of the Lien.—The lien for labor and materials furnished for the building under § 44-6, from asserting a lien under this section, to was entire. King v. Elliott, 197 N. C. 93, 147 S. E. 701.

Finding that Contract Entire.—Where it has been agreed by the parties that the trial judge finds the facts upon the trial of the question of the sufficiency of a lien filed for labor and materials furnished to the owner of a building under the provisions of the first delivery and work done under the contract, and is superior to a mortgage lien subsequently given and properly recorded. King v. Elliott, 197 N. C. 93, 147 S. E. 701.

Meaning of Term “Contracted.”—The lien is given for the amount due upon debts contracted. But in this connection it is extremely important that the larger meaning—agreed to be paid—thereby giving a highly remedial statute an operation commensurate with its purpose. Ball v. Daquin, 140 N. C. 83, 95, 52 S. E. 410.

The existence of a debt arising out of a contract, done by the owner of the property, is a necessary predicate to the existence of a lien for labor and materials. Brown v. Ward, 231 N. C. 344, 30 S. E. (2d) 334.

III. PERSONS ENTITLED TO LIEN.

Lien to "Laborers and Mechanics,” Exclusive. In Whittaker v. Smith, 81 N. C. 340, 341, it was held that this section gave a lien to “Laborers and Mechanics” exclusively, and that an "overseer” was not a laborer, and reference was made to "a piece of land, and it was held that it is the mechanic or laborer, within the meaning of the lien laws, is one who performs manual labor—regularly employed at any hard work, or one who does work that requires labor, skill, or the materials in a material manner. See Lester v. Houston, 101 N. C. 605, 8 S. E. 362, wherein it is held that the contractor or materialmen need not themselves furnish the labor or the materials.

In Whittaker v. Smith, 81 N. C. 340, it was held that an overseer is not a mechanic or laborer under the lien laws, and that the materials furnished or labor performed, for the price or value of his services. The case of Cook v. Ross, 117 N. C. 195, 23 S. E. 252, is also to the same effect. There was no work to be done and work was done by the owner of a mill in purchasing machinery and superintends the installation of the same and the repairing of the mill, so to put in proper condition for the manufacture of yarns, was it legislated expressly for or mechanics or laborers.

Whatever may be the law, as declared in other jurisdictions, it is held that the acts passed to carry it into effect, were intended to give protection to that class of persons who were totally dependent upon their manual toil for subsistence. The lien was designed exclusively for mechanics or laborers.

V. PROPERTY COVERED.

Any Real Property.—The phraseology of this section and the purpose of it are comprehensive. The lien prescribed attaches, in the case provided for, to any real property, whether it be denominated "a lot or farm," or a storehouse, warehouse, or factory, or buildings, and premises, where his work is done or labor performed, for the price or value of his services. The case of Cook v. Ross, 117 N. C. 195, 23 S. E. 252, is also to the same effect. There was no work to be done and work was done by the owner of a mill in purchasing machinery and superintends the installation of the same and the repairing of the mill, so to put in proper condition for the manufacture of yarns, was it legislated expressly for mechanics or laborers.

Hayes v. Hicks, 156 N. C. 239, 241, 72 S. E. 353.
Lien on Property is Dependent upon Possession.—While this section provides for a lien not only upon buildings and lots, but also upon "any kind of property, real or personal," other sections of the lien law provide the conditions upon which the lien is to come into existence and continue; and in case of personal property the lien is dependent upon possession and labor does not extend or apply to public buildings is not applicable to public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed.

The rights of laborers and materialmen to acquire liens against the property of the owner for work done upon it and for material furnished to the contractor in the erection of his building, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed.

VI. APPLICATION TO PUBLIC CONSTRUCTIONS.

Not Applicable to Public Buildings, etc.—The lien laws were not intended to be so construed as to embarrass property devoted, by the very terms of the contract, to a public purpose, and to be used by the State for the support of public or quasi public corporation in the exercise of its delegated sovereign powers. McNeile Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howl. et al., 29 Wash. Co., 111, 191, 645, 657.

The rights of laborers and materialmen to acquire liens against the property of the owner for work done upon it and for material furnished to the contractor in the erection of his building, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 190 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 583.

Same—Court House.—A courthouse cannot be made subject to any lien for labor material. Snow v. Board, 112 N. C. 335, 17 S. E. 176; Pratt Lumber Co. v. Gill Co., 278 Fed. 783, 787.

Same—Schools.—A building used for graded school purpose pursues the owner of the same, no lien or claim can be held or acquired, except with legislative sanction. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 112 N. C. 335, 17 S. E. 176; Morganton Farm Warehouse Co. v. Morganton Graded Schools, 131 N. C. 507, 66 S. E. 593.

Same.—Highways.—One contracting to construct a highway, under this section, no lien or the highway; nor has any person, building contractor or materialman, Pratt Lumber Co. v. Gill Co., 278 Fed. 783.

Same—Reason of the Rule.—The reason upon which the courts hold that the statutory lien given contractors, subcontractors, materialmen, and laborers upon buildings or other improvements upon real property for work, material, and labor does not extend or apply to public buildings is that such buildings, being held for public governmental purposes, cannot be sold under execution or other final process, and this reason applies with peculiar force to materials furnished or labor performed in the construction or repair of Public highways. Pratt Lumber Co. v. Gill Co., 273 Fed. 783, 787.

VI. APPLICATION TO RAILROADS.

Not Applicable to Railroads.—This section does not apply to railroads. Tommey v. Spartanburg, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. 429, 433. This conclusion is supported by the importation of §§ 44-12 of the Code of 1869-70, which sections provide: "Whenever a railway company shall take any lands or mengives the company notice of the completion of such work, and the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 190 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 583. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 190 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 583.

The Supreme Court of Iowa in Nelson v. R. R. Co. * * * construing a statute, which resembles this section, held that a railway was not a building within the meaning of their mechanic's lien law. Tommey v. Spartanburg, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. 429, 433.

VII. WAIVER OF LIEN, HOMESTEAD, AND MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS.

Waiver of the Lien.—In an action brought to subject a vessel to a lien for materials furnished in its construction, it was found that, at or before the filing of the notice of lien, the vessel was sold on a second mortgage on the vessel as security. It was held that such agreement was a waiver of the lien, and the lienor was discharged without exhausting the entire tract. Broyhill v. B.Witcaither, 119 583, 61 S. E. 31.

The rights of laborers and materialmen to acquire liens against the property of the owner for work done upon it and for material furnished to the contractor in the erection of his building, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 190 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 583.

The rights of laborers and materialmen to acquire liens against the property of the owner for work done upon it and for material furnished to the contractor in the erection of his building, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 190 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 583.

The rights of laborers and materialmen to acquire liens against the property of the owner for work done upon it and for material furnished to the contractor in the erection of his building, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 190 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 583.

The rights of laborers and materialmen to acquire liens against the property of the owner for work done upon it and for material furnished to the contractor in the erection of his building, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 190 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 583.

The rights of laborers and materialmen to acquire liens against the property of the owner for work done upon it and for material furnished to the contractor in the erection of his building, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 190 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 583.

The rights of laborers and materialmen to acquire liens against the property of the owner for work done upon it and for material furnished to the contractor in the erection of his building, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 190 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 583.

The rights of laborers and materialmen to acquire liens against the property of the owner for work done upon it and for material furnished to the contractor in the erection of his building, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed; and where the property is not subject to this lien, such as public buildings, etc., do not rest by common law but strictly by statute, and the provisions of the statute must be followed. Gastonia v. McEntire-Peterson, etc., Co., 131 N. C. 363, 17 S. E. 176; Snow v. Board, 190 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 583.
State and in addition to the common-law lien given arti-sans and mechanics which arises upon true possession, for the reasonable value of the repairs, provides for its enforcement by foreclosure in accordance with its stated terms. Johnson v. Yates, 183 N. C. 24, 110 S. E. 603.

The rights and liabilities of the lienor are limited, however, within its terms all persons whose authorized possession is of such character as to make reasonable repairs necessary to the proper use of the property, and which were evidently intended at the time of the execution of the contract of sale. Johnson v. Yates, 183 N. C. 24, 110 S. E. 603.

Same.—Vendee of Car with Mortgage to Vendor.—Where the vendee of a car with a mortgage made repairs on the prop-erty and transfers the possession to the vendee for an indefinite period, it is with the implied authority in the ven-pee that he may use the machine and keep it in such rea-sonable and just repair as the use will require; and where, at the vendee's instance, a mechanic has repaired the same, his reasonable charge for such repairs creates a lien on the automobile, retained in his possession, superior to that of the vendor's mortgage. Johnson v. Yates, 183 N. C. 24, 110 S. E. 603.

Retention of Possession Essential.—At Common Law.—At common law, a laborer repaired a wagon and surren-dered it to the owner for payment. He had no lien. Possession is absolutely necessary to the existence of the lien. Tedder v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 124 N. C. 342, 32 S. E. 8.

Same.—Under this Section.—The lien on personal property given by this section applies when possession is retained by the mechanic. Glazener v. Gloucester Lumber Co., 167 N. C. 229, 147 S. E. 753; McDougall v. Crapon, 95 N. C. 292.

Retention of Possession Essential—At Common Law.—At common law, a laborer repaired a wagon and surren-dered it to the owner before payment was made. It was held that the laborer had no lien on the wagon, either at common law or under the statute for his work done and materials furnished in making the repairs. McDougall v. Crapon, 95 N. C. 292.

The mechanic or artisan may exercise his common law right to retain the property, and this section, recognizing the right, authorizes him to advertise and sell and pay himself, after the specified period of possession. It is a neces-sary consequence that the lien is lost when possession is given to the owner. The mechanic, to the same extent as the owner under the common law, has a lien on personal property, the possession of which is lost. The mechanic is thus enabled to enforce his lien by sale of the property. McDougall v. Crapon, 95 N. C. 292.

The mechanic retains possession of the property until his lien is discharged by payment. Huntsman Bros. & Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 122 N. C. 583, 29 S. E. 838. See next section.

Priority of Lien.—The lien created by this section is su-perior to a vendor's lien, or to a mortgage lien. Johnson v. Yates, 183 N. C. 24, 110 S. E. 603.

A mechanic's lien is given preference under this section to a mortgage lien though the latter be prior in point of time. Johnson v. Yates, 183 N. C. 24, 110 S. E. 603. See next section.

Sale Restrained Where Mechanic's Claim Controverted.—Where one, who has the right under this section to retain possession of and to sell personal property for the purpose of defraying his charges, is made a party to an action in the nature of a creditor's bill against the owner in which the nature and amount of claimant's debt are in dispute, he will be restrained from proceeding with the sale as long as such contests are settled. Huntsman Bros. & Co. v. Linville River Lumber Co., 122 N. C. 583, 29 S. E. 838.

Priority of Lien.—The lien created by this section is su-perior to a vendor's lien, or to a mortgage lien. Johnson v. Yates, 183 N. C. 24, 110 S. E. 603.

A mechanic's lien is given preference under this section to a mortgage lien though the latter be prior in point of time. Johnson v. Yates, 183 N. C. 24, 110 S. E. 603. See next section.

the said justice of the peace. If the owner cannot be located, then notice shall be given by attaching said notice on the logs or lumber, wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark upon which the labor sued for was performed, and any person buying said logs, wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark after such notice has been given, with the nearest justice of the peace, shall be deemed to have bought the same with notice thereof, but no action shall be maintained against the owner of said logs or lumber, wood pulp, acid wood or tan bark or the purchaser thereof under the provisions of this section unless same is commenced within thirty days after notice is filed with the justice of the peace by such laborer, as above provided. (1913, c. 150, s. 6; 1929, c. 69; C. S. 2436.)

Local Modification.—Avery, Mitchell, Yancey: 1941, c. 129.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the word "logging" in the second line and "logs" in the third line of this section.

Under the provision of this section, prior to the amendment of 1929, persons who cut and logged timber to a mill under a contract to do so at a fixed price were not entitled to a lien for such services, this interpretation of this section being strengthened by the fact that the amendment of 1929 includes within the scope of the statute laborers employed in logging engaged in logging to the mill. Graves v. Dockery, 200 N. C. 317, 150 S. E. 506.

Reason for Enactment of Section.—It was because a lien could not be obtained for labor performed in the manufacture of lumber unless the party claiming it retained possession, that the Legislature enacted this section. Elek Creek Lbr. Co. v. F. C. Walls, 84 F. (2d) 144. F. (2d) 147. 144.

Work Done Directly by Claimant and in Betterment of Property.—Under this section the work must have been done directly by the claimant in betterment of the property upon which a lien is sought to be obtained, that is, making the lumber by taking the boards from the saw as they were cut, is entitled to a lien, but one who is employed in the blacksmith shop as repairer of cars upon the plant, and one, who worked on the car track and repaired the bridges are not so entitled. Thomas v. Merrill, 169 N. C. 633, 637, 86 S. E. 993.

Compliance with Statutory Requirements Necessary. — In an action to establish a laborer's lien upon manufactured lumber, under the provisions of this section, the plaintiff must prove his compliance with the various statutory requirements; and a charge to the jury that the plaintiff should return a verdict for the plaintiff should they find that he attached "the notice to the lumber," and on the defendant's failure to show service of the notice in less than five days after filing the notice with the justice of the peace, or that he could not be found. Bryan v. Gloucester Lumber Co., 167 N. C. 576, 83 S. E. 696.

Laborer Has No Lien unless He Complies with Section or Retains Possession.—A laborer who engages in the manufacture of lumber has a lien thereon under section 44-2, for his just and reasonable charges so long as he retains possession of the lumber. A laborer, even though he does not retain possession, is entitled to a lien for wages for not exceeding thirty days if he gives the notice required by this section. But he obtains no lien unless he complies with this section or unless he retains possession so that he may assert a lien thereon. § 44-2. Elek Creek Lbr. Co. v. Hambly, 84 F. (2d) 144, 147.

Preferred Lien Only When Section Strictly Complied with.—This section gives to laborers engaged in logging, sawing, etc., a lien on the lumber of the mill, and the material and supplies thereon or upon which any part of the amount for which goods are to be sold is used or is intended to be used, which is superior to all other claims thereon, except that of a purchaser for value without notice. It gives this preferred lien, however, only for the wages of not exceeding thirty days if he gives the notice required by this section. But he obtains no lien unless he complies with this section or unless he retains possession so that he may assert a lien thereon. § 44-2. Elek Creek Lbr. Co. v. Hambly, 84 F. (2d) 144, 147.

Preferred Lien Only When Section Strictly Complied with.—This section gives to laborers engaged in logging, sawing, etc., a lien on the lumber of the mill, and the material and supplies thereon or upon which any part of the amount for which goods are to be sold is used or is intended to be used, which is superior to all other claims thereon, except that of a purchaser for value without notice. It gives this preferred lien, however, only for the wages of not exceeding thirty days if he gives the notice required by this section. But he obtains no lien unless he complies with this section or unless he retains possession so that he may assert a lien thereon. § 44-2. Elek Creek Lbr. Co. v. Hambly, 84 F. (2d) 144, 147.

Employs Another Contractor against the Owner.—Where a laborer in the manufacture of lumber employs another laborer to assist him in his work, and the latter seeks to enforce the lien given by this section, for the wages of not exceeding thirty days, it may be made to appear that the owner owed his own contractor, for the lien claimed can only be enforced to that extent, the object of the statute being to protect the laborer against any transfer of the lumber by the owner, who, while indebted to his contractor, and insolvent, might otherwise pass the title to a bona fide purchaser for value, without notice of the lien. Bryson v. Gennett Lumber Co., 171 N. C. 706, 89 S. E. 26.

Repairing Railroad Track or Equipment. — Under conditions stated in the section, one of the defendants agreed to operate a large lumber plant, including a railroad equipment for handling the logs owned by the other defendant, and assumed the payment of all employees, several of whom filed liens against logs and lumber saved, in a justice's court, for the non-payment of wages. It was held that work done in repairing the track, equipment, etc., was not in contemplation of this section, so as to give those performing these services a lien on logs and lumber manufactured, etc., by the owner, but the owner owned the other defendant, and the assumption of the work by the defendant was not in contemplation of this section, so as to give those performing these services a lien on logs and lumber manufactured, etc., by the owner, but the material had not been used in its construction as betterments. Glazener v. Gloucester Lumber Co., 167 N. C. 576, 83 S. E. 696.

Priority of Lien.—The lien given to the person "doing the work of cutting or sawing logs into lumber," etc., by this section is superior to the lien given to the contractor therefor, or any other person. Glazener v. Gloucester Lumber Co., 167 N. C. 576, 83 S. E. 696.

§ 44-4. Lien for processing certain goods. — All persons, firms, partnerships and corporations engaged in the business of finishing, bleaching, mercerizing, manufacturing, dyeing, weighing and printing or otherwise processing cotton, wool, silk, artificial silk or goods of which cotton, wool, silk, or artificial silk forms a component part, shall be entitled to a lien upon the property and goods of others, which may come into their possession for work, labor, and materials furnished in any of said processing and said lien shall extend to any unpaid balance on account for work, labor, and materials furnished in the course of any of said processing in respect to any of said goods of the same owner wherever the lienor's possession is terminated. The word "owner", as used in this and the following sections shall include a factor, consignee, or other agent entrusted with the possession of the goods held under said lien or with the bill of lading consigning the same to him with authority to sell the same or to deliver them to the lienor for the purpose of being processed. (1931, c. 48, s. 1.)

§ 44-5. Sale of goods at public auction. — If any part of the amount for which goods are held under said lien remains unpaid for a period of sixty days after the earliest item of said amount became due and payable the lienor may sell such goods at public auction first publishing a notice of the time and place of said sale once in each of two successive weeks in a newspaper published in the town, if any, otherwise in the county, in which the said goods are situated, or if no newspaper is published in said county, then in a newspaper published in an adjoining county and having general circulation in the county where the sale is to take place, and at the court house door, the last publication not to be less than five days prior to the sale, and also giving five days' notice of said sale by posting in five or more public places in said county, one whereof shall be in the town or city ward in which said goods are situated, and, if the residence or past address of owner of said goods is known or can be established, sending by registered mail a copy of said notice to the owner at his last known or past address at least five days before the date of sale: Provided, that if said goods are readily divisible no more thereof shall be so sold than is necessary to discharge the underlying indebtedness and to cover the expenses of the sale. The proceeds of sale shall be applied to payment of said indebtedness and said expenses, and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the owner or person entitled thereto. The remedy herein provided to enforce said lien shall be in addition to any other provided by law. (1931, c. 48, s. 2; 1943, c. 543.)

Cross Reference.—As to advertisement for judicial sale of personal property generally, see § 1-356.

Editor's Note.—The above contract was inserted in the provision as to a newspaper published in an adjoining county.

Art. 2. Subcontractors', etc., Liens and Rights against Owners.

§ 44-6. Lien given subcontractors, etc., on real estate.—All subcontractors and laborers who are employed to furnish or who do furnish labor or material for the building, repairing or altering any house or other improvement on real estate, have a lien on said house and real estate for the amount of such labor done or material furnished, which lien shall be preferred to the mechanics' lien now provided by law, when notice thereof shall be given as required in this section and section 44-7, and, in addition to any other liens in this chapter, except where it is otherwise provided; but the sum total of all the liens due subcontractors and material men shall not exceed the amount due the original contractor at the time of notice given. (Rev., s. 1801, 1803; 1880, c. 44, ss. 1, 3; C. S. 2437.)

In General.—Soon after the enactment of section 44-1 et seq., it was held by the Supreme Court that no right to a lien was conferred by that section unless there was a contract, express or implied, with the owner, creating the relation of creditor and debtor (Wilkie v. Bray, 71 N. C. 205), and as a result, subcontractors were excluded from its benefits, because they had no express contract with the owner, and none could be implied from the use of the materials as they were furnished to the contractor, and under the express contract between him and the owner. This led to the enactment of this and the following sections relative to the subcontractor's lien. Morganton Mfg. et al., Co. v. Andrews, 165 N. C. 285, 292, 81 S. E. 418; 176 N. C. 426, 432, 97 S. E. 372.

Definition of Subcontractor.—Mr. Phillips in his book on Mechanics' Liens, sec. 44, describes a subcontractor: "One who, though not having the power or authority to contract for the performance of an act with the person who has already contracted for its performance." And Mr. Kalland in his book on the same subject, sec. 3, uses language of similar import, and says: "Although the original contractor may sublet his entire contract, and neither himself performs, or furnish labor or materials in a literal sense, yet he will be entitled to a lien, for each subcontractor is as much entitled to be paid as though he had his own contract, and the contract of the agent is in law the act of his principal." Lester v. Houston, 101 N. C. 605, 611, 8 S. E. 566.

Persons employed by an agent of the principal contractor to perform certain work on the premises may not under this section recover of the owner for the value of such labor done or material furnished, and the owner receives the benefit thereof. Price v. Asheville Gas Co., 207 N. C. 796, 178 S. E. 567.

Contractor's Lien Not Superceded.—The lien given by this section was not intended to supersede the lien of the contractor, for it in direct terms gives the lien in favor of subcontractors, laborers, and materialmen a preference, "notwithstanding the law of the place where the work is done to the contrary." And it is manifest of itself that when notice is given, the aggregate of such liens shall not exceed the amount then due the original contractor. The legislation is intended to extend the remedy to those whose work is done in accordance with section 44-1 and which the owner derives a benefit in the improvement of his property, even where there are no contract relations between them and the owner, and enables them to secure the payment of what is due them, thereby removing the entire subcontractor to the original contractor. Morganton Mfg. et al., Co. v. Andrews, 165 N. C. 285, 293, 81 S. E. 418; Lester v. Houston, 101 N. C. 605, 8 S. E. 566.

Relation of Debtor and Creditor between the Owner and the Subcontractor.—It is declared in many cases that the basis for mechanics' liens is the relation of creditor and debtor, between the owner and the contractor. Morganton Mfg. et al., Co. v. Andrews, 165 N. C. 285, 293, 81 S. E. 418; Lester v. Houston, 101 N. C. 605, 8 S. E. 566.

It is evident that the statute does not in express terms create this relation between the owner and the subcontractor, and that a relation must be inferred by implication. The basis of such implication may be traced to the fact that the contract, express or implied, with the owner, creating the relation of debtor and creditor between the owner and the contractor, is in direct terms given to the contractor, and the act of the agent is in law the act of his principal. Contractor's Lien Though Subordinated, Not Lost. — It is quite manifest that our statute gives to the contractor, its enforcement would be prejudicial to them, when these subcontractors were excluded from its benefits, because they had no express contract with the owner, and none could be implied from the use of the materials, and that the principal contractor is an agent of the owner for the purpose of creating valid debts. 3 N. C. Law Rev. 564.

Whatever may be the basis of the inference that there exists the relation of debtor and creditor between the owner and the subcontractor, it is apparent that this section does not, even by implication, create a relationship of debtor and creditor except as to the extent of liens acquired in accordance with its provisions. Morganton Hdw. Co. v. Morganton Graded Schools, 151 N. C. 507, 66 S. E. 583. Ed. N. C. 409.

No privity of contract between the owner and the subcontractor is established by this section, so as to enable the former to sue the latter for a debt; but it merely confers upon the materialman a lien upon the property, if the property is subject to lien, but not if he fails to acquire a lien by the laches of himself or of the contractor, whose negligence will be imputed to himself; and, also, an interest in the trust funds in the hands of the owner and due to the contractor, which funds are to be distributed pro rata among all those furnishing material after the last creditor not being in strictness a lien, but a right to have an accounting in an ordinary civil action and judgment for the amount due by the owner to the contractor. Charlotte Pipe, etc., Co. v. Southern Aluminum Co., 172 N. C. 704, 90 S. E. 523.

Subcontractor's Lien and Double Security. — The statute (this section and section 44-11) furnishes a double security to those furnishing material, etc., to the contractor and who give the statutory notice to the owner in giving them a lien thereon upon the property. It furnishes also a lien for the amount of any labor or materials subsequently earned under the contract, and, also, an interest in the trust funds in the hands of the owner and due to the contractor, which funds are to be distributed pro rata among all those furnishing material after the last creditor not being in strictness a lien, but a right to have an accounting in an ordinary civil action and judgment for the amount due by the owner to the contractor. Charlotte Pipe, etc., Co. v. Southern Aluminum Co., 172 N. C. 704, 90 S. E. 523.

Subcontractor Substituted to the Rights of Contractor. — Where the lien arises under the provisions of this section, it does so by substituting the claimant to the rights of the contractor, enforceable against any and all sums which may be due from the owner at the time of notice given or which are subsequently earned under the terms and stipulations of the original contract, and, also, an interest in the trust funds in the hands of the owner and due to the contractor, which funds are to be distributed pro rata among all those furnishing material after the last creditor not being in strictness a lien, but a right to have an accounting in an ordinary civil action and judgment for the amount due by the owner to the contractor.
mand regardless of the state of accounts between the contractor and the subcontractor. Borden Brick, etc., Co. v.
Pullen, 178 N. C. 355, 148 S. E. 596; Powell v. King Lumber Co., 168 N. C. 552, 84 S. E. 1032.

Time and How Subcontractors’ Right Determined.—The right of a subcontractor to recover on a lien as a contractor, or lien upon the building does not depend upon the state of the account between the contractor and the subcontractor, but upon the amount due the contractor by the owner at the time the lien was given upon a higher item in the manner and form required. Atlas Powder Co. v. Denton, 176 N. C. 426, 97 S. E. 923.

Amount Due from Owner a Trust Fund for Subcontractor.—
The principal contractor is a necessary party to an action to enforce the lien of a subcontractor, but a trustee in a case of materialmen who have filed their statutory notice is not a debt due by the owner to the materialmen in the ordinary sense, but a fund held in trust for them strictly arising from the operation of the statute, in conformity with its terms, and the statute imposes no duty upon the owner when the materialmen have not filed the required notice or acquired their lien accordingly. Charlotte Pipe, etc., Co. v. Southern Aluminum Co., 172 N. C. 704, 90 S. E. 923.

Priority over Subsequent Liens.—The lien of the sub-contractor, when duly filed, has precedence over all other liens attaching to the property subsequent to the time the work was commenced or the material furnished. Lookout Lumber Co. v. Mansion Hotel, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 658, 14 S. E.
35.

Elements Essential to Recovery.—To recover under this section, plaintiff must prove: (1) his subcontract; (2) work done and labor performed in fulfillment thereof; (3) a bal-count tendered by the owner; (4) notice to the owner as required by statute; and (5) a balance due the contractor.
Upon such showing, the law requires the owner to apply the unexpeaded contract price due him and pay to the subcontractor amounts due subcontractors and materialmen of whose claims the owner has received notice, pro rata if necessary.

The principal contractor is a necessary party to an action to enforce the lien of a subcontractor, but a trustee in a conveyance subject to the lien is not an essential party.
Lookout Lumber Co. v. Mansion Hotel, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C.
658, 14 S. E. 35.

No Lien on Public Buildings.—Neither by the enforcement of a lien, nor by anything in the nature of an equitable process, or by a suit directly arising out of the deed or execution, was it the intent of the Legislature to subject one of its public corporations, organized as necessary to the administration of its governmental affairs, to the privation or loss of its buildings for public school purposes. Morganton Hdw. Co. v. Morganton Graded Schools, 151 N. C. 507, 66 S. E. 583.

No Lien on Highway.—Under this section subcontractors and materialmen are assured of a lien upon the property when they have constructed. Pratt Lumber Co. v. Gill Co., 276 Fed. 783.

Liability of Municipality—No Lien against it.—Though no lien can be filed against a municipality, yet it will be liable to enforce the lien of a subcontractor, but a trustee in a conveyance subject to the lien is not an essential party.
Lookout Lumber Co. v. Mansion Hotel, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C.
658, 14 S. E. 35.

Estoppel to Assert Lien under Section 44-L.—By electing to assert a lien as a subcontractor under this section, plaintiff is estopped from thereafter asserting a lien as a contractor or material furnisher under § 44-1, and plaintiff is entitled to recover of defendant only the amount due the contractor by the owner on the date notice was, given as a subcontractor or material furnisher. Doggett Lbr. Co. v.
Perry, 212 N. C. 713, 194 S. E. 475.

When plaintiff is estopped by its election in asserting a lien under this section, from asserting a lien under § 44-1 and § 44-8, it is not relieved of the consequences of its estoppel because of such election, plaintiff’s remedy is by instituting another action to recovercess for materials fur-ished the contractor and used in the construction of the building under this section. Doggett Lbr. Co. v. Perry, 213
N. C. 533, 196 S. E. 831.

Co., 165 W. N. C. 475, 149 S. E. 583.

§ 44-7: Repealed by Session Laws 1943, c. 543.

Editor’s Note.—The provisions of this section are now included in § 44-8.

§ 44-8. Statement of contractor’s indebtedness to be furnished to owner; effect. — When any contractor, architect or other person makes a contract for building, altering or repairing any building or vessel, or for the construction or repair of a railroad, with the owner thereof, it is his duty to furnish to the owner or his agent, before receiving any part of the contract price, as it may become due, an itemized statement of the amount owing to any laborer, mechanic or artisan employed by such contractor, architect or other person, or to any person for materials furnished, and upon deivery to the owner or his agent of the itemized statement aforesaid, it is the duty of the owner to retain from the money then due the contractor a sum not exceeding the price contracted for, which will be sufficient to pay such laborer or mechanic or for labor done, or such person for such materials furnished, which said amount the owner shall pay directly to the laborer, mechanic, arti-سان or person furnishing materials. The owner may retain in his hands until the contract is completed such sum as may have been agreed on between him and the contractor, architect or other person employing laborers, as a guaranty for the faithful performance of the contract by such contractor. When such contract has been performed by the contractor such fund reserved as a guaranty shall be liable to the payment of the labor done, or the person furnishing the materials as hereinafter provided. (Rev., s. 2021; 1887, c. 67; 1891, c. 203; 1899, c. 335; 1903, c. 478;
C. S. 2439.)

Purpose of Section—Owner Cannot Force Contractor to Supply Statement.—The purpose of the section is to compel the contractor to supply the itemized statement, so that the laborer may be benefited, have his right facilitated, and the owner of the property may be reasonably protected. There is no liability created on the part of the owner if the itemized statement is not supplied to him; he cannot compel the contractor to furnish him with it, nor is he permitted to know that he has not paid the laborer or mechanic, or that he owes him any particular sum. Pkston v. Young,
104 N. C. 102, 106, 10 S. E. 131.

For Whose Benefit Section Enacted.—This section while enacted primarily for the benefit or protection of the workmen and materialmen, is also for the protection of the owner against a guaranty of his agent or person furnishing the materials as hereinbefore provided. (Rev., s. 2021; 1887, c. 67; 1891, c. 203; 1899, c. 335; 1903, c. 478;
C. S. 2439.)

Owner Liable for Paying Contractor after Receipt of Latter’s Statement.—Where the owner voluntarily pays to the contractor, after the completion and acceptance of his building, the full balance of the contract price, having received the contractor’s statement of persons and materials still owed by him thereon, his conduct in so doing is wrongful to the materialmen, of which he will not be permitted to take advantage to the loss of the surety on the contractor’s indemnifying bond, in his action to recover thereon.
Pulley v. F. W. Woolworth Co., 150 N. C. 141, 63 S.
E. 611. See annotations to § 44-9.

Personal Action by Materialmen against Owner.—A person acting for the defendant has a right to retain a sum to pay the subcontractor, when the contractor has furnished him a statement of indebtedness, can be maintained against the owner if the subcontractor has been notified by him or the contractor of his claim before the owner completed payment to the contractor. Economy Pumps v. F. W. Woolworth

Duty of Owner to Reserve Funds to Pay Materialmen, etc.—The act requires the owner to program and employers, and amounts he owes for materials, when complied with, makes it the duty of the owner to retain from the amount due the contractor, so far as it extends, the § 44-9

CH. 44. LIENS.—SUBCONTRACTORS', ETC. § 44-9

amounts due by the latter to the materialmen, and pay it to them, and under section 44-9, no payment to the contractor after such notice shall be a credit on or discharge of the lien of the materialmen, etc., upon the building, according to the decision of the North Carolina Lumber Mfg. Co. v. Holladay, 178 N. C. 417, 100 S. E. 597.

Remedy of Subcontractors.—The subcontractor and material furnisher having given the owner an itemized statement of the amount due, and being paid by them, acquisitions the lien for the payment of their claims and may maintain a civil action thereon against the owner under the provisions of this section and §§ 44-9 and 44-10 without being required to file their liens within six months, etc., under the provisions of § 44-39 or bring suit within six months thereafter, under those of § 44-43. Campbell v. Hall, 187 N. C. 464, 121 S. E. 760.

Section Not Repealed by Later Act Nor in Conflict with § 44-13.—This and the following two sections are not repealed by c. 150, Laws 1913, the later act expressly purposing to extend their provisions to those who furnish materials to the subcontractors of railroads, and, construing the above sections in connection with section 44-39 as amended, the furnisher of materials to the contractor out of an entire contract may file his itemized statement with the railroad company within six months after its completion, and maintain his action to enforce his lien, when commenced within six months after the notice of completion, and subject to the contractor or subcontractor's lien so acquired. Porter v. Case, 187 N. C. 650, 122 S. E. 483.

Effect of Mortgages Subsequent to Notice.—Where the owner has given the notice of the subcontractor's claim upon the building, or the contractor filed his lien in accordance with the statute before the justice of the peace or clerk, as the case may be, the right to the money still due the materialman, and the lien exists, the contractor cannot be itemized. Upon the delivery of the itemized statement, the laborer's lien will arise and be effective. Oxford Pumps v. F. W. Woolworth Co., 220 N. C. 499, 17 S. E. (2d) 639.

For Whose Benefit Section Enacted.—This section while enacted primarily for the benefit or protection of the workmen and materialmen, is also for the protection of the owner and the surety on the contractor's bond. Guilford Lumber Mfg. Co. v. Hall, 178 N. C. 417, 100 S. E. 597.

Assignment of Lien.—The statutory lien of a laborer or materialman under the provisions of this section, is assignable as in case of ordinary business contracts. Horne-Wilson v. Wheeler, 157 N. C. 597, 72 S. E. 197.

Notice to Be Given before Settlement with Contractor.—It is necessary, to enforce a lien on a building for materials furnished the contractor, acquired no lien on the building, under former acts of that date. It is necessary, to enforce a lien on a building for materials furnished the contractor, that the materialman file with the owner an itemized statement of the amounts due for materials, or that he give notice to the owner of the amount due him before the owner settles with the contractor, but he is not required to file such itemized statement, the amounts due by the contractor to the materialman under the provisions of this section, is assign-able as in case of ordinary business contracts. Orinoco Supply Co. v. Masonic, etc., Home, 163 N. C. 513, 79 S. E. 964; Schnepp v. Richardson, 222 N. C. 228, 22 S. E. (2d) 555.

Same.—Rule Not Affected by § 44-8. — This rule is not affected by section 44-8. That section is directed against the contractor, and is intended to compel him to furnish to the owner of the building a statement necessary to give notice of claims of subcontractors, etc. If the contractor shall furnish the itemized statement, the laborer's lien will arise and be effective. Pinkston v. Young, 104 N. C. 302, 104 S. E. 15.

Same.—Otherwise No Lien Attaches.—When the required notice has not been given before the last payment has been made to the contractor, who fails to complete the building, and the owner has disbursed the balance of the contract price, no lien attaches. Orinoco Supply Co. v. Masonic, etc., Home, 163 N. C. 513, 79 S. E. 964. And the owner is justified in making payment to the contractor. Clark v. Edwards, 163 N. C. 513, 79 S. E. 964.

Same.—Even Though Payment in Full Is Made in Advance. — In Rose v. Davis, 188 N. C. 355, 124 S. E. 576, it was held a furnisher of material, used in the building by a contractor, acquired no lien on the building, under former § 44-7, by notice to the owner filed after the owner had paid to the contractor the full contract price; and that it was immaterial that payment in full had been made in advance, in accordance with the contract between the owner and contractor.

Same.—Right Statutory and Dependent upon Notice, — To share in the fund due by the owner to the contractor and to have that fund distributed pro rata among the claimants therein, is a statutory lien which is created by law, and is founded on the property by giving the notice to the owner. Charlotte Pipe, etc., Co. v. Southern Aluminum Co., 172 N. C. 704, 707, 91 S. E. 923.

Lien on materials given the furnisher of material on the building of the owner to the contractor, etc., are strictly statutory and no lien can be acquired therefor unless notice has been given, nor is it contemplated or provided by the statute that the lien can be enforced against the building by suit against it, or by suit against the contractor by agreement in advance of his work. Rose v. Davis, 188 N. C. 355, 124 S. E. 576.

Purpose of You,—In case of a furnisher of material on the building of the owner to the contractor, etc., are strictly statutory and no lien can be acquired therefor unless notice has been given, nor is it contemplated or provided by the statute that the lien can be enforced against the building by suit against it, or by suit against the contractor by agreement in advance of his work. Rose v. Davis, 188 N. C. 355, 124 S. E. 576.

Purpose of You,—In case of a furnisher of material on the building of the owner to the contractor, etc., are strictly statutory and no lien can be acquired therefor unless notice has been given, nor is it contemplated or provided by the statute that the lien can be enforced against the building by suit against it, or by suit against the contractor by agreement in advance of his work. requirements, and is insufficient to create the lien. Norfolk

That Laborers Are Working on Building Is Not Of Itself Notice to Owner.—That laborers and subcontractors are working on a building is not notice to the owner, not to pay out to the contractor until it is ascertained how much is due by the letter to each and every subcontractor, laborer, materialman, etc. Clark v. Edwards, 119 N. C. 115, 15 S. E. 794.

Mere knowledge of the owner that certain laborers are at work on a building, or that certain persons or firms have supplied materials, furnished labor, or performed services, under the provisions of any section, of any claim of lien thereon. Norfolk Bldg., etc., Co. v. Elizabeth City Hospital Co., 176 N. C. 87, 97 S. E. 146.

Unpaid Balance at Time of Notice Subject to Lien.—Where the owner of the building has paid his contractor to the time of filing the statutory claim for material furnished, the moneys thereafter becoming due the contractor, under the same contract, are subject to the lien. Blue Pearl Granite Co. v. Merchants' Bank, 172 N. C. 354, 90 S. E. 312.

Lien Only to the Extent of Unpaid Balance at Date of Notice.—Any person furnishing material for the building; and a statement of the amounts then due to those who have done labor upon or furnished materials, etc. Hildebrand v. Vanderbilt, 147 N. C. 639, 61 S. E. 620.

Notice to Owner's Architects Not Notice to the Owner.—That laborers are working on building is not of itself notice to the owner by enforcing his lien by action within the six months, acquires no superior right in the pro rata distribution of the trust funds, but only the additional security of his lien. Charlotte Pipe, etc., Co. v. Southern Aluminum Co., 172 N. C. 704, 90 S. E. 921.

Notice to Owner's Architects Not Notice to the Owner.—The object of the notice required by the statute to be given to the owner of property only to the extent of any unpaid balance at the time of giving the notice to the owner, of the subscontractor's claim. Clark v. Edwards, 119 N. C. 115, 15 S. E. 794.

Notice of Lien to Justice or Clerk Not Necessary.—The lien of the subcontractor is acquired by notice to the owner, and filing of the notice of the lien with a justice or a clerk of the county, as provided by section 44-10. Morgananton Mfg., etc., Co. v. Andrews, 165 N. C. 285, 294, 81 S. E. 418; Porter v. Case, 187 N. C. 629, 639, 191 S. E. 481; Charlotte Pipe, etc., Co. v. Southern Aluminum Co., 172 N. C. 794, 706, 90 S. E. 833.

Notice to Owner's Architects Not Notice to the Owner.—The object of the notice required by the statute to be given to the owner of property only to the extent of any unpaid balance at the time of giving the notice to the owner of the subscontractor's claim. Morgananton Mfg., etc., Co. v. Andrews, 165 N. C. 285, 294, 81 S. E. 418; Porter v. Case, 187 N. C. 629, 639, 191 S. E. 481; Charlotte Pipe, etc., Co. v. Southern Aluminum Co., 172 N. C. 794, 706, 90 S. E. 833.

§ 44-10. Sum due by statement to constitute lien.—The sums due to the mechanic, mechanic or artisan for labor done, or the person furnishing materials, as shown in the itemized statement rendered to the owner, shall be a lien on the building, vessel or railroad built, altered or repaired, without any lien being filed before a justice of the peace or the superior court. (Rev., s. 2023; 1887, c. 67, s. 2; C. S. 2441.)

Acquisition of Lien without Filing Notice.—By virtue of section 44-10, the lien of a contractor must be filed in six months, but by this section, the lien of the mechanic or artisan can be acquired without filing if a statement of the amounts is rendered the owner. (See sections 44-39 to 44-43, inclusive.) However acquired, the lien is lost under section 44-43 if action thereon is not begun in six months. Birdalbrad v. Vanderbilt, 147 N. C. 639, 641, 61 S. E. 609. Schnepp v. Richardson, 222 N. C. 228, 22 S. E. (2d) 555.

§ 44-11. Where sums due contractor from owner insufficient; payment pro rata. — If the amount due the contractor by the owner is insufficient to pay in full the laborer, mechanic or artisan, for his labor, and the person furnishing materials, for materials furnished, it is the duty of the owner to distribute the amount pro rata among the several claimants, as shown by the itemized statement furnished the owner, or of which notice has been given the owner by the claimant. (Rev., s. 2023; 1887, c. 67, s. 3; 1913, c. 150, s. 5; C. S. 2442.)

Provisions of Section 44-40 Do Not Affect Distribution Under This Section.—Where the contractor under contract has not sufficient funds in his hands to pay all the liens thereon for material furnished, the amount due the contractor, subject to the liens, shall be distributed among the several claimants under the provisions of this section; and construing this section with other relevant sections of the code, it is held that the notice of lien filed by the owner with the clerk, for this latter section relates to lien filed with the proper officers, and does not affect the provisions as to subcontractors who acquire a lien by notice to the owner. Morgananton Mfg., etc., Co. v. Andrews, 155 N. C. 285, 81 S. E. 418.

Remedy by Accounting.—A right to have an accounting in an ordinary civil action and judgment for the amount due by the owner to the contractor, are incidents of the rights given the subcontractor by the provisions of this section. Schnepp v. Richardson, 222 N. C. 228, 22 S. E. (2d) 555.

Notice to Owner's Architects Not Notice to the Owner.—The object of the notice required by the statute to be given to the owner of property only to the extent of any unpaid balance at the time of giving the notice to the owner of the subscontractor's claim. Morgananton Mfg., etc., Co. v. Andrews, 165 N. C. 285, 294, 81 S. E. 418; Porter v. Case, 187 N. C. 629, 639, 191 S. E. 481; Charlotte Pipe, etc., Co. v. Southern Aluminum Co., 172 N. C. 794, 706, 90 S. E. 833.

§ 44-12. Contractor failing to furnish statement, or not applying owner's payments to laborer's claims, misdemeanor. — If any contractor or architect shall fail to furnish to the owner an itemized statement of the sums due to every one of the laborers, mechanics or artisans employed by him, or the amount due for materials, before receiving any part of the contract price, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any contractor shall fail to apply the contract price paid him by the owner or his agent to the payment of bills for labor and material, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3563; 1887, c. 67, s. 4; 1913, c. 150, s. 8; C. S. 2443.)

§ 44-13. Laborer for railroad contractor may sue company; conditions of action. — As often as any contractor for the construction of any part of a railroad which is in progress of construction is indebted to any laborer for thirty or less number of days labor performed in constructing said road, or is indebted for more than thirty days to any person furnishing material for the construction of said road, such laboror or material man may give notice of such indebtedness to said company in a manner herein provided, and said company shall thereupon become liable to pay such laborer or material man the amount so due for labor or material, and action may be maintained against said company therefor. Such notice shall be given by said laboror to said company within twenty days after the performance of the number of days labor for which the claim is made, and such notice shall be given within thirty days after the materials have been furnished. Such notice to be given by the laborer shall be in writing and shall state the amount and the number of days labor and the time when the labor was performed for which the claim is made, and the name of the contractor from whom due, and and shall be signed by such laborer or his attorney; and such notice of the material man shall be in writing and shall state the amount of material and furnished, and when furnished, and the name of the contractor to whom furnished and by whom due, and shall be signed by such material man. The notice shall be served on an engineer, agent or superintendent employed by said company having charge of the section of road on which such labor was performed or material furnished, personally or by leaving the same at the office or usual place of business of said engineer, agent, or superintendent, with some person of suitable age. But no action shall be maintained against any company under the provisions of this section unless the same is commenced within ninety days after notice is given to the company by such laborer or material man as above provided. (Rev., s. 1818; Code, s. 1942; 1871-8, c. 138, s. 12; 1913, c. 150, s. 1; C. S. 5444.)

No Conflict between this and Section 44-B.—There is no conflict between Section 44-B and this section and it is the legislative intent to extend the provisions of the law relative to materialmen and subcontractors of railroads.

Application to Contractors Constructing Railroads.—
This section applies only to laborers "constructing railroads."
Grazener v. Gloucester Lumber Co., 167 N. C. 676, 678, 83 S. E. 496.

A Logging Railroad within this Section.—A logging road operated by the use of steam is a railroad within the meaning of this section, and by following the requirements of the section named herein, and upon the same principle, show a substantial compliance with the requirements of this section. Wray v. Harris, 77 N. C. 17; Cook v. Colby, 163 N. C. 705; Moore v. Cape Fear, etc., R. Co., 112 N. C. 236, 17 S. E. 132.

Where, in an action by the assignee of a number of claims due laborers by the contractors, the complaint and exhibits failed to show affirmatively that each of the laborers not only claimed a specific sum, but had substantially complied with the statute in respect to notice, etc., previous to the assignment of his account, it was held that a de-murrer to the complaint was properly sustained. — Moore v. Cape Fear, etc., R. Co., 112 N. C. 236, 17 S. E. 152.

Assignment of Claim after Compliance with Statute.—
After complying with the requirements of this section a contractor or subcontractor who does work or furnishes material for the construction, though done under an independent contractor.

Substantial Compliance with Statute Necessary.—
The right to look beyond the contract of employment to an artificial responsibility that may be thrust upon the company under the provisions of this section is a creature of the statute, and one who claims the benefit of it must, like a mechanic seeking to enforce a lien, and upon the same principle, show a substantial compliance with the requirements of this section. Glazener v. Gloucester Lumber Co., 167 N. C. 676, 678, 83 S. E. 496.

§ 44-14. Contractor on municipal building to give bond; action on bond. — Every county, city, town or other municipal corporation which lets a contract for the building, repairing or altering any building, public road, or street, shall require the contractor for such work (when the contract price exceeds five hundred dollars) to execute who is to be a party would not be a fatal misjoinder.

days. Proof of such service shall be made by affidavit as provided in case of the service of summonses by publication. All persons entitled to bring and prosecute an action on the bond shall have the right to intervene in said action, set up their respective claims, provided that such intervention shall be made within six months from the bringing of the action, and where the contractor has not object to the suit being brought and prosecuted in the manner therein. If the recovery on the bond shall be inadequate to pay the amounts found due to all of the claimants, judgment shall be given to each claimant pro rata of the amount of the recovery. The surety on such bond may pay into court for distribution among the claimants the full amount of his liability, to wit, the penalty named in the bond, and upon so doing, such surety shall be relieved from further liability. (1913, c. 150, s 2; 1915, c. 191, s. 1; 1923, c. 100; 1927, c. 151; 1935, c. 55; C. S. 2445.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev. 99, for relation of this section to the law of contracts.

See 13 N. C. Law Rev. 368, for an analysis of the 1935 amendment to this section.

Editor's Note.—The policy underlying this section is the manifest public interest in protecting governmental agencies from undue interferences which tend to mitigate the efficient operation of the governmental mechanism. Should such agencies be subject to the general law permitting liens on public buildings, the results in the forfeiture of public funds, and the like, would be quite different. Under this section the lien thereon is given for their benefit in lieu of the right to acquire a lien thereon. Robinson Mfg. Co. v. Blaylock, 192 N. C. 407, 135 S. E. 291; Noland Co. v. Board, 199 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 577; Fore v. Feimster, 171 N. C. 551, 88 S. E. 977; L. R. A. 1916 F, 481.

Whether Materials Were Actually Used or Not Immaterial.—The materialmen have a claim against the surety on the bond required by this section, whether the materials were actually used in the building or not; for otherwise the materialmen would be compelled to stand over and compel the contractor to incorporate them in the work, and the result of such a rule would destroy business confidence and security. Standard Land, etc., Co. v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 313, 131 S. E. 754. See Moore v. Builders Material Co., 192 N. C. 418, 450, 135 S. E. 113.

Municipality May Not Withhold Funds of Contractor.—Unlike the provisions of law governing the subcontractors' and materialmen's liens on private buildings, etc., this section provides an express substitute for the lien statutes in an effort to place public construction on a parity with private work of a similar kind, does not contain any provision whereby the owner may withhold funds belonging to the contractor for any work not done or materials not furnished, but only requires that the work done or material furnished by him to the contractor has not been paid for; nor would the owner be justified in withholding funds due the contractor upon receipt of such notice. The contract of the laborer or materialman is with the contractor, and in the absence of agreement or statutory provision allowing it, the owner would not be relieved, even pro tanto, of his obligation to the contractor by paying one or more of those who have supplied material or labor to the contractor. An obiter suggestion to the contrary, made in Schefflow v. Pierce, 176 N. C. 91, 97 S. E. 95, was disapproved in Nolan Co. v. Board, 199 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 577; Robinson Mfg. Co. v. Blaylock, 192 N. C. 407, 412, 135 S. E. 136.

Bond Held Void.—In Maryland Casualty Co. v. Fowler, 31 Fed. (2d) 881, affirming 27 Fed. (2d) 421 it was held that under this section a school building contractor's bond, which provided that no right of action thereon should accrue to any person other than the obligee, was void in so far as it affected the claims of laborers and materialmen protected by bonds given to the State Highway Commission.

Liability of Sureties.—Under this section the sureties on a contractor's bond for the erection of a municipal building are liable for any amount in excess of the penalty of the bond, and a judgment against the surety is not erroneous, and the surety may relieve himself from liability by paying one or more of those who work for or furnish materials to the contractor. An obiter suggestion to the contrary, made in Schefflow v. Pierce, 176 N. C. 91, 97 S. E. 95, was disapproved in Nolan Co. v. Board, 199 N. C. 250, 129 S. E. 577; Robinson Mfg. Co. v. Blaylock, 192 N. C. 407, 412, 135 S. E. 136.

Money Loaned to Contractors.—A bank loaning money to a contractor to build a public highway may not recover that money from the contractor if it be shown that the money was used for the payment of laborers and materialmen furnishing labor and materials upon which he worked, without having theretupon procured assignments to it of their claims, nothing appearing in the note given the bank by the contractor showing that the loan was for this purpose. Snelson v. Hill, 196 N. C. 494, 146 S. E. 135.

Money for Foremen.—If a money loaned by a bank to a contractor for bonds given to a State Highway Commission is used in building or repairing public roads, it is recoverable by the State Highway Commission against the contractor. Snelson v. Hill, 196 N. C. 494, 146 S. E. 135.

Extent of Surety's Liability.—The surety on the contractor's bond for the erection of a public building is only liable for the amount of the penalty of the bond. Robinson Mfg. Co. v. Blaylock, 192 N. C. 407, 135 S. E. 136.

Effect of Taking Nove of Contractor.—To determine the liability of the surety upon its bond given to a municipality for the contractor's performance of his contract to erect a public school building, the contract and the bond, together with the contract, shall be examined to effectuate its intent and purpose. Robinson Mfg. Co. v. Blaylock, 192 N. C. 407, 135 S. E. 136.

Sureties Right of Subrogation to Moneys Reserved by Municipality.—Where the municipality has in hand a penalty of the bond which the surety has paid into court entitled to the money thus reserved as against the laborers and materialmen, whose claims remain unpaid after the pro rata distribution of the money to the extent of the penalty of the bond is made, the surety is subrogated to the rights under this section since the amendment of 1923 is liable to those doing labor thereon or furnishing material therefor, whether such condition is written into the obligation of the bond itself or otherwise. Standard Elect. Time Co. v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 653, 135 S. E. 688.

Sureties Right of Subrogation to Moneys Reserved by Municipality.—Where the contractor's bond for the erection of a municipal building is liable to those doing labor thereon or furnishing material therefor, whether such condition is written into the obligation of the bond itself or otherwise. Standard Elect. Time Co. v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 653, 135 S. E. 688.

Liability of Bond to Materialmen, etc., Conclusive Regarding Its Express Conditions.—A surety bond given under this section since the amendment of 1923 is liable to those doing labor thereon or furnishing material therefor, whether such condition is written into the obligation of the bond itself or otherwise. Standard Elect. Time Co. v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 653, 135 S. E. 688.

Liability of Bond to Materialmen, etc., Conclusive Regarding Its Express Conditions.—A surety bond given under this section since the amendment of 1923 is liable to those doing labor thereon or furnishing material therefor, whether such condition is written into the obligation of the bond itself or otherwise. Standard Elect. Time Co. v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 653, 135 S. E. 688.

Conditions Taking Away Right of Indemnification Void as Against Public Policy.—The policy of law with respect to mechanics and laborers' liens, is that if the mortgage evidenced by this section is not expressed therein, or where rights of third parties, which the statute was intended to protect, are involved, the policy of law, and this section is not applicable. Hunt Mfg. Co. v. Bank of Ideal Brick Co. v. Gentry, 191 N. C. 653, 136 S. E. 800.

Liability of Bond to Materialmen, etc., Conclusive Regarding Its Express Conditions.—A surety bond given under this section since the amendment of 1923 is liable to those doing labor thereon or furnishing material therefor, whether such condition is written into the obligation of the bond itself or otherwise. Standard Elect. Time Co. v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 653, 135 S. E. 688.

Application of Section to Existing Liens.—The provisions of this section that its requirements as to the liability of the contractor's bond for the construction of a county highway shall not affect existing suits, applies to the remedy, and does not relate to those who have furnished material for the construction of the highway before the enactment of the statute but have no action pending at that time. Chap- bell v. National Surety Co., 191 N. C. 703, 133 S. E. 21.

Effect of Taking Nove of Contractor.—The bond required by this section is not to cover the materialmen, even though he took the note of the contractor for the materials he furnished. Moore v. Builders Material Co., 192 N. C. 418, 135 S. E. 113; Standard Elect. Time Co. v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 653, 135 S. E. 688.

Sureties Right of Subrogation to Moneys Reserved by Municipality.—Where the municipality has in hand a certain part of the cost of construction, and the surety bond, given in accordance with this section, is strung together with the contract, provides that the principal surety will be subrogated to the rights of the principal, the contractor, and all other sureties, to the extent of the penalty of the bond (under seal) is limited as to its commencement by the limitation of the power of action against the contractor, which does not apply. Chapbell v. National Surety Co., 191 N. C. 703, 133 S. E. 21.

Provision That Action Must Be within Reasonable Time.—Under this section the provision in a bond for public construction that action thereon should be brought within a reasonable time is valid. Horne-Wilson v. National Surety Co., 191 N. C. 656, 135 S. E. 136.

Feed for Teams as Materials Furnished.—Feed for teams working on a public highway come within the contemplation of this section as material furnished, making a surety upon the bond for the public highway liable. Chapbell v. National Surety Co., 191 N. C. 703, 133 S. E. 21.

Payments for Machinery Parts Used to Replace Borrowed Parts.—Where certain parts of a steam shovel used in construction of the county highway are replaced by other parts borrowed for the purpose, and are necessary in the construction, the surety on the contractor's bond is not liable under the statute for the payment of other like parts purchased to replace the borrowed parts which have thus been paid for. Nelsen v. Hill, 196 N. C. 494, 146 S. E. 135.

Misdemeanor Provision Still Applicable.—The provision of this section that any of the public agencies mentioned that fails to require the bond as fixed by the statute, is subject to a fine of $100 for each violation, and the same is still applicable. Cutt Real Estate Co. v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 629, 135 S. E. 128.

Local Law Requiring Provision of Section Be Read in Bond.—Where the provision that the bond referred to shall be read in private construction bonds is invalid. Plott Co. v. Ferguson Co., 202 N. C. 445, 163 S. E. 488.

Not Applicable When Surety Takes over Contract.—A surety company on a contractor's bond for the erection of municipal buildings in taking over for its own protection the completion thereof, and dealing directly with those doing labor or others in loading or discharging the cargo of such vessel, and also for all labor done by any subcontractor or laborer employed in discharging or loading any such vessel, when such labor is done under contract with a contractor or stevedore who may be employed by the master, agent or owner of such vessel. (Rev., s. 2040; 1893, c. 357; 1909, c. 147; C. S. 2446.)

Engine as "Material Furnished."—Under this section, which gives a lien on a vessel for all debts contracted for work done on the same or material furnished, one who furnished an engine to be installed in a gas boat, relying on the credit of the vessel, is entitled to a lien therefor as "material," on compliance with the statute as to recording the nature of the engine and the vessel is immaterial that by the contract is reserved title to the engine until paid for. The Pearl, 189 Fed. 540.

§ 44-16. For labor in loading and unloading.—Every vessel, her tackle, equipment, and furniture, is subject to a lien for documents, or others in loading or discharging the cargo of such vessel, and also for all labor done by any subcontractor or laborer employed in discharging or loading any such vessel, when such labor is done under contract with a contractor or stevedore who may be employed by the master, agent or owner of such vessel. (Rev., s. 2041; Code, s. 1804; 1881, c. 356, s. 1; C. S. 2447.)

§ 44-17. Filing lien; laborer's notice to master.—The liens provided for in the preceding sections shall be filed as is provided for other liens.
The subcontractor or laborer may give notice to the master, agent or owner of such vessel, that the contractor or stevedore is or will become indebted to him. It shall then be the duty of such master, agent or owner of such vessel to retain out of the amount due to such contractor or stevedore under his contract as much as is due or claimed by the person giving the notice, and after such notice is given no payment to the contractor or stevedore shall be a credit on or a discharge of the lien herein provided. (Rev., s. 2042; Code, s. 1805; 1881, c. 356, s. 2; C. S. 2448.)

§ 44-18. Enforcement of lien. — The enforcement of such lien shall be by summons against the contractor or stevedore, and also against the master, agent or owner of such vessel, who made the contract with such contractor or stevedore, if over two hundred dollars, to be issued by the clerk of the superior court, and if under two hundred dollars, by a justice of the peace. (Rev., s. 2043; Code, s. 1806; 1881, c. 356, s. 3; C. S. 2449.)

Enforcement of Lien in Court of Admiralty. — A lien given by a state statute for materials or supplies furnished to a vessel in her home port in the state is enforceable by suit in rem in a court of admiralty. The Pearl, 189 Fed. 540.

§ 44-19. Judgment against contractor binds master and vessel. — The judgment against the contractor or stevedore shall also be a judgment against the master, agent or owner of such vessel, and also against such vessel itself, her tackle, apparel and furniture, which shall be seized, held and sold under execution for the satisfaction of such judgment. (Rev., s. 2044; Code, s. 1807; 1881, c. 356, s. 4; C. S. 2450.)

§ 44-20. Liens not to exceed amount due contractor. — The sum total of all the liens due to different subcontractors and laborers, performed for any contractor or stevedore under any contract with any master, agent or owner of any vessel, shall not exceed the amount due to the contractor or stevedore at the time of notice given to the owner, agent or master, or the amount due to the contractor or stevedore at the time of the service of summons upon the master, agent or owner, when no notice has been given. (Rev., s. 2045; Code, s. 1808; 1881, c. 356, s. 5; C. S. 2451.)

§ 44-21. Owner to see laborers paid. — In all cases where steamships or vessels of any kind are loaded or unloaded or where any work is done in or about the same by the contractors to do the same known as stevedores or "boss stevedores," who in doing the same employ laborers to assist or do the work by the hour, day, week or month, it is the duty of the owner or agent of the vessel to see that the laborers employed in or about the same by the stevedore, contractor or "boss stevedore" are fully paid the wages that may be due such laborer before he makes final settlement with the contractor, stevedore or "boss stevedore." (Rev., s. 2046; 1887, c. 145, s. 1; C. S. 2452.)

§ 44-22. Owner may refuse to settle with contractor till laborers paid. — Any owner or agent referred to in the preceding section may refuse final settlement with the "boss stevedore" or contractor until he or they satisfy the said owner or agent, by written oath if necessary, that the same has been done. (Rev., s. 2047; 1887, c. 143, s. 2; C. S. 2453.)

§ 44-23. Owner may pay orders for wages. — It is lawful for the owner or agent of such vessel to pay off from time to time such orders for wages as may be due and given therefor in favor of the laborers by the contractor or stevedore, which on final settlement may be deducted from the contract price. (Rev., s. 2048; 1887, c. 145, s. 3; C. S. 2454.)

§ 44-24. Laborer's right of action against owner. — Any owner or agent of such vessel who neglects or refuses to comply with the preceding provisions is liable to such laborer in a civil action for the amount of the wages so due him by the contractor, stevedore or "boss stevedore." (Rev., s. 2049; 1887, c. 145, s. 4; C. S. 2455.)

§ 44-25. Stevedore's false oath punishable as perjury. — If any contractor, stevedore or boss stevedore shall make any false oath or false representation with intent to wrong, cheat or defraud any laborer in violation of the four preceding sections, he shall be guilty of a felony and on conviction thereof shall be punished as is now prescribed by law for perjury. (Rev., s. 3613; 1887, c. 145, s. 5; 1913, c. 542; C. S. 2456.)

Cross Reference.—As to punishment for perjury, see § 14-2047.

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment substituted the word "felony" for the word "misdemeanor" in line five.

§ 44-26. Stevedores to be licensed; omission misdemeanor. — No person shall engage in the business of loading or unloading vessels upon contract, nor shall any person solicit or make contract for himself or for any other person to load or unload any vessel either by day's work or by the job, without having previously obtained a license therefor, in the manner provided by law for other licenses for trades and occupations. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., ss. 2050, 3791; 1891, c. 450; 1899, c. 595; C. S. 2457.)

§ 44-27. Tax and bond on procuring license. — Before the sheriff shall issue the said license the applicant shall pay to the sheriff an annual tax of fifty dollars, and shall execute a bond with two or more approved sureties in the sum of two thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, and conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties and the due and lawful payment of all sums due to laborers assisting in the work of loading or unloading any vessels upon which the applicant may be engaged. And every bond so taken shall be renewed annually, and shall be filed with and preserved by the register of deeds in trust for every person that shall be injured by the breach of his contracts, who may severally bring suit thereon for the damages by each one sustained. (Rev., s. 2051; 1891, c. 450; C. S. 2458.)

Art. 4. Warehouse Storage Liens.

§ 44-28. Liens on goods stored for charges. — Every person, firm or corporation who furnishes storage room for furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise and makes a charge for storing the same, has the right to retain possession of and a lien upon all furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise until such storage charges are paid. (1913, c. 192, s. 1; 1915, c. 190, s. 2; C. S. 2459.)

Cross Reference.—As to effective period for lien on leaf tobacco, see § 44-64.

Application of Section.—This section applies to such persons, firms or corporations as operate warehouses as a business for compensation, and not to an isolated instance in which goods or chattels are left in a store or building of the claimant. Champion Shoe Machinery Co. v. Sellers, 197 N. C. 30, 147 S. E. 674.

§ 44-29. Enforcement by public sale.—If such charges are not paid within ten days after they become due, then such person, firm or corporation is authorized to sell said furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise at the courthouse door, or in some public places in the county, or in some newspaper published in the county where the goods or tobacco are stored, and out of the proceeds of such sale to pay the costs and expenses of sale and all costs and charges due for storage, and the surplus, if any, to the owner of such furniture, tobacco, goods, wares or merchandise.

Cross Reference.—As to requirement that the commissioner of revenue be given thirty days' notice of sale of a motor vehicle under a mechanic's or storage lien, see §§ 20-77, subsec. (c) and 20-114, subsec. (c).

Art. 5. Liens of Hotel, Boarding and Lodging-House Keeper.

§ 44-30. Lien on baggage.—Every hotel, boarding-house keeper and lodging-house keeper who furnishes board, bed or room to any person has the right to retain possession of and a lien upon all baggage or other property of such person that may have been brought to such hotel, boarding-house or lodging-house, until all reasonable charges for such room, bed and board are paid. (Rev., s. 2037; 1899, c. 615, s. 1; 1917, c. 26, s. 1; C. S. 2461.)

Cross Reference.—As to hotels, inns, etc., generally, see §§ 22-1 et seq.

Upon Property of a Third Party Stranger.—An innkeeper has a lien even upon the goods of a third person held by the guest and brought to the inn, with the qualification however, that if he knew that they belonged to such third person he has no lien upon them. Covington v. Newberger, 99 N. C. 523, 6 S. E. 295.

A hotel keeper's lien for charges, under this section, will not attach to a chattel belonging to a third person which is brought to the hotel by the guest under given circumstances. Pate Hotel Co. v. Blair, 207 N. C. 464, 177 S. E. 330.

Occasional Entertainment of Strangers Not Inkeeping.—One who entertains strangers only occasionally, although he receives compensation for it, is not an innkeeper. State v. Mathews, 19 N. C. 424.

The principles of the law of bailment, as they apply to an action for negligent breach of duty arising under the implied contract of bailment, are not affected by the statutory lien given by this section. Wells v. West, 212 N. C. 656, 194 S. E. 313.

A proprietor of a lodging house is not a bailee of personal property left in the room rented by the owner of the property, even though the proprietor has access to the room for janitor and maid service, there being no such delivery of possession of the personality necessary to establish the relationship, and this result is not affected by the statutory lien given by this section. Id.

