§ 52-25. Revocation by entry on record and publication.—The right of a married woman to act as a free trader may be ended at any time by an entry by her, or by her attorney, in the margin of the registration of the writing above mentioned, to the effect that from the date of such marginal entry she ceases so to act, and by publication to that effect weekly for three weeks in some newspaper published in the county in which she had her principal or only place of business, or if there is none so published, then in any other convenient newspaper. But such entry and publication shall not impair any liabilities incurred previously thereto, nor prevent such married woman from becoming liable afterwards to any person whom she may fraudulently induce to deal with her as a free trader. (Rev., s. 2115; Code, s. 1830; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 22; C. S. 2528.)

The term "bank" shall be construed to mean any corporation, partnership, firm, or individual receiving, soliciting, or accepting money or its equivalent on deposit as a business: Provided, however, this definition shall not be construed to include building and loan associations, Morris plan companies, industrial banks or trust companies not receiving money on deposit. The term "surplus" means a fund created pursuant to the provisions of this chapter by a bank...
The Act of 1921 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commission" in the last sentence of this section.

The definition of "insolvency" of a bank as set forth in this section is correct. State v. Shipman, 222 N. C. 218, 163 S. E. 657.

Art. 2. Creation.

§ 53-2. How incorporated. — Any number of persons, not less than five, who may be desirous of forming a company and engaging in the business of establishing, maintaining, and operating banks of discount and deposit to be known as commercial banks, or engaging in the business of establishing, maintaining, and operating offices of loan and deposits to be known as savings banks, or of establishing, maintaining, and operating banks having departments for both classes of business, or operating banks engaged in doing a trust, fiduciary, and surety business, shall be incorporated in the manner following and in no other way; that is to say, such persons shall, by a certificate of incorporation under their hands and seals set forth:

1. The name of the corporation; no name shall be used already in use by another existing corporation organized under the laws of this state or of the congress, or so nearly similar thereto as to lead to uncertainty or confusion.

2. The location of its principal office in this state.

3. The nature of its business, whether that of a commercial bank, savings bank, trust company, or a combination of two or more or all of such classes of business.

4. The amount of its authorized capital stock which shall be one thousand shares of ten dollars each, twenty-five thousand to fifty or one hundred dollars each; the amount of capital stock with which it will commence business, which shall not be less than twenty-five thousand dollars in cities or towns of three thousand population or less; nor less than thirty thousand dollars in cities and towns whose population exceeds three thousand, but does not exceed ten thousand; nor less than fifty thousand dollars in cities and towns whose population exceeds ten thousand but does not exceed twenty-five thousand; nor less than one hundred thousand dollars in cities and towns having a population of more than twenty-five thousand; the population to be ascertained by the last preceding national census: Provided, that this subsection shall not apply to banks organized and doing business prior to its adoption. Provided, further, that fractional shares may be issued for the purpose of complying with the requirements of § 53-88.

5. The names and postoffice addresses of subscribers for stock, and the number of shares subscribed by each; the aggregate of such subscriptions shall be the amount of the capital with which the company will commence business.

6. Period, if any, limited for the duration of the company. (1921, c. 4, s. 2; 1927, c. 47, s. 2; 1939, c. 73, s. 1; C. S. 217(a).)

Cross References.—As to incorporation of a general corporation, see § 55-2 et seq. As to power to issue non par stock, see §§ 55-2 et seq. As to payment of interest on non par stock, see § 55-73 et seq.

Editor's Notes.—With the exception of a few changes which will be pointed out, this section is a substantial restatement of chapter 5 of the Consolidated Statutes.

Editor's Note.—In 1921 the legislature passed an act which was intended to supplement the provisions of chapter five of the Consolidated Statutes by enlarging the corporation commission's powers of supervision over banks and making special regulations for the business of banking. This statute did not supersede or repeal any of chapter five of the Consolidated Statutes except those provisions which are in conflict with or repugnant to it. Mr. Justice Adams, in speaking of the effect of the national act on state law have been placed under the sections of this chapter, and, in many cases, comparisons have been made. It should be borne in mind that in many instances this act is a copy of the National Banking Act and that in such cases the constructions of the National Act by the courts of the United States are persuasive authority as to the proper construction of this act in such cases.

There is no section in the prior law which corresponds to this section although various terms are defined here and there throughout the law.
the approval of the corporation commission. This requirement has not been done away with, but an entire section providing for the establishment of branches has been inserted (sec. 53-62) so that such a provision in this section would be in accordance with the statutes.

The next change in the provision as to the amount each share of stock should represent; in raising the authorized so to do by the commissioner of banks. However the latter part of this section makes a radical departure from the provisions of the prior section. Formerly it was the duty of the secretary of state to record the certificate in the corporation book in his office if the certificate was in accordance with law, and then, upon the payment of the required fees, it became his duty to issue two certified copies of the certificate of incorporation and probate, one to be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court and the other in the office of the corporation commission (now the commissioner of banks). Under this law, the corporation commission was necessary to inquire into the facts and circumstances connected with the formation of the proposed corporation and pass upon the bona fide character thereof. His power was limited to inspecting the certificate to ascertain if it complied with the requirements of the law. Nor did the corporation commission have power to refuse to issue certified copies of the certificate of incorporation and probate, one of which shall forthwith be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the same is recorded, or by one of which shall be recorded in the book to be known as the record of incorporations, which is copied in the corporation book in the office of the commissioner of banks, and thereupon issue and record such certificate of incorporation. But the commissioner of banks may refuse to so certify to the secretary of state, if upon examination and investigation he has reason to believe that the proposed corporation is likely to mislead the public as to its character or purpose; or if the name of the proposed corporation is likely to be confusingly similar to that of any other corporation. The editor's note under the preceding section, the proposed corporation becomes a corporate entity.

The Act of 1929 inserted in paragraph four the words: "ten, twenty, twenty-five." The prior provision requiring that if more than one copy of the certificate of incorporation be issued, the certificate must describe the different classes and state the terms upon which each was created, was not inserted in this section.

The word "corporation" appearing in the sixth subsection of the prior section was changed to the word "company" as used in this section.

§ 53-3. Certificate of incorporation; how signed, proved, and filed.—The certificate of incorporation shall be signed by the original incorporators or a majority of them, and shall be proved or acknowledged before an officer duly authorized under the laws of the state to take proof or acknowledgment of deeds, and shall be filed in the office of the secretary of the state. The secretary of state shall forthwith transmit to the commissioner of banks a copy of said certificate of incorporation, and shall not issue or record the same until duly authorized so to do by the commissioner of banks as hereinafter provided. (1921, c. 4, s. 3; 1931, c. 245; see C. S. 217(b)).

Editor's Note.—The first sentence of this section is identical in meaning with the first part of C. S. sec. 217.

Duty of Commissioner.—This section was complete in every respect when it left the hands of the legislature and the duty imposed upon and the discretion vested in the commissioner of banks bears only upon the question whether certain conditions exist justifying the creation of the proposed bank and that the plan and procedure laid down in the statute. His action and the certificate issued thereon merely constitute the prescribed procedure to determine whether the franchise applied for was granted under the law. (Pue v. Hood, 222 N. C. 310, 314, 22 S. E. (2d) 896.)

§ 53-5. Certificate of incorporation, when certified.—Upon receipt of such certificate from the commissioner of banks, the secretary of state shall, if said certificate of incorporation be in accordance with law, cause the same to be recorded in his office in a book to be kept for that purpose, and known as the corporation book, and he shall, upon the payment of the organization tax and fees, certify under his official seal two copies of the said certificate of incorporation and probates, one of which shall forthwith be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the principal office of said corporation in this state shall or is to be located, in a book to be known as the record of incorporations, and the other certified copy shall be filed in the office of the commissioner of banks, and thereupon the said persons shall be a body politic and corporate under the name stated in such certificate. The said certificate of incorporation, or a copy thereof, duly certified by the secretary of state or the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the same is recorded, or by the commissioner of banks, under their respective seals, shall be evidence in all courts and places.
and shall, in all judicial proceedings, be deemed prima facie evidence of the complete organization and the incorporation of the company purporting thereby to have been established. The charter of any bank which fails to complete its organization and open for business to the public within six months after the date of filing its certificate of incorporation with the secretary of state shall be void: Provided, however, the commissioner of banks may for cause extend the limitation herein imposed. (1921, c. 4, s. 5; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 217(d).)

Editor's Note. — With the exception of the requirement that they await the commission before issuing the certified copies, and the last sentence and the proviso which were added by the present act, this section is identical with the similar provisions of C. S. sec. 217. The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commission" formerly appearing in this section.

Who May Take Advantage of Defect in Organization. — A defect in the organization of a bank because of a failure to begin business within the specified time can be taken advantage of only by a direct proceeding by the state for the dissolution thereof. — (1921, c. 4, s. 6; 1927, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 217(e).)

This section was decided under the law prior to this section.

The remaining part of the section is new with the act. The last sentence and the proviso which were added by the present act, this section is identical with the similar provisions of C. S. sec. 217(h). The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commission" formerly appearing in this section.

§ 53-6. Payment of capital stock. — The capital stock of every bank shall be fully paid in, in cash, before it shall be authorized by the commissioner of banks to commence business and the full payment in cash of the capital stock shall be certified to the commissioner of banks under oath by the president and cashier of the said bank. Provided, that the stock sold by any bank in process of organization, or for an increase of the capital stock, shall be accounted for to the bank in the full amount paid for the same. No commission or fee shall be allowed on any such stock for acting as a corporation for selling such stock. The commissioner of banks shall refuse authority to commence business to any bank if commissions or fees have been paid, or have been contracted to be paid by it, or by any one in its behalf, to any person, association, or corporation for securing subscriptions for or selling stock in such bank. (1921, c. 4, s. 6; 1927, c. 17, s. 3; 1931, c. 213, s. 5; C. S. 217(e).)

Cross Reference. — As to the similar provision relating to industrial banks, see § 53-140.

Editor's Note. — The corresponding section of the former law, C. S. sec. 218, was confined to the subject-matter now contained in this section. However it was provided that at least one half of the capital stock which should not be less than $5,000 should be paid in. The section also contained provisions regulating the payment of the balance. While the $5,000 provision was not inserted in this section as re-enacted in 1921, the requirement that only one-half of the capital stock need be paid in was not changed until the 1927 amendment, and this was the only change made by the amendment. Prior to the 1927 enactment the section, and this applies to the prior law as well, contained provisions regulating the payment of the balance of the capital stock. There is no occasion to refer to these sections since the 1927 amendment, and the board by which they were there changed by it. C. S. sec. 218 was clearly superseded, being in conflict with the present law.

The remaining part of the section is new with the act of 1921 and is intended to prevent a payment of commissions to the promoters for the sale of stock, or an impairment of capital by reserving a part of the sum paid in as compensation for the sale of stock. This section requires that the full amount for which the stock was sold shall be accounted for to the bank, and the following sentences specifically provides that no commissions shall be paid for the sale of stock. The authority to commence business is denied if the provisions are violated. The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commission" formerly appearing in this section.

§ 53-7. Statement filed before beginning business. — Before such company shall begin the business of banking, banking and trust, fiduciary, or surety business, there shall be filed with the commissioner of banks a statement under oath by the president or cashier, containing the names of all the directors and officers, with the date of their election or appointment, term of office, residence, and postoffice address of each, the amount of capital stock of which each is the owner in good faith and the amount of money paid in on account of the capital stock. Nothing shall be received in payment of capital stock but money. (1921, c. 4, s. 7; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 217(f).)

Editor's Note. — This section is identical in meaning with the former section as amended by the Act of 1927, c. 243, s. 7. The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commission" formerly appearing in this section.

§ 53-8. Authorized to begin business. — Upon filing of such statement, the commissioner of banks shall examine into its affairs, ascertain especially the amount of money paid in on account of its capital, the name and place of residence of each director, the amount of capital stock of which each is the owner in good faith, and whether such corporation has complied with all the provisions of law required to entitle it to engage in business. If upon such examination it appears to the commissioner of banks that it is lawfully entitled to commence the business of banking, banking and trust, fiduciary, or surety business, he shall give to such corporation a certificate signed by the commissioner of banks, that such corporation has complied with all the provisions of law required to be complied with, before commencing the business of banking, and that such corporation is authorized to commence business. (1921, c. 4, s. 8; 1931, c. 243, s. 7; C. S. 217(g.).)

Editor's Note. — This section covers the same subject-matter as the latter part of section 219 of the Consolidated Statutes. The last sentence and the proviso which were added by the present act, this section is identical in meaning with the former section as amended by the Act of 1927. The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commission" or "commission" wherever these words appeared in this section.

§ 53-9. Transactions preliminary to beginning business. — No such corporation shall transact any business except such as is incidental and necessarily preliminary to its organization until it has been authorized to do so by the commissioner of banks. (1921, c. 4, s. 9; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 217(h.).)
§ 53-10. Increase of capital stock. — A corporation doing business under the provisions of this chapter may increase its capital stock as provided by law for other corporations upon a vote in favor of the increase of two-thirds in interest of each class of stockholders in its voting powers. (1921, c. 4, s. 10; C. S. 217(j).)

Cross Reference.—As to the manner of increasing the capital stock of corporations generally, see § 55-31.

Editor's Note. — While there was no express provision in the prior law which corresponds to this section, section 236 of the Consolidated Statutes provided that the general corporation law so far as applicable and not inconsistent with the banking laws should apply to banks, and it is probable that under that section the capital stock could be increased just as it is under this section.

§ 53-11. Decrease of capital stock. — A corporation doing business under the provisions of this chapter may reduce its capital stock in the manner provided for other corporations upon a vote in favor of the decrease of two-thirds in interest of each class of stockholders with voting powers: Provided, that no bank shall reduce its capital stock to an amount less than the minimum required by law. Such reduction shall not be valid or warrant the cancellation of stock certificates until it has been approved by the commissioner of banks. Such approval shall not be given except upon a finding by the commissioner of banks that the security of existing creditors of the corporation will not be impaired. (1921, c. 4, s. 11; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 217(j).)

Cross Reference.—As to manner of decreasing stock of corporations generally, see § 35-56.

Editor's Note. — While there was no corresponding section in the prior law, it is very probable that a bank could decrease its stock under the provisions of sec. 236 of the Consolidated Statutes which made applicable all the general corporation law which was not in conflict with the banking laws.

§ 53-12. Consolidation of banks. — A bank may consolidate with or transfer its assets and liabilities to another bank. Before such consolidation or transfer shall become effective, each bank concerned in such consolidation or transfer shall file, or cause to be filed, with the commissioner of banks, certified copies of all proceedings had by its directors and stockholders, which said stockholders' proceedings shall set forth that holders of at least two-thirds of the stock voted in the affirmative on the proposition of consolidation or transfer shall be based upon such examination. No such consolidation or transfer shall be made without the consent of the commissioner of banks. The expense of such examination shall be paid by such banks. Notice of such consolidation or transfer shall be published for four weeks before or after the same is to become effective, at the discretion of the commissioner of banks, in a newspaper published in a city, town, or county in which each of said banks is located, and a certified copy thereof shall be filed with the commissioner of banks. In case of either transfer or consolidation the rights of creditors shall be preserved unimpaired, and the respective companies deemed to be in existence to preserve such rights for a period of three years. (1921, c. 4, s. 12; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 217(k).)

Cross References.—As to merger of corporations generally, see § 55-165 et seq. As to liquidation of banks, see § 53-20 and notes thereto.

Presumption of Approval by Corporation Commission.—Where under the provisions of this section a State bank under jurisdiction of the Corporation Commission has transferred its assets to another State bank, the latter assuming the former's liabilities under a consolidation agreement, it will be presumed that the Corporation Commission had knowledge of the transaction coming within the scope of its duties, and had approved of the transaction as the statute requires. Corporation Commission v. Stockholders, 199 N. C. 586, 155 S. E. 445.

§ 53-13. Consolidated banks deemed one bank. —In case of consolidation when the agreement of consolidation is made, and a duly certified copy thereof is filed with the secretary of state, together with a certified copy of the approval of the commissioner of banks to such consolidation, the banks, parties thereto, shall be held to be one company, possessed of the rights, privileges, powers, and franchises of the several companies, but subject to all the provisions of law under which it is created. The directors and other officers named in the agreement of consolidation shall serve until the first annual meeting for election of officers and directors, the date for which shall be named in the agreement. On filing such agreement, all and singular, the property and rights of every kind of the several companies shall thereby be transferred and vested in such new company, and be as fully its property as they were of the companies parties to the agreement. (1921, c. 4, s. 13; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 217(j).)

Cross References.—As to substitution of consolidated bank as executor or trustee under will, see § 31-19. As to fiduciary powers and liabilities of merged banks, see § 53-12. See note to § 53-12.

§ 53-14. Reorganization. — Whenever any bank under the laws of this state or of the United States is authorized to dissolve, and shall have taken the necessary steps to effect dissolution, it shall be lawful for a majority of the directors of such bank, upon authority in writing of the owners of two-thirds of its capital stock, with the approval of the commissioner of banks, to execute articles of incorporation as provided in this chapter, which articles, in addition to the requirements of law, shall further set forth the authority derived from the stockholders of such national bank or state bank, and § 53-15. Consolidation of state banks or trust companies with national banking associations.—Any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of North Carolina may be consolidated with any national banking association, or associations, under the charter of such national banking association or under a new charter issued to such consolidated association, upon such terms and conditions as may be lawfully agreed upon, provided that the laws of North Carolina governing the consolidation of State banks shall be first complied with as to the consolidation of such bank or trust company. When such consolidation shall have been effected and approved, as provided by law, the right, franchises and interests of such bank or trust company so consolidated with the national banking association, or national banking associations, in and to every species of property, real, personal and mixed, and choses in action thereto belonging, shall be deemed to be transferred to and vested in such national banking association into which it is consolidated, without any deed or other transfer, and the said consolidated national banking association shall hold and enjoy the same and all the rights of property, franchises and interests, including the right of succession as trustee, executor, administrator, or in any other fiduciary capacity, in the same manner, and to the same extent, as was held and enjoyed by such bank or trust company so consolidated. In case of such consolidation the rights of creditors of such bank or trust company shall be preserved unimpaired and all lawful debts and liabilities of such bank or trust company shall be deemed to have been assumed by such consolidated national banking association. (1929, c. 148, s. 1.)

§ 53-16. Consolidation of state banks or trust companies with national banking associations.—Banking corporations, with the approval of the commissioner of banks, and in conformity with such requirements and regulations as the state banking commissioner may prescribe, and insurance corporations, with the approval of the insurance commissioner, and in conformity with such requirements and regulations as he may prescribe, may merge and consolidate under the provisions of §§ 55-165 through 55-170. (1925, c. 77, s. 2; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1939, c. 91, s. 2; 1943, c. 450, s. 2.)

§ 53-17. Fiduciary powers and liabilities of banks or trust companies merging or transferring assets and liabilities.—Whenever any bank or trust company, organized under the laws of North Carolina or the Acts of Congress, and doing business in this state, shall consolidate or merge with or shall sell to and transfer its assets and liabilities to any other bank or trust company doing business in this state, as provided by the laws of North Carolina or the Acts of Congress, all the other existing fiduciary rights, powers, duties and liabilities of such consolidating or merging or transferring bank or banks and/or trust companies, including the rights, powers, duties and liabilities as executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, and/or any other fiduciary capacity, whether under appointment by order of court, will, deed, or other instrument, shall, upon the effective date of such consolidation or merger or sale and transfer, vest in, devolve upon, and thereafter be performed by, the transferee bank or the consolidated or merged bank or trust company, and such latter bank or trust company shall be deemed to have all the rights and powers of the transferring bank or trust company. (1931, c. 207; 1941, c. 80.)

Cross Reference.—As to powers and liabilities of merged corporations generally, see §§ 55-169, 55-170 and 55-172.

Editor's Note. — The 1941 amendment added the provisions relating to sale and transfer of assets and liabilities. For comment on this amendment, see 19 N. C. L. Rev. 437. See also, 9 N. C. L. Rev. 396. A distinction is drawn between "consolidation" and "merger." See Braak v. Hobbs, 210 N. C. 328, 186 S. E. 500.

Consolidated Bank Succeeds to Power as Trustee under Deed of Trust.—A bank, created as a result of a consolidation of several state banks, may properly exercise the power of sale contained in a deed of trust in which one of its constituent banks was named trustee, upon default by the trustor, since under this section, the consolidated bank succeeds to such power. Braak v. Hobbs, 210 N. C. 379, 186 S. E. 500.

This section, although in form an independent statute, is in reality an amendment of chapter 77, Public Laws of North Carolina, 1925, and is therefore applicable in the instant case, although the deed of trust involved was executed prior to its enactment. Braak v. Hobbs, 210 N. C. 379, 384, 186 S. E. 500. See Bateman v. Sterrett, 201 N. C. 195, 195 S. E. 14.

Art. 3. Dissolution and Liquidation.

§ 53-18. Voluntary liquidation.—A bank may go into voluntary liquidation and be closed, and may surrender its charter and franchise as a corporation of this state by the affirmative votes of its stockholders owning two-thirds of its stock, such vote to be taken at a meeting of the stockholders duly called by resolution of the board of directors, written notice of which, stating the purpose of the meeting, shall be mailed to each stockholder, or in case of his death, to his legal representative or heirs at law, addressed to his last known residence ten days previous to the date of said meeting. Whenever stockholders shall by such vote at a meeting regularly called for the purpose, notice of which shall be given as herein provided, decide to liquidate such bank, a certified copy of all proceedings of the meeting at which said action shall have been taken, verified by the oath of the president and cashier, shall be transmitted to the commissioner of banks for his approval. If the commissioner of banks shall approve the same, he shall issue to the said bank, under his seal, a permit for such purpose. No such permit shall be issued by the commissioner of banks until said commissioner of banks shall be satisfied that provision has been made by such bank to satisfy and pay off all depositors and all creditors of such bank. If not so satisfied, the commissioner of banks shall refuse to issue a permit, and shall be authorized to take possession of said bank and its assets and business, and hold the same and liquidate said bank in the manner provided in this chapter. When the commissioner of banks shall approve the voluntary liquidation of a bank, the directors of said bank shall cause to be published in a newspaper in the city, town, or county in which such bank is located, a notice that the bank is closing up its affairs and going into liquidation, and notify its depositors and creditors to present their claims for payment. When any bank shall be in process of voluntary liquidation, it shall be subject to examination by the commissioner of banks, and shall furnish such reports from time to time as may be called for by the commissioner of banks. All unclaimed deposits and dividends remaining in the hands of such bank shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter as hereinafter provided. Whenever the commissioner of banks shall approve it, any bank may sell and transfer to any other bank, either State bank or national bank, all of its assets of every kind upon such terms as may be agreed upon and approved by the commissioner of banks and by two-thirds vote of its board of directors. A certified copy of the minutes of any meeting at which such action is taken, under the oath of the president and cashier, together with a copy of the contract of sale and transfer, shall be filed with the commissioner of banks. Whenever voluntary liquidation shall be approved by the commissioner of banks or the sale and transfer of the assets of any bank shall be approved by the commissioner of banks, a certified copy of such approval under seal of the commissioner of banks, filed in the office of the secretary of state, shall authorize the cancellation of the charter of such bank, subject, however, to its continued existence, as provided by this chapter and the general law relative to corporations. (1921, c. 4, s. 15; 1927, c. 47, s. 4; 1929, c. 73; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 218(a.).)

Cross Reference.—As to voluntary dissolution of corporations generally, see § 55-121 et seq.

Editor's Note.—For article discussing the statutory changes made in the North Carolina banking law, see 11 N. C. Rev. 194, 247.

While there was no specific provision in the prior banking law which corresponded to this section, dissolution was probably effected under sec. 55-121 et seq. the general corporation law, by virtue of C. S. 216, providing that where applicable and not inconsistent with the banking laws the general corporation law should apply.

The 1927 amendment added the last four sentences to this section.

It has been the policy of the legislature to continue the corporate existence upon a dissolution for a period of three years for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the corporation and to bring and defend suits. See sec. 55-112. The provisions of this section are in keeping with this general policy.

When Receiver Has Title to Assets. — Upon the appointment of a receiver under the statute, whether voluntary or by act of the Commission, the title to all of its assets vests in the receiver to be administered for the benefit of its depositors, etc., alike, and where the directors are individually sued for having published false statements as to its solvency, and in the bank's report to the Corporation Commission, without alleging any damage peculiar to himself therefrom, as distinguished from a loss among the creditors generally, the action is maintainable only by the receiver or upon his refusal to institute action upon application. Douglass v. Dawson, 190 N. C. 458, 130 S. E. 195. This case is not applicable to a suit by a depositor for damage or loss incurred because of a violation of § 53-112. Bayne v. Powell, 192 N. C. 389, 391, 118 S. E. 118.

Enforcement of Statutory Liability of Stockholders by Bank Purchasing Another Bank for Purpose of Liquidation. — Under the provisions of this section, either a state or national bank may purchase the assets of another bank, including the statutory liability of the stockholders of the selling bank, upon such terms as are agreed upon and approved by the Commissioner of Banks, and suit on the statutory liability of the stockholders of the selling bank may be instituted in the name of the purchasing bank to the use of the selling bank within three years from the date of the transfer, and § 52-39 does not repeal this section, as amended, and is inapplicable when the liquidation is under its provisions, and the amendment (the act of 1927) is not applicable when the act of 1921 was not repealed by the act of 1927. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. v. Roseower, 199 N. C. 653, 155 S. E. 500.

Approval of Stockholders Not Necessary for Sale to Bank. — For a valid sale of assets to another bank the approval of the stockholders of the selling bank is not required by this section and the section is not invalid for that reason. Peoples' Sav. Bank v. Earley, 204 N. C. 297, 299, 168 S. E. 225.

§ 53-19. Commissioner of banks may take charge, when. — The commissioner of banks may forthwith take possession of the business and property of any bank to which this chapter is applicable whenever it shall appear that such bank:

1. Has violated its charter or any laws applicable thereto;
2. Is conducting its business in an unauthorized or unsafe manner;
3. Is in an unsafe or unsound condition to transact its business;
4. Has an impairment of its capital stock;
5. Has refused to pay its depositors in accordance with the terms on which such depositors were received, or has refused to pay its holders of certificates of indebtedness or investment in accordance with the terms upon which such certificates of indebtedness or investment were sold;
6. Has become otherwise insolvent;
7. Has neglected or refused to comply with the terms of a duly issued lawful order of the commissioner of banks;
8. Has refused, upon proper demand, to submit its records, affairs, and concerns for inspection and examination to a duly appointed or authorized examiner of the commissioner of banks;
9. Its officers have refused to be examined upon oath regarding its affairs;
10. Has made a voluntary assignment of its assets to trustees;

Such banks may resume business as provided in § 53-37. (1911, c. 25, ss. 4; 1921, c. 4, ss. 16; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 218(b), 242.)

Editor's Note. — There was no section in the prior law which corresponded to this section. It was true however that the bank examiner could take possession where so authorized by the corporation commission and hold it until a receiver could be appointed. See C. S. sec. 253.
The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks' for "corporation commission" formerly appearing in this section.

See 3 N. C. Law Rev. 79, discussing this section.

Commissioner May Be Restrained from Taking Control of Assets of Reorganized Bank Where Assets Insufficient to Pay Claims.—Where a banking corporation, organized and doing business under the laws of this State, and for that reason subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Banks, has transferred its business and conveyed all its astets to another banking corporation, also organized and doing business under the laws of this State, in consideration of the agreement of the latter corporation to fully and discharge the claims of all the depositors and other creditors of the former corporation, and the Commissioner of Banks had consented to such transfer, assignment and conveyance (section 53.12. Corporation Commission v. Stockholders, 199 N. C. 586, 155 S. E. 445), but thereafter, before the latter corporation has fully performed its agreement with the former corporation, files notice that he has taken into his possession the former corporation, under the provisions of this section, for purposes of liquidation, the said former corporation, its depositors, and stockholders may restrain the Commissioner of Banks from taking into his possession the assets of the former corporation, which are then in the possession of the latter corporation, unserstanding that such assets are sufficient in value for the payment in full of the claims of the current depositors and other creditors. Pending the trial of the issue involving the value of said assets, the Commissioner of Banks may also be restrained from levying and assessing liens or charges for "corporation commission" formerly appearing in this section.

Presumption Exists That Bank Compiled with Prerequities before Resuming Operation.—See People's Bank v.
Fidelity, etc., Co., 4 F. Supp. 379, 382.

§ 53-20. Liquidation of banks.—(1) When Com-misioner of Banks to Take Possession.—Whenever any State bank shall neglect or refuse for a period of sixty days to make a report to the commissioner of banks, as he may demand, or shall, after demand under seal of the commissioner of banks fail, neglect or refuse to comply with any of the rules, regulations or requirements of the state banking commission, or the provisions of the banking law, or if at any time the commissioner of banks shall find a bank subject to the supervision of the commissioner of banks, in an insolvent, unsafe or unsound condition to transact the business for which it was organized, or in an unsafe, or unsound condition to continue its business, or if such institution shall neglect or refuse to correct any irregularity which may be called to the attention of the president, cashier or board of directors, by the commissioner of banks, or any of his assistants; then, in either of such events, the com-misioner of banks, or any duly authorized agent of the commissioner of banks appointed under seal of the commissioner of banks, shall forthwith take possession of such bank, and all of its assets and business and shall retain possession thereof until such bank shall be authorized by the commissioner of banks to resume business, or its af-airs shall be fully liquidated as herein provided, or possession thereof shall have been surrendered under order of a judge of the Superior Court under the provisions of this section.

(2) Directors May Act.—Any bank may place its assets and business under the control of the commissioner of banks for liquidation by resolution of a majority of its directors upon notice to the said commissioner of banks, and, upon taking possession of said bank, the commissioner of banks, or duly appointed agent, shall retain possession thereof until such bank shall be authorized by the commissioner of banks to resume business or until the affairs of said bank shall be fully liquidated as therein provided, and no bank shall make any general assignment for the benefit of its creditors save and except by surrendering possession of its assets to the commissioner of banks, as herein provided.

Whenever any bank for any reason shall suspend operations for any length of time, said bank shall, immediately upon such suspension of operations, be deemed in the possession of the commissioner of banks and subject to liquidation hereunder.

(3) Notice of Seizure to Court Bar to Attachment, etc.; Transfers Void. When the commissioner of banks, or duly appointed agent, shall take possession of any bank under paragraph (1) or

(2) hereof he shall, within forty-eight hours, file with the Clerk of the Superior Court in the county where said bank is located, a notice of his action which shall state the reason therefor:
and such notice shall be deemed the equivalent of a summary or complaint against said bank in an action in the Superior Court whereby such bank shall not be necessary to make service thereof, and the taking possession of any bank shall there upon date from the time when such authority was exercised and from and after such time all assets and property of such bank, of whatever nature shall be deemed to be in possession of the commissioner of banks, and the exercise of such authority shall operate as a bar to any attachment, or other legal proceeding, against such bank or its assets and, after such exercise of authority, no lien shall be acquired, in any manner binding or affecting any of the assets of such bank and every transfer or assignment made thereby to such bank, or by its authority, of the whole or any part of its assets, shall be null and void; and the commissioner of banks shall be substituted in place of the bank in all actions in the State or Federal Courts, pending at the time of the exercise of such authority.

(4) Notice to Banks; Corporation and Persons Holding Assets; Liens Not to Accrue.—On taking possession of the assets and business of any bank, the commissioner of banks, or duly appointed agent, shall forthwith give notice, by mail or otherwise, of such action to all banks or other persons or corporations holding, or having in possession, any assets of such bank. No bank or other person or corporation shall have a lien or charge for any payment, advance or clearance made, or liability incurred against any of the assets of such bank after possession has been taken as provided under this section, except as herein-above provided.

(5) Permission to Resume Business.—After the commissioner of banks has taken possession of any bank, such bank may resume business as provided in § 53-37.

(6) Remedy by Bank for Seizure; Answer to Notice; Injunction, etc., Appeal.—Whenever any bank, of whose assets and business the commissioner of banks has taken possession as aforesaid, except where possession is taken under paragraph (2) hereof, shall deem itself aggrieved thereby, it may, at any time within ten (10) days after the filing of the notice with the clerk of the Superior Court, file an answer to said notice and may also upon notice to the commissioner of banks, apply to the resident or the presiding judge of the district for an injunction to enjoin further proceedings by the said commissioner of banks, and the said judge may cite the said commissioner of banks to show cause within ten days thereafter why further proceedings should not be enjoined, and after hearing the allegations and proof of the parties with respect to the condition of said bank, may dismiss such application for injunction or may enjoin further proceedings under this section by the commissioner of banks. If the judge shall enjoin further action of the commissioner of banks and permit the reopening of the bank, he shall have authority to require of the bank such surety bond as he may deem necessary to insure its solvency, payable to the commissioner of banks for the sole benefit of the general creditors of the bank, and upon such terms as said judge may deem proper. Either party shall have the right to appeal to the Supreme Court as in other actions.

(7) Collection of Debts and Claims; Sale or Compromise of Debts, Claims; Commissioner Succeeds to All Property of Bank.—Upon taking possession of the assets and business of any bank by the commissioner of banks, the commissioner of banks, or the duly appointed agent, is authorized to collect all money due such bank, and to do such other acts as are necessary to conserve its assets and property, and shall proceed to liquidate the affairs thereof, as hereinafter provided. The commissioner of banks, or the duly appointed agent, shall collect all debts due and claims belonging to such bank, by suit, if necessary; and, by motion in the pending action, and upon authority of an order of the presiding or resident judge of the district may sell, compromise or compound any bad or doubtful debt or claim, and may upon such order, sell the real and personal property of such bank on such terms as the order may provide or direct, except that, where the sale is made under power contained in any mortgage or lien bond or other paper wherein the title is retained for sale and the terms of sale set out, sale may be made under said authority only on possession or actual possession of such property, under this section, the commissioner of banks and/or the duly appointed agent shall have the possession and the right to the possession of all the property, assets, choses in action, rights and privileges of the said bank, including the right to resign the trust or exercise the power in all mortgages, deeds of trust, and all other papers executed to secure the payment of money in any form in which the said bank shall have been named as trustee and/or pledgee, and such property rights and privileges shall vest in the said commissioner and/or duly appointed liquidating agent absolutely, for the purpose of liquidating, and sales and conveyance of the same, together with any and all other incidental rights, privileges, and powers necessary and convenient for the enjoyment of the right of conveyance and sale and for the exercise of the same. Upon the motion made, the bank or any person interested, may be heard, but the judge hearing the motion shall enter his order as in his discretion will best serve the parties interested.

The powers granted by the second preceding sentence shall be in addition to and not in derogation of any existing acts ratified at the 1931 session of the General Assembly.

The officers and directors of any bank, or any bank that is in liquidation as provided by law, shall not hereafter exercise any powers herein declared to be vested in the North Carolina commissioner of banks, and/or the duly appointed liquidating agent.

(8) Bond of Commissioner of Banks; Surety; Condition; Minimum Penalty.—Upon taking possession of any bank, the commissioner of banks, or the duly appointed agent, shall execute and file in bond payable to the State of North Carolina, with some surety company as surety thereon, with the clerk of the Superior Court of the county where the bank is located, conditioned upon the faithful performance of all duties imposed by reason of the liquidation of such bank by the said commissioner of banks, or the duly appointed agent, or any agent or assistant assisting in the liquidation of the said bank, the penal sum of said bond to be fixed by order of the commissioner of banks, which in no case shall be less than five thousand ($5,000) dollars. Any person interested, by motion in the pending action, shall be heard by the resident or presiding judge as to the sufficiency of the bond; the judge hearing the motion may thereupon fix the bond; provided, that where such bank under this section is taken possession of by the commissioner of banks, he may, in his discretion with the approval of the state banking commission, appoint as his agent with the powers, duties and responsibilities of such agent under this section, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any corporation or agency established under and by virtue of the laws of the United States of America which is established for the purposes for which the said Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was created under the banking act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three enacted by congress; and provided further that such appointment may be made when and only when the liabilities of such bank to its depositors are insured by said corporation or agency, either in whole or in part. In the event of such appointment such corporation or agency, with the approval of the commissioner of banks, may serve as such agent without giving the bond required under all other circumstances in this subsection.

(9) Inventory Necessary.—Within thirty days after the filing of the notice of the taking possession of any bank in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court, the commissioner of banks, or the duly appointed agent, shall make and state an inventory of the assets and liabilities of the said bank, and shall file one copy thereof with the clerk of the Superior Court in the pending action and shall keep one copy on file in the said bank. Such inventory shall be open for inspection during the usual banking hours, provided, that nothing herein shall require said bank to remain open unnecessarily.

(10) Notice and Time for Filing Claims; Copies Mailed.—Notice shall be given by advertisement for four weeks in a newspaper published in said county; if no newspaper is published in said county, then in some newspaper having a general circulation in said county, calling on all persons who may have claims against the bank to present the same to the commissioner of banks at the office of the bank, and within the time to be specified in the notice, not less, however, than ninety (90) days from the date of the first publication. A copy of this notice shall be mailed to all persons whose names appear as creditors upon the books of the bank. Affidavit by the commissioner of banks, or agent mailing the notice, to the effect that said notice was mailed shall be conclusive evidence thereof.

(11) Power to Reject Claims; Notice; Affidavit of Service; Action on Claim.—If the commissioner of banks, or the duly appointed agent, doubts the justice and validity of any claim or deposit, he may reject the same and serve notice of such rejection upon the claimant or depositor, either personally or by registered mail, and an affidavit of the service of such notice shall be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court in the pending action, and shall be conclusive evidence of such notice. Any action or suit upon such claim so rejected must be brought by the claimant against the commissioner of banks in the proper court of the county in which the bank is located within ninety days after such service, or the same shall be barred. Objections to any claim or deposit not rejected by the commissioner of banks, or the duly appointed agent, may be made by any person interested by filing such objection in the pending action and by serving a copy thereof on the commissioner of banks, or duly appointed agent, and the commissioner of banks or duly appointed agent, after investigation, shall either allow such objection and reject the claim or deposit, or disallow the objection. If the objection is not allowed and the claim or deposit not rejected, the commissioner of banks or the duly appointed agent, shall file a notice to this effect in the pending action; and within ten days thereafter, the person filing objection by motion in the pending action, and specifying any claims or deposits which have been rejected by him, and shall file one copy in the office of the clerk of the superior court in the pending action, and shall keep one copy on file with the inventory in the office of the bank for examination. Any indebtedness against any bank which has been established or recognized as a valid liability of said bank before it went into liquidation, for which no claimant has filed claim, and/or any liability for which claim has been filed and disapproved, shall be listed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the bank is located, by the liquidating agent, and the dividends accruing thereon shall be paid into the said office and shall be held for a period of three months after said liquidation is completed, and shall then be paid to the escheator of the University of North Carolina. Any claim which may be presented after the expiration of the time fixed for the presentation of claims, and for which final notice hereinafter provided shall, if allowed, share pro rata in the distribution only of those assets of the bank in the hands of the commissioner of banks, and undistributed at the time the claim is presented: Provided, that when it is made to appear to the judge of the superior court, resident or presiding in the county, that the claim could not have been filed within said period, said judge may permit those creditors or depositors who subsequently file their claim to share as other creditors.

(13) Declaration of Dividends; Order of Preference in Distribution.—At any time after the expiration of the date fixed by the commissioner of banks, or the duly appointed agent, for the presentation of claims against the bank, and from time to time thereafter, the commissioner of banks, out of the funds in his hands, after the payment of expenses and priorities, may declare and pay dividends to the depositors and other creditors of such bank in the order now or hereafter provided by law; and a dividend shall be declared when and as often as the funds on hand subject to the payment of dividends shall be sufficient to pay ten (10) per centum of all claims entitled to share in such dividends. In paying dividends and calculating the same, all disputed claims and deposits shall be taken into account, but no dividend shall be paid upon such disputed claims and deposits until the same shall have been finally determined. The following shall be the order and preference in the distribution of the assets of any bank liquidated hereunder: (1) Taxes and fees due the commissioner of banks for examination or other services; (2) wages and salaries due officers and employees of the bank, for a period of not more than four months; (3) expenses of liquidation; (4) certified checks and cashier's checks in the hands of a third party as a holder for value and amounts due on collections made and unremitted for or for which final actual payment has not been made by the bank; (5) amounts due creditors other than stockholders. The word "asset" used herein shall not be deemed to include bailments or other property to which such bank has no title. Provided, that when any bank, or any officer, clerk, or agent thereof, receives by mail, express or otherwise, a check, bill of exchange, order to remit, note, or draft for collection, with request that remittance be made therefor, the charging of such item to the account of the drawer, acceptor, indorser, or maker thereof, or of collecting any such item from any bank or other party, and failing to remit therefor, or the non-payment of a check sent in payment therefor, shall create a lien in favor of the owner of such item on the assets of such bank making the collection, and shall attach from the date of the charge, entry or collection of any such funds. A statement of all dividends paid shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court in the pending action, and said statement shall show the expenses deducted and the disputed claims and deposits considered in determining said dividend.

(14) Deposit of Funds Collected.—All funds collected by the commissioner of banks, in liquidating any bank, shall be deposited from time to time in such bank or banks as may be selected by him, and shall be subject to the check of the commissioner of banks. The payment of interest on the net-average of such sums on deposit shall be controlled by the governor and council of state, who shall have full power and authority to determine for what periods of time payment of interest on such deposits shall or shall not be required, and to fix the rate of interest to be paid thereon.

(18) Employment of Local Attorneys; Expert Accountants and Other Experts; Compensation.—The commissioner of banks, for the purpose of liquidating banks as herein provided, shall employ such liquidating agents, competent local attorneys, accountants and clerks as may be necessary to properly liquidate and distribute the assets of said bank, and shall fix the compensation for all such agents, attorneys, accountants and clerks, and shall pay the same out of the funds derived from the liquidation of the assets of said bank: Provided, that all expenditure for the purpose herein provided shall be approved by the resident or presiding judge in the pending action at such time as the same may be reported, and such charges shall be a proper charge and lien on the assets of such bank until paid.

(16) Unclaimed Dividends Held in Trust.—The unclaimed dividends remaining in the hands of the commissioner of banks for six months after the order for final distributions shall be held in trust for the several depositors and creditors of the liquidated bank; and the money so held by him shall be paid over to the persons respectively entitled thereto as and when satisfactory evidence of their right to the same is furnished. In case of doubtful or conflicting claims the commissioner of banks shall have authority to apply to the superior court of the county, by motion in the pending action, for an order from the resident or presiding judge of the superior court directing the payment of the moneys so claimed. When issues of fact are raised by said motion, the same may, upon request of any claimant, be submitted to the jury for determination as other issues of fact are determined. The interest earned on the unclaimed dividend so held shall be applied toward defraying the expenses incurred in the distribution of such unclaimed dividends. The balance of interest, if any, shall be deposited and held as other funds of the banking department to the credit of the commissioner of banks.

(17) Report by Commissioner of Banks. — If the assets of any bank when fully collected by the commissioner of banks are not more than sufficient to pay the depositors and creditors of said bank, the commissioner of banks after he shall have fully distributed as herein provided the sums so collected, then he shall cause to be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court in the pending action a full and complete report of all his transactions in said liquidation; and the filing of such report shall act as a full and complete discharge of the commissioner of banks from all further liabilities by reason of the liquidation of the bank.

(18) Action by Commissioner of Banks after Full Settlement.—Whenever the commissioner of banks shall have paid all the expenses of liquidation and shall have paid to each and every depositor and creditor of such bank, whose claims shall have been duly proven and allowed, the full amount of such claims, and shall have made proper provision for unclaimed and unpaid deposits and disputed claims and deposits, and shall have in hand other assets of said bank, he shall call a meeting of the stockholders of said bank by giving notice thereof by publication once a week for four weeks in a newspaper published in said county, or if no newspaper is published in said county, then in a newspaper having general circulation in said county, and by mailing a copy of such notice to each stockholder addressed to him at his address as the same shall appear upon the books of the bank; Affidavit of the officer mailing the notice herein required and of the printer as to the publication shall be conclusive evidence of notice hereunder. At such meeting any stockholders may be represented by proxy and the stockholders shall elect, by a majority vote of the stock present, an agent or agents who shall be authorized to receive from the commissioner of banks all the assets of said bank, then remaining in his hands; and the commissioner of banks shall cause to be transferred and delivered to the said agent, or agents, all such assets of said bank. The commissioner of banks shall thereupon cause to be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court in the pending actions a full and complete report of all his transactions, showing the assets of said bank so transferred, together with the name of such agent or agents receiving for the same; and the filing of such report shall act as a full and complete discharge of the commissioner of banks from all further liabilities by reason of the liquidation of the bank. Such agent, or agents, shall convert the assets coming into his hands, or their hands, into cash, and shall make distribution to the stockholders of said bank as herein provided. Said agent, or agents, shall file semi-annually a report of all transactions with the superior court of the county in which the bank is located, and with the commissioner of banks, and shall be allowed for such services such fees not in excess of five per cent, as may be fixed by the court. In case of death, removal or refusal to act, of any agent or agents elected by the stockholders, the commissioner of banks shall, upon report of such action on the part of such agent or agents to the superior court of the county in which the bank is located, turn over to said superior court for the stockholders of said bank, all the remaining assets of the bank, file his report and be discharged from any and all further liability to the stockholders as herein provided. Said assets, when turned over to the superior court hereunder, shall remain in the hands of the superior court until such time as, by order of Court or by action of the stockholders, distribution shall be provided for.

(19) Annual Report of Commissioner of Banks; Items in Report of: Publication.—The commissioner of banks shall file, as a part of his annual report to the governor, a list of the names of the banks so taken possession of and liquidated; and the commissioner of banks shall, from time to time, compile and make available for public inspection, reports showing the condition of each and all the banks so taken possession of; and the annual report of the commissioner of banks shall show the sum of unclaimed and unpaid deposits, with respect to each bank and shall show all depositories of all sums coming into the hands of the commissioner of banks under the provisions of this section.

(20) Compensation of Commissioner of Banks. — The commissioner of banks, for his services rendered in connection with the liquidation of banks hereunder, shall be entitled to actual expenses incurred in connection with the liquidation of each bank, including therein a reasonable sum for the time of the bank examiners and other agents of the commissioner of banks, which expenses shall be a prior lien on the assets of such bank so liquidated until paid in full; and the commissioner of banks shall have authority to prescribe reasonable rules and regulations for fixing such expenses.

(21) Exclusive Methods of Liquidation. — No bank shall be liquidated under the banking act or the industrial banking act, and under the supervision of the commissioner of banks, shall be liquidated in any other way or manner than that provided herein.

(22) Application of Act. — The applicable provisions of this section as enacted by chapter 113 of the Public Laws of 1927 shall apply to all banks which on March 7, 1927, have suspended operations or are in the process of liquidation but for which no permanent receiver has been appointed by the court.

(23) Liquidation by Commissioner of Banks of All Banks in Receivership Required. — On and after the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six, the provisions of this section shall apply to all banks included in the definition or classification of banking institutions under this chapter, and/or any amendment thereto, which at said time shall be in receivership in the State courts and the said banks shall be liquidated exclusively in accordance with the provisions of this section and by said banking commissioner.

The liquidation of said banks shall be made strictly in accordance with the terms of this section and the words "competent local attorneys," as set forth in subsection sixteen of this section shall be defined to be any attorney or attorneys resident of the county in which the bank is being liquidated.

Local Modification. — Buncombe: 1933, c. 27; Rutherford: 1910, c. 502. Cross References. — See Editor's Note to § 53-18. As to conditions under which closed banks may re-open, see § 53-37. As to escheats generally, see § 116-20 et seq.

Editor's Note. — Prior to the 1927 amendment, the Supreme Court held in Litchfield v. Roper, 192 N. C. 202, 205, 134 S. E. 651, that this section did not supersede or repeal the provisions of C. S. section 240, but that it was not intended to apply to said section and should be construed in conjunction with it. Prior to this amendment the superior court had exclusive jurisdiction over the affairs of an insolvent bank incorporated under the laws of this state. See Trust Co. v. Leggett, 191 N. C. 362, 131 S. E. 752. It was therefore the duty of the court to ascertain the amount of liability and assess the stockholders. By virtue of the amendment these duties, and all the others formerly performed by the court as well, were devolved upon the corporation commission.

Prior to the amendment it was held that a justice of the peace had no jurisdiction over an action of the receiver to collect an overpayment of dividends to a stockholder, where the bank was not in receivership and not under the control of any existing act ratified at this session of the General Assembly.

Chapter 243 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commissioner" and "chief state bank examiner," formerly appearing in this section.

By c. 546 of Public Laws 1933 subsection (12) of this section was amended to provide for the addition of any existing act ratified at this session of the General Assembly provisionally enacted in any other way or manner than that provided herein.

The provisions at the end of subsection (8) of this section was added by the 1925 amendment. The act also added subsection (24) and provided that the receivers in charge of the assets of said bank. Braswell v. Citizens Nat. Bank, 197 N. C. 229, 233, 148 S. E. 236.

The words "or otherwise" in subsection 13 of this section claims against the estate of an insolvent bank for amounts due on collection made and unremitted for, or for which final actual payment has not been made to the bank, in the set-off of the bank's claim to the estate of said bank. Braswell v. Citizens Nat. Bank, 197 N. C. 229, 233, 148 S. E. 236.

Preferences. — It will be noted that under subsection 13 of this section claims against the estate of an insolvent bank amounts due on collection made and unremitted for, or for which final actual payment has not been made to the bank, in the set-off of the bank's claim to the estate of said bank. Braswell v. Citizens Nat. Bank, 197 N. C. 229, 233, 148 S. E. 236.

The words "or otherwise" in subsection 13 of this section, as to any mode of transportation analogous to those specified in the statute, meaning any mode of transportation analogous to those specified in the statute, requiring "remitting" or "crediting" an attorney to the payee of the check. Morecock v. Hood, 202 N. C. 321, 162 S. E. 739.

Where a check was purchased from a bank, which a few days later became insolvent and the bank on which the check was purchased was in receivership, the purchaser could not claim a preference under this section. The transaction was that of debtor and creditor. If it were otherwise in every transaction involving the relationship of a debtor and creditor, where the debt has been put into liquidation on account of insolvency, it would be claimed a preference—thus destroying the well recognized maxim that a transaction is that of debtor and creditor. If it were otherwise in every transaction involving the relationship of a debtor and creditor, where the debt has been put into liquidation on account of insolvency, it would be claimed a preference. — Taylor v. Everett, 188 N. C. 247, 124 S. E. 316.

cashier's check or a certified check creates the relation of debtor and creditor between the bank and the purchaser, and that the purchaser is not entitled to a preference over other general creditors of the bank from which it was purchased.

Where a depositor drew a draft on his local bank against a general deposit and the payee forwarded the draft to the drawer bank for collection and it was returned with notice that the drawer had failed to return the draft within twenty-four hours after its receipt by mail implied an acceptance under the provisions of sections 25-143 and 25-144, such acceptance did not ipso facto create a preference. Lamb v. Hood, 205 N. C. 409, 410, 171 S. E. 351.

Where a national bank received a draft for a collection and remitted for the collection of the draft a draft drawn on the local bank, the transaction not coming within the provisions of this subdivision as to filing claims was inapplicable to the action, and further, that even if the subdivision were applicable it would be inequitable for defendant to set up the defense since defendant's agent had told plaintiff that claims need not be filed. Bright v. Hood, 214 N. C. 410, 199 S. E. 630.

Personal Liability of Directors as Asset.—The right of action by the receivership or by the corporation (or agent) in case of insolvency for loss or depreciation of the bank's assets, due to their wilful or negligent failure to perform their official duties, is one enforceable for the benefit of the bank rather than for the benefit of the creditors. The receiver has sued the shareholders of its stock for their additional or personal liability, the defendants, setting up this defense as an asset of the bank, are entitled to have the transaction power of court only in matters which are not provided by the statute. The Commissioner v. Merchants Bank, etc., Co., 193 N. C. 314, 136 S. E. 568.

Purchase Price of Sale of Insolvent Bank's Property Must Be Paid to Corporation Commission. —Where the Corporation Commission takes possession of the assets of a corporation which has failed, it is a statutory receiver and it is required by statute to collect the assets of the bank and to distribute them to the creditors and depositors, and the court having jurisdiction is without power to authorize the sale of an insolvent bank's property in bulk to purchasers under an agreement that the purchasers organize another bank and pay to it the purchase price for distribution to the creditors and depositors and thus relieve the Commission of its duty to collect and distribute the assets. As to whether the court might authorize the sale of the assets in bulk is not decided, though it would seem that under the circumstances provided for in this order as in his discretion will best serve the parties interested he has the power to authorize a sale in bulk, and it would not be reviewable on appeal except on the ground of fraud or mistake. Hill v. Smathers, 173 N. C. 642, 648, 92 S. E. 607.

The term "assets" is broad enough to cover anything which is now or may be available to pay creditors, but as usually understood it refers to the tangible property of the bank, and their liability is determined beforehand upon insolvency. It does not include rights and property which do not belong to the corporation, and the current of opinion is that the statutory liability is not for the benefit of the corporation, but is an additional security for creditors. Hill v. Smathers, 173 N. C. 642, 648, 92 S. E. 607.

"Creditors" and "Claimants"—Subd. 10.—In regard to bonds left for safe-keeping in the bank, it was held that the bank was a trustee of an express trust and plaintiffs were not "creditors" or "claimants" as contemplated by this subdivision. The provisions of this subdivision as to filing claims was inapplicable to the action, and further, that even if the subdivision were applicable it would be inequitable for defendant to set up the defense since defendant's agent had told plaintiff that claims need not be filed. Bright v. Hood, 214 N. C. 410, 199 S. E. 630.

An action on a note by the Commissioner of Banks, etc., Co., 209 N. C. 307, 184 S. E. 51.

The commissioner of banks acts as receiver under inherent power of court only in matters which are not provided for by the corporation acts and his powers and duties in the case of an insolvent bank's assets, due to their wilful or negligent failure to perform their official duties, is one enforceable for the benefit of the corporation, but is an additional security for creditors. Hill v. Smathers, 173 N. C. 642, 648, 92 S. E. 607.

The "assets" defined. C. S. sections 259 and 240, providing for the assessment of the stockholders, were a recognition of the distinction between ordinary assets of the corporation and the statutory liability, and was substantively a legislative construction that the former does not include the latter. Hill v. Smathers, 173 N. C. 642, 648, 92 S. E. 607.

The manifest purpose of subdivision (13) is to place the out of town holder of a check or draft on a footing as favorable as the one occupied by the local depositor. The local depositor can present his check and get the cash. If the holder of the check or draft takes the same through the mails by charging it to the account of its customer, it is the bank's duty, under this statute, to remit the proceeds to the owner, and the owner has a lien thereon. The statute provides that the agency to collect is coupled with an authority in the owner of the draft; thereafter they are not the property of the bank, and the general creditors have no right to partition therein. Royal Mfg. Co. v. Spradlin, 6 F. Supp. 98, 100.

This subdivision clearly supersedes the law as declared by the supreme court in Corporation Comm. v. Merchant's, etc., Bank, 137 N. C. 697, 50 S. E. 308, and similar decisions. The statute embodies what was declared to be the manifest purpose of subdivision (13) is to place the out of town holder of a check or draft on a footing as favorable as the one occupied by the local depositor. The statute provides that the agency to collect is coupled with an authority in the owner of the draft; thereafter they are not the property of the bank, and the general creditors have no right to partition therein. Royal Mfg. Co. v. Spradlin, 6 F. Supp. 98, 100.

The lien provided in subdivision (13) is in no wise contingent upon the insolvency of the bank. It attaches, in all cases, "from the date of the charge, entry or collection of any such funds." The lien exists before insolvency and subsequent insolvency of the bank cannot nullify it. Royal Mfg. Co. v. Spradlin, 6 F. Supp. 98, 101.

The proviso in subdivision (13) does not create a preference; it creates a statutory lien. The legislature used the word "lien" in the proviso in subdivision (13) to avoid usage, but it used the word "lien" advisedly and to make it apply without regard to preferences.

Upon collection, the agency to collect is coupled with an authority in the owner of the draft for collection. Where a certificate of deposit sent to the insolvent collecting bank was in use, a lien exists in the agency to collect is coupled with an authority in the owner of the draft for the balance due upon the clearance, which was ultimately collected in cash. If a bank accepts anything other than cash in payment of a note or draft, it is held to have accepted a chattel reversion, under the rules of the common law, liable as a debtor for the amount of the instrument, the reason for the rule being that, as the instrument is payable only in cash, the collecting bank by accepting something other than cash assumes the risk incident to such method of collection and is estopped to deny payment. Citizens Nat. Bank v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 86 F. (2d) 4, 6, citing Cleve v. Craven Chemical Co., 18 F. (2d) 711, 713, 52 A. L. R. 980; Federal Reserve Bank v. Malloy, 264 U. S. 160, 44 S. Ct. 296, 68 L. Ed. 677, 66 L. Ed. 126, 1 A. L. R. 126.

The agency to collect is coupled with an authority in the collecting bank to use the proceeds for its own purposes; and where the collecting bank, in accordance with the usual custom of the business, makes such dispositions, it chooses to accept as money's worth and thereupon becomes liable as a debtor for the amount of the collection, there is no reason to hold that the trust relationship is extended to the creditors. Citizens Nat. Bank v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 86 F. (2d) 4, 6.

§ 53-21. Sale of stocks of defunct banks validated.—All private sales of stocks in resident corporations, joint stock companies and limited partnerships, made prior to March 20, 1935, by the commissioner of banks or a duly appointed agent in the course of the liquidation of a defunct bank, where such sale was made by and with the approval of a liquidation board duly selected by the creditors and stockholders of such bank and upon authority of an order of the presiding or resident judge of the district in which the principal office of such bank was located, are hereby in all respects validated, ratified and confirmed. (1935, c. 113.)

§ 53-22. Statute relating to receivers applicable to insolvent banks.—Article thirteen, chapter fifty-five relating to receivers, when not inconsistent with the provisions of § 53-20, shall apply to the liquidation of insolvent banks. (1921, c. 4, s. 19; 1923, c. 148, s. 4; 1931, c. 215; C. S. 218(e).)

Editor's Note.—The 1931 amendment rewrote the section. Effect in General.—This section serves to confer upon the Commissioner of Banks possession and the right to possess all private sales of stocks in resident corporations, joint stock companies and limited partnerships, made prior to March 20, 1935, by the commissioner of banks or a duly appointed agent in the course of the liquidation of a defunct bank, where such sale was made by and with the approval of a liquidation board duly selected by the creditors and stockholders of such bank and upon authority of an order of the presiding or resident judge of the district in which the principal office of such bank was located, are hereby in all respects validated, ratified and confirmed. (1935, c. 113.)

§ 53-23. Books, records, etc., disposition of.—All books, papers, and records of a bank which has been finally liquidated shall be deposited by the receiver in the office of the clerk of the superior court for the county in which the office of such bank is located, or in such other place as in his judgment will provide for the proper safekeeping and protection of such books, papers, and records. The books, papers, and records herein referred to shall be held subject to the orders of the commissioner of banks and the clerk of the superior court for the county in which such bank was located. (1921, c. 4, s. 20; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 218(f).)

§ 53-24. Destruction of records of liquidated insolvent banks.—After the expiration of ten years from the date of filing in the office of the clerk of the superior court of a final order approving the liquidation by the banking department of any insolvent bank and the delivery to the clerk or into his custody of the records of such bank, the said records may be destroyed by the clerk of the superior court holding said records by burning the same in the presence of the register of deeds and the sheriff of said county, who shall join with the clerk in the execution of a certificate as to the destruction of said records. The certificate shall be filed by the clerk in the court records of the liquidation of the bank whose records are thus destroyed.

After ten years from the date of filing by the commissioner of banks of a final report of liquidation of any insolvent bank, the said commissioner, by and with the consent of the state banking commission or its successor, may destroy by burning the records of any insolvent bank held in the department of the commissioner of banks in connection with the liquidation of such bank: Provided, that in connection with any unpaid dividends the commissioner of banks shall preserve the deposit ledger or other evidence of indebtedness of the bank with reference to the unpaid dividend until the dividend shall have been paid.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the destruction by the clerk of the superior court of any county or shall the commissioner of banks of any of the formal records of liquidation, or shall the commissioner of banks have authority under this section to destroy any of the records made in his office with reference to the liquidation of any insolvent bank. (1939, c. 91, s. 1; 1939, c. 135.)

§ 53-25. Trust terminated on insolvency of trustee bank.—Whenever any bank or trust company created under the laws of this State, which has heretofore been, or shall hereafter be, appointed trustee in any indenture, deed of trust or other instrument of like character, executed to secure the payment of any bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness, has been or shall be, by reason of insolvency, or for any other cause provided by law, taken over for liquidation by the commissioner of banks of this State or by any other legally constituted authority, the powers and duties of such bank or trust company as trustee in any such instrument shall, upon the entry of an order of the Clerk of the superior court appointing a successor trustee, upon a petition as hereinafter provided, immediately cease and determine. (1931, c. 250, s. 1.)

§ 53-26. Petition for new trustee; service upon parties interested.—In all cases of such insolvent and liquidation mentioned in § 53-25, the clerk of the superior court of any county in which such indenture, deed of trust or other instrument of like character is recorded shall, upon the verified petition of any person interested in any such trust, either as trustee, beneficiary or otherwise, which interest shall be set out in said petition, enter an order directing service on all interested parties either personally or by the publication in some newspaper published in the county, or in some ad-joining county if no newspaper is published in the county where such application is made, of a notice directed to all persons concerned, commanding and requiring all persons having any interest in said trust, to be and appear at his office at a day designated in said order and notice, not less than thirty days from the date thereof, and show cause why a new trustee shall not be appointed. (1931, c. 250, s. 2.)

§ 53-27. Publication and contents of notice.—Such notice shall be published in the manner required by law for service of summons by publication, and shall set forth the names of the parties to the indenture, deed of trust or other such instrument, the date thereof, and the place or places where the same is recorded. (1931, c. 250, s. 3.)

§ 53-28. Appointment where no objection made.—If, upon the day fixed in said notice, no person shall appear and object to the appointment of a substitute trustee, the clerk shall, upon such terms as he deems advisable to the best interest of all parties, appoint some competent person, or corporation authorized to act as such, substituted trustee, who shall be vested with and shall exercise all the powers conferred upon the trustee named in said instrument. (1931, c. 250, s. 4.)

§ 53-29. Hearing where objection made; appeal from order.—If objection shall be made to the appointment of a new trustee, the clerk shall hear and determine the matter, and from his decision an appeal may be prosecuted as in case of special proceedings generally. (1931, c. 250, s. 5.)

§ 53-30. Registration of final order.—The final order of appointment of such new trustees shall be certified by the clerk of the superior court in which such order is entered and shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds in the county or counties in which the instrument under which such appointment has been made is recorded, and a minute of the same shall be entered by the register of deeds on the margin of the record where said original instrument is recorded. (1931, c. 250, s. 6.)

§ 53-31. Petition and order applicable to all instruments involved.—The petition and the order appointing such new trustee may include and relate and apply to any number of indentures, deeds of trust or other instruments, wherein the same trustee is named. (1931, c. 250, s. 7.)

§ 53-32. Additional remedy.—Sections 53-25 to 53-31 shall be in addition to and not in substitution for any other remedy provided by law. (1931, c. 250, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—As the remedy provided is cumulative, the statute should be read in connection with §§ 45-10 to 45-16. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 403.

§ 53-33. Validation of acts of officers of insolvent banks as trustees in deeds of trust.—Whenever any state bank, prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, shall have become insolvent and its assets and business been placed in the hands of the corporation commission or taken control of by the corporation commission for liquidation, and the board of directors of said bank shall have thereafter by resolution authorized or directed the officers of said bank or some of them to perform or exercise in the name of the bank as trustee any power or duty of such bank as trustee under any deed in trust recorded in this State, the performance or exercise of such power or duty heretofore or hereafter by any officer or officers so authorized shall be effective and binding on all parties so concerned as the act of such bank as trustee as aforesaid, to the same extent and in the same manner as if such bank had not become insolvent and its assets and business had not been placed in the hands of the corporation commission or taken control of by the corporation commission for liquidation. (1931, c. 403.)

pointed pursuant to the provisions of § 53-20, has undertaken to exercise the power of sale set up in any mortgage, deed of trust, or other written instrument for the security of the payment of money in which any bank then in liquidation was named trustee, the said acts including the acts of resigning as trustee in the mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument. (1931, c. 132.)

Editor's Note.—This section, which validates sales by the commission and its representatives in the course of liquidation of insolvent banks, when the power of sale was originally granted to such a bank before the state took it over, appears to have been intended to overcome the effect of the case of Mitchell v. Shuford, 200 N. C. 321, 156 S. E. 513, which held that the commission had no such authority. In view, however, of this case, and of Booth v. Hairston, 193 N. C. 278, 156 S. E. 879; s. c., 195 N. C. 814, S. E. 490, doubt is cast upon the constitutionality of the validating act. Upon the rehearing of the latter case, Justice Brogden said: "... but the power to cure the commission and its representatives in the course of liquidation of insolvent banks, when the power of sale was granted to the bank named as trustee in the mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument, the said acts including the acts of resigning as trustee, are hereby validated and declared to be of the same force and effect as if done by the bank named as trustee in the mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument. (1931, c. 132.)"

§ 53-35. CH, 58. Foreclosures and executions of deeds by commissioner of bank, validated.—Whereas, the commissioner of banks, created by chapter two hundred forty-three of the Public Laws of 1931, was given general supervision over the banks of this state; and whereas, the commissioner of banks, under authority of chapter three hundred and eighty-five of the Public Laws of 1931, succeeded to all the property of banks in liquidation, including fiduciary powers under the mortgages and deeds of trust; and whereas, the commissioner of banks, in his own name and in the name of a number of conservators or liquidating agents of banks in the process of liquidation under his supervision, has foreclosed a large number of deeds of trust in which such banks were the named trustee, and has executed under the powers contained therein a large number of trustee's deeds under authority thereof: Now, therefore,

All the deeds and acts of the commissioner of banks and/or conservators or liquidating agents of such banks in the process of liquidation, as in the preamble to this section described, are hereby in all respects ratified, validated and confirmed.

§ 53-36. Commissioner to report to secretary of state certain matters relative to liquidation of closed banks; publication. The commissioner of banks of the state of North Carolina shall on or before the first day of June, 1933, and on the first day of January and July of each year thereafter file with the secretary of the state of North Carolina a report showing all banks under liquidation in the state of North Carolina, and the names of any and all auditors together with the amounts paid to them for auditing each of said banks, and the names of any and all attorneys employed in connection with the liquidation of said banks together with the amount paid or contracted to be paid to each of said attorneys. If any attorney has been employed on a fee contingent upon recovery said report must state in substance that the attorney has been employed on a fee contingent upon recovery.

Within five days from the receipt of said report the secretary of the state of North Carolina shall cause same to be published one time in some newspaper published in each county in which a bank or banks are under liquidation, if there be a newspaper published in said county. If not, the secretary of the state of North Carolina shall cause a copy of said report to be posted at the courthouse door in said county. (1933, c. 483.)

Art. 4. Reopening of Closed Banks.

§ 53-37. Conditions under which banks may reopen.—Whenever the commissioner of banks has taken in possession any bank, such bank may, with the approval of the commission or the chief state bank examiner, or liquidating agent appointed as aforesaid, resume business upon such terms and conditions as may be approved by the state banking commission. When such banks have been taken in possession under the provisions of § 53-20, paragraphs one or two, such conditions shall be fully stated in writing and a copy thereof shall be filed with the clerk of the superior court in the action required to be commenced in such cases against said bank under the provisions of § 53-20, paragraph three: Provided, however, no bank or banking institution which has been taken in possession by the commissioner of banks under the state banking laws shall be reopened to receive deposits or for the transaction of a banking business unless and until:

(a) The bank has been completely restored to solvency;
(b) The capital stock, if impaired, has been entirely restored in cash;
(c) It shall clearly appear to the commissioner of banks that such bank may be reopened with safety to the public and such reopening is necessary to serve the business interests of the community.

Art. 5. Stockholders.

§ 53-38. New state banks to set up surplus fund.—The common stockholders of any bank organized after March 17, 1933, under the laws of the state of North Carolina shall pay in, in cash, a surplus fund equal to fifty per centum of its common capital stock before the bank shall be authorized to commence business. (1933, c. 159, s. 2; 1935, c. 79, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of history and scope of this section, see 11 N. C. Law Rev. 200. For an interesting article discussing the law of contracts, and referring to provisions of the instant section, see 13 N. C. Law Rev. 91. There is a question as to whether the words "stockholders" and "capital stock" ever appear in the words "stockholders" and "capital stock." § 53-40. Executors, trustees, etc., not personally liable.—Persons holding stock as executors, administrators, guardians, or trustees shall not personally be subject to any liabilities as stockholders, but the estate and funds in their hands shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator, intestate, ward, or person interested in such trust fund would be if living and competent to hold stock in his own name. (1921, c. 4, s. 23; C. S. 219(c.).)

Editor's Note.—This section is a substantial re-enactment of the latter part of C. S. sec. 237.

Extent of Section.—This provision is held to refer not only to trustees appointed by will, or by order of a court or of a judge, but to any trust relationship, however created. But the exemption is limited to cases of express and active trusts, that is, a liability on bank stock held in trust for a cestui que trust, also named in the certificate, is not liable personally as a stockholder in an action by the bank to recover judgment upon the statutory liability of stockholders. American Trust Co. v. Jenkins, 193 N. C. 761, 764, 138 S. E. 139. See § 53-42 for liability of bank trustee to trust estate as cestui que trust, etc.—By this provision an administrator, executor, trustee, etc.—By this provision an administrator, executor, etc.—By this provision an administrator, executor, guardian, or trustee is not personally liable for the statutory liability on bank stock held in their representative capacities, but such liability attaches to the estate or funds in their hands. Hood v. North Carolina Bank, etc., Co., 209 N. C. 767, 184 S. E. 51.

And where a trustee breached its duty in failing to sell bank stock, it was held the wrong was not actionable and the estate will not relieve the estate of the statutory liability to the prejudice of depositors and creditors of the bank. Id. A trust estate is liable for assessment on bank stock owned regardless of the method by which the trust is established, and where shares of bank stock are the subject of the trusts, the books of the bank in the name of "executors," the statutory liability thereon of the estate may not be defeated by alleging that the stock was held by the executors and trustees under the will for the benefit of minor, alien, or other beneficiaries, the beneficiaries of the income from the trust estate bank of age, and there being nothing on the books of the bank showing that the same were declared to be capital stock, the court held the bank was entitled to foreclose upon the capital stock. Jones v. Franklin's Estate, 209 N. C. 355, 183 S. E. 792.

Liability Attaches to Estate or Funds in Hands of Trustees, etc.—By this section an administrator, executor, guardian, or trustee is not personally liable for the statutory liability on bank stock held in their representative capacities, but such liability attaches to the estate or funds in their hands. Hood v. North Carolina Bank, etc., Co., 209 N. C. 367, 184 S. E. 51.

And where a trustee breached its duty in failing to sell bank stock, it was held the wrong was not actionable and the estate will not relieve the estate of the statutory liability to the prejudice of depositors and creditors of the bank. Id. A trust estate is liable for assessment on bank stock owned regardless of the method by which the trust is established, and where shares of bank stock are the subject of the trusts, the books of the bank in the name of "executors," the statutory liability thereon of the estate may not be defeated by alleging that the stock was held by the executors and trustees under the will for the benefit of minor, alien, or other beneficiaries, the beneficiaries of the income from the trust estate bank of age, and there being nothing on the books of the bank showing that the same were declared to be capital stock, the court held the bank was entitled to foreclose upon the capital stock, the amount due thereon to the bank with interest from the date of the sale, and the balance, if any, shall be returned to the shareholders who paid the same. § 53-42. Stock sold if subscription unpaid. — Whenever any stockholder, or his assignee, fails to pay any installment on the stock, when the same is required by law to be paid, the directors of the bank shall sell the stock of such delinquent stockholder at public or private sale, as they may deem best, having first given the delinquent stockholder twenty days notice, personally or by mail, at his last known address. If no party can be found who will pay for such stock the amount due thereon to the bank with any additional indebtedness of such stockholder to the bank, the amount previously paid shall be forfeited to the bank, and such stock shall be sold, as the directors may order, within thirty days of the time of such forfeiture, and if not sold, it shall be canceled and deducted from the capital stock of the bank. (1921, c. 4, s. 25; C. S. 219(c.).)

Editor's Note.—This section is a substantial re-enactment of C. S. sec. 243, the prior law, except that the sale limit allowed the directors was changed from six months to thirty days. § 53-42. impairment of capital; assessments, etc.—The commissioner of banks shall notify every bank whose capital shall have become impaired from losses or any other cause, and the surplus and undivided profits of such bank are insufficient to make good such impairment, to make the impairment good within sixty days of such notice by an assessment upon the stockholders thereof, and it shall be the duty of the officers and directors of the bank receiving such notice to immediately call a special meeting of the stockholders for the purpose of making an assessment upon its stockholders sufficient to cover the impairment of the capital, payable in cash, at which meeting such assessment shall be made: Provided, that such bank may reduce its capital to the extent of the impairment, as provided in § 53-11. If any stockholder of such bank neglects or refuses to pay such assessment as herein provided, it shall be the duty of the board of directors to cause a sufficient amount of the capital stock of such stockholder or stockholders to be sold at public auction, upon thirty days notice given by posting such notice of sale in the office of the bank and by publishing such notice in a newspaper in the place where the bank is located, and if none therein, a newspaper circulating in the county in which the bank is located, to make good the deficiency. And the balance, if any, shall be returned to the delinquent shareholder or shareholders. If any such bank shall fail to cause to be paid in such deficiency in its capital stock, three months after receiving such notice from the commissioner of banks, the commissioner of banks may forthwith take possession of the property and business of such bank until its affairs be finally liquidated as provided by law. A sale of stock, as provided in this section, shall effect an absolute cancellation of the outstanding certificate or certificates evidencing the stock so sold, and shall make the certificate null and void, and a new certificate shall be issued by the bank to the purchaser of such stock; but in the event the stock of any stockholder be sold as hereinbefore provided, and the said stock when sold fails to bring the amount of the assessment against said stockholder, then, and in such event, the said stockholder shall be personally liable for the difference between the said amount of assessment and the price brought by the sale of said stock.

(Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 56, s. 3; 1925, c. 117; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. § 219(f).)

Cross Reference.—As to the amount of reserve required, see §§ 53-50 and 53-51.

Note.—The section first appeared in the act of 1921, ch. 56, amending the act of 1921, ch. 4. Its provisions are substantially similar to the national banking act which was designed principally for the purpose of strengthening banks whose capital has become impaired. See Elon Banking, etc., v. Burk, 189 N. C. 69, 126 S. E. 163. The 1925 amendment added the last lines, beginning with the word "however," and was added to overcome the construction placed upon this section by the case cited above. See annotations following in this note.

Rules of Construction.—This statute creates a new liability and provides a special remedy for its enforcement, viz., the sale of stock if the stockholder fails to pay assessment. This remedy is exclusive and actions or proceedings ordinarily available may not be resorted to. So a person acquiring stock in good faith for the difference between the price for which the stock sold and the amount of the assessment cannot be maintained. Elon Banking, etc., Co., v. Burke, 189 N. C. 69, 126 S. E. 163.

The effect of the holding that a personal action for the difference cannot be maintained was destroyed by the 1925 amendment which specifically provides for such an action, but the general rules laid down for the construction of this section remain the same.

Editor's Note.—This section first appeared in the act of Laws 1925, c. 117, amending this section, was passed to meet the decision in Elon Bkg., etc., Co. v. Burke, 189 N. C. 69, 126 S. E. 163. The Bank of Pinehurst v. Derby, 218 N. C. 653, 12 S. E. (2d) 260.

Amendatory Act of 1925 Cannot Be Given Retroactive Effect.—The act of 1925, amending this section by providing for personal liability of stockholders for the amount by which the sale of their stock failed to realize a sum sufficient to pay the assessment, provided a new remedy, and to permit the bank to maintain the action against a stockholder who purchased his stock prior to the enactment of the amendment of 1925 would violate due process of law, and would impair the obligations of the contract, and hence the act of 1925 cannot be given retroactive effect. Bank of Pinehurst v. Derby, 218 N. C. 653, 12 S. E. (2d) 260.

"Payable in Cash" Construed.—The expression "payable in cash" merely means that the account is presently due, and its payment may be presently enforced, but only by the methods the statute specifies. Elon Banking, etc., Co. v. Burke, 189 N. C. 69, 126 S. E. 163.

Art. 6. Powers and Duties.

§ 53-43. General powers.—In addition to the powers conferred by law upon private corporations, banks shall have the power:

1. To exercise by its board of directors, or duly authorized officers and agents, subject to law, all such powers as shall be necessary to carry on the business of banking by discounting and negotiating promissory notes, drafts, bills of exchange, and other evidences of indebtedness, by receiving deposits, by buying and selling exchange, coin, and bullion, by loaning money on personal security or real and personal property. Such corporations at the time of making loans or discounts may take and receive interest or discounts in advance.

2. To adopt regulations for the government of the corporation not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this state.

3. To purchase, hold, and convey real estate for the following purposes:

(a) Such as shall be necessary for the convenient transacting of its business, including furniture and fixtures, with its banking offices and other rooms or apartments to rent as a source of income, which investment shall not exceed fifty per cent of its paid-in capital stock and permanent surplus: Provided, that this provision shall not apply to any such investment made before the ninth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one. Provided further, that the commissioner of banks may, in his discretion, authorize any bank located in a city having a population of more than ten thousand, according to the last United States census, to invest more than fifty per cent of its capital and permanent surplus in its banking houses, furniture, and fixtures.

(b) Such as is mortgaged to it in good faith by way of security for loans made or moneys due to such banks.

(c) Such as has been purchased at sales upon foreclosures of mortgages and deeds of trust held or owned by it, or on judgments or decrees obtained and rendered for debts due to it, or in settlements affecting security of such debts. All real property referred to in this subsection shall be sold by such bank within one year after it is acquired, unless, upon application by the board of directors, the commissioner of banks extends the time within which such sale shall be made. Any and all powers and privileges heretofore granted and given to any person, firm, or corporation doing a banking business in connection with a fiduciary and insurance business, or the right to deal to any extent in real estate, inconsistent with this chapter, are hereby repealed.

4. Nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to authorize banking corporations to engage in the business of dealing in investment securities, either directly or through subsidiary corporations: Provided, however, that the term "dealing in investment securities" as used herein, shall not be deemed to include the purchasing and selling of securities without recourse, solely upon order, and for the account of, customers; and provided further, that "investment securities," as used herein, means not the direct or indirect obligations of the United States, or general obligations of any state or of any political subdivision thereof, or of cities, towns, or other corporate municipalities of any state or obligations issued under authority of the Federal Farm Loan Act, as amended, or issued by the Federal Home Loan Banks or the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

Any provision in conflict with this subsection contained in the Articles of Incorporation heretofore issued to any banking corporation is hereby revoked.

5. Subject to the approval of the commissioner of banks and on the authority of its board of directors, or a majority thereof, to enter into such contracts, incur such obligations and generally do and perform any and all such acts and things whenever or in such events or circumstances as may be necessary or appropriate in order to take advantage of any and all memberships, loans, subscriptions, contracts, grants, rights or privileges, which may at any time be available or inure to banking institutions, or to their depositors, creditors, stockholders, conservators, receivers or liquidators, by virtue of those provisions of section eight of the Federal Banking Act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (section twelve B of the Federal Reserve Act as amended) which establish the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and provide for the insurance of deposits, or of any other provisions of that or any other act or resolution of congress to aid, regulate or safeguard banking institutions and their depositors, including any amendments of the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act or of any state banking laws. Any national bank, or any other banking corporation, shall, before being permitted to make any investment in any type of security or mortgage, subscribe for and acquire any stock, debentures, or other bonds or other types of securities of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and to comply with the lawful regulations and requirements from time to time issued or made by such corporation.

6. Any commercial bank, savings bank, or trust company, heretofore or hereafter organized under any general or special laws of this state and any national bank doing business in this state, shall have power, in addition to such other powers as it may have:

(a) Upon the making of a loan or discount, to deduct in advance, from the proceeds of such loan, interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum (6%) per annum upon the amount of the loan from the date thereof until the maturity of the final installment, notwithstanding that the principal amount of such loan is required to be repaid in installments: Provided, Any commercial bank may exercise and enjoy all the powers now or hereafter provided in paragraph 3 of section 53-141.

(b) Nothing in subsection 6 shall be construed as in any wise extending or increasing or decreasing the powers of commercial banks, savings banks, or trust companies or national banks to make loans or discount notes other than as herein or by other laws expressly provided.

7. Maintain separate departments and deposit in its commercial department to the credit of its trust department all uninvested fiduciary funds of cash or other, under rules and regulations of the State banking commission, all such deposits in the name of the trust department whether in consolidated deposits or for separate fiduciary accounts, by segregating and delivering to the trust department such securities as may be eligible for the investment of the sinking funds of the state of North Carolina, equal in market value to such deposits, as in any wise extending or increasing or decreasing the powers of commercial banks, savings banks, or trust companies or national banks to make loans or discount notes other than as herein or by other laws expressly provided.

8. Maintain separate departments and deposit in its commercial department to the credit of its trust department all uninvested fiduciary funds of cash or other, under rules and regulations of the state banking commission, all such deposits in the name of the trust department whether in consolidated deposits or for separate fiduciary accounts, by segregating and delivering to the trust department such securities as may be eligible for the investment of the sinking funds of the state of North Carolina, equal in market value to such deposits, as in any wise extending or increasing or decreasing the powers of commercial banks, savings banks, or trust companies or national banks to make loans or discount notes other than as herein or by other laws expressly provided. Such securities shall be held by the trust department as security for the full payment or repayment of all such deposits, and shall be kept separate and apart from other assets of the trust department. Until all of such deposits shall have been accounted for to the trust department by the individual fiduciary accounts, no creditor of the bank shall have any right to such security. When fiduciary funds are deposited by the trust department in the commercial department of the bank, the deposit thereof shall not be deemed to constitute a use of such funds in the general business of the bank and the bank in such instance shall not be liable for interest on such funds. To the extent and in the amount such deposits may be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the amount of security required for such deposits by this section may be reduced.

The banking commission shall have power to make such rules and regulations as it may deem necessary for the enforcement of the provisions of the preceding paragraph, and such authority shall exist and be hereby conferred under the general authority herefore conferred upon said commission as well as by this paragraph. (1921, c. 4, s. 26; 1923, c. 148, s. 5; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 67; 1925, c. 279; 1927, c. 47, s. 5; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1933, c. 303; 1935, c. 81, s. 1, c. 82; 1937, c. 154; 1941, c. 77; 1943, c. 234; C. Editor's Note.—This section is a substantial re-enactment of C. S., sec. 220. However there are several material changes. Subsection 2 was inserted; the date beyond which investments are exempt from the section as not provided in clause (a) of subsection 3 was changed from 1903 to 1921, the second proviso permitting the commission to authorize the continuance of investments made prior to 1923 being inserted in 1924 and amended in 1925 by changing the date from 1923 to 1925, and the third proviso added by the 1927 amendment; a clause providing that real estate conveyed to a bank in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of the dealings might be purchased, held and conveyed was not brought forward; and in clause (c) of subsection 3 the requirement that all real estate acquired under the subsection be sold within one year was replaced by a provision that in 1921 when the section was passed, and the 1923 amendment inserted the words "and deeds of trust held or" in the second line of the clause. Otherwise the prior law is re-enacted in this section.

The amendment of 1935 changed the list of obligations excepted in paragraph four which was added by the 1933 amendment. Formerly all obligations of the state instead of "general" obligations were excepted. Obligations issued under Farm Loan Act or by Home Loan Banks and Home Owners' Loan Corporation were added to the list. Subdivision 5 was added by the 1935 amendment in its entirety.

The 1937 amendment added subsection 6.

The 1941 amendment added subsection 7. For comment on this amendment, see 19 N. C. L. Rev. 344.

CH. 53. BANKS—POWERS AND DUTIES

§ 53-44. Investment in bonds guaranteed by United States.—(1) Any bank, building and loan association, land and loan association, savings and loan association, trust company, title insurance company, land mortgage company, fraternal order or benevolent association, or any other corporation incorporated under the laws of this state, and operating under the supervision of the commissioner of banks, insurance commissioner, or superintendent of savings and loan associations; the state treasurer, as custodian of the assurance fund provided under the Torrens Act, or any officer charged with the investment of sinking funds of the State, any county, city, town, incorporated village, township, school district, school taxing district, or other district or political subdivision of government of the State; the North Carolina State Savings Bank, the Federal Savings and Loan Association, the Federal Land Bank, the Federal Home Loan Bank, or the Federal Loan Bank; any bank, trust company, or building and loan association, insurance company, title insurance company, land mortgage company, fraternal order or benevolent association, or any other corporation, trust company, building and loan association and insurance company, and other financial institutions, and all such guardians, executors, administrators, trustees or others acting in a fiduciary capacity in this state may invest, to the same extent that such funds may be invested in interest-bearing obligations of the United States, their funds or the moneys in their custody or possession which are eligible for investment, in bonds or notes secured by a mortgage or deed of trust issued by the federal housing administrator, in mortgages on real estate which have been accepted for insurance by the federal housing administrator, and in obligations of national mortgage associations.

(2) Insurance Companies.—All insurance companies, building and loan associations, and other financial institutions, on being approved as eligible for credit insurance by the federal housing administrator, may make such loans as are insured by the federal housing administrator.

(3) Certain Securities Made Eligible for Collateral.—Wherever, by statute of this state, collateral is required as security for the deposit of public or other funds; or deposits are required to be made with any public official or department; or an investment of capital or surplus, or a reserve or other fund, is required to be maintained, consisting of designated securities, bonds, and notes secured by a mortgage or deed of trust incurred by the federal housing administrator, all such funds, deposits and collateral shall be eligible for such purposes.

(4) Certain Securities Made Eligible for Collateral.—No law of this state prescribing the nature, amount or form of security or requiring security upon which loans or investments may be made, or prescribing or limiting the rates or time of payment of the interest any obligation may bear, or prescribing or limiting the period for which loans or investments may be made, shall be deemed to apply to loans or investments made pursuant to the foregoing section (3) of this section. (1935, cc. 71, 278; 1937, c. 333.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment made this section applicable to building and loan associations, and made other changes.

§ 53-46. Limitations on investments or securities.—The investment in any bonds or other interest-bearing securities of any one firm, individual or corporation, unless it be the interest-bearing obligations of the United States, obligations issued under authority of the Federal Farm Loan Act, as amended, or issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank, Home Owners’ Loan Corporation, state of North Carolina, or other state of the United States, or of some city, town, incorporate, county, school district, or other political subdivision of the state of North Carolina, shall at no time be more than twenty per cent of the unimpaired capital and permanent surplus of any bank to an amount not in excess of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; and not more than ten per cent of the unimpaired capital and permanent surplus in excess of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars:

Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to compel any bank to surrender or dispose of any investment in the stocks or bonds of a corporation owning the lands or buildings occupied by such bank as its banking home, if such stocks or bonds were lawfully acquired prior to February 25, 1927. (1921, c. 4, s. 27; 1927, c. 6; 1933, c. 359; 1925, c. 199; 1937, c. 186; C. S. 220(b).)

Cross References.—As to the suspension of this section, see § 53-49. As to limitation of amount of bank acceptances, see § 53-56.

Editor's Note. — There was no corresponding section in the prior law.

The 1927 amendment made radical changes in this section. The maximum investment which might be made in private securities was reduced from 25% to 10% of the unimpaired capital and permanent surplus where the amount was not in excess of $250,000, and reduced to 10% of the unimpaired capital and permanent surplus in excess of $250,000. Prior to the amendment the section fixed 20% of the capital and permanent surplus as the maximum where the capital was between $250,000 and $500,000; 15% where it was between $500,000 and $750,000; and 10% of the capital of any other state or national bank:

The last proviso in the section was also added by the 1927 amendment.

By Public Laws 1933, c. 399, provisos, formerly appearing in the section, permitting restricted investments in stock or bonds of a corporation owning the building or land occupied by the bank, were omitted.

The amendment of 1935 added the words "or other state of the United States, or of some" near the beginning of this section.

The 1937 amendment inserted the words "obligations issued under authority of the Federal Farm Loan Act, as amended, or issued by the Federal Home Loan Banks, or the Home Owners' Loan Corporation."

§ 53-47. Stocks, limitations on investment in.

No bank shall make any investment in the capital stock of any other state or national bank:

Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent banks doing business under this chapter from subscribing to or purchasing, upon such terms as may be agreed upon, the capital stock of banks organized under that act of congress known as the "Edge Act" or the capital stock of central reserve banks whose capital stock exceeds one million dollars.

To constitute a central reserve bank as contemplated by this chapter, at least fifty per cent of the capital stock of such bank shall be owned by other banks. The investment of any bank in the capital stock of such central reserve bank or bank organized under the act of congress commonly known as the "Edge Act," shall at no time exceed ten per cent of the paid-in capital and permanent surplus of the bank making same.

No bank shall invest more than fifty per cent of its permanent surplus in the stocks of other corporations, firms, partnerships, or companies, unless such stock is purchased to protect the bank from loss:

Any stocks owned or hereafter acquired in excess of the limitations hereinafter imposed shall be disposed of at public or private sale within six months after all other stocks shall be acquired of the same, and if not so disposed of they shall be charged to profit and loss account, and no longer carried on the books as an asset. The limit of time in which said stocks shall be disposed of or charged off the books of the bank may be extended by the commissioner of banks if in his judgment it is for the best interest of the bank that such extension be granted. Provided that the limitations imposed in this section on the ownership of stock in or securities of corporations is suspended to the extent (and to that extent only) that any bank operating under the supervision of the commissioner of banks may subscribe for and purchase shares of stock in or debentures, bonds or other types of securities of any corporation organized under the laws of the United States of America for the purpose of insuring to depositors a part or all of their funds on deposit in banks where and to such extent as such stock or security ownership is required in order to obtain the benefits of such deposit insurance for its depositors. (1921, c. 4, s. 28; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1935, c. 81, s. 3; C. S. 220(c).)

Editor's Note. — There was no provision in the prior law corresponding to this section.

The amendment of 1935 added the last proviso of this section relating to suspension of the limitations in case of a bank operating under the supervision of the commissioner of banks.

§ 53-48. Loans, limitations of.—The total direct and indirect liability of any person, firm or corporation, other than a municipal corporation for money borrowed, including in the liabilities of a firm, the liabilities of the several members thereof, shall at no time exceed twenty per cent of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, or fractional part thereof, of the unimpaired capital and permanent surplus of the bank and not more than ten per cent of the excess of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars of the unimpaired capital and permanent surplus of the bank:

Provided, however, that the discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actual existing values, the discount of solvent trade acceptances, or other commercial or business paper actually owned by a person, firm, or corporation negotiating the same, and any notes, secured by not less than a like face amount of bonds of the United States or state of North Carolina or certificates of indebtedness of the United States, shall not be considered as money borrowed within the meaning of this section: Provided, further, that the limitations of this section shall not apply to loans or obligations to the extent that they are secured or covered by guarantees or by commitments or agreements to take over or purchase the same, made by any federal reserve bank or by the United States or any department, board, bureau, commission or establishment of the United States, including any corporation wholly owned directly or indirectly by the United States. (1921, c. 4, s. 29; 1923, c. 148, s. 6; 1925, c. 119, s. 1; 1927, c. 47, s. 7; 1937, c. 419; 1943, c. 204; C. S. 220(d).)

Cross References.—As to the suspension of this section, see § 53-49. As to limitation of amount of bank acceptances, see § 53-56.

Editor's Note. — C. S. § 227 was the corresponding section of the prior law. The provisions have been so changed that this section could not be called a re-enactment of the prior law.

The words "or business" appearing in the first proviso of this section were inserted by the acts of 1923.
The 1935 amendment changed the percentage where the paid-in capital is $350,000 or less from 20% to 25%. It also inserted a proviso that upon the approval of two-thirds of the directors a loan could be increased to 25% but this was omitted when revised by the act of 1937. The word "solvent" was inserted in the first proviso before "trade acceptance" and before "commercial" by this amendment. The acts of 1927 repealed the old section and re-enacted it with changes. The act of 1927 limited the provision for a maximum loan of 20% where the paid-in capital was $250,000 or less; 20% between $250,000 and $500,000; 15% between $500,000 and $750,000; and 10% over $750,000. A proviso at the end of the section providing that the limitations imposed should not apply to existing loans, or to extensions or renewals of the date of the resolution. The amendment to the proviso, except as made to apply by the commission, was omitted. The 1937 amendment added the proviso at the end of the section. The 1934 act rewrote the section to include, in the last proviso; boards, departments, etc., of the United States, or corporations owned directly or indirectly by the United States.

Section Not Retroactive. — The statutory limitation upon a bank making loans to any one person or class of common interest, does not apply to loans, or extensions or renewals thereof, made under the last two terms of the statute. State v. Cooper, 190 N. C. 528, 130 S. E. 180.

Violation a Misdemeanor. — The violation of this section is a violation of sec. 53-11. A bank must act through its officers, and where they have violated the provisions of this section as to lending the bank's money, the offense is committed by the officers under the act in that the statute applies, and the offense is individually indictable therefor. State v. Cooper, 190 N. C. 528, 130 S. E. 180; State v. Davidson, 205 N. C. 735, 738, 172 S. E. 180. A construction of this section which would limit criminal liability to the bank would defeat the manifest purpose of the General Assembly. The loans prohibited can be made for the bank only by officers and directors, and to hold that the bank only is liable criminally, would result, upon its conviction, in the imposition of a fine, the only punishment that can be imposed by the court upon the corporation, thus resulting in most instances in a further depletion of the already impaired resources of the bank, and entailing further loss to depositors and stockholders, for whose protection the provisions are primarily included in the statute. State v. Cooper, 190 N. C. 528, 533, 130 S. E. 180.

An indictment charging the officer of the bank of violating sec. 53-11, and also unlawfully making loans for the bank to certain persons in excess of the maximum percentage of the capital stock and permanent surplus, in violation of this section, alleges the commission of crimes of which there are separate indictments there-of against the same person they may be consolidated and tried together by the court. State v. Cooper, 190 N. C. 528, 533, 130 S. E. 180.

Loss of Assets Must Result.—In an action against the managing officials of a bank for wrongful depletion of assets in mismanagement of the affairs of the bank in making loans in excess of the limit set forth in this section, the evidence is insufficient to be submitted to a jury, if it appears that no loss to the assets of the bank has been caused by the acts of the officials. Gordon v. Pendleton, 202 N. C. 241, 162 S. E. 546.

§ 53-49. Suspension of investment and loan limitation.—The board of directors of any bank, may by resolution duly passed at a meeting of the board, request the commissioner of banks to suspend temporarily the limitations on loans and investments as the same may apply to any particular loan or investment in excess of the limitations of §§ 53-46, 53-47, and 53-48 which the bank desires to make. Upon receipt of a duly certified copy of such resolution, the commissioner of banks may, in his discretion, suspend the limitations on loans and investments insofar as they would apply to the loan or investment which the bank desires to make: Provided, however, such loan shall be amply secured and shall be for a period not longer than one hundred and twenty days. (1921, c. 4, s. 30; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1933, c. 239, s. 1; C. S. 280(e)).

Editor's Note. — There was no corresponding section in the prior law.

§ 53-50. Reserve. — Every bank shall at all times have on hand or on deposit with approved reserve depositories, instantly available funds in an amount equal to at least fifteen per cent of the aggregate amount of its demand deposits, and five per cent of the aggregate amount of its time deposits. But no reserve shall be required on deposits secured by a deposit of United States bonds or the bonds of the state of North Carolina. Any bank that is now or may hereafter become a member of the Federal Reserve Bank shall maintain the same reserve with respect to deposits as shall be required of other members of such Federal Reserve Bank. (1921, c. 4, s. 31; C. S. 220(f)).

Cross References.—As to effect of impaired capital upon reserve, see § 53-42. As to provisions giving authority to the Federal Reserve Bank, see § 53-43. As to failure to maintain reserve required by law, see § 53-111.

Editor's Note. — The corresponding section of the old law was C. V. sec. 53-42. With the exception of the insertion of the phrase permitting deposits with approved reserve depositories, this section, in so far as it goes, is a re-enactment of the prior law. The prior section contained a provision prohibiting a bank from making new loans or discounts, otherwise than by discounting or purchasing bills of exchange payable at sight, or make any dividends of its profits when the available funds are below the reserve required. This provision will be found as a part of sec. 222(g).

The prior section also contained definitions of time and demand deposit, available funds and cash. The first two terms were defined under Sec. 53-1 so that a repetition here is uncalled for and a definition of the last two terms is omitted from the banking laws.

"Deposits" Defined.—This section means all deposits the payment of which can be legally required within thirty days [see sec. 53-11], this reserve consisting in cash on hand, balance payable on demand due from other approved solvent banks, which have been designated depositories as hereinafter provided in this chapter. Cash includes lawful money of the United States, and exchange of any clearing house association. (Rev. c. 292; 1903, c. 275, s. 27; 1919, c. 85; 1921, c. 4, s. 32; C. S. 220(g)).

Cross Reference.—See note under § 53-71.

§ 53-51. Reserve and cash defined. Reserve shall consist of cash on hand and balances payable on demand, due from other approved solvent banks, which have been designated depositories as hereinafter provided in this chapter. Cash includes lawful money of the United States, and exchange of any clearing house association. (Rev. c. 292; 1903, c. 275, s. 27; 1919, c. 85; 1921, c. 4, s. 32; C. S. 220(g)).

Cross Reference.—See note under § 53-71.

§ 53-52. Forged check, payment of. No bank shall be liable to a depositor for payment by it of a forged check or other order to pay money unless within sixty days after the receipt of such voucher by the depositor he shall notify the bank that such check or order so paid is forged. (1921, c. 4, s. 33; C. S. 220(h)).

Editor's Note.—"This section is a substantial reenactment of C. S., sec. 231, except that formerly the depositor had six months within which to give notice of the forgery." Casabrooks v. Nat. Bank, 210 N. C. 244, 186 S. E. 362. "Arnold v. State Bank, etc., Co., 218 N. C. 433, 437, 11 S. E. (2d) 307.

The liability of the bank for payment of the forged instrument is predicated upon the presumption that it had knowledge of the genuine signature of its depositors. State Bank v. Cumberland Sav., etc., Co., 168 N. C. 605, 65 S. E. 5. The bank assumes the responsibility of holding the depositor’s funds subject to his order and the burden is upon it, where a deposit is shown, to relieve itself of liability for the fund by proof of payment in accordance with the order of the depositor. Bank v. Thompson, 174 N. C. 349, 93 S. E. 849; Yarborough v. Trust Co., 142 N. C. 377, 55 S. E. 266.

The bank is just as liable for the payment of a forged check within the meaning of this section, when the endorsement is forged, as where the whole instrument is forged, it would seem, and this for the reason that the bank is clothed with the authority to the person designated by the depositor. Of course, if the payment is due to the negligence of the depositor, the bank would be relieved of liability. See Michie on Banks and Banking, p. 1209, 7 C. J. sec. 414, p. 696.

The general rule as to the liability of a bank upon a raised check is that it is liable for payment unless the depositor was so negligent in preparing his check that it was left incomplete or easily altered. But it should be observed in this connection that the depositor is not bound to prepare the checks so that it is impossible to alter them, and it would seem that if he used the care that an ordinary prudent man would use, the bank is liable. See Michie on Banks, pp. 1203 et seq. and 7 C. J. p. 684 sec. 413 for a collection of authorities.

The section of this section requiring a return of the voucher, giving the bank notice within a specified time of the receipt thereof, is, in keeping with the law of the majority of the states. This requirement is predicated upon the corporation’s duty of due care in handling of its business. The corporation may examine his returned checks within a reasonable time and to report any forgeries or alterations. However, in the absence of a statute similar to this one, it has often been held that the depositor owes no such duty, and that if he does and fails in it, the bank will not be relieved of payment unless it has been prejudiced by the delay. See Michie on Banks and Banking, p. 1209-1239 for full treatment. See also 7 C. J. sec. 414, p. 697.

Receipt of Statement by Bookkeeper Who Forged Checks Is Receipt by Corporation.—The receipt of a corporation’s bank statement by its bookkeeper is receipt of the statement by the corporation, and it may not recover against the bank for the payment of forged checks when notice is not given within sixty days after such receipt of the bank statement, even though the checks were forged by the bookkeeper, who destroyed them after he received the canceled checks from the bank. Greensboro Ice, etc., Co. v. Security Nat. Bank, 210 N. C. 244, 185 S. E. 362.

§ 53-53. Minor, payment of deposit in the name of.—When money is held on deposit by any state, industrial or national bank in this state in the name of a minor under fifteen years of age, it may be paid, together with the interest, if there be any interest thereon, upon receipts or checks signed by such minor and one of the minor’s parents. When money is held on deposit by any state, industrial or national bank in this state in the name of a minor fifteen years of age or upwards, it may be paid, together with the interest, if there be any interest thereon, upon receipts or checks signed by the minor. A written statement from the minor, if fifteen years of age or upward, or from one of the said minor’s parents, if the minor is under fifteen years of age, shall be conclusive evidence of the age of the minor. (1921, c. 4, s. 34; 1939, c. 84, s. 304; 1941, c. 44, 178 S. E. 831.)

Cross Reference.—As to payment of deposit in trust for minor to minor upon death of trustee, see § 53-59.

Editor’s Note.—As the corresponding section of the prior law was C. S. sec. 228.

The 1939 amendment repealed the former section and substituted the above therefor.

For comment on the 1939 amendatory act, see 17 N. C. Law 60.

This section is an exception to the general rule that contracts of an infant are voidable at the option of the infant. Coker v. Virginia-Carolina Joint-Stock Land Bank, 230 N. C. 33, 151 S. E. 481.

§ 53-54. Transactions not performed during banking hours.—Nothing in any law of this state shall in any manner whatsoever affect the validity of, or render void or voidable, the payment, certification, or acceptance of a check or other negotiable instrument or any other transaction by a bank in this state, because done or performed after regular banking hours except as herein provided. Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to compel any bank in this state, which by law or custom is entitled to close at twelve noon on any Saturday, or for the whole or part day of any legal holiday, to keep open for the transaction of business, or to perform any of the acts or transactions aforesaid on any Saturday after such hour or on any legal holiday, except at its option. (1921, c. 4, s. 35; C. S. 229 (j).)

Editor’s Note.—The corresponding section of the prior law was C. S. sec. 234 in so far as Saturdays, Sundays and holidays are concerned. There was no similar provision in the prior law relating to transactions not performed during banking hours on other days.

§ 53-55. Commercial and business paper defined.—The term “commercial or business paper,” as used in this chapter, is hereby defined to mean a promissory note, and the term “trade acceptance” to mean a draft or bill of exchange issued or drawn for agricultural, industrial, or commercial purposes, or the proceeds of which have been used or are to be used for such purposes, but such definition shall not include notes, drafts, or bills of exchange covering merely investments, or issued or drawn for the purpose of carrying on or trading in stocks, bonds, or other investment securities, except bonds and notes of the government of the United States and state of North Carolina. (1921, c. 4, s. 36; 1923, c. 148, s. 7; 1941, c. 265; C. S. 220 (k.).)

Cross Reference.—As to promissory notes and checks, see § 53-99 et seq.

Editor’s Note.—The 1941 amendment struck out the former second sentence of this section, which sentence related to maturity.

§ 53-56. Bank acceptances defined.—Any bank doing business under this chapter may accept for payment at a future date, drafts or bills of exchange having not more than six months sight to run, drawn upon it by its customers under acceptance agreements, and which grow out of transactions involving the importation or exportation of goods; and issue letters of credit authorizing the holders thereof to draw upon it or its correspondents, provided that there is a definite bona fide contract for the shipment of goods within a specified reasonable time, and the existence of such contract is certified in the acceptance agreement; or which grow out of transactions involving the domestic shipment of goods, provided that shipping documents, conveying or securing to the accepting bank title to readily marketable goods, are attached or in the hands of an agent of the accepting bank, independent of the drawer, for his account, at the time of acceptance, or which are secured at the time of acceptance by warehouse receipts or other documents conveying or securing to the accepting bank title to readily marketable goods fully covered by insurance, the warehouse receipts or other documents to be those of a responsible warehouse, independent of the drawer, the acceptance to remain secured during the life of the acceptance unless suitable security of same character, or cash, be substituted: Provided, no bank shall accept drafts or bills of exchange under this section to an aggregate amount at any time more than equal to the sum of its capital and permanent surplus: Provided further, that a bank shall be entitled to refuse itself foreign or domestic transaction, for any one person, firm, or corporation, to any amount at any time equal to more than twenty-five per cent of its capital and permanent surplus, unless the accepting bank is secured either by attached documents or those held for its account by its agent, independent of the drawer, or by some other actual security of the same character. Should the accepting bank purchase or discount its own acceptances, such acceptances will be considered as a direct loan to the drawer, and be subject to the limitation on loans hereinbefore provided in this chapter. The state banking commission may issue such further regulations as to such acceptances as it may deem necessary in conformity with this chapter. As used herein, the word "goods" shall be construed to mean and include goods, wares, merchandise, or agricultural products, including livestock. (1921, c. 4, s. 37; 1931, c. 414, s. 5; 1939, c. 91, s. 2; C. S. 220(1)).

Cross References.—As to limitations on investments in securities, see § 53-46; stocks, §§ 53-47; loans generally, § 53-48.

Acceptance Prior to Statute. — Notwithstanding that, prior to the legislative enactment, an acceptance was beyond the power of a bank when not expressly permitted by the charter, an acceptance by a bank not so authorized was not invalid, provided it had been made on the express and independent of the drawer, or by some other actual security of the same character. Should the accepting bank purchase or discount its own acceptances, such acceptances will be considered as a direct loan to the drawer, and be subject to the limitation on loans hereinbefore provided in this chapter. The state banking commission may issue such further regulations as to such acceptances as it may deem necessary in conformity with this chapter. As used herein, the word "goods" shall be construed to mean and include goods, wares, merchandise, or agricultural products, including livestock. (1921, c. 4, s. 37; 1931, c. 414, s. 5; 1939, c. 91, s. 2; C. S. 220(1)).

§ 53-57. Nonpayment of check in error, liability for.—No bank shall be liable to a depositor because of the nonpayment, through mistake or error, and without malice, of a check which should have been paid had the mistake or error of nonpayment not occurred, except for the actual damage by reason of such nonpayment that the depositor shall prove, and in such event the liability shall not exceed the amount of damage so proven. (1921, c. 4, s. 38; C. S. 220(m)).

A bank is held liable to the drawer for its breach of promise to pay the check, upon the ground that there is an implied promise by the bank, arising from the deposit of the funds with it, that it will pay the checks when and as they are presented. If the bank fails to perform this promise, it becomes liable to the drawer for the damage sustained by him on account of its refusal or failure to pay his check. But the holder of the check can only sue the bank. The reason why the holder of the check not permitted to sue the bank has been stated by the authorities to be that there is no privity between the holder in the bank until by certification of the check or the acceptance thereof, expressed or implied, or by any other act or conduct it has made itself directly liable to the holder. First Nat. Bank v. Whitman, 94 U. S. 343, 24 L. Ed. 229; Commercial Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 118 N. C. 783, 24 S. E. 524; Hayes v. Blackwell, 192 N. C. 308, 134 S. E. 615.

Notwithstanding that these principles have been recognized, there are courts which hold, in well considered opinions, that the bank, by its acceptance, impliedly promised to pay the check. If it is notified that he has the check, or demand for its payment is made upon it, and it then has sufficient clear and unencumbered funds to the credit of the drawer with which to pay the check, it becomes directly liable to pay the check to itself. Standard Trust Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 116 N. C. 112, 119, 81 S. E. 1074; Perry v. Bank, 121 N. C. 117, 32 S. E. 570; Commercial Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 118 N. C. 783, 24 S. E. 524; Hayes v. Blackwell, 192 N. C. 308, 134 S. E. 615.

For general treatment of subject, see Michie on Banks and Banking, pp. 1079, 1151 et seq. See also, 7 C. J. 425, p. 626.

Where Nonpayment Malicious.—This section does not apply when the nonpayment was through error, or mistake, and without malice, and that no actual damages resulted to depositor from such nonpayment. Woody v. National Bank, 194 N. C. 549, 140 S. E. 150.

Damages.—Any person will be deemed substantially damaged upon the refusal of a bank to pay his check, if the refusal is without due cause, and where the nonpayment is through mistake or error, and without malice, and that no actual damages resulted to depositor from such nonpayment. Woody v. National Bank, 194 N. C. 549, 140 S. E. 150, holding that on the facts admitted by demurrer plaintiff was entitled to nominal damages at least.

A bank wrongfully and unlawfully refusing to pay a check breaches its contract and the depositor is entitled to nominal damages at least. Thomas v. American Trust Co., 208 N. C. 653, 182 S. E. 147.

Charge on Injury to Credit and Reputation Not Supported by Evidence Is Error.—In an action to recover for the wrongful and unlawful refusal by a bank to pay a depositor's check, it is error for the court to charge the jury on the issue of damage that it should consider the evidence of damage sustained by plaintiff through injury to his credit or reputation in the community resulting from the bank's wrongful act alone. There is no evidence that plaintiff's credit or reputation had been injured thereby. Thomas v. American Trust Co., 208 N. C. 653, 182 S. E. 150.

§ 53-58. Checks sent direct to bank on which drawn.—Any bank receiving for collection or deposit any check, note, or other negotiable instrument drawn upon or payable at another bank, located in another town or city, whether within or without this state, may forward such instrument for collection, direct to the bank on which it is drawn, or at which it is payable, and such method of forwarding direct to the paying bank shall be deemed due diligence, and the failure of such paying bank, because of its insolvency or other default, to account for the proceeds thereof, shall not render the forwarding bank liable therefor: Provided, however, such forwarding bank shall have used due diligence in other respects in connection with the collection of such instrument. (1921, c. 4, s. 39; C. S. 220(h)).

Editor's Note.—This section is a substantial re-enactment of C. S. sec. 233 except that the last line of that section which provided, "The provision of this section shall not apply where there is more than one bank in a town," was omitted.

Dealsings Presumed to Contemplate Statute. — Banks must be presumed to have dealt with each other with respect to a statute of the State in which a check was deposited for collection, defining the rights and liabilities of banks and banks to which checks are forwarded for collection. Fed. Land Bk. v. Barrow, 189 N. C. 303, 310, 127 S. E. 3.

Sending Check to Federal Reserve Bank. — Under this section the sending of a cashier's check to the proper Federal Reserve Bank is due diligence in collecting the same, as would be sending it directly to the drawer bank. Fed. Land Bk. v. Barrow, 189 N. C. 303, 127 S. E. 3.

Abrogated Holdings. — The holding of the Supreme Court, in Bankers v. Braswell, 186 N. C. 261, 190 S. E. 357, in American Nat. Bank v. Savannah Trust Co., 172 N. C. 344, 90 S. E. 302, that "It is negligence in a bank having the check in its possession for collection to send it directly to the drawer, and this is true, even where there is the only bank at the place of payment," is abrogated by the express provisions of this statute. See Malloy v. Fed. Reserve Bank, 189 N. C. 127, 127 S. E. 337; Citizens Nat. Bank v. Barrow, 189 N. C. 303, 309, 127 S. E. 3.

Constitutes Good Presentment.—A collecting bank makes a good presentment of a check for payment by forwarding it to the drawer bank in another city by mail. Braswell v. Citizens Nat. Bank, 197 N. C. 229, 148 S. E. 236.
When Section Not Applicable—Rights and Liabilities as to Collection.—When a collecting bank receives a check for collection payable at a bank in another town, there is no authority of agency conferred by the delivery of the check on it to receive in payment anything but money; and where the drawer of the check has money to meet the check on deposit in the drawee bank, on presentation of the check, the intervening bank, in the course of collection, receives a check of the drawee bank in payment, which is not paid by reason of the drawee bank becoming insolvent before presentment of its check: Held, as a matter of law the drawer of the check is released from liability thereon. This section has no application to the facts in this case. Dewey Brothers v. McCormick, 195 N. C. 307, 142 S. E. 22.

§ 53-59. Deposits in trust, payment of.—Whenever any deposits shall be made in any bank or banking institution in this state by any person in trust for any other person who is a minor of the age of fifteen years and upward, and no other or further notice of the existence and terms of a legal and valid trust shall have been given to the bank, in event of the death of the trustee, the same may be paid to the person acting as executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee, may invest in federal farm loan bonds or further notice of the existence and terms of a legal and valid trust shall have been given to the bank, in event of the death of the trustee, the same may be paid to the person acting as executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee, may invest in federal farm loan bonds or may be paid to any part thereof, together with the dividends or interest thereon, if any, to the minor for whom said deposit was made: Provided, that the amount of said deposit is not in excess of one hundred dollars. (1921, c. 4, s. 40; C. S. 220(o.).)

§ 53-80. Farm loan bonds, authorized investment in.—Any bank or insurance company organized under the laws of this state, and any person acting as executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee, may invest in federal farm loan bonds issued by any federal farm loan bank or joint-stock land bank organized pursuant to an act entitled "An act of Congress to provide capital for agricultural development, to create standard forms of investment based upon farm mortgages to equalize rates of interest upon farm loans, to furnish a market for United States bonds, to create government depositories, and financial agents for the United States, and for other purposes," approved the seventeenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen. (1921, c. 4, s. 41; C. S. 220(p.).)

Editor's Note.—This section is a re-enactment of the C. S. sec. 225.

§ 53-81. Federal Reserve Bank, authority to join.—The words "Federal Reserve Act," as hereinafter used, shall be held to mean the act of Congress of the United States, approved December twenty-third, nineteen hundred thirteen. The words "Federal Reserve Board" shall be held to mean the Federal Reserve Board created and described in the Federal Reserve Act. The words "Federal Reserve Banks" shall be held to mean Federal Reserve Banks created and organized under the authority of the Federal Reserve Act. The words "member bank" shall be held to mean any National or State bank or bank and trust company which has become or which becomes a member of one of the Federal Reserve Banks created by the Federal Reserve Act.

