§ 68-13. Final judgment on report; effect.—The final judgment upon the report of the jurors shall be binding on the owners of the respective lands and their assigns, so long as such ownership shall continue, or until the same shall be set aside, modified or reversed. (Rev., s. 1669; Code, s. 2806; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 6; C. S. 1839.)

§ 68-14. Removal of common fence misdemeanor.—If any person owning, occupying, cultivating or being in possession of any lands under a common fence protecting the lands, crops or property of others, shall remove such fence or any part thereof during the time in which any crops are growing or being actually cultivated thereon, or property is protected by such fence, and before such crops are harvested, without the consent and permission of such person or persons whose crop or property is protected by such common fence, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply when ninety days notice of such removal shall have been given to all persons owning, cultivating or in possession of lands surrounding by such common fence, or having property protected thereby, and when thereafter such fence shall be removed between the first day of January and the first day of March following such notice of intended removal. (Rev., s. 3412; Code, s. 2820; 1903, c. 20; C. S. 1840.)

Editor's Note.—When a fence is altogether on the land of a person, although used as a common fence he has the right to move it and he is not subject to criminal prosecution, but a civil right might arise under sec. 68-9. State v. White, 86 N. C. 625. Neither will an indictment lie for removing a fence when the party removing the fence has possession of the land on both sides of the fence although title may be in the prosecutor, and the defendant is only a tenant by curtesy. State v. Williams, 44 N. C. 197.

Art. 3. Stock Law.

§ 68-15. Term "stock" defined.—The word "stock" in this chapter shall be construed to mean horses, mules, colts, cows, calves, sheep, goats, jennets, and all neat cattle, swine and geese. (Rev., s. 1681; Code, s. 2822; C. S. 1841.)

Local Modification.—Currituck: 1937, c. 389; Dare: 1915, c. 263; 1937, c. 213; Onslow: 1915, c. 151; 1937, c. 356; Robeson: 1917, c. 662.

Dogs.—A dog is not "stock" within the meaning of the section, but is nevertheless subject to larceny. Meekins v. Simpson, 176 N. C. 130, 96 S. E. 894.

§ 68-16. County elections.—Upon the written application of one-fifth of the qualified voters of any county made to the board of commissioners thereof, it shall be the duty of the commissioners from time to time to submit the question of "stock law" or "no stock law" to the qualified voters of said county. And if at any such election a majority of the votes cast is in favor of "stock law," then the provisions of this chapter relating to the stock law shall be in force over the whole of said county. (Rev., s. 1672; Code, s. 2812; C. S. 1842.)

Cross Reference.—As to "majority of qualified voters," see N. C. Const., Art. VII, sec. 7.

In General.—In a county where only a part of the towns have stock laws, an election covering the whole county is held valid, and it does not interfere with the principles of local self-government. Smalley v. Board, 122 N. C. 607, 29 S. E. 904; Perry v. Board, 130 N. C. 558, 41 S. E. 787.

Mandamus to Compel Election.—When a petition duly signed by the required number of voters is filed with the commissioners, and they refuse to call an election, mandamus may be brought to compel them to grant the petition. Perry v. Board, 130 N. C. 558, 41 S. E. 787.

§ 68-17. Township elections.—Upon the written application of one-fifth of the qualified voters in any township, made to the board of commissioners of the county wherein the township is situated, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to submit the question of "stock law" or "no stock law" to the qualified voters of the township; and if at any such township election a majority of the votes cast is in favor of "stock law," then the stock law shall be in force in said township. (Rev., s. 1673; Code, s. 2813; C. S. 1843.)

In General.—The fact that a township has "stock laws" does not bar the voters in that township from voting in a county election. Smalley v. Board, 122 N. C. 607, 29 S. E. 904.

§ 68-18. District elections.—Upon the written application of one-fifth of the qualified voters of any district or territory, whether the boundaries of said district follow township lines or not, made to the board of county commissioners, at any time, and setting for the welded boundaries of the district, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to submit the question of "stock law" or "no stock law" to the qualified voters of the district, and if at any such election a majority of the votes cast is in favor of "stock law," then the stock law shall be in force over the whole of said district. (Rev. s. 1674; Code, s. 2814; C. S. 1844.)

"Well Defined Boundaries."—The words are not too in- definite to denote the boundaries, when the beginning is "at a certain tract of land," and the difficulty as to the uncertainty of the point of beginning is removed where there is a call for the boundaries of lands of such a nature as to require a certain point. Newsom v. Earnheart, 86 N. C. 391.

Right to Join Districts.—The commissioners have no power when several districts adjoin each other to unite them into one territory, provide for the construction of one bound- ary fence, and assess a uniform tax on all the real property in the several districts so united to meet the expense of the fence. Bradshaw v. Board, 92 N. C. 278.

§ 68-19. Local: How territory released from stock law.—Upon the written application of a majority of the qualified voters in any district, territory or well defined boundary, made to the board of county commissioners, at any time, set- ting forth that the citizens of said district, territory or boundary are within the stock-law bound- ary, and are desirous of being released from the laws governing stock-law territory, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to submit the question of "no stock law" or "stock law" to the qualified voters of said district or territory, and if at any such election a majority of the votes cast is against stock law, then the said district or territory shall be released and free from the operation of the stock law: Provided, the expense incurred in changing the fence in such boundary, district or territory so released be paid by the property holders in such boundary, district or territory, and that the commissioner of the county levy the tax to pay the same on the property holders of such boundary, district or territory so released, but they shall not be further liable for keeping up said stock-law fence: Provided, that in any territory where stock law now prevails no election against stock law shall be held in less than two years from the date of the election adopting stock law in said territory: Provided further, that if "no stock law" should carry, it shall not take effect until six months from the date of its ratification: Provided still further, that neither "stock law" nor "no stock law" shall take effect during crop season.

Editor's Note.—It was at one time the public policy of the State to allow stock to run at large. Jones v. Wither- spoon, 52 N. C. 555. A land holder was required to in- close his fields to protect his crops. But this policy has now been changed and except in cases of a petition and majority vote by the residents of a county or district for "no stock-law" the stock must be kept within the close of the owner.

When "no stock-law" is duly passed, before the stock can be turned out to run at large the district or county pass- ing such law must be inclosed so that the stock will not range out of "no stock-law" territory and the crops of others, not in the "no stock-law" territory. Marshall v. Jones, 176 N. C. 516, 97 S. E. 422.

This section provides that the expense incurred in build- ing such a fence shall be paid by a tax on the property holders of the district or county. This certainly does not authorize a tax solely upon the real estate in the county or district. Hawes v. Commissioners, 175 N. C. 268, 95 S. E. 422. The county refuses to raise this fund an election must be held and authority granted by the majority of the voters. Marshburn v. Jones, 176 N. C. 516, 97 S. E. 422.

Section 68-21 provides for a tax on the real property of a district or county, but that section is applicable only to districts or counties that pass the "stock-law" and cannot be applied to those passing "no stock-law."

§ 68-20. How election conducted.—Every elec- tion under this chapter shall be held and con- ducted under the same rules and regulations and according to the same penalties provided by law for the election of members of the general assembly: Provided, no such county, township or district election shall be held oftener than once in any one year, although the boundaries of such district may not be the same. (Rev. s. 1677; Code, s. 2815; C. S. 1846.)

§ 68-21. Powers and duties of county commis- sioners.—The board of commissioners of the county may provide for a new registration of owners, designating places for holding elections, make all regulations, and do all other things neces- sary to carry into effect the provisions of this chapter relating to the stock law. (Rev. s. 1677; Code, s. 2826; C. S. 1847.)

Building and Repairing Fences.—County commissioners are not required by the stock-law to personally superintend the fence around the no fence territory; they discharge their duty under the statute when they levy the necessary taxes, appoint the committees, etc., to keep the fence in repair. State v. Commissioners, 97 N. C. 388, 1 S. E. 641.

But an owner of stock, however, who resides outside of such territory, is not liable to have his stock impounded within such territory, unless the county commissioners have kept the fence in good repair. In such case the presumption is that the fence is in good condition, and the burden is on the contrary on the party alleging it. Coor v. Rogers, 97 N. C. 143, 1 S. E. 613.

§ 68-22. Admission of lands adjoining stock-law territory.—Any person, or any number of persons, owning land in a county, district or township which shall not adopt the stock law, or adjoining any county, township or district where a stock law prevails, may have his or their lands enclosed within any fence built in pursuance of this chapter. All such adjacent lands, when so enclosed, shall be subject to all the provisions of law with respect to livestock running at large within the original district so enclosed, as if it were a part of the township, county or district with which it is hereby authorized to be enclosed. Any number of landowners, whose lands are con- tiguous, may at any time build a common fence around all their lands, with gates across all public highways; and no livestock shall run at large within any such enclosure, under the pains and penalties prescribed in this chapter. (Rev. s. 1678; Code, s. 2821; C. S. 1848.)

§ 68-23. Allowing stock at large in stock-law territory forbidden.—If any person shall allow his livestock to run at large within the limits of any county, township or district in which a stock law prevails or shall prevail pursuant to law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (Rev., s. 3319; Code, s. 2811; 1889, c. 504; C. S. 1849.)

Editor's Note.—For act declaring Nash county to be stock law territory, see Session Laws 1943, c. 45.

This section implies knowledge, consent or willingness on § 68-24. Impounding stock at large in territory.
—Any person may take up any livestock running at large within any township or district wherein the stock law shall be in force and impound the same; and such impounder may demand fifty cents for each animal so taken up, and twenty-five cents for each animal for every day such stock is kept impounded, and may retain the stock until all legal charges for impounding said stock and for damages caused by the same are paid, the damages to be ascertained by two disinterested freeholders, to be selected by the owner and the impounder, the freeholders to select an umpire, if they cannot agree, and their decision to be final. (Rev., s. 1679; Code, s. 2816; C. S. 1850.)

Constitutionality.—This and the following sections are constitutional, Hogan v. Brown, 125 N. C. 251, 34 S. E. 138. And resident owners may be required to pay a higher penalty than non-resident owners. Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 121 N. C. 418, 28 S. E. 315. See also, sec. 14-366.

$§ 68-25. Owner notified; sale of stock; application of proceeds.—If the owner of such stock be known to the impounder he shall immediately inform the owner where his stock is impounded, and if the owner shall for two days after such notice willfully refuse or neglect to redeem his stock, then the impounder, after ten days written notice posted at three or more public places within the township where the stock is impounded, and describing the stock and stating place, day and hour of sale, or if the owner be unknown, after twenty days notice in the same manner, and also at the courthouse door, shall sell the stock at public auction, and apply the proceeds in accordance with the provisions of this article, and the balance he shall turn over to the owner if known, and if the owner be not known, to the county commissioners for the use of the school fund of the district wherein said stock was taken up and impounded, subject in their hands for six months to the call of the legally entitled owner. (Rev., s. 1680; Code, s. 2817; C. S. 1851.)

§§ 68-26. Impounding unlawfully misdemeanor.—If any person shall willfully and unlawfully toll, drive, or in any way move any other person's horse, mule, ass, neat cattle, sheep, hog, goat, or dog, from the range or elsewhere, into any stock-law district, or into the limits of any city or town having the right to impound or destroy the same, with intent to secure the poundage or other penalty, or with intent to injure the owner of such animal, or to require him to pay any poundage or penalty on account of such animal, or for hire or reward, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any person shall unlawfully and willfully remove any animal above named from any lawful inclosure, with intent to injure the owner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3309; 1895, c. 141, s. 1; C. S. 1883.)

§§ 68-27. Illegally releasing or receiving impounded stock misdemeanor.—If any person unlawfully receives or releases any impounded stock, or unlawfully attempts to do so, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., s. 3310; Code, s. 2819; 1899, c. 504; C. S. 1853.)

§§ 68-28. Impounded stock to be fed and watered.—If any person shall impound, or cause to be impounded in any pound or other place, any animal, and shall fail to supply the same with necessary food and water, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., s. 3311; Code, s. 2484; 1891, c. 65; 1881, c. 368, s. 3; C. S. 1854.)

§§ 68-29. Right to feed impounded stock; owner liable.—In case any animal is at any time impounded as aforesaid, and shall continue to be without necessary food and water for more than twelve successive hours, it shall be lawful for any person from time to time, and as often as it shall be necessary, to enter into and upon any such pound or other place in which any animal shall so be confined, and to supply it with necessary food and water so long as it shall remain so confined. Such person shall not be liable to any action for such entry, and the reasonable cost of such food and water may be collected by him of the owner of such animal. (Rev., s. 1682; Code, s. 2485; 1881, c. 368, s. 4; C. S. 1855.)

In General.—The law recognizes the difference between an impounding fee and a charge for food; for sec. 68-24 prescribes the impounding fees for taking up stock running at large, and this section prescribes for payment of feeding such stock when taken up. The former fees go to the § 68-30. Injuring lands in stock-law territory by riding or driving.—If any person, by riding or driving upon the lands of another without permission, or while driving livestock along any roadway, public or private, shall willfully, deliberately or recklessly do or permit to be done any actual injury to said land, or to the crops or other property growing or being thereon, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. But no such offender shall be proceeded against unless the party injured, or some one in his behalf, shall cause a warrant to be issued or an indictment to be found against the party offending within fifteen days after the commission of the offense. (Rev., s. 3321; Code, s. 2888; 1889, c. 118; C. S. 1856.)

§ 68-31. Owner in stock-law territory allowing stock outside.—If any person having stock within the limits of a stock-law territory shall allow the same to run at large beyond the boundaries of said territory, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, That a person owning or renting land outside of the stock-law territory may turn his stock upon the said land outside of the stock-law district. (Rev., s. 3322; Code, s. 2887; 1889, c. 266; 1885, c. 371; C. S. 1857.)

§ 68-32. Stock-law territory to be fenced around.—The stock-law authorized by this chapter shall not be enforced until a fence has been erected around any territory proposed to be enclosed, with gates on all the public roads passing into and going out of said territory: Provided, all streams which are or may be declared to be lawful fences shall be sufficient boundaries, in lieu of fences: Provided further, no fence shall be erected along the boundary lines of any county, township or district where a stock law prevails. (Rev., s. 1683; Code, s. 2883; C. S. 1858.)

§ 68-33. Commissioners may declare natural barrier sufficient fence.—In any county in the state in which or in any portion of which the stock law is now in force or may hereafter be adopted, the county commissioners of said county in their discretion may declare any watercourse, mountain, mountain range or parts of same, and also other natural and sufficient obstruction along the line of said stock-law territory to be and constitute a sufficient stock-law fence, and in that event such watercourse, mountain, mountain range or part thereof so authorized by a said commissioner shall be and constitute a lawful fence to all intents and purposes. (Rev., s. 1684; 1901, c. 542; C. S. 1859.)

In General.—It is competent for the county commissioners to forbid stock from running at large within the county, and declare a mountain range, a creek, or other natural line, a fence as the limits of the law, and it is not a valid defense that no fence had been built on the line to prevent the stock from the adjoining county to run at large on his side of the line when one is prosecuting for allowing his stock to run at large. State v. Mathis, 149 N. C. 545, 63 S. E. 99.

§ 68-34. Assessment of landowners for fence.—For the purpose of building stock-law fences, the board of commissioners of the county may levy and collect a special assessment upon all real property, taxable by the county, within the county, township or district which may adopt the stock law, but no such assessment shall be greater than one-fourth of one per centum on the value of said property. (Rev., s. 1865; Code, s. 2824; C. S. 1860.)

In General.—In Busbee v. Commissioners, 93 N. C. 143, Smith, C. J., says: "But these local assessments are not uniform, although the general principle is to be applied, and it is no rule for them to stand upon a different footing and rest upon the equitable and just consideration that lands rendered more valuable by the improvements ought to contribute to the expense of making the improvements, and that these expenses ought not to fall upon the entire body of the taxpayers. The advantage is to the land, and to the persons only as owners of the land."

This section does not authorize the imposition of the assessment on the real estate of a township withdrawn from the benefit of the stock law by express legislative enactment for the purpose of raising money to replace the money withdrawn from the general fund to pay the expenses of fences erected by the commissioners. Harper v. Commissioners, 133 N. C. 216, 45 S. E. 527.

Constitutionality.—This section does not come within the prohibition of the State Constitution providing for uniform tax, as this is not of the nature of a tax, but is an assessment to defray expenses of local improvements, although called a tax by the Legislature. Shuford v. Commissioners, 86 N. C. 552; Calm v. Commissioners, 86 N. C. 671.

When Applicable.—The provisions of this section apply both to the cases where the adoption of the stock law is dependent on a popular vote, and where it is made absolute by an act of the General Assembly, Busbee v. Commissioners, 93 N. C. 141.

District in Two Counties.—If the district organized lies in two counties the assessment shall be as if it was all in one county. Commissioners v. Commissioners, 93 N. C. 180.

Railroad's Liability.—The roadbed and right of way of a railroad are liable to an assessment for local improvements. Commissioners v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 216, 45 S. E. 566.

Assessment Must be for Stock-Law Fences Only.—An assessment by a county upon the real estate to build a fence for the purpose of keeping the stock in anti-stock-law territory from running at large, is not a stock-law fence, and the money withdrawn from the general fund to pay the expenses of the fence is not a stock-law assessment, but is an assessment on the real estate of a township withdrawn from the benefit of the stock law by express legislative enactment, and is not a tax, but a fee for the privilege of using the roadbed and right of way of the railroad. Hawes v. Commissioners, 175 N. C. 268, 95 S. E. 482.

§ 68-35. Condemnation of land for fence.—If the owner of any land objects to the building of any fence herein allowed, his land, not exceeding twenty feet in width, shall be condemned for the fenceway in accordance with the procedure specified in the article Condemnation Proceedings under the chapter Eminent Domain. (Rev., s. 1866; Code, s. 2825; C. S. 1861.)

§ 68-36. Injury to stock-law fences misdemeanor in stock-law territory.—If any person willfully tears down, or in any manner breaks a fence, or gate, or leaves open a gate erected around a stock-law territory, or willfully breaks any enclosure within any township, district or county where a stock law is in force, and wherein any stock is confined, so that the same may escape therefrom, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., s. 3411; Code, s. 2820; 1889, c. 504; C. S. 1862.)

§ 68-37. Impounder violating stock law misdemeanor.—If any impounder willfully misappropriates money that he may receive from sale of stock impounded, or in any manner willfully violates any provisions of the law in regard thereto, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., s. 3312; Code, s. 2820; 1889, c. 504; C. S. 1863.)

§ 68-38. Local: Depredations of domestic fowls in certain counties.—In the counties and parts of counties hereinafter enumerated, where the stock law prevails, it shall be unlawful for any person to permit any turkeys, geese, chickens, ducks or other domestic fowls to run at large, after being notified as provided in this section, on the lands or other premises of any other person while such lands are under cultivation in any kind of grain or feedstuff, or while being used for gardens or ornamental purposes.

Any person so permitting his fowls to run at large, after having been notified to keep them up, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding five dollars or imprisoned not exceeding five days, or if it shall appear to any justice of the peace that after two days notice any person persists in allowing his fowls to run at large and fails or refuses to keep them upon his own premises, then the said justice of the peace may, in his discretion, order any sheriff, constable or other officer to kill said fowls when so depredating. § 68-39. Eastern North Carolina, territory placed under stock law. — From and after January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, all of that part of eastern North Carolina lying east of that branch of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad running from Wilmington, North Carolina, northerly to the Virginia line and passing through Goldsboro, Wilson, and Weldon (formerly known as the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad), shall be and is hereby declared to be "stock law territory," and shall be subject to all of the provisions of §§ 68-15 to 68-38, inclusive: Provided, that that portion of North Carolina which borders the Atlantic Ocean and which is separated from the mainland by a body of water such as an inlet or sound, shall not be considered to fall within the provisions of this law. (1921, c. 50, s. 1; C. S. 1864(a).)

§ 69-4. Inspection of premises; dangerous material removed.—The insurance commissioner, or the chief of fire department or chief of police where there is no chief of fire department, or local inspector of buildings in municipalities where such officer is elected or appointed, has the right at all reasonable hours, for the purpose of examination, to enter into and upon all buildings and premises in their jurisdiction. It is the duty of the insurance commissioner to require in all municipalities of the state that such officers make in their respective municipalities annual inspection of the buildings therein and quarterly inspection of all premises within the fire limits, and report in detail the results of their inspection to the insurance commissioner upon blanks furnished by him. When any of such officers find in any building or upon any premises combustible material or inflammable conditions dangerous to the safety of such building or premises they shall order the same to be removed or remedied, and this order shall be forthwith complied with by the owner or occupant of such building or premises. The owner or occupant may, within twenty-four hours, appeal to the insurance commissioner from the order, and the cause of the complaint shall be at once investigated by his direction, and unless by his authority the order of the officer above named is revoked it remains in force and must be forthwith complied with by the owner or occupant. § 69-5. (Rev., s. 4823; 1899, c. 58, s. 6; 1901, c. 387, s. 6; 1903, c. 719, s. 2; 1915, c. 109, s. 2; 1919, c. 186, s. 7; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 119; C. S. 6078.)

§ 69-6. Reports of insurance commissioner.—The insurance commissioner shall submit annually, as early as consistent with full and accurate preparation, and not later than the first day of June, a detailed report of his official action under this article, and it shall be embodied in his report to the general assembly. He shall, in his annual report, make a statement of the fires investigated, the value of property destroyed, the amount of insurance, if any, the origin of the fire, when ascertained, and the location of the property damaged or destroyed, whether in town, city, or country. (Rev., s. 4842; 1899, c. 58, s. 7; 1901, c. 387, s. 7; 1915, c. 109, s. 1; C. S. 6079.)

§ 69-7. Fire prevention and fire prevention day.—It is the duty of the insurance commissioner and superintendent of public instruction, as far as practicable, to provide, except to schools taught in one-story houses, pamphlets containing printed instructions for properly conducting fire drills in schools, and the superintendent or principal of every public school in this State, except schools taught in one-story houses, shall conduct at least one fire drill every month during the regular school session, such fire drills to include all children and teachers and the use of all ways of egress, and the Insurance Commission and Superintendent of Public Instruction shall further provide for the teaching of “Fire Prevention" in the colleges and schools of the state, and to arrange for a text-book adapted to such use. The ninth day of October of every year shall be set aside and designated as “Fire Prevention Day," and the governor shall issue a proclamation urging the people to a proper observance of the day, and the insurance commissioner shall bring the day and its observance to the attention of the officials of the municipalities of the state, and especially to the firemen, and where possible arrange suitable programs to be followed in its observance. (1915, c. 166, s. 5; 1925, c. 130; C. S. 6080.)

Art. 2. Fire-Escapes.

§ 69-8. Construction of buildings regulated.—All hotels, lodging houses, school dormitories, hospitals, sanitariums, apartment houses, flats, tenement houses and all buildings other than private dwellings not over three stories in height, in which rooms are to be rented or leased or let or offered for rent, let or leased for living or sleeping purposes, hereafter constructed in this state shall be constructed so that the occupants of all rooms above the first floor shall have unobstructed access to two separate and distinct ways of egress extending from the uppermost floor to the ground, such ways of egress to be so arranged in reference to rooms that in case of fire on one stairway the other stairway can be reached by the occupant without his or her having to pass the stairway involved. Entrance to all stairways mentioned in this section shall be from corridors or stairways not less than three feet in width, and in no case shall entrance to such ways of egress be through a room or closet, and where such building is in the opinion of the insurance commissioner of sufficient size to require more than two ways of egress the “National Fire Protection Association” standard governing corridors and stair areas shall be adhered to. Every hotel, lodging house, school dormitory, hospital, sanatorium, apartment house, flat, tenement or other building, other than a private dwelling not over three stories in height, in which rooms are rented, leased, let or offered for rent, shall, at the owner’s expense, be provided with additional ways of egress as the insurance commissioner shall deem practicable in order that the object of this article may be accomplished and that existing dangers may not be perpetuated. (1909, c. 657, s. 1; 1923, c. 149, s. 4; C. S. 6081.)

Editor’s Note.—Although the general subject matter of this section remains unaltered, its substance and provisions have been so altered by the amendment of 1923 as to leave no basis of comparison between the old and the new sections. For the provisions of the old section therefore, that section should be consulted.

Editor’s Note.—The number of employees which would bring certain buildings enumerated near the beginning of the section within the operation of this section was reduced from twenty to ten, by the amendment of 1923. The provision, in the latter part of the section, that the plans of buildings to be erected shall be submitted to and approved by the insurance commissioner before work is begun, is also new with the amendment of 1923.

§ 69-11. Fire-escapes to be provided.—All factories, manufacturing establishments or workshops of three or more stories in height, in which ten or more people are employed above the first floor thereof, shall be provided with one or (if the proper officials shall deem necessary) more outside fire-escapes, not less than six feet in length and three feet in width, properly and safely constructed, guarded by iron railings not less than three feet in length and taking in at least one door and one window or two windows at each story and connected with the interior by easily accessible and unobstructed openings; and the fire escapes shall connect by iron stairs not less than twenty-four inches wide, the steps to be not less than six inches tread, placed at not more than an angle of forty-five degrees slant, and protected by a well secured hand-rail on both sides, with a twelve-inch wide drop ladder from the lowest platform reaching to the ground. Each story of all factories, manufacturing establishments or workshops of three or more stories in height shall be amply supplied with means for extinguishing fires. All the main doors, both inside and outside, in factories, except fire doors, shall open outwardly, when the proper official shall so direct, and no outside or inside door of any building wherein operatives are employed shall be locked, bolted, or otherwise fastened during the hours of labor so as to prevent egress. (1909, c. 637, s. 4; 1923, c. 149, s. 2; C. S. 6084.)

bringing certain buildings enumerated near the beginning of the section within the operation of this section was reduced from thirty to ten, by the amendment of 1923.

§ 69-12. Ways of escape provided.—Every building now or hereafter used, in whole or in part, as a public building, public or private institution, schoolhouse, church, theater, public hall, place of assembly or place of public resort, and every building in which twenty or more persons are employed, allowed or accustomed to assemble, or accommodated above the second story in a factory, workshop, office building or mercantile or other establishment, when the owner or agent of the owner of the buildings is notified in writing by the insurance commissioner or one of his deputies, shall be provided with proper ways of egress or other means of escape from fire sufficient for the use of all persons accommodated, assembled, employed, lodging or residing in such building or buildings, and such ways of egress and means of escape shall be kept free from obstructions, in good repair, and ready for use. Every room above the second story in any such building in which twenty or more persons are employed shall be provided with more than one way of egress by a means of egress on the inside or outside of the building. All doors in any building subject to the provisions of this article shall open outwardly, if the insurance commissioner or one of his deputies shall so direct in writing. (1909, c. 637, s. 5; 1923, c. 119, s. 3; 1927, c. 55, s. 1; C. S. 6085.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1923, buildings where people are "allowed or accustomed to assemble or accommodated," and by the amendment of 1927, office buildings where people are employed, are brought within the operation of this section.

§ 69-13. Enforcement by insurance commissioner.—The insurance commissioner is charged with the execution of this article, and he or the chief of the fire department is vested with all privileges, duties, and obligations placed upon them in this chapter, in regard to the inspection of buildings, for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this article in regard to the buildings and requirements herein. Any owner or occupant of premises failing to comply with the provisions of this article, in accordance with the orders of the authorities above specified, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each day's neglect. If any owner or lessee of any building referred to in this article shall deem himself aggrieved by any ruling or order of any chief of fire department or local inspector, he may within twenty-four hours appeal to the insurance commissioner, and the cause of complaint shall at once be investigated by the direction of the commissioner, and unless by his authority the order or ruling is revoked it shall remain in full force and effect and be forthwith complied with by the owner or lessee. (1909, c. 637, s. 6; C. S. 6086.)

Art. 3. State Volunteer Fire Department.

§ 69-14. Purpose of article.—The purpose of this article shall be the creation of a state volunteer fire department to provide protection for property lying outside the boundaries of municipalities, and to render assistance anywhere within the state of North Carolina, in municipalities or counties, in emergencies caused by fire, floods, tornadoes, or otherwise, in the manner and subject to the conditions provided in this article. (1939, c. 364, s. 1.)

§ 69-15. Personnel. — The personnel of the North Carolina state volunteer fire department shall consist of all active members of the organized fire departments, who are members of the North Carolina state firemen's association, of municipalities whereof the governing bodies shall subscribe to and endorse this article. (1939, c. 364, s. 2.)

§ 69-16. Organization. — The North Carolina state fire marshal shall be chief of the state volunteer fire department; regular municipal fire chiefs shall be assistant chiefs; assistant chiefs shall be deputy chiefs; battalion chiefs, captains; lieutenants and privates shall hold the same positions that they occupy in their municipal companies. When engaged in rendering assistance at the scene of any emergency, the ranking officer of the first department arriving at the scene of the emergency shall have complete charge of all operations until the arrival of a superior officer. All subordinate officers and men shall act under the direction of such ranking officer. Whenever present at the scene of an emergency, the chief shall have full and complete control and authority over operations of all members of the department. (1939, c. 364, s. 3.)

§ 69-17. Acceptance by municipalities. — Any municipality having an organized fire department and desiring to participate in the establishment of the state volunteer fire department, may do so by a resolution of the governing body accepting and endorsing the provisions of this article: Provided, that acceptance shall not be compulsory. (1939, c. 364, s. 4.)

§ 69-18. Withdrawal.—Any municipality which has accepted the provisions of this article may withdraw its fire departments from membership in the state volunteer fire department by resolution of the governing body thereof. Notice of such withdrawal shall be given to the state fire marshal and withdrawal shall not become effective until sixty (60) days after his receipt thereof. (1939, c. 364, s. 5.)

§ 69-19. Dispatching firemen and apparatus from municipalities. — Municipalities endorsing this article shall retain full and complete control and authority in sending or permitting firemen and apparatus to go beyond the limits of the municipality. The governing bodies of such municipalities shall state and authorize a person, and at least two alternates, who shall have authority to grant or deny permission to firemen and apparatus to leave the municipality in all cases where request is made for assistance beyond its corporate limits, and the municipality shall, through the office of its municipal fire chief, furnish to the office of the state insurance commissioner, and to the secretary of the North Carolina state firemen's association, a list of the persons so authorized by the municipality. The secretary of the state firemen's association shall furnish to all municipalities and counties accepting this article a list of all such persons so designated. in all municipalities within the state. (1939, c. 364, s. 6.)

§ 69-20. No authority in state volunteer fire department to render assistance to non-accepting counties.—The state volunteer fire department shall not have authority to render assistance in any emergency occurring within a county which has not accepted the terms and conditions of this article by resolution of the board of county commissioners: Provided, that nothing in this article shall be construed to prevent any municipality from voluntarily permitting its fire department to render assistance in any emergency, notwithstanding that it may arise in a county which has failed to accept this article. (1939, c. 364, s. 7.)

§ 69-21. Acceptance by counties.—Any county desiring to accept the benefits of this article may do so by resolution of the board of county commissioners. The board may make the necessary appropriation therefor and levy annually taxes for payment of the same as a special purpose, in addition to any tax allowed by any special statute for the purposes enumerated in § 153-9, and in addition to the rate allowed by the constitution. Any such county may thereupon make agreements and enter into contracts with respect to payment for services rendered by the state volunteer fire department within its boundaries in the following manner:

The county may contract with any municipality which has accepted the terms of this article, whether within or without said county, to pay to such municipality an annual fee as a consideration for the municipality providing equipment and carrying compensation insurance which will enable it to respond to calls from within the county so contracting, and to pay an additional sum per truck for each mile traveled from the station house to the scene of the emergency, and to pay an additional sum per truck per hour or fraction thereof for the use of its water or chemical pumping equipment. Said sums shall be paid to the city within thirty (30) days after such services have been performed: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the county and municipality from adopting a different schedule of fees in cases where those provided above shall be considered excessive or inadequate: Provided, that if the emergency shall occur within the limits of another city or town, such city or town and not the county wherein it lies shall be responsible for the payments and shall assume all liabilities as provided in this section. Chapter 72. Inns, Hotels and Restaurants.

Art. 1. Innkeepers.

Art. 1. Innkeepers. § 72-1. Must furnish accommodations.—Every innkeeper shall at all times provide suitable food, rooms, beds and bedding for strangers and travelers whom he may accept as guests in his inn or hotel. (Rev., s. 1909; 1903, c. 563; C. S. 2249.)

Cross References.—As to innkeeper's lien on baggage, see §§ 44-30 to 44-32. As to obtaining entertainment at hotels and boarding houses without paying therefor, see § 14-110. For distinctions between "boarder" and "guest," see notes under the following section.

What Constitutes an Inn Generally.—A public inn hotel is a public house of entertainment for all who choose to visit it, and where all transient persons who may choose to come will be received as guests, for compensation; and it does not lose its character as such by reason of its being located at a summer resort or a watering place, or by taking some as boarders by a special contract or for a definite time. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 59 S. E. 1037.

Sleeping Car Not an Inn.—Though a "sleeping car" is a place for the reception of travelers, it is not an "inn." Garrett v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 727, 90 S. E. 903.

Boarding House.—A boarding house is as well known and as distinguishable from every other house in every city, village, and the country as an inn or tavern. It is a house where the business of keeping boarders generally oris carried on, and which is held out by the owner or keeper as a place where boarders are kept. State v. McRae, 170 N. C. 712, 713, 66 S. E. 1039.

Boarder and Guest Distinguished.—In 16 A. & E. Eq. 299, it is said: "The essential difference between the keeper of a boarding house and a guest at an inn is that a boarding house is maintained for the purpose of selling newspapers or books, or of soliciting employment as barbers, and, in order to render his business more lucrative, he may establish a laundry or a livery stable in connection with his hotel, or an innkeeper may contract with the proprietor of a livery stable in the vicinity to secure for the latter, as far as he legitimately can, the patronage of his guests in that line for a consideration. And a guest and not a boarder and guest at an inn lies in the character in which the party comes—that is, whether he is a transient person or not, and, accordingly, one who stops at an inn for the purposes of his journey. The proprietor is held for the safety of the latter's goods, chattels, and money, when placed infra hospitum and with him has for the purposes of his journey. The proprietor is held to be an insurer to the extent that he must make good to the guest all loss or damage arising from any cause except the act of God or the public enemy, or the fault of the guest himself or his agents or servants. Quinton v. Courtney, 2 N. C. 40; Neal v. Wilcox, 49 N. C. 476. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 369, 59 S. E. 1037.

Ordinary Care Now Required.—Even at a public inn or hotel, one who holds the position as a regular boarder or lodger can not maintain an action for negligence in the exercise of ordinary, proper and reasonable care in the custody of such baggage and property; and in case of such loss, damage or destruction resulting from the negligence and want of care of the said innkeeper he shall be liable to the owner of the said baggage and property to an amount not exceeding one hundred dollars. Any guest may, however, at any time before a loss, damage or destruction of his property, notify the innkeeper in writing of the value the said sum of one hundred dollars, and shall upon demand of the innkeeper furnish him a list or schedule of the same, with the value thereof, in which case the innkeeper shall be liable for the loss, damage or destruction of said property because of any negligence on his part for the full value of the same. Proof of the loss of any such baggage, except in case of damage or destruction by fire, shall be prima facie evidence of the negligence of said hotel or innkeeper. (Rev., s. 1910; 1903, c. 563, s. 2; C. S. 2250.)

What Constitutes Boarding House Keeper.—The keeper of a boarding house or room is one who receives compensation for his, either by taking boarders, or only occasionally, although he receives compensation for it, not an innkeeper. State v. Mathews, 19 N. C. 424.

Boarder and Guest Distinguished.—In 16 A. and E. Eq. (299), it is said: "The essential difference between a boarder and a guest at an inn lies in the character in which the party comes—that is, whether he is a transient person or not, and, accordingly, one who stops at an inn for the purposes of his journey. The proprietor is held for the safety of the latter's goods, chattels, and money, when placed infra hospitum and with him has for the purposes of his journey. The proprietor is held to be an insurer to the extent that he must make good to the guest all loss or damage arising from any cause except the act of God or the public enemy, or the fault of the guest himself or his agents or servants. Quinton v. Courtney, 2 N. C. 40; Neal v. Wilcox, 49 N. C. 476. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 369, 59 S. E. 1037.

Liability Extends to Guest.—When one is received at a public inn or hotel and entertained as a guest, without any prearrangement as to terms or time, but on the implied invitation held out to the public generally, he is a transient only—a guest and not a boarder—and entitled to recover of the defendant innkeeper as such. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 369, 59 S. E. 1037.

Same—Common Law Liability.—The decisions of this State are to the effect that, in the absence of statutory regulation, the keeper of a public inn, or hotel, which is the mod- ern equivalent of the modicum tolerated by the common law, is not an innkeeper in the ordinary sense of the word, but an innkeeper. After concluding such contracts, the innkeeper may contract with the proprietor of a livery stable in the vicinity to secure for the latter, as far as he legitimately can, the patronage of his guests in that line for a consideration. And a guest and not a boarder and guest at an inn lies in the character in which the party comes—that is, whether he is a transient person or not, and, accordingly, one who stops at an inn for the purposes of his journey. The proprietor is held to be an insurer to the extent that he must make good to the guest all loss or damage arising from any cause except the act of God or the public enemy, or the fault of the guest himself or his agents or servants. Quinton v. Courtney, 2 N. C. 40; Neal v. Wilcox, 49 N. C. 476. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 369, 59 S. E. 1037.

The exacting requirement of the common law, established in 16 A. & E. Eq. 299, has been fulfilled by the modern innkeeper. After concluding such contracts, the innkeeper may contract with the proprietor of a livery stable in the vicinity to secure for the latter, as far as he legitimately can, the patronage of his guests in that line for a consideration. And a guest and not a boarder and guest at an inn lies in the character in which the party comes—that is, whether he is a transient person or not, and, accordingly, one who stops at an inn for the purposes of his journey. The proprietor is held to be an insurer to the extent that he must make good to the guest all loss or damage arising from any cause except the act of God or the public enemy, or the fault of the guest himself or his agents or servants. Quinton v. Courtney, 2 N. C. 40; Neal v. Wilcox, 49 N. C. 476. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 369, 59 S. E. 1037.

Ordinary Care Now Required.—Even at a public inn or hotel, one who holds the position as a regular boarder or lodger can not maintain an action for negligence in the exercise of ordinary, proper and reasonable care in the custody of such baggage and property;
§ 72-3. State Board of Health—For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article the State Board of Health is authorized and required to inspect, through its officers or agents, without cost to the hotels or hospitals, all hotels and restaurants, hospitals and sanitariums, public and private, in the state once a year. If upon inspection of any hotel or restaurant, hospital or sanitarium, it shall be found that this article has been fully complied with, the secretary of the state board of health shall issue a certificate to that effect to the person operating the same, and such certificate shall be kept posted in plain view in some conspicuous place in said hotel or restaurant, hospital or sanitarium. (1917, c. 66, s. 23; 1923, c. 173; C. S. 2277.)

Editor's Note.—This section, originally passed in 1917, was repealed by Public Laws 1921, Chapter 186, sec. 22. However in 1923 this section was amended and reinstated in the Code, Public Laws 1923, Chapter 173. The effect of the amendment was to include hospitals and sanitariums, public and private, under the provision for inspection by the State Board of Health.

§ 72-4. Loss by fire.—No innkeeper shall be liable for loss, damage or destruction of any baggage or property caused by fire not resulting from the negligence of the innkeeper or by any other force over which the innkeeper had no control. Nothing herein contained shall enlarge the amount to which the innkeeper shall be liable as provided in preceding sections. (Rev. s. 1912; 1903, c. 563, s. 3; C. S. 2251.)

Chapter 73. Mills.

§ 73-1. Public mills defined. — Every water grist-mill, steam mill, or wind-mill, that grinds for toll, is a public mill. (Rev., s. 2119; Code, s. 1846; R. C., c. 71, s. 1; 1777, c. 122, s. 1; C. S. 2353.)

§ 73-2. Miller to grind according to turn; tolls regulated. — All millers of public mills shall grind according to turn, and shall well and sufficiently grind the grain brought to their mills, if the water will permit, and shall take no more toll for grinding than one-eighth of a half bushel. State v. Perry, 50 N. C. 252. The measure kept need not be averred in the indictment. Id.

§ 73-3. Measures to be kept; tolls by weight or measure. — All millers shall keep in their mills the following measures, namely, a half-bushel and peck of full measure, and also proper toll-dishes for each measure; but the toll allowed by law may be taken by weight or measure at the option of the miller and customer. (Rev., s. 2121; Code, s. 1848; 1855, c. 202; R. C., c. 71, s. 7; 1777, c. 122, s. 11; C. S. 2353.)

§ 73-4. Keeping false toll-dishes misdemeanor. — If any owner, by himself or servant, keeping any mill, shall keep any false toll-dishes, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3679; Code, s. 1848; R. C., c. 71, s. 7; 1777, c. 122, s. 11; C. S. 2353.)

“False Toll Dishes” Defined. — The words “false toll dish,” as used in the statute, mean a toll dish measuring more than one-eighth of a half bushel. State v. Perry, 50 N. C. 252. The measure kept need not be averred in the indictment. Id.

Sufficiency of Evidence. — An indictment for keeping false toll dishes was sufficiently supported by proving measures of one-seventh and one-sixth of a half bushel were kept. State v. Perry, 50 N. C. 252. But an indictment for keeping a false toll dish is not sustained by proof that the mill owner took one-sixth part of any kind; and every miller and keeper of a mill making default therein shall, for each offense, forfeit and pay five dollars to the party injured: Provided, that the owner may grind his own grain at any time. (Rev., s. 2120; Code, s. 1847; R. C., c. 71, s. 6; 1777, c. 122, s. 10; 1793, c. 402; 1905, c. 694; 1907, c. 367; C. S. 2353.)

Cross Reference. — For full treatment of eminent domain proceeding, see §§ 49-1 et seq.

Corporation That Erects Mills Generally. — The Legislature, in providing for the condemnation of land for the purpose of erecting mills thereon, classifies a corporation that erects mills generally as one of those private corporations which enjoys a prerogative franchise because of some powers or duties, which it is to perform for the public, and to that extent is quasi public. Bass v. Roanoke Navig., etc., Co., 111 N. C. 439, 454, 16 S. E. 402.

Withdrawal of Verbal Consent to Maintain Dam. — The plaintiff built a mill, and, with the verbal consent of the defendant, constructed a dam across a stream upon land of the latter after the mill had been in operation for several years, the defendant withdrew his consent to the further use of the land for this purpose, and notified the plaintiff to level the dam, which he failed to do. Thereupon the defendant caused the obstruction to be removed. In an action by the plaintiff for damages, it was held that the plaintiff should have taken a conveyance of the easement, or pursued the remedy pointed out for the condemnation of land for mill purposes. Kivett v. McKeithan, 90 N. C. 106.
§ 73-6. Commissioners to be appointed.—If no just cause is shown against the building of such mill, the court shall appoint three freeholders, one of whom shall be chosen by the plaintiff, another by the defendants, and the third by the court, or if the plaintiff or defendants refuse or fail, or unreasonably delay to name a commissioner, the court shall name one in lieu of such delinquent party. These commissioners may be changed from time to time by permission of the court for just cause shown. (Rev., s. 2123; Code, s. 1850; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 2; C. S. 2536.)

§ 73-7. Meeting to be appointed and commissioners notified; witnesses examined.—The third commissioner shall cause the others to be notified of the time and place of meeting, and shall preside at their meetings. They may, if necessary, summon and examine witnesses, who shall be sworn by the presiding commissioner. Any commissioner named by or for either of the parties who, without just cause, fails to attend any meeting notified by the president, shall forfeit and pay to the opposite party fifty dollars; and if the president, in like manner, unreasonably delays to notify the other commissioners of a meeting, or fails to attend one that is appointed, he shall forfeit and pay to the plaintiff fifty dollars, and to the defendant a like sum. (Rev., s. 2124; Code, s. 1851; 1868-9, s. 3; C. S. 2537.)

§ 73-8. Oath and duty of commissioners.—The commissioners shall be sworn by some officer qualified to administer an oath to act impartially between the parties, and to perform the duties herein imposed on them honestly and to the best of their ability. They shall view the premises where the mill is proposed to be built, and shall lay off and value a portion of the land of the defendants opposite thereto, and report their proceedings to the court within a reasonable time, not exceeding sixty days. (Rev., s. 2125; Code, s. 1851; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 3; C. S. 2538.)

§ 73-9. Contents of commissioners’ report.—The report of the commissioners shall set forth:
1. The location, quantities and value of the several areas laid off by them.
2. Whether either of them includes houses, gardens, orchards or other immediate conveniences.
3. Whether the proposed mill will overflow another mill or create a nuisance in the neighborhood.
4. Any other matter upon which they have been directed by the court to report, or which they may think necessary to the doing of full justice between the parties. (Rev., s. 2126; Code, s. 1853; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 5; C. S. 2539.)

§ 73-11. Power of court on return of report.—If the report is in favor of building the proposed mill, and is confirmed, then the court may, in its discretion, allow either the plaintiff or defendant to erect such mill at the place proposed, and shall order the costs, and the value of the opposite area, to be paid by the party to whom such leave is granted; and upon such payment, the party to whom such leave is granted shall be entitled with title in fee to the opposite area. § 73-14. Special proceedings; summons.—Any person who has land on one or both sides of a stream and wishes to build a water mill, or has a water-mill already built and may find it necessary for the better operation of said mill or the building of the said mill to convey water either to or from his mill by ditch, waterway, drain, mill-race or tail-race, or in any other manner, over the lands of any other person, or erect a dam to pond said water over the lands of any other person, or raise any dam already built, is forbidden to proceed without a license. (Rev., s. 2132; 1905, c. 534, s. 1b; C. S. 2545.)

§ 73-17. Oath and duty of commissioners.—The appraisers having met, shall take an oath before some officer qualified to administer oaths to faithfully perform their duty and to do impartial justice in the case, and shall then examine all the lands in any way to be affected by the said work and assess the damage thereto and make report thereof under their hands and seals to the clerk from whom the notice issued, who shall have power to confirm the same. The damage assessed by the appraisers under this article shall include all damages that the owners shall thereafter suffer or be entitled to by reason of the construction of the said waterways, races, ditches or dams. (Rev., s. 2135; 1905, c. 534, s. 1e, m; C. S. 2548.)

§ 73-19. Provided, he has first paid or tendered the damage assessed as above to the owner of such lands or his known or recognized agent in this state. If the owner is a nonresident and has no known agent in this state, the amount so assessed shall be paid by the petitioner into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county for the use of such owner: Provided further, that the mill-owner shall not be compelled to pay said damages so assessed unless he shall enter upon such lands and make ditches, drains or other works or erect such dam. (Rev., s. 2137; 1905, c. 534, s. 11; C. S. 2550.)

§ 73-20. When petitioner may enter on lands.—After the return of the appraisers and the confirmation thereof the petitioner shall have full right and power to enter upon said lands and make such ditches, waterways, drains, races or other necessary works and construct such dams. Provided, he has first paid or tendered the damage assessed as above to the owner of such lands or his known or recognized agent in this state. If the owner is a nonresident and has no known agent in this state, the amount so assessed shall be paid by the petitioner into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county for the use of such owner: Provided further, that the mill-owner shall not be compelled to pay said damages so assessed unless he shall enter upon such lands and make ditches, drains or other works or erect such dam. (Rev., s. 2137; 1905, c. 534, s. 11; C. S. 2550.)

§ 73-21. When any person violates the provisions of this section the owner of said mill or millsites shall have a right of action against said person to tear down said dam or other works so built or erected to the extent herein forbidden and to abate the same as prescribed by law for the abatement of nuisances. (Rev., s. 2138; 1905, c. 534, s. 1h; C. S. 2551.)

In his complaint he shall set forth in what respect and to what extent he is injured, together with such other matters as may be necessary to entitle him to the relief demanded. The court shall then proceed to hear and determine all the questions of law and issues of fact arising on the pleadings as in other civil actions. (Rev, Exclusiveness of Remedy.—Ordinarily, in cases to which the power to exclude is exercised. Kins- land v. Kinsland, 186 N. C. 760, 120 S. E. 358.

Section Does Not Apply to Trespass.—The remedy under this section does not apply to an action for damages for a trespass committed on the plaintiff's land. Henley v. Wilson, 77 N. C. 216.

Sufficiency of Description.—A petition for damages, caused by the erection of defendant's milldam, an issue involving the amount of annual damage done and the proper one to be submitted to the jury. Hester v. Brook, 84 N. C. 253.

Procedure to Assess Damages.—In a petition for damages resulting from ponding water upon plaintiff's land, caused by the erection of defendant's milldam, an issue involving the amount of annual damage done and the proper one to be submitted to the jury. V. L. R. A. 819, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 881.

Easement Limited to Mill Purposes.—Where the lower proprietor had built a mill at a lower point on the stream, and therefor the upper proprietor to pond water back therefrom, the dam erected on his own land to operate a public mill, the exercise of this right under the easement does not affect the title to the submerged land of the upper proprietor or subject the upper proprietor to an action for damages that will start the running of the statute of limitations, nor will this use of the water ponded on the land of the former proprietor be liable to be enjoined by the lower proprietor for fishing with hook and seine ripen into his exclusive use for these purposes. Thomas v. Morris, 191 N. C. 129 S. 349.

Liability for Defect in Bridge.—When water was thrown, by the erection of a milldam, upon the highway, and the former proprietor of the mill had built bridges over the water, which, during his ownership, were repaired, and which were also repaired by the present proprietor, who did not give any other evidence, order that the dam, or other cause creating the injury, shall be removed, and the plaintiff is not able to commence the action for damages. Pugh v. Wheeler, 107 N. C. 766, 12 S. E. 369.

Easement Not Granted by Payment of Judgment.—The payment of a judgment for ponding water by a milldam does not amount to the purchase by defendant of an easement to pond back water on plaintiff's land. Candler v. Ashe-ville Elect. Co., 115 N. C. 12, 47 S. E. 114.

§ 73-26. When dams, etc., abated as nuisances.

When damages are recovered in final judgment in such civil actions, and execution issues and is re- turned unsatisfied, and the plaintiff is not able to compel the removal of the nuisance, the court may order that the same be removed, and the plaintiff is entitled to permanent damages, past, present, and prospective. Bor- den v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 174 N. C. 72, 93 S. E. 424.

Damage to Health.—Damages may be given for injury to health as well as to land, see, Gellet v. Jones, 18 N. C. 339. See also, Waddy v. Johnson, 27 N. C. 333.

Exemplary Damages.—In an action for overflowing plain- tiff's land by the construction of a milldam, where a recovery has been had before, and the nuisance still exists, the plaintiff can recover sufficient exemplary damages to compel an abatement of the nuisance. Carruthers v. Tillman, 2 N. C. 301, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 856.

Decrease of Custom.—Where, in suit for damages for ponding water, it appeared that plaintiff sustained injury to his mill by reason of defendant's erecting another mill and dam lower down on the same stream, the measure of damages was the amount of the damages actually sustained by plaintiff up to the time of trial; and, in estimating the same, the decrease of custom of the premises was not to be considered. Burnett v. Nicholson, 86 N. C. 99, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 856.

Counterclaim Inadmissable.—In an action for damages for ponding water, it is not competent for the defendant to frame a counterclaim to the action, and to the judge to charge that defendants could not set up as off- set and counterclaim any benefit which plaintiff had re- ceived from his use of the milldam, that the court should, upon all the evidence, ascertain if plaintiff had sustained any dam- age. McGee v. Fox, 107 N. C. 766, 12 S. E. 369.

Action May Be Brought at Any Time.—Ponding a stream so as to throw the water over the land of a proprietor above, which the water did not before cover, gives him a good cause of action at any time when he may wish to enforce it. Ceder v. Ashe-ville Elect. Co., 115 N. C. 12, 47 S. E. 114.

Permanency of Damages.—In an action for backing water on plaintiff's land, the dam was a permanent one, and the plaintiff was entitled to permanent damages, past, present, and prospective. Bor- den v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 174 N. C. 72, 93 S. E. 424.

Damage to Health.—Damages may be given for injury to health as well as to land, see, Gellet v. Jones, 18 N. C. 339. See also, Waddy v. Johnson, 27 N. C. 333.

§ 73-27. Judgment for annual sum as damages.

—A judgment giving to the plaintiff an annual sum by way of damages shall be binding between the parties for five years from the issuing of the summons, if the mill is kept up during that time, unless the damages are increased by raising the water or otherwise.

In all cases where the final judgment of the court assesses the yearly damage of the plaintiff as high as twenty dollars, nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prevent the plaintiff, his heirs or assigns, from suing as here-before, and in such case the final judgment aforesaid shall be binding only for the year's damage preceding the issuing of the summons. (Rev., ss. 2143, 2144; Code, ss. 1860, 1861; 1868-9, c. 158, ss. 12, 14; C. S. 2557.)

Assessment Cannot Be Beyond Preceding Year.—In processing for a certificate for ponding water on plaintiff's land, the jury have no right to go back further than one year in assessing damages, but if they do, the error may be corrected by the court only giving judgment for one year preceding the issuing of the summons. Goodson v. Mullen, 92 N. C. 207.

Judgment May Be for Sum in Gross.—Where, in an action for damages to land by ponding water on it, the jury found that the land was damaged eighty dollars per year, it was not erroneous for the court to give judgment for a sum in gross, and not for each year's damages. Goodson v. Mullen, 92 N. C. 207, 211.

Recurring Causes of Action.—Case for nuisance in erecting a mill with its accompanying free continuance after action brought; heavy damages are not usual in the first verdict, but in a second action the damages should be high to compel an abatement of the nuisance. — v. Deberry, 2 N. C. 248, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 836.

Conclusiveness of Damages.—In a proceeding to recover damages for ponding water by a milldam, the verdict of the jury and the judgment of the court thereon are conclusive as to the assessment of damages, up to the time when such judgment was rendered. An application for relief from damages, assessed for a period subsequent to the time of the judgment, can only be heard if the dam is taken away or lowered. Beatty v. Conner, 34 N. C. 341.

Judgment Not Res Judicata.—An action to abate a dam and for damages to land caused by the ponding back of water was submitted to arbitrators to find whether plain-iffs were entitled to damages, and, if so, distinguishing in finding the same between those from permanent injuries and annual damages for five years from a certain date. The arbitrators assessed "the permanent damage of the plain-iffs to this date to their lands" at a certain sum, and also awarded a certain annual damage for each of the five years.

Judgment was entered on the award, the judgment providing that the execution should be subject to the provisions of section 73-26. The judgment was not res judicata of plainiff's right to recover damages after the termination of the five-year period for all except a fresh injury, since the judgment contemplated the removal of the dam at the end of the five years. Candler v. Asheville Elect. Co., 135 N.

§ 73-28. Final judgment; costs and execution.

If the final judgment of the court is that the plaintiff has sustained no damage, he shall pay the costs of his proceeding; but if the final judgment is in favor of the plaintiff, he shall have execution against the defendant for one year's damage, preceding the issuing of the summons, and for all costs: Provided, that if the damage adjudged does not amount to five dollars, the plaintiff shall recover no more costs than damages. And if the defendant does not annually pay the plaintiff, his heirs or assigns, before it falls due, the sum adjudged as the damages for that year, the plaintiff may sue out execution for the amount of the last year's damage, or any part thereof which may re-

§ 74-1. Lessor not held partner of lessee.—No lessor of property, real or personal, for mining purposes, although the lessee may receive an uncertain sum of the proceeds or net profits, or any other consideration, which, though uncertain at first, may afterwards become certain, shall be held as a partner of the lessee; nor shall any of the legal or equitable relations or liabilities of copartners exist between them, unless it is so stipulated in the contract between the lessor and lessee. (Rev., s. 4930; Code, s. 3292; R. C., c. 72; 1830, c. 46; C. S. 6897.)

§ 74-2. Minors under sixteen not to be employed.—No minor under sixteen years of age shall be allowed to work in any mine, and in all cases of minors applying for work the agent of such mine shall see that the provisions of this section are not violated; and the inspector may, when doubt exists as to the age of any person found working in any mine, examine under oath such person and his parents, or other witnesses, as to his age. (Rev., s. 4931; 1897, c. 251, s. 7; 1901, c. 100, s. 6; C. S. 6897.)

§ 74-3. Operator to furnish timber. — The owner, agent, or operator of every coal mine shall keep a supply of timber constantly on hand, and shall deliver the same to the working place of the miner, and no miner shall be held responsible for accident which may occur in the mine where the provisions of this section have not been complied with by the owner, agent, or operator thereof, resulting directly or indirectly from the failure to deliver such timber. (Rev., s. 4932; 1897, c. 251, s. 5; C. S. 6898.)

§ 74-4. Unused mines to be fenced.—All underground entrances to any place not in actual course of working or extension shall be properly fenced across the whole width of such entrance so as to prevent persons from inadvertently entering the same. (Rev., s. 4933; 1897, c. 251, s. 5; C. S. 6899.)

§ 74-5. Means of ingress and egress provided.—No owner or agent of any coal mine worked by shaft shall permit any person to work therein unless there are, to every seam of coal worked in such mine, at least two separate outlets, separated by natural strata of not less than one hundred feet in breadth, by which shafts or outlets distinct means of ingress and egress are always available to the persons employed in the mine; but it is not necessary for the two outlets to belong to the same mine if the persons employed therein have safe, ready, and available means of ingress or egress by not less than two openings. This section shall not apply to opening a new mine while being worked for the purpose of making communications between the two outlets, so long as not more than twenty persons are employed at one time in such mine; neither shall it apply to any mine or part of a mine in which the second outlet has been rendered unavailable by reason of the final robbing of pillars previous to abandonment, as long as not more than twenty persons are employed therein at any one time. The cage or cages and other means of egress shall at all times be available for the persons employed when there is no second outlet. The escapement shafts shall be fitted with safe and available appliances, which shall always be kept in a safe condition, by which the persons employed in the mine may readily escape in case an accident occurs; and in no case shall an air shaft with a ventilating furnace at the bottom be construed to be an escapement shaft within the meaning of this section. To all other coal mines, whether slopes or drifts, two such openings or outlets must be provided within twelve months after shipments of coal have commenced from such mine; and in case such outlets are not provided as herein stipulated, it shall not be lawful for the agent or owner of such slope or drift to permit more than ten persons to work therein at any one time. (Rev., s. 4934; 1897, c. 251, s. 4; C. S. 6900.)

§ 74-6. Hoisting engines; how operated.—No owner or agent of any mine operated by a shaft or slope shall place in charge of any engine used for lowering into or hoisting out of mines persons employed therein any but experienced, competent, and sober engineers, and no engineers in charge of such engine shall allow any persons except as may be deputed for such purposes by the owner or agent to interfere with it or any part of the machinery, and no person shall interfere or in any way intimidate the engineer in the discharge of his duties, and in no case shall more than six men ride on any cage or car at one time, and no person shall ride upon a loaded cage or car in any shaft or slope. (Rev., s. 4935; 1897, c. 251, s. 6; 1911, c. 183; C. S. 6901.)

§ 74-7. Ventilation. — The owner or agent of any coal mine, whether shaft, slope, or drift, shall provide and maintain for every such mine an amount of ventilation of not less than one hundred cubic feet per minute per person employed in such mine, which shall be circulated and distributed throughout the mine in such a manner as to—lute, render harmless and expel the poisonous and noxious gases from every working place in the mine. No working place shall be driven more than sixty feet in advance of a break-through or airway, and all break-throughs or airways, except those last made near the working places of the mine, shall be closed up by brattice trap-doors, or otherwise, so that the currents of air in circulation in the mine may spread to the interior of the mine when the persons employed in such mine are at work. All mines governed by this chapter shall be provided with artificial means of producing ventilation, such as forcing or suction fans, exhaust steam furnaces, or other contrivances of such capacity and power as to produce and maintain an abundant supply of air, and all mines generating fire damp shall be kept free from standing gas. (Rev., s. 4936; 1897, c. 251, s. 5; C. S. 6902.)

§ 74-8. Daily examinations; safety lamps.—Every working place shall be examined every morning with a safety lamp by a competent person before any workmen are allowed to enter the mine. All safety lamps used in examining mines, or for working therein, shall be the property of the operator of the mine, and a competent person shall be appointed, who shall examine every safety lamp before it is taken into the workings for use, and ascertain it to be clean, safe, and securely locked, and safety lamps shall not be used until they have been so examined and found safe and clean and securely locked, unless permission be first given by the mine foreman to have the lamps used unlocked. No one except the duly authorized person shall have in his possession a key, or any other contrivance, for the purpose of unlocking any safety lamp in any mine where locked lamps are used. No matches or any other apparatus for striking lights shall be taken into any mine, or parts thereof, except under the direction of the mine foreman. (Rev., s. 4937; 1897, c. 251, ss. 5, 6; C. S. 6903.)

§ 74-9. Report of ventilation.—The mine foreman shall measure the ventilation at least once a week, at the inlet and outlet, and also at or near the face of all the entries, and the measurement of air so made shall be noted on blanks furnished by the inspector; and on the first day of each month the mine boss of each mine shall sign one of such blanks, properly filled with the actual measurement, and present the same to the inspector. (Rev., s. 4938; 1897, c. 251, s. 6; C. S. 6904.)

§ 74-10. Notice of opening or changing mines given.—The owner, agent, or manager of any mine shall give notice to the inspector in the following cases: 1. When any working is commenced for the purpose of opening a new shaft, slope, or mine, to which this chapter applies. 2. When any mine is abandoned, or the working thereof discontinued. 3. When the working of any mine is recommenced after an abandonment or discontinuance for a period exceeding three months. 4. When a squeeze or crush, or any other cause or change, may seem to affect the safety of persons employed in the mine, or when fire occurs. (Rev., s. 4939; 1897, c. 251, s. 7; C. S. 6905.)

§ 74-11. Notice of accidents given.—The owner, agent, or manager of every mine shall, within twenty-four hours next after any accident or explosion, whereby loss of life or personal injury may have been occasioned, send notice, in writing, by mail or otherwise, to the inspector, and shall specify in such notice the character and cause of the accident, and the name or names of the persons killed and injured, with the extent and nature of the injuries sustained. When any personal injury of which notice is required to be sent under this section results in the death of the person injured, notice in writing shall be sent to the inspector within twenty-four hours after such death comes to the knowledge of the owner, agent, or manager; and when loss of life occurs in any mine by explosion, or accident, or results from personal injuries so received, the owner, agent, or manager of such mine shall notify the coroner of the county in which such mine is situated, and the coroner shall hold an inquest upon the body of the person whose death has been thus caused, and inquire carefully into the cause thereof, and return a copy of the finding of the jury and all the testimony to the inspector. (Rev., s. 4940; 1897, c. 251, s. 6; C. S. 6906.)

§ 74-12. Report to inspector.—The owner, lessee, or agent in charge of any mine or quarry, or who is engaged in mining or quarrying or producing any mineral whatsoever in this state, shall, on or before the thirtieth day of January in every year, send to the office of the inspector upon blanks to be furnished by him a correct return, specifying with respect to the preceding calendar year the quantity of coal, iron ore, fire-clay, limestone, or other mineral product of such mine or quarry, and the number of persons ordinarily employed in or about such mine or quarry below and above ground, distinguishing the persons and labor below ground and above ground: Provided, that nothing in this section shall require the owner, lessor or agent in charge of any quarry who does not employ more than ten persons to work in any one quarry at the same time, to file or make any of the reports required under this section. (Rev., s. 4941; 1897, c. 251, s. 3; 1939, c. 293, s. 2; C. S. 6907.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1939 amendment the report was required to be made on or before the thirtieth of November.

§ 74-13. Liability for injuries.—For any injury to person or property occasioned by any wilful violation of this chapter, or any wilful failure to comply with its provisions, by any owner, agent, or manager of the mine, a right of action shall accrue to the party injured for any damage he may sustain thereby; and in any case of loss of life by reason of such wilful neglect or failure a personal injury of which notice is required to be sent under this section results in the death of the person injured, notice in writing shall be sent to the inspector, and at the time of the accident or death the persons killed and injured, with the extent and cause of the accident, and the name or names of the persons killed and injured, and the amount of wages, if any, for which the deceased might have been entitled, shall be specified in such notice to the inspector, and the amount of wages then due the deceased, together with the wages due to the injured person, shall be certified by the inspector, and the amount of wages so specified in such notice shall be considered as the wages earned by the deceased at the time of his death, and may be recovered as wages due to the deceased if the wages were not then paid, or if the deceased was entitled thereto at the time of his death.

§ 74-14. Punishment for violation.—If any person shall knowingly violate any of the provisions of the law relating to mines or shall do anything whereby the life or health of persons or the security of any mine and machinery is endangered, or if any miner or other person employed in any mine governed by the statutes shall intentionally or wilfully neglect or refuse to securely prop the roof of any working place under his control, or neglect or refuse to obey any orders given by the superintendent of a mine in relation to the security of a mine in the part thereof where he is at work and for fifteen feet back of his working place, or if any miner, workman, or other person shall knowingly injure any water-gauge, barometer, air-course, or brattice, or shall obstruct or throw open any airways, or shall handle or disturb any part of the machinery of the hoisting engine or signaling apparatus or wire connected therewith, or air pipes or fittings, or open a door of the mine and not have the same closed again, whereby danger is produced either to the mine or those that work therein, or shall enter any part of the mine against caution, or shall disobey any order given in pursuance of law, or shall do any wilful act whereby the lives and health of the persons working in the mine or the security of the mine or the machinery thereof is endangered, or if the person having charge of a mine whenever loss of life occurs by accident connected with the machinery of such mine or by explosion shall neglect or refuse to give notice thereof by mail or otherwise to the inspector and to the coroner of the county in which such mine is situated, or if any such coroner shall neglect or refuse to hold an inquest upon the body of the person whose death has thereby been caused, and return a copy of his findings and a copy of all the testimony to the inspector, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned in the county jail not more than thirty days, or both. (Rev., s. 3797; 1897, c. 251, s. 8; C. S. 6909.)

Art. 2. Inspection of Mines and Quarries.

§ 74-15. Commissioner of Labor to inspect mines and quarries.—The Commissioner of Labor, acting through the director of the division of standards and inspection of the Department of Labor, shall perform the duties of mine inspector as provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 4943; 1897, c. 251, s. 1; 1931, c. 312; C. S. 6910.)

§ 74-17. May enter to make examinations.—For the purpose of making the inspection and examinations provided for in this chapter, the inspector shall have the right to enter any mine at all reasonable times, by night or by day, but in such manner as shall not unnecessarily obstruct the working of the mine; and the owner or agent of such mine is hereby required to furnish the means necessary for such entry and inspection; the inspection and examination herein provided for shall extend to fire-clay, iron ore, and other mines as well as coal mines. (Rev., s. 4945; 1897, c. 251, s. 2; C. S. 6912.)

§ 74-18. Death by accident investigated.—Upon receiving notice of any death occurring from accident it shall be the duty of the inspector to go himself, or send a representative, at once to the mine in which the death occurred and inquire into the cause of the same, and to make a written report fully setting forth the condition of that part of the mine where such death occurred and the cause which led to the same; which report shall be filed by the inspector in his office as a matter of record and for future reference. (Rev., s. 4946; 1897, c. 251, s. 6; C. S. 6913.)

§ 74-19. Record of examinations.—He shall make a record of all examinations of mines, showing the date when examination is made, the condition in which the mines are found, the extent to which the laws relating to mines and mining are observed or violated, the progress made in the improvements and security of life and health sought to be secured by the provisions of this chapter, number of accidents, injuries received, or deaths in or about the mines, the number of mines in the state, the number of persons employed in or about each mine, together with all such other facts and information of public interest, concerning the condition of mines, development and progress of mining in the state as he may think useful and proper, which record shall be filed in the office of the inspector, and as much thereof as may be of public interest to be included in his annual report. (Rev., s. 4947; 1897, c. 251, s. 2; C. S. 6914.)

§ 74-20. Papers to be preserved.—He shall keep in his office and carefully preserve all maps, surveys, and other reports and papers required by law to be filed with him, and so arrange and preserve the same as shall make them a permanent record of ready, convenient, and connected reference. (Rev., s. 4948; 1897, c. 251, s. 3; C. S. 6915.)

§ 74-21. Inspector to enforce law; counsel furnished.—In case of any controversy or disagreement between the inspector and the owner or operator of any mine or the persons working therein, or in case of conditions or emergencies requiring counsel, the inspector may call on the governor for such assistance and counsel as may be necessary. If the inspector finds any of the provisions of this chapter violated or not complied with by any owner, lessee, or agent in charge, unless the same is within a reasonable time rectified, and the provisions of this chapter fully complied with, he shall institute an action in the name of the state to compel the compliance therewith. The inspector shall exercise a sound discretion in the enforcement of this chapter. (Rev., s. 4949; 1897, c. 251, s. 2; C. S. 6916.)

§ 74-22. Operation enjoined when law violated.—On application of the inspector, after suit brought as directed in § 74-21, of a court of competent jurisdiction may enjoin or restrain the owner or agent from working or operating such mine until it is made to conform to the provisions of this chapter; and such remedy shall be cumulative, and shall not take the place of or affect any other proceedings against such owner or agent authorized by law for the matter complained of in such action. (Rev., s. 4950; 1897, c. 251, s. 7; C. S. 6917.)

§ 74-23. Report to governor. — The inspector shall annually make report to the governor of all his proceedings, the condition and operation of the different mines of the state, and the number of mines and the number of persons employed in or about such mines, the amount of coal, iron ore, limestone, fire-clay, or other mineral mined in this state; and he shall enumerate all accidents in or about the mines, and the manner in which they occurred, and give all such other information as he thinks useful and proper, and make such suggestions as he deems important relative to mines and mining, and any legislation that may be necessary on the subject for the better preservation of the life and health of those engaged in such industry. (Rev., s. 4951; 1897, c. 251, s. 3; C. S. 6918.)

Articles one and two made applicable to quarries. — For the purpose of providing for the safety of workers in quarries in North Carolina, the provisions of articles one and two of this chapter, relating to the operation and inspection of mines are hereby made applicable to quarries in so far as such provisions are suitable to the operation and inspection of quarries. (1939, c. 223, s. 1.)

The owner of the lands to be affected shall be made a party defendant, and the proceeding shall be conducted as other special proceedings. (Rev., s. 4953; Code, ss. 3293, 3294, 3300; 1871-2, c. 158, ss. 1, 3; C. S. 6920.)

Cross Reference. — As to reports not required of small quarries, see § 74-12.

§ 74-26. The petition, what to contain. — The petition shall specify the lands to be affected, the name of the owner of such lands, and the character of the ditch or drain intended to be made. (Rev., s. 4954; Code, s. 3294; 1871-2, c. 158, s. 3; C. S 6921.)

§ 74-27. Appraisers; appointment and duties. — Upon the hearing of the petition, if the prayer thereof be granted, the clerk shall appoint three disinterested persons, qualified to act as jurors, and not connected either by blood or marriage with the parties, appraisers to assess the damage, if any, that will accrue to the lands by the contemplated work, and shall issue a notice to them to meet upon the premises at a day specified, not to exceed ten days from the date of such notice. The appraisers having met, shall take an oath before some officer qualified to administer oaths to faithfully perform their duty and to do impartial justice in the case, and shall then examine all the lands in any way to be affected by such work, and assess the damage thereto, and make report thereof under their hands and seals to the clerk from whom the notice issued. (Rev., s. 4955; Code, ss. 3295, 3296, 3299; 1871-2, c. 158, ss. 4, 5, 9; C. S. 6922.)

If the owner be a nonresident and have no known agent, then in this state, the amount so assessed shall be paid by the petitioner into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county for the use of such owner. (Rev., s. 4957; Code, s. 3298; 1871-2, c. 158, s. 12; C. S. 6923.)

§ 74-29. Registration of report. — The petitioner, or any other person interested, may have the report of the appraisers registered upon the certificate of the clerk and shall pay the register a fee of twenty-five cents therefor. (Rev., s. 4957; Code, s. 3298; 1871-2, c. 158, s. 8; C. S. 6924.)

§ 74-30. Obstructing mining drains. — If any person shall obstruct any drain or ditch constructed under the provisions of this chapter, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3380; Code, s. 3301; 1871-2, c. 158, s. 12; C. S. 6925.)

§ 74-31. Disposition of waste. — In getting out and washing the products of kaolin and mica mines, the persons engaged in such business shall have the right to allow the waste, water, and sediment to run off into the natural courses and streams. (1917, c. 123; 1937, c. 378; C. S. 6926.)

Editor’s Note. — The 1937 amendment, which made this section applicable to mica mines, provides: “This act shall not affect pending litigation.”

Art. 4. Adjustment of Conflicting Claims.

§ 74-32. Liability for damage for trespass. — If any owner or person in possession of any mine or mining claim shall enter upon, either on the surface or underground, any mine or mining claim, the property of another, and shall mine or carry away any valuable mineral therefrom, he shall be liable to the owner of the mine so trespassed upon for double the value of all such mineral mined or carried away and for all other damages; and the value of the mineral mined or carried away shall be presumed to be the amount of the gross value ascertained by an average assay of the excavated material or vein or ledge from which it was taken. If such trespass is wrongfully and wilfully made, punitive damages may be allowed. (1913, c. 51, s. 1; C. S. 6927.)

Action by Cotenant. — Where tenants in common, under the erroneous impression that they owned the fee, removed valuable minerals from the property, upon suit by the other tenant in common for damages under this section and admission by the defendants of the cotenancy, removal and [ 728 ] value, plaintiff was entitled to judgment on the pleadings, though not to the damages provided in this section. Jones v. McBee, 222 N. C. 152, 22 S. E. (2d) 226.

Cited in Carolina Mineral Co. v. Young, 211 N. C. 387, 190 S. E. 529.

§ 75-13. Persons entitled to bring suit.—The owner of a mine in this state, or any person in possession under a lease or other contract, may maintain an action to recover damages to such property arising from the operation of any adjacent mine by the owner thereof or other person in possession and working the same under lease or contract, and also to prevent the continuance of the operation of the adjacent mine in such a manner as to injure or endanger the safety of the complainant’s mine. (1913, c. 51, s. 1; C. S. 6928.)

§ 75-14. Action to obtain mandatory order. —If the order made for the survey in the manner, at the time, and by the persons mentioned in the order, which shall include a representative of the party making the application, who shall not be one of the surveyors, there shall be given free access to the mine for the purpose of survey, and any interference with the persons acting under the order of survey shall be contempt of court and punished accordingly. If the persons named in the order of survey so require, they, with their instruments, shall be carefully lowered and raised in and out of the mine with the cage, bucket, or skip ordinarily used in the shafts of the mine; and they may demand of the owner of the mine, or his manager or agent, that they be so raised and lowered at a speed agreeable to them and not to endanger their comfort and safety or to injure the accuracy of their instruments. The owner of the mine, his managers or agents, shall be liable in damages to the persons making the examination for any injury to them or to their instruments, caused by the careless and negligent operation of any bucket, cage, or skip at such a high rate of speed as to injure the persons or their instruments while being lowered or raised in the mine. (1913, c. 51, s. 2; C. S. 6930.)

§ 75-16. Civil action by person injured; treble damages. —The costs of the order and survey shall be paid by the person making the application, who shall not be one of the surveyors, there shall be given free access to the mine for the purpose of survey, and any interference with the persons acting under the order of survey shall be contempt of court and punished accordingly. If the persons named in the order of survey so require, they, with their instruments, shall be carefully lowered and raised in and out of the mine with the cage, bucket, or skip ordinarily used in the shafts of the mine; and they may demand of the owner of the mine, or his manager or agent, that they be so raised and lowered at a speed agreeable to them and not to endanger their comfort and safety or to injure the accuracy of their instruments. The owner of the mine, his managers or agents, shall be liable in damages to the persons making the examination for any injury to them or to their instruments, caused by the careless and negligent operation of any bucket, cage, or skip at such a high rate of speed as to injure the persons or their instruments while being lowered or raised in the mine. (1913, c. 51, s. 2; C. S. 6931.)

Chapter 75. Monopolies and Trusts.

Sec.
75-1. Combinations in restraint of trade illegal.
75-2. Any restraint in violation of common law included.
75-3. Burden of proof as to reasonableness on defendant.
75-4. Contracts to be in writing.
75-5. Particular acts defined.
75-6. Violation a misdemeanor; punishment.
75-7. Persons encouraging violation guilty.
75-8. Continuous violations separate offenses.
75-9. Duty of attorney-general to investigate.

§ 75-1. Combinations in restraint of trade illegal.—Every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce in the state of North Caro-

Any restraint in violation of common law included.—Any act, contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce which violates the principles of the common law is hereby declared to be in violation of § 75-1. (1913, c. 41, s. 1; C. S. 2559.)

Monopoly Defined.—"A monopoly consists in the ownership or control of a part of the market supply or output of a given commodity so as to stifle competition, restrict the freedom of commerce, and give the monopolist control over prices." State v. Atlantic Ice, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 742, 747, 188 S. E. 412, quoting Black's Law Dictionary (34 Ed.), p. 1202.

In the modern and wider sense monopoly denotes a combination or organization, or entity which is so extensive and unified that its tendency is to suppress competition, to acquire a dominance in the market, and to secure the power to control prices to the public harm with respect to any commodity which people are under a practical compulsion to buy. State v. Atlantic Ice, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 742, 747, 188 S. E. 412, citing Massachusetts v. Dover, 243 Mass. 472, 133 N. E. 296.

Agreement Not to Compete May Be Forbidden.—Persons and corporations cannot be ordered to compete, but they properly can be forbidden to give directions, or make agreements, to compete. State v. Craft, 168 N. C. 263, 231, 83 S. E. 772.

Agreement Not to Sell to Particular Individual.—A complaint alleging that defendants conspired and agreed not to sell plaintiff's ice, and that as a result thereof plaintiff's business was ruined, fails to state a cause of action, this and the following sections not being applicable. Lineberger v. Colonial Ice Co., 220 N. C. 444, 447 S. E. (2d) 502.

Reduction of Prices to Consuming Public No Defense.—Plaintiff, a carrier by truck, instituted this action against defendants, alleging that the reduction in rates resulted in lower prices to the consuming public on the products on which the rates had been reduced. Held: The matter alleged does not constitute a defense to the action, since the state is against both the raising and lowering of prices by unlawful means for an unlawful purpose, and since the law is interested in preventing competition rather than obtaining temporary benefits from price wars in which competition is extinguished. Patterson v. Southern Ry. Co., 214 N. C. 38, 198 S. E. 364.

Averment without allegation of specific facts is insufficient to constitute a cause of action, under this and following sections. State v. Standard Oil Co., 205 N. C. 225, 176 S. E. 402.

Cross Reference.—As to difference between "partial restraint" and "general restraint," see annotations to § 77.

Distinction between Common Law and Modern Rules.—Originally at common law, agreements in restraint of trade were held void as being against public policy. The common law has been modified by the decisions of the courts until it has come to be the very generally accepted principle that agreements in partial restraint of trade will be upheld when they are "founded on valuable considerations, are reasonably necessary to protect the interests of the parties in whose favor they are imposed, and do not unduly prejudice the public interest." Mar-Hof Co. v. Rosenbach, 176 N. C. 330, 331, 97 S. E. 169. The distinction may now be made between "general restraint" and "partial restraint." Morehead Sea Food Co. v. Way & Co., 169 N. C. 679, 86 S. E. 603.

§ 75-3. Burden of proof as to reasonableness on defendant.—All contracts, combinations in the form of trust, and conspiracies in restraint of trade or commerce prohibited in §§ 75-1 and 75-2 are hereby declared to be unreasonable and illegal, unless the persons entering into such contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce can show affirmatively upon an indictment or civil action for violation of §§ 75-1 and 75-2 that such contract, combination in the form of trust, conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce does not injure the business of any competitor, or prevent any one from becoming a competitor because his or its business will be unfairly injured by reason of such contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce. (1913, c. 41, s. 3; C. S. 2561.)

§ 75-4. Contracts to be in writing.—No contract or agreement hereafter made, limiting the right of any person to do business anywhere in the state of North Carolina shall be enforceable unless such agreement is in writing duly signed by the party who agrees not to enter into any such business within such territory: Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to legalize any contract or agreement not to enter to business in the state of North Carolina, or at any point in the state of North Carolina, which contract is now illegal, or which contract is made illegal by any other section of this chapter. (1913, c. 41, s. 4; C. S. 2562.)

§ 75-5. Particular acts defined.—In addition to the matters and things hereinafter declared to be illegal, the following acts are declared to be unlawful, that is, for any person, firm, corporation, or association directly or indirectly to do or have any contract, express or knowingly implied, to do any of the acts or things specified in any of the subsections of this section.

1. To agree or conspire with any other person, firm, corporation or association to put down or keep down the price of any article produced in this state by the labor of others, which article the person, firm, corporation or association intends, plans or desires to buy.

2. To make a sale of any goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things of value whatsoever in North Carolina, whether directly or indirectly, or through any agent or employee, upon the condition that the purchaser thereof shall not deal in the goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things of value of a competitor or rival in the business of the person, firm, corporation or association making such sales.

3. To willfully destroy or injure, or undertake to destroy or injure, the business of any opponent or business rival in the state of North Carolina with the purpose or intention of attempting any reduction in the price of anything of value when the competition is removed.

4. To directly or indirectly buy or sell within the state, through himself or itself, or through any agent of any kind or as agent or principal, or together with or through any allied, subsidiary or dependent person, firm, corporation or association, any article or thing of value which is sold.
or bought, in the state to injure or destroy or undertake to injure or destroy the business of any rival or opponent, by lowering the price of any article or thing of value sold, so low as to raise the price of any article or thing of value bought, so high as to leave an unreasonable or inadequate profit for a time, with the purpose of increasing the profit on the business when such rival or opponent is driven out of business, or his or its business is injured.

5. To deal in any thing of value within the state of North Carolina, to give away or sell, at a place where there is competition, such thing of value at a price lower than is charged by such person, firm, corporation or association for the same thing at another place, where there is not good and sufficient reason, on account of transportation or the expense of doing business, for charging less at the one place than at the other, with the view of injuring the business of another.

6. To engage in buying or selling any thing of value in North Carolina, to make or have, any agreement or understanding, express or implied, with any other person, firm, corporation or association, not to buy or sell such things of value within certain territorial limits within the state, with intention of preventing competition in selling or to fix the price or prevent competition in buying of such things of value within these limits:

Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to prevent an agent from representing more than one principal; but nothing in this proviso shall be construed to authorize two or more principals to employ a common agent for the purpose of suppressing competition; provided further, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent a person, firm or corporation from selling his or its business and good will to a competitor, and agreeing in writing not to enter the business in competition with the purchaser in a limited territory, as is now allowed under the common law: Provided, such agreement shall not violate the principles of the common law against trusts and shall not violate the provisions of this chapter. (1913, c. 41, s. 5; C. S. 2563.)

Restrictive Stipulations in Sale.-Transactions involving the sale and disposition of a business trade or profession between individuals with stipulations restricting of competition on the part of the vendor do not, as a rule, tend to un­duly harm the public and are ordinarily sustained to the extent required to afford reasonable protection to the vendee in the enjoyment of property or proprietary rights he has bought and paid for, and to enable a vendor to dispose of his property at its full and fair value. Mar-Hof Co. v. Rosenbacker, 176 N. C. 330, 97 S. E. 169.

Test as to Reasonableness.—A valid contract in partial restraint of trade, while primarily for the advantage of the purchaser of a business, inures to the benefit of the seller and tends to unjustly enrich him to obtain a better price for the sale of his business, the test as to territory being whether the restraint agreed upon is such as to afford protection to the interest of the party in whose favor it is given, and not so large as to interfere with the interest of the public; and such will not be held to be unreasonable when they do not affect the public convenience, nor remove the danger to the purchaser of competition with the seller. Morehead Sea Food Co. v. Way & Co., 160 N. C. 679, 86 S. E. 603.

Contract Not to Engage in Competing Business.—A pro­motion of an agreement for the sale to the vendee to eliminate competition therein, and the agreement was reasonable or necessary for the article to yield a profit in its sale. State v. Craft, 165 N. C. 453, 81 S. E. 772.

Reasonableness of Agreement to Raise Price Immaterial.—A contract made in order to protect him from competition, and raising the price of food, to raise its price, is an indictable offense at the common law, and evidence that dealers controlling a large part of the supply of milk in a town having by agreement raised its price to purchasers, and its price was raised in order to protect the seller from competition in its sale and to secure a profit of a party to the agreement had also raised the price of milk to his customers, or whether the agreement was reasonable or necessary for the article to yield a profit in its sale. State v. Craft, 165 N. C. 453, 81 S. E. 772.

Same—Intent Immaterial.—The intent of milk dealers combining to raise the price of milk is immaterial. State v. Craft, 169 N. C. 679, 86 S. E. 603.

Illegal Division of Territory.—Under a contract dividing a county into separate territory, within which each of the respective parties was not to interfere with the business of the other in operating cotton gins, etc., the plaintiff sold to the defendant a cotton ginning plant, the latter agreeing to remove the plant and not to again operate it there, the intent of the agreement was a division of territory, with the object to eliminate competition therein, and the agreement will not be enforced. Shute v. Shute, 176 N. C. 463, 97 S. E. 132.

Exclusive Sale for Specified Period.—A contract made in good faith between a vendor and purchaser of a certain particular make or character of a manufactured product that restricts the freedom of the vendor to sell articles of the same make to others, and which conflicts with others' right to sell the purchaser's merchandise, and with the objects of the latter's interest or the public or the consumer, is in violation of this section. Food Co. v. Way & Co., 169 N. C. 679, 86 S. E. 603.

Contract not to Sell at Label Price.—A contract of sale of merchandise for resale by the buyer, which stipulates that the buyer will not sell the merchandise except at label prices and will not sell or permit the sale of any other similar merchandise, is violative of this section. Standard Fash­ion Co. v. Grant, 165 N. C. 453, 81 S. E. 603.

§ 75-6. Contract in Violation of Section Unenforceable.—A contract made in violation of the terms of this section will not be enforced. Standard Fashion Co. v. Grant, 165 N. C. 433, 161 S. E. 606; Shute v. Shute, 176 N. C. 463, 176 S. E. 622.

§ 75-7. Threats to Retali ate unless Competition Violation.—Threats by one company that it would sell ice in the town of a second ice company, if that company competed with the first, were not prohibited by this section. Smith v. Morganton Ice Co., 159 N. C. 151, 159 S. E. 961.

§ 75-9. Duty of attorney-general to investigate. —The attorney-general of the state of North Carolina shall have power, and it shall be his duty, to investigate, from time to time, the affairs of all corporations doing business in this state, which are or may be embraced within the meaning of the statutes of this state defining and denouncing trusts and combinations against trade and commerce, or which he shall be of opinion are so embraced, and all other corporations in North Carolina doing business in violation of law; and all other public-service corporations of any kind or nature whatever which are doing business in the state for hire. Such investigation shall be with a view of ascertaining whether the law or any rule of the Utilities Commission or Commission of Banks is being or has been violated by any such corporation, officers or agents or employees thereof, and if so, in what respect, with the purpose of acquiring such information as may be necessary to enable him to prosecute any such corporation, its agents, officers and employees for crime, or prosecute civil actions against them if he discovers they are liable and should be prosecuted. (1913, c. 41, s. 5; 1933, c. 134) s. 19416; 188 S. E. 432.

§ 75-10. Power to compel examination. —In performing the duty required in § 75-9, the attorney-general shall have power, at any and all times, to require the officers, agents or employees of any such corporation, and all other persons having knowledge with respect to the matters and affairs of such corporations, to submit themselves to examination by him, and produce for his inspection any of the books and papers of any such corporations, or which are in any way connected with the business thereof; and the attorney-general is hereby given the right to administer oath to any person whom he may desire to examine. He shall also, if it may become necessary, have a right to apply to any judge of the supreme or superior court, after five days notice of such application, for an order on any person or corporation he may desire to examine to appear and subject himself or itself to such examination, and disobedience of such order shall constitute contempt, and shall be punishable as in other cases of disobedience of a proper order of such judge. (1913, c. 41, s. 5; C. S. 2565.)

§ 75-12. Refusal to furnish information; false swearing.—Any corporation unlawfully refusing or willfully neglecting to furnish the information required by this chapter, when it is demanded as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than one thousand dollars: Provided, that if any corporation shall in writing notify the attorney-general that it objects to the time or place designated by him for the examination or inspection provided for in this chapter, it shall be his duty to apply to a judge of the supreme or superior court, who shall fix an appropriate time and place for such examination or inspection, and such corporation shall, in such event, be guilty under this section only in the event of its failure, refusal or neglect to appear at the time and place so fixed by the judge and furnish the information required by this chapter. False swearing by any person examined under the provisions of this chapter shall constitute perjury, and the person guilty of it shall be punishable as in other cases of perjury. (1913, c. 41, s. 10; C. S. 2570.)

§ 75-13. Criminal prosecution; solicitors to assist; expenses.—The attorney-general in carrying out the provisions of this chapter shall have a right to send bills of indictment before any grand jury in any county in which it is alleged this chapter has been violated or in any adjoining county, and may take charge of and prosecute all cases coming within the purview of this chapter, and shall have the power to call to his assistance in the performance of any of these duties of his office which he may assign to them any of the solicitors in the state, who shall, upon being required to do so by the attorney-general, send bills of indictment and assist him in the performance of the duties of his office. (1913, c. 41, s. 13; C. S. 2571.)

If it shall become necessary to do so, the attorney-general may prosecute civil actions in the name of the state on relation of the attorney-general to obtain a mandatory order to carry out the provisions of this chapter, and the venue shall be in any county as selected by the attorney-general. (1913, c. 41, s. 11; C. S. 2572.)

§ 75-15. Actions prosecuted by Attorney-General.—It shall be the duty of the attorney-general, upon his ascertaining that the laws have been violated by any trust or public-service corporation, so as to render it liable to prosecution in a civil action, to prosecute such action in the name of the state, or any officer or department thereof, as provided by law, or in the name of the state on relation of the attorney-general, and to prosecute all officers or agents or employees of such corporations, whenever in his opinion the interests of the public require it. (1913, c. 41, s. 13; C. S. 2573.)

§ 75-16. Civil action by person injured; treble damages.—If the business of any person, firm or corporation shall be broken up, destroyed or injured by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of the provisions of this chapter, such person, firm or corporation so injured shall have a right of action on account of such injury done, and if damages are assessed by a jury in such case judgment shall be rendered in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for treble the amount fixed by the verdict. (1913, c. 41, s. 14; C. S. 2574.)

Causal Relation Between Violation and Injury Must Be Shown.—Section 75-5 condemns a contract of sale only when such sale is made "upon the condition" that the purchaser shall not deal in the goods or merchandise of a competitor of the seller, and in order for a party to recover damages for a breach of the statute under the provisions of this section, he must show a violation of the statute and a causal relation between the violation and injury to his business. Lewis v. Archbell, 199 N. C. 205, 154 S. E. 11. See Bennett v. Southern Ry. Co., 211 N. C. 474, 191 S. E. 240.

Who May Bring Action.—The contention that an action for the violation of this chapter resulting in injury to a party's business can only be brought by the attorney general is contrary to the provisions of this section. Bennett v. Southern Ry. Co., 211 N. C. 474, 191 S. E. 240.

§ 76-1 CH. 76. NAVIGATION—CAPE FEAR RIVER

§ 76-1. Board of commissioners of navigation and pilotage. — A board of commissioners of navigation and pilotage for the Cape Fear river and bar, to consist of five members, at least four of whom shall be residents of New Hanover County, and none of whom shall be licensed pilots, is hereby created. The members of the board shall be appointed by the governor and their terms of office shall begin on the fifteenth day of April of the year in which they are appointed and continue for four years and until their successors shall be appointed and qualified. They shall be and are hereby declared to be commissioners for a special purpose, within the purview of section seven, article fourteen, of the constitution of North Carolina. It shall be the duty of the governor to appoint, on or before the fifth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, and on or before the fifth day of April of every fourth year thereafter, the members of said board of commissioners. A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum and may act in all cases. The board shall have power to fill vacancies in its membership as they occur during their term, to appoint a clerk to record in a book, rules, orders and proceedings of the board, and the board shall have authority in all matters that may concern the navigation of waters from seven miles above Negro-head Point downwards, and out of the bar and inlets. They shall annually, on the first Monday in May, appoint a harbor master for the port of Wilmington. (1921, c. 79, s. 1; C. S. 6943(a).

Editor’s Note.—The cases discussed below were decided under section C. S. 6943, now repealed. However, these cases seem applicable to the present law as the provisions of former section 6943 are substantially set forth in the instant section.

Constitutionality.—This article is constitutional as it is an exercise of the State’s right to regulate pilotage, and should be construed liberally as a part of the maritime law. It does not create a monopoly or grant special privileges, but only regulates for the protection of the public. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N. C. 88, 60 S. E. 920.

The Legislature may confer upon a local board of commissioners of navigation and pilotage authority to mark out cruising grounds for pilot boats. Morse v. Heide, 152 N. C. 625, 63 S. E. 172.

Time of Appointment.—The time of making the appointment of commissioners is merely directory, and if appointment is made after the fifth day of April, but before the fifteenth day of April, it is valid. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N. C. 88, 60 S. E. 920.

§ 76-2. Rules to regulate pilotage service. — The board shall from time to time make and establish such rules and regulations respecting the qualifications, arrangements, and station of pilots as to them shall seem most desirable, and shall impose such reasonable fines, forfeitures and penalties as may be prescribed for the purpose of enforcing the execution of such rules and regulations. The board shall also have power and authority to prescribe, reduce, and limit the number of pilots necessary to maintain an efficient pilotage service for the Cape Fear River and bar, as in its discretion may be necessary: Provided, that the present number of eleven pilots now actively engaged in the service shall not be reduced except for cause or by resignation, disability, or death. Whenever in the opinion of a majority of the board, the best interests of the port of Wilmington, the state of North Carolina, and the pilotage service shall require it, the board shall have power and authority to organize all pilots licensed by it into a mutual association, under such reasonable rules and regulations as the board may prescribe; any licensed pilot refusing to become a member of such association shall be subject to suspension.
or to have his license revoked, at the discretion of the board. (1921, c. 79, s. 2; 1927, c. 158, s. 1; C. S. 6943(b)).

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1927 inserted the second sentence.

Reasonable Regulations.—A rule and regulation of the board to the effect that pilots shall not cruise beyond certain territory and that no pilot, except under certain unusual circumstances, shall be entitled to his fee for such services if they be tendered beyond the cruising ground they had left off is valid and reasonable. Morse v. Heide, 152 N. C. 625, 68 S. E. 173.

§ 76-3. Examination and licensing of pilots. — The board, or a majority of them, may from time to time examine, or cause to be examined, such persons as may offer themselves to be pilots for the Cape Fear river and bar, and shall give to such as are approved commissions under their hands and the seal of the board, to act as pilots for the river and bar; and the number of pilots so commissioned, not exceeding fifteen at any one time, shall be left to the discretion of the board, but the limitation as to number herein shall not deprive the board of the power to issue license to any person who is a duly licensed pilot at the time of the passage of this article. (1921, c. 79, s. 3; 1927, c. 158, s. 2; C. S. 6943(c)).

Editor's Note.—The 1927 amendment substituted the word "may" for the word "shall" near the first part of this section.

Limiting Number of Pilots.—The limiting of the number of pilots, and providing for examinations and qualifications, is a valid exercise of the police powers and is not such a grant of special privileges to certain persons as is provided against by the Constitution. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N. C. 88, 60 S. E. 520.

§ 76-4. Appointment and regulation of pilots' apprentices. — The board, when it deems necessary for the best interests of the port, is hereby authorized to appoint in its discretion apprentices, and to make and enforce reasonable rules and regulations relating to apprentices. No apprentice shall be required to serve for a longer period than three years in order to obtain a license to pilot vessels of a draught of not exceeding fifteen feet, and one year thereafter for a license to pilot vessels of a draught of more than fifteen feet. No one shall be entered as an apprentice who is of the age of more than twenty-five years. (1921, c. 79, s. 4; 1927, c. 158, s. 3; C. S. 6943(d)).

Editor's Note.—The words "appoint in its discretion apprentices, and to" appearing in lines 3 and 4 were inserted by the 1927 amendment.

(1) A license to pilot vessels whose draught of water does not exceed eighteen feet, to such applicants above the age of twenty-one years, who have served as apprentices for such length of time as is required by the rules and regulations of the board to entitle such applicant to such license;

(2) An unlimited or full license to those who have served at least one year under a license of the first class: Provided, that the board shall have power to appoint pilots without reference to apprenticeship record as in its judgment the service may require. (1921, c. 79, s. 5; 1927, c. 158, s. 4; C. S. 6943(e)).

Editor's Note.—The word "eighteen" was substituted for "fifteen" in subsection one and the proviso at the end of subsection two was added by the 1927 amendment.

§ 76-6. Renewal of license; license fee. — All licenses shall be renewed annually upon payment of a fee of five dollars ($5): Provided, the holder of such license shall have, during the year preceding the date for such renewal, complied with the provisions of this article and the reasonable rules and regulations prescribed by the board under authority hereof. (1921, c. 79, s. 6; C. S. 6943(f)).

§ 76-7. Expenses of the board. — Each pilot, or the association of pilots, when organized as in this article provided, shall pay over to the board under such reasonable rules as the board shall prescribe two per cent (2%) of each and every pilotage fee received, for the purpose of providing funds to defray the necessary expenses of the board. In the event that the total of the sums so paid over in any one year shall exceed the expenses of the board, the excess, upon being duly ascertained, shall be paid over to the fund for the benefit of widows and orphans of the deceased pilots, as said fund is now constituted and provided for by law. (1921, c. 79, s. 7; C. S. 6943(g)).

§ 76-8. Pilots to give bond. — Every person before being commissioned as a pilot shall give bond for the faithful performance of his duties, with two or more sureties, payable to the state of North Carolina in the sum of five hundred dollars ($500); the board may, from time to time, and as often as it may deem necessary, enlarge the penalty of the bond, or require new or additional bonds to be given in a sum or sums not to exceed in all, one thousand dollars ($1,000). Every bond taken of a pilot shall be filed with and preserved by the board, in trust for every person, firm, or corporation, who shall be injured by the neglect or misconduct of such pilots, and any person, firm, or corporation, so injured may severally bring suit for the damage by each one sustained. (1921, c. 79, s. 8; C. S. 6943(h)).

§ 76-9. Permission to run as pilots on steamers; other ports. — The board shall have power to grant permission in writing to any pilot in good standing and authorized to pilot vessels, to run regularly as pilots on steamers running between the port of Wilmington and other ports of the United States, under such rules and regulations as the board shall prescribe. (1921, c. 79, s. 9; C. S. 6943(i)).

§ 76-10. Cancellation of licenses. — The board shall have the power to call in and cancel the license of any pilot who has refused or neglected, except in case of sickness, his duty as a pilot for a period of six months in succession, and any pilot who has been absent from the state for a longer period than six months in succession shall, upon his return, surrender his license to the board, or the board may declare the same void, except when such absence has been under permission from the board as provided in § 76-9. (1921, c. 79, s. 10; C. S. 6943(j)).

power and authority to hear and determine any matter of dispute between any pilot and any master of a vessel, or between pilots themselves, respecting the piloting of any vessel and any one of them may issue a warrant against any pilot for the recovery of any demand which one pilot may have against another, relative to piloting, and for the recovery of any forfeiture or penalty provided by law, relating to piloting on Cape Fear River and bar, or provided by any by-law or rule or regulation enacted by the board by virtue of any such law, which warrant the sheriff or any constable in New Hanover or Brunswick counties, shall execute together with any other process authorized by this article. On any warrant issued as herein provided any one of said commissioners may give judgment for any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500), and may issue execution thereon, in like manner as is provided for the issuing of execution on judgments rendered by justices of the peace, which writ of execution shall be executed agreeably to the law regulating the levy and sale under executions issuing from courts of justices of the peace. Any member of the board shall have authority to issue summons for witnesses and to administer oaths, and hearings before any member of the board of any matters as provided in this section shall conform as nearly as may be to procedure provided by law in courts of justices of the peace. From any judgment rendered by any member of the board, either party shall have the right of appeal to the superior court of New Hanover or Brunswick counties, in like manner as is provided for appeals on judgments of justices of the peace. (1921, c. 79, s. 11; C. S. 6943(k).)

§ 76-14. Pay for detention of pilots.—Every master of a vessel who shall detain a pilot at the time appointed so that he cannot proceed to sea, though wind and weather permit, shall pay such pilot ten dollars ($10) per day during the time of his actual detention, the pilot to have due notice from the master or agent of said vessel. (1921, c. 79, s. 14; C.S. 6943(m).)

Editor’s Note.—A majority of the pilotage rates as fixed by this section were changed by the 1927 amendment, most of them having been raised.

Pilot Entitled to Pilotage.—The first pilot speaking a vessel shall be entitled to the pilotage fees over the bar to Southport and out to sea again, provided said pilot be ready and willing to serve as a pilot, etc. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N.C. 88, 60 S.E. 920. A barge of over sixty gross tons having a United States licensed pilot on board is subject to pilotage, tender and refusal under this section upon entering North Carolina waters. Craig v. Gulf Barge, etc., Co., 201 N.C. 250, 159 S.E. 424.

§ 76-15. Vessels not liable for pilotage.—Any vessel coming into Southport from sea without the assistance of a pilot, the wind and weather being such that such assistance or service could have been reasonably given, shall not be liable for pilotage inward from sea, and shall be at liberty to depart without payment of any pilotage, unless the services of a pilot be secured. (1921, c. 79, s. 15; C.S. 6943(o).)

Validity.—This section is valid, when construed with the other sections of said chapter, being an incentive to render pilots vigilant. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N.C. 88, 60 S.E. 920.

§ 76-16. First pilot to speak vessel to get fees.—The first pilot speaking a vessel from a regularly numbered and licensed boat of this board shall be entitled to the pilotage fees over the bar to Southport, and out to sea again: Provided, said pilot shall be ready and willing to serve as pilot when the vessel is ready to depart, due notice having been given by the master or agent to said pilot. (1921, c. 79, s. 16; C.S. 6943(p).)

§ 76-17. Vessels entering for harborage exempt.—Any vessel coming in from sea for harbor shall not be required to take a pilot either from sea inward or back to sea. (1921, c. 79, s. 17; C.S. 6943(q).)

§ 76-18. Harbor master of Wilmington; duties.—The harbor master appointed for the port of Wilmington shall hold his office for one year next ensuing and until his successor is appointed. The harbor master shall have power and is required: 1. To keep the channel-way of the Cape Fear river and the track of vessels clear; to berth vessels at appropriate wharves or docks; to change the berth of any vessel at request of the owner of the whar or dock; to move such vessels to some other wharf or to a safe anchorage in the stream; and he is further authorized and required to determine in all cases how far and in what instances it is the duty of masters and others having charge of vessels, flats, rafts, or crafts to accommodate each other in their respective berths and situations. 2. To arrest any person violating this chapter, and to immediately bring such offender before some justice of the peace of the county in which such offense may be committed, for trial. 3. Whenever in his judgment it shall be necessary, to cast loose from any wharf or dock any raft, flat, vessel, or other craft by untying or cutting the lines by which it is made fast, if the owner after notice refuses to remove such vessel. 4. Whenever any of the public docks of the city of Wilmington are obstructed by any vessels, flats, barges, logs, hulks, trash, or garbage, and the owner thereof cannot be found or fails to remove the same any time within ten days, to take the most speedy method to clear the docks. 5. To appoint in writing some competent person to act in his place and stead during his temporary absence, or at such times as he is unable to attend to the duties of his office, and such person shall, while acting for such harbor master, have all the power and authority conferred upon and vested in the harbor master by law. 6. To collect from all vessels arriving in the port of Wilmington the following fees and no others, to wit: If over one hundred tons and under three hundred tons, three dollars; if over three hundred tons and under five hundred tons, five dollars; if over five hundred tons and under seven hundred tons, seven dollars; if over seven hundred tons, ten dollars. (Rev., s. 4958; Code, s. 3482; 1903, c. 662; 1905, c. 321; C.S. 6960.)

Any person, corporation, or club violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars nor less than ten dollars,

§ 76-42. Lumbermen to remove obstructions in Albemarle sound.—If any lumberman shall fail to remove all obstructions placed by him in the waters of Albemarle sound and its tributaries, as soon as practicable, after they have ceased to use them for the purpose for which they were placed in said waters, from the time of such abandonment of said water is not less than two feet deep, and also from all landing places on both sides, for the space of sixty feet from the shore outward, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than one dollar nor more than fifty dollars, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3551; Code, s. 3303; 1880, c. 37, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 6983.)

§ 76-44. Vessels on inland waterways exempt from pilot laws; provisions for steam vessels.—All vessels, barges, schooners, or other craft passing through the inland waterway of this state, when bound to a port or ports in this or any other state, be and the same are hereby exempt from the operations of the pilot laws of North Carolina and are not compelled to take a state licensed pilot: Provided, that steam vessels not having a United States licensed pilot for the waters navigated on board shall be subject to the state pilot laws. (1917, c. 33, s. 2; C. S. 6985.)

Under the Federal Law.—Vessels passing through the inland waterways of the State are exempt from the pilot laws by the State statutes, subject to the proviso of this section; and, under the Federal Statutes, whether a vessel has a gross tonnage of more than fifteen tons should be determined by the method prescribed by the Federal statutes requiring a pilot; and in an action for damages alleged to have been caused by defendant's negligence in a collision, it is reversible error for the trial judge to direct an affirmative answer to the contributory negligence in navigating without a pilot upon plaintiff's assertion that his vessel would carry thirty tons. Harris v. Slater, 187 N. C. 163, 121 S. E. 437.

§ 76-45. Bond of pilot.—Every person, before he obtains a commission or a branch to be a pilot, shall give bond with two sufficient sureties payable to the state of North Carolina, in the sum of five hundred dollars, with condition for the due and faithful discharge of his duties, and the duties of his apprentices; and the body appointing such pilot may, from time to time, and as often as they may deem it necessary, enlarge the penalty of the bond, or require new and additional bonds to be given; and every bond taken of a pilot shall be filed with, and preserved by, the said body appointing such pilot in trust for every person that shall be injured by the neglect or misconduct of such pilot, or his apprentices; who may severally bring suit thereon for the damage by each one sustained. (Rev., s. 307; Code, s. 3487; R. C., c. 85, s. 6; 1784, c. 207, s. 3; C. S. 6986.)

Cross References.—As to pilots' bonds generally, see § 76-8. As to action on official bond, see § 109-34.

§ 76-46. Pilots to have spyglasses.—Every pilot, within such convenient time as the commissioners may direct, who has control over the waters within which he acts, shall furnish himself with a good telescope or spyglass, under the penalty of fifty dollars, to be paid to the commissioners. (Rev., s. 4973; Code, s. 3517; R. C., c. 85, s. 27; 1790, c. 320, s. 3; C. S. 6987.)

§ 76-47. Acting as pilot without license.—If any person shall act as a pilot, who is not qualified and licensed in the manner prescribed in this chapter, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than $50.00 and not less than $25.00, or imprisoned not more than thirty days at the discretion of the court: Provided, that should there be no licensed pilot in attendance, any person may conduct into port any vessel in danger from stress of weather or in a leaky condition. (Rev., s. 4974; Code, s. 3519; R. C., c. 85, s. 29; 1783, c. 194, s. 3; 1784, c. 208, s. 4; 1880, c. 283, s. 1; C. S. 6988.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 325, struck out the former provision and inserted the present reading in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 76-48. Penalty on pilot neglecting to go to vessel having signal set.—When any pilot shall see any vessel on the coast, having a signal for a pilot, or shall hear a gun of distress fired off the coast, and shall neglect or refuse to go to the assistance of such vessel, such pilot shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars, to be recovered in the name of the state, one-half to the use of the informer and the other half to the master of the vessel, unless such pilot is then actually in charge of another vessel. (Rev., s. 4975; Code, s. 3521; R. C., c. 85, s. 34; 1784, c. 307, s. 10; 1790, c. 320, s. 2; 1783, c. 194, s. 6; C. S. 6989.)

§ 76-49. Pilots may be removed.—Unless otherwise provided in the first article of this chapter for the Cape Fear river, whenever any pilot appointed, as authorized in this chapter, shall, on trial, be found incompetent, or shall be guilty of improper conduct by intoxication or otherwise, or of any misbehavior in his office, or shall absent himself from his duty for any period of six months, or where the pilot so offending may be removed from his office by the board of commissioners under whose authority he is acting, by a notice to him in writing; and if after such removal he shall attempt to take charge of any vessel, he shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars for the use of said board. And it shall be the duty of the board to put up a written notice of the removal, in the public places within the port, or publish it in some convenient newspaper. But no pilot for the navigation of Hatteras inlet shall be required to surrender or forfeit his branch by reason of absence from the state for a period of less than six months. (Rev., s. 4976; Code, ss. 3518, 3490; 1869-70, c. 235, s. 7; 1881, c. 261, s. 2; R. C., c. 85, s. 28; R. S., c. 88, ss. 7, 33, 35; 1784, c. 207, s. 4; 1819, c. 1025, s. 4; 1800, c. 558; 1876-7, c. 22; 1881, c. 261, s. 1; C. S. 6990.)

Entitled to Fees Until Removed.—A duly licensed pilot may recover charges for his services; and while his failure to have his boat registered and numbered will cause a forfeiture of his license, the lawful pilotage charges for the service of such boat is recoverable by him until the commissioners of navigation and pilotage have acted thereon and

Sec. 76-50. Pilots refused, entitled to pay.—If a branch pilot shall go off to any vessel bound in, and offer to pilot her over the bar, the master or commander of such vessel, if he refuses to take such pilot, shall pay to such pilot, if not previously furnished with one, the same sum as is allowed by law for conducting such vessel in, to be recovered before a justice of the peace, if the sum be within his jurisdiction: Provided, that the first pilot, and no other, who shall speak such vessel so bound in shall be entitled to the pay provided for in this section. (Rev., s. 4978; Code, s. 3522; R. C., c. 85, s. 32; 1871–2, c. 117; C. S. 6991.)

Sec. 76-51. Pay of pilots when detained by vessel.—Every master of a vessel who shall detain a pilot at the time appointed, so that he cannot proceed to sea, though wind and weather should permit, shall pay to such pilot three dollars per day during the time of his actual detention. (Rev., s. 4979; Code, s. 3495; 1858–9, c. 23, s. 7; C. S. 6992.)

Sec. 76-52. Sec. 76-53. Harbor masters; how appointed.—The several boards of commissioners of navigation may appoint a harbor master for their respective ports. They shall appoint a clerk to keep books, in which shall be recorded all their proceedings. (Rev., s. 4981; Code, s. 3525; R. C., c. 85, s. 35; C. S. 6994.)

Sec. 76-54. Commissioners of navigation may hold another office.—A commissioner of navigation and pilotage shall be deemed a commissioner for a special purpose within the meaning of section seven of article fourteen of the constitution of North Carolina, so as not to be prohibited from holding at the same time with his commissionership another office under the national or state governments. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 76; C. S. 6995.)

Sec. 76-55. Commissioners of navigation to designate place for trash.—The several boards of commissioners established by this chapter may, subject to such regulations as the United States may make, designate the places whereat, within the waters under their several and respective control, may be cast and thrown ballast, trash, stone, and like matter. (Rev., s. 4985; Code, s. 3537; R. C., c. 85, s. 40; R. S., c. 88, ss. 23, 24, 45; 1883, c. 146, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1848, c. 60, s. 3; C. S. 6996.)

Sec. 76-56. Harbor master; how appointed where no board of navigation.—Where no board of navigation exists the governing body of any incorporated town, situated on any navigable water course, shall have power to appoint a harbor master for the port, who shall have the same power and authority in respect of ports as the harbor master of Wilmington is by this chapter given for that port, and shall receive like fees and no others. (Rev., s. 4983; C. S. 6997.)

Sec. 76-57. Rafts to exercise care in passing buoys, etc., penalty.—If any person having charge of any raft passing any buoy, beacon, or day-mark, shall not exercise due diligence in keeping clear of it, or, if unavoidably fouling it, shall not exercise due diligence in clearing it, without dragging from its position such buoy, beacon, or day-mark, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by fine not to exceed fifty dollars. (Rev., s. 3545; Code, s. 2087; 1883, c. 165, s. 3; C. S. 6998.)

Sec. 76-58. Interfering with buoys, beacons, and day-marks.—If any person shall moor any kind of vessel, or any raft or any part of a raft, to any buoy, beacon, or day-mark placed in the waters of North Carolina by the authority of the United States lighthouse board, or shall in any manner hang on with any vessel or raft, or part of a raft, to any such buoy, beacon, or day-mark, or shall willfully remove, damage, or destroy any such buoy, beacon, or day-mark, or shall cut down, remove, damage, or destroy any beacon erected on land in this state by the authority of the said United States lighthouse board, or through unavoidable accident run down, drag from its position, or in any way injure any buoy, beacon, or day-mark, as aforesaid, and shall fail to give notice as soon as practicable of having done so, to the lighthouse inspector of the district in which said buoy, beacon, or day-mark may be located, or to the collector of the port, or, if in charge of a pilot, to the collector of the port from which he comes, he shall for every such offense be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not to exceed two hundred dollars, or imprisoned not to exceed three months, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3546; Code, s. 3085; 1858–9, c. 58, ss. 2, 3; 1883, c. 165, s. 1; C. S. 6999.)
Art. 1. Commissioners for Opening and Clearing Streams.

§ 77-1. County Commissioners to appoint commissioners.—Where any inland river or stream runs through the county, or is a line of their counties, the boards of commissioners of the several counties may appoint commissioners to view such river or stream, and make out a scale of the expense of labor with which the opening and clearing thereof will be attended; and if the same is deemed within the ability of the county, and to be expedient, they may appoint and authorize the commissioners to proceed in the most expeditious manner in opening and clearing the same. (Rev., s. 5297; Code, s. 3706; 1887, c. 370; C. S. 7365.)

Cross Reference.—As to building bridges, see §§ 136-58 et seq.

§ 77-2. Flats and appurtenances procured.—The board of county commissioners appointing the commissioners may direct them to purchase or hire a flat with a windlass and the appurtenances necessary to remove loose rock and other things, which may by such means be more easily removed, and allow the same to be paid for out of the county funds. (Rev., s. 5299; Code, s. 3708; R. C., c. 100, s. 3; 1785, c. 242, s. 2; C. S. 7365.)

§ 77-3. Laid off in districts; passage for fish.—The board of county commissioners may appoint commissioners to examine and lay off the rivers and creeks in their county; and where the stream is a boundary between two counties, may lay off the same on their side; in doing so they shall allow three-fourths for the owners of the streams for erecting slopes, dams and stands; and one-fourth part, including the deepest part, they shall leave open for the passage of fish, marking and designating the same in the best manner they can; and if mills are built across such stream, and slopes may be necessary, so as to cause the stream to return to its former channel. (Rev., s. 5297; Code, s. 3710; R. C., c. 100, s. 5; 1787, c. 272, s. 1; C. S. 7367.)

Cross Reference.—As to obstructing passage of fish in streams, see §§ 113-251, 113-252 and 113-299. As to erecting artificial islands or lumps in public waters, see § 14-123. As to injuries to dams and water channels of mills and factories, see § 14-142. See annotations to § 77-4.

§ 77-4. Gates and slopes on milldams.—The commissioners appointed by the board of county commissioners to examine and lay off the rivers and creeks within the county, where the stream is a boundary between counties, shall have power to lay off gates, with slopes attached thereto, upon any milldam built across such stream, of such dimensions and construction as shall be sufficient for the convenient passage of floating logs and other timber, in cases where it may be deemed necessary by the said board of county commissioners; and they shall return to the board of county commissioners appointing them a plan of such gates, slopes, and dams in writing. (Rev., s. 5302; Code, s. 3712; 1855-9, c. 26, s. 1; C. S. 7368.)

Only Applicable to Floatable Streams.—It would seem that the sections were passed with reference only with reference to floatable streams because without condemnation the commissioners would have no right to enter upon and clean out beds of streams which were not natural highways. Commissioners v. Catawba Lumber Co., 116 N. C. 731, 744, 21 S. E. 941.

Dams Built under Permit.—Authority over streams, conferred upon county commissioners while it stands and is unimpeached by allegations of fraud or other illegal conduct, is a bar to the remedy by injunction. Therefore, a defendant will not be restrained from erecting a dam across a stream, when he is proceeding under the permit and direction of the commissioners. McLaughlin v. Hope Mfg. Co., 103 N. C. 100, 9 S. E. 307.

§ 77-5. Owner to maintain gate and slope.—Upon the confirmation of the report made by the commissioners, and notice thereof given to the owner or keeper of said mill, it shall be his duty forthwith to construct, and thereafter to keep and maintain, at his expense, such gate and slope, for the use of persons floating logs and other timber as aforesaid, so long as said dam shall be kept up, or until otherwise ordered by the board of county commissioners. (Rev., s. 5303; Code, s. 3713; 1855-9, c. 26, s. 2; C. S. 7369.)

§ 77-6. Gates and slopes discontinued.—The commissioners appointed as aforesaid, at any time that they may deem such gate and slope no longer necessary, may report the fact to their respective boards of county commissioners, and said boards of county commissioners may order the same to be discontinued. (Rev., s. 5304; Code, s. 3714; 1855-9, c. 26, s. 3; C. E. 7370.)

§ 77-7. Failure of owner of dam to keep gates, etc.—If any owner or keeper of a mill, whose dam is across any stream, shall fail to build a gate and slope therein, or thereafter to keep and maintain the same as required by commissioners to lay off rivers and creeks, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3383; Code, s. 3715; 1855-9, c. 26, s. 4; C. S. 7371.)

§ 77-8. Repairing breaks.—Wherever any stream of water which is used to propel machinery shall be by freshet or otherwise diverted from its usual channel so as to impair its power as used by any person, such person shall have power to repair the banks of such stream at the place where the break occurs, so as to cause the stream to return to its former channel. (Rev., s. 5305; Code, s. 3716; 1855-9, c. 26, s. 1; C. S. 7372.)

§ 77-9. Entry upon lands of another to make repairs.—In case the break occurs on the lands of a different person from the one utilizing the stream, the person utilizing the stream shall have power to enter upon the lands of such other person to repair the same, and in case such person objects, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the break occurs shall, upon application of the party utilizing the stream, appoint three disinterested freeholders, neither of whom shall be related to either party, who after being duly sworn shall lay off a road if necessary by which said person may pass over the lands of such other person to the break and repair said break from time to time as often as may be necessary, so as to cause the stream to [743]
§ 77-10. Draws in bridges. — Whenever the navigation of any river or creek which, in the strict construction of law, might not be considered a navigable stream, shall be obstructed by any bridge across said stream, it shall be lawful for any person owning any boat plying on said stream to make a draw in such bridge sufficient for the passage of such boat; and the party owning such boat shall construct and maintain such draw at his own expense, and shall use the same in such manner as to delay travel as little as possible. (Rev., s. 5306; Code, s. 3717; 1879, c. 53, s. 2; C. S. 7373.)

§ 77-11. Public landings. — The board of county commissioners may establish public landings on any navigable stream or watercourse in the county upon petition in writing. Unless it shall appear to the board that the person owning the lands sought to be used for a public landing shall have had twenty days’ notice of the intention to file such petition, the same shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the board until the succeeding meeting of the board, and notice thereof shall be posted during the same period at the court house door. At said meeting of the board, the allegations of the petition shall be heard, and if sufficient reason be shown, the board shall order the establishment of the public landing. The board is authorized to enter upon any land and locate a public landing after service of notice on the landowner that a landing is to be established under the authority of this section. If the board and landowner cannot agree on the damages, if any, the board shall, on the expiration of sixty days from the completion of the landing, cause to be summoned three disinterested freeholders of the county, who shall go upon the land and assess the damages and benefits according to the general law. All damages assessed shall be a county charge. In assessing damages, the jury shall take into consideration any special benefit accruing to the landowner, and if such benefits exceed the damages, the amount of such excess of benefits shall be assessed against the landowner and constitute a lien on the land adjoining the landing, and shall be collected in the same manner as county taxes. The board shall order how the costs shall be paid.

No suit shall be instituted by a landowner for damages for the location of the landing earlier than sixty days, nor later than six months, after the completion of the landing. Either party may appeal to the Superior Court for the assessment of damages and benefits, where the matter shall be heard de novo by the court and jury. No cost shall be awarded against the county upon appeals where the recovery awarded on appeal is not more favorable to the appellant than the award of the referees. All places heretofore established as public landings shall remain such. (Rev., ss. 2684, 2685, 5308; Code, ss. 2038, 2040, 2092; R. C. 60, s. 1; c. 101, ss. 2, 4; 1784, c. 206, s. 4; 1769, c. 179, s. 2; and “whereby” replaced for, s. 1; 1822, c. 1139, s. 2; 1869, c. 20, s. 8, sub-sec. 29; 1873-5, c. 189, s. 3; 1879, c. 82, s. 9; 1917, c. 284, ss. 33; 1919, c. 68; C. S. 3667, 3762, 3763, 7375.)

§ 77-12. Obstructing passage of boats. — If any person shall obstruct the free passage of boats along any river or creek, by felling trees, or by any other means whatever, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev. s. 3561; Code, s. 3711; R. C., 100, s. 6; 1796, c. 460, s. 2; C. S. 7376.)

§ 77-13. Obstructing streams a misdemeanor. — If any person shall willfully fell any tree, or willfully put any obstruction, except for the purposes of utilizing water as a motive power, in any branch, creek, or other natural passage for water, whereby the natural flow of water through such passage is lessened or retarded, and where the navigation of such stream by any raft or flat may be impeded, delayed, or prevented, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not to exceed fifty dollars, or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days. Nothing in this section shall prevent the erection of fish dams or hedges which do not extend across more than two-thirds of the width of any stream where erected, but if extending over more than two-thirds of the width of any stream, the said penalties shall attach. (Rev., s. 3559; Code, s. 1123; 1872-3, c. 107, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 7377.)

Motive Power Defined.—Water used in “sluicing” is not used as a “motive power” within the meaning of this section. The section has obvious reference to the use of the energies of water dammed, as a moving force, and not to the operation of the current in motion. State v. Duplin Canal Co., 91 N. C. 637.

Applicable Only to Navigable Streams.—The word “and” being a part of the sentence “... and whereby it is provided that every obstruction of a stream, no matter how insignificant, private, or removed from public access or use, shall be indictable and subject the offender to fine and imprisonment.” It cannot be supposed that an intelligent Legislature meant that every obstruction of a stream, no matter how insignificant or trivial, might not be an offense under this section. State v. Pool, 74 N. C. 402.

Applicable Though Stream is Private Property.—The best of a lake or water course may be private property, but if the waters are navigable in their natural state the public have an easement of navigation in them, which easement the owner cannot divest himself of by judicial construction. State v. Pool, 74 N. C. 402.

When Malice Must Be Shown. — In an action wherein actual damages were claimed, with punitive damages, for damming a navigable stream, made a misdemeanor by this section, it was held that to recover punitive damages it was insufficient to show merely that the stream was obstructed to plaintiff’s damage, it being necessary to prove, in such cases, a special and fraudulent wanton disregard of plaintiff’s rights, or other circumstances of recklessness or aggravation. Warren v. Coharie lumber Co., 154 N. C. 34, 59 S. E. 685.

Indictment.—The indictment under this section must charge that the obstruction was not “for the purpose of utilizing.” Such a charge is not necessary in an indictment for “obstructing, at common law.” State v. Narrows Island Club, 100 N. C. 477, 5 S. E. 411.

Same—Compared with Common Law Rule.—At common law it was an offense to obstruct any navigable stream, but...

I. GENERALLY

Editor’s Note.—An article discussing the history of blue sky laws and summarizing the various statues will be found in 3 N. C. Law Rev. 150 et seq. The North Carolina cases are also discussed.

The Act of 1927 repealed the law of 1925 and substituted the following provisions therefor. See Durham Citizens Hotel Corp. v. Dennis, 195 N. C. 420, 422, 142 S. E. 578. The amendment substituted the words “Securities Law” for the words “Capital Issues Law.” The annotations set forth herein include cases decided under the present statute—placed under the analysis line “I. Generally”—and cases decided under §§ 6363 to 6375, Consolidated Statutes, prior to their repeal by Public Laws 1925, c. 190 and Public Laws 1927, c. 149, s. 26—placed under appropriate analysis lines. Said §§ 6363 to 6375 pertain to similar subject matter and it is believed the decisions construing those provisions will be of value in considering the present chapter.

This Regulation Is within Police Power.—The regulation of the sale of securities for the protection of the public is within the police power of the state. State v. Allen, 216 N. C. 621, 5 S. E. (2d) 844.

Application of Chapter.—This chapter applies where money is invested in stock, bonds, debentures, or the like, issued by corporations or individuals for the purpose of purchasing the water of a river or lake as a source of power. State v. Carrington, 216 N. C. 614, 199 S. E. 324. Similar provisions have been enacted in other states under the term “blue sky laws.”

II. NOTE TO SECTION 6363, CONSOLIDATED STATUTES.

Constitutionality.—It is within the police powers of a state to pass a statute for the protection of its citizens against the sale to them of worthless shares of stock in speculative companies in the exercise of a reserved power in the state from that granted to the general government, and does not contravene either the State or Federal Constitution. State v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 634, 132 S. E. 792.

The purpose is to protect the general public from “wild cat” organizers, promoters and their agents, whether foreign or domestic, preying upon an unsuspecting and confiding public by selling “blue sky stock,” without obtaining license and giving bond. Id.

“The laws of Massachusetts on the subject have been copied with few exceptions throughout the country. This class of legislation has come to be known as the ‘Blue Sky Laws.’ The object, of course, of the ‘Blue Sky Laws’ is not only to keep worthless stock off the market but to make actual values and par values correspond. Thus, if the par value of a share of stock is one hundred dollars, the part of the assets of the corporation represented by a share of stock must be worth one hundred dollars.” 1 N. C. Law Rev. 27.

Scope of Section.—It is an “investment company” offering to the public an investment in lands and timber in Georgia. It is also offering the “obligation of said corporation” to cultivate said land, and giving its contract to make title in compliance with certain terms; and, lastly, it is offering for sale, such “evidences of property.” Under all three of these provisions it is within the scope of this section.

Limitations of Suit.—Contracts of indemnity against loss, or surety bonds, for the faithful performance of a building contract are regarded in the nature of contracts of insurance coming under the provisions of this section and any conflicting restriction in such contract as to the time of bringing an action to recover damages for the breach of the contract is void. Guilford Lumber Mfg. Co. v. Johnson, 177 N. C. 44, 45, 97 S. E. 732.

Process and Service.—This section does not require service of process in any county in which the corporation resides. State v. Agey, 174 N. C. 694, 696, 678, 94 S. E. 414.

Agent’s Liability for Violation.—The failure or refusal of the corporation to comply with the requirements of our statute to obtain license makes the defendant, its agent, guilty of the offense charged. State v. Agey, 171 N. C. 831, 833, 88 S. E. 726.

One who sells certificates of shares of stock in a corporation upon a commission basis without having obtained a license to do so, comes within the inhibition of this statute, though the sale may have been effected by another acting through such solicitor without compensation. Burlington Hotel Corp. v. Bell, 192 N. C. 630, 631, 135 S. E. 616.

Enforcement of Contract.—Where a subscription contract for purchase of shares of stock in a corporation was procured by one who has not obtained a license from the Insurance Commissioner, the contract is not enforceable against such corporation or organization. Burlington Hotel Corp. v. Bell, 192 N. C. 630, 621, 135 S. E. 616.

Contracts To Be Executed Out of State.—Where a foreign corporation has issued a bond indemnifying a North Carolina concern against loss under a contract with an agency, located in another State, established to collect moneys, etc., for insurance premiums, which bond was delivered to the agent to be sent to the indemnified here for approval and acceptance, the contract of indemnity is to be construed and enforced in accordance with our own laws. Dixie Fire Ins. Co. v. American Bonding Co., 162 N. C. 384, 385, 78 S. E. 430.

Domestic Corporations.—This section applies to sales of stock in a domestic corporation as well as a foreign one, irrespective of whether the same was either fraudulently procured or falls within the intent and meaning of the “Blue-Sky” law. Burlington Hotel Corp. v. Bell, 192 N. C. 630, 135 S. E. 616.

Notes given for the purchase of shares of stock in a corporation being organized are not void for noncompliance with the provisions of sections 6363 and 6367, when the shares were not put upon the market by agents, or commissions paid to anyone for procuring subscriptions therefor, Burlington Hotel Corporation v. Bell, 192 N. C. 630, 135 S. E. 616, cited and distinguished. Durham Citizens Hotel Corp. v. Dennis, 195 N. C. 430, 147 S. E. 578. Cited in Hotel Corporation v. Dixon, 196 N. C. 265, 145 S. E. 244.

III. NOTE TO SECTION 6367, CONSOLIDATED STATUTES.

Fraudulent Representations.—If the agent selling the stock represents to the plaintiff that certain parties would devote their time to the business, and that the statute has been complied with, and that the stock would not be sold below a certain price, such representation if false within the knowledge of the defendant constitutes actionable fraud. McNair v. Southern States Finance Co., 191 N. C. 710, 133 S. E. 88.

Knowledge of the Plaintiff.—When plaintiff did not know, and was not in a position to know of the falsity of the representations as made to him the parties will not be considered in pari delicto. McNair v. Southern States Finance Co., 191 N. C. 710, 133 S. E. 85.

Recovery of Damages.—A purchaser of shares of stock may recover damages upon the false representations of the seller that all of the provisions of the Blue-Sky Law, this section, had been complied with, with the burden of proof on the purchaser, the plaintiff in the action, to show his damages arising therefrom. McNair v. Southern States Finance Co., 191 N. C. 710, 711, 133 S. E. 85.

Domestic Corporations.—This law was at first applied only to foreign corporations but by chapter 121, Public Laws 1919, it was made to apply as well to domestic corporations. The law appears in toto in 6363-6375, and the provision which in itself is known as the “Blue-Sky” law, is section 6307-3 N. C. Law Rev. 151.

The requirements of this section as to soliciting the purchase of shares of stock in a certain corporation in accordance with certain conditions, applies by statutory amendment of 1919, not only to corporations formed in other states, but also to domestic corporations. Seminole Phosphate Co. v. Johnson, 188 N. C. 419, 124 S. E. 859. See also Burlington Hotel Corp. v. Bell, 192 N. C. 630, 135 S. E. 616.

Notes Given for Stock.—Where a negotiable note is given for shares of stock in a corporation, solicited in violation of the Blue-Sky Law, the note is voidable against a holder who has notice of the illegality or fraud in the procurement of the instrument. Planters Bank, etc. Co. v. Felton, 188 N. C. 384, 124 S. E. 849.

IV. NOTE TO SECTION 6372, CONSOLIDATED STATUTES.

Liability for Principal’s Act.—The State has a right to require evidence of good faith, of assets, and of responsibility from nonresident parties offering to sell to our people “investments” or “evidences of property” on contracts. An agent of a company who fails to do this, in defiance of our laws, is properly found guilty. State v. Agey, 171 N. C. 831, 836, 88 S. E. 726.

The portion of such collateral referred to in clause (b) shall consist of obligations secured by a first lien on a principal amount of first mortgage bonds or notes conforming to the requirements of subsection (2) of this section, and/or a principal amount of obligations of the United States and/or cash equal to not less than 100 per cent of the aggregate principal amount of such obligations so secured thereby, and all such pledged securities including cash so securing such securities shall have been deposited with a bank or trust company as trustee, which bank or trust company is incorporated under the laws of and subject to examination and supervision by the United States or by a state of the United States.

Securities entitled to registration by notification shall be registered by the filing by the issuer or by any registered dealer interested in the sale thereof in the office of the secretary of state as follows:

(a) Name of issuer.

(b) A brief description of the security including amount of the issue.

(c) Amount of securities to be offered in the State.

(d) A brief statement of the facts which show that the security falls within one of the classes in this section defined.

(e) The price at which the securities are to be offered for sale.

In the case of securities falling within the class defined by subsection (1), if the circular to be used for the public offering is not filed with the statement, then a copy of such circular shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state within two days thereafter, or within such further time as the secretary of state shall allow.

In the case of securities falling within the classes defined by subsections (2) and (3) the circular to be used for the public offering shall be filed with the statement.

The filing of such statement in the office of the secretary of state and the payment of the fee hereinafter provided shall constitute the registration of such security. Upon such registration, such securities equal to the amount so registered by notification may be sold in this State by any registered dealer by giving notice in the manner hereinafter provided in § 78-19, subject, however, to the further order of the secretary of state as hereinafter provided.
If, at any time, in the opinion of the secretary of state, the information contained in the statement or circular filed is misleading, incorrect, inadequate, or incomplete, or the sale or offering for sale of the security may work or tend to work a fraud or, in the opinion of the secretary of state, be contrary to good business practices, the secretary of state may require from the person filing such statement such further information as may, in his judgment, be necessary to establish the classification of such security as claimed in said statement, or to enable the secretary of state to ascertain whether the transfer of such security would be fraudulent, or would result in fraud, and the secretary of state may also suspend the right to sell such security pending further investigation by entering an order specifying the grounds for such action, and by notifying personally by mail, telephone or telegraph the person filing such statement and every registered dealer who shall have notified the secretary of state of an intention to sell such security. The refusal to furnish information required by the secretary of state, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the secretary of state, may be a proper ground for the entry of such order of suspension. Upon the entry of any such order of suspension no further sales of such security shall be made until the further order of the secretary of state, unless the person to be affected by such order shall file with the secretary of state a bond in a penalty to be fixed by him in some solvent surety company licensed in the State of North Carolina, to pay all such damages as might be sustained by any purchaser of such security, which bond shall be made payable to the State of North Carolina and sued upon by any person damaged by such sale.

In the event of the entry of such order of suspension the secretary of state shall upon request give a prompt hearing to the parties interested. If no hearing is requested within a period of twenty (20) days from the entry of such order, or if upon such hearing the secretary of state shall determine that any such security does not fall within a class entitled to registration under this section, or that the sale thereof would be fraudulent or would result in fraud, or that the continued sale of the same, is in his opinion contrary to good business practices, he shall enter a final order prohibiting sales of such security, with his findings with respect thereto: Provided, that if the finding with respect to such security is that it is not entitled to registration under this section, the applicant may apply for registration by qualification by complying with the requirements of § 78-9. Appeals from such final order may be taken as hereinafter provided. If, however, upon such hearing, the secretary of state shall find that the security is entitled to registration under this section, and that its sale will neither be fraudulent nor result in fraud, or that the continued sale thereof is not contrary to good business practices, he shall forthwith enter an order revoking such order of suspension and such security shall be restored to its status as a security registered under this section, as of the date of such order of suspension.

At the time of filing the statement, as hereinafter prescribed in this section, the applicant shall pay to the secretary of state a filing fee of ten dollars and a fee of one-twentieth of one per cent of the aggregate par value of the securities to be sold in this State for which the applicant is seeking registration, but in no case shall such latter fee be less than twenty-five dollars, and not exceeding one hundred and fifty dollars. In the case of stock having no par value, the fee paid at which such stock is to be offered to the public shall be deemed to be the par value of such stock.

§ 78-9. Registration by qualification.—All securities required by this chapter to be registered before being sold in this State, and not entitled to registration by notification, shall be registered only by qualification in the manner provided by this section.

The secretary of state shall receive and act upon applications to have securities registered by qualification and may prescribe forms on which he may require such applications to be submitted. Applications shall be in writing and shall be duly signed by the person applying and sworn to by a proper officer. No applications to have securities registered by qualification may be filed by the issuer of the securities for which registration is applied for by any registered dealer desiring to sell the same within this State.

The secretary of state may require the applicant to submit to the secretary of state the following information respecting the issuer and such other information as he may, in his judgment, deem necessary to enable him to ascertain whether such securities shall be registered pursuant to the provisions of this section:

(a) The names and addresses of directors, trustees and officers, if the issuer be a corporation or association or trust organized or existing under the common law (as hereinafter defined), of all partners, if the issuer be a partnership, and of the issuer if the issuer be an individual.

(b) The location of the issuer's principal business office and of its principal office in this State, if any, and if not, the name of its process officer within this State.

(c) The purposes of incorporation, (if incorporated) and the general character of the business actually to be transacted by the issuer, and the purpose of the proposed issue.

(d) A statement of the capitalization of the issuer; a balance sheet showing the amount and general character of its assets and liabilities on a day not more than sixty (60) days prior to the date of filing such balance sheet; a detailed statement of the plan upon which the issuer proposes to transact business; a copy of the security for the registration of which application is made; and a copy of all circulars, prospectuses, advertisements or other descriptions of such securities then prepared by or for such issuer, and/or by or for such applicant (if the applicant shall not be the issuer) to be used for distribution or publication in this State.

(e) A statement of the amount of the issuer's income, expenses, and fixed charges during the last fiscal year, or if in actual business less than one year, then for such time as the issuer has been in actual business.