§ 44-31. Baggage may be sold.—If such charges are not paid within ten days after they become due, then the hotel, boarding-house or lodging-house keeper is authorized to sell said baggage or other property at the courthouse door, or in front of any public building in the town in which the lien attaches, after first advertising such sale for ten days at said courthouse door and three other public places in the county, and out of the proceeds of sale to pay the costs and expenses of sale and all costs and charges due for said board, bed or room, and the surplus, if any, to the owner of said baggage or other property. (Rev., s. 2038: 1899, c. 615, s. 2; 1917, c. 26, s. 2; 1935, c. 364; C. S. 2462.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 adds the provision permitting sale in the front of any public building.

§ 44-32. Notice of sale.—Written notice of such sale shall be served on the owner of such baggage or other property ten days before such sale, if he is a resident of the state; but if he is a nonresident of the state, or if his residence is unknown, the publication of such notice for ten days at the courthouse door and three other public places in the county shall be sufficient service of the same. (Rev., s. 2039; 1887, c. 645, s. 3; C. S. 2463.)

Art. 6. Liens of Livery-Stable Keepers.

§ 44-33. Lien for ninety days keep on animals in possession.—Every keeper of livery, sale, or boarding stables has a lien upon and the right to retain the possession of every horse, mule, or other animal belonging to the owner or person contracting for the board and keep of any horse, mule, or other animal, for any and all unpaid amounts due for board of any horse, mule, or other animal. This lien shall not attach for amounts accruing for a longer period than ninety days from the reception of such property or from the last full settlement; nor does this lien apply if the property is removed from the possession of said keeper of said livery, sale, or boarding stable (1911, c. 141, s. 1; C. S. 2464.)

§ 44-34. Enforcement by public sale.—If such charges are not paid within fifteen days after they become due and demand is made for the same, then the keeper of such livery, sale or boarding stable is authorized to sell the property at the county courthouse door, after first advertising said sale for ten days at the county courthouse door and three other public places in said county, and out of the proceeds of such sale to pay the costs and charges due for the board and keep of said horse, mule, or other animal, including the charges for keeping said animal until said sale, and the surplus, if any, to the owner of said animal. (1911, c. 141, s. 2; C. S. 2465.)

§ 44-35. Notice of sale to owner.—Written notice of such sale shall be served on the owner of such horse, mule, or other animal ten days before such sale, if he is a resident of the state; but if he be a nonresident of the state, or if his residence is unknown, the publication of such notice for ten days at the county courthouse door and three other public places in the county shall be sufficient service of the same. (1911, c. 141, s. 3; C. S. 2466.)

Art. 7. Liens on Colts, Calves and Pigs.

§ 44-36. Season of sire a lien.—In all cases where the owner, or any agent for or employee of § 44-37. Colts, etc., not exempt from execution for season price.—The colt, calf, or pigs shall not be exempt from execution for the payment of said season price by reason of the operation of the personal property exemption: Provided, the person claiming such lien institutes action to enforce the same within twelve months from the foaling of the colt, dropping the calf, or farrowing of the pigs. (Rev. s. 2024; Code, s. 1797; 1885, c. 72; 1872-3, c. 94, s. 8; 1879, c. 47; 1915, c. 18; 1917, c. 229; C. S. 2467.)

Cross Reference.—As to personal property exemption, appraisal, see § 1-378.

Art. 8. Perfecting, Enforcing and Discharging Liens.

§ 44-38. Claim of lien to be filed; place of filing.—All claims against personal property, of two hundred dollars and under, may be filed in the office of the nearest justice of the peace; over two hundred dollars or against any real estate or interest therein, in the office of the superior court clerk in any county where the labor has been performed or the materials furnished; but all claims shall be filed in detail, specifying the materials furnished or labor performed, and the time thereof. If the parties interested make a special contract for such labor performed, or if such material and labor are specified in writing, in such cases it shall be decided agreeably to the terms of the contract, provided the terms of such contract do not affect the lien for such labor performed or materials furnished. (Rev., s. 2026; Code, s. 1784; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 4; 1876-7, c. 53, s. 1; C. S. 2467.)

Cross Reference.—As to duty of clerk to keep a lien docket, see § 2-43, paragraph 23.

As to when statement constitutes a lien without filing, see § 44-10. See note under § 44-1.

The purpose of filing mechanics', etc., claims for liens, under this section, is to give public notice of the claims, the amount, the material supplied or the labor done, and when done, on what property, specified with such details as will give reasonable notice to all persons of the character of the "claim," and the property to which it is attached. Where to Be Filed.—The notice of a lien required to be filed under this section, is to be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court, although the evidence is conflicting the question is for the jury to decide agreeably to the terms of the statute. Where to BeFiled.—The notice of a lien required to be filed, since the Act of 1878, c. 206, sec. 4, should be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court, although the materials began to be used before that Act went into effect when the law of 1868-69 was in force. Chadborn v. Williams, 71 N. C. 444, 446.

Same.—Prior to the Act of 1889-90, the notice required by this section was to be filed with the register of deeds. Chadborn v. Williams, 71 N. C. 444, 446.

Purpose of Claim Filed.—A claim of lien, filed under the provisions of the section must comply with the requirements of the statute. Therefore, when the plaintiff's claim is made after the labor is performed or the time when the material was furnished and the labor performed, it was irregular and void. Wray v. Harris, 77 N. C. 77.

The purpose of this requirement is to give public notice, in the offices designated, of the plaintiff's "claim," his debt, the amount of it, the materials supplied or the labor done, and when done, on what property, what farm or crop, and when, specified with such detail and certainty as will give reasonable notice to all persons of the character of the "claim," and the property to which it is attached, the same, attaches, and of the lien thereby established. It is to give the laborer an important advantage as to his debt due on account of his labor done on the property to which the lien attaches over the ordinary creditor, but to obtain that advantage, he must comply strictly, certainly substantially, in all material respects, with the requirements of the statute, and it is but reasonable and just that he should do so. Cook v. Cobb, 101 N. C. 68, 70, 7 S. E. 700.

While a substantial compliance with this section is necessary to the validity of a lien filed for material, etc., furnished in the construction of a building, and where the claimant file his itemized statement of the material used in a building which he had contracted to complete for the owner for one sum; but the time of the completion of the work must be stated. Jefferson & Bros. v. Bryant, 101 N. C. 404, 77 S. E. 341.

Where suit is brought by a contractor to enforce a lien on a building which was to have been paid for in a single sum, and when the claim as filed is defective, as filed with the clerk, in not stating the time the house was completed, as required by this section, it cannot be cured by amendment allowed in the superior court at the trial. Jefferson & Bros. v. Bryant, 101 N. C. 404, 77 S. E. 341.

Same.—Instances of Sufficiency.—When a lienor's schedule or material fur- nishes a full itemized statement in detail of the material furnished, and the clerk notes the names of the lienor and lien, the amount claimed by each lienor, a description of the property by materials and labor performed, and the dates letters bills of sale were furnished, referring to the schedule of prices and materials attached to the notice, asking that it "be taken as a part of the notice of lien," it is a sufficient compliance with this section. Fulp v. Kernersville Light, etc., Co., 157 N. C. 157, 72 S. E. 867.

Under this section requiring the claim for a laborer's lien to be filed in detail specifying the labor performed and the time thereof, the plaintiff filed his claim as follows before a justice of the peace: "J. S. C., owner and possessor, to D. A. C., 22 October, 1894. To 1235 days of labor as sawman at his sawmill on Jumping Run Creek, from 1 October, 1893, to 31 August, 1894, $127.24. (Signed) D. A. C., claimant," which was sworn to; it was held that the claim as filed was a reasonable and substantial compliance with the statute. Gaine v. Gainey, 203 N. C. 190, 165 S. E. 547.

In this case, claim, or notice of lien, was not made out in sufficient detail, "specifying the . . . labor performed, and the time thereof," the wages he was to receive, how and when to be paid, and furthermore, it was not made out in sufficient detail, and it appeared that purported notice of claim was filed "in the office of the nearest justice of peace" as required by this section. Gaine v. Gainey, 203 N. C. 190, 165 S. E. 547.

§ 44-39. Time of filing notice.—Notice of lien shall be filed as hereinbefore provided, except in those cases where a shorter time is prescribed, at any time within six months after the completion of the labor or the final furnishing of the materials, or the gathering of the crops. (Rev., s. 2028; Code, s. 1780; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 4; 1876-7, c. 53, s. 2; 1881, c. 65; 1883, c. 101; 1909, c. 32; 1913, c. 150, s. 7; C. S. 2470.)

Lien Relates Back.—When the notice is filed the lien is at once established, and relates back to the time when the work was commenced, or the materials were furnished. Lookout Lumber Co. v. Mansion Hotel, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 658, 661, 14 S. E. 35. Where the notice of claim under this section, the lien building against the owner relates back to the time the delivery was completed, and action must be commenced within six months after the time of the delivery of the work or materials furnished, the lien is preserved from the furnishing of the material and is superior to a deed of trust registered since that time, see note under § 44-1. The evidence is confusing in that the jury did not act under the instructions of the court. Atlas Supply Co. v. McCurry, 199 N. C. 799, 156 S. E. 91. See also note under § 44-1.
Same—Otherwise Statutes Would Be Defeated.—It must be clear that unless the claim when filed has relation back to the commencement of the furnishing of the materials, the obligation of the vendee of the materials by selling or mortgaging his estate, the act would be idle and ineffectual against the very mischief it was intended to cause (prevent). By allowing such lien to be perfected after the work has been started and then surveyed, it has put on a purchaser while the delivery is in progress the duty of informing himself whether the materials have been delivered or not, and under what sort of contract. Chadbourn v. Williams, 71 N. C. 444. The certain purpose is to protect the subcontractor or laborer against his claim against the owner of the property and all liens of whatever character that may attach to the property subsequently, and is not simply to the filing of the notice of claim in the office of the superior court. While the lien filed after the work was completed or the materials were furnished, Lookout Lumber Co. v. Mansion Hotel, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 658, 661, 14 S. E. 35, it is so, although the subsequent incumbent had no notice of the lien thus relating back. McNeal Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, etc., Co., 111 N. C. 615, 618, 16 S. E. 891. Where the claim is filed within the time and in the manner prescribed the lien relates back to the time of the beginning of the work or furnishing of the materials, and is effective against any subsequent encumbrance or purchase. Bankers’ Trust Co. v. Gillespie Co., 181 Fed. 448.

Filing in Six Months after Moneys Are Due.—In Porter v. Case, 187 N. C. 629, 123 S. E. 463, it was held that the lien for work done within the six months was valid. McNeal Pipe v. Rockfish Trading Co. 163 N. C. 314, 79 N. C. 62. The “shorter time” herein referred to evidently refers to the notice required to be given by section 44-13, was intended to provide for a longer time within which to give notice, that is, six months, where the transaction has been completed by the final furnishing of the materials. Atlas Powder Co. v. Denton, 176 N. C. 426, 431, 97 S. E. 372.

Filing of Claim against Railroad Company.—Under this section in the event a contractor or subcontractor furnished material for the construction of a railroad, is entitled to file a lien on the property of the company within one year, (now six months) from the time of doing such work for furnishing such material and, when filed, has precedence over a mortgage registered after the work has been commenced. Dunavant v. Caldwell, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 615, 618, 16 S. E. 891.

Validity of Section.—In McNeal Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, etc., Co., 111 N. C. 615, 623, 16 S. E. 897, this section was held to be valid. State v. Howley, 220 N. C. 113, 16 S. E. 2d (24). 705.

 § 44-40. Date of filing—fixes priority.—The liens created and established by this chapter shall be paid and settled according to the priority of the notice of the lien filed with the justice of the peace or clerk. (Rev., s. 2035; Code, s. 1792; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 11; C. S. 2471.)

In General.—Liens of materialmen and laborers are statutory, and by the clear provisions of this section and § 44-42 the liens of parties furnishing labor and material under subcontract contracts with the owner or lessee in accordance with the time of filing prior to any lien for the work or furnishing of material, and, when filed, the lien has priority over any other lien or encumbrance which attached to the property subsequent to the time at which the work was commenced. (Rev., s. 2093; Code, s. 1782; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 6; C. S. 2472.)

Cross Reference.—As to landlord’s lien on crops for rent advances, etc., see § 42-15 et seq.

Lien Prior to Other Subsequent Lien.—The lien created by this section is preferred to every other lien or encumbrance which attached to the property subsequent to the time at which the work was commenced, or the materials were furnished. Lookout Lumber Co. v. Mansion Hotel, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 658, 660, 14 S. E. 35.

Breach of Contract—Lien for Claim.—The lien provided for by this section arises out of the simple relation of debtor and creditor for labor done or materials furnished, and when there is no other security than the personal obligor the lien is good in accordance with law, but also with justice and equity, for when persons have put their money and labor in a building, and the balance due is insufficient to pay all, it is not right for one to have the whole fund, in the absence of a lien, because he gets to the clerk’s office first. Morgan Mfg., etc., Co. v. Andrews, 165 N. C. 285, 295, 81 S. E. 418. See also White v. Riddle, 198 N. C. 511, 514, 152 S. E. 501.

Duly filed claims of prior creditors not affected.—Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to affect the rights of any person to whom any debt may be due for any work done for which prior claim is filed with the proper officer. (Rev., s. 2035; Code, ss. 1782; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 6; C. S. 2473.)

Cross Reference.—As to priority of claims for labor over mortgages of a corporation, see §§ 55-41.

§ 44-43. Action to enforce lien.—Action to enforce the lien created must be commenced in the court of a justice of the peace, and in the superior court, according to the jurisdiction thereof, within six months from the date of filing the notice of the lien. But if the debt is not due within six months, but becomes due within twelve months, suit may be brought or other proceedings instituted to enforce the lien in thirty days after it is due. (Rev., s. 2027; Code, ss. 1785, 1790; 1869-9, c. 117, s. 7; 1869-70, c. 206, s. 5; 1876-7, c. 250; C. S. 2474.)

When Section Not Applicable.—This section cannot have been intended to apply in cases in which the lien should be unnecessary, and a complete and efficient measure of relief is committed to and may be obtained by the parties’ own act. McNeal Pipe v. Rockfish Trading Co. 163 N. C. 314, 79 N. C. 62.

Juristication of Circuit Court of U. S.—While this section gives a right of action at law, for the enforcement of a mechanic’s lien, a circuit court of the United States sitting in equity has jurisdiction to entertain a bill for that purpose, when attachment available to plaintiff.

In all cases where the owner or employer attempts to remove the crop, houses or appurtenances from the premises, without the permission, or with the intent to deprive the lienor of his lien, the claimant may have a remedy by attachment (Rev., s. 2031; Code, s. 1785; 1869-70, c. 117, s. 14; C. S. 2475.)

§ 44-45. Sufficiency of Affidavit for Attachment.—Under this section, giving a remedy by attachment to enforce a laborer's lien, an affidavit that the defendant has removed and is removing and disposing of the cotton crop, or with the intent to deprive the lienor of his lien, the claimant may have a remedy by attachment (Rev., s. 2031; Code, s. 1785; 1869-70, c. 117, s. 14; C. S. 2475.)

§ 44-46. Discharge of lien.—All liens created by this chapter may be discharged as follows:

1. By filing with the justice or clerk a receipt or acknowledgment, signed by the claimant, that the lien has been paid or discharged.

2. By depositing with the justice or clerk money equal to the amount of the claim, which money shall be held by said officer for the benefit of the claimant.

3. By an entry in the lien docket the action on the part of the claimant to enforce the lien has been dismissed, or a judgment rendered against the claimant in such action.

4. By a failure of the claimant to commence an action for the enforcement of the lien within six months from the notice of lien filed. (Rev., s. 2033; Code, s. 1793; 1868-9, c. 117, s. 12; C. S. 2179.)

Failure to Enforce as Discharge.—Failure of claimant to enforce his lien within six months as prescribed by section 44-43 operates as a discharge of the lien. Norfleet v. Tarboro Cotton Factory, 172 N. C. 833, 89 S. E. 785.

Art. 9. Liens upon Recoveries for Personal Injuries to Secure Sums Due for Medical Attention, etc.

§ 44-49. Lien created; applicable to persons non sui juris.—From and after March 26, 1935, there is hereby created a lien upon any sums recovered as damages for personal injury in any civil action in this State, the said lien in favor of any person or corporation of the person so recovering, or the person in whose behalf the recovery has been made, may be indebted for drugs, medical supplies, and medical services rendered by any physician, dentist, trained nurse, or hospitalization, or hospital attention and/or services rendered in connection with the injury in compensation for which the said damages have been recovered. Where damages are recovered for and in behalf of minors or persons non compos mentis, such liens shall attach to the sums recovered as fully and effectively as if the said person were sui juris. (1935, c. 121, s. 1.)

§ 44-50. Receiving person charged with duty of retaining funds for purpose stated; evidence; attorney's fees; charges.—A like lien shall attach to all funds paid to any person in compensation for or settlement of the said injuries, whether in litigation or otherwise; and it shall be the duty of any person receiving the same before disbursement thereof to retain out of any recovery or any compensation so received a sufficient amount to pay the just and bona fide claims for such drugs, medical supplies, and medical attention and/or hospital service, after having received and accepted notice thereof: Provided, that evidence as to the amount of such charges shall be competent in the trial of any such action: Provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to interfere with any amount due for attorney's services: Provided, further, that the lien hereinbefore provided for shall in no case, exclusive of attorneys' fees, exceed fifty per cent of the amount of damages recovered. (1935, c. 121, s. 2.)

§ 44-51. Disputed claims to be settled before payments.—Whenever the sum or amount or amounts demanded for medical services or hospital fees shall be in dispute, nothing in this article shall have any effect of compelling payment thereof until the claim is fully established and determined, in the manner provided by law: Provided, however, that when any such sums are in dispute the amount of the lien shall in no case exceed the amount of the bills in dispute. (1935, c. 121, s. 3; 1943, c. 543.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote the proviso.

Art. 10. Agricultural Liens for Advances.

§ 44-52. Lien on crops for advances.—If any person makes any advance either in money or supplies to any person who is engaged in or about to engage in the cultivation of the soil, the person making the advances is entitled to a lien on the crops made within one year from the date of the agreement in writing herein required upon the land in the cultivation of which the advance has been expended, in preference to all other liens, except laborer's and landlord's liens, to the extent of such advances. Before any advance is made an agreement in writing for the advance shall be entered into, specifying the amount to be advanced, or fixing a limit beyond which the advance, if made from time to time during the year, shall not go; and said agreement shall be registered in the office of the register of the county or counties where the land is situated on which the crops of the person advanced are to be grown. Provided, that where a county line divides a farm the crop lien may be recorded in the county where the owner of said farm resides; Provided, he resides on said farm; Provided, that the lien shall continue to be good and effective as to any crop or crops which may be harvested after the end of the said year, and referred to in the said lien. (Rev., s. 2052; Code, s. 1799; 1893, c. 9; 1866-7, c. 1, s. 1; 1822-3, c. 133, s. 1; 1925, c. 303, s. 1; 1927, c. 22; 1935, c. 205; C. S. 2480.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—This section was amended in 1925, whereupon which the lien of this section becomes effective are the previous reduction of the contract for it to writing, setting out its terms, and registration; these provisions are manifestly for the security of creditors and others who may have dealings with the debtor and otherwise might not know of the encumbrances upon the crop. And so it has been held that registration is not essential to the validity of the statute dealing with chattel mortgages. Clark v. Farrar, 74 N. C. 686, 690, in Nash, 78 N. C. 100; Reese & Co. v. Cole, 93 N. C. 87, 89.

Compliance with Requirements Prerequisite. — The lien can only be enforced by compliance with its requirements. Where the section has not been followed, to sustain the agreement as an agricultural lien would utterly defeat the letter and the public policy enunciated by the statute dealing with chattel mortgages. Nash, 78 N. C. 100; Reese & Co. v. Cole, 93 N. C. 87, 89.

Strict Construction—Lienor Not Bound to See Materials Are Used on the Land.—This section was not intended simply to give to a lienor a lien upon a crop for advances; but also to give such a lien a preference to all other liens existing or otherwise to the extent of such advance. Therefore, it should be strictly construed when the rights of other creditors intervene. Where such claims do exist, it has been held that the lienor must determine his own needs in conducting his farm, and that his acceptance must be deemed conclusive between the parties, and not less so upon the claim of a subsequently derived title, and where the section has not been followed, to sustain the agreement as an agricultural lien in respect to crops are confined to crops after such advances are made, stands in no better plight, and is likewise bound by such admission. Womble v. Leach, 83 N. C. 84; Nichols & Bros. v. Speller, 102, 150 S. E. 706.

Not Retroactive.—This section has no retroactive effect so as to impair laborers' liens under section 44-41. Warren v. Woodard, 70 N. C. 382.

Articles to Be Considered 'Supplies.'—One who gives a lien on a crop to obtain supplies, under the provisions of this section, is estopped from asserting that articles which he received as a compliance with the contract, and a second mortgagee, who acquires an interest in the crop after such advances are made, stands in no better plight, and is likewise bound by such admission. Womble v. Leach, 83 N. C. 84; Nichols & Bros. v. Speller, 102, 150 S. E. 706.

Power of Sale Upon Default.—An instrument giving a lien on a crop for supplies to be furnished in making a crop and also conveys personal property as additional security, with the ordinary powers of sale, is valid both as a chattel mortgage and an agricultural lien. Nash, 78 N. C. 75, 78, 26 S. E. 632; Collins v. Bass, 106 N. C. 99, 102, 130 S. E. 706. In an instrument which gives a lien on a crop for supplies to be furnished in making a crop under this section, as a chattel mortgage and an agricultural lien, it is a lien that is secondary to that of the landlord's for rent, and a paperwriting of the agreement is required. If the requisites prescribed by the provisions of this section both as to context and registration are not material which precedes in actual time, for in contemplation of law the lien is prior to the execution, has no rights as an agricultural lienor by virtue of this section. Crinkley v. Egerton, 113 N. C. 127, 18 S. E. 341.

Mortgage on Crops as Agricultural Lien.—A mortgage, under a mortgage on a crop not expressed to be for advances to be made and not recorded after its execution, has no mortgage of prior date and registration upon the "crops" therein subjected to the extent of the advances made. Wooten v. Hill, 98 N. C. 48, 3 S. E. 846. Killbrew v. Hines, 104 N. C. 232, 131 S. E. 515, 516.

B. Registration.

Registration Not Necessary Inter Partes.—A crop lien to secure agricultural advances executed under this section is valid inter partes, although not registered within thirty days after the execution, has no rights as an agricultural lienor by virtue of this section. Crinkley v. Egerton, 113 N. C. 127, 18 S. E. 341.

Time of Registration Subsequent to Amendment.—Effect.—In N. C. § 44-52, it is provided that "a lienor fails to require registration within any specified time before the harvesting of the crop. What would be the effect of two persons making advances on the same crop, when the lienor for the second advance registered his lien on the 20th of September? It has been held that a mortgage on a crop, not expressed to be for advances, and not registered within 30 days after execution, has no rights as an agricultural lienor by virtue of this section. Crinkley v. Egerton, 113 N. C. 127, 18 S. E. 341.

Same.—It is Immaterial Which Act is Done First.—The agreement is a single transaction between the parties, executed by one in making the advances, and by the other in providing the statutory security for their payment. In such a case it is indifferent which act is first done, if both are done at the same time and in execution of their contract and understanding. The purpose is to enable the former to obtain the means of making his crop by creating a lien upon it when made, and the requirement for registration is for the use of the latter, who may deal with them. Reese & Co. v. Cole, 93 N. C. 87, 90.

B. Registration.

Registration Not Necessary Inte}
IV. DESCRIPTION OF LAND.
Identification of the Land by Sufficient Description.—The land on which the crops are to be grown must be sufficiently identified at the time the lien is executed. Within this ruling land is sufficiently identified when described as "a field or farm in possession of the mortgagor or seller." Well v. Flowers, 109 N. C. 212, 13 S. E. 761; Gwathney v. Etheridge, 59 N. C. 571, 6 S. E. 411.
An instrument giving a lien upon crops raised "upon Opossum Quarter tract of land in Warren County, known as the tract M. W. is buying from Egerton, or any other lands he may cultivate during the present year," sufficiently described the lands upon which the crops were to be raised, and was effective as to the crops raised on the land described, but void as to those raised on "any other lands." Crinkley v. Egerton, 113 N. C. 142, 18 S. E. 341.

V. EVIDENCE.
Extraneous Evidence to Show Time of Furnishing Materials.—Where an instrument intended to operate as an agricultural lien contains, on its face, the statutory requisites, except that it does not show that the money or supplies were furnished after the agreement, it is competent to show, dehors such instrument, that the supplies were furnished after the making of the agreement. Meekins v. Walker, 119 N. C. 46, 25 S. E. 760. Such evidence would not contradict the written instrument. Id.

§ 44-53. Contract for advances to mortgagor in possession. — The preceding section shall apply to all contracts made for the advancement of money and supplies, or either, for the purposes herein specified by mortgagors or trustees, their tenants, lessees or croppers, who may be in possession of the lands mortgaged or conveyed in trust at the time of the making of the contract for such advancement of money or supplies, either in case the debts secured in said mortgage or deed of trust be due or not. (Rev., s. 2053; 1889, c. 2483.)

§ 44-54. Price to be charged for articles advanced limited. — In order to be entitled to the benefits of the lien on crops in favor of landlords and other persons advancing supplies under the article, Agricultural Tenancies, of the chapter, Landlord and Tenant, and under the present article, or on a chattel mortgage on crops, such landlord or person shall charge for such supplies a price not price of not more than ten per cent over the average retail cash price of the same article or articles upon which such overcharge is made. At the time of each sale there shall be delivered to the purchaser a memorandum showing the cash prices of the articles advanced. (1917, c. 134, s. 1; 1921, c. 89; C. S. 2482.)

Local Modification.—Columbus and Scotland: 1931, c. 95; Greene: 1941, c. 210; Lenoir: 1929, c. 362; Robeson: 1929, c. 20.

Editor's Note.—The proviso to the first sentence of this section was added by the amendment of 1921.

§ 44-55. "Cash prices" defined and determined. — In the case of retail merchants, the retail cash price or prices shall be the average retail cash price or prices charged by the same merchant to cash customers for the same article or articles in like quantities at the same time. In the case of advances of supplies by landlords or other persons not engaged in business as retail merchants, or by retail merchants who have no regular cash prices, if the prices charged are called into question by the purchaser the retail cash price or prices of the supplies advanced may be determined by taking the average between the cash price or prices for the same class or classes of goods of two neighboring merchants, one selected by the landlord or other person making the advance and the other by the one to whom the advance is made. (1917, c. 134, s. 2; C. S. 2483.)

Local Modification.—Columbus and Scotland: 1931, c. 95; Greene: 1941, c. 210; Lenoir: 1929, c. 362; Robeson: 1929, c. 20.

§ 44-56. Person advanced not estopped by agreement. — No agreement or understanding between the parties as to the price or prices to be charged shall work an estoppel against the person to whom supplies have been advanced from showing that the price or prices charged were in fact more than ten per cent over the average retail cash price or prices in that locality at the time the advance or advances were made. If the price or prices charged by the merchants or landlord were in fact more than ten per cent, then the lien shall be null and void as to the article or articles upon which such overcharge is made. (1917, c. 134, s. 2; C. S. 2484.)

Local Modification.—Columbus and Scotland: 1931, c. 95; Greene: 1941, c. 210; Lenoir: 1929, c. 362; Robeson: 1929, c. 20.

§ 44-57. Commission in lieu of interest, where advance in money. — Any person, firm, or corporation, including any bank or credit union, making any advancement in money to any person for the purpose of enabling such person to cultivate a crop, and taking as sole security for the advance so made a lien or mortgage on the crops to be cultivated and the personal property of the person to whom the advances are made, may charge, in lieu of interest, a commission of not more than ten per cent of the amount of money actually advanced: Provided, that money advanced under the provisions of this section shall be advanced in installments agreed upon at the time of the contract, and the ten per cent commission herein allowed shall not be deducted, but shall be added to the amount of money agreed to be advanced. (1917, c. 134, s. 3; C. S. 2486.)

Local Modification.—Lenoir: 1929, c. 262; Robeson: 1929, c. 20.

§ 44-58. Disposition of commission, where advanced by credit union.—In case the money is advanced by a credit union, the funds derived from the ten per cent commission allowed in the preceding section shall be used to pay such interest as the union may pay for the money borrowed by it for the benefit of its members, and to cover losses sustained by the union on account of loans made to members, and to further cover any reasonable expenses incurred by the union in connection with the loans made to members, and the balance of said fund shall be returned to the borrowers at the end of each year. (1917, c. 134, s. 4; C. S. 2486.)

Local Modification.—Lenoir: 1929, c. 262; Robeson: 1929, c. 20.

§ 44-59. Purchasers for value protected.—All liens or mortgages made under the provisions of this article shall be valid for their face value in the hands of purchasers for value and before maturity, even though the charges made are in excess of those allowed herein; but in such case the party to whom the advances are made has the right to recover from the party making the advances any sum he may be compelled to pay a third party in excess of the charges allowed by this article. (1917, c. 134, ss. 5, 8; C. S. 2487.)

Local Modification.—Lenoir: 1929, c. 262; Robeson: 1929, c. 20.

§ 44-60. Crop seized and sold to preserve lien.—If the person making such advances makes an affidavit before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such crops are, that the amount secured by said lien for such advances, or any part thereof, is due and unpaid, that the person to whom such advances have been made, or any other person having the said crop in his possession, is about to sell or dispose of his crop, or in any other way is about to defeat the lien hereinafter provided for, accompanied with a statement of the amount then due, it is lawful for him to issue his warrant, directed to any of the sheriffs of the state, requiring them to seize the said crop, and, after due notice, sell the same for cash and pay over the net proceeds thereof, or so much thereof as may be necessary in the extinguishment of the amount then due. This proceeding shall not affect the rights of landlords or laborers. (Rev., s. 2054; Code, s. 1800; 1893, c. 9; 1866-7, c. 1, s. 2; 1873-4, c. 133, s. 4, c. 2; 1883, c. 58; C. S. 2488.)

Purpose of Section—Remedy of Cultivator.—The purpose of this section is to give a summary remedy to the party to whose advantage it is lawful for him to issue his warrant, directed to any of the sheriffs of the state, requiring them to seize the said crop, and, after due notice, sell the same for cash and pay over the net proceeds thereof, or so much thereof as may be necessary in the extinguishment of the amount then due. This proceeding shall not affect the rights of landlords or laborers. (Rev., s. 2054; Code, s. 1800; 1866-7, c. 1, s. 2; 1873-4, c. 133, s. 2; 1883, c. 58; C. S. 2488.)

§ 44-61. Lienor's claim disputed; proceeds of sale held; issue made for trial.—If the person to whom the advances have been made, who claims an interest in the crops, within thirty days after such sale has been made, gives notice in writing to the sheriff, accompanied with an affidavit, to the effect that the amount claimed is not justly due, it is the duty of the sheriff to hold the proceeds of such sale subject to the decision of the court upon an issue which shall be made and set for trial at the next succeeding term of the court upon an issue which shall be made and set for trial at the next succeeding term of the court. If the defendant's affidavit denying the indebtedness is false or in any other way is about to defeat the lien hereinafter provided for, accompanied with an affidavit denying the indebtedness is false, the sheriff may issue a warrant which he may have imprudently issued under this section. Cottingham & Bro. v. McKay, 86 N. C. 241, 243.

Revocation of Warrant by Clerk.—There can be no question of the reserved power in the clerk to revoke and supersede a warrant which he may have improvidently issued under this section. Cottingham & Bro. v. McKay, 86 N. C. 241, 243.

§ 44-63. Lienor's claim disputed; proceedings of sale held; issue made for trial. —If the person to whom the advances have been made, who claims an interest in the crops, within thirty days after such sale has been made, gives notice in writing to the sheriff, accompanied with an affidavit, to the effect that the amount claimed is not justly due, it is the duty of the sheriff to hold the proceeds of such sale subject to the decision of the court upon an issue which shall be made and set for trial at the next succeeding term of the court. If the defendant's affidavit denying the indebtedness is false or in any other way is about to defeat the lien hereinafter provided for, accompanied with an affidavit denying the indebtedness is false, the sheriff may issue a warrant which he may have improvidently issued under this section. Cottingham & Bro. v. McKay, 86 N. C. 241, 243.

§ 44-64. Lienor's claim disputed; proceedings of sale held; issue made for trial. —If the person to whom the advances have been made, who claims an interest in the crops, within thirty days after such sale has been made, gives notice in writing to the sheriff, accompanied with an affidavit, to the effect that the amount claimed is not justly due, it is the duty of the sheriff to hold the proceeds of such sale subject to the decision of the court upon an issue which shall be made and set for trial at the next succeeding term of the court. If the defendant's affidavit denying the indebtedness is false or in any other way is about to defeat the lien hereinafter provided for, accompanied with an affidavit denying the indebtedness is false, the sheriff may issue a warrant which he may have improvidently issued under this section. Cottingham & Bro. v. McKay, 86 N. C. 241, 243.

Revocation of Warrant by Clerk.—There can be no question of the reserved power in the clerk to revoke and supersede a warrant which he may have improvidently issued under this section. Cottingham & Bro. v. McKay, 86 N. C. 241, 243.

§ 44-65. Lienor's claim disputed; proceedings of sale held; issue made for trial. —If the person to whom the advances have been made, who claims an interest in the crops, within thirty days after such sale has been made, gives notice in writing to the sheriff, accompanied with an affidavit, to the effect that the amount claimed is not justly due, it is the duty of the sheriff to hold the proceeds of such sale subject to the decision of the court upon an issue which shall be made and set for trial at the next succeeding term of the court. If the defendant's affidavit denying the indebtedness is false or in any other way is about to defeat the lien hereinafter provided for, accompanied with an affidavit denying the indebtedness is false, the sheriff may issue a warrant which he may have improvidently issued under this section. Cottingham & Bro. v. McKay, 86 N. C. 241, 243.

Revocation of Warrant by Clerk.—There can be no question of the reserved power in the clerk to revoke and supersede a warrant which he may have improvidently issued under this section. Cottingham & Bro. v. McKay, 86 N. C. 241, 243.

§ 44-66. Local: Short form of liens.—For the purpose of creating a valid agricultural lien under the preceding sections for supplies to be advanced, a lien for an advanced chattel mortgage as additional security therefor, and to secure a pre-existing debt, the following or a substantially similar form shall be deemed sufficient, and for those purposes legally effective, in the counties of Alamance, Alleghany, Anson, Editor's Note.—By the amendments of 1925 and 1931 Randolph and Franklin Counties were brought within the scope of this section.

No Particular Form Required.—This section requires no particular form for the written instrument creating a valid agricultural lien but that it be substantially according to that therein prescribed, and the courts in construing it will look to the substance rather than the form and regard the entire writing with the view of ascertaining and effectuating the intention of the parties; and an instrument expressing itself to be an agricultural lien, and given in consideration of money or goods to be advanced for the purpose of making crops on certain land for the current year, with certain other property pledged as additional security, is sufficient without further designation, it appearing that the parties intended it to be one. Jones-Phillips Co. v. McCormick, 174 N. C. 82, 93 S. E. 449.

§ 44-63. Local: Rights on liens' failure to cultivate. — If any person in the counties mentioned in the preceding section, after executing a lien as aforesaid for advances, fails to cultivate the lands described therein, or does any other act calculated to impair the security therein given, then the person to whom the lien was executed is relieved from any further obligation to furnish supplies, and the debts and advances theretofore made become due and collectible at once, and the person to whom the instrument was executed may proceed to take possession of, cultivate and harvest said crops, and to sell the other property described therein. It is not necessary to incorporate such power in the instrument, but this section is sufficient authority for the same. The sale of any property described in any instrument executed under the provisions of this chapter may be made at any place in the county where such property is situated after ten days notice published at the courthouse door and three other public places in said county. (Rev., s. 2056; 1899, c. 17, s. 3; 1901, c. 329, s. 3; C. S. 2491.)

§ 44-64. Local: Commissioners to furnish blank records.—The board of commissioners of the said counties shall have record books made with the aforesaid forms printed therein, and the cost of said books and of the printing of said forms, and of such other said books as may be hereafter required, shall be paid by the respective counties, and furnished to the register of deeds. (Rev., s. 2057; 1899, c. 17, s. 4; 1901, c. 329, s. 4; C. S. 2492.)

Art. 11. Liens for Internal Revenue.

§ 44-65. Filing notice of lien.—Notices of liens for internal revenue taxes payable to the United States of America and certificates discharging such liens may be filed in the office of the register of deeds of the county or counties within which the property subject to such lien is situated. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 44, s. 1.)

§ 44-66. Duty of register of deeds.—When a notice of such tax lien is filed, the register of deeds shall forthwith enter the same in alphabetical Federal lien tax index to be provided by the board of county commissioners, showing on one line the name and residence of the taxpayer named in such notice, the collector's serial number of such notice, the date and hour of filing, and the amount of tax and penalty assessed. 45-6. Renunciation by representative; clerk appoints trustee.
45-7. Agent to sell under power may be appointed by parol.
45-8. Survivorship among donees of power of sale.
45-9. Clerk appoints successor to incompetent trustee.
45-10. Substitution of trustees in mortgages and deeds of trust.
45-11. Appointment of substitute trustee upon application of subsequent or prior lienholders; effect of substitution.
45-13. Right of appeal by any person interested; judge to review findings of clerk de novo.
45-15. Registration of substitution constructive notice.
45-16. Register of deeds to make marginal entry of substituted trustee.
45-17. Substitution made as often as justifiable.
45-18. Validation of certain acts of substituted trustees.
45-19. Mortgage to guardian; powers pass to succeeding guardian.
45-20. Sales by mortgagees and trustees confirmed.
45-20.1. Validation of trustees' deeds where seals omitted.

Sec. 45-21. Validation of appointment of and conveyances to corporations as trustees.

Art. 3. Mortgage Sales.
45-22. Limitation of time for attacking certain foreclosures on ground trustee was agent, etc., of owner of debt.
45-23. Personal property; notice and place of sale.
45-24. Foreclosure of conditional sales.
45-25. Real property; notice of sale must describe premises.
45-26. Real property; power of sale barred when foreclosure barred.
45-26.1. Real property; validation of deeds made after expiration of statute of limitations where sales made prior thereto.
45-27. Land lying in two or more counties; place of sale.
45-28. Reopening judicial sales, etc., on advanced bid.
45-29. Surplus after sale to be paid to clerk, in certain cases.
45-30. Special proceedings to determine ownership of surplus.
45-31. Orders signed on days other than first and third Mondays validated; force and effect of deeds.
45-32. Injunction of mortgage sales on equitable grounds.
45-33. Ordering resales before confirmation; receivers for property; tax payments.
45-34. Right of mortgagor to prove in deficiency suits reasonable value of property by way of defense.
45-35. Sections 45-32 to 45-35 not applicable to tax suits.
45-36. Deficiency judgments abolished where mortgage represents part of purchase price.

Art. 4. Discharge and Release.
45-37. Discharge of record of mortgages and deeds of trust.
45-38. Entry of foreclosure.
§ 45-1 CH. 45. MORTGAGES AND DEEDS OF TRUST  § 45-3

Sec. 45-39. Trustees or mortgagees making sales to file accounts.

45-40. Register to enter satisfaction on index.

45-41. Recorded deed of release of mortgagee's representative.

§ 45-1. Form of chattel mortgage.—Any person indebted to another in a sum to be secured may execute a chattel mortgage in form substantially as follows:

I, .................................., of the county of .................................., in the state of North Carolina, am indebted to .................................., of .................. county, in said state, in the sum of .......... dollars, for which he holds my note to be due the .... of ............. A. D. 19 ......., and to secure the payment of the debt hereby incurred by him to me articles of personal property to wit: ..................................

but on this special trust, that if I fail to pay said debt and interest on or before the .... day of ............. A. D. 19 ......., then he may sell said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, by public auction for cash, first giving twenty days notice at three public places, and apply the proceeds of such sale to the discharge of said debt and interest on the same, and pay any surplus to me.

Given under my hand and seal this .... day of ............. A. D. 19 .......

(Seal.)

(R. e. 1911, c. 95, p. 1; c. S. 2375.)

Essential Elements.—No particular form is essential to the validity of a chattel mortgage; mere informality will not vitiate it. No seal is necessary. It is sufficient if the words employed express in terms or by just implication the purpose of the parties to transfer the property to the mortgagee, to be reasserted in the mortgagee upon the performance of the condition agreed upon, however informally expressed. A power of sale is not essential. Comron v. Standel, 103 N. C. 207, 9 S. E. 808.

§ 45-2. Registration. — Chattel mortgages substantially in the form provided in § 45-1 are good to all intents and purposes when the same are duly registered according to law. (Rev. s. 1040; Code, ss. 1273; 1870-1, c. 277; ss. 1, 2; C. S. 2375.)

Cross References.—As to place of registration, see § 47-20. As to fee to register of deeds for registering chattel mortgage, etc., see §§ 101-30. As to offense of disposing of personal property, etc., see § 39-14. As to encumbered property and punishment therefor, see § 14-114.

In General.—The lien of the chattel mortgage is created by registering the original instrument, and such registration is conclusive evidence of the existence of the lien. It is not material to the public whether the debt and property were transferred by the mortgagee. The purpose of the Legislature in passing the statute in reference to registration was to prevent the creation of secret liens which embarrass trade and tend to encourage fraud. Hodges v. Wilkinson, 111 N. C. 55, 65, 15 S. E. 941.

Sec. 45-42. Release of corporate mortgages by corporate officers.

Art. 5. Real Estate Mortgage Loans.

45-43. Real estate mortgage loans; commissions.

Necessity of Registration Between the Parties.—Registration is not essential between the parties to the mortgage. Thomas v. Cooksey, 139 N. C. 148, 151, 41 S. E. 2; William v. Jones, 93 N. C. 384, 54 S. E. 954.

Registration Prior Assignment Gives Priority.—The registration of a mortgage prior to attachments issued by creditor makes it superior to the creditor's lien, but only on property situated in the county where the mortgage was registered. Williamson v. Biting, 159 N. C. 321, 74 S. E. 838.

No Special Statutory Mode of Registration.—There is no special statutory mode presented for the registration of a chattel mortgage. If it is actually registered and indexed, that is sufficient. This section does not determine the mode. Williamson v. Biting, 159 N. C. 321, 322, 74 S. E. 838.

Assignment of Mortgage Not Required to Be Registered.—There is no provision which requires assignments of chattel mortgages or the debts secured by them to be proven or registered; nor is there any good reason for enacting such a law, though it has been done in other states. The mortgage is declared "good to all intents and purposes" when registered according to law. No matter how often it be assigned, it is still good to protect the interest of the holder of the debt. Hodges v. Atkinson, 111 N. C. 56, 65, 15 S. E. 941.

Delivery to Register in His Office Necessary.—It is required for a valid filing of a mortgage that it be delivered at the office of the register of deeds, and until then it can acquire no priority over one theretofore executed; and where two mortgages given to different persons on the same subject-matter are delivered to the register of deeds out of his official office, carried by him to that place and marked by him filed at the same time, the filing and registration are required to be simultaneously, and the mortgage first executed will have priority of lien. McHan v. Dorsev, 173 N. C. 92; 92 S. E. 350.

Registry after Death of Mortgagor.—A mortgage both of land and personal property may be registered after the death of the mortgagor. William v. Jones, 95 N. C. 594.

§ 45-3. Mortgage of household and kitchen furniture. — A conveyance of household and kitchen furniture by a married man, to secure the payment of money or other things of value, are void, unless the wife joins therein and her privy examination is taken in the manner prescribed by law in conveyances of real estate, except when said mortgage or conveyance is executed for the purchase money thereof. (Rev., s. 1911; 1911, c. 91; 1931, c. 211; C. S. 2377.)

Cross References.—As to conveyance of home site, see § 30-3. As to forms of acknowledgment, see §§ 47-38, 47-39, 54-50.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the exception as to purchase money mortgage. The amendment does not contravene the policy of the law designed for the protection of the wife as pointed out by Justice Lenoir in Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173 N. C. 329, 91 S. E. 1028. It is also consistent with the law which permits the husband to execute a mortgage or deed of trust on his real estate that will be valid as against his wife without her joinder in the instrument. See § 39-13. 9 N. C. Law Rev.

Provisions within Police Power of State.—The provisions of the section are in exercise of the police power of a State and promotive of its economic welfare and public convention and comfort, and designed for the protection of the home, and marital and personal and domestic settlement. Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173 N. C. 329, 91 S. E. 1028.

Doctrine of Section Public Policy.—The requirements that the wife must join in the conveyance of the husband's realty, in the conveyance of his allotted homestead, and in a mortgage of his household and kitchen furniture, and that the husband must give his written assent to the conveyance by the wife of her realty, are all of a piece as a declaration of public policy. Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173 N. C. 339, 336, 91 S. E. 1028.
Distinguished from § 30-8—Constitutionality.—A distinction between this section and § 30-8 should be noted. In this section the conveyance without the joinder of the wife of the husband of the personal property is invalid, so that, as the conveyance is declared to be invalid only for certain purposes. The owner of household and kitchen furniture is deprived absolutely of the right to convey said property by mortgage, without the consent of his wife, whereas the owner of a home site is deprived of such right only to a limited extent. If the former statute is constitutional, as held by the Constitution recognizes such a requirement. Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173 N. C. 329, 337, 91 S. E. 1028.

Whether the provisions of the act could be made to apply in the case of a chattel mortgage, or a chattel mortgage, or in any other way by which a lien could be fixed thereon, of the property named, as by deed of trust or conditional sale, without giving her assent thereto, is within the power of the General Assembly and is in line with the same requirement in the Constitution, as to the joinder of the wife in the convenience of the alloted homestead—the only instance in which the Constitution recognizes such a requirement. Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173 N. C. 329, 337, 91 S. E. 1028.

Liberal Construction—Goods for Sale in Shop Not Covered.—The words "household and kitchen furniture" may be construed to mean that species of property which is in actual use, but also that which is on sale in shops, yet no one will contend that this statute should be construed so literally as to embrace articles of this kind of the latter class.

Kelly v. Fleming, 113 N. C. 133, 139, 18 S. E. 81.

§ 45-6. Renunciation by representative; clerk or collector; before sale.—The executor or administrator of any deceased mortgagee or trustee where the heirs of the mortgagee were duly made parties and regular and orderly decrees of foreclosure entered by the court and sale had by a commissioner appointed by the court for that purpose and deed made after confirmation, the title so conveyed to purchaser at such judicial sale shall be deemed and held to be vested in such purchaser, whether the heir of such deceased mortgagee or trustee was a party to such foreclosure proceeding or not, and such heir of any deceased mortgagee is estopped to bring or prosecute any further action against such purchaser for the recovery of such property or foreclosure of such mortgage or deed in trust. (Rev., s. 1032; 1905, c. 425, s. 2; C. S. 2579.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 199, inserted the words "or collector" following the words "executor or administrator."
§ 45-7

Agent to sell under power may be appointed by parol.—All sales of property, real or personal, under a power of sale contained in any mortgage or deed of trust to secure the payment of money, by any mortgagee or trustee, through an agent or attorney for that purpose, appointed orally or in writing by such mortgagee or trustee, whether such writing has been or shall be registered or not, shall be valid, whether or not such mortgagee or trustee was or shall be present at such sale. (Rev., s. 1035; 1895, c. 117; C. S. 2581.)

Recitals in Deed Prima Facie Correct.—Recitals in a trustee's deed that the trustee made the sale in pursuance of the power contained in the deed of trust are taken as prima facie correct. Hayes v. Ferguson, 206 N. C. 414, 174 S. E. 121.

§ 45-8. Survivorship among donees of power of sale.—In all mortgages and deeds of trust wherein two or more persons, as trustees or otherwise, are given power to sell the property therein conveyed or embraced, and one or more of such persons dies, any one of the persons surviving having such power may make sale of such property in the manner directed in such deed, and execute such assurances of title as are proper and lawful under the power so given; and the act of such person, in pursuance of said power, shall be as valid and binding as if the same had been done by all the persons on whom the power was conferred. (Rev., s. 1033; 1885, c. 327, s. 2; C. S. 2582.)

Editor's Note.—See 13 N. C. Law Rev. 93.

Execution of Power by Survivor Trustee in Mortgage.—Where one of two trustees in a power of sale mortgage dies, the survivor may execute the trust, this being a trust vested in the original trustee and the survivor to executed the trust according to its true intent and meaning, and as fully as if originally appointed: Provided, that in all actions or proceedings brought prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred, before the clerks of the superior court in which any trustee was appointed to execute a deed of trust where any trustee of a deed of trust has died, removed from the county where the deed was executed and from the state, or in any way become incompetent to execute the said trust, whether such appointment of such trustee by order or decree, or otherwise, was made upon the application or petition of any person or persons ex parte, or whether made in proceedings where all the proper parties were made, as well as all deeds made valid so far as regards the parties to said actions and proceedings to the same extent as if all proper parties had originally been made in such actions or proceedings. (Rev., s. 1037; Code, s. 1276; 1896-97, c. 188; 1873-4, c. 126; 1901, c. 576; 1933, c. 493; C. S. 2583.)

Bond for Substituted Trustee Unnecessary.—It is not necessary in substituting one trustee for another in pursuance of this section, to require a bond of the substituted trustee. State v. Green, 14 N. C. 498, 51 S. E. 341.

All Persons Interested Must Be Made Parties.—The appointment of a trustee in cases where the former trustee has died, removed from the county in which the trust is situated, or otherwise, was made upon the application of the court, under this section, of a trustee in place of the executor is void and clothes the appointee with no authority under the will and testament of the deceased testator, and hence an appointment by the clerk of the court is not valid to the extent of appointing a substitute trustee. State v. Green, 14 N. C. 498, 51 S. E. 341.

Personal Powers of Old Trustee Cannot Be Transferred upon the New.—Where the powers to be exercised by the original trustee are of a personal nature depending upon his discretion, such powers cannot be conferred upon the appointed trustee. See Young v. Young, 127 N. C. 494, 47 S. E. 511.

Administrative C. T. A. Taking Place of Executor Trustee.—Where an executor named in a will is thereby also appointed a trustee and renounces or dies, the administrator cum testamento annexo appointed in his stead succeeds as trustee, and the personal representative of the estate, the substituted trustee, and his successors in office, are in all respects the same as the original trustee, so far as it is competent for the court to confer them. McAfee v. Green, 14 N. C. 498, 51 S. E. 341.
§ 45-10. Substitution of trustees in mortgages and deeds of trust.—In addition to the rights and remedies now provided by law, the holders or owners of a majority in amount of the indebtedness, notes, bonds, or other instruments evidencing a promise or promises to pay money and secured by mortgages, deeds of trust, or other instruments conveying real or personal property, or creating a lien thereon, may substitute a trustee whether the trustee then named in the instrument is the original or a substituted trustee, by the execution of a paper writing whenever it appears:

(1) In the case of individual trustees: That the trustee then named in such mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument securing the payment of money, has died, or has removed from the state, or is not a resident of this state or cannot be found in this state, or has disappeared from the community of his residence so that his whereabouts remains unknown in such community for a period of three months or more; or that he has become incompetent to act mentally or physically, or has been committed to any institution, private or public, on account of inebriacy or conviction of a criminal offense; or that he has refused to accept such appointment as trustee or refuses to act or has been declared a bankrupt; or that a petition in involuntary bankruptcy has been filed against him, or that a suit has been instituted in any court of this state asking relief against him on account of insolvency; or that a cause of action has been asserted against him on account of fraud against his creditors.

(2) In the case of corporate trustees: That the trustee is a foreign corporation or has ceased to do business, or has ceased to perform the duties of said trust, or other instrument creating the lien to the purchaser at the foreclosure sale. Bateman v. Sterrett, 201 N. C. 59, 159 S. E. 14.

A substituted trustee succeeds to all the rights, titles and duties of the original trustee, and has the power to authorize the execution of the instrument according to its terms upon default. Pearce v. Watkins, 219 N. C. 636, 14 S. E. (2d) 653.

A sale of the property by the substituted trustee in accordance with the terms of the instrument is valid, the appointment of a substitute trustee not being a conveyance of any interest in land. North Carolina Mtg. Corp. v. Morgan, 208 N. C. 743, 182 S. E. 450.

§ 45-11. Appointment of substitute trustee upon application of subsequent or prior lienholders; effect of substitution.—When any person, firm, corporation, county, city or town holding a lien on real or personal property upon which there is a subsequent or prior lien created by a mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument, the mortgagor or trustor therein named being dead or having otherwise become incompetent to act, files a written application with the clerk of the superior court of the county where such defendant resides, setting forth the facts showing that said mortgagee or trustee is then dead or has become incompetent to act, the said clerk of the superior court, upon a proper finding of fact that said mortgagee or trustee is dead or has become incompetent to act, shall enter an order appointing some suitable and competent person, firm or corporation as substitute trustee upon whom service of process may be made, and said substitute trustee shall thereupon be vested with full power and authority to defend any action instituted to foreclose said property as fully as if he had been the original mortgagee or trustee named; and the said substitute trustee shall have no power to cancel said mortgage or deed of trust without the joiner of the holder of the notes secured thereby. Said application shall not be made prior to the expiration of thirty days from the date the original mortgagee or trustee becomes incompetent to act. (1941, c. 115, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For comment on the 1941 enactment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 597.

§ 45-12. Certificate by clerk of superior court.—Whenever the powers set out in § 45-10 shall be exercised the clerk of the superior court shall certify that the instrument has been executed by the owner or owners of a majority in amount of the indebtedness, notes, bonds or other instruments secured therein, have executed the same, and that it has been made to appear to him that the cause of substitution as set forth therein is true and that the substituted trustee is a fit and proper person or corporation to perform the duties of said trust, and unless such certificate is attached to said instrument before registration and registered therewith the same shall be invalid and of no effect. (1931, c. 76, s. 3.)

§ 45-13. Right of appeal by any person interested; judge to review findings of clerk de novo.—Whenever the power contained in § 45-10 or in § 45-11 is exercised in respect to any deed of trust, mortgage or other instrument creating the lien which was executed prior to March 4, § 45-14. Acts of trustee prior to removal not invalidated. — If any such trustee who has been substituted as provided in § 45-10 or in § 45-11 shall have performed any functions as such trustee and shall thereafter be removed as provided in §§ 45-10 to 45-17, such removal shall not invalidate or affect the validity of such acts in so far as any purchaser or third person shall be affected or interested, and any conveyances made by such trustee before removal if otherwise valid, shall be and remain valid and effectual to all intents and purposes, but if any trustee upon such bearing is declared to have been wrongfully removed, he shall have his right of action against the substituted trustee for any compensation that he would have received in case he had not been wrongfully removed from such trust. (1931, c. 78, s. 5; 1941, c. 115, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the reference to § 45-11.

§ 45-15. Registration of substitution constructive notice. — The registration of such paper writing designating a new trustee under § 45-10 or under § 45-11 shall be from and after registration, constructive notice to all persons, and no appeal or other proceedings shall be instituted to contest the same after one year from and after such registration. (1931, c. 78, s. 6; 1941, c. 115, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the reference to § 45-11.

§ 45-16. Register of deeds to make marginal entry of substituted trustee. — Whenever any such substituted trustee shall be appointed as provided in §§ 45-10 to 45-17 and such designation of such substituted trustee shall have been registered, together with the certificates required in §§ 45-10 to 45-17, then it shall be the duty of the register of deeds to make an appropriate notation on the margin of the registration of the said mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument securing the payment of money, indicating the place of registration of such appointment of a substituted trustee, and this shall be done as many times as the right to make such substitute may be substituted as provided for in §§ 45-10 to 45-17. It shall be competent for the holder of such deed of trust, or deeds of trust, mortgage or mortgages, wherein the same trustee is named, to execute one instrument applying to all such deeds of trust or mortgages, in the substitution of a trustee for any of the causes set forth in § 45-10, and in said instrument to recite and name the mortgages and/or deeds of trust affected by giving the names of the grantors, the trustee and, if registered, the book and page of such registration. This may be done as many times as a trustee may be substituted as provided for in §§ 45-10 to 45-17, and in which cases the register of deeds or the court may, as to each described instrument, mortgage or deed of trust, the notation provided for in this section. (1931, c. 78, s. 7.)

§ 45-17. Substitution made as often as justifiable. — The powers set out in § 45-10 and in § 45-11 may be exercised as often and as many times as the right to make such substitution may arise under the terms of such section, and all the privileges and requirements and rights to contest the same as set out in §§ 45-10 to 45-17 shall apply to each deed of trust or mortgage and to each substitution. (1931, c. 78, s. 8; 1941, c. 115, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the reference to § 45-11.

§ 45-18. Validation of certain acts of substituted trustees. — Whenever before February 3, 1939, a trustee has been substituted in a deed of trust in the manner provided by §§ 45-10 to 45-17, but the instrument executed by the holder and/or owners of all or a majority in amount of the indebtedness, notes, bonds, or other instruments secured by said deed of trust, and the certificate of the clerk of the superior court executed in connection therewith under the provisions of § 45-12, all have not been registered as provided by said sections until after the substituted trustee has exercised some or all of the powers conferred by said deed of trust upon the trustee therein, including the advertising of the property conveyed by said deed of trust for sale, the sale thereof, and the execution of a deed by such substituted trustee to the purchaser at such sale, all such acts of said substituted trustee shall be deemed valid and effective in the same manner and to the same extent as if said instrument substituting said trustee, and the clerk’s certificate thereon had been registered prior to the performance by said substituted trustee of any one or more of said acts, or other acts authorized by such deed of trust. (1939, c. 127.)

Pending Litigation Not Affected. — The powers set out in §§ 45-10 to 45-17 shall not be construed to affect any litigation pending February 3, 1939, nor to divest vested rights. Public Laws, 1939, c. 13, s. 2.

§ 45-19. Mortgage to guardian; powers pass to succeeding guardian. — When a guardian to whom a mortgage has been executed dies or is removed or resigns before the payment of the debt secured in such mortgage, all the rights, powers and duties of such mortgagee shall devolve upon the § 45-20. Sales by mortgagees and trustees confirmed.—All sales of real property made prior to February tenth, nineteen hundred and forty, by any trustee in the exercise of the power of sale vested in him under any deed, deed of trust, mortgage, will, or other instrument in which the trustee has been conveyed to affix his seal after his signature, shall be good and valid; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to actions instituted and pending prior to the fifteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and forty-three. (1943, c. 171.)

§ 45-21. Validation of appointment of and conveyances to corporations as trustees.—In all deeds of trust made prior to March 15, 1941, wherein property has been conveyed to corporations as trustees to secure indebtedness, the appointment of said corporations as trustees, the conveyances to said corporate trustees, and the action taken under the powers of such deeds of trust by said corporate trustees are hereby confirmed and validated to the same extent as if such corporate trustees had been individual trustees. (1941, c. 245, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section, which became effective March 15, 1941, did not apply to or affect pending litigation. For comment on this enactment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 507.

Art. 3. Mortgage Sales.

§ 45-22. Limitation of time for attacking certain foreclosures on ground trustee was agent, etc., of owner of debt.—1. No action or proceeding shall be brought or defense or counterclaim pleaded later than one year after March 15, 1941, in which a foreclosure sale which occurred prior to January 1, 1941, under a deed of trust conveying real estate as security for a debt is attacked or otherwise questioned upon the ground that the trustee was an officer, director, attorney, agent or employee of the owner of the whole or any part of the debt secured thereby, or upon the ground that the trustee and the owner of the debt or any part thereof have common officers, directors, attorneys, agents or employees.

2. This section shall not be construed to give or create any cause of action where none existed before March 14, 1941, nor shall the limitation provided in subsection one hereof have the effect of barring any cause of action based upon grounds other than those mentioned in said section, unless the grounds set out in subsection one are an essential part thereof.

3. This section shall not be construed to enlarge the time in which to bring any action or proceeding or to plead any defense or counterclaim; and the limitation hereby created is in addition to all other limitations now existing. (1941, c. 202.)

§ 45-23. Personal property; notice and place of sale. — All personal property sold under the terms of any mortgage or other contract, expressed or implied, whether advertised in some newspaper or otherwise, shall be advertised by posting a notice at some conspicuous place at the courthouse door in the county where the property is situated, such notice to be posted for at least twenty days before the sale, unless a shorter time be expressed in the contract. (Rev., s. 1042; 1889, c. 70; 1909, c. 49, s. 1; C. S. 2585.)

Cross Reference.—As to advertisement for sale under execution of personal property, see § 1-336.

Strict Compliance with Statute.—In foreclosure proceedings under a power of sale contained in a mortgage, the requirements of the statute and the contract stipulations of the instrument, not inconsistent with the statute in respect to notice and other terms on which the power may be exercised, shall be strictly complied with; and when such has not been done, no title can pass under the sale in respect to the immediate parties thereto. Ferebee v. Sawyer, 167 N. C. 199, 83 S. E. 127.

§ 45-24. Foreclosure of conditional sales.—In all sales of personal property wherein the title is retained by the seller to secure the purchase money, or any part thereof, and no power of sale is conferred, and default is made in the payment of said obligation by the purchaser, then in all such cases it is lawful for the owner of such debt thereby secured, without an order of court, to sell such property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay off said indebtedness, at public auction for cash, after first giving twenty days notice at three or more public places in the county wherein the sale is to be made, and apply the proceeds of such sale to the discharge of said debt, interest on the same, and costs of foreclosure, and pay any sum to the person legally entitled thereto. Before making any such sale under the power of sale of a conditional advertisement above required, the owner of said debt shall, at least ten days before the day of sale, mail a copy of the notice of sale to the last known postoffice address of the original purchaser or his assigns. (1913, c. 60, s. 1; C. S. 2587.)

§ 45-25. Real property; notice of sale must describe premises.—In sales of real estate under deeds of trust or mortgages it is the duty of the trustee or mortgagee making such sale to fully describe the premises in the notice required by law substantially as the same is described in the deed of authority under which said trustee or mortgagee makes such sale. § 45-26.1. Real property; validation of deeds made after expiration of statute of limitations where sales made prior thereto.—In all cases where sales of real property have been made under powers of sales contained in mortgages or deeds of trust and such sales have been made within the times which would have been allowed by the statute of limitations for the commencement of actions to foreclose such mortgages or deeds of trust as a result of the filing of raised or increased bids, such deeds in the exercise of the power of sale are hereby validated and are declared to have the same effect as if they had been executed and delivered within the period allowed by the statute of limitations for the commencement of actions to foreclose such mortgages or deeds of trust. (1943, c. 16, s. 2.)

§ 45-27. Land lying in two or more counties; place of sale.—When a mortgage or deed in trust conveying lands lying partly in two or more counties confers upon the mortgagee or mortgagees, trustee or trustees, therein named, any power for the sale of such lands, without naming the place of sale, or where mortgagor has not named any mortgagee, trustee or trustees, the right to select the same, in the exercise of such power, any sale thereunder may be made at the courthouse door of any one of the counties in which such lands are situate, and at no other place except as hereinafter provided; but when such lands consist of two or more detached parcels, lying wholly within the limits of different counties, the sale of each and every one of such parcels shall be made at the courthouse door of the county in which the same is situate. (1911, c. 185, s. 1; C. S. 2390.)

§ 45-28. Reopening judicial sales, etc., on advance bid.—In the foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust on real estate, or by order of court in foreclosure proceedings either in the superior court or in actions at law, or in the case of the public sale of real estate by an executor, administrator, or administrator with the will annexed, or by any person by virtue of the power contained in a will or sale under execution duly issued, the sale shall not be deemed to be closed under ten days. A report of such sale shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court within five days from the date thereof: Provided, that failure to file such report prescribed shall not invalidate said sale. If in ten days from the date of the sale, the sale price is increased ten per cent where the price does not exceed five hundred dollars, and five per cent where the price exceeds five hundred dollars, and the same is paid to the clerk of the superior court, the mortgagee, trustee, executor, or person offering the real estate for sale shall reopen the sale of said property and advertise the same in the same manner as in the instance. It shall only be necessary to give fifteen days' notice of a resale. The clerk may, in his discretion, require the person making such advance bid to execute a good and sufficient bond in a sufficient amount to guarantee compliance with the terms of sale should the person offering the advance bid be declared the purchaser at the resale. Where the bid or offer is raised as prescribed herein, and the amount paid to the clerk, he shall issue an order to the mortgagee or other person and require him to advertise and resell said real estate. Resales may be had as often as the bid may be raised in compliance with this section. Upon the final sale of the real estate, the clerk shall issue his order to the mortgagee or other person, and require him to make title to the purchaser. If upon any resale the person making an advance bid or his agent shall become the last and highest bidder at such resale and upon confirmation of his bid shall fail to comply therewith within ten days, the clerk shall order a resale of the property; and in such event the deposit made with the clerk of said court shall be forfeited as damages for failure to comply with the bid at such resale and shall be applied, under order of the clerk, first to the payment of all costs and expenses in advertising and conducting the resale, and the balance of said deposit, if any, shall be applied as a credit on the indebtedness on account of which the sale was authorized: Provided, however, that no such forfeiture shall be allowed if, at the resale ordered because of such failure to comply, the property shall sell for an amount equal to or more than said advance bid so offered but not complied with, plus the costs of such resale and the deposit; or the court shall make all such orders as may be just and necessary to safeguard the interest of all parties, and he shall keep a record which will show in detail the amount of each bid, the purchase price, and the final settlement between parties. Confirmation of Sale Not Subject to Collateral Attack.—
Under the provisions of this section, the clerk of the court has no power to make an allowance to the mortgagee or trustee for his services in making the sale, to be retained by him from the proceeds of the sale. From an order making such allowance, a party interested in the land or in the proceeds of the sale, may appeal to the judge, who, upon such appeal, may affirm, reverse or modify the order of the clerk; in the absence of such appeal, the order of the clerk is final and conclusive.

suits in equity are authorized under § 45-28.