(a) Any bank incorporated under the laws of this state shall have the power to subscribe to the capital stock and become a member of a Federal Reserve Bank.

(b) Any bank incorporated under the laws of this state which is, or which may become, a member of the Federal Reserve Bank is by this chapter vested with all powers conferred upon member banks of the Federal Reserve Banks by terms of the Federal Reserve Act as fully and completely as if such powers were specifically enumerated and described therein, and such powers shall be exercised subject to all restrictions and limitations imposed by the Federal Reserve Act, or by regulations of the Federal Reserve Board made pursuant thereto. The right, however, is expressly reserved to revoke or to amend the powers herein conferred.

(c) A compliance on the part of any such bank with the reserve requirements of the Federal Reserve Act shall be held to be a full compliance with the provisions of the laws of this state, which require banks to maintain cash balances in their vaults or with other banks, and no such bank shall be required to carry or maintain reserve other than such as is required under the terms of the Federal Reserve Act.

(d) Any such bank shall continue to be subject to the supervision and examination required by the laws of this state, except that the Federal Reserve Board shall have the right, if it deems necessary, to make examinations; and the authority and power of such state to examine such banks may be exercised by the Federal Reserve Board, or to the examiners duly appointed by it, all information in reference to the affairs of any bank which has become, or desires to become, a member of a Federal Reserve Bank. (1921, c. 4, s. 49; C. S. 220(q.).)

Cross Reference.—As to amount of reserve required, see § 53-80.

Editor's Note.—This section is a substantial re-enactment of the C. S. sec. 221.

Unemployment Compensation.—A bank organized under the laws of this state is not an instrumentality of the federal government so as to exempt it from the tax imposed by the Unemployment Compensation Act, notwithstanding that the bank may be a member of the federal reserve system. Unemployment Compensation Comm. v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 215 N. C. 491, 2 S. E. (2d) 592.

§ 53-82. Establishment of branches.—Any bank doing business under this chapter may establish branches in the cities in which they are located, or elsewhere, after having first obtained the written approval of the commissioner of banks, which approval may be given or withheld by the commissioner of banks, in his discretion, and shall not be given until he shall have ascertained to his satisfaction that the public convenience and advantage will be promoted by the opening of such branch. Such branch banks shall be operated as branches of and under the name of the parent bank, under the control and direction of the board of directors and executive officers of said parent bank. The board of directors of the parent bank shall elect a cashier and such other officers as may be required to properly conduct the business of such branch, and a board of managers or loan committee shall be responsible for the conduct and management of said branch, but not of the parent bank or of any branch save that of which the three officers, managers, or committee: Provided, that the commissioner of banks shall not authorize the establishment of any branch, the paid-in capital stock of whose parent bank is not sufficient in an amount to provide for the capital of at least twenty-five thousand dollars for the parent bank, and at least twenty-five thousand dollars for each branch which it is proposed to establish in cities or towns of three thousand population or less; nor less than thirty thousand dollars in cities and towns whose population exceeds three thousand, but does not exceed ten thousand; nor less than fifty thousand dollars in cities and towns whose population exceeds ten thousand, but does not exceed twenty-five thousand; nor less than one hundred thousand dollars in cities and towns whose population exceeds twenty-five thousand.

All banks operating branches prior to February 18, 1921, shall, within a time limit to be prescribed by the commissioner of banks, cause said branch bank to conform to the provisions of this section: Provided, however, that any bank with a capital stock (including both common and preferred) of one million ($1,000,000.00) dollars or more may without additional capital establish and operate such number of branches or agencies in the state of North Carolina as the commissioner of banks may in his discretion permit; but a bank operating branches under said provision shall at all times maintain an unimpaired capital of at least one million ($1,000,000.00) dollars: Provided further, that the commissioner of banks shall not permit the establishment of additional branches, and/or agencies unless said bank maintains its capital stock and surplus in ratio of one to ten to its deposits; Provided that in small communities having no other banking facilities, and upon a finding by the commissioner of banks that the public convenience and advantage will be promoted, and thereby enabled the opening of "tellers window agencies or branches" in such communities, the commissioner of banks may be permitted, but no more than one such agency or branch may be so opened in any one community nor shall any bank be permitted to open such an agency or branch when its unimpaired capital and surplus in proportion to deposits is below that herein required. (1921, c. 4, s. 43; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 56, s. 2; 1927, c. 47, s. 8; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1933, c. 451, s. 1; 1935, c. 130; C. S. 290(r).)

Editor's Note. — There is no provision in the prior law corresponding to this section. However, C. S. sec. 216 contained a provision prohibiting the establishment of branches except with the consent of the corporation commission. Authority to establish branches under the old law must have been given by the legislature in the charter, and this must have been given by express terms for the court could not construe a provision in a charter to give authority by implication. Morehead Banking Co. v. Tate, 122 N. C. 313, 30 S. E. 341. [This case was decided prior to the statute.]

Contracts of Branch Illegally Established.—A bond given by a cashier of a branch bank for the faithful performance of his duties is not against public morals because the parent corporation may not have had the express authority to establish a branch bank. Morehead Banking Co. v. Tate, 122 N. C. 313, 30 S. E. 341. (This case was decided prior to the statute.)

Branch as Agent of Parent.—The relation between bank and the branch is that of principal and agent, and all the assets and indebtedness of the agency are those of the principal. Morehead Banking Co. v. Tate, 122 N. C. 397, 29 S. E. 775.

Creditors of Parent and Branch Share Ratably. — The creditors and depositors of the parent and branch share ratably where the assets are being liquidated. Worth v. Bank, 122 N. C. 397, 29 S. E. 775.

§ 53-63. Certificate of deposit, unlawful issue of.—It shall be unlawful for any bank to issue any certificate of deposit or other negotiable instrument of its indebtedness to the holder thereof except for lawful money of the United States, checks, drafts, or bills of exchange which are the actual equivalent of such money; nor shall such moneys, checks, drafts, or bills of exchange be the proceeds of any note given in payment of the purchase price of any stock. Any officer or employee of any bank violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1921, c. 4, s. 44; C. S. 220(s)).

Cross Reference.—As to provision making it unlawful for bank to handle draft connected with receipt of liquor, see § 38-33. Editor's Note.—There was no provision in the prior law corresponding to this section. Cited in Southport v. Williams, 290 F. 488.

§ 53-64. Bank's own stock, unlawful to loan on.—It shall be unlawful for any bank to make any loan secured by the pledge of its own shares of stock, nor shall any bank be the holder of a pledge of any portion of its capital stock unless such stock is purchased or pledged to it to prevent loss upon a debt previously contracted in good faith. Provided, that whenever any bank shall have shares of its own stock sold to, or pledged to it, for the purpose of preventing a loss upon a debt previously contracted, it shall dispose of all such shares of stock within a period of six months from the date such stock was sold or pledged to it and if not so disposed of, the same shall be charged to profit and loss and no longer carried as an asset.
§ 53-65. Deposits payable on demand.—Any bank may receive deposits of funds subject to withdrawal or to be paid upon the checks of the depositor. All deposits in such banks shall be payable on demand, without notice, except when the contract of deposit shall otherwise provide. (1921, c. 4, s. 46; C. S. 220(u).) Cross References.—As to definition of “demand deposits,” see § 53-1. As to definition under prior law, see C. S. 226.

§ 53-66. Savings deposits.—Any bank conducting a savings department may receive deposits on such terms as are authorized by its board of directors and agreed to by its depositors. The board of directors shall prescribe the terms upon which such deposits shall be received and paid out, and a payee bank as collateral security. White v. Whitehurst, 194 N. C. 305, 139 S. E. 598.

§ 53-67. Boards of directors, banks controlled by.—The corporate powers, business, and property of banks doing business under this chapter shall be exercised, conducted, and controlled by its board of directors, which shall consist of not less than five directors, to be chosen by the stockholders, and shall hold office for one year, and until their successors are elected and qualified. The annual meeting of stockholders for the election of directors shall be held during the month of January of each year. (1921, c. 4, s. 46; 1925, c. 170; C. S. 220(w).)

Editor’s Note.—There was no provision in the prior law which were similar to this section. See discussion in 9 N. C. L. Rev. 13.

§ 53-68. State banks.—In order to prevent accumulation of unnecessary amounts of currency in the vaults of the banks and trust companies chartered by this state, all checks drawn on said banks and trust companies shall, unless specified on the face thereof, be payable at the option of the drawer bank in exchange drawn on the reserve deposits of said drawer bank when any such check is presented by or through any Federal Reserve Bank, post office, or express company, or any respective agents thereof. (1921, c. 20, s. 2; C. S. 220(aa).) a draft does not discharge the check until the draft is paid in money.

The purpose of this section is to relieve the North Carolina banks of the pressure exerted upon them by the Federal Reserve Banks in seeking to enforce the policy of the Federal Reserve Acts. The Federal Reserve Acts impose upon the member banks over the counters of the banks which would not agree to remit at par, and demand payment in cash. The effect of this demand for cash is to create on the banks a premium for collecting checks over the counters of the banks which would not agree to remit at par, and demand payment in cash. The purpose of this section is to relieve the banks of the pressure exerted upon them by the Federal Reserve Acts.

It is the purpose of this section to effect the draft upon a reserve deposit as has always been the general custom. See the comprehensive article in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 133.

The Federal Reserve Bank cannot require payment in any other medium than the exchange. Federal Land Bank v. Barrow, 189 N. C. 303, 310, 127 S. E. 3. See also, 8 N. C. Law Rev. 36.
§ 53-75. Statement of account from bank to depositor deemed final adjustment if not objected to within five years.—When a statement of account has been rendered by a bank to a depositor accompanied by vouchers, if any, which are the basis for debit entries in such account, or the depositor's passbook has been written up by the bank showing the condition of the depositor's account and delivered to such depositor with like accompaniment of vouchers, if any, such account shall, after the period of five years from the date of its rendition in the event no objection thereto has been theretofore made by the depositor, be deemed finally adjusted and settled and its correctness conclusively presumed and such depositor shall thereafter be barred from questioning the incorrectness of such account for any cause. (1929, c. 188, s. 1.)

§ 53-76. Depositor not relieved from exercising diligence as to errors.—Nothing in the preceding section shall be construed to relieve the depositor from the duty now imposed by law of exercising due diligence in the examination of such account and vouchers, if any, when delivered by the bank and of immediate notification to the bank upon discovery of any error therein, nor from the legal consequences of neglect of such duty; nor to prevent the application of § 53-52 to cases governed thereby. (1929, c. 188, s. 2.)

§ 53-77. Governor empowered to proclaim banking holidays.—The governor is hereby authorized and empowered, by and with the advice and consent of the council of state, to name and set apart such day or days, as he may from time to time designate, as banking holidays. During such period of holidays, all the ordinary and usual operations and business of all banking corporations, state or national, in this state shall be suspended, and during such period no banking corporation shall pay out or receive deposits, make loans or discounts, transfer credits, or transact any other banking business whatsoever: Provided, however, that during any such holiday, including the holiday validated in this section, the commissioner of banks, with the approval of the Governor, may permit any or all such banking institutions to perform any or all of the usual banking functions.

The banking holiday herebefore proclaimed by the governor of this state for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, March sixth, seventh and eighth, are hereby declared to be banking holidays in the state of North Carolina. (1933, c. 120, ss. 1, 2.)

Editor's Note.—For article discussing this section, see H. N. C. Law Rev. 195.

Art. 7. Officers and Directors.

§ 53-78. Executive committee, directors shall appoint.—The board of directors shall appoint an executive committee or committees, each of which shall be composed of at least three of its members with such duties and powers as are defined by the regulations or by-laws, who shall serve until their successors are appointed. Such executive committee or committees shall meet as often as the board of directors may require, which shall not be less frequently than once each month, and approve or disapprove all loans and investments. All loans and investments shall be made under such rules and regulations as the board of directors may prescribe. (1921, c. 4, s. 49; C. S. 221(a).)

Editor's Note.—There were no sections in the banking law prior to 1921 corresponding to the sections under this article. The general corporation law, sections 55-48 et seq., was applicable by virtue of sec. 216.

§ 53-79. Minutes of directors and executive committee meetings.—Minutes shall be kept of all meetings of the board of directors and of the executive committee or committees, and same shall be recorded in a book or books which shall be kept for that purpose; which book or books shall be kept on file in the bank. Such minutes shall show a record of the action taken by the board of directors and executive committee or committees, on all loans, discounts, and investments made, authorized or approved, and such further action as the board of directors and executive committee or committees shall make concerning the conduct, management, and welfare of the bank. The minutes of the executive committee or committees shall be submitted to the board of directors for approval at each meeting of the board. (1921, c. 4, s. 50; C. S. 221(b).)

Effect of Not Writing Minutes.—The plaintiffs cannot be deprived of their right by reason of failure of the proper officer to actually make a written minute or record of the proceedings for the reason that proceedings of a corporate meeting of stockholders or directors are facts, and that they may be proved parol testimony where they are not so recorded. Bailey v. Hassell, 184 N. C. 450, 115 S. E. 166. And this notwithstanding this section, see Everett v. Staton, 192 N. C. 216, 220, 134 S. E. 492.

§ 53-80. Directors, qualifications of.—Every director of a bank doing business under this chapter shall be the owner and holder of shares of stock in the bank having a par value of not less than five hundred dollars; and not less than two hundred dollars if such bank shall have a capital stock of fifteen thousand dollars; and not less than two hundred dollars if such bank shall have a capital stock of fifteen thousand dollars or less. And every such director shall hold such shares in his own name unpledged and unencumbered in any way. The office of any director at any time violating any of the provisions of this section shall immediately become vacant, and the remaining directors shall declare his office vacant and proceed to fill such vacancy forthwith. Not less than three-fourths of the directors of every bank doing business under this chapter shall be residents of the state of North Carolina. Provided, that as to banks doing business before February 18, 1921, the requirements as to amount of stock owned by a director shall not apply unless the commissioner of banks shall rule that such director is not bona fide discharging his duties. (1921, c. 4, s. 51; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 221(c).)

Cross Reference.—As to the law prior to the enactment of this section, see §§ 55-48.

Editor's Note.—As to the Act of 1931 substituting "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commission" formerly appearing in this section.

§ 53-81. Directors shall take oath. — Every director shall, within thirty days after his election, take and subscribe, in duplicate, an oath that he will diligently and honestly perform his duties in such office; and that he is the owner in required to qualify him for such office, standing in his own name on its books, and one of such any officers, agents, or employees of such bank, or who shall knowingly permit to be violated by appearing in this section.

§ 53-82. Directors, liability of. — Any director, or bank who shall knowingly violate, or who shall knowingly permit to be violated by any officers, agents, or employees of such bank, any of the provisions of this chapter shall be held personally and individually liable for all damages which the bank, its stockholders or any other person shall have sustained in consequence of such violation. Any aggrieved stockholder in any bank in liquidation may prosecute an action for the enforcement of the provisions of this section. Only one such action may be brought. The procedure shall follow as nearly as may be that prescribed by § 44-14, relative to suits on bonds of contractors with municipal corporations. (1921, c. 4, s. 53; 1935, c. 464; C. S. 221(e).)

Cross References.—As to fraud to director of a general corporation, see § 55-56. As to criminal liability of bank directors, see § 53-129. See also §§ 14-254 and 53-130.

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added the last three sentences to the section.

Similarity to National Act.—This section is, with mere verbal changes, Comp. Stat. 9831, R. S. 5239. For federal cases construing the national banking act see Yates v. Jones Nat. Bank, 206 U. S. 158, 51 L. Ed. 1002, 27 S. Ct. 639; Thomas v. Taylor, 224 U. S. 72, 61 L. Ed. 1000, 37 S. Ct. 579.

Effect of Violation.—Doubletless, the General Assembly, at the regular session of 1921, thought that the inclusion of section 53-48 and this section would be sufficient, without providing for either the imposition of a penalty, or the procedure for paying the same. The provision with reference to the reserve was enforceable by the Corporation Commission in the exercise of its power of supervision of banks. No provision was made for the enforcement of provisions relative to individuals exceeding the statutory limitation. Violations of these and other provisions of the statute by directors might result in civil liability, only. However, at the Extra Session of 1921, the General Assembly added § 53-134 making such violation a misdemeanor. State v. Cooper, 190 N. C. 528, 532, 130 S. E. 180.

Elements of Crime in Violation.—An intent to defraud the bank or others is not required to be either alleged in the indictment or proved upon the trial of the issue raised by a plea of not guilty. Neither the bank nor any of its officers or directors have any discretion as to the making of loans which are thus forbidden. Intent is, therefore, not an element of the crime. The wilful doing of the unlawful act constitutes the crime declared by statute to be a misdemeanor. The committee, with the approval of the board of directors, may provide for such examinations by a certified public accountant or clearing-house examiner in any city where such examination is provided for by the rules of such clearing-house association. A copy of such report of examination, which is herein required to be made, attested, and verified under oath by the signature of at least three members of such committee, shall forthwith be filed with the commissioner of banks. (1921, c. 4, s. 54; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 221(f)).

§ 53-84. Depositories, designated by directors. — By resolution of the board of directors, other banks organized under the laws of this state, or of another state, or of the national banking act of the United States, shall be designated as depositaries or reserve banks in which a part of such bank's reserve shall be deposited, subject to payment on demand. A copy of such resolution shall, upon its adoption, be forthwith certified to the commissioner of banks and the depositary so designated shall be subject to the approval of the commissioner of banks. For causes which may deem adequate, the commissioner of banks shall have authority at any time to withdraw such approval. (1921, c. 4, s. 55; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 221(g)).

§ 53-85. Stockholders' book. —The directors shall provide a book in which shall be kept the name and resident address of each stockholder, the number of shares held by each, the time when such person became a stockholder, together with all transfer of stock, stating the time when made, the number of shares and by whom transferred, which book shall be subject to the inspection of the directors, officers, and stockholders of the bank at all times during the usual hours for the transaction of business. (1921, c. 4, s. 56; C. S. 221(h)).

business under this chapter, on account of any transaction to which the bank is a party. Any officer, director, employee, or agent who shall violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be and thereafter remain ineligible as an officer, director, or employee of any bank doing business under this chapter. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the payment of necessary and proper attorney's fees to any licensed attorney for professional services rendered. (1921, c. 4, s. 57; C. S. 221(l)).

§ 53-87. Dividends, directors may declare.—The board of directors of any bank may declare a dividend of so much of its undivided profits as they may deem expedient, subject to the requirements hereinafter provided. When the surplus of any bank having a capital stock of fifteen thousand dollars or more is less than fifty per cent of its paid-in capital stock, such bank shall not declare any dividend until it has transferred from undivided profits to surplus twenty-five per cent of said undivided profits, or any lesser percentage that may be required to restore the surplus to an amount equal to fifty per cent of the paid-in capital stock. When the surplus of any bank having a capital stock of less than fifteen thousand dollars is less than one hundred per cent of its paid-in capital stock, such bank shall not declare any dividend until it has transferred from undivided profits to surplus fifty per cent of said undivided profits, or any lesser percentage that may be required to restore the surplus to an amount equal to one hundred per cent of the paid-in capital stock. In order to ascertain the undivided profits from which such dividend may be made, there shall be charged and deducted from the actual profits:

(a) All ordinary and extraordinary expenses, paid or incurred, in managing the affairs and transacting the business of the bank;

(b) Interest paid or then due on debts which it owes;

(c) All taxes due;

(d) All overdrafts which have been standing on the books of the bank for a period of sixty days or longer;

(e) All losses sustained by the bank. In computing the losses, there shall be included debts owing the bank which have become due and are not in process of collection, and on which interest for one year or more is due and unpaid, unless said debts are well secured; and debts reduced to final judgments which have been unsatisfied for more than one year and on which no interest has been paid for a period of one year, unless said judgments are well secured.

(f) All investments carried on its books, which are prohibited under the provisions of this chapter, or rules and regulations made by the commissioner of banks, pursuant to the powers conferred under this chapter. (1921, c. 4, s. 58; 1927, c. 47, s. 10; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 221(l)).

Editor's Note.—The 1927 amendment added subsection (f).

The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commission" formerly appearing in this section.

§ 53-88. Surplus, shall not be used for.—The surplus of any bank doing business under this chapter shall not be used for the purpose of paying expenses or losses until the credit to undivided profits has been exhausted. But any portion of such surplus may be converted into capital stock and distributed as a stock dividend, provided that such surplus shall not thereby be reduced below fifty per cent of the paid-in capital of such bank, having a paid-in capital of fifteen thousand dollars or more. When the surplus of any bank having a capital stock of less than fifteen thousand dollars shall reach an amount equal to one hundred per cent of its paid-in capital, the board of directors of such bank shall declare a dividend of fifty per cent of said surplus and distribute the same as a stock dividend: Provided, that where the distribution of such a stock dividend would increase the capital stock of any bank to an amount greater than fifteen thousand dollars, the board of directors of such bank may, in its discretion, declare a stock dividend of only so much of said surplus as will be necessary to increase the stock of the said bank to fifteen thousand dollars. (1921, c. 4, s. 50; C. S. 221(k)).

Cross Reference.—As to definition of "surplus" and "undivided profits," see § 53-1.

§ 53-89. Overdrafts, payment by officer, etc.—Any officer (other than a director), or employee of a bank, who shall permit any customer or other person to overdraw his account, or who shall pay any check or draft, the paying of which shall overdraw any account, unless the same shall be authorized by the board of directors or by a committee of such board authorized to act, shall be personally and individually liable to such bank for the amounts of such overdrafts. (1921, c. 4, s. 60; C. S. 221(l)).

§ 53-90. Officers and employees shall give bond.—The active officers and employees of any bank before entering upon their duties shall give bond to the bank in a bonding company authorized to do business in North Carolina, in the amount required by the directors and upon such form as may be approved by the commissioner of banks, the premium for same to be paid by the bank. The commissioner of banks or directors of such bank may require an increase of the amount of such bond whenever they may deem it necessary. If injured by the breach of any bond given hereunder, the bank so injured may put the same in suit and recover such damages as it may have sustained. (1921, c. 4, s. 61; Ex. Sess., 1921, c. 18; 1927, c. 47, s. 11; 1929, c. 72, s. 2; 1931, c. 213, s. 5; C. S. 221(m)).

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 struck out the section as amended by the Act of 223 and inserted in lieu thereof the above.

This statute enters into and forms a part of the bond. Hood v. Simpson, 206 N. C. 748, 175 S. E. 193.

Effect of Renewal of Bond.—When a bond which guarantees the fidelity of a bank cashier and guarantees the bank against loss by reason of embezzlement, etc., of said cashier, is executed for an indefinite term and thereafter is kept in force by the payment of annual premiums, for each year the officer was re-elected, then each and every renewal thereof is a separate and distinct bond or independent contract. Hood v. Simpson, 206 N. C. 748, 753, 175 S. E. 193.

§ 53-91. Officers and employees may borrow, when.—No officer or employee of a bank, nor a firm or partnership of which such officer or employee is a member, nor a corporation in which such officer or employee owns a controlling interest, shall borrow any amount whatever from the bank of which he is an officer or employee, except upon good collateral or other ample security or endorsement; and no such loan shall be made until the same has been approved by a majority of the board of directors and a resolution, duly entered upon the minutes of the board of directors and signed by them, showing the amount of the loan, the directors approving the same and a brief description of the security upon which said loan is made; and a certified copy of such resolution shall be attached to the instrument evidencing the indebtedness. Provided, however, this section shall not apply to directors who are neither officers nor employees of the bank. (1921, c. 4, s. 69; 1925, c. 110, s. 2; 1927, c. 47, s. 12; C. S. 223(n).)

Editor's Note.—The scope of this section was broadened by the Act of 1925. The prohibition was extended to employees as well as officers. The provision as to partnerships and corporations in which officers or employees are interested is new. The proviso immediately preceding the proviso at the end of the section is also new. The proviso at the end of this section was added by the 1927 amendment.

Art. 8. Commissioner of Banks and Banking Department.

§ 53-92. Appointment of commissioner of banking state banking commission.—On or before April first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, after the ratification of this section, and quadrennially thereafter, the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, shall appoint a commissioner of banks who shall hold his office for a term of four years or until his successor has been appointed and has qualified, subject, however, to the provisions herein made as to his removal. The commissioner of banks shall, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, enter into bond with some surety company authorized to do business in the State of North Carolina, in the sum of not less than fifty thousand dollars, conditioned upon the faithful and honest discharge of all duties and obligations imposed by statute upon him.

There is hereby created, to become effective on April first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, a state banking commission, which commission shall consist of the state treasurer and the attorney general, who shall serve as ex officio members thereof, and five members to be appointed by the governor, four of which said members shall be practical bankers and one shall be a business man who is not an executive official in any bank, said five members shall be appointed for a term of four years beginning on April first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine; and said appointive members shall receive as compensation the same per diem and expenses paid to the members of the advisory budget commission, which compensation shall be paid from the fees collected for the examination of banks, as provided by law.

The banking commission shall meet at such time or times, and not less than once every three months, as the commission shall, by resolution, prescribe, and the commission may be convened in special session at the call of the governor, or upon the request of the commissioner of banks.

The state treasurer shall be chairman of the said commission.

No member of said commission shall act in any matter affecting any bank in which he is financially interested, or with which he is in any manner connected. No member of said commission shall divulge or make use of any information coming into his possession as a result of his service on such commission, and shall not give out any information with reference to any facts coming into his possession by reason of his services on such commission in connection with the condition of any state banking institution. Such information shall be secured of him at any hearing at which he is duly subpoenaed, or when required by order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

The commissioner of banks shall act as the executive officer of the banking commission, but the commission shall provide, by rules and regulations, for hearings before the commission upon any matter or thing which may arise in connection with the banking laws of this state upon the request of any person interested therein, and review any action taken or done by the commissioner of banks.

The banking commission is hereby vested with full powers, duties, and functions now vested in or exercised by the commissioner of banks under the banking laws of this state. (1931, c. 243, s. 1; 1935, c. 266; 1939, c. 91, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The most notable change in the banking law is the creation of a new banking department and the new official— the commissioner of banks, to whom is transferred the supervision of banks heretofore exercised by the corporation commission.

All of the section except the first paragraph was inserted by the 1939 amendment in lieu of provisions relating to the former advisory banking commission.

Had the new banking department been created as a purely administrative agency it might fairly be contended that the finality of its action would be in an administrative sense only, and appropriate legal proceedings could be had to test them. But the corporation commission had judicial powers in dealing with banks—its stock assessments were, for example, given the effect of Superior Court judgments. Corporation Commission v. Murphy, 197 N. C. 42, 147 S. E. 667, and 200 U. S. 534, 50 S. Ct. 161, 74 I. Ed. 598, see also Corporation Commission v. Bank of Vanceboro, 200 N. C. 422, 157 S. E. 59. And the new commissioner of banks succeeds to those judicial powers so that he is obviously not a purely administrative official. There still remains the possibility that as to certain matters his rulings are administrative and that it is in respect to such rulings only that the decisions of the new commission as an appellate administrative body are final. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 348-350.

The commissioner of banks shall have the powers, duties and functions herein given, and in addition to such other powers and rights as may be necessary or incident to the proper discharge of his duties. (1931, c. 243, s. 2.)

Cross Reference.—For validation of foreclosures and executions of deeds of trust by the commissioner of banks, see § 53-35.

The Commissioner of Banks, when engaged in the liquidation of the assets of an insolvent bank, as authorized by statute, does not derive his power or his authority from the court. His power and authority, both to take possession of an insolvent bank, and to liquidate its assets for distribution among its creditors according to their respective rights, are derived from the statute. In re Central Bank, etc., Co., 206 N. C. 251, 253, 173 S. E. 340.

§ 53-94. Right to sue and defend in actions involving banks; liability to suit.—As commissioner of banks he is empowered to sue and prosecute § 53-95. Commissioner to exercise powers under supervision of banking commission.—All the powers, duties, and functions granted to or imposed upon the commissioner of banks by law shall be exercised by him under the direction and supervision of the banking commission, and wherever provision is made in any law now in effect authorizing and permitting the commissioner of banks to make rules and regulations with respect to any actions or things required to be done under the banking laws of this state, such rules and regulations shall be made by the banking commission, and the words "the commissioner of banks," used in such statutes authorizing him to make rules and regulations, shall be construed to mean the banking commission, and the words "banking commission" substituted in such statutes for "commissioner of banks." (1931, c. 243, s. 4; 1939, c. 91, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1929 amendment added that portion of the first sentence beginning with the words "under the direction."

§ 53-96. Salary of commissioner; legal assistance and compensation.—The salary of the commissioner of banks shall be fixed by the advisory budget commission. The governor may in his discretion appoint and assign to the commissioner of banks such legal assistance as in his judgment may be necessary; and compensation therefor, when permanent, shall be fixed in like manner. (1931, c. 243, s. 6.)

§ 53-97. Vacancy appointments and removal.—Vacancies existing in the office of commissioner of banks by death, resignation or otherwise shall be filled by the governor; and he shall have the power of removal for sufficient cause. (1931, c. 243, s. 8.)

§ 53-98. Seal of office of commissioner; certification of documents.—The commissioner of banks shall have a seal of office bearing the legend "State of North Carolina—Commissioner of Banks," with such other appropriate device as he may adopt. (1931, c. 243, s. 9.)

§ 53-99. Official records.—The commissioner of banks shall keep a record in his office of his official acts, rulings and transactions: Provided, however, that where any disclosure of the records in his office, or of any report or other transaction, might injuriously affect any bank actually operating, such disclosure shall not be made or required except as may now be done under the provisions of law in similar cases. (1931, c. 243, s. 10.)

§ 53-100. General or special investigations of insolvent banks.—Whenever it may appear to be to the public interest, the governor may cause a general or special investigation to be made of the affairs of any insolvent bank or banks, singly or in related groups, with a view to discovering and establishing the causes of the failure of such bank or banks, and responsibility therefor; and of discovering the dealings with such banks of persons, officers, corporations or municipalities which may have given to such insolvency or which may have endangered or involved any public funds therein. The governor may assign counsel who shall prosecute such inquiry before the commissioner of banks, or a deputy or commissioner appointed by the commissioner of banks for the purpose; and the commissioner of banks is hereby empowered to conduct such investigation either in person or through such commissioner or deputy appointed by him. The inquiry shall be held at the office of commissioner of banks in the city of Raleigh or at any other place or places in the State designated by the commissioner of banks under such rules and regulations as the state banking commission may prescribe and may be adjourned from time to time as convenience may require. Attendance of witnesses and production of papers may be required by subpoena under the hand of the commissioner or his deputy, and on failure of any witness to appear as subpoenaed or his or her failure to produce any books or papers, as called for by such commissioner or deputy on subpoena or other order due notice shall be served, at the instance of such commissioner or deputy, of not less than three days to appear before a judge of the superior court residing in or holding courts within the district wherein such witness is subpoenaed or notified to appear or produce such records or papers, on a day certain and a place named, when such judge shall hear the matter and is authorized to punish such witness as for contempt as he may find on such hearing.

A summary of such investigation shall be made with the findings and recommendations of the commissioner thereon, and a copy thereof submitted to the governor, and when the facts shall disclose that any person or persons are criminally responsible, a summary shall be sent to the solicitor of the judicial district likely to have jurisdiction of the matter, whose duty it shall be to have the matter presented to the grand jury for its action. The governor may employ counsel to assist in the prosecution of any person or persons criminally responsible and fix his compensation and the manner of its payment. (1931, c. 243, s. 11.)

§ 53-101. Clerical help.—The commissioner of banks is empowered to employ sufficient clerical and secretarial help, and other necessary labor to conduct the affairs of his office with economy and efficiency. Persons so employed shall be paid as other employees in the departments of the State and shall be under the same rules and regulations. (1931, c. 243, s. 12.)

§ 53-103. Acceptances.—Banking corporations and banking and trust companies doing a fiduciary business shall have power to accept drafts or bills of exchange drawn upon them, and to endorse drafts or bills of exchange drawn upon another, having not more than six months sight to run, exclusive of days of grace, which grow out of transactions involving the domestic shipment of goods. No such banking corporation or banking and trust company doing a fiduciary business shall accept or indorse, whether in foreign or domestic transactions, for any one person, company, firm, or corporation to an amount equal at any time in the aggregate to more than ten per centum of its paid-up and unimpaired capital stock and surplus, unless the banking corporation or banking and trust company doing a fiduciary business is secured either by attached documents or by some other actual security growing out of the same transaction as the acceptance; and no such banking corporation or banking and trust company doing a fiduciary business alike regardless of the amount of capital stock and surplus, may authorize any banking corporation or banking and trust company doing a fiduciary business to accept or indorse such bills or drafts to an amount not exceeding at any time in the aggregate one hundred per centum of their paid-up and unimpaired capital stock and surplus: Provided, that the aggregate of acceptances growing out of domestic transactions shall in no event exceed fifty per centum of such capital stock and surplus. The commissioner of banks, however, under such general regulations as the state banking commission may prescribe, which shall apply to all banking corporations or banking and trust companies doing a fiduciary business alike regardless of the amount of capital stock and surplus, may authorize any banking corporation or banking and trust company doing a fiduciary business to accept or indorse such bills or drafts to an amount not exceeding at any time in the aggregate one hundred per centum of their paid-up and unimpaired capital stock and surplus: Provided, that the aggregate of acceptances growing out of domestic transactions shall in no event exceed fifty per centum of such capital stock and surplus. (1910, c. 76; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1939, c. 91, s. 2; C. S. 222(a).)

§ 53-104. Commissioner of banks shall have supervision over, etc.—Every bank, corporation, partnership, firm, company, or individual, now or hereafter transacting the business of banking, or doing a banking business in connection with any other business, under the laws of and within this state, shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter, and shall be under the supervision of the commissioner of banks. The commissioner of banks shall exercise control of and supervision over the banks doing business under this chapter, and it shall be his duty to execute and enforce through the state bank examiners and such other agents as are now or may hereafter be created or appointed, all laws which are now or may hereafter be enacted relating to banks as defined in this chapter. For the more complete and thorough enforcement of the provisions of this chapter, the state banking commission is hereby empowered to promulgate such rules, regulations, and instructions as will provide adequate protection for the interests of the depositors, creditors, stockholders, and public in their relations with such banks. All banks doing business under the provisions of this chapter shall conduct their business in a manner consistent with all laws relating to banks and banking, and all rules, regulations, and instructions that may be promulgated or issued by the state banking commission. (1921, c. 4, s. 63; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1939, c. 91, s. 2; C. S. 222(a).)

Editor's Note.—Section 244 of the Consolidated Statutes was the corresponding section of the law prior to this section which changed the law considerably. See J N. C. Law Rev. 81.

§ 53-105. Reports of condition. Every bank shall make to the commissioner of banks not less than three reports during each year, according to the form which may be prescribed by said commissioner of banks; which report shall be verified by the oath or affirmation of the president, vice-president, cashier, secretary, or treasurer of said bank, and in addition thereto, two of the directors. Each such report shall exhibit in detail and under appropriate heads the resources, assets, and liabilities of such bank at the close of business on any past day by the commissioner of banks specified, and shall be transmitted to the commissioner of banks within ten days after the receipt of a request or requisition therefor from the commissioner of banks; and in a form prescribed by the commissioner of banks; a summary of such report shall be published in a newspaper published in the place where the bank is located, or if there is no newspaper in the place, then in the nearest one published thereto in the county in which such bank is established. Proof of such publication shall be furnished the commissioner of banks in such form as may be prescribed by him. (1921, c. 4, s. 64; 1923, c. 148, s. 2; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 222(b).)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to cover all the terms of C. S. section 245, and supersedes it. However, there are a few changes. Formerly the secretary or treasurer could not verify the report on oath; and the full report must have been published "in a newspaper in the county in which the banking corporation or individual was located." The provisions prescribing the details of such report were also inserted.

The Act of 1931 amended the minimum number of reports from four to three. The Act of 1923 amended the number of reports to be made by the commissioner of banks to two reports a year. The Act of 1921 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commission" appearing in this section.

§ 53-106. Special reports. The commissioner of banks may call for special reports whenever in his judgment it is necessary to inform him of the condition of any bank, or to obtain a full and complete knowledge of its affairs. Said reports shall be in and according to the form prescribed by the commissioner of banks, and shall be verified in the manner provided in § 53-105, and shall be published as therein provided, if required by the commissioner of banks so to be. (1921, c. 4, s. 66; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 222(d).)

Editor's Note.—There was no corresponding section in the prior law. However, under C. S. section 247 a special report might be required when necessary to acquire a full knowledge of a bank. There was no requirement as to form or publishing.

§ 53-107. Failure to make report, penalty for.—Every bank failing to make and transmit any report which the commissioner of banks is authorized to require by this chapter, and in and according to the form prescribed by said commissioner of banks, within ten days after the receipt of a request or requisition therefor, or failing to publish the reports as required, shall forthwith be notified by the commissioner of banks, and if such failure continue for five days after the receipt of such notice, such delinquent bank shall be subject to a penalty of two hundred dollars. The penalty herein provided for shall be recovered in a civil action in any court of competent jurisdiction, and it shall be the duty of the attorney-general to prosecute all such actions. (1921, c. 4, s. 67; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 222(c).)

Editor's Note. — This section is a re-enactment of C. S. section 248.

§ 53-108. List of stockholders to be kept. — Every bank doing business under this chapter shall at all times keep a correct record of the names of all its stockholders, and once in each year, or whenever called upon, file in the office of the commissioner of banks a correct list of all its stockholders, the resident address of each, and the number of shares held by each. (1921, c. 4, s. 68; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 222(f).)

Editor's Note. — This section is a substantial re-enactment of the first sentence of C. S. section 247.

§ 53-109. Official communications of commissioner of banks. — Each official communication directed by the commissioner of banks, or any state bank examiner, to any bank, or to any officer thereof, relating to an examination or investigation conducted or made by the commissioner of banks, or containing suggestions or recommendations as to the conduct of the bank shall, if required by the authority submitting said communication, be submitted by the officer or director receiving it, to the executive committee or board of directors of such bank and duly noted in the minutes of such meeting. The receipt and submission of such notice to the executive committee or board of directors shall be certified to the commissioner of banks within such time as he may require, by three members of such committee or board. (1921, c. 4, s. 69; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 222(g).)

Editor's Note. — The provisions of this section were new with the 1921 act.

§ 53-110. Banking commission to prescribe books, records, etc.—Whenever in its judgment it may appear to be advisable, the state banking commission may issue such rules, instructions, and regulations prescribing the manner of keeping books, accounts, and records of banks as will tend to preserve uniformity in the books, accounts, and records of banks of the same class. (1921, c. 4, s. 70; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1939, c. 91, s. 2; C. S. 222(h).)

Editor's Note. — The provisions of this section first appeared in the act of 1921.

§ 53-111. Reserve, when below legal requirement.—When the reserve of any bank falls below the amount required by law, it shall not make new loans or discounts, otherwise than by discounting or purchasing bills of exchange, payable at sight or on demand, nor make dividends of its profits until the reserve required by law is restored. The commissioner of banks shall require any bank whose reserve falls below the amount herein required immediately to make good such reserve. In case the bank fails for thirty days thereafter to make good its reserve the commissioner of banks may forthwith take possession of the property and business of such bank until its affairs be adjusted or finally liquidated as provided for in this chapter. (1921, c. 4, s. 71; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 222(i).)

Purpose of Section. — The wisdom of this provision and section 53-41 is evidenced by the fact that business is conducted in strict compliance seldom become insolvent, and thus bring loss and disaster upon depositors and stockholders and usually, also, upon others who may have no direct interest in the affairs of the bank, but who nevertheless suffer by reason of the loss sustained by those who do have such interest. These sections, although arbitrary as to details are supported in principle by the lessons taught in the school of experience. State v. Cooper, 190 N. C. 528, 532, 130 S. E. 180.

Individual Liability of Officer. — A bank must act through its officers, and where they have violated the provisions of this section and section 53-48, as to lending the bank's money, the offense is committed by the officers under the meaning of the statute, and they are individually indictable for such offenses. State v. Cooper, 190 N. C. 528, 532, 130 S. E. 180.

So where the official position of an officer of a bank is such as necessarily to acquaint him of the violation of the statute respecting the making of loans, and to fix him as a party thereto, it is sufficient evidence to sustain a conviction of the misdemeanor prescribed by section 53-134. State v. Cooper, 190 N. C. 528, 532, 130 S. E. 180.

§ 53-112. Appraisal of assets of doubtful value. — If any assets of a bank are of a doubtful or disputed value, an appraisal of such assets may be had by the commissioner of banks, and for the purpose of making such appraisal the commissioner of banks shall designate one agent as an appraiser and the bank shall designate an agent as an appraiser and the two so chosen shall designate a third. The appraisers so selected shall make an appraisal of the assets so designated as doubtful or disputed and file a written report of their appraisal with the bank and with the commissioner of banks. In making such appraisal the appraisers shall determine the actual cash market value of such assets. Such appraisal, when made, shall be accepted as the value of such assets for the purpose of examination or for the purpose of determining the actual cash market value of such assets. The appraisers designated shall not be interested, in any way, either in the bank or as an employee of the commissioner of banks and all expenses of such appraisal shall be paid by the bank whose assets are appraised. If any bank required to appoint an appraiser hereunder shall fail for ten (10) days to appoint an appraiser, the commissioner of banks may apply to the Clerk of the Superior Court of the county in which the bank is located for the appointment of such an appraiser, and the clerk shall thereupon make the § 53-113. Certified copies of records as evidence.—In all civil actions in the courts of this state wherein are involved as evidence or otherwise any of the records of the commissioner of banks, a certified copy over the signature and under the seal of the commissioner of banks shall be admissible in evidence to the same effect as if produced in court at trial by the proper custodian of the records.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commissioner and corporation commission examiner" formerly appearing in this section.

§ 53-114. Other powers of state banking commission.—In addition to all other powers conferred upon and vested in the state banking commission, the said commission, with the approval of the governor, is hereby authorized, empowered and directed, whenever in its judgment the circumstances warrant it:

(a) To authorize, permit, and/or direct and require all banking corporations under its supervision to extend for such period and upon such terms as it deems necessary and expedient, payment of any demand and/or time deposits.

(b) To direct, require or permit, upon such terms as it may deem advisable, the issuance of clearing house certificates or other evidences of claims against assets of such banking institutions.

(c) To authorize and direct the creation, in such banking institutions, of special trust accounts for the receipt of new deposits, which deposits shall be subject to withdrawal on demand without any restriction or limitation and shall be kept separate in cash or on deposit in such banking institutions as it shall designate or invested in such obligations of the United States and/or the state of North Carolina as it shall designate.

(d) To adopt for such banking institutions such regulations as are necessary in its discretion to enable such banking institutions to comply fully with the federal regulations prescribed for national or state banks.

§ 53-115. State banking commission to make rules and regulations.—The state banking commission is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to make all necessary rules and regulations, and to give all necessary instructions with respect to such banking corporations which the commissioner of banks may authorize, permit and/or direct and require to be conducted under the provisions of §§ 53-77, 53-114, 53-115, and 53-116. And it shall be the duty of the examiners to verify all reports made to the commissioner of banks by the officers and directors, members, or individuals conducting any banking institution, as required by this chapter or by the commissioner of banks. The officers of every bank shall submit and surrender its books, assets, papers, and concerns to the examiners appointed under this chapter, who shall retain the custody and possession of such books, assets, papers, and concerns for such length of time as may be required for the purposes for which such examination is required by this chapter. If any officer shall refuse to surrender the books, assets, papers, and concerns as herein provided, or shall refuse to be examined under oath touching the affairs of such bank, the commissioner of banks may for the purpose of examining into the affairs of the bank, but the section did not go into detail as to the surrender of the books, but it fixed no penalty for a failure of the officers to fail to surrender the books, etc.

By virtue of C. S. sec. 250 it was the duties of the examiners to examine the books, papers and affairs of the bank, but the section did not go into detail as to the surrender of the books, but it fixed no penalty for a failure of the officers to fail to surrender the books, etc.

§ 53-119. Officers and employees, removal of.—The commissioner of banks shall have the right, and is hereby empowered, to require the immediate removal from office of any officer, director, or employee of any bank doing business under this chapter, who shall be found to be dishonest, incompetent, or reckless in the management of the affairs of the bank, or who persistently violates the laws of this state or the lawful orders, instructions, and regulations issued by the state banking commission. § 53-120. Examiners may administer oath.—For the purpose of making examinations as required by this chapter, any duly appointed examiner may administer oaths to examine any officer, director, agent, employee, customer, depositor, shareholder of such bank, or any other person or persons, touching its affairs and business. Any examiner may summon in writing any officer, director, agent, employee, customer, depositor, shareholder, or any person or persons resident of this state to appear before him and testify in relation thereto. (1921, c. 4, s. 75; C. S. 223(d).)

Editor's Note. — This section is a substantial re-enactment of a portion of C. S. sec. 250.

§ 53-121. Examiners may make arrest.—When it shall appear to any examiner, by examination or otherwise, that any officer, agent, employee, director, stockholder, or owner of any bank has been guilty of a violation of the criminal laws of this state relating to banks, it shall be his duty, and he is hereby empowered to hold and detain such person or persons until a warrant can be procured for his arrest; and for such purposes such examiner shall have and possess all the powers of peace officers of such county, and may make arrest without warrant for past offenses. Upon report of his action to the commissioner of banks, said commissioner may direct the release of the person or persons so held, or, if in his judgment such person or persons should be prosecuted, the commissioner of banks shall cause the solicitor of the judicial district in which such detention is had to be promptly notified, and the action against such person or persons shall be continued a reasonable time to enable the solicitor to be present at the trial. § 53-122. Fees for examinations and other services.—For the purpose of paying the salaries and necessary traveling expenses of the commissioner of banks, State bank examiners, assistant State bank examiners, clerks, stenographers and other employees of the commissioner of banks, the following fees shall be paid into the office of the commissioner of banks: (a) Each bank and each branch of any bank which under the laws of the State of North Carolina is subject to supervision and examination by the commissioner of banks and is authorized to do business or is in process of voluntary liquidation shall, within ten days after the assessment has been made, pay into the office of the commissioner of banks according to its total resources as shown by its report of condition made to the commissioner of banks at the close of business of December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and twenty-six, and on the thirty-first day of December, or the date most nearly approximating same of each year thereafter on which a report of condition is made to the commissioner of banks not in excess of the following fees for its annual examination: Fifty dollars for the first one hundred thousand dollars of assets or less, seven dollars for each one hundred thousand dollars or fraction in excess thereof, and two dollars for each one hundred thousand dollars or fraction thereof of trust assets, which said trust assets shall not include real estate carried as such.

(c) For services performed for any bank other than examination, the commissioner of banks may make such charge as in his opinion is fair and just.

(d) In all criminal cases tried in any of the courts of this State wherein any of the employees of the commissioner of banks are used as witnesses, a fee of ten ($10.00) dollars per day and actual expenses incurred shall be allowed such witnesses and the same shall be paid to the commissioner of banks by the clerk of the court of the county in which the case is tried and thereafter charged in bill of costs as are other costs incurred in the trial; and in all civil actions tried in any of the courts of this State, wherein any of the employees of the commissioner of banks are required as witnesses, the party requiring such employee as witness shall deposit with the commissioner of banks the same sum as may thereto be advanced shall thereafter be charged in the bill of costs as other costs are charged. All sums paid under this subsection shall be paid to the commissioner of banks as are fees for examination and used in like manner.

(e) The total compensation and necessary traveling expenses of the employees of the commissioner of banks shall not in any one year exceed the total fees collected under the provisions of this section.

(f) It shall be the duty of the state banking commission annually to review the estimated cost of maintaining the office of the commissioner of banks and if the estimated fees provided for § 53-123. Examiners shall make report. — Examiners shall make a full and detailed report in writing to the commissioner of banks of the condition of each bank within ten days after each and every examination made by them. (1921, c. 4, s. 77; 1927, c. 47, s. 15; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1943, c. 738; C. S. 223(f).)

Editor's Note. — This section is a re-enactment of C. S. sec. 252. However there were several radical changes. The prior section the full amount of the fees fixed for the annual examination must be paid and in addition the expenses incurred and services rendered, other than examination fees. However there were several radical changes.

§ 53-124. Examiner making false report. — If any bank examiner shall knowingly and willfully make any false or fraudulent report of the condition of any bank, which shall have been examined by him, with the intent to aid or abet the officers, agents or employees of such bank in continuing to operate an insolvent bank, or if any such examiner shall keep or accept any bribe or gratuity given for the purpose of inducing him not to file any report of examination of any bank made by him, or shall neglect to make an examination of any bank by reason of having received or accepted any bribe or gratuity, he shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the state prison for not less than four months nor more than ten years. (1921, c. 4, s. 79; C. S. 224(a).)

§ 53-125. Examiners disclosing confidential information. — If any bank examiner or other employee of the commissioner of banks fails to keep secret the facts and information obtained in the course of an examination of a bank, except when the public duty of such examiner or employee requires him to report upon or take official action regarding the affairs of such bank, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars or imprisoned not more than twelve months, or both, in the discretion of the court. Nothing in this section shall prevent the proper exchange of information with the representatives of the banking departments of other states, with the Federal Reserve Bank or national bank examiners, or other authorities, with the creditors of such bank or others with whom a proper exchange of information is wise or necessary, or with the clearing-house officials and examiners. (1921, c. 4, s. 80; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; C. S. 224(b).)

Editor's Note. — This section is a substantial reenactment of C. S. sec. 251. The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "corporation commission" formerly appearing in this section.

§ 53-126. Loans or gratuities forbidden. — No State bank, or any officer, director or employee thereof shall hereafter make any loan or grant any gratuity to the commissioner of banks, any bank examiner or assistant bank examiner of the commissioner of banks of North Carolina. Any such officer, director or employee violating this provision shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and imprisoned not exceeding one year or fined not more than one thousand dollars, or both; and they may be fined a further sum equal to the money so loaned or gratuity given. If the commissioner of banks, or any bank examiner, or assistant bank examiner of the commissioner of banks of North Carolina shall accept a loan or gratuity from any State bank, or from any officer, director or employee thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and imprisoned not exceeding one year, or fined not more than one thousand dollars, or both, and may be fined a further sum equal to the money so loaned or gratuity given. (1927, c. 29, s. 1; 1931, c. 243, s. 5.)

Editor's Note. — The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "chief state bank examiner" and "corporation commission" formerly appearing in this section.

Art. 10. Penalties.

§ 53-127. Use of "bank," "banking," or "trust" in corporate name. — No corporation shall hereafter be chartered under the laws of this state with the words "bank," "banking," or "trust" as a part of its name except corporations reporting to and under the supervision of the commissioner of banks, or corporations under the supervision of the insurance commissioner; nor shall any corporate name be amended so as to include the words "bank," "banking," "banker," or "trust," unless the corporation be under such supervision. No person, association, firm or corporation domiciled within the state of North Carolina except corporations, persons, associations, or firms reporting to and under the supervision of the commissioner of banks or under the supervision of the insurance commissioner, shall then advertise or put forth any sign as bank, banking, banker or trust company, or use the word "bank," "banking," "banker," or "trust," as a part of its name and title, or in any way solicit or receive deposits or transact business as a trust company: Provided, that this chapter shall not be held to prevent any individual as from acting in any trust capacity as heretofore: Provided, further, that it shall be lawful for any corporation incorporated prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and five, to retain the word "trust" in the name of said corporation, though it does not transact a banking business or such other business as requires its examination by the commissioner of banks or the insurance commissioner.

Any violation of the provisions of this section shall be a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof the offender shall be fined in a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars for each offense. (1921, c. 4, s. 81; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1943, c. 543; C. S. S. 224(c).)

Cross Reference.—As to unauthorized use of the word "trust" in corporate name, see §§ 55-12 and 55-46.

Editor’s Note.—The Act of 1931 substituted "commissioner of banks" for "insurance commissioner" formerly appearing in this section.

The 1943 act rewrote the section expanding it to include the provisions of duplicating sections—C. S. §§ 1124 and 1124-b—whereof sections were then repealed.

Alleging Corporation is a Bank. — Where the indictment charges the employee with making false entries upon the books of the bank in which he was employed, and that it was a corporation existing under the laws of the state of North Carolina, it is not defective for failing to particularize that it was a bank, within the contemplation of the statute under which the indictment had been drawn. State v. Hedgcock, 183 N. C. 714, 117 S. E. 47.

§ 53-128. Derogatory reports, willfully and maliciously making.—Any person who shall willfully and maliciously make, circulate, or transmit to another or to the public, any statement, rumor, or suggestion, written, printed, or by word of mouth, which is directly or by inference derogatory to the financial condition, or affects the solvency or financial standing of any bank, or who shall counsel, aid, procure, or induce another to state, transmit, or circulate any such statement or rumor shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1921, c. 4, s. 82; C. S. 224(d).)

§ 53-129. Misapplication, embezzlement of funds, etc.—Whoever being an officer, employee, agent or director of a bank, with intent to defraud or injure the bank, or any person or corporation, or to deceive an officer of the bank or an agent appointed to examine the affairs of such bank, embezzles, abstracts, or misapplies any of the money, funds, credit or property of such bank, whether owned by it or held in trust, or who, with such intent, willfully and fraudulently issues or puts forth a certificate of deposit, draws an order or bill of exchange, makes an acceptance, assigns a note, drafts, draws or otherwise procures, or has procured, any money for a bank not in good faith, intended to become the property of such bank; or whoever being an officer, employee, agent, or director of a bank, makes or permits the making of a false statement or certificate, as to a deposit, trust fund, contract, or makes or permits to be made false entries in a book, report, statement or record of such bank, or conceals or permits to be concealed by any means or manner, the true and correct entries of said bank, or its true and correct transactions, who knowingly loans, or permits to be loaned, the funds or credit of any bank to any insolvent company or corporation, or corporation which has ceased to exist, or which never had any existence, or upon collateral consisting of stocks or bonds of such company or corporation, or who makes or publishes or knowingly permits to be made or published a false report, statement or certificate as to the financial condition of such bank, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than ten thousand dollars or imprisoned in the State's prison not more than thirty years, or both. (1921, c. 4, s. 83; 1927, c. 47, s. 16; C. S. 224(e).)

Editor's Note.—This section was revised in 1927, the position of many phrases and clauses being changed. It would seem, however, that the section was not changed materially in many respects although it was made somewhat more comprehensive.

The intent and purpose of this section is to prevent the defraudation of those owners of a bank or the depletion of its assets or injury to its business by falsification of the bank's books by its officers or employees, and an indictment for the offense is not sufficient which merely charges such falsification. Without the further false entries were material or affected the interests of the bank or deceived its officers. State v. Cole, 203 N. C. 922, 163 S. E. 594.

A specific intent to deceive or to defraud is not necessary for conviction of an officer, employee, or agent of a bank under the provisions of this section, it being sufficient if the defendant willfully made false entries on the books of the bank under the provisions of this section. State v. Lattimore, 201 N. C. 32, 158 S. E. 741.

In a prosecution under this section for willfully making false entries on the books of a bank an instruction which required showing the falsity of the entries to be material to a conviction of a bank officer or employee of making false entries on the books of the bank under the provisions of this section with its cashier, it is not required that he himself was necessary for a conviction, is not in conflict with this section as passed in 1921. State v. Switzer, 187 N. C. 88, 121 S. E. 143.

Embezzle" means to misappropriate as well as to convert to one's own use. State v. Maslin, 195 N. C. 537, 141 S. E. 1, citing State v. Lanier, 89 N. C. 517; State v. Forst, 114 N. C. 845, 19 S. E. 252.

Section 14-254 Not in Conflict.—Section 14-254, making it a criminal offense for the cashier or certain other officers, agents and employees of a bank to be guilty of malfeasance in the respects therein enumerated, making the intent necessary for a conviction, is not in conflict with this section as passed in 1921. State v. Switzer, 187 N. C. 88, 121 S. E. 143.

Conviction of Depositor. — In order to convict a depositor of a bank who has abstracted funds from the bank in connection with its business, it is not required that he himself was an officer of the bank or that he was present when the money was feloniously "abstracted," under the provisions of § 14-254; and he may be convicted thereunder when the bill of indictment charges that the person charged under an instruction to the jury defining it as the taking from or withdrawing from the bank, with the intent to injure or defraud. State v. Switzer, 187 N. C. 88, 121 S. E. 143.

Conviction of Depositor. — In order to convict a depositor of a bank who has abstracted funds from the bank in connection with its business, it is not required that he himself was an officer of the bank or that he was present when the money was feloniously "abstracted," under the provisions of § 14-254; and he may be convicted thereunder when the bill of indictment charges that the person charged under an instruction to the jury defining it as the taking from or withdrawing from the bank, with the intent to injure or defraud. State v. Switzer, 187 N. C. 88, 121 S. E. 143.

Same.—Necessity of Being Present.—Though the depositor was not present at the time the offense was committed, he may be convicted as a principal under the counts of the indictment so charging the offense. State v. Switzer, 187 N. C. 88, 121 S. E. 143.

Allegation That All Defendants Were Officers.—It is not necessary for an indictment, charging a conspiracy to violate the provisions of this section, to allege that all of the defendants were employees or officers of the bank, the indicement being sufficient if it alleges that some of the de-defendants were officers or employees of the bank and that the other defendants conspired with them to do the unlawful Indictment.—In a prosecution under this section and § 14-254 it was not necessary to aver or to prove that the money or funds had been committed by the bank to the custody of the defendant or that there had been any breach of trust or confidence except that which arose out of the relation between the bank and the defendant. Nor was it necessary in the very words that the de-defendant had converted the property to his own use.

The words 'did embezzle' sufficiently indicated the criminal act. They were sufficiently set out under § 15-151, without specifically naming any particular victim of the preconceived purpose. And the indictment was sufficient though there was nothing to indicate the number of abstractions, if more than one. State v. Maslin, 195 N. C. 537, 540, 143 S. E. 3, citing State v. Switzer, 187 N. C. 68, 121 S. E. 43.

Evidence.—In a prosecution under this section and § 14-254 expert parol evidence may be properly admitted to trace book entries, without contradicting them, so as to show that the officer of the bank had embezzled the bank's funds held in trust, as charged in the bill of indictment. In such case there was no invasion of the province of the jury by the expression of an opinion upon a Variance as to Some Items.—In a prosecution of an officer of a bank for publishing a false report of the bank's condition, it was not necessary to aver a variance between the alegations and proof as to some of the items of the report will not be fatal when there is no variance with respect to all the items, it being sufficient for conviction. The report as published was false in any particular as alleged in the indictment and was published with knowledge of such falsehood and with a wrongful or unlawful intent. State

§ 53-130. Making false entries in banking accounts; misrepresenting assets and liabilities of banks.—If any person shall willfully and knowingly subscribe to, or make, or cause to be made, any false statement or false entry in the books of any bank, or shall knowingly subscribe to or exhibit false papers, with intent to deceive any person authorized to examine into the affairs of such bank, or shall willfully and knowingly make, state or publish any false statement of the amount of the assets or liabilities of any bank, he shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the state's prison not less than four months nor more than ten years. (Rev., s. 3326; 1903, c. 275, s. 27; C. S. 4402.)

§ 53-131. False certification of a check.—Whoever, being an officer, employee, agent, or director of a bank, certifies a check drawn on such bank, and willfully fails to forthwith charge the amount thereof against the account of the drawer thereof, or willfully certifies a check drawn on such bank unless the drawer of such check has on deposit with the bank an amount of money subject to the payment of such check an equivalent to the amount therein specified, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine more than five hundred dollars or imprisoned in the state prison for not more than five years, or both.

§ 53-132. Insolvent banks, receiving deposits in.
—Any person, being an officer or employee of a bank, who shall receive, being an officer thereof, persons other than the bank's depositors, their money, checks, drafts, or other property as a deposit therein when he has knowledge that such bank is insolvent, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than five thousand dollars or imprisoned in the state prison not more than five years or, both. Provided, that in any indictment hereunder insolvency shall not be defined as defined under subsection (d) in the definition of insolvency under § 53-1.

S. 231(g.).)

Editor's Note.—The proviso at the end of this section was added by the 1927 amendment. This was the only change affected by the amendment.

The words "insolvent," in this section, means when the bank cannot meet its ordinary liabilities or, if the condition of the bank shall not require that the condition of the bank should at the time be such as to enable it to pay all of its de-defendants in the same manner as in demand. State v. Hightower, 187 N. C. 300, 121 S. E. 616.

A bank is insolvent within the meaning of this section, when the actual cash market value of its assets is not sufficient to pay its liabilities to its depositors or other cred-

Elements of Crime.—In order for a conviction under the provisions of this section, the state must prove beyond a reasonable doubt the actual receipt of the deposits by defendant officer of the bank at the time when the bank was insolvent in his own knowledge, or that such officer permitted an embezzlement of the bank's funds held in trust, as charged in the bill of indictment and was published with knowledge of such falsehood and with a wrongful or unlawful intent. State
v. Hightower, 187 N. C. 300, 121 S. E. 616.

How Knowledge Determined. — The question as to an officer's knowledge is ordinarily to be determined with reference to all the facts and circumstances in which offense is committed. There is no variance with respect to to his own knowledge, or such officer permitted an embezzlement of the bank's funds held in trust, as charged in the bill of indictment and was published with knowledge of such falsehood and with a wrongful or unlawful intent. State
v. Hightower, 187 N. C. 300, 121 S. E. 616.

§ 53-3.—Admissions. — Upon the trial of an officer of an insolvent bank under this section the officer's admissions that he knew of the insolvenoy of the bank at the time in question with his explanation thereof is competent testimony. State

Who May Bring Action for Civil Liability.—A violation of this section by an employee, or by officers and directors of a bank, resulting in damages to a depositor, is a wrong against the depositor; he, and not the bank or its receiver is entitled to maintain an action to recover the damages resulting from such wrong. See Russell v. Boone, 188 N. C. 830, 135 S. E. 926; Houston v. Thornton, 122 N. C. 365, 29 S. E. 827; Townsend v. Williams, 117 N. C. 330, 23 S. E. 461; Solomon
v. Bates, 118 N. C. 311, 24 S. E. 478; Tate v. Bates,
N. C. 115, 132 S. E. 616.

In his opinion in State v. Hightower, 187 N. C. 300, 121 S. E. 616, speaking of this section, Chief Justice Stacy says:
"The statute was designed to protect the depositing public against this kind of practice on the part of officers and employees of banks, and they will be held to a strict accountability under its provisions when they receive, or when any such officer, officer or employee of the bank, with knowledge of the fact that, by reason of the bank's insolvency, such deposits then being received are taken at the expense or certain peril of the depositors presently making them." Bane v. Powell, 192 N. C. 387, 192 N. C. 115, 132 S. E. 616.

The right of a depositor in a bank, who has sustained damages, pecuniary to himself, by the wrongful act of the officers and directors of the bank, to recover damages in an action brought by the bank or the officers and directors of the bank, is not affected by the decision in Douglass v. Dawson, 190 N. C. 458, 130 S. E. 195; the right is expressly recognized in the opinion

Same.—Liability as Bank Asset. — Sums for which bank officers and directors are liable for receiving or permitting receipt of deposit with knowledge of bank's insolvency, contributed to the payment of such check an equivalent to the amount therein specified, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine more than five hundred dollars or imprisoned in the

§ 53-322. Insolvent banks, receiving deposits in.
—Any person, being an officer or employee of a bank, who shall receive, being an officer thereof,
persons other than the bank's depositors, their money,
checks, drafts, or other property as a deposit therein when he has knowledge that such bank is insolvent,
shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than five thousand dollars or imprisoned in the state prison not more than five years or, both. Provided, that in any indictment hereunder insolvency shall not be defined as defined under subsection (d) in the definition of insolvency under § 53-1.

receiver afterwards. Wall v. Howard, 194 N. C. 310, 139 S. E. 449.

Bank Examiner as Expert Witness.—In an action to con- velt an officer of a bank under this section, the testimony of the State Bank Examiner is to be received as that of an expert upon the question of the bank's insolvency. State v. Hightower, 187 N. C. 185, 121 S. E. 656.

Same.—Weight of Evidence.—Where the State Bank Ex- aminer and another expert have been permitted to give their testimony as to the bank's insolvency at the time of the commence- ment of the proceeding, whether stating the basis of their opinions therein, it may not be decided as a matter of law, upon conflicting evidence, that the defendant must have known of the insolvent condition testified to by the ex- perts. State v. Hightower, 187 N. C. 185, 121 S. E. 656.

Certified Accountant as Witness.—Upon the trial of a bank official under the provisions of this section testimony of a certified public accountant who had had experience in such matters and who had examined the books of the bank and had obtained from the directors, collectively and in- dividually, information as to the value of its assets includ- ing lands and collateral, that the bank was insolvent at the time in question is not objectionable. State v. Brewer, 202 N. C. 187, 162 S. E. 363.

§ 53-133. Capital stock, advertising larger amount than that paid in.—It shall be unlawful for any bank to advertise in a newspaper, letter- head, or any other way, a larger capital stock than has been actually paid in in cash. Any bank violat- ing this section shall be subject to a penalty of five hundred dollars for each and every of- fense. The penalty herein provided for shall be recovered by the state in a civil action in any court of competent jurisdiction, and it shall be the duty of the attorney-general to prosecute all such ac- tions. (1921, c. 4, s. 86; C. S. 224(h).)

§ 53-134. Offenses declared misdemeanors; prosecution; employment of counsel; punishment. — Any offense against the banking laws of the state of North Carolina, which is not elsewhere specifically declared to be a crime, and which elsewhere a penalty is not specifically provided, is hereby declared to be a misdemeanor, and shall be punishable at the discretion of the court. The commissioner of banks is authorized and directed to prosecute all offenses against the banking laws of the state, and to that end is expressly author- ized to employ counsel to prosecute all such cases. (1921, c. 4, s. 86; C. S. 224(h).)

Cross Reference.—See annotation under §§ 53-48 and 53-82.

Editor's Note.—The act of 1927 re-enacted this section in full.

Unlawful Act of Making Loans.—Under this section, the unlawful act of making loans in violation of sec. 53-48 is made a misdemeanor, and is punishable as such at the dis- cretion of the court. State v. Cooper, 190 N. C. 528, 130 S. E. 180.

Officers Individually Liable. — Guilt is personal, and the manifest purpose of the General Assembly in declaring the act of the violation of the statute misdemeanors, punishable at the discretion of the court, was to provide further assurance that these wise and prudent statutory provisions should be obeyed by those who alone could violate them, to wit, officers and directors of the bank. Their personal and individual liability for damages sustained by the shareholders or by the bank stockholders, or for any party or persons, as a result of the violation of these and other provisions of the statute by directors or officers, was evidently not deemed sufficient for the purpose in the mind of the General Assembly. State v. Cooper, 190 N. C. 528, 130 S. E. 180.

§ 53-135. General corporation law to apply.— All provisions of the law relating to private corpora- tions, and particularly those enumerated in the chapter entitled "Corporations," not incon- sistent with this chapter or with the business of banking, shall be applicable to banks. (1921, c. 4, s. 87; C. S. 224(j).)

Editor's Note.—The corresponding section of the prior law was C. S. sec. 256. This section is a re-enactment.

Stated in Cole v. Farmers Bank, etc., Co., 221 N. C. 269, 20 S. E. (2d) 54.

Art. 11. Industrial Banks.

§ 53-136. Industrial bank defined. — The term "industrial bank," as used in this article shall be construed to mean any corporation organized, or which may hereafter be organized, under the general corporation laws of this state, which is en- gaged in lending money to be repaid in weekly, or monthly, or other periodical installments, or principal sums as a business: Provided, however, this definition shall not be construed to include building and loan associations, or commercial or savings banks. (1923, c. 225, s. 1; C. S. 225(a).)

Editor's Note.—It was stated in the caption of the act of 1923, which revised the law regulating industrial banks, that the purpose was to provide for the supervision and regula- tion of industrial banks. While this section is a re-enactment of C. S. sec. 255, it is more specific in its terms, the provi- sions respecting loans which are to be paid in weekly in- stallments, etc., and the proviso, being added by the act of 1923.

§ 53-137. Manner of organization. — Corpora- tions may be organized under this article in the same manner as provided for corporations authorized under the chapter on corporations. (1923, c. 225, s. 2; C. S. 225(b).)

Editor's Note.—This section is a literal re-enactment of C. S. sec. 256.

§ 53-138. Corporate title. — Every corporation incorporated or reorganized pursuant to the provi- sions of this article shall be known as an in- dustrial bank, and may use the word "bank" as part of its corporate title. (1923, c. 225, s. 3; C. S. 225(c).)

§ 53-139. Capital stock.—The amount of cap- ital stock with which any industrial bank shall commence business shall not be less than twenty- five thousand dollars ($25,000.00), in cities or towns of fifteen thousand population or less; nor less than fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00), in cities or towns whose population exceeds fifteen thousand but does not exceed twenty-five thousand; nor less than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,- 000.00), in cities or towns whose population ex- ceeds twenty-five thousand; the population to be ascertained by the last preceding national census: Provided, that this section shall not apply to industrial banks organized and doing business prior to March 3, 1923. (1923, c. 225, s. 4; C. S. 225(d).)

Editor's Note.—C. S. sec. 257, which was the corresponding section of the prior law merely provided that the capital should not be under $25,000.

zignated, present at any meeting duly called at which a quorum is in attendance, and approved by the commissioner of banks. (1923, c. 225, s. 7; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1935, c. 81, s. 2; 1939, c. 244, ss. 1, 2; 1943, c. 233; C. S. 225(f).)
Editor's Note.—This section is virtually a re-enactment of C. S. sec. 229. However, subsection 4 has been changed con-considerably; prior to the re-enactment it was provided that branch offices could be established only in the county in which the principal office was located.

not exceed ten per cent of the actually paid-up capital and surplus of such industrial bank, but the discount of bona fide bills of exchange or acceptances drawn against actually existing values, and the discount of commercial or business paper actually owned by the person or persons, corporation, company, or firm negotiating the same, shall not be considered money so borrowed. (1923, c. 225, s. 8; C. S. 225(h.).)

§ 53-144. Supervision and examination.—Every industrial bank now or hereafter transacting the business of an industrial bank as defined by this article, whether as a separate business or in connection with any other business under the laws of and within this state, shall be subject to the provisions of this article, and shall be under the supervision of the commissioner of banks. The commissioner of banks shall exercise control of and supervision over the industrial banks doing business under this article, and it shall be his duty to execute and enforce, through the state bank examiners and such other agents as are now or may hereafter be created or appointed, all laws which are now or may hereafter be enacted relating to industrial banks as defined in this article. For the more complete and thorough enforcement of the provisions of this article, the state banking commission is hereby empowered to promulgate such rules, regulations, and instructions, not inconsistent with the provisions of this article, as may, in its opinion, be necessary to carry out the provisions of the laws relating to industrial banks as in this article defined, and as may be further necessary to insure such safe and conservative management of industrial banks under the supervision of the commissioner of banks as may provide adequate protection for the interest of creditors, stockholders, and the public, in their relations with such institutions. All industrial banks doing business under the provisions of this article shall conduct their business in a manner consistent with all laws relating to industrial banks, and all rules, regulations, and orders that may be promulgated or issued by the state banking commission. (1923, c. 225, s. 11; 1931, c. 245, s. 5; 1939, c. 91, s. 2; C. S. 225(k.).)

Editor’s Note.—The corresponding section of the Consolidated Statutes was sect. 263. It provided for a supervision by the state banking commission of the state banks under § 53-20, as amended, as are necessary and proper. The conservator, under the direction of the commissioner of banks, shall take possession of the books, records and assets of every description of such bank, and take such action as may be necessary to conserve the assets of such bank pending further disposition of its business as provided by law. Such conservator shall have all such rights, powers and privileges, subject to the commissioner of banks, now possessed by or hereafter given to the commissioner of banks under § 53-50, as amended, as are necessary to conserve the assets of said bank. During the time that such conservator remains in possession of such bank, the rights of all parties with respect thereto, shall be the same as those provided in § 53-20, as amended. All expenses of any such conservator shall be paid out of the assets of such bank and shall be a lien thereon which shall be prior to any other lien provided by this article or otherwise. The conservator shall receive as salary an amount no greater than that paid at the present time to employees of departments of the state government for similar services. (1933, c. 155, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This article is substantially a copy as to state banks of Titles II and III of the Federal Act of March 9, 1933, Public No. 1, 72nd Congress. 11 N. C. Law Rev. 196.

§ 53-148. Examination of bank.—The commissioner of banks shall cause to be made such examination of the affairs of such bank as shall be necessary to inform him as to the financial condition of such bank. (1933, c. 155, s. 2.)

§ 53-150. Termination of conservatorship.—If the commissioner of banks shall become satisfied that it may safely be done, he may, in his discretion, terminate the conservatorship and permit such bank to resume the transaction of its business, subject to such terms, conditions, restrictions and limitations as he may prescribe. (1933, c. 155, s. 3.)

§ 53-151. Special funds for paying depositors and creditors ratably; new deposits.—While such bank is in the hands of the conservator appointed by the commissioner of banks, the commissioner of banks may require the conservator to set aside from unpledged assets and make available for withdrawal by depositors and payment to other creditors on a ratabable basis, such amounts as, in the opinion of the commissioner of banks, may safely be used for this purpose; and the commissioner of banks, may, in his discretion, permit the conservator to receive deposits, but deposits received while the bank is in the hands of the conservator (as well as special or trust deposits received by any bank, under the orders of the commissioner of banks, since March 2, 1933), shall not be subject to any limitation as to payment or withdrawal, and such deposits shall be segregated and shall not be used to liquidate any indebtedness of such bank existing at the time that a conservator was appointed for it, or any subsequent indebtedness incurred for the purpose of liquidating any indebtedness of said bank existing at the time such conservator was appointed. Such deposits received while the bank is in the hands of the conservator, as well as the special or trust deposits received since March 2, 1933, shall be kept on hand in cash or on deposit with a federal reserve bank. In being transmitted to the federal reserve bank, said deposits shall be so marked and designated as to indicate to such federal reserve bank that they are special deposits. (1933, c. 155, s. 4.)

§ 53-159. Reorganization on agreement of depositors and stockholders.—By the agreement of (a) depositors and other creditors of any bank representing at least seventy-five per cent in amount of its total deposits and other liabilities, and stockholders owning at least two-thirds of each class of its outstanding capital stock as shown by the books of the bank, or (c) both depositors and other creditors representing at least seventy-five per cent in amount of the total deposits and other liabilities, and stockholders owning at least two-thirds of its outstanding capital stock as shown by the books of the bank, any bank may effect such reorganization with the consent and approval of the commissioner of banks. The commissioner of banks may, in its discretion, determine the per cent thereof as above provided. When such reorganization becomes effective, all books, records and assets of such bank shall be disposed of in accordance with the provisions of the plan, and the affairs of the bank shall be conducted by its board of directors in the manner provided by the plan and under the conditions, restrictions and limitations which may have been prescribed by the commissioner of banks. In any reorganization which shall have become effective and shall have become effective as provided herein, all depositors and other creditors and stockholders of such bank, whether or not they shall have consented to such plan of organization, shall be fully and in all respects subject to and bound by its provisions, and claims of all depositors and other creditors shall be treated as if they had consented to such plan of reorganization: Provided, however, that no reorganization shall affect the lien of secured creditors. (1933, c. 155, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The most important feature of the law is the provisions for the reorganization of prime or preferred stock. By a reorganization agreement having the consent of certain percentages of the creditors or stockholders and also of the Commissioner of Banks, the affairs of the bank may be removed from conservatorship and restored to the board of directors. All non-consenting depositors and their creditors are expressly made bound by the act. The provision in the second paragraph is identical with the federal act (Sec. 202) but its validity may be questioned on a constitutional ground not applicable to the Federal Government, I. e., impairment of contract. 11 N. C. Law Rev. 196.

§ 53-153. Segregation of recent deposits not effective after bank turned back to officers; notice of turning bank back to officers. — After fifteen days after the affairs of a bank shall have been turned back to its board of directors by the conservator, either with or without a reorganization as provided in § 53-152 hereof, the provisions of § 53-151 with respect to the segregation of deposits received while it is in the hands of the conservator, and with respect to the use of such deposits to liquidate the indebtedness of such bank, shall no longer be effective: Provided, that before the conservator shall turn back the affairs of the bank to its board of directors, he shall cause to be published in a newspaper published in the city, town or county in which such bank is located, and if no newspaper is published in such city, town or county, in a newspaper to be selected by the commissioner of banks, a notice in form approved by the commissioner of banks, stating the date on which the affairs of the bank will be returned to its board of directors, and that the said provisions of § 53-151 will not be effective after fifteen days after such date; and on the date of publication of such notice, the conservator shall immediately send to every person who is a depositor in the bank, or to the bank or on deposit with a federal reserve bank. In being transmitted to the federal reserve bank, said deposits shall be so marked and designated as to indicate to such federal reserve bank that they are special deposits. (1933, c. 155, s. 4.)

SUBCHAPTER IV. CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS.

Art. 16. Organization of CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS.
54-111. Nature of the association.
54-112. Use of term restricted.
§ 54-1. Application of term.—The term “building and loan association,” as used in this subchapter, shall apply to and include all corporations, companies, societies, or associations organized for the purpose of making loans to their members only, and of enabling their members to acquire real estate, make improvements thereon and remove incumbrances therefrom by the payment of money in periodical installments or principal sums, and for the accumulation of a fund to be returned to members who do not obtain advances for such purposes. It shall be unlawful for any corporation, company, society, or association doing business in this state not so conducted to use in its corporate name the term “building and loan association” or “building association,” or in any manner or device to hold itself out to the public as a building and loan association. (Rev., s. 3881; 19055. Cet ch. 15169.)

§ 54-2. Method of incorporation; powers. — It shall be lawful for any persons in any city, town, or county of this state, under any name by them to be assumed, to associate for the purpose of organizing and establishing a homestead and building and loan association, and, being so associated, they shall, on complying with this subchapter, be a body politic and corporate, and as such be capable in law to hold and dispose of property, both real and personal; may have and use a common seal; may choose a presiding and other officers; may enact by-laws for the regulation of the affairs of such corporation, and compel the due observance of the same by fines and penalties; may sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, answer and be answered in any court in this state, and do all acts necessary for the well ordering and good government of the affairs of such corporation, and shall exercise all and singular the powers incident to bodies politic and corporate: Provided, that before any such corporation shall be entitled to the privileges of this subchapter it shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county where such corporation is designed to act a copy of the certificate of incorporation of such corporation, signed by at least seven members, to be recorded in the office of such clerk, and shall pay a tax of twenty-five dollars to the clerk, which tax shall be paid over by the clerk to the treasurer of the county, to the use of the school fund of the county. The clerk shall certify a copy of the certificate of incorporation of such corporation, signed by at least seven members, to be recorded in the office of such clerk, and shall pay a tax of twenty-five dollars to the clerk, which tax shall be paid over by the clerk to the treasurer of the county, to the use of the school fund of the county. The clerk shall certify a copy of the charter to the insurance commissioner. The clerk shall not issue or record the same until duly authorized to do so by the Insurance Commissioner as hereinafter provided.

incorporation of the proposed association, the Insurance Commissioner shall at once examine into all the facts connected with the formation of such proposed corporation, including its location and proposed stockholders, and if it appears that such corporation, if formed, will be lawfully entitled to commence the business for which it is organized, the Insurance Commissioner shall so certify to the Clerk of Court in the county in which organized, who shall thereupon issue and record such certificate of incorporation. But the Insurance Commissioner may refuse to so certify, if upon examination and investigation he has reason to believe that the proposed corporation is formed for any purpose other than a mutual building and loan business, or that the character, general fitness, and responsibility of the persons proposed as stockholders in such corporation are not such as to command the confidence of the community in which said building and loan association is proposed to be located; or that the public convenience and advantage will not be promoted by its establishment; or that the name of the proposed corporation is likely to mislead the public as to its character or purpose; or if the proposed name is the same as one already adopted or appropriated by an existing association in the same county, or so similar thereto as to be likely to mislead the public.

(b) Upon receipt of such certificate from the Insurance Commissioner, the Clerk of Court shall, if said certificate of incorporation be in accordance with law, issue and cause same to be recorded in the records of his office as hereinabove provided. (Rev., s. 3877; 1905, c. 435, s. 1; 1931, c. 73; C. S. 5170.)

Conversion of building and loan associations into federal savings and loan associations.—Any corporation organized and existing under the laws of this State and operating as a building and loan association, and upon such filing with the insurance commissioner the corporation shall cease to exist as a corporation, and upon such filing with the insurance commissioner the corporation shall have the powers and privileges of associations formed under this subchapter, or with the business of building and loan associations, shall be applicable to building and loan associations. (Rev., s. 3882; C. S. 5174.)

The purpose of said meeting shall be a statement of the time, place and purpose for which such meeting is called. It shall be regarded as sufficient notice of the purpose of said meeting if the call contain the following statement: "The purpose of said meeting being to consider the matter of the conversion of this corporation into a federal savings and loan association, pursuant to act of Congress approved June thirteenth, nineteen hundred and thirty-three." The secretary or other officer of the corporation shall make proof by affidavit at such meeting of due service of the notice or call for said meeting.

3. At the meeting of the shareholders of such corporation, called and held as above provided, such shareholders may, by affirmative vote of a majority of shareholders present, in person or by proxy, declare by resolution the determination to convert said corporation into a federal savings and loan association. A copy of the minutes of the proceedings of such meeting of the shareholders certified by the president or vice-president and secretary or assistant secretary of the corporation shall be filed in the office of the insurance commissioner of this State within five days after such meeting, and a like copy shall also be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such corporation has its principal office. Each of said certified copies when so filed shall be presumptive evidence of the holding and the action of such meeting.

4. Within a reasonable time after the receipt of a certified copy of the minutes of said meeting the insurance commissioner shall either approve or disapprove the same. If the proceedings be approved by him he shall so endorse the certified copy of the minutes in his office, and shall issue a certificate certifying his approval of the conversion and proceedings, and send same to the corporation. Such certificate shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of superior court of the county in which the corporation has its principal office, and the original shall be held by the corporation. If the commissioner disapproves such proceedings he shall mark the certified copy of minutes in his office disapproved and notify the corporation to that effect.

5. Within sixty days after the approval of the proposed proceedings by the insurance commissioner, the officers of said corporation shall take such action, in the manner prescribed or authorized by the laws of the United States, as shall make it a federal savings and loan association, and there shall thereupon be filed in the office of the insurance commissioner a copy of the charter or authorization issued to such corporation by the federal home loan bank board, or a certificate showing the organization and conversion of such corporation into a federal savings and loan association, and upon such filing with the insurance commissioner the corporation shall cease to be a state corporation and shall be deemed to be converted into a federal savings and loan association.

6. Whenever any such corporation shall so convert itself into a federal savings and loan association it shall thereupon cease to be a corporation under the laws of this State, except that its corporate existence shall be deemed to be extended for the purpose of prosecuting or defending suits by or against it and of enabling it to close its concerns as a state corporation, and to dispose of and convey its property. At the time when such conversion becomes effective all the property of the state corporation, including all its right, title and interest in and to all property of whatever kind, whether real, personal or mixed, and things in action, and every right, privilege, interest and asset of any conceivable value or benefit then existing, belonging or pertaining to it, or which would inure to it, shall immediately by act of law and without any conveyance or transfer, and without any further act or deed, be vested in and become the property of the federal savings and loan association, which shall have, hold and enjoy the same in its right as fully and to the same extent as the same was possessed, held and enjoyed by the state corporation; and the federal savings and loan association may authorize the taking of stock in the association so buying the assets in payment thereof; and upon liquidation of the selling corporation the stock so received shall be distributed to its shareholders. In the event such sale shall be authorized, and approved by the insurance commissioner, the directors and officers of the state corporation shall file with the clerk of the superior court in the county in which the association will commence business as a building and loan association, pursuant to the laws of the state of North Carolina." The secretary or other officer of the association shall make proof by affidavit at such meeting of the due service of the notice or call for said meeting.

3. At the meeting of the members of such association, called and held as above provided, such members may, by affirmative vote of fifty-one per cent or more of members present, in person or by proxy, declare by resolution the determination to convert said association into a building and loan association operating under the laws of the state of this state. A copy of the minutes of the proceedings of such meeting of the members, certified by the president or vice-president and secretary or assistant secretary of the association, shall be filed with the federal home loan board within five days after such meeting. Such certified copy, when so filed, shall be presumptive evidence of the holding and the action of such meeting.

4. Within thirty days after the approval of said proceedings by the board the officers of said association shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county where such association is desirous to act a copy of the certificate of incorporation of such association signed by at least seven members, to be recorded in the office of such clerk. Such certificate of incorporation shall conform to the provisions of the laws of this state. The clerk shall certify a copy of the certificate to the insurance commissioner, and shall not issue or record the same until duly authorized to do so by the insurance commissioner. Upon receipt of a copy of the certificate of incorporation the insurance commissioner shall at once examine into the facts connected with the conversion of such association, and, if it appears that such association if converted will be lawfully entitled to commence business as a building and loan association pursuant to the laws of this state, the insurance commissioner shall so certify to the clerk of the court in the county in which the association will be located, who shall thereupon issue and record such certificate of incorporation. Upon the issuance and recordation of such certificate of incorporation the association shall file with the board a certified copy of same. Thereupon the association shall apply to a federal savings and loan association and be deemed to be converted into a building and loan association under the laws of this state, whose corporate existence shall be deemed then to begin.

5. At the time when the corporate existence of said state association begins all the property of the said federal association, including all its rights, title and interest in and to all property of whatsoever kind, whether real, personal or mixed, and things in action, and every right, privilege, interest and asset of any conceivable value or benefit then existing or belonging or pertaining to it, or which would inure to it, shall immediately by act of law and without any conveyance or transfer, and without any further act or deed, be vested in and become the property of such state association.
tion, which shall have, hold and enjoy the same in its own right as fully and to the same extent as if the same was possessed, held or enjoyed by said federal association; and such state association shall be deemed to be a continuation of the entity and of the identity of said federal association, operating under and pursuant to the laws of this state, and all the rights, obligations and liabilities connected therewith, and shall execute and perform each and every such trust and relation in the same manner as if such state association had itself assumed the trust or relation, including the obligations and liabilities connected therewith. (1937, c. 12.)

§ 54-12.1. Merger of building and loan associations.—Any two or more building and loan associations organized or to be organized, or existing under the laws of any other state or country, as provided in the provisions of this chapter, may merge into a single association which may be either one of said merging associations, and the procedure to effect such merger shall be as follows:

1. The directors, or a majority of them, of such associations as desire to merge, may, at separate meetings, enter into a written agreement of merger signed by them, and under the corporate seals of the respective associations, specifying each association to be merged and the association which is to receive into itself the merging association or associations, and prescribing the terms and conditions of the merger and the mode of carrying it into effect. Such merger agreement may provide the manner and basis of converting or exchanging the shares in the association or associations so merged for shares of the same or a different class of the receiving association.

2. Such merger agreement together with the copies of the minutes of the meetings of the respective boards of directors verified by the secretaries of the respective meetings shall be submitted to the insurance commissioner, who shall cause a careful investigation and examination to be made of the affairs of the associations proposing to merge, including a determination of their respective assets and liabilities. The reasonable cost and expenses of such examination shall be defrayed by each association so investigated and examined. If, as a result of such investigation, he shall conclude that the shareholders of each of the associations proposing to merge will be benefited thereby, he shall, in writing, approve same, or shall, if he deems that the proposed merger will not be in the interest of all members of the associations so merging, disapprove, in writing, the same. If he approve the merger agreement, then same shall be submitted, within thirty days after notice to such associations of such approval, to the shareholders of each of such associations, as provided in the next subsection.

3. A special meeting of the shareholders of each of said associations shall be held separately upon written notice to each shareholder of not less than twenty days, specifying the time, place and purpose for which such meeting is called and such notice shall be served personally or sent by mail, postage prepaid, to each shareholder at the last known address of such shareholder appearing upon the books of the association; of the time, place and object of which meeting due notice shall be given by publication at least once a week for four successive weeks in one or more newspapers published in the county wherein each such association has its principal office or conducts its business (and if there be no newspaper published in such county then in a newspaper published in an adjoining county). The secretary or other officer of the association shall make proof by affidavit at such meeting of the due service of the notice or call for said meeting.

4. At separate meetings of the shareholders of each of such associations, called and held as above provided, such shareholders representing a majority of the outstanding shares of stock entitled to vote, by affirmative vote of at least two thirds of the shareholders present, in person or by proxy, may declare by resolution the determination to merge into a single association upon terms of the merger agreement as shall have been agreed upon by the directors of the respective associations and as approved by the insurance commissioner. Members of the associations who do not attend the meetings or who do not vote thereat, shall, if the merger is so approved by the members, be deemed to consent to the merger. Upon the adoption of such resolution, a copy of the minutes of the proceedings of such meetings of the shareholders of the respective associations, certified by the president or vice president and secretary or assistant secretary of the merging associations, shall be filed in the office of the insurance commissioner of this state, which the respective associations so merged shall be filed in the office of the insurance commissioner of this state, within ten days after such meetings, and within fifteen days of the receipt of the certified copy of the minutes of said meetings the insurance commissioner shall either approve or disapprove the same. If the proceedings be approved by him he shall so endorse the certified copy of the minutes in his office, and shall issue a certificate certifying his approval of the merger and send same to each of said associations. Such certificate shall be filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of superior court of the county or counties in this state in which the respective associations so merged shall have their original certificates of incorporation recorded; provided, that the only fees that shall be collected in connection with the merger of said associations shall be filing and recording fees. When such certificate is so filed, the merger agreement shall take effect according to its terms and shall be binding upon all the members of the associations so merging, and the same shall thereafter be taken and deemed to be the act of merger of such constituent building and loan associations under the laws of this state. A proper record or certified copy thereof shall be evidence of the agreement and act of merger of said building and loan associations and the observance and performance of all acts and conditions necessary to have been observed and performed precedent to such merger. If the commissioner shall disapprove the proceedings he shall mark the certified copies of the meetings in his office disapproved and notify the associations to that effect.

5. Upon the merger of any association, as above provided, into another:

a. Its corporate existence shall be merged into that of the receiving association; and all and singular its rights, powers, privileges and franchises, and all of its property, including all right, title, interest in and to all property of whatsoever kind, whether real, personal or mixed, and things in action, and every right, privilege, interest or asset of any conceivable value or benefit then existing belonging or pertaining to it, or which would inure to it under an unmerged existence, shall immediately by act of law and without any conveyance or transfer, and without any further act or deed, be vested in and become the property of such receiving association which shall have, hold and enjoy the same in its own right as fully and to the same extent as if the same were possessed, held or enjoyed by the association or associations so merged; and such receiving association shall absorb fully and completely the association or associations so merged;

b. Its rights, liabilities, obligations and relations to any person shall remain unchanged, and the association into which it has been merged shall, by the merger, succeed to all the relations, obligations and liabilities, as though it had itself assumed or incurred the same, and no obligation or liability of a member in an association a party to the merger shall be affected by the merger, but the obligations and liabilities shall continue as they existed before the merger, unless otherwise provided in the merger agreement;

c. A pending action or other judicial proceeding to which any association that shall be so merged is a party, shall not be deemed to have abated or to have discontinued by reason of the merger, but may be prosecuted to final judgment, order or decree in the same manner as if the merger had not been made; or the receiving association may be substituted as a party to such action or proceeding, and any judgment, order or decree may be rendered for or against such other association if the merger had not occurred. (1943, c. 450, s. 1.)

Art. 2. Shares and Shareholders.

§ 54-13. Number of shares and entrance fee prescribed.—Any corporation created under and by virtue of this subchapter shall have power to declare in its certificate of incorporation the maximum number of shares of which the corporation shall consist to be in force at any one time, the par value of the same, to prescribe the entrance fee per share to be paid by each shareholder at the time of subscribing, to regulate the amount of the installments to be paid on each share, and the time at which the same shall be paid and payable: Provided, that not more than one per cent of the par value of each share of stock subscribed, may be paid as commissions or other remuneration for the soliciting and sale of stock. (Rev. s. 3888; 1905, c. 455, s. 4; 1931, c. 75; C. S. 5176.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1911 added the proviso to this section by which a building and loan association is prohibited from paying more than 1% for services in obtaining stock subscriptions. No penalty is attached for violation but the license of the association might be revoked under the provisions of § 54-28 if any prohibited payments were discovered through the annual report (see § 54-26) or otherwise. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 351.

§ 54-14. Different classes of shares; dividends; reserve fund.—Every building and loan association doing business in this state shall be authorized to issue as many series or classes and kinds of shares and at such stated periods as may be provided for in its charter or by-laws: Provided, the dividends on paid-up stock shall be less than the association is earning, and such stock may have the right to share in the dividends between the rate paid and the earned per centum. Every association shall at all times have on hand and unpledged, in investments of the United States government or the government of the state of North Carolina, or stock in the federal home loan bank, or bonds issued by the federal home loan bank, or on deposit in such bank or banks as may have been approved by a majority of the entire board of directors, an amount equal to at least five per centum of the aggregate amount of paid-up stock outstanding, as shown by the books of the association. When the aggregate of investment or funds in hand or on deposit as herein provided falls below the amount required under this section, the association shall make no new real estate loans until the required amount has been accumulated: Provided, that the refinancing, recasting or renewal of loans previously made, and/or loans made as a result of foreclosure sales under instruments held by the interested building and loan association, shall not be considered as new loans within the meaning of this section. (Rev. s. 3888; 1905, c. 455, s. 4; 1931, c. 107; 1933, c. 26; 1941, c. 67: C. S. 5178.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 amended this section in two ways: (1) by doing away with all provisions about guaranteed dividends; (2) by requiring a reserve paid-up stock.

Public Laws of 1933, c. 26, substituted the above section in lieu of the former reading. A comparison of the old with the new is necessary to determine the changes. See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 207, for comment on changes made in this section by the 1933 amendment.

The 1941 amendment inserted the words "and unpledged" near the beginning of the second sentence.

Optional payment stock may be issued under this section. Lumpkin v. Durham Bldg., etc., Co., 204 N. C. 563, 169 S. E. 156.

§ 54-15. Certificate issued and payment enforced.—Any such corporation shall have power to issue to each member a certificate of the shares held by him, and to enforce the payment of all installments and other dues due to the corporation from the members or shareholders by such fines and forfeitures as the corporation may from time to time provide in the by-laws or its certificate of incorporation. (Rev. s. 3888; 1905, c. 435, s. 4; C. S. 3178.)

poration after the end of a month from the date of its incorporation may be required to pay, on subscribing, such sums or assessments as may from time to time be fixed and assessed in the manner provided by the corporation, upon the stock of such new member or shareholder on like footing with the original members and others holding shares at the time of such application. (Rev., s. 3886; 1905, c. 435, s. 5; C. S. 5179.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out the former section and inserted the above in lieu thereof. The stockholders' equality feature of the law is now expressly qualified by a provision that a lesser rate of dividend may be declared on paid-up stock than on serially maturing series. What seems to be meant is that until the full matured value of serial stock is earned, i. e., until it has actually matured, it cannot be paid off, but that after it is paid under an agreement or guarantee, but that before maturity it may be cashed in at its value then accrued. This construction has been put upon the act as now amended by a building and loan officer who was consulted on the subject. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 352.

In General.—In case of the insolventy of a building and loan association, every person having stock therein, whether as creditor or debtor, must be considered a corporation, and every member indebted to it must be treated as a debtor. Strauss v. Carolina Interstate Bldg., etc., Ass'n, 117 N. C. 398, 21 S. E. 450; 118 N. C. 556, 24 S. E. 116. Such debtors are liable for authorized assessments to cover losses. New Bern Bldg., etc., Ass'n v. Blalock, 150 N. C. 490, 76 S. E. 523.

Liability of Corporation. — Where a corporation becomes the holder of stock in another corporation, e. g., a Building and Loan Association, which becomes insolvent, it may be held liable on the same, as an incorporator, in the association assuming the stock of the shareholders v. Monroe Land, etc., Co., 126 N. C. 662, 36 S. E. 130.

Stockholder and Debtor. — Where the borrower from a building and loan association takes out stock, at maturity the debt secured by a mortgage on his building, he occupies, upon the bankruptcy of the association in the hands of a receiver in bankruptcy, two independent relations to the association — that of stockholder, and that of debtor to the association, and he is not entitled to have his payments made on his shares of stock credited to his debt, as against the claims of the other creditors. Rendelman v. Stoessel, 195 N. C. 640, 143 S. E. 219.

§ 54-18. Minors as shareholders. — Minors of the age of twelve years and upwards are authorized and empowered to become shareholders in and become, hold, pay direct, manage, or transfer, and otherwise deal in the shares in such a stock association in the same manner and with the same powers, rights, and liabilities, force and effect as though such minors were of full age. The provisions of this section shall apply to federal savings and loan associations having their principal offices in this state. (Rev., s. 3885; 1903, c. 728; 1905, c. 435, s. 1; 1939, c. 179; C. S. 5181.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added the last sentence.

This section is a statutory exception to the general rule that contracts of infants are voidable at the option of the infant, and when so avoided are void ab initio. Coker v. Virginia-Carolina Joint-Stock Land Bank, 208 N. C. 41, 178 S. E. 803.

§ 54-19. Manner of making loans; security required. — At such times as the by-laws shall designate, not less frequently than once a month, the board of directors shall hold meetings at which the funds in the treasury applicable for loans may be loaned: Provided, that between meetings of the board of directors any three members of said board may act as an executive committee and may, by unanimous vote, make such loans. Any loans so made or approved by the executive committee shall be reported to the board of directors at its next meeting. No loans shall be made by such association to any one not a member thereof. Borrowers shall be required to give real estate security, either by way of mortgage or deed of trust, subject only to mortgages or deeds of trust to secure loans made by the association and undue taxes and special assessments: Provided, that the shares of any such association may be received as security for a loan on such shares of an amount not to exceed ninety per centum of the amount paid in as dues on such shares: Provided, further, that bonds issued as general obligations of the United States government and bonds issued as general obligations of the state of North Carolina may be received as security to an amount not exceeding ninety per centum of the face value of such bonds. (Rev., s. 3890; 1905, c. 435, s. 8; 1907, c. 959, s. 4; 1919, c. 249; 1937, c. 11; 1941, c. 65; C. S. 5182.)

Cross References. — As to investment in bonds guaranteed by United States, see § 53-44. As to loans on mortgages, etc., issued under federal housing act, see § 53-45.

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment so changed this section that a comparison here is not practical. The 1941 amendment changed the wording of the proviso to the first sentence.

§ 54-20. Direct reduction of principal. — The board of directors of any building and loan association, heretofore or hereafter organized under the laws of this state, may, unless specifically prohibited by the certificate of incorporation, constitution or by-laws of the association, by resolution or by-law, permit borrowing members to repay their indebtedness by a direct monthly or periodical reduction of principal method. In every such case the borrower shall in writing make such agreement with the association relative to the repayment of his indebtedness as the directors may require. The agreement shall stipulate that the borrower or debtor shall make periodical payments, not less frequently than once a month, until such mortgage indebtedness and advances, if any, made by the association for payment of taxes, assessments, insurance premiums and other purposes, as may be owing from the borrower to the association, with interest thereon, shall have been fully paid. The balance of any loan account under such direct reduction of principal method shall be determined monthly, quarterly or semiannually, in order to ascertain the amount then necessary to satisfy in full the mortgage obligation, and when so ascertained such amount shall be the amount due upon said loan at said time to said association or any representative or successor thereof. Any association permitting such method of repayment may adopt a plan by which the interest shall be computed periodically on the preceding balance, and such interest shall be added to that preceding balance, together with any and all advances and other charges above enumerated made for the benefit of the borrower during the said interest period, and then there shall be deducted from the total any and all payments made by the borrower to the association during said period, or since the preceding balance was set up.
All payments made on a loan under such plan of direct periodical reduction shall be applied first to interest, and then to the principal of advances made for the account of the borrower and charged thereto, and to the principal of the loan. The board of directors may adopt any other direct periodic reduction of principal plan that will require complete repayment of such loans: Provided, no plan of payment shall be adopted that will not mature and pay off the loan within twenty years from the date of the making thereof: Provided further, the board of directors may authorize the renewal or extension of the time of repayment of any loan therefor made. No association shall make any loan upon this plan to any person unless he be a member of such association. (1937,
c. 18.)
§ 54-21. Federal housing administration insured loans.—Notwithstanding any provision in this act any building and loan association, whether operating on the serial sinking fund plan or the direct reduction plan incorporated by and under this act, is authorized and empowered to make loans for the account of such corporation, and charged thereto, and to the principal of the loan.
Any such association may, if authorized by section 54-23, make for the benefit of the borrower during the interest period, and then there shall be deducted from the total any and all payments made by the borrower to the association during said
period, or since the preceding balance was set up.
All payments made on a loan under such plan
of direct periodical reduction shall be applied first
to interest, and then to the principal of advances made for the account of the borrower and charged thereto, and to the principal of the loan. The board of directors may adopt any other direct periodic reduction of principal plan that will require complete repayment of such loans: Provided, no plan of payment shall be adopted that will not mature and pay off the loan within twenty years from the date of the making thereof: Provided further, the board of directors may authorize the renewal or extension of the time of repayment of any loan therefor made. No association shall
unless he be a member of such association. (1937,
c. 18.)
§ 54-22. Repayment at any time. — Any member of such association who shall borrow from it shall have the right at any time prior to the maturity of the shares pledged as collateral for such loan to pay off and discharge his loan by paying the amount received by him, including the cost and expenses of making the loan, if the same has been deducted therefrom, with interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, to the sum received by him to the date of settlement and all fines and dues then remaining unpaid.
Upon such settlement he shall be credited with only the withdrawal value of his shares as fixed by the charter or by-laws, or by the directors of such association. In case of default by a shareholder who has borrowed from the association and a foreclosure of his mortgage or deed of trust, the amount of his indebtedness to such association shall be ascertained in the manner produced by this section. (Rev., s. 3891; 1905, c. 18.)

full exposition of usury will not be found in the notes to section 24-2, and the principles there stated are applicable when usury is charged by a building and loan association.
§ 54-23. Power to borrow money.—Any such association may in its certificate of incorporation constitutions or by-laws authorize the board of directors from time to time to borrow money, and the board of directors may find from time to time, by resolution adopted by a vote of at least two-thirds of all the directors and duly recorded on the minutes, borrow money for purposes as stated in the constitution or by-laws, without securing the consent of the owner thereof. (Rev., s. 3891; 1905, c. 18.)

same rule as to the same doctrine that the borrower asks for an affirmative relief, as to prevent the foreclosure of his mortgage, equity will make payment of a legal rate of interest a prerequisite to the grant of relief. This principle is fully explained in the note the same: Rowland v. Old Dominion Bldg., etc., Ass'n, 118 N. C. 173, Editor's Note. — Public Laws of 1933, c. 18, substituted the words "one-fifth" for "one-fourth" in the first clause of the old with the new is necessary to determine the changes. The chief change of the 1933 amendment is the granting of express authority to an association to pledge its assets as security for money borrowed. For further comment, sion relating to the use of the money borrowed.

Art. 4. Under Control of Insurance Commissioner.
§ 54-24. Power of insurance commissioner. —
The insurance commissioner of the state is hereby empowered and directed to perform all the duties and exercise all the powers as to building and loan associations, unless herein otherwise
§ 54-25. Annual license fees. — All domestic building and loan associations shall pay an annual license fee of twenty-five dollars and may be licensed upon filing with the insurance commissioner an application in such form as he may prescribe. Such license fee shall be used to defray the expenses incurred by the insurance commissioner in supervising building and loan associations. (1919, c. 179, s. 1; C. S. 5186.)

Cross References.—As to annual license tax, see § 105-73. As to exception of building and loan associations from certain intangible taxes, see § 105-212. As to listing property for taxes, see § 105-347. As to an initial tax of twenty-five dollars ($25) before the assumption of corporate powers, see § 54-2.

§ 54-26. Statement filed by association. — Every association doing business under this subchapter shall file in the office of the insurance commissioner, on or before the first day of February in each year, in such form as he shall prescribe, a statement of the business standing and financial condition of the applicant on the preceding thirty-first day of December, signed and sworn to by the principal, or chief managing agent, attorney, or officer thereof, before the insurance commissioner, or before a commissioner of affidavits for North Carolina, or before some notary public. (Rev., s. 3894; 1905, c. 435, s. 11; 1907, c. 959, s. 5; C. S. 5187.)

§ 54-27. Statement examined, approved, and published; fees. — It shall be the duty of the insurance commissioner to receive and thoroughly examine each annual statement required by this subchapter, and if made in compliance with the requirements thereof, to publish an abstract of the same in one of the newspapers of the state, to be selected by the general agent or attorney making such statement, and at the expense of his principal. The insurance commissioner shall be entitled to a fee of five dollars, to be paid by the association filing such statement. (Rev., s. 3895; 1905, c. 435, s. 12; C. S. 5188.)

§ 54-28. License revoked. — If the insurance commissioner shall become satisfied at any time that any statements made by any association licensed under this subchapter are untrue, or in case a general agent shall fail or refuse to obey the provisions of this subchapter, or if upon examination the insurance commissioner is of opinion that such association or company is insolvent, or has exceeded its powers, or has failed to comply with any provisions of law, or its mode of business is not feasible for the purposes of carrying out successfully its plan, or that its condition is such as to render its further proceedings hazardous to the stockholders, he shall thereupon have power to revoke and cancel such license. (Rev., s. 3896; 1905, c. 435, s. 13; 1907, c. 959, s. 6; C. S. 5189.)

§ 54-30. Failing to exhibit books or making false statement a misdemeanor. — If any person having in his possession or control any books, accounts, or papers of any building and loan association licensed by law, shall refuse to exhibit the same to the insurance commissioner, or his agents on demand, or shall knowingly or wilfully make any false statement in regard to the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined and imprisoned, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3329; 1893, c. 434; 1899, c. 164; C. S. 5191.)

§ 54-31. Agent must obtain certificate. — It shall be unlawful for any person to solicit business or act as agent for any building and loan association or company without having procured from the insurance commissioner a certificate that such association or company for which he offers to act is duly licensed by the state to do business for the current year in which such person solicits business or offers to act as agent. The fee for such license shall be $2.50, to be paid to the insurance commissioner at the time the certificate is issued; and no other license or fee shall be required for said business of an agent or solicitor so licensed. (Rev., s. 3898; 1895, c. 444, s. 3; 1899, c. 154, ss. 20; 1907, c. 950, s. 7; 1933, c. 17; C. S. 5192.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1931, c. 17, added the last sentence to this section, relating to fees.

§ 54-32. Penalties imposed and recovered. — Every general agent or attorney of any building and loan company or association who shall fail or refuse to perform any duty required of him by this subchapter shall forfeit and pay to the insurance commissioner fifty dollars for the state for every such refusal, to be recovered before any justice of the peace at the suit of the insurance commissioner. (Rev., s. 3899; 1899, c. 434, s. 2300g; 1899, c. 154, s. 2, subsec. 20; 1907, c. 950, s. 7; 1933, c. 17; C. S. 5193.)

§ 54-33. Notice required before appointment of receivers. — No judge or court shall appoint a receiver for any building and loan association organized and incorporated under the laws of this state unless five days' advance notice of the motion, petition or application for appointment of a receiver shall have been given to such association and to the insurance commissioner of the state. (1933, c. 58.)

Editor's Note.—See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 208.

Art. 5. Foreign Associations.

§ 54-34. Allowed to do business. — A building and loan association of another state may be admitted to transact business in this state in the manner hereinafter provided, and no association not so admitted shall transact business in this state. (Rev., s. 3900; 1905, c. 435, s. 17; C. S. 5194.)

§ 54-35. Copy of charter and list of officers filed. — Application for authority to transact business in this state shall be made to the insurance commissioner, and on making such application every such association shall file with the insurance commissioner a duly authenticated copy of its charter or certificate of incorporation, its constitution and by-laws, and thereafter certified copies of all amendments thereto, the names and addresses of its officers and directors, the compensation paid each officer, and a report of its condition, in such form as may be prescribed by the insurance commissioner, which shall be verified by oath of such officers and other persons as the commissioner shall designate, and the commissioner shall furnish blank forms for the report required, and may call for additional reports at such other times as may seem to him expedient. (Rev., s. 3902; 1905, c. 435, s. 19; C. S. 5195.)

§ 54-36. License granted. — If it shall appear to the insurance commissioner by the report aforesaid and by an examination of the affairs of such association that it has good assets of sufficient value to cover all liabilities, and that its methods of doing business are safe and not contrary to the missioner, and on making such application every such association that it has good assets of sufficient value to cover all liabilities, and that its methods of doing business are safe and not contrary to the missioner a duly authenticated copy of its charter or certificate of incorporation, its constitution and by-laws, and thereafter certified copies of all amendments thereto, the names and addresses of its officers and directors, the compensation paid each officer, and a report of its condition, in such form as may be prescribed by the insurance commissioner, which shall be verified by oath of such officers and other persons as the commissioner shall designate, and the commissioner shall furnish blank forms for the report required, and may call for additional reports at such other times as may seem to him expedient. (Rev., s. 3902; 1905, c. 435, s. 19; C. S. 5195.)

§ 54-38. Annual certificate; service of process. — Such certificate of authority shall be for the current year only, and shall not be issued until such association shall, by a duly executed instrument filed with the insurance commissioner of the state, constitute the insurance commissioner and his successors in office its true and lawful attorney, upon whom all original process in any action or legal proceedings against it may be served, and therein shall agree that any original process against it which may be served upon the commissioner shall be of the same force and validity as if served on the association, and that the authority thereof shall continue in force irrevocable so long as any liability of the association remains outstanding in this state. The service of such process shall be made by leaving a copy of the same in the office of the insurance commissioner, with a fee of two dollars, to be taxed in the plaintiff's costs. When any original process is thus served, the commissioner, by letter directed to the secretary, shall within two days after such service forward to the secretary a copy of the process served upon him, and such service shall be deemed sufficient service upon the association. The commissioner shall keep a record of all such process, showing the day and hour of service. (Rev., s. 3906; 1905, c. 435, s. 23; C. S. 5198.)

§ 54-39. Agent must have certificate of license; fees. — It shall be unlawful for any person to solicit business or act as agent for any foreign building and loan association or company doing business in this state without having first procured from the insurance commissioner a certificate that such association or company for which he offers to act is duly licensed by the state to do business for the current year in which such person solicits business or offers to act as agent. The insurance commissioner shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for issuing each such certificate, to be paid by the company for which the same was issued. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., ss. 3327, 3901; 1895, c. 444, s. 3; 1905, c. 435, s. 18; C. S. 5199.)

§ 54-40. Fees and expenses. — Every such association shall pay for filing a certified copy of its charter or certificate of incorporation twenty dollars; for filing original annual reports, twenty dollars; for certificate of authority, annually, two hundred and fifty dollars; for certificate for each agency, five dollars; and shall defray all expenses incurred in making any examination of its affairs as herein provided for; and the insurance commissioner may maintain an action in the name of the state against such association for the recovery of such expenses in any court of competent jurisdiction. (Rev., s. 3905; 1905, c. 435, s. 22; C. S. 5200.)

Cross References. — As to license tax, see § 105-73. As to exception of building and loan associations from certain taxes, see § 105-212. As to listing property for taxes, see § 105-347.

§ 54-41. All contracts deemed made in this state. — Any contract made by any foreign association with any citizen of this state shall be deemed and considered a North Carolina contract, and shall be so construed by all the courts of this state according to the laws thereof. (1905, c. 435, s. 26; C. S. 5203.)

Art. 6. Withdrawals.

§ 54-42. Month's notice required for withdrawals.—Any shareholder in a building and loan association may withdraw all or any part of his or her holdings of unpledged or unhypothecated stock in such association by giving to the secretary of such association one month's written notice of his or her intention so to do, and the right of such shareholder to make such withdrawal shall accrue one month after the giving of such notice, subject to the conditions set out in § 54-43. (1933, c. 122, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 207, for review of this and § 54-43.

§ 54-43. Withdrawal or maturity fund.—Whenever any shareholder whose stock has matured or whose right to withdraw his stock has accrued, as set out in § 54-42, has not been paid because of insufficiency of funds in the treasury of the association, the secretary of said association shall under instruction from the directors, create a separate fund to be known as the "withdrawal or maturity fund" and into such fund shall be paid one-half of the net receipts of the association monthly. Net receipts shall mean the receipts of the association from interest, installments, rent and other revenue producing sources, diminished by the expenses of the association, and by any sums directed by the board of directors to be set apart and held separately for the purpose of meeting bills payable or notes payable at the maturity thereof. From time to time as the board of directors may direct, the secretary shall make a report on the receipts of the association from interest, installments, rent and other revenue producing sources, diminished by the expenses of the association, and by any sums directed by the board of directors to be set apart and held separately for the purpose of meeting bills payable or notes payable at the maturity thereof. From time to time as the board of directors may direct, the secretary shall make an equitable and ratable distribution of the funds in said "withdrawal or maturity fund" to the stockholders whose right to receive payment from said fund has accrued, as hereinbefore provided, at the date of such distribution. One-half of the net receipts of the association shall be added monthly to such fund so long as there remains any shareholder of the association entitled to receive a portion thereof as aforesaid. No shareholder whose stock has matured or whose right to withdraw his stock has accrued as hereinbefore set out, shall have the right to demand or receive any funds in excess of the amount equitably and ratably distributed as hereinbefore set out except on approval of board of directors of such association and/or the insurance commissioner. (1933, c. 122, s. 2.)

Art. 7. Statements of Financial Condition of Associations.

§ 54-44. Derogatory statements.—Any person who shall willfully and maliciously make, circulate, or transmit to another or others any statement, rumor, or suggestion, written, printed, or by word of mouth, which is directly or by inference derogatory to the financial condition, or affects the solvency or financial standing of any building and loan association, or who shall counsel, aid, procure, or induce another to state, transmit, or circulate any such statement or rumor shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1915, c. 273; 1921, c. 4, s. 82; 1931, c. 12; C. S. 4231.)