(f) A statement showing the price at which such security is proposed to be sold, together with the maximum amount of commission or other form of remuneration to be paid in cash or otherwise, di-directly or indirectly, for or in connection with the sale, or offering for sale, of such securities.

(g) A detailed statement showing the items of cash, property, services, patents, good will and any other consideration for which such securities have been or are to be issued in payment.

(h) The amount of capital stock which is to be set aside and disposed of as promotion stock, and a statement of all stock issued from time to time as promotion stock.

(i) If the issuer is a corporation, there shall be filed with the application a certified copy of its articles of incorporation with all amendments and of its existing by-laws, if not already on file in the office of the secretary of state of this State. All securities admitted to record and recorded in such register shall be deemed, for the purpose of this chapter, to have been fully qualified for sale in the State of North Carolina and thereafter any person may lawfully sell or offer for sale any part of such issue as recorded; subject, however, to the provisions of this chapter. Such register shall be open to inspection;
§ 78-14. Report to secretary of state.—Every issuer whose securities have been admitted to record and recorded as herein provided, may be required during the offering of such securities to file within thirty days after the close of business on December thirty-first, March thirty-first, June thirtieth, and September thirtieth, of each year, and at such other times as may be required by the secretary of state, a statement, verified under oath by some person having actual knowledge of the facts therein stated, setting forth, in such form as may be prescribed by the secretary of state, the financial condition, the amount of assets and liabilities, of such issuer on the above dates and such other information as said secretary of state may require. It shall be unlawful for any issuer subject to the provisions of this chapter, who refuses or fails to comply with the provisions of this section, or for his agent or agents, to thereafter sell such securities in this State. § 78-16. Complaints, investigations, findings of facts.—The secretary of state may, upon his own initiative or upon the complaint of any reasonable person, hold such public hearings or make or have made such special inspection, examination or investigation as he may deem necessary, in connection with the promotion, sale or disposal in this State of any security or securities, to determine whether the same constitutes a violation of law; and the said secretary of state, his assistant or deputy shall have power and authority:

1. To issue subpoenas and process compelling the attendance of any person and the production of any paper, records or books relating to any matter of which the secretary of state has jurisdiction under this article, and

Such findings of facts shall be admissible in evidence in any suit or action, at law or in equity, instituted under any of the laws of this State, and shall be prima facie evidence of the truth of the matters therein found by said secretary of state, and

3. To maintain by injunction or other remedy any action in any court of competent jurisdiction in this State for the purpose of enforcing this chapter, or making investigations. (1925, c. 190, s. 16; 1927, c. 149, s. 16.)

A certificate under the hand of the department of state or his deputy or assistant and the seal of the department of state showing that the securities in question have not been recorded in the register of qualified securities, shall constitute prima facie evidence that such securities have not been qualified for sale pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, and shall be admissible in evidence in any proceeding, either civil or criminal, instituted under any of the laws or statutes of this State. (1925, c. 190, s. 17; 1927, c. 149, s. 17.)

In all cases of appeals from the secretary of state to the superior court, the record made before such secretary shall thereupon be certified to the superior court of the county in which such interested person may reside, or any county adjoining thereto in the discretion of said secretary of state and thereafter the parties may plead and conduct the proceedings as he shall be had as in other causes within the jurisdiction of said superior court, and after the issues shall have been determined by the court or jury, as the case may be, such judgment shall be rendered by the court as the findings may require. Appeals may be taken from the decision of the superior court to the supreme court by either party in the same manner as is provided by law in other civil cases, but the secretary of state may appeal without bond. Pending any such appeal, the said findings, rulings, orders and judgments of the secretary of state shall be prima facie evidence that they are just and reasonable and that the facts found and true, and shall remain in full force and effect, if no such suit be brought within said thirty days, said findings, [754]

The fee for such registration and for each annual renewal thereof shall be fifty dollars in the case of dealers, and ten dollars in the case of salesmen. Registration may be refused or a registration granted may be cancelled by the secretary of state if, after reasonable notice and a hearing, the secretary of state determines that such applicant or dealer or salesman so registered (1) has violated any provision of this chapter or any regulation made hereunder; or (2) has made a material false statement in the application for registration; or (3) has been guilty of a fraudulent act in connection with any sale of securities in the State of North Carolina, or has been or is engaged in making fictitious or pretended sales or purchases of any such securities or has been engaged in any practice or transaction or course of business relating to the purchase or sale of securities which is fraudulent or in violation of law; or (4) has demonstrated his unworthiness to transact the business of dealer or salesman. The partners of a partnership and the executive officers of a corporation or other association registered as a dealer may act as salesmen during such time as such partnership, corporation or association is so registered without further registration as salesmen. Changes in registration occasioned by changes in the personnel of a partnership or in the principals, copartners, officers or directors of any dealer may be made from time to time by written application setting forth the facts with reference to such change.

Every registered dealer who intends to offer any security of any issue, registered or to be registered, shall notify the secretary of state in writing of his intention so to do. The notice shall contain the name of the dealer and shall state the name of the security to be offered for sale, and whenever a dealer shall have prepared such notice and shall have forwarded the same by registered mail, postage prepaid, and properly addressed to the secretary of state, such dealer, as to the content of such notice and filing thereof, shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this paragraph. § 80-1. Adoption and filing for registry. — It shall be lawful for any person to adopt for his protection and file for registry, as in this chapter provided, any label, trademark, term or design that has been used or is intended to be used for the purpose of designating, making known or distinguishing any goods, wares, merchandise or products of labor that have been or may be wholly or partly made, manufactured, produced, prepared, packed or put on sale by any such person, or to or upon which any work or labor has been applied or expended by any such person, or by any member of any corporation, or association or union of workmen, that has adopted and filed for registry any such label, trademark, term or design, or announcing or indicating that the same have been made in whole or in part by any such person or corporation, or association or union of workmen, or by any member thereof.

The word "person" as used in this article includes associations or unions of workmen, whether incorporated or unincorporated. Any duly authorized officer or agent of any such association or union may act in its behalf in securing for the association or union the benefits and protection of this article. (Rev., s. 3012; 1903, c. 271; 1941, c. 255, s. 1; C. S. 3971.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the words "or association or union of workmen" in the first paragraph and added the second paragraph. It is deemed expedient at this point to quote at length from the opinion of the court delivered by Mr. Justice Bynum in Blackwell v. Wright, 73 N. C. 310, 312. The learned Justice lays down the theory upon which is based the law dealing with trade-marks, brands, etc. His theory is, in part, as follows:

"Every manufacturer has the unquestionable right to distinguish the goods that he manufactures and sells by a peculiar mark or device, so that they may be known as his in the market, and he may thus secure the profits which their superior reputation as his may be the means of gaining. If, therefore, the inventor or manufacturer adopts a label, symbol or trademark to distinguish the article he thus manufactures and sells, no other person has the right to adopt his label or trademark, or one so like his as to be calculated to deceive, without the permission or consent of the manufacturer. This rule is grounded upon a two-fold reason: 1st, that the public may be protected from being imposed upon by a spurious or inferior article, as an imitation or counterfeit of the original; and 2nd, that the inventor may have the exclusive benefit of the reputation which his skill has given to the article made by him. When one, therefore, adopts a symbol or device, and affixes it to the goods he thus manufactures and puts upon the market, the law will throw its protection around the trade-mark thus affixed, as his property and a thing of value. And it would seem to be immaterial whether an infringing trade-mark is adopted by fraud or mistake, for the injury is the same. When an article, not of his manufacture, is sold with the mark or device affixed, which he has adopted to distinguish his own goods, a damage results upon him. If he establishes the existence of the contract and his right to the exclusive use of the said label, trademark, term or design of the person filing the same, and there are true and correct copies, facsimiles or counterparts filed therefor, with the said secretary, and filing therewith a statement in the form of an affidavit, subscribed and sworn to by any such person, or by any officer, agent or attorney, if a corporation or association or union of workmen, specifying the person by whom any such label, trademark, term or design is filed, and the class or character of the goods, wares, merchandise or products of labor to which the same has been or is intended to be appropriated or applied, and that the person so filing the same has the right to the use of the said label, trademark, term or design, and that no other person, firm or corporation has the right to such use, either in the identical form or in any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, without the permission or authority of the person filing the same, and that the copies, facsimiles or counterparts filed therewith are true and correct copies, facsimiles or counterparts of the genuine label, trademark, term or design of the person filing the same; and there shall be paid for such registry a fee of five dollars to the secretary of state for the use of the state, and the same recording fees required by law for recording certificates of incorporation of corporations. (Rev., s. 3014; 1903, c. 271, s. 3; 1925, c. 69; 1941, c. 255, s. 2; C. S. 3972.)

§ 80-2. Property rights protected by filing for registry.—Whenever any person shall adopt and file for registry any label, trademark, term or design pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, the property, privileges, rights, remedies and interests in and to any such label, trademark, term or design, and in and to the use of same, provided or given by this chapter to, or otherwise conferred upon or enjoyed by, the person filing the same for the registry, shall be fully and completely secured, preserved and protected as the property of those entitled to the same before any such label, trademark, term or design has been actually applied to any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor, and put upon the market for sale or otherwise, and before any use or appropriation of any such label, trademark, term or design has been made in connection with any such goods, wares, merchandise or product of labor, as well as after the same has been used or applied to designate, make known or distinguish any such goods, wares, merchandise or product of labor and they have been put upon the market. (Rev., s. 3013; 1903, c. 271, s. 2; C. S. 3972.)

§ 80-3. Filing to be with secretary of state; contents of affidavits; fees.—Any person who has heretofore adopted and used, or shall hereafter adopt and use any label, trademark, term or design, as in this chapter provided, may file the same for registry in the office of the secretary of state, by leaving two copies, facsimiles or counterparts thereof, with the said secretary, and filing therewith a statement in the form of an affidavit, subscribed and sworn to by any such person, or by any officer, agent or attorney, if a corporation or association or union of workmen, specifying the person by whom any such label, trademark, term or design is filed, and the class or character of the goods, wares, merchandise or products of labor to which the same has been or is intended to be appropriated or applied, and that the person so filing the same has the right to the use of the said label, trademark, term or design, and that no other person, firm or corporation has the right to such use, either in the identical form or in any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, without the permission or authority of the person filing the same, and that the copies, facsimiles or counterparts filed therewith are true and correct copies, facsimiles or counterparts of the genuine label, trademark, term or design of the person filing the same; and there shall be paid for such registry a fee of five dollars to the secretary of state for the use of the state, and the same recording fees required by law for recording certificates of incorporation of corporations. (Rev., s. 3014; 1903, c. 271, s. 3; 1925, c. 69; 1941, c. 255, s. 2; C. S. 3973.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 increased the registry fee from one to five dollars. The 1941 amendment inserted after the word "corporation" in the eleventh line the words, "or association or union of workingmen."
§ 80-4. Registration; certified copies evidence; fees.—The secretary of state, upon the filing of any such label, trademark, term or design that is not in conflict with § 80-6, shall register the same, and shall deliver to the person filing the same as many certified copies thereof, with his certificate of such registry, as any such person may request, and for every such copy and certificate there shall be paid to the secretary of state, for the use of the state, a fee of one dollar; and any such certified copy and certificate shall be admissible in evidence and competent and sufficient proof of the adoption, filing and registry of any such label, trademark, term or design, by any such person in any action or judicial proceeding in any of the courts of this state, and of due compliance with the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 3015; 1903, c. 271, s. 4; C. S. 3974.)

§ 80-5. Transfer of trademarks.—The right to use any registered label, trademark, term or design shall be transferred, unattached to any writing, duly filed in the office of the secretary of state. The fees for recording or filing such transfer and issuing copies thereof shall be the same as for filing such label, trademark, term or design. (Rev., s. 3016; C. S. 3975.)

§ 80-6. Similar trademarks refused registration.—It shall not be lawful for the secretary of state to register for any person any label, trademark, term or design that is in the identical form of any other label, trademark, term or design theretofore filed by any other person, or that bears any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, or that would be liable to be mistaken therefor. (Rev., s. 3017; 1903, c. 271, s. 5; C. S. 3976.)

§ 80-7. Fraudulent registration; penalty.—Any person who shall file or procure the filing and registry of any label, trademark, term or design in the office of the secretary of state under the provisions of this chapter, by making any false or fraudulent representations or declarations, with fraudulent intent, shall be liable to pay any damages sustained in consequence of any such registry, to be recovered by or in behalf of the party injured thereby. (Rev., s. 3018; 1903, c. 271, s. 5; C. S. 3977.)

§ 80-8. Use of counterfeit trademarks unlawful.—Whenever any person has adopted and filed for registry any label, trademark, term or design, as provided by law, and the same shall have been registered pursuant to law, it shall be unlawful for any other person to manufacture, use, sell, offer for sale, or in any way utter or circulate any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trademark, term or design, or have in possession, with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor to which or on which any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trademark, term or design is attached, affixed, printed, stamped, impressed or displayed, or to sell or dispose of, or offer to sell or dispose of, or have in possession with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor contained in any box, case, can or package to which or on which any such counterfeit or imitation is attached, affixed, printed, stamped, impressed or displayed. (Rev., s. 3019; 1903, c. 271, s. 6; C. S. 3978.)

When Injunction Granted.—If it appears that the trademark alleged to be imitation, though resembling the complainant's in some respects, would not probably deceive the ordinary mass of purchasers, an injunction will not be granted. An imitation is colorable, and will be enjoined, which requires a careful inspection to distinguish its mark and appearance from that of the manufacture imitated. Blackwell v. Wright, 73 N. C. 310, 313.

§ 80-9. Unauthorized use unlawful; use under license.—Whenever any person has adopted and registered any label, trademark, term or design, as provided by law, it shall be unlawful for any other person to make any use, sale, offer for sale or display of the genuine label, trademark, term or design of any such person filing the same, or to have any such genuine label, trademark, term or design in possession with intent that the same shall be used, sold, offered for sale or displayed, or that the same shall be applied, attached or displayed in any manner whatever to or on any goods, wares or merchandise, or to sell, offer to sell, or dispose of, or have in possession with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares or merchandise in any box, case, can or package to or on which any such genuine label, trademark, term or design of any such person is attached, affixed, or displayed, or to make any use whatever of any such genuine label, trademark, term or design, without first obtaining in every such case the license of the person adopting, filing and registering the same; and any such license may be revoked and terminated at any time upon notice, and thereafter any use thereof shall be unlawful. (Rev., s. 3020; 1903, c. 271, s. 7; C. S. 3979.)

When Relief Granted.—Before the owner of a trade-mark can call upon the courts for relief, he must show not only that he has a clear legal right to the trade-mark, but that the defendant is so assimilated to that of the plaintiff as to deceive purchasers. And it will make no difference whether the party designed to mislead the public or whether the symbol adopted was intended to be enjoined. Blackwell v. Wright, 73 N. C. 310, 313.

§ 80-10. Remedies; damages; destruction of counterfeits.—Any person who has registered any label, trademark, term or design under the provisions of this chapter shall have a right of action against any person for the unauthorized use of such label, trademark, term or design, and the courts shall by appropriate remedies prevent the unauthorized or unlawful use, manufacture or display of any label, trademark, term or design, or the imitation or counterfeit thereof, or the sale, disposal or display of any articles of property on which any counterfeit or imitation of any registered label, trademark, term or design, or on which any genuine label, trademark, term or design may be used or displayed without proper authority; and shall further secure and protect all persons in all rights of property and interest which they may have in any label, trademark, term or design registered under this chapter; and the court shall award to the plaintiff any and all damages resulting from any such wrongful use of any such label, trademark, term or design; and any counterfeit or imitation of any labels, trademarks, terms or designs, and any die, engraving, mould or mechanical device or the manufacture of the same in the possession or under the control of the defendant, shall be delivered up to an officer of the court, to be destroyed, and any such genuine labels, trademarks, terms or designs in the possession or under the control of any such defendant shall be delivered to the plaintiff: Provided, however, no restraining order or injunction granted to any association or union of workingmen to prevent violations of this article shall have the effect of impounding or preventing the free flow into the channels of commerce of any goods, wares, merchandise or products already manufactured or in the process of manufacture to which any label, trademark, term or design has been affixed at the time of the institution of the action in which the injunctive relief is sought, unless the owner or manufacturer of said goods, wares, merchandise or products has permitted the affixing of such label, trademark, term or design with the actual knowledge that it was being used or affixed in violation of the provisions of this article. (Rev., s. 3021; 1903, c. 271, s. 8; 1914, c. 255, s. 3; C. S. 3980.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the proviso at the end of this section.

§ 80-11. Concurrent action for penalty.—In addition to any other rights, remedies or penalties provided by this chapter, and as concurrent therewith, any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this chapter shall be liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars, to be recovered by any person who has filed any such label, trademark, term or design. (Rev., s. 3022; 1903, c. 271, s. 9; C. S. 3981.)

§ 80-12. Use of private marks or labels to defraud; punishment.—If any person shall knowingly and wilfully forge or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be forged or counterfeited the private marks, tokens, stamps or labels of any mechanic, manufacturer or other person, being a resident of the United States, with intent to deceive and defraud the purchasers, mechanics, or manufacturers of any goods, wares or merchandise whatsoever, upon conviction thereof he shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars and not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment of not less than thirty days or more than five years, or both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. § 80-13. Selling goods with forged marks or labels, misdemeanor.—If any person shall vend any goods, wares or merchandise having thereon any forged or counterfeited marks, tokens, stamps or labels purporting to be the marks, tokens, stamps or labels of any person being a resident of the United States, knowing the same at the time of the purchase thereof by him to be forged or counterfeited, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3850; Code, s. 1039; 1870-1, c. 253, s. 2; C. S. 3983.)

§ 80-14. Misbranding sacks to defraud, misdemeanor.—If any person shall knowingly use the mark or brand of any other person on any sack, or shall knowingly impress on any sack the mark or brand of another person, with intent to defraud or for the purpose of enhancing the value of his own property, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Editor’s Note.—In the early case of Etheridge v. Jones, 30 N. C. 100, the question arose as to the right of the commissioners to take possession of a stranded ship without the consent of the master. It was held in that case that the commissioners did not have exclusive control of a wrecked vessel and the master or owner could take control of and dispose of a wrecked vessel without any responsibility to the commissioners.

The case of Hitfield v. Baum, 35 N. C. 394, 395, lays down the rule that there is an easement or right of way reserved by necessity for any person to enter over the land of another for the purpose of reaching and carrying away the cargo of a wrecked vessel.
office, shall go before some officer duly authorized to administer oaths and take an oath to perform faithfully the duties of his office, and the oaths to support the constitution of the state and of the United States. (Rev., s. 5441; 1899, c. 79, s. 11; C. S. 8085.)

§ 82-5. Duty of commissioners.—Upon the earliest intelligence given that any ship or vessel is stranded, it shall be the duty of the commissioner in whose district the same is stranded, or his duly authorized agent, to repair at once to such wrecked ship or vessel, and upon the permission of its master to summon immediately a sufficient number of men who, acting under the direction of the commissioner or his agent, shall at once proceed to save the cargo and material of such wrecked vessel. As soon as any such stranded property is saved it shall be immediately placed under guard, one guard to be selected by the commissioner or owner representing the same, and one other guard to be selected by the salvors. Such goods or stranded property shall be kept under strict guard until sold or the salvors are paid as provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 5442; 1899, c. 79, s. 14; 1901, c. 175; C. S. 8056.)

§ 82-6. Salvage to be paid, or its payment secured, before release of goods.—Every person who assists in saving such cargo or material shall, within thirty days after saving the same, be paid a reasonable reward by the owner or master of the stranded vessel, or by the merchant whose vessel or goods are saved. In default of payment of a reasonable compensation the goods or other property so saved shall remain in the joint custody of the commissioner and salvors until all such charges are paid, or until the payment thereof is secured to the satisfaction of the parties saving such goods or other property. (Rev., s. 5443; 1899, c. 79, ss. 14, 15; C. S. 8057.)

§ 82-7. Adjustment of salvage when the parties cannot agree.—If the parties shall disagree touching the amount of reward or salvage to be paid to the persons employed, the commander, owner, or commissioner who represents the property saved shall choose one disinterested person, and the salvors shall nominate one other, who shall adjust and ascertain the same. If the persons thus chosen cannot agree, they shall choose one other indifferent person as umpire to decide between them: Provided, that the amount to be paid the salvors shall be determined and agreed upon before sale is made of such property. (Rev., s. 5444; 1899, c. 79, s. 16; C. S. 8088.)

§ 82-8. Sale of wrecked property for salvage; compensation of commissioner.—If the owner of the vessel, or the property which has been saved, shall fail for thirty days after the salvage has been ascertained, either by agreement or as provided for in § 82-7, to pay such salvage, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of wrecks in charge of such stranded or wrecked vessel or other property to sell the same at public sale, after first advertising such sale in the same manner as is required for sales of personal property under execution. Each commissioner shall provide himself with books and shall record in them all such sales by him made. He shall receive for selling any such wrecked or stranded property five per centum on the amount of sales, and in addition thereto he shall receive his actual expenses incurred in going to and returning from the place of the wreck, or where the property is stranded, to be paid out of the gross amount of such sales. At any public sale of stranded property, the salvors may select one person and the commissioner one other, who shall keep an accurate account of the sales, make the collections, settle with the commissioner his fees, and pay to the salvors the amount agreed on or awarded by the referees. (Rev., s. 5445; 1899, c. 79, s. 17; 1901, c. 178; 1905, c. 66; C. S. 8089.)

§ 82-9. Compensation of commissioner when there is no sale.—If any owner or merchant shall remove any such goods or other stranded property from the custody of any commissioner without a sale, then such commissioner shall receive, in addition to his actual expenses incurred for the purposes mentioned in § 82-8, two and one-half per centum on the amount of the value of such property, which amount shall be ascertained in the same manner as is provided for ascertaining the amount of the reward to be paid salvors in those cases where such reward cannot be determined by agreement. No commissioner shall receive any salvage or other reward except the commission prescribed in this chapter. (Rev., s. 5446; 1899, c. 79, ss. 17, 18; 1905, c. 66; C. S. 8090.)

§ 82-10. Sale of unclaimed property.—Whenever any vessel, cargo, or material of any ship or vessel or any other property shall be cast ashore or taken up at sea and brought to shore, and no person is present to claim the same as owner, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of the district where the same is brought or cast ashore to take charge of such property and to proceed to advertise and sell it at public sale, first giving twenty days notice of such sale at three public places. On making any such sale the commissioner shall, out of the gross proceeds thereof, retain a commission of five per centum as his compensation and the amount awarded to the salvors pursuant to the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 5447; 1899, c. 79, ss. 19, 20; C. S. 8091.)

§ 82-11. Proceeds of sale to be paid to clerk of superior court.—When any commissioner shall undertake to sell any property where no person is or has been present to claim the same, it shall be his duty to notify the clerk of the superior court of his county of such sale. After any such sale is made, the commissioner shall forward to such clerk the proceeds of the sale, after deducting his commission of five per centum and paying the salvors the amount awarded to them as provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 5448; 1899, c. 79, s. 21; C. S. 8092.)

§ 82-12. Disposition of proceeds of sale by clerk.—It shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court to make a record and keep an account of all moneys received by him from any commissioner of wrecks, and he shall advertise in some weekly newspaper published in North Carolina the amount so received, giving a true description of the marks, numbers, and kinds of goods or other stranded property, for which the same was sold. Each commissioner shall give the clerk of the superior court all necessary information for the

§ 82-14. Stranded property to be reported; failure to report misdemeanor. — If any person shall find any wrecked or stranded property on or near the seashore, no person being present to claim the same, he shall as soon as possible give information thereof to the nearest commissioner of wrecks, who shall advertise and sell the same as provided in this chapter. If such finder shall refuse to report the goods so found, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction he shall be fined not more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., ss. 3548, 5451; 1899, c. 79, s. 24; C. S. 8095.)

§ 82-17. Commissioner violating chapter liable for double damages and guilty of a misdemeanor. — If any commissioner of wrecks shall by fraud or wilful neglect violate any of the provisions of this chapter, or abuse the trust reposed in him, he shall forfeit and pay double the amount of damages to the party aggrieved. He shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction he shall forfeit his office and shall thereafter be incapable of acting as commissioner. (Rev. s. 3563; 1899, c. 79, s. 25; C. S. 8098.)

§ 82-18. Interfering with commissioner in the discharge of his duties. — If any person shall wilfully and unlawfully resist, delay, or obstruct any commissioner of wrecks in discharging or attempting to discharge his duties as such commissioner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3564; 1905, c. 66, s. 2; C. S. 8099.)

Architects.

83-10. Examination fees; expenses of board.
83-11. Annual renewal of certificate; fee.
83-12. Holding out as architect without having certificate, provisos.
83-13. Seal of registered architect; plans to bear seal.
83-14. County record of registered architects; fees.
83-15. Copy to registered architects.

§ 83-1. Architecture defined.—For the purpose of this chapter, the practice of architecture consists of rendering or offering to render for compensation design and/or related supervision services, of an aesthetic and/or structural nature, for the construction of buildings, structures or projects, wherein the safeguarding of life, health, and property and the promotion of the public welfare may be involved. An architect is a person who practices architecture as herein defined; provided that nothing herein shall prevent a building contractor from drafting designs and plans without compensation for use by him in constructing or repairing buildings for the owner. (1915, c. 270, s. 9; 1941, c. 369, s. 3; C. S. 4985.)

For comment on this amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 446.

§ 83-2. State board of architectural examination and registration; creation; membership; vacancies.—There shall be a state board of architectural examination and registration, consisting of five members, to be appointed by the governor in the following manner, to wit: Within thirty days after the ninth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, the governor shall appoint five persons who are reputable architects residing in the state of North Carolina, who have been engaged in the practice of architecture at least ten years. The five persons so appointed by the governor shall constitute the board of architectural examination and registration, and they shall be appointed for one, two, three, four, and five years, respectively. Thereafter, in each year, the governor in like manner shall appoint one licensed architect to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of office, the term of such new members to be for five years. If vacancy shall occur in the board for any cause, the same shall be filled by the appointment of the governor. (1915, c. 270, s. 1; C. S. 4986.)

§ 83-4. Organization of board; officers; treasurer's bond.—The said board shall, within thirty days after its appointment by the governor, meet in the city of Raleigh, at a time and place to be designated by the governor, and organize by electing a president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, each to serve for one year. Said board shall have power to make such by-laws, rules, and regulations as it shall deem best, provided the same are not in conflict with the laws of North Carolina. The treasurer shall give bond in such sum as the board shall determine, with such security as shall be approved by the board, said bond to be conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office and for the faithful accounting of all moneys and other property as shall come into his hands. (1915, c. 270, s. 1; C. S. 4988.)

§ 83-5. Seal of board.—The board shall adopt a seal for its own use. The seal shall have the words “Board of Architectural Examination and Registration, State of North Carolina,” and the Secretary shall have charge, care, and custody thereof. (1915, c. 270, s. 5; C. S. 4989.)

§ 83-6. Meeting of board; quorum.—The board shall meet once a year in July of each succeeding year, for the purpose of electing officers and transacting such other business as may properly come before it. Due notice of such annual meeting, and the time and place thereof, shall be given to each member by letter, sent to his last postoffice address at least ten days before the meetings, and thirty days notice of such annual meeting shall be given in some newspaper published in the city of Raleigh, at least once a week for four weeks preceding such meeting. Three members of the board shall constitute a quorum. (1915, c. 270, s. 1; C. S. 4990.)

§ 83-7. Record of proceedings and of registration.—The secretary shall keep a record of the proceedings of the board and registration for all applicants for registration and admission to practice architecture, giving the name and location of the institution or place of training where the applicant was prepared for the practice of architecture, and such other information as the board may deem proper and useful. This registration shall be prima facie evidence of all matters recorded therein. (1915, c. 270, s. 1; C. S. 4991.)

§ 83-9. Refusal, revocation, or suspension of certificates.— Said board may refuse to grant certificate to any person convicted of a felony, or who, in the opinion of the board, has been guilty of gross, unprofessional conduct, or who is addicted to habits of such character as to render him unfit to practice architecture. The board of architectural examination and registration may suspend for a period or revoke the certificate of admission to practice, and forbid practice by any architect upon conviction, after a fair and impartial trial, of any dishonest practice, unprofessional conduct, or incompetence. For the purpose of such trial, the board shall have full power to subpoena and examine witnesses under oath as to the facts of the case. Any architect against whom charges are preferred shall have not less than sixty days notice before the trial of his case, and shall have the right to have witnesses subpoenaed in his behalf, and of being heard in person and by counsel. Any such trial shall be open to the public. (1915, c. 270, s. 3; 1919, c. 336, s. 1; C. S. 4992.)

§ 83-10. Examination fees; expenses of board. — All examination fees shall be paid in advance to the treasurer of said board of architectural examination and registration. The state of North Carolina shall not be liable for the compensation of any members or officers of said board. All expenses incurred by said board in the necessary discharge of their duties shall be paid out of funds derived from examination fees herein provided for, and shall be paid by the treasurer upon warrant drawn by the secretary and approved by the president. The said board shall have the power to determine what are necessary expenses and to fix the salaries of the respective officers. (1915, c. 270, s. 5; 1919, c. 336, s. 3; C. S. 4993.)

§ 83-11. Annual renewal of certificate; fee.— Every architect continuing his practice in the state shall, on or before the first day of July in each year, obtain from the board of architectural examination and registration a renewal of his certificate for the ensuing year upon the payment of a fee of five dollars, and upon failure to do so shall have his certificate of admission to practice revoked, but such certificate may be renewed at any time within one year upon the payment of a fee of ten dollars. (1919, c. 336, s. 2; C. S. 4995.)

§ 83-12. Holding out as architect without having certificate, provisos.— Any person not registered under this chapter who shall advertise or put up a sign or card or other device, or in any other way hold himself out to the public as an architect, or practice architecture as herein defined, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars. Provided, however, that nothing herein shall prevent any person from making plans or data for buildings for themselves: Provided, further, that nothing in this chapter shall prevent any person from selling or furnishing plans for the construction of residence or farm or commercial buildings of a value not exceeding fifteen thousand dollars; provided, further, that nothing in this chapter shall prevent any registered engineer duly licensed in this state from furnishing design or supervision services for plants or structures which are elements of engineering projects or utilities: And provided further, that nothing in this chapter shall prevent the procuring of plans and specifications from an architect residing outside of this state. Nonresident architects who come within the state to do business shall be subject to the same examination and upon same terms and conditions as resident applicants, unless such nonresident architects are permitted to engage in business in this state under the terms of the preceding section. (1915, c. 270, s. 4; 1941, c. 369, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 4996.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted in the first sentence the words “or practice architecture as herein defined.” It also inserted the second and third provisos and made changes in the first proviso.

§ 83-13. Seal of registered architect; plans to bear seal.— Every architect who shall have obtained from said board a certificate, shall have a seal which must contain the name of the architect, his place of business, and the words “Registered Architect, of North Carolina,” and he shall stamp all drawings and specifications issued from his office, for use in this state, with an impression of said seal. (1915, c. 270, s. 7; C. S. 4997.)

§ 83-14. County record of registered architects; fees.— Every person holding a certificate of said board to practice architecture shall have said certificate recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he resides or has his principal office. Said clerk shall record the same in a book to be kept by him, entitled “Record of Architecture,” and the clerk shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for recording such certificate: Provided, however, that in any counties where the clerk is on a salary and not on a fee basis, then the said fee of one dollar shall be paid into the county treasury. It shall be unlawful for any person to hold himself out as an architect until said certificate shall have been recorded, and any person found guilty of holding himself out as an architect without registration of his certificate, as aforesaid, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars, in the discretion of the court. (1915, c. 270, s. 8; C. S. 4998.)
Chapter 84. Attorneys at Law.

Art. 1. Qualifications of Attorney; Unauthorized Practice of Law.

§ 84-1. Oaths taken in open court. — Attorneys before they shall be admitted to practice law shall, in open court before a justice of the supreme or judge of the superior court, take the oath prescribed for attorneys, and also the oath of allegiance to the state, and to support the constitution of the United States, prescribed for all public officers, and the same shall be entered on the records of the court; and, upon such qualification had, and oath taken, may act as attorneys during their good behavior. (Rev., ss. 209; Code, s. 19; R. C., c. 9, s. 3; 1777, c. 115, s. 8; C. S. 197.)

Non-Resident Attorneys. — As this section requires the oath of allegiance to the state, it debars a citizen of another state from obtaining a license to practice law and a non-resident attorney does not acquire the right to practice habitually in this state by having been previously allowed, through the courtesy of the courts, to appear in special cases. Manning v. Roanoke, etc., R. Co., 122 N. C. 824, 828, 28 S. E. 963.

§ 84-2. Persons disqualified. — No clerk of the superior or supreme court, nor deputy or assistant clerk of said courts, nor register of deeds, nor sheriff, nor any justice of the peace, nor county commissioner shall practice law. Persons violating this provision shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than two hundred dollars. This section shall not apply to Confederate soldiers. (Rev., ss. 210, 3641; Code, ss. 27, 28, 110; 1870-1, c. 90; 1883, c. 496; 1871-2, c. 120; 1880, c. 43; C. C. P., s. 424; 1919, c. 205; 1933, c. 15; 1941, c. 177; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 198.)

Editor's Note. — Registers of deeds were, by Public Laws 1933, c. 15, added to the list of these excluded from practice. The 1963 amendment made the former second paragraph of this section into a new section designated as § 84-21. That paragraph had been added by the 1941 amendment.

§ 84-2.1. “Practice law” defined. — The phrase “practice law” as used in this chapter is defined to be performing any legal service for any other person, firm or corporation, with or without compensation, specifically including the preparation of deeds, mortgages, wills, trust instruments, reports of guardians, trustees, administrators, or executors, abstracting or passing upon titles, the preparation and filing of petitions for use in any court, or assisting by advice, counsel, or otherwise in any such legal work; and to advise or give and out of the state to whom a certificate has been issued under this chapter. (1919, c. 336, s. 3; C. S. 4993.)
opinion upon the legal rights of any person, firm or corporation: Provided, that the above reference to particular acts which are specifically included within the definition of the phrase "practice law" shall not be construed to limit the foregoing general definition of such term, but shall be construed to include the foregoing particular acts, as well as all other acts within said general definition. (Rev., ss. 210, 3641; Code, ss. 27, 28, 110; 1870-1, c. 90; 1883, c. 406; 1871-2, c. 120; 1880, c. 43; C. C. P., s. 424; 1919, c. 205; 1933, c. 15; 1941, c. 177; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 198.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1943 amendment this section appeared as the second paragraph of § 84-2. It had been added as a said paragraph by the 1941 amendment. For comment on the 1941 act, see 19 N. C. L. Rev. 454.

What Constitutes Practicing Law.—To constitute a practicing of law, within the prohibition of this section, it is necessary that the person charged with its violation shall have customarily or habitually held himself out to the public as a lawyer, or that he demanded compensation for his services as such. State v. Bryan, 98 N. C. 644, 4 S. E. 532.

The fact that a person on one occasion acted as an attorney for a party to an action, is some evidence for the jury to consider, but is not conclusive of the question. Id.

§ 84-3. Officers of inferior courts disqualified in certain cases.—No judge or prosecuting attorney of any recorder's, municipal, or county court shall appear in any other court on behalf of the defendant in a criminal action, where such criminal action has been tried in the court of such officer. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars. (1917, c. 213; C. S. 190.)

Local Modification.—Iredell: 1917, c. 213, s. 3.

§ 84-4. Corporations and persons other than members of state bar prohibited from practicing law; exceptions.—It shall be unlawful for any corporation or any person or association of persons, except members of the bar of the state of North Carolina admitted and licensed to practice as attorneys at law, to appear as attorney or counsellor-at-law in any action or proceeding in any court in this state or before any judicial body or the North Carolina industrial commission or the unemployment compensation commission; to maintain, conduct, or defend any court action on behalf of the defendant in a criminal action, where such criminal action has been tried in the court of such officer. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars. (1917, c. 213; C. S. 190.)

§ 84-5. Further prohibition as to practice of law by corporation; exceptions.—It shall be unlawful for any corporation or any person or association of persons, except members of the bar of the state of North Carolina admitted and licensed to practice as attorneys at law, to appear as attorney or counsellor-at-law in any action or proceeding in any court in this state or before any judicial body or the North Carolina industrial commission or the unemployment compensation commission; to maintain, conduct, or defend any court action on behalf of the defendant in a criminal action, where such criminal action has been tried in the court of such officer. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars. (1917, c. 213; C. S. 190.)

Editor's Note.—The act from which this section was codified became effective April 1, 1931, and provided that it should not apply to or affect "litigation now pending in any court."

The 1937 amendment inserted the words "or the unemployment compensation commission" immediately preceding the first semicolon in this section.

This section is constitutional and valid, the right to practice law being subject to legislative regulation within constitutional restrictions and limitations, and the statute not being in contravention of any provision of the state or federal constitutions. Seawell v. Carolina Motor Club, 209 N. C. 624, 184 S. E. 540.

The right to practice law is personal and may not be exercised by a corporation either directly or indirectly by employing a practicing lawyer. Seawell v. Carolina Motor Club, 209 N. C. 624, 184 S. E. 540.

What Is Deemed Practice of Law.—The practice of law as hereinafter defined consists of the conduct of cases in court, or the representation of parties, in writing legal documents, or as being engaged in advising or giving legal advice or counsel, or in furnishing the services of a lawyer or lawyers; and it shall be unlawful for any person or association of persons, except members of the bar of the state of North Carolina admitted and licensed to practice as attorneys at law, to appear as attorney or counsellor-at-law, or in furnishing the services of a lawyer or lawyers; and it shall be unlawful for any person or association of persons, except members of the Bar, for a fee or any consideration, to or- ganize corporations or prepare for another person, firm or corporation, any other legal documents similar to those of a will, except life insurance trusts, or, for a fee or any consideration, to organize corporations or prepare for another person, firm or corporation, any other legal document. Provided, that nothing herein shall pro-hibit any person from conferring with a person, firm or corporation with respect to the creation of a fiduciary capacity from transacting the necessary cler- ical business incidental to the routine or usual ad- ministration of estates, trusts, guardianships, or other similar fiduciary capacities, such as offering wills for probate in common form, securing au-thority to expend principal as guardian or trustee, § 84-6. Exacting fee for conducting foreclosures prohibited to all except licensed attorneys. — It shall be unlawful to exact, charge, or receive any attorney's fee for the foreclosure of any mortgage under power of sale, unless the foreclosure is conducted by a licensed attorney at law of North Carolina, and unless the full amount charged as attorney's fee is actually paid to and received by such attorney, without being directly or indirectly shared with or rebated to any one else, and it shall be unlawful for any such attorney to make any showing that he has received such a fee unless he has received the same, or to share with or rebate to any other person, firm, or corporation such fee or any part thereof received by him; but such attorney may divide such fee with another licensed attorney at law maintaining his own place of business and not an officer or employee of the foreclosing party, if such attorney has assisted in performing the services for which the fee is paid, or resides in a place other than that where the foreclosure proceedings are conducted, and has forwarded the case to the attorney conducting such foreclosure. (1931, c. 157, s. 3.)

§ 84-7. Solicitors, upon application, to bring injunction or criminal proceedings. — The solicitor of any of the superior courts shall, upon the application of any member of the Bar, or of any bar association, of the State of North Carolina, bring such action in the name of the State as may be proper to enjoin any such person, corporation, or association of persons who it is alleged are violating the provisions of §§ 84-4 to 84-8, and it shall be the duty of the solicitor of the State to indict any person, corporation, or association of persons upon the receipt of information of the violation of the provisions of §§ 84-4 to 84-8. (1931, c. 157, s. 4.)

§ 84-8. Punishment for violations; legal clinics of law schools excepted. — Any person, corporation, or association of persons violating the provisions of §§ 84-4 to 84-8 shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. Provided, that §§ 84-4 to 84-8 shall not apply to any law school or law schools conducting a legal clinic and receiving as their clientage only those persons unable financially to compensate for legal advice or services rendered. (1931, c. 157, s. 5; 1931, c. 347.)

§ 84-9. Unlawful for any one except attorney to appear for creditor in insolvency or certain other proceedings. — It shall be unlawful for any corporation, or any firm or other association of persons other than a law firm, or for any individual other than an attorney duly licensed to practice law, to appear for another in any bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding, or in any action or proceeding for or growing out of the appointment of a receiver, or in any matter involving an assignment for the benefit of creditors, to present or vote any claim of another, whether under an assignment or transfer of such claim or in any other manner, in any of the actions, proceedings or matters hereinabove set out. (1931, c. 208, s. 2.)

Cross Reference. — As to unlawful solicitation of claims of creditors in insolvent proceedings, see § 23-46.

§ 84-10. Violation of preceding section a misdemeanor. — Any individual, corporation, or firm or other association of persons violating any provision of § 84-9 shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1931, c. 208, s. 3.)

Art. 2. Relation to Client.

§ 84-11. Authority filed or produced if requested. — Every attorney who claims to enter an appearance for any person shall, upon being required so to do, produce and file in the clerk's office of the court in which he claims to enter an appearance, a power or authority to that effect signed by the persons or some one of them for whom he is about to enter an appearance, or by some person duly authorized in that behalf, otherwise he shall not be allowed so to do; Provided, that an attorney claims to enter an appearance by virtue of a letter to him directed (whether such letter purport a general or particular employment), and it is necessary for him to retain the letter in his own possession, he shall, on the production of said letter setting forth such employment, be allowed to enter his appearance, and the clerk shall make a note to that effect upon the docket. (Rev. s. 213; Code, s. 29; R. C., c. 31, s. 57; C. S. 200.)

Cross Reference. — As to general and specific appearances, see § 1-11.

Sufficiency of Writing. — The power of attorney which a lawyer may be required to file, pursuant to this section, is some writing addressed to him by the client or an agent for the client. Therefore, letters written by the client to third persons expressing qualification because of the employment of a particular attorney will not suffice to supply the want of power. Day v. Adams, 63 N. C. 254.

A power of attorney, signed by the purchaser of a note, in the name of the payee, is sufficient authority under this section for an attorney at law to appear in a cause in court, although the agent has no written authority to make the power. Johnson v. Sikes, 49 N. C. 70.

A power of attorney, given by a married woman, under this section to an attorney at law to appear in a cause in court, is some writing addressed to him by the client or an agent for the client. Therefore, letters written by the client to third persons expressing qualification because of the employment of a particular attorney will not suffice to supply the want of power. Day v. Adams, 63 N. C. 254.

Time of Demand for Authority. — In Reesee v. Reece, 66 N. C. 377 it is held that the defendant has the right, because of this section, to demand the authority at the return term of a summons.
If the demand for the power of attorney be made at the return term, it is the practice and within the discretion of the judge to extend the time; if, however, such demand is not made at the proper time, and before the right to appear has been recognized, it costs too late, unless there be peculiar circumstances tending to excuse the party for not making it in apt time. Reece v. Reece, 60 N. C. 237.

After an attorney has entered an appearance and has been recognized by the court as attorney in the cause, no written authority can be required of him at a subsequent time. This evidently means that the opposite party shall not be in question his authority unless he does so within the time and in accordance with the provision of this section. New Bern v. Jones, 63 N. C. 606, 607; Day v. Adams, 63 N. C. 254, 256.

When Client Present. — If a written authority be required under this section the attorney must produce the same, even if his client is present at the bar of the court. Day v. Adams, 63 N. C. 254, 256.

Authority to Dismiss Action. — Upon special appearance of the attorneys of a husband whose property has been attached by the wife, for the purpose of dismissing the action, the court should, on motion made, require them to file their written authority under this section. Walton v. Walton, 178 N. C. 73, 100 S. E. 176.

§ 84-12. Failure to file complaint, attorney liable for costs.—When a plaintiff is compelled to pay the costs of his suit in consequence of a failure on the part of his attorney to file his complaint in proper time, he may sue such attorney for all the costs by him so paid, and the receipt of the clerk may be given in evidence in support of such claim. (Rev., s. 214; Code, s. 22; R. C., c. 9, s. 5; 1786, c. 253, s. 6; C. S. 201.)

Power of Courts to Compel Payment. — This section is not exhaustive, and the courts have power to order counsel to pay costs of cases in which they have been guilty of gross negligence (even of a kind not included in this section) such conduct being a sort of contempt. Ex parte Robins, 63 N. C. 399.

§ 84-13. Fraudulent practice, attorney liable in double damages.—If any attorney commits any fraudulent practice, he shall be liable in an action to the party injured, and on the verdict passing against him, judgment shall be given for the plaintiff to recover double damages. (Rev., s. 215; Code, s. 23; R. C., c. 9, s. 6; 1743, c. 37; C. S. 202.)

Aliens Prevented from Practicing. — In Ex parte Townsend, 10 N. C. 355, 362, the court said “No one should be presented to the public under the panoply of such a license (to practice law), against whom an injured suitor may have the full benefit of such legal remedy as the laws of the state provide, in the event of fraudulent or negligent practice.” Hence the court reasoned that an alien could not be admitted to practice, as actions under this section would be removable to the United States courts.

Presumption of Fraud. — The relation of attorney and client is one of a fiduciary character, and gives rise to a presumption of fraud when the former, in dealing with the latter, obtains an advantage. Egerton v. Logan, 81 N. C. 172.

Art. 3. Arguments.

§ 84-14. Court's control of argument.—In all trials in the superior courts there shall be allowed two addresses to the jury for the state or plaintiff and two for the defendant, except in capital felonies, when there shall be no limit as to number. The Judges of the Superior Court are authorized to limit the time of argument of Counsel to the jury on the trial of actions, civil and criminal, and felony. No time shall be allowed to address the jury on the side in misdemeanors and appeals from Justices of the peace; to not less than two hours on each side in all other civil actions and in felonies less than capital; in capital felonies, the time of argument of Counsel may not be limited otherwise than by content, except that the court may limit the number of those who may address the jury to three Counsel on each side. Where any greater number of addresses or any extension of time are desired, motion shall be made, and it shall be in the discretion of the judge to allow the same or not, as the interests of justice may require. In jury trials the whole case as well of law as of fact may be argued to the jury. (Rev., s. 216; 1903, c. 433; 1927, ch. 52; C. S. 203.)

Discretion of Court. — The trial judge has a large discretion in controlling and directing the argument of Counsel, but, under this section, this does not include the right to deprive a litigant of the benefit of his Counsel's argument when it is confined within proper bounds and is addressed to the material facts of the case. Puett v. Caldwell, etc., R. Co., 141 N. C. 352, 53 S. E. 852; Irvin v. Southern R. Co., 164 N. C. 5, 17, 80 S. E. 78.

It is the duty of the judge to interfere when the remarks of Counsel are not warranted by the evidence and are calculated to mislead or prejudice the jury. State v. Howley, 235 N. C. 365, 18 S. E. 2d (20) 705.

Arguing Law and Fact. — It is reversible error for the trial judge not to permit attorneys to argue to the jury the law and facts as limited by the decisions of the court as provided by this section. Howard v. Western Union Tel. Co., 170 N. C. 495, 87 S. E. 313.

Failure to charge upon a certain point is reversible error especially when the Counsel are shown to have argued the case well of law as of fact" as is permitted by this section. Nichols v. Fibre Co., 190 N. C. 1, 128 S. E. 471. It is the duty of the trial judge to instruct the jury upon the law, and he may correctly tell them to disregard the law as argued to them by counsel. Sears, Roebuck & Co. v. Banking Co., 191 N. C. 500, 132 S. E. 468.

Same—Reading and Commenting on Reported Cases. — An attorney has the right under this section to argue "the whole case as well as law as of fact," they may read to the jury reported cases and comment thereon; but the facts as argued to the jury in the cases cannot be read as a substitute for evidence of their existence in another case. Horah v. Knox, 87 N. C. 483.

Reading Dissenting Opinion as Law of Case.—It is not permissible for the trial judge to read and comment on a dissenting opinion, and to apply in the argument the decisions of the court as provided by this section. Teasley v. Burwell, 199 N. C. 18, 20, 153 S. E. 471.

Limitation of Argument under Former Section. — See State v. Miller, 75 N. C. 73.

§ 84-15. Creation of North Carolina State Bar as an agency of the state.—There is hereby created as an agency of the State of North Carolina, for the purposes and with the powers hereinafter set forth, the North Carolina State Bar. (1933, c. 210, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For a review of this section and those immediately following, see 11 N. C. Law Rev. 191.

Quoted in In re Parker, 39 N. C. 693, 184 S. E. 532.

§ 84-16. Membership and privileges.—The membership of the North Carolina state bar shall consist of three classes, active, honorary and inactive.

The active members shall be all persons who shall have heretofore obtained, or who shall hereafter obtain, a license or certificate, which shall at the time be valid and effectual, enabling them to practice law in the state of North Carolina, and shall at the time be valid. The whole case as provided hereinafter specified, unless classified as an inactive member by the council as hereinafter provided. No person other than a member of the North Carolina state bar shall practice in any court of the state, except foreign attorneys as provided by statute.

The honorary members shall be (a) the chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court of North Carolina; (b) the judges of the superior courts of North Carolina; (c) all former judges of the above-named courts resident in North Carolina, but not engaged in the practice of law; (d) judges of the district courts of the United States and of the circuit court of appeals resident in North Carolina.

Inactive members shall be all persons found by the Council to be not engaged in the practice of law and not holding themselves out as practicing attorneys and not occupying any public or private positions in which they may be called upon to give legal advice or counsel or to examine the law or to pass upon the legal effect of any act, document, or law.

Only active members shall be required to pay annual membership fees, and shall have the right to vote. A member shall be entitled to vote at all annual or special meetings of the North Carolina state bar, and at all meetings of and elections held by the bar of each of the judicial districts in which he resides: Provided, that if he desires to vote with the bar of some district in which he practices, other than that in which he resides, he may do so upon filing with the resident judge of the district in which he desires to vote, and with the resident judge of the district in which he resides (and, after the North Carolina state bar shall have been organized as hereinafter set forth, with the secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina state bar), his statement in writing that he desires to vote in such other district: Provided, however, that in no case shall he be entitled to vote in more than one district.

§ 84-18. Election of councillors.—Within thirty days after this article shall have gone into effect the judge of each judicial district shall, by notice posted at the front door of each courthouse within his district and by such other means as he shall think desirable, call a meeting of the attorneys residing within his district, and any others who may declare in writing their desire to be affiliated with that district, as hereinabove provided, for the purpose of organizing the bar of the district, the said meeting to be held at a place deemed by the judge to be convenient, on a day fixed, not less than twenty nor more than thirty days from posting of notice. At that meeting such attorneys as attend shall constitute a quorum, and shall forthwith form such organization herein referred to as the "district bar," as they may deem advisable, of which organization all active members of the North Carolina state bar entitled to vote in that district shall be members. The district bar shall be the subdivision of the North Carolina state bar for that judicial district, and shall be subject to, and subject to all of the rules, regulations, and by-laws adopted by the district bar. In case the judge of any judicial district, by reason of physical disability or otherwise, shall fail to call the meeting aforesaid within thirty days after this article shall have gone into effect, the same may be called within thirty days thereafter by any two attorneys residing in said district, by written notice signed by them and delivered to the clerk of the court of each such district to be posted at the front door of each courthouse as aforesaid, the said meeting to be held on a day fixed not less than twenty nor more than thirty days after the posting of said notice; and thereupon the same proceedings shall take place as though the meeting had been called by the judge as aforesaid. Any clerk to whom any such notice shall be delivered to be signed, shall immediately post the same and shall write upon the said notice the exact date and time when the same is so posted. In case more than one notice shall be posted hereunder by different groups of attorneys, that posted first in point of time shall prevail and be deemed to be the notice provided for under this article. Pending the organization of the council as hereinafter provided, notification of the election of each councillor shall be sent within five days after such election by the secretary of the district bar to the clerk of the supreme court of North Carolina; but after the organization of the council such notices shall be sent to its secretary-treasurer. In case neither the judge nor any two members shall call a meeting as aforesaid, a councillor for the said district, residing therein, shall be named at a meeting of such members of the council as shall have been elected in accordance herewith, to serve until such district bar shall be organized under the provisions of this article (except as to the time for calling meetings), either on the call of the judge of the district court or of two members of the bar, and shall have elected a councillor to serve for the unexpired term of the councillor so named. (1933, c. 210, s. 4.)

§ 84-19. Change of judicial districts.—In the event that a new district shall hereafter be carved-out of an existing district, the councillor for the old district shall remain in office and continue to represent the district constituting that portion of the old district in which he resides or with which he has elected to be affiliated; and within thirty days after the division of the old district shall have become effective, or so soon thereafter as practicable, the same procedure shall be followed for the organization of the North Carolina state bar, constituting the remaining and unrepresented portion of the old district, and for the election of a councillor to represent the same, as is provided in § 84-18, and if a new district or more than one new district shall be formed by a recombination or reallocation of the counties in more than one existing district, the same procedure shall be followed as is prescribed by § 84-18, in said new district, or in each of them if there be more than one, within thirty days after the election or appointment of the judge or judges thereof; but in that event the office of councillor for each of the old districts the counties in which shall have been so recombined into or reallocated to such new district or districts shall cease, determined, and become vacant so soon as the new or bars of such new district, or all of such new districts if there shall be more than one, shall have been organized and shall have elected a councillor or councillors therefor, but not earlier: Provided, that if at such time any councillor whose office shall thus become vacant be actually serving upon a committee before which there is pending any trial of a case of professional misconduct or malpractice, he shall, notwithstanding the election of a new councillor, continue to serve as councillor for the purpose of trying such case until judgment shall have been rendered therein. (1933, c. 210, s. 5.)
sented to the chief justice of the supreme court or any judge thereof, until any such defects in the organization of the council shall have been corrected, at which time a new certificate of organization shall be presented and the same course taken as hereinafter provided, and so on until a correct certificate showing the proper organization of the council shall have been presented, and the organization of the council accordingly completed. Upon (a) the entry of an order upon the minutes of the court that the requirements of this article have been complied with, or (b) if for any reason the chief justice or judge should not act thereon within thirty days, then, after the lapse of thirty days from the presentation to the chief justice or judge, as the case may be, of any certificate of organization hereinafter required to be presented by the secretary-treasurer, without either the entry of an order or the return of said certificate with a statement showing the respects in which this article has not been complied with, the organization of the council shall be deemed to be complete, and it shall be vested with the powers herein set forth; and the certificate of organization shall thereupon forthwith be spread upon the minutes of the court. A copy of the certificate of organization, as spread upon the minutes of the court, shall be published in the next ensuing volume of the North Carolina Reports. The rules and regulations set forth in the certificate of organization, and all other rules and regulations which may be adopted by the council under this article, may be amended by the council from time to time in any manner not inconsistent with this article. Copies of all such rules and regulations adopted subsequently to the filing of the certificate of organization, and of all amendments of the certificate of organization, shall be certified to the chief justice of the supreme court of North Carolina, entered by it upon its minutes, and published in the next ensuing number of the North Carolina Reports: Provided, that the court may decline to have so entered upon its minutes any of such rules, regulations and amendments which in the opinion of the chief justice are inconsistent with this article. (1933, c. 210, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1941 amendment there was only one vice-president.

§ 84-23. Powers of council.—Subject to the superior authority of the general assembly to legislate thereon by general laws, and except as herein otherwise limited, the council is hereby vested, as an agency of the state, with the control of the discipline, disbarment and restoration of attorneys practicing law in this state: Provided, that from any order suspending an attorney from the practice of law and from any order disbarring an attorney, pending appeal, the council may determine, but no change in the time or place shall become effective within one year from the date upon which the change is determined.

The board of law examiners shall elect a member of said board as chairman thereof, who shall hold office for such period as said board may determine.

The examination shall be held in such manner and at such times as the board of law examiners may determine, but no change in the time or place shall become effective within one year from the date upon which the change is determined.

The board of law examiners, subject to the approval of the council, shall by majority vote, from time to time, make, alter and amend such rules and regulations for admission to the bar and for the furtherance of the purposes of this article as are necessary to the furtherance of the purposes of this article as are necessary to the furtherance of the purposes of this article.

Editor's Note.—The words "and restoration" were inserted by the amendment of 1935. Prior to the 1937 amendment an appeal lay "as of right" to the regular superior court judge. In State v. Hollingsworth, 206 N. C. 739, 175 S. E. 99, construing former § 205, it was held that the court was without authority to set aside a judgment of disbarment on motion, especially since the enactment of this and subsequent sections.

Plea of Guilt.—Where an attorney has confessed his guilt in open court to four crimes, all involving moral turpitude, and the bar of North Carolina had refused to disbar him, the Supreme Court of the United States, disbarment must ultimately result regardless of this and the following sections. In re British, 224 N. C. 95, 96, 197 S. E. 705.

§ 84-24. Admission to practice.—The provisions of the law now obtaining with reference to admission to the practice of law, as amended, and the rules and regulations prescribed by the supreme court of North Carolina with reference thereto, shall continue in force until superseded, changed or modified by or under the provisions of this article.

For the purpose of examining applicants and providing rules and regulations for admission to the bar including the issuance of license therefor, there is hereby created the board of law examiners, which shall consist of seven members of the bar, elected by the council of the North Carolina state bar, who need not be members of the council. No teacher in any law school, however, shall be eligible. The members of the board of law examiners elected from the bar shall each hold office for a term of three years: Provided, that the members first elected shall hold office, two for one year, two for two years, and two for three years.

The secretary of the North Carolina state bar shall be the secretary of the board, and serve without additional pay. The board of law examiners shall elect a member of said board as chairman thereof, who shall hold office for such period as said board may determine.

The examination shall be held in such manner and at such times as the board of law examiners may determine, but no change in the time or place shall become effective within one year from the date upon which the change is determined.

The board of law examiners, subject to the approval of the council, shall by majority vote, from time to time, make, alter and amend such rules and regulations for admission to the bar as in their judgment shall promote the welfare of the state and the profession: Provided, that any change in the educational requirements for admission to the bar shall not become effective within two years from the date of the adoption of such change.

All such rules and regulations, and modifications, alterations and amendments thereof, shall be recorded and promulgated as provided in § 84-21 in relation to the certificate of organization and the rules and regulations of the council. Whenever the Council shall order the restoration of license to any person as authorized by § 84-32, it shall be the duty of the Board of Law Examiners to issue a written license to such person, noting thereon that the same is issued in compliance with an order of the Council of The North Carolina State Bar, whether the license to practice law was issued by the Board of Law Examiners or the Supreme Court in the first instance. (1933, c. 210, s. 10; c. 331; 1935, cc. 33, 61; 1941, c. 344, s. 6.)

Cross References.—As to discipline and disbarment, see § 84-28. As to restoration of license to practice law, see § 28-32.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendments of 1935, this section provided that a member of the supreme court should act as a member of the board of law examiners. Public Laws 1935, c. 61, struck out this provision and changed the number of members of the bar serving on the board from six to seven. Public Laws 1935, c. 33, repealed provisions relative to fees of applicants and to compensation of the board, previously included in this section, by enacting new and different provisions. These subjects are now provided for in another purpose.

§ 84-25. Fees of applicants.—All applicants for examination before the board of law examiners for license to practice law in North Carolina shall pay a filing fee of one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) and shall deposit with the secretary of the board of law examiners the sum of twenty-two and 9/100 ($22.00) dollars, of which sum two dollars shall be a deposit to pay for license, if issued. Any applicant who shall fail to pass examination shall receive a refund of twelve dollars from said twenty-two dollars deposit. (1935, c. 33, s. 1.)

§ 84-26. Pay of board of law examiners.—Each member of the board of law examiners shall receive the sum of fifty dollars for his services in connection with each examination and shall receive his actual expenses of travel and subsistence while engaged in duties assigned to him, provided that for transportation by the use of private automobile the expense of travel shall not exceed five cents per mile. (1935, c. 33, s. 2; 1937, c. 35.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1937 amendment the maximum for subsistence was four dollars per day.

§ 84-27. Surplus received from applicants directed to supreme court library.—After the payment of all expenses incurred in connection with each examination held by the board of law examiners and expenses of said board at such meetings as may be necessary for the performance of its additional duties, the said board of law examiners shall cause to be paid at the end of each fiscal year of the State of North Carolina to the Supreme Court of North Carolina for its use in connection with the maintenance of its library, such surplus then remaining with said board of law examiners from fees received from applicants for examination. (1935, c. 33, s. 3.)

§ 84-28. Discipline and disbarment.—The council or any committee of its members appointed for that purpose shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all complaints, allegations, or charges of malpractice, corrupt or unprofessional conduct, or the violation of professional ethics, made against any member of the North Carolina state bar; may administer the punishments of private reprimand, suspension from the practice of law for a period not exceeding twelve months, and disbarment as the case shall in their judgment warrant, for any of the following causes: 1. Commission of a criminal offense showing professional unfitness; 2. Detention without a bona fide claim thereto of property received or money collected in the capacity of attorney; 3. Soliciting professional business; 4. Conduct involving willful deceit or fraud or any other unprofessional act; 5. Detention without a bona fide claim thereto of property received or money collected in any fiduciary capacity; 6. The violation of any of the canons of ethics which have been adopted and promulgated by the council of the North Carolina state bar; may invoke the processes of the courts in any case in which they deem it desirable to do so, and shall formulate rules of procedure governing the trial of any such person which shall conform as near as may be to the procedure now provided by law for hearings before referees in compulsory references. Such rules shall provide for due process of law, and shall provide an opportunity to be heard; for a complete record of the proceedings for purposes of appeal to the superior court of the county wherein the attorney involved resides on the record made before the council or the committee as the case may be. Upon such appeal to the superior court the accused attorney shall have the right to a trial by jury of the issues of fact arising on the pleadings, but such trial shall be only upon the written evidence taken before the trial committee or council. From the decision of the superior court the council and the accused attorney shall each have the right of appeal to the supreme court of North Carolina. Trial before the committee appointed for that purpose by the council shall be held in the county in which the accused member resides: Provided, however, that the committee conducting the hearing shall have power to remove the same to any county in which the offense, or any part thereof, was committed, if in the opinion of such committee the ends of justice or convenience of witnesses require such removal. The procedure herein provided shall apply in all cases of discipline or disbarments arising under this section. (1933, c. 210, s. 11; 1937, c. 51, s. 3.)

Cross References.—As to restoration of license, see § 84-32. As to issuance of written license upon restoration of license, see § 84-24. The cases treated under this section were decided under those sections which appeared in Michie's Code of 1931 as §§ 204 and 205, the provisions of which were substantially re-enacted in the 1935 act.

Constitutionality. — This section, and the other sections of this article, taken from the act of 1871, are constitutional. Ex parte Schenck, 65 N. C. 353.

The aforesaid act does not take away any of the inherent rights which are absolutely essential in the administration of justice. Id.

Civil Action. — Proceedings brought under this section are of a civil nature. In the Matter of Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 59 S. E. 190.

Not an "Enabling Act." — The act of 1871, upon which this and the other sections of this article are based, was not an "Enabling Act." It did not confer any power formerly invested in the courts, and so is a disabling statute. Kane v. Haywood, 66 N. C. 1; In the Matter of Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190.

Disbarment Is to Protect Public.—An order disbarring an attorney upon his conviction of a felony is not entered as... additional punishment, but as a protection to the public. State v. Spivey, 213 N. C. 45, 195 S. E. 1.

Indictment Necessary. — By a proper construction of this section, the court is shorn of its power to disburse an attorney unfit for practice. In re Spence, 212 N. C. 574, 191 S. E. 611. Conviction or Confession of Guilt. — The words "conviction" and "confession," as used in the section, must be construed to convey the idea that the party has been convicted by a jury or has in open court declined to take issue by the plea of not guilty, and confessed himself guilty. Kane v. Haywood, 66 N. C. 1, 2.

So the party in answer to a rule to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt for failure to pay money into court, not being voluntary, is not a confession in open court as contemplated by this section. Id.

Same — Conviction in Foreign State. — This section does not confer upon the court the power to disbar an attorney because he has been "convicted" in the courts of another state or of the United States. In the Matter of Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190.

Nature of Offense. — Under the acts of 1871, upon which this section is based, conviction or confession of a felony showing untrustworthiness was sufficient basis for disbarment; but by the act of 1907 conviction of a felony was necessary; construing these provisions to give effect to the language of both provisions), and further stated that the conviction of a criminal offense—the illegal sale of liquor—is sufficient grounds for disbarment as showing the attorney unfit for practice. See also State v. Johnson, 174 N. C. 345, 93 S. E. 847.

In the instant case it having appeared to the court that the defendant was guilty of an infamous misdemeanor, convicted of a felony by §§ 14-1, 14-3, the court by virtue of its inherent power was authorized to order his name stricken from the rolls of attorneys and his license to practice law in the state of North Carolina returned to the supreme court which issued it. State v. Spivey, 213 N. C. 45, 48, 195 S. E. 1.

Confession of a Felony. — A plea of guilty to an indictment charging defendant with willfully, feloniously, secretly, and maliciously giving aid and assistance to his codefendant by manufacturing evidence, altering and destroying original records in the office of the Commissioner of Revenue, etc., was held a confession of a felony, and ground for disbarment if defendant is a practicing attorney under former sections of the act, now § 84-29. Concerning evidence and witness fees. — Any investigation of charges of professional misconduct the council or any committee thereof shall have power to summon and examine witnesses under oath, and to compel their attendance, and the production of books, papers, and other documents or writings deemed by it necessary or material to the inquiry. Each summons or subpoena shall be issued under the hand and seal of the secretary-treasurer or the president of the council or the chairman of the committee appointed to hear the charges, and shall have the force and effect; restoration of licenses. — Whenever charges shall have been presented against any member of the bar, and the council shall have directed a hearing upon the charges, it shall also designate some member of the bar to prosecute said charges in such hearings as may be held, including hearing upon appeals in the superior and supreme courts. The council may allow the attorney performing such services at its request such compensation as it may deem proper. (1933, c. 210, s. 14.)

§ 84-32. Records and judgments and their effects; restoration of licenses. — In the case of persons charged with an offense cognizable by the council or any committee thereof, a complete record of the proceedings and evidence taken before the council or any committee thereof shall be made and preserved in the office of the secretary-treasurer, but the council may, upon sufficient cause shown and with the consent of the person so charged, cause the same to be expunged and destroyed. Final judgments of suspension or disbarment shall be entered upon the judgment docket of the superior court of the county wherein the accused resides, and also upon the minutes of the supreme court of North Carolina; and such judgment shall be effective throughout the state. Whenever any attorney has been deprived of his license, the council, in its discretion, may restore said license upon due notice being given and hearing had and satisfactory evidence produced of proper reformation of the licentiate before restoration. (1933, c. 210, s. 15; 1935, c. 74, s. 2.)

Cross Reference.—As to issuance of written license upon reeducation to practice, see § 84-28.

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 struck out the words "under the provisions of this article" after the word "license" in line two of the second paragraph.

§ 84-33. Annual and special meetings. — There shall be an annual meeting of the North Carolina state bar, open to all members in good standing, to be held at such place and time after such notice (but not less than thirty days) as the council may determine, for the discussion of the affairs of the bar and the administration of justice; and special meetings of the North Carolina state bar may be called, on not less than thirty days' notice, by the council, or on the call, addressed to the council, of not less than twenty-five per cent of the active members of the North Carolina state bar; but at special meetings no subjects shall be dealt with other than those specified in the notice. Notice of all meetings, whether annual or special, may be given by publication in such newspapers of general circulation as the council may select, or, in the discretion of the council, by mailing notice to the secretary of the several district bars or to the individual active members of the North Carolina state bar. The North Carolina state bar shall not take any action in respect of any decision of the council or any comnitee thereof relating to admission, exclusion, discipline or punishment of any person or other action, save after notice in writing of the action of the council or committee proposed to be directed to be made, which notice shall be given to the secretary-treasurer thirty days before the meeting, who shall give, by mail, at least fifteen days notice to the members of the North Carolina state bar, and unless at the meeting two-thirds of the members present and voting shall favor the motion to direct or overrule. At any annual or special meeting ten per cent of the active members of the bar shall constitute a quorum; but there shall be no voting by proxy.

§ 84-34. Membership fees and list of members.—Every active member of the North Carolina State Bar shall on or before the first day of January, nineteen hundred and thirty-four, pay to the secretary-treasurer, in respect of the calendar year nineteen hundred and thirty-four, dollars, and shall thereafter, prior to the first day of July of each year, beginning with and including the year nineteen hundred and thirty-four, pay to the secretary-treasurer, in respect of the calendar year in which such payment is herein directed to be made, an annual membership fee of three dollars, and shall thereafter, prior to the first day of July of each year, beginning with the calendar year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, pay to the secretary-treasurer, in respect to the calendar year in which such payment is herein directed to be made, an annual membership fee of five dollars; and in every case the member so paying shall notify the secretary-treasurer of his correct post-office address. The said membership fee shall be regarded as a service charge for the maintenance of the several services prescribed in this article, and shall be in addition to all fees now required in connection with admissions to practice, and in addition to all license taxes now or hereafter required by law. The said fee shall not be prorated: Provided, that no fee shall be required of an attorney licensed after this article shall have gone into effect until the first day of July of the second calendar year (a "calendar year" for the purposes of this article being treated as the period from January first to December thirty-first) following that in which he shall have been licensed; but this proviso shall not apply to attorneys from other states admitted on certificate. The said fees shall be disbursed by the secretary-treasurer on the order of the council.
The secretary-treasurer shall annually, at a time and in a law magazine or daily newspaper to be prescribed by the council, publish an account of the financial transactions of the council, in a form to be prescribed by it. The secretary-treasurer shall compile and keep currently correct from the names and post-office addresses forwarded to him and from any other available sources of information a list of members of the North Carolina state bar and furnish to the clerk of the superior court in each county, not later than the first day of October in each year, a list showing the name and address of each attorney for that county who has not complied with the provisions of this article. The name of each of the active members who shall be in arrears in the payment of membership fees for one or more calendar years shall be furnished to the presiding judge at the next term of the superior court after the first day of October of each year, by the clerk of the superior court of each county wherein said member or members reside, and the court shall thereupon take such action as is necessary and proper. The.

association.—Nothing in this article contained shall be construed as affecting in any way the North Carolina Bar Association, or any local bar association. (1933, c. 210, s. 18.)

§ 84-36. Inherent powers of courts unaffected.

—Nothing contained in this article shall be construed as disabling or abridging the inherent powers of the court to deal with its attorneys.
(1937, c. 51, s. 4.)

C. S., 204, 205, restricting the power of courts to disbar attorneys, were repealed by § 20, ch. 210, Public Laws of 1933, and the statutory method of disbarment, provided by the Act of 1933, is not exclusive, but to the contrary recognizes the inherent power of the courts, and the courts have jurisdiction to order the disbarment of an attorney upon his conviction of an infamous misdemeanor, converted to a felony by §§ 14-1 and 14-3. State v. Spivey, 213 N.
C. 45, 195 S. E. 1; State v. Johnson, 174 N. C. 345, 93 S.
E. 847.

§ 84-37. State bar may investigate and enjoin unauthorized practice.—The council or any committee of its members appointed for that purpose may inquire into and investigate any charges or complaints of unauthorized or unlawful practice of law. The council may bring or cause to be brought and maintain in the name of the North Carolina state bar an action or actions, upon information or upon the complaint of any private person or of any bar association against any person, partnership, corporation or association and any employee, agent, director, or officer thereof who engages in rendering any legal service or makes it a practice or business to render legal services which are unauthorized or prohibited by law or statutes relative thereto. No bond for cost shall be required in such proceeding.

(a) In an action brought under this section the final judgment if in favor of the plaintiff shall perpetually restrain the defendant or defendants from the commission or continuance of the act or acts complained of. A temporary injunction to restrain the commission or continuance thereof may be granted upon proof or by affidavit, that the defendant or defendants have violated any of the laws or statutes applicable to unauthorized or unlawful practice of law. The provisions of statute or rules relating generally to injunctions as provisional remedies in actions shall apply to such a temporary injunction and the proceedings thereunder.

(b) The venue for actions brought under this section shall be the superior court of any county in which such acts constituting unauthorized or unlawful practice of law are alleged to have been committed or in which there appear reasonable grounds that they will be committed or in the county where the defendants in such action reside.

c) The plaintiff in such action shall be entitled to examination of the adverse party and witnesses before filing his complaint and before trial in the same manner as provided by law for the examination of parties.

d) This section shall not repeal or curtail any remedy now provided in cases of unauthorized or unlawful practice of law, and nothing contained herein shall be construed as disabling or abridging the inherent powers of the court in such matters. (1939, c. 281.)

§ 85-3. Requirements of law and of commissioner of revenue; false statement.

§ 85-4. Punishment for violation of law.

§ 85-5. License tax by counties and municipalities.

§ 85-6. Account semiannually; pay over moneys received.

§ 85-7. Acting without appointment; penalty.

§ 85-8. Commissions; one per cent to town.

Art. 2. Auction Sales of Articles Containing Hidden Value.

§ 85-10. Application of article.

§ 85-12. Licensing of auction merchants.

§ 85-14. Conduct of sales by licensed auctioneer required.

Art. 1. In General.

§ 85-1. Application of article.—The provisions of this article shall apply only to sales of jewelry and silverware at public auction, and to the auctioneers conducting or engaged in such sales. This article does not affect any sale of jewelry or silverware (1) by auction of jewelry or silverware made pursuant to and in execution of any order, decree, or judgment of the courts of the United States or of this state; or (2) made in consequence of any assignment of property and estate for benefit of creditors; or (3) made by executors, administrators, collectors, or guardians; or (4) made pursuant to any law touching the collection of any tax or duty, or sale of any wrecked goods. (Rev., s. 220; Code, s. 2284; R. C., c. 10, s. 6; 1923, c. 243, s. 1; C. S. 4999.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1923, ch. 243 takes auction sales other than sales of jewelry and silverware, and auctioneers engaged in such sales out of the provisions of this article. Auctioneer is the agent of both buyer and seller, and the entry on his lists, taken in connection with the advertisement, is a compliance with the statute of frauds. Cherry v. Long, 61 N. C. 466; Woodruff v. Trust Co., 173 N. C. 546, 92 S. E. 496; Dickerson v. Summons, 141 N. C. 325, 53 S. E. 850.

Authority of auctioneer to vary conditions of sale confirmed as agent of hirer. Satterfield v. Smith, 33 N. C. 60.

Authority of Auctioneer to Explain Conditions.—An advertisement of a sale of property by an auctioneer may be explained at the time of sale. Rankin v. Matthews, 29 N. C. 296.

Liability of Surety.—Since it is the duty of an auctioneer to pay over to his employer the proceeds of sales made by him, sureties on his official bond, which is conditioned that he will do whatever the law requires, are liable to his employers for proceeds of sale which he withholds. Comm'r v. Holloway, 10 N. C. 234.

Bidders presumed to be acquainted with terms when the terms of auction are advertised or otherwise published. Christmas v. Jenkins, 3 N. C. 395.
§ 85-2. Appointment; bond.—No person shall exercise or conduct the trade or business of an auctioneer in this state or offer to conduct any such trade or business described in this article unless such person shall hold a license issued by the commissioner of revenue, and no license shall issue to any person who is not a resident of the state of North Carolina, and who has not been a bona fide resident for at least two years prior to the date when such application for license is filed with the Department of Revenue. The license shall issue only upon the filing of a bond in the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00), with such conditions and sureties as may be required and approved by the commissioner of revenue. The license shall expire on the first day of April following, unless the authority is sooner revoked by the Commissioner of Revenue, and such authority shall be subject to revocation at any time by such officer for the causes and in the manner set forth in § 85-9. The fees for each license shall be two hundred dollars ($200.00). (Rev., s. 217; Code, s. 2281; 1889, c. 40; 1891, c. 576; R. C., c. 10, s. 1; 1923, c. 243, s. 1; 1941, c. 131; C. S. 5000.)

Editor's Note.—The act of 1923, ch. 243 made two years bona fide residence a prerequisite to application for a license; raised the bond required to $5,000 and the license fee to $200. The insurance commissioner was given power to revoke a license for failure to comply with the terms of the act, or for other cause. See 1 N. C. Law Rev. 302.

§ 85-3. Requirements of law and of commissioner of revenue; false statement.—No person who shall conduct the business of an auctioneer in the state shall fail to comply with any provision of the law or any requirement of the commissioner of revenue pursuant to the law, and no such person shall make or cause to be made any false statement in any report required of him, and upon any violation of any section of this article, the commissioner of revenue may revoke his license to do business in this state. (1923, c. 243, s. 2; 1941, c. 131; 1941, c. 230, s. 2; C. S. 5000(a).)

§ 85-4. Punishment for violation of law.—Any person violating any of the provisions of this article shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars or by imprisonment in jail or worked on the roads for not exceeding two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment. (1923, c. 243, s. 3; C. S. 5000(b).)

§ 85-5. License tax by counties and municipalities.—Nothing in this article shall be construed to take away from the counties, cities or towns of the state the right or rights which they may now have, or may hereafter have, to levy a license tax on persons exercising or conducting the trade or business of an auctioneer. (1923, c. 243, s. 4; C. S. 5000(c).)

§ 85-6. Account semiannually; pay over moneys received.—It is the duty of such auctioneers on the first days respectively of October and April, to render to the clerks of the superior court of their respective counties a true and particular account in writing of all the moneys made liable to duty by law, for which any jewelry or silverware may have been sold at auction, and also at private sale, where the price of the jewelry and silverware sold at private sale was fixed or agreed upon or governed by any previous sale at auction of any jewelry and silverware of the same kind; which account shall contain a statement of the gross amount of sales by them made for each particular person or company at one time, the date of each sale, the names of the owners of the jewelry and silverware sold, and the amount of the tax due thereon, which tax they shall pay as directed by law. The statement shall be subscribed by them and sworn to before the clerk of the said court, who is hereby authorized to administer the oath. And it is their further duty to account with and pay to the person entitled thereto the moneys received on the sales by them made. (Rev., s. 218; Code, s. 2282; R. C., c. 10, s. 2; C. S. 5001.)

§ 85-7. Acting without appointment; penalty.—No person shall exercise the trade or business of an auctioneer by selling any jewelry or silverware by auction or otherwise and make a mode of sale whereby the best or highest bidder is deemed to be the purchaser, unless such person is appointed an auctioneer pursuant to this article, on pain of forfeiting to the state for every such sale the sum of two hundred dollars, which shall be prosecuted to recovery by the solicitor of the district. (Rev., s. 219; Code, s. 2283; R. C., c. 10, s. 5; C. S. 5002.)

§ 85-8. Commissions; one per cent to town.—Auctioneers are entitled to such compensation as may be agreed upon, not exceeding two and a half per cent on the amount of sales; and auctioneers of incorporated towns shall retain and pay one per cent of the gross amount of sales to the commissioners or other authority of their respective towns. (Rev., s. 221; Code, s. 2285; R. C., c. 10, s. 7; C. S. 5003.)

Auctioneer's Fee Payable out of Trustee's Commissions.—See Duffy v. Smith, 132 N. C. 38, 43 S. E. 501.

§ 85-9. Power of Commissioner of Revenue to revoke licenses of auctioneers.—The Commissioner of Revenue of the State of North Carolina shall have power to revoke an auctioneer's license, upon the conviction of the auctioneer by any court of competent jurisdiction of the State of North Carolina of any of the offenses hereinafter set out, or upon a finding by the Commissioner of Revenue that such auctioneer is guilty of any of the offenses hereinafter set out, to wit: (1) fraud; (2) failing to account for or to remit any money or properties coming into his possession which belong to others; (3) forgery, embezzlement, obtaining money under false pretense, larceny, conspiracy to defraud, or like offense; (4) false representations as to the origin, genuineness, cost to seller, value, or other matters relating to the sale of any property then or thereafter to be offered for sale at auction; (5) conviction of any crime involving moral turpitude either in this State or any other state; (6) making any false statement in the application for license; (7) violating any of the provisions of the laws of this State relating to sales at auction. Provided, that no license shall be revoked upon a finding by the Commissioner of Revenue except by charges preferred. The accused shall be furnished a written copy of such charges and given not less than twenty days' notice of the time and place when
Art. 2. Auction Sales of Articles Containing Hidden Value.

§ 85-10. Application of article.—The provisions of this article shall relate to all persons, firms and corporations who shall sell or offer to sell any of the goods, wares and merchandise hereinafter enumerated by means of auction sale of same conducted either by themselves or licensed auctioneers, except that it shall not apply to receivers, trustees in bankruptcy, trustees acting under a bona fide mortgage or deed of trust, trustees acting under the provisions of a will, any person acting under orders of any court, or to administrators or to executors while acting as such or to the bona fide holder of an article pledged to secure a debt. Said bond shall be kept in full force and effect during the period for which such license is issued and for a period of one year thereafter. The conditions of said bond are to provide that the surety or sureties are irrevocably appointed as process agents on whom any process issued against the person, firm or corporation conducting such sale may be served, and shall further provide that the person, firm or corporation conducting said sale will pay all valid judgments secured against such person, firm or corporation on causes of action arising out of such sales by auction. (1941, c. 371, s. 4.)

§ 85-13. Bond prerequisite for license.—Before any person, firm or corporation shall offer for sale or sell at public auction any of the goods hereinafore described, such person, firm or corporation shall obtain the permit provided in § 85-12 and shall file with the commissioner of revenue a good and sufficient bond in the penal sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00), executed by a corporate surety licensed to do business in North Carolina or by two individual sureties who own real property in the state of North Carolina of a net value of twice the amount of such bond and who shall have justified on such bond before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such individual sureties reside. The conditions of said bond are to provide that the surety or sureties are irrevocably appointed as process agents on whom any process issued against the person, firm or corporation conducting such sale may be served, and shall further provide that the person, firm or corporation conducting said sale will pay all valid judgments secured against such person, firm or corporation on causes of action arising out of such sales by auction. (1941, c. 371, s. 3.)

§ 85-14. Conduct of sales by licensed auctioneer required.—An auctioneer duly licensed as such by the state of North Carolina shall be present and in charge of any such auction sale. (1941, c. 371, s. 5.)

§ 85-15. Regulation of bidding at sales.—At any such auction sale, no person interested either directly or indirectly as seller, and no person employed by any person interested either directly or indirectly as seller, shall bid on any articles offered for sale, and no person shall act as a fictitious bidder, or what is commonly known as a "capper," "booster," "by-bidder" or "shiller," and no person shall bid or offer to bid or pretend to buy an article sold or offered for sale at any such auction by prearranged agreement with any person interested in the sale directly or indirectly as seller. (1941, c. 371, s. 6.)

§ 85-16. Written description of articles purchased furnished to purchaser upon demand.—At any such auction sale any person who shall purchase any article may have the right to demand of the person, firm or corporation conducting such sale, at the time the sale is made or within forty-eight hours thereafter, a written description of the merchandise so purchased, which description shall be accurate and full, and shall give the name of the manufacturer or producer of such merchandise, if known; shall state whether the merchandise is an original, a copy, a reproduction, new or used, genuine or artificial, and shall also incorporate all representations made to induce persons to bid on such merchandise; such statement shall be deemed to be the representations upon which the merchandise is purchased, and upon a refusal to give such statement as herein provided, the sale may, at the option of the purchaser, be rescinded, in which event the purchaser shall have the privilege of demanding a return of all sums paid on account of such purchase. § 86-3. Qualifications for issuance of certificates of registration.—No person shall be issued a certificate of Registration as a Registered Apprentice by the State Board of Barber Examiners, hereinafter established

(a) Unless such person is at least seventeen years of age.

Provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed to authorize any expenditure in excess of the amount available from time to time in the hands of the State Treasurer derived from fees collected under the provisions of this chapter and received by the said State Treasurer in the manner aforesaid. (1929, c. 119, s. 7; 1941, c. 375, s. 4; 1943, c. 53, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote the provisions relating to the secretary, thereby omitting the sentence added by the 1941 amendment which provided that the board should employ such agents, assistants, and attorneys as it might deem necessary.

§ 86-8. § 86-10. § 86-12. Barbers from other states; temporary permits.—Persons who have practiced barbering in another state or county for a period of not less than two years, and who move into this State, shall prove and demonstrate their fitness to the Board of Barber Examiners, as herein created, before they will be issued a Certificate of Registration to practice barbering, but said Board may issue such temporary permits as are necessary. (1929, c. 119, s. 12; 1941, c. 375, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the words "for a period of not less than two years."

§ 86-13. Procedure for registration.—The procedure for the registration of present practitioners of barbering shall be as follows: (a) If such person has been practicing barbering for a shorter period of time than eighteen months, he shall, upon paying the required fee, and making an affidavit to that effect to the Board of Barber Examiners, be issued a Certificate of Registration as an Apprentice.

(b) If such person has been practicing barbering in the State of North Carolina for more than eighteen months, he shall upon paying the required fee and making an affidavit to that effect, to the Board of Barber Examiners, be issued a Certificate of Registration as a Registered Barber.

(c) All persons, however, who are not actively engaged in the practice of barbering, at the time this chapter is enacted into law, shall be required to take the examination herein provided, and otherwise comply with the provisions of this chapter before engaging in the practice of barbering. (1929, c. 119, s. 13.)

§ 86-15. Fees.—The fee to be paid by applicant for examination to determine his fitness to receive a certificate of registration, as a registered apprentice, shall be five ($5.00) dollars, and such fee must accompany his application. The annual license fee of an apprentice shall be three ($3.00) dollars. The fee to be paid by an applicant for an examination to determine his fitness to receive a certificate of registration as a registered barber shall be fifteen ($15.00) dollars, and such fee must accompany his application. The annual license fee of a registered barber shall be five ($5.00) dollars. All licenses, both for apprentices and for registered barbers, shall be renewed as of the thirtieth day of June of each and every year, and such renewals for apprentices shall be three ($3.00) dollars, and for registered barbers five ($5.00) dollars. The fee for restoration of an expired certificate for registered barbers shall be seven ($7.00) dollars, and restoration of expired certificate of an apprentice shall be four ($4.00) dollars: Provided, the difference between the fees being charged on March 13, 1937, and the fees herein provided for shall be used exclusively for the employment of additional inspectors and the payment of their necessary expenses of inspection, it being the purpose of this chapter to provide as nearly as possible equal inspection throughout the state of North Carolina. The fees herein set out are not to be increased by the board of barber examiners, but said board may regulate the payment of said fees and prorate the license fees in such manner as it deems expedient. (1929, c. 119, s. 14; 1937, c. 138, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment increased the fees charged under this section and inserted the provision as to use of additional fees.

§ 86-16. Persons exempt from provisions of chapter. — The following persons are exempt from the provisions of this chapter while engaged in the proper discharge of their professional duties as follows:

The books and records of the board shall be prima facie evidence of the correctness of the contents thereof. On or before the first day of March of each year the board shall submit to the Governor a report of its activities for the preceding year, and file with the Secretary of State a copy of such report, together with a statement of receipts and expenditures of the board attested by the chairman and secretary. (1931, c. 52, s. 5.)

§ 87-21. Definitions; contractors licensed by board; towns excepted.—For the purpose of this article plumbing shall be deemed and held to include the plumbing system of a building consisting of water supply distributing pipes, the fixtures and fixture traps, soil, waste and vent pipes, all with their devices, appurtenances and connections, and all within, adjacent to or connected with the building, however shall not include the repair or installation of water supply pipe from the street to plumbing fixtures not connected with the sewerage or ventilating systems for the repair or replacement of outside water faucets. For the purpose of this article heating shall be deemed and held to include all heating systems of a building requiring the use of high or low pressure steam, vapor, hot water, warm or conditioned air, and all piping, ducts, connections or mechanical equipment appurtenant thereto within, adjacent to or connected with the building. Any person, firm or corporation, who, for a valuable consideration, installs, alters or restores or offers to install, alter or restore either plumbing or heating, or both, as defined in this article, shall be deemed to be engaged in the business of either plumbing or heating contracting, or both, as the case may be. All persons, firms or corporations, whether resident or nonresident of the State of North Carolina, before engaging in either the plumbing or heating contracting business, or both, as defined in this article, shall first apply to the State board of examiners of plumbing and heating contractors for examination and shall procure a license. Each application shall be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of the annual license fee required by this article. In order to promote the health, comfort, and safety of the people of the state of North Carolina in the regulation of the business of plumbing or heating contracting, the board shall give each applicant for license an examination designed to ascertain the technical and practical knowledge of the applicant concerning the analysis of plans and specifications, estimating costs, construction, fundamentals of design and installation, sanitation, fire hazards, and related subjects. Regular examinations shall be given by the board in the months of February and August of each year; and additional examinations may be given at such other time as the board may deem necessary. Any person, firm, or corporation may demand in writing a special examination, and upon payment by the applicant of the cost of holding such examination and the deposit of the amount of the annual license fee, the board in its discretion will fix a time and place for such examination which is favorable to defendant and tends least to interfere with personal liberty. State v. Mitchell, 217 N. C. 244, 7 S. E. (2d) 567.

§ 87-22. License fee based on population; expiration and renewal; penalty.—All persons, firms, or corporations engaged in the business of either plumbing or heating contracting, or both, in cities or towns of ten thousand inhabitants or more shall pay an annual license fee of fifty dollars, and in cities or towns of more than thirty-five hundred and less than ten thousand inhabitants an annual license fee of twenty-five dollars. In the event the board shall refuse to license an applicant, the license fee deposited shall be returned by the board to the applicant. All licenses shall expire on the last day of December in each year following their issuance or renewal. It shall be the duty of the secretary and treasurer to cause to be mailed to every licensee registered hereunder notice to his last known address of the amount of fee required for renewal of license, such notice to be mailed at least one month in advance of the expiration of said license. In the event of failure on the part of any person, firm or corporation to renew the license certificate annually and pay the fee therefor during the month of January in each year, the board shall increase said license fee ten per centum for each month or fraction of a month that payment is delayed; provided that the penalty for nonpayment shall not exceed the amount of the annual fee, and provided, further that no penalty will be imposed if one-half of the annual license fee is paid in January and the remaining one-half in June of each year. (1931, c. 52, s. 7; 1939, c. 224, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—This section was so changed by the 1939 amendment that a comparison here is not practicable.

§ 87-23. Revocation or suspension of license for cause.—The board shall have power to revoke or suspend the license of any plumbing or heating contractor, or both, who is guilty of any fraud or deceit in obtaining a license, or who fails to comply with any provision or requirement of this article, or for gross negligence, incompetency, or misconduct, or for failure to comply with any provision or requirement of this article, against any plumbing or heating contractor, or both, who is licensed under the provisions of this article. All of such charges shall be in writing and verified by the complainant, and such charges shall be heard and determined by the board within ninety days after the same are received by it. A time and place for such hearing shall be fixed by the board and a copy of said charges together with notice of the time and place of hearing, shall be furnished to the person, firm, or corporation accused at least thirty days before the date fixed for the hearing.
At said hearing the person accused shall have the right to appear personally, or by counsel, and be heard in defense of said charges. Upon the conclusion of said hearing, if the board finds that the license of the accused person should be revoked or suspended for any one or more of the causes set forth in this section, the board shall enter upon its records a resolution revoking or suspending the license and furnish a copy of said resolution to the accused. Any person, firm, or corporation whose license shall be revoked or suspended by the board shall have the right to appeal to the superior court of the county in which the accused maintains his or its principal place of business, said appeal to be perfected within thirty days after receipt of the board’s resolution by the accused, but not thereafter. (1931, c. 52, s. 8; 1939, c. 224, s. 5.)

Cross Reference.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see §§ 150-1 to 150-8.

Editor’s Note.—The 1939 amendment inserted the words “or suspend” near the beginning of the section and made other changes.

Purpose of Law.—The manifest purpose of the law is to promote the health, comfort, and safety of the people by regulating plumbing and heating in public and private buildings. Roach v. Durham, 204 N. C. 587, 591, 169 S. E. 149.

§ 87-24. Re-issuance of revoked licenses; replacing lost or destroyed licenses.—The board may in its discretion re-issue license to any person, firm or corporation whose license may have been revoked: Provided, three or more members of the board vote in favor of such re-issuance for reasons deemed sufficient by the board. § 87-25. Violations made misdemeanor; employees of licensees excepted.—Any person, firm or corporation who shall engage in or offer to engage in, or carry on the business of either plumbing or heating contracting, or both, as defined in § 87-21, without having been licensed to engage in such business, or businesses, as required by the provisions of this article; or any person, firm or corporation holding a limited heating license under the provisions of this article who shall practice or offer to practice or carry on any type of heating contracting not authorized by said limited license; or any person, firm or corporation who shall give false or forged evidence of any kind to the board, or any member thereof, in obtaining a license, or who shall falsely impersonate any other practitioner of like or different name, or who shall use an expired or revoked license, or who shall violate any of the provisions of this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction fined not less than one hundred dollars or imprisoned for not more than three months, or both, in the discretion of the court. Employees, while working under the supervision and jurisdiction of a person, firm or corporation licensed in accordance with the provisions of the article, shall not be construed to have engaged in the business of either plumbing or heating contracting, or both. (1931, c. 52, s. 10; 1939, c. 224, s. 6.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1939 amendment so changed this section that a comparison here is not practicable.

Acts Not Constituting Contracting.—A journeyman plumber, contracting and agreeing with various persons to perform labor required to install certain plumbing at a stipulated lump sum price, and who does not maintain a fixed place of business or sell or contract to furnish materials, supplies or fixtures of any kind, and who fails to obtain a license from the state board of examiners of plumbing and heating contractors, is not guilty of a misdemeanor under the provisions of this section, since his occupation does not constitute carrying on the “business of plumbing and heating contracting” within the meaning of the penal provisions of the statute. State v. Ingle, 214 N. C. 276, 199 S. E. 10.

§ 87-26. Only one person in partnership or corporation need have license.—A corporation or partnership may engage in the business of either plumbing or heating, or both, provided one or more persons connected with such corporation or partnership is registered and licensed as herein required; and provided such licensed person shall execute all contracts, exercise general supervision over the work done thereunder and be responsible for compliance with all the provisions of this article. (1931, c. 52, s. 12; 1939, c. 224, s. 8.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1939 amendment added the part of the section as amended after the words, “or corporation.”

§ 87-27. License fees payable in advance; application of—all license fees shall be paid in advance to the secretary of the board, and by him held as a fund for the use of the board. The compensation and expenses of the members of the board as herein provided, the salaries of its employees, and all expenses incurred in the discharge of its duties under this article shall be paid out of such fund, upon the warrant of the president and secretary and treasurer: Provided, upon the payment of the necessary expenses of the board as herein set out, and the retention by it of twenty-five per centum of the balance of funds collected hereunder, the residue, if any, shall be paid to the state treasurer. (1931, c. 52, s. 13; 1933, c. 57; 1938, c. 294, s. 9.)

Editor’s Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 57, made a former proviso applicable in towns of less than 10,000 instead of 5,000, and added a proviso relating to renewals. These provisions were omitted by the 1939 amendment.

It is obvious that the pervading intent of this section is to provide for the maintenance of the board and not to impose a tax as a part of the general revenue of the State and thereby exclude the operation of the police power. It is true that the use of the word “tax” in express words authorizes the exercise of this power, but in our opinion it appears by implication that the exercise of such power was intended. Roach v. Durham, 204 N. C. 587, 591, 169 S. E. 149.

Art. 3. Tile Contractors.

Editor’s Note.—The first fourteen words of the section were added by the 1941 amendment, which changed the last word in the section from “institutions” to “buildings.”

For comment on 1941 amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 446.

For comment on 1939 amendment to this article, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 337.

If vacancy shall occur in the board for any cause the same shall be filled by appointment of the governor. The board may prescribe regulations, rules, and by-laws for its own proceedings and government and for the examination of applicants not in conflict with the laws of North Carolina. Special meetings may be held upon a call of three members of the board. Each member of the board shall receive for his services the sum of ten ($10.00) dollars per day for each and every day spent in the performance of his duties, and shall be reimbursed for all necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of his duties. (1937, c. 86, s. 6; 1941, c. 219, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment changed the wording of the first sentence, added the present second sentence and omitted a provision relating to registration and certificate thereof.

§ 87-34. Fee for annual renewal of registration; license revoked for default; penalty for reinstatement.—Every licensed tile contractor who desires to continue in business in this state shall annually, on or before the first day of January of each year, pay to the secretary-treasurer of the board the sum of fifty ($50.00) dollars for which he shall receive a renewal of such registration, and in case of the default of such registration by any person the license shall be revoked. Each charge against any contractor submitted to the board shall be in writing and sworn to by the complainant. Provided, however, that before any license shall be revoked or suspended the holder thereof shall have notice of the specific charge or charges preferred, and at a date specified in said notice, at least thirty days after legal service thereof, be given public hearing, and have an opportunity to appear, cross-examine witnesses, and to produce evidence. Any person being aggrieved by the action of the board shall have the right of appeal to the superior court. (1937, c. 86, s. 8.)

Cross Reference.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see §§ 150-1 to 150-8.

Editor's Note.—While the provision as to examination of applicants refers only to those who were not so engaged at the time the statute went into effect, the provisions as to revocation refer to all. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 335.

§ 87-36. No examination required of present contractors.—All persons, firms or corporations now actively engaged in the tile contracting business in the state of North Carolina shall upon filing affidavit with the board be entitled to and receive a license without examination upon payment of the annual license fee. (1937, c. 86, s. 9; 1939, c. 75, s. 3; 1941, c. 219, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added a proviso exempting persons entering into contracts where the contract price did not exceed two hundred and fifty dollars. The 1941 amendment inserted the words "be entitled to" and omitted the proviso added by the 1939 amendment.

§ 87-37. License to one member of firm, etc., sufficient; employees exempt; restricted application of article.—Any firm, partnership or corporation may engage in the tile contracting business in this state, provided, one member of said firm, partnership or corporation is a licensed tile contractor actually employed by said firm, partnership or corporation, and personally present in charge of such tile contracting work. No license shall be required of any mechanic or employee of a licensed tile contractor performing duties for the employer. Provided, however, that none of the provisions of this article shall apply to jobs in which the total cost of tile, labor and other materials necessary for laying same is less than one hundred and fifty dollars ($150.00). (1937, c. 86, s. 10; 1941, c. 219, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment made changes in the wording of the first sentence and added the proviso at the end of the section.

§ 87-38. Penalty for misrepresentation or fraud in filing or maintaining license certificate.—Any person, firm, or corporation not being duly licensed to engage in tile contracting in this state as provided for in this article, who engages therein, and any person, firm, or corporation presenting as his own the license certificate of another or who shall give false or forged evidence of any kind to the board or any member thereof in maintaining a certificate of license, or who shall falsely impersonate another, or who shall use an expired or revoked certificate of license, or an architect, engineer or contractor who receives or considers a bid from any one not properly licensed under this article, shall be guilty of misdemeanor, and for each offense of which he is convicted be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred ($200.00) dollars, or by imprisonment of not less than two months or both.

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the words "who engages therein" after the word "article" in line three.

Prior to the amendment it was held that the section failed to define the acts prohibited, the doing of which should constitute a misdemeanor, and that such fatal deficiency could not be supplied by judicial interpolation of words to constitute a criminal offense. State v. Julian, 214 N. C. 574, 200 S. E. 24.

Conviction of a violation of this article on the part of a holder of a license issued hereunder shall automatically have the effect of suspending such license until such time as it shall have been reinstated by the board of examiners of electrical contractors. Said board shall elect its own officers and in addition thereto shall elect a full time secretary, which secretary shall receive an annual salary not to exceed one thousand and eight hundred dollars ($1,800.00). The secretary shall keep and preserve all the records of the board, issue all necessary notices and perform such other duties, clerical and otherwise, as may be imposed upon such secretary by said board of cosmetic art examiners. The secretary shall be subject to the approval of the director of the budget. The said secretary shall be an experienced cosmetic artist, who has followed the practice of all branches of the cosmetic art in the State of North Carolina, and shall be free of connection in any manner with any cosmetic art school or college or academy or training school. (1933, c. 179, s. 13; 1935, c. 54, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Several changes were made in this section by the amendment of 1935. The requirement that the appointee shall be free from connection with a school or college is new as was also the requirement for following "all branches" of the cosmetic art. Prior to the amendment the section provided that the first appointees should serve for three years, two years, and one year respectively.

Relator Must Show Interest in Action to Vacate Office. — It is necessary that a relator in an action to vacate office under this section, have some interest in the action, though it is not required that he be a contestant for the office. State v. Ritchie, 206 N. C. 808, 175 S. E. 308.

Said board, with the approval of the director of the budget, shall appoint necessary inspectors who shall be experienced in all branches of cosmetic art. The salaries for such inspectors shall be fixed by the board with the approval of the director of the budget of the state of North Carolina. The inspectors or agents so appointed shall perform such duties as may be prescribed by the board. Any inspector appointed under authority of this section or any member of the board shall have the authority at all reasonable hours to examine cosmetic art shops, beauty parlors, hair dressing establishments, cosmetic art schools, colleges, academies or training schools with respect to, and in compliance with, the provisions of this chapter. The said board shall on, or before June first of each year, submit a budget to the director of the budget for the ensuing fiscal year, which shall begin July first of each year. The said budget so submitted shall include all estimated receipts and expenditures for the ensuing fiscal year including the estimated compensation and expenses of board members. The said budget shall be subject to the approval of the director of the budget and no expenditures shall be made unless the same shall have been set up in the budget adopted by the board of cosmetic art examiners, and approved by the director of the budget of the state of North Carolina; that all salaries and expenses in connection with the administration of this chapter shall be paid upon a warrant drawn on the state treasurer, said warrants to be drawn by the secretary of the board and approved by the state auditor.

§ 88-16. Applicants for examination.—Each applicant for an examination shall:

(a) Make application to the board of cosmetic art examiners on blank forms prepared and furnished by the full time secretary, such application to contain proof under the applicant's oath of the particular qualifications of the applicant.

(b) Pay to the secretary of the said board the required examination fee, hereinafter established.

(c) All applications for said examination must be filed with the full time secretary at least thirty days prior to the actual taking of such examination by applicant. (1933, c. 179, s. 16.)

§ 88-17. Regular and special meetings of board; examinations.—The board of cosmetic art examiners shall meet four times a year in the months of January, April, July and October on the first Tuesday in each of said months, for the purpose of transacting all business of the board of cosmetic art examiners and to conduct examinations of applicants for certificates of registration to practice as registered cosmetologists, and of applicants for certificates of registration to practice as registered apprentices, meetings to be held at such places as the board may determine to be most convenient for such examinations. The examinations conducted for applicants for certificates of registration as registered cosmetologists and registered apprentices shall be open to all applicants, and shall include such practical demonstration and oral and written tests as the said board may determine. The chairman of the board is hereby authorized and empowered to call a meeting of said board whenever necessary, said meetings to be in addition to the quarterly meetings hereinbefore provided for. (1933, c. 179, s. 17; 1935, c. 54, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added subsection (e). Paragraph (a) prescribes a mandatory duty, and the board of examiners has no discretionary power to refuse to issue the certificate in such instance, and therefore a complaint in suit for mandamus alleging full compliance with the provisions of the statute in this respect and the refusal of the board to issue the certificate to plaintiff, is not demurrable. Poole v. State Board of Cosmetic Art Examiners, 221 N.C. 199, 19 S.E.2d 655.

§ 88-18. Certificate of registration.—Whenever the provisions of this chapter have been complied with, the said board shall issue or cause to be issued, a certificate of registration as registered cosmetologist, or as a registered apprentice to the applicant, as the case may be. (1933, c. 179, s. 18.)

§ 88-19. Admitting operators from other states.—Persons who have practiced cosmetic art in another state and who move into this state shall prove and demonstrate his, or her fitness, physical and otherwise, as set out in §§ 88-10 and 88-12, to the board of cosmetic art examiners, as herein created, and as herein provided, before they will be issued a certificate of registration to practice cosmetic art, but said board may issue such temporary permits as are necessary. (1933, c. 179, s. 19.)

(a) Every person who has been practicing cosmetic art in North Carolina and who is practicing such art on June 30, 1933, upon making an affidavit to that effect, and complying with the provisions of this chapter as to physical fitness, and upon paying the required fee to the board of cosmetic art examiners shall be issued a certificate of registration as a registered cosmetologist.

(b) Any person who, on June 30, 1933, is operating a shop as a managing cosmetologist, shall, upon making an affidavit to that effect, and complying with the provisions of this chapter as to physical fitness and upon paying the required fee to the board of cosmetic art examiners be issued a certificate of registration as a managing cosmetologist.

(c) Any person who, on June 30, 1933, is regularly employed under a person who has registered as a managing cosmetologist shall be entitled to register as a cosmetologist as provided in § 88-11.

(d) All persons who are not actively engaged in the practice of cosmetic art on June 30, 1933, shall be required to comply with all of the provisions of this chapter.

(e) All persons, however, who do not make application prior to January 1, 1942, shall be required to take the examination prescribed by the State Board of Cosmetic Art Examiners and otherwise comply with the provisions of this chapter, as amended, before engaging in the practice of cosmetic art. (1933, c. 179, s. 20; 1941, c. 234, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1935 this section provided for examination at least three times each year. The last sentence of the section was added by the amendment.

§ 88-21. Fees required.—The fee to be paid by an applicant for a certificate of registration to practice cosmetic art as an apprentice shall be three dollars. The fee to be paid by an applicant for examination to determine his or her fitness to receive a certificate of registration as a registered cosmetologist shall be five dollars. The annual license fee of a registered cosmetologist shall be three dollars fifty cents, while the annual license fee of a registered apprentice shall be two dollars fifty cents. All licenses, both for apprentices and registered cosmetologists, shall be renewed as of the 30th day of June each and every year; such renewals for apprentices shall be two dollars fifty cents, and for registered cosmetologists three dollars fifty cents. The fees herein set out shall not be increased by the board of cosmetic art examiners, but said board may regulate the payment of said fees and pro-rate the license fees in such manner as it deems expedient. The fee for registration of an expired certificate for a registered cosmetologist shall be five dollars and registration of an expired certificate of an apprentice shall be three dollars. (1933, c. 179, s. 21.)

§ 88-23. Rules and regulations of board. — The state board of cosmetic art examiners shall have authority to make reasonable rules and regulations for the sanitary management of cosmetic art shops, beauty parlors, hairdressing establishments, cosmetic art schools, colleges, academies and training schools, hereinafter called shops and schools, and to have such rules and regulations enforced. The duly authorized agents of said board shall have authority to enter upon and inspect any shop or school at any time during business hours. A copy of the rules and regulations adopted by said board and approved by the state board of health shall be furnished from the office of the board or by the above mentioned authorized agents to the owner or manager of each shop or school in the State, and such copy shall be kept posted in a conspicuous place in each shop and school. (1933, c. 179, s. 23; 1933, c. 54, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 made this section applicable to academies and training schools.

§ 88-24. Posting of certificates.—Every holder of a certificate of registration shall display it in a conspicuous place adjacent to or near his, or her work chair. (1933, c. 179, s. 24.)

§ 88-25. Annual renewal of certificates.—Every registered cosmetologist and every registered apprentice, who continues in active practice or service shall annually, on or before June 30th, of each year, file with the secretary of the board, a renewal certificate as to physical fitness, renew his, or her certificate of registration which has not been renewed prior to, or during the month of July in any year, and which shall expire on the first day of August in that year. A registered cosmetologist, or a registered apprentice whose certificate of registration has expired may have his or her certificate restored immediately upon payment of the required restoration fee, and furnishing to the secretary of the board renewal certificate as to physical fitness. Any registered cosmetologist who retires from the practice of cosmetic art for not more than three years may renew his or her certificate of registration upon payment of the required restoration fee, and by furnishing to the secretary of the board renewal certificate as to physical fitness. (1933, c. 179, s. 25.)

§ 88-26. Causes for revocation of certificates. — The board of cosmetic art examiners may either refuse to issue or renew, or may suspend, or revoke any certificate of registration for any one, or combination of the following causes: (a) Persons authorized under the laws of the state to practice medicine and surgery. (b) Commissioned medical or surgical officers of the United States army, navy, or marine hospital services. (c) Registered nurses. (d) Undertakers. (e) Registered barbers. (f) Manicurists as herein defined. (1933, c. 179, s. 22.)

§ 88-27. Hearing on charges. — The board may neither refuse to issue, nor refuse to renew, nor suspend, nor revoke any certificate of registration, however, for any of these causes, unless the person accused has been given at least thirty days notice in writing of the charge against him or her and public hearing by the board of cosmetic art examiners. (a) Upon the hearing of any such proceeding, the board may administer oaths and may procure by its subpoena, the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant books and papers. (b) Any cosmetologist in the state whose case has been passed upon by the board of cosmetic art examiners shall have the right to appeal to the superior court of the state, which court may in its discretion reverse, or modify any order made by the said board of cosmetic art examiners. (1933, c. 179, s. 27; 1939, c. 218, s. 1.)

Cross Reference.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see §§ 150-1 to 150-8.

§ 88-28. Acts made misdemeanors. — Each of the following constitutes a misdemeanor punishable upon conviction by a fine of not less than $10.00 and not more than $50.00, or imprisonment for not less than ten days, or more than thirty days: (a) The violation of any of the provisions of § 88-1. (b) Permitting any person in one's employ, supervision, or control to practice as an apprentice unless that person has a certificate of registration as a registered apprentice. (c) Permitting any person in one's employ, supervision, or control, to practice as a cosmetologist unless that person has a certificate as a registered cosmetologist. (d) Obtaining, or attempting to obtain, a certificate of registration for money other than required fee, or any other thing of value, or by fraudulent misrepresentations. (e) Practicing or attempting to practice by fraudulent misrepresentations. (f) The willful failure to display a certificate of registration as required by § 88-24. (g) The willful and continued violation of the reasonable rules and regulations adopted by the state board of cosmetic art examiners, and approved by the state board of health, for the sanitary management of shops and schools. (1933, c. 179, s. 28.)

Variance.—Where defendant was tried upon a warrant charging that she permitted persons in her employ to practice as apprentices without certificate of registration as reg-listered apprentices or registered cosmetologists, and the jury returned a special verdict to the effect that defendant permitted unlicensed students to work in her school, there is a fatal variance between the warrant and the special verdict and a failure of proof, and the adjudication that defendant was not guilty is affirmed. State v. McIver, 216 N. C. 734, 6 S. E. (2d) 493.

§ 88-29. Records to be kept by board.—The board of cosmetic art examiners shall keep a record of its proceedings relating to the issuance of certificates of registration. This record shall contain the name, place of business, and residence of each registered cosmetologist and registered apprentice, and the date and number of his certificate of registration. This record shall be open to public inspection during all days, excepting Sundays and legal holidays. (1923, c. 179, s. 29.)

§ 89-2. Private practice.—Nothing in this chapter shall be construed as requiring registration for the purpose of practicing engineering or land surveying by an individual, firm, or corporation on property owned or leased by said individual, firm, or corporation, unless the same involves the public safety or health. (1921, c. 1, s. 2; C. S. 6055(c).)

§ 89-3. State board of registration for engineers and surveyors.—There is hereby created a state board of registration for engineers and land surveyors, hereinafter called the "board," consisting of five members, who shall be appointed by the governor within sixty days after this chapter becomes effective. At least two members of such board shall be appointed from the engineering faculty of the North Carolina State college of agriculture and engineering of the University of North Carolina. Not more than three members of said board shall be from the same branch of the profession of engineering. The members of the first board shall be appointed to serve for the following terms: Two members for one year, two members for two years, and one member for four years; said terms ending on the thirty-first day of December of the succeeding year. On the expiration of each of said terms the term of office of each newly appointed or reappointed member of the board shall be for a period of four years and shall terminate on the thirty-first day of December. Each member shall hold over after the expiration of his term until his successor shall be duly appointed and qualified. The governor may remove any member of the board for misconduct, incompetency, or neglect of duty. Vacancies in the membership of the board, however created, shall be filled by appointment by the governor for the unexpired term. (1921, c. 1, s. 3; C. S. 6055(d).)

§ 89-4. Requisites for appointment; pay.—Each member of the board shall be a citizen of the United States and a resident of this state at the time of his appointment. He shall have been engaged in the practice or teaching of his profession for at least ten years. Each member of the board shall receive ten dollars ($10) per day for attending sessions of the board or of its committees, and for the time spent in necessary travel, and, in addition, shall be reimbursed for all necessary traveling, incidental, and clerical expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of this chapter. § 89-6. Meetings; notice; quorum.—The board shall hold a meeting within thirty days after its members are first appointed, and thereafter shall hold at least two regular meetings each year. Special meetings shall be held at such times as the by-laws of the board may provide. Notice of all meetings shall be given in such manner as the by-laws may provide. The board shall elect annually from its members a chairman, a vice-chairman, and a secretary. A quorum of the board shall consist of not less than three members. (1921, c. 1, s. 6; C. S. 6055(g)).

§ 89-7. Fund of board; bond of secretary of board.—The secretary of the board shall receive and account for all moneys derived from the operation of this chapter and shall pay them to the state treasurer, who shall keep such moneys in a separate fund, to be known as the "Fund of the Board of Registration for Engineers and Land Surveyors," which fund shall be continued from year to year, and shall be drawn upon only for the purpose of this chapter as herein provided. All expenses certified by the board as properly and necessarily incurred in the discharge of its duties, including authorized compensation, shall be paid out of said fund on the warrant of the auditor of the state, issued on requisition signed by the chairman and secretary of the board: Provided, however, that at no time shall the total of warrants issued exceed the total amount of funds accumulated under this chapter. The secretary of the board shall give a surety bond satisfactory to the state treasurer, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties. The premium on said bond shall be regarded as a proper and necessary expense of the board. (1921, c. 1, s. 7; C. S. 6055(h)).

§ 89-8. Record of proceedings and register of applicants; roster of engineers and surveyors; annual report.—The board shall keep a record of its proceedings and a register of all applicants for registration showing for each the date of application, name, age, education and other qualifications, place of business and place of residence, and whether the applicant was rejected or not for the purpose of this chapter as herein provided. The books and register of the board shall be prima facie evidence of all matters recorded therein. A roster showing the names and places of business and of residence of all registered engineers and land surveyors shall be prepared by the secretary of the board during the month of January of each year; such roster shall be printed by the board out of the fund of the said board as provided in § 89-7, and a copy mailed to and placed on file by the clerk of each incorporated city, town and county in the state. On or before the first day of March of each year the board shall submit to the governor a report of its transactions for the preceding year, and shall file with the secretary of state a true copy of such report, together with a complete statement of the receipts and expenditures of the board, tested by the affidavits of the chairman and the secretary, and a copy of the said roster of registered engineers and registered surveyors. (1921, c. 1, s. 8; C. S. 6055(i)).

§ 89-9. Certificates; issuance; fees; eligibility of applicants.—The board shall, on application therefor, on prescribed form, and the payment of a fee of twenty-five dollars ($25) by engineers, or the payment of a fee of ten dollars ($10) by land surveyors, issue a certificate of registration:

1. To any person who submits evidence satisfactory to the board that he or she is fully qualified to practice engineering, or land surveying, such evidence after January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, to include an examination, oral or written; or

2. To any person who holds a like unexpired certificate of registration issued to him or her by any state, territory, county, city, town or any city, town or county in the United States in which the requirements for the registration of engineers or land surveyors are of a standard satisfactory to the board: Provided, however, that the engineering registration board of said states or territories shall grant full and equal reciprocal registration rights and privileges to North Carolina registrants: Provided, however, that no person shall be eligible for registration who is under twenty-one years of age, who is not a citizen of the United States, who does not speak and write the English language, who is not of good character and reputation. Unless disqualifying evidence be before the board, the following facts established in the application shall be regarded as prima facie evidence to the board, that the applicant is fully qualified to practice engineering or land surveying, or both:

(a) Five (5) or more years of active engagement in engineering, or three or more years of active practice in land surveying, February 25, 1921: Provided, however, each year of teaching, or of study satisfactorily completed, in a college of standing satisfactory to the board shall be considered as equivalent to one year of such active practice: Provided further, the period spent in the army, navy, marine corps, or other government service of the United States in the late war be interrupted by such services shall also be counted as equivalent to an equal period of active practice: Provided, however, the application for registration is made within twelve (12) months after February 25, 1921.

(b) Graduation, after a course of not less than four (4) years, in engineering from a school or college approved by the board as of satisfactory standing.

(c) Full membership in the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Institute of Chemical Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, American Society of Mining, Metallurgical and Chemical Engineers, or such other national or state engineering or architectural societies as may be approved by the board, the requirements for full membership of which are not lower than the requirements for full mem-bersonship in the professional societies or institutes named above.

Applicants for registration, in cases where the evidence originally presented in the application does not appear to the board conclusively or warranting the issuance of a certificate, may present further evidence which may include the results of a required examination, for the consideration of the board.

In case the board denies the issuance of a certificate to an applicant, the registration fee deposited shall be returned by the board to the applicant. (1921, c. 1, s. 9; C. S. 6055(j).)

—Certificates of registration shall expire on the last day of the month of December following their issuance or renewal, and shall become invalid on that date unless renewed. It shall be the duty of the secretary of the board to notify by mail every person registered hereunder of the date of the expiration of his certificate and the amount of the fee required for its renewal for one year; such notice shall be mailed at least one month in advance of the date of the expiration of said certificate. Renewal may be effected at any time during the month of January by the payment of a fee of five dollars ($5) to the secretary of the board. The failure on the part of any registrant to renew his certificate annually in the month of January, as required above, shall not deprive such person of the right of renewal thereafter, but the fee paid for the renewal of a certificate after the month of January shall be increased ten per cent for each month or fraction of a month that payment for renewal is delayed: Provided, however, that the maximum fee for a delayed renewal shall not exceed twice the normal fee. (1921, c. 1, s. 9; C. S. 6055(k).)

§ 89-11. Revocation of license; reissue of revoked license; reinstatement; lost certificate. — The board shall have the power to revoke the certificate of registration of any engineer or land surveyor registered hereunder who is found guilty of any fraud or deceit in obtaining a certificate of registration, or gross negligence, incompetency or misconduct in the practice of engineering or land surveying. Any person may prefer charges of such fraud, deceit, negligence, incompetency or misconduct against any engineer or land surveyor registered hereunder; such charges shall be in writing and sworn to by the complainant and submitted to the board. Such charges, unless dismissed without hearing by the board as unfounded or trivial, shall be heard and determined by the board within three (3) months after the date on which they are preferred. Hearings shall be in the county of the residence of the person whose license is involved; provided that after notice such person and the board may agree that the hearing may be held in some other county. A copy of the charges, together with a notice of the time and place of hearing, shall be legally served on the accused at least thirty (30) days before the date fixed for the hearing, and in the event that such service cannot be effected thirty (30) days before such hearing, then the date of hearing and determination shall be postponed as may be necessary to permit the carrying out of this condition. At said hearing the accused shall have the right to appear personally and by counsel, and to cross-examine witnesses against him or her and to produce evidence or witnesses in his or her defense. If after said hearing the board unanimously votes in favor of finding the accused guilty of any fraud or deceit in obtaining the certificate or of gross negligence, incompetency, or misconduct in the practice of engineering or land surveying, the board may revoke the certificate of registration of the accused. The board may reissue a certificate of registration to any person whose certificate has been revoked: Provided, three or more members of the board vote in favor of such reissuance for reasons the board may deem sufficient. The board shall immediately notify the secretary of state and the clerk of each incorporated city, town or county in the state of its findings in the case of the revocation of a certificate of registration or of its reissuance of a revoked certificate of registration. A new certificate of registration to replace any certificate lost, destroyed or mutilated may be issued, subject to the rules and regulations of the board. (1921, c. 1, s. 10; 1939, c. 218, s. 2; C. S. 6055(j).)

§ 89-12. Evidence carried by certificate; seal of registrant. — The issuance of a certificate of registration by the board shall be evidence that the person named therein is entitled to all the rights and privileges of a registered engineer or registered land surveyor, or both, while the said certificate remains unrevoked or unexpired. Each registrant hereunder shall, upon registration, obtain a seal of the design authorized by the board, bearing the registrant's name and the legend "registered engineer," or "registered land surveyor." Plans, specifications, plats and reports issued by a registrant shall be stamped with said seal during the life of registrant's certificate, but it shall be unlawful for any one to use an expired or revoked certificate or any document or instrument bearing such said seal after the certificate of the registrant named thereon has expired or has been revoked unless said certificate has been renewed or reissued. (1921, c. 1, s. 11; C. S. 6055(m).)

§ 89-13. Acts declared misdemeanors; punishment.—Any person, who, after February 25, 1922, is not legally authorized to practice engineering or land surveying in this state, according to the provisions of this chapter, and shall practice or offer to practice engineering or land surveying in this state, except as provided in §§ 89-14 and 89-16, and any person presenting or attempting to file as his own the certificate of registration of another, or who shall give false or forged evidence of any kind to the board, or to any member thereof, in obtaining a certificate of registration, or who shall falsely impersonate any other practitioner, of like or different name, or who shall use an expired or revoked certificate of registration, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall for each such offense of which he is convicted be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) or by imprisonment for three (3) months, or by both fine and im-

(a) Any person or persons offering to practice in this state, as an engineer or land surveyor, not a resident of and having no established place of business in this state.

(b) Practice as an engineer or land surveyor in this state by any person not a resident of this state, and having no established place of business in this state, when this practice does not aggregate more than thirty (30) days in any calendar year; Provided, that said person is legally qualified for such professional service in his own state or country.

(c) Practice as an engineer or land surveyor in this state by any person not a resident of this state and having no established place of business in this state, or any person resident in this state but whose arrival in the state is recent; Provided, however, such person shall have filed an application for registration as an engineer or land surveyor and shall have paid the fee provided for in § 89-9. Such exemption shall continue for only such reasonable time as the board requires in which to consider and grant or deny the said application for registration.

(d) Engaging in engineering and land surveying work as an employee, or assistant, of a registered engineer or a registered land surveyor, or as an employee or assistant of a nonresident engineer or a nonresident land surveyor, provided for in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, provided that said work as an employee may not include responsible charge of design or supervision.

Officers may swear applicants and summon witnesses.—The president and secretary of the board of medical examiners of this state shall have power to administer oaths to all persons who may apply for examination before the board, or to any other persons deemed necessary in connection with performing the duties of the board as imposed by law. The board shall have power to summon any witnesses deemed necessary to testify under oath in connection with any cause to be heard before it; or to summon any licentiate against whom charges are preferred in writing, and the failure of the licentiate, against whom charges are preferred, to appear at the stated time and place to answer to the charges, after due notice or summons has been served in writing, shall be deemed a waiver of his right to said hearing, as provided in § 90-14. (1913, c. 20, s. 7; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 3; C. S. 6612.)

§ 90-9. Examination for license; scope; conditions and prerequisites.—It shall be the duty of the board of medical examiners to examine for license to practice medicine or surgery, or any of the branches thereof, every applicant who complies with the following provisions: He shall, before he is admitted to examination, satisfy the board that he has an academic education equal to the entrance requirements of the University of North Carolina, or furnish a certificate from the superintendent of public instruction of the county that he has passed an examination upon his literary attainments to meet the requirements of entrance in the regular course of the state university. He shall exhibit a diploma or furnish satisfactory proof of graduation from a medical college in good standing requiring an attendance of not less than four years, and supplying such facilities for clinical and scientific instruction as shall meet the approval of the board; but the requirement of four years attendance at a school shall not apply to those graduating prior to January the first, nineteen hundred.

The examination shall cover the following branches of medical science: anatomy, embryology, histology, physiology, pathology, bacteriology, surgery, pediatrics, medical hygiene, chemistry, pharmacy, materia medica, therapeutics, obstetrics, gynecology, and the practice of medicine.

If on such examination the applicant is found competent, the board shall grant him a license authorizing him to practice medicine or surgery or any of the branches thereof.

Five members of the board shall constitute a quorum, and four of those present shall be agreed as to the qualification of the applicant. (Rev., s. 4498; 1915, c. 20, ss. 2, 3, 6, 1921, c. 47, s. 1; C. S. 6613.)

§ 90-10. Two examinations, preliminary and final, allowed.—It shall be the duty of the state board of medical examiners to examine any applicant for license to practice medicine on the subjects of anatomy, histology, physiology, bacteriology, embryology, pathology, medical hygiene, and chemistry, upon his furnishing satisfactory evidence from a medical school in good standing, and supplying such facilities for anatomical and laboratory instruction as shall meet with the approval of the board, that he has completed the course of study in the school upon the subjects mentioned. The board shall set to the credit of such applicant upon his record books the grade made by him upon the examination, which shall stand to the credit of such applicant; and when he has subsequently completed the full course in medicine and surgery, he shall have accounted to the board for the moneys that may come into his hands. (Rev., s. 4498; 1915, c. 20, ss. 2, 3, 6, 1921, c. 47, s. 1; C. S. 6613.)

Constitutional Discrimination.—"That the statute is not in violation of the State Constitution is thoroughly discussed and held in State v. Vandoran, 109 N. C. 864, 14 S. E. 32. It is not to be questioned that the law making power of the State has the right to require an examination and certificate as to the competency of persons desiring to practice law or medicine." State v. Call, 121 N. C. 643, 645, 28 S. E. 517; State v. Siler, 169 N. C. 314, 34 S. E. 1015.

§ 90-11. Qualification of applicant for license.—Every person making application for a license to practice medicine or surgery in the state shall be not less than twenty-one years of age, and of good moral character, before any license can be granted by the board of medical examiners: Provided, that the age requirement shall not apply to students taking the examinations of the first two years in medicine. (1921, c. 47, s. 3; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 4; C. S. 6614.)

§ 90-12. Limited license.—The board may, whenever in its opinion the conditions of the locality where the applicant resides are such as to render it advisable, make such modifications of the requirements of the preceding sections, both as to application for examination and examination for license, as in its judgment the interests of the people living in that locality may demand, and may issue to such applicant a special license, to be entitled a “Limited License”, authorizing the holder thereof to practice medicine and surgery within the limits only of the districts specifically described therein. The holder of the limited license practicing medicine or surgery beyond the boundaries of the district as laid down in said license shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each and every offense; and the board is empowered to revoke such limited license, in its discretion, after due notice. The clerk of the superior court, in registering the holder of a limited license, shall copy upon the certificate of registration and upon his record the description of the district given in the license. (1909, c. 218, s. 1; C. S. 6616.)

§ 90-13. When license without examination allowed.—The board of medical examiners shall in their discretion issue a license to any applicant to practice medicine and surgery in this state without examination if said applicant exhibits a diploma or satisfactory proof of graduation from a medical college in good standing, requiring an attendance of not less than four years and a license issued to him to practice medicine and surgery by the board of medical examiners of another state. (1907, c. 890; 1913, c. 20, s. 3; C. S. 6517.)

§ 90-14. Board may rescind license.—The board shall have the power to revoke and rescind any license granted by it, when, after due notice and hearing, it shall find that any physician licensed by it has been guilty of grossly immoral conduct, or of producing or attempting to produce a criminal abortion, or, by false and fraudulent representations, has obtained or attempted to obtain, practice in his profession, or is habitually addicted to the use of morphine, cocaine or other narcotic drugs, or has by false or fraudulent representations of his professional skill obtained, or attempted to obtain, money or anything of value, or has advertised himself or held himself out under a name other than his own, or has advertised or publicly professed to treat human ailments under a system or school of treatment or practice other than that for which he holds a license, or is guilty of any fraud or deceit by which he was admitted to practice, or has been guilty of any unprofessional or dishonorable conduct unworthy of, and affecting, the practice of his profession, or has been convicted in any court, state or federal, of any felony or other criminal offense involving moral turpitude. Upon the hearing before said board of any charge involving a conviction of such felony or other criminal offense, a transcript of the record thereof certified by the clerk of the court in which such conviction is had, shall be sufficient evidence to justify the revocation or rescinding of such license. The findings and action of said board shall, in all such cases and hearings, be final and conclusive. And, for any of the above reasons, the said board of medical examiners may refuse to issue a license to an applicant. The said board of medical examiners may, in its discretion, restore a license so revoked and rescinded, upon due notice being given and hearing had, and satisfactory evidence produced of reformation of the licentiate. (1921, c. 47, s. 4; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 6; 1933, c. 32; C. S. 6618.)

Editor’s Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 32, substituted the above section for the former reading. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

Unprofessional Conduct.—While the board does not have the power to revoke a license on the sole ground that the holder thereof has been convicted of the violation of a criminal statute in force in the State or in the United States, the board has the power to revoke a license upon a finding that the holder thereof has been convicted of an unprofessional or dishonorable conduct, or has been convicted of an unprofessional or dishonorable conduct in that he had violated the provisions of the act. Board of Medical Examiners v. Gardner, 201 N. C. 123, 159 S. E. 8.

Appeal.—The appeal from the State Board of Medical Examiners allowed to a physician whose license has been revoked for immoral conduct in the practice of his profession, follows the procedure allowed in analogous cases, and the intent of the Legislature is interpreted to give a trial de novo in the Superior Court wherein the jury are to decide upon the evidence adduced before them the facts involved in the state. State v. Carroll, 194 N. C. 37, 138 S. E. 339.

§ 90-15. Whenever any license is granted without examination, as authorized in § 90-13, the applicant shall pay to the treasurer of the board a fee of fifty dollars ($50). Whenever a limited license is granted, as provided in § 90-12, the person shall pay to the treasurer of the board a fee of fifteen dollars ($15). All salaries and fees of the officers and members of the said board shall be fixed by the board, but shall not exceed ten dollars ($10) per day per member, and railroad fare and hotel expenses; and no expense shall be created to exceed the income from fees herein provided. Any unexpended sum or sums of money remaining in the treasury of the said board at the expiration of the terms of office of the members thereof, shall be paid over to their successors after their election and qualification as such. (Rev., s. 4501; Code, s. 3130; 1858-9, c. 255m; Laws 1913, c. 20, ss. 4, 5; 1921, c. 47, s. 5; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 7; C. S. 6619.)

The 1941 amendment added subsection 13.

A person shall be deemed to practice dentistry in this State within the meaning of this article and this section of this article, who represents himself as being able to remove stains and accretions from teeth, diagnose, treat, operate or prescribe for any disease, pain, injury, deficiency, deformity or physical condition of the human teeth, alveolar process, gums or maxillary bones and associated tissues or parts and/or who offers or undertakes by any means or methods to remove stains or accretions from teeth, diagnose, treat, operate or prescribe for any disease, pain, injury, deficiency, deformity or physical condition of the same, or to take impressions of the teeth or jaws and/or who owns, maintains or operates an office for the practice of dentistry, and/or who engages in any of the practices included in the curricular of recognized and approved dental schools or colleges.

The fact that a person uses any dental degree or designation or any card, device, directory, poster, sign or other media whereby he represents himself to be a dentist practicing in the State, shall constitute prima facie evidence that such person is engaged in the practice of dentistry.

The following practices, acts, and operations, however, shall be exempt from the provisions of this article:

(a) Any act in the practice of his profession by a duly licensed physician or surgeon.
(b) The rendering of dental relief in emergency cases in the practice of his profession by a physician or surgeon licensed as such and registered under the laws of this State, unless he undertakes to reproduce or reproduces lost parts of the human teeth in the mouth, or to restore or replace in the human mouth, lost or missing teeth.

The applicant shall be of good moral character, at least twenty-one years of age at the time the application for examination is filed. The application shall be made to the said board in writing and shall be accompanied by evidence satisfactory to said board that the applicant is a person of good moral character, has an academic education, the standard of which shall be determined by the said board; that he is a graduate of and has a diploma from a reputable dental college or the dental department of a reputable university or college recognized, accredited and approved as such by the said board.

Any license obtained through fraud or by any false representation shall be void ab initio and of no effect. (1935, c. 66, s. 6.)

§ 90-51. Revocation or suspension of license. —The State Board of Dental Examiners shall have the power to revoke or suspend the license of any mouth hygienist, who shall violate the provisions of this article, and the proceedings to revoke or suspend said license shall be the same as are provided in the case of suspension or revoking the license of a dentist as set out in §§ 90-22 to 90-48 of this Code. (1929, c. 304, s. 2.)

Part 1. Practice of Pharmacy.

§ 90-53. North Carolina pharmaceutical association. — The North Carolina pharmaceutical association, and the persons composing the same, shall continue to be a body politic and corporate under the name and style of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association, and by said name have the right to sue and be sued, to plead and be impleaded, to purchase and hold real estate and grant the same, to have and to use a common seal, and to do such other things and perform such other acts as appertain to bodies corporate and politic not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the state. (Rev., s. 4471; Code, s. 3135; 1881, c. 355, s. 1; C. S. 6650.)

§ 90-54. Object of pharmaceutical association. — The object of the association is to unite the pharmacists and druggists of this state for mutual aid, encouragement, and improvement; to encourage scientific research, develop pharmaceutical talent, to elevate the standard of professional thought, and ultimately restrict the practice of pharmacy to properly qualified druggists and apothecaries. (Rev., s. 4472; Code, s. 5156; 1881, c. 355, s. 2; C. S. 6651.)

§ 90-55. Board of pharmacy; election; terms; vacancies. — The board of pharmacy shall consist of five persons licensed as pharmacists within this state, who shall be elected and commissioned by the governor, as hereinafter provided. The members of the present board of pharmacy shall continue in office until the expiration of their respective terms, and the rules, regulations, and by-laws of said board, so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of this article, shall continue in effect. The North Carolina pharmaceutical association shall annually elect a resident pharmacist from its number to fill the vacancy annually occurring in said board, and the pharmacist so elected shall be commissioned by the governor and shall hold office for the term of five years and until his successor has been duly elected and qualified. In case of death, resignation, or removal from the state of any member of said board of pharmacy, the said board shall elect, from among the pharmacists who is a member of said North Carolina pharmaceutical association, who shall be commissioned by the governor as a member of the said board of pharmacy for the remainder of the term. It shall be the duty of a member of the board of pharmacy, within ten days after receipt of notification of his appointment and commission, to appear before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he resides and take and subscribe an oath to properly and faithfully discharge the duties of his office according to law. (Rev., s. 4473; 1905, c. 108, ss. 5-7; C. S. 6652.)

§ 90-56. Election of officers; bonds; annual meetings. — The board of pharmacy shall elect two officers, a president and a secretary-treasurer, who shall hold their offices until their successors shall have been elected and qualified. The president shall be elected from the membership of the board. The secretary-treasurer may or may not be a member of the board, as the board shall determine. The secretary-treasurer shall give bond in such sum as may be prescribed by the board, conditioned for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office according to law, and said bond shall be made payable to the North Carolina board of pharmacy and approved by said board. The said board shall hold an annual meeting at such time and place as it may provide by rule for the examination of candidates and for the discharge of such other business as may legally come before it, and said board may hold such additional meetings as may be necessary for the examination of candidates and for the discharge of any other business. (Rev., s. 4474; 1905, c. 108, s. 6; 1923, c. 82; C. S. 6653.)

§ 90-57. Powers of board; reports; quorum; records. — The board of pharmacy shall have a common seal, and shall have the power and authority to define and designate nonpoisonous domestic remedies, to adopt such rules, regulations, and by-laws, not inconsistent with this article, as may be necessary for the regulation of its proceedings and for the discharge of the duties imposed under this article, and shall have power and authority to employ an attorney to conduct prosecutions and to assist in the conduct of prosecutions under this article, and for any other purposes which said board may deem necessary. The said board of pharmacy shall keep a record of its proceedings and a register of all persons to whom certificates of license as pharmacists and permits have been issued, and of all renewals thereof; and the books and register of the said board, or a copy of any part thereof, certified by the said board, attested by the seal of the said board, shall be taken and accepted as competent evidence in all the courts of the state.

The said board of pharmacy shall make annually to the governor and to the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association written reports of its proceedings and of its receipts and disbursements under this article, and of all persons licensed to practice as pharmacists in this state.

A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of all business. (Rev., s. 4475; 1905, c. 108, s. 9; 1907, c. 113, s. 1; C. S. 6654.)

§ 90-58. Compensation of secretary and board.

The secretary of the board of pharmacy shall receive such salary as may be prescribed by the board, and shall be paid his necessary expenses while engaged in the performance of his official duties. The other members of the said board shall receive the sum of ten dollars for each day actually employed in the discharge of their official duty and their necessary expenses while engaged therein: Provided, that the compensation and expenses of the secretary and members of the said board of pharmacy and all disbursements for expenses incurred by the said board in carrying into effect and executing the provisions of this article shall be paid out of the fees received by the said board. (Rev., s. 4476; 1905, c. 108, s. 10; 1921, c. 57, s. 2; C. S. 6655.)