On the other hand, a material loss has been sustained by destruction of a house

Where the mortgaged premises has been materially diminished in value by the loss by fire of a house thereon, which has extinguished the equity of redemption, the holder of a mortgage, who is the highest bidder at such sale, having no title or right of possession, or control over the property for its preservation or protection, within ten days provided by this section, the loss occasioned by the fire in increasing the funds at issue on the lands sold under power of sale, the highest bidder is not chargeable therewith, or required by law to take the property at the price he had bid therefor. In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 108 S. E. 497.

Same.—When Supervisory Power Begins.—The clerk of the court acquires supervisory power of the sale of land under power contained in a mortgage or deed of trust, or of the proceeds of the sale, when such sale is made under a power of sale granted under the provisions of this section, which continues until after the final sale under foreclosure. Lawrence v. Beck, 185 N. C. 914, 118 S. E. 482.

Same.—Order Accepting Mortgagor's Deed.—Where a resale of land under mortgage has been made under the provisions of this section, the clerk may enter an order accepting the mortgagor's deed nunc pro tunc as to the time it should have been tendered, when otherwise the observance of the statute had been made. Briggs v. Asheville Developers, 191 N. C. 784, 133 S. E. 3.

Section Incorporated in Mortgages and Deeds of Trust.—The provisions of this section, concerning the sale of land under a power thereof contained in a mortgage or deed of trust, or of the proceeds of the sale, when such sale is made under a power of sale granted under the provisions of this section, which continues until after the final sale under foreclosure. In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 108 S. E. 497.

Status Under Section of Mortgage and Deeds of Trust Sales.—Under this section a sale of land under the power in a mortgage, when the sale is made under a decree or judgment of court. Pringle v. Building, etc., Ass'n, 182 N. C. 316, 108 S. E. 914.

Irregularity in Conveyance—Time to Keep Sale Open.—Where a trust deed to secure money loaned on lands has been foreclosed, this section requires the sale to be kept open for ten days for the tender of increased bids, etc., but where it appears that an irregularity in conveying the land before the sale was committed by the persons who have adjudged any of the parties, they are concluded by the judgment upholding the validity of the transaction. Wise v. Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 184, 108 S. E. 491.

No Specific Performance When Sale Reopened.—The principle upon which specific performance of a binding contract to convey lands is enforceable, has no application to the successful bidder at a sale under the power contained in a mortgage or deed of trust of lands, during the ten days allowed by this section, for, within that time, there is no binding contract of purchase, and the bargain is incomplete. In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 108 S. E. 497.

Title of the Bidder.—Under the provisions of this section, the bidder at the sale during the period of ten days acquires no title, mortgage, or power of sale, but only a position similar to a bidder at a judicial sale, before confirmation. He is only considered as a preferred bidder, his right depending upon whether there is an increased bid at a subsequent sale, and the provisions of the statute. In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 108 S. E. 497. See Richmond County v. Simmons, 209 N. C. 250, 153 S. E. 257.

When in special proceeding to sell real property to create assets with which to pay debts of a decedent an order for the proceeds for an order of resale under § 28-93, it clearly appears that a private sale is open to either course for ten days from the date and report of the sale, after he has acquired the interest of possession or title. He is merely a preferred bidder. Howard v. Ray, 222 N. C. 710, 24 S. E. (2d) 599.

No Bid Required until Expiration of Ten Days.—A last and highest bidder at a foreclosure sale is but a proposed purchaser or preferred bidder during the ten days allowed by statute for an increase in the bid, and the sale cannot be consummated until ten days after the public auction. Shelby Bldg., etc., Ass'n v. Black, 215 N. C. 400, 2 S. E. (2d) 6.

Rights of Highest Bidder—Payment of Mortgage within Ten Days Period.—The last highest bidder at a foreclosure sale of a mortgage on lands is but a proposed purchaser under this section acquiring no right until the statutory period of ten days has expired. In order that the mortgage indebtedness to the mortgagee within that time cancels the instrument and all rights arising thereunder. A last and highest bidder at the foreclosure of a mortgage or deed of trust on lands is but a proposed purchaser within the ten days before confirmation, and where the mortgagee has become such purchaser and within ten days and by an increasing third person pays the mortgage debt and has the notes and mortgage assigned to him, such person has the right of lien and foreclosure under the terms of the mortgage securing the note. Davis v. Central Life Ins. Co., 197 N. C. 637, 197 S. E. 120.

§ 45-29. Surplus after sale to be paid to clerk, in certain cases.—It is competent for any trustee or mortgagee who sells any real, personal or mixed property under the power of sale contained in any deed of trust or mortgage of any kind and who has in his hands any surplus money, after paying the debt or debts secured by such deed of trust or mortgage and costs and expenses of such sale, to pay into the office of the clerk of the superior court for the county where the sale was had, any surplus moneys in his hands as aforesaid, and the clerk may order the said trustee or mortgagee to execute a deed to the purchaser, was signed and docketed on the first or third Monday of a month, such judgment of confirmation shall be and is hereby declared to have the same force and effect as if the same were executed and delivered pursuant to a judgment of confirmation properly signed and docketed by the clerk of the superior court on a first or third Monday of the month. (1923, c. 59, s. 1; C. S. 2593(a).)

§ 45-30. Orders signed on days other than first and third Mondays validated; force and effect of deeds.—In all actions for the foreclosure of any mortgage or deed of trust which has heretofore been instituted and prosecuted before the clerk of the superior court of any county in North Carolina, wherein the judgment confirming the sale made by any commissioner appointed in said action, and ordering the same to be executed, the said commissioner is required to execute a deed to the purchaser, was signed by such clerk on a day other than the first or third Monday of a month, such judgment of confirmation shall be and is hereby declared to be valid and of the same force and effect as though signed and docketed on the first or third Monday of any month, and any deed made by any commissioner or commissioners in any such action where the confirmation of sale was made on a day other than the first or third Monday of the month shall be and is hereby declared to have the same force and effect as if the same were executed and delivered pursuant to a judgment of confirmation properly signed and docketed by the clerk of the superior court on a first or third Monday of the month. (1923, c. 53, s. 1; C. S. 2593.)

§ 45-32. Injunction of mortgage sales on equitable grounds.—Any owner of real estate, or other person, firm or corporation having a legal or equitable interest therein, may apply to a judge of the superior court, prior to the confirmation of any sale of such real estate by a mortgagee, trustee, commissioner or other person authorized to sell the same, to enjoin such sale or the confirmation thereof, upon the ground that the amount bid or price offered therefor is inadequate and inequitable and will result in irreparable damage to the owner or other interested person, or upon any other legal or equitable ground upon which it is claimed there is want of due process of law; nor does it confer upon the mortgagor or grantor in deeds of trust any exclusive equitable power, the provisions of this section being constitutional and valid. Whitaker v. Chase, 206 N.C. 726, 182 S.E. 491.

This section is remedial only, and is valid for that purpose. Stated in Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 209 N.C. 732, 175 S.E. 133. See annotations under § 45-32.

§ 45-34. Ordering resales before confirmation; receivers for property; tax payments.—The court or judge granting such order or injunction, or before whom the same is returnable, shall have the right before, but not after, any sale is confirmed to order a resale by the mortgagee, trustee, commissioner, or other person authorized to make the sale in such manner and upon such terms as may be just and equitable: Provided, that the rights of all parties in interest, or who may be affected thereby, shall be protected by bond or indemnity in such form and amount as the court may require, and the court or judge may also appoint a receiver of the property or the rents and proceeds thereof, pending any sale or resale, and may make such order for the payment of taxes or other prior lien as may be necessary, subject to the right of appeal to the supreme court in all cases. (1933, c. 275, s. 2.)

When Foreclosure May Not Be Reinstated.—An executor or administrator of the estate of the deceased mortgagee gave notice in apt time that he would make application to the resident judge of the district out of term and out of the county for an order restraining the consummation of the sale made by him under the mortgage, alleging that the price bid at the sale was grossly inadequate, which allegation was denied in the answer, and it was error for the court to grant defendants' motion to dismiss, plaintiffs being entitled to a hearing and a determination of the issue under the provisions of this section. Smith v. Bryant, 209 N.C. 213, 183 S.E. 276. See annotations under § 45-32.

Where It Is Error for Court to Grant Motion to Nonsuit.—Where plaintiffs, trustees in a deed of trust, seek to enjoin the consummation of a foreclosure sale had under the provisions of this section, and alleged that the price bid at the sale was grossly inadequate, which allegation is denied in the answer, it is error for the court to grant defendants' motion to dismiss, plaintiffs being entitled to a hearing and a determination of the issue under the provisions of this section. Smith v. Bryant, 209 N.C. 726, 182 S.E. 491.

Where Court Determines Whether Bid Was Grossly Inadequate.—Where, in a suit to enjoin the consummation of a foreclosure sale the issue of whether the bid at the sale was grossly inadequate, and the parties are not entitled as a matter of law to have the issue determined by a jury, but the court may hear evidence and determine the issue, and should dismiss the action if it finds that the amount of the bid is the fair value of the land, or should enjoin the consummation of the sale if it finds that the bid is grossly inadequate. Smith v. Bryant, 209 N.C. 732, 175 S.E. 133. See annotations under § 45-32.

§ 45-33. Ordering resales before confirmation; receivers for property; tax payments.—The court or judge granting such order or injunction, or before whom the same is returnable, shall have the right before, but not after, any sale is confirmed to order a resale by the mortgagee, trustee, commissioner, or other person authorized to make the sale in such manner and upon such terms as may be just and equitable: Provided, that the rights of all parties in interest, or who may be affected thereby, shall be protected by bond or indemnity in such form and amount as the court may require, and the court or judge may also appoint a receiver of the property or the rents and proceeds thereof, pending any sale or resale, and may make such order for the payment of taxes or other prior lien as may be necessary, subject to the right of appeal to the supreme court in all cases. (1933, c. 275, s. 2.) See annotations under § 45-32.

§ 45-34. Right of mortgagee to prove in deficiency suit reasonable value of property by way of defense. When any sale of real estate or personal property has been made by a mortgagee, trustee, or other person authorized to make the same, at which the mortgagee, payee or other holder of the obligation thereby secured becomes the purchaser and takes title either directly or indirectly, and thereafter such mortgagee, payee or other holder of the secured obligation, as aforesaid, shall sue for and undertake to recover a deficiency judgment against the mortgagor, trustee or other holder of such obligation whose property has been so purchased, it shall be competent and lawful for the defendant against whom such deficiency judgment is sought to allege and show as matter of defense and offset, but not by way of counter-claim, that the property sold was fairly worth the amount of the debt secured by it at the time and place of sale or that the amount bid was substantially less than its true value, and, upon such showing, to defeat or offset any deficiency judgment against him, either in whole or in part: Provided, this section shall not affect the rights of purchasers of such deficiency judgments or of innocent third parties, nor shall it be held to affect or defeat the negotiation of any note, bond or other obligation secured by such mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument: Provided, further, this section shall not apply to foreclosure sales made pursuant to an order or decree of court nor to any judgment sought or rendered in any foreclosure suit nor to any sale made and confirmed prior to April 18, 1933. (1933, c. 875, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—See 12 N. C. Law Rev. 366, for note on "Recent During the Depression."

This section is of general and valid. Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 29, 185 S. E. 482. This section has merely restricted the exercise of the contractual remedy to provide a procedure which, to some extent, renders the remedy by a trustee's sale consistent with that in equity. This does not impair the obligation of the contract. Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 34, 185 S. E. 482. Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 201 N. C. 29, 185 S. E. 482. See also, Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 300 U. S. 124, 137, 57 S. Ct. 338, 81 L. Ed. 552, 108 A. L. R. 886.

It applies only to foreclosure under powers of sale and not to judicial sales, only to instances where the creditor bids in the property, directly or indirectly, and not to instances where the property is bid in by independent third persons. Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 29, 185 S. E. 482. See also, Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 300 U. S. 124, 137, 57 S. Ct. 338, 81 L. Ed. 552, 108 A. L. R. 886.

It applies only to foreclosure under powers of sale and not to judicial sales, only to instances where the creditor bids in the property, directly or indirectly, and not to instances where the property is bid in by independent third persons. Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 29, 185 S. E. 482. This section recognizes the obligation of a debtor who has contracted, namely, payment in full. It recognizes the realization of the value of the security, but cannot fairly be said to do more than restrict the mortgagee to that for which he contracted, namely, payment in full. It recognizes the realization of the contract and his right to its full enforcement but limits that right so as to prevent his obtaining more than his due. Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 124, 137, 57 S. Ct. 338, 81 L. Ed. 552, 108 A. L. R. 886.

It is not "emergency legislation," nor is its purpose to provide a "moratorium" for debtors during a temporary period of depression. Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 29, 34, 185 S. E. 482.

Amount Bid Is Not Conclusive as to Value.—The amount bid by the creditor at the sale, and applied by him as a payment on the debt, is not conclusive as to the value of the property. Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 34, 185 S. E. 482.

This section recognizes the obligation of a debtor who has secured the payment of his debt by a mortgagee or deed of trust to pay his debt in accordance with his contract, and does not impair such obligation. Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 29, 34, 185 S. E. 482.

And it recognizes the validity of powers of sale contained in purchase-money mortgages, or deeds of trust, and thereby provides protection of equity. It provides for judicial supervision of sales made and conducted by creditors whose debts are secured by mortgages or deeds of trust, and thereby provides protection for debtors whose property has been sold and purchased by their creditors for a sum which was not a fair value of the property at the time of the sale. Richmond Mtg., etc., Corp. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 29, 35, 185 S. E. 483.

It is Not Applicable to Sales under Order of Court.—Where the maker of a note assigned a judgment in its favor to the payee as security and the judgment was sold under order of court and purchased by the payee who thereafter realized upon the judgment an amount in excess of the sale price, it was held that the note was properly credited with the sale price and not the amount realized by the sale. Where, subsequent to the judgment sale, the holder of the judgment sold the property at a price which was equal to the amount of the judgment, the holder of the judgment was not entitled to any deficiency judgment. Biggs v. Lasiter, 220 N. C. 761, 18 S. E. (2d) 419.

§ 45-35. Sections 45-32 to 45-35 not applicable to tax suits.—All laws and clauses of laws in conflict with §§ 45-32 to 45-35, to the extent of such conflict only, are hereby repealed, but said sections shall not apply to tax foreclosure suits or tax sales. (1933, c. 875, s. 4.)

§ 45-36. Deficiency judgments abolished where mortgage represents part of purchase price.—In all sales of real property by mortgagees and/or trustees under powers of sale contained in any mortgage or deed of trust executed after February 6, 1933, or where judgment or decree is given for the foreclosure of any mortgage executed after February 6, 1933, to secure payment of the balance of the purchase price of real property, the mortgagee or trustee or holder of the notes secured by such mortgage or deed of trust shall not be entitled to a deficiency judgment on account of such mortgage, deed of trust or obligation secured by the same: Provided, said evidence of indebtedness shows upon the face that it is for balance of purchase money for real estate: Provided, further, that when said note or notes are prepared under the direction and supervision of the seller or sellers, he, it, or they shall cause a provision to be inserted in said note disclosing that it is for purchase money of real estate; in default of which the seller or sellers shall be liable to purchaser for any loss which he might sustain by reason of the failure to insert said provision as herein set out. (1933, c. 36.)

Cross Reference.—As to provision that wife need not join in purchase-money mortgage, see § 39-13.

Editor's Note.—The effect of this section is to limit the creditor to the property conveyed, when the mortgage is for the purchase money, changing in that respect section 1-123. See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 219.

Foreign Executed Mortgage on Foreign Realty.—This section operates to deprive our courts of jurisdiction to enter the deficiency judgments proscribed, and the section applies to all such deficiency judgments, including those predicated upon notes secured by mortgages or deeds of trust executed in another state upon realty lying therein. Bul-lington v. Angel, 220 N. C. 18, 16 S. E. (2d) 411, 136 A. L. R. 1054.

Foreclosure under First Mortgage.—This section is not available as a defense to a action on a purchase-money note secured when the mortgage has been sold under the first mortgage for a sum sufficient to pay only the notes secured by said mortgage, unless the mortgage is held for a payment of said mortgage as a part of the purchase price. Brown v. Kirkpatrick, 217 N. C. 486, 8 S. E. (2d) 601.

Art. 4. Discharge and Release.

§ 45-37. Discharge of record of mortgages and deeds of trust.—Any deed of trust or mortgage [264] registered as required by law may be discharged and released in the following manner.

1. The trustee or mortgagee or his or her legal representative, or the duly authorized agent or attorney of such trustee, mortgagee or legal representative, may, in the presence of the register of deeds or his deputy, acknowledge the satisfaction of the provisions of such deed of trust or mortgage, whereupon the register or his deputy shall forthwith make upon the margin of the record of such deed of trust or mortgage an entry of such acknowledgment of satisfaction, which shall be signed by the trustee, mortgagee, legal representative or attorney, and witnessed by the register or his deputy, who shall also affix his name thereto.

2. Upon the exhibition of any mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument intended to secure the payment of money, accompanied with the bond or note, to the register of deeds or his deputy, where the same is registered, with the endorsement of payment and satisfaction appearing thereon by the payee, mortgagee, trustee, or assignee of the same, or by any chartered active banking institution in the state of North Carolina, when so endorsed in the name of the bank by an officer thereof, the register or his deputy shall cancel the mortgage or other instrument by entry of "satisfaction" on the margin of the record; and the person so claiming to have satisfied the debt may retain possession of the bond or mortgage or other instrument: Provided, that if such mortgage or deed of trust provides in itself for the payment of money and does not call for or recite any note secured by it, then the exhibition of such mortgage or deed of trust alone shall be signed by the trustee, mortgagee, or his or her legal representative, and witnessed, shall operate and have the same effect to release and discharge all the interest of such trustee, mortgagee or representative in such deed or mortgage as if a deed of release or reconveyance thereof had been duly executed and recorded. (Rev., s. 1046; Code, s. 1237; 1870-1, c. 217; 1891, c. 180; 1893, c. 36; 1901, c. 46; 1917, c. 49, s. 1; 1917, c. 50, s. 1; 1923, c. 192, s. 1; 1923, c. 193; 1935, c. 47; C. S. 3294.)

3. Upon the exhibition of any mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument intended to secure the payment of money by the grantor or mortgagee, his agent or attorney, together with the notes or bonds secured thereby, to the register of deeds or his deputy of the county where the same is registered, the deed of trust, mortgage, notes or bonds being at the time of such exhibition more than ten years old, counting from the date of maturity of the last note or bond, the register or his deputy shall make proper entry of cancellation and satisfaction of such instrument on the margin of the record where the same is recorded, whether there be any such entries on the original papers or not.

4. Upon the presentation of any deed of trust given to secure the bearer or holder of any negotiable instruments transferable by delivery, together with all the evidences of indebtedness secured thereby, marked paid and satisfied in full and signed by the bearer or holder thereof, to the register of deeds or his deputy of the county in which same is recorded, the said register or his deputy shall cancel such deed of trust by entry of satisfaction upon the record and such entry of satisfaction shall be valid and binding upon all persons: Provided that prior to such presentation and cancellation, any person rightfully entitled to any such deed of trust, or evidences of indebtedness, which have been lost or stolen, may notify the register of deeds, or his deputy, in writing of such loss or theft, and said register, or his deputy, shall make a marginal entry in writing thereof, together with the date such notice is given, upon the record of the deed of trust concerned, and thereafter same shall not be canceled unless the same shall have been lawfully determined: Provided that nothing herein shall be construed so as to impair the negotiability of any instrument otherwise properly negotiable, nor to impair the rights of any innocent purchaser for value thereof.

5. The conditions of every mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument securing the payment of money shall be conclusively presumed to have been complied with or the debts secured thereby paid as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration from the trustor, mortgageor, or grantor, from and after the expiration of fifteen years from the date when the conditions of such instrument or the terms thereof are due to have been complied with, or the last installment of debt or interest secured thereby, unless the holder of the indebtedness secured by such instrument or party secured by any provision thereof shall file an affidavit with the register of deeds of the county where such instrument is registered, in which shall be specifically stated the amount of debt unpaid, which is secured by said instrument, or in what respect any other condition thereof shall not have been complied with, whereupon the register of deeds shall record such affidavit and refer on the margin of the record of the instrument referred to therein the fact of the filing of such affidavit, and a reference to the book and page where it is recorded. Or in lieu of such affidavit the holder may enter on the margin of the record any payments that have been made on the indebtedness secured by such instrument, and shall in such entry state the amount still due thereunder. This entry must be signed by the holder and witnessed by the register of deeds. Provided, however, that this subsection shall not apply to any deed, mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument made or given by any railroad company, or to any agreement of conditional sale, equipment trust agreement, lease, chattel mortgage or other instrument relating to the sale, purchase or lease of railroad equipment on rolling stock, or of other personal property.

Every such entry thus made by the register of deeds or his deputy, and every such entry thus acknowledged and witnessed, shall operate and have the same effect to release and discharge all the interest of such trustee, mortgagee or representative in such deed or mortgage as if a deed of release or reconveyance thereof had been duly executed and recorded. (Rev., s. 1046; Code, s. 1237; 1870-1, c. 217; 1891, c. 180; 1893, c. 36; 1901, c. 46; 1917, c. 49, s. 1; 1917, c. 50, s. 1; 1923, c. 192, s. 1; 1923, c. 193; 1935, c. 47; C. S. 3294.)

Cross Reference.—As to requirement of registration for mortgages and deeds of trust, see § 47-20.

Editor's Note.—The proviso contained in the second clause of this section, and the entire fifth clause were added by the amendments of 1923.

Subsection 4 was added by the amendment of 1935.

Modes of Release.—A mortgage can only be released so as to affect purchasers at a sale under the mortgage by a cancellation on the margin of the registration thereof under this section, or by a reconveyance of the mortgaged property duly recorded. Barber v. Wadsworth, 115 N. C. 29, 32, 20 S. E. 178.

Construction of the words "mortgaged person."—This section will be construed to effectuate the legislative intent as gathered from its language, and by harmonizing its various parts when this can reasonably be done. Richmond Guano Co. v. Walston, 157 N. C. 571, 122 S. E. 733.

Not Retroactive.—This section has no application to a mortgage given prior to the passage of the section nor does it apply in an action by a subsequent mortgagee. Roberson v. 20532, 5208S..." 178:

Under this section, subsection 2, there is no authority given to the register of deeds to enter cancellation of record upon the mortgage. Faircloth v. Johnson, 198 N. C. 429, 127 S. E. 346.

Authority of Trustee.—Possession of the papers by the trustee raises a presumption of his authority to cancel. Williams v. Williams, 220 N. C. 806, 18 S. E. (2d) 364.

Effect of Forged Cancellation.—When the attorney for the owner of the land is in charge of the instrument of trust, and after fraudulently and surreptitiously forgery the signature..." 178:

Same.—Upon Rights of Third Mortgagee.—As against the mortgagee of a third mortgage given on the same lands, the wrongful cancellation by a forged entry on the margin of the registration thereof nullity, and the lien continues until the payment of the debt it secures, as prior to that of the third mortgage, when the second mortgage lien has lawfully been foreclosed of record. Swindell v. Stephens, 193 N. C. 474, 137 S. E. 430.

Authority of Trustee to Release Part of Property without Satisfactory Cancellation only empowers the trustee to "acknowledge satisfaction of the provisions of such trust, etc.," the entry operating as a reconveyance. ...to the creditor's consent and authority properly shown. Woodcock v. Merrimon, 122 N. C. 731, 736, 30 S. E. 321.

Even if an attempted release is under seal it is ineffectual, as the statute authorizing such mode of release confers no power upon a trustee to release specific parts of property in the absence of authority of the owner. Brown v. Davis, 109 N. C. 23, 13 S. E. 703.

Effect of Cancellation by First Mortgagee.—The legal title to the mortgaged lands is conveyed by the instrument to the mortgagee, and remains in him until transferred or assigned, for the purpose of the security or the cancellation of the instrument, under this section and where the mortgagee has transferred the fee-simple title to another, and receives a mortgage back to secure a note for the balance of the purchase price of which the mortgagee, as collateral to his own, the lender for the purposes of the security, acting in good faith, has a prior lien on the lands. First Nat. Bank v. Sauls, 183 N. C. 165, 110 S. E. 865.

§ 45-38. Entry of foreclosure.—In case of foreclosure of any deed of trust, or mortgage, the trustee or mortgagee shall enter upon the margin of the record thereof the fact of such foreclosure and the date when, and the person to whom, a conveyance was made by reason thereof. (1923, c. 192, s. 2; C. S. 2594(a).)

Failure of Trustee to Comply Does Not Affect Purchaser.—The purchaser of lands at a foreclosure sale made in conformity with a deed of trust upon lands is not affected with constructive notice of fraud by the omission of the trustee to comply with the provisions of this or the following sections, if the instrument of which satisfaction has been acknowledged and recorded as is now prescribed by law. (1923, c. 192, s. 2; C. S. 2594(a).)

Cancellation without Knowledge of Cestui.—Where the trustee paid the trustee the amount of the mortgage debt and the trustee entered a cancellation of the deed of trust on the records under this section, without the knowledge and without assent of the cestui que vanti, the cancellation shall be void. Parham v. Hinnant, 206 N. C. 200, 173 S. E. 198.

§ 45-39. Trustees or mortgagees making sales to file accounts.—It shall be the duty of any trustee or mortgagee making sale under the provisions of any power to file an account with the clerk of the superior court in the county where the land lies as is required by commissioners making sales for partition, and for the auditing and recording of said account the clerk shall be allowed the same fees as are provided for auditing accounts of such commissioners. (1923, c. 192, s. 3; C. S. 2594(b).)

Cross References.—As to procedure for filing, auditing and recording accounts of commissioners making sales for partition, see § 45-26. As to fixing the number of clerks and recording accounts of commissioners making sales for partition, see § 2-26, herein is set forth fees of clerks for auditing and recording the final account of commissioners appointed to sell real estate.

§ 45-40. Register to enter satisfaction on index.—When satisfaction of the provisions of any deed of trust or mortgage is acknowledged and entry of such acknowledgment of satisfaction is made upon the margin of the record of said deed of trust or mortgage, or when the register of deeds or his deputy shall cancel the mortgage or other instrument by entry of satisfaction, the register of deeds or his deputy shall enter upon the margin of the record of said deed of trust, or mortgage, or when the instrument of which satisfaction has been acknowledged or entered is a deed of trust. (1909, c. 638, s. 1; C. S. 2595.)

§ 45-41. Recorded deed of release of mortgagee's representative.—The personal representative of any mortgagee or trustee in any mortgage or deed of trust which has heretofore or which may hereafter be registered in the manner required by the laws of this state may discharge and release the same and all property thereby conveyed by deed of quit claim, release or conveyance executed, acknowledged and recorded as is now prescribed by law for the execution, acknowledgment and registration of deeds and mortgages in this state. (1909, c. 283, s. 1; C. S. 2596.)

Cross Reference.—As to provisions regarding probate and registration of deeds and mortgages, etc., see § 47-1 et seq.

§ 45-42. Release of corporate mortgagees by corporate officers.—All mortgagees or holders of deeds in trust executed to a corporation may be satisfied and so marked of record, as by law provided for the satisfaction of mortgages and deeds in trust, by the president, any vice-president, cashier, assistant cashier, secretary, assistant secretary, treasurer, assistant treasurer, trust officer and assistant trust officer of such corporation signing the name of such corporation by him as such officer. Where mortgagees or deeds in trust were marked "satisfied" on the records before the twenty-third day of February, nineteen hundred and nine, by any president, secretary, treasurer or cashier of any corporation by such officer writing his own name and affixing thereto the title of his office in such corporation, such satisfaction is validated, and is as effective to all intents and purposes as if a deed of release duly executed by such corporation had been made, acknowledged and recorded. (1909, c. 283, ss. 2, 3; 1935, c. 251; C. S. 2597.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1935, vice-president, assistant cashier, assistant secretary, assistant treasurer, trust officer and assistant trust officer, were added to the list of officers enumerated in the first sentence of the section.

Art. 5. Real Estate Mortgage Loans.

§ 45-43. Real estate mortgage loans; commissions.—Any individual or corporation authorized by law to do a real estate mortgage loan business may make or negotiate loans of money on notes secured by mortgages or deeds of trust on real estate bearing legal interest payable semi-annually at maturity or otherwise, and in addition thereto, may charge, collect and receive such commission or fee as may be agreed upon for making or negotiating any such loan, not exceeding, however, an amount equal to one and one-half per cent of the principal amount of the loan for each year over which the repayment of the said loan is extended: Provided, however, the repayment of such loan shall not be extended, in any instance, for a period of not less than three nor more than fifteen years, and that no annual installment, other than the last, shall exceed thirty-three and one-third per cent of the principal amount of loans which are payable in installments extending over a period of as much as three years and less than four years, twenty-five per cent of the principal amount of loans which are payable in installments extending over a period of not less than four years nor more than five years, and fifteen per cent of the principal amount of loans which are payable in installments extending over a period of more than five years and not more than fifteen years. This section shall only apply to the counties of Ashe, Buncombe, Caldwell, Forsyth, Gaston, Henderson, McDowell, Madison, Rutherford, Watauga, and Yancey. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 36; 1925, cc. 88, 209; Pub. Loc. 1925, c. 592; modified by 1927, c. 5; Pub. Loc. 1927, c. 187.)

§ 46-32. Report of sale; filing; confirmation and impeachment.

§ 46-33. Shares in proceeds to cotenants secured.

§ 46-34. Shares to persons unknown or not sui juris secured.

Art. 3. Partition of Lands in Two States.

§ 46-35 to 46-41. [Repealed.]

Art. 4. Partition of Personal Property.

§ 46-42. Personal property may be partitioned; commissioners appointed.

§ 46-44. Sale of personal property on partition; report of officer.

§ 46-45. Confirmation and impeachment of reports of commissioners or officer.

§ 46-46. Notice of sale of personal property.

When the proceeding for partition becomes adverse to the plaintiff is not allowed to take a voluntary nonsuit. Hadlock v. Stocks, 167 N. C. 70, 83 S. E. 9.

§ 46-2. Venue in partition.—The proceeding for partition, actual or by sale, must be instituted in the county where the land or some part thereof lies. If the land to be partitioned consists of one tract lying in more than one county, or consists of several tracts lying in different counties, proceedings may be instituted in either of the counties in which a part of the land is situated, and the court of such county wherein the proceedings for partition are first brought shall have jurisdiction to proceed to a final disposition of said proceedings, to the same extent as if all of said land was situate in the county where the proceedings were instituted. (Rev., s. 2488; Code, s. 1898; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 7; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 63, s. 1; C. S. 3214.)

Editor's Note.—The latter part of the section, stating the extent of the jurisdiction of the court, and the provision for partition of several estates, were added by the Public Laws of 1924, Extra Session.

Waiver of Venue.—Construing secs. 1-82, 1-83 and this section, in pari materia, venue cannot be jurisdictional, and it may never be waived. Pleading to the merits waives de fective venue. Venue is a matter not to be determined by the common law, but by legislative regulation. Clark v. Caroline Savings, 189 N. C. 701, 128 S. E. 20, 23. For distinctions between venue and jurisdiction, see the Editor's Note to sec. 1-75.

§ 48-3. Petition by cotenant. — One or more persons claiming real estate as joint tenants or tenants in common may have partition by petition to the superior court. (Rev., s. 2487; Code, s. 1592; 1886-9, c. 122, s. 1; C. S. 3215.)

III. Plea of Sole Seizin.

Cross Reference.

As to procedure for sale or mortgage of property where there is a vested interest and a contingent remainder to uncertain persons, see § 41-11.

I. IN GENERAL.

Jurisdiction of Superior Court.—The superior court acquires jurisdiction of proceedings to partition lands upon their being transferred by the clerk thereto, in term, and may proceed therewith and fully determine all matters in controversy. In such case it is immaterial whether it was properly instituted before the clerk. Baggett v. Jackson, 106 N. C. 26, 76 S. E. 86.

Tenants in common may make a valid agreement, either at the time of the creation of the tenancy or afterwards, whereby the right to partition is modified or limited, provided the waiver of the right to partition is not for an unreasonable length of time. Chadwick v. Blades, 210 N. C. 115, 185 S. E. 158. See also, 15 N. C. Law Rev. 279.

The Petition—Omission of Term of Court.—A petition entitled in the original cause, but addressed to the clerk, in special proceedings for partition is not demurrable because it does not give the term of court or any court in the caption. Hartsfield v. Bryan, 177 N. C. 166, 98 S. E. 379.

Same—Possession.—If the petition alleges that the petitioners are tenants in common in fee, it will not be dismissed for failure to allege that they are entitled to immediate possession. Epley v. Epley, 111 N. C. 505, 16 S. E. 321; Alexander v. Gibson, 118 N. C. 796, 24 S. E. 748, 58 Am. St. Rep. 757.

Same—Leave to Amend.—On petition before the clerk for partition, permission to amend the petition is purely within the discretion of the clerk. Simmons v. Jones, 118 N. C. 472, 24 S. E. 114.

Lands Not Included in Petition.—The petitioners are not entitled as a matter of right to have a part only of the lands divided, and the defendants may have other land held in common included. Luther v. Luther, 157 N. C. 499, 73 S. E. 102. But see section 46-16 and note thereto as to partial partition.

Not Proper Remedy for Ouster.—Where a tenant in common has been actually ousted by his cotenant, his remedy is by ejectment, and not partition. Thomas v. Garvin, 15 N. C. 223, 25 Am. Dec. 708, cited in note in 20 L. R. A. 637.

Divorced Couple Entitled to Partition.—When marriage is dissolved by divorce, the husband and wife become tenants in common of property formerly held by the entirety, such as land, and the right of partition vests in them in the same manner as if they were tenants by the entirety. Vaughn v. Vaughn, 167 N. C. 411, 83 S. E. 559, L. R. A. 1915C, 396.

Partition as to Churches.—Churches belonging to an association controlling a school are not entitled to partition. Church v. Thornton, 158 N. C. 119, 73 S. E. 810.

Question of Fact for Court.—Whether or not, in a proceeding instituted under this section, for partition of land, held by a cotenant and claimed for separate use of one or more of such persons, there shall be an actual partition, or a sale for partition, as authorized by statute, involves a question of fact to be determined by the court. Talley v. Talley, 119 N. C. 706, 193 S. E. 146.

II. PARTIES.

In General.—Parties claiming to hold in common may properly be brought in as defendants. McKeel v. Holloman, 163 N. C. 332, 79 S. E. 445. Partition can be made only by persons who are seized of the freehold, and not by those in remainder or reversion. Partition lies only in favor of one who has a seizin and right of immediate possession. Osborne v. Mull, 91 N. C. 203.

Plea of Right.—In an action for partition of an intestate's lands, the administrator is not a party. Kellum v. Henderson, 89 N. C. 630, 73 S. E. 332. For a full treatment of the interests mentioned in the catch-line, see section 48-23 and the notes thereto.

Partition by Infant and Another.—Where partition was brought by a minor and another, the latter was bound by the judgment, although it was not approved by the judge of the court. Lindsay v. Beaman, 128 N. C. 189, 38 S. E. 81.

Claimant of Paramount Title.—In an action for partition of lands, it is proper to allow another party claiming a paramount title to the land to intervene and assert his rights. Roughton v. Duncan, 178 N. C. 5, 100 S. E. 78. But such a claimant may be estopped by his laches, as in the case of adverse possession. Thomas v. Garvin, 15 N. C. 223, 25 Am. Dec. 703.

Administrator Not a Party.—In an action by the heirs at law for partition of an intestate's lands, the administrator or personal representative may be made a party defendant if the judgment creditors of the individual tenants, and their mortgagees, are proper parties to the proceedings; and where such lienors have been made parties thereto, it is proper to allow another to dismiss the action as to them. Holley v. White, 172 N. C. 77, 85 S. E. 1061.

The mortgagee of one tenant in common is not a necessary party to special proceedings to partition the land. Rostan v. McGuigan, 216 N. C. 386, 5 S. E. (2d) 126, 126 A. L. R. 410.

Making Additional Party for Purpose of Setting Aside Sale.—An application to be made a party defendant in partition proceedings after confirmation of sale was properly denied, where it was based on deeds from persons who never had claimed any title and accompanied by a motion to set aside the sale to permit his principals to make a bid. Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162 N. C. 145, 77 S. E. 113.

Presence of Unnecessary Party.—The presence of an unnecessary party, in proceedings for partition of lands, will be regarded as constituting an improper venue. Baggett v. Jackson, 106 N. C. 26, 76 S. E. 86.

Unknown Parties.—See section 46-6 and notes thereto.

III. PLEA OF SOLE SEIZIN.

Effect of Plea.—Where the pleas of sole seizin is set up, the effect is to bar the party to contestation of ejectment. When it is not set up, the parties are taken to be tenants in common, and the only inquiry is as to the interests owned. Haddock v. Stovall, 167 N. C. 70, 74, 83 S. E. 91; Graves v. Barrett, 126 N. C. 267, 220, 35 S. E. 39. Where the plea is set up the proper course is for the court to try title to the land. Purvis v. Wilson, 50 N. C. 22, 69 Am. Dec. 777.

Plea Not Put in before Partition Ordered.—Where, in partition, a plea of sole seizin is not put in before the order of partition is made, it will be considered as waived. Wight v. Wight, 26 N. C. 689, 9 N. C. Rep. 550.

Burden of Proof.—Where the defendants plead sole seizin in proceedings to partition lands, the burden of proof is with the plaintiff, which will devolve upon the defendant to establish adverse possession, when relied upon for title, after a prima facie case of tenancy in common is made out. Lester v. Harvard, 272 N. C. 83, 91 S. E. 698.

Effect of Election of Partition When Defendant Waives Issue.—While proceedings for the partition of lands do not ordinarily place the title at issue, such may be done by the tenants in common, and the judgment thereunder will estop them. Beers v. Lee, 124 N. C. 468, 62 S. E. 126; J. C. Mohan- van v. Harrington, 152 N. C. 333, 67 S. E. 747, 136 Am. St. Rep. 638.

§ 48-4. Surface and minerals in separate owners; partitions distinct.—When the title to the mineral interests in any land has become separated from the surface in ownership, the tenants in common or joint tenants of such mineral interests may have partition of the same, distinct from the surface, and without joining as parties the owner or owners of the surface; and the tenants in common or joint tenants of the surface may have partition of the same, in manner provided by law, distinct from the mineral interest the owner or owners of the mineral interest. In all instances where the mineral interests and surface interests have thus become separated in ownership, the owner or owners of the mineral interests shall not be compelled to join in a partition of the surface interests, nor shall the owner or owners of the surface interest be compelled to join in a partition of the mineral interest, nor shall the rights of either owner be prejudiced by a partition of the other interests. (Rev., s. 2488; 1905, c. 90; C. S. 3216.)

§ 46-5. Petition by judgment creditor of cotenant; assignment of homestead.—When any person owns a judgment duly docketed in the superior court of a county wherein the judgment debtor owns an undivided interest in fee in land as a tenant in common, or joint tenant, and the judgment creditor desires to lay off the homestead of the judgment debtor in the land and sell the excess, if any, to satisfy his judgment, the judgment creditor may institute before the clerk of the court of the county wherein the land lies a special proceeding for partition of the land between the tenants in common, making the judgment debtor, the other tenants in common and all other interested persons parties to the proceeding by summons. The proceeding shall then be in all other respects conducted as other special proceedings for the partition of land between tenants in common. Upon the actual partition of the land the judgment creditor may sue out execution on his judgment, as allowed by law, and have the homestead of the judgment debtor allotted to him and sell the excess, as in other cases where the homestead is allotted under execution. The remedy provided for in this section shall not deprive the judgment creditor of any other remedy in law or in equity which he may have for the enforcement of his judgement lien. (Rev., s. 2489; 1905, c. 499; C. S. 3217.)

Cross References.—As to homestead and exemptions in sale under execution, see § 1-369 et seq. As to execution, see § 1-302 et seq.

§ 46-6. Unknown parties; summons and representation.—If, upon the filing of a petition for partition, it be made to appear to the court by affidavit or otherwise that there are any persons interested in the premises whose names are unknown to and cannot after due diligence be ascertained by the petitioner, the court shall order notices to be served upon all such persons by a publication of the petition, or of the substance thereof, with the order of the court thereon, in one or more newspapers to be designated in the order. If after such general notice by publication any person interested in the premises and entitled to notice fails to appear, the court shall in its discretion appoint some disinterested person to represent the owner of any shares in the property to be divided, the ownership of which is unknown and unrepresented. (Rev., s. 2490; 1887, c. 284; C. S. 3218.)

Appointment Discretionary.—It is discretionary, by the express terms of the statute, with the trial judge as to whether he will appoint some disinterested person to represent the interest of unknown persons, etc., and this discretion is not reviewable. Lawrence v. Hardy, 151 N. C. 123, 61 S. E. 765.

Purchaser Acquires Good Title.—When the service of summons has been made by publication on parties unknown, as required by this section, the proceedings being regular in every respect, and the court having jurisdiction of the subject matter, a purchaser for full value without notice acquires title, free from claim or demand of such heir upon whom summons has been thus served. Lawrence v. Hardy, 19 N. C. 123, 65 S. E. 766.

Purchaser Cannot Resist Payment of Purchase Price.—Where the method prescribed by this section is followed, a purchaser may not successfully resist payment of the purchase price of the land on the ground of a defect in title for that the commissioner's deed would not preclude the claim of the missing heir. Bynum v. Bynum, 179 N. C. 14, 101 S. E. 527.

§ 46-7. Commissioners appointed. — The superior court shall appoint three disinterested commissioners to divide and apportion such real estate, or so much thereof as the court may deem best, among the several tenants in common, or joint tenants. Provided, in cases where the land is partitioned lies in more than one county, the court may appoint such additional commissioners as it may deem necessary from counties where the land lies other than the county where the proceedings are instituted. (Rev., s. 2487; Code, s. 1892; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 62, s. 2; C. S. 3219.)

Editor's Note.—The provision of this section in regard to the appointment of additional commissioners when the land lies in more than one county was added to the original section by the amendment of 1924.

Confirmation and Approval by Two Appraisers Held Error.—Testator's children selected three appraisers in accordance with the will, but prior to final report one of the appraisers died, whereupon the court ordered the two surviving appraisers to complete the appraisal and file report, which report was later approved by the court. It was held that under the express terms of the will and under this section, it is necessary that three appraisers act in the matter, although two of them may file the report, § 46-17, and the superior court should have appointed a third appraiser and the confirmation and approval of the report based upon the findings of but two appraisers is reversible error. Sharpe v. Sharpe, 210 N. C. 92, 185 S. E. 634.

§ 46-8. Oath of commissioners.—The commissioners shall be sworn by a justice of the peace, or other person authorized to administer oaths, to do justice among the tenants in common, in respect to such partition, according to their best skill and ability. (Rev., s. 2492; Code, s. 1893; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 2; C. S. 3220.)

Cross Reference,—As to form of oath, see § 11-11.

§ 46-9. Delay or neglect of commissioner penalized.—If, after accepting the trust, any of the commissioners unreasonably delay or neglect to execute the same, every such delinquent commissioner shall be liable for contempt and may be removed, and shall be further liable to a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recovered by the petitioner. (Rev., s. 2498; Code, s. 1901; 1868-9, s. 122, s. 10; C. S. 3221.)

§ 46-10. Commissioners to meet and make partition; equalizing shares. — The commissioners, who shall be summoned by the sheriff, or any constable, must meet on the premises and partition the same among the tenants in common, or joint tenants, according to their respective rights and interests therein, by dividing the land into equal shares in point of value as nearly as possible, and for this purpose they are empowered to subdivide the more valuable tracts as they may deem best, and to charge the more valuable dividends with such sums of money as they may think necessary, to be paid to the dividends of inferior value, in order to make an equitable partition. (Rev., s. 2491; Code, s. 1894; 1887, c. 2, s. 1868-9, c. 125, s. 7; C. S. 3222.)

Promo Only to Compulsory Partition or Sale. — Where the parties have agreed to a compulsory partition or sale, a covenanter, by neglect to make a partition or sale in the manner provided between cotenants, this section is not applicable. Outlaw v. Outlaw, 184 N. C. 255, 238, 114 S. E. 4; Newsome v. Harrell, 168 N. C. 295, 84 S. E. 322.

Section of Two Commissioners Valid. — Where three commissioners are appointed to partition land the action of any two of them is valid. Thompson v. Shemwell, 93 N. C. 222. And this action may consist in filling the vacancy caused by the absence of the third commissioner, when done in the presence of the interested parties and without their objection. Simmons v. Foscoe, 81 N. C. 86. By the very terms of section 46-17, the signature of two of the commissioners on their report is sufficient. Thompson v. Shemwell, supra.

Existing Easement. — It would seem that existing easements are not destroyed by a division in partition. See Jones v. Swindell, 176 N. C. 34, 96 S. E. 663.

Improvements. — A tenant in common is entitled to recover against a co-tenant for betterments he has made upon the land. Daniel v. Dixon, 163 N. C. 137, 79 S. E. 425. Section 1-340 does not apply in this case to that section of the act the reference is to. Fisher v. Towsay Co., 171 N. C. 547, 88 S. E. 887.

But where in a partition an excessive portion is allotted to one, which is reduced on a re-allotment, he cannot be held by the partition of one of the others in his own folly to make them before obtaining a final decree. Hinnant v. Wilder, 122 N. C. 149, 150, 29 S. E. 221.

Owealty. — The right to owealty on an unequal partition is based on the implied warranty attaching to each share from all the others. Cheatham v. Crews, 88 N. C. 38; Nixon v. Lindsey, 53 N. C. 220.

Owealty to Mere Lien Debt. — The charge in partition upon the more valuable shares is not a mere lien debt secured by lien. The debtor is a tenant in common with the holder of the charge, the deed of partition is entered in the records, and the charge is upon the extent of the charge, until the same shall be satisfied. In re Walker, 107 N. C. 340, 12 S. E. 136.

Same. — Charge upon Land. — The sums charged upon "the more valuable dividends," in partitions of lands are charges, not upon the persons of the owners of such dividends, but upon the land alone. Young v. Trustees, 62 N. C. 261.

Owealty Follows Land. — Charges upon land for equality of partition follow the land into the hands of all persons to whom it may come; and they are held to be affected by constructive notice. Powell v. Weatherington, 124 N. C. 40, 12 S. E. 380; Dobbin v. Rev., 106 N. C. 444, 11 S. E. 360. As to the docketing of owealty charges, see section 46-21.

When Land Charged with Payment of Several Shares. — Payment under execution of the charge in favor of one share is not a charge upon the land in favor of non-shareholders. Meyer v. Rice, 107 N. C. 24, 12 S. E. 66.

Effect of Discharge in Bankruptcy on Owelty. — A discharge in bankruptcy does not discharge the charge of owealty of partition against the land of the bankrupt. In re Walker, 107 N. C. 340, 12 S. E. 136.

Discharge in Bankruptcy. — In proceedings for partition (including the expenses of the partition) are charges upon the several shares in proportion to their respective values. Hinnant v. Wilder, 122 N. C. 149, 150, 29 S. E. 221.

Owealty to bear interest. — The sums of money due from the more valuable dividends shall bear interest until paid. (Rev., s. 2496; Code, s. 1890; 1887-8, c. 125, s. 5; C. S. 3223.)

Owealty from infant's share due at majority. — When a minor to whom a more valuable dividend shall fall is charged with the payment of any sum, the money shall not be payable until such minor arrives at the age of twenty-one years, but the general guardian, if there be one, must pay such sum whenever assets shall come into his hands, and in case the general guardian has assets which he did not so apply, he shall pay out of his own proper estate any interest that may have accrued in consequence of such failure. (Rev., s. 2497; Code, s. 1900; 1887-8, c. 129, s. 9; C. S. 3224.)

Charged Land Inherited by Infants. — Owelty may be enforced against land inherited by infants from an adult who owned the land when the owealty was made a charge against it, though as to land partitioned to an infant cotenant owealty is not payable until he reaches his majority. Powell v. Weatherington, 124 N. C. 40, 12 S. E. 380.

Charged Land Inherited by Infants. — Owelty may be enforced against land inherited by infants from an adult who owned the land when the owealty was made a charge against it, though as to land partitioned to an infant cotenant owealty is not payable until he reaches his majority. Powell v. Weatherington, 124 N. C. 40, 12 S. E. 380.

Partition where shareowners unknown or title disputed. — If there are any of the tenants in common, or joint tenants, whose names are not known or whose title is in dispute, the share or shares of such persons shall be set off together as one parcel. If, in any partition proceeding, two or more appear as defendants claiming the same share of the premises to be divided, or if any part of the share claimed by the petitioner is disputed by any defendant or defendants, it shall not be necessary to decide on their respective claims before the court shall order the partition or sale to be made, but the partition or sale shall be made, and the controversy between the contesting parties may be afterwards decided either in the same or an independent proceeding. If two or more tenants in common, or joint tenants, by petition or answer, request it, the commissioners may, in their discretion, order such sums of money as they may think necessary, to be paid whenever assets shall come into the hands of any minor, and in case the general guardian has assets which he did not so apply, he shall pay out of his own proper estate any interest that may have accrued in consequence of such failure.

Miscellaneous. — Where the partition of land is to be by auction, the sale was held to be valid. Hinnant v. Wilder, 122 N. C. 149, 150, 29 S. E. 221.

Charged land. — Where the owealty of partition should be enforced by proceedings in rem against the more valuable shares of the land divided, and not by personal judgments against the owners thereof. Young v. Young, 122 N. C. 24, 12 S. E. 66, 67.

Confirmation Necessary to Execution. — No execution can issue to recover a charge against land in partition proceedings until the commissioners' report has been confirmed. In re Ausborn, 122 N. C. 47, 29 S. E. 56.

Parties to Action to Recover Owelty of Partition. — The widow of a deceased tenant, on the death of whom a partition was made, is not a necessary party to an action brought to recover the sum charged. Ruffin v. Cox, 71 N. C. 253.

Counterclaim. — A cotenant, who is charged in the partition proceedings with owealty, may set up by way of counterclaim damages sustained by his eviction from part of the land awarded to him. Huntley v. Cline, 93 N. C. 458.

Editors' Note. — The 1937 amendment added the last sentence. While the primary purpose of the partition proceeding is to allot to each of the former cotenants his share of the property in severity, this amendment by no means militates against such purpose but makes it possible for some of the former cotenants, who find it economically desirable, to have their several shares allotted to them as one parcel so that they may again hold as cotenants that parcel of land.

§ 46-14. Judgments in partition of remainders validated.—In all cases where land has been conveyed by deed, or by devise, upon contingent remainder, executory devise, or other limitation, where a judgment of partition has been rendered by the superior court authorizing a division of said lands upon the petition of the life tenant or tenants and all other persons then in being who would have taken such land if the contingency had then happened, and those unborn being duly represented by guardian ad litem, such judgment of partition authorizing a division of said lands among the respective life tenants and remaindermen, or executory devisees, shall be valid and binding upon the parties thereto and upon all other persons not then in being. (1933, c. 215, s. 1.)

§ 46-15. Dower claims settled on partition; dowry valued.—Where there is a dower or right of dower out of any land, petitioned to be sold or divided in severalty by actual partition, the woman entitled to dower or right of dower therein may join in the petition. The land to be divided in severalty shall be allotted to the tenants in common, or joint tenants, subject to the dower right or dower, and either may be asked and assigned at the same time that partition thereof is made and by same commissioners. On a decree of sale, the interest of one-third of the proceeds shall be secured and paid to her annually; or in lieu of such annual interest, the value of an annuity of six percent on such third, during her probable life, shall be ascertained and paid to her absolutely out of the proceeds. (Rev., s. 2517; Code, s. 1909; 1893, c. 341; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 18; C. S. 3226.)

§ 46-16. Partition; balance sold or left in common.—In all proceedings under this chapter actual partition may be made of a part of the land, sought to be partitioned and a sale of the remainder; or a part only of any land held by tenants in common, or joint tenants, may be partitioned and the remainder held in cotenancy. (Rev., s. 2506; 1887, c. 214, s. 1; C. S. 3227.)

§ 46-17. Report of commissioners; contents; filing.—The commissioners, within a reasonable time, not exceeding sixty days after the notification of their appointment, shall make a full and ample report of their proceedings, under the hands of any two of them, specifying therein the manner of executing their trust and describing particularly the land or parcels of land divided, and the share allotted to each tenant in severalty, with the sum or sums charged on the more valuable dividends to be paid to those of inferior value. The report shall be filed in the office of the superior court clerk. (Rev., s. 2194; Code, s. 1896; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 5; C. S. 3229.)

§ 46-18. Map embodying survey to accompany report.—The commissioners are authorized to employ the county surveyor or, in his absence or if he be connected with the parties, some other surveyor, who shall make the survey and the map therein showing the quantity, courses and distances of each share, which map shall accompany and form a part of the report of the commissioners. (Rev., s. 2493; Code, s. 1895; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 4; C. S. 3292.)

§ 46-19. Confirmation and impeachment of report.—If no exception to the report of the commissioners is filed within twenty days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party after confirmation may impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby. (Rev., s. 2494; Code, s. 1896; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 5; C. S. 3230.)

§ 46-20. Proceedings Interlocutory until Confirmation.—Until the decree of confirmation by the judge, for the partition of lands are not final, but interlocutory, and rest in his discretion. Taylor v. Cawos, 156 N. C. 6, 72 S. E. 76. Effect of Failure to Object.—Where no exceptions were filed and no objections made, plaintiff was entitled to confirmation as a matter of law. Roberts v. Roberts, 141 N. C. 309, 55 S. E. 721.

§ 46-21. Exceptions to the report of the commissioners appointed to make partition of land shall be filed within twenty days after the report is filed. Floyd v. Rock, 125 N. C. 10, 38 S. E. 33. As to objection to confirmation, see § 46-12 and notes thereto.

§ 46-22. Sufficiency of Exception.—Where within 20 days after filing the report the defendant notified the clerk that he desired to file exceptions, whereupon the clerk made a transcripand, the defendant had objected to the report, and later amended exceptions, setting out various grounds why the report should not be confirmed, were filed with the clerk without objection, it was held error to confirm the report on the ground that no exception had been filed within 20 days. McDevitt v. McDevitt, 159 N. C. 237, 64 S. E. 761.

Resale after Confirmation.—After confirmation a resale may be ordered for sufficient cause shown; but should be upon such motion or notice to the purchaser, as has acquired equitable rights under the first confirmation, except White, 82 N. C. 378.

Estoppel as to Lands Not Included in Petition.—When lands described in a petition for a partition proceeding with the knowledge and consent of the parties thereto, the administrator of one of the parties is estopped from denying that the land was not originally included in the petition for partition. Lindsay v. Beaman, 128 N. C. 189, 38 S. E. 811.

Appeals May Be to Different Judges.—When appeals from the clerk in proceedings for partition are made successively to different judges before whom comes a latter appeal, the record may be set aside or amended before the entry of judgment, but it is not being required for that purpose that the same judge should have passed upon the former appeals. Taylor v. Cooper, 195 N. C. 711, 143 S. E. 469.

Jurisdiction of Judge in Chambers.—A judge in chambers has jurisdiction of appeals from the report of commissioners appointed in special proceedings to partition land. Mcmillan v. McMillan, 121 N. C. 577, 31 S. E. 729.

Right of Clerk to Set Aside Former Order.—Where it appears of record that the clerk in the court in proceedings to partition lands had rendered a judgment in the plaintiff's favor, and had set said judgment on the former order made before him seventeen months thereafter upon allegation of fraud in its procurement, and that the plaintiff had fraudulently obtained a judgment against defendant from appearing and defending, to which the plaintiff did not except, the plaintiff's motion in the superior court, in the cause transferred, for judgment in his favor upon the whole record cannot be allowed. Dexter v. Dexter was the exception to the rule herein cited of this section in setting aside his former order, in plaintiff's favor, on defendant's motion, at the time it was made before him. Turner v. Davis, 163 N. C. 38, 79 S. E. 257.

Statute of Limitations.—Where the commissioners appointed in special proceedings to partition lands among tenants in common, to divide lands held by tenants in common award owelty to one of them to equalize his share with the other, the ten-year statute of limitations begins to run from the confirmation of the report by the clerk, approved by the judge, and the fact that the clerk has not docketed the judgment in the event that the clerk was wrong in his report but correct in the proceedings, does not alone repel the statute of limitations since the record in the petition, or any part thereof. (Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 123, ss. 13, 31; C. S. 3233.)

Effect of Failure to Docket.—Failure of the clerk to docket the owelty of partition upon his judgment docket, within seven years after such date, does not affect the right of plaintiff to enforce payment of the owelty by executor. Cochran v. Colson, 122 N. C. 663, 135 S. E. 794.

§ 46-20. Report and confirmation enrolled and registered; effect.

Such report, when confirmed, together with the decree of confirmation, shall be enrolled and certified to the register of deeds and recorded in the office of the county wherein such real estate is situated, and shall be binding among and between the claimants, their heirs, and assigns. (Rev., s. 2492; Code, s. 1897; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 6; C. S. 3231.)

Effect of Adjudication before Clerk.—In proceedings to partition lands among tenants in common, the adjudication before the clerk operates as an estoppel as to them and to the claimants, their heirs and assigns, where the land is incapable of actual division without injury to some or all of the parties interested, and he has the power to order a sale for partition. Scale v. Scale, 120 N. C. 455, 27 S. E. 123, it is held: "The only controverted fact arising on the pleadings was as to the advisability of a sale for partition or an actual division. This was not an issue of fact but a question of fact for the decision of the trial court, and not an issue of fact for the jury." Vanderbilt v. Roberts, 162 N. C. 273, 78 S. E. 156.

Admissibility of Record in Evidence.—The record of the proceedings is admissible in evidence though not recorded as required by this section. Lindsay v. Beaman, 128 N. C. 189, 38 S. E. 811.

§ 46-21. Clerk to docket owelty charges; no release of land and no lien.

In case owelty of partition is charged in favor of certain parts of said land and against certain other parts, the clerk shall enter upon the judgment docket the said owelty charges in like manner as judgments are entered on said docket, persons to whose parts are allotted in favor of which owelty is charged being marked plaintiffs on the judgment docket, and persons to whom parts are allotted against which owelty is charged being marked defendants on said docket; said entry on said docket shall contain the title of the special proceeding in which N. C. 5. 322.5, 6; .C-. 5. 3231.)

Sale of Lands by Tenant in Common.—A tenant in common suing to partition the premises controlled by him as agent for the cotenants cannot, on being appointed commissioner to sell the premises, purchase them at the sale nor procure any one to do it for him, and he cannot speculate for his own benefit or do any act detrimental to the interest of his cotenants. Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146 N. C. 484, 59 S. E. 1008. See also Credle v. Baughm, 152 N. C. 18, 67 S. E. 46.

Questions of Fact—Questions of Fact.—In Ledbetter v. Piner, 120 N. C. 455, 27 S. E. 123, it is held: "That the controverted fact arising on the pleadings was as to the advisability of a sale for partition or an actual division. This was not an issue of fact but a question of fact for the decision of the clerk subject to review by the judge on appeal." Vanderbilt v. Roberts, 162 N. C. 273, 78 S. E. 156.

§ 46-22. Sale in lieu of partition.

Whenever it appears by satisfactory proof that an actual partition of the lands cannot be made without injury to some or all of the parties interested, the court shall order a sale of the property described in the petition, or any part thereof. (Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 123, ss. 13, 31; C. S. 3233.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of court to enter judgment for money due on judicial sales, see § 1-243.

Tenanted to Actual Partition.—Tenants in common are entitled to an actual partition, if it can be made without injury to any of the co-owners. Taylor v. Carrow, 156 N. C. 6, 72 S. E. 76; Gillespie v. Allison, 115 N. C. 542, 546, 20 S. E. 46.

Tenant Entitled to Homestead.—That a tenant in common is entitled to a homestead against the judgment cannot prevent a sale for partition. Holley v. White, 173 N. C. 559, 188 S. E. 94.

Purchase of Lands by Tenant in Common.—A tenant in common suing to partition the premises controlled by him as agent for the cotenants cannot, on being appointed commissioner to sell the premises, purchase them at the sale nor procure any one to do it for him, and he cannot speculate for his own benefit or do any act detrimental to the interest of his cotenants. Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146 N. C. 484, 59 S. E. 1008. See also Credle v. Baughm, 152 N. C. 18, 67 S. E. 46.

fully protected in the final judgment or order in the Review of Decision.—The action of a judge of the superior court in setting aside the report of partition commissioners, advising actual partition, and ordering a sale, is not review-able, unless an error of law was committed. Taylor v. Car-row, 156 N. C. 6, 72 S. E. 76; Alhambra Steam Nav. Co. v.
Woods, 133 N. C. 93, 45 S. E. 466.
Since a tenant in common has the right to actual partition unless it is made to appear by satisfactory proof that actual partition cannot be made without injury to some or all of the parties interested, an order for sale for partition affects a substantial right, and an appeal will lie to the court supreme from such order entered by the judge on appeal from the master. Hyman v. Edwards, 217 N. C. 342, 7
S. E. (2d) 700.
Applied in Talley v. Murchison, 212 N. C. 205, 193 S. E.
145.
§ 46-24. Life tenant as party; valuation of life estate. — In all proceedings for partition of land wherein there is a life estate, the life tenant may join in the proceeding and on a sale the interest on the value of the share of the life tenant shall be received and paid to such life tenant annually; or in lieu of such annual interest, the value of such share during the probable life of such life tenant shall be ascertained and paid out of the proceeds to such life tenant absolutely. (Rev., s.
2509; 1887, c. 214, s. 2; C. S. 3234.)
Cross References.—As to evaluation of life tenant’s interest, see § 46-14. Life Tenants May Waive Rights.—Under a will providing that "home place shall remain a home for all the single children of such child," the life tenant shall have the right to retain it as a home, since life tenants could waive the right if they desired to enjoy their share in severalty. Sides v. Sides, 178 N. C. 554, 101 S. E. 100.
While the life tenant during the existence of her estate can waive her rights and consent to the sale of her estate, under this section, this may not be done, against her will,
§ 46-25. Sale of standing timber on partition; valuation of life estate.—When two or more persons own, as tenants in common, joint tenants, or copartners, a tract of land, either in possession, or in remainder or reversion, subject to a life estate, on which there may be standing timber trees, a sale of said timber trees, separate from the land, may be had upon the petition of one or more of said owners, or the life tenant, for partition among the owners thereof, including the life tenant, upon such terms as the court may order, and under like proceedings as are now prescribed by law for the sale of land for partition: Provided, that when the land is subject to a life estate, the life tenant shall be made a party to the proceedings, and shall be entitled to receive his portion of the net proceeds of sales, to be ascertained under the mortuary tables established by law. (Rev. s. 2510; 1895, c. 187; C. S. 3236.)

Cross Reference.—As to mortuary tables and present worth of annuities, see §§ 8-46, 8-47.

§ 46-26. Sale of mineral interests on partition.—In case of the partition of mineral interests, in all instances where it is made to appear to the court that it would be for the best interests of the tenants in common, or joint tenants, of such interests to have the same sold, or if actual partition of the same cannot be had without injury to some or all of such tenants (in common), then it is lawful for and the duty of the court to order a sale of such mineral interests and a division of the proceeds as the interests of the parties may appear. (Rev. s. 2507; 1905, c. 90, s. 2; C. S. 2537.)

The mere conclusion of the court that the mineral interest is incapable of actual division, unsupported by allegation, proof, or finding, will not support a decree of sale for partition. Carolina Mineral Co. v. Young, 220 N. C. 287, 17 N. C. L. 312, 23 S. E. 452.

§ 46-27. Sale of land required for public use on covenants' petition. —When the lands of joint tenants or tenants in common are required for public purposes, one or more of such tenants, or their guardian for them, may file a petition verified by oath, in the superior court of the county where the lands or any part of them lie, setting forth therein that the lands are required for public purposes, and that their interests would be promoted by a sale thereof. Whereupon the court, all proper parties being before it, and the facts alleged in the petition being ascertained to be true, shall order a sale of such lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary, in the manner and on the terms it deems expedient. The expenses, fees, and costs of the proceeding shall be paid in the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 2518; Code, s. 1907; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 16; C. S. 3238.)

§ 46-28. Manner and terms of partition sale. —The sale shall be made by some person appointed by the court, on such terms as to size of lots, place or manner of sale, time of credit and security for payment of purchase money, as may be most advantageous to the parties concerned. (Rev., s. 2518; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31; C. S. 3230.)

Private or Public Sale.—The superior court may, in the exercise of its discretion, order a sale of lands in proceedings for partitions, where minors are interested and represented by guardian ad litem, either to be publicly or privately made. Ryder v. Oates, 173 N. C. 569, 92 S. E. 505. And where no abuse of this discretion is shown on appeal, the action of the lower court will not be reviewed. Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 163 N. C. 145, 77 S. E. 113.

§ 46-29. Notice of partition sale. —The notice of sale, under this proceeding, shall be the same as required by law on sales of real estate by sheriff under execution: Provided, however, that in case a re-sale of such real property shall become necessary under such proceeding, that such real property shall then be re-sold only after notice of re-sale has been duly posted at the courthouse door in the county for fifteen days immediately preceding the re-sale and also published at any time during such fifteen day period once a week for two successive weeks of not less than eight days in some newspaper published in the county, if a newspaper is published in the county, but if there be no newspaper published in said county, notices for the re-sale shall be posted at the courthouse door and three other public places in the county for fifteen days immediately preceding the re-sale. (Rev., s. 2514; Code, s. 1905; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 14; 1933, c. 187; C. S. 3240.)