SUBCHAPTER II. LAND AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS.

§ 54-45. Application of term.—The term "Land and Loan Associations" shall apply to and include all corporations, companies, societies or associations organized for the purpose of making loans to their members only, and of enabling their members to acquire real estate, make improvements thereon, and remove incumbrances therefrom by the payment of money in periodical installments or principal sums, and for the accumulation of a fund to be returned to members who do not obtain advances for such purposes, where the principles of building and loan associations and their work are adapted to the use of the farmers and the rural population.

It shall be unlawful for any corporation, company, society, or association doing business in this state not so conducted to use in its corporate name the term "land and loan association," or in any manner or device to hold itself out to the public as a land and loan association. (1915, c. 172, s. 1; C. S. 5204.)

§ 54-46. Incorporation and powers.—Land and loan associations shall be incorporated, supervised, and be subject to such regulations and have such privileges as are prescribed for building and loan associations under the laws of this state as they now are or may be hereafter enacted, except as prescribed in this article. (1915, c. 172, s. 2; C. S. 5205.)

§ 54-47. Loans.—The boards of directors of land and loan associations may contract for loans to the amount of seventy-five per cent of the securities used by them as collateral, where the loans are on long time (three or more years), and for at least one per cent less than is charged by such associations on their loans to shareholders; and they may make short loans to their shareholders on their shares and personal indorsement or personal property. (1915, c. 172, s. 3; C. S. 5206.)

§ 54-48. Reserve associations.—Associations to be known as "Reserve Land and Loan Associations" may be chartered and licensed as provided in this article, when they are organized and the stock therein is held by local land and loan associations, and shall have such powers, rights, and privileges as are accorded to other domestic associations, and they may conform to such laws, rules, and regulations as may be prescribed by the laws of the United States, or of this state, to enable them to receive moneys, bonds, or securities to be used in loans and to secure the same. Such reserve associations shall be under the supervision of the insurance commissioner as are building and loan associations. (1915, c. 172, s. 4; C. S. 5907.)

§ 54-49. Land conservation and development bureaus; land mortgage associations. — Recognizing that agriculture is the most fundamental wealth-producing occupation of the State and that land is the basis of agriculture, the General Assembly of North Carolina does hereby authorize and direct the State Department of Agriculture to establish as a major division of its organization a land conservation and land development bureau. The function of this bureau shall be to promote conservation, rural home ownership, and the development of the land resources of the State through land mortgage associations under the following provisions. (1925, c. 223, s. 1.)

§ 54-50. Number of incorporators; capital stock. —Any number of persons, resident freeholders of the State, not less than fifteen, may associate to establish an association on the terms and conditions and subject to the liabilities hereinafter prescribed. The aggregate amount of the capital stock of any such association shall not be less than twenty thousand dollars ($20,000). Such association shall mean a corporation organized under the laws of the State for the purpose of making loans upon agricultural lands, forest lands and dwelling houses within this State and known as a land mortgage association. (1925, c. 223, s. 2.)

§ 54-51. Incorporation.—The articles of incorporation shall be in writing signed and acknowledged by the incorporators and shall contain the following:

(1) The declaration that they are associating for the purpose of forming a land mortgage association under the provisions of this article.

(2) The name of such association, which shall be in no material respect similar to any other association in the same county.

(3) The name of the village, town or city, and the county where such association is to be located.

(4) The amount of capital stock, which shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each.

(5) The period for which such association is organized. (1925, c. 223, s. 3.)

§ 54-53. Corporate powers. — Said land mortgage association shall have power: (a) To make loans, the conditions of which shall be approved by the Corporation Commission if the security taken therefor is to be used as the basis for a bond issue under subsection (c) hereof, and to accept as security for any such loan a first mortgage upon agricultural lands within this State. Such loan shall not exceed, however, sixty-five per cent of the value of such real estate so conveyed, according to the appraisal made as herein provided.

(b) To purchase first mortgages, herefore or hereafter issued against North Carolina agricultural lands, either improved or partially improved, from persons or firms resident of this State or corporations organized under the laws of this State engaged in the colonization or settlement of North Carolina lands and to whom such mortgages were issued, if, after investigation, the plan of settlement or colonization followed by such person, firm or corporation is approved by the Commissioner of Agriculture as beneficial to the settler or colonist, and if the lands against which such mortgages are issued are found by the said commissioner to be in fact agricultural lands suitable for agricultural purposes and the terms and conditions of the loans made by such person, firm or corporation are just and reasonable, or from banks or trust companies organized under the laws of this State, or of the United States, to do business in this State, to which such mortgages were issued direct by the borrowers. Each such mortgage shall be payable on the amortization plan maturing in not less than twenty years. The request for an investigation leading to such a purchase of mortgages from persons, firms or corporations engaged in the settlement or colonization of North Carolina lands shall be accompanied by a deposit, the amount of such deposit to be determined by the Commissioner of Agriculture. Upon completion of the investigation the Commissioner of Agriculture shall render a statement of expense accompanied by a remittance of any unused balance of such deposit, but no mortgage shall be purchased until the lands against which the same is issued have been appraised as hereinafter provided for the appraisal of land for a loan by the land mortgage association and such mortgage is approved by all members of the loan committee.

(c) To issue bonds secured by the pledge of the mortgage so taken or purchased.

(d) To pledge the notes and mortgages so taken or purchased under the provisions of subdivisions (a) and (b) hereof as security for the bonds of the land mortgage association referred to in subdivision (c) hereof. (1925, c. 223, s. 5.)

Cross References.—As to investment in bonds guaranteed by United States, see § 53-44. As to loan on mortgages, etc., issued under federal housing act, see § 53-45.

§ 54-54. Restrictions. — All mortgage obligations acquired by the company shall be subject to the following restrictions:

(a) Each such mortgage shall be a first and valid lien upon improved or partially improved agricultural lands within the State of North Carolina;

(b) Each such mortgage shall be a first and valid lien upon the whole and undivided fee and upon no lesser estate;

(c) Such mortgage shall be given to secure a principal indebtedness not exceeding in amount fifteen per cent of the capital and surplus of the company;

(d) All such mortgages shall contain provisions for soil conservation;

(e) All such mortgages shall contain provisions for the time of commencing payments for annual or semianual reduction of the indebtedness secured thereby, subject to the requirements as to repayment of loans and interest hereinafter provided;

(f) The company shall make no loan secured by mortgage of any real estate in which any officer or trustee of the company is interested either directly or indirectly, except upon the approval of two-thirds of all the trustees;

(g) A sufficient amount of the proceeds of any loan made upon lands upon which are building in course of construction or upon which land clear- ing or other improvements are being made shall be retained by the association and paid out only upon construction or improvement vouchers, countersigned by a duly authorized agent of the association. (1925, c. 223, s. 6.)

§ 54-55. Mortgage forms; approval. — The mortgages to be given to the association, the bonds to be issued and the trust deed executed to secure the bonds shall be in such form and shall contain such conditions as will adequately protect all parties thereto. The trustees shall provide the forms subject to the joint approval of the Corporation Commission and the Attorney-General. (1923, c. 223, s. 7.)

§ 54-56. Repayment of loan and interest. — The prospective borrower may be required to pay all expenses incidental to the examination of title and appraisal of the property. The total amount shall include (a) the rate of interest agreed upon; and (b) a payment. (1925, c. 223, § 54-57. Terms of payment. — A borrower may repay his loan by installments of such frequency and amounts as may be agreed upon: Provided, that not less than one per cent of the original amount of the mortgage shall be paid upon the principal thereof annually, and commencing not later than the sixth year succeeding the year in which the loan was made the borrower may pay a larger installment upon the principal, or the whole of it, at any interest date, such payments to be in amounts equal to additions of one or more principal amortization payments. Such payment may be made in cash, or by tendering at par bonds of the associations. For failure to pay the interest or any installment required by the terms of the loan, the borrower may be fined as the by-laws may prescribe. But the borrower shall never be required to pay more than the specified installment, nor to pay the principal before it is due except as prescribed herein for partial repayment on account of depreciation and for foreclosure by the association. The borrower may on sixty days’ notice repay the association his total indebtedness, or, without such notice, upon payment of sixty days’ interest upon the principal unpaid. The borrower shall be entitled to a receipt for all installments as paid, and where the repayment is complete to a satisfaction of his note and mortgage. (1925, c. 223, s. 9.)

Cross Reference. — As to satisfaction of mortgages, see § 45-37 et seq.

§ 54-58. Transfer of mortgaged lands. — The acquirer of any lands mortgaged to a land mortgage association shall enter at once, on the acquisition of the land, into a written agreement with the association, attested by a notary, or a justice, and assume the personal responsibility for the indebtedness to the association attaching to such lands. This document must be presented to the trustees within fourteen days after demand. (1925, c. 223, s. 10.)

§ 54-59. Calling in loans before due. — Every land mortgage association shall have the power to call in loans upon sixty days notice:

(a) When the person acquiring the lands upon which money has been loaned does not comply with the provisions of § 54-58 and fulfill the obligations incumbent upon him;

(b) When the debtor does not meet the obligation imposed upon him by his contract and the by-laws of the land mortgage association;

(c) When the mortgaged premises become subject to forced sale;

(d) When the mortgaged premises are depreciating in value because of lack of care, of failure to maintain and conserve or from other cause.

The trustees of the association, whenever necessary, shall provide for an inspection of mortgaged premises by the State Department of Agriculture for an investigation of the care which is being given said premises, and may employ an expert to inspect the soil with a view of determining whether or not the same is being depleted. (1925, c. 223, s. 11.)

tion may require a suitable partial repayment of the debt if the mortgaged premises may have at any time become depreciated in value from any cause whatsoever. (1925, c. 223, s. 12.)

§ 54-61. Foreclosure. — Whenever any loan is called in and the borrower shall fail to pay the principal and interest due to the association as required by law and the notices given him, the land mortgage association may then foreclose upon the mortgaged premises as for a past due loan. But in no case shall a borrower be liable for a sum greater than the amount of the unpaid portion of the loan with any accretions of interest thereon and expenses incidental to the collection thereof. (1925, c. 223, s. 13.)

§ 54-62. Appraisal of lands. — Upon application for a loan the land mortgage association shall cause the lands which it is proposed to mortgage to the association to be appraised by a competent appraiser furnished it by the State Department of Agriculture. (1925, c. 223, s. 14.)

§ 54-63. Preference prohibited; association borrowing money. — No land mortgage association, and no officer or agent thereof, shall give any preference to any creditor by pledging any of the assets of such association as collateral security, except that any such association may borrow money for temporary purposes, and may pledge assets of the association as collateral security therefor. Whenever it shall appear that any land mortgage association has borrowed habitually for the purpose of relaning, the Corporation Commission may require such association to pay off such amount so borrowed. (1925, c. 223, s. 15.)

§ 54-64. Bond issues.

(a) The bonds to be issued by any land mortgage association may be issued for such amounts, bearing such serial number, and date or dates, and be payable at such time and times, bear such rate of interest, and be redeemable at maturity or upon notice at such times and in such maner, as the land mortgage association may, subject to the approval of the banking commission, deem advisable.

(b) Each land mortgage association shall keep a register for the registration and transfer of bonds issued by it in which it shall register, or cause to be registered, all bonds upon presentation thereof for such purpose; and such register shall contain the post office address of all registered holders of bonds and shall, at all reasonable times, be open to the inspection of the banking commission, or any of its deputies, and to the State Treasurer. (1925, c. 223, s. 16.)

§ 54-65. Deed of trust.
(a) To secure the payment of such bonds, the land mortgage association shall issue a co-lateral deed of trust to the State Treasurer, pledging as security for such bonds the notes and mortgages taken or purchased, as provided herein, in an amount equal to or exceeding the aggregate amount of bonds issued or to be issued.
(b) The total amount of bonds actually outstanding shall not at anytime exceed the total amount unpaid upon the notes secured by the mortgages belonging to the association and pledged for the payment of the bonds, plus such securities and moneys as may be on deposit with the State Treasurer under the provisions hereof.
(c) The aggregate amount of the principal of all bonds issued by land mortgage associations and outstanding at any one time shall not exceed twenty times the amount of the capital and surplus of the company. (1925, c. 223, s. 17.)

§ 54-66. Collaterals deposited with State Treasurer.—All mortgages pledged to secure the payment of the bonds issued hereunder shall be deposited and left with the State Treasurer. The land mortgage association may, with the approval of the State Treasurer, remove such mortgages from the custody of the State Treasurer, substittuting in place thereof other of its mortgages, or money or State of North Carolina bonds or certificates of deposit, endorsed in blank, issued by state or national banks located in North Carolina, farm mortgage bonds issued under the provisions of the Federal Farm Loan Act approved July seventeenth, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen, or obligations of the United States Government, in an amount equal to or greater than the amount unpaid upon the notes secured by the mortgages withdrawn. (1925, c. 223, s. 18.)

§ 54-67. Redemption of bonds.
(a) Notice of redemption of bonds may on no account be given on the part of the holder thereof, but may be given by the association only for the purpose of affecting redemption in accordance with the conditions of the bonds and as provided by law and the by-laws.
(b) If the land mortgage association shall elect to redeem any bond prior to maturity, six months notice of redemption shall be given and shall be effected by personal service upon the owner and holder of the bond, by notice mailed to his address as registered or by advertising the same three times in a newspaper selected by the State Treasurer.
(c) The numbers of the bonds of which notice of redemption is to be given shall be determined by lot, to be drawn by the president or the vice-

§ 54-68. Validity of bonds after maturity.—In case the holder of any bond outstanding shall not have presented the same for payment within the period of two years after its maturity or within two years after the date fixed for the redemption, as the case may be, then such bonds shall cease to be a lien upon the mortgages, moneys, and securities pledged to the State Treasurer and deposited with him as security therefor, but such bond shall still constitute, until the statute of limitations running against such bonds shall have expired, a single legal money claim or de-

§ 54-69. Bonds as payment.—If the association gives notice to a debtor for repayment of the mortgage loan the latter must pay to the association in cash or in its bonds at par the face of the same so far as it has not yet been covered by its assets in the amortization and payments. (1925, c. 223, s. 21.)

§ 54-70. Bonds as investments.—The bonds of a land mortgage association shall be a legal investment for savings associations, trust companies, or other financial institutions chartered under the laws of this State and shall also be a legal investment for trustees, executors, administrators, or custodians of public or private funds, or corporations, partnerships or associations. (1925, c. 223, s. 22.)

§ 54-71. Applications of earnings; reserve fund.
—the gross earnings of the association shall be ascertained annually, and there shall first be deducted therefrom the expenses incurred by the association for the preceding year and the balance thereof shall be set aside as a reserve fund for the payment of contingent losses, to an amount equal to two per cent of the capital stock outstanding, and until such reserve fund equals twenty per cent of the capital stock of such association. (1925, c. 223, s. 23.)

§ 54-72. Restriction on holding real estate.—
No land mortgage association shall acquire real estate (other than for the occupation of its office except to protect its interests in case any of the mortgages owned by it are foreclosed and the property therein described sold to pay the indebtedness secured thereby. All real estate so acquired shall be promptly sold. (1925, c. 223, s. 24.)

§ 54-73. Banking laws applicable.—The statutes relating to banks and banking in this State, that is, §§ 53-1 to 53-158, in so far as applicable and not in conflict with the provisions hereof shall apply to land mortgage associations. (1925, c. 223, s. 25.)

SUBCHAPTER III. CREDIT UNIONS.

Art. 9. Superintendent of Credit Unions.

§ 54-74. Office created.—There shall be established in the State Department of Agriculture a superintendent of credit unions and such assistants as may be necessary. (1915, c. 115, s. 1; 1925, c. 73, s. 41; 1935, c. 87; C. S. §308.)

Editor's Note.—The Public Laws of 1925, Ch. 73 struck out all of the old section and inserted this one in its stead.

This subchapter was formerly entitled Savings and Loan Associations and the article headings conformed thereto. Public Laws 1925, chapter 54, provides: "In order to make the name of this organization conform with the names of similar organizations authorized by federal statute, the words 'savings and loan associations,' wherever appearing in Consolidated Statutes, sections five thousand two hundred and eighty-five thousand two hundred and forty-one, inclusive, (Michie's Code of one thousand nine hundred thirty's) shall be changed to read 'credit unions.'"

§ 54-75. Duties of the officer.—The duties of the superintendent of credit unions shall be as follows:
1. To organize and conduct, in the state department of agriculture, a bureau of information in regard to cooperative associations and rural and industrial credits.
2. Upon the application of three persons residing in the state of North Carolina, to furnish, without cost, such printed information and blank forms as, in his discretion, may be necessary for the formation and establishment of any local credit union in the state.
3. To maintain an educational campaign in the state looking to the promotion and organization of credit unions; and upon the written request of twelve bona fide residents of any particular locality in this state expressing a desire to form a local credit union at such locality, the superintendent or one of his assistants shall proceed as promptly as convenient to such locality and advise and assist such organizers to establish the institution in question.
4. To examine at least once a year, and oftener if such examination be deemed necessary by the superintendent or his assistant, the credit unions formed under this subchapter. A report of such examination shall be filed with the state department of agriculture, and a copy mailed to the principal office of the credit union or cooperative association, "to be accumulated." The superintendent or his assistant shall proceed as promptly as convenient to such locality and advise and assist such organizers to establish the institution in question.
5. The number of members of the credit committee, their powers and duties.
6. The number of members of the credit committee, their powers and duties.
7. The number of members of the supervisory committee, their powers and duties.
8. The par value of shares of capital stock.
9. The conditions upon which shares may be issued, paid in, transferred, and withdrawn.
10. The fines, if any, which shall be charged for failure to meet obligations to the corporation punctually.
11. The conditions upon which deposits may be received and withdrawn. Whether the proposed corporation shall, in addition, have power to borrow funds.
12. The manner in which the funds of the corporation shall be invested.
13. The conditions upon which loans may be made and repaid.
14. The maximum rate of interest that may be charged upon loans, not to exceed, however, the legal rate.
15. The method of receiving for money paid on account of shares, deposits, or loans.
16. The manner in which the reserve fund shall be accumulated.
17. The manner in which dividends shall be determined and paid to members.
18. The manner in which a voluntary dissolution of the corporation shall be effected. (1915, c. 115, s. 2; 1925 c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5210.)

§ 54-77. By-laws adopted.—At the time of filing the certificate the incorporators shall adopt by-laws which shall provide:
1. The name of corporation.
2. The purposes for which it is formed.
3. Qualifications for membership.
4. The date of the annual meeting; the manner in which in members shall be notified of meetings; the manner of conducting the meetings; the number of members which constitute a quorum at the meetings, and the regulations as to voting.
5. The number of members of the board of directors, their powers and duties, and the compensation and duties of officers elected by the board of directors.
6. The number of members of the credit committee, their powers and duties.
7. The number of members of the supervisory committee, their powers and duties.
8. The par value of shares of capital stock.
9. The conditions upon which shares may be issued, paid in, transferred, and withdrawn.
10. The fines, if any, which shall be charged for failure to meet obligations to the corporation punctually.
11. The conditions upon which deposits may be received and withdrawn. Whether the proposed corporation shall, in addition, have power to borrow funds.
12. The manner in which the funds of the corporation shall be invested.
13. The conditions upon which loans may be made and repaid.
14. The maximum rate of interest that may be charged upon loans, not to exceed, however, the legal rate.
15. The method of receiving for money paid on account of shares, deposits, or loans.
16. The manner in which the reserve fund shall be accumulated.
17. The manner in which dividends shall be determined and paid to members.
18. The manner in which a voluntary dissolution of the corporation shall be effected. (1915, c. 115, s. 2; C. S. 5211.)

§ 54-78. Certificate of incorporation. — The by-laws acknowledged to have been adopted by all of the incorporators, together with the certificate of incorporation, shall be filed in the office of the superintendent of credit unions who shall approve the certificate of incorporation if he is satisfied that it is in conformity with this subchapter, and shall approve the by-laws if he is satisfied as to the character of the incorporators and that the by-laws are reasonable and will tend to give assurance that the affairs of the prospective credit union will be administered in accordance with this subchapter. Thereupon, the superintendent of credit unions shall issue to the corporation a certificate of approval, annexed to a duplicate of the certificate of incorporation and of the by-laws, which certificate of approval, together with the attached duplicate certificate of incorporation and duplicate by-laws, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the office of such credit union is situated, and upon such filing the incorporators shall become and be a corporation. The county clerk shall charge the same filing fee for filing the certificate of approval, certificate of incorporation and by-laws as he is now allowed to charge for filing a certificate of incorporation of a corporation organized under the business corporations law of the state. (1915, c. 115, s. 2; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5212.)

§ 54-79. Amendment of by-laws.—The by-laws adopted by the incorporators and approved by the superintendent of credit unions shall be the by-laws of the corporation, and no amendment to the by-laws shall become operative until such amendment shall have been approved by the superintendent of credit unions, and a copy thereof certified by him, with a certificate of his approval, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the office of the credit union is located. Such approval may be given or withheld by the superintendent of credit unions at his discretion. The county clerk shall receive the same fee for filing as provided in § 54-78. (1915, c. 115, s. 3; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5213.)

§ 54-80. Restriction of use of terms.—The use by any person, copartnership, association, or corporation except corporations formed under the provisions of this subchapter, of any name or title which contains the words "credit union" shall be a misdemeanor: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to associations or credit union leagues, the membership of which is composed entirely of individual members being served such security as provisions of this subchapter. (1915, c. 115, s. 4; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; 1941, c. 236; C. S. 5214.)

§ 54-81. Change of place of business.—A credit union may change its place of business on the written approval of the superintendent of credit unions, which written approval shall be filed in the office of the superintendent of credit unions and a duplicate of the approval in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where its office was located, and a second duplicate in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the new office is to be located. Such approval of the superintendent may be given or withheld at his discretion. (1915, c. 115, s. 25; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5215.)

Art. 11. Powers of Credit Unions.

§ 54-82. General nature of business.—A credit union may receive the savings of its members in payment for shares or on deposit; may loan to its members at reasonable rates of interest not exceeding the legal rate, or may invest as hereinafter provided the funds so accumulated, and may undertake such other activities relating to the purpose of the corporation as its by-laws may authorize. (1915, c. 115, s. 5; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5216.)

Editor's Note.—For act relating to withdrawal of deposits from the State Employees' Credit Union, see Session Laws 1943, c. 781.

§ 54-83. Receive deposits.—A credit union may receive on deposit the savings of its members and also nonmembers in such amounts and upon such terms as the board of directors may determine and the by-laws shall provide. (1915, c. 115, s. 16; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5217.)

§ 54-85. Authority to execute contracts of guaranty in certain cases.—A credit union may execute such contracts of guaranty as may be necessary to procure credit for its members: Provided, that the said contracts of guaranty shall not place on the said local credit union a liability arising in any one year in excess of ten (10) per cent of the total credit under the said contracts of guaranty handled through that association in a particular year; and provided further, that all such contracts shall be approved by the superintendent of credit unions and each such contract must bear his approval in writing before becoming effective. In assuming such liability the said credit union may require of the individual members being served such security as the board of directors of each such credit union may determine upon. (1925, c. 73, s. 11; 1935, c. 87.)

§ 54-86. Investment of funds.—The capital, deposits, undivided profits and reserve fund of the corporation may be invested in one of the following ways, and in such way only:

1. They may be lent to the members of the corporation in accordance with the provisions of this subchapter.
2. They may be deposited to the credit of the corporation in savings banks, credit unions, building and loan associations, state banks or trust companies, incorporated under the laws of the state, or in National banks located therein.
3. They may become insolvent, shall be preferred in the same way that funds of a "credit union" so deposited are preferred under the banking law of the state.
4. Not more than ten per cent of the capital stock and reserve fund of a credit union may be invested in the stock of another local credit § 54-87. Loans.
1. To Members.—A credit union may lend to its members for such purposes and upon such security and terms as the by-laws shall provide and the credit committee shall approve; but security must be taken for any loan in excess of fifty dollars. An indorsed note shall be deemed to be security within the meaning of this section.

2. Installment Loans.—A member who needs funds which to purchase necessary supplies for growing crops may receive a loan in fixed monthly installments instead of in one sum.

3. Loans to Members of Committee.—The supervisory committee shall appoint a substitute to act on the credit committee in the place of any member in case such member makes application to borrow money from the credit union or becomes surety for any other member whose application for a loan is under consideration.

4. Loans to Persons Not Members Forbidden.—All officers and members of any committees in any way knowingly permitting or participating in making a loan of funds of a credit union to one not a member thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The credit union shall have the right to recover the amount of such illegal loans from the borrower or from any officers or members of committees who knowingly permitted or participated in the making thereof, or from all of them jointly.

5. Repayment of Loans.—A borrower may repay the whole or any part of his loan on any day on which the office of the corporation is open for the transaction of business. (1915, c. 115, s. 19; 1917, c. 233, s. 4; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5320.)

§ 54-88. Rate of interest; penalty.—No corporation organized pursuant to this subchapter shall directly or indirectly charge or receive any interest, discount, or consideration, other than the entrance fee, greater than the legal rate.

Any corporation, any person, the several officers of any corporation, and the members of committees who shall violate the foregoing prohibition shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The corporation shall also be subject to procedure by the superintendent of credit unions as prescribed herein in article fourteen. (1915, c. 115, s. 20; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5321.)

§ 54-89. Interest or discount rate charged by agricultural association.—An agricultural credit corporation or association, organized under the laws of the State of North Carolina, may charge and collect by way of interest or discount on all loans made for agricultural purposes to farmers, growers and truckers of staple agricultural crops, fruits and vegetables respectively, or for the purpose of raising, breeding, fattening, or marketing of live stock, a rate of interest or discount not to exceed three per cent per annum in excess of the rate of interest or rediscount rate charged by any Federal intermediate credit bank to such agricultural credit corporation or association when rediscounting or purchasing from it the notes of such farmers, growers and truckers: Provided, that the total rate, both interest and rediscount, to the borrower shall not exceed eight per centum (8%) per annum. (1915, c. 101; 1929, c. 43, s. 1; 1931, c. 329.)

Cross Reference.—As to commission in lieu of interest, see §§ 44-57 and 44-28.

§ 54-90. Reserve fund.—All entrance fees, transfer fees, and fines shall, after the payment of organization expenses, be known as reserve income, and shall be added to the reserve fund of the corporation.

At the close of each fiscal year there shall be set apart to the reserve fund twenty per centum of the net income of the corporation which has accumulated during the year. But upon the recommendation of the board of directors, the members at an annual meeting may increase, and whenever such funds equal the amount of the capital, the proportion of profits which is required by this section to be set apart to the reserve fund. Nor shall the reserve fund in any case exceed the capital of the corporation plus fifty per centum of its other liabilities.

The reserve fund shall belong to the corporation and shall be held to meet contingencies, and shall not be distributed to the members except upon the dissolution of the corporation. (1915, c. 115, s. 21; 1939, c. 400, s. 2; C. S. 5222.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment substituted "twenty" for "twenty-five" in line two of the second paragraph.

§ 54-91. Dividends.—At the close of the fiscal year a credit union may declare a dividend not to exceed six per cent per annum from the income during the year and which remains after the deduction of expenses, losses, interest on deposits, and the amount required to be set apart to the reserve fund. Dividends shall be paid on all fully paid shares outstanding at the close of the fiscal year, but shares which become fully paid during the year shall be entitled to a proportional part of such dividend calculated from the first day of the month following such payment in full. (1915, c. 115, s. 22; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5223.)

§ 54-92. Voluntary dissolution.—At any meeting specially called to consider the subject, three-fourths of the members present and represented may vote to dissolve the corporation and upon such vote shall signify their consent to such dissolution in writing. Such corporation shall then file in the office of the superintendent of credit unions such consent, attested by its secretary or treasurer and its president or vice-president, with a statement of the names and residences of the existing board of directors of the corporation and the names and residences of its officers duly verition.—The corporation shall be deemed an institution for saving, shall not be subject to any stock-transfer or transfer tax either when issued by the corporation or transferred from one member to another. (1915, c. 115, s. 15; 1925,
c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5229.)

Editor's Note.—The words "buildings and loan associations" in the first clause of this section were stricken out.

§ 54-95. Shares and deposits for minors and in trust.—Shares may be issued and deposits received in the name of a minor, and such shares and deposits may, in the discretion of the directors, be withdrawn by such minor or his parent or guardian, and in either case payments made on such withdrawals shall be valid. If shares are hold or deposits made in trust, the name and residence of the beneficiary shall be disclosed and the account shall be kept in the name of such holder as trustee for such person. Such shares or deposits may be withdrawn by the person for whom the shares were held or for whom such deposits were made, or by his legal representatives. (1915, c. 115, s. 14; C. S. 5227.)

§ 54-96. Fines and penalties.—For failure by any member of a credit union to meet his payments on obligations when due, such fines and other penalalties may be imposed upon the delinquent member as the by-laws provide. Such fines shall not exceed two per centum per month or a fraction thereof on amounts due, except that a minimum fine of five cents may be imposed. (1915, c. 115, s. 15; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; 1939, c. 400, s. 3; C. S. 5228.)

§ 54-97. Liability of shareholders. — A shareholder of any such corporation, unless the by-laws so provide, shall not be individually liable for the payment of its debts for an amount in excess of the par value of the shares which he owns or for which he has subscribed. (1915, c. 115, s. 26; C. S. 5229.)

Art. 13. Members and Officers.

§ 54-98. Who may become members. — The membership of the corporation shall consist of those persons who have been duly elected to membership and who have subscribed for one or more shares and have paid for the same in whole or in part, together with the entrance fee as provided in the by-laws, and have complied with such other requirements as the by-laws may contain. No credit union shall ever pay any commission or offer compensation for the securing of members or on the sale of shares. (1915, c. 115, s. 6; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5230.)

§ 54-99. Expulsion and withdrawal of members.
—The board of directors may expel from the corporation any member who has not carried out his engagement with the corporation, or has been convicted of a criminal offense, or neglects or refuses to comply with the provisions of this subchapter or of the by-laws, or who habitually neglects to pay his debts, or shall become insolvent or bankrupt. The members at a regularly called meeting may expel from the corporation any member who has become intemperate or in any way financially irresponsible; no member shall be expelled until he has been informed in writing of the charges against him and an opportunity has been given him, after reasonable notice, to be heard thereon.

A member may withdraw from a credit union by filing a written notice of his intention to withdraw. The amounts paid in on shares or deposits by an expelled or withdrawing member, with any dividends credited to his shares and any interest accrued on his deposits to the date of expulsion or withdrawal, shall be paid to such member, but in the order of expulsion or withdrawal and only as funds therefor become available, after deducting any amounts due to the corporation by such member. The member shall have no other or further right in the credit union or to any of its benefits, but such expulsion or withdrawal shall not operate to relieve the member from any remaining liability to the corporation. (1915, c. 115, s. 23; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5233.)

§ 54-100. Meetings; right of voting.—The fiscal year of every such corporation shall end at the close of business on the thirty-first day of December. The annual meeting of the corporation shall be held at such time and place as the by-laws prescribe. Special meetings may be held by order of the directors or of the supervisory committee, and shall be held upon request in writing of ten per cent of the members. Notice of all meetings of the corporation shall be given in the manner prescribed in the by-laws. At all meetings of members or shareholders a member shall have one vote and but one vote, irrespective of the number of shares that may be held by him, and in case of sickness or other unavoidable absence of a member he shall be allowed to vote by proxy in writing, but no member present shall vote more than one such proxy. At any meeting the members may decide upon any question of interest to the corporation, and overrule the board of directors, and by a three-fourths vote of those present and represented, provided the notice of the meeting shall have specified the question to be considered, may vote to amend the by-laws. (1915, c. 115, s. 8; C. S. 5238.)

1. Number Elected.—At the annual meeting the members shall elect a board of directors of not less than five members, a credit committee and a supervisory committee of not less than three members each. However, in credit unions whose business offices are located in places other than incorporated cities, the board of directors as such may also be the credit committee. Except as herein specified, no member of the board shall be a member of either of such committees, nor shall one person be a member of more than one of such committees. All members of committees and all directors, as well as all officers whom they may elect, shall be sworn, and shall hold their several offices for such term as may be determined by the by-laws.

2. Oath of Office.—The oath required of each director, officer, and member of committee shall be the oath of the individual taking the same that he will, so far as the duty devolves on him, diligently and honestly administer the affairs of such corporation, and will not knowingly violate or willingly permit to be violated any of the provisions of law applicable to such corporation, and that he is the owner in good faith and in his own right on the books of the corporation of at least one share therein. Such oath shall be subscribed by the individual making it and certified by the officer before whom it is taken, and shall immediately be transmitted to the superintendent of credit unions and filed and preserved in his office. (1915, c. 115, s. 9; 1925, c. 73, s. 3; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5233.)

§ 54-102. Duties of board of directors. 1. Elect Executive Officers.—At their first meeting and at each first meeting in the fiscal year, the board of directors shall elect from their number a president, vice-president, a secretary, and a treasurer, who shall be the executive officers of the corporation. The offices of secretary and treasurer may, if the by-laws so provide, be held by one person.

2. General Management.—The board of directors shall have the general management of the affairs, funds, and records of the corporation, shall meet as often as may be necessary, and, unless the by-laws shall specifically reserve all or any of these duties to the members, it shall be the special duty of the directors: 1. To act upon all applications for membership and the expulsion of members.

2. To fix the amount of the surety bond which shall be required of each officer having the custody of funds.

3. To determine from time to time the rate of interest which shall be allowed on deposits and charged on loans.

4. To fix the maximum number of shares which may be held by and the maximum amount which may be lent to any one member; to declare dividends; and to recommend amendments to the by-laws.

5. To fill vacancies in the board of directors or in the credit committees until the election and qualification of successors.

6. To have charge of the investment of the funds of the corporation except loans to members, and to perform such other duties as the members may from time to time authorize.

3. Compensation.—No member of the board of directors or of the credit or supervisory committee shall receive any compensation for his services as a member of the board or committees. But the officers elected by the board of directors may receive such compensation as the members may authorize. (1915, c. 115, s. 10; C. S. 5234.)

§ 54-103. Duties of credit committee.—The credit committee shall approve every loan or advance made by the corporation to members. Every application for a loan shall be made in writing and shall state the purpose for which the loan is desired and the security offered. No loan shall be made unless it has received the unanimous approval of those members of the committee who were present when it was considered, who shall constitute at least a majority of the committee, nor if any member of the committee shall disapprove thereof; but the applicant for a loan may appeal from any decision of the credit committee to the board of directors. The credit committee shall meet as often as may be required after due notice has been given to each member. (1915, c. 115, s. 11; C. S. 5323.)

§ 54-104. Duties of supervisory committee.—The supervisory committee shall inspect the securities, cash, and accounts of the corporation and supervise the acts of its board of directors, credit committee, and officers. At any time the supervisory committee, by a unanimous vote, may suspend the credit committee or any member of the board of directors, or any officer elected by the board, and by a majority vote may call a meeting of the shareholders to consider any violation of this subchapter or of the by-laws, or any practice of the corporation which, in the opinion of said committee, is unsafe and unauthorized. Within seven days after the suspension of the credit committee the supervisory committee shall cause notice to be given of a special meeting of the members to take such action relative to such suspension as may seem necessary. The supervisory committee shall fill vacancies in their own number until the next regular meeting of the members.

At the close of each fiscal year the supervisory committee shall make a thorough audit of the receipts, disbursements, income, assets, and liabilities of the corporation for the fiscal year, and shall make a full report thereon to the directors. This report shall be read at the annual meeting of the members and shall be filed and preserved with the records of the corporation. (1915, c. 115, s. 12; C. S. 5326.)

§ 54-106. Reports; penalties; fees.—1. Every corporation organized under this subchapter shall, in January and in July of each year, make a report of condition to the superintendent of credit unions giving such information as he shall require, which reports shall be verified by the oath of the treasurer and by oath of a majority of the supervisory committee, and shall make such other and further reports under like oath as the superintendent shall demand at any time.

2. Each credit union applying on or after July first, one thousand nine hundred forty-one, for a certificate to do business under the provisions of this subchapter shall, before receiving such certificate, pay into the office of the superintendent of credit unions a charter fee of five dollars ($5.00).

3. Each credit union subject to supervision and examination by the superintendent of credit unions, including credit unions in process of voluntary liquidation, shall pay into the office of the superintendent of credit unions supervisory fees as follows: (a) two dollars and fifty cents ($2.50) for the first one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) of assets and fifty cents ($0.50) for each additional thousand dollars ($1,000.00) of assets, or fraction thereof, payable during the month of July each year on the basis of total assets as shown by its report of condition made to the superintendent of credit unions as of the previous June thirtieth, or the date most nearly approximately same of each year; and (b) two dollars and fifty ($2.50) for the first one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) of assets and fifty cents ($0.50) for each additional thousand dollars ($1,000.00) of assets, or fraction thereof, payable during the month of January each year on the basis of total assets as shown by its report of condition made to the superintendent of credit unions as of the previous December thirty-first, or the date most nearly approximating same of each year: Provided, that no credit union shall be required to pay any supervisory fee until the expiration of twelve months from the date of the issuance of a certificate of incorporation to such credit union.

4. Any such corporation which neglects to make semi-annual reports as provided in paragraph 1 of this section, or any of the other reports required by the superintendent of credit unions at the time fixed by the superintendent, shall forfeit to the superintendent of credit unions five dollars ($5.00) for each day such neglect continues; and, furthermore, the superintendent of credit unions shall have authority, in his discretion, to revoke the certificate of incorporation and take possession of the assets and business of any corporation failing to pay the fees required in this section after serving notice of at least fifteen (15) days upon such corporation of his intention so to do.

5. Moneys collected under this section shall be deposited with the state treasurer of North Carolina and expended, under the terms of the Executive Budget Act, to defray expenses incurred by the office of the superintendent of credit unions in carrying out its supervisory and auditing functions. (1915, c. 115, s. 7; 1925, c. 73, ss. 3, 7; 1935, c. 87; 1941, c. 235; C. S. 5328.)

Editor's Note.—Under the first paragraph of this section it was formerly provided that the report, therein referred to, "shall be verified by the oath of the president, treasurer and secretary, as well as by the oath of a majority of the members of the supervisory committee". By Public Laws 1925, ch. 73, the word "president" was stricken out and the word "and" substituted in lieu of "as well as."

Prior to the 1941 amendment annual reports were required. The amendment changed the provision relating to penalties and added subsections 2, 3 and 5.

§ 54-107. Annual examinations required. — The superintendent of credit unions shall cause every such corporation to be examined once a year and whenever he deems it necessary. The examiners appointed by him shall be given free access to all books, papers, securities, and other sources of information in respect to the corporation; and for the purpose of such examination the superintendent shall have power and authority to subpoena and examine personally, or by one of his deputies or examiners, witnesses on oath and documents, whether such witnesses are members of the corporation or not, and whether such documents are documents of the corporation or not.
If any such corporation shall neglect to make its annual report, as provided in this article, or any other report required by the superintendent of credit unions, for more than fifteen days, or shall fail to pay the charges required, including the fines for delay in filing reports, the superintendent of credit unions shall give notice to such corporation of his intention to revoke the certificate of approval of the corporation for such neglect or failure, and if such neglect or failure continues for fifteen days after such notice, the said superintendent shall, at his discretion, revoke the certificate, and he, personally or by one of his deputies, shall take possession of the property and business of the corporation and retain possession until such time as he may permit it to resume business, or until its affairs be finally liquidated as provided in the banking laws of the state. (1915, c. 115, s. 7; 1925, c. 73, ss. 3, 8; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5239.)

Editor's Note.—The words "or any other report required by the superintendent of savings and loan associations," (now credit unions), following the words "as provided in this article," in the first part of the section were added by Public Laws 1925, ch. 71.

§ 54-109. Deficits supplied; business discontinued.—If it shall appear to the superintendent of credit unions by any examination or report that any such corporation is insolvent, or that it has violated any of the provisions of this subchapter or any other law of the state, he may, by order made over his hand and official seal, after a hearing or an opportunity for a hearing given the accused corporation, direct any such corporation to discontinue the illegal methods or practices mentioned in the order to make good any deficit. A deficit, in the discretion of the superintendent of credit unions, may be made good by an assessment on the members in proportion to their shares held by each member. If any such corporation shall not comply with such order within the time stipulated after the same shall have been delivered in person or shall have been mailed to the last address filed by such corporation in the office of the superintendent of credit unions (provided, that not more than thirty (30) days shall be allowed) the superintendent shall thereupon take possession of the property and business of such corporation and retain such possession until such time as he may permit it to resume business or its affairs be finally liquidated, as provided in the banking law of the state. (1915, c. 115, s. 7; 1925, c. 73, ss. 3, 9; 1935, c. 87; C. S. 5541.)

Editor's Note.—The provision, in the third sentence of this section, that "the time stipulated after the same shall have been delivered in person or shall have been mailed to the last address filed by such corporation in the office of the superintendent of credit unions (Provided, that not more than thirty (30) days shall be allowed)," was substituted by the acts of 1925, ch. 71, in place of the former provision "sixty days after the same shall have been mailed to the last address filed by such corporation in the division of markets and rural co-operation," which was stricken out by same act.

Art. 15. Central Associations.

§ 54-110. Central association.—(1) Upon application of seven or more credit unions for a central corporation for the purpose of securing credit and discounting notes with any outside agency, and to act as a clearing house in the settlement of these accounts, the superintendent of credit unions shall, upon receipt and investigation of charters and by-laws signed by the secretary-treasurers of the several credit unions, approve same if he is satisfied they are in conformity with and give reasonable assurance that the affairs of the corporation will be administered in accordance with this article.

(2) The procedure and plan of organization, method of operation, officers and their duties, supervision, liquidation and dissolution shall be the same as with any local credit union; except that the membership of a central credit union shall be institutional and only local credit unions can become members, unless the by-laws otherwise prescribe.

(3) Any local credit union can become a member of a central association by subscribing to any number of shares and paying for same, in whole or in part, not to be in excess of twenty-five (25%) of their share capital and reserve fund.

(4) Deposits in the central association may be accepted from any source in such amounts and upon such terms as the board of directors may determine and the by-laws shall prescribe.

(5) The secretary-treasurer shall cast the one vote of local member credit unions in its annual election of officers and at all meetings of the member associations unless the by-laws otherwise prescribe.

(6) A central credit union shall not charge more than three-fourths (34) of one per cent for discounting paper, provided that no discount rate shall make the interest higher than the legal rate.

(7) Section 54-84 shall not apply to a central association, and such an association shall have power to borrow money from any source in amounts not in excess of ten times the amount of its capital and reserve fund.

(8) A central credit union shall not be taxable under any law which shall exempt any local credit union. (1925, c. 73, s. 17; 1935, c. 87.)

SUBCHAPTER IV. CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS.

Art. 16. Organization of Associations.

§ 54-111. Nature of the association.—Any number of persons, not less than five, may associate themselves as a mutual association, society, company, or exchange, for the purpose of conducting any agricultural, horticultural, forestry, dairy, mercantile, mining, manufacturing, telephonic, electric light, power, storage, refrigeration, flume, irrigation, water, sewage, or mechanical business on the mutual plan. For the purposes of this subchapter, the words association, company, corporation, exchange, society, or union shall be construed to mean the same; Provided, that the membership of agricultural organizations incorporated under this subchapter shall consist of producers of agricultural products, handled by such organizations or by organizations owned and controlled by such producers. (1915, c. 144, s. 1; 1925, c. 179, ss. 1, 2; 1931, c. 447; C. S. 5548.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of a mutual corporation to create stock, see § 55-72.
§ 54-112. Use of term restricted.—No corporate or association hereinafter organized for doing business in profit in this state shall be entitled to use the term "mutual" or any other part of its corporate or other business name, unless it has complied with the provisions of this subchapter; and any corporation or association violating the provisions of this section may be enjoined from doing business under such name at the instance of any shareholder of any association legally organized under this subchapter. (1915, c. 144, s. 18; 1925, c. 179, s. 1; C. S. 5243.)

§ 54-113. Articles of agreement.—The persons desiring to organize such association shall sign and acknowledge written articles which shall contain the name of the association and the names and residences of the persons forming the same. Such articles shall also contain a statement of the purposes of the association and shall designate the city, town, or village where its principal place of business shall be located. The articles shall also state the amount of authorized capital stock, the number of shares subscribed, and the par value of each. No shareholder in any corporation organized under this subchapter shall be personally liable for any debt of the corporation. (1915, c. 144, s. 2; C. S. 5244.)

§ 54-114. Certificate of incorporation.—The original articles of incorporation of corporations organized under this subchapter, or a true copy thereof, verified as such by the attaheds of two of the signers thereof, shall be filed with the secretary of state. A like verified copy of such articles and certificate of the secretary of state, showing the date when such articles were filed with and accepted by the secretary of state, within thirty days of such filing and acceptance, shall be filed with and recorded by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the principal place of business of the corporation is to be located, and no corporation shall, until such articles be left for record, have legal existence. The clerk of court shall forthwith transmit to the secretary of state a certificate stating the time when such certificate was received. Upon the issuance of such certificate, the secretary of state shall issue a certificate of incorporation. (1915, c. 144, s. 3; C. S. 5245.)

§ 54-115. Fees for incorporation.—For filing the articles of incorporation of corporations organized under this subchapter, the fees therefor shall be paid the secretary of state ten dollars and his fees allowed by law, and for the filing of an amendment to such articles, five dollars and his fees allowed by law: Provided, that when the authorized capital stock of such corporations shall be less than one thousand dollars, such fee for filing either the articles of incorporation or amendments thereto shall be two dollars. For recording copy of such articles, the clerk of court shall receive a fee of fifty cents, to be paid by the person presenting such papers for record. (1915, c. 144, s. 4; C. S. 5246.)

tors shall make by-laws which shall provide: 1. The name of the corporation.
2. The purposes for which it is formed.
3. Qualifications for membership.
4. The time of the annual meeting; the manner in which members shall be notified of meetings; the manner of conducting the meetings; and the number of members which shall constitute a quorum at the meetings, and regulations as to voting.
5. The number of members of the board of directors; powers and duties; the compensation and duties of officers elected by the board of directors.
6. In the case of selling agencies or productive societies, regulations for grading.
7. In the case of selling agencies or productive societies, regulations governing the sale of products by the members through the organization.
8. The par value of the shares of capital stock.
9. The conditions upon which shares may be issued, paid in, transferred, and withdrawn.
10. The manner in which the reserve fund shall be accumulated.
11. The manner in which the dividends shall be determined and paid to members.
12. Associations, societies, companies or exchanges, organized hereunder to engage in the telephone or electric light business upon a mutual basis, shall adopt a by-law limiting the patrons and subscribers to members of the association. (1915, c. 144, s. 5; 1925, c. 179, s. 4; C. S. 5247.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by Public Laws 1925, ch. 179, by adding thereto subsection twelve.

§ 54-117. General corporation law applied; dealing in products of non-members.—All mutual associations shall be maintained in accordance with the general corporation law, except as otherwise provided for in this subchapter. And no corporation or association hereafter organized under this subchapter for doing business in this State shall be permitted to deal in the products of non-members to an amount greater in value than such as are handled by it for members. (1915, c. 144, s. 17; 1925, c. 179, s. 1; 1931, c. 447, s. 2; C. S. 5248.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1911 added the second sentence to this section.

§ 54-118. Other corporations admitted.—All mutual corporations, companies, or associations heretofore organized and doing business under prior statutes, or which have attempted to so organize and do business, shall have the benefit of all of the provisions of this subchapter, and be bound thereby on filing with the secretary of state a written declaration, signed and sworn to by the president and secretary, to the effect that the mutual company or association has by a majority vote of its shareholders decided to accept the benefits of and to be bound by the provisions of this subchapter. No association organized under this subchapter shall be required to do or perform anything not specifically required herein, in order to become a corporation. (1915, c. 144, s. 16; 1925, c. 179, s. 1; C. S. 5249.)
Art. 17. Stockholders and Officers.

§ 54-119. Certificate for stock fully paid. — Certificates of stock shall not be issued to any subscriber until fully paid, but the by-laws of the association may allow subscribers to vote as shareholders: Provided, part of the stock subscribed for has been paid in cash. (1915, c. 144, s. 11; C. S. 5250.)

§ 54-120. Ownership of shares limited. — No shareholder in any such association shall own shares of a greater aggregate par value than twenty per cent of the paid-in capital stock, except as hereinafter provided, or be entitled to more than one vote. A mutual association shall reserve the right of purchasing the stock of any member whose stock is for sale, and may restrict the transfer of stock to such persons as are made eligible to membership in the by-laws. (1915, c. 144, s. 9; 1925, c. 179, s. 1; C. S. 5251.)

§ 54-121. Shares issued on purchase of business. — Whenever an association, created under this subchapter, shall purchase the business of another association or person, it may pay for the same in whole or in part by issuing to the selling association or persons shares of its capital stock to an amount which at par value would equal the fair market value of the business so purchased, and in such case the transfer to the association of such business at such valuation shall be equivalent to payment in cash for the shares of stock so issued. (1915, c. 144, s. 10; C. S. 5252.)

§ 54-122. Absent members voting. — At any regularly called general or special meeting of the shareholders a written vote received by mail from any absent shareholder, and signed by him, may be read in such meeting, and shall be equivalent to a vote of such of the shareholders so signing. Provided, he has been previously notified in writing of the exact motion or resolution upon which such vote is taken, and a copy of same is forwarded with and attached to the vote so mailed by him. In case of sickness or other unavoidable absence of a member, he shall be allowed to vote by proxy in writing; but no member shall vote more than one such proxy. (1915, c. 144, s. 12; C. S. 5253.)

§ 54-123. Directors and other officers. — Every such association shall be managed by a board of not less than five directors. The directors shall be elected by and from the stockholders of the association at such time and for such term of office as the by-laws may prescribe, and shall hold office for time for which elected and until their successors are elected and shall enter upon the discharge of such duties as are prescribed in the by-laws; but a majority of the stockholders shall have the power at any regular or special stockholders' meeting, legally called, to remove any director or officer for cause, and fill the vacancy, and thereupon the director or officer so removed shall cease to be a director or officer of the association. The officers of every such association shall be a president, one or more vice-presidents, a secretary and treasurer, who shall be elected annually by the directors, and each of the officers must be a director of the association. The office of secretary and treasurer may be combined, and when so combined the person filling the office shall be secretary-treasurer. (1915, c. 144, s. 6; C. S. 5254.)

Art. 18. Powers and Duties.

§ 54-125. Amendment of articles. — The association may amend its articles of incorporation by a majority vote of its shareholders at any regular shareholders' meeting, or any special shareholders' meeting called for that purpose, on ten days notice to the shareholders. The power to amend shall include the power to increase or diminish the amount of capital stock and the number of shares: Provided, the amount of the capital stock shall not be diminished below the amount of the paid up capital at the time the amendment is adopted. Within thirty days after the adoption of an amendment to its articles of incorporation, an association shall cause a copy of such amendment adopted to be recorded in the office of the secretary of state and of the clerk of court of the county where the principal place of business is located. (1915, c. 144, s. 7; C. S. 5256.)

§ 54-126. Apportionment of earnings. — The directors, subject to revision by the association at any general or special meeting, shall apportion the earnings by first paying dividends on the paid-up capital stock, not exceeding six per cent per annum, then setting aside not less than ten per cent of the net profits for a reserve fund, until an amount has been accumulated in the reserve fund equal to thirty per cent of the paid-up capital stock, and not less than two per cent thereof for an educational fund to be used in teaching cooperation, and the remainder of the net profits by uniform dividend upon the amount of purchases of shareholders and upon the wages and salaries of employees, and one-half of such uniform dividend to nonshareholders on the amount of their purchase, which may be credited to the account of such nonshareholders on account of capital stock of the association; but in selling agencies such as creameries, canneries, warehouses, factories, and the like, dividends shall be prorated on raw material delivered instead of on goods purchased. In every association which is both a selling and productive concern, or in any association distributing the dividends the dividends may be on both raw material delivered and on goods or service purchased by patrons. (1915, c. 144, s. 13; 1925, c. 179, s. 5; C. S. 5257.)

Editor's Note. — The words, "for a service and distributing association" and "for service," in the last sentence of this section, were added, to the sentence as it formerly stood, by Public Laws 1925, ch. 179.

§ 54-127. Time of distribution. — The profits or net earnings of such associations shall be distributed to those entitled thereto, at such times as the by-laws shall prescribe, which shall be as often as once in twelve months. (1915, c. 144, s. 14; C. S. 5258.)

§ 54-128. Annual reports.—Every association organized under the provisions of this subchapter shall annually, or on before the first day of March of each year, make a report to the secretary of state; such report shall contain the name of the company, its principal place of business in this state, and generally a statement as to its business, showing total amount of business transacted, amount of capital stock subscribed for and paid in, number of shareholders, total expenses of operation, amount of indebtedness or liabilities, and its profits and losses. A copy of such report shall also be filed with the division of markets in the Department of Agriculture. (1915, c. 144, s. 15; C. S. 5259.)

SUBCHAPTER V. MARKETING ASSOCIATIONS.

Art. 19. Purpose and Organization.

§ 54-129. Declaration of policy.—In order to promote, foster, and encourage the intelligent and orderly producing and marketing of agricultural products through cooperation, and to eliminate speculation and waste; and to make the distribution of agricultural products as direct as can be efficiently done between producer and consumer; and to stabilize the marketing problems of agricultural products this subchapter is enacted. (1921, c. 87, s. 1; 1935, c. 350, s. 1; C. S. 5259(a).)

Editor's Note.—An excellent discussion of co-operation marketing will be found in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 216, and a review of the cases in 2 N. C. Law Rev. 222. Volume 27 of the Columbia Law Review pp. 827 et seq. contains an article on the constitutionality of this and the corresponding statutes of other states as being in restraint of trade. The soundness of the North Carolina decisions upholding the statute is questioned.

Public Laws of 1935 inserted the words "producing and."

Same—Assailed on Ground of Insufficient Signers. — In Pittman v. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n, 187 N. C. 340, 341, 121 S. E. 634, the Court said that the validity cannot be assailed by alleging an insufficient number of signers. This is a collateral attack and is not a direct attack by the State upon a quo warranto to vitiate the incorporation. Besides, there was no evidence of an insufficient sign-up, and if the plaintiff could bring a collateral attack to vitiate the organization, the burden is upon him to produce evidence to that effect. Withdrawal of Charter. — It was held in the Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Jones, 185 N. C. 265, 117 S. E. 174, that since an association formed under this act had no capital, stock, surplus or credit except as given by the act, the legislature may withdraw its charter at any time, and for this reason a monopoly is safely guarded against. For a constructive criticism of this holding, see 27 Columbia Law Rev. 827 et seq.

(a) The term "agricultural products" shall include horticultural, viticultural, forestry, dairy, livestock, poultry, bee, and any farm products;

(b) The term "member" shall include actual members of associations without capital stock and holders of stock in associations organized with capital stock;

(c) The term "association" means any corporation organized under this subchapter; and

(d) The term "person" shall include individuals, firms, partnerships, corporations, and associations.

Editor's Note.—The 1935 amendment omitted "common" which preceded the word "stock."

§ 54-131. Who may organize. — Five (5) or more persons engaged in the production of agricultural products may form a nonprofit, cooperative association, with or without capital stock, under the provisions of this subchapter. (1921, c. 87, s. 3; C. S. 5259(c).)

§ 54-132. Purposes. — An association may be organized to engage in any activity in connection with the producing, marketing or selling of the agricultural products of its members and other farmers, or with the harvesting, preserving, drying, processing, canning, packing, storing, handling, shipping, or utilization thereof, of the manufacturing or marketing of the by-products thereof; or in connection with the manufacturing, selling, or supplying to its members of machinery, equipment, or supplies: or in the financing of the above enumerated activities; or in any one or more of the activities specified herein. (1921, c. 87, s. 4: 1933, c. 350, s. 2; 1935, c. 320, s. 2; C. S. 5259(d).)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 350, inserted, near the beginning of this section, the words "and other farmers" after the word "members."

The amendment of 1935 inserted the word "producing" preceding the word "marketing."

§ 54-133. Preliminary investigation. — Every group of persons contemplating the organization of an association under this subchapter is urged to communicate with the chief of the division of markets, who will inform it whatever a survey of the marketing conditions affecting the commodities to be handled by the proposed association indicates regarding probable success. (1921, c. 87, s. 5; C. S. 5259(e).)

§ 54-134. Articles of incorporation. — Each association formed under this subchapter must prepare and file articles of incorporation, setting forth:

(a) The name of the association.

(b) The purposes for which it is formed.

(c) The place where its principal business will be transacted.

(d) The term for which it is to exist, not exceeding fifty (50) years.

(e) The names and addresses (not less than five) of those who are to serve as directors for the first term or until the election of their successors.

(f) If organized without capital stock, whether the property rights and interest of each member shall be equal or unequal; and if unequal, the article shall set forth the general rule or rules applicable to all members by which the property rights and interests, respectively, of each member may and shall be determined and fixed; and this association shall have the power to admit new members who shall be entitled to share in the property of the association with the old members, in accordance with such general rule or rules. The amendment of the articles of incorporation shall not be altered, amended, or repealed except by the written consent or the vote of three-fourths of the members.

(g) If organized with capital stock, the amount of such stock and the number of such shares into which it is divided and the par value thereof. The capital stock may be divided into preferred and common stock. If so divided, the articles of incorporation must contain a statement of the number of shares of stock to which preference is granted and the number of shares of stock to which no preference is granted and the nature and extent of the preference and the privileges granted to each.

In addition to the foregoing, the petition for articles of incorporation may contain any provision consistent with law with respect to management, regulation, government, financing, indebtedness, membership, the establishment of voting districts and the election of delegates for representative purposes, the issuance, retirement, and transfer of its stock, if formed with capital stock, or any provisions relative to the way or manner in which it shall operate with respect to its members, officers, or directors, and any other provisions relating to its affairs; provided that nothing set forth in this paragraph shall be construed as limiting any of the rights or powers otherwise given to such associations.

The articles must be subscribed by the incorporators and acknowledged by one of them before an officer authorized by the law of this state to take and certify acknowledgments of deeds and conveyances; and shall be filed in accordance with the provisions of the general corporation law of this state; and when so filed, the articles of incorporation, or certified copies thereof, shall be received in all the courts of this state, and other places, as prima facie evidence of the facts contained therein, and of the due incorporation of such association.

The articles of incorporation shall be filed with the chief of the division of markets. (1921, c. 87, s. 8; 1935, c. 230, ss. 3, 4; C. S. 5259(f).)

§ 54-136. Amendments to articles of incorporation.—Each association incorporated under this subchapter must, within thirty (30) days after its incorporation, adopt for its government and management a code of by-laws, not inconsistent with the powers granted by this subchapter. A majority vote of a quorum of the members or stockholders attending a meeting, of which notice of the proposed by-law or by-laws shall have been given, is sufficient to adopt or amend the by-laws. Each association under its by-laws may also provide for any or all of the following matters:

(a) The time, place, and manner of calling and conducting its meetings.
(b) The number of stockholders or members constituting a quorum.
(c) The right of members or stockholders to vote by proxy or by mail, or by both, and the conditions, manner, form, and effects of such votes.
(d) The number of directors constituting a quorum.
(e) The qualifications, compensations, and duties and terms of office of directors and officers; time of their election, and the mode and manner of giving notice thereof.
(f) Penalties for violations of the by-laws.
(g) The amount of entrance, organization, and membership fees, if any; the manner and method of collection of the same, and the purposes for which they may be used.
(h) The amount which each member or stockholder shall be required to pay annually or from time to time, if at all, to carry on the business of the association, the charge, if any, to be paid by each member or stockholder for services rendered by the association to him, and the time of payment and the manner of collection; and the marketing contract between the association and its members or stockholders which every member or stockholder may be required to sign.
(i) The number and qualification of members or stockholders of the association and the conditions precedent to membership or ownership of common stock; the method, time, and manner of permitting members to withdraw or the holders of common stock to transfer their stock; the manner of assignment and transfer of the interest of members, and of the shares of common stock; the conditions upon which, and the time when membership of any member shall cease; the automatic suspension of the rights of a member when he ceases to be eligible to membership in the association, and mode, manner, and effect of the expulsion of a member; manner of determining the value of a member's interest and provision for its purchase by the association upon the death or withdrawal of a member or stockholder, or upon the expulsion of a member or forfeiture of his membership, or at the option of the association, by conclusive appraisal by the board of directors. In case of the withdrawal or expulsion
§ 54-137. General and special meetings; how called.—In its by-laws each association shall provide for one or more regular meetings annually. The board of directors shall have the right to call a special meeting at any time, and ten per cent of the members or stockholders may file a petition stating the specific business to be brought before the association, and demand a special meeting at any time. Such meeting must therefore be called by the directors. Notice of all meetings, together with a statement of the purposes therefor, shall be mailed to each member at least ten days prior to the meeting: Provided, however, that the by-laws may require instead that such notice may be given by publication in a newspaper of general circulation, published at the principal place of business of the association. (1921, c. 87, s. 11; C. S. 5259(i).)

§ 54-138. Conflicting laws not to apply.—Any provisions of law which are in conflict with this subchapter shall not be construed as applying to the associations herein provided for. (1921, c. 87, s. 20; C. S. 5259(j).)

§ 54-139. Limitation of use of term "co-operative".—No person, firm, or corporation, or association hereafter organized or doing business in this state shall be entitled to use the word "co-operative" as part of its corporate or other business name unless it has complied with the provisions of this subchapter. (1921, c. 87, s. 21; C. S. 5259(k).)

§ 54-140. Association heretofore organized may adopt the provisions of this subchapter.—Any corporation or association organized under previous existing statutes may, by a majority vote of its stockholders or members, be brought under the provisions of this subchapter by limiting its membership and adopting the other restrictions as provided herein. It shall make out in duplicate a statement signed and sworn to by its directors, upon forms supplied by the secretary of state, to the effect that the corporation or association has by a majority vote of its stockholders or members decided to accept the benefits and be bound by the provisions of this subchapter. Articles of incorporation shall be filed as required in § 54-134, except that they shall be signed by the members of the board of directors. The filing fees shall be the same as for filing an amendment to articles of incorporation. (1921, c. 87, s. 24; C. S. 5259(l).)

§ 54-141. Associations not in restraint of trade.—No association organized hereunder shall be deemed to be a combination in restraint of trade or an illegal monopoly; or an attempt to lessen competition or fix prices arbitrarily, nor shall the marketing contracts or agreements between the association and its members, or any agreements authorized in this subchapter be considered illegal or in restraint of trade. (1921, c. 87, s. 26; C. S. 5259(m).)

Purpose and Effect of Act.—This chapter, is an enabling act whereby associations of growers may be formed by the voluntary act of those joining therein for handling the product of its members, to enable them to obtain a fair price therefor without profit to the organization itself, in opposition to any agreement among the manufacturers or others that may have a contrary effect, and under conditions that will keep the public informed of its methods, and control them under governmental supervision when they go beyond a protective policy or become monopolistic in effect; and the statute, and the organization formed in pursuance thereof, are not objectionable as being in restraint of interstate commerce, or contrary to the law against monopolies or the public policy or Constitution of this State. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Jones, 185 N. C. 265, 117 S. E. 174. Presumption in Favor of Validity.—The legal presumption is in favor of the validity of the marketing contract made by a member with the cooperative association, in an action by the latter against the former for its breach, which presumption will only yield when its illegal character plainly appears; and in this case there is nothing appearing that would indicate the association proposed to sell the member's tobacco for a greater sum than its true or actual value, or that it was acting in violation of the Anti-trust Law, or in restraint of trade. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Jones, 185 N. C. 265, 117 S. E. 174.

Governmental Control as Affecting.—The governmental control to be exerted as hereinafter provided renders the marketing plan for the protection of its own members incapable of exercise to the extent of a monopoly or restraint of trade prohibited by law. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Jones, 185 N. C. 265, 117 S. E. 174.

§ 54-142. Application of general corporation laws.—The provisions of the general corporation laws of this state, and all power and rights thereunder, are also applicable to the associations organized hereunder, except where such provisions are in conflict with or inconsistent with the express provisions of this subchapter. (1921, c. 87, s. 28; C. S. 5255(o).)

Effect of Period Limiting Existence.—The provisions in the charter that an association under the provision of the cooperative marketing acts exists for five years, is the same as applies to a period limited for the existence of other corporations formed under other legislative acts, and does not contemplate that the association hold over the crops raised in any year for one or more successive years, such being destructive of the purposes of the association as contemplated by the statute. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Jones, 185 N. C. 265, 117 S. E. 174.

§ 54-143. Annual license fees.—Each association organized hereunder shall pay an annual license fee of ten dollars ($10), but shall be exempted from all franchise or license taxes. (1921, c. 87, s. 29; C. S. 5259(p).)

Cross Reference.—As to listing property for taxes, see § 105-316.

§ 54-144. Filing fees.—For filing articles of incorporation, an association organized hereunder shall pay ten dollars ($10); and for filing an amendment to the articles, two dollars and one-half ($2.50). (1921, c. 87, s. 30; C. S. 5259(q).)

Art. 20. Members and Officers.

§ 54-145. Members.—(a) Under the terms and conditions prescribed in its by-laws, an association may admit as members, or issue common stock, only to persons engaged in the production of the agricultural products to be handled by or through the association, including the lessees and tenants of land used for the production of such products and any lessors and landlords who receive as rent part of the crop raised on the leased premises.

(b) If a member of a nonstock association be other than a natural person, such member may be represented by any individual, associate, officer, or member thereof, duly authorized in writing.

(c) One association organized hereunder may become a member or stockholder of any other association or associations, organized hereunder. (1921, c. 87, s. 7; C. S. 5259(r).)

§ 54-146. Directors; election.—(a) The affairs of the association shall be managed by a board of not less than five directors, elected by the members or stockholders from their own number. The by-laws may provide that the territory in which the association has members shall be divided into districts, and that the directors shall be elected according to such districts. In such case the by-laws shall specify the number of directors to be elected by each district, the manner and method of reapportioning the directors and of redistricting the territory covered by the association. The by-laws may provide that primary elections should be held in each district to elect the directors apportioned to such districts, and the result of all such primary elections must be ratified by the next regular meeting of the association.

(b) The by-laws shall provide that one or more directors shall be appointed by the director of agricultural extension or any other public official or commission. The directors so appointed need not be members or stockholders of the association, but shall have the same powers and rights as other directors.

(c) An association may provide a fair remuneration for the time actually spent by its officers and directors in its service. No director, during the term of his office, shall be a party to a contract or profit with the association differing in any way from the business relations accorded regular members or holders of common stock of the association, or to any other kind of contract differing from terms generally current in that district.

(d) When a vacancy on the board of directors occurs, other than by expiration of term, the remaining members of the board, by a majority vote, shall fill the vacancy, unless the by-laws provide for an election of directors by districts. In such case the board of directors shall immediately call a special meeting of the members or stockholders in that district to fill the vacancy: Provided, that this subsection shall not apply to the director or directors appointed under the provisions of subsection (b) of this section; Provided further, that any vacancy occurring in the office of a director appointed under subsection (b) of this section shall be filled in the same manner as the original appointment was made. (1921, c. 87, s. 12; C. S. 5259(r).)

§ 54-147. Election of officers.—The directors shall elect from their number a president and one or more vice presidents. They shall also elect a secretary and treasurer, who need not be directors, and they may combine the two latter offices and designate the combined office as secretary-treasurer. The treasurer may be a bank or any depository, and as such shall not be considered an officer, but as a function of the board of directors. In such case the secretary shall perform the usual accounting duties of the treasurer, excepting that the funds shall be deposited only as authorized by the board of directors. (1921, c. 87, s. 13; C. S. 5259(t).)

(a) When a member of an association established without capital stock has paid his membership fee in full, he shall receive a certificate of membership.

(b) No association shall issue stock to a member until it has been fully paid for. The promissory notes of the members may be accepted by the association as full or partial payment. The association shall hold the stock as security for the payment of the note, but such retention as security shall not affect the members' right to vote.

(c) Except for debts lawfully contracted between him and the association, no member shall be liable for the debts of the association to an amount exceeding the sum remaining unpaid on his membership fee or his subscription to the capital stock, including any unpaid balance on any promissory notes given in payment thereof.

(d) A cooperative association, incorporated under this subchapter, may fix or limit in its by-laws the amount of stock which one member might own in said association.

(e) No member or stockholder shall be entitled to more than one vote.

(f) Any association organized with stock under this subchapter may issue preferred stock, with or without the right to vote. Such stock may be redeemable or retrievable by the association on such terms and conditions as may be provided for by the articles of incorporation and printed on the face of the certificate.

(g) The by-laws shall prohibit the transfer of the common stock of the association to persons not engaged in the production of the agricultural products handled by the association, and such restrictions must be printed upon every certificate of stock subject thereto.

(h) The association may at any time, except when the debts of the association exceed fifty per cent (50%) of the assets thereof, buy in or purchase its common stock at book value thereof as conclusively determined by the board of directors, and pay for it in cash within one (1) year thereafter. (1921, c. 87, s. 14; 1935, c. 436, s. 27; C. S. 5259(u).)

Editor's Note—The amendment of 1935 changed subsection (d) of this section. Prior to the amendment no stockholder could own more than one-twentieth of the common stock and the association could in its by-laws limit the amount to less than one-twentieth.

§ 54-149. Removal of officer or director.—Any member may bring charges against an officer or director by filing them in writing with the secretary of the association, together with a petition signed by ten per cent of the members, requesting the removal of the officer or director in question. The removal shall be voted upon at the next regular or special meeting of the association, and by a vote of a majority of the members, the association may remove the officer or director and fill the vacancy. The director or officer against whom such charges have been brought shall be informed in writing of the charges previous to the meeting, and shall have an opportunity at the meeting to be heard in person or by counsel, and to present witnesses; and the person or persons bringing the charges against him shall have the same opportunity.

In case the by-laws provide for election of directors by districts, with primary elections in each district, then the petition for removal of a director must be signed by twenty per cent of the members residing in the district from which he was elected. The board of directors must call a special meeting of the members residing in that district to consider the removal of the director. By a vote of the majority of that district, the director in question shall be removed from office:

Provided, that this section shall not apply to directors appointed under subsection (b) of § 54-146.

§ 54-150. Referendum.—Upon demand of one-third of the entire board of directors, any matter that has been approved or passed by the board must be referred to the entire membership of the stockholders for decision at the next special or regular meeting: Provided, however, that a special meeting may be called for the purpose.

§ 54-150. Referendum.—Upon demand of one-third of the entire board of directors, any matter that has been approved or passed by the board must be referred to the entire membership of the stockholders for decision at the next special or regular meeting: Provided, however, that a special meeting may be called for the purpose.

§ 54-151. Powers.—Each association incorporated under this subchapter shall have the following powers:

(a) To engage in any activity in connection with the producing, marketing, selling, harvesting, preserving, drying, processing, canning, packing, storing, handling, or utilization of any agricultural products produced or delivered to it by its members and other farmers; or the manufacturing or marketing of the by-products thereof; or in connection with the purchase, hiring, or use by its members of supplies, machinery, or equipment; or in the financing of any such activities; or in any one or more of the activities specified in this section. No such association, during any fiscal year thereof, shall deal in or handle products, machinery, equipment, supplies, and/or perform services for and on behalf of non-members to an amount greater in value than such as are dealt in, handled, and/or performed by it and on behalf of members during the same period.

(b) To borrow money and to make advances to members and other farmers who deliver agricultural products to the association.

(c) To act as the agent or representative of any member or members in any of the above mentioned activities.

(d) To purchase or otherwise acquire, and to hold, own, and exercise all rights or ownership in, and to sell, transfer, or pledge shares of the capital stock or bonds of any corporation or association engaged in any related activity or in the handling or marketing of any of the products handled by the association, or engaged in the financing of the association.

(e) To establish reserves and to invest the funds thereof in bonds or such other property as may be provided in the by-laws.

(f) To buy, hold, and exercise all privileges of ownership, over such real or personal property as may be necessary or convenient for the conducts and operation of any of the business of the association, or incidental thereto.

(g) To do each and every thing necessary, suitable or proper for the accomplishment of any one of the purposes or the attainment of any one or more of the objects herein enumerated; or conducive to or expedient for the interest or benefit of the association; and to contract accordingly; and in addition, to exercise and possess all powers, rights, and privileges necessary or incidental to the purposes for which the association is organized or to the activities in which it is engaged; and in addition, any other rights and powers, and privileges granted by the laws of this state to ordinary corporations, except such as are inconsistent with the express provisions of this subchapter; and to do any such thing anywhere.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 390, made this section applicable to other farmers not members. Prior to the amendment the association could not handle the agricultural products of a non-member. See 11 C. L. Rev. 212, for review of this section as amended 1933.

Near the beginning of subsection (a) the amendment of 1935 inserted the word "producing," The amendment also changed the last sentence of that subsection and added the last clause of subsection (d).

Formation of Subsidiary Companies.—Objection to the validity of the Co-operative Marketing Act that an organization of tobacco growers thereunder has formed subsidiaries of minor companies to cure tobacco, redry it, and store it, prize it, and get it ready for market, is without merit, the money for such purpose being very small, specifically limited and under a complete system for its return to its members who have contributed it, it being necessary for the association to own or control enough of the facilities to make effective the authorized purpose of its organization. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Jones, 185 N. C. 265, 117 S. E. 174.

§ 54-152. Marketing contract.—(a) The association and its members may make and execute marketing contracts, requiring the members to sell, for any period of time, not over ten years, all or any specified part or share of their agricultural products or specified commodities either directly to the association or through the association or any facilities to be created by the association. The contract may provide that the association may sell or resell the products of its members, with or without taking title thereto, and pay over to its members the resale price, after deducting all necessary selling, overhead, and other costs and expenses, including interest on preferred stock, not exceeding eight per cent per annum, and reserve for retiring the stock, if any; and other proper reserves; and interest not exceeding eight per cent per annum upon common stock.

(b) The by-laws and the marketing contract may fix, as liquidated damages, specific sums to be paid by the member or stockholder to the association upon the breach by him of any provision of the marketing contract regarding the sale or delivery or withholding of products; and may further provide that the member will pay all costs, premiums for bonds, expenses and fees in case any action is brought upon the contract by the association; and any such provisions shall be valid and enforceable in the courts of this state.

(c) In the event of any such breach or threatened breach of such marketing contract by a member, the association shall be entitled to an injunction to prevent the further breach of the contract, and to a decree of specific performance thereof. Pending the adjudication of such an action, and upon filing a verified complaint showing the breach or threatened breach, and upon filing a sufficient bond, the association shall be entitled to a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against the member. (1921, C. 87, s. 17; C. S. §328o(y)).

Validity of Standard Contract.—The provisions of the standard contract made by the Tobacco Co-operative Marketing Association with its member, under the provisions of the act, including premiums for bonds, expenses, and fees, and equitable relief by injunction to prevent the further breach of such contract, by a member, of a decree of specific performance, can be had, and also pending the adjudication of such actions, a temporary restraining order against the member upon the filing of a verified complaint showing the breach or threatened breach, and upon filing a sufficient bond, the association shall be entitled to a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against the member. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Patterson, 187 N. C. 252, 121 S. E. 631.

A co-operative association formed under the provisions of this act, whereby its members agree to sell and deliver to it all of the tobacco owned and produced by him for his own use, acquired by him as landlord or tenant, being, among other things, for the purpose of steadying the market and enabling the association to purchase, process, store, and distribute properly its tobacco and compensate him for his labor, skill, etc., exists by virtue of a constitutional statute, and the provisions of its standard contract with its members are valid and enforceable. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Battle, 187 N. C. 250, 121 S. E. 629.

Remedies for Breach by Member.—Upon the breach by a member of a contract for the handling of his crop the recovery of liquidated damages and all cost of the action, including premiums for bonds, expenses, and fees, and equitable relief by injunction to prevent the further breach of such contract, by a member, of a decree of specific performance, can be had, and also pending the adjudication of such actions, a temporary restraining order against the member upon the filing of a verified complaint showing the breach or threatened breach, and upon filing a sufficient bond, the association shall be entitled to a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against the member. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Patterson, 187 N. C. 250, 121 S. E. 629.

Same.—Liquidated Damages.—The fact that the co-operative marketing contract provides for liquidated damages does not give the association an adequate remedy at law against its members otherwise selling their tobacco as provided in the marketing contract, as such would seriously menace the existence of the association for the purpose for which it was incorporated under the provisions of the statute. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Pollock, 187 N. C. 409, 121 S. E. 763.

Solely Specific Performance.—Injuries from the breach of contract by a member of a co-operative marketing association, formed under the provisions of chapter 87, Public Laws of 1921, to market its tobacco, etc., cannot be adequately compensated in damages, and the equitable remedy of specific performance as allowed by the statute shall be upheld by the courts. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Battle, 187 N. C. 260, 121 S. E. 629.

Same.—Extent of Injunctive Relief.—Upon an alleged breach on the part of the member the equitable remedy by injunction is available to the association. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Patterson, 187 N. C. 252, 121 S. E. 631. Where the injunctive remedy is sought upon the ground that the defendant had not become a member, and the plaintiff's evidence tends strongly to show to the contrary, it was held that the court should be continued to the hearing upon the principle that the plaintiff has established an apparent right to the relief sought, and that the writ is reasonably necessary to protect the property pending the inquiry. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Battle, 187 N. C. 260, 121 S. E. 629; Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Spikes, 187 N. C. 367, 121 S. E. 636.

The temporary restraining order obtained under the provisions of the act to restrain the defendant from disposing of his tobacco in breach of the contract complained of was caused by the plaintiff's own default, or if the continuance of the temporary restraining order would cause greater injury than its dissolution by the court. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Blaund, 187 N. C. 355, 121 S. E. 636.

The fact that the member gave a lien on his crop for advances made for advertising does not deprive the rights of the association under the contract such that an injunction against selling the crops should be continued until the final hearing. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Harvey & Son Co, 189 N. C. 494, 127 S. E. 545.

The general denial by the association of owing the defend an accounting of anything received is not a sufficient ground of defense as to the account between them from information available to it, was insufficient against the defense that the defendant forced him to sell a small portion of crop to maintain his livelihood because of a failure of the association to pay for bulk of crop under contract; and an order of the Superior Court judge dissolving the restraining order upon defendant's showing a tender of payment for plaintiff's protection was proper under the evidence in this case. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Blaund, 187 N. C. 356, 121 S. E. 636.

Same.—Justification for Breach. — A penalty in a small sum sued to recover it is not enough to justify an attempt to prevent a member by the tobacco marketing association, under its constitutional statute, and for the failure to market the tobacco of his non-member tenant, is not of sufficient proportionate importance to justify an attempt to prevent the member from selling his tobacco, only to the initial process and does not, and is not intended to withdraw from the courts their constitutional right to pass upon the question of continuing the injunction to the final hearing, nor to withdraw from their power to pass upon the validity of the contract made by the Tobacco Co-operative Marketing Association, formed under approved principles of law and equity. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Patterson, 187 N. C. 252, 121 S. E. 631.

Right of Court to Continue Injunction to Final Hearing.—The right given to injunctive relief against a member breaching his contract, upon filing the bond and verified complaint showing the breach or threatened breach, is limited only to the initial process and does not, and is not intended to withdraw from the courts their constitutional right to pass upon the question of continuing the injunction to the final hearing, and to withdraw from their power to pass upon the validity of the contract made by the Tobacco Co-operative Marketing Association, formed under approved principles of law and equity. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Patterson, 187 N. C. 252, 121 S. E. 631.

Right of Member to Mortgage Crop. —In Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Patterson, 187 N. C. 252, 121 S. E. 631, it was said: "It is true that a member may place a mortgage or crop lien on his crop for the current year for the purpose of enabling him to successfully cultivate and produce the same, the contract between plaintiffs and defendant clearly contemplates such a mortgage, and good policy requires that such a privilege should never be withdrawn."

The mortgagee or lien holder, for supplies furnished to produce the crop has a right to demand and receive of defendant, or to enforce delivery by any appropriate procedure, of a sufficient amount of the tobacco or other property incurred by defendant in his crop, which includes all supplies furnished, the same, the contract between plaintiffs and defendant clearly contemplates such a mortgage, and good policy requires that such a privilege should never be withdrawn."

In the event of any such breach or threat thereof will not be dissolved by reason of a defense set up by its member that the tobacco was the subject of a lien for supplies necessary for its cultivation. The restraining order at all times to be made a party of record, that authoritative and final disposition should be made of the matter. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Patterson, 187 N. C. 252, 121 S. E. 631.

Effect of Mortgage upon Injunction.—A preliminary order restraining a member of the co-operative association from disposing of his crop is subject to summary breach thereof will not be dissolved by reason of a defense set up by its member that the tobacco was the subject of a lien for supplies necessary for its cultivation. The restraining order at all times to be made a party of record, that authoritative and final disposition should be made of the matter. Tobacco Growers Co-Op. Ass'n v. Patterson, 187 N. C. 252, 121 S. E. 631.

Evasive Answer Respecting Breach.—In proceedings for injunctive relief by a co-operative marketing association wherein the plaintiff definitely alleges that the defendant had breached his contract and declares his purpose to dis-receives the tenant's crop as payment for rent, etc. He is liable for as much as he receives. Tobacco Growers Co-op. Ass'n v. Bissett, 187 N. C. 180, 121 S. E. 446.

Evasion of Contract for Fraud.—In order to avoid a written contract, which was made under this section, for fraud for misrepresentations of a party or his authorized agent, it must not only be shown that the statements complained of were false, but among other things that the party was at the time ignorant of their falsity, and was induced thereby to his damage, and he must show facts sufficient to make out a case of fraud with all the material elements required in such instances. Simpson v. Tobacco Growers Co-op. Ass'n, 180 N. C. 180, 121 S. E. 446.

In order to render void for fraud in its procurement a tobacco marketing contract made in conformity with the provisions of our statute, it is required that the member seeking to do so must introduce evidence of the fraud he relies on, as well as allege it. Tobacco Growers Co-op. Ass'n v. Chilton, 190 N. C. 603, 130 S. E. 312; Simpson v. Tobacco Growers Co-op. Ass'n, 190 N. C. 603, 130 S. E. 507.

Where one as agent for the Association falsely represents to a prospective member certain material advantages that induce him to sign the membership contract, without affording him, an illiterate man, an opportunity to become informed as to its contents, and he, within a reasonable time afterwards, is informed of this misrepresentation, and requests the agent to take his name off the books as a member, and the agent who is the agent of the Association who made the false representations were made were not upon an equality as to the facts, and the law will avoid the contract for the fraud. The cases in which the representations were made were not upon an equality as to the facts, and the law will avoid the contract for the fraud. The cases in which the representations were made were not upon an equality as to the facts, and the law will avoid the contract for the fraud.

§ 54-158. Contracts and agreements with other associations.—Any association may, upon resolution adopted by its board of directors, enter into all necessary and proper contracts and agreements, and make all necessary and proper stipulations, agreements and contracts and arrangements with any other cooperative corporation, association, or associations, formed in this or in any other state, for the cooperative and more economical carrying on of its business, or any part or parts thereof. Any two or more associations may by agreement between them, unite in employing and using or may separately employ and use the same methods, means, and agencies for carrying on and conducting their respective businesses.

§ 54-159. Breach of marketing contract of cooperative association; spreading false reports about the finances or management thereof; misdemeanor.—Any person or persons, or any corporation whose officers or employees knowingly induces or attempts to induce any member or stockholder of an association organized hereunder to breach his marketing contract with the association, or who maliciously and knowingly spreads false reports about the finances or management thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) and not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), for such offense and shall be liable to the association aggrieved in a civil suit in the penal sum of five hundred dollars ($500) for each such offense: Provided, that this section shall not apply to a bona fide creditor of any member or stockholder of such association, or the agents or attorney of any such bona fide creditor, endeavoring to make collection of the indebtedness.

§ 54-155. Interest in other corporations or associations. — An association may organize, form, operate, own, control, have interest in, own stock of, or be a member of any other corporation or corporations, or parts thereof, whether own stock or parts thereof, whether public or private, for the economical carrying on of its business, or any part or parts thereof. Any two or more associations may by agreement between them, unite in employing and using or may separately employ and use the same methods, means, and agencies for carrying on and conducting their respective businesses.

§ 54-156. Cooperative associations may form subsidiaries. —Nothing in this chapter shall prevent an association organizing, forming, operating, owning, controlling, having an interest in, owning stock of, or being a member of any other corporation (hereinafter referred to as a subsidiary corporation) from including or having included in the charter or by-laws of such subsidiary corporation provisions for the control or management of said subsidiary corporation by such association to such extent as shall be by votes of the board of directors of such association, and the majority of the stockholders of such subsidiary corporation, be declared to be for the best interests of said association and said subsidiary corporation respectively. Such provisions may be so included in any such charter or by-laws and may by way of Art. 1. Definitions.

§ 55-1. Definitions.—The following words and phrases where used in this chapter, unless differently defined or described, have the meanings and references stated below:

1. "Corporation" refers to a corporation which may be created and organized under this chapter, or under any other general or any special act.

2. "Certificate of incorporation" is the instrument filed by the incorporators and by which the corporation is formed.

3. The words "special act" refer to the act of the legislature enacted for the purpose of creating the corporation.

4. The word "charter" means either "certificate of incorporation" or "special act," together with all appropriate parts of this chapter and its amendments.

5. "Court," "superior court," or "judge of the superior court" means the judge of the superior court resident in the district or holding the courts of the district in which the corporation affected has its principal place of business.

6. "Receiver" as used in this chapter includes receivers and trustees appointed by the court, as herein provided. (Rev. ss. 1136, 1222, 1247; Code, s. 668; 1901, c. 9; ss. 7, 74, 111; C. S. 1113.)

Cross References.—As to constitutional provisions regarding corporations, see N. C. Constitution, Article VIII. As to the requirements of the certificate of incorporation, see § 55-3. As to jurisdiction of superior courts upon dissolution of a corporation, see § 55-154. As to receivers of corporations, see § 55-147 et seq.

In General.—A corporation, though very hard to define, has been said to be "an artificial being, invisible, intangible, and existing only in contemplation of law. Being the mere creature of law, it possesses only those properties which the charter of its creation confers upon it, either expressly or as incidental to its very existence. See the famous case of Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 4 Wheat, 518, 636, 4 L. Ed. 429.

It has been described as an "association of persons," contracting a joint capital for a common purpose, with assignable shares of property or stock; as it is briefly expressed, it is an act of incorporation, and an amendment thereto may be treated as part thereof. Humphrey v. Pegues, 16 Wall. 244, 21 L. Ed. 326.

Private, Public and Quasi Public Corporations.—Corporations are private, where the property of the corporation is private, although the corporation is engaged in a quasi public business, such as a railroad corporation, and the fact that the state owns a portion of its stock does not change its character; public and quasi public corporations, are corporations exercising a public employment, and having duties to the public to perform. E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. v. E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., 103 U. S. 1, 26 L. Ed. 359; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 54, 34, 10 L. Ed. 147.

A Charter Defined.—A charter, is an instrument or authority from the sovereign power, bestowing rights or privileges; as it is briefly expressed, it is an act of incorporation, and an amendment thereto may be treated as part thereof. Humphrey v. Pegues, 16 Wall. 244, 21 L. Ed. 326.

Art. 2. Formation.

§ 55-2. How created.—Three or more persons who desire to engage in any business, or to form any company, society, or association, not unlawful, except railroads other than street railways, or banking or insurance, or building and loan associations, may be incorporated in the following manner only (except corporations created for charitable, educational or reformatory purposes that are to be and remain under the patronage and control of the state): Such persons shall, by a certificate of incorporation, under their hands and seals, set forth—

Strict Construction. — The requirements of this section should be strictly construed. Hill v. Lumber Co., 113 N. C. 123, 188, 18 S. E. 127.

Position of Corporators and Promoters. — The promoters of a corporation are held to the duties of trustees and the obligation of directors. They may not take a secret or undisclosed profit in the organization by way of shares therein or otherwise. Goodman v. White, 174 N. C. 399, 93 S. E. 906.

When Powers Granted by Special Act.—When corporate powers are granted by a special, instead of a general act of the Legislature, there must be evidence of acceptance by the corporators and compliance with all the conditions precedent prescribed by law, in order to show affirmatively that the corporation is lawfully organized. McMullan v. Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 52, 55, 68 S. E. 936.

1. The name of the corporation. No name can be assumed which is already in use by (a) a domestic corporation, or (b) a foreign corporation or his or its assigns, may be permitted to use the name same name, or one similar thereto, of the corporation whose good will it has purchased. The prohibition of this paragraph shall extend to names so nearly resembling or deceptively similar to such existing corporate names as may be likely to mislead or deceive the public or tend to confusion of identity. The name adopted must end with the word "company," "corporation," "incorporated" or the abbreviation "inc.," and will not be accepted for filing unless approved by the secretary of state.

Cross References.—As to necessity of displaying the name of the corporation, see § 55-37. As to use of the word "trust" in a name, see §§ 53-127 and 55-12. As to use of the term "building and loan association" in a name, see § 54-112. As to use of the word "land and loan association," see § 54-45. As to use of the term "credit union," see § 54-90. As to restriction of use of name "mellonal" as a part of a corporate name, see § 54-112. As to limitation of use of term "corporative," see § 54-139.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1935 amendment this subdivision read as follows: "No name can be assumed already in use by another domestic corporation, or so similar as to create uncertainty or confusion, and the name adopted must end with the word 'company,' 'corporation' or 'incorporated.'" The 1939 amendment added the requirement as to approval by secretary of state, and substituted the part of the third sentence after the word "so" for the words "similar in sound or appearance to such existing corporate names as may be likely to mislead or cause uncertainty or confusion, the name adopted must end with the word 'company,' 'corporation' or 'incorporated.'"

Right to Name.—One corporation cannot prevent another from using in its corporate title a name to which others have a common right. Howe Scale Co. v. Wyckoff, 198 U. S. 118, 25 S. Ct. 609, 47 L. Ed. 972.

And in the absence of contract, fraud or estoppel, any man may use his own name, in all legitimate ways, and as the whole or a part of a corporate name. Id.

2. The location of its principal office in the state.

Cross Reference.—As to change in principal office, see § 55-34.

3. The object or objects for which the corporation is to be formed.

Corporation Limited to Objects Stated.—A charter of incorporation creating a company for the purpose of effecting a communication by a blank road between designated points, with its trackage, rolling stock, and apportioning tolls to the company to establish a stage line upon their road, nor to contract for carrying the United States mail. Wiswall v. General R. R. Co., 56 N. C. 183.

Need Not Use All Powers.—The fact that a corporation avails itself of only one of several privileges granted by its charter—that is, manufacture all the products it is permitted, may be said to limit its powers, directors and stockholders, or any class or classes of the latter. (Rev. 1137; Code, s. 677; 1885, cc. 19, 190; 1899, c. 170; 1891, c. 257; 1893, cc. 344, 318; 1897, c. 204; 1899, c. 618; 1901, c. 2, s. 8, cc. 6, 41, 47, 1903, c. 403, 1911, c. 213, s. 1; 1913, c. 5, s. 1; Const., Art. 8, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 55; 1924, c. 98; 1935, c. 166, 320; 1939, c. 222; C. S. 1114.)

Cross References.—As to the constitutional power of the Legislature to form corporations, see N. C. Constitution, art. VIII, c. 204; as to legislature's power to amend chapter and charters of corporations, see § 55-36. As to the requirements for incorporating banks, see § 53-2 et seq. As to the establishment of railroads, see § 59-6 et seq. As to corporations engaged in mining and manufacturing building and loan associations, see § 54-2; land and loan associations, see §§ 54-46 of credit unions, see §§ 54-76 et seq.; cooperative associations, see §§ 511 et seq.; marketing associations, see §§ 514 et seq.; hospital service corporations, see §§ 57-2.

Under Dual Incorporation.—Where a corporation is incorporated under the laws of two states, all its powers in relation to land lying in one of them must be derived from the law of that state alone. Betsy v. Knowler, 4 Pet. 152, 167, 7 L. Ed. 253.

Liabilities. — A corporation cannot absolve itself from the performance of its obligations, without the consent of the legislature, and courts will not allow corporations to escape from them. See § 55-7. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Winans, 17 How. 30, 40, 15 L. Ed. 27.

§ 55-3. Requirements as to certificate of incorporation.—The certificate of incorporation shall be signed by the original stock subscribers, or a majority of them, and must be acknowledged before an officer duly authorized under the laws of this state to take the proof or acknowledgment of deeds. The certificate shall then be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and there remain on record, and he shall, if it is in accordance with law, cause it to be recorded in his office in a book to be kept for that purpose and known as the Corporation Book. Upon the payment of the organization tax and fees, the secretary of state shall certify under his official seal a copy of the certificate of incorporation and probates, which certified copy shall be forthwith recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the principal office of the corporation in this state is, or is to be, established, in a book to be known as the Record of Incorporations. The certificate, or a copy thereof, duly certified by the secretary of state, or by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which it is recorded, is evidence in all courts and places, and in all proceedings, of incorporation of the corporation purporting thereby to have been established. (Rev., s. 1139; Code, ss. 678, 679, 682; 1901, c. 2, s. 9; 1903, c. 343; C. S. 1115.)

Record of Incorporations Admissible in Evidence.—Under the former wording of this section which provided that the incorporation or copies duly certified by the clerk should be admissible in evidence, the record of Incorporation's book was also admissible as prima facie evidence of the complete incorporation and organization of the corporation purporting thereby to have been established. (Rev., s. 1139; Code, ss. 678, 679, 682; 1901, c. 2, s. 9; 1903, c. 343; C. S. 1115.)

Cross References.—As to taxes for filing the certificate, see § 55-158. As to amending the certificate, see §§ 55-30 and 55-31. As to the effect of errors or omissions in the certificate, see § 55-76. As to fees for recording, see § 55-159.

Proof of Existence—By Reputation.—The existence of a corporation may be proved by reputation. Gulf States Steel Co. v. Ford, 171 N. C. 157, 91 S. E. 84. Existence or nonexistence is a fact and may be proved as other facts. Id.

Same—By Written Contract.—Where a written contract entered into between the parties furnishes evidence that the defendant was dealing with the plaintiff as a corporation, and the plaintiff's existence as a corporation is denied, the contract may properly be introduced upon this disputed fact. Otis Elevator Co. v. Cape Fear Hotel Co., 172 N. C. 319, 90 S. E. 253.

Same—Copies Prima Facie Evidence. — Copies of letters of incorporation or copies duly certified by the clerk to show prima facie the existence of a corporation, and it cannot avoid its liability for debts because in fact it had but an inchoate existence. Marshall v. Macon County Bank, 108 N. C. 639, 13 S. E. 182.

§ 55-4. When incorporators become corporation.—From the date the certificate of incorporation is filed in the office of the secretary of state, the stock subscribers, their successors and assigns, are a body corporate by the name specified in the certificate, subject to amendment and dissolution as provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 1140; 1901, c. 2, s. 10; C. S. 1116.)

Cross Reference.—As to when a building and loan association becomes a body corporate, see § 54-56; a co-operative association, see § 54-114; a credit union, see § 54-78; a bank, see § 53-5.

Signing and Recording Articles Sufficient. — When corporation powers are sought to be exercised, there must be evidence of the acceptance by the corporators of the privileges conferred and compliance with all conditions precedent prescribed by law in order to show affirmatively that the corporation has been formed. Bow v. Cook, 115 N. C. 324, 325, 20 S. E. 453.

No Requirement for Stock Issue. — There is no requirement of the statute that the stock should be issued or paid up before a valid organization can be effected or corporate action taken. Fayetteville Street Rly. v. Aberdeen R. R., 142 N. C. 423, 454, 59 S. E. 455.

Adoption of By-Laws Not Necessary.—By signing and recording the articles of incorporation three or more persons become a body corporate and it is not necessary for a corporation de jure by the act of the corporators to adopt by-laws. Powell Brothers v. McMillan Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 52, 68 S. E. 936.

Date Corporation Begins to Do Business.—While incorporators become a body corporate from the date the certificate of incorporation is filed in the office of the secretary of state, there is no presumption that the corporation is organized and able to transact business with the common consent from which it begins to do business as a corporation being a question of fact to be proved as any other fact. Hamilton v. Wright, 174 N. C. 425, 43 R. 749.

De Jure and De Facto Existence. — A corporation de jure is said to exist when persons holding a charter have made substantial compliance with the provisions of the same, looking to its proper organization, while a corporation de facto is one where the parties having a charter or law authorizing it have in good faith made a colorable compliance with such requirements, and have proceeded in the exercise of corporate powers as if they were a part of them. Wood v. Staton, 174 N. C. 245, 93 S. E. 794.

If the corporation has acted as such and exercised its franchises, then it is a corporation de facto, and in such case any irregularities in its organization is immaterial. Whinney v. Wyman, 101 U. S. 392, 395, 25 L. Ed. 1030.

Same—Distinctions. — So far as the State is concerned, the existence of a corporation de jure and a corporation de facto is that the former, having made substantial compliance with the charter requirements looking to the proper organization, can successfully resist the suit instituted by the State or its officers for the direct purpose of annulling the charter, while the latter cannot; but as to private persons holding claims against them, the individual corporators, in either case, are not personally liable, and a corporation de facto is immaterial. Same—Cases.Certain—Cases of incorporators may be held liable for the corporation's obligations. Boushall v. Myatt, 167 N. C. 431, 54 S. E. 852. Each of the stock corporations that the one so formed shall issue certificates of stock or adopt by-laws. Powell Brothers v. McMillan Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 52, 68 S. E. 936.

§ 55-5. Incorporators act until directors elected. — Until directors are elected the signers of the certificate of incorporation shall have the direction of the affairs of the corporation, and may take proper steps to obtain the necessary subscription to stock and to perfect the organization of the corporation. (Rev., s. 1141; 1901, c. 2, s. 11; C. S. 1117.)

Subscribers May Release Member. — Under this section the management of a corporation, before the first directors are elected, vests entirely in the subscribers, and, before the rights of creditors have been supervised, the subscribers or stockholders may, by the consent of the board of directors and within the limits of the charter, release one from his subscription to the stock. Boushall v. Myatt, 167 N. C. 338, 83 S. E. 352.

§ 55-6. First meeting; notice.—The first meeting of every corporation shall be called by a notice, signed by a majority of the incorporators, designating the time, place, and purpose of the meeting, which notice shall be published at least two weeks before the meeting, in a newspaper of the county where the corporation is established; or the meeting may be called without publication,

Death of incorporators; vacancy filled. — When one or more of the incorporators of any corporation die before the corporation has been organized pursuant to law, the survivor or survivors may, in writing, designate others who may take the place and act instead of the deceased, in the organization; and the organization so effected by their aid is as effectual in law as if it had been effected by all the original incorporators. (Rev., s. 1140; 1901, c. 2, s. 18; C. S. 1118.)

Cross References. — As to stockholders’ meetings generally, see § 55-105. As to meeting called by three stockholders, see § 55-106.

Notice of Meeting. — The strict requirements as to notice, being intended to protect stockholders, may be waived by them, and when they do waive it, the meeting and all proceedings are as valid as they would be had the full statutory notice been given. Ben. v. Cook, 115 N. C. 324, 325, 330, 20 S. E. 453.

Meeting outside of State. — Though the first meeting of stockholders may have been held outside of the State, that fact cannot be shown by the body assuming the powers of a corporation in order to avoid its liability, nor by its debtors for the purpose of evading their accountability under contracts made with it, but the State only can set up that fact. Tuckasegee Mining Co. v. Goodhue, 118 N. C. 981, 985, 24 S. E. 797.

§ 55-8. Errors or omissions in certificate of incorporation. — Whenever in the certificate of incorporation under any general law there is an error or omission in the recital of the act under which the corporation is created or in the statement of error or omission required to be stated therein, it is lawful for the corporation to correct the error or supply the omission in the following manner: The board of directors shall pass a resolution declaring that the error or omission exists and that the corporation desires to correct it, and shall call a meeting of the stockholders to take action upon the resolution. The stockholders’ meeting shall be held upon such notice as the by-laws provide, and in the absence of such provision, upon ten days notice, given personally or by mail. If two-thirds in interest of all the stockholders vote in favor of the correction of the error or omission, a certificate of their action shall be made and signed by the president and secretary under the corporate seal; which certificate shall be acknowledged as in the case of deeds of real estate, and, together with the written consent in person or by proxy of two-thirds in interest of all the stockholders of the corporation, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. Upon the filing thereof, in conformity with this section, the certificate of incorporation has the same force and effect as if it had been originally drafted in conformity with the amendment so made. (Rev., s. 1141; 1901, c. 2, s. 96; C. S. 1119.)

Cross References. — As to amendments generally, see §§ 55-51 et seq. As to amendments before payment of stock, see §§ 55-30.

§ 55-9. Street railways. — Corporations may be organized under the provisions of this chapter for the purpose of building, maintaining or operating street railways. The term street railways, wherever used in this chapter, includes railways operated either by steam or electricity, or other motive power, used and operated as means of communication between different points in the same municipality, or between points in municipalities lying adjacent or near to each other, or between the municipality in which is the home office of the company and the territory contiguous thereto, and such railways may carry and deliver freights. No such railway may operate a line extending in any direction more than one hundred miles from the municipality in which is located its home office, or in any city or town without the consent of the municipal authorities thereof. (Rev., s. 1138; 1901, c. 6, 41; 1903, c. 350; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 70, s. 1; C. S. 1121.)

§ 55-11. Public parks and drives. — Three or more persons may be incorporated under this chapter for the purpose of creating and maintaining public parks and drives. It is not necessary, however, to set forth in the certificate of incorporation of any corporation created for such purpose the amount of authorized capital stock, the number of shares into which the same is divided, the par value of such stock, or the amount of capital stock with which it will commence business. Any corporation created hereunder shall have full power and authority to lay out, manage, and control parks and drives within the state, under such rules, laws, and regulations as the corporation may prescribe, and shall have power to purchase and hold property and take gifts or donations for such purpose. It may hold property and exercise such powers and trust for any town, city, township, or county, in connection with which said parks and drives shall be maintained. Any corporation, city, town, or county, holding such property, may vest and transfer the same to any such corporation for the purpose of controlling and maintaining the same as public parks and drives under such regulations and subject to such conditions as may be determined upon by such city, town, township, or county. Such corporation may adopt through its board of directors; and it may hold property and exercise such powers and trust for any town, city, township, or county, in connection with which said parks and drives shall be maintained. Any city, town, township, or county, holding such property, may vest and transfer the same to any such corporation for the purpose of controlling and maintaining the same as public parks and drives. All such lands as the corporation may acquire in order to avoid its liability, nor by its debtors for the purpose of evading their accountability under contracts made with it, but the State only can set up that fact. Tuckasegee Mining Co. v. Goodhue, 118 N. C. 981, 985, 24 S. E. 797.

§ 55-13: Certain religious, etc., associations deemed incorporated. — In all cases where a religious, educational or charitable association has been formed prior to January first, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, and has since said
§§ 55-14 to 55-25: Transferred to §§ 115-383 to 115-394.
Editor's Note.—Acts 1943, c. 543, transferred these sections to chapter 115 to follow immediately after § 115-382 and directed that they be appropriately renumbered.

Art. 4. Powers and Restrictions.
§ 55-26. Express powers.—Every corporation has power—
1. To have succession, by its corporate name, for the period limited in its charter, and when the charter contains no time limit, for a period of sixty years.
2. To sue and be sued in any court.
3. To make, use, and alter a common seal.
4. To purchase, acquire by devise or bequest, hold and convey real and personal property in or out of the state, and to mortgage the same and its franchises.
5. To elect and appoint, in such manner as it determines to be proper, all necessary officers and agents, fix their compensation, and define their duties and obligations. And when there devolves upon an officer or agent of a corporation such duties and responsibilities that a financial loss would result to the corporation from the death and consequent loss of the services of such officer or agent, the corporation has an insurable interest in, and the power to insure the life of, the officer or agent, for its benefit and in all cases where a religious, educational, or charitable corporation or institution shall be, or has been, named as beneficiary in any policy of life insurance by a friend, student, former student or any person who for any reason is loyal to such corporation or institution and has himself or herself paid the premiums on said policy, then such corporation or institution shall be deemed to have an insurable interest in the life of such person.
6. To conduct business in this state, other states, the District of Columbia, the territories, and in foreign countries, and keep offices in or out of the state.
7. To make by-laws and regulations, consistent with its charter and the laws of the state, for its own government, and for the due and orderly conduct of its affairs and management of its property.
8. To wind up and dissolve itself, or be wound up and dissolved, in the manner hereafter mentioned.
9. To sell, transfer and convey any part of its corporate property in the course of its regular business.
10. To sell, transfer and convey any part of its corporate real or personal property when authorized so to do by its board of directors.
11. To sell, transfer and convey all of its corporate property when authorized so to do by its board of directors and approved by a two-thirds vote of the stock entitled to vote at any stockholders meeting, notice of which contains notice of the proposed sale: Provided, paragraph nine, and eleven of this section shall not be construed as authorizing a voluntary corporation to sell or convey all of its property otherwise than under the terms prescribed in its charter, or as authorizing the sale of stock in bulk, in violation of the Bulk Sales Law. (Rev. c. 1128; Code, ss. 663, 666, 691, 692, 693; 1839, c. 159; 1901, c. 2. s. 1; 1909, c. 507, s. 1; 1925, c. 235; 1929, c. 298; 1929, c. 269; 1939, c. 279; C. S. 1126.)

I. EDITOR’S NOTE.
Previous to 1925 this section enumerated 8 general powers. By chapter 235, Laws 1925 paragraph 9 containing an additional power with several provisos was added, and the 1929 amendment added another proviso thereto. The 1939 amendment struck out such paragraph as amended and inserted the present paragraphs 9, 10 and 11 in lieu thereof. See discussion of former paragraph 9 in 3 N. C. Law Rev. 137.

II. SUITS BY AND AGAINST CORPORATIONS.
Must Be in Corporate Name.—A suit against a corporation must be brought in its corporate name, and not against its officers or agents. Young v. Barden, 90 N. C. 424; Britain v. Newland, 19 N. C. 363. However, in case of insolvency, where a receiver has been appointed, he may sue in his own name or in that of the corporation. Smathers v. Bank, 115 N. C. 410, 413, 47 S. E. 893; Davis v. Mfg. Co., 114 N. C. 321, 19 S. E. 371.

Mislabeled Immaterial.—A misnomer does not vitiate, provided the identity of the corporation with that intended is obvious. The fact that an action is brought as deeded, Asheville Division v. Astor, 92 N. C. 579, 584, or in a judgment, or in a criminal proceeding, McCrea v. Starr, 5 N. C. 352.

Suits by Governmental Agencies.—The general authority to sue and be sued conferred on corporations by this section, has reference only to private and quasi public corporations, and not to corporations like the state prison, which are merely governmental agencies. As to these the authority to sue must be expressly given. Moody v. State’s Prison, 128 N. C. 12, 13, 38 S. E. 131.

Same—State Highway Commission.—This section giving corporations the right to sue and be sued, does not apply to the State Highway Commission, a governmental agency of the State, but only to private and quasi-private corporations. Carpenter v. Atlantic, etc., Ry., Co., 184 N. C. 414, 114 S. E. 693.

Suits against Cities and Towns. — As to cities and towns, their officers, and their agents, they are "broader authority" to "take, and be sued," it is equally well settled that this suability does not create any liability for damages caused by the torts of their officers and agents when acting in a governmental capacity, so-called "municipal corporations" to which acts and omissions should be referred; C. 146, 37 S. E. 187, and numerous cases there cited. Moody v. State's Prison, 128 N. C. 12, 13, 16, 38 S. E. 131.

Suits against Counties. — As to counties, we have an unbroken series of cases where the act was used or was ministerially done; in such cases and for such causes of action as are authorized by statute, and such cases do not embrace liabilities for negligence, the court will not infer the adoption of the corporate seal for that purpose. Bailey v. Hassell, 184 N. C. 169, 170, 173, 174, 115 S. E. 597, 601, 608. The simple word "seal," with a scroll adopted as the seal of the corporation engaged in the operation of a cotton mill had no such authority or power as was intended by the legislature, in Suits against Cities and Towns, at regular meetings of the corporation, confer that power upon the directors.

LIABILITY FOR Slander. — A corporation may be held liable for slander when the defamatory words are uttered by express authority of the company or by one of its officers or agents in the course of his employment, and authority for their utterance is found in any of the charters, by-laws, when consistent with its charter, determines by vote of the majority of shares or amount of interest be re- moved to, and to alter or renew the same at will is frequently con- sidered relevant and sufficient circumstances. Cotton v. Fisher Products Co., 177 N. C. 56, 97 S. E. 712. Cited in Independence Trust Co. v. Keesler, 206 N. C. 12, 16, 171 S. E. 533.

III. THE COMMON SEAL.

An Inherent Power. — The power to have a common seal and to alter or renew the same at will is frequently conferred on corporations by statute, but such a power is one of the "obligations" imposed by the charter of incorporation when not expressly conferred 14 C. J. § 404, p. 334. Bailey v. Hassell, 184 N. C. 450, 454, 115 S. E. 166, 168.

Any Device May Be Used. — While it is required for the sufficiency of the deed of a corporation to convey its lands that the corporate seal should be affixed to the instrument, any device used for the corporate seal will be sufficient, provided it is impressed in good faith upon the deed or by the corporation, and had been adopted by proper action of the corporation for that purpose. Bailey v. Hassell, 184 N. C. 450, 115 S. E. 166.

The simple word "seal," with a scroll adopted as the seal of a corporation and used by it on a deed to its lands according to resolutions of the stockholders and directors thereof at separate meetings held for the purpose, when all were present, is sufficient. Bailey v. Hassell, 184 N. C. 459, 115 S. E. 166.

IV. RIGHTS AS TO PROPERTY.

Corporation Not Stockholders Own Property. — The property of a corporation belongs to it, and not to the stockholders. They can have an interest in such property through their shares in the corporation, and in no other way. The state is like any other stockholder. Marshall v. Western N. C. Railroad Co., 92 N. C. 322.

Same. — Where a State is a stockholder. — Where the state is a stockholder in a railroad company, it is bound by the provisions of the charter in the same manner as an individual. It has no advantage as a stockholder on account of its sovereignty, for, by becoming such, it lays aside its character as a sovereign and places itself on a footing of equality with the individual stockholders. Marshall v. Western N. C. Railroad Co., 92 N. C. 322.

May a Corporation Exist for a Certain Number of Years? — Although the existence of a corporation be limited to a certain number of years, yet it is capable of holding estates in fee. Asheville Division v. Aston, 92 N. C. 578, 579.

Same. — Effect of Suspension upon Suspension of Business. — A corporation, chartered for the purpose of promoting temperance, does not forfeit real estate which it has purchased because it ceases to pursue the objects for which it was incorporated. Andrews v. Asheville Division v. Aston, 92 N. C. 578, 579.

Adverse Possession. — A corporation may acquire land by adverse possession when the corporation, by showing sufficient adverse possession for the statutory period, Cross v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 172 N. C. 119, 95 S. E. 14.

Ejectment and Trespass Will Lie. — Corporations, in contemplation of the law, are capable of having actual possession of real estate for all purposes, even when supposed to the contrary in the distant past, it is now settled that the actions of ejectment and trespass lie against them. Young v. Barden, 95 N. C. 424, 425.

Same. — Quasi Public Corporation. — A strictly private corporation can lawfully sell any of its property, real or personal, just as an individual can, but such is not the case with corporations which are quasi public and have duties to perform in which the public is interested. Barcello v. Hadgood, 118 N. C. 712, 713, 24 S. E. 124.

Same. — Same. — Same. — Any quasi public corporation cannot be authorized for the purpose of mining and milling ores has the right, by implication of law, to buy and sell real estate essential to the successful prosecution of its business. Barcello v. Hadgood, 118 N. C. 712, 713, 24 S. E. 124.

Right to Dispose of Franchise. — The franchise or the right of being a corporation, unlike the property and powers and privileges of a governmental corporation, is not transferred to another corporation without express authority and provision therefor, pointing out how it may be effected. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Delamore, 114 U. S. 501, 508, 5 S. Ct. 1099, 29 L. Ed. 244. As to public corporations, cannot, without the consent of the legislature, transfer its franchise to another corporation, and abnegate the performance of its duties to the public, imposed upon it by its charter or for the consideration for the grant of it or of the connection with the company. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 49, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. Ed. 55.

Right to Mortgage Property. — Corporations other than railroad companies have a general power to mortgage their property, and to acquire and hold lands and buildings in such manner as to them is best suited. In the charter, the right to mortgage being a natural result of the right to incur an indebtedness. Antietam Paper Co. v. Chronicle Pub. Co., 182 N. C. 1341, 1342, 1343, 19 S. E. 558.

Right to Mortgage Franchise. — Power of Sale. — The power given to mortgage the franchises of the corporation must necessarily include the power to bring it to sale with the power to make the sale effectual as a means of transferring the property. The right of the corporation to mortgage is too well settled to require citation of authority. Wicksburg Waterworks Co., 202 U. S. 453, 464, 26 S. Ct. 600, 10 L. Ed. 1102.

Where Powers Exceeded. — Where a corporation takes a conveyance of lands for use beyond its charter powers, the deed is not void, but only voidable upon the objection of the State. Cross v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 172 N. C. 119, 95 S. E. 144.

V. THE OFFICERS; CONDUCTING BUSINESS; BY-LAWS AND DISSOLUTION.

Power to Insure Life of Officer. — A manufacturing corporation engaged in the operation of a cotton mill had no implied power to insure the life of its president, at least under the provisions of the charter. Garrett v. Bear, 144 N. C. 23, 25, 56 S. E. 479; Ex Parte Schollenberger, 96 U. S. 369, 377, 24 L. Ed. 853, Waite, C. J.