Upon information that any provision of this article has been or is being violated by any member of the said board of pharmacy or any one appointed by the said board of pharmacy shall promptly make investigations of such matters, and, upon probable cause appearing, shall file complaint and prosecute the offender. All fines and penalties prescribed in this article shall be recoverable by suit in the name of the people of the state. In all prosecutions for the violation of any of the provisions of this article, a certificate under oath by the secretary of the board of pharmacy shall be competent and admissible as evidence in any court of the state that the person so charged with the violation of this article is not a registered pharmacist or assistant pharmacist, as required by law. (Rev., s. 4477; 1905, c. 108, s. 11; 1923, c. 74, s. 1; C. S. 6656.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment to this section by Public Laws 1923 investigation and prosecution was restricted to the secretary of the board and there was no provision for the board and for the board to investigate and prosecute violations of the aforementioned article, in addition to the Secretary of the Board and by making a certificate under oath by the secretary of the Board competent and admissible as evidence in any court of the state, a person charged with violation of such law is not duly licensed. See N. C. C. R.R. Rev., 1905, c. 108, s. 13; 1915, c. 165; 1921, c. 52; 1933, c. 206, ss. 1, 2; 1933, c. 181; 1937, c. 94; C. S. 6658.)

§ 90-60. Fees collectible by board.—The board of pharmacy shall be entitled to charge and collect the following fees: For the examination of an applicant for license as a pharmacist ten dollars; for renewing the license as a pharmacist or as an assistant pharmacist, five dollars; for issuing a permit to a physician to conduct a drug store in a village of not more than five hundred inhabitants, ten dollars; for the renewal of a permit to a physician to conduct a drug store in a village of not more than five hundred inhabitants, five dollars. All fees shall be paid before any applicant may be admitted to examination or his name placed upon the register of pharmacists or before any license or permit, or any renewal thereof, may be issued by the board. (Rev., s. 4478; 1905, c. 108, s. 12; 1921, c. 57, s. 3; C. S. 6657.)

§ 90-61. Application and examination for license, prerequisites.—Every person licensed or registered as a pharmacist on February 4, 1905, under the laws of this state shall be entitled to continue in the practice of his profession until the expiration of the term for which his certificate of registration or license was issued. Every person who shall desire to be licensed as a pharmacist shall file with the secretary of the board of pharmacy an application, duly verified under oath, setting forth the name and age of the applicant, the place or places at which and the time he has spent in the study of the science and art of pharmacy, the experience in the compounding of physicians' prescriptions which the applicant has had under the direction of a legally licensed pharmacist, and the length of the aforementioned article, an applicant shall appear at a time and place designated by the board of pharmacy and submit to an examination as to his qualifications for registration as a licensed pharmacist. The application referred to above shall be prepared and furnished by the board of pharmacy.

In order to become licensed as a pharmacist, within the meaning of this article, an applicant shall be not less than twenty-one years of age, shall present to the board of pharmacy satisfactory evidence that he has had four years' experience in pharmacy under the instruction of a licensed pharmacist, and that he is a graduate of a reputable school or college of pharmacy, and shall also pass a satisfactory examination of the board of pharmacy: Provided, however, that the actual time of attendance at a reputable school or college of pharmacy, not to exceed three years, may be deducted from the time of experience required. Provided, further, that any person legally registered or licensed as a pharmacist by another state board of pharmacy, and who has had fifteen years continuous college training and has been filling prescriptions in a drug store or stores for twenty years or longer may take the examination as provided in the above proviso. (Rev., ss. 4479, 4480; 1905, c. 108, s. 13; 1915, c. 165; 1921, c. 52; 1933, c. 206, ss. 1, 2; 1933, c. 181; 1937, c. 94; C. S. 6658.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 206, inserted the last proviso of this section relative to pharmacists in another state taking the examination in North Carolina. The 1937 amendment abolished the time restriction formerly appearing in the proviso.

In the first proviso of the second paragraph of this section the maximum deductible time was increased from two to three years. (Public Laws of 1935, c. 181.)

The provisions of this section, as amended in 1933, relative to a pharmacist licensed by another state, do not entitle a person meeting the qualifications of this act and being of the required age to stand the examination upon his application therefor filed after 1 July, 1933, although he has previously made other applications therefor and has been permitted to stand the examination on his application held prior to 1 July, 1933, and has failed to pass such examinations, the request filed after 1 July, 1933, for a "re-examination" being in legal effect an application for an examination de novo, nor is this result affected by the fact that the board has permitted applicants who failed to pass the examination to stand a subsequent examination without filing a new application, and the issuance of a writ of mandamus directing the board to permit such applicant to stand the examination upon his application filed after 1 July, 1933, by Vereen McNair v. North Carolina Board of Pharmacy, 208 N. C. 572, 198 S. E. 816. (Rev., s. 4482; 1905, c. 108, ss. 17, 25; C. S. 6661.)

§ 90-66. Expiration and renewal of license; failure to renew misdemeanor.—Every licensed pharmacist or assistant pharmacist who desires to continue in the practice of his profession, and every physician holding a permit to sell drugs in a village of not more than six hundred inhabitants, shall within thirty days next preceding the expiration of his license or permit, file with the secretary and treasurer of the board of pharmacy an application for the renewal thereof, which application shall be accompanied by the fee hereinbefore prescribed. If the board of pharmacy shall find that an applicant has been legally licensed in this state, and is entitled to a renewal thereof, or to a renewal of a permit, it shall issue to him a certificate attesting that fact. And if any pharmacist or assistant pharmacist shall fail, for a period of six days after the expiration of his license, to make application to the board for its renewal, his name shall be erased from the register of licensed pharmacists and assistant pharmacists and such person, in order to again become registered as a licensed pharmacist or assistant pharmacist shall be required to pay the same fee as in the case of original registration. And if any holder of a permit to sell drugs in a village of not more than six hundred inhabitants shall fail, for a period of sixty days after the expiration of his permit, to make application for the renewal thereof, his name shall be erased from the register of persons holding such permits, and he may be restored thereto only upon the payment of the fee required for the granting of original permit. The registration of every license and every permit issued by the board shall expire on the thirty-first day of December next ensuing the granting thereof. Provided, that the board of pharmacy, in its discretion, shall have the power to issue a license or permit, or renewal thereof, to any person whose license or permit has been revoked by operation of law or by the board of pharmacy, or whose renewal thereof has been refused by the board of pharmacy, after the expiration of one year from the date of such revocation of license or permit, or refusal of a renewal thereof, upon satisfactory proof that such person is entitled to such license or permit, or to a renewal thereof. Every holder of a license or permit as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist, who after the expiration thereof continues to carry on the business for which the license or permit was granted, without renewing the same as required by this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than five nor more than twenty-five dollars. (Rev., ss. 3653, 4484; 1905, c. 108, ss. 19, 19, 27; 1911, c. 48; 1921, c. 68, s. 2; C. S. 6662.)

§ 90-67. License to be displayed; penalty.—Every certificate or license to practice as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist and every permit to a practicing physician to conduct a pharmacy due notice and hearing, revoke a license for like cause, or any license which has been procured by fraud. Any license or permit, or renewal thereof, obtained through fraud or by any fraudulent or false representations shall be void and of no effect in law. (Rev., s. 4483; 1905, c. 108, ss. 17, 25; C. S. 6661.)
§ 90-68. Unlicensed person not to use title of pharmacist; penalty.—It shall be unlawful for any person not legally licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist to take, use or exhibit the title of pharmacist of assistant pharmacist or licensed or registered pharmacist, or the title druggist or apothecary, or any other title, name, or description of like import.

Every person who violates this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars. (Rev., ss. 3653, 4458; 1905, c. 108, ss. 18, 26; 1921, c. 68, s. 3; C. S. 6663.)

§ 90-69. Purity of drugs protected; seller responsible; adulteration misdemeanor.—Every person who shall engage in the sale of drugs, chemicals, and medicines shall be held responsible for the quality of all drugs, chemicals, and medicines he may sell or dispense, with the exception of those sold in the original packages of the manufacturers, and also those known as "patent or proprietary medicines."

If any person engaged in the sale of drugs, chemicals, and medicines shall intentionally adulterate, or cause to be adulterated, or exposed to sale knowing the same to be adulterated, any drugs, chemicals, or medical preparations, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, and if he is a licensed pharmacist or assistant pharmacist his name shall be stricken from the register of licensed pharmacists and assistant pharmacists. (Rev., ss. 3648, 4488; Code, s. 3145; 1881, c. 385, s. 11; 1897, c. 182, s. 7; 1905, c. 108, s. 3; 1921, c. 68, s. 5; C. S. 6665.)

§ 90-70. Prescriptions preserved; copies furnished.—Every proprietor or manager of a drug store or pharmacy shall keep in his place of business a suitable book or file, in which shall be preserved for a period of not less than five years the original of every prescription compounded or dispensed at such drug store or pharmacy. Upon the request of the prescribing physician, or of the person for whom such prescription was compounded or dispensed, the proprietor or manager of such drug store or pharmacy shall furnish a true and correct copy of such prescription, and said book or file of original prescriptions shall at all times be open to the inspection and examination of duly authorized officers of the law or other persons authorized and directed by the board of pharmacy to make such inspection and examination. (Rev., s. 4490; 1905, c. 108, s. 21; C. S. 6666.)

§ 90-71. Selling drugs without license prohibited; drug trade regulated.—It shall be unlawful for any person not licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist within the meaning of this article to conduct or manage any pharmacy, drug or chemical store, apothecary shop or other place of business for the retailing, compounding, or dispensing of any drugs, chemicals, or poison, or for the compounding of physicians' prescriptions, or to keep exposed for sale at retail any drugs, chemicals, or poison, except as herein after provided, or for any person not licensed as a pharmacist within the meaning of this article to compound, dispense, or sell at retail any drug, chemical, poison, or pharmaceutical preparation upon the prescription of a physician or otherwise, or to compound physicians' prescriptions except as an aid to and under the immediate supervision of a person licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist under this article. Provided, that during the temporary absence of the licensed pharmacist in charge of any pharmacy, drug or chemical store, a licensed assistant pharmacist may conduct or have charge of said store. And it shall be unlawful for any owner or manager of a pharmacy or drug store other place of business to cause or permit any other than a person licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist to compound, dispense, or sell at retail any drug, medicine, poison or pharmaceutical preparation except as an aid to and under the immediate supervision of a person licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to interfere with any legally registered practitioner of medicine in the compounding of his own prescriptions, or with the exclusively wholesale business of any dealer who shall be licensed as a pharmacist or who shall keep in his employ at least one person who is licensed as a pharmacist, nor with the selling at retail of nonpoisonous domestic remedies, nor with the sale of patent or proprietary preparations which do not contain poisonous ingredients, nor, except in cities and towns wherein there is located an established drug store, and except in the counties of Avery, Bertie, Cleveland, Cabarrus, Cumberland, Duplin, Forsyth, Gaston, Guilford, Halifax, Harnett, Iredell, Henderson, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Nash, Pender, Moore, New Hanover, Orange, Richmond, Rockingham, Robeson, Rowan, Scotland, and Wilson, shall this section be construed to interfere with the sale of paregoric, Godfrey's Cordial, Aspirin, arbor, borax, bicarbonate of soda, calomel tablets, castor oil, compound carthartic pills, copperas, cough remedies which contain no poison or narcotic drugs, cream of tartar, distilled extract with witch hazel, epsom salts, hemlock oil, gum asafetida, gum camphor, glycerin, peroxide of hydrogen, petroleum jelly, saltpetre, spirit of turpentine, spirit of camphor, sweet oil, and sulphate of quinine, nor with the sale of poisonous substances which are sold exclusively for use in the arts or for use as insecticides when such substances are sold in unbroken packages bearing a label having plainly printed upon it the name of the contents, the word "Poison," the vignette of the skull and crossbones, and the name of at least two readily obtainable antidotes.

In any village of not more than six hundred inhabitants the board of pharmacy may, after due investigation, grant any legally registered practicing physician a permit to conduct a drug store or pharmacy in such village, which permit shall not be valid in any other village than the one for which it was granted, and shall cease and terminate when the population of the village for which such permit was granted shall become greater than six hundred. (Rev., s. 4487; 1905, c. 108, s. 4; 1921, c. 68, s. 6; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 116; C. S. 6667.)

Local Modification.—Johnston: 1929, c. 249; Onslow, McDowell: 1925, c. 27.

Editor’s Note.—In 3 N. C. Law Rev. in considering this section it is said: it “prohibits the sale of drugs without a license and regulates the drug trade. It excepts from the requirements of a license physicians who compound their own prescriptions, also the sale of non-poisonous domestic remedies and patent medicines containing no poisonous ingredients.

"Ch. 116 Act 1924 adds to these exceptions a list of some thirty drugs and remedies, such as paregoric, aspirin, bicarbonate of soda, calomel, castor oil, camphor, etc. These may be sold by duly licensed pharmacists without a license, provided there is no established drug store in the county. The act does not apply in twenty-six counties, which further restricts it."

"Similar to the list of drugs named are harmless in ordinary use, it may be safe enough to allow the small country store-keeper to sell them, but the statute makes an opening which might lead to worse things. There may be a question whether paregoric, a strong narcotic, should ever be sold except upon a doctor’s prescription. Similarly with other drugs in the list. It seems that the legislature would have done better to leave the details of drug-selling to the State Board of Pharmacy or to some other expert group who understand the nature and effect of drugs and the danger involved in allowing them to be sold by anybody."

§ 90-72. Compounding prescriptions without license.—If any person, not being licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist, shall compound, dispense, or sell at retail any drug, medicine, poison, or pharmaceutical preparation, either upon a physician’s prescription or otherwise, and if any person being the owner or manager of a drug store, pharmacy, or other place of business for the compounding, dispensing, or sale at retail of any drugs, medicines, or poisons, or for the compounding of physicians’ prescriptions contrary to the provisions of this article, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 3649; 1905, c. 108, s. 23; C. S. 6669.)

§ 90-73. Conducting pharmacy without license.—If any person, not being licensed as a pharmacist, shall conduct or manage any drug store, pharmacy, or other place or business for the compounding, dispensing, or sale at retail of any drugs, medicines, or poisons, or for the compounding of physicians’ prescriptions contrary to the provisions of this article, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars, and each week such drug store or pharmacy or other place of business is so unlawfully conducted shall be held to constitute a separate and distinct offense. (Rev., s. 3650; 1905, c. 108, s. 23; C. S. 6669.)

§ 90-74. Pharmacist obtaining license fraudulently.—If any person shall make any fraudulent or false representations for the purpose of procuring a license or permit, or renewal thereof, either for himself or for another, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars; and if any person shall wilfully make a false affidavit or any other false or fraudulent representation for the purpose of procuring a license or permit, or renewal thereof, either for himself or for another, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to like punishment as is now prescribed for the crime of perjury. (Rev., s. 3654; 1905, c. 108, s. 25; C. S. 6670.)

§ 90-75. Registration of drug stores and pharmacies.—The Board of Pharmacy shall require and provide for the annual registration of every drug store and pharmacy doing business in this State; the proprietor of every drug store or pharmacy opening for business after January 1, 1928, shall apply to the Board of Pharmacy for registration and it shall be unlawful for any drug store or pharmacy to do business until so registered; the fee for such registration, whether original or annual, shall be one dollar ($1), and upon the payment thereof the Board of Pharmacy shall issue permit to applicant entitled to receive same. All permits issued under this section shall expire on December thirty-first of each year.

The terms "drug store" and "pharmacy" as used herein shall mean any store or other place in which drugs, medicines, chemicals, poisons, or prescriptions are compounded, dispensed, or sold at retail, or which uses the title "drug store," "pharmacy" or "apothecary" or any combination of such titles, or any title or description of like import: Provided, that nothing in this section shall apply to the sale of domestic remedies, patent and proprietary preparations, and insecticides as set out and provided for in paragraph two of § 90-71. (1927, c. 28, s. 1.)

§ 90-76. Substitution of drugs, etc., prohibited.—Any person or corporation engaged in the business of selling drugs, medicines, chemicals, or preparations for medical use or of compounding or dispensing physicians’ prescriptions, who shall, in person or by his or his agents or employees, or as agent or employee of some other person, knowingly sell or deliver to any person a drug, medicine, chemical preparation for medicinal use, recognized or authorized by the latest edition of the United States Pharmacopeia and National Formulary, or prepared according to the private formula of some individual or firm, other or different from the drug, medicine, chemical or preparation for medicinal use, recognized or authorized by the latest edition of the United States Pharmacopeia and National Formulary, or prepared according to the private formula of some individual or firm, ordered or called for by such person, or called for in a physician’s prescription, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court: Provided, that this section shall apply to registered drug stores and their employees only. (1937, c. 59.)

Part 2. Dealing in Specific Drugs Regulated.

§ 90-77. Poisons; sales regulated; label; penalties.—It shall be unlawful for any persons to sell or deliver to any person any of the following described substances or any poisonous compound, combination, or preparation thereof, to wit: The compounds and salts of arsenic, antimony, lead, mercury, silver and zinc, oxalic and hydrocyanic acids and their salts, the concentrated mineral acids, carbolic acid, the essential oils of almonds, pennyroyal, tansy and savine, croton oil, creosote, chloroform, chloral hydrate, cantharides, or any aconite, belladonna, bitter opium, ergot, cannabis stramonius, or any of the hydrocyanic acids and their salts, the compound, combination, or preparation thereof, to contain more than two fluid ounces or the weight of two avoirdupois ounces does not contain more than an adult medicinal dose of such poisonous substance.

If any person shall sell or deliver to any person any poisonous substance specified in this section without labeling the same and recording the delivery thereof in the manner prescribed, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars. (Rev., ss. 3655, 4489; 1905, c. 108, ss. 20, 28; C. S. 6671.)

§ 90-78. Certain patent cures and devices; sale and advertising forbidden.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association, or corporation in the state, or any agent thereof, to sell or offer for sale any proprietary or patent medicine or remedy purporting to cure cancer, consumption, diabetes, paralysis, Bright's disease, or any other disease for which no cure has been found, or any mechanical device whose claims for the cure or treatment of disease are false or fraudulent; and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association, or corporation in the state, or agent thereof, to publish in any manner, or by any means, or cause to be published, circulated, or in any way placed before the public any advertisement in a newspaper or other publication or in the form of books, pamphlets, handbills, circulars, either printed or written, or by any drawing, map, print, tag, or by any other means whatsoever, any advertisement of any kind or description offering for sale or commending to the public any proprietary or patent medicine or remedy purporting to cure cancer, consumption, diabetes, paralysis, Bright's disease, or any other disease for which no cure has been found, or any mechanical device for the treatment of disease, when the North Carolina board of health shall declare that such device is without value in the treatment of disease.

Any person, firm, association, or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offense. Each sale, offer for sale, or publication of any advertisement for sale of any of the medicines, remedies, or devices mentioned in this section shall constitute a separate offense. (1917, c. 27, ss. 1, 2, 3; C. S. 6684.)

Editor's Note.—In 4 N. C. Law Rev. it is said: "There is a statute in this State which makes it unlawful for any person to publish any advertisement of any patent medicine or remedy purporting to cure cancer, consumption, diabetes, paralysis, Bright's disease, or any other disease for which no cure has been found or any mechanical device for the treatment of disease when the North Carolina Board of Health shall declare that such device is without value in the treatment of disease. This curious statute puts too heavy a burden on the advertising manager, for who is to say whether there is a cure for a disease or whether a device is of value in the treatment of disease."

§ 90-79. Certain patent cures and devices; enforcement of law.—To provide for the efficient enforcement of § 90-78, the same shall be under the supervision and management of the North Carolina board of pharmacy, and it shall be
§ 90-80. Duty of all registered pharmacists to report immediately any violations thereof to the secretary of the board of pharmacy, and any willful failure to make such report shall have the effect of revoking his license to practice pharmacy in this state. (1917, c. 27, ss. 4, 5; C. S. 6685.)

§ 90-80. The purpose of the amendment "is to raise the standards of the practice of optometry in North Carolina. Its chief effect upon this section is the requirement of two years attendance at a recognized optical college, eliminating the option of two years under a registered optometrist, the raising of the examination fee from $10 to $20, and the raising of the compensation of the Board of Examiners from $5 to $10 for each day spent in the duties of the office." 1 N. (1909, c. 444, s. 2; 1935, c. 63; C. S. 6688.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added the last two sentences of the section.

§ 90-118. Examination for practice; prerequisites; registration. — Every person, before beginning to practice optometry in this state after the passage of this article, shall pass an examination before the board of examiners. 1. He must be twenty-one years of age.
2. He shall file with the secretary of the board a certificate of good moral character. If desired, he may be examined by two reputable citizens of this state; but an applicant from another state may have such certificate signed by any state officer of the state from which he comes.

The secretary shall keep a record of such persons who shall be exempt from the provisions of the preceding section. Upon the payment of three dollars he shall issue to each of them certificates of registration without the necessity of an examination. Failure on the part of a person so entitled within six months of the enactment of this article to make written application to the board for the certificate of registration accompanied by a written statement, signed by him and duly verified before an officer authorized to administer oaths within this state, fully setting forth the grounds upon which he claims such certificate, shall be deemed a waiver of his right to a certificate under the provisions of this section. A person who has thus waived his right may obtain a certificate thereafter by successfully passing examination and paying a fee as provided herein.

§ 90-120. Filing of certificate by licensee; fees; failure to file, certified copies.—Each recipient of the certificate of registration shall present the same for record to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he resides, and shall pay a fee of fifty cents for recording the same. Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added the last sentence of this section.

§ 90-124. Revocation and regrant of certificate.—The board shall have the power to make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with the laws of the State of North Carolina, as may be necessary and proper for the regulation of the practice of the profession of optometry, and for the performance of its duties. The board shall have the power to revoke any certificate of registration granted by it under this article for conviction of crime, habitual drunkenness, gross incompetence, contagious or infectious disease; and the board shall likewise have the power to revoke any such certificate of registration upon the finding by the board that the holder of such certificate has been guilty of unethical conduct or practice.

Unethical practice as herein stipulated as a condition for revocation of license shall include the following:

1. Advertising the "free examination of the eyes," "free consultation," "consultation without obligation," "free advice," or any words or phrases of similar import which convey, or are calculated to convey, the impression to the public that the eyes are examined free, or of a character tending to deceive or mislead the public, or in the nature of "bait advertising";

The holder of the certificate shall have an opportunity to produce testimony in his behalf, and to confront the witnesses against him. Any person whose certificate has been revoked for any of the grounds or reasons herein set forth, or on account of non-payment of dues, may, after the expiration of ninety days, and within two years, apply to the board to have same regranted, and the holder thereof shall be served with a written notice and at the discretion of the board, license to practice optometry may be restored to such person. (1909, c. 444, s. 13; 1935, c. 63; C. S. 6697.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1935, c. 63, struck out the former section and inserted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 90-125. Practicing under other than own name or as a salaried or commissioned employee.—It shall be unlawful for any person licensed to practice optometry under the provisions of this article to advertise, practice, or attempt to practice under a name other than his own, except as an associate of or assistant to an optometrist licensed under the laws of the state of North Carolina; and it shall be likewise unlawful for any corporation, lay body, organization, group, or lay individual to engage, or undertake to engage, in the practice of optometry through means of engaging the services, upon a salary or commission basis, of one licensed to practice optometry or medicine in any of its branches in this state. Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment inserted the words "or medicine in any of its branches" near the end of the first sentence.

Where Suit to Enjoin Enforcement of Section Not Allowed by Federal Court.—Defendants had been enjoined by a state court for an alleged violation of this section. In a suit brought in the district court to enjoin the enforcement of this section, as violating the commerce clause and due process and equal protection clauses of the constitution, it was held that this was a suit to enjoin the decree of a state court and was prohibited by a federal statute. Ritholz v. North Carolina State Board of Examiners, 18 F. Supp. 499.

§ 90-126. Violation of article forbidden.—Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this article, and any person who shall hold himself out to the public as a practitioner of optometry without a certificate of registration provided for herein, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction may be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than four months, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1909, c. 444, s. 14; C. S. 6698.)

§ 90-126.1. Board may enjoin illegal practices.—In view of the fact that the illegal practice of optometry imminently endangers the public health and welfare, and is a public nuisance, the North Carolina state board of optometry may, if it shall find that any person is violating any of the provisions of this article, apply to the superior court for a temporary or permanent restraining order or injunction to restrain such person from continuing such illegal practices. If upon such application, it shall appear to the court that such person has violated, or is violating, the provisions of this article, the court shall issue an order restraining any further violations thereof. All such actions by the board for injunctive relief shall be governed by the provisions of article thirty-seven of the chapter under the provisions of § 90-126. (1943, c. 444.)

§ 90-127. Application of article.—Nothing in this article shall be construed to apply to physicians and surgeons authorized to practice under the laws of North Carolina, except the provisions contained in § 90-125, or prohibit persons to sell spectacles, eyeglasses, or lenses as merchandise from permanently located and established places of business. (1909, c. 444, s. 15; 1937, c. 362, s. 3; C. S. 6699.)

§ 90-128. Repeal of laws; exception.—Nothing in the provisions amending §§ 90-114, 90-118, 90-122, and 90-133, shall repeal any of the provisions of § 90-127. (1923, c. 42, s. 7; C. S. 6699(b).)

Their term of office shall be so designated by the governor that the term of one member shall expire each year. Thereafter in each year the governor shall in like manner appoint one person to fill the vacancy in the board thus created, from a number of not less than five, who are recommended by the state osteopathic society; the term of said appointee to be for five years. A vacancy occurring from any other cause shall be filled by the governor for the unexpired term in the same manner as last above stated. Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment struck out the words "or other nondrug-giving school of medical practice" formerly appearing after the word "osteopathy" in the next to the last sentence.

§ 90-131. Examination and certification of applicant; prerequisites.—Any person, before engaging in the practice of osteopathy in this state, shall, upon the payment of a fee of twenty-five dollars, make application for a certificate to practice osteopathy to the board of osteopathic examination and registration on a form prescribed by the board, giving, first, his name, age (which shall not be less than twenty-one years), and residence; second, evidence that such appli-

The secretary of the board may grant a temporary permit until a regular meeting of the board, or to such time as the board can conveniently meet, to one whom he considers eligible to practice in the state, and who may desire to commence the practice immediately. Such permit shall only be valid until legal action of the board can be taken. In all the above provisions the fee shall be the same as charged to applicants for examination. (1907, c. 764, s. 2; C. S. 6703.)

§ 90-133. The expenses shall be fixed by the board, but shall not exceed ten dollars per day per member, and railroad and hotel expenses. (1907, c. 764, s. 3; C. S. 6705.)

§ 90-134. Until such certificate is filed for record, the holder shall exercise none of the rights or privileges therein conferred. Said clerk of the county shall keep in a book for that purpose a complete list of all certificates recorded by him, with the date of the recording of each certificate. Each holder of a certificate shall pay to said clerk a fee of one dollar for making such record. (1907, c. 764, s. 5; C. S. 6707.)
§ 90-136. 4. Advertising, practicing or attempting to practice osteopathy under a name other than one's own.
The state board may neither suspend nor revoke any license, however, for any of the causes hereinabove set forth unless the person accused has been given at least twenty days notice in writing of the charge against him and a public hearing had by said board, or a quorum thereof.
At the time and place named in said notice the said board, or a quorum thereof, shall proceed to hear the charges against the accused upon competent evidence, oral or by deposition, and at said hearing said accused shall have the right to be present in person and/or represented by counsel.

§ 90-148. Records of board. — The secretary of the board of chiropractic examiners shall keep a record of the proceedings of the board, giving the name of each applicant for license, and the name of each applicant licensed and the date of such license. (1917, c. 73, s. 10; C. S. 6720.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1913, c. 442, inserted, near the middle of this section, the words "as taught in recognized chiropractic schools and colleges."

The person obtaining such certificate shall be entitled to practice chiropractic anywhere in this state; but if he shall remove his residence to another county, he shall exhibit said certificate to the clerk of the superior court of such other county and be registered. Any one receiving a temporary license as provided in this article shall not be entitled to register, but may practice anywhere in this state during the time such temporary license shall be in force. (1917, c. 73, s. 14; C. S. 6725.)

§ 90-155. Annual fee for renewal of license.—All persons practicing chiropractic in this state shall, on or before the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January in each year after licenses issued to them as herein provided, pay to the secretary of the board of chiropractic examiners a renewal license fee of ten ($10.00) dollars, the payment of which, and a receipt from the secretary of the board, shall work a renewal of the license fee for twelve months. Any license or certificate granted by the board under this article shall automatically be cancelled if the holder thereof fails to secure a renewal within three months from the time herein provided; but any license thus cancelled may, upon evidence of good moral character and proper proficiency, be restored upon the payment of fifteen ($15.00) dollars. (1917, c. 73, s. 15; 1933, c. 442, s. 4; 1937, c. 293, s. 2; C. S. 6726.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1927 amendment the fee specified in the first paragraph was two dollars and the fee in the second paragraph was ten dollars.

§ 90-156. Pay of board and authorized expenditures.—The members of the board of chiropractic examiners shall receive their actual expenses, including railroad fare and hotel bills, when meeting for the purpose of holding examinations, and performing any other duties placed upon them by this article, such expenses to be paid by the treasurer of the board out of the money received by him as license fees, or from renewal fees. Art. 9. Trained Nurses.

§ 90-158. Board of examiners.—A board of nurse examiners composed of five members, to consist of three registered nurses to be elected by the North Carolina State Nurses' Association, and one representative each from the North Carolina State Medical Society and the North Carolina State Hospital Association, is hereby created to be known by the title "The North Carolina Board of Nurse Examiners."

The members of the first board elected under this article shall serve as follows: The representative of the North Carolina State Medical Society and the representative of the North Carolina State Hospital Association shall serve for a term expiring June 1, 1926, or until their successors are qualified; and the three registered nurses elected by the North Carolina State Nurses' Association shall serve for a term expiring June 1, 1926, or until their successors are qualified. Thereafter, each member of said board shall serve a term of three years, or until his or her successor is appointed. The board shall fill any vacancy for an unexpired term.

The Board of nurse examiners is hereby empowered to prescribe such regulations as it may deem proper, governing applicants for licenses, admission to examinations, the conduct of applicants during examinations, and the conduct of the examinations proper with the approval of the standardization board hereinafter created. (1917, c. 17, s. 1; 1925, c. 87, s. 2; 1931, c. 56; C. S. 6729.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to Public Laws of 1925 it was provided by this section that there be two physicians on the board elected by the state medical society. A provision for the appointment of an inspector of the training schools by the nurse association was omitted, and there is a new provision giving the board power to make rules and regulations, by the amendment.
The Act of 1931 merely changed "The Board of Nurse Examiners of North Carolina" to its present title.

§ 90-159. Committee on standardization.—A joint committee on standardization, consisting of three members appointed from the North Carolina state nurses' association, and four members from the North Carolina state hospital association, whose members shall serve for a term of three years, or until their successors are elected, is hereby created. The joint committee on standardization shall advise with the board of nurse examiners herein created in the adoption of regulations governing the education of nurses, and shall jointly with the North Carolina board of nurse examiners have power to establish standards and provide minimum requirements for the conduct of schools of nursing of which applicants for examination for nurse's license under this chapter must be graduates before taking such examination. (1925,
c. 87, s. 3; 1931, c. 56; 1933, c. 203.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1911 struck out the second sentence of this section and inserted the one above in lieu thereof.

Public Laws of 1933, c. 203, changed the number of members from the North Carolina State Hospital Association from three to four, and inserted the provision making the eexercise of power joint with the North Carolina board of nurse examiners.

§ 90-160. Educational director of schools of nursing.—An educational director of schools of nursing shall be annually appointed by the North Carolina State Nurses' Association, who shall report annually to the board of nurse examiners, and to the North Carolina State Hospital Association. Such director shall be a registered nurse, her duties and compensation to be fixed by the board of nurse examiners and the standardization board. (1925, c. 87, s. 4.)

§ 90-161. Organization of board; seal; officers; compensation.—Three members of the board shall constitute a quorum, two of whom shall be nurses.
The board shall adopt and have custody of a seal and shall frame by-laws and regulations for its own government and for the execution of the provisions of this article. The officers of said board shall be a president and a secretary-treasurer, both to be elected from its nurse members.
The treasurer shall give bond in such sum as may be fixed by the by-laws, and the premium therefor to be paid from the treasury of said board.
The treasurer shall give bond in such sum as may be fixed in the by-laws, and the premium therefor to be paid from the treasury of said board.
The members of the board shall receive such compensation in addition to actual traveling and hotel expenses as shall be fixed by the board.
The secretary-treasurer may receive an additional salary to be fixed by the board, said expenses and salaries to be paid from fees received by the board under the provisions of this article, and in no case to be charged upon the treasury of the State.

All moneys received in excess of said allowance, and other expenses provided for, shall be held by the secretary-treasurer for the expenses of the board and for extending nursing education in the State. (1917, c. 17, s. 2; 1925, c. 87, s. 5; C. S.

Editor's Note.—Prior to Public Laws 1925, four dollars per diem and actual traveling and hotel expenses was the compensation of each member of the board.

§ 90-162. Meetings for examination; prerequisites for applicants.—The board of nurse examiners of North Carolina shall meet less than once annually, and at any time more than ten or more applicants shall notify the secretary-treasurer that they desire an examination. Thirty days prior to such meetings notice stating time and place of examination shall be published in one nursing journal and three daily State papers.

At such meetings it shall be the duty of the board of nurse examiners to examine graduate nurses applying for license to practice their profession in North Carolina. An applicant must prove to the satisfaction of the board that he or she is twenty-one years of age, is of good moral character, and has graduated from high school or has equivalent credits.

Applicants shall have graduated from a school of nursing connected with a general hospital giving a three years' course of practical and theoretical instruction, which said hospital meets the minimum requirements and provides standards for the conduct of schools of nursing which may have been set up and established by the joint committee on standardization provided for in § 90-159.
Such schools of nursing may give credit for college work on the three years' course to the extent and as may be approved by the board of nurse examiners, such credits not to total more than one year for any one person. (1917, c. 17, s. 3; 1925, c. 87, s. 6; 1931, c. 56; C. S. 6731.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1925 added a provision that schools shall meet the requirements of the American Nurse's Association formerly appearing in the third paragraph of this section. The Act of 1931 struck out this paragraph and inserted another in lieu thereof. This Act struck out from the second paragraph the words "twenty-at least one year of high school education or its equivalent," and inserted in lieu thereof the words: "graduated from high school or has equivalent credits."

§ 90-163. Scope of examination; fees; licensing.
—Examinations shall be held in anatomy and physiology, materia medica, dietetics, hygiene and elementary bacteriology, obstetrical, medical and surgical nursing, nursing of children, contagious diseases and ethics of nursing, and such other subjects as may be prescribed by the examining board.
The subject of contagious diseases may be given in theory only. If on examination the applicant shall not be found competent, the board shall grant a license authorizing him or her to register as herein provided and to use the title "registered nurse," signified by the letters "R. N."

Before an applicant shall be permitted to take such an examination he or she shall pay to the sec-tary of the examining board an examination fee of ten dollars. In the event of the failure of the aplicant to pass examination, one-half of the above named fee shall be returned to the applicant.
(1917. c. 17, s. 4; 1925, c. 87, s. 7; C. S. 6733.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws 1925.

§ 90-164. Licenses and certificates without examination; fee.—The board of nurse examiners shall have authority to issue licenses without examination to nurses registered in other states:
Provided, that said states shall maintain an equivalent standard of registration requirements. The examination fee shall accompany each such application for license.

The board shall also have power in the exercise of its discretion to issue a license without examination to any applicant who has been duly registered as a registered nurse under the laws of another state: Provided, said applicant possesses qualifications at least equal to those required by the State of North Carolina. The fee for license without examination shall be twenty-five dollars ($25.00). (1917, c. 17, s. 5; 1925, c. 87, s. 8; C. S. 6733.)

Editor's Note.—The second paragraph of this section is new with Public Laws 1925.

§ 90-165. Only licensed nurses to practice.—On and after February 28, 1925, all "trained," "graduate," "licensed," or "registered" nurses must obtain licenses from the board of nurse examiners before practicing their profession in this State, and before using the abbreviation "R. N." must obtain certificates of registration from the clerk of the Superior Court of any county as herein-after provided; but nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to any nurse who is qualified and practicing her profession on February 28, 1925. (1917, c. 17, s. 6; 1917, c. 288; 1925, c. 87, s. 9; C. S. 6734.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1925 omitted a former proviso preventing the section having retroactive effect, otherwise it is substantially the same.

§ 90-166. Certain persons not affected by this article.—This article shall not be construed to affect or apply to the nursing of the sick by friends or members of the family. (1917, c. 17, s. 7; 1925, c. 87, s. 10; 1931, c. 56; C. S. 6735.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws 1925.

The Act of 1931 struck out the whole of this section and inserted in lieu thereof the above.

For such registration he shall charge a fee of fifty cents. (1917, c. 17, s. 5; 1925, c. 87, s. 8; C. S. 6733.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws 1925.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1935, c. 387, struck out the former section and inserted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 92-10. Examination and licensing of applicants; temporary certificates.—The board shall provide for the examination of applicants who desire to practice photography in this state, and shall collect fees, as hereinafter provided, for such examinations and issue certificates of registration and licenses to practice photography to anyone who shall qualify as to competency, ability and integrity. The board may issue temporary certificates to practice photography until such time as the board shall hold an examination, provided such applicants are, in the opinion of the board, entitled thereto, and provided that application and deposit for examination is made at the time of application for such temporary license, and such certificate shall be null and void after the next examination held by the board, and provided further, that no such applicant shall, thereafter, be eligible to apply for and receive a temporary certificate. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 1.)

§ 92-11. Qualifications of applicants for examination.—Prior to any applicant being admitted to an examination or licensed, said board shall have the power to require proof as to the technical qualifications, business record and moral character of such applicant, and if an applicant shall fail to satisfy the board in any or all of these respects, the board may decline to admit said applicant to examination, or to issue license. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 2.)

Section Constitutional.—This section, providing that the board of licensing may require proof as to the business record of an applicant for photographer’s license does not set up an unconstitutional method of ascertaining the qualifications of an applicant, the “business record” not being of itself a test to be applied by the board, but being merely a suggested source which the board may consider in determining the applicant’s competency, ability and integrity. State v. Lawrence, 213 N. C. 674, 197 S. E. 586, 116 A. L. R. 1360.

¶ 92-12. Semi-annual examinations; separate certificate for two branches of photography.—The board shall provide a place and give a written, and/or an oral and/or a practical examination at least twice a year to all duly qualified applicants covering the two branches of photography, to-wit: Photography and photo-finishing. Separate certificates shall be provided for each branch. A certificate for one branch shall not permit the practicing in the other branch, although any photographer may hold certificates in both branches if qualified under this chapter. All applicants may take the examination in either or both branches and the examination fee as hereinafter set forth shall cover both branches if taken at the same time. (1935, c. 153, art. 4, s. 3.)

¶ 92-13. Application for license; examination fees; examination requirements. —Every person desiring to commence the practice of photography in this State shall file an application for a license with the board on a form prescribed by it. At the time of making such application the applicant shall deposit with the board an examination fee of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars: Provided, that the examination fees for persons engaged exclusively in the development, finishing, and/or enlarging of kodak pictures shall be in the sum of fifteen ($15.00) dollars. All applicants must appear for examination at the time and place designated by the board and shall present such references and credentials as the board may require. And shall give satisfactory evidence as to their competency and fitness to conduct the practice of photography based on their technical knowledge, their business record and their moral character. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 4.)

¶ 92-14. No fees refunded; fees for additional examinations.—No fee for examination shall in any case be refunded, but in case the applicant fails in the first examination he may take three subsequent examinations in the branches in which he failed and the fee for each such subsequent examination shall be ten ($10.00) dollars. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 5.)

¶ 92-15. Registration and licensing of successful applicants.—Every applicant successfully passing such examination shall be registered in the records of the board as a qualified photographer in the branch or branches in which he has been successful, and shall receive a license signed by the chairman and secretary of said board authorizing the applicant to practice photography in the branch or branches in which he has been successful in this State. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 6.)

¶ 92-16. Requirements for students or apprentices.—Every person desiring to commence the study of photography in this State for the purpose of practicing photography shall file a certificate signed by a duly licensed photographer that the said person has started to study photography with the said licensed photographer and that said student or apprentice commenced his studies or work prior to the date of the certificate, and such other information as the board may require. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 7.)

¶ 92-17. Licenses not transferable.—No license shall be transferable, nor shall it be issued to any person, firm or corporation, designed to operate under an assumed or fictitious name. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 8.)

¶ 92-18. Licensing without examination of photographers now practicing; license fee. —The board shall, upon application, issue a license to every photographer who has been continuously engaged in the practice of photography and/or photo-finishing in this State for one year next preceding the passage of this chapter, without examination. All applications for license under this section shall be accompanied by a fee of five ($5.00) dollars, in addition to the annual license fee hereinafter prescribed, and such application must be made within thirty days after notification from the board. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 9.)

¶ 92-19. Annual license fees for business establishments and employees.—All licensees who maintain an established place for the practice of photography and/or photo-finishing in the State of North Carolina, or who are not employees of an established place for the practice of photography and/or photo-finishing in the State of North Carolina, shall pay an annual license fee of five ($5.00) dollars. All licensees who are employees of an established place in the State of North Carolina for the practice of photography and/or photo-finishing shall pay an annual license fee of three ($3.00) dollars. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 10.)

Cross References.—As to state-wide privilege tax for photographers, see § 105-41. As to requirement of bond by photographers who sell certain coupons redeemable for photographs, see § 166-62.

Not Interference with Interstate Commerce.—It was contended that the taxes under this section and § 105-41 were a burden upon and an interference with interstate commerce and therefore void. The court held that the fact that the negatives of photographs, after the taking, were sent to another state to be finished, does not make the transaction one of interstate commerce. Lucas v. Charlotte, 86 F. (2d) 394, 396.

¶ 92-20. Conduct of business unless registered prohibited.—No person, firm or corporation shall sell, offer for sale, or solicit orders for any product of photography unless duly registered under the terms of this chapter, or employed by a person, firm or corporation duly registered under the terms of this chapter. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 11.)

powers conferred by various fees.—All annual license fees prescribed by this chapter shall be paid to the board on or before the first day of July of each year. The board shall issue its receipt for every payment. The annual establishment fee of five ($5.00) dollars shall entitle the licensee, if otherwise qualified, to practice photography and photo-finishing. The annual employees’ fee of three ($3.00) dollars shall entitle the licensee, if otherwise qualified, to practice photography and photo-finishing, but only for and on behalf of a duly registered photographer or photo-finisher. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 13.)

§ 92-23. Revocation of license; reinstatement. —Should any licensee fail or neglect to pay his annual license on or before the first day of July of every year, the board shall notify him that his license will be revoked and unless said fee is paid in full on or before the first day of August of the same year, the board shall revoke said license.

(a) Any photographer and/or photo-finisher whose license has been revoked for failure to pay the annual license fee may make application to the board for reinstatement. Such application shall be accompanied by a fee of five ($5.00) dollars, in addition to the regular license fee required. If the board shall find the applicant to be guilty of no violation of this chapter other than default in payment of annual license fees he may be immediately reinstated.

(b) The board shall have the power to revoke any license granted by it to any photographer and/or photo-finisher or apprentice found by the board to be guilty of fraud or unethical practices or of wilful misrepresentation, or found guilty under the laws of the State of North Carolina of any crime involving moral turpitude.

(c) Before any license is revoked, except for failure to pay the annual license fee, the holder thereof shall be given notice, in writing, either personally or by mailing by registered mail to his last known address, setting forth the charges against him and the time and place for a hearing to be had on such charges, which such charges must be filed in writing under oath with said board, and the said hearing shall be not less than thirty days from the time of the service of the said notice. The person charged shall be given a public hearing at which he may be represented by counsel and he shall have an opportunity to enter a defense and produce witnesses on his behalf. The board on such hearing shall provide a competent stenographer for the purpose of taking a complete record of such hearing, which record shall be filed with the board.

(d) If at such hearing of the accused the board shall be satisfied that the accused has been guilty of the offense charged it shall thereupon, without further notice, revoke the license of the person so accused: Provided, the accused shall not be barred the right of appeal to the superior courts. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 14; 1939, c. 218, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see chapter 150. As to prevention of certain fraudulent practices by photographers, see §§ 66-59 to 66-64.

§ 92-24. Violation of chapter a misdemeanor; separate offenses; disposition of fines and forfeitures.—Any person violating any of the provisions of this chapter, or engaging in any of the activities or practices herein defined without being duly licensed as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined the sum of not less than fifty ($50.00) dollars, nor more than two hundred ($200.00) dollars for the first offense, and shall be imprisoned not more than thirty days, and/or fined not exceeding two hundred ($200.00) dollars for any subsequent offense. Each and every violation hereof shall constitute a separate offense: Provided, all fines paid for violations of this chapter or bail forfeiture collected for appearances given by virtue of any process issued pursuant to the courts of this state shall be paid one-half to the treasurer of the county where such process was issued for the general fund of such county and one-half to the state treasurer to be by him deposited to the credit of the general funds of the State. (1935, c. 155, art. 5.)

§ 92-25. Application and examination of non-residents.—All non-resident photographers and/or photo-finishers, desiring to do business in this State, shall apply to the board for examination at least thirty days prior to the next examination and obtain license before entering into said business, and no person, firm or corporation shall represent or in any way solicit or accept business for such non-resident photographers and/or photo-finishers, unless and until they have complied with the provisions of this chapter. (1935, c. 155, art. 6.)

§ 92-26. Records of proceedings and moneys received.—The secretary-treasurer shall keep a record of the proceedings of the said board and shall receive and account for all moneys derived from the operation of this chapter. (1935, c. 155, art. 7, s. 1.)

§ 92-27. Expenses of administration.—All expenses of administering this chapter shall be paid upon order of the board from the funds derived from the examination, license fees and penalties herein prescribed, and, in no event, shall such expense exceed the income from said sources. (1935, c. 155, art. 7, s. 2.)

(a) Persons in the employ of or acting under contract to newspapers or periodical publications: Provided, that this exemption shall apply only with respect to negatives and photographs made for newspapers and publication: And provided further, that such negatives or photographs are not sold or offered for sale, or otherwise disposed of for profit to any purchaser or user other than newspapers, publications, press agencies or associations serving newspapers and publications. The provisions of this chapter shall not apply to press photographers with regard to the unsolicited sale of negatives and prints made on regular press assignments.

(b) Any person (not regularly engaged in an occupation in which his compensation depends, in whole or in part, upon his making of negatives or photographs) who makes negatives or photographs for his own pleasure and occasionally sells offers for sale a negative or photograph so Chapter 93. Public Accountants.

§ 93-1. “Public accounting” defined.—The term “Practice of Public Accounting” as used in this chapter is defined as follows:

A person engages in the practice of public accounting, within the meaning and intent of this chapter, who offers his or her services to the public as one who is qualified to render professional service in the analysis, verification and audit of financial records and the interpretation of such service through statements and reports. (1925, c. 261, s. 1; 1929, c. 219, s. 1.)

In Scott v. Gillis, 197 N. C. 223, 226, 148 S. E. 315, it was held that plaintiff and defendant were certified Public Accountants, citing this and the following sections.

§ 93-2. Qualifications. — Any citizen of the United States, or person who has duly declared his intention of becoming such citizen, over twenty one years of age and of good moral character, and who shall have received from the State Board of Accountancy a certificate of qualification admitting him to practice as a certified public accountant, or who is the holder of a valid and unrevoked certificate issued under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifty-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, shall be licensed to practice and be styled and known as a certified public accountant. (1925, c. 261, s. 4.)

Editor’s Note.—This section was reviewed in 3 N. C. Law Rev. 149.

§ 93-8. Use of title "public accountant" without qualification.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, copartnership, association or corporation, not having qualified under this chapter, to assume or use the style of title of public accountant in the State of North Carolina: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the practicing of the profession of public accounting by any person, firm, copartnership, association, or corporation who shall on March 10, 1925, be engaged in the practice of public accounting and maintaining an office as a public accountant in the State of North Carolina, or an accountant who has served two years or more as a civil service employee of the Federal government in the capacity of senior field auditor. (1925, c. 261, s. 7.)

§ 93-10. Cross References.—As to municipal accounting, see § 150-290. As to county accounting systems, see § 153-30.

§ 93-12. Board of accountancy; powers and duties.—The State Board of Accountancy shall consist of four persons to be appointed by the Governor, all of whom shall be the holders of valid and unrevoked certificates as certified public accountants heretofore issued under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifty-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, or issued under the provisions of this chapter. They shall hold office for the term of three years and until their successors are appointed: Provided, that no appointment to the board shall be made under the provisions of this chapter until the expiration of the terms of the members of the present board. The powers and duties of the board shall be as follows:

1. To elect from its members a president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer. The members of the board shall be paid, for the time actually expended in pursuance of the duties imposed upon them by this chapter, an amount not exceeding ten dollars ($10) per day, and they shall be entitled to necessary traveling expenses.

2. To employ legal counsel and clerical assistance and to fix the compensation of same, and to incur such other expenses as may be deemed necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this chapter.

3. To formulate rules for the government of the board and for the examination of applicants for certificates of qualifications admitting such applicants to practice as certified public accountants.

4. To hold written or oral examinations of applicants for certificates of qualification at least once a year, or oftener, as may be deemed necessary by the board.

5. To issue certificates of qualification admitting to practice as certified public accountants each applicant, who, being the graduate of an acc-cited high school or having an equivalent education, shall have had at least two years experience or its equivalent next preceding the date of his application on the field staff of a certified public accountant or public accountant, one of which shall have been as a senior or accountant in charge, and who shall receive the endorsement of three certified public accountants of any state as to his eligibility to become a certified public accountant; or who, in lieu of the two years experience or its equivalent, above mentioned, shall have had one year's experience after graduating from a recognized school of accountancy; or an accountant who has served two years or more as a civil service employee of the Federal government in the capacity of senior field auditor, and who shall have passed a satisfactory examination in "theory of accounts," "practical accounting," "auditing," "commercial law" and other related subjects.

(6) In its discretion to grant certificates of qualification admitting to practice as certified public accountants such applicants who shall be the holders of valid and unrevoked certificates as certified public accountants, or the equivalent, issued by or under the authority of any state, or territory of the United States or the District of Columbia; or who shall hold valid and unrevoked certificates or degrees as certified public accountants, or the equivalent, issued under authority granted by a foreign nation; when in the judgment of the board the requirements for the issuing or granting of such certificates or degrees are substantially equivalent to the requirements established by this chapter: Provided, however, that such applicants signify their intention of engaging in the practice of public accounting within the State.

(7) To charge for each examination and certificate provided for in this chapter a fee of twenty-five dollars. This fee shall be payable to the secretary-treasurer of the board by the applicant at the time of filing application. If at any examination an applicant shall have received a passing grade in one subject, he shall have the privilege of one reexamination at any subsequent examination held within eighteen months from the date of his application upon payment of a reexamination fee of fifteen dollars. In no case shall the examination fee be refunded, unless in the discretion of the board the applicant shall be deemed ineligible for examination.

(8) To require the renewal of all certificates of qualification annually on the first day of July, and to charge and collect a fee not to exceed five dollars for such renewal.

(9) The board shall have the power to revoke any certificate issued under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifty-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, or issued under the provisions of this chapter, for good and sufficient cause: Provided, that written notice shall have been mailed to the holder of such certificate at his last known address thirty days before any hearing thereof, stating the cause of such contemplated action, and appointing a time for a hearing thereon by the board, and provided further, that no certificate shall be revoked until such hearing shall have been had. At all such hearings the Attorney General of the State, or one of his assistants designated by him, shall sit with the board with all the powers of a member thereof.

(10) Within sixty days after March 10, 1925, the board shall formulate rules for the registration of those persons, firms, copartnerships, associations or corporations who, not being holders of valid and unrevoked certificates as certified public accountants issued under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifty-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, and who, having on March 10, 1925, been engaged in the practice of public accounting and maintaining an office as a public accountant in the State of North Carolina, shall, under the provisions of § 93-7 apply to the board for registration as public accountants. The board shall maintain a register of all persons, firms, copartnerships, associations or corporations who have made application for such registration and have complied with the rules of registration adopted by the board.

(11) Within sixty days after March 10, 1925, the board shall formulate rules for registration of these public accountants who are qualified to practice under this chapter and who under the provisions of § 93-10 are permitted to engage in work within the State of North Carolina. The board shall have the power to deny or withdraw the privilege herein referred to for good and sufficient reasons.

(12) To submit to the Commissioner of Revenue the names of all persons who have qualified under this chapter as practitioners of public accountancy, and who have complied with the rules of the board. The Commissioner of Revenue shall issue only to those whose names are so submitted to him by the board a license for the privilege of practicing the profession of public accountancy, and the license so issued shall be evidence of his registration with the board.

(13) The board shall keep a complete record of all its proceedings and shall annually submit a full report to the Governor.

(14) All fees collected on behalf of the State Board of Accountancy, and all receipts of every kind and nature, as well as the compensation paid the members of the board and the necessary expenses incurred by them in the performance of the duties imposed upon them by this chapter, shall be reported annually to the State Treasurer. Any surplus remaining in the hands of the board over the amount of three hundred dollars shall be paid to the State Treasurer at the time of submitting the report, and shall go to the credit of the general fund: Provided, that no expense incurred under this chapter shall be charged against the State.

(15) Any certificate of qualification issued under the provisions of this chapter or issued under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifty-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, shall be forfeited for the failure of the holder to renew same and to pay the renewal fee therefor to the State Board of Accountancy within thirty days after demand for such renewal fee shall have been made by the State Board of Accountancy. (1925, c. 261, s. 11; 1939, c. 218, s. 1.) Cross References.—As to uniform revocation of licenses, see chapter 150. As to privilege tax, see § 105-41.

Editor's Note.—Chapter 157, Public Laws of 1913, codified as C. S. 7008 to 7024, was expressly repealed by the Public Laws of 1925, c. 361. However, as many of the provisions of the old act were reenacted by the repealing act and will be found in this chapter, the constructions of the 1913 act are here inserted.

In General.—The provisions of the act creating and incorporating the State Board of Accountancy, confer upon its members continuous quasi-judicial powers as an arm of the State Government in which the people of the State are interested, both as to their administration and to a certain extent in the funds of the board, the compensation of members being paid by fees fixed by law, any surplus to be deposited in the State Treasury, and in these, and in other respects, its members are to be regarded as State officials to the extent of their duties specified in the statute. State v. Scott, 182 N. C. 865, 109 S. E. 789.

Exercise of Police Power.—Our statutes creating a State Board of Accountancy and giving them authority to pass upon applications and issue licenses to those qualified as public accountants are within the exercise of the police powers of the State, in which the public, as well as one to whom a certificate has been issued, is interested; and the State is also interested in the requirement that moneys collected and not necessary to the purposes of the act be turned into the State Treasury. State v. Scott, 182 N. C. 865, 109 S. E. 789.

When License Not Required.—Section 7023 of the Consolidated Statutes does not embrace within its terms an isolated instance of the employment of a firm of certified public accountants licensed in another state, who send their representative to this state to acquire information from the books of a corporation for a statement of its condition to be made out in the state in which the auditing concern is authorized to do business. Respass v. Rex Spinning Co., 191 N. C. 809, 133 S. E. 391.

Holding Examination Beyond State Boundaries.—The exercise of the powers of the State Board of Accountancy, the members of which are to be regarded as State officials, is coextensive with the State boundaries, and may not be exercised beyond them, the word jurisdiction embracing not only the subject-matter coming within the powers of officials, but also the territory within which the powers are to be exercised. State v. Scott, 182 N. C. 865, 109 S. E. 789.

The legislative intent will not be construed by implication to extend the exercise of a quasi-judicial power by public officers to places beyond the State boundaries, as where the statute creates a State Board of Accountancy, gives it the power to examine and license applicants, and states that the board may do so "at such place as it may designate;" for the presumption being against the exercise of such extra territorial power, the discretion of the board in the exercise of this power will be confined to places within the boundaries of this State. State v. Scott, 182 N. C. 865, 109 S. E. 789.

Where a statute prescribes the means for the exercise of a power granted by the act, no other or different means can be implied as being more effective or convenient, and the Legislature having incorporated a State Board of Public Accountancy, giving it the power to determine upon examination whether applicants for licenses therein are qualified to receive them, it is for the courts of the State, upon proper action, to pass upon the question of whether the board acts ultra vires in holding an examination beyond the boundaries of the State upon the request of non-resident desiring to obtain a certificate, and a declaration in the fixing of such place that it would be the last time the board would hold an examination outside the State is not binding or controlling on the question. State v. Scott, 182 N. C. 865, 109 S. E. 789.

§ 93-13. Violation of chapter; penalty.—Any violation of the provisions of this chapter shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof the guilty party shall be fined not less than fifty dollars and not exceeding two hundred dollars for each offense. (1925, c. 261, s. 11.)

The apprenticeship council shall meet at the call of the commissioner of labor and shall aid him in formulating policies for the effective administration of this chapter. Subject to the approval of the commissioner, the apprenticeship council shall establish standards for apprentice agreement which in no case shall be lower than those prescribed by this chapter, shall issue such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the intent and purposes of said chapter, and shall perform such other functions as the commissioner may direct. Not less than once a year the apprenticeship council shall make a report through the commissioner of labor of its activities and findings to the legislature and to the public. (1939, c. 229, s. 2.)

§ 94-3. Director of apprenticeship.—The commissioner of labor is hereby directed to appoint a director of apprenticeship which appointment shall be subject to the confirmation of the state apprenticeship council by a majority vote. The commissioner of labor is further authorized to appoint and employ such clerical, technical, and professional help as shall be necessary to effectuate the purposes of this chapter. (1939, c. 229, s. 3.)

§ 94-4. Powers and duties of director of apprenticeship.—The director, under the supervision of the commissioner of labor and with the advice and guidance of the apprenticeship council is authorized to administer the provisions of this chapter; in cooperation with the apprenticeship council and local and state joint apprenticeship committees, to set up conditions and training standards for apprentice agreements, which conditions or standards shall in no case be lower than those prescribed by this chapter; to act as secretary of the apprenticeship council and of each state joint apprenticeship committee; to approve for the council if in his opinion approval is for the best interest of the apprentice, any apprentice agreement which meets the standards established under this chapter; to terminate or cancel any apprentice agreement in accordance with the provisions of such agreement; to keep a record of apprentice agreements and their disposition; to issue certificates of completion of apprenticeship; and to perform such other duties as are necessary to carry out the intent of this chapter: Provided, that the administration and supervision of related and supplemental instruction for apprentices, coordination of instruction with job experiences, and the selection and training of teachers and coordinators for such instruction shall be the responsibility of state and local boards responsible for vocational education. § 94-5. Local and state joint apprenticeship committees.—A local joint apprenticeship committee may be appointed, in any trade or group of trades in a city or trade area, by the apprenticeship council, whenever the apprentice training needs of such trade or group of trades justifies such establishment: Provided, that when a state joint apprenticeship committee in any trade or group of trades shall have been established, as hereinafter authorized, such state committee shall thereafter have the power of appointment of local joint apprenticeship committees in the trade or group of trades which it represents. Such local joint apprenticeship committee shall be composed of an equal number of employer and employee representatives chosen from names submitted by the respective local employer and employee organizations, and in such trade or group of trades. In a trade or group of trades in which there is no bona fide local employer or employee organization, the committee shall be appointed from persons known to represent the interests of employers and of employees respectively. The function of a local joint apprenticeship committee shall be: To cooperate with school authorities in regard to the education of apprentices; in accordance with the standards set up by the apprenticeship committee for the same trade or group of trades, where such committee has been appointed, to work in an advisory capacity with employers and employees in matters regarding schedule of operations, application of wage rates, and working conditions for apprentices and to specify the number of apprentices which shall be employed locally in the trade under apprentice agreements under the chapter; and to adjust apprenticeship disputes, subject to the approval of the director. The members of a state joint apprenticeship committee shall be reimbursed for transportation expenses which shall receive such per diem compensation as is provided generally for boards and commissions under the biennial Maintenance Appropriation Acts for each day spent in attendance at meetings of the committee. (1939, c. 229, s. 5.)

The required hours for apprenticeship agreements may vary in accordance with standards adopted by local or state joint apprenticeship committees, subject to approval of the state apprenticeship council and commissioner of labor. The council at the request of a joint apprentice committee may lengthen the period of probation.

§ 94-11. Limitation.—Nothing in this chapter or in any apprentice agreement approved under this chapter shall operate to invalidate any apprenticeship provision in any collective agreement between employers and employees, setting up higher apprenticeship standards. (1939, c. 229, s. 11.)

as the Commissioner of Labor. (Rev., s. 3309; 1919, c. 314, s. 4; 1931, c. 312, s. 1; C. S. 7309.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 312, effected a reorganization of the Department of Labor and Printing, henceforth to be known as the Department of Labor. Sec. 17 of the act provided: "This act shall be in force and effect from and after April first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one. Until this date the provisions of this act shall continue to be in force and effect until June thirtieth in order to complete the year's program of inspections, use printed material and complete statistical studies, but the Executive Secretary, the Commissioner of Labor, with the approval of the Governor, shall proceed to complete plans for reorganization of Department of Labor to be made effective promptly July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one."

In 9 N. C. Law Rev. 413, 414, it is said: "There are some slight omissions or lack of concur between the plan of reorganization. In the first place, the writer is of the opinion that the Commissioner of Labor should be appointed by the Governor rather than elected by popular vote. This office calls for an expert, and there is little reason to think that the person who is likely to be elected will possess the necessary qualifications. Secondly, there is complete absence of advisory boards to confer with and advise the Commissioner or heads of any of the several divisions. There seems little justification for burdening the Division of Standards and Inspections with the duty of collecting information concerning conditions in water-power, agriculture, dairying, etc. To be sure, these matters are important, and have a bearing, directly or indirectly, on the welfare of the working classes of the State. But so does almost any other aspect of economic activity that could be mentioned. Such inquiry properly belongs to other departments, and should not be required of a department that is going to have its hands full with matters with which it should properly concern itself. The practice of making the labor department a catch-all for all sorts of duties which other departments should, but do not, have is one that is altogether too common, and one that is not conducive to effective administration. Finally, the absence of machinery by which the settlement of industrial disputes is a matter of some importance. Even some of the recent experiences in Gastonia, Marion, and elsewhere within the State it is almost incomprehensible. While the presence of such machinery by no means guarantees that disputes will be settled promptly and effectively, or at all, for that matter, the experience of other states which have such machinery, with competent men administering it, would seem to fully warrant its establishment. This omission, together with the other duties imposed upon the Division of Statistics and Inspections which are somewhat foreign to its primary purpose, seem to the writer the most serious defects in the plan of reorganization which, in most other respects is fairly satisfactory."

§ 95-2. Election of commissioner; term; salary; vacancy.—The commissioner of labor shall be elected by the people in the same manner as is provided for the election of the secretary of state. His term of office shall be four years, and he shall receive a salary of six thousand and six hundred dollars ($6600.00) per annum. Any vacancy in the office shall be filled by the governor, until the next general election. The office of the department of labor shall be kept in the city of Raleigh and shall be provided for as are other public offices of the state. (Rev., ss. 3909, 3910; 1919, c. 314, s. 4; 1931, c. 312, s. 2; 1935, c. 293, s. 2; 1933, c. 415; 1939, c. 349; 1943, c. 499, s. 2; C. S. 7310.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 amended this section by adding the provision omitted by the previous version, and providing an annual salary of six thousand dollars. (Rev., ss. 3909, 3910; 1919, c. 314, s. 4; 1931, c. 312, s. 2; 1935, c. 293, s. 2; 1933, c. 415; 1939, c. 349; 1943, c. 499, s. 2; C. S. 7310.)

§ 95-3. Divisions of department; commissioner; administrative officers.—The Department of Labor shall consist of the following offices, divisions and sections:

A Commissioner of Labor.

A Division of Workmen's Compensation, as a separate and distinct unit, the officers of the Industrial Commission or the Division of Workmen's Compensation acting separately and independently of the other officers, divisions and sections herein provided for.

A Division of Standards and Inspections.

A Division of Statistics.

Each division, except the Division of Workmen's Compensation, shall be in the charge of a chief administrative officer and shall be organized under such rules and regulations as the Commissioner of Labor and the head of the division concerned, with the approval of the Governor, shall prescribe and promulgate. The Commissioner of Labor, with the approval of the Governor, may make provision for one person to act as chief administrative officer of two or more divisions, when such is deemed advisable. The chief administrative officers of the several divisions, except the Industrial Commission, shall be appointed by the Commissioner of Labor with the approval of the Governor, and he shall fix their compensation, subject to the approval of the Budget Bureau. The Commissioner of Labor, with the approval of the Governor may combine or consolidate the activities of two or more of the divisions of the department except the Division of Workmen's Compensation, or provide for the setting up of other divisions when such action shall be deemed advisable for the more efficient and economical administration of the work and duties of the department. (1931, cc. 277, 313, s. 4; 1933, c. 46.)

§ 95-4. Authority, powers and duties of commissioner.—The commissioner of labor shall be the executive and administrative head of the department of labor. In addition to the other powers and duties conferred upon the commissioner of labor by this part, the said commissioner shall have authority and be charged with the duty:

(a) To appoint and assign to duty such clerks, stenographers, and other employees in the various divisions of the department, with approval of said director of division, as may be necessary to perform the work of the department, and fix their compensation, subject to the approval of the Budget Bureau. The commissioner of labor may assign or transfer stenographers, or clerks, from one division to another, or inspectors from one division to another, or combine the clerical force of two or more divisions, or require from one division assistance in the work of another division; he may consider necessary and advisable: Provided, however, the provisions of this subsection shall not apply to the industrial commission, or the division of workmen's compensation.

(b) To make such rules and regulations with reference to the work of the department and of the several divisions thereof as shall be necessary to properly carry out the duties imposed upon the said commissioner and the work of the department; such rules and regulations to be made subject to the approval of the governor.
§ 95-5. Annual report to Governor; recommendation as to legislation needed. — The commissioner of labor shall annually, on or before the first day of January, file with the governor a report covering the activities of the department, and the report so made on or before January first of the years in which the general assembly shall be in session shall be accompanied by recommendations of the commissioner with reference to such changes in the law applying to or affecting industrial and labor conditions as the commissioner may deem advisable. The report of the commissioner of labor shall be printed and distributed in such manner and form as the director of the budget shall authorize. (1931, c. 312, s. 7.)

§ 95-6. Statistical report to Governor; publication of information given by employers.—It shall be the duty of the commissioner of labor to collect in the manner herein provided for, and to assist, systematize, and present to the governor as a part of the report provided for in § 95-5, statistical details relating to all divisions of labor in the State, and particularly concerning the following: The extent of unemployment, the hours of labor, the number of employees and sex thereof, and the daily wages earned; the conditions with respect to labor in all manufacturing establishments, hotels, stores, and workshops; and the industrial, social, educational, moral, and sanitary conditions of the labor classes, in the productive industries of the State. Such statistical details shall include the names of firms, companies, or corporations, where the same are located, the kind of goods produced or manufactured, the period of operation of each year, the number of employees, male or female, the number engaged in clerical work and the number engaged in manual labor, with the classification of the number of each sex engaged in such occupation and the average daily wage paid each: Provided, that the commissioner shall not, nor shall anyone connected with his office, publish or give or permit to be published or given to any person the individual statistics obtained from any employer, and all such statistics, when published, shall be published in connection with other similar statistics and be set forth in aggregates and averages. (1931, c. 312, s. 8.)

§ 95-7. Power of commissioner to compel the giving of such information; refusal as contempt. —The commissioner of labor, or his authorized representative, for the purpose of securing the statistical details referred to in § 95-6, shall have power to examine witnesses on oath, to compel the attendance of witnesses and the giving of such testimony and production of such papers as shall be necessary to enable him to gain the necessary information. Upon the refusal of any witness to comply with the requirements of the commissioner of labor or his representative in this respect, it shall be the duty of any judge of the superior court, upon the application of the commissioner of labor, or his representative, to order the witness to show cause why he should not comply with the requirements of the said commissioner, or his representative, if in the discretion of the judge such requirement is reasonable and proper. Refusal to comply with the order of the judge of the superior court shall be dealt with as for contempt of court. (1931, c. 312, s. 9.)

§ 95-8. Upon the refusal of any firm or corporation to comply with the provisions of this section, it shall be the duty of any judge of the superior court, upon application by the commissioner or by any representative of the department authorized by him, to order the person, firm, or corporation to show

The powers, duties, and personnel of the said industrial commission shall continue as provided for in the workmen's compensation act: Provided, however, that such adjustments shall be made in connection with the statistical work and the work of inspection of said industrial commission and the statistical work and work of inspection of other divisions of the department of labor as the commissioner of labor, with the advice of the industrial commission and of the heads of the divisions directly concerned, may, with the approval of the Governor, prescribe, for the purpose of facilitating, expediting, and improving the work of the department as a whole. (1931, c. 319, s. 11.)

§ 95-11. Division of Standards and Inspection.—(a) The chief administrative officer of the Division of Standards and Inspection shall be known as the director of the division. The Director shall also perform the duties of mine inspector as prescribed in the chapter on Mines and Quarries. (e) The Division shall conduct such research and carry out such studies as will contribute to the health, safety, and general well-being of the working classes of the State. The finding of such investigations, with the approval of the Commissioner of Labor and the Governor and the cooperation of the chief administrative officer of the Division or Divisions directly concerned, shall be promulgated as rules and regulations governing work places and working conditions. All recommendations and suggestions pertaining to health, safety, and well-being of employees shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Labor in an annual report which shall cover the work of the Division of Standards and Inspection. (f) The Division shall make, promulgate and enforce rules and regulations for the protection of employees from accident and from occupational disease; and shall upon request, and after such investigation as it deems proper, issue certificates of compliance to such employers as are found by it to be in compliance with the rules and regulations made and promulgated in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph. Editor's Note.—Subsection (f) was added by the 1935 amendment.

§ 95-13. Enforcement of rules and regulations.—In the event any person, firm or corporation shall, after notice by the commissioner of labor, violate any of the rules or regulations promulgated under the authority of this article or any laws amendatory hereof relating to safety devices, or measures, the attorney general of the State, upon the request of the commissioner of labor, may take appropriate action in the civil courts of the state to enforce such rules and regulations. Upon request of the attorney general, any solicitor of the state of North Carolina in whose district such rule or regulation is violated may perform the duties hereinafore required of the attorney general. (1939, c. 398.)

§ 95-14. Agreements with certain federal agencies for enforcement of Fair Labor Standards Act.—The North Carolina state department of labor may and it is hereby authorized to enter into agreements with the wage and hour division, and the children's bureau, United States department of labor, for assistance and cooperation in the enforcement within this state of the act of Congress known as the Fair Labor Standards Act of one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight, approved June twenty-fifth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight, and is further authorized to accept payment and/or reimbursement for its services as provided by said act of Congress. Any such agreement may be subject to the regulations of the administrator of the wage and hour division, or the chief of the children's bureau of the United States department of labor, as the case may be, and shall be subject to the approval of the director of the state budget. Nothing in this section shall be construed as authorizing the state department of labor to spend in excess of its appropriation from state funds, except to the extent that such excess may be paid and/or reimbursed to it by the United States department of labor. All payments received by the state department of labor under this section shall be deposited in the state treasury and are hereby appropriated to the state department of labor to enable it to carry out the agreements entered into under this section. (1939, c. 245.)

Art. 2. Maximum Working Hours.

§ 95-16. Declaration of public policy; enactment under police power.—As a guide to interpretation and application of this article, the public policy of this state is declared as follows: The relationship of hours of labor to the health, morals and general welfare of the people is a subject of general concern which requires appropriate legislation to limit hours of labor to promote the general welfare of the people of the state without jeopardizing the competitive position of North Carolina business and industry.

The general assembly, therefore, declares that in its considered judgment the general welfare of the state requires enactment of this law under the police power of the state. (1937, c. 409, s. 2.)

§ 95-17. Limitations of hours of employment; exceptions.—No employer shall employ a female person for more than forty-eight hours in any one week or nine hours in any one day, or on more than six days in any period of seven consecutive days.

No employer shall employ a male person for more than fifty-six hours in any one week, or more than twelve days in any period of fourteen consecutive days or more than ten hours in any one day, except that in case where two or more shifts of eight hours each or less per day are employed, any shift employee may be employed not to exceed double his regular shift hours in any one day whenever a fellow employee in like work is prevented from working because of illness or other cause: Provided, that any male person employed working in excess of fifty-five hours in any one week shall be paid time and a half at their regular rate of pay for such excess hours: Provided further, that nothing in this section or in any other provision of this article shall apply to the state or to municipal corporations or their employees, or to employees in hotels.

When, by reason of a seasonal rush of business, any employer finds or believes it to be necessary that the employees of his or its manufacturing plant shall work for more than fifty-six hours per week, the employer may apply to the commissioner of labor of the state of North Carolina for permission to allow the employees of such establish lishment to work a greater number of hours than fifty-six for a definite length of time not exceeding sixty days; and such commissioner, after investigation, may, in his discretion, issue such permit on the condition that all such employees shall receive one and one-half times the usual compensation for all hours worked over fifty-six per week. Provided: This shall not apply to the hours of any female person or any person under the age of eighteen years: Provided further, employees in all laundries and dry cleaning establishments shall not be employed more than fifty-five hours in any one week: Provided further, nothing contained in this article shall be construed to limit the hours of employment of any outside salesmen on commission basis. Provided, that this article shall not apply to male clerks in mercantile establishments. Provided, that this article shall not apply to retail or wholesale florists nor to employees of retail or wholesale florists during the following periods of each year: one week prior to and including Easter, one week prior to and including Christmas, and one week prior to and including Mother's Day. (1937, cc. 406, 409, s. 3; 1939, c. 312, s. 1; 1943, c. 59.)

Cross Reference.—Compare sections 95-26 and 95-27.

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added the last proviso. The 1943 amendment substituted "fifty-six" for "fifty-five" in line two of the second paragraph and in lines four, nine and fourteen of the last paragraph. It also inserted the first proviso in the second paragraph.

Such time book and/or record shall be kept on file at least one year after the expiration of the time therein, or refuses to make such time book and/or record accessible, upon request, to the state commissioner of labor or his duly authorized representative shall be deemed to have violated this section. (1937, c. 409, s. 6.)

Art. 3. Various Regulations.

§ 95-26. Week's work of women to be fifty-five hours.—Not more than fifty-five hours shall constitute a week's work for women over sixteen in any laundry, dry-cleaning establishment, pressing club, work-shop, factory, manufacturing establishment, or mill, of the State, and no woman over sixteen employed in any of the above-named places shall be worked exceeding eleven hours in any one day or over fifty-five hours in any one week. Any employer of labor violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, and each day's work exceeding the said hours shall constitute a separate offense.

Provided, that this section shall not apply to those employed in the operation of seasonal industries in their process of conditioning and of preserving perishable or semi-perishable commodities, or to those engaged in agricultural work.

Provided, further, that this section shall not apply to retail or wholesale florists during the following periods of each year: one week prior to and including Easter, one week prior to and including Christmas, and one week prior to and including Mother's Day. (1915, c. 149, s. 2; 1931, c. 289; 1935, c. 40; 1939, c. 290; 1935, c. 40; 1939, c. 132; 2; C. S. 6554.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 omitted a proviso, which formerly appeared in the second paragraph, stating that the section should not apply to establishments in towns of less than five thousand inhabitants.

§ 95-27. Hours of work for women in certain industries.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation, proprietor or owner of any retail, or wholesale mercantile establishment or other business where any female help is employed for the purpose of serving the public in the capacity of clerks, salesladies or waitresses and other employees of public eating places, to employ or permit to work any female longer than ten hours in any one day or over fifty-five hours in any one week; nor shall any female be employed or permitted to work for more than six hours continuously at any one time without an interval of at least half an hour except where the terms of employment do not call for more than six and a half hours in any one day or period.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to females whose full time is employed as bookkeepers, cashiers or office assistants or to any establishment that does not have in its employment three or more persons at any one time.

Every employer shall post in a conspicuous place in every room of the establishment in which females are employed a printed notice stating the provisions of this section and the hours of labor. The printed form of such notice shall be furnished, upon request, by the commissioner of labor.

Any employer of labor violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars or imprisoned not exceeding sixty days and each day's work exceeding the said hours shall constitute a separate offense. (1933, c. 35; 1935, c. 407.)

Cross Reference.—For hours law applicable to employers hiring nine or more employees, see §§ 95-15 to 95-25.

§ 95-28. Working hours of employees in state institutions.—It shall be unlawful for any person or official or foreman or other person in authority in the state hospital at Raleigh, the state hospital at Morganton, the state hospital at Goldsboro, or any penal or correctional institution of the State of North Carolina, excepting the state prison and institutions under the control of the state commission of highways and public works, to require any employee to work for a greater number of hours than twelve (12) during any twenty-four (24) hour period, or not more than eighty-four (84) hours during any one week, or permit the same, during which period the said employee shall be permitted to take one continuous hour off duty; except in case of an emergency as determined by the superintendent, in which case the limitation of twelve (12) hours in any consecutive twenty-four (24) shall not apply. Nothing in this section shall be construed to effect the hours of doctors and superintendents in these hospitals. Any violation of this section shall be a misdemeanor, punishable within the discretion of the court. (1935, c. 136.)

§ 95-29. Seats for women employees; failure to provide, a misdemeanor.—All persons, firms, or corporations who employ females in a store, shop, office, or manufacturing establishment, as clerks, operatives, or helpers in any business, trade, or occupation carried on or operated in the state of North Carolina, shall be required to procure and provide proper and suitable seats for all such females, and shall permit the use of such seats, rests, or stools as may be necessary, and shall not make any rules, regulations, or orders preventing the use of such seats, stools, or rests when any such female employee or employees are not actively employed or engaged in their work in such business or employment.

If any employer of female help fails to provide seats, as required in this article, or makes any rules, orders or regulations in his or its shop, store, or other place of business requiring females to remain standing when not necessarily employed or engaged in service or labor therein, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, within the discretion of the court. The Commissioner of Labor, or his duly authorized agents, may at any time enter and inspect all stores, shops, offices, or manufacturing or other establishments coming within the provisions of this section, and he may make such rules and regulations as he deems necessary to enforce the provisions of this section. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to refuse permission to enter, obstruct, or prevent any duly authorized agent of the commissioner in his effort to make the inspection herein provided for. (1909, c. 857, ss. 1, 2; 1919, c. 100, s. 12; C. S. 6555.)

§ 95-30. Medical chests in factories; failure to provide, a misdemeanor.—Every person, firm, or corporation operating a factory or shop employing over twenty-five laborers, in which machinery is used for any manufacturing purpose, or for any purpose except for elevation or for heating or hoisting apparatus, shall at all times keep and maintain free of expense to the employees a medical or surgical chest which shall contain two porcelain pans, two tourniquets, gauze, absorbent cotton, adhesive plasters, bandages, antiseptic soap, one bottle of carbolic acid with directions on bottle, one bottle antiseptic tablets, one pair scissors, one folding stretcher, for the treatment of persons injured or taken ill upon the premises. Provided, this section does not require any employer to spend over ten dollars for such equipment.

Any person, firm, or corporation violating this section shall be subject to a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars for every week during which such violation continues. (1911, c. 57; C. S. 6556.)

§ 95-31. Acceptance by employer of assignment of wages.—No employer of labor shall be responsible for any assignment of wages to be earned in the future, executed by an employee, unless and until such assignment of wages is accepted by the employer in a written agreement to pay same. (1935, c. 410; 1937, c. 90.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment struck out the former proviso exempting Rowan, Iredell, Rockingham and Cabarrus counties from the provisions of this section.

Section Applies Only to Wages to Be Earned.—An assignment by an employee of wages earned and due him by the employer is valid without acceptance by the employer, and the assignee may sue the employer thereon, for the payment of wages. —No employer of labor shall be held guilty of the violation of this section unless and until such assignment of wages is accepted by the employer in a written agreement to pay same. (1935, c. 410; 1937, c. 90.)

It Is Constitutional.—The provisions of this section rendering an assignment invalid unless accepted in writing by the employer, does not deprive the assignee of due process of law or the equal protection of the laws. Morris v. Holshouser, 220 N. C. 293, 297, 17 S. E. (2d) 224, 226, 227, 137 A. L. R. 733.

When applied to contracts executed after its effective date this section cannot be held unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of contracts. Morris v. Holshouser, 220 N. C. 293, 17 S. E. (2d) 224, 226, 227, 137 A. L. R. 733.

This section is a regulation of contracts growing out of the relationship of employer and employee imposed for the general welfare and is a valid exercise of the police power of the state. Morris v. Holshouser, 220 N. C. 293, 17 S. E. (2d) 224, 226, 227, 137 A. L. R. 733.

The insertion of the word "assignee" into the contract to make it an assignment of unearned wages existed by his employee does not in itself constitute an unconstitutional discrimination, since in the absence of legisemployment agency within the meaning of this article shall include any business operated by any person, firm or corporation for profit and engaged in procuring employment for any person, firm or corporation in the State of North Carolina and making a charge on the employee or employer for the service. (1929, c. 178, s. 1.)

§ 95-38. License from Commissioner of Labor; investigation of applicant.—No person, firm or corporation shall engage in the business of operating any employment agency, as designated in § 95-37, in North Carolina without first making a written application to the Commissioner of Labor and being licensed by him as herein provided, to engage in such business. Upon receiving an application from such person, firm or corporation it shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Labor to make an investigation into the character and moral standing of the person, firm or corporation. If after such investigation, the Commissioner of Labor shall be satisfied that such person, firm or corporation is of such character and moral standing as to warrant the issuance of a license to engage in the business covered by this article, he shall issue a license to such person, firm or corporation as provided herein. (1929, c. 178, s. 2; 1931, c. 312, s. 3.)

§ 95-40. Investigation of records of agencies; hearing; rescission of licenses.—The Commissioner of Labor may investigate the books and records of any employment agency licensed under this article, and may rescind the license of the agency for cause if he finds that the agency is not complying with the terms and conditions of this article. No license shall be revoked until the Commissioner shall hold a hearing at the Court House of the County in which the licensee is doing business. The licensee shall be given ten days' notice to appear at the hearing and show cause why the license should not be revoked. At the hearing the result of the Commissioner's investigation shall be presented under oath, and the licensee may present evidence to show that the license should not be revoked. The licensee may appeal to the Superior Court within ten days after the Commissioner's decision. (1929, c. 178, s. 4; 1931, c. 312, s. 3.)

§ 95-42. Service of subpoenas and fees for, governed by general law.—The County Sheriffs and their respective deputies shall serve all subpoenas of the Commissioner of Labor, and shall receive the same fees as are now provided by law for like services, and each witness who appears in obedience to such subpoena shall receive for attendance the fees and mileage for witnesses in civil cases of courts of the County in which the hearing is held. (1929, c. 178, s. 6; 1931, c. 312, s. 3.)

§ 95-43. Production of books, papers and records.—The Superior Court shall, on the application of the Commissioner of Labor, his assistant or duly authorized deputy, enforce by proper proceedings the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production and examination of books, papers and records. (1929, c. 178, s. 7; 1931, c. 312, s. 3.)

§ 95-44. License fee to be paid into special fund.—The license fee, charged under the provisions of this article, shall be paid into a special fund of the Department of Labor, and the proceeds of such license fees shall be used for the purpose of the supervision and regulation of the employment agencies, including costs of investigations or hearings to revoke licenses and the necessary traveling expenses and other expenditures incurred in administering this article. (1929, c. 178, s. 8; 1931, c. 312, s. 3.)

§ 95-45. Violations.—Any person, firm or corporation conducting an employment agency in the State of North Carolina, in violation of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and if a person punishable by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment of not less than six months, or both; and if a corporation by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars and not more than one thousand dollars. (1929, c. 178, s. 9.)

§ 95-46. Government employment agencies unaffected.—This article shall not in any manner affect or apply to any employment agency operated by the State of North Carolina, the Government of the United States, or any City, County or Town, or any agency thereof. (1929, c. 178, s. 10.)

§ 95-47. License taxes placed upon agencies under Revenue Act, not affected.—This article shall not create any conflict with or affect any license tax placed upon such employment agencies by the General Revenue Act of North Carolina but instead shall be construed as supplementary thereto in exercising the police powers of the State. (1929, c. 178, s. 11.)

Art. 6. Separate Toilets for Sexes and Races.

§ 95-48. When separate toilets required; penalty.—All persons and corporations employing males and females in any manufacturing industry, or other business employing more than two males and females in towns and cities having a population of one thousand persons or more, and where such employees are required to do indoor work chiefly, shall provide and keep in a clean and comfortable condition separate and distinct toilet rooms for such employees, said toilets to be lettered and marked in a distinct manner, so as to furnish separate facilities for white males, white females, colored males and colored females: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to cases where toilet arrangements or facilities are furnished by said employer off the premises occupied by him. (1913, c. 83, s. 1; C. S. 6559.)

§ 95-50. Punishment for violation of article.—If any person, firm, or corporation refuses to comply with the provisions of this article, he or it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1935, c. 326, s. 1.)

§ 95-58. Effect of article on boilers installed prior to enactment.—This article shall not be construed as in any way preventing the use or sale of steam boilers in this State which shall have been installed or in use in this State prior to the taking effect of this article and which shall have been made to conform to the rules and regulations of the board of boiler rules governing existing in establishments as provided in § 95-66. (1935, c. 326, s. 4.)

§ 95-59. Commissioner of labor empowered to appoint chief inspector; qualifications; salary.—After the passage of this article and at any time thereafter that the office may become vacant, the commissioner of labor shall appoint, and may remove for cause when so appointed, a citizen of this State who shall have had at the time of such appointment not less than five years' practtical experience with steam boilers as a steam engineer, mechanical engineer, boilermaker or boiler inspector, or who has passed the same kind of examination as that prescribed for deputy or special inspectors in § 95-63, to be chief inspector for a term of two years or until his successor shall have been appointed, at an annual salary to be fixed by the commissioner of labor with the approval of the assistant director of the budget. (1935, c. 326, s. 5; 1943, c. 469.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1943 amendment the salary was fixed at $2,000.

§ 95-60. Certain boilers excepted.—This article shall not apply to boilers under federal control or to stationary boilers used by railroads which are inspected regularly by competent inspectors, or to boilers used solely for propelling motor road vehicles; or to boilers of steam fire engines brought into the state for temporary use in times of emergency to check conflagrations; or to portable boilers used for agricultural purposes only or for pumping or drilling in the open field for water, gas or coal, gold, t alc or other minerals and metals; or to steam heating boilers which carry pressures not exceeding fifteen pounds per square inch, built in accordance with the boiler code of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. (1935, c. 326, s. 6; 1937, c. 125, s. 1.)

Editor's Note. — Prior to the 1937 amendment this section excepted boilers used for heating purposes.

§ 95-61. Powers of commissioner of labor; creation of bureau of boiler inspection. — The commissioner of labor is hereby charged, directed and empowered:

(a) To set up in the division of standards and inspections of the department of labor, a bureau of boiler inspection to be supervised by the chief inspector provided for in § 95-59 and one or more deputy inspectors of boilers, who shall have passed the examination provided for in § 95-63, at a salary not to exceed the salary of a senior factory inspector, and such office help as may be necessary.

(b) To have free access for himself and his chief boiler inspector and deputies, during reasonable hours, to any premises in the State where a steam boiler is built or where a steam boiler or power plant apparatus is being installed or operated, for the purpose of ascertaining whether such boiler is built, installed and operated in accordance with the provisions of this article.

(c) To prosecute all violators of the provisions of this article.

(d) To issue, suspend and revoke inspection certificates allowing steam boilers to be operated, as provided in this article.

(e) To enforce the laws of the State governing the use of steam boilers and to enforce the rules and regulations of the board of boiler rules.

(f) To keep a complete record of the type, dimensions, age, condition, pressure allowed upon, pressure and temperature to which such boiler is subjected, and its location and date of the last inspection of all steam boilers to which this article applies.

(g) To publish and distribute among boiler manufacturers and others requesting them, copies of the rules and regulations adopted by the board of boiler rules. (1935, c. 326, s. 7.)

§ 95-62. Provision for special inspectors; examination required. — In addition to the deputy boiler inspectors authorized by § 95-61, the commissioner of labor shall, upon the request of any company authorized to insure against loss from explosion of boilers in this State, issue to any boiler inspectors of said company commissions as special inspectors: Provided, that each such inspector before receiving his commission shall pass satisfactorily the examination provided for in § 95-63, or, in lieu of such examination, shall hold a certificate of competency as an inspector of steam boilers for a state that has a standard of examination equal to that of the State of North Carolina, or a certificate from the national board of boiler and pressure vessel inspectors. The fees for such commission shall be one dollar ($1.00) and one dollar ($1.00) for each annual renewal thereof.

Such special inspectors shall receive no salary from, nor shall any of their expenses be paid by, the State, and the continuance of a special inspector's commission shall be conditioned upon his continuing in the employment of a boiler inspector and insurance company duly authorized as aforesaid and upon his maintenance of the standards imposed by this article. Such special inspectors shall inspect all steam boilers insured by their respective companies, and the owners of such insured boilers shall be exempt from the payment of the fees provided for in § 95-68. Each company employing such special inspectors shall, within thirty days following each annual internal inspection made by such inspectors, file a report of such inspection with the commissioner of labor. (1935, c. 326, s. 8.)

§ 95-63. Examination for inspectors; revocation of commission.—Examination for deputy or special inspectors shall be given by the board of boiler rules or by at least two examiners to be appointed by said board and must be written or part written and part oral recorded in writing and must be confined to questions the answers to which will aid in determining the fitness and competency of the applicant for the intended service and must be of uniform grade throughout the State. In case an applicant for an inspector's appointment or commission fails to pass this examination, he may appeal to the board of boiler rules for a second examination which shall be given by said board, or if by examiners appointed by said board, then by examiners other than those by whom the first examination was given and these examiners shall be appointed forthwith to give said second examination. Upon the result of this examination on appeal, the board shall determine whether the applicant be qualified. The record of any applicant's examination, whether original or on appeal, shall be accessible to him and his employer. A commission may be revoked by the commissioner of labor upon the recommendation of the chief inspector of steam boilers, for the incompetence or untrustworthiness of the holder thereof or for willful falsification of any matter or statement contained in his application or in a report of any inspection. A person whose commission is revoked may appeal from the revocation to the board of boiler rules which shall hear the appeal and either set aside or affirm the revocation and its decision shall be final. The person whose commission has been revoked shall be entitled to be present in person and by counsel on the hearing of the appeal. If a certificate or commission is lost or destroyed, a new certificate or commission shall be issued in its place without another examination. A person who has failed to pass the examination for a commission or whose commission has been revoked shall be entitled to apply for a new examination and com-mision after ninety days from such failure or revocation. (1935, c. 326, s. 9.) § 95-64. Boiler inspections; fee; certificate; suspension.—On and after April first, nineteen hundred and thirty-five, each steam boiler used or proposed to be used within this State, except boilers exempt under § 95-60, shall be thoroughly inspected internally and externally while not under pressure by the chief inspector or by one of the deputy inspectors or special inspectors provided for herein, as to its design, construction, installation, condition and operation; and if it shall be found to be suitable, and to conform to the rules and regulations of the board of boiler rules, the owner or user of a steam boiler as required in this article to be inspected shall pay to the chief inspector the sum of one dollar ($1.00) for each fire tube boiler as required by this article.
The chief inspector shall issue to the owner or user thereof an inspection certificate specifying the maximum pressure which it may be allowed to carry. Such inspection certificate shall be valid for not more than fourteen months from its date, and it shall be posted under glass in the engine or boiler room containing such boiler, or an engine operated by it, or, in the case of a portable boiler, in the ofifice of the plant where it is located for the time being. No inspection certificate issued for a boiler inspected by a special inspector shall be being. No inspection certificate issued for a boiler shall cease to be insured by a duly authorized insurance company. The chief inspector or any deputy inspector may, at any time, suspend an inspection certificate when, in his opinion, the boiler for which it was issued may not continue to be operated without menace to the public safety, or when the boiler is found not to comply with the rules herein provided for and a special inspector shall have corresponding powers with respect to inspection certificates for boilers insured by the company employing him.
Such suspension of an inspection certificate shall continue in effect until said boiler shall have been made to conform to the rules and regulations of the board of boiler rules and until said inspection certificate shall have been reinstated by a state inspector, if the inspection certificate was suspected by a state inspector, or by a special inspector, if it was suspended by a special inspector. Not more than fourteen months shall elapse between such inspections and there shall be at least four such inspections in thirty-seven consecutive months. Each such boiler shall also be inspected externally while under pressure with at least the same frequency, and at no greater intervals. (1935, c. 326, s. 10; 1937, c. 125, s. 2; 1939, c. 361, s. 1.)
Editor's Note.—The 1997 amendment, which struck out the first provision in the first sentence, was repealed by the 1999 amendment.
§ 95-65. Operation of unapproved boiler prohibited.—On and after July first, nineteen hundred and thirty-five, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, partnership or corporation to operate under pressure in this State a steam boiler to which this article applies without a valid inspection certificate as provided for in this article. The operation of a steam boiler without an inspection certificate, shall constitute a mis-deemeanor on the part of the owner, user or operator thereof and be punishable by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100) or imprisonment not to exceed thirty days, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1935, c. 326, s. 11.)
§ 95-66. Installation of boilers not conforming to requirements prohibited; boilers now in use to conform.—No steam boiler which does not conform to the rules and regulations formulated by the board of boiler rules governing new installations shall be installed in this State after six months from the date upon which the said rules and regulations shall become effective by the approval of the governor.
All steam boilers installed and ready for use, or being used, before the said six months shall have elapsed, shall be made to conform to the rules and regulations of the board of boiler rules governing existing installations and the foruma therein prescribed shall be used in determining the maximum allowable working pressure for such boilers. (1935, c. 326, s. 12.)
§ 95-67. Inspection of boilers during construction in state; outside state.—All boilers to be installed after six months from the date upon which the rules and regulations of the board of boiler rules shall become effective by the approval of the governor shall be inspected during construction by an inspector authorized to inspect boilers in this State, or if constructed outside the State, by an inspector holding a certificate of authority from the commissioner of labor of this State, which certificate shall be issued by the said commissioner of labor to any inspector who holds a certificate of authority to inspect steam boilers issued by a State which shall have adopted boiler rules that require standards of construction and operation substantially equal to those of this State, or an inspector who holds a certificate of inspection issued by the national board of boiler and pressure vessel inspectors.
(1935, c. 326, s. 12.)
§ 95-68. Fees for internal and external inspections.—The owner or user of a steam boiler, required by this article to be inspected by the chief boiler inspector or a deputy inspector, shall pay to the inspector six ($6.00) dollars for each fire tube boiler over thirty inches in diameter internally inspected and four ($4.00) dollars for each fire tube boiler over thirty inches in diameter externally inspected while under pressure and shall pay to the inspector four ($4.00) dollars for each fire tube boiler up to and including thirty inches in diameter externally inspected while under pressure. All water tube boilers shall be charged six ($6.00) dollars for each internal inspection and four ($4.00) dollars for each external inspection while under pressure.

Not more than ten ($10.00) dollars shall be collected for any one fire tube boiler over thirty inches in diameter for any one year. Not more than seven ($7.00) dollars shall be collected for any one fire tube boiler up to and including thirty inches in diameter for any one year. Not more than ten ($10.00) dollars shall be collected for any water tube boiler for any one year: Provided, that one ($1.00) dollar of each internal inspection fee shall be the fee for the certificate of inspection required by § 95-64. The inspector shall give receipts for said fees and shall pay the same to the treasurer of the state. The treasurer of the state shall hold the fees collected under this section and under § 95-64 in a special account to pay the salaries and expenses incident to the administration of this article, the surplus, with the approval of the director of the budget, to be added to the appropriation of the division of standards and inspections of the department of labor for its general inspectional service. (1935, c. 326, s. 13; 1937, c. 125, s. 3; 1939, c. 361, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment struck out this section as amended and inserted the above in place thereof.

§ 95-69. Bonds of chief inspector and deputy inspectors.—The chief inspector shall furnish a bond in the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000), and each of the deputy inspectors shall furnish a bond in the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000), conditioned upon the faithful performance of their duties and upon a true account of moneys handled by them respectively, and the payment thereof to the proper recipient. The cost of said bonds shall be paid by the state treasurer out of the special fund provided for in § 95-68. (1935, c. 326, s. 14; 1937, c. 125, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1937 amendment this section excepted certain counties and ground sawmills.

§ 95-70. Creation.—There shall be created in the department of labor a division devoted to the deaf. (1923, c. 122, s. 1; 1931, c. 312, s. 3; C. S. 7312(j)).

§ 95-71. Appointment of chief of bureau; duties.—The commissioner of labor shall appoint a competent deaf man to take charge of such division, who shall devote his time to the special work of labor for the deaf under the supervision of the commissioner of labor, and who shall be designated chief of the bureau of labor for the deaf. He shall collect statistics of the deaf, ascertain what trades or occupations are most suitable for them and best adapted to promote their interest, and use his best efforts to aid them in securing such employment as they may be fitted to engage in. He shall study the methods in use in the education of the deaf as exemplified in the deaf themselves, with a view to determining their practicability and respective values in lifting them to become self-supporting, useful citizens and enabling them to obtain the greatest amount of happiness in life. He shall keep a census of the deaf and obtain facts, information and statistics as to their condition in life, with a view to the betterment of their lot. He shall endeavor to obtain statistics and information of the condition of labor and employment and education of the deaf in other states, with a view to promoting the general welfare of the deaf in this state. He shall make reports and recommendations from time to time as may be provided by law, and he shall also issue special reports or pamphlets as may be deemed necessary, giving results and information that may be helpful. (1923, c. 122, ss. 2, 3; 1931, c. 312, s. 3; C. S. 7312(k).)

§ 95-72. Assignment of other duties.—In case the duties herein enumerated should not occupy all of the time of such chief of the bureau of labor for the deaf, he shall perform such other duties in the department of labor as may be assigned him by the commissioner of labor. (1923, c. 122, s. 5; 1931, c. 312, s. 8; C. S. 7312(m.).)

§ 95-74. Resident not to abet collection out of state.—No person residing or sojourning in this state shall counsel, aid, or abet any violation of the provisions of § 95-73. (1909, c. 504, s. 2; C. S. 6569.)

CHAPTER 96. UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

Art. 1. Unemployment Compensation

Sec. 96-1. Title. — This chapter shall be known and may be cited as the "Unemployment Compensation Law." (Ex. Sess., 1936, c. 1, s. 2.)

Editor's Note. — For article discussing unemployment compensation, see 15 N. C. Law Rev. 377.

For article on the 1939 amendments to this chapter, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 415.

Weight to Be Given Federal Constructions. — Our state unemployment compensation act was passed pursuant to a plan national in scope, and therefore serious consideration is to be given to the construction placed upon similar language of the federal statute by the commissioner of internal revenue, but the interpretation of the act is finally for our courts, and neither the ruling of the commissioner nor that of the state unemployment compensation commission is conclusive. Unemployment Compensation Comm. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 215 N. C. 491, 2 S. E. (2d) 992.

§ 96-2. Declaration of state public policy. — As a guide to the interpretation and application of this chapter, the public policy of this state is declared to be as follows: Economic insecurity due to unemployment is a serious menace to the health, morals, and welfare of the people of this state. Involuntary unemployment is therefore a subject of general interest and concern which requires appropriate action by the legislature to prevent its spread and to lighten its burden which now so often falls with crushing force upon the unemployed worker and his family. The achievement of social security requires protection against this greatest hazard of our economic life. This can be provided by encouraging employers to provide systematic accumulation of funds during periods of employment to provide benefits for periods of unemployment, thus maintaining purchasing power and limiting the serious social consequences of poor relief assistance. The legislature, therefore, declares that in its considered judgment the public good and the general welfare of the citizens of this state require the enactment of this measure, under the police powers of the state, for the compulsory setting aside of unemployment reserves to be used for the benefit of persons unemployed through no fault of their own. (Ex. Sess., 1936, c. 1, s. 2.)

Construction. — The intent of the legislature to provide a wide scope in the application of this chapter to mitigate the economic evils of unemployment, and to bring within its provisions employments therein defined beyond the scope of existing definitions or categories, is apparent from the language used, and all doubts as to constitutionality should be resolved in favor of the validity of the chapter and all its provisions. State v. Willis Barber, etc., Shop, 219 N. C. 709, 15 S. E. (2d) 4.

should be liberally construed to the end that the benefits thereof should not be denied upon technical, narrow and strict construction. Graham v. Wall, 220 N. C. 84, 90, 16 S. E. (2d) 691.

Provisions of this chapter seeking to maintain neutrality on the part of the state in labor disputes will be given effect. The court's decision that policy is in the exclusive province of the legislature and the courts will not interfere therewith unless the provisions relating thereto have no reasonable relation to the end sought to be accomplished. In re Steelman, 219 N. C. 306, 13 S. E. (2d) 544, 135 A. L. R. 925.

§ 96-3. Unemployment compensation commission.—(a) Organization.—There is hereby created a commission to be known as the unemployment compensation commission of North Carolina. The commission shall consist of seven (7) members to be appointed by the governor on or before July 1, 1941. The governor shall have the power to designate the member of said commission who shall act as the chairman thereof. The chairman of the commission shall not engage in any other business, vocation or employment, and no member of the commission shall serve as an officer or a committee member of any political party organization. Each member shall be appointed for the term of two (2) years. Three (3) members shall be appointed to serve for a term of four (4) years, and upon the expiration of the respective terms, the successors of said members shall be appointed for a term of four (4) years each, thereafter, and the member of said commission designated by the governor as chairman shall be appointed for a term of four (4) years from and after his appointment. Any member appointed to fill a vacancy occurring in any of the appointments made by the governor shall serve until the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of such term. The governor may at any time after notice and hearing, remove any commissioner for gross inefficiency, neglect of duty, malfeasance, misfeasance, or nonfeasance in office.

(b) Divisions.—The commission shall establish two co-ordinate divisions: the North Carolina state employment service division, created pursuant to § 96-20, and the unemployment compensation division. Each division shall be responsible for the discharge of its distinctive functions. Each division shall be a separate administrative unit with respect to personnel and duties, except in so far as the commission may find that such separation is impracticable.

(c) Salaries.—The chairman of the unemployment compensation commission of North Carolina, appointed by the governor, shall be paid from the unemployment compensation administration fund a salary payable on a monthly basis, which salary shall be fixed by the governor with the approval of the council of state; and the members of the commission, other than the chairman, shall each receive ten dollars ($10.00) per day including necessary time spent in traveling to and from their place of residence within the state to the place of meeting while engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office and his actual traveling expenses, the same to be paid from the aforesaid fund.

(d) Quorum.—The chairman and three (3) members of the commission shall constitute a quorum. (Ex. Sess., 1936, c. 1, s. 10; 1941, c. 168, s. 10, c. 279, ss. 1-3; 1943, c. 377, s. 15.)

Editor's Note.—The first 1941 amendment struck out the word "budget" from the last sentence of subsection (b). The second amendatory act effective July 1, 1941, increased the membership of the commission from three to seven and made other changes in subsection (a). It also made changes in subsections (c) and (d).

Section 2 of the second amendatory act provides: "The unemployment compensation commission of North Carolina, created by this act, shall automatically succeed to all the rights, powers, duties, and obligations of the present unemployment compensation commission of North Carolina and of the state advisory council." For comment on the 1941 amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 444.

The 1943 amendment inserted in subsection (c) the words "including necessary time spent in traveling to and from their place of residence within the state to the place of meeting."
mail to the last known address in cases of special rules, or by publication as herein provided, and by one publication as herein provided as to general rules. General rules shall become effective ten days after filing with the secretary of state and publication in one or more newspapers of general circulation in this state. Special rules shall become effective ten days after notification to or mailing to the last known address of the individuals or concerns affected thereby. Regulations may be adopted, amended, or rescinded by the commission and shall become effective in the manner and at the time prescribed by the commission.
(c) Publication.—The commission shall cause to be printed for distribution to the public the text of this chapter, the commission's regulations and general rules, its biennial reports to the governor, and any other material the commission deems relevant and suitable, and shall furnish the same to any person upon application therefor.
(d) Personnel.—Subject to other provisions of this chapter, the commission is authorized to appoint, fix the compensation, and prescribe the duties and the duties of its officers, agents, examiners, attorneys, experts, and other persons as may be necessary in the performance of its duties. It shall provide for the holding of examinations to determine the qualifications of applicants for the positions so classified, and except for temporary appointments not to exceed six months in duration, shall appoint its personnel on the basis of efficiency and fitness as determined in such examinations.
All positions shall be filled by persons selected and appointed on a nonpartisan merit basis. The commission may delegate to any such person so appointed such power and authority as it deems reasonable and proper for the effective administration of this chapter, and may, in its discretion, bond any person handling moneys or signing checks hereunder.
(e) Advisory Councils.—The governor shall appoint a state advisory council and local advisory councils, composed in each case of an equal number of employer representatives and employee representatives who may fairly be regarded as representative because of their vocation, employment, or affiliations, and have such members representing the general public as the governor may designate. Such councils shall aid the commission in formulating policies and discussing problems related to the administration of this chapter, and in assuring impartiality and freedom from political influence in the solution of such problems. Such local advisory councils shall serve without compensation, but shall be reimbursed for any necessary expenses. The state advisory council shall be paid ten dollars per day per each member attending actual sitting of such council, including necessary time spent in traveling to and from their place of residence within the state to the place of meeting, and mileage and subsistence as allowed to state officials.
(f) Employment Stabilization.—The commission, with the advice and aid of its advisory councils, and through its appropriate divisions, shall take all appropriate steps to reduce and prevent unemployment; to encourage and assist in the adoption of practical methods of vocational training, retraining and vocational guidance; to investigate, recommend, advise, and assist in the establishment and operation, by municipalities, counties, school districts, and the state, of reserves for pub-luc works to be used in times of business depression and unemployment; to promote the re-employment of unemployed workers throughout the state in every other way that may be feasible; and to these ends to carry on and publish the results of investigations and research studies.
(g) Records and Reports. — Each employing unit shall keep true and accurate employment rec-cords, containing such information as the commission may prescribe. Such records shall be open to inspection and be subject to being copied by the commission or its authorized representatives at any reasonable time and as often as may be necessary. The commission may require from any employing unit any sworn or unsworn reports, with respect to persons employed by it, which the commission deems necessary for the effective administration of this chapter. Information thus obtained shall be subject to public inspection (other than to public employees in the performance of their public duties) in any manner revealing the employing unit's identity, but any claimant at a hearing before an appeal tribunal or the commission shall be supplied with information from such records to the extent necessary for the proper presentation of his claims. Any individual may be supplied with information as to his potential benefit rights from such records. Any employee or member of the commission who violates any provision of this section shall be fined not less than twenty dollars ($20.00) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200.00), or imprisoned for not longer than ninety days, or both. All reports, statements, information and communications of every character so made or given to the comm ission, its deputies, agents, examiners and employees, whether same be written, oral or in the form of testimony at any hearing, or whether obtained by the commission from the employing unit's books and records shall be absolute privileged communications in any civil or criminal proceedings other than proceedings instituted pursuant to this chapter and proceedings involving the administration of this chapter: Provided, nothing herein contained shall operate to relieve any employing unit from disclosing any information required by this chapter or as prescribed by the commission involving the administration of this chapter.
(h) Oaths and Witnesses.—In the discharge of the duties imposed by this chapter, the chairman of an appeal tribunal and any duly authorized representative or member of the commission shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations, take depositions, certify to official acts, and issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers, correspondence, memoranda, and other records deemed necesser as evidence in connection with a disputed claim or the administration of this chapter.
(i) Subpoenas.—In case of contumacy by, or refusal to obey a subpoena issued to any person, any court of this state within the jurisdiction of which the inquiry is carried on or within the jurisdiction of which said person guilty of contumacy or re-refusal to obey is found or resides or transacts business, upon application by the commission or its duly authorized representative, shall have jurisdiction to issue to such person an order requiring its duly authorized representative, there to produce evidence if so ordered, or there to give testimony touching the matter under investigation or in question; and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by said court as a contempt thereof. Any person who shall without just cause fail or refuse to attend and testify or to answer any lawful inquiry or to produce books, papers, correspondence, memoranda, and other records in obedience to a subpoena of the commission, shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars ($50.00) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200.00) or by imprisonment for not longer than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and each day such violation continues shall be deemed to be a separate offense.

(j) Protection against Self-Incrimination.—No person shall be excused from attending and testifying or from producing books, papers, correspondence, memoranda, and other records before the commission or in obedience to the subpoena of the commission or any member thereof, or any duly authorized representative of the commission, in any cause or proceeding before the commission, on the ground that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture; but no individual shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he is compelled, after having claimed his privilege against self-incrimination, to testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, except that such individual so testifying shall not be exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying.

(k) State-Federal Co-Operation.—In the administration of this chapter, the commission shall cooperate, to the full extent consistent with the provisions of this chapter, with the social security board created by the Social Security Act, approved August fourteenth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, as amended; shall make such reports, in such form and containing such information as the social security board may from time to time require, and shall comply with such provisions as the social security board may from time to time find necessary to assure the correctness and verification of such reports; and shall comply with the regulations prescribed by the social security board governing the expenditures of such sums as may be allotted and paid to this state under Title III of the Social Security Act for the purpose of assisting in the administration of this chapter. The commission shall further make its records available to the railroad retirement board, created by the Railroad Retirement Act and the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, and shall furnish to the railroad retirement board at the expense of the railroad retirement board, such copies thereof as the board shall deem necessary for its purposes in accordance with the provisions of section three hundred three (c) of the Social Security Act as amended.

Upon request therefor, the commission shall furnish to any agency of the United States charged with the administration of public works or assistance through public employment, the name, address, ordinary occupation, and employment status of each recipient of benefits, and such recipient's rights to further benefits under this chapter. The commission is authorized to make such investigations, secure and transmit such information, make available such services and facilities and exercise such of the other powers provided herein with respect to the administration of this chapter as it deems necessary or appropriate to facilitate the administration of any unemployment compensation or public employment service law, and in like manner, to accept and utilize information, services and facilities made available to this state by the agency charged with the administration of such other unemployment compensation or public employment service law.

(l) Reciprocal Benefit Arrangements.—(1) The commission is hereby authorized to enter into reciprocal arrangements with appropriate and duly authorized agencies of other states or of the federal government, or both, whereby:

(A) Services performed by an individual for a single employing unit for which services are customarily performed in more than one state shall be deemed to be services performed entirely within any one of the states (i) in which any part of such individual's service is performed or (ii) in which such individual has his residence or (iii) in which the employing unit maintains a place of business, provided there is in effect, as to such services, an election by the employing unit, approved by the agency charged with the administration of such state's unemployment compensation law, pursuant to which the services performed by such individual for such employing unit are deemed to be performed entirely within such state;

(B) Potential rights to benefits accumulated under the unemployment compensation laws of one or more states or under one or more such laws of the federal government, or both, may constitute the basis for the payment of benefits through a single appropriate agency under terms which the commission finds will be fair and reasonable as to all affected interests and will not result in any substantial loss to the fund;

(C) Wages or services, upon the basis of which an individual may become entitled to benefits under an unemployment compensation law of another state or of the federal government, shall be deemed to be wages for insured work for the purpose of determining his rights to benefits under this chapter, and wages for insured work, on the basis of which an individual may become entitled to benefits under this chapter shall be deemed to be wages or services on the basis of which unemployment compensation under such law of another state or of the federal government is payable, but no such arrangement shall be entered into unless it contains provisions for reimbursements to the fund for such of the benefits paid under this chapter upon the basis of such wages or services, and provisions for reimbursements from the fund for such of the compensation paid under such other law upon the basis of wages for insured work, as the commission finds will be fair and reasonable as to all affected interests; and
(D) Contributions due under this chapter with respect to wages for insured work shall for the purposes of § 96-10 be deemed to have been paid to the fund as of the date payment was made as contributions therefor under another state or federal unemployment compensation law, but no such arrangement shall be entered into unless it contains provisions for such reimbursement to the fund of such contributions and the actual earnings thereon as the commission finds will be fair and reasonable as to all affected interests.

(2) Reimbursements paid from the fund pursuant to clause (C), of paragraph (1) of this subsection shall be entered into the fund of such contributions and the actual earnings thereon as the commission finds will be fair and reasonable as to all affected interests.

(3) To the extent permissible under the law and constitution of the United States, the commission is authorized to enter into or cooperate in arrangements whereby facilities and services provided under this chapter and facilities and services provided under the unemployment compensation law of any foreign government, may be utilized for the taking of claims and the payment of benefits under the employment security law of this state or under a similar law of such government.

(m) The commission after due notice shall have the right and power to hold and conduct hearings for the purpose of determining the rights, status and authority to determine any and all questions and issues of fact or questions of law that may arise under the Unemployment Compensation Law that may affect the rights, liabilities and status of any employing unit or employer as heretofore defined by the Unemployment Compensation Law including the right to determine the amount of contributions, if any, which may be due the commission by any employer. All hearings shall be conducted and held at the office of the commission and shall be open to the public and shall be stenographically reported and the commission shall provide for the preparation of a record of all hearings and other proceedings. The commission may provide for the taking of evidence by a deputy in which event he shall swear or cause the witnesses to be sworn and shall transmit all testimony to the commission for its determination. From all decisions or determinations made by the commission any party affected thereby shall be entitled to an appeal to the superior court. Before such party shall be allowed to appeal, he shall within ten days after notice of such decision or determination, file with the commission exceptions to the decision or the determination of the commission, which exceptions will state the grounds of objection to such decision or determination. If any one of such exceptions shall be overruled then such party may appeal from the order overruling the exceptions, and shall, within ten days after the decision overruling the exceptions, give notice of his appeal. When an exception is made to the facts as found by the commission, the appeal shall be to the superior court in term time but the decision or determination of the commission upon such review in the superior court shall be conclusive and binding as to all questions of fact supported by any competent evidence. When an exception is made to any rulings of law, as determined by the commission, the appeal shall be to the judge of the superior court at chambers. The party appealing shall, within ten days after the notice of appeal has been served, file with the commission exceptions to the decision or determination overruling the exception which statement shall assign the errors complained of and the grounds of the appeal. Upon the filing of such statement the commission shall, within ten days, transmit all the papers and evidence considered by it, together with the assignments of errors filed by the appellant to a judge of the superior court holding court or residing in some district in which such appellant either resides, maintains a place of business or conducts business. If there be no exceptions to any facts as found by the commission that fact so found shall be binding upon the court and it shall be heard by the judge at chambers at some place in the district, above mentioned, of which all parties shall have ten days notice.

(n) The cause shall be entitled "State of North Carolina on Relationship of the Unemployment Compensation Commission of North Carolina against (here insert name of appellant)," and if there are exceptions to any facts found by the commission it shall be placed on the civil issue docket of such court and shall have precedence over other civil actions except those described in § 96-10(b), and such cause shall be tried under such rules and regulations as are prescribed for the trial of other civil causes. By consent of all parties the appeal may be held and determined at chambers before any judge of a district in which the appellant either resides, maintains a place of business or conducts business, or said appeal may be heard before any judge holding court therein, or in any district in which the appellant either resides, maintains a place of business or conducts business. Either party may appeal to the supreme court from the judgment of the superior court under the same rules and regulations as are prescribed by law for appeals, except that if an appeal shall be taken on behalf of the Unemployment Compensation Commission of North Carolina it shall not be required to give any undertaking or make any deposit to secure the cost of such appeal and such court may advance the cause on its docket so as to give the same a speedy hearing.

(o) The decision or determination of the commission when docketed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of any county and when properly indexed and cross indexed shall have the same force and effect as a judgment rendered by the superior court, and if it shall be adjudged in the decision or determination of the commission that any employer is indebted to the commission for contributions, penalties and interest or either of the same, then said judgment shall constitute a lien upon any realty owned by said employer in the county only from the date of [891]

[892]
§ 96-5. Unemployment compensation administration fund.—(a) Special Fund.—There is hereby created in the state treasury a special fund to be known as the unemployment compensation administration fund. All moneys which are deposited or paid into this fund shall be continuously available to the commission for expenditure in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, and shall not lapse at any time or be transferred to any other fund. The unemployment compensation administration fund, except as otherwise provided in this chapter, shall be subject to the provisions of the Executive Budget Act (§ 145-1 et seq.) and the Personnel Act (§ 143-35 et seq.). All moneys in this fund which are received from the federal government or any agency thereof or which are appropriated by this state for the purpose described in § 96-20 shall be expended solely for the purposes and in the amounts found necessary by the Social Security Board for the proper and efficient administration of this chapter. The fund shall consist of all moneys appropriated by this state, all moneys received from the United States of America, or any agency thereof, including the Social Security Board, and all moneys received from any other source for such purpose, and shall also include any moneys received from any agency of the United States or any other state as compensation for services or facilities supplied to such agency, any amounts received pursuant to any surety bond or insurance policy or from other sources for losses sustained by the unemployment compensation administration fund or by reason of damage to equipment or supplies purchased from moneys in the fund and any proceeds realized from the sale or disposition of any such equipment or supplies which may no longer be necessary for the proper administration of this chapter. All moneys in this fund shall be deposited, administered, and disbursed in the same manner and under the same conditions and requirements as is provided by law for other special funds in the state treasury, and shall be maintained in a separate account on the books of the state treasury. This state treasurer shall be ex officio the treasurer and custodian of the fund who shall disburse such fund in accord-

§ 96-6. Unemployment compensation fund.—(a) Establishment and Control.—There is hereby established as a special fund, separate and apart from all public moneys or funds of this state, an unemployment compensation fund, which shall be administered by the commission exclusively for the purposes of this chapter. This fund shall consist of (1) all contributions collected under this chapter, together with any interest thereon collected pursuant to § 96-10; (2) all fines and penalties collected pursuant to the provisions of this chapter; (3) interest earned upon any moneys in the fund; (4) any property or securities acquired through the use of moneys belonging to the fund; and (5) all earnings in such property or securities. All moneys in this fund shall be mingled and undivided, except that within the unemployment compensation fund "reserve accounts" and a "partially pooled account" shall be maintained as provided in § 96-9. To the "reserve accounts" established under § 96-9 shall be credited such portion of the contributions computed as provided in § 96-9, and the "partially pooled account" to be credited with the balance of such contributions paid as well as the remaining portions and additions thereto of the unemployment compensation fund which have not heretofore been set aside as employer "reserve accounts", within the fund under prior amendments to this chapter. Provided, however, that the "partially pooled account" to establish to said fund subject to withdrawal and transfers as are provided for by this section.

(b) Replacement of Funds Lost or Improperly Expended.—If any moneys received after June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, from the Social Security Board under Title III of the Social Security Act, or any unencumbered balances in the unemployment compensation administration fund as of that date, or any moneys granted after that date to this state pursuant to the provisions of the Wagner-Peyser Act, or any moneys made available by this state or its political subdivisions and matched by such moneys granted to this state pursuant to the provisions of the Wagner-Peyser Act, are found by the Social Security Board, because of any action or contingency, to have been lost or been expended for purposes other than, or in amounts in excess of, those found necessary by the Social Security Board for the proper administration of this chapter, it is the policy of this state that such moneys shall be replaced by moneys appropriated for such purpose from the general funds of this state to the unemployment compensation administration fund for expenditure as provided in subsection (a) of this section. Upon receipt of notice of such a finding by the Social Security Board, the commission shall promptly report the amount required for such replacement to the governor and the governor shall at the earliest opportunity, submit to the legislature a request for the appropriation of such amount. This subsection shall not be construed to relieve this state of its obligation with respect to funds received prior to July first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, pursuant to the provisions of Title III of the Social Security Act. (Ex. Sess. 1936, c.
1, s. 13; 1941, c. 108, ss. 12, 13.)
may be paid from the clearing account upon account. Refunds payable pursuant to § 96-10 warrants issued upon the treasurer by the state auditor under the requisition of the commission. After clearance thereof, all other moneys in the clearing account shall be immediately deposited with the secretary of the treasury of the United States of America to the credit of the account of this state in the unemployment trust fund, established and maintained pursuant to section nine hundred and four of the Social Security Act, as amended, any provision of law in this state relating to the deposit, administration, release, or disbursement of moneys in the possession or custody of this state to the contrary notwithstanding. The benefit account shall consist of all moneys requisitioned from this state's account in the unemployment trust fund. Moneys in the clearing and benefit accounts may be deposited by the treasurer, under the direction of the commission, in any bank or public depository in which general funds of the state may be deposited, but no public deposit insurance charge or premium shall be paid out of the fund. The treasurer shall give a separate bond, conditioned upon the faithful performance of those duties as custodian of the fund, in an amount fixed by the commission and in a form prescribed by law or approved by the attorney general. Premiums for said bond shall be paid from the administration fund.

(c) Withdrawals. — Moneys shall be requisitioned from this state's account in the unemployment trust fund solely for the payment of benefits and in accordance with regulations prescribed by the commission. The commission shall, from time to time, requisition from the unemployment trust fund such amounts, not exceeding the amounts standing to its account therein, as it deems necessary for the payment of benefits for a reasonable future period. Upon requisition thereof the treasurer shall deposit such moneys in the benefit account and shall pay all warrants drawn thereon by the state auditor requisitioned by the commission for the payment of benefits solely from such benefit account. Expenditures of such moneys in the benefit account and refunds from the clearing account shall not be subject to approval of the budget bureau or any provisions of law requiring specific appropriations or other formal release by state officers of money in their custody. All warrants issued upon the treasurer for the payment of benefits and refunds shall bear the signature of the state auditor, as requisitioned by a member of the commission or its duly authorized agent for that purpose. Any balance of moneys requisitioned from the unemployment trust fund which remains unclaimed or unpaid in the benefit account after the expiration of the period for which such sums were requisitioned shall either be deducted from estimates for, and may be utilized for the payment of, benefits during succeeding periods, or, in the discretion of the commission, shall be re-deposited with the secretary of the treasury of the United States of America, to the credit of this state's account in the unemployment trust fund, as provided in subsection (b) of this section.

(d) Management of Funds upon Discontinuance of Unemployment Trust Fund. — The provisions of subsections (a), (b), and (c), to the extent that they relate to the unemployment trust fund, shall be operative only so long as such unemployment trust fund continues to exist, and so long as the secretary of the treasury of the United States of America continues to maintain for this state a separate book account of all funds deposited therein by this state for benefit purposes, together with this state's proportionate share of the earnings of such unemployment trust fund, from which no other state is permitted to make withdrawals. If and when such unemployment trust fund ceases to exist, or such separate book account is no longer maintained, all moneys, properties, or securities therein belonging to the unemployment compensation fund of this state shall be transferred to the treasurer of the unemployment compensation fund, who shall hold, invest, transfer, sell, deposit, and release such moneys, properties, or securities in a manner approved by the commission, in accordance with the provisions of this chapter: Provided, that such moneys shall be invested in the following readily marketable classes of securities: Bonds or other interest-bearing obligations of the United States of America or such investments as are now permitted by law for sinking funds of the state of North Carolina; and provided further, that such investment shall at all times be so made that all the assets of the fund shall always be readily convertible into cash when needed for the payment of benefits. The treasurer shall dispose of securities or other properties belonging to the unemployment compensation fund only under the direction of the commission.

(e) Benefits shall be deemed to be due and payable under this chapter only to the extent provided in this chapter and to the extent that moneys are available therefor to the credit of the unemployment compensation fund, and neither the state nor the commission shall be liable for any amount in excess of such sums. (Ex. Sess. 1936, c. 1, ss. 9, 18; 1939, c. 27, s. 7, c. 52, s. 4, c. 208; 1941, c. 108.)

Editor's Note. — The 1941 amendment added that part of subsection (a) beginning with the word "except" in line sixteen. Public Laws 1939, c. 27, s. 7, which had added somewhat similar provisions at the same place, was not noticed by the amendment.

§ 96-7. Representation in court. — (a) In any civil action to enforce the provisions of this chapter, the commission and the state may be represented by any qualified attorney who is designated by it for this purpose.

(b) All criminal actions for violation of any provision of this chapter, or of any rules or regulations issued pursuant thereto, shall be prosecuted as now provided by law by the solicitor or by the prosecuting attorney of any county or city in which the violation occurs. (Ex. Sess. 1936, c. 1, s. 17; 1937, c. 150.)

Editor's Note. — The 1937 amendment omitted the requirement that the attorney be a regular salaried employee of the commission.

Gratuities customarily received by an individual in the course of his work from persons other than his employing unit shall be treated as wages received from his employing unit. The reasonable cash value of remuneration in any medium other than cash, and the reasonable amount of gratuities, shall be estimated and determined in accordance with rules prescribed by the commission: Provided, that the term “wages” shall not include the amount of any payment with respect to services performed from and after March 10, 1941 or, on behalf of, an individual in its employ under a plan or system established by an employing unit which makes provision for individuals in its employ generally or for a class or classes of such individuals (including any amount paid by an employing unit for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment), on account of (A) retirement, or (B) sickness or accident disability, or (C) medical and hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability, or (D) death: Provided, the individual in its employ (i) has not the option to receive, instead of provision for such death benefit, any part of such payment, or, if such death benefit is insured, any part of the premiums (or contributions to premiums) paid by its employing unit, and (ii) has not the right under the plan or system providing for such death benefit, to assign such benefit, or to receive cash consideration in lieu of such benefit either upon his withdrawal from the plan or system providing for such benefit or upon termination of such plan or system or policy of insurance or of his services with such employing unit.

(o) “Week” means such period or periods of seven consecutive calendar days ending at midnight as the commission may by regulations prescribe.

(p) “Calendar quarter” means the period of three consecutive calendar months ending on March thirty-first, June thirtieth, September thirty-first, or December thirty-first, excluding, however, any calendar quarter or portion thereof which occurs prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, shall have been for an employee subject after July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, to the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act and some other employer subject to this chapter, such individual's benefit year, if established before July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, shall terminate on that date and if again unemployed after July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, he shall establish another benefit year after such date with respect to employment subject to this chapter.

For benefit years beginning on or after February fifteenth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, the term "base period" shall mean the completed calendar year immediately preceding the first day of an individual's benefit year as defined in subsection (r) of this section, if the benefit year begins subsequent to July first: and if the benefit year begins prior to July first, the base period shall be the next to the last completed calendar year, notwithstanding the fact that an otherwise eligible individual may have exhausted wage credits to his account prior to February fifteenth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, for any such completed calendar year. Except that for employment of any individual after July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, who has worked in employment for an employer which, after July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, is subject to the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, then only the wages payable to such an individual earned in employment during the base period for an employer other than one subject to the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act shall be used in determining his weekly benefit amount after July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine.

Wages payable to an individual with respect to coverage under the chapter, if due in the aggregate more than 8 employees, is an "employer" as defined in this section. State v. Willis Barber, etc., Shop, 219 N. C. 709, 15 S. E. 2d (2d) 4.

Single Employing Unit.—Where the agreed statement of fact disclosed that the three defendant corporations have no control or direction over the performance of such services, that they maintain a central business office where each keeps its records and handles all clerical matters, that wages are paid on the 15th of each month, and that they are directly or indirectly by the same interest within the meaning of subdivision (I) of paragraph (1) of subsection (g) of this section, it was held that the Single Employing Unit rule had not been violated.

The words in the provision of this section that enters into the "business of the employer," all single employing units, but a single employing unit will be given their distinct, definite, and commonly understood meaning.

Services of Insurance Soliciting Agents Constitute Employment.—Where services are rendered to the company in the offices of the company, and not directly or indirectly by the same interest within the meaning of the provision of this section, it was held that such services do not constitute employment.

The general assembly has power to determine scope of the unemployment compensation act, and the definitions and regulations prescribed will be applied by the courts in accordance with the legislative intent. Unemployment Compensation Comm. v. City Ice, etc., Co., 216 N. C. 6, 3 S. E. 2d 290.
nine hundred and forty-one, contributions shall be made by each employer to the commission for the fund in accordance with such regulations as the commission may prescribe, and shall not be deducted in whole or in part from the remuneration of individuals in his employ, provided, further, that if the commission shall be advised by its duly authorized officers or agents that the collection of any contribution under any provision of this chapter will be jeopardized by delay, the commission shall, whether or not the time otherwise prescribed by law for making returns and paying such tax has expired, immediately assess such contributions (together with all interest and penalties, the assessment of which is provided for by law). Such contributions, penalties and interest shall thereupon become immediately due and payable, and immediate notice and demand shall be made by the commission for the payment thereof. Upon failure or refusal to pay such contributions, penalties, and interest, it shall be lawful to make collection thereof as provided by § 96-10 and subsections thereunder and such collection shall be lawful without regard to the due date of contributions herein prescribed, provided, further, that nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as permitting any refund of contributions heretofore paid under the law and regulations in effect at the time such contributions were paid.

(2) In the payment of any contributions a fractional part of a cent shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to one cent. For the purposes of this section, the term "wages" shall not include that part of the remuneration which, after remuneration equal to $3,000 has become payable to an individual by an employer with respect to employment, paid by him during such ensuing year, is paid to such individual by such employer with respect to employment during such calendar year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, and during each calendar year thereafter, with respect to employment occurring after December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and forty, which shall be deemed the standard rate of contributions payable by each employer except as provided herein. Variations from the standard rate of contributions shall be determined in accordance with the following requirements:

(A) If, as of any computation date, the commission finds that: Compensation has been payable from an employer's account throughout the year preceding the computation date; and the balance of such account amounts to not less than five times the largest amount of compensation paid from such account within any one of the three years preceding such date; and the balance of such account as of the computation date amounts to not less than two and one-half percentum of that part of the payroll or payrolls in the three years preceding such date by which contributions were measured; and such contributions were payable to such account with respect to the three years preceding the computation date, contribution rates for the calendar year following such computation date shall be determined pursuant to paragraph (B) of this subsection. The term "year" as used in this section (except when preceded by the word "calendar") means the twelve month period ending on June 30th of any calendar year.

(B) If, as of any computation date, the cumulative total of all an employer's contributions which were paid and accredited to his "reserve account" before such computation date exceeds the cumulative total benefits which were chargeable to his "reserve account" and were paid before such computation date; and if such excess of contributions over benefits paid and chargeable to such account exceeds that percentage of his wages by which contributions were measured, computing the thirty-six consecutive month period preceding such computation date, which percentage is shown in Column 1 of the table below, and does not exceed the percentage opposite thereto in Column 2 of the table below, his contribution rate in the ensuing calendar year shall be equal to that percentage of the wages for employment, paid by him during such ensuing year, which is shown in Column 3 of the table below. Of the payments so made, there shall be credited to the "partially pooled account" the percentage shown opposite thereto in Column 4 of the table below, and there shall be credited to the "reserve account" of the employer that percentage of the wages for employment, paid by him during such calendar year, which is shown opposite thereto in Column 5 of the table below:

(C) The computation date for any contribution rates shall be July first of the calendar year preceding the calendar year with respect to which such rates are effective.

(D) Should the commission be of the opinion that the balance to the credit of the "partially pooled account" is insufficient to provide adequate security in the payment of all compensation to all eligible individuals, it shall direct such fact to the attention of the council of state, and, upon finding of the council that such a situation exists and a declaration that emergency steps are advisable, the commission is hereby authorized and empowered to require the payment by all employers of as much as 60% of the standard rate to be credited entirely to the "partially pooled account," and if such additional credit to the "partially pooled account" as required by this section exceeds the rate for any employer as fixed under § 96-9 (b), (4), (B), his rate shall be such percentage of the standard rate with no credit to his reserve account. If the additional credit to the "partially pooled account" as required by this subsection is less than the standard rate or rate for any employer as fixed under § 96-9 (b), (4), (B), such employer shall pay the standard rate or the rate of contributions as provided in § 96-9 (b), (4), (B) and his reserve account be credited with the balance of payment after crediting the "partially pooled account" with the additional credit as provided in this subsection. Any increased contribution rate thus required by the commission shall be applicable with respect to contributions on wages paid during the quarter in which such finding of the council of state occurred, and shall continue to be applicable with respect to contributions on wages paid up to the last day of the calendar quarter preceding the quarter in which, upon recommendation by the commission, the council of state shall find that the balance to the credit of the "partially pooled account" is sufficient to provide adequate security for the payment of all compensation to all eligible individuals.

(E) Any employer may at any time make voluntary contributions, additional to the contributions required under this chapter, to the fund to be credited to his reserve account and such voluntary contributions when made shall for all intents and purposes be deemed "contributions required" as said term is used in § 96-8 (i). The commission in accepting a voluntary contribution shall not be bound by any condition stipulated in or made a part of such voluntary contribution by any employer.

(F) If within the calendar month next following the computation date, the commission finds that any employing unit failed to file any report required in connection therewith, or has filed a report which the commission finds incorrect or insufficient, the commission shall make an estimate of the information required from such employing unit on the basis of the evidence reasonably available to it at the time, and shall notify the employing unit thereof by registered mail addressed to its last known address. Unless such employing unit shall file the report or a corrected or sufficient report as the case may be, within fifteen days after the mailing of such notice, the commission shall compute such employing unit's rate of contributions on the basis of such estimates, and the rate as so determined shall be subject to increases but not to reduction, on the basis of subsequently ascertained information.

(c) (1) The commission shall maintain a separate fiscal account for each employer and shall furnish him with all the contributions which he has paid or is paid on his own behalf. On and after January 1, 1939, the commission shall establish and maintain an employer's "reserve account" for each employer subject to this chapter, to which account the commission shall credit out of the unemployment compensation fund an amount equal to fifty percent of the contributions paid by such employers pursuant to § 96-9 (b) with respect to employment during the calendar year 1938 for the purpose of paying out of such accounts compensation payable to all eligible individuals in accord with the provisions of paragraph (2) of this subsection. To these "reserve accounts" shall also be credited seventy-five percent of all contributions paid each year pursuant to this act from and after January 1, 1939, the remaining twenty-five percent of the contributions to be credited to the "partially pooled account" and for each calendar year, beginning January 1, 1941, to these "reserve accounts" shall be credited ninety percent of all contributions paid each calendar year pursuant to the act, the remaining ten percent to be credited to the "partially pooled account," except as provided in subsection (b) (4) hereof, and as hereinafter provided. Provided further, that no provision of this section shall in any way be subject to or affected by any provisions of the Executive Budget Act, as amended.

(2) All benefits for weeks of unemployment paid during the twelve months preceding June thirtieth of each year to any eligible individual shall be paid out of the reserve account of such individual's employer or employers by whom he was employed during his base period. In accordance with the regulations of the commission, such payments shall be charged against all employers of such individual during his base period in the same ratio that the wages paid to such individual by each base period employer bears to the total wages paid him by all his employers during the base period. In the event that an employer's credits in his reserve account become exhausted through the payment of benefits chargeable to such account, the benefit payments which are chargeable to such account shall be paid out of the "partially pooled account" and at the same time the reserve account of the employer shall be debited accordingly. Whenever through inadvertence or mistake erroneous charges or credits are found to have been made to reserve accounts, the same shall be readjusted as of the date of discovery and such readjustment shall not affect any computation made under this section prior to the date of discovery.

(3) As of June thirtieth of each year, and at least fifteen days prior to the effective date of any variation from the standard rate of contributions, the commission shall determine the balance of each employer in his reserve account and shall furnish him with a statement of all charges and credits thereto. At the same time the commission shall notify each employer of his rate of contributions as determined for the succeeding calendar year pursuant to this section. Such determination shall become final unless the employer files an application for review or redetermination.

§ 96-8 (f) and §§ 96-11, the reserve account shall be closed.

(d) In order that the commission shall be kept informed at all times on the circumstances and conditions of unemployment within the state and as to whether the stability of the fund is being impaired by the operation and effect of the system provided herein and the reserve account shall be closed. In the event any employer subject to this chapter ceases to be such an employer through the termination of coverage as provided in § 96-11, the reserve account of such employer shall be closed.

Contributions Constitute a Tax.—Contributions imposed on employers within the purview of the unemployment compensation act are compulsory and therefore constitute a tax, and they are not rendered any less a tax by reason of the provision that they should be segregated in a special fund for distribution in furtherance of the purpose of the act.

Payment of Contributions for Calendar Year 1936 Cannot Be Required.—Since the state unemployment compensation act, ch. 1, Public Laws of 1936, is in effect a tax upon an employer within the coverage of the act, and since the statute was not ratified until 16 December, 1936, and the determination of “employment” within the coverage of the act must be determined from records for the calendar year 1936, and since no benefits therefrom could be obtained by employees for the calendar year 1936, in so far as the act attempts to require the payment of contributions for the calendar year, it is retrospective and being so it is void as being in conflict with Art. I. § 32, of the state Constitution. Unemployment Compensation Comm. v. Wachovia Bank, et al., Co., 215 N. C. 491, 2 S. E. (2d) 592.

State Bank Member of Federal Reserve System Not Exempt.—A bank organized under the laws of this state is not an instrumentality of the federal government so as to exempt it from the tax imposed by this chapter, notwithstanding that the bank may be an employer under the unemployment compensation system. The tax would discriminate against it in favor of national member banks, since to relieve it from such taxation would discriminate in favor of it against nonmember state banks.