Cross Reference.—As to notice in execution and judicial sales, see § 1-325.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 187, added the proviso at the end of this section relating to notices of resale.

§ 46-30. Title made to purchaser; effect of deed. —On the coming in of the report of sale, and confirmation thereof, and payment of the purchase money, the title shall be made to the purchaser or purchasers at such time and by such person as the court may direct, and in all cases where the persons in possession have been made parties to the proceedings, the court shall give such order for possession. And the deed of the officer or person designated to make such sale shall convey to the purchaser such title and estate in the property as the tenants in common, or joint tenants, had. (Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31; C. S. 3241.)

Sale an Official Act.—When an officer of the court, design-nated either by his official or individual name in the order, is commissioned to make sale of real or personal estate, he acts in the name of and by the authority of the clerk, and his signature under the fidelitas of his conduct. Kerr v. Brandon, 84 N. C. 128, 131.

Enforcement.—Upon acceptance by the court's commissioner of a bid on a private sale, for land involved in partition proceedings, the court has jurisdiction over the purchaser to enforce the bid. Wooten v. Cunningham, 171 N. C. 577, 9 S. E. 513.

Sale.—Balance of Bid.—The purchaser of land at a judicial sale for a private sale, may be authorized to make a better bid at the next sale, for the balance of the amount of his bid which was not paid. Crocker v. Vann, 192 N. C. 422, 135 S. E. 127.

When Title Passes.—Where, under a petition of a tenant in common, lands are sold for division, under the provisions of this section title to the lands held in common will not pass to the purchaser until the purchase price has been paid, and a deed executed to the purchaser by the one appointed to sell under the order of the court. Crocker v. Vann, 192 N. C. 422, 135 S. E. 127.

Title of Intending Purchaser before Confirmation.—An intending purchaser at a partition sale is a mere preferred proposer, and not a purchaser, until after the sale has been confirmed. Patillo v. Lytle, 158 N. C. 92, 73 S. E. 200.

After Confirmation Purchaser Regarded Equitable Owner.—Under section 41-32 after confirmation by the court of a judicial sale of lands, the purchaser is regarded as equitably purchasing, under decree of court fails to pay the price, the title will not be set aside for "mistake, fraud, or collusion," established in partition proceedings, the court has jurisdiction over the intending purchaser at a partition sale is a mere preferred proposer, and not a purchaser, until after the sale has been confirmed. Crocker v. Vann, 192 N. C. 422, 135 S. E. 127.

When Purchaser Fails to Pay.—Where a purchaser of land under decree of court fails to pay the price, the title will not be set aside for "mistake, fraud, or collusion," established in partition proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion are not made by party to the proceeding, except in cases where absent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby. (Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1906; 1899, c. 161; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 15; 1937, c. 71; C. S. 3243.)

Cross Reference.—As to confirmation of judicial sales in vacation, see § 1-218.

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendments reduce the time for filing exceptions from twenty to ten days. The proceedings are held instead of 30 days as formerly required. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 281.

In General.—This section does not require formal exceptions; but because of the use of the word "shall" it is a prerequisite to the power of the court to order a resale that exceptions in a recognized legal way be made within the time prescribed. McCormick v. Patterson, 194 N. C. 216, 139 S. E. 225.

What Exceptions Contemplated.—In the contemplation of this section this is an objection to the regularity of the proceeding or sale or because of "inequitable adjustment." McCormick v. Patterson, 194 N. C. 216, 139 S. E. 225.

Section Relates Only to Public Sale.—This section relates only to public sales, and does not prevent confirmation of a private sale within 20 days. Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162 N. C. 140, 145 S. E. 113.

Execution Sales.—This section is not applicable to execution sales. Weir v. Weir, 196 N. C. 268, 269, 145 S. E. 381.

Effect of Failure to File Report.—Upon the commissioner's failure to file a report and final account with the clerk, as provided by this section, the demand upon the commissioner or his administrator, for the disbursement of the funds, will be considered to have been made as a matter of law. Peal v. Martin, 207 N. C. 106, 176 S. E. 282.

Power of Superior Court to Confirm Sale.—The superior court in a partition action, having general jurisdiction in law and equity, has power to order and confirm a private as well as a public sale. Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162 N. C. 145, 77 S. E. 113; McAfee v. Green, 143 N. C. 411, 415, 55 S. E. 229.

Power to Set Aside.—Where lands are ordered to be sold for a private sale by a court of equity, the authority of the court to set aside an inequitable sale and reopen the bidding proceedings as well as to award the same to parties adults as where some of them, or all, are infants. Ex parte Post, 56 N. C. 485.

Deed Erroneously Made to Husband and Wife.—Where the wife alone is entitled to a deed in the sevance of her interest as a tenant in common of lands sold for division, and a deed is made by the court that the deed be made to her and her husband by entities, the title will inure only to her under a resulting trust, and the husband cannot acquire by survivorship. Crocker v. Vann, 192 N. C. 422, 135 S. E. 127.

Who appointed to sell. — The court may authorize any officer thereof, or any other competent person, to be designated in the decree of sale, to sell the real estate under this proceeding; but no clerk of any court shall appoint himself or his deputy to make sale of real property or other property in any proceeding before him. (Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1906; 1899-9, c. 122, s. 15; 1899, c. 161; C. S. 3242.)
his reason therefor within the statutory time, his conduct may amount to an omission to conform to the agreement with the tenant, leaving the matter within the power of the court to order a resale. McCormick v. Patterson, 194 N. C. 216, 139 S. E. 865.

§ 46-33. Shares in proceeds to cotenants secured.—Upon confirmation of the report, the court shall secure to each tenant in common, or joint tenant, his ratable share in severalty of the proceeds of sale. (Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 31; C. S. 3244.)

§ 46-34. Shares to persons unknown or not sui juris secured.—When a sale is made under this chapter, and any party to the proceedings be an infant, non compos mentis, imprisoned, or beyond the limits of the state, or when the name of any tenant in common is not known, it is the duty of the court to decree the share of such party, in the proceeds of sale, to be so invested or settled that the same may be secured to such party or his real representative. (Rev., s. 2516; Code, s. 1908; 1887, c. 284, s. 3; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 17; C. S. 3245.)

Effect on Title.—This section in nowise interferes with power to free the title and make a valid conveyance of the same. Bynum v. Bynum, 179 N. C. 14, 17, 101 S. E. 525; 116 N. C. 521, 188 S. E. 198.

Consent of Court Necessary to Agreement.—Parties cannot stipulate as to the distribution of the proceeds of a judicial sale without the knowledge of the court, especially where there are infants in the case whose rights are not prejudiced by a preexisting agreement. Lyman v. Southern Coal Co., 183 N. C. 581, 112 S. E. 242.

Infant's Share of Proceeds Remains Realty.—The proceeds of land, sold for partition, to which an infant is entitled, remain real estate until such infant comes of age and elects to take them as money. Bateman v. Latham, 56 N. C. 35.

Payment to Guardian.—A payment made by purchaser of land sold for partition to the guardian of an infant which directed the proceeds to be paid over to the parties according to law, to the guardian of one of the tenants in common, is proper and in pursuance of the statute. Howard v. Stevens, 142 N. C. 12, 54 S. E. 782. As to sufficiency of payment to husband before the modern statute liberating married women from their legal disabilities, see Burgin v. Burgin, 83 N. C. 137.

Art. 3. Partition of Lands in Two States.

§§ 46-35 to 46-41: Repealed by Session Laws 1943, c. 543.

Art. 4. Partition of Personal Property.

§ 46-42. Personal property may be partitioned; commissioners appointed.—When any persons entitled as tenants in common, or joint tenants, of personal property desire to have a division of the same, they, or either of them, may file a petition in the superior court for that purpose; and the court, if it think the petitioners entitled to relief, shall appoint three disinterested commissioners, who, being first duly sworn, shall proceed within twenty days after notice of their appointment to divide such property as nearly equally as possible among the tenants in common, or joint tenants. (Rev., s. 2304; Code, s. 1917; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 27; C. S. 3253.)

Exclusiveness of Remedy.—A petition for the partition of personal property is the only remedy one tenant in common has against another for withholding possession. Grim v. Wicker, 59 N. C. 383; 61 N. C. 143; 72 N. C. 451, 12 S. E. 762.

Same.—No Right to Exclusive Possession.—One tenant in common or joint owner of personal property cannot maintain an action against the other tenant or owner to recover exclusive possession of the property. Lyman v. Southern Coal Co., 183 N. C. 581, 112 S. E. 242.

§ 46-33. CH. 46. PARTITION—PERSONAL PROPERTY § 46-45

§ 46-43. Report of commissioners.—The commissioners shall report their proceedings under the hands of any two of them, and shall file their report in the office of the clerk of the superior court within five days after the partition was made. (Rev., s. 2505; Code, s. 1918; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 28; C. S. 3254.)

§ 46-44. Sale of personal property on partition; report of officer.—If a division of personal property owned by any persons as tenants in common, or joint tenants, cannot be had without injury to some of the parties interested, and a sale thereof is deemed necessary, the court shall order a sale to be made by some officer of the court or other competent person, who shall file his report of sale in the office of the clerk of the court within ten days after sale. (Rev., s. 2519; Code, s. 1919; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 29; C. S. 3255.)

§ 46-45. Confirmation and impeachment of reports of commissioners or officer.—If no exception to the report of the commissioners making partition, or to the report of the officer making sale, as the case may be, is filed within ten days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party, after confirmation, shall be allowed to impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion, by petition in the cause: Provided, inno-

Sec. 47-31. Certified copies may be registered; used as evidence.
Sec. 47-32. Photostatic copies of plats, etc.; fees of clerk.

§ 46-46. Notice of sale of personal property.—The sale shall be made after twenty days notice, by advertisement in three or more public places in the county, and shall be on such terms as the court may direct. (Rev., s. 2520; Code, s. 1920; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 30; C. S. 3257.)
Art. 1. Probate.

§ 47-1. Officials of state authorized to take probate.—The execution of all deeds of conveyance, contracts to buy, sell or convey lands, mortgages, deeds of trust, assignments, powers of attorney, covenants to stand seized to the use of another, leases for more than three years, releases and any and all instruments and writings of whatsoever nature and kind which are required or allowed by law to be registered in the office of the register of deeds or which may hereafter be required or allowed by law to be so registered, may be proved or acknowledged before any one of the following officials of this state: the several justices of the supreme court, the several judges of the superior court, commissioners of affidavits appointed by the governor of this state, the clerk of the supreme court, the several clerks of the superior court, the deputy clerks of the superior court, the several clerks of the criminal courts, notaries public, and the several justices of the peace. (Rev., s. 989; Code, s. 1246; 1895, c. 161, ss. 1, 3; 1897, c. 87; 1899, c. 235; C. S. 3293.)

Effect of Disqualification.—If the disqualification of either the probating or acknowledging officer appears upon the face of the record, the registration is a nullity as to subsequent purchasers and incumbrances. Quinmerry v. Quinmerry, 114 N. C. 145, 19 S. E. 99. But when the incapacity of the acknowledging or probating officer is latent, i. e., does not appear upon the record, one who takes under the grantee in such instrument gets a good title, unless the party claiming the benefit of the defective acknowledgment or probate is cognizant of the facts. Richmond Co. v. Walston, 197 N. C. 67, 122 S. E. 663; County Sav. Bank v. Tolbert, 192 N. C. 726, 133 S. E. 551.

Woman Not Qualified to Act as Notary Public.—A woman is qualified to act as a notary public since the adoption of the amendment to the Constitution of this State, Art. VII, sec. 7; and also to pass upon the proper probate of deeds to lands, and make a valid certificate for its registration, when deputized by the clerk of the superior court under the provisions of our statutes. Preston v. Roberts, 183 N. C. 65, 110 S. E. 586.

Interest and Relationship.—As to disqualification on the ground of interest and relationship, see section 47-7.

§ 47-2. Officials of the United States, foreign countries, and sister states.—The execution of all such instruments and writings as are permitted or required by law to be registered may be proved or acknowledged before any one of the following officials of the United States, of the District of Columbia, of the several states and territories of the United States, of countries under the dominion of the United States and of foreign countries: Any judge of a court of record, any clerk of a court of record, any notary public, any commissioner of deeds, any mayor, any lieutenant governor, any governor, any major or chief magistrate of an incorporated town or city, any ambassador, minister, consul, vice-consul, consul general, vice-consul general, or commercial agent of the United States, any justice of the peace of any state or territory of the United States, any officer of the army of the United States or United States marine corps having the rank of captain or higher, any officer of the United States navy or coast guard having the rank of lieutenant, senior grade, or higher, or any officer of the United States merchant marine having the rank or lieutenancy, senior grade, or higher. No official seal shall be required of said military, naval or merchant marine official, but he shall sign his name, designate his rank, and give the name of his ship or military organization and the date, and for the purpose certifying said acknowledgment, he shall use a form in substance as follows:

On this the day of , the undersigned officer, personally appeared , known to me (or satisfactorily proven) to be serving in or with the armed forces of the United States and to be the person whose name is subscribed to the within instrument and acknowledged that , executed the same for the purposes therein contained. And the undersigned does further certify that he is at the date of this certificate a commissioner or qualified of our state, and is in the active service of the armed forces of the United States.

Signature of Officer

Rank of Officer and command to which attached.

If the proof or acknowledgment of the execution of an instrument is had before a justice of the peace of any state of the United States other than this state or of any territory of the United States, the certificate of such justice of the peace shall be accompanied by a certificate of the clerk of some court of record of the county in which such justice of the peace resides, which certificate of the clerk shall be under his hand and official seal, to the effect that such justice of the peace was at the time the certificate of such justice bears date an acting justice of the peace of such county and state or territory and that the genuine signature of such justice of the peace is set to such certificate. (Rev., § 990; 1899, c. 235, s. 5; 1905, c. 451; 1913, c. 39, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 72, s. 1; 1943, c. 150, s. 1; 1943, c. 471, s. 1; C. S. 2294.)

Cross References.—As to commissioner of affidavits and deeds appointed by the governor, see § 3-1 et seq. As to powers of clerks of courts of record of other states, see § 3-7. As to power of notaries public in and out of state, see § 10-4. As to form of certificate required upon acknowledgment by nonresident official, see §§ 47-44 and 47-45.

Editor's Note.—Both 1943 amendments inserted the words "any commissioner of oaths" in the first sentence. The first 1943 amendment also added to the first sentence the provisions relating to military, naval and merchant marine officials.

Compliance Essential.—This section prescribing how deeds may be proved and acknowledgment and privy examination taken in other states as well as in foreign countries, must be followed, and all prior probates and acknowledgments thereon will be ineffectual, was pending in 1913 when an act amended § 47-2 so as to allow probate and acknowledgment before a commissioner of deeds of another state. By the amendment to the act, all prior probates and acknowledgments before such commissioners of deeds, except those which affected pending litigation or vested rights, were validated.

Proof before Notary Public in Another State.—A deed regularly proved before a notary public in South Carolina by authority of this section, is effectual to pass title as against creditors. County Sav. Bank v. Tolbert, 192 N. C. 133, 133 S. E. 573.

Proof in This State by Notary of Another State.—The proof of a instrument taken in this State by a notary public of another state is defective. County Sav. Bank v. Tolbert, 192 N. C. 133, 133 S. E. 573.

Same.—Rights of Purchaser Where Record Is Clear.—While a probate of a mortgage taken in this State by a notary public of another state is defective, the purchaser at the mortgage sale will acquire his deed title as against an innocent purchaser, being a subsequent judgment creditor, when the probate appears on record, in the office of the registrar of deeds in the county wherein the land is situate here, to have been regularly taken in South Carolina, and there is no evidence that such purchaser had knowledge of the defect at or before the time he acquired his deed. County Sav. Bank v. Tolbert, 192 N. C. 133, 133 S. E. 573.

By Woman Notary Public.—The position cannot be maintained that the probate is fatally defective, being taken by a woman, for it will be assumed that the notary was rightfully appointed in the State in which the deed was probated, and her act will be recognized as valid here. Nicholson v. Eureka Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 33, 75 S. E. 720.

§ 47-3. Commissioner appointed by clerk for nonresident maker.—When it appears to the clerk of the superior court of any county that any person nonresident of this state desires to acknowledge a power of attorney, deed or other conveyance touching any real estate situated in the county of said clerk, he may issue a commission to a commissioner for receiving such acknowledgment, or taking such proof, and said commissioner may likewise take the acknowledgment and privy examination of a married woman separate and apart from her husband, touching her assent to any power of attorney, deeds or other conveyances, touching real estate in said county. The commissioner shall make certificate of the acknowledgments or proof and privy examination made by him, and shall return the same to the clerk of the superior court, whereupon he shall adjudge that such conveyance, power of attorney or other instrument is duly acknowledged or proved, and that such examination is in due form, and shall order the same to be registered.

(N.C. Gen. Stat. s. 991; Code, s. 1258; 1809-70, c. 185; C. S. 3295.)

Cross Reference.—As to acknowledgments before officials of the United States, foreign countries, and sister states, see §§ 3-5, 10-4, 47-2, 47-6, 47-44, 47-45.

§ 47-4. By justice of peace of other than registering county. If the proof or acknowledgment of any instrument is had before a justice of the peace of any county other than the county in which such instrument is offered for registration, the certificate of proof or acknowledgment made by such justice of the peace shall be accompanied by the certificate of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said justice of the peace resides, that such justice of the peace was at the time his certificate bears date an acting justice of the peace of such county, and that such justice's genuine signature is set to his certificate. The certificate of the clerk of the superior court herein provided for shall be under his hand and official seal. (Rev., s. 192; 1899, c. 235, s. 4; C. S. 3296.)

Cross Reference.—As to form of clerk's certificate, see § 47-44.

Omission to Register Seal Not Fatal.—The execution of a deed was proved before a justice of the peace in the County of Franklin, and the clerk of the superior court of that county certified the official character of the Justice of the peace under his official seal; the deed was thereupon registered in Granville County upon the face of the clerk of the superior court of the county, but the official seal of the clerk of Franklin superior court was not registered: It was his certificate. The certificate of the clerk of the superior court herein provided for shall be under his hand and official seal. (Rev., s. 192; 1899, c. 235, s. 4; C. S. 3296.)

Cross Reference.—As to acknowledgments before officials of other states, see §§ 3-5, 10-4, 47-2, 47-6, 47-44, 47-45.

§ 47-5. When seal of officer necessary to probate.—When proof or acknowledgment of the execution of any instrument by any maker of such instrument, whether a married woman or of any corporation, is had before any officer authorized by law to take such proof and acknowledgment, and such officer has an official seal, he shall set his official seal to his certificate. If the official before whom the instrument is proved or acknowledged has no official seal he shall certify under his hand, and his private seal shall not be essential. When the instrument is proved or acknowledged before the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is to be registered, the official seal shall not be necessary. (Rev., s. 993; 1899, c. 235, s. 8; C. S. 3297.)

Cross References.—See also § 10-9. As to validation of certain acts, deeds, etc., and to any notary public where seal omitted, see §§ 47-52, 47-102. As to validation of certain acknowledgments before officers with seal omitted, see §§ 47-52, 47-102. As to validation of certain acknowledgments before officials, authorized by law to take probates, regardless of the county in which the subject-matter of the instrument may be situated and regardless of the domicile, residence or citizenship of the person who executes such instrument, or of the domicile, residence or citizenship of the person to whom or for whose benefit such instrument may be made. (Rev., s. 994; 1899, c. 235, s. 13; C. S. 3298.)

§ 47-7. Probate where clerk is a party.—All instruments required or permitted by law to be registered to which clerks of the superior court are parties, or in which such clerks are interested, may be proved or acknowledged and private examination of any married woman may be taken before any justice of the peace or notary public of the county of said clerk, which clerk may then under his hand and official seal certify to the genuineness thereof. Such proofs, acknowledgments and examinations may also be taken before any judge of the superior court or justice of the supreme court, and the instruments may be probated and ordered to be registered by such judge or justice, in like manner as is provided by law for probates by clerks of the superior court in other cases. Provided, that nothing contained herein shall prevent the clerk of the superior court who is a party to any instrument, or who is a stockholder or officer of any bank or other corporation which is a party to any instrument, from adjudicating and ordering such instruments for registration as have been acknowledged or proved before some justice of the peace or clerk of the superior court, or other papers by any corporation in which such clerk also is an officer or stockholder, are hereby validated and declared sufficient for all such purposes. (Rev., s. 993; 1891, c. 102; 1893, c. 3; 1913, c. 118, s. 1; 1921, c. 92; 1921, c. 106, s. 2; 1939, c. 210, s. 1; C. S. 3298.)

Cross Reference.—As to disqualification of clerk to act, see § 2-12. See also § 47-7.

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment in effect inserted the words "who is a party to any instrument or" in the proviso after the words "clerk of the superior court." Oficer Party Trustee or Cestui Que Trust.—An acknowledgment and privy examination before an officer who was a party, trustee or cestui que trust in the deed is invalid. King v. Johnson, 114 N. C. 504, 19 S. E. 161; McAllister v. Purcell, 124 N. C. 262, 262, 32 S. E. 715.

Relation to Parties Not a Disqualification.—Probate and private examination taken before an officer are not invalid simply because of the name assigned to the parties. McAllister v. Purcell, 124 N. C. 262, 262, 32 S. E. 715.

§ 47-8. Attorney in action not to probate papers therein.—No practicing attorney at law has power to administer any oaths to a person to any paper writing to be used in any legal proceedings [281]
§ 47-9. Probates before stockholders in building and loan associations.—No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including the privy examination of any married woman, of any mortgage or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any building and loan association shall hereafter be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof or privy examination, is a stockholder in said building and loan association. This section does not authorize any officer or director of a building and loan association to take acknowledgments, proofs and privy examinations. The provisions of this section shall apply to federal savings and loan associations having their principal offices in this state. Acknowledgments and proofs of execution, including private examinations of any married women, of any mortgage or deed of trust executed before March 20, 1939 by an officer who is or was a stockholder in any federal savings and loan association, are hereby validated. (1913, c. 110, ss. 1, 2; 1939, c. 136; C. S. 3301.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment, which added the last sentence of this section, provides: "Acknowledgments and proofs of execution, including private examinations of any married woman heretofore taken by an officer who is or was a stockholder in any federal savings and loan association, are hereby validated. Provided the incorporated provisions of this Act shall not affect pending litigation." § 47-9. Probates before stockholders in building and loan associations.—No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including privy examination of married women, of any mortgage, or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any banking corporation, taken prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine, shall be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof or privy examination, was a stockholder or director in such banking corporation. (1939, c. 303, s. 1.)

Acknowledgment before Bank Official.—Under this section where a mortgage is executed on the equity in lands in order to secure endorsers on a note against loss and the note is discounted at a bank, the contract to secure the endorsers against loss is a collateral agreement between the makers and endorsers to which the bank is a party, and the acknowledgment to the mortgage taken by an officer of the bank is valid. Watkins v. Simonds, 202 N. C. 746, 164 S. E. 363.

§ 47-11. Subpoenas to maker and subscribing witnesses.—The grantee or other party to an instrument required or allowed by law to be registered may at his own expense obtain from the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is registered a subpoena for any or all of the makers or subscribing witnesses to an instrument, commanding such maker or subscribing witness to appear before such clerk at his office at a certain time to give evidence concerning the execution of the instrument. The subpoena shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which the person upon whom it is to be served resides. If any person refuses to obey such subpoena he is liable to a fine of forty dollars or to be attached for contempt by the clerk, upon its being made to appear to the satisfaction of the clerk that such disobedience was intentional, under the same rules of law as are prescribed in the cases of other defaulting witnesses. (Rev., s. 996; Code, s. 1288; 1899, c. 235, s. 16; 1897, c. 28; C. S. 3302.)

Cross References.—As to powers of clerk, see § 2-16. As to power of clerk to punish for contempt, see § 5-6.

§ 47-12. Proof of attested writing.—If an instrument required or permitted by law to be registered has a subscribing witness and such witness is dead or out of the state, or of unsound mind, the execution of the same may be proved before any official authorized to take the proof and acknowledgment of such instrument by proof of the handwriting of such subscribing witness or of the handwriting of the maker, but this shall not be proof of the execution of instruments by married women. Provided, that no instrument required or permitted by law to be registered shall be proved, probated or ordered to be registered upon the oath and examination of a subscribing witness who is also the grantee named in said instrument, and the registration of any instrument which has been proven and admitted to probate upon the oath and examination of a subscribing witness who is the grantee in said instrument shall be void: Provided further, that nothing herein shall invalidate the registration of any instrument registered prior to the ninth day of April, A.D. one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five. (Rev., s. 997; 1899, c. 235, s. 12; 1935, c. 168; 1937, c. 7; C. S. 3303.)

Editor's Note.—The proofs added by the 1935 amendment were changed by the 1937 amendment. The 1937 amendment omitted the prohibition of registration of an instrument if the witness attesting its execution is the agent or servant of the grantee. This omission has been interpreted to mean that the witness would seem to be rather remote. It also omitted a former proviso applying the section to agricultural liens. This omission is quite logical since the statute is applicable to all instruments "required or permitted by law to be registered," and agricultural liens fall within such a category. 15 N. C. L. Rev. 337.

§ 47-13. Proof of unattested writing.—If an instrument required or permitted by law to be registered has no subscribing witness, the execution of the same may be proved before any official authorized to take the proof and acknowledgment of such instrument by proof of the handwriting of the maker, but this shall not apply to proof of execution of instruments by married women. (Rev., s. 998; 1899, c. 235, s. 11; C. S. 3304.)

Cross References.—As to proof by attesting witnesses of instruments not required to be attested, see § 8-38. As to proof of handwriting by comparison as evidence, see § 8-40.

Admission to Probate by Proof of Handwriting of the Maker.—A deed having no subscribing witness, may be admitted to probate and registration upon proof of the handwriting of the maker, but this shall not apply to proof of execution of instruments by married women. (Rev., s. 998; 1899, c. 235, s. 1; C. S. 3304.)

Proof of Writing of Nonresident by Resident Party. — Where the parties to an instrument requiring registration are nonresidents, except one, the instrument may be probated by proving the handwriting of the nonresident by the resident party. LeRoy v. Jacobosky, 136 N. C. 443, 48 S. E. 796.

§ 47-14. Clerk to pass on certificate and order registration.—When the proof or acknowledgment of the execution of any instrument, required or permitted by law to be registered, is had before any other official than the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which such instrument is offered for registration, the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is offered for

Elements of Adjudication.—If the certificate is not found in due form, the instrument is rejected. If the certificate is adjudged in due form, then the clerk admits to probate,
i. €., probates it, passes upon the certificate as furnishing proof of execution, adjudges as to the genuineness of the certificate, the authority of the officer, and whether the justice or officer certifying is such, and the sufficiency of proof as certified. White v. Connelly, 105 N. C. 65, 66, 68, 11 S. E.

it is held that wherein the land is situated, it is so only where the fiat clerk of another county upon which such power has been conferred by the statute, and in the absence of any proper fiat or order for registration, the conveyance will be ineffectual against the rights of purchasers and creditors of the Use of Words ‘In Due Form” Not Essential to Adjudication.—The adjudication by the clerk of the superior court that “the foregoing instrument has been duly proved, as appears from the foregoing seal and certificate,’ does not follow the very words of the statute in that it does not adjudge that said probate is “in due form.” But it is intelligible and means substantially the same thing and “will be upheld without regard to mere form.’’ Devereux v. McMahon,

Adjudication Exercise of Judicial Function.—When the clerk of the superior court, upon the certificate of the acknowledgment of a grantor in a conveyance, or of proof of its execution, and privy ‘examination of a married woman by a justice of the peace, adjudges such certificate to be in due form, admits the instrument to probate, and orders its registration, this is the exercise of a judicial function.
White v. Connelly, 105 N. C. 65, 11 S: EB. 177.
Substantial
Compliance Sufficient—A substantial compliance with this section and section 47-37, is all that is necessary to be observed by the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the land lay, in passing upon the certificate to a deed thereto made and executed in another state; and when objection to the validity of registration is made on that ground, and it appears of record on appeal that the certificate made in such other state is in fact sufficient, the validity of the registration will be declared and upheld Certificate of ‘Probate or Acknowledgment Necessary Even if Prebate Made before Clerk.—The statutes of North Carolina require, as the tnethod of authentication and warrant to the register to record a deed, that a certificate complying substantially with the terms of the statute shall be attached to or indorsed upon the deed, even though probate is had before the clerk of the superior court, and where no sufficient certificate was attached to or indorsed upon an instrument, it could not be shown by parol that proper proof was made before the clerk.
102, 103.
Registration No Evidence of Adjudication without Signed Certificate of Clerk.—Where a justice of the peace has properly and in due form taken the acknowledgment of the grantor and his wife to a deed to lands, and the clerk of the court has failed or omitted to sign his name to the cerficate for registration, the registration of the instrument is no evidence that the clerk or his deputy has complied with the provisions of this section requiring the clerk, etc., to adjudicate the sufficiency of the certificate of the justice of the peace, or permit a copy of such deed to be used in evidence under the provisions of section 8-18.
The curative statutes, §§ 47-49, 47-86, 47-87, 47-88 and 47-89, have no
application.

the probate and certificate, and order the instrument to be registered. Table Rock Lumber Co. v. Branch, 158 N. C.

The object of probate and registration in the county where the land lies was intended to give notice to creditors and purchasers for value, or others whose rights might otherwise be seriously and unjustly impaired by the deed. Warren v. Williford, 148 N. C. 474, 63 S. E. 697; Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 159 N. C. 263, 266, 75 S. E. 800; Massachusetts Bonding, etc., Co. v. Knox, 220 N. C. 725, 18 S. E. (2d) 1438.

The purpose of the registration laws is to give notice, and where the index is sufficient to put a careful and prudent examiner upon inquiry, the records are notice of all matters which would be discovered by reasonable inquiry, but the records are intended to be self-sufficient, and a person examining a title is not required to go out upon the premises and actually examine the premises and search under what claim, the provision of this section being applicable only to deeds executed prior to 1 December, 1885. Dorman v. Goodman, 213 N. C. 406, 196 S. E. 352.

The purpose of this section was to enable purchasers to rely with safety upon the examination of the records, and act upon the assurance that, as against all persons claiming under the "donor, bargainor, or lessor," what did not appear did not exist. Grimes v. Guion, 220 N. C. 676, 679, 18 S. E. (2d) 170.

An unregistered deed does not convey complete title and is ineffective as a conveyance of land unless subsequently guaranteed by the deed or registered. Warren v. Williford, 148 N. C. 474, 63 S. E. 697; Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 212 N. C. 676, 679, 18 S. E. (2d) 170.

No conveyance of land nor contract to convey, etc., shall be valid to the extent of any interest in real property to another, after the decree of sale for partition, unless the same shall be recorded in the county where the land lies. The manifest purpose of this section therefore, is to protect purchasers for value and creditors, and leave the parties to contract for the sale of lands inter se to litigate their rights in the Circuit Court. Hargrove v. Acodoc, 111 N. C. 166, 167, 170, S. E. 16.

At Present Instrument Good between Parties without Registration.—A deed is good and valid between the parties to it, even though the registration of which is required by the statutes as at common law. Warren v. Williford, 148 N. C. 474, 62 S. E. 697; Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 263, 75 S. E. 1148; Glass v. Lynchburg Shoe Co., 212 N. C. 750, 18 S. E. (2d) 235.

II. REGISTRATION AS BETWEEN THE PARTIES.

Formerly Registration Prerequisite Even as between Parties.—The provision of this section prior to its amendment, as construed in White v. Holly, 91 N. C. 67, was that "no conveyance of land nor contract to convey, etc., shall be valid to the extent of any interest in real property to another, after the decree of sale for partition, unless the same shall be recorded in the county where the land lies." The effect of the registration laws is to give notice to creditors and purchasers for value, even though the deed by which the grantee acquired title is unregistered. Durham v. Pollard, 219 N. C. 750, 14 S. E. (2d) 835.

As a general rule, to prevent fraud, registration of the deed is necessary. Glass v. Lynchburg Shoe Co., 212 N. C. 676, 679, 18 S. E. (2d) 170.

Unregistered Deed Good Although Deed to Grantor Was Unregistered.—Upon registration, the deed is good even as against creditors and purchasers for value, even though the deed by which the grantee acquired title is unregistered. Durham v. Pollard, 219 N. C. 750, 14 S. E. (2d) 835.

II. REGISTRATION AS BETWEEN THE PARTIES.

Formerly Registration Prerequisite Even as between Parties.—The provision of this section prior to its amendment, as construed in White v. Holly, 91 N. C. 67, was that "no conveyance of land nor contract to convey, etc., shall be valid to the extent of any interest in real property to another, after the decree of sale for partition, unless the same shall be recorded in the county where the land lies." The manifest purpose of this section therefore, is to protect purchasers for value and creditors, and leave the parties to contract for the sale of lands inter se to litigate their rights in the Circuit Court. Hargrove v. Acodoc, 111 N. C. 166, 167, 170, S. E. 16.

At Present Instrument Good between Parties without Registration.—A deed is good and valid between the parties to it, even though the registration of which is required by the statutes as at common law. Formerly Registration Prerequisite Even as between Parties.—The provision of this section prior to its amendment, as construed in White v. Holly, 91 N. C. 67, was that "no conveyance of land nor contract to convey, etc., shall be valid to the extent of any interest in real property to another, after the decree of sale for partition, unless the same shall be recorded in the county where the land lies." Hargrove v. Acodoc, 111 N. C. 166, 167, 170, S. E. 16.

An unregistered deed is good as between the parties and the fact that it is not registered does not affect the equities between the parties, the sole purpose of the statute being to determine and make certain the question of title. Patterson v. Bryant, 216 N. C. 550, 5 S. E. (2d) 849.

Same—Deed Effective under Statute of Uses.—Under this section registration of deeds is not necessary in order to perfect a conveyance for valuable consideration, effective under the Statute of Uses, as between the parties. In cases where livery of seisin was formerly required registration still supplies the necessary constructive notice. Hinton v. Moore, 139 N. C. 44, 46, 31 S. E. 787.

Same—Registration after Commencement of Action.—As a general rule, registration after the commencement of an action is admissible in evidence. Hudson v. Jordan, 108 N. C. 10, 12 S. E. 1029.

Registration in a pleading after the commencement of an action is not admissible in evidence. Hudson v. Jordan, 108 N. C. 10, 12 S. E. 1029.

grantee, and therefore laches on the part of his grantee in failing to promptly record his deed is not available as an equitable defense to another. A grantee in good faith for failure of title by reason of the execution by the grantor of a second deed to the same property which is first recorded. Patterson v. Bryant, 216 N. C. 550, 5 S. E. 2d 649.

III. WHAT INSTRUMENTS AFFECTED.

Instruments in Writing Dealing with Estates Which Lie in Grant.—It will be observed that this section, in terms, applies only to conveyances of land, contracts to convey, and certain other instruments in writing where an estate in land deals with estates that lie in grant, and therefore, are required to be in writing under the statute of frauds and under the law of North Carolina. Spence v. Foster Pottery Co., 185 N. C. 218, 220, 117 S. E. 32.

Same—Parol and Implied Trusts Not Affected.—The primary purpose and intent of the Legislature, in the passage of this act, was to establish a known and ready method for the settlement of conflicting claims and priorities arising from registrations. Hence, from its very nature and purpose it would seem to require that it be restricted to written instruments capable of being registered. There are certain parol trusts, and those created by operation of law, dealing with beneficial interests in lands, which are fully recognized in this jurisdiction. Jones v. Jones, 104 N. C. 220, 3 S. E. 707; Whaley v. Employer's Ins. Co., 215 N. C. 580, 197 S. E. 367; Williams v. Smith, 175 N. C. 319, 95 S. E. 570; Roberts v. Massey, 170 N. C. 589, 127 S. E. 697; Eaton v. Doub, 190 N. C. 14, 128 S. E. 494.

Parol trusts, and those created by operation of law, such as are recognized in this jurisdiction, do not come within the meaning of this act. Where a trust is sought to be established, not by virtue of the express provisions of the statute, refer to such instruments as are in writing and capable of registration. Spence v. Foster Pottery Co., 185 N. C. 218, 117 S. E. 32.

Certain parol trusts in land are enforceable in this jurisdiction when the holder of the legal title, or those claiming under him, have not acquired it for a fair and reasonable value and, therefore, as against purchasers, the legal title vested in the mortgagee comes within the provisions of this act, and this section includes mortgages within its terms. First Nat. Bank v. Sauls, 183 N. C. 165, 170, 110 S. E. 855.

Lease in Writing.—In order to affect with notice and bind a purchaser of lands to a contract of lease for more than three years made by a tenant with a former owner, it is necessary that the lease be registered. Hinton v. Moore, 139 N. C. 44, 51 S. E. 787.

Mortgages Included.—Mortgages have been uniformly held to be conveyances of the legal title, and require the formality of a conveyance in their assignment as against purchasers for value, and, therefore, as against purchasers, the legal title vested in the mortgagee comes within the provisions of the registration act. Davis v. Robinson, 189 N. C. 157, 158, 127 S. E. 465.

Rents Accruing Included.—While rents accruing are choses in action and an assignment thereof need not be recorded. rents accruing are incorporeal hereditaments which, if for a period of more than three years, must be registered to pass property as against purchasers for value. First, etc., Nat. Bank v. Sawyer, 124 N. C. 142, 10 S. E. (2d) 655.

IV. RIGHTS OF PERSONS PROTECTED.

In General.—By virtue of this section only creditors of the donor, bargainor, or lessor, and purchasers for value of a conveyance, or contract to convey, or lease of land for more than three years, are protected by the provisions of this act. Spence v. Foster Pottery Co., 185 N. C. 218, 117 S. E. 32.

A declaration of trust is not a conveyance, or contract to convey, or lease of land, requiring registration as against creditors, by virtue of this section. Crotsett v. McQueen, 205 N. C. 48, 51, 169 S. E. 829.

Contracts to Sell—The One First Registered Prevails. —Amendment of a deed to sell land, the one first registered will confer the superior right. Combes v. Adams, 150 N. C. 64, 68, 136 S. E. 186.

Wills Not Affected—Purchaser under a Will Not Pur- chase. —It was likewise held that the execution by the testator of a second will against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration for the title conveyed by a registered deed. Harris v. Dudley Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 631, 61 S. E. 694.

Certain parol trusts in land are enforceable in this jurisdiction when the holder of the legal title, or those claiming under him, have not acquired it for a fair and reasonable value and, therefore, as against purchasers, the legal title vested in the mortgagee comes within the provisions of this act.

A declaration of trust is not a conveyance, or contract to convey, or lease of land, requiring registration as against creditors, by virtue of this section. Crotsett v. McQueen, 205 N. C. 48, 51, 169 S. E. 829.

Contracts to Sell—The One First Registered Prevails. —Amendment of a deed to sell land, the one first registered will confer the superior right. Combes v. Adams, 150 N. C. 64, 68, 136 S. E. 186.

Wills Not Affected—Purchaser under a Will Not Pur- chase. —It was likewise held that the execution by the testator of a second will against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration for the title conveyed by a registered deed. Harris v. Dudley Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 631, 61 S. E. 694.

Certain parol trusts in land are enforceable in this jurisdiction when the holder of the legal title, or those claiming under him, have not acquired it for a fair and reasonable value and, therefore, as against purchasers, the legal title vested in the mortgagee comes within the provisions of this act.

A declaration of trust is not a conveyance, or contract to convey, or lease of land, requiring registration as against creditors, by virtue of this section. Crotsett v. McQueen, 205 N. C. 48, 51, 169 S. E. 829.

Wills Not Affected—Purchaser under a Will Not Pur- chase. —It was likewise held that the execution by the testator of a second will against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration for the title conveyed by a registered deed. Harris v. Dudley Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 631, 61 S. E. 694.

more than three years and is not recorded. Hildebrand Machinery Co. v. Post, 204 N. C. 744, 169 S. E. 629.

Creditors Put upon the Same Plane as Purchasers.—No distinction is made in the statute or in the opinions of the court, construing and applying the statute, between creditors and mortgagees. § 47-18. A creditor who has expended his money or property, as against a purchaser for value so as to be protected under the Conner Act, so as to take free from the rightful possession of the mortgagor, is neither a purchaser nor a creditor, although he may be put on the same plane with the mortgagee, whether for old or new debts, is a purchaser for value from the vendor, under a duly registered deed, though not registered, will, as a rule, prevail. Tyner v. Barnes, 142 N. C. 110, 113, 54 S. E. 1008.

The trustee in bankruptcy is regarded as a purchaser for value under the amendment to the Bankrupt Act of 1910, and acquires a valid title as against the holder of the unregistered deed, under this section. Lynch v. Johnson, 17 N. C. 611, 89 S. E. 61. This is also true under the Chancery Act, the 1918 amendment to the National Bankruptcy Act.

Deed Executed Prior to Marriage.—Where a man executed and delivered a deed of land to his wife, and before his marriage and remained on the land up to his death, and the deed was not recorded until after his death, his widow is not entitled to dower. She is not a purchaser.

Possessor under Unregistered Contract to Convey—Rights to Improvements.—One who goes into possession of land, under a parol contract to convey, paying the purchase money and making improvements thereon, cannot assert the right to remain in possession until he is repaid the amount expended for improvements, as against a purchaser for value from the vendor, under a duly registered deed. Wood v. Tinsley 138 N. C. 507, 51 S. E. 59. As to a purchaser for value, from the common grantor, the rule applies. Opinion of the supreme court of this state, as to the validity of an unregistered deed, has enhanced the value of the land by improvements, although made in good faith. Eston v. Dubb, 190 N. C. 14, 21, 128 S. E. 494. Expressions in Kelly v. Johnson, 135 N. C. 647, 47 S. E. 297, with these and related cases, are obiter and were corrected by Wood v. Tinsley, supra.

Tort Feasor Neither a Purchaser Nor a Creditor.—A tort feasor, whose negligence has damaged or polluted the rightful possession of the mortgagee, is neither a purchaser nor creditor within the contemplation of our registration laws, §§ 47-18, 47-20, and 47-23, and in action may be maintained against him for the consequent damage either by the mortgagee or mortgagor, and a settlement with one will preclude a recovery by the other. Harris v. Seaboard Air Line R. R. Co. 150 N. C. 239, 58 S. E. 98.5.

Trustee or Mortgagee as Purchaser.—A trustee or mortgagor, whether for old or new debts, is a purchaser for value under the amendment to the execution of a judgment, which was executed before the sale, acquires the title to the land; and the wife in possession of the land continues thereafter, though a trespasser, to have the benefit of the use of the execution of the sheriff's deed to the plaintiff, is not within the saving clause of the act, as the sheriff's deed to the plaintiff is not a conveyance; and as purchaser from the grantor, unless he is a purchaser for value from the donor, bar-

V. NOTICE.
No Notice Will Supply Want of Registration.—No notice, however full or formal, will supply the want of registration. Board v. McKee, 101 N. C. 507, 8 S. E. 553.

Collateral Attack by Creditors for Want of Registration.—The want of registration does not invalidate the instrument so that creditors, merely as such, may treat it as a nullity in a collateral proceeding; but it is void against proceed-ings, instituted by them and prosecuted to a sale of the property or of the land on which they are located. Boyd v. Turpin, 94 N. C. 137; Brem v. Lockhart, 93 N. C. 191; Francis v. Herren, 101 N. C. 507, 8 S. E. 553.

Priority of Judgment Obtained before Registration of Prior Deed.—Where a judgment is rendered and docketed against the vendor of lands subsequent to the execution of the conveyance, but prior to the time of its registration, the lien of the judgment has priority over the title of the grantor, and the lien of the deed. Collier v. Micks, 190 N. C. 14, 128 S. E. 494.

Same.—Agreement between Parties as to Registration.—Under the provisions of this section the holder of a sub-sequent unregistered deed, conveying land subject to the judgment of a judgment creditor of the grantor where the judgment was rendered and docketed before the registration of the deed, even though there was an agreement between the grantor and the grantee that such deed should not be registered, will supply the want of registration of the conveyance. Board v. Micks, 118 N. C. 162, 34 S. E. 729; Bostic v. Young, 116 N. C. 760, 21 N. E. 555; Francis v. Herren, 101 N. C. 507, 8 S. E. 553; Colonial Trust Co. v. Sterchie Bros., 169 N. C. 21, 24, 85 S. E. 50.

Satisfaction of Judgment.—Where a judgment has been obtained and docketed, conveyed subsequent to the registration of the deed, and cannot be defeated by a deed in trust subsequently registered and carrying out the agreement theretofore rest-ing only in parol, and the consideration recited in the deed is immaterial. Colonial Trust Co. v. Sterchie Bros., 169 N. C. 21, 85 S. E. 50.

Neutral Notice.—Where, for the purpose of conveying title, a notice of the judgment is given, its effect is to put the possessor on inquiry, but does not prevent the notice of the judgment being given by the grantee of the deed, and duly registered before the docketing of the judgment, under the execution of which the conveyance was made, the possessor is estopped from asserting that the notice of the judgment was not given, nor was the judgment docketed, by the grantee, or by the possessor.
that defendant in possession thereunder, it was held that the parol agreement was ineffectual as against plaintiff. In order to show evidence of knowledge, since the probate is never full and formal, will supply notice by registration as required by this section. Grimes v. Guion, 220 N. C. 676, 18 S. E. (2d) 170.

A deed executed prior to the Registration Act of 1885, if not made upon evidence taken of the subscribing witness under oath, and if not so appearing the registration of the deed shall be invalid, and it cannot be introduced in evidence for the purpose of showing an essential link in the chain of title. Bank v. Tolbert, 192 N. C. 125, 133 S. E. 558.

VII. UNREGISTERED DEED AS DEED OF TITLE.

Unregistered Deed as Color of Title—Synopsis of Law.—Formerly an unregistered deed was in all cases color of title if sufficient in form (Hunter v. Kelly, 92 N. C. 265), but after the passage of the Conner Act it was held in Austin v. Staten, 126 N. C. 783, 36 S. E. 333, that an unregistered deed is without force and effect. The prior deed was sufficient in form and the court has since then consistently adhered to the latter decision. Janney v. Robbins, 141 N. C. 400, 53 S. E. 863; Burwell v. Chapman, 19 N. C. (2d) 209, 211, 74 S. E. 638, 644, 77 S. E. 835; King v. McRacken, 168 N. C. 621, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

The question was again considered in Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106, 43 S. E. 579, and the ruling in the case of Austin v. Staten was modified so that it only applied in favor of the holder of a subsequent deed executed upon valuable consideration, and the court has since then consistently adhered to the latter decision. Janney v. Robbins, 141 N. C. 400, 53 S. E. 863; Burwell v. Chapman, 19 N. C. (2d) 209, 211, 74 S. E. 638, 644, 77 S. E. 835; King v. McRacken, 168 N. C. 621, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

Where one makes a deed for land, for a valuable consideration, and the grantee fails to register it, but enters into possession thereunder, and remains therein for more than seven years, such deed does not constitute color of title and bar the entry of a grantee, in a subsequent deed for a valuable consideration, who has duly registered his deed. Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106, 43 S. E. 579. Except in cases coming within this rule, the rights acquired by adverse possession are not disturbed or affected by this section. Roberts v. Massey, 185 N. C. 164, 116 S. E. 407; Eaton v. Doub, 190 N. C. 114, 18, 128 S. E. 496; King v. McRacken, 168 N. C. 631, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

Same—Qualification of Advantage Possession.—The principle that under this section an unregistered deed does not constitute color of title, does not extend to a claim by adverse possession held continuously for the requisite time under deeds "foreign" to the true title or entirely independent of the title under which the plaintiff makes his claim. Austin v. Staten, 126 N. C. 783, 36 S. E. 333, distinguished. Janney v. Robbins, 141 N. C. 400, 53 S. E. 863. But where one makes a deed for land, for a valuable consideration, and the grantee fails to register it, but enters into possession thereunder and remains therein for more than seven years, such deed does not constitute color of title and bar the entry of a grantee in a subsequent deed for a valuable consideration who has duly registered his deed. King v. McRacken, 168 N. C. 631, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

SIXTH—Unregistered Deed as Color of Title.

The possession of a grantee under an unregistered deed of land is not under color of title as against subsequent judgment creditors of his grantor, who have thus obtained their liens on the locus in quo, the source of title being the ownership of the grantor. Janney v. Robbins, 141 N. C. 400, 53 S. E. 863. Janney v. Robbins was distinguished in Austin v. Staten where one made a deed for land for a valuable consideration and grantee fails to register it, but enters into possession thereunder and remains therein for more than seven years, such deed does not constitute color of title and bar the entry of a grantee in a subsequent deed for a valuable consideration who has duly registered his deed. Eaton v. Doub, 190 N. C. 114, 18, 128 S. E. 496.

Unregistered Deed as Color of Title.

The statute of limitations does not begin to run in favor of a lessee in possession under a lease where one makes a deed for land until the registration of the lease, as against the owner of the fee under a valid paper title. Eaton v. Doub, 190 N. C. 114, 18, 128 S. E. 496. Janney v. Robbins was modified so that it only applied in favor of the holder of a subsequent deed executed upon valuable consideration, and the court has since then consistently adhered to the latter decision. Janney v. Robbins, 141 N. C. 400, 53 S. E. 863; Burwell v. Chapman, 19 N. C. (2d) 209, 211, 74 S. E. 638, 644, 77 S. E. 835; King v. McRacken, 168 N. C. 621, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

Janney v. Robbins was modified so that it only applied in favor of the holder of a subsequent deed executed upon valuable consideration, and the court has since then consistently adhered to the latter decision. Janney v. Robbins, 141 N. C. 400, 53 S. E. 863; Burwell v. Chapman, 19 N. C. (2d) 209, 211, 74 S. E. 638, 644, 77 S. E. 835; King v. McRacken, 168 N. C. 621, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

Janney v. Robbins was modified so that it only applied in favor of the holder of a subsequent deed executed upon valuable consideration, and the court has since then consistently adhered to the latter decision. Janney v. Robbins, 141 N. C. 400, 53 S. E. 863; Burwell v. Chapman, 19 N. C. (2d) 209, 211, 74 S. E. 638, 644, 77 S. E. 835; King v. McRacken, 168 N. C. 621, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

Janney v. Robbins was modified so that it only applied in favor of the holder of a subsequent deed executed upon valuable consideration, and the court has since then consistently adhered to the latter decision. Janney v. Robbins, 141 N. C. 400, 53 S. E. 863; Burwell v. Chapman, 19 N. C. (2d) 209, 211, 74 S. E. 638, 644, 77 S. E. 835; King v. McRacken, 168 N. C. 621, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

Janney v. Robbins was modified so that it only applied in favor of the holder of a subsequent deed executed upon valuable consideration, and the court has since then consistently adhered to the latter decision. 56, extended the operation of this section to deeds executed between 1895 to 1890.

Affidavit in Case of Corporation Grantees, by Whom Made. —Where a corporation is the holder of such a deed, the affidavit must be executed and sworn to by the president. Richmond Cedar Works v. Pinnix, 208 Fed. 763.

Affirmation of Belief That Deed Is Bona Fide, Essential.—The maker of a deed dated in 1845 upon an affidavit that the affiant believes the deed to be valid, and that the maker of said deed and the witnesses thereto are deceased, and that he cannot make proof of their handwriting, is defeated in his attempt to defeat the conveyance by the affidavit that the "affiant believes such a deed to be a bona fide deed and executed by the grantor therein named.” Allen v. Burch, 142 N. C. 524, 525, 55 S. E. 354.

tion. Dukes v. Jones, 51 N. C. 14. etc., to be registered. Wallace v. Cohen, 111 N. C. 103, 15 S. E. 892; Deal v. Palmer, 72 N. C. 582; Leg-ggett v. Bullock, 44 N. C. 383. And the personal representative of a deceased mortgagor stands in the shoes of the latter. Hence, the plaintiff holding an unregistered second mortgage on the lands of the defendant's intestate is entitled to his lien upon the funds derived from the sale in excess of the first mortgage, in preference to other creditors of the deceased. McBrayer v. Harrill, 152 N. C. 712, 68 S. E. 24.

Intended Primarily to Protect Creditors and Purchasers. — This section was intended primarily to protect creditors and purchasers to the instrument additional efficacy as between the mortgagor and the mortgagee. South Georgia Motor Co. v. Jackson, 184 N. C. 328, 331, 114 S. E. 478.

III. INSTRUMENTS AFFECTED.

Absolute Sale Not Affected. — When the circumstances of a transaction are such as to impose an absolute sale, rather than a mortgage, such transaction is valid without registration as against the persons protected under this section. Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98 N. C. 125, 3 C. C. A. 310. We hold that the language of the registered instrument, and the hus-

Where the owner of lands deeds same to a wife, according to the language of the registered instrument, and the husband alone executes a purchase money deed of trust on the lands which is registered prior to the registration of the deed in fee to the wife, the records are insufficient to show that the husband was a beneficiary under the contract. Davis v. National Bank, 196 Fed. 257, 258.

Mortgagee for Future and Contingent Debts. — A debtor may lawfully mortgage his property to secure future and contingent debts, and is thereby not subject to any prosecution for fraud, since the creditors of the bankrupt, he must perfect the same, as against the personal representative of a deceased mortgagor. Moore v. Rag-

Mortgagee or Mortgagor. — A debtor or creditor may hold a mortgage or security in the property of another, and the mortgage.or security is effective as against the owner thereof, whether for old or new debts, is a purchaser for a value, and his rights are not affected by a prior unregistered mortgage. Moore v. Rag-ger, 196 N. C. 784, 147 S. E. 307.

Mortgagee or Mortgagor. — A trustee or mortgagee, whether for old or new debts, is a purchaser for a value, and his rights are not af-lateral proceeding; but it is void against proceedings instituted by them and prosecuted to a sale of the property or against creditors, however constituted, under Boyd v. Turpin, 94 N. C. 137; Brem v. Lockhart, 93 N. C. 191; Francis v. Herron, 101 N. C. 497, 507, & S. E. 353.

Rights of Mortgagee Registering within Four Months of Bankruptcy of Mortgagor. Under the Federal Bankruptcy Act of 1898, section 60b, and under this section a chattel mortgage given by a bankrupt, but not registered until after the registration of a third mortgage, the mortgage third in order of registration is a prior lien for purchase money; it gives the mortgagee a lien on the land described superior to that of a later executed and registered mortgage thereon. Fleming v. Graham, 110 N. C. 374, 14 S. E. 922.

Chattel Mortgage Good against Purchasers and Creditors Only from Registration.—Under this section a chattel mortgage as against the trustee in bankruptcy of a corporation, to which the mortgagee subsequently conveyed the property in consideration of stock in such corporation. Estate of Tucker vy. The North Carolina Life R. Co., 190 N. C. 480, 130 S. E. 319, annotations, sec. 47-18.

Trustee in Bankruptcy.—A mortgagee who fails to register his mortgage has no right to the property mortgaged as against the trustee in bankruptcy of a corporation, to which the mortgagee subsequently conveyed the property in consideration of stock in such corporation. Fleming v. Graham, 110 N. C. 374, 14 S. E. 922.

Right of Surety Is Superior to That of Trustee in Bankruptcy.—Where no creditor has secured a lien upon the property of a road contractor prior to bankruptcy, the transfer of possession of the property to the surety-mortgagee for purchase money, as against a subsequent mortgagee secured under the Act of 1898, is effective against the trustee. Williams vy. Lewis, 158 N. C. 571, 74 S. E. 17, cited in support of the plaintiff's position.

Applications of Road Contractor Not Valid as against Subsequent Mortgagee.—The application of a road contractor in so far as they profess to convey property, are chattel mortgages and are not valid as against the trustee without registration. Coggin v. Hartford Acci., etc., Co., 78 F. (2d) 471, 476.

Chattel Mortgage Good against Purchasers and Creditors Only from Registration.—Under this section a chattel mortgage as against a bona fide purchaser for value and against creditors only from registration. A general creditor must yield to the lien of the mortgage from the moment of its registration, unless the lien can be successfully assailed as a fraudulent conveyance. Coggin v. Hartford Acci., etc., Co., 78 F. (2d) 471, 476.

Application contracts containing a conveyance whereby a road contractor as of the date thereof assigns, transfers, and conveys to the contractor in consideration of the services in the tools, plant, equipment, and materials that he may then or thereafter have upon the work, authorizing and empowering the surety and its agents to enter upon and take possession thereof, are chattel mortgages within the meaning of this recordation statute. Hartford Acci., etc., Co., v. Coggin, 78 F. (2d) 785, 787.

Before a creditor can defeat the lien of the mortgage properly registered he must acquire a prior lien by way of justice and conforming to the contract and by levying an execution against personal property. Id.

Application contracts containing a conveyance whereby a road contractor as of the date thereof assigns, transfers, and conveys to the contractor in consideration of the services in the tools, plant, equipment, and materials that he may then or thereafter have upon the work, authorizing and empowering the surety and its agents to enter upon and take possession thereof, are chattel mortgages within the meaning of this recordation statute. Hartford Acci., etc., Co., v. Coggin, 78 F. (2d) 785, 787.

Where Mortgagee Displaying Property in Sales Room.—When the mortgagee, as in this case, is a mortgagee, a dealer, to keep it on display at his show room for sale with others therein, and the mortgagee sufficiently describes the property, giving the serial and motor numbers and other identifying marks thereon, for the purpose of the mortgage by his conduct does not lose his right of lien as against a subsequent purchaser from the dealer, and the doctrine of implied authority to the dealer to sell the property free from the mortgage lien as agent of the mortgagor does not apply under the facts of this case. Whitehurst v. Garrett, 196 N. C. 154, 144 S. E. 835.

Priority in Sales of Chattel Mortgages.—If the mortgage is properly registered he must acquire a prior lien by way of justice and conforming to the contract and by levying an execution against personal property. Id.
which such inquiry would have disclosed. Collins v. Davis, 249 N. C. 506, 104 S. E. 2d 737.

Registration upon a defective mortgage does not have the effect of actual or constructive notice of the existence of the mortgage deed, so as to affect a subsequent purchaser for value. Section 58-19.

Same—Mortgage for Future Advances—Effect of Actual Notice.—Where the plaintiffs took a mortgage from A. to secure future advancements, there being a prior mortgage to B. to secure a debt, it was held that if after the execution of the plaintiffs' mortgage, and before they had made any part of or all the advancements stipulated, they had been fixed with actual notice of prior mortgages, equity would be equitably entitled to rescind the former ones, and have them made at their peril; but if they were not so fixed, with notice before they paid out their money, their legal title may prevail notwithstanding the registration for repayment. Todd, etc., Co. v. Outlaw, 79 N. C. 235.

Same—Corporate Deed.—Where the execution of a corporate deed of trust was not proved as the statute required, its registration was without warrant or authority of law, and as against creditors and purchasers for value it was not registered until subsequently probated in proper form and again registered. National Bank v. Hill, 226 Fed. 102.

VI. PLACE OF REGISTRATION

County of Actual Personal Residence.—The mere fact that a person had his actual personal residence in a certain county does not constitute residence. The purpose of the statute is to have the deed of trust or mortgage of personalty registered in the county of the personal residence of the mortgagor, not in the county of the land. Where a mortgage on real and/or personal property, filed, indexed and re-filing, recording and indexing such blank or master form shall be $5.00. When any deed, mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument conveying an interest in, or creating a lien on, real and/or personal property, refers to the provisions, terms, covenants, conditions, obligations, or powers set forth in any such blank or master form recorded as herein authorized, and states the office of recordation of such blank or master form, book and page where same is recorded such reference shall be equivalent to setting forth in extenso in such deed, mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument conveying an interest in, or creating a lien on, real and/or personal property, the provisions, terms, covenants, conditions, obligations and powers set forth in such blank or master form. Provided this section shall not apply to Chowan, Stanly, Iredell, Yates, Watauga, Guilford, Camden, Transylvania, Jackson, Washington, Alleghany, Bladen, Halifax, Ashe, Dare, Beaufort, Moore, Swain, Orange, Granville, Perquimans, Martin, Vance, Columbus, Cartaret, Cumberland, Cleveland, Avery, Sampson counties. (1935, c. 153.)

Editor's Note.—The scheme authorized by this section has obvious advantages and disadvantages. The advantages lie in the shortening of the later instruments. There will be some saving in recording fees to persons and corporations giving or taking numerous deeds, deeds of trust, and mortgages, especially documents of a bulky character, such as some corporate mortgages. The disadvantages are that persons concerned with the subsequent documents will be obliged to examine the record of the master form in order to be sure what the provisions of the documents are. Furthermore, if single provisions as distinguished from all the provisions of the master form may be incorporated by reference to the master form, the device is dangerous. 13 N. C. Law Rev. 396. It is hard to see why the section authorizes specifically a master form for mortgages and deeds of trust, but does not mention deeds. Deeds are included in the words "other instrument conveying an interest in—real and/or personal property," but so are mortgages. The intent to include deeds is made clear, however, by the specific mention of deeds. Deeds are included in the words "conveying an interest in" personal property. Id.

§ 47-21. Counties may provide for photographic or photostatic registration.—The board of county commissioners of any county is hereby authorized and empowered to provide for photographic or photostatic recording of all instruments filed in the office of the register of deeds and in the office of the clerk of the superior court and in other offices of such county where said board may deem such recording feasible. The board of county commissioners may also provide for filing such copies of said instruments in loose leaf binders. (1941, c. 286.)

For comment on the 1941 amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 513.

§ 47-22. Conditional sales of personal property.—All conditional sales of personal property in which the title is retained by the bargainer shall be reduced to writing and registered in the same manner, for the same fees and with the same legal effect as is provided for chattel mortgages, in the county where the purchaser resides, or, in case the purchaser shall reside out of the state, then in the county where the personal estate or some part thereof is situated, or in case of choses in action, where the donee, bargainee or mortgagor resides. (Rev. s. 983; Code, s. 1275; 1891, c. 883.)

Cross References.—As to foreclosure in the event of a conditional sale, see § 45-24. As to chattel mortgages generally, see § 45-1 et seq.

In General.—Prior to the time when this section became operative, creditors of personal property, that is, sales, whether of contract as was reduced to writing or not, in which it was stipulated, that although the prop- erty should pass to the buyer, the title should pass to the person having the title at the time of the sale, are regarded as real or personal bargainee and used by him, the title to the same should not pass to him, but should remain in, and be retained by, the bargainor, until the bargainee should have paid the agreed price to be paid for it, to be reduced to writing and registered, is all persons claiming under the bargainee, without registration. Such sales became frequent and a public grievance. They were the source of much fraud, and many fraudulent practices. The bargainor having possession of the property, and being the apparent owner, easily obtained credit on the faith of it, and when it became necessary to resort to it to save the bargainor, it was found to have been sold to another bargainor, who retained the title. To cure this evil, the statute was passed. The bargainor really retained the title to the property so sold by him, only as a security for the pur- chase-money due. The Legislature, therefore, deemed it just and salutary, that he should be required to reduce the contract of sale to writing, and register the same, just as creditors are required to do to take the same legal effect as chattels mortgaged. Empire Drill Co. v. Alli- son, 94 N. C. 548, 552.

The purpose of this section requiring all conditional sales of personal property to be reduced to writing and registered, is to protect creditors and purchasers for value. It is no part of its purpose to render such sales, whether in writing or not, invalid as between the parties to it. As between them, such sale has the same qualities and is just as effect- 2VNe as it would have, and may be proven by the like evi- dence as before the statute was enacted, and the parties may have recourse to the same extent and manner of claim and action, as that given by law to chattel mortgages. But chattel mortgages are not required to be reduced to writing, exempt from registration. Observer Co. v. Little, 175 N. C. 663, 137 S. E. 874.

Priority between Vendor and Mortgagee of After-Acquired Property. — Under this section conditional sales are regarded as chattel mortgages and void as to creditors and purchasers, except from registration. Observer Co. v. Little, 175 N. C. 62, 94 S. E. 526.

PRIORITY BETWEEN WIDOWER'S YEAR'S ALLOWANCE AND VENDOIR'S RIGHTS. — Prior to the enactment of this section, a conditional sale contract was valid without registration, and only became of record on the books of the county or state. Perry v. Young, 103 N. C. 463, 466, 11 S. E. 531.

SUFFICIENCY OF FORM.—The certificate of registration of a conditional sale of personal property, as a mortgage, is not complete until it is signed by the clerk of the court of that county, and in the caption of the contract also appears the name of the county and state in which it had been registered, and the reference to the record of the paper in which the certificate of registration of the parties sufficiently appears, it was held, that the contract is sufficient in form for the purposes of registration as to the venue, the name of the party, and as to its having been sufficiently acknowledged; the fact that it was sworn to as well as subscribed is regarded as surplusage and immaterial. Manufacturers' Finance Co. v. Amazon Cotton Mills Co., 182 N. C. 406, 109 S. E. 67.

No Registration or Writing as between Parties.—As between the parties, a conditional sale is binding without reg- istration, and is only void if not reduced to writing and registered. Butts v. Screws, 95 N. C. 215; Kornegay v. Kornegay, 109 N. C. 188, 190, 13 S. E. 770.