§ 55-27. By-laws. — A corporation may, by its by-laws, when consistent with its charter, determine the manner of calling and conducting all meetings; the number of members that constitute a quorum, and if the quorum is not so determined by the corporation, a majority in interest of the stockholders, represented either in person or by proxy, constitutes a quorum; the number of shares that will entitle the members to one or more votes; the mode of voting by proxy; the mode of selling shares for the nonpayment of assessments; the tenure of office of the several officers, and all matters connected with the management of the business. Any of the offices shall be filled by election by the directors.
By-laws made by the directors under power so conferred may be altered or repealed by the stockholders. (Rev. ss. 1145, 1146; Code, s. 664; 1901, c. 2, ss. 12, 13; C. S. 1127.)

Cross References.—As to power to make by-laws, see § 55-26, paragraph 7. As to by-laws of insurance companies, see § 58-72. As to by-laws of building and loan associations, see § 54-2; of a land and loan association, see § 54-52; of a credit union, see § 54-77; of a cooperative association, see § 54-116; of a marketing association, see § 54-136. As to power to determine, by by-law, the number of shares a stockholder must hold to qualify as director, see § 55-48.

Extension of Limits by By-Laws Act. The principle by which a shareholder in a corporation is bound by a corporate resolution, regularly passed pursuant to its charter, is only by reason of its by-laws, and not of the charters. Power to determine, by by-law, the status and rights as a shareholder and not where he deals independently with it as one of its customers in the line of its business. Cardwell v. Garrison, 179 N. C. 476, 103 S. E. 124.

By-Law to Sell Defaulting Subscriber's Stock. — Under this section a corporation is empowered to provide by its by-laws for the sale of shares of a subscriber who makes default in paying the assessments. Elizabeth City Cotton Mills v. Dunstan, 121 N. C. 12, 27 S. E. 1901.

Strangers Must Have Notice. — The by-laws of the corporation are not evidence for it against strangers who deal with it, unless brought home to their knowledge and assented to by them. Smith v. N. C. R. R. Co., 68 N. C. 107.

§ 55-28. Implied powers.—In addition to the powers enumerated in §§ 55-26 and 55-27 and the powers specified in its charter, every corporation, its officers, directors and stockholders, possess all the powers and privileges contained in this chapter so far as they are necessary or convenient to the attainment of the objects set forth in such charter, and shall be governed by the provisions of this chapter so far as they are applicable to and not inconsistent with such charter; and no corporation may possess or exercise any other corporate powers, except such incidental powers as are necessary to the exercise of the powers so given. Nothing in this chapter shall authorize or empower corporations organized under this chapter to lease, operate, maintain, manage or control any railroad except street railways. (Rev., s. 1174; 1901; c. 6; C. S. 1128.)

Cross References.—As to powers of street railways, see §§ 55-9. As to power of the legislature to amend or repeal corporate charters, see § 55-35.

In General. — Corporations possess by legal implication such powers as are essential to the exercise of the powers expressly conferred and necessary to attain the main objects for which they were formed. Barcello v. Hapgood, 118 N. C. 712, 713, 24 S. E. 124.

Charter Subsequent to General Law Prevails. — Where a charter was granted to a corporation after the passage of a general law and the charter confers powers conflicting with the general law, then by this section the provisions of the charter shall prevail over the ultra vires Power Co. v. Power Co., 171 N. C. 248, 256, 88 S. E. 349.

Ultra Vires Acts. — It is true, as held by numerous courts, including our own, that the doctrine of ultra vires has been very much modified in recent years, and many contracts made in the course of business, especially when executed and benefits are received or liabilities are incurred, will be upheld and enforced which were formerly declared ultra vires. Chen v. Bank, 125 N. C. 57, 38 S. E. 253; Womack Fr. Corp. 142.

Same.—State May Bring Action. — This modification of the doctrine does not confer the right in an appropriate case, of the State to enjoin a threatened transaction, Victor v. Louise Cotton Mills, 148 N. C. 107, 61 S. E. 648, 650.

Same.—Stockholder May Bring Action. — If the act of the corporation be ultra vires, any one or more stockholders may by some appropriate method call it in question and, unless by having consented to or acquiesced in it he is barred, have relief. Victor v. Louise Cotton Mills, 148 N. C. 107, 110, 61 S. E. 648; Littler v. Fayetteville, 149 N. C. 65, 62 S. E. 738.

Same.—Law Governing. — When the question of ultra vires arises, the validity of a corporate contract is to be determined by the lex loci contractus, not the lex fori. Eastern Building, etc., Ass’n v. Bbaugh, 185 U. S. 114, 121, 22 S. Ct. 566, 46 L. Ed. 830.

Conclusion of Law. — The question of whether acts are ultra vires a corporation is a conclusion of law from the facts stated. Spencer v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 107, 117, 49 S. E. 96.

§ 55-29. Banking powers not conferred by this chapter.—No corporation created under the provisions of this chapter shall have the power to carry on the business of discounting bills, notes or other evidences of debt, of receiving deposits of money, of buying gold or silver bullion or foreign coins, of buying and selling bills of exchange, or of issuing bills, notes or other evidences of debt, upon loan, or for circulation as money; but in the transaction of its business it may make and take in and dispose of bank notes, and may make any other such banking powers as it may need or deem necessary. Cardwell v. Garrison, 179 N. C. 476, 103 S. E. 124.

Cross References.—As to banks and banking in general, see Chapter 53.

§ 55-30. Amendments before payment of stock. —The incorporators of a corporation, before the payment of any part of its capital, may file with the secretary of state an amended certificate of incorporation, duly signed and acknowledged by the incorporators named in the original certificate, changing the original certificate of incorporation, in whole or in part, which amended certificate takes the place of the original one, and when recorded in the proper county is deemed to have been filed and recorded on the date of filing and recording the original certificate. The officers are entitled to the same fees for filing and recording the amended certificate of incorporation as if it were original; but there shall be charged no additional organization tax, except when the certificate is amended by increasing the capital stock, in which event such tax shall be paid upon the increase. (Rev., s. 1174; 1901, c. 2, s. 38; C. S. 1128.)

Cross References.—As to the original certificate of incorporation, see § 55-3. As to taxes for filing, see § 55-158.

Subscriber Released. — Any fundamental change in the charter of a corporation relieves a non-assenting subscriber from liability upon his stock. Bank v. City, 85 N. C. 433.

§ 55-31. Amendments, generally.—A corporation, whether organized under a special act or general laws, and which might now be created under the provisions of this chapter, may, in the manner set out below—

1. Change the nature or relinquish one or more branches of its business, or extend its business to such other branches as might have been inserted in its original certificate of incorporation.

2. Change its name.

3. Extend its corporate existence.

4. Increase or decrease its capital stock.

5. Change the par value of the shares of its capital stock.

6. Create one or more classes of preferred stock.

7. Make any other desired amendment. In all cases the certificate of amendment can contain only such provisions as could be lawfully and properly inserted in an original certificate of incorporation filed at the time of making the amendment.

The board of directors shall pass a resolution declaring that the amendment is advisable, and call a meeting of the stockholders to take action thereon; the meeting shall be held upon such notice as the by-laws provide, and in the absence of such notice, upon ten days notice, given personally or by mail; if the holders of a majority of the shares of stock with voting powers vote in favor of the amendment, a certificate thereof shall be signed by the president and secretary, under the corporate seal, acknowledged as in the case of deeds to real estate, and this certificate, together with the written assent, in person or by proxy, of said stockholders, shall be filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state. Upon such filing the secretary of state shall issue a certified copy thereof, which shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the original certificate of incorporation is recorded, and thereupon the certificate of incorporation is amended accordingly. The certificate of the secretary of state, under his official seal, that such certificate of amendment and assent have been filed in his office, is evidence of the amendment in all courts and places.

A corporation which cannot now be created under the provisions of this chapter may, except as otherwise provided by law, in like manner increase or decrease its capital stock, or change its name, or extend its corporate existence: Provided, that before the Secretary of State shall issue a certificate of such amendment to any corporation possessing powers, franchises, privileges, or immunities, which could not be obtained under this chapter, he shall forthwith transmit to the Commissioner of Banks or the Utilities Commission, as the case may be, a copy of said certificate and shall not issue or record the same until duly authorized so to do by the Commissioner of Banks or the Utilities Commission, as the case may be, as provided for the issuing of certificates of incorporation of banks in the chapter entitled, 'Banks', provided that nothing herein shall be construed to require the increase of the capital stock of a bank renewing its charter over the capital of such bank at the time such renewal is applied for.

Any corporation organized on or after March 4, 1925, may insert a provision in its charter that the corporation has continued to act and do business as a corporation or organization of the State of North Carolina whose period of existence fixed in its charter has expired and of which corporation has hereafter be created by amendment of the charter or otherwise entitled to dividends or shares in distribution of assets in priority to any class of preferred stock already outstanding or stock not with the consent of the holders of record of two-thirds (or such greater amount as may be specified in the charter) of the number of shares of such outstanding preferred stock having voting powers: Provided, that the provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to banks and building and loan associations. (Rev., ss. 1175, 1178; 1893, c. 380; 1899, c. 618; 1901, c. 2, ss. 29, 30, 37; 1903, c. 516; 1925, c. 118, ss. 1, 24; 1927, c. 142; 1931, c. 243, ss. 4, 5, 1933, c. 134, ss. 7, 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 1913.)

Cross References.—As to amendments by charitable, educational, penal, or reformatory corporations, see § 55-33. As to amendment of certificate of incorporation of building and loan association, see § 54-4.

§ 55-32. Indissolvent omission to file amendment extending corporate existence.—Any private corporation chartered under the general laws of the State of North Carolina whose period of existence fixed in its charter has expired and which corporation has continued to act and do business as a corporation, but has through inadvertence, omitted to file an amendment extending the period of its corporate existence, may at any time after the expiration of the period of corporate existence set forth in its original charter, file an amended certificate in the office of the Secretary of State as provided by § 55-31 to extend or renew its corporate existence, as provided for in the amended certificate; provided, this section shall not serve to impair the validity of any contract or vested right in existence at the time of the filing of said amended charter. All acts of such a corporation, purporting to be the acts of the corporation, done or performed after the expiration of its period of existence and before the amendment to its charter, shall be legal and valid as the acts and deeds of said corporation. (1929, c. 271; 1935, c. 6.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1935 this section contained a seven-year limitation after the expiration of the original period in which an amended certificate should be filed. This provision was omitted.

§ 55-33. Amendments by charitable, educational, penal, reformatory, etc., corporations.—A charitable, educational, social, ancestral, historical, penal, or reformatory corporation not under the patronage or control of the state, and any corporation, without capital stock, organized for the purpose of aiding in the work of any church, religious society or organization, or fraternal order whether organized under a special act or general laws, may change its name, extend its corporate existence, change the manner in which its directors, trustees or managers are elected or appointed, abolish its present method of electing such officers and create a different method of election, and generally reorganize the manner of conducting such corporation, and make any other amendment of its charter, desired, in the following manner: The board of directors, trustees, or managers shall pass a resolution declaring that the amendment is advisable, and call a meeting of trustees, managers, and directors to take action thereon. The meeting shall be held upon such notice as the by-laws provide, and in the absence of such provision, upon ten days notice given personally or by mail. If two-thirds of the directors, trustees, or managers of the corporation vote in favor of the amendment, a certificate thereof shall be signed by the president and secretary under the corporate seal, acknowledged as provided in the case of deeds to real estate, and being chapter two, public laws of nineteen hundred and eighty of the public laws of eighteen hundred and one, are declared to be valid in all respects, whether such amendments were made in accordance with the provisions of chapter three hundred and eighty of the public laws of eighteen hundred and thirty-one, as synonymous with the words '"principal office,'" as used in this section and sections 55-2, par. 2 and 55-105. Roberson v. Johnson Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 120, 122, 68 S. E. 1064.

§ 55-34. Change of location of principal office.—The board of directors of a corporation organized under the laws of this state may, by resolution adopted at a regular or special meeting by a two-thirds vote of its members, change the location of the principal office of the corporation in the state. A copy of the resolution, signed by the president and secretary of the corporation and sealed with the corporate seal, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. No certificate need be filed of the removal of an office from one point to another in the same town, city, or township. (Rev. s. 1176; 1901, c. 2, s. 61; C. S. 1135.)

"Principal Place of Business." — The words "principal place of business," as used in section 1-79 must be regarded as synonymous with the words "principal office," as used in this section and sections 55-2, par. 2 and 55-105. (Roberson v. Johnson Lumber Co., 153 N. C. 120, 122, 68 S. E. 1064.)

§ 55-35. Curative act; amendments prior to 1901.—All amendments to the plan of incorporation of any corporation organized under the provisions of the general laws of North Carolina prior to the passage of the act entitled "An act to revise the corporation law of North Carolina," being chapter two, public laws of nineteen hundred and one, and one hundred and eighty of the public laws of eighteen hundred and thirty-one, or in accordance with the provisions of chapter two of the public laws of nineteen hundred and one; but no amendment shall be validated by this section unless it is an amendment of such nature as is authorized to be made under the provisions of chapter two of the public laws of nineteen hundred and one. (Rev. s. 1248; 1905, c. 316; C. S. 1134.)

§ 55-36. Amendment or repeal of this chapter; a part of all charters.—This chapter may be amended or repealed by the legislature, and every corporation is bound thereby; but such amendment or repeal shall not take away or impair any remedy against the corporation, or its officers, for any liability which has been previously incurred. This chapter and all amendments are a part of the charter of every corporation formed hereunder, so far as the same are applicable and appropriate to the objects of the corporation. (Rev. s. 1190; 1901, c. 2, s. 7; C. S. 1135.)

§ 55-37. Name must be displayed.—The name of every corporation must be at all times conspicuously displayed at the entrance of its principal office in this state, and in default thereof for sixty days the corporation is liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, to be recovered with costs, by the state, in an action to be prosecuted by or under the direction of the attorney-general. (Rev. s. 1242; 1901, c. 2, s. 50; C. S. 1190.)

§ 55-38. Resident process agent.—Every corporation having property or doing business in this state, whether incorporated under its laws or not, shall have an officer or agent in the state upon whom process in all actions or proceedings against it can be served. A corporation failing to comply with the provisions of this section is liable to a forfeiture of its charter, or to the revocation of its license to do business in this state. In the latter event, process in an action or proceeding against the corporation may be served upon the secretary of state by leaving a true copy thereof with him, and he shall mail the copy to the president, secretary or other officer of the corporation upon whom, if residing in this state, service could be made. For this service to be performed by the secretary, he shall receive a fee of fifty cents, to be paid by the party at whose instance the service was made. (Rev., s. 1843; 1901, c. 5; C. S. 1137.)

Cross References.—As to service of process upon a corporation, see § 1-97, paragraph 1. As to service of process upon foreign insurance companies, see § 58-153. As to foreign corporations generally, see § 55-117 et seq. As to service of process against a foreign corporation in an action within the jurisdiction of the state courts, see § 55-131. As to service of summons in action for dissolution, or for appointment of a receiver, see § 55-139.

Strict Compliance Not Required. — Formal compliance with the statutory requirements for domesticating these corporations and the appointment of process agents is not required, but it is sufficient if such corporations doing business in the state have been continuously for the statutory period subject to valid service of process, so as to confer jurisdiction on our courts to render binding judgments in personam against them. Anderson v. United States Fidelity Co., 174 N. C. 417, 418, 93 S. E. 948.

A Federal Land Bank created by act of Congress and deriving its right to own property and to do business in the State of North Carolina through a Federal statute is not a foreign corporation exercising such functions under express or implied authority of this State, and this section is not applicable to such corporation, and our courts acquire no jurisdiction over it by such service. Leggett v. Federal Land Bank, 204 N. C. 151, 167 S. E. 557.

Jurisdiction Over Foreign Corporation.—A foreign corporation created and existing outside the State of North Carolina and not by or through any agent of such corporation or person authorized to act for it in this state, constitutes "doing business in the State of North Carolina" if it transacts business in this state and not having domesticated in North Carolina, must be engaged in business within the state in order to give our courts jurisdiction over it. Goldey v. Morning News, 190 N. C. 314, 318, 129 S. E. 605.

The fact that nonresident defendant corporation had samples, order blanks and stationery in the state was held insufficient to show that defendant had property in the state for the purpose of service of process on it by service on the Secretary of State under the provisions of this section. Ploot v. Michael, 214 N. C. 655, 200 S. E. 429.

Transitory Cause of Action Arising in Another State.—In an action by a nonresident plaintiff against a nonresident bus corporation, doing business in this state, to recover for personal injuries alleged to have been sustained through negligence of defendant occurring in Virginia, service of process upon defendant corporation in this state, where facts therein appearing, the general criteria being that a foreign corporation is doing business in this state if it transacts business in this state, it was held that service of process upon such corporation upon compliance with its provisions in respect thereto. Luncelord v. Commercial Travelers Mutual Accident Assn., 190 N. C. 314, 129 S. E. 805.

The meaning of the phrase "doing business in this state" as used in this section is not susceptible to an all embracing definition, but the phrase means those activities of a foreign corporation which may be had on such corporation upon compliance with its provisions in respect thereto. Parris v. Fisher & Co., 219 N. C. 292, 13 S. E. (2d) 541.

It cannot be held that the issuance of one or more policies of fire insurance, by a corporation, created and existing under the laws of another state, and not authorized to do business in this state, gives such corporation jurisdiction in this state. In Fisher v. Ins. Co., 192 N. C. 115, 119, 133 S. E. 424.

In determining the question whether a foreign corporation is doing business within a state, so as to be subject to its jurisdiction, and, to the end that such jurisdiction may be exercised, subject to service of process from its courts, in accordance with statutory provisions for such service, it has been generally held that the foreign corporation must have entered the state and must have been within the state during the time such business was transacted. Ivy River Land, etc., Co. v. National Fire, etc., Co., 192 N. C. 115, 119, 133 S. E. 424.

A foreign banking corporation which sends its agents here for the purpose of investigating and looking after the property of its bank or branches situated here, and acts in this state the business it was created and authorized to act for it in this state, constitutes "doing business in this State" as used in this section. Ivy River Land, etc., Co. v. Virginia Trust Co., 206 N. C. 564, 174 S. E. 441.

Where nonresident defendant corporation employed a soliciting agent who took orders and forwarded them to home office in another state, it was held that defendant entered into it in the state where the home office was situated and that evidence failed to show that defendant was doing business in this state, and that it may have been served with summons under the provisions of this section. Smith v. Finance Co., 207 N. C. 567, 177 E. 181.

Section on Insurance Company.—In Fisher v. Ins. Co., 192 N. C. 115, 119, 133 S. E. 424, the court held that this method of service on an insurance company is not restricted to that method as prescribed by section 58-153 but that it may be made also in the manner prescribed by this section. Pardue v. Atlantic Greyhound Corp., 220 N. C. 815, 18 S. E. (2d) 367.

Merger of Express Companies.—An express company conveyed its property, used in transportation, for its appraised value to the American Express Company formed at the suggestion of the Directors of the American Express Co., under government control, retaining property of very large value, so that it remained perfectly solvent, and continued to do business in the manner of its original organization. McAllister v. American Ry. Exp. Co., 179 N. C. 556, 103 S. E. 929.

Doing Business Here Is Acceptance of Section. — Where foreign corporations come into the state to do business after the enactment of a statute providing a method of personal service on them, reasonably calculated to give them full notice of the pendency of suits against them, the statutory provisions are regarded as conditions on which they are allowed to do business within the state, and their doing so hereafter is an acceptance by them of the statutory method of service. For this service to be performed by or through any agent of such corporation or person authorized to act for it in this state, constitutes "doing business in this state" as used in this section. Ploot v. Michael, 214 N. C. 655, 200 S. E. 429.
§ 55-39. Process agent in county where principal office located; service on inactive corporations.—Every corporation chartered under the other act or law pertaining to the service of summons or process, but shall be in addition thereto. The extraordinary powers of a corporation, such as that of selling or leasing the corporate property, where it exists, and other property which is transferable by deed, must be regarded as affecting the standing of corporate mortgages whenever executed. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 363. Some of the cases treated here were subject to torts committed by such corporation prior to the execution of said deed, if persons injured, or their representatives, commence proceedings or actions to enforce their claims against said corporation within sixty days after the registration of said act as real estate law. [Rev. s. 1130; Code, s. 685; 1891, c. 118; 1893, c. 93, s. 2; 1899, c. 235, s. 17; 1901, c. 2, s. 2; 1903, c. 660, s. 1; 1905, c. 114; 1929, cc. 28, 199, 256; 1931, c. 238; 1943, c. 219, s. 1; C. As to probates before stockholders in building and loan association, see § 47-9.

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929, c. 28, inserted the words "public service" in the last sentence of this section. Public Laws of 1929, c. 189 provided that such amendatory act should not affect existing litigation, and Chapter 256 provided that it should be construed to apply only to instruments executed after its ratification. The Act of 1901 which became effective April 2, 1901, was so revised as to make it applicable to all existing public service companies, must be regarded as affecting the standing of corporate mortgages whenever executed. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 363. Some of the cases treated here were decided prior to these amendments.

The 1943 amendment inserted the second sentence. Purpose of Section. — The primary purpose of this section is to impose restraints upon insolvent corporations, and disable them from borrowing money and conveying their property to secure it, whereby present liabilities might go unpaid. Traders National Bank v. Lawrence Mfg. Co., 96 N. C. 298, 307, 3 S. E. 363.

Applies Generally. — By this section the Legislature expressed a general intention with regard to a general subject matter, namely, selling, leasing, and Chapter 256 provided that it should be construed to apply only to instruments executed after its ratification. The Act of 1901 which became effective April 2, 1901, was so revised as to make it applicable to all existing public service companies, must be regarded as affecting the standing of corporate mortgages whenever executed. 9 N. to an agent designated in the resolution of the body, either by his official title or by his name. Barcello v. Haygood, 118 N. C. 712, 714, 730, 24 S. E. 124.

Hence a mortgage deed executed according to the provi- sion that it must be signed by the corporate seal and attested by the corporate seal was a valid deed. Traders National Bank v. Mfg. Co., 10 N. C. 439, 440, 44 S. E. 861.

Order Method of Execution Permissible. — The statutory method of alienation by corporations, like that provided by this section is not exclusive of the common law mode of conveyance, and does not prohibit other methods of execution. Barcello v. Haygood, 118 N. C. 712, 713, 730, 24 S. E. 124.

Sixty Day Provision Mandatory. — Under this section the action should be commenced within sixty days after the registration of the mortgage. Joyce v. Reflector Co., 176 N. C. 274, 275, 97 S. E. 44.

Judgment for Tort Committed before Transfer. — Under this section as construed with §§ 47-18 and 47-20, an absolute sale is authorized. Fisher v. Bank, 132 N. C. 769, 777, 44 S. E. 601 where it was held that the mortgage being a chattel mortgaged by a well-known corporation, a conveyance of the mortgage is a conveyance of a personal chattel, and does not prohibit other methods of execution. Bason v. Mining Co., 90 N. C. 417.

An instrument purporting to be the deed of a corporation, signed by the president and two members of the corporation, accompanied by delivery to the purchaser, is not void as to a judgment for the corporation. Caldwell v. Morganton Mfg. Co., 112 N. C. 339, 23 S. E. 475. See Clark v. Hodge, 116 N. C. 761, 21 S. E. 562.

When Private Seal of Officer Used. — An instrument purporting to be the deed of a corporation, signed by the president and two members of the corporation, attested by its secretary, and its common seal to be affixed, with the signatures and seal, is properly executed as a common law deed. Bason v. Mining Co., 90 N. C. 417.

An instrument purporting to be the deed of a corporation, signed by the president and two members of the corporation, accompanied by delivery to the purchaser, is not void as to a judgment for the corporation. Caldwell v. Morganton Mfg. Co., 121 N. C. 339, 28 S. E. 475.

When a corporate act must be executed by an instrument under seal and the corporation has adopted a common seal, the corporation speaks through and by its seal. Withrell v. Murphy, 154 N. C. 82, 69 S. E. 748.

A conveyance by a corporation of its property in trust for the benefit of the stockholders and duly witnessed, but there is no common seal attached, and the probate recites that it is "acknow-ledged..." signed by the president and two stockholders, such probate is insufficient and does not authorize registration, and is ineffectual to pass title as against creditors. Duke v. Mark-ham, 113 N. C. 100, 7 S. E. 1001.

An instrument purporting to be the deed of a corporation, signed by the president and two members of the corporation, but not having the common seal of the corporation attached, is not a conveyance by the corporation; nor is it a conveyance by the president and two stockholders. Caldwell v. Morganton Mfg. Co., 112 N. C. 339, 23 S. E. 475.

When a corporate act must be executed by an instrument under seal and the corporation has adopted a common seal, the corporation speaks through and by its seal. Withrell v. Murphy, 154 N. C. 82, 69 S. E. 748.

When a corporate act must be executed by an instrument under seal and the corporation has adopted a common seal, the corporation speaks through and by its seal. Withrell v. Murphy, 154 N. C. 82, 69 S. E. 748.

§ 55-43. Conditional sale contracts.—Contracts, in writing, for the purchase of personal property by corporations, providing for a lien on the property or the retention of the title thereto by the vendor as a security for the purchase price, or any part thereof, are sufficiently executed if signed in the name of the corporation by the president, secretary or treasurer in his official capacity, and may be acknowledged and ordered to registration as is provided by law for the execution, acknowledgment and registration of deeds by natural persons. (1909, c. 335, s. 1; C. S. 1139.)

§ 55-44. Mortgaged property subject to execution for labor, clerical services, and torts.—Mortgages of public service corporations upon their property or earnings cannot exempt said property or earnings from execution for the satisfaction of any judgment obtained in courts of the State against such corporation for labor and clerical services performed, or torts committed, whereby any person is killed or any person or property injured. (Rev., s. 1131; Code, s. 1255; 1879, c. 101; 1897, c. 334; 1901, c. 2, s. 3; 1915, c. 201, s. 1; 1929, cc. 29, 256; 1931, c. 238; C. S. 1140.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor’s Note.—It must be noted in studying the cases under this section that there were formerly included the words "for material furnished." These words were stricken out in 1941.

Under the section as formerly constituted it was held that coal is "material furnished." Pocahontas Coal Co. v. Hender-son, Elec., etc., Co., 118 N. C. 232, 24 S. E. 22. Steam Engine and boiler were "material furnished" where it did not appear that they were necessary to the conduct of the business. James v. Lumber Co., 122 N. C. 157, 29 S. E. 358. A mortgage is now not posted to a judgment for material furnished. Cheserokee v. Sanatorium, 134 N. C. 245, 46 S. E. 494; Cox v. New Bern Lighting & Fuel Co., 152 N. C. 166, 67 S. E. 477.

The words "clerical services" were added to the section by ch. 201, Laws of 1915.

The Act of 1915 inserted the words "public service" before "corporations" in line two of this section. Public Laws of 1929, c. 256 provided that such amendatory act should be construed to only apply to instruments executed after its ratification. The Act of 1929, c. 2, 1931, except as to pending litigation, repealed the last amendment and consequently the section, limited to public service companies, must be regarded as affecting the standing of corporate mortgages whenever executed. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 363.

The Act of March 15, 1929, was not intended to affect instruments already executed before the act became law, and the corporation must institute an action to affect the standing of a mortgage if a receiver has taken charge of the property. Helsabeck v. Vass, 196 N. C. 603, 146 S. E. 204.

Applying Only to Property Within State.—This section can only operate on property within the State. Fidelity Insurance Trust, etc., Deposit Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 114 Fed. 193, 88 S. C. 1023.

Does Not Create a Lien.—This section neither creates nor provides for the creation of a lien. It does not seem to provide against prior judgment liens, whether taken upon a prior or subsequent debt; nor does it provide for an absolute lien for unpaid wages. Moorehead Bluffs Hotel Co. v. Pick & Co., 176 N. C. 274, 97 S. E. 44. It simply wipes out a mortgage as against a judgment for tort, so that the judgment creditor may proceed to collect his judgment as if there were no such mortgage made. Clemence v. King, 152 N. C. 456, 460, 67 S. E. 1023.

The section confers no lien or priority. It simply wipes out a mortgage as against a judgment for tort, so that the judgment creditor may proceed to collect his judgment as if there were no such mortgage made. Moorehead Bluffs Hotel Co. v. Pick & Co., 176 N. C. 274, 97 S. E. 44. It simply wipes out a mortgage as against a judgment for tort, so that the judgment creditor may proceed to collect his judgment as if there were no such mortgage made. Clemence v. King, 152 N. C. 456, 460, 67 S. E. 1023.

Same—Example.—This section confers no lien on the products of a cotton factory corporation in favor of one furnishing coal used in their manufacture, but only the right to enforce their claims by judgment and execution, as against the holders of mortgages upon the corporate property. Norfleet v. Tarboro Cotton Factory, 172 N. C. 833, 89 S. E. 785.

Priorities.—This section creates a priority in favor of those performing labor or rendering clerical services only from the time a judgment has been entered by a court of competent jurisdiction ascertaining the amount and declaring the priority, and when so established it relates back and becomes prior to that of general creditors of the corporation under a prior registered judgment. Helsabeck v. Vass, 196 N. C. 603, 146 S. E. 204.

Same—Purchaser at Foreclosure Sale.—A notice at a foreclosure sale of the property of a corporation under a mortgage that the employees of the corporation claim a priority under the provisions of this section, does not affect the title conveyed to the purchaser at the sale, but the claims of the employees claiming judgment priority may maintain the superiority of their claims to those of the purchaser, but the purchaser is entitled to be heard. Dial v. Chatham, 70 F. (2d) 21, 23.

Judgments Not Superior Except as Provided in This Section.—Judgments against a corporation for its obligations arising on a contract are not superior to the lien of a prior registered judgment. But when the judgment is not in the hands of a receiver, or by prorating with the mortgage creditors if a receiver has taken charge. Clemence v. King, 152 N. C. 456, 460, 67 S. E. 1023.

The Act of February 13, 1929, was not intended to affect instruments already executed before the act became law, and the corporation must institute an action to affect the standing of a mortgage if a receiver has taken charge of the property. Helsabeck v. Vass, 196 N. C. 603, 146 S. E. 204.
Picked him is entitled to any preference for "labor performed" as all rights and interests of the lessee were ended by the lease. And where the road is in the hands of receivers, any rights as against a subsequent judgment for a tort by the corporation for labor performed to keep it "a going concern," though the labor done or materials furnished do not add to the value of the property superior to a mortgage given by the lessor before the act was passed as the Act was passed in 1879. If it were for liabilities existing prior to making the mortgage, they would have been provided by section 55-44 and accepted meaning. It implies continued exertion of the judgment, against the lessee of a railroad, a lien on the property of the lessee to secure a debt, takes subject to laborers' lien under Sec. 44-1—The mechanics' lien, under section 44-1 has no preference over a prior registered mortgage. Cox v. New Bern Lighting & Fuel Co., 152 N. C. 164, 167, 67 S. E. 477.

III. EFFECT ON MORTGAGES.

Refers to Mortgage of Corporation Itself.—This section expressly refers to a mortgage given by the corporation itself, and not to mortgages on the corporate property acquired by a stranger and registered before the formation of the corporation. Roberts v. Bowen Mfg. Co., 169 N. C. 27, 53 S. E. 45.

This section does not directly invalidate the mortgages, but notwithstanding the attempted alienation, exposes the corporate property to execution issued upon a judgment recovered upon the causes of action mentioned. Traders National Bank v. Lawrence Mfg. Co., 96 N. C. 298, 306, 3 S. E. 38.

Property Acquired Subject to Prior Mortgage.—This section, which gives to judgments against corporations for labor performed and torts committed priority over prior mortgages in the corporation, has no application where the corporation acquired the property subject to such prior mortgage. Humphrey Brothers v. Buell-Crocker Lumber Co., 174 N. C. 514, 519, 93 S. E. 971; Walker v. Linden Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 503, 50 S. E. 760.

Prior Claim.—A mortgage of the legal title of property of a corporation, in the corporation, has no application where the corporation acquired the property subject to such prior mortgage. Humphrey Brothers v. Buell-Crocker Lumber Co., 174 N. C. 514, 519, 93 S. E. 971.

Judgment against Lessee.—This section does not make a judgment, against the lessee of a railroad, a lien on the property of the lessor greater than the judgment given before the lease. And where the road is in the hands of receivers, appointed in a suit to foreclose the mortgages, the judgment creditor has no right to payment from earnings of the road as all rights and interests of the given lien were vested by the receiver. Hampton v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 127 Fed. 662.

IV. CERTAIN JUDGMENTS PREFERRED.

A. Labor Performed.

Meaning of Labor.—The word "labor" in legal parlance and as used in this section has a well defined, understood, and settled meaning. It implies the performance of a more onerous and inferior kind, usually and chiefly (prior to the addition of the word "clerical" in the section) consisting of the performance of mechanical labor. Moore v. Industrial Co., 138 N. C. 304, 305, 59 S. E. 697.

Foreman Included.—A foreman is a laborer, and the money paid him is entitled to any preference for "labor performed" which is given his co-laborers whom he supervised and with whom he worked. Moore v. Industrial Co., 138 N. C. 304, 305, 59 S. E. 697; Cox v. New Bern Lighting & Fuel Co., 152 N. C. 164, 167, 67 S. E. 477.

Services Need Not Add Value of Plant.—Debts of a corporation for labor performed to keep it "a going concern," have a priority over a mortgage previously recorded, although the labor done or materials furnished do not add to the value of the plant or enhance its value. Pochantos Coal Co. v. Henderson Electric, etc., Co., 118 N. C. 232, 24 S. E. 22.

What Services Excluded.—"Labor performed," as used in this section, does not embrace such services as per-and all other fixtures, appliances and appurtenances belonging to or operated by any of said companies. (Rev., s. 1143.)

Cross References.—As to acquisition and condemnation of property by any of said companies, see § 55-1 et seq. As to power of eminent domain in the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority, see § 117-2, paragraph g. As to right of eminent domain generally, see § 40-1 et seq.

§ 55-46: Repealed by Session Laws 1943, c. 545.

§ 55-47. Actions by attorney-general to prevent ultra vires acts, etc.—In the following cases the attorney-general may, in the name of the state, upon his own information, or upon the complaint of a private party, bring an action against the offending parties for the purpose of—
1. Restraining by injunction a corporation from assuming or exercising any franchise or transacting any business not allowed by its charter.
2. Restraining any person from exercising corporate franchises not granted.
3. Bringing directors, managers, and officers of a corporation, or the trustees of funds given for a public or charitable purpose, to an account for the management and disposition of the property confided to their care.
4. Removing such officers or trustees upon proof of gross misconduct.
5. Securing, for the benefit of all interested, the said property or funds.
6. Setting aside and restraining improper alienations of the said property or funds.
7. Generally compelling the faithful performance of duty and preventing all fraudulent practices, embezzlement, and waste. (Rev., s. 1197; Code, ss. 607, 680; 1901, c. 2, s. 107; C. S. 1143.)

Cross Reference.—As to action by the attorney general to dissolve a corporation, see § 55-126.

Editor's Note.—For article on Powers and Duties of Attorney General, see 16 N. C. Law Rev. 97.

Application. — This section applies when the purpose of the action is not to dissolve a corporation but to preserve it in order that its useful functions may be performed and at the same time that it may not be able to abuse its powers or transcend them. Attorney General v. R. R., 28 N. C. 456, 464.

The above case was decided under the old R. S., ch. 26.

Art. 5. Directors and Officers.

§ 55-48. Directors.—The business of every corporation shall be managed by its directors, who must be at least three in number, and at all times bona fide stockholders or the guardian of a bona fide stockholder, or the executor or administrator of the estate of a deceased bona fide stockholder, or a director in a corporation which is a bona fide stockholder, or the trustee of funds given for a public or charitable purpose, to an account for the management and disposition of the property confided to their care.

Same.—May Loan Money to Corporation. — While a director of a corporation may lend it money when needed for its benefit, and take a lien upon the corporate property as security for its repayment, provided the transaction be open and entirely fair and capable of strict proof as to its bona fides, yet where a corporation is insolvent a director who is a creditor can not, upon a debt theretofore existing, be charged with a like duty, usually the care that he shows in the conduct of his affairs is not peculiarly suited to a creditor. Besselle v. Brown, 177 N. C. 65, 97 S. E. 743.

Care Required of Directors. — A director, who is also a creditor of a corporation, cannot prefer himself as a creditor over other creditors in the application of its assets to the security or payment of its debts. Hill v. Lumber Co., 113 N. C. 173, 18 S. E. 107; Bank v. Cotton Mills, 115 N. C. 507, 20 S. E. 765; Melver v. Young Hardware Co., 144 N. C. 478, 483, 57 S. E. 169.

Powers of Directors. — It is well settled that the directors of a corporation, unless they are specially restrained by the charter or by-laws, have the power to borrow money with which to conduct its business and to secure payment by mortgage on the corporate property. Wall v. Lumber Co., 113 N. C. 173, 18 S. E. 107; Bank v. Cotton Mills, 115 N. C. 507, 20 S. E. 765; Melver v. Young Hardware Co., 144 N. C. 478, 483, 57 S. E. 169.

Liens of Directors. — Where the directors of a corporation made a bona fide sale of property to it, for value and free from fraud, judgments against the corporation for the price paid for the stock or against bookkeeping errors made by the directors against the corporate property. Caldwell v. Robinson, 179 N. C. 518, 233, 103 S. E. 75.

Rights of Directors to Security. — Where a corporation is taking mortgage upon corporate property, when the corporation is in default, the directors, occupying a fiduciary relation, are not permitted to secure themselves against pre-existing § 55-49. Officers, agents, and vacancies.—Every corporation organized under this chapter shall have a president, secretary, and treasurer, to be chosen either by the directors or stockholders, as by the by-laws direct, and they shall hold office until others are chosen and qualified in their stead; the president shall be chosen from among the directors; the secretary shall record all the votes of the corporation and directors in a book to be kept for that purpose, and perform such other duties as are assigned to him; the treasurer may be required to give bond for the faithful discharge of his duty in such sum, and with such surety or sureties, as are required by the by-laws. Any two of these offices may be held by the same person, if the body electing so determine. The corporation may have such other officers and agents, who shall be chosen in the manner and hold office for the terms, and upon the conditions, prescribed by the by-laws or determined by the board of directors. Any vacancy occurring among the directors, or in the office of president, secretary or treasurer, shall be filled in the manner provided for in the by-laws; in the absence of such provision the vacancy shall be filled by the board of directors. (Rev. ss. 1149, 1150, 1151; 1901, c. 2, ss. 15, 16, 17; C. S. 1145.)

Cross References.—As to release of mortgage to a corporation by corporate officer, see § 45-42. As to arrest in civil cases, see § 1-410. As to oath of corporate being made by signature of corporate officer, see § 1-411. As to officers of a corporation who may be held individually liable, see § 1-412. As to special corporate powers, see § 46-21.

Officers Must Act in Good Faith. — The officers of the company had no right to take advantage of their knowledge of the financial condition of the corporation, for them, secretly, if not with the knowledge, of the corporation. The corporation had the right to an inspection of its books. It is not necessary that the corporation must make the inspection, but the officers of the corporation, when such inspection is required by law, have a duty to make it. If they fail to make such inspection, the corporation has the right to have its books audited by a competent accountant, so that its financial status may be ascertained. Upon refusal or failure of the corporation to the auditor to make the auditing, the auditor may apply to the judge of the district, or to the judge holding the courts of the district, in which the corporation has its residence, either at chambers or term time, at any place in the district, and the judge shall appoint an auditor and require the books to be examined at the expense of the corporation. The officers of the corporation shall render to the auditor an account of the sum of money laid out in the course of the auditor's business, and give him access to all of the assets, books, papers, etc., relating to the affairs of the corporation, in order that a proper audit may be made. Upon completion of the audit the auditor shall render a statement to the corporation, and to the petitioning stockholder or stockholders. (1911, c. 174, s. 1; 1913, c. 76, s. 1; C. S. 1146.)

This section is primarily concerned with the protection of the rights of minority stockholders, and has reference to private corporations as distinguished from municipal, public, or quasi public corporations. Cole v. Farmers Bank, etc., Co., 221 N. C. 249, 20 S. E. (2d) 54.

It applies to banking corporations since the statute embraces all domestic corporations organized for profit in which the beneficial interest and pro rata ownership are represented by shares of stock. Cole v. Farmers Bank, etc., Co., 221 N. C. 249, 20 S. E. (2d) 54.

Sufficient Number of Signatures.—The fact that an interlocutory motion of plaintiff stockholders for an audit of defendant corporation under this section was denied because there was not a sufficient number of signatures did not bar the plaintiff from seeking such an audit. Cole v. Farmers Bank, etc., Co., 221 N. C. 249, 20 S. E. (2d) 54.

Individual Liability of Officers. — Where officers of a corporation make a contract for the corporation to perform a particular service in case of its insolvency and receivership, in favor of its re-§ 55-52. Forfeiture of corporate charter and organization of new corporation.—Wherever a corporation created under the laws of the state of North Carolina has, on account of failure to make reports to the different state authorities, for such a length of time as to lose its charter and where thereafter, under the laws of the state of North Carolina, a new charter is issued, in the same name as the original corporation, and on behalf of the same corporation, such new corporation shall succeed to the same properties, to the same rights as the original corporation before losing its charter on account of neglect hereinbefore mentioned.

Whenever such new corporation shall have been created, under the laws of this state, all the title, rights and emoluments to the property held by the original corporation shall inure to the benefit of the new corporation and the new corporation shall issue its stock to the stockholders in the defunct corporation, in the same number and with the same par value as held by the stockholders of the defunct corporation.

Such new corporation shall have the rights and privileges of maintaining any action or cause of action which the defunct corporation might maintain, bring or defend and to all intents and purposes the new corporation shall take the place of the defunct corporation to the same intent and purposes as if the defunct corporation had never expired by reason of its failure to make the reports hereinbefore referred to. (1933, c. 124.)

Editor's Note.—See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 211, for criticism and interpretation of this section.

§ 55-53. Secretary of state may call for special reports.—The secretary of state has power to call for special reports from corporations, of the same character as their regular reports, at such times as he may deem the public interest requires, but no fees shall be charged for filing these special reports. (Rev., s. 1153; C. S. 1149.)

§ 55-54. Secretary of state to publish list of corporations created.—The secretary of state shall annually compile and publish from the records of his office a complete alphabetical list of the original and amended certificates of incorporation filed during the preceding year, together with the location of the principal office of each in this state, the name of the agent in charge thereof, the amount of authorized capital stock, the amount with which business is to be commenced, the date of filing the certificate, and the period for which the corporation is to continue; but the secretary of state and the Commissioner of Banks or the Utilities Commission, as the case may be, shall confer and arrange the statistics so as to prevent the same facts being embodied in the reports of both departments. (Rev., s. 1244; 1901, c. 2, s. 104; 1911, c. 211, s. 10; 1913, c. 198, s. 5; 1931, c. 243, ss. 4, 5; 1933, c. 134, ss. 7, 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 1150.)

§ 55-55. Liability of officers failing to make reports or making false reports.—If any of the officers neglect or refuse to make any report required of them by law for thirty days after written request so to do by a creditor or stockholder of the corporation, they are jointly and severally liable to the person demanding such report, for the amount of his debt if he is a creditor, or for the amount of his loss if he is a stockholder. If any report or certificate made, or any public notice given, by the officers in pursuance of the provisions of this chapter, is false in any material representation, all the officers who signed the same, knowing it to be false, are jointly and severally liable for all the debts of the corporation contracted while they were stockholders or officers thereof, as a penalty enforceable in the courts of this state only. (Rev., ss. 1154, 1163; 1901, c. 2, ss. 27, 56; C. S. 1151.)

§ 55-56. Liability for fraud.—In case of fraud by the president, directors, managers, or stockholders, in a corporation, the court shall adjudge personally liable to creditors and others injured thereby the directors and stockholders who were concerned in the fraud. (Rev., s. 1155; Code, s. 586; 1901, c. 2, s. 107; C. S. 1132.)

While directors of a corporation are not insurers or guarantors and therefore liable for its debts, yet they are trustees and fiduciaries and are answerable for losses attributable to their bad faith, misconduct, or want of care. Townsend v. Williams, 117 N. C. 330, 23 S. E. 461.

Officer Cannot Appropriate Corporate Business.—A corporate officer cannot for himself take business from the corporation. Brite v. Penny, 157 N. C. 110, 72 S. E. 964.

Action by Creditor or Stockholder.—It is settled that an action can be brought by a creditor or stockholder against the officers, including directors, of a corporation, for losses resulting from their fraud or negligence, without having first applied to the corporation to bring such action. Solomon v. Bates, 118 N. C. 311, 24 S. E. 478; White v. Kinead, 149 N. C. 415, 63 S. E. 109; Braswell v. Pamlico Ins., etc., Co., 159 N. C. 628, 75 S. E. 813.

Action in Alleged Fraudulent Merger.—In an action against a corporation charged to be fraudulently in possession of the assets of another corporation which had been merged into it, the officers of the corporation are not necessary parties. Friedenwald Co. v. Asheville Tobacco Works, 117 N. C. 544, 23 S. E. 490.

§ 55-57. Joint and several liability of officers, etc., contribution.—When the officers, directors or stockholders of a corporation are liable to pay its debts, or any part thereof, any person to whom they are liable has a right of action against any one or more of them. And any such officer, director or stockholder has the right of equitable contribution in any action for that purpose against any other officer, director or stockholder who is liable with him for any amount which he has been compelled to pay as provided in this section. (Rev., s. 1156; 1901, c. 2, s. 90; C. S. 1153.)

Corporation Need Not Be Joined.—The directors of a corporation are jointly and severally liable for their torts, and the corporation itself can be joined or not, at the election of the plaintiff, in an action to enforce that liability. Solomon v. Bates, 118 N. C. 311, 24 S. E. 478; White v. Kinead, 149 N. C. 415, 63 S. E. 109.

Neither a corporation nor its trustee in bankruptcy was a necessary party defendant to a suit for the defendants' wrong as officers of the corporation in misappropriating the plaintiff's money and notes. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Floyd, 158 N. C. 455, 74 S. E. 465.

§ 55-58. Officers paying may enforce exoneration against corporation.—An officer, director or stockholder who pays a debt of a corporation for which he is made liable by the provisions of this chapter may recover the amount paid, in an action against the corporation for money paid for its use, in which action only the property of the corporation is liable to be taken, and not the property of any stockholder, except as provided in the pre-
§ 55-59. Assets of corporation first exhausted.— No sale or other satisfaction shall be had of the property of a director or stockholder for a debt of the corporation of which he is director or stockholder until judgment be obtained therefor against the corporation and execution thereon returned unsatisfied, or until it is shown to the court that the corporation has no property available for the satisfaction of the indebtedness. (Rev., s. 1158; 1901, c. 2, s. 92; C. S. 1155.)

§ 55-60. No personal liability on corporate manager or partnership.— Any corporation created under this chapter which is a member of a partnership may have its interests in such partnership managed, and may be engaged in or have charge of the management and affairs of such partnership, by and through any of its officers, directors, stockholders, agents and servants, and no such person acting as manager of the interests of such partnership may have its interests in such partnership, whether as executive, member of an executive committee or board, employee or otherwise, shall be personally subject to any liability for the debts of such partnership or such corporation. (1933, c. 354, s. 2.)

Art. 6. Capital Stock.

§ 55-61. Classes of stock.— Every corporation has power to create two or more kinds of stock of such classes, with such designations, preferences, and voting powers or restrictions or qualifications thereof as are prescribed by those holding a majority of its outstanding capital stock entitled to vote; and the power to increase or decrease the stock as herein elsewhere provided applies to all or any of the classes of stock; and the preferred stock may, if desired, be made subject to redemption at the option of the corporation, strictly speaking, at an amount in money or property subscribed and paid in or secured to be paid in by the shareholders, and always remains the same unless changed by proper legal authority, while its capital is a broader term and includes all funds, securities, credits, and property of every kind whatever belonging to the corporation, though the words are often used interchangeably in revenue statutes. Person v. Board, 184 N. C. 499, 115 S. E. 336.

Meaning of "Trust Fund."— The term "trust fund," as used in various decisions of the courts in reference to the assets of a corporation, does not imply that upon the insolvency of a corporation, its assets will be administered strictly as a trust for the benefit of all creditors pro rata, but that whenever proceedings under the statute are had, and the court takes charge of the assets through its receiver, it will make equitable distribution, among all the creditors, of all the assets not subject to prior liens or rights. Merchants National Bank v. Newton Cotton Mills, 115 N. C. 499, 115 S. E. 355, 20 S. E. 2d 747.

The preferred stock forms a part of the capital stock of the corporation, under this section, entitled to all rights of the stockholder subject to the terms and conditions on which their stock was issued. Kistler v. Caldwell Cotton Mills Co., 205 N. C. 809, 813, 172 S. E. 373.

A preferred stockholder of a corporation is not a creditor of the corporation, and must be confined to his rights as a stockholder. Weaver Power Co. v. Elk Mountain Mill Co., 154 N. C. 766, 69 S. E. 747.

Liability of Preferred Stockholders—Rights of Creditors.— This section fixes the authority of the corporation to issue its preferred stock and the priorities thereof are all subject to the prior rights of general creditors, but the corporation to give the preferred stockholders a lien upon its realty in the nature of a mortgage or deed of trust under the provisions of its charter is ineffectual as to the prior creditors. Ellington v. Supply Co., 196 N. C. 764, 147 S. E. 307.

Cited in Windsor Redrying Co. v. Garley, 197 N. C. 56, 147 S. E. 676.

§ 55-62. Stock to be paid in money or money's worth; issue for labor or property.— Nothing but money shall be considered as payment for any part of the capital stock of any corporation organized under this chapter, except as herein provided in case of the purchase of property or labor performed by the corporation, which corporation may issue stock for labor done or personal property or real estate, or leases thereof, and, in the absence of fraud in the transaction, the judgment of the directors as to the value of such labor, property, real estate or leases shall be conclusive. (Rev., ss. 1159, 1160; 1901, c. 2, ss. 19, 53; 1903, c. 660, ss. 2, 3; C. S. 1157.)

Cross Reference.—As to no par value stock issued for services, see § 55-74.

Purposes to Prevent Fraud.— This section was passed in order that such subscriptions may respect integrity and not become a means of deceiving those who deal with the corporation. Goodman v. White, 174 N. C. 399, 401, 93 S. E. 906.

Effect of Charter Provision.—A provision in the charter of a corporation, even though it do not that the capital stock "shall be issued as full-paid stock," does not prevent shares of stock to be issued to stockholders without payment for it by them in money, or its equivalent in property at an honest valuation. Clavon v. Cross, 109 N. C. 159, 12 S. E. 657.

Judgment of Directors Arbitrary.—This section makes the judgment of the board of directors, in fixing the value of property of its subscribers to its shares of stock to be acceded to or taken, to be conclusive. There shall be no evidence of fraud therein, a judgment as of nonsuit is properly granted. Goodman v. White, 174 N. C. 497, 499, 93 S. E. 906.

Cash Payment Unnecessary.—It is not essential to a bona fide subscription to stock in a corporation that there be a present payment in cash by the subscriber or that he be solvent; a subscription is considered bona fide whenever made by one who subscribes in good faith, with reasonable expectation and apparent prospect of being able to pay assessments on his stock as they may thereafter be called for. Boushall v. Myatt, 167 N. C. 128, 81 S. E. 352.

Conditional Substitution.—A subscription to stock of a corporation may be made on condition that there shall be no liability until the corporation has received actual subscriptions to its capital stock in the amount of the specified amount. Alexander v. North Carolina, etc., Trust Co., 135 N. C. 124, 71 S. E. 69; citing Queen City Printing, etc. Co. v. McAden, 131 N. C. 478, 480, 48 S. E. 427, 428, 16 S. E. 408; Kelly v. Oliver, 113 N. C. 442, 443, 18 S. E. 689.

Illegal Payment.—Under this section a transaction whereby the subscriber is required, for the purpose of obtaining the right to a certain stock, to become a stockholder in a company, and let the company that he was promoting take it over as soon as it was incorporated, and pay his note, and also issue to him stock as the consideration, was illegal. Goodman v. White, 174 N. C. 174, 73 S. E. 324.

Cited in Windsor Redrying Co. v. Gurley, 197 N. C. 55, 61, 147 S. E. 675.

§ 55-63. Stock issued for property; how value ascertained; how stock reported.—Any corporation formed under this chapter may purchase any property necessary for its business, and issue stock to the amount of the value thereof in payment thereof. The stock so issued shall be full-paid stock, and not liable to any further call, nor shall the holder thereof be liable for any further payment under any of the provisions of this chapter. A certificate of actual fraud the judgment of the directors as to the value of the property shall be conclusive.

In all statements and reports of the corporation to be published or filed, this stock shall not be stated or reported as being issued for cash paid to the corporation, but shall be reported in this respect according to the facts. (Rev. s. 1161; 1901, c. 2, s. 35; C. S. 1159.)

Cross Reference.—As to non par value stock issued for property, see § 55-74.

Burden of Fraud.—In an action by the receivers of an insolvent corporation to compel the payment of a subscription to stock issued for property acquired by the corporation for the conduct of the business, evidence tending to show that there was no genuine valuation of the property by the directors, knowingly made, is strong evidence of fraud, and may be conclusive thereof. Whitlock v. Alexander, 160 N. C. 570, 571, 134 S. E. 447.

Proceedings Where Property Overvalued.—Although a margin may be allowed for an honest difference of opinion as to value, a valuation grossly excessive, knowingly made, while its acceptance may bind the corporation, is a fraud on creditors, and they may proceed against the stockholders individually in the interest of the corporation is upon the person who alleges payment. Goodman v. White, 174 N. C. 399, 401, 93 S. E. 906.

roads, etc., may take stock therein; how issued, valued, and reported.—Corporations having for their object the building or repairing of railroads, water, gas or electric works, tunnels, bridges, viaducts, canals, hotels, wharves, piers, or any like works of internal improvement or public use, may subscribe for, take, pay for, hold, use and dispose of stock or bonds in any corporation formed for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating any such public works; and the directors of any such corporation formed for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating any public work of the description aforesaid may accept in payment of any such subscription, or purchase, real or personal property, necessary for the purposes of such corporation, or work, labor and services performed, or materials furnished to, or for, such corporation to the amount of the value thereof, and from time to time issue upon any such subscription or purchase, in such installments of proportions as such directors may agree upon full-paid stock, in full or partial performanence of the whole, or any part of such subscription or purchase, and the stock so issued shall be full-paid stock, and not liable to any further call, nor shall the holder thereof be liable for any further payments. And in all statements and reports of the corporation to be published or filed, this stock shall not be stated, or reported, as being issued for cash paid to the corporation, but shall be reported and published in this respect according to the fact. (Rev. s. 1172; 1901, c. 2, s. 35; C. S. 1159.)

§ 55-68. Liability for unpaid stock.—Where the capital stock of a corporation has not been paid in and the assets are insufficient to satisfy its debts and obligations, each stockholder is bound to pay on each share held by him the sum necessary to complete the amount of such share, as fixed by the charter, or such proportion of that sum as is required to satisfy such debts and obligations; but no person holding stock in any corporation in this state as executor, administrator, guardian, curator, or trustee, or as collateral security, is personally subject to any liability as a stockholder of the corporation; but the person pledging the stock is considered as holding that same, and is liable as a stockholder accordingly, and the estate and funds in the hands of such executor, administor, guardian, or trustee, is liable in like manner, and to the same extent, as the testator or intestate, or the ward, or the person interested in such fund, would have been had he been living and competent to act and hold the stock in his own name. (Rev. s. 1162; 1893, c. 471; 1901, c. 2, s. 22; C. S. 1160.)

In General.—Both under general principles of corporate law, as applied to the subject, and by this section, stockholders of an insolvent corporation are liable pro rata for their unpaid subscriptions to an amount necessary to liqui-

Suspension of Enterprise.—The mere fact, alone, that a proposed corporate enterprise has been suspended affords a subscriber to the stock no excuse for not paying his subscription according to his agreement. Raleigh Imperial Co. v. Andrews, 176 N. C. 280, 96 S. E. 1032. Decree affirmed, 178 N. C. 332, 15 S. E. 514.

Agreement Contrary to Section.—No agreement or arrangement between a corporation and its stockholders, whereby the latter are to be released from indebtedness on their subscriptions, will be valid or of any force as against creditors. Marshall Found-y Company v. Killian, 99 N. C. 500, 6 S. E. 680; Heggie v. Building and Loan Ass'ng, 107 N. C. 581, 591, 12 S. E. 275. See also, Gilmore v. Southern Ry. Co., 52 N. C. 361.

Stockholder Estopped.—Where a person has agreed to become a stockholder in a corporation and has enjoyed the benefits and privileges of membership thereof, in a suit by the corporation to recover on a deficiency of subscription, it is set up as a defense that the corporation was not legally organized. Wadesboro Cotton Mills Co. v. Burns, 114 N. C. 351, 19 S. E. 238; Academy v. Lindsey, 25 N. C. 476; Navigation Co. v. Neal, 10 N. C. 320, 337; R. R. v. Thompson, 52 N. C. 378; Marshall Found-y Co. v. Killian, 99 N. C. 501, 6 S. E. 680.

Set-Offs.—The claims of anyone against a corporation may be set off against the claims of the corporation against him by the corporation. Vaughan-Robertson Drug Co. v. Grimes-Mills Drug Co., 173 N. C. 502, 92 S. E. 376. Nor can he credit himself with amounts he paid on another subscription.

§ 55-66. Decrease of capital stock.—The decrease of capital stock may be effected by—
1. Retiring or reducing any class of the stockholders.
2. Drawing the necessary number of shares by lot for retirement.
3. The surrender by every stockholder of his shares and the issue to him in place thereof of a decreased number of shares.
4. The purchase at not above par of certain shares for retirement.
5. Retiring shares owned by the corporation.
6. Reducing the par value of shares.

When a corporation decreases the amount of its capital stock as above provided, the certificate decreasing the same shall be published at least once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county in which the principal office of the corporation is located, the first publication to be made within fifteen days after the decrease has been regularly authorized by the stockholders. In default of such publication the directors of the corporation are jointly and severally liable for all debts of the corporation contracted before the filing of the certificate, and the stockholders are also liable for such sums as they respectively receive of the amount so reduced. No such decrease of capital stock decreases the liability of any stockholder whose shares have not been fully paid, for debts of the corporation theretofore contracted. (Rev. ss. 1164; 1901, c. 2, s. 32; 1939, c. 221; C. S. 1161.)

Cross References.—As to action to compel issuance of duplicate certificate, see § 55-97. As to procedure when corporation in which last stock is held merges with another, see § 55-166.

Editor's Note.—The first sentence in this section formerly read, "Every stockholder shall have a certificate signed by the president or vice-president of the corporation, and certifying the number of shares owned by him in such corporation." A corporation may issue a new certificate of stock in the place of any certificate theretofore issued by it, alleged to have been lost or destroyed, and the directors authorizing such issue of a new certificate may require the owner of the certificate to prove his identity, or the identity of his legal representatives, to give the corporation a bond, in such sum as they may direct, as an indemnity against any claim that may be made against the corporation. A new certificate may be issued without requiring any bond when, in the judgment of the directors, it is proper to do so. (Rev. ss. 1165, 1166; 1885, c. 265; 1901, c. 2, s. 94; 1927, c. 173; C. S. 1162.)

Cross References.—As to action to compel issuance of duplicate certificate, see § 55-97. As to procedure when corporation in which last stock is held merges with another, see § 55-166.

Editor's Note.—The first sentence in this section formerly read, "Every stockholder shall have a certificate signed by the president or vice-president of the corporation, certifying the number of shares owned by him." The present first sentence was added by ch. 173, Public Laws 1927.

Nature of Stock Certificate.—A certificate of stock is simply a written acknowledgment by a corporation of the interest of the holder in its property and franchises. It has no value except that derived from the company issuing it; and its legal status is in the nature of a chose in action. Person v. Board, 184 N. C. 499, 115 S. E. 356.

Certificate Unnecessary.—Issuance of stock certificates is unnecessary either to the existence of the corporation or to confer title to the stockholder. Powell Bros. v. McConnell, 157 N. C. 52, 68 S. E. 926.

Reissue.—Application of Last Sentence.—The last sentence of this section, relative to the reissue of stock to supply lost certificates, is not the stock itself, but constitutes only prima facie evidence of the ownership of the number of shares. Mischenheimer v. Alexander, 162 N. C. 226, 78 S. E. 161, citing Cook on Corporations (6th Ed.) § 13; Clark on Corporations, p. 260.

§§ 55-68 and 55-69: Repealed by Public Laws 1941, c. 353, s. 24. DeLETED by authority of Session Laws 1943, c. 15, s. 3.
§ 55-70. Assessments, sale, and notice.—The directors of a corporation may, from time to time, make assessments upon the shares of stock subscribed for, not exceeding, in the whole, the par value thereof, remaining unpaid; and the sums assessed may be paid to the treasurer at such times and by such installments as the directors direct, the directors having given thirty days notice of the assessment and of the time and place of payment, either personally, by mail, or by publication in a newspaper published in the county where the corporation is established. If the time or place of payment is not fixed in the articles of incorporation, the treasurer, when ordered by the board of directors, shall sell, at public auction, such share or shares of the delinquent owner as will pay any assessment due from him, with interest, and all necessary incidental charges, and shall transfer the share or shares sold to the purchaser, who is entitled to a certificate therefor. The treasurer shall give notice of the time and place appointed for the sale, and of the sum due on each share, by advertising the same once a week for three successive weeks before the sale in a newspaper published in the county where the principal office of the corporation is located, at the courthouse door, and at the place of payment, and to the last known postoffice address of the delinquent stockholder. (Rev., s. 1169, 1170, 1171; 1901, c. 2, § 3, 23, 24, 25; C. S. 1165.)

Assessment as Incumbrance.—Acceptance of an offer of sale of corporation stock cannot be enforced when the proposed purchaser was unaware at the time that there had been an assessment made upon the shares; the usual implied warranty of title applies to such sales. Martin v. McDonald, 168 N. C. 232, 84 S. E. 258.

Setting Aside Sale.—Where the plaintiff's stock has been wrongfully sold, after a legal tender, he is entitled to a mandamus for the issue to him of his certificate of stock upon payment of the amount due on the stock with interest, to the date of tender and cost of advertisement. Wilson v. Tel. Co., 139 N. C. 395, 52 S. E. 62.

§ 55-71. One corporation may purchase stock, etc., of another.—A corporation may purchase stock, securities or other evidences of indebtedness created by another corporation or corporations of this or any other state, and while owner of such may exercise all the rights, powers and privileges of ownership. (Rev., s. 1173; 1903, c. 660, s. 3; C. S. 1166.)

Cross References.—As to power of corporation to purchase its own stock, see § 55-111. As to lack of power to vote its own stock, see § 55-113. Corporation May Purchase Its Own Stock.—A corporation, unless restrained by some provision of its organic law, may purchase its own stock from holders thereof, and the latter are entitled to all rights of other creditors of the corporation for the protection and enforcement of their demand for payment. Blalock v. Kernersville Mig. Co., 110 N. C. 99, 100, 14 S. E. 90.

§ 55-72. Mutual corporations may create stock.—A mutual corporation, upon the consent in writing of all its members, may provide for and create a capital stock and may provide for the payment of the stock, and fix and prescribe the rights and privileges of the stockholders therein not inconsistent with law. (Rev., s. 1245; 1901, c. 2, s. 105; C. S. 1167.)

Art. 7. Capital Stock without Nominal or Par Value.

§ 55-73. Corporations which may create shares without nominal or par value. Classes of stock or debentures.—Any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized under the laws of this State, whether under a special act of Legislature or otherwise, except banks, trust companies and insurance companies, may create a capital stock and may provide for the issue to him of his certificate of incorporation, articles of association, charter or any amendment thereof, create shares of stock with or without nominal or par value, and may create two or more classes of stock or debentures, any class or classes of which may be with or without nominal or par value, with such designations, preferences, voting powers, restrictions and qualifications as shall be fixed in such certificate of incorporation, articles of association, charter or amendment thereof, or by resolution adopted by those holding two-thirds of the outstanding capital stock entitled to vote. Subject to any provisions so fixed, every share without nominal or par value shall equal every other such share. (1921, c. 116, s. 1; 1925, c. 362, s. 1; C. S. 1167(a)).

Editor's Note.—This law as passed in 1921 was the first legislation in this state permitting the issuance of non-nominal or non-par value stock in corporations. It grew out of a previous demand to overcome the difficulties in financing corporations, whose stock is either above or below par value, resulting in misrepresentations and misunderstanding, arising through the difference between the actual value and face value of stock, and from the blue sky laws which prohibit the sale of new stock unless the actual value and par value correspond, and that new stock be sold at its actual value. (For a detailed description of these hardships, see 1 N. C. L. Rev. 26.)

New York was the first state to pass such laws (1912), but since that time over half of the states have enacted them. Along with the many advantages of the law are many objections to it and it might be said that the wisdom of such legislation is yet speculative. The article in the Law Review, cited supra, gives an excellent discussion of such problems.

The N. C. Law Review, vol. 3, p. 135, gives an interesting discussion of the changes effected by the 1925 amendment. The first section was stricken and reenacted in the form in which it now appears, several changes having been made.

The provision permitting two thirds of those holding the outstanding capital stock entitled to vote, to create stock with or without par value and fix its status with respect to voting, preference, etc., was inserted. It is pertinent to point out here an apparent inconsistency between this provision and section 55-61 as amended by the acts of 1925 seven days before this statute was passed.

Prior to the 1925 amendment, section 55-61 provided that a two-thirds vote of the outstanding capital stock was necessary to create new stock, including preferred stock. The 1925 amendment changed the two-thirds requirement to a majority vote, except as to banks and building and loan associations) and further provided that no stock should be created in priority to any existing preferred stock without a two-thirds vote. Therefore, there is an apparent conflict between the provisions of sections 55-61, requiring a majority vote, and the provisions of this section, requiring a two-thirds vote for the creation of stock "with or without per value."

The 1925 amendment also inserted the provision that any "class or classes of stock, with or without per value," was a reference to "special acts of the legislature" and the words "charter" and "designations."

§ 55-74. Stock issues; payment for stock; terms and manner of disposition.—The provisions of law relating to the issuance of stock with par value shall apply to the issuance of stock without nominal or par value, and such corporation may issue and dispose of its authorized shares without nominal or par value for such consideration and on such terms and in such manner as may be determined or approved from time to time by the board of directors, subject to such conditions or limitations as may be contained in the certificate of incorporation, articles of association, charter, or any amendment thereto, or as may be contained in any vote of the holders of a majority of the stock of the corporation, such consideration to be in the form of cash, property, tangible or intangible, services or expenses. Any and all shares without nominal or par value issued for the consideration determined or approved in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be fully paid and not liable to any further call or assessment thereon, nor shall the subscriber or holder be liable for any further payments. (1921, c. 116, s. 2; 1925, c. 263, s. 2; C. S. 1167(b).)

Editor's Note.—The 1925 amendment struck out this section and enacted it in 1921 and revised it. While the section is made more comprehensive generally, the most important change is that the stockholders are now given power to prescribe the consideration, terms and manner of issue and disposal of the stock whereas formerly they exercised such power only with respect to an increase in capital stock.

In some respects, at least, this section is very similar to the corresponding section of the New Jersey Statute. Recpecting the similar provision of the New Jersey Statute which provides for fixing the selling price of the stock, Wickersham on "Stock without Par Value" on page 16, says, "This provision is important. The corporation may now issue its stock for what it can get for it, provided proper corporate action is taken. It is no longer bound by the par consideration rule, nor to seek evasions of that rule for its legitimate purposes."

Although the consideration for the stock is fixed as prescribed in this section, it must be remembered that the right to fix such values is statutory and therefore subject to the statutory limitation. The price must be fixed with at least some relation to value and courts of equity would probably refuse to protect stockholders from the issuance of stock for consideration as shall be fixed by the corporation for its legitimate purposes.

The revisal also subdivided the section into paragraphs.

The Act of 1931 struck out the words "such" and "herefore organized" formerly appearing before and after the word corporation in line one of this section, and inserted after the word "whether" the word "organized."

As to the rights of minority stockholders who object to the exchange of stock with, for stock without par value, see Wickersham on "Stock without Par Value," sections 24-29, pages 58-73.

§ 55-77. Tax on certificate of incorporation or amendments.—The tax upon the certificate of incorporation, or extension or renewal or corporate existence, or increase of capital stock without nominal or par value shall be the same as if each share of stock had a par or face value of one hundred dollars. (1921, c. 116, s. 5; C. S. 1167(c).)

Cross References.—As to the taxes required, see § 55-158. As to provision for taxing the non par value shares of a foreign corporation, see § 55-118.

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of problems arising in connection with the constitutionality of this section, see Wickersham, "Stock without Par Value," and 17 N. C. L. Rev. 346.

§ 55-78. Intent or purpose of law.—The intent and purpose of this article is to require a share of stock to be treated and represented, subject to lawful preferences, rights, limitations, privileges, and restrictions as a mere evidence of an aliquot part or divisional interest in the assets and earnings of the corporation issuing the same, whatever the extent or value of such assets or earnings may be, to the end that misrepresentation or misunderstanding arising through the difference between actual value of a share of stock and the value appearing on the face of the certificate.
therefor may be eliminated. (1921, c. 116, s. 6; C. S. 1167(f).)

§ 55-79. Laws applicable to corporations.—Except as otherwise provided by this article, corporations issuing shares without any par or face value under the provisions hereof shall be and remain subject to the laws of the state now or hereafter in force relating to the formation, regulation, or reorganization rights, powers, and privileges of such corporations, and all other laws applicable thereto. (1921, c. 116, s. 7; C. S. 1167(g.).)

§ 55-80. Provision for future exchange of par value stock for non-par value stock.—Any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized under the laws of this State, whether under a special act of Legislature or otherwise, except banks, trust companies, and insurance companies, may, in its original certificate of incorporation, articles of association, charter, or any amendment thereof, provide for the exchange of its shares to be issued with nominal or par value for an equal or different number of outstanding shares without nominal or par value. (1929, c. 338, s. 1.)

Cross Reference.—As to railroads, see also § 60-11.

§ 55-81. How title to certificates and shares may be transferred.—Title to a certificate and to the shares represented thereby can be transferred only:

(a) By delivery of the certificate indorsed either in blank or to a specified person by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner of the shares represented thereby, or

(b) By delivery of the certificate and a separate document containing a written assignment of the certificate or a power of attorney to sell, assign, or transfer the same or the shares represented thereby, signed by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner of the shares represented thereby. Such assignment or power of attorney may be either in blank or to a specified person.

The provisions of this section shall be applicable although the charter or articles of incorporation or code of regulations or by-laws of the corporation issuing the certificate and the certificate itself, provide that the shares represented thereby shall be transferable only on the books of the corporation or shall be registered by a registrar or transferred by a transfer agent. (1941, c. 333, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to the sale of shares of stock of a foreign corporation held by a life tenant, see § 55-119. See also § 55-99.

Editor's Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 19 N. C. L. Rev. 469. The cases annotated here were decided under former § 1164.

In General.—Although shares of stock are personal property and are transferable on the books of the corporation as provided by the by-laws, such provision, if it is held, can be of no practical benefit to those not connected with the corporation, because they have “no means of knowing whether the transfer has been made or not.” Castellio v. Jenkins, 186 N. C. 166, 172, 119 S. E. 202.

Transfer on Books Not Necessary.—It is well settled that the requirement of this section as to entering transfers of stock upon the books of the corporation is for the protection of the corporation, and that the failure to enter such transfer upon the corporate books has no effect upon the legality of the transfer as between the parties themselves. Grissom v. Sternberger, 10 Fed. (2d) 765, 766 citing numerous cases.

Duty of the Corporation.—It is the duty of the corporation to protect persons interested, such as contingent remaindermen or legatees when the corporation has knowledge of the contents of the will, from an unauthorized transfer of stock. Wooten v. Railroad, 128 N. C. 119, 38 S. E. 298; Baker v. Railroad, 173 N. C. 365, 92 S. E. 170.

Holder Has Preference.—The holder of the stock either as a purchaser or a pledgee has the preference over an attaching creditor although the transfer of the stock has not been entered on the books of the corporation. Breckly v. Candler, 169 N. C. 16, 20, 84 S. E. 1039.

Corporation May Trade in Own Stock.—Shares of stock are declared by § 55-80 to be personal property, and may be sold or purchased by the corporation which has created them. Byrd v. Tidewater Power Co., 205 N. C. 589, 591, 172 S. E. 182.

Transfer of Title.—Where the holder and owner of stock surrenders the certificates to the corporation and directs the corporation to transfer same on its books, the transferee acquires title which is perfected by the surrender or delivery of the new certificate to him. Jones v. Waldroup, 17 N. C. 178, 7 S. E. (2d) 366.

§ 55-82. Powers of those lacking full legal capacity and of fiduciaries not enlarged.—Nothing in this article shall be construed as enlarging the powers of an infant or other person lacking full legal capacity or of a trustee, executor or administrator, or other fiduciary, to make a valid indorsement, assignment or power of attorney. (1941, c. 333, s. 2.)

§ 55-83. Corporation not forbidden to treat registered holder as owner.—Nothing in this article shall be construed as forbidding a corporation to:

(a) To recognize the exclusive right of a person registered on its books as the owner of shares to receive dividends, and to vote as such owner, or

(b) To hold liable for calls and assessments a person registered on its books as the owner of shares. (1941, c. 333, s. 3.)

The title of a transferee of a certificate under a power of attorney or assignment not written upon the certificate, and the title of any person claiming under such transferee, shall cease and determine if, at any time prior to the surrender of the certificate to the corporation issuing it, another person, for value in good faith, and without notice of the prior transfer, shall purchase and obtain delivery of such certificate with the indorsement of the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner thereof, or shall purchase and obtain delivery of such certificate and the written assignment or power of attorney of such person, though contained in a separate document. (1941, c. 333, s. 4.)

§ 55-85. Delivery of certificate by one without authority or right of possession.—The delivery of a certificate to transfer title in accordance with the provisions of § 55-81, is effectual, except as provided in § 55-87, though made by one having no right of possession and having no authority from the owner of the certificate or from the person purporting to transfer the title. (1941, c. 333, s. 5.)

§ 55-86. Indorsement effectual in spite of fraud, duress, mistake, revocation, death, incapacity or lack of consideration or authority.—The indorsement of a certificate by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner of the shares injury, or has been guilty of laches in endeavoring in § 55-87, though the indorser or transferor; represented thereby is effectual, except as provided the obligation, if any, imposed by such promise shall be determined by the law governing the for-formation and performance of contracts. (1941, c.

353, s. 10.)
§ 55-91. Warranties on sale of certificate.—A person who for value transfers a certificate, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a certificate, unless a contrary intention appear, warrants;
(a) that the certificate is genuine,
(b) that he has a legal right to transfer it, and
(c) that he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair the validity of the certificate.
In the case of an assignment of a claim secured by a certificate, the liability of the assignor upon such warranty shall not exceed the amount of the claim. (1941, c. 353, s. 11.) § 55-92. No warranty implied from accepting payment of a debt.—A mortgagee, pledgee, or other holder for security of a certificate who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such certificate is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt, or from any other person, shall not by so doing be deemed to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such certificate, or the value of the shares represented thereby. (1941, c. 353, s. 12.)
§ 55-93. No attachment or levy upon shares unless certificate surrendered or transfer enjoined.
—No attachment or levy upon shares of stock for which a certificate is outstanding shall be valid until such certificate be actually seized by the officer making the attachment or levy, or be surrendered to the corporation which issued it, or its transfer by the holder be enjoined. Except where a certificate is lost or destroyed, such corporation shall not be compelled to issue a new certificate for the stock until the old certificate is surrendered to it. (1941,
c. 353, s. 13.)
Cross Reference.—As to attachment of shares of stock, see §§ 1-458 to 1-460.
§ 55-94. Creditor's remedies to reach certificate.—A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a certificate shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction and otherwise, in attaching such certificate or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity, in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. (1941, c. 353, s. 14.)
§ 55-95. No lien or restriction unless indicated on certificate.—There shall be no lien in favor of a corporation upon the shares represented by a certificate issued by such corporation and there shall be no restriction upon the transfer of shares so represented by virtue of any by-laws of such corporation, or otherwise, unless the right of the corporation to such lien or the restriction is stated upon the certificate. (1941, c. 353, s. 15.)
§ 55-96. Alteration of certificate does not divest title to shares.—The alteration of a certificate, whether fraudulent or not and by whomsoever made, shall not deprive the owner of his title to the certificate and the shares originally represented thereby, and the transfer of such a certificate shall convey to the transferee a good title to such certificate and to the shares originally represented thereby. (1941, c. 353, s. 16.)
§ 55-97. Lost or destroyed certificate.—Where a certificate has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the issue of a new certificate therefor on service of process upon the corporation and on reasonable notice by publication, and in any other way which the court may direct, to all persons interested, and upon satisfaction of proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety to be approved by the court to protect the corporation or any person injured by the issue of the new certificate from any liability or expense, which it or they may incur by reason of the original certificate remaining outstanding. The court may also in its discretion order the payment of the corporation's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

The issues of a new certificate under an order of the court as provided in this section, shall not relieve the corporation from liability in damages to a person to whom the original certificate has been or shall be transferred for value without notice of the proceedings or of the issuance of the new certificate: Provided, nothing in this section shall prevent the issuance of a new stock certificate in the place of a lost or destroyed certificate in accordance with the provisions of § 55-67. (1941, c. 353, s. 17.)

Cross References.—As to the issuance of duplicate certificates, see also §§ 55-67 and 55-68. As to procedure when corporation in which stock is held merges with another, see § 55-166.

Editor's Note.—The case annotated here was decided under former § 1163.

Loss Question of Fact.—Where a stockholder in an unincorporated company loses his certificate of stock and sues his company for a reissue and the allegation of loss is denied, an issue of fact is raised for trial by jury and it must be submitted to them. Hendon v. North Carolina R. Co., 152 N. C. 184, 34 S. E. 227.

§ 55-98. Rules for cases not provided for by this article.—In any case not provided for by this article, the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant, and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent, executors, administrators and trustees, and to the effect of fraud, misrepresentation, duress, or coercion, mistake, bankruptcy, or other invalidating cause, shall govern. (1941, c. 353, s. 18.)

§ 55-99. Interpretation of article.—This article shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it. (1941, c. 353, s. 19.)

§ 55-100. Definition of indorsement.—A certificate is indorsed when an assignment or a power of attorney to sell, assign, or transfer the certificate or the shares represented thereby is written on the certificate and signed by the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner thereof, and of the shares represented thereby, until and unless he indorses the certificate to another specified person, and thereupon such other specified person is the person appearing by the certificate to be the owner thereof until and unless he indorses the certificate to another specified person. Subsequent special indorsements may be made with like effect. (1941, c. 353, s. 21.)

§ 55-102. Other definitions.—(1) In this article, unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires—

"Certificate" means a certificate of stock in a corporation organized under the laws of this state or of another state whose laws are consistent with this article.

"Delivery" means voluntary transfer of possession from one person to another.

"Person" includes a corporation or partnership or two or more persons having a joint or common interest.

To "purchase" includes to take as mortgagee or as pledgee.

"Purchaser" includes mortgagee and pledgee.

"Shares" means a share or shares of stock in a corporation organized under the laws of this state or of another state whose laws are consistent with this article.

"State" includes state, territory, district and insular possession of the United States.

"Transfer" means transfer of legal title.

"Title" means legal title and does not include a merely equitable or beneficial ownership or interest.

"Value" is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or pre-existing obligation, whether for money or not, constitutes value where a certificate is taken either in satisfaction thereof or as security therefor.

(2) A thing is done "in good faith" within the meaning of this article, when it is in fact done honestly, whether it be done negligently or not. (1941, c. 353, s. 22.)

§ 55-103. Article does not apply to existing certificates.—The provisions of this article apply only to certificates issued after March 15, 1941. (1941, c. 353, s. 23.)

Editor's Note.—This act became effective March 15, 1941.

§ 55-104. Name of article.—This article may be cited as the Uniform Stock Transfer Act. (1941, c. 353, s. 26.)

Art. 9. Meetings, Elections and Dividends.

§ 55-105. Place of stockholders' and directors' meetings.—The meetings of the stockholders of every corporation of this state shall be held at the principal office in this state. The directors may hold their meetings, and have an office and keep the books of the corporation (except the stock and transfer books) outside the state. Every corporation shall maintain a principal office in this state, have an agent in charge thereof. (Rev., s. 117; 1901, c. 2, s. 49; C. S. 1168.)

Cross References.—As to first meeting of a corporation, see § 55-6. As to the stock and transfer books, see § 55-107. As to power of court to compel corporation to bring its books into the state, see § 55-109. As to changing the location of the principal office, see § 55-34.

Where Charter Provision Contrary.—Although the act incorporating a company provided that Norfolk, Virginia, should be the place of its principal office, it was held in Simmons v. Norfolk & Baltimore, etc., Co., 115 N. C. 147, 18 S. E. 117, that it is the duty of a corporation to keep its principal place of business, its books and records and its principal officers within the state which incorporates it, to an extent necessary to the fullest jurisdiction and visitorial

Scope of Meetings.—The scope of a special meeting of stockholders is limited to the purpose stated in the notice thereof; business action beyond this scope is void unless a new purpose is consented to or subsequently ratified. Asbury v. Mooney, 173 N. C. 454, 92 S. E. 267.

Must Act in Meeting.—It is essential to the validity of the acts of stockholders of a corporation that they should be assembled in their representative capacity as they are not permitted to discharge any of their duties as stockholders unless so organized. Hill v. Railroad, 143 N. C. 593, 55 S. E. 854, citing Duke v. Markham, 105 N. C. 131, 10 S. E. 1017.

Same—Individual Assent Invalid.—The assent of a majority of stockholders, expressed elsewhere than at a meeting of the stockholders, as where the assent of each is given separately and at different times to a person who goes around to them privately, does not bind the company. Duke v. Markham, 105 N. C. 151, 10 S. E. 1017.

Necessity for Notice.—In order to protect the rights of minorities the law requires that notice of the meetings of the stockholders of a corporation shall be given to every shareholder, either by the method prescribed in the charter or by-laws or by express notice; but where it appears that every person interested had express notice and participated in a meeting, there is no necessity for proving a compliance with such notice. Benbow v. Cook, 115 N. C. 325, 620 S. E. 453.

Meetings of Directors.—To make the proceedings of a meeting of the directors of a corporation regular, it must be at a stated time provided for in the articles of incorporation, or by-laws or held after notice to all of the directors. First Nat. Bank v. Asheville, etc., Lumber Co., 116 N. C. 827, 11 S. E. 948.

Same—Necessity for Notice.—The acts of the majority of the directors at a meeting held at an unusual time and place, without notice to the other directors, are not valid. First Nat. Bank v. Asheville, etc., Lumber Co., 116 N. C. 827, 11 S. E. 948.

§ 55-106. Meeting called by three stockholders.—When, for any reason, a legal meeting of the stockholders of any corporation cannot be otherwise called, three stockholders with voting power may call such meeting by publishing in a newspaper published in the county in which the principal office in this state is located ten days notice of the time, place and purposes of the meeting, and mailing this notice to all stockholders whose postoffice addresses are known or can be ascertained. A meeting so called is a legal meeting of the corporation, and if there are no officers present, the stockholders may elect officers for the meeting; and the secretary of the meeting shall record the proceedings thereof in the minute book of the corporation. (Rev., s. 1190; 1901, c. 2, s. 51; C. S. 1169.)

§ 55-107. Transfer and stock books.—Every corporation shall keep at its principal and registered office in this state the transfer books, in which the transfer of stock shall be registered, and the stock books, which shall contain the names and addresses of the stockholders, and the number of shares held by them respectively, and shall at all times during the usual hours for business be open to the examination of every stockholder. These books shall be the only evidence as to who are the stockholders entitled to examine them, and to vote at elections. In case the right to vote upon any share of stock is questioned, the stock books of the corporation shall be referred to, to ascertain who are the stockholders, and in case of a discrepancy between the books, the transfer book shall control and determine who are entitled to vote. (Rev., ss. 1180, 1181; 1901, c. 2, ss. 35, 45; C. S. 1170.)

time that the voter can "cumulate" his votes. Bridgers v. Staton, 150 N. C. 216, 217, 63 S. E. 892.

The right to cumulative voting is not given generally, but only in the election of officers. It could not apply to other matters, as the motion to adjourn, for instance, where there is only one proposition and nothing to "cumulate" upon. Bridgers v. Staton, 150 N. C. 216, 217, 63 S. E. 892.

Voting Trust Illegal.—An agreement which deprives the stockholders of the right to vote is contrary to public policy and void. Harvey v. Improvement Co., 118 N. C. 693, 24 S. E. 489; Sheppard v. Rockingham Power Co., 150 N. C. 776, 777, 64 S. E. 894.

Saxey—Not a Proxy.—An agreement pooling stock in a corporation which creates a voting trust, with absolute powers to decide upon matters arising for a period exceeding three years cannot be considered as a proxy authorized by this section for a proxy is only good for the period of three years. Sheppard v. Rockingham Power Co., 150 N. C. 776, 777, 64 S. E. 894.

§ 55-111. Stock held by fiduciary, pledgor, life tenant, or corporation.—Every person holding stock as executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, or in any other representative or fiduciary capacity, may represent it at all meetings of the corporation, and may vote it as a stockholder, with the same effect as if the absolute owner thereof, unless the instrument creating the trust provides to the contrary. Every person who has pledged his stock as collateral security may represent it at all such meetings, and may vote it as a stockholder, unless in the transfer to the pledgee on the books of the corporation he has expressly empowered the pledgee to vote it, in which case only the pledgee or his proxy may represent and vote said stock. Where stock is owned by, or has been transferred on its record by, a tenant at all meetings of the corporation may represent it and vote the stock in person or by proxy, in the same manner and with the same effect as if he were the absolute owner thereof. Shares of stock of a corporation belonging to the corporation cannot be voted directly or indirectly. (Rev., ss. 1185, 1186, 1187; 1901, c. 2, ss. 42, 43; 1905, c. 174, 67 S. E. 892; 1914, c. 174, 67 S. E. 892.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of a corporation to purchase its own stock, see §§ 55-66 and 55-71.

When Trustee May Vote.—When the terms and provisions of a will, bequeathing a life interest in certain shares of stock in a corporation, provide that in the event of a death of the life tenant the shares are to be held and controlled by trustees therein named as executors and trustees, the trustees may vote the same in the stockholders' meetings under this section and the provisions of this section cannot issue to voting for the shares of the life tenant has no application. Haywood v. Wright, 152 N. C. 421, 422, 67 S. E. 962.

Assignee Empowered to Vote.—A written agreement assigning stock in a corporation with authority to vote, reserving to the assignee who retains possession the right to all dividends, amounts only to a proxy. Bridgers v. Staton, 150 N. C. 216, 217, 63 S. E. 892.

§ 55-112. Election of directors.—All elections for directors shall be by ballot, unless otherwise provided in the charter or by-laws, and a majority of the issued and outstanding stock must be present in person or by proxy; the persons receiving the greatest number of votes shall be the directors. (Rev., ss. 1182; 1901, c. 2, ss. 39; 1927, c. 138; C. S. 1175.)

Cross Reference.—As to directors in general, see § 55-41. As to power of the directors, see § 55-51.

Editor's Note.—This section formerly contained this additional provision: "The polls must remain open one hour, unless all the stockholders are present in person or by proxy and have sooner voted, or unless all the stockholders have voted by proxy before this meeting; this sentence was stricken out by ch. 138, Public Laws 1927.

Effect of Motion of Adjournment.—When a motion to adjourn a stockholders' meeting has been carried, and a sufficient number have withdrawn to reduce the number of those present below a majority of all the stock issued and outstanding, an election of officers cannot be lawfully held without adjournment to a future meeting, though the adjournment was carried by an illegal vote. Bridgers v. Staton, 150 N. C. 216, 63 S. E. 892.

§ 55-113. Failure to hold election.—If the election for directors of a corporation is not held on the day designated by the charter or by-laws, the directors shall cause the election to be held as soon thereafter as is convenient. No failure to elect directors at the designated time shall work any forfeiture or dissolution of the corporation; and if the directors fail or refuse for thirty days after receiving a written request for such election from those owning one-tenth of the outstanding stock, to call a meeting for the election, the judge of the district, or the judge presiding in the courts of the district, in which the principal office of the corporation is located, may, upon the application of any stockholder and on notice to the directors, order an election or make such other order as the judge deems advisable. The provisions for the issue and hearing of injunctions shall, as far as applicable, govern such hearing. (Rev., ss. 1188; 1901, c. 2, ss. 46; C. S. 1176.)

Mandamus Cannot Issue.—A mandamus sought under the provisions of this section and the following section cannot issue to compel the reconvening of the stockholders for the election of directors because of an illegal adjournment to a certain date by unlawful voting of stock, when that date has passed but the provisions of this section should be followed. Bridgers v. Staton, 150 N. C. 216, 217, 63 S. E. 892.

When Meeting Ordered by Judge.—A meeting of the stockholders of a corporation, ordered, upon application, by the judge in accordance with the provisions of this section, must be composed of a majority of shares held twenty days before such meeting, as it appears from the stock book, or, in case of a discrepancy, the transfer book of the corporation. Bridgers v. Staton, 150 N. C. 216, 217, 63 S. E. 892.

§ 55-114. Jurisdiction of superior court over corporate elections.—Whenever there shall be any dispute with reference to the election of directors by the stockholders of any corporation in the hands of a receivership, or whenever there shall be any dispute with reference to the election of officers of any corporation by directors or stockholders, if the stockholders elect the officers, the resident or presiding judge of the district may, after ten days' notice to the stockholders, or to the directors as the case may be, hear at chambers, in the county in which the principal office of the corporation is situated, evidence in the form of affidavits as to dispute, and may continue from time to time such hearing for the purpose of establishing facts with reference thereto to his satisfaction; and upon the completion of his hearing may order a new election or may declare the result of the election so held, or may continue the directors or officers, as the case may be, until a new election shall be held: Provided, however, that no order shall be entered temporarily affecting the status of the corporation. With reference to notice, evidence, and the findings by the judge hearing the same, the proceedings shall be, as far as possible, the same as in injunctions. (Rev., s. 1189; 1901, c. 2, s. 47; 1935, c. 413; 1957, c. 347; C. S. 1177.)

Cross References.—As to power of superior court to compel corporation to comply with the provisions of this section, see § 55-144.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1937 amendment this section also provided that in the appointment of receivers, which was inserted by the 1937 amendment.

Failure to Elect Directors.—A proceeding based upon the failure of stockholders of a corporation to elect directors at any annual meeting held for that purpose is a proceeding under this section, and notice in writing signed by complainant served on the adverse parties by the sheriff thereof shall be equivalent to the notice designated for the hearing of the complaint conferred jurisdiction upon the judge of the superior court over the parties and subject-matter of the proceeding, and the conditions precedent to proceedings under this section shall be applicable. In re Hotel Raleigh, 207 N. C. 521, 177 S. E. 648.

In this proceeding the corporation is neither a necessary nor a proper party, nor may its rights be affected, and the judgment shall be, as far as possible, the same as in injunctions. (Rev., s. 1191; 1901, c. 2, s. 52; C. S. 1178.)

§ 55-115. When dividend declared.—The directors of every corporation created under this chapter shall, in January of each year, unless some specific time for that purpose is fixed in its charter, or by-laws, and in that case at the time so fixed, after reserving, over and above its capital stock paid in, as a working capital for the corporation, whatever sum has been fixed by the stockholders, declare a dividend among its stockholders of the whole of its accumulated profits exceeding the amount reserved, providing for the payment in dividends of the full net profits, the company showing at the end of 1941 a surplus of $38,000 on a capital of $7,800. Amick v. Coble, 222 N. C. 484, 23 S. E. 2d 854.

Mandamus to Compel Dividends.—Where, under the provisions of this section, the accumulated profit of a private corporation in excess of the working capital has been ascertained, the directors are without authority to expend that surplus upon the working capital, and unless the directors have declared and paid dividends therefrom in accordance with the requirements of the statutes, mandamus will issue to compel such distribution. Cannon v. Wiscassett Mills Co., 195 N. C. 119, 141 S. E. 344.

Stock Dividend May Be Declared.—The issuance of paid-up stock as a dividend cannot be contested by an existing creditor, nor by one who has notice of the facts, since it withdraws nothing from the corporation or in any way depletes its assets. Whitlock v. Alexander, 160 N. C. 463, 466, 76 S. E. 556.

Declared Dividend Is Debt.—A dividend declared by and due from a private corporation is a debt due to the shareholder, and is recoverable as such. Trustees v. North Carolina R. Co., 221 N. C. 392.

Debt Can Not Be Deduced from Dividend.—A bank has no right to retain out of the dividends upon the stock the balance due to its stockholder. Attorney General v. State Bank, 21 N. C. 545.

An action to compel declaration of a dividend can not be maintained where the stockholder has not applied to the directors, and must allege that the directors refused to entertain such application. Winstead v. Hearne Bros. & Co., 173 N. C. 606, 611, 92 S. E. 613, citing 2 Cook on Corps., § 684, p. 209.

§ 55-116. Dividends from profits only; directors' liability for impaing capital.—No corporation may declare and pay dividends except from the surplus or net profits arising from its business, or when its debts, whether due or not, exceed two-thirds of its assets, nor may it reduce, divide, withdraw, or in any way pay to any stockholder any part of its capital stock except according to this chapter; provided, a public service corporation doing business in any part of the state may sell, issue, and dispose of any part of its surplus or net profits arising from its business except when its debts, whether due or not, exceed three-fourths of its assets; provided, further, that any corporation, other than a public service corporation, which is a member of a partnership may declare and pay dividends from the surplus or net profits arising from its business when the sum of the corporation's separate debts, whether due or not, and that part of the partnership debts which is the same proportion of all the partnership debts, whether due or not, as the corporation's interest in the partnership assets is of all such assets, does not exceed two-thirds of the corporation's assets, and in such calculation the amount of its interest in the partnership assets shall be considered. In case of a violation of any provision of this section, the directors under whose administration the same occurs are jointly and severally liable, at any time within six years after paying such dividend, to the corporation and its creditors, in the event of its dissolution or insolvency, to the full amount of the dividend paid, or capital stock reduced, divided, withdrawn, or paid out, with interest on the same from the time such liability accrued. Any director who was absent when the violation occurred, or who dissent from the act or resolution by which it was effected, may exonerate himself from such liability by causing his dissent to be entered at large on the minutes of the directors at the time the action was taken or immediately after he has had notice of it. (Rev., s. 1192; Code, s. 681; 1901, c. 2, ss. 33, 52; 1927, c. 121; 1933, c. 354, s. 1; C. S. 1179.)

Cross References.—As to officer's liability for fraud, see §§ 55-56. As to joint and several liability of directors, see § 55-57.

Editor's Note.—The first proviso in the first sentence was added by ch. 121, Public Laws of 1927.

The second proviso, relating to dividends by corporation holding membership in partnership, was inserted by Public Laws 1931, c. 354.

§ 31 N. C. Law Rev. 212, for criticism of this section.
Surplus or net profits, as used in this section, are what remains after deducting from the present value of all the assets, including the capital stock, the liabilities of the corporation, including the capital stock. Cannon v. Wiscasset Mills Co., 195 N. C. 119, 125, 141 S. E. 344.

Where Charter Exempts Stockholder from Liability.—The charter provisions, that "no stockholder of the corporation shall be individually liable for debt, liability, contract, tort, omission, or engagement of the corporation or any other stockholder thereof," does not make the corporation the just and equitable principle embodied in this section holding the stockholders who are directors liable for a joint tort or misfeasance committed by them to the prejudice of creditors. McVey v. Young Hardware Co., 144 N. C. 474, 479, 57 S. E. 169.

Fraudulent Representation that Dividend is Earned.—Evidence that the corporation had induced the defendant to purchase, by falsely representing a dividend would be credited upon his notes given for the shares, is in effect a representation that the corporation had earned the dividend as represented in this section; and it may be received as a circumstance of fraud, together with other evidence tending to establish it. Seminole Phosphate Co. v. Johnson, 185 N. C. 419, 124 S. E. 839.

The declaration of a dividend and issuance of stock for it, by an excessive overvaluation of property or by an excessive valuation of profits, is prima facie evidence that the unearned increment would be evidence from which fraud could be inferred, and in extreme cases it might be regarded as conclusive. Whitlock v. Alexander, 160 N. C. 467, 161 S. E. 796.

Liability of Director.—A director of a corporation who has not brought himself within the provisions of this section, exonerating him from liability for the payment of dividends to himself or to any other stockholder of the benefit, does not apply to any director of the business with the right to justify it, or its debts exceed two-thirds of its assets, etc., is liable, in the case of the trustee in bankruptcy of such corporation, for the amount of such debts, and the proper court costs and charges, not exceeding the amount of the dividends unlawfully declared. Claypool v. McIntosh, 182 N. C. 109, 108 S. E. 483.

Question of Fraud for Jury.—The question as to actual fraud in issuing a stock dividend must be referred to a jury. Whitlock v. Alexander, 160 N. C. 465, 475, 76 S. E. 538.

Repurchase of Stock.—This section was held inapplicable to suit by receiver against directors for repurchase of stock by corporation in Thompson v. Shepherd, 203 N. C. 310, 165 S. E. 796.

Art. 10. Foreign Corporations.

§ 55-117. Powers existing independently of permission to do business.—A corporation created by another state of the United States, or by any foreign state, kingdom, or government, may acquire by devise or otherwise, and may hold, mortgage, lease, and convey real estate in this state as executor, administrator, guardian, in charge of such office, the character of the business in such corporation, or any other stockholder thereof, does not apply to railroad, banking, express or telephone companies excepted, shall file in the office of the secretary of state a copy of its charter or articles of incorporation, but in no case less than forty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars: and also a filing fee of five dollars. Provided that the tax upon shares of stock without nominal or par value shall be the same as if each share of stock had a par or face value of one hundred dollars. Such corporation may withdraw from the state upon filing in the office of the secretary of state a statement signed by its president and secretary and attested by its corporate seal, setting forth the fact that such corporation desires to withdraw, and upon payment to the secretary of state of a fee of five dollars. Every corporation failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall forfeit to the state five hundred dollars, to be recovered, with costs, in an action to be prosecuted by the attorney-general, who shall prosecute such actions whenever it appears that this section has been violated. This section does not apply to railroad, banking, express or telephone companies which, prior to March 9, 1915, had been licensed to do business in this state, or continue involved in the business in this state, having a regularly appointed agent upon whom service of process could be made, located in this state. All acts of the Secretary of State domesticating foreign corporations without nominal or par value shares of stock and taxing the same as provided in the proviso are hereby validated. (Rev., s. 1914; 1901, c. 2, s. 57; 1903, c. 76; 1915, c. 263; 1935, c. 44; 1959, c. 57; C. S. 1181.)
Cross References—As to service of process and appointment of agent, see §§ 1-97, paragraph 1, 1-98, 55-38, and 7-143. As to venue, see § 1-80. As to foreign insurance companies, see §§ 38-149 et seq. As to foreign building and loan associations, see §§ 1-105. As to foreign security and loan corporations in this state, see § 55-10. As to taxation, see §§ 105-122 and 105-250.

Editor's Note.—One extremely important question which has arisen under this section is in regard to the effect of non-compliance by foreign corporations, particularly whether after compliance they have a right to sue in the federal courts on the ground of diverse citizenship. This question arose in 1903 in Debnam v. Tel. Co., 100 N. C. 831, 36 S. E. 269 and it was decided that the purpose of this section was to require all corporations doing business in the state to become domesticated by this domicile procedure was an act to require the corporation not to become a foreign corporation, and that the corporation could not remove a cause, when sued in the state courts, to a federal court, on the ground of diverse citizenship. This ruling was upheld in Douglass Co. v. Honeycutt, 204 N. C. 219, 167 S. E. 810. In 1900 in the case of Debnam v. Tel. Co., 126 N. C. 831, 36 S. E. 713, it was decided that the purpose of this section was to require all corporations doing business in the state to become domesticated by this domicile procedure was an act to require the corporation not to become a foreign corporation, and that the corporation could not remove a cause, when sued in the state courts, to a federal court, on the ground of diverse citizenship. This ruling was upheld in Douglass Co. v. Honeycutt, 204 N. C. 219, 167 S. E. 810.

The amendment of 1935 increases the amount payable on every one thousand dollars of capital stock from twenty to twenty-five dollars and the maximum as five hundred instead of two hundred and fifty dollars. The changes occur in the second sentence of the section.

This section requires that the address added the proviso after the second sentence, provided: "All acts of the secretary of state domesticating foreign corporations without nominal or par value shares of stock and taxing the same as provided for in this section shall be validated."

For comment on 1897 amendatory act, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 546.

In General.—Although this section excludes insurance companies from its operation, the statutes will be construed in relation to their subject-matter. The exception in this section is because insurance companies are exclusively dealt with elsewhere. (Coles v. North Carolina Ins. Co. v. Lawrence, 204 N. C. 707, 169 S. E. 636.)

Exercise of Police Power.—There is nothing in the U. S. or State Constitution which prohibits the state, in the exercise of its police power, from the exclusion of foreign corporations doing business in the state without compliance. Minnesota v. Blue Bird Auto, 280 U. S. 375, 50 S. E. 2d 376.

The restriction of the constitution is that the license tax must not interfere with interstate commerce or be otherwise invalid. Pittsburg Life, etc., Co. v. Young, 172 N. C. 331, 187 S. E. 726.

Property Not Removed to State.—This section requiring "domestication" enables plaintiffs to get personal service upon a foreign corporation, but does not remove its property to the State nor the sites of its debts created elsewhere. Stuewe Bros. v. Aetna Fire Ins. Co., 125 N. C. 221, 35 S. E. 471.

Effect of Non-Compliance.—From the character of this section and its evident purpose the contracts of a foreign corporation doing business in the State without compliance are not avoided, but the penalty alone is enforceable, and by action as the statute prescribes. Miller v. Howell, 184 N. C. 119, 123, 113 S. E. 621; Ober & Sons Company v. Kattenstein, 169 N. C. 439, 76 S. E. 476. And in such a case where State sues for the penalty, Blackwell's Tobacco Co. v. American Tobacco Co., 144 N. C. 352, 363, 57 S. E. 5; Ober & Sons Company v. Kattenstein, supra.

If the State, in addition to the penalty, has desired to render invalid the contract and to deny a recovery thereon, it would have so enacted, as it has done in regard to gambling. Tobacco Trustee Co. v. Kattenstein, 160 N. C. 439, 441, 76 S. E. 2d.

How Charter Proven.—The charter of a foreign corporation may be proven in this State by exhibiting a copy duly certified by the Secretary of State or the Secretary of the State in which the corporation was created. Barcelo v. Ignace, 118 N. C. 712, 714, 24 S. E. 124.

Right to Sue and Be Sued.—Where a foreign corporation has submitted to domestication in this State by filing its certificate of incorporation with the Secretary of State and by otherwise complying with the provisions of this section, it thereby acquiesces the right to sue and be sued in the courts of this State as a domestic corporation, and where it brings action on a note in the county of its designated residence the defendants are not entitled to remove to the county of their residence as a matter of right. Smith-Douglass Co. v. Honeycutt, 204 N. C. 219, 167 S. E. 810. Cited in Ward v. Southern Sand & Gravel Co., 33 F. (2d) 771.

§ 55-119. Sale of shares of stock held by life tenant.—The shares of the capital stock of a foreign corporation, in which any person owns a life estate, may be sold by an order in a special proceeding, unless prohibited by the instrument under which the estate was created, or by the State nor the situs of its debts created elsewhere. The clerk of the Supreme Court shall have power to make, from time to time, appropriate orders for the sale of said shares of stock, and for handling, securing and investing the net proceeds of such sales. In lieu of the payment to the life tenant of the income and profits on the net proceeds of sale, the clerk may order the present cash value of the life tenant's share, ascertained as by law provided, to be paid to the life tenant absolutely, out of said proceeds, and order the balance thereof to be invested and kept invested for the remaindermen, or paid over to a trustee appointed for the purpose, after the trustee shall have qualified by filing with the clerk an undertaking, to be approved by him, payable to the State of North Carolina, for the benefit of the remaindermen, in a sum double the amount of the balance of the net proceeds aforesaid, and conditioned for the prompt forthcoming and payment of the principal and interest or income thereof, and the faithful performance of duty and compliance with the orders of court relating thereto. The orders aforesaid shall be approved by the judge of the Superior Court residing in or holding the court of the district, where such approval is now required by law. (1925, c. 59.)

§ 55-120. Secretary of state directed to require domestication of all foreign corporations doing business in state.—The secretary of state is hereby directed to require that every foreign corporation doing business in North Carolina, as permitted under the provisions of § 55-117, shall file in the office of the secretary of state a copy of its charter or articles of agreement, in the manner required by § 55-118, and all amendments thereto, and otherwise fully comply with the provisions of said law, including the payment to the secretary of state of fees fixed by said law for the privilege of doing business in said state and domestication thereof. The secretary of state is authorized and empowered to employ such assistants as shall be deemed necessary in his office for the purpose of carrying out and enforcing the provisions of this section, and for making such investigations as shall be necessary to ascertain foreign corporations now doing business in North Carolina which [ 467 ] may have failed or hereafter fail to domesticate as required by law. (1937, c. 343.)

Art. 11. Dissolution.
§ 55-121. Voluntary, generally.—When in the judgment of the board of directors it is deemed advisable and for the benefit of a corporation that it be dissolved, the board, within ten days after the adoption of a resolution to that effect by a majority of the whole board, at a meeting called for that purpose, of which meeting every director shall have received three days notice, shall cause notice of adoption of such resolution to be mailed to each stockholder residing in the United States, to his last known postoffice address, and also, beginning within said ten days, cause a like notice to be published in a newspaper published in the county wherein the corporation has its principal office, at least once a week for four successive weeks, next preceding the time appointed for the same, of a meeting of the stockholders to be held at the office of the corporation, to take action upon the resolution. The stockholders' meeting thus called may, on the day appointed, by consent of a majority in interest of the stockholders present, locate and hold in any place within the county wherein the corporation has ceased to transact business and fails to dissolve itself as provided by law, a meeting to settle up and adjust its business and affairs. Upon the timely filing in the office of the secretary of state of an affidavit of the manager or publisher of such newspaper that a dissolution take place, their consent, to the adoption of a resolution to that effect, and the written assent of such resident stockholder. White v. Kincaid, 149 N. C. 415, 419, 63 S. E. 109.

Motive Generally Immaterial.—When a corporation lawfully proceeds to wind up its affairs in accordance with this section, the motive underlying the act, however reprehensible or malicious, is not, as a rule, relevant to the inquiry; and the courts will not undertake to interfere with the honest exercise of discretionary powers vested by statute in the management of the corporation, so long as the stockholders, when no time was fixed for its duration, upholding and extending this power of voluntary dissolution as established by the better considered decisions on the subject. White v. Kincaid, 149 N. C. 415, 419, 63 S. E. 109.

Same—Directors Are Trustees.—The directors of a corporation in proceedings for dissolution, under this section, are trustees in the sense that they must act faithfully in their judgment for the benefit of the corporation and in furtherance of its interest, and not for the purpose of unjustly enriching themselves or the individual stockholders, a judgment as of the directors concurred in by two-thirds in interest of the stockholders. White v. Kincaid, 149 N. C. 415, 419, 63 S. E. 109.

Liquidation to Escape Judgment.—An attempted liquidation by a corporation, to escape judgment for the refund of money wrongfully distributed, is in fraud of creditors. Chatham v. Realty Co., 180 N. C. 500, 105 S. E. 329.

Suits Pending Dissolution.—Where it appears in an action that the indebtedness sought to be recovered was claimed to be due a corporation, and that the suit was instituted by the individual stockholders, a judgment as of the corporation is proper, whether the corporation was voluntarily dissolved or not, and the judgment, as between the corporation and the proper party plaintiff being the corporation or a receiver appointed therefor, is to the corporation. Worthington v. Gilmers, 190 N. C. 128, 129 S. E. 157.

§ 55-122. Liability of stockholders.—The stockholders of a corporation chartered under the laws of this state are individually liable for all taxes, costs and fees for the dissolution of the corporation, and the attorney-general is authorized to enforce the provisions of this section by suit in the name of the state, or of the Attorney-General, or of any one of the stockholders, or of the corporation, and the superior court of the county in which the principal office of the corporation is located, for the recovery of all taxes required by the Revenue Laws of the State of North Carolina. (Rev. s. 1195; 1901, c. 2, s. 34; 1941, c. 195; C. S. 1182.)
dent stockholders, accompanied by such affidavit, is sufficient to dissolve the corporation. If no stockholder of such corporation is found within the state the secretary of state has authority to declare the charter of the corporation forfeited, and shall publish annually in his corporation report a list of the corporations whose charters have been so forfeited. (1909, c. 730, s. 1; C. S. 1183.)

Cross Reference.—As to liability for unpaid stock, see § 55-65.

§ 55-123. Voluntary, before payment of stock.—The incorporators named in a certificate of incorporation, before the payment of any part of the capital stock, and before beginning the business for which the corporation was created, may surrender all their corporate rights and franchises, by filing in the office of the secretary of state a certificate, verified by oath, that no part of the capital stock has been paid and such business has not been begun, and surrendering all rights and franchises. Thereupon the corporation is dissolved. (Rev., s. 1177; 1901, c. 2, s. 35; C. S. 1184.)

§ 55-124. Involuntary, at instance of private persons.—Corporations may be dissolved by civil action, instituted by the corporation, a stockholder, or creditor, or by authority of the attorney-general in the name of the state, in the following cases:

1. For any abuse of its powers to the injury of the public or of its stockholders, creditors, or debtors.
2. For nonuser of its powers for two or more consecutive years.
3. When it is insolvent, or suspends its ordinary business for want of funds, or is in imminent danger of insolvency, or has forfeited its corporate rights.
4. Upon any conviction of the company of a persistent criminal offense. (Rev., s. 1196; Code, s. 694; 1901, c. 2, s. 73; C. S. 1183.)

Cross Reference.—As to involuntary dissolution of a bank, see § 53-19.

Editor's Note.—The provision in the next section, that the stockholder instituting the dissolution proceeding must own one-fifth or more of the stock, does not apply to proceedings under this section. Lasley v. Mercantile Co., 179 N. C. 390, 177 S. E. 207.

Nor is it necessary that the stockholder allege or prove that he first made application to the directors or management to take action in the matter for this relates to suits for the purpose, though the corporation itself may be insolvent. Jones v. A. & W. Ry. Co., 193 N. C. 590, 177 S. E. 707.

§ 55-125. Involuntary, by stockholders.—When stockholders owning one-fifth or more in amount of the paid-up common stock of any such corporation apply to the judge of the superior court holding the courts for the county in which the principal place of business of the corporation is situated, by petition containing a statement that for three years next preceding the filing of the petition, which time shall begin to run from three years after it has begun business, the net earnings of the corporation have not been sufficient to pay in good faith an annual dividend of four per cent on the paid-up stock of the corporation, over and above the salaries and expenses authorized by its by-laws and regulations, or that the corporation has paid no dividend for six years preceding said application; or whenever stockholders owning one-tenth or more in amount of the paid-up common stock of any such corporation apply to the judge of the superior court as aforesaid by petition containing a statement that the corporation has paid no dividend on the common stock for ten years preceding said application, and that they desire a dissolution of the corporation, the judge shall make an order requiring the officers of the corporation to file in court, within a reasonable time, inventories showing all the real and personal estate of the corporation, a true account of its capital stock, the names of the stockholders, their residences, the number of shares belonging to each, the amount paid in upon said shares and the amount still due thereon, and a statement of all the encumbrances on the property of the corporation and all its contracts which have not been fully satisfied and canceled, specifying the place and residence of each creditor, the sum owing to each, the nature of the debt or demand, and the consideration thereof, and any other information of the corporation. Upon the filing of the inventories, accounts and statements, the court shall enter an order requiring all persons interested in the corporation to appear before a referee to be appointed by the court, at a time and place named in the order, service of which may be made by publication for such time as may be deemed proper by the court, and show cause why the corporation should not be dissolved. If it appears to the court that the statements contained in the petition are true, the court may adjudge a dissolution of the corporation and shall appoint one or more receivers, who shall have the powers of receivers conferred by this chapter for the winding up the affairs and distribution of the assets of the corporation. If it appears to the court that the corporation is insolvent or in imminent danger of insolvency, the court may appoint a temporary receiver of the corporation pending dissolution. No suit shall be brought for the dissolution of a corporation under the provisions of this section until each and all of the petitioners have owned their stock for the term of two years prior to the institution of the action; nor shall any such suit be brought for the period of three years after a final judgment upon a prior petition as herein provided. (1913, c. 147; 1915, c. 137, s. 1; C. S. 1186.)

Editor's Note.—The provision for dissolution, upon the application of stockholders owning one-tenth or more of the paid-up common stock, when the corporation has paid no dividends for ten years preceding, was added by Laws of 1913, ch. 157. In regard to this amendment the court said in Winstead v. Hearne Bros., 173 N. C. 575, 97 S. E. 613: "This amendment would appear to be inconsistent with the six-year clause of the original act, and to require ten years’ complete suspension of dividends on the common stock of a corporation before application can be made for a receiver on that ground."

The constitutionality of this section providing for the dissolution of a corporation is not attacked. It can successfully assailed in an action thereunder to dissolve a corporation organized subsequent to its enactment. Kistler v. Caldwell Cotten Mills Co., 205 N. C. 809, 172 S. E. 373.

Application of stockholders owning one-tenth or more of the paid-up common stock, when the corporation has paid no dividends for ten years preceding, was added by Laws of 1913, c. 147; 1915, c. 137, s. 1; C. S. 1186.

An information, filed by the Attorney-General, for the purpose of having the charter of an incorporation declared to be forfeited, though it need not be expressed in technical language, yet it must set out the substance of a good cause of forfeiture in its essential circumstances of time, place and overt acts. Attorney General v. Petersburg, etc., R. Co. 28 N. C. 456.