Contributions Are Required for Services of Insurance Soliciting Agents.—Since the services of soliciting agents and managers, in their capacity as soliciting agents, constitute employment and fall within the purview of the state unemployment compensation act, there is no statutory provision authorizing such action.

Declaratory Judgment as to Inclusion of Certain Salaries Cannot Be Obtained.—An action to determine whether salaries paid certain employees should be included in computing the contributions to be paid by an employer under the unemployment compensation act is an action against a state agency and directly affects the state, since the amount of tax is intended to collect is involved, and the action is properly dismissed on demurrer, since there is no statutory provision authorizing such action.

§ 96-10. Collection of contributions.—(a) Interest on Past-Due Contributions.—Contributions unpaid on the date on which they are due and payable, as prescribed by the commission, shall bear interest at the rate of one-half of one per centum per month from and after such date until payment plus accrued interest is received by the commission. Interest collected pursuant to this subsection shall be paid into the unemployment compensation fund. If any employer, in good faith, pays contributions to another state, prior to a determination of liability by this commission, which contributions were legally payable to this state, such contributions shall be paid by the state to the claimant thereof, and the state shall be deemed to have been paid by the due date under the law of this state if paid by the due date of such other state.
(b) Collection.—If, after due notice, any employer defaults in any payment of contributions or interest thereon, the amount due shall be collected by the commission in the manner and form prescribed, and the employer adjudged in default shall pay the costs of such action. Civil actions brought under this section to collect contributions or interest thereon from an employer shall be heard by the court at the earliest possible date, and shall be entitled to preference upon the calendar of the court over all other civil actions except petitions for judicial review under this chapter and cases arising under the Workmen's Compensation Law of this state; or, if any contribution imposed by this chapter, or any portion thereof, and/or penalties duly provided for the nonpayment thereof shall not be paid within thirty days after the same become due and payable, and after due notice and reasonable opportunity for hearing, the commission under the hand of its chairman, may certify the same in duplicate and forward one copy thereof to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the delinquent resides or has property, and additional copies for each county in which the commission has reason to believe such delinquent has property located, which copy so forwarded to the clerk of the superior court shall be immediately docketed by said clerk and indexed on the cross index of judgment, and from the date of such docketing shall constitute a preferred lien upon any property which said delinquent may own in said county, with the same force and effect as a judgment rendered by the superior court. The duplicate of said certificate shall be forwarded by the commission to the sheriff, or sheriffs of such county or counties, or to a duly authorized agent of the commission, and in the hands of such sheriff or agent of the commission shall have all the force and effect of an execution issued to such sheriff or agent of the commission by the clerk of the superior court upon the judgment of the superior court duly docketed in said county. Provided, however, that notwithstanding any provision of this subsection, upon filing a written notice with the commission the sheriff of any county shall have the sole and exclusive right to serve all executions and make all collections mentioned in this subsection and in such case no agent of the commission shall have the authority to serve any executions or make any collections therein in such county. A return of such execution shall be made to the commission, together with all moneys collected thereunder, and when such order or execution is referred to the agent of the commission for service the said agent of the commission shall be vested with all the powers of the sheriff to the extent of serving such order or execution and levying or collecting thereunder. The agent of the commission to whom such order or execution is referred shall give a bond not to exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) approved by the commission for the faithful performance of such duties. The liability of said agent shall be in the same manner and to the same extent as is now imposed on sheriffs in the service of executions. If any sheriff of this state or any agent of the commission who is charged with the duty of serving executions shall wilfully fail, refuse, or neglect to execute any order directed to him by the said commission and within the time provided by law, the official bond of such sheriff or of such agent of the commission shall be liable for the contributions, penalty, interest, and costs due by the employer.

(c) Priorities under Legal Dissolution or Distribution.—In the event of any distribution of an employer's assets pursuant to an order of any court under the laws of this state, including any receivership, assignment for benefit of creditors, adjudicated insolvency, composition, or similar proceeding, contributions then or thereafter due shall be paid in full prior to all other claims except taxes, and claims for remuneration of not more than two hundred and fifty dollars to each claimant, earned within six months of the commencement of the proceeding. In the event of an employer's adjudication in bankruptcy, judicially confirmed extension proposal, or composition, under the Federal Bankruptcy Act of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight, as amended, contributions then or thereafter due shall be entitled to such priority as is provided in section sixty-four (b) of that act (U. S. C., Title II, sec. 104 (b), as amended.

(d) Collections of Contributions upon Transfer or Cessation of Business.—The contribution or tax imposed by § 96-9, and subsections thereunder, of this chapter shall be a lien upon the assets of the business of any employer subject to the provisions hereof who shall lease, transfer or sell out his business, or shall cease to do business and such employer shall be required, by the next reporting date as prescribed by the commission, to file with the commission all reports and pay all contributions due with respect to wages payable for employment up to the date of such lease, transfer, sale or cessation of the business and such employer's successor in business shall be required to withhold sufficient of the purchase money to cover the amount of said contributions due and unpaid until such time as the former owner or employer shall produce a receipt from the commission showing that the contributions have been paid, or a certificate that no contributions are due. If the purchaser of a business or a successor of such employer shall fail to withhold purchase money or any money due to such employer in consideration of a lease or other transfer and the contributions shall be due and unpaid after the next reporting date, as above set forth, such successor shall be personally liable to the extent of the assets of the business so acquired for the payment of the contributions accrued and unpaid on account of the operation of the business by the former owner or employer.

(e) Refund.—If not later than three years from the last day of the period with respect to which a payment of any contributions or interest thereon was made, or one year from the date on which such payment was made, whichever shall be the later, an employer who has paid such contributions or interest thereon shall make application for an adjustment thereof in connection with subsequent contribution payments, or for a refund thereof because such adjustment cannot be made, and the commission shall determine that such contributions or interest or any portion thereof was erroneously collected, the commission shall allow such employer to make an adjustment thereof, § 96-11. Period, election, and termination of employer's coverage.—(a) Any employing unit which is or becomes an employer subject to this chapter within any calendar year shall be subject to this chapter during the whole of such calendar year; provided, however, that on and after July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, this section shall not be construed to apply to any part of the business of an employer as may come within the terms of section one (a) of the Federal Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in subsections (a) and (c) of this section, an employing unit shall cease to be an employer subject to this act only as of the first day of January of any calendar year, if it files with the commission prior to the thirtieth day of December next preceding a written application for termination of coverage and the commission finds that there were no twenty different weeks within the preceding calendar year (whether or not such weeks are or were consecutive) within which said employing unit employed eight or more individuals in employment (not necessarily simultaneously and irrespective of whether the same individuals were emp...
ployed in each such week). For the purpose of this subsection, the two or more employing units mentioned in paragraphs two or three of § 96-8, subsection (f), of this chapter shall be treated as a single employing unit.

(c) (1) An employing unit, not otherwise subject to this chapter, which files with the commission its written election to become an employer subject hereto for not less than two calendar years shall, with the written approval of such election by the commission, become an employer subject hereto to the same extent as all other employers, as of the date stated in such approval, and shall cease to be subject hereto as of January first of any calendar year subsequent to such two calendar years only if, at least thirty days prior to such first day of January, it has filed with the commission a written notice to that effect.

(2) Any employing unit for which services that do not constitute employment as defined in this chapter are performed may file with the commission a written election that all such services performed by individuals in its employ, in one or more distinct establishments or places of business, shall be deemed to constitute employment for all the purposes of this chapter for not less than two calendar years. Upon the written approval of such election by the commission such services shall be deemed to constitute employment subject to this chapter from and after the date stated in such approval. Such services shall cease to be deemed employment subject hereto as of January one of any calendar year subsequent to such two calendar years only if, at least thirty days prior to such first day of January, such employing unit has filed with the commission a written notice to that effect. (Ex. Sess. 1936, c. 1, s. 8; 1939, c. 52, ss. 2, 3; 1941, c. 108, s. 9.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1939 amendment inserted the reference to subsection (a) in the second line of subsection (b). The 1941 amendment rewrote subsection (b).

§ 96-12. Benefits. — (a) Payment of Benefits. —Twenty-four months after the date when contributions first accrue under this chapter benefits shall become payable from the fund. All benefits shall be paid through employment offices, in accordance with such regulations as the commission may prescribe.

(b) Each eligible individual whose benefit year begins on or after March 10, 1941 and who is totally unemployed in any week (as defined in § 96-8 (k) (2) ) shall be paid with respect to such week a partial benefit equal to the difference between his weekly benefit amount (as defined in § 96-8 (q) ) and five-sixths of his remuneration (as defined in § 96-8 (n) ) for such week.

(c) Weekly Benefit for Partial Unemployment. —Each eligible individual who is partially unemployed (as defined in § 96-8 (k) (2) ) in any week shall be paid with respect to such week a partial benefit. Such partial benefit shall be an amount, figured to the nearest multiple of fifty cents (0.50), equal to the difference between his weekly benefit amount (as defined in § 96-8 (q) ) and five-sixths of his remuneration (as defined in § 96-8 (n) ) for such week.

(d) Duration of Benefits.—The maximum benefits payable to any eligible individual whose benefit year begins after February fifteenth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, shall be sixteen times his weekly benefit amount during any benefit year. After February fifteenth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, the commission shall maintain accounts for each individual who earns wages in such manner and form as the commission may prescribe as being adequate to administer the provisions of this chapter.

(e) Benefit Rights of Trainees in Military Service.—(1) Notwithstanding any inconsistent provisions of this chapter, the benefit rights of trainees shall be determined in accordance with the following provisions of this subsection for the periods and with respect to the matters specified herein. Except as herein otherwise provided, all other provisions of this chapter shall continue to be applicable in connection with such benefits.

(2) The term “military service” as used in this subsection means active service in the land or naval forces of the United States, but the service of an individual in any reserve component of the land or naval forces of the United States who is ordered to active duty in any such force for a period of thirty days or less shall not be deemed to be active service in any such force during such period.

(3) The term “trainee” as used in this subsection means an individual who entered military service after July first, one thousand nine hundred and forty, who continued in such service for not less than ninety consecutive days, and who files a claim within six months after the termination of his military service.

(4) With respect to any trainee, the first benefit year following the termination of his military service, shall be the one-year period beginning with the first day of the first week following the date of such termination; and the second benefit year following the termination of his military service shall be the next one-year period beginning with the first day of the first week following the termination of such first benefit year.

(5) With respect to the first benefit year defined in paragraph (4) of this subsection, the base period shall be the two completed calendar years preceding the date of the trainee’s entry into military service; and with respect to the second benefit year defined in paragraph (4) of this subsection, the base period shall be the complete calendar year preceding the date of the trainee’s entry into military service plus the portion of a calendar year intervening between the date of the entry into military service and the end of such second benefit year; provided that for the purposes of this subsection such portion of a calendar year intervening between the date of a trainee’s entry into military service, plus (but only in the event that the military service ends between July 1 and December 31 of any year) the portion of a calendar year intervening between the date of the trainee’s termination of service and the last day of such calendar year; provided that for the purposes of this subsection such portion of a calendar year intervening between the date of a trainee’s termination of service and the last day of such calendar year shall be deemed to be included in the calendar year in which the trainee entered military service.

(6) The provisions of § 96-13 (d) with respect to waiting period shall not be applicable to the first benefit year defined in paragraph (4) of this subsection.

(7) An otherwise eligible trainee shall be eligible to receive benefits with respect to any week beginning in either of the benefit years defined in paragraph (4) of this subsection or in the second calendar year following the date of such termination; provided that for the purposes of this subsection such portion of a calendar year following the date of such termination shall be deemed to be included in the calendar year in which such trainee entered military service.

(8) A trainee’s weekly benefits amount with respect to each of the two benefit years defined in paragraph (4) of this subsection shall be the amount appearing in Column II of the table of such subsection opposite the amount appearing in Column II of such table which pays able to such individual with respect to “employment” during that calendar year of the base period of such benefit year in which such trainee’s wages payable with respect to “employment” were greatest.

(9) An otherwise eligible trainee shall be entitled during the first benefit year defined in paragraph (4) of this subsection to a total amount of benefits equal to whichever is the lesser of (a) sixty times his weekly benefit amount and (b) thirty-two times his weekly benefit amount less the amount of any benefits paid him under this act for unemployment prior to his entry into military service on the basis of his wages in any part of the base period of such benefit year.

(10) An otherwise eligible trainee shall be entitled during the second benefit year defined in paragraph (4) of this subsection to a total amount of benefits equal to whichever is the lesser of (a) sixteen times his weekly benefit amount, and (b) forty times his weekly benefit amount times the number of calendar quarters (completed or uncompleted) in the base period of such benefit year and less the amount of any benefits paid him under this act for unemployment prior to his entry into military service on the basis of his wages in any part of the base period of such benefit year.

(11) With respect to any benefit year of a trainee as defined in § 96-8 (r) which begins subsequent to the second benefit year defined in paragraph (4) of this subsection and has a base period containing less than four completed calendar quarters in which no military service was performed, the term “wages payable during base period” as used in subsection (b) shall be deemed to mean the wages payable to such individual during such base period with respect to “employment” divided by the number of completed calendar quarters in such base period in which no military service was performed and multiplied by four.

(19) If under an Act of Congress, payments with respect to the unemployment of individuals who have completed a period of military service are payable by the United States, a trainee shall be disqualified for benefits with respect to any week beginning within a benefits year as defined in paragraph (4) of this subsection until he has exhausted all his rights to such payments from the United States. (Ex. Sess., 1936, c. 1, s. 3; 1937, c. 448, s. 1; 1939, c. 27, ss. 1-3, 14, c. 141; 1941, c. 108, s. 1; c. 276; 1943, c. 377, ss. 1-4.)

Editor’s Note—The 1937 amendment inserted a new subsection (e). The 1941 amendments added the provisos to subsections (b), (d) and (e). It also inserted the words “figured to the nearest multiple of fifty cents?” in the second sentence of subsection (c). The 1943 amendment substituted the word “paid” for the word “payable” in the sixth line from the end of the paragraph preceding the table in subsection (b). It also made changes in paragraphs (3) and (4) of subsection (c). The amendment called for further changes that had already been made in the section upon its codification.

§ 96-13. Benefit eligibility conditions—An unemployed individual shall be eligible to receive benefits with respect to any week only if the commission finds that—

(a) He has registered for work at and thereafter has continued to report at an employment office in accordance with such regulations as the commission may prescribe; work for any week, not to exceed two in any benefit year, in which the commission finds that his unemployment is due to a customary and well-established vacation. This provision shall apply only if it is found by the commission that employment will be available to him at the end of such vacation.

(b) He has made a claim for benefits on a form prescribed by the commission.

(d) Prior to any week for which he claims benefits he has been totally unemployed for a waiting period of one week (and for the purposes of this subsection two weeks of partial unemployment shall be deemed to be equivalent to one week of total unemployment. Such weeks of partial unemployment need not be consecutive.) No week shall be counted as a week of total unemployment for the purposes of this subsection;

(1) If benefits have been paid with respect thereto;
(2) Unless the individual was eligible for benefits with respect thereto in all respects except for the requirements of subsection (b) of this section.

Any individual whose benefit year begins on or after February fifteenth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, who has served such one waiting period, within his benefit year, as provided in subsection (d) hereof, shall not be required to accumulate any more waiting period weeks during his benefit year. (Ex. Sess. 1936, c. 1, s. 4; 1939, c. 27, ss. 4, 5, c. 141; 1941, c. 108, s. 2; 1943, c. 377, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added a proviso to former subsection (e).

Prior to the 1941 amendment the waiting period prescribed by subsection (d) was two weeks.

The 1943 amendment added the part of subsection (c) beginning with the first proviso, and called for changes in subsection (d) which had already been made by the 1941 amendment and by the Division of Legislative Drafting and Codification of Statutes.

§ 96-14. Disqualification for benefits.—An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

(a) For not less than four, nor more than twelve consecutive weeks of unemployment, which occur within a benefit year, beginning with the first day of the first week after the disqualifying act occurs with respect to which week an individual files a claim for benefits (in addition to the waiting period) if it is determined by the commission that such individual is, at the time such claim is filed, unemployed because he left work voluntarily without good cause attributable to the employer, and the maximum benefits due said individual during his then current benefit year shall be reduced by an amount determined by multiplying the number of such consecutive weeks of unemployment by the weekly benefit amount.

(b) For not less than five, nor more than twelve consecutive weeks of unemployment, which occur within a benefit year, beginning with the first day of the first week after the disqualifying act occurs with respect to which week an individual files a claim for benefits (in addition to the waiting period) if it is determined by the commission that such individual is, at the time such claim is filed, unemployed because he was discharged for misconduct connected with his work, and the maximum amount of benefits due said individual during his then current benefit year shall be reduced by an amount determined by multiplying the number of such consecutive weeks of unemployment by the weekly benefit amount.

of remuneration in lieu of notice: Provided, that if such remuneration is less than the benefits which would otherwise be due under this chapter he shall be entitled to receive for such week, if otherwise eligible, benefits reduced by the amount of such remuneration.

(f) If the commission finds he is customarily self-employed and can reasonably return to self-employment.

(g) For any week after June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine with respect to which he shall have or assert any right to unemployment benefits under an unemployment compensation law of either the federal or a state government, other than the state of North Carolina. (Ex. Sess. 1936, c. 1, ss. 5; 1937, c. 418, ss. 2, 3; 1939, c. 52, ss. 1; 1941, c. 108, ss. 3, 4; 1943, c. 377, ss. 7, 8.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment struck out former subsections (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) and inserted new subsections in lieu thereof. The amendment also struck out subsections (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) and inserted new subsections in lieu thereof. This section prevails over the provision of section 96-2 stating that the act is to provide for benefits to workers who are "unemployed through no fault of their own." In re Steelman, 219 N. C. 306, 13 S. E. (2d) 544, 135 A. L. R. 929.

Labor Dispute.—The evidence tended to show that employee-claimants not only did not work during the period of stoppage of work at the employer's plant caused by a labor dispute, but also that they did not resume work after reopening of the plant at the request of the employer that jobs were available. There was also evidence on behalf of claimants that they did not return to their jobs because of the labor dispute. The commission ruled that claimants were not entitled to benefits because of the stoppage of work. It was held that the employer is not prejudiced by the further order of the commission that the eligibility of claimants to benefits subsequent to the resumption of operations at the plant should be determined, since it must be presumed the commission will determine eligibility of each claimant for such benefits in accordance with the general policy of the act to provide for benefits to workers who are "unemployed through no fault of their own." In re Steelman, 219 N. C. 306, 13 S. E. (2d) 544, 135 A. L. R. 929.

Under the provisions of this section employees who participate in, finance or are directly interested in a labor dispute which results in stoppage of work, or who are members of a grade or class of workers who has members employed at the premises at which the stoppage occurs, any of whom, immediately before the stoppage occurs, participate in, finance or are directly interested in such labor dispute, are not entitled to unemployment compensation benefits during the stoppage of work, and each employee-claimant is required to show to the satisfaction of the commission that he is not disqualified for benefits under this section. In re Steelman, 219 N. C. 306, 13 S. E. (2d) 544, 135 A. L. R. 929.

Burden of Proof.—Each claimant is required to show to the satisfaction of the commission that he is not disqualified for benefits under this section. In re Steelman, 219 N. C. 306, 13 S. E. (2d) 544, 135 A. L. R. 929.

§ 96-15. Claims for benefits. — (a) Filing. — Claims for benefits shall be made in accordance with such regulations as the commission may prescribe. Each employer shall post and maintain printed statements of such regulations in places readily accessible to individuals in his service, and shall make available to each such individual, at the time he becomes unemployed, a printed statement of such regulations. Such printed statements shall be supplied by the commission to each employer without cost to him.

(b) Initial Determination. — A representative designated by the commission and hereinafter referred to as a deputy shall promptly examine the claim and, on the basis of the facts found by him, shall either determine whether or not such claim shall be allowed. If, if valid, the week with respect to which benefits shall commence, the weekly benefit amount payable and the maximum duration thereof, or shall refer such claim or any question involved therein to an appeal tribunal or to the commission, which shall make its determination with respect thereto in accordance with the procedure described in subsection (c) of this section. The deputy shall promptly notify the claimant and any other interested party of his decision and the reason therefor. Unless the claimant or any such interested party, within five calendar days after such notification was mailed to his last known address, files an appeal from such decision, such decision shall be final and benefits shall be paid or denied in accordance therewith, and for the purpose of this subsection, the commission shall be deemed an interested party: Provided, however, that any individual who files his claim outside of this state shall have eight calendar days from the date of mailing such notification to his last known address in which to perfect his appeal. If an appeal is duly filed, benefits with respect to the period prior to the final determination of the commission shall be paid only after such determination: Provided further, however, that if an appeal is filed with an appeal tribunal, the commission shall establish one or more impartial appeal tribunals consisting in each case of either a salaried examiner or a body consisting of three members, one of whom shall be a salaried examiner, who shall serve as chairman, one of whom shall be a representative of employers and the other of whom shall be a representative of employees; each of the latter two members shall serve at the pleasure of the commission and be paid a fee of not more than five dollars per day of active service on such tribunal plus necessary expenses. No person shall participate on behalf of the commission in any case in which he is an interested party. The commission may designate alternates to serve in the absence or disqualification of any member of an appeal tribunal. The chairman shall act alone in the absence or disqualification of any other member and his alternates. In no case shall the hearings proceed unless the chairman of the appeal tribunal is present.

(e) Commission Review.—The commission may on its own motion affirm, modify, or set aside any decision of an appeal tribunal on the basis of the evidence previously submitted in such case, or direct the taking of additional evidence, or may permit any of the parties to such decision to initiate further appeals before it, or may provide for group hearings in such cases as the commission may deem expedient. The commission shall permit such further appeal by any of the parties interested in a decision of an appeal tribunal which is not unanimous. The commission may remove to itself or transfer to another appeal tribunal the proceedings on any claim pending before an appeal tribunal. Any proceedings so removed to the commission shall be heard by a quorum thereof in accordance with the requirements in subsection (c) of this section. The commission shall promptly notify the interested parties of its findings and decision.

(f) Procedure.—The manner in which disputed claims shall be presented, the reports thereon required from the claimant and from employers, and the conduct of hearings and appeals shall be in accordance with rules prescribed by the commission for determining the rights of the parties, whether or not such rules conform to common law or statutory rules of evidence and other technical rules of procedure. A full and complete record shall be kept of all proceedings in connection with a disputed claim. All testimony at any hearing upon a disputed claim shall be recorded, but need not be transcribed unless the disputed claim is further appealed.

(g) Witness Fees.—Witnesses subpoenaed pursuant to this section shall be allowed fees at a rate fixed by the commission. Such fees and all expenses of proceedings involving disputed claims shall be deemed a part of the expense of administering this chapter.

(h) Appeal to Courts.—Any decision of the commission, in the absence of an appeal therefrom as herein provided, shall become final ten days after the date of notification or mailing thereof, and judicial review thereof shall be permitted only after any party claiming to be aggrieved thereby has exhausted his remedies before the commission as provided by this chapter. The commission shall be deemed to be a party to any judicial action involving any such decision, and may be represented in any such judicial action by any qualified attorney who has been designated by it for that purpose.

(i) Appeal Proceedings. —The decision of the commission shall be final, subject to appeal as herein provided. Within ten days after the decision of the commission has become final, any party aggrieved thereby may appeal to the superior court of the county of his residence. In case of such appeal, the court shall have power to make party-defendant any other party which it may deem necessary or proper to a just and fair determination of the case. In every case in which appeal is demanded, the appealing party shall file a certificate with the commission wherein time is allowed for appeal, in which shall be plainly stated the grounds upon which a review is sought and the particulars in which it is claimed the commission is in error with respect to its decision. The commission shall make a return to the notice of appeal, which shall consist of all documents necessary to an understanding of the appeal, and a transcript of all testimony taken in the matter, together with its findings of fact and decision thereon, which shall be certified and filed with the superior court to which appeal is taken within thirty days of said notice of appeal. The commission may also, in its discretion, certify to such court questions of law involved in any decision by it. In any judicial proceeding under this section the findings of the commission as to the facts, if there is evidence to support it, and in the absence of fraud, shall be conclusive, and the jurisdiction of the court shall be confined to questions of law. Such actions and the questions so certified shall be heard in a summary manner, and shall be given precedence over all civil cases, except cases arising under the Workmen’s Compensation Law of this state. An appeal may be taken from the decision of the superior court, as provided in civil cases. No bond shall be required upon such appeal. Upon the final determination of the case or proceeding the commission shall enter an order in accordance with such determination. Such an appeal shall not act as a supersedeas or stay of any judgment, order, or decision of the commission, and no bond shall be required upon such appeal. Upon the final determination of the case or proceeding the commission shall enter an order in accordance with such determination. Such an appeal shall not act as a supersedeas or stay of any judgment, order, or decision of the commission, and no bond shall be required upon such appeal.

Editor's Note.—The first 1937 amendment omitted the requirement that attorneys representing the commission as mentioned in subsection (b) be regular employees of the commission. The first 1937 amendment inserted the words beginning "or may provide" at the end of the first sentence of subsection (e).

The 1934 amendment added to the third sentence of subsection (b) the provision that the commission shall be deemed an interested party. It also added the proviso to said sentence. The amendment created new words "and any subordinate decision whose decision words "and any subordinate decision whose"

Appeal by Commission.—Under this section the exact status of the commission as a party to an action is not defined and the party it is to play as such is left somewhat in the realm of speculation, and there is nothing in the provision which constitutes the commission guardian or trustee for a claimant or which could warrant the conclusion that it is authorized to prosecute an appeal from a judgment against a claimant when the claimant is content. Nor may it do so for the purpose of adjudicating issues which are merely incidental to the claimant’s cause of action. In re Mitchell, 220 N. C. 65, 67, 16 S. E. (2d) 476, 142 A. L. R. 931.

Finding of Fact on Appeal.—Upon appeal to the superior court from any final decision of the commission, the findings of the commission as to the facts, if supported by evidence, and in the absence of fraud, are conclusive, the jurisdiction of the superior court on appeal being limited to questions of law. In re Steelman, 219 N. C. 306, 13 S. E. (2d) 544, 135 A. L. R. 929.

§ 96-16. Seasonal industries. — Whenever the commission finds that on account of seasonal conditions it is highly impracticable or impossible for an employer in a particular industry or branch thereof to operate for a period or periods of not less than four weeks nor more than thirty-six weeks in a calendar year and the employer cus-omarily operates entirely or in a branch of his industry only during a regularly recurring period or periods of not less than four weeks nor more than thirty-six weeks in a calendar year, then the rights to benefits payable to an otherwise eligible individual engaged in such a seasonal industry, or branch thereof, shall only be entitled to maximum benefit payments as follows:

If for any weeks of total unemployment which occur and for which benefits are payable during any period not within the seasonal period as prescribed by the commission the maximum benefit amount shall be an amount equal to sixteen times the individual's weekly benefit amount divided by the wages paid in the base period and multiplied by the wages paid in his base period in covered employment not within the seasonal period, and the maximum benefits payable for such individual during the seasonal period shall be an amount equal to sixteen times the individual's weekly benefit amount divided by the wages paid in the base period and multiplied by the wages paid within the seasonal period in covered employment not within the base period. The earnings of a worker who has earned wages in seasonal employment shall be taken into consideration together with all other wages earned in employment subject to this chapter in determining his qualifications and eligibility for benefits. Where an employer in its branches or divisions carries on both seasonal and full-time operations, this section shall apply only to that portion of such industry or occupation as is determined by the commission to be seasonal after application for such determination has been made by the employer, and notice thereof posted conspicuously by the employer in his seasonal establishments. (1939, c. 28; 1941, c. 108, s. 7; 1943, c. 377, s. 14 1/2.)

§ 96-17. Protection of rights and benefits.—
(a) Waiver of Rights Void.—Any agreement by an individual to waive, release, or commute his rights to benefits or any other rights under this chapter shall be void. Any agreement by any individual in the employ of any person or concern to pay all or any portion of an employer's contributions, required under this chapter from such employer, shall be void. No employer shall directly or indirectly make or accept any deduction from the remuneration of individuals in his employ to finance the employer's contributions required from him, or require or accept any waiver of any right hereunder by any individual in his employ. Any employer or officer or agent of an employer who violates any provision of this subsection shall, for each offense, be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars or be imprisoned for not more than six months, or both.

(b) Limitation of Fees.—No individual claiming benefits shall be charged fees of any kind in any proceeding under this chapter by the commission or its representatives or by any court or any officer thereof. Any individual claiming benefits in any proceeding before the commission or a court may be represented by counsel; but no such counsel shall either charge or receive for such services more than an amount approved by the commission. Any person who violation any provision of this subsection shall, for each such offense, be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars or imprisoned for not more than six months, or both.

(c) No Assignment of Benefits; Exemptions.—Any assignment, pledge, or encumbrance of any right to benefits which are or may become due or payable under this chapter shall be void; and such rights to benefits shall not be subject to garnishment, attachment, or any other remedy whatsoever provided for the collection of debt; and benefits received by any individual, so long as they are not mingled with other funds of the recipient, shall be exempt from any remedy whatsoever for the collection of all debts except debts incurred for necessaries furnished to such individual or his spouse or dependents during the time when such § 96-18. Penalties. — (a) Whoever makes a false statement or representation knowing it to be false or knowingly fails to disclose a material fact, to obtain or increase any benefit or other payment under this chapter, either for himself or for any other person, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty dollars ($20.00) nor more than fifty dollars ($50.00), or by imprisonment for not longer than thirty days; and each such false statement or representation or failure to disclose a material fact shall constitute a separate offense.

(b) Any employing unit or any officer or agent of an employing unit or any other person who makes a false statement or representation knowing it to be false, or who knowingly fails to disclose a material fact, to prevent or reduce the payment of benefits to any individual entitled thereto, or to avoid or reduce any contribution or other payment required from an employing unit under this chapter, or who wilfully fails or refuses to furnish any reports required hereunder, or to produce or permit the inspection or copying of records as required hereunder, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty dollars nor more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not longer than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and each such false statement or representation or failure to disclose a material fact, and each day of such failure or refusal, shall constitute a separate offense.

(c) Any person who shall wilfully violate any provision of this chapter or any rule or regulation thereunder, the violation of which is made unlawful or the observance of which is required under the terms of this chapter, and for which a penalty is neither prescribed herein nor provided by any other applicable statute, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not longer than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and each day such violation continues shall be deemed to be a separate offense.

(d) Any person who, by reason of the non-disclosure or misrepresentation by him or by another of a material fact (irrespective of whether such non-disclosure or misrepresentation was known or fraudulent), has received any sum as benefits under this chapter or has avoided or reduced any contribution or other payment to any individual entitled thereto, or to avoid or reduce any contribution or other payment, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not longer than thirty days; and each such false statement or representation or failure to disclose a material fact shall constitute a separate offense.

(e) An individual shall not be entitled to receive benefits for the remainder of any benefit year during which he has been found to have received any sum as benefits under this chapter by reason of the intentional non-disclosure or misrepresentation by him, or by another with his knowledge, of a material fact.

(f) Any individual discharged for larceny or embezzlement in connection with his employment, if such individual is convicted thereof in a court of competent jurisdiction, or if the commission finds that he has made a voluntary confession of guilt, shall not be entitled to receive any benefits based on wages earned in the base period applicable at the time of such discharge. (Ex. Sess. 1936, c. 1, s. 15; 1937, c. 150.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1937 amendment the individual mentioned in subsection (b) could be represented by a duly authorized agent as well as by counsel.

§ 96-19. Enforcement of unemployment compensation law discontinued upon repeal or invalidation of federal acts.—It is the purpose of this chapter to secure for employers and employees the benefits of Title III and Title IX of the Federal Social Security Act, approved August fourteenth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, as to credit on payment of federal taxes, of state contributions, and the receipt of federal grants for administrative purposes, and all other provisions of the said Federal Social Security Act; and it is intended as a policy of the state that this chapter and its requirements for contributions by employers shall continue in force only so long as such employers are required to pay the federal taxes imposed in said Federal Social Security Act by a valid act of congress. Therefore, if Title III and Title IX of the said Federal Social Security Act shall be declared invalid by the United States supreme court, or if such law be repealed by congressional action so that the federal tax cannot be further levied, from and after the declaration of such invalidity by the United States supreme court, or if the repeal of said law be by congressional action, as the case may be, no further levy or collection of contributions shall be made hereunder. The enactment by the Congress of the United States of the Railroad Retirement Act and the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act shall in no way affect the administration of this law except as herein expressly provided.

All federal grants and all contributions theretofore collected, and all funds in the treasury by virtue of this chapter, shall, nevertheless, be disbursed and expended, as far as may be possible, under the terms of this chapter: Provided, however, that contributions already due from any employer shall be collected and paid into the fund, subject to such distribution; and provided further, that the personnel of the state unemployment commission shall be reduced as rapidly as possible.

The funds remaining available for use by the North Carolina unemployment commission shall be expended, as necessary, in making payment of all such awards as have been made and are fully approved at the date aforesaid, and the payment of the necessary costs for the further administration of this chapter, and the final settlement of all affairs connected with same. After complete payment of all administrative costs and full payment of all awards made as aforesaid, any and all moneys remaining to the credit of any employer shall be refunded to such employer, or his duly authorized assignee: Provided, that the state employment service, created by chapter one hundred six; Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, and transferred by chapter one, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, Extra Session, and made a part of the unemployment compensation commission of North Carolina, shall in such event return to and have the same status as it had prior to enactment of chapter one, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, Extra Session, and under authority of chapter one hundred six, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, shall carry on the duties there-in prescribed; but, pending a final settlement of the affairs of the unemployment compensation commission of North Carolina, the said state employment service shall render such service in connection therewith as shall be demanded or required under the provisions of this chapter or the provisions of chapter one, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, Extra Session. (1937, c. 363: 1939, c. 52, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added the last sentence to the first paragraph.

S. C., Title 29, sec. 49(c)), as amended. The said division shall be administered by a full-time salaried director, who shall be charged with the duty to cooperate with any official or agency of the United States having powers or duties under the provisions of the said act of congress, as amended, and to do and perform all things necessary to secure to this state the benefits of the said act of congress, as amended, in the promotion and maintenance of a system of public employment offices. The provisions of the said act of congress, as amended, are hereby accepted by this state, in conformity with section four of said act, and this state will observe and comply with the requirements thereof. The state employment service division is hereby designated and constituted the agency of this state for the purpose of said act. The commission is directed to appoint the director, other officers, and employees of the state employment service. Such appointments shall be made in accordance with regulations prescribed by the director of the United States employment service. (Ex. Sess. 1936, c. 1, s. 12; 1941, c. 108, s. 11.)

§ 96-21. Cooperation with federal board for vocational education.—The employment service division shall cooperate with the federal board for vocational education, division for rehabilitation of crippled soldiers and sailors, in endeavoring to secure suitable employment and fair treatment of the veterans of the world war. (1921, c. 131, s. 5; Ex. Sess. 1936, c. 1, s. 12; C. S. 7512(c).)

§ 96-23. Job placement; information; research and reports.—The employment service division shall make public, through the newspapers and other media, information as to situations it may have applicants to fill, and establish relations with employers for the purpose of supplying demands for labor. The division shall collect, collate, and publish statistical and other information relating to the work under its jurisdiction; investigate economic developments, and the extent and causes of unemployment and remedies therefor within and without the state, with the view of preparing for the information of the general assembly such facts as in its opinion may make further legislation desirable. (1921, c. 131, s. 5; Ex. Sess. 1936, c. 1, s. 12; C. S. 7512(e).)

§ 96-24. Local offices; cooperation with United States service; financial aid from United States.—The employment service division is authorized to enter into agreement with the governing authorities of any municipality, county, township, or school corporation in the state for such period of time as may be deemed desirable for the purpose of establishing and maintaining local free employment offices, and for the extension of vocational guidance in cooperation with the United States employment service, and under and by virtue of any such agreement as aforesaid to pay, from any funds appropriated by the state for the purposes of this article, any part or the whole of the salaries, expenses or rent, maintenance, and equipment of offices and other expenses. (1921, c. 131, s. 6; 1935, c. 106, s. 4; 1931, c. 312, s. 3; Ex. Sess. 1936, c. 1, s. 12; C. S. 7312(f).)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1935, this section applied to vocational guidance of minors. The section was extended by the amendment.

§ 96-25. § 97-1. Official title.—This article shall be known and cited as “The North Carolina Workmen’s Compensation Act.” (1929, c. 120, s. 1.)

In General.—It was the purpose of the General Assembly in providing for compensation for an employee, that the North Carolina Industrial Commission, created by the act for that purpose, shall administer its provisions to the end that both employee and employer shall receive benefits and enjoy the protection of the act. The act contemplates mutual concessions by employee and employer; for that reason, its validity has been upheld, and its policy approved. Winslow v. Carolina Conference Ass’n, 211 N. C. 571, 579, 191 S. E. 403.

It is not the purpose of the Workmen’s Compensation Act to exculpate or absolve employers from the consequences of their negligent conduct. Tscheller v. National Weaving Co., 214 N. C. 449, 452, 199 S. E. 623.

Construction.—The Workmen’s Compensation Act is to be construed liberally to effectuate the broad intent of the act to provide compensation for employees sustaining an injury arising out of and in the course of the employment, and no technical or strained construction should be given to defeat its purpose. Johnson v. Asheville Hosley Company, 199 N. C. 38, 153 S. E. 591. See Roberts v. City Inc. etc., Co., 210 N. C. 17, 185 S. E. 438; Barbour v. State Hospital, 213 N. C. 515, 196 S. E. 812; Reeves v. Parker-Graham-Sexton, Inc., 199 N. C. 516, 196 S. E. 812.

However, liberal construction cannot be extended beyond the clearly expressed language of the act. Gilmore v. Hoke County Board of Education, 222 N. C. 328, 23 S. E. (2d) 292.

The rule of liberal construction is to be liberally construed to effectuate the legislative intent as gathered from the act to award compensation for the injury or death of an employee arising out of and in the course of his employment, irrespective of the question of negligence. Reeves v. Parker-Graham-Sexton, Inc., 199 N. C. 516, 196 S. E. 812.

The provisions of the Workmen’s Compensation Act are to be construed in their relations to each other as a whole to effectuate the intent of the Legislature to provide compensation for employees sustaining an injury in the course of employment, and in the course of his employment. Rice v. Denny Roll & Panel Co., 199 N. C. 154, 154 S. E. 69.

The Workmen’s Compensation Act will be construed as a whole, and the various provisions must be interpreted harmoniously, with a view to effectuating the legislative intent. Morris v. Laughlin Chevrolet Co., 217 N. C. 428, 8 S. E. (2d) 484, 128 A. L. R. 132.

Constitutionality.—The Workmen’s Compensation Act of North Carolina has been held to be constitutional to be construed for the purpose of determining liability of defendants to the next of kin of a deceased employee should not be brought in the name of the deceased employee. Slade v. Willis Hosley Mills, 209 N. C. 833, 184 S. E. 644.

The Industrial Commission has exclusive jurisdiction to determine liability of defendants to the next of kin of a deceased employee should not be brought in the name of the deceased employee. Slade v. Willis Hosley Mills, 209 N. C. 833, 184 S. E. 644.

Applied in Davis v. Mecklenburg County, 214 N. C. 469, 199 S. E. 604.

§ 97-2. Definitions.—When used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires—

(a) Employment.—The term “employment” includes employment by the State and all political subdivisions thereof, and all public and quasi-public corporations therein and all private employers in which five or more employees are regularly employed in the same business or establishment, except agriculture and domestic services and sawmills and logging operators in which less than fifteen employees are regularly employed.

(b) Employee.—The term “employee” means every person engaged in an employment under any appointment or contract of hire or apprenticeship, who is expressly or impliedly employed, or permitted to work, or handling, or in any manner employed by lawfully employed, but excluding persons whose employment is both casual and not in the course of the trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer, and as relating to those so employed by the State, the term “employee” shall include all officers and employees of the State, except only such as are elected by the people, or by the General Assembly, or appointed by the Governor, either with or without the confirmation of the Senate; as relating to municipal corporations and political subdivisions of the State, the term “employee” shall include all officers and employees therefrom, except such as are elected by the people or appointed by the council or other governing body of said municipal corporation or political subdivision, who act in purely administrative capacities, and to serve for a definite term of office. The term “employee” shall include members of the North Carolina National Guard, except when called into the service of the United States, and members of the North Carolina State Guard, and members of these organizations shall be entitled to compensation for injuries arising out of and in the course of the performance of their duties at drill, in camp, or on special duty under orders of the Governor. The term “employee” shall include deputy sheriffs and all persons acting in the capacity of deputy sheriffs, whether appointed by the sheriff or by the governing body of the county and whether serving on a fee basis or on a salary basis, or whether deputy sheriffs serving upon a full time basis or a part time basis, and including deputy sheriffs appointed to serve in an emergency, but as to those so appointed, only during the continuation of the emergency. The sheriff shall furnish to the board of county commissioners a complete list of all deputy sheriffs named or appointed by him immediately after their appointment, and notify the board of commissioners of the name and residential address of each deputy sheriff promptly after such changes are made. Any reference to an employee who has been injured shall, when the employee is dead, include also his legal representative, dependents, and other persons to whom compensation may be payable: Provided, that the third and fourth sentences herein shall not apply to Pender, Cherokee, Avery, Perquimans.
mans, Gates, Macon, Watauga, Ashe, Union, Wilkes, Hyde, Caswell, Bladen and Carteret Counties.

(c) Employer.—The term “employer” means the State and all political subdivisions thereof, all public and quasi-public corporations therein, every person carrying on any employment and the legal representative of a deceased person or the receiver or trustee of any person. The board of commissioners of each county of the state, for the purposes of this law, shall be considered as “employer” of all deputy sheriffs serving within such county, or persons serving or performing the duties of a deputy sheriff, whether such persons are appointed by the sheriff or by the board of commissioners and whether serving on a fee basis or salary basis. Each county is authorized to insure its compensation liability for deputy sheriffs to the same extent it is authorized to insure other compensation liability for employees thereof: Provided, that the last two sentences hereof do not apply to Pender, Cherokee, Avery, Perquimans, Gates, Macon, Watauga, Ashe, Union, Wilkes, Hyde, Caswell, Bladen and Carteret Counties.

(d) Person.—The term “person” means individual, partnership, association or corporation.

(e) Average Weekly Wage.—“Average weekly wages” shall mean the earnings of the injured employee in the employment in which he was working at the time of the injury, divided by fifty-two; but if the injured employee lost more than seven consecutive calendar days at one or more times during such period, although not in the same week, then the earnings for the remainder of such fifty-two weeks shall be divided by the number of weeks remaining after the time so lost has been deducted. Where the employment prior to the injury extended over a period of less than fifty-two weeks, the method of dividing the earnings during that period by the number of weeks and parts thereof during which the employee earned wages shall be followed; provided, results fair and just to both parties will be thereby obtained. Where, by reason of a shortness of time during which the employee has been in the employment of his employer or the casual nature or terms of his employment, it is impracticable to compute the average weekly wages as above defined, regard shall be had to the average weekly amount which during the fifty-two weeks previous to the injury was being earned by a person of the same grade and character employed in the same locality or community. But where for exceptional reasons the foregoing would be unfair, either to the employer or employee, such other method of computing average weekly wages may be resorted to as will most nearly approximate the amount which the injured employee would be earning were it not for the injury.

Wherever allowances of any character made to an employee in lieu of wages are specified part of the wage contract they shall be deemed a part of his earnings.

(f) Injury.—“Injury and personal injury” shall mean only injury by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, and shall not include a disease in any form, except where it results naturally and unavoidably from the accident.

(g) Carrier.—The term “carrier” or “insurer” means any person or fund authorized under §§ 97-93 to insure under this article, and includes self-insurers.

(h) Commission.—The term “commission” means the North Carolina Industrial Commission, to be created under the provisions of this article.

(i) Disability.—The term “disability” means incapacity because of injury to earn the wages which the employee was receiving at the time of injury in the same or any other employment.

(j) Death.—The term “death” as a basis for a right to compensation means only death resulting from an injury.

(k) Compensation.—The term “compensation” means the money allowance payable to an employee or to his dependents as provided for in this article, and includes funeral benefits provided herein.

(l) Child, Grandchild, Brother, Sister. — The term “child” shall include a posthumous child, a child legally adopted prior to the injury of the employee, and a stepchild or acknowledged illegitimate child dependent upon the deceased, but does not include married children unless wholly dependent upon him. “Grandchild” means a child as above defined of a child as above defined. “Brother” and “sister” include stepbrothers and stepsisters, half brothers and half sisters, and brothers and sisters by adoption, but does not include married brothers or married sisters unless wholly dependent on the employee. “Child,” “grandchild,” “brother,” and “sister” include only persons who at the time of the death of the deceased employee were under eighteen years of age.

(m) Parent.—The term “parent” includes stepparents and parents by adoption, parents-in-law, and any person who for more than three years prior to the death of the deceased employee stood in the place of a parent to him, if dependent on the injured employee.

(n) Widow.—The term “widow” includes only the decedent’s wife living with or dependent for support upon him at the time of his death; or living apart for justifiable cause or by reason of his desertion at such time.

(o) Widower.—The term “widower” includes only the decedent’s husband who at the time of her death lived with her and was dependent for support upon her.

(p) Adoption.—The term “adoption” or “adopted” means legal adoption prior to the time of the injury.

(q) Singular.—The singular includes the plural and the masculine includes the feminine and neuter.

(r) Hernia.—In all claims for compensation for hernia or rupture, resulting from injury by accident arising out of and in the course of the employee’s employment, it must be definitely proven to the satisfaction of the Industrial Commission:

First. That there was an injury resulting in hernia or rupture.

Second. That the hernia or rupture appeared suddenly.

Third. That it was accompanied by pain.

Fourth. That the hernia or rupture immediately followed an accident.
Fifth. That the hernia or rupture did not exist prior to the accident for which compensation is claimed.

All hernia or rupture, inguinal, femoral, or other, so proven to be the result of an injury by accident arising out of and in the course of employment, shall be treated in a surgical manner by a radical operation. If death results from such operation, the death shall be considered as a result of the injury, and compensation shall be paid in accordance with the provisions of § 97-38. In non-fatal cases, if it is shown by special examination, as provided in § 97-27, that the injured employee has a disability resulting after the operation, compensation for such disability shall be paid in accordance with the provisions of this article.

In case the injured employee refuses to undergo the radical operation for the cure of said hernia or rupture, no compensation will be allowed during the time such refusal continues. If, however, is shown that the employee has some chronic disease, or is otherwise in such physical condition that the Commission considers it unsafe for the employee to undergo said operation, the employee shall be paid compensation in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 2; 1933, c. 448; 1939, c. 277, s. 1; 1943, cc. 543, 672, s. 1.)

Cross Reference.—As to jurisdiction of commission dependent upon showing of employment of five or more, see note to § 97-1.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 448, added, to subsection (a) of this section, the clause applicable to saw-mills and logging operations.

The 1939 amendment inserted the second and third sentences in subsection (b) and added the second and third subsections to subsection (c).

The first 1943 amendment added the proviso at the end of subsection (b) and the proviso at the end of subsection (c). The second 1943 amendment inserted the second sentence in subsection (b).

The condition antecedent to compensation is the occurrence of an injury (1) by accident (2) arising out of and in the course of employment. Wilson v. Mooresville, 222 N. C. 231, 22 S. E. (2d) 907.

Injury Arising out of and in the Course of Employment.

—Under the Compensation Act injuries by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment are compensable. Lee v. American Enka Corp., 212 N. C. 455, 193 S. E. 809.

The words "out of, as well as, in the course of employment. Where an injury cannot fairly be traced to the employment as a whole and servant. Bryan v. Loving Co., 222 N. C. 724, 24 S. E. (2d) 731.

The definition of injury given in § 97-20 also provides that it "shall not include a disease in any form, except where it results naturally and unavoidably from the accident." By applying this to the following case the Commission evinced a willingness to construe definitions liberally. Plaintiff, a truck driver, sustained an injury to his eye while cleaning a carburetor. The injury irritated his eye and resulted in an ulcer. Seven days after the accident the plaintiff was treated by a doctor, who gave the plaintiff some lotions to use. He visited the doctor three times. A carbuncle ophthalmia showed up, which was on the thirteenth day after the accident. As a result of the infection the plaintiff lost one eye and suffered a partial loss of use in the other eye. Compensation was allowed. The Commission said that the disease was "natural" because one infection opened the way for other infections. There was more trouble with the word "unavoidably." "The Commission quotes from the opinions rendered in other jurisdictions to illustrate that "unavoidably" does not mean "absolutely necessary" or "inevitable," but 'inherently, or what is generally considered unavoidable when common prudence and foresight cannot prevent it.' And since no evidence was presented that the plaintiff had been careless, and since the plaintiff had no opportunity to see a physician, the disease was found to have resulted unavoidably from the accident. This liberal construction tends to effectuate the liberal purpose of the Workmen's Compensation Act. 8 N. C. L. Rev. 421.

In construing sub-section (f) of this section the words "arising out of the employment" in regard to injuries compensable are broad and comprehensive, and must be determined in the light and circumstances of each case, and the act, applying only to industries employing more than five workmen, contemplates the gathering together of workmen of varying characteristics, and the risks and hazards of such close contact, joking and pranks by the workmen, are incidents to the business and grow out of it, and are ordinary risks assumed by the employer under the act. Conrad v. American Enka Corp., 222 N. C. 724, 24 S. E. (2d) 731, also, Wilson v. Mooresville, 222 N. C. 283, 22 S. E. (2d) 907.

The question of whether compensation is recoverable under this act depends upon whether the accident complained of arose out of and in the course of the employment of the one injured, and its determination depends largely upon the weight of the facts and circumstances as these facts and circumstances are to be as interpreted by the act, the rules and regulations of the Commission, the decisions of the administrative agencies and the decisions of the courts. The question of whether the accident was such as to entitle the employee to compensation is a question of fact. Harden v. Thomasville Furniture Co., 199 N. C. 733, 155 S. E. 723. If it is not, the injured employee is not entitled to compensation. Thomasville Furniture Co. v. Gaither, 199 N. C. 495, 251 S. E. 120.

If one employee assault another solely from anger, hatred, revenge, or vindictiveness, not growing out of or as an incident to the employment, the injury is to be attributed to the volunteer act of the assaultor and not to the employment. But if the assault be incidental to some duty of the employment, the injuries suffered thereby may properly be said to arise out of the employment. Ashley [917] of the employment, the words "out of" referring to the employment alone, and these facts are found by the Commission to be the origin or cause of the accident, and the words "in the course of" to the time, place and circumstances under which the accident occurred. Coats v. Cook-Lewis Foundry Co., 198 N. C. 723, 153 S. E. 266.

In order for compensation to be recovered for the death of an employee under this act it is required that the injury occurred during the course of his employment, within the meaning of this section. An injury is one by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, as a proximate cause, and where compensation is sought for the killing of one employee by another for purely personal and unrelated reasons, the judgment denying the right of compensation will be affirmed on appeal. Harden v. Thomasville Furniture Co., 199 N. C. 733, 153 S. E. 728.

An injury is an accident within the meaning of (1) of this section, is one by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, the words "out of" referring to the origin or cause of the accident, and the words "in the course of" to the time, place and circumstances under which the accident occurred. Ridout v. Rose's 5-10-25c. Stores, 205 N. C. 435, 171 S. E. 642.

A question and that he rode to work with another employee, but passing a group of boys playing baseball, a baseball struck the windshield and an accident arising out of and the right of compensation will be affirmed on appeal. Perkin v. Sprott, 207 N. C. 462, 177 S. E. 404.

Evidence that claimant was not entitled to compensation for the employee's death, since there was no causal connection between the employment and the accident. Archie v. Greene Bros. Lbr. Co., 222 N. C. 477, 23 S. E. 2d 649.

In order for compensation to be recovered for the death of one employee by another for purely personal and unrelated reasons, the judgment denying the right of compensation will be affirmed on appeal. Archie v. Greene Bros. Lbr. Co., 222 N. C. 477, 23 S. E. 2d 649.

Where intestate died of hydrophobia resulting from a dog bite received by him while engaged in his duties as attending a filling station, it was held that claimant was not entitled to compensation for the employee's death, since there was no causal connection between the employment and the accident. Where the evidence tends to show that a night watchman employed to watch construction came over to a night watchman employed to watch construction and engaged in an altercation relating to matters foreign to the employment, and that one of them killed the other as a result thereof, is sufficient to support the finding of the industrial commission that injury arose out of and in the course of the employment, and therefore such finding is conclusive on the courts. McRae v. Ragland Const. Co., 216 N. C. 744, 6 S. E. (2d) 491.

The findings of fact of the industrial commission, supported by the evidence, were to the effect that deceased employee was a night watchman, that his duties were to make periodic inspection and to attend the furnaces and to get up steam, that on the night in question he procured his son to help him, that he instructed his son to do certain of his duties in the boiler room, that he placed a small box and plank on a walkway eight or nine feet high, with one end of the plank resting on the box, and lay down on the plank, that he became engaged in a personal altercation and that in getting up from his recumbent position, while his son was engaged in the performance of the employee's active duties in the employee's room, that he fell, that he was killed by the fall, and that the injured employee had not deviated from, or abandoned his employment, and that the evidence is sufficient to support the finding of the industrial commission that injury resulted from an accident arising out of and in the course of the employment. Stalleup v. Carolina Wood Turning Co., 217 N. C. 302, 7 S. E. (2d) 550.

day's work were transported back to the office where they were checking out, their working time being computed from the time in question in which they were carried to the job, in a truck, but that the president's car was sent to bring them back because of rain, that when the employee in question started to the job, that is brought to a steady situation, including, the driver, in the car, that the foreman said he could crowd in the car or ride in with another employee who was driving his own car, and that the employee was fatally injured in an accident occurring after they had reached the city in which plaintiff's place of business was maintained and while they were on their way to defendant's office to check out. The evidence was sufficient to support the finding of the Industrial commission that death resulted from an accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, the general rule of nonliability for an accident occurring while an employee is not in the course of his occupation or in the service of his employer, his condition improved and he went back to work and that shortly thereafter he again suffered a similar disability. The findings support the conclusion that the injury did not result from an accident arising out of and in the course of the employee's employment within the purview of this chapter.

If an employee is injured as a result of the horse-play of a fellow-workman the injured employee is not precluded from recovering his damages under this act if he did not participate therein. Chambers v. Union Oil Co., 199 N. C. 385, 158 S. E. 648.

A newspaper engaged in selling papers is held not to be an employee of the newspaper within the meaning of that term as used in this section, the newspaper not being on the newspaper's payroll and being without authority to solicit subscriptions and being free to select his own methods of effecting sales, although some degree of supervision was exercised by the newspaper. Creswell v. Charlotte News Pub. Co., 204 N. C. 379, 168 S. E. 498.

The restriction of this act excluding injuries sustained in casual employment is to be construed in pari materia with its insurance carrier, under this chapter for the death by accident of an employee of the city is an employee of the city within the meaning of the act, a worker employed by the city under a contract stipulating the wages to be received by the worker is an employee of the city within the meaning of the section, and the fact that the city is a subdivision of the state, nor employees of the same, shall have the right to reject the provisions of the act, and it being required that these sections be construed in pari materia to determine the legislative intent. A worker employed by a city under a contract stipulating the wages to be received by the worker is an employee of the city within the meaning of this section, and the fact that the city is a subdivision of the state, and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is immaterial on the question of the relationship between the worker and the city. An employee of the state engaged in the cultivation of food crops on lands of the state used by the state hospital is an employee of the state within the meaning of the Compensation Act § 97-13, and his death from an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment is compensable. division of the State, and is entitled to the benefits of the Compensation Act under this section. Perdue v. State Board of Equalization, 206 N. C. 780, 172 S. E. 296.

Whether an injured person is an executive officer or an employee within the meaning of this section, is to be deter-determined by the nature of the act performed by him at the time of the injury, but reference to the exigencies of the insufficient to support the finding of the Industrial Commission in jury was the result of an accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, and such a finding of fact is Sufficiency of Evidence of Employee.—Deceased, at the time of his fatal injury, was engaged in selling the products of defendant. Letters to him from defendant's home office were introduced in evidence which contained instructions for the collection of an account which, as an exception, had been charged directly to the purchaser by defendant, and also a letter stating that defendant would fill his orders C. O. D. without deducting commissions and at the end of the week would then send him the checks. Evidence that the employee, the injury resulting in death, the evidence is sufficient to sustain the finding of the Industrial Commission in the case, and that certain a sum was due for social security number. Held: The evidence, with other evidence in the case, was sufficient to support the finding of the industrial commission that the deceased was an employee of the defendant, and not a jobber or independent contractor. Cloninger v. Anbrosia Cake Bakery Co., 218 N. C. 36, 9 S. E. (2d) 615.

Employee Mowing Employer's Lawn.—When a compensation insurance policy provides coverage solely in connection with the usual duties of the employee, the policy does not cover injury to an employee sustained while mowing the lawn at the employer's residence. Burnett v. Palmer-Lite Paint Co., 216 N. C. 204, 4 S. E. 2d 347.

Hernia.—It is sufficient for the Commission to find the facts required under this section and award compensation if the pain immediately followed the accident although the hernia was not discovered until days later. Ussery v. Erlanger Cotton Mills, 201 N. C. 658, 161 S. E. 307.

In Moore v. Engineer, etc., Co., 214 N. C. 424, 199 S. E. 605, it was held that claimant's injury resulted from an awarding the compensation.

Injury from Occupational Disease. — Where claimant worked in an asbestos plant for six or seven years, and a dust disease was manifestly due to his employment, about a year before claimant's discharge when a medical examination disclosed that he was suffering from asbestosis, the evidence shows the injury was the result of an occupational disease not inherent or usual in the nature of the employment, and prior to its amendment by ch. 123, Public Laws of 1925.

stances, the second paragraph of said subsection to use such other method of computation as would most nearly approximate the amount which the employee would be earning if living, showed claimant went to another city to inspect a job which defendant employer was completing, and did manual labor on the job in installing radiators, and was injured in an automobile accident occurring while he was returning home from the job, it was held that the claimant, at the time of his injury, had not been off on a misprecluded. — Section 97-80 providing that only the occupational diseases therein specified should be compensable, relates only to occupational diseases, which are those resulting from long and continued exposure to risks and conditions inherent and usual in the nature of the employment, and this section does not preclude compensation for a disease not inherent in or incident to the nature of the employment when it results from an accident occurring in the course of the employment. MacRae v. Unemployment Comm., 217 N. C. 769, 9 S. E. (2d) 595.

The finding of fact of the industrial commission that the disease causing an employee's death resulted naturally and unavoidably from an accident is conclusive on appeal when the finding is conclusive on the courts upon appeal. Lath-

A proceeding before the industrial commission for com-ensation is not a lawsuit in the strict sense, and many of the prerequisites of an action at law are not required.
Thus, an infant employee may prosecute his claim directly

Review of Decision. — If there was no conflicting evidence and the Industrial Commission decided as a matter of law that there was no sufficient competent evidence that the injury to plaintiff was "by accident arising out of and in the course of employment," the finding is conclusive on appeal viewable by the court upon appeal. Massey v. Board of Education, 204 N. C. 193, 167 S. E. 692.

Where there is any competent evidence in support of the in question arose out of and in the course of the employment, provision is made in the statute, or there is otherwise indi-

Presumption of Acceptance. — In Pilley v. Greenville Cotton Mills, 212 N. C. 479, it is held by the Workmen's Compensation Act every employer and employee, except as therein stated, is presumed to have accepted the provisions of the act and to pay and accept com-ensation for personal injury or death as therein set forth.
The plaintiff, not being in the excepted class, is bound by the presumption. Miller v. Roberts, 212 N. C. 136, 191
§ 97-4. Notice of non-acceptance and waiver of exemption.—Either an employer or an employee, who has exempted himself by proper notice from the operation of this article, may at any time give written notice thereof, and hereby accept the provisions of this article by giving notice as herein provided.

The notice of non-acceptance of the provisions of this article and notice of waiver of exemption heretofore referred to shall be given thirty days prior to any accident resulting in injury or death: Provided, that if any such accident occurred less than thirty days after the date of such notice of non-acceptance or acceptance given at the time of injury or death, then all other notice after loss, shall be sufficient notice thereof. The notice shall be in writing or print, in substantially the form prescribed by the Industrial Commission, and shall be given by the employer by posting the same in a conspicuous place in the shop, plant, office, room, or place where the employee is employed, or by serving it personally upon him; and shall be given by the employee by sending the same in registered letter, addressed to the employer at his last known residence or place of business, or by giving it personally to the employer or any of his agents upon whom a summons in civil action may be served under the laws of the State. A copy of the notice in prescribed form shall also be filed with the Industrial Commission.

In any suit by an employer or an employee who has exempted himself by proper notice from the application of this article, a copy of such notice duly certified by the Industrial Commission shall be admitted in evidence as proof of such exemption. (1929, c. 120, s. 5.)

Where, under the facts alleged, the parties were presumed to have accepted the provisions of the Compensation Act, but the complaint further alleged that in respect to the employee's work defendants "were not operating under the Compensation Act," the allegation that defendants were not operating under the act involves both law and fact, and the allegation is sufficient to admit of proof of nonacceptance of the provisions of the act, and it was error for the court to sustain defendants' demurrer on the ground that the industrial commission had exclusive jurisdiction, it being a question of law for the court, when the plaintiff introduces his evidence, to determine whether defendant employer was not operating under the act. Cooke v. Gillis, 218 N. C. 726, 193 S. E. 657.

Every contract of service between any employer and employee covered by this article, written or implied, now in operation or made or implied prior to July 1, 1929, shall, after that date, be presumed to have been made subject to the provisions of this article, unless either party shall give notice, as provided in § 97-4, to the other party to such contract that the provisions of this article other than §§ 97-14, 97-15, 97-16, and 97-92 are not intended to apply.

A like presumption shall exist equally in the case of all minors, unless notice of the same character be given by or to the parent or guardian of the minor. (1929, c. 120, s. 6.)

As applied in Miller v. Roberts, 212 N. C. 126, 193 S. E. 286.

§ 97-6. No special contract can relieve an employer of obligations.—No contract or agreement, written or implied, no rule, regulation, or other device shall in any manner operate to relieve an employer, in whole or in part, of any obligation created by this article, except as herein otherwise expressly provided. (1929, c. 120, s. 7.)

§ 97-7. State or subdivision and employees thereof.—Neither the State nor any municipal corporation within the State, nor any political subdivision thereof, nor any employee of the State or of any such corporation or subdivision, shall have the right to reject the provisions of this article relative to payment and acceptance of compensation, and the provisions of §§ 97-4, 97-5, 97-14, 97-15, and 97-16 shall not apply to them: Provided, however, that any county or special school district may, at its option, by action of the governing body of such county or school district at a regular meeting of such governing body, exempt itself entirely from the operation of this article: Provided, however, that such action on the part of such governing body shall not become effective until thirty days after such action is taken, and notice thereof filed with the Industrial Commission: and, Provided further, that such action on the part of any county or special school district exempting itself from the operation of this article shall not have the effect of relieving such county or school district in any degree from any liability against such county or school district already accrued prior to the taking of such action, or accruing during the said thirty-day period after the taking of such action. (1929, c. 120, s. 8; 1931, c. 274, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the proviso to this section as it formerly appeared and inserted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the old with the new is necessary to determine the changes.

The 1931 act added the third proviso to the first sentence. It also struck out in the second proviso thereto the words "the employer may" and inserted in place thereof the words "or the employer or his carrier has admitted liability in writing and filed same with the industrial commission, the employer or his carrier shall have the exclusive right to." In General.—This section assigns the injured person's right of action against a tort-feasor to the employer or to the employee's insurance carrier. The latter in no event at the discretion of the carrier any other or further rights than those excepted from the action which the employee could have maintained had no such assignment been made. Phifer v. Berry, 202 N. C. 368, 392, 162 S. E. 119.

The remedy under the Workmen's Compensation Act is exclusive and under the express terms of this section an employer is relieved of all further liability for injury to or death of an employee, and where the administrator of a deceased employee brings action against third persons for the employee's wrongful death, the motion of the defendants that the action be stayed until the amount due and payable to the injured employee or his personal representative, shall be granted to an employee where he and his employees, dependents or next of kin, as against his employer, which the employee could have maintained had no such assignment been made. Phifer v. Berry, 202 N. C. 368, 392, 162 S. E. 119.

Manifestly the statute was designed primarily to secure prompt and reasonable compensation for an employee, and at the same time to permit an employer or his insurance carrier, who had made a settlement with the employee, to receive from the person against whom the injury was caused, prompt payment of the amount due and payable to the employer and employee in proportion to the amount each shall receive out of the recovery. If, however, the employer does not commence such action within six months from the date of such injury or death of the employee, or his personal representative, shall thereafter have the right to bring the action in the name of the injured employee or his personal representative; but nothing herein shall be construed as conferring upon the insurance carrier any other or further rights than those existing in the employer at the time of the injury or death of the employee, anything in the policy of insurance to the contrary notwithstanding.

In all cases where an employer and employee have accepted the workmen's compensation act, any injury to a minor while employed contrary to the laws of this state shall be compensation for which the employer is liable, or shall have assumed the liability of the employer. If, however, the employer or his carrier shall have the exclusive right to commence an action in his own name and/or in the name of the injured employee or his personal representative for damages on account of such injury or death, and any amount recovered by the employer shall be applied as follows: First to the payment of actual court costs, then to the payment of attorneys' fees when approved by the industrial commission; the remainder or so much thereof as is necessary shall be paid to the employer to reimburse him for any amount paid and/or to be paid by him under the award of the industrial commission; if there be then remain any excess, the amount thereof shall be paid to the injured employee or other person entitled thereto: Provided further that the amount of attorney's fees paid out in the distribution of the above recovery shall be a charge against the amount due and payable to the employer and employee in proportion to the amount each shall receive out of the recovery.
The remedy is exclusive. Where the allegations and evidence sufficient to warrant the conclusion that the injury in suit was caused by an accident arising out of the employment and in the course of plaintiff's employment, defendant's noncompliance with the duties imposed by statute makes him liable to the injured employee for the injuries sustained, which the statute prescribes shall be first applied to the actual court costs, then to the payment of attorneys' fees when approved by the commission, then to the reimbursement of the insurance carrier for money paid by it under the award, and any remaining excess to the injured employee, and an instruction on the issue of damages that defendant would be liable to the injured employee for the injuries for which he is liable and would fairly compensate the injured employee is error. Rogers v. Southeastern Construction Co., 214 N. C. 270, 193 S. E. 402.

The meaning of this section is both clear and logical, namely, that if after the expiration of six months from the date of the injury or death, the employer has not commenced an action, the employee, or his personal representative, may commence an action against the third person whose tortious act caused his injury. We are impelled to hold, in construing the sentence, that these words are surplusage, and as such must be disregarded. Ikerd v. North Carolina R. Co., 209 N. C. 270, 193 S. E. 402.

Joinder of Insurance Carrier Properly Denied.—More than six months after the injury complained of, the original defendants filed a petition and moved that the insurer's liability carrier also be made a party defendant, the motion was denied, and defendants appealed. The motion for joinder of the insurance carrier was properly denied under the provisions of this section, where the insurer did not have notice of the suit, by the insurer against his employer, as exclusive, but that the provision making the remedy exclusive did not appear in the clause relating to suits against third persons. This statement of the law was cited with approval in Mack v. Marshall Field & Co., 217 N. C. 674, 193 S. E. 393.

But the right of the administrator to maintain an action for death by wrongful act is not defeated, in view of this section, as a result of the widow's acceptance of compensation. However in Bright v. N. B., etc., Motor Lines, 212 N. C. 384, 193 S. E. 391, it was held that an award by the industrial commission to the widow of an employee excludes all other rights and remedies, and the administrator of the employee may not maintain an action against the employer for wrongful death, and the fact that the injury resulted from negligence in the violation of a criminal statute does not alter this result.

The employer of a subcontractor in the construction of a building, and was killed while performing his duties in the process of the work, went into contact with an uninsulated, highly charged electric wire. This action was instituted by the administrator of the employee against defendants upon allegations that defendant had failed to provide a safe place for the work. Turner v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 212 N. C. 312, 193 S. E. 529, it was held that where a high charged wire to remain where it would likely cause injury to the structural steel workers and in failing to give proper warning of the danger. The employer of plaintiff was not a party to the action. Defendants demurred on the ground that upon the face of the complaint it appeared that the superior court was without jurisdiction and that the industrial commission had exclusive original jurisdiction. Under § 28-173 only the personal representative may maintain an action for wrongful death and the complaint alleged a cause of action therefor against defendants, and their defenses were demurred to and overruled. Section 28-173 is thus in the disposition of any recovery in accordance with the provisions of this section. Mack v. Marshall Field & Co., 217 N. C. 55, 6 S. E. (2d) 889.

But Assign ment of Such Claim Is Governed by Law of This State.—The assignment of the right of recovery against a third person under the wrongful death statute of another state, unless there is something in the law of the latter state which so provides. Betts v. Southern Ry. Co., 71 F. (2d) 785, 789.

But Assignment of Such Claim Is Governed by Law of This State.—The assignment of the right of recovery against a third person under the wrongful death statute of one state as the result of acceptance by the beneficiary of compensation from the employer under the compensation act of this state, in the absence of any provision to the contrary in the act of the state from which the compensation was derived, is governed by the law of this state. Betts v. Southern Ry. Co., 71 F. (2d) 787, 789.

Action by Insurer to Be in Name of Employee or Personal Representative.—Whether the employer or insurance carrier who has paid compensation may proceed in the action which has been instituted by a personal representative, or must institute a new and independent action, is a question of procedure and under the law of this state it is proper to proceed in the action which has shall be reduced ten per cent. The burden of proof shall be upon him who claims an exemption or forfeiture under this section. (1929, c. 120, s. 13.)

The negligence of the employee does not disbar him from compensation, except only in cases where the injury is occasioned by his intoxication or wilful intention to injure himself or another. Archie v. Greene Bros. Lbr. Co., 222 N. C. 477, 23 S. E. (2d) 834.

§ 97-10. Exemptions from Provisions of Act.—No employee shall apply to railroads or railroad employees nor in any way repeal, amend, alter or affect article eight (8) of chapter sixty (60), or any section thereof, relating to the liability of railroad companies for injuries to employees; nor, upon the trial of any action in tort for injuries not coming under the provisions of this article, shall any provision herein be placed in evidence or be permitted to be argued to the jury: Provided, however, that the foregoing exemption to railroads and railroad employees shall not apply to electric street railroads or employees thereof; and this article shall apply to electric street railroads and employees thereof, and to this extent the provisions of article eight (8) of chapter sixty (60) are hereby amended.

(b) Casual Employment, Domestic Servants, Farm Laborers, Federal Government, Employer of Less than Five Employees.—This article shall not apply to casual employees, farm laborers, federal government employees in North Carolina, and domestic servants, nor to employees of such persons, nor to any person, firm or private corporation that has regularly in service less than five employees in the same business within this state, unless such employees and their employers voluntarily elect, in the manner hereinafter specified, to be bound by this article: Provided, however, that when an employee files a claim with the North Carolina industrial commission and it shall appear that the employer has insured his liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act in any authorized corporation, association, or in any mutual insurance association formed by a group of employers so authorized, such employee shall be entitled to receive from such employer and his employees have elected to be bound by this article, and, in such cases upon failure of the defendant and/or the insurance carrier to show by competent and sufficient evidence that the defendant employer was not bound by, or subject to the provisions of, the Workmen's Compensation Act at the time of the injury, compensation may be awarded by the industrial commiss-without any express findings in their award as to acceptance of the article by the parties.

(c) Prisoners.—This article shall not apply to prisoners being worked by the State or any subdivision thereof, except to the following extent: Whenever any prisoner assigned to the State Highway and Public Works Commission shall suffer accidental injury arising out of and in the course of the employment to which he had been assigned, if the results of such injury continue until after the date of the lawful discharge of such prisoner to such an extent as to amount to a disability as defined in this article, then such discharged prisoner may have the benefit of this article by applying to the Industrial Commission as any other employee; provided, such application is made within twelve months from the date of discharge; and provided, further, that the maximum compensation to any prisoner shall not exceed fifteen dollars per month and the period of compensation shall be computed from the date of his discharge rather than to the date of the accident, and prisoners who have been discharged prior to March 15, 1941, who are covered by the terms of the subsection may have twelve months from March 15, 1941, in which to apply for its benefits, but as to such prisoners their compensation shall be computed only from the date of their application and shall not be cumulative for any prior period; and no award shall be made for facial disfigurement, and no award other than burial expenses shall be made for any prisoner whose accident results in death; and no award shall be made for any injury where there is no apparent or outward physical evidence of such injury, unless it is clearly established by medical opinion and supporting testimony that the matter complained of results solely from the accident arising out of and in the course of employment. If any person who has been awarded compensation under the provisions of this section shall be recommitted to prison upon conviction for an offense committed subsequent to the accident arising out of and in the course of the employment to which he had been assigned, the defense of contributory negligence is properly overruled when it does not appear on the face of the complaint that the defendant employed more than five men in this State. Hanks v. Southern Public Utilities Co., 204 N. C. 155, 157 S. E. 560. See also Allen v. American Cotton Mills, 206 N. C. 704, 175 S. E. 98.

Prima Facie Evidence.—This section merely facilitates proof that the employer and its employees are subject to the terms and provisions of the workmen's compensation act. Proof that the employer obtained insurance and a claim was filed is, under this section, prima facie evidence that the employer and the employee have been bound to the extent of making an agreement creating a presumption that an executive officer injured in the course of his duties was at the time engaged in the duties of an employee rather than those of an executive. Gassaway v. Gassaway, 220 N. C. 694, 698, 18 S. E. (2d) 120.

The provisions of this section that proof that the employer obtained insurance and filed claim should be prima facie evidence that the employer and the employee have been bound to the extent of making an agreement creating a presumption that an executive officer injured in the course of his duties was at the time engaged in the duties of an employee rather than those of an executive. Gassaway v. Gassaway, 220 N. C. 694, 698, 18 S. E. (2d) 120.

§ 97-16. Employers not bound by article may not use certain defenses in damage suit.—An employer who elects not to operate under this article shall not, in any suit at law instituted by an employee subject to this article to recover damages for personal injury or death brought against an employer who elects not to operate under this act does not have the effect of raising a presumption that an executive officer injured in the course of his duties was at the time engaged in the duties of an employee rather than those of an executive. Gassaway v. Gassaway, 220 N. C. 694, 18 S. E. (2d) 120.

§ 97-15. Employer may employ those men other than himself, and another innocent employee, who at the time of the accident were two men working beside the employer and that the other employees were on vacation, the evidence is insufficient to find a fact that the cause of the injury was due to the conduct of an employee who had withdrawn his acceptance of the terms of the workmen's compensation act, since the evidence tends to show that the employer regularly employed less than five employees. Thompson's Dependents v. Johnson Funeral Home, 205 N. C. 172, 175 S. E. 100.

The provisions of this section that proof that the employer obtained insurance and filed claim should be prima facie evidence that the employer and the employee have been bound to the extent of making an agreement creating a presumption that an executive officer injured in the course of his duties was at the time engaged in the duties of an employee rather than those of an executive. Gassaway v. Gassaway, 220 N. C. 694, 698, 18 S. E. (2d) 120.

This section cannot be held to have abolished the simple tool doctrine as a ground of defense. Newbern v. Great Atlantic, etc., Tea Co., 68 F. (2d) 523, 526, 91 A. I, R. 781.

Contributory Negligence.—Where it is admitted that defendant had a sufficient number of employees to make him liable for damages, there is no provision in this act providing for the effect of raising a presumption that an executive officer injured in the course of his duties was at the time engaged in the duties of an employee rather than those of an executive. Gassaway v. Gassaway, 220 N. C. 694, 18 S. E. (2d) 120.

§ 97-15. Electing employer may use such defenses against non-electing employee.—An employer who elects not to operate under this article shall, in any action to recover damages for personal injury or death brought against an employer accepting the compensation provisions of this article, proceed at common law, and the employer may avail himself of the defenses of contributory negligence, negligence of a fellow servant, and assumption of risk, as such defenses exist at common law. (1929, c. 120, s. 15.)

§ 97-16. Defenses denied to non-electing employer as against non-electing employee.—When both the employer and employee elect not to operate under this article, the liability of the employer shall be the same as though he alone rejected the terms of this article, and in any suit brought against him by such employee the employer shall not be permitted to avail himself of any of the common-law defenses cited in § 97-14. Provided, however, that in Pender, Cher-ookee, Avery, Perquimans, Gates, Macon, Watauga, Ashe, Union, Wilkes, Hyde, Caswell, Bladen and Carteret Counties any sheriff may exempt himself and any and all deputies appointed by him from the provisions of this article by notice in writing in regard to the matter of the insurance. Such notice to be made on forms prescribed by the industrial com-mision. (1928, c. 120, s. 17; 1931, c. 274, s. 2; 1939, c. 277, s. 2; 1943, c. 548.)

Editor's Note.—The 1901 amendment added a proviso permitting sheriffs to exempt themselves and their deputies from the act. The 1939 amendment deleted the proviso.
The cases treated below were decided prior to the 1939 amendment. The 1943 amendment added the proviso.
The amendment permitting a sheriff to exempt himself from the operation of the act by giving the notice prescribed, cannot have the effect of bringing deputies sheriff within the intention and meaning of the act, nor may the fact that a sheriff purchases insurance to cover his compensation lia-

§ 97-19. Liability of principal contractors; certificate that sub-contractor has complied with law; right to recover compensation of those who would have been liable; order of liability.—Any principal contractor, intermediate contractor, or sub-contractor who shall sublet any contract for the performance of any work without requiring from such sub-contractor or obtaining from the Industrial Commission a certificate, issued by the Industrial Commission, stating that such sub-contractor has regularly in service less than five employees in the same business within this state, to the same extent as such sub-contractor would be if he had accepted the provisions of this article for the payment of compensation and other benefits under this article on account of the injury or death of any employee of such sub-contractor, due to an accident arising out of and in the course of the performance of the work covered by such sub-contract. If the principal contractor, intermediate contractor, or sub-contractor shall obtain such certificate at the time of sub-letting such contract, and sub-con-tactor, he shall not thereafter be held liable to any employee of such sub-contractor for compensation or other benefits under this article. The Industrial Commission, upon demand, shall furnish such certificate, and may charge therefor the cost thereof, not to exceed twenty-five (25) cents.
Any principal contractor, intermediate con-tactor, or sub-contractor paying compensation or other benefits under this article, under the foregoing provisions of this section, may recover the amount so paid from any person, persons, or corporation who, independently of such provision, would have been liable for the payment thereof.

Every claim filed with the Industrial Commission under this section shall be instituted against all parties liable for payment, and said Commission, in its award, shall fix the order in which said parties shall be exhausted, beginning with the immediate employer. (1929, c. 120, s. 19; 1941, c. 358, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the words "irrespective of whether such sub-contractor has regularly in service less than five employees in the same business within the state in the first sentence.

In General.—This section is not in reality an amendment in the sense that it changed an existing law, but really amounts to an amendment for the purpose of expressing the full legislative intent under the existing law. Graham v. Wall, 220 N. C. 84, 90, 16 S. E. (2d) 691.

This section relates to contractors and subcontractors and not to employers and independent contractors. Beach v. McLain, 219 N. C. 531, 14 S. E. (2d) 315.

§ 97-20. Priority of compensation claims against assets of employer.—All rights of compensation granted by this article shall have the same preference or priority for the whole thereof against the assets of the employer as is allowed by law for any unpaid wages for labor. (1929, c. 120, s. 20.)

§ 97-21. Claims assignables and exempt from taxes and debts; agreement of employee to contribute to premium or waive right to compensation, void; unlawful deduction by employer.—No claim for compensation under this article shall be assignable, and all compensation and claims thereof shall be exempt from all claims of creditors and from taxes.

No agreement by an employee to pay any portion of premium paid by his employer to a carrier or to contribute to a benefit fund or department maintained by such employer for the purpose of providing compensation or medical services and supplies as required by this article shall be valid, and any employer who makes a deduction for such purpose from the pay of any employee entitled to the benefits of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500.00. No agreement by an employee to waive his right to compensation under this chapter shall be valid. (1929, c. 120, s. 21.)

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of this section, see 8 N. C. Law Rev. 477, et seq. And see 15 N. C. Law Rev. 286.

§ 97-22. Notice of accident to employer. — Every injured employee or his representative shall immediately on the occurrence of an accident, or as soon thereafter as practicable, give or cause to be given to the employer a written notice of the accident, and the employee shall not be entitled to physician's fees nor to any compensation which may have accrued under the terms of this article prior to the giving of such notice, unless it can be shown that the employer, his agent or representative, had knowledge of the accident, or that the party required to give such notice had been prevented from doing so by reason of physical or mental incapacity, or the fraud or deceit of some third person; but no compensation shall be payable unless such written notice is given within thirty days after the occurrence of the accident or death, unless reasonable excuse is made to the satisfaction of the Industrial Commission for not giving such notice, and the Commission is satisfied that the injured employee has not been prejudiced thereby. (1929, c. 120, s. 22.)

Finding That Employer Not Prejudiced.—A finding by the commission that the employer has not been prejudiced by the failure of the plaintiff to give notice of the injury within 30 days after the accident, suffices to sustain the award (from and after such notice), but not for benefits which may have accrued prior thereto. Eller v. Lawrence Leather Co., 222 N. C. 604, 24 S. E. (2d) 244.

A finding by the commission that plaintiff was not capable of coherent, normal thought at the time of his examination by physicians falls short of a finding that he was prevented from giving written notice of his injury by reason of physical or mental incapacity so as to entitle him to the benefits which may have accrued prior to the giving of such notice. Eller v. Lawrence Leather Co., 222 N. C. 604, 24 S. E. (2d) 244.

It is not required that an injured employee, or the dependents of a deceased employee, file claim with the industrial commission, it being incumbent on the employer to file a written report of the accident with the industrial commission upon notice given by the injured employee, or his representative, and where the employer has filed a report with the commission within the prescribed time upon verbal information elicited from the representative of the employee by its claim agent, the representative being unable to reach the scene of the accident, and the employee assigning liability, the report has been filed with the industrial commission as a claim within one year from date of the accident and contains all facts necessary to make an award. Hanks v. Southern Public Utilities Co., 219 N. C. 312, 186 S. E. 262.

§ 97-23. What notice is to contain; defects no bar; notice personally or by registered letter.

—The notice provided in the foregoing section shall state in ordinary language the name and address of the employee, the time, place, nature, and cause of the accident, and of the resulting injury or death; and shall be signed by the employee or by a person on his behalf, or, in the event of his death, by any one or more of his dependents, or by a person in their behalf.

No defect or inaccuracy in the notice shall be a bar to compensation unless the employer shall prove that his interest was prejudiced thereby, and then only to such extent as the prejudice. Said notice shall be given personally to the employer or any of his agents upon whom a summons in civil action may be served under the laws of the State, or may be sent by registered letter addressed to the employer at his last known residence or place of business. (1929, c. 120, s. 23.)

§ 97-24. Right to compensation barred after one year. — (a) The right to compensation under this article shall be forever barred unless a claim be filed with the industrial commission within one year after the accident, and if death results from the accident, unless a claim be filed with the commission within one year thereafter.

(b) If any claim for compensation is hereafter made upon the theory that such claim or the injury upon which said claim is based is within the jurisdiction of the industrial commission under the provisions of this article, and if the

§ 97-25. Medical treatment and supplies. — Medical, surgical, hospital, and other treatment, including medical and surgical supplies as may reasonably be required, for a period not exceeding ten weeks from date of injury to effect a cure or give relief and for such additional time as in the judgment of the commission will tend to lessen the period of disability, and in addition thereto such original artificial members as may reasonably be necessary at the end of the healing period shall be provided by the employer. In case of a controversy arising between the employer and employee relative to the continuance of medical, surgical, hospital, or other treatment, the industrial commission may order such further treatments as may in the discretion of the commission be necessary.

The commission may at any time upon the request of an employee order a change of treatment and designate other treatment suggested by the injured employee subject to the approval of the commission, and in such a case the expense thereof shall be borne by the employer upon the same terms and conditions as hereinbefore provided in this section for medical and surgical treatment and attendance.

The refusal of the employee to accept any medical, surgical, hospital, or other treatment when ordered by the industrial commission, shall bar said employee from further compensation until such refusal ceases, and no compensation shall at any time be paid for the period of suspension unless in the opinion of the industrial commission the circumstances justified the refusal, in which case, the industrial commission may order a change in the medical or hospital service.

If in an emergency on account of the employer's failure to provide the medical or other care as herein specified, a physician other than provided by the employer is called to treat the injured employee, the reasonable cost of such service shall be paid by the employer if so ordered by the industrial commission. However, if he so desires, an injured employee may select a physician of his own choosing to attend, prescribe and assume the care and charge of his case, subject to the approval of the industrial commission.

Editor's Note.——The Act of 1931 amended this section by striking out all of the provisions on voluntary treatment furnished by the employer and inserting a sentence empowering the commission on request of the employee to order a change of treatment at the employer's expense.

limitation, as to employee under eighteen years of age, who is without guardian or other legal representative, is tolled until he arrives at the age of 18.
Additional Medical Treatment to Lessen Period of Disability.—The provision of this section that the employer should be liable for additional medical treatment to effect a cure or give relief is limited by the provision of this section to cases in which such additional medical treatment would tend to lessen the period of the employee’s disability, and the discretionary power to award such additional medical treatment is also subject to this limitation; nor may liability for medical attention be extended upon the ground that public policy demands that the care of a permanently disabled employee should not be cast upon the state, the extent of liability being definitely prescribed by this provision. Millwood v. Firestone Cotton Mills. 215 N. C. 319, 2 S. E. (2d) 560.

§ 97-26. Liability for medical treatment measured by average cost in community; malpractice of physician.—The pecuniary liability of the employer for medical, surgical, hospital service or other treatment required, when ordered by the Commission, shall be limited to such charges as prevail in the same community for similar treatment of injured persons of a like standard of living when such treatment is paid for by the injured person, and the employer shall be liable in damages for malpractice by a physician or surgeon furnished by him pursuant to the provisions of this section, but the consequences of any such malpractice shall be deemed part of the injury resulting from the accident, and shall be compensated for as such. (1929, c. 120, s. 26.)

Injury or suffering sustained by an employee in consequence of the malpractice of a physician or surgeon furnished by the employer or carrier is not ground for an independent action; under this section it is a constituent element of the employee’s injury for which he is entitled to compensation. The employer, or the Industrial Commission, shall have the right in any case of obstruction. The employer, or the Industrial Commission, shall have the right to require an autopsy at the expense of the party requesting the same. (1929, c. 120, s. 27.)

§ 97-27. Medical examination; facts not privileged; refusal to be examined suspends compensation; autopsy.—After an injury, and so long as he claims compensation, the employee, if so requested by his employer or ordered by the Industrial Commission, shall submit himself to examination, at reasonable times and places, by a duly licensed physician or surgeon designated and paid by the employer or the Industrial Commission. The employee shall have the right to have present at such examination any duly qualified physician or surgeon provided and paid by him. No fact communicated to or otherwise learned by any physician or surgeon who may have attended or examined the employee, or who may have been present at any examination, shall be privileged, either in hearings provided for by this article or any action at law brought to recover damages against any employer who may have accepted the compensation provisions of this article. If the employee refuses to submit himself to or in any way obstructs such examination requested by and provided for by the employer, his right to compensation and his right to take or prosecute any proceedings under this article shall be suspended until such refusal or objection ceases, and no compensation shall at any time be payable for the period of obstruction, unless in the opinion of the Industrial Commission the circumstances justify the refusal or obstruction. The employer, or the Industrial Commission, shall have the right in any case of death to require an autopsy at the expense of the party requesting the same. (1929, c. 120, s. 27.)

§ 97-28. Seven-day waiting period; exceptions. No compensation shall be allowed for the first seven calendar days of disability resulting from an injury, except the benefits provided for in § 97-25. Provided, however, that in the case the injury results in disability of more than twenty-eight (28) days, the compensation shall be allowed from the date of the disability. (1929, c. 120, s. 28.)

§ 97-29. Compensation rates for total incapacity. Where the incapacity for work resulting from the injury is total, the employer shall pay, or cause to be paid, as hereinafter provided, to the injured employee during such total disability, a weekly compensation equal to 60 per centum of his average weekly wages, but not more than twenty-one dollars, nor less than seven dollars, a week; and in no case shall the period covered by such compensation be greater than four hundred weeks, nor shall the total amount of all compensation exceed six thousand dollars. In case of death the total sum paid shall be six thousand dollars less any amount that may have been paid as partial compensation during the period of disability, payable in one sum to the personal representative of deceased. The basis for compensation of members of the North Carolina national guard and the North Carolina state guard shall be the maximum amount of eighteen dollars per week as fixed herein. The basis for compensation of deputy sheriffs, or those acting in the capacity of deputy sheriffs, who serve upon a fee basis shall be the minimum amount of seven dollars a week as fixed federated, that the last sentence herein shall not apply for Polkoe, Avery, Perquimans, Gates, Macon, Watauga, Union, Wilkes, Hyde, Caswell, Bladen and Carteret Counties. (1929, c. 120, s. 29; 1939, c. 277, s. 1; 1943, c. 502, s. 3; 1943, c. 672, s. 2.)

Editor’s Note.—For a discussion of this section, see § 97-29. Compensation rates for total incapacity.

§ 97-30. Partial incapacity. — Except as otherwise provided in § 97-31, where the incapacity for work resulting from the injury is partial, the employer shall pay, or cause to be paid, as hereinafter provided, to the injured employee during such disability, a weekly compensation equal to 40 per cent of the difference between his average weekly wages before the injury and the average weekly wages which he is able to earn thereafter, but not more than twenty-one dollars a week, and in no case shall the period covered by such compensation be greater than three hundred weeks from the date of injury. In case the partial disability begins after a period of total disability, the latter period shall be deducted from the maximum period herein allowed for partial disability. (1929, c. 120, s. 30; 1943, c. 502, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment increased the maximum weekly compensation from eighteen to twenty-one dollars.

The employee sustained injuries resulting in disability of a general nature such as would entitle him to compensation under § 97-29. In addition to such injuries, he had also sustained injuries of a specific nature such as to entitle him to compensation under section 97-31. He is entitled to compensation for the specific injuries under section 97-31, and then, if still disabled as a result of the other injuries, compensation will be paid under this section. Morgan v. Norwood, 211 N. C. 600, 601, 191 S. E. 345, citing Baughn v. Richmond Forging Co., Claim No. 70-597 which latter case gives a construction of the corresponding sections of the Virginia law by the Virginia Industrial Commission.

When an award has been entered for total disability for a certain length of time, and for partial disability thereafter for a total of three hundred weeks, under this section, the Industrial Commission may not increase the award of compensation as for serious facial disfigurement.

§ 97-31. Schedule of injuries; rate and period of compensation.—In cases included by the following schedule the compensation in each case shall be paid for disability during the healing period and in addition the disability shall be deemed to continue for the periods specified, and shall be in lieu of all other compensation, including disfigurement, to wit:

(a) For the loss of a thumb, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during sixty-five weeks.

(b) For the loss of a first finger, commonly called the index finger, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during forty weeks.

(c) For the loss of a second finger, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during thirty-five weeks.

(d) For the loss of a third finger, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during twenty-two weeks.

(e) For the loss of a fourth finger, commonly called the little finger, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during sixteen weeks.

(f) The loss of the first phalange of the thumb or any finger shall be considered to be equal to the loss of one-half of such thumb or finger, and the compensation shall be for one-half of the periods of time above specified.

(g) The loss of more than one phalange shall be considered the loss of the entire finger or thumb. Provided, however, that in no case shall the amount received for more than one finger exceed the amount provided in this schedule for the loss of a hand.

(b) For the loss of a great toe, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during thirty-five weeks.

(j) For the loss of one of the toes other than a great toe, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during ten weeks.

(k) The loss of the first phalange of any toe shall be considered to be equal to the loss of one-half of such toe, and the compensation shall be for one-half of the periods of time above specified.

(l) The loss of more than one phalange shall be considered as the loss of the entire toe.

(m) For the loss of a hand, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during one hundred and seventy weeks.

(n) For the loss of an arm, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during two hundred and twenty weeks.

(o) For the loss of a foot, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during one hundred and forty-four weeks.

(p) For the loss of a leg, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during two hundred weeks.

(q) For the loss of an eye, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during one hundred and twenty weeks.

(r) The loss of both hands, or both arms, or both feet, or both legs, or both eyes, or any two thereof, shall constitute total and permanent disability, to be compensated according to the provisions of § 97-29.

(s) For the complete loss of hearing in one ear, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during seventy weeks; for the complete loss of hearing in both ears, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during one hundred and fifty weeks.

(t) Total loss of use of a member or loss of vision of an eye shall be considered as equivalent to the loss of such member or eye. The compensation for partial loss of or for partial loss of use of a member or for partial loss of vision of an eye shall be such proportion of the payments above provided for total loss as such partial loss bears to total loss, except that in cases where there is eighty-five per centum, or more, loss of vision in an eye, this shall be deemed "industrial blindness" and compensated as for total loss of vision of such eye.

(u) The weekly compensation payments referred to in this section shall all be subject to the same limitations as to maximum and minimum as set out in § 97-29.

(v) In case of serious facial or head disfigurement, the industrial commission shall award proper and equitable compensation not to exceed two thousand five hundred dollars. In case of enucleation where an artificial eye cannot be fitted and used, the industrial commission may award compensation as for serious facial disfigurement.
In case of serious bodily disfigurement, including the loss or permanent injury to any important organ of the body for which no compensation is payable under any other provisions of this Act, but excluding disfigurement resulting from permanent loss or permanent partial loss of use of any member of the body for which compensation is fixed in the above schedule, the industrial commission may award proper and equitable compensation not to exceed two thousand five hundred dollars. (1929, c. 120, s. 31; 1931, c. 104; 1943, c. 502, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added a proviso making serious or permanent injury to any member or organ of the body, not provided for, disfigurement, in an apparent effort to meet the decisions in the cases of Henninger v. Industrial Commission, 1 N. C. I. C. 3; Porter v. Jennings Cotton Mills, 1 N. C. I. C., 218. See 8 N. C. Law Rev. 421-424; 9 N. C. Law Rev. 465.

The cases treated below were decided under former provisions of this section.

Prior Astigmatism Does Not Bar Recovery.—In Schrum v. Catawba Upholstering Co., 214 N. C. 253, 199 S. E. 385, claimant was held entitled to full compensation for total loss of vision of eye by this section. It was held error to first deduct forty per cent loss due to astigmatism and award claimant eighty per cent of the amount recoverable for total loss of vision, and this result was not altered by § 97-33.

The effect of the proviso in subsec. (t) of this section relating to serious disfigurement is to exclude the compensation for facial and head disfigurement only from the "weekly compensation payments" contained in the "foregoing schedule of compensation" and does not exclude compensation from the limitation upon total compensation under the act. Arp v. Wood & Co., 207 N. C. 41, 42, 175 S. E. 569.

Section Is Constitutional.—This section, authorizing the industrial commission to award compensation for bodily disfigurement, is sufficiently certain and prescribes the standard and manner for determining an award, is sufficiently definite, and the provision is valid and constitutional and not void as a delegation of legislative power in contravention of Art. I, § 8 of the state Constitution. Baxter v. Arthur Co., 216 N. C. 276, 22 S. E. (2d) 621.

Determining Award for Serious Disfigurement.—In awarding compensation for serious disfigurement the commission, in arriving at the consequent diminution of earning power, should consider the natural physical handicap resulting, the probable effect of the handicap on earning power, the age, training, experience, education, occupation and adaptability of the employee to obtain and retain employment. Stanley v. Hyman-Michaels Co., 222 N. C. 257, 22 S. E. (2d) 570.

Such Award Is Separate.—Weekly compensation under the schedules cannot be increased by the inclusion of compensation for disfigurement. Compensation for disfigurement, if allowed, must be a separate award and the aggregate awards in no case may exceed the total compensation fixed in this section. Stanley v. Hyman-Michaels Co., 222 N. C. 257, 261, 22 S. E. (2d) 570.

Award If One Made for Total Permanent Disability.—No award can be made for disfigurement where an award has been made for total permanent disability. Likewise, disfigurement must be serious in order that compensation may be allowed; therefore, claimant in Hyman-Michaels Co., 222 N. C. 257, 265, 22 S. E. (2d) 570.

Disfigurement and Partial Loss of Arm.—Under this section the industrial commission has authority to award compensation for facial and bodily disfigurement, in this case resulting from scar tissue from burns, and to award compensation for partial loss of the use of the arm resulting from such scar tissue, when such awards are supported by competent evidence, provided the award for the disfigurement does not exceed the $2,500 maximum provided by the act, and provided further that the aggregate of all awards does not exceed the amount payable under the Act of 1929. Baxter v. Arthur Co., 216 N. C. 276, 4 S. E. (2d) 621.

Loss of Eye and Loss of Vision.—In construing this chapter, the words of the statute must be taken in their natural or ordinary meaning, and upon such construction the phrases "the loss of an eye" and "total loss of vision of an eye" in prescribing the amount of compensation to be allowed for injury thereto, mean the state or fact of losing an eye or total destruction of the vision of an eye as distinguished from the partial loss of such vision. Logan v. Johnson, 218 N. C. 200, 10 S. E. (2d) 653.

The evidence before the industrial commission was to the effect that plaintiff has "slight peripheral vision but only 0.001 percent of the center of cone of one eye, and that he had only a small percentage of normal vision in the eye." Held: The evidence does not support a finding that claimant had total loss of vision in the eye, and such finding and the award of compensation based thereon, is set aside and the cause remanded to the industrial commission for a proper finding from the evidence as to the extent or percentage of loss of vision claimant had sustained.

Enumeration of Total Permanent Disabilities Is Not Exclusive.—The fact that this section states that certain injuries shall be deemed permanent and total disabilities does not mean that permanent and total disabilities can be found in cases not enumerated, but that such injuries are conclusively presumed to be permanent total disabilities, and the commission shall so find. Stanley v. Hyman-Michaels Co., 222 N. C. 257, 22 S. E. (2d) 570.

§ 97-32. Refusal of injured employee to accept suitable employment as suspending compensation. If an injured employee refuses employment procured for him suitable to his capacity he shall not be entitled to any compensation at any time during the continuance of such refusal, unless in the opinion of the Industrial Commission such refusal was justified. (1929, c. 120, s. 32.)

§ 97-33. Prorating permanent disability received in other employment. —If any employee has a permanent disability or has sustained a permanent injury in service in the Army or Navy of the United States, or in another employment other than that in which he received a subsequent permanent injury by accident, such as specified in § 97-31 he shall be entitled to compensation only for the degree of disability which would have resulted from the later accident if the earlier disability or injury had not existed. (1929, c. 120, s. 33.)

§ 97-34. Employee receiving an injury when being compensated for former injury.—If an employee receives an injury for which compensation is payable, while he is still receiving or entitled to compensation for a previous injury in the same employment, he shall not at the same time be entitled to compensation for both injuries; employer liable only for subsequent injury. If any employee receives a permanent injury as specified in § 97-31 after having sustained another permanent injury in the same employment, he shall be entitled to compensation for both injuries, but the total compensation shall be paid by extending the period and not by increasing the amount of weekly compensation, and in no case exceeding five hundred weeks.

If an employee has previously incurred permanent partial disability through the loss of a hand, arm, foot, leg, or eye, and by subsequent accident incurs total permanent disability through the loss of another member, the employer's liability is for the subsequent injury only. (1929, c. 120, s. 35.)

§ 97-36. Accidents taking place outside state; employee receiving compensation from another state.—Where an accident happens while the employee is employed elsewhere than in this State which would entitle him or his dependents to compensation if it had happened in this State, the employee or his dependents shall be entitled to compensation, if the contract of employment was made in this State, if the employer's place of business is in this State, and if the residence of the employee is in this State; provided his contract of employment was not expressly for service exclusively outside of the State; provided, however, if an employee shall receive compensation or damages under the laws of any other State nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to permit a total compensation for the same injury greater than is provided for in this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 36.)

Editor's note.—For a discussion of this section, see 8 N. C. L. Rev. 427, et seq.

Exclusion of Non-Resident Employees Involves No Unconstitutional Discrimination.—The provision of the North Carolina compensation act excluding from its coverage non-resident employees involves no unconstitutional discrimination, the inadvisability of attempting to give the act territorial effect being a sufficient basis for the provision. Reaves v. Earle-Chesapeake Mill Co., 216 N. C. 462, 5 S. E. (2d) 305; Mallard v. Bohannon, 220 N. C. 536, 543, 18 S. E. (2d) 189.

Whether a contract of employment is expressly for service exclusively outside the state is a question of fact for the determination of the industrial commission. Mallard v. Bohannon, 220 N. C. 536, 18 S. E. (2d) 189.

Burden of Proof.—Where claimant establishes the jurisdictional facts, the burden is upon the employer and the insurance carrier to show that the contract of employment was expressly for service exclusively outside the state and thus bring themselves within the proviso of this section. Mallard v. Bohannon, 220 N. C. 536, 18 S. E. (2d) 189.

§ 97-37. Where injured employee dies before total compensation is paid.—When an employee receives or is entitled to compensation under this article for an injury covered by § 97-31 and dies from any other cause than the injury for which he was entitled to compensation, payment of the balance of compensation shall be made to his next of kin dependent upon him for support, in lieu of the compensation the employee would have been entitled to had he lived.

Provided, however, that if the death is due to a cause that is compensable under this article, and the dependents of such employee are awarded compensation therefor, all right to unpaid compensation provided by this section shall cease and determine. (1929, c. 120, s. 37.)

An award inadvertently entered by the Industrial Commission after the death of the claimant on appeal from the award is irregular, but not void, and the proceedings do not abate, this section providing that payment of the unpaid balance should be made to his next of kin dependent upon him at the time of his death. Butts v. Montague, 204 N. C. 389, 168 S. E. 215.

§ 97-38. Where death results proximately from the accident or injury; benefits; compensation to aliens; election by partial dependents.—If death results proximately from the accident and within two years thereafter, or while total disability still continues, and within six years after the accident, the employer shall pay for or cause to be paid, subject, however, to the provisions of the other sections of this article in one of the methods hereinafter provided, to the dependents of the employee, wholly dependent upon his earnings for support at the time of accident, a weekly payment equal to 60 per centum of his average weekly wages, but not more than twenty-one dollars, nor less than seven dollars, a week, for a period of three hundred and fifty weeks from the date of the injury, and burial expenses not exceeding two hundred dollars. If the employee leaves dependents only partly dependent upon his earnings for support at the time of the injury, the weekly compensation to be paid, as aforesaid, shall equal the same proportion of the weekly payments for the benefit of persons wholly dependent as the amount contributed by the employee to such partial dependents bears to the annual earnings of the deceased at the time of his injury: Provided, when the partial dependents are all next of kin as defined in § 97-40, and all so elect, they may receive benefits under § 97-40 instead of under this section. When weekly payments have been made to an injured employee before his death, the compensation to dependents shall begin from the date of the last of such payments, but shall not continue more than three hundred and fifty weeks from the date of the injury. Compensation under this article to aliens not residents (or about to become non-residents) of the United States or Canada shall be the same in amount as provided for residents, except that dependents in any foreign country shall be limited to surviving wife and child or children, or if there be no surviving wife or child, or children, to surviving father or mother whom the employee has supported, either wholly or in part for the period of one year prior to the date of the injury, and except that the Commission may, at its option, or upon the application of the insurance carrier shall, commute all future installments of compensation to be paid to such aliens by paying or causing to be paid to them one-half of the commuting amount of such future installments of compensation as determined by the Commission. (1929, c. 120, s. 38; 1943, cc. 163, 502, s. 5.)

Editor's note.—The first amendment added this provision to the second sentence, and the second 1943 amendment increased the maximum weekly payment specified in the first sentence from eighteen to twenty-one dollars. For a discussion of this section, see 8 N. C. L. Rev. 427, et seq.

Proximate Cause.—The employer is required to pay com-
§ 97-39. Widow, widower, or child to be conclusively presumed to be dependent; other cases determined upon facts; division of death benefit among those wholly dependent; when division among partially dependent. — A widow, a widower, and/or a child shall be conclusively presumed to be wholly dependent for support upon the deceased employee. In all other cases questions of dependency, in whole or in part, shall be determined in accordance with the facts as the facts may be at the time of the accident; but no allowance shall be made for any payment made in lieu of board and lodging or services, and no compensation shall be allowed unless the dependency existed for a period of three months or more prior to the accident. If there is more than one person wholly dependent, the death benefit shall be divided among them; the persons partly dependent, if any, shall receive no part thereof. If there is no one wholly dependent, and more than one person partially dependent, the death benefit shall be divided among them according to the relative extent of their dependency.

The widow, widower and all children of deceased employees shall be conclusively presumed to be dependent of deceased and shall be entitled to receive the benefits of this article for the full periods specified herein. (1929, c. 120, s. 30.)

Cross Reference.—For definition of terms "widow", "widower", and "child!", see § 97-2.

Editor's Note.—The determination of the extent of the dependency of deceased depends has proven troublesome. See 8 N. C. L. Rev. 426.

The common-law wife of a deceased employee is not entitled to compensation under the provisions of this act. Reeves v. Parker-Graham-Sexton, Inc., 199 N. C. 236, 237, 198 S. E. 577.

§ 97-40. Widow, widower, or child to be conclusively presumed to be dependent; other cases determined upon facts; division of death benefits among those wholly dependent; when division among partially dependent. — A widow, a widower, and/or a child shall be conclusively presumed to be wholly dependent for support upon the deceased employee. In all other cases questions of dependency, in whole or in part, shall be determined in accordance with the facts as the facts may be at the time of the accident; but no allowance shall be made for any payment made in lieu of board and lodging or services, and no compensation shall be allowed unless the dependency existed for a period of three months or more prior to the accident. If there is more than one person wholly dependent, the death benefit shall be divided among them; the persons partly dependent, if any, shall receive no part thereof. If there is no one wholly dependent, and more than one person partially dependent, the death benefit shall be divided among them according to the relative extent of their dependency.

The widow, widower and all children of deceased employees shall be conclusively presumed to be dependent of deceased and shall be entitled to receive the benefits of this article for the full periods specified herein. (1929, c. 120, s. 30.)

The common-law wife of a deceased employee is not entitled to compensation under the provisions of this act. Reeves v. Parker-Graham-Sexton, Inc., 199 N. C. 236, 237, 198 S. E. 577.

§ 97-40. Commutation of benefit and payment on absence of dependents; second injury fund. —If the deceased employee leaves no dependents the employer shall pay to the next of kin herein defined the commuted amount provided for under § 97-39 for whole dependents; but if the deceased left one or more dependents as herein defined, then said commuted amount shall be paid to the Industrial Commission to be held and disbursed by it in the manner hereinafter provided; one-half of said commuted amount shall be retained by the Industrial Commission and the other one-half paid to the personal representative of the deceased to be by him distributed to the next of kin as defined in the Statutes of Distribution; but if there be no next of kin as defined in the Statutes of Distribution, then the personal representative shall pay the same to the Industrial Commission after payment of costs of administration. For the purpose of this section the term "next of kin" shall include only the father, mother, widow, child, brother or sister of the deceased.

Amounts paid to the Industrial Commission under this section shall constitute a Second Injury Fund, to be held by the commission and disbursed by it in unusual cases of second injuries as follows: (1) To provide additional compensation in case of second injuries referred to in § 97-33: Provided, however, such additional compensation when added to the compensation awarded under said section shall not exceed the amount which would have been payable for both injuries had both been sustained in the subsequent accident. (2) To provide for an injured employee who has sustained permanent total disability, in the manner referred to in § 97-35, compensation in addition to the compensation which shall be awarded under said section; such additional compensation, however, when added to the compensation awarded under said section shall not exceed the compensation for permanent total disability as provided in § 97-29. The additional compensation herein provided for is to be paid out of the Second Injury Fund exclusively and only to the extent which the assets of said fund shall permit. (1929, c. 120, s. 40; 1931, c. 274, s. 5; 1931, c. 310.)

Editor's Note.—This section formerly provided for payment to the personal representative of a deceased employee who left no dependents. It was amended by the Act of 1931 so as to direct payment to a narrow class of next of kin specially defined by the section. Failing such persons, a more complicated arrangement is provided. The original Act was criticized as providing an unjustifiable windfall for non-dependent next of kin. The present amendment makes a half-hearted move toward cutting off this bounty for relatives at the expense of the employer, the industry and eventually the public, by turning a part of the money over to the Commission in unusual cases of second injuries. A clerical error in the amending Act was corrected by Public Laws 1931, c. 319. 9 N. C. L. Rev. 427, et seq.

For a discussion of this section, see 8 N. C. L. Rev. 427, et seq.

While there is no commuted amount provided by this section for payment to the personal representative of a deceased employee for death resulting from an injury compensable thereunder, the act provides the method by which such amount can be commuted, which is payable to the personal representative for the benefit of the heirs at law of the deceased employee. Reeves v. Parker-Graham-Sexton, Inc., 199 N. C. 236, 237, 198 S. E. 577.

When a deceased employee leaves no dependents, an award of compensation should be made to his next of kin, under this section, the employee's mother in this case, and the evidence is held sufficient in this case to support the
§ 97-41. Total compensation not to exceed $6,000.—The total compensation payable under this article shall in no case exceed Six Thousand ($6,000) Dollars. (1929, c. 120, s. 41.)

The amount allowed by the Industrial Commission for serious facial or head disfigurement is to be included with other amounts allowed an injured employee in determining the total compensation allowed such employee, which in no case may exceed six thousand dollars. Ap. v. Wood & Co., 207 N. C. 41, 175 S. E. 719.

The amount allowed the injured employee or his dependents, including funeral benefits provided by the act; Morris v. Laughlin Chevrolet Co., 217 N. C. 428, 8 S. E. (2d) 484, 128 A. L. R. 132.

§ 97-42. Deduction of payments.—Any payments made by the employer to the injured employee during the period of his disability, or to his dependents, which by the terms of this article were not due and payable when made, may, subject to the approval of the Industrial Commission, be deducted from the amount to be paid as compensation. Provided, that in the case of disability such deductions shall be made by shortening the period during which compensation must be paid, and not by reducing the amount of the weekly payment. (1929, c. 120, s. 42.)

§ 97-43. Commission may prescribe monthly or quarterly payments.—The Industrial Commission, upon application of either party, may, in its discretion, having regard to the welfare of the employee and the convenience of the employer, authorize compensation to be paid monthly or quarterly instead of weekly. (1929, c. 120, s. 43.)

§ 97-44. Lump sums.—Whenever any weekly payment has been continued for not less than six weeks, the liability therefor may, in unusual cases, where the parties agree and the Industrial Commission deems it to be to the best interest of the employee or his dependents, or where it will prevent undue hardships on the employer or his insurance carrier, without prejudicing the interests of the employee or his dependents, be redeemed, in whole or in part, by the payment by the employer of a lump sum which shall be fixed by the Commission, but in no case to exceed the commutable value of the future installments which may be due under this article. The Commission, however, in its discretion, may at any time in the case of a minor who has received permanently disabling injuries, either partial or total, provide that he be compensated, in whole or in part, by the payment of a lump sum, the amount of which shall be fixed by the Commission, but in no case to exceed the commutable value of the future installments which may be due under this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 44.)

§ 97-45. Reducing to judgment outstanding liability of insurance carriers withdrawing from state.—Upon the withdrawal of any insurance carrier from doing business in the state that has any outstanding liability under the workmen's compensation act, the insurance commissioner shall immediately notify the North Carolina industrial commission, and thereupon the said North Carolina industrial commission shall issue an award against said insurance carrier and commute the installments due the injured employee, or employees, and immediately have said award docketed in the superior court of the county in which the claimant resides, and the said North Carolina industrial commission shall fix a "change in condition" of the claimant, in the state of the residence of any such insurance carrier, and the proceeds from said judgment after deducting the cost, if any, of the proceeding, shall be turned over to the injured employee, or employees, taking from such employee, or employees, the proper receipt in satisfaction of his claim. (1933, c. 474.)

§ 97-46. Lump sum payments to trustee; receipt to discharge employer.—Whenever the Industrial Commission deems it expedient, any lump sum, subject to the provisions of § 97-45, shall be paid by the employer to some suitable person or corporation appointed by the Superior Court in the county wherein the accident occurred, as trustee, to administer the same for the benefit of the person entitled thereto, in the manner provided by the Commission. The receipt of such trustee for the amount as paid shall discharge the employer or any one else who is liable therefor. (1929, c. 120, s. 45.)

§ 97-47. Change of condition; modification of award.—Upon its own motion or upon the application of any party in interest on the grounds of a change in condition, the Industrial Commission may review any award, and on such review may make an award ending, diminishing, or increasing the compensation previously awarded, subject to the maximum or minimum provided in this article, and shall immediately send to the parties a copy of the award. No such review shall affect such award as regards any moneys paid but no such review shall affect the date of the last payment of compensation pursuant to an award under this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 46; 1931, c. 274, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out the words "last award" formerly ending this section and inserted in lieu thereof the words "last payment of compensation pursuant to an award under this chapter."

Change in Condition.—The industrial commission is given authority to review an award and end, diminish or increase the compensation previously awarded only when there has been a "change in condition" of the claimant. Murray v. Nebel Knitting Co., 214 N. C. 437, 199 S. E. 699.

Where there is ample evidence to support a finding of a change in condition, the Commission may, in the light of all the evidence which would support a contrary finding, the finding of the industrial commission from the conflicting evidence is conclusive. Knight v. Ford Body Co., 214 N. C. 197 S. E. 563.

Delay in Seeking Review.—Where the findings of the Industrial Commission, supported by evidence, are to the effect that the claimant's condition is such as to require further compensation, the order of the Commission denying further compensation will be upheld by the courts in view of the findings of the Lee v. Rose's 5-10-25c. Stores, 205 N. C. 310, 171 S. E. 87.

§ 97-48. Receipts relieving employer; payment to minors; when payment of claims to dependents subsequent in right discharges employer.
(a) Whenever payment of compensation is made to a widow or widower for her or his use, or for her or his use and the use of the child or children, the written receipt thereof of such widow or widower shall acquit the employer: Provided, however, that in order to protect the interests of minors or incompetents the Industrial Commission in its discretion may change the terms of any agreement with respect to whom compensation for the benefit of such minors or incompetents shall be paid.
(b) Whenever payment is made to any person eighteen years of age or over, the written receipt of such person shall acquit the employer.
(c) Payment of death benefits by an employer in good faith to a dependent subsequent in right to another or other dependents shall protect and discharge the employer, unless and until such dependents prior in right shall have given notice of his or their claims. In any case the employer is in doubt as to the respective rights of rival claimants, he may apply to the Industrial Commission to decide between them. (1929, c. 120, s. 47; 1931, c. 274, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out the former section and substituted the above. Cited in Lineberry v. Mebane, 219 N. C. 257, 11 S. E. (2d) 429.

§ 97-49. Benefits of mentally incompetent or minor employees under 18 may be paid to a trustee, etc.—If an injured employee is mentally incompetent or is under eighteen years of age at the time when any right or privilege accrues to him under this article, his guardian, trustee, or committee may in his behalf claim and exercise such right or privilege. (1929, c. 120, s. 48.)

This section is a mere declaration of the common law rule. Lineberry v. Mebane, 219 N. C. 257, 11 S. E. (2d) 429.

§ 97-50. Limitation as against minors or mentally incompetent.—No limitation of time provided in this article for the giving of notice or making claim under this article shall run against any person who is mentally incompetent, or a minor dependent, as long as he has no guardian, trustee, or committee. (1929, c. 120, s. 49.)

This section is applicable only to the mentally incompetent and the minor dependent. Lineberry v. Mebane, 219 N. C. 257, 11 S. E. (2d) 429.

§ 97-51. Joint employment; liabilities.—Whenever an employer, for whose injury or death compensation is payable under this article, shall at the time of the injury be in joint service of two or more employers subject to this article, such employers shall contribute to the payment of such compensation in proportion to their wages liability to such employee; provided, however, that nothing in this section shall prevent any reasonable arrangement between employers for a different distribution as between themselves of the ultimate burden of compensation. (1929, c. 120, s. 50.)

§ 97-52. Occupational disease made compensable; “accident” defined.—Disability or death of an employee resulting from an occupational disease described in § 97-53 shall be treated as the happening of an injury by accident within the meaning of the North Carolina Workmen’s Compensation Act and the procedure and practice and compensation and other benefits provided by said act shall apply in all such cases except as hereinafter otherwise provided. The word “accident,” as used in the Workmen’s Compensation Act, shall not be construed to mean a series of events in employment, of a similar or like nature, occurring continuously or at frequent intervals in the course of one employment, over extended periods of time, whether such events may or may not be attributable to fault of the employer, and disease attributable to such causes shall be compensable only if culminating in an occupational disease mentioned in and compensable under this article: Provided, however, no compensation shall be payable for asbestosis and/or silicosis as hereinafter defined if the employee, at the time of entering into the employment of the employer by whom compensation would otherwise be payable, falsely represented himself in writing as not having previously been disabled or laid off because of asbestosis or silicosis. (1935, c. 123.)

The rights and remedies of an employee under the Compensation Act exclude all other rights and remedies, and an employee bound by the act, may not maintain an action at law against the employer for injuries caused by an occupational disease not enumerated in this and the following section, even though the disease is the result of negligence. Murphy v. American Enka Corp., 213 N. C. 218, 195 S. E. 536.

This section, providing that only the occupational diseases therein specified should be compensable, relates only to occupational diseases, which are those resulting from long and continued exposure to risks and conditions inherent and usual in the nature of the employment, and does not provide for compensation for a disease not inherent in or incident to the nature of the employment when it results from an accident arising out of and in the course of the employment. MacRae v. Unemployment Compensation Comm., 217 N. C. 769, 9 S. E. (2d) 595. See also, Blassingame v. Southern Asbestos Co., 217 N. C. 223, 7 S. E. (2d) 478.

§ 97-53. Occupational diseases enumerated; when due to exposure to chemicals.—The following diseases and conditions only shall be deemed to be occupational diseases within the meaning of this article:
1. Anthrax.
2. Arsenic poisoning.
4. Zinc poisoning.
5. Manganese poisoning.
Provided the employee shall have been exposed to the hazard of lead poisoning for at least thirty days in the preceding twelve months’ period, and; provided further only the employer in whose employment such employee was last employed by exposed shall be liable.
7. Mercury poisoning.
8. Phosphorus poisoning.
9. Poisoning by carbon bisulphide, methanol, naphtha or volatile halogenated hydrocarbons.
10. Chrome ulceration.
11. Compressed-air illness.
12. Poisoning by benzol, or by nitro and amido derivatives of benzol (dinitrol-benzol, anilin, and others).
13. Infection or inflammation of the skin or eyes or other external contact surfaces or oral or nasal cavities due to irritating oils, cutting compounds, chemical dust, liquids, fumes, gases or vapors.
14. Epitheliomatous cancer or ulceration of the skin or of the corneal surface of the eye due to radium poisoning or injury by X-rays.
15. Blisters due to use of tools or appliances in the employment.
16. Bursitis, of the knee or elbow, due to intermittent pressure in the employment.
17. Miner's nystagmus.
18. Synovitis, caused by trauma in employment.
19. Tenosynovitis, caused by trauma in employment.
20. Carbon monoxide poisoning.
21. Poisoning by sulphuric, hydrochloric or hydrofluoric acid.
22. Asbestosis.
23. Silicosis.

Occupational diseases caused by chemicals shall be deemed to be due to exposure of an employee to the chemicals herein mentioned only when as a part of the employment such employee is exposed to such chemicals in such form and quantity, and used with such frequency as to cause the occupational disease mentioned in connection with such chemicals. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-54. "Disablement" defined. — The term "disablement" as used in this article as applied to cases of asbestosis and silicosis means the event of becoming actually incapacitated, because of such occupational disease, from performing normal labor in the last occupation in which remuneratively employed; but in all other cases of occupational disease shall be equivalent to "disability" as defined in § 97-54, paragraph (i). (1935, c. 123.)

Conflicting expert testimony on the question of whether the deceased employee died as a result of an occupational disease, caused by exposure to benzol poisoning, arising out of and in the course of his employment, was sufficient to sustain the commission's award of compensation to the employee's dependent. Tindall v. American Furniture Co., 216 N. C. 306, 4 S. E. (2d) 894.

§ 97-55. "Disability" defined. — The term "disability" as used in this article means the state of being incapacitated as the term is used in defining "disablement" in § 97-54. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-56. Limitation on compensable diseases. — The provisions of this article shall apply only to cases of occupational disease in which the last exposure in an occupation subject to the hazards of such diseases occurred on or after March 26, 1935. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-57. Employer liable. — In any case where compensation is payable for an occupational disease, the employer in whose employment the employee was last injuriously exposed to the hazards of such disease, and the insurance carrier, if any, which was on the risk when the employee was so last exposed under such employer, shall be liable. (1935, c. 123.)

This section makes no provision for a partnership in responsibility, has nothing to say as to the length of the last employment or the degree of injury which the deleterious exposure must inflict to merit compensation. It takes the breakdown practically where it occurs— with the last injurious exposure. Haynes v. Polspart Producing Co., 222 N. C. 163, 170, 22 S. E. (2d) 255.

§ 97-58. Claims for certain diseases restricted; time limit for filing claims. — An employer shall not be liable for any compensation for asbestosis, silicosis or lead poisoning unless disablement or death results within three years after the last exposure to such disease, or, in case of death, unless death follows continuous disability from such disease, commencing within the period of three years limited herein, and for which compensation has been paid or awarded or timely claim made as hereinafter provided and results within seven years after such last exposure. Claims for all other occupational diseases shall be barred unless claims shall be filed with the industrial commission within one year from the disablement or death caused by such occupational disease. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-59. Employer to provide treatment. — In the event of disablement from an occupational disease, the employer shall provide reasonable medical and/or other treatment for such time as in the judgment of the industrial commission will tend to lessen the period of disability or provide needed relief; provided, however, medical and/or other treatment for asbestosis and/or silicosis shall not exceed a period of three years nor cost in excess of three hundred thirty-four ($334.00) dollars in any one year; and, provided further, all such treatment shall be first authorized by the industrial commission after consulting with the advisory medical committee. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-60. Examination of employees by advisory medical committee; designation of industries with dust hazards. — The compulsory examination of employees and prospective employees as herein provided applies only to persons engaged or about to engage in an occupation which has been found by the industrial commission to expose them to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis. The industrial commission shall designate by order each industry found subject to any such hazard and shall notify the employers therein before such examinations are required. On and after March 26, 1935, it shall be the duty of every employer, in the conduct of whose business his employees or any of them are subjected to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis, to provide prior to employment necessary examinations of all new employees for the purpose of ascertaining if any of them are in any degree affected by asbestosis and/or silicosis or peculiarly susceptible thereto; and every such employer shall from time to time, as ordered by the industrial commission, provide similar examinations for all of his employees whose employment exposes them to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis. At least one member of the advisory medical committee or other physician designated by the industrial commission shall make such examinations or be present when any such examination is made. The refusal of an employee to submit to any such examination shall bar such employee from compensation or other benefits provided by this article in the event of disablement and/or death resulting from exposure to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis subsequent to such refusal. It shall be the duty of the industrial commission to make and/or order inspections of employment and to keep a record of all employment subjecting employees to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis, and to notify the employer in any case where such hazard shall have been found to exist. The unreasonable failure of an employer to provide for any examination or his unreasonable refusal to permit any inspection herein authorized shall constitute a misdemeanor and shall be punishable as such. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-61. Compensation for employee temporarily removed from hazardous employment; payment for training for readjustment to other work; waiver of right to compensation.—Where an employee, though not actually disabled, is found by the industrial commission to be affected by asbestosis and/or silicosis, and it is also found by the industrial commission that such employee would be benefited by being taken out of his employment and that such disease with such employee has progressed to such a degree as to make it hazardous for him to continue in his employment and is in consequence removed therefrom by order of the industrial commission, he shall be paid compensation as for temporary total or partial disability, as the case may be, until he can obtain employment in some other occupation in which there are no hazards of such occupational disease: Provided, however, compensation in no such case shall be paid for a longer period than twenty weeks to an employee without dependents, nor for a longer period than forty weeks to an employee with dependents, and in either case said period shall begin from the date of removal from the employment, unless actual disablement from such disease results later and within the time limited in § 97-58. When in any such case the forced change of occupation shall in the opinion of the industrial commission require that the employee be given special training in order to properly readjust himself there shall be paid for such training and incidental traveling and living expenses an additional sum which shall not exceed three hundred ($500.00) dollars, in the case of an employee without out dependents, and which shall not exceed five hundred ($500.00) dollars in the case of an employee with dependents, such payment to be made for the benefit of the employee to such person or persons as the industrial commission may direct; provided, however, no such payment shall be made unless the employee accepts the special training herein provided, nor shall payment be made for a longer period of time than the employee shall accept such special training. If an employee has been so compensated, and whether or not specially trained for another occupation, and he thereafter engages in any occupation which exposes him to hazards of silicosis and/or asbestosis without first having obtained the written approval of the industrial commission, neither he, his dependents, personal representatives nor any other person shall be entitled to any compensation for disablement or death from silicosis and/or asbestosis: Provided, however, that an employee so affected, as an alternative to forced change of occupation, may, subject to the approval of the industrial commission, waive in writing his right to compensation for any aggravation of his condition that may result from his continuing in his hazardous occupation; but in the event of total disablement and/or death as a result of asbestosis and/or silicosis with which the employee was so affected compensation shall nevertheless be payable, but in no case, whether for disability or death or both, for a longer period than one hundred (100) weeks. Such written waiver must be filed with the industrial commission, and the commission shall keep a record of each waiver, which record shall be open to the inspection of any interested person. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-63. Period necessary for employee to be exposed. — Compensation shall not be payable for disability or death due to silicosis and/or asbestosis unless the employee shall have been exposed to the inhalation of dust of silica or silicates or asbestosis dust in employment for a period of not less than two years in this state, provided no part of such period of two years shall have been more than ten years prior to the last exposure. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-64. General act to control as regards benefits. — Except as herein otherwise provided, in case of disablement or death from silicosis and/or asbestosis, compensation shall be payable in accordance with the provisions of the North Carolina Workmen's Compensation Act. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-65. Reduction of rate where tuberculosis develops.—In case of disablement or death due primarily from silicosis and/or asbestosis and complicated with tuberculosis of the lungs compensation shall be payable as hereinbefore provided, except that the rate of payments may be reduced one-sixth. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-66. Requirement as to written notice of disease to employer or industrial commission; waiver of notice and claim where payments are made; claim where benefits are discontinued. — Unless written notice of the first distinct manifestation of an occupational disease shall be given to the employer in whose employment the employee was last injuriously exposed to the hazards of such disease or to the industrial commission within thirty (30) days after such manifestation and, in case of death, unless also written notice of such death shall be given to the beneficiary hereunder to the employer or the industrial commission within ninety (90) days after occurrence, and unless claim for disability and/or death shall be made within one (1) year after the disablement or death, respectively, all rights to compensation for disability or death from an occupational disease shall be forever barred: Provided, however, that notice and/or claim shall be deemed waived in case of disability or death where the employer or insurance carrier voluntarily makes compensation payments therefor, or, within the time above limited, has actual knowledge of the occurrence of the disease or of the death and its cause, or by his or its...
of a case of occupational disease shall notify the employee, or, in case he is dead, his dependents or personal representative, and his employer to appear before the advisory medical committee at a time and place stated in the notice. If the employee be living, he shall appear before the advisory medical committee at the time and place specified then or thereafter and he shall submit to such examinations including clinical and x-ray examinations as the advisory medical committee may require. The employee, or, if he be dead, the claimant and the employer shall be entitled to have present at all such examinations, a physician admitted to practice medicine in the state who shall be given every reasonable facility for observing every such examination whose services shall be paid for by the claimant or by the employer who engaged his services. If a physician admitted to practice medicine in the state shall certify that the employee is physically unable to appear at the time and place designated by the advisory medical committee, such committee may, upon the advice of the industrial commission, and on notice to the employer, change the place and/or time of the examination so as to reasonably facilitate the examination of the employee, and in any such case the employer shall furnish transportation and provide for other reasonably necessary expenses incidental to necessary travel. The claimant and the employer shall produce to the advisory medical committee all reports of medical and x-ray examinations which may be in their respective possession or control showing the past or present condition of the employee to assist the advisory medical committee in reaching its conclusions. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-70. Report of committee to industrial commission.—The advisory medical committee, shall, as soon as practicable after it has completed its consideration of a case, report to the industrial commission its opinion regarding all medical questions involved in the case. The advisory medical committee shall include in its report a statement of what, if any, physician or physicians were present at the examination on behalf of the claimant or employer and what, if any, medical reports and x-rays were produced by or on behalf of the claimant or employer. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-71. Filing report; right of hearing on report.—The advisory medical committee shall file its report in triplicate with the industrial commission, which shall send one copy thereof to the claimant and one copy to the employer by registered mail. Unless within thirty days from receipt of the copy of said report the claimant and/or employer shall request the industrial commission in writing to set the case for further hearing for the purpose of examining and/or cross-examining the members of the advisory medical committee respecting the report of said committee, said report shall become a part of the record of the case and shall be accepted by the industrial commission as expert medical testimony to be considered as such in connection with all the evidence in the case in arriving at its decision. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-72. Appointment of advisory medical committee; terms of office; duties and functions;
§ 97-73. Expenses of making examinations. —The industrial commission shall establish a schedule of reasonable charges to defray expenses incurred in making examinations pursuant to §§ 97-60 and 97-67, such charges to be collected in accordance with rules and regulations which shall be adopted by the industrial commission. Said charges shall be collected from employers who by order of the industrial commission are determined to be subject to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-74. Expense of hearings taxed as costs in compensation cases; fees collected directed to general fund. —In hearings arising out of claims for disability and/or death resulting from occupational diseases the industrial commission shall tax as a part of the costs in cases in which compensation is awarded a reasonable allowance for the services of members of the advisory medical committee attending such hearings and reasonable allowances for the services of members of the advisory medical committee for making investigations in connection with all claims for compensation on account of occupational diseases, including uncontested cases, as well as contested cases, and whether or not hearings shall have been conducted in connection therewith. All such charges, fees and allowances to be collected by the industrial commission shall be paid into the general fund of the state treasury to constitute a fund out of which to pay the expenses of the advisory medical committee. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-75. Making up deficiency by assessment upon employers in hazardous industries; provision for annual fund. —In the event the amount appropriated by the general assembly and the charges, fees and allowances so assessed and collected and paid into the state treasury shall not be sufficient to pay the full cost incurred by the advisory medical committee in making examinations of employees and conducting post-mortem examinations, and in making investigations of claims arising under this article, and in testifying before the industrial commission, the industrial commission shall assess against the employers found by the industrial commission to be subject to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis an amount sufficient to pay such cost, said amount to be assessed against such employers pro rata on the basis of annual payroll. The industrial commission is authorized to assess and collect in advance in the beginning of any year from the employers subject to such hazard an amount estimated as necessary to pay such cost. Said amount when so assessed shall be paid by such employers within ten days after the notice of assessment, and when collected by the industrial commission shall be paid into the state treasury as a part of the fund out of which to pay the expenses of the advisory medical committee. In the event such amount so assessed shall be found to be in excess of the cost incurred by such advisory medical committee in the performance of its duties under this article, such excess shall be credited against the estimate of the cost to be incurred by said committee for the succeeding year. In case the amount so assessed shall be insufficient to pay such cost the industrial commission is authorized to make an additional assessment to be made at the end of the regular assessment period and to be collected from the employers subject to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-76. Inspection of hazardous employments; refusal to allow inspection made misdemeanor. —The industrial commission shall make inspections of employers for the purpose of ascertaining whether such employers, or any of them, are subject to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis, and for the purpose of making studies and recommendations with a view to reducing and/or eliminating such hazards. The industrial commission, and/or any person selected by it, is authorized to enter upon the premises of employers where examinations covered by this article are being carried on to make examinations and studies as aforesaid. Any employer, or any officer or agent of an employer, who unreasonably prevents or obstructs any such examinations or study shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 97-77. North Carolina Industrial Commission created; members appointed by Governor; terms of office; chairman. —There is hereby created a commission to be known as the North Carolina Industrial Commission, consisting of three commissioners who shall devote their entire time to the duties of the Commission. The Governor shall appoint the members of the Commission, one for a term of two years, one for a term of four years, and one for a term of six years. Upon the expiration of each term as above
§ 97-78. Salaries and expenses; secretary and other clerical assistance; annual report.—(a) The salaries of the chairman and each of the other Commissioners shall be fixed by the Governor, subject to the approval of the Advisory Budget Commission, such salaries to be payable in monthly installments.

(b) The Commission may appoint a secretary whose duties shall be prescribed by the Commission, and whose salary shall be fixed by the Governor, and fund for the payment of such salary shall be made available from the State treasury. The salary of the Secretary shall be determined by the Governor and the amount of such fund shall be determined by the Advisory Budget Commission. The Secretary shall receive such salary as may be fixed by the Commission and who may be removed at the will of the Commission.

(c) The Commission may employ such clerical or other assistance as it may deem necessary by the Commission. Such clerical or other assistance so employed shall be entitled to receive from the State, or other departments, commissions and agencies of the State government, such compensation as may be deemed necessary by the Commission.

(d) All salaries and expenses of the Commission shall be audited and paid out of the State treasury, in the manner prescribed for salaries and expenses of the State government.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1931 amendment the salary of the chairman was fixed at $4500 a year and each of the other Commissioners received $4000. Prior to the 1941 amendment the salary of the secretary was to be not more than $3,600 a year.

§ 97-79. Offices and supplies; deputies with power to subpoena witnesses and to take testimony; meetings; hearings.—(a) The Commission shall be provided with adequate offices in which the records shall be kept and its official business transacted during regular business hours; it shall also be provided with necessary office furniture, stationery, and other supplies.

(b) The Commission may appoint deputies, who shall have the power to subpoena witnesses and administer oaths, and who may take testimony in such cases as the Commission may deem proper. Such testimony shall be transmitted in writing to the Commission, and the Commission shall fix the compensation of such deputies.

(c) The Commission or any member thereof may hold sessions at any place within the State as may be deemed necessary by the Commission.

(d) Hearings before the Commission shall be open to the public and shall be stenographically reported, and the Commission is authorized to contract for the reporting of such hearings. The Commission shall by regulation provide for the preparation of a record of the hearings and other proceedings. (1929, c. 120, s. 53; 1931, c. 274, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 amended subsection (a) of this section by striking out after the word "offices" the following: "in the capitol, or some other suitable building in the City of Raleigh."

§ 97-80. Rules and regulations; subpoena of witnesses; examination of books and records; depositions; costs.—(a) The Commission may make rules, not inconsistent with this article, for carrying out the provisions of this article. Processes and procedure under this article shall be as summary and simple as reasonably may be, and may be deemed necessary, and fix the compensation of all persons so employed, such compensation to be in keeping with the compensation paid to the persons employed to do similar work in other State departments.

(b) The City Sheriffs and their respective deputies shall serve all subpoenas of the Commission or its deputies, and shall receive the same fees as are now provided by law for like services; each witness who appears in obedience to such subpoena of the Commission shall receive for attendance the fees and mileage for witnesses in civil cases in courts of the county where the hearing is held.

(c) The Superior Court shall, on application of the Commission or any member or deputy thereof, enquire by proper proceedings the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production and examination of books, papers and records. (1929, c. 120, s. 54.)

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of this section, see § N. C. L. Rev. 427, et seq.

Rehearing.—While there is no direct statutory provision giving the Industrial Commission power to order a rehearing of any case, many decisions of this court have determined that the Commission has such power in proper instances in accordance with its rules and regulations, as provided by this section, it being the intent of the Legislature, as gathered from the whole act, to give the Industrial Commission continuing jurisdiction of all proceedings begun before it with appellate jurisdiction in the Superior Court on matters of law only. Butts v. Montague Bros., 208 N. C. 186, 179 S. E. 799.

Construction of Rules.—Under this section the North Carolina Industrial Commission has the power not only to make rules governing its administration of the act, but also to construe and apply such rules. Its construction and application of rules adopted and made after proceedings received from employers in accordance with § 97-92 and shall publish the same in inspection of the parties directly involved, and only those at issue, and for a ruling thereon.

(a) The rules of the industrial commission, adopted pursuant to this section, relative to the introduction of new evidence at a review by the full commission, are in accord with the decisions of the supreme court as to granting new trials for newly discovered evidence. Tindall v. American Furniture Co., 216 N. C. 306, 4 S. E. (2d) 894.