Purpose of Section.—Forfeiture Proceedings by Govern- ment. — This section is designed for the protection of the creditors or purchasers for value, without notice, and the government of the United States, in a forfeiture proceed- ing, where the property has passed into the hands of a receiver for the act gives to conditional sales the same effect as that given by law to chattel mortgages. But chattel mortgages are not required to be reduced to writing, except from registration, and thus, by virtue of this section, where a condi- tional sale contract has not been registered, a subsequent sale or purchase from a corporation containing an after-acquired property clause, is void as to creditors and purchasers, except from registration. Cutter Realty Co. v. Dunn Moneyhun Co., 204 N. C. 651, 653, 169 S. E. 274.

No Notice Will Take Place of Registration.—No notice however formal or formal can supply notice by regis- tration, and thus, by virtue of this section, where a condi- tional sale contract has not been registered, a subsequent sale from the corporation containing an after-acquired property clause, is void as to creditors and purchasers, except from registration. Cutter Realty Co. v. Dunn Moneyhun Co., 204 N. C. 651, 653, 169 S. E. 274.

§ 47-24. Conditional sales or leases of railroad property. — When any railroad equipment and rolling stock is sold, leased or loaned on the condition that the title to the same is not transferred until the possession and use of the same by the vendee, lessee, or bailee, shall remain in the vendor, lessee or bailee until the terms of the contract, as to the payment of the installments, amounts or rentals payable, or the performance of other obligations thereunder, shall have been fully complied with, such contract shall be invalid as to any subsequent judgment creditor, or any subsequent purchaser for a valuable consideration without notice, unless:

1. The same is evidenced by writing duly acknowledged before some person authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds.

2. Such writing is registered as mortgages are registered, in the office of the register of deeds in at least one county in which such vendee, lessee or bailee of the equipment resides.

3. Each locomotive or car so sold, leased or loaned has the name of the vendor, lessee, or bailee, or the assignee of such vendor, lessee, or bailee plainly marked upon both sides thereof, followed by the word owner, lessee, or assignee as the case may be.

This section shall not apply to or invalidate any contract made before the twelfth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three. (Rev. s. 985; Code, s. 2006; 1883, c. 416; 1907, c. 150, s. 1; Ch. C. S. 3313.)

§ 47-25. Marriage settlements. — All marriage settlements and other marriage contracts, whereby any money or other estate is secured to the wife or husband, shall be proved or acknowledged and registered in the same manner as deeds for lands, and shall be valid against creditors and purchasers for value only from registration. (Rev. s. 985; Code, ss. 1389, 1370, 1281; 1885, c. 147; L. C. C. 37, ss. 24, 25; 1785, c. 238; 1817-5, c. 193, s. 12; Ch. C. S. 3314.)

Cross Reference.—As to marriage settlements, void as to existing creditors, see § 47-19.

Place of Registration.—Registration of a marriage settlement, embracing the slaves of a feme, was held to be properly made in the county where the feme resided and the Deed Possessing Two Characters.—A deed combining the two characters of a deed of trust to secure creditors, and a deed of settlement in trust for a wife and children, may overlap without violating the statute. Provided it has been duly proved and registered. Johnston v. Malcolm, 59 N. C. 120.

Registration after Three Years, as against Subsequent Creditors.—Where a married man, with his wife and children, proved and registered three years after the date of its execution, was held to be valid as against creditors, whose deeds were contracted after such registration. Johnston v. Malcolm, 59 N. C. 120.

Agreement in Effect Not a Marriage Settlement.—An agreement by which the husband consents that the wife may convert one tract of land, which is in nowise subject to his estate, into another tract of land, for which she signs and records a deed, and in which, in order to enable her to make the conversion, she stipulates to allow her to hold as her separate property the price of her land until it can be reinvested in another tract of land, is not a marriage settlement falling within the section. Teague v. Downs, 69 N. C. 280, 287.

The Law of What Time Governs.—Where a marriage took place, and a deed was made between husband and wife prior to 1869, it is governed by the law as it then existed and is not affected by changes in the marital relations brought about by the Constitution of 1868, and the statutes passed thereunder, although the deed was not registered until 1884. Walton v. Parish, 95 N. C. 259.

Registration in Another State.—An antenuptial contract entered into between a husband and wife domiciled in New York, where the property was originally situated, and which was duly registered in New York, but not in North Carolina, is good against the creditors of the husband. The property, although in New York at the time it was purchased, became in North Carolina and changed from what it originally was when the contract was signed. Hicks v. Skinner, 71 N. C. 539.

§ 47-26. Deeds of gift.—All deeds of gift of any estate of any nature shall within two years after the making thereof be proved in due form and registered, or otherwise shall be void, and shall be good against creditors and purchasers for value only from the time of registration. (Rev. s. 986; Code, s. 3252; 1885, c. 147; R. C., c. 37, s. 18; 1799, c. 315, s. 2; C. S. 3315.)

Cross Reference.—As to extension of time for registering deeds of gift, see § 47-27.

Editor's Note.—The time of the registration of deeds of gifts under this section has been unaffected by § 146-64 which extended the time in which certain instruments could be registered until 1927. The sections now in force have given rise to some conflict of opinion in the case of Booth v. Hairston, 193 N. C. 278, 136 S. E. 879. In that case A made a deed of gift of her property, which deed was not registered until after the statutory period of two years had expired. After such expiration A devised this land to her daughter. The question arose whether the effect of continuity without any interruption was lost in the deed which vested in the grantee the interest of the grantor in land sold by the grantor after the death of the testatrix (for the will speaks as of the date of the death of its maker) no vested rights of third parties were involved and that as between the grantor and the grantee the deed would be valid, even though not registered within two years, under the extension given by the above referred to statute. Though made withoutUYEN and dissent, it seems that the majority holding is correct. This conclusion may be justified upon the analogy of the effect of curative statutes upon a right of action already barred under the statute of limitations. The law of this country that where a right of action has been barred by the statute of limitations a subsequent statute extending the time of registration does not revalidate an action of right which had already barred. It may also be justified upon the ground of legislative intention as expressed by the word of the statute "extended". This word in its etymological sense conveys the idea of extending without any interruption. In the following part of the word "extended" as used in this statute cannot refer to the registration of a deed which has already been barred. Extension of time as applied here means the effect from the date of the time prescribed by this section is void, and that the registration is without power to bring it to life by the enactment of a statute lengthening the period in which it may be registered. (Rev. s. 146-64; 193 N. C. 154 S. E. 460; affirming Booth v. Hairston, 193 N. C. 278, 136 S. E. 879; 57 A. L. R. 1186, on rehearing.)

Forbearance to register the deed was differently worded. It was held that the requirement of recordation of deeds of gift applied only where creditors and purchasers were interested. Hancock v. Hovey, 1 N. C. 152. But the present section in plain terms is not affected by this holding.—Ed. Note.

"Making" means date of execution. The execution of a deed is not complete until the instrument is signed, sealed and delivered. Turpin v. Neighbors, 222 N. C. 694, 697, 59 S. E. (2d) 468.

Registration as Notice.—The registration of the prior voluntary deed is notice to the subsequent purchaser. Taylor v. Ratman, 22 N. C. 652.

Unregistered Deed Void Regardless of Fraud.—Where a deed appearing on its face to be a deed of gift is not registered within two years from its execution as required by this section. It is void against creditors and may not be revived by curative act of creditors of the grantor regardless of whether it was executed in fraud of creditors. Reeves v. Miller, 209 N. C. 662, 170 S. E. 253.

Acknowledgment and Registration after Lapse of Period.—Where the owner of lands executed a deed of gift thereto and delivered same to the grantee, and some three and a half years thereafter registered the same for registration, the acknowledgment of the execution was not a re-execution of the deed, and the deed of gift, not having been registered within two years of its execution, was void, and may not be revived by curative act of the legislature. Cutts v. McGhee, 221 N. C. 465, 50 S. E. (2d) 376.

§ 47-27. Deeds of easements.—All persons, firms, or corporations now owning or hereafter acquiring any deed or agreement for rights of way and easements of any character whatsoever shall record such deeds and agreements in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the land affected is situated. Where such deeds and agreements may have been acquired, but no use has been made thereof, the person, firm, or corporation holding such deed or agreement has no vested rights of third parties, and as between the grantor and the grantee the deed would be valid, even though not registered within two years, under the extension given by the above referred to statute. Though made without knowledge and dissent, it seems that the majority holding is correct. This conclusion may be justified upon the analogy of the effect of curative statutes upon a right of action already barred under the statute of limitations. The law of this country that where a right of action has been barred by the statute of limitations a subsequent statute extending the time of registration does not revalidate an action of right which had already barred. It may also be justified upon the ground of legislative intention as expressed by the word of the statute "extended". This word in its etymological sense conveys the idea of extending without any interruption. In the following part of the word "extended" as used in this statute cannot refer to

§ 47-28. Powers of attorney.—Every power of attorney, wherever made or concerning whatsoever matter, may, on acknowledgment or proof of the same before any competent official, be registered in the county wherein the property or estate which it concerns is situate, and no power of attorney shall relate to the conveyance thereof, if it does not relate to the conveyance of any estate or property, then in the county in which the attorney resides or the business is to be transacted. (Rev., s. 987; Code, s. 1249; 1899, c. 235, s. 15; C. S. 3317.)

Cross Reference.—As to form for acknowledgment of instrument executed by attorney in fact, see § 47-43.

Power of Attorney Given by Married Woman.—See Hollingsworth v. Harman, 83 N. C. 153, prior to this section, holding that a power of attorney given by a married woman to dismiss an action concerning her land need not be registered to give it validity.

§ 47-29. Recording of bankruptcy records.—A copy of the petition with the schedules omitted beginning a proceeding under the United States Bankruptcy Act, or of the decree of adjudication in such proceeding, or of the order approving the bond of the trustee appointed in such proceeding, shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds in North Carolina, and it shall be the duty of the register of deeds, on request, to record the same. The register of deeds shall be entitled to the same fees for such registration as he is now entitled to for recording conveyances. (1939, c. 254.)

§ 47-30. Plats and subdivisions.—Any person, firm or corporation owning land in this State may have a plat thereof recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which such land or any part thereof is situated, upon proof upon oath by the surveyor making such plat that the same is in all respects correct and was prepared from an actual survey by him made, giving the date of such survey, or if the surveyor making such plat is dead, or where land has been sold and conveyed according to a plat prepared by the surveyor, upon the oath of a duly licensed surveyor that the said map is in all respects correct and that the same was actually and fully checked and verified by him, giving the date on which the same was verified and checked. Such plat, when so proven and probated as deeds and other conveyances, shall be recorded either by transcribing a correct copy thereof upon or by permanently attaching the original to the records or in a book to be designated the "Book of Plats"; and when so recorded shall be duly indexed. Reference in any instrument heretofofore or hereafter executed to the record of any plat herein authorized or validated shall have the same effect as if the description of the lands as indicated on the record of the plat were set out in the instrument.

Where any map or plat has been recorded, either by transcribing a correct copy thereof upon or by permanently attaching the original to the records or in a book designated "Book of Plats," such map or plat shall be deemed to have been recorded in full compliance with this section, notwithstanding the fact that the same has not been probated in accordance with the provisions hereof; and the registration of all plats and maps which have been recorded by transcribing a correct copy thereof upon or by permanently attaching the original to the records or in a book designated "Book of Plats" is hereby validated fully as if the statute had been fully and completely complied with. (Rev., s. 2; 1933, c. 105; 1935, c. 219; 1941, c. 249; C. S. 3318.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 so changed this section that a comparison is necessary to determine the full extent. The 1941 amendment added the provision as to recording plats when the surveyor making the plat is dead.

For comment on the 1941 amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 513.

Object in Enacting Section.—This section was enacted in view of a decision of the Supreme Court in Sexton v. Elizabeth City, 169 N. C. 385, 86 S. E. 344, in which it was held that a purchaser in reference to a second plat who had registered his deed would take precedence over one under a former plat, but who had failed to have his deed registered; this on the ground that, as no statute provided for registration of plats, the date of registration of the deed would determine the matter. Wittson v. Dowling, 179 N. C. 542, 547, 103 S. E. 18. Intended to Regulate Priorities.—The statute was designed to regulate priorities as between two conflicting dedications, and does not and was not intended to affect the general principles, dedication and acceptance, and the owner's right of revocation. Wittson v. Dowling, 179 N. C. 542, 547, 103 S. E. 18.

§ 47-31. Certified copies may be registered; used as evidence.—A duly certified copy of any deed or writing required or allowed to be registered may be registered in any county; and the registry or duly certified copy of any deed or writing when registered in the county where the land is situate may be given in evidence in any court of the state.

§ 47-32. Common plats to be recorded.—Any plats, surveys or maps required by law to be filed with the records of deeds or other public offices of any county shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds thereof.

§ 47-33. Copy of plat to be filed in deeds.—If any conveyance be made for any estate in fee simple or any interest in fee simple, the grantor shall file a copy of the plat with the deed, in accordance with the provisions of law, and the register of deeds shall record the same in accordance with the provisions of law, and the register of deeds shall record the same in accordance with the provisions of law.
stroved instruments, see §§ 98-12, 98-13. As to certified copies of registered instruments as evidence, see § 8-18. As to certified copies of deeds, mortgages, etc., as evidence and for registry, see § 6-20.

Registration of Copies in Proper County Allowed.—This section and a certified copy of deeds erroneously registered to be recorded in the proper county. Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 263, 75 S. E. 800.

Proper Registration of the Original Presumed.—It is to be presumed that the deed was properly put upon the registry, until the contrary is made to appear, and nothing more is required to render the copy competent evidence when certified, as in the registered instrument. Sturke v. Etheridge, 71 N. C. 241; Love v. Hardin, 87 N. C. 249; Strickland v. Draughan, 83 N. C. 315, 317.

Copy of Contract Used in Evidence to Prove Lost Original.—For proof of the loss of a contract to convey land, a copy thereof, if shown to be correct, is admissible as secondary evidence to prove the contents of the original, though no search was made to ascertain whether the original was registered. Such a contract is valid between the parties without registration. Mauney v. Crowell, 84 N. C. 314.

Certified Copy 100 Years Old May Be Registered though Mutilated.—Under this section a certified copy of a deed over 100 years old, which showed that the original was a perfect deed of conveyance, is admissible to prove and register, though by reason of the mutilation of the record, the execution and/or delivery of the deed were lost; this being particularly true where an earlier certified copy of the same conveyance included the deed containing portions. Richmond Cedar Works v. Stringfellow, 236 Fed. 264.

Cited in United States v. 7,405.3 Acres of Land, 97 F. (2d) 417.

§ 47-32. Photostatic copies of plats, etc.; fees of clerks. In all special proceedings in which a plat, map or blue-print shall be filed as a part of the papers, the Clerk of the Superior Court may have a photostatic copy of said plat, map or blue-print made on a sheet of the same size as the leaves in the book in which the special proceeding is recorded, and when made, shall send said photostatic copy in said book at the end of the report of the commissioners or other document referring to said plat, map or blue-print. The Clerk of Superior Court shall be allowed a fee to be fixed by the County Commissioners not exceeding the sum of five dollars to be taxed in the bill of costs, which fee shall cover the cost of making said photostatic copy and all services of the clerk in connection therewith. (1931, c. 171.)

§ 47-33. Certified copies of deeds made by alien property custodian may be registered.—Any copy of a deed made, or purporting to be made, by the United States alien property custodian duly certified pursuant to Title twenty-eight, section six hundred sixty-one of United States Code by the department of justice of the United States, with its official seal impressed thereon, when the said certified copy reveals the fact that the execution of the original was acknowledged by the alien property custodian before a notary public of the department of justice of the United States, and that the official seal of the alien property custodian conveyed the lands and premises described in said registered copy to the vendees therein named, as said copy reveals, and title to such land shall pass by such recorded instrument. (1937, c. 5, s. 2.)

§ 47-34. Certified copies of deeds made by alien property custodian admissible in evidence.—The record of any such recorded copies of such instruments authorized in § 47-33 shall be admitted in evidence in all the courts of this state and the courts of the United States in the trial of any cause pending therein, the same as though and with like effect as if the original thereof had been probated and recorded as required by the law of North Carolina, and the record in the office of register of deeds of such recorded copy of such an instrument shall be presumptive evidence that the original of said copy was executed and delivered to the vendee, or vendees therein named, and that the original thereof has been lost or unintentionally destroyed without registration, and in the absence of legal proof to the contrary said recorded copy shall be evidence that the United States alien property custodian conveyed the lands and premises described in said registered copy to the vendees therein named, as said copy reveals, and title to such land shall pass by such recorded instrument. (1937, c. 5, s. 2.)

§ 47-35. Register to fill in deeds on blank forms with lines.—Registers of deeds shall, in registering deeds and other instruments, where printed skeletons or forms are used by the register, fill all spaces left blank in such skeletons or forms by drawing or stamping a line or lines in ink through such blank spaces. (1911, c. 6, s. 1; C. S. 3320.)

§ 47-36. Errors in registration corrected on petition to clerk.—Every person who discovers that there is an error in the registration of his grant, conveyance, bill of sale or other instrument of writing, may prefer a petition to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said writing is registered, in the same manner as is directed for petitioners to correct errors in grants or patents, and if on hearing the same before said clerk it appears that errors have been committed, the clerk shall order the register of the county to correct such errors and make the record conformable to the original. The petitioner must notify his grantor and every person claiming title to or having lands adjoining those mentioned in the petition, thirty days previous to preferring the same. Any person dissatisfied with the judgment may appeal to the superior court as in other cases. (Rev. s. 1068; Code, s. 1266; R. C. c. 37, s. 28; 1790, c. 326, ss. 2, 3, 4; C. S. 3328.)

Cross Reference.—As to correction of grants, see § 146 et seq.

Proceedings provided for by this section are exclusive. Hopper v. Justice, 111 N. C. 419, 16 S. E. 636.

§ 47-37. Record of all certified copy used in evidence to show correctness of record. Where, by the mistake or oversight of the makers of a deed, the same is incorrectly written, they have no equity to call upon the grantee to correct the mistake in the books of registry, as they have an ample remedy under this section and a promise by the grantee to make such correction at his own expense and trouble would be nudum pactum. Love v. Hardin, 87 N. C. 249; Strickland v. Draughan, 83 N. C. 315, 317.

The Register May Correct His Mistake.—The order of registration by the clerk is a continuous one, with which the register may subsequently comply upon inadvertently having certified a copy that was contained upon his book. Brown v. Hutchinson, 155 N. C. 265, 71 S. E. 352.

Original Deed as Evidence to Show Mistake of Register.—The original deed may be shown in evidence to correct an omission by the register of deeds of the signature of the justice of the peace before whom the deed was acknowledged. Brown v. Hutchinson, 155 N. C. 205, 71 S. E. 302.

Art. 3. Forms of Acknowledgment, Probate and Order of Registration.

§ 47-37. Adjudication and order of registration.—The form of adjudication and order of registration required by § 47-14 shall be substantially as follows:

North Carolina, ...... County.

The foregoing (or annexed) certificate of (here give name and official title of the officer signing the certificate passed upon) is adjudged to be correct. Let the instrument and the certificate be registered.

This ...... day of .........., A. D. ...... (Official seal.)

But the order of registration may be substantially in the form: "Let the same with this certificate be registered." (Rev., ss. 1001, 1010; 1899, c. 233, s. 7; 1905, c. 344; C. S. 3328.)

It is a sufficient compliance with this section for the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the land lay, to certify that "the foregoing and annexed certificate of (naming the clerk), a clerk of the Supreme Court, etc., duly authenticated by his official seal, is adjudged to be correct, in due form and according to law, and the foregoing and annexed deed of trust is adjudged to be duly proved, etc." Kleybolte & Co. v. Black Mountain Timber Co., 351 N. C. 615, 66 S. E. 663.

§ 47-38. Acknowledgment by grantor.—Where the instrument is acknowledged by the grantor or maker, the form of acknowledgment shall be in substance as follows:

North Carolina, ...... County.

I (here give the name of the official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give the name of the grantor or maker) personally appeared before me this day and acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing instrument. Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal this ...... day of ...... (day of month), A. D. ...... (year).

(Official seal.)

(Certificates of acknowledgment will be liberally construed and will be upheld if in substantial compliance with the statute. Freeman v. Morrison, 214 N. C. 240, 199 S. E. 12.

"Acknowledgment" describes the act of personal appearance before a proper officer and there stating to him the fact of the execution of the instrument as a voluntary act. Freeman v. Morrison, 214 N. C. 240, 199 S. E. 12.

Acknowledgment Taken Over Telephone. — Section 39-7, providing the proper mode of conveyance of real property by husband and wife of his lands, tenements and hereditaments, contemplates that the acknowledgment and the privy examination of the wife provided for shall be made in the presence of the officer, which is emphasized by this section and section 47-39 as to acknowledgments of grants and married women; and such acknowledgment, taken of the wife over a telephone, does not meet the statutory requirements, and renders the conveyance invalid as to her. Southern State Bank v. Summer, 187 N. C. 765, 122 S. E. 848.

Position of the Name of the Justice.—It is not necessary to the validity of the probate of a deed that the signature of the name of the justice before whom it was acknowledged should be recorded at the end, when it appears from the certificate as recorded and from the clerk's adjudication thereon that his name appeared in the first line, and that in fact he properly took the acknowledgment. Brown v. Hutchinson, 155 N. C. 205, 71 S. E. 302.

Cited in McClure v. Crow, 196 N. C. 657, 146 S. E. 713.

§ 47-39. Private examination of wife.—When an instrument purports to be signed by a married woman, the form of certificate of her acknowledgment and private examination before any officer authorized to take the same shall be in substance as follows:

North Carolina, ...... County.

I (here give name of the official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give name of the married woman who executed the instrument), wife of (here give husband's name), personally appeared before me this day and acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing (or annexed) instrument; and the said (here give married woman's name), being by me privately examined, separate and apart from her said husband, touching her voluntary execution of the same, doth state that she signed the same freely and voluntarily, without fear or compulsion of her said husband or any other person, and that she doth still voluntarily assent thereto.

Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this ...... (day of month), A. D. ...... (year).

(Signature of officer.)

Cross Reference.—As to conveyances by husband and wife and requirement of private examination of wife, see § 39-7 et seq.

"And Doth Voluntarily Assent Thereto" Not Essential.—The privy examination of a feme covert which sets out that she signed the deed of her own free will and accord, and without any compulsion of her husband, is sufficient, without adding the words, "and doth voluntarily assent thereto." Robbins v. Harris, 96 N. C. 557, 2 S. E. 70.

§ 47-40. Husband's acknowledgment and wife's examination before same officer.—Where the instrument is acknowledged by both husband and wife or by other grantor before the same officer the form of acknowledgment shall be in substance as follows:

North Carolina, ...... County.

I (here give name of official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give name of the grantors whose acknowledgment is being taken) personally appeared before me this day and acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing (or annexed) instrument, and the said (here give name of the married woman or women), wife (or wives) of (here give name of husband or husbands), being by me privately examined, separate and apart from her said husband, touching her voluntary execution of the same, doth state that she signed the same freely and voluntarily, without fear or compulsion of her said husband or any other person, and that she doth still voluntarily assent thereto.

Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this ...... (day of month), A. D. ...... (year).

(Signature of officer.)

Cross Reference.—As to necessity of seal of probating officer when such officer has an official seal, see § 45-5.

§ 47-41. Corporate conveyances.—The following forms of probate for deeds and other conveyances executed by a corporation shall be deemed sufficient, but shall not exclude other forms of probate which would be deemed sufficient in law. If the deed or other instrument is executed by the president or vice president of the corporation, is sealed with its corporate seal, and is attested by its secretary or assistant secretary, or, in case of a bank, by its secretary, assistant secretary, cashier or assistant cashier, the following form of acknowledgment is sufficient:

(State and county, or other description of place where acknowledgment is taken)

I, ........................................ (Name of officer taking acknowledgment) taking acknowledgment, personally came before me (here give name and official title of officer who signs certificate) and officially came before me (here give the name and official title of the officer who signs this certificate), A. B. (here give the name of the subscribing witness), who, being by me duly sworn, says that he knows the common seal of the (here give the name of the corporation), and is also acquainted with C. D., who is the president of said corporation, and that he, the said A. B., is the (official title of office, if officer taking acknowledgment) of said president of said corporation. Witness my hand and official seal, this the ...... day of (year).

(Official seal.)

(My commission expires) (Date of expiration of commission as notary public) Witness my hand and official seal, this the ...... day of (Month) (Year).

(Signature of officer taking acknowledgment) (Official seal, if officer taking acknowledgment has one.)

(a) The words “a corporation” following the blank for the name of the corporation may be omitted when the name of the corporation ends with the word “Corporation” or “Incorporated.”

(b) The words “My commission expires” and the date of expiration of the notary public’s commission may be omitted except when a notary public is the officer taking acknowledgment.

(c) The words “and official seal” and the seal itself may be omitted when the officer taking the acknowledgment has no seal or when such officer is the clerk, assistant clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the deed or other instrument acknowledged is to be registered.

If the instrument is executed by the president or presiding member or trustee and two other members of the corporation, and sealed with the common seal, the following form shall be sufficient:

North Carolina, ....... County.

This ...... day of ....... A. D. ....... personally came before me (here give the name and official title of the officer who signs this certificate), A. B. (here give the name of the subscribing witness), who, being by me duly sworn, says that he knows the common seal of the (here give the name of the corporation), and is also acquainted with C. D., who is the president (or presiding member or trustee), and also with E. F. and G. H., two other members of said corporation; and that he, the said A. B., saw the said president (or presiding member or trustee) and the two said other members sign the said instrument, and saw the said president (or presiding member or trustee) affix the said common seal of said corporation thereto, and that he, the said subscribing witness, signed his name as such subscribing witness in the presence of the said president of said corporation in their presence. Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this ...... day of ....... (year).

(Official seal.)

If the deed or other instrument is executed by the president, presiding member or trustee of the corporation, and sealed with its common seal, and attested by its secretary or assistant secretary, either of the following forms of proof and certificate thereof shall be deemed sufficient:

North Carolina, ....... County.

This ...... day of ....... A. D. ....... personally came before me (here give name and official title of the officer who signs the certificate) A. B. (here give the name of the officer attesting secretary or assistant secretary), who, being by me duly sworn, says that he knows the common seal of (here give the name of the corporation), and is acquainted with C. D., who is the president of said corporation, and that, the said A. B., is the secretary (or assistant secretary) of the said corporation, and saw the said president sign the foregoing (or annexed) instrument, and saw the said common seal of said corporation affixed to said instrument by said president (or that he, the said A. B., secretary or assistant secretary as aforesaid, affixed said seal to said instrument), and that he, the said A. B., signed his name in attestation of the execution of said instrument in the presence of said president of said corporation. Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this the ...... day of ....... (year).

(Official seal.)

North Carolina, ....... County.

This is to certify that on the ...... day of ....... 19...., before me personally came ....... (president, vice-president, secretary or assistant secretary, as the case may be), with whom I am personally acquainted, who, being by me duly sworn, says that ....... is the president (or vice-president), and ....... is the secretary (or assistant secretary) of the ...... the corporation described in and which executed the foregoing instrument; that he knows the common seal of said corporation; that the seal affixed to the foregoing instrument is said common seal, and the name of the corporation was subscribed thereto by the said president (or vice-president), and that said president (or vice-president) and secretary (or assistant secretary) subscribed their names thereto, and said common seal was affixed, all by order of the board of directors of said corporation, and that the said instrument is the act and deed of said corporation. Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this the ...... day of ....... (year).

(Official seal.)

If the deed or other instrument is executed by the signature of the president, presiding member or trustee of the corporation, and sealed with its common seal and attested by its secretary, or assistant secretary, the following form of proof and certificate thereof shall be deemed sufficient:

This "..." day of ..., A. D. ..., personally came before me (here give name and official title of the officer who signs the certificate) A. B., who, being by me duly sworn, says that he is president (presiding member or trustee) of the "..." Company, and that the seal affixed to the foregoing (or annexed) instrument in writing is the corporate seal of the company, and that said writing was signed and sealed by him in behalf of said corporation by its authority duly given. And the said A. B. acknowledged the said writing to be the act and deed of said corporation.

If the officer before whom the same is proven be the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is offered for registration, he shall add to the foregoing certificate the following: "Let the instrument with the certificate be registered."

All corporate conveyances probated and recorded prior to February 14, 1939, wherein the signature of the president, presiding member or trustee is used in stead of the secretary, and otherwise regular, are hereby validated as if attested by the secretary of the corporation. (Rev. s. 1005; 1899, c. 235, s. 17; 1901, c. 2, s. 110; 1905, c. 114; 1907, c. 927, s. 1; 1939, c. 20, ss. 1, 2; 1943, c. 172; C. S. 3326.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the first form of acknowledgment and paragraphs (a), (b) and (c).

Power of Directors to Mortgage Corporate Property.—This section appears to recognize inferentially the power of a board of directors to mortgage the corporate property. W. & L. E. v. Mazzeo, 154 N. C. 390, 68 S. E. 17.

Reference to Forms of Probate Sufficient by Common Law.—This section providing that it shall not exclude "other forms of probate which would be deemed sufficient in accordance with the common law," makes it a valid execution and probate of the deed as an act of the corporation itself; and were it otherwise, the defects as to the "seal" seems to be cured under the provisions of § 47-72, and as to signatures of the officials by §§ 47-73. Bailey v. Hassell, 184 N. C. 450, 115 S. E. 156.

Reference to Forms of Probate Sufficient by Common Law.—This section providing that the corporate officials acknowledged the instrument as the act and deed of the corporation, or that the official executing the deed in behalf of and under authority from the corporation acknowledged it to be "his" act and deed, as such. Wrelle v. Murphy, 154 N. C. 69, 69 S. E. 210.

Same—Seal of Corporation.—It is not necessary to the valid probate of a deed made by a corporation that it literally follows the statutory printed forms of this section and is attested by an officer of the corporation, provided the facts required by the statute which expressly provides for the form of acknowledgment and paragraphs (a), (b) and (c). Withrell v. Murphy, 154 N. C. 82, 69 S. E. 748.

Same—Attestation of Banking Corporation Conveyances by Cashier.—In all forms of proof and certificate for deeds and conveyances executed by banking corporations, which corporations have no corporate officers, the cashier of said banking corporation may attest such instruments; all deeds and conveyances executed prior to February 14, 1939, by banking corporations, where the cashier of said banking corporation has attested said said instruments, which deeds and conveyances are otherwise regular, are hereby validated. (1939, c. 20, s. 25.)

Cross Reference.—As to probate of deeds by examination of subscribing witness in certain cases, when corporation has ceased to exist, see § 47-16.

§ 47-43. Form of certificate of acknowledgment of instrument executed by attorney in fact.—When an instrument purports to be signed by parties acting through another by virtue of the execution of a power of attorney, the following form of certificate shall be deemed sufficient, but shall not exclude other forms which would be deemed sufficient in law:

"North Carolina, .........County.
I (here give name of the official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give name of attorney in fact), attorney in fact for (here give names of parties who executed the instrument through attorney in fact), personally appeared before me this day, and being by me duly sworn, says that he executed the foregoing and annexed instrument for and in behalf of (here give names of parties who executed the instrument through attorney in fact), and that his authority to execute and acknowledge said instrument is contained in an instrument duly executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the office of (here insert name of official who recorded), and that the instrument is executed under and by virtue of the authority given by said instrument: granting him power of attorney; that the said (here give name of attorney in fact) acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing

§ 47-46. Verification; form of entry. — The registers of deeds in the several counties of the State shall, after each instrument or document has been transcribed on the record, verify the record with the original and the entry of record shall read "Recorded and Verified," and the same shall be without extra charge. (1899, c. 320, s. 1.)

Art. 4. Curative Statutes; Acknowledgments; Probates; Registration.

§ 47-47. Defective order of registration; "same" for "this instrument." — Where instruments were admitted to registration prior to March 2, 1905, and the clerk's order for the registration used the word "same" in place of "this instrument," the said registrations are good and valid. (Rev., s. 1010; 1905, c. 344; C. S. 3329.)

§ 47-48. Clerk's certificate failing to pass on all prior certificates. — When it appears that the clerk of the superior court or other officer having the power to probate deeds, in passing upon deeds or other instruments, and the certificates thereto, having more than one certificate of the same or a prior date, by other officer or officers taking acknowledgment or probating the same, has in his certificate or order mentioned only one or more of the preceding or foregoing certificates as to the same or other instrument to probate, the said clerk or other probating officer shall be deemed sufficient and the probate and registration of said deed or instrument is hereby made and declared valid for all intents and purposes. (1917, c. 237; C. S. 3330.)

§ 47-49. Defective certification or adjudication of clerk, etc., admitting to registration. — In all cases where, prior to January first, nineteen hundred and nineteen, instruments by law required or authorized to be registered, with certificates showing the acknowledgment or proof of execution thereof as required by the laws of the state of North Carolina, have been ordered registered by the clerk of the superior court or other officer qualified to pass upon probates and admit instruments to registration, and actually put upon the books in the office of the register of deeds as if properly proven and ordered to be registered, all such probates and registrations are hereby validated and made as good and sufficient as if properly proven and ordered to be registered, and all such probates and registrations are hereby validated and made as good and sufficient as if properly proven and ordered to be registered.

In all cases where, prior to January 1, 1941, where it appears from the records in the office of the register of [301]
§ 47-51. Official deeds omitting seals. — All deeds executed prior to July 1, 1939, by any sheriff, commissioner, receiver, or other officer authorized to execute a deed by virtue of his office or appointment, in which the officer has omitted to affix his seal after his signature, shall not be invalid on account of the omission of such seal. (1907, c. 807; 1917, c. 69, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 64; 1941, c. 13; C. S. 3333.)

Editor's Note.—The acts of 1924 and 1941 each changed the date mentioned in this section.

§ 47-52. Defective acknowledgment on old deeds validated. — The clerk of the superior court may order registered any deed, or other conveyance of land, in all cases where the instrument and probate bear date prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and seven (1907) where the acknowledgment, private examination, or other proof of execution, has been taken or had before a notary public residing in the county where the land is situate, where said officer failed to affix his official seal after his signature, shall not be invalid on account of the omission of such seal. (1907, c. 807; 1917, c. 69, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 64; 1941, c. 13; C. S. 3333.)

§ 47-53. Probates omitting official seals. — In all cases where the acknowledgment, private examination, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage, or other instrument authorized or required to be registered has been taken or had by or before any commissioner of affidavits and deeds of this state, or clerk or deputy clerk of a court of record, or notary public of this or any other state, territory, or district, and such deed, mortgage, or other instrument has heretofore been recorded in any county in this state, but such commissioner, clerk, deputy clerk, or notary public has omitted to attach his or her official or notarial seal thereto, or it does not appear of record that such seal was attached to the original deed, mortgage, or other instrument, or such commissioner, clerk, deputy clerk, or notary public has certified the same as under his or her "official seal," "notarial seal," or words of similar import, and no such seal appears of record, then all such acknowledgments, private examinations, or proofs taken prior to January first, gages, or other instruments, and the registration thereof, are hereby made in all respects valid and binding. The provisions of this section apply to acknowledgments, private examinations, or proofs taken prior to January first, 1929. (Rev., s. 1012; 1907, cc. 213, 665, 971; 1911, c. 4; 1915, c. 36; 1929, c. 8, s. 1; C. S. 3334.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 amended the last two sentences as formerly appearing in this section to read as the last sentence above.

§ 47-54. Registrations by register's clerks or deputies.—All registration of deeds and other instruments heretofore made by the several registers of deeds of the several counties of the state by their deputies and clerks, and signed in the name of the register of deeds by a deputy or clerk, and when said registration is in all other respects regular, are hereby validated and declared of the same force and effect as if signed in the name of the register and not by a deputy or clerk. (1911, c. 184, s. 1; C. S. 3335.)

§ 47-55. Before officer in wrong capacity or out of jurisdiction.—All deeds, conveyances, or other instruments permitted by law to be registered in this state, which have been probated or ordered to be registered previous to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, before any officer of this or any other state or country, authorized by law to take acknowledgments or to order registration, where the certificate of the probate or order of registration is sufficient in form, but appears to have been certified by the officer in some capacity other than that in which such officer was authorized to act, or appears to have been made out of the county or district authorized by law, but within the state, and where the instrument with such certificate has been recorded in the proper county, are hereby declared to have been duly proved, probated and recorded, and to be valid. (Rev., ss. 1017, 1030; 1913, c. 125, s. 1; C. S. 3336.)

Deeds, etc., Ordered to Be Registered by Justices Validated.—All deeds, conveyances, or other instruments permitted by law to be registered in this State which have been probated or ordered to be registered by any of the justices of the peace appointed under the Act of nineteen hundred and twenty-five, where the certificate of the probate is sufficient in form, but appears to have been certified by one of the several justices of the peace named in said act, are hereby declared to have been duly proved, probated and recorded, and to be valid. 1927, ch. 199, section 2.

Has no Retroactive Effect as to Vested Rights of Third Parties.—Acts validating irregular acknowledgments and probates while good, as between the parties, and as to third parties from the passage of the acts, would not validate such acknowledgments and probates as to third parties whose rights had already been acquired prior to the validating statutes. Gordon v. Collett, 107 N. C. 363, 12 S. E. 332; Williams v. Kerr, 113 N. C. 306, 310, 18 S. E. 501.

§ 47-56. Before justices of peace, where clerk's certificate or order or registration defective.—In every case where it appears from the record of the office of any register of deeds in this state that a justice of the peace in this state has taken and certified the proof of any instrument required by law to be registered, or the privy examination of a married woman therein, and the deed and certificate have been registered prior to the first Monday in April, nineteen hundred and twenty-five, where the certificate of the probate is sufficient in form, but appears to have been certified by one of the several justices of the peace named in said act, are hereby declared to have been duly proved, probated and recorded, and to be valid, 1927, ch. 199, section 2.

Has no Retroactive Effect as to Vested Rights of Third Parties.—Acts validating irregular acknowledgments and probates while good, as between the parties, and as to third parties from the passage of the acts, would not validate such acknowledgments and probates as to third parties whose rights had already been acquired prior to the validating statutes. Gordon v. Collett, 107 N. C. 363, 12 S. E. 332; Williams v. Kerr, 113 N. C. 306, 310, 18 S. E. 501.
§ 47-57. Probates on proof of handwriting of maker refusing to acknowledge.—All registrations of instruments, prior to February fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven, required or allowed by law to be registered, which were ordered or registered, and prove of the handwriting of the grantor or maker who refused to acknowledge the execution, are hereby validated. (Rev. s. 1026; 1897, c. 28; C. S. 3338.)

§ 47-58. Before judges of superior or supreme courts or clerks before 1889.—Wherever the judges of the supreme or the superior court, or the clerks or deputy clerks of the superior court, or courts or their deputies, or by assistant clerks of the superior court, or justice of the supreme court, to which the privy examinations of femes covert, whose names are signed to such deeds, and have ordered said deeds to registration, and the same have been registered, all such probates, privy examinations and registrations are validated. (Rev., s. 1009; Code, s. 1260; 1871-5, c. 200, s. 1; 1889, c. 233; 1891, c. 484; C. S. 3339.)

In General.—It is evident from the general scope of all the legislation upon this important subject that this section was not intended to validate errors in the handwriting of the maker, but only intentional breaches of propriety in disregarding a plain prohibition of the statute, and committing a breach of propriety in breaking over the barriers which could be cured without injury to the rights of others. Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 263, 75 S. E. 800, 801.

Defective Probates of County Courts Embraced.—Where it is shown that this section does not refer to probates taken by the county courts, but to those of the clerks of said counties, it was held that the probates of the county courts were intended to be validated. The phraseology and punctuation, as well as the grammatical construction, of the statute, lead to that conclusion. If the other meaning had been intended, the preposition "of" would have been inserted before the words "courts of pleas and quarter sessions." The section also validates registrations made upon such probates. Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 263, 75 S. E. 800, 801.

Was Not Intended to Validate Intentional Breaches of Authority.—There was no purpose to give efficacy and vitality to a certificate of probate or adjudication of its correctness, where the error consisted not in misconceiving the legal requirements, but in disregarding a plain prohibition concocted by law, in disregarding a plain prohibition of the statute, and committing a breach of propriety in breaking over the barriers constructed to limit their authority. It was never intended that an officer, who exercised authority in the face of a plain statutory prohibition, should under the curative provisions of this section derive benefit from thus disregarding such a law, or from a power affirmed by law, in disregarding a plain prohibition of the statute, and committing a breach of propriety in breaking over the barriers constructed to limit their authority. It was never intended that an officer, who exercised authority in the face of a plain statutory prohibition, should under the curative provisions of this section derive benefit from thus disregarding such a law, or from a power affirmed by law, in disregarding a plain prohibition of the statute, and committing a breach of propriety in breaking over the barriers constructed to limit their authority. Freeman v. Person, 106 N. C. 251, 253, 10 S. E. 1037.

Probate of Officer Who is a Party Not Validated.—This section does not validate probates ordered by a judge of the superior court, even if the judge is a party to the probate. Freeman v. Person, 106 N. C. 251, 10 S. E. 1037, and it is there held that it cannot be construed to validate the probate of an officer in regard to a matter in which he or his wife was a party. White v. Collett, 107 N. C. 302, 12 S. E. 332.

Probate by Deputy Clerks.—At the time, and prior to the enactment of this section, deputy clerks could not, take proof of deeds and other instruments requiring registration; but at an erroneous impression from a misapprehension of the law, that they and the judges of the courts had authority to do so, and in many instances they undertook to exercise such authority. This was attributable to confused legislation on the subject of the probate of deeds and other instruments, and the fact that such officers were invested with such power before the present statutes on that subject were enacted. To cure this wrong impression, and render effectual many official acts done by home officials under a misapprehension of the law, the Legislature enacted this section. Tatom v. White, 95 N. C. 453, 458. Deputy clerks are now authorized by section 47-1 to take probate on instruments.—Ed. Note.

Same—Signing by Deputy Clerk.—This section validates probates and registrations taken before a deputy clerk prior to January 1, 1889, and it is there held whether the deputy clerk, in making the probate, signed as deputy clerk or merely signed the name of the clerk thereto. Gordon v. Collett, 107 N. C. 302, 12 S. E. 332.

Constitutionality.—This curative statute is constitutional and valid if rights of third parties have not accrued, but it would not divest the title of a party acquired by a subsequent deed from the same grantor which is registered prior to the enactment of the curative statute. Gordon v. Collett, 107 N. C. 362, 12 S. E. 332.

Scope of the Original Section.—This section originally rendered valid all probates of deeds, etc., made before the officers therein named, prior to 12 February, 1872; and registrations made in pursuance of such probates were held embraced within the operation of the statutes, although made after that date, but before the enactment of the Code. Tatom v. White, 95 N. C. 453.

§ 47-59. Before clerks of inferior courts.—All probates and orders of registration made by, and taken before any clerk of any inferior or criminal court prior to the twentieth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, and valid in form and substance, shall be valid and effectual, and all deeds, mortgages or other instruments requiring registration, registered upon such probate and registration, so that the essence of what was done should not be sacrificed to the form of doing it, and in disregarding a plain prohibition, which was intended to ratify and validate what had, erroneously been done by officials having general or special powers of the statute, and all probates of deeds, etc., made before the officers therein named, prior to 12 February, 1872; and registrations made in pursuance of such probates were held embraced within the operation of the statutes, although made after that date, but before the enactment of the Code. Tatom v. White, 95 N. C. 453.

§ 47-60. Order of registration by judge, where clerk party.—All deeds, mortgages or other instruments which prior to the twentieth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, have been probated by a justice of the peace and ordered to registration by a judge of the superior court or justice of the supreme court, to which clerks or the superior court, or party, are hereby confirmed, and the probates and orders for registration declared to be valid. (Rev., s. 1020, 1021; 1885, cc. 105, 108; 1889, c. 143; 1899, c. 463; C. S. 3340.)

§ 47-61. Order of registration by interested clerk.—The probate and registration of all deeds, mortgages and other instruments requiring registration prior to the fifteenth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, to take the probate of any instrument required or allowed by law to be registered, which were ordered to registration by a judge of the superior court, or party, are hereby confirmed, and the probates and orders for registration declared to be valid. (Rev., s. 1011; 1893, c. 3, s. 2; C. S. 3342.)

§ 47-61. Order of registration by interested clerk.—The probate and registration of all deeds, mortgages and other instruments requiring registration prior to the fifteenth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, to take the probate of any instrument required or allowed by law to be registered, which were ordered to registration by a judge of the superior court, or party, are hereby confirmed, and the probates and orders for registration declared to be valid. (Rev., s. 1011; 1893, c. 3, s. 2; C. S. 3342.)
and the same are declared valid. (Rev., s. 1015; 1891, c. 102; 1899, c. 258; 1905, c. 427; 1907, c. 1003, s. 2; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 105, s. 1; 1935, c. 235; C. S. 3344.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 changed the date from "prior to the fourth day of March, 1908" to "prior to the fifteenth day of January, 1935." It also validated registration on the order of deputies or assistant clerks.

§ 47-62. Probates before interested notaries.—The proof and acknowledgment of instruments required by law to be registered in the office of the register of deeds of a county, and all privy examinations of a feme covert to such instruments made before any notary public on or since March eleventh, one thousand nine hundred and seven, are hereby declared valid and sufficient, notwithstanding the notary may have been attorney, counsel or otherwise in such instruments. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 105, s. 2; C. S. 3344.)

§ 47-63. Probates before officer of interested corporation.—In all cases when acknowledgment or proof of any conveyance has been taken before a clerk of superior court, justice of the peace or notary public, who was at the time a stockholder or officer in any corporation, bank or other institution which was a party to such instrument, the certificates of such clerk, justice of the peace, or notary public shall be held valid, and are so declared. (Rev., s. 1015; 1907, c. 1003, s. 1; C. S. 3345.)

Although a grantee in a chattel mortgage is not qualified to take the acknowledgment thereof, a chattel mortgage to a bank will not be declared void because the acknowledgment thereof was taken by its cashier. Bank of Duplin v. Hall, 203 N. C. 570, 106 S. E. 526.

§ 47-64. Probates before officers, stockholders or directors of corporations prior to January 1, 1943.—No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including privy examination of married women, of any deed, mortgage or deed of trust to which instrument a corporation is a party, executed prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and forty-three, shall be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof or privy examination was or one in this state and the other in another state, or foreign country, the said probate, in the cases mentioned, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, and all deeds and other instruments required to be registered, and which have been ordered to registration by the proper officer in this state, and upon such probate or probates, and which have been taken as to the husband and the wife by different officers having the power to take probates of deeds, whether both officers reside in this state or one in this state and the other in another state, in the true intendment of the act, the rights of such third parties acquired before the curative act, though with notice of such defectively probated instruments, the rights of such third parties could not be divested or impaired by this curative statute. Robinson v. Loomis, 27 N. C. 348; Smith v. Castrin, 27 N. C. 318; Gordon v. Collett, 107 N. C. 362, 12 S. E. 332; Long v. Crews, 113 N. C. 256, 18 S. E. 499; Williams v. Kerr, 113 N. C. 306, 18 S. E. 501; Quinnerly v. Quinnerly, 114 N. C. 19, 19 S. E. 99; Barrett v. Barrett, 120 N. C. 127, 129, 26 S. E. 691.

Husband's Acknowledged or Subscribed by Witnesses.—The Curative Act, 1893, chap. 253, made valid probates where the wife's privy examination was had prior to the husband's "acknowledgment," and under this provision it was held that this embraces, in the true intendment of the act, cases in which the execution of the deed by the husband was proved by a subscribing witness, and not by his technical acknowledgment. Barrett v. Barrett, 120 N. C. 127, 129, 26 S. E. 691. The wording of the present section seems to cover both situations.—Ed. Note.

§ 47-68. Probates of husband and wife before different officers.—Where, prior to the second day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, the probate of a deed or other instrument, executed by husband and wife, has been taken as to the husband and the wife by different officers having the power to take probates of deeds, whether both officers reside in this state or one in this state and the other in another state, in the true intendment of the act, the rights of such third parties acquired before the curative act, though with notice of such defectively probated instruments, the rights of such third parties could not be divested or impaired by this curative statute. Robinson v. Loomis, 27 N. C. 348; Smith v. Castrin, 27 N. C. 318; Gordon v. Collett, 107 N. C. 362, 12 S. E. 332; Long v. Crews, 113 N. C. 256, 18 S. E. 499; Williams v. Kerr, 113 N. C. 306, 18 S. E. 501; Quinnerly v. Quinnerly, 114 N. C. 19, 19 S. E. 99; Barrett v. Barrett, 120 N. C. 127, 129, 26 S. E. 691.

Wife free trader; no examination or husband's assent.—In all cases prior to the twenty-fourth day of September, nineteen hundred and thirteen, where a married woman who was at the time a free trader by her husband's consent has executed and delivered a deed conveying her land, without her privy examination having been taken, and without the written assent of her husband other than his written assent contained in the instrument making her a free trader, such deed shall be valid and effectual to convey her land as if she had been, at the time of the execution and delivery of such deed, a feme sole. This section does not validate such deed where it would fail to convey the title to land or property of purchasers or their grantees or assignees from such married woman and free trader subsequent to the execution of such deed. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 54, s. 1; C. S. 3351.)

§ 47-72. Corporate name not affixed, but signed otherwise prior to January, 1927.—In all cases prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, where any deed conveying lands purported to be executed by a corporation, but the corporate name was in fact not affixed to said deed, but same was signed by the president and secretary of said corporation, or by the president and two members of the governing body of said corporation, and said deed has been registered in the county where the land conveyed by said deed is located, said defective execution above described shall be and the same is hereby declared to be in all respects valid, and such deed shall be deemed to be in all respects the deed of said corporation. (1919, c. 53, s. 1; 1927, c. 128; C. S. 3354.)

§ 47-73. Probated and registered on oath of subscribing witness.—In all cases prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, where any deed conveying lands was executed by a corporation, and said deed was probated and ordered registered upon the oath and examination of a subscribing witness, by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land conveyed by said deed is located, and said deed has been duly registered by the register of deeds of said county, such probate and order of registration shall be, and the same is hereby, declared to be in all respects valid. (1919, c. 53, s. 2; C. S. 3355.)

§ 47-74. Certificate alleging examination of grantor instead of witness.—Wherever any deed of conveyance registered prior to January first, eighteen hundred and eighty-six, purports to have been attested by two witnesses and in the certificate of probate and acknowledgment it is stated that the execution of such deed was proven by the oath and examination of one of the grantors in said deed instead of either of the witnesses named, all such probates and certificates are hereby validated and confirmed, and any such deed shall be considered as duly acknowledged and probated. (1925, c. 84.)

§ 47-75. Proof of corporate articles before officer authorized to probate.—All proofs of articles of agreement for the creation of corporations which were, prior to the eighteenth day of February, one thousand nine hundred and one, made before any officer who was at that time authorized by the law to take proofs and acknowledgments of deeds and mortgages are ratified. (Rev., s. 1028; 1905, c. 307; C. S. 3352.)

§ 47-76. Before officials of wrong state. — In all cases where the acknowledgment, examination and probate of any deed, mortgage, power of attorney or other instrument required or authorized to be registered has been taken before any judge, clerk of a court of record, notary public having a notarial seal, mayor of a city having a seal, or justice of the peace of a state other than the state in which the grantor, maker or subscribing witness resided at the time of the execution, acknowledgment, examination or probate thereof, and such acknowledgment, examination or probate is in other respects according to law, and such instrument has been duly ordered to registration and has been registered, then such acknowledgment, examination, probate and registration are sufficient for all purposes made valid and binding. This section applies to probates and acknowledgments of deputy clerks of other states when such probate and acknowledgment has been attested by the official seal of said official and adjudged sufficient and in due form of law by the clerk of the court in the state where the instrument is required to be registered. (Rev., s. 1027; 1901, c. 170; C. S. 3356.)
§ 47-77. Before notaries and clerks in other states.—All deeds and conveyances made for lands in this state which have, previous to February fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, been proved before a notary public or clerk of a court of record, or before a court of record, not including mayor's court, of any other state, where such proof has been duly certified by such notary or clerk under his official seal, or the seal of the court, or in accordance with the act of congress regulating the certificate of the records of the courts of one state to another state, or under the seal of such courts, and such deed or conveyance, with the certificate, has been registered in the office of register of deeds in the book of records thereof for the county in which such lands were situate at the time of such registration, are declared to be validly registered, and the proof thereof registration is adjudged valid. All deeds and conveyances so proved, certified and registered, or certified copies of the same, may be used as evidence of title for the lands on the trial of any suit in any courts where title to the lands come into controversy. (Rev., ss. 1029, 1023; Code, ss. 1262, 1263; 1883, c. 129, ss. 1, 2; 1885, c. 11; 1915, c. 213; C. S. 3358.)

Deed Probated in Tennessee in 1869.—When no vested rights are impaired, a deed dated in 1869 is not incompetent evidence upon the ground of defective probate, showing the acknowledgment of the grantor and his wife, and the transfer of the deed, taken before a clerk of a court of record, of Tennessee, with the seal of that court, which was probated by a commissioner of deeds, is validated; and its registration is adjudged valid. All deeds and conveyances so proved, certified and registered, or certified copies of the same, may be used as evidence of title for the lands on the trial of any suit in any courts where title to the lands come into controversy. (Rev., ss. 1029, 1023; Code, ss. 1262, 1263; 1883, c. 129, ss. 1, 2; 1885, c. 11; 1915, c. 213; C. S. 3358.)

§ 47-78. Acknowledgment by resident taken out of state.—When prior to the ninth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, a deed or mortgage executed by a resident of this state has been proved or acknowledged by the maker thereof before a notary public of any other state of the United States, and has been ordered to be registered by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land conveyed is situated, and said deed or mortgage has been registered, such registration is valid. (Rev., s. 1019; 1905, c. 181; C. S. 3359.)

§ 47-79. Before deputy clerks of courts of other states.—Where any deed or conveyance of lands in this state, executed prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, has been acknowledged by the grantor or the privy examination of any married woman has been taken before the deputy clerk of a court of record of another state, and the certificate of acknowledgment and privy examination is otherwise sufficient under the laws of this state, except that it appears to have been signed in the office of the clerk of said court, by the deputy clerk, and the seal of the court has been affixed thereto, and such certificate has been duly approved by the clerk of the superior court of this state in the county where the lands conveyed are situated and the instrument ordered to be recorded, such certificate and probate and the registration made thereon is validated, and the conveyance, if otherwise sufficient, is declared valid. (1913, c. 57, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 3360.)

§ 47-80. Sister state probates without governor's authentication.—In all cases where any deed concerning lands or any power of attorney for the conveyance of the same, or any other instrument required or allowed to be registered, has been, prior to the twenty-ninth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and one, acknowledged by the grantor therein, or proved and the private examination of any married woman, who was a party thereto, taken according to law, before any judge of a supreme, superior or circuit court of any other state or territory of the United States where the parties to such instrument reside, and the certificate of such judge as to such acknowledgment, probate or private examination, and also the certificate of the secretary of state of said state or territory instead of the governor thereof (as required by the laws of this state then in force) signed by the judge, before whom the acknowledgment, probate or private examination were taken, was at the time of taking the same a judge as aforesaid, are attached to said deed, or other instrument, and the said deed or other instrument, having said certificates attached, has been exhibited before the former judge of probate, or the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the property is situated, and such acknowledgment, or probate and private examination have been adjudged by him to be sufficient and said deed or other instrument ordered to be registered and has been registered accordingly, such probate and registration shall be valid. Nothing herein contained affects the rights of third parties who are purchasers for value, without notice, from the grantor in such deed or other instrument. (Rev., s. 1014; 1901, c. 39; C. S. 3361.)

§ 47-81. Before commissioners of deeds.—Any deed or other instrument permitted by law to be registered, and which has prior to the third day of March, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, been proved or acknowledged before a commissioner of deeds, is validated; and its registration is authorized and validated. (1913, c. 39, s. 2; C. S. 3362.)

Does Not Interfere with Vested Rights.—This section is remedial in character and beneficent in purpose—making for the saving of titles, and not their destruction—yet it will not be permitted to impair or to interfere with the vested rights of others. Champion Fibre Co. v. Cozard, 183 N. C. 600, 611, 112 S. E. 810.

Same.—Purchasers at Execution Sale.—This section cannot have the effect of impairing vested rights of purchasers at an execution sale under judgment, or those holding the land under his deed. Champion Fibre Co. v. Cozard, 183 N. C. 600, 611, 112 S. E. 810.

§ 47-81.1 Before commissioner of oaths.—All deeds, mortgages or other instruments required to be registered, which prior to March 5, 1943, have been probated by a commissioner of oaths and ordered registered, are hereby validated and confirmed as properly probated and registered instruments. (1943, c. 471, s. 2.)

§ 47-81.2 Before army, etc., officers.—In all cases where instruments and writings have been proved or acknowledged before any officer of the army of the United States, or of the United States marine corps having the rank of captain or higher, or before any officer of the United States navy or coast guard having the rank of lieutenant, senior grade, or higher, or any officer of the United States merchant marine having the rank of lieutenant, senior grade, or higher, such proofs or acknowledgments, where valid in other respects, are hereby ratified, confirmed and declared valid. (1943, c. 159, s. 2.)

§ 47-82. Foreign probates omitting seals.—In all cases where the acknowledgment, privy examination or other proof of the execution of any instrument authorized or required to be registered has been taken by or before any ambassador, minister, consul, vice consul, vice consul general or commercial agent of the United States in any country beyond the limits of the United States, and such instrument has heretofore been recorded in any county in this state, but the official before whom it was taken has omitted to attach his seal of office, or it does not appear of record that such seal was attached to the instrument, or such official has certified the same as under his "official seal" or seal of his office, or courts of similar import, and no such seal appears of record, then all such acknowledgments, privy examinations or other proof of such instruments, and the registration thereof, are hereby made in all respects valid, and such instruments, after the ratification hereof, shall be competent to be read in evidence. (1913, c. 69, s. 1; C. S. 3363.)

§ 47-83. Before consuls general.—Any deed or other instrument permitted by law to be registered, and which has prior to the thirteenth day of October, nineteen hundred and thirteen, been proved or acknowledged before a "consul general," is validated; and its registration is authorized and validated. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 72, s. 2; C. S. 3364.)

§ 47-84. Before vice consuls and vice consuls general.—The order for registration by the clerk of the superior court and the registration thereof of all deeds of conveyance and other instruments in any county in this state prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and five, upon the certificate of any vice consul or vice consul general of the United States residing in a foreign country, certifying in due form under his name and the official seal of the United States consul or United States consul general of the same place and country where such vice consul or vice consul general resided and acted, that he has taken the proof or acknowledgments of the parties to such instruments, together with the privy examinations of married women parties thereto, are hereby, together with such proof and acknowledgments, privy examinations and certificates, validated. (Rev., s. 1024; 1905, c. 451, s. 2; C. S. 3365.)

Application to Right Prior to Statute.—Person Not Claiming from Same Grantor Not Protected.—This section validating acknowledgments of deeds in foreign countries before "vice consuls and vice consuls general," though not valid against a deed from the same grantor duly registered or a lien against the grantor acquired before the validating act, is good as against a person not claiming under the grantor therein. Powers v. Baker, 152 N. C. 718, 66 S. E. 203.

§ 47-85. Before masters in chancery.—All probates, acknowledgments, and private examinations of deeds and conveyances of land heretofore taken before masters in equity or masters in chancery in any other state prior to January first, nineteen hundred and five, upon the certificate of any and every such deed, acknowledgment, privy examination, or other proof of execution, of any deed, mortgage, or other instrument, authorized to be registered has been taken before a clerk of a court of record in another state, and such clerk has failed or neglected to affix his official seal to his certificate of such acknowledgment, privy examination, or other proof of execution, of such deed, mortgage or other instrument, or where such court had no official seal and no official seal was affixed to such certificate by reason of that fact, and such deed, mortgage, or other instrument has been ordered to registration by the clerk of the superior court of any county in this state and has been registered, the probate of any and every such deed, mortgage, or other instrument authorized to be registered shall be and hereby is to all intents and purposes validated. (1921, c. 15, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 3366(a).)

§ 47-86. Validation of probate of deeds by clerks of courts of record of other states, when official seal is omitted.—In all cases where, prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, the acknowledgment, privy examination of a married woman, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage, or other instrument authorized to be registered has been taken before a clerk of a court of record in another state, and such clerk has failed or neglected to affix his official seal to his certificate of such acknowledgment, privy examination, or other proof of execution, of such deed, mortgage or other instrument, or where such court had no official seal and no official seal was affixed to such certificate by reason of that fact, and such deed, mortgage, or other instrument has been ordered to registration by the clerk of the superior court of any county in this state and has been registered, the probate of any and every such deed, mortgage, or other instrument authorized to be registered shall be and hereby is to all intents and purposes validated. (1921, c. 19, ss. 1, 4; C. S. 3366(b).)

§ 47-87. Validation of probates by different officers of deeds by wife and husband.—In all cases where, prior to the second day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, the acknowledgment, privy examination of a married woman, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage, or other instrument, authorized to be registered, executed by husband and wife, has been taken as to the husband and wife in different states and by different officers having power to take acknowledgments, any and every such acknowledgment, privy examination of a married woman, or other proof of execution, and the probate of any and every such deed, mortgage or other instrument shall be and hereby is, to all intents and purposes validated. (1921, c. 19, ss. 1, 4; C. S. 3366(b).)

ment, privy examination of a married woman, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage or other instrument, authorized to be registered, has been taken before a commissioner in another state appointed by the probate judge of any county of this state, under the provisions of section twenty of chapter thirty-five of Battle's Revisal, during the time said chapter remained in force and effect, and such commissioner has certified to such acknowledgment, privy examination or other proof, and has returned such deed, mortgage or other instrument to said probate judge, with his certificate endorsed thereon, and such deed, mortgage or other instrument, together with such certificate, has been registered, without any adjudication or order of registration by such probate judge, the probate and registration of any and every such deed shall be, and hereby is, to all intents and purposes validated. (1921, c. 19, ss. 2, 4; C. S. 3366(e).)

§ 47-89. Same.—In all cases where any deed, mortgage or other instrument has heretofore been acknowledged or probated in accordance with the provisions of §§ 47-87 and 47-88, and such deed, mortgage or other instrument has been registered, without any order of registration by the probate judge or clerk of the superior court appearing thereon, the probate and registration of any and every such deed, mortgage or other instrument shall be, and hereby is to all intents and purposes validated. (1921, c. 19, ss. 3, 4; C. S. 3366(d).)

§ 47-90. Validation of acknowledgments taken by notaries public holding other office.—In every case where deeds or other instruments have been acknowledged before a notary public, when the notary public, at the time was also holding some other office, and the deed or other instrument has been duly probated and recorded, such acknowledgment taken by such notary public is hereby declared to be sufficient and valid. (1921, c. 21; C. S. 3366(e).)

§ 47-91. Validation of certain probates of deeds before consular agents of the United States. —In all cases where the acknowledgment, privy examination of a married woman, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage or other instrument authorized or required to be registered has been taken before any consular agent of the United States, during the time chapter thirty-five of Battle's Revisal remained in force and effect, and such acknowledgment, privy examination, or other proof of the execution of such deed, mortgage, or other instrument is in other respects regular and in proper form, and such deed, mortgage, or other instrument has been duly ordered to registration and registered in the proper county, the acknowledgment, probate, and registration of any and every such deed, mortgage, or other instrument is hereby validated as fully and to the same effect as though such acknowledgment, privy examination, or other proof of execution had been taken before one of the officers named in subsection five of section two of said chapter thirty-five of Battle's Revisal. (1921, c. 157; C. S. 3366(f).)

§ 47-92. Probates before stockholders and directors of banks.—No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including privy examination of married women, of any mortgage, or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any banking corporation taken prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (1923), shall be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer, taking such acknowledgment, proof, or privy examination was a stockholder or director in such banking corporation. (1923, c. 17; C. S. 3366(g).)

Editor's Note.—A provision for a similar purpose to that of this section is found in section 47-63.

This section is summarized in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 302.

§ 47-93. Acknowledgments taken by stockholder, officer, or director of bank.—No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including privy examination of married women, of any mortgage or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any banking corporation taken prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, shall be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof, or privy examination was a stockholder, officer, or director in such banking corporation. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 68.)

§ 47-94. Acknowledgment and registration by officer or stockholder in building and loan association.—All acknowledgments and proofs of execution, including privy examination of married women, of any mortgage or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any building and loan association prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, shall not be, nor held to be, invalid by reason of the fact that the clerk of the Superior Court, justice of the peace, notary public, or other officer taking such acknowledgment, proof of execution or privy examination, was an officer or stockholder in such building and loan association; but such proofs and acknowledgments of all such instruments, and the registration thereof, if in all other respects valid, are hereby declared to be valid.

Nor shall the registration of any such mortgage or deed of trust ordered to be registered by the clerk of the Superior Court, or by any deputy or assistant clerk of the Superior Court, be or held to be invalid by reason of the fact that the clerk of the Superior Court, or deputy, or assistant clerk of the Superior Court, ordering such mortgages or deeds of trust to be registered was an officer or stockholder in any building and loan association, whose indebtedness is secured in and by such mortgage or deed of trust. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 108; 1929, c. 146, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 made this section applicable to acknowledgments and registrations prior to Jan. 1, 1929, instead of Aug. 10, 1924, as formerly provided.

§ 47-95. Acknowledgments taken by notaries interested as trustee or holding other office.—In every case where deeds and other instruments have been acknowledged and privy examination of wives had before notaries public, or justices of the peace, prior to January 1, 1929, instead of Aug. 10, 1924, as formerly provided.
§ 47-96. Validation of instruments registered without probate.—In every case where it shall appear from the records in the office of the register of deeds of any county in the state that any instrument of writing required or allowed by law to be registered prior to January first, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, without any acknowledgment, proof, privy examination, or probate, or upon a defective acknowledgment, proof, privy examination, or probate, the record of such instrument may, notwithstanding, be read in evidence in any of the courts of this state, if otherwise competent. (1923, c. 215, s. 1; C. S. 3366(j).)