Area of Rural Community Misrepresented.—The right of action is given the Attorney-General, on the relation of the State, to annul a certificate of incorporation of a rural community when the petition upon which the Secretary of State has issued the certificate misrepresents that the area of the community to be incorporated extended only to that of "one school district," under the provisions of this section authorizing the Attorney-General to bring action when a certificate has been issued for a purpose of having the charter of an incorporation declared to be void on the ground of "a fraudulent suggestion or concealment of a material fact by the persons incorporated, or by some of them, or with their knowledge or consent," etc. State v. Rural Community, 192 N. C. 861, 109 S. E. 576.

§ 55-127. Forfeiture or dissolution for failure to organize or act. — When a charter has been granted creating a corporation, and the incorporators for two years neglect to organize and act, the charter is forfeited, and a corporation chartered under the laws of this State for that purpose. Boyd v. Redd, 120 N. C. 335, 27 S. E. 488.

§ 55-128. Forfeiture for nonuser by hydro-electric companies. — All waterpower, hydro-electric power, and water companies or corporations organized in this state shall be required to begin active work in making their proposed development within two years after their organization and diligently to prosecute their work on the same until it has been completed; and a failure to begin the work or development within the time, and to diligently prosecute work on the same until its completion, as herein provided, shall be legal grounds for declaring their charter rights or to dissolve, in the manner provided in this chapter, the secretary of state shall report their knowledge or consent, etc. State v. Rural Community, 192 N. C. 861, 109 S. E. 576.

§ 55-129. Involuntary, by bankruptcy. — When a corporation chartered under the laws of this state is adjudged bankrupt under the laws of the United States or when it shall be made to appear to a judge of the superior court that all of the assets of the corporation of whatever kind or character have been lost to the stockholders by reason of foreclosure, assignment, or execution under judgment, and that the corporation is therefore unable to conduct the business for which it was organized, the charter of the corporation is forfeited without further action, unless the stockholders determine by appropriate resolutions to continue the corporate existence of the corporation after the adjudication in bankruptcy, foreclosure, assignment, or sale under execution, and furnish the secretary of state with a duly certified copy of the resolutions, all within six months after the adjudication, foreclosure, assignment or final sale under execution. The stockholders of a bankrupt corporation whose existence is continued by the foregoing procedure must pay all privilege taxes which have accrued against the corporation since the adjudication, together with a fee of one dollar allowed the secretary of state for recording and filing the certificate provided for in this section. (1915, c. 134, ss. 2, 3; 1931, c. 310; C. S. 1190.)

Editor's Note.—Under this section prior to the Act of 1931, corporate charters were automatically forfeited by an adjudication of bankruptcy unless the stockholders took certain specified actions within a given time after the corporation was organized, if they for two consecutive years cease to act, then this disuse of their corporate privileges and powers is a forfeiture of the charter. If, after thirty days notice by the secretary of state, the corporation fails to surrender its corporate rights or to dissolve, in the manner provided in this chapter, the secretary of state shall report it to the attorney-general, who shall institute an appropriate action for its dissolution. (Rev., s. 1246; Code, s. 688; 1901, c. 2, s. 106; C. S. 1188.)

§ 55-130. When franchises forfeited by neglect, etc., corporation dissolved; costs. — If it is adjudged that a corporation against which an action has been brought has forfeited by neglect, abuse, or surrender, its corporate rights, privileges and franchises, judgment shall be rendered that the corporation be excluded from such rights, privileges and franchises, and that it be dissolved. If judgment is rendered in such action against a corporation, or against persons claiming to be a corporation, the court may cause the costs to be collected by execution against the persons making the claim, or by attachment or process against the directors or other officers of the corporation. (Rev., ss. 1209, 1210; Code, ss. 617, 618; C. S. 1191.)

§ 55-131. Service of summons in action for dissolution. — In an action for the dissolution of a corporation, or for the appointment of a receiver thereof, the summons must be served on the corporation by service on an officer or agent upon whom other process can be served, and shall be served on the stockholders, creditors, dealers and any others interested in the affairs of the company by publishing a copy at least weekly for two successive weeks in some newspaper printed in the county in which the corporation has its principal place of business, or if there is no such newspaper published, by posting a copy of the summons at the door of the courthouse of such county, and publishing a copy for the time and in the manner aforesaid in a newspaper published nearest the county seat of the county in which the corporation has its principal place of business or in a newspaper published in the city of Raleigh. This publication is sufficient service on all the stockholders, creditors of, or dealers with, the corporation, and upon the corporation, if no officer can after due diligence be found in the state and it has no process agent in the state; and all
§ 55-132. Corporate existence continued three years. — All corporations whose charters expire by their own limitation, or are annulled by forfeiture or otherwise, shall continue to be bodies corporate for three years after the time when they would have been so dissolved, for the purpose of prosecuting and defending actions by or against them, and of enabling them gradually to settle and close their concerns, to dispose of their property, and to divide their assets; but not for the purpose of continuing the business for which the corporation was established. The superior court of the county in which the principal office of said corporation is located may, upon petition of said corporation, continue the corporate existence for the purposes of winding up the affairs, for such time as the court may deem proper. The provisions hereof shall also apply to corporations whose affairs have not on March 30, 1939, been wound up. (Rev., s. 1200; Code, s. 667; 1901, c. 2, s. 58; 1919, c. 230, s. 1; C. S. 1193.)

Cross Reference.—As to the status of corporation which has been merged with another, see § 55-166.

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment substituted the last two sentences for the last sentence of this section.

In General.—This section expressly extends the life of the corporation for three years after dissolution, for the purpose of winding up its affairs. Smathers v. Bank, 135 N. C. 410, 413, 47 S. E. 90.

It covers cases of forfeiture not nearly so horrendous as bankruptcy. Sisk v. Old Hickory Motor Freight, 222 N. C. 691, 424 S. E. (2d) 488.

Purpose.—The provisions of this section are free from any ambiguity. The mischief to be remedied was the confusion possibly resulting from the abrupt dissolution of the corporation, and the measure adopted was the continuation of the corporate character solely for the purpose of winding up its affairs. General Electric Co. v. West Asheville Imp. Co., 73 Fed. 386, 388.

Commentary with § 55-129.—It was not the intention of this section and § 55-129 to bring about a situation in which a corporation could be alive to its assets, but dead to its obligations. To enjoy the security of an indestructible estate inventus during the time corporate existence is continued by statute for the purpose of suing and being sued. Sisk v. Old Hickory Motor Freight, 222 N. C. 611, 634, 424 S. E. (2d) 489.

Applies to All Corporations.—This section is not a provision of the charter of a particular corporation but a general provision of law applying to all corporations, and the purpose of the section is not to give it any special or pro tanto. Indeed, the repeal makes it applicable actwise to the particular corporation, as a sort of statutory letters of administration, which before the repeal it was a passive provision. General Electric Co. v. West Asheville Imp. Co., 73 Fed. 386, 388.

Under this section, a corporation continues for three years to be a body corporate, to dispose of its property and dividing its assets, and to perform all duties. — On the dissolution in any manner of a corporation, unless otherwise directed by an order of the court, the directors are trustees thereof, with full power to settle the affairs, collect the outstanding debts, sell and convey the property, and, after paying its debts, divide any surplus money and other property among the stockholders. The trustees have power to meet and act under the by-laws of the corporation, and, under regulations to be made by a majority, to prescribe the terms and conditions of the sale of such property, and they may sell all or any part for cash. They cannot give credit, or take mortgages or bonds for part of the purchase money for all or any part of the property. They have no power to sell for and recover the said debts and property in the name of the corporation, and are unable in the same name for the debts owing by it, and are joint and severally responsible for such debts only to the amount of property of the corporation which comes into their possession as trustees. Vacancies in the board of directors may be filled in accordance with the provisions of the by-laws of the corporation or the stockholders may fill such vacancies at a regular or duly called meeting. (Rev., ss. 1201, 1202; Code, s. 667; 1901, c. 2, ss. 59, 60; 1919, c. 250, s. 2; C. S. 1194.)

Cross Reference.—As to directors in general, see § 55-48.

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added the last sentence of this section.

Remedy Must Be Pursued within Three Years. — The statutory remedy is exclusive of all others, and must be pursued within the three years, and a failure to proceed within that period will be a complete defense, not only to the corporation, but to the stockholders; and to individuals, who, by its charters or acts of the board of directors, are made individually responsible in the event of its insolvency. VonGlahn v. DeRossett, 81 N. C. 468.

Where a corporation is actually dissolved, the lapse of more than three years from dissolution, will serve as complete defense to actions against it. Standard Trust Co. v. Commercial National Bank, 240 Fed. 303, 306.

Same.—Only Applies Where Charter Expired.—This provision has no application to a case where a corporation had continued its business but its charter had not expired or been annulled. Heggie v. Building & Loan Assn., 107 N. C. 581, 592, 12 S. E. 275.

Hence the action of a judgment creditor is not barred in three years after the corporation has ceased to do business but its charter had not expired or been annulled. Heggie v. Building & Loan Assn., 107 N. C. 581, 12 S. E. 275.

Secured from Dissolved Corporation.—Where the certificate of the probate of a deed from a corporation, dissolved under certificate of the secretary of state, made within the time allowed by this section, recites as a fact judicially found that the deed was made in the name of the corporation, by the order of the directors, the trustee’s objection that it was not executed in the method required by sec. 55-133, is untenable; and the signature of the agent in charge, if made upon the mistake that he was in law the assignee of the mortgage, is only surplusage, and harmless. Lowdermilk v. Butler, 182 N. C. 502, 109 S. E. 571.

Section Does Not Apply to Merger.—Where an old corporation is, by a transfer of all its property, franchises and privileges, merged into a new corporation, with the same stockholders and directors as the old, with all the liabilities of the old corporation, this section does not apply so as to make the old corporation a necessary party to the action. In re New Friedewald Co. v. Ashe- ville Tobacco, etc., Co., 117 N. C. 546, 23 S. E. 490.

No Equity Jurisdiction.—This section and the two following sections, which continue the existence of defunct corporations for three years after the corporation was established, for the purpose of bringing and defending suits and closing their general business, oust the former equity jurisdiction for the appointment of a receiver, at the instance of creditors to wind up the corporate affairs. VonGlahn v. DeRossett, 81 N. C. 468.

§ 55-133. Directors to be trustees; powers and duties. — On the dissolution in any manner of a corporation unless otherwise directed by an order of the court, the directors are trustees thereof, with full power to settle the affairs, collect the outstanding debts, sell and convey the property, and, after paying its debts, divide any surplus money and other property among the stockholders. The trustees have power to meet and act under the by-laws of the corporation, and, under regulations to be made by a majority, to prescribe the terms and conditions of the sale of such property, and they may sell all or any part for cash. They cannot give credit, or take mortgages or bonds for part of the purchase money for all or any part of the property. They have no power to sell for and recover the said debts and property in the name of the corporation, and are unable in the same name for the debts owing by it, and are jointly and severally responsible for such debts only to the amount of property of the corporation which comes into their possession as trustees. Vacancies in the board of directors may be filled in accordance with the provisions of the by-laws of the corporation or the stockholders may fill such vacancies at a regular or duly called meeting. (Rev., ss. 1201, 1202; Code, s. 667; 1901, c. 2, ss. 59, 60; 1919, c. 250, s. 2; C. S. 1194.)
Confession of Judgment in Director's Favor.—A confession of judgment by an insolvent corporation in favor of a director who is a creditor, and upon a debt theretofore existing, is void as against other creditors. Hill v. Lumber Co. v. Grimes, 155 N. C. 566, 68 S. E. 567.

§ 55-134. Jurisdiction of superior court.—When a corporation is dissolved, in any manner whatsoever, the superior court, on application of a creditor or stockholder, may either continue the directors as trustees or appoint one or more persons receivers of the corporation. The court has jurisdiction of the application, and of all questions arising in the proceedings thereon, and may make, at any place in the district, any orders, injunctions, or decrees therein as justice and equity require. The powers of such trustees or receivers are as elsewhere given in this chapter, and may be continued as long as the court thinks necessary. (Rev. ss. 1203, 1204; Code, ss. 619, 668, 669; 1901, c. 2, ss. 61, 62; C. S. 1195.)

Cross References.—As to appointment of receiver, see § 55-147. As to powers and duties of receivers, see §§ 55-148 to 55-157.

When Section Applies.—Although by section 55-133 the directors, unless otherwise determined by order of some court having jurisdiction in the matter, may continue as trustees, or wind up the corporate business under this section, the entire matter of winding up the corporate business after dissolution may be taken charge of by the court, and must be at the instance of either the creditors or stockholders or any one of them. White v. Kincade, 149 N. C. 415, 422, 63 S. E. 109.

What is a "Creditor".—Any one who has a debt or demand against an insolvent corporation upon a contract, express or implied, comes within the meaning of the word "creditor" used in the statute, and may apply to the court and other creditors may do so. When a corporation itself applies to the court for a receiver for the corporation. Summit Silk Co. v. Kinston Spinning Co., 154 N. C. 421, 422, 70 S. E. 820.

Property In Custodia Legis.—The property of an insolvent corporation in a receiver's hands is in custodia legis, and the court has jurisdiction by virtue of its general equitable powers, and by express provision of this section. Lasley v. Scales, 179 N. C. 578, 103 S. E. 214.

Jurisdiction Over Foreign Corporation.—An insolvent corporation, with its property or plant located in this state, is subject to the appointment by our courts of a receiver to receive and administer there the assets of the corporation in a receiver's hands is in custodia legis, and the court has jurisdiction by virtue of its general equitable powers, and by express provision of this section. Lasley v. Scales, 179 N. C. 578, 103 S. E. 214.

When Receiver Appointed.—When a corporation is insolvent or in imminent danger of insolvency, and especially when its business operations have practically been suspended owing to its financial condition, the court may, upon proper application of a creditor or stockholder, appoint a receiver to take charge of the business and administer for the benefit of all of its creditors. Summit Silk Co. v. Kinston Spinning Co., 154 N. C. 421, 70 S. E. 820.

Judgment against Corporation.—Judgments against a corporation in a receiver's hands are as subject to the prior lien; and the lien given to laborers and workmen and all persons doing labor or service of whatever character in the regular employment of certain corporations. Phoenix Iron Co. v. Roanoke Bridge Co., 169 N. C. 512, 513, 86 S. E. 184.

Prior Lien Holders Protected.—Property acquired by a private corporation subject to a valid and registered mortgage does not become an asset of the corporation except as subject to the prior lien; and the lien given to laborers and workmen and all persons doing labor or service of whatever character in the regular employment of certain corporations. Phoenix Iron Co. v. Roanoke Bridge Co., 169 N. C. 512, 513, 86 S. E. 184.

Authority to Adjust Claims.—While in the statute relating to the winding up of the affairs of an insolvent corporation, it is given to the court to make such orders as justice and equity shall require and direct how claims shall be approved, the claims may be adjusted. Davis v. Industrial Mfg. Co., 114 N. C. 421, 422, 70 S. E. 820, approving Holshouser v. Copper Co., 138 N. C. 248, 50 S. E. 650.

Clear Expression of Intent.—The language used in this section is admirably fitted to give expression to the legislative intent to accord preference to a favored class of creditors to which it undertakes to accord preferential treatment in the distribution of the assets of an insolvent corporation, and small latitude is afforded for speculation. The favored creditors are "laborers and workmen and all persons doing labor or service of whatever character in the regular employment of certain corporations." Phoenix Iron Co. v. Roanoke Bridge Co., 169 N. C. 512, 513, 86 S. E. 184.

Consecution of Judgment in Director's Favor.—A confes-
section an agent with authority to make collections and to deduct his salary and expenses from the sums collected, has no lien for claims for salary and expenses owing before his appointment to the position. Cummer Lumber Co. v. Walker Lumber Co., 170 N. C. 460, 467 S. E. 331.

Notice Need Not Be Filed.—Under this section the laborer is not required to file a notice of his claim. Walker v. Lumber Co., 170 N. C. 460, 87 S. E. 331.

Section 55-135—Record of Incapacitation.—This section is not intended to destroy the lien for such wages and services performed after the company goes into the hands of a receiver. The word "within" means "subsequent," that is, that after 60 days prior to the insolvency, the laborer shall have a first lien for their wages. Walker v. Lumber Co., 170 N. C. 460, 467 S. E. 331.

§ 55-137. Distribution of funds.—After payment of all allowances, expenses and costs, and the satisfaction of all general and special liens upon the funds of the corporation to the extent of their lawful priority, the creditors shall be paid proportionately to the amount of their respective debts, and shall be entitled to distribution on debts not due, making in such case a rebate of interest when interest is not accruing on the same. Any surplus funds, after payment of the creditors and costs, expenses and allowances, shall be paid to the preferred stockholders according to their respective shares, and if there still be a surplus, it shall be divided and paid to the general stockholders in accordance with their respective shares. Upon the distribution of the assets of an insolvent corporation, judgment of dissolution shall be entered and a certified copy of the judgment filed in the office of the secretary of state, and also in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the principal office of the corporation is located, and the same shall be recorded in the Corporation Book and in the Record of Incapacitations in those offices respectively. Thereupon the corporation is dissolved without being required to comply with § 55-121. (Rev., s. 1207; Code, s. 670; 1901, c. 2, ss. 65, 59; 1900, c. 15, s. 1; C. S. 1198.)

In General.—When the receiver shall have collected the assets of the corporation, all the claims against the corporation shall be sufficient, and if not sufficient, to distribute the same ratably, among all the creditors who shall prove their claims. When once the court of equity, through its receiver, has determined the priority of its lien creditors, who have established the priority of their lien over the rights of general creditors, in statutory proceedings to wind up the affairs of an insolvent corporation and to distribute its assets. Hickston Lumber Co. v. Gay Lumber Co., 150 N. C. 281, 63 S. E. 194.

§ 55-138. Debts not extinguished nor actions abated.—In case of the dissolution of a corporation, the debts due to and from it are not thereby extinguished, nor do actions against a corporation which is dissolved before final judgment abate by reason thereof, but no judgment shall be entered therein without notice to the trustees or receivers of the corporation. (Rev., ss. 1201, 1208; Code, s. 687; 1901, c. 2, ss. 59, 64; C. S. 1198.)

Cross Reference.—As to directors becoming trustees upon dissolution, see § 134. Where a corporation has been served with summons and has filed answer, the action against it does not abate upon its subsequent dissolution, and its directors are made trustees of its property by §§ 55-132 and 55-133. Lertz v. Hughes Bros., 208 N. C. 490, 181 S. E. 342.

§ 55-139. Copy of judgment to be filed with secretary of state; costs.—A copy of every judgment dissolving a corporation or forfeiting its charter shall be forthwith filed by the clerk of the court in the office of the secretary of state, and a note thereof shall be made by the secretary of state on the charter or certificate of incorporation and in the index thereof, and be published by him in the annual report hereinafter provided for, the cost of which shall be taxed by the clerk of the superior court in the action wherein the corporation is dissolved. (Rev., s. 1211; 1901, c. 2, s. 65; C. S. 1200.)

§ 55-140. How issued; property subject to execution.—If a judgment is rendered against a corporation, the plaintiff may sue out such executions against its property as is provided by law to be issued against the property of natural persons, which executions may be levied as well on the current money as on the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of such corporation. (Rev., s. 1212; 1901, c. 2, s. 66; C. S. 1201.)

Cross References.—As to execution in general, see § 1-302. As to execution by purchaser at execution sale of railroad, see §§ 60-62 and 55-161. As to incorporation by purchaser generally, see § 55-161.

Editor's Note—Levy on Franchise.—Prior to the enactment of the Revised Code, the law of the state was to the effect that a corporation such as that of a railroad or navigation company, could not be levied upon and sold under a writ of fieri facias, or any other writ of execution known either to our common or statute law. Taylor v. Jenkins, 51 N. C. 315, 318; State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297, 306.

To this section the Revised Code added the following: "And if the judgment or decree be against a railroad or other corporation authorized to receive fares or tolls, the franchise of such corporation, with all the rights and privileges thereof, so far as relates to the receiving of fares or tolls, and other corporation authorized to receive fares or tolls, and other corporation authorized to receive fares or tolls, and any agreement among the shareholders, or tolls, and also all other corporate property, real or personal, may be taken on execution and sold, under rules regulating the sale of real estate." Rev. Code, ch. 26, sec. 9. See Taylor v. Jenkins, 51 N. C. 315, 317, 319; Gooch v. McGee, 83 N. C. 60, 66.

As will be seen this provision no longer constitutes a part of the section, and it is now held that the franchise and other property must go together. They cannot be separated. There cannot be a corporation without a franchise. James v. Western N. C. R. Co., 121 N. C. 523, 527, 28 S. E. 530.

The real estate acquired by a public corporation in exercise of a delegated right of eminent domain, and necessary for uses in which the public is concerned, cannot be sold under execution apart from the franchise and its income, so that when a corporation or the property is divested of all the duties and obligations assumed by the company, Gooh v. McGee, 83 N. C. 60.

The franchise of a water company is inseparable from its § 55-141. Agent must furnish information as to property to officer.—Every agent or person having charge or control of any property of the corporation, on request of a public officer having for service a writ of execution against it, shall furnish to him the names of the directors and officers thereof, and a schedule of all its property, including debts due or to become due, so far as he has knowledge of the same. (Rev., s. 1213; 1901, c. 2, s. 67; C. S. 1902.)

Cross Reference.—As to penalty for failure to furnish information, see § 55-144.

§ 55-142. Shares of stock subject to; agent must furnish information.—Any share or interest in any bank, insurance company, or other joint stock company, that is or may be incorporated under the laws of any state, territory, or foreign country, or established under the authority of the United States, belonging to the defendant in execution, may be taken and sold by virtue of such execution in the same manner as goods and chattels. The clerk, cashier, or other officer of such company who has at the time the custody of the books of the company shall, upon being shown the writ of execution, give to the officer having it a certificate of the number of shares or amount of the interest held by the defendant in the company; and if he neglects or refuses to do so, or if he willfully gives a false certificate, he shall be liable to the plaintiff for the amount due on the execution, with costs. (Rev., ss. 1214, 1215; 1901, c. 2, ss. 69, 70; C. S. 1903.)

Cross Reference.—As to shares of stock being liable for attachment, see § 1-458.

Editor’s Note.—Before this section was passed it was held that shares of stock, not being goods or chattels, lands or tenements within the sense of the writ, could not be held that shares of stock, not being goods or chattels, lands or tenements within the sense of the writ, could not be held that shares of stock, not being goods or chattels, lands or tenements within the sense of the writ, could not be held that shares of stock, not being goods or chattels, lands or tenements within the sense of the writ, could not be

§ 55-143. Debts due corporation subject to; duty and liability of agent.—If an officer holding an execution is unable to find other property belonging to the corporation liable to execution, he or the judgment creditor may elect to satisfy such execution in whole or in part out of any debts due the corporation; and it is the duty of any agent or person having custody of any evidence of such debt to deliver it to the officer, for the use of the creditor, and such delivery, with a transfer to the officer in writing, for the use of the creditor, and notice to the debtor, shall be a valid assignment in all respects and the creditor may sue for and collect the same in the name of the corporation, subject to such equitable setoffs on the part of the debtor as in other assignments. Every agent or person who neglects or refuses to comply with the provisions of this section and § 55-144 is liable to pay to the execution creditor the amount due on the execution, with costs. (Rev., s. 1216; 1901, c. 2, s. 68; C. S. 1204.)

§ 55-144. Violations of three preceding sections misdemeanor.—If any agent or person having charge or control of any property of a corporation, or any clerk, cashier, or other officer of a corporation, who has at the time the custody of the books of the company, or if any agent or person having custody of any evidence of debt due to a corporation, shall, on request of a public officer having in his hands for service an execution against the said corporation, willfully refuse to give to such officer the names of the directors and officers thereof, and a schedule of all its property, including debts due or to become due, or willfully refuse to give to such officer a certificate of the number of shares, or amount of interest held by such corporation in any other corporation, or shall willfully refuse to deliver to such officer any evidence of indebtedness due or to become due to such corporation, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3990; 1901, c. 2, ss. 67, 68, 70; C. S. 1203.)

§ 55-145. Proceedings when custodian of corporate books is a nonresident. — When the clerk, cashier, or other officer of any corporation incorporated under the laws of this state, who has the custody of the stock-registry books, is a nonresident of the state, it is the duty of the sheriff receiving a writ of execution issued out of any court of this state against the goods and chattels of a defendant in execution holding stock in such company to send by mail a notice in writing, directed to the nonresident clerk, cashier, or other officer at the postoffice nearest his reputed place of residence, stating in the notice that he, the sheriff, holds the writ of execution, and out of what court, at whose suit, for what amount, and against whose goods and chattels the writ has been issued, and that by virtue of such writ he seizes and levies upon all the shares of stock of the company held by the defendant in execution on the day of the date of such written notice. It is also the duty of the sheriff on the day of mailing the notice to affix and set upon any office or place of business of such company, within his county, a like notice in writing, and on the same day to serve like notice in writing upon the president and directors of the company, or upon such of them as reside in his county, either personally or by leaving the same at their respective places of abode. The sending, setting up, and serving of such notices in the manner aforesaid constitutes a valid levy of the writ upon all shares of stock in such company held by the defendant in execution, which have not at the time of the receipt of the notice by the clerk, cashier, or other officer, who has custody of the stock-registry books, been actually transferred by the defendant; and thereafter any transfer or sale of such shares by the defendant in execution is void as against the plaintiff in the execution, or any purchaser of such stock at any sale thereunder. (Rev., s. 1277; 1901, c. 2, ss. 71; C. S. 1206.)

§ 55-146. Duty and liability of nonresident custodian.—The nonresident clerk, cashier, or other officer in such corporation, to whom notice in writing is served under this section, shall send forthwith to the officer having in his hands for service a writ a statement of the time when he received the notice and a certificate of the number of shares held by the defendant in the corporation at the time of the receipt, not actually transferred on the books of the corporation; and the sheriff, or other

§ 55-147. Powers and bond.—The receiver has power and authority to—

1. Demand, sue for, collect, receive and take into his possession all the goods and chattels, rights and credits, moneys and effects, lands and tenements, books, papers, choses in action, bills, notes, and property of every description of the corporation, and to enforce and protect the same and to settle up the same as long as the court may think it necessary to the performance of the duties pertaining thereto.

2. Foreclose mortgages, deeds of trust, and other liens executed to the corporation.

3. Institute suits for the recovery of any estate, claims, or demand due from the corporation.

§ 55-148. Continuance of Receivership.—A receivership continues as long as the court may think it necessary to the performance of the duties pertaining thereto.

§ 55-149. Directors Duty When Receiver Appointed.—An order appointing a receiver of a defunct corporation with power to receive into possession all the effects of the company, and whose duty it is to investigate and take charge of the property of the corporation, involves the correlative duty of delivering the same to him by the late officers of the company in whose hands the funds are, although not expressly required in the order appointing the receiver. Roberts v. Bowen Mfg. Co., 169 N. C. 27, 76 S. E. 45.

§ 55-151. Where Assignee Appointed Receiver.—One to whom an insolvent bank made an assignment of its assets, who performed his contract to send, or miscarriage of the certificate, does not impair the validity of the levy upon the stock. Davis v. Industrial Mfg. Co., 114 N. C. 321, 19 S. E. 371.

Art. 13. Receivers.

§ 55-155. Appointment and removal.—When a corporation becomes insolvent or suspends its ordinary business for want of funds, or is in imminent danger of insolvency, or has forfeited its corporate rights, or its corporate existence has expired by limitation, a receiver may be appointed by the court upon the same regulations that are provided by law for the appointment of receivers in other cases; and the court may remove a receiver or trustee and appoint another in his place, or fill any vacancy. Everything required to be done by receivers or trustees is valid if performed by a majority of them. (Rev., ss. 1219, 1233; Code, s. 665; 1901, c. 2, ss. 73, 79; C. S. 1208.)

Cross References.—As to receivers in general, see §§ 1-501 to 1-507, inclusive, for powers and duties of corporate receiver, see § 55-146. As to statute making this section applicable to banks, see § 53-22. As to service of summons in appointment of receiver, see § 55-131. As to jurisdiction and mandamus in appointment of receivers, see §§ 55-134 and 55-135. As to payment of creditors, see § 4-74.

Banks, trustees referred to.—This article is so broad and comprehensive in its provisions regarding the appointment of receivers that it was not necessary to refer to the general power of a court of equity in such cases. Summit Silk Co. v. Kinison Spinning Co., 154 N. C. 421, 425, 70 S. E. 820.

Nature of Receivership.—Upon the insolvency of a corporation and the appointment of a receiver under this article, a receiver is vested with the general and exclusive powers and duties of a receiver, including the power of taking any separate or effective steps on their account in furtherance of their claims; and the proceeding for the receivership is in the nature of a judicial process by which the court exercises its jurisdiction of the rights of the general creditors, and ascertains upon whom the corporation becomes insolvent or suspends its ordinary business for want of funds, or is in imminent danger of insolvency, or has forfeited its corporate rights, or its corporate existence has expired by limitation, a receiver may be appointed by the court upon the same regulations that are provided by law for the appointment of receivers in other cases; and the court may remove a receiver or trustee and appoint another in his place, or fill any vacancy. Everything required to be done by receivers or trustees is valid if performed by a majority of them. (Rev., ss. 1219, 1233; Code, s. 665; 1901, c. 2, ss. 73, 79; C. S. 1208.)

§ 55-157. Discretion of Court.—The selection of a receiver for an insolvent corporation is a matter largely in the discretion of the trial judge and will not generally be reviewed unless such discretion has been greatly abused, and the proceedings found to be unreasonable, or for the purpose of obtaining fees in violation of statute. Young v. Rollings, 90 N. C. 125.
place of the corporation in any suit or proceeding pending at the time of his appointment.

4. Sell, convey, and assign all of the said estate, rights, and interest.

5. Appoint agents under him to take possession and control all the books, documents, and papers, and pass on claims as elsewhere provided in this article.

7. Do all other acts which might be done by the corporation, if in being, that are necessary for the final settlement of its unfinished business.

The powers of the receiver may be continued as long as the court thinks necessary, and the receiver shall hold and dispose of the proceeds of all sales of property under the direction of the court, and, before acting, must enter into such bond and comply with such terms as the court prescribes. (Rev. ss. 1223, 1231; Code, s. 668; 1901, c. 3, ss. 74, 81; C. S. 1200.)

Cross Reference.—As to foreclosure by receiver, see § 55-150.

Directors Superseded.—Appointment of receivers of a corporation on a creditors' bill supersedes the power of the directors to carry on the business of the corporation and the receivers take possession of the corporation until further order of the court. (Rev. ss. 1224, 1225; 1901, c. 2, ss. 75, 80; C. S. 1210.)

Power to Bring All Actions.—The receiver represents and, in a certain sense, succeeds to the rights of the corporation. There is no valid reason why he may not, representing the corporation, bring an action in his own name or in the name of the corporation. In either event he may be entitled to. Smathers v. Bank, 135 N. C. 410, 413, 47 S. E. 893; Davis v. Industrial Mfg. Co., 114 N. C. 321, 19 S. E. 371, 23 L. R. A. 322; Gray v. Lewis, 94 N. C. 415, 57 S. E. 923.

Mays Sue In Own Name.—The receiver may sue either in his own name or that of the corporation. In whichever name he may elect to bring the action, it is essentially a suit by the corporation, if not instituted by it. See & Depew v. Fisher Co., 182 N. C. 235, 105 S. E. 758.

Valid Existing Liens Protected.—The title of a receiver of a private corporation to the corporate property relates back to the right of the corporation and divests the property of valid liens existing at that time. Roberts v. Bowen Mfg. Co., 169 N. C. 27, 85 S. E. 45.

All Rights May Be Adjusted.—In the suit by the receivers may be adjudicated all the rights of the bank, its creditors and the defendant debtor, both legal and equitable, pertaining to the matters set out in the pleadings, and such judgment shall be a complete and final settlement of the rights of the corporation and its creditors, and also protect any equities that the defendant may be entitled to. Smathers v. Bank, 135 N. C. 410, 413, 47 S. E. 893; Davis v. Industrial Mfg. Co., 114 N. C. 321, 19 S. E. 371, 23 L. R. A. 322; Gray v. Lewis, 94 N. C. 415, 57 S. E. 923.

Receiver May Plead Usury.—The plea of usury may be made by a receiver of an insolvent corporation against which a usurious contract is sought to be enforced. Riley v. Sears, 154 N. C. 599, 510, 70 S. E. 997.

Valid Existing Liens Protected.—The title of a receiver of a private corporation to the corporate property relates back to the right of the corporation and divests the property of valid liens existing at that time. Roberts v. Bowen Mfg. Co., 169 N. C. 27, 85 S. E. 45.

All Rights May Be Adjusted.—In the suit by the receivers may be adjudicated all the rights of the bank, its creditors and the defendant debtor, both legal and equitable, pertaining to the matters set out in the pleadings, and such judgment shall be a complete and final settlement of the rights of the corporation and its creditors, and also protect any equities that the defendant may be entitled to. Smathers v. Bank, 135 N. C. 410, 413, 47 S. E. 893; Davis v. Industrial Mfg. Co., 114 N. C. 321, 19 S. E. 371, 23 L. R. A. 322; Gray v. Lewis, 94 N. C. 415, 57 S. E. 923.

No Extraterritorial Power.—A receiver, appointed in a stockholder's action to sequestrate assets of the corporation against mismanagement of its officers and directors, has no extraterritorial power. See & Depew v. Fisheries Products Co., 9 Fed. (2d) 235, 236.

Receiver's Power Over Other Receivers.—One receiver has no priority over another receiver previously appointed in another district in the collection of the assets. See & Depew v. Fisheries Products Co., 9 Fed. (2d) 235, 236.

Power after Charter Has Expired.—A receiver, appointed by the court in a certain sense, succeeds to the rights of the corporation on a creditors' bill supersedes the power of the directors to carry on the business of the corporation under this section, who had in the meanwhile been appointed. Odell Hardware Co. v. Holt-Morgan Mills, 173 N. C. 398, 92 S. E. 8.

Same—Does Not Relate Back. — A judgment rendered against a corporation does not relate back, by implication of law, to the beginning of the term, so as to create a lien on the corporate property as against the vesting of the title in a receiver, under this section, who had in the meanwhile been appointed. Odell Hardware Co. v. Holt-Morgan Mills, 173 N. C. 398, 92 S. E. 8.

Effect of Unrecorded Conditional Sale Contract.—A receiver has the power of creditors armed with process to disregard or avoid the unrecorded contract in a contract of conditional sale. Observer Co. v. Little, 175 N. C. 42, 45, 94 N. C. 506.

Receiver Made Defendant.—"In an action brought by creditors, depositors or stockholders to recover assets belonging to the corporation, the title to which has vested in the receiver, upon his refusal to bring the action the receiver may properly be made a defendant, to the end that the recovery may be subject to orders and decrees by the court, in the judgment, to the application to the claims of creditors and depositors, or to its distribution among stockholders." Douglas v. Dawson, 190 N. C. 458, 463, 130 S. E. 194.

§ 55-150. Foreclosure by receivers and trustees of corporate mortgages or grantees.—Where real estate has been conveyed by mortgage deed, or deed of trust to any corporation in this State au-authorized to accept such conveyance for the purpose of securing the notes or bonds of the grantor, and such corporation thereafter shall be placed in the hands of a receiver or trustee in properly instituted court proceedings, then such receiver or trustee under and pursuant to the orders and the decrees of the said court or other court of competent jurisdiction may sell such real property pursuant to the orders and the decrees of the said court or may foreclose and sell such real property as provided in such mortgage deed, or deed of trust, pursuant to the orders and decrees of such court.

All such sales shall be made as directed by the court in the cause in which said receiver is appointed or the said trustee elected, and for the satisfaction and settlement of such notes and bonds secured by such mortgage deed or deed of trust or in such other actions for the sales of the said real property as the said receiver or trustee may institute and all pursuant to the orders and decrees of the court having jurisdiction therein.

All sales of real property made prior to April 10, 1931 by such receiver or trustee of and pursuant to the orders of the courts of competent jurisdiction in such cases, are hereby validated. (1931, c. 365.)

Editor’s Note.—This statute, which became effective April 10, 1931, excepted pending litigation. The need for the statute is not apparent, in view of §§ 55-148 and 55-149, as construed in Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. v. Hudson, 200 N. C. 688, 158 S. E. 244, decided shortly after the act was ratified, unless it was because those statutes are limited to receiverships and are inapplicable, as the new statute is, to trusteeships as well.

§ 55-151. May send for persons and papers; penalty for refusing to answer.—The receiver has power to send for persons and papers, to examine under oath or affirmation the receiver may administer, or to make answers to such questions as may be put to him, or refuses to declare the whole truth touching the subject-matter of the examination, the court may, on report of the receiver, commit such person as for contempt. (Rev., s. 1227; 1901, c. 2, s. 78; C. S. 1211.)

§ 55-152. Proof of claims; time limit.—All claims against an insolvent corporation must be presented to the receiver in writing and the claimant, if required, shall submit himself to such examination in relation to the claim as the receiver directs, and shall produce such books and papers relating to the claim as shall be required. The receiver has power to examine under oath or affirmation all witnesses produced before him touching the claim, and shall pass upon and allow or disallow the claims or any part thereof, and notify the claimants of his determination. The court may limit the time within which creditors may present and prove to the receiver their respective claims against the corporation, and may bar all creditors and claimants failing to do so within the time limited from participating in the distribution of the assets of the corporation. The court may also prescribe what notice, by publication or otherwise, must be given to creditors of such limitation of time. (Rev., ss. 1228, 1229; 1901, c. 2, ss. 81, 82; C. S. 1212.)

Court May Extend Time for Filing.—The court has the discretion to permit the filing of claims subsequent to the time fixed after the appointment of the receiver. Odell Hdw. Co. v. Holt-Morgan Mills, 173 N. C. 308, 92 S. E. 8.

Creditor May Assign Claim.—After the appointment of a receiver a creditor may assign his claim, but such assignment is subject to the receiver’s right to set off claims the bank may have against the creditor, and if the assignee of a claim is himself a debtor of the bank he cannot use the assigned claim as a set-off. Davis v. Industrial Mfg. Co., 114 N. C. 321, 322, 19 S. E. 371.

§ 55-153. Report on claims to court; exceptions and jury trial.—It is the duty of the receiver to report to the term of the superior court subsequent to a finding by him as to any claim liquidated or compromised, and exceptions thereto may be filed by any person interested, within ten days after notice of the finding by the receiver, and not later than within the first three days of the said term; and, if, on an exception so filed, a jury trial is demanded, it is the duty of the court to prepare a proper issue and submit it to a jury; and if the demand is not made in the exceptions to the report the right to a jury trial is waived. The judge may, in his discretion, extend the time for filing such exceptions. (Rev., s. 1230; 1901, c. 2, s. 83; C. S. 1213.)

§ 55-154. Property sold pending litigation.—When the property of an insolvent corporation is at the time of the appointment of a receiver encumbered with mortgages or other liens, the legality of which is brought in question, and the property is of a character materially to deteriorate in value pending the litigation, the court may order the receiver to sell the same, clear of incumbrances, at public or private sale, for the price that can be obtained, and pay the money into the court, there to remain subject to the same liens and equities of all parties in interest as was the property before sale, to be disposed of as the court directs. And the receiver or receivers making such sale is hereby authorized and directed to report to the resident judge of the district or to the judge holding the courts of the district in which the property is sold, the said sale for confirmation, the said report to be made to the said judge in any county in which he may be at the time; but before acting upon said report, the said receiver or receivers shall publish in some newspaper published in the county or in some newspaper of general circulation in the county, where there is no newspaper published in the county, a notice directed to all creditors and persons interested in said property, that the said receiver will make application to the judge (naming him) at a certain place and time for the confirmation of his said report, which said notice shall be published at least ten days before the time fixed therein for the said hearing. And the said judge is authorized to act upon said report, either confirming it or rejecting the sale; and if he rejects the sale it shall be competent for him to order a new sale and the said order shall have the same force and effect as if made at a regular § 55-155. Compensation and expenses.—Before distribution of the assets of an insolvent corporation among the creditors or stockholders, the court shall allow a reasonable compensation to the receiver for his services, not to exceed five per cent upon receipts and disbursements, and the costs and expenses of administration of his trust, and the fees of the receiver and referee, and (except as to priority) in the proceedings in said court, to be first paid out of such assets. (Rev. s. 1226; 1901, c. 2, s. 88; C. S. 1215.)

In General.—The effect of this section is to take from the funds of the insolvent corporation a sufficient sum to pay all the costs, allowances and legitimate expenses, and then to distribute what is left according to priority. Hickson Lumber Co. v. Gay Lumber Co., 150 N. C. 281, 282, 63 S. E. 1048.

Commissions Limited.—A rate not exceeding 5 per cent on receipts and 5 per cent. on disbursements is the statutory limitation. Battery Park Bank v. Western Carolina Bank, 126 N. C. 531, 36 S. E. 39.

Commissions Part of Costs.—Commissions payable to a receiver are a part of the costs and expenses of the suit in which he is appointed, and should be paid as such instead of being classed as a debt payable pro rata with other debts. Wilson Cotton Mills v. Randleman Cotton Mills, 115 N. C. 473, 20 S. E. 770.

Same—Discretion of Court.—An allowance to a receiver is a part of the costs of the action and usually taxable as such. But like a court below, may, in its discretion, divide it between the receiver and the claimants instead of charging part of the claimants' fees. Simmons v. Allison, 119 N. C. 556, 26 S. E. 171.

First Assets Applied to Costs.—Under this section the first assets of the corporation must be applied to the costs of the proceedings in court, including the fees of the receiver and referee, and (except as to priority) in the proceedings unless they fail to appear. Commer. Nat. Bank v. Mooresville Cotton Mills, 222 N. C. 305, 22 S. E. (2d) 913.

Cross Reference.—As to reorganization in general, see 55-161 et seq.

Duty of Fiduciaries.—In the reorganization of a corporation under this section, executors, trustees, and other fiduciaries, holding stock in the corporation, not only have the right, but it is their duty to assert whatever legal rights they may have to protect themselves, in the interest of the estates involved. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Mooresville Cotton Mills, 222 N. C. 305, 22 S. E. (2d) 913.

Readjustment of Capital Structure.—This section gives the superior court power to readjust the capital structure of the corporation for the reorganization of a corporation, which provides for the readjustment of the company's capital structure, when approved by the creditor stockholders. When the corporation has failed, it cannot affect either the rights of dissenting stockholders not parties to the receivership, or the vested rights of parties to the proceedings unless they fail to appear. Commer. Nat. Bank v. Mooresville Cotton Mills, 222 N. C. 305, 22 S. E. (2d) 913.

Consent of Creditors Unnecessary.—Where a corporation engaged in business transfers its entire property rights and franchises to a new company incorporated and organized by the same stockholders and directors as the old, and the new company continues the business and adopts the creditors of the old predecessor, the effect of such a merger is to create a novation so far as the creditors of the old company are concerned and to substitute the new one as debtor, and in such case it is not necessary to obtain the consent of the creditors of the old company to the change. Friedenwald Co. v. Asheville Tobacco, etc., Co., 117 N. C. 544, 23 S. E. 490.

New Corporation Assumes Contracts of Old.—Where, by merger of an old into a new corporation, the debts of the old is created, the new corporation is, to all intents and purposes, the same body and answerable for its own contracts made under a different name. Friedenwald Co. v. Asheville Tobacco, etc., Co., 117 N. C. 544, 23 S. E. 490.

§ 55-158. Taxes for filing; secretary of state not to file corporate papers until prescribed fees, etc.
paid.—On filing any certificate or paper relative to corporations in the office of the Secretary of State, the following tax shall be paid to the State Treasurer for the use of the State:

1. For certificates of incorporation, forty cents for each thousand dollars of the total amount of capital stock authorized but in no case less than forty dollars.

2. Increase of capital stock, forty cents for each thousand dollars of the total increase authorized, but in no case less than forty dollars.

3. Extension or renewal of corporate existence of any corporation, the same as required for the original certificate of incorporation by this section.

4. Change of name, change of nature of business, amended certificate of incorporation (other than those authorizing increase of capital stock), decrease of capital stock, increase or decrease of par value of, or number of shares, forty dollars.

5. For filing of officers and directors, two dollars.

6. Dissolution of corporation, change of principal place of business, five dollars.

7. For certificates of incorporation for any benevolent, religious, educational or charitable societies or associations having no capital stock, fifteen dollars.

Provided, no tax shall be required by corporations created by virtue of § 55-11 relating to public parks and drives; and these taxes shall not be cumulative, but when two or more taxes have been incurred at the same time the tax for all shall be the largest single tax.

The secretary of state shall not file any articles, certificates, applications, amendments, reports, or other papers relating to any corporation, domestic or foreign, organized under or subject to the provisions of this chapter until all fees, taxes, and charges provided to be paid in connection therewith shall have been paid to him. (Rev., s. 1253; 1901, c. 2, s. 96; 1911, c. 155, s. 5; 1929, c. 36; 1935, c. 10; 1937, c. 171; C. S. 1218.)

Cross References.—As to the requirements of the certificate of incorporation, see § 55-3. As to errors or omissions in the certificate, see § 55-8. As to amending the certificate before payment of stock, see § 55-30. As to tax upon certificate of incorporation or amendments when capital stock is without nominal or par value, see § 55-77. As to franchise or privilege tax on domestic and foreign corporations, see § 105-122.

Editor’s Note.—The Act of 1929 amended this section to make it conform to Public Laws, Extra. Sess. 1920, c. 1, which increased the taxes provided for in the original section.

For an article dealing with taxation of North Carolina corporations see 1 N. C. Law Rev. 203-215. This section is mentioned in the article on p. 205.

Prior to the amendment of 1935 no taxes were required of benevolent, religious, educational or charitable societies or associations having no capital stock, the same being exempted by the proviso at the end of the section. Thus subsection (7) is new.

The last amendment added the last paragraph.

§ 55-159. Fees to secretary of state and clerk of court.—The secretary of state shall collect and retain the following fees: For recording the certificate of incorporation, one dollar for the first three copy sheets and ten cents for each copy sheet in excess thereof, and for official seal one dollar; for copying, the same fees as for recording. There shall be paid the clerk of the superior court for recording the certificate of incorporation a fee of three dollars. (Rev., s. 1234; Code, s. 680; 1893, c. 318, s. 4; 1901, c. 2, s. 96; 1917, c. 251, s. 84; C. S. 1219.)

§ 55-160. Property in receiver’s hands liable for taxes.—When listed or unlisted taxes are duly assessed and charged against and are due and unpaid by a corporation with chartered rights, doing business or with property in this state, or against a person residing in, doing business, or having property in this state, it is competent for an officer or tax collector who has the tax list to levy upon, seize, and take possession of that part of the property belonging to the corporation or person necessary to pay such taxes, even though the property is in the hands of a receiver duly appointed; and the officer or collector need not apply to the court appointing the receiver, or with jurisdiction of the property or the receiver, for an order for the payment of said taxes. This section applies to all taxes, whether state, county, town or municipal, and shall be liberally construed in favor of and in furtherance of the collection of such taxes. (Rev., ss. 1236, 1237; Code, ss. 699, 670; C. S. 1220.)

Cross References.—As to duty of state board of assessment to prepare and keep record of the assessed valuation of the property of corporations, see § 105-149. As to liability of foreign corporations, see § 105-396.

Failure to Pay Taxes.—The State and county having, through the boards of commissioners setting with the justices of the peace, assessed the property of a corporation for taxation and placed the tax list in the hands of the sheriff, who cannot find any property of the corporation upon which to levy, are creditors holding a debt against such corporation and are entitled to bring a proceeding in the nature of a creditor’s bill against such corporation, with or without proceedings for its dissolution. State v. Georgia Co., 112 N. C. 34, 17 E. 32.

Attachment and Continuance of Lien.—The lien for taxes attaches to the real property taxed from the date provided in the statute, and the lien continues thereon until the taxes are paid, regardless into whose hands the property has passed, unless barred by some statute of limitations. Reichland Shale Products Co. v. Southern Steel, etc., Co., 200 N. C. 226, 156 S. E. 407.

Where City and County Have No Lien on Proceeds of Sale.—Where the receiver of a corporation sold personal property of the corporation, comprising its sole assets, under orders of the court, and deposited the proceeds of sale to his credit as receiver, and the city and county in whose property the corporation was located levied executions on the funds deposited, claiming that they, respectively, were entitled to preferred claims against the funds for personal property, said taxes were duly assessed prior to the appointment of the receiver, it was held that since under old § 7986 a lien for personal property taxes does not attach until levy thereon and no lien for taxes was created prior to the sale of the property, the lien was not created in favor of and in furtherance of the collection of such taxes. Co. v. Virginia, 302 U. S. 22, 29, 58 S. Ct. 75, 82 L. Ed. 82.

Art. 15. Reorganization.

§ 55-161. Corporations whose property and franchises sold under order of court or execution.—When the property and franchises of a public-service corporation are sold under a judgment or decree of a court of this state, or of the district court of the United States, or under execution, to satisfy a mortgage debt or other encumbrance thereon, such sale vests in the purchaser all the right, title, interest and property of the parties to the action in which such judgment or decree was made, to said property and franchise, subject to all the conditions, limitations and restrictions of the corporation; and the purchaser and his associates, not less than three in number, thereupon become a new corporation, by such name as they shall determine, subject to the debts and liabilities of such corporation, are entitled to all the rights and franchises subject to all the conditions, limitations and penalties of the corporation whose property and franchises have been so sold. In the event of the sale of a railroad in foreclosure of a mortgage or deed of trust, whether under a decree of court or otherwise, the corporation created by or in consequence of the sale succeeds to all the franchises, rights and privileges of the original corporation only when the sale is of all the railroad owned by the company and described in the mortgage or deed of trust, and when the railroad is sold as an entirety. If a purchaser at any such sale is a corporation, such purchase shall succeed to all the properties, franchises, powers, rights, and privileges of the original corporation: Provided, that this shall not affect vested rights and shall not be construed to alter in any manner the public policy of the state now or hereafter established with reference to trusts and contracts in restraint of trade. (Rev., s. 1238; Code, ss. 697, 698: 1897, c. 305; 1901, c. 2, s. 99; 1913, c. 25, s. 1; 1919, c. 75; C. S. 1281.)

Cross References.—As to reorganization, see also § 55-157. As to purchaser of railroad property, see also §§ 60-62 and 69-88.

Railroad Property and Franchise Must Be Together.—The property of railroads must be kept in association with the machinery to preserve their value; to give credit to such corporations; to secure creditors and keep railroads in operation for the benefit of the public, which was the primary object of the Legislature in bestowing such corporate franchises. Such legislative purpose is clearly manifested in this section. Bradley v. Ohio River, etc., Co., 119 N. C. 918, 927, 26 S. E. 193; citing Gooch v. McGee, 83 N. C. 858.

New Corporation Must Be Provided.—In order that the sale of the franchise and property of a corporation under the mortgage shall have the effect of a dissolution of such corporation as provided in this section, another corporation must be provided, as contemplated in section 60-62, to take its place, and assume and discharge the obligations to the public growing out of the grant of the franchise, and until such corporation continues to exist, and when it is done the new corporation will be a domestic corporation. James v. Western N. C. R. Co., 121 N. C. 523, 28 S. E. 537.

Meaning of ‘Encumbrance.’—In this section the word ‘encumbrance’ is not restricted, as in cases of real estate alone, to claims having specific lien on the property, but is extended to include any and all claims importing a liability to sale as a whole under a judicial decree. Wood v. Staton, 174 N. C. 245, 93 S. E. 794.

Effect of Sale of Railroad.—The sale of a railroad under a security of mortgage or deed of trust subject to the first mortgage upon its franchise and corporate properties did not extinguish the corporate existence of the company, nor release it from liability to the public for the management of the property. Thus, in cases of corporate franchises, of a corporation is sold under judicial sale, conveying on the purchaser the right to reorganize, etc., the stockholders have a right to share in the assets if there is a surplus; but the decree itself shuts off all their rights as such stockholders in the new corporation. Wood v. Staton, 174 N. C. 245, 93 S. E. 794.

Debts.—The principle that a corporation taking over another by reorganization, consolidation, amalgamation, or union is subject to the debts and liabilities of such corporation, rests upon the ground that the corporation so taken over either has not been paid a consideration, that the transaction was in fraud of creditors, or upon the presumption of law that the corporation so taken over has no independent existence. Pritchard v. Daily, Co., 121 N. C. 523, 28 S. E. 537. Consequently, the principle does not apply to the bona fide sale of only a part of the assets of a corporation which continues to exist and exercise its functions under its own corporate name. McAlister v. Express Co., 179 N. C. 556, 103 S. E. 129.

Use of Former Name.—Where a corporation has been practically reorganized under a different name, the fact that persons in negotiating for the sale of stock in the reorganized corporation used the former name in the conveyance is not material, it appearing that the purchaser received the certificates he had contracted to purchase, and held them without objection, and must have known of the fact. Pritchard v. Daily, 168 N. C. 330, 84 S. E. 392.

§ 55-162. New owners to meet and organize.—The persons for whom the property and franchises have been purchased shall meet within thirty days after the delivery of the conveyance made by virtue of said process or decree, and organize the new corporation, ten days written notice of the time and place of the meeting having been given to each of the said persons. At this meeting they shall adopt a corporate name and seal, determine the amount of the capital stock of the corporation, and shall have power and authority to make and issue certificates of stock in shares of such amount as they see fit. The corporation may then, or at any time thereafter, create and issue preferred stock to such an amount, and at such time, as they may deem necessary. (Rev., ss. 1239, 1240; 1901, c. 2, ss. 100, 101, 105; C. S. 1229.)

Change of Name and Seal Not Required.—Where the purchasers of the entire property of a defunct corporation under the decree of a court have in other respects complied with the requirements of the statute as to reorganization, the fact that they have assumed to continue operations without changing the corporate name, or determining upon a different amount of capitalization, does not necessarily affect the fact of proper reorganization, there being no statutory requirement that they change them. Wood v. Staton, 174 N. C. 245, 93 S. E. 794.

§ 55-163. Certificate to be filed with secretary of state.—It is the duty of the new corporation, within one month after its organization to make certificate thereof, under its common seal, attested by the signature of its president, specifying the date of the organization, the name adopted, the amount of capital stock, and the names of its president and directors, and transmit the certificate to the secretary of state, to be filed and recorded in his office, and there remain of record. A certified copy of this certificate so filed shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which is located the principal office of the corporation, and is the charter and evidence of the corporate existence of the new corporation. (Rev., s. 1241; 1901, c. 2, s. 103; C. S. 1229.)

Failure to File with Secretary of State.—Where the purchasers reorganize within the requirements of this article except they failed to file the certificate with the Secretary of State within one month from its reorganization (as required by this section), and after the corporation obtained the one de jure, the purchasers having acted in good faith, quasi? But, it became at least a corporation de facto, and the individuals cannot be held to personal liability for debts contracted in the name of the corporation, except § 55-164. Effect on liens and other rights.—Nothing contained in this article in any manner impairs the lien of a prior mortgage, or other encumbrance, upon the property or franchises conveyed under the sale, when by the terms of the process or decree under which the sale was made, or by operation of law, the sale was made subject to the lien of any such prior mortgage or other encumbrance. No such sale and conveyance or organization of such new corporation in any way affects the rights of any person, body politic, or corporate, to a party to the action, in which the decree was made, nor of the said party except as determined by the decree. When a trustee has been made a party to such action and his custe que trust, for reason satisfactory to the court, has not been made a party thereto, the rights and interest of the custe qui trust are concluded by the decree. (Rev., s. 1241; 1901, c. 2, s. 103; C. S. 1224.)

Art. 16. Consolidation or Merger.

§ 55-165. Consolidation or merger; proceedings for.—Any two or more corporations organized under the provisions of this chapter or existing under the laws of this state, for the purpose of carrying on any kind of business, may, as shall be specified in the agreement hereinafter required, be merged into one of such constituent corporations, herein designated as the surviving corporation, or may be consolidated into a new corporation to be formed by means of such consolidation of the constituent corporations, which new corporation is herein designated as the resulting or consolidated corporation; and the directors, or a majority of them, of such corporations as desire to consolidate or merge, may enter into an agreement signed by them and under the corporate seals of the respective corporations, prescribing the terms and conditions of consolidation or merger, the mode of carrying the same into effect, and stating such other facts required or permitted to be stated in the agreement hereinafter required. All the constituent corporations so merging or consolidating shall have and file in the office of the secretary of state under the seal of his office, a copy of said agreement and act of consolidation or merger, duly certified by the secretary of state under the seal of his office, shall also be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the principal office of the surviving or consolidated corporation is, or is to be established, and in the offices of the clerks of the superior court of the counties of this state in which the respective corporations so merging or consolidating shall have their respective certificates of incorporation recorded, or if any of the corporations shall have been specially created by a public act of the legislature, then said agreement shall be recorded in the county where such corporation shall have had its principal office, and also in the office of the register of deeds in each county in which either or any of the corporations entering into the merger or consolidation owns any real estate, and such record, or a certified copy thereof, shall be evidence of the agreement and act of consolidation or merger of said corporations, and of the observance and performance of all acts and conditions necessary to have been observed and performed precedent to such consolidation or merger.

Any one or more corporations organized under the provisions of this chapter, or existing under the laws of this state, may consolidate or merge with one or more other corporations organized under the laws of any other state or states of the United States of America, if the laws under which said other corporation or corporations are formed shall permit such consolidation or merger. The constituent corporations may merge into a single corporation, which may be any one of said constituent corporations, or they may consolidate to form a new corporation, which may be a corporation of the state of incorporation of any one of said constituent corporations as shall be specified in the agreement hereinafter required. All the

Editor's Note.—The North Carolina Law Review (Volume 3, page 133) has the following to say concerning this statute: "Significantly, the wording of the function of an arm's length standard, for merger and consolidation, which heretofore has been lacking in our statutes. While the language in the first section, permitting any corporations, engaging in any kind of business, to merge, will have to be interpreted more literally, the court will, perhaps, have an easier task of interpretation under the present language of the Act than would have been the case if the Legislature had attempted to define and restrict specifically.

In considering this statute in respect to the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, reference should be had to the full and comprehensive treatment of the question and operation of that act in 8 U. S. Encyc. Dig. (U. S. S.) 429 et seq.; 12 U. S. Encyc. Dig. (U. S. E.) 429 et seq.; 13 U. S. Encyc. Dig. (U. S. E.) 431 et seq.

The 1943 amendment changed the first paragraph of this section. For comment on the 1939 amendatory act, see 17 N. C. L. Rev. 346.

The 1943 amendment rewrote this section.

The statutes in this article prior to the 1943 amendment did not observe the distinction between "consolidation" and "merger," the terms being loosely applied. For a discussion of the distinction, see Carolina Coach Co. v. Hartness, 165 N. C. 487, 169 S. E. 887, 171 N. C. 499, 181 S. E. 78 (1934); 152 S. E. 489, decided prior to the 1943 amendment.

Statute Controls as to Merger or Consolidation.—Where two corporations enter into an agreement for their union and the continuation of business under the name of one of the corporations, the consent of both corporations to whether there is a merger or a consolidation; and since the statute expresses the primary purpose of creating a corporation it authorizes a consolidation and not a merger. Carolina Coach Co. v. Hartness, 198 N. C. 524, 152 S. E. 489, decided prior to the 1943 amendment.

Rights and Properties of Constituent Bodies.—Where an agreement of merger consolidating two corporations was executed and filed in the office of the secretary of state in proceedings conforming to the pertinent provisions of this and the following section, the result was that the merged corporations came into being possessed of all the rights and vested with all the property of the constituent bodies. Morgan Mfg. Co. v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 124 F. (2d) 602, decided prior to the 1943 amendment.

§ 55-166. Consolidation or merger; status of old and new corporations.—When an agreement shall have been signed, acknowledged, filed and recorded, as in the preceding section is required, for all purposes of the laws of this state, the separate existence of all the constituent corporations, parties to said agreement, or of all such constituent corporations except the one into which the other or others of such constituent corporations have been merged, as the case may be, shall cease and the constituent corporations shall become a new corporation, or be merged into one of such corporations, as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of said agreement, possessing all the rights, privileges, powers and franchises as well of a public as of a private nature, of each of said constituent corporations, and all and singular, the rights, privileges, powers and franchises of each of said corporations, and all property, real, personal and mixed, and all debts due to any of said constituent corporations on whatever account, as well for stock subscriptions as all other things in action or belonging to each of such corporations, shall be vested in the corporation resulting from or surviving such consolidation or merger; and all property, rights, privileges, powers and franchises, and all and singular any other interest shall be thereafter as effectually the property or interest of the said resulting or surviving corporation as they were of the several and respective constituent corporations, and the title
§ 55-167. Consolidation or merger; payment for stock of dissatisfied stockholder.—If any stockholder, entitled to vote, in any corporation of this state consolidating or merging as aforesaid shall vote against the same, or if any stockholder in any such corporation, not entitled to vote, shall, at or prior to the taking of the vote, object in writing to such merger or consolidation, and if any such stockholder shall, within twenty days after the agreement of consolidation or merger has been filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, as hereinafter provided, demand in writing from the surviving or resulting corporation payment of his stock, such surviving or resulting corporation shall, within thirty days thereafter, pay to him the fair value of his stock without regard to any depreciation or appreciation thereof in consequence of the merger or consolidation. In case the fair value of said stock is not paid within said thirty-day period, or such stockholder and the surviving or resulting corporation do not within said period enter into a written agreement for the payment of said stock, then such stockholder, within thirty days after the expiration of the aforesaid thirty-day period, shall apply by petition to the superior court of the county wherein the principal office of the constituent corporation, in which he is or was a stockholder, is or was located for the appointment of three appraisers to appraise the fair value of such stock. A summons as in other cases of special proceedings, together with a copy of the petition, must be served on the surviving or resulting corporation at least ten days prior to the hearing of the petition by the court. The award of the appraisers (or a majority of them), if no exceptions be filed thereto within ten days after the award shall have been filed in court, shall be confirmed by the court, and when confirmed shall be final and conclusive. If either party file exceptions to said award within said ten days, the case shall be transferred to the civil issue dockets of the superior court for trial during term and shall be there tried in the same manner, as near as may be practicable, as is provided in chapter forty for the trial of cases under the eminent domain law of this state, and with the same right of appeal to the supreme court as is permitted in said chapter. The court shall assess the cost of said proceedings as it shall deem equitable.

On the making of said demand in writing, as aforesaid, any such stockholder shall cease to be a stockholder in said constituent corporation and shall have no rights with respect to such stock, except the right to receive payment therefor, as aforesaid, and upon payment of the agreed value of said stock, or the value thereof as fixed by final judgment of the court, such stockholder shall surrender the certificate or certificates representing his shares of stock to the surviving or resulting corporation. In the event the surviving or resulting corporation shall fail to pay the amount of said judgment within ten days after the same becomes final, said judgment may be collected and enforced in the manner prescribed by law for the enforcement of judgments.

Any stockholder in either or any of the constituent corporations, entitled to vote, who does not vote against the merger or consolidation, and any stockholder, not entitled to vote, who does not object thereto in writing as aforesaid, shall cease to be a stockholder in such constituent corporation and shall be deemed to have assented to the merger or consolidation, as the case may be, together with stockholders voting in favor of the merger or consolidation, in the manner and on the terms specified in the agreement of merger or consolidation; and any stockholder in either or any of said constituent corporations voting against said merger or consolidation, or objecting thereto in writing as hereinbefore provided, but who does not demand payment for his stock within the twenty-day period, as hereinbefore provided, or who does not apply to the court to have the value thereof determined as hereinbefore provided, shall likewise cease to be a stockholder in such constituent corporation and shall likewise be deemed to have assented to said merger or consolidation. (1925, c. 77, s. 1; 1943, c. 270.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 55-168. Consolidation or merger; pending actions saved.—Any action or proceeding pending by or against any of the corporations consolidated or merged may be prosecuted to judgment, as if such consolidation or merger had not taken place or the corporation resulting from or surviving such consolidation or merger may be substituted in its place. (1925, c. 77, s. 1; 1943, c. 270.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 55-169. Liability of corporations and rights of others unimpaired by consolidation or merger.—The liability of corporations created under this chapter, or existing under the laws of this state, or the stockholders or officers thereof, or the rights or remedies of the creditors thereof, or of persons doing or transacting business with such corporations, shall not, in any way, be lessened or impaired by the consolidation or merger of two or more of such corporations under the provisions of this article. (1925, c. 77, s. 3; 1943, c. 270.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment inserted the words "or merger."

§ 55-170. Powers of corporation resulting from or surviving consolidation or merger.—When two or more corporations are consolidated or merged, the corporation resulting from or surviving such consolidation or merger shall have power and authority to issue bonds or other obligations, negotiable or otherwise, and with or without coupons or interest certificates thereto attached, to an amount sufficient with its capital stock to provide for all the payments it will be required to make, or obligations it will be required to assume, in order to effect such consolidation or merger; to secure the payment of which bonds and obligations it shall be lawful to mortgage its corporate franchise, rights, privileges and property, real, personal, and mixed; and may issue its capital stock, with or without par value, or in classes, any class of which may be with or without par value, to the stockholders of such constituent corporations in exchange or payment for the original shares, in such amount as shall be necessary in accordance with the terms of the agreement of consolidation or merger in order to effect such consolidation or merger in the manner and on the terms specified in such agreement; provided, that the only fees that shall be collected from said surviving or resulting corporation shall be office or filing fees and charter fees upon any increase in the authorized capital stock of the surviving or resulting corporation in excess of that provided for in the charters of the constituent corporations when the authorized capital stock of said constituent corporations shall be added together. (1925, c. 77, s. 1; 1931, c. 209; 1943, c. 270.)

Cross Reference.—As to fiduciary powers and liabilities of merged banks or trust companies, see § 53-17.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1943 amendment this section related only to powers of consolidated corporations.

§ 55-171. Merger of charitable and other corporations not under control of state.—Any two or more charitable, educational, social, ancestral, historical, penal or reformatory corporations not under the patronage and control of the state, and any two or more corporations without capital stock organized for the purpose of aiding in the work of any church, religious society or organization, or fraternal order, whether organized under special act or general laws, may consolidate into a single corporation, which shall be deemed the successor of each and all corporations joining in such consolidation, in the following manner:

(a) When authorized to do so by the conference, synod, convention or other body owning and/or controlling such corporation, the trustees or directors of such corporation by resolution adopted by majority vote at a meeting duly called and convened in accordance with the present charter, by-laws or other regulations for the conduct of such meetings of such corporation, and in the absence of such charter provision, by-laws or other regulations upon ten days' notice to each trustee or director of the time, place and object of the meeting, may authorize such corporation to make, enter into and execute a consolidation agreement with one or more other such corporations; that such consolidation agreement shall prescribe the terms and conditions of consolidation, the mode of carrying same into effect, and shall set forth in full the certificate of incorporation of the consolidated corporation; and the consolidation agreement so authorized shall be executed in the name and behalf of each such corporation entering into the consolidation by its president or vice-president, attested by its secretary or assistant secretary and its corporate seal thereto affixed, and the due execution thereof shall be acknowledged in the manner and before a notary public or other officer required by the general laws of North Carolina for the acknowledgment of corporate deeds; and there shall be attached to such agreement of consolidation the written consent of a majority of the trustees or directors of each corporation entering into the consolidation.

(b) The agreement of consolidation, when authorized and executed as provided above and having attached thereto the aforesaid written consent, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. When so filed, the separate legal existence of each of the corporations joining in the consolidation thereupon shall be merged into the consolidated corporation, and thereafter there shall be only one corporation having as its charter the certificate of incorporation fully set forth in the agreement of consolidation.

(c) A copy of said agreement of consolidation, duly certified by the secretary of state under the seal of his office, shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the principal office of the consolidated corporation as fixed by its certificate of incorporation is located, and a like certified copy of the agreement of consolidation shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of each county where any one or more of the corporations joining in the consolidation have had their principal office or place of business; and such certified copy shall be evidence of the existence of the consolidated corporation created by such agreement of consolidation and of the observance and performance of all antecedent acts and conditions necessary to the creation thereof. (1933, c. 408, s. 1.)

§ 55-172. Rights and powers of consolidated charitable, etc., corporations.—The consolidated corporation shall succeed to and be vested with all rights, privileges and powers, and all property, real, personal and mixed, tangible and intangible, and the title thereto, of each and all of the corporations joining in the consolidation as fully and effectually as the same were theretofore owned and held by each of the separate corporations, and the consolidated corporation shall be liable for the payment of all debts and liabilities of each and all of the separate corporations: Provided, such consolidation shall not affect liens or the priority of liens established against the separate property of any corporation prior to the consolidation. (1933, c. 408, s. 2.)

§ 55-173. Trust properties vested in new charitable, etc., corporation.—The consolidated corporation shall succeed to and be vested with all money, securities, property, real, personal and mixed, tangible and intangible, and the title thereto, theretofore owned, held and/or administered by each separate corporation upon the uses and trusts declared in any will, deed or other instrument, and the consolidated corporation shall handle, use and administer such trust funds upon the same uses and trusts and not otherwise: and the consolidated corporation shall be deemed to embrace each separate corporation and to constitute a continuation thereof, and no trust fund or other asset of a separate corporation shall be construed to revert and/or pass to other ownership on the ground that such separate corporation has ceased to exist for the purpose of administering such trust or otherwise. (1933, c. 408, s. 3.)

§ 55-174. Application of article.—This article shall apply only to a charitable, educational or social corporation, not under the patronage or control of the state nor under the patronage or control of any religious denomination, which has been formed by the de jure merger of two or more corporations of such character, the merger having been brought about either under §§ 55-165 to 55-173, or under other special or general laws, but where for any reason the merger has not been carried out in fact to the extent of the actual surrender of shares of stock or of other evidences of membership in the respective corporations and the issuance of new stock or new evidences of membership in the merged corporation. A charitable, educational or social corporation, organized by the merger of two such corporations, may be severed and restored to the status of the merging or original corporations by complying with the provisions of this article, with the exceptions above set out. (1937, c. 256, s. 1.)

§ 55-175. Resolution providing for severance; accounting.—At any regular or duly called meeting of the board of directors or other governing body of such merged corporation, a resolution may be adopted providing for the severance of the corporations and restoration to each of the original corporations of the properties owned by each at the time of the merger, and the restoration to the stockholders or members of the stock, rights and privileges owned by them in the merging corporations at the time of the merger, and providing for an accounting as between the respective corporations of their receipts, disbursements and obligations incurred since the attempted merger, the accounting to be on the assumption the corporations had never been merged. (1937, c. 256, s. 2.)

§ 55-176. Stockholders’ meeting; notice; ratification of resolution.—Upon the adoption by the board of directors or other governing body of the merged corporations of such resolution of severance, a meeting shall be called by the said governing body of the members or stockholders of the merged corporation. A notice shall be sent to each stockholder or member of the merged corporation by registered mail at least ten days before the date of the stockholders' or members' meeting. Such notice shall be mailed to the last address of the stockholder or member as it appears on the records of the merged corporation. Such notice shall also be published once in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the corporation has its principal office at least ten days before the meeting, stating the substance of the resolution of severance and giving the time and place of the meeting. If at such meeting of stockholders or members a resolution shall be adopted ratifying the resolution of the board of directors or governing body, and providing for the severance of the merged corporation into its constituent corporations as they existed immediately prior to the merger, and such resolution shall be adopted by a majority of three-fourths of the total membership or total number of stockholders by shares, as the voting privilege [486] may be exercised in the merged corporation, then the merged corporation shall be severed, on compliance with the other procedural provisions of this article. (1937, c. 256, s. 3.)

§ 55-177. Election of officers for severed corporations.—On the adoption of such resolution of severance by the stockholders or members, the president of the merged corporation shall, either at said meeting or within ten days thereafter, appoint an acting chairman of the membership or stockholders of each corporation, and shall call a meeting of the members or stockholders of each corporation for the purpose of electing officers of each of the severed corporations, such meetings to be held in accordance with the charter and by-laws of the severed corporations as they existed prior to the merger. (1937, c. 256, s. 4.)

§ 55-178. Agreement between officers and directors for division and accounting.—The officers and directors of the several corporations shall thereupon enter into an agreement setting out in substantial detail the division of the properties of the merged corporation and providing for the accounting of all receipts and disbursements as between the severed corporations on the same basis as if the respective corporations had never been merged. Such agreement shall thereupon be submitted to the stockholders or members of the severed corporations at a meeting to be called in accordance with the charter or by-laws of the severed corporations. At such meeting such agreement shall become effective when approved by a majority of the stockholders or members. Thereupon said agreement shall be executed by the respective officers of the severed corporations, and deeds and other appropriate instruments shall be executed by the officers of the respective corporations to carry out the terms of the agreement. (1937, c. 256, s. 5.)

§ 55-180. Original rights restored; liabilities unaffected.—On the completion of the procedure set out in the previous section the stockholders or members in the respective corporations, or their representatives or assigns, as the case may be, shall to all intents and purposes be restored to the same rights and privileges which they, or their predecessors in interest, held in the original corporations: Provided, that any member or stockholder who has conveyed or for any reason forfeited his rights in the merged corporation shall not, by reason of the severance of the merged corporations, be restored to the rights he had in the original corporations at the time of the merger. Nothing contained in this article, however, shall be deemed to affect any debts, liabilities or obligations assumed or incurred by the merged corporation during the period of the merger, but each of the severed corporations shall, with respect to such debts or other obligations, remain liable jointly and severally. (1937, c. 256, s. 7.)

§ 55-181. Objection to severance and demand for payment of stock; failure to object deemed assent.—If any stockholder or member entitled to vote in the merged corporation shall vote against the severance at the stockholders' or members' meeting provided in § 55-176, or shall, prior to the taking of the vote at such meeting, object thereto in writing, and if such dissenting or objecting stockholder or member shall, within twenty days after such meeting, demand in writing from the merged corporation payment of his stock or of his interest in the merged corporation by reason of his membership therein, the merged corporation shall, within thirty days thereafter, pay to him the value of his stock or membership at the date of the adoption of the resolution of severance at the stockholders' or members' meeting. In case of disagreement as to the value thereof, it shall be lawful for any such stockholder or member, within thirty days after he has made demand in writing as aforesaid, or has voted against the resolution as aforesaid, and upon written notice to the merged corporation to appeal by petition to the superior court of the county in which the principal office of the merged corporation is located to appoint three appraisers to appraise the value of his stock or membership. The award of the appraisers, or a majority of them, if not opposed within ten days after the same shall have been filed in court, shall be confirmed by the court or clerk, and when confirmed shall be final and conclusive. If such report is opposed and excepted to, the exceptions shall be transferred to the civil issue docket of the superior court, and there tried in the same manner, as nearly as may be practicable, as is provided in § 40-20 for the trial of exceptions to the appraisal of land condemned for public purposes. The court shall assess against the merged corporation the costs of said proceeding. On the making of such demand in writing, as aforesaid, any such stockholder or member shall cease to be a stockholder or mem-

Chapter 56. Electric, Telegraph, and Power Companies.

Art. 1. Acquisition and Condemnation of Property.

§ 56-1. Use of public highways.—Any person, firm or co-partnership operating electric power lines for lights or power, or authorized by law to establish such lines, or any duly incorporated company possessing the power to construct telegraph or telephone lines, lines for the conveying of electric power or for lights, either or all, has the right to construct, maintain and operate such lines along any railroad or other public highway, but such lines shall be so constructed and maintained as not to obstruct or hinder the usual travel on such railroad or other highway. (Rev., s. 1571; Code, s. 2007; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 2; 1899, c. 64, s. 1; 1903, c. 562; 1939, c. 228, s. 1; C. S. 195.)

Cross Reference.—See also § 55-45.

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added that part of this section preceding the words "any duly incorporated company," as hereinafter defined.

Constitutionality.—The provisions of secs. 56-1 to 56-10, empowering electric power or lighting companies, etc., to condemn lands for the erection of poles, establishment of offices, and other appropriate purposes, are constitutional and valid. Wissler v. Yadkin River Power Co., 138 N. C. 465, 46 S. E. 460.

Application to Foreign Companies.—The right to construct and operate telegraph lines along any railroad or other public highway in the State, and to obtain the right of way therefor by a condemnation proceeding, is expressly conferred upon any telegraph company incorporated by this act or by any other State. North Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Carolina Cent., etc., R. Co., 133 N. C. 225, 45 S. E. 572 and cases cited.

No Rights over Private Land.—This section applies to electric light wires placed along the street. Brown v. Electric Co., 138 N. C. 533, 51 S. E. 62. But the construction of a street passenger railway does not impose any additional servitude upon the property fronting on the street so occupied. Hester v. Traciton Co., 138 N. C. 288, 50 S. E. 411 and cases cited.

¶ 56-2. Electric and hydro-electric power companies may appropriate highways; conditions.—Every electric power or hydro-electric power corporation, person, firm or co-partnership which may exercise the right of eminent domain under the chapter Eminent Domain, where in the development of electric or hydro-electric power it shall become necessary to use or occupy any public highway, or any part of the same, after obtaining the consent of the public road authorities having supervision of such public highway, shall have power to appropriate said public highway for the development of electric or hydro-electric power: Provided, that said electric power or hydro-electric power corporation shall construct an equally good public highway, by a route to be selected by and subject to the approval and satisfaction of the public road authorities having supervision of such public highway: Provided further, that said company shall pay all damages to be assessed as provided by law, by the damming of water, the discontinuance of the road, and for the laying out of said new road. (1911, c. 114; 1939, c. 228, s. 2; C. S. 1696.)

"person, firm or co-partnership" near the beginning of this section.

Where under the provisions of this section, a hydro-electric power company has appropriated a section of a public highway and built an electric line thereon, the provisions of the statute that the company pay all damages assessed as provided by law does not entitle the plaintiff to recover damages for the slight change in the road causing inconvenience to him in hauling wood, etc., to and from his market town. Crowell v. Tallassae Power Co., 200 N. C. 208, 156 S. E. 492.

§ 56-3. Powers granted corporations under chapter exercisable by persons, firms or co-partnerships.—All the rights, powers and obligations given, extended to, or that may be exercised by any corporation or incorporated company under this chapter shall be extended to and likewise be exercised and are hereby granted unto all persons, firms or co-partnerships engaged in or authorized by law to engage in the business herein described. Such persons, firms, co-partnerships and corporations engaging in such business shall be subject to the provisions and requirements of the public laws which are applicable to others engaged in the same kind of business. (1939, c. 228, s. 3.)

§ 56-4. Acquisition of right of way by contract.—Such telegraph, telephone, or electric power or lighting company has power to contract with any person or corporation, the owner of any lands or of any franchise or easement therein, over which its lines are proposed to be erected, for the right of way for planting, repairing and preservation of its poles or other property, and for the erection and occupation of offices at suitable distances for the public accommodation. This section shall not be construed as requiring electric power or lighting companies to erect offices for public accommodation. (Rev. c. 572; Code, c. 2008; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 3; 1899, c. 64; 1903, c. 562, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 1697.)

Cross References.—As to recording deeds of easement, see § 47-27. As to right of directors of the various state institutions to grant easements to telephone, telephone or power companies, see § 47-27.

Owner Must Grant Easement.—A railroad company, not being the owner of the soil, cannot grant an easement to a telegraph company. Hodges v. Western Union Tel. Co., 113 N. C. 225, 47 S. E. 159. See also Deason v. Wilmington R. Co., 122 N. C. 856, 29 S. E. 356.

Easement by Adverse Possession.—Right of easement may be acquired by adverse and continuous user for the period of twenty years. Tector v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 172 N. C. 783, 90 S. E. 941.

§ 56-5. Grant of eminent domain; exception as to mills and water-power.—Such telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting company shall be entitled, upon making just compensation therefor, to the right of way over the lands, privileges and easements of other persons and corporations, and to the right to erect poles and towers, to establish offices, and to take such lands as may be necessary for the establishment of their reservoirs, ponds, dams, works, railroads, or sidetracks, or power-houses, with the right to divert the water from such ponds or reservoirs and conduct the same, or any portion thereof, by flume, ditch, conduit, waterway or pipe line, or in any other manner, to the point of use for the generation of power at its said power-houses, returning said water to its proper channel after being so used. Nothing in this section authorizes interference with any mill or power plant actually in process of construction or in operation; or the taking of water-powers, developed or undeveloped, with the land adjacent thereto necessary for their development: Provided, however, that if the court, upon filing of the petition by such electric power or lighting company, shall find that any mill, excepting cotton mills now in operation, whether operated by water-power or otherwise, together with the lands and easements adjacent thereto or used in connection therewith, or that any water-power, developed or undeveloped, with land adjacent thereto necessary for its development, excepting any water-power, right or property of any person, firm or corporation engaged in the actual service of the general public where such water-power, right or property is being used or held to be used or to be developed for use in connection with or in addition to any power actually used by such person, firm or corporation serving the general public, is necessary for the development of any hydro-electric power plant which is to be operated for the purpose of generating electric power for sale to the general public, and that said electric power or lighting company is unable to agree for the purchase of such property with the owners thereof, and that the failure to acquire such property will affect the ability of such electric power or lighting company to supply power to the general public, and that the taking of such mill or water-power will be greatly more to the benefit of the public than the continued existence of such mill or the continuation of the existing ownership of such water-power, then the court, upon such finding, shall make an order authorizing the condemnation of such mill and easements in all respects as in the cases of other property referred to in this section. Any provisions in conflict with this chapter in any special charters granted before January thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seven, in respect to the exercise of the right of eminent domain are repealed. (Rev. c. 1673; Code, c. 2008; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 4; 1899, c. 64; 1903, c. 562, ss. 157, 160; 1907, c. 74; 1921, c. 115; 1928, c. 60; 1923, c. 175; C. S. 1698.)

Cross Reference.—As to the right of eminent domain in general, see chapter 40.

Editor's Notes.—1. The editor's note to this section as it stood in 1919 expressly prohibited interference with any mill or power plant actually in process of construction or operation, also the taking of water powers, developed or undeveloped with the necessary appurtenances thereto. By ch. 60, Laws of 1921, the provision for condemning mills, when to the best interests of the public, was added. Cotton mills are excepted. Ch. 175, Laws of 1925, added the power to condemn any waterpower developed or undeveloped which is not being held for use or actually used in the furnishing of power to the public. The proviso which was inserted March 7, 1925, provided that it should not affect pending litigation. Thus by these two amendments the Legislature has practically abolished the restrictions which existed in the section in 1919. See 1 N. C. Law Rev. 290; 3 N. C. Law Rev. 144.

The General Assembly originally inserted the proviso "water powers, developed or undeveloped, with the necessary land adjacent thereto for their development, shall not be taken," for the purpose of operating by water, all of the water powers by one or more of the great aggregations of capital. Blue Ridge Interocean R. Co. v. Hendersonville Electric Light Co. et al., 143 N. C. 867; 67 S. E. 256.

Right Granted for Public Benefit.—This power of eminent domain is conferred upon corporations affected with public use, not so much for the benefit of the corporations themselves, as for the use and benefit of the people at large. Wissler v. Yadkin River Power Co., 183 N. C. 465, 466; 74 S. E. 460.

Limitation of Right of Eminent Domain.—This section limits the exercise of eminent domain and any special power claimed by the charter must clearly appear. Yadkin River § 56-6. Residences, etc., may be taken under certain cases.—Residence property or vacant lots adjacent thereto in towns or cities, or other residences, gardens, orchards, graveyard or cemeteries, may be taken under § 56-6 only when the company alleges, and upon the proceedings to determine the extent and character of the use, easement, privilege or other right claimed, and must be sworn to, and if the use or right sought to be taken are protected by the statute, the burden of proof is upon the defendant to bring the lands or water power therein to the court, on allegation of facts tending to show bad faith on the part of the companies, or an oppressive and manifest abuse of their discretion. Love v. R. R., 81 N. C. 452, cited and distinguished. Yadkin River Power Co. v. Smith. 82 N. C. 549, 79 S. E. 265.

§ 56-7. Condemnation on petition; parties' interests only taken; no survey required.—When such telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting company fails on application therefor to secure by contract or agreement such right of way for the purposes aforesaid over the lands, privilege or easement of another person or corporation, it is lawful for such company, first giving security for costs, to file its petition before the superior court of the county in which the lands are situate, or into or through which such easement, privilege or franchise extends, setting forth and describing the parcels of land, privilege or easement over which the way, privilege or right of use is claimed, the owners of the land, easement or privilege, and their place of residence, if known, and if not known that fact shall be stated, and such petition shall set forth the use, easement, privilege or other right claimed, and must be sworn to, and if the use or right sought be over or upon an easement or right of way, it shall be sufficient to give jurisdiction if the person or corporation owning the easement or right of way be made a party defendant.

The Petition.—Under this section it is not necessary that a petition asking for the condemnation of a right of way over the right of way of a railroad should state by what tenor the railroad company holds. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Southern R. Co., 89 Fed. 90.

§ 56-11. Effect of Subsequent Charter.—Where a legislative charter has been granted since this section was passed, the powers given therein are not subject to the restriction of this section. Carolina-Tennessee Power Co. v. Hiawassee River Power Co., 171 N. C. 248, 88 S. E. 349.

Burden of Proof on Defendant.—Where a quasi-public corporation brings action for condemnation, and the defendant fails to prove that the acts or conduct of such corporation were not within the power of such corporation as granted by statute, or the use made by such corporation is not an issue taken by the statute, the burden of proving the right of the defendant under the statute is on the company, and not on the plaintiff. Phillips v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 130 N. C. 513, 41 S. E. 1022.

Effect of Federal Statute.—The Act of Congress, entitled "An act to aid in the construction of telegraphs and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military and other purposes," approved 24 July, 1866, does not give authority to enter private property without consent of the owner, but provides that where consent is obtained, no State legislature shall prevent the use of such property for postal purposes by such corporations as may avail themselves of its privileges. Phillips v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 130 N. C. 513, 41 S. E. 1022.

§ 56-13. Corporation brings action for condemnation, and the defendant is granted a corporation, conferring quasi-public as well as private powers, the corporation may proceed to condemn lands when so empowered, in pursuance of its business of a quasi-public nature, and this will not be denied because it was authorized to conduct a business of a private character. Carolina-Tennessee Power Co. v. Hiawassee River Power Co., 171 N. C. 248, 88 S. E. 349.

Conflict of Claims.—Where the claims of two companies conflict the right of use belongs to that company which first designs and marks its route. Carolina-Tennessee Power Co. v. Hiawassee River Power Co., 171 N. C. 248, 88 S. E. 349.

§ 56-14. Extent of Rights Usually Determined by Companies.—The extent and limit of the rights to be acquired are primarily and very largely referred to the companies or grantees of the power, and only becomes an issuable question, usually determinable by the court, on allegation of facts tending to show bad faith on the part of the companies, or an oppressive and manifest abuse of their discretion. Love v. R. R., 81 N. C. 452, cited and distinguished. Yadkin River Power Co. v. Smith. 82 N. C. 549, 79 S. E. 265.

§ 56-15. Power Over Right of Way.—The power of eminent domain is not necessarily exhausted by a single exercise of the power, but, within the limits established by the general law or special charter, a subsequent or further exercise of the power may be permissible. Yadkin River Power Co. v. Wissler, 160 N. C. 269, 75 S. E. 267; Thompson v. Railroad, 130 N. C. 371, 372, 67 S. E. 921. And the company then acquires a continuing right to a right of way, delimited by surface boundaries, but may extend into or through more counties than one, the whole right and controversy may be heard and determined in one county into or through which such right of way extends.

It is not necessary for the petitioner to make any survey of the right of way, nor to file any map or survey thereof, nor to annex any certificate of the location of its line by its board of directors. (Rev., 1574; Code, s. 2010; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 5; 1899, c. 64, s. 2; 1903, c. 562; C. S. 1700.)

§ 56-16. Rights in Held by Telegraph Poles.—When a telegraph line is authorized by telegraph pole or wire it is sufficient to give jurisdiction over the telegraph pole and wires without the actual possession of such property. Phillips v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 130 N. C. 513, 41 S. E. 1022.

§ 56-17. Condemnation Not Confined to Right of Way.—The power of condemnation granted to these companies is not confined to a right of way, delimited by surface boundaries, but may be extended to cutting of trees or removing obstructions outside of these boundaries when required for the reasonable preservation and protection of their lines and other property. Yadkin River Power Co. v. Wissler, 160 N. C. 269, 275, 75 S. E. 267.

§ 56-18. Permanent Damage Awarded.—Permanent damages may be awarded to the owner of land who is injured by telegraph poles and wires placed on his land. Phillips v. Postal Tel.-Cable Co., 130 N. C. 513, 41 S. E. 1022; Lambeth v. Southern Power Co., 152 N. C. 371, 372, 67 S. E. 921. And the company then acquires an easement over the line.

§ 56-19. Limitation of City Authority.—Authority granted by a city to the defendant electric company to remove a shade tree in front of the plaintiff's home in order to put up its poles and wires does not justify the act of the defendant in removing the tree, the city has no power to deprive the plaintiff of his property for such purpose without compensation, and the railroad company, as provided by Art. 138 N. C. 139, 51 S. E. 60.

When Jury Trial Necessary.—While ordinarily a jury trial is not required in condemnation proceedings, except as to the assessment of damages, the general rule does not apply to condemnation proceedings between parties who are all before the court. Phillips v. Postal Tel.-Cable Co., 130 N. C. 513, 525, 41 S. E. 1022. Hence sec. 40-12, as to filing and service, does not apply. Id.

Commissioners to inspect premises.—In considering the question of damages where the interest sought is over an easement, privilege or right of way, the commissioners may inspect the premises or rest their finding on such testimony as to them may be satisfactory. (Rev., s. 1757; Code, s. 2013; 1874-5, c. 203, s. 9; C. S. 1703.)

Art. 2. Intrastate Telegraph Messages.

§ 56-8. Copy of petition to be served.—A copy of such petition, with a notice of the time and place the same will be presented to the superior court, must be served on the persons whose interests are to be affected by the proceeding at least ten days prior to the presentation of the same to the said court. (Rev., s. 1575; Code, s. 2011: 1874-5, c. 203, s. 6: 1899, c. 64, s. 3; C. S. 1701.)

Failure to Give Prosecution Bond.—Where it appears that the summons was served in time, but that the prosecution bond required by Code, s. 1575, 41 S. E. 1022, put at issue the question as to whether the railroad company owns an easement therein or the title in fee. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Southern R. Co., 90 Fed. 30.

§ 56-9. Proceedings as under eminent domain.—The proceedings for the condemnation of lands, or any easement or interest therein, for the use of a telegraph, telephone, electric power or lighting companies, the appraisal of the lands, or interest therein, the duty of the commissioners of appraisal, the right of either party to file exceptions, the commissioner of appraisal, the mode and manner of appeal, the power to review the action of the court or judge, the final judgment, and the manner of its entry and enforcement, and the rights of the company pending the appeal, shall be as prescribed in Article 2, entitled "Condemnation Proceedings," of the chapter Eminent Domain. (Rev., s. 1576; Code, s. 2012; 1899, c. 64; 1903, c. 562; C. S. 1702.)

Subsequent Provisions Not Incorporated.—The reference in this section to article 2 of the chapter on eminent domain incorporates into the telegraph statute the provisions of the railroad statute referred to, only as they existed at the time of the enactment, and not as thereafter amended. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Southern R. Co., 89 Fed. 190.

Proceedings Subsequent to Filing.—This section evidently refers to the proceedings subsequent to the filing of the petition and the service of the required notices. In other words, it repeats material that was all before the court. Phillips v. Postal Tel.-Cable Co., 130 N. C. 513, 525, 41 S. E. 1022. Hence sec. 40-12, as to filing and service, does not apply. Chapter 57. Hospital and Medical Service Corporations.

Sec.

57-1. Regulation and definition; application of other laws; profit and foreign corporations prohibited.—Any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized under the general corporation laws of the state of North Carolina for the purpose of maintaining and operating a non-profit hospital and/or medical service plan whereby hospital care and/or medical service may be provided in whole or in part by said corporation or by hospitals and/or physicians participating in such plan, or plans, shall be governed by this chapter and shall be exempt from all other provisions of the insurance laws of this state, heretofore enacted, unless specifically designated herein, and no laws hereafter enacted shall apply to them unless they be expressly designated therein.

The term “hospital service plan” as used in this chapter includes the contracting for certain fees for, or furnishing of, hospital care, laboratory facilities, X-ray facilities, drugs, appliances, anesthesia, nursing care, operating and obstetrical equipment, accommodations and/or any and all other services authorized or permitted to be furnished by a hospital under the laws of the state of North Carolina and approved by the North Carolina Hospital Association and/or the American Medical Association.

The term “medical service plan” as used in this chapter includes the contracting for the payment of fees toward, or furnishing of, medical, obstetrical, surgical and/or any other professional services authorized or permitted to be furnished by a duly licensed physician.

The term “hospital service corporation” as used in this chapter is intended to mean any non-profit corporation operating a hospital and/or medical service plan, as herein defined. Any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized and coming within the provisions of this chapter, the certificate of incorporation of which authorizes the operation of either a hospital or medical service plan, or both, may, with the approval of the commissioner of insurance, issue subscribers contracts or certificates approved by the commissioner of insurance, for the payment of either hospital or medical fees, or the furnishing of such services, or both, and may enter into contracts with hospitals or physicians, or both, for the furnishing of fees or services respectively under a hospital or medical service plan, or both.

No hospital service corporation within the meaning of this chapter shall be converted into a corporation organized for pecuniary profit. Every such corporation shall be maintained and operated for the benefit of its members and subscribers as a cooperative corporation.

No foreign or alien hospital or medical service corporation as herein defined shall be authorized to do business in this state.

Editor’s Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 487.

The 1943 amendment, which made this section applicable to medical service corporations, changed the first, fourth and sixth paragraphs and inserted the second and third paragraphs.

Cited in Cato v. Hospital Care Ass’n, 220 N. C. 479, 17 S. E. (2d) 671.

§ 57-2. Incorporation.—Any number of persons not less than seven, desiring to form a non-profit hospital service corporation, shall incorporate under the provisions of the general laws of the state of North Carolina governing corporations, but subject to the following provisions:

1. The certificate of incorporation of each such corporation shall have endorsed thereon or attached thereto, the consent of the commissioner of insurance, if he shall find the same to be in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

2. A statement of the services to be rendered by the corporation and the rates currently to be charged therefor which said statement shall be accompanied by two copies of each contract for services which the corporation proposes to make with its subscribers, and two copies of the type of contract which said corporation proposes to make with participating hospitals, shall have been furnished the commissioner of insurance; provided, however, that if the articles of incorporation of § 57-3. Hospital and physician contracts.—Any corporation organized under the provisions of this chapter may enter into contracts for the rendering of hospital service to any of its subscribers by hospitals approved by the American Medical Association and/or the North Carolina Hospital Association, and may enter into contracts for the furnishing of, or the payment in whole or in part for, medical services rendered to any of its subscribers by duly licensed physicians. All obligations arising under contracts issued by such corporations to its subscribers shall be satisfied by payments made directly to the hospital or physicians and/or physicians rendering such service, unless otherwise authorized by the commissioner of insurance. Nothing herein shall be construed to discriminate against hospitals conducted by other schools of medical practice. (1941, c. 338, s. 3; 1943, c. 537, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—As to general laws governing incorporation, see chapter 55.

§ 57-4. Supervision of commissioner of insurance; form of certificate; schedule of rates.—(a) Every contract made by a non-profit hospital service corporation shall be evidenced by a separate instrument in writing filed with the secretary of state. (1941, c. 338, s. 2.)

Cross Reference.—As to general laws governing incorporation, see chapter 55.

§ 57-5. Application for certificate of authority or license.—Any corporation subject to the provisions of this chapter shall issue contracts for the rendering of hospital or medical service to subscribers, until the commissioner of insurance has, by formal certificate or license, authorized it to do so. Application for such certificate of authority or license, shall be made on forms to be supplied by the commissioner of insurance, containing such information as he shall deem necessary. Each application for such certificate of authority or license, as a part thereof shall be accompanied by duplicate copies of the following documents duly certified by at least two of the executive officers of such corporation:

(a) Certificate of incorporation with all amendments thereto.
(b) By-laws with all amendments thereto.
(c) Each contract executed or proposed to be executed by and between the corporation and any participating hospital, and/or physicians under the terms of which hospital and/or medical service is to be furnished to subscribers to the plan.
(d) Each form of contract, application, rider, and endorsement, issued or proposed to be issued to subscribers to the plan, or in renewal of any of contracts with subscribers to the plan, together with a table of rates charged or proposed to be charged to subscribers for each form of such contract.
(e) Financial statement of the corporation which shall include the amounts of each contribution paid or agreed to be paid to the corporation for working capital, the name or names of each contributor and the terms of each contribution. (1941, c. 338, s. 5; 1943, c. 537, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment added the provisions relating to contracts with physicians.

§ 57-6. Issuance of certificate.—Before issuing any such license or certificate the commissioner of insurance may make such an examination or investigation as he deems expedient. The commissioner of insurance shall issue a certificate of authority or license upon the payment of an annual fee of one hundred dollars ($100.00) and upon being satisfied on the following points:

(a) The applicant is established as a bona fide non-profit hospital service corporation.
(b) The rates charged and benefits to be provided are fair and reasonable.
(c) The amounts provided as working capital of the corporation are repayable only out of earned income in excess of amounts paid and payable for operating expenses and hospital and medical expenses and such reserve as the department of insurance deems adequate, as provided hereinafter.
(d) That the amount of money actually available for working capital be sufficient to carry all acquisition costs and operating expenses for a reasonable period of time from the date of the issuance of the certificate. (1941, c. 338, s. 6; 1943, c. 537, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment inserted the words "or medical" in line three. And it inserted in subsection (c) the words "and/or physicians," also the words "and/or medical."

§ 57-7. Subscriber contracts; required and prohibited provisions.—1. Every contract made by a corporation subject to the provisions of the chapter shall be for a period not to exceed twelve months, and no contract shall be made providing for the inception of benefits at a date later than [493] one year from the date of the contract. Any such contract may provide that it shall be automatically renewed for a similar period unless there shall have been one month's prior written notice of termination by either the subscriber or the corporation.

2. No contract between any such corporation and a subscriber, shall entitle more than one person to benefits except that a contract issued and marked as a "family contract" may provide that benefits will be furnished to a husband and wife, or husband, wife and their child or children not over eighteen years of age.

3. Every contract entered into by any such corporation with any subscriber thereto shall be in writing and a certificate stating the terms and conditions thereof shall be furnished to the subscriber to be kept by him. No such certificate form shall be made, issued or delivered in this state unless it contains the following provisions:
(a) A statement of the amount payable to the corporation by the subscriber and the times at which and manner in which such amount is to be paid; this provision may be inserted in the application rather than in the certificate. Application need not be attached to certificate.
(b) A statement of the nature of the benefits to be furnished and the period during which they will be furnished.
(c) A statement of the terms and conditions, if any, upon which the contract may be cancelled or otherwise terminated at the option of either party.
(d) A statement that the contract includes the endorsements thereon and attached papers, if any, and together with the application contains the entire contract.
(e) A statement that if the subscriber defaults in making any payment, under the contract, the subsequent acceptance of a payment by the corporation at its home office shall reinstate the contact, but with respect to sickness and injury, only to cover such sickness as may be first manifested more than ten days after the date of such acceptance.

4. In every such contract made, issued or delivered in this state:
(a) All printed portions shall be plainly printed;
(b) The exceptions from the contract shall appear with the same prominence as the benefits to which they apply; and
(c) If the contract contains any provision purporting to make any portion of the articles, constitution or by-laws of the corporation a part of the contract, such portion shall be set forth in full.

5. A hospital service corporation may issue a master group contract with the approval of the commisssioner of insurance provided such contract and the individual certificates issued to members of the group, shall comply in substance to the other provisions of this chapter. Any such contact may provide for the adjustment of the rate of the premium or benefits conferred with the approval of the commissioner of insurance, based upon the experience thereunder at the end of the first year or any subsequent year of insurance thereunder and such readjustment may be made retroactive only for such policy year. If such master group contract is issued, altered or modi-ified, the subscribers' contracts issued in pursuance thereof are altered or modified accordingly, all laws and clauses in subscribers' contracts to the contrary notwithstanding. Nothing in the chapter shall be construed to prohibit or prevent the same. Forms of such contract shall at all times be furnished upon request of subscribers thereto. (1941, c. 338, s. 7.)

§ 57-8. Investments and reserves. — No hospital service corporation shall invest in any securities other than securities permitted by the laws of this state for the investment of assets of life insurance companies, banks, trust companies, executors, administrators and guardians.

Every such corporation after the first full year of doing business after the passage of this chapter shall accumulate and maintain, in addition to proper reserves for current administrative liabilities and whatever reserves are deemed adequate and proper by the commissioner of insurance for unpaid hospital and/or medical bills, and unearned membership dues, a special contingent surplus or reserve at the following rates annually of its gross annual collections from membership dues, exclusive of receipts from cost plus plans, until said reserve shall equal three times its average monthly expenditures for hospital and/or medical claims and administrative and selling ex-cpenes.

Any such corporation may accumulate and maintain a contingent reserve in excess of the reserve hereinabove provided for, not to exceed an amount equal to three times the average monthly expenditures for hospital and/or medical claims and administrative and selling expenses.

In the event the commissioner of insurance finds that special conditions exist warranting an increase or decrease in the reserves or schedule of reserves, hereinabove provided for, it may be modified by the commissioner of insurance accordingly, provided however, when special conditions exist warranting an increase in said schedule of reserves, said schedule shall not be increased by the commissioner of insurance until a reasonable length of time shall have elapsed after notice of such increase. (1941, c. 338, s. 8; 1943, c. 537, s. 5.)

Cross References.—As to investments by banks, see §§ 53-44, 53-45 and 53-60. As to investments by executors, administrators and guardians, see §§ 36-1 to 36-5.

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment inserted the words
"and/or medical" in the second and third paragraphs.

§ 57-9. Reports filed with commissioner of insurance. — Every such corporation shall annually on or before the first day of March of each year, file in the office of the commissioner of insurance a sworn statement verified by at least two of the principal officers of the said corporation showing its condition on the thirty-first day of December, then next preceding; which shall be in such form and shall contain such matter as the commissioner of insurance shall prescribe. In case any such corporation shall fail to file any such annual statement as herein required, the said commissioner of insurance shall be authorized and empowered to suspend the certificate of authority issued to such.
§ 57-10. Visitations and examinations. — The commissioner of insurance or any deputy or examiner or other person whom he may appoint, shall have the power of visitations and examination into the affairs of any such corporation and free access to all the books, papers and documents that relate to the business of the corporation, and may summon and qualify witnesses under oath to examine its officers, agents, or employees or other persons in relation to the affairs, transactions and conditions of the corporation, the actual expense of which shall be paid by the association so examined. (1941, c. 338, s. 10.)

§ 57-11. Expenses. — All acquisition expenses in connection with the solicitation of subscribers to such hospital and/or medical service plan and administration costs including salaries paid to officers of the corporations, if any, shall at all times be subject to inspection by the commissioner of insurance. (1941, c. 338, s. 11; 1943, c. 537, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment inserted the words "and/or medical" in line three.

§ 57-12. Licensing of agents. — Every agent of any hospital service corporation authorized to do business in this state under the provisions of this chapter shall be required to obtain annually from the commissioner of insurance a license under the seal of his office showing that the company for which he is agent is licensed to do business in this state and that he is an agent of such company and duly authorized to do business for it. And every such agent, on demand, shall exhibit his license to any officer or to any person from whom he shall solicit hospital service. For said license, each agent shall annually pay the sum of one ($1.00) dollar. Before a license is issued to an agent, hereunder, the agent and the company and duly authorized to do business in this state under the provisions of any of the hospital contracts or subscribers' contracts issued by said corporation in pursuance of this chapter, the commissioner of insurance shall have the right without court action, to transfer all its assets, liabilities, and obligations, to any other corporation, whether organized under the provisions of this chapter, or not, under such contract of reinsurance with such transferee corporation, that he deems to the best interests of the corporation, its members and creditors whose assets, obligations and liabilities, are transferred. This action on the part of the commissioner of insurance is without prejudice to the rights of the corporations whose assets, liabilities and obligations are so transferred, to institute other and proper legal remedies, and to question the action so taken by the commissioner of insurance as herein provided, provided, however, that the action taken by the commissioner of insurance herein shall not be affected pending a final determination by the court with reference thereto. (1941, c. 338, s. 13; 1943, c. 537, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—The word "affected" in the next to the last line of this section erroneously appeared as "effected" in the 1941 act. The proper correction was made in codifying the act and subsequently the 1946 act also made the correction.

§ 57-13. Revocation of certificate of authority; dissolution. — Whenever the commissioner of insurance shall find as a fact that any corporation subject to the provisions of this chapter, is being operated for profit or fraudulently conducted, or is not complying with the provisions of this chapter, he shall be authorized to revoke the certificate of authority or license theretofore granted and may at any time thereafter institute or cause to be instituted the necessary proceedings under the laws of this state looking to the dissolution of such corporation, and any dissolution, liquidation, merger, or reorganization of a corporation or corporations subject to the provisions of this chapter shall be under the supervision of the commissioner of insurance who shall have all powers with respect thereto granted to him under the insurance laws of this state. If, at any time, a corporation organized under the provisions of this chapter is financially unable to comply with the provisions of this chapter or to comply with any of the provisions of any of the hospital contracts or subscribers' contracts issued by said corporation in pursuance of this chapter, the commissioner of insurance shall have the right without court action, to transfer all its assets, liabilities, and obligations, to any other corporation, whether organized under the provisions of this chapter, or not, under such contract of reinsurance with such transferee corporation, that he deems to the best interests of the corporation, its members and creditors whose assets, obligations and liabilities, are transferred. This action on the part of the commissioner of insurance is without prejudice to the rights of the corporations whose assets, liabilities and obligations are so transferred, to institute other and proper legal remedies, and to question the action so taken by the commissioner of insurance as herein provided, provided, however, that the action taken by the commissioner of insurance herein shall not be affected pending a final determination by the court with reference thereto. (1941, c. 338, s. 13; 1943, c. 537, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment inserted in the fourth sentence the words "or otherwise," and also the words "and/or medical." It added the proviso to the fifth sentence, and inserted in the last sentence the words "and/or medical."

§ 57-14. Taxation. — Every corporation subject to the provisions of this chapter is hereby declared to be a charitable and non-profit corporation and all of its funds and property shall be exempt from every state, county, district, municipal and school tax or assessment, and all other taxes [495] and license fees, from the payment of which charitable and/or benevolent institutions are now or shall be hereafter exempt. For the purpose of raising revenues sufficient to defray the expenses of the administration of this chapter, and in lieu of all other taxes annual franchise or privilege tax is hereby levied upon every corporation subject to the provisions of this chapter at the rate of one-third of one cent of the gross annual collections from membership dues exclusive of receipts from cost plus plans. The general assembly of North Carolina does hereby appropriate the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000.00) annually from its general funds to be paid over to the department of insurance of this state for its use in the discharge of the duties by this chapter imposed upon the commissioner of insurance of this state.

Editor's Note.—For comment on this provision, see 19 N. C. L. Rev. 518.

§ 57-15. Amendments to certificate of incorporation.—Every such corporation subject to the provisions of this chapter shall, prior to any amendments of its certificate of incorporation, file with the commissioner of insurance, two copies of the proposed amendment. Every amendment to a certificate of incorporation of any corporation subject to the provisions of this chapter, shall have annexed thereto the approval of the commissioner of insurance before the same shall be filed with the secretary of state. (1941, c. 338, s. 15.)

Cross Reference.—As to amendments generally, see § 55-31.

§ 57-16. Cost plus plans.—Any corporation organized under the provisions of this chapter shall be authorized as agent of any other corporations, firm, group, partnership, or association, doing business in this state, to administer on behalf of such corporation, firm, group, partnership, or association, any employee group hospitalization or medical service plan, promulgated by such corporation, firm, group, partnership, or association, on a cost plus administrative expense basis, provided only that administrative costs of such a cost plus plan administered by a corporation organized under the provisions of this chapter, acting as an agent as herein provided, shall not exceed the remuneration received therefor, and provided further that the corporation organized under this chapter administering such a plan shall have no liability to the subscribers or to the hospitals for the success or failure, liquidation or dissolution of such group hospitalization or medical service plan and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to require of said corporation, firm, group, partnership, or association, conformity to the provisions of this chapter if such employee group hospitalization is administered by a corporation organized under this chapter, on a cost plus expense basis. The administration of any cost plus plans as herein provided, shall not be subject to regulation or supervision by the commissioner of insurance. (1941, c. 338, s. 16; 1943, c. 537, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment inserted in line twenty-one the words "or medical service plan."

§ 57-17. Pre-existing hospital service corporations.—No corporations organized under the laws of this state prior to the ratification of this chapter, for the purposes herein provided, shall be required to reincorporate as provided for herein, and the provisions of this chapter shall apply to said corporations only with regard to operations by said corporations with respect to subscribers' contracts, participating hospital contracts, reserves, investments, reports, visitations, expenses, taxation, amendments to charters, supervision of commissioner of insurance, application for certificate, issuance of certificates, licensing of agents after the date of the passage of this chapter, provided, however, as soon as practical hereafter and in accordance with rules and regulations adopted by the commissioner of insurance said corporations shall conform to this chapter as near as practical with respect to subscribers' contracts, endorsements, riders, and applications entered into prior to the ratification of this chapter. (1941, c. 338, s. 17.)

§ 57-18. Construction of chapter as to single employer plans; associations exempt.—Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to affect or apply to hospital or medical service plans which limit their membership to employees and the immediate members of the families of the employees of a single employer and which plans are operated by such employer or such limited group of the employees; nor shall this chapter be construed to affect or apply to any non-stock, non-profit medical service association which was, on January first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-three, organized solely for the purpose of, and actually engaged in, the administration of any medical service plan in this state upon contracts and participating agreements with physicians, surgeons, or medical societies, whereby such physicians or surgeons underwrite such plan by contributing their services to members of such association upon agreement with such association as to the schedule of fees to apply and the rate and method of payment by the association from the common fund paid in periodically by the members for medical, surgical and obstetrical care; and such hospital service plans, and such medical service associations as are herein specifically described, are hereby exempt from the provisions of this chapter. The commissioner of insurance may require from any such hospital service plan or medical service association such information as will enable him to determine whether such hospital service plan or medical service association is exempt from the provisions of this chapter. (1941, c. 338, s. 18; 1943, c. 537, s. 16.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment extended the exemption to the specified medical service plans and medical service associations.

(Rev., s. 2765; 1899, c. 54, ss. 3, 8; 1901, c. 710; 1903, c. 42; 1903, c. 771, s. 3; 1907, c. 830, s. 10; 1907, c. 994; 1909, c. 859; 1913, c. 194; 1915, c. 158, 171; 1917, c. 70; 1919, c. 247, s. 4; 1921, c. 25, s. 1; 1933, c. 282, s. 5; 1935, c. 293; 1937, s. 342; C. S. 3874.)

§ 58-7. Bond of commissioner.—The commissioner of insurance, before he enters upon the execution of his official duties, must give a bond to the state in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, with sufficient surety, to be approved by the state treasurer, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the duties of his office during his term of office; this bond extends to the faithful execution of the office of commissioner of insurance by the person elected or appointed thereto until a new election or appointment of commissioner of insurance is made and a new bond given. (Rev., s. 293; 1899, c. 54, s. 55; 1905, c. 430, s. 2; C. S. 6265.)

§ 58-8. Seal of department.—The commissioner of insurance, with the approval of the governor, shall devise a seal, with suitable inscription, for his office, a description of which, with the certificate of approval by the governor, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, with an impression thereof, which seal shall thereupon become the seal of office of the commissioner of the insurance department. The seal may be renewed whenever necessary. (Rev., s. 4682; 1899, c. 54, s. 11; C. S. 6266.)

§ 58-9. Duties of commissioner.—The commissioner of insurance shall:
(1) See that all laws relating to the companies, associations, and orders under the insurance department are faithfully executed.
(2) Furnish to each of the companies incorporated by this state and to the attorneys or general agents of companies and associations incorporated by other states and foreign governments, doing business in this state, printed forms for all statements and reports required by law.
(3) Perform all duties now imposed upon him by law in regard to the examination, supervision, and conduct of companies and associations and orders.
(4) Upon a proper application by any citizen of this state, give a statement or synopsis of the provisions of any insurance contract offered or issued to such citizen.
He may administer the oaths in the discharge of his official duty. (Rev., s. 4689; 1899, c. 54, s. 8; 1905, c. 430, s. 3; C. S. 6269.)

Cross References.—As to control of insurance commissioner over building and loan associations, see §§ 54-24 to 54-31. As to duties with regard to Firemen's Relief Fund, see § 118-1 et seq. As to certain duties with regard to fire inspection and prevention, see §§ 69-1 to 69-7. As to appraisal for merger of building and loan or insurance corporation, see § 53-15.

§ 58-10. Commissioner to provide books; make inspection; compensation.—The commissioner of insurance shall provide all books and blanks of every kind required to carry out the provisions of the law for inspection of buildings in towns and cities, and he or his deputy shall make inspections of the cities and towns of the state. Whenever the commissioner has reason to believe that local inspectors are not doing their duty he or his deputy shall make special trips of inspection and take proper steps to have all the provisions of law relative to the investigation of fires and the prevention of fire waste enforced. (Rev., s. 4690; 1905, c. 506, s. 6; 1925, c. 89; C. S. 6270.)

§ 58-11. Reports and records kept for public inspection.—The commissioner of insurance shall keep on file in his office, for the inspection of the public, all the reports received by him in obedience to law. He shall keep and preserve in a permanent form a record of his proceedings, including a concise statement of the result of all official examinations of companies, a report of the condition of receiverships of insolvent companies, an exhibit of the financial condition and business methods as disclosed by the official examinations of the same, or by their several statements; and such other information and comments in relation to insurance and the public interest therein as he deems fit and proper to preserve. He shall keep the records of fires and matters connected therewith as required by § 69-1 of the chapter on Fire Protection, a record of the policies insuring property of the state, as required by § 58-189 of this chapter, and a record of the proceedings attending the service of process on him as agent for a foreign insurance company, as required by § 58-154. (Rev., s. 4683; 1899, c. 54, ss. 9, 77; 1907, c. 1000, s. 1; C. S. 6271.)