(b) The Commission shall tabulate the accident reports received from employers in accordance with § 97-92 and shall publish the same in the annual report of the Commission and as often as may be deemed advisable, in such detailed or aggregate form as it may deem best. The name of the employer or employee shall not appear in such publications, and the employers' reports shall be private records of the Commission, and shall not be open for public inspection except for the inspection of the parties directly involved, and only to the extent of such interest. These reports shall not be used as evidence against any employer in any suit at law brought by any employee for the recovery of damages.

(c) The Commission shall make studies and investigations with respect to safety provisions and the causes of injuries in employments covered by this article, and shall from time to time make to the General Assembly and to employers and carriers such recommendations as it may deem proper as to the best means of preventing such injuries.

(d) In making such studies and investigations the Commission is authorized (1) to co-operate with any agency of the United States charged with the duty of enforcing any law securing safety against injury in any employment covered by this article, or with any State agency engaged in enforcing any laws to assure safety for employees, and (2) to permit any such agency to have access to the records of the Commission. In carrying out the provisions of this section the Commission or any officer or employee of the Commission is authorized to enter at any reasonable time upon any premises, tracks, wharf, dock, or other landing place, or to enter any building, where an employment covered by this article is being carried on, and to examine any tool, appliance, or machinery used in such employment. (1929, c. 120, s. 55.)

§ 97-82. Memorandum of agreement between employer and employee to be submitted to Commission on prescribed forms for approval.—If after seven days after the date of the injury, or any day in case of death, the employer and the injured employee or his dependents reach an agreement in regard to compensation under this article, a memorandum of the agreement in the form prescribed by the Industrial Commission, accompanied by a full and complete medical report, shall be filed with and approved by the Commission; otherwise such agreement shall be voidable by the employee or his dependents.

If approved by the Commission, therewith the memorandum shall be held for all purposes to be enforceable by the court's decree as hereinafter specified. (1929, c. 120, s. 56.)

§ 97-83. In event of disagreement, Commission is to make award after hearing.—If the employer and the injured employee or his dependents fail to reach an agreement, in regard to compensation under this article within fourteen days after the employee has knowledge of the injury or death, or if they have reached such an agreement which has been signed and filed with the Commission, and compensation has been paid or is due in accordance therewith, and the parties thereto then disagree as to the continuance of any weekly payment under such agreement, either party may make application to the Industrial Commission for a hearing in regard to the matters at issue, and for a ruling thereon.

Immediately after such application has been received the Commission shall set the date for a hearing, which shall be held as soon as practicable, and shall notify the parties at issue of the time and place of such hearing. The hearing shall be held in the city or county where the injury occurred, unless otherwise agreed to by the

§ 97-84. Determination of disputes by Commission.—The Commission or any of its members shall hear the parties at issue and their representatives and witnesses, and shall determine the dispute in a summary manner. The award, together with a statement of the findings of fact, rulings of law, and other matters pertinent to the questions at issue shall be filed with the record of the proceedings, and a copy of the award shall immediately be sent to the parties in dispute. The parties may be heard by a deputy, in which event he shall swear or cause the witnesses to be sworn, and shall transmit all testimony to the Commission for its determination and award. (1929, c. 120, s. 58.)

§ 97-85. Review of award.—If application is made to the Commission within seven days from the date when notice of the award shall have been given, the full Commission shall review the award, and, if good ground be shown therefor, reconsider the evidence, receive further evidence, rehear the parties or their representatives, and, if proper, amend the award. (1929, c. 120, s. 59.)

§ 97-86. Award conclusive as to facts; appeal; certified questions of law.—The award of the Commission, as provided in § 97-84, if not reviewed in due time, or an award of the Commission upon such review, as provided in § 97-85, shall be conclusive and binding as to all questions of fact; but either party to the dispute may, within thirty days from the date of such award, or within thirty days after receipt of notice to be sent by registered mail of such award, but not thereafter, appeal from the decision of the Commission to the Superior Court of the county in which the alleged accident happened, or in which the employer resides or has its principal office, for errors of law, under the same terms and conditions as govern appeals in ordinary civil actions. The Commission, of its own motion, may certify questions of law to the Supreme Court, for decision and determination by the said Court. In case of an appeal from the decision of the Commission, or of a certification by said Commission of questions of law, to the Supreme Court, said appeal or certification shall operate as a supersedeas, and no employer shall be required to make payment of the award involved in said appeal or certification until the questions at issue therein shall have been fully determined in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 60.)

Jurisdictional Facts Not Conclusive on Appeal.—Both a proper construction of the language of this section, and well-settled principles of law lead to the conclusion that where the jurisdiction of the Industrial Commission to hear and determine controversies arising under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act, is challenged by an employer, on the ground that he is not subject to the provisions of the Act, the findings of fact made by the Commission, on which its jurisdiction is dependent, are not conclusive on the Superior Court, and that said court has both the power and the duty, on the appeal of either party to the proceeding, to consider all of the evidence in the record, and find therefrom the jurisdictional facts, without regard to the finding of such facts by the Commission. Aycock v. Cooper, 202 N. C. 500, 163 S. E. 590.

Evidence Not Considered on Appeal.—Under this section an award of the Industrial Commission is conclusive and binding as to all questions of fact when supported by sufficient, competent evidence, and neither the Supreme Court nor the Superior Court can consider the evidence for the purpose of determining the facts on appeal. Reed v. Lavender Bros., 206 N. C. 588, 172 S. E. 877. See Walker v. Jeffreys, 216 N. C. 142, 11 S. E. (2d) 834.

The findings of fact by the Industrial Commission as to whether injury to an employee was by accident arising out of and in the course of employment are conclusive on the courts upon appeal when the findings are supported by competent evidence of sufficient probative force. Perdue v. State Board of Equalization, 203 N. C. 730, 172 S. E. 306.

The jurisdiction of the Superior Court is limited to questions of law only. Byrd v. Gloucester Lbr. Co., 207 N. C. 2176, 197 S. E. 272.

On appeal from the North Carolina Industrial Commission, the Superior Court has no power to review the findings of fact by the Commission. It can consider only errors of law appearing upon the record, and it is not competent to employ the courts upon appeal, but findings not supported by competent evidence of sufficient probative force. Perdue v. State Board of Equalization, 203 N. C. 730, 172 S. E. 306.

Findings supported by competent evidence are conclusive on appeal. Evidence not considered on appeal.—Under this section an award of the Industrial Commission is supported by competent evidence, the findings are conclusive on appeal, even though some incompetent evidence was also admitted upon the hearing. Carlton v. Bernhardt-Seagle Co., 210 N. C. 655, 188 S. E. 77. See also, Tomlinson v. Norwood, 208 N. C. 716, 182 S. E. 659; Swink v. Carolina Asbestos Co., 210 N. C. 224, 186 S. E. 278; see Porter v. Noland Co., 208 N. C. 306, 186 S. E. 278; see also, Baxley v. Arthur Co., 216 N. C. 724, 2 S. E. (2d) 853; Baxter v. Arthur Co., 216 N. C. 276, 4 S. E. (2d) 631; Tindall v. American Furniture Co., 216 N. C. 306, 4 S. E. (2d) 834; Stallcup v. Carolina Wood Turn- ing Co., 217 N. C. 302, 7 S. E. (2d) 550; MacRae v. United Furniture Co., 217 N. C. 769, 9 S. E. (2d) 873. The findings of fact by the Industrial Commission are supported by competent evidence of sufficient probative force. Chambers v. Union Oil Co., 199 N. C. 25, 153 S. E. 834.

Findings supported by competent evidence are conclusive on appeal. Findings and conclusions of the Commission not subject to review. Where the jurisdiction of the Industrial Commission to hear and determine controversies arising under the Act is challenged by an employer, on the ground that he is not subject to the provisions of the Act, the findings of fact made by the Commission, on which its jurisdiction is dependent, are not conclusive on the Superior Court, and that said court has both the power and the duty, on the appeal of either party to the proceeding, to consider all of the evidence in the record, and find therefrom the jurisdictional facts, without regard to the finding of such facts by the Commission. Aycock v. Cooper, 202 N. C. 500, 163 S. E. 590.
tent evidence are not conclusive and must be set aside. Logan v. Johnson, 218 N. C. 200, 19 S. E. (2d) 653.

The findings of the industrial commission that deceased was an employee of defendant at the time of his fatal injury, notwithstanding that the court might have reached a different conclusion if it had been the fact finding body. Cloninger v. Ambrosia Cake Co., 218 N. C. 455, 10 S. E. (2d) 653.

When the record contains evidence to support either a finding that the accident did or did not arise out of and in the course of employment, the findings of the industrial commission are not controlling with respect to appeals from the Industrial Commission to the Superior Court, where the injury occurred a certified copy of a memorandum of agreement approved by the Commission, or of an award of the Commission unappealed from or of an award of the Superior Court, when there has been an appeal from the award of the industrial commission when no appeal was taken will not lie until judgment on the award has been rendered by the superior court in accordance therewith and notify the parties. Champion v. Vance County Board of Health, 221 N. C. 96, 19 S. E. (2d) 239.

§ 97-87. Agreement approved by Commission or awards may be filed as judgments; discharge or restoration of lien. Any party in interest may file in the Superior Court of the county in which the injury occurred a certified copy of a memorandum of agreement approved by the Commission, or of an award of the Commission unappealed from or of an award of the Superior Court, when there has been an appeal from the award of the industrial commission when no appeal was taken will not lie until judgment on the award has been rendered by the superior court in accordance therewith and notify the parties. Such judgment shall have the same effect, and all proceedings in relation thereto shall be the same, as though said judgment had been rendered in a suit duly heard and determined by said court: Provided, if the judgment debtor shall file a certificate duly issued by the Industrial Commission affirmed upon appeal; whereupon said court shall render judgment in accordance therewith, and notify the parties. Such judgment shall have the same effect, and all proceedings in relation thereto shall be the same, as though said judgment had been rendered in a suit duly heard and determined by said court: Provided, if the judgment debtor shall file a certificate duly issued by the Industrial Commission, showing compliance with § 97-93, with the Clerk of the Superior Court in the county or counties where such judgment is docketed, then such clerk shall make upon the judgment roll an entry showing the filing of such certificate, which shall operate as a discharge of the lien of the said judgment, and no execution shall be issued thereon; provided, further, that if at any time there is default in the payment of any installment due under the award set forth in said judgment the court may, upon application for cause after ten days' notice to judgment debtor, order the lien of such judgment restored, and execution may be immediately issued thereon for past due installments and for future installments as they may become due. (1929, c. 120, s. 61.)

Where No Appeal Taken.—The procedure for the enforcement of an award of the industrial commission when no appeal is taken therefrom is by filing a certified copy of the award in the superior court, wherein said court shall render judgment in accordance therewith and notify the parties. Champion v. Vance County Board of Health, 221 N. C. 96, 19 S. E. (2d) 239.

Mandamus to Compel County Board of Health to Pay Award.—Mandamus to compel a municipal corporation, governmental agency or public officer to pay a claim is equivalent to execution, and therefore a suit to compel a county board of health to pay compensation by which a claim is paid by the industrial commission from which no appeal was taken will not lie until judgment on the award has been rendered by the superior court in accordance with the procedure outlined by this section. Champion v. Vance County Board of Health, 221 N. C. 96, 19 S. E. (2d) 239.

§ 97-88. Expenses of appeals brought by insurers.—If the Industrial Commission at a hearing on review or any court before which any proceedings are brought on appeal under this article, shall find that such hearing or proceedings were brought by the insurer, and the Commission or court by its decision orders the insurer to make, or to continue, payments of compensation to the injured employee, the Commission or court may further order that the cost to the injured employee of such hearing or proceedings, including therein reasonable attorney's fee to be determined by the Commission shall be paid by the insurer as a part of the bill of costs. (1929, c. 120, s. 62; 1931, c. 274, s. 11.)

Editor's Note.—This section was radically changed by the Act of 1931. It is the contention of the defendant employee, whose admission found to have been prosecuted or defended without reasonable grounds to be thrown on the party so acting unreasonably. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 407. (Falsification as valuing firm.”)

Discretion of Court.—The power given the court under this Act of 1931 to order that the cost to the injured employee in such proceedings, including a reasonable attorney’s fee to be determined by the Commission, shall be paid by the insurer as part of the bill of costs is within the discretion of the court, and an order appearing in the judgment will not be reviewed by this Court. Perdue v. State Board of Equalization, 205 N. C. 730, 735, 172 S. E. 396.

The allowance of attorneys’ fee to claimant’s attorneys in a proceeding under the Compensation Act, held, authorized by this section, and defendants’ assignment of error thereto is untenable. Brooks v. Carolina Rim, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 341, 174 S. E. 101.

§ 97-89. Commission may appoint qualified physician to make necessary examinations; expenses; fees.—The Commission or any member thereof may, upon the application of either party, or upon its own motion, appoint a disinterested and duly qualified physician or surgeon to make any necessary medical examination of the employee, and to testify in respect thereto. Said physician or surgeon shall be allowed traveling expenses and a reasonable fee to be fixed by the Commission, not exceeding ten dollars for each examination and report, but the Commission may allow additional reasonable amounts in extraordinary cases. The fees and expenses of such physician or surgeon shall be paid by the employer (1929, c. 120, s. 63; 1931, c. 274, s. 12.)

Editor’s Note.—The Act of 1931 substituted the word “employer” for the word “state” formerly ending this section.

§ 97-90. Legal and medical fees to be approved by Commission; misdemeanor to receive fees unapproved by Commission, or to solicit employment in adjusting claims.—(a) Fees for attorneys and physicians and charges of hospitals for services under this article shall be subject to the approval of the Commission; but no physician shall be entitled to collect fees from an employer or insurance carrier until he has made the reports required by the Industrial Commission in connection with the case.

(b) Any person (1) who receives any fee, other consideration, or any gratuity on account of services so rendered, unless such consideration or gratuity is approved by the Commission or such court, or (2) who makes it a business to solicit employment for a lawyer or for himself in respect of any claim or award for compensation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall, for each offense, be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment not to exceed one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. (1929, c. 120, s. 64.)

§ 97-91. Commission to determine all questions.—All questions arising under this article if not settled by agreements of the parties interested therein, with the approval of the Commission, shall be determined by the Commission, except as otherwise herein provided. (1929, c. 120, s. 65.)

§ 97-92. Employer’s record and report of accidents; records of Commission not open to public; supplementary report upon termination of disability; penalty for refusal to make report; when insurance carrier liable.—(a) Every employer shall hereafter keep a record of all injuries, fatal or otherwise, received by his employees in the course of their employment on blanks approved by the Commission. Within ten days after the occurrence and knowledge thereof, as provided in § 97-92, of an injury to an employee, causing his death, the death having occurred within three days, a report thereof shall be made in writing and mailed to the Industrial Commission on blanks to be procured from the Commission for this purpose.

(b) The records of the Commission, in so far as they refer to accidents, injuries, and settlements, shall not be open to the public, but only to the parties satisfying the Commission of their interest in such records and the right to inspect them.

(c) Upon the termination of the disability of the injured employee, or if the disability extends beyond a period of sixty days, then, also, at the expiration of such period, the employer shall make a supplementary report to the Commission on blanks to be procured from the Commission for the purpose.

(d) The said report shall contain the name, nature, and location of the business of the employer, and name, age, sex, and wages and occupation of the injured employee; and shall state the date and hour of the accident causing injury, the nature and cause of the injury, and such other information as may be required by the Commission.

(e) Any employer who refuses or neglects to make the report required by this section shall be liable for a penalty of not less than five dollars and not more than twenty-five dollars for each refusal or neglect. The fine herein provided may be assessed by the Commission in an open hearing, with the right of review and appeal as in other cases. In the event the employer has transmitted the report to the insurance carrier for transmission by such insurance carrier to the Industrial Commission, the insurance carrier willfully neglecting or failing to transmit the report shall be liable for the said penalty. (1929, c. 120, s. 66.)

Report as Evidence.—The report signed by the manager of such incorporated employer and filed with the industrial commission as required by this section, is competent upon the hearing and statements contained therein not within the personal knowledge of the manager are competent as an admission against interest. Carlton v. Bernhardt-Seagle Co., 210 N. C. 655, 188 S. E. 77, wherein the instant section was inadvertently referred to as § 8181 (vvv).

Report as Claim.—Where the employer has filed a report with the commission within the prescribed time upon verbal information elicited from the representative of the employee by its claim agent, the representative being unable to read or write, and, the employer admitting liability, the report has been filed with the industrial commission as a claim within one year from date of the accident and contains all facts necessary to make an award. Hanks v. Southern Public Utilities Co., 210 N. C. 312, 186 S. E. 252.

§ 97-93. Employers required to carry insurance or prove financial ability to pay for benefits.—Every employer who accepts the provisions of this article relative to the payment of compensation shall insure and keep insured his liability thereunder in any authorized corporation, association, organization, or in any mutual insurance association formed by a group of employers so authorized, or shall furnish to the Industrial Commission satisfactory proof of his financial ability to pay direct the compensation in the amount and manner and when due, as provided for in this article. In the latter case the Commission may require the deposit of an acceptable security, indemnity or bond to secure the payment of the compensation liabilities as they are incurred. (1929, c. 120, s. 67; 1943, c. 543.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment changed the word "liability" to the word "liability." For comment on the provisions of this and other sections in relation to the law of contracts, see 13 N. C. Law Rev. 163.

Employer Primarily Liable.—An award was entered in favor of the dependents of a deceased employee for payment of compensation in weekly installments for the death of the employee. After the insurance carrier had paid several installments, it defaulted in the payment of the balance because of insolvency. Under the provisions of the Compensation Act the employer is primarily liable to the employee, which obligation is unimpaired by its contract with an insurer for reinsurance protection, or by the insurer's subrogation to the rights of the employer upon paying or assuming the payment of an award, and the employer is not relieved of its liability to the dependents of the deceased employee for the balance of the weekly payments because of the insolvency of the insurer. Roberts v. City Ice, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 17, 185 S. E. 438.

The employer, held liable for the balance of an award after the insolvency of the insurer, is not entitled to a credit for the amount paid the dependents out of the judgment against the third person tort-feasor or for the amount of the attorney's fees in that action, the amount paid the dependents out of the judgment being an amount in addition to the award, and the award not being subject to reduction by such amount. Id.

§ 97-94. Employers required to give proof within 30 days that they have complied with preceding section; fine for not keeping liability insured; review; liability for compensation.—(a) Every employer accepting the compensation provisions of this article shall, within thirty days, after this article takes effect, file with the Commission, in form prescribed by it, and thereafter, annually or as often as may be necessary, evidence of his compliance with the provisions of § 97-93 and all others relating thereto.

(b) Any employer required to secure the payment of compensation under this article who refuses or neglects to secure such compensation shall be punished by a fine of ten cents for each day of such refusal or neglect, and until the same ceases; and he shall be liable during continuance of such refusal or neglect to an employee either for compensation under this article or at law in the same manner as provided in § 97-14.

The fine herein provided may be assessed by the Commission in an open hearing, with the right of review and appeal as in other cases. (1929, c. 120, s. 68.)

Quoted in Roberts v. City Ice, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 17, 185 S. E. 438.

§ 97-95. Actions against employers failing to effect insurance or qualify as self-insurer.—As to every employer subject to the provisions of this article who shall fail or neglect to keep in effect a policy of insurance against compensation liability arising hereunder with some insurance carrrier, as provided in § 97-93, or who shall fail to qualify as a self-insurer as provided in the article, in addition to other penalties provided by this article, such employer shall be liable in a civil action which may be instituted by the claimant for all such compensation as may be awarded by the industrial commission in a proceeding properly instituted before said commission, and such action may be brought by the claimant in the county of his residence or in any county in which the defendant has any property in this state; and in said civil action, ancillary remedies provided by law in civil actions of attachment, receivership, and other appropriate ancillary remedies shall be available to the plaintiff therein. Said action may be instituted before the award shall be made by the industrial commission in such case for the purpose of preventing the defendant from disposing of or removing from the state of North Carolina for the purpose of defeating the payment of compensation or property which the defendant may own in this state, and said action, after being instituted, the court may, upon proper amendment to the pleadings therein, permit the recovery of a judgment against the defendant for the amount of compensation duly awarded by the North Carolina industrial commission, and subject any property seized in said action for payment of the judgment so awarded. The institution of said action shall in no wise interfere with the jurisdiction of said industrial commission in hearing and determining the claim for compensation in full accord with the provisions of this article. That nothing in this section shall be construed to limit or abridge the rights of an employee as provided in subsection (b) of § 97-94. (1941, c. 352.)

This section affects procedure only and does not disturb any vested rights. Byrd v. Johnson, 220 N. C. 184, 16 S. E. (2d) 843.

The provisions of this section, in force from its ratification on 15 March, 1941, are available to claimants who instituted a civil action alleging that the industrial commission had awarded them compensation in a stipulated sum, but defendant employer had failed and neglected to keep in effect a policy of compensation insurance and had failed to qualify as a self-insurer, that defendant was disposing and removing all his property from the state, and prayed that a writ of attachment issue against defendant's property, and defendant's exception to the refusal of the court to vacate the writ of attachment therefore issued in the cause was without error. It appeared that the award of the industrial commission was entered 24 March, 1941. Byrd v.
Johnson, 220 N. C. 184, 16 S. E. (2d) 843.

§ 97-96. Certificate of compliance with law; revocation and new certificate. — Whenever an employer has complied with the provisions of § 97-93 relating to self-insurance, the Industrial Commission shall issue to such employer a certificate, which shall remain in force for a period fixed by the Commission, but the Commission may, upon at least sixty days' notice and a hearing to the employer, revoke the certificate upon satisfactory evidence for such revocation having been presented. At any time after such revocation the Commission may grant a new certificate to the employer upon his petition. (1929, c. 120, s. 69.)

§ 97-97. Insurance policies must contain clause that notice to employer is notice to insurer; etc.—All policies insuring the payment of compensation under this article must contain a clause to the effect that, as between the employer and the insurer, the notice or its form shall constitute notice of the occurrence of the injury on the part of the insured employer shall be deemed notice or knowledge as the case may be, on the part of the insurer; that jurisdiction of the insured for the purposes of this article shall be jurisdiction of the insurer, that the insurer shall in all things be bound by and subject to the awards, judgments, or decrees rendered against such insured employer, and that insolvency or bankruptcy of the employer and/or discharge therein shall not release the insurer from the payment of compensation for disability or death sustained by an employee during the life of such policy or contract. (1929, c. 120, s. 70.)

§ 97-98. Policy must contain agreement promptly to pay benefits; continuance of obligation of insurer in event of default.—No policy of insurance against liability arising under this article shall be issued unless it contains the agreement of the insurer that it will promptly pay to the person entitled to compensation enforceable in his name. (1929, c. 120, s. 71.)

§ 97-99. Law written into each insurance policy; form of policy to be approved by Insurance Commissioner; single catastrophe hazards.—(a) Every policy for the insurance against liability herein provided, or against liability therefor, shall be deemed to be made subject to the provisions of this article. No corporation, association, or organization shall enter into any such agreement, or set up any such clause in a policy of insurance unless its form shall have been approved by the Commissioner of Insurance.

(b) This article shall not apply to policies of insurance against loss from explosion of boilers or fly-wheels or other similar single catastrophe hazards: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve the employer from liability for personal injuries to his employees, or death caused thereby, under the provisions of this article, shall be construed to be a direct promise by the insurer to the person entitled to compensation enforceable in his name. (1929, c. 120, s. 71.)

§ 97-100. Rates for insurance; carrier to make reports for determination of solvency; tax upon premium; returned or canceled premiums; reports of premiums collected; wrongful or fraudulent representation of carrier punishable as misdemeanor; notices to carrier; employer who carries own risk shall make report on payroll.—(a) The rates charged by all carriers of insurance, including the parties to any mutual insurance association writing insurance against the liability for compensation under this article, shall be fair, reasonable, and adequate, with due allowance for risk, merit rating; and all risks of the same kind and degree of hazard shall be written at the same rate by the same carrier. No policy of insurance against liability for compensation under this article shall be valid until the rate thereof has been approved by the Commissioner of Insurance; nor shall any such carrier of insurance write any such policy or contract until its basic form has been approved and the premium rate for such form has been filed with, approved, and not subsequently disapproved by the Commissioner of Insurance.

(b) Each such insurance carrier shall report to the Commissioner of Insurance, in accordance with such reasonable rules as the Commissioner of Insurance may at any time prescribe, for the purpose of determining the solvency of the carrier and the adequacy of its rates; for such purpose the Commissioner of Insurance may inspect the books and records of such insurance carrier, and examine its agents, officers, and directors under oath.

c. Every person, partnership, association, corporation, whether organized under the laws of this or any other state or country, every mutual company or association and every other insurance carrier insuring employers in this State against liability for personal injuries to their employees, or death caused thereby, under the provisions of this article, shall be issued unless it contains the agreement of the insurer that it will promptly pay to the person entitled to compensation enforceable in his name. (1929, c. 120, s. 71.)

(d) Every such insurance carrier shall, for the six months ending December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, and semi-annually thereafter, make a return, verified by the affidavit of its president and secretary, or other chief officers or agents, to the Commissioner of Insurance, stating the amount of all such premiums and credits during the period covered by such return and the amount of all other taxes on such premiums, which tax shall be in lieu of all other taxes on such premiums, which tax shall be assessed and collected as hereinafter provided; provided, however, that such insurance carriers shall be credited with all canceled or returned premiums actually refunded during the year on such insurance.

(e) If any such insurance carrier shall fail or refuse to make the return required by this article, the said Commissioner of Insurance shall assess the tax against such insurance carrier at the rate herein provided for, on such amount of premium as he may deem just, and the proceedings thereon shall be the same as if the return had been made.

(f) If any such insurance carrier shall withdraw from business in this State before the tax shall fall due, as herein provided, or shall fail or neglect to pay such tax, the Commissioner of Insurance shall at once proceed to collect the same; and he is hereby empowered and authorized to employ such legal process as may be necessary for that purpose, and when so collected he shall pay the same into the State Commission v. O'Berry, 197 N. C. 595, 150 S. E. 44.

The powers and duties of the Industrial Commission as authorized and required to allocate to the Industrial Commission as is necessary to carry out its function efficiently, and the powers so much of the special fund created by said subsection (j) of § 97-100. (1931, c. 274, s. 14.)

Art. 2. Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau.

§ 97-102. Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau created; objects, functions, etc.—There is hereby created a Bureau to be known as the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau of North Carolina, with the following objects, functions and powers:

(a) To maintain rules and regulations and fix premium rates for Workmen's Compensation Insurance and equitably adjust the same as far as practicable, in accordance with the hazards of individual risks by inspection by the Bureau.

(b) To furnish upon request of any employer in the State of North Carolina or to any member of the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau of North Carolina, upon whose risk a compensation rating has been promulgated, information as to the rating, including the method of its compilation, and to encourage employers to reduce the number and severity of accidents by offering reduced premium rates for improved working conditions under such uniform system of merit or schedule rating as may be approved by the Insurance Commissioner of the State of North Carolina.

(c) The Bureau shall make a rating survey of each risk inspected which survey shall clearly show the location of all ratable items; Provided, however, that the Bureau shall not describe the items or make any recommendations for accident prevention, such service being reserved as a proper and essential field for the competitive enterprise of its individual members. (1931, c. 279, s. 1.)

Cross Reference.—As to automobile rate administrative office established in the bureau created by this section, see §§ 58-246 et seq.

§ 97-103. Membership in Bureau of carriers of insurance; acceptance of rejected risks; rules and regulations for maintenance; Insurance Commissioner or deputy ex-officio Chairman. — Before the Insurance Commissioner shall grant permission to any mutual association, reciprocal or stock company, or any other insurance organization to write compensation or employers' liability insurance in this State, it shall be a requisite that they shall subscribe to and become members of the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau of North Carolina.

It shall be the duty of all companies underwriting workmen's compensation insurance in this State and being members of the compensation rating and inspection bureau of North Carolina, as defined in this section, to insure and accept any workmen's compensation insurance risk which shall have been tendered to and rejected by any three members of said bureau in the manner hereinafter provided. When any such rejected risk is called to the attention of the compensation rating and inspection bureau of North Carolina and it appearing that said risk is in good faith entitled to such coverage, the bureau shall fix the initial premium therefor, (subject to the

All such rates compiled and promulgated by such Bureau shall be submitted to the Insurance Commissioner for approval as provided in § 97-100. (1931, c. 279, s. 3.)

§ 97-107. Stock workmen's compensation security fund created.—There is hereby created a fund to be known as "The Stock Workmen's Compensation Security Fund," for the purpose of assuring to persons entitled thereto the compensation provided by the workmen's compensation act for employments insured in insolvent stock carriers. Such fund shall be applicable to the payment of valid claims for compensation or death benefits heretofore or hereafter made pursuant to the workmen's compensation act, and remaining unpaid in whole or in part, by reason of the default, after the effective date of this article, of an insolvent stock carrier. Expenses of administration also shall be paid from the fund as herein provided. Such fund shall consist of all contributions received and paid into the fund by stock carriers, as herein defined, all property and securities acquired by and through the use of moneys belonging to the fund, and of interest earned upon moneys deposited or invested as herein provided. The fund shall be administered by the commissioner of this State in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1935, c. 228, s. 3.)

§ 97-108. Verified report of premiums to be filed by stock carrier.—Every stock carrier shall, on or before the first day of September, nineteen hundred and thirty-five, file with the treasurer of the State and with the commissioner identical returns, under oath, on a form to be prescribed and furnished by the commissioner, stating the amount of net written premiums for the six months' period ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred thirty-five on policies issued, renewed or extended by such carrier, to insure payment of compensation pursuant to the workmen's compensation act. For the purposes of this article "net written premiums" shall mean gross written premiums less return premiums on policies returned not taken, and on policies canceled. Thereafter, on or before the first day of March and September of each year, each such carrier shall file similar identical returns, stating the amount of such net written premiums for the six months' period ending, respectively, on the preceding December thirty-first and June thirtieth, on policies issued, renewed or extended by such carrier. (1935, c. 228, s. 4.)

§ 97-110. Contributions to stop when stock fund equals 5% of loss reserves; resumption of contributions. — When the aggregate amount of all such payments into the stock fund, together with accumulated interest thereon, less all its expenditures and known liabilities, becomes equal to five per centum (5%) of the loss reserves of all stock carriers for the payment of benefits under the workmen's compensation act as of December thirty-first, next preceding, no further contributions to said fund shall be required to be made; provided, however, that whenever, thereafter, the amount of said fund shall be reduced below five per centum (5%) of such loss reserves as of said date by reason of payments from and known liabilities of said stock fund, then such contribution to said fund shall be resumed forthwith, and shall continue until said fund, over and above its known liabilities, shall be equal to five per centum (5%) of such reserves. (1935, c. 228, s. 6.)

§ 97-111. Rules and regulations for administration of stock fund; examination of books and records; penalty for failure to file report or pay assessment; revocation of license.—The commissioner may adopt, amend and enforce rules and regulations necessary for the proper administration of said stock fund. In the event any stock carrier shall fail to file any return or make any payment required by this article, or in case the commissioner shall have cause to believe that any return or other statement filed is false or inaccurate in any particular, or that any payment made is incorrect, he shall have full authority to examine all the books and records of the carrier for the purpose of ascertaining the facts and shall determine the correct amount to be paid and may proceed in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover for the benefit of the fund any sums shown to be due upon such examination and determination. Any stock carrier which fails to make any statement as required by this article, or to pay any contribution to the stock fund when due, shall thereby forfeit to said fund a penalty of five per centum (5%) of the amount of unpaid contribution determined to be due as provided by this article plus one per centum (1%) of such amount for each month of delay, or fraction thereof, after the expiration of the first month of such delay, but the commissioner may upon good cause shown extend the time for filing of such return or payment. The commissioner shall revoke the certificate of authority to do business in this State of any carrier which shall fail to comply with the provisions of this article or to pay any penalty imposed in accordance with this article. Separation of stock fund; disbursements; investment; sale of securities.—The stock fund created by this article shall be separate and apart from any other fund so created and from all other state monies; the state treasurer shall be the custodian of said fund; and all disbursements from said fund shall be made by the state treasurer upon vouchers signed by the commissioner as hereinafter provided. The moneys of said fund may be invested by the state treasurer only in the bonds or securities which are the direct obligations of or which are guaranteed as to principal and interest by the United States or this State. The state treasurer may sell any of the securities in which said fund is invested, if advisable for its proper administration or in the best interests of such fund, and all earnings from the investments of such fund shall be credited to such fund. (1935, c. 228, s. 8.)
§ 97-113. Payment of claim from stock fund when carrier insolvent; subrogation of employer paying claim; recovery against employer or receiver of insolvent carrier.—A. A valid claim for compensation or death benefits, or installments thereof, heretofore or hereafter made pursuant to the workmen's compensation act, which has remained or shall remain due and unpaid for sixty days, by reason of default by an insolvent stock carrier, shall be paid from the stock fund in the manner provided in this section. Any person in interest may file with the commissioner an application for payment of compensation or death benefits from the stock fund on a form prescribed and furnished by the commissioner. If there has been an award, final or otherwise, a certified copy thereof shall accompany the application. The commissioner shall thereupon certify to the state treasurer such award for payment according to the terms of the same, whereupon payment shall be made by the state treasurer.

B. Payment of compensation from the stock fund shall give the fund no right of recovery against the employer.

C. An employer may pay such award or part thereof in advance of payment from the stock fund and shall thereupon be subrogated to the rights of the employee or other party in interest against such fund to the extent of the amount so paid.

D. The state treasurer as custodian of the stock fund shall be entitled to recover the sum of all liabilities of such insolvent carrier assumed by such fund from such carrier, its receiver, liquidator, rehabilitator or trustee in bankruptcy and may prosecute an action or other proceedings therefor. All moneys recovered in any such action or proceedings shall forthwith be placed to the credit of the stock fund by the state treasurer to reimburse the stock fund to the extent of the moneys so recovered and paid. (1935, c. 228, s. 9.)

Such fund shall be applicable to the payment of valid claims for compensation or death benefits heretofore or hereafter made pursuant to the workmen's compensation act, and remaining unpaid, in whole or in part, by reason of the default, after the effective date of this article, of an insolvent mutual carrier. Expenses of administration also shall be paid from the fund as herein provided. Such fund shall consist of all contributions received and paid into the fund by mutual carriers, as herein defined, of property and securities acquired by and through the use of moneys belonging to the fund and of interest earned upon moneys deposited or invested as herein provided. The fund shall be administered by the commissioner in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1935, c. 228, s. 10.)

§ 97-115. Verified report of premiums to be filed by mutual carrier; equalization of payments by reciprocal or inter-insurance exchanges.—Every mutual carrier shall, on or before the first day of September, nineteen hundred thirty-five, file with the treasurer of the State and with the commissioner identical returns, under oath, on a form to be prescribed and furnished by the commissioner of insurance, stating the amount of net written premiums for the six months' period ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred thirty-five, on policies issued, renewed or extended by such carrier, to insure payment of compensation pursuant to the workmen's compensation act during said period.

For the purpose of this article "net written premiums" shall mean gross written premiums less return premiums on policies returned not taken and on policies cancelled. Thereafter, on or before the first day of March and September, of each year, each such carrier shall file similar identical returns, stating the amount of such net written premiums for the six months' periods ending respectively, on the preceding December thirty-first and June thirtieth, on such policies issued, renewed or extended by such carrier.

Any reciprocal or inter-insurance exchange writing workmen's compensation insurance in North Carolina on September first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five and continuing to underwrite this class of insurance shall, upon the fund reaching its maximum contribution and the discontinuance of any collection thereof, continue to pay into such mutual fund as provided for in this section for a period of six years after the other members of the mutual fund have discontinued said payments in order to equalize the contributions of all members of the mutual fund, and thereafter such reciprocal or inter-insurance exchanges shall be subject to the provisions of this section. (1935, c. 228, s. 11; 1941, c. 298, s. 2.)

§ 97-116. Contributions by mutual carriers of 1% of net written premiums.—For the privilege of carrying on the business of workmen's compensation insurance in this State, every mutual carrier shall pay into the mutual fund of the total to be maintained by each such carrier, upon filing each semi-annual return, shall pay a sum equal to one per centum (1%) of its net written premiums, as shown by the return hereinbefore prescribed for the period ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred thirty-five, and thereafter each such mutual carrier, upon filing each semi-annual return, shall pay a sum equal to one per centum (1%) of its net written premiums, as shown for the period covered by such return. (1935, c. 228, s. 12.)

§ 97-117. Distribution of excess when mutual fund equals to 5% of loss reserves; distribution of fund when liabilities liquidated. — Whenever the mutual fund, less all its known liabilities, shall exceed five percentum (5%) of the loss reserves of all mutual carriers for the payments of losses under the workmen's compensation act, as of December thirty-first next preceding, distribution of such excess shall be made as provided in this section for a period of six years, commencing with the first fund year, to the mutual carriers in the proportion in which they respectively made contributions for such fund year: Provided, however, no such distribution shall reduce the fund, less all its known liabilities, below an amount equal to five per centum (5%) of such loss reserves as
§ 97-118. Administration, custody, etc., of mutual fund.—The provisions of §§ 97-111, 97-112, and 97-113 shall apply to the administration, custody and investment of and payments from the mutual fund and to this end those sections shall be read with the necessary changes in detail to adopt their provisions to mutual funds. (1935, c. 228, s. 14.)

§ 97-119. Notice of insolvency; report of claims and unpaid awards.—Forthwith upon any carrier becoming an insolvent stock carrier, or an insolvent mutual carrier, as the case may be, the commissioner shall so notify the North Carolina industrial commission, and the North Carolina industrial commission shall immediately advise the commissioner (a) of all claims for compensation pending or thereafter made against an employer insured by such insolvent carrier, or against such insolvent carrier; (b) of all unpaid or continuing agreements, awards or decisions made upon claims prior to or after the date of such notice from the commissioner; and (c) of all appeals from or applications for modifications or rescission or review of such agreements, awards or decisions. (1935, c. 228, s. 15.)

§ 97-120. Right of commissioner to defend claims against insolvent carriers; arrangement with other carriers to pay claims.—The commissioner or his duly authorized representative may investigate and may defend before the North Carolina industrial commission or any court any or all claims for compensation against an employer insured by an insolvent carrier or against such insolvent carrier and may prosecute any pending appeal or may appeal from or make application for modification or rescission or review of an agreement, award or decision against such employer or insolvent carrier. Until all such claims for compensation are closed and all such awards thereon are paid, the commissioner, the administrator of the funds, shall be a party in interest in respect to all such claims, agreements and awards. For the purposes of this article the commissioner shall have exclusive power to select and employ such counsel, clerks and assistants as may be deemed necessary and to fix and determine their powers and duties, and he may also, in his discretion, arrange with any carrier or carriers to investigate and defend any or all such claims and to liquidate and pay such as are valid and the commissioner may from time to time reimburse, from the appropriate fund, such carrier or carriers for compensation payments so made, together with reasonable allowance for the services so rendered. (1935, c. 228, s. 16.)

§ 97-121. Expenses of administering funds.—The expense of administering the stock fund shall be paid out of the stock fund and the expense of administering the mutual fund shall be paid out of the mutual fund. The commissioner shall serve as administrator of each fund without additional compensation, but may be allowed and paid from either fund expenses incurred in the performance of his duties in connection with that fund. The compensation of those persons employed by the commissioner shall be deemed administration expenses payable from the fund in the manner provided in § 97-112. The commissioner shall include in his regular report to the legislature a statement of the expense of administering each of such funds for the preceding year. (1935, c. 228, s. 17.)

§ 97-122. Contributions relieving carrier of posting bond or making special deposit.—Contributions made by any stock or mutual carrier to the funds created by this article shall relieve such carriers from filing any surety bond or making any deposit of securities required under the provisions of any law of this State for the purpose of securing the payment of workmen's compensation benefits only. (1935, c. 228, s. 18.)

Chapter 98. Burnt and Lost Records.

Sec. 98-1. Copy of destroyed record as evidence; may be recorded.

98-2. Originals may be again recorded.

98-3. Establishing boundaries and interest, where conveyance and copy lost.

98-4. Copy of lost will may be probated.

98-5. Copy of lost will as evidence; letters to relieve.

98-6. Establishing contents of will, where original and copy destroyed.

98-7. Perpetuating destroyed judgments and proceedings.

98-10. Destroyed witness tickets; duplicates may be filed.

§ 98-1. Copy of destroyed record as evidence; may be recorded.—When the office of any registry is destroyed by fire or other accident, and the records and other papers thereof are burnt or destroyed, the copies of all such proceedings, instruments and papers as are of record or registry, certified by the proper officer, though without the seal of office, shall be received in evidence whenever the original or duly certified exemplifications would be. Such copies, when the court is satisfied of their genuineness, may be ordered to be recorded or registered. (Rev., s. 327; Code, s. 55; C. S. 365.)

Admissibility of Parol Evidence.—As this chapter constitutes an enabling Act where it is attempted to prove by oral evidence and by copy the contents of the original report, the oral evidence is not excluded by its provisions. Hughes v. Frichard, 151 N. C. 53, 63 S. E. 596. Varner v. Johnston, 112 N. C. 570, 576, 17 S. E. 483; Mobley v. Watts, 98 N. C. 284, 286; 3 S. E. 677.

But when a deed is lost or destroyed a copy must be produced if there be one but if none, parol evidence may be admitted to prove its contents. Cowles v. Hardin, 91 N. C. 231; Dumas v. Powell, 14 N. C. 103; Baker v. Webb, 2 N. C. 43.

Same.—Statements of One Not a Party.—A statement that he owned no interest in the property made by one not a party to the suit, and under whom the plaintiff does not claim, is not admissible under this section. Jones v. Ballou, 139 N. C. 526, 52 S. E. 254.

Same.—Not Admissible to Change Certified Copy.—This section does not permit parol evidence to be introduced to show that the lost or destroyed original had a different description and thus correct a recorded certified copy of a deed. Hopper v. Justice, 111 N. C. 420, 10 S. E. 126.

§ 98-2. Originals may be again recorded.—All original papers, once admitted to record or registry, whereof the record or registry is destroyed, may, on motion, be again recorded or registered, on such proof as the court shall require. (Rev., s. 328; Code, s. 56; C. S. 366.)

Original Recorded upon Sufficient Evidence to Clerk.—Where the registry of partition is destroyed and a paper purporting to be the original is presented to the clerk, it is his duty, after satisfying himself upon evidence that the paper is the original one, to record it. Hill v. Lane, 149 N. C. 267, 52 S. E. 1067.

Effect of Failure to Re-register.—In Waters v. Crabtree, 105 N. C. 394, 402, 11 S. E. 240 the court said, in referring to this section: "This statutory provision, at least, admonished the public reason to expect that it would be faithfully observed by persons interested. However where the plaintiff has been negligent in again registering or recording a deed, such re-registration will not defeat the rights of bona fide purchasers.”

§ 98-3. Establishing boundaries and interest, where conveyance and copy lost.—When any conveyance of real estate, or of any right or interest therein, is lost, the registry thereof being also destroyed, any person claiming under the same may cause the boundaries thereof to be established in the manner provided in the chapter entitled Boundaries, or he may proceed in the following manner to establish both the boundaries and the nature of his estate:

He shall file his petition before the clerk of the superior court, setting forth the whole substance of the conveyance as truly and specifically as he can, the location and boundaries of his land, whose land it adjoins, the estate claimed therein, and a prayer to have his own boundaries established and the nature of his estate declared.

All persons claiming any estate in the premises, and those whose lands adjoin, shall be notified of the proceedings. Unless they or some of them, by answer on oath, deny the truth of all or some of the matters alleged, the clerk shall order a surveyor to run and designate the boundaries of the petitioner's land, and return his survey, with a plot thereof, to the court. This, when confirmed, shall, with the declaration of the court as to the nature of the estate of the petitioner, be registered and have, as to the persons notified, the effect of a deed for the same, executed by the person possessed of the same next before the petitioner. But in all cases, however, wherein the process of surveying is disputed, and the surveyor is forbidden to proceed by any person interested, the same proceedings shall be had as under the chapter entitled Boundaries.

If any of the persons notified deny by answer the truth of the conveyance, the clerk shall transfer the issues of fact to the superior court at term, to be tried as other issues of fact are required by law to be tried; and on the verdict and the pleadings the judge shall adjudge the rights of the parties, and declare the contents of the deed, if any deed is found by the jury, and allow the registration of such judgment and declaration, which shall have the force and effect of a deed. (Rev., s. 328; Code, s. 56; C. S. 367.)

Cross Reference.—As to boundaries, see chapter 38.

Remedy Additional and Not Exclusive.—This section is an enabling statute providing, not an exclusive remedy, but merely an additional one. Jones v. Ballou, 139 N. C. 526, 52 S. E. 254; Mobley v. Watts, 98 N. C. 284, 3 S. E. 677.

It does not repeal but adds the common law rules for establishing deeds, and a party may choose either mode. Cowles v. Hardin, 91 N. C. 237.

Evidence Must Show Existence, Nature, and Loss.—Before the deed can be made, the plaintiff must clearly prove that a deed did exist, its legal operation, and the loss thereof. Plummer v. Baskerville, 36 N. C. 252; Loftin v. Loftin, 96 N. C. 94, 1 S. E. 637.

Judgment has Only Force of Original.—A judgment under this section has only such force as the original conveyance would have as evidence had it not been destroyed. McNeely v. Lutom, 142 N. C. 327, 63 S. E. 279.

Private Acts.—In a special proceeding under a private act, similar to this section, to restore certain records lost by fire or other casualty, it is necessary to conform exactly to all the terms prescribed by the statute. Cowles v. Hardin, 79 N. C. 577.

§ 98-4. Copy of lost will may be probated.—In counties where the original wills on file in the office of the clerk of superior court, and will-books containing copies, are lost or destroyed, if the executor or any other person has preserved a copy of a will (the original being so lost or destroyed) with a certificate appended, signed by a clerk of the court in whose office the will was, or is required to be filed, stating that said copy is a correct one, this copy may be admitted to probate, under the same rules and in the same manner as now prescribed by law for proving wills. The proceedings in such cases shall be the same as though such copy was the original offered for the first time for probate, except that the clerk who signed such certificate shall, on oath, acknowledge his signature, or in case it appears that he has died or left the state, then his signature shall be proved by a competent witness; and the witness or witnesses to the original, who may be examined, shall be required to swear that he or they signed in the presence of the testator and by his direction a paper-writing purporting to be his last will and testament. (Rev., s. 329; Code, s. 57; C. S. 368.)

Cross Reference.—As to probate of wills generally, see §§ 312, 313.

Probated before Clerk.—The probate of a lost will must be made before the clerk of the Superior Court, he alone having jurisdiction. McCormick v. Jernigan, 110 N. C. 406, 14 S. E. 971.

Statute of Limitation Does Not Apply.—The statute of limitation does not apply to the simple taking probate of a will, hence it has no application to proceedings under this section. McCormick v. Jernigan, 110 N. C. 406, 14 S. E. 971.

§ 98-5. Copy of lost will as evidence; letters to issue.—In any action or proceeding at law, where it becomes necessary to introduce such will to establish title, or for any other purpose, a copy of the will and of the record of the probate, with a certificate signed by the clerk of the superior court for the county where the will may be recorded, stating that said record and copy are full evidence, stating that said record and copy are full evidence; and when a copy of a will is admitted to probate, the clerk shall thereupon issue letters testamentary. (Rev., s. 330; Code, s. 58; C. S. 369.)

§ 98-6. Establishing contents of will, where original and copy destroyed.—Any person desirous of establishing the contents of a will destroyed as aforesaid, there being no copy thereof, may file his petition in the office of the clerk of the superior court, setting forth the entire contents thereof, according to the best of his knowledge, information and belief. All persons having any interest in the same shall be made parties, and if the truth of such petition is denied, the issues of fact shall be transferred to the superior court at term for trial by a jury, whether the will was recorded, and if so recorded, the contents thereof, and the declarations of the judge shall be recorded as the will of the testator. Any devisee or legatee is a competent witness as to the contents of every part of said will, except such as may concern his own interest in the same. (Rev., s. 331; Code, s. 59; C. S. 370.)

Parol Evidence.—Parol evidence may be introduced to show the contents of a will which has been lost or destroyed. Cox v. Lumber Co., 124 N. C. 78, 32 S. E. 381; Varner v. Johnston, 112 N. C. 570, 17 S. E. 483.

And such evidence is also admissible to show existence of such a will, its probate and registration. Cox v. Lumber Co., 124 N. C. 78, 32 S. E. 381.

§ 98-7. Perpetuating destroyed judgments and proceedings.—Every person desirous of perpetuating the contents of destroyed judgments, orders or proceedings of court, or any paper admitted to record or registration, or directed to be filed for safe keeping, other than wills or conveyances of real estate, or some right or interest therein, or any deed or other instrument of writing, required to be recorded or registered, but not having been recorded or registered, it being competent to register or record said deed or other instrument at the time of its loss or destruction, may file his petition in the court having jurisdiction of like matters with the original proceeding, setting forth the substance of the whole record, deed, proceeding, or paper, which he desires to perpetuate. If, on the hearing, the court shall declare the existence of such record, deed, or proceeding, or paper at the time of the burning of the office wherein the same was located or kept, or other destruction thereof, and that the same was there destroyed, and shall declare the contents thereof, such declaration shall be recorded or registered, or filed, according to the nature of the paper destroyed. (Rev., s. 332; Code, s. 60; C. S. 371.)

Restored Record Free from Collateral Attack.—Where the destroyed record has been restored, the record so restored cannot be collaterally attacked. Branch v. Griffin, 59 N. C. 173, 5 S. E. 393, 398.

§ 98-8. Color of title under destroyed instrument.—Every person who has been in the continuous, peaceable and quiet possession of land, tenements, or hereditaments, situated in the county, claiming, using and occupying them as his own, for the space of seven years, under known boundaries, the title thereto being out of the state, is deemed to have been lawfully possessed, under color of title, of such estate therein as has been claimed by him during his possession, although he may exhibit no conveyance therefor: Provided, that such possession commenced before the destruction of the registry office, or other destruction as aforesaid, and also that any such person, or any person claiming by, through or under him, makes affidavit and produces such proof as is satisfactory to the court that the possession was rightfully taken; and if taken under a written conveyance, that the registry thereof was destroyed by fire or other means, or was destroyed before registry as aforesaid, and that neither the original nor any copy thereof is in existence: Provided further, that such presumption shall not arise against infants, persons of nonsane memory, and persons residing out of the state, who were such at the time of possession taken, and were not therefore barred, nor were so barred at the time of the burning of the office or other destruction.  (Rev., s. 333; Code, s. 61; C. S. 372.)

§ 98-9. Action on destroyed bond.—Actions on official or other bonds lodged in any office which are destroyed with the registry thereof may be prosecuted by petition against the principal and sureties thereto, and the proceedings shall be as in the former courts of equity.  (Rev., s. 334; Code, s. 62; C. S. 373.)

§ 98-10. Destroyed witness tickets; duplicates may be filed.—The court having jurisdiction of the action may allow other witness tickets to be filed in place of such as may be destroyed, upon the oath of the witness or other satisfactory proof.  (Rev., s. 333; Code, s. 63; C. S. 374.)

§ 98-11. Replacing lost official conveyances.—Where any conveyance executed by any person, sheriff, clerk and master, or commissioner of court has been lost, and registry thereof destroyed aforesaid, and there is no copy thereof, such persons, whether in or out of office, may execute another of like tenor and date, reciting therein that the same is a duplicate, and such deed shall be evidence of the facts therein recited, in all cases wherein the parties thereto are dead, or are incompetent witnesses to prove the same, to the extent as if it was the original conveyance.  (Rev., s. 336; Code, s. 64; C. S. 375.)

§ 98-12. Court records as proof of destroyed instruments set out therein.—The records of any court in or out of the state, and all transcripts of such records, and the exhibits filed therewith in any case, are admissible to prove the existence and contents of all deeds, wills, conveyances, depositions and other papers, copies whereof are therein set forth or exhibited, in all cases where the records and registry of such as were or ought to have been recorded and registered, or the originals of such as were not proper to be recorded or registered, have been destroyed as aforesaid, although such transcripts or exhibits have been informally certified; and when offered in evidence to have the same effect as though the transcript or record was the record of the court whose records are destroyed, and the deeds, wills and conveyances, depositions and other papers therein copied or therewith exhibited were original.  (Rev., s. 337; Code, s. 65; C. S. 376.)

Evidence of Court Records as Proof. — When papers have been lost and under competent evidence and instructions, the jury has found their contents to be as contended for by the plaintiff, the plaintiff prevails.  Fain v. Gaddis, 144 N. C. 765, 57 S. E. 1111.

§ 98-13. Copies contained in court records may be recorded.—The copies aforesaid of all such deeds, wills, conveyances and other instruments proper to be recorded or registered, as are mentioned in § 98-12, may be recorded or registered on application to the clerk of the superior court and due proof that the original thereof was genuine.  (Rev., s. 335; Code, s. 66; C. S. 377.)

§ 98-14. Rules for petitions and motions.—The following rules shall be observed in petitions and motions under this chapter:

1. The facts stated in every petition or motion shall be verified by affidavit of the petitioner that they are true according to the best of his knowledge, information, and belief.

Affidavit by Agent Not Sufficient. — In a proceeding under this section an affidavit by the agent of the petitioner that the facts set forth in the complaint "are true to the best of his knowledge, information and belief," is an insufficient verification. Cowles v. Hardin, 79 N. C. 577.

2. The instrument or paper sought to be established by any petition shall be fully set forth in its substance, and its precise language shall be stated when the same is remembered.

3. All persons interested in the prayers of the petition or decree shall be made parties.

4. Petitions to establish a record of any court shall be filed at term in the superior court of the county where the record is sought to be established. Other petitions may be filed in the office of the clerk.

5. The costs shall be paid as the court may decree.

6. Appeals shall be allowed as in all other cases, and where the error alleged shall be a finding by the superior court at term, of a matter of fact, the same may be removed on appeal to the supreme court, and the proper judgments directed to be entered below.

7. It shall be presumed that any order or record of the court of pleas and quarter sessions, which was made and has been lost or destroyed, was made by a legally constituted court, and the requisite number of justices, without naming said justices.  (Rev., s. 339; Code, s. 67; 1893, c. 295; C. S. 378.)

§ 98-15. Records allowed under this chapter to have effect of original records.—The records and registries allowed by the court in pursuance of this chapter shall have the same force and effect as original records and registries.  (Rev., s. 340; Code, s. 65; C. S. 379.)

No More Effect than Originals.—The copies have only the same force and effect as the lost or destroyed deeds would have had, if produced. MeNeely v. Laxton, 149 N. C. 327; 61 S. E. 240.

Bona Fide Purchaser—True Purpose of Original. — But it would seem that if the true purpose of the deed was to serve as a mortgage, and the plaintiff has been negligent in registering it, it will not have that effect against one who subsequently purchases without notice and for value. Waters v. Crabtree, 105 N. C. 402, 11 S. E. 240.

§ 98-16. Destroyed court records proved prima facie by recitals in conveyances executed before their destruction.—The recitals, reference to, or § 99-1. Libel against newspaper; defamation by or through radio or television station; notice before action.

§ 99-2. Effect of publication or broadcast in good faith and retraction.

§ 98-17. Conveyances reciting court records prima facie evidence thereof.—Such deed of conveyance, or other paper-writing, executed as aforesaid, and registered according to law, may be read in any suit now pending or which may hereafter be instituted in any court of this state, as prima facie evidence of the existence and validity of the decree, judgment, order, or other record upon which the same purports to be founded, without any other or further restoration or reinstatement of said decree, order, judgment, or record than is contained in this chapter. (Rev., s. 343; Code, s. 71; C. S. 383.)

Constitutionality. — The constitutionality and validity of this section cannot now be open to dispute, Barefoot v. Musselwhite, 153 N. C. 208, 211, 69 S. E. 71.

§ 98-18. Court records and conveyances to which chapter extends.—This chapter shall extend to records of any court which have been or may be destroyed by fire or otherwise, and to any deed of conveyance, paper-writing, or other bona fide evidence of title executed before the destruction of said records. (Rev., s. 343; Code, s. 71; C. S. 383.)

Local Modification.—Moore: C. S. 383; Cherokee, Graham, Haywood, and Madison: C. S. 384; 1935, c. 25.

§ 98-19. Replacement of stolen, lost or destroyed state or municipal bonds; indemnity bond. — The State Treasurer of the State of North Carolina, by and with the consent and approval of the governor and council of State, and the governing boards of the several counties, cities and political sub-divisions of the State, is hereby authorized and empowered to make settlement for or issue new bonds for bonds of the State or any of the political sub-divisions thereof, which have been stolen, lost or destroyed: Provided, that there is furnished an indemnity bond in double the amount of the said bonds, said indemnity bond to be approved by the State Treasurer or the governing boards of any political sub-division of the State issuing said replacement bonds: Provided further, that said indemnity bond shall clearly designate the said bonds which have been stolen, lost or destroyed: (1935, c. 292, s. 1.)

§ 98-20. Expenses borne by applicant. — All expenses in connection with printing and issuing any replacement bonds provided for in this article shall be borne by the person making application therefor. (1935, c. 292, s. 2.)
indicated, is a sufficient notice in writing as required by this section, the provisions of section 1-585 relating to notice in judicial proceedings after suit has been instituted, not being unconstitutional discrimination. Osborn v. Leach, 135 N. C. 626, 47 S. E. 811. A recovery of actual damages does not abridge the freedom of the press, as inhibited by our Constitution. Art. 1, sec. 20. Pentuff v. Park, 194 N. C. 146, 138 S. E. 616, 53 A. L. R. 625.

Same.—Same.—Amendment.—Where a demurrer was sustained to a complaint for libel against a newspaper because it failed to appear that notice of the action had been given, the trial court may permit an amendment showing cause why such notice was not given. Osborn v. Leach, 135 N. C. 626, 47 S. E. 811.

Same.—Same.—Amendment.—In an action against a newspaper for libel, the failure of the complaint to allege the giving of five days' notice renders it demurrable. Osborne v. Leach, 135 N. C. 628, 47 S. E. 811.

Osborn v. Leach, 135 N. C. 626, 47 S. E. 811.

Same.—Same.—Amendment.—In an action against a newspaper for libel, the failure of the complaint to allege the giving of five days' notice renders it demurrable. Osborne v. Leach, 135 N. C. 628, 47 S. E. 811.

Letter as Sufficient Notice.—A letter written by plaintiff and delivered, postpaid, with a demand for a categorical retraction and apology, for a clearly specified article, in which the alleged false and defamatory statements are plainly indicated, is a sufficient notice in writing as required by section 1-585. Williams v. Smith, 134 N. C. 249, 46 S. E. 502.

Same.—Same.—Amendment.—Where a demurrer was sustained to a complaint for libel against a newspaper because it failed to appear that notice of the action had been given, the trial court may permit an amendment showing cause why such notice was not given. Osborn v. Leach, 135 N. C. 626, 47 S. E. 811.

Letter as Sufficient Notice.—A letter written by plaintiff and delivered, postpaid, with a demand for a categorical retraction and apology, for a clearly specified article, in which the alleged false and defamatory statements are plainly indicated, is a sufficient notice in writing as required by section 1-585. Williams v. Smith, 134 N. C. 249, 46 S. E. 502.

When Malice May Not Be Inferred by Jury.—Malice may not be inferred by the jury from a false publication when defendant's uncontradicted evidence rebuts the presumption by showing that the publication was made in good faith through error, and that a correction and retraction was published upon defendant's ascertaining the facts. Lay v. Gazette Pub. Co., 209 N. C. 134, 183 S. E. 416.

Defendant's Pleading.—In an action for libel against a newspaper, the paper having pleaded a retraction of the publication, it is necessary for the defendant to show that the publication was made in good faith, and with reasonable ground to believe it to be true, in order to relieve the paper from punitive damages. Osborn v. Leach, 135 N. C. 628, 47 S. E. 811.

§ 99-3. Anonymous communications.—The two preceding sections shall not apply to anonymous communications and publications. (Rev., s. 2014; 1901, c. 557, s. 3; C. S. 2434.)

An article signed "Smith" is not an anonymous publication under this section. Williams v. Smith, 134 N. C. 249, 46 S. E. 502.

§ 99-4. Charging innocent woman with incontinency.—Whereas doubts have arisen whether actions of slander can be maintained against persons who may attempt, in a wanton and malicious manner, to destroy the reputation of innocent and unprotected women, whose very existence in society depends upon the unsullied purity of their character, therefore any words written or spoken as affecting her reputation when the slanderous words are explicit and positive. Bowden v. Bailes, 101 N. C. 612, 616, 8 S. E. 342.

Meaning of "Innocent Woman."—There is a manifest reason why the words "an innocent woman," in sec. 14-46 and "innocent and unprotected woman" in this section, should be construed to mean innocent of illicit sexual intercourse, as affecting her reputation when the slanderous words are spoken, for the purpose of those sections is to charge women who, however imprudent they may have been in other respects, have not so far "st早晚ed to folly" as to surrender their chastity and become incontinent, or who have regained their characters. State v. Ferguson, 107 N. C. 841, 849, 12 S. E. 574; State v. Johnson, 182 N. C. 883, 886, 109 S. E. 786.

Must Charge Adultery or Fornication.—Words which impugne to a female a wanton and lascivious disposition only are not actionable. Lucas v. Nichols, 52 N. C. 32.

The words, which amount to a charge of incontinency, must import not merely a lascivious disposition, but the criminal act of adultery or fornication. McBrayer v. Hili, 26 N. C. 136.

Same.—May Be Question for Jury.—When the words are ambiguous and admit of a slanderous interpretation, it becomes a question for the jury to determine whether they amounted to the slanderous charge in the reasonable apprehension of the hearers. State v. Howard, 169 N. C. 312, 84 S. E. 807.

Where a telegraph company sends a message containing words that amount to a charge of incontinency against a woman, demurrer to the evidence, as in case of nonsuit, is properly denied. Parker v. Edwards, 222 N. C. 75, 21 S. E. (2d) 876.

Complaint.—It is not necessary that the complaint should allege that the words were "wantonly and maliciously" uttered. Bowden v. Bailes, 101 N. C. 612, 8 S. E. 342.

Action by Husband.—An action by a husband for slander of his wife, the wife not being a party and the complaint not alleging no special damage to the husband, shall be dismissed on motion of the defendant, or ex mero motu, for failure of the complaint to state a cause of action. Harper v. Pinkston, 112 N. C. 293, 17 S. E. 161.

Evidence.—Testimony by the witnesses of statements made by defendant charging in effect that plaintiff had been guilty of illicit sexual intercourse, is competent although in the exact words alleged in the bill of particulars, it being sufficient if the testimony is confined in substance to the bill of particulars. Bryant v. Reedy, 214 N. C. 748, 200 S. E. 896.

Damages.—In an action by a woman for slander, for words alleged to have been spoken, amounting to a charge of incontinency, the plaintiff may, in the absence of proof of actual physical damages, recover compensatory damages; and upon proof that the words were spoken with malice, or that the conduct of the defendant was marked by gross and willful wrong, or was oppressive, vindictive damages may be awarded. Bowden v. Bailes, 101 N. C. 612, 8 S. E. 342.

Words charging an innocent woman with conduct amounting to incontinency are actionable per se, under this section, and will import not merely a lascivious disposition, but the criminal act of adultery and fornication, or that the conduct of the defendant was marked by gross and willful wrong, or was oppressive, vindictive damages may be awarded. Bowden v. Bailes, 101 N. C. 612, 8 S. E. 342.

As under this section the charge of incontinency made against an innocent woman, in whatever words written or spoken, conveyed to the hearer, is per se actionable, their utterance must be followed by the same consequence as to damages as the publishing of other defamatory imputations. Bowden v. Bailes, 101 N. C. 612, 616, 8 S. E. 342.

Examples.—Sec. 14-48 is the criminal statute making it a misdemeanor to slander an innocent woman. The word is similar to this section and the following expressions which were held to amount to a charge of incontinency, though decided in criminal cases, apply equally here. Sowers v. Sowers, 87 N. C. 303.

Calling an innocent woman a "d—d whore," in a loud and angry manner in the hearing alone of the wife of the speaker, is a charge of incontinency within the meaning of the statute. State v. Shoemaker, 101 N. C. 690, 8 S. E. 332.

To say of a woman, that "she was kept by a man" is actionable as a slander under our act of assembly. McBrayer v. Hili, 26 N. C. 136.

Same.—Not Sufficient.—The words that a woman "looked like a woman who had miscarried," do not, per se imply a charge of incontinency. State v. Benton, 117 N. C. 788, 790, 21 S. E. 452.

Calling a woman a "damned bitch" held not a charge of incontinency. State v. Harwell, 129 N. C. 595, 553, 40 S. E. 48.

Chapter 100. Monuments, Memorials and Parks.

Sec. 100-1. Memorials commission created; members; officers; quorum, etc.—A memorials commission is hereby created, to consist of the following officials, ex-officio: The governor of North Carolina, the secretary of the North Carolina historical commission, the head of the art department of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, the head of the history department of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and the head of the department of architecture of the North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering. The memorials commission shall have the power to adopt its own rules and to elect such officers from its own members as may be deemed proper. Three commissioners shall constitute a quorum. The members shall serve without compensation. (1941, c. 341, s. 1.)

Sec. 100-2. Approval of memorials before acceptance by state; regulation of existing memorials, etc.; “work of art” defined; highway markers.—No memorial or work of art shall hereafter become the property of the state by purchase, gift or otherwise, unless such memorial or work of art or a design of the same, together with the proposed location of the same, shall first have been submitted to and approved by said memorials commission; nor shall any memorial or work of art, until so submitted and approved, be contracted for, placed in or upon or allowed to extend over any property belonging to the state. No existing memorial or work of art owned by the state shall be removed, relocated, or altered in any way without approval of the memorials commission. The term “work of art” as used in this section shall include any painting, portrait, sculpture, monument, tablet, fountain, or other article or structure of a permanent character intended for decoration or commemoration. This section, however, shall not apply to markers set up by the state highway and public works commission in cooperation with the department of conservation and development and the state historical commission as provided by chapter one hundred and ninety-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five. (1941, c. 341, s. 2.)

Sec. 100-3. Approval of design, etc., of certain bridges and other structures.—No bridge, arch, gate, fence or other structure intended primarily for ornamental or memorial purposes and which is paid for either wholly or in part by appropriation from the state treasury, or which is to be placed on or allowed to extend over any property belonging to the state, shall be begun unless the design and proposed location thereof shall have been submitted to said memorials commission and approved by it. Furthermore, no existing structures of the kind named and described in the preceding part of this section owned by the state, shall be removed or remodeled without submission of the plans therefor to the commission and approval of said plans by the commission. This section shall not be construed as amending or repealing chapter one hundred and ninety-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five. (1941, c. 341, s. 3.)

Sec. 100-4. Governor to accept works of art approved by commission.—The governor of North Carolina is hereby authorized to accept, in the name of the state of North Carolina, gifts to the state of works of art as defined in § 100-2. But no work of art shall be so accepted unless and until the same shall have been first submitted to said memorials commission and by it judged worthy of acceptance. (1941, c. 341, s. 4.)

Sec. 100-5. Duties as to buildings erected or remodeled by state.—Upon request of the governor and the board of public buildings and grounds, said memorials commission shall act in an advisory capacity relative to the artistic character of any building constructed, erected, or remodeled by the state. The term “building” as used in this section shall include structures intended for human occupation, and also bridges, arches, gates, walls, or other permanent structures of any character not intended primarily for purposes of decoration or commemoration. (1941, c. 341, s. 5.)

Sec. 100-6. Disqualification to vote on work of art, etc.; vacancy.—Any member of said memorials commission who shall be employed by the § 100-7. Construction.—The provisions of this article shall not be construed to include exhibits of an educational nature arranged by museums or art galleries administered by the state or any of its agencies or institutions, or to prevent the placing of portraits of officials, officers, or employees of the state in the offices or buildings of the departments, agencies, or institutions with which such officials, officers, or employees are or have been connected. But upon request of such museums or agencies, said memorials commission shall act in an advisory capacity as to the artistic qualities and appropriations of memorial exhibits or works of art submitted to it. (1941, c. 341, s. 7.)

§ 100-8. Memorials to persons within twenty-five years of death; acceptance of commemorative funds for useful work.—No monument, statue, tablet, painting, or other article or structure of a permanent nature intended primarily to commemorate any person or persons shall be purchased or persons by providing funds for educational, health, charitable, or other useful work. The agency or institution to which such funds are offered for memorial enterprises shall exercise its discretion as to the acceptance and expenditure of such funds. (1941, c. 341, s. 8.)

Art. 2. Memorials Financed by Counties and Cities.

§ 100-9. County commissioners may protect monuments.—When any monument has been or shall hereafter be erected to the memory of our Confederate dead or to perpetuate the memory and virtues of our distinguished dead, if such monument is erected by the voluntary subscription of the people and is placed on the courthouse square, the board of county commissioners of such county are permitted to expend from the public funds of the county an amount sufficient to erect a substantial iron fence around such monument in order that the same may be protected. (Rev. s. 3928; 1905, c. 457; C. S. 6934.)

Cross Reference.—As to criminal liability for defacing or removing monuments, see § 14-148.

§ 100-10. Counties, cities, and towns may contribute toward erection of memorials.—Any county, city, or town by resolution first adopted by its governing body may become a member of any memorial association or organization for perpetuating the memory of the soldiers and sailors of North Carolina who served the United States in the great world war, or who fought in the war between the states, and may subscribe and pay toward the cost of the erection of any memorial to the memory of such soldiers and sailors such sums of money as its governing body may determine, and may be represented in such association or organization by such persons as its governing body may select. Any contribution so made shall be paid out of the general fund of such county, city, or town making same, on such terms as may be agreed upon by its governing body, and the officers having the control and management of the association or organization to which subscription and contributions are made. (1919, c. 21, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1924, c. 200; C. S. 6938.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment Public Laws 1923, ch. 200, there was added to this section the provision for perpetuating the memory of the soldiers and sailors of the Civil War.

§ 100-11. Duties.—The Board of Conservation and Development shall have complete control, care, protection and charge of that part of Mitchell's park acquired by the state. (1919, c. 316, s. 3; 1915, c. 76; 1921, c. 232, s. 1; 1925, c. 123, s. 23; C. S. 6940.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1921, c. 222, made the North Carolina geological and economic survey and the geological board the successor of the Mount Mitchell Park Commission and the Mitchell Peak Park Commission. The survey and board were in turn replaced by the board of conservation and development by authority of Public Laws 1923, c. 122.

§ 100-12. Roads, trails, and fences authorized; protection of property.—The Board of Conservation and Development is authorized and empowered to enter upon the land hereinbefore referred to, and to build a fence or fences around the same, also roads, paths, and trails and protect the property against trespass and fire and injury of any and all kinds whatsoever; cut wood and timber upon the same, but only for the purpose of protecting the other timber thereon and improving the property generally. (1919, c. 316, s. 5; 1921, c. 222, s. 1; 1925, c. 122, s. 23; C. S. 6942.)

§ 100-13. Fees for use of improvements; fees for other privileges; leases; rules and regulations.—The Board of Conservation and Development is further authorized and empowered to charge and collect fees for the use of such improvements as have already been constructed or may hereafter be constructed, on the park, and for other privileges connected with the full use of the park by the public; to lease sites for camps, houses, hotels, and places of amusement and business; and to make and enforce such necessary rules and regulations as may best tend to protect, preserve, and increase the value and attractiveness of the park. (1921, c. 222, s. 2; 1925, c. 122, s. 23; C. S. 6942(a).)

§ 100-14. Use of fees and other collections.—All fees and other money collected and received by the Board of Conservation and Development in connection with its proper administration of Mount Mitchell state park shall be used by said board for the administration, protection, improvement, and maintenance of said park. (1921, c. 222, s. 3; 1923, c. 122, s. 23; C. S. 6942(b).)

§ 100-15. Annual reports.—The Board of Conservation and Development shall make an annual report to the governor of all money received and § 101-1. Legislature may regulate change by general but not private law.

§ 101-2. Procedure for changing name; petition; notice.

§ 101-4. Proof of good character to accompany petition.

§ 101-5. Clerk to order change; certificate and record.

§ 101-6. Effect of change; only one change.
Chapter 102. Official Survey Base.

§ 102-1. Name and description. — The official survey base for the state of North Carolina shall be a system of plane coordinates to be known as the "North Carolina Coordinate System," said system being defined as a Lambert conformal projection of Clarke's spheroid of one thousand eight hundred sixty-six, having a central meridian of 79°—00' west from Greenwich and standard parallels of latitude of 34°—20' and 36°—10' north of the equator, along which parallels the scale shall be exact. All coordinates of the system are expressed in feet, the x coordinate being measured easterly along the grid and the y coordinate being measured northerly along the grid. The origin of the coordinates is hereby established on the meridian 79°—00' west from Greenwich at the intersection of the parallels 33°—45' north latitude, such origin being given the coordinates x = 2,000,000 feet, y = 0 feet. The precise position of said system shall be as marked on the ground by triangulation or traverse stations or monuments established in conformity with the standards adopted by the United States coast and geodetic survey for first- and second-order work; whose geodetic positions have been rigidly adjusted on the North American datum, whose plane coordinates have been computed on the system defined. (1939, c. 163, s. 1.)

§ 102-2. Physical control. — Any triangulation or traverse station or monument established as described in § 102-1 may be used in establishing a connection between any survey and the above-mentioned system of rectangular coordinates. (1939, c. 163, s. 2.)

§ 102-3. Use of name. — The use of the term "North Carolina Coordinate System" on any map, report, or survey, or other document, shall be limited to coordinates based on the North Carolina coordinate system as defined in this chapter. (1939, c. 163, s. 3.)

§ 102-4. Damaging, defacing, or destroying monuments. — If any person shall willfully damage, deface, destroy, or otherwise injure a station, monument or permanent mark of the North Carolina coordinate system, or shall oppose any obstacles to the proper, reasonable, and legal use of any such station or monument, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable to fine or imprisonment at the discretion of the court. (1939, c. 163, s. 4.)

§ 102-5. Limitations of use. — No coordinates based on the North Carolina coordinate system purporting to define the position of a point on a land boundary shall be presented to be recorded in public land records or deed records unless such point in the survey is within one-half mile of a station or monument of the North Carolina coordinate system: Provided, that the administrative agency for said system may, by rules and regulations, increase or decrease such limiting distance for the whole state, or any area or areas thereof. (1939, c. 163, s. 5.)

§ 102-6. Legality of use in descriptions. — For the purpose of describing the location of any survey station or land boundary corner in the state of North Carolina, it shall be considered a complete, legal, and satisfactory description to define the location of such point or points by means of coordinates of the North Carolina coordinate system as described herein, and within the limitations of § 102-5. (1939, c. 163, s. 6.)

§ 102-7. Use not compulsory. — Nothing contained in this chapter shall be interpreted as requiring any purchaser or mortgagee to rely wholly on a description based upon the North Carolina coordinate system. (1939, c. 163, s. 7.)

§ 102-8. Administrative agency. — The administrative agency of the North Carolina coordinate system shall be the North Carolina department of conservation and development, through its appropriate division, hereinafter called the "Agency." (1939, c. 163, s. 8.)

§ 102-9. Duties and powers of the agency. — It shall be the duty of the agency to make or cause to be made from time to time such surveys and computations as are necessary to further or complete the North Carolina coordinate system. The agency shall endeavor to carry to completion as soon as practicable the field monumentation and office computations of the coordinate system. For the purpose of this work the agency shall have the power to accept grants for the specific purpose of carrying on the work; to coordinate, organize, and direct any federal or other assistance which may be offered to further the work; to cooperate with any individual, firm, company, public or private agency, state or federal agencies, in the prosecution of the work; to enter into contracts or cooperative agreements with other state or federal agencies in promoting the work of the coordinating system. The agency shall further have the power to adopt necessary rules, regulations, and specifications relating to the establishment and use of the coordinate system as defined in this chapter, consistent with the standards and practice of the United States coast and geodetic survey. (1939, c. 163, s. 9.)

§ 102-10. Prior work. — The system of stations, monuments, traverses, computations, and other work which has been done or is under way in North Carolina by the so-called North Carolina geodetic survey, under the supervision of the United States coast and geodetic survey, is, where consistent with the provisions of this chapter, hereby... made a part of the North Carolina coordinate system. The surveys, notes, computations, monuments, stations, and all other work relating to the coordinate system, which has been done by said North Carolina geodetic survey, under the supervision and in cooperation with the United States coast and geodetic survey and federal relief agencies, hereby are placed under the direction of, and shall become the property of, the administrative agency, subject to the agreement of the federal Works Progress Administration. (1939, c. 163, s. 10).

§ 103-1. Work in ordinary calling on Sunday forbidden.—On the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, no tradesman, artificer, planter, laborer, or other person shall, upon land or water, do or exercise any labor, business or work, of his ordinary calling, works of necessity and charity alone excepted, nor employ himself in hunting, fishing or fouling, nor use any game, sport or play, upon pain that every person so offending, being of the age of fourteen years and upwards, shall forfeit and pay one dollar. (Rev., s. 2836; Code, s. 3789; R. C. c. 115; 1714, c. 30, s. 2; C. S. 3935.)

Cross References.—As to Sunday fishing, see § 113-247. As to catching oysters on Sunday, see § 113-216. As to unloading oysters on Sunday, see § 113-211.

Editor's Note.—The theory is often advanced that Christianity is a part of the law of the land, and, hence, independent of any statute, contracts made on Sunday are illegal, and that the statute forbidding labor on Sunday was enacted solely for religious reasons. However, to show the fallacy in this argument it need only be stated. Under our constitution, both State and Federal, no act can be required or forbidden by statute because such act may be in accordance with or opposed to the religious views of anyone. If, therefore, the cessation of labor or the prohibition or performance of any act were provided by statute for religious reasons, the statute could not be maintained.

Some economic or political ground must be found upon which to sustain the Sunday laws, because religious grounds will avail us nothing. Apparently the only ground upon which the “Sunday laws” can be sustained is that, in pursuance of the police power, the State can and ought to require a cessation of labor upon specified days, to protect the masses from being worn out by incessant and unremitting toil. If such days as the Legislature may care to designate to observe a cessation of toil for religious reasons, it is not an objection but a convenience. For a complete review of the Sunday laws, see Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 507, 47 S. E. 19.

Acts Which May Be Lawfully Done on Sunday.—It is said in State v. Ricketts, 74 N. C. 187, 192, “In this State every act may lawfully be done on Sunday which may lawfully be done on any other day, unless there is some statute forbidding it to be done on that day.” Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 507, 47 S. E. 19.

Keeping “Open Shop” on Sunday.—This section does not make keeping open shop and selling goods on Sunday an indictable offense, and an ordinance of a town, passed in pursuance of this section, for the better government of the town, prohibiting keeping open stores and other places of business on Sunday for the purpose of buying and selling, excepting ice, drugs and medicines, and permitting drug stores to sell soft drinks, etc., within certain hours, is not objectionable on the ground that the offense is covered by this section for the ordinance is passed under the police powers of the town, its violation is indictable, and in furtherance of local government, which the statute contemplates. State v. Medlin, 170 N. C. 682, 86 S. E. 597.

It is against the public policy of this State that one should pursue his ordinary business calling on Sunday, and such may not only be regulated by town ordinances, but altogether prohibited on that day; and an ordinance of this kind is not rendered invalid, as unduly discriminative, by reason of an exception in favor of drug stores or on account of this section. State v. Burbage, 172 N. C. 876, 89 S. E. 795.

Same—Powers of Towns—Commissioners of a town may, by valid ordinance, prohibit the opening of places of business in the town on Sunday, excepting drug stores. State v. Medlin, 170 N. C. 682, 86 S. E. 597.

Power to Prohibit Labor—Public and Private.—The Legislature has power to prohibit labor of this kind on Sunday, on the ground of public decency. But when it goes further and prohibits labor which is done in private, the power is exceeded and the statute is void. Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 507, 47 S. E. 19.

Sunday Contracts.—“In Melvin v. Easley, 52 N. C. 356, it was conceded by the whole court . . . that a contract made on Sunday was illegal, and could not support an action.” Covington v. Threadgill, 88 N. C. 166, 189.

“In the language of Caldwell, J., in Swann v. Swann, 21 Fed., at p. 105, It would be downright hypocrisy for a court to affect to believe that the moral sense of the community would be shocked by compelling a man to pay a note given for an honest debt because it was executed on the Lord’s Day.” And the same is true of the enforcement of any contract made on Sunday which may lawfully be done on Sunday. Riddle v. Whisnant, 220 N. C. 131, 134, 16 S. E. (2d) 698.

Cited in Riddle v. Whisnant, 220 N. C. 131, 134, 16 S. E. (2d) 698.
§ 103-2. Hunting or going armed on Sunday.—If any person shall, except in defense of his own property, hunt on Sunday with a dog, or shall be found off his premises on Sunday, having with him a shotgun, rifle or pistol, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and pay a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (Rev. s. 3842; Code, s. 3783; 1865-6, c. 18, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 3936.)

Local Modification.—Perquinans: 1935, c. 145.

Creates Two Offenses.—The section creates two offenses: 1st, Disputing the Sabbath with a dog, 2d, Being found off one's premises having a shotgun, rifle or pistol. State v. Howard, 67 N. C. 24.

§ 103-3. What process executed on Sunday.—It shall not be lawful for any sheriff, constable, or other officer to execute any summons, capias, or other process on Sunday, unless the same be issued for treason, felony or misdemeanor. (Rev. s. 2837; Code, s. 928; R. C., c. 31, s. 54; 1777, c. 118, s. 6; C. S. 3958.)

Cross Reference.—As to prohibition against arrest in civil cases on Sunday, see § 1-410.

Execution of Writ or Other Process.—It is unlawful for any officer to execute any writ or other process on Sunday. Dervies & Co. v. Summit, 86 N. C. 126.

Summons in a civil action served on Sunday is invalid and does not bind defendant, and the status of the process is the same as if service had not been made. Mintz v. Frink, 217 N. C. 101, 6 S. E. (2d) 804.

§ 103-4. Dates of public holidays.—The first day of January, the ninetieth day of January, the twenty-second day of February, Easter Monday, the twelfth day of April, the tenth day of May, the twentieth day of May, the thirtieth day of May, the fourth day of July, the first Monday in September, the eleventh day of November, Tuesday after the first Monday in November when a general election is held, the day appointed by the governor as a Thanksgiving Day, and the twenty-fifth day of December of each and every year, are declared to be public holidays; and whenever any such holiday shall fall on Sunday, the next succeeding secular or business day shall be a public holiday. Provided, the last Monday in January, and the thirtieth day of May shall be holidays for all banks and National Banks only. Effect of Legal Holiday Generally.—The statute declaring certain days public holidays, does not prohibit the pursuit of the usual avocations of citizens, nor public officers, or the courts from exercising their respective functions on those days. Provided, that the attendance of jurors, witnesses and suitors will not be enforced, and the courts will not sue out or enforce process on such days, yet the courts may lawfully proceed with the business before them. State v. Moore, 104 N. C. 740, 19 S. E. 183.

The section simply declares that certain days therein specified, in each year, shall be public holidays, and the following section prescribes when papers coming due on such days, or on Sunday, shall be payable. It does not purport, that persons or courts may not proceed with the business that ordinarily comes before them, especially when there is no objection. Id.

§ 104-15. Method of payment of expenses and awards.—Whenever said Commission has agreed with the owner of any such land or property as to the purchase price thereof, or the damage for the construction of the inland waterway has finally been determined in any condemnation proceeding necessary to secure such land or property, the said Commission is hereby authorized and directed to pay all of said sums and other expenses incident thereto by proper warrant upon the sum which may be appropriated for said purpose, and all such sums shall constitute and remain a fixed and valid claim against the State of North Carolina until paid and satisfied in full. (1931, c. 2, s. 4.)

Provided, that in every case the proceedings in condemnation shall be diligently prosecuted to final judgment in order that the just compensation to which the owners of the property are entitled may be ascertained and when so ascertained and determined such compensation shall be promptly paid as hereinafter in this act provided.

If the United States Government shall so determine, it is hereby authorized to condemn and use all lands and property which may be needed for the purposes herein set out and which is specifically described and set out in the preceding paragraphs, under the authority of said United States Government, and according to the provisions existing in the federal statutes for condemning lands and property for the use of the United States Government. The purpose of this subchapter shall be to raise and provide revenue for the necessary uses and purposes of the government and state of North Carolina during the next biennium and each biennium thereafter, and the provisions of this subchapter shall be and remain in full force and effect until changed by law. (1939, c. 158, ss. A, B, C; 1941, c. 50, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the provision relating to remaining in force until changed by law.

§ 105-2. General provisions.—A tax shall be and is hereby imposed upon the transfer of any property, real or personal, or of any interest therein or income therefrom, in trust or otherwise, to persons or corporations, in the following cases:

First. When the transfer is by will or by the intestate laws of this state from any person dying, seized or possessed of the property while a resident of the state.

Second. When the transfer is by will or intestate laws of this state, or of any property, real, personal, or mixed, tangible or intangible, over which the state of North Carolina has a taxing jurisdiction, including state and municipal bonds, and the decedent was a resident of the state at the time of death; when the transfer is of real property or intangible personal property within the state, or intangible personal property that has acquired a situs in this state, and the decedent was a non-resident of the state at the time of death.

Third. When the transfer of property made by a resident, or non-resident, is of real property within this state, or of goods, wares and merchandise within this state, or of any other property, real, personal, or mixed, tangible or intangible, over which the state of North Carolina has a taxing jurisdiction, including state and municipal bonds, by deed, grant, bargain, sale, or gift made in contemplation of the death of the grantor, vendor, or donor, or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after such death, including a transfer under which the transferor has retained for his life or any period not ending before his death (a) the possession or enjoyment of, or the income from, the property or (b) the right to designate the persons who shall possess or enjoy the property or the income therefrom. Every transfer by deed, grant, bargain, sale, or gift, made within three years prior to the death of the grantor, vendor, or donor, exceeding three per cent (3%) of his or her estate, or in the nature of a final disposition or distribution thereof, and without an adequate valuable consideration, shall, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be deemed to have been made in contemplation of death within the meaning of this section.

Fourth. When any person or corporation comes into possession or enjoyment, by a transfer from a resident, or from a non-resident decedent when such non-resident decedent's property consists of real property within this state or tangible personal property within the state, or intangible personal property that has acquired a situs in this state, of an estate in expectancy of any kind or character which is contingent or defeasible, transferred by any instrument taking effect after March 24, 1939, or of any property transferred pursuant to a power of appointment contained in any instrument.

Fifth. Whenever any person or corporation shall exercise a power of appointment derived from any disposition of property made either before or after the passage of this article, such appointment when made shall be deemed a transfer taxable under the provisions of this article, in the same manner as though the property to which such appointment relates belonged absolutely to the donee of such power, and had been bequeathed or devised by such donee by will, and the rate shall be determined by the relationship between the beneficiary under the power and the donor; and whenever any person or corporation having such power of appointment so derived shall, for any reason whatever, omit or fail to exercise the same, in whole or in part, or where for any reason the said power has not been exercised, a transfer taxable under the provisions of this article shall be deemed to take place, to the extent of such omission or failure, in the same manner as though the persons or corporations thereby becoming entitled to the possession or enjoyment of the property to which such power related had succeeded thereto by will of the donee of the power failing to exercise the same, taking effect at the time of such omission or failure.

Sixth. Whenever any real or personal property, or both, of whatever kind or nature, tangible or intangible, is disposed of by will or by deed to any person or persons for life, or the life of the survivor, or for a term of years, or to any corporation for a term of years, with the power of appointment in such person or persons, or in such corporation, or reserving to the grantor or devisee the power of revocation, the tax, upon the death of the person making such will or deed, shall, on the whole amount of property so disposed of, be due and payable as in other cases, and the said tax shall be computed according to the relationship of the first donee or devisee to the devisor.

Seventh. Where real property is held by husband and wife as tenants by the entirety, the surviving tenant shall be taxable on one-half of the value of such property.

Eighth. Where the proceeds of life insurance policies are payable as provided in § 105-13.

However, nothing in this article shall be construed as imposing a tax upon any transfer of intangibles not having a commercial or business situs in this State, by a person, or by reason of the death of a person, who was not a resident of this State at the time of his death, and, if held or transferred in trust, such intangibles shall not be deemed to have a commercial or business situs in this State merely because the trustee is a resident or, if a corporation, is doing business in this State, unless the same be employed in or held or used in connection with some business carried on in whole or in part in this State. (1939, c. 158, s. 1; 1941, c. 50, s. 2; 1943, c. 400, s. 1.)

I, § 17, of the State Constitution or of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States in Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Doughton, 187 N. C. 263, 121 S. E. 741, discussed in 3 N. C. Law Rev. 107. The judgment of this court, however, was reversed, on a writ of error, by the Supreme Court of the United States,Trust Co. v. Doughton, 270 U. S. 69, 46 S. Ct. 256, 70 L. Ed. 475, 43 A. L. R. 1374. It was there held that the statute under consideration is invalid because it denies the right to take property by devise or descent is not one of succession to property, and not on the property itself. (2) The right to take property by devise or descent is not one of this kind on the devolution of estates is based and its constitutionality is upheld is clearly established and is founded upon the policy which could be transferred by his death its property has been subjected to taxation. One of the sons of the decedent was a resident in the state, and then it may be taxed in common with any other property of the like kind. 141 S. E. 682, cited and approved in Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Doughton, 187 N. C. 263, 268, 121 S. E. 741.

Situs for Taxation.—"The personal property of a decedent, whatever its character and wherever located, is subject to an inheritance tax in the State in which its owner was a resident at the time of his death. Brown v. In re R. E. Morrison Trust, 138 N. C. 259, 263, 50 S. E. 682, cited and approved in Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Doughton, 187 N. C. 263, 267, 121 S. E. 741. See Waddell v. Doughton, 194 N. C. 537, 140 S. E. 160.

Transfers Subject to Tax.—The theory on which taxation of this kind on the devolution of estates is based and its constitutionality is upheld is clearly established and is founded upon the policy which could be transferred by his death its property has been subjected to taxation. One of the sons of the decedent was a resident in the state, and then it may be taxed in common with any other property of the like kind. 141 S. E. 682, cited and approved in Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Doughton, 187 N. C. 263, 268, 121 S. E. 741.

Thus if the testator or intestate has his domicile abroad and his personal estate were also, no tax would be demanded of the legatee or next of kin, though they might be resident in the state. State v. Brim, 57 N. C. 300, 301. After the legacy or distributive share has been received, it then becomes a part of the property of one of the citizens of the state, and then it may be taxed in common with any other property of the like kind. 141 S. E. 682, cited and approved in Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Doughton, 187 N. C. 263, 268, 121 S. E. 741.

Transfers Subject to Tax.—The right to impose an inheritance tax in the State in which its owner was a resident at the time of his death, was exercised by any statute passed by the legislature, not conducted for profit, incorporated or created under the laws of any other state: (a) Property passing to religious, charitable, or educational corporations, foundations or trusts, not conducted for profit, incorporated or created or administered under the laws of any other state: (b) Property passing to religious, charitable, or educational corporations, foundations or trusts, not conducted for profit, incorporated or created or administered under the laws of any other state: (c) Property passing to religious, charitable, or educational corporations, foundations or trusts, not conducted for profit, incorporated or created or administered under the laws of any other state: (d) The amount of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000,000), only, of the total proceeds of life insurance policies, when such policy or policies are payable to a beneficiary or beneficiaries named in such policy or policies, and such beneficiary or beneficiaries are any such person or persons as are designated in § 105-4, subsection (a): Provided, that no more than twenty thousand dollars ($20,000,000) of any such policy or policies shall be exempt from taxation, whether in favor of one beneficiary or more, and the such provision shall be prorated between the beneficiaties in proportion to the amounts received under the policies, unless otherwise provided by the decedent; and also proceeds of all life insurance policies payable to beneficiaries named in subsections (a), (b), and (c) of this section. And also proceeds of all policies of insurance and the proceeds of all adjusted service certificates that have been or may be paid by the United States Government, or that have been or may be paid on account of policies required to be carried by the United States government or any agency thereof, to the estate, beneficiary, or beneficiaries of any person who has served in the armed forces of the United States or in the merchant marine during the first or second World War; and proceeds, not exceeding the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), of all policies of insurance paid to the estate, beneficiary or beneficiaries of any person whose death was caused by enemy action during the second World War. This provision will be operative only when satisfactory proof that the death was caused by enemy action is filed by the executor, administrator, or beneficiary with the commissioner of revenue. (1939, c. 158, s. 2; 1943, c. 400, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment added the last sentence and rewrote the next to the last sentence of subsection (d).

Who Entitled to Exemption.—The court in State v. Scales, 172 N. C. 915, 90 S. E. 499, in construing the words "all other beneficiaries in this section," contained in subdivision one of the corresponding section of the prior law, held that the word "section" was intended and meant for the subdivision in which it was placed and does not apply to the whole section to exempt strangers of the blood of the testator along with the beneficiaries of the first class. It is to be noted, however, that the word "section" is no longer included in this clause, the word "subchapter" having been substituted therefor.

See Federal Revenue Act of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, or subsequent acts and amendments. (1939, c. 158, s. 6.)

(b) Where no tax is imposed by this schedule because of the exemptions herein or otherwise, and a tax is due the United States under the Federal Estate Tax Act, then a tax shall be due this state equal to the maximum amount of the credit allowed under said Federal Estate Tax Act; said additional tax shall be paid out of the same funds as any other tax against the estate.

(c) The administrative provisions of this schedule, wherever applicable, shall apply to the collection of the tax imposed by this section. The amount of the tax as imposed by subsection (a) of this section shall be computed in full accordance with the Federal Estate Tax Act as contained in the Federal Revenue Act of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, or subsequent acts and amendments, because of said tax herein imposed, then the heritage tax imposed by this schedule shall be increased by an estate tax on the net estate so that the aggregate amount of tax due this state shall be the maximum amount of credit allowed under said Federal Estate Tax Act; said additional tax shall be paid out of the same funds as any other tax against the estate.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1941 amendment, subsection (a) read, "Taxes that have become due and payable and the pro rata part of taxes accrued for the fiscal year that have not become due and payable."

§ 105-9. Deductions.—In determining the clear market value of property taxed under this article, or schedule, the following deductions, and no others, shall be allowed:

(b) Drainage and street assessments (fiscal year in which death occurred).

(c) Reasonable funeral and burial expenses.

(g) Amount actually expended for monuments not exceeding the sum of five hundred dollars ($500.00).

(h) Commissions of executors and administrators actually allowed and paid.

Editor's Note.—In case a tax has been imposed under Schedule G of the Revenue Act of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, or subsequent acts, upon any gift, and thereafter upon the death of the donor, the amount thereof is required by any provision of this article to be included in the gross estate of the decedent, then there shall be credited against and applied in reduction of the tax, which would otherwise be chargeable against the beneficiaries of the estate under the provisions of this article, an amount equal to the tax paid with respect to such gift. Any additional tax found to be due because of the inclusion of gifts in the gross estate of the decedent, as provided herein, shall be a tax against the estate and shall be paid out of the same funds as any other tax against the estate. (1939, c. 158, s. 65.)

§ 105-8. Credit allowed for gift tax paid.—In case a tax has been imposed under Schedule G of the Revenue Act of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, or subsequent acts, upon any gift, and thereafter upon the death of the donor, the amount thereof is required by any provision of this article to be included in the gross estate of the decedent, then there shall be credited against and applied in reduction of the tax, which would otherwise be chargeable against the beneficiaries of the estate under the provisions of this article, an amount equal to the tax paid with respect to such gift. Any additional tax found to be due because of the inclusion of gifts in the gross estate of the decedent, as provided herein, shall be a tax against the estate and shall be paid out of the same funds as any other tax against the estate. (1939, c. 158, s. 65.)

§ 105-10. Where no personal representative appointed, clerk of superior court to certify same to commissioner of revenue.—Whenever an estate subject to the tax under this article shall be settled or divided among the heirs-at-law, legatees or devi-
§ 105-11. Tax to be paid on shares of stock before transferred, and penalty for violation.—(a) Property taxable within the meaning of this article shall include bonds or shares of stock in any incorporated company incorporated in this state, regardless of whether or not such incorporated company shall have any or all of its capital stock invested in property outside of this state and doing business outside of this state, and the tax on the transfer of any bonds and/or shares of stock in any such incorporated company owning property and doing business outside of this state shall be paid before waivers are issued for the transfer of such shares of stock. No corporation of this state shall transfer any bonds or stock of said corporation standing in the name of or belonging to a decedent or in the joint names of a decedent and one or more persons, or in trust for a decedent, unless notice of the time of such transfer is served upon the commissioner of revenue at least ten days prior to such transfer, nor until said commissioner of revenue has served upon such corporation a receipt for the amount of any tax which may thereafter be assessed on account of the transfer of such bonds and/or stock, together with the interest thereon, and in addition thereto a penalty of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00), which liability for such tax, interest, and penalty, may be enforced by an action brought by the state in the name of the commissioner of revenue. The word "transfer" as used in this article shall be taken to include the passing of property or any interest therein, in possession or enjoyment, present or future, by distribution, or by statute, descent, devise, bequest, grant, conveyance, devise, or other consideration paid by decedent, if the amount so paid by the decedent bears to the total premiums paid for the insurance. In all such cases, it is declared that life insurance and the transfer of the proceeds thereof is testamentary in nature, and therefore, the payment of the premiums or other consideration by the decedent shall be deemed to effect a transfer from him at his death of benefits equal to such insurance proceeds, or such rateable proportion thereof regardless of (1) whether the decedent had taken or retained any incidents of ownership in said policies or (2) whether the decedent applied for said insurance or (3) whether the decedent was under a legal duty to pay said premiums or (4) whether said policies had been assigned irrevocably or otherwise, except as hereinafter stated. For the purposes of this article, the amount of premiums or other consideration paid by decedent, if the decedent transferred, by assignment or otherwise, a policy of insurance, the amount paid directly or indirectly by the decedent shall be reduced by an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount paid directly or indirectly by the decedent as the consideration in money or money's worth received by the decedent for the transfer bears to the value of the policy at the time of the transfer; or where, with respect to such insurance, the decedent possessed at his death any of the incidents of ownership, exercisable either alone or in conjunction with any other person. The term "incident of ownership," as used herein, does not include a reversionary interest: Provided, if the premiums or other considerations have been paid in whole or in part upon such insurance by a beneficiary thereof, said beneficiary shall not be taxed on that proportion of the insurance proceeds that the amount of the premiums or other consideration paid by said beneficiary bears to the total premiums paid on said insurance.

§ 105-12. Commissioner of revenue to furnish blanks and require reports of value of shares of stock.—(a) The commissioner of revenue shall prepare and furnish, upon application, blank forms covering such information as may be necessary to determine the amount of inheritance tax due the state of North Carolina on the transfer of any such bonds and/or stock; he shall determine the value of such bonds and/or stock, and shall have full authority to do all things necessary to make full and final settlement of all such inheritance taxes due or to become due.

(b) The commissioner of revenue shall have authority, under penalties provided in this article, to require that any reports necessary to a proper enforcement of this article be made by any such incorporated company owning property in this state. (1939, c. 158, s. 10.)

§ 105-13. Life insurance proceeds. — The proceeds of life insurance policies, payable at or after the death of the decedent, shall, in the following instances, be taxable at the rates provided in this article, subject to the exemptions in § 105-3:

1. When such insurance proceeds are receivable by the executor as insurance under policies upon the life of the decedent, regardless of whether the premiums thereon were paid by the decedent.

2. When such insurance proceeds are receivable by all other beneficiaries as insurance under policies upon the life of the decedent—

(a) Where such insurance was purchased with premiums, or other consideration, paid directly or indirectly by the decedent, in the proportion that the amount so paid by the decedent bears to the total premiums paid for the insurance.

(b) Where, with respect to such insurance, the decedent possessed at his death any of the incidents of ownership, exercisable either alone or in conjunction with any other person. The term "incident of ownership," as used herein, does not include a reversionary interest: Provided, if the premiums or other considerations have been paid in whole or in part upon such insurance by a beneficiary thereof, said beneficiary shall not be taxed on that proportion of the insurance proceeds that the amount of the premiums or other consideration paid by said beneficiary bears to the total premiums paid on said insurance.

The decedent shall not be deemed to have paid premiums or other consideration, within the mean-
§ 105-14. Recurring taxes. — Where property transferred has been taxed under the provisions of this article, such property shall not be assessed and/or taxed on account of any other transfer of like kind occurring within two years from the date of the death of the former decedent: Provided, that this section shall apply only to the transfers designated in §§ 105-4 and 105-5. (1939, c. 158, s. 12.)

Cross Reference.—As to definition of "transfer," see § 105-11.

§ 105-15. When all heirs, legatees, etc., are discharged from liability. — All heirs, legatees, devisees, administrators, executors, and trustees shall only be discharged from liability for the amount of such taxes, settlement of which they may be charged with, by paying the same for the use aforesaid as hereinafter provided. (1939, c. 158, s. 13.)

§ 105-16. Discount for payment in six months; interest after twelve months; penalty after two years. — All taxes imposed by this article shall be due and payable at the death of the testator, intestate, grantor, donor, or vendor, and if the same are paid within six months from the date of the death of the testator, intestate, grantor, donor, or vendor, a discount of three per cent (3%) shall be allowed and deducted from such taxes; if not paid within twelve months from date of death of the testator, intestate, grantor, donor, or vendor, such tax shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum, to be computed from the expiration of twelve months from the date of the death of such testator, intestate, grantor, donor, or vendor, until paid: Provided, that if the taxes herein levied shall not be paid in full within two years from date of death of testator, intestate, grantor, donor, or vendor, then and in such case a penalty of five per cent (5%) upon the amount of taxes remaining due and unpaid shall be added: Provided further, that the penalty of five per cent (5%) herein imposed may be remitted by the commissioner of revenue in case of unavoidable delay in settlement of estate or of pending litigation, and the commissioner of revenue is further authorized, in any case of protracted litigation or delay in settlement not attributable to laches of the party liable for the tax, to remit all or any portion of the interest charges accruing under this schedule, with respect to so much of the estate as was involved in such litigation or other unavoidable cause of delay: Provided, that time for payment and collection of such tax may be extended by the commissioner of revenue for good reasons shown. (1939, c. 158, s. 14.)

§ 105-17. Collection to be made by sheriff if not paid in two years. — If taxes imposed by this article are not paid within two years after the death of the decedent, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue to certify to the sheriff of the county in which the estate is located the amount of tax due upon such inheritance, and the sheriff shall collect the same as other taxes, with an addition of two and one-half per cent (2 1/2%) as sheriff's fees for collecting same, which fees shall be in addition to any salary or other compensation allowed by law to the sheriffs for their services; and the sheriff is hereby given the same rights of levy and sale upon any property upon which the said tax is payable as said officer is given for the collection of any and all other taxes. The sheriff shall make return to the commissioner of revenue of all such taxes within thirty days after collection. (1939, c. 158, s. 15.)

§ 105-18. Executor, etc., shall deduct tax. — The executor or administrator or other trustee paying any legacy or share in the distribution of any estate subject to said tax shall deduct therefrom at the rate prescribed, or if the legacy or share in the estate be not money, he shall demand payment of a sum to be computed at the same rates upon the appraised value thereof for the use of the state; and no executor or administrator shall pay or deliver any specific legacy or article to be distributed, subject to tax, except on the payment into his hands of a sum computed on its value as aforesaid; and in case of neglect or refusal by the party of said legatee to pay the same, such specific legacy or article, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, shall be sold by the executor or administrator at public sale, after notice to such legatee, and the balance that may be left in the § 105-19. Legacy for life, etc., tax to be retained, etc., upon the whole amount.—If the legacy or devise subject to said tax be given to a beneficiary for life or for a term of years, or upon condition or contingency, with remainder to take effect upon the termination of the life estate or the happening of the condition or contingency, the tax on the whole amount shall be due and payable as in other cases, and said tax shall be apportioned between such life tenant and the remainderman, such apportionment to be made by computation based upon the mortuary and annuity tables set out as §§ 8-46 and 8-47, and upon the basis of six per centum (6%) of the gross value of the estate for the period of expectancy of the life tenant in determining the value of the respective interests. When property is transferred or limited in trust or otherwise, and the rights, interest, or estate of the transferees or beneficiaries are dependent upon contingencies or conditions whereby they may be wholly or in part created, defeate, extended, or abridged, a tax shall be imposed upon said transfer at the highest rate, within the discretion of the revenue commissioner, which on the happening of any of the said contingencies or conditions would be possible under the provisions of this article, and such tax so imposed shall be due and payable forthwith out of the property transferred, and the commissioner of revenue shall assess the tax on such property. (1939, c. 158, s. 16.)

§ 105-20. Legacy charged upon real estate, heir or devisee to deduct and pay to executor, etc.—Whenever such legacy shall be charged upon or payable out of real estate, the heir or devisee of such real estate, before paying the same to such legatee, shall deduct the tax therefrom at the rates aforesaid, and pay the amount so deducted to the executor or administrator or the commissioner of revenue, and the same shall remain a charge upon such real estate until paid, and in default thereof the same shall be enforced by the decrees of the superior court to obtain from any executor or administrator, the address of the personal representative qualifying, the names and addresses of the heirs-at-law, legatees, devisees, etc., as far as practical; the approximate value and character of the property or estate, both real and personal; the relationship of the heirs-at-law, legatees, devisees, etc., to the decedents, and the provisions of this article, and such tax so imposed shall be due and payable forthwith out of the property transferred, and the commissioner of revenue shall assess the tax on such property. (1939, c. 158, s. 17.)

§ 105-21. Computation of tax on resident and non-resident decedents.—A tax shall be assessed on the transfer of property, including property specifically devised or bequeathed, made subject to tax as aforesaid in this state of a resident or non-resident decedent, if all or any part of the estate of such decedent, wherever situated, shall pass to persons or corporations taxable under this article, which tax shall bear the same ratio to the entire tax which the said estate would have been subject to under this article if such decedent had been a resident of this state, and all his property, real and personal, had been located within this state, as such taxable property within this state bears to the entire estate, wherever situated. It shall be the duty of the personal representative to furnish to the commissioner of revenue such information as may be necessary or required to enable the commissioner to ascertain a proper computation of his tax. Where the personal representative fails or refuses to furnish information from which this assessment can be made, the property in this state liable to tax under this article shall be taxed at the highest rate applicable to those who are strangers in blood. (1939, c. 158, s. 19.)

§ 105-22. Duties of the clerks of the superior court.—(a) It shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court to obtain from any executor or administrator, at the time of the qualification of such executor or administrator, the address of the personal representative qualifying, the names and addresses of the heirs-at-law, legatees, devisees, etc., as far as practical; the approximate value and character of the property or estate, both real and personal; the relationship of the heirs-at-law, legatees, devisees, etc., to the decedents, and the provisions of this article, and such tax so imposed shall be due and payable forthwith out of the property transferred, and the commissioner of revenue shall assess the tax on such property. The statement shall also contain a complete inventory of all the real property of the decedent located in and outside the state, and of all personal property, wherever situated, of the estate, of all insurance policies upon the life of the decedent, together with an appraisal under oath of the value of each class of property embraced in the inventory, and the value of the whole, together with any deductions permitted by this statute, so far as they may be ascertained at the time of filing such statement; and also the full statement of all gifts or advancements made by deed, grant, or sale to any person or corporation, in trust or otherwise, within three years prior to the death of the decedent. The statement herein provided for shall be filed with the commissioner of revenue at Raleigh, North Carolina, within six months after the qualification of the executor or administrator, upon blank forms to be prepared by the commissioner of revenue. If any administrator or executor fails or refuses to comply with any of the requirements of this section, he shall be liable to a penalty in the sum of five hundred dollars ($500.00), to be recovered by the commissioner of revenue in an action to be brought by the commissioner of revenue to collect such sum in the superior court of Wake county against such administrator or executor. The commissioner of revenue, for good cause shown, may remit all or any portion of the penalty imposed under the provisions of this section. Every executor or administrator may make a tentative settlement of the inheritance tax with the commissioner of revenue, based on the sworn inventory provided in this section: Provided, that this does not apply to estates of less than two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) in value when the beneficiary is his husband or wife or children or grandchildren, or parent or parents of the decedent. He shall regularly employ such deputies, attorneys, examiners, or special agents as may be necessary for the reasonable carrying out of its full intent and purpose. Such deputies, examiners, or special agents shall, as often as required to do so, visit the several counties of the state to inquire and ascertain if all inheritance taxes due from estates of decedents, or heirs-at-law, legatees, devisees, or distributees thereof have been paid; to see that all statements required by this article are filed by administrators and executors, or by the beneficiaries under wills where no executor is appointed; to examine into all statements filed by such administrators and executors; to require such administrators and executors to furnish any additional information that may be deemed necessary to determine the amount of tax that should be paid by each estate. If not satisfied, after investigation, with valuation returned by the administrator or executor, the deputy, attorney, examiner, or appraiser shall make an additional appraisal after proper examination and inquiry, or may, in special cases, recommend the appointment by the commissioner of revenue of a special appraiser who, in such case, shall be paid five dollars ($5.00) per day and expenses for his services. The administrator or executor, if not satisfied with such additional appraisal, may appeal within thirty days to the commissioner of revenue, which appeal

From this decision the administrator or executor shall have the right to appeal to the superior court of the county in which said estate is situated for the purpose of having said issue tried; said appeal to be made in the same way and manner as is now provided by law for appeals from the decisions of the public utilities commission: Provided, that the tax shall first be paid, or satisfactory surety bond in double the amount of any alleged deficiency shall be filed with the commissioner pending an appeal; and if it shall be determined upon trial that said tax or any part thereof was illegal or excessive, judgment shall be rendered therefor with interest, and the amount of tax so adjudged overpaid or declared invalid shall be certified by the clerk of court to the commissioner of revenue, who is authorized and directed to draw his account on the state treasurer for the amount thereof. (1939, c. 158, s. 23.)

§ 105-26. Proportion of tax to be repaid upon certain conditions.—Whenever debts shall be proven against the estate of a decedent after the distribution of legacies from which the inheritance tax has been deducted in compliance with this article, and the legatee is required to refund any portion of the legacy, a proportion of the said tax shall be repaid to him by the executor or administrator if the said tax has not been paid into the state treasury, or shall be refunded by the state treasurer, if it has been so paid in, upon certificate of the commissioner of revenue. (1939, c. 158, s. 23.)

§ 105-27. Commissioner of revenue may order executor, etc., to file account, etc.—If the commissioner of revenue shall discover that reports and accounts have not been filed, and the tax, if any, has not been paid as provided in this article, he shall issue a citation to the executor, administrator, or trustee of the decedent whose estate is subject to tax, to appear at a time and place therein mentioned, not to exceed twenty days from the date thereof, and show cause why said report and account should not be filed and said tax paid; and when personal service cannot be had, notice shall be given as provided for service of summons by publication in the county in which said estate is located; and if said tax shall be found to be due, the said delinquent shall be adjudged to pay said tax, interest and cost; if said tax shall remain due and unpaid for a period of thirty days after notice thereof, the commissioner of revenue shall certify the same to the sheriff, who shall make collection of said tax, cost and commissions for collection, as provided in § 105-16. § 105-28. Failure of administrator, executor, or trustee to pay tax.—Any administrator, executor, or trustee who shall fail to pay the lawful inheritance taxes due upon any estate in his hands or under his control within two years from the time of his qualification shall be liable for the amount of the said taxes, and the same may be recovered in an action against such administrator, executor, or trustee, and the sureties on his official bond. Any clerk of the court who shall allow any administrator, executor, or trustee to make a final settlement of his estate without having paid the inheritance tax due by law, and exhibiting his receipt from the commissioner of revenue therefor, shall be liable upon his official bond for the amount of such taxes. (1939, c. 158, s. 25.)

§ 105-29. Uniform valuation.—(a) If the value of any estate taxed under this schedule shall have been assessed and fixed by the federal government for the purpose of determining the federal taxes due thereon prior to the time the report from the executor or administrator is made to the commissioner of revenue under the provisions of this article, the amount or value of such estate so fixed, assessed, and determined by the federal government shall be stated in such report. If the assessment of the estate by the federal government shall be made after the filing of the report by the executor or administrator with the commissioner of revenue, as provided in this article, the said executor or administrator shall, within thirty days after receipt of notice of the final determination by the federal government of the value or amount of said estate as assessed and determined for the purpose of fixing federal taxes thereon, make report of the amount so fixed and assessed by the federal government, together with a statement of the manner of valuation made by the federal government. If the amount of said estate as assessed and fixed by the federal government shall be in excess of that theretofore fixed or assessed under this schedule for the purpose of determining the amount of taxes due the state from said estate, then the commissioner of revenue shall reassess said estate and fix the value thereof at the amount fixed, assessed, and determined by the federal government, unless the said executor or administrator shall, within thirty days after notice to him from the commissioner of revenue, show cause why the valuation and assessment of said estate as theretofore made should not be changed or increased. If the valuation placed upon said estate by the federal government shall be less than that theretofore fixed or assessed under this article, the executor or administrator may, within thirty days after filing his return of the amount so fixed or assessed by the federal government, file with the commissioner of revenue a petition to have the value of said estate reassessed and the same reduced to the amount as fixed or assessed by the federal government. In either event the commissioner of revenue shall proceed to determine, from such evidence as may be brought to his attention or which he shall otherwise acquire, the correct value of the said estate, and if the valuation is changed, he shall reassess the taxes due by said estate under this article and notify the executor or administrator of such fact. In the event the valuation on said estate shall be decreased, and if there shall have been an overpayment of the tax, the said commissioner shall, within sixty days after the final determination of the value of said estate and the assessment of the correct amount of tax against the same, refund the amount of such excess tax theretofore paid.

(b) If the executor or administrator shall fail to file with the commissioner of revenue the return under oath or affirmation, stating the amount or value at which the estate was assessed by the federal government as provided for in this section, the commissioner of revenue shall assess and

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote the part of this section ending with subsection (e). Prior to the amendment subsections (f) and (g) were designated (b) and (c), respectively. The amendment made changes in the paragraph immediately following the tax schedule in subsection (f). It also inserted the references to said subsection in subsection (g).

Before giving any of the exhibitions or performances provided for in such statement, the person, firm, or corporation making such statement shall pay the commissioner of revenue the tax so fixed and determined. If one or more of such exhibitions or performances included in such statement and for which the tax has been paid shall be canceled, the commissioner of revenue may, upon proper application made to him, refund the tax for such canceled exhibitions or performances. Every such person, firm, or corporation shall give to the commissioner of revenue a notice of not less than five days before giving any of such exhibitions or performances in each county.

(d) The sheriff of each county in which such exhibitions or performances are advertised to be exhibited shall promptly communicate such information to the commissioner of revenue; and if the statement required in this section has not been filed as provided herein, or not filed in time for certified copies thereof, with proper instructions, to be transmitted to the sheriffs of the several counties and the division deputy commissioner, the commissioner shall cause his division deputy to attend at one or more points in the state where such exhibitions or performances are advertised or expected to exhibit, for the purpose of securing such statement prescribed in this section, of fixing and determining the amount of state license tax with which such person, firm, or corporation is taxable, and to collect such tax or give instructions for the collection of such tax.

(e) Every person, firm, or corporation by whom or which any such exhibition or performance described in this section is given in any county, city or town, or within five miles thereof, wherein is held an annual agricultural fair, during the week of such annual agricultural fair, shall pay a state license of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) for each exhibition or performance in addition to the license tax first levied in this section, to be assessed and collected by the commissioner of revenue or his duly authorized deputy.

(f) The provisions of this section, or any other section of this article, shall not be construed so as to allow a person, firm, or corporation to avoid without the payment of the tax imposed in this section, any exhibition or performance described in this section for charitable, benevolent, educational, or any other purpose whatsoever, by any person, firm, or corporation who is engaged in giving such exhibitions or performances, no matter what terms of contract may be entered into or under what auspices such exhibitions or performances are given. It being the intent and purpose of this section that every person, firm, or corporation who or which is engaged in the business of a carnival company or a show of like kind, moving picture and vaudeville shows, museums and menageries, merry-go-rounds, ferris wheels, riding devices, and other like amusements, and enterprises, conducted for profit, under the same general management, or an aggregate of shows, amusements, eating places, riding devices, or any of them operating together on the same lot or contiguous lots or streets, traveling from place to place, whether owned and actually operated by separate persons, firms, or corporations or not, filling week-stand engagements, or giving week-stand exhibitions, under canvas or not, shall apply for and obtain from the commissioner of revenue a state license for the privilege of engaging in such business or amusement, and shall pay for such license for each week, or part of a week, a tax based according to the population of the city or town in which such carnival is showing as follows:

In cities or towns of less than 2,500 population ........................................... $200.00
In cities or towns of 2,500 population and less than 10,000 population ............... 300.00
In cities or towns of more than 10,000 population ............................................. 500.00

Provided that any carnival operating within a radius of five miles of any city shall pay the same

§ 105-39. Amusement—carnival companies, etc. —Every person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business of a carnival company or a show of like kind, moving picture and vaudeville shows, museums and menageries, merry-go-rounds, ferris wheels, riding devices, and other like amusements, and enterprises, conducted for profit, under the same general management, or an aggregate of shows, amusements, eating places, riding devices, or any of them operating together on the same lot or contiguous lots or streets, traveling from place to place, whether owned and actually operated by separate persons, firms, or corporations or not, filling week-stand engagements, or giving week-stand exhibitions, under canvas or not, shall apply for and obtain from the commissioner of revenue a license for the privilege of engaging in such business or amusement, and shall pay for such license for each week, or part of a week, a tax based according to the population of the city or town in which such carnival is showing as follows:

Provided further that if such a carnival operates over five miles from any city or town such a carnival shall be liable for a tax of one hundred dollars ($100.00) per week or part of a week for each such riding device, provided that counties, cities and towns may levy and collect a license tax upon such riding devices not in excess of five dollars ($5.00) for each such device.

Provided, further, that it shall be unlawful under this section for the owners and/or operators of riding devices to operate, or cause to be operated, any show, game, stand or other attraction whatsoever.

(a) This section shall not repeal any local act prohibiting any of the shows, exhibitions, or performances mentioned in this section, or limit the authority of the board of county commissioners or any court to assess a tax, or other governing body of any city or town, in prohibiting such shows, exhibitions, or performances.

If the commissioner of revenue shall issue a state license for any such show, exhibition, or performance in any county or municipality having a local statute prohibiting the same, then the said state license shall not authorize such show, exhibition, or performance to be held in such county or municipality, but the commissioner of revenue shall refund, upon proper application, the tax paid for such state license.

(b) No person, firm, or corporation, nor any aggregation of same, giving such shows, exhibitions, or performances, shall be relieved from the payment of the tax levied in this section, regardless of whether or not the state derives a benefit from same. Nor shall any carnival operating or giving performances or exhibitions, in connection with any fair in North Carolina, be relieved from the payment of tax levied in this section. It is the intent and purpose of this section that every person, firm, or corporation, or aggregation of same which is engaged in the giving of such shows, exhibitions, performances, or amusements, whether the whole or a part of the proceeds are for charitable, benevolent, educational, or other purposes whatsoever, shall pay the state license tax provided for in this section.

It is not the purpose of this article to discourage agricultural fairs in the state, and to further this cause, no carnival company will be allowed to have a regularly advertised agricultural fair, fifteen days prior to the dates of said fair. An agricultural fair shall be construed as meaning one that has operated at least one year prior to March 24, 1939.

Upon all performances taxable under this section there is levied, in addition to the license tax levied in this section, a tax upon the gross receipts of such business at the rate of tax levied in Schedule E, §§ 105-164 to 105-187, upon retail sales of merchandise. The license tax herein levied shall be treated as an advance payment of the tax upon the gross receipts herein levied, and the license tax shall be applied as a credit upon or advance payment of the gross receipts tax. The commissioner of revenue may adopt such regulations as may be necessary to effectuate the provisions of this section and shall prescribe the form and character of reports to be made, and shall have such authority or supervision as may be necessary to effectuate the purposes of this subchapter.

Nothing herein contained shall prevent American Legion Posts in North Carolina from holding fairs or tobacco festivals on any dates which they may select, provided said fairs and festivals have heretofore been held as annual events.

(c) Counties, cities and towns may levy a license tax on the business taxed hereunder not in excess of one-half of that levied by the state. (1939, c. 158, c. 107; 1941, c. 50, s. 3.)

Every person engaged in the public practice of accounting as a principal, or as a manager of the business of public accountant, shall pay for such license twenty-five dollars ($25.00), and in addition shall pay a license of twelve and fifty-one hundredths dollars ($12.50) for each person employed who is engaged in the capacity of observing or handling the work of auditing, devising or installing systems of accounts.

Every licensed mortician or embalmer shall in like manner apply for and obtain from the commissioner of revenue a state-wide license for practicing his profession, whether for himself or in the employ of another of ten dollars ($10.00). Licenses issued under this section are issued as personal privilege licenses and shall not be issued in the name of a firm or corporation: Provided, that a licensed photographer having a located place of business in this state, shall be liable for a license tax on each agent or solicitor, employed by him for soliciting business. (a) Only one-half of the tax levied in this section shall be collected from those persons whose gross receipts from the business or profession for the preceding year did not exceed one thousand dollars ($1,000.00).

(b) License revocable for failure to pay tax.

Whenever it shall be made to appear to any judge of the superior court that any person practicing any profession for which the payment of a license tax is required by this section has failed, or fails, to pay the professional tax levied in this section, and execution has been issued for the same by the commissioner of revenue and returned by the proper officer "no property to be found," or returned for other cause without payment of the tax, it shall be the duty of the judge presiding in the superior court of the county in which such person resides, upon presentation therefor, to cause the clerk of said court to issue a rule requiring such person to show cause by the next term of court why such person should not be deprived of license to practice such profession or apprenticeship, or fail to pay such professional tax. Such rule shall be served by the sheriff upon said person twenty days before the next term of the court, and if at the return term of court such person fails to show sufficient cause, the said judge may enter a judgment suspending the professional license of such person until all such tax as may be due shall have been paid, and such order of suspension shall be binding upon all courts, boards and commissions having authority of law in this state with respect to the granting or continuing of license to practice any such profession.

(c) Counties, cities, or towns shall not levy any license tax on the business or professions taxed under this section; and the state-wide license herein provided for shall privilege the licensee to engage in such business or profession in every county, city, or town in this state. (1939, c. 158, s. 109; 1941, c. 50, s. 3; 1943, c. 400, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment struck out a provision of subsection (c) excepting photographers, etc. The 1943 amendment added the last sentence of the fourth paragraph. It also directed that former subsection (d), providing an exception as to certain temporary photography, be stricken out. This subsection had already been omitted upon codification.

Persons Making "Negatives" Are Photographers Subject to License Tax.—To solicit persons to have their photographs taken, arrange for the sitting, and actually have the negative or negatives taken, and arrange for the working up and delivery of the negatives or photographs taken, when such work is done in this state and the subject is not a resident of this state, is a practice of photography within the meaning of this section. (b) Every person, firm, or corporation engaged in and conducting the business of selling and/or delivering coal or coke at retail shall apply for and procure from the commissioner of revenue a state license for the privilege of engaging in such business in this state, and shall pay for such license a tax of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00). No county shall levy any license tax on the business taxed under this section, but cities and towns may levy a license tax not in excess of that levied by the state. (1939, c. 158, s. 114.)

§ 105-47. Dealers in horses and/or mules.—Every person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business of purchasing for the purpose of resale, either at wholesale or retail, horses and/or mules shall apply for and procure from the commissioner of revenue a state license for the privilege of engaging in such business in this state and shall pay for such license an annual tax for each location where such business is carried on as follows:

Where not more than one carload of horses and/or mules is purchased for the purpose of resale ................................................. $ 25.00
Where more than one carload and not more than two carloads of horses and/or mules are purchased for the purpose of resale .......................... 50.00
Where more than two carloads of horses and/or mules are purchased for the purpose of resale .......................... 100.00

For the purpose of calculating the amount of tax due under the above schedule, a carload of horses and/or mules shall be twenty-five (25) and purchases for the preceding license tax year shall be used as a medium for arriving at the amount of tax due for the ensuing year: Provided, however, that if during the current license year horses and/or mules are purchased for the purpose of resale in such quantities that would establish liability for a greater tax than that previously paid, it shall be immediately remitted to the commissioner of revenue with the license which has already been issued in order that it may be canceled and a corrected license issued.

In addition to the above license, every person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business of purchasing for the purpose of resale and/or selling horses and/or mules at public auction, either on his own behalf or for any other person, whether a commission or fee is or is not charged, shall apply for and procure from the commissioner of revenue a state license for each place of auction and shall pay for such license an annual tax of one hundred dollars ($100.00).

In addition to the above license, every transient vendor of horses and/or mules who has no permanent or established place of business in this state shall apply for and procure from the commissioner of revenue a state license for each county in which horses and/or mules are sold and shall pay for such license an annual tax of three hundred dollars ($300.00).

(a) In addition to the annual licenses levied in this section, every person, firm, or corporation, engaged in the business of purchasing for the purpose of resale, either at wholesale or retail, horses and/or mules shall pay a tax of three dollars ($3.00) per head on all such horses and/or mules purchased for the purpose of resale. "Purchase" shall be taken to mean and shall include all horses and/or mules acquired or received as a result of outright purchase or on consignment, account or otherwise for resale, either at wholesale or retail: Provided, however, that "purchases" shall not include the acquisition of horses and/or mules which are acquired or received as a result of an allowance for credit for horses and/or mules taken in part payment on horses and/or mules subject to the tax imposed in this section, and it shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue or his duly authorized agents to assess the additional per-head tax levied in this section on purchases of horses and/or mules purchased for the purpose of resale and/or sell thereof to himself or his duly authorized agent for the purpose of resale, either at wholesale or retail, shall be due and payable immediately upon receipt of such horses and/or mules within this state. The commissioner of revenue may, however, in his discretion, where he thinks circumstances justify it, permit licensed and established dealers to file monthly reports, which reports shall be due to be filed on or before the fifteenth (15th) of each month for all purchases during the preceding month, and such report when filed shall be accompanied by a remittance for the amount of tax shown to be due. Reports shall be filed in such form and in such manner as may be prescribed by the commissioner of revenue, and failure to file the report herein prescribed and pay the tax as shown to be due thereon shall subject such dealer to a penalty of five per cent (5%) of the amount of tax due for each month or fraction thereof that such report may be delinquent.

(c) Every person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business of purchasing for the purpose of resale, either at wholesale or retail, horses and/or mules shall keep a full, true and accurate record of all purchases and/or sales of all horses and/or mules until such purchases and sales of all horses and/or mules until such purchases and sales, including purchases and freight bills, have been checked by a duly authorized agent of the commissioner of revenue. Failure to comply with the provisions of this section in this respect shall be prima facie evidence of attempting to evade the additional taxes levied in this section and shall subject such dealer, in addition to all other penalties imposed by this article, to the additional per-head tax on all purchases and/or sales from whatever source such horses and/or mules are acquired or received, and it shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue or his duly authorized agents to assess the additional tax upon an estimation of purchases and/or sales from the best information obtainable.

(d) As a condition to the issuance or the continuance of the annual license levied in this section, and in order to secure the payment of the additional per-head tax levied on purchases and/or sales in this section, the commissioner of revenue may in his discretion, when it appears reasonably necessary therefor, require any dealer in horses and/or mules, applying for a license under this section, to post a surety bond or other adequate security sufficient to guarantee and secure the payment of any tax due under this section.

(e) Any person, firm, or corporation, required to procure from the commissioner of revenue a license under this section, who shall purchase and sell or offer for sale by principal or agent any horses and/or mules without first having obtained such license, or shall fail, neglect or refuse to file any report and pay the additional taxes levied in this section when due and payable, shall in addition to the other penalties imposed by this article, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not to exceed one hundred dollars ($100.00) and/or imprisoned not less than thirty (30) days within the discretion of the court.
§ 105-48  CH. 105. TAXATION—LICENSE TAXES § 105-52

(f) Counties, cities and towns may levy an annual license tax on the business taxed under this section not in excess of twelve dollars and fifty cents ($12.50). (1939, c. 158, s. 115; 1941, c. 50, s. 3.)

§ 105-49. § 105-50. Pawnbrokers. —Every person, firm, or corporation engaged in and conducting the business of pawnbroker without a license as provided in this section, or violating any of the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than fifty dollars ($50.00) nor more than five hundred dollars ($500.00).

(a) Before such pawnbroker shall receive any article or thing of value from any person or persons, on which a loan or advance is made, he shall issue a duplicate ticket, one to be delivered to the owner of said personal property and the other to be attached to the article, and said ticket shall have an identifying number on the one side, together with the date at the expiration of which the pledger forfeits his right to redeem, and on the other a full and complete copy of this subsection; but such pawnbroker may, after the pledger has forfeited his right to redeem the specific property pledged, sell the same at public auction, deducting from the proceeds of sale the money or fair value of the thing advanced, the interest accrued, and the cost of making sale, and shall pay the surplus remaining to the pledger.

(b) Any person, firm, or corporation transacting the business of pawnbroker without a license as provided in this section, or violating any of the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than fifty dollars ($50.00) nor more than five hundred dollars ($500.00).

(c) Counties, cities, and towns may levy a license tax on the business taxed under this section not in excess of that levied by the state. (1939, c. 158, s. 118.)

Broker and Pawnbroker Distinguished.—There is a great difference between the terms "broker" and "pawnbroker." A broker is an agent, middleman or negotiator, who works for a commission. A pawnbroker is not an agent at all. He is one who lends money upon personal property as security. Brokers and pawnbrokers constitute distinct classes, and entirely different license taxes may be assessed upon them. Schau & Co. v. Charlotte, 118 N. C. 733, 24 S. E. 526.

§ 105-51. Cash registers, adding machines, typewriters, refrigerating machines, washing machines, etc.—Every person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business of selling and/or delivering and/or renting cash registers, typewriters, adding or bookkeeping machines, billing machines, check protectors or protectographs, kelvinators, frigidaires, or other refrigerating machines, lighting systems, washing machines, mechanically or electrically operated, burglar alarms, addressograph machines, multigraph and other duplicating machines, vacuum cleaners, mechanically or electrically operated oil burners and coal stokers, card punching, assorting and tabulating machinery, shall apply for and procure from the commissioner of revenue a state license for each place where such business is transacted in this state, and shall pay for such license a tax of ten dollars ($10.00).

Counties, cities, and towns shall not levy a license tax on the business taxed under this section. (1939, c. 158, s. 119.)

Cross Reference.—For temporary reduction of the taxes levied under this section, see § 105-113.1.

§ 105-52. Sewing machines.—(a) Every person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business of selling sewing machines within this state shall apply for and obtain from the commissioner of revenue a state-wide license for the privilege of engaging in such business and shall pay for such license a tax of one hundred dollars ($100.00) per annum for each such make of machines sold or offered for sale.

(b) In addition to the annual license tax imposed in subsection (a) of this section, such person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business taxed under this section shall pay a tax at the rate of tax levied in Schedule E, §§ 105-164 to 105-187, on retail sales of merchandise on the total receipts during the preceding year from the sale, lease, or exchange of sewing machines and/or accessories within the state, which said tax shall be paid to the commissioner of revenue at the time of securing the annual license provided for in subsection (a) of this section: Provided, that the tax on sales in the preceding year, levied in this subsection, shall apply only for the fiscal year ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five: Provided further, that on and after June first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, the additional tax on sales levied in this subsection shall be assessed and collected under the provisions of Schedule E, §§ 105-164 to 105-187, the same as the tax on sales of other merchandise. (c) Any person, firm, or corporation obtaining a license under the foregoing sections may employ agents and secure a duplicate copy of such license for each such agent by paying a tax of ten dollars ($10.00) to the commissioner of revenue. Each such duplicate license so issued shall contain the name of the agent to whom it is issued, shall not be transferable, and shall license the licensee to sell or offer for sale only the sewing machines sold by the holder of the original license.

(d) Any merchant or dealer who shall purchase sewing machines from a manufacturer or a dealer who has paid the license tax provided for in this section may sell such sewing machines without paying the annual state-wide license tax provided for in subsection (a), but shall procure the duplicate license provided for in subsection (c) of this section: Provided, that the tax imposed by this subsection shall be the only tax required to be paid by dealers in secondhand sewing machines exclusively.

(e) Any person, firm, or corporation who or which violates any of the provisions of this section, shall, in addition to all other penalties imposed in this article, pay an additional tax of double the state-wide annual license, and the duplicate tax imposed in this section.

(f) No county shall levy a license tax on the business taxed under this section, except that the county may levy a license tax not in excess of five dollars ($5.00) on each agent in a county who holds a duplicate license provided for in this section. Cities and towns shall not levy a license tax on the business taxed under this section. (1939, c. 158, s. 120.) § 105-53. Peddlers.—(a) Any person, firm, or corporation who or which shall carry from place to place any goods, wares, or merchandise, and offer to sell or barter the same, or actually sells or barters the same, shall be deemed a peddler, except such person, firm, or corporation who or which is a wholesale dealer, with an established warehouse in this state and selling only to merchants for resale, and shall apply for and procure from the commissioner of revenue a state license for the privilege of transacting such business, and shall pay for such license the following tax: Peddler, on foot, for each county..............$10.00 Peddler, with horse or other animal, and with or without vehicle, each county, for each vehicle .................... 15.00 Peddler, with vehicle propelled by motor or other mechanical power, for each county, for each vehicle .............. 25.00 (b) Any person, firm, or corporation employing the service of another as peddler, whether on a salary or commission basis, or furnishing merchandise to be sold by a peddler under any kind of contractual agreement, shall be liable for the payment of the taxes levied above in this section, instead of the peddler. Provided, however, any person peddling fruits, vegetables, or products of the farm shall pay a license tax of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) per year, which license shall be state-wide. Counties, cities and towns may levy a tax under this subsection not in excess of one-half of the state tax. Provided, however, no county, city or town shall issue any license, or permit any person, firm, or corporation to do any business under the provisions of this subsection, until and unless such person shall produce and exhibit to the tax collector of such county, city or town, his or its state license for the privilege of engaging in such business.

(c) Any person, firm, or corporation who or which sells or offers to sell from a cart, truck, automobile, or other vehicle operated over and upon the streets and/or highways within this state any fresh fruits and/or vegetables shall be deemed a peddler within the meaning of this section and shall pay the annual license tax levied in subsection (a) of this section with reference to the character of the vehicle employed. Any person, firm, or corporation who or which sells or offers for sale from any railway car fresh fruits and/or vegetables shall be deemed a peddler within the meaning of this section, and shall pay an annual tax of twenty-five dollars ($25.00). Nothing in this section shall apply to the sale of farm products raised on the premises owned or occupied by the person, firm, or corporation, his or its bona fide agent or employee selling same.

(d) Every itinerant salesman or merchant who shall expose for sale, either on the street or in a building occupied, in whole or in part, for that purpose, any goods, wares or merchandise, not being a regular merchant in such county, shall apply for in advance and procure a state license from the commissioner of revenue for the privilege of transacting such business, and shall pay for such license a tax of one hundred dollars ($100.00) in each county in which he shall conduct or carry on such business. Any salesman or merchant, offering for sale goods, wares or merchandise, other than fruits and farm products, shall be deemed an itinerant, within the meaning of this subsection, who conducts said business within the county for less than six consecutive months, except in case of discontinuance for one of the reasons hereinafter mentioned. When any salesman or merchant, beginning said business, does not pay the tax herein levied in advance, on the ground of stated intention to become a regular merchant,

In this section Confederate soldiers, disabled or offers for sale books, periodicals, printed goods, wares, or merchandise with vehicle propulsion, require said salesman or merchant in North Carolina to obtain a $250 license to enable him to display goods for purpose of securing orders for selling or bartering the identical goods he carries about with him. State v. Rhyne, 119 N. C. 405, 119 S. E. 785. A peddler is primarily one who travels around on foot, selling or bartering the identical goods he carries. State v. Frank, 164 N. C. 1004, 75 S. E. 785.

Former Subdivision Requiring License for Display of Goods by One Not Regular Retailer Was Unconstitutional.

Former subdivision (e) requiring one not a regular retail merchant in North Carolina to obtain a $250 license to entitle him to display goods for purpose of securing orders for retail sale, violated "commerce" clause of federal constitution as applied to a New York merchandise establishment which rented display room in a North Carolina hotel for several days and took orders for goods corresponding to samples, which orders were filled by shipping direct to customers from New York City, where regular retail merchants in North Carolina were subject to only an annual $1 license tax for privilege of doing business. Best & Co. v. Maxwell, 311 U. S. 454, 61 S. Ct. 334, 85 L. Ed. 275. For decision this date, see 138 N. C. 232.