Local Modification.—Cherokee, Graham: 1935, c. 92.

§ 47-97. Validation of corporate deed with mistake as to officer's name.—In all cases where the deed of a corporation executed before the first day of January, 1918, is properly executed, properly recorded and there is error in the probate of said corporation's deed as to the name or names of the officers in said probate, said deed shall be construed to be a deed of the same force and effect as if said probate were in every way proper. (1933, c. 412, s. 1.)

§ 47-98. Registration on defective probates beyond state.—In every case where it shall appear from the records in the office of the register of deeds of any county in this state that any instrument required or allowed by law to be registered, bearing date prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-five, executed by any person or persons residing in any of the United States, other than this state, or in any of the territories of the United States, or in the District of Columbia, has been proven or acknowledged, or the privy examination of any feme covert taken there to, before any officer or person authorized by any of the laws of this state in force prior to the said year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-five to take such proofs, privy examinations and acknowledgments, and the said instrument has been registered in the proper county without the certificate of the governor of the state or territory in which such proofs, acknowledgments or privy examinations were taken, or of the secretary of state of the United States, when such certificate or certificates were required, as to the official character of the person taking such acknowledgment, proof or privy examination, as aforesaid, and without an order of registration made by a court or judge in this state having jurisdiction to make such order, then and in all such cases such proofs, privy examinations, acknowledgments and registrations are hereby in all respects fully validated and confirmed and declared to be sufficient in law, and such instruments so registered may be read in evidence in any of the courts of this state. (1933, c. 215, ss. 2, 3; C. S. 3366(j).)

§ 47-99. Certificate of clerks without seal.—All certificates of acknowledgment and all verifications of pleadings, affidavits, and other instruments executed by clerks of the Superior Court of the State prior to March 10, 1928, and which do not bear the official seal of such clerks, are hereby validated in all cases in which the instruments bearing such acknowledgment or certification are filed or recorded in any county in the State other than the county in which the clerk executing such certificates of acknowledgment or verifications resides, and such acknowledgments and verifications are hereby made and declared to be binding, valid and effective to the same extent and in the same manner as if said official seal had been affixed. (1925, c. 248.)

§ 47-100. Acknowledgments taken by officer who was grantor.—In all cases where a deed or deeds dated prior to the first day of January, 1910, purporting to convey lands, have been registered in the office of the Register of Deeds of the county where the lands conveyed in said deed or deeds are located, prior to said first day of January, nineteen hundred and ten, and the acknowledgments or proof of execution of such deed or deeds has been taken as to some of the grantors by an officer who was himself one of the grantors named in such deed or deeds, such defective execution, acknowledgment and proof of execution and probate of such deed or deeds thereon shall be valid and effectual, and the record of such deed or deeds shall be declared to be in all respects duly executed, probated and recorded to the same effect as if such officer taking such proof or acknowledgment of execution had not been named as a grantor therein, or in anywise interested therein. (1929, c. 48, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By express provision this section does not affect actions and proceedings pending at the time of its ratification, which was on the 21st of February, 1929.

§ 47-101. Seal of acknowledging officer omitted; deeds made presumptive evidence.—In all cases where a deed or deeds prior to January 1, 1900, and which do not appear to have been recorded for one year prior to January 1, 1900, and appear to have been recorded in the offices of the registers of deeds in the proper counties in this state, and the same appear to have been acknowledged before commissioners of affidavits (or deeds) of North Carolina, residing in the District of Columbia or elsewhere in the different states, or appear to have been recorded without any certificate being recorded on the record of such deed or deeds, such record or records shall be presumptive evidence of the execution of such deed or deeds by the grantor or the grantors to the grantee or grantees therein named for the lands therein described, and the record of such deed or deeds may be offered or read in evidence upon the trial or hearing of any cause in any of the courts of this state as if the same had been properly probated and recorded. Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent such record or records from being attacked for fraud, and provided further that this section shall not apply to creditors or purchasers, but as to then § 47-102. Absence of notarial seal.—Any deed executed prior to the first day of January, nineteen hundred and thirty-five, and duly acknowledged before a North Carolina notary public, and the probate recites “witness my hand and notarial seal,” or words of similar import, and no seal was affixed to the said deed, shall be ordered registered by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land lies, upon presentation to him: Provided, the probate is otherwise in due form. (1935, c. 130; 1943, c. 472.)

The 1943 amendment changed the year named in this section from 1910 to 1935.

§ 47-103. Deeds probated and registered with notary's seal not affixed, validated.—Any deed conveying or affecting real estate executed prior to January 1, 1926, and ordered registered and recorded in the county in which the land lies prior to said date, from which deed and the acknowledgment and privy examination thereof the seal of the notary public taking the acknowledgment or privy examination of the grantor or grantors thereof was omitted, is hereby declared to be sufficient and valid, and the probate and registration thereof are hereby in all respects validated and confirmed to the same effect as if the seal of said notary was affixed to the acknowledgment or privy examination thereof. (1941, c. 20.)

§ 47-104. Acknowledgments of notary holding another office.—In every case where deeds or other instruments have been acknowledged before a notary public, when the notary public at the time was also holding some other office, and the deed or other instrument has been duly probated and recorded, such acknowledgment taken by such notary public, is hereby declared to be sufficient and valid. (1935, c. 139; 1937, c. 284.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment re-enacted this section without change.

§ 47-105. Acknowledgment and private examination of married woman taken by officer who was grantor.—In all cases where a deed or deeds of trust, conveyances or other instruments permitted by law to be registered in this state, which have been registered prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, and in which the name of a grantor which appears in the body of the instrument and as a signer of the instrument has ordered the instrument to be recorded, but in which the name of a grantor which appears in the body of the instrument and as a signer of the instrument has been omitted from the record of the superior court was a party, validated.—In all cases where a deed, or other conveyance of land dated prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, purporting to convey land, wherein the grantor or one of the grantors therein was at the time clerk of the superior court of the county where the land purporting to be conveyed was located, was acknowledged, proof of execution, privy examination of a married woman, and, or, order of registration had and taken before a deputy clerk of the superior court of the said county, and the instrument registered upon the order of said deputy clerk of the superior court in the office of the register of deeds of said county, within two years from the date of said instrument, such instrument and its probate are hereby in all respects validated and confirmed; and such instrument, together with such defective acknowledgment, proof of execution, privy examination of a married woman, order of registration, and the certificate of such deputy clerk of the superior court, and the registration thereof, are hereby declared in all respects to be valid and binding upon the parties of such instrument and their privies, and such instrument so probated and recorded together with its certificate may be read in evidence as a muniment of title, for all intents and purposes, in any of the courts of this state. (1939, c. 261.)

§ 47-106. Certain instruments in which clerk of superior court was a party, validated.—In all cases where a deed, or other conveyance of land dated prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, purporting to convey land, wherein the grantor or one of the grantors therein was at the time clerk of the superior court of the county where the land purporting to be conveyed was located, was acknowledged, proof of execution or taking the private examination of the grantor or grantors thereof the seal of the notary public taking the acknowledgment or privy examination of the grantor or grantors thereof was omitted, is hereby declared to have been duly proved, probated and recorded and to be valid. (1941, c. 30.)

§ 47-107. Validation of probate and registration of certain instruments where name of grantor omitted from record.—All deeds, deeds of trust, conveyances or other instruments permitted by law to be registered in this state, which have been registered prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, and in which a clerk of the superior court has adjudged the certificate of the officer before whom the acknowledgment was taken to be in due form and correct and has ordered the instrument to be recorded, but in which the name of a grantor which appears in the body of the instrument and as a signer of the instrument has been omitted from the record of the certificate of the officer before whom the acknowledgment was taken, are hereby declared to have been duly proved, probated and recorded and to be valid. (1941, c. 30.)

§ 47-108. Acknowledgments before notaries under age.—All acts of notaries public for the state of North Carolina who were not yet twenty-one years of age at the time of the performance of such acts are hereby validated; and in every case where deeds or other instruments have been acknowledged before such notary public who was not yet twenty-one years of age at the time of taking of said acknowledgment, such acknowledgment taken before such notary public is hereby declared to be sufficient and valid. (1941, c. 283.)

veyances and other instruments of writing of corporations entitled to registration, which have been heretofore duly executed in the manner required by law, by the proper officers of the corporation, and which have prior to March 8, 1943, been admitted to registration, on the acknowledgment or proof of the proper executing officer, in the manner required by law, shall be, and the same are hereby declared to be, in all respects validly admitted to record, although such officer at the date of such acknowledgment or proof had ceased to be an officer of such corporation, or such corporation at the date of such acknowledgment or proof had ceased to exist. (1943, c. 598.)

Art. 5. Registration of Official Discharges from the Military and Naval Forces of the United States.

§ 47-109. Book for record of discharges in office of register of deeds; specifications.—There shall be provided, and at all times maintained, in the office of the register of deeds of each county in North Carolina a special and permanent book, in which shall be recorded official discharges from the military and naval forces of the United States. Said book shall be securely bound, and the pages of the same shall be printed in the form of discharge papers, with sufficient blank lines for the recording of such dates as may be contained in the discharge papers offered for registration. (1921, c. 198, s. 1; C. S. 3366(k).)

§ 47-110. Registration of official discharge or certificate of lost discharge—Upon the presentation of any official discharge, or official certificate of lost discharge, from the army, navy, or marine corps of the United States, it shall be the duty of the register of deeds of the several counties of the state to record such discharge in the book provided for in the preceding section. (1921, c. 198, s. 2; 1943, c. 599; C. S. 3366(l).) The 1943 amendment struck out the former provision relating to fee for registration.

§ 47-111. Inquiry by register of deeds; oath of applicant.—If any register of deeds shall be in doubt as to whether or not any paper so presented for registration is an official discharge from the army, navy, or marine corps of the United States, or an official certificate of lost discharge, he shall have power to examine, under oath, the person so presenting such discharge, or otherwise inquire into its validity; and every register of deeds to whom a discharge or certificate of lost discharge is presented for registration shall administer to the person offering such discharge or certificate of lost discharge for registration the following oath, to be recorded with and form a part of the registration of such discharge or certificate of lost discharge:

"I, .............., being duly sworn, depose and say that the foregoing discharge (or certificate of lost discharge) is the original discharge (or certificate of lost discharge) issued to me by the Government of the United States; and that no alterations have been made therein by me, or by any person to my knowledge.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this ...... day of ............, 19 ............

(1921, c. 198, s. 5; C. S. 3366(m).)

§ 47-112. Forgery or alteration of discharge or certificate; punishment. — Any person who shall forge, or in any manner alter any discharge or certificate of lost discharge issued by the Government of the United States, and offer the same for registration or secure the registration of the same under the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1921, c. 198, s. 4; C. S. 3366(n).)

§ 47-113. Certified copy of registration; fee. — Any person desiring a certified copy of any such discharge, or certificate of lost discharge, registered under the provisions of this article shall apply for the same to the register of deeds of the county in which such discharge or certificate of lost discharge is registered; and it shall be the duty of the register of deeds to furnish such certified copy upon the payment of a fee of fifty (50) cents therefor. (1921, c. 198, s. 5; C. S. 3366(o).)

Chapter 48. Adoption of Minors.

§ 48-1. Petition for adoption and change of name.—Any proper adult person, husband and wife, jointly, who have legal residence in North Carolina may petition the superior court of the county in which he or they have legal residence or the county in which the child resides, or of the county in which the child had legal residence when it became a public charge, or of the county in which is located any agency or institution operating under the laws of this state having guardianship and custody of the child, for leave to adopt a minor and for a change of the name of such child. Provided, that in every instance when the parent, guardian or custodian of the child is not a citizen or resident of the state of North Carolina at the time of filing of petition for adoption, or where the child has been brought into the state for the purpose of placement and adoption by a parent, person, agency, institution or association, the provisions of chapter two hundred twenty-six of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one [§§ 110-50 to 110-56] must be complied with before the child shall have the effect of making said husband or wife of the original petitioner and the petitioner in said adoption proceeding and spouse of such child. Provided, that in every instance where a child or children have been duly adopted in North Carolina by a parent, person, agency, institution or association, the provisions of chapter two hundred twenty-six of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one [§§ 110-50 to 110-56] must be complied with before the child shall have the effect of making said husband or wife of the original petitioner be made one of the adopting parties, and said order when so made shall have the effect of making said husband or wife one of the adopting parties; that this order shall be made notwithstanding the fact that the adopted child or children have reached their majority, unless said adoptee or adoptees should object to said adoption. (1935, c. 243; 1937, c. 422; 1939, cc. 32, 132, s. 1; 1943, c. 735.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment to this section limited the former one year's residence requirement to children born outside of the state. Chapter 152 of Public Laws of 1939 inserted the first proviso of the present section in lieu of that provision.

The 1943 amendment added the last proviso.

For a critical analysis and appraisal of this chapter, see 13 N. C. Law Rev. 355.

For an article entitled "Thwarting Adoptions," see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 127.

Strictly Construed.—Since the laws of inheritance and distribution of property are directly involved in an adoption proceeding, and since the proceeding is in derogation of the common law, it must be strictly construed. In re Holder, 218 N. C. 136, 10 S. E. (2d) 620.

Juvenile Court Act Not an Amendment.—The Juvenile Court Act was not an amendment to the former Adoption Law and did not affect the procedure therein prescribed for the adoption of minors. Ward v. Howard, 217 N. C. 201, 7 S. E. (2d) 625.

Jurisdiction.—The evidence disclosed that the child in question was brought by its mother into the juvenile court of the county of their residence charged with being a dependent child, that the court committed it to the custody of a children's home society having its home office in another county of the state, but that the child was immediately taken by the persons seeking to adopt it to their residence in another state. Held, the child never resided in the county in which is located the home office of the children's home society, its mere commitment to the children's home not having the effect of making the child's constructive residence there, and adoption proceedings in that county are void since the child was never within its jurisdiction. In re Holder, 218 N. C. 136, 10 S. E. (2d) 630.

An agreement to adopt a minor, made between the person desiring to adopt the minor and the minor's parents, as the respective parties to the agreement, is not intended as an "Adoption of Minors" under this and following sections. Chambers v. Byers, 214 N. C. 373, 199 S. E. 398.

§ 48-2. Use of true name of child unnecessary; identification.—It shall not be necessary in the petition for adoption or other papers, except the report on investigation of the conditions and antecedents of the child, to give the true or legal name of the child to be adopted, but it shall be competent to name or identify the child to be adopted by such name as may be presented in the petition of adoption, and the adoption proceedings shall not be invalidated by reason thereof. In every case, however, the true name of the child proposed to be adopted shall be set forth in, and made known to the court through, the report upon the conditions and antecedents of the child to be made by the superintendent or superintendents of public welfare or duly authorized representative of a child-placing agency as hereinafter provided. (1935, c. 243.)

§ 48-3. Investigation of conditions and antecedents of child and of suitableness of foster home. — Upon the filing of a petition for the adoption of a minor child the court shall instruct the county superintendent of Public Welfare, or a duly authorized representative of a child-placing agency, licensed by the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, to investigate the conditions and antecedents of the child for the purpose of ascertaining whether he is a proper subject for adoption, and to make appropriate inquiry to determine whether the proposed foster home is a suitable one for the child; or the court may instruct the superintendent of public welfare of one county to make an investigation of the conditions and antecedents of the child and the superintendent of public welfare of another county or counties to make any other part of the necessary investigation. The county superintendent or superintendents of public welfare or the duly authorized representative of such agency described hereinbefore shall make a written report of his or their findings, on a standard form supplied by the state board of charities and public welfare, for examination by the court of adoption. (1935, c. 243.)

§ 48-4. Necessary parties to proceeding. — The parents or surviving parent or guardian, or the person or persons having charge of such child, or with whom it may reside, must be a party or parties of record to this proceeding: Provided, that when such parent, parents, or guardian of the child when adoption is sought cannot be found within this state for the service of process, that fact shall be made known to the court either by affidavit or return of the sheriff of the county in which such person or persons were last known to reside. It shall be competent to make such service by publication of summons as provided by §§ 1-98, et seq., and such person shall be bound in every respect by such service: Provided, that when the parent, parents, or guardian of the person of the child has signed a release of all rights to the child, the person, agency, or institution to which said rights were released shall be made a party to this proceeding and it shall not be necessary to make such parent, parents, or guardian necessary: Provided, further, that when such parent, parents, or guardian has consented to an adoption as specified in § 48-5, he shall not be a necessary party of record to this proceeding. (1935, c. 243; 1939, c. 32; 1941, c. 281, s. 1.)

Editor’s Note.—The first proviso in this section was added to the law by Chapter 32 of Public Laws of 1939. The 1941 amendment added the last proviso.

For comment on the 1939 amendment, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 350.

For comment on the 1941 amendment to this and other sections in this chapter, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 449.

Noncompliance Deprives Clerk of Jurisdiction.—In True-love v. Parker, 191 N. C. 430, 132 S. E. 295, decided under similar provisions of a former law, it is said: "Upon the remarriage in this case it is held that neither the father nor the mother of the child was a party to the proceeding in the contemplation of the statute, and that the clerk had no jurisdiction of their person, (consequently) he had no jurisdiction of the subject-matter." See note of this case in § 5 N. C. Law Rev. 67.

Mother of illegitimate child must be made a party to proceedings for the adoption of the child, and her consent to the adoption or proof of abandonment of the child in the statutory or legal sense, must be made to appear as a jurisdictional matter. In re Holder, 218 N. C. 136, 10 S. E. (2d) 620.

Parent’s consent to adoption must be shown within record and must relate to particular persons seeking to adopt the child. In re Holder, 218 N. C. 136, 10 S. E. (2d) 620.

§ 48-5. Tentative approval and order of adoption; completion of adoption within two years. — Upon the examination of the written report of the Superintendent of Public Welfare or of a duly authorized representative of said agency described hereinbefore and with the consent of the parent or parents if living or of the guardian, if any, or of the person with whom such child resides, or who may have charge of such child, except in cases hereinafter provided for, the Court, if it be satisfied that the petitioner is a proper and suitable person and that the child is a proper subject for adoption and that the adoption is for the best interests of the child, may tentatively approve the adoption and issue an order giving the care and custody of the child to the petitioner: Provided, that when the parent, parents, or guardian of the person of the child has in written or oral form declined to reside, it shall not be necessary to make such child a party to a duly licensed child-placing agency, or the Superintendent of Public Welfare of the County and has in writing consented to adoption of the child by any person or persons to be designated by said agency or officer, this shall be deemed a sufficient consent for the purposes of this chapter, and no further consent of the parent, parents, or guardian to a subsequent specific adoption shall be necessary: Provided, however, that if any child is placed in any home or institution referred to in this chapter by its mother, then said mother shall give her written consent that said child may be adopted without further consent upon her part. Such consent shall not be revocable by the consenting party. For the purpose of this chapter, a parent under the age of twenty-one shall be deemed to have capacity for the purposes of giving consent, releasing rights in the child, and for all other purposes of this chapter, and shall be as fully bound thereby as if the parent had been twenty-one. Within two years of the interlocutory order, but not earlier than one year from the date of such order, the Court shall complete the proceeding by an order granting letters of adoption or, in its discretion, by an order dismissing the proceeding, and the effect of any adoption so completed shall be retroactive to the date of application. During this interval the child shall remain the ward of the Court and shall be subject to such supervision as the Court may direct. Upon making the interlocutory order the written report of the investigation made by the Superintendent or Superintendents of Public Welfare or representative of the child-placing agency described hereinbefore shall be forwarded by the Clerk of the Superior Court to the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare. Upon receipt of the same the said Board shall cause said report to be recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose, which book shall be properly indexed showing the name of the child, the names of its natural parents, the names of its adoptive parents, and the new legal name, if any, given to said child; and said Board shall also cause the original report to be permanently indexed and filed. Whether the original report nor the record thereof in the aforesaid book shall be made public, nor shall any information concerning the contents of either of them be disclosed by any person except upon order of a Judge of the Superior Court, made upon application of any party requiring such information, and when the said Judge may be to the interests of the said child or to the public to have such information disclosed. It shall be a misdemeanor for any person having charge of the said report or record to allow said report or records to be examined by anyone or to give any information concerning the contents of either except upon order of a Judge of the Superior Court as herein provided. No party to a completed and final adoption proceeding nor any one claiming under such a party may later question the validity of the adoption proceeding, by reason of any defect or irregularity therein, jurisdictional or otherwise, but shall be deemed to have thereby, save for such appeal as may be allowed by law. Further, no adoption may be questioned by reason of any procedural or other defect by anyone not injured by such defect. Such order granting letters of adoption shall have the force and effect of, and shall be entitled to, all the presumptions attaching to a judgment rendered by a court of general jurisdiction in a common law action. A parent who has not consented to nor been made a party to an adoption proceeding where such steps are required may have the adoption vacated provided he bring action to vacate within one year of the date of the adoption, and provided he failed to appear in the adoption proceedings because he did not know of such proceedings. In any case where a parent or parents in writing surrender a child for adoption (other than to a duly licensed child-placing agency or the Superintendent of Public Welfare of the County, which situation is governed by an earlier part of this section), and the child is taken by prospective adoptive parents in reliance thereon and kept for a period of six months or more, the surrenderer shall not be revocable by the surrendering parent or parents. (1935, c. 243; 1941, c. 281, ss. 2, 3.)

The 1941 amendment struck out the former second sentence of this section and inserted the three provisions following the first sentence and the three sentences following the provision. The amendment also added the last five sentences of the section.

§ 48-6. Form and contents of adoption order; parent-child relationship established; rights of inheritance, etc.—Such order granting letters of adoption shall be made upon a standard form supplied by the state board of charities and public welfare, and shall state whether for the minority or for the life-time of such child and to whom the adoptive parent or parents of said child, age, sex, date of birth, but not on the adopted father. So where the adopted child died seized of realty, without brothers or sisters, the law conferred the right of inheritance on the adopted child only, from his father's ancestors or other kindred, or to be a representative of them. Grimes v. Grimes, 207 N. C. 778, 780, 178 S. E. 573.

§ 48-7. Change of name; report to bureau of vital statistics; entry on birth certificate.—For proper cause shown the court may decree that the name of the child shall be changed to such name as may be prayed in the petition: Provided, that whenever the name of any child is so changed, the court shall immediately report such change to the bureau of vital statistics of the state board of health. The said birth certificate shall contain a statement of name on the original birth certificate of the child and to issue upon request a certificate of birth bearing the new name of a child as shown in the decree of adoption, the name of the foster parents of said child, age, sex, date of birth, but no reference in any certified copy of the birth [317] certificate shall be made to the adoption of the said child. However, original registration of birth shall remain a part of the record of the said bureau of vital statistics. The provisions of this section shall apply to all minors heretofore adopted in accordance with the laws existing at the time of such adoptions in as full a manner as to adoptions hereunder. (1935, c. 243.)

§ 48-8. Surety bond required of petitioner where child with estate is without guardian. — When the court grants the petitioner the custody of the child, if the child is an orphan and without guardian and possesses any estate, the court shall require from the petitioner such bond as is required by law to be given by guardians. (1935, c. 243.)

§ 48-9. Recordation of adoption proceedings; revocation of orders.—All papers, except the report upon the conditions and antecedents of the child and consent of natural parents or guardian to the adoption, shall be recorded in the book or books in which other special proceedings are recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court in the county in which the adoption is made; and all orders made in the proceedings may be revoked at any time by the court for good cause shown. On issuing such order granting letters of adoption, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the order is issued shall also, at the time the order is issued, deliver to the court having jurisdiction of suits in equity to have the child restored, and a copy of the record of the order to said board to be held as a permanent record. (1935, c. 243.)

Editor's Note.—Section 190 of Michie's Code of 1931 provided for the restoration of the parent's right to custody of a child after such right had been forfeited by abandonment. Under that section it was held in Newsome v. Bunch, 142 N. C. 19, 54 S. E. 785, that where the court, in habeas corpus proceedings for the custody of a child, found that there had been no abandonment, it was error to order a restoration of the child without considering the interest and welfare of the child as prescribed by said section. This case was remanded by the supreme court with a direction to the court below to issue an order in accordance with the principles laid down by the supreme court in the Newsome case, and the findings as to the child's interests would be prejudiced, the lower court found that, under the circumstances, no prejudice would result from the restoration, and the supreme court affirmed this decision in 144 N. C. 15, 55 S. E. 509.

§ 48-10. Parents, etc., not necessary parties to adoption proceedings upon finding of unfitness or abandonment.—In all cases where a juvenile court has declared the parent or parents or guardians unfit to have the care and custody of such child, or has declared the child to be an abandoned child, such parent, parents, or guardians shall not be necessary parties to any action or proceeding under this chapter nor shall their consent be required. But in the event that the child be of age beyond the jurisdiction of the juvenile court, and the juvenile court has not theretofore determined that an abandonment has taken place, then on notice to the parent, parents, or guardian the court in the adoption proceedings is hereby authorized to determine that an abandonment has taken place, provided that if the parent, parents, or guardian deny that an abandonment has taken place, this issue of fact shall be determined as provided in § 1-273, and if abandonment be determined, then the consent of the parent, parents, or guardian shall not be required. (1935, c. 243; 1941, c. 281, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment struck out this section as it formerly appeared and inserted the above in lieu thereof.

The cases treated under this section were decided under former provisions of the law.

Abandonment Judicially Determined.—The existence of abandonment as ground for an adoption without parental consent must be judicially determined. Truelove v. Parker, 191 N. C. 430, 439, 122 S. E. 255.

Abandonment Must Be Willful.—Where there was evidence in behalf of the defendant father tending to show that the plaintiff took possession of his children against his will and prevented him from performing his parental duty, as well as evidence to the contrary, it was held that when the jury found for the defendant, the case did not fall within the meaning of this section. Hatwell v. Solomon, 167 N. C. 588, 83 S. E. 609. Willfully as employed in this section means "purposely and deliberately in violation of law." State v. Whitter, 93 N. C. 590.

In the case of In re Jones, 153 N. C. 312, 62 S. E. 217, this section is cited and the statement is made that there was no abandonment shown of an illegitimate child.

Intention to Forego Parental Duties.—To constitute abandonment by a parent of its child, so as to deprive him of the right to prevent the adoption of the child, there must be some conduct on the part of the parent which evinces a purpose to forego the parental duties. Truelove v. Parker, 191 N. C. 430, 122 S. E. 255.

Death by Wrongful Act.—This section does not deprive the parent of the right to recover for the wrongful death of the child. Avery v. Brantley, 191 N. C. 396, 399, 131 S. E. 721.

Stated in re Osborne, 295 N. C. 716, 721, 172 S. E. 491.

§ 48-11. Past adoption proceedings validated.—All proceedings for the adoption of minors in courts of this State are hereby validated and confirmed, and the orders and judgments therein are declared to be binding upon all parties to said proceedings and their privies and all other persons, until the orders or judgments shall be vacated as provided by law. (1935, c. 243.)

§ 48-12. Procuring custody of child by forfeiting parents declared crime.—Any parent whose rights and privileges have been forfeited as provided by § 48-10 and who shall procure the possession and custody of such child, with respect to whom his rights and privileges are forfeited, otherwise than by law provided, shall be guilty of a crime, and shall be punished as for abduction. (1935, c. 243.)

§ 48-13. "Legal resident" defined.—For the purpose of this chapter a legal resident is any person who has had his domicile anywhere in the state of North Carolina for a period of at least twelve consecutive months after entering said state for the purpose of residence. (1939, c. 133, s. 3.)

§ 48-14. Rights of adoptive parents. — When a child is duly adopted pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, the adoptive parents shall not thereafter be deprived of any rights in the child, at the instance of the natural parents or otherwise, except in the same fashion and for the same causes as are applicable in proceedings to deprive natural parents of their children. (1941, c. 281, s. 6.)

§ 48-15. Construction of 1941 Amendment. — The provisions of § 48-6 except for the last sentence, shall apply only to adoptions made after March 15, 1941. All other provisions of chapter 281 of the Public Laws of 1941, amending §§ 48-4, 48-5, 48-16, adding § 48-14, including the last sentence of § 48-6, referred to above, shall apply to all adoptions heretofore and hereafter made. No adoption proceeding had before March 15, 1941, shall be declared void because of procedural defects.
Chapter 49. Bastardy.

Sec. 49-1. Title.

49-2. Non-support of illegitimate child by parents made misdemeanor.—Any parent who willfully neglects or who refuses to support and maintain his or her illegitimate child shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to such penalties as are hereinafter provided. A child within the meaning of this article shall be any person less than fourteen years of age and any person whom either parent might be required under the laws of North Carolina to support and maintain as if such child were the legitimate child of such parent. (1933, c. 228, s. 11.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1907 amendment the age specified was ten years. The 1909 amendment repealed the 1907 act, struck out section one of the 1903 act, and re-enacted this section as it appeared when amended by the 1907 act. A number of the cases treated in the following note were decided under the former law. They are, however, made available to the practitioner with the hope that they may be read in the light of the former law.

The question as to whether bastardy proceedings under the former law are criminal or civil in their nature presents a subject which has occasioned much controversy, and one in which there are three sharp lines of demarcation established by the cases. The early decisions up to and including State v. Edwards, 110 N. C. 511, 14 S. E. 741, (1892) held without dissent that the proceedings were civil in their nature, and that the statute did not even carry a quasi criminal aspect. The period between 1892 and 1904, may be designated as the criminal period. At that time several decisions were rendered by the Supreme Court which flatly reversed the former holdings. See State v. Ostwall, 118 N. C. 1208, 24 S. E. 660, delivered by Judge Avery, is a cogent and forceful declaration of the principle.

Constitutional—This section does not violate due process of law or impose imprisonment but by the law of the land. State v. Spillman, 210 N. C. 271, 186 S. E. 322.

Warrant Must Charge a Crime.—Where the warrant upon which defendant was tried is insufficient to charge any crime, defendant's motion in arrest of judgment should be allowed. State v. Tyron, 206 N. C. 734, 182 S. E. 481; State v. Stanfield, 220 N. C. 535, 17 S. E. (2d) 661; State v. Clarke, 220 N. C. 392, 17 S. E. (2d) 468.

The warrant in a prosecution under this and following sections, must allege that the failure or refusal of defendant to support his illegitimate child was willful, and where it does not so do, defendant's motion in arrest of judgment and declared to be as binding as if said procedural defects did not exist. (1941, c. 281, s. 8.)

§ 49-3. CH. 49. BASTARDY—SUPPORT § 49-4

should be allowed. State v. McLamb, 214 N. C. 322, 199 S. E. 81.

Sufficiency of Indictment.—In a prosecution for willful failure and refusal to support an illegitimate child, under this and the prior prosecution is not a bar to a prosecution under this statute, nor is the presumption of innocence which the defendant enjoys in the trial of the offense, and as such must not only be charged in the bill, but must be proven reasonably
The begetting of an illegitimate child is not in itself a crime, and a warrant charging defendant with being the putative father and willfully neglecting to support his illegitimate child is not sufficient to support a prosecution under this statute, nor is such insufficiency cured by an amendment allowing the word willful to be inserted therein, in the absence of an establishment of the defendant's refusal to support the child. State v. Oliver, 213 N. C. 386, 190 S. E. 563.

Willfulness Is Essential Element of Offense.—The father of an illegitimate child may be convicted of neglecting to support such child only when it is established that such neglect was willful, that is, without just cause, excuse or justification. The willfulness of the neglect is an essential ingredient of the offense, and as such must not only be charged in the bill, but must be proven reasonably

The willfulness of the neglect is an essential ingredient of the offense, and as such must not only be charged in the bill, but must be proven reasonably

A proceeding upon indictment charging defendant with wilful neglect and refusal to support his illegitimate child, willful and refusal to support an illegitimate child, under this statute, is not in itself a crime, but a willful failure to support such child, and is a misdemeanor. Its language is clear, positive and unbending.

§ 49-4. Action must be commenced within three years after birth. Proceedings under this article to establish the paternity of such child may be initiated at any time within three years next after the birth of the child, and not thereafter: Provided, however, that the reputed father has acknowledged the paternity of the child by payments for the support of such child within three years from the date of the birth thereof, and not later, then, in such case, prosecution may be brought under the provisions of said sections within three years from the date of such acknowledgment of the paternity of such child by the reputed father thereof. (1933, c. 228, s. 3; 1939, c. 217,
s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—A number of the cases treated under this section were decided under the former law. They are, however, made available to the practitioner with the hope that they may be of some aid in construing the present law, but they must be read in the light of the former law.

In General.—Even when bastardy proceedings were considered criminal in their nature it was held that former § 274 provided the limitation and that such proceedings were not controlled by the provisions for misdemeanors to two years. State v. Perry, 122 N. C. 1043, 30 S. E. 139; State v. Hephzibah, 122 N. C. 999, 30 S. E. 139.

A proceeding to establish the paternity of an illegitimate child and to prosecute the father, who willfully neglects or refuses to support and maintain the same, may be instituted at any time within three years next after the

This section cannot be limited to proceedings to establish paternity. Its language is clear, positive and unbending.
It seems to have been taken from C. S., 274, of the old law, which was held to supersede the general statute of

A proceeding upon indictment charging defendant with willful neglect and refusal to support his illegitimate child, willful failure to support his illegitimate child; and, after the birth of the child, is properly dismissed, under this section, and this result is not affected by the fact that defendant had admitted paternity of the child in a prior proceeding under § 265-279 (O. G., 1933, c. 193, s. 2) limitation provided after this section not being confined to proceedings to establish paternity of the child. 1d.

Compliance Must Appear from Examination.—The ex-mamination of the accused shall be in every case in his face to have been taken within three years, otherwise the action will be quashed, State v. Ledbetter, 26 N. C. 242. The objection proper time, i. e., before issue is tendered, or it will be

A defendant may be prosecuted under this statute, for the passage of the act although the child was begotten

before the effective date of the statute, and defendant's contention that in regard to such prosecution the statute is ex post facto cannot be sustained, since the offense is the willful failure to support the child, and the time it was begun is immaterial, State v. Mansfield, 207 N. C. 233, 176 S. E. 761, followed in State v. Morris, 208 N. C. 479, 179 S. E. 19.

Maximum Time for Prosecution Is Six Years from Birth.—In a prosecution for failure to maintain and support his illegitimate child, proceedings to determine the paternity of the child must be instituted within three years from the date of its birth, with the provision that where the reputed father acknowledges paternity by making payments for the support of such child, prosecution may be instituted at any time within three years from the date of such payments made within three years from the date of birth, so that the greatest length of time that may elapse between the birth of the child and the prosecution even under the proviso of the statute is six years, and a prosecution is proper when, upon a special verdict establishing that the reputed father continuously supported the child for eight years and that the prosecution was not instituted until more than nine years after its birth. State v. Killian, 207 N. C. 339, 175 S. E. (2d) 702.

An Acknowledgment Made More than Three Years from Birth Does Not Prevent Running of Limitation.—Where acknowledged paternity of the child by payments for its support within three years from the date of the birth, prosecution for nonsupport may be brought within three years thereafter, but a later acknowledgment, made more than three years from the birth, will not avail to prevent the running of the statute. State v. Hodges, 217 N. C. 625, 9 S. E. (2d) 214.

§ 49-5. Prosecution; indictments; death of mother no bar; determination of fatherhood.—Proceedings under this article may be brought by the mother or her personal representative, or, if the child is likely to become a public charge, the superintendent of public welfare or such person as by law performs the duties of such official in said county where the mother resides or is found, or in the county where the putative father resides or is found, or in the county where the child is found. Indictments under this article may be returned in the county where the mother resides or is found, or in the county where the putative father resides or is found, or in the county where the child is found. The fact that the child was born outside of the state of North Carolina shall not be a bar to the indictment of the putative father in any county where he resides or is found, or in the county where the mother resides or is found. The death of the mother shall in no wise affect any proceedings under this article. Preliminary proceedings under this article to determine the paternity of the child may be instituted prior to the birth of the child but when the judge or court trying the issue of paternity deems it proper, he may continue the case until the woman is delivered of the child. When a continuance is granted, the courts shall notify the parties of the time being the father of the child with surety for his appearance, either at the next term of the court or at a time to be fixed by the judge or court granting a continuance, which shall be after the delivery of the child. (1933, c. 228, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The cases treated under this section were decided under the former law. They are, however, made available to the practitioner with the hope that they may be of some aid in construing the new law, but they must be read in light of the former law.

Married Women.—It was held in State v. Pettway, 10 N. C. 623, and in State v. Wilson, 32 N. C. 131, cited with approval in State v. Allison, 61 N. C. 346, that, though the section providing the prosecution of an married woman with child or delivered of the child," the subsequent language in the section, that the object is to protect the public against the charge of illegitimacy upon children, does not extend to married women, since a bastard child can be begotten upon a married woman as well as upon a single woman. See State v. Liles, 114 N. C. 735, 742, 47 S. E. 720; Wilkie v. West, 5 N. C. 319.

Child Not Born.—The former statute expressly authorized the mother to proceed against the putative father before the child was born, that is, when it was en ventre sa mere. The Court may continue the proceedings until the birth of the child. This clearly implies that the prosecution may be commenced during pregnancy. State v. Wynne, 116 N. C. 981, 21 S. E. 35; State v. Addington, 143 N. C. 683, 687, 73 S. E. 236.

§ 49-7. Jurisdiction of inferior courts; issues and orders.—Proceedings under this article shall

§ 49-9. Mother not excused on ground of self-incrimination; not subject to penalty.—No mother of an illegitimate child shall be excused, on the ground that it may tend to incriminate her or subject her to a penalty or a forfeiture, from attending and testifying in obedience to a subpoena of any court, in any suit or proceeding based upon or arising out of the provisions of this article, but no such mother shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing as to which, in obedience to a subpoena and under oath, she may so testify. (1933, c. 228, s. 5; 1939, c. 217, s. 5.)

be instituted only in the superior court of any county of this state, or in any court inferior to the superior court of this state, except courts of justices of the peace, under whose criminal jurisdiction do not exceed that of justices of the peace. Justices of the peace may issue warrants for violations of this article made returnable to any court having jurisdiction of such violations under the terms of this article.

The court before which the matter may be brought shall determine whether or not the defendant is a parent of the child on whose behalf the proceeding is instituted. After this matter has been determined in the affirmative, the court shall proceed to determine the issue as to whether or not the defendant has neglected or refused to support and maintain the child who is the subject of the proceeding. After this matter shall have been determined in the affirmative, the court shall fix by order, subject to modification or increase from time to time, a specific sum of money necessary for the support and maintenance of the particular child who is the object of the proceedings. The court in fixing this sum shall take into account the circumstances of the case, the financial ability to pay and earning capacity of the defendant, and his or her willingness to cooperate for the welfare of the child. The order fixing the sum shall require the defendant to pay it either as a lump sum or in periodic payments as the circumstances of the case may appear to the court to require. Compliance by the defendant with any or all of the further provisions of this article or the order or orders of the court requiring additional acts to be performed by the defendant shall not be construed to relieve the defendant of his or her responsibility to pay the sum fixed or any modification or increase thereof. (1933, c. 228, s. 6; 1937, c. 432, s.
2; 1939, c. 217, ss. 1, 5.)

Editor's Note.—The possibility of imposing a sentence of imprisonment in excess of thirty days was thought by some to exclude the jurisdiction of justices of the peace, but in many instances they did exercise jurisdiction. The amendment clearly excludes justices, 15 N. C. Law Rev. 347.

For comment on the 1939 amendatory act, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 113.

Jurisdiction.—Former § 265 expressly conferred jurisdiction upon justices of the peace. State v. Mize, 117 N. C.
789, 23 S. E. 329.

Acquittal on Charge of Non-Support Bars Appeal Involving Issue of Parentage.—Where the jury found the defendant to be the father of the bastard child, but not guilty of non-support, this is an acquittal. The defendant therefor-ese is not entitled to an appeal under § 15-189 for the refusal of the court to allow his motions that the action be dismissed, and that the answer to the issue of parentage be set aside. State v. Parsons, 115 N. C. 730, 20 S.
981, 21 S. E. 35.

Effect of Death of Child.—Under former § 273 the intention was to make the father either ‘the defendant’s’ or ‘the putative father’s’ the person to whom the money or to reimburse her actual outlay, and the death of the child who is the object of the proceedings. The § 49-8. Power of court to modify orders; suspend sentence, etc.—Upon the determination of the issues set out in the foregoing section and for the purpose of enforcing the payment of the sum fixed, the court is hereby given discretion, having regard for the circumstances of the case and the financial ability and earning capacity of the defendant and his or her willingness to cooperate, to make an order or orders upon the defendant below to refuse a trial by jury, when demanded by the defendant, " 197, 25 S. E. 863.

§ 49-9. Bond for future appearance of defendant.—At the preliminary hearing of any case arising under this article it shall be the duty of the court, if it finds reasonable cause for holding the accused for a further hearing, to require a bond in the sum of not less than one hundred dollars, conditioned upon the appearance of the accused at the next term of the court. The court may order the deposit of the bond and all other bonds provided for in this article shall be justified before, and approved by, the court or the clerk thereof. (1933, c. 228, s. 8.)

Art. 2. Legitimation of Illegitimate Children.

§ 49-10. Legitimation.—The putative father of any illegitimate child may apply by petition in writing to the superior court of the county in which he resides, praying that such child may be declared legitimate; and if it appears that the petitioner is reputed the father of the child, the court may thereafter declare and pronounce the child legitimated; and the clerk shall record the decree. (Rev., s. 263, Code, s. 39; C. S. 277.)

Cross Reference.—As to provision for legitimation persons, see the North Carolina Constitution, Article II, section 11.

Petition Addressed Directly to Judge.—The action of the judge of the court having jurisdiction in passing upon the matter is within the intent and meaning of the statute, and his decree is not void upon the ground that the petition should have been originally addressed to the clerk of the court. Dunn v. Dunn, 199 N. C. 535, 155 S. E. 165.

Presumption.—There exists a rebuttable presumption that child born in wedlock is legitimate. West v. Redmond, 171 N. C. 742, 88 S. E. 341.

§ 49-11. Effects of legitimation.—The effect of such legitimation shall extend no further than to authorize the father to claim and possess the child, to bring suit to recover the child, and to give the child a name; but the father shall have no right to compel the mother to marry him; and the child shall have no right to support, or to claim the support of, the parent, other than the putative father, the mother, or the putative father's parents, if the child is legitimated by the putative father, and the parent not the putative father, is the successor in interest to the putative father, and if a birth certificate showing the true birth of the child was granted after the legitimation, the child's birth certificate shall show that the child was legitimated.

The effect of legitimation shall extend no further than to authorize the father to claim and possess the child, to bring suit to recover the child, and to give the child a name; but the father shall have no right to compel the mother to marry him; and the child shall have no right to support, or to claim the support of, the parent, other than the putative father, the mother, or the putative father's parents, if the child is legitimated by the putative father, and the parent not the putative father, is the successor in interest to the putative father, and if a birth certificate showing the true birth of the child was granted after the legitimation, the child's birth certificate shall show that the child was legitimated.

In General.—The plain intent and language of former section 185 and this section is that a child so adopted, or legitimated, shall inherit his father's real estate, and be entitled to the personal estate of his father "in the same manner as if it had been born in lawful wedlock." Love v. Love, 197 N. C. 311, 111 S. E. 562.

"The word 'only' as used in this section qualifies the words 'inherit from the father,' and not the words 'real estate,' thereby limiting the right of inheritance to the properties of the adopting father, and not to the properties of the natural father, and this is emphasized by the fact that the remaining part of the sentence provides that the adopted child is also entitled to the personal estate of his father." Love v. Love, 179 N. C. 115, 117, 101 S. E. 562.

Right of Inheritance.—In Love v. Love, 179 N. C. 115, 117, 101 S. E. 562, it was said: 'This statute seems to be clear enough on its face. It limits the right to inherit to the properties of the adopting father, and so clearly that it would seem unnecessary to cite authorities; but if authorities are necessary, it will appear that this Court has construed this and other statutes on all-fours to the effect that legitimation of an illegitimate child can only be by the putative father, and cannot inherit from the father's ancestors or other kindred, or be representative of them. Such adopted children can only inherit from their general. The word 'only' as used in this statute qualifies the word 'real estate,' and not the word 'real estate,' thereby limiting the right of inheritance to the properties of the adopting father, and not to the properties of the putative father, and this is emphasized by the fact that the remaining part of the sentence provides that the adopted child is also entitled to the personal estate of his father."

Sec. 50-1. Jurisdiction.

50-2. Bond for costs unnecessary.

50-3. Venue.

50-4. What marriages may be declared void on application of either party.

50-5. Grounds for absolute divorce.

50-6. Divorce after separation of two years on application of either party.

50-7. Grounds for divorce from bed and board.

50-8. Affidavit to be filed with complaint; affidavit of intention to file complaint.

§ 50-1. Jurisdiction.—The superior court shall have jurisdiction of complaints for divorce and alimony, or either. (Rev., s. 1557; Code, s. 1828; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 45; C. S. 1655.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of the general assembly to pass laws regulating divorce and alimony, see the North Carolina Constitution, Article II, section 10.

Editor's Note.—Divorces have been granted from the earliest time. In England, at the time our government was founded, the question of divorce was handled entirely by the ecclesiastical courts and there seems to have been no common law action of divorce. Since we have never established ecclesiastical courts in this country, the power has been conferred entirely by statute and is one of the powers which is exclusively reserved to the state governments.

The granting of alimony is based upon the duty of support which the husband owes to the wife. On the general question of jurisdiction in divorce, see 1 N. C. Rev. 95.

Definition.—Divorce is the legal separation of man and wife, effected, for cause, by the judgment of a court, and either totally dissolving the marriage relation, or suspending its effects so far as concerns the cohabitation of the parties. Black's Law Dict. p. 382.

Power of Federal Courts to Grant Divorces.—All governments possess inherent power over the dissolution of marriages. Haddock v. Haddock, 201 U. S. 562, 569, 26 S. Ct. 825, 50 L. Ed. 867. See also Maynard v. Hill, 125 U. S. 190, 8 S. Ct. 723, 31 L. Ed. 654.

But in the United States the authority rests with the states entirely, and not with the federal government. Id.

The courts of the United States have no jurisdiction upon the subject of divorce, either as an original proceeding in chancery, or an incident of a divorce or separation, except in the case of the Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. De La Rama v. De La Rama, 201 U. S. 303, 308, 26 S. Ct. 485, 49 L. Ed. 765.

Successor in Has Sole Original Jurisdiction.—The Legislature has conferred the sole original jurisdiction in all applications for divorce upon the superior courts. Williams v. Williamson, 56 N. C. 446, 448; Barringer v. Barringer, 69 N. C. 179.

Faith and Credit Given to Decree.—No faith and credit should be given to a decree of divorce obtained in a state by service of publication in another state, where neither of the parties reside in the state where the decree is rendered. Bell v. Bell, 181 U. S. 175, 177, 21 S. Ct. 551, 45 L. Ed. 804; Atherton v. Atherton, 181 U. S. 155, 21 S. Ct. 156, 45 L. Ed. 794.

§ 50-2. Bond for costs unnecessary.—It shall not be necessary for either party to a proceeding for divorce or alimony to give any undertaking to the other party to secure such costs as other party may recover. (Rev., s. 1558; Code, s. 1294; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 41; C. S. 1656.)

Cross References.—As to prosecution bonds generally, see § 1-109 et seq. As to costs generally, see § 6-21.

Husband Liable for Own Costs.—In actions for divorce the husband, whether successful or unsuccessful, is liable for his own costs, and whether he shall pay the wife's costs is in all cases left to the discretion of the court. Broom v. Broom, 130 N. C. 62, 554, 41 S. E. 671.

§ 50-3. Venue.—In all proceedings for divorce, the summons shall be returnable to the court of the county in which either the plaintiff or defendant resides. (Rev., s. 1559; Code, s. 1829; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 107; C. S. 1657.)

Section Not Jurisdictional—Waiver.—The provision of this section is not jurisdictional and may be waived, and the failure therein must be taken advantage of by motion to remove the cause to the proper venue, and not to dismiss. Davis v. Davis, 179 N. C. 185, 110 S. E. 220.

Change in Common-Law Rule.—The common-law rule that the wife should bring her action for divorce in the domicile of her husband was changed by this section, as amended by chapter 229, Public Laws 1915, making the summons returnable to the county in which either the plaintiff or defendant resides. Wood v. Wood, 181 N. C. 227, 106 S. E. 761.

Where Wife Resides.—A demurrer to an action for divorce brought by the wife in the county of her own residence, when the husband resides in a different county, on the ground that the summons should have been made re-
§ 50-4. CH. 50. DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

§ 50-4

This section will not be dismissed because of failure to make the affidavit prescribed in section 50-8. Taylor v. White, 160 N. C. 618, 130 S. E. 195.

§ 50-4. What marriages may be declared void on application of either party.—The superior court in term time, on application made as by law provided, by either party to a marriage contracted contrary to the provisions contained in the chapter entitled Marriage, or declared void by said chapter, may declare such marriage void from the beginning, subject, however, to the proviso contained in § 51-3 (Rev. 1560; Code, s. 1282; 1817-18, c. 193, s. 33; C. S. 1658.)

Cross References.—As to marriage generally, see § 51-1 et seq. As to void and voidable marriages, see §§ 51-3 and annotations.

Effect of Note.—It should be noted that the word “divorce” is frequently used in referring to a decree of nullity in cases where the parties were never validly married as well as in cases where the decree is granted to dissolve a valid marriage. Often the word “void” is used in cases where the court is granting a decree except for cause previously existing to the marriage —causes which rendered the marriage a nullity. The word “divorce” was regularly used in cases where there had never been a marriage.

In Johnson v. Kincade, 37 N. C. 470, the marriage of the parties was declared nullity because of the mental incapacity of one of the parties at the time of the marriage. In that decision the court declared that the “plaintiff ought to be, and is divorced from the defendant.” See Lea v. Lea, 104 N. C. 603, 10 S. E. 488; Taylor v. White, 160 N. C. 38, 75 S. E. 941; Cooke v. Cooke, 164 N. C. 272, 274, 80 S. E. 178.

Procedure Similar to Divorce Action.—An action, under this section, to have a marriage declared void, so far as procedure is concerned, is an action for divorce. Johnson v. Watters, 168 N. C. 411, 84 S. E. 703; Lea v. Lea, 104 N. C. 603, 607, 10 S. E. 488.

While not technically actions for divorce they come under that heading, in a general way, in that alimony pendente lite may be allowed. Taylor v. White, 160 N. C. 38, 75 S. E. 941; Lea v. Lea, 104 N. C. 603, 10 S. E. 488.

Affidavit Not Necessary.—Actions for annulment under this section will not be dismissed because of failure to make the affidavit prescribed in section 50-8. Taylor v. White, 160 N. C. 38, 75 S. E. 941.

Marriage Void Until So Declared by Court.—The court, in its own jurisdiction, may declare a marriage in proper cases void ab initio, but they are not so ipso facto, and must be so declared by a decree of the court, for only in the instances set out in the second proviso to section 51-3 cases of marriage void in a collateral proceeding may be declared.

Watters v. Watters, 168 N. C. 411, 414, 84 S. E. 703; State v. Setzer, 97 N. C. 252, 1 S. E. 557.

Formal Deed When Marriage Originally Void.—Though the marriage of a lunatic is absolutely void, without being so declared, yet the court will formally declare its nullity, as well for the sake of the good order of society as for the quiet and relief of the party seeking the relief. Johnson v. Kincade, 37 N. C. 470, cited in notes in 40 L. R. A. 737, 744; Lea v. Lea, 104 N. C. 603, 10 S. E. 488.

How Action Brought.—A suit for nullity of marriage on the ground of insanity may be brought either in the name of the lunatic, by her guardian, or in the name of the guardian of the ground of insanity may be brought either in the name of the guardian of the said lunatic, as well for the sake of the good order of society as for the protection of the said lunatic.

What Marriages Absolutely Void.—The only marriages (under section 51-3) which are absolutely void are those between a white person and one of negro or Indian blood (or mongrels) and marriages contracted between persons of different degrees of descent from a common ancestor.

Effect of Twenty Years Ratification.—Where a marriage was consummated by a contract and ratification between the parties, after the death of one of the parties, it will be declared valid. State v. Parker, 106 N. C. 711, 11 S. E. 517.

Effect of Void Marriage.—A former marriage, which has been decreed to have been void because induced by duress, was void ab initio, and hence does not afford ground for subsequent marriage. Rector v. Rector, 106 N. C. 419, 11 S. E. 89; and a third person, though such decree was rendered after the second marriage. Taylor v. White, 160 N. C. 38, 75 S. E. 941.

Subsequent Insanity.—Insanity afterwards affecting a party to a contract of marriage is not a ground for annulment. Watters v. Watters, 168 N. C. 411, 84 S. E. 703.

License Issued Upon Fraudulent Representations as to Age.—Suit by Parent or Register of Deeds.—Where the register of deeds has been induced by fraudulent representations to issue a license for the marriage of a female under the age of fourteen and sixteen without conforming with § 51-2, as to the written consent of her parent, the marriage is voidable only at the suit of the female, and the parent or the register of deeds may maintain a suit to declare the marriage void, though the latter may at most maintain an action to revoke and cancel the license. Sawyer v. Slack, 196 N. C. 697, 146 S. E. 864. This case was decided prior to the 1939 amendment to § 51-2 which amendment makes the parents the sole parties to an annulment proceeding.

Effect of Decree.—A decree annulling a marriage is final and conclusive and not open to collateral impeachment, although it may be vacated or set aside for good cause on motion and on notice. Its effect is to annul a pretended marriage as if it had never existed, and hence it restores both parties to their former status and to all rights they would have as, before the marriage.

Taylor v. White, 160 N. C. 38, 41, 75 S. E. 941, 26 Cyc. 920.

Same.—Children Legitimate.—The children of a marriage which is subsequently annulled are made legitimate by section 50-11. Taylor v. White, 160 N. C. 38, 75 S. E. 941.

Appeal from Judgment.—If either party to an action to annul a marriage contract desires to move to set aside the judgment rendered, it must be done in an adversary proceeding after due notice is served upon the other party, and notice to counsel of record in the original action is not sufficient. Johnson v. Johnson, 141 N. C. 91, 53 S. E. 623.

§ 50-5. Grounds for absolute divorce. — Marriages may be dissolved and the parties thereto divorced from the bonds of matrimony, on application of the party injured, made as by law provided, in the following cases:

Divorce Is Entirely Statutory.—It has always been the policy of this state to regard marriage as indissoluble except for the cause of divorce. House v. House, 131 N. C. 140, 42 S. E. 546.

Divorce is entirely statutory. March v. Long, 27 N. C. 130, 125 U. S. 917, 125 U. S. 139.

When Legislature Will Grant a Divorce.—In some states in the absence of constitutional prohibition, when the object of the marriage relation has been defeated by any cause other than the death of one of the parties, the legislature may at most maintain an action to revoke and cancel the marriage. Sawyer v. Slack, 196 N. C. 697, 146 S. E. 864. This case was decided prior to the 1939 amendment to § 51-2 which amendment makes the parents the sole parties to an annulment proceeding.

Facts Must Be Plead and Proved.—Divorces are granted only when the facts constituting a sufficient cause, under the provisions of this chapter, are pleaded and proved as by law directed.

Legislative Control.—Subject to the constitutional restriction that “it may not grant a divorce nor secure alimony in any individual case," the question of divorce is a matter exclusively of legislative cognizance. Cooke v. Cooke, 164 N. C. 274, 80 S. E. 178; Hyder v. Hyder, 210 N. C. 486, 187 S. E. 798.

When Legislation Will Grant a Divorce.—In some states in the absence of constitutional prohibition, when the object of the marriage relation has been defeated by any cause other than the death of one of the parties, the legislature may at most maintain an action to revoke and cancel the marriage. Sawyer v. Slack, 196 N. C. 697, 146 S. E. 864. This case was decided prior to the 1939 amendment to § 51-2 which amendment makes the parents the sole parties to an annulment proceeding.

Matters of the Court.—In all cases affecting any divorce, the court shall have jurisdiction to grant a divorce, or annul a marriage, or to dissolve a marriage, when it is proved to the satisfaction of the court that the grounds for divorce or annulment exist.

Appeal from Judgment.—If either party to an action to annul a marriage contract desires to move to set aside the judgment rendered, it must be done in an adversary proceeding after due notice is served upon the other party, and notice to counsel of record in the original action is not sufficient. Johnson v. Johnson, 141 N. C. 91, 53 S. E. 623.

1. If the husband or wife commits adultery.

Plaintiff Need Not Set Up His Innocence.—A party seeking divorce is not bound to set forth or prove that he has not himself been guilty of adultery or is not in fault. Steel v. Steel, 104 N. C. 631, 10 S. E. 707. Smith v. Moore, 59 N. C. 360.

Abduction Even after Abandonment Sufficient Cause.—Abduction by the wife alleged, should not be construed as a separate incident of the marriage. Smith v. Moore, 59 N. C. 360.

2. If either party at the time of the marriage was pregnant, and the husband is ignorant of the fact of such pregnancy and is not the father of the child when born. Barlow v. Barlow, 59 N. C. 360.

Pregnancy Must Result.—Unknown illicit intercourse, even though incestuous, prior to marriage will not authorize a decree for divorce under this section unless pregnancy results. Britton v. Britton, 104 N. C. 631, 10 S. E. 707.

False Representation of Age.—A man who by false representation marries a woman by her false representation that she is pregnant by him, he cannot secure a divorce under this section. Bryant v. Bryant, 171 N. C. 746, 88 S. E. 147.

Abandonment Not Implied.—In an action for divorce a vinculo brought by the husband against the wife, an allegation in his complaint that the adultery was committed without the husband’s procurement and without his knowledge or consent, and that he has not cohabited with her since he discovered her acts of adultery, does not imply his abandonment of her or put that matter at issue. Kinney v. Kinney, 149 N. C. 321, 63 S. E. 97.

Abandonment as Defense Must Be Set up in Answer.—Where a judgment has been entered granting a divorce under this section, there must not only be evidence of the desire of one of the parties to be relieved of the bonds of matrimony, but such desire must be shown to be ground for divorce. Ellett v. Ellett, 157 N. C. 161, 72 S. E. 861. This case overrules Steel v. Steel, 104 N. C. 631, 10 S. E. 707.

Abandonment Not Implied.—In an action for divorce a vinculo brought by the husband against the wife, an allegation in his complaint that the adultery was committed without the husband’s procurement and without his knowledge or consent, and that he has not cohabited with her since he discovered her acts of adultery, does not imply his abandonment of her or put that matter at issue. Kinney v. Kinney, 149 N. C. 321, 63 S. E. 97.

Appeal and Error. — Where a husband appeals from a judgment allowing a divorce under § 50-5, he must set up in his answer that a part of the time, it is necessary that the evidence therein shall include evidence that he was insane for a part of the time, necessary for the proof of the existence of such separation, be found by a jury. Wood v. Wood, 27 N. C. 674.

Separation Without Fault.—It certainly was not intended that this statute should apply to cases where the separation was without fault on either side. While it is in the power of the Legislature to make a ground for divorce it has not done so, and the court cannot by judicial construction extend the grounds of divorce beyond the statute. Ellis v. Ellis, 190 N. C. 418, 130 S. E. 7.
Divorce after separation of two years on application of either party.—Marriages may be dissolved and the parties thereto divorced from the bonds of matrimony, after two years, standing alone, will not constitute a cause of action for divorce. There must be at least an intention on the part of one of the parties to cease cohabitation, and this must be shown to have existed at the alleged beginning of the period of separation. It must appear that the separation is with that definite purpose on the part of at least one of the parties. The existence of a separation agreement only, was erroneous entitling plaintiff to a new trial. Byers v. Byers, 222 N. C. 298, 22 S. E. (2d) 902.

Section Did Not Apply Where Separation Was without Cause and without Agreement.—While the applicant need not be the injured party, the statute did not authorize a divorce where the husband has separated himself from his wife, or the wife has separated herself from her husband, without cause and without agreement, express or implied. Parker v. Parker, supra; Reynolds v. Reynolds, 210 N. C. 250; Long v. Long, 206 N. C. 706, 175 S. E. 85, distinguished. Followed in Hyder v. Hyder, 210 N. C. 486, 187 S. E. 768, decided prior to the 1927 amendment.

Section 50-6. Divorce after separation of two years on application of either party. — Mariages may be dissolved and the parties thereto divorced from the bonds of matrimony, after two years, standing alone, will not constitute a cause of action for divorce. There must be at least an intention on the part of one of the parties to cease cohabitation, and this must be shown to have existed at the alleged beginning of the period of separation. It must appear that the separation is with that definite purpose on the part of at least one of the parties. The existence of a separation agreement only, was erroneous entitling plaintiff to a new trial. Byers v. Byers, 222 N. C. 298, 22 S. E. (2d) 902.

Section Did Not Apply Where Separation Was without Cause and without Agreement.—While the applicant need not be the injured party, the statute did not authorize a divorce where the husband has separated himself from his wife, or the wife has separated herself from her husband, without cause and without agreement, express or implied. Parker v. Parker, supra; Reynolds v. Reynolds, 210 N. C. 250; Long v. Long, 206 N. C. 706, 175 S. E. 85, distinguished. Followed in Hyder v. Hyder, 210 N. C. 486, 187 S. E. 768, decided prior to the 1927 amendment.

Section Did Not Apply Where Separation Was without Cause and without Agreement.—While the applicant need not be the injured party, the statute did not authorize a divorce where the husband has separated himself from his wife, or the wife has separated herself from her husband, without cause and without agreement, express or implied. Parker v. Parker, supra; Reynolds v. Reynolds, 210 N. C. 250; Long v. Long, 206 N. C. 706, 175 S. E. 85, distinguished. Followed in Hyder v. Hyder, 210 N. C. 486, 187 S. E. 798.
Plaintiff Must Petition for Divorce a Mensa.—A decree of divorce a mensa will not be granted in an action where plaintiff petitioned for absolute divorce. Morris v. Morris, 75 N. C. 551, 76 S. E. 189.

Allegations in the cross action for divorce a mensa et thoro, set up by defendant wife in the husband’s action for divorce a mensa et thoro, are insufficient. Ragan v. Ragan, 214 N. C. 36, 197 S. E. 554.

Effect of Delay in Bringing Action.—An unreasonable delay by one party, after a probable knowledge of the criminal conduct of the other, will, if unaccounted for, preclude such party from obtaining a decree for a separation from bed and board. Whittington v. Whittington, 19 N. C. 348.

But a delay of seven years in filing a petition is sufficiently accounted for by the allegations that at the happening of the matters relied upon for divorce, the petitioner was a resident of the State, and is now a pauper. Schonwald v. Schonwald, 62 N. C. 215.

Condonation.—Evidence merely of forgiveness by the plaintiff in her action for divorce a mensa et thoro against her husband, is insufficient to establish such offenses as would bar a divorce. Page v. Page, 167 N. C. 346, 347, 83 S. E. 625; Jones v. Jones, 173 N. C. 279, 91 S. E. 960.

For condonation is forgiveness upon condition, and the condition is, that the party forgives will abate from all like offenses afterward. If the condition is violated, the original offense is revived. Lassiter v. Lassiter, 92 N. C. 130.

Grounds Available to Husband as Well as Wife.—The grounds for divorce a mensa given by this section are not limited to complaints available to the husband as well as to the wife. Where, by the express language of the statute to “the injured party,” Brewer v. Brewer, 198 N. C. 659, 153 S. E. 163.

Only the party injured is entitled to a divorce under this section. Vaughn v. Vaughn, 211 N. C. 354, 358, 190 S. E. 492; citing Childs v. Carnes, 204 N. C. 363, 169 S. E. 722; Albritton v. Albritton, 210 N. C. 111, 185 S. E. 762.

1. If either party abandons his or her family.

Acts Constituting Abandonment.—Where husband drives his wife from his house, or obtains her removal by stratagem or withholds from her support while there, he is deemed to have abandoned her. Setzer v. Setzer, 128 N. C. 110, 172 S. E. 721.

To constitute abandonment it is not necessary that the husband should leave the state. Witty v. Barham, 149 N. C. 497, 61 S. E. 372.

2. Maliciously turns the other out of doors.

This Section an Instance of Abandonment in Sec. 1.—The conduct of a husband for divorce a mensa et thoro under this section, because of being maliciously turned out of doors by her husband, is but an instance of wrongful abandonment of his wife, under subsection 1, and the basic facts of these two suits are the same. Mollin v. Mollin, 175 N. C. 529, 95 S. E. 857.

Adverse Ruling in Previous Action.—A denial of alimony in an independent action under sec. 50-16 brought by the wife, on the ground that the husband maliciously turned her out of doors, will conclude her upon her cross-bill setting up the same matter in an action thereafter brought by her husband against her for a divorce a vinculo. Mollin v. Mollin, 175 N. C. 529, 95 S. E. 857.

3. By cruel or barbarous treatment endangers the life of the other.

Revival of Cause.—Much less cruelty or indignity is sufficient to revive a transaction occurring before the condonation, than to support an original suit for divorce. Lassiter v. Lassiter, 92 N. C. 130.

Communication of Disease.—The communication of an infectious disease by the husband to the wife is not sufficient ground for divorce. Long v. Long, 189 N. C. 189.