§ 58-12. Original documents and certified copies as evidence.—Every certificate, assignment, or conveyance executed by the commissioner, in pursuance of any authority conferred on him by law and sealed with his seal of office, may be used as evidence and may be recorded in the proper recording offices, in the same manner and with like effect as a deed regularly acknowledged or proved before an officer authorized by law to take the probate of deeds; and all copies of papers in the office of the commissioner, certified by him and authenticated by his official seal, shall be evidence as the original. (Rev., s. 4684; 1899, c. 54, s. 11; C. S. 6272.)

§ 58-13. Admissibility as evidence of agent's authority.—In any case or controversy arising in any court of original jurisdiction within this state wherein it is necessary to establish the question as to whether any insurance or other corporation or agent thereof is or has been licensed by the state insurance department to do business in this state, the certificate of the commissioner of insurance under the seal of his office shall be admissible in evidence as proof of such corporation or agent's authority as conferred by the state insurance department. (1929, c. 289, s. 1.)

§ 58-14. Reports of commissioner to the governor and general assembly.—The commissioner shall biennially submit to the general assembly, through the governor, a report of his official acts. The commissioner shall, from time to time, report to the general assembly any change which in his opinion should be made in the laws relating to insurance and other subjects pertaining to his department. On or before the first day of February of each year in which the general assembly is in session he shall make to the governor the recommendations called for in this section, to be transmitted to the general assembly, with the last annual report of this department, including receipts and disbursements. (Rev., s. 4687, 1899; 1901, c. 54, ss. 6, 7, 10; 1901, c. 391, s. 2; 1911, c. 211, s. 2; 1917, c. 217, s. 5; C. S. 6273.)

Editor's Note.—Before the amendment of 1927 the commissioners by this section were required to submit annually to the governor a report of their official acts, etc.

§ 58-15. Authority over all insurance companies; no exemptions from license.—Every insurance company, association or order, as well as every bond, investment, dividend, guarantee, registry, title guarantee, debenture, or such other like company (not strictly an insurance company, as defined in the general insurance laws), must be licensed and supervised by the commissioner of insurance, and must pay all licenses, taxes, and fees as prescribed in the insurance laws of the state for the class of company, association, or order to which it belongs. No provision in any statute, public or private, may relieve any company, association, or order from the supervision prescribed for the class of companies, associations, or orders of like character, or release it from the payment of the licenses, taxes, and fees prescribed for companies, associations, and orders of the same class; and all such special provisions or exemptions are hereby repealed. It is unlawful for the commissioner of insurance to grant or issue a license to any company, association, or order, or agent for them, claiming such exemption from supervision by his department and release for the payment of license, fees, and taxes. (Rev., s. 4691; 1903, c. 594, ss. 1, 2, 3; C. S. 6274.)

A fraternal insurance order incorporated under the laws of another state, with branch offices in this state, come, within the meaning of this section and must be licensed and supervised by the insurance commissioner. State v. Arlington, 157 N. C. 640, 72 S. E. 122.

§ 58-16. Examinations to be made.—Before granting certificates of authority to an insurance company to issue policies or make contracts of insurance the commissioner shall be satisfied, by such examination and evidence as he sees fit to make and require, that the company is otherwise duly qualified under the laws of the state to transact business therein. As often as once in three years he shall personally or by his deputy visit each domestic insurance company and thoroughly inspect and examine its affairs, especially as to its financial condition and ability to fulfill its obligations and whether it has complied with the laws. He shall also make an examination of any such company whenever he deems it prudent to do so, or upon the request of five or more of the stockholders, creditors, policyholders, or persons peculiarly interested therein, who shall make affidavit of their belief, with specifications of their reasons therefor, that the company is in an unsound condition. Whenever the commissioner deems it prudent for the protection of policyholders in this state he shall in like manner visit and examine, or cause to be visited and examined by some competent person appointed by him for that purpose, any foreign insurance company applying for admission or already admitted to do business in this state, and such company shall pay the proper charges incurred in this examination, including the expenses of the commissioner or his deputy and the expenses and compensation of his assistants employed therein. For these purposes the commissioner or his deputy or persons making the examination have a right of free access to all the books and papers of the insurance company that relate to its business, and to the books and papers kept by any of its agents, and may summon, administer oaths to, and examine as witnesses, the directors, officers, agents, and trustees of any such company, and any other person, in relation to its affairs, transactions, and condition. (Rev., s. 4692; 1899, c. 54, s. 13; C. S. 6275.)

§ 58-17. Oath required for compliance with law.—Before issuing license to any insurance company to transact the business of insurance in this state, the commissioner of insurance shall require, in every case, in addition to the other requirements provided for by law, that the company file with him the affidavit of its president or other chief officer that it has not violated any of the provisions of this chapter for the space of twelve months last past, and that it accepts the terms and obligations of this chapter as a part of the consideration of the license. (Rev., s. 4693; 1899, c. 54, s. 110; 1901, c. 391, s. 8; C. S. 6276.)

§ 58-18. Investigation of charges.—Upon complaint being filed by a citizen of this state that a company authorized to do business in the state has violated any of the provisions of this chapter, the commissioner of insurance shall diligently investigate the matter, and, if necessary, examine, under oath, by himself or his accredited representatives, at the head office located in the United States, the president and such other officer or agents of such companies as may be deemed proper; also all books, records, and papers of the same. He or his deputies shall have power to summon witnesses, and to compel them to appear before him, or either of them, and to testify under oath in relation to any matter which is, by the provisions of this law, a subject of inquiry and investigation, and may require the production of any book, paper, document, or other matter whatsoever deemed pertinent or necessary to such inquiry with the same force and effect as is possessed by courts of record in this state. (Rev., s. 4694; 1899, c. 54, s. 111; 1903, c. 438, s. 11; 1921, c. 136, s. 4; 1925, c. 275, s. 6; C. S. 6377.)

Cross Reference.—As to penalties for using funds of insurance companies for political purposes, see § 163-206.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1921 this section provided that a bond to secure expense or cost could be required by the commissioner from the complaining party. By the amendment of 1921, $500 was appropriated to carry out this section. By the amendment of 1925 the provisions for a bond and an appropriation were omitted.

§ 58-19. Collection of expenses of examination.—If any company, authorized to do business in licenses.—The commissioner of insurance shall public, all the reports received by him in obedience to this chapter, and shall certify to the clerk of the superior court of each county an abstract of each annual statement at the expense of the company making the same, and receive therefor from each company the sum of four dollars: Provided, the commissioner of insurance may, in lieu of said abstract, file with the clerks of the courts a copy of the advance sheets of his report or the full report, or both; and he shall also certify, at like expense, to such clerks, on the first day of May of each year, a list of the licenses in force at such dates and those that have expired without renewal or that have been revoked, and each clerk shall file such certified abstracts and lists in stub books, to be kept for that purpose, furnished by the commissioner of insurance, which books shall be open for the inspection of the public. There shall be no tax for any seal on the certificates required by this section. (Rev., s. 4700; 1899, c. 54, s. 77; 1901, c. 391, s. 6; 1903, c. 438, s. 7; 1915, c. 166, s. 9; 1931, c. 74; C. S. 6283.)

§ 58-20. Commissioner to prescribe forms and furnish blanks for returns.—The commissioner of insurance shall furnish blank forms for statements in order to secure full information as to the standing, condition, and other information desired of companies under his department. These forms shall contain such questions and be in such form as the commissioner may prescribe. (Rev., s. 4708; 1899, c. 54, s. 104; C. S. 6279.)

§ 58-21. Annual statements to be filed with commissioner.—Every insurance company, association, or order—domestic, through its officers, and foreign, through its general agent—shall file in the office of the commissioner of insurance, on or before the first day of March in each year, in form and detail as the commissioner of insurance prescribes, a statement showing the business standing and financial condition of such company, association, or order on the preceding thirty-first day of December, signed and sworn to by the chief managing agent or officer thereof, before the commissioner of insurance or some officer authorized by law to administer oaths. The commissioner of insurance shall, in December of each year, furnish to each of the insurance companies authorized to do business in the state two or more blanks adapted for their annual statements. (Rev., s. 4698; 1899, c. 54, ss. 72, 73, 83, 90, 97; 1901, c. 706, s. 2; 1903, c. 438, s. 9; C. S. 6280.)

§ 58-22. Punishment for making false statement.—If any insurance company in its annual or other statement required by law shall wilfully misstate the facts, the insurance company and the person making oath to or subscribing the same shall severally be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 3493; 1899, c. 54, s. 97; C. S. 6281.)

§ 58-23. Commissioner to examine statements and publish abstracts.—It is the duty of the commissioner of insurance to receive and thoroughly examine each annual statement required by this chapter, and, if made in compliance with the laws of this state, to publish, at the expense of the company, an abstract of the same in one of the newspapers of the state, which newspaper may be selected by the general agent making the statement, if within thirty days after the filing of the statement he notifies the commissioner of insurance, in writing, of the name of the paper selected by him. (Rev., s. 4699; 1899, c. 54, s. 74; 1901, c. 391, s. 6; C. S. 6282.)

§ 58-24. Commissioner to file reports of companies; copy to superior court clerk; certified list of licenses.—The commissioner of insurance shall keep on file in his office, for the inspection of the public, all the reports received by him in obedience to this chapter, and shall certify to the clerk of the superior court of each county an abstract of each annual statement at the expense of the company making the same, and receive therefor from each company the sum of four dollars: Provided, the commissioner of insurance may, in lieu of said abstract, file with the clerks of the courts a copy of the advance sheets of his report or the full report, or both; and he shall also certify, at like expense, to such clerks, on the first day of May of each year, a list of the licenses in force at such dates and those that have expired without renewal or that have been revoked, and each clerk shall file such certified abstracts and lists in stub books, to be kept for that purpose, furnished by the commissioner of insurance, which books shall be open for the inspection of the public. There shall be no tax for any seal on the certificates required by this section. (Rev., s. 4700; 1899, c. 54, s. 77; 1901, c. 391, s. 6; 1903, c. 438, s. 7; 1915, c. 166, s. 9; 1931, c. 74; C. S. 6283.)

Editor's Note—The Act of 1931 struck out the words "each alternate month" formerly appearing in lines fourteen and fifteen of this section and inserted in lieu thereof "May each year."

§ 58-25. Record of business kept by companies and agents; commissioner may inspect.—All companies, agents, or brokers doing any kind of insurance business in this state must make and keep a full and correct record of the business done by them, showing the number, date, term, amount insured, premiums, and the persons to whom issued, of every policy or certificate or renewal. Information from these records must be furnished to the commissioner of insurance on demand, and the original books of records shall be open to the inspection of the commissioner, his deputy or clerk, when demanded. (Rev., s. 4696; 1899, c. 54, s. 108; 1903, c. 438, s. 11; C. S. 6284.)

§ 58-26. Commissioner may employ actuary or accountant.—It is the duty of the commissioner of insurance, when in his judgment it is necessary in order that he may be fully advised as to the exact financial condition of any insurance company and the manner in which its business has been or is being conducted, to employ an independent actuary to make a technical calculation of the business and policies of the company, or a skilled accountant to examine and check up the books of the company, and the services shall be paid for as other bills against the state, out of the treasury, where payment is not otherwise provided for. (1907, c. 1000, s. 2; C. S. 6285.)

§ 58-27. Books and papers required to be exhibited.—It is the duty of any person having in his possession or control any books, accounts, or papers of any company, order, or person licensed under this chapter, to exhibit the same to the commissioner of insurance or to any deputy, actuary, accountant, or persons acting with or for the commissioner of insurance. Any person who shall refuse, on demand, to exhibit the books, accounts, or papers, as above provided, or who shall knowingly or wilfully make any false statement in regard to the same, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., ss. 3494, 4697; 1899, c. 54, s. 76; 1907, c. 1000, s. 3; C. S. 6286.)

—All contracts of insurance on property, lives, or interests in this state shall be deemed to be made therein; and all contracts of insurance the applications for which are taken within the state shall be deemed to have been made within this state and are subject to the laws thereof. (Rev., s. 4806; 1899, c. 54, s. 2; C. S. 6029.)

Editor's Note.—See 13 N. C. L. Rev. 213, for note on "Validity of Statutes Localizing Insurance Contracts." See also page 41 for the law of contracts in general.

General Consideration. — The section is constitutional. William v. Jefferson Standard Life Ins. Co., 129 N. C. 126, 29 S. E. 802. It did not have a retroactive effect. 1d.

Application Taken out of State.—When neither party was a resident of the state at the time of the contract of insurance and the application was taken out of the state the rule of lex loci contracti applies. Keesler v. Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co., 177 N. C. 394, 99 S. E. 97.

§ 58-31. Stipulations as to jurisdiction and limitation of actions.—No company or order, domestic or foreign, authorized to do business in this state under this chapter, may make any condition or stipulation in its insurance contracts concerning the court or jurisdiction wherein any suit or action thereon may be brought, nor may it limit the time within which such suit or action may be commenced or maintained, to less than six months from the time of accrual of action accues or to less than six months from the time at which a plaintiff takes a nonsuit to an action begun within the legal time. All conditions and stipulations forbidden by this section are void. (Rev. s. 4809; 1899, c. 54, ss. 23, 106; 1901, c. 391, s. 8; C. S. 6290).

Editor's Note.—The provision that limits the time to not less than one year after the cause of action accrues is construed by the court to mean not twelve months after loss but less than twelve months after the date when all restrictions preventing suit are removed. If sixty days are allowed for proof of loss the insured would have twelve months after the expiration of the sixty days in which to bring suit. Any restriction in the policy preventing the insured from bringing his action within the twelve month limit in which action must be brought from running against him.

Limitations Not In Conflict.—A stipulation in a policy as to time of bringing an action is a contractual limitation, and has been held by the Supreme Court to be valid when it does not conflict with any provision of the statute. Parker v. Insur. Co., 113 N. C. 285, 19 S. E. 501.

Construed with Standard Fire Insurance Policy.—The provisions of a standard fire insurance policy, as set out in section 58-177, must be construed with the provision of this section and shall be so construed as to prevent bars prescribed it will not be barred. Modlin v. Atlantic Fire Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 35, 45, 63 S. E. 605. Under this policy the insured has twelve months from the date of loss and, according to the provisions of this section and section 58-177, he has twelve months within which to commence his suit. Muse v. London Assur. Corp., 108 N. C. 240, 13 S. E. 94; Dibrell v. Georgia Home Ins. Co., 110 N. C. 393, 14 S. E. 713; Lowe v. United States Mut. Acci. Ass'n, 115 N. C. 18, 20 S. E. 169; Gerringer v. North Carolina Home Ins. Co., 133 N. C. 407, 414, 45 S. E. 723.

Not Construed as a Statute of Limitations.—As the stipulation of the standard policy is a contract, and not a statute of limitations, it may be waived, or the party for whose benefit it was provided may be estopped by his conduct from insisting upon its enforcement. Dibrell v. Georgia Home Ins. Co., 110 N. C. 393, 14 S. E. 713; Lowe v. United States Mut. Acci. Ass'n, 115 N. C. 18, 20 S. E. 169; Gerringer v. North Carolina Home Ins. Co., 133 N. C. 407, 414, 45 S. E. 723.

Construed with Accident Policies.—The stipulations in accident insurance policies that proceedings shall not be begun until ninety days after proof of loss do not contravene the sections of this chapter. The policy Authorities state that the insured may bring his action within 12 months after the accident, this being construed to mean that he will have twelve months after the cause of action accrues. Heilig v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 163 N. C. 367, 79 S. E. 806.

Not Construed as a Statute of Limitations.—As the stipulation of the standard policy is a contract, and not a statute of limitations, it may be waived, or the party for whose benefit it was provided may be estopped by his conduct from insisting upon its enforcement. Dibrell v. Georgia Home Ins. Co., 110 N. C. 393, 14 S. E. 713; Lowe v. United States Mut. Acci. Ass'n, 115 N. C. 18, 20 S. E. 169; Gerringer v. North Carolina Home Ins. Co., 133 N. C. 407, 414, 45 S. Heilig v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 163 N. C. 367, 79 S. E. 806.

Fraternals. —Provisions of the constitution and by-laws of a fraternal order of insurance, that suits shall not be brought or maintained for any cause or claim arising out of [506]
§ 58-32. Insurance as security for a loan by the company.— Where an insurance company, as a condition for a loan by such company, of money upon mortgage or other security, requires that the borrower insure either his life or that of another, or his property, or the title to his property, with the company, and assign or cause to be assigned to it a policy of insurance as security for the loan, and agree to pay premiums thereon during the continuance of the loan, whether the premium is paid annually, semiannually, quarterly, or monthly, such premiums shall not be considered as interest on such loans, nor will any loan be rendered usurious by reason of any such requirements, where the rate of interest charged for the loan does not exceed the legal rate and where the premiums charged for the insurance do not exceed the premiums charged to other persons for similar policies who do not obtain loans. (1915, c. 8; 1917, c. 61; C. S. 6291.)

Does Not Exempt from Usury Laws.—This section was held not to exempt insurance companies from the provisions of § 24-1 and § 24-2, relating to usury, the purport and effect of the section being merely to allow insurance companies to require as a condition precedent to the loan of money to the borrower, that a policy of insurance and assign same as security for the loan. Cowan v. Security Life, etc., Co., 211 N. C. 18, 188 S. E. 812.

If this section did provide that insurance companies should be exempted from §§ 24-1 and 24-2, it would be void as in violation of Art. I, sec. 7, of the Constitution. Id.

A ten-year endowment policy comes within the provisions of this section, when such endowment policy provides that the insured dies during the ten-year period while the policy is in force. Id.

§ 58-33. Companies must do business in own name.—Every insurance company, foreign or domestic, must conduct its business in the state in, and the policies and contracts of insurance issued by it shall be headed or entitled only by, its proper or corporate name. (Rev., s. 4811; 1899, c. 54, s. 18; C. S. 6292.)

§ 58-34. Publication of assets and liabilities; penalty for failure.—When any company publishes its assets it must in the same connection and with equal conspicuousness publish its liabilities computed on the basis allowed for its annual statements; and any publications purporting to show its capital must exhibit only the amount of such capital as has been actually paid in cash. Any company or agent thereof violating the provision of this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars. (Rev., ss. 3492, 4812; 1899, c. 54, ss. 18, 96; C. S. 6293.)

§ 58-35. Liabilities and reserve fund determined.—To determine the liability of an insurance company, other than life and real estate title insurance, upon its contracts, and thence the amount such company must hold as a reserve for reinsurance, the commissioner of insurance shall take the actual unearned portion of the premiums written in its policies. In case of the insolvency of any company, the reserve on outstanding policies may with the consent of the commissioner, be used for the reinsurance of its policies to the extent of their pro rata part thereof. (Rev., s. 4704; 1899, c. 54, s. 67; 1901, c. 391, s. 5; 1907, c. 1000, s. 4; C. S. 6294.)

Section Constitutional.—This section in no way impinges on the Constitution. Hardware Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Stinson, 210 N. C. 69, 78, 185 S. E. 449.

§ 58-36. Corporation or association maintaining office in state required to qualify and secure license.—Any corporation or voluntary association, other than an association of companies, the members of which are licensed in this state, issuing contracts of insurance and maintaining a principal, branch, or other office within this state, whether soliciting business in this state or in foreign states, shall qualify under the insurance laws of this state applicable to the type of insurance written by such corporation or association and secure license from the commissioner of insurance as provided under this chapter on insurance, as amended, and the officers and agents of any such corporation or association maintaining offices within this state and failing to qualify and secure license as herein provided shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. (1937, c. 39.)

§ 58-37. Revocation of license of foreign company; publication of notice.—If the commissioner of insurance is of the opinion, upon examination or other evidence, that a foreign insurance company is in an unsound condition, or, if a life insurance company, that its actual funds, exclusive of its capital, are less than its liabilities; or that it has failed to comply with the law, or if it, its officers or agents, refuse to submit to examination or to perform any legal obligation in relation thereto, the commissioner shall revoke or suspend all certificates of authority granted to it or its agents, and shall cause notification thereof to be published in one or more newspapers published in this state; and no new business may thereafter be done by it or its agents in this state while such default or disability continues, or until its authority to do business is restored by the commissioner. (Rev., s. 4701; 1899, c. 54, s. 14; 1901, c. 176, s. 1; C. S. 6295.)

§ 58-38. Revocation of license of domestic company; injunction and receiver.—If, upon examination, the commissioner of insurance is of the opinion that any domestic insurance company is insolvent, or has exceeded its powers, or failed to comply with any provision of law, or that its condition is such as to render its further proceeding hazardous to the public or to its policyholders, he shall revoke its license, and, if he deems it necessary, shall apply to a judge of the superior court to issue an injunction restraining it in whole or in part from further proceeding with its business.

The judge may issue the injunction forthwith, or upon notice and hearing thereon, and after a full hearing of the matter may dissolve or modify the injunction or make it permanent, and may make all orders and judgments needful in the matter, and may appoint agents or a receiver to take possession of the property and effects of the company and to settle its affairs, subject to such rules and orders as the court from time to time prescribes. (Rev., s. 4702; 1899, c. 54, s. 14; C. S. 6296.)

§ 58-39. Revocation of license for violation of law or impaired assets.—1. The authority of a domestic or foreign insurance company may be revoked if it violates or neglects to comply with any provision of law obligatory upon it, and whenever in the opinion of the commissioner of insurance its condition is unsound, or its assets above its liabilities, exclusive of capital and inclusive of reserve or unearned premiums estimated as provided by this chapter, are less than the amount of its original capital or required unimpaired funds.

2. If the commissioner of insurance is satisfied at any time that any statements made by any company licensed under this chapter are untrue, or if a general agent fails or refuses to obey the provisions of this chapter, the commissioner of insurance may revoke and cancel the license of such company or agent.

An insurance company violating any provision of this chapter, or refusing to submit to the examination provided for in § 58-18, when requested, forfeits its right to do business in this state for twelve months thereafter, and the commissioner of insurance shall immediately revoke the license issued to such insurance company to do business in this state. (Rev., ss. 4703, 4705; 1899, c. 54, ss. 66, 75, 112; 1901, c. 391, s. 8; C. S. 6297.)

§ 58-40. Agents and adjusters must procure license.—Every agent or adjuster of any insurance company authorized to do business in this state shall be required to obtain annually from the commissioner of insurance a license under the seal of his office, showing that the company for which he represents in this state for such length of time and it shall be his duty to revoke, the license of such agent or adjuster for all the companies which he represents, and the commissioner shall have the right to have such revocation reviewed by any judge of the superior court of Wake county upon application because of nonresidence as set out in section 58-43, and the agent or adjuster shall have the right to have such revocation reviewed by any judge of the superior court of Wake county upon appeal.

The commissioner of insurance shall satisfy himself that the person applying for license as an agent or adjuster is a person of good moral character, that he has not wilfully violated any of the insurance laws of this state, and that he is a proper person for such position, and that such license, if issued, shall serve the public's interests. (1913, c. 79, s. 1; 1915, c. 109, ss. 6, 7, c. 166, s. 7; 1931, c. 185; C. S. 6299.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added at the end of this section the following: "and that such license, if issued, shall serve the public's interests."

§ 58-41. Application for license.—Before a license is issued to an insurance agent or adjuster in this state, the agent or adjuster and the company for which he desires to act shall apply for the license on forms to be prescribed by the commissioner of insurance; and before he issues a license to such agent or adjuster, the commissioner of insurance shall satisfy himself that the person applying for license as an agent or adjuster is a person of good moral character, that he intends to hold himself out in good faith as an insurance agent or adjuster, and that he has not wilfully violated any of the insurance laws of this state, and that he is a proper person for such position, and that such license, if issued, shall serve the public's interests. (1913, c. 79, s. 1; 1915, c. 109, ss. 6, 7, c. 166, s. 7; 1931, c. 185; C. S. 6299.)

Editor's Note.—As to punishment for violating this section, see § 58-47.

Validity of Contract When Agent Not Licensed.—Where a foreign insurance company, authorized to do business here under our laws, issues its policy on property situated within the State, but through an agency in another State which is unauthorized to write it here, because of not having obtained the license required by law the policy is valid as to the right of action of the insured thereon. Hay v. Union Fire Ins. Co., 167 N. C. 82, 83 S. E. 241.

Agent of Fraternal Insurance Order.—This section is applicable to all agents including an officer of a fraternal insurance order operating in North Carolina. State v. Arlington, 157 N. C. 643, 643, 73 S. E. 122.

§ 58-42. Revocation of agent's or adjuster's license.—When the commissioner of insurance is satisfied that any insurance agent or adjuster licensed by this state has wilfully violated any of the insurance laws of this state, or has wilfully overinsured property of any of the citizens of the state, or has wilfully misrepresented any policy of insurance, or has dealt unjustly with or wilfully deceived any citizen of this state in regard to any insurance policies, or has exercised coercion in obtaining an application for or in selling insurance, or has failed or refused to pay over to the company which he represents, any money or property in the hands of such agent or adjuster belonging to the company, or not demanded, or has become in any way disqualified according to any of the provisions necessary for obtaining or holding such license as set out in § 58-41, or has in any other way become unfit for such position, the commissioner may revoke, and it shall be his duty to revoke, the license of such agent or adjuster for all the companies which he represents in this state for such length of time as he may decide, not exceeding one year. The commissioner of insurance shall give to the agent or adjuster ten days' notice of the revocation of such license, and shall give the reasons therefor: and the agent or adjuster shall have the right to have such revocation reviewed by any judge of the superior court of Wake county upon appeal.

For the purpose of investigation under this section, the commissioner of insurance shall have all the power conferred upon him by § 58-171. (1913, c. 79, ss. 2, 3; 1915, c. 166, s. 7; 1929, c. 301, s. 1; 1943, c. 434; C. S. 6300.)

Cross Reference.—As to insurance agents and brokers wrongfully converting money being guilty of larceny, see § 14-96.

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1929 added disqualification because of nonresidence as set out in section 58-43, to the grounds for revocation.

The 1943 amendment inserted after the word "policies" in § 58-43. Nonresident agents forbidden; exception.—No nonresident of the state shall be licensed to do business in the state, except as a special agent or organizer, and then only when he reports his business for record as North Carolina business to some or all of the direct agent of his company in the state, or having territory within the state. (Rev., s. 4707; 1899, c. 54, s. 108; 1903, c. 438, s. 11; C. S. 6301.)

§ 58-44. Resident agents required; discrimination.—All business done in this state by steam-boiler, liability, accident, health, live-stock, marine, leakage, credit, plate-glass, and fidelity insurance companies shall be by their regularly authorized agents residing in the state, or transacted through applications of such agents; and all policies so issued must be countersigned by such agents, who may pay not exceeding fifty per cent of the regular commissions allowed on the premiums collected on such business to a licensed nonresident broker. It shall be unlawful for any salaried officer, manager, or other representative of any company, unless a bona fide resident agent, to do or perform for or on behalf of his company any act which by the insurance laws of this State is required to be performed by a licensed resident agent. It shall be unlawful for the commissioner of insurance to license as a resident agent any person unless he is fully satisfied that such a person is a bona fide resident of this State, and is not being licensed for the purpose of evading the resident agent laws. The companies or their agents may make any discrimination in favor of individuals or insurers, and the provisions hereinafter set forth in this chapter with respect to discrimination by life insurance companies shall apply to the companies above named and their agents. (Rev., s. 4810; 1899, c. 54, ss. 107, 108; 1903, c. 438, s. 11; 1911, c. 196, s. 5; 1913, c. 140, s. 3; 1921, c. 136, s. 3; 1925, c. 70, s. 1; C. S. 6302.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to amendment of 1921, Public Laws, c. 136, section 3, no provision was made as to what broker-age fee should be paid by a resident agent. By amendment of 1921 five per cent was allowed for such fee.

The Public Laws of 1925 in amending this statute states that the section as amended by section 3 shall be changed without further designation of the amending act. Obviously this refers to section 3 of the Act of 1921, supra. This later amendment allowed fifty per cent commission as brokerage fee, and required that the local agent be a resident of the state, making it unlawful for the insurance commissioner to license as a resident agent anyone unless he is fully satisfied that such person is a bona fide resident of the state.

§ 58-45. Agents personally liable, when.—An insurance agent is personally liable on all contracts of insurance unlawfully made by or through him, directly or indirectly, for any contract made without authority to do business in the state. A person or citizen of the state who fills up or signs any open policy, certificate, blank or coupon of, or furnished by, an unlicensed company, agent, or broker, the effect of which is to bind any insurance in an unlicensed company on property in this state, is the agent of such company, and personally liable for all licenses and taxes due on account of such transaction. (Rev., s. 4813; 1899, c. 54, s. 70; 1903, c. 458, s. 7; C. S. 6303.)

§ 58-46. Payment of premium to agent valid; obtaining by fraud a crime.—An insurance agent or broker who acts for a person other than himself negotiating a contract of insurance is, for the purpose of receiving the premium therefor, the company's agent, whatever conditions or stipulations may be contained in the policy or contract. Such agent or broker knowingly procuring by fraudulent representations, payment or the obligation for the payment, of a premium for insurance, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned for not more than one year. (Rev., ss. 3464, 4814; 1899, c. 54, s. 69; C. S. 6304.)

Where Broker Fails to Deliver Funds.—Where the insurer has credited the amount of the unearned premium to its broker's account, who in turn has credited the amount to account of the broker who has procured the employer's application for the insurance, the insurer is liable to the employer for the amount of the unearned premium not actually paid to the employer by the broker. Hughes v. Lewis, 203 N. C. 775, 166 S. E. 229.

Where Policy Requires Receipt.—Where a policy provided that premiums were payable to a duly authorized agent only in exchange for insurer's official receipt and where evidence showed payment of a note given for a premium to insurer's agent without obtaining the note or insurer's official receipt, and there was no evidence that insurer received any part of the payment, in insurer's action to recover the premium paid after insurer had declared the policy forfeited, it was held that insurer's motion to nonsuit was properly allowed, payment to the agent under the circumstances not constituting payment to insurer. Aills v. New York Life Ins. Co., 209 N. C. 206, 181 S. E. 289.

§ 58-47. Punishment for violating this chapter or for agent acting without license.—If any person shall assume to act as insurance agent or broker without license therefor as required by law, or shall act in any manner in the negotiation or transaction of unlawful insurance with a foreign insurance company not admitted to do business in this state, or as principal or agent shall violate any provisions of law contained in this chapter, the punishment for which is not provided for elsewhere, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense. (Rev., s. 3484; 1899, c. 54, s. 94; 1903, c. 119, s. 2.)

Purpose of Section.—The entire, certainly the chief, purpose of this legislation is to protect people from harmful imposition in contracts and dealings of this character, and the evil which the statute is designed to prevent is as threatening in the case of a bogus as a real company, perhaps more so. State v. Arlington, 157 N. C. 640, 646, 73 S. E. 122.

Inapplicability to Fraternal Insurance Agents.—The agent of a fraternal insurance order is punishable under this section. State v. Arlington, 157 N. C. 640, 643, 73 S. E. 122.

Same—Acts Constituting Violation.—The conduct of a person in publishing advertisements circulating his cards, taking money, issuing receipts, assuming to represent a fraternal insurance order, comes within the permissible and proper meaning of the words used in the statute and clearly within the mischief of the section. State v. Harrison, 145 N. C. 408, 417, 59 S. E. 807; State v. Arlington, 157 N. C. 640, 646, 73 S. E. 122.

Same.—Indictment.—A bill of indictment for the offences provided for by this section will not be held fatally defective because it contains no direct averment that a fraternal insurance order was subject to the insurance regulations, when otherwise sufficient. State v. Arlington, 157 N. C. 640, 641, 73 S. E. 122.

§ 58-48. Agent failing to exhibit license.—If any agent of any insurance company shall, on demand
§ 58-49. Agents making false statements. — If any solicitor, agent, examining physician, or other person shall knowingly or willfully make any false or fraudulent statement or representation in or with reference to any publication for insurance, or shall make any such statement for the purpose of obtaining fee, commission, money, or benefit in any corporation transacting business in this state, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3488; 1899, c. 54, s. 108, 109; 1911, c. 196, s. 6; C. S. 6308.)

§ 58-50. Agents signing certain blank policies.—If any agent, commissioned or otherwise, of any fire, marine, health, live-stock, leakage, credit, steam-boiler, liability, accident, plate-glass, or fidelity insurance company shall sign any blank contract or policy of insurance, upon conviction thereof he shall be fined for each offense not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 3487; 1899, c. 54, s. 60; C. S. 6307.)

§ 58-51. Adjuster acting for unauthorized company.—If any person shall act as adjuster on a contract made otherwise than as authorized by the laws of this state, or by any insurance company or other person not regularly licensed to do business in the state, or shall adjust or aid in the adjustment, either directly or indirectly, of a loss by fire on property located in this state, incurred on a contract not authorized by the laws of the state, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than two hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned not less than six months nor more than two years, or both, in the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3489; 1899, c. 54, s. 114; C. S. 6309.)

§ 58-52. Agent violating insurance law.—If any person, either as principal or agent, or pretending to be such, shall solicit, examine, or inspect any risk, or shall examine into, adjust, or aid in adjusting any loss, or shall receive, collect, or transmit any premium of insurance, or shall do any other act in the soliciting, making, or executing any contract of insurance of any kind otherwise than the law permits, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall pay a fine of not less than two hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned not less than one nor more than two years, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3490; 1899, c. 54, s. 115; C. S. 6310.)

§ 58-53. Informer to receive half of penalty. — The person, if other than the commissioner of insurance or his deputy, upon whose complaint a conviction is had for violation of the law prohibiting insurance in or by foreign companies not authorized to do business in the state, or for soliciting, examining, inspecting any risk, or receiving, collecting, or transmitting any premium, or adjusting or aiding in the adjustment of a loss, under a contract made otherwise than as authorized by the laws of this state, is entitled to one-half of the penalty recovered therefor. (Rev., s. 4831; 1899, c. 54, s. 93; C. S. 6311.)

§ 58-54. Forms to be approved by commissioner of insurance.—It is unlawful for any insurance company, association, order or society doing business in this state to issue, sell, or dispose of any policy, contract, or certificate, or use applications in connection therewith, until the forms of the same have been submitted to and approved by the commissioner of insurance of North Carolina, and copies filed in the insurance department. (1907, c. 879; 1913, c. 139; C. S. 6312.)

Validity of Unapproved Policy.—The statute does not purport to deal with the validity of the contract of insurance, but with the insurance company. It does not say a policy shall be void unless approved by the Insurance Commissioner, but that it shall be unlawful for the company to issue such policy, and the reason for the language used is obvious. Blount v. Royal Fraternal Ass'n, 163 N. C. 167, 170, 79 S. E. 299.

Art. 4. Deposit of Securities.

§ 58-55. Deposits held in trust by commissioner or treasurer. — 1. Deposits by domestic company.—The commissioner of insurance or the treasurer, in their official capacity, shall take and hold in trust deposits made by any domestic insurance company for the purpose of complying with the laws of any other state to enable the company to do business in that state. The company making the deposits is entitled to the income thereof, and may, from time to time, with the consent of the commissioner of insurance or treasurer, and when not forbidden by the law under which the deposit was made, change in whole or in part the securities which compose the deposit for other solvent securities of equal par value. Upon request of any domestic insurance company such officer may return to the company the whole or any portion of the securities of the company held by him on deposit, when he is satisfied that they are subject to no liability and are not required to be longer held by any provision of law or purpose of the original deposit.

2. Deposits by foreign company.—The commissioner or treasurer may return to the trustees or other representatives authorized for that purpose any deposit made by a foreign insurance company, when it appears that the company has ceased to do business in the state and is under no obligation to policyholders or other persons in the state for whose benefit the deposit was made.

3. Action to enforce or terminate the trust.—An insurance company which has made a deposit in this state pursuant to this chapter, or its trustees or resident managers in the United States, or the commissioner of insurance, or any creditor of the company, may at any time bring an action in the superior court of Wake county against the state and other parties properly joined therein, to enforce, administer, or terminate the trust created by the deposit. The process in this action shall be served on the officer of the state having the deposit, who shall appear and answer in behalf of the state and perform such orders and judgments as the court may make in such action. (Rev., s. 4709; 1899, c. 54, s. 17; 1901, c. 391, s. 2; 1903, c. 438, s. 1; 1903, c. 536, s. 4; C. S. 6313.)

Cross Reference.—As to Workmen's Compensation Security Fund, see §§ 97-106 to 97-122.

§ 58-56. Deposits subject to approval and control of commissioner.—The deposits of securities required to be made by any insurance company of this state shall be approved by the commissioner of insurance of the state, and he may examine them at all times, and may order all or any part thereof changed for better security, and no change or transfer of the same may be made without his assent. (Rev., s. 4710; 1903, c. 536, s. 5; C. S. 6314.)

§ 58-57. Deposits by foreign companies required and regulated.—A foreign company, if incorporated or associated under the laws of any government or state other than the United States or one of the United States, shall not be admitted to do business in this state until, in addition to complying with the conditions by law prescribed for the licensing and admission of such companies to do business in this state, it has made a deposit with the treasurer or commissioner of insurance of this state, or with the financial officer of some other state of the United States, of a sum not less than the capital required of like companies under this chapter. This deposit must be in exclusive trust for the benefit and security of all the company's policyholders and creditors in the United States, funds of an amount equal to the net value of all its policies in the United States and not less than two hundred thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 4712; 1899, c. 54, s. 82; 1901, c. 391, s. 7; 1905, c. 430, s. 4; C. S. 6317.)

§ 58-58. Deposits by life companies not chartered in United States.—Every life insurance company organized under the laws of any other country than the United States must have and keep on deposit with some state insurance department or in the hands of trustees, in exclusive trust for the security of its contracts with policyholders in the United States, funds of an amount equal to the net value of all its policies in the United States and not less than two hundred thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 4711; 1899, c. 54, s. 64; 1903, c. 438, s. 6; C. S. 6315.)

§ 58-59. Registration of bonds deposited in name of treasurer.—The commissioner of insurance is hereby empowered, upon the written consent of any insurance company depositing with the commissioner or the state treasurer under any law of this State, any state, county, city, or town bonds or notes which are payable to bearer, to cause such bonds or notes to be registered as to the principal thereof in lawful books of registry kept by the issuing state, county, city or town, such registration to be in the name of the treasurer of North Carolina in trust for the company depositing the notes or bonds and the State of North Carolina, as their respective interest may appear, and is further empowered to require of any and all such companies the filing of written consent to such registration as a condition precedent to the right of making any such deposit or right to continue any such deposit heretofore made. (1925, c. 145, s. 2.)

§ 58-60. Notation of registration; release.—Bonds or notes so registered shall bear notation of such registration on the reverse thereof, signed by the registering officer or agent, and may be released from such registration and may be transferred on such books of registry by the signature of the State Treasurer. (1925, c. 145, s. 3.)

§ 58-61. Expenses of registration.—The necessary expenses of procuring such registration and any transfer thereof shall be paid by the company making the deposits. (1925, c. 145, s. 4.)

Art. 5. License Fees and Taxes.

§ 58-62. Commissioner to report and pay monthly.—On or before the tenth day of each month the commissioner of insurance shall furnish to the auditor a statement in detail of the taxes and license fees received by him during the previous month, and shall pay to the treasurer the amount in full of such taxes and fees. The auditor may examine the accounts of the commissioner of insurance and check them up with said statement. (Rev., s. 4714; 1899, c. 54, s. 82; 1901, c. 391, s. 7; 1905, c. 430, s. 4; C. S. 6317.)

§ 58-63. Schedule of fees and charges.—The commissioner of insurance shall collect and pay into the state treasury fees and charges as follows:

1. For filing and examining statement preliminary to admission, twenty dollars; for filing and auditing annual statement, ten dollars; for filing any other papers required by law, one dollar; for each certificate of incorporation or of examination, ten dollars; for examination of company or association, two dollars; for each seal when required, one dollar; for filing charter and other papers of a fraternal order, preliminary to admission, twenty-five dollars.

2. To be paid to the publisher, for the publication of each financial statement, nine dollars.

3. The commissioner shall receive for copy of any record or paper in his office ten cents per copy sheet and one dollar for certifying same, or any fact or data from the records of his office; for making and mailing abstracts to the clerks of the superior courts in the counties of the state, four dollars; for examination of any foreign company, twenty-five dollars per diem and all expenses, and for examining any domestic company, actual expenses incurred; for the examination and approval of charters of companies, five dollars; also, to defray the expense of computing the value of the policies of domestic life insurance companies, one cent for every thousand dollars of the whole amount insured by its policies so valued. The traveling and other expenses of accountants, and other examiners when engaged in the work of examination shall be paid by the companies, associations, or orders under investigation. For the investigation of tax returns and the collection of any delinquent taxes disclosed by such investigation, the commissioner may, in lieu of the above per diem charge, assess against any such delinquent company the expense of the investigation and collection of such delinquent tax, a reasonable percentage of such delinquent tax, not to exceed ten per centum (10%) of such delinquency, and in addition thereto.

§ 58-64. License fees for more than one class of insurance.—No insurance company admitted to do business in the state shall be authorized to transact more than one class or kind of insurance therein, unless it pays the license fees for each class. But upon the payment of the largest license fees provided for any one business done a fire insurance company may do a life business, and a fire insurance company may insure against the perils of the sea and other perils usually insured against by marine insurance, including risks of inland navigation and transportation; and may also insure against loss or damage by water to any goods or premises arising from leakage of sprinklers and water pipes. No insurance company may be required to pay license fees amounting in the aggregate to more than three hundred and fifty dollars per annum. (Rev., s. 4715; 1899, c. 54, ss. 50, 58, 80, 81, 82, 87, 90, 92; 1901, c. 391, s. 7; c. 706, s. 2; 1903, c. 438, ss. 7, 8; 1903, c. 536, s. 4; 1903, c. 680, s. 7; 1905, c. 558, s. 68; 1913, c. 140, s. 1; 1919, c. 186, s. 6; 1921, c. 218; 1935, c. 334; 1939, c. 158, s. 208; C. S. 6318.)

Cross Reference.—As to franchise and license taxes on insurance companies, see § 105-121.

§ 58-66. Licenses run from April first; pro rata payment.—The license required of insurance companies shall continue for the next ensuing twelve months after April first of each year, unless revoked as provided in this chapter; but the commissioner of insurance may, when the annual license tax exceeds twenty-five dollars, receive from applicants after April first so much of the license fee required by law as may be due for the remainder of the year, beginning with the first day of the current month. (Rev., s. 4718; 1899, c. 54, s. 78; C. S. 6321.)

Cross Reference.—For franchise and license taxes on insurance companies, see § 105-121.

§ 58-67. Statements of gross receipts filed and tax paid.—Every general agent shall, within the first thirty days of January and July of each year, make a full and correct statement, under oath of himself and of the president, secretary, or some officer at the home or head office of the company in this country, of the amount of the gross receipts derived from the insurance business under this chapter obtained from residents of this state, or on property located therein during the preceding six months, and shall, within the first fifteen days of February and August of each year, pay to the commissioner of insurance the tax imposed upon such gross receipts. (Rev., s. 4719; 1899, c. 54, s. 79; 1901, c. 391, s. 7; 1903, c. 438, s. 8; C. S. 6322.)

Cross Reference.—The gross receipts tax referred to is imposed by § 105-121.

§ 58-68. Policyholders to furnish information.—To enable the commissioner of insurance the better to enforce the payment of the taxes imposed by this chapter and by § 105-121 every corporation, firm, or individual doing business in the state shall, upon demand of the commissioner, furnish to him, upon blanks to be provided by him, a statement of the amount of all insurance held by them, giving the name of the company, number, and amount of policies and the premiums paid on each, and such other information as the commissioner calls for, or shall file an affidavit with the commissioner that all their insurance is placed in companies licensed to do business in this state. (Rev., s. 4720; 1899, c. 54, s. 79; 1901, c. 391, s. 7; 1903, c. 438, s. 8; C. S. 6323.)

SUBCHAPTER II. INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Art. 6. General Domestic Companies.

§ 58-69. Application of this chapter and general laws.—The general provisions of law relative to the powers, duties, and liabilities of corporations apply to all incorporated domestic insurance companies where pertinent and not in conflict with other provisions of law relative to such companies or with their charters. All insurance companies of this state shall be governed by this chapter, notwithstanding anything in their special charters to the contrary, provided notice of the acceptance of this chapter is filed with the commissioner of insurance. (Rev., s. 4721; 1899, c. 54, s. 19; C. S. 6324.)

§ 58-70. Extension of existing charters.—Domestic insurance companies incorporated by special acts, whose charters are subject to limitation of time, shall, after the limitation expires, and upon filing statement and paying the taxes and fees required for an amendment of the charter, continue to be bodies corporate, subject to all general laws applicable to such companies. (Rev., s. 4722; 1899, c. 54, s. 20; C. S. 6325.)

§ 58-71. Certificate required before issuing policies.—No domestic insurance company may issue policies until upon examination of the commissioner of insurance, his deputy or examiner, it is found to have complied with the laws of the state, and until it has obtained from the commissioner of insurance a certificate setting forth that fact and authorizing it to issue policies. The issuing of policies in violation of this section renders the company liable to the forfeiture prescribed by law, but such policies are binding upon the company. (Rev., s. 4723; 1899, c. 54, ss. 21, 99; 1903, c. 438, s. 10; C. S. 6328.)

§ 58-72. Purposes of organization. — Insurance companies, associations, or orders may be formed as provided in §§ 58-73 and 58-74 for any one of the following purposes:

1. Fire and Storm.—To insure against loss or damage to property by fire, lightning, wind, hail, or water, occasioned thereby or arising therefrom, and for nonoccupancy, upon the stock or mutual plan.

2. Marine.—To insure, upon the stock or mutual plan, vessels, freights, goods, money, effects, and money lent on bottomry or respondentia against the perils of the sea and other perils usually insured against by marine insurance, including risks of inland navigation and transportation.

3. Life.—To carry on the business commonly known as life insurance on the stock or mutual plan, contract for the payment of endowments or annuities, or make and enter into such other contracts conditioned upon the continuance or cessation of human life.

4. Sickness.—Against disablement resulting from sickness and every insurance appertaining thereto.

5. Accident.—Against injury, disablement, or death resulting from traveling or general accident and every insurance appertaining thereto.

6. Fidelity and Surety.—Guaranteeing the fidelity of persons holding places of public or private trust, and guaranteeing the performance of contracts other than insurance policies, and guaranteeing and executing all bonds, undertakings, and contracts of suretyship. And a company is authorized to execute such bonds, undertakings, and contracts of suretyship by itself, though a statute requires two or more sureties.

7. Plate-glass.—Upon glass against breakage.

8. Liability.—Insuring any one against loss or damage resulting from accident to or injury, fatal or nonfatal, suffered by an employee or other person, for which the person insured is liable.

9. Boiler and Machinery.—Upon steam boilers and upon pipes, engines, and machinery connected therewith or operated thereby, against explosion and accident and against loss or damage to life, person, or property resulting therefrom. And a company is authorized to make inspection of and to issue certificates of inspection upon such boilers, pipes, engines, and machinery.

10. Burglary.—Against loss by burglary or theft, or both.

11. Credit.—To carry on the business commonly known as credit insurance or guaranty, either by agreeing to purchase uncollectible debts or otherwise to insure against loss or damage from the failure of persons indebted to the insured to meet their liabilities.

12. Sprinkler.—To insure against loss or damage by water to any goods or premises arising from the breakage or leakage of sprinklers and water-pipes. And a company is authorized to make inspection of and to issue certificates of inspection upon such sprinklers and pipes.

13. Accidents to Vehicles.—To insure against loss or damage to property arising from accidents to elevators, automobiles, bicycles, and vehicles, except rolling stock of railways.

14. Live-stock.—To insure horses and other live-stock against death and damage.

15. Real estate title.—For the purpose of examining titles to real estate and furnishing information in relation thereto, and of insuring owners and others interested therein against loss by reason of encumbrances and defective title.

16. Miscellaneous.—Against any other casualty authorized by the charter of the company, not included under the heads of life, fire, marine, or title insurance, which is a proper subject of insurance. No corporation so formed may transact any other business than that specified in its charter and articles of association. (Rev., s. 4726; 1899, c. 54, ss. 21, 26; 1903, c. 438, s. 1; 1911, c. 111, s. 1; C. S. 6327.)

§ 58-73. Manner of creating such corporations. — The procedure for organizing such corporations is as follows: The proposed incorporators, not less than ten in number, a majority of whom must be residents of the state, shall subscribe articles of association setting forth their intention to form a corporation; its proposed name, which must not so closely resemble the name of an existing corporation doing business under the laws of this state as to be likely to mislead the public, and must be approved by the commissioner of insurance; the class of insurance it proposes to transact and on what business plan or principle; the place of its location within the state, and if on the stock plan, the amount of its capital stock. The words “insurance company,” “insurance association,” or “insurance society” must be a part of the title of any such corporation, and also the word “mutual,” if it is organized upon the mutual principle. The certificate of incorporation must be subscribed and sworn to by the incorporators before an officer authorized to take acknowledgment of deeds, who shall forthwith certify the certificate of incorporation, as so made out and signed, to the commissioner of insurance of the state at his office in the city of Raleigh. The commissioner of insurance shall examine the certificate, and if he approves of it and finds that the requirements of the law have been complied with, shall certify such facts, by certificate on such articles, to the secretary of state. Upon the filing in the office of the secretary of state of the certificate of incorporation and attached certificates, and the payment of a charter fee in the amount required for private corporations, and the same fees to the secretary of state, the secretary of state shall cause the certificate and accompanying certificates to be recorded in his office, and shall issue a certificate in the following form:

Be it known that, whereas (here the names of the subscribers to the articles of association shall be inserted) have associated themselves with the intention of forming a corporation under the name of (here the name of the corporation shall be inserted), for the purpose (here the purpose declared in the articles of association shall be inserted), with a capital (or with a permanent fund) of (here the amount of capital or permanent fund fixed in the articles of association shall be inserted), and have complied with the provisions of the § 58-74. First meeting; organization; license.—The first meeting for the purpose of organization under such charter shall be called by a notice signed by one or more of the subscribers to the certificate of incorporation, stating the time, place, and purpose of the meeting; and at least seven days before the appointed time a copy of this notice shall be given to each subscriber, left at his usual place of business or residence, or duly mailed to his postoffice address, unless the signers waive notice in writing. Whoever gives the notice must make affidavit thereof, which affidavit shall include a copy of the notice and be entered upon the records of the corporation. At the first meeting, or any adjournment thereof, an organization shall be effected by the choice of a temporary clerk, who shall be sworn; by the adoption of by-laws; and by the election of directors and such other officers as the by-laws require; but at this meeting no person may be elected director who has not signed the certificate of incorporation. The temporary clerk shall record the proceedings until the election and qualification of the secretary. The directors so chosen shall elect a president, secretary, and other officers which under the by-laws they are so authorized to choose. The president, secretary, and a majority of the directors shall forthwith make, sign, and swear to a certificate setting forth a copy of the certificate of incorporation, with the names of the subscribers thereto, the date of the first meeting and of any adjournments thereof, and shall submit such certificate and the records of the corporation to the commissioner of insurance, who shall examine the same, and who may require such other evidence as he deems necessary. If upon his examination the commissioner of insurance approves of the by-laws and finds that the requirements of the law have been complied with, he shall issue a license to the company to do business in the state, as is provided for in this chapter. (Rev., s. 4728; 1899, c. 54, s. 26; 1903, c. 495, ss. 2, 3; C. S. 6329.)

§ 58-75. By-laws; classification and election of directors.—A domestic company may adopt by-laws for the conduct of its business not repugnant to law or its charter, and therein provide for the division of its board of directors into two, three, or four classes, and the election thereof at its annual meetings so that the members of each class only shall retire and their successors be chosen each year. Vacancies in any such class may be filled by election by the board for the unexpired term. (Rev., s. 4724; 1899, c. 54, s. 22; C. S. 6330.)

§ 58-76. Power to purchase, hold, and convey real estate.—Any company organized by special charter or under the provisions of the general insurance laws of this state may purchase, hold, and convey real estate for the sole purposes and in the manner herein set forth:
1. Such as is necessary for its immediate use in the transaction of its business.
2. Property mortgaged to it in good faith as security for loans previously contracted or for money due.
3. Property conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of its dealings, or purchased at sales upon judgments, decrees, or mortgages obtained or made for such debts.
(A) Real estate acquired for the purpose of leasing the same to any person, firm, or corporation for a period not exceeding thirty years, or real estate already leased for an unexpired period not exceeding thirty years, under an agreement (1) that the lessee shall at its own cost erect, or where under the lessee or its predecessor in title has at its own cost already erected thereon, free of liens, a building or other improvements satisfactory to the owner; (2) that the said improvements shall remain on the said property during the period of the lease, with provision that at the termination of the lease the ownership of such improvements, free of liens, shall vest in the owner of the real estate; and (3) that during the term of the lease the tenant shall keep and maintain the said improvements in good repair. Real estate acquired pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (A) shall not be treated as an admitted asset unless and until the improvements herein required shall have been constructed and the lease agreement entered into in accordance with the terms of this subsection, nor shall real estate acquired pursuant to this subsection (A) be treated as an admitted asset in an amount exceeding the amount actually invested reduced each year by equal decrements sufficient to write off at least seventy-five per cent of the investment at the normal termination of the lease. The total investments of any company under this subsection (A) shall not exceed three per cent of its assets.
(B) Subject to approval of the commissioner of insurance, real estate for recreation, hospitalization, convalescent and retirement purposes of its employees only. Such investment under this sub-section (B) shall not exceed five per cent of the company’s surplus.

No investment shall be made by any company pursuant to this subdivision 3½ which will cause such company’s investment in all real property owned by it to exceed ten per cent of its assets.

4. It is unlawful for any such incorporated company to purchase or hold real estate in any other case or for any other purpose; and such real estate acquired, and not necessary for the accommodation of the company in the convenient transaction of its business, shall be sold and disposed of within five years after the company has acquired title, and it is not lawful for it to hold the real estate for a longer period than that mentioned, unless it acquired such real estate prior to March sixth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, or procures a certificate from the commissioner of insurance that the interest of the company will suffer materially by a forced sale of such real estate, in which event the time for the sale may be extended to such a time as the commissioner of insurance directs in the certificate.

Nothing contained herein shall apply to any insurance company from improving and conveying its real estate, notwithstanding the lapse of five years from its acquisition thereof, without having procured such certificate from the commissioner of insurance.

§ 58-77. Amount of capital required. — The amount of capital requisite to the formation and organization of companies under the provisions of this subsection is as follows: Companies to insure plate-glass, not less than twenty-five thousand dollars. Companies issuing health policies, policies against damage by hail, or insuring marine risks or inland risks upon the stock plan, or insuring live-stock, not less than fifty thousand dollars. Companies for the purposes of transacting life or fire insurance on the industrial plan, issuing policies to insure mechanics’ tools and apparatus against loss by fire for an amount not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars in a single risk, with a capital of not less than ten thousand dollars, divided into shares of the par value of ten dollars each. (Rev., s. 4729; 1899, c. 54, s. 26; 1903, c. 438, s. 4; 1907, c. 1000, s. 5; 1913, c. 140, s. 2; 1929, c. 284, s. 1; C. S. 6332.)

Editor’s Note.—By the amendment of 1939 the capital stock required was materially increased.

§ 58-78. Capital stock fully paid in cash.—The capital stock shall be paid in cash within twelve months from the date of the charter or certificate of organization, and no certificate of full shares and no policies may be issued until the whole capital is paid in. A majority of the directors shall certify on oath that the money has been paid by the stockholders for their respective shares and is held as the capital of the company invested or to be invested as required by § 58-79. (Rev., s. 4730; 1899, c. 54, s. 27; C. S. 6333.)

§ 58-79. Investment of capital.—Such capital shall be invested only as follows:

1. In first mortgages of real estate in this state.

2. In bonds of the United States or of any of the states whose bonds do not sell for less than par.

3. In the bonds or notes of any city, county, or town of this state whose net indebtedness does not exceed five per cent of the last preceding valuation of the property therein for purposes of taxation. The term “net indebtedness” excludes any debt created to provide an electric light plant and equipment, sewerage system, and a supply of water for general domestic use, and allows credit for the sinking fund of a county, city, town, or district available for the payment of its indebtedness.

4. Any insurance company having a capital stock of more than one hundred thousand dollars may, with the consent of the commissioner of insurance, after investing one hundred thousand dollars of the capital as provided in this section, invest the balance in such other securities or in such a manner as may be approved by the commissioner.

5. Any real-estate title insurance company organized for any of the purposes set forth in article fourteen of this chapter, and having a capital stock of more than fifty thousand dollars, may, with the consent of the commissioner of insurance, after investing thirty per cent of its combined capital and surplus without first having the approval of the commissioner of insurance of North Carolina, which approval shall be endorsed upon the policy. If the capital stock of such company does not exceed fifty thousand dollars, it may, with the consent of the commissioner of insurance, after having invested three-fourths of its capital stock as now provided by law, invest the balance thereof in abstracts of titles of property situated in one or more of the cities or counties of this state. (Rev., s. 4731; 1899, c. 54, s. 27; 1907, c. 798; 1907, c. 998; 1911, c. 32; 1913, c. 200; 1923, c. 73; 1955, c. 187; C. S. 6334.)

As to authority to invest in bonds secured by mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration, see § 53-45. See also § 53-50 as to investments in Federal Farm Loan bonds, and see § 142-29 as to investments in refunding bonds of North Carolina.

§ 58-80. Valuation of bonds and other evidences of debt; discretion of commissioner of insurance.—Such bonds or other evidences of debt having a fixed term and rate of interest, and issued by any life insurance company, assessment life association, health association, or fraternal beneficiary association authorized to do business in this state may, if amply secured [515] and not in default as to principal and interest, be valued as follows: If purchased at par, at the par value; if purchased above or below par, on the basis of the purchase price adjusted so as to bring the value to par at maturity, and so as to yield in the meantime the effective rate of interest at which the purchase was made: Provided, that the purchase price shall in no case be taken at a higher figure than the actual market value at the time of purchase; and provided further, that the commissioner of insurance shall have full discretion in determining the method of calculating values according to the foregoing rule. (1921, c. 220; C. S. 6334(a).)

§ 58-81. Authority to increase or reduce capital stock.—The commissioner of insurance shall, upon application, examine the proceedings of domestic companies to increase or reduce their capital stock, and when found conformable to law shall issue certificates of authority to such companies to transact business upon such increased or reduced capital. He shall not allow stockholders' obligations of any description as part of the assets or capital of any stock insurance company unless the same are secured by competent collateral. (Rev., s. 4732; 1899, c. 54, s. 15; C. S. 6335.)

§ 58-82. Assessment of shares; revocation of license.—When the net assets of a company organized under this article do not amount to more than three-fourths of its original capital, it may make good its capital to the original amount by assessment of its stock. Shares on which such an assessment is not paid within sixty days after demand shall be forfeitable and may be canceled by vote of the directors and new shares issued to make up the deficiency. If such company does not, within three months after notice from the commissioner of insurance to that effect, make good its capital or reduce the same, as allowed by this article, its authority to transact new business of insurance shall be revoked by the commissioner. (Rev., s. 4733; 1899, c. 54, s. 28; 1903, c. 438, s. 4; C. S. 6336.)

§ 58-83. Increase of capital stock.—Any company organized under this article may issue proportionate to its stockholders certificates of any portion of its actual net surplus it deems fit to divide, which shall be considered an increase of its capital to the amount of such certificates. The company may, at a meeting called for the purpose, vote to increase the amount and number of shares of its capital stock, and to issue certificates therefor when paid for in full. In whichever method the increase is made, the company shall, within thirty days after the issue of such certificates, submit to the commissioner of insurance a certificate setting forth the amount of the increase and the facts of the transaction, signed and sworn to by its president and secretary and a majority of its directors. If the commissioner of insurance finds that the facts conform to the law, he shall endorse his approval thereof; and upon filing such certificate so endorsed with the secretary of state, and the payment of a fee of five dollars for filing the same, the company may transact business upon the capital as increased, and the commissioner of insurance shall issue his certificate to that effect. (Rev., s. 4734; 1899, c. 54, s. 29; C. S. 6337.)

§ 58-84. Reduction of capital stock.—When the capital stock of a company organized under this article is impaired, the company may, upon a vote of the majority of the stock represented at a meeting legally called for that purpose, reduce its capital stock and the number of shares thereof to an amount not less than the minimum sum required by law, but no part of its assets and property shall be distributed to its stockholders. Within ten days after such meeting the company must submit to the commissioner of insurance a certificate setting forth the proceedings thereof and the amount of the reduction and the assets and liabilities of the company, signed and sworn to by its president, secretary, and a majority of its directors. The commissioner of insurance shall examine the facts in the case, and if they conform to law, and in his judgment the proposed reduction may be made without prejudice to the public, he shall endorse his approval upon the certificate. Upon filing the certificate so endorsed by the secretary of state and paying a filing fee of five dollars, the company may transact business upon the basis of the reduced capital as though it were original capital, and its charter shall be deemed to be amended to conform thereunto, and the commissioner of insurance shall issue his certificate to that effect. The company may, by a majority vote of its directors, after the reduction, require the return of the original certificates of stock held by each stockholder in exchange for new certificates it may issue in lieu thereof for such number of shares as each stockholder is entitled to in the proportion that the reduced capital bears to the original capital. (Rev., s. 4735; 1899, c. 54, s. 30; C. S. 6338.)

§ 58-85. Dividends declared; liability of stockholders for unlawful dividends.—No stock company organized under this article may pay a cash or stock dividend except from its actual net surplus computed as required by law in its annual statements, nor may any such company which has ceased to do new business of insurance divide any portion of its assets, except surplus, to its stockholders, until it has performed or canceled its policy obligations. No dividend shall be paid by any company incorporated in this state when its capital stock is impaired, or when such payment would have the effect of impairing its capital stock; and any dividend so paid subjects the stockholders receiving it to a joint and several liability to the creditors of said company to the extent of the dividend so paid. (Rev., s. 4736; 1899, c. 54, s. 31; 1903, c. 536, s. 3; C. S. 6339.)

§ 58-86. Loans insufficiently secured. — Whenever it appears by examination, as authorized by law, that an insurance company, organized under the laws of this state, holds, as collateral security, for the payment of any loan, any stock, bond, or security of whatever description which has not a cash market value of at least twenty-five per centum more than the amount of such loan, the commissioner of insurance may require the reduction of the loan or an increase of the collateral security, so that the security shall be at least twenty-five per centum in excess of the amount Art. 7. Guaranty Fund for Domestic Companies.

§ 58-87. Guaranty fund established.—Any insurance company formed as provided in the preceding article, or now existing by virtue of any of the laws of North Carolina, may establish a guaranty fund of not less than twenty-five thousand dollars nor more than two hundred thousand dollars, in the following manner: The company may receive from any person, firm, or corporation, money, bonds, or other securities, in such amount as may be agreed upon, for the purpose of providing a guaranty fund, to be used as hereinafter provided, for payment of the claims of policyholders. Upon the receipt of such bonds, money, or other securities by an insurance company, it shall issue its certificate, in writing, authenticated as required by law for certificates of stock, stating the amount, terms, and conditions of repayment of such money or the return of such bonds or other securities, the name of the payee or depositor, and the certificate shall also state upon its face that it is issued under the provisions of this section. The money, bonds, or other securities, when so paid to or deposited with such insurance company, become a part of the guaranty fund of the company, and are, in the absence of a majority of its stockholders authorized at any regular or special meeting called for the purpose, (1909, c. 922, s. 1; C. S. 6341.)

§ 58-88. Separate accounts; application of fund.—Every insurance company which establishes a guaranty fund under the provisions of this article must keep a separate account of the same on its books, together with a full and true list of any securities held therefor. The money and securities belonging to the guaranty fund must be invested in the same manner as is now provided by law for the investment of other assets of insurance companies; but any bond or other securities received by any such insurance company as a part of its guaranty fund must be deposited with the commissioner of insurance, as is now allowed by law, subject to the further provisions of this article. An insurance company receiving said money or securities as a part of its guaranty fund, as herein provided, may pay to the person, firm, or corporation from whom the same is received a semi-annual dividend of not more than three and one-half per cent on the amount of said money or securities. The guaranty fund herein provided for shall be applied to the payment of claims of policyholders only when the insurance company has exhausted its cash on hand and the invested assets, exclusive of uncollected premium; and when the guarantee is in any way impaired the directors may make good the whole or any part of such impairment, by assessment upon the contingent funds of the company at the date of such impairment, if any are available. (1909, c. 922, s. 1; C. S. 6342.)

§ 58-89. Reduction or retirement of fund.—The guaranty fund shall be retired when the permanent fund of the company equals two per centum of the amount insured upon all policies in force; and such guaranty fund may be reduced or retired by vote of the directors of the company and the assent of the commissioner of insurance, if the net assets of the company above the reinsurance reserve and all other claims and obligations, exclusive of the guaranty fund, for two years immediately preceding and including the date of its last annual statement, are not less than twenty-five per centum of the fund. Due notice of this proposed action on the part of the directors of the company must be mailed to each director of the company not less than thirty days before the meeting when such action may be taken, and must also be advertised in two newspapers of general circulation, to be approved by the commissioner of insurance, not less than twice a week for a period of not less than four weeks before the meeting. No insurance company with a guaranty fund, as hereinafter provided, which has ceased to do new business, may return or retire any part of the guaranty fund or divide to its stockholders any part of its general assets, except incomes from its investments, until it shall have performed, reinsured, or canceled its policy obligations. (1909, c. 922, s. 1; C. S. 6343.)

§ 58-90. Insolvency; return of fund. — In the event of insolvency or voluntary liquidation of any such insurance company, the amount of the guaranty fund shall be returned to the persons, firms, or corporations, their heirs, executors, administrators, successors, or assigns, from which the same was received, in full or pro rata, as the case may be, before any amount shall be paid from the assets of said company to its stockholders. The intention of this section is that the liability of the company for the repayment or the return of its guaranty fund, as evidenced by its certificates therefor, as hereinafore provided, shall be preferred in the distribution of its assets to the stockholders and general creditors of the company, other than its policy obligations. (1909, c. 922, s. 1; C. S. 6344.)

§ 58-91. Conversion to guaranty fund.—Any insurance company now doing business as a domestic insurance company under the laws of this state which has received any money or securities to be held as a guaranty capital, guaranty surplus, or guaranty fund, may convert the same into a guaranty fund, as hereinbefore provided, by mutual agreement between the board of directors of the insurance company and the parties from whom the money or securities have been received, subject, however, to the approval of the commissioner of insurance, and thereupon certificates shall be issued therefor, as hereinbefore provided, and the same shall thereafter be held subject to the rights and liabilities provided in this article. (1909, c. 922, s. 2; C. S. 6345.)

§ 58-92. Mutual fire insurance companies organized; requisites for doing business.—Mutual fire insurance companies may be formed under this article, but no policy may be issued by a purely mutual fire insurance company, or by a mutual fire insurance company with a guaranty fund, as hereinbefore provided, unless the guaranty fund, or guaranty capital, consists of at least two hundred thousand dollars, divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, which shall be invested in the manner prescribed in this subchapter. (1909, c. 922, s. 2; C. S. 6346.)

Cross Reference.—Mutual life and health insurance companies are largely governed by this article. See § 58-101.

§ 58-93. Assessments kept in treasury; certain officers debarred from commissions.—Every mutual or assessment company or association organized or doing business in the state on the assessment plan shall keep in its treasury at least one assessment sufficient to pay one average loss. No officer or other person whose duty it is to determine the character of the risk, and upon whose decision the application shall be accepted or rejected, if a mutual fire insurance company, shall receive as any part of his compensation a commission upon the premiums, but his compensation shall be a fixed salary and such share in the net profits as the directors may determine. Nor shall such officer or person be an employee of any officer or agent of the company. (Rev., s. 4738; 1899, c. 54, s. 32; 1903, c. 438, s. 4; C. S. 6347.)

§ 58-94. Policyholders are members of mutual fire companies.—Every person insured by a mutual fire insurance company is a member while his policy is in force, entitled to one vote for each policy he holds, and must be notified of the time and place of holding its meetings by a written notice or by an imprint upon the back of each policy, receipt, or certificate of renewal, as follows:

The insured is hereby notified that by virtue of this policy he is a member of the insurance company, and that the annual meetings of the company are held at its home office on the day of ............, in each year, at .......... o'clock.

The blanks shall be duly filled in print and are a sufficient notice. A corporation which becomes a member of such company may authorize any person to represent it, and this representative has all the rights of an individual member. A person holding property in trust may insure it in such company, and as trustee assume the liability and be entitled to the rights of a member, but is not personally liable upon the contract of insurance. Members may vote by proxies, dated and executed within three months, and returned and recorded on the books of the company three days or more before the meeting at which they are to be used; but no person as proxy or otherwise may cast more than twenty votes. (Rev., s. 4739; 1899, c. 54, s. 33; C. S. 6348.)

This section is an enabling statute to protect a trustee from liability. Fuller v. Lockhart, 209 N. C. 61, 70, 182 S. E. 731.

This and § 58-97 do not indicate legislative intent to prohibit county boards of education insuring property in mutual companies by failing to expressly grant such authority. Id.

§ 58-95. Directors in mutual fire companies.—Every mutual fire insurance company shall elect by ballot a board of not less than seven directors, who shall manage and conduct its business and hold office for one year or for such term as the by-laws provide and until their successors are qualified. Two-thirds at least of the directors must be citizens of the state, and after the first election members only are eligible, but no director is disqualified from serving the term he was chosen for by reason of the expiration or cancellation of his policy. In companies with a guaranty capital, one-half of the directors shall be chosen by and from the stockholders. (Rev., s. 4739; 1899, c. 54, s. 33; C. S. 6349.)

§ 58-96. Mutual fire companies with a guaranty capital.—A mutual fire insurance company formed as provided in this article, or a mutual fire insurance company now existing, may establish a guaranty capital or surplus of not less than twenty-five thousand dollars nor more than two hundred thousand dollars, divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, which shall be invested in the same manner as is provided in this subchapter for the investment of the capital stock of certain insurance companies. The stockholders of the guaranty capital of a company or owners of guaranty surplus are entitled to a semiannual dividend of not more than three and one-half per cent on their respective shares, if the net profits or unused premiums left after all expenses, losses, and liabilities then incurred, together with the reserve for reinsurance, as provided for, are sufficient to pay the same. The guaranty capital or surplus shall be applied to the payment of losses only when the company has exhausted its cash in hand and the invested assets, exclusive of uncollected premiums, and when thus impaired, the directors may make good the whole or any part of it by assessments upon the contingent funds of the company at the date of such impairment. Shareholders and members of such companies are subject to the same provisions of law in respect to their right to vote as apply respectively to shareholders in stock companies and policyholders in purely mutual companies. This guaranty capital or surplus shall be retired when the permanent fund of the company equals two per centum of the amount insured upon all policies in force, and may be reduced or retired by vote of the policyholders of the company and the assent of the commissioner of insurance, if the net assets of the company above its reinsurance reserve and all other claims and obligations, exclusive of guaranty capital or surplus, for two years immediately preceding and including the date of its last annual statement, is not less than twenty-five per centum of the guaranty capital or surplus. Due notice of such proposed action on the part of the company must be mailed to each policyholder of the company not less than thirty days before the meeting when the action may be taken, and must also be advertised in two papers of general circulation, approved by the commissioner of insurance, not less than three times a week for a period of not less than four weeks before such meeting. No insurance company with a guaranty capital or surplus, which has ceased to do new business, shall divide to its stockholders any part of its assets or guaranty capital or surplus, except income from investments, until it has performed or canceled its policy obligations. (Rev., s. 4741; 1899, c. 54, s. 34; 1911, c. 196, s. 3; C. S. 6350.)

§ 58-97. Dividends and assessments; liability of policyholders.—The directors of a mutual fire insurance company may from time to time, by vote, fix and determine the amount to be paid as a dividend upon policies expiring during each year. Each policyholder is liable to pay his proportional share of any assessments which are made by the company in accordance with law and his contract on account of losses incurred while he was a member, if he is notified of such assessments within one year after the expiration of his policy. Any mutual fire insurance company doing a business with a fixed annual premium may in its by-laws and policies fix the contingent liability of its members for the payment of losses and expenses not provided for by its cash funds, which contingent liability must not be less than a sum equal to the cash premium written in his policy and in addition thereto. The by-laws may also provide for policies to be issued for cash premiums without contingent liability of policyholders; provided, that no mutual fire insurance company shall issue any policy without contingent liability until and unless it possesses a surplus of at least one hundred thousand dollars. The total amount of the liability of the policyholder must be plainly and legibly stated upon the back of each policy. Whenever any reduction is made in the contingent liability of members, it applies proportionally to all policies in force: Provided this section shall not apply to farmers mutual fire insurance companies. (Rev., s. 4741; 1899, c. 54, s. 35; 1935, c. 89; C. S. 6351.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment the contingent liability was required to be not less than a sum equal to five times the cash written in its policy. The third from the last sentence of this section relating to provisions in by-laws was added by the amendment. The proviso at the end of the section was also added.

This section provides the terms and method of how mutual insurance can operate in this state. Those who purchase mutual insurance have their rights fixed. Fuller v. Lockhart, 200 N. C. 61, 182 S. E. 733.

§ 58-98. Waiver of forfeiture in policies assigned or pledged; notice of assignment; payment of assessment or premium by assignee or mortgagee.—When any policy of insurance is issued by any mutual insurance company or association organized under the laws of this state and such policy is assigned or pledged as collateral security for the payment of a debt, such company or association, by its president and secretary or other managing officers, may insert in such policy so assigned or pledged, or attach thereto as a rider thereon, a provision or provisions to be approved by the commissioner of insurance, whereby any or all conditions of the policy which work a suspension or forfeiture and especially the provisions of the statute which limits such corporation to insure only property of its members, may be waived in such case for the benefit of the assignee or mortgagee. In case any such company or association shall consent to such assignment of any policy or policies, or the proceeds thereof, it may nevertheless at any time thereafter, by its president and secretary or such other officer as may be authorized by the board of directors, cancel such policy by giving the assignee or mortgagee not less than ten days notice in writing: Provided, however, a longer period may be agreed upon by the company or association and such assignee or mortgagee. And the president and secretary of such company or association, with the approval of the commissioner of insurance, may agree with the assignee or mortgagee upon an assessment or premium to be paid to the insurer in case the insured shall not pay the same, which shall not be less than such a rate or sum of money as may be produced by the average assessments or premiums made or charged by like company or association during a period of five years next preceding the year of such agreement and assignment. When an assignment is made as herein provided the policy or policies so assigned or pledged, subject to the conditions herein, shall remain in full force and effect for the benefit of the assignee or mortgagor, notwithstanding the title or ownership of the assured to the property insured, or to any interest therein, shall be in any manner changed, transferred or encumbered. (Ex. Sess. 1930, c. 79; C. S. 6351(a).)

tual fire insurance company, either officially or privately, shall give a guarantee to a policyholder thereof against an assessment to which such policyholder would otherwise be liable, he shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offense. (Rev., s. 3406; 1899, c. 54, s. 100; C. S. 6352.)

§ 58-100. Manner of making assessments; rights and liabilities of policyholders.—When a mutual fire insurance company is not possessed of cash funds above its reinsurance reserve sufficient for the payment of insured losses and expenses, it must make an assessment for the amount needed to pay such losses and expenses upon its members liable to assessment therefor in proportion to their several liabilities. The company shall cause to be recorded in a book kept for that purpose the order for the assessment, together with a statement which must set forth the condition of the company at the date of the order, the amount of its cash assets and deposits, notes, or other consideration fund liable to the assessment, the particular losses or liabilities it is made to provide for. This record must be made and signed by the directors who voted for the order before any part of the assessment is collected, and any person liable to the assessment may inspect and take a copy of the same. When, by reason of depreciation or loss of its funds or otherwise, the cash assets of such company, after providing for its other debts, are less than the required premium reserve upon its policies, it must make good the deficiency by assessment in the manner above provided. If the directors are of the opinion that the company is liable to become insolvent they may, instead of making such assessment, make two assessments, the first determining what each policyholder must equitably pay or receive in case of withdrawal from the company and having his policy canceled; the second, what further sum each must pay in order to render its reinsurance reserve sufficient for the payment of insured losses and expenses, it must make an assessment for the amount the assessment calls for, and the particular losses or liabilities it is made to provide for. This record must be made and signed by the directors who voted for the first assessment, and his policy shall be canceled unless he pays the sum further determined by the second assessment, in which case his policy continues in force; but in neither case may a policyholder receive or have credited to him more than he would have received on having his policy canceled by a vote of the directors under the by-laws. (Rev., s. 4742; 1899, c. 54, ss. 36, 37; C. S. 6353.)

Forfeiture and Waiver.—It is clear that failure to pay assessments, in accordance with the terms of a contract works a forfeiture of the policy. It is equally well settled that a company may by acts of unequivocal character waive such forfeiture. Perry v. Farmers Mut. Life Ins. Co., 132 N. C. 263, 267, 41 S. E. 837.

An acceptance of an overdue assessment by a fire insurance company, after the property is burned, the company having notice thereof, is a waiver of the forfeiture of the policy. Perry v. Farmers Mut. Life Ins. Co., 132 N. C. 263, 267, 41 S. E. 837.

Where mutual fire insurance company relies on failure to pay assessment in order to defeat recovery on policy, it must show that the assessment was legally made in conformity with the provisions of this section, and where it fails to so show and plaintiff insurer testifies that she did not get notice of the assessment or of the cancellation of the policy, peremptory instructions against insurer on the affirmative defense are without error. Abernethy v. Mecklenburg Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 213 N. C. 23, 195 S. E. 30.

Right of Insured to Withdraw.—Where the members of mutual insurance companies have enjoyed the protection which membership affords, they cannot, after a loss has been sustained, withdraw and refuse to pay their portion of the loss. Perry v. Farmers Mut. Fire Ass'n, 139 N. C. 374, 51 S. E. 1025.

Payments of Claims.—The right of each policyholder in the defendant company is to have an assessment made to pay his loss, and he has no claim upon an amount paid to another policyholder. Perry v. Farmers Mut. Fire Ass'n, 139 N. C. 374, 51 S. E. 1025.

§ 58-101. Mutual life and health companies.—Life and health insurance companies and associations organized in this state to do business on the mutual plan shall be governed as to the commencement of business, election of members, guaranty capital, dividends, and assessments as provided in this article for mutual fire insurance companies, where applicable. (Rev., s. 4743; 1903, c. 530, s. 1; C. S. 6354.)

§ 58-102. Dividends on, and redemption of, guaranty capital of life companies.—The stockholders of the guaranty capital of any domestic life insurance company are entitled to such annual dividends not exceeding eight per centum, payable from the net surplus, as have been agreed upon in the subscription thereof. Such company may redeem its guaranty capital by appropriation of net surplus for that purpose whenever its members so vote. (Rev., s. 4744; 1899, c. 54, s. 58; 1903, c. 438, s. 5; C. S. 6355.)

§ 58-103. Domestic stock life insurance corporations authorized to convert into mutual corporations; procedure.—Any domestic stock life insurance corporation may become a mutual life insurance corporation, and to that end may carry out a plan for the acquisition of shares of its capital stock: Provided, however, that such plan (first) shall have been adopted by a vote of a majority of the directors of such corporation; (second) shall have been approved by a vote of the holders of two-thirds of the stock outstanding at the time of approving the call for a meeting for that purpose; (third) shall have been submitted to the commissioner of insurance and shall have been approved by him in writing, and (fourth) shall have been approved by a majority vote of the policyholders (including, for the purpose of this article, the employer or the president, secretary or other executive officer of any corporation or association to which a master group policy has been issued, but excluding the holders of certificates or policies issued under or in connection with a master group policy) voting at said meeting, called for that purpose, at which meeting only such policyholders whose insurance shall then be in force and shall have been in force for at least one year prior to such a meeting shall be entitled to vote; notice of such a meeting shall be given by mailing such notice, postage prepaid, from the home office of such corporation at least thirty days prior to such meeting to such policyholders at their last known post-office addresses: Provided, that personal delivery of such written notice to any policyholder may be in lieu of mailing the same; and such meeting shall be otherwise provided for and conducted in such manner as shall be provided in such plan: Provided, however, that policyholders may vote in person, by proxy, or by mail; that all such votes shall be cast by ballot, and a representative of the commissioner of insurance shall supervise and direct the methods and procedure of said meeting and appoint an adequate number of inspectors to conduct the voting at said meeting who shall have power to determine all questions concerning the verification of the ballots, the ascertainment of the validity thereof, the qualifications of the voters, and the canvass of the vote, and who shall certify to the said representative and to the corporation the results thereof, and with respect thereto shall act under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the commissioner of insurance; that all necessary expenses incurred by the commissioner of insurance or his representative shall be paid by the corporation as certified to by said commissioner. Every payment for the acquisition of any shares of the capital stock of such corporation, the purchase price of which is not fixed by such plan, shall be subject to the approval of the commissioner. Provided, that neither such plan, nor any payment thereunder, nor any payment not fixed by such plan, shall be approved by the commissioner, if the making of such payment shall reduce the assets of the corporation to an amount less than the entire liabilities of the corporation, including therein the net values of its outstanding contracts according to the standard adopted by the commissioner of insurance, and also all other funds, contingent reserves and surplus which the corporation is required by order or direction of the commissioner of insurance to maintain, save so much of the surplus as shall have been appropriated or paid under such plan. (1937, c. 231, s. 1.)

Editor’s Note.—For a discussion of act from which this article is codified, see 15 N. C. Law Rev. 359.

§ 58-104. Stock acquired to be turned over to voting trust until all stock acquired; dividends repaid to corporation for beneficiaries.—If a domestic stock life insurance corporation shall determine to become a mutual life insurance corporation it may, in carrying out any plan to that end under the provisions of § 58-103, acquire any shares of its own stock by gift, bequest or purchase. And until all such shares are acquired, any shares so acquired shall be acquired in trust for the policyholders of the corporation as hereinafter provided, and shall be assigned and transferred on the books of the corporation to not less than three nor more than five trustees, and be held by them in trust and be voted by such trustees at all corporate meetings at which stockholders have the right to vote until all of the capital stock of such corporation is acquired, when the entire capital stock shall be retired and canceled; and thereupon, unless sooner incorporated as such, the corporation shall be and become a mutual life insurance corporation without capital stock. Said trustees shall be appointed and vacancies shall be filled as provided in the plan adopted under § 58-103. Said trustees shall file with the corporation and with the commissioner of insurance a verification of their appointments and declaration that they will faithfully discharge their duties as such trustees. After the payment of such dividends to stockholders or former stockholders as may have been provided in the plan adopted under § 58-103, all dividends and other sums received by said trustees on said shares of stock so acquired, after paying the necessary expenses of executing said trust, shall be immediately repaid to said corporation for the benefit of all who are or may become policyholders of said corporation and entitled to participate in the profits thereof, and shall be added to and become a part of the surplus accumulated by said corporation and be apportionable accordingly as a part of said surplus among said policyholders. (1987, c. 231, s. 2.)

Art. 10. Assessment Companies.

§ 58-105. Copies of charter and by-laws filed.—Every corporation, society, or organization of this or any other state or country, transacting business under this department upon the cooperative or assessment plan, must file with the commissioner of insurance, before beginning to do business in this state, a copy of its charter or articles of association, and the by-laws, rules, or regulations referred to in its policies or certificates and made a part of such contract. By-laws or regulations not so filed with the commissioner of insurance will not affect any policy or certificate issued by such company or association. (Rev., s. 4790; 1899, c. 54, s. 86; C. S. 6356.)

Cross Reference.—As to fraternal orders and societies, see § 58-253 et seq.

§ 58-106. Contracts must accord with charter and by-laws.—Every policy or certificate or renunciation received in or issued to a resident of this state by any corporation, association, or order incorporated therein the business of insurance upon the assessment plan must be in accord with the provisions of the charter and by-laws of such corporation, association, or order, as filed with the commissioner of insurance. It is unlawful for any such domestic or foreign insurance company or fraternal order to transact or offer to transact any business not authorized by the provisions of its charter and the terms of its by-laws, or, through an agent or otherwise, to offer or issue any policy, renewal certificate, or other contract whose terms are not in clear accord with the powers, terms, and stipulations of its charter and by-laws. (Rev., s. 4791; 1899, c. 54, s. 84; 1903, c. 438, s. 9; C. S. 6357.)

Duty and Liability under By-laws.—The by-laws of an assessment association when assented to by the members, as provided in this chapter, constitute the measure of duty and liability of the parties, provided they are reasonable and not in violation of any principle of public law. Duffy v. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co., 142 N. C. 103, 55 S. E. 79.

Duty and Liability under Charter.—The contract of insurance must conform to the charter and by-laws, and these are as authorized by the state of its origin. Hollingsworth v. Supreme Council, 175 N. C. 615, 96 S. E. 81; Caldwell Land, etc., Co. v. Board, 174 N. C. 634, 94 S. E. 406, cited and distinguished. Assessment companies are prohibited from issuing policies or transacting business not authorized by their charters. Brenizer v. Royal Arcanum, 141 N. C. 409, 418, 53 S. E. 835.

§ 58-107. “Assessment plan” printed on application and policy; waiver by commissioner.—Every policy or certificate issued to a resident of the state by any corporation transacting in the state the business of life insurance upon the assessment plan, or admitted to do business in this state, on the assessment plan, shall print in bold type and § 58-108. Revocation for noncompliance.—If any corporation or association transacting insurance business in this state on the assessment plan or issuing any policy upon the life of a resident of North Carolina upon the assessment plan shall fail or refuse to comply with the foregoing section, the commissioner of insurance shall forthwith suspend or revoke all authority of such corporation or association and of its agents to do business in this state. (1913, c. 159, s. 1; 1929, c. 93, s. 1; 1933, c. 34; C. S. 6539.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1929 added the last sentence of this section.

§ 58-109. Deposits and advance assessments required.—Every domestic insurance company, association, order, or fraternal benefit society doing business in this state, or in some responsible banking or trust company, one regular assessment sufficient to pay the average loss or losses occurring among its members in this state during the time allowed by it for the collection of assessments and payment of losses. It shall notify the commissioner of insurance of the place of deposit and furnish him at all times such information as he requires in regard thereto; and no such company, association, order, or fraternal benefit society shall be licensed by the commissioner unless it makes and maintains with him for the protection of its obligations at least five thousand dollars in United States or North Carolina bonds, in farm loan bonds issued by federal land banks, or in the bonds of some county, city, or town in North Carolina to be approved by the commissioner of insurance, or a good and sufficient bond or note, secured by deed of trust on real estate situated in North Carolina, and approved by the commissioner. The provisions of this section do not apply to associations, orders, or fraternal benefit societies operating in not more than two contiguous counties in the state and paying a benefit of not exceeding two hundred dollars, but the amount to be deposited by said societies is within the discretion of the commissioner of insurance, but must be not less than one hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 4713; 1899, c. 54, s. 84; 1903, c. 438, s. 9; 1913, c. 119, ss. 2, 3; 1917, c. 191, s. 2; C. S. 6561.)

Cross References.—As to other bonds insurance companies are authorized to invest in, see §§ 53-44, 53-45. As to investments in refunding bonds of North Carolina, see § 142-29.

§ 58-110. Deposits by foreign assessment companies or order.—Each foreign insurance company, association, order, or fraternal benefit society doing business in this state on the assessment plan shall keep at all times deposited with the commissioner of insurance or in its head office in this state, or in some responsible banking or trust company, one regular assessment sufficient to pay the average loss or losses occurring among its members in this state during the time allowed by it for the collection of assessments and payment of losses. It shall notify the commissioner of insurance to make such deposit in like installments; and the last named association when hereafter organized may be allowed by the commissioner of insurance to make such deposit in like installments. The commissioner of insurance may increase the amount of deposit to the amount of reserve on the contracts of the association or society. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the farmers mutual fire insurance associations now doing business in the state and restricting their activities to not more than two adjacent counties. (Rev., s. 4799; 1913, c. 119, s. 1; 1917, c. 191, s. 2; 1933, c. 47; C. S. 6560.)

Cross References.—As to other bonds insurance companies are authorized to invest in, see §§ 53-44, 53-45. As to investments in refunding bonds of North Carolina, see § 142-29.

§ 58-111. Must pay death benefits in coin instead of services.—No corporation, society, or organization now doing business in the state shall thereafter be authorized to do business in this state upon a mutual or assessment insurance plan and issuing contracts to its members providing benefits in excess of one hundred dollars ($100) in the event of death of its members or policy holders shall issue any contract to such members providfor the payment of benefits in merchandise or service to be rendered to such member or his beneficiary; but all contracts hereafter issued by any such corporation, society, or organization, shall provide by the terms of its contract for the payment of such benefits only in lawful currency or coin. (1891, c. 71.)

Cross Reference.—As to mutual burial associations in which benefits do not exceed $100.00, see § 58-224 et seq.

§ 58-112. Revocation of license.—If any such corporation, society, or organization, or any of its agents or officers, shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of §§ 58-109 and 58-110 or shall issue policies or certificates not in accord with its charter and by-laws, as provided in this article, the commissioner of insurance shall forthwith suspend or revoke all authority to it, and of all its agents or officers, to do business in this state, and shall publish such revocation in some newspaper published in this state. (Rev., s. 4793; 1899, c. 54, s. 85; C. S. 6362.)

Art. 11. Fidelity Insurance Companies.

§ 58-113. May act as fiduciaries.—Any corporation licensed by the commissioner of insurance, where such powers or privileges are granted it in its charter, may be guardian, trustee, assignee, receiver, executor or administrator in this state without giving any bond; and the clerks of the superior courts or other officers charged with the duty, or clothed with the power of making such appointments, are authorized to appoint such corporation to any such office, whether the corporation is a resident of this state or not. (Rev., s. 4799; 1899, c. 54, s. 47; 1903, c. 498, s. 8; C. S. 6376.)

Cross Reference.—As to fiduciaries in general, see § 32-1 et seq. See § 58-116 and note.

§ 58-114. License to do business.—Before any such corporation is authorized to execute any bond, obligation, or undertaking, or act in any fiduciary capacity without bond, it must be licensed by the commissioner of insurance of the state, which the commissioner is authorized to do when satisfied that such company or corporation is safe and solvent and has complied with the laws of this state applicable to such companies, and if a foreign company, that it has also complied with the conditions, rules, and regulations governing the admission of foreign insurance companies to do business in this state; but if such corporation be engaged in the business of commercial banking then such license shall be issued by the Commissioner of Banks and all other provisions of this article pertaining to corporations engaged in the business of banking shall apply to such corporations but shall be exercised and enforced by the Commissioner of Banks. For such license the licensee shall pay to the Banking Commission an annual license fee of two hundred ($200.00) dollars, which shall be remitted to the State Treasurer for the use of the Commissioner of Banks in the supervision of banks acting in a fiduciary capacity in so far as it may be necessary and the surplus, if any, shall remain in the State treasury for the use of the general fund of the State. (Rev., s. 4800; 1899, c. 54, s. 46; 1901, c. 706, s. 1; 1901, c. 387; C. S. 6377.)

Cross Reference.—See § 58-116 and note.

Editor’s Note.—The Act of 1931 added all of this section beginning with the words “but” in line thirteen.

§ 58-115. Examination as to solvency.—The commissioner shall examine into the solvency of such corporation, and shall, if he deem it necessary, at the expense of the corporation make or cause to be made an examination at its home office or cause to be made an examination at its home office of its assets and liabilities. (Rev., s. 4801; 1899, c. 54, s. 46; 1901, c. 706; C. S. 6378.)

Cross Reference.—See § 58-116 and note.

§ 58-116. Certificate of solvency equivalent to justification.—After any such corporation has been licensed by the commissioner, the certificate of the commissioner that it has been admitted to do business in the state and is licensed by the commissioner of insurance and is solvent to an amount not less than one hundred thousand dollars, shall be, until revoked by him, equivalent to the justification of sureties, and full evidence of its authority to give such bonds or undertakings. There shall be no charge for the seal of this certificate. (Rev., s. 4802; 1899, c. 54, s. 46; 1901, c. 706; C. S. 6379.)

There is a presumption that the Insurance Commissioner has complied with the law in licensing a bank to act as administrator, and where there is evidence that a bank, on the date it was appointed administrator, was solvent in an amount in excess of $100,000, the contention of an administrator d. b. n. appointed upon the bank's insolvency that the bank had not complied with the provisions of this section and those preceding it cannot be sustained. Security Nat. Bank v. Bridgers, 207 N. C. 91, 176 S. E. 295.

§ 58-117. Clerk of superior court notified of license and revocation.—The commissioner of insurance, upon granting license to any such corporation, shall immediately notify the clerk of the superior court of each county in the state that such corporation has been licensed under this chapter; and whenever the commissioner is satisfied that any corporation licensed by him has become insolvent, or is in imminent danger of insolvency, he shall revoke the license granted to it, and notify the clerk of the superior court of each county of such revocation; and after such notification the right of such corporation to hold any office, or be surety on any bond, as permitted by this chapter, ceases. (Rev., s. 4803; 1899, c. 54, s. 50; C. S. 6380.)

§ 58-118. Resident agents required.—All business done in this state by any fidelity insurance company must be done through regularly authorized agents residing in this state, or through applications of such agents; and all policies so issued must be countersigned by such agents. (Rev., s. 4804; 1899, c. 54, s. 105; 1903, c. 438, s. 11; C. S. 6381.)

§ 58-119. Limitation of liability assumed.—No stock corporation transacting fidelity or surety business in this State shall expose itself to any loss on any one fidelity or surety risk or hazard in an amount exceeding ten per centum of its capital and surplus, unless it shall be protected in excess of that amount by

(a) Reinsurance in a corporation authorized to transact a fidelity and surety business in this State: Provided, that such reinsurance is in such form as to enable the obligee or beneficiary to maintain an action thereon against the company reinsured jointly with such reinsurer and, upon recovering judgment against such reinsured, to have recovery against such reinsurer for payment to the extent in which it may be liable under such reinsurance and in discharge thereof; or

(b) The co-suretyship of such a corporation similarly authorized; or

(c) By deposit with it in pledge or conveyance to it in trust for its protection of property; or

(d) By conveyance or mortgage for its protection; or

(e) In case a suretyship obligation was made on behalf or on account of a fiduciary holding property in a trust capacity, by deposit or other disposition of a portion of the property so held in trust that no future sale, mortgage, pledge or other disposition can be made thereof without the consent of such corporation; except by decree or order of a court of competent jurisdiction;

Provided: (1) That such corporation may execute what are known as transportation or warehousing bonds for United States Internal Revenue taxes to an amount equal to fifty per centum of its capital and surplus; (2) that, when the penalty of the suretyship obligation exceeds the amount of a judgment described therein as appealed from and thereby secured, or exceeds the amount of the subject matter in controversy or of the estate in the hands of the fiduciary for the performance of whose duties it is conditioned, the bond may be executed if the actual amount of the judgment or the subject matter in controversy or estate not subject to supervision or control of the surety is not in excess of such limitation; and (3) that, when the penalty of the suretyship obligation executed for the performance of a contract exceeds the contract price, the latter shall be taken as the basis for estimating the limit of risk within the meaning of this section.

No such corporation shall, anything to the contrary in this section notwithstanding, execute suretyship obligations guaranteeing the deposits of any single financial institution in an aggregate amount in excess of ten per centum of the capital and surplus of such corporate surety, unless it shall be protected in excess of that amount by credits in accordance with sub-section (a), (b), (c) or (d) of this section: Provided, nothing in this section shall be construed to make invalid any contract entered into by such corporation with any other person, firm, corporation or municipal corporation notwithstanding any provisions of this section. (1911, c. 28; 1931, c. 285; C. S. 6382.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out the former section and substituted in lieu thereof the above. That Act, which was ratified April 16, 1931, provided that nothing therein should affect, modify or qualify the liability of any such corporation or surety company with respect to any contract of such company in force at the time of its ratification. The old statute placed the limit at ten per centum of the capital and surplus of the surety company, unless "suitable and sufficient collateral agreements of indemnity" were made, mentioning ostensibly as such "suitable agreements" a pledge deposit or conveyances in trust. The 1931 enactment provided the same per centum limit, statutory limitation, although the proscribed penalty of the suretyship obligation exceeds such actual amount. De- pository bonds are specifically mentioned as coming within the limits set down. It seems advisable to have cleared up the ambiguity of the loose phrase in the old statute describing the conditions under which the limits in the old statute could be exceeded and to have furnished a test for determining the amount of the risk in at least three transactions. But as to the test for the risk assumed in other types, quære. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 394.

Joint-Control Agreements.—It would seem that in cases coming within the purview of this section, and perforce to the extent thereof, joint-control agreements between fiduciaries and their sureties are sanctioned in this State by the act of Assembly. Pierce v. Pierce, 197 N. C. 348, 148 S. E. 438; Leonard v. York, 202 N. C. 704, 706, 163 S. E. 873.

Art. 12. Promoting and Holding Companies.

§ 58-120. Terms defined.—As the terms are used in this article, "promoting corporation" means a corporation or joint-stock association, engaged in the business of organizing or promoting or endeavoring to organize or promote the organization of an insurance corporation or corporations, or in any way assisting therein; "holding corporation" means a corporation or joint-stock association, which holds or is engaged in the acquisition of the capital stock or a major portion thereof of one or more insurance corporations for the purpose of controlling the management thereof, as voting trustee or otherwise; and "securities" means the shares of capital stock, subscription certificates, debenture bonds, and any and all other contracts or evidences of ownership of or interest in insurance corporations, or in promoting or holding corporations. (1913, c. 182, s. 1; C. S. 6383.)

§ 58-121. Certificate of authority to sell securities required.—No individual, partnership, association, or corporation, as the agent of another or as a broker, shall sell or offer for sale, or in any way assist in the sale in this state of the securities of any promoting or holding corporation, or of any insurance corporation, which is not at that time lawfully engaged or authorized to engage in the transaction of the business of insurance in this state, without first procuring, as hereinafter provided, a certificate of authority from the insurance department to sell such securities; nor shall any individual, partnership, association, or corporation sell or offer for sale in this state the securities of any promoting or holding corporation, or of any insurance corporation which is not at the time of such sale or offer of sale lawfully engaged or authorized to engage in the transaction of the business of insurance in the state, unless such corporation has first procured from the commissioner of insurance, as hereinafter provided, a certificate that the corporation has fully complied with the provisions of this article, and is authorized to sell the securities. Every certificate issued by the commissioner of insurance pursuant to the provisions of this article shall state in bold type that the commissioner in no way recommends the securities thereby authorized to be sold, and shall be renewable annually, upon written application, filed on or before the first day of April of each year, and may be revoked for cause at any time by the commissioner. The commissioner shall prepare and furnish upon request suitable blank forms of application for the certificates required by this article. (1913, c. 182, s. 2; C. S. 6384.)
§ 58-122. Application for certificate by agent.—Every individual, partnership, association, or corporation desiring or intending to sell or to offer for sale in this state the securities of insurance corporations or of any holding or promoting corporation shall file with the commissioner of insurance an application for a certificate of such authority. This application must contain a statement, verified by oath, setting forth the name and address of the applicants' previous business experience, date and place of birth or organization, and such other information as the commissioner requires. It is the duty of the commissioner to examine the application and to make any further inquiry or examination of the applicant as he deems advisable. If upon examination the commissioner finds the applicant, or if a corporation, the officers and directors thereof, to be trustworthy persons of good business credit, he may issue to the applicant a certificate of authority to sell or offer for sale in this state the securities of any insurance corporation, and of any promoting or holding corporation previously authorized under this article, which shall be mentioned therein. (1913, c. 182, s. 3; C. S. 6385.)

§ 58-123. Application for certificate by corporation.—Every such unauthorized insurance corporation, and every promoting or holding corporation, whose securities are offered for sale in this state, must file with the commissioner of insurance copies of all securities to be offered for sale, and an application for certificate of authority under this article which shall contain a statement in detail of the plans and purposes of such corporation, the amount and par value of the securities to be offered for sale, and the selling price thereof, the manner in which the money paid in therefor is to be spent or employed, the rate of commission to be paid for the sale of such securities, the salaries to be paid to the officers of such corporation, and such other information as the commissioner of insurance requires. No change shall thereafter be made in the form or character of the securities to be offered for sale, or in the plans or purposes of any such corporation, without the approval thereof in writing by the commissioner. It is the duty of the commissioner to examine the application and other documents filed, and to make any further inquiry or examination of the corporation as he deems advisable. If upon examination the commissioner finds that the plans and purposes of the corporation are proper, that its condition is satisfactory, that the amount of its securities is reasonable, that the price at which such securities are to be sold is adequate, and that the manner in which the money is paid in therefor, the rate of commissions to be paid and the salaries of officers are fair, he may issue a certificate that the corporation has complied with all the provisions of this article, and is authorized to sell or offer its securities for sale in this state. (1913, c. 182, s. 4; C. S. 6386.)

§ 58-124. Approval of advertising matter; misrepresentation.—No printed matter may be used in connection with the sale of securities of any such promoting, holding, or insurance corporation, for advertising purposes, or in the dissemination of information with reference thereto, unless it is first submitted to the commissioner of insurance and approved by him in writing. No such corporation, and no officer, director, or agent thereof, or any other person, copartnership, association, or corporation may issue, circulate, or employ or cause or permit to be used, issued, circulated, or employed any circular or statement, whether printed or oral, misrepresenting or exaggerating the earnings of insurance corporations or the value of their corporate stock or other securities, or the profits to be derived either directly or indirectly from the organization and management of insurance corporations, or of organizing or holding corporations. No insurance or other corporation, and no individual, copartnership, or association transacting business in this state shall place or offer to place insurance in any corporation in connection with the sale or purchase of the securities of any insurance corporation or of any promoting or holding corporation. (1913, c. 182, s. 5; C. S. 6387.)

Art. 13. Rate-Making Companies.

§ 58-125. Information to be filed with commissioner of insurance. — Every corporation, association, board, or bureau which now exists or hereafter may be formed, and every person who maintains, or hereafter may maintain, a bureau or association for the purpose of suggesting, approving or making rates to be used by more than one underwriter for insurance, including surety bonds, on property or risks of any kind located in this state, shall file with the commissioner of insurance a copy of the articles of agreement, association or incorporation and the by-laws and all amendments thereto under which such person, association, or bureau operates or proposes to operate, together with his or its business address and a list of the members or insurance corporations represented or to be represented by him or it, as well as such other information concerning such rating organization and its operations as may be required by the commissioner of insurance. (1913, c. 145, s. 1; 1915, c. 166, s. 8; C. S. 6388.)

Cross References.—As to certain insurance contracts exempt from this article, see § 58-131. As to compensation rating and inspection bureau for Workmen's Compensation Insurance, see §§ 97-102 to 97-104.

§ 58-126. Examination by commissioner of insurance; reports.—Every such person, corporation, association, or bureau, whether before or after the filing of the information specified in the preceding section, shall be subject to the visitation, supervision, and examination of the commissioner of insurance, who shall cause to be made an examination thereof as often as he deems expedient, and at least once in three years. For such purpose he may appoint as examiners one or more competent persons, and upon such examination he, his deputy, or any examiner authorized by him shall have all the powers given to the commissioner of insurance, his deputy, or any examiner authorized by him by law, including the power to examine under oath the officers and agents and all persons deemed to have material information regarding the business or manner of operation by every such person, corporation, association, bureau, or board. The commissioner of

§ 58-127. Schedule of rates filed.—Every such person, corporation, association, or bureau, as well as every insurance company doing business in the state, shall file with the commissioner of insurance, whenever he may call therefor, any and every schedule of rates or such other information concerning such rates as may be suggested, approved, or made by any such rating organization for the purposes specified in § 58-125, or by such company for its own use. (1913, c. 145, s. 3; 1915, c. 166, s. 8; C. S. 6890.)

§ 58-128. Certain conditions forbidden; no discrimination.—No such person, corporation, association, or bureau shall fix or make any rate or schedule of rates which is to or may apply to any risk within this state, on the condition that the whole amount of insurance on such risk or any specified part thereof shall be placed at such rates, or with the members of or subscribers to such rating organization; nor shall any such person, association, or corporation authorized to transact the business of insurance within this state, fix or make any rate or schedule of rates or charge a rate which discriminates unfairly between risks within this state of essentially the same hazard, or if such rate be a fire insurance rate, which discriminates unfairly between the risks in the application of like charges or credits or which discriminates unfairly between risks of essentially the same hazards and having substantially the same degree of public protection against fire. Whenever it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the commissioner of insurance that such discrimination exists, he may, after a full hearing, either before himself or before any salaried employee of the insurance department whose report he may adopt, order such discrimination removed; and all such persons, corporations, associations, or bureaus affected thereby shall immediately comply therewith; nor shall such persons, corporations, associations, or bureaus remove such discrimination by increasing the rates on any risk or class of risks affected by such order unless it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the commissioner of insurance that such increase is justifiable. (1913, c. 145, s. 4; C. S. 6091.)

§ 58-129. Record to be kept; hearing on rates.—Every such rating organization shall keep a careful record of its proceedings and shall furnish upon demand to any person upon whose property or risk a rate has been made, or to his authorized agent, full information as to such rate, and if such property or risk have been sold by the holder of a mortgage or other lien on the property, or the property or risk have been transferred to another, or if the property or risk be rated by schedule, a copy of such schedule; it shall also provide such means as may be approved by the commissioner of insurance whereby any person affected by such rate may be heard, either in person or by agent, before the governing or rating committee or other proper executive of such rating organization on an application for a change in such rate. (1913, c. 145, s. 5; C. S. 6392.)

§ 58-130. Hearing on rates before commissioner of insurance.—Any person, firm, or corporation aggrieved by any rating of a fire insurance company, bureau, or board, may file a complaint in writing with the commissioner of insurance stating in detail the grounds upon which the complainant asks relief. The commissioner shall set a time, not earlier than seven days after the date of the notice, and a place for a hearing upon the complaint. After due hearing the commissioner shall make a finding as to whether the established rate is excessive or unfair, and shall make such recommendations as he deems advisable. The finding and recommendations in each case shall be made a matter of record, and shall be open to public inspection. (1915, c. 166, s. 8; C. S. 6393.)

§ 58-131. Certain insurance contracts excepted.—This article shall not apply to any contract of life insurance, nor to any contract of insurance upon or in connection with marine or transportation risks or hazards other than contracts for automobile insurance, nor to contracts of insurance upon property or risks located within the state, nor to life and credit insurance. (1913, c. 145, s. 6; 1935, c. 152; C. S. 6394.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1935 this section excepted contracts made on a mutual or cooperative plan. The act further provided that nothing therein shall authorize the Commissioner of Insurance to raise the rates of any mutual insurance company doing business in North Carolina, and that farmers mutual fire insurance companies shall not be required to file such rates.

§ 58-132. Purpose of organization.—Companies may be formed in the manner provided in this subchapter, with a capital of not less than fifty thousand dollars, for the purpose of examining titles to real estate, of furnishing information in relation thereto, and of insuring owners and others interested therein against loss by reason of encumbrances and defective titles. Such companies shall not be subject to the provisions of this chapter except as regards the manner of their formation and as provided in this article. (Rev., s. 4745; 1899, c. 54, s. 38; 1901, c. 391, s. 3; 1923, c. 53; C. S. 6583.)

Notice to Agent.—Where the agent for the insurer was notified prior to the issuance of the renewal policy sued on that the property had been sold by the former owner to another and was requested to issue the renewal policy in the name of the new owner, the policy containing a standard loss payable clause in favor of the holder of the mortgagee that such notice had been given the insurer's agent prior to the inception of the policy, the agent in such case being the insurer's alter ego. Mahler v. Milwaukee Mechanics' Ins. Co., 295 N. C. 692, 172 S. E. 204.

§ 58-133. Certificate of authority to do business.—Before any such company may issue any policy or make any contract or guarantee of insurance, it shall file with the commissioner of insurance a certified copy of the record or the certificate of its organization in the office of the secretary of state, and obtain from the commissioner of insurance a certificate that it has complied with the laws applicable to it and that it is authorized to do business. (Rev., s. 4745; 1899, c. 54, s. 38; 1901, c. 391, s. 3; C. S. 6396.)
§ 58-134. Annual statement and license required.
—Every such corporation shall, on or before the thirtieth day of January of each year, file in the office of the commissioner of insurance a statement, such as he may require, showing its condition and its affairs for the year ending on the preceding thirty-first day of December, signed and sworn to by its president or secretary or treasurer and one of its directors. For neglect to file such annual statement or for making a wilfully false statement it shall be liable to the same penalties imposed upon other insurance companies. The commissioner of insurance shall annually license such companies and their agents, and have the same power and authority to visit and examine such corporations as he has in the case of other domestic insurance companies; and the duties and liabilities of such corporations and their agents in reference to such examinations are the same as those of other domestic insurance companies. (Rev., s. 4745; 1899, c. 54, s. 38; 1901, c. 391, s. 3; C. S. 6397.)

Cross Reference.—As to examinations to be made by the commissioner, see § 58-16.

Art. 16. Title Insurance Companies and Land Mortgage Companies Issuing Collateral Loan Certificates.

§ 58-135. Issuance of collateral loan certificates; security.—Any domestic land mortgage company or title insurance company having a paid in capital and surplus of at least two hundred thousand ($200,000.00) dollars, may, under the supervision and control of the commissioner of insurance, issue collateral loan certificates, or other certificates of indebtedness secured by the deposit of first mortgages on real estate with the commissioner, or under his direction, or secured by the deposit with the commissioner, or under his direction, of collateral trust bonds secured by first mortgages, the principal and interest of which said mortgages is guaranteed by a surety company having assets of at least ten million ($10,000,000.00) dollars, upon a basis not to exceed one hundred ($100.00) dollars for each one hundred dollars and all other fees assessed against such company and such renewal shall continue in force and effect until a new license be issued or specifically refused unless revoked for good cause. The commissioner of insurance, or any person appointed by him, shall have the power and authority to make such rules and regulations and examinations not inconsistent with the provisions of this article, as may be in his discretion necessary or proper to enforce the provisions hereof and secure compliance with the terms of this article. For any examination made hereunder the commissioner of insurance shall charge the land mortgage companies or title insurance companies examined with the actual expense of such examination. (1927, c. 204, s. 2.)

§ 58-137. Annual statements furnished. — Every such domestic land mortgage company or title insurance company doing business in this State under this article shall annually file with the commissioner of insurance on or before the first day of March in each year a full and complete sworn statement of its financial condition on the thirty-first day of December next preceding. Such statement shall plainly exhibit all real and contingent assets and liabilities and a complete account of its income and disbursements during the year and shall also exhibit the amount of real estate mortgages deposited by such land mortgage company or title insurance company for the protection of the certificates issued under this article. The commissioner of insurance is hereby empowered to require such further information as may be reasonably necessary to satisfy him that the statements contained in the sworn statements are true and correct. (1927, c. 204, s. 3.)

Art. 16. Reciprocal or Inter-Insurance Exchanges.

§ 58-138. Exchange of insurance contracts authorized; power of attorney.—Individuals, partnerships, and corporations of this state hereby designated as subscribers, are authorized to exchange reciprocal or inter-insurance contracts with each other, or one with individuals, partnerships, and corporations of other states and countries, providing indemnity among themselves from any loss which may be insured against under other provisions of the laws, excepting life insurance. Such contracts may be executed by an attorney, agent, or other representative, herein designated attorney, duly authorized and acting for such subscribers.

The attorney in fact for each of such exchanges shall be required to obtain a written power of attorney executed by each of the subscribers and have the same in his or its possession before any contracts of insurance of any kind or description shall be issued or renewed to subscribers, and a full copy of the provisions of the power of attorney used at the exchange and on file with the commissioner of insurance under the requirements of § 58-139, subsection four, shall be incorporated into and made a part of all contracts or policies issued to subscribers in this state. (1913, c. 183, ss. 1, 2; 1937, c. 130; C. S. 6398.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added the second paragraph.

§ 58-139. Statement to be filed with commisssioner of insurance.—The subscribers, so contracting among themselves, shall, through their attorney, file with the commissioner of insurance of this state a declaration verified by oath of such attorney, setting forth:

1. The name or title of the office at which such subscribers propose to exchange such indemnity contracts. This name or title shall not be so similar to any other name or title previously adopted by a similar organization, or by any insurance corporation or association, as in the opinion of the commissioner of insurance is calculated to result in confusion or deception. The office or offices through which such indemnity contracts shall be exchanged shall be classified as reciprocal or inter-insurance exchanges.

2. The kind or kinds of insurance to be effected or exchanged.

3. A copy of the form of policy, contract, or agreement under or by which the insurance is to be effected or exchanged.

4. A copy of the form of power of attorney or other authority of such attorney under which the insurance is to be effected or exchanged.

5. The location of the office or offices from which such contracts or agreements are to be issued.

6. That applications have been made for indemnity upon at least one hundred separate risks, aggregating not less than one and one-half million dollars as represented by executed contracts or bona fide applications, to become concurrently effective, or, in case of liability or compensation insurance, covering a total pay roll of not less than one and one-half million dollars: Provided, that when the attorney maintains the central office in this state the commissioner of insurance may authorize an exchange with a less number of risks and a smaller amount of indemnity to be exchanged and an amount of cash deposits less than twenty-five thousand dollars.

7. That there is on deposit with such attorney and available for payment of losses a sum of not less than twenty-five thousand dollars. (1913, c. 183, s. 3; C. S. 6399.)

§ 58-140. Agreement for service of process.—At the time of filing the declaration provided for by the preceding section, the attorney shall file with the commissioner of insurance an instrument in writing, executed by him for the subscribers, conditioned that upon the issuance of certificate of authority provided for in this article, service of process may be had upon the commissioner of insurance and the attorney shall make an annual report to the commissioner of insurance for each calendar year, showing the financial condition of affairs and assets of the reciprocal or inter-insurance exchanges shall be subject to examination by the commissioner of insurance. (1913, c. 183, s. 4; C. S. 6400.)