Nature of Peddling.—To peddle is not a matter of right under our laws, which any person can demand upon the payment of the tax. It is a privilege that may be granted by the county commissioners of the county, and no license must be granted to a peddler. The privilege is personal to the applicant, and is not assignable. State v. Rhyne, 119 N. C. 405, 119 S. E. 785.

Power of Legislature.—Under the N. C. Const. Art. V., sec. 3, the General Assembly may tax trades, etc. The term "trade" includes the business of peddling. Smith v. Wilkins, 164 N. C. 135, 70 S. E. 168.

Nature of Tax.—Peddlers and transient dealers are commonly taxed a specific sum because they are likely to escape any other. A peddler's tax is on the occupation, not on the goods, and one who engages in the business, whether as agent or owner, must pay it. State v. Rhyne, 119 N. C. 405, 119 S. E. 785.

Presumption as to Having License.—The case of State v. Crump, 104 N. C. 763, 10 S. E. 468, contains a dictum to the effect that if a peddler is required by proper authorities to exhibit his license and he fails to do so the presumption is that he has none.

Discretion of County Commissioners.—The discretion vested in the county commissioners to exempt from the peddler's tax the "poor and infirm" is necessary to the administration of statutes like this, and will not be interfered with unless arbitrarily exercised. Smith v. Wilkins, 164 N. C. 135, 70 S. E. 168.

Not Applicable to Citizens of Other States.—The provision of a statute similar to this was held unconstitutional on the grounds that it was made to apply to citizens of other states, and thus pined on commerce. In re Spain, 47 Fed. 238. See also, In re Flinn, 57 Fed. 496.

Sales by Samples.—This section does not apply to sales by sample of goods not at the time thereof sale, and ready for immediate delivery, but applies only where goods are actually exposed and offered for sale, and ready for motor or other mechanical power, taxed by the state under subsection (a) of this section, a tax not exceeding two hundred dollars ($200.00) for each vehicle, which said tax may, in the discretion of the governing body, be graduated in accordance with the size or weight of said vehicles, the amount of merchandising space in and on said vehicles, the average value of goods carried, the types of products offered for sale, or any other reasonable principle, except that the tax shall not exceed two hundred and one-half ton capacity or less shall not exceed twenty-five dollars ($25.00).

No county, city, or town shall levy any license tax under this section upon the persons so exempted in this section, nor upon drummers selling by wholesale. (1939, c. 158, s. 121; 1941, c. 50, s. 3; 1943. c. 400, s. 2.)

Cross Reference.—The tax imposed by this section does not apply to the sale of gasoline to dealers for resale. See § 105-39, subsection (I), subdivision (d).

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment struck out former subdivision (e) requiring one not a regular retail merchant in North Carolina to obtain a $250 license to entitle him to display goods for purpose of securing orders for retail sale, violated "commerce" clause of federal constitution as applied to a New York merchandise establishment which rented display room in a North Carolina hotel for several days and took orders for goods corresponding to samples, which orders were filled by shipping direct to customers from New York City, where regular retail merchants in North Carolina were subject to only an annual $1 license tax for privilege of doing business. Best & Co. v. Maxwell, 311 U. S. 454, 61 S. Ct. 334, 85 L. Ed. 275. For decision this date, see 138 N. C. 232.
§ 105-54. Contractors and construction companies.—(a) Every person, firm, or corporation who, for a fixed price, commission, fee, or wage, offers or bids to construct within the state of North Carolina any building, highway, street, sidewalk, bridge, culvert, sewer or water system, drainage or dredging system, electric or steam railway, reservoir or dam, hydraulic or power plant, transmission line, tower, dock, wharf, excavation, grading or other improvement or structure, or any part thereof, the cost of which exceeds the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), shall apply for and obtain from the commissioner of revenue an annual state-wide license, and shall pay for such license a tax of one hundred dollars ($100.00) at the time of or prior to offering or submitting any bid on any of the above enumerated projects.

(b) In addition to the tax levied in subsection (a) of this section, every person, firm, or corporation who, for a fixed price, commission, fee, or wage, undertakes or executes a contract for the construction, or who superintends the construction of any of the above enumerated projects, shall, before or at the time of entering into such projects and/or such contract, apply for and procure from the commissioner of revenue a state-wide license and shall pay for such license the following tax:

(c) The application for license under subsection (b) of this section shall be made to the commissioner of revenue and shall be accompanied by the affidavit of the applicant, stating the contract price, if known, and if the contract price is not known, his estimate of the entire cost of the said improvement or structure, and if the applicant proposes to construct only a part of said improvement or structures, the contract price, if known, or his estimated cost of the part of the project he proposes to superintend or construct.

In the event the construction of any of the above mentioned improvements or structures shall be divided and let under two or more contracts to the same person, firm, or corporation, the several contracts shall be considered as one contract for the purpose of this article, and the commissioner of revenue shall collect from such person, firm, or corporation the license tax herein imposed as if only one contract had been entered into for the entire improvement or structure.

(b) If the commissioner of revenue shall have issued any such state license to any person, firm, or corporation to operate any billiard or pool tables in any city or town, the board of aldermen or other governing body of such city or town shall have the right at any time, and notwithstanding the issuance of such state license, to prohibit any billiard or pool tables within its limits, unless otherwise provided in its charter; and in the event any city or town shall exercise the right to prohibit the keeping and operation of such billiard or pool tables, the commissioner of revenue shall receive the tax for the time which the right is not allowed to be exercised bears to the time for which the tax is paid.

And, where the commissioner of revenue has issued any such license and the said billiard or pool tables is or are to be, or are operated outside of the corporate limits of any incorporated city or town, the board of county commissioners may by resolution request that such license be revoked, and upon receipt of such resolution the commissioner of revenue shall forthwith revoke said license and refund the proportion of the tax thereof during the time which the right is not allowed to be exercised bears to the time for which the tax is paid.

(c) Counties may levy a license tax on the business taxed under this section upon such billiard or pool tables as are located outside of incorporated cities or towns, and counties and towns may levy a license tax upon such as are within the city limits, but in neither case shall the license tax so levied be in excess of the tax levied by the state. (1939, c. 158, s. 129; 1943, c. 400, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1943 amendment this section also applied to bowling alleys.

Constitutionality.—A license tax imposed upon a business is not void as contravening the State Constitution upon the theory that the statute gives an invalid arbitrary power to the county commissioners with reference to the issuance of the license among applicants therefor, as to locality or otherwise; and the tax so imposed will nevertheless remain, these different portions of the law not being so interdependent that one must fall with the other. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Mecklenburg, 181 N. C. 386, 107 S. E. 317.

Same.—License without City Limits.—Billiard and pool tables kept open for indiscriminate use by the public are liable to become a source of disorder and demoralization, coming within the police powers, and requiring, in the nature of the business, that power be lodged in some governmental board to withhold or revoke a license imposed by statute for the conduct of the business, and such license not subject to the same degree of police protection as those to which the latter not subject to the same degree of police protection are subject. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Mecklenburg, 181 N. C. 386, 107 S. E. 317.

§ 105-64.1. Bowling alleys.—Every person, firm, or corporation who shall rent, maintain, or own a building wherein there is a bowling alley or alleys of like kind shall apply for and procure from the commissioner of revenue a state license for the privilege of operating such bowling alley or alleys, and shall pay for such license a tax of ten dollars ($10.00) for each alley kept or operated.

(a) This section shall not apply to fraternal organizations having a national charter, American Legion Posts, Young Men's Christian Associations, and Young Women's Christian Associations.

(b) If the commissioner of revenue shall have issued any such state license to any person, firm, or corporation to operate any bowling alley or alleys, in any city or town, the board of aldermen or other governing body of such city or town shall have the right at any time, and notwithstanding the issuance of such state license, to prohibit any § 105-65. Merchandising, music, and weighing machines.—(1) Every person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business of operating, maintaining, or placing on location anywhere within the state of North Carolina, any machine or machines, in which is kept any article or merchandise to be played, sold, or purchased, any machine which plays records, or produces music, or any weighing machine, shall apply for and procure from the commissioner of revenue a statewide license to be known as an annual operator's license, and shall pay for such license the following tax:

Operators of Cigarette Vendors ......... 100.00
Operators of Slot Drink Vendors ..... 100.00

(2) In addition to the above annual operator's license, every person, firm, or corporation operating any of the above machines, shall apply for and obtain from the commissioner of revenue, what shall be termed a statewide license for each machine operated and shall pay therefor the following annual tax:

Weighing Machines ...................... 2.50
1c Food Vending or Merchandising Machines ......................... .50
5c Food Vending or Merchandising Machines ........................ 1.00

Provided, that the above tax on food vending or merchandising machines shall not apply to machines that vend solely peanuts, neither shall the tax apply to machines that vend candy containing fifty per cent (50%) or more peanuts, nor to penny self-service machines contributing twenty per cent (20%) of their gross revenue to work for the visually handicapped.

(3) The applicant for license under this section shall, in making application for license, specify the serial number of the machine or machines proposed to be operated, together with a description of the merchandise or service offered for sale thereby, and the amount of deposit required by or in connection with the operation of such machine or machines. The license shall carry the serial number to correspond with that on the application, and no such license shall be transferable to any other machines. It shall be the duty of the person in whose place of business the machine is operated or located to see that the proper state license is attached in a conspicuous place on the machine before its operation shall commence: Provided, that when application is made under this section for license to operate a machine vending bottled drinks or cigarettes, the applicant for such license shall specify the serial number of the license issued under § 105-79 or § 105-84, as the case may be, and this serial number shall be placed upon the license issued for such machine.

(4) If any person, firm, or corporation shall fail, neglect or refuse to comply with the terms and provisions of this section or shall fail to attach the proper state license to any machine as herein provided, the commissioner of revenue, or his agents, or deputies, shall forthwith seize and remove such machine, and shall hold the same until the provisions of this section have been complied with. In addition to the above provision the applicant shall be further liable for the additional tax imposed under § 105-112.

(5) Sales of merchandise herein referred to shall be subject to the provisions of Schedule "E", §§ 105-164 to 105-187, and the tax therein levied shall be paid by the operator of such machines.

(6) Counties, cities and towns may levy and collect a license tax not in excess of fifty per cent (50%) of the total amount collected by the state from music machines, weighing machines, and 1c and 5c food vending machines. Provided, that counties, cities and towns shall not levy and collect an annual operator's occupational license for the operation of the above named machines, neither shall any county, city or town levy and collect any tax whatsoever from operators of soft drink vendors: Provided, further, that counties, cities and towns shall not levy and collect any per machine license tax from operators of cigarette vendors. Counties, cities and towns may levy and collect an annual operator's occupational license on cigarette vendors not in excess of ten dollars ($10.00).

Counties, cities and towns levying a tax under the provisions of this section shall have power through their tax collecting officers, upon nonpayment of the tax levied by them, or of any interest or penalty thereon, or upon failure to attach the evidence of license issued by them to any such machines, to seize, remove and hold such machines until all such defaults have been remedied. (1939, c. 158, s. 130; 1941, c. 50, s. 3; 1943, c. 105; 1943, c. 400, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment substituted the above for the former section.

The cases below were decided under the statute as it read prior to the 1941 amendment.
The first 1943 amendment added at the end of subsection (2) the provision as to penny self-service machines. The second 1943 amendment added the proviso at the end of subsection (3).

All of the subsections of this section must be construed in pari materia, and upon such construction the section discloses the legislative intent to impose a license tax of $30.00 on slot machines vending soft drinks as an exception to the general classification of mechanical vending machines. Snyder v. Maxwell, 217 N. C. 617, 9 S. E. (2d) 19.

Tax on Vendors of Soft Drinks Is Based on Reasonable Classification.—The provision of this section, imposing a license tax of $30.00 on the privilege of operating a vending machine selling soft drinks at the retail price of five cents while imposing a smaller tax on vending machines selling other kinds of merchandise at the same price, prescribes classifications based upon real and reasonable distinctions, since it is a matter of common knowledge that the sale of soft drinks has obtained a unique commercial place, affording unusual opportunities for gainful returns, thus justifying the imposition of a higher license tax upon the privilege of selling this kind of merchandise by vending machine. Snyder v. Maxwell, 217 N. C. 617, 9 S. E. (2d) 19.

Criminal Provisions Not Repealed.—The provisions of the Flasgan Act, chapter 196 Public Laws of 1937, § 14-304 et seq., prescribing the possession and distribution of a coin slot machine in the operation of which the user may secure additional chances or rights to use the machine, is not repealed by this section, since subsection 5 expressly negatives the intention to license or legalize any gaming slot machine or device, and since subsection 1 excludes from its licensing provisions slot machines which "automatically vend" any prize, coupon or reward which may be used in the further operation of such machine, the word "vend" being equivalent to the word "give" and the intention to exclude from the licensing provisions a machine which provides a player with additional plays or games as a premium, prize, or reward irrespective of whether physical objects or money or reward are, or are not, delivered to the player. State v. Abbott, 218 N. C. 470, 11 S. E. (2d) 539, followed in 218 N. C. 480, 481, 482, 11 S. E. (2d) 545, 546, 547. Injunction.—Plaintiff, the owner of certain slot machines which had been seized by officers of the law, instituted action to restrain the officers from interfering with the operation of the said machines, alleging that plaintiff had paid such state and county licenses thereon and that the machines were lawful under the provisions of this section and that if defendants were not restrained plaintiff would be forced out of his lawful business. The court dissolved the temporary restraining order thereon issued on the ground that it was without jurisdiction to interfere with the enforcement of the criminal laws of the state in any event, since plaintiff, although engaged in the business of vending slot machines, vending soft drinks as an exception to the general classification of mechanical vending machines, did not, delivered to the player. State v. Abbott, 218 N. C. 470, 11 S. E. (2d) 539, followed in 218 N. C. 480, 481, 482, 11 S. E. (2d) 545, 546, 547. (1939, c. 158, s. 153.)

Cross Reference.—For temporary reduction of the taxes levied under this section, see § 105-113.1.

Constitutionality.—A provision in a former statute as to the reduction of the license tax if three-fourths of the assets are invested in this state was held constitutional in Bethlehem Motors Corp. v. Flynt, 175 N. C. 399, 100 S. E. 691. American Exch. Nat. Bank v. Lacy, 188 N. C. 25, 28, 123 S. E. 475.—Ed. Note.

§ 105-90. Bank as "Dealer."—Where a dealer in automobiles has sold to the bank, to which he was indebted, his automobiles on hand, for the purpose of securing the debt, under provisions that he was to sell and collect and hold the proceeds in trust for the purpose stated, and has thereafter left the State, and the bank has assumed to continue the sales and make collection therefrom, the bank may not avoid payment of the tax upon the ground that it was not a dealer, etc., in contemplation of the statute, and thus evade the practical efficiency of the statute and reduce it to a nullity. American Exch. Nat. Bank v. Lacy, 188 N. C. 25, 123 S. E. 475.

Tax on Operators of Gasoline Pumps.—The provision of this section, prescribing that no county, city or town shall levy a license tax on the business of selling gasoline at retail in excess of one-fourth of the State license tax does not preclude a city from levying a tax on operators of gasoline pumps located on sidewalks along certain streets between the curb and the property line when such city tax is levied in the nature of a permit in the exercise of regulatory police power. State v. Evans, 205 N. C. 434, 171 S. E. 640.

§ 105-90. Emigrant and employment agents.—(a) Every person, firm, or corporation, either as agent or principal, engaged in soliciting, hiring, and/or contracting with laborers, male or female, in this state for employment out of the state shall apply for and obtain from the commissioner of revenue a state license for each county for the privilege of engaging in such business, and shall pay for such license a tax of five hundred dollars ($500.00) for each county in which such business is carried on.

(b) Every person, firm, or corporation who or which engages in the business of securing employment for a person or persons and charging therefor a fee, commission, or other compensation shall apply for and obtain from the commissioner of revenue a state license for the privilege of engaging in such business: And provided further, that the privilege of engaging in such business, and shall pay for such license the following annual tax for each location in which such business is carried on: In unincorporated communities and in cities and towns of less than 2,500 population ........................................... $100.00
In cities or towns of 2,500 and less than 5,000 population .......................................... 200.00
In cities or towns of 5,000 and less than 10,000 population ........................................... 300.00
In cities or towns of 10,000 or more population ........................................... 500.00

Provided, that this section shall not apply to any employment agency operated by the federal government, the state, any county or municipality, or whose sole business is procuring employees for work in the production and harvesting of farm crops within the state: And provided further, that under this section the tax on any employment agency whose sole business is the placement of teachers and/or other school employees and which has been approved by the state superintendent of civil action in the superior court or other court of
have the correct information.

(c) Any person, firm, or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined, in addition to other penalties provided by law, two thousand dollars ($1,000.00) and/or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court.

(d) Counties, cities and towns may levy a license on the business taxed under this section not in excess of that levied by the state. (1939, c. 158, s.

Generally.—This statute is a severe measure imposing a tax upon the business of hiring hands, and its validity can be sustained only upon this view. Lane v. Commissioners, 139 N. C. 443, 445, 53 S. E. 140. See also State v. Hunt,
129 N. C. 686, 40 S. E. 216.

The occupation of an “enigmatic agent,” as defined in chapter 75, Acts of 1891, similar to this section, does not belong to that class of trades or occupations which are so inherently harmful or dangerous to the public that they cannot, either directly or indirectly, be restricted or prohibited. Lane v. Commissioners, 114 Ga. 53, 39 S. E. 913.

Lane, J., construing a section worded exactly as this, says, “The legislative enactment imposing a tax upon enigmatic agents, and providing a penalty for the failure to register and pay such tax, was clearly intended to apply to persons who, as agents of others, make it their business to hire laborers in this state to be sent beyond the limits of the state and then employed by others. To extend its application to a resident of another state, who, being in this state, incidentally employs laborers on his own behalf to work for him beyond the limits of this state, does not be entirely unwarranted.” Cited and approved in Carr v.
Commissioners, 136 N. C. 125, 127, 48 S. E. 597.

Scope of Section.—In Theus v. State, 114 Ga. 53, 39 S.
E. 913, the court said: “When the constitution confers upon the legislature the power, to levy taxes, the amount of the tax to be levied is committed to § 105-93. Process tax.—(a) In every indictment or criminal proceeding finally disposed of in the superior court, the party convicted or adjudged to pay the cost shall pay a tax of two dollars ($200.00).

Provided, that this tax shall not be levied in cases where the county is required to pay the cost.
(b) At the time of suing out the summons in a civil action in the superior court or other court of record, or the docketing of an appeal from the lower court in the superior court, the plaintiff or the appellant shall pay a tax of two dollars ($200.00):

Provided, that this tax shall not be demanded of any plaintiff or appellant who has been duly authorized to sue or appeal in forma pauperi, but when in cases brought or in appeals in forma pauperi, the costs are taxed against the defendants the tax shall be included in the bill of costs: Provided, that this tax shall not be levied in cases where the county is required to pay the cost and in tax foreclosure suits.

(c) No county, city, or town, or other municipal corporation shall be required to pay said tax upon the institution of any action brought by it, but whenever such plaintiff shall recover in such action, the said tax shall be included in the bill of costs and collected from the defendant.

(d) In any case where the party has paid the aforesaid cost in a civil action and shall recover in the final decision of the case, then such cost so paid by him shall be retaxed against the losing party adjudged to pay the cost, plus five per cent (5%) which the clerk of the superior court may retain for his services, and this shall be received by him, whether he is serving on a salary or fee basis, and if on a salary basis, shall be in addition to such salary.

(e) This section shall not apply to cases in the jurisdiction of magistrates' courts, whether civil or criminal, except upon appeals to the superior court from the judgment of such magistrate, and shall not apply for the docketing in the superior court of a transcript of a judgment rendered in any other court, whether of record or not.

(f) The tax provided for in this section shall be levied and assessed by the clerk of the superior court or other court in all cases described herein; and on the first Monday in January, April, July, and October of each and every year he shall make to the commissioner of revenue a sworn statement and report in detail, showing the number of the case on the docket, the name of the plaintiff or appellant in civil action, or the defendant in criminal action, and accompany such report and statement with the amount of such taxes collected, or which should have been collected, by him in the preceding three months. Any clerk of the superior court failing to make the report and pay the amount of tax due under this section within the first fifteen days of the month in which such report is required to be made, shall be liable for a penalty of ten per cent (10%) on the amount of tax which may be due at the time such report should be made. (1939, c. 158, s. 157.)

Where Appeal Is from Clerk to Judge.—Where an appeal is taken from an order of the clerk of the Superior Court to the judge thereof, the judge has jurisdiction by mandate of § 1-275, and no "docketing" is involved within the meaning of this section, nor is the clerk a "lower court," to the judge thereof, the judge has jurisdiction without the payment of the tax. Windsor v. McVay, 236 N. C. 730, 175 S. E. 83.

§ 105-94. Morris Plan or industrial banks.

There shall be levied on all marriage licenses a state license tax of three dollars on each such license, which shall be assessed and collected by the register of deeds of the county in which the license is issued.

The counties may levy one dollar ($1.00) upon such marriage license, to be assessed and collected by the register of deeds and accounted for to the county treasurer at the same time and in the same manner as he accounts to the commissioner of revenue for the state tax. (1939, c. 158, s. 159.)

- For 501 additional pumps and not more than 600 pumps .......... 9.00 per pump
- For all over 600 pumps .......... 10.00 per pump

Any contract or agreement, oral or written, express or implied by the terms or the effects of which the tax herein imposed shall be passed on directly or indirectly to any person, firm, or corporation not engaged in the business hereby taxed is hereby declared to be against the public policy of this state and null and void, and any person, firm, or corporation negotiating such an agreement, or receiving the benefits thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

The tax herein imposed shall be in addition to all other taxes imposed by this chapter or under any other laws.

Counties, cities and towns shall not levy any tax by reason of the additional tax imposed by this section, but this section shall in no way affect the right given to counties, cities, and towns to levy taxes under § 105-99.

The business taxed under this section shall not be taxed under § 105-98. (1939, c. 158, s. 162 1/2.)

Cross Reference. —For temporary reduction of the taxes levied under this section, see § 105-113.1.

§ 105-100. Patent rights and formulas. —Every person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business of selling or offering for sale any patent right or formula shall apply in advance and obtain from the commissioner of revenue a separate state license for each and every county in this state where such patent right or formula is to be sold or offered for sale, and shall pay for each such separate license a tax of ten dollars ($10.00).

Counties, cities, or towns may levy a license on the business taxed under this section not in excess of the taxes levied by the state. (1939, c. 158, s. 163.)

In General. —It is within the legislative power of taxation, in respect to corporations, to levy any two or more of the following taxes simultaneously (1) on the franchise (including corporate dividends); (2) on the tangible property of the corporation; and (3) on the shares of the capital stock in the hands of the stockholders. The tax on the items last named is a privilege tax levied on the privilege of carrying on its business, and for the purpose of raising revenue, and not an ad valorem tax. Nor does the tax herein imposed constitute an arbitrary classification, and unconstitutional. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Doughton, 196 N. C. 145, 144 S. E. 701.

§ 105-101. Tax on seals affixed by officers. —Whenever the seal of the state, of the state treasurer, of the secretary of state, or of any other public official required by law to keep a seal (not including clerks of courts, notaries public, and other officials) shall be affixed to any paper, the tax to be paid by the party applying for same shall be as follows:

- For the Great Seal of the state on warrants and missions, $2.50.
- For the Great Seal of the state on warrants of extradition for fugitives from justice from other states, the same fee and seal tax shall be collected from the state making the requisition which is charged in this state for like service. For the seal of the state department, to be collected by the secretary of state, 1.00.
- For the seal of the state treasurer, to be collected by him, 1.00.
- For a scroll, when used in the absence of a seal, the tax shall be on the scroll, and the same as for the seal.

(a) All officers shall keep a true, full, and accurate account of the number of times any of such seals or scrolls are used, and shall deliver to the governor of the state a sworn statement thereof.

(b) All seals affixed for the use of any county of the state, used on the commissions of officers of the national guard, and any other public official not having a salary, under the pension law, or under any process of court, or to any commission issued by the governor to any person in the employ of the state, or to be employed by the state shall be exempt from taxation. (1939, c. 158, s. 166.)

§ 105-102. Junk dealers. —Every person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business of buying and/or selling or dealing in what is commonly

—When a license tax is required by law, and whenever the general assembly shall levy a license tax on any business, trade, employment, or profession, or for doing any act, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation without a license to engage in such business, trade, employment, profession, or the doing of any act for which a state license is required, shall, unless otherwise provided by law, make application therefor in writing to the commissioner of revenue of the state in which such business, trade, employment, or profession is to be exercised; the name and resident address of the applicant, whether the applicant is an individual, firm, or corporation; the nature of the business, trade, employment, or profession; number of years applicant has prosecuted such business, trade, employment, or profession in this state, and such other information as may be required by the commissioner of revenue. The application shall be accompanied by the license tax prescribed in this article.

(b) Upon receipt of the application for a state license with the tax prescribed by this article, the commissioner of revenue, if satisfied of its correctness, shall issue a state license to the applicant to engage in the business, trade, employment, or profession in the name of and at the place set out in the application. No license issued by the commissioner of revenue shall be valid or have any legal effect unless and until the tax prescribed by law has been paid, and the fact of such shall appear on the face of the license. (1939, c. 158, s. 182.)

§ 105-105. Persons, firms, and corporations engaged in more than one business to pay tax on each. — Where any person, firm, or corporation is engaged in more than one business, trade, employment, or profession which is made under the provisions of this article subject to state license taxes, such persons, firms, or corporations shall pay the license tax prescribed in this article for each separate business, trade, employment, or profession. (1939, c. 158, s. 183.)

§ 105-106. Effect of change in name of firm.—No change in the name of a firm, partnership, or corporation, nor the taking in of a new partner, nor the withdrawal of one or more of the firm, shall be considered as commencing business; but if any one or more of the partners remain in the firm, or if there is change in ownership of less than a majority of the stock, if a corporation, the business shall be regarded as continuing. (1939, c. 158, s. 184.)

§ 105-107. License may be changed when place of business is changed.—When a person, firm, or corporation has obtained a state license to engage in any business, trade, employment, or profession at any definite location in a county, and desires to remove to another location in the same county, the commissioner of revenue may, upon proper application, grant such person, firm, or corporation permission to make such move, and may endorse upon the state license his approval of change in location. (1939, c. 158, s. 185.)

not exempt from taxation.—A state license, issued under any of the provisions of this article shall not be construed to exempt from other forms of taxation the property employed in such licensed business, trade, employment, or profession. (1939, c. 158, s. 186.)

§ 105-109. Engaging in business without a license.—(a) All state license taxes under this article or schedule, unless otherwise provided for, shall be due and payable annually on or before the first day of June of each year, or at the date of engaging in such business, trade, employment and/or profession, or doing the act.

(b) If any person, firm, or corporation shall continue the business, trade, employment, or profession, or to do the act, after the expiration of a license previously issued, without obtaining a new license, he or it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined and/or imprisoned in the discretion of the court, but the fine shall not be less than ten per cent (10%) of the tax in addition to the tax and the costs; and if such failure to apply for and obtain a new license be continued, such person, firm, or corporation shall pay additional tax of five per cent (5%) of the amount of the state license tax which was due and payable on the first day of June of the current year, in addition to the state license tax imposed by this article, for each and every thirty days that such state license tax remains unpaid from the date that same was due and payable, and such additional tax shall be assessed by the commissioner of revenue and paid with the state license tax, and shall become a part of the state license tax. The penalties for delayed payment hereinafter provided shall not impair the obligation to procure a license in advance or modify any of the pains and penalties for failure to do so.

The provisions of this section shall apply to taxes levied by the counties of the state under authority of this article in the same manner and to the same extent as they apply to taxes levied by the state.

(c) If any person, firm, or corporation shall commence to exercise any privilege or to promote any business, trade, employment, or profession, or to do any act requiring a state license under this article without such state license, he or it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined and/or imprisoned in the discretion of the court; and if such failure, neglect, or refusal to apply for and obtain such state license be continued, such person, firm, or corporation shall pay an additional tax of five per cent (5%) of the amount of such state license tax which was due and payable at the commencement of the business, trade, employment or profession, or doing the act, in addition to the state license tax imposed by this article, and unless otherwise provided for, shall be and constitute a distinct and a separate offense. (1939, c. 158, s. 187.)

§ 105-110. Each day's continuance in business without a state license a separate offense.—Each and every day that any person, firm, or corporation shall continue to exercise or engage in any business, trade, employment, or profession, or do any act in violation of the provisions of this article, shall be and constitute a distinct and a separate offense. (1939, c. 158, s. 188.)

§ 105-111. Duties of commissioner of revenue. —(a) Except where otherwise provided, the commissioner of revenue shall be the duly authorized agent of this state for the issuing of all state licenses and the collection of all license taxes under this article, and it shall be his duty and the duty of his deputies to make diligent inquiry to ascertain whether all persons, firms, or corporations in the various counties of the state who are taxable under the provisions of this article have applied for the state license and paid the tax thereon levied.

(b) The commissioner of revenue shall continuously keep in his possession a sufficient supply of blank state license certificates, with corresponding sheets and duplicates consecutively numbered; shall stamp across each state license certificate that is to be good and valid in each and every county of the state the words "state-wide license," and shall stamp or imprint on each and every license certificate the words "issued by the commissioner of revenue."

(c) Neither the commissioner of revenue nor any of his deputies shall issue any duplicate license unless expressly authorized to do so by a provision of this article or schedule, and unless the original license is lost or has become so mutilated as to be illegible, and in such cases the commissioner of revenue is authorized to issue a duplicate certificate for which the tax is paid, and shall stamp upon its face "duplicate." (1939, c. 158, s. 189.)

§ 105-112. License to be procured before beginning business.—(a) Every person, firm, or corporation engaging in any business, trade, and/or profession, or doing any act for which a state license is required and a tax is to be paid under the provisions of this article or schedule, shall, annually in advance, on or before the first day of June of each year, or before engaging in such business, trade, and/or profession, or doing the act, apply for and obtain from the commissioner of revenue a state license for the privilege of engaging in such business, trade, and/or profession, or doing such act, and shall pay the tax levied therefor.

(b) Licenses shall be kept posted where business is carried on. No person, firm, or corporation shall engage in any business, trade, and/or profession, or do the act for which a state license is required in this article or schedule without having such state license posted conspicuously at the place where such business, trade, and/or profession is carried on; and if the business, trade, and/or profession is such that license cannot be so posted, then the itinerant licensee shall have such license required by this article or schedule in his actual possession at the time of carrying on such business, trade, and/or profession, or doing the act named in this article or schedule, or a duplicate thereof.

(2) Any person, firm, or corporation failing, neglecting, or refusing to have the state license required under this article or schedule posted conspicuously at the place of business for which the license was obtained, or to have the same or a duplicate thereof in actual possession if an itinerant, shall pay an additional tax of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) for each and every separate offense, and each day’s failure, neglect, or refusal shall constitute a separate offense. (1939, c. 158, s. 190.)

§ 105-113. Sheriff and city clerk to report.—The sheriff of each county and the clerk of the board of aldermen of each city or town in the state shall, on or before the fifteenth day of June of each year, make a report to the commissioner of revenue, containing the names and the business, trade, and/or the profession of every person, firm, or corporation in his county or city who or which is required to apply for and obtain a state license under the provisions of this article or schedule, and upon such forms as shall be provided and in such detail as may be required by the commissioner of revenue. (1939, c. 158, s. 191.)

§ 105-113.1. Privilege taxes payable in advance; reduction.—The license taxes levied under this article upon the business of selling particular kinds of merchandise or commodities are levied for the privilege of engaging in the business of selling such articles, merchandise or commodities in the normal course of business.

The taxes are required to be paid in advance at the beginning of the tax year with no provision for refund for any cause with possible exception of the indirect method prescribed by the one thousand nine hundred and forty-three amendment to the Revenue Act providing for the transfer of such licenses under certain conditions.

§ 105-113.2. War conditions have affected business licenses levied under Schedule B more than any other taxes levied by the state.

Under war conditions priorities, rationing, and restrictions upon the sale of particular articles of merchandise have so restricted business opportunities in many lines as to make the application of the license taxes now levied wholly unreasonable, and relief must be granted to those businesses which have suffered severely, and provisions must be made to provide relief for those businesses which will suffer severely before the convening of the next general assembly; therefore, Schedule B license privilege taxes levied by the state under this article are reduced as follows:

(a) The taxes levied by the state under § 105-49 are reduced 50%.
(b) The taxes levied by the state under § 105-51 are reduced 50%.
(c) The taxes levied by the state under § 105-61 are reduced 50%.
(d) The taxes levied by the state under § 105-67 are reduced 50%.
(e) The taxes levied by the state under § 105-79 are reduced 50%.
(f) The taxes levied by the state under § 105-82 are reduced 50%.
(g) The taxes levied by the state under § 105-89 are reduced 75%.
(h) The taxes levied by the state under § 105-97 are reduced 30%.
(i) The taxes levied by the state under § 105-99 are reduced 75%.
(j) The taxes levied by the state under § 105-86 are reduced 50%.

The reductions in taxes herein authorized shall not be applicable to counties, cities and towns. It is the intent of this section that counties, cities and towns may continue to levy privilege taxes within the same limits authorized by the Revenue Act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, as amended, prior to the enactment of this section.

This section shall be in full force and effect from and after its ratification, but the reductions in license taxes authorized herein shall be effective only from and after June first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-three.

This section shall be in effect until June first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five. (1943, c. 400, s. 2.)

Art. 3. Schedule C. Franchise Tax.

§ 105-114. Defining taxes in this article.—The taxes levied and assessed in this article or schedule shall be paid as specifically herein provided, and shall be for the privilege of engaging in or carrying on the business or doing the act named; and, if taxpayer be a corporation, shall be a tax also for the continuance of its corporate rights and privileges granted under its charter, if incorporated in this state, or by reason of any act of domestication if incorporated in another state, and such taxes and taxpayers shall be subject to other pertinent regulations mentioned in this chapter. The taxes levied in this article or schedule shall be for the fiscal year of the state in which said taxes become due. (1909, c. 158, s. 201; 1913, c. 400, s. 8.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1943 amendment struck out former provisions of the last sentence relating to lien of taxes. See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 238, for general amount of increase made in these taxes by the 1913 act.

Franchise Tax on Corporation.—The franchise tax imposed upon every corporation doing business in the State is a tax upon the privilege of being a corporation, and its payment does not relieve it, or its lessee, from the payment of a tax imposed upon the privilege of carrying on the particular kind of business for which the corporation was chartered. Cobb v. Commissioners, 122 N. C. 307, 30 S. E. 93.

Whenever a tax is imposed upon a corporation directly by the legislature and is not assessed by assessors, and the amount depends on the amount of business transacted by the corporation, and the extent to which it has exercised the privileges granted in its charter, without reference to the value of its property or the nature of the investments made of it, it is a franchise tax. Burroughs on Tax, 169; With v. Petersburg R. Co., 89 N. C. 301, 330, 330.

Tax on Gross Receipts.—A tax on the gross receipts of an insurance company is a privilege tax. Insurance Co. v. Stedman, 130 N. C. 221, 41 S. E. 279.
§ 105-115. Franchise or privilege tax on railroads.—Every person, firm, or corporation, domestic or foreign, owning and/or operating a railroad in this state shall, in addition to all other taxes levied and assessed in the state, pay annually to the commissioner of revenue a franchise, license, or privilege tax for the privilege of engaging in such railroad business within the state of North Carolina, as follows:

(a) Such person, firm or corporation shall during the month of June each year furnish to the commissioner of revenue a copy of the report and statement required to be made to the state board of assessment by the Machinery Act in effect at the time such report is due, and such other and further information as the commissioner of revenue may require.

(b) The value upon which the tax herein levied shall be assessed by the commissioner of revenue and the measure of the extent to which every such railroad company is carrying on intrastate commerce within this state of North Carolina shall be the value of the total property, tangible and intangible, in this state, for each such railroad company, as assessed for ad valorem taxation during the calendar year in which such report is due.

(c) The franchise or privilege tax which every such railroad company shall pay for the privilege of carrying on or engaging in intrastate commerce within this state shall be seventy-five one-hundredths of one per cent (75/100%) of the value ascertained as above by the commissioner of revenue, and tax shall be due and payable within thirty days after date of notice of such tax.

(d) If any such person, firm, or corporation shall fail, neglect, or refuse to make and deliver the report or statements provided for in this section, the commissioner of revenue shall estimate, from the reports and record on file with the state board of assessment, the value upon which the amount of tax due by such company under this section shall be computed, and shall assess the franchise or privilege tax upon such estimate, and shall collect the same, together with such penalties herein imposed for failure to make the report and statement.

(e) It is the intention of this section to levy upon railroad companies a license, franchise, or privilege tax for the privilege of engaging in intrastate commerce carried on wholly within this state, and not a part of interstate commerce; that the tax provided for in this section is not intended to be a tax for the privilege of engaging in interstate commerce, nor is it intended to be a tax on the business of interstate commerce, nor is it intended to be a tax having any relation to the interstate or foreign business or commerce in which any such railroad company may be engaged in addition to its business in this state.

(f) No county, city or town shall levy a license, franchise, or privilege tax on the business taxed under this section. (1939, c. 158, s. 202.)

Cross References.—As to requirement of uniformity, see N. C. Const., Art. V, § 3, and note to Worth v. Petersburg R. Co., 89 N. C. 301, under § 105-241.

Franchise or privilege tax on electric light, power, street railway, gas, water, sewerage, and other similar public-service companies not otherwise taxed.—(1) Every person, firm, or corporation, domestic or foreign, other than municipal corporations, engaged in the business of furnishing electricity, electric lights, current, power or gas, or owning and/or operating a water or public sewerage system, or owning and/or operating a street railway, street bus or similar street transportation system for the transportation of freight or passengers for hire, shall, within thirty days after the first day of January, April, July and October of each year, make and deliver to the commissioner of revenue, upon such forms and blanks as required by him, a report verified by the oath of the officer or authorized agent making such report and statement, containing the following information:

(a) The total gross receipts for the three months ending the last day of the month immediately preceding such return from such business within and without this state.

(b) The total gross receipts for the same period from such business within this state.

(c) The total gross receipts from the commodities or services described in this section sold to any other person, firm, or corporation engaged in buying such commodities or services to the public, and actually sold by such vendor to the public for consumption and tax paid to this state by the vendee, together with the name of such vendee, with the amount sold and the price received therefor.

(d) The total amount and price paid for such commodities or services purchased from others engaged in the above named business in this state, and the name or names of the vendor.

(2) From the total gross receipts within this state there shall be deducted the gross receipts reported in subsection (1) (c) of this section: Provided, that this deduction shall not be allowed where the sale of such commodities was made to any person, firm, or corporation or municipality which is exempted by law from the payment of the tax herein imposed upon such commodities when sold or used by it.

(3) On every such person, firm or corporation there is levied an annual franchise or privilege tax of six per cent (6%), payable quarterly, of the total gross receipts derived from such business within this state, after the deductions allowed as herein provided for, which said tax shall be for the privilege of carrying on or engaging in the business named in this state, and shall be paid to the commissioner of revenue at the time of filing the report herein provided for: Provided, the tax upon privately owned water companies shall be four per cent (4%) of the total gross receipts derived from such business within this state: Provided further, the tax on gas companies shall be at the rate of four per cent (4%) upon the first twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00) of the total gross receipts, and the tax on all gross receipts in excess of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00) shall be at the rate of six per cent (6%).

(4) Any person, firm, or corporation failing to file report and pay tax found to be due in accordance with the provisions of this section at the time herein provided for shall, in addition to all other penalties prescribed by this article, pay an additional tax of ten per cent (10%) and interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum on the total amount of tax due and additional tax incurred, which said additional tax shall in no case be less than two dollars ($2.00), and shall be added to the tax, together with interest accrued, and shall become an integral part of the tax.

(5) The report herein required of gross receipts within and without the state, shall include the total gross receipts for the period stated of all properties owned and operated by the reporting person, firm, or corporation, domestic or foreign, engaged in such express business wholly within this state during the year ending the thirtieth day of June of the current year, and shall be verified by the oath of the officer or authorized agent making such report, of the total gross receipts of the property operated for the previous calendar quarter year and of the total net income derived from such business during the year ending the thirtieth day of June of the current year.

(6) Companies taxed under this section shall not be required to pay the franchise tax imposed by §§ 105-122 or 105-123 unless the tax levied by §§ 105-122 and 105-123 exceed the tax levied in this section, and no county shall impose a franchise or privilege tax upon the business taxed under this section, and no city or town shall impose a greater privilege or license tax upon such companies than the aggregate privilege or license tax which is now imposed by any such city or town. (1939, c. 158, s. 203.)

§ 105-118. Franchise or privilege tax on Pullman, sleeping, chair, and dining cars.—(1) Every person, firm, or corporation, domestic or foreign, engaged in the business of operating in this state any Pullman, sleeping, chair, and dining cars, shall annually, on or before the first day of August, make and deliver to the commissioner of revenue, at the time of filing the report required under this section, and no city or town shall impose a greater privilege or license tax upon such companies than the aggregate privilege or license tax which is now imposed by any such city or town. (1939, c. 158, s. 204.)

§ 105-119. Franchise or privilege tax on express companies.—(1) Every person, firm, or corporation, domestic or foreign, who or which engages in such express business within this state shall pay to the commissioner of revenue, at the time of filing the report required under this section, and no county shall impose a greater privilege or license tax upon such companies than the aggregate privilege or license tax which is now imposed by any such city or town. (1939, c. 158, s. 203.)

Section Held Inapplicable.—This section, imposing a franchise tax of six per cent of the total gross earnings on businesses therein enumerated, does not apply to the operation of buses for hire within a city, even though operated by purchase or lease, it being the intent and purpose of this section to measure the amount of privilege or franchise tax in each calendar quarter year with reference to the gross receipts of the property operated for the previous calendar quarter year and to fix liability for the payment of the tax on the owner, operator, or lessor on the first day of January, April, July and October of each year.

(2) Companies taxed under this section shall not be required to pay the franchise tax imposed by §§ 105-122 or 105-123 unless the tax levied by §§ 105-122 and 105-123 exceed the tax levied in this section, and no county shall impose a franchise or privilege tax upon the business taxed under this section, and no city or town shall impose a greater privilege or license tax upon such companies than the aggregate privilege or license tax which is now imposed by any such city or town. (c) The total number of miles of railroad lines or other common carriers over which such express companies operate in this state during the year ending the thirtieth day of June of the current year.

(2) Every such person, firm, or corporation, domestic or foreign, engaged in such express business within this state shall pay to the commissioner of revenue, at the time of filing the report required in this section, the following annual franchise or privilege tax for the privilege of engaging in such express business within this state:

Where the net income of the average capital invested during the year ending the thirtieth day of June of the current year is six per cent (6%) or less, fifteen dollars ($15.00) per mile of railroad lines over which operated.

More than six per cent (6%) and less than eight per cent (8%), twenty-one dollars ($21.00) per mile of railroad lines over which operated.

Eight per cent (8%) and over, twenty-five dollars ($25.00) per mile of railroad lines over which operated.

(3) Every such person, firm, or corporation, domestic or foreign, who or which engages in such business without having had previous receipts upon which to levy the franchise or privilege tax, shall report to the commissioner at the time of beginning business in this state and pay for such privilege of engaging in business in this state a tax of seven dollars and fifty cents ($7.50) per mile of the railroad lines over which operated or proposed to operate.

Municipalities of 10,000 and less than 20,000 population ........................... 50.00
Municipalities of 20,000 and over ..................... 75.00
(1939, c. 158, s. 203.)

Cross References.—As to requirement of uniformity, see N. C. Const., Art. V, § 3, and note to Worth v. Petersburg R. Co., 89 N. C. 301, under § 105-341.

Constitutionality.—A tax upon express companies of $15.00 per mile of track over which they operate in this State, when the net income is six per cent or less, levied under the provisions of the former statute, was held valid under the provisions of our State Constitution, Art. V, sec. 3. Railway Express Agency v. Maxwell, 199 N. C. 637, 155 S. E. 553.

When a tax levied on an express company under the provisions of the statute is $15.00 per mile of track over which it operates in this State, amounting to slightly in excess of 12 per cent of its gross revenue exclusively derived from interstate carriage, and it is shown that the carrier has not received any large gross receipts from interstate business, it will not be held as a matter of law that the tax is unconstitutional as being confiscatory. Railway Express Agency v. Maxwell, 199 N. C. 637, 155 S. E. 553.

Question of Earnings within and without State Immaterial.—Where a statute imposes a tax upon express companies based upon the mileage of track in this State over which they operate, levying a tax of $15.00 per mile when the net income of the company is six per cent or less, $18.00 when the net income does not exceed eight per cent, and $21.00 per mile when the net income exceeds eight per cent, and the State levies the minimum tax on an express company, which sues to recover the amount so paid, the question of the ratio of the company's net earnings in this and other States, and the amount of the net income are immaterial to the conclusion as to whether the tax is valid, the tax being constant regardless of income or the ratio between interstate and intrastate business, and the validity of the statute hinges on whether the tax is not directly presented for decision. Railway Express Agency v. Maxwell, 199 N. C. 637, 638, 155 S. E. 553.

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment reduced the license tax on insurance rate-making companies or associations from $550 to $300. For comment on this amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 529.

The first 1941 amendment struck out a former provision of subsection (1) relating to mutual burial associations. The second 1943 amendment omitted the word "life" formerly appearing before the word "insurance" in line two of the last paragraph of subsection (1). It also substituted the first proviso of subsection (2) that reads "fifteen per centum" for the word "one-fifth."

Constitutionality.—Foreign corporations do business here by being domesticated under the laws of this state, except as otherwise provided in this article or schedule, shall, on or before the thirty-first day of July of each year, make and deliver to the commissioner of revenue in such form as he may prescribe a full, accurate and complete report and statement verifiable by the oath of its duly authorized officers, containing such facts and information as may be required by the commissioner of revenue as shown by the books and records of the corporation as at the close of its last calendar or fiscal year next preceding July thirty-first of the year in which report is due.

(2) Every such corporation taxed under this section shall determine the total amount of its issued and outstanding capital stock, surplus and undivided profits; no reservation or allocation from surplus or undivided profits shall be allowed other than for definite and accrued legal liabilities, except as herein provided; taxes accrued, dividends declared and reserves for depreciation of tangible assets as permitted for income tax purposes shall be treated as deductible liabilities. Treasury stock shall not be considered in computing the capital stock, surplus and undivided profits as the basis for franchise tax, but shall be excluded proportionately from said capital stock, surplus and undivided profits as the case may be upon the basis and to the extent of the cost thereof. The capital stock for the purposes of this section shall be deemed to be inadequate to the extent that additional loans, credits, goods, supplies or other capital of whatsoever nature is furnished by the parent or affiliated corporation.

Every corporation doing business in this state which is a subsidiary of another corporation shall add to its capital stock, surplus and undivided profits all indebtedness owed to or endorsed or guaranteed by the parent corporation as a part of the capital used in its business in this state, and as a part of the basis for franchise tax under this article. The term "indebtedness" used in this paragraph shall include all loans, credits, goods, supplies or other capital of whatsoever nature furnished by the parent corporation, or by any subsidiary of the parent corporation. The term "subsidiary corporation" as used in this paragraph shall include any subsidiary of the parent corporation. If any part of the capital used by the parent corporation is borrowed capital, the subsidiary may deduct from its indebtedness to the parent corporation such proportion of its indebtedness as the indebtedness of the parent corporation is to the total assets of such corporation.

(b) After ascertaining and determining the amount of its capital stock, surplus and undivided profits, as herein provided, every such corporation permitted to do business in this state shall allocate to such business in this state a proportion of the total amount of its capital stock, surplus and undivided profits as herein defined, according to the following rules:

(A) If the principal business of a company in this state is manufacturing, or if it is in any form of collecting, buying, assembling, or processing goods and materials within this state the total amount of capital stock, surplus and undivided profits of such corporation shall be apportioned to North Carolina on the basis of the ratio obtained by taking the arithmetical average of the following two ratios:

(a) The ratio of the book value of its real estate and tangible personal property in this state on the date of the close of the calendar or fiscal year of such corporation in the income year to the book value of its entire real estate and tangible personal property then owned by it, with no deductions on account of encumbrances thereon.

(b) The ratio of the total cost of all goods, materials, and supplies used in manufacturing, assembling, or processing within and without the state. The term "cost of manufacturing, collecting, assembling, or processing within and without this state" as used herein shall be interpreted in a manner to conform as nearly as may be to the best accounting practice in the trade or business. Unless in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue the peculiar circumstances in any case justify a different basis, this term shall be generally interpreted to include as elements of cost within and without the state:

(1) The total cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within and without the state of such corporation in the income year, to the book value of its entire real estate and tangible personal property then owned by it, with no deductions on account of encumbrances thereon.

(2) The total cost of all goods, materials, and supplies used in manufacturing, assembling, or processing, regardless of where purchased.

(3) The total wages and salaries paid or accrued during the income year in such manufacturing, assembling, or processing activities.

(c) The total overhead or manufacturing burden properly assignable according to good accounting practice to such manufacturing, assembling, or processing activities, or according to generally accepted business practice, or according to the best accounting practice in the trade or business. In case the income year does not coincide with the calendar year of the corporation, the amount shall be determined by dividing the total amount of such expenses for the income year by the number of days in such income year.

(d) The term "book value" as used herein shall be defined to mean original cost plus additions and improvements less reserve for depreciation on the date of the close of the calendar or fiscal year of such company, unless in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue the peculiar circumstances in any case justify a different basis.

(e) The words "tangible personal property" shall be defined to mean corporeal personal property such as machinery, tools, implements, goods, wares and merchandise, and shall not be taken to mean cash on hand or in bank, shares of stock, bonds, notes, accounts receivable, credits, special privileges, franchises, good will, or evidence of an interest in property and evidences of debt.

(f) If the term "book value" as used herein shall be defined to mean original cost plus additions and improvements less reserve for depreciation on the date of the close of the calendar or fiscal year of such company, unless in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue the peculiar circumstances in any case justify a different basis.

(g) The words "tangible personal property" shall be taken to mean corporeal personal property such as machinery, tools, implements, goods, wares and merchandise, and shall not be taken to mean cash on hand or in bank, shares of stock, bonds, notes, accounts receivable, credits, special privileges, franchises, good will, or evidence of an interest in property and evidences of debt.
§ 105-122  CH. 105. TAXATION—FRANCHISE TAX  § 105-122

(D) If any corporation believes that the method of allocation or apportionment hereinbefore described as administered by the commissioner of revenue has operated or will so operate as to subject it to taxation on a greater portion of its capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits than is reasonably attributable to business within the state, it shall be entitled to file with the commissioner a petition setting forth the facts upon which its belief is based and its argument with respect to the application of the allocation formula. This petition shall be filed in such form and within such time as the commissioner may prescribe. If, after a consideration of the matters involved, it shall be found by the commissioner upon evidence offered which is clear, cogent and convincing that the application of the allocation formula subjects the corporation to taxation on a greater portion of its capital stock, surplus and undivided profits than is reasonably attributable to business within this state, the commissioner shall be authorized to add to the factors of the applicable allocation formula, or substitute for one of the factors of the applicable allocation formula, depending upon whether such addition or such substitution in the opinion of the commissioner more accurately reflects the capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits attributable to this state, the following factor:

The ratio of the expenditure of the wages, salaries, commissions, or other compensation of whatsoever kind to its officers or employees, assignable to this state as hereinafter provided, to the total expenditure of the corporation for wages, salaries, commissions, or other compensation of whatsoever kind to its officers or employees, assignable to this state of the expenditure of the corporation for wages, salaries, commissions, or other compensation of whatsoever kind to all its officers or employees. The amount assignable to this state of the expenditure of the corporation for wages, salaries, commissions or other compensation to its officers or employees shall be such expenditure for the taxable year in connection with its business in this state and liable for annual franchise tax under the provisions of this section.

(4) After determining the proportion of its total capital stock, surplus and undivided profits as set out in subsection three of this section, which amount so determined shall in no case be less than the total assessed value (including total gross valuation returned for taxation of intangible personal property) of all the real and personal property in this state of each such corporation for the year in which report is due, a franchise or privilege tax, which is hereby levied, at the rate of one dollar and seventy-five cents ($1.75) per one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) of the total amount of capital stock, surplus and undivided profits as herein provided. The tax imposed in this section shall in no case be less than ten dollars ($10.00) and shall be for the privilege of carrying on, doing business, and/or the continuance of articles of incorporation or domestication of each such corporation in this state: Provided, that the basis for the franchise tax on all corporations, eighty per cent (80%) of whose outstanding capital stock is owned by persons or corporations to whom or to which such stock was issued prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, in part payment or settlement of their respective deposits in any closed bank of the state of North Carolina, shall be the total assessed value of the real and tangible personal property of such corporation in this state for the year in which report and statement is due under the provisions of this section. The term "total actual investment in tangible property" as used in this section shall be construed to mean the total original purchase price or consideration to the reporting taxpayer of its tangible properties, including real estate, in this state plus additions and improvements thereto less reserve for depreciation as permitted for income tax purposes, and also less any indebtedness incurred and existing by virtue of the purchase of any real estate and any permanent improvements made thereon.

(5) The report, statement and tax required by this section shall be in addition to all other reports required or taxes levied and assessed in this state.

 Counties, cities and towns shall not levy a franchise tax on corporations taxed under this section. (1939, c. 158, s. 210; 1941, c. 50, s. 4; 1943, c. 400, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the last sentence of subdivision (2). It also made changes in subsection (C) of subdivision (3) and designated a following paragraph under said subdivision as (D). The 1943 amendment rewrote portions of subdivision (2). It also inserted subdivision (D) of subdivision (3) and changed former subdivision "(D)" to "(E)."

Tax is on Privilege of Existence. By the express terms of P. L. 1931, ch. 427, § 210, which was superseded by this section, the corporation was liable for the annual franchise tax for each year during which it enjoyed the privilege of the continuance of its charter. It was immaterial whether or not the corporation exercised its privilege of doing or carrying on the business authorized by its charter or certificate of incorporation; it was liable so long as it enjoyed the privilege granted by the state of "being" a corporation. Stagg v. Nessen Co., 208 N. C. 285, 180 S. E. 658. [ 1034 ]
§ 105-123. New corporations.—(1) No corporation, domestic or foreign, shall be permitted to do business in this state without paying the franchise tax levied in this article or schedule.
When such domestic corporation is incorporated under laws of this state or such foreign corporation is domesticated in this state, and has not heretofore done business in the state, upon which a report might be filed under § 105-122 notice in writing thereof shall be given to the commissioner of revenue by such corporation, and it shall be competent for the commissioner of revenue and he is hereby authorized to obtain such information concerning the basis for the levy of the tax from such other information he can obtain and to that end may require of such corporation to furnish him such a report as may clearly reflect and disclose the amount of its issued and outstanding capital stock, surplus and undivided profits as set out in § 105-122, and information as to such other factors as may be necessary to determine the basis of the tax. When this has been determined, in accordance with the provisions of § 105-123 as far as the same may be applicable, and upon the information which he has secured, the commissioner of revenue shall thereupon determine the amount of the franchise tax to be paid by such corporation, and said tax shall be due and payable within thirty days from date of notice thereof from the commissioner of revenue, which tax, in no event, shall be less than a ratable proportion of the tax for the franchise privilege extended for one year on the determined basis, nor less than the miniimum tax of ten dollars ($10.00); the tax levied in this section shall be for the period from date of incorporation or domestication to June thirtieth next following.

(2) Any corporation failing to notify the commissioner of revenue as provided for in subsection
(1) of this section within sixty days after date of the incorporation or domestication of such corpo-ratin in this state shall be subject to all penalties and remedies imposed for failure to file any report required under this article or schedule.

(3) The provisions of this section shall apply only to corporations newly incorporated or newly domesticated in this state. (1939, c. 158, s. 211.)

§ 105-124. Review of returns—additional taxes.
Upon receipt of any report, statement and tax as provided by this article or schedule, the commissioner of revenue shall cause same to be reviewed and examined for the purpose of ascertaining if same constitute a true and correct return as required by this article or schedule. If the commissioner of revenue discovers from the examination of any return, or otherwise, that the franchise or privilege tax of any taxpayer has not been correctly determined, computed and/or paid, he may at any time within three years after the time when the return was due, give notice in writing, to the taxpayer of such deficiency plus interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum from date when return was due, and any over-payment of the tax shall be returned to the taxpayer within thirty days after it is ascertained.
In the case of any taxpayer who has failed to file any return or statement required under this article or schedule, the limitation of three years shall not apply and the commissioner of revenue shall, from facts within his knowledge, prepare tentative returns for such delinquent taxpayer, and shall assess the taxes, penalties and interest upon these findings; this provision shall not be construed to relieve said taxpayer from liability for a return or from any penalties and remedies imposed for failure to file proper return. Any taxpayer feeling aggrieved by such proposed as-essment shall be entitled to a hearing before the commissioner of revenue, if within thirty days after date of notice of such proposed assessment, the taxpayer shall apply in writing, explaining in detail his objections to same. If no request for such hearing is made, such proposed assessment shall be final and conclusive. If the request for hearing is made, the taxpayer shall be heard by the commissioner of revenue, and after such hearing the commissioner of revenue shall render his decision. The taxpayer shall be advised of his decision by mail, and such amount shall be due and payable within ten days after date of notice thereof. (1939, c. 158, s. 212.)

§ 105-125. Corporations not mentioned.—None of the taxes levied in §§ 105-122 and 105-123 shall apply to religious, fraternal, benevolent, or educational corporations not operating for a profit; nor to banking and insurance companies; nor to business leagues, boards of trade, clubs organized and operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation and other non-profitable purposes, civic leagues operated exclusively for the promotion of social welfare, or chambers of commerce and merchants associations. Provided, that no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder, individual, or other corporations:
Provided, that each such corporation must, upon request by the commissioner of revenue, establish in writing its claim for exemption from said provisions. The provisions of §§ 105-122 and 105-123 shall apply to electric light, power, street railway, gas, water, Pullman, sleeping and dining car, express, telegraph, telephone, motor bus, and truck corporations to the extent and only to the extent that the franchise tax levied in §§ 105-122 and 105-123 exceed the franchise taxes levied in other sections of this article or schedule.
The exemptions in this section shall apply only to those corporations specifically mentioned, and no other. (1939, c. 158, s. 213.)

§ 105-126. Penalties for non-payment or failure to file report.—(1) Any person, firm, or corporation, domestic or foreign, failing to pay the license, privilege, or franchise tax levied and assessed under this article or schedule when due and payable shall, in addition to all other penalties prescribed in this article, pay an additional tax of 10 per cent (10%) and interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum on the total amount of tax due and additional tax incurred, which said additional tax shall not be less than two dollars ($2.00) in any case, and shall be added to the tax, together with the interest accrued, and shall become an integral part of the tax.

(2) Any person, firm, or corporation failing to file the report required in this article or schedule on or before the date specified shall pay a penalty of ten per cent (10%) of the tax found to be due, which penalty shall in no case be less than five dollars ($5.00). (1939, c. 158, s. 214.)
§ 105-127. When franchise or privilege taxes payable.—(1) Every corporation, domestic or foreign, from which a report is required by law to be made to the commissioner of revenue shall, unless otherwise provided, pay to said commissioner annually the franchise tax as required by §§ 105-122 and 105-123.
(2) It shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue to mail to the registered address, last listed with the commissioner of revenue, of every such corporation, report forms to be used in complying with the provisions of this article or schedule, which forms shall contain a copy of so much of this and other sections of this article as relates to penalties for failure to pay said taxes.
(3) It shall be the duty of the treasurer or other officer having charge of any such corporation, domestic or foreign, upon which a tax is herein imposed, to transmit the amount of the tax due to the commissioner of revenue within the time provided by law for payment of same.
(4) Individual stockholders in any corporation, joint stock association, limited partnership, or company paying a tax on its entire capital stock shall not be required to list or pay ad valorem taxes on the shares of stock owned by them.
(5) Corporations in the state legally holding shares of stock in other corporations, upon which the tax has been paid to the state by the corporation issuing the same, shall not be required to list or pay an ad valorem tax on said shares of stock.

§ 105-128. Power of attorney.—The commissioner of revenue shall have the authority to require a proper power of attorney of each and every agent for any taxpayer under this article.

§ 105-129. Extension of time for filing returns; fraudulent return made misdemeanor.—(1) The return required by this article or schedule shall be due on or before the dates specified unless written application for extension of time in which to file, containing reasons therefor, is made to the commissioner of revenue on or before due date of such return. The commissioner of revenue may extend the time for filing any return under this article or schedule, provided interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum from date return is due is paid upon the total amount of tax due.
(2) The provisions of this article with respect to revision and appeal shall apply to the tax so assessed. The limitation of three years to the assessment of such tax or additional tax shall not apply to the assessment of additional taxes upon fraudulent return. Any officer or agent of a corporation who shall knowingly make a fraudulent return under this article, or schedule shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) and/or imprisoned at the discretion of the court.

1. The word "taxpayer" includes any individual, corporation, or fiduciary subject to the tax imposed by this article.

4. The word "fiduciary" means a guardian, trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, conservator, or any person, whether individual or corporation, acting in any fiduciary capacity for any person, estate or trust.

9. The words "tax year" mean the calendar year in which the tax is payable.
10. The words "income year" mean the calendar year or the fiscal year upon the basis of which the net income is computed under this article; if no fiscal year has been established, they mean the calendar year.

12. The word "paid", for the purposes of the deductions under this article, means "paid or accrued" and the words "paid or accrued" shall be construed according to the method of accounting upon the basis of which the net income is computed under this article. In the absence of convincing proof to the contrary, any individual who is present within the state for more than six months during such income year shall be deemed to be a resident of the state; but absence from the state for more than six months shall raise no presumption that the individual is not a resident of the state. In cases in which it is demonstrated to the satisfaction of the commissioner of revenue that an individual was a resident of this state for only part of the income year, having moved into or removed from the state during such year, such individual shall, as to income received by him during the period of his residence, report for taxation all income required to be so reported by residents and shall, as to income received by him during the remainder of such year, report for taxation all income required to be so reported by nonresidents: Provided that in the case of an individual removing from the state during such year, he shall not be regarded as having become a nonresident until he shall have both established a definite residence elsewhere and abandoned any domicile he may have acquired in this state.

The fact that an individual is a nonresident of the state at the time the tax becomes due and payable shall not affect his liability for the tax.

Imposition of Income Tax.

§ 105-133. Individuals.—A tax is hereby imposed upon every resident of the state, which tax shall be levied, collected and paid annually, with respect to the net income of the taxpayer as hereinafter defined, and upon income earned within the state of every non-resident having a business or trade or business. Unless in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue the peculiar circumstances in any case justify a different basis, this term shall be generally interpreted to include as elements of cost within and without this state the following:

(a) The ratio of the book value of its real estate and tangible personal property in this state to the total cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within this state during such year.

(b) The ratio of the total cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within this state during such year to the total cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within and without this state. The term "cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within and without this state", as used herein, shall be interpreted in a manner to conform as nearly as may be to the best accounting practice in the trade or business. Unless in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue the peculiar circumstances in any case justify a different basis, this term shall be generally interpreted to include as elements of cost within and without this state the following:

(c) The total cost of all goods, materials, and supplies used in manufacturing, assembling, or processing, regardless of where purchased.

(d) The total wages and salaries paid or accrued during the income year in such manufacturing, assembling or processing activities.

(e) The total overhead or manufacturing burden properly assignable according to good accounting practice to such manufacturing, assembling or processing activities, not including, however, property, privilege, stamp, or other taxes.

(f) The term "book value" as used herein shall be defined to mean original cost plus additions and improvements less reserve for depreciation on the date of the close of the calendar or fiscal year of such company, unless in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue the peculiar circumstances in any case justify a different basis.

(g) The words "tangible personal property" shall be taken to mean corporeal personal property such as machinery, tools, implements, goods, wares and merchandise, and shall not be taken to mean cash on hand or in bank, shares of stock,

I. Domestic Corporations.—Every corporation organized under the laws of this state shall pay annually an income tax equivalent to six per cent on the entire net income, as herein defined, received by such corporation during the income year.

II. Foreign Corporations.—Every foreign corporation doing business in this state shall pay annually an income tax equivalent to six per cent of a proportion of its entire net income, to be determined according to the following rules:

1. If the principal business of a company in this state is manufacturing, or if it is any form of collecting, buying, assembling, or processing goods and materials within this state, the entire net income of such corporation shall be apportioned by North Carolina on the basis of the ratio obtained by taking the arithmetical average of the following two ratios:

(a) The ratio of the book value of its real estate and tangible personal property in this state to the total cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within this state during the income year.

(b) The ratio of the total cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within this state during the income year to the total cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within and without this state.

2. If the principal business of a company in this state is not manufacturing, or if it is any form of collecting, buying, assembling, or processing goods and materials anywhere else, it shall have both established a definite residence elsewhere and abandoned any domicile he may have acquired in this state.

The fact that an individual is a nonresident of the state at the time the tax becomes due and payable shall not affect his liability for the tax.

The words "foreign country" mean any jurisdiction other than the one embraced within the United States. The words "United States", when used in a geographical sense, include the states, and territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the District of Columbia, and the possessions of the United States. (1939, c. 155, s. 302; 1941, c. 50, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment substituted subsection (13) for the former subsection 13. For comment on this amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 350. See 17 N. C. Law Rev. 362, for comment on definition of "head of household."

Salary of Federal Officer Not Taxable. A state cannot tax the salary of a federal officer, nor of a state officer whose office is created by the constitution. Purnell v. Page, 133 N. C. 125, 45 S. E. 534.

Imposition of Income Tax.

§ 105-133. Individuals.—A tax is hereby imposed upon every resident of the state, which tax shall be levied, collected and paid annually, with respect to the net income of the taxpayer as hereinafter defined, and upon income earned within the state of every non-resident having a business or trade or business. Unless in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue the peculiar circumstances in any case justify a different basis, this term shall be generally interpreted to include as elements of cost within and without this state the following:

(a) The ratio of the book value of its real estate and tangible personal property in this state to the total cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within this state during the income year.

(b) The ratio of the total cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within this state during the income year to the total cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within and without this state. The term "cost of manufacturing, collecting, buying, assembling, or processing within and without this state", as used herein, shall be interpreted in a manner to conform as nearly as may be to the best accounting practice in the trade or business. Unless in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue the peculiar circumstances in any case justify a different basis, this term shall be generally interpreted to include as elements of cost within and without this state the following:

(c) The total cost of all goods, materials, and supplies used in manufacturing, assembling, or processing, regardless of where purchased.

(d) The total wages and salaries paid or accrued during the income year in such manufacturing, assembling or processing activities.

(e) The total overhead or manufacturing burden properly assignable according to good accounting practice to such manufacturing, assembling or processing activities, not including, however, property, privilege, stamp, or other taxes.

(f) The term "book value" as used herein shall be defined to mean original cost plus additions and improvements less reserve for depreciation on the date of the close of the calendar or fiscal year of such company, unless in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue the peculiar circumstances in any case justify a different basis.

(g) The words "tangible personal property" shall be taken to mean corporeal personal property such as machinery, tools, implements, goods, wares and merchandise, and shall not be taken to mean cash on hand or in bank, shares of stock, bonds, notes, accounts receivable, credits, special privileges, franchises, good will, or evidence of an interest in property and evidences of debt.

(h) The word "manufacturing" shall be defined as mining and all processes of fabricating or of curing raw materials.

2. If the principal business of a company in this state is selling, distributing, or dealing in tangible personal property within this state, the entire net income of such company shall be apportioned to North Carolina on the basis of the ratio obtained by dividing the total income of such corporation for such year by the income from sales or rentals of tangible properties.

(a) The ratio of the book value of its real estate and tangible personal property in this state on the date of the close of the calendar or fiscal year of such company in the income year is to the book value of its entire real estate and tangible property then owned by it, with no deduction on account of encumbrances thereon.

(b) The ratio of the total sales made through or by offices, agencies, or branches located in North Carolina during the income year to the total sales made everywhere during said income year.

(c) The word "sales" as used in this section shall be defined as sale or rental of real estate and sale or rental of tangible properties.

(d) The term "book value" as used herein shall be defined to mean original cost plus additions and improvements less reserve for depreciation on the date of the close of the calendar or fiscal year of such company, unless in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue the peculiar circumstances in any case justify a different basis.

(e) The words "tangible personal property" shall be taken to mean corporeal personal property such as machinery, tools, implements, goods, wares and merchandise, and shall not be taken to mean cash on hand or in bank, shares of stock, bonds, notes, accounts receivable, credits, special privileges, franchises, good will, or evidence of an interest in property and evidences of debt.

(f) Foreign insurance companies doing business in this state and returning premium receipts to the insurance commissioner, and paying the tax upon such premium receipts as provided in § 105-121 shall be exempt from this tax on income in so far as the income is derived from their insurance business. However, in case of a foreign insurance company owning real estate in this state from which rents are received it is required to file an income tax return reporting income received from such real estate in this state and take credit for actual expenses incurred in connection therewith.

3. If the principal business in this state of a corporation is other than that described in subsection 1 or subsection 2 of subdivision II of this section, then the total income of such corporation shall be apportioned to North Carolina on the basis of the ratio of its gross receipts in this state during the income year to its gross receipts for such year within and without the state.

(a) The words "gross receipts" as used in this subsection shall be taken to mean and include the entire receipts for business done by such company.

4. If any corporation believes that the method of allocation or apportionment hereinbefore described as administered by the commissioner of revenue has operated or will so operate as to subject it to taxation on a greater portion of its net income than is reasonably attributable to business or earnings within the state, it shall be entitled to file with the commissioner a petition setting forth the facts upon which its belief is based and its argument with respect to the application of the allocation formula. This petition shall be filed in such form and within such time as the commissioner may prescribe. If, after a consideration of the matters involved, it shall be found by the commissioner upon evidence offered which is clear, cogent and convincing that the application of the allocation formula subjects the corporation to taxation on a greater portion of its net income than is reasonably attributable to business or earnings within this state, the commissioner shall be authorized to add to the factors of the applicable allocation formula, or substitute for one of the factors of the applicable allocation formula, depending upon whether such addition or such substitution in the opinion of the commissioner more accurately reflects the income attributable to this state, the following factor:

The ratio of the expenditure of the wages, salaries, commissions or other compensation of whatsoever kind to its officers or employees, assignable to this state as hereinafter provided, to the total expenditure of the corporation for wages, salaries, commissions, or other compensation of whatsoever kind to all its officers or employees. The amount assignable to this state of the expenditure of the corporation for wages, salaries, commissions or other compensation to its officers or employees shall be such expenditure for the taxable year as represents the compensation of officers or employees not chiefly situated at, connected with or sent out from premises for the transaction of business owned or rented by the corporation outside the state.

The relief herein authorized shall be granted by the commissioner only in cases of clear, cogent, and convincing proof that the petitioning taxpayer is entitled thereto. There shall be a presumption that the allocation formulae prescribed in subdivisions one (1), two (2), and three (3) of Part II of this section reasonably attribute to North Carolina the proportion of the corporation's income earned in this state, and the burden shall rest upon the corporation to show the contrary. No corporation shall use this alternative factor in making a report or return of its income to this state except upon order in writing of the commissioner, and any return in which the alternative factor is used without the permission of the commissioner shall not be a lawful return. (1939, c. 158, s. 311; 1941, c. 50, s. 5; 1943, c. 400, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment changed subsection 1 of subdivision II.

The 1943 amendment added subsection 4.

For an excellent note on constitutionality of income allocation formulae as applied to corporations, see 5 N. C. Law Rev. 470.

For case construing the early income tax laws, see Hans Rees' Sons v. North Carolina, 283 U. S. 123, 51 S. Ct. 385, 75 L. Ed. 859.

Corporation Must Show Allocation Unconstitutional.—Where the commissioner of revenue has assessed an income tax against a foreign corporation operating a manufacturing plant in this state under the provisions of this section, without regard to its intangible property, the commissioner's assessment will be un-held by the courts upon appeal where the corporation has failed to show that such method of allocation is unconstitutional in its application to the corporation. State v. Kent-Coffey Mfg. Co., 204 N. C. 365, 168 S. E. 397.

§ 105-135. Income from stock in foreign corporations.—Income from stock in foreign corporations, in cash dividends, received by individuals, fiduciaries, partnerships (to be reported by partners on their individual returns) or corporations, resident in this state, or by non-resident fiduciary if held for a resident of this state, shall be reported and taxed as other income taxable under this article. Every individual, fiduciary, partnership, or corporation owning such shares of stock, and receiving dividends from same, shall report such income to the commissioner of revenue, at the time required by this article for reporting other income, and shall pay the tax herein imposed at the same time and in the same way as tax upon other income is payable. With respect to corporations paying a tax in this state on a proportionate part of their total income, the holder of shares of stock in such corporation shall pay on the total dividends received an amount equaling the percentage of the corporation's income on which it has not paid an income tax to the state of North Carolina for the year in which said dividends are received by the taxpayer. (1939, c. 158, s. 3111 1/2.)

Stock Received as Dividend Taxable.—Where plaintiff, owning stock in a foreign investment corporation, received as a dividend on such stock, stock of another foreign corporation, the stock received as a dividend was taken from the surplus of the investment corporation and was equivalent to a cash dividend, and was taxable as income from stock in a foreign corporation. Maxwell v. Tull, 216 N. C. 500, 5 S. E. (2d) 546.

§ 105-136. Railroads and public-service corporations.—The basis of ascertaining the net income of every corporation engaged in the business of operating a steam, electric railroad, express service, telephone or telegraph business, or other form of public service, when such company is required by the interstate commerce commission to keep records according to its standard classification of accounts, shall be the "net revenue from operations" of such corporation as shown by their records, kept in accordance with that standard classification of accounts when their business is wholly within this state, and when their business is in part within and in part without the state, their net income within this state shall be ascertained by taking their gross "operating revenues" within this state, including in their gross "operating revenues" within this state the equal mileage proportion within this state of their interstate business, and deducting from their gross "operating revenues" the proportionate average of "operating expenses" or "operating ratio" for their whole business, as shown by the interstate commerce commission standard classification of accounts.

Provided, that if the standard classification of operating expenses prescribed by the interstate commerce commission for railroads differs from the standard classification of operating expenses prescribed by the interstate commerce commission for other public-service corporations, such other public-service corporations shall be entitled to the same operating expenses as prescribed for railroads. From the net operating income thus ascertained shall be deducted "uncollectible revenue" and taxes paid in this state for the income year other than income taxes, and the balance shall be deemed to be their net income taxable under this article. That in determining the taxable income of a corporation engaged in the business of operating a railroad under this section, in the case of a railroad located entirely within this state, the net operating income shall be increased or decreased to the extent of any credit or debit balance received or paid, as the case may be, on account of car or locomotive hire; and when any railroad is located partly within and partly without this state, the said net operating income shall be increased or decreased to the extent of an equal mileage proportion within this state of any credit or debit balance received or paid, as the case may be, on account of car or locomotive hire.

For the purposes of this section the words "interstate business" shall mean, as to transportation companies, operating revenue earned within the state by reason of the interstate transportation of persons or property into, out of, or through this state, and as to transmission companies the interstate transmission of messages into, out of, or through the state.

The words "equal mileage proportion within the state" shall mean the proportion of revenue received by the company operating in this state from interstate business as defined in the preceding paragraph, which the distance of movement over lines in this state bears to the total distance of movement over lines of the company receiving such revenue. If the commissioner of revenue shall find, with respect to any particular company, that its accounting records are not kept so as to reflect with exact accuracy such division of revenue by state lines as to each transaction involving interstate revenue, the commissioner of revenue may adopt such regulations, based upon averages, as will approximate with reasonable accuracy the proportion of interstate revenue actually earned upon lines in this state.

The words "proportionate average of 'operating expenses' or 'operating ratio'" shall mean the proportion of gross revenue of a company, on its whole business absorbed in operating expenses, as defined in the interstate commerce commission classification of accounts.

In determining the taxable income of a railroad company operating two or more lines of railroad not physically connected, and when one of such railroad lines is located wholly within this state, the actual earnings and expenses of such line in this state, in so far as they may be severable, shall be used in determining net income taxable in this state.

With respect to leased lines operated in this state where the operating company pays a tax on the income earned on such leased lines, without deduction for lease rental, and on a sum properly allocable to such leased lines equal to the amount of lease rental paid, such lease rental shall not be taxable income against the lessor; provided that the stockholders of any such lessor corporation who receive dividends on their stock in such corporation shall be entitled to such income tax exemption with respect to such dividends as they would have had if the lessor corporation had paid an income tax on such exempted lease rental.

All other public service corporations shall file under § 105-124. (1939, c. 158, s. 312; 1941, c. 50, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the proviso to the next to the last paragraph of this section.

Commissioner of Revenue Must Follow Formula Provided by Section.—In ascertaining income taxes against a corporation the Commissioner of Revenue must follow this section, leaving the question of whether the result is arbitrary or unwarrented to the determination of the courts upon appeal from the corporation. Maxwell v. Norfolk, etc., Ry. Co., 208 N. C. 397, 181 S. E. 248.

And Burden of Proving Use of Formula Wrong is on Claimant.—The burden of proving that the use of the formula provided by this section is not void upon its face, but may be unworkable or unfair when applied to a particular railway in particular conditions, Norfolk, etc., Ry. Co. v. North Carolina, 297 U. S. 56, 56 S. Ct. 625, 80 L. Ed. 977. See also, Maxwell v. Norfolk, etc., Ry. Co., 208 N. C. 397, 181 S. E. 248.

§ 105-137. Taxable year. — The tax imposed by this article for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the year following the year for which the assessment is made. (1939, c. 158, s. 313.)

§ 105-138. Conditional and other exemptions. — The following organizations shall be exempt from taxation under this article:

1. Fraternal beneficiary societies, orders or associations.
   (a) Operating under the lodge system or for the exclusive benefit of the members of a fraternity itself operating under the lodge system, and
   (b) Providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members of such society, order or association, or their dependents.
2. Building and loan associations and cooperative banks without capital stock, organized and operated for mutual purposes and without profit.
3. Cemetery corporations and corporations organized for religious, charitable, scientific, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual.
4. Business leagues, chambers of commerce, merchants' associations, or boards of trade not organized for profit, and no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual.
5. Civic leagues or organizations not organized for profit, but operated exclusively for the promotion of social welfare.
6. Clubs organized and operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation, and other non-profitable purposes, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or member.
7. Farmers' or other mutual hail, cyclone, or fire insurance companies, mutual ditch or irrigation companies, mutual or cooperative telephone companies, or like organizations of a purely local character the income of which consists solely of assessments, dues and fees collected from members for the sole purpose of meeting expenses.
8. Farmers', fruit growers', or like organizations organized and operated as sales agents for the purpose of marketing the products of members and turning back to them the proceeds of sales, less the necessary selling expenses, on the basis of the quantity of product furnished by them.
9. Mutual associations formed under §§ 54-111 to 54-128, formed to conduct agricultural business on the mutual plan; or to marketing associations organized under §§ 54-129 to 54-158. (1939, c. 158, s. 314.)

§ 105-139. Fiduciaries.—The tax imposed by this article shall be imposed upon resident fiduciaries having in charge funds or property for the benefit of a resident of this state, and/or income earned in this state for the benefit of a non-resident, and upon a non-resident fiduciary having in charge funds or property for the benefit of a resident of this state, which tax shall be levied, collected and paid annually with respect to:

(a) That part of the net income of estates or trusts which has not become distributable during the income year.
(b) The net income received during the income year by deceased individuals who, at the time of death, were residents and who have died during the tax year or the income year without having made a return.
(c) The entire net income of resident, insolvent, or incompetent individuals, whether or not any portion thereof is held for the future use of the beneficiaries, where the fiduciary has complete charge of such net income.
(d) The tax imposed upon a fiduciary by this article shall be a charge against the estate or trust. (1939, c. 158, s. 315.)

§ 105-140. Net income defined. — The words "net income" mean the gross income of a taxpayer, less the deductions allowed by this article. (1939, c. 158, s. 316.)

§ 105-141. Gross income defined.—1. The words "gross income" mean the income of a taxpayer derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service, of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, trades, business, commerce or sales, or dealings in property, whether real or personal, located in this or any other state or any other place, growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in such property, also from interest, rent, dividends, securities, or the transactions of any business carried on for gain or profit, or gains or profits, and income derived from any source whatever and in whatever form paid. The amount of all such items shall be included in the gross income of the income year in which received by the taxpayer, unless, under the methods of accounting permitted under this article, any such amounts are to be properly accounted for as of a different period. The term "gross income" as used in this article shall include the salaries of all constitutional state officials taking office after the date of the enactment of this article by election, re-election or appointment, and all acts fixing the compensation of such constitutional state officials are hereby amended accordingly. The words "business income" and the words "business, trade, profession, or occupation," and the words "salaries, wages or compensation for personal services," as used in § 105-142. Basis of return of net income.—1. The net income of a taxpayer shall be computed in accordance with the method of accounting regularly employed in keeping the books of such taxpayer, but such method of accounting must be consistent with respect to both income and deductions, but if in any case such method does not clearly reflect the income, the computation shall be made in accordance with such method as in the opinion of the taxpayer does clearly reflect the income, but shall follow as nearly as practicable the federal practice, unless contrary to the context and intent of this article.

2. A taxpayer may, with the approval of the commissioner of revenue, and under such regulations as he may prescribe, change the income year from fiscal year to calendar year or otherwise, in which case his net income shall be computed upon the basis of such new income year: Provided, that such approval must be obtained from the commissioner at least thirty days prior to the end of such income year.

3. An individual carrying on business in partnership shall be liable for income tax only in his individual capacity, and shall include in his gross income, whether distributed or not, his distributive share of the net income of the partnership and dividends from foreign corporations for each income year. If an established business in this state is owned by a nonresident individual or by a partnership having one or more nonresident members, the manager of the business in this state shall report the earnings of such business in this state, and the distributive share of the income of each nonresident owner or partner and pay the tax as levied on individuals in this article for each such nonresident owner or partner. The exemption or other deductions allowed individuals in this article may be deducted on a pro rata basis if the nonresident owner or partner furnishes to the manager of such business in this state complete information as to the total net income and total deductions allowable under this article to residents of this state, so that the same may be prorated in proportion to the income and deductions in this state and in the state of residence. The individual or partnership business carried on in this state may deduct the payment required to be made for such nonresident individual or partner or partners from their distributive share of the profits of such business in this state.

4. Every individual taxable under this article who is a beneficiary of an estate or trust shall include in his gross income the distributive share of the net income of the estate or trust received by him or distributable to him during the income year. Unless otherwise provided in the law, the will, the deed, or other instrument creating the estate, trust, or fiduciary relation, the net income shall be deemed to be distributed or distributable to the beneficiaries (including the fiduciary as a beneficiary, in the case of income accumulated for future distribution), ratable in proportion to their respective interest. (1939, c. 158, s. 318; 1943, c. 400, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment added that part of subsection 3 beginning with the second sentence.

§ 105-143. Subsidiary corporations. — The net income of a corporation doing business in this state which is a subsidiary or affiliate of another corporation shall be determined by eliminating all payments to or charges by the parent corporation or other subsidiaries or affiliates of the parent corporation in excess of fair compensation for all services performed for or commodities or property sold, transferred, leased, or licensed to the parent or to its other subsidiary or affiliated corporations by the corporation doing business in this state. If the commissioner of revenue shall find as a fact that a report by such subsidiary or affiliated corporation does not disclose the true earnings of such corporation on its business carried on in this state, the commissioner may require that such subsidiary or affiliated corporation file a consolidated return of the entire operations of such parent corporation and of its subsidiaries and affiliates, including its own operations and income, and may determine the true amount of net income earned by such subsidiary or affiliated corporation in this state by taking the factor of investment in real estate and tangible personal property in this state and volume of business in this state and by relating these factors to the total investment of the parent corporation and its subsidiaries and affiliated corporations in real estate and tangible personal property in and out of this state and their total volume of business in and out of this state. The authority hereby given to require consolidated returns as aforesaid and to ascertain the true amount of income earned in this state on the basis herein prescribed may also be used by the commissioner as the basis of ascertaining the true net income earned in this state during the calendar year one thousand nine hundred and forty and for the three calendar years preceding thereto. For the purposes of this section, a corporation shall be deemed a subsidiary of another corporation when, directly or indirectly, it is subject to control by such other corporation by stock ownership, interlocking directors, or by any other means whatsoever exercised by the same or associated financial interests, whether such control is direct or through one or more subsidiary, affiliated, or controlled corporations, and a corporation shall be deemed an affiliate of another corporation when both are directly or indirectly controlled by the same parent corporation or by the same or associated financial interests by stock ownership, interlocking directors, or by any other means whatsoever, whether such control be direct or through one or more subsidiary, affiliated or controlled corporations. Upon such finding by the commissioner, the consolidated returns authorized by this section may be required whether the parent or controlling corporation or interest or its subsidiaries or affiliates are or are not doing business in this state. The provisions of this section do not apply to corporations subject to regulation by a regulatory body of this state which are required to maintain accounts in such manner as to reflect separately the business done in this state and file a report thereof with such regulatory body. This section shall not apply unless the commissioner further finds that the business in this state is handled or effected in such manner as to distort or not reflect the true income earned in this state and finds in addition to or other than any of the following facts: (a) that the several corporations are owned or controlled by the same financial interests or (b) that they are members of a group of corporations associated together in carrying on a unitary business or are branches or parts of a unitary business or are engaged in different phases of the same general business or industry. If such consolidated return is required and is not filed within sixty days after demand, said subsidiary or affiliated corporation shall be subject to the penalty provided in this act for failure to file returns and in addition shall be subject to the penalty provided in § 105-230, and in such event the provisions of subsection 5 of § 105-161 shall apply.

Every subsidiary of a parent corporation doing business in this state shall not be allowed to deduct interest on indebtedness owed to or endorsed or guaranteed by the parent corporation and used by the subsidiary in carrying on its business in this state. The term "indebtedness" used in this paragraph shall include all loans, credits, goods, supplies or other capital of whatsoever nature furnished by the parent corporation, or by any subsidiary of the parent corporation. The term "subsidiary corporation" as used in this paragraph shall mean any corporation, a majority of stock in which is owned by a parent corporation. The term "parent corporation" shall include any subsidiary of the parent corporation. If any part of the capital used by the parent corporation is borrowed capital, the subsidiary may deduct from its gross income interest paid to the parent corporation in such proportion as the borrowed capital of the parent corporation is to the total assets of such parent corporation. The term "borrowed capital" used in this paragraph shall include all loans and credits obtained by the parent corporation and also all goods, supplies or other capital of whatever nature borrowed by the parent corporation.

Such subsidiary or affiliated corporation shall incorporate in its returns required under this section and article such information as the commissioner may reasonably require for the determination of the net income taxable under this article, and shall furnish such additional information as the commissioner may reasonably require. If the return does not contain the information therein required or such additional information is not furnished within thirty days after demand, the corporation shall be subject to a penalty of one hundred dollars a day for each day's omission, in addition to the penalty provided in § 105-330.

If the commissioner finds that the determination of the income of a subsidiary or affiliated corporation under a consolidated return as herein provided will produce a greater or lesser figure than the amount of income earned in this state, he may readjust the determination by reasonable methods of computation to make it conform to the amount of income earned in this state; and if the corporation contends the figure produced is greater than the earnings in this state, it shall, within thirty days after notice of such determination, file with the commissioner a statement of its objections and of an alternative method of determination with such detail and proof as the commissioner may require, and the commissioner shall consider the same in determining the income earned in this state. In making such determination the findings and conclusions of the commissioner shall be presumed to be correct and shall not be set aside unless shown to be plainly wrong.

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment substituted the word "or" for the word "of" in the third line of the last sentence.

§ 105-145. Exchanges of property.—1. When property is exchanged for other property of like kind, the property received in exchange shall be considered as a conversion of assets from one form to another, from which no gain or loss shall be deemed to arise.

2. In the case of the organization of a corporation, the stock or securities received shall be considered to take the place of property transferred therefor, and no gain or loss shall be deemed to arise therefrom.

3. (a) No gain or loss shall be recognized if stock or securities in a corporation a party to a reorganization are, in pursuance of the plan of reorganization, exchanged solely for stock or securities in such corporation or in another corporation a party to the reorganization.

(b) No gain or loss shall be recognized if a corporation a party to a reorganization exchanges property, in pursuance of the plan of reorganization, solely for stock or securities in another corporation a party to the reorganization.

(c) As used in this section, the term "reorganization" includes a statutory merger or consolidation, a transfer by a corporation of all or a part of its assets to another corporation, if immediately after the transfer the transferor or its shareholders, or both, are in control of the corporation to which the assets are transferred, or a recapitalization, or a mere change in identity, form, or place of organization, however effected.

(d) As used in this section, the term "a party to a reorganization" includes the corporation resulting from a reorganization and includes both corporations in the case of a reorganization resulting from the acquisition by one corporation of stock or properties of another, and the term "control" means the ownership of stock possessing at least eighty (80) per cent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote and at least eighty (80) per cent of the total number of shares of all other classes of stock of the corporation.

The basis of property received by a corporation upon a distribution in complete liquidation of another corporation within the meaning of § 105-144 shall be the same as it would be in the hands of the transferor. (1939, c. 158, s. 320; 1943, c. 400, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote subsection 3.

§ 105-146. Inventory.—Whenever, in the opinion of the commissioner of revenue, it is necessary, in order clearly to determine the income of any taxpayer, inventories shall be taken by such taxpayer upon such basis as the commissioner of revenue may prescribe, conforming as nearly as may be to the best accounting practice in the trade § 105-147. Deductions.—In computing net income there shall be allowed as deductions the following items:

1. All the ordinary and necessary expenses paid during the income year in carrying on any trade or business, including:
   (a) As to individuals, reasonable wages of employees for services rendered in producing such income.
   (b) As to partnerships, reasonable wages of employees and a reasonable allowance for co-partners or members of a firm, for services actually rendered in producing such income, the amount of such salary allowance to be included in the personal return of the co-partner receiving same.
   (c) As to corporations, wages of employees and salaries of officers, if reasonable in amount, for services actually rendered in producing such income.

2. Rentals or other payments required to be made as a condition of the continued use or possession for the purpose of the trade or property to which the taxpayer has not taken or is not taking title, or in which he has no equity.

3. Unearned discount and all interest paid during the income year on indebtedness except interest paid or accrued in connection with the ownership of real or personal property the current income from which is not taxable under this article, and except interest paid by a subsidiary to a parent corporation as defined in § 105-143. Interest on indebtedness incurred for the purchase of stock of corporations paying a tax on their entire net income under this article shall be deductible, and a ratable proportion of such interest with respect to corporations paying a tax on a proportion of their net income.

4. Taxes paid or accrued during the income year, except income taxes, gift taxes, taxes levied under § 102-135, inheritance and estate taxes, and taxes assessed for local benefit of a kind tending to increase the value of the property assessed. No deduction shall be allowed under this section for gasoline tax, sales tax, automobile license or registration fee by individuals not engaged in trade or business, nor shall deduction be allowed for taxes paid or accrued in connection with the ownership of property, the current income from which is not taxable under this article. All payments made by an employer into a federal fund as provided by the provisions of Title VIII and Title IX of the Federal Social Security Act, and all payments made by an employer as provided by a state unemployment compensation law: Provided, that none of the foregoing provisions shall apply to that part of such payments required to be deducted by an employer from the earnings of an employee. "Income taxes" which are not allowed to be deducted under this section shall be construed to include taxes that are in fact based upon net income, although such taxes may be levied in another state as franchise or excise taxes. The exclusion or deduction of income taxes in another state shall in each case depend upon whether the tax was in fact a tax upon net income by whatever name called.

5. Dividends from stock in any corporation, the income of which shall have been assessed, and the tax on such income paid by the corporation under the provisions of this article: Provided, that when only part of the income of any corporation shall have been assessed under this article, whether paid directly to the taxpayer or paid to the taxpayer by a trustee of a distributable trust, only a corresponding part of the dividends received therefrom shall be deducted.

5½. Interest received by a parent corporation on indebtedness owed to it by a subsidiary corporation doing business in North Carolina, which, in the determination of the taxable net income of such subsidiary corporation was not allowed as a deduction from gross income under the provisions of § 105-143.

6. Losses actually sustained during the income year of property used in trade or business or of property not connected with trade or business, if arising from fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualties or theft and if not compensated for by insurance or otherwise. No deduction shall be allowed under this subsection for losses arising from personal loans or endorsements or other transactions of a personal nature not entered into for profit. A taxpayer shall be allowed to deduct losses in connection with the sale of securities only to the extent of the security gains during the income year, unless such losses resulted from the sale of stocks or bonds held by the taxpayer for a period of two years or more prior to the sale of such stocks or bonds. Losses may be carried forward by the taxpayer for two succeeding tax years as a credit against income received in either of the two succeeding years subject to the following limitations: First, no carry-over loss shall accrue from any tax year except to the extent that the loss of such year shall exceed any income not taxable under this article received in the same year; Second, the carry-over loss from any prior year or years may be deducted from the taxable income of any tax year only to the extent that such carry-over loss shall exceed any nontaxable income received in such tax year; and Third, any loss carry-over from the sale of securities may be deducted only from gains from the sale of securities in the two succeeding years. The deduction authorized herein shall be permitted in determining any income tax which shall become due and payable on or after January first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-four.

7. Debts ascertained to be worthless and actually charged off within the income year, if connected with business and, if the amount has previously been included in gross income in a return under this article.

8. A reasonable allowance for depreciation and obsolescence of property used in the trade or business shall be measured by the estimated life of such property; and in case of mines, oil and gas wells, other natural deposits and timber, a reasonable allowance for depletion. The cost of property acquired since January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, plus additions and improvements, shall be the basis for determining the amount of depreciation, and if acquired prior to that date the book value as of that date of the property shall be the cost basis for determining depreciation.

In cases of mines, oil and gas wells, and other natural deposits, the cost of development not otherwise deducted will be allowed as depletion, and in the case of leases, the deduction allowed may be equitably apportioned between the lessor and lessee.

In case the federal government determines depreciation or depletion of property for income tax purposes upon the basis of book value instead of original cost, the depreciation allowed under this article shall be upon the same basis.

9. Contributions or gifts made by individuals, firms, partnerships and corporations within the income year to corporations, trusts, community chests, funds, foundations or associations organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, literary, scientific, or educational purposes or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual: Provided, that in the case of such contributions or gifts by corporations and partnerships, the amount allowed as a deduction hereunder shall be limited to an amount not in excess of five (5%) per centum of the corporation's or partnership's net income, as computed without the benefit of this subdivision; and provided that in the case of such contributions or gifts by individuals, the amount allowed as a deduction shall be limited to an amount not in excess of ten (10%) per centum of the individual's net income, as computed without the benefit of this section.

10. Resident individuals and domestic corporations having an established business in another state, or investment in property in another state, may deduct the net income from such business or investment if such business or investment is in a state that levies a tax upon such net income. The deduction herein authorized shall not include income received by residents of this state and domestic corporations from personal services (except as provided in § 105-151), stocks, bonds, notes, mortgages, securities, or bank or other deposits or credits, nor in any case shall it operate to reduce the taxable income actually earned in this state.

Properly allocable as income earned in this state: Provided, however, that resident individuals or domestic corporations who or which have an established business or investment in another state which does not levy an income tax shall treat any gain or loss from such business or investment as though it occurred from a business or investment in North Carolina.

The provision in this subsection for deductions of income that is earned and taxed in another state as net income shall be construed to include income that is earned and taxed in another state, although such tax may be levied in another state as franchise or excise taxes. The deduction of income earned and taxed in another state shall depend upon whether the tax was in fact a tax upon net income by whatever name called.

11. In the case of a non-resident individual, the deductions allowed in this section shall be allowed only if and to the extent that they are connected with income arising from sources within the state; and the proper apportionment and allocation of the deductions with respect to sources of income within and without the state shall be determined under rules and regulations prescribed by the commissioner of revenue.

12. In computing net income no deduction shall be allowed under this section relating to salaries, wages, or other expenses, rentals or other similar payments, interest or taxes, if (1) the same are not actually paid within the taxable year or within two and one-half (2½) months after the close thereof; and (2) if, by reason of the method of accounting of the person or corporation to whom the payment is to be made, the amount thereof is not, unless actually paid, includible in the gross income of such person or corporation for the taxable year in which or with which the taxable year of the taxpayer ends. (1939, c. 158, s. 322; 1941, c. 50, s. 5; 1943, c. 400, s. 4; 1943, c. 668.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment substituted the second sentence of subsection 10 for the former two last sentences.

The first 1943 amendment added the second exception in the first sentence of subsection 3, and the last two sentences of subsections 4 and 6. It inserted subsection 5½, rewrote subsection 9 and added the proviso and the second paragraph of subsection 10. The second 1943 amendment also rewrote subsection 9 effective as of Jan. 1, 1943.

For comment on subdivision 12, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 381.

§ 105-148. Items not deductible.—In computing net income no deduction shall in any case be allowed in respect of:

(a) Personal, living, or family expenses.

(b) Any amount paid out for new buildings or for permanent improvements or betterments, made to increase the value of any property or estate.

(c) Premiums paid on any life insurance policy.

(d) Income, excess profits and gift taxes, including federal tax on undistributed earnings.

(e) Social Security and unemployment tax paid by employee.

(f) Contributions to individuals.

(g) Commutation expenses.

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added former subsection (i) at the end of this section.

The 1943 amendment omitted provisions relating to contributions or gifts by corporations and partnerships, and provided that it should be effective as of Jan. 1, 1943.

§ 105-149. Exemptions. — 1. There shall be deducted from the net income the following exemptions:

(a) In the case of a single individual, a personal exemption of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00).

(b) In the case of a married man with a wife living with him, two thousand dollars ($2,000.00), or in the case of a person who is the head of a household and maintains the same and therein supports one or more dependent relatives, under eighteen years of age, or, if over eighteen years of age, incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective, two thousand dollars ($2,000.00).

(c) A married woman having a separate and independent income, one thousand dollars ($1,000.00).

(d) In the case of a widow or widower having minor child or children, natural or adopted, two thousand dollars ($2,000.00).

(e) Two hundred dollars ($200.00) for each individual (other than husband and wife) dependent upon and receiving his chief support from the taxpayer, if such dependent individual is under eighteen years of age or is incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective. Exceptions for the children of taxpayers shall be allowed under this subsection only to the person entitled to the $2,000.00 exemption provided in subsection (b) of this subdivision.

(f) In the case of a fiduciary filing a return for that part of the net income of estates or trusts which has not become distributable during the income year one thousand dollars ($1,000.00).

In the case of a fiduciary filing a return for an insolvent or incompetent individual resident or non-resident where the fiduciary has complete charge of such net income the same exemption to which the beneficiary would be entitled.

2. The exemptions allowed by this section shall not apply to a resident of this state having income from a business or agency in another state, or with respect to non-resident having a taxable income in this state unless the entire income of such resident or non-resident individual is shown in the return of such resident or non-resident; and if the entire income is so shown, the exemption shall be prorated in the proportion of the income of this state to the total income.

3. The status on the last day of the income year shall determine the right to the exemptions provided in this section. Provided, that a taxpayer shall be entitled to such exemption for husband or wife or dependents who have died during the income year. (1939, c. 158, s. 325; 1941, c. 50, s. 5; 1943, c. 400, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendments substituted paragraph one in lieu of the former section.

The 1943 amendment added paragraph 2.

§ 105-152. Returns.—1. The following persons shall file with the commissioner of revenue a income tax return under affirmation, showing there in specifically the items of gross income and the deductions allowed by this article, and such other facts as the commissioner may require for the purpose of making any computation required by this article:

(a) Every resident and nonresident who is a single person and who has a net income during the income year of over one thousand dollars ($1000.00) which is taxable in this state.

(b) Every resident or nonresident who is married but is not living with his or her wife or husband, and who has a net income during the income year of over one thousand dollars ($1000.00) which is taxable in this state.

(c) Any resident or nonresident married woman, whether or not she is living with her husband, who has a net income during the income year of over one thousand dollars ($1000.00) which is taxable in this state.

(d) Every resident or nonresident who is married and is living with his wife, and who has a net income during the income year of over two thousand dollars ($2000.00), which is taxable in this state.

(e) Every resident or nonresident who is "head of a household" as defined in § 105-149 (1) (b) and who has a net income during the income year of over two thousand dollars ($2000.00) which is taxable in this state.

(f) Every resident of this state having a gross income from a business, agency or profession in excess of five thousand dollars ($5000.00).

(g) Every nonresident having a gross income from a business, agency or profession within this state in excess of five thousand dollars ($5000.00).
(h) Every resident or nonresident who is a widow or widower, having minor child or children, natural or adopted, and who has a net income during the income year of over two thousand dollars ($2000.00) which is taxable in this state.

(j) Every partnership having a place of business in the state as provided in § 105-154.

(k) Every corporation doing business in this state.

(l) Any person or corporation whom the commissioner believes to be liable for a tax under this article, when so notified by the commissioner and requested to file a return.

2. If the taxpayer is unable to make his own return, the return shall be made by a duly authorized agent or by a guardian or other person charged with the care of the person or property of such taxpayer.

3. The return by a corporation shall be sworn to by the president, vice-president, or other principal officer, and by the treasurer or assistant treasurer.

4. The return of an individual, who, while living, received income in excess of the exemption during the income year, and who has died before making the return, shall be made in his name and behalf by the administrator, or executor of the estate, and the tax shall be levied upon and collected from his estate.

5. When the commissioner of revenue has reason to believe that any taxpayer so conducts the trade or business as either directly or indirectly to distort his true net income and the net income properly attributable to the state, whether by the arbitrary shifting of income, through price fixing, charges for service, or otherwise, whereby the net income is arbitrarily assigned to one or another unit in a group of taxpayers carrying on business under a substantially common control, he may require such facts as he deems necessary for the proper computation of the entire net income and the net income properly attributable to the state, and in determining same the commissioner of revenue shall have regard to the fair profit which would normally arise from the conduct of the trade or business.

6. When any corporation liable to taxation under this article conducts its business in such a manner as either directly or indirectly to benefit the members or stockholders thereof or any person interested in such business by selling its products or goods or commodities in which it deals at less than the fair price which might be obtained therefore, or where a corporation, a substantial portion of whose capital stock is owned either directly or indirectly by another corporation, acquires and disposes of the products of the corporation so owning a substantial portion of its stock in such a manner as to create a loss or improper net income for either of said corporations, the commissioner of revenue may determine the amount of taxable income of either or any such corporations for the calendar or fiscal year, having due regard to the reasonable profits which, but for such arrangement or understanding, might or could have been obtained by the corporation or corporations liable to taxation under this article from dealing in such products, goods or commodities. (1939, c. 158, s. 326; 1941, c. 50, s. 5; 1943, c. 400, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment struck out former subsection 5, relating to required return and settlement of tax by corporation before dissolution, and renumbered former subsections 6 and 7 to appear as 5 and 6 respectively. The 1943 amendment rewrote subsection 1.

§ 105-153. Fiduciary returns.—1. Every fiduciary subject to taxation under the provisions of this article, as provided in § 105-159, shall make a return under oath for the individual, estate or trust for whom or for which he acts, if the net income thereof exceeds the personal exemptions.

3. The return made by a fiduciary shall state specifically the items of gross income and the deductions and exemptions allowed by this article, and such other facts as the commissioner of revenue may prescribe.

3. Fiduciaries required to make returns under this article shall be subject to all the provisions of this article which apply to individuals. (1939, c. 158, s. 327.)

§ 105-154. Information at the source.—1. Every individual, partnership, corporation, joint-stock company or association, or insurance company, being a resident or having a place of business in this state, in whatever capacity acting, including lessors or mortgagees of real or personal property, fiduciaries, employers, and all officers and employees of the state or of any political subdivision of the state, having the control, receipt, custody, disposal, or payment of interest (other than interest coupons payable to bearer), rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments or other fixed or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits, and incomes above exemptions allowed in this article, paid or payable during any year to any taxpayer, shall make complete return thereof to the commissioner of revenue under such regulations and in such form and manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by him.

2. Every partnership having a place of business in the state shall make a return, stating specifically the items of its gross income and the deductions allowed by this article, and shall include in the return the names and addresses of the individuals who would be entitled to share in the net income if distributable, and the amount of the distributive share of each individual, together with the distributive shares of corporation dividends. The return shall be sworn to by one of the partners.

3. Every corporation doing business or having a place of business in this state shall file with the commissioner of revenue, on such form and in such manner as he may prescribe, the names and addresses of all taxpayers, residents of North Carolina, to whom dividends have been paid and § 105-155. Time and place of filing returns.
—Returns shall be in such form as the commissioner of revenue may from time to time prescribe, and shall be filed with the commissioner at his main office, or at any branch office which he may establish, on or before the fifteenth day of March in each year, and for all taxpayers using a fiscal year, within seventy-five days after expiration of the fiscal year. In case of sickness, absence, or other disability or whenever in his judgment good cause exists, the commissioner may allow further time for filing returns.

There shall be annexed to the return the affirmation of the taxpayer making the return in the following form; “I hereby affirm that this return, including the accompanying schedules and statements (if any) has been examined by me, and, to the best of my knowledge and belief, is true and complete and is made in good faith covering the taxable period stated, pursuant to the Revenue Act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, as amended and the regulations issued under authority thereof, and that this affirmation is made under the penalties of perjury. The return shall also be signed by a competent witness of the signature.” Any individual who willfully makes and subscribes a return which he does not believe to be true and correct as to every material matter, shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be subject to the penalties prescribed for perjury. The commissioner shall cause to be prepared blank forms for the said returns, and shall cause them to be distributed throughout the state, and to be furnished upon application; but failure to receive or secure the form shall not relieve any taxpayer from the obligation of making any return herein required. (1939, c. 158, s. 329; 1943, c. 400, s. 4.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote all of the second paragraph except the last sentence.

§ 105-156. Failure to file returns; supplementary returns.—If the commissioner of revenue shall be of the opinion that any taxpayer has failed to file a return or to include in a return, either intentionally or through error, items of taxable income, he may require from such taxpayer a return or supplementary return, under oath, in such form as he shall prescribe, of all the items of income which the taxpayer received during the year for which the return is made, whether or not taxable under the provisions of this article. If from a supplementary return or otherwise the commissioner finds any items of income, taxable under this article, have been omitted from the original return, or any items returned as taxable that are not taxable, or any item of taxable income over-stated, he may require the items so omitted to be disclosed to him under oath of the taxpayer, and to be added to or deducted from the original return. Such supplementary return and the correction of the original return shall not relieve the taxpayer from any of the penalties to which he may be liable under any provision of this article. The commissioner may proceed under the provisions of § 105-159, whether or not he requires a return or a supplementary return under this section. (1939, c. 158, s. 331.)

Collection and Enforcement of Income Tax.

§ 105-157. Time and place of payment of tax.—(1) The full amount of the tax payable, as shown on the face of the return, shall be paid to the commissioner of revenue at the office where the return is filed at the time fixed by law for filing the return. The amount of said tax may be paid in four equal installments, one-fourth at the time of filing the report, one-fourth on or before June fifteenth, one-fourth on or before December fifteenth, and one-fourth on or before December fifteenth. Such deferred payments may be made with interest at four per cent (4%), but if any deferred payment is not made when due, the whole amount of deferred payments shall become due and interest at the rate of four per cent (4%) per annum shall be added to such deferred payment from March fifteenth until paid. This provision for deferred payments shall become effective as of January first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-four.

(2) If the time for filing the return be extended, interest at the rate of four per cent (4%) per annum from the time when the return was originally required to be filed to the time of payment shall be added and paid.

(3) The tax may be paid with uncertified check during such time and under such regulations as the commissioner of revenue shall prescribe; but if a check so received is not paid by the bank on which it is drawn, the taxpayer by whom such check is tendered shall remain liable for the payment of the tax and for all legal penalties the same as if such check had not been tendered. (1939, c. 158, s. 332; 1943, c. 400, s. 4.)

Editor’s Note.—Prior to the 1943 amendment, if the amount of the tax exceeded fifty dollars it was payable in two installments. The amendment changed the interest rate from six to four per cent.

§ 105-158. Examination of returns.—1. As soon as practicable after the return is filed the commissioner of revenue shall examine and compute the tax, and the amount so computed by the commissioner shall be the tax. If the tax found due shall be greater than the amount theretofore paid, the excess shall be paid to the commissioner within thirty days after notice of the amount shall be mailed by the commissioner, and any over-payment of tax shall be returned within thirty days after it is ascertained.

2. If the return is made in good faith and the under-statement of the tax is not due to any fault of the taxpayer, there shall be no penalty or additional tax added because of such under-statement, but interest shall be added to the amount of the deficiency at the rate of one-half (½) of one per cent (1%) per month or fraction thereof from the time said return was required by law to be filed until paid.

3. If the under-statement is due to negligence on the part of the taxpayer, but without intent to defraud, there shall be added to the amount of the deficiency five per cent (5%) thereof, and, in addition, interest at the rate of one-half (½) of one per cent (1%) per month or fraction thereof from time said return was required by law to be filed until paid.

4. If the under-statement is found by the commissioner of revenue to be false or fraudulent, with intent to evade the tax, the tax on the additional income discovered to be taxable shall be doubled and interest at the rate of one-half (½%) of one per cent (1%) per month or fraction thereof from time said return was required by law to be filed until paid. The provisions of this article, with respect to revision and appeal shall be applied by the commissioner of revenue to his decision. The taxpayer shall be advised of his decision and such amount shall be due within ten days after notice is given. The provisions of this article with respect to revision and appeal shall apply to the tax so assessed. The limitation of three years to the assessment of such tax or an additional tax shall not apply to the assessment of additional taxes upon fraudulent returns. Upon failure to file returns and in the absence of fraud the limitation shall be five years. (1939, c. 158, s. 335.)

Editor's Note.—See 12 N. C. Law Rev. 21, 35.

§ 105-161. Penalties.—1. If any taxpayer, without intent to evade any tax imposed by this article, shall fail to file a return of income and pay the tax, if one is due, at the time required by or under the provisions of this article, but shall voluntarily file a correct return of income and pay the tax due within sixty days thereafter, there shall be added to the tax an additional amount equal to twenty-five per cent (25%) thereof and interest at the rate of one-half of one per cent (¼%) per month or fraction thereof, from the time such return was required to be filed until paid, but the penalty shall not be less than five dollars ($5.00).

3. If any taxpayer fails to file a return within sixty days of the time prescribed by this article, any judge of the superior court, upon petition of the commissioner of revenue or of any ten taxable residents of the state, shall issue a writ of mandamus requiring such person to file a return.

4. The failure to do any act required by or under the provisions of this article shall be deemed an act committed in part at the office of the commissioner of revenue in Raleigh. The certificate of the commissioner of revenue to the effect that a tax has not been paid, that a return has not been filed, or that information has not been supplied, as required by or under the provisions of this article, shall be prima facie evidence that such tax has not been paid, that such return has not been filed, or that such information has not been supplied.

5. If any taxpayer who has failed to file a re-
§ 105-162. Revision by commissioner of revenue.—A taxpayer may apply to the commissioner of revenue for revision of the tax assessed against him at any time within three years from the time of the filing of the return or from the date of the notice of assessment of any additional tax. The commissioner shall grant a hearing thereon, and if upon such hearing he shall determine that the tax is excessive or incorrect, he shall resettle the same according to the law and the facts, and adjust the computation of tax accordingly. The commissioner shall notify the taxpayer of his determination, and shall refund to the taxpayer the amount, if any, paid in excess of the tax found by him to be due. (1939, c. 158, s. 340.)

Revision Barred by Lapse of Time.—Where a taxpayer fails to apply to the Commissioner of Revenue for a revision within three years from the filing of its return, its claim is barred, under this section, and the fact that the exceptions were filed is no bar to the Commissioner of Revenue's determination thereof, shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars ($500.00) or imprisoned not exceeding six months, or punished by both such fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the court, within the limitations aforesaid. (1939, c. 158, s. 336.)

Revision and Appeal.

§ 105-163. Appeal.—Any taxpayer may file formal exceptions to a finding by the commissioner of revenue, under the provisions of this article with respect to his taxable income, either to a matter of fact or law, as far as possible stating such exceptions separately. After they are filed, the commissioner shall pass upon the same formally, and notify the taxpayer immediately of his findings upon these exceptions. The taxpayer may, within ten days after notification of the commissioner's ruling upon these exceptions, appeal to the superior court of Wake county, upon paying the tax assessed by the commissioner and giving a bond for costs in the sum of two hundred dollars ($200.00). Provided, the taxpayer may within the above prescribed time first appeal to the state board of assessment on the exceptions to the findings of the commissioner; and provided further, that the commissioner may in his discretion require a surety bond or a deposit of state or government bonds in double the amount of the alleged deficiency. Appeal may then be taken by either the taxpayer or the commissioner to the superior court of Wake county as provided herein. Upon receipts of such notice and the taxes paid, and the filing of the cost bond in the sum of two hundred dollars ($200.00), the commissioner shall certify the record to the superior court of Wake county. In the superior court the proceedings shall be as follows:

The cause shall be entitled, “State of North Carolina on Relation of the Commissioner of Revenue vs. Appellant” (giving name). If there are exceptions to facts found by the commissioner, it shall be placed on the civil issue docket of such court and shall have precedence over other civil actions, and shall be tried under the same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the trial of such civil actions, except that the findings of the commissioner shall be prima facie correct. If only issues of law, or if issues of fact are raised, and the appellant shall waive jury trial at the time of taking the appeal, the appeal may be had to the superior court of the county in which the appellant resides, and the cause shall be heard by the judge holding court in the judicial district in which the appeal is docketed, at chambers, upon ten days notice to the parties of the time and place of hearing, the said judge shall pass upon and determine all issues, both of law and fact, the state hereby waiving in such cases a trial by jury. Either party may appeal to the supreme court from the judgment of the superior court under the rules and regulations prescribed by law for appeals, except that, if it should appeal, shall not be required to give any undertaking or make any deposit to secure the cost of such appeal, and the supreme court may advance the cause on its docket so as to give the same a speedy hearing. Any taxes, interest, or penalties paid, found by the court to be in excess of those which can be legally assessed, shall be ordered refunded to the taxpayer, with interest from the time of payment. (1939, c. 158, s. 341.)

Art. 5. Schedule E. Sales Tax.

§ 105-164. Short title.—This article shall be known and and may be cited as the sales tax article of the revenue act. (1939, c. 158, s. 400.)

§ 105-165. Purpose.—The taxes levied in this article are to provide revenue for the support of the public schools of the state in substitution for the taxes formerly levied on property for this purpose. They are levied for the biennium of fiscal years beginning July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, and ending June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred forty-one, and thereafter until otherwise provided by law. The tax upon the sale of tangible personal property in this state is levied as a license or privilege tax for engaging or continuing in the business of a “wholesale” or “retail” merchant as defined in this article. Retail merchants may add to the price of merchandise the amount of the tax on the sale thereof, and when so added shall constitute a part of such price, shall be a debt from purchaser to merchant until paid, and shall be recoverable at law in the same manner as other debts. It is the purpose and intent of this article that the tax levied herein on retail sales shall be added to the sales price of merchandise and thereby be passed on to the consumer instead of being absorbed by the merchant.

Any retail merchant who shall, by any character of public advertisement, offer to absorb the tax levied in this article upon the retail sale of merchandise, or in any manner, directly or indirectly, advertise that the tax herein imposed is not considered as an element in the price to the consumer, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any violations of the provisions of this section reported to the commissioner of revenue shall be reported by the commissioner of revenue to the attorney general of the state, to the end that such violations may be brought to the attention of the solicitor of the court of the county or district whose duty it is to prosecute misdemeanors in the jurisdiction. It shall be the duty of such solicitor to investigate such alleged violations and if he finds that this section has been violated to prosecute such violations. The violations of this section are deemed necessary to prevent fraud and unfair practices, but it is the intent of the general assembly that if one or both of such provisions be held unconstitutional and void, that such invalid provision or provisions be considered separable and that the balance of this article be given effect. (1939, c. 158, s. 401.)

§ 105-166. Contingency.—If the Congress of the United States shall, at any time hereafter, enact any form of sales or production tax distributable in whole or in part to the several states, the governor and council of state shall estimate the proportion of such tax distributable to this state, and shall, by proclamation of the governor, abate a uniform percentage of all the taxes levied in this article equal in estimated revenue yield to the estimated proportion of yield of such federal tax, and from and after the effective date of such proclamation the commissioner of revenue shall enforce and collect only the remaining percentage of taxes levied in this article. (1939, c. 158, s. 402.)

§ 105-168. Licenses; wholesale and retail sales tax rates; use tax on motor vehicles.—If any person, after the thirtieth day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, shall engage or continue in any business for which a privilege tax is imposed by this article, such person shall apply for and obtain from the commissioner, upon the payment of the sum of one dollar ($1.00), a license to engage in and conduct such business upon the condition that such person shall pay the tax accruing to the state of North Carolina un-under the provisions of this article; and he shall thereby be duly licensed to engage in and conduct such business. The license tax levied in this section shall be a continuing license until revoked for failure to comply with the provisions of this article. License issued under Article V, chapter four hundred forty-five, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred thirty-three, for the year one thousand nine hundred thirty-four—one thousand nine hundred thirty-five; under chapter three hundred seventy-one, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, for the biennium one thousand nine hundred thirty-five—one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven; and chapter one hundred twenty-seven, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, for the biennium one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven—one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, shall be deemed a continuing license under this section.

An additional tax is hereby levied for the privilege of engaging or continuing in the business of selling tangible personal property, as follows:

(a) Wholesale Merchants.—Upon every wholesale merchant as defined in this article, an annual license tax of ten dollars ($10.00). Such annual license shall be paid in advance within the first fifteen days of July in each year or, in the case of a new business, within fifteen days after business is commenced. There is also levied on each wholesale merchant an additional tax of one-tenth of one per cent (1/20th of 1%) of the total gross sales of the business.

The sale of any article of merchandise by any person is hereby made to be taxable at the rate of tax provided in this article upon the retail sale of merchandise. In the interpretation of this article the sale of any articles of commerce by any “wholesale merchant” to any person other than to a licensed retail merchant for resale shall be taxable at the rate of tax provided in this article upon the retail sale of merchandise. In the interpretation of this article the sale of any articles of commerce by any “wholesale merchant” to any person other than to a licensed retail merchant for resale shall be taxable at the rate of tax provided in this article upon the retail sale of merchandise. The commissioner of revenue is authorized to cancel any taxes assessed contrary to the provisions hereof. (1939, c. 158, s. 405; 1943, c. 400, s. 5.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1941 amendment added the last three sentences of subsection (c).

§ 105-169. Exemptions.—The taxes imposed in this article shall not apply to the following:

(a) Sales by manufacturers or producers of their own manufactured products when sold to other manufacturers, producers, wholesale or retail merchants, for resale or to any person for the purpose of resale; for the purpose of such resale; for the purpose of resale; for the purpose of resal

(c) Motor Vehicles.—In addition to the taxes levied in this article or in any other law, there is hereby levied and imposed upon every person, for the privilege of using the streets and highways of this state, a tax of three per cent (3%) of the sales or purchase price of any new or used motor vehicle purchased or acquired for use on the streets and highways of this state requiring registration thereof under the Motor Vehicle Laws of this state, which said amount shall not exceed fifteen dollars ($15.00), and shall be paid to the commissioner of revenue at the time of applying for certificate of title or registration of such motor vehicle. No certificate of title or registration plate shall be issued for same unless and until said tax has been paid: Provided, however, if such person so applying for certificate of title or registration and license plate for such motor vehicle shall furnish to the commissioner of revenue a certificate from a motor vehicle dealer licensed to do business in this state, upon a form furnished by the commissioner, certifying that such person has paid the tax thereon levied in this article, the tax herein levied shall be remitted to such person to avoid in effect double taxation on said motor vehicle under this article. The term “motor vehicle” as used in this section shall include trailers. It is declared to have been the purpose of this subsection that whenever a motor vehicle chassis is or has been purchased separately from the body which is thereafter installed thereon, the maximum tax herein levied shall be imposed upon the sale of the chassis and no additional tax shall be imposed upon the body mounted upon the same. It is not the intention of this section to impose any tax upon a body mounted upon the chassis of a motor vehicle which temporarily enters the state for the purpose of having such body mounted thereon by the manufacturer thereof. The amount so allocated to the general fund shall not be transferred from the highway fund, or become a definite charge against it until the surplus in the general fund at the end of the present fiscal year, together with current unforeseen revenues, shall have been exhausted, or until the director of the budget shall find as a fact that such transfer is necessary to prevent a deficit in the general fund; nor shall such transfer or any part thereof be made until the appropriations from the highway fund, hereinabove referred to, have been provided for. In construing this provision the director of the budget shall not be required to take into account an incidental credit balance of the general fund.

(c) Sale of commercial fertilizer on which the inspection tax is paid, and lime and land plaster used for agricultural purposes whether the inspection tax is paid or not.

§ 105-170. Taxes payable; failure to make return; duty and power of commissioner. — The taxes levied in this article shall be due and payable in monthly installments on or before the fifteenth day of the month next succeeding the month in which the tax accrues. Every taxpayer liable for the tax imposed by this article shall, on or before the fifteenth day of the month, make out or prepare a return on the blank report form furnished by the commissioner of revenue, showing the total gross sales, the sales exempted from the tax, the net taxable sales, the amount of tax covering sales in the preceding month, and shall mail same, together with the remittance for the amount of the tax, to the commissioner. When such extension is granted, the taxpayer shall thereafter include in each monthly return the amount of tax shown to be due by the commissioner or his duly authorized agent. The commissioner shall be assessed with a five per centum penalty plus interest at one-half of one per centum per month from the date the tax was due. The penalty provided in this subsection shall not be less than one dollar ($1.00).

(b) Failure to Make Returns.—If the taxpayer shall fail to make or refuse to make the returns required under this article, then such returns shall be made by the commissioner or his duly authorized agents from the best information available, and such returns shall be prima facie correct for the purposes of this article, and the amount of tax due thereby shall be a lien against all the property of the taxpayer until discharged by payment. In case the tax shown to be due by such returns shall be more than the tax shown by the returns made by the taxpayer, such additional tax shall be due until paid.

(c) Not to Issue Certificate of Title or License. — As an additional means of enforcement, the commissioner or his duly authorized agents from the best information available, and such returns shall be prima facie correct for the purposes of this article, and the amount of tax due thereby shall be a lien against all the property of the taxpayer until discharged by payment. In case the tax shown to be due by such returns shall be more than the tax shown by the returns made by the taxpayer, such additional tax shall be due until paid.

§ 105-171. Credit sales.—Any person taxable under this article having cash and credit sales may report such cash and credit sales separately, and upon making application therefore may obtain from the commissioner an extension of time for the payment of taxes due on such credit sales. Such extension shall be granted under such rules and regulations as the commissioner may prescribe. When such extension is granted, the taxpayer shall therefor include in each monthly report all collections made during the month next preceding and shall pay taxes due thereon at the time of filing such report. (1939, c. 158, s. 407; 1943, c. 400, s. 5.)

§ 105-172. Forms for making returns. — The monthly returns required under this article shall be made upon forms to be prescribed and provided by the commissioner. (1939, c. 158, s. 411.)

§ 105-173. Extension of time for making returns. — The commissioner for good cause may extend the time for making any return required under the provisions of this article, and may grant such additional time within which to make such § 105-174. Commissioner to correct error.—As soon as practicable after the return is filed the commissioner shall examine it; if it then appears that the correct amount of tax is greater or less than that shown in the return, the tax shall be recomputed.

Excessive Payments.—If the amount already paid exceeds that which should have been paid, on the basis of the tax so recomputed, the excess shall be credited or refunded to the taxpayer in accordance with the provisions of this article.

Deficiency of Amount.—(a) If the amount already paid is less than the amount which should have been paid, the difference to the extent not covered by any credits under this article, together with interest thereon at the rate of one-half of one per centum per month from the time the tax was due, shall be paid upon notice and demand by the commissioner.

(b) If any part of the deficiency is due to negligence or intentional disregard of authorized rules and regulations, with knowledge thereof, but without intent to defraud, there shall be added as damages ten per centum of the total amount of the deficiency in the tax, and interest in such a case shall be collected at the rate of one per centum per month of the amount of such deficiency in the tax from the time it was due, which interest and damages shall become due and payable upon notice and demand by the commissioner; provided, however, in the absence of fraud, no assessment authorized by this article shall extend to sales made more than three (3) years prior to the date of assessment; and in cases where an audit shall have been made and the completion of the audit by the commissioner of revenue any assessment in respect to such audit shall be made within one year after the completion of the audit.

(c) If any part of the deficiency is due to fraud with intent to evade the tax, then there shall be added as damages not more than one hundred per centum of the total amount of the deficiency in the tax, and in such case the whole amount of tax unpaid, including charges so added, shall become due and payable upon notice and demand by the commissioner, and an additional one per centum per month on the tax shall be added from the date such tax was due until paid.

(d) If the amount already paid is less than the amount which should have been paid, the commissioner or his duly authorized agent shall notify the taxpayer of the balance due, plus such interest and damages as are set forth in (a), (b), and (c) just preceding, and if this total amount is not paid or no appeal is taken within thirty days from the date of notice, such action shall be considered as a refusal on the part of the taxpayer to make a return, and the taxpayer shall be subject to such penalties or provisions as are provided in this article for failure to make a return.

If any taxpayer, subject to the provisions of this article, goes into bankruptcy, receivership, or turns over his stock of merchandise by voluntary transfer to creditors, the tax liability under this article shall constitute a prior lien on such stock of merchandise, subject to execution, and it shall be the duty of the transferee in any such case to retain the amount of the tax due from the first sales from such stock of merchandise and to pay the same to the commissioner of revenue. (1939 c. 158, s. 412.)

§ 105-175. Taxpayer must keep records.—It shall be the duty of every person engaging in business for which a privilege tax is imposed by this article to keep and preserve suitable records of the gross income, gross receipts and/or gross receipts of sales of such business, and such other books or accounts as may be necessary to determine the amount of tax due or to show the amount of sales for which he is liable under the provisions of this article. And it shall be the duty of every such person to keep and preserve, for a period of three years, all invoices of goods and merchandise purchased for resale, and all such books, invoices, and other records shall be open for examination at any time by the commissioner or his duly authorized agent. (1939, c. 158, s. 416.)

§ 105-176. Tax shall be lien.—The tax imposed by this article shall be a lien upon the stock of goods and/or any other property of any person subject to the provisions hereof who shall sell out his business or stock of goods, or shall quit business, and such person shall be required to make out the return provided for under § 105-170 within thirty days after the date he sold out his business or stock of goods, or quit business, and his successor in business shall be required to withhold sufficient of the purchase money to cover the amount of said taxes due and unpaid until such time as the former owner shall produce a receipt from the commissioner showing that the taxes have been paid, or a certificate that no taxes are due. If the purchaser of a business or stock of goods shall fail to withhold purchase money as above provided, and the taxes shall be due and unpaid after the thirty-day period allowed, he shall be personally liable for the payment of the taxes accrued and unpaid on account of the operation of the business by the former owner. (1939, c. 158, s. 416.)

§ 105-177. Aggrieved person may file petition.—If any person having made the return and paid the tax as provided by this article feels aggrieved by the assessment made upon him by the commissioner, or, in the absence of a report, if an assessment has been made by the commissioner under the provisions of this article, the taxpayer may apply to the commissioner by petition, in writing, within thirty days after the notice is mailed to him, for a hearing and a correction of the amount of the tax so assessed upon him by the commissioner, in which petition he shall set forth the reasons why such hearing should be granted and the amount in which such tax should be reduced. The commissioner shall promptly consider such petition, and may grant such hearing or deny the same. If denied, the petitioner shall be forthwith notified thereof; if granted, the commissioner shall notify the petitioner of the time and place fixed for such hearing. After such hearing the commissioner may make such order in the matter as may appear to him just and lawful, and shall furnish a copy of such order to the petitioner. Any person improperly charged with any tax and required to pay the same may recover the amount paid, together with interest, in any proper action or suit against the commissioner, and the superior court of the county in which the taxpayer resides or is located shall have original jurisdiction of any action to recover any tax improperly collected. In any suit to recover taxes paid or to collect taxes, the court shall adjudge costs to such extent and in such manner as may be deemed equitable.

Either party to such suit shall have the right to appeal to the supreme court of North Carolina as now provided by law. In the event a final judgment is rendered in favor of the taxpayer in a suit to recover illegal taxes, then it shall be the duty of the state auditor, upon receipt of a certified copy of such final judgment, to issue a warrant directed to the state treasurer in favor of such taxpayer to pay such judgment, interest, and costs. It shall be the duty of the state treasurer to honor such warrant and pay such judgment out of any funds in the state treasury.

No injunction shall be awarded by any court or judge to restrain the collection of the taxes imposed by this article, or to restrain the enforcement of this article. (1939, c. 158, s. 417.)

§ 105-178. Warrant for collection of tax; tax shall constitute debt due state.—If any tax imposed or any portion of such tax be not paid within thirty days after the same becomes due, the commissioner shall proceed to enforce the payment of such tax in the manner provided by § 105-424. (1939, c. 158, s. 418, c. 370, s. 1.)

§ 105-179. Additional tax; remittances made to commissioner; records.—The tax imposed by this article shall be in addition to all other licenses and taxes levied by law as a condition precedent to engaging in any business taxable hereunder, except as in this article otherwise specifically provided. But no county, municipality, or district shall be authorized to levy any tax by virtue of the provisions of this article.

Remittances, How Made.—All remittances of taxes imposed by this article shall be made to the commissioner by bank draft, check, cashier’s check, money order, or money, who shall issue his receipt therefor to the taxpayers, when requested, and shall deposit daily all monies received to the credit of the state treasurer as required by law for other taxes: Provided, no payment other than cash shall be final discharge of liability for the tax herein assessed and levied unless and until it has been paid in cash to the commissioner.

The commissioner shall keep full and accurate records of all monies received by him, and how disbursed; and shall preserve all returns filed with him under this article for a period of three years. (1939, c. 158, s. 420.)

§ 105-180. Letters in report not to be divulged.—Unless in accordance with the judicial order or as herein provided, the state department of revenue, its agents, clerks or stenographers, shall not divulge the gross income, gross proceeds of sales, or the amount of tax paid by any person as shown by the reports filed under the provisions of this article except to members of the state department of revenue for the purpose of checking, comparing, and correcting returns, or to the governor, or to the attorney general, or any other legal representative of the state in any action in respect to the amount of tax due under the provisions of this article. (1939, c. 158, s. 421; 1941, c. 50, s. 6.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1941 amendment struck out the former provision of the section relating to withholding certificates of bona fide corporation until payment of tax levied under this article.

§ 105-181. Unlawful to refuse to make returns; penalty.—It shall be unlawful for any person to fail or refuse to make the return provided to be made in this article, or to make any false or fraudulent return or false statement in any return of the tax, or any part thereof, imposed by this article; or for any person to aid or abet another in any attempt to evade the payment of the tax, or any part thereof, imposed by this article; or for the president, vice-president, secretary or treasurer of any company to make or permit to be made for any company or association any false return, or any false statement in any return required by this article, with the intent to evade the payment of any tax hereunder; or for any person to fail or refuse to permit the examination of any book, paper, account, record, or other data by the commissioner or his duly appointed agent, or to refuse to offer testimony or produce any record as required in this article. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars ($500.00) or imprisoned not exceeding six months, or punished by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court, and either fine and imprisonment, in any attempt to evade the payment of any tax hereunder; or for any person to fail or refuse to permit the examination of any book, paper, account, record, or other data by the commissioner or his duly appointed agent, or to refuse to offer testimony or produce any record as required in this article. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00). (1939, c. 158, s. 422.)

§ 105-182. Commissioner to make regulations.—The commissioner shall from time to time promulgate such rules and regulations not inconsistent with this article for making returns and for the ascertainment, assessment, and collection of the tax imposed hereunder as he may deem necessary to enforce its provisions, and any provisions of the section relating to withholding certificates of bona fide corporation until payment of tax levied under this article.

§ 105-183. Commissioner or agent may examine books, etc.—The commissioner, or his authorized agent, may examine books, papers, records, or other data bearing upon the correctness of any return, or for the purpose of making a return where none has been made, as required by this article, and may require the attendance of any person and take his testimony with respect to any such matter, with power to administer oaths to such person or persons. If any person summoned as a witness shall fail to obey any summons to appear before the commissioner or his authorized agent, or shall refuse to testify or answer any material question or to produce any book, record, paper, or other data when required to do so, such failure or refusal shall be reported to the attorney general or the district solicitor, who shall thereupon institute proceedings in the superior court of the county where such witness resides to compel obedience to any summons of the commissioner, or his authorized agent. Officers who serve summonses or subpoenas, and witnesses attending, shall receive like compensation as officers and witnesses in the superior courts, to be paid from the proper appropriation for the administration of this article. (1939, c. 158, s. 424.)

§ 105-184. Excess payments; refund.—If upon examination of any monthly return made under this article it appears that an amount of tax has been paid in excess of that properly due, then the amount in excess shall be credited against any tax or installment thereof then due from the taxpayer, under any other subsequent monthly return, or shall be refunded to the taxpayer by certificate of over-payment issued by the commissioner to the state auditor, which warrant shall be payable out of any funds appropriated for that purpose. (1939, c. 158, s. 425.)

§ 105-185. Prior rights or actions not affected by this subchapter.—Nothing in this subchapter shall affect or defeat any claim, assessment, appeal, suit, right or cause of action for taxes due, under the Revenue Act of one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, prior to March 24, 1939, whether such assessment, appeal, suit, claim or action shall have begun before March 24, 1939 or shall thereafter be begun; and the sections of the Revenue Act of one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, amended or repealed by this subchapter, are expressly continued in full force, effect, and operation for the purpose of assessment and collection of any taxes due under any such laws prior to March 24, 1939, and for the imposition of any penalties, forfeitures, or claims for a failure to comply therewith. (1939, c. 158, s. 426.)

§ 105-186. To prevent unfair trade practices, commissioner of revenue may require tax passed on to consumer.—In order that fair trade practices may be encouraged and any deleterious effect of the retail sales tax levy may be minimized, the commissioner of revenue is empowered and directed to devise, promulgate and enforce regulations under which retail merchants shall collect from the consumers, by rule uniform as to classes of business, the sales tax levied upon their business by this article: Provided, that the commissioner of revenue shall have the power to change the regulations and methods under which the merchants shall collect the tax from the consumers, from time to time, as experience may prove expedient and advisable. Methods for the passing on by merchants to their customers the retail sales tax on sales to said customers may include plans which require both more and less than the prescribed rate of the tax on the sale price, the purpose being to enable the merchants to collect approximately the amount of the tax imposed on their total sales volume. The commissioner of revenue is hereby authorized and empowered to make and adopt rules and regulations requiring merchants to use tokens or stamps, or other means, if found to be practical, which may be determined by the commissioner to provide a method whereby the amount of the tax collected by the merchant from the consumer shall be as nearly as possible the prescribed rate of the tax on each purchase. Such regulations as herein authorized shall be promulgated by the commissioner of revenue to become effective after reasonable notice to the retail merchants and when so promulgated they shall have the full force and effect of law. Any merchant who violates such rules and regulations shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five dollars ($5.00) nor more than five hundred dollars ($500.00) or be imprisoned for not more than six months, or be both fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the court: Provided, however, that every such violation shall be a separate offense hereunder. It shall be the duty of the solicitors of the several judicial districts of the state to prosecute violations of this section.

The provisions of this section shall not affect in any manner the character or validity of the sales tax levy as a merchants' license tax, and they may not be pleaded or considered in the event any provision of this subchapter is attacked as unconstitutional. (1939, c. 262.)

Editor's Note.—See 32 N. C. L. Rev. 99, 102, for an article on "Sales Tax and Transactions."

§ 105-187. Tax on building materials.—There is hereby levied and there shall be collected from every person, firm or corporation, an excise tax of three per cent of the purchase price of all tangible personal property purchased or used subsequent to June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, to or in excess of that imposed by this section, the sale or use of which has already been subjected to a tax equal to or in excess of that imposed by this section, whether under the laws of this state or of some other state or territory of the United States: Provided, that if the tax imposed on the sale or use of such tangible personal property imposed by other laws on the sale or use of such property is less than the tax imposed by this section, the provisions of this section shall apply, but at a rate measured by the difference between the rate herein fixed and the rate by which the previous tax upon the sale or use of such property was computed: Provided, that the tax upon the use of a single article of merchandise shall be limited as provided in Schedule E, and shall not apply to tangible personal property exempt from tax and/or classified, when sold, as wholesale sales under the provisions of Schedule E preceding this section in Schedule E.

(b) In respect to such tangible personal property as shall enter into any building or structure erected or constructed under any contract with the state of North Carolina or any of its agencies or with any county or municipality in North Carolina or any of their agencies.