Acts Committed More Than Ten Years Before.—A divorce will not be granted for cruel and barbarous treatment where in the action complained of were committed more than ten years before the commencement of the action; in the meantime the parties had continued to reside together. O’Connor v. O’Connor, 109 N. C. 140, 13 S. E. 887.

Causes within Six Months.—Nor will a divorce be granted under this section for causes arising within six months before the commencement of the action. O’Connor v. O’Connor, 109 N. C. 140, 13 S. E. 887; Green v. Green, 131 N. C. 533, 42 S. E. 954.

4. Offers such indignities to the person of the other as to render his or her condition intolerable and life burdensome.

This Section Remedial.—It would seem that the Legislature, in providing for the specific acts of condemnation, did not intend to specify the particular acts of indignity for which divorces may in all cases be obtained. The matter is left at large under general words, thus leaving the courts to deal with each particular case and to determine in each case whether the conduct complained of will carry into effect the purpose and remedial object of the statute. Sanders v. Sanders, 157 N. C. 229, 234, 72 S. E. 576; Taylor v. Taylor, 76 N. C. 433, 437.

Suits in Compulsory Causes Determining.—The acts of the husband which will render the wife’s condition intolerable and her life burdensome so as to entitle her to a divorce a mensa are largely dependent on the facts in each particular case, such as the husband’s conduct, temper, habits and feelings of the plaintiff. Sanders v. Sanders, 157 N. C. 229, 72 S. E. 576.

Complaint Must Show Plaintiff’s Innocence.—The complaint must aver, and facts must be found upon which it can be seen that the plaintiff did not by her own conduct contribute to the wrongs and abuses of which she complains. Garsed v. Garsed, 170 N. C. 672, 673, 87 S. E. 45; White v. White, 84 N. C. 340.

Same.—General Allegation Insufficient.—It is essential that the plaintiff shall specifically set forth in her complaint the allegations by which she seeks the divorce. This is not done by general allegation that such conduct was “without cause or provocation on her part” is insufficient. O’Connor v. O’Connor, 109 N. C. 140, 13 S. E. 887; Martin v. Martin, 130 N. C. 27, 40 S. E. 822; Everett v. Everett, 50 N. C. 202.

Requisites in Proving Cause.—Where a drunken husband cursed his wife and drove her from his house, and by demonstrations of violence caused her to leave the bedside of a dying child, and seek safety and protection at a distance of several miles, it is sufficient to prove a cause under this section. Scoggins v. Scoggins, 85 N. C. 348.

A persistent charge of adultery against a virtuous woman, accompanied by a contemptuous declaration that she was no longer his wife, is by an abandonment of her by him such an indignity to her person as would entitle her to a partial divorce and to alimony. Everett v. Everett, 50 N. C. 202, 210.

To entitle a wife to a divorce from bed and board under this section, the indignity offered by the husband must be such as may be expected to seriously annoy a woman of ordinary sense and temper, and must be repeated, or continuous, so to the point of cruelty and inhumanity, and intentionally or at least consciously by the husband to the annoyance of the wife. Miller v. Miller, 78 N. C. 192.

Finding in favor of the husband, where the wife had evidence tending to show that the plaintiff, in her married life, was free from blame and that the defendant’s conduct was a long course of neglect, cruelty, humiliation, and insult, repeated and persisted in, is sufficient to bring the cause within the words of this section, that he had offered “such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable and her life burdensome.” Sanders v. Sanders, 157 N. C. 229, 72 S. E. 576.

Where a petitioner alleges that her husband had become jealous of her without cause, had shook his fist in her face and threatened her, and declared to her face and to the neighborhood that the child with which she was pregnant was not his; that her condition had from such conduct became intolerable and her life burdensome, it is evidence tending to show that the plaintiff, in her married life, was free from blame and that the defendant’s conduct was a long course of neglect, cruelty, humiliation, and insult, repeated and persisted in, is sufficient to bring the cause within the words of this section, that he had offered “such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable and her life burdensome.” Erwin v. Erwin, 57 N. C. 82.

A divorce from bed and board will be granted the wife if it is shown that the husband made foul and injurious accusations, and refused to bed with her and denied that she was his wife. Green v. Green, 131 N. C. 533, 42 S. E. 954.

Becomes a habitual drunkard. (Rev. s. 1562; Code, s. 1286; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 36; C. S. 1660.)

§ 50-8. Affidavit to be filed with complaint; affidavit of intention to file complaint.—The plaintiff in a complaint seeking either divorce or alimony, or both, shall file with his or her complaint an affidavit that the facts set forth in the complaint are true to the best of affiant's knowledge and belief, and that the said complaint is not made out of levity or by collusion between husband and wife; and if for divorce, not for the mere purpose of being freed and separated from each other, but in sincerity and truth for the cause set forth in the complaint. The plaintiff shall also set forth in such affidavit, either that the facts set forth in the complaint, as grounds for divorce, have existed to his or her knowledge at least six months prior to the filing of the complaint, and that complainant has been a resident of the state for two years? was changed to "one year" by Public Laws 1933, c. 71.

Purpose of Section.—The affidavit was intended to prevent bad faith and collusion on the part of the parties to the action, and is an indispensable part of the complaint and allegations in a divorce. Williams v. Williams, 130 N. C. 333, 41 S. E. 854.

Requirements Mandatory.—All the requisites mentioned in the affidavit required by this section are mandatory and a failure to set out these averments in the affidavit prevents the superior court from having jurisdiction. Nichols v. Nichols, 128 N. C. 108, 38 S. E. 256; Johnson v. Johnson, 141 N. C. 91, 41 S. E. 127; Walker v. Walker, 179 N. C. 421, 156 S. E. 266.

Verification According to Statute.—In an application for alimony pendente lite the affidavit and petition must be verified. Foy v. Foy, 35 N. C. 90. Action to Annul Marriage—The affidavit required under this section is not necessary to show such facts in supplementary or additional affidavits. Sanders v. Sanders, 157 N. C. 229, 72 S. E. 876.

Supplementary Affidavits.—No order should be made to deprive the defendant of his property unless the facts appear upon which the plaintiff's information and belief are founded, and the proper form is not used. Scott v. Scott, 77 N. C. 348, 15 S. E. 534; Sanders v. Sanders, 157 N. C. 229, 72 S. E. 876.

Verification of Answers Setting Up Cross Action.—In the husband's answer for divorce which affords, the wife's answer setting up a cross action must be verified under this section, as a jurisdictional prerequisite, and when the answer is not verified the action is a nullity. Silver v. Silver, 220 N. C. 191, 16 S. E. (2d) 634.

Six Months Prior Knowledge.—By chapter 91, Pub. Laws of 1925, this section was amended so that in cases where the necessary affidavit is made under this section, then the six months prior knowledge need not be alleged in the affidavit, it being the purpose of sec. 50-5, par. 1, that an action for divorce within ninety days of the commencement of the action is not allowed. Silver v. Silver, 220 N. C. 191, 16 S. E. (2d) 634.

Proof Must Correspond to Allegations.—As the allegations in a petition for a divorce are directed by statute to prove the facts upon which the right of divorce or alimony is founded, there is no jurisdiction unless there is evidence to support such allegations. Sanders v. Sanders, 157 N. C. 229, 72 S. E. 876.

§ 50-9. Effect of answer of summons by defendant.—In all cases upon an action for a divorce absolute, where the plaintiff had caused to be served upon the defendant in person a legal summons, whether by verified complaint or unverified complaint, and such defendant answered such summons, and where the trial of said action was duly and legally had in all other respects and judgments rendered by a Judge of the Superior Court upon issues answered by a judge and jury, in accordance with law, such judgments are hereby declared to have the same force and effect as any judgment rendered in a court of record and the facts therein found by said judgment are facts found by a jury, and the jury in any such case are deemed to be present and to have had a prior knowledge of the said facts as a jury having jurisdiction of the case, and the court has no power to set aside such judgment, and the judgment is a nullity. (1929, c. 290, s. 1.)

Cross Reference.—As to procedure in trial generally, see § 1-170 et seq.

§ 50-10. Material facts found by jury; parties cannot testify to adultery.—The material facts in every complaint asking for a divorce shall be deemed to be denied by the defendant, whether the same shall be actually denied by pleading or not, and no judgment shall be given in favor of the plaintiff in any such complaint until such facts have been found by a jury, and on such trial neither the husband nor wife shall be a competent witness to prove the adultery of the other, nor shall the admissions of either party be received as evidence to prove such fact. (Rev., s. 1564; Code, s. 1288; 1868-9, c. 93, s. 47; C. S. 1662.)

Cross Reference.—As to competency of spouse as witness in civil actions, see § 50-11.

Purpose of Section.—The object of this section was to prevent a judgment from being taken by default, or by collision, and to require the facts to be found by a jury. Campbell v. Campbell, 179 N. C. 413, 102 S. E. 727; Moss v. Moss, 24 N. C. 55, 58; Hooper v. Hooper, 165 N. C. 698, 11 S. E. 933.

Prohibition of Denial.—The provisions of this section that the allegations of the complaint in an action for divorce “are deemed to be denied,” applies only to the trial upon the merits, since the facts must be found by a jury. Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113 N. C. 433, 18 S. E. 334.

The denial by the statute of the plaintiff’s allegations in an action for divorce, presumes, as a matter of law, a meritorious defense, and does not require that this be found by the jury. Where the issue is not adjudged upon a motion to set aside a judgment rendered in an action. Campbell v. Campbell, 129 N. C. 413, 102 S. E. 727.

Same.—Applies to Cross-Action.—The defendant in an action for divorce a vinculo may file a cross-action, the same relief, and where no reply has been filed by the plaintiff, an issue is raised by the complaint of the defendant, and upon a verdict on the required issues, a judgment may be rendered upon the cross action if the pleadings and the evidence are sufficient. Ellis v. Ellis, 190 N. C. 415, 130 S. E. 7.

Same.—Time for Answering Not Affected.—The provisions of this section, putting in a denial of the plaintiff’s allegations in an action for divorce, does not affect the defendant’s right to twenty days after completion of the service of summons by publication, in which to answer or demur, etc. Campbell v. Campbell, 179 N. C. 413, 102 S. E. 727.

Applies to Cross-Action.—This section is applicable to a defendant who files a cross-action, and prays for divorce therein from the plaintiff. Saunderson v. Saunderson, 195 N. C. 169, 141 S. E. 572; citing Cook v. Cook, 159 N. C. 74, 74 S. E. 639.

Where the wife’s cross-action for a divorce is a messuage is sustained by the verdict of the jury, a judgment rendered must accord therewith, and if entered for a divorce absolutely, and transferred to the parties, the judgment is a nullity. Saunderson v. Saunderson, 195 N. C. 169, 141 S. E. 572.

Verdict of Jury.—In an proceeding for a divorce the issue submitted and the verdict found should be as specific and certain as is alleged in the pleading. Wood v. Wood, 27 N. C. 67.

Same.—Eleven Jurors.—In an action for divorce, a verdict by eleven jurors, consented to by both parties, is valid if for the defendant, but invalid if for plaintiff. Hall v. Hall, 131 N. C. 185, 47 S. E. 562.

Witnesses in Actions on Ground of Adultery.—The statutory limitation that the husband and wife will not be permitted to testify for or against each other prevails under the circumstances of any particular case it would seemingly appear that there was no collusion or otherwise; and the inhibition extends to any and all admissions or declarations made by the other, tending to establish the acts of adultery, either in the pleadings or otherwise. Hooper v. Hooper, 165 N. C. 665, 81 S. E. 933.

It is incompetent for the husband to testify that the wife had a certain contagious venereal disease, since he had been free, under circumstances tending necessarily to establish her improper relations with other men. Hooper v. Hooper, 165 N. C. 665, 81 S. E. 933.

Injunction for Maintenance With Section.—In an action for absolute divorce a charge in reference to the admissions of counsel that the evidence was sufficient to support an affirmative finding to the issues of marriage, separation and residence and held not competent to a directed verdict and not to be at variance with the provisions of this section. Nelson v. Nelson, 197 N. C. 465, 149 S. E. 385.

In Vickers v. Vickers, 108 N. C. 498, 490, 124 S. E. 737, the court said:—"On perusal of the record it appears that the affidavit of the wife, charging adultery on the husband, is substantially a part of the evidence pertinent to the inquiry. As an independent fact, such evidence seems to be absolutely forbidden by the statutes and public policy controlling in the matter."

Declaration—Presence of Third Person.—A declaration made by a husband and his wife in the presence of a third party is not such a confidential communication, as is privileged. Toole v. Toole, 112 N. C. 153, 16 S. E. 912.

Same—Of Alleged Paramour.—The declarations of an alleged paramour, made to or in the presence of a party to a suit for divorce a vinculo matrimonii, tending to show that improper familiarities had been or were about to be indulged in, are not admissible in evidence, nor is the motion for a directed verdict made by a husband to his wife in the presence of a third party is not such a confidential communication, as is privileged. Toole v. Toole, 112 N. C. 153, 16 S. E. 912.

Stated in State v. Williams, 220 N. C. 445, 17 S. E. (2d) 769.

§ 50-11. Effects of absolute divorce.—After a judgment of divorce from the bonds of matrimony, all rights arising out of the marriage shall cease and determine, and either party may marry again unless otherwise provided by law: Provided, that no judgment of divorce shall render illegitimate any children in esse, or begotten of the body of the wife during coverture; and, Provided further, that a decree of absolute divorce upon the ground of separation for two successive years as provided in § 50-5 or § 50-6 shall not impair or destroy the right of the wife to receive alimony under any judgment or decree of the court rendered before the commencement of the proceeding for absolute divorce. (Rev., s. 1569; Code, s. 1295; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 43; 1919, c. 204; C. S. 1663.)

Time Reduced to Two Years.—Section 50-6, as amended, reduced the time in this section from ten to two years. Howell v. Howell, 206 N. C. 672, 174 S. E. 921; Dyer v. Dyer, 212 N. C. 630, 194 S. E. 278.

Permanent Alimony.—Upon the granting of an absolute divorce a married couple are entitled to alimony and alimony; and determine and hence the court has no power in such cases to allow permanent alimony. Duffy v. Duffy, 120 N. C. 158, 27 S. E. 622.

Consent Judgment and Consent.—Where a consent judgment has been entered, a condition of which is that the wife remain unmarried, the subsequent decreeing of a divorce a vinculo matrimonii, is set aside, on the theory that the consent judgment, and the judge has no authority to modify it upon that ground. Lentz v. Lentz, 193 N. C. 742, 158 S. E. 12.

§ 50-12. Resumption of maiden name authorized; adoptions of name of prior deceased husband validated.—Any woman at any time after the bonds of matrimony theretofore existing between herself and her husband have been dissolved by a decree of absolute divorce, may resume the use of her maiden name or the name of a prior deceased husband, or a name composed of her given name and the surname of a prior deceased husband. The name of the applicant, the name of the county in which the court of the county wherein the petitioner, or the name composed of her given name and the surname of a prior deceased husband, or a name composed of her given name and the surname of a prior deceased husband upon application to the clerk of the court of the county in which she resides, setting forth her intention so to do. Said application shall be addressed to the clerk of the court of the county in which such divorced woman resides, and shall set forth the full name of the former husband of the applicant, the name of the minor children of said divorce was granted, and the term of court at which such divorce was granted, and shall be signed by the applicant in her full maiden name. The clerks of court of the several counties of the state shall provide a permanent book in which shall be recorded all such applications herein provided for, which shall be indexed under the name of the former husband of the applicant and under the maiden name of such applicant. The clerk of the court of the county in which said application shall be recorded shall charge a fee of one ($1.00) dollar for such registration. In every case where a married woman has a married name registered, by this divorce and has since the divorce, adopted the name of a prior deceased husband, or a name composed of her given name and the surname of a prior deceased husband, the adoption by her of such name is hereby validated. (1937, c. 53; 1941, c. 1570.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1941, chapter 9, inserted in the first sentence of this section the words “or the name of a prior deceased husband, or a name composed of her given name and the surname of a prior deceased husband.” The amendment also added the words “or a name composed of her given name and the surname of a prior deceased husband,” in the last sentence.

§ 50-13. Custody of children in divorce.—After the filing of a complaint in any action for divorce, whether from the bonds of matrimony or from bed and board, both before and after final judgment therein, it is lawful for the judge of the court in which such application is or was pending to make a decree respecting the care, custody, tuition and maintenance of the minor children of the marriage as may be proper, and from time to time to modify or vacate such orders, and may commit their custody and tuition to the father or mother, as may be thought best; or the court may commit the custody and tuition of such infant children, in the first place, to one parent for a limited time, and after the expiration of that time, then to the other parent; and so alternately: Provided, that no order respecting the children shall be made on the application of either party without five days notice to the other party, unless it shall appear that the party having the possession or control of such children has removed or is about to remove the children, or himself, beyond the jurisdiction of the court.

Provided, custody of children of parents who have been divorced outside of North Carolina may be determined in a special proceeding instituted by either of said parents in the superior court of the county wherein the petitioner, or the respondent or child at the time of filing said petition, is a resident. The resident judge of the district wherein the petition is filed may hear the facts and determine the custody of said children upon the evidence designated in his discretion after five days notice of such proceeding to the defendant. Notice of the summons and petition in said proceedings may be served on a nonresident defendant by publishing a notice thereof setting forth the grounds and nature of the proceedings in a newspaper published in the county wherein the petitioner resides once a week for a period of four successive weeks and by posting a copy thereof at the courthouse door of said county for a period of thirty days. Service as aforesaid in said action will be deemed complete thirty days after the date of the first publication of said notice.

In any case where either parent institutes a divorce action when there is a minor child or children, the complaint in such action shall set forth the name and age of such child or children; and if there be no minor child, the complaint shall so state. (Rev., s. 1570; Code, ss. 1296, 1570; 1871-2, c. 193; s. 46; 1939, c. 115: 1941, c. 120; 1943, c. 194; C. S. 1664.)

Cross Reference.—As to habeas corpus proceeding to determine custody of children of parents who are separated without being divorced, see §§ 17-39, 17-40.

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added the second paragraph of this section.

The 1941 amendment inserted the words “or the respondent or child” in the first sentence of the second paragraph.

The 1943 amendment added the last paragraph.

For comment on the 1939 amendatory act, see 17 N. C. L. Rev. 52.

In General.—The superior court, in which a suit for divorce is pending, has exclusive jurisdiction as to the care or custody of the children of the marriage, before and after the decree of divorcement has been entered, by this section, and though by proceedings in habeas corpus under the provisions of sec. 17-39, the custody of a child of the marriage may be awarded as between parents each of whom claims it, this applies only when the parents are living in a state of separation, without being divorced, or are suing for a decree of divorcement; and where the decree of divorcement has been granted without awarding the custody of minor children of the marriage, the exclusive remedy is by motion in that cause. Quere, whether the statutes relating to the juvenile courts, sec. 110-21 et seq., confer jurisdiction in such instances. In re Blake, 184 N. C. 114, 114 S. E. 294.

Upon institution of a divorce action the court acquires jurisdiction over any child born of the marriage and may hear and determine questions both as to the custody and as to the maintenance of such child either before or after final decree of divorce. Story v. Story, 221 N. C. 114, 19 S. E. (2d) 157.

Habeas Corpus Is Not Appropriate Writ When Parties Are Divorced.—Although statutory habeas corpus is an appropriate writ to determine the custody of children as between married parents living in a state of separation under §§ 17-39, it is not appropriate when they are divorced. McEachern v. McEachern, 210 N. C. 98, 185 S. E. 684.

Court May Disregard Agreement Between Husband and Wife Regarding Custody of Child.—Where the court finds that rights and interests of child would be better protected by awarding custody of child either by the father or mother, the court may disregard agreement between husband and wife containing an agreement for the custody of their minor child does not preclude the court, upon proper application for change of custody subsequent to the deed of separation, from awarding the custody of the child in accordance with this section. In re McEachern, 210 N. C. 172, 172 S. E. 442.

No agreement or contract between husband and wife will serve to deprive the court of its inherent as well as statutory authority to protect the interests and provide for the welfare of the child, even though they may be incorporated in an agreement or by a consent judgment; but they cannot thus withdraw children of the marriage from the protective custody of the court. The child is not a party to such agreement and the court cannot be estopped thereby from acting in the interest of the court which is always alert in the discharge of its duty towards its ward—the children of the state whose personal or general interests require protection. State v. Duncan, 222 N. C. 11, 21 S. E. (2d) 822.

Father Primarily Liable for Support.—The liability of the father primarily to support the children remains after the divorce, as well as before such divorce, and even where the custody of the children has been awarded to the mother. Sanders v. Sanders, 167 N. C. 319, 83 S. E. 490. And the order of the court was a proper one, and that of the property and income of the husband to be divided between the parties. Bailey v. Bailey, 127 N. C. 474, 37 S. E. 502.

Consent Judgments.—Where consent judgment in a suit for a divorce from the bonds of matrimony or for alimony, or for a separation from bed and board is entered in the husband's action for absolute divorce, and may be modified by the court, it will be admissible for the husband to be heard under this or § 50-16, whether in or out of term, in any suit for alimony pendente lite, and in any suit for alimony during the pendency of the suit as applied for. Story v. Story, 221 N. C. 114, 19 S. E. (2d) 136.

Five Days' Notice Is for Protection of Parent Who Does Not Have Possession of Child.—The provision in the statute dispensing with the notice of five days, when it appears that the parent having possession or control of the infant child of the parties to the action has removed or is about to remove such child from the jurisdiction of the court, is applicable only where the application or motion is made by the party who does not have possession or control of the child, and is for the protection of the rights of such parent, and not of the parent who has possession or control of the child at the time the application or motion is made. In such case, no notice to the adverse party is required. Burrows v. Burrows, 210 N. C. 788, 794, 188 S. E. 247.

Appeals by Both Wife and Children.—Upon appeals by the wife and children in separate actions, the appeal of the children will be considered as improvidently taken if the relief sought is identical with that afforded under the judgment obtained in the action of the mother. Sanders v. Sanders, 167 N. C. 317, 83 S. E. 489.

§ 50-14. Alimony on divorce from bed and board.—When any court adjudges any two married persons divorced from bed and board, it may also decree to the party upon whose application such judgment was rendered such alimony as the circumstances of the several parties may render necessary; which, however, shall in any case exceed the one-third part of the net annual income from the estate, occupation or labor of the party against whom the judgment shall be rendered. (Rev., s. 1565; Code, s. 1290; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 37; C. S. 1665.)

Nature of Alimony.—A decree awarding alimony to the wife, or children, or both, is not a debt which has been put into the form of a judgment, but is rather a legal means of enforcing the obligation of the husband and father to support and maintain his wife and children. Wetmore v. Wetmore, 196 N. C. 241, 150 S. E. 344.

But alimony decreed to a wife in a divorce of separation from bed and board is as much a debt of record, until the decree has been recalled, as any other judgment for money. Barber v. Barber, 21 How. 585, 595, 16 L. Ed. 226.

The alimony allowed under this section is incident to and dependent upon a decree of divorce a mensa, and where no decree a mensa was granted on the verdict, no permanent alimony could be allowed. Silver v. Silver, 230 N. C. 191, 16 S. E. (2d) 814.

Permanent alimony under this section may be allowed only upon decree for divorce a mensa, and is erroneously granted in the form of a consent judgment. Any proviso in a mensa is neither prayed nor decreed. Silver v. Silver 230 N. C. 191, 16 S. E. (2d) 834.

Not Permanent.—Alimony is in its nature a provision for a wife separated from her husband, and it cannot continue after reconciliation or the death of either party. Rogers v. Vines, 28 N. C. 293, 297.

Effect of Decree upon Defendant's Property.—The order of a court for alimony pendente lite is not a compelling judgment, which the defendant is not bound to obey. Story v. Story, 221 N. C. 114, 19 S. E. (2d) 136.

Effect of Wife's Abandonment.—The voluntary abandonment by the wife of her husband without just legalization will not entitle her to alimony in her suit for divorce from bed and board. McManus v. McManus, 191 N. C. 740, 133 S. E. 9.

Appeal.—Whether the wife is entitled to alimony is a question of law upon the facts found and is reviewable upon the appeal by either party. Moore v. Moore, 130 N. C. 416, 135 S. E. 491.

§ 50-15. Alimony pendente lite; notice to husband.—If any married woman applies to a court for a divorce from the bonds of matrimony, or from bed and board, with her husband, and sets forth in her complaint such facts, which upon application for alimony shall be found by the judge to be true and to entitle her to the relief demanded in the complaint, and it appears to the judge that the suit is not brought in an improper manner, that she has not sufficient means whereon to subsist during the prosecution of the suit, and to defray the necessary and proper expenses thereof, the judge may order the husband to pay her such alimony during the pendency of the suit as appears to him just and proper, having regard to the circumstances of the parties; and such order may be modified or vacated at any time, on the application of either party or of any one interested: Provided, that no order allowing alimony pendente lite shall be made unless the husband shall have had five days notice thereof, and in all cases of application for alimony pendente lite under this or § 50-16, whether in or out of term, it shall be admissible for the husband to be heard [332] by affidavit in reply or answer to the allegations of the complaint; Provided further, that if the husband has abandoned his wife and left the state or county of his residence, or is about to remove or dispose of his property for the purpose of leaving the state or county, or procuring the claim of his wife, no notice is necessary. (Rev. s. 1566; Code, s. 1291; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 38; 1883, c. 67; C. S. 1666.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—It was formerly held that alimony pendente lite could not be awarded in the absence of a statute conferring this power. Wilson v. Wilson, 19 N. C. 377; Reeves v. Reeves, 82 N. C. 348. In 1832 the Legislature passed an act authorizing the courts upon a petition for divorce and alimony, to decree the petitioner a sum sufficient for her support during the pendency of the suit. Everett v. Everett, 50 N. C. 302. In the case of Medlin v. Medlin, 175 N. C. 529, 95 S. E. 857, the court overruled the contention that divorce pendente lite was not allowed under this section, and held that the court had jurisdiction of this matter by virtue of the common law—the practice having come down from the English Ecclesiastical Courts.

This holding has an important bearing on the construction of this statute, making it remedial in its nature, affirmative in its terms and cumulative in its effect and not abrogating the common law existent upon the subject nor withdrawing from the court any powers already possessed in administering its principles. Medlin v. Medlin, supra, overruling Reeves v. Reeves, supra, on this point.

Purpose of the Section.—The purpose of this section is to afford the wife a measure of protection in a motion so important, which is made and to be determined before the merits of the controversy are ascertained and the rights of the parties settled regularly by final judgment. Morris v. Morris, 89 N. C. 359.

Alimony When the Wife Is Defendant.—When the wife is the defendant she has a right to claim alimony pendente lite under this section. Webber v. Webber, 79 N. C. 572; Barker v. Barker, 136 N. C. 316, 48 S. E. 733. Although she may be excluded by the judgment against her in her former and independent action for divorce a mensa upon the provisions of the statute, the rights of the wife under this section are without prejudice to her remedy in the common law. 175 N. C. 529, 95 S. E. 857.

II. APPLICATION AND PROCEEDINGS THEREON.

An application for alimony pendente lite can be made by motion in the cause. Reeves v. Reeves, 82 N. C. 348.

A motion for alimony pendente lite may be heard any time after the suit is pending in the district in which it resides. Moore v. Moore, 130 N. C. 371, 42 S. E. 822.

But a resident judge holding court in another district can not hear a motion to reduce alimony pendente lite in a suit pending in the district in which he resides. Moore v. Moore, 130 N. C. 371, 42 S. E. 822.

In an action for divorce, in which the wife files answer demanding alimony pendente lite and alimony without divorce, it is error for the court, upon the hearing for alimony pendente lite under this section, to issue an order for alimony without divorce under § 50-16. Adams v. Adams, 212 N. C. 373, 193 S. E. 274.

Kind of Divorce Warranted Immaterial.—Upon an application for alimony pendente lite, it is unnecessary to decide whether the petition warrants a divorce a vinculo, or only a divorce a mensa et thoro. Little v. Little, 63 N. C. 22.

III. PREREQUISITES TO AWARD.

A. Entitled to Relief.

Prima Facie Case.—Under this section a petitioner for divorce a vinculo is entitled to alimony pendente lite upon making an affidavit as follows: "I declare under oath, that I am the owner of certain properties is error. Dawson v. Dawson, 211 N. C. 453, 190 S. E. 749.

An application for alimony pendente lite shall not be held to a fact that the plaintiff was a faithful, dutiful and obedient wife. Lasiter v. Lasiter, 92 N. C. 130.

Where the wife's action is for divorce a mensa on the ground of cruelty, the court having found that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Dawson v. Dawson, 211 N. C. 453, 190 S. E. 749.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

In an application for alimony pendente lite under this section, it is required that the court finds the facts in order that the correctness of its ruling may be determined on appeal, and the granting of the application solely upon finding that defendant was the owner of certain properties is error. Horton v. Horton, 186 N. C. 335, 67 S. E. 490.

fees and expenses, the amount ordinarily allowed pendente net income of the defendant. Davidson v. Davidson, 189 N. C. 625, 127 S. E. 682, 683; Schonwald v. Schonwald, 173 N. C. 530, 92 S. E. 353; Griffith v. Griffith, 91 S. E. 102.

Alimony May Be a Lien.—Where alimony pendente lite has been regularly granted to the wife in her action for divorce against her nonresident husband, who has abandoned her, discretion, having been vested in the court, his property for several months with that purpose in view, dispenses with the necessity for notice. Barker v. Barker, 136 N. C. 316, 48 S. E. 733.

When pendente lite may be allowed before the return term if the complaint has been filed. Moore v. Moore, 130 N. C. 333, 41 S. E. 943.

V. THE ORDER.

A. In General.

Effect of Insufficient Finding.—An order awarding the wife alimony pendente lite may be declared erroneous on appeal for insufficiently full findings of fact therein, but not void White v. White, 179 N. C. 392, 183 S. E. 216; Moody v. Moody, 118 N. C. 926, 23 S. E. 933.

If Allegations Not Controverted.—If the allegations in the complaint are not controverted, it is sufficient if the judge finds that no answer was filed and adjudges alimony to be paid. Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 113 N. C. 433, 18 S. E. 334.

Finding of Facts.—On a motion for alimony pendente lite, duly served upon the defendant, different state of facts is shown and a receipt evidence; but a demurrer to the petition for divorce admits that the facts alleged are true and can and will be proved, unless a different state of facts is shown and a receipt ex- amount allowed, in proper instances, by the superior court judge to the wife, in her action for divorce a mensa et thoro, is addressed to his sound judgment and discretion, and not reviewable unless affronted by a wrong discretion is abused. Hennis v. Hennis, 180 N. C. 666, 105 S. E. 274; Jones v. Jones, 173 N. C. 279, 91 S. E. 960.

VI. PLEADING AND PRACTICE.

In application for alimony pendente lite, it is competent for the husband to controvert the allegations of the complaint by answer. W. T. O. N. C. 130; Easeley v. Easeley, 173 N. C. 530, 92 S. E. 353; Griffith v. Griffith, 89 N. C. 113.

Finding of Facts.—On a motion for alimony pendente lite and counsel fees in an action instituted by a wife against her husband under the provisions of this section, whether the wife is entitled to alimony is a question of law upon the facts found, and the court below must find the facts, upon request. Holloway v. Holloway, 214 N. C. 662, 663, 200 S. E. 436.

Where Husband Appeals, Injunction Should Issue.—Where the motion to reduce alimony pendente lite has been, and the hus- band appeals from such order, an injunction should be granted to stay execution against the property of the hus- band pending the appeal. Barker v. Barker, 136 N. C. 316, 48 S. E. 733.

Alimony May Be a Lien.—Where alimony pendente lite has been regularly granted to the wife in her action for divorce against her nonresident husband, who has aban- doned her, discretion, having been vested in the court, his property for several months with that purpose in view, dispenses with the necessity for notice. Barker v. Barker, 136 N. C. 316, 48 S. E. 733.

When pendente lite may be allowed before the return term if the complaint has been filed. Moore v. Moore, 130 N. C. 333, 41 S. E. 943.
mined, in favor of the wife, such wife may make application to the resident judge of the superior court, or the judge holding the superior courts of the district in which the action is brought, for an allowance for such subsistence and counsel fees, and it shall be lawful for such judge to cause the husband to secure so much of his estate or to pay so much of his earnings, or both, as may be proper, according to his condition and circumstances, for the benefit of the named said wife in the marriage, having regard also to the separate estate of the wife. Such application may be heard in or out of term, orally or upon affidavit, or either or both. No order for such allowance shall be made unless the husband shall have had five days notice thereof; but if the husband shall have abandoned his wife and left the state, or shall be in parts unknown to her, she shall be about to remove or dispose of his property for the purpose of defeating the claim of his wife, no notice shall be necessary. The order of allowance herein provided for may be modified or vacated at any time, on the application of either party or of any one interested. In actions brought under this section, the wife shall not be required to file the affidavit provided in § 50-8, but shall verify her complaint as prescribed in the case of ordinary civil actions: Provided further, that in all applications for alimony under this section it shall be competent for the husband to plead the adultery of the wife in bar of her right to such alimony, and if the wife shall deny such plea, and the issue be found against her by the judge, he shall make no order allowing her any sum whatever as alimony, or for her support, but only her reasonable counsel fees. (Rev., s. 1567; Code, s. 1292; 1919, c. 24; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 39; 1921, c. 123; 1923, c. 53; C. S. 1667.)

Cross References.—As to the criminal aspect of abandonment of family by husband, see §§ 14-322, 14-325, 14-324, 14-255. As to abandonment by husband as forfeiture of right of interest in wife’s property and estate, see § 52-21.

Editor’s Note.—Prior to the year 1872 there was no statute regulating the question of alimony without divorce and in considering this section it must be noted that this right to alimony could be granted by courts of equity. See Crews v. Crews, 175 N. C. 168, 170, 95 S. E. 149. By ch. 193, Laws 1872 the Legislature provided for this relief but in that act there was no provision for the wife to file the affidavit provided in this section, in determining the allowance of alimony during the determination of the issues involved in her suit. In 1919 however an amendment was added whereby the wife might apply for allowance for her subsistence during the pendency of her main action. Laws of 1919, ch. 24.

In considering this section therefore it must be noted that two distinct remedies are therein provided—first the action for alimony without divorce—second the application for an allowance for subsistence pendente lite. See McFetters v. McFetters, 220 N. C. 225, 26 S. E. (2d) 616.

Chapter 24—Laws of 1919 made other radical changes in this section. In addition to adding the last four sentences in toto, this amendment added the clauses allowing subsistence pendente lite to such children of the marriage, or for guilt or conduct which would constitute grounds for divorce.

Chapter 52—Laws of 1921 amended this section by allowing the wife to file the affidavit provided in this section in bar of her right to such alimony. This amendment is certainly a proper one and protects the husband who abandons his wife because of her adultery. 1 N. C. L. Rev. 294.

Abandonment of Subsequent Children (Pendente Lite).—Defendant’s contention that the provisions of this section empowering the court to allow subsistence and counsel fees pendente lite to plaintiff in her action for alimony without divorce are invalid on the ground that the husband has no right without trial by jury is untenable, since he is under duty to support plaintiff until the adjudication of issues relating to alimony, and since such alimony by the court does not form any part of the ultimate relief sought nor affect the final rights of the parties. Peete v. Peete, 216 N. C. 359, 100 S. E. (2d) 616.

This section is one solely for support. It provides a remedy for an abandoned wife to obtain support from the estate or earnings of her husband. Shore v. Shore, 220 N. C. 302, 18 S. E. (2d) 560.

Independent Suits.—This section only applies to independent suits for alimony. Reeves v. Reeves, 82 N. C. 352; Skittleharp v. Skittleharp, 130 N. C. 72, 40 S. E. 851; Johnson v. Dawson, 130 N. C. 72, 40 S. E. 851.

It may not be used by the wife as the basis of a cross action in a suit for divorce instituted by the husband. Shore v. Shore, 220 N. C. 202, 18 S. E. (2d) 353; Silver v. Silver, 230 N. C. 191, 16 S. E. (2d) 834.

The phrase “may institute an action” as used in this section is permissive and not mandatory. Miller v. Miller, 206, C. 312, 217 N. C. 172, 17 S. E. 2d 749.

Section Applies Only to Actions Instituted by Wife.—A child of divorced parents is not entitled to an allowance for subsistence pendente lite in her action against her father to force him to provide for her support, this section and § 50-15 applying only to actions instituted by the wife, and such right not existing at common law. Green v. Green, 210 N. C. 147, 185 S. E. 651.

Section 50-14, may be considered in an action under this section for determining the allowance of reasonable subsistence to the wife and children. See McFetters v. McFetters, 219 N. C. 731, 14 S. E. (2d) 833.

Affected by Prior Laws.—In a proceeding under this section, of which a judge of the superior court has jurisdiction, was made returnable at term, does not affect the jurisdiction of the judge to hear and determine the matter. Cram v. Cram, 116 N. C. 288, 21 S. E. 197.

Venue of Action.—A wife who has been forced by her husband to leave his home at night and take refuge elsewhere may acquire a separate domicile, and may sue him for alimony without divorce in the county of her residence, and the husband is not entitled to removal to the county of his residence as a matter of right under the provisions of this section and §§ 1-82, 50-3. Miller v. Miller, 205 N. C. 733, 172 S. E. 493.

The provision that a wife may institute an action for alimony without divorce in the county in which the cause of action arose does not prescribe the exclusive venue, but the wife may institute the action in the county in which she resides at the commencement of the action. Dudley v. Dudley, 219 N. C. 765, 14 S. E. (2d) 767.

What Facts Material.—Under this section the only material facts at issue in the action for alimony without divorce are the existence of the marriage relation and whether the husband abandoned the wife. Skittleharp v. Skittleharp, 130 N. C. 72, 40 S. E. 851; Green v. Green, 210 N. C. 147, 185 S. E. 651.

The effect of this section has been changed by chapter 24, Public Laws of 1919, and thereunder it is not now required that an issue involving the validity of the marriage be first determined as a preliminary matter in the action against her husband for an allowance for a reasonable subsistence and counsel fees pending the trial and final determination of the issue relating to the validity of the marriage. Barber v. Barber, 187 N. C. 335, 125 S. E. 177.

Issue of Fact for Jury.—In actions under this section, when there are issues of fact raised, they should be found by the jury. Crews v. Crews, 175 N. C. 269, 93 S. E. 149. See also, Barber v. Barber, 217 N. C. 422, 6 S. E. (2d) 204.

And the trial judge may not pass upon the issues raised in proceedings for alimony without divorce, under this section or §§ 1-82, 50-3, unless the evidence adduced in the cause arising thereunder is sufficient to raise the issue of abandonment against her husband for an allowance for a reasonable subsistence and counsel fees pending the trial and final determination of the issue of fact for the jury.

Where in his answer defendant alleged that he separated himself from his wife at her bidding after an altercation to avoid continual abuse, nagging and assaults by plaintiff, and that he had provided plaintiff and their children with a furnished house, paid bills for necessary and given them cash, week by week, and plaintiff did not provide substantial subsistence in accordance with his means in life, the answer raises issues of fact determinative of the right to relief sought, which issues must be submitted to the jury, and the trial judge erred in holding otherwise in view of the pleadings was error. Masten v. Masten, 216 N. C. 24, 3 S. E. (2d) 274.

Finding of Facts by Judge Unnecessary.—In the wife’s application for alimony without divorce, it is not required... that the judge hearing the matter shall find the facts as a basis for his judgment, as in proceedings for alimony pendente lite (sec. 50-15), although it is necessary that she have left her husband because he failed to fulfill his promise to supply certain conveniences, it is insufficient. McManus v. McManus, 191 N. C. 740, 137 S. E. 9. In such proceedings the requirement of a certain sum for alimony, for the court to allow her attorney's fees. Moore v. Moore, 185 N. C. 332, 117 S. E. 633. See also, Wright v. Wright, 216 N. C. 693, 6 S. E. (2d) 555.

Allowance for Attorney's Fees.—Chapter 24, Laws of 1919, amended this section in regard to "subsistence" of the wife pendente lite. The effect of this amendment was to reduce the allowance for subsistence as follows: in the first action for alimony, the judgment and the wife brought a separate action alleging abandonment, it was held that plaintiff's motion until the jury should determine the issue, the presumption is that the trial judge had held adversely to the plaintiff as the fact. Byerly v. Byerly, 194 N. C. 3319, 148 S. E. 550.

Effect of Prior Divorce in Another State.—No action will lie under this section where it appears that a state having jurisdiction over the parties has declared them divorced and an appeal. Bidwell v. Bidwell, 139 N. C. 402, 52 S. E. 55.

Effect of Decree of Divorce.—Where the husband's action for divorce is over a period of two years' separation was consolidated for trial with the wife's subsequent action for alimony without divorce, and the decree of divorce was granted in the first action and judgment entered against the wife for alimony which the jury awarded the wife, the appeal from the decree of divorce is the appeal from the decree of divorce. The court may determine whether it was reasonable to the husband, and whether in taking her civil remedies under the provisions of this section. State v. Falker, 182 N. C. 793, 108 S. E. 756.

Amount.—The amount allowed for the reasonable subsistence, cost and attorneys' fees to the wife in the proceedings against her husband under the provisions of this section, is within the sound discretion of the judge hearing the same and having jurisdiction thereof. Anderson v. Anderson, 183 N. C. 139, 110 S. E. 863; Cram v. Cram, 116 N. C. 288, 21 S. E. 197.

The allowance made under this section is not such a "debt" as will give the husband the right to claim his homestead or personal property exemptions. Anderson v. Anderson, 183 N. C. 139, 143, 110 S. E. 863. See also, Wright v. Wright, 216 N. C. 693, 6 S. E. (2d) 555.

§ 50-16 CH. 50. DIVORCE AND ALIMONY § 50-16

that the judge hearing the matter shall find the facts as a basis for his judgment, as in proceedings for alimony pendente lite (sec. 50-15), although it is necessary that she have left her husband because he failed to fulfill his promise to supply certain conveniences, it is insufficient. McManus v. McManus, 191 N. C. 740, 137 S. E. 9. In such proceedings the requirement of a certain sum for alimony, for the court to allow her attorney's fees. Moore v. Moore, 185 N. C. 332, 117 S. E. 633. See also, Wright v. Wright, 216 N. C. 693, 6 S. E. (2d) 555.

Allowance for Attorney's Fees.—Chapter 24, Laws of 1919, amended this section in regard to "subsistence" of the wife pendente lite. The effect of this amendment was to reduce the allowance for subsistence as follows: in the first action for alimony, the judgment and the wife brought a separate action alleging abandonment, it was held that plaintiff's motion until the jury should determine the issue, the presumption is that the trial judge had held adversely to the plaintiff as the fact. Byerly v. Byerly, 194 N. C. 3319, 148 S. E. 550.

Effect of Prior Divorce in Another State.—No action will lie under this section where it appears that a state having jurisdiction over the parties has declared them divorced and an appeal. Bidwell v. Bidwell, 139 N. C. 402, 52 S. E. 55.

Effect of Decree of Divorce.—Where the husband's action for divorce is over a period of two years' separation was consolidated for trial with the wife's subsequent action for alimony without divorce, and the decree of divorce was granted in the first action and judgment entered against the wife for alimony which the jury awarded the wife, the appeal from the decree of divorce is the appeal from the decree of divorce. The court may determine whether it was reasonable to the husband, and whether in taking her civil remedies under the provisions of this section. State v. Falker, 182 N. C. 793, 108 S. E. 756.

Amount.—The amount allowed for the reasonable subsistence, cost and attorneys' fees to the wife in the proceedings against her husband under the provisions of this section, is within the sound discretion of the judge hearing the same and having jurisdiction thereof. Anderson v. Anderson, 183 N. C. 139, 110 S. E. 863; Cram v. Cram, 116 N. C. 288, 21 S. E. 197.

The allowance made under this section is not such a "debt" as will give the husband the right to claim his homestead or personal property exemptions. Anderson v. Anderson, 183 N. C. 139, 143, 110 S. E. 863. See also, Wright v. Wright, 216 N. C. 693, 6 S. E. (2d) 555.

Allowance for Attorney's Fees.—Chapter 24, Laws of 1919, amended this section in regard to "subsistence" of the wife pendente lite. The effect of this amendment was to reduce the allowance for subsistence as follows: in the first action for alimony, the judgment and the wife brought a separate action alleging abandonment, it was held that plaintiff's motion until the jury should determine the issue, the presumption is that the trial judge had held adversely to the plaintiff as the fact. The court may determine whether it was reasonable to the husband, and whether in taking her civil remedies under the provisions of this section. State v. Falker, 182 N. C. 793, 108 S. E. 756.

nonsuit. Plaintiff's attorneys filed petition for counsel fees against defendant, and defendant's attorneys filed a "certificate and affidavit" as an affidavit in support of defendant's resistance to judgment allowing counsel fees against him, in the suit. The court had announced its intention of allowing counsel fees as of nonsuit and tendered and signed by the court. It was held that at the time the petition for counsel fees was filed, no motion for nonsuit was still pending, and after the action was still pending, and the petition amounted to a motion to have the court act upon the prayer as made by plaintiff in her complaint, and the action of the court in allowing counsel fees to plaintiff's attorneys against defendant was affirmed. McFetters v. McFetters, 219 N. C. 731, 14 S. E. (2d) 833.

Establishing of One Cause for Divorce Is Sufficient Although a Suit for Divorce Is Pending Where Three Separate Grounds for Divorce Are Alleged. —Where the complaint is for divorce and alimony, the court may proceed under any of the provisions of the statute, so long as it is made to appear that the court is not attempting to evade the provisions of the statute. Albritton v. Albritton, 210 N. C. 111, 116, 185 S. E. 762. See also, Hagedorn v. Hagedorn, 211 N. C. 175, 189 S. E. 507.

Modification or Vacation of Order.—Where, within the period prescribed by the statute, the superior court judge, having jurisdiction, has allowed the wife a reasonable subsistence, etc., to her, and, in her proceedings under the provisions of this section, the order of allowance may be amended or vacated upon motion of the plaintiff and upon proper notice of plaintiff's subsequent petition for such recovery by special appearance, the court may reopen and amend prior orders awarding subsistence to wife and children. Wright v. Wright, 216 N. C. 693, 6 S. E. (2d) 555.

Amount Due Prior Orders May Be Determined Upon Motion.—The wife may have the amount of alimony due under prior orders determined by the court upon motion in the cause. Barber v. Barber, 217 N. C. 422, 8 S. E. (2d) 204. An action is not ended by the rendition of a judgment, but is still pending until the judgment is satisfied for the purpose of motions affecting the judgment but not the merits of the cause. Barber v. Barber, 217 N. C. 422, 8 S. E. (2d) 204.

Corpus of Husband's Estate May Be Assigned to Secure Allowance.—The court is authorized to assign the corpus of the husband's property to secure the allowance, and therefore it is not necessary to file a separate suit to obtain the lien. The husband's earnings and property, tangible or intangible, in his hands or in the hands of the creditors, are chargeable with the reasonable subsistence and counsel fees which the wife obtains by her husband in an appropriate civil action against him. Whether the lien of the wife will in any event prevail as against a judgment or lien, which has priority over an attachment therein issued, it is necessary that she show that she has a lien which will not be defeated or rendered void by her husband in an appropriate civil action against him. See Crews v. Crews, 175 N. C. 168, 95 S. E. 149.

Wife's Claim Prior.—The wife's inchoate right to alimony makes her a creditor of her husband, enforceable by attachment, in case of her abandonment, which puts every one on notice of her claim and her priority over other creditors of her husband. Walton v. Walton, 178 N. C. 722, 130 S. E. 176.

Corpus of Husband's Estate May Be Assigned to Secure Allowance.—The court is authorized to assign the corpus of the husband's property to secure the allowance, and therefore it is not necessary to file a separate suit to obtain the lien. The husband's earnings and property, tangible or intangible, in his hands or in the hands of the creditors, are chargeable with the reasonable subsistence and counsel fees which the wife obtains by her husband in an appropriate civil action against him. See Crews v. Crews, 175 N. C. 168, 95 S. E. 149.

No Decree before Final Hearing.—When the application is for alimony without divorce it cannot be entered under this section as the necessity of such provisions for the wife and children will cease if the parties resume the marriage relation, and cannot properly be continued if the husband procures a divorce for the fault of the wife. Skittles Harpe v. Skittles Harpe, 130 N. C. 72, 40 S. E. 851; Hooper v. Hooper, 164 N. C. 1, 105 S. E. 64; Crews v. Crews, 175 N. C. 168, 95 S. E. 149.

Infant's Guardian May Subsequently Attack Consent Judgment.—Where the court in proceedings under this section approves a consent judgment, providing for the support and maintenance of the child, the legitimacy of the judgment may be subsequently attacked by the child's authorized guardians on the ground of irregularity and that it was obtained by the minor, or not being in the best interest of the minor. Mitchell v. Talley, 182 N. C. 683, 109 S. E. 882.

Contempt.—In Little v. Little, 203 N. C. 696, 164 S. E. 89, the defendant was held in contempt for disobedience of court, and for his refusal to pay certain weekly sums to his wife under this section.

Under a consent judgment, entered in an action by a husband against his wife where no reliefs were first provided for certain money payments in lieu of alimony by the CHAPTER 51. MARRIAGE—GENERAL

§ 51-1. Requisites of marriage; solemnization.

—The consent of a male and female person who may lawfully marry, presently to take each other as husband and wife, freely, seriously and plainly expressed by each in the presence of the other, and in the presence of an ordained minister of any religious denomination, minister authorized by his church, or of a justice of the peace, and the consequent declaration by such minister or officer that such persons are man and wife, shall be a valid and sufficient marriage: Provided, that the rite of marriage among the Society of Friends, according to a form and custom peculiar to themselves, shall not be interfered with by the provisions of this chapter: Provided further, marriages solemnized before March 9, 1909, by ministers of the gospel licensed, but not ordained, are validated from their consumption. (Rev., s. 2081; Code, s. 1812; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 2; 1908, c. 47; 1909, c. 704, s. 2; 1909, c. 897; C. S. 2493.)

§ 50-17. Alimony in real estate, writ of possession issued. — In all cases in which the court grants alimony by the assignment of real estate, the court has power to issue a writ of possession when necessary in the judgment of the court to do so. (Rev., s. 1568; Code, s. 1293; 1868-9, c. 123, s. 1; C. S. 1668.)

Title to Specific Property Remains in Husband.—Where alimony is allotted to the wife in specific property of the husband, the title to such property remains in him, and will revert at the death of the wife or upon a reconciliation. Taylor v. Taylor, 93 N. C. 418.

Chapter 51. Marriage.

§ 51-1. Requisites of marriage; solemnization.

—The consent of a male and female person who may lawfully marry, presently to take each other as husband and wife, freely, seriously and plainly expressed by each in the presence of the other, and in the presence of an ordained minister of any religious denomination, minister authorized by his church, or of a justice of the peace, and the consequent declaration by such minister or officer that such persons are man and wife, shall be a valid and sufficient marriage: Provided, that the rite of marriage among the Society of Friends, according to a form and custom peculiar to themselves, shall not be interfered with by the provisions of this chapter: Provided further, marriages solemnized before March 9, 1909, by ministers of the gospel licensed, but not ordained, are validated from their consumption. History of Marriage Laws in the State.—In State v. Bray, 35 N. C. 200, Ruffin C. J., in an interesting discussion tracing our marriage law shows that, originally in this colony, valid marriages could only be solemnized by ministers of the Church of England with the result, as we now know from the "Colonial Records," that a large part of the population were not legally married, owing to the scarcity of such ministers. See State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 650, 656, 28 S. E. 416.

In 1715, ch. 1 of the Colonial Records, reciting the inconvenience from scarcity of ministers of the established Church, authorized the Governor of the colony to solemnize marriages, then, in 1741, Chapter 1, empowered justices of the peace to perform the ceremony. In 1766 by ch. 9, the privilege was extended to ministers of the Presbyterian Church, and at last, in 1778, ch. 7, to ministers of all other denominations and marriages according to the custom of the Society of Friends were also made valid. This list, made a little broader, is now in this section. See State v. Parker, 106 N. C. 711, 11 S. E. 517; State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 650, 656, 28 S. E. 416.

Common Law Marriage Invalid.—"There is no such thing as marriage simply by consent in this State," said Ruffin, C. J., in State v. Samuel, 19 N. C. 177, and State v. Bray, 35 N. C. 200; Gaston, J., in State v. Patterson, 24 N. C. 346; Pearson, C. J., in Cooke v. Cooke, 61 N. C. 583. And the same is recognized as the law in the more recent cases of State v. Parker, 106 N. C. 711, 11 S. E. 517; State v. Melton, 120 N. C. 591, 26 S. E. 933; State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 650, 656, 28 S. E. 416.

Celebration Essential.—No celebration was required by the Cannon Law prior to the Council of Trent, nor by the Civil Law, nor by the law in Scotland, nor in many states in this Union. In some states the question has never been decided. In other states celebration before some person authorized by law is held essential, as (after some hesitation) has been held to be the common law in England. Stewart Marriage and Div., section 50; 14 Am. & Eng. Enc. 515. In the latter class is North Carolina. State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 650, 656, 28 S. E. 416.

Same—Section Must Be Followed.—While consent is essential to marriage, it is not the only essential, but it must be acknowledged in the manner and before some person prescribed by this section. State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 650, 28 S. E. 416.

When Marriage Made.—Marriage is in law complete when parties able to contract and willing to contract have actually contracted to be man and wife, in the forms and with the solemnities required by law. Constitution, § 20, n. 7; Code, s. 1809; R. C., c. 68, s. 14; 1871-2, c. 193; 1923, c. 75; 1933, c. 269, s. 1; 1939, c. 375; C. S. 2494.)

Cross References.—As to penalty for marrying female under fourteen, see § 14-319. As to what marriages may be declared void on application of either party, see § 50-4. As to provisions of law requiring affidavit of persons of sixteen years of age by whose marriage a certificate of the blanks shall be filed with the office of the register of deeds, see §§ 51-9 to 51-14 on their return, see § 51-14.

Editor's Note.—Formerly, the legal age of marriage for females was raised to sixteen and for males to eighteen. This was amended by c. 75 Public Laws, 1923, which changes the legal age of marriage for females to sixteen, thus making it lawful for a female at sixteen to marry, but making it unlawful for a female under sixteen and over fourteen to marry, unless a special license shall be issued upon filing with the register of deeds a written consent to such marriage by one of the parents of the female or by one standing in loco parentis. Since the amendment provides for the marriage of female minors under fourteen and under sixteen, it looks as if the Legislature did not intend to change the requirement of consent to marriage provided that the marriage of a female under fourteen and any male shall be void. See 1 N. C. L. R. 295.

Public Laws, 1933, c. 369, § 13, 369, 1933, at the end of this section, relating to filing certificates by those marrying in another state. The 1939 amendment inserted the second proviso.

Annulled.—As to annulment under the 1939 amendment, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 353.

Effect of Lack of Special License.—The marriage of a female between the ages of fourteen and sixteen without the written consent of her parent and without the special license required by this section is not void but voidable.

tion by striking out the words "Croatian Indians" wherever those words occurred in the section, and inserting in lieu thereof the words "Indians of Robeson County." Chapter VI, Sec. 31.

The effect of the proviso is to be construed as a valid marriage, and to have the same force and effect as if the parties had been married at the time the marriage was contracted, and to have the same legal consequences as if the parties had been married in accordance with the provisions of the section. Baity v. Cranfill, 91 N. C. 293, 300.

Same.—Power.—The intention of the Legislature was to confine its operation to cases where a man and woman had been married under an invalid act and as not to operate as a posthumous bastardizing of children born to them. Baity v. Cranfill, 91 N. C. 293, 297.

Same.—What Must Be Proven.—To bring a case of unlawful marriage into the last proviso to this section, it must be shown not only that one of the parties is dead but that the marriage was unlawful. State v. Whitford, 106 N. C. 711, 11 S. E. 317.

The Proviso as to Death of Party.—The last proviso is broad and comprehensive in its operation, and it applies to marriages contracted before its enactment as well as those contracted thereafter. Baity v. Cranfill, 91 N. C. 293, 297.

Section Expresses Public Policy.—During the existence of slavery and the practice of polygamy, marriages between slaves, and marriage prohibited by positive law when had between whites and free persons of color, which are voidable by positive law, and voidable by virtue of the provisions of this section, are voidable by sentence of separation, and until such sentence, it is deemed valid and subsisting. Smith v. Morehead, 86 N. C. 537.

acknowledgment of assent, and to state the time when it began. Woodard v. Blue, 103 N. C. 109, 114, 9 S. E. 492.

Continuing Cohabitation Supplies Consent.—The necessariness of consent to marriage thereto is supplied under this section by continuing cohabitation. Battis v. Avery, 140 N.
C. 184, 186, 52 S. E. 584; State v. Whitford, 86 N. C. 636, 639.

By force of the original consent of the parties while they were being kept a boy, he became free, and by the performance of what was required by the statute, they became to all intents and purposes man and wife. State v. Harris, Same.—Old Rule Adopted.—Our statute of 1866, owing to the peculiar status of slave marriages, adopted as to such marriages the rule which has long prevailed in Scotland, New England and several other states (and which was the rule of the civil law and of the Canon law till the Council of Trent), that consent, followed by cohabitation, constitutes a legal marriage. State v. Melton, 120 N. C. 591, 595,

26 S. E. 931.

Provision for Recordation.—Section 6 made the failure to have the acknowledgment recorded, in a specified time, a misdemeanor punishable at the discretion of the court. State
v. Whitford, 86 N. C. 636, 638.

Same.—Directory Only.—The provision as to acknowledgment was considered to be directory, so that a failure to comply with it, though a misdemeanor, did not affect the validity of the marriage. Battis v. Avery, 140 N. C. 184, 186, 52 S. E. 584.

Same.—Noncompliance Does Not Effect Marriage. — It has been held that an entry of the acknowledgment is not essential to the consummation of the marriage, and that a marriage constituted by operation of the act can not be avoided by a failure to obtain an acknowledgment thereto.

State v. Adams, 65 N. C. 537, 539; State v. Whitford, 86 N. C. 636, 639.

Art. 2. Marriage License.

§ 81-6. Solemnization without license unlawful.

—No minister or officer shall perform a ceremony of marriage between any two persons, or shall declare them to be man and wife, until there is delivered to him a license for the marriage of the persons in which the marriage is intended to take place, or by his lawful deputy. (Rev., s.
2086; Code, s. 1813; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 4; C. S. 2498.)

Actual Delivery Required.—This section requires an actual delivery, and constructive delivery will not suffice.
So performance of the ceremony by a justice after a telephone conversation with the applicant is not sufficient for purposes of this section. Wooley v. Bruton, 184 N. C. 438, 114 S. E. 628.

Marriage without License Void.—A marriage percurto will not invalidate a marriage otherwise good. State v. Parker, 106 N. C. 711, 11 S. E. 517; Mag-nett v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 71, 16 S. E. 919; Wooley v. Bruton, 184 N. C. 438, 114 S. E. 628.

Effect of Illegal License.—A marriage is not invalid because solemnized under an illegal license. Maggett v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 71, 16 S. E. 919; Wooley v. Bruton, 184 N. C.
438, 114 S. E. 628.

Same.—Officer Penalized.—The only effect of marrying a couple without a legal license is to subject the officer or minister to the penalty of $200 prescribed by the next section. State v. Parker, 106 N. C. 711, 11 S. E. 517; State v.
Robbins, 28 N. C. 23; Maggett v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 71, 74,
16 S. E. 919.

§ 81-7. Penalty for solemnizing without license.

—Every minister or officer who marries any couple without a license being first delivered to him, as required by law, or after the expiration of such license, or who fails to return such license and under whose custody and control he or she is, is delivered to him, and such written consent shall be filed and preserved by the register.
When it appears to the register of deeds that it is probable there is a legal impediment to the marriage of any person for whom a license is applied, he has power to administer to the person so applying an oath touching the legal capacity of said parties to contract a marriage. (Rev., s.
2088; Code, s. 1814; 1887, c. 331; 1871-2, c. 193,
s. 5; C. S. 2500.)

Cross Reference.—As to penalty for issuing license unlawful, see § 51-7.

Editor's Note.—Section 51-17 which provides the penalty for violation of the provisions of this section should be read along with this section and the annotations under the two sections should be considered together.

The two sections are in pari materia and should be construed together. Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 297, 72 S.
490: Bowdler v. Waugh.—Where an infant resides, or, if he or she resides at a school, of the person by whom said infant was placed at school, and under whose custody and control he or she is, delivered to him, and such written consent shall be filed and preserved by the register.

§ 81-9. Health certificates required of applicants for licenses.

—No license to marry shall be issued by the register of deeds of any county to a male or female applicant therefor except upon the following conditions: The said applicant shall present to the register of deeds a certificate executed within thirty days from the date of presentation showing that, by the usual methods of examination made by a regularly licensed physician, no evidence of any venereal disease in the infectious or communicable stage was found. Such certificate shall be accompanied by the original report from a laboratory approved by the state board of Health for the Wassermann or any other approved test of this nature is negative, such tests to have been made within thirty days of the time application for license is made.

Furthermore, such certificate shall state that, by the usual methods of examination made by a regularly licensed physician, no evidence of tuberculosi in the infectious or communicable stage was found.

And, furthermore, such certificate shall state that, by the usual methods of examination made by a regularly licensed physician, the applicant was found to be not subject to epileptic attacks, an § 51-10 CH. 51. MARRIAGE—LICENSE

§ 51-10. Exceptions to foregoing section.—Exceptions to the above section are permissible only under the conditions hereinafter named:

When the medical history and physical examination of either applicant shows syphilis to be present, or when the laboratory test for syphilis is positive, and provided both applicants are informed that syphilitic infection is present, certificate may be issued and license granted only in the following instances: (1) When the applicant with syphilis has been under continuous weekly treatment with adequate dosage of standard arsenical and bismuth preparation given by a regularly licensed physician for a period of one year, and when such applicant also signs an agreement to continue such treatment until cured or probated. It is specified that the condition stipulated in subparagraph one above may be waived in instances in which the female applicant is pregnant and it is necessary to protect the legitimacy of the offspring. In such a case the certificate may be granted and license issued provided the applicant with syphilis signs an agreement to take adequate, approved treatment until cured or probated. (2) When the female applicant is past the childbearing age, and provided the applicant with syphilis signs an agreement to take adequate treatment until cured or probated. (1939, c. 314, s. 2.)

§ 51-11. Who may execute certificate; form; filing copy with department of health.—Such certificate, upon the basis of which license to marry is granted, shall be executed by any reputable physician licensed to practice in the state of North Carolina, whose duty it shall be to examine such applicants and to issue such certificate in conformity with the requirements of §§ 51-9 to 51-14. If applicants are unable to pay for such examination, certificate without charge may be obtained from the local health officer or county physician.

Such certificate form shall be designed by the state board of health and shall be obtained by the register of deeds from the state board of health upon request.

Every examining physician under the provision of §§ 51-9 to 51-14 shall make and immediately file with the department of health of North Carolina a true copy of such certificate. (1939, c. 314, s. 3.)

§ 51-12. Eugenic sterilization for persons adjudged of unsound mind, etc.—If either applicant has been adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction as being an idiot, imbecile, mental defective, subject to epileptic attacks, or of unsound mind, unless the applicant previously adjudged of unsound mind has been adjudged of sound mind by a court of competent jurisdiction, upon the recommendation of one or more practicing physicians who specialize in psychiatry, license to marry shall be granted only after eugenic sterilization has been performed on the applicant in accordance with state laws governing eugenic sterilization. (1939, c. 314, s. 3; 1943, c. 641.)

The 1943 amendment inserted the provision relating to being adjudged of sound mind.

§ 51-13. Penalty for violation.—Any violation of §§ 51-9 to 51-14, or any part thereof, by any person charged herein with the responsibility of its enforcement shall be declared a misdemeanor and shall be punishable by a fine of fifty dollars ($50.00) or imprisonment for thirty days, or both. (1939, c. 314, s. 3.)

§ 51-14. Compliance with requirement by residents who marry outside of state.—Residents of the state who are married outside of North Carolina, shall, within sixty days after they return to said state, file with the register of deeds of the county in which they live, a certificate showing that they have conformed to the requirements of the examination required by §§ 51-9 to 51-14 for those who are married in the state. (1939, c. 314, s. 2.)

§ 51-15. Obtaining license by false representation—misdemeanor.—If any person shall obtain a marriage license for the marriage of persons under the age of eighteen years by misrepresentation or false pretenses, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3371; 1885, c. 346; C. S. 2501.)

Cross Reference.—As to false pretenses generally, see § 14-100 et seq.

§ 51-16. Form of license.—License shall be in the following or some equivalent form:

To any ordained minister of any religious denomination, minister authorized by his church, or to any justice of the peace for........county: A. B. having applied to me for a license for the marriage of C. D. (the name of the man to be written in full) of (here state his residence), aged........years (race, as the case may be), the son of (here state the father and mother, if known; state whether they are living or dead, and their residence, if known; if any of these facts are not known, so state), and E. F. (write the name of the woman in full) of (here state her residence), aged........years (race, as the case may be), the daughter of (here state names and residences of the parents, if known, as is required above with respect to the man). (If either of the parties is under eighteen years of age, the license shall here contain the following:) And the written consent of G. H., father (or mother, etc., as the case may be) to the proposed marriage having been filed with me, and there being no legal impediment to the said marriage known to me, you are hereby authorized, at any time within sixty days from the date hereof, to celebrate the proposed marriage at any place within the said county where the license is required, within sixty days after you shall have celebrated such marriage, to return this license to me at my office with your signature subscribed to the certificate under this license, and with the blanks therein filled according to the facts, under penalty of forfeiting two hundred dollars to the use of any person who shall sue for the same.