§ 58-141. Statement as to amount of risks.—There shall be filed with the commissioner of insurance of this state by such attorney a statement under his oath showing the maximum amount of indemnity upon any single risk, and the attorney shall, whenever and as often as the same shall be required, file with the commissioner of insurance a statement verified by his oath to the effect that he has examined the commercial rating of such subscribers as shown by the reference book of a commercial agency having at least one hundred thousand subscribers, and that from such examination or from other information in his possession it appears that no subscriber has assumed on any single risk an amount greater than ten per cent of the net worth of such subscriber. (1913, c. 183, s. 5; C. S. 6401.)

§ 58-142. Certificate issued by commissioner.—Upon the filing of the foregoing papers, and upon the payment of fees as provided for in this article, the commissioner of insurance shall examine and pass upon the same, and if found correct, and in accordance with this article, issue a certificate of authority, which shall expire on the first day of April next succeeding. (1913, c. 183, s. 6; C. S. 6402.)

§ 58-143. Reserve fund.—There shall at all times be maintained as a reserve a sum in cash or convertible securities equal to fifty per centum of the aggregate net annual deposits collected and credited to the accounts of the subscribers on policies having one year or less to run and pro rata on those for longer periods. For the purpose of said reserve, net annual deposits shall be construed to mean the advance payments of subscribers after deducting therefrom the amounts specifically provided in the subscribers' agreements, for expenses. Said sum shall at no time be less than twenty-five thousand dollars, and if at any time fifty per cent of the aggregate deposits so collected and credited shall not equal that amount, then the subscribers, or their attorney for them, shall make up any deficiency. (1913, c. 183, s. 7; C. S. 6403.)

§ 58-144. Annual reports; examination by commissioner.—The attorney shall make an annual report to the commissioner of insurance for each calendar year, showing the financial condition of affairs at that office where such contracts are issued, and shall furnish such additional information and reports as may be required; but the attorney shall not be required to furnish the names and addresses of any subscribers. The business affairs and assets of the reciprocal or inter-insurance exchanges shall be subject to examination by the commissioner of insurance. (1913, c. 183, s. 8; C. S. 6404.)

§ 58-145. Corporations empowered to exchange insurance.—Any corporation now or hereafter organized under the laws of this state shall, in addition to the rights, powers, and franchises specified in its articles of incorporation, have full power and authority to exchange insurance contracts of the kind and character herein mentioned through exchanges complying with this article. (1913, c. 183, s. 9; C. S. 6405.)

§ 58-146. Punishment for failing to comply with law.—Any attorney or representative who shall, except for the purpose of applying for certificate of authority as herein provided, exchange any contracts of indemnity of the kind and character specified in this article, or directly or indirectly solicit or negotiate any applications for same without first complying with the foregoing provisions, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars. (1913, c. 183, s. 10; C. S. 6406.)

§ 58-147. Certificate to attorney; revocation.—Each attorney by or through whom are issued any policies or contracts for indemnity of the character referred to in this article shall procure from the commissioner of insurance annually a certificate of authority, stating that all the requirements of this article have been complied with, and upon such compliance and the payment of the fees and taxes required by this article, the commissioner of insurance shall issue such certificate of authority. The commissioner of insurance may revoke or suspend any certificate of authority issued hereunder in case of breach of any of the conditions imposed by this article after reasonable notice has been given the attorney in writing so that he may appear and show cause why such action should not be taken. (1913, c. 183, s. 11; C. S. 6407.)

§ 58-148. Application of general insurance law.——Nothing in the general insurance laws, except as herein provided and as may specifically apply to such contracts and exchanges, shall be construed to extend to inter-insurance or reciprocal exchanges licensed under this article. (1913, c. 183, s. 13; C. S. 6409.)

Art. 17. Foreign Insurance Companies.

§ 58-149. Admitted to do business.—Foreign insurance companies, upon complying with the conditions herein set forth applicable to them, may be admitted to transact in this state, by constituted agents resident herein, any class of insurance authorized by the laws in force relative to the duties, obligations, prohibitions, and penalties of insurance companies, and subject to all laws applicable to the transaction of such business by foreign insurance companies and their agents. (Rev., s. 4746; 1899, c. 54, s. 62; 1901, c. 391, s. 5; 1903, c. 438, s. 6; C. S. 6411.)

Rights of Insurer after Admission.—When a foreign insurance company has complied with all the laws of the state, the courts of this state are open to it for the purpose of enforcing liabilities of policy holders. Commonwealth Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Edwards, 134 N. C. 116, 32 S. E. 404.

§ 58-150. Conditions of admission.——A foreign insurance company may be admitted and authorized to do business when it:

1. Deposits with the commissioner of insurance a certified copy of its charter or certificate of organization and a statement of its financial condition and business, in such form and detail as he requires, signed and sworn to by its president and secretary or other proper officer, and pays for the filing of this statement the sum required by law.

2. Satisfies the commissioner of insurance that it is fully and legally organized under the laws of another state. The service on the commissioner is not effective until the insurance company has fully complied with all the laws applicable to the transaction of such business by foreign insurance companies and their agents. Commonwealth Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Edwards, 134 N. C. 116, 32 S. E. 404.

3. In case of an amount not less than $100,000 or not less than $50,000, with, also, invested assets of not less than $100,000, and that such capital or net assets are well invested and immediately available for the payment of losses in this state; and that it insures on any single hazard a sum no larger than one-tenth of its net assets.

4. By a duly executed instrument filed in his office constitutes and appoints the commissioner of insurance and his successor its true and lawful attorneys to do all lawful processes in any action or legal proceeding against it may be served, and therein agrees that any lawful process against it which may be served upon such attorney shall be of the same force and validity as if served on the company; and the authority thereof shall continue in force irrevocable so long as any liability of the company remains outstanding in this state. Copies of this instrument, certified by the commissioner of insurance, are sufficient evidence thereof, and service upon such attorney is sufficient service upon the principal.

5. Obtains from the commissioner of insurance a certificate that it has complied with the laws of the state and is authorized to make contracts of insurance. It must also comply with the provisions of this chapter as to deposits and reinsurance by such companies. (Rev., s. 4747; 1899, c. 54, s. 62; 1901, c. 391, s. 5; 1903, c. 438, s. 6; C. S. 6411.)

Cross Reference.—As to deposits required of foreign companies, see §§ 58-57, 58-110, 58-182.

Subsection 3.—Power of Attorney Is Irrevocable.—The statute requires the power of attorney executed to the State Insurance Commissioner. The appointment of an attorney upon whom process may be served to be irrevocable not "as long as the company continues to do business" in this State, but as long as "any liability of the company remains outstanding" in this State. By ceasing to transact insurance business, the foreign company ceases to have the power of attorney afforded by the company so specified. No amount of authorities having a more or less fancied analogy or analogy of any kind whatever to the statute and of the power of attorney drawn and filed in compliance thereto. Biggs v. Life Ass'n, 128 N. C. 7, 37 S. E. 955; Insurance Co. v. Scott, 134 N. C. 157, 48 S. E. 581.

Subsection 4.—Brokerage Makes Agency.—Where a citizen of this State applies for a policy in a foreign company through a broker here, and the application is accepted and the policy is delivered, the broker will be deemed to be the agent of the insurance company, and the insurance company is subject to the laws of this State and has domesticated here, it acquires the right to sue and be sued by the state courts of this state, as a foreign insurance company. Occidental Life Ins. Co. v. Lawrence, 204 N. C. 707, 169 S. E. 636.

Same.—Non-Resident Insured.—This section was intended to protect residents of this state and does not apply to policies issued before the statute and transferred to a resident of another state. The service on the commissioner is not effective until the insurance company has ceased doing business in the state and has no further liabilities therein. Williams v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ins. Ass'n, 145 N. C. 158 S. E. 404.

Subsection 5.—Power of Corporation to Sue and Be Sued.—Where a foreign insurance corporation has fully complied with the provisions of this section, and has moved its head office to this State and has domesticated here, it acquires the right to sue and be sued by the state courts of this state, as a foreign corporation. Occidental Life Ins. Co. v. Lawrence, 204 N. C. 707, 169 S. E. 636.

§ 58-151. Limitation as to classes of business.—No insurance company admitted to do business in the state may be authorized to transact more than one class or kind of insurance therein, unless it has the requisite capital for such business engaged in, and such a company may undertake two or more of the classes of insurance set out in article six, § 58-72, of this chapter, upon providing for each additional kind at least fifty thousand dollars additional capital. But if life, fire, and credit insurance is added to any other line or lines, the additional capital shall be one hundred thousand dollars each, and the company shall pay the license taxes and fees for each class or kind of insurance provided by this chapter.

§ 58-152. Retaliatory laws.—When, by the laws of any other state or nation, any taxes, fines, penalties, licenses, fees, deposits of money or of securities, or other obligations or prohibitions are imposed upon insurance companies of this state doing business in such other state or nation or upon their agents therein greater than those imposed by this state upon insurance companies of such other state, then, so long as such laws continue in force, the same taxes, fines, penalties, licenses, fees, deposits, obligations and prohibitions, of whatever kind, shall be imposed upon all such insurance companies of such other state or nation doing business within this state and upon their agents here. Nothing herein repeals or reduces the license, fees, taxes, and other obligations now imposed by the laws of this state or to go into effect with the companies of any other state or nation unless some company of this state is actually doing or seeking to do business in such state or nation. When an insurance company organized under the laws of any state or country is prohibited by the laws of such state or country or by its charter from investing its assets other than capital stock in the bonds of this state, then and in such case the commissioner of insurance is authorized and directed to refuse to grant a license to transact business in this state to such insurance company.

The Act of 1931 inserted the words "bonding and/or surety" in line three of this section.

§ 58-153. Service of legal process upon commissioner of insurance.—The service of legal process upon any insurance, bonding and/or surety company, admitted and authorized to do business in this state under the provisions of this chapter, shall be made by leaving the same in the hands or office of the commissioner of insurance, and no service upon a company that is licensed to do business in this state is valid unless made upon the commissioner of insurance, the general agent for service, or some officer of the company. As a condition precedent to a valid service of process and of the duty of the commissioner in the premises, the plaintiff shall pay to the commissioner of insurance at the time of service the sum of one dollar, which the plaintiff shall recover as taxable costs if he prevails in his action. In any action of which a justice of the peace has jurisdiction, summons may be served on any licensed agent of such company, not to exceed ten days from date of service; if there is no such agent in the county, then the summons may be served as provided for in other actions against foreign corporations in a court of a justice of the peace. (Rev., s. 4750; 1899, c. 54, ss. 16, 62; 1903, c. 438, s. 6; 1927, c. 167, s. 1; 1931, c. 287; C. S. 6414.)

Cross Reference.—As to other ways in which a foreign insurance company may be served with a copy of process, see §§ 1-97, 55-38.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1927 this section applied only to foreign insurance companies. By this amendment the word "foreign" was struck out.

There are three ways in which a foreign insurance corporation may be served with process: first, when the company is actually doing business in this state and is not restricted to the method prescribed by this section but may be served in the manner prescribed in section 55-38; second, when the service of process is directed to its secretary and shall state whether or not it was served; if there is no such agent in the county, then the summons may be served as provided for in other actions against foreign corporations in a court of a justice of the peace. (Rev., s. 4750; 1899, c. 54, ss. 16, 62; 1903, c. 438, s. 6; 1927, c. 167, s. 1; 1931, c. 287; C. S. 6414.)

Editor's Note.—The Public Laws of 1927 inserted in the first sentence of this section the clause reading: "greater than those imposed by this state upon insurance companies of such other state."

Not Repealed by Implication.—This section was not implicitly repealed by the Revenue Acts of 1923 or 1925 (Pub. Laws 1923, c. 4, § 903; 1925 c. 101, § 903). The amendment applied only to foreign insurance companies. By this act and sections 1-97, 58-38 of this chapter, upon providing for each additional kind at least fifty thousand dollars additional capital. But if life, fire, and credit insurance is added to any other line or lines, the additional capital shall be one hundred thousand dollars each, and the company shall pay the license taxes and fees for each class or kind of insurance provided by this chapter.

The Act of 1931 inserted the words "bonding and/or surety" in line three of this section.

Conditions Precedent to Doing Business in the State.—One of the conditions precedent upon which a foreign insurance company is authorized to do business in this State is that such company will file a duly executed instrument with the insurance commissioner, appointing him its attorney, upon whom all lawful process against said company can be served. Biggs v. Life Ass'n, 128 N. C. 5, 6, 37 S. E. 955.

Annulment of Power of Attorney.—The service of a life insurance company, appointed by the insurance commissioner, appointing him its attorney, upon whom all lawful process against said company can be served. Biggs v. Life Ass'n, 128 N. C. 5, 6, 37 S. E. 955.

Service of legal process upon commissioner.—When legal process is served on the commissioner of insurance brings service of summons on the commissioner of insurance doing business in this State is not restricted to the method prescribed by this section but may be served in the manner prescribed in section 55-38 or section 1-97. Pardue v. Absher, 174 N. C. 676, 94 S. E. 414.

Unlicensed Companies.—Service can be made under this section only upon an insurance company that does not affirmatively appear that the insurance company is licensed, service under section 1-97 may be made. Parker v. Insurance Co. v. National Fire, etc., 143 N. C. 339, 55 S. E. 717. And service under section 55-38 or section 1-97 is not the invalid because of this section. Fisher v. Traders Mut. Life Ins. Co., 136 N. C. 217, 48 S. E. 667.

Service on Fraternal Society.—In an action against a foreign fraternal insurance society doing business in this state, service of summons on the commissioner of insurance brings the corporation into court. Brenizer v. Royal Aracanum, 141 N. C. 409, 53 S. E. 835.

Service of process.—In an action against a foreign fraternal insurance society doing business in this state, service of summons on the commissioner of insurance brings the corporation into court. Brenizer v. Royal Aracanum, 141 N. C. 409, 53 S. E. 835.

§ 58-154. Commissioner to notify company of service of process.—When legal process is served upon the commissioner of insurance as attorney for an insurance company under the provisions of this chapter, he shall immediately notify the company of such service by registered letter directed to its secretary and shall state whether or not complaint was served with the process; or, in the case of a foreign country, to its resident manager, if any in the United States; and must with-
§ 58-155. Action to enforce compliance with this chapter.—Compliance with the provisions of this chapter as to deposits, obligations, and prohibitions, and the payment of taxes, fines, fees, and penalties by foreign insurance companies, may be enforced in the ordinary course of legal procedure by action brought in the superior court of Wake county by the attorney-general in the name of the state upon the relation of the commissioner of insurance. (Rev., s. 4753; 1899, c. 54, s. 102; 1903, c. 438, s. 10; C. S. 6416.)

§ 58-156. Riders insuring against damage to sprinkler systems, water damage, etc., permitted.—All insurance companies authorized to do business in this state may, in addition to the business which they are now authorized by law to do, insure sprinklers, pumps, and other apparatus erected or put in position for the purpose of extinguishing fires, against damage, loss, or injury resulting from accidental causes other than fire; and may also insure any property which such companies are authorized to insure against loss or damage by fire, against damage, loss, or injury by water or otherwise, resulting from the accidental breaking of or injury to such sprinklers, pumps, or other apparatus, arising from causes other than fire. Contracts of insurance of this kind, provided for in this section, shall not be incorporated in any contract of insurance against loss or damage by fire, but may be contained in riders attached thereto, the conditions of which shall be prescribed by the commissioner of insurance. (Rev., s. 4754; 1899, c. 54, s. 24; 1907, c. 1000, s. 6; C. S. 6417.)

§ 58-157. Performance of contracts as to devices not prohibited.—Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed as prohibiting the performance of any contract hereafter made for the introduction or installation of automatic sprinklers or other betterments or improvements for reducing the risk by fire or water on any property located in this State, and containing provisions for obtaining insurance against loss or damage by fire or water, for a specified time at a fixed rate; provided, every policy issued under such contract shall be as provided by law. (1929, ch. 145, s. 1.)

§ 58-158. Policies limited as to amount and term.—No insurance company or agent shall know-ingly issue any fire insurance policy upon property within this state for an amount which, together with any existing insurance thereon, exceeds the fair value of the property, nor for a longer term than seven years. Policies issued in violation of this section are binding upon the company issuing them, but the company is liable for the forfeitures by law prescribed for such violation. (Rev., s. 4755; 1899, c. 54, ss. 39, 99; 1903, c. 438, s. 10; C. S. 6418.)

Cross Reference.—As to forfeiture prescribed, see § 58-172.

Determining Amount of Loss.—A statement of an agent acting for his company in writing fire insurance, containing that amount of the policy was greatly in excess of the value of the one store, but was about the value of the entire building, and that insured paid the premium based upon the amount named in the policy and not upon the actual cash value of the property, etc., to be insured before issuing the policy thereon. Queen v. Dixie Fire Ins. Co., 177 N. C. 7655, 185055 B. 7655.

Construction of Policy.—Where plaintiffs' property consisted of one building containing three stores, and the insurer contended that the policy issued covered only one of the stores and not the entire building, the court held that amount of the policy was greatly in excess of the value of the one store, but was about the value of the entire building, and that insured paid the premium based upon the amount named in the policy and not upon the actual cash value of the property, etc., to be insured before issuing the policy thereon. Queen v. Dixie Fire Ins. Co., 177 N. C. 7655, 185055 B. 7655.

Editor's Note.—See 13 N. C. Law Rev. 98.

Two or More Mortgages.—Where the owner of lands borrows money thereon under two separate mortgages from different persons, one registered prior to the other, and the mortgagee contracts with each to take out certain policies of fire insurance for their benefit, the rights of the mortgagor to the proceeds under the policies will be determined by the contracts as executed in the loss payable clauses in the policies, and where they are of the New York standard form, appearing to be payable to the mortgagors "as interest may appear," the mortgagee under the prior registered mortgage has a superior lien on the proceeds. Johnson v. Ladies' Home Bank, 197 N. C. 68, 147 S. E. 691.

§ 58-159. Limit of liability on total loss.—When buildings insured against loss by fire and situated within the state are totally destroyed by fire, the company is not liable beyond the actual cash value of the insured property at the time of the loss or damage; and if it appears that the insured has paid a premium on a sum in excess of the actual value, he shall be reimbursed the proportionate excess of premium paid on the difference between the amount named in the policy and the ascertainable values, with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of issue. (Rev., s. 4756; 1899, c. 54, s. 40; C. S. 6419.)

§ 58-160. Policies for the benefit of mortgagees.—Where by an agreement with the insured, or by the terms of a fire insurance policy taken out by a mortgagor, the whole or any part of the loss thereon is payable to, or mortgagee of, the property for his benefit, the company shall, upon satisfactory proof of the rights and title of the parties, in accordance with such terms or agreement, pay all mortgagees protected by such policy in the order of their priority of claim, as their claims appear, not beyond the amount for which the company is liable, and such payments are, to the extent thereof, payment and satisfaction of the liabilities of the company under the policy. (Rev., s. 4757; 1899, c. 54, s. 41; C. S. 6420.)

Editor's Note.—See 13 N. C. Law Rev. 98.
§ 58-161. Fire loss reported to commissioner before payment.—Every insurance company transacting business in this state shall, upon receiving notice of loss by fire of property in North Carolina, on which it is liable under a policy of insurance, notify the commissioner of insurance thereof, either directly or through some bureau or association approved by the commissioner, and no insurance upon any such property shall be paid by any company until one week after this notification. A company violating this section may be fined by the commissioner of insurance the sum of ten dollars for each offense, and for refusal to comply with its provisions its license may be canceled by the commissioner. (Rev., s. 4822; 1899, c. 54, s. 40; 1903, c. 488, s. 4; 1913, c. 166, s. 4; C. S. 641.)

§ 58-162. Reinsurance restricted and regulated.—When an application for license, renewal of license, or for admission to do business in this state, is made by a company, whether of this state, or of another state of the United States, or of a foreign country, for the transaction of business of fire insurance herein, the company shall, as one of the prerequisites of license and admission, file a sworn declaration signed by its president and secretary, or officers corresponding thereto, that it will not reinsure any risk or part thereof taken by it on any property located in this state with any company not authorized to transact the business of fire insurance in the state. Every fire insurance company admitted shall annually and at such other times as the commissioner of insurance requires, in addition to all returns now required by law of it or its agents or managers, make a return to the commissioner of insurance, in such form and detail as is prescribed by him, of all reinsurance contracted for or effected by it directly or indirectly upon property located in this state, this return to be certified by the oath of its president and secretary, if a company of one of the United States, and if a company of a foreign country, by its president and secretary or by officers corresponding thereto, as to such reinsurance contracted for or effected through the foreign office, and by the United States manager as to such reinsurance effected by the United States branch. If any company, domestic or foreign, directly or indirectly, reinsure any risk taken by it on any property located in this state in any company not duly authorized to transact business herein, or if it refuses or neglects to make the returns required by this section, the commissioner of insurance shall revoke its authority to transact business in this state. The provisions of this section also apply to companies licensed to do reinsurance business only. It is unlawful for any company reinsuring risks on property located in this state to reinsure such risks or parts thereof except in companies authorized by the laws of this state to do business. (Rev., s. 4770; 1899, c. 54, s. 63; 1901, c. 391, s. 5; C. S. 6422.)

§ 58-163. Penalty for reinsuring in unauthorized company.—If any fire insurance company shall, directly or indirectly, reinsure any risk taken by it on any property located in North Carolina in any company not duly authorized to transact business herein, the insurance agent and the company effecting or acting in the negotiation of such reinsurance shall severely be punished by a fine of five hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 3495; 1899, c. 54, ss. 63, 98; C. S. 6423.)

§ 58-164. No action lies on policy of unlicensed company.—No action may be maintained in any court in the state upon a policy or contract of fire insurance issued upon property situated in the state by any company, association, partnership, individual, or individuals that have not been authorized by the commissioner of insurance to transact such insurance business. (Rev., s. 4763; 1901, c. 105; C. S. 6424.)

Action by the Insured.—The statute does not make the policy void in the hands of the assured. The defendant company could not take advantage of its own wrong by receiving the premium and not being responsible." Hay & Bro. v. Union Fire Ins. Co., 167 N. C. 82, 83, 85 S. E. 24.

Action by Licensed Companies.—When such foreign corporation has complied with our laws, our courts are open to it for the enforcement of its rights—and should it become insolvent and pass into the hands of a receiver—he, by comity, will be allowed to sue here to enforce the liability of a policy holder. Commonwealth Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Edwards, 124 N. C. 166, 32 S. E. 404.

Policies Issued by Brokers.—This section allows an out-of-state company, that is, one that has not complied with our laws, to be sued but not to sue. Its evident purpose was to allow such companies to adjust claims without thereby making themselves liable for penalties or taxes. It certainly never intended to permit such companies to practically nullify our insurance laws by the legal fiction of doing business in this state through a broker. Our insurance laws, applicable equally to domestic and to foreign corporations, are intended not simply for purposes of revenue, but primarily for the protection of our people. Commonwealth Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Edwards, 124 N. C. 166, 119, 32 S. E. 404.

§ 58-165. Citizens authorized to procure policies in unlicensed foreign companies.

1. What applicant must show.—The commissioner of insurance, upon the annual payment of a fee of twenty dollars, may issue licenses to citizens of this state, subject to revocation at any time, permitting the person named therein to procure policies of fire insurance on property in this state in foreign insurance companies not authorized to transact business in the state. Before the person named in such a license may procure any insurance in such companies or on any property in this state, he must execute and file with the commissioner of insurance an affidavit that he is not an officer in companies admitted to do business in the state the amount of insurance necessary to protect such property, and may only procure insurance under such license after he has procured insurance in companies admitted to do business in this state to the full amount which those companies are willing to provide.
write on the property; but such licensed person shall not be required to offer any portion of such insurance to any company which is not possessed of cash assets amounting to at least twenty-five thousand dollars, or one which has, within the period of twelve months, been in an impaired condition.

2. Account and report.—Each person so licensed must keep a separate account of the business done under the license, a certified copy of which account he shall forthwith file with the commissioner of insurance, showing the exact amount of such insurance placed by any person, firm, or corporation, the gross premium charged thereon, the companies in which the same is placed, the date and terms of the policies, and also a report in the same detail of all such policies canceled and the gross return premium thereon.

3. Bond filed.—Before receiving such license the applicant therefor shall execute and deliver to the commissioner of insurance a bond in the penal sum of one thousand dollars, with such sureties as the commissioner of insurance may approve, with a condition that the licensee will faithfully comply with all the requirements of this section, and will file with the commissioner of insurance, in January of each year, a sworn statement of the gross premiums charged for insurance procured or placed, and the gross returned premiums on such insurance canceled under such license during the year ending on the thirty-first day of December next preceding, and at the time of filing such statement will pay into the treasury of the state a sum equal to five per centum of such gross premiums, less return premiums, so reported, or pay such tax at the time of taking out and delivering such policy or policies.

4. Broker may obtain license.—Any broker licensed under this section may, upon application to the commissioner of insurance, be allowed to place policies of insurance with any mutual fire insurance company not doing or licensed to do business in this state, not paying commissions upon business, not having agents to solicit business, and doing only one class of fire insurance business, if he files with the insurance department a certified copy of the charter of each such company, a statement of its financial condition on a blank of the department, and certificate of its authority to do business at its home office, and also receives from the commissioner of insurance a license for each company to do business through him on the payment by him of the license, taxes, and fees required by law. All such contracts of insurance placed through any such broker are valid and legal, and the risks upon which such policies are placed may be examined and inspected by regular agents or inspectors licensed by the insurance department upon the application of the broker writing the insurance.

5. Each resident broker, authorized to procure insurance in nonadmitted companies, shall pay an annual license tax of twenty dollars, and also a tax of five per cent on his gross premium receipts. (Rev., ss. 4715, 4769; 1899, c. 54, ss. 68, 95; 1903, c. 680; C. S. 6425.)

Liability of the Insurer.—Where a citizen of this State applies for a policy in a foreign company through a broker here, and the application is accepted and the policy is delivered, the broker will be deemed to be the agent of the company, and the contract to be made here, subject to the laws of this State. Commonwealth Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Edwards, 124 N. C. 115, 32 S. E. 404.

§ 58-165. An insurance company that issues policies to residents of this state, but does not issue them through a broker in this state is not subject to an action under this section. Ivy River Land, etc., Co. v. National Fire, etc. Co., 192 N. C. 115, 133 S. E. 424.

§ 58-166. Punishment for failure to file affidavit and statements.—If any person licensed to procure insurance in an unauthorized foreign company shall procure, or act in any manner in the procurement or negotiation of, insurance in any unauthorized foreign company, and shall neglect to make and file the affidavit and statements required by the preceding section, he shall forfeit his license and be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both. (Rev., ss. 3483, 4769; 1899, c. 54, ss. 68, 95; C. S. 6426.)

§ 58-167. Tax deducted from premium; reports filed.—When any person or corporation shall insure any property located in this state with an insurance company not licensed to do business in this state, it shall be the duty of such person or corporation to deduct from the premium charged on the policy or policies issued for such insurance five per centum of the premium and remit the same to the commissioner of insurance of the state, at the time of filing the report to the commissioner of insurance the name of the company or companies issuing the policy or policies, the location of the property insured, and the premium charged. The commissioner of insurance shall pay the said amounts to the treasurer of the state. If such report is not made on or before the thirtieth days of July and January of each year for the business done prior to July first and January first preceding, there shall be added to the amount of taxes thereon the sum of one per centum on the first day of each month thereafter. (1915, c. 109, s. 8; C. S. 6427.)

Referred to in Ivy River Land, etc., Co. v. National Fire, etc., Co., 192 N. C. 115, 133 S. E. 424.

§ 58-168. Resident agents required. —Foreign fire insurance companies legally authorized to do business in this state through regularly commissioned and licensed agents located in the state shall not make contracts of fire insurance on property herein, except through such resident agents as are regularly commissioned by them and licensed to write policies of fire insurance in this state. This section does not apply to direct insurance covering the rolling stock of railroad corporations or property in transit while in the possession and custody of railroad corporations or other common carriers. (Rev., s. 4764; 1899, c. 54, s. 107; 1901, c. 391, s. 8; C. S. 6428.)

§ 58-169. Policies through nonresident agent prohibited. —Every fire insurance company authorized to do business in the state is prohibited from authorizing or allowing any person, agent, firm, or corporation who is a nonresident of this state, to issue or cause to be issued, except through a licensed agent, any policy of insurance on property located in the state. (Rev., s. 4765; 1903, c. 488, s. 1; 1905, c. 170; C. S. 6429.)

Validity as to Insured.—Where a foreign insurance company, authorized to do business here under our laws, issues its policy on property situated within the State, but through an agency in another State which is unauthorized to write it here, because of this section, the policy is valid as to the right of action of the insured thereon. Hay & Bros. v. Union Fire Ins. Co., 167 N. C. 82, 83 S. E. 241.

§ 58-170. Licensed agents not to pay commissions to nonresident or unlicensed persons.—Any person, firm, or corporation licensed by the commissioner of insurance to act as a fire insurance agent in this state is prohibited from paying directly or indirectly any commission, brokerage, or other valuable consideration on account of any policy covering property in this state, to any person, firm, or corporation who is a nonresident of the state, or to any person, firm, or corporation not duly licensed by the commissioner of insurance as a fire insurance agent; but a fire insurance agent licensed in the state may pay a commission not exceeding fifty per centum of the regular commissions allowed upon the issuance of such policies to a licensed nonresident broker. The commissioner of insurance is authorized to license a nonresident as a broker when he applies therefor on a proper blank of the department and makes affidavit that he will not during the fiscal year place directly or indirectly any fire insurance on any property located in North Carolina except through licensed resident agents of the state, that he is a broker in good faith and proposes to hold himself out as such. The fee for this license and seal is ten dollars. (Rev., s. 4766; 1903, c. 488, s. 2; 1905, c. 170, s. 2; 1923, c. 4, s. 70; 1925, c. 70, s. 6; C. S. 6430.)

§ 58-171. Revocation of license for violation; power of commissioner.—When the commissioner of insurance has information of a violation of any of the provisions of §§ 58-169 and 58-170, he shall immediately investigate or cause to be investigated such violation, and if a fire insurance company has violated any of such provisions he shall immediately revoke its license for not less than three months and not more than six months for a first offense, and for each offense thereafter for not less than one year. If a person, firm, or corporation licensed by the commissioner of insurance as a fire insurance agent violates or causes to be violated any of the provisions of those sections, he shall for the first offense have his license revoked for not less than three nor more than six months, and for the second offense he shall have his license revoked for all companies for which he has been licensed for not less than three nor more than six months, and for the second offense he shall have his license revoked for all companies for which he is licensed, and he shall not thereafter be licensed for any company for one year from the date of the revocation. For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of those sections the commissioner of insurance is authorized and empowered to examine persons, administer oaths, and send for papers and records. A failure or refusal on the part of any fire insurance company, person, firm, or corporation licensed to do business in this state to appear before the commissioner of insurance when requested to do so, or to produce records and papers, or answer under oath, subjects such company, person, firm, or corporation to the penalties of this section. (Rev., s. 4767; 1903, c. 488, ss. 3, 4; C. S. 6431.)

§ 58-172. Agreements restricting agent's compensation; penalty.—It is unlawful for any fire insurance company, association, or partnership doing business in this state employing an agent who is employed by another fire insurance company, association, or partnership, either directly or through any organization or association, to enter into, make or maintain any stipulation or agreement in restraint of or limiting the compensation which said agent may receive from any other fire insurance company, association, or partnership, or forbidding or prohibiting reinsurance of the risks of a domestic fire insurance company in whole or in part by any company holding membership in or cooperating with such bureau or board. The penalty for any violation of this section shall be a fine of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars and the forfeiture of license to do business in this state for a period of twelve months thereafter. (Rev., ss. 3491, 4768; 1905, c. 424; 1915, c. 166, ss. 2, 3; C. S. 6432.)

§ 58-173. Punishment for issuing fire policies contrary to law.—Any insurance company or agent who makes, issues, or delivers a policy of fire insurance in wilful violation of the provisions of this chapter which prohibit the issuance of a fire insurance policy for more than the fair value of the property or for a longer term than seven years; or which prohibit stipulations in insurance contracts restricting the jurisdiction of courts, or limiting the time within which an action may be brought to less than one year after the cause of action accrues or to less than six months after a nonsuit by the plaintiff, shall forfeit for each offense not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars; but the policy shall be binding upon the company issuing it. (Rev., s. 4832; 1899, c. 54, s. 99; 1903, c. 438, c. 10; C. S. 6433.)

§ 58-174. Terms and conditions must be set out in policy.—In all insurance against loss by fire the conditions of insurance must be stated in full, and the rules and by-laws of the company are not a warranty or a part of the contract, except as incorporated in full into the policy. (Rev., s. 4758; 1899, c. 54, s. 42; C. S. 6434.)

§ 58-175. Items to be expressed in policies; agent to inspect risks.—Upon request there shall be printed, stamped, or written on each fire policy issued in this state the basis rate, deficiency charge, the credit for improvements, and the rate at which written, and whenever a rate is made or changed on any property situated in this state upon request a full statement thereof showing in detail the basis rate, deficiency charges and credits, as well as rate proposed to be made, shall be delivered to the owner or his representative having the insurance on the property in charge, by the company, association, their agent or representative, with a notice to the effect that the rate is promulgated and filed [534]
§ 58-176. Standard policy adopted.—No fire insurance company shall issue fire insurance policies on property in this state other than those of the standard form filed in the office of the commissioner of insurance of the state, known and designated as the standard fire insurance policy of the state of North Carolina, except as follows: (a) A company may print on or in its policies its name, location, and date of incorporation, the amount of its paid-up capital stock, the names of its officers and agents, the number and date of the policy, and if it is issued through an agent, the words: “This policy shall not be valid until countersigned by the duly authorized manager or agent of the company at .......” and after the words “Standard Fire Insurance Policy of the State of North Carolina,” on the back of the form, the names of such other states as have adopted this standard form. (b) A company may use in its policies written or printed forms of description and specification of the property insured. (c) A company insuring against damage by lightning may print in the clause enumerating the perils insured against, the additional words, “also any damage by lightning, whether fire ensues or not,” and in the clause providing for an apportionment of loss in case of other insurance, the words, “whether by fire, lightning, or both.” (d) A company insuring against damage by windstorm, cyclones and tornadoes may print in the clause enumerating the perils insured against, the additional words, “also any damage by windstorm, cyclones and tornadoes, whether fire ensues or not,” and in the clause providing for apportionment of loss in case of other insurance, the words, “whether by fire, windstorm, cyclones, tornadoes or all.” Such company may also print after the other conditions of the standard fire policy such provisions and conditions especially applicable to windstorms, cyclones, and tornadoes. The company may also make such change in the heading and preliminary statements of such combined policy form as may be necessary, all in such form as may be approved by the commissioner of insurance. (e) A company may write or print upon the margin or across the face of a policy, or write or print in type not smaller than long primer or ten point Roman-faced upon separate slips or riders to be attached thereto, provisions adding to or modifying those contained in the standard form, and all such slips, riders, and provisions must be signed by the officers or agents of the company so using them. The iron safe or any other depository to be attached to or modifying those contained in the standard form, and all such slips, riders, and provisions must be signed by the officers or agents of the company so using them. The iron safe or any other depository to be attached thereto, provisions adding to or modifying those contained in the standard form, and all such slips, riders, and provisions must be signed by the officers or agents of the company so using them. The iron safe or any other depository to be attached thereto, provisions adding to or modifying those contained in the standard form, and all such slips, riders, and provisions must be signed by the officers or agents of the company so using them. The iron safe or any other depository to be attached thereto, provisions adding to or modifying those contained in the standard form, and all such slips, riders, and provisions must be signed by the officers or agents of the company so using them. The iron safe or any other depository to be attached thereto, provisions adding to or modifying those contained in the standard form, and all such slips, riders, and provisions must be signed by the officers or agents of the company so using them. The iron safe or any other depository to be attached thereto, provisions adding to or modifying those contained in the standard form, and all such slips, riders, and provisions must be signed by the officers or agents of the company so using them. (f) Every mutual company shall cause to appear in the body of its policy the total amount for which the assured may be liable under the charter of the company. (g) The company may print on or in its policy, with the approval of the commissioner of insurance, if the same is not already included in such standard form, any provision which any such corporation is required by law to insert in its policies not in conflict with the provisions of such standard form. Such provisions shall be printed apart from the other provisions, agreements, or conditions of the policy, under a separate title, as follows: “Provisions Required by Law to be Inserted in This Policy.” (Acts, s. 6. 1759: 1899, c. 54, s. 43: 1901, c. 391, s. 4: 1907, c. 800, s. 1: 1915, c. 109, s. 10: 1925, c. 70, s. 5: C. S. 614.)

Validity and Binding Effect.—The terms and conditions of the standard form of a fire insurance policy, as provided for in this section and the section following, and the stipulations as to a valid waiver thereof, are valid and binding on the parties. Midkiff v. North Carolina Home Ins. Co., 197 N. C. 139, 147 S. E. 812.

§ 58-177. Form of standard policy.—The standard form of policy must be plainly printed, no part of it may be in type smaller than that used in printing the form on file in the office of the commissioner of insurance, and shall be as follows:

This policy is made and accepted subject to the foregoing stipulations and conditions, and to the stipulations and conditions printed on the back hereof, which are hereby made a part of the policy, together with such other provisions, stipulations, and conditions as may be endorsed hereon or added hereto as herein provided. In witness whereof, this company has executed and attested these presents.

Fraud, misrepresentation, etc.—This entire policy is void if the insured has concealed or misrepresented any material fact or circumstance concerning this insurance or the subject thereof; or in case of any fraud or false swearing by the insured touching any matter relating to this insurance or the subject thereof, whether before or after a loss.

Property which cannot be insured.—This policy shall not cover accounts, bills, currency, deeds, evidences of debt, money, notes or securities.

Hazards not covered.—This company shall not be liable for loss or damage caused directly or indirectly by invasion, insurrection, riot, civil war, or commotion, or military or usurped power, or by order of any civil authority; or by theft; or by neglect of the insured to use all reasonable means to save and preserve the property at and after a fire or when the property is endangered by fire in neighboring premises.

This entire policy is void, unless otherwise provided by agreement in writing added hereto.

Ownership, etc.—(a) if the interest of the insured is other than unconditional and sole ownership; or (b) if the subject of insurance is a building on ground not owned by the insured in fee simple; or (c) if, with the knowledge of the insured, foreclosure proceedings are commenced or notice given of sale of any property insured hereunder by reason of any mortgage or trust deed; or (d) if any change, other than by the death of an insured, takes place in the interest, title, or possession of the subject of insurance (except change of occupants without increase of hazard); or (e) if this policy is assigned before a loss.

Unless otherwise provided by agreement in writing added hereto, this company is not liable for loss or damage occurring—

Other insurance.—(a) while the insured has any other contract of insurance, whether valid or not, on property covered in whole or in part by this policy; or

Increase of hazard.—(b) while the hazard is increased by any means within the control or knowledge of the insured, or

Repairs, etc.—(c) while mechanics are employed in building, altering, or repairing the described premises beyond a period of fifteen days; or

Explosives, gas, etc.—(d) while illuminating gas or vapor is generated on the described premises; or while (any usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding) there is kept, used, or allowed on the described premises fireworks, greek fire, phosphorus, explosives, benzine, gasoline, naphtha, or any other product of petroleum of greater inflammability than kerosene oil, gunpowder exceeding twenty-five pounds, or kerosene oil exceeding five barrels; or

Factories.—(e) if the subject of insurance is a manufacturing establishment while operated in whole or in part between the hours of ten p.m. and five a.m., or while it ceases to be operated beyond a period of ten days; or

Unoccupancy.—(f) while a described building, whether intended for occupancy by owner or tenant, is vacant or unoccupied beyond a period of ten days; or

Excepted property.—(g) to bullion, manuscripts, mechanical drawings, dyes, or patterns; or Explosion, lightning.—(h) by explosion or lightning, unless fire ensues, and, in that event, for loss or damage by fire only.

Chattel mortgage.— Unless otherwise provided by agreement in writing added hereto this company is not liable for loss or damage to any property insured hereunder while encumbered by a chattel mortgage, and during the time of such encumbrance this company is liable only for loss or damage to any other property insured hereunder.

Fall of building.—If a building, or any material part thereof, falls, except as the result of fire, for all insurance by this policy on such building or its contents immediately ceases.

Added clauses.—The extent of the application of insurance under this policy and of the contribution to be made by this company in case of loss or damage, and any other agreement not inconsistent with or a waiver of any of the conditions or provisions of the policy, may be provided for by rider added hereto.

Waiver.—No one has power to waive any provision or condition of this policy except such as by the terms of the policy is the subject of agreement added hereto, nor shall any such provision or condition be waived unless the waiver is in writing added hereto, nor shall any provision or condition of this policy or any forfeiture be waived by any requirement, act, or proceeding on the part of this company relating to appraisal or to any examination herein provided for; nor shall any privilege or permission affecting the insurance hereunder exist or be claimed by the insured unless granted herein or by rider added hereto.

Cancellation of policy.—This policy will be canceled at any time at the request of the insured, in which case the company shall, upon demand and surrender of the policy, refund the excess of paid premium above the customary short rates for the expired time. The policy may be canceled at any time by the company by giving to the insured a five days written notice of cancellation with or without tender of the excess of paid premium above the pro rata premium for the expired time, which excess, if not tendered, shall be refunded on demand. Notice of cancellation must state that the excess premium (if not tendered) will be refunded on demand.

Pro rata liability.—This company will not be liable for a greater proportion of any loss or damage than the amount hereby insured bears to the whole insurance covering the property, whether valid or not and whether collectible or not.

Noon.—The word "noon" herein means noon of standard time at the place of loss or damage.

Mortgagee.—If loss or damage is made payable, in whole or in part, to a mortgagee, this policy may be canceled as to such interest by giving to the mortgagee a ten days written notice of cancellation. Upon failure of the insured to render proof of loss, such mortgagee shall, as if named as insured hereunder, but within sixty days after such failure, render proof of loss and be subject to the provisions hereof as to appraisal and time of payment. On payment to a mortgagee of any sum for loss or damage hereunder, if this company claims that as to the mortgagor or owner no liability existed, it shall, to the extent of such payment, be subrogated to the mortgagee's right of recovery and claim upon the collateral to the mortgage debt, but without impairing the mortgagee's right to sue; or it may pay the mortgage debt and require an assignment thereof and of the mortgage. Except as stated in this section, the agreement between a mortgagor and this company shall be only as stated by rider added hereto.

Requirements in case of loss.—The insured shall give immediate notice, in writing, to this company, of any loss or damage, protect the property from further damage, forthwith separate the damaged and undamaged personal property, put it in the best possible order, furnish a complete inventory of the destroyed, damaged and undamaged property, stating the quantity and cost of each article and the amount claimed thereon; and the insured shall, within sixty days after the fire, unless such time is extended in writing by this company, render to this company a proof of loss, signed and sworn to by the insured, stating the knowledge and belief of the insured as to the time and origin of the fire; the interest of the insured and of all others in the property; the cash value of each item thereof, and the amount of loss or damage thereto; all encumbrances thereon; all other contracts of insurance, whether valid or not, covering any of said property; and a copy of all the descriptions and schedules in all policies; any changes in the title, use, occupation, location, possession, or exposures of said property since the issuing of this policy; and by whom and for what purpose any building herein described and the several parts thereof were occupied at the time of fire; and shall furnish, if required, verified plans and specifications of any building, fixtures, or machinery destroyed or damaged. The insured, as often as is reasonably required, shall exhibit to any person designated by this company all that remains of any property herein described, and submit to examinations under oath by any person named by this company, and subscribe the same; and, as often as is reasonably required, shall produce for examination all books of account, bills, invoices, and other vouchers, or certified copies thereof, if originals are lost, at such reasonable time and place as is designated by this company or its representative, and shall permit extracts and copies thereof to be made.

Appraisal.—In case the insured and this company fail to agree as to the amount of loss or damage, each shall, on the written demand of either, select a competent and disinterested appraiser. The appraisers shall first select a competent and disinterested umpire, and failing for fifteen days to agree upon such umpire, then, on request of the insured or this company, the umpire shall be selected by a judge of a court of record in the state in which the property insured is located. The appraisers shall then appraise the loss and damage, stating separately sound value and loss or damage to each item; and failing to agree, shall submit their differences only to the umpire. An award in writing, so itemized, of any two, when filed with this company, shall determine the amount of sound value and loss or damage. Each appraiser shall be paid by the party selecting him, and the expenses of appraisal and umpire shall be paid by the parties equally.

Company's options.—It is optional with this company to take all, or any part, of the articles at the agreed or appraised value, and also to repair, rebuild, or replace the property lost or damaged with other of the like kind and quality within a reasonable time, on giving notice of its intention so to do within thirty days after the receipt of the proof of loss herein required; but Abandonment.—There can be no abandonment to this company of any property.

When loss payable.—The amount of loss or damage for which this company may be liable shall be payable sixty days after proof of loss, as herein provided, is received by this company and ascertainment of the loss or damage is made either by agreement between the insured and this company expressed in writing or by the filing of this company of an award as herein provided.

Suit.—No suit or action on this policy, for the recovery of a claim, shall be sustainable in any court of law or equity unless the insured has complied with all the requirements of this policy, nor unless commenced within twelve months next after the fire.

Subrogation.—This company may require from the insured an assignment of all right of recovery against any party for loss or damage to the extent that payment therefor is made by this company.

It is important that the written portions of all policies covering the same property read exactly alike. If they do not, they should be made uniform at once. (Rev. s. 4760; 1899, c. 54; 1901, c. 391, s. 4; 1915, c. 109, s. 9; C. S. 6437.)

I. THE APPLICATION AND CONTRACT IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—See 12 N. C. Law Rev. 98.

Part of Law.—The material provisions of the standard form of a fire insurance policy written in accordance with this section are those of the law. Greene v. Insurance Co., 296 N. C. 335, 145 S. E. 616.

Rights of Parties Determined from Instrument.—When a policy of insurance, in the form prescribed by this section, has been issued by an insurance company and accepted by the insured, and has thereby become effective for all purposes as their contract, the rights and liabilities of both the insurer and the insured, under the policy, must be ascertained and determined in accordance with its terms and provisions. These terms and provisions have been prescribed by statute, and are valid in all respects; they are just both to the insurer and to the insured. Each is presumed to know all the terms, provi-
II. TITLE OR INTEREST OF INSURED.

Unconditional Ownership.—The provision in a policy of fire insurance written in accordance with the standard statutory form, that the policy shall be void if the insured is not the unconditional owner of the property insured, does not prevent the binding effect of a parol agreement of insurance, looking to the delivery of the policy according to the form prescribed and evidenced by a written memorandum thereof, called a binder; and when such is shown to have been made in a manner to bind the company, it is in force from that time, and thereafter the insurer is responsible for the loss in accordance with the terms of the statutory form of policy. Lea v. Atlantic Fire Ins. Co., 168 N. C. 478, 84 S. E. 813.

Binder Slips Not Contrary to Law.—Our statute, by establishing a standard form of fire insurance, does not prevent the insurer from waiving the effect of the statutory form, which derive no extra validity by reason of the fact that the form is prescribed by law. Atlantic Joint Stock Land Bank v. Foster, 217 N. C. 415, 8 S. E. (2d) 235. The commencement of foreclosure against insured property so affects the condition therein of sole and unconditional ownership of the property insured that the condition is waived and forfeit its benefit, if made without the knowledge or consent of the insurer, and the insurer is not bound by the insurance contract, unless the company thereafter, by its acts, conduct and statements has waived the effect of the mortgage and is estopped to assert its forfeiture. Modlin v. Atlantic Fire Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 35, 65 S. E. 635.

Assignment for Creditors.—Making an assignment for creditors as a condition precedent to the issuance of a policy of fire insurance, does not prevent that the policy issued is valid and binding. Roper v. National Fire Ins. Co., 161 N. C. 151, 76 S. E. 869.

The commencement of foreclosure against insured property terminates the policy, there being in the policy a provision to that effect. Sasser v. Pilot Fire Ins. Co., 203 N. C. 333, 165 S. E. 669.

Title under Executory Contract.—A vendee of land occupying a portion of the price, and on which he has erected a building, is an "unconditional and sole owner" of the property so occupying it. Cuthberton v. North Carolina Home Ins. Co., 133 N. C. 407, 45 S. E. 773. A mortgagor under a statutory form of policy, stipulating, among other things, that the mortgagee not give a mortgage thereon which is canceled four days before the destruction of the machine by fire, this loss coming within the terms of the policy, the cancellation of the mortgage revives the original statute of the policy, the temporary violation of the stipulation being immaterial, and puts the policy again in force, the effect of the mortgage being to invalidate the policy during the continuance of the lien, or to suspend the policy to the company during the violation of the stipulation. Cottingham v. Maryland Motor Car Ins. Co., 168 N. C. 229, 84 S. E. 274.

Additional Insurance—In General.—The condition against additional insurance on the property than the policy permits, is void in accordance with the statutory form. Roper v. National Fire Ins. Co., 161 N. C. 151, 76 S. E. 869. Where a standard fire insurance policy under this section, the property and the insurer can hardly be contested at this late day. It does not apply to an agreement to insure a vested right, so that the insurer is not bound by the condition of the title after the condition is waived. Gerringer v. Atlantic Fire Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 35, 65 S. E. 635.

Right of Insurer to Know of Encumbrances.—"In referring to this principle of law in Weddington v. Piedmont Fire Ins. Co., 141 N. C. 234, 54 S. E. 271, Mr. Justice Walker says: The validity of a provision in a policy of insurance against the creating of encumbrances without the consent of the insurer can hardly be contested at this late day. It has been regarded in the preceding doctrine that facts in regard to title, ownership, encumbrances, and possession of the insured property are all important to be known by the insurer; and alteration of the title is often affected by these circumstances." Watson v. North Carolina Home Ins. Co., 159 N. C. 638, 640, 75 S. E. 1105.

Misrepresentations as to Title.—Misrepresentations as to title of part of the premises insured avoids the contract of insurance. Cuthberton v. North Carolina Home Ins. Co., 96 N. C. 480, 2 S. E. 555, citing note in 19 L. R. A. 212.

Existing Lien Will Not Invalidate Provision.—The stipulation in a fire insurance policy that the insurer is not bound by the existence of a lien on the property, is void in accordance with the statutory form of policy. Roper v. Southern Ins. Co., 153 N. C. 285, 69 S. E. 214.

Mortgagee May WAIVE WAIVER.—The mortgagee in the provision in the loss and damage clause of a fire insurance policy taken out by the mortgagee that the mortgagee will pay the premium on demand should the mortgagee not do so, is held to be a condition precedent to the protection afforded by the policy as a special contract made in his favor, and not as a covenant that he will pay the premium on demand of the insurer, upon the mortgagee's default; and upon the mortgagee's refusal or neglect to pay the premium, the insurer is entitled, with the mortgagor's demand, to claim his mortgage property from the mortgagor, and the latter may after ten days' written notice cancel the policy. Whitehead v. Wilson Knitting Mills, 194 N. C. 281, 139 S. E. 456, 56 A. L. R. 674, and cases there cited.

The insurer under Executive Contract.—A vendee of land occupying it under an executory contract, on which he has paid a portion of the purchase price, and on which he has erected a building is an "unconditional and sole owner" of the property so occupying it, and waives the condition therein of sole and unconditional ownership for the purpose of providing that it shall be void if the interest of the insured is other than sole ownership of fee title. Jordan v. Hanover Fire Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 341, 56 S. E. 456.

Mortgage Invalidates Policy.—Where the insured fails to show that the property was mortgaged, when in fact it was mortgaged, the policy providing that the contract of insurance shall be void if the insured property is mortgaged, invalidates the policy, though the omission was made without the intent to deceive. Hayes v. United States Fire Ins. Co., 132 N. C. 703, 44 S. E. 494.

Execution of a mortgage on the insured property so affects the title, as will avoid an insurance policy then existing thereon and forfeit its benefit, if made without the knowledge or consent of the insurer, and not attested as preserved by the policy or file, unless the company thereafter, by its acts, conduct and statements has waived the effect of the mortgage and is estopped to assert its forfeiture. Smith v. Southern National Fire Ins. Co., 193 N. C. 346, 137 S. E. 310.

III. CERTAIN OTHER CONDITIONS.

Additional Insurance—In General.—The condition against additional insurance on the property than the policy permits, is void in accordance with the statutory form. Black v. Atlantic Home Ins. Co., 148 N. C. 169, 61 S. E. 672.

And when under a fire insurance policy the insured has violated the provision of the policy by placing more considerable insurance on the property than the policy permits, the policy is invalid in accordance with the statutory form. Roper v. National Fire Ins. Co., 161 N. C. 151, 76 S. E. 869.

Where a standard fire insurance policy under this section provides that the policy shall be void if the policyholder procures other contemporaneous insurance on the same property during the term covered, unless the insurer agrees to reimbursement, the benefit of the agreement is void, and the policy void and binding. Johnson v. Aetna Ins. Co., 201 N. C. 362, 160 S. E. 454.
A policy of fire insurance was issued to the devisee of the insured person's estate to a large extent in favor of other beneficiaries under the will. Thereafter the guardian of such other beneficiaries took out a policy to protect the interests of the devisee. The insuring company, in removing the policy to the guardian may not avoid liability thereon, on the ground of the additional insurance issued to the owner of the fee, since such additional insurance was not under the consent of the insurer. Hence, the policy is void. Grubbs v. North Carolina Home Ins. Co., 186 N. C. 269, 119 S. E. 362. See also, Coggins v. Attna Ins. Co., 144 N. C. 7, 56 S. E. 506.

The Insurer's Waiver of Condition.—Where the insurer was told that it was all right, this constituted a waiver of the condition. Grubbs v. North Carolina Home Ins. Co., 108 N. C. 472, 13 S. E. 236.

The Iron-Safe Clause.—The "iron-safe clause" in policies of insurance is upheld by the courts as a reasonable contract limitation or rate of risk. Coggins v. Attna Ins. Co., 144 N. C. 7, 56 S. E. 506. A substantial compliance with this provision will suffice. Arnold v. Indemnity Fire Ins. Co., 152 N. C. 557, 62 S. E. 574. And an inventory of a stock of general merchandise containing the number of articles and cost of each class at a date made about one month before the fire, and testified to in court as the same at the time of the fire, is a substantial compliance with the inventory provision in the standard form of a fire insurance policy, and is competent as evidence upon the trial. Mort v. Vermont, etc., Ins. Co., 131 S. E. 867. See also, Coggins v. Attna Ins. Co., 144 N. C. 7, 56 S. E. 506.

Same—Waiver.—If the company, knowing the insured has not complied with any provision or requirement of the policy, recognizes the validity and binding force and effect of the policy it has issued, "it should not be heard to insist upon the introduction of records, the keeping of which it has thus tacitly waived."

Proof of Loss.—A clause in a policy requiring proof of loss and forbidding the bringing of any suit against the policy unless sixty days thereafter notice is given to the insurer is not a provision that the insurer has not complied with and the insurer may not avoid liability for failure to file proof within sixty days of the fire. Higson v. North River Ins. Co., 187 N. C. 472, 13 S. E. 236.

The insurer's denial of liability upon its fire insurance policy is a waiver of its right to require the proof of loss therein specified. Profit Mercantile Co. v. State Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 176 N. C. 545, 97 S. E. 476.

As to limitations, see post, this note, "Liability of Company in Case of Loss.

Operating Mill at Night.—Where an insured mill was operated at night, in violation of a policy, but under a permit from the insurance agent, such operation was no defense to an action on the policy for a loss happening three months later. The insurer was not a party to the contract between the insured and the contractor, and no notice of such violation of the policy was made to the insurer. Johnson v. Rhode Island Ins. Co., 172 N. C. 142, 186 N. C. 269, 119 S. E. 362.

Upon paying the loss by fire, insurer is entitled to subrogation to the rights of insured against the third person causing the loss, to the extent of the amount paid, both under the provisions of the statute and the general principles. Buckner v. United States Fire Ins. Co., 209 N. C. 640, 184 S. E. 520.

This section does not provide that insurer should be subrogated to rights of the mortgagee against the mortgagor.
and under the facts of this case insurer is not entitled to the subrogation claimed upon any equitable principle, and in- insurer's subrogation receipt from the mortgagee is not valid on binding as against the owner mortgagor. Id.

Where the mortgagee has insured the mortgaged property, and where the mortgagor has assumed the risk of loss under his contract of purchase, the insurer having paid the loss in question, the right of the insurer to recover may not be sold or transferred. Stuyvesant Ins. Co. v. Reid, 171 N. C. 513, 88 S. E. 779.

V. LIABILITY OF AGENT.

Where the general agent of a fire insurance company has upon petition removed a cause from the State to the Federal Court upon a policy of insurance that was void in that jurisdiction, but not in the jurisdiction of the court of this State, and the Federal Court has adjudicated that the plaintiff could not recover under the contract for a loss by fire, the plaintiff may thereafter bring action in the State court against the agents and recover damages from them in not inserting a blank in the policy that would have rendered it valid, the subject-matter of the latter action being based upon negligence and not on the policy contract, and the application of the doctrine of the election of remedies has no force. Case v. Ewbanks, Ewbanks & Co., 194 N. C. 775, 140 S. E. 709.

Where a nonresident defendant fire insurance company has upon petition removed a cause from the State to the Federal Court upon a policy of insurance that was void in that jurisdiction, but not in the jurisdiction of the court of this State, and the Federal Court has adjudicated that the plaintiff could not recover under the contract for a loss by fire, the plaintiff may thereafter bring action in the State court against the agents and recover damages from them in not inserting a blank in the policy that would have rendered it valid, the subject-matter of the latter action being based upon negligence and not on the policy contract, and the application of the doctrine of the election of remedies has no force. Case v. Ewbanks, Ewbanks & Co., 194 N. C. 775, 140 S. E. 709.

§ 58-178. Size of policy; notice; umpire; statement and blanks; policy issued to husband or wife on joint property.—No provisions of this chapter limit insurance companies to use of any particular size or manner of folding the paper upon which their policies are issued. If notice in writing signed by the insured, or his agent, is given before loss or damage by fire to the property of the company of any fact or condition stated in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), of the standard form of policy set out in § 58-177, it is equivalent to an agreement in writing added thereto, and has the force of the agreement in writing referred to in the foregoing form of policy with respect to the liability of the company and the insurer; but this notice does not affect the right of the company to cancel the policy as therein stipulated.

The resident judge of the superior court of the district in which the property insured is located is designated as the judge of the court of record to select the umpire referred to in the foregoing form of policy. When any company demands or requires the insured, under any fire insurance policy, to select the umpire referred to in the foregoing form of policy, and has the force of the agreement in writing referred to in the foregoing form of policy with respect to the liability of the company and the insurer; but this notice does not affect the right of the company to cancel the policy as therein stipulated.

Art. 20. Deposits by Foreign Fire Insurance Companies.

§ 58-182. Amount and nature of deposits re-quired.—Unless otherwise provided in this article, every fire insurance company chartered by any other state or foreign government shall, by their general agent or through some authorized officer, deliver under oath to the commissioner of insurance of this state a statement of the amount of capital stock of the company, and deposit with him bonds of the United States, or of the state of North Carolina, or of the cities or counties of this state, or first mortgages on real estate situated in this state to be approved by the commissioner of insurance, as follows: Companies whose capital stock is five hundred thousand dollars or less, ten thousand dollars; companies whose capital stock is more than five hundred thousand dollars and not over one million dollars, twenty thousand dollars; companies whose capital stock is in excess of one million dollars, twenty-five thousand dollars; and every insurance company writing a fidelity, surety or casualty business in this state shall be required to deposit with the state securities of the same class enumerated above in the following amounts: Companies whose premium income derived from this state is less than $100,000.00 per annum, $25,000.00; companies whose premium income is in excess of $100,000.00 per annum, $50,000.00; and the commissioner of insurance shall thereupon give the agent a receipt for the same. With securities so deposited the company shall at the same time deliver to the commissioner of insurance a power of attorney authorizing him to transfer said securities or any part thereof for the purpose of paying any of the liabilities provided for in this article. The commissioner of insurance shall require each company to make good any depreciation or reduction in value of the securities. The securities required to be deposited by each insurance company in this article shall be delivered for safekeeping by the commissioner of insurance to the treasurer of the state, who shall receipt him therefor. For securities so deposited the faith of the state is pledged that they shall be returned to the parties entitled to receive them or disposed of as herein provided for. The securities deposited by any company under this article shall not, on account of such securities being in this state, be subjected to taxation, but shall be held exclusively for the protection of contract holders. (1909, c. 923, s. 1; 1911, c. 164, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 62, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1915, c. 166, s. 6; 1933, c. 60; C. S. 6442.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 60, inserted the clause, about the middle of the section, requiring special deposits from casualty and surety companies.

§ 58-183. Right of company to receive interest on deposits.—The commissioner of insurance, at the time of receiving the securities, shall give to the company authority to draw the interest thereon, as the same may become due and payable, for the use of the company, and this authority shall continue in force until the company fails to pay any liability arising upon any policy made in favor of any person, firm, or corporation which shall be, at the time the liability arises, a resident of this state, or which shall own property in the state covered by policies issued. In case of such failure the corporation charged with which were paid. (1909, c. 923, s. 5; C. S. 6446.)

§ 58-184. Sale of deposits for payment of liabilities.—If the company fails to pay any of its liabilities on its contracts according to the terms thereof, after the liabilities have been adjusted between the parties in the manner prescribed by the contracts, if any manner is prescribed therefor, or after the same have been ascertained in any manner agreed upon by the parties or by the judgment, order, or decree of the court having jurisdiction of the subject, the commissioner of insurance shall, upon application of the party to whom the debt or money is due, and upon satisfactory proof that the notice herein required has been given to the company, proceed to sell at public auction such an amount of the securities as, with the interest in his hands, will pay the sum due and expenses of sale, and out of the proceeds of sale pay said sums and expenses; and the company shall be required forthwith to make good any deficit in the amount of the deposit caused by such sale. The party making application shall give to the company or to its agent in this state twenty days notice of his intention to apply to the commissioner of insurance for the sale of securities. The commissioner of insurance shall advertise the sale of the securities for thirty days prior to the day of the sale in some daily newspaper published in the city of Raleigh, and shall state in the advertisement the securities to be sold and the company depositing them, and shall mail a copy to the company. (1909, c. 923, s. 3; C. S. 6444.)

§ 58-185. Lien of policyholders; action to enforce.—Upon the securities deposited with the commissioner of insurance by any such insurance company, the holders of all contracts of the company who are citizens or residents of this state at such time, or who hold policies issued upon property in the state, shall have a lien for the amounts due them, respectively, under or in consequence of such contracts for just compensation of values, return premiums, or otherwise, and shall be entitled to be paid ratably out of the proceeds of said securities, if such proceeds be not sufficient to pay all of said contract holders. When any company depositing securities as aforesaid becomes insolvent or bankrupt or makes an assignment for the benefit of its creditors, any holder of such contract may begin an action in the superior court of the county of Wake to enforce the lien for the benefit of all the holders of such contracts. The commissioner of insurance shall be a party to the suit, and the funds shall be distributed by the court, but no cost of such suit shall be adjudged against the commissioner of insurance. (1909, c. 923, s. 4; C. S. 6446.)

§ 58-186. Substitution for securities paid.—Where the principal of any of the securities so deposited is paid to the commissioner of insurance, he shall notify the company or its agent in this state, and pay the money so received to the company upon receiving other securities of the character named in this article to an equal amount, or, upon the failure of the company for thirty days after receiving notice to deliver such securities to an equal amount to the commissioner of insurance, he may invest the money in any manner is prescribed therefor, or after the same have been ascertained in any manner agreed upon by the parties or by the judgment, order, or decree of the court having jurisdiction of the subject, the commissioner of insurance shall, upon application of the party to whom the debt or money is due, and upon satisfactory proof that the notice herein required has been given to the company, proceed to sell at public auction such an amount of the securities as, with the interest in his hands, will pay the sum due and expenses of sale, and out of the proceeds of sale pay said sums and expenses; and the company shall be required forthwith to make good any deficit in the amount of the deposit caused by such sale. The party making application shall give to the company or to its agent in this state twenty days notice of his intention to apply to the commissioner of insurance for the sale of securities. The commissioner of insurance shall advertise the sale of the securities for thirty days prior to the day of the sale in some daily newspaper published in the city of Raleigh, and shall state in the advertisement the securities to be sold and the company depositing them, and shall mail a copy to the company. (1909, c. 923, s. 3; C. S. 6444.)

§ 58-185. Lien of policyholders; action to enforce.—Upon the securities deposited with the commissioner of insurance by any such insurance company, the holders of all contracts of the company who are citizens or residents of this state at such time, or who hold policies issued upon property in the state, shall have a lien for the amounts due them, respectively, under or in consequence of such contracts for just compensation of values, return premiums, or otherwise, and shall be entitled to be paid ratably out of the proceeds of said securities, if such proceeds be not sufficient to pay all of said contract holders. When any company depositing securities as aforesaid becomes insolvent or bankrupt or makes an assignment for the benefit of its creditors, any holder of such contract may begin an action in the superior court of the county of Wake to enforce the lien for the benefit of all the holders of such contracts. The commissioner of insurance shall be a party to the suit, and the funds shall be distributed by the court, but no cost of such suit shall be adjudged against the commissioner of insurance. (1909, c. 923, s. 4; C. S. 6446.)

§ 58-187. Return of deposits.—If such company ceases to do business in this state, and its liabilities, whether fixed or contingent upon its contracts, to persons residing in this state or having policies upon property situated in this state have been satisfied or have been terminated, upon satisfactory evidence of this fact to the commissioner of insurance the state treasurer shall deliver to such company, upon the order of the commissioner of insurance, the securities in his possession belonging to it, or such of them as § 58-188. Deposit required before license granted; exception.—When any fire insurance company files an application with the commissioner of insurance to be admitted to do business in this state, he shall require of it a compliance with the provisions of this article before issuing a license to such company; but this article shall not apply to companies licensed to do a reinsurance business only. (1909, c. 923, s. 7; 1915, c. 166, s. 6; C. S. 6448.)

§ 58-189. Commissioner of insurance to procure insurance.—It is the duty of the commissioner of insurance to prepare a schedule of the different properties of the state and to procure policies of insurance thereon according to these schedules for such amounts as he is able to provide for with the provisions and appropriations for the insurance of state property, and to inspect and pass upon all policies of insurance, and he shall not permit the property to be insured or other property belonging to the state, as regards the form of contract, rate, description, and such other things as are necessary to have the policies in proper form. He shall keep a record in his department, showing the number and date of policy, the name of company, the amount insured, the amount of premium, date of expiration, the property insured, and its location. (Rev., s. 4825; 1901, c. 710, ss. 1, 2; 1903, c. 771, s. 1; 1905, c. 441; C. S. 6449.)

§ 58-190. Payment of premiums by state treasurer.—When the commissioner of insurance has placed the insurance on state property as provided for in this article and approved the bill for the same, the bill shall be paid out of the insurance appropriation of the department for which the insurance is effected, in an amount sufficient to insure the property up to fifty per centum of the scheduled value of such property, but this shall not apply to insurance on property of, or in charge of, the agricultural department and state prison. (Rev., s. 4827; 1905, c. 441, s. 2; 1919, c. 155; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 61; 1923, c. 248; 1929, c. 100; C. S. 6450.)

§ 58-191. Payment of premiums by officers in charge.—The insurance on the property of, or in charge of, the agricultural department and the state’s prison shall be for the amount agreed upon by the commissioner of insurance and the officer or officers having such property in charge, and the premiums shall be paid out of the special funds of the agricultural department and state’s prison on the order of the commissioner of insurance. Before such board, public officer, or other person charged with the custody or safekeeping of any public building or other property of the state may pay any sum of money as premium for a policy of insurance thereon, they shall receive and file among their records a certificate of the commissioner of insurance that he has examined and approved of the policies of insurance, giving the number, amount, date, and term of such policies, the property covered, and the names of the companies in which they are written. (Rev., ss. 4826, 4827; 1901, c. 710, ss. 1, 2; 1903, c. 771, ss. 2, 3; 1905, c. 441, s. 2; C. S. 6451.)

§ 58-192. Information furnished commissioner by officers in charge.—It is the duty of the different officers or boards having in their custody any property belonging to the state to inform the commissioner, giving him in detail a full description of same, and to keep him informed of any changes in such property or its location or surroundings. (Rev., s. 4828; 1901, c. 710, ss. 1, 2; 1903, c. 771, s. 2; C. S. 6452.)

§ 58-193. Commissioner to inspect state property; plans submitted.—It is the duty of the commissioner at least once in each year, or oftener, if deemed necessary, to visit, inspect, and thoroughly examine each state institution or other state property with a view to its protection from fire, as well as to the safety of its inmates or the property therein in case of fire, and call to the attention of the board or officer having the same in charge any defect noted by him or any improvement deemed necessary. No board, commission, superintendent, or other person or persons authorized and directed by law to select plans and erect buildings for the use of the state of North Carolina or any institution thereof or for the use of any county, city, or incorporated town or school district shall receive and approve of any plans until they are submitted to and approved by the commissioner of insurance of the state as to the safety of the proposed buildings from fire, as well as the protection of the inmates in case of fire. (Rev., s. 4830; 1901, c. 710, ss. 1, 2; 1903, c. 771, s. 3; 1909, c. 880; 1919, c. 186, s. 3; C. S. 6453.)

§ 58-194. Report required of commissioner.—The commissioner of insurance must submit annually to the governor a full report of his official action under this article, with such recommendations as commend themselves to him, and it shall be embodied in or attached to his biennial report to the general assembly. (Rev., s. 4830; 1901, c. 710, ss. 1, 2; 1903, c. 771, s. 4; C. S. 6454.)

SUBCHAPTER IV. LIFE INSURANCE.

Art. 22. General Regulations of Business.

§ 58-195. Life insurance company defined; requisites of contract.—All corporations, associations, partnerships, or individuals doing business in this state, under any charter, compact, agreement, or statute of this or any other state, in involving an insurance, guaranty, contract, or pledge in this state with any citizen, or resident thereof, which does not distinctly involve an insurance, guaranty, contract, or pledge in this state with any citizen, or resident thereof, which does not distinctly state the amount of benefits payable, the manner of payment, and the consideration therefor. (Rev., s. 4773; 1899, c. 54, ss. 55; C. S. 6455.)

Editor's Note.—Many of the decided cases pertaining to life insurance are necessarily determined by construing the particular policy issued in a given case, others depend upon the adjudication therewith of any conflicting stipulations in con- tracts and agency. None of these cases directly construes any provision of this code and are consequently not set out here. The following is a comprehen- sive treatment of the subject in the digests.

§ 58-196. Foreign companies; requirements for admission.—A company organized under the laws of any other country than the United States, in addition to the above require- aggregate amount of not less than five hundred thousand dollars. Any life company organized under the laws of any other country than the United States, in addition to the above require- ments, must make and maintain the deposit re- quired of such companies by article four of this chapter. (Rev. s. 4775; 1899, c. 54, s. 56; C. S. 6456.)

§ 58-197. Soliciting agent represents the company.—A person who solicits an application for in- surance upon the life of another, in any contro- versy relating thereto between the insured or his beneficiary and the company issuing a policy upon such application, is the agent of the company and not of the insured. (1907, c. 958, s. 1; C. S. 6457.)

This section does not attempt to prescribe the extent of the agent's authority or to convert a special or limited agency into one with general powers. Fountain v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 53 F. (2d) 120, 125. See also Provident Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Parsons, 70 F. (2d) 863.

Insurer Liable for Delay of Agent.—"If the defendant's agent wrongfully failed to deliver the policy within a rea- sonable short time after its receipt, during which time the plaintiff's intestate was in good health and ready, able, and willing to pay the premium on delivery, as stipulated, and plaintiff not made ill, the defendant could not withhold the delivery so as to release it from responsibility. American Trust Co. v. Life Ins. Co., 173 N. C. 158, 56, 92 S. E. 706." Fox v. Volunteer State Life Ins. Co., 185 N. C. 121, 124, 116 S. E. 256.

§ 58-198. Discrimination between insurers for- bidden.—A life insurance company doing busi- ness in this state shall not make any distinction or discrimination in favor of individuals between insurers of the same class and equal expectation of life in the amount of payment of premiums or rates charged for policies of life or endowment insurance, or in the dividends or other benefits payable thereon, or in any of the terms and conditions of the contracts it makes; nor shall any such company or any agent thereof make any contract of insurance or agreement as to such contract other than as plainly expressed in the policy issued thereon, nor pay or allow as induce- ment to insurance any rebate of premium payable on the policy, or any special favor or advantage in the dividends or other benefit to accrue thereon, or any valuable consideration or inducement whatever not specified in the policy contract of insurance; nor give, sell, or purchase, or offer to give, sell, or purchase as inducement to insurance or in any consideration therefor, any stocks, bonds, or other securities of any insurance company or other corporation, association, or partnership, or any dividends or profits to accrue therein, or anything of value whatsoever not specified in the policy. (Rev., s. 4775; 1899, c. 54, s. 57; 1903, c. 435, ss. 5, 10; 1911, c. 196, s. 7; C. S. 6458.)

Purpose of Section.—"The express provision and obvious purpose and policy of the statute are to prevent discrimi- nation as to the amount of risks accepted by insurance companies and, in aid and furtherance of this desirable purpose, to secure publicity by requiring that all the stipulations of the contract and all agreements between the insurer and the company in reference thereto shall be plainly expressed in the policy." Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.

The purpose of the statute is to require the parties to incorporate in the contract of insurance anything which may pertain to the validity of the contract at the time it is written. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Gwyes, 22 F. Supp. 645.

Collateral Agreements with Agents of Insurer.—Transac- tions up to the issuance of a policy of life insurance merge therein upon its issuance and acceptance by the insured, and, in aid of furtherance of this desirable purpose, to secure publicity by requiring that all the stipulations of the contract and all agreements between the insurer and the company in reference thereto shall be plainly expressed in the policy. Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.

When a collateral agreement delivered to insured with his policy of life insurance for the reduction of his premium thereon was made the condition of the delivery, it was necessarily a part of the contract and was to be evidenced in the policy. See Provident Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Parsons, 70 F. (2d) 863

§ 58-199. Security life insurance—Payment of premiums. —Security life insurance may be admitted to do business in this state if it complies with the requirements of this chapter and, in aid and furtherance of this desirable purpose, to secure publicity by requiring that all the stipulations of the contract and all agreements between the insurer and the company in reference thereto shall be plainly expressed in the policy. Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.

When a collateral agreement delivered to insured with his policy of life insurance for the reduction of his premium thereon was made the condition of the delivery, it was necessarily a part of the contract and was to be evidenced in the policy. Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.

Same.—Effect on Note Given in Payment of Policy. —When the insured has given his note for the premiums on his life insurance policy, and has received for one year, in consideration of the policy, the first premium to be paid thereon, he cannot avoid the note by paying the premium on the ground of his having collaterally contracted with the company for deduction of certain amount by the insurer from the advantage of the provisions of this section. Security Life, etc., Co. v. Cost- ner, 149 N. C. 293, 63 S. E. 304.

Contract Not Void under Statute.—This section does not declare that a contract with a local agent which is prohibited by the statute and not enforceable. Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.

Securities Life, etc., Co. v. Cost- ner, 149 N. C. 293, 63 S. E. 304.

"It would seem that the insured has a right to presume that the insurer has complied with all the requirements of law. Accordingly, it is held by the great weight of authority that when the insured attempts to enforce such a contract, made in good faith, against the unlicensed insurer, the latter will be estopped to escape liability under the contract by pleading his own infraction of law." Robinson v. Security Life, etc., Co., 163 N. C. 415, 421, 79 S. E. 681.

But a policyholder cannot enforce against the insurance company a severable collateral agreement to his policy contract of life insurance which is prohibited by this statute, upon the principle that the insurer is estopped from the purpose of the statute is to prevent discrimi- nation among policy holders of like class and expectancy, and, in aid and furtherance of this desirable purpose, to secure publicity by requiring that all the stipulations of the contract and all agreements between the insurer and the company in reference thereto shall be plainly expressed in the policy. Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.

Purpose of Section.—"The express provision and obvious purpose and policy of the statute are to prevent discrimi- nation as to the amount of risks accepted by insurance companies and, in aid and furtherance of this desirable purpose, to secure publicity by requiring that all the stipulations of the contract and all agreements between the insurer and the company in reference thereto shall be plainly expressed in the policy. Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.

Collateral Agreements with Agents of Insurer.—Transac- tions up to the issuance of a policy of life insurance merge therein upon its issuance and acceptance by the insured, and, in aid and furtherance of this desirable purpose, to secure publicity by requiring that all the stipulations of the contract and all agreements between the insurer and the company in reference thereto shall be plainly expressed in the policy. Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.

When a collateral agreement delivered to insured with his policy of life insurance for the reduction of his premium thereon was made the condition of the delivery, it was necessarily a part of the contract and was to be evidenced in the policy. Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.

Purpose of Section.—"The express provision and obvious purpose and policy of the statute are to prevent discrimi- nation as to the amount of risks accepted by insurance companies and, in aid and furtherance of this desirable purpose, to secure publicity by requiring that all the stipulations of the contract and all agreements between the insurer and the company in reference thereto shall be plainly expressed in the policy. Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.

Collateral Agreements with Agents of Insurer.—Transac- tions up to the issuance of a policy of life insurance merge therein upon its issuance and acceptance by the insured, and, in aid and furtherance of this desirable purpose, to secure publicity by requiring that all the stipulations of the contract and all agreements between the insurer and the company in reference thereto shall be plainly expressed in the policy. Smathers v. Bankers Life Ins. Co., 151 N. C. 98, 102, 65 S. E. 746.
The exercise of an option given by a mutual life insurance company to one of its policyholders of greater value than that given to the others is illegal and void, and the policy is void under the provisions of Section 58-199. Misrepresentations of policy forbidden. No life insurance company doing business in this state, and no officer, director, solicitor, or other agent thereof, shall make, issue, or circulate, or cause to be made, issued, or circulated any estimate, illustration, circular, or statement of any sort misrepresenting the terms of the policy issued by it or the dividends or share of surplus to be received thereon, or shall use any name or title of any policy or class of policies misrepresenting the true nature thereof. Nor shall any such company, agent, or broker make any statement or misrepresentation to any person insured in said company of or in any other company, the purpose of inducing or tending to induce such person to lapse, forfeit, or surrender his said insurance. (1913, c. 95; C. S. 6459.)

§ 58-200. Medical examination required.—No life insurance company organized under the laws of this state, or doing business in this State shall enter into any contract of insurance in any twelve months' period in an amount in excess of five thousand dollars ($5,000) upon any one life within this State without having previously made or caused to be made a prescribed medical examination of the insured by a registered medical practitioner; and provided further, that where there has been no medical examination the policy shall not be rendered void nor shall payment be resisted on account of any misrepresentation as to the physical condition of the applicant, except in cases of fraud; and provided further, that this section shall not apply to contracts of insurance issued under the group plan. (Rev., s. 4779; 1899, c. 54, s. 58; 1903, c. 438, s. 5; 1919, c. 156, s. 5; 1925 c. 82; 1927, c. 384, s. 5; 1937, c. 660.)

It was not the purpose of this section to permit a recovery on an insurance policy issued without medical examination irrespective of the facts surrounding the transaction; otherwise the expression “except in cases of fraud” would have neither meaning nor significance. Potts v. Life Ins. Co., 206 N. C. 257, 260, 174 S. E. 121.

“In cases of fraud” a policy issued without medical examination stands upon the same footing as policies issued upon other forms of examination.

Statute A Part of Contract.—The provisions of this section, that where a policy of life insurance in a sum less than $5,000 is issued without a medical examination, insurer may not avoid the policy for fraudulent misrepresentation, but that insured did not procure the policy by false and fraudulent statements, insurer may not avoid liability under the policy, the provisions of the policy in conflict with the statute being unavailing to insurer. Eckard v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 190 N. C. 422, 135 S. E. 861.

But Fraud Need Not Be Alleged in Direct Terms.—Where in an action upon an insurance policy it was conceded without proof of fraud that the insured made an application for reinstatement of a lapsed policy as well as an initial contract, it was held that the insurer’s answer set out elements of fraudulent misrepresentation sufficient to give rise to an issue and introduce the question in direct terms. Petty v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co., 210 N. C. 500, 187 S. E. 806.

§ 58-199. Misrepresentations of policy forbidden. But Fraud Need Not Be Alleged if Policy Not Issued under This Section.—A policy not issued under the provisions of this section may be avoided for material misrepresentations which induce insurer to take the risk which it would not otherwise assume; therefore insurer need not prove that the misrepresentations were intentionally made. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v. Ashby, 215 N. C. 280, 1 S. E. (2d) 680.

Policy Cannot Be Avoided unless Misrepresentations Were Fraudulently Made.—Where the jury finds that insured in a policy issued without medical examination was suffering with certain diseases stipulated in the policy as grounds for avoidance, but that insured did not procure the policy by false and fraudulent statements, insurer may not avoid liability under the policy, the provisions of the policy in conflict with the statute being unavailing to insurer. Eckard v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 190 N. C. 422, 135 S. E. 861.

§ 58-201. Domestic companies to report outstanding policies and reinsurance fund calculated. —It is the duty of every life insurance company incorporated by the laws of this state to make returns in January of each year to the commissioner of insurance, showing all its policies and annuity bonds in force on the first day of that month, with such particulars of the same as are necessary for the valuation thereof as hereinafter directed. The commissioner of insurance shall thereupon compute, or cause to be computed, the value of such policies and bonds, or what is known as the reinsurance fund thereof, according to the American actuarial experience table of mortality and interest at the rate of four and a half per cent, or according to the actuaries' mortality and four per centum interest, or according to any other recognized standard of valuation as he deems best for the security of the business and the safety of the persons insured. Upon this valuation being made and a certificate thereof furnished by the commissioner of insurance, each company shall pay to such officer, to defray the expenses thereof, the sum of one cent for every thousand dollars of the whole amount insured by its policies so valued. The reserve fund hereinafter provided for shall not be available for or used for any other purpose than the discharge of policy obligations, but is a trust fund to be held and expended only for the benefit of policyholders. In case of the insolvency of the company, the reserve of outstanding policies may, with the consent of the commissioner of insurance, be used for the reinsurance of its policies to the extent of their pro rata part thereof. (Rev., s. 4777; 1903, c. 536, s. 4; 1905, c. 410; 1907, c. 1000, s. 7; C. S. 6461.)

§ 58-202. Reinsurance of risks regulated.—No domestic life insurance company may reinsure its risks without the permission of the commissioner of insurance, except to the extent of one-half of any individual risk. The receiver of any life insurance company organized under the laws of this state, when the assets of the company are sufficient for that purpose, and the consent of two thirds of its policyholders has been secured in writing, may reinsure all the policy obligations of such company in some other solvent life insurance company, or, when the assets are insufficient to secure the reinsurance of all the policies in full, he may reinsure such a percentage of each and every policy outstanding as the assets will permit, but there must be no preference or discrimination as against any policyholder, and the contract for such reinsurance by the receiver must be approved by the commissioner of insurance of this state before it has effect. (Rev., s. 4777; 1899, c. 54, s. 58; 1903, c. 536, s. 9; C. S. 6462.)

§ 58-203. Punishment for violation of law as to reinsurance and medical examination.—If any domestic life insurance company shall reinsure its risks, except by permission of the commissioner of insurance, exceeding one-half of any individual risk, or if any life insurance company organized under the laws of, or doing business in, this state shall enter into any contract of insurance upon lives within this state without having previously made or caused to be made a prescribed medical examination of the insured by a registered medical practitioner, such insurance company, or any officer, agent, or other person soliciting or effecting or attempting to effect, a contract of insurance contrary to this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offense. (Rev., s. 3417; 1899, c. 54, s. 58; C. S. 6463.)

§ 58-204. Insurable interest as between stockholders, partners, etc.—Where two or more persons own stock or interests in the same corporation, partnership or business association and have heretofore contracted or hereafter contract with one another for the purchase, at the death of one, by the survivor or survivors of the stock, share or interest of the deceased, the person or persons making the contract of purchase shall be deemed to have, and are hereby declared to have, an insurable interest in the life or lives of the person or persons contracting to sell. (1941, c. 201.)

Editor's Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 490.

§ 58-205. Rights of beneficiaries.—When a policy of insurance is effected by any person on his own life, or on another life in favor of some person other than himself having an insurable interest therein, the lawful beneficiary thereof, other than himself or his legal representatives, is entitled to its proceeds against the creditors and representatives of the person effecting the insurance. The person to whom a policy of life insurance is made payable may maintain an action thereon in his own name. Every policy of life insurance made payable to or for the benefit of a married woman, or after his issue assigned, transferred, or in any way made payable to a married woman, or to any person in trust for her or for her benefit, whether procured by herself, her husband, or by any other person, inures to her separate use and benefit and to that of her children, if she dies in his lifetime. (Rev., ss. 4771, 4772; Const., Art. X, s. 7; 1899, c. 54, s. 59; C. S. 6464.)

See § 58-206 and notes thereto.

Editor's Note.—See 13 N. C. Law Rev. 95.

Change of Beneficiary by Insolvent Insured.—While formerly an insolvent insured could not change, according to a provision in his policy, the beneficiary of his policy of life insurance from his estate to his wife, without consideration, against the rights of his creditors, this is now changed by this section. A Pearsall v. Bloodworth, 140 N. C. 628, 140 S. E. 333; Meadows Fert. Co. v. Godley, 204 N. C. 243, 167 S. E. 816.

A beneficiary in a policy of life insurance has only a contingent interest therein, and where the insured retains the right to change the beneficiary by the terms of the policy, he may do so, and where upon the death of the beneficiary the insured changes the beneficiary, in accordance with the terms of the policy, to a trustee for the use of certain creditors and heirs at law of the insured, the other creditors may not claim that the change in the beneficiary was void as being fraudulent as to them. Teague v. Fleet Life Ins. Co., 200 N. C. 450, 157 S. E. 421.

Rights Vest on Delivery of Policy.—"A policy of insurance is essentially like a gift by will, the only difference being that in the case of a policy of insurance the beneficiary acquires a vested interest when a policy is delivered, which becomes vested in possession or enjoyment at the death of the assured; while in the case of a gift by will it does not vest until the death of the testator. In other respects, and particularly in the case of a testamentary gift, they are alike. If a bequest is made to A. for life, with remainder to his children, those in esse at the death of the testator take a vested estate, which is open, however, and let in any after-born child of the testator's own stock or interests in the same corporate body, and if it takes the policy, as a contract between the company and the assured, as to those then in esse, but will come and let in any after-born child, and, in this case, whether of the first or second marriage. If they come within the general description, they will share under the policy." And in case of death of one of the children his or her share will go to the personal representative of that child. Scull v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 132 N. C. 30, 31, 43 S. E. 504.

Same—Beneficiary Dead.—When a person effecting a life insurance contract for the benefit of his wife and children, and at the time the policy was issued he had no wife, but did have two children, one of whom died before A.: Held, that upon A.'s death the money due on the policy should be divided between the surviving child and the administrator of the dead child. The insertion of "his wife" as a beneficiary, when he had no wife living, was a nullity. Hooker v. Sugg, 102 N. C. 115, 8 S. E. 775.

Relation of Beneficiary to Insurer.—The terms of the policy constitute a contract of the company to pay the specified amount to the beneficiary, and create direct legal rights between them. Hooker v. Sugg, 102 N. C. 115, 8 S. E. 919; Simmons v. Biggs, 99 N. C. 236, 5 S. E. 235. Under an ordinary policy the beneficiary has such an interest in the policy as to be entitled to the company to recover upon the death of the insured if the premiums have been paid and the insurance policy is otherwise in force, unless the insurance company can show it had been lawfully surrendered by her consent, or that the insured had duly and legally exercised the power reserved or permitted, and whether the policy is made payable to the person so effecting the same, whether or not the right to change the beneficiary is reserved or permitted, and whether or not the policy is made payable to the person whose life is insured if the beneficiary or assignee thereof, other than the insured or the person so effecting such insurance, or his executors or administrators, shall be entitled to its proceeds and avails against creditors and representatives of the insured and of the person effecting the same, whether or not the right to change the beneficiary is reserved or permitted, and whether or not the policy is made payable to the person whose life is insured if the beneficiary or assignee thereof shall predecease such person: Provided, that subsection (b) of this section shall not apply to life insurance policies written before the effective date of the statute. Com'r of Banks v. Yelverton, 204 N. C. 441, 168 S. E. 505.

58-206. Creditors deprived of benefits of life insurance policies except in cases of fraud.—If a policy of insurance, is effected by any person on his own life or on another life, in favor of a person other than himself, or, except in cases of transfer with intent to defraud creditors, if a policy of life insurance is assigned or in any way made payable to any such person, the lawful beneficiary is reserved or permitted, and whether or not the policy is made payable to the person so effecting such insurance, or his executors or administrators, shall be entitled to its proceeds and avails against creditors and representatives of the insured and of the person effecting the same, whether or not the right to change the beneficiary is reserved or permitted, and whether or not the policy is made payable to the person whose life is insured if the beneficiary or assignee thereof shall predecease such person: Provided, that subsection (b) of this section shall not apply to life insurance policies written before the effective date of the statute. Com'r of Banks v. Yelverton, 204 N. C. 441, 168 S. E. 505.

Editor's Note.—This section, in form an independent statute, contains provisions generally similar to §§ 58-207. § 58-207. Notice of nonpayment of premium required before forfeiture.—No life insurance corporation doing business in this state shall, within one year after the default in payment of any premium, installment, or interest, declare forfeited or lapsed any policy hereafter issued or renewed and not issued upon the payment of monthly or weekly premiums, or unless the same is a term insurance contract for one year or less, nor shall any such policy be forfeited or lapsed by reason of nonpayment, when due, of any premium, interest, or installment or any portion thereof required by the terms of the policy to be paid, within one year from the failure to pay such premium, interest, or installment, unless a written or printed notice stating the amount of such premium, interest, installment, or portion thereof due on such policy, the place where it shall be paid, and the person to whom the same is payable has been duly addressed and mailed, postage paid, to the person whose life is insured or the assignee of the policy, if notice of the assignment has been given to the corporation, at his or her last known postoffice address in this state, by the corporation or by any officer thereof or person appointed by it to collect such premium, at least fifteen and not more than forty-five days prior to the day when the same is payable, as regards policies which do not contain a provision for grace or are not entitled to grace in the payment of premiums and at least five and not more than forty-five days prior to the day when the same is payable, as regards policies which do contain a provision for grace or are entitled to grace in the payment of premiums. The notice shall also state that unless such premium, interest, installment, or portion thereof then due shall be paid to the corporation or to the duly appointed agent or person authorized to collect such premium, by or before the day it falls due, the policy and all payments thereon will become forfeited and void, except as to the right to a surrender value or paid-up policy, as in the contract provided. If the payment demanded by such notice shall be made within its time limit therefor, it shall be taken to be in full compliance with the requirements of the policy in respect to the due date of such payment, and no such policy shall in any case be forfeited or declared forfeited or lapsed until the expiration of thirty days after the mailing of such notice. The affidavit of any officer, clerk, or agent of the corporation, or of any one authorized to mail such notice, that the notice required by this section was duly addressed and mailed by the corporation issuing such policy, shall be presumptive evidence that such notice has been duly given and shall constitute a waiver of the insured's rights, if the same is received within three years from the day upon which default was made in paying the premium, installment, interest, or portion thereof for which it is claimed that forfeiture ensued.

No insurance company doing business in this State and issuing health and/or accident insurance policies, other than contracts of group insurance or disability and/or accidental death benefits in connection with policies of life insurance, the premium for which is to be collected in weekly, monthly, or other periodical installments by authority of a payroll deduction order executed by the assured and delivered to such insurance company or the assured's employer authorizing the deduction of such premium in the form of a payroll deduction, wages, shall, during the period for which such policy is issued, declare forfeited or lapse any such policy hereafter issued or renewed until and unless a written or printed notice of the failure of the employer to remit said premium or installment thereof stating the amount or portion thereof due on such policy and to whom it must be paid, has been duly addressed and mailed to the person who is insured under such policy at least fifteen days before said policy is cancelled or lapse.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the last two sentences to the first paragraph of this section. The Act of 1941 added the second paragraph.

Forfeiture by Unpaid Check.—"An agreement that a check is received in satisfaction of a note is not implied from the tender open. An application for reinstatement does not constitute a waiver by the insurer of forfeiture. Sellers v. Life Ins. Co. of Virginia, 222 N. C. 742, 743, 24 S. E. 2d (1943)." By authority of a payroll deduction order executed by the assured and delivered to such insurance company, or the assured's employer, the premium for which is to be collected in weekly, monthly, or other periodical installments from the assured's salary or wages, shall, during the period for which such policy is issued, declare forfeited or lapse any such policy hereafter issued or renewed until and unless a written or printed notice of the failure of the employer to remit said premium or installment thereof stating the amount or portion thereof due on such policy and to whom it must be paid, has been duly addressed and mailed to the person who is insured under such policy at least fifteen days before said policy is cancelled or lapse.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the last two sentences to the first paragraph of this section. The Act of 1941 added the second paragraph.

Forfeiture by Unpaid Check.—"An agreement that a check is received in satisfaction of a note is not implied from the surrender or cancellation of the note. Until the check was presented for payment, it was the duty of the insurer, as holder of a note, to make demand on the person from whom the note was due the time to which it was extended, the policy was by its terms forfeited. Forfeitures, it is true, are not favored in the law, but promptness of payment is essential in the business of life insurance. Philadelphia Life Ins. Co. v. Hayworth, 296 Fed. 339, 343.

Notice of Forfeiture.—It is incumbent upon the insurance company to give notice that the premiums are due and that policy is not subject to forfeiture until 30 days after such notice is given. Aiken v. Atlantic Life Ins. Co., 173 N. C. 400, 92 S. E. 184.

Same.—Policy Issued before Statute.—Where an old policy issued before this statute was withdrawn and a new policy issued after this statute, notice must be given in accordance with the statute in order to have a legal forfeiture. Garland v. Jefferson Standard Life Ins. Co., 179 N. C. 67, 101 S. E. 516.

Same.—After Reinstatement.—Where there has been a default in payment of premiums, a new certificate and secured a reinstatement and an extension of time for payment, it is not necessary to again give the statutory notice of the time when the extension notes will become due. Philadelphia Life Ins. Co. v. Hayworth, 296 Fed. 339.

Waiver of Forfeiture.—Where a policy of life insurance is forfeited for failure to pay at maturity, notice given for the extension of payment of premium, the mailing of notice of the next regular quarterly premium by the insurer in compliance with this section, which notice does not demand payment of the balance due on the extended premium, is not a waiver by the insurer of forfeiture. Sellers v. Life Ins. Co., 205 N. C. 355, 171 S. E. 328.

Making Sufficient Tender.—After tender and failure of insurer to accept the tender the insurer must have to keep the tender open. An application for reinstatement does not alter the insured's rights, if the policy has not been forfeited. Aiken v. Atlantic Life Ins. Co., 173 N. C. 400, 92 S. E. 184.

Three Year Limitation.—In an action for the recovery of premiums paid on forfeited policies issued on the lives of relatives, where the evidence was to the effect that such policies were canceled for the nonpayment of premiums on 19 March, 1936, and that summons was issued 17 February, 1942, the action was barred by this section and § 1-52. Byrnes v. Life Ins. Co. of Virginia, 222 N. C. 742, 743, 24 S. E. 2d (1943).

§ 58-208. Minimum premium rates for assessment life insurance companies.—No assessment life insurance corporation, organization or association of any kind issuing policies or contracts upon the life of any resident of this state shall hereafter be organized or exist by the commissioner of insurance unless such corporation, organization or association adopt premium rates based upon the attained age of the assured at the time of issuance of the contract and such rates shall not be less than those fixed by the American Experience Table of Mortality or any other recognized table of mortality approved by the commissioner of insurance. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to affect burial associations regulated under §§ 58-224 to 58-241, or railroad burial associations. (1939, c. 161.)

Editor's Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 352.

§ 58-209. Distribution of surplus in mutual companies.—Every life insurance company doing business in this state upon the principle of mutual insurance, or the members of which are entitled to share in the surplus annually, or once in two, three, four, or five years, as its directors determine. In determining the amount of the surplus to be distributed there shall be reserved an amount not less than the aggregate net value of all the outstanding policies, this value to be computed by the American Experience Table of Mortality with interest not exceeding four and one-half per cent. (Rev., s. 4776; 1903, c. 536, s. 10; C. S. 6466.)

§ 58-210. Definition of group life insurance.—Group life insurance is hereby declared to be that form of life insurance covering not less than fifty employees with or without medical examination, written under a policy issued to the employer, the premium on which is to be paid by the employer or by the employer and employees jointly, and insuring only all of his employees, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to the employment, for amounts of insurance based upon any plan which will preclude individual selection, for the benefit of persons other than the employer: Provided, however, that when the premium is to be paid by the employer and employees jointly and the benefits of the policy are offered to all eligible employees, not less than seventy-five per centum of such employees may be so insured. Such group policy may provide that the term "employees" shall include the officers, managers and employees of subsidiary or affiliated corporations and the individual proprietors, partners and employees of affiliated individuals and firms, when the business of such subsidiary or affiliated corporations, firms or individuals is controlled by the common employer through stock ownership, contract or otherwise.

The following form of life insurance is hereby declared to be group life insurance within the meaning of this law: Life insurance issued to a creditor or vendor, who or which shall be deemed to be the policyholder and for the purpose of this section the employer, insuring only all of the members, or only all of the members except those as to whom the evidence of insurability submitted is not satisfactory to the insurer, of a group of debtors or vendees, defined as follows: All of the borrowers, or borrowers and guarantors of borrowers, from one financial or other institution or from such institution and its subsidiary or affiliated companies, or all of the purchasers of securities, merchandise or other property from one vendor, or all of any class or classes of such debtors or purchasers determined by conditions pertaining to the type of indebtedness or purchase, under agreements by such debtors or such purchasers for the payment of the sum borrowed or the balance of the purchase price, as the case may be, in installments over a period of not more than ten years; when the premium, or any part thereof, for such insurance is to be paid, either directly or indirectly, by the insured debtors, guarantors, or debtors or vendees and the benefits of the policy are offered to all eligible debtors, guarantors of debtors or vendees, not less than seventy-five per centum of such debtors, guarantors of debtors or vendees may be so insured; no such group shall be eligible for insurance hereunder unless the new entrants to such group number at least one hundred persons annually; such policy may be issued to an assignee to whom such group shall be eligible for insurance hereunder and that no such statement shall be used in defense to a claim under the policy, unless it is contained in a written application.

(a) A provision that the policy shall be contestable after two years from its date of issue, except for nonpayment of premium and except for violation of the conditions of the policy relating to military or naval service in time of war.

(b) A provision that the policy, the application of the employer and the individual applicants, if any, of the employees insured, shall constitute the entire contract between the parties, and that all statements made by the employer or by the individual employees shall, in the absence of fraud, be deemed representations and not warranties, and that no such statement shall be used in defense to a claim under the policy, unless it is contained in a written application.

(c) A provision for the equitable adjustment of the premiums or the amount of insurance payable in the event of a misstatement in the age of the employee.

(d) A provision that the company will issue to the employer for delivery to the employee whose life is insured under such policy, an individual certificate setting forth a statement as to the insurance protection to which he is entitled, to whom payable, together with provision to the effect that in case of the termination of the employment for any reason whatsoever the employee shall be entitled to have issued to him by the company, without evidence of insurability, and upon application made to the company within thirty-one days after such termination, and upon the payment of the premium applicable to the class of risk to which he belongs and to the form and amount of the policy at his then attained age, a policy of life insurance in any one of the forms customarily issued by the company, except term insurance, in an amount equal to the amount of his protection under such group insurance policy at the time of such termination. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply to policies described in the second paragraph of § 58-210.

(e) A provision that to the group or class thereof originally insured shall be added from time to time all new employees of the employer eligible to insurance in such group or class.

Except as provided in this chapter it shall be unlawful to make a contract of life insurance covering a group in this State. Policies of group life insurance, when issued in this State by any company not organized under the laws of this State, may contain, when issued, any provision required by the law of the state, territory, or district of the United States under which the company is organized; and policies issued in other states or countries by companies organized in this State, may contain any provision required by the laws of the State, territory, district or county in which the same are issued, anything in this section to the contrary notwithstanding. Any such policy may be issued or delivered in this State which in the opinion of the commissioner of insurance contains provisions on any one or more of the several foregoing requirements more favorable to the employer or to the employee than hereinbefore required. (1925, c. 58, s. 5; 1943, c. 597, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment added the second sentence of subsection (6).

§ 58-212. Voting power under policies of group life insurance.—In every group policy issued by a domestic life insurance company, the employer shall be deemed to be the policyholder for all purposes within the meaning of this chapter, and, if entitled to vote at meetings of the company, shall be entitled to one vote thereat. (1925, c. 58, s. 3.)

§ 58-213. Exemption from execution. — No policy of group insurance, nor the proceeds there[or, when paid to any employee or employees thereunder, shall be liable to attachment, garnishment, or other process, or to be seized, taken, appropriated or applied by any legal or equitable process or operation of law, to pay any debt or liability of such employee, or his beneficiary, or any other person who may have a right thereunder, either before or after payment; nor shall the proceeds thereof, when not made payable to a named beneficiary, constitute a part of the estate of the employee for the payment of his debts. (1925, c. 58, s. 4.)

Art. 23. Registered Policies.

§ 58-214. Deposits to secure registered policies.—Any life insurance company, incorporated under the laws of this state, may deposit with the commissioner of insurance securities of the kind described in article six of this chapter, for the investment of the capital of insurance companies, or farm loan bonds issued by the federal land banks, or notes secured by real estate situated in another state approved by the committee hereinafter designated, to any amount not less than ten thousand dollars, which shall be legally transferred by it to him as commissioner of insurance and his successors for the common benefit of all the holders of its "registered" policies and annuity bonds issued under the provisions of this article; and these securities shall be held by him and his successors in office in trust for the purposes and objects specified herein.

All securities offered to the commissioner of insurance for deposit under this section shall, before acceptance by him, be approved by a committee, composed of the commissioner, the state treasurer, and the attorney-general; and when the securities are of the character prescribed by law and approved by a majority of the committee, the commissioner of insurance shall list them in a book of records kept in his department for that purpose. The committee shall endorse on the record, at the end of the list of the securities, its approval of the securities named in the list. The record shall contain a separate list or account of the securities deposited by each insurance company, so kept as to show at all times the total value of all securities on deposit for each company. No security may be withdrawn or substituted except upon the approval of the committee. All the securities, after being approved and listed, shall be deposited with the state treasurer, who shall give his receipt to the commissioner of insurance for them. The committee shall, twice a year, in the months of June and December, review and assess the value of all securities on deposit under this section. (Rev., s. 4780; 1905, c. 504, s. 12; 1009, c. 920, ss. 1, 2; 1911, c. 140, s. 1; 1917, c. 191, s. 2; C. S. 6467.)

Cross References.—As to investments in bonds guaranteed by the United States, see § 53-44. As to investments in bonds and notes secured by mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration, see § 33-45. See also § 10-50 as to investments in Federal Farm loan bonds, and see § 142-29 as to investments in refunding bonds of North Carolina.

§ 58-215. Additional deposits may be required.—Each company which has made deposits herein provided for shall make additional deposits from time to time, as the commissioner of insurance prescribes, in amounts of not less than five thousand dollars and of such securities as are described in the preceding section, so that the market value of the securities deposited shall always equal the net value of the registered policies and annuity bonds issued by the company, less such liens not exceeding such value as the company has against it. No company organized under this chapter shall be required to make such deposit until the net value of the policies in force, as ascertained by the commissioner of insurance, exceeds the amount deposited by said company under the preceding section. As long as any licensed company maintains its deposits as herein prescribed at an amount equal to or in excess of the net value of its registered policies and annuity bonds, as aforesaid, it is the duty of the commissioner of insurance to sign and affix his seal to the certificates, as required in this article, on every policy and annuity bond presented to him for that purpose by any company so depositing. (Rev., s. 4781; 1905, c. 504, s. 15; 1009, c. 920, s. 8; 1911, c. 140, s. 2; 1917, c. 191, s. 3; C. S. 6468.)

§ 58-216. Withdrawal of deposits.—Any such company whose deposits exceed the net value of all registered policies and annuity bonds it has in force, less such liens not exceeding such value as the company holds against them, may withdraw such excess or it may withdraw any of such securities at any time by depositing in their place others of equal value and of the character authorized by law; and as long as such company remains solvent and keeps up its deposits, as herein required, it may collect the interest and coupons on the securities deposited as they accrue; and any life insurance company may withdraw such securities by and with the consent of the policyholder only; and in case of such withdrawal, the certificate of registration in each case must be surrendered for cancellation, or a receipt from the policyholder, satisfactory to the commissioner of insurance, must be produced before such withdrawal of deposits shall be allowed. (Rev., s. 4782; 1905, c. 504, s. 18; 1911, c. 134; C. S. 6469.)

§ 58-217. Manner of keeping deposits. — The securities deposited under this article shall be deposited and kept in the manner required by law for the keeping of other deposits of insurance companies, but separate from other deposits of the company. (Rev., s. 4783; 1905, c. 504, s. 19; C. S. 6470.)

§ 58-218. Record of securities kept by commissioner; deficit made good. — The commissioner of insurance shall keep a careful record of the securities deposited by each company, and when furnishing the annual certificates of value hereafter required in this article, he may enter thereon the face and market value of the securities deposited by such company. If at any time it appears from such certificate or otherwise that the value of securities held on deposit is less than the net value of the registered policies and annuity bonds issued by such companies, it is not lawful for the commissioner of insurance to execute the certificate on any additional policies or annuity bonds of such company until it has made good the deficit. If any company fails or neglects to make such deposits for sixty days it shall be deemed to be insolvent and shall be proceeded against in the manner provided by law in such cases. (Rev., s. 4784; 1905, c. 504, s. 16; C. S. 6471.)

§ 58-219. Registered policies certified. — After making the deposits provided for in this article no company may issue a policy of insurance or endowment or an annuity bond known or designated as "registered" unless it has upon its face a certificate in the following words: "This policy or annuity bond is registered and secured by pledge of bonds and stocks, or securities deposited with this department as provided by law," which certificate shall be signed by the commissioner of insurance and sealed with the seal of his office. Such policies and bonds shall be numbered as "registered" policies and annuity bonds, and a sample copy of such kind, class, and issue shall be kept in the office of the commissioner of insurance. All policies and bonds of each kind and class issued, and the copies thereof, filed in the office of the commissioner of insurance must have imprinted thereon some appropriate designating letter, combination of letters or terms identifying the special forms of contract, together with the year of adoption of such form, and whenever any change or modification is made in the form of contracts, policy, or bond, the designating letters or terms and year of adoption thereon shall be changed accordingly. (Rev., s. 4785; 1905, c. 504, s. 33; C. S. 6472.)

§ 58-220. Deposit for, and registration of, unregistered policies. — Every company which has made the deposit herein provided for may, at any time after the date on which it was made, deposit with the commissioner of insurance securities of the kind herein mentioned and in accordance with the provisions hereof, in an amount, inclusive of any amount deposited under the provisions of this law, equal to the net value of any nonregistered policies and annuity bonds which it has in force at that time, less such liens not exceeding such actual cash value as the company has against them, and the commissioner of insurance shall, when requested so to do, furnish such company with a certificate of the description mentioned in § 58-219, to be attached to each of said policies and annuity bonds. The commissioner of insurance shall enter upon each of such certificates the number of the policy or annuity bond to which it belongs and make a record of the same in his department. (Rev., s. 4786; 1905, c. 504, s. 17; C. S. 6473.)

§ 58-221. Record to be kept by commissioner; valuation; mutilated policies. — The commissioner of insurance shall prepare and keep such registers of registered policies and annuity bonds of such company until it has made the deposit herein provided for may, at any time after the date on which it was made, deposit with the commissioner of insurance securities of the kind herein mentioned and in accordance with the provisions hereof, in an amount, inclusive of any amount deposited under the provisions of this law, equal to the net value of any nonregistered policies and annuity bonds which it has in force at that time, less such liens not exceeding such actual cash value as the company has against them, and the commissioner of insurance shall, when requested so to do, furnish such company with a certificate of the description mentioned in § 58-219, to be attached to each of said policies and annuity bonds. The commissioner of insurance shall enter upon each of such certificates the number of the policy or annuity bond to which it belongs and make a record of the same in his department. (Rev., s. 4786; 1905, c. 504, s. 17; C. S. 6473.)

§ 58-222. Power of commissioner in case of insolvency. — If at any time the affairs of a life insurance company which has deposited securities under the provisions of this article, in the opinion of the commissioner of insurance, appear in such condition as to render the issuing of additional policies and annuity bonds by such company injurious to the public interest, the commissioner of insurance may take such proceedings against the § 58-223. Fees for registering policies.—Every company making deposits under the provisions of this article must pay to the commissioner of insurance for each certificate on registered policies or annuity bonds, including seal, a fee of fifty cents for those exceeding ten thousand dollars in amount and twenty-five cents for all under ten thousand dollars in amount, except policies for one hundred dollars and not exceeding five hundred dollars the fee shall be fifteen cents; for policies of one hundred dollars or less the fee shall be ten cents; for each certificate, including seal, for nonregistered policies issued in accordance with the provisions of this article, the fee shall be twenty-five cents. (Rev., s. 4788; 1905, c. 504, s. 20; C. S. 6475.)

§ 58-224. Mutual burial associations placed under supervision of burial association commissioner.—All mutual burial associations now organized and operating in the state of North Carolina, and all mutual burial associations hereafter organized and operating within said state, shall be under the general supervision of a burial association commissioner to be appointed by the governor of the state of North Carolina, whose term shall be for a period of four years and his salary to be fixed by the governor. (1941, c. 130, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—This and the following sections down through § 58-241 are effective from July 1, 1941.

§ 58-225. Maintenance of separate branches, when operated for benefit of both races.—All burial associations now operating in the state of North Carolina and all burial associations hereafter organized and operated in the state of North Carolina, for the benefit of both races, shall maintain and operate two separate branches, and the provisions of article 24 shall apply to each branch as a separate association, except as hereinafter provided. (1941, c. 130, s. 3.)

§ 58-226. Requirements as to rules and by-laws.—All burial associations now operating within the state of North Carolina, and all burial associations hereafter organized and operating within the state of North Carolina shall have and maintain rules and by-laws embodying in substance the following:

Article 1. The name of this association shall be ………, which shall indicate that said association is a mutual burial association.

Article 2. The objects and purposes for which this association is formed and the purposes for which it has been organized, and the methods and plan of operation of any association already organized, shall be to provide a plan for each member of this association for the payment of one funeral benefit for each member, which benefit shall consist of a funeral in merchandise and service, with no free embalming or free ambulance service included in such benefits; and in no case shall any cash be paid. That no other free service or any other thing free shall be held out, promised or furnished in any case. Such funeral benefit shall be in the amount of one hundred dollars ($100.00) of merchandise and service, without free embalming or free ambulance service, for persons of the age of ten years and over, and in the amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) for persons under the age of ten years.

Article 3. Any person of either the white or colored race who has passed his or her first birthday, and who has not passed his or her sixteenth birthday, and who is in good health and not under treatment of any physician, nor confined in any institution for the treatment of mental or other disease, may become a member of such burial association by the payment of a membership fee of such person, or for such person and his family. (1905, c. 504, s. 21; C. S. 6475.) modified as may be made or authorized by an act of the general assembly. The secretary-treasurer shall keep a record of all assessments made, dues collected and benefits paid. The books of the association, together with all records and bank accounts shall be at all times open to the inspection of the burial association commissioner or his duly constituted auditors or representatives.

It shall be the duty of the secretary or secretary-treasurer of each association to keep the books of the association posted up to date so that the financial standing of the association may be readily ascertained by the burial association commissioner or any auditor or representative employed by him. Upon the failure of any secretary or secretary-treasurer to comply with this provision, it shall be the duty of the burial association commissioner to employ an auditor or bookkeeper to take charge of the books of the association and do whatever work is necessary to bring the books up to date. The burial association commissioner shall have the power and authority to set a fee sufficient to pay the said auditor or bookkeeper for the work done upon the books of said association and the secretary or secretary-treasurer of the association shall pay the fees so specified by the burial association commissioner out of the funds of the burial association. This fee must be included in the twenty-five per cent allowed by law for the operation of the burial associations.

Article 5. Upon the death of any officer, his successor shall be elected by the board of directors for the unexpired term. The president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer shall be elected for a term of from one to five years, and shall hold office until his successor is elected and qualified, subject to the power of the board of directors to remove any officer for good cause shown: Provided, that any officer removed by the board of directors shall have the right of appeal to the membership of the association, such appeal to be heard at the next ensuing annual meeting of said membership.

Article 6. Each member shall be assessed according to the following schedule (or in multiples thereof) at the age of entry of the member: Provided such person shall at the age of entry of the member: Provided such person shall at the age of entry of the member:

Assessment Rate for Age Groups:

(Ages shall be defined as having passed a certain birthday instead of nearest birthday.) Assessment shall always be made on the entire membership in good standing.

Article 7. No benefit will be paid for natural death occurring within thirty days from the date of the certificate of membership, which certificate shall express the true date such person becomes a member of this association, and the certificate issued shall be in acknowledgment of membership in this association. Benefits will be paid for death caused by accidental means occurring any time after date of membership certificate. No benefits will be paid in case of suicidal death of any member within one year from the date of the membership certificate. No agent or other person shall have authority to issue membership certificates in the field, but such membership certificates shall be issued at the home office of the association by duly authorized officers: The president, vice-president or secretary, and a record thereof duly made.