Every person liable for the tax imposed by this section shall report to the commissioner of revenue and pay the taxes herein levied in accordance with the provisions of Schedule E and insofar as the provisions of said article are appropriate and not inconsistent herewith, shall be liable for all penalties and shall be subject to all of the provisions of said article. The provisions of said article relating to the administration of said sub-chapter, auditing of returns and as to the authority and powers of the commissioner to make rules and regulations for the administration of this section, shall be deemed and taken as a part of this section.

The terms "retail merchant," as used in this sub-section, shall include wholesalers, jobbers, manufacturers, or their agents, selling taxable building materials for use or consumption in this state to others than merchants for resale. (1939, c. 158, Art. 6. Schedule G. Gift Taxes. § 105-188. Gift taxes: classification of beneficiaries; exemptions; rates of tax. — State gift taxes, as hereinafter prescribed, are hereby levied upon the shares of the respective beneficiaries in all property within the jurisdiction of this state, real, personal and mixed, and any interest therein which shall in any one calendar year pass by gift made after March 24, 1939.

The taxes shall apply whether the gift is in trust or otherwise and whether the gift is direct or indirect. In the case of a gift made by a non-resident, the taxes shall apply only if the property is within the jurisdiction of this state. The taxes shall not apply to gifts made prior to March 24, 1939.

The tax shall not apply to the passage of property in trust where the power to revest in the donor title to any property conveyed in trust shall not apply if the property is not being transferred in trust and shall not apply if the property is not being transferred in trust and shall not be subject to any gift taxes.

Gifts to any one donee not exceeding a total value of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) in any one calendar year shall not be considered gifts taxable under this article, and where gifts are made to any one donee in any one calendar year in excess of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00), only that portion of said gifts exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) in value shall be subject to the tax levied by this article.

The amount of tax on all gifts made taxable under this article shall be based on the relationship between the donor and donee, and graduated in proportion to the amount of such gifts. The rates of tax shall be as follows:

(a) Where the donee is lineal issue, or lineal ancestor, or husband, or wife of the donor, or child adopted by the donor in conformity with the laws of this state, or of any of the United States, or of any foreign kingdom or nation, or stepchild of the donor, for each one hundred dollars ($100.00) or fraction thereof:

First $ 10,000 ................. 8 per cent
Over $ 10,000 and to $ 25,000 ... 9 per cent

A donor shall be entitled to a total exemption of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00) to be deducted from gifts made to donees named in subsections (a) and (b), and (c) of this section, less the sum of amounts claimed and allowed as an exemption in prior calendar years. The exemption, at the option of the donor, may be taken in its entirety in a single year, or may be spread over a period of years. When this exemption has been exhausted, no further exemption is allowable. When the exemption or any portion thereof is applied to gifts to more than one donee in any one calendar year, said exemption shall be apportioned among said gifts in the same ratio as the gross value of the gifts to each donee is to the total value of said gifts in the calendar year in which said gifts are made. No exemption shall be allowed to a donor for gifts made to donees named in subsections (b) and (c) of this section.

It is expressly provided, however, that the tax levied in this article shall not apply to so much of said property as shall so pass exclusively: (1) for state, county or municipal purposes within this state; (2) for charitable, educational, or religious purposes within this state; (3) to or for the exclusive benefit of any institution, association or corporation in this state, the property of which is exempt from taxation by the laws of this state; and (4) to or for the exclusive benefit of charitable, religious and educational corporations, foundations and trusts, not conducted for profit, incorporated or created or administered under the laws of any other state, when such other state levies no gift taxes upon property similarly passing from residents of such state to charitable, educational or religious corporations, foundations and trusts incorporated or created or administered under the laws of this state, or when such corporation, foundation or trust receives and disburses funds donated in this state for religious, charitable and educational purposes. (1939, c. 158, s. 600; 1943, c. 400, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment added to the fourth paragraph the provision relating to gifts exceeding one thousand dollars. It also made changes in the second paragraph of subsection (c) by rewriting the second sentence and inserting the third and fourth sentences, as stated, or for article on gift tax, see 16 N. C. Law Rev. 194. For comment on this enactment, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 389.

§ 105-189. Transfer for less than adequate and full consideration.— Where property is transferred for less than an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, then the amount by which the value of the property exceeded the value of the consideration shall, for the purpose of the tax imposed by this article, be deemed a gift and shall be included in computing the amount of gifts made during the calendar year. (1939, c. 158, s. 601.)

§ 105-190. Gifts made in property.— If the gift is made in property, the fair market value thereof at the date of the gift shall be considered the amount of the gift. (1939, c. 158, s. 602.)

§ 105-191. Manner of determining tax; time of payment; application to department of revenue for correction of assessment.— The tax imposed by this article shall be paid by the donor on or before the fifteenth day of March following the close of the calendar year.

Report of the gifts shall be made by the donor to the state department of revenue on blank forms prepared by the state department of revenue and furnished upon application to any taxpayer, and the amount of tax due shall be paid at the time such report is made. The department of revenue shall audit the returns made under this article, and if it is found that the amount of tax paid is less than the amount lawfully due under the provisions of this article shall forward a statement of the taxes determined to the person or persons primarily chargeable with the payment thereof, such additional taxes to be collected under the same rules and regulations contained in this subchapter for the collection of other taxes, and if an over-payment should be found to have been made, a refund of such over-payment shall be made to the taxpayer. Within one year after the tax has been determined, any person aggrieved by the determination, may apply in writing to the department of revenue, which may make such corrections of the taxes as it may determine proper: Provided, however, that the rejection of the application in whole or in part by the department of revenue shall not prevent any person from applying to the court, as hereinafter provided, for the correction of said taxes. (1939, c. 158, s. 603.)

§ 105-192. Penalties and interest.—In any case where a donor fails to file a return at the proper time, the department of revenue shall assess a penalty of ten per centum (10%) of the tax determined by it, together with interest upon such tax and penalty at the rate of six per centum (6%) per annum from the date when such report should have been filed until the date of the assessment.

If any tax, or any assessment of tax, penalties and interest, or any part thereof, be not paid when due it shall bear interest at six per centum (6%) per annum from the date of assessment until paid. (1939, c. 158, s. 604.)

§ 105-193. Lien for tax; collection of tax.—The tax imposed by this article shall be a lien upon all gifts that constitute the basis for the tax for a period of ten years from the time they are made. If the tax is not paid by the donor when due, each donee shall be personally liable, to the extent of their respective gifts, for so much of the tax as may have been assessed, or may be assessable thereon. Any part of the property comprised in the gift that may have been sold by the donee to a bona fide purchaser for an adequate and full § 105-194. Period of limitation upon assessment; assessment upon failure or refusal to file proper return.—Except as provided in the next succeeding paragraph the amount of taxes imposed by this article shall be assessed within three years after the return was filed. In the case of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade tax or of a failure to file a return the tax may be assessed at any time. If a donor should fail or refuse on demand to file a correct and proper return as required by this article, the department of revenue may make an estimate of the amount of taxes due the state by such donor, and by the respective donees, from any information in its possession, and assess the taxes, penalties and interest due the state by such taxpayers. (1939, c. 158, s. 606.)

§ 105-195. Tax to be assessed upon actual value of property; manner of determining value of annuities, life estates and interests less than absolute interest.—Said taxes shall be assessed upon the actual value of the property at the time of the transfer by gift. In every case where there shall be a gift to take effect in possession or enjoyment after the expiration of one or more life estates, or at any time in the future, the tax shall be assessed on the actual value of the property or the interest of the beneficiary therein at the time when he or she becomes entitled to the same in possession or enjoyment. The value of an annuity or a life interest in such property, or any interest therein less than an absolute interest, shall be determined by the annuity tables provided for by § 8-47, and upon the basis of six per centum (6%) of the gross value of the estate for the period of expectancy of the life tenant or for the period of the duration of said estate, if said estate is other than a life estate, in determining the value of the respective interests. In every case in which it is impossible to compute the present value of any interest in property so passing, the department of revenue may effect such settlement of the tax as it shall deem to be for the best interest of the state, and payment of the same so agreed upon shall be a full satisfaction of such taxes. (1939, c. 158, s. 607; 1943, c. 400, s. 7.)

Cy’ 105-196. Application for relief from taxes assessed; appeal.—A taxpayer may apply to the commissioner of revenue for revision of the tax assessed against him at any time within three years from the time of the filing of the return or from the date of the notice of assessment of any additional tax. The commissioner shall grant a hearing thereon, and if upon such hearing he shall determine that the tax is excessive or incorrect, he shall resettle the same according to law and the facts, and adjust the computation of tax accordingly. The commissioner shall notify the taxpayer of his determination, and shall refund to the taxpayer the amount, if any, paid in excess of the tax found by him to be due. The taxpayer shall have the right of appeal from any assessment, made by the commissioner of revenue in the same manner and form as set out in § 105-168 with respect to income taxes. (1939, c. 158, s. 608.)

§ 105-197. Returns; time of filing; extension of time for filing.—Any person who within the calendar year nineteen hundred thirty-nine, after March 24, 1939, or any calendar year thereafter, makes any gift or gifts taxed by this article shall report in that year, unless required to do so by the department of revenue, on forms provided for that purpose, showing therein an itemized schedule of all such gifts, the name and residence of each donee and the actual value of the gift to each, the relationship of each of such persons to the donor, and any other information which the department of revenue may require. Such returns shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day of March following the close of the calendar year. The department of revenue may grant a reasonable extension of time for filing a report whenever in its judgment good cause exists. (1939, c. 158, s. 609.)

Art. 7. Schedule H. Intangible Personal Property.

§ 105-198. Intangible personal property.—The intangible personal properties enumerated and defined in this article and specified and hereby classified under authority of section three, Article V of the Constitution, and the taxes levied thereon are for the benefit of the state and the political subdivisions of the state as hereinafter provided and said taxes so levied for the benefit of the political subdivisions of the state are levied for and on behalf of said political subdivisions of the state to the same extent and manner as if said levies were made by the governing authorities of the said subdivisions for distribution therein as hereinafter provided. (1939, c. 158, s. 700.)

Editor’s Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 17 N. C. L. Rev. 200.

County Board of Education Denied Recovery of Funds Allocated to Municipality from Intangible Tax.—In Board of Education v. Wilson, 215 N. C. 216, 1 S. E. (2d) 544, it was held that the county board of education was not entitled to recover from municipality funds allocated to it by state from intangible tax provided by this section, even though municipality is in nowise liable for maintenance of constitutional school term, since it could not expend funds as agent of the municipality in discharging the debts of the municipality for school purposes since the municipality had no such debt, nor could it expend such funds for school purposes in any of its districts since there was no district coterminous with the municipal limits and such expenditure would take taxes collected from citizens of the municipality and expend same in part for the benefit of those living outside its limits, and since the act does not provide for distribution of the funds to the county board of education in such cases and such provisions may not be interpreted therein, and since by a proper construction of § 105-200. Money on hand.—All money on hand (including money in safe deposit boxes, safes, cash registers, etc.) on December thirty-first of each year, having a business, commercial or taxable situs in this state, shall be subject to an annual tax, which is hereby levied, of twenty-five cents (25c) on every one hundred dollars ($100.00) of the total amount of such money on hand without deduction for any indebtedness or liabilities of the taxpayer. (1939, c. 158, s. 702.)

§ 105-201. Accounts receivable.—All accounts receivable on December thirty-first of each year, having a business, commercial or taxable situs in this state, shall be subject to an annual tax, which is hereby levied, of twenty-five cents (25c) on every one hundred dollars ($100.00) of the face value of such accounts receivable: Provided, that from the face value of such accounts receivable there may be deducted the accounts payable of the taxpayer; provided further, that no deduction in any case shall be allowed under this section any indebtedness of the taxpayer on account of capital outlay, permanent additions to capital or purchase of capital assets. The term "accounts payable" as used in this section shall not include: (a) reserves, secondary liabilities or contingent liabilities except upon satisfactory showing that the taxpayer will actually be compelled to pay the debt or liability; (b) taxes of any kind owing by the taxpayer; (c) debts owed to a corporation of which the taxpayer is parent or subsidiary or with which the taxpayer is closely affiliated by stock ownership or with which the taxpayer is subsidiary of same parent corporation unless the credits created by such debts are listed if so required by law for ad valorem or property taxation; for taxation at the situs of such credits; or (d) debts incurred to purchase assets which are not subject to taxation at the situs of such assets.

From the total face value of accounts receivable returned to this state for taxation by or in behalf of any taxpayer who or which also owns other such accounts receivable as have situs outside of this state, accounts payable of the taxpayer may be deducted only in the proportion which the total face value of accounts receivable taxable under this section bears to the total face value of all accounts receivable of the taxpayer in this state. The term "accounts payable" as used in this section shall be deemed to include current notes payable of the taxpayer incurred to secure funds which have been actually paid on his current accounts payable within one hundred and twenty days prior to the date as of which the intangible tax return is made. (1939, c. 158, s. 703; 1941, c. 50, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the paragraph at the end of this section.

For comments on the amendments, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 539.

§ 105-202. Bonds, notes, and other evidences of debt.—All bonds, notes, demands, claims and other evidences of debt however evidenced, whether secured by mortgage, deed of trust, judgment or otherwise, or not so secured, having a business, commercial or taxable situs in this state on December thirty-first of each year shall be subject to annual tax, which is hereby levied of fifty cents (50c) on every one hundred dollars ($100.00) of the actual value thereof: Provided, that from the actual value of such bonds, notes, demands, claims and other evidences of debt there may be deducted like evidences of debt owed by the taxpayer on December thirty-first of the same year. The term "like evidences of debt" deductible under this section shall not include: (a) accounts payable; (b) taxes of any kind owing by the taxpayer; (c) reserves, secondary liabilities or contingent liabilities except upon satisfactory showing that the taxpayer will actually be compelled to pay the debt or liability; (d) evidences of debt owed to a corporation of which the taxpayer is parent or subsidiary or with which the taxpayer is closely affiliated by stock ownership or with which the taxpayer is subsidiary of same parent corporation, unless the credits created by such evidences of debt are listed, if so required by law for ad valorem property taxation, for taxation, for tax purposes, and for penalty, interest and other charges due on the evidence of debt sought to be enforced, and the suitor makes it appear to the court that he has paid or is unable to pay said taxes, penalties and interest as might be due, but is willing or the same to be paid out of the first recovery on the evidence of debt sued upon. When in any action at law or suit in equity it is ascertained that there are unpaid taxes, penalties and interest due on the evidence of debt sought to be enforced, the court makes it appear to the court that he has paid or is unable to pay said taxes, penalties and interest, but is willing for the same to be paid out of the first recovery on the evidence of debt, the court shall have authority to enter as a part of any judgment or decretal order in said proceedings that the amount of taxes, penalties and interest due and owing shall be paid to the proper officer out of the first collection on said judgment or decree. The title to real estate heretofore or hereafter sold under a deed of trust shall not be drawn in question upon the ground that the holder of the notes secured by such deed of trust did not list and return the same for taxation as required by this article. (1939, c. 158, s. 704.)

Judgment Provision as to Payment of Taxes.—Nonpayment of taxes on a note in suit is nullified by a provision in the judgment on the note that taxes, penalties and interest due shall be paid to the proper officers out of the first collection on the judgment. Roberts v. Grogan, 222 N. C. 30, 21 S. E. (2d) 829.

§ 105-203. Shares of stock. — All shares of stock owned by residents of this state or having business, commercial or taxable situs in this state on December thirty-first of each year, with the exceptions hereinafter provided, shall be subject to an annual tax, which is hereby levied, of thirty cents (30c) on every one hundred dollars ($100.00) of the total fair market value thereof. The tax herein levied shall not apply to shares of stock in banks, banking associations, trust companies or insurance companies not exempted from an income tax under subsection 2(f) of § 105-134, which are otherwise taxed in this state, nor to shares of stock in building and loan associations which pay a tax as levied under § 105-73; nor shall the tax apply to shares of stock in corporations which pay to this state a franchise tax on their entire capital stock, surplus and undivided profits or entire gross receipts as provided under Schedule C, §§ 105-114 to 105-129, together with the tax upon all of the net income, if any, of such corporations as provided under §§ 105-130 to 105-165. With respect to corporations which pay to this state a franchise tax on a part of their capital stock, surplus and undivided profits or part of their gross receipts as provided in Schedule C, §§ 105-114 to 105-129, and a tax upon a part of the net income of such corporations as provided under §§ 105-130 to 105-163, when such income is earned, there shall be exempt so much of the fair market value of such shares of stock as is represented by the percentage of net income on which tax is paid this is.

Indebtedness incurred directly for the purchase of shares of stock may be deducted from the total value of such shares: Provided, the specific shares of stock so purchased are pledged as collateral to secure said indebtedness; provided, further, that only so much of said indebtedness may be deducted as is in the same proportion as the taxable value of said shares of stock is to the total value of said shares of stock. (1939, c. 158, s. 705; 1941, c. 50, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 Amendment added the paragraph at the end of this section.

Beneficial interest in foreign trusts. — The beneficial or equitable interest on December thirty-first of each year of any resident of this state, or of a nonresident having a business, commercial or taxable situs in this state, in any trust, trust fund or trust account (including custodian accounts) held by a foreign fiduciary, shall be subject to an annual tax, which is hereby levied, of thirty cents (30c) on every one hundred dollars ($100.00) of the total actual value thereof. (1939, c. 158, s. 706; 1941, c. 50, s. 8.)

The term "funds on deposit" as used in this section shall mean all funds accrued or accruing by virtue of the death of the insured or the original maturity of a policy contract where the party or parties entitled to receive such funds might withdraw same at their option upon stipulated notice; provided, that in the determination of the tax liability under this section the first twenty thousand dollars ($20,000.00) of such funds on deposit or paid over to and held by a bank as trustee shall be disregarded where such funds on deposit are payable wholly and exclusively to a widow and/or children of the person deceased whose death created such funds on deposit.

The tax levied in this section shall be paid by the treasurer, cashier or other officer or officers of every insurance company doing business in this state by report and payment to the commissioner of revenue on or before March fifteenth of each year; any taxes so paid as agent for the party or parties entitled to receive such funds shall be recovered from the owners thereof by deduction from the proceeds payable to and held by a bank as trustee on December thirty-first of each year or at such other time as in the ordinary course of business it becomes convenient to make such charge. (1939, c. 158, s. 707; 1941, c. 50, s. 8.)

§ 105-206. When taxes due and payable; date lien attaches; non-residents; forms for returns; extensions.—All taxes levied in this article or schedule shall become due and payable on the fifteenth day of March of each year, and the lien of such taxes shall attach annually to all real estate of the taxpayer within this state as of December thirty-first next preceding the date that such taxes become due and payable, regardless of the time at which liability for the tax may arise or the exact amount thereof be determined; and said lien shall continue until such taxes, with any interest, penalty and costs which shall accrue thereon, shall have been paid.

Every person, firm, association, corporation, clerk of court, guardian, trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, assignee for creditors, trustee in bankruptcy or other fiduciary owning or holding any intangible personal properties defined and classified and/or liable for or required to pay any tax levied, in this article or schedule, either as principal or agent, shall make and file with the commissioner of revenue in such form as he may prescribe a full, accurate and complete return of such tax liability; such return, together with the total amount of tax due, shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day of March in each year.

For the purpose of protecting the revenue of this state and to avoid discrimination and prevent evasion of the tax imposed by this article, every resident or nonresident person, firm, association, trustee or corporation, foreign or domestic, engaged in this state, either as principal or as agent or representative of or on behalf of another, in buying, selling, collecting, discounting, negotiating or otherwise dealing in or handling any of the intangible property defined in this article, shall be deemed to be doing business in this state for the purposes of this article, and the principal, superior or person on whose behalf such business is carried on in this state shall likewise be deemed to be doing business in this state, for the purpose of this article, and where such business is carried on in this state by a corporation, foreign or domestic, its parent corporation or the corporation which substantially owns or controls it, by stock ownership or otherwise, shall be deemed to be doing business in this state, for the purpose of this article, and in all such cases the said intangible property acquired in the conduct of such business in this state, and outstanding on December 31 of each year, shall be deemed to have a situs in this state subject to the tax imposed by this article, notwithstanding any transfer between any of such parties and notwithstanding that the same may be kept or may then be outside of this state, and any of the intangible property defined in this article and acquired in the conduct of any business carried on in this state, and/or having a business, commercial or taxable situs in this state, shall be subject to said tax and returned for taxation by the owner thereof or by the agent, person, the corporation, or the fiduciary owning or acquiring such property or holding such property, and the owner to handle or collect the same.

The commissioner of revenue shall cause to be prepared blank forms for said returns and shall cause them to be distributed throughout the state, and to be furnished upon application; but failure to receive or secure form shall not relieve any taxpayer from the obligation of making full and complete return of intangible personal properties as provided in this article or schedule.

The return required by this article or schedule shall be due on or before the date specified unless written application for extension of time in which to file, containing reasons therefor, is made to the commissioner of revenue on or before due date of return. The commissioner of revenue for good cause may extend the time for filing any such return, provided interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum from due date of return is paid upon the total amount of tax due. (1939, c. 158, s. 708; 1941, c. 50, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment rewrote the third paragraph of this section.

§ 105-207. Penalties; unlawful to refuse to make returns.—If any taxpayer, without intent to evade any tax imposed by this article or schedule, shall fail to file a return and pay the tax, if any be due, at the time required by or under the provisions of this article or schedule, who shall not voluntarily file a complete and correct return and pay the tax due within sixty days after due date, there shall be added to the tax an additional amount equal to five per cent (5%) thereof, said additional amount in no case to be less than one dollar ($1.00), together with interest at the rate of one-half of one per cent (½ of 1%) per month or fraction thereof from the time said return was required to be filed until paid.

If any taxpayer fails voluntarily to file a return and/or pay the tax, if any be due, within sixty days after due date as required by this article or schedule, there shall be added to the tax an addi-

It shall be unlawful for any person to fail or refuse to make the return provided for in this article or schedule, or to make any false or fraudulent return or false statement in any return of the tax, or any part thereof, imposed by this article; or for any person to aid or abet another in any attempt to evade the payment of the tax, or any part thereof, imposed by this article; or for the president, vice-president, secretary, or treasurer of any company to make or permit to be made for any company or association any false return, or any false statement in any return required by this article, with the intent to evade the payment of any tax hereunder; or for any person to fail or refuse to permit the examination of any book, paper, account, record, or other data by the commissioner of revenue or his duly appointed agent, or to refuse to offer testimony or produce any record as required. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars ($500.00) or imprisoned not exceeding six months, or punished by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court within the limitations aforesaid. In addition to the foregoing penalties, any person who shall knowingly swear to or verify any false or fraudulent statement, with the intent aforesaid, shall be guilty of the offense of perjury, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished in the manner provided by law for the offense of perjury. Any company for which a false return shall be made or a return containing a false statement as aforesaid, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and may be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00). (1939, c. 158, s. 709.)

§ 105-209. Information from the source; commissioner of revenue empowered to make regulations.—In addition to the other requirements of this article or schedule it shall be the duty of every domestic corporation and every foreign corporation doing business and/or owning property in this state, the shares of stock and bonds of which are subject to tax under the provisions of this article or schedule it shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue empowered to make regulations. Any company or association any false return, or any portion thereof, has not been assessed, he may, at any time within three years after the time when the return was due, give notice in writing to the commissioner of such deficiency. Any taxpayer feeling aggrieved by such proposed assessment shall be entitled to a hearing before the commissioner of revenue, if within thirty days after giving notice of such proposed assessment he shall apply for such hearing in writing, explaining in detail his objections to same. If no request for such hearing is so made, such proposed assessment shall be final and conclusive. If the request for hearing is made, the taxpayer shall be heard by the commissioner of revenue, and after such hearing the commissioner of revenue shall render his decision. The taxpayer shall be advised of his decision and such amount shall be due within ten days after notice is given. The provisions of this article with respect to revision and appeal shall apply to the tax so assessed. The limitation of three years to the assessment of such tax or an additional tax shall not apply to the assessment of additional taxes upon fraudulent returns nor upon failure to file returns. (1939, c. 158, s. 710.)

§ 105-208. Examination of returns; additional taxes.—As soon as practicable after the return is filed the commissioner of revenue shall examine same together with any other facts within his knowledge, and shall compute the tax, and the amount so computed shall be the tax. If the tax found due shall be greater than the amount theretofore paid, the deficiency shall be paid to the commissioner of revenue within thirty days after date of notice to the taxpayer of such deficiency, and any over-payment of tax shall be returned to the taxpayer within thirty days after it is ascertained.

If the return is made in good faith and the under-statement of the tax is not due to any fault of the taxpayer, there shall be no penalty or additional tax added because of such under-statement, but interest shall be added to the amount of the deficiency at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum until paid. If the under-statement is due to negligence on the part of the taxpayer, but without intent to defraud, there shall be added to the amount of the deficiency five per cent (5%) thereof, together with interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum until paid. If the under-statement is found by the commissioner of revenue to be false or fraudulent, with intent to evade the tax, any additional tax found to be due and payable shall be doubled together with interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum upon the total amount of tax so found. The interest provided for in this section shall in all cases be computed from the date the tax was originally due to the date of payment.

If the commissioner of revenue discovers from the examination of the return or otherwise that the intangible personal property of any taxpayer, or any portion thereof, has not been assessed, he may, at any time within three years after the time when the return was due, give notice in writing to the taxpayer of such deficiency. Any taxpayer feeling aggrieved by such proposed assessment shall be entitled to a hearing before the commissioner of revenue, if within thirty days after giving notice of such proposed assessment he shall apply for such hearing in writing, explaining in detail his objections to same. If no request for such hearing is so made, such proposed assessment shall be final and conclusive. If the request for hearing is made, the taxpayer shall be heard by the commissioner of revenue, and after such hearing the commissioner of revenue shall render his decision. The taxpayer shall be advised of his decision and such amount shall be due within ten days after notice is given. The provisions of this article with respect to revision and appeal shall apply to the tax so assessed. The limitation of three years to the assessment of such tax or an additional tax shall not apply to the assessment of additional taxes upon fraudulent returns nor upon failure to file returns. (1939, c. 158, s. 710.)

§ 105-207. If the tax found due shall be greater than the amount theretofore paid, the deficiency shall be paid to the commissioner of revenue within thirty days after date of notice to the taxpayer of such deficiency, and any over-payment of tax shall be returned to the taxpayer within thirty days after it is ascertained.

If the return is made in good faith and the under-statement of the tax is not due to any fault of the taxpayer, there shall be no penalty or additional tax added because of such under-statement, but interest shall be added to the amount of the deficiency at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum until paid. If the under-statement is due to negligence on the part of the taxpayer, but without intent to defraud, there shall be added to the amount of the deficiency five per cent (5%) thereof, together with interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum until paid. If the under-statement is found by the commissioner of revenue to be false or fraudulent, with intent to evade the tax, any additional tax found to be due and payable shall be doubled together with interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum upon the total amount of tax so found. The interest provided for in this section shall in all cases be computed from the date the tax was originally due to the date of payment.

If the commissioner of revenue discovers from the examination of the return or otherwise that the intangible personal property of any taxpayer, or any portion thereof, has not been assessed, he may, at any time within three years after the time when the return was due, give notice in writing to the taxpayer of such deficiency. Any taxpayer feeling aggrieved by such proposed assessment shall be entitled to a hearing before the commissioner of revenue, if within thirty days after giving notice of such proposed assessment he shall apply for such hearing in writing, explaining in detail his objections to same. Taxpayers making a complete return on or before March fifteenth of each year of all their holdings of intangible personal property as provided by this article or schedule (or by similar provisions of prior Revenue Act) shall not thereafter be held liable for failure to list such intangible personal property with the local taxing units of this state in previous years; the taxes levied in this article or schedule shall be in lieu of all other property taxes in this state on such intangible personal property. (1939, c. 158, s. 713.)

§ 105-212. "Retailer" means and includes every person engaged in the business of making sales of tangible personal property, or peddling the same, or soliciting or taking orders for sales, whether for immediate or future delivery, for storage, use or consumption in this state, and every manufacturer, producer, or contractor engaged in business in this state and selling, delivering, erecting, installing, or applying tangible personal property for use in this state notwithstanding that said property may be permanently affixed to a building or to realty or to other tangible personal property: Provided, however, that when in the opinion of the commissioner it is necessary for the efficient administration of this article to regard any salesmen, solicitors, representatives, consignees, peddlers, or canvassers as agents of the dealers, distributors, consignors, supervisors, principals or employers under whom they operate or from whom they obtain the tangible personal property sold by them, irrespective of whether they are making sales on their own behalf or on behalf of such dealers, distributors, consignors, supervisors, principals, or employers, the commissioner may so regard them and may regard the dealers, distributors, consignors, supervisors, principals, or employers as retailers for purposes of this article.

"Commissioner" means commissioner of revenue of the state of North Carolina.

"Tangible personal property" means personal property which may be seen, weighed, measured, felt, touched, or is in any other manner perceptible to the senses, but shall not include electricity, gas or water delivered by or through main lines or pipes either for commercial or domestic use or consumption.

"Engaged in business in this state" shall mean the selling or delivering in this state or any activity in this state in connection with the selling or delivering in this state of tangible personal property for use or consumption.

"In this state" or "in the state" means within the exterior limits of the state of North Carolina, and includes all territory within such limits owned by or ceded to the United States of America. (1939, c. 158, s. 801; 1941, c. 50, s. 9.)
posed by this article, and the liability shall not be extinguished until the tax has been paid to this state: Provided, however, that a receipt from a registered retailer engaged in business in this state given to the purchaser in accordance with the provisions of this article shall be prima facie sufficient to relieve the purchaser from further liability for the tax to which such receipt may refer, and the liability of the purchaser shall be extinguished upon payment of the tax by any retailer from whom he has purchased said property.

The maximum tax imposed upon any single article of tangible personal property shall be limited as provided in § 105-168. (1939, c. 158, s. 805; 1941, c. 50, s. 9.)

(a) Tangible personal property expressly specified and exempted from the retail sales tax imposed by Schedule E, §§ 105-164 to 105-187.

(b) Tangible personal property, the sale of which is classified as a wholesale sale under the provisions of Schedule E.

(c) Tangible personal property, the storage, use or consumption of which is exempt from taxation under the Constitution of North Carolina and the Constitution of the United States.

(d) Motor fuels defined and taxed in subchapter V, as now or hereafter amended or supplemented, and upon which the said gasoline tax has been paid.

(e) Tangible personal property purchased or acquired prior to coming into this state and brought into this state by a person a nonresident thereof for his, her, its or their own use or enjoyment while temporarily in this state. (1939, c. 158, s. 803; 1941, c. 50, s. 9.)

§ 105-222. Registration. — Every retailer, engaged in business in this state, except those registered under Schedule E, §§ 105-164 to 105-187, who shall thereby be deemed to be registered under this article, selling or delivering tangible personal property for storage, use or consumption in this state shall within thirty days after July 1, 1941, register with the commissioner and give the name and address of agents operating in this state and the counties in this state in which they operate, the location of any and all distribution or sales houses or offices or other places of business in this state, the number, location and place of use of all motor vehicles, motorcycles, or other vehicles or conveyances, used or operated in this state by said retailer or in the business of said retailer, or for or under the authority of or under contract with or by license from said retailer, and such other information as the commissioner may require. (1939, c. 158, s. 804; 1941, c. 50, s. 9.)

§ 105-223. Retailer to collect tax from purchaser.—Every retailer engaged in the business of selling, or delivering tangible personal property for storage, use, or consumption in this state shall at the time of selling or delivering said tangible personal property or collecting the sales price thereof, add to the sales price of such tangible personal property the amount of the tax on the sale thereof, and when so added said tax shall constitute a part of such price, shall be a debt from the purchaser to the retailer until paid, and shall be recoverable at law in the same manner as other debts. Said tax shall be stated and charged separately from the sales price and shown separately on the retailer's sales records, and shall be paid by the purchaser to the retailer as trustee for and on account of the state, and the retailer shall be liable for the collection thereof and for its payment to the commissioner, and the retailer's failure to charge to or collect said tax from the purchaser shall not affect such liability. It is the purpose and intent of this article that the tax herein levied and imposed shall be added to the sales price of tangible personal property when sold at retail and thereby be borne and passed on to the purchaser instead of being absorbed by the retailer.

Any retailer who shall by any character of public advertisement offer to absorb the tax levied in this article, or in any manner, directly or indirectly, advertise that the tax herein imposed is not considered or required to be added in the price to the purchaser, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any violations of the provisions of this section reported to the commissioner of revenue shall be reported by him to the attorney general of the state to the end that such violations may be brought to the attention of the solicitor of the court of the county or district whose duty it is to prosecute misdemeanors in the jurisdiction. It shall be the duty of such solicitor to investigate such alleged violations and if he finds that this section has been violated, prosecute such violators in accordance with the law.

Every retailer engaged in business in this state, as defined in this article, shall collect said tax notwithstanding (a) that the purchaser's order or the contract of sale is delivered, mailed, or otherwise transmitted by the purchaser to the retailer at a point outside of this state as a result of solicitation by the retailer through the medium of a catalog or other written advertisement, or (b) that the purchaser's order or the contract of sale is made or closed by acceptance or approval outside of this state or before said tangible personal property enters this state, or (c) that the purchaser's order or the contract of sale provides that said property shall be, or it is in fact, procured or manufactured at a point outside of this state and shipped directly to the purchaser from the point of origin, or (d) that said property is mailed to the purchaser in this state from a point outside this state or delivered to a carrier at a point outside this state, f.o.b., or otherwise, and directed to the purchaser in this state, regardless of whether the cost of transportation is paid by the retailer or by the purchaser, or (e) that said property is delivered directly to the purchaser at a point outside this state, if it is intended to be brought to this state for storage, use, or consumption in this state: Provided, that in the event of direct delivery to the purchaser at a point outside of this state the tax imposed by this article shall be credited with any retail sales tax lawfully imposed and paid with respect to said property in the state where such delivery occurred, or (f) any combination, in whole or in part, of any two or more of the foregoing statements of fact. (1939, c. 158, s. 805; 1941, c. 50, s. 9; 1941, c. 204, s. 1.)
§ 105-224. Taxes payable; when returns are to be filed by retailer.—The tax imposed by this article shall be due and payable to the commissioner monthly on or before the fifteenth day of the month next succeeding the month in which the tax accrues. Every retailer engaged in business in this state shall, on or before the fifteenth day of the month following the month in which the tax accrues, file with the commissioner a return for the preceding month, in such form as may be prescribed by the commissioner, showing the total sales price of the tangible personal property sold and/or delivered by the retailer during such preceding month, the storage, use or consumption of which is subject to the tax imposed by this article, and such other information as the commissioner may deem necessary for the proper administration of this article. The return shall be accompanied by a remittance of the amount of tax herein required to be paid by the retailer during the month covered by the return. Returns shall be signed by the retailer or his duly authorized agent but need not be verified by oath. (1939, c. 158, s. 807; 1941, c. 50, s. 9.)

§ 105-225. Taxes payable; when returns are to be filed by purchaser.—The commissioner of revenue shall have authority to require every person storing, using or consuming tangible personal property in this state to file with the commissioner a return for the preceding month in such form as may be prescribed by him showing the total sales price of the tangible personal property purchased or received by such person during such preceding month, the storage, use or consumption of which is subject to the tax imposed by this article, and such other information as the commissioner may deem necessary for the proper administration of this article. The return shall be accompanied by a remittance of the amount of tax herein required to be paid by the retailer during the month covered by the return. Returns shall be signed by the person liable for the tax or his duly authorized agent but need not be verified by oath.

No return or report shall be required under this section, however, of any person storing, using or consuming tangible personal property purchased from a registered retailer engaged in business in this state to whom said person has paid the tax imposed by this article. (1939, c. 158, s. 808; 1941, c. 50, s. 9.)

§ 105-226. Sales presumed to be for storage, use or consumption.—For the purpose of the proper administration of this article and to prevent evasion of the tax and the duty to pay the same herein imposed, it shall be prima facie presumed that tangible personal property sold by any person for delivery in this state, however made and by carrier or otherwise, is sold for storage, use or other consumption in this state, and a like presumption shall apply to tangible personal property delivered without this state and brought to this state by the purchaser thereof. (1939, c. 158, s. 809; 1941, c. 50, s. 9.)

§ 105-227. Provisions of other articles applicable.—All provisions not inconsistent with this article in Schedule E, §§ 105-164 to 105-174, and Schedule J, §§ 105-229 to 105-269, relating to administration, auditing, and making returns, promulgation of rules and regulations by the commissioner, imposition and collection of tax and the lien therefor, assessments, refunds, and penalties, are hereby made a part of this article and shall be applicable hereto. (1939, c. 158, s. 810; 1941, c. 50, s. 9.)

§ 105-228. Failure to register and file returns misdemeanor.—Any retailer failing or refusing to register and give the information required in this article, and any retailer or other person failing or refusing to make any return required to be made under this article, or failing or refusing to make a supplemental return or to furnish other data or information required by the commissioner, or rendering a false or fraudulent return, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500.00) for each such offense.

Any person required by this article to make, render or sign any return or report or to furnish other data or information, who makes any false or fraudulent return or report, or who furnishes any false data or information, with intent to defeat or evade the assessment or determination of any tax due under this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall for each such offense be fined not less than three hundred dollars ($300.00) and not more than five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) or be imprisoned not exceeding one year in the county jail and/or be subject to imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Any willful violation of the provisions of this article, except as otherwise herein provided, shall be a misdemeanor and punishable as such. (1939, c. 168, s. 811; 1941, c. 50, s. 9.)

Art. 8A. Schedule I-A. Gross Earnings Taxes in Lieu of Ad Valorem Taxes

§ 105-228.1. Defining taxes levied and assessed in this article.—The purpose of this article is to levy a fair and equal tax under authority of article V, section three of the constitution of North Carolina and to provide a practical means for ascertaining and collecting it. The taxes levied and assessed in this article shall be upon the gross earnings as defined in the article, and shall be in lieu of ad valorem taxes upon the properties of individuals, firms, or corporations so taxed herein. (1943, c. 400, s. 8.)

§ 105-228.2. Tax upon freight car line companies.—(1) For purposes of taxation under this section the property of freight line companies as defined is declared to constitute a special class of property. In lieu of all ad valorem taxes by either or both the state government and the respective local taxing jurisdictions, a tax upon gross earnings in the state as elsewhere defined shall be imposed.

(2) Any person or persons, joint stock association or corporation, wherever organized or incorporated, engaged in the business of operating cars or engaged in the business of furnishing or leasing cars not otherwise listed for taxation in this state, for the transportation of freight (whether such cars be owned by such company or any other person or company), over any railway or lines, in whole or in part, within this state, such line or lines not being owned, leased or operated by such company, whether such cars be termed box, flat, coal, ore, tank, stock, gondola, furniture, or refrigerating car, or by some other name, shall be deemed a freight line company.

(3) For the purposes of taxation under this section all cars used exclusively within the state, or used partially within and without the state, and a proportionate part of the intangible values of the business as a going concern, are hereby declared to have situs in this state.

(4) Every freight line company, as hereinbefore defined, shall pay annually a sum in the nature of a tax at three per centum upon the total gross earnings received from all sources by such freight line companies within the state, which shall be in lieu of all ad valorem taxes in this state of any freight company so paying the same.

(5) The term "gross earnings received from all sources by such freight line companies within the state" as used in this article is hereby declared and shall be construed to mean all earnings from the operation of freight cars within the state for all car movements or business beginning and ending within the state and a proportion, based upon the proportion of car mileage within the state to the total car mileage, or earnings on all interstate car movements or business passing through, or into or out of the state.

(6) Every railroad company using or leasing the cars of any freight line company shall, upon making payment to such freight line company for the use or lease, after June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred and forty-three, of such cars with or without the use or lease, after June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred and forty-three, or as a foreign corporation domesticated in or doing business in this state, or owning and using a part or all of its capital or plant in this state, fails or neglects to make any such report or return required to file a report under any of the provisions of Schedules B and C of this subchapter fails, refuses, or neglects to make such report or fail to remit the amount so withheld. If any railroad company shall fail to pay the tax levied herein when due a penalty of ten (10%) per cent thereof shall immediately accrue and thereafter one (1%) per cent per month shall be added to such tax and penalty while such tax remains unpaid. All provisions of laws for enforcing payment of taxes levied in this article shall be applicable to the gross earnings taxes of freight line companies. Any freight line company against which a tax is assessed under the provisions of this article may appear and defend in any action brought for the collection of such tax.

(10) The provisions of this article shall apply to all freight line gross earnings accruing from and after June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred and forty-three. (1943, c. 400, s. 8.)

Art. 9. Schedule J. General Administration—Penalties and Remedies.

§ 105-229. Failure of person, firm, corporation, public utility and/or public service corporation to file report.—If any person, firm, or corporation required to file a report under any of the provisions of Schedules B and C of this subchapter fails, refuses, or neglects to make such report as required herein within the time limited in said schedule for making such report he or it shall pay a penalty of ten dollars ($10.00) for each day's omission. (1939, c. 158, s. 900.)

§ 105-230. Charter canceled for failure to report.—If a corporation required by the provisions of this subchapter to file any report or return or to pay any tax or fee, either as a public utility (not as an agency of interstate commerce) or as a corporation incorporated under the laws of this state, or as a foreign corporation domesticated in or doing business in this state, or owning and using a part or all of its capital or plant in this state, fails or neglects to make any such report or return or to pay any such tax or fee for ninety days after the time prescribed in this subchapter for making such report or return, or for paying such tax or fee, the commissioner of revenue shall certify such fact to the secretary of state. The secretary of state shall thereupon suspend the articles of incorporation of any such corporation which is inc...
corporated under the laws of this state by appropriate entry upon the records of his office, or suspend the certificate of authority of any such foreign corporation to do business in this state by proper entry. Thereupon all the powers, privileges, and franchises conferred upon such corporation by such articles of incorporation or by such certificate of authority shall, cease and determine. The secretary of state shall immediately notify by registered mail every such domestic or foreign corporation of the action taken by him, and also shall immediately certify such suspension to the clerk of superior court of the county in which the principal office or place of business of such corporation is located in this state with instructions to said clerk, and it shall be the clerk's duty, to make appropriate entry upon the records of his office indicating suspension of the corporate powers of the corporation in question. (1939, c. 158, s. 901.)

§ 105-231. Penalty for exercising corporate functions after cancellation or suspension of charter.—Any person, persons or corporation who shall exercise or by any act attempt to exercise any powers, privileges, or franchises under articles of incorporation or certificate of authority after the same are suspended, as provided in any section of this subchapter, shall pay a penalty of not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00), to be recovered in an action to be brought by the commissioner of revenue in the superior court of Wake county. Any corporate act performed or attempted to be performed during the period of such suspension shall be invalid and of no effect. (1939, c. 158, s. 902.)

§ 105-232. Corporate rights restored.—Any corporation whose articles of incorporation or certificate of authority to do business in this state has been suspended by the secretary of state, as provided in § 105-230, or similar provisions of prior Revenue Acts, upon the filing, within ten years after such suspension or cancellation under previous acts, with the secretary of state, of a certificate from the commissioner of revenue that it has complied with all the requirements of this subchapter and paid all state taxes, fees, or penalties due from it (which total amount due may be computed, for years prior and subsequent to said suspension or cancellation, in the same manner as if said suspension or cancellation had not taken place), and upon payment to the commissioner of revenue, to be transferred to the secretary of state, of an additional penalty of ten dollars ($10.00) to cover the cost of reinstatement, shall be entitled to exercise again its rights, privileges, and franchises in this state; and the secretary of state shall cancel the entry made by him under the provisions of § 105-230 or similar provisions of prior Revenue Acts, and shall issue his certificate entitling such corporation to exercise again its rights, privileges, and franchises, and certify such reinstatement to the clerk of superior court in the county in which the principal office or place of business of such corporation is located with instructions to said clerk, and it shall be his duty to cancel from his records the entry showing suspension of corporate privileges. (1939, c. 158, s. 903; 1939, c. 370, s. 1; 1943, c. 400, s. 9.)
penalties thereon, shall become, from the time it is due and payable, a debt from the person, firm, or corporation liable to pay the same to the state of North Carolina. (1939, c. 158, s. 909.)

Cross Reference.—As to taxes not being a debt subject to set-off and counterclaim, see note to § 105-441.

For prior law see Worth v. Wright, 122 N. C. 335, 29 S. E. 301; Ritter v. Commissioners, 90 N. C. 276; Commissioners v. Hall, 177 N. C. 490, 491, 99 S. E. 372.

§ 105-239. Action for recovery of taxes.—Action may be brought at any time and in any court of competent jurisdiction in this state or other state, in the name of the state and at the instance of the commissioner of revenue, to recover the amount of any taxes, penalties, and interest due under this subchapter. This remedy is in addition to all other remedies for the collection of said taxes and shall not in any respect abridge the same. Any judgment shall be declared to have such preference and priority against the property of the defendant as is provided by law for taxes levied by this subchapter, and free from any claims for homestead or personal property exemption of the defendant therein. (1939, c. 158, s. 910.)

§ 105-240. Tax upon settlement of fiduciary's account.—No final account of a fiduciary shall be allowed by the probate court unless such account shows, and the judge of said court finds, that all taxes imposed by the provisions of this subchapter upon said fiduciary, which have become payable, have been paid, and that all taxes which may become due are secured by bond, deposit, or otherwise. The certificate of the commissioner of revenue and the receipt for the amount of tax herein certified shall be conclusive as to the payment of the tax to the extent of said certificate.

For the purpose of facilitating the settlement and distribution of estates held by fiduciaries, the commissioner of revenue, with the approval of the attorney general, may, on behalf of the state, agree upon the amount of taxes at any time due or to become due from such fiduciaries under the provisions of this subchapter, and the payment in accordance with such agreement shall be full satisfaction of the taxes to which the agreement relates. (1939, c. 158, s. 911.)

§ 105-241. Taxes payable in national currency; for what period, and when a lien.—The taxes herein designated and levied shall be payable in the existing national currency. State, county, and municipal taxes levied for any and all purposes pursuant to this subchapter shall be for the fiscal year of the state in which they become due, except as otherwise provided, and the lien of such taxes shall attach annually to all real estate of the taxpayer within the state on the date that such taxes are due and payable, and said lien shall continue until such taxes, with any interest, penalty, and costs which shall accrue thereon, shall have been paid; in the settlement of the estate of any decedent where, by any order of court or other proceeding, the real estate of the decedent has been sold to make assets to pay debts, such sale shall not have the effect of extinguishing the lien upon the land so sold for state taxes, nor shall the same be postponed in any manner to the payment of any other claim or debt against the estate, save funeral expenses and cost of administration. Whenever the property of any taxpayer liable to any tax imposed by this subchapter or under its authority shall be taken into receivership, the lien of the taxes upon the real estate shall not thereby be in any manner disturbed, and the personal property of the taxpayer liable to said tax upon which there is no prior specific lien shall be subject to a lien for the taxes imposed by this subchapter, or under its authority, from the time the receivership went into effect, subject to prior payment of costs of the receivership only.

The provisions of this section shall not have the effect of releasing any lien for state taxes imposed by other law, nor shall they have the effect of postponing the payment of the said state taxes or depriving the said state taxes of any priority in order of payment provided in any other statute under which payment of the said taxes may be required. (1939, c. 158, s. 912.)

Power to Tax and Manner of Exercise.—The subject of taxation is regulated entirely by statute, and the revenues of this state are collected under the operation of what is known as the Machinery act. Wade v. Commissioners, 74 N. C. 81.

The general assembly have an unlimited right to tax all persons domiciled within the state, and all property within the state, except so far as this right has been limited by the provisions of the constitution expressly or by necessary implication. Pullen v. Commissioners, 66 N. C. 361.

Same—Delegation of Power.—The legislature may authorize a municipal corporation to lay taxes on the town property, the persons, and the subject of taxation incident to the persons, of those who have a business residence in town, though they have a residence also out of town. Worth v. Commissioners, 60 N. C. 617.

Statement of Object.—The North Carolina Const. Art. V, section 7, requires that every act levying taxes shall state the objects to which they shall be appropriated. If they be not so stated, however, has no application to taxes levied by county authorities for county purposes. Parker v. Commissioners, 104 N. C. 166, 11 S. E. 157.

Constitutional Provisions—Uniformity Required.—Under North Carolina Const. Art. V, section 3, the same rule of uniformity applies as to the taxing of "trades, professions, franchises and incomes" as to the other species of property therein named; and the same rule of uniformity is insisted upon in the mode of assessment. Worth v. Petersburg R. Co., 89 N. C. 301. Uniformity, in its legal and proper sense, is insisted upon in the matter of the rate of taxation, whether applied to taxes on property or on the persons of those who have a business residence in any town, though they have a residence also out of town. Worth v. Commissioners, 60 N. C. 617.

Fiscal Year and Tax Year.—Welding this and § 153-114 together by established rules of correct interpretation, the fiscal year and the tax year are coterminous and coincident, and the liability of the landowner for taxes for any year arises and begins on 1 July, of that year. State v. Champion Fibre Co., 204 N. C. 295, 297, 168 S. E. 207.

§ 105-242. Warrant for the collection of taxes.—1. If any tax imposed by this subchapter, or any other tax levied by the state and payable to the commissioner of revenue, or any portion of such tax be not paid within thirty days after the same becomes due and payable, and after the same has been assessed, the commissioner of revenue shall issue an order under his hand and official seal, directed to the sheriff of any county of the state, commanding him to levy upon and sell the real estate of the taxpayer found within his county for the payment of the amount thereof, with the added penalties, additional taxes, interest, and cost of executing the same, and to return to the commissioner of revenue the money collected by virtue thereof within a time to be therein specified, not less than sixty days from the date of the order. The said sheriff shall, thereu-on, proceed upon the same in all respects with like effect and in the same manner prescribed by law in respect to executions issued against property upon judgments of a court of record, and shall be entitled to the same fees for his services in executing the order, to be collected in the same manner.

2. Bank deposits, rents, salaries, wages, and all other choses in action or property incapable of manual levy or delivery, hereinafter called the in-tangible, belonging, owing, or to become due to any taxpayer subject to any of the provisions of this subchapter, or which has been transferred by such taxpayer under circumstances which would permit it to be levied upon if it were tangible, shall be subject to attachment or garnishment as herein provided, and the person owing said intangible, matured or unmatured, or having same in his possession or control, hereinafter called the gar-nishee, shall become liable for all sums due by the taxpayer under this subchapter to the extent of the amount due or belonging to the taxpayer. To effect such attachment or garnishment the commissioner of revenue shall serve or cause to be served upon the taxpayer and the garnishee a notice as hereinafter provided, which notice may be served by any deputy or employee of the commissioner of revenue or by any officer having authority to serve summonses. Said notice shall show:

(1) The name of the taxpayer and his address,
if known:
(2) The nature and amount of the tax, and the interest and penalties thereon, and the year or years for which the same were levied or assessed, and
(3) Shall be accompanied by a copy of this subsection, and thereupon the procedure shall be as follows:
If the garnishee has no defense to offer or no set-off against the taxpayer, he shall, within ten days after service of said notice, answer the same by sending to the commissioner of revenue by registered mail a statement to that effect, and if the amount due or belonging to the taxpayer is then due or subject to his demand, it shall be re-mittable to the commissioner with said statement, but if said amount is matured in the future, the statement shall set forth that fact and the same shall be paid to the commissioner upon maturity, and any payment by the garnishee hereunder shall be a complete extinguishment of any liability therefore on his part to the taxpayer. If the gar-nishee has any defense or a set-off, he shall forth-said twenty days after service of said notice, shall send two copies of said statement to the commissioner by registered mail; if the commissioner admits such defense or set-off, he shall so advise the garnishee in writing within ten days after receipt of such statement and the attachment or garnishment shall thereupon be discharged to the amount required by such defense or set-off, and any amount attached or garnished hereunder which is not affected by such defense or set-off shall be remitted to the commissioner as above provided in cases where the garnishee has no defense or set-off, and with like effect. If the commissioner shall not admit the defense or set-off, he shall set forth in writing his objections thereto and shall send a copy thereof to the garnishee within ten days after receipt of the garnishee's statement, or within such further time as may be agreed on by the garnishee, and at the same time he shall file a copy of said notice, a copy of the garnishee's statement, and a copy of his objections thereto in the superior court of the county where the garnishee resides or does business where the issues made shall be tried as in civil actions.

If judgment is entered in favor of the commisssioner of revenue by default or after hearing, the garnishee shall become liable for the taxes, interest and penalties due by the taxpayer to the extent of the amount over and above any defense or set-off of the garnishee belonging, owing, or to become due to the taxpayer, but payments shall not be required from amounts which are to be become due to the taxpayer until the maturity thereof, nor shall more than ten per cent of any taxpayer's salary or wages be required to be paid hereunder in any one month. The garnishee may satisfy said judgment upon paying said amount, and if he fails to do so, execution may issue as provided by law. From any judgment or order entered upon such hearing either the commissioner of revenue or the garnishee may appeal as provided by law. If, before or after judgment, adequate security is filed for the payment of said taxes, interest, penalties, and costs, the attachment or garnishment may be released or execution stayed pending appeal, but the final judgment shall be paid or enforced as above provided. The taxpayer's sale remedies to question his liability for said taxes, interest, and penalties shall be those provided in this subchapter, as now or hereafter amended or supplemented. If any third person claims any intangible attached or garnished hereunder and his lawful right thereto, or to any part thereof, is shown to the commissioner, he shall discharge the attachment or garnishment to the extent necessary to protect such right, and if such right is asserted after the filing of said copies as aforesaid, it may be established by interpleader as now or hereafter provided by law in cases of attachment and garnishment. In case such third party has no notice of proceedings hereunder, he shall have the right to file his petition under oath with the commissioner at any time within twelve months after said intangible is paid to him and if the commissioner finds that such party is lawfully entitled thereto or to any part thereof, he shall pay the same to such party as provided for re-

§ 105-246. Actions, when tried.—All actions or processes brought in any of the superior courts of this state, under provisions of this subchapter, the official bond of such sheriff shall be liable for the tax, penalty, interest, and cost due by the taxpayer. (1939, c. 158, s. 916.)

§ 105-247. Municipalities not to levy income and inheritance tax.—No city, town, township, or county shall levy any tax on income or inheritance. (1939, c. 158, s. 918.)

§ 105-248. State taxes; purposes.—The taxes levied in this subchapter are for the expenses of the state government, the appropriations to its educational, charitable, and penal institutions, pensions for Confederate soldiers and widows, the interest on the debt of the state, for public schools, and other specific appropriations made by law, and shall be collected and paid into the general fund of the state treasurer.

The taxes levied under authority of Section four hundred ninety-two of chapter four hundred twenty-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, and remaining unpaid, shall be collected in the same manner as other county taxes and accounted for in the same manner as other taxes under the Daily Deposit Act.

The attorney general shall, upon the request of the commissioner of revenue, whenever any taxes, fees, or penalties due under this subchapter from any public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) or corporation shall have remained unpaid for a period of ninety days, or whenever any corporation or public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) has failed or neglected for ninety days to make or file any report or return required by this subchapter, or to pay any penalty for failure to make or file such report or return, apply to the superior court of Wake county, or of any county in the state in which such public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) or corporation is located or has an office or place of business, for an injunction to restrain such public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) or corporation from the transaction of any business within the state until the payment of such taxes or fees and penalties thereon, or the making and filing of such report or return and payment of penalties for failure to make or file such report or return, and the cost of such application, which shall be fixed by the court. Such petition shall be in the name of the state; and if it is made to appear to the court, upon hearing, that such public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) or corporation has failed or neglected, for ninety days, to pay such taxes, fees, or penalties thereon, or to make and file such reports, or to pay such penalties, for failure to make or file such reports or returns, such court shall grant and issue such injunction. (1939, c. 158, s. 915.) county treasurer or other officer receiving such taxes in each county shall remit to the treasurer of the state on the first and fifteenth days of each month all taxes collected up to the time of such remittance under the levy therein provided for, and such remittance to the state treasurer shall also include the proportion of all poll taxes collected required by the constitution of the state to be used for educational purposes.

The tax levy therein provided for shall be subject to the same discounts and penalties as provided by law for other county taxes, and there shall be allowed the same percentage for collecting such taxes as for other county taxes. The obligation to the state under the levy therein provided for shall run against all taxes that become delinquent; and with respect to any property that may be sold for taxes, any public officer receiving such delinquent taxes, when and if such property may be redeemed or such tax obligations in any manner satisfied, shall remit such proportionate part of such tax levy to the state treasurer within fifteen days after receipt of same. At the end of each fiscal year the county accountant shall furnish the state treasurer a statement of the total amount of taxes levied in accordance with the provisions of this section, that are uncollected at the end of the fiscal year.

Whenever in any law or act of incorporation, granted either under the general law or by special act, there is any limitation or exemption of taxation, the same is hereby repealed, and all the property and effects of all such corporations, other than the bonds of this state and of the United States government, shall be liable to taxation, except property belonging to the United States and to municipal corporations, and property of churches, religious societies, charitable, educational, literary, or benevolent institutions or orders, and also cemeteries: Provided, that no property whatever, held or used for investment, speculation, or rent, shall be exempt, other than bonds of this state and of the United States government, unless said rent or the interest on or income from such investment shall be used exclusively for religious, charitable, educational, or benevolent purposes, or the interest upon the bonded indebtedness is not liable to taxation, except property belonging to the United States and to municipal corporations, and property of churches, religious societies, charitable, educational, literary, or benevolent institutions or orders, and also cemeteries. (1939, c. 158, s. 919.)

§ 105-249. Free privilege licenses for blind people.—Any blind person of the age of twenty-one years or more, desiring to operate a legitimate business of any kind to provide a livelihood for himself and dependents, if any, may apply to the welfare officer of the county in which he resides for free privilege license.

No one shall be eligible to the benefits provided for in this section who is not a blind person (the term "blind person" shall for the purposes of this section be construed to mean one who has suffered the total loss of his eyesight, or whose eyesight is so impaired as to unfit the person applying for the benefits under this section to engage in any labor, profession, or ordinary work in competition with his fellowmen with any degree of success, and/or any person suffering with impaired visions likely to produce total blindness), or who has an income of any kind amounting to twelve hundred ($1200.00) dollars, or more net per annum, or whose husband or wife has an income of any kind amounting to twelve hundred ($1200.00) dollars or more net per annum.

It shall be the duty of the county commissioners upon receipt of application from anyone applying for the benefits under this section, to make a thorough investigation to determine whether or not the applicant is entitled to the privilege or other license as provided for in this section. When the commissioners are satisfied that the applicant is capable of operating the business for which said privilege or other license is asked and that he is a deserving person, the commissioners shall then present to the state license department a letter requesting necessary privilege or other license to operate the aforesaid business, and the state license department shall issue free of charge the license requested. The commissioners shall present to the county license department a letter requesting county privilege license necessary to operate the aforesaid business, and the county license department shall likewise issue free of charge the privilege license requested. The county commissioners shall also present, when necessary, to the municipal license department a letter requesting city privilege license necessary to operate aforesaid business, and the municipal license department shall issue free of charge privilege license requested: Provided, that the free privilege license of this section shall not apply to the sale of any kind of fireworks.

Any veteran of the United States armed forces to whom a privilege license was issued free under this section prior to one thousand nine hundred and forty-one shall be entitled to free privilege licenses hereunder so long as such veteran shall continue to be visually handicapped. (1933, c. 53; 1935, c. 162; 1939, c. 306; 1943, c. 122.)

Editor’s Note.—The amendment of 1935 added the proviso at the end of the third paragraph.

The 1939 amendment directed that the words "or other" be inserted between the words "privilege" and "license" where they occur in lines five, nine, twelve and fourteen of which is the intent of this section. When the words do not occur together in line fourteen, and hence the insertions were made in only lines five, nine and twelve. However, such words appear in several other lines of the section and it may have been the legislative intent to make insertions in such instances.

The 1943 amendment added the last paragraph.

§ 105-249.1. Members of armed forces and merchant marine exempt from license taxes and fees.—(a) License Taxes.—Any person serving in any branch of the armed forces of the United States or in the merchant marine during the period of engaging in or carrying on any trade or profession in the state, which trade or profession such person immediately prior to being called into such service was engaged in: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall relieve such person of any license tax for carrying on any trade or profession conducted through agents or employees or which is conducted in the name of and under the license of such person so entering into the service of the United States.
The secretary of state shall withhold the issuance of any certificate of dissolution to, or withdrawal of, any corporation, domestic or foreign, until the receipt by him of a notice from the commissioner of revenue to the effect that any such corporation has met the requirements with respect to reports and taxes required by this subchapter. (1939, c. 158, s. 923; 1941, c. 50, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the paragraph at the end of this section.

§ 105-254. Blanks furnished by commissioner of revenue.—The commissioner of revenue shall cause to be prepared suitable blanks for carrying out the purposes of the laws which he is required to administer, and, on application, furnish such blanks to each company, firm, corporation, person, association, co-partnership, or public utility subject thereto. (1939, c. 158, s. 924.)

§ 105-255. Commissioner of revenue to keep records.—The commissioner of revenue shall keep books of account and records of collections of taxes as may be prescribed by the director of the budget; shall keep an assessment roll for the taxes levied, assessed, and collected under this subchapter, showing in same the name of each taxpayer, the amount of tax assessed against each, when assessed, the increase or decrease in such assessment; the penalties imposed and collected, and the total tax paid; and shall make monthly reports to the director of the budget and to the auditor and/or state treasurer of all collections of taxes on such forms as prescribed by the director of the budget. (1939, c. 158, s. 925.)

§ 105-256. Publication of statistics.—The commissioner of revenue shall prepare and publish annually statistics reasonably available, with respect to the operation of this subchapter, including amounts collected, classifications of taxpayers, income and exemptions, and such other facts as are deemed pertinent and valuable. (1939, c. 158, s. 926.)

§ 105-257. Report on system of other states.—The commissioner of revenue shall biennially make report to the general assembly, the said report to contain all available data that may be assembled by his department with respect to the tax laws and systems of this and other states, and making such recommendations as may be useful in improving the tax laws and system of this state. (1933, c. 88, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—For the compiling of such report, outside assistance seems almost a necessity, in view of the present load of the Commissioner of Revenue. See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 230.

§ 105-258. Powers of commissioner of revenue; assistant commissioner may sign and verify pleadings, etc.—The commissioner of revenue, for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return or for the purpose of making an estimate of the tax due by any taxpayer under this subchapter, shall have the power to examine or cause to be examined, by any agent or representative designated by him for that purpose, any books, papers, records, or memoranda bearing upon the matters required to be included in the return, and may require the attendance of the taxpayer or of any other person having knowledge in the premises, and may take testimony and require proof material for his information, and may administer oaths to such person or persons.

In any action, proceeding, or matter of any kind, to which the commissioner of revenue is a party or in which he may have an interest, all pleadings, legal notices, proofs of claim, warrants for collection, certificates of tax liability, executions, and other legal documents may be signed and verified by the assistant commissioner on behalf of the commissioner. (1939, c. 158, s. 927; 1943, c. 400, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment added the second paragraph.

§ 105-259. Secrecy required of officials—penalty for violation.—Except in accordance with proper judicial order, or as otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for the commissioner of revenue, any deputy, agent, clerk, other officer, employee, or former officer or employee, to divulge and make known in any manner the amount of income, income tax or other taxes, act forth or disclose in any report or return required under this subchapter.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the publication of statistics, so classified as to prevent the identification of particular reports or returns, and the items thereof; the inspection of such reports or returns by the governor, attorney general, or their duly authorized representative; or the inspection by a legal representative of the state of the report or return of any taxpayer who shall bring an action to set aside or reverse the tax based thereon, or against whom an action or proceeding has been instituted to recover any tax or penalty imposed by this subchapter; nor shall the provisions of this section prohibit the department of revenue furnishing information to other governmental agencies, of persons and firms properly licensed under Schedule B, §§ 105-33 to 105-113. The department of revenue may exchange information with the officers of organized associations of taxpayers under Schedule B, §§ 105-33 to 105-113, with respect to parties liable for such taxes and as to parties who have paid such license taxes. Reports and returns shall be preserved for three years, and destroyed only after the same necessary or advisable, may extend to any person, firm, or corporation or public utility a further specified time within which to file any report required by law to be filed with the commissioner of revenue, in which event the attaching or postponed accordingly. Interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum from the time the report or return was originally required to be filed to the time of payment shall be added to and paid with any tax that might be due on returns so extended. (1939, c. 158, s. 931.)

§ 105-263. Time for filing reports extended.—The commissioner of revenue, when he deems the same necessary or advisable, may extend to any person, firm, or corporation or public utility a further specified time within which to file any report required by law to be filed with the commissioner of revenue, in which event the attaching or taking effect of any penalty for failure to file such report or to pay any tax or fee shall be extended or postponed accordingly. Interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum from the time the report or return was originally required to be filed to the time of payment shall be added to and paid with any tax that might be due on returns so extended. (1939, c. 158, s. 932.)

§ 105-264. Construction of the subchapter; population.—It shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue to construe all sections of this subchapter imposing either license, franchise, inheritance, income, or other taxes. Such decisions by the commissioner of revenue shall be prima facie correct, and a protection to the officers and taxpayers affected thereby. Where the license tax is graduated in this subchapter according to the population, the population shall be the number of inhabitants as determined by the last census of the United States government: Provided, that if any city or town in this state has extended its limits since the last census period, and thereafter has taken a census of its population in these increased limits by an official enumeration, either through the aid of the United States government or otherwise, the population thus ascertained shall be that upon which the license tax is to be graduated. (1939, c. 158, s. 933.)

Authority of Commissioner to Construe.—The Commissioner of Revenue is given authority to administratively construe, in the first instance, all sections of the revenue law. Powell v. Maxwell, 211 N. C. 221, 196 S. E. 126.

§ 105-265. Authority for imposition of tax.—This subchapter shall constitute authority for the imposition of taxes upon the subject herein revised, and all laws in conflict with it are hereby repealed, but such repeal shall not affect taxes listed or which ought or should have been listed, or which may have been due, or penalties or fines incurred from failure to make the proper reports, or to pay the taxes at the proper time under any of the schedules of existing law, but such taxes and penalties may be collected, and criminal offenses prosecuted under such law existing on March 24, 1939, notwithstanding this repeal. (1939, c. 158, s. 935.)

§ 105-266. Overpayment of taxes to be refunded with interest. — If the commissioner of revenue discovers from the examination of any return or in any other manner that any taxpayer has overpaid the correct amount of tax (including penalties and interest, if any), such overpayment shall be refunded to the taxpayer within sixty days after it is ascertained together with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum: Provided, that interest on any such refund shall be computed from a date ninety (90) days after date tax was originally paid by the taxpayer: Provided, further, that demand for such refund is made by the taxpayer within three years from the date of such overpayment. (1939, c. 158, s. 937; 1941, c. 50, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the second proviso.

§ 105-267. Taxes to be paid; suits for recovery of taxes. No court of this state shall entertain a suit of any kind brought for the purpose of preventing the collection of any tax imposed in this subchapter. Whenever a person shall have a valid defense to the enforcement of the collection of any tax assessed or charged against him or his property, such person shall pay such tax to the proper officer, and notify such officer in writing that he pays under protest, and at any time within thirty days after the date tax was originally paid by the taxpayer, bring action to recover the amount, the remedy provided in the statute and where the statute specifies the amount of state taxes for which judgment shall be rendered therefor, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum. (1939, c. 158, s. 937; 1941, c. 50, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the second proviso.

§ 105-268. Reciprocal comity.—The courts of this state shall recognize and enforce liabilities for taxes lawfully imposed by other states which extend to a like comity to this state. (1939, c. 158, s. 938.)

Editor's Note.—For an analysis of this section, see 13 N. C. Law Rev. 405.

§ 105-269. Extraterritorial authority to enforce payment.—The commissioner of revenue, with § 105-270. Repeal of laws imposing liability upon governing bodies of local units.—All laws and clauses of laws, statutes and parts of statutes, imposing civil or criminal liability upon the governing bodies of local units, or the members of such governing bodies, for failure to levy or to vote for the levy of any particular tax or rate of tax for any particular purpose, are hereby repealed, and said governing bodies and any and all members thereof are hereby freed and released from any civil or criminal liability herefore imposed by any law or statute for failure to levy or to vote for the levy of any particular tax or tax rate for any particular purpose. (1933, c. 418.)

Art. 10. Liability for Failure to Levy Taxes.

§ 105-271. Official title.—This subchapter may be cited as the Machinery Act. (1939, c. 310, s. 1.)

Editor’s Note.—The annotations under this subchapter relate to similar provisions of former statutes.

For provision for codification, printing and distribution of Machinery Act of 1939, as amended, and presumption of correct compilation, see Public Laws 1941, c. 204, § 3.

Article 12. State Board of Assessment.

§ 105-273. Creation; officers.—The director of the department of tax research, the commissioner of revenue, the chairman of the public utilities commission, the attorney general, and the director of local government are hereby created the state board of assessment with all the powers and duties prescribed in the subchapter. The director of the department of tax research shall be the chairman of the said board, and shall, in addition to presiding at the meetings of the board, exercise the functions, duties, and powers of the board when not in session. The board may employ an executive secretary, whose entire time may be given to the work of the said board, and is authorized to employ such clerical assistance as may be needed for the performance of its duties; all expenses of said board shall be paid out of funds appropriated out of the general fund to the credit of the department of revenue of the state. (1939, c. 310, s. 200; 1941, c. 327, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment, which substituted the above in lieu of the former section, is effective as of July 1, 1941.

Suits against State Board of Assessment.—The corporation commission (under the prior law constituting the board) acts as a body and in a corporate capacity and not against its members, for its functions are not individual or personal, but corporate. Hence, mandamus to compel the refund of taxes alleged to have been paid under an excessive valuation of property will not be against two of the commissioners as individuals. Jenkins Bros. Shoe Co. v. Travis, 168 N. C. 599, 84 S. E. 1036. This would seem to be applicable to the board as now constituted.

§ 105-274. Oath of office.—The members of the board shall take and subscribe to the constitutional oath of office and file the same with the secretary of state. (1939, c. 310, s. 201.)

Cross Reference.—As to oath of office, see § 11-7.

Cited in Catholic Society, etc. v. Madison County, 74 F. (2d) 848, 849.

§ 105-275. Duties of the board.—The state board of assessment shall exercise general and specific supervision of the systems of valuation and taxation throughout the state, including counties and municipalities, and in addition it shall be and constitute a state board of equalization and review of valuation and taxation in this state. It shall be the duty of said board:

(1) To confer with and advise boards of county commissioners, tax supervisors, assessing officers, list takers, and all others engaged in the valuation and assessment of property, in the preparation and keeping of suitable records, and in the levying and collection of taxes and revenues, as to their duties under this subchapter or any other act passed with respect to valuation of property, assessing, levying or collecting of revenue for counties, municipalities and other subdivisions of the state, to insure that proper proceedings shall be brought to enforce the statutes pertaining to taxation and for the collection of penalties and liabilities imposed by law upon public officers, officers of corporations, and individuals failing, refusing or neglecting to comply with this subchapter; and to call upon the attorney general or any prosecuting attorney in the state to assist in the execution of the powers herein conferred.

(2) To prepare a pamphlet or booklet for the instruction of the boards of county commissioners, tax supervisors, assessing officers, list takers, and all others engaged in the valuation of property, preparing and keeping records, and in the levying and collecting of taxes and revenue, and have the same ready for distribution at least thirty (30) days prior to the date fixed for listing taxes. The said pamphlet or booklet shall, in as plain terms as possible, explain the proper meaning of this subchapter and the revenue laws of this state; shall call particular attention to any points in the law or in the administration of the laws which may be or which have been overlooked or neglected; shall advise as to the practical working of the revenue laws and the Machinery Act, and shall explain and interpret any points that seem to be intricate and upon which county or state officers may differ.

(3) To hear and to adjudicate appeals from boards of county commissioners and county boards of equalization and review as to property liable for taxation that has not been assessed or of property that has been fraudulently or improperly assessed through error or otherwise, to investigate the same, and if error, inequality, or fraud is found to exist, to take such proceedings and to make such orders as to correct the same. In case it shall be made to appear to the state board of assessment that any tax list or assessment roll in any county in this state is grossly irregular, or any property is unlawfully or unequally assessed as between individuals, between sections of a county, or between counties, the said board shall correct such irregularities, inequalities and lack of uniformity, and shall equalize and make uniform the valuation thereof upon complaint by the board of county commissioners under rules and regulations prescribed by it, not inconsistent with this subchapter:

Provided, that no appeals shall be considered or fixed values changed unless notice of same is filed within sixty (60) days after the final values are fixed and determined by the board of county commissioners or the board of equalization and review, as hereinafter provided. Provided, also that such appeals shall be considered except by and with consent of the state board of assessment.

(4) To require from the register of deeds, auditor, county accountant, tax clerk, clerk of the court or other officer of each county, and the mayor, clerk or other officer of each municipality, on forms prepared and prescribed by the said board, such annual and other reports as shall enable said board to ascertain the assessed valuation of all property listed for taxation in this state under this or any other act, the rate and amount of taxes assessed and collected, the amount returned delinquent, tax sales, certificates of purchase at such tax sales held by the state, county or municipality, and such other information as the board may require, to the end that it may have full, complete, and accurate statistical information as to the practical operation of the tax and revenue laws of the state.

(5) To require the secretary of state, and it shall be his duty, to furnish monthly to the said board a list of all domestic corporations incorporated, charter amended or dissolved, all foreign corporations domesticated, charter amended, dissolved or domestication withdrawn during the preceding month, in such detail as may be prescribed by said board.

(6) To make diligent investigation and inquiry concerning the revenue laws and systems of taxation of other states, so far as the same are made known by published reports and statistics and can be ascertained by correspondence with officers thereof.

(7) To report to the general assembly at each regular session, or at such other times as it may deem proper, the amount of revenue or taxes collected in this state, county, and municipal purposes, classified as to state, county, township, and municipal districts, and with the sources thereof; to report to the general assembly the proceedings of the board and such other information and recommendations concerning the public revenues as required by the general assembly or that may be of public interest; to cause two thousand copies of said report to be printed on or before the first day of January in the year of the regular session of the general assembly, and place at the disposal of the state librarian one hundred (100) copies of said report for distribution and exchange, if and when funds are available for said purpose; and to forward a copy of said report to each member of the general assembly as soon as printed.

(8) To discharge such other duties as may be prescribed by law, and take such action, do such things, and prescribe such rules and regulations as may be needful and proper to enforce the provisions of this subchapter and the Revenue Act.

(9) To prepare for the legislative committee of succeeding general assemblies such suggestions of revision of the revenue laws, including the Machinery Act, as it may find by experience, investigation, and study to be expedient and wise.

(10) To report to the governor, on or before the first day of January of each year, the proceedings of said board during the preceding year, with such recommendations as it desires to submit with respect to any matters touching taxation and revenue.

(11) To keep full, correct and accurate records of its official proceedings.

(12) To properly administer the duties prescribed by Schedule H, §§ 105-198 to 105-217, with respect to division and certification of taxes collected thereunder; the state board of assessment shall hear and pass upon any matters relative thereto.

(13) To perform the duties imposed upon it with respect to the classification and assessment of property. (1989, c. 310, s. 262.)

Writ of Review.—In the case of Reardon v. Phillips, 159 N. C. 213, 74 S. E. 213, neither the owner nor his agent had given in the land, and list taker had copied the entry from the former tax book, and it was held that the land was not rightfully on the tax list, and a sale for taxes pursuant thereto was invalid. This case is discussed with approval in the Stone case, supra.—Ed. Note.

Review of Assessment.—Under the prior law original proceedings in assessments made by the assessor, and when the property had the value of property reduced for taxation will be disregarded and considered as a nullity when the question involved is solely as to whether such value theretofore fixed and agreed upon be reduced. In the appeal from the assessment must be followed. In the instant case the Board reported results of the appraisal and did not report the individual items upon which the appraisal was made, and the appraisal of the value of the stock held in a foreign corporation was not so separated from the other property as to permit a variation of this rule. § 105-276. Powers of the board.—To the end that the board may properly discharge the duties placed upon it by law, it is hereby accorded the following powers:

1. It may, in its discretion, prescribe the forms, books, and records that shall be used in the valuation of property and in the levying and collection of taxes, and how the same shall be kept; to require the county tax supervisors, clerks or boards of county-commissioners, or auditor of each county to file with it, when called for, complete abstracts of all real and personal property in the county, itemized and apportioned by the county board of equalization and review; and to make such other rules and regulations, not included in this subchapter or the Revenue Act, as said board may deem needful effectually to promote the purposes for which the board is constituted and the systems of taxation provided for in this and the Revenue Act.

2. The board, its members or any duly authorized deputy shall have access to all books, papers, documents, statements, records and accounts on file or of records in any department of state, county or municipality, and is authorized and empowered to subpoena witnesses upon a subpoena signed by the chairman of the board, directed to such witnesses, and to be served by any officer authorized to serve subpoenas; to compel the attendance of witnesses by attachment to be issued by any superior court upon proper showing that such witness or witnesses have been duly subpoenaed and have refused to obey such subpoena or subpoenas; and to examine witnesses under oath to be administered by any member or authorized agent of the board.

3. The board, its members or any duly authorized deputy are authorized and empowered to examine all books, papers, records or accounts of persons, firms and corporations, both domestic and foreign, owning property liable to assessment for taxes, general or specific, levied by this state or its subdivisions. Said board, its members or any duly authorized deputy are also given power and authority to examine the books, papers, records or accounts of any person, firm or corporation where there is ground for believing that information contained in such books, papers, records and accounts is pertinent to the decision of any matter pending before said board, regardless of whether such person, firm or corporation is a party to the proceeding before the board. Books, papers, records or accounts examined under authority of this subdivision of this section shall be examined only after service of a proper subpoena, signed by the chairman of the board and authorized to serve subpoenas upon the person having the custody of such books, papers, records or accounts.

Any person, persons, member of a firm, or any officer, director or stockholder of a corporation, bank or trust company who shall refuse permission to inspect any books, papers, documents, statements, accounts or records demanded by the state board of assessment, the members thereof, or any duly authorized deputy provided for in this subchapter or the Revenue Act, or who shall willfully fail, refuse, or neglect to appear before said board in response to its subpoena or to testify as provided for in this chapter and the Revenue Act, shall, in addition to all other penalties imposed in this subchapter or the Revenue Act, be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined and/or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

4. The board is authorized and empowered to direct any member or members of the board to hear complaints, to make examinations and investigations, and to report his or their findings of fact and conclusions of law to the board. Upon demand of any party to an appeal pending before the board, the board shall send one of its members or a special representative designated by it to make an actual examination of the property and other similar property in the same county as the property in question, and to report to the board. The cost of said examination shall be advanced by the county: Provided, that in cases in which the examination is demanded by a taxpayer, if the board's decision does not substantially affirm the contents of the taxpayer, the board in its decision shall direct that the county advancing the cost may add such cost to the taxes levied against the property.

5. The board shall have power to certify copies of its records and proceedings, attested with its official seal, and copies of records or proceedings so certified shall be received in evidence in all courts in this state with like effect as certified copies of other public records.

6. The board may, upon its own motion or upon request of any tax supervisor or county board of commissioners, transmit or make available to a supervisor or duly authorized representative of such board of commissioners any information contained in any report to said state board, or in any report to the department of revenue or other state department to which said state board may have access, or any other information which said state board may have in its possession when, in the opinion of said board, such information will assist said supervisor or representative of the commissioners in securing an adequate listing of property for taxation or in assessing taxable property.

Except as herein specified, and except to the governor or his authorized agent or solicitor or authorized agent of the solicitor of a district in which such information would affect the listing or valuation of property for taxes, the state board shall not divulge or make public the reports made to it or to other state departments: Provided, this shall not interfere with the publication of assessments and decisions made by said board or with publication of statistics by said board; nor shall it prevent presentation of such information in any administrative or judicial proceedings involving assessments or decisions of said board.

Information transmitted or made available to local tax authorities under this section shall not be divulged or published by such authorities, and shall be used only for the purposes of securing adequate tax lists, assessing taxable property and presentation in administrative or judicial proceedings involving such lists or assessments.

(7) The board is authorized to exercise all powers reasonably necessary to perform the duties imposed upon it by this subchapter or other acts of this state. (1939, c. 310, s. 203.)

§ 105-277. Sessions of board, where to be held.

—The regular sessions of the state board of assessment shall be held in the city of Raleigh at the office of the chairman, and other sessions may be called at any place in the state to be decided by the board. (1939, c. 310, s. 204.)

Art. 13. Quadrennial and Annual Assessment.

§ 105-278. Listing and assessing in quadrennial years.—In one thousand nine hundred forty-one, and quadrennially thereafter, all property, real and personal, subject to taxation, shall be listed and assessed for ad valorem tax purposes: Provided, that in one thousand nine hundred forty-one, and quadrennially thereafter, the county boards of commissioners may determine whether real property in the respective counties and townships shall be valued by horizontal increase or reduction or by actual appraisal thereof, or both. Where the horizontal method is used, the provisions of § 105-279 shall also apply: Provided, that the boards of county commissioners of the various counties of the State may, in their discretion, defer or postpone the revaluation and reassessment of real property required herein in the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, and forty-one, and all proceedings and actions hereafter taken by the board of county commissioners in any county in the State as to postponement, or as to increases or reductions or by actual appraisal thereof, are hereby in all respects ratified, validated, and confirmed; any such board of county commissioners may, in its discretion, defer or postpone any such revaluation, reassessment, or reappraisal for the years one thousand nine hundred and forty-two and one thousand nine hundred and forty-three. But this second proviso shall not apply to any county for which a revaluation board of assessors or a board of equalization and review has been created or provided for by any act of the General Assembly of one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine and in other years.—In the year one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine and in other than quadrennial years all property, real and personal, subject to taxation, shall be listed for ad valorem tax purposes. Property not subject to reassessment in such years shall be listed at the value at which it was assessed at the last quadrennial assessment. In all such years the following property shall be assessed or reassessed:

(a) Personal property (which for purposes of taxation shall include all personal property whatsoever, tangible or intangible, except personal property expressly exempted by law).

(b) All machinery, service station equipment, merchandise and trade fixtures, barber shop equipment, meat market equipment, restaurant and cafe fixtures, drug store equipment and similar property not permanently affixed to the real estate.

(c) All real property (which for purposes of taxation shall include all lands within the state and all buildings and fixtures thereon and appurtenances thereto) which:

(i) Was not assessed at the last quadrennial assessment.

(ii) Has increased in value to the extent of more than one hundred dollars ($100.00) by virtue of improvements or appurtenances added since the last assessment of such property.

(iii) Has decreased in value to the extent of more than one hundred dollars ($100.00) by virtue of improvements or appurtenances damaged, destroyed or removed since the last assessment of such property.

(iv) Has increased or decreased in value since the last assessment of such property by virtue of some extraordinary circumstances, such circumstances being those of unusual occurrence in trade or business, and the facts in connection with which shall be found by the board of equalization in each case and entered upon the proceedings of said board.

(e) Has been subdivided into lots located on streets already laid out and open, and sold or offered for sale as lots, since the date of the last assessment of such property. This shall apply to all cases of subdivision into lots, regardless of whether the land is situated within or without an incorporated municipality: Provided, that where lands have been subdivided into lots, and more than five acres of any such subdivision remain unsold by the owner thereof, the unsold portion may be listed as land acreage, in the discretion of the tax supervisor.

(f) Was last assessed at an improper figure as the result of a clerical error.

(g) Was last assessed at a figure which manifestly is unjust by comparison with the assessments placed upon similar property in the county: Provided, that the power to reasses under this subdivision shall be exercised only by the board of equalization and review, subject to appeal to the state board of assessment. (1939, c. 310, s. 301.)

§ 105-280. Date as of which assessment is to be made.—All property, real and personal, shall be listed or listed and assessed, as the case may be, in accordance with ownership and value as of the first day of April, one thousand nine hundred ty-nine, and thereafter all property shall be listed or listed and assessed in accordance with ownership and value as of the first day of January each year. (1939, c. 310, s. 302.)

When Lien Attaches.—The lien for taxes attaches to realty on the first day of April of each year, the date on which land is required to be listed in the name of the owner. Bemis Hardwood Lbr. Co. v. Graham County, 214
N. C. 167, 198 S. E. 843.

§ 105-281. Property subject to taxation.—All property, real and personal, within the jurisdiction of the state, not especially exempted, shall be subject to taxation. (1939, c. 310, s. 303.)
Editor's Note.—For cases construing former § 7971(18), now repealed, which defined what should be included as personal property see Lawrence v. Shaw, 210 N. C. 352, 361, 185 S. E. 504; Mecklenburg County v. Sterchi Bros. Stores,
210 N. C. 79, 185 S. E. 454.

Taxation of Personal Property of Nonresidents Is Constitutional.—The taxation of personal property of nonresidents by this state when such personal property has actained a taxable situs here does not violate the provisions of the 14th Amendment of the Federal Constitution, the rule that personal property follows the domicile of the owner being subject to an exception when such personalty is held in such a manner as to create a "business situs" for the purpose of taxation. Mecklenburg County v. Ster-chi Bros. Stores, 210 N. C. 79, 185 S. E. 454, construing § 7971(18), now repealed.

§ 105-282. Article subordinate to sections 105-198 to 105-217.—None of the provisions contained in any of the sections of this article shall be constituted in conflict with Schedule H, §§ 105-198 to 105-217, but rather they shall be subordinate thereto. (1939, c. 310, s. 304.)

Art. 14. Personnel for County Tax Listing and Assessing.

§ 105-283. Appointment and qualifications of tax supervisors.—At or before the regular meeting next preceding the date as of which property is to be listed and assessed, the board of county commissioners of each county shall appoint as tax supervisor some person who shall be a freeholder in the county, who shall for one year immediately preceding the appointment, have been a resident of the county, and whose experience in the valuation of real and personal property is satisfactory to the board.

In counties in which there is an auditor, tax clerk, county accountant, all-time chairman of the board of county commissioners, or other similar officer, either may be designated as supervisor by the board of county commissioners. (1939, c. 310,
s. 400.)

§ 105-284. Term of office and compensation of supervisors.—The tax supervisor shall serve for one year or for such shorter period of time as the board may designate. In the case he is appointed for one year, he shall serve until his successor is appointed and has qualified, subject to removal for cause by the board of commissioners at any time. Any vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the board of commissioners.

The compensation of the supervisor shall be fixed by the board of commissioners, and he shall be allowed such expenses as the commissioners may approve. (1939, c. 310, s. 401.)

§ 105-285. Oath of office of supervisor.—ImmEDIATELY after his appointment, and before entering upon the duties of his office, the supervisor shall file with the clerk of the board of commissioners the following affidavit, subscribed and sworn to: Before the chairman of the board of commissioners or some other officer qualified to administer oaths:

"I, .................. County Tax Supervisor for .................. County, North Carolina, for the year ..........., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will discharge the duties of my office as supervisor according to the laws in force governing such office; so help me, God.

[Signature]" (1939, c. 310, s. 402.)

§ 105-286. Powers and duties of tax supervisor.—(1) The supervisor shall have general charge of the listing and assessing of all property in the county in accordance with the provisions of law.

(2) He shall appoint the list takers and assessors, subject to the approval of the commissioners, as hereinafter provided.

(3) He shall, on the second Monday preceding the date as of which property is to be assessed or at some time during the week which includes said Monday, convene the list takers and assessors for general consideration of methods of securing a complete list of all property in the county, and of assessing, in accordance with law, all property which is to be assessed during the approaching listing period.

(4) He shall visit each list taker at least once during the period of listing, and shall confer with each list taker during said period as often as he judges proper. Such visit shall be for the purpose of securing a complete list of all property in the county, and of assessing, in accordance with law, all property which is to be assessed during the approaching
listing period.

(5) He shall have power to subpoena any person for examination under oath and to subpoena any books, papers, records or accounts whenever he has reasonable grounds for the belief that such person has knowledge of such books, papers, rec-cords and accounts containing information which is pertinent to the discovery or the valuation of any property subject to taxation in the county, or which is necessary for compliance with the requirements of any law, and shall cause such books, records and accounts to be delivered to him at such time and place as he shall direct.

(6) He may require that any or all persons, firms and corporations, domestic and foreign, engaged in operating any business enterprise in the county shall submit, in connection with his or its regular tax list, a detailed inventory, statement of assets and liabilities, or other similar information pertinent to the discovery of valuation of property taxable in the county. Inventories, statements of assets and liabilities or other information not expressly required by this subchapter to be shown on the tax list itself, secured by the supervisor un-under the terms of this subdivision, shall not be open to public inspection.

Any supervisor or other official disclosing information so obtained, except as such disclosure may be necessary in listing or assessing property or in administrative or judicial proceedings relating to such listing or assessing, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by fine not exceeding fifty dollars ($50.00).

(7) He shall have power, for good cause, and prior to the first meeting of the board of equalization and review, to change the valuation placed upon any property by the list taker, provided such property is subject to assessment for the current year, and provided that notice of such change is given to the taxpayer prior to the meeting of said board.

(8) He shall perform such other duties as may be imposed upon him by law, and shall have and exercise all powers reasonably necessary in the performance of his duties, not inconsistent with the constitution or the laws of this state. (1939, c. 310, s. 403.)

§ 105-287. Appointment, qualifications, and number of list takers and assessors.—Subject to the approval of the county commissioners, the supervisor, on or before the second Monday preceding the date as of which property is to be assessed, shall appoint some competent person to act as list taker and assessor in each township.

With the approval of the commissioners he may appoint more than one such person for any township in which is situated an incorporated town or part of an incorporated town. In quadrennial years three such persons shall be appointed in each township, and more than three may be appointed in townships in which is located an incorporated town or part of an incorporated town; and in such years, at the time of their appointment, such appointees shall have been resident freeholders of the county for at least twelve months; Provided, that in any county adopting the horizontal method of revaluations in one thousand nine hundred forty-one, and quadrennially thereafter, the commissioners may appoint less than three list takers and assessors per township; Provided, further, that in quadrennial years the board of county commissioners may appoint one list taker and assessor in each township if in addition thereto at least two county-wide list takers and assessors are appointed; or said board may appoint not more than three qualified assessors to assess all real estate in the county. In every year the persons appointed shall be persons of character and integrity, and shall have such experience in the valuation of types of property commonly owned in the county as shall satisfy the supervisor and the commissioners. (1939, c. 310, s. 404.)

§ 105-288. Term of office and compensation of list takers and assessors.—The list takers and assessors shall serve for such period as may be fixed by the commissioners. They shall receive for their services such compensation as the commissioners may fix. No list taker shall receive compensation until the supervisor has checked over the lists accepted by him, as hereinafter required, and certified that his work has been satisfactory. Each list taker shall make out his account in detail, specifying each day's services, which account shall be audited by the county accountant and approved by the commissioners. (1939, c. 310, s. 405.)

§ 105-289. Oath of list takers and assessors.—Before entering upon his duties each list taker and assessor shall take the following oath, which shall be filed with the clerk to the board of commissioners after having been subscribed and sworn to before some officer qualified to administer oaths:

"I, __________________ List Taker and Assessor for ______________ Township, ______________ County, North Carolina, do hereby solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will discharge the duties of my office according to the laws in force that govern said office; so help me, God.

§ 105-290. Powers and duties of list takers and assessors.—(1) At least ten days before the date as of which property is to be assessed, each list taker shall post, in five or more public places in his township, a notice containing at least the following: (a) The date as of which property is to be assessed; (b) the date on which listing will begin; (c) the date on which the listing will end; (d) the times and places between the last two dates mentioned at which lists will be accepted; (e) a notice that all persons who, on the date as of which property is to be assessed, own property subject to taxation must list such property within the period set forth in the notice, and that failure to do so will subject such persons to the penalties prescribed by law.

In townships in which more than one list taker has been appointed the posting of these notices shall be the duty of one of them, to be designated by the supervisor.

In case the period of listing in any township shall be extended by the commissioners, as hereinafter permitted, it shall be the duty of the list taker who first posted the notices to post new notices in the same places, giving notice of the extension and notice of the times and places at which lists will be accepted during the extended period.

(2) Each list taker shall attend the meeting referred to in subdivision three of § 105-286.

(3) The list takers and assessors, under the supervision of the supervisor, shall secure lists of all real and personal property and polls subject to taxation in their townships, and shall assess all such property as is subject to assessment under the provisions of this subchapter. To this end they shall secure from each taxpayer or person whose duty it is to list property or poll in their respective townships a list containing the information hereinafter specified, and shall have the authority to visit any such person or his property, to investigate the value of any such property, and to examine under oath any such person present before them for the purpose of listing property. The supervisor may, in his discretion, require any list taker and assessor to visit each person in his township whose property or poll is subject to taxation.

(4) Each list taker and assessor shall have power to subpoena any person for examination under oath whenever he has reasonable grounds for belief that such person has knowledge which is pertinent to the discovery or valuation of property subject to taxation in his township or which is necessary for compliance with the requirements, hereinafter set forth, as to what the tax list shall contain.

(5) The list takers and assessors shall perform such duties in connection with the making up of the tax records and in connection with the discovery of unlisted property as hereinafter specified.

(6) The list takers and assessors shall perform such other duties as may be by law imposed upon them; and they shall have and exercise all powers necessary to the proper discharge of their duties not inconsistent with the constitution or the statutes of this state. (1939, c. 310, s. 407.)

§ 105-291. Employment of experts.—The board of county commissioners in each county, at the request of the county supervisor of taxation, may in their discretion employ one or more persons having expert knowledge of the value of specific kinds or classes of property within the county, such as mines, factories, mills and other similar property, to aid and assist the county supervisor of taxation and the list takers and assessors in the respective townships, or to advise with, advise and assist the board of equalization and review in arriving at the true value in money of the property in the county. Such expert, or experts, so employed by the board of county commissioners shall receive for their services such compensation as the board of county commissioners shall designate. (1939, c. 310, s. 408.)

§ 105-292. Clerical assistants. — The county commissioners may, in their discretion, upon recommendation of the supervisor, employ such clerical assistants to the supervisor as they deem proper, and at such compensation and for such terms as they deem proper. Such assistants shall perform such duties as the commissioners or the supervisor may assign to them. (1939, c. 310, s. 409.)

§ 105-293. Tax commission.—In all counties having a tax commission, said commission shall do and perform all the duties required by this subchapter to be performed by county commissioners except levying taxes, and all expenses incurred by said tax commission or its appointees in accordance with this subchapter shall be paid by the county commissioners out of the general county funds. (1939, c. 310, s. 410.)

Art. 15. Classification, Valuation and Taxation of Property.

§ 105-294. Taxes to be on uniform ad valorem basis as to class.—All property, real and personal, shall as far as practicable, be valued at its true value in money, and taxes levied by all counties, municipalities and other local taxing authorities shall be levied uniformly on valuations so determined. The intent and purpose of this subchapter is to have all property and subjects of taxation assessed at their true and actual value in money, in such manner as such property and subjects are usually sold, but not by forced sale thereof, and the words "market value," "true value," or "cash value," whenever used in the tax laws of this state, shall be held to mean for what the property and subjects can be transmuted into cash when sold in such manner as such property and subjects are usually sold: Provided, nothing in this section shall be construed as conflicting with or modifying the provisions of Schedule H, §§ 105-198 to 105-217, or the provisions of this subchapter classifying other property.

It is hereby declared to be the policy of this state so to use its system of real estate taxation as to encourage the conservation of natural resources and the beautification of homes and road-sides, and all tax assessors are hereby instructed to make no increase in the tax valuation of real estate as a result of the owner's enterprise in adopting any one or more of the following progressive policies:

1. Planting and care of lawns, shade trees, shrubs and flowers for non-commercial purposes.
2. Repainting buildings.
3. Terracing or other methods of soil conservation, to the extent that they preserve values already existing.
4. Protection of forests against fire.
5. Planting of forest trees on vacant land for reforestation purposes (for ten years after such planting). (1939, c. 310, s. 500.)

In determining the value of a building the assessors shall consider at least its location, type of construction, age replacement cost, adaptability for residence, commercial or industrial uses, the past income therefrom, the probable future income, the present assessed value, and any other factors which may affect its value. Buildings partially completed shall be assessed in accordance with the degree of completion on the day as of which property is assessed. (1939, c. 310, s. 501.)

§ 105-296. Real property exempt.—The following real property, and no other, shall be exempt from taxation:

(1) Real property owned by the United States or this state, and real property owned by the state for the benefit of any general or special fund of the state, and real property lawfully owned and held by counties, cities, townships, or school districts, used wholly and exclusively for public or school purposes. The repeal of the exemption of real property indirectly owned by federal, state or local governments shall be effective for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and forty-three, and such property indirectly owned shall be placed upon the tax books for one thousand nine hundred and forty-three and subject to the tax rates levied on real estate in the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-three.

(2) Real property, tombs, vaults and mausoleums set apart for burial purposes, except such as are owned and held for sale or rental.

(4) Buildings, with the land actually occupied, wholly devoted to educational purposes, belonging to, actually and exclusively occupied and used for public libraries, colleges, academies, industrial schools, seminaries, or any other institutions of learning, together with such additional adjacent land owned by such libraries and educational institutions as may be reasonably necessary for the convenient use of such buildings, and also buildings thereon used as residences by the officers or instructors of such educational institutions.

(5) Real property belonging to, actually and exclusively used by, Young Men's Christian Associations and other religious, charitable, educational or benevolent associations, orphanages, or other similar homes, hospitals and nurseries not conducted for profit, but entirely and completely as charitable.

(6) Buildings, with the land actually occupied, belonging to the American Legion or Post of the American Legion or any benevolent, patriotic, historical, or charitable association used exclusively for lodge purposes by said societies or associations, together with such additional adjacent land as may be necessary for the convenient use of the buildings thereon.

(7) The exemptions granted in subsections three, four, five, six and ten, of this section shall apply to real property of foreign religious, charitable, educational, literary, benevolent, patriotic or historical corporations, institutions or orders when such property is exclusively used for religious, charitable, educational or benevolent purposes within this state.

(8) The real property of Indians who are not citizens, except lands held by them by purchase.

(9) Real property falling within the provisions of § 55-11, appropriated especially for public parks and drives.

(10) Real property actually used for hospital purposes, including homes for nurses employed by or in training in such hospitals, held for or owned by hospitals organized and operated as non-stock, non-profit, charitable institutions, without profit to the members or their successors, notwithstanding that patients able to pay are charged for services rendered: Provided, all revenues or receipts of such hospitals shall be used, invested, or held for the purposes for which they are organized; and provided, further, that where hospital property is used partly for such hospital purposes and partly for commercial and business purposes, then only such proportion of the value of such building and the land on which it is located shall be exempt from taxation as is actually used for such hospital purposes. The provisions of this section shall be effective as to taxes for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and subsequent years.

The 1943 amendment struck out former subsection (7). It also added the phrase "the income therefrom is exclusively used for," formerly appearing after the word "for" in line six of subsection (7). This amendment added subsection (4) and struck out former subsection (1). For comment on this amendment, see 21 N. C. Property of Hospital Not Exempt.—The property of a hospital organized as a business corporation and charging all patients according to a fixed schedule is not exempt from taxation, under this section or those immediately following, unless the patients were also customary patients of a hospital organized as a charitable corporation and the profits derived therefrom were not devoted to the payment and classed as charity patients, and although its stockholders, though not waiving their right to dividends, did not expect to receive dividends when they subscribed for stock, and no dividends were paid thereon for the years in question.

§ 105-297. Personal property exempt.—The following personal property, and no other, shall be exempt from taxation:

(8) Wearing apparel, household and kitchen furniture, the mechanical and agricultural instruments of farmers and mechanics, libraries and scientific instruments, provisions and live stock, not exceeding the total value of three hundred dollars ($300.00), and all growing crops: Provided, that said three hundred dollars ($300.00) exemption shall be limited to: (1) each household, consisting of the head of the household and all the dependents, one three hundred dollars ($300.00) exemption to be distributed among the members of the household as they see fit; and (2) each single person, not residing with persons on whom he is dependent, as to eligible property actually owned by him.

(9) The intangible personal property referred to in Schedule H, §§ 105-198 to 105-217, which said intangible personal property shall be taxed or exempt in accordance with the provisions of said Schedule H, §§ 105-198 to 105-217: Provided, that the provisions of this subsection shall not be construed to modify the provisions of Article 25 or Article 26 of this subchapter.

(10) Tangible personal property held at any seaport destined for and awaiting foreign shipment.

(11) The furniture, furnishings, books, instruments, and all other tangible or intangible personal property held for or owned by hospitals organized and operated as non-stock, non-profit, charitable institutions, notwithstanding that patients of such hospitals able to pay are charged for services rendered: Provided, all revenues or receipts of such hospitals shall be used, invested, or held for the purposes for which they are organized. (1939, c. 310, s. 601; 1941, c. 125, ss. 3, 4; 1941, c. 221, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The first 1941 amendment added subsection (11) and inserted reference thereto in subsection (7). The second 1941 amendment added subsection (12).

§ 105-298. Deductions and credits.—(a) Private hospitals shall not be exempt from property taxes and other taxes lawfully imposed, but in consideration of the large amount of charity work done by them, the boards of commissioners of the several counties are authorized and directed to accept, as valid claims against the county, the bills of such hospitals for attention and services voluntarily rendered to afflicted or injured residents of the county who are indigent and likely to become public charges, when such bills are duly itemized and sworn to and are approved by the county physician or health officer as necessary or proper;
and the same shall be allowed as payments on and credits against all taxes which may be or become due by such hospital on properties strictly used for hospital purposes, but to that extent only will the county be liable for such hospital bills: Provided, that the board of aldermen or other governing boards of cities and towns shall allow similar bills against the municipal taxes for attention and services voluntarily rendered by such hospitals to paupers or other indigent persons resident in any such city or town: Provided further, that the governing boards of cities and towns shall require a sworn statement to the effect that such bills shall not be presented to any board of county commissioners as a mnusel against that county, or as a credit on taxes due that county. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply to public hospitals or to hospitals organized and operated as non-stock, non-profit, charitable institutions, which, for the purposes of this subsection and it is the legislative intent that the provisions of this subsection shall control rather than the provisions of § 7880(194) is not empowered to recover the same taxes. Piedmont Memorial Hospital v. Guilford County, 218 N. C. 308, 20 S. E. 2d 265.

Use of Building.—Where the first floor of plaintiff’s building is rented out for stores and shops, the second floor is rented for offices for physicians and surgeons, the third and fourth floors are used for a hospital, as to the first two floors, the second floor Assembly is without authority to grant any exemption from taxation and as to the third and fourth floors, subsection (a) is applicable, and in accordance with its provisions, bills for services rendered the indigent poor may be allowed to be secured in the same manner as other individual property of its property, but it is not exempt from taxation. Piedmont Memorial Hospital v. Guilford County, 218 N. C. 671, 12 S. E. 2d 265.

Distinction between Private and Public Hospitals.—In determining the question of exemption from taxation, a non-profit hospital established solely for charitable purposes through individual donations and which is governed by a self-perpetuating board of trustees named by the incorporators, is a private hospital as contradistinguished from a public hospital, which is one supported, maintained and controlled by public authority, and the distinction observed between charitable hospitals and those operated for gain or profit in determining liability for negligence, has no bearing in determining the question of tax exemption. Piedmont Memorial Hospital v. Guilford County, 218 N. C. 671, 12 S. E. 2d 265.

§ 105-299. Article subordinate to sections 105-198 to 105-217.—None of the provisions contained in any of the sections of this article shall be construed to conflict with Schedule II, §§ 105-198 to 105-217, but rather shall they be subordinate there to. (1939, c. 310, s. 603.)

Art. 17. Real Property—Where and in Whose Name Listed.

§ 105-300. Place for listing real property.—All real property subject to taxation, and not hereinafter required to be assessed originally by the state board of assessment, shall be listed in the township or place where such property is situated. (1939, c. 310, s. 700.)

§ 105-301. In whose name real property to be listed; information regarding ownership; permanent listing.—(1) Except as hereinafter specified, real property shall be listed in the name of its owner; and it shall be the duty of the county recorder to list the same. To this end the board of county commissioners in any county may require the register of deeds, when any transfer of title is recorded, other than a mortgage or deed of trust, to certify the same to the supervisor (or if there be no supervisor acting at the time, to the person in charge of the tax records), and the record of the transfer shall be entered upon the tax records. The certification from the transfer to the supervisor or other person shall include the name of the person conveying the property, the name of the person to whom it is conveyed, the township in which the property is situated, a description of the property sufficient to identify it, and a statement as to whether the parcel is conveyed in whole or in part. For his services in this respect the register shall be allowed, if on fees, the sum of ten cents (10c) per transfer certified, to be paid by the county, and if on salary, such allowance as may be made by the board of commissioners. It shall also be within the power of any board of commissioners, in its discretion, to require that each person recording such conveyance of real property shall, before presenting it to the register of deeds, present it to the person in charge of the tax records, in order that the conveyance may be noted on the tax records and in order that adequate information concerning the location of the property may be obtained from the person recording the conveyance. If such presentation is required by the commissioners of any county, the register of deeds of that county shall not accept for recording any conveyance which has not first been submitted to the person in charge of the tax records and such person has obtained information for the tax records which he regards as satisfactory. The commissioners may allow the person in charge of the tax records such compensation for this service as they deem appropriate, but they shall not require the person presenting the deed to pay any fee therefor.

It shall also be within the power of the commissioners to authorize the installation of a system for the permanent listing of real estate, under which all real estate may be carried forward by the supervisor, the list takers or some person or persons designated by the supervisor, in the name of the proper person as defined by this subchapter, without requiring that such real estate be listed each year by such person. No such system shall be established, with the approval of the board, the board of assessment; and when such a system is installed, the board may authorize the commissioners to make such modifications of the listing requirements of this subchapter as the board may deem necessary: Provided, that nothing herein shall require the board's approval for any such system installed prior to April 3, 1939.

Any county may, in the discretion of the commissioners, require that all real estate be listed only in the name of the owner of record at the close of the day as of which property is listed and assessed.

(2) For purposes of tax listing and assessing, the owner of the equity of redemption in any property which is subject to a mortgage or deed of trust shall be considered the owner of such real estate.

(3) Real property of which a decedent died possessed, not under the control of an executor or administrator, may be assessed to the heirs or devisees of the deceased without naming them until they have given notice of their respective names to the supervisor and of the division of the estate. It shall be the duty of any executor or administrator having control of real property to list it in his fiduciary capacity until he shall have been divested of control of such property. The right of an administrator, administering upon the estate of an intestate decedent, to petition for the sale of real estate to make assets shall not be considered as control of such real estate for purposes of this subdivision.

(4) A trustee, guardian or other fiduciary having legal title to real property shall be regarded as the owner of such property for purposes of tax listing, except as elsewhere in this section provided, and he shall list such property in his fiduciary capacity.

(5) Where undivided interests in real property are owned by tenants in common, not being copartners, the supervisor, upon request and in his discretion, may allow the property to be listed by the respective owners in accordance with their respective undivided interests.

(6) Real property belonging to a partnership or unincorporated association shall be listed in the name of such partnership or association.

(7) Real property owned by a corporation shall be listed in the name of the corporation.

(8) When land is owned by one party and improvements thereon or mineral, timber, quarry, water power, or similar rights therein are owned by another party, the parties may list their interests separately or may, in accordance with contractual relations between them, have the entire property listed in the name of the owner of the land. Where in such a case the land and improvements or rights are listed by the separate owners, the taxes levied on the improvements, or rights, shall be a lien on the land, and the land shall be subject to foreclosure for non-payment of such taxes in the same manner as if such taxes were levied directly against said land: Provided, nothing herein contained shall prevent said taxes from being also a lien on said improvements, or rights.

(9) A life tenant or tenant for the life of another shall be considered the owner of real property for purposes of tax listing, but he shall indicate when listing such property that he is a life tenant. The taxes levied on property listed in the name of a life tenant shall be a lien on the entire fee: Provided, that this shall not prevent the life tenant from being liable for the taxes under § 105-410.

(10) If the owner or person in whose name the real property should properly be listed, as set forth in the foregoing subdivisions of this section, is unknown, the property may be listed in the name of the occupant, and either or both shall be liable for the taxes; and if there be no occupant, then it may be listed as property the owner of which is unknown: Provided, that wherever the property is so listed against the occupant or an unknown owner, or through error the property has been listed against some person other than the owner as defined in this section, and the name of the true owner is subsequently ascertained, the tax records may be changed so as to list said property against the owner, and the change shall have the same force and effect as if the property has been listed against the owner in the first instance. (1939, c. 310, s. 701.)

In Whose Name Listed.—Land should be listed for taxation in the name of the individual owners and not in the name of the "estate" of one deceased. Morrison v. McLaughlin, 88 N. C. 351.

Same—Improper Listing as Affecting Purchaser's Title.—A tax-title devised by a purchaser at a sheriff's sale of land listed in the name of the "estate" of one deceased is defective. McLaughlin v. McLaughlin, 88 N. C. 351.

Art. 18. Personal Property—Where and in Whose Name Listed.

§ 105-302. Place for listing tangible personal property.—(1) In general, all tangible personal property and polls shall be listed at the residence of the owner, except as otherwise provided in this section. For purposes of this section the residence of a person who has two or more places in which he occasionally dwells shall be the place at which he resided for the longest period of time during the year preceding the date as of which property is assessed. The residence of a corporation, partnership or unincorporated association, domestic or foreign, shall be the place of its principal office in this state, and if a corporation, partnership or unincorporated association such as has no principal office in this state, its tangible personal property may be listed at any place at which said property is situated provided said property has a taxable situs within the state.

(2) Farm products produced in this state, owned by the producers, shall be listed where produced.

(3) Tangible personal property taxable in this state, owned by an individual nonresident of this state, shall be listed where situated.

(4) Subject to the provisions of subsection two of this section, tangible personal property shall be listed at the place where such property is situa ted, rather than at the residence of the owner, if the owner or person having control thereof hires or occupies a store, mill, dockyard, piling ground, place for the sale of property, shop, office, mine, farm, place for storage, manufactory or warehouse therein for use in connection with such property. Property stored in public warehouses and merchandise in the possession of a consignee or broker shall be regarded as falling within the provisions of this subdivision.

(5) The tangible personal property of a decedent whose estate is in the process of administration or has not been distributed shall be listed at the place at which it would be listed if the decedent were still alive and still residing at the place at which he resided at the time of his death.

(6) Tangible personal property held by a trustee, guardian or other fiduciary having legal title thereto shall be listed at the place where such property would be listed if the beneficiary were the owner; and if there are several beneficiaries in a case in which such property would be listed at the residence of the owner, the value of the property shall be listed at the various residences of such beneficiaries according to their respective interests. This subdivision shall effect only cases in which the beneficiaries are residents of this state, but it shall apply whether the fiduciary is a resident or nonresident of this state.
Property delivered by executors or administrators to themselves or others as testamentary trustees shall be controlled by this subsection rather than by subsection five of this section.

(7) In any case where the beneficiary is a non-resident of this state, tangible personal property having a taxable situs in this state, held by a trustee, guardian or other fiduciary having legal title, shall be listed at the place it would be listed if the trustee or other fiduciary were the beneficial owner of such property. (1939, c. 310, s. 800.)

Generally.—The rules and regulations fixed by the "Revenue Act" and the "Machinery Act" for the guidance of the officers charged with the listing and assessment of property for purposes of state taxation govern and control the action of county and municipal officers charged with the listing and assessment of property for municipal taxation. Wiley v. Commissioners, 111 N. C. 397, 16 S. E. 542 and cases there cited. The conclusion, therefore, is that the legislature has adopted a "uniform rule" which must be observed. Id.

Fixing Situs of Property.—It is for the legislature to determine the situs of personal property for purposes of taxation, and may provide different rules for different kinds of property, change them from time to time, and the courts may not, for consideration of expediency, disregard the

§ 105-304

Same.—Application of Maxim Mobilia Personam Sequen-tur.—In Alvany v. Powell, 55 N. C. 51, Chief Justice Pearson declares that the true principle upon which to determine whether personal property is liable to be taxed, is the situs of the property, and that the distinction attempted is made between personality and real estate, depending upon the domicile of the owner, and the house or place wherein he usually resides.

Where Domicile and Residence Separate.—This section has been interpreted by the courts in the following way:
1. In the case of an individual nonresident of this state, residence is according to domicile.
2. In the case of a corporation, the domicile of the protected or owner, residence is according to domicile.
3. In the case of a corporation, the domicile of the protected or owner, residence is according to domicile.
4. In the case of a corporation, the domicile of the protected or owner, residence is according to domicile.
5. In the case of a corporation, the domicile of the protected or owner, residence is according to domicile.

§ 105-304. Intangible personal property.—The listing, assessing, and taxation of intangible personal properties and the administration relative thereto shall be subject to the provisions of Schedule H, §§ 105-198 to 105-217. (1939, c. 310, s. 801.)

§ 105-304. In whose name personal property should be listed.—(1) In general, personal property shall be listed in the name of the owner who has possession of said property and is assessed; and it shall be the duty of the owner to list the same. The owner of the equity of redeempion in personal property subject to a chattel mortgage shall be considered the owner of the property; and the vendee of personal property under a conditional bill of sale, or under any other sale contract by virtue of which title to the property is retained in the vendor as security for the payment of the purchase price, shall be considered the owner of the property, provided he has possession of such property or the right to use the same.

(2) Personal property of a corporation, partnership, firm or unincorporated association shall be listed in the name of such corporation, partnership, firm, or unincorporated association.

(3) Personal property of which a decedent died possessed, not under the control of an executor or administrator, may be assessed to the next of kin or legatees of the decedent without naming them until they have given notice of their respective names to the supervisor and have likewise given notice of the distribution of the estate; and for this purpose such next of kin or legatees may be designated as "heirs." It shall be the duty of an executor or administrator having control of [ 1091 ]
such property to list it in his fiduciary capacity until he shall have been divested of such control.

(4) A trustee, guardian, or other fiduciary having legal title to personal property shall be regarded as the owner thereof for purposes of this section.

(5) In cases in which two or more persons are joint owners of personal property, each shall list the value of his interest.

(6) If any dispute shall arise as to the true owner of personal property, the person in possession thereof shall be regarded as the owner unless the list taker or supervisor shall be convinced that some other person is the true owner. (1939, c. 310, s. 802.)

§ 105-305. Article subordinate to sections 105-198 to 105-217.—None of the provisions contained in any of the sections of this article shall be construed to conflict with Schedule H, §§ 105-198 to 105-217, but rather shall they be subordinate therefo. (1939, c. 310, s. 803.)

Art. 19. What the Tax List Shall Contain and Miscellaneous Matters Affecting Listing.

§ 105-306. What the tax list shall contain.—Each taxpayer or person whose duty it is to list property for taxation shall file with the proper list taker a tax list setting forth, as of the day on which property is assessed, the following information:

(1) The name and residence address of the taxpayer.

(2) The age of the taxpayer, if he is a male taxpayer, listing in the township of his residence.

(3) Each parcel of real property owned or controlled in the township, not subdivided into lots, together with the number of acres cleared for cultivation, waste land, woods and timber, mineral, quarry lands, and lands susceptible of development for water power, and the total acreage. Each separate parcel shall be described by name, if it has one, and by specifying at least two adjoining landowners, or by such other description as shall be sufficient to locate and identify said land by parol testimony. If all or part of such land shall lie within the boundaries of any incorporated town or any district in which a special tax is levied, such fact shall be specified.

(4) Each parcel of manufacturing property owned or controlled in the township, not subdivided into lots, together with the number of acres in said parcel or the dimensions thereof, the name of such parcel, if any, and the names of at least two adjoining landowners, or such other description as shall be sufficient to locate and identify said property by parol testimony. If all or part of such land shall lie within the boundaries of any incorporated town or any district in which a special tax is levied, such fact shall be specified.

(5) Each lot owned or controlled in the township together with the dimensions of said lot, its street number, if any, its number or location on any map filed in the office of the register of deeds or such other description as shall be sufficient to locate and identify it by parol testimony. If any such lot shall lie within the boundaries of an incorporated town or any district in which a special tax is levied, such fact shall be specified.

(6) In conjunction with the listing of any real property listed under subdivisions (3), (4), or (5) of this section, a short description of any improvements thereon, belonging to the taxpayer listing such real property, shall be given. And if some person other than the taxpayer listing such real property shall own mineral, quarry, timber, water power or other separate rights with respect thereto, or shall own any improvements thereon, such fact shall be specified, together with the name of the person owning such rights or improvements, and a short description of such rights or improvements; though the owner of the land may or may not list such separate rights or improvements for taxes in accordance with the provisions of this subchapter.

(7) All mineral, quarry, timber, water power or other separate rights owned by the taxpayer with respect to the lands of another, and all improvements owned by such taxpayer located upon the lands of another. Such rights or improvements shall be listed separately with respect to each parcel or lot of land which is listed separately by the owner thereof, and such parcel or lot shall be identified in the same manner as it is identified on the tax list of the person listing the same: Provided, that such rights or improvements shall not be taxed against the owner thereof if, under the provisions of this subchapter, they are listed for taxes by the owner of the land.

(8) Every person listing real property shall list, in connection with each parcel or lot, every encumbrance thereon, together with the amount due on such encumbrance and the name and address of the person to whom such amount is due.

(9) The amount and value of all machinery and fixtures.

(10) A special description of any improvements, having a value in excess of one hundred dollars ($100.00), which have been begun, erected, damaged or destroyed since the time of the last assessment of such property.

(11) A list of horses, mules, cows, dress horses, cattle, hogs, sheep, goats and other live stock, poultry and dogs, with the number and value of each class shown separately.

(12) The number of open female dogs and the number of other dogs.

(13) The amount and value of farm machinery, farm utensils, and carriages, carts, wagons, buggies, or other vehicles and harness.

(14) The amount and value of household and kitchen furniture, libraries, scientific instruments, tools of mechanics, wearing apparel, and provisions of all kinds.

Where land is described by the name of one person, belonging to another, has been sold for unpaid taxes and it is discovered, before the deed has been accepted, that the real owner has not listed it as required by this section, the deed is insufficient to pass title, and to the holder of the deed the failure to list said property shall be prima facie evidence that such failure was willful, and the board of county commissioners shall present the names of all such persons, firms and corporations to the grand jury.

Failure to List Solvent Credits.—The failure to list solvent credits does not destroy the cause of action, but postpones the recovery of the debt, unless the amount of taxes due upon the property, the justice may make out a list for himself to the best of his knowledge. The board of county commissioners of any county may extend the time for listing for not more than an additional thirty days: Provided, that in years of quadrennial assessment the board of county commissioners may extend the time for listing for not more than an additional sixty days.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any preparatory work, prior to the beginning of listing, which may be necessary or expedient in connection with an efficient listing or assessing of property; nor shall it prevent the assessment of real property by the list takers prior to the actual time at which it is listed by its owner or carried forward on the tax records: Provided, that no final assessment shall be made by a list taker prior to the day as of which property is required by law to be assessed. (1939, c. 310, s. 905.)

The board may, in its discretion, design and prescribe such forms and make arrangements for their purchase and distribution through the division of purchase and contract, the cost of same being billed to the counties. (1939, c. 310, s. 907.)

county the sum of thirty cents ($0.30) per hundred names for the same, said amount to be used by the commissioner as compensation for the prep-liable for taxation on the property stored with them by others, provided lists of the owners and so furnished within fifteen days after the day as of which property is assessed, such warehouse or association shall be liable to the respective countries for the tax upon the full value of such prop-

(2) Compensation.—The members of the board of equalization and review shall be allowed the same per diem compensation and traveling expense, while actually engaged in the performance of their duties, as is ordinarily paid to the members of the board of county commissioners, such compensation to be paid by the county.

(3) Oath.—Before entering upon their duties each member of the board of equalization and review shall take and subscribe to the following oath and file the same with the clerk of the board of county commissioners: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully discharge my duties as a member of the Board of Equalization and Review of County, North Carolina: and that I will not allow my actions as a member of said board to be influenced by personal or political friendships or obligations.

(b) The board shall, on request, hear any and all taxpayers who own or control taxable property assessed for taxation in the county in respect to the valuation of such property or the property of others.

(c) The board shall examine and review the tax lists of each township for the current year; shall, of its own motion or on sufficient cause shown by any person, list and assess any real or personal property or polls subject to taxation in the county omitted from said lists; shall correct all errors in the names of persons, in the description of property, and in the assessment and valuation of any taxable property appearing on said lists; shall increase or reduce the assessed value of any property which in their opinion shall have been returned below or above the valuation required by law; and shall cause to be done whatever else shall be necessary to make said lists comply with the provisions of this subchapter: Provided, that said board shall not change the valuation of any real property from the value at which it was assessed for the preceding year except in accordance with the terms of §§ 105-278, and 105-279.

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the proviso to subsection (5).

Purpose of Notice.—The notice required before the meeting in June is general, and has reference to a general revision of the county valuation records. The purpose of the notice is to give a general uniform assessment among the several townships, and it is to give opportunity to all who may be dissatisfied with the valuation of their property to make complaint and have it corrected. Commissioners v. Atlanta, etc., Ry. Co., 86 N. C. 541, 544.

Valuation by Owner Subject to Review by Board.—The valuation upon personal property is made by the taxpayer when he lists his property, and is binding upon the list-taker, but it may be corrected by the county commissioner or board of equalization at the dates fixed by the statute, upon due notice to the taxpayer. Pocomoke Guano Co. v. New Bern, 172 N. C. 258, 260, 90 S. E. 202.

Revision without Notice Void.—Where the value of the property of a taxpayer are increased without due notice to him or his agent, such increase shall not be a nullity. Wolfenden v. Commissioners, 152 N. C. 83, 67 S. E. 319.

Designated Date of Meeting Exclusive of Others.—See Wolfenden v. Commissioners, 152 N. C. 83, 67 S. E. 319.

Before Whom Complaint Made.—The complaint against excessive valuation must be made before the board of county commissioners, and the aldermen of the city have no jurisdiction to change such valuation. Pocomoke Guano Co. v. New Bern, 172 N. C. 258, 261, 90 S. E. 202.

Requisites of Complaint.—The complaint in an action against a city to recover for taxes paid must allege that the valuation complained of is greater than that fixed by the county board of equalization, or the tax he was forced to pay was greater than it would have been if correctly computed at the legal rate on the valuation properly ascertained, or a demurrer thereto will be sustained. Pocomoke Guano Co. v. New Bern, 172 N. C. 258, 90 S. E. 202.

Decision of Board Final.—The county commissioners have exclusive original jurisdiction to grant relief against excessive valuation of property for taxation, and unless they proceed upon some erroneous principle, there is no appeal. Wade v. Commissioners, 74 N. C. 81 and cases cited.

When Board of Equalization Cited.—After the board of county commissioners has completed the revision of the tax lists as authorized by this section its duties and powers as a revising board, cease and determine until the time appointed to serve subpoenas. (1939, c. 310, s. 1105.)

§ 105-328. Giving effect to the decisions of the board.—All changes in names, descriptions or valuations made by the board of equalization shall be reflected upon the tax records by correction, rebate or additional charge; and when all such changes have been given effect, and the scroll or tax book has been totaled, the members of the board of equalization, or a majority thereof, shall sign a statement at the end of the scroll or tax book to the effect that the scroll is the final tax list and assessment roll for the current year, subject to the provisions of this subchapter. The omission of such endorsement shall not affect the validity of said scroll or tax book, or of any taxes levied on the basis of the valuations appearing in it. (1939, c. 310, s. 1106.)

§ 105-329. Appeals from the board of equalization and review to the state board of assessment.—Any property owner, taxpayer, or member of the board of county commissioners may except to the order of the board of equalization and review and appeal therefrom to the state board of assessment by filing a written notice of such appeal with the clerk of the board of county commissioners within sixty days after the adjournment of the board of equalization and review. At the time of filing such notice of appeal the appellant shall file with the clerk to the board of county commissioners a statement in writing of the grounds of appeal, and shall, within ten days after filing such notice of appeal with the clerk to the board of county commissioners, file with the state board of assessment a notice of such appeal and attach thereto a copy of the statement of the grounds of appeal filed with the clerk to the board of county commissioners. Each taxpayer or ownership interest shall file separate and distinct appeals; no joint appeals shall be considered except by and with consent of the state board of assessment.

The state board of assessment shall fix a time for the hearing of such appeal, and shall hear the same in the city of Raleigh, or such other place within the state as the said board may designate; shall give notice of time and place of such hearing to the appellant, appellee, and to the clerk to the board of county commissioners at least ten days prior to the said hearing; shall hear all the evidence or affidavits offered by the appellant, appellee, and the board of county commissioners, shall reduce, increase, or confirm the valuation fixed by the board of equalization and review and enter it accordingly, and shall deliver to the clerk of the board of county commissioners a certified copy of such order, which valuation shall be entered upon the fixed and permanent tax records and shall constitute the valuation for taxation. (1939, c. 310, s. 1107.)

§ 105-330. Valuation Final and Conclusive.—This section contemplates that valuation fixed by the state board shall be final and conclusive where no error of law or abuse of discretion is alleged. Belk's Department Store v. Guilford County, 222 N. C. 441, 448, 23 S. E. (2d) 897.

§ 105-330. Powers of the commissioners with respect to the records after adjournment of the board of equalization.—After the board of equalization has finished its work and the changes effected by it have been given effect on the tax records, the board of county commissioners may not authorize any changes to be made on said records except as follows:

1. To give effect to the decision of the state board of assessment on appeal.
2. To add to the records any valuation certified by the state board of assessment with respect to property assessed in the first instance by said state board, or to give effect to any valid corrections made in such assessments by the state board.
3. To correct the name of any taxpayer appearing on said records erroneously, or to substitute the name of the person who should have listed property for the name appearing on the records as listing said property, or to correct descriptions on said records, and any such corrections or substitutions shall have the same force and effect as if the name of the taxpayer or the description had been correctly listed in the first instance.
4. To correct valuations or taxes appearing erroneously on the records as the result of clerical errors.
§ 105-331. Discovery and assessment of property not listed during the regular listing period.

—(1) Duty of Commissioners, Supervisors and List Takers; Carrying Forward Real Estate.—It shall be the duty of the members of the board of commissioners, the supervisor and the list takers to be constantly looking out for property and polls which have not been listed for taxation. After any tax list or abstract has been delivered to a list taker, the supervisor or the board of county commissioners, and such list taker, supervisor or board of county commissioners shall have reason to believe or sufficient evidence upon which to form a belief that the person, firm or corporation making such list or abstract, in person or by agent, has other personal property, tangible or intangible, money, solvent credits, or other thing liable for taxation, they or either of them shall take such action as may be needful to get such property on the tax list.

Either the list takers for the respective townships, the clerical assistants to the supervisor or the supervisor, as the supervisor may designate, shall examine the tax lists for the current year and the tax records for the preceding year, and carry forward all real property which was listed for the preceding year which has not been listed for taxation. In the discretion of the supervisor, such property may be listed on an abstract signed by the official or employee carrying it forward in the name of the taxpayer, or may be entered directly on the tax scroll or tax book by such official or employee. When such property is so listed in the name of the taxpayer, or may be entered directly on the tax scroll or tax book by such official or employee. When such property is so listed in the name of the owner or in the name of the person last listing the same, the listing shall be as valid in every respect as if made by the owner; provided, that such listing shall not render any person individually liable to pay the taxes who is not under a duty to list such property.

(2) Procedure upon Discovery.—When property or polls are discovered they shall be listed in the name of the taxpayer by the supervisor or some person designated by him. The clerk to the board of commissioners, or the supervisor shall mail a notice to the taxpayer at his last known address.
§ 105-332
(CH. 105. TAXATION—ASSESSMENT)
§ 105-333
be ten per cent (10%) of the tax levied for the current year on such property or poll. Where such property or poll is taxed for years preceding the current year, the penalty, in addition to that for the current year, shall be ten per cent (10%) per annum. The minimum penalty shall be one dollar ($1.00). Taxes assessed for years preceding the current year shall be assessed at the rate of tax prevailing in the various preceding years.

The taxes and penalties for each year shall be shown separately on the records, but for the purpose of tax collection and foreclosure the total of all such taxes and penalties shall be regarded as taxes for the current year; and the schedule of discounts and penalties for payment or nonpayment of current taxes shall apply to such taxes and penalties for failure to list, despite the fact that such taxes and penalties for failure to list may not have been levied until the penalties for failure to pay have already accrued.

(4) Commissioners' Power to Compromise.—The board of county commissioners or the governing body of any municipal corporation is hereby authorized and empowered to settle or adjust all claims for taxation arising under this section or any other section authorizing them to place on the tax list any property omitted therefrom.

(5) Application to Cities and Towns.—The provisions of this section shall extend to all cities, towns and other municipal corporations having power to tax property or polls, and the power conferred and the duties imposed upon the board of county commissioners shall be exercised and performed by the governing body of the municipal corporation.

(6) Power to Employ Searchers.—The county commissioners, either separately or in conjunction with one or more municipal corporations in the county, may employ one or more competent men to make a diligent search and to discover and report to the board or the supervisor any unlisted property within the county, to the end that the same may be listed and assessed for taxation as provided in this section: Provided, nothing herein shall be construed as allowing a board of commissioners to appoint a tax collector unless it is otherwise authorized to do so by law.

(7) Tax Receipts.—Tax receipts for the taxes and penalties assessed against the property discovered shall be made up under the provisions of this subchapter, shall be delivered to the sheriff or tax collector, who shall be charged with the same, and shall have the same force and effect and shall be a lien on the property in the same manner as if they had been delivered to the sheriff or tax collector at the time of the delivery of the regular tax bills for the current year.

(8) Appeals.—Appeals may be had from the assessment fixed by the board of equalization or commissioners to the state board of assessment. Notice of said appeal must be served upon the clerk to the board of commissioners within sixty days after the assessment is fixed, and said appeal shall be in conformity with the provisions of this subchapter respecting appeals from boards of equalization. Each taxpayer or ownership interest shall file separate and distinct appeals; no joint appeals shall be considered except by and with consent of the state board of assessment.

(9) Classified Property.—Any property, discovered and listed under the provisions of this section, entitled to classification under the provisions of this subchapter, shall be classified and assessed in accordance with said provisions. (1939, c. 310, s. 1100.)

Editor's Note.—The cases in the following note construe the somewhat similar provisions of former § 7971(50), now repealed.

Discovery and Listing of Omitted Property.—This section provides for discovery of taxable property not listed, by certain tax authorities, and listing same. Hardware Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Stinson, 210 N. C. 69, 77, 185 S. E. 449. Where the plaintiff citizen paid taxes on property of his ward, and thereafter, in accordance with a ruling that the property was nontaxable, obtained a refund of the tax and did not list the property again, and the property of the ward was not exempt from taxation, it was held that the prior ruling of the county commissioners to the effect that the property was nontaxable does not prevent them from listing the property for taxation for the prior five years, including the year for which the tax was refunded. Lawrence v. Shaw, 210 N. C. 352, 186 S. E. 504.

Compromise Settlement Is Binding Unless Made in Bad Faith.—In the absence of a finding that the board of commissioners acted in bad faith in making a compromise settlement of a tax, or abused its discretion in so doing, mandamus to compel the commissioners to list and assess will be denied. Stone v. Board of Com'rs, 210 N. C. 226, 186 S. E. 342.

Construed as Whole.—The court in Madison County v. Cox, 204 N. C. 55, 167 S. E. 485, construing Public Laws, 1927, c. 71, § 73, (superseded by this section) declared that the section must be construed as a whole, not piecemeal.

Rebuttal of Presumption.—The presumption created by statute, that the person who was in possession of the personal property involved in this controversy was the owner and in possession of said property on 1 April of the five preceding years, is rebutted by the facts of this case. Coltine v. Donnell, 201 N. C. 515, 516, 166 S. E. 397.

Art. 22. Assessment Procedure of Cities and Towns.

§ 105-332. Status of property and polls listed for taxation.—All property and polls validly listed for taxation in any county, municipal corporation or taxing district shall be subject to dog taxes, the provisions of §§ 105-323 to 105-331, including the year for which the tax was refunded. (1939, c. 310, s. 1120.)

§ 105-333. Tax lists and assessment powers of cities and towns.—All cities and towns may obtain their tax lists from the county records, or have their tax lists signed by the taxpayers, or may set up their own machinery for securing lists from the taxpayers, in the discretion of the governing body.

All cities and towns not situated in more than one county shall accept the valuations fixed by the county authorities, as modified by the state board of assessment, under the provisions of this subchapter: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to modify the authority given to cities and towns under this subchapter with respect to discovered property.

With the exception of the provisions relating to dog taxes, the provisions of §§ 105-323 to 105-331 shall apply to cities and towns and city and town governing bodies shall have the same powers conferred and the duties imposed by said sections upon the board of county commissioners, and wherever counties are referred to in said sec-
§ 105-334. Cities and towns situated in more than one county.—For the purpose of municipal taxation, all real and personal property and polls subject to taxation by cities and towns situated in two or more counties shall be listed and assessed as hereinafter set forth.

1. The governing body of each such city or town shall, in quadrennial years, on or before the date fixed for the appointment of the county supervisor, appoint a city supervisor of taxation, and two or more persons to act as list takers and assessors, each of whom, including the supervisor, shall have been resident freeholders in such city or town for a period of not less than twelve months. In years other than quadrennial years such governing body shall, on or before the date fixed for appointment of the county supervisor, appoint one resident freeholder as city supervisor of taxation and, in its discretion, one or more persons to act as list takers and assessors, each of whom shall have been a resident of such city or town for at least twelve months.

2. With respect to property to be listed for taxation in the city or town the city supervisor shall have the same powers and duties given to the county supervisor under the terms of this subchapter; and the city list takers and assessors shall have the same powers and duties given to county list takers and assessors under the terms of this subchapter; and the procedure of listing and assessing shall be, as nearly as possible, the same as that specified for county listing and assessing under the terms of this subchapter.

3. The governing body of each such city or town may designate some officer or employee of the city or appoint some other person to supervise the preparation of the tax records and receipts, and to make such reports as the state board of assessment may request or require, and may authorize such clerical assistance in this connection as it may deem advisable.

Such governing body shall also be vested with the same powers and duties, with respect to the listing of property for city taxation, as are vested by this subchapter in the county commissioners with respect to the listing of property for county taxation, and shall, with the city supervisor as chairman, sit as a board of equalization and review; and appeals may be taken from said city board of equalization to the state board of assessment in the same manner as provided in this subchapter for appeals from the county boards of equalization.

4. The intent and purpose of this section is to provide such cities and towns as lie in two or more counties only with the machinery necessary for listing and assessing taxes for municipal purposes. The powers to be exercised by and the duties imposed on such boards of aldermen, boards of commissioners or other governing bodies, boards of equalization and review, city supervisor of taxation, list takers and assessors, city clerk and taxpayers shall be the same, and they shall be subjected to the same penalties as provided in this subchapter for all boards of county commissioners, county auditors, registrars of deeds, clerks of boards of county commissioners, county supervisors, list takers and assessors. The county commissioners in their discretion may adopt the tax lists, scroll, or assessment roll of such city or town as fixed and determined by the board of equalization and review of such cities or towns, and when so adopted, shall be considered to all intent and purpose the correct and valid list and the fixed and determined assessment roll for the purpose of county taxation.

5. All expenses incident to the listing and assessing of the property for the purpose of municipal taxation as aforesaid shall be borne by the city or town for whose benefit the same is levied; provided, that where the county or counties in which such city or town lies shall adopt the list and the fixed, determined assessment of the city board of equalization and review, the county board of commissioners may reimburse the governing body in such amounts as in their discretion may be proper. (1939, c. 310, s. 1202.)

Art. 23. Reports to the State Board of Assessment and Local Government Commission.

§ 105-335. Report of valuation and taxes.—The clerk of the board of county commissioners, auditor, tax supervisor, tax clerk, county accountant or other officer performing such duties shall, at such time as the board may prescribe, return to the state board of assessment on forms prescribed by said board an abstract of the real and personal property of the county by townships, showing the number of acres of land and their value, the number of town lots and their value, the value of the several classes of live stock, the number of white and negro polls, separately, and specify every other subject of taxation and the amount of county tax payable on each subject and the amount payable on the whole. At the same time said clerk, auditor, supervisor or other officer shall return to the state board of assessment an abstract or list of the poll, county and school taxes payable in the county, setting forth separately the tax levied on each poll and on each hundred dollars value of real and personal property for each purpose, and also the gross amount of every kind levied for county purposes, and such other and further information as the state board of assessment may require. (1939, c. 310, s. 1300.)