Issued this ... day of ... 19... L. M.,

Register of Deeds of ... County

Every register of deeds shall designate in every marriage license issued the race of the person proposing to marry by inserting in the blank after the word "race" the words "white," "colored" or "Indian," as the case may be. The certificate shall be filled up and signed by the minister or officer celebrating the marriage, and also be signed by one or more witnesses present at the marriage, who shall add to their names their place of residence, as follows:

... and

... N. C. are ordained and authorized minister of (here state to what religious denomination, or justice of the peace, as the case may be), united in matrimony (here name the parties), the parties licensed above, on the ... day of ...

... at the house of P. R., in (here name the town, if any, the township and county), according to law.

Witness present at the marriage: ... N. O. S. T., of (here give residence).

(Rev., 2089; Code, s. 1815; 1899, c. 541. ss. 1, 2; 1871-2, c. 193. s. 6; 1909, c. 704, s. 3; 1917, c. 38; C. S. 2502.)

Local Modification.—Bladen: 1941, c. 95.

License Not Issued Until Filled Out.—A blank marriage license, though signed by the register of deeds, is not issued until filled up and handed to the person who is to be married, or to some one for him, and, if at the time of such issuance the register has become functus officio, the failure to record it does not render him liable to the penalty imposed by sections 51-18 and 51-19, for failure to record the substance of each marriage license issued. Maggett v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 71, 16 S. E. 919.

§ 51-17. Penalty for issuing license unlawfully.

Every register of deeds who knowingly or without reasonable inquiry, personally or by deputy, issues a license for the marriage of any two persons to which there is any lawful impediment, or where either of the persons is under the age of eighteen years, without the consent required by law, shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any parent, guardian, or other person standing in loco parentis, who sues for the same. (Rev., s. 2090; Code, s. 1816; 1895, c. 387; 1901, c. 722; R. C., c. 68, s. 13; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 7; C. S. 2503.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—In connection with this section, see § 51-8 and the editor's note thereto.

Object of Section.—This section is a wise and beneficent one, the object being to protect the parties themselves, and the community as well, from hasty and ill-advised marriages, made without the consent of their parents or guardians or those having properly the care over them. Julian v. Daniels, 175 N. C. 346, 350, 91 S. E. 1024.

It would seem that "reasonable inquiry" involves at least an inquiry made of, or information furnished by, some person known to the register to be reliable, or, if unknown, identical and reliable, by some person known to the register. Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312, 317, 45 S. E. 662; Furr v. Johnson, 140 N. C. 157, 52 S. E. 664; Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 298, 72 S. E. 917.

Same—Register Not Required to Examine Witnesses.—Section 51-8 does not require that the register shall make inquiry by examination of the witnesses in such cases under oath, but merely declares that he shall have "the power to examine as issuing a marriage license the register should not be excused upon a less degree of care. Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312, 317, 45 S. E. 662; Furr v. Johnson, 140 N. C. 157, 52 S. E. 664; Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 298, 72 S. E. 917.

II. DUTIES OF REGISTER.

Duty Highly Important.—To all persons who believe that the welfare of human society depends largely upon the family relation, and that the contract of marriage should be defended by the establishment just laws for the purpose of guarding against legal impediments and to prevent the marriage of those under a certain age, when the parties are presumed to be of sound mind, the duty of each register of deeds, the officer in our State charged with the duty of issuing marriage licenses, seems most important and most solemn. That officer must exercise his duties carefully and conscientiously, and not as a mere matter of form. Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312, 315, 45 S. E. 662; Agent v. Willis, 124 N. C. 29, 32 S. E. 322; Julian v. Daniels, 175 N. C. 346, 350, 91 S. E. 1024.

Duty Not Delegated.—A register of deeds can not delegate to another the duty of making the required reasonable inquiry into the legal competency of persons applying for a license to marry. Cole v. Lewis, 91 N. C. 21, 24.

Delivery to Third Party Prohibited.—This section prohibits the register from permitting the completed license to pass from the office and beyond his control into the hands of any person, except to the person to whom the register has issued a license. Cole v. Lewis, 91 N. C. 21.

Inquiry by Deputy Will Not Excuse Register.—If a party to a marriage is under the age authorized by law, the register can not excuse himself from the duty of making the reasonable inquiry required by law or agent made proper inquiry, if he did not make the inquiry himself. The trust is personal to him. Maggett v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 71, 16 S. E. 919.

III. DUTY REQUIRED.

Reasonable Inquiry.—The register violating these requirements is not liable to the penalty when he has made reasonable inquiry and has been deceived, without laches on his part. Agent v. Willis, 124 N. C. 29, 32 S. E. 322; Cole v. Laws, 104 N. C. 681, 665, 10 S. E. 172; Williams v. Hodges, 101 N. C. 300, 303, 7 S. E. 786; Laney v. Mackey, 144 N. C. 630, 633, 57 S. E. 386; Gray v. Lents, 173 N. C. 346, 91 S. E. 1024.

Same—Not a Mere Formality.—The requirement of reasonable inquiry is not merely a formal matter, which is met by taking the oaths of the husband or other parties unknown to the register, but it is expressive of a sound principle of public policy designed to protect immature persons from hasty and ill-advised marriages, made without the consent of their parents or guardians or those having properly the care over them. Julian v. Daniels, 175 N. C. 346, 350, 91 S. E. 1024.

Same—What Required.—By reasonable inquiry is meant such inquiry as renders it probable that no impediment to the marriage exists. Bowles v. Dickson, 99 N. C. 690, 69 S. E. 479.

Same—Register Not Required to Examine Witnesses.—Section 51-8 does not require that the register shall make inquiry by examination of the witnesses in such cases under oath, but merely declares that he shall have "the power to do so." His using, or failing to use, such discretionary power is merely a circumstance to be considered by the jury. Furr v. Johnson, 140 N. C. 157, 52 S. E. 664; Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 298, 72 S. E. 917.

Same—Sworn Statement of Stranger Insufficient.—It is not sufficient that he takes the sworn statement of the parties or their friends not known to him. Snipes v. Trotter, 142 N. C. 102, 150 S. E. 619, citing Gray v. Lents, 173 N. C. 346, 91 S. E. 1024.

Same—Question for Jury.—See "Feeding and Practice," this note.

Illustrations of Reasonable Inquiry.—When a man of good character and reliable applied for a license, and produced to the register a written statement purporting to give the age and residence of the parents, and the person producing the statement said it was true, though no name was signed to it, it was held that the register had made such inquiry as was required of him, and was not liable for the penalty. Bowles...
Register Not Indictable.—The issuing of a marriage license is not an indictable offense, unless the illegal act be done mala fide. State v. Snuggs, 85 N. C. 542.

Consent by a register of deeds in violation of the section is not an action for a penalty, against a register of deeds and the sureties, if brought in the wrong county, it is for the amount of the bond ($10,000) to be discharged upon payment of $200, and the Superior Court has jurisdiction. Joyner v. Roberts, 114 N. C. 377, 116 S. E. 511. Where the question should be submitted to the jury, and a judgment as of nonsuit thereon is erroneously entered. Lemmons v. Sigman, 181 N. C. 238, 106 S. E. 764.

Reasonable Inquiry Question of Law When Facts Admitted.—If the facts are admitted, it is the duty of the court to instruct the jury whether they are sufficient to constitute reasonable inquiry; if they are in controversy, it is the duty of the court to instruct the jury that certain facts to be determined from the evidence do or do not constitute reasonable inquiry. Spencer v. Saunders, 159 N. C. 183, 126 S. E. 430.

Evidence.—In a civil suit against a register evidence of a statement made by the husband in a criminal action is not admissible. Snipes v. Wood, 179 N. C. 249, 102 S. E. 619.

Proof of the officer's failure to administer the oath to the applicant for a marriage license is admissible to show a lack of reasonable inquiry. Laney v. Mackey, 144 N. C. 570, 52 S. E. 664; Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 533, 45 S. E. 662; Snipes v. Wood, 179 N. C. 549, 95 S. E. 907.

Same—Instructions to Jury.—If the facts are admitted, it is the duty of the court to instruct the jury whether they are sufficient to constitute reasonable inquiry; if they are in controversy, it is the duty of the court to instruct the jury that certain facts to be determined from the evidence do or do not constitute reasonable inquiry. Joyner v. Roberts, 114 N. C. 389, 19 S. E. 648; Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 533, 45 S. E. 662; Snipes v. Wood, 179 N. C. 549, 95 S. E. 907.

Presumption as to Time of Issuance.—The presumption is that a marriage license, signed by a register of deeds, was issued during his term of office, unless the contrary is on the party asserting it. Maggett v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 71, 16 S. E. 919.

Burden of Proof.—If the burden of proof is upon the plaintiff to show that the officer issued the license when he knew of the impediment to the marriage, or that it was forbidden by law, when he had not made reasonable inquiry. Furr v. Johnson, 157 N. C. 525, 52 S. E. 664; Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312, 45 S. E. 662; Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 298, 72 S. E. 970.

Question of Consent to Reasonable Inquiry. —Where there is a conflict of evidence, whether there has been "reasonable inquiry" to be submitted to the jury upon all the evidence under proper instructions. Joyner v. Roberts, 114 N. C. 389, 19 S. E. 648; Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 533, 45 S. E. 662; Snipes v. Wood, 179 N. C. 549, 95 S. E. 907.

Same—No Evidence.—In a civil suit against a register evidence of a statement made by the husband in a criminal action is not admissible. Snipes v. Wood, 179 N. C. 249, 102 S. E. 619.

§ 51-18. Record of licenses and returns; original filed.—Every register of deeds shall keep a book (which shall be furnished on demand by the board of county commissioners of his county) on the first page of which shall be written or printed:

Record of marriage licenses and of returns thereto, for the county of ___________, from the ______ day of ___________, 19__, to the ______ day of ___________, 19__, both inclusive.

In said book shall be entered alphabetically, according to the names of the proposed husbands, the substance of each marriage license and the return thereon, as follows. The book shall be divided by lines with columns, each of which shall be properly headed, and in the first of two columns beginning on the left, shall be put the date of issue of the license; in the second, the name in full of the intended husband, with his residence; in the third, his age; in the fourth, his race and color; in the fifth, the name in full of the intended wife, with her residence; in the sixth, her age; in the seventh, her race and color; in the eighth, the name and title of the minister or officer who celebrated the marriage; in the ninth, the day of the celebration; in the tenth, the place of the celebration; in the eleventh, the names of all or at least three of the witnesses who signed the return as present at the celebration. The original license and return thereto shall be filed and preserved. (Rev. s. 2091; Code, s. 1815; 1809, c. 541, s. 3; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 9; C. S. 2504.)

§ 51-19. Penalty for failure to record.—Any register of deeds who fails to record, in the manner above prescribed, the substance of any marriage license issued by him, or who fails to record, in the manner above prescribed, the substance of any return made thereon, within ten days after such return made, shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any person who sues for the same. (Rev., s. 2092; Code, s. 1819; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 10; C. S. 2505.)

Legislature May Relieve.—An act of the Legislature relieving the register from the penalty for failure to record passed after an action was brought to recover the penalty, but before judgment, is constitutional. Bray v. Williams, 137 N. C. 387, 49 S. E. 887.

52-11. [Repealed.]
52-12. Contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate.
52-13. Contracts between husband and wife generally; releases.

Art. 1. Powers and Liabilities of Married Women.

§ 52-1. Property of married woman secured to her.—The real and personal property of any female in this state, acquired before marriage, and all property, real and personal, to which she may, after marriage, become in any manner entitled, shall be and remain the sole and separate estate of the female, and shall not be liable for any debts, obligations or engagements of her husband, and may be devised and bequeathed, and, with the written assent of her husband, conveyed by her as if she were unmarried. (Rev., s. 2093; Const., Art. X, s. 6; C. S. 2506.)

Cross References.—See also the North Carolina Constitution, Article X, section 6. As to conveyances by husband and wife, see § 39-9 et seq. As to capacity to dispose of property by will, see § 52-10. As to curtesy, see § 52-16. As to dower, see § 30-4 et seq.

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of the history of this legislation and of many of the earlier cases construing it, see Ball v. Patrun, 140 N. C. 83, 52 S. E. 410. For a discussion of the early law regarding married women's contracts, see the notes under the following section. It will be noted that this section is identical with the constitution, art. 10, sec. 6 and the annotations under that section should be referred to.

Common Law Rules.—At common law, marriage was an absolute gift to the husband of all the personal property of the wife in possession, and the same became his property instantly on the marriage; and it was a qualified gift of all the personal property adversely held, and all the choses in action of the wife, which became the husband's absolutely upon his election of the same into possession, during the coverture, with the right in case the wife die to administer on her estate, and in that character to collect, and after payment of her debts to hold the surplus to his own use, without obligation to distribute to any one. O'Connor v. Harris, 81 N. C. 279, 282.

It was also competent to the husband having choses in action "jure mariti" to assign the same for value, or as a security for his debts, and the assignment availed to pass the right to the assignee to collect and have the proceeds as his absolute property, if collected during coverture, just as the husband might have done if he had kept and reduced it into possession himself. O'Connor v. Harris, 81 N. C. 279, 282.

When Provision Took Effect.—The Constitution of 1868, Article X, section 8, provided that it shall take effect for purchases and for real estate held after the adoption thereof as required by law, is a sufficient written assent to make the deed valid. Freeman v. Lide, 176 N. C. 434, 435, 97 S. E. 402, and cases cited.

Power of Legislature.—The Legislature may abolish the exception in favor of the wife when she holds a claim against her husband, the statute of limitation will run against a note thus made in favor of her. courier v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 17, 93 S. E. 385.

Conveyances of Personalty.—A married woman has the absolute power to dispose of her personalty by will, and she can convey it with the written assent of her husband; which does not restrict her freedom in the disposition of her personalty, as conveyances apply only to realty. Everett v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 17, 93 S. E. 385.

§ 52-2. Capacity to contract.—Subject to the provisions of § 52-12, regulating contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate, every married woman is authorized to contract in the same manner and with the same effect as if she were unmarried, although in the Constitution or by any statute. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784; Dail, 170 N. C. 406, 409, 87 S. E. 126.

Conveyances of PERSONALTY.—A married woman has the absolute power to dispose of her personalty by will, and she can convey it with the written assent of her husband; which does not restrict her freedom in the disposition of her personalty, as conveyances apply only to realty. Everett v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 17, 93 S. E. 385.
privacy examination as to the execution of the same taken and certified as now required by law. (Rev., s. 2094; Code, s. 1826; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 17; 1911, c. 109; C. S. 2507.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Section Constitutional.—This section is constitutional and valid. Warren v. Dial, 170 N. C. 406, 87 S. E. 126.

The effect of this section is to take married women out of the classification which the law recognized, prior to its enactment, and to make them, with respect to capacity to contract, sui juris. This section is held to mean what it plainly says, that, except as to contracts with her husband, in which the forms required by sec. 52-12, must still be observed, and except in conveyances of her real estate, in which case her privy examination must still be taken and her husband's written consent had, a married woman can now make any "all contracts so far as to affect her real and personal property, in the same manner and to the same effect as if she were unmarried." Warren v. Dial, 170 N. C. 406, 87 S. E. 126; Lipinsky v. Revell, 167 N. C. 508, 83 S. E. 820; Everett v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 18, 93 S. E. 385.

The effect of this section is to take married women out of the classification which the law recognized, prior to its enactment, and to make them, with respect to capacity to contract, sui juris. This section is held to mean what it plainly says, that, except as to contracts with her husband, in which the forms required by sec. 52-12, must still be observed, and except in conveyances of her real estate, in which case her privy examination must still be taken and her husband's written consent had, a married woman can now make any "all contracts so far as to affect her real and personal property, in the same manner and to the same effect as if she were unmarried." Warren v. Dial, 170 N. C. 406, 87 S. E. 126; Lipinsky v. Revell, 167 N. C. 508, 83 S. E. 820; Everett v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 18, 93 S. E. 385.

II. LIABILITIES INCURRED.

Liable for Breach of Contract.—When the Legislature authorized a married woman "to contract and deal so as to affect her real and personal property in the same manner, and with the same effect, as if she were unmarried," it authorized contracts for breach of which they would be personally liable as if they had remained unmarried. Everett v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 18, 93 S. E. 385.

Same—Contract to Convey Realty.—On a breach of a married woman's contract to convey her land, she may be held liable in damages as if she had remained unmarried. Everett v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 18, 93 S. E. 385.

Same-No Specific Performance.—This section means that when a married woman makes an executory contract to convey land and her privy examination is not taken she can only be held in damages, and that specific performance may not, as formerly, be enforced. Warren v. Dial, 170 N. C. 406, 87 S. E. 126.

Where Husband Is Alien.—A married woman whose husband is an alien and never visited or resided in the United States is personally liable on her contracts. Levi v. Marsha, 156 N. C. 591, 72 S. E. 832.

Liable When Partner or Surety.—Since the passage of the Martin Act, a wife has been held liable jointly and severally on every contract or obligation in which the husband was a partner or surety. Bristol Grocery Co. v. Bails, 177 N. C. 298, 299, 98 S. E. 832.

A wife by becoming surety on the obligations of her husband creates a direct and separate liability to the creditor of the husband which makes her personally responsible, under this section, without requiring the statutory formalities.

ties necessary to the validity of certain contracts made directly between the wife and her husband. Royal v. Southerland, 168 N. C. 405, 84 S. E. 708.

Assessments on Stock.—In Robinson v.Torrentine, 59 Fed. 554, construing the former provisions of this section, it was held that the purchase of stock by a married woman was not a "contract" within the terms of the section and that she was not liable upon an assessment although the stock was purchased without the written consent of her husband.

Husband Still LIABLE for Funeral Expenses.—The common-law rule that the husband is liable for the funeral expenses of his deceased wife and for "necessaries" during their married life is not affected by this section, when there is nothing to show an express promise to pay on her part, or an agreement or articles on her part evidencing circumstances as to make her exclusively or primarily liable according to the equitable principles of indebitatus assumpsit. Bowen v. Daugherty, 168 N. C. 242, 84 S. E. 265.

THE ACTION FOR BREACH.

Inability to Get Husband's Consent Immortal.—The rule that a married woman is liable in damages for failure to specifically perform her contract to convey her lands under the Martin Act may not be successfully defeated upon the ground that she may be unable to get the consent of her husband to the conveyance, in the absence of any bad faith. Warren v. Dail, 170 N. C. 406, 87 S. E. 125.

Wife May Claim Personal Property Exemption.—Under the provisions of Article X, section 1 of our Constitution, and of this section, the wife may claim her personal property exemption from the assets of a partnership with her husband when the validity of the partnership contract is not questioned and there has been a conveyance, a lease, or a chattel real, to run for more than three years, though the deed was held to the other therefrom. Bristol Grocery Co. v. Bails, 277 N. C. 181, 129 S. E. 2d 268.

Estoppel of Wife.—As to the doctrine of title by estoppel applying to a married woman under the provisions of this section, who has joined with her husband in a deed to his lands with warranty, the wife's interest not appearing on the face of the instrument, but which title the wife afterwards acquired, Quære? Builders, etc., Co. v. Joyner, 182 N. C. 518, 169 S. E. 259.

Judgment Enforced by Execution.—In Royal v. Southerland, 168 N. C. 405, 81 S. E. 708, it was held that under this section a judgment could be rendered against a wife upon her obligation as surety to her husband. Thrash v. Ould, 172 N. C. 726, 730, 90 S. E. 915.

Where Specific Performance May Be Declined.—In Royal v. Southerland, 168 N. C. 405, 81 S. E. 708, it was held that under this section a judgment could be rendered against a married woman upon her contracts and enforced by execution, contrary to the provisions of the Martin Act where same are not regulated by the Martin Act and her husband was charged her property with payment thereof. Thrash v. Ould, 172 N. C. 726, 730, 90 S. E. 915.

Where Specific Performance May Be Declined.—Since the wife's contract was executory and not complete, she and her husband, and she is liable in damages for a breach thereof. The same may be decreed where the husband has subscribed his name under seal to her deed. Joiner v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 6 P. Supp. 101.

§ 52-3. Capacity to draw checks.—Bank deposits made by or in the name of a married woman shall be paid only to her or on her order, and her receipt or acquittance shall be valid in law to fully discharge the bank from any and all liability on account thereof. (Rev. c. 2095; 1891, c. 221; 1893, c. 344; C. S. 2552.)

§ 52-4. Conveyance or lease of wife's land requires husband's joinder.—No lease or agreement for a lease or sublease or assignment by any married woman of her lands or tenements, or chattels real, to run for more than three years, or to bere the duration more than six months after its execution, or any conveyance of any freehold estate in her real property, shall be valid, unless the same be executed by her and her husband, and proved or acknowledged by them, and her free consent thereto appear on her examination separate from her husband, as is now or may hereafter be required by law in the probate of deeds of females covert. (Rev. c. 2096; Code, c. 1831; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 26; C. S. 2508.)

Cross References.—As to the formalities necessary in married woman's conveyances, see § 39-7 et seq. As to exceptions, see §§ 35-12, 52-5, and 52-6. As to title to swamp lands reclaimed vested in board of education by written instrument without privacy examination of fema covert, see § 151-81.

Written Assent of Husband Required.—The power of a married woman to convey her property is regulated by the Constitution, Art. X, sec. 6, and must be exercised by the written assent of her husband. Walton v. Bristol, 125 N. C. 419, 34 S. E. 544; Stallings v. Walker, 176 N. C. 321, 97 S. E. 25; Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176 N. C. 123, 96 S. E. 6.

Same—How Expressed.—Her assent need not be by deed, for he has nothing to convey; and his joining in with her in the instrument is sufficient. Jones v. Craigmiles, 114 N. C. 613, 19 S. E. 638, and cases there cited. His signing the instrument merely as a witness is a sufficient "written assent." Jennings v. Hinton, 126 N. C. 48, 35 S. E. 187. A letter of agreement is sufficient. Brinkley v. Brinkley, 126 N. C. 393, 35 S. E. 631; Stallings v. Walker, 176 N. C. 321, 324, 97 S. E. 25.

Husband's Indorsement Does Not Validate Deed. — The written assent of the husband indorsed on the deed does not meet with the constitutional and statutory requirements necessary for her to make a valid conveyance. Council v. Prine, 158 N. C. 152, 71 S. E. 494; Jackson v. Beard, 163 N. C. 105, 107, 78 S. E. 6.

Privy Examination Required.—In order to convey a married woman's separate real estate or fix a charge upon it, her privy examination is required. Council v. Bridgen, 153 N. C. 445, 69 S. E. 494; Jackson v. Beard, 162 N. C. 105, 107, 78 S. E. 6.

Deed Made in Foreign State.—A deed executed by a married woman in another state, according to the laws of such state, for realty in this State, without privacy examination of the wife, as required by section 39-7, is void. Smith v. Ingram, 130 N. C. 100, 40 S. E. 984.

Conveyance as Executrix—It is not necessary that a married woman should be privily examined as to the execution of a former husband, and when she was a feme sole. Darden v. Ing. v. Neuse, etc., Steamboat Co., 107 N. C. 437, 12 S. E. 46.

Action for Damages for Breach.—A married woman may be held in damages for the breach of her contract in the lease of her separate lands for more than three years, although her husband has not joined therein or given her written consent thereto. Miles v. Walker, 179 N. C. 479, 102 S. E. 884.

The opinion in this case draws the distinction between valid for specific performance, or void under the provisions of the Martin Act, and where the husband was not joined in the conveyance as required by the section, and the judgment is void. (Rev. c. 2095; 1891, c. 221; 1893, c. 344; C. S. 2552.)

Cross References.—As to alternative method by which wife of lunatic may convey real estate, see § 35-12.

Editor's Note on Separation.—Since separation agreements have been rare in this State, and, for a long period of time, they were declared absolutely void in North Carolina, as they were in England. This was the conclusion reached in Collins v. Collins, 112 N. C. 410, 16 Sou. 292. It was based upon the intention expressed in the Code to regard man and wife as one, upon the decisions of the English courts regarding the marital bond as inseparable, and upon the general grounds of public policy in preserving the marriage bond.

After the case of Collins v. Collins, supra, decided in 1866, and before the cases involving separation agreements, decided twenty years later, Sparks v. Sparks (1886) 94 N.
C. 527, the legislature had enacted, in furtherance of the constitutional provisions guaranteeing married women's rights, this section.

In the Spinks case, supra, on page 532 the court says: "The legislative provision, perhaps, in furtherance of the constitutional provision, by which the property of the woman, on her marriage, is secured to her as separate estate, implies a possible legal separation of the parties, by voluntary or judicial agreements, and defines her condition and rights resulting therefrom."

Later in Smith v. King, (1890) 107 N. C. 271, 12 S. E. 57, the court held that the separation deeds are not regarded with favor in North Carolina. In that case the deed had been rescinded by a subsequent cohabitation, and therefore the court did not decide what the effect of that deed would have been in such cases.

In the case of Cram (1895) 116 N. C. 288, 21 S. E. 197, there is an intimation that separation deeds are not looked upon with favor.

The leading case in North Carolina, Archboll v. Archbell, 158 N. C. 408, 74 S. E. 327, was decided in 1912. Although the separation deed in that case was held to be void because of an invalid certificate of the probate officer, Justice Hoke said, that due to the "distinctive recognition of deeds of this character...we are constrained to hold that public policy with us is no longer peremptory on this question. The existence of the conditions under which these deeds are not void as a matter of law."

From these decisions it clearly appears that separation deeds are looked upon with favor. In North Carolina, there is no direct decision which would show them necessary certain conditions. However, there is general agreement as to requisites in practically all jurisdictions. As stated in Rathbone, 199 N. C. 368, 154 S. E. 631, supra, these requisites are as follows: (1) That there must be a separation already existing or immediately to follow the execution of the deed; (2) that the separation deed must be made for an adequate reason, of such a kind that it is necessary for the health or happiness of one or the other; (3) that it must be reasonable and fair to the wife, considered in the condition of the parties. In addition, the separation deed must conform to the statutory requirements, concerning deeds between husband and wife. See 2 N. C. L. R. 193, 194.

Section 52-7 Constitutional.—This section is a valid exercise of the legislative power. Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178 N. C. 22, 23, 100 S. E. 120.

When Husband's Assent Necessary.——The husband's assent is required when either by reason of mental infirmity or incapacity he is unable to give assent, or by his conduct in abandoning his wife or maliciously turning her out of doors he has practically emancipated her, for in both cases she must be looked upon as a separate party, or in the case of Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178 N. C. 22, 23, 100 S. E. 120.

This section has been referred to in a number of cases as an exception to the constitutional provision which requires the assent of the husband, though not directly construed. In that case the wife became a feme sole for the purpose of contracting, and might acquire and transfer property. Hall v. Walker, 118 N. C. 376, 31 S. E. 6.

An action to recover possession of land may be sustained against a married woman alone, whose husband is an alien, resides abroad, or has abandoned his wife. Finley v. Saunders, 98 N. C. 482, 4 S. E. 516.

Where Husband Fugitive from Justice.—In an action against a married woman where the husband is a nonresident and a fugitive from justice, the husband is not a necessary party. Heath, etc., v. Morgan, 117 N. C. 594, 23 S. E. 489.

Departure from State Not Required.—This section does not require the husband to leave the State to enable the wife to use her property for her support. Vandover v. Humphrey, 119 N. C. 65, 51 S. E. 893.

Abandonment Sufficient.—Abandonment of the wife by the husband is sufficient for her to execute a valid conveyance of her lands without his joinder. Bachelor v. Norris, 166 N. C. 506, 152 S. E. 839; Pardon v. Paschal, 142 N. C. 538, 55 S. E. 365; Campbell v. Campbell, 221 N. C. 257, 20 S. E. (2d) 41; Nichols v. York, 219 N. C. 265, 13 S. E. (2d) 555.

Same.—Tort Actions.—Under a reasonable construction of the Constitution and this section, a wife abandoned by her husband for the term of his own life or any less term of years, except by and with the consent of his wife, may maintain an action in tort against a third person. Brown v. Brown, 121 N. C. 8, 27 S. E. 998.

Same.—Wife Need Not Wait Six Months.—Under this section a wife is not required to wait six months (the time required to elapse before entitling her to bring an action for divorce) before she is permitted to make contracts. Vandover v. Humphrey, 119 N. C. 65, 51 S. E. 893.

Abandonment Amounts to a Separation.—An action to recover possession of land may be sustained against a woman who has abandoned her husband for the term of his own life or any less term of years, except by and with the consent of his wife. Keys v. Tuten, 199 N. C. 368, 154 S. E. 631.

§ 52-6. Abandonment by husband. — Every woman whose husband abandons her, or maliciously turns her out of doors, shall be deemed a free trader, so far as to be competent to contract and be contracted with, and to bind her separate property, but the liability of her husband for her reasonable support shall not thereby be impaired. She may also convey her personal estate and her real estate without the assent of her husband.

(Rrev., s. 2117; Code, s. 1832; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 24; C. S. 2530.)

Section Constitutional.—This section was held constitutionally valid in Cram, supra, 116 N. C. 288. Brown v. Brown, 121 N. C. 8, 27 S. E. 998; 38 L. R. A. 242; Finger v. Hunter, 130 N. C. 529, 531, 41 S. E. 890.

There is no constitutional inhibition on the Legislature declaring what the consequences shall be when a husband has become a free trader, and notwithstanding the provisions of Article X, § 6, to the effect that a married woman may convey her separate realty with the written consent of her husband, the section is valid and it may be held, in such cases § 52-4, requiring the execution of her deed by her husband and her separate examination taken, does not apply. Keys v. Tuten, 199 N. C. 368, 154 S. E. 631.

When Husband is an Alien.——When a husband is an alien, it was held that when the husband became an alien the wife became a feme sole for the purpose of contracting, and might acquire and transfer property. Hall v. Walker, 118 N. C. 376, 31 S. E. 6.

An action to recover possession of land may be sustained against a married woman alone, whose husband is an alien, resides abroad, or has abandoned his wife. Finley v. Saunders, 98 N. C. 482, 4 S. E. 516.

Where Husband Fugitive from Justice.—In an action against a married woman where the husband is a nonresident and a fugitive from justice, the husband is not a necessary party. Heath, etc., v. Morgan, 117 N. C. 594, 23 S. E. 489.

Departure from State Not Required.—This section does not require the husband to leave the State to enable the wife to use her property for her support. Vandover v. Humphrey, 119 N. C. 65, 51 S. E. 893.

Abandonment Sufficient.—Abandonment of the wife by the husband is sufficient for her to execute a valid conveyance of her lands without his joinder. Bachelor v. Norris, 166 N. C. 506, 152 S. E. 839; Pardon v. Paschal, 142 N. C. 538, 55 S. E. 365; Campbell v. Campbell, 221 N. C. 257, 20 S. E. (2d) 41; Nichols v. York, 219 N. C. 265, 13 S. E. (2d) 555.

Same.—Tort Actions.—Under a reasonable construction of the Constitution and this section, a wife abandoned by her husband for the term of his own life or any less term of years, except by and with the consent of his wife, may maintain an action in tort against a third person. Brown v. Brown, 121 N. C. 8, 27 S. E. 998.

Same.—Wife Need Not Wait Six Months.—Under this section a wife is not required to wait six months (the time required to elapse before entitling her to bring an action for divorce) before she is permitted to make contracts. Vandover v. Humphrey, 119 N. C. 65, 51 S. E. 893.

Abandonment Amounts to a Separation.—An action to recover possession of land may be sustained against a woman who has abandoned her husband for the term of his own life or any less term of years, except by and with the consent of his wife. Keys v. Tuten, 199 N. C. 368, 154 S. E. 631.

fected by deed and privy examination, according to the rules required by law for the sale of lands belonging to feimes covert. And no interest of the husband whatever in such real estate shall be subject to sale to satisfy any execution obtained against him; and every such sale, is hereby declared null and void. (Rev. s. 2097; Code, s. 1840; R. C., c. 56: 1848; c. 41; C. S. 2510.)

Editor's Note.—See 8 N. C. Law Rev. 476.

Formerly Husband Could Lease and Convey.—At common law the husband, upon the marriage, was seized in right of a freehold interest in her lands during their joint lives. After the birth of issue he was seized of an estate in his own right, called tenancy by the curtesy initiative. Coke Lit., 67 A. This estate, if he survived his wife, was called tenancy by the curtesy initiate, and inured to his benefit for life. Either as tenant by marital right or as tenant by curtesy initiative, the husband was entitled to the rents and profits and might lease or convey, a fee simple might be sold under execution against him. Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 134, 135, 16 S. E. 1019.

Former Right to Rents and Profits.—Where a man was married, and the land was acquired by his wife before the adoption of the Constitution of 1868, and the act called the "Marriage Act," he was a tenant by the curtesy initiative, notwithstanding the registration of this section, without joining his wife as a party. Wilson v. Arentz, 64 N. C. 431. And where he had by her several living children, and that she acquired the property. Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 670. And if entitled to the possession, he had a right to the rents and profits, etc. Morris v. Morris, 94 N. C. 613, 618.

In General.—This section expressly provides that a husband shall not have power to dispose of his wife's land for his own life or any less term of years without her assent, nor can the same be subject to sale to satisfy any execution obtained against him. Bruce v. Nicholson, 109 N. C. 202, 206, 13 S. E. 790.

Purpose and Effect of Section.—Neither this section nor the Constitution of 1868 abolished tenancy by the curtesy initiate, but since the passage of this section such tenancy consists of a right which the husband cannot assert against the wife as an independent interest in the husband's real estate. The right in the husband's land which the husband is entitled to have under the Constitution of 1868 is the right of his wife of a freehold interest in her lands belonging to femes covert. And no interest be recovered by her suing alone, and such earnings or recovery shall be her sole and separate use, and she may dispose of the same and receive the whole of the purchase money. Tonde v. Downs, 69 N. C. 280. The purchase money is active or passive. Freeman v. Lide, supra.

Same—Tenancy by Curtesy Limited.—It has been decided that neither this section nor the Constitution of 1868 destroyed such tenancy, although the husband was stripped almost of all the legal right to dispose of the law rights therein during the coverture. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 14 S. E. 299; Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 134, 137, 16 S. E. 1019. The wife is no longer the tenant by the curtesy initiate, stripped of its common law attributes till there only remains the husband the earnings of his wife and the proceeds of her separate estate. Hallyburton v. Slagle, 132 N. C. 947, 44 S. E. 655; Freeman v. Lide, 176 N. C. 434, 97 S. E. 403; Tiddy v. Graves, 126 N. C. 620, 36 S. E. 127. And she can so devise her separate estate whether the trust active or passive. Freeman v. Lide, supra.

§ 52-8. Capacity to make will.—Every married woman has power to devise and bequeath her real and personal estate as if she were a free sole; and her will shall be proved as is required of other wills. (Rev,. s. 2098; Code, s. 1839; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 31; C. S. 2511.)

Cross Reference.—See also, § 31-2.

May Defeat Curtesy by Will.—Since the Constitution of 1868 a married woman may by will deprive her husband of curtesy in her separate estate. Hallyburton v. Slagle, 132 N. C. 947, 44 S. E. 655; Freeman v. Lide, 176 N. C. 434, 97 S. E. 403; Tiddy v. Graves, 126 N. C. 620, 36 S. E. 127. And she can so devise her separate estate whether the trust active or passive. Freeman v. Lide, supra.

§ 52-9. May insure husband's life.—Any fee covert in her own name, or in the name of a trustee with his assent, may convey or assign her curtesy in her separate estate. Hallyburton v. Slagle, 132 N. C. 947, 44 S. E. 655; Freeman v. Lide, 176 N. C. 434, 97 S. E. 403; Tiddy v. Graves, 126 N. C. 620, 36 S. E. 127. And she can so devise her separate estate whether the trust active or passive. Freeman v. Lide, supra.

Cross Reference.—As to right of husband to insure life for the benefit of wife and children, see the North Carolina Constitution, Article X, section 7.

§ 52-10. Earnings and damages from personal injury are wife's property.—The earnings of a married woman by virtue of any contract for her personal service, and any damages for personal injuries, or other tort sustained by her, can be recovered by her suing alone, and such earnings or recovery shall be her sole and separate property as fully as if she had remained unmarried (1913, c. 108, § 1, C. S. 2512.)

Editor's Note.—In the concurring opinion in Patterson v. Franklin, 168 N. C. 75, 79, 84 S. E. 18, Clark, C. J. states that this section was passed as a result of the decision in Price v. Charlotte Electric Co., 160 N. C. 450, 76 S. E. 502. The same is also mentioned in Kirkpatrick v. Crutchfield, 178 N. C. 348, 352, 100 S. E. 602.

Former Provisions.—The law formerly prevailing allowed the husband to dispose of his wife's land and the rents and profits, in the State, before the adoption of the present constitution. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 311, 14 S. E. 299. But since the passage of the section the husband cannot maintain an action in his wife's name to recover title or possession obtained against him by the curtesy initiate, but the wife can maintain such action, either by joining her husband or suing alone. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 311, 14 S. E. 299; Thompson v. Wiggins, 110 N. C. 398, 14 S. E. 301.

Same—Where Husband Conveys Land to Wife.—A conveyance of land from husband to wife shall pass the legal estate of the husband, but the vesting of the same is defeasable by the clause in title to declare title and recover possession. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 14 S. E. 299.

Statute of Limitations Not Applicable.—A tenant by the curtesy initiative has not such estate in the land of his wife that will put in operation the statute of limitations against either the husband or wife in favor of one claiming title by adverse possession. Jones v. Coffey, 109 N. C. 515, 14 S. E. 84.

Husband Can Surrender Curtesy.—Since the section was enacted a husband has the right to surrender his estate as provided by the curtesy initiative, with the assent of his wife, who, with the assent of her husband may sell the same and receive the whole of the purchase money. Teague v. Downs, 69 N. C. 280. The husband can surrender his curtesy in his separate estate. Hallyburton v. Slagle, 132 N. C. 947, 44 S. E. 655; Freeman v. Lide, 176 N. C. 434, 97 S. E. 403; Tiddy v. Graves, 126 N. C. 620, 36 S. E. 127. And the purchase money is active or passive. Freeman v. Lide, supra.

Cross Reference.—As to right of husband to insure life for the benefit of wife and children, see the North Carolina Constitution, Article X, section 7.
In General.—This section and C. S. § 545 give to a married woman the fullest and most untrammeled power to bring actions, even against her husband to recover damages she has sustained by reason of negligence to her, or to recover her separate property. She may bring actions, even against her husband and in all cases against her husband and in all cases to recover for negligent injury is not limited to residents of this state, and a nonresident wife may maintain an action here against her nonresident husband on a tort action. Brown v. Brown, 124 N. C. 19, 32 S. E. 320. In every case, however, the recovery was allowed only where there was an intentional invasion. The right of the wife to recover in North Carolina for a direct and intentional invasion is clearly settled. Id. See also, § 545.

Effect on Rights of Husband.—By virtue of the statutes giving married women separate property rights and the right to sue her husband, she has been given the right to sue her husband in his business, or out of the amount for services, the husband may not recover the separate earnings of a married woman belong to her, and she is entitled to any recovery as her separate property. Brown v. Brown, 124 N. C. 19, 32 S. E. 320. The wife has a right to sue her husband and can recover when there has been an intentional and direct invasion or breach of the marital relations. Crowell v. Crowell, 180 N. C. 516, 105 S. E. 206; Crowell v. Crowell, 181 N. C. 66, 106 S. E. 149.

Nonresident Wife Has Right of Action for Husband's Tort.—The right of a married woman to maintain an action against her husband for a tort committed by him is clearly settled. Crowell v. Crowell, 181 N. C. 66, 106 S. E. 149. Where there was an intentional invasion. The right of the wife to recover in North Carolina for a direct and intentional invasion is clearly settled. Id. See also, § 545.

Joinder of Husband Unnecessary.—Since the passage of § 50-12, 182 N. C. 9, 13, 108 S. E. 318, the court said: "It follows therefore (from this section) that the husband cannot sue his wife for tortious injuries inflicted on her. The law has never authorized the wife to maintain such tort actions sustained by the husband.

Husband and Wife Employed Together.—Since the passage of the Martin Act, section 52-2, and this section, the separate earnings of a married woman belong to her, and she may sue and recover them alone; and where the evidence tends only to establish the fact that the employer was to pay a husband and wife each a certain and different amount for services, the husband may not recover the whole upon the theory that the amount he was to receive was augmented by what she was to receive for her separate services. Croom v. Goldsboro Lumber Co., 182 N. C. 217, 108 S. E. 735.

Services Rendered to Husband.—For wife to recover for services rendered to her husband in his business, or outside of his domestic duties, while living together under the marital relation, there must be some promise on his part to pay for them; and the relation of marriage, nothing else appearing, negatives an implied promise on his part to do so. Dorsett v. Dorsett, 183 N. C. 340, 108 S. E. 723.

§ 52-12: Contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate.—No contract between a husband and wife made during coverture shall be valid to affect or change any part of the real estate of the wife, or the accruing income thereof for a longer time than three years next ensuing the making of such contract, or to impair or change the body or capital of the personal estate of the wife, or the accruing income thereof, for a longer time than three years next ensuing the making of such contract, unless such contract is in writing, and is duly proved as is required for conveyances of land; and upon the examination of the wife separate and apart from her husband, as is now or may hereafter be required by law in the probate of deeds of femes covert it shall appear to the satisfaction of such officer that the wife freely executed such contract, and freely consented thereto at the time of her separate examination, and that the same is not unreasonable or injurious to her. The certificate of the officer shall state his conclusions, and shall be conclusive of the facts therein stated. But the same may be impeached for fraud as other judgments may be. (Rev. s. 2107; Code s. 1835; 1871-2, c. 195, s. 27; C. S. 2515.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—All transactions of the wife with her husband in regard to her separate property were held void at common law. Sims v. Ray, 96 N. C. 87, 2 S. E. 443. This was because at common law the husband and wife were deemed one person, as a conduit, in order to pass the title to property from one to the other. Sydnor v. Boyd, 119 N. C. 481, 86 S. E. 543.

Section Passed to Protect Wife.—This section was passed to protect the wife from the influence and control which the husband is presumed to have over her by reason of her being the wife. Sims v. Ray, 96 N. C. 87, 2 S. E. 443. The law presumes that contracts between husband and wife affecting her real estate are executed under the influence and coercion of the husband, and to rebut this presumption under the contract valid, an officer of the law must examine the contract, and be satisfied that she is doing what is reasonable and not hurtful to her, and so certify, otherwise the contract may be impeached for fraud as other judgments may be. Keen v. Vann, 154 N. C. 311, 319, 70 S. E. 747; Caldwell v. Blount, 193 N. C. 560, 562, 137 S. E. 578.

The purpose of this section was to prevent frauds by the husband upon the wife, and to give validity to transactions, invalid at common law, between husband and wife, of the nature described, provided they are executed with the prescribed formality. Sims v. Ray, 96 N. C. 87, 2 S. E. 443; Long v. Rankin, 108 N. C. 338, 12 S. E. 987; Stout v. Perry, 152 N. C. 312, 313, 67 S. E. 757.

Section Constitutional.—This section has been held to be constitutional and valid in Sims v. Ray, 96 N. C. 87, 2 S. E. 443; Long v. Rankin, 108 N. C. 338, 12 S. E. 987; Kearney v. Hutton, 154 N. C. 317, 319, 70 S. E. 747; Butler v. Butler, 169 N. C. 584, 586, 86 S. E. 507.

Strict Construction.—This section is an enabling statute and must be strictly construed. Caldwell v. Blount, 193 N. C. 560, 562, 137 S. E. 578.

It is necessary that it should affirmatively appear that the provisions of this section have been strictly complied with. Sims v. Ray, 96 N. C. 87, 2 S. E. 443; Butler v. Butler, 169 N. C. 584, 586, 86 S. E. 507.

Same—Requirements Necessary.—No deed from a wife to her husband, conveying her land to him, is valid, unless the officer examines the deed and finds that she has executed the same, as required by statute, shall also state in his certificate his conclusions that said deed is not unreasonable or injurious to her. The statute requires that both conclusions, that the deed is reasonable and not hurtful or injurious to the wife, shall be stated by the officer in his certificate attached or annexed to the deed. Caldwell v. Blount, 193 N. C. 560, 562, 137 S. E. 578.

Section Does Not Apply to Concession of Judgment in Favor of Creditors.—A judgment by confession in favor of creditors against a husband and wife is valid and the private examination of the wife is not necessary under this section, which applies only to contracts between husband and wife. Davis v. Cockman, 211 N. C. 609, 191 S. E. 322.

II. TRANSACTIONS INCLUDED.

Parol Transfer for Less Than Three Years Valid.—A wife can upon a fair consideration give land by parol to the husband for a period less than three years under this section. Wells v. Batts, 112 N. C. 283, 289, 17 S. E. 417.

Section Applies to Contracts Only.—An examination of this section discloses that the words "electrically conveyed" do not apply to conveyances; indeed, the word "contract" is used five times. The object of the Legislature was clearly to prevent the wife from making any contract with her husband whereby she should incur a liability which in the future might prove a burden or charge upon it, or cause a change or impairment of her income or personality. Rea v. Rea, 156 N. C. 539, 531, 72 S. E. 573.

If this section extended to conveyances, it would be a violation of that provision of the Constitution by adding the requirement that some third party, a magistrate or other official, must give his written approval before she can do what the Constitution guarantees that she may do "with the approval of her husband." Concurring opinion Clark, C. J., in Frisbee v. Cole, 179 N. C. 469, 475, 102 S. E. 890.

Same—Conveyance of Land by Wife.—Where the conveyance was to the husband and wife by entirety, it is not a transfer of the wife's interest in the lands, and it is certified that he had assented thereto at that time, the objection to the probate of the husband that it was not open to inquiry in a collateral attack is not well taken. Davis v. Bass, 188 N. C. 200, 124 S. E. 566; Garner v. Horner, 191 N. C. 539, 540, 132 S. E. 309.

Notes Payable to Husband and Wife Jointly.—Where the wife has conveyed her lands with her husband's written consent, and with the consent of all parties takes a mortgage back on the same day and as a part of the same transaction, as to the part given in part payment of the purchase price, payable to herself and husband jointly, it is not evidence that she made him an unqualified gift, either of her separate property or of her interest in the lands, and though conveyed at her request creates a resulting trust in the lands in favor of the husband. Deese v. Deese, 176 N. C. 267, 195 S. E. 252; Cornell v. Brown, 205 N. C. 6, 169 S. E. 818.

Conveyance by Entirety.—When land is purchased by the wife with money belonging to her separate estate, with consent of the husband and wife by entirety, it is not a gift by the wife of all of her interest in the property, and though thus conveyed at her request creates a resulting trust in the lands in favor of the husband. Deese v. Deese, 176 N. C. 267, 195 S. E. 252.

Deeds of separation, though not favored by law, are under certain circumstances recognized by this section and §§ 52-5 and 52-13, when signed in conformity thereto, Taylor v. Taylor, 197 N. C. 197, 148 S. E. 171. See also Brown v. Brown, 205 N. C. 54, 169 S. E. 818.

Consent Judgment Must Conform.—A consent judgment, that transfers the wife's title in her separate property to her husband, must be in conformity with this section. Ellis v. Ellis, 193 N. C. 216, 136 S. E. 350.

Applicable to Wife's Interest in Estates by Entireties.—During the continuance of the joint lives of the husband and wife, who have acquired an estate by intestate, the wife's interest in the same is subject to the provisions of this section; and where the estate has been conveyed to one in trust for them both, and the officer in taking the acknowledgment of the deed, the wife has failed to make the certificate required by this section, requiring him, as a prerequisite to its validity, to certify that the instrument was not unreasonable or injurious to her, the instrument itself is void, and the husband may, if by or otherwise, dispose of her interests. Davis v. Bass, 188 N. C. 200, 124 S. E. 566.

Deed by husband and wife conveying lands held by them both in fee simple, which is incompetent, and benefit of the husband is a conveyance of land by a wife to her husband, is void, and operates as an estoppel by deed to the husband and does not operate as an estoppel by deed to her during her life or her heirs at law after her death. Capps v. Massey, 199 N. C. 196, 154 S. E. 55.

III. THE CERTIFICATE.

Certificate Must Be Annexed to Deed.—It has been uniformly held that a deed of a wife, conveying land described therein to her husband, is void, unless there is attached or annexed to said deed the certificate of the probating officer as required by this section which is applicable only to contracts between husband and wife, and it is not required that such agreement be executed in accord with this section. Coward v. Coward, 216 N. C. 596, 6 S. E. 2d 573.

Certificate Must Show Deed Not Unreasonable and Injurious.—A conveyance of land by a wife to her husband is void when the acknowledgment fails to comply with this section, and the acknowledgment is fatally defective if the probating officer failed to certify that, at the time of its execution and the wife's privy examination, the deed is not unreasonable or injurious to her. Fisher v. Fisher, 217 N. C. 70, 6 S. E. (2d) 812.

Certificate Conclusively Presumed to Be True.—This section only requires the certification of the probating officer of a deed to lands from a wife to her husband shall state his conclusions that the contract or deed "is not unreasonable or injurious to her," and it will be conclusively presumed that it upon such a certification, and when the requirements have been followed, the action of the officer taking the probate is not open to inquiry in a collateral attack in impeachment of it, except "for fraud, as other judgments may be so attacked." Frisbee v. Cole, 179 N. C. 469, 102 S. E. 890.

Amendment of Defective Certificate.—Where the certificate required by this section is defective, it cannot be subsequently amended so as to render a deed valid, at least after the death of the wife. Best v. Utley, 189 N. C. 356, 127 S. E. 337.

Same—Evidence.—Where the defendants allege that certain of the requirements were observed by the officer but omitted by mistake from his certificate, testimony of the wife and the probate officer as to what transpired at the time is competent in rebuttal of the plaintiff's evidence, if he had introduced any, and immaterial if he did not so. Anderson v. Anderson, 177 N. C. 401, 99 S. E. 106.

Evidence is not admissible to show that the facts stated in the certificate are not true. Best v. Utley, 189 N. C. 356, 127 S. E. 337.

Defective Acknowledgment Not Cured by Prior Separation Agreement.—An agreement by husband and wife to pool their respective lands and to pool their respective debts, and where the conveyance of the wife's interest in land to her husband is not cured by a prior deed of separation properly executed. Fisher v. Fisher, 217 N. C. 70, 6 S. E. (2d) 812.

Parol Transfer for Less Than Three Years Valid.—A deed by husband and wife conveying lands held by them both in fee simple, which is incompetent, and benefit of the husband is a conveyance of land by a wife to her husband, is void, and operates as an estoppel by deed to the husband and does not operate as an estoppel by deed to her during her life or her heirs at law after her death. Capps v. Massey, 199 N. C. 196, 154 S. E. 55.

IV. EFFECT OF NONCOMPLIANCE.

Where the husband has conveyed to his wife his title to lands held by them both by the entirety, the certificate of the probate officer that the instrument was not unreasonable or injurious to her, does not give the husband a right to convey the property, and if the certificate is void, the probate of the deed is void, and does not operate as an estoppel by deed to her during her life or her heirs at law after her death. Capps v. Massey, 199 N. C. 196, 154 S. E. 55.
The failure of the certificate of a deed to lands from a wife to her husband to state that the conveyance was “not unreasonable or injurious to her” renders the instrument void. Farmers Bank v. McCullers, 201 N. C. 440, 160 S. E. 494.

Same—Partial Omission.—The deed of a wife to her husband, duly acknowledged and with private examination provided for, was held invalid in Singleton v. Cherms, 188 N. C. 402, 84 S. E. 698, by the unanimous opinion of the court, because of the fact that the officer taking the probate failed to certify that the making of the deed was not unreasonable or injurious to the wife. Butler v. Butler, 169 N. C. 584, 586, 86 S. E. 507.

Same—Oral Declarations Incompetent.—Oral declarations or statements of any kind of a wife to her husband are not competent evidence as to her dealings with third parties with respect to the husband's property, as recited in a deed to him. Hall v. Clackamas County, 239 Or. 86, 399 P. (2d) 207, 209, 210.

Under Void Deed Husband Takes Only Curtesy.—Where the husband has had children by the wife of her first marriage, and he has received an invalid deed from her of her separate lands, after her death he has only an estate for life therein as tenant by the curtesy, and under foreclosure proceedings may be held to be adverse to the heir for that estate. Waddell v. Gough, 195 N. C. 456, 143 S. E. 602.

Defective Paper Good as Color of Title.—A paper writing void for failure of compliance with this section, as good as color of title. Renford v. Price, 178 N. C. 441, 100 S. E. 591.

Cross References.—See also, §§ 52-5, 52-12, and notes thereto. As to renouncement of rights of dower and curtesy by minors, see § 30-10.

§ 52-14. Wife's antenuptial contracts and torts.—The liability of a femme sole for any debts owing, or contracts made or damages incurred by her before her marriage shall not be impaired or altered by such marriage. No man by marriage shall incur any liability for any debts owing, or contracts made, or for wrongs done by his wife before the marriage. (Rev., ss. 2101, 2106; Code, ss. 1822, 1823; 1871-2, c. 193, ss. 13, 14; C. S. 5151.)

Justice Has Jurisdiction.—A justice of the peace has jurisdiction to decide whether or not a wife is liable on a debt contracted prior to her marriage. Hodges v. Hill, 105 N. C. 130, 10 S. E. 956; Neville v. Pope, 95 N. C. 346; Beville v. Cox, 190 N. C. 265, 13 S. E. 590, and the justice also has jurisdiction where the action is on a contract made or a wrong done by her before the marriage. Neville v. Pope, 95 N. C. 346.

Money Lent to Husband Recoverable.—In a suit brought by a wife against the administrator of her deceased husband for money "advanced and lent" to him during the coverture, where the marriage took place after the adoption of the Code of 1881, 1888, it was held that the character of the wife's liability was that of an ordinary contract liability, and that it was never inconsistent with public policy, and was, therefore, valid. George v. High, 83 N. C. 99.

§ 52-15. For wife's torts, husband not liable.—No husband shall be liable for damages accruing from any tort committed by his wife, or for any costs or fines incurred in any criminal proceeding against her. (Rev., s. 2105; Code, s. 1821; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 25; 1921, c. 102; C. S. 2518.)

Editor's Note.—The present section, abolishing the husband's liability for the torts of his wife, was substituted for the former section, abolishing the wife's liability, by chapter 84, section 2105, general assembly, 1921. At common law the husband was liable for the tort of his wife, although committed without his knowledge or consent.
consent and in his absence, and although living separate at the time, on the ground that "as her legal existence was incorporated in that of her husband, she could not be sued alone.

The rights of the husband in his wife's property have been so cut down by the Constitution, by statutes, and by pronouncements of the court, that his estate by curtesy initiate is of little value. See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 273.

Negligence of Clerk in Wife's Store.—The husband living with his wife is jointly liable with her for damages resulting from an injury received by a customer through the negligence of a clerk in her store, if she is liable therefor. Brittingham v. Stadler, 151 N. C. 299, 66 S. E. 128.

Upon Death of Wife Action Abated.—Where husband and wife are jointly sued for the wrong of the wife and the wife dies, the action abates. Roberts v. Lisenbee, 86 N. C. 135.

§ 52-16. Estate by the curtesy.—Every man who has married or shall marry a woman, and by her has issue born alive, shall, after her death intestate as to the lands, tenements and hereditaments hereinafter mentioned, be entitled to an estate as tenant by the curtesy during his life, in all the lands, tenements and hereditaments whereby his said wife was beneficially seized in dower during the coverture, wherein the said issue was capable of inheriting the said seizin was of a legal or of an equitable estate; except that when the wife has obtained a divorce a mensa et thoros, and is not living with her husband at her death, or if the husband has abandoned his wife, or has maliciously turned her out of doors, and they are not living together at her death, he shall not be tenant by the curtesy of her lands, tenements and hereditaments. (Rev., s. 2103; Code, s. 1838; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 30; C. S. 2519.)

Cross References.—As to divorce a mensa et thoros and grounds therefor, see § 50-7. As to dower, see § 104 et seq.

This section retains curtesy consummate in practically its common law form, but the rights of the husband in his wife's property have been so cut down by the Constitution, by statutes, and by pronouncements of the court, that his estate by curtesy initiate is of little value. See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 273.

When court finds that a wife died intestate seized in fee of certain lands, and left her husband surviving and a child by such husband, the court is entitled to an estate by the curtesy in the lands. Stockton v. Maney, 212 N. C. 211, 193 S. E. 137.

Actual Seizure Necessary at Common Law.—At the common law, it was essential that the wife, or the husband in the right of the wife, should have seizin in dower—that is, actual seizin—actual possession of the estate, to entitle the husband as tenant by the curtesy. Nixon v. Williams, 95 N. C. 663.

Incidents of Common Law Curtesy Initiate Draastically Limited.—The common law estate of the husband as tenant by the curtesy in the lands of his wife was abolished by sec. 6, Art. X, of the Constitution, and now, by virtue of that provision, passed in pursuance thereof, while the husband has an interest in the right to enter upon and occupy the land with the wife, he has no estate therein until her death. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 14 S. E. 292.

When Right Attaches.—After a child of the marriage has been born alive and capable of inheriting, the husband is tenant by curtesy initiate in his wife's lands, and as such has a valuable right. Jackson v. Beard, 162 N. C. 105, 78 S. E. 343.

Husband Has a Freehold Interest.—A husband has, by the curtesy initiate, a freehold interest, but not an estate, in the property. Thompson v. Wiggins, 109 N. C. 508, 510, 14 S. E. 301.

A Bare Right of Occupancy.—The only right attaching to tenancy by the curtesy initiate in the wife's real estate is the bare right of joint occupancy with the wife with the right of ingress and egress. Thompson v. Wiggins, 109 N. C. 508, 14 S. E. 301.

A tenant by curtesy has an insurable interest in buildings and structures on the lands. Stockton v. Maney, 212 N. C. 211, 193 S. E. 137.

Nothing else appearing, a policy of fire insurance which a tenant by the curtesy procures to be issued to him, insures only his interest in the dwelling insured, and upon its destruction by fire, the life tenant is entitled to the entire proceeds of the policy, and the remainderman has no interest in other property bought by the life tenant with the proceeds thereof. Id.

Curtesy Consummate Is Not Changed.—Tenancy by the curtesy consummate, remains as at common law. The husband may sell such interest, Long v. Graeber, 64 N. C. 431. And it is liable to sale under execution against him after his wife's death. McCaskill v. McCormac, 99 N. C. 548, 6 S. E. 423; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109 N. C. 508, 509, 14 S. E. 301.

Husband a Necessary Party.—A husband, tenant by curtesy, has an interest in his wife's land and is a necessary party to a suit concerning it. Jackson v. Beard, 162 N. C. 105, 78 S. E. 6; McGlinnery v. Miller, 90 N. C. 219.

Joiner of Necessary Husband.—It was formerly held that when the husband, being a minor, joins in the deed to lands of his wife, the conveyance is voidable, subject to his affrimmance or ratification when he becomes of age; and after his death has been disproved in apt time by him, the conveyance, requiring his valid or statutory consent, is void. Jackson v. Beard, 162 N. C. 105, 78 S. E. 6. However, in view of § 30-10, a minor spouse is now empowered to join in a conveyance of either curtesy or dower or to consent to a conveyance of real property with the same effect as though of age.

Effect of Divorce a Mensa.—Where a wife has obtained a divorce a mensa et thoro, whatever rights the husband had in her lands are suspended until a reconciliation shall be effected, or until by her death he may become tenant by the curtesy consummate, and therefore she is entitled to recover from him the possession and use of her lands. Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 134, 16 S. E. 109.

Applied in Caseley v. West, 210 N. C. 240, 186 S. E. 324.

§ 52-17: Repealed by Session Laws 1943, c. 543.

§ 52-18: Repealed by Session Laws 1943, c. 543.

§ 52-19. Divorce a vinculo and felonious slaying a bar.—When a marriage is dissolved a vinculo, the parties respectively, or when either party is convicted of the felonious slaying of the other or of being accessory before the fact of such felonious slaying, the party convicted, shall thereby lose all his or her right to an estate by the curtesy, or dower, and all right to any year's provision or distributive share in the personal property of the other, and all right to administer on the estate of the other, and every right and estate in the real or personal estate of the other party, which by settlement before or after marriage was settled upon such party in consideration of the marriage only. (Rev., s. 2109; Code, s. 1843; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 42; C. S. 2522.)

Editor's Note.—In the case of Owens v. Owens, 100 N. C. 250, 6 S. E. 794, a wife who murdered her husband was held to be entitled to her right of dower irrespective of her [354] crime. The Legislature the following year adopted this section.

§ 52-20. MARRIED WOMEN—FREE TRADERS

Application to Estates by Entitlements.—This and the following section deal with the rights of husband and wife growing out of the marriage relation, such as dower, curtesy, and the like. The application of the preceding section to lands held by them in entiety in trust for heirs at law until his death, subject to his right of management and the use of the rents and profits for his own life. As this section deals with sole ownership, it is not necessary to determine whether the provision of this section, in reference to the dower of the husband or wife, which property rights in her estate here were terminated from his date. Arrington v. Arrington, 102 N. C. 491, 9 S. E. 200.

Husband's Rights Terminated by Divorce.—Personal choises in action which belong to the wife, reduced into possession of the husband in the manner prescribed by the Constitution, without his privy examination. Council v. Pridgen, 153 N. C. 491, 514, 9 S. E. 200.

Effect of Valid Foreign Divorce.—Where a wife who had resides here, bona fide removed to Illinois, and instituted an action for divorce in one of the courts of that state and the husband, in that state, appeared by attorney and defended the action, there was held that he was bound by a decree for divorce on a verdict rendered in that action, and that his property rights in her estate here were terminated from its date. Arrington v. Arrington, 102 N. C. 491, 9 S. E. 200.

When a spouse is beneficiary, the effect of a subsequent divorce on his rights to take might be controlled by this section. See 12 N. C. Law Rev. 376.

When Homicide Is Admitted.—The provisions of this section do not affect the conviction of a criminal offense where it is admitted that the homicide had been committed. Parker v. Potter, 200 N. C. 348, 349, 157 S. E. 63.

§ 52-21. Wife's elopement or divorce a mensa et bar.—If a married woman elopes with an adulterer, or willfully and without just cause abandons her husband and refuses to live with him, and is not living with her husband at his death, or if a divorce from bed and board is granted on the application of the husband, she shall thereby lose all right to dower in the lands and tenements of her husband, and also all right and estate in the property of her husband, as if she were unmarried, and the husband, if there has been no condonation at the time of the conveyance, shall thereafter be barred of all claim and right to curtesy in such real property. (Rev., s. 2111; Code, s. 1845; 1863, c. 153, s. 4; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 45; C. S. 2524.)

Cross References.—As to divorce by curtesy and forfeiture, see § 52-20. Possibility of Condonation Recognized.—This section recognizes the possibilities of condonation and the resumption of the marriage relation. Joyner v. Joyner, 151 N. C. 181, 183, 65 S. E. 896.

Art. 3. Free Traders.

§ 52-22. Requisites of writing to make her free trader.—Every married woman of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, with the consent of her husband, may become a free trader in the manner following:

1. By antenuptial contract, proved and registered, as hereinafter required; or,

2. By her and her husband signing a writing in the following or some equivalent form:

A. B., of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, wife of C. D., of the county, with his consent, testified by his signature hereto, enters herself as a free trader from the date of the registration hereof.

(Signed)

A. B.

C. D.

Witness: E. F.

Registered this day of , 19 .

The said writing may be proved by the subscribing witness or acknowledged by the parties before any officer authorized to take the probable of deeds, and shall be filed and registered in the office of the register of deeds for the county in which the woman proposes to have her principal or only place of business. (Rev., s. 2112; Code, s. 1871-2, c. 193, ss. 18, 19; C. S. 2525.)

Effect of Martin Act.—That the Martin Act practically constitutes a married woman a free trader, see under section 52-2, analysis line, "Powers Conferred," catchline, "Specifically Makes Free Trader."
§ 52-23. Writing effective from registration.—
From the time of the registration of the writing mentioned in § 52-22, the married woman therein mentioned shall be a free trader, and authorized to contract and deal as if she were a feme sole. (Rev., s. 2113; Code, s. 1828; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 20; C. S. 2526.)

Cross Reference.—As to Martin § 52-2 et seq. and annotations.

Section Does Not Include Conveyance.—The words “free-trader,” “contract” and “deal,” refer to contracts and trades in some business enterprises, and are restricted under this section to the dealings of the wife as a free-trader with reference to her contracts in the pursuit of the business she is engaged in; and the word “deal,” taken in its legal significance, does not enlarge this meaning so as to confer upon a married woman power to convey her real estate. Council v. Pridgen, 153 N. C. 443, 69 S. E. 404.

Justice Has Jurisdiction.—A justice of the peace has jurisdiction of an action against a married woman in regard to liabilities incurred by her while she is a free trader. Hodges v. Hill, 105 N. C. 130, 131, 10 S. E. 916; Neville v. Pope, 95 N. C. 346.

§ 52-24. Certified copy as evidence.—A copy of such writing, duly proved and registered and certified by the register of the county in which the same is registered, is admissible in evidence as certified copies of registered deeds are or may be allowed to be. (Rev., s. 2114; Code, s. 1829; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 21; C. S. 2527.)

Evidence of Being Free Trader.—Where it is averred, and not denied, that a married woman is a free trader, and the judgment fastens no personal liability upon her it was held that she was bound by the judgment. Roseman v. Roseman, 127 N. C. 494, 497, 37 S. E. 518. In this case Montgomery, J. dissented holding that the only evidence competent to prove that a married woman is a free trader is the registered writing or a duly certified copy.