§ 105-336. Clerks of cities and towns to furnish information.—The clerk or auditor of each city and town in this state shall annually make and transmit to the state board of assessment, on blanks furnished by said board, a full, correct, and accurate statement showing the assessed valuation of all property, tangible and intangible, within his city or town, and separately the amount of all taxes levied therein by said city or town, including school district, highway, street, sidewalk, and other similar improvement taxes for the current year, and the purposes for which the same were levied; and shall annually furnish to the local government commission a complete and detailed statement of the bonded and other indebtedness of the city or town, the accrued interest on the same, whether not due or due and unpaid, and the purposes for which said indebtedness was incurred. (1939, c. 310, s. 1301.)

§ 105-337. County indebtedness to be reported.—The auditor or county accountant of each county in this state shall make and deliver annually to the local government commission a full, correct and accurate statement of the bonded and other indebtedness of his county, including township, school districts, and special tax districts, the purposes for which the same was incurred, and all accrued interest, whether not due or due and unpaid. (1939, c. 310, s. 1302.)

§ 105-338. Penalty for failure to make report. Every register of deeds, auditor, county accountant, supervisor of taxation, assessor, sheriff, clerk of superior court, clerk of board of county commissioners, county commissioners, board of Aldermen or other governing body of a city or town, mayor, clerk of city or town, or any other public officer, who shall willfully fail, refuse, or neglect to perform any duty required, to furnish any report to the state board of assessment or local government commission as prescribed in this subchapter or the revenue act, shall be prima facie evidence that such delay was wilful. (1939, c. 310, s. 1303.)

§ 105-339. Levy of taxes. The levy by the state, counties, cities, towns and special districts shall, not later than Wednesday after the third Monday in August, levy such rate of tax for the general county purposes as may be necessary to meet the general expenditure of the county, not exceeding that authorized by the Constitution of North Carolina: Provided, however, that with respect to veterans of the line of duty in the military service, or poll tax in this State, and who received injury in the line of duty in the armed forces of the United States and any foreign nation continues which has not been paid, shall be cancelled and restore such person relieved of such liability to pay the poll taxes so levied and collected may be used for any purpose permitted by law. (1939, c. 310, s. 1400.)

§ 105-340. Date as of which lien attaches. The lien of taxes levied on property and polls listed pursuant to this subchapter shall attach to real estate as of the day as of which property is listed, regardless of the time at which liability for the tax may arise or the exact amount thereof is determined.

All penalties, interest and costs allowed by law shall automatically be added to the amount of such lien and shall be regarded as attaching at the same time as the lien for the principle amount of the taxes. Said lien shall attach to all real property of the taxpayer in the taxing unit.

Taxes, interest, penalties and cost shall be a lien on personal property from and after levy on or attachment and garnishment of such property. (1939, c. 310, s. 1401.)

Editor's Note.—A modification of the law to meet an unacceptable interpretation of the former statute is found in this section which fixes a lien as of the date the property is listed. Under the old law no lien attached until July first and a transfer between April first and July first seemed to shed the burden of taxes entirely under the decision of the court in State v. Champion Fibre Co., 204 N. C. 295, 168 S. E. 207. No reason appears why a lien cannot be effective to cover obligations yet to be ascertained and it is believed the new section cures a glaring defect in our tax law. N. C. Law Rev. 391.

§ 105-341. Levy of poll tax.—(1) There shall be levied by the board of county commissioners in each county a tax of two dollars ($2.00) on each taxable poll or male person between the ages of twenty-one and fifty years, and the taxes levied and collected under this section shall be for the benefit of the public school fund and the poor of the county.

(2) The board of county commissioners of every county shall have the power to exempt any person from the payment of poll taxes on account of indigency, and when any such person has been once exempted he shall not be required to renew his application unless the commissioners shall revoke the exemption. When such exemption shall have been made, the clerk of the board of commission of the county shall furnish the person with a certificate of such exemption, and the person to whom it is issued shall be required to list his poll, but upon exhibition of such certificate the list taker shall annually enter in the column intended for the poll the word "exempt," and the poll shall not be charged in computing the list.

(3) Cities and towns may levy a poll tax not exceeding that authorized by the constitution, and poll taxes so levied and collected may be used for any purpose permitted by law.

(4) While the existing state of war between the United States and any foreign nation continues and for the next tax listing period thereafter, members of the armed forces of the United States and members of the United States merchant marine shall be exempt from all poll taxes and no county or city shall levy any poll tax on such persons, and poll tax which such person was required to list prior to induction into the armed forces of the United States or joining the merchant marine which has not been paid, shall be cancelled and such person relieved of such liability to pay the same. (1939, c. 310, s. 1402; 1943, c. 3.)

§ 105-342. What veterans exempt from poll tax; world war veterans. Any honorably discharged veteran of any of the wars of the United States, now a resident of, and subject to capitation or poll tax in this State, and who received injuries in the line of duty in the military service, whether compensable or not, and all such honorably discharged veterans that have been, or are now, receiving compensation from the Federal Government for disability of service connected origin, shall be conclusively considered and presumed to have physical infirmities sufficient to warrant exemption from the payment of the capitation or poll tax under Article five, section one, of the Constitution of North Carolina: Provided, however, that with respect to veterans of the World War, this section and § 105-343 shall apply only to those who served not less than ninety days during the period between April sixth, one thousand nine hundred seventeen, and November eleventh, one thousand nine hundred eigh-
§ 105-343. Proof of service and injury must be furnished; exemption by county commissioners.—The veteran or soldier claiming exemption under § 105-342 shall furnish proof of such service and injury by producing to the board of commissioners of his county his or her discharge or release or certificate of such service or injury, signed by a recognized official of the United States War Department or the Adjutant General's office of this State, and said discharge, release or certificate shall be recorded with the register of deeds of such county prior to tax listing date in the year in which exemption is claimed under §§ 105-342 and 105-343. It shall be the duty of the register of deeds at or before tax listing time in each county, to notify the board of county commissioners of the registration with him of such discharge, release or certificate and thereupon, upon application of the veteran, said board of county commissioners may take the action authorized by §§ 105-342 and 105-343. (1931, c. 193, s. 2.)

§ 105-344. Exemption of pensions or compensations from taxation.—Every person receiving a pension or compensation from the state, or United States, or any foreign country or government, for and on account of wounds or physical disabilities contracted or sustained during the late war between the United States and Germany, and any of the allied countries cooperating with the United States, shall not be required to pay any tax of any kind upon such pension or compensation, but the same shall be exempted from any and all taxes. This section shall apply to all such taxes for the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, and thereafter. (1923, c. 259; C. S. 5168(aa).)

§ 105-345. Penalties and discounts for non-payment of taxes.—All taxes assessed or levied by any county, city, town, special district or other political subdivision of this state, in accordance with the provisions of this subchapter, shall be due and payable on the first Monday of October of the year in which they are so assessed or levied, and if actually paid in cash:

(1) On or before the first day of November next after due and payable, there shall be deducted a discount of one-half of one per cent (½ of 1%).

(2) After the first day of November and on or before the first day of December next after due and payable, the tax shall be paid at par or face value.

(3) After the first day of January and on or before the first day of March next after due and payable, there shall be added to the tax a penalty of one per cent (1%).

(4) After the first day of March and on or before the first day of April next after due and payable, there shall be added to the tax a penalty of two per cent (2%).

(5) On and after the second day of April the penalty shall be, in addition to said two per cent (2%), one-half of one per cent per month or fraction thereof until paid from said day on the principal amount of such taxes, which shall continue to accrue on taxes not included in a certificate of sale and which, on taxes included in a certificate of sale, shall continue to accrue until the date of such certificate.

(6) Should any taxpayer desire to make a pre-payment of his taxes between July first and October first of any year, he may do so by making payment to the county or city accountant, city clerk, auditor or treasurer, as the governing body may determine, and shall be entitled to the following discounts: If paid on or before July first, a deduction of two per cent (2%); if paid during the month of July, a deduction of one and one-half per cent (1½%); if paid during the month of August, a deduction of one per cent (1%); if paid during the month of September, a deduction of one per cent (1%). (1939, c. 310, s. 1403; 1943, c. 667.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1943 amendment added at the end of subsection (6) the words “if paid during the month of September, a deduction of one per cent (1%).”

Discrimination between Different Counties.—A statute which discriminates between the different counties of the state, as to the time when payment of taxes can be compelled, is not unconstitutional, since its provisions affect every one alike in the localities, to which they are applicable and contain no violation of the principle of equality of taxation. State v. Jones, 121 N. C. 616, 28 S. E. 347.

Art. 25. Banks, Banking Associations, Trust Companies and Building and Loan Associations.

§ 105-346. Banks, banking associations and trust companies.—The value of shares of stock of banks, banking associations, and trust companies shall be determined as follows:

(1) Every bank, banking association, industrial bank, savings institution, trust company, or joint-stock land bank located in this state shall list its real estate and tangible personal property, except money on hand, in the county in which such real estate and tangible personal property is located for the purpose of county and municipal taxation, and shall, during the second calendar month following the month in which local tax listing begins, list with the state board of assessment, on forms provided by the said state board, in the name of and for its shareholders, all the shares of its capital stock, whether held by residents or nonresidents, at its actual value on the day as of which property is assessed under this subchapter.

(2) The actual value of such shares for the purpose of this section shall be ascertained by adding together the capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits, and deducting therefrom the assessed value of such real and tangible personal property which such banking institutions shall have listed for taxation in the county or counties of this state wherein such real and tangible personal property is located, together with an amount according to its proportion of tax value of any buildings and lands wholly or partially occupied by such banking associations, institutions
§ 105-347. Building and loan associations.—(1) The secretary of each building and loan association organized and/or doing business in this state shall list with the local assessors all the tangible real and personal property owned on the day as of which property is assessed each year, which shall be assessed and taxed as like property of similar kind.

(2) All foreign building and loan associations doing business in this state shall list for taxation, during the second calendar month following the month in which local tax listing begins each year, with the state board of assessment, through the manner herein described, shall be certified to the county and municipality in which such bank or institution is located. Provided, that if any such banking association, institution, or trust company shall have one or more branches, the state board of assessment shall make an allocation of the value of the capital stock so found as between the parent and branch bank, banks, or trust company, and certify the allocated values so found to the counties and municipalities in which the parent and the branch bank, banks, or trust company are located.

(6) The taxes assessed upon the shares of stock of any such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies shall be paid by the cashier, secretary, treasurer, or other officer or officers thereof, and in the same manner and at the same time as other taxes are required to be paid in such counties, and in default thereof such cashier, secretary, treasurer, or other accounting officer, as well as such banking association, institution, or trust company, shall be liable for such taxes, and in addition thereto for a sum equal to ten per cent (10%) thereof. Any taxes so paid upon any such shares may, with the interest thereon, be recovered from the owners thereof by the banking association, institution, or trust company, or by officers thereof paying them, or may be deducted from the dividends accruing on such shares.

The taxation of such shares of capital stock shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of this state coming in competition with the business of such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies.

(3) In addition to the deductions allowed in item two of this section, there may be deducted from the items of surplus and undivided profits an amount not exceeding five per cent (5%) of the bills and notes receivable of such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies to cover bad or insolvent debts, investments in North Carolina state bonds, United States government bonds, joint-stock land bank bonds, and federal land bank bonds, at the actual cost of said bonds owned on and continuously for at least ninety days prior to the day as of which property is assessed in the current year. The value of such shares of capital stock of such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies shall be found by dividing the net amount ascertained above by the number of shares in the said banking associations, institutions, or trust companies.

(4) If the state board of assessment shall have reason to believe that the actual value of such shares of stock of such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies, as listed with it, is not the true value in money, then the said board shall ascertain such true value by such an examination and investigation as seems proper, and increase or reduce the value as so listed to such an amount as it ascertains to be the true value for the purposes of this section.

(5) The value of the capital stock of all such banking associations, institutions, and trust companies as found by the board of state assessment, in the manner herein described, shall be certified to the county and municipality in which such bank or institution is located. Provided, that if any such banking association, institution, or trust company shall have one or more branches, the state board of assessment shall make an allocation of the value of the capital stock so found as between the parent and branch bank, banks, or trust company in proportion to the deposits of the parent and branch bank, banks, or trust company, and certify the allocated values so found to the counties and municipalities in which the parent and the branch bank, banks, or trust company are located.

(6) The taxes assessed upon the shares of stock of any such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies shall be paid by the cashier, secretary, treasurer, or other officer or officers thereof, and in the same manner and at the same time as other taxes are required to be paid in such counties, and in default thereof such cashier, secretary, treasurer, or other accounting officer, as well as such banking association, institution, or trust company, shall be liable for such taxes, and in addition thereto for a sum equal to ten per cent (10%) thereof. Any taxes so paid upon any such shares may, with the interest thereon, be recovered from the owners thereof by the banking association, institution, or trust company, or by officers thereof paying them, or may be deducted from the dividends accruing on such shares.

The taxation of such shares of capital stock shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands

their respective agents, its stock held by citizens of this state, with the name of the county, city, or town in which the owners of said stock reside. In listing said stock for taxation the withdrawal value as fixed by the by-laws of each such association shall be furnished to the said board, and the stock shall be valued for taxation at such withdrawal value.

Any association or officer of such association doing business in the state who shall fail, refuse or neglect to so list shares owned by citizens of this state for taxation shall be barred from doing business in this state; any local officer or other person who shall collect dues, assessments, premiums, fines, or interest from any citizen of this state for any such association which has failed, neglected, or refused to so list for taxation the stock held by citizens of this state shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined and/or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

The value of the shares of stock so held by citizens of this state, as found by the state board of assessment, shall be certified to the register of deeds of the county in which such shareholders reside, shall be placed on the assessment roll in the name of such holders thereof, and taxed as other property is taxed. (1939, c. 310, s. 1501.)

Capital Stock as Property.—The capital stock of a building and loan association is property and hence is taxable according to the uniform ad valorem system established by the constitution. Loan Ass’n v. Commissioners, 115 N. C. 410, 20 S. E. 526.

§ 105-348. Article not to conflict with sections 105-198 to 105-217.—None of the provisions contained in any of the sections of this article shall be construed to conflict with Schedule H, §§ 105-198 to 105-217, but rather shall they be subordinate thereto. (1939, c. 310, s. 1502.)

§ 105-349. State board to keep record of all corporations, etc.; secrecy enjoined.—The state board of assessment shall prepare and keep a record book in which it shall enter a correct list of all the corporations, limited partnerships, joint-stock associations, banks, banking associations, industrial banks, savings institutions, and trust companies which it has assessed for taxation, and said record shall show the assessed valuation placed upon them; and the state board of assessment shall not divulge or make public any report of such corporation, partnership, or association required to be made to it, except as provided in this subchapter or the Revenue Act. (1939, c. 310, s. 1503.)

§ 105-350. Telegraph companies.—Every joint-stock association, company, copartnership or corporation, whether incorporated under the laws of this state or any other state or any foreign nation, engaged in transmitting to, from, through, in, or across the state of North Carolina telegraph messages shall be deemed and held to be a telegraph company; and every such telegraph company shall, during the second calendar month following the month in which local tax listing begins each year, make out and deliver to the state board of assessment a statement, verified by oath of the officer or agent of such company making such statement, with reference to the day as of which property is assessed next preceding, showing:

First. The total capital stock of such association, company, copartnership, or corporation.

Second. The number of shares of capital stock issued and outstanding, and the par or face value of each share.

Third. Its principal place of business.

Fourth. The market value of said shares of stock on the day as of which property is assessed next preceding; and if such shares have no market value, then the actual value thereof.

§ 105-351. Telephone companies.—Every telephone company doing business in this state, whether incorporated under the laws of this state or any other state, or of any foreign nation, shall, during the second calendar month following the month in which local tax listing begins each year, make out and deliver to the state board of assessment of this state a statement, verified by the oath of the officer or agent of such company making such statement, with reference to the day as of which property is assessed next preceding, showing:

First. The total capital stock of such association, company, copartnership, or corporation involved in the operation of such telephone business.

Second. The number of shares of capital stock issued and outstanding, and the par or face value of each share.

Third. Its principal place of business.

Fourth. The market value of said shares of stock on the day as of which property is assessed next preceding; and if such shares have no market value, then the actual value thereof.
§ 105-352. § 105-354. Refrigerator and freight-car companies.—Every person, firm, or corporation owning refrigerator or freight cars operated over or leased to any railroad company in this state or operated in the state shall be taxed in the same manner as hereinafore provided for the taxing of sleeping-car companies, and the collection of the tax thereon shall be followed in assessing and collecting the tax on the refrigerator and freight cars taxed under this section. Provided, if it appears that the owner does not lease the cars to any railroad company, or make any contract to furnish it with cars, but they are furnished to be run indiscriminately over any lines on which shipper or railroad companies may desire to send them, and the owner receives compensation from each road over which the car runs, the state board of assessment shall ascertain and assess the average number of cars which are in use within the state as a part of the necessary equipment of any railroad company for the year ending with the day as of which property is assessed, next preceding the report, and the tax shall be computed upon this assessment. In making distribution of any taxable valuation by virtue of the provisions of this section, the state board of assessment shall give primary consideration to the county or counties in which the taxpayer has the greater car mileage. Seventh. All mortgages upon the whole or any part of its property, together with the dates and amounts thereof.

Eighth. (a) The total length of the lines of said association or company; (b) the total length of so much of their lines as is outside of the state of North Carolina; (c) the length of lines within each of the counties, municipalities and townships within the state of North Carolina.

Ninth. Such other and further information as the state board of assessment may require. (1939, c. 310, s. 1605.)

§ 105-356. State board of assessment may require additional information.—Upon the filing of the statements required in the preceding sections the state board of assessment shall examine the same and, if the board shall deem the same insufficient, or in case it shall deem that other information is requisite, it shall require such officer to make such other and further statements as said board may call for. In case of the failure or refusal of any bank, association, company, copartnership, or corporation to make out and deliver to the state board of assessment any statement or statements required by this subchapter, such bank, association, company, copartnership, or corporation shall forfeit and pay to the state of North Carolina one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each additional day such report is delayed beyond the last day of the month in which required to be made, to be sued for and recovered in any proper form of action in the name of the state of North Carolina on the relation of the state board of assessment, and such penalty, when collected, shall be paid into the general fund of the state. (1939, c. 310, s. 1606.)

§ 105-357. State board of assessment shall examine statements.—The state board of assessment shall thereupon value and assess the property of each association, company, copartnership, or corporation in the manner hereinafter set forth, after examining such statements and after ascertaining the value of such properties therefrom and upon such other information as the board may have or obtain. For that purpose it may require the agents or officers of said association, company, copartnership, or corporation to appear before it with such books, papers, and statements as it may require, or may require additional statements to be made, and may compel the attendance of witnesses in case the board shall deem it necessary to enable it to ascertain the true cash value of such property. (1939, c. 310, s. 1607.)

§ 105-358. Manner of assessment.—Said state board of assessment shall first ascertain the true cash value of the entire property owned by the said association, company, copartnership, or corporation from said statement or otherwise for the purpose, taking the aggregate value of all the shares of capital stock, in case shares have a market value, and in case they have none, taking the actual value thereof or of the capital of said association, company, copartnership, or corporation in whatever manner the same is divided, in case no shares of capital stock have been issued: Provided, however, that in case the whole or any portion of the property of such association, company, copartnership, or corporation shall be encumbered by a mortgage or mortgages, such board shall ascertain the true cash value of such property by adding to the market value of the aggregate shares of stock, or to the value of the capital in case there should be no such shares, the aggregate amount of such mortgages or mortgages, and the result shall be deemed and treated as the true cash value of the property of such association, company, copartnership, or corporation. Such state board of assessment shall, for the purpose of ascertaining the true cash value of property within the state of North Carolina, next ascertain from such statements or otherwise the assessed value for taxation, in the localities where the same is situated, of the several pieces of real estate situated within and without the state of North Carolina and not in any manner used in the general business of such associations, companies, copartnerships or corporations, which assessed value for taxation shall be by said board deducted from the gross value of the property as above ascertained. Said state board of assessment shall next ascertain and assess the true cash value of the property, including intangible personal property, of the associations, companies, copartnerships, or corporations within the state of North Carolina by taking as a guide, as far as practicable, the proportion of the whole aggregate value of said associations, companies, copartnerships as above ascertained, after deducting the assessed value of such real estate without the state which the length of lines of said associations, companies, copartnerships or corporations, in the case of telegraph and telephone companies, within the state of North Carolina bears to the total length thereof, and in the case of express companies and sleeping-car companies the proportion shall be in proportion of the whole aggregate value after such deduction, which the length of lines or routes within the state of North Carolina bears to the whole length of lines or routes of such associations, companies, copartnerships or corporations, and such amounts so ascertained shall be deemed and held as the entire value of the property of said associations, companies, copartnerships or corporations within the state of North Carolina: Provided, the board shall, in valuing the fixed property in this state, give due consideration to the amount of gross and net earnings per mile of line in this state, and any other factor which would give a greater or less value per mile in this state than the average value for the entire system. From the entire value of the property within the state so ascertained there shall be deducted by the state board of assessment the assessed value for taxation of all real estate, structures, machinery, and appliances within the state listed with the local taxing authorities of this state if used in the general business of the taxpayer and subject to local taxation in the § 105-359. Value per mile.—Said state board of assessment shall thereupon ascertain the value per mile of the property within the state by dividing the total value as above ascertained, after deducting the specific properties locally assessed within the state, by the number of miles within the state, and the result thereof shall be deemed and held as value per mile of the property of such association, company, copartnership, or corporation within the state of North Carolina: Provided, the value per mile of telephone and telegraph companies shall be determined on a wire mileage basis. (1939, c. 310, s. 1609.)

§ 105-360. Total value for each county and municipality.—Said board of assessment shall thereupon, for the purpose of determining what amount shall be assessed by it to said association, company, copartnership, or corporation in each county in the state through, across, and into or over which the lines of said association, company, copartnership or corporation extend, multiply the value per miles, as above ascertained, by the number of miles in each of such counties as reported in said statements or as otherwise ascertained, and the result thereof shall be by the secretary of said state board certified to the chairman of the board of county commissioners, respectively, of the several counties through, into, over, or across which the lines or routes of said association, company, copartnership or corporation extend: Provided, the total value of street railways, electric light, power and gas companies, as determined in § 105-358 to be certified to each county, shall be the proportion which the locally assessed value of the physical property in each county bears to the total assessed value of the physical property in the state. Distribution and certification by the state board of assessment to the municipalities and other local taxing jurisdictions shall follow the same general rules governing such distribution to the several counties of the state with respect to value per mile and total value as herein set out. All taxes due the state from any corporation taxed under the preceding sections shall be paid by the treasurer of each company direct to the commissioner of revenue. (1939, c. 510, s. 1610.)

§ 105-361. Companies failing to pay tax; penalty.—In case any such association, company, copartnership, or corporation as named in this subchapter shall fail or refuse to pay any taxes assessed against it in any county, municipality or other taxing jurisdiction in this state, in addition to other remedies provided by law for the collection of taxes, an action may be prosecuted in the name of the state of North Carolina by the solicitors of the different judicial districts of the state in the relation of the board of commissioners of the different counties of this state and the judgment in said action shall include a penalty of (50%) of the amount of taxes as assessed and unpaid, together with reasonable attorney’s fees for the prosecution of such action, which action may be prosecuted in any county into, through, over or across which the lines or routes of any association, company, copartnership, or corporation shall extend, or in any county where such association, company, copartnership, or corporation shall have an office or agent for the transaction of business. In case such association, company, copartnership, or corporation shall have refused to pay the whole of the taxes assessed against the same by the state board of assessment, or in case such association, company, copartnership, or corporation shall have refused to pay the taxes or any portion thereof as assessed to it in any particular county or counties, such action may include the whole or any portion of the taxes so unpaid in any county or counties; but the attorney general may, at his option, unite in one action the entire amount of the tax due, or may bring separate actions to each separate county or adjoining counties, as he may prefer. All collections of taxes for or on account of any particular county made in any such suit or suits shall be by said board accounted for as a credit to the respective counties for or on account of which such collections were made by the said board at the next ensuing settlement with such county, but the penalty so collected shall be credited to the general fund of the state, and upon such settlement being made the treasurers of the several counties shall, at their next settlement, enter credits upon the proper duplicates in their offices, and at the next settlement with such county, report the amount so received by him in his settlement with the state, and proper entries shall be made with reference thereto: Provided, that in any such action the amount of the assessments fixed by said state board of assessment and apportioned to such county shall not be controverted. (1939, c. 310, s. 1611.)

§ 105-362. State board made appraisers for public utilities. — The state board of assessment herein established is constituted a board of appraisers and assessors for railroad, canal, steamboat, hydroelectric, street railway, and all other companies exercising the right of eminent domain. (1939, c. 310, s. 1612.)

§ 105-363. Returns to state board by railroads, etc., companies.—The president, secretary, superintendent or other principal accounting officer within this state of every railroad, telegraph, telephone, street railway company, whether incorporated by the laws of this state or not, shall, during the second calendar month following the month in which local tax listing begins each year, return to the state board of assessment, verified by the oath or affirmations of the officer making the return, all the following described property belonging to such corporation within the state, viz:
The number of miles of such railroad lines in each county and municipality in this state, and the total number of miles in the state, including the roadbed, right-of-way and super structures thereon, main and side tracks, depot buildings and depot grounds, section and tool houses and the land upon which they are situated, or by reasonable interpretation of the corporate use, water stations and land, coal chutes and land, and real estate and personal property of every character necessary for the construction and successful operation of such railroad, or used in the daily operation, whether situated on the charter right-of-way of the railroad or on additional land acquired for this purpose, except as provided below, including also, if desired by the state board of assessment, Pullman or sleeping cars or refrigerator cars owned by them or operated over their lines: Provided, however, that all machines and repair shops, general office buildings, storehouses and contents thereof, located outside of the right-of-way shall be listed for purposes of taxation by the principal officers or agents of such companies with the list takers of the county where the real and personal property may be situated, in the manner provided by law for the listing and valuation of real and personal property. A list of such property shall be filed by such company with the state board of assessment. It shall be the duty of the tax supervisor, county accountant and register of deeds, if requested so to do by the state board of assessment, to certify and send to the said board a statement giving a description of the property mentioned in the foregoing proviso, and showing the value of the tangible property, if any, of which shall be deducted from the total value of the property of such railroad company as arrived at by the board in accordance with § 105-365, before the apportionment is made to the counties and municipalities. The tax supervisor, county accountant and register of deeds shall also certify to the board the local rate of taxation for county purposes as soon as the same shall be determined, and such other information obtained in the performance of the duties of their offices as the said board shall require of them; and the mayor of each city or town shall cause to be sent to the said board the local rate of taxation for municipal purposes.

Section Constitutional.—This section is not in conflict with N. C. Const., Art. V, sec. 3, providing that such assessment be uniform and ad valorem. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. New Bern, 147 N. C. 165, 60 S. E. 925.

Taxation of Accessories, etc.—The railroad, right of way and superstructures thereon, main and side tracks, depot buildings and depot grounds, etc., by reasonable interpretation and under constitutional powers, are included in the taxable estate, and are subject to taxation, to the Corpora- tion the power to assess railroad properties, as evidenced by the market value of all capital stock, certificates of indebtedness, bonds, or any other securities, the value of which is based upon the earning capacity of the property.

The rolling stock of a railroad company, used upon the branch roads, or roads otherwise acquired, ascertained by a pro rata standard based on the relative length thereof to the whole time is liable to taxation. Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Alsbrook, 110 N. C. 137, 14 S. E. 652, construing prior law.

§ 105-365. Railroads; tangible and intangible property assessed separately.—(a) At such dates as real estate is required to be assessed for taxation the said board of assessment shall first determine the value of the tangible property of each division or branch of such railroad or rolling stock and all the other physical or tangible property. This value shall be determined by a due consideration of the actual cost of replacing the property, with a just allowance for depreciation on rolling stock, and also of other conditions, to be considered as the case may require. (b) They shall then assess the value of the franchise, which shall be determined by due consideration of the gross earnings as compared with the operating expenses, and particularly by consideration of the value placed upon the whole property by the public (the value of the physical property being deducted) as evidenced by the market value of all capital stock, certificates of indebtedness, bonds, or any other securities, the value of which is based upon the earning capacity of the property.

(c) The aggregate value of the physical or tangible property, and the franchise, as thus determined, shall be the true value of the property for the purpose of ad valorem taxation, and shall be apportioned in the same proportion that the length of such road in such county bears to the entire length of every division or branch thereof, and the state board of assessment shall certify, on or before the first day of September, or as soon thereafter as practicable, to the chairman of the county commissioners and to the mayor of each city or incorporated town the amounts apportioned to his county, city or town. The board of county commissioners of each county through which said railroad passes shall assess against the same only the tax imposed for county, township, or other taxing district purposes, the same as is levied on other property in such county, township, or special taxing districts. (1939, c. 310, s. 1615.)

§ 105-366. Railroads; valuation where road both within and without state.—When any railroad has part of its road in this state and part thereof in any other state, the said board shall ascertain the value of railroad track, rolling stock, and all other property liable to assessment by the state board of assessment of such company as provided in § 105-365, and divide it in the proportion to the length such main line of road in this state bears to the whole length of such main line of road and determine the value in this state accordingly: Provided, the board shall, in valuing the fixed property in this state, give due consideration to the character of roadbed and fixed equipment, number of miles of double track, the amount of gross and net earnings per mile of road in this state, and any other factor which would give a greater or less value per mile of road in this state than the average value for the entire system, and shall, in the first Monday in the month following the month in which said reports are required to be made, the said board shall give a hearing to all the companies interested, touching the valuation and assessment of their property. The said board may, if they see fit, require all argument and communications to be presented in writing. (1939, c. 310, s. 1616.)

§ 105-367. Railroads; in cases of leased roads.—If the property of any railroad company be leased or operated by any other corporation, foreign or domestic, the property of the lessor or company whose property is operated shall be subject to taxation in the manner hereinafter directed; and if the lessee or operating company, being a foreign corporation, be the owner or possessor of any property in this state other than that which it derives from the lessor or company whose property is operated, it shall be assessed in respect to such property in like manner as any domestic railroad company. (1939, c. 310, s. 1617.)

§ 105-368. Railroads; board may subpoena witnesses and compel production of records; penalty for failure to furnish required information.—The state board of assessment shall have power to summon and examine witnesses and require that books and papers shall be presented to them for the purpose of obtaining such information as may be necessary to aid in determining the valuation of any railroad company. Any president, secretary, receiver, or accounting officer, servant or agent of any railroad or steamboat company having any proportion of its property or roadway in this state who shall refuse to attend before the said board when required to do so, or refuse to submit to the inspection of said board any books or papers of such railroad company in his possession, custody, or control, or shall refuse to answer such questions as may be put to him by said board, or order touching the business or property, monies and credits, and the value thereof, of said railroad company, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction shall be confined in the jail of the county not exceeding thirty days, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500.00) and costs, and any president, secretary, accounting officer, servant, or agent aforesaid so refusing as aforesaid shall be deemed guilty of contempt of such board, and may be confined, by order of said board, in the jail of the proper county until he shall comply with such order and pay the cost of his imprisonment. (1939, c. 310, s. 1618.)

§ 105-369. Taxes on railroads shall be a lien on property of the same.—The taxes upon any and all railroads in this state, including roadbed, right-of-way, depots, side tracks, ties, and rails, now constructed or hereafter to be constructed, are hereby made a perpetual lien thereupon, commencing from the day as of which property is assessed in each current year, against all claims or demands whatsoever of all persons or bodies corporate except the United States and this state, and the above described property or any part thereof may be taken and held for payment of all taxes assessed against said railroad company in the several counties of this state. (1939, c. 310, s. 1619.)

§ 105-370. Board of assessment to certify apportionment of valuation to counties and municipalities; payment of local taxes.—The state board of assessment shall, upon completion of the assessment directed in the preceding sections, certify to the register of deeds or tax supervisor of the counties and the clerk of the board of commissioners of the municipalities through which said companies operate the apportionment of the valuations as hereinbefore determined and apportioned by the board, and the board of county commissioners and taxing authorities of municipalities or other taxing jurisdictions respectively, shall assess against such valuation the same tax imposed for county, township, town, or other tax district purposes, as that levied on all other property in such county, township, town, or other taxing districts. This tax shall be paid to the sheriff or tax collector of the county and municipality. (1939, c. 310, s. 1650.)

§ 105-371. Canal and steamboat companies.—The property of all canal and steamboat companies in this state shall be appraised and assessed for taxation as above provided for railroads. In case any officer fails to return the property provided in this section, the board shall ascertain the length of such property in this state, and shall assess the same in proportion to the length at the highest rate at which property of that kind is assessed by them. (1939, c. 310, s. 1621.)

Appointments under this article shall be made during the first week in July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, and annually thereafter. Until the first such appointments are made, city taxes shall be collected by the collectors now provided for by law; notwithstanding any repealing clauses contained in this article.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to change the manner of appointment or term of any collector who collects both city and county taxes, or of any city collector whose manner of appointment or term is governed by the city charter. (1939, c. 310, s. 1701.)

§ 105-374. County sheriffs and tax collectors.—County and district taxes shall be collected by the sheriffs or tax collectors as provided by law: Provided, that district taxes levied by county commissioners and collected by county officials may, for collection and foreclosure purposes, be treated in the same manner as county taxes. (1939, c. 310, s. 1702.)

§ 105-375. General duties of tax collectors.—It shall be the duty of each tax collector to employ all lawful means for the collection of all taxes in his hands; to give such bond as may be required of him; to perform such duties in connection with the preparation of the tax records, receipts and stubs as the governing body may direct; to keep adequate records of all collections; and to account for all moneys coming into his hands. At each regular meeting of the governing body he shall submit a report of the amount collected on each year's taxes in his hands, the amount remaining uncollected, and the steps he is taking to encourage or enforce payment. The governing body may, at any time, require him to make settlement in full for all taxes in his hands. The governing body may also, at any time, require the collector to send out tax bills or notices, make personal calls upon delinquent taxpayers, or proceed to enforce payment by any lawful means. In addition to the taxes hereinbefore in this article defined, all license, privilege and franchise taxes levied by the taxing unit by which he is employed shall be collected by the collector.

The successor in office of any tax collector may continue and complete any process of tax collection, or any proceeding authorized by this article, begun by his predecessor. (1939, c. 310, s. 1703.)

§ 105-376. The tax lien and discharge there—of.—(a) Priority of the Tax Lien on Real Property.—(1) The lien of taxes shall attach to real property at the time hereinbefore in this subchapter prescribed.

(2) The liens of taxes of all taxing units shall be of equal dignity and shall be superior to all other assessments, charges, rights, liens, and claims of any and every kind in and to said property, regardless of by whom claimed and regardless of whether acquired prior or subsequent to the attachment of said lien for taxes: Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed as affecting such relative priority as may be prescribed by the Revenue Act for the lien of state taxes.

(3) The priority of the lien shall not be affected by transfer of title to the real property after the lien has attached, nor shall it be affected by death, receivership or bankruptcy of the owner of said property.

(b) Discharge of the Lien on Realty; Release of Separate Parcels.—The tax lien shall continue until the taxes, plus interest, penalties, and costs as allowed by law, have been fully paid.

When the lien of taxes of any taxing unit for any year attaches to two or more parcels of real estate owned by the same taxpayer, said lien may be discharged as to any parcel, at any time prior to advertisement of tax foreclosure sale, in the following manner: (1) Upon payment, by or on behalf of the listing taxpayer, of the taxes for said year on the parcel or parcels sought to be released, with penalties and interest thereon, plus all personal property, poll and dog taxes owed by said taxpayer for the same year, with interest and penalties thereon, and all costs allowed by law; or (2) upon payment, by or on behalf of any person (other than said listing taxpayer) having an interest in said property, of the taxes for said year on the parcel or parcels sought to be released, with interest and penalties thereon, plus a proportionate part of personal property, poll and dog taxes owed by said listing taxpayer for the same year, with interest and penalties thereon, and a proportionate part of costs allowed by law. The proportionate parts shall be determined by the percentage of the total assessed value of the taxpayer’s real estate represented by the assessed value of the parcel or parcels sought to be released.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the rights of any holder of a tax sale certificate, other than a taxing unit, with respect to any certificate held on April 3, 1939.

When real estate listed as one parcel is subdivided, a part thereof may be released in the same manner, after the value of such part for tax purposes has been determined by the county tax supervisor or, if there is no supervisor, by the county accountant, and certified by him to the collector.

It shall be the duty of every collector accepting a payment, made under this section for the purpose of releasing less than all of the taxpayer’s real property, to give the person making the payment a receipt setting forth the description of such property appearing on the tax list and bearing a statement that such property is being released; and it shall also be his duty to indicate the property released on the official records of his office.

In case of failure on the part of the collector to issue such receipt or make such record, the person making the prepayment may be reimbursed at any time.

When any parcel of real estate has been released, under this section, from the lien of taxes of any taxing unit for any year, such property shall not thereafter be subject to the lien of any other regularly assessed taxes of the same taxing unit for the same year, whether such other taxes be levied against the listing owner of said property or against some other person acquiring title thereto.

No tax foreclosure judgment for such other taxes shall become a lien on such released property.

The tax lien, when it attaches to personal property, shall, in so far as it represents taxes assessed against the property to which it attaches, be superior to all other liens and rights, whether such other liens and rights are prior or subsequent to the tax lien in point of time. In so far as said tax lien represents taxes not assessed against such property, said tax lien on personal property shall be inferior to prior valid liens and superior to all subsequent liens. As between the liens of different taxing units, the lien first attaching shall be superior.

Preference Accrued Taxes in Liquidation of Debtor’s Estates.—In all cases in which a taxpayer’s assets are in the hands of a receiver or assignee for the benefit of creditors, or are otherwise being liquidated or managed for the benefit of creditors, the taxes owed by such debtor, together with interest, penalties and costs, shall be a preferred claim, second only to administration expenses and specific liens. Provided, that this shall not be construed to modify or reduce the priority by this subchapter given to tax liens on personal property.

Duration of Lien.—The general assembly, pursuant to the constitution, has established the procedure for levying and collecting taxes, and when levied “The tax lien shall continue until the taxes, plus interest, penalties and costs, as allowed by law, have been fully paid.”

§ 105-377. All interested persons charged with notice of taxes.—All persons who have or may acquire any interest in any property which may be or may become subject to a lien for taxes imposed under this subchapter with notice that such property is or should be listed for taxation, that taxes are or may become a lien thereon, and that if taxes are not paid such proceedings may be taken against said property as are allowed by law. Such notice shall be conclusively presumed, whether such persons have actual notice or not.

§ 105-378. Prepayments.—Payments on taxes, made before the tax books have been turned over to the collector, shall be made to such official as the governing body of the taxing unit may designate, and the official so designated shall give bond satisfactory to said governing body. If, at the time of such prepayment, the tax rate has not been finally fixed or the valuation of the taxpayer’s property has not been finally determined, the prepayment may be made on the basis of the best information available to the collecting official.

If it subsequently develops that there has been an overpayment, the excess shall be refunded by the taxing unit, without interest. If it develops that there has been an underpayment, the taxpayer shall be required to pay the balance due, and shall be allowed the same discount or charged the same penalty on such balance as in force with respect to other taxes for the same year at the time such balance is paid. Receipts issued for payments made on the basis of an estimate shall so state, and such receipts shall not release property from the tax lien; but the official and final receipts, effecting such release, shall be made available to the taxpayer as soon as possible after determination that the tax has been fully paid.

§ 105-379. Delivery of tax books to collector; prerequisites thereto; procedure upon default.—

(a) Time of Delivery.—The tax books shall be delivered to the collector, upon order of the governing body, on or before the first Monday in October, as hereinafter in § 105-325 provided.

(b) Settlement and Bond as Prerequisites; Prepayments.—The tax books for the current year shall not be delivered to the collector until he shall have: (1) delivered to the chief accounting officer of the taxing unit the duplicates or stubs of such receipts as he may have issued for prepayments lawfully received by him; (2) demonstrated to the satisfaction of said chief accounting officer that all moneys received by him as such prepayments have been deposited to the credit of the taxing unit; (3) made his annual settlement, as hereinafter defined, for all taxes in his hands for the current year, and shall have furnished such official and final receipts, effecting such release, shall be made available to the taxpayer as soon as possible after determination that the tax has been fully paid.
§ 105-380

amount than that prescribed by any valid local statute applying to said unit.

Any other official who has accepted prepayment shall order to the delivery of the tax books to the collector, deliver the prepayment receipt duplicates or stubs to the chief accounting officer of the unit and shall demonstrate to the satisfaction of said chief accounting officer that all moneys received by him as such prepayments have been deposited to the credit of the taxing unit: Provided, that where said chief accounting officer has himself lawfully accepted prepayments, he shall, not later than the day on which the tax books are delivered to the collector, make settlement therefor with the governing body in such manner and form as said governing body may prescribe.

It shall be the duty of said chief accounting officer: (1) to reduce the original charge made against the tax collector by deducting from the total amount of taxes levied so much of the amount received as prepayments as need not be refunded under the provisions of this article; (2) to secure and retain in his office, available to the taxpayers upon request, the regular receipts for taxes paid in full by prepayments, and to credit such payments on the tax books or accounts delivered to the collector; (3) to prepare refunds for overpayments made by way of prepayment (such disbursements to be made in the same manner as other disbursements of funds of the taxing unit are made); and (4) to credit all partial prepayments as partial payments on the regular receipts or tax accounts.

(c) Procedure upon Default.—If, on or before the first Monday in October, the regular tax collector shall not meet the requirements prescribed in subsection (b), the governing body of any taxing unit may, in its discretion, allow payment of taxes in not more than four equal installments, the last of which shall be payable not later than the week preceding the day fixed for the beginning of advertisement of the tax sale. The governing body of any unit permitting such installment payments, shall: (a) provide that, upon default in any installment, penalties shall accrue immediately upon the entire balance remaining unpaid at the same rate which would have accrued had such installment plan not been adopted; or (b) provide that, upon default in any installment, penalties shall accrue upon the amount of such installment at the same rate which would have accrued had such installment plan not been adopted. Payments made to any unit adopting installment plans shall not be credited on any installment until all prior installments, together with any penalties thereon, have been paid.

It shall be the duty of each governing body and each collector of a taxing unit adopting an installment plan to indicate, on the tax receipts and on any bills or notices sent to taxpayers, the manner hereinafter provided for collectors retiring from office, and shall then turn over the tax books to the regular collector.

(d) Civil and Criminal Penalties.—(1) Any member of the governing body of any taxing unit who shall vote to deliver the tax books or tax receipts to a tax collector, before said collector has met the requirements prescribed in this section, shall be individually liable for the amount of taxes due by said collector; and any such member so voting, or who willfully fails to perform any duty imposed by this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1939, c. 310, s. 1707.)

§ 105-380. Installment payments. — The governing body of any taxing unit may, in its discretion, allow payment of taxes in not more than four equal installments, the last of which shall be payable not later than the week preceding the day fixed for the beginning of advertisement of the tax sale. The governing body of any unit permitting such installment payments, shall: (a) provide that, upon default in any installment, penalties shall accrue immediately upon the entire balance remaining unpaid at the same rate which would have accrued had such installment plan not been adopted; or (b) provide that, upon default in any installment, penalties shall accrue upon the amount of such installment at the same rate which would have accrued had such installment plan not been adopted. Payments made to any unit adopting installment plans shall not be credited on any installment until all prior installments, together with any penalties thereon, have been paid.

It shall be the duty of each governing body and each collector of a taxing unit adopting an installment plan to indicate, on the tax receipts and on any bills or notices sent to taxpayers, the manner hereinafter provided for collectors retiring from office, and shall then turn over the tax books to the regular collector.

(d) Civil and Criminal Penalties.—(1) Any member of the governing body of any taxing unit who shall vote to deliver the tax books or tax receipts to a tax collector, before said collector has met the requirements prescribed in this section, shall be individually liable for the amount of taxes due by said collector; and any such member so voting, or who willfully fails to perform any duty imposed by this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1939, c. 310, s. 1707.)

§ 105-381. Partial payments. — Unless otherwise directed by the governing body, the tax collector shall, at any time, accept partial payments on taxes and issue a partial payment receipt therefor. In crediting a payment on the tax for any year or on any installment, the payment shall first be applied to accrued penalties, interest and costs and then to the principal amount of such tax or installment. (1939, c. 310, s. 1709.)

§ 105-382. Payment of taxes; notes and checks. — Taxes shall be payable in existing national currency.

No tax collector shall accept a note of the taxpayer in payment of taxes. Any other official who has accepted prepayment shall fail to account for prepayments received in the manner prescribed by this section, and any chief accounting officer failing to perform the duties imposed upon him by this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, subject to fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1939, c. 310, s. 1707.)

§ 105-383 CH. 105. TAXATION—COLLECTION § 105-385

§ 105-383. Remedies against personal property.—(a) Time for.—From the first day of the fiscal year until taxes become due the collector shall not proceed against the personal property of the taxpayer, in the manner herein provided, unless there is reasonable ground for believing that the taxpayer is about to remove his property from the state. The collector may proceed against such personal property, in the manner herein provided, at any time after taxes are due and before filing of a tax foreclosure complaint or docketing of a judgment for said taxes as hereinafter provided. Every official charged with the duty of collecting taxes, current or delinquent, shall have power and authority to proceed against such personal property in the manner herein provided.

(b) Relation between Remedies against Personal Property and Remedies against Real Property.—The collector may proceed against the personal property of the taxpayer, as herein provided, in his discretion; and, for such personal property, the collector may proceed against such property: (1) if directed so to do by the governing body; or (2) upon demand by the taxpayer, mortgagee or other person holding a lien upon the real property of the taxpayer: Provided, that said taxpayer, mortgagee or other person making said demand shall furnish the collector with a written memorandum describing such personal property and stating where it can be found.

After the sale of a tax sale certificate, no person shall be allowed to attack the validity of the sale on the ground that the tax should have been procrssed against such personal property; but this shall not be construed as prohibiting proceedings against personal property after said sale.

(c) Levy upon Personal Property.—Subject to the provisions of this article governing the priority of the lien acquired, the following property may be levied upon and sold for failure to pay taxes: (1) any personal property of the taxpayer, regardless of the time at which it was acquired and regardless of the existence or date of creation of mortgages or other liens thereon; (2) any personal property transferred by the taxpayer to others than by bona fide sale for value: Provided, that said taxpayer, mortgagee or other person holding a lien upon the real property of the taxpayer: Provided, that said taxpayer, mortgagee or other person making said demand shall furnish the collector with a written memorandum describing such personal property and stating where it can be found.

Any collector failing or refusing to furnish such certificate, upon request in good faith made as herein provided, shall be liable for a penalty of fifty dollars ($50.00). (1939, c. 310, s. 1711.)

§ 105-384. Place for collection of taxes.—Taxes shall be payable at the office of the collector: Provided, that the governing body of any taxing unit may for the convenience of the taxpayers, require the collector, in person or by deputy to attend at his office at such times and places to be designated by said governing body for the collection of taxes. Fifteen days' notice of such times and places shall be given by the collector by advertisement published in some newspaper published in the county, and, if there be no such newspaper published in the county, then by posting such notice at three or more places in said unit. (1939, c. 310, s. 1712.)
Costs, shall be added to and collected in the same manner as the taxes. The advertising costs, when collected, shall be used to reimburse the taxing unit which shall advance the cost of said advertising; and the levy and sale fees, when collected, shall be treated in the same manner as other fees collected by said official.

(d) Attachment and Garnishment.—Subject to the provisions of this article governing the priority of rights acquired, the collector may attach wages or other compensation, rents, bank deposits, the proceeds of property subject to levy and sale, or other property incapable of manual delivery: Provided, the same belongs to the taxpayer or has been transferred to another under circumstances which would permit it to be levied upon if it were tangible, or is due to the taxpayer or may become due to him within the calendar year; and the person owing same or having same in his possession shall become liable for the taxes to the extent of the amount he owes or has in his possession: Provided, that not more than ten per centum of wages or other compensation for personal services shall be liable to attachment and garnishment for failure to pay taxes.

To proceed under this subsection, the collector shall serve or cause to be served upon the taxpayer and the person owing or having in his possession the wages, rents, debts or other things sought to be attached, a notice showing at least: (1) the name of the taxpayer; (2) the amount of the taxes, penalties and costs (including the fees allowed by this subsection) and year or years for which such taxes were levied; (3) the name of the taxing unit or units by which such taxes were levied; (4) a brief description of the thing sought to be attached; and (5) a statement that the person served has the right to appear, within ten days after service, before some designated justice of the peace or (if the amount is beyond the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace) the superior court in the county in which the taxing unit lies, and show cause why he should not be compelled to pay said taxes, penalties and costs.

Notices concerning two or more taxpayers may be combined if they are to be served upon the same person, but in such case the taxes, penalties and costs charged against each taxpayer must be set forth separately.

A copy of each notice shall be retained by the collector and a copy shall be filed, not later than the first business day following the day of service, with the justice or court before which the notice is returnable, together with a notation of service. Upon entry of judgment, by default or after appearance and hearing, in favor of the taxpayer, the person served has the right to appear, within ten days after service, before some designated justice of the peace or (if the amount is beyond the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace) the superior court in the county in which the taxing unit lies, and show cause why he should not be compelled to pay said taxes, penalties and costs.

Sale by Assignee Prior to Levy.—Where an assignee for the benefit of the creditors of a taxpayer sells personal property of his assignor, on which a tax had been assessed, but not levied, prior to the assignment, the proceeds in the hands of the assignee are not subject to garnishment for the payment of the tax, but belong to the creditors. Shelby v. Tiddy, 118 S. N. C. 792, 34 S. E. 521.

§ 105-386. Collection of taxes outside the taxing unit.—If a taxpayer has no property in the taxing unit to which the taxes are due, but does have property in some other unit, or if the taxpayer has removed from the taxing unit in which the taxes are due and has left no property there and is known to be in some other unit in this state, it shall be the duty of the collector to send a copy of the tax receipt, with a certificate stating that such taxes are unpaid, to the collector of the unit in which such property is located or in which such taxpayer is known to be. Such receipt and certificate shall have the force and effect of a tax list of his own unit in the hands of the collector receiving it, and it shall be the duty of such collector to proceed immediately to collect such taxes by any means by which he could lawfully collect taxes of his own unit. The collector receiving such receipt and certificate shall report, within thirty days after such receipt, to the collector who sent the same, either that he has collected the same or is unable to collect the same by any lawful means or that he has begun proceedings for the collection of same. All collections made under this section shall be remitted to the unit levying the tax within the five days after such collection, but the collector making collection shall retain ten per centum of the amount thereof, which shall be for his personal use. All reports under this section, reporting that the tax is uncollectible, shall be under oath and shall state that the collector has used due diligence and is unable to collect said taxes by levy, garnishment or otherwise. Upon failure to make such sworn report the collector receiving such receipt and certificate shall be liable on his bond for such taxes.

It shall be the duty of the governing body of each taxing unit to require reports from the tax collector, at such times as it may prescribe (but not less frequently than in connection with each annual settlement), concerning the efforts he has made to locate taxpayers who have removed from the unit, the efforts he has made to locate property in other units belonging to delinquent taxpayers, and the efforts he has made under this section to collect the taxes.

§ 105-387. Sales of tax liens on real property for failure to pay taxes.—(a) Report of Delinquent Taxes Which Are Liens on Real Property.

The tax collector of each county and district shall, on the first Monday in April each year, and the tax collector of each city shall, on the second Monday in April each year, report a list of all taxpayers owing taxes for the current year which are liens on real property, and the governing body shall thereupon order sale of the tax lien on said real property of said taxpayers to be held at one of the times hereinafter prescribed. For purposes of all subsections of this section, district taxes collected by city tax collectors shall be regarded as city taxes.

(b) Date of Sale; Effect of Delay.—The county and district sale shall be held on the first Monday in May of each year, and the city sale on the second Monday in May of each year, for four successive months. Failure to hold said sale within the time prescribed shall not affect the validity of the taxes or the tax liens, nor shall it affect the validity of the sale when thereafter held. All sales held shall begin, in the case of county and district taxes, on the first Monday of the month and, in the case of city taxes, on the second Monday in the month: Provided, that where county and city taxes are collected by the same collector, the sale may be held on either of said Mondays.

No sale shall be delayed or restrained by order of any court of this state.

(c) Place and Hour of Sale.—Public notice of the time, place and purpose of such sale shall be given by advertisement at the door of the courthouse or city hall for four successive weeks preceding such sale, and by advertisement once each week for four successive weeks preceding such sale in some newspaper published in the county. If there be no newspaper published in the county, such advertisement shall be posted in at least one public place in each township, in the case of county taxes, and in at least three public places in the city in the case of city taxes.

Said advertisement shall set forth, in addition to the time, place and purpose of such sale: (1) the name of each taxpayer owing taxes which are a lien on real estate; (2) a brief description of the land listed in the name of each; (3) the principal amount of the taxes owed by each. Failure to include penalties and costs in the amount advertised shall not be construed as a waiver of same, but such advertisement shall state generally that the amounts advertised are subject to be increased by such penalties and costs.

(d) Place and Hour of Sale.—All county and district sales shall be held at the courthouse door, and city sales shall be held at the courthouse door or at the city hall door as the collector may advertise. All sales shall begin at such hour as may be specified in the advertisement, and they may be continued from day to day until full compliance is necessary in order to complete the sales, without further advertisement.

(e) Manner of Sale.—The sale may be conducted by the collector or any deputy designated by him for the purpose. The tax liens on all parcels advertised against one taxpayer shall be sold as one lot at public outcry to the highest bidder: Provided, that in case of county sales, liens on parcels in different townships may be sold separately. The collector may, in his discretion, demand immediate payment from any successful bidder, and reject such bid upon failure to comply with said demand. No bid shall be received unless for an amount at least equal to the principal amount of the taxes plus all penalties and costs accrued thereon. In the absence of a bid at least equal to such sum the taxing unit shall become the purchaser, without submitting a formal bid, for an amount equal to such sum.

In all cases in which bids are accepted which exceed such sum the tax collector shall immediately report such excess to the governing body, and said governing body shall order such excess paid directly to the person entitled thereto or order it paid to the clerk of superior court for distribution as the collector may direct.

(f) Costs of Sale.—Costs of sale, which shall be included in the minimum sale price, shall consist of actual advertising cost and a sale fee not exceeding fifty cents (50c) per parcel. Actual advertising cost per parcel shall be determined by the collector, and may be determined upon an advertising lineage basis or an average cost per insertion basis or by any other reasonable method. The taxing unit shall pay all advertising expense, and all advertising cost collected shall be paid to it for use as its governing body may direct. All sale fees collected shall be treated in the same manner as other fees collected by said collector.

(g) Payments during the Advertising Period.—At any time between the beginning of the advertisement and the time of actual sale, any parcel may be withdrawn from the sale list by payment of taxes and penalties as required by law and a proportionate part of the advertising cost as determined by the collector. Thereafter, such parcel shall be eliminated from the advertisement: Provided, that failure to eliminate such parcel shall not subject the collector to liability if the lien on said parcel is not thereafter actually sold.

(h) Failure of Collector to Attend Sale.—If any collector shall fail to attend any duly advertised sale, in person or by competent deputy, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable on his bond to a penalty of three hundred dollars.

(i) Land Listed in Wrong Name.—No sale shall be void because such real estate was charged in the name of any other person than the rightful owner, if such real estate be in other respects correctly described on the tax list: Provided, no sale of the lien on real estate listed in the name of the wrong person shall be valid when the rightful owner has listed the same and paid the taxes thereon.
(j) Irregularities Immaterial.—No irregularities in making assessments or in making the returns thereof in the equalization of property as provided by law, or in any other proceeding or requirement, shall invalidate the sale of tax liens on real estate or sale of real estate in tax foreclosure proceedings, nor in any manner invalidate the tax levied on any property or charged against any person. The following defects, omissions, and circumstances occurring in the assessment of any property for taxation, or in the levy of taxes, or elsewhere in the course of the proceedings, shall be deemed to be irregularities within the meaning of this subsection; the failure of the assessors to take or subscribe an oath or attach an oath to an assessment roll; the omission of a dollar mark or other designation descriptive of the value of figures used to denote an amount assessed, levied, charged against any property or the valuation of any property upon any record; the failure to make or serve any notice mentioned in this chapter; the failure or neglect of the collector to offer any tax lien or real estate for sale at the time mentioned in the advertisement or notice of such sale; failure of the collector to adjourn the sale from day to day, or any irregularity or informality in such adjournment; any irregularity or informality in the order or manner in which tax liens or real estate may be offered for sale; the failure to assess any property for taxes or to levy any tax within the time prescribed by law; any irregularity, informality or omission in any such assessment or levy; any defect in the description, upon any assessment book, tax list, sales book, or other record, of real or personal property, as assessed for taxation, or upon which any taxes are levied, or which may be sold for taxes, provided such description be sufficiently definite to enable the collector, or any person interested, to determine what property is meant or intended by the description, and in such cases a defective or indefinite description, on any book, list, or record, or in any notice or advertisement, may be made definite by the collector at any time by correcting such book, list, or record, or may be made definite by using a correct description in any tax foreclosure proceeding authorized by this subchapter, and any such correction shall have the same force and effect as if said description had been correct on the tax list; any other irregularity, informality, or omission or neglect on the part of any person or in any proceedings, whether mentioned in this subsection or not; the neglect or omission to tax or assess for taxation any person or property; the overtaxation of persons or property liable to be taxed.

(k) Acts of De Facto Officers.—In all actions, proceedings, and controversies involving the right of a person elected or appointed to fill the office of real estate clerk, deputy real estate clerk, real estate deputy, tax collector, or any other officer or person who shall hold or have held such office or any office or other record, list, or book relating to the sale of real estate for taxes, the acts or transactions of such de facto officer or officers shall be deemed and construed to be of the same validity as acts of officers de jure.

(l) Proof of Sale.—The books and records of the office of the collector making the sale, or copies thereof properly certified, shall be deemed sufficient evidence to prove the sale of the tax lien on any real property under this section, the redemption thereof or the payment of taxes thereon.

(m) Wrongful Sale.—Any collector or deputy collector who shall sell, or assist in selling, the tax lien on any real property, knowing the same not to be subject to taxation, or that the taxes for which the lien is sold have been paid, or shall knowingly and willingly sell or assist in selling the tax lien on any real property for payment of taxes to defraud the owner of such real property, or shall knowingly and willingly cause foreclosure proceedings to be instituted against real property so sold, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be liable to a fine of not less than one thousand nor more than three thousand dollars, or to imprisonment not exceeding one year, or to both fine and imprisonment, and to pay the injured party all damages sustained by such act; and all such sales shall be void.

When by mistake or wrongful act of the collector a tax lien on real property has been sold on which no tax was due, the taxing unit shall reimburse the purchaser by paying to him the amount expended by him in such purchase, with interest thereon at six per cent per annum: and the collector shall be liable to the taxing unit upon his bond for all amounts so expended by it in excess of the amount received by it from said sale. Any amount paid by a taxing unit under this section for state taxes shall, on proper certificate from the treasurer of the governing body, be allowed by the auditor and paid by the treasurer of the state, and the state shall have the right of recovery against the collector on his bond to the amount so paid.

(n) Joint Sales by Several Taxing Units.—Wherever the taxes of two or more taxing units are collected by the same collector, one sale shall be held for the taxes of both at such time as is prescribed by law for sales by either; and in the absence of bids the larger unit may become the purchaser, or such units may become joint purchasers, for the benefit of all according to their respective interests: Provided, that this shall not repeal any local law designating the purchaser in case of joint sales. (1939, c. 310, s. 1715.)

Local Modification.—Wayne: 1941, c. 40; Cumberland: 1947, c. 144, s. 106.

The power to sell real estate for taxes was repealed by Chapter 310, Public Laws 1939, and the sheriff or tax collector is limited to the sale of the tax lien. Crandall v. Clemmons, 222 N. C. 225, 227, 22 S. E. (2d) 448 (1942).

The tax lien can be enforced only by an action in the superior court in the county in which the land is situated in the nature of an action to foreclose a mortgage. Cran dall v. Clemmons, 222 N. C. 225, 227, 22 S. E. (2d) 448 (1942). See § 105-381.

Power of Redemption.—Under this section the first sale by the sheriff has no more significance than to put the purchaser in the position of a lienor as represented by his certificate of sale, which he must enforce, as in the case of mortgage, by a foreclosure of the equity of redemption. The imminence of injury to the remainderman by “dis- herison” or loss of his estate through operation of the first sale has been almost altogether removed, since, to secure foreclosure, the purchaser must institute and carry to conclusion a suit in which all interested persons must be made parties and notified, and thereby the period of redemption for the life tenant and others interested is necessarily greatly enlarged. Cooper v. Cooper, 220 N. C. 490, 493, 17 S. E. (2d) 655 (dis. op.).

§ 105-388. Certificates of sale.—(a) Issued to Private Purchasers.—As soon as possible after [1118] sale, but not earlier than payment of the purchase price, the collector shall issue to each successful bidder, other than taxing units, a certificate of sale, for the tax lien on real property of each delinquent, purchased by him, dated as of the day of sale. Property held jointly by two or more owners shall be construed as the property of one delinquent for this purpose. Said certificate shall be in substantially the following form:

"North Carolina, .................. (taxing unit)
I, .................. tax collector of ........................ (taxing unit) do hereby certify that the tax lien on the following described real property in said taxing unit, to wit: .................. (describing the same) was, on the day of ........... , 19.., duly sold by me in the manner provided by law, for the delinquent taxes of ........... for the year ........... , amounting to $ ........... , including penalties thereon and costs allowed by law, when and where ........... (name of purchaser) .................. purchased said lien on said real property at the price of $ ........... , said amount being the highest and best bid for same. And I further certify that unless payment of said lien is made within the time and in the manner provided, by law, said ........... (name of purchaser) .................. or his heirs or assigns, shall have the right to foreclose said real property by any proceeding allowed by law.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this ...... day of ........... Tax Collector."

A copy of each such certificate shall be retained by the collector in a special book or file designated "Certificates of Sale for Taxes for the Year ........... ". All payments made on any such certificate shall be made to the collector for the use of the owner of such certificate, and all such payments shall be credited by the collector on the copy of the certificate in his possession, and shall be remitted to the owner of the certificate upon proper receipt therefor. For failure to account for and pay over any such payments the collector shall be liable to the person entitled thereto. The copies of such certificates in the collector's office shall be the official records for the purpose of determining whether a lien exists in favor of any certificate owner other than a taxing unit. The owner of a certificate may assign it at any time, but said assignment shall not be effective until the collector shall have recorded the same in his files. Each such purchaser, his heirs and assigns, shall also have a lien for other taxes and assessments levied against said property, paid by him after acquisition of said certificate, whether such taxes or assessments were charged before or after such acquisition. Said lien shall be entitled to the same priorities as the original lien of the taxes and assessments so paid.

(b) Issuance of Certificates. The governing body of each taxing unit which becomes the purchaser at a tax sale, as hereinbefore provided, shall determine whether or not it is necessary to issue certificates to and in the name of such unit. If, in the opinion of said governing body, the issuance of such certificates is not necessary in order to provide adequate records of tax liens and tax collections, the said certificates may be dispensed with and the collector ordered to mark or stamp the original tax receipts or accounts "Sold to ........... (name of tax unit) ........... ". If issuance of certificates is deemed necessary, they shall be issued in substantially the form set forth in subdivision (a) of this section with stubs or duplicates on which shall be reflected all payments or assignments. In either case, the taxing unit shall have the right to foreclose the real property by any method authorized by law; and in either case interest at the rate of eight per cent per annum shall accrue, on the amount bid by said unit, from the date of the sale.

(c) Prima Facie Case.—A certificate issued, or a tax receipt or account marked or stamped, in accordance with the provisions of subdivisions (a) or (b) of this section, shall be presumptive evidence of the regularity of all prior proceedings incident to the sale and of the due performance of all things essential to the validity thereof.

§ 105-389. Assignment of liens by taxing unit after sale.—At any time after the sale hereinbefore provided for, any taxing unit may assign any lien owned by it to any person who pays an amount which, if paid by the taxpayer, would be sufficient to discharge said lien. If a certificate has already been issued to the taxing unit, it shall be assigned to the person making the payment, and the copy of stub of such certificate or a copy of such stub, showing such assignment, shall be filed in the manner provided for certificates originally issued to private purchasers. If no certificate has been issued to the taxing unit, a certificate shall immediately be so issued, and said certificate shall be assigned to the person making such payment in the manner set forth in the preceding sentence. The collector to whom the payment is made shall have authority to make all such assignments and issue all such certificates.

The provisions of this section shall be construed as being in addition to the provisions of this article with respect to release of individual parcels of real property from the tax lien. The person making a payment, after the sale hereinbefore provided for, shall have the right to pay the entire amount or to pay an amount sufficient under the provisions of this article to release one or more specified parcels; and such person shall § 105-390

§ 105-390. Settlements. — (a) Annual Settlement of Tax Collector.—(1) Preliminary report. On the second Monday following the sale of certificates, the tax collector shall, under oath, report to the governing body: (1) action with respect to such sale; and (2) a list of those not listing land for taxes whose taxes remain unpaid, making oath that he has made diligent effort to collect such taxes out of the personal property of such taxpayers or by other means open to him for collection of such taxes, and reporting such other information as to such taxpayers as may be of interest to or required by the governing body (including a report on his efforts to make collection outside the taxing unit under the provisions of this article.)

(2) Insolvents. The governing body shall, upon receipt of said report, enter upon its minutes the list of such taxpayers listing no land as may be found by said governing body to be insolvents, and shall by resolution designate said list so entered in the minutes as the insolvent list to be credited to the collector in his settlement.

(3) Settlement for current taxes. On the first Monday of the month following sale of certificates, but not earlier than the first Monday of July, the collector shall make full settlement with the governing body of the taxing unit for all taxes, in his hands for collection, for the year involved in said sale. In such settlement the collector shall be charged with: (1) the total amount of all taxes for said year, in his hands for collection, including amounts originally charged to him and all subsequent amounts charged on account of discovered property; (2) all penalties, interest and costs collected by him in connection with taxes for said year; and (3) all other sums to be collected by said collector. He shall be credited with: (1) all sums deposited by him to the credit of the taxing unit, or received for by the proper official of said unit, on account of taxes for said year; (2) releases allowed by the governing body as prescribed by statute; (3) the principal amount of taxes included in certificates sold to the taxing unit, for which he shall produce certificates duly executed or receipts or accounts duly stamped in accordance with the provisions of this article; (4) the principal amount of taxes for said year included in the insolvent list, determined as hereinbefore provided; (5) discounts allowed by law; and (6) commissions, if any, lawfully payable to him as compensation. For any deficiency the collector shall be liable on his bond, and, in addition, thereto, shall be liable to all criminal penalties provided by law.

Said settlement, together with the action of the governing body with respect thereto, shall be entered in full upon the minutes of said governing body.

(4) Disposition of tax books after settlement. Uncollected taxes allowed as credits in the settlement prescribed in the preceding subsection, whether represented by sales to the taxing unit or included in the list of insolvents, shall be charged to the collector or charged to some other person, in accordance with the provisions of any valid local statute governing tax collection in the particular taxing unit. In the absence of any local statute determining the matter: (1) Such taxes in cities, and in counties having tax collectors other than sheriffs, shall be charged to the collector; and (2) such taxes, in counties having sheriffs as tax collectors, shall be charged to such other county officer or employee as the governing body may designate to perform the duties of delinquent tax collector.

The person so charged or recharged shall give bond satisfactory to the governing body; shall receive the tax receipts, certificates and records representing such uncollected taxes; shall have and exercise and perform all powers and duties conferred or imposed by law upon tax collectors; and shall receive such compensation as may be fixed by valid local statute or, in the absence of such statute, as the governing body may determine.

(b) Settlements for Delinquent Taxes. — Annually, at the time prescribed for the settlement hereinbefore in this section provided, all persons having in their hands for collection any taxes for years prior to the year involved in said settlement hereinbefore provided, shall settle with the governing body of the taxing unit for collections made on the taxes for each such prior year. Such settlement for the taxes of prior years shall be in such form as may be satisfactory to the chief accounting officer and the governing body of the taxing unit, and shall be entered in full upon the minutes of the governing body.

(c) Settlement at End of Term. Whenever any tax collector or other person collecting taxes, current or delinquent, shall fail to succeed him in the discharge of his term of office, he shall, on the last business day of his term, make full and complete settlement for all taxes in his hands and deliver the tax records, receipts and accounts to his successor in office. Such settlement shall be in such manner and form as may be satisfactory to the chief accounting officer and the governing body of the taxing unit, and shall be entered in full upon the minutes of the governing body.

(d) Settlement upon Vacancy During Term. — In case of voluntary resignation of any person collecting taxes he shall, upon his last day in office, make full settlement for all taxes in his hands in the same manner as required herein for settlements made at the end of a term of office. In default of such settlement, or in case of a vacancy occurring during a term for any other reason, it shall be the duty of the chief accounting officer or, in the discretion of the governing body, of some duly qualified person appointed by it, immediately to prepare and submit to the governing body a report in the nature of a settlement made on behalf of the ex-collector; and such report, together with the action of the governing body, shall be entered in full upon the minutes of the governing body. In such cases the governing body may turn over the tax books to the successor collector immediately upon occurrence of the vacancy, or may make such temporary arrangements for collection of taxes as may be expedient: Provided, that no person shall be permitted to collect taxes until he shall have given bond satisfactory to the governing body.

(e) Effect of Approval.—Approval of any settlement by the governing body shall not relieve the collector or his bondsmen of liability for any shortage actually existing and thereafter discovered; nor shall it relieve the collector of any criminal liability.

(f) Penalties.—In addition to all other civil and criminal penalties, provided by law, any member of a governing body, collector, person collecting taxes, or chief accounting officer failing to perform any duty imposed upon him by this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1939, c. 310, s. 1718.)

Local Modification.—Cumberland: 1941, c. 44, s. 1(d), (e). Cross reference.—For earlier statute relating to settlement, see § 105-424.

Legislative Power to Penalize.—The Legislature has the power to impose penalties on the sheriff for his delay or failure to make settlement with the proper county authorities within a stated time. State v. Gentry, 183 N. C. 825, 112 S. E. 427. The court said: "The power to coerce prompt collection and settlement of taxes is no less necessary than the power to levy and assess them, and both are essential to the maintenance of the government."

An extension of time within which a sheriff may settle state taxes, thus may extend the suerites upon his bond. Worth v. Cox, 89 N. C. 44.

§ 105-391. Foreclosure of tax liens by action in nature of action to foreclose a mortgage.—(a) Time for Beginning Such Action.—Actions for the foreclosure of tax liens brought under this section shall be brought not less than six months after the sale hereinbefore provided for.

(b) Private Purchasers.—Foreclosure under this section shall be the sole remedy of certificate owners other than taxing units.

(c) Taxing Units.—Taxing units may proceed under this section to foreclose a mortgage on the tax liens acquired or whose interest therein is subsequently discovered; or shall it relieve the collector of any criminal liability.

(d) General Nature of the Action.—The foreclosure action shall be an action in superior court, in the county in which the land is situated, in the nature of an action to foreclose a mortgage.

(e) Parties.—The listing taxpayer and spouse, if any, the current owner, all other taxing units having tax liens, all other lien-holders of record, and all persons who would be entitled to be made parties to a court action (in which no deficiency judgment is sought) to foreclose a mortgage on such property, shall be made parties and served with summons in the manner provided by § 1-89: Provided, that alias summonses may be issued or service by publication begun at any time within one year after the issuance of the original summons.

The fact that the listing taxpayer or any other defendant is a minor, is incompetent or 's under any other disability shall not prevent or delay the collector's sale or the foreclosure of the tax lien; and all such defendants shall be made defendants and served with summons in the same manner as in other civil actions.

Persons who have disappeared or cannot be located and persons whose names and whereabouts are unknown, and all possible heirs or assignees of such persons may be served by publication; and such persons, their heirs and assignees may be designated by general description or by fictitious names in such action. It is hereby declared that service of summons by publication against such persons, in the manner provided by law, shall be as valid in all respects as such service against the best known persons who are non-residents of this state.

(f) Complaint as a Lis Pendens.—The complaint in an action brought under this section shall, from the time of the filing thereof in the office of the clerk of superior court, serve as notice of the pendency of such action, and every person whose interest in such property is subsequently acquired or whose interest therein is subsequently registered or recorded shall be bound by all proceedings taken in such action after the filing of said complaint in the same manner as if said person had had actual notice of such action. It shall not be necessary to have said complaint cross indexed as a notice of action pending to have the effect prescribed by this subsection.

(g) Subsequent Taxes.—The complaint in a tax foreclosure action brought under this section by a taxing unit shall, in addition to alleging the tax lien on which the action is based, include a general allegation of subsequent taxes which are or may become a lien on the same property in favor of the plaintiff unit. Thereafter it shall not be necessary to amend said complaint to incorporate said taxes by specific allegation. In case of redemption before judgment of confirmation the person redeeming shall be required to pay, before said action is discontinued, at least all taxes on said property which have at the time of discontinuance been due to plaintiff unit for one year, plus interest, penalties and costs thereon. Immediately prior to judgment of sale in such action, if there has been no redemption, the tax collector, or the attorney for plaintiff unit, shall file in said action a certificate setting forth the amount of which has not been definitely determined.

Any plaintiff in a tax foreclosure action, other than a taxing unit, may include in his complaint, originally or by amendment, all other taxes and assessments paid by him which were liens on the same property.

(h) Joinder of Parcels.—All real estate within one township, subject to liens for taxes levied against the same taxpayer by the same taxing unit for the first year involved in the action shall be joined in one action: Provided, that where property is transferred by the listing taxpayer subsequent to such year, all subsequent taxes, penalties, interest and costs, for which said property is ordered sold under the terms of this subchapter, shall be prorated to such property in the same manner as if payments were being made to release such property under the provisions of this subchapter.

(i) Special Benefit Assessments.—A cause of action for the foreclosure of the lien of any special benefit assessment may be included in any complaint filed under this section.

(j) Joint Foreclosure by Two or More Taxing Units.—Liens of different taxing units on the same parcel, representing taxes in the hands of the same collector, shall be foreclosed in one action. Liens of different taxing units on the same parcel, representing taxes in the hands of different collectors, may be foreclosed in one action in the discretion of the governing bodies.

Liens of taxing units made parties defendant in any such action shall be alleged in an answer filed by such unit, and the collector of each such answering unit shall, prior to judgment, file a certificate of subsequent taxes similar to that filed by the collector of the plaintiff unit, and the taxes of each such answering unit shall be of equal dignity with the taxes of the plaintiff unit; and any such answering unit may, in case of payment of the plaintiff's taxes, continue such action until all taxes due to it for more than one year have been paid. It shall not be necessary for any such defendant unit to file a separate foreclosure action or proceed under § 105-392 with respect to any such taxes.

All taxes of any taxing unit which is properly served as a party defendant in such action, and which does not answer and file the certificate as aforesaid, shall be barred by the judgment of sale except to the extent that the purchase price at foreclosure sale, after payment of costs and of the liens of all taxing units whose liens are properly alleged by complaint or answer and certificates, may be sufficient to pay said taxes:

Provided, that if a defendant unit is plaintiff in another action pending against the same property, or has begun a proceeding under § 105-392, its answers may allege said fact in lieu of alleging its liens, and the court, in its discretion, may order consolidation of such actions or such other disposition thereof, and such disposition of the costs therein, as it may deem advisable:

And provided, further, that any such order may be made by the clerk of the superior court, subject to appeal in the same manner as appeals are taken from orders of said clerk.

(k) Costs.—Costs may be taxed in any action brought under this section in the same manner as in other civil actions, subject to the provisions of this subsection; and upon collection of said costs, either upon redemption or upon payment of the purchase price at foreclosure sale, the fees allowed officers shall be paid to those entitled to receive the same:

Provided, that the fees allowed any officer, whether for the personal use of such officer or for the benefit of the unit of which he is an official shall not exceed one-half the fees allowed in other civil actions:

Provided, further, that no process tax for the use of the state shall be levied or collected in tax foreclosure actions, and, where the plaintiff is a taxing unit, no prosecution bond shall be required in such actions.

 Said costs may include one reasonable attorney's fee for the plaintiff, which shall not exceed five dollars:

Provided, that the governing body of any unit may, in its discretion, pay a greater sum to its attorney as a suit fee and said governing body may, in its discretion, make a reasonable arrangement with its attorney on delinquent taxes collected by him after said taxes have been placed in his hands; or said governing body may arrange with its attorney for the handling of tax suits on a salary basis or make such other reasonable agreement with its attorney or attorneys as said governing body may approve; and any arrangement made may provide that attorney's fees collected as costs be collected for the use of the taxing unit: And provided, further, that when any taxing unit is made a party defendant in a tax foreclosure action and files answer therein, there may be included in the costs an attorney's fee for not more than exceeding three dollars.

In any action in which real property is actually sold after judgment, costs shall include a commissioner's fee to be fixed by the court, not exceeding five per centum of the purchase price; and in case of redemption between the date of sale and judgment of confirmation, said fee shall be added to the amount otherwise necessary for redemption. In case more than one sale is made of the same property in any action, the commissioner's fee may be fixed by the highest amount bid, but said commissioner shall not be allowed a separate fee for each such sale. The governing body of any taxing unit may, in its discretion, appoint the commissioner a salaried official, attorney or employee of the unit and, if such appointment is made, may require that such commissioner's fees, when collected, be paid to plaintiff unit for use as it may direct.

(l) Contested Actions. — Any action brought under this section, in which an answer raising an issue requiring trial is filed within the time allowed by law, shall be entitled to a preference as to time of trial over all other civil actions.

(m) Judgment of Sale.—Any judgment in favor of the plaintiff or any defendant taxation unit in an action brought under this section shall order the sale of the property, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the satisfaction of: (1) taxes adjudged to be liens in favor of the plaintiff, other than taxes the amount of which has not been definitely determined, together with interest, penalties and costs thereon; and (2) taxes adjudged to be liens in favor of other taxing units, other than taxes the amount of which has not yet been definitely determined, if said taxes have been alleged in answers filed by said units, together with interest, penalties and costs thereon.

Said judgment shall appoint a commissioner to conduct said sale and shall order that the property be sold in fee simple, free and clear of all liens, claims and liens whatever, except that said sale shall be subject to taxes the amount of which cannot be definitely determined at the time of said judgment, subject to taxes and assessments of taxing units which are not parties to said action, and, in the discretion of the court, subject to taxes alleged in other tax foreclosure actions or proceedings pending against the same property.
In all cases in which no answer is filed within the time allowed by law, and in cases in which answers filed do not seek to prevent sale of said property, the clerk of the superior court may render said judgment, subject to appeal in the same manner as appeals are taken from other judgments of said clerk.

(n) Advertisement of Sale.—The sale shall be advertised, and all necessary resales shall be advertised, in the manner provided by §§ 1-327, 1-328, or by such statute as may be enacted in substitution therefor.

(o) Sale.—The sale shall be by public auction to the highest bidder, and shall, in accordance with the judgment, be held at the courthouse door on any day of the week except a Sunday or legal holiday: Provided, that in actions brought by any city which is not a county seat the court may, in its discretion, direct said sale to be held at the city hall door. The commissioner conducting such sale may, in his discretion, require from any successful bidder a deposit equal to not more than twenty per centum of his bid, which said deposit, in the event that said bidder refuses to take title and a resale becomes necessary, shall be applied to pay the costs of sale and any loss resulting: Provided, that this shall not deprive the commissioner of the right to sue for specific performance of the contract.

(p) Report of Sale.—Within three days following said sale the commissioner shall report said sale to the court, giving full particulars thereof.

(q) Exceptions and Increased Bids.—At any time within twenty days after the filing of said report of sale any person having an interest in the property may file exceptions to said report, and at any time within said period an increased bid may be filed in the amount specified by and subject to the provisions (other than provisions in conflict herewith) of § 45-98, or to the provisions (other than provisions in conflict herewith) of any law enacted in substitution for said section.

(r) Judgment of Confirmation.—At any time after the expiration of said twenty days, if no exception or increased bid has been filed, the commissioner may apply for judgment of confirmation; and in like manner he may apply for such judgment after the court has passed upon any exceptions filed, or after any necessary resales have been held and reported and twenty days have elapsed: Provided, that the court may, in its discretion, order resale of the property, in the absence of exceptions or increased bids, whenever it deems such resale necessary for the best interests of the parties.

Said judgment of confirmation shall direct the commissioner to deliver the deed upon payment of the purchase price.

Said judgment may be rendered by the clerk of the superior court, subject to appeal in the same manner as appeals are taken from other judgments of said clerk.

(s) Application of Proceeds of Sale; Final Commissions.—After delivery of the deed and collection of the purchase price, the commissioner shall apply the proceeds as follows: first, to payment of all costs of the action, including commissioner’s fee and attorney’s fee, which said costs shall be paid to the officials or funds entitled thereto; then to the payment of taxes, penalties and interest for which said property was ordered to be sold, and in case the funds remaining are insufficient for this purpose they shall be distributed pro rata to the various taxing units for whose taxes the property was ordered sold; then pro rata to the payment of any special benefit assessments for which said property was ordered sold, together with interest and costs thereon; then pro rata to payment of taxes, penalties, interest and costs of taxing units which were parties to said action but which filed no answers therein; then pro rata to payment of special benefit assessments of taxing units which were parties to said action but which filed no answers therein, together within interest and costs on said assessments; and any balance then remaining shall be paid in accordance with any directions given by the court and, in the absence of such directions, shall be paid into court for the benefit of the persons entitled thereto. The commissioner in all such cases shall make a full report to the court, within five days after delivery of the deed, showing delivery of the deed, receipt of the purchase price, and the disbursement of the proceeds, accompanied by receipts evidencing all such disbursements.

In case the purchaser is a taxing unit such unit may proceed in accordance with the provisions hereinafter set forth in this section; and the commissioner shall make report accordingly.

(t) Bids by Taxing Units.—Any taxing unit, or two or more units jointly, may bid at foreclosure sale, and any taxing unit which becomes the successful bidder may assign its bid, or portion thereof, at any time, by private sale, for not less than the amount thereof.

(u) Payment of Purchase Price by Taxing Units; Status of Property Purchased by Taxing Units.—Any taxing unit which becomes the purchaser at final tax foreclosure sale may, in the discretion of its governing body, pay only such part of the purchase price as would not be distributed to itself and other taxing units on account of taxes, interest, penalties and such costs as accrued prior to the beginning of the foreclosure action. Thereafter, in such case, it shall hold said property for the benefit of all taxing units which have an interest in such property as hereinafter in this subsection defined. All net income from said property and the proceeds thereof, when resold, shall be first used to reimburse the purchasing unit for disbursements actually made by it in connection with the foreclosure action and the purchase of said property, and any balance remaining shall be distributed to the taxing units having an interest therein in proportion to their interests. The total interest of each taxing unit, including the purchasing unit, shall be determined by adding: (1) taxes of such unit, with interest, penalties and costs (other than costs already reimbursed to the purchasing unit) to satisfy which said property was ordered sold; (2) other taxes of such unit, with interest, penalties and costs, which would have been paid from the purchase price had said purchase price been paid in full; (3) taxes of such unit, with interest, penalties and costs, to which said sale was made subject; and (4) the principal amount of all taxes which may become liens on said property after purchase at foreclosure sale or which would have become liens but for such purchase: Provided, that no amount shall be included under clause (4) hereof for taxes for years in which, on the tax listing day, said property is being used by said taxing unit for a public purpose.

If the amount of net income and proceeds of resale distributable exceeds the total interests of all units hereinbefore defined, the remainder shall be applied to any special benefit assessments to satisfy which said sale was ordered or to which said sale was made subject, and any balance then remaining shall accrue to the purchasing unit.

When any property, purchased as hereinbefore provided in this subsection, is permanently dedicated for use for a public purpose, the purchasing unit shall make settlement with other taxing units having an interest in such property, as hereinbefore defined, in such manner and in such amount as may be agreed upon by the governing bodies; and if no agreement can be reached the amount to be paid shall be determined by the resident judge of the superior court.

Nothing in this subsection shall be construed as requiring the purchasing unit to secure the approval of other interested taxing units before reselling said property or as requiring said purchasing unit to pay said other units in full if the net income and resale price are insufficient to make such payments.

Such taxing unit purchasing property at foreclosure sale may, in the discretion of its governing body, instead of following the foregoing provisions of this subsection, make full payment of the purchase price and thereafter it shall hold said property as sole owner in the same manner as it holds other real property, subject only to taxes and assessments, with interest, penalties and costs, to which said sale was made subject.

(v) Resale of Property Purchased by Taxing Units.—Property purchased at tax foreclosure sale by a taxing unit may be resold at any time for such price as the governing body may approve. Such resales shall be conducted in the manner provided by law for sales of other property of the various taxing units: Provided, that a city may, in the discretion of its governing body, resell such property to former owner or other person for an amount not less than the total interests of such taxing units in such property, if it holds said property as sole owner, or for an amount not less than the total interests of all taxing units (other than assessments due the city holding title), if it holds said property for the requirements of local governments in this State, and to recognize, in authorizing such proceeding, that all those owning interests in real property necessarily levied, to the knowledge of all, for the requirements of local governments in this State; and to recognize, in authorizing such proceeding, that all those owning interests in real property know or should know, without special notice thereof, that such property may be seized and sold for the failure to pay such lawful taxes.

Nothing in this section shall be construed as a limitation of time on the right to foreclose a tax lien under § 105-391. (b) Motion to Set Aside.—At any time prior to issue of execution, any person having an interest in said property may appear and move to set aside said judgment on the ground that the tax has been paid or that the tax lien on which said judgment is based is invalid.

(c) Issue of Execution.—At any time after six months and before two years from the indexing of said judgment, execution shall be issued at the request of the governing body of the taxing unit, in the same manner as executions are issued upon other judgments of the superior court, and said property shall be sold by the sheriff in the same manner and under the same conditions prescribed for the sale of real estate on which such taxes are a lien. The court has authority to reject the bid made at the foreclosure sale of a tax sale certificate and order a resale, even if the amount of net income and proceeds of resale distributable exceeds the total interests of all units hereinbefore defined, the remainder shall have the same force and effect as a duly rendered judgment of the superior court directing sale of said property for the satisfaction of the tax lien, and which judgment shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum. The clerk shall be allowed fifty cents per certificate for such docketing and indexing, payable when such taxes are collected or such property is sold, and shall account for said fees in the same manner as other fees of his office are accounted for: Provided, that the governing body of any county, if said clerk is in charge of the office, may permit any clerk, if he is on fees or salary plus fees, may require such fees to be advanced by the taxing unit.

The collecting official filing said certificate shall, at least two weeks prior to the docketing of said judgment, send a registered letter to the listing taxpayer, at his last known address, stating that the judgment will be docketed and that execution will issue thereon in the manner provided by law. However, receipt of said letter by said listing taxpayer, or receipt of actual notice of the proceeding by said taxpayer or any other interested person, shall not be required for the validity or priority of said judgment or for the validity or priority, as hereinafter provided, of the title acquired by the purchaser at the execution sale. It is hereby expressly declared to be the intention of this section that proceedings brought under it shall be strictly in rem. It is further declared to be the intention of the section to provide a simple and inexpensive method of enforcing payment of taxes necessarily levied, to the knowledge of all, for the requirements of local governments in this State; and to recognize, in authorizing such proceeding, that all those owning interests in real property know or should know, without special notice thereof, that such property may be seized and sold for the failure to pay such lawful taxes.

manner as other property is sold under execution: Provided, that no debtor's exemption shall be allowed; and provided, further, that in lieu of any personal service of notice on the owner of said property, registered mail notice shall be mailed to the listing taxpayer, at his last known address, at least one week prior to the day fixed for said sale. The purchaser at said sale shall acquire title to said property in fee simple, free and clear of all claims, rights, interest and liens except the lien of other taxes and assessments not paid from the purchase price and not included in the judgment: Provided, that if a taxing unit has, by virtue of the taxes included in such a judgment, been made a defendant in a foreclosure action brought under § 105-391, it shall file answer therein and thereafter all proceedings shall be governed by order of court in accordance with the provisions of that section.

(d) Cancellation upon Payment.—Upon payment in full of any judgment docketed under this section, together with interest thereon and costs accrued to the date of payment, it shall be the duty of the collecting official receiving such payment immediately to certify the fact of such payment to the clerk of superior court, who shall thereupon cancel the judgment, the fee for which shall be included as part of accrued costs.

(e) Consolidation of Liens.—By agreement between the governing bodies, two or more taxing units may consolidate their liens for purposes of docketing judgment, or may have one execution issued for separate judgments, against the same property. In like manner one execution may issue for separate judgments in favor of one or more taxing units against the same property for different years' taxes.

In any advertisement or posted notice of sale under execution the sheriff may (and, at the request of the governing body of the taxing unit, shall) combine the advertisements or notices for properties to be sold under executions, against the properties of different taxpayers, in favor of the same taxing unit or group of units: Provided, that the property included in each judgment shall be separately described and the name of the listing taxpayer specified in connection with each.

(f) Special Assessments.—Street, sidewalk and other special assessments may be included in any judgment for taxes taken under this section; or such assessments may be included in a separate judgment docketed under this section, which is hereby declared to be made available as a method of foreclosing the lien of such assessments.

(g) Purchase and Resale by Taxing Unit.—Any taxing unit may become a bidder at said sale under execution, and may assign its bid by private sale, for not less than the amount of such bid. Property purchased by any taxing unit may be resold at any time in the manner provided by law for sale of other property of such unit: Provided, that the property included in each judgment shall be separately described and the name of the listing taxpayer specified in connection with each.

(h) Procedure if Section Declared Unconstitutional.—If any provisions of this section are declared invalid or unconstitutional by a court of competent jurisdiction, all taxing units which have proceeded under this section shall have one year from the date of the filing of such opinion (or, in case of appeal, from the date of the filing of the opinion on appeal) in which to institute foreclosure actions under § 105-391 for all taxes included in judgments taken under this section and for subsequent taxes due or which, but for purchase of such property by the taxing unit, would have become due; and such opinion shall not have the effect of invalidating the tax lien or disturbing the priority thereof. (1939, c. 310, s. 1720.)

Local Modification.—Cumberland: 1941, c. 44, s. 1(g).

§ 105-393. Time for contesting validity of tax foreclosure title.—No action or proceeding shall be brought to contest the validity of any title to real property acquired, by a taxing unit or by a private purchaser, in any tax foreclosure action or proceeding authorized by this subchapter or by other laws of this state in force at the time of acquisition of said title, nor shall any motion to reopen or set aside the judgment in any such tax foreclosure action or proceeding be entertained, after one year from the date on which the deed is recorded: Provided, that in cases of deeds recorded prior to April 3, 1939, such action or proceeding may be brought or motion entertained within one year after said date: Provided, further, that this shall not be construed as enlarging the time within which to bring such action or proceeding or entertain such motion. (1939, c. 310, s. 1721.)

§ 105-394. Facsimile signatures.—In the institution or prosecution of any suits or other proceedings under this subchapter, or in tax foreclosure proceedings under laws heretofore or hereafter in force, and in the giving of any notice preliminary to the institution thereof, it shall be sufficient and a compliance with the law that where any official or attorney required to sign summons, complaints, verifications of pleadings, notices, judgments or other papers, the name of said official or attorney may be affixed to said documents by stamping thereon the facsimile of the signature of said official or attorney with a rubber stamp by any person authorized by said official or attorney so to do; and said documents so stamped shall have the same legal force and effect as if said signature had been written by said official or attorney with his own hand, and all such signatures stamp as aforesaid shall be conclusively presumed to have been so stamped at the direction of the official or attorney whose signature it purports to be. (1939, c. 310, s. 1722.)

§ 105-395. Application of article.—All provisions of this article shall apply to all taxes originally due within fiscal years beginning on or after July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine. With the exception of the provisions of §§ 105-378 to 105-380, the provisions of this article shall also apply to all taxes uncollected on April 3, 1939, originally due within the fiscal year beginning July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight. Sections 105-378, 105-379, 105-391, 105-390, 105-393, 105-394, and subsections (k) to (v), inclusive, of § 105-391 shall also apply, to the extent that such application does not affect any action already taken or affect private rights already vested on April 3, 1939, to all taxes, due and owing to taxing units on April 3, 1939, originally due within fiscal years beginning on [1125] or before July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, whether such taxes have heretofore been included in tax sales certificates or not, and whether such taxes are included in pending foreclosure actions or not; and § 105-392, and subsections (a) to (l), inclusive, of § 105-391 shall also apply to all taxes, due and owing to taxing units on April 3, 1939, originally due within fiscal years beginning on or before July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, which have not been included in any tax foreclosure proceedings pending or completed on April 3, 1939: Provided, that with respect to such taxes originally due within the fiscal years beginning on or before July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, which provisions of said § 105-392, and subsections (a) to (l), inclusive, of § 105-391 shall be in addition to, and not in substitution for, the provisions of laws in force immediately prior to April 3, 1939: Provided, further, that proceedings may be begun under the provisions of §§ 105-391 and 105-392, with respect to such taxes originally due within the fiscal years beginning on or before July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, at any time after six months and within one year following April 3, 1939 or within a longer period otherwise permitted by the terms of this article.

Except as in this section provided, the collection and foreclosure of taxes originally due within fiscal years beginning on or after April 3, 1939 or within a longer period otherwise permitted by the terms of this article. Nothing in this section or this article shall be construed to require foreclosure of any taxes under the provisions of § 105-392, and subsections (a) to (l), inclusive, of § 105-391, if such taxes have been or by the terms of this section may be included in any action instituted under laws in force immediately prior to April 3, 1939, whether such taxes are included in said action by the original complaint or by amendment thereto.

To the extent indicated in this section the laws in force immediately prior to April 3, 1939, are hereby preserved in full force and effect, any repeal clauses contained in this article or subchapter to the contrary notwithstanding. (1939, c. 310, s. 1723.)

§ 105-396. Foreign corporations not exempt.—Nothing in this subchapter shall be construed to exempt from taxation at the value prescribed by law any property situated in this state belonging to any foreign corporation, unless the context clearly indicates the intent to grant such exemption. (1939, c. 310, s. 1800.)

Determining Liability.—A nonresident corporation is liable for taxation for such proportion of its capital stock as the value of its tangible property within the state bears to the value of all its tangible property. Commissioners v. Old Dominion Steamship Co., 128 N. C. 558, 39 S. E. 18.

§ 105-397. General purpose of subchapter.—It is the purpose of this subchapter except as otherwise herein provided to provide the machinery for the listing and valuing of property, and the levy and collection of taxes, for the year one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine, and annually thereafter, and to that end this subchapter shall be liberally construed, subject to the provisions set out in Schedule H, §§ 105-198 to 105-217. (1939, c. 310, s. 1802.)

Art. 29. Validation of Listings.

§ 105-398. Real property listings validated.—Listings of any real estate not otherwise listed, which have been carried forward on the tax list of any person by the county supervisor of taxation, list taker or assessor, at the same assessed value of said property as it was valued at in the last quadrennial assessment of taxes, unless the value thereof has been changed by the board of county commissioners as provided by law, are hereby validated, and are hereby declared to be legal and valid listings of the same as if listed by the owner or owner's agent or by the chairman of the board of county commissioners or otherwise, as provided by law.

This section shall be retroactive so as to include the period of time from the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-seven, to and including the eleventh day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five.

SUBCHAPTER III. COLLECTION OF TAXES.

§ 105-399. Subchapter to remain in force.—The provisions of this subchapter shall continue in force whether or not brought forward in subsequent acts to raise revenue or acts to provide for the assessment and collection of taxes, commonly called "revenue acts" and "machinery acts," unless and until expressly repealed or amended by, or clearly inconsistent with, subsequent legislation; it being the intention of the general assembly that this subchapter shall be a standing provision for the government of the matters embraced herein, and not to be repealed by implication because omitted in whole or in § 105-400. Application and construction.—The provisions of this subchapter shall apply to all taxes as defined in this chapter, whether state, county, town, city, or other municipal subdivision; and shall be liberally construed in favor of, and in furtherance of, the collection of such taxes. (Rev., s. 2849; C. S. 7973.)

§ 105-401. Terms defined.—Unless such construction or definition would be manifestly inconsistent with or repugnant to the context, the words and phrases following, whenever used in this subchapter, shall be construed to include in their meaning the definitions set opposite the same in this section:

1. "Tax," "taxes." Any taxes, special assessments or costs, interest or penalty imposed upon property or polls.

2. "He." Male, female, company, corporation, firm, society, singular or plural number.

3. "Real property." Real estate, land, tract, lot—not only the land itself, whether laid out in town or city lots or otherwise with all things therein, but also all buildings, structures, and improvements and other permanent fixtures of whatever kind thereon, and all rights and privileges belonging or in any wise appertaining thereto, and all estates therein.

4. "Sheriff." Every person who is by law authorized to collect taxes, either state or municipal. (Rev., s. 2851; C. S. 7974.)

§ 105-402. Sheriff includes tax collector.—Whenever in this chapter a duty is imposed upon the sheriff of a county of which a tax collector has been or may be appointed, it shall be incumbent upon the tax collector to perform such office instead of the sheriff, and such tax collector shall collect all the taxes, have all the emoluments and be subject to all the penalties as provided in case of sheriffs in this chapter, and it shall be the duty of all persons having tax moneys in hand to account for and settle with such tax collector. (Rev., s. 3263; 1917, c. 234, s. 111; 1919, c. 92, s. 111; C. S. 7975.)

§ 105-403. No taxes released. — No board of county commissioners, or council, or board of aldermen or commissioners of any city or town shall have power to release, discharge, remit, or commute any portion of the taxes assessed and levied against any person or property within their respective jurisdictions for any reason whatever; and any tax so discharged, released, remitted, or commuted may be recovered by civil action from the members of any such board at the suit of any citizen of the county, city, or town, as the case may be, and when collected shall be paid to the proper treasurer. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the proper authorities from refunding taxes as provided in this chapter; nor to interfere with the powers of any officers or boards sitting as a board of equalization of taxes; nor construed to exempt any taxpayer or property from liability for taxes released, discharged, remitted, or commuted in violation of this section. (Rev., s. 2854; 1901, c. 558, s. 31; C. S. 7976.)

§ 105-404. Uncollected inheritance taxes remitted after 20 years.—All inheritance taxes levied by the State which remain uncollected twenty years or more after the death of the person upon whose estate said taxes were levied shall be, and they are hereby remitted. (1935, c. 483.)

§ 105-405. Taxing authorities authorized to release or remit taxes.—The board of county commissioners or city council or board of aldermen or city commissioners, or any other governing body in any city or town, shall have power to release, discharge, remit or commute any portion of the taxes assessed and levied against any person or property within their respective jurisdictions when there has been destruction or partial destruction or any damage to the property assessed for valuation when such destruction, partial destruction or damage occurs between midnight of April first and midnight of June thirtieth of any year, and when said destruction or partial destruction or damage has been caused by tornado, cyclone, hurricane or other wind or windstorm: Provided, application for release, discharge, remission or commutation is made to the aforesaid governing body within one year of the date of said destruction, partial destruction or damage: Provided further, that in cases of applicants for such relief who have received, or may receive, reimbursements for such damage or destruction from insurance policy contracts or otherwise, or whose property has been restored or rehabilitated, wholly or partially, by the Red Cross or any public welfare agency or organization without full value having been paid therefor by the property owner, such applicant shall, as a condition precedent to the relief herein provided for, list for taxation for the year for which relief is asked the equivalent in value of such reimbursement or restoration or rehabilitation; and provided further, that such governing body shall apply this section uniformly to all persons and property within its jurisdiction. This section shall be retroactive to and including April first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six. (1937, c. 15.)

§ 105-405.1. Governing boards of counties, cities and towns authorized to refund taxes illegally collected.—The board of county commissioners of any county or the governing body of any city or town, upon the passage and recording in the minutes of a proper resolution finding as a fact that any funds received by such municipality were required to be paid through clerical error or by a tax illegally levied and assessed, is authorized and empowered to remit and refund the same upon the taxpayer making demand in writing to the proper authorities for such remission and refund within two years from the date the same was due to be paid. (1943, c. 709.)

§ 105-406. Remedy of taxpayer for unauthorized tax.—Unless a tax or assessment, or some part thereof, be illegal or invalid, or be levied or assessed for an illegal or unauthorized purpose, no injunction shall be granted by any court or judge to restrain the collection thereof in whole or in part, nor to restrain the sale of any property for the nonpayment thereof; nor shall any court issue any order in claim and delivery proceedings or otherwise for the taking of any personality levied on by the sheriff to enforce payment of such tax or assessment against the owner thereof. Whenever any person shall claim to have a valid defense for nonpayment of a tax or assessment charged or assessed upon his property or poll, such person shall pay such tax or assessment to the sheriff; but if, at the time of such payment, he shall notify the sheriff in writing that he pays the same under protest, such payment shall be without prejudice to any defenses or rights he may have in the premises, and he may, at any time within thirty days after such payment, demand the same in writing from the treasurer of the state or of the county, city, or town, for the benefit or under the authority or by request of which the same was levied; and if the same shall not be refunded within ninety days thereafter, may sue such county, city, or town for the amount so demanded, including in his action against the county both state and county tax; and in case the court shall determine that such tax or any part thereof was levied or assessed for an illegal or unauthorized purpose, or was for any reason invalid or excessive, judgment shall be rendered therefor, with interest, and the same shall be collected as in other cases. The amount of state taxes for which judgment shall be rendered in such action shall be refunded by the state treasurer. (Rev., § 2855, 1901, c. 558, s. 30; C. S. 7979.)

§ 105-407. Tax paid in judicial sales and sales under powers.—In all civil actions and special proceedings wherein the sale of any real estate shall be ordered, the judgment shall provide for the payment of all taxes then assessed upon the property and remaining unpaid, and for the payment of such sums as may be required to redeem the property, if it has been sold for taxes and such redemption can be had; all of which payments shall be adjudged to be made out of the proceeds of sale. The judgment shall adjust the disbursements for such taxes and expenses of redemption from tax sales between the parties to the action or proceeding in accordance with their respective rights. And whenever any real estate shall be sold by any person under any power of sale conferred upon him by any deed, will, power of attorney, mortgage, deed of trust, or assignment for the benefit of creditors, the person making such sale must pay out of the proceeds of sale all taxes then assessed upon such real estate and such sums as shall be necessary to redeem the land, if it has been sold for taxes and such redemption is practicable. This section shall apply both to taxes and special assessments for paving, drainage, or other improvements; provided, that the person making such sale, whether under order of court or in the exercise of a power, shall be payable in installments, to pay only such installments of special assessments as have become due at the date of such sale. The failure to comply with this section and to pay such taxes or assessments shall not vacate or affect the lien of such taxes or assessments, but such lien shall be discharged only to the extent of payment is actually made. (Rev. s. 2857; 1901, c. 558, s. 47; 1929, c. 231, s. 1; C. S. 7980.)

§ 105-408. Tax paid by holder of lien; remedy.—Any person having a lien or encumbrance of any kind upon real estate may pay the taxes due by the owner thereof in so far as the same are a lien upon such real estate, and the amount of taxes so paid shall, from the time of payment, operate as a lien upon such real estate in preference to all other liens, which lien may be enforced by action in the superior court in term. The money so paid may also be recovered by action for moneys paid to his use against the person legally liable for the payment of such taxes. (Rev. s. 2858; Code, s. 3700; 1901, c. 558, s. 46; 1879, c. 71, s. 55; C. S. 7981.)
§ 105-410. Forfeiture by life tenant failing to pay. Every person shall be liable for the taxes assessed or charged upon the property or estate, real or personal, of which he is tenant for life. If any tenant for life of real estate shall suffer the same to be sold for taxes by reason of his neglect or refusal to pay the taxes thereon, and shall fail to redeem the same within one year after such sale, he shall thereby forfeit his estate to the remainderman or reversioner. The remainderman or reversioner may redeem such lands, in the same manner that is provided for the redemption of other lands. Moreover, such remainderman or reversioner shall have the right to recover of such tenant for life all damages sustained by reason of such neglect or refusal on the part of such tenant for life. If any tenant for personal property suffer the same to be sold for taxes by reason of any default of his, he shall be liable in damages to the remainderman or reversioner. (Rev., s. 2859; Code, ss. 3698, 3699; 1901, c. 558, s. 45; 1879, c. 71, ss. 53, 54; C. 7982.)

Life Tenant Has Same Protection as Others.—The statutes now in effect in this state for the enforcement of the collection of taxes on real property give the life tenant the same protection as any other interested party. The interest of the life tenant, as well as that of all other interested parties, including lienholders, can be divested only by the life tenant himself. Where the property is held jointly or in common, or, in the description. Cooper v. Cooper, 221 N. C. 124, 19 S. E. 2d, 229. Where a life tenant has permitted the lands to be sold for taxes and fails to redeem same within the time prescribed by law. Bryan v. Bryan, 206 N. C. 484, 174 S. E. 2d, 229.

§ 105-411. Remedies of cotenants and joint owners.—Any one of several tenants in common, or joint tenants or copartners shall have the right to pay the taxes which have accrued on the real estate held jointly or in common, or, if such estate has been sold for taxes, he may redeem his share by paying his proportionate part of the amount required for redeeming the whole. Where he has paid his share of the taxes or amount required for the redemption and the land has been or shall be divided by actual partition the share set apart to him in severality shall be free from the lien of, and shall not be liable to be subjected in any manner to, the payment of the residue of taxes assessed upon such property; but such residue of taxes and the costs and penalties incident thereto shall be a lien upon the residue of such real estate, which residue shall be subjected to the satisfaction of the taxes, costs, and penalties incident thereto. Any such part owner in real estate shall have the right to pay the whole of the taxes assessed thereon and all costs and penalties incident to such taxes, and to redeem such real estate as a whole when it has been sold for taxes, and all sums by him so paid in excess of his share of such taxes, costs, and penalties and amounts required for redemption, shall constitute a lien upon the shares of his cotenants or associates, payment whereof, with interest, he may enforce in any other appropriate judicial proceeding. When one tenant in common, joint tenant, or copartner shall have paid his proportionate share of the taxes, costs, and penalties and amounts required for redemption, it shall constitute a lien upon the shares of his cotenants or associates, payment whereof, with interest, he may enforce in any other appropriate judicial proceeding. When one tenant in common, joint tenant, or copartner shall have paid his proportionate share of the taxes, costs, and penalties and amounts required for redemption, it shall constitute a lien upon the shares of his cotenants or associates, payment whereof, with interest, he may enforce in any other appropriate judicial proceeding.
§ 105-412. Fiduciaries to pay taxes.—It shall be the duty of every guardian, executor, administrator, or person holding any property or estate, real or personal, to pay the taxes thereon in trust or under the control of fiduciaries of the parties to pay taxes on the property, as provided by this section, when there is no exception or appeal entered of record by the testator’s administrator. Everett v. Rodgers, 20 N. C. 459, 464 (1867).

§ 105-413. Tax lien on railroad property.—The taxes upon any and all railroad tracks in this state, including roadbed, right of ways, depots, sidetracks, ties and rails, now constructed or hereafter to be constructed, are hereby made a perpetual lien thereupon, commencing from the first day of May in each current year, against all claims or demands whatsoever of any person holding or exercising the right of the United States, the state, and this state; and the above described property or any part thereof may be taken and held for payment of all taxes assessed against such railroad company in the several counties in this state. (Rev., ss. 2865, 5269; 1917, c. 234, s. 98; 1919, c. 92, s. 98; C. S. 7989.)

§ 105-414. Tax lien enforced by action to foreclose.—A lien upon real estate for taxes or assessments due thereon may be enforced by an action in the nature of an action to foreclose a mortgage, having as its object the sale of such real estate, or of so much thereof as shall be necessary for that purpose, for the satisfaction of the amount adjudged to be due on such lien, together with interest, penalties, and costs allowed by law, and the costs of such action. When such lien is in favor of the state or county, or both, such action shall be prosecuted by and in the name of the county; when the lien is in favor of any other municipal corporation, the action shall be prosecuted by and in the name of such corporation.

Local Modification.—Wayne: Pub. Loc. 1939, c. 190.

Cross Reference.—For subsequent statute governing foreclosure of tax liens, see § 105-416.

Summary Proceeding Unnecessary.—Where the Legislature has authorized a municipality to collect back taxes, and in an action for that purpose it appears that the taxes, of the defendant are due, and were properly assessed against lots of land within the limits of the municipality subject to the lien thereon, it is not necessary that the plaintiff should first have resorted to the summary method of levy and sale, for recourse may be had by direct suit to foreclose the lien, under this section. Wilmington v. Moore, 170 N. C. 52, 86 S. E. 755; Commission v. Epley, 190 N. C. 590, 110 S. E. 77; 192 N. C. 590, 130 S. E. 820 (1924).

Prescribed Remedy Optional with State.—The fact that the Revenue Act prescribes a specific remedy for the collection of taxes does not restrict the State to pursue that method, nor preclude it from seeking the aid of the Superior Court through a creditor’s suit. The specific remedy pointed out restricts only the officers who collect only the revenue and not the sovereign. State v. Georgia Co., 112 N. C. 34, 17 S. E. 10.

Tax Collector Has No Lien Where Check Returned Unpaid.—The county tax collector is authorized and enjoined to accept a check returned unpaid, and the collector in his settlement with the county paid the taxes in question, does not give him a lien which may be enforced under this section. For the same purpose, the collector failed to show the check returned and the taxes unpaid, the tax lien was not reinstated. Miller v. Neal, 222 N. C. 540, 23 S. E. (2d) 652.

Alias Summons.—In an action to enforce a lien for public improvements it was held that the allegations constituted the action one to foreclose the original lien under this section, notwithstanding that a purported alias summons was issued 91 days after the institution of the action, as permitting an action instituted under repealed § 8037, since the nature of an action is determined by the allegations of the complaint and not by the time the purported alias summons was issued. Asheboro v. Miller, 220 N. C. 296, 18 S. E. (2d) 105 (1942).

The receiver of a drainage district may proceed in an action in the nature of an action to foreclose a mortgage under this section for the collection of such drainage assessments. Drainage District v. Hines, 172 N. C. 529, 92 S. E. 368 (1917). The statute providing that an action or a liability created on statute shall be brought within three years has no application. Drainage District v. Hood, 172 N. C. 529, 92 S. E. 368 (1917). This is on the well settled principle that statutes of limitation, even if applicable to a given case, do not apply to the sovereign unless expressly named.
§ 105-415. Sureties of sheriff may collect when.

—If any sheriff shall die during the time appointed for collecting taxes, his sureties may collect the taxes for him, and such collecting is not allowed because the collector shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., ss. 2868, 5364; 1917, c. 234, s. 112; 1919, c. 92, s. 112; C. S. 7993.)

§ 105-416. Sheriff collecting by deputy.—When the sheriff shall collect by his deputies they shall, before the clerk of the board of commissioners or before a justice of the peace of the county, take and subscribe an oath faithfully and honestly to account for the taxes with the sheriff or other person authorized to receive the same. Such oath shall be evidenced by a certificate of sale executed by the proper officers, the sovereignty may proceed under this section to foreclose the lien, in which event no statute of limitations is applicable. Logan v. Griffith, 205 N. C. 280, 282, 172 S. E. 348.

§ 105-417. Compromise of tax claims due by railroad companies in which state owns majority of stock, authorized.—The commissioner of revenue of the state of North Carolina and the governing bodies of any county, municipality, or other taxing subdivision in this state, are hereby authorized to enter into agreements with railroad companies in which state owns the majority of the ownership of the stock and the effect of this latter statute need not be considered, and said settlement may be accepted by said officials if in their judgment the acceptance of the same will be for the best interests and to the advantage of the respective taxing units holding such tax claims. (1939, c. 76.)

Editor's Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 379.

Art. 33A. Agreements with United States or Other States.

§ 105-417.1. Agreements to coordinate the administration and collection of taxes.—The commissioner of revenue is hereby authorized, with the approval of the governor and council of state, to enter into agreements with the United States government or any department or agency thereof, or with a state or any political subdivision thereof, for the purpose of coordinating the administration and collection of taxes imposed by this state and administered and collected by said commissioner with taxes imposed by the United States or by any other state or political subdivision thereof. (1943, c. 747, s. 1.)

§ 105-417.3. Returns to be filed and taxes paid pursuant to agreements.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, returns shall be filed and taxes paid in accordance with the provisions of any agreement entered into pursuant to this article. (1943, c. 747, s. 3.)

Art. 35. Sheriff’s Settlement of Taxes.

§ 105-424. Time and manner of settlement.—The sheriff or other accounting officer shall, on or before the second Monday of January in each year, settle his estate tax account with the commissioners of his county and pay the amount for which said sheriff or collector is liable to the treasurer of the state, in such manner or at such place as he shall direct, on or before the third Monday of said month: Provided, the state treasurer may extend the time on a sufficient amount to cover the state tax on the land sales in each county to the first Monday in May. The commissioners shall forthwith report to the state auditor the amount due from such accounting officer, setting forth therein the net amount due to each fund; and the treasurer, upon a statement from the state auditor, shall open an account against such officer and debit him accordingly. Upon the failure of the board of county commissioners to make this report to the state auditor on or before the third Monday of January of each year, or if a report has been filed which is not correct and the commissioners fail to file an amended and corrected report within thirty days after being notified so to do by the state auditor, the commissioners of such county shall each personally be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, and it shall be the duty of the state auditor forthwith to institute an action in the county of Wake to enforce the same. The sheriff or tax collector, in making his settlements as aforesaid, shall file with the commissioners a duplicate of the list required in this chapter. In such settlement the sheriff or other officer shall be charged with the amount of public tax as the same appears by the abstract of the taxable property transmitted to the state auditor: also with all double taxes on unlisted property by him received, and with other tax which he may have collected or for which he is chargeable. The state auditor shall give to each sheriff or tax collector a certified statement embracing the subjects of taxation contained in both lists and the amount of tax on each subject which the sheriff or tax collector shall deposit with the clerk of the commissioners of his county for public inspection. The sheriffs and tax collectors shall receive five per cent on all taxes collected by them for state, county, township, school district, or other purposes whatsoever, up to the sum of five thousand dollars, and upon all sums in excess of such amount he shall receive two and one-half per cent commission, and the sheriffs or tax collectors shall receive for their own use, in addition to other fees or salary received by them, a commission of five per cent on all privilege and license taxes collected under schedule B of the revenue act, and any provision in any local act in conflict with this provision is hereby repealed. (Rev., s. 5245; 1917, c. 234, s. 101; 1919, c. 92, s. 1; C. S. 8042.)

Local Modification.—Buncombe: C. S. 8042; Perquimans: 1945, c. 745.

Cross References.—For subsequent statute relating to settlement, see § 105-390. As to sheriff’s duty to settle school tax, and penalty for failure to do so, see § 115-106 and note thereto.

The Settlement Has Attributes of Contract.—An account stated and settlement between a county and its tax collector have the force of a contract, and operate as a bar to subsequent accounting, except upon a specific allegation of fraud or mistake. Settle v. Doggett, 87 N. C. 203.

Fees of Sheriff Regulated by Legislature.—The regulation of the sheriff’s fees is within the control of the legislature and may be reduced during the term of the incumbent. Commissioner v. Stedman, 141 N. C. 448, 54 S. E. 269.

Same.—Basis of Compensation Changed.—(1) Right of Out-Going Sheriff.—A sheriff whose term of office expires is entitled to collect the taxes on the lists in his hands and to receive commissioner therefor, notwithstanding the office has been placed upon a salary basis for his successor. Commissioner v. Bain, 173 N. C. 377, 92 S. E. 176.

Same.—Same.—(2) Where Sheriff Re-Elected.—Upon the re-election of a sheriff the sheriff’s compensation as determined by the act of legislature changing the basis of compensation. Miller v. Deaton, 170 N. C. 386, 87 S. E. 123.

Same.—Drainage Districts.—This section, allowing sheriffs to collect for subordinate subject, and subject, “subject to the compensation of the sheriff,” refers only to taxes collected for general governmental purposes, and not to assessments in drainage districts imposed for the special benefits to the lands therein, and that the compensation of the sheriff on assessments for maintenance are limited to 2 per cent by Laws 1909; and this construction is not affected by the repeal of sec. 36, Laws 1909, by ch. 152, sec. 2, Laws 1917. SUBCHAPTER IV. LISTING OF AUTOMOBILES IN CERTAIN COUNTIES.

§ 105-425. Listing by owner required.—Every owner of a motor vehicle in the counties specified herein shall list such motor vehicle for taxes in such counties at the same time residents of such counties are or may be required by law to list real and/or personal property for taxation. (1931, c. 392, s. 1.)

§ 105-426. Commissioner of motor vehicles to furnish list of registered automobiles to counties.

—The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles shall furnish to the tax listing authorities of the counties enumerated in § 105-429, or to the tax collectors thereof, a list showing the names and addresses of all owners of motor vehicles in such counties as of January first in each year. The list shall [1134] also show the make, type and character of such motor vehicle and the date of registration thereof. This list shall be furnished as soon after the first day of January in each year as it can be prepared and furnished. The cost of preparing such lists shall be paid by the authorities of the enumerated counties to which the lists are furnished. (1931, c. 392, s. 2.)

§ 105-427. Listing by county authorities where owners fail to list.—The tax listing authorities of the counties specified herein shall compare said list of motor vehicle owners with the tax lists of such counties and if it appears that any owner of a motor vehicle has failed to list any motor vehicle registered in his name, it shall be the duty of such tax listing authorities or of the tax collectors of such counties to list such motor vehicle for purposes of taxation, together with any other property of such person, and the tax collectors of such counties shall collect the taxes thereon in the same manner as other taxes of such counties. (1931, c. 392, s. 3.)

§ 105-428. Basis of tax valuation.—All motor vehicles shall be valued or appraised for purposes of taxation upon the rule or standard of valuation established by "The Automobile Blue Book," or any other standard of value which may be reasonable, equitable and just. (1931, c. 392, s. 4.)

§ 105-429. Counties to which article applicable.—This article shall apply to the following counties: Alamance, Buncombe, Cabarrus, Camden, Caswell, Chowan, Currituck, Cleveland, Columbus, Durham, Gates, Guilford, Halifax, Harnett, Henderson, Hertford, Johnston, Iredell, Lee, Nash, Moore, McDowell, Orange, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Polk, Rowan, Rutherford, Swain, Wayne and Watauga. SUBCHAPTER V. GASOLINE TAX.

Art. 36. Gasoline Tax.

§ 105-430. Definitions; "motor fuel," "distributor."—The following words, terms, and phrases hereinafter used for the purpose of this article are defined as follows:

(a) "Motor Fuel" shall mean (a) all products commonly or commercially known or sold as gasoline (including casinghead and absorption or natural gasoline) regardless of their classification or uses; and (b) any liquid prepared, advertised, offered for sale or sold for use as or commonly and commercially used as a fuel in internal combustion engines, which when subjected to distillation in accordance with the standard method of test for distillation of gasoline, naphtha, kerosene and similar petroleum products (American Society for Testing Materials Designation D-86) shows not less than ten per centum (10%) distilled (recovered) below three hundred forty-seven degrees (347°) Fahrenheit (one hundred seventy-five degrees (175°) Centigrade) and not less than ninety-five per centum (95%) distilled (recovered) below four hundred sixty-four degrees (464°) Fahrenheit (two hundred forty degrees (240°) Centigrade); with the exception that the term "motor fuel" shall not include commercial solvents which distill, by American Society for Testing Materials Method D-86, not more than nine (9%) per centum at 175° F. and which have a distillation range of 125° F. or less, of liquefied gases which would not exist as liquids at a temperature of 60° Fahrenheit and a pressure of 14.7 pounds per square inch absolute.

(b) "Distributor" is any person, firm, association of persons, corporation, municipality, county, or other political subdivision or agency that has on hand or in its possession in this State, or that produces, refines, manufactures, or compounds such motor fuels in this State for sale, distribution, or use herein. (1927, c. 93, s. 1; 1931, c. 145, s. 24; 1941, c. 376, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Sections 2613(c)-2613(i) of Michie's Code as passed in 1921 were repealed by the Act of 1927 and reenacted.

The Act of 1911 amended these sections as amended by the act of 1927 and Public Laws 1929, c. 40, to read as appearing in §§ 2613(c)-2613(i) of Michie's Code.

The 1941 amendment, effective July 1, 1941, changed subsection (a) of this section.

For comment on the 1941 amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 166.

A county purchasing gasoline for use by it in trucks and automobiles in the discharge of its governmental function for maintenance of its highways is not a "distributor" within the purview of this chapter, imposing an excise tax upon distributors of gasoline, since general statutes do not bind the sovereign unless the sovereign is expressly mentioned, and under the express language of the statute the legislature could not have intended to include counties thereunder since counties could not be subject to the procedure for its enforcement nor liable for the penalty for its evasion.

As to whether Article V, § 5, of the State Constitution prohibits the General Assembly from levying such a tax on a county, quere, but not decided, the question not being necessary to the determination of the case. O'Berry, State Treasurer v. Mecklenburg County, 198 N. C. 357, 151 S. E. 880.

§ 105-431. Purpose of article; double taxation not intended.—The purpose of this article is to provide for the payment and collection of a tax on the first sale of motor fuels when sold, or the use, when used, in this State; double taxation is not intended. Motor fuels manufactured, produced, or sold for exportation, and exported are not taxable and should not be included in the reports hereinafter required to be made by distributors. (1927, c. 93, s. 2; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

§ 105-432. Sales in tank car shipments.—In the administration of this article the first sale shall not be construed to embrace the sale in tank car shipments from port terminals to licensed distributors within the State, but the tax hereinafter levied on such motor fuel shall be levied against and paid by such licensed distributor. (1927, c. 93, s. 22; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

§ 105-433. Application for license as distributor.—Any distributor engaged in business on April 1, 1931, shall, within thirty days thereafter, and any other distributor shall, prior to the commencement of doing business, file a duly acknowledged application for a license with the Commissioner of Revenue on a form prescribed and furnished by him setting forth the name under which such distributor transacts or intends to transact business within this State, the address of each place of business and a designation of the principal place of business. If such distributor is a firm or association, the application shall set forth the name and address of each person constituting the firm or association, and if a corporation, the names and addresses of the principal officers and such other information as the Commissioner of Revenue may require. Each distributor shall at the same time file a bond in such amount, not exceeding twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) in such form and with such surety or sureties as may be required by the Commissioner of Revenue, conditioned upon the rendition of the report and the payment of the tax hereinafter provided for. Upon approval of the application and bond, the Commissioner of Revenue shall issue to the distributor a non-assessable license with a duplicate copy for each place of business of said distributor in this State, which shall be displayed in a conspicuous place at each such place of business and shall continue in force until surrendered or cancelled. No distributor shall sell, offer for sale, or use any motor fuels within this State until such license has been issued. Any distributor failing to comply with or violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00), nor more than five thousand dollars ($5,000.00), or imprisoned for not more than twenty-four months, or both. (1927, c. 93, s. 452; 1929, c. 40, s. 1; 1931, c. 145, s. 24; 1941, cc. 16, 146; 1943, c. 113.)

Editor's Note.—The first 1941 amendment, adding the last proviso to this section, does not apply to any loss suffered prior to July 1, 1941. For the purpose of the second 1941 amendment this section provided for a tare of one per cent. Prior to the 1941 amendment the last two provisos related only to losses by lightning, flood or windstorm. The 1941 amendment is not applicable to any loss sustained prior to March 1, 1941.

Our state gasoline tax is an excise and not a property tax. Stedman v. Winston-Salem, 204 N. C. 203, 167 S. E. 813.

§ 105-434. Gallon tax.—There is hereby levied and imposed a tax of six cents per gallon on all motor fuels sold, distributed, or used within this State. The tax hereby imposed and levied shall be collected and paid by the distributor producing, refining, manufacturing, or compounding within this State, or holding in possession within this State motor fuels for the purpose of sale, distribution, or use within the State, and shall be paid by such distributor to the Commissioner of Revenue in the manner and at the times hereinafter specified. No county, city, or town, or political sub-division shall levy or collect any tax upon the sale or distribution of motor fuels herein defined. For the purpose of determining the amount of the tax, it shall be the duty of every distributor producing, refining, or compounding motor fuels within this State to transmit to the Commissioner of Revenue not later than the twentieth day of each month, upon forms prescribed and furnished by such commissioner, a report under oath or affirmation showing the quantity of motor fuel sold, distributed, or used by such distributor within this State during the preceding calendar month, and such other information as the said commissioner may require: Provided, that any distributor may, if he elects to do so, use as the measure of the tax levied and assessed against him by this section the gross quantity of motor fuel purchased, produced, refined, manufactured, and/or compounded by such distributor, plus the amount of motor fuel on hand at the beginning of the period when such method of computation is used, less a tare of two per cent (2%) on gross monthly receipts of motor fuels not exceeding 150,000 gallons, and less a tare of one and one-half per cent (1½%) on gross monthly receipts of such fuels in excess of 150,000 gallons and not exceeding 250,000 gallons, and less a tare of one per cent (1%) on gross monthly receipts of such fuels in excess of 250,000 gallons. Provided, that if any licensed distributor who has elected to pay the tax levied herein on the amount of motor fuel purchased, produced, refined, manufactured, or compounded, in lieu of the amount sold, distributed, or used, shall lose any such fuel by reason of fire, lightning, flood, windstorm, wrecking of transportation conveyance, acts of war, or any accidental or providential cause, and such loss is clearly proved to the satisfaction of the commissioner of revenue, the amount of motor fuel lost shall be excluded from the measure of his tax. Provided, further, that the commissioner of revenue shall have power under such rules and regulations as he may adopt for the purpose to refund to any non-licensed distributor the tax on any motor fuel purchased by and delivered to him tax paid that is lost by fire, lightning, flood, windstorm, acts of war, or any accidental or providential cause, after it is delivered to him and before it is sold, but such loss must be clearly proved to the satisfaction of the commissioner. (1927, c. 93, s. 3; 1931, c. 145, s. 24; 1941, cc. 16, 146; 1943, c. 113.)

§ 105-435. Tax on fuels not included in definition; permits to operate vehicles; reports by holders of permits.—(a) Every person who owns or operates over the highways of this state, any motor vehicle propelled by a motor which uses any product not included within the definition of “motor fuels” hereinefore set out to generate power for the propulsion of said vehicle, shall pay to the commissioner of revenue, for the use of the highways of this state, a tax of six cents (6c) per gallon on the fuel used in such vehicle upon the highways of this state.

(b) The owner or operator of such a vehicle on July 1, 1941, or any person who purchases such a vehicle subsequent thereto, shall, before it is operated on the highways of this state, apply to the commissioner of revenue, on forms prescribed by him, for a permit to operate such vehicle on the highways of the state and shall make the tax payments herein levied direct to the department of revenue. Upon receipt and approval of such application the commissioner of revenue shall issue to such owner or operator a non-assessable permit which shall remain in effect until new permit plates are required to be purchased and at that time shall be surrendered and a new permit showing the correct license number shall be issued. This permit shall at all times be in the possession of the operator of such vehicle and subject to inspection by any agent of the department of revenue or any dealer from whom such operator desires to purchase fuel. The holder of a permit issued under the provisions of this section shall be subject to the same laws and to the rules and regulations of the commissioner of revenue in regard to the payments of tax and filing reports that licensed distributors of motor fuel are subject to, and such person shall also be subject to any other rules and regulations promulgated by the commissioner of revenue for the proper administration of this section: Provided, however, no bond shall be required. Provided, further, any person duly licensed as a motor fuel distributor under the provisions of this article who owns and operates motor vehicles for his own use and utilizes in such vehicles fuel not defined as motor fuel in this article, is authorized to pay the tax levied in this section on such fuel at the same time and in the same manner as is provided for motor fuel distributors, and such tax shall be subject to the taxes allowed by law to motor fuel distributors. In the event that a person elects to qualify as a motor fuel distributor and pay the tax as authorized by this provision, it shall not be necessary for such person to secure the permit or make the reports required by this section, but such person shall comply with all the laws relating to motor fuel distributors.

(c) For the purpose of determining the amount of tax due, the owner or operator of every motor vehicle holding a permit issued under the provisions of this section shall file a report on or before the twentieth day of each month showing the number of miles each vehicle was operated over the highways of the state, the amount of fuel used during the preceding month and such other information as the commissioner of revenue may require. At the time of filing his report, said person shall pay to the commissioner of revenue the tax levied in paragraph (a) of this subsection.

the books and records of every licensed distribu-to the state department of revenue by every such distributor covering the total amount of tax lia-ability of such licensed distributor. It shall also be the duty of such auditors to check the records of each distributor with the records of shipment by railroad companies, or by boats or trucks, or other available sources of information, and also to check the records covering the receipt and dis-handled by each distributor. (1933, c. 137, s. 1.)

§ 105-444. License constitutes distributor trust officer of state for collection of tax.—The licensing of any person, firm or corporation as a wholesale distributor of gasoline shall constitute such distributor an agent or trust officer of the state for the purpose of collecting the tax on the sale of gasoline imposed in this article. When any person, firm or corporation who adds the amount of the tax levied in this article to the customary market price for gasoline and collects the same, shall fail to remit the gasoline tax to the commissioner of revenue upon the terms and as provided herein, such failure shall constitute em-corporation shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1933, c. 137, s. 1.)

shall be for the exclusive uses of the purposes set out in this article, and disbursed on vouchers drawn by the State Highway and Public Works fuels the tax imposed by this article shall have been paid, shall be reimbursed at the rate of five refund of gasoline tax as herein provided, upon the following conditions and in the following manner:

(a) Before using such motor fuels the person, association, firm, or corporation proposing to use the same shall apply to the commissioner of revenue to be furnished by him, for a refund permit. Such application shall state the use for which the motor fuels for which taxes are to be refunded are to be used. If such motor fuels are to be used in a gasoline motor or engine, the application shall state the make and kind of such motor, the serial number thereof, and the purpose for which it is proposed to use the same. If such motor fuels are to be used for some purpose other than the operation of an engine, the application shall state the nature and kind of process in which such motor fuels are to be used, and the method and manner in which such motor fuels are to be used, stored and kept. In all cases such application shall state the approximate number of gallons of such motor fuels to be used per month, and shall give such other information as the commissioner of revenue shall require. In making application for refund permit, the person making application may combine one or more of the uses above specified in the same application. Dealers in motor fuel engaged in selling such fuel to motor boats owned by non-residents, and which boats are not documented in this state, may apply to the commissioner of revenue for a permit on forms to be prescribed by the commissioner of revenue, which permit shall entitle the said dealer to be furnished with blanks by the commissioner of revenue in such form as may be prescribed by him, for the use of such non-resident boat owners to file applications for refunds as provided in this article, and said non-resident boat owners shall not be required to secure permits. Such application for refund shall be filed in the name of the non-resident boat owner on blanks furnished by dealers holding permits. Said applications must be accompanied by an invoice of the dealer holding permit, showing the number of gallons of motor fuel delivered into the tanks of said boats and shall furnish such other information as the commissioner of revenue shall require. Applications must be sworn to before a notary public of this state and filed with the commissioner of revenue. Upon approval of said applications by the commissioner of revenue, said applications shall be paid as other applications for refund are paid: Provided, however, that such non-residents must file applications with the commissioner of revenue within thirty days from the date of purchase of said gasoline and that said applications may be paid immediately upon approval. The application shall be accompanied by a fee of one dollar, to be returned if the refund permit is not issued. Such fees, if retained, shall be paid by the commissioner of revenue to the state treasurer to be credited to him to the state highway fund.

(b) If, upon the filing of such application, the commissioner of revenue shall be satisfied that the same is made in good faith and that the motor fuels upon which said tax refund is requested are to be used exclusively for one of the purposes set forth above and specified in said application, he shall issue to said applicant a refund permit specifying the terms and conditions under which refunds on such motor fuels will be made, which refund permits will expire with the fiscal year in which it is issued. Refund permits issued under this article shall state the maximum of said tax refund, or corporation to whom and for whose benefit it is issued, the purposes for which the motor fuels upon which tax refunds are to be made under the provisions thereof are to be used and the approximate number of gallons expected to be used per month for such purposes, and the commissioner of revenue shall determine such amount. Such refund permits shall bear serial numbers and shall not be transferable, nor shall any right or claim for refund under the same be transferable: Provided, however, that the commissioner of revenue shall not be required to issue any refund permit for use of motor fuels unless and until the applicant therefor shall have satisfied the commissioner of revenue that provisions have been made for the storage of such motor fuels in a manner prescribed by the commissioner of revenue, so as to segregate the same from motor fuels for use in vehicles upon the highways.

(c) All claims for refunds for tax or taxes for motor fuels under the provisions of this article shall be filed with the commissioner of revenue on forms to be prescribed by him, between the first and the fifteenth day of January, April, July, and October of each year, and at such periods only, and shall cover only the motor fuels so used during the three months immediately preceding the filing of such application. Such application shall be accompanied by ticket, invoice, or other document from the retail dealer or distributor for motor fuels, issued at the time of purchase of such motor fuel and showing the purchase of the number of gallons of motor fuels on which said refund is requested, and upon which shall be written or stamped at the time of purchase appropriate words showing the purpose for which said motor fuel is purchased and that refund will be requested. The application shall be sworn to before the clerk of the superior court or a notary public of the county in which the applicant resides or has his place of business, and such attesting officer is authorized to charge therefor a fee of not exceeding twenty-five cents. Provided, that claims for refund of the tax on motor fuel that are not filed with the commissioner of revenue within the time specified in this section, but that are filed within 30 days thereafter, may be paid by the commissioner of revenue after first deducting 10% from said claims as a penalty for not filing them within the time specified. Provided that the invoices or delivery tickets issued by the retail dealer or distributor and filed as a part of any claim for a refund of tax on motor fuel, shall be marked paid by the dealer or distributor and shall show the date of purchase and the date of payment.

(d) If the commissioner of revenue shall be satisfied that the motor fuels specified in such application for refund have been legitimately used for the purpose specified in the refund permit issued to such applicant and shall issue to such applicant a refund permit for use of motor fuels upon the state treasurer for the said taxes paid on such motor fuels under this article.

(e) No refund of tax or taxes shall be paid on motor fuels except under a refund permit and

Such reports shall cover monthly periods, shall be submitted within the first ten days of each month covering all shipments transported and delivered for the previous month, shall show the name and address of the person to whom the deliveries of motor fuel have actually and in fact been made, the name and address of the originally named consignee if motor fuel has been delivered to any other than the originally named consignee, the point of origin, the point of delivery, the date of delivery, and the number and initials of each tank car, and the number of gallons contained therein if shipped by rail; the name of the boat, barge or vessel, and the number of gallons contained therein, and the consignor and consignee if shipped by water; the license number of each tank truck and the number of gallons contained therein, and the consignor and consignee if transported by motor truck; if delivered by other means the manner in which such delivery is made; and such other additional information relative to shipments of motor fuel as the commissioner of revenue may require: Provided, that the commissioner of revenue may modify or suspend the provisions of this section with regard to reports of interstate or intrastate shipments or deliveries upon application of any licensed distributor: Provided, also, that the commissioner of revenue shall have full power to require any distributor to make additional reports and to produce for examination duplicate originals of delivery tickets or invoices covering both receipts and deliveries of products as herein provided. The reports herein provided for shall cover specifically gasoline, kerosene, benzine, naphtha, crude oil, or any distillates from crude petroleum. If the commission of revenue shall find as a fact that the permit holder has violated the terms of his permit, he shall cancel such refund permit and the holder thereof shall be required to repay all tax or taxes which have been refunded to him under such permit.

2. The commissioner of revenue of North Carolina is hereby authorized and directed to accept such invoices and supporting purchase orders, duly notarized, in lieu of the six cents per gallon tax imposed by the laws of North Carolina upon said gasoline: Provided, when any authorized dealer has already paid the state gasoline gallon tax and furnishes the commissioner of revenue with proper invoices and supporting purchase orders, as required in subsection one of this section, then such dealer shall be entitled to a refund by the commissioner of revenue of six cents per gallon from the gasoline fund for each gallon so sold and delivered to the county boards of education for use in public school transportation in school busses, service trucks, and gasoline delivery wagons used only for school purposes.
3. It is the intent and purpose of this section to relieve gasoline used in the public school system of North Carolina from the six cents gasoline tax now imposed by the state and thereby to that extent reduce the cost of public school transportation.
4. Any person making a false return or affidavit for the purpose of securing a refund to which he is not entitled under the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500.00), or imprisoned not exceeding two years, in the discretion of the court. A. operation of property; proration of funds.—The state board of assessment shall determine each year, on the basis of current tax laws, the total taxes that would be due to the state of North Carolina and the local governments in the same manner as if the property owned and/or operated by the Authority were owned and/or operated by a privately owned public utility: Provided, however, in making said calculations the state board of assessment shall use the tax rate fixed by the local government unit and taxing district involved for the tax year next preceding such calculations. The state board of assessment and the treasurer of the state of North Carolina shall then prorate the funds received from the Authority by the state and local governments between the state and local governments upon the basis of the foregoing calculations. (1941, c. 85, s. 2.)