Article 8. Any member failing to pay any assessment within thirty days after notice shall be in bad standing, and unless and until restored, shall not be entitled to benefits. Notice shall be presumed duly given when mailed, postage paid, to the last known address of such members: Provided, moreover, that notice to the head of a family shall be construed as notice to the entire membership of such family in said association. Any member or head of a family changing his or her address shall give notice to the secretary-treasurer in writing of such change, giving the old address as well as the new, and the head of a family notifying the secretary-treasurer of change in address shall list with the secretary in such notice all the members of his or her family having membership in said association. Any member in bad standing may, within ninety days after the date of an assessment notice, be reinstated to good standing by the payment of all delinquent dues and assessments. Provided such person shall at the same time submit to the secretary-treasurer satisfactory evidence of good health, in writing, and no benefit will be paid for natural death occurring within thirty days after reinstatement. In case of death caused by accidental means, benefit will be in force immediately after reinstatement. Any person desiring to discontinue his membership for any reason shall communicate such desire to the secretary-treasurer immediately and surrender his or her certificate of membership. Any adult member who is the head of a family, and who, with his family, has become in bad standing, shall furnish to the secretary-treasurer satisfactory evidence of the good health of each member desired to be reinstated in writing.

Article 9. The benefits herein provided are for the purpose of furnishing a funeral and burial service for a deceased member. The service shall be in keeping with the services and casket, sold at the same price, similar to that provided and charged by reputable funeral directors of this or other like communities.

Article 10. It is understood and stipulated that the funeral and burial service provided in article nine hereof shall be rendered by (give name of funeral director and town) as and until the funeral director is designated in these rules and by-laws as the official funeral director of this association, and such funeral director shall be, by the secretary-treasurer of this association, immediately notified upon the death of any member, and upon the death of any member it shall be the duty of his or her nearest relative to notify the secretary-treasurer of the association of the death of such member. In the event a member in good standing shall die at a place beyond the territory served by the above named funeral director, the secretary of this association, being notified of such death, shall cause the deceased to receive a funeral and burial service equal to that provided for in these by-laws. The benefits provided for are to be payable to the funeral director rendering such funeral and burial service, which payment the secretary-treasurer is authorized to make. If the secretary-treasurer of the association shall fail, on demand, to provide the benefits as listed in article nine of these rules and by-laws by arrangement with the official funeral director serving the community in which the services are required, then the benefits shall be paid in cash to the representative of the deceased qualified under law to receive such payments.

Article 11. If the proceeds of one assessment on the entire membership produces more than enough for burial or burials, on account of which said assessment is made, then the balance shall be placed in the treasury of the association to apply on future burials. Assessments shall be made in such multiples of the assessment rate as is necessary to provide a fund to take care of anticipated deaths. Whenever possible, assessments will be made at definitely stated intervals so as to reduce the cost of collection and to prevent lapse.

Article 12. In the event the proceeds of one assessment on the entire membership does not prove sufficient at any time to yield the benefit provided for in these by-laws, then the secretary-treasurer shall notify the burial association commissioner who shall be authorized, unless the membership is increased to that point where such assessment is sufficient, to cause liquidation of said association, and may transfer all members in good standing to a like organization or association.

Article 13. All legitimate operating expenses of the association shall be paid out of the assessments made at definitely stated intervals so as to reduce the cost of collection and to prevent lapse. In the expenses of operation shall be included an amount sufficient to pay burial association commissioner and two or more auditors, with office expenses, all not to exceed an outlay of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00) per year.

Article 14. Special meetings of the association membership may be called by the secretary-treasurer when by him deemed necessary or advisable, and he shall call a meeting when petitioned to do so by sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of the members of said association who are in good standing.

Article 15. The secretary-treasurer shall, upon satisfactory evidence that membership was granted to any person not qualified at the time of entry as provided under article three of these by-laws, refund any amounts paid as assessment, and shall record the same in the membership roll.

Article 16. Any member may call a meeting when petitioned to do so by fifty per cent of the members present in good standing. In case of a tie vote, the secretary-treasurer shall have full power and authority to issue such license upon proof satisfactory to such commissioner that such person is capable of soliciting burial association memberships, is of good moral character and recommended by the association in behalf of which such membership solicitations are to be made. The burial association commissioner may reject the application of any person who does not meet the requirements set out by him as to capacity and moral fitness on recommendations by the association. Upon the issuing of a license to solicit membership in any burial association, such person shall be required to pay in cash, at the time of issuing license to such applicant, to the burial association commissioner, the sum of ten dollars ($10.00); moneys derived from this fee or charge to be and remain in the department or office of such burial association commissioner, for supervision of burial associations in this state, subject to withdrawal for expenses of supervision by authority of the burial association commissioner. It shall not be necessary that the president or secretary-treasurer of any burial association shall obtain a license for soliciting membership in any association, of which such person is president or secretary-treasurer. Membership certificates shall not be issued by a solicitor in the field, but shall be reported to the office of the association and there issued and a record made of such issuance at the time such certificate is so issued. (1941, c. 130, s. 5.)

§ 58-228. Assessments against associations for supervision expense.—In order to meet the expense of supervision, the burial association commissioner shall prorate the amount of supervisory cost over and above any other funds in his hands for this purpose and assess each association on a pro rata basis in accordance with the number of members of each association, which assessment shall in no case exceed twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00), and such association shall remit to the burial association commissioner his pro rata part of the assessment as fixed by the burial association commissioner, which expense shall be included in the twenty-five per cent expense allowance as provided in article thirteen. This assessment shall be made on the first day of July of each and every year and said assessment shall be paid within thirty days thereafter. In case any association shall fail or refuse to pay such assessment within thirty days, it shall be the duty of the burial association commissioner to transfer all memberships and assets of every kind and description to the association or other organization or official thereof. (1941, c. 130, s. 6; 1943, c. 272, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment added the second and third sentences, and inserted in the first sentence the words "which assessment shall in no case exceed twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00)."

§ 58-229. Unlawful to operate without written authority of commissioner.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, association or organization to organize, operate, or in any way solicit members for a burial association, or for participation in any plan, scheme, or device similar to burial associations, without the written authority of the burial association commissioner, and any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00) or imprisoned not less than thirty days in jail, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1941, c. 130, s. 7.)

§ 58-230. Penalty for failure to operate in substantial compliance with article 24.—If any burial association or other organization or official thereof, or any person operates or allows to be operated a burial association on any plan, scheme or by-laws not in substantial compliance with the by-laws set forth in § 58-226, the burial association commissioner may revoke any authority or license granted for the operation of such burial association, and any person, firm or corporation or association convicted of the violation of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00) or imprisoned not less than one year in jail, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1941, c. 130, s. 8.)

§ 58-231. Penalty for wrongfully inducing person to change membership.—Any burial association official, agent or representative thereof or any person who shall use fraud or make any promise not part of the printed by-laws, or who shall make or allow to be made any false entry on the books of the association with intent to deceive or defraud any member thereof, or with intent to conceal from the burial association commissioner or his deputy or agent, or any auditor authorized to examine the books of such association, under the supervision of the burial association commissioner, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00), or imprisoned in the common jail for not less than twelve months, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1941, c. 130, s. 9.)

§ 58-232. Penalty for making false and fraudulent entries.—Any burial association official who makes or allows to be made any false entry on the books of the association with intent to deceive or defraud any member thereof, or with intent to conceal from the burial association commissioner or his deputy or agent, or any auditor authorized to examine the books of such association, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00), or imprisoned in the common jail for not less than twelve months, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1941, c. 130, s. 10.)

§ 58-233. Accepting application without collecting fee.—Any burial association official, agent or representative, or any other person who shall accept an application for membership in any association without collecting the fee from any such person making such application for membership, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00), or imprisoned not less than twelve months in the common jail, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1941, c. 130, s. 11.)

§ 58-234. Removal of secretary-treasurer for failure to maintain proper records.—Any burial association secretary or secretary-treasurer who fails to maintain records to the minimum standards required by the burial association commissioner shall be by such commissioner removed from office and another elected in his stead, such election to be immediate and by the board of directors of said burial association upon notice of such removal. (1941, c. 130, s. 12.)

§ 58-235. Acceptance of donations, failure to make proper assessments, etc., made misdemeanor.—Any person or persons who accept donations from any source, or who contribute money or funeral services or free embalming, free ambulance service or any other thing free of charge, acting for any burial association, directly or indirectly, or who so acting shall in any way fail to assess for the amount needed to pay death losses and allowable expenses, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor
§ 58-236. Right of appeal upon revocation of license.—Upon the revocation of any license or authority by the burial association commissioner, under any of the provisions of article 24, the said association or individual whose license has been revoked, shall have right of appeal from the action of said burial association commissioner revoking such license or authority to the superior court of the county in which such burial association may be located: Provided, said association shall give notice of appeal in writing to the burial association commissioner within ten days from the date of order revoking the said license and the said association giving notice of appeal shall deposit with the burial association commissioner an amount sufficient to cover appeal fees, which the burial association commissioner shall pay to the clerk of the superior court. Upon receipt of said notice of appeal, the burial association commissioner shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the burial association is located the decision of the burial association commissioner and the clerk of the superior court shall transfer the appeal to the civil issue docket as in cases of appeal from a justice of the peace and the same shall be heard de novo. If upon the revocation of a license of a burial association by the burial association commissioner and where the burial association gives the proper notice of appeal, the burial association shall be permitted to operate until a final decision has been made by the higher court. (1941, c. 130, s. 14; 1943, c. 272, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment struck out the words "as in other cases of appeal, and the matter shall be heard de novo," formerly ending the first sentence, and inserted in place thereof all of the section beginning with the proviso

§ 58-237. Bond of secretary or secretary-treasurer of burial associations.—The secretary or secretary-treasurer of any burial association shall, before entering upon the duties of his office and for the faithful performance thereof, execute a bond payable to the association in some bonding company licensed to do business in this state, to be approved by the burial association commissioner, in a sum not less than twenty-five per cent of the surplus of the said association as shown by the financial statement rendered December thirty-first of each year, but in no event shall said bond be less than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) and the said bond shall be deposited with the burial association commissioner for safekeeping: Provided, that if any association operates a branch for members of a colored race and the officers of both associations are the same, then the provisions of this section shall apply as of one association: Provided, further, however, that any burial association, with the consent and approval of the burial association commissioner, may give a bond secured by deed of trust on real estate situated in North Carolina, in lieu of procuring said bond from a bonding company; and the bond thus given is not to exceed tax value for the current year of the real estate securing the same. The said deed of trust is to be deposited with the burial association commissioner and the said deed of trust must constitute a first lien on the property secured by the deed of trust. (1941, c. 130, s. 15; 1943, c. 272, s. 5.)

§ 58-237.1. Number of assessments; reduction and increase.—Each association shall make not less than eight single or four double assessments per annum until such association shall have on hand a surplus of three dollars ($3.00) per member as shown on the annual statement herein required to be filed by the association. When any association has accumulated such surplus, the association, with the consent of the burial association commissioner may reduce the number of assessments to be made in any one year, which number shall be fixed by the burial association commissioner: Provided, however, that the burial association commissioner shall have the power to increase the number of assessments to be made in any one year when in his opinion the same shall be necessary in order to take care of the death loss. (1943, c. 272, s. 6.)

§ 58-237.2. Minimum membership required.—Each burial association shall at all times maintain an active membership of at least eight hundred members and should any association fail to secure the same within ninety days from the date of the granting of its charter, or at any time allow its active membership to fall below eight hundred members, the burial association commissioner shall revoke its license and transfer its membership to another association. (1943, c. 272, s. 6.)

§ 58-237.3. Procedure where burial association official or employee transacts business fraudulently, etc.—When after examination the burial association commissioner is satisfied that any burial association official, employee, or representative has failed to comply with any provision of § 58-226, or is exceeding its powers, or is not carrying out its contracts in good faith, or is transacting business fraudulently, the burial association commissioner shall call a meeting of all officers of said association and present the facts and the officers of said association shall immediately call a meeting of the said association membership. A meeting of the said association membership shall constitute a quorum when as many as fifteen of the members are present. When the membership shall meet, it shall be the duty of the burial association commissioner to submit all of the facts relative thereto to the officers and membership present in the said meeting. It shall then become the duty of the membership to proceed to the election of a new officer to fill the unexpired term of the officer whom the charges have been brought against by the burial association commissioner. If the membership of the burial association fails and refuses to elect a new officer, then it shall be the duty of the burial association commissioner to cancel the license of the said burial association and transfer its membership, together with all of its assets to another association that is found by the burial association commissioner to be in good sound financial condition. The burial association shall have the right of appeal from this decision as set up in § 58-236. (1943, c. 272, s. 6.)

§ 58-237.4. Making false or fraudulent statement a misdemeanor.—Any officer or employee of any burial association authorized to do business under this article, who shall knowingly or wilfully make any false or fraudulent statement or representation in or with reference to any application for membership or for the purpose of obtaining money from or benefit any burial association transacting business under this article, or who shall make any false financial statement to the burial association commissioner or to its membership shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1943, c. 272, s. 6.)

§ 58-238. State-wide organization of associations.—It shall be lawful for the several mutual burial associations of the state of North Carolina, in good standing, to organize and provide for a state-wide organization of mutual burial associations, which organization shall be for the mutual and general suggestive control of mutual burial associations in the state of North Carolina. Such organization shall have such name as agreed upon by the membership and article of organization shall have such name as agreed upon by the membership in meetings, and to be composed of members as are lawfully operating in the state and who pay their dues to such association. (1941, c. 130, s. 16.)

§ 58-239. Article 24 deemed exclusive authority for organization, etc., of mutual burial associations.—Article 24 shall be deemed and held exclusive authority for the organization and operation of mutual burial associations within the state of North Carolina, and such associations shall not be subject to any other laws respecting insurance companies of any class. (1941, c. 130, s. 17.)

§ 58-240. Operation of association in violation of law prohibited.—No person, firm or corporation shall operate as a burial association in this state unless incorporated under the laws of the state of North Carolina, or be composed of a membership constituting an association complying with all the rules, regulations, sections and articles of article 24; and licensed and approved by the burial association commissioner of the state of North Carolina. (1941, c. 130, s. 18.)

§ 58-241. Appointment and removal of burial association commissioner; bond.—The burial association commissioner provided for in this act shall be appointed by the governor for a term of four years, subject to removal for cause, and shall hold office until his successor is appointed and qualified. Such burial association commissioner shall give bond approved by the insurance commissioner of the state of North Carolina in the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), conditioned for his faithful application of all funds coming into his hands by virtue of his office. (1941, c. 130, s. 19.)

§ 58-241.1. Election for benefits or return of assessments on death of member in armed forces.—If any member of a burial association who is in good standing should die while serving in the military or naval forces of the United States, the good standing should die while serving in the military or naval forces of the United States, the body of the deceased is returned for burial to the territory served by the burial association. Such election must be made within one year from the official notification of death. Acceptance by the spouse or the next of kin of paid-in assessments shall be a complete release to the burial association. In the event the spouse or the next of kin shall not elect to receive the paid-in assessments as settlement of all claims against the burial association, then the spouse or the next of kin shall be entitled to the benefits prescribed by the by-laws of the burial association at any time the body of the deceased is returned for burial to the territory served by the burial association. (1943, c. 732, s. 1.)

§ 58-241.2. Member in armed forces failing to pay assessments; reinstatement.—If a member of a burial association who is in the military or naval forces of the United States fails to pay any assessment, he shall be in bad standing, and unless and until restored, shall not be entitled to benefits. However, the said member shall be reinstated in the burial association upon application made by him at any time until twelve months after his discharge from the military or naval forces of the United States, notwithstanding his physical condition and without the payment of assessments which have become due during his service in the military or naval forces of the United States. Benefits will be in force immediately after such reinstatement. (1943, c. 732, s. 2.)

§ 58-241.3. Prior death of member in armed forces.—If a member of a burial association who was in good standing, has, before March 9, 1943, died while serving in the military or naval forces of the United States, the provisions of § 58-241.1 shall be applicable: Provided, the spouse, if there is one, or the next of kin in the event there is no spouse, must elect to receive the paid-in assessments within one year after March 9, 1943, or be deemed to have elected to receive benefits provided by the by-laws of the burial association. (1943, c. 732, s. 3.)

SUBCHAPTER V. AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY INSURANCE.

Art. 25. Regulation of Automobile Liability Insurance Rates.

§ 58-242. Approval by commissioner of insurance of automobile liability insurance rates.—Every person, association or corporation authorized to transact automobile liability and/or property damage and/or collision insurance business within this state shall file with the commissioner of insurance on or before their effective date, the classification of risks, rules, rates, and rating plans, for writing such insurance, approved or made by such insurer or by any rating organization of which it is a member, none of which shall become effective until approved by the commissioner of insurance. The commissioner of insurance shall within ten days after the filing of each classification of risks, rules, rates and rating plans, indicate in writing his approval or disapproval thereof with his reasons therefor. Such filing may be made on behalf of an insurer by the rating organization of which it is a member. Any bureau organized in this state for making and/or administering automobile rates and rating plans shall provide for equal representation of stock and non-stock insurers upon its governing and all other committees. and shall admit to membership any insurer applying therefor. (1933, c. 283, s. 1.)

The most important feature of this legislation is the authorization of rate regulation by the commissioner of insurance. Insurance premium rate regulation has been generally upheld as an exercise of the police power, since insurance is a business affected with a public interest. See N. C. Law Rev. 225.

§ 58-243. Compliance with fixed rates mandatory.—Every person, association, or corporation authorized to transact the aforesaid insurance business within this state shall comply with the rates and rules affecting such rates of the rating organization in which it has membership or whose rates it adopts as its standard, or with the rates and rules which such insurer has filed with the commissioner of insurance. (1933, c. 283, s. 2.)

§ 58-244. Adjustment of unreasonable rates.—It shall be the duty of the commissioner of insurance, after due notice and a hearing before him, to order an adjustment of rates on any such risks or classes of risks whenever it shall be found by him that such rates are excessive or unreasonable or that any insurer is discriminating unfairly between its policyholders whose risks are of essentially the same hazard. The findings, determinations and orders of the commissioner of insurance shall be subject to review on their merits by appeal to the superior court of Wake county. (1933, c. 283, s. 3.)

§ 58-245. Refunds by mutuals and exchanges unaffected.—Nothing in this article shall be construed to limit the method of determining rates or the plan of operations of any mutual insurance company or inter-insurance exchange in this state, or prevent refund to all policyholders of the same class of any portion of the annual premium not required to defray the expense of such insurance. (1933, c. 283, s. 4.)

§ 58-246. North Carolina automobile rate administrative office created; objects and functions.—There is hereby created a bureau to be known as the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office which office shall be established in the compensation rating and inspection bureau of North Carolina, created under § 97-102 and shall be a branch and under the management of the general manager of the compensation rating and inspection Bureau of North Carolina, with the following objects, functions and sources of income:

(a) To maintain rules and regulations and fix maximum rates for automobile bodily injury, property damage and collision insurance and equitably adjust the same as far as practicable in accordance with the hazard of the different classes of risks as established by said bureau.

(b) To furnish upon request of any person carrying this form of insurance in the state or to any member of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office, upon whose risk a rate has been promulgated, information as to the rating, including the method of its capitation, and to encourage safety on the highways and streets of the state, by offering reduced premium rates under a uniform system of experience rating as may be approved by the commissioner of insurance. (1939, c. 394, s. 1.)

§ 58-247. Membership as a prerequisite for writing insurance; governing committee; rules and regulations; expenses; commissioner of insurance ex-officio chairman.—Before the commissioner of insurance shall grant permission to any stock, nonstock, or reciprocal insurance company or any other insurance organization to write automobile bodily injury, property damage and collision insurance in this state, it shall be a requisite that they shall subscribe to and become members of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office.

(a) Each member of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office writing the above classes of insurance in North Carolina shall, as a requisite thereto, be represented in the aforesaid bureau and shall be entitled to one representative and one vote in the administration of the affairs of the bureau. They shall, upon organization, elect a governing committee which governing committee shall be composed of equal representation by stock and nonstock members.

(b) The bureau, when created, shall adopt such rules and regulations for its orderly procedure, as shall be necessary for its maintenance and operation. The expense of such bureau shall be borne by its members by quarterly contributions to be made in advance, such contributions to be made in advance by prorating such expense among the members in accordance with the amount of gross premiums derived from automobile bodily injury, property damage and collision insurance in North Carolina during the preceding year ending December 31, 1938, and members entering such bureau since that date to advance an amount to be fixed by the governing committee. After the first fiscal year of operation of the bureau the necessary expense of the bureau shall be advanced by the members in accordance with rules and regulations to be established and adopted by the governing committee.

(c) The commissioner of insurance of the state of North Carolina, or such deputy as he may appoint, shall be ex-officio chairman of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office and shall preside over all meetings of the governing committee and other meetings of the bureau and it shall be his duty to determine any controversy that may arise by reason of a tie vote between the members of the governing committee. (1939, c. 394, s. 2.)

§ 58-248. Personnel and assistants; general manager; authority of commissioner of insurance.—In order to carry into effect the objects of §§ 58-246 to 58-248, the bureau members shall immediately elect its governing committee who shall employ and fix the salaries of such personnel and assistants as are necessary, but the general manager of the compensation rating and inspection bureau of North Carolina shall be the general manager also of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office and the commissioner of insurance is hereby authorized to compel the production of all books, data, papers and records and any other data necessary to compile statistics for the purpose of determining the pure cost and expense loading of automobile bodily injury, property damage and collision insurance in North Carolina and this information shall be available and for the use of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office for the capitulation and promulgation of rates on automobile bodily injury, property damage and collision insurance. All such rates compiled and promulgated by such bureau shall be submitted to the commissioner of insurance for approval and no such rates shall be put into effect in this state until approved by the commissioner of insurance and not subsequently disapproved: Provided §§ 58-246 to 58-248 shall not apply to publicly owned vehicles. (1939, c. 394, s. 3.)

SUBCHAPTER VI. ACCIDENT AND HEALTH INSURANCE.

§ 58-249. Form, classification, and rates to be approved by commissioner of insurance.—No policy of insurance against loss or damage from the sickness or the bodily injury or death of the insured by accident shall be issued or delivered to any person in this state until a copy of the form thereof and of the classification of risks and the premium rates pertaining thereto have been filed with the commissioner of insurance; nor shall it be so issued or delivered until the expiration of thirty days after it has been filed unless the commissioner shall sooner give his written approval thereto. If the commissioner shall notify, in writing, the company, society, or other insurer which has filed such form that it does not comply with the requirements of law, specifying the reasons for his opinion, it shall be unlawful thereafter for any such insurer to issue any policy in such form. The action of the commissioner in this regard shall be subject to review by any court of competent jurisdiction; but nothing in this article shall be construed to give jurisdiction to any court not already having jurisdiction. (1911, c. 209, s. 1; 1913, c. 91, s. 1; C. S. 6477.)

§ 58-250. Specifications as to form of policy.—No such policy shall be so issued or delivered (1) unless the entire money and other considerations therefor are expressed in the policy; nor (2) unless the time at which the insurance thereunder takes effect and terminates is stated in a portion of the policy preceding its execution by the insurer; nor (3) if the policy purports to insure more than one person; nor (4) unless every printed portion thereof and of any endorsements or attached papers shall be plainly printed in type of which the face shall be not smaller than fourteen point; nor (5) unless a brief description thereof be printed on its first page, and on its filing back in type of which the face shall not be smaller than fourteen point; nor (6) unless the exceptions of the policy be printed with the same prominence as the benefits to which they apply: Provided, however, that any portion of such policy which purports, by reason of the circumstances under which a loss is incurred, to reduce any indemnity promised therein to an amount less than that provided for the same loss occurring under ordinary circumstances shall be printed in bold-face type and with greater prominence than any other portion of the text of the policy. (1913, c. 91, s. 2; C. S. 6478.)

§ 58-251. Standard provisions in policy.—Every such policy so issued shall contain certain standard provisions, which shall be in the words and in the order hereinafter set forth and be preceded in every policy by the caption "Standard Provisions." In each standard provision, wherever the word "insurer" is used, there shall be substituted therefor "company" or "corporation" or "association" or "society" or such other word as will properly designate the insurer.

1. Provisions Relative to Contract.—A standard provision relative to the contract may be in either of the following two forms: Form (A) to be used in policies which do not provide for reduction of indemnity on account of change of occupation, and Form (B) to be used in policies which do so provide. If Form (B) is used and the policy provides indemnity against loss from sickness, the words "or contracts sickness" may be inserted therein immediately after the words "in the event that the insured is injured."

(A) This policy includes the endorsements and attached papers, if any, and contains the entire contract of insurance. No reduction shall be made in any indemnity herein provided by reason of change in the occupation of the insured or by reason of his doing any act or thing pertaining to any other occupation.

(B) This policy includes the endorsements and attached papers, if any, and contains the entire contract of insurance except as it may be modified by the insurer's classification of risks and premium rates in the event that the insured is injured after having changed his occupation to one classified by the insurer as more hazardous than that stated in the policy, or while he is doing any act or thing pertaining to any occupation so classified, except ordinary duties about his residence or while engaged in recreation, in which event the insurer will pay only such portion of the indemnities provided in the policy as the premium paid would have purchased at the rate but within the limits so fixed by the insurer for such more hazardous occupation.

If the law of the state in which the insured resides at the time this policy is issued requires the deposit to its issue a statement of the premium rates and classification of risks pertaining to it shall be filed with the state official having supervision of insurance in such state, then the premium rates and classification of risks mentioned in this policy shall mean only such as have been last filed by the insurer in accordance with such law; but if such filing is not required by such law then they shall mean the insurer's premium rates and classification of risks last made effective by it in such state prior to the occurrence of the loss for which the insurer is liable.

2. Changes in the Contract.—A standard provision relative to changes in the contract shall be in the following form: No statement made by the applicant for insurance not included herein shall avoid the policy or be used in any legal proceeding hereunder. No agent has authority to change this policy or to waive any of its provisions. No change in this policy shall be valid unless approved by an executive officer of the insurer and such approval be endorsed hereon.

3. Reinstatement of Policy.—A standard provision relative to reinstatement of policy after lapse may be in either of the three following... forms: Form (A) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from accident; Form (B) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from sickness; and Form (C) to be used in policies which insure against loss from both accident and sickness.

(A) If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy, but only to cover loss resulting from accidental injury thereafter sustained.

(B) If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy, but only to cover such sickness as may begin more than ten days after the date of such acceptance.

(C) If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy, but only to cover accidental injury thereafter sustained and such sickness as may begin more than ten days after the date of such acceptance.

4. Time of Notice of Claim.—A standard provision relative to time of notice of claim may be in either of the three following forms: Form (A) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from accident: Form (B) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from sickness, and Form (C) to be used in policies which insure against loss from both accident and sickness. If Form (A) or Form (C) is used the insurer may at its option add thereto the following sentence: “In event of accidental death immediate notice thereof must be given to the insurer.”

(A) Written notice of injury on which claim may be basied must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the date of the accident causing such injury.

(B) Written notice of sickness on which claim may be basied must be given to the insurer within ten days after the commencement of the disability from such sickness.

(C) Written notice of injury or of sickness on which claim may be basied must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the date of the accident causing such injury or within ten days after the commencement of disability from such sickness.

5. Sufficient Notice of Claim.—A standard provision relative to sufficiency of notice of claim shall be in the following form, and the insurer shall insert in the blank space such office and its location as it may desire to designate for the purpose of notice:

Such notice given by or in behalf of the insured or beneficiary, as the case may be, to the insurer at ……… or to any authorized agent of the insurer, with particulars sufficient to identify the insured, shall be deemed notice to the insurer. Failure to give notice within the time provided in this policy shall not invalidate any claim, if it shall be shown not to have been reasonably possible to give such notice and that notice was given as soon as was reasonably possible.

6. Furnishing Forms for Proof of Loss.—A standard provision relative to furnishing forms for the convenience of the insured in submitting proof of loss shall be as follows:

The insurer, upon receipt of such notice, will furnish to the claimant such forms as are usually furnished by it for filing proofs of loss. If such forms are not so furnished within fifteen days after the receipt of such notice the claimant shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this policy as to proof of loss upon submitting within the time fixed in the policy for filing proofs of loss, written proof covering the occurrence, character, and extent of the loss for which claim is made.

7. Filing Proof of Loss.—A standard provision relative to filing proof of loss shall be in such one of the following forms as may be appropriate to the indemnities provided:

(A) Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office within ninety days after the date of the loss for which claim is made.

(B) Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office within ninety days after the date of the termination of the period of disability for which the company is liable.

(C) Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office within ninety days after the date of the termination of the period of disability for which the company is liable, and in case of claim for any other loss within ninety days after the date of such loss.

8. Examination of Person and Autopsy.—A standard provision relative to examination of the person of the insured and relative to autopsy shall be in the following form: The insurer shall have the right and opportunity to examine the person of the insured when and so often as it may reasonably require during the pendency of claim hereunder, and also the right and opportunity to make an autopsy in case of death where it is not forbidden by law.

9. Time of Payments.—A standard provision relative to the time within which payments other than those for loss of time on account of disability shall be made may be in either of the following two forms, which may be omitted from any policy providing only indemnity for loss of time on account of disability. The insurer shall insert in the blank space either the word “immediately” or appropriate language to designate such period of time, not more than sixty days, as it may desire: Form (A) to be used in policies which do not provide indemnity for loss of time on account of disability, and Form (B) to be used in policies which do so provide.

(A) All indemnities provided in this policy will be paid ………… after receipt of due proof.

(B) All indemnities provided in this policy for loss other than that of time on account of disability will be paid ………… after receipt of due proof.

10. Periodical Payments.—A standard provision relative to periodical payments of indemnity for loss of time on account of disability shall be in the following form, and may be omitted from any policy not providing for such indemnity. The insurer shall insert in the first blank space of the form appropriate language to designate the proportion of accrued indemnity it may desire to pay, which proportion may be all or any part not less than one-half, and in the second blank space shall insert any period of time not exceeding sixty days:

Upon request of the insured and subject to due proof of loss ............ accrued indemnity for loss of time on account of disability will be paid at the expiration of each ............ during the continuance of the period for which the insurer is liable, and any balance remaining unpaid at the termination of such period will be paid immediately upon receipt of due proof.

11. Indemnity Payments.—A standard provision relative to indemnity payments may be in either of the two following forms: (A) to be used in policies which designate a beneficiary, and (B) to be used in policies which do not designate any beneficiary other than the insured:

(A) Indemnity for loss of life of the insured is payable to the beneficiary, if surviving the insured, and otherwise to the estate of the insured. All other indemnities of this policy are payable to the insured.

(B) All the indemnities of this policy are payable to the insured.

12. Cancellation of Policy by Insured.—A standard provision providing for cancellation of the policy at the instance of the insured shall be in the following form: If the insured shall at any time change his occupation to one classified by the insurer as less hazardous than that stated in the policy, the insurer, upon written request of the insured, and surrender of the policy, will cancel the same and return to the insured the unearned premium.

13. Rights of Beneficiary.—A standard provision relative to the rights of the beneficiary under the policy shall be in the following form and may be omitted from any policy not designating a beneficiary: Consent of the beneficiary shall not be requisite to surrender or assignment of this policy, or to change of beneficiary, or to any other changes in the policy.

14. Limiting Time of Action.—A standard provision limiting the time within which suit may be brought upon the policy shall be as follows: No action at law or in equity shall be brought to recover on this policy prior to the expiration of sixty days after proof of loss has been filed in accordance with the requirements of this policy, nor shall such action be brought at all unless brought within two years from the expiration of the time within which proof of loss is required by the policy.

15. Time Limitations.—A standard provision relative to time limitations of the policy shall be as follows: If any time limitation of this policy with respect to giving notice of claim or furnishing proof of loss is less than that permitted by the law of the state in which the insured resides at the time this policy is issued, such limitation is hereby extended to agree with the minimum period permitted by such law. (1911, c. 209, s. 1; 1913, c. 91, s. 3; C. S. 6479.) which the premium has been paid; or, (3) providing for the deduction of any premium from the amount paid in settlement of claim; or, (4) relative to other insurance by the same insurer; or, (5) relative to the age limits of the policy; unless such provisions, which are hereby designated as optional standard provisions, shall be in the words and in the order in which they are set forth in the next section, but the insurer may at its option omit from the policy any such optional standard provisions. Such optional standard provisions if inserted in the policy shall immediately succeed the standard provisions named in this article. (1911, c. 209, s. 2; 1913, c. 91, s. 4; C. S. 6480.)

§ 58-253. Optional standard provisions.—The optional standard provisions which may be used in the policy are as follows:

1. Cancellation of Policy by Insurer.—The insurer may cancel this policy at any time by written notice delivered to the insured or mailed to his last address as shown by the records of the insurer, together with cash or the insurer’s check for the unearned portion of the premiums actually paid by the insured, and such cancellation shall be without prejudice to any claim originating prior thereto.

2. Reduction of Indemnity.—If the insured shall carry with another company, corporation, association, or society other insurance covering the same loss without giving written notice to the insurer, then in that case the insurer shall be liable only for such portion of the indemnity promised as the said indemnity bears to the total amount of like indemnity in all policies covering such loss, and for the return of such part of the premiums paid as shall exceed the pro rata for the indemnity thus determined.

3. Deduction of Premium.—Upon the payment of claim hereunder any premium then due and unpaid or covered by any note or written order may be deducted therefrom.

4. Other Insurance.—An optional standard provision relative to other insurance by the same insurer which shall be in such one of the following forms as may be appropriate to the indemnities provided, and in the blank spaces of which the insurer shall insert such upward limits of indemnity as are specified by the insurer’s classification of risks, filed as required by this article:

(A) If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity in excess of $--------, the excess insurance shall be void, and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

(B) If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity for loss of time on account of disability in excess of $-------- weekly, the excess insurance of either kind shall be void, and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

(C) If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity for loss other than that of time on account of disability in excess of $--------, or the aggregate indemnity for loss of time on account of disability in excess of $-------- weekly, the excess insurance of either kind shall be void, and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

5. Age Limits.—An optional standard provision relative to the age limits of the policy, which shall be in the following forms and in the blank spaces of which the insurer shall insert such number of years as it may elect: The insurance under this policy shall not cover any person under the age of ______ years nor over the age of ______ years. Any premium paid to the insurer for any period not covered by this policy will be returned upon request. (1911, c. 209, s. 2; 1913, c. 91, s. 4; C. S. 6481.)

§ 58-254. Conflicting provisions forbidden; terms in policy.—No such policy shall be issued or delivered if it contains any provision contradictory, in whole or part, of any provisions hereinafter in this article designated as “Standard Provisions” or as “Optional Standard Provisions”; nor shall any endorsement or attached papers vary, alter, extend, be used as a substitute for, or in any way conflict with any of the “Standard Provisions” or the “Optional Standard Provisions”; nor shall such policy be issued or delivered if it contains any provision purporting to make any portion of the charter, constitution, or by-laws of the insurer a part of the policy unless such portion of the charter, constitution, or by-laws shall be set forth in full in the policy, but this prohibition shall not be deemed to apply to any statement of rates or classification of risks filed with the commissioner of insurance in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1911, c. 209, s. 3; 1913, c. 91, s. 5; C. S. 6482.)

Art. 27. General Regulations.

§ 58-255. False statement in application.—The falsity of any statement in the application for any policy covered by this subchapter shall not bar the right to recovery thereunder unless such false statement was made with actual intent to deceive or unless it materially affected either the acceptance of the risk or the hazard assumed by the insurer. (1913, c. 91, s. 6; C. S. 6483.)

§ 58-256. Waiver by insurer.—The acknowledgment by any insurer of the receipt of notice given under any policy covered by this subchapter, or the furnishing of forms for filing proofs of loss, or the acceptance of such proofs, or the investigation of any claim thereunder, shall not operate as a waiver of any of the rights of the insurer in defense of any claim arising under such policy. (1913, c. 91, s. 7; C. S. 6484.)

§ 58-257. Alteration of application.—No alteration of any written application for insurance by erasure, insertion, or otherwise, shall be made by any person other than the applicant without his written consent, and the making of any such alteration without the consent of the applicant shall be a misdemeanor. If such alteration shall be made by any officer of the insurer, or by any employee of the insurer, with the insurer’s knowledge or consent, then such act shall be deemed to have been performed by the insurer thereafter issuing the policy upon such altered application. (1913, c. 91, s. 8; C. S. 6485.)
§ 58-258. Construction of policy.—A policy issued in violation of this subchapter shall be held valid, but shall be construed as provided in this subchapter, and when any provision in such a policy is in conflict with any provision of this subchapter, the rights, duties, and obligations of the insurer, the policyholder, and the beneficiary shall be governed by the provisions of this subchapter. (1913, c. 91, s. 9; C. S. 6486.)

§ 58-259. Provisions of laws of other states.—The policies of insurance against accidental bodily injury or sickness issued by an insurer not organized under the laws of this state may contain, when issued in this state, any provision which the law of the state, territory, or district of the United States under which the insurer is organized, prescribed for insertion in such policies; and the policies of insurance against accidental bodily injury or sickness issued by an insurer organized under the laws of the state may contain, when issued or delivered in any other state, territory, district, or country, any provisions required by the laws of the state, territory, district, or country in which the same are issued, anything in this subchapter to the contrary notwithstanding. (1911, c. 209, s. 4; 1913, c. 91, s. 10; C. S. 6487.)

§ 58-261. Certain policies of insurance not affected.—1. Nothing in this subchapter shall apply to or affect any policy of liability or workmen’s compensation insurance or any general or blanket policy of insurance issued to any municipal corporation or department thereof, or to any corporation, copartnership, association, or individual employer, police or fire department, underwriters’ corps, salvage bureau, or like associations or organizations, where the officers, members, or employees of the classes or departments thereof are insured for their individual benefit against specified accidental bodily injuries or sickness while exposed to the hazards of the occupation or otherwise, in consideration of a premium intended to cover the risks of all the persons insured under such policy.

2. Nothing in this subchapter shall apply to or in any way affect contracts supplemental to contracts of life or endowment insurance where such supplemental contracts contain no provisions except such as operate to safeguard such insurance against lapse or to provide a special surrender value therefor in the event that the insured shall be totally and permanently disabled by reason of accidental bodily injury or by sickness, nor to contracts issued as supplements to life insurance contracts or contracts of endowment insurance, and intended to increase to the amount insured by such life or endowment contracts in the event that the death of the insured shall result from accidental bodily injuries: Provided, That no such supplemental contracts shall be issued or delivered to any person in this state unless and until a copy of the form thereof has been submitted to and approved by the commissioner of insurance under such reasonable rules and regulations as he shall make concerning the provisions in such contracts, and their submission to an approval by him.

3. Nothing in this subchapter shall apply to or in any way affect fraternal benefit societies.

4. The provisions of this subchapter contained in clause (5) of § 58-250, and clauses two, three, eight, and twelve of § 58-251, may be omitted from railroad ticket policies sold only at railroad stations or at railroad ticket offices by railroad employees. (1911, c. 209, s. 5; 1913, c. 91, s. 12; 1921, c. 136, s. 5; C. S. 6489.)

§ 58-262. Punishment for violation.—Any company, association, society, or other insurer or any officer or agent thereof, which or who issues or delivers to any person in this state any policy in wilful violation of the provisions of this subchapter, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars for each offense, and the commissioner of insurance may revoke the license of any company, corporation, association, society, or insurer of another state or country, or of the agent thereof, which or who willfully violates any provision of this subchapter. (1911, c. 209, s. 6; 1913, c. 91, s. 13; C. S. 6490.)

SUBCHAPTER VII. FRATERNAL ORDERS AND SOCIETIES.

Art. 28. Fraternal Orders.

§ 58-263. General insurance law not applicable.—Nothing in the general insurance laws, except such as apply to fraternal orders or fraternal societies, shall be construed to extend to benevolent associations, incorporated under the laws of this state that only levy an assessment on the members to create a fund to pay the family of a deceased member and make no profit therefrom, and do not solicit business through agents. Such benevolent associations providing death benefits in excess of three hundred dollars to any one person, or disability benefits not exceeding three hundred dollars in any one year to any one person, or both, shall be known as “fraternal benefit societies”; and those providing benefits of three hundred dollars or less shall be known as “fraternal orders.” (Rev., s. 4794: 1899, c. 54, s. 87; 1901, c. 706, s. 2; 1913, c. 46; C. S. 6491.)

Cross Reference.—As to other assessment insurance, see §§ 58-185 et seq.

Editor’s Note.—See 12 N. C. Law Rev. 274.

Laws Governing.—Williams v. Supreme Conclave, 172 N. C. 787, 90 S. E. 688, and Wilson v. Supreme Conclave, 174 N. C. 358, 94 S. E. 441, were decided in regard to policies issued before this act. This statute makes it clear that fraternal and assessment orders shall be governed by their own rules and regulations as authorized by the state of their origin. Hollingsworth v. Supreme Council, 121 N. C. 65, 56 S. E. 81. This case gives a long discussion of the application of this law and alters the rule as applied in former cases.

Same.—Fraternal Benefit Associations.—This section groups benevolent life insurance companies providing death benefits in excess of $300, in any year to any one person, as fraternal benefit associations, and those of $300 or less, as fraternal orders, and sec. 58-254, relating to fraternal orders, does not apply, and hence fraternal benefit associations fall within the provision of sec. 58-126, that statements or descriptions in the application for the policy are deemed representations and not warranties, which will not avoid a recovery, when untrue, unless material. Gay v. Woodmen of the World, 179 N. C. 210, 102 S. E. 195.

§ 58-264. Fraternal orders defined.—Every incorporated association, order, or society doing business in this state on the lodge system, with ritualistic form of work and representative form of government, for the purpose of making provision for the payment of benefits of three hundred dollars or less in case of death, sickness, temporary or permanent physical disability, either as the result of disease, accident, or old age, formed and organized for the sole benefit of its members and their beneficiaries, and not for profit, is hereby declared to be a "fraternal order." Societies and orders which do not make insurance contracts or collect dues or assessments therefor, but simply pay burial or other benefits out of the treasury of their orders, and use their funds for the purpose of building homes or asylums for the purpose of caring for and educating orphan children and aged and infirm people in this state, shall not be considered as "fraternal orders" or "fraternal benefit societies" under this subchapter; and such order or association paying death or disability benefits may also create, maintain, apply, or disburse among its membership a reserve or emergency fund as may be provided in its constitution or by-laws; but no profit or gain may be added to the payments made by a member. (Rev., s. 4795; 1899, c. 54, s. 88; 1901, c. 706, s. 3; 1907, c. 936; 1913, c. 46; C. S. 6492.)

Cross Reference.—See § 58-263 and note thereto.

§ 58-265. Funds derived from assessments and dues.—The fund from which the payment of benefits, as provided for in § 58-264, shall be made, and the fund from which the expenses of such association, order or society shall be defrayed, shall be derived from assessments or dues collected from its members. Such societies or associations shall be governed by the laws of the state governing fraternal orders or societies, and are exempt from the provisions of all general insurance laws of this state, and no law hereafter passed shall be applicable to such societies unless fraternal orders or societies are designated therein. (Rev., s. 4796; 1899, c. 54, s. 89; 1901, c. 706, s. 2; 1913, c. 46; C. S. 6493.)

Use of Funds Received.—The funds received from assessment are trust funds for orphans and widows and are not subject to use for any other purpose, therefore attachment will not lie. Brenizer v. Royal Arcanum, 141 N. C. 409, 53 S. E. 835.

Assessments Not Governed by Insurance Law.—A fraternal society or association is governed by its own charter and by-laws and an assessment in accordance with its own laws is valid. Hollingsworth v. Supreme Council, 175 N. C. 615, 96 S. E. 81.

§ 58-266. Appointment of member as receiver or collector; appointee as agent for order or society; rights of members.—Assessments and dues referred to in §§ 58-264 and 58-265 may be collected, received, and remitted by a member or officer of any local or subordinate lodge of any fraternal order or society when so appointed or designated by any grand, district, or subordinate lodge or officer, deputy, or representative of the same, there being no regular licensed agent or deputy of said grand lodge charged with said duties; but any person so collecting said dues or assessments shall be the agent or representative of such fraternal order or society, or any department thereof, and shall bind them by their acts in collecting and remitting said amounts so collected. Under no circumstances, regardless of any agreement, by-laws, contract, or notice, shall said officer or collector be the agent or representative of the individual member from whom any such collection is made; nor shall said member be responsible for the failure of such officer or collector to safely keep, handle, or remit said dues or assessments so collected, in accordance with the rules, regulations, or by-laws of said society; nor shall said member, regardless of any rules, regulations, or by-laws to the contrary, forfeit any rights under his certificate of membership in said fraternal benefit society by reason of any default or misconduct of any said officer or member so acting. (1921, c. 139; C. S. 6493(a).)

Where plaintiff's evidence showed that it had been the custom of defendant mutual benefit association's collecting agents, to collect dues after the due date but within thirty days thereof, that defendant's home office knew of this custom, and that insured made payment of the dues for the preceding month within thirty days of the due date and died prior to the customary time for the collection of dues for the following month, it was held that the evidence was sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the question of defendant's waiver of the provisions of its certificate and by-laws, requiring certificate of good health before reinstating a policy upon payment of premium after the due date, and upon the verdict of the jury plaintiff was entitled to judgment for the amount of the policy, less the dues for the month not paid. Shackelford v. Sovereign Camp, W. O. W., 269 N. C. 633, 184 S. E. 691.

§ 58-267. Meetings of governing body; principal office; separation of races.—Any such society or order incorporated and organized under the laws of this state may provide for the meetings of its governing body or governing body in any other state, province, or territory wherein such society has subordinate lodges, and all business transacted at such meetings is as valid in all respects as if the meetings were held in this state; but the principal business office of such society shall always be kept in this state. No fraternal order or society or beneficiary association shall be authorized to do business in this state under the provisions of this article, whether incorporated under the laws of this or any other state, province, or territory, which associates with, or seeks in this state to associate with, as members of the same lodge, fraternity, society, association, the white and colored races with the objects and purposes provided in this article. (Rev., s. 4797; 1899, c. 54, s. 91; 1913, c. 46; C. S. 6494.)

§ 58-268. Conditions precedent to doing business.—Any such fraternal, beneficiary order, society, or association as defined by this chapter, chartered and organized in this state or organized and doing business under the laws of any other state, district, province, or territory, having the characteristics of domestic societies of like character, upon satisfying the commissioner of insurance that its business is proper and legitimate and so conducted, may be admitted to transact business in this state upon the same conditions as are prescribed by this chapter for admitting and authorizing foreign insurance companies to do business in this state, except that such fraternal orders shall not be required to have the capital required of such insurance companies. (Rev., s. 4798; 1899, c. 54, s. 92; 1901, c. 706, s. 2; 1903, c. 438, s. 9; 1913, c. 46; C. S. 6495.)

Requirements for Admission to Do Business.—Fraternal insurance orders are subject to the same rules, regulations, and supervision as foreign insurance companies, when operated from beyond the State, except that they are not required to make the deposit or have the paid up capital required of other companies. State v. Arlington, 157 N. C. 640, 73 S. E. 122.

Attachment of Funds.—Assessments received are impressed with a trust for widows and orphans and cannot be reached by attachment. Brenizer v. Royal Arcanum, 141 N. C. 499, 51 S. E. 835; Blackwell v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 141 N. C. 117, 53 S. E. 833.

§ 58-269. Certain lodge systems exempt.—The following beneficial orders or societies shall be exempt from the requirements of this chapter, and shall not be required to pay any license tax or fees nor make any report to the commissioner of insurance, unless the assessment collected for death benefits by the supreme lodge amount to at least three hundred dollars in one year: Beneficial fraternal orders, or societies incorporated under the laws of this state, which are conducted under the lodge system which have the supreme lodge or governing body located in this state, and which are so organized that the membership consists of members of subordinate lodges; that the subordinate lodges accept for membership only residents of this state in which such subordinate lodge is located; that each subordinate lodge issues certificates, makes assessments, and collects a fund to pay benefits to the widows and orphans of its own deceased members and their families, each lodge independently of the others, for itself and independently of the supreme lodge; that each lodge controls the fund for this purpose; that in addition to the benefits paid by each subordinate lodge to its own members, the supreme lodge provides for an additional benefit for such of the members of the subordinate lodges as are qualified, at the option of the subordinate lodge members; that such organization is not conducted for profit, has no capital stock, and has been in operation for ten years in this state.

The commissioner of insurance may require the chief or presiding officer, or the secretary, to file annually an affidavit that such organization is entitled to this exemption. (1911, c. 199; C. S. 6496.)

§ 58-270. Fraternal benefit society defined.—Any corporation, society, order, or voluntary association, without capital stock, organized and carried on solely for the mutual benefit of its members and their beneficiaries, and not for profit, and having a lodge system with ritualistic form of work and representative form of government, and which makes provision for the payment of benefits as hereafter prescribed in this article, is declared to be a fraternal benefit society. (1913, c. 89, s. 1; C. S. 6497.)

Applied in Equitable Trust Co. v. Widows' Fund of Oasis, etc., Temples, 237 N. C. 534, 177 S. E. 799.

§ 58-271. Lodge system defined.—A society having a supreme governing or legislative body and subordinate lodges or branches, by whatever name known, into which members are elected, initiated, and admitted in accordance with its constitution, laws, rules, regulations, and prescribed ritualistic ceremonies, which subordinate lodges or branches are required by the laws of such society to hold regular or stated meetings at least once in each month, is deemed to be operating on the lodge system. (1913, c. 89, s. 2; C. S. 6498.)

§ 58-272. Representative form of government defined.—A society is deemed to have a representative form of government when it provides in its constitution and laws for a supreme legislative or governing body, composed of representatives elected either by the members or by delegates elected directly or indirectly by the members, together with such other members as may be prescribed by its constitution and laws: Provided, that the elective members constitute a majority in number and have not less than two-thirds of the votes, nor less than the votes required to amend its constitution and laws; and Provided further, that the meetings of the supreme or governing body, and the election of officers, representatives, or delegates, are held as often as once in four years. The members, officers, representatives, or delegates of a fraternal benefit society shall not vote by proxy. (1913, c. 89, s. 3; C. S. 6499.)

§ 58-273. Organization.—1 Application.—Ten or more persons, citizens of the United States, and a majority of whom are citizens of this state, who desire to form a fraternal benefit society, as defined by this article, may make and sign (giving their addresses) and acknowledge before some officer competent to take acknowledgment of deeds, articles of incorporation in which shall be stated:

a. The proposed corporate name of the society, which shall not so closely resemble the name of any society or insurance company already transacting business in this state as to mislead the public or lead to confusion.

b. The purpose for which it is formed—which shall not include more liberal powers than are granted by this article: Provided, that any lawful social, intellectual, educational, charitable, benevolent, moral, or religious advantages may be set forth among the purposes of the society—and the mode in which its corporate powers are to be exercised.

c. The names, residences, and official titles of all the officers, trustees, directors, or other persons who are to have and exercise the general control and management of the affairs and funds of the society for the first year or until the ensuing election at which all such officers shall be elected by the supreme legislative or governing body, which election shall be held not later than one year from the date of the issuance of the permanent certificates.

2. Papers and Bond Filed.—Such articles of incorporation and duly certified copies of the constitution and laws, rules and regulations, and copies of all proposed forms of benefit certificates, applications therefor, and circulars to be issued by such society, and a bond in the sum of five thousand dollars, with sureties approved by the commissioner of insurance, conditioned upon the return of the advance payments, as provided in this section, to applicants, if the organization is not completed within one year, shall be filed with the commissioner of insurance, who may require such further information as he deems necessary.

3. Preliminary License.—If the purposes of the society conform to the requirements of this article, and all provisions of law have been complied with, the commissioner of insurance shall so certify to the secretary of state and upon his issuing the articles of incorporation shall furnish the incorporators a preliminary license authorizing the society to solicit members as hereinafter provided.
4. Completion of Organization.—Upon receipt of such license from the commissioner of insurance the society may solicit members for the purpose of completing its organization, and shall collect from each applicant the amount of not less than one regular monthly payment, in accordance with its table of rates as provided by its constitution and laws, and shall issue to each applicant a receipt for the amount so collected. But no such society shall incur any liability other than for such advanced payments, nor issue any benefit certificate nor pay or allow, or offer or promise to pay or allow, to any person any death or disability benefit until actual bona fide applications for death benefit certificates have been secured upon at least five hundred lives for at least one thousand dollars each, or the largest amount written on any one person, and all such applicants for death benefits shall have been regularly examined by legally qualified practicing physicians, and certificates of such examinations have been duly filed and approved by the chief medical examiner of such society; nor until there shall be established ten subordinate lodges or branches into which said five hundred applicants have been initiated; nor until there has been submitted to the commissioner of insurance under oath of the president and secretary, or corresponding officers of such society, a list of such applicants, giving their names, addresses, date examined, date approved, date initiated, name and number of the subordinate branch of which each applicant is a member, amount of benefits to be granted, rate of stated periodical contributions, which shall be sufficient to provide for meeting the mortuary obligation contracted, when valued for death benefits upon the basis of the national fraternal congress table of mortality, as adopted by the national fraternal congress, August twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, or any higher standard, at the option of the society, and for disability benefits by tables based upon reliable experience, and for combined death and permanent total disability benefits by tables based upon reliable experience, with an interest assumption not higher than four per cent per annum; nor until it shall be shown to the commissioner of insurance by the sworn statement of the treasurer, or corresponding officer of such society, that at least five hundred applicants have each paid in cash at least one regular monthly payment as herein provided per one thousand dollars of indemnity to be effected, which payments in the aggregate shall amount to at least twenty-five hundred dollars. Such advanced payments shall be credited to the mortuary or disability fund on account of such applicants, and no part thereof may be used for expenses, but such payments shall be held in trust and returned to the applicants if the organization is not completed within one year as hereinafter provided.

5. License Issued.—The commissioner of insurance may make such examination and require such further information as he deems advisable, and, upon presentation of satisfactory evidence that the society has complied with all the provisions of law, he shall issue to such society a certificate or license to that effect. Such certificate shall be prima facie evidence of the existence of such society at the date of such certificate.

6. One-year Limit.—No preliminary certificate or license granted under the provisions of this section shall be valid after one year from its date, or after such further period, not exceeding one year, as may be authorized by the commissioner of insurance, upon cause shown unless the five hundred applicants herein required have been secured and the organization has been completed as herein provided; and the articles of incorporation and all proceedings thereunder shall become null and void in one year from the date of such preliminary certificate, or at the expiration of such extended period, unless the society shall have completed its organization and commenced business as herein provided.

7. Discontinuance.—When any domestic society shall have discontinued business for the period of one year, or has less than four hundred members, its charter shall become null and void. (1913, c. 89, s. 11; C. S. 6500.)

§ 58-274. Constitution and by-laws.—Each society shall have power to make a constitution and by-laws for the government of the society, the admission of its members, the management of its affairs, and the fixing and readjusting of the rates of contribution of its members from time to time; it shall have the power to change or amend such constitution and by-laws, and it shall have such other powers as are necessary and incidental to carrying into effect the objects and purposes of the society. (1913, c. 89, s. 11; C. S. 6501.)

§ 58-275. Amendments to constitution and by-laws.—Every society transacting business under this article shall file with the commissioner of insurance a duly certified copy of all amendments of or additions to its constitution and laws within ninety days after the enactment of the same. Printed copies of the constitution and laws as amended, changed or added to, certified by the secretary or corresponding officer of the society, shall be prima facie evidence of the legal adoption thereof. (1913, c. 89, s. 19; C. S. 6502.)

§ 58-276. Waiver of the provisions of the laws.—The constitution and laws of the society may provide that no subordinate body, nor any of its subordinate officers or members, shall have the power or authority to waive any of the provisions of the laws and constitution of the society, and the same shall be binding on the society and each and every member thereof, and on all beneficiaries of members. (1913, c. 89, s. 17; C. S. 6503.)

Editor’s Note.—See Shackleford v. Sovereign Camp, W. O. W., 209 N. C. 633, 184 S. E. 691, where a distinction is made between waiver by local agents, prohibited by this section, and a custom of dealing established over a period of years to the knowledge of the home office.

§ 58-277. Place of meeting; location of office.—Any domestic society may provide that the meetings of its legislative or governing body may be held in any state, district, province, or territory wherein such society has subordinate branches, and all business transacted at such meetings shall be as valid in all respects as if such meetings were held in this state; but its principal office shall be located in this state. (1913, c. 89, s. 15; C. S. 6504.)

§ 58-278. No personal liability for benefits.—Officers and members of the supreme, grand, or any subordinate body of any such incorporated
§ 58-279. Qualifications for membership.—Any society may admit to beneficial membership any person not less than sixteen and not more than sixty years of age, who has been examined by a legally qualified physician, and whose examination has been supervised and approved in accordance with the laws of the society: Provided, that any beneficiary member of such society who shall apply for a certificate providing for disability benefits need not be required to pass an additional medical examination therefor. Nothing herein contained shall prevent such society from accepting general or social members. (1913, c. 89, s. 4; C. S. 6506.)

§ 58-280. Benefits.—1. Every society transacting business under this article shall provide for the payment of death benefits, and may provide for the payment of benefits in case of permanent or temporary physical disability, either as the result of disease, accident, or old age, and for monuments or tombstones to the memory of its deceased members, and for the payment of funeral benefits: Provided, the period of life at which the payment of benefits for disability on account of old age shall commence shall not be under seventy years. Such society shall have the power to give a member, when permanently disabled or on attaining the age of seventy, all or such portion of the face value of his certificate as the laws of the society may provide; but nothing contained in this article shall be construed as to prevent the issuing of benefit certificates for a term of years less than the whole of life, which are payable upon the death or disability of the member occurring within the term for which the benefit certificate may be issued. Such society shall, upon written application of the member, have the power to accept a part of the periodical contributions in cash, and charge the remainder, not exceeding one-half of the periodical contribution, against the certificate, with interest payable or compounded annually at a rate not lower than four per cent per annum; but this privilege shall not be granted except to societies which have readjusted or may hereafter readjust their rates of contributions, and to contracts affected by such readjustment. 2. Any society which shall show by the annual valuation hereinafter provided for that it is accumulating and maintaining the reserve not lower than the usual reserve computed by the American experience table and four per cent interest, may grant to its members extended and paid-up protection, or such withdrawal equities as its constitution and laws may provide; but such grants shall in no case exceed in value the portion of the reserve to the credit of such members to whom they are made. (1913, c. 89, s. 4; C. S. 6507.)

§ 58-281. Beneficiaries.—The payment of death benefits shall be confined to wife, husband, relative by blood to the fourth degree, father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, stepfather, stepmother, step-children, children by legal adoption, or to a person or persons dependent upon the member, or, with the consent of the society, any charitable institution maintained by the society; and if after the issuance of the original certificate the member shall become dependent upon an incorporated charitable institution, he shall have the privilege, with the consent of the society, to make such institution his beneficiary. Within the above restrictions each member shall have the right to designate his beneficiary, and, from time to time, have the same changed in accordance with the laws, rules and regulations of the society, and no beneficiary shall have or obtain any vested interest in such benefit until the same has become due and payable upon the death of the member. Any society may, by its laws, limit the scope of beneficiaries within the above classes.

Provided, however, that any member or insured named in any contract or certificate of insurance issued by any beneficial fraternal order, lodge, society, or other insurance association, who has neither lawful spouse nor offspring, shall have the right, without regard to the amount payable thereunder, to have the death benefit provided for in any such contract or certificate of insurance made payable, or to have the named beneficiary changed, to the estate of such member or insured, or to his or her executors or administrators, and to make, a testamentary disposition of the proceeds thereof, or to have such death benefit made payable, or to have the named beneficiary changed, to a trustee to be named and appointed by such insured, and to impress the proceeds in the hands of such trustee with a trust, the terms and provisions of the charter, rules, by-laws and regulations of any such beneficial fraternal order, lodge, society, or other insurance association, to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided further, that in case a husband or wife is designated as beneficiary and subsequently comes absolutely divorced from the member or insured, such divorce shall automatically annul the designation. (1913, c. 89, s. 5; 1931, c. 161; 1937, c. 178; C. S. 6508.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 inserted the words "or the consent of the society, any charitable institution maintained by the society," beginning in line seven of this section.

The 1937 amendment added the provisos at the end of this section.

See 13 N. C. L. Rev. 96.

This section has heretofore confined the beneficiaries of fraternal insurance policies, with minor exceptions, to relatives and dependents of the insured. As amended, this section now permits the insured to name in addition, as beneficiaries, his estate, or a trustee, anything in the constitution or by-laws of the association, to the contrary notwithstanding. A third proviso adds that after absolute divorce a wife named as beneficiary loses her rights as such. The effect of the first and third of these provisions is clear. In permitting the insured to designate his estate as beneficiary, the amendment brings fraternal insurance more closely in line with old line insurance. It perhaps renders the provision unnecessary. The 1937 amendment has herefore been prevented from so doing. In destroying the rights of a divorced wife as beneficiary, this section does not for an insured what might unintentionally have neglected to do. The provision permitting the insured to designate a trustee as beneficiary seems designed to counteract the effects of the recent case of Equitable Trust Co. v. Widows' and Orphans' Benefit Society of the City of New York, 162 N. Y. 728, 59 N. E. 799, holding invalid an attempt to name as beneficiary a corporate trustee. As amended, however, the section is ambiguos. It does not make clear whether the trustee may be a corporation, or whether he must be a natural person. Whether the trustee, as defined by the trust must be relatives or dependants of the insured. If not, the amendment gives the insured carte blanche, by the device of a trust, to name any beneficiary he desires. Such an amendment, unless the usual device of a trust is a device of a trust, to name any beneficiary he desires. And it leaves unclear whether the beneficiaries of the device of a trust, to name any beneficiary he desires.

Certificate in force until the death of the insured a short time against Certificate or Vest Interest in It.—Where insured's the insured's brother was entitled to the proceeds there- of, to the exclusion of the wife's nephew who claimed un- cate the insured's brother was entitled to the proceeds there- ' government may, by its contract and constitution, confine der the will of the wife, the payment of dues or premiums thereafter, it was held that under the terms of the certifi- ance of a fraternal order is limited to the wife, certain rela- tions to the charter or articles of incorporation, or articles of association if a voluntary association, constitution or laws duly made or enacted subsequent to the issuance of the benefit certificate, shall bind the member and his beneficiaries, and shall govern and control the agreement in all respects the same as though such changes, additions, or amendments had been made prior to and were in force at the time of the application for membership. (1913, c. 89, s. 7; C. S. 6590.)

Recovery of Policy Holder When Policy Cancelled.—Where a fraternal benefit society has issued a policy of life insur- ance to a member, and has charged him premiums on said policy as to impair the vested rights of the insured under his con- tract, and refuses to accept the proper premium, and de- clares the policy void, the insured may maintain his action to recover the premiums paid on said policy, and the court shall pay on his policy, and simple interest thereon. Wilson v. Supreme Conclave, 174 N. C. 628, 94 S. E. 443.

Altering Constitution or By-Laws.—A general consent of a policy-holder in an assessment fraternal benefit society that the company may thereafter alter or amend its constitution or by-laws does not authorize the society to make such changes as will impair the vested right of its members and policy-holders arising under the contract of insurance with the company. Wilson v. Supreme Conclave, 174 N. C. 628, 94 S. E. 443.

Suspension or Termination of Members.—Where fraternal benefit insurance societies are required to file certified copies of changes made in their constitution and by-laws with the Insurance Commission within 90 days, and fail to do so, they may, while thus in default, suspend a member for non- compliance therewith. Wilson v. Supreme Conclave, 174 N. C. 628, 94 S. E. 443.

Proo of Forfeiture of Benefits.—A stipulation in a policy of endowment in a fraternal order requiring the member to be in good standing at the time of his death, and that "the records of the Grand Lodge shall sustain the same," must be construed in reference to provisions in the charter and by-laws of the order, that the member may only be sus- pended for failure to pay his dues for six months, of which notice shall be given him, and that in his absence will not have the effect of suspending him from benefits when there is no evidence that he had failed to pay his dues for the stated period or that notice had been given in accordance with the constitution and by-laws. Wil- kie v. National Council J. O. U. A. M., 151 N. C. 527, 66 S. E. 579, cited and distinguished. Lyons v. Knights of Pythias, 172 N. C. 408, 90 S. E. 423.

False Representations of Insured.—Where an insurance policy in a fraternal order is issued in violation of certain restrictions contained in the constitution and by-laws of the order, and the evidence tending to show that this fact was known at the time to the applicant, and the policy was issued by reason of false and material statements on the part of the applicant, the company is not estopped, as a conclusion of law, from resisting payment of the policy because of the fact that the agent of the company also knew that the applicant's statements were false. Robinson v. Brotherhood, 172 N. C. 113, 88 S. E. 537.

Waiver of Defects in Policy.—A policy in the insurance department of a fraternal order cannot be recovered on when issued by a local agent contrary to its rules and regulations as contained in its constitution and by-laws, unless the de-§ 58-283. Benefits not subject to debts.—No money or other benefit, charity or relief or aid to be paid, provided, or rendered by any such society or association for the relief of employees including railroad and other relief associations shall be liable to attachment, garnishment, or other process, or be seized, taken, appropriated, or applied by any legal or equitable process or operation of law to pay any debt or liability of a member or beneficiary or any other person who may have a right thereunder, either before or after payment. (1913, c. 89, s. 18; 1925, c. 83; C. S. 6510.)

Funds Become Trust Funds.—Where the constitution of a foreign fraternal insurance society provided for the creation of a fund to be raised from assessments upon its members for the benefit of widows and orphans of deceased members, any money paid to such fund is impressed with the qualities of a trust for the special purposes expressed, and such fund in the hands of a local collector, which he was bound to pay over to the society's treasurer, is not subject to an attachment by a creditor of the society. Brenizer v. Royal Arcanum, 141 N. C. 499, 53 S. E. 835.

In 3 N. C. Law Rev. at p. 130 in considering this section it is said: it "provides that in the case of fraternal benefit societies, no money or other relief furnished by such societies shall be liable to attachment, garnishment, or other process, to pay any debt or liability of a member or beneficiary, either before or after payment." Chapter 83 extends this exemption so as to apply to any "society or association for the relief of employees, including railroad and other relief associations."

§ 58-284. Certificates of insurance to members.—Any fraternal benefit society authorized to do business in this state which shall accumulate and maintain the reserves, on all certificates hereafter issued, required by the American Experience Table of Mortality, with Craig's or Buttolph's Extension thereof, or the Standard Industrial Table of Mortality, with an interest assumption of not more than three and one-half per centum per annum, shall be held to meet the requirements of this article unless the society, domestic or foreign, shall hereafter be incorporated or admitted to transact business in this state which does not provide for stated periodical or other payments by the members of the society and accretions of said funds. But no society, domestic or foreign, shall hereafter be incorporated or admitted to transact business in this state which does not provide for stated periodical contributions sufficient to provide for meeting the mortality obligations contracted, when valued upon the basis of the national fraternal congress table of mortality as adopted by the national fraternal congress, August twenty-third, one thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine, or any higher standard, with interest assumption not more than four per cent per annum, nor write or accept members for temporary or permanent disability benefits except upon tables based upon reliable experience, with an interest assumption not higher than four per cent.

3. Deferred payments or installments of claims shall be considered as fixed liabilities on the happening of the contingency upon which such payments or installments are thereafter to be paid. Such liability shall be the present value of such future payments or installments upon the rate of interest and mortality assumed by the society for valuation, and every society shall maintain a fund sufficient to meet such liability regardless of proposed future collections to meet any such liabilities. (1913, c. 89, s. 9; C. S. 6511.)

§ 58-286. Investment of funds.—Every society shall invest its funds only in securities permitted by the laws of this state for the investment of the assets of life insurance companies: Provided, that any foreign society permitted or seeking to do business in this state, which invests its funds in accordance with the laws of the state in which it is incorporated where it has such laws, shall be held to meet the requirements of this article for the investment of funds. (1913, c. 89, s. 9; C. S. 6512.)

Cross References.—As to investment in bonds guaranteed by the United States, see § 53-44. As to investment in bonds or notes secured by mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration, see § 53-45. See also § 53-60 as to investments in Federal Farm loan bonds, and § 142-29 as to investment in refunding bonds of North Carolina.

§ 58-287. Application of funds.—Every provision of the laws of the society for payment by its members, in whatever form made, shall distinctly state the purpose thereof, the same and the proportion thereof which may be used for expenses, and no part of the money collected for mortuary purposes or the net accretions of either or any of said funds shall be used for expenses. (1913, c. 89, s. 10; C. S. 6513.)

§ 58-288. Powers of existing societies retained; reincorporation.—Any society now engaged in transacting business in this state may exercise all of the rights conferred by this article, and all the rights, powers, and privileges now exercised or possessed by it under its charter or articles of incorporation not inconsistent with this article, if incorporated; or, if it be a voluntary association, it may incorporate hereunder. But no society already organized shall be required to reincorporate hereunder, and any such society may amend its articles of incorporation from time to time in the manner provided by law. (1913, c. 89, s. 12; C. S. 6514.)

§ 58-289. Mergers and transfers.—No domestic society shall merge with or accept the transfer of the membership or funds of any other society unless such merger or transfer is evidenced by a contract in writing, setting out in full the terms and conditions of such merger or transfer, and is filed with the commissioner of insurance of this state, together with a sworn statement of the financial condition of each of the societies, by its president and secretary or corresponding officers, and a certificate duly verified under oath of said officers of each of the contracting societies that such merger or transfer has been approved by a vote of two-thirds of the members of the supreme legislative or governing body of each of the societies.

Upon the submission of such contract, financial statements, and certificates, the commissioner of insurance shall examine the same, and if he shall find such financial statements to be correct and the contract to be in conformity with the provisions of this section, and that such merger or transfer is just and equitable to the members of each of the societies, he shall approve the merger or transfer, issue his certificate to that effect, and thereupon the contract of merger or transfer shall be of full force and effect.

In case such contract is not approved, the fact of its submission and its contents shall not be disclosed by the commissioner of insurance. (1913, c. 89, s. 13; C. S. 6515.)

§ 58-290. Accident societies may be licensed.—Any fraternal benefit society heretofore organized and incorporated, and operating within the definition set forth in this article, providing for benefits in case of death or disability resulting solely from accidents, but which does not obligate itself to pay death or sick benefits, may be licensed under the provisions of this article, and shall have all the privileges and be subject to all the provisions and regulations of this article, except the provisions requiring medical examinations, valuations of benefit certificates, and that the certificate shall specify the amount of benefits. (1913, c. 89, s. 27; C. S. 6517.)

§ 58-291. Certain societies not included.—Nothing contained in this article shall be construed to affect or apply to societies which limit their membership to any one hazardous occupation, nor to any associations of local lodges of a society now doing business in this state which provides death benefits not exceeding five hundred dollars to any one person or disability benefits not exceeding three hundred dollars in any one year to any one person, or both, nor to any contracts of reinsurance business on such plan in this state, nor to domestic societies which limit their membership to the employees of a particular city or town, designated firm, business house, or corporation, nor to domestic lodges, orders, or associations of a purely religious, charitable, and benevolent description, which do not provide for a death benefit of more than one hundred dollars, or for disability benefits of more than one hundred and fifty dollars to any one person in any one year. The commissioner of insurance may require from any society such information as will enable him to determine whether such society is exempt from the provisions of this article. (1913, c. 89, s. 26; 1925, c. 70, s. 2; C. S. 6518.)

Service on Resident Secretary Valid. — Personal service on resident secretary of fraternal insurance association allowed to do business in the State without a license under this section and §§ 58-15, 58-221, and 58-222, held valid service on the association in action on policy. Winchester v. Grand Lodge of Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, 203 N. C. 735, 167 S. E. 49.

§ 58-292. Reports to commissioner of insurance. 1. Annual Report.—Every society transacting business in this state shall annually, on or before the first day of March, file with the commissioner of insurance, in such form as he may require, a statement, under oath of its president and secretary or corresponding officers, of its condition and standing on the thirty-first day of December next preceding, and of its transactions for the year ending on that date, and also shall furnish such other information as the commissioner may deem necessary to a proper exhibit of its business and plan of working. The commissioner may at other times require any further statement he may deem necessary to be made relating to such society.

2. Valuation of Certificates.—In addition to the annual report herein required, each society shall annually report to the commissioner a valuation of its certificates in force on December thirty-first, last preceding, excluding those issued within the year for which the report is filed, in cases where the contributions for the first year in whole or in part are used for current mortality and expenses. Such report of valuation shall show, as contingent liabilities, the present mid-year value of the promised benefits provided in the constitution and laws of such society under certificates then subject to valuation; and as contingent assets, the present mid-year value of the future net contributions provided in the constitution and laws as the same are in practice actually collected. At the option of any society, in lieu of the above, the valuation may show the net value of the certificates subject to valuation hereinbefore provided, and the net value, when computed in case of monthly contributions, may be the mean of the terminal valuations of the last month of the preceding and of the current insurance years.

3. Valuation Ascertained.—Such valuation shall be certified by a competent accountant or actuary, or, at the request and expense of the society, verified by the actuary of the department of insurance of the home state of the society, and shall be filed with the commissioner within ninety days after the submission of the last preceding annual report. The legal minimum standard of valuation for all certificates, except for disability benefits, shall be the national fraternal congress table of mortality as adopted by the national fraternal congress, August twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, or, at the option of the society, any higher table; or, at its option, it may use a table based upon the society's own experience of at least twenty years and covering not less than one hundred thousand lives with interest assumption not more than four per centum per annum. Each such valuation report shall set forth clearly and fully the mortality and interest basis and the method of valuation. Any society providing for disability benefits shall keep the net contributions for such benefits in a fund separate and apart from all other benefit and expense funds and the valuation of all other business of the society: Provided, that where a combined contribution table is used by a society for both death and permanent total disability benefits, the valuation shall be according to tables of reliable experience, and in such case a separation of the funds shall not be required.

4. Test of Solvency.—The valuation herein provided for shall not be considered or regarded as a test of the financial solvency of the society, but each society shall be held to be legally solvent so long as the funds in its possession are equal to or in excess of its matured liabilities.

5. Report Mailed to Members.—A report of such valuation and an explanation of the facts concerning the condition of the society thereby disclosed shall be printed and mailed to each beneficiary member of the society not later than June first of each year; or, in lieu thereof, such report of valuation and showing of the society's condition as thereby disclosed may be published in the society's official paper, and the issue containing the same mailed to each beneficiary member of the society. (1913, c. 89, s. 20; C. S. 6519.)

§ 58-293. Additional or increased rates.—The laws of such society shall provide that if the stated periodical contributions of the members are insufficient to pay all matured death and disability claims in full, and to provide for the creation and maintenance of the funds required by its laws, additional, increased, or extra rates of contribution shall be collected from the members to meet such deficiency; and such laws may provide that, upon the written application or consent of the member, his certificate may be charged with its proportion of any deficiency disclosed by valuation, with interest not exceeding five per centum per annum. (1913, c. 89, s. 20; C. S. 6520.)

§ 58-294. Provisions to insure future security.—If the valuation of the certificates, as hereinbefore provided, on December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, shall show that the present value of future net contributions, together with the admitted assets, is less than the present value of the promised benefits and accrued liabilities, such society shall thereafter maintain said financial condition at each succeeding triennial valuation in respect of the degree of efficiency as shown in the valuation as of December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen. If at any succeeding triennial valuation such society does not show at least the same condition, the commissioner shall direct that it thereafter comply with the requirements herein specified. If the next succeeding triennial valuation after the receipt of such notice shall show that the society has failed to maintain the condition required herein, the commissioner may, in the absence of good cause shown for such failure, institute proceedings for the dissolution of such society, in accordance with the provisions of this article, or in the case of a foreign society, its license may be canceled in the manner provided in this article.

Any such society, shown by any triennial valuation, subsequent to December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, not to have maintained the condition herein required, shall, within two years thereafter, make such improvement as to show a percentage of deficiency not greater than as of December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, or thereafter, as to all new members admitted, to be subject, so far as stated rates of contributions are concerned, to the provisions of this article, applicable in the organization of new societies: Provided, that the net mortuary or beneficiary contributions and funds of such new members shall be kept separate and apart from the other funds of the society. If such required improvement is not shown by the succeeding triennial valuation, then the new members may be placed in a separate class and their certificates valued as an independent society in respect of contributions and funds. (1913, c. 89, s. 20(a); C. S. 6521.)

§ 58-295. Valuation on accumulation basis; tabular basis.—In lieu of the requirements of the two preceding sections, any society accepting in its laws the provisions of this section may value its certificates on a basis herein designated "accumulation basis," by crediting each member with the net amount contributed for each year, and with interest at approximately the net rate earned and by charging him with his shares of the losses for each year, herein designated "cost of insurance," and carrying the balance, if any, to his credit. The charge for the cost of insurance may be according to the actual experience of the society applied to a table of mortality recognized by the law of this state, and shall take into consideration the amount at risk during each year, which shall be the amount payable at death, less the credit to the member. Except as specifically provided in its articles or laws or contracts, no charge shall be carried forward from the first valuation hereunder against any member of any past share of losses exceeding the contributions and credit. If, after the first valuation, any member's share of losses for any year exceeds his credit, including the contribution for the year, the contribution shall be increased to cover his share of the losses. Any such excess share of losses chargeable to any member may be paid out of a fund or contributions especially created or required for such purpose.

Any member may transfer to any plan adopted by the society with net rates on which tabular reserves are maintained, and on such transfer shall be entitled to make such application of his credit as provided in the laws of the society. Certificates issued, rerated, or readjusted on a basis providing for adequate rates with adequate reserves to mature such certificates upon assumptions for mortality and interest recognized by the law of this state, shall be valued on such basis, herein designated the "Tabular Basis": Provided, that if on the first valuation under this section a deficiency in reserve shall be shown for any such certificate, the same shall be valued on the accumulation basis.
Whenever, in any society having members upon the tabular basis and upon the accumulation basis, the total of all costs of insurance provided for any year shall be insufficient to meet the actual death and disability losses for the year, the deficiency shall be met for the year from the available funds after setting aside all credits in the reserve; or from increased contributions or by an increase in the number of assessments applied to the society as a whole or to classes of members as may be specified in its laws. Savings from a lower amount of death losses may be returned in like manner as may be specified in its laws.
If the laws of the society so provide, the assets representing the reserves of any separate class of members may be carried separately for such class as if in an independent society, and the required reserve accumulation of such class so set apart shall not thereafter be mingled with the assets of other classes of the society.
A table showing the credits to individual members for each age and year of entry and showing opposite each credit the tabular reserve required on the whole life or other plan of insurance specified in the contract, according to assumptions for mortality and interest recognized by the law of this state and adopted by the society, shall be filed by the society with each annual report, and also be furnished to each member before July first of each year.
In lieu of the aforesaid statement there may be furnished to each member within the same time a statement giving the credit for such member and giving the tabular reserve and level rate required for a transfer carrying out the plan of insurance specified in the contract. No table or statement need be made or furnished where the reserves are maintained on the tabular basis.
For this purpose individual bookkeeping accounts for each member shall not be required, and all calculations may be made by actuarial methods.
Nothing herein contained shall prevent the maintenance of such surplus over and above the credits on the accumulation basis and the reserves on the tabular basis pursuant to its laws; nor be construed as giving to the individual member any right or claim to any such reserve or credit other than in manner as expressed in the contract and its laws; nor as making any such reserve or credits a liability in determining the legal solvency or the society. (1913, c. 89, s. 20(h); C. S. 6532.)
§ 58-296. Examination of domestic societies.—
The commissioner of insurance, or any person he may appoint, shall have power of visitation and examination into the affairs of any domestic society. He may employ assistants for the purpose of such examination, and he, or any person he may appoint, shall have free access to all the books, papers, and documents that relate to the business of the society, and may summon and qualify as witness under oath and examine its officers, agents, and employees or other persons in relation to the affairs, transactions, and condition of the society.
The expense of such examination shall be paid by the society examined upon statement furnished by the commissioner of insurance, and the examination shall be made at least once in three years.
(1913, c. 89, s. 21; C. S. 6533.)
§ 58-297. Proceedings for dissolution.—When after examination the commissioner of insurance is satisfied that any domestic society has failed to comply with any provision of this article, or is exceeding its powers, or is not carrying out its contracts in good faith, or is transacting business fraudulently; or whenever any domestic society, after the existence of one year or more, shall have a membership of less than four hundred (or shall determine to discontinue business), the commissioner of insurance may present the facts relating thereto to the attorney-general who shall, if he deem the circumstances warrant, commence an action in quo warranto in a court of competent jurisdiction, and such court shall thereupon notify the officers of such society of a hearing, and if it shall then appear that such society should be closed, it shall be enjoined from carrying on any further business, and a receiver shall be appointed to take possession of its books, papers, and documents that relate to the business of the society, and may search and take all necessary and proper legal action and proceedings for the dissolution of or the appointment of a receiver for any such domestic society or branch thereof shall be entertained by any court in this state unless the same is made by the attorney-general. (1913, c. 89, s. 22; C. S. 6535.)
§ 58-298. Proceedings only by attorney-general.
—No application for injunction against or proceedings for the dissolution of or the appointment of a receiver for any such domestic society or branch thereof shall be entertained by any court in this state unless the same is made by the attorney-general. (1913, c. 89, s. 22; C. S. 6535.)
§ 58-299. Examination of foreign societies.—The commissioner of insurance or any person whom he may appoint may examine any foreign society transacting or applying for admission to transact business in this state. The commissioner may employ assistants, and he, or any person he may appoint, shall have free access to all the books, papers, and documents that relate to the business of the society, and may summon and qualify as witess under oath and examine its officers, agents, and employees and other persons in relation to the affairs, transactions, and condition of the society.
He may, in his discretion, accept in lieu of such examination the examination of the insurance department of the state, territory, district, province, or country where such society is organized.
The actual expenses of examiners making any such examination shall be paid by the society upon statement furnished by the commissioner of insurance.
If any such society or its officers refuse to submit to such examination or to comply with the provisions of the section relative thereto, its authority to write new business in this state shall be suspended or license refused until satisfactory evidence is furnished the commissioner relating to its condition and affairs, and during such suspension the society shall not write new business in this state. (1913, c. 89, s. 23; C. S. 6536.)
§ 58-300. No adverse publications. — Pending, during, or after an examination or investigation of any such society, either domestic or foreign, the commissioner of insurance shall make public no financial statement, report, or finding, nor shall he knowingly permit to become public any financial statement, report, or finding affecting the status, standing, or rights of any such society, until a copy thereof has been served upon the society, at its home office, nor until the society has been afforded a reasonable opportunity to answer any such financial statement, report, or finding, and to make such showing in connection therewith as it may desire. (1913, c. 89, s. 24; C. S. 6527.)

§ 58-301. Revocation of license.—When the commissioner of insurance on investigation is satisfied that any foreign society transacting business under this article has exceeded its powers, or has failed to comply with any provisions of this article, or is conducting business fraudulently, or is not carrying out its contracts in good faith, he shall notify the society of his findings, and state in writing the grounds of his dissatisfaction, and after reasonable notice require the society, on a date named, to show cause why its license should not be revoked. If on the date named in the notice such objections have not been removed to the satisfaction of the commissioner, or the society does not present good and sufficient reasons why its authority to transact business in this state should not at that time be revoked, he may revoke the authority to continue business in this state. All decisions and findings of the commissioner made under the provisions of this section may be reviewed by proper proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction, as provided in this article. (1913, c. 89, s. 25; C. S. 6528.)

§ 58-302. Criminal offenses.—Any person, officer, member, or examining physician of any society authorized to do business under this article who shall knowingly or willfully make any false or fraudulent statement or representation in or with reference to any application for membership, or for the purpose of obtaining money from or benefit in any society transacting business under this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Any person who shall solicit membership for, or in any manner assist in procuring membership in any fraternal benefit society not licensed to do business in this state, or who shall solicit membership for, or in any manner assist in procuring membership in any such society not authorized as herein provided, to do business as herein defined in this state, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars.

Any society, or any officer, agent, or employee thereof, neglecting or refusing to comply with, or violating any of the provisions of this article, the penalty for which neglect, refusal, or violation is not specified in this section, shall be fined not exceeding two hundred dollars upon conviction thereof. (1913, c. 89, s. 28; C. S. 6529.)

§ 58-303. Merger, consolidation, or reinsurance of risks, with other fraternal benefit societies.—No fraternal benefit society organized under the laws of this state to do the business of life, accident, or health insurance, shall consolidate or merge with any other fraternal benefit society, or reinsurance its insurance risks, or any part thereof with any other fraternal benefit society, or assume or reinsurance the whole or any portion of the risks of any other fraternal benefit society, except as herein provided. No fraternal benefit society or subordinate body thereof shall merge, consolidate with, or be reinsured by any company or association not licensed to transact business as a fraternal beneficiary society. (1921, c. 60, s. 1; C. S. 6529(a).)

§ 58-304. Contract approved by governing bodies of parties to same; approval by commissioner of insurance.—When any such fraternal benefit society shall propose to consolidate or merge its business or to enter into any contract of reinsurance, or to assume or reinsure the whole or any portion of the risks of any other fraternal benefit society, the proposed contract in writing setting forth the terms and conditions of such proposed consolidation, merger, or reinsurance shall be submitted to the legislative or governing bodies of each of said parties to said contract after due notice, and if approved such contract as so approved, shall be submitted to the commissioner of insurance of this state for his approval, and the parties to said contract shall at the same time submit a sworn statement showing the financial condition of each of such fraternal benefit societies as of the thirty-first day of December preceding the date of such contract: Provided, that such commissioner of insurance may, within his discretion, require such financial statement to be submitted as of the last day of the month preceding the date of such contract. The commissioner of insurance shall thereupon consider such contract of consolidation, merger, or reinsurance, and if satisfied that the interests of the certificate holders of such fraternal benefit societies are properly protected, and that such contract is just and equitable to the members of each of such societies, and that no reasonable objection exists thereto, shall approve said contract as submitted. In case the parties corporate to such a contract shall have been incorporated in separate states, or territories, such contract shall be submitted as herein provided to the commissioner of insurance of each of such incorporating states, or territories, to be considered and approved separately by each of such commissioners of insurance. When said contract of consolidation, merger, or reinsurance shall have been approved as hereinabove provided, such commissioner of insurance shall issue a certificate to that effect, and thereupon the said contract of consolidation, merger, or reinsurance shall be in full force and effect. In case such contract is not approved, the fact of its submission and its contents shall not be

§ 58-305. Expenses; compensation to officers or employees of contracting parties and state employees.—All necessary and actual expenses and compensation incident to the proceedings provided in this law shall be paid as provided by such contract of consolidation, merger, or reinsurance: Provided, however, that no brokerage or commission shall be included in such expenses and compensation or shall be paid to any person by either of the parties to any such contract in connection with the negotiation therefor or execution thereof, nor shall any compensation be paid to any officer or employee of either of the parties to such contract for directly or indirectly aiding in effecting such contract of consolidation, merger, or reinsurance. An itemized statement of all such expenses shall be filed with the commissioner of insurance, subject to approval, and when approved the same shall be binding on the parties thereto. Except as fully expressed in the contract of consolidation, merger or reinsurance, or itemized statement of expenses, as approved by the commissioner of insurance, or commissioners, as the case may be, no compensation shall be paid to any person or persons, and no officer or employee of the state shall receive any compensation, directly or indirectly, for in any manner aiding, promoting, or assisting any such consolidation, merger, or reinsurance. (1921, c. 60, s. 3; C. S. 6529(c).)

§ 58-306. Violation of law a felony.—Any person violating the provisions of §§ 58-303, 58-304, and 58-305 shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be liable to a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or to imprisonment for not more than five years, or to both fine and imprisonment. (1921, c. 60, s. 4; C. S. 6529(d).)

§ 58-307. Appointment of commissioner of insurance as process agent.—Every foreign fraternal benefit society except labor organizations which limit their admission to membership to persons engaged in one or more hazardous occupations in the same or similar lines of business now transacting business in this state shall, within thirty days after the passage of this section, and every such society hereafter applying for admission shall, before being licensed, appoint in writing the commissioner of insurance and his successors in office to be its true and lawful attorney upon whom all legal process in any action or proceeding against it shall be served, and in such writing shall agree that any lawful process against it which is served upon such attorney shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served upon the society, and that the authority shall continue in force so long as any liability remains outstanding in this state. Copies of such appointment, certified by said commissioner of insurance, shall be deemed sufficient evidence thereof and shall be admitted in evidence with the same force and effect as the original thereof might be admitted. Service shall be made in duplicate upon the commissioner of insurance, or in his absence upon the person in charge of his office, and shall be deemed sufficient service upon said society. When legal service against any such society is served upon said commissioner of insurance he shall forthwith forward by registered mail one of the duplicate copies, prepaid and directed to its secretary or corresponding officer. No such service shall be valid or binding against any such society when it is required thereunder to file its answer, pleading or defense in less than thirty days from the date of mailing the copy of such service to such society. Legal process shall not be served upon any such society except in the manner provided therein. As a condition precedent to a valid service of process and to the duty of the commissioner in the premises, the plaintiff shall pay to the commissioner of insurance at the time of service the sum of one ($1.00) dollar, which the plaintiff shall recover as taxable costs if he prevails in his action. (1939, c. 130.)

Cross Reference.—As to other ways in which a foreign insurance company may be served with a copy of process, see §§ 1-97, 55-38.

Art. 29. Whole Family Protection.

§ 58-308. Insurance on children.—Any fraternal order or fraternal benefit society authorized to do business in this State and operating on the lodge plan may provide in its constitution and by-laws, in addition to other benefits provided for therein, for the payment of death or annuity benefits upon the lives of children between the ages of one and sixteen years at next birthday, for whose support and maintenance a member of such society is responsible. The society may at its option organize and operate branches for such children and membership in local lodges, and initiation therein shall not be required of such children, nor shall they have any voice in the management of the society. The total benefits payable as above provided shall in no case exceed the following amounts at ages at next birthday at time of death, respectively, as follows: one year, twenty dollars; two years, fifty dollars; three years, seventy-five dollars; four years, one hundred dollars; five years, one hundred twenty-five dollars; six years, one hundred fifty dollars; seven years, one hundred seventy-five dollars; eight years, one hundred dollars; nine years, one hundred twenty-five dollars; ten years, one hundred fifty dollars; eleven years, one hundred seventy-five dollars; twelve years, one hundred dollars; thirteen years, one hundred twenty-five dollars; fourteen years, one hundred dollars; fifteen years, one hundred twenty-five dollars; sixteen years, one hundred dollars. Provided, any fraternal benefit society which shall accumulate and maintain the reserves required by a table of mortality not lower than the American Experience Table of Mortality, with an interest assumption of not more than four per cent, may accept members at such ages, and children under sixteen years of age, in such manner and upon such showing of eligibility, and issue to its members or children under sixteen years of age, such forms of certificates, payable to such beneficiaries, and for such amounts, as its constitution and laws may provide. Children under sixteen years of age shall have no voice or vote. (1917, c. 239, s. 1; 1931, c. 38; 1937, c. 208; C. S. 6530.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 repealed the former section and substituted the above in lieu thereof. Formerly § 58-309. Medical examination; certificates and contributions.—No benefit certificate as to any child shall take effect until after medical examination or inspection by a licensed medical practitioner, in accordance with the laws of the society, nor shall any such benefit certificate be issued unless the society shall simultaneously put in force at least five hundred such certificates, on each of which at least one assessment has been made. Any new certificate representing by such certificate falls below five hundred. The death benefit contributions to be made upon such certificate shall be based upon the "Standard Mortality Table" or the "English Life Table Number Six," and a rate of interest not greater than four per cent per annum, or upon a higher standard; but contributions may be waived or returns may be made from any surplus held in excess of reserve and other liabilities, as provided in the by-laws; and extra contributions shall be made if the reserves hereafter provided for become impaired. (1917, c. 239, s. 2; C. S. 6531.)

§ 58-310. Reserve fund; exchange of certificates.—Any society entering into such insurance agreements shall maintain on all such contracts the reserve required by the standard of mortality and interest adopted by the society for computing contributions as provided in § 58-309, and the funds representing the benefit contributions and all accretions thereon shall be kept as separate and distinct funds, independent of the other funds of the society, and shall not be liable for or used for the payment of the debts and obligations of the society other than the benefits herein authorized. A society may provide that when a child reaches the minimum age for initiation into membership in such society, any benefit certificate issued hereunder may be surrendered for cancellation and exchanged for any other form of certificate issued by the society: Provided, that such surrender will not reduce the number of lives insured in the branch below five hundred; and upon the issuance of such new certificate any reserve upon the original certificate herein provided for shall be transferred to the credit of the new certificate. Neither the person who originally made application for benefits on account of such child, nor the beneficiary named in such original certificate, nor the person who paid the contributions, shall have any vested right in such new certificate, the free nomination of a beneficiary under the new certificate being left to the child so admitted to benefit membership. (1917, c. 239, s. 3; C. S. 6532.)

§ 58-311. Separation of funds.—An entirely separate financial statement of the business transactions and of assets and liabilities arising therefrom shall be made in its annual report to the commissioner of insurance by any society availing itself of the provisions hereof. The separation of assets, funds, and liabilities required hereby shall not be terminated, rescinded, or modified, nor shall the funds be diverted for any use other than as specified in the preceding section, as long as any certificates issued hereunder remain in force, and this requirement shall be recognized and enforced in liquidation, reinsurance, merger, or other change in the condition or the status of the society. (1917, c. 239, s. 4; C. S. 6533.)

§ 58-312. Payments to expense or general fund.—Any society shall have the right to provide in its laws and the certificate issued hereunder for specified payments on account of the expense or general fund, which payments shall or shall not be mingled with the general fund of the society, as its constitution and by-laws may provide. (1917, c. 239, s. 5; C. S. 6534.)

§ 58-313. Continuation of certificates.—In the event of the termination of membership in the society by the person responsible for the support of any child on whose account a certificate may have been issued as provided herein, the certificate may be continued for the benefit of the estate of the child, provided the contributions are continued, or for the benefit of any other person responsible for the support and maintenance of such child who shall assume the payment of the required contributions. (1917, c. 239, s. 6; C. S. 6535.)

§ 58-314. Appointment of trustees to hold property.—The lodges of Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, camps of Woodmen of the World, councils of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, orders of the Elks, Young Men's Christian Associations, Young Women's Christian Associations, societies for the care of orphans and indigent children, societies for the rescue of fallen women, and any other benevolent or fraternal orders and societies, may appoint from time to time suitable persons trustees of their bodies or societies, in such manner as they deem proper, which trustees, and their successors, shall have power to receive, purchase, take, and hold property, real and personal, in trust for such society or body. The trustees shall have power, when instructed so to do by resolution adopted by the society or body which they represent, to mortgage or sell and convey in fee simple any real or personal property owned by the society or body; and the conveyances so made by the trustees shall be effective to pass the property in fee simple to the purchaser or to the mortgagee or trustee for the purposes in such conveyance or mortgage expressed. If there shall be no trustee, then any real or personal property which could be held by such trustees shall vest in and be held by such charitable, benevolent, religious, or fraternal orders and societies, respectively, according to such intent. (1907, c. 22; 1915, cc. 149, 186; 1923, c. 257; C. S. 6536.)

Suspension of Members.—Where a local fraternal and benevolent lodge has existed under the constitution and by-laws of the supreme lodge requiring written notice to be given to its members before suspension as a financial member, etc., for nonpayment of dues, etc., and such notice has not been given accordingly: Held, a resolution passed at a meeting of the local lodge authorizing a sale and conveyance of its property by trustees without complying with this requirement, is valid, and at the suit of such wrongfully suspended members, an injunction will lie. Tyler v. Howell, 192 N. C. 433, 135 S. E. 133. [574]
§ 58-315. Unauthorized wearing of badges, etc. — Any person who fraudulently and wilfully wears the badge or button of any secret or fraternal organization or society, either in the identical form or in such near resemblance thereto as to be a colorable imitation thereof, or who fraudulently and wilfully uses the name of any such order or organization, the titles of its officers, or its insignia, ritual, or ceremonies, unless entitled to wear or use the same under the constitution and by-laws, rules and regulations of such secret or fraternal organization or society, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for thirty days, in the discretion of the court. (1907, c. 968; 1911, c. 37; 1915, c. 252; C. S. 6537.)

§ 58-316. Cooperative non-profit life benefit association defined.—Any corporation or association, domestic or foreign, issuing benefit certificates or policies of life, health or accident insurance upon the lives or health of its members, having a representative form of government without capital stock and conducting its business without profit and for the sole benefit of its members and their beneficiaries and maintaining the reserves as herein provided and all contracts issued by it, which shall make acceptable written application to become such and shall comply with the provisions of this article is defined as a “Cooperative Non-profit Life Benefit Association.” (1927, c. 30, s. 1.)

§ 58-317. Form of corporate government.—Such association shall have a constitution, laws and/or by-laws providing for a representative form of government for the management of the association; providing for a legislative or governing body composed of its officers and representatives to be elected either by the adult members or by delegates elected directly or indirectly by the adult members, and providing for the manner of selecting representatives of the members for membership in its legislative body. The elected members of the governing body shall have not less than two-thirds of the votes of said body, nor less than the votes required to amend its constitution, laws and by-laws, and the governing body shall meet as often as once in four years (or any time during the fourth year after a meeting). Meetings of its governing body may be held in any state, province or country where such association is authorized to do business. The members of the governing body shall not vote by proxy.

Officers to conduct the business of the association shall be elected by such body, but not for a longer period than four years or/and until the subsequent quadrennial meeting of said body. Such officers, by whatever name known, shall constitute the Board of Directors. (1927, c. 30, s. 2.)

§ 58-318. Basis upon which insurance contracts may be issued.—Any such association maintaining reserves based upon the American Experience Table of Mortality, with an interest assumption of not more than 4% or some higher standard, or upon any minimum standard hereafter allowed by law in this State for legal reserve life insurance companies, may issue contracts of insurance, life, health, accident, annuities and endowments or all of them combined or separately, upon the health and lives of children and adults.

Any association licensed to do business under the provisions of this act, which has theretofore enacted a provision in its constitution, laws and/or by-laws in relation to the rates to be paid by its members, or lien and interest charges in lieu of such rates, or any part thereof, shall maintain the provisions of such constitution, laws and/or by-laws in full force and effect or the equivalent thereof in all particulars as to such members.

Any such association desiring to do business in this State under the provisions of this article, which has all or any portion of its membership upon a rate or premium basis not producing the reserves herein required under the American Experience Table of Mortality with an interest assumption of not more than 4% and which also possesses the power to increase the rates or call extra assessments upon said membership, may be permitted to do business in this State as such association defined in this article if it shall, as to all business hereafter acquired by it, maintain reserves on such business based upon the American Experience Table of Mortality with an interest assumption of not more than four per cent, or upon any minimum standard allowed by law for legal reserve life insurance companies in this State or the state of its domicile; and the contracts of members theretofore admitted to membership shall be forever subject to increased rates or extra assessments and the association shall maintain the reserves on all of its prior business on a basis not less than the National Fraternal Congress Table of Mortality with an interest assumption of not more than four (4) per cent, or upon a table of mortality not less than that derived from its own experience covering a period of not less than twenty years and involving not less than one hundred thousand lives, with an interest assumption of not more than four per cent.; and the officers of such association shall provide for such increased rates or extra assessments as shall be necessary to maintain such reserves. (1927, c. 30, ss. 3, 3(a); 1927, c. 252.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1927 amendment, ch. 252, substituted four per cent for three and one-half per cent.

§ 58-319. Contracts in writing; fees not set out in policy forbidden.—All contracts for insurance or benefits shall be in writing. It shall be unlawful for any such association or any officer or agent to include in the sum charged a member, any fee, compensation, charge or perquisite whatsoever not specified in the policy or certificate except that a local medical examiner's fee may be charged. (1927, c. 30, s. 4.)

§ 58-320. All policies mutual and participating. — All beneficiary certificates or policies issued by such association on said American Experience Table of Mortality with said interest assumption or any higher standard, shall be mutual and participating, and the association may provide for automatic paid up or extended insurance for an amount not to exceed the amount the reserve to the credit of such member will purchase in the event of suspension after said certificate shall have § 58-321. Benefit not subject to seizure under process.—No money or other benefit, charity or relief or aid to be paid, provided or rendered by any such association, shall be liable to attachment, garnishment or other process, or be seized, taken, appropriated or applied by any legal or equitable process or operation of law to pay any debt or liability of a member, or his beneficiary, or any other person who may have a right thereunder, either before or after payment. (1927, c. 30, s. 6.)

§ 58-322. Officers and members not personally liable.—Officers and members of the supreme, grand or any subordinate body of such association, by whatever name known, shall not be individually liable for the payment of any disability or death or other benefits provided for in the laws and contracts of such association, but such benefits shall be payable out of the funds of such association and in the manner provided by its laws. (1927, c. 30, s. 7.)

§ 58-323. Authority to make laws.—Every such association shall have the power to make a constitution, laws and/or by-laws for the government of the association, the admission of its members, the management of its affairs and the fixing and readjustment of the rates of contribution of its members from time to time, and it shall have the power to change, add to or amend such constitution, laws or by-laws and shall have such other powers as are necessary to carry into effect the objects and purposes of the association; it may make refunds to its members equitably of any surplus funds of the association. (1927, c. 30, s. 8.)

§ 58-324. Constitution, laws and by-laws must be filed.—Every such association transacting business under this act shall file with the commissioner of insurance of this state, a duly certified copy of its constitution, laws or by-laws and all amendments or additions thereto. Copies of the same, certified to by the secretary or corresponding officer of the association, shall be prima facie evidence of the legal adoption and filing thereof. (1927, c. 30, s. 9.)

§ 58-325. Benefits, loan values and dividends.—Such association may provide for stipulated premiums and death, annuity, endowment and disability benefits, and for cash surrender and loan values to an amount not exceeding the reserve or the equivalent thereof, in paid up or extended term insurance, based upon the mortality standards set forth in this article. (1927, c. 30, s. 10.)

§ 58-326. May maintain hospitals and homes.—Such association may maintain homes for aged members, or children’s homes, hospitals or recreational centers, or any or all of said features, or any other charitable institution, and may provide for the erection of monuments or memorials to deceased members: Provided, any such expenses may not be paid from the mortuary fund or reserves herein required. (1927, c. 30, s. 11.)

§ 58-327. Organization of cooperative non-profit life benefit association.—When ten or more citizens of the United States, a majority of whom are citizens of this State, desire to form an association under the provisions of this article, they shall adopt articles of incorporation and a constitution, laws or by-laws and file the same with the commissioner of insurance of this state who shall grant them temporary permission to solicit members and collect premiums therefrom, but without the right to issue contracts until licensed to do business; and when such incorporators have presented to the commissioner of insurance proof that they have five hundred members or more, and have collected from them assessments or premiums sufficient to pay the maximum amount of any proposed policy to be issued, and upon depositing with the commissioner of insurance ten thousand dollars ($10,000) in securities to be approved by him, then said commissioner of insurance may grant to said association a certificate of authority and permission to do business under this article. (1927, c. 30, s. 12.)

§ 58-328. Corporation now doing business in this State may qualify under this article.—Any association, domestic or foreign, now engaged in transacting business in this State, which can qualify under the provisions of this article as a “Cooperative Non-profit Life Benefit Association,” may, upon making application therefor, be granted a license by the commissioner of insurance to do business as such under this article, provided, it has accumulated reserves on its policies in force in a sum of not less than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), properly invested. (1927, c. 30, s. 13.)

§ 58-329. License granted.—Any domestic or foreign association wishing to do business under the provisions of this article, under whatever name it may conduct its business, upon making a written application and submitting proof satisfactory to the commissioner of insurance of this State that its business, as conducted, and its reserves on hand comply with the provisions of this article, upon paying to the commissioner of insurance the sum of two hundred dollars ($200) as license fee and all other fees assessed against such company shall be licensed to do business in this State as such association until the first day of the following April. Any such association, admitted to do business under this article in this State, which shall fail to comply with the provisions of this article, may have its license revoked, and upon failing to maintain its reserves as herein required, may be liquidated by the courts or by the commissioner of insurance as may be provided by law for the liquidation of legal reserve life insurance companies. (1927, c. 30, s. 14.)

§ 58-330. Annual statement and license.—Every such association doing business in this State shall annually file with the commissioner of insurance on or before the first day of March in each year a full and complete sworn statement of its financial condition on the thirty-first day of December in the preceding. Such statement shall plainly exhibit all real and contingent assets and liabilities and a complete account of its income and disbursements during the year. The commission of insurance is hereby empowered to require such further information as may be reasonably necessary to satisfy him that the statements contained in the sworn statement are true, and he may thereupon grant a renewal of such license to such association to do business in this State which shall continue in full force and effect until a new license is issued or specifically refused unless revoked for good cause. For each such license, or annual renewal thereof, the association shall pay the commissioner of insurance two hundred dollars ($200). Such license or a duplicate thereof shall be prima facie evidence that such association is a Domestic Non-Profit Life Benefit Association within the meaning of this article.

When the commissioner of insurance refuses to license any such association or revokes its authority to do business in this State, he shall reduce his ruling, order or decision to writing and file the same in his office and furnish a copy thereof, together with a statement of his reasons for his ruling to the officers of the association upon request, and the action of the commissioner of insurance shall be reviewable by proper proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction within the State. Except as herein provided, such association shall be governed by the laws of this State relative to or affecting life insurance companies. (1927, c. 30,
s. 15.)

§ 58-331. Examination of association. — The commissioner of insurance or any person he may appoint shall have the power of visitation and examination into the affairs of any such association.
He may employ assistants for such purpose and they shall have free access to all the books, papers and documents that relate to the business of the association, and may summon and quality as witnesses under oath and examine its officers, agents and employees or other persons in relation to the condition of its business. The expenses of such examination shall be paid by the association examined upon a statement furnished by the commissioner of insurance. As to all such foreign associations doing business in this State, the commissioner of insurance, in his discretion, may accept in lieu of such examination the report of the examination of the commissioner of insurance of the state, territory, district, province or country where such association is organized or a report of an examination made of such association by the commissioner of insurance of any state.
(1927, c. 30, s. 16.)

§ 58-332. Investments. — The funds of such association shall be invested in the same securities as provided by law for other domestic companies, and if a foreign association, in such securities as may be provided by the laws of its domicile. (1927, c. 30, s. 17.)

§ 58-333. Premium tax; reports. — The officers of such association shall file the reports required by § 58-67 and shall pay the same premium tax as is now or shall hereafter be provided for other life insurance companies. (1927, c. 30, s. 18.)

§ 58-334. Foreign associations may incorporate under this article. — Any foreign association, now or hereafter doing business in this state or conducting a business enabling it to qualify to do business under this article in this state, may become incorporated in this state as such association under whatever name it shall select, upon filing with the commissioner of insurance a resolution of its board of directors or of a similar body by whatever name known, or of its legislative body, requesting to be incorporated as such association of this state, and submitting proof of its financial qualifications under this article: Provided, the name chosen shall not conflict with the name of some other organization doing business in this state so as to cause confusion. The officers of such associations shall thereupon retain their respective offices for the terms for which they were elected. Such association so reincor-porated in this state shall maintain a general office within this state. (1927, c. 30, s. 19.)

§ 58-335. To become a legal reserve life company. — Any such association filing with the commissioner of insurance a resolution of its board of directors or similar body, by whatever name known, or of its legislative body, making a request to become a legal reserve life insurance company, upon submitting proof satisfactory to the commissioner of insurance that the condition of its business qualifies it under the laws of this State, to be classed as a legal reserve life insurance company, shall thereupon become a legal reserve life insurance company under such name and such plan as may be approved by the commissioner of insurance. (1927, c. 30, s. 20.)

§ 58-336. Election of corporation to accept article. — This article shall not apply to any corporation, domestic or foreign, now or hereafter doing business in this State, unless said corporation, by action of its board of directors or other properly constituted body, elects to have said corporation come under the provisions hereof.
(1927, c. 30, s. 21.)

§ 58-337. Suit against association; where instituted. — Suit may be instituted against said association in any county in this State in any court having jurisdiction. (1927, c. 30, s. 22.)

§ 58-338. Service of process on commissioner of insurance. — Every cooperative non-profit life benefit association, whether domestic or foreign, before it shall be permitted to transact business in this State, shall appoint in writing the commissioner of insurance and his successor in office to be its true and lawful attorney on whom all legal process and legal notices in any action or proceeding against it in this State shall be served, and in such writing shall agree that any lawful process against it which is served upon such attorney shall be of effect with the same force and effect as the commissioner of insurance, shall be deemed sufficient evidence thereof and shall be admitted in evidence with the same force and effect as the original. Service of process in all suits and proceedings against such association shall be made only upon such attorney and must be made in duplicate upon him, or in his absence upon the person in charge of his office, and shall be deemed sufficient service upon such association: Provided, however, that no such service shall be deemed valid or binding against such association when it is required thereunder to file its answer, pleading or defense in less than thirty days from the date of service upon such attorney. When legal process against such association is served upon said commissioner of insurance, he shall forthwith forward by mail one of the duplicate copies, directed to its secretary or corresponding officer at the home office of the association. Legal process shall not be served upon any such association except in the manner herein provided. (1927, c. 30, s. 24.)

§ 58-340. Commissioner of insurance defined.—The term “Commissioner of insurance,” as used in this article, shall include the person, board or department of this State, under whatever name known, supervising the granting of licenses to insurance organizations to do business in this State. (1937, c. 30, s. 25.)

§ 59-1. Limited partnership defined.—A limited partnership is a partnership formed by two or more persons under the provisions of § 59-2, having as members one or more general partners and one or more limited partners. The limited partners as such shall not be bound by the obligations of the partnership. (1941, c. 251, s. 1.)
Editor's Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 593.

§ 59-2. Formation.—(1) Two or more persons desiring to form a limited partnership shall:
(a) Sign and swear to a certificate, which shall state:
I. The name of the partnership,
II. The character of the business,
III. The location of the principal place of business,
IV. The name and place of residence of each member; general and limited partners being respectively designated,
V. The term for which the partnership is to exist,
VI. The amount of cash and a description of and the agreed value of the other property contributed by each limited partner,
VII. The additional contributions, if any, agreed to be made by each limited partner and the times at which or events on the happening of which they shall be made,
VIII. The time, if agreed upon, when the contribution of each limited partner is to be returned,
IX. The share of the profits or the other compensation by way of income, and the nature of such priority, X. The right, if given, of the remaining general partner or partners to continue the business on the death, retirement or insanity of a general partner, and
XIV. The right, if given, of a limited partner to demand and receive property other than cash in return for his contribution.
(b) File for record the certificate in the office of the clerk of the superior court.
(2) A limited partnership is formed if there has been substantial compliance in good faith with the requirements of paragraph (1). (1941, c. 251, s. 2.)
§ 59-3. Business which may be carried on.—A limited partnership may carry on any business which a partnership without limited partners may carry on. (1941, c. 251, s. 3.)
§ 59-4. Character of limited partner's contribution.—The contributions of a limited partner may be cash or other property, but not services. (1941, c. 251, s. 4.) § 59-5. A name not to contain surname of limited partner; exceptions.—(1) The surname of a limited partner shall not appear in the partnership name, unless:
(a) It is also the surname of a general partner, or
(b) Prior to the time when the limited partner became such the business had been carried on under a name in which his surname appeared.
(2) A limited partner whose name appears in a partnership name contrary to the provisions of paragraph (1) is liable as a general partner to partnership creditors who extend credit to the partnership without actual knowledge that he is not a general partner. (1941, c. 251, s. 5.)
§ 59-6. Liability for false statements in certificate.—If the certificate contains a false statement, one who suffers loss by reliance on such statement may hold liable any party to the certificate who knew the statement to be false:
(a) At the time he signed the certificate, or
(b) Subsequently, but within a sufficient time before the statement was relied upon to enable him to cancel or amend the certificate, or to file a petition for its cancellation or amendment as provided in § 59-25, subsection (3). (1941, c. 251, s. 6.)
§ 59-7. Limited partner not liable to creditors.—A limited partner shall not become liable as a general partner unless, in addition to the exercise of his rights and powers as a limited partner, he takes part in the control of the business. (1941, c. 251, s. 7.)

Cross Reference.—As to nature of liability of a general partner, see § 59-45.

§ 59-8. Admission of additional limited partners.—After the formation of a limited partnership, additional limited partners may be admitted upon filing an amendment to the original certificate in accordance with the requirements of § 59-25. (1941, c. 251, s. 8.)

§ 59-9. Rights, powers and liabilities of a general partner.—A general partner shall have all the rights and powers and be subject to all the restrictions and liabilities of a partner in a partnership without limited partners, except that without the written consent or ratification of the specific act by all the limited partners, a general partner or all of the general partners have no authority to:

(a) Do any act in contravention of the certificate,
(b) Do any act which would make it impossible to carry on the ordinary business of the partnership,
(c) Confess a judgment against the partnership,
(d) Possess partnership property, or assign their rights in specific partnership property, for other than a partnership purpose,
(e) Admit a person as a general partner,
(f) Admit a person as a limited partner, unless the right so to do is given in the certificate,
(g) Continue the business with partnership property on the death, retirement or insanity of a general partner, unless the right so to do is given in the certificate. (1941, c. 251, s. 9.)

§ 59-10. Rights of a limited partner.—(1) A limited partner shall have the same rights as a general partner to:

(a) Have the partnership books kept at the principal place of business of the partnership, and at all times to inspect and copy any of them,
(b) Have on demand true and full information of all things affecting the partnership, and a formal account of partnership affairs whenever circumstances render it just and reasonable, and
(c) Have dissolution and winding up by decree of court.

(2) A limited partner shall have the right to receive a share of the profits or other compensation by way of income, and to the return of his contribution as provided in §§ 59-15 and 59-16. (1941, c. 251, s. 10.)

§ 59-11. Status of person erroneously believing himself a limited partner.—A person who has contributed to the capital of a business conducted by a person or partnership erroneously believing that he has become a limited partner in a limited partnership, is not, by reason of his exercise of the rights of a limited partner, a general partner with the person or in the partnership carrying on the business, or bound by the obligations of such person or partnership; provided that on ascertaining the mistake he promptly renounces his interest in the profits of the business, or other compensation by way of income. (1941, c. 251, s. 11.)

§ 59-12. One person both general and limited partner.—(1) A person may be a general partner and a limited partner in the same partnership at the same time.

(2) A person who is a general, and also at the same time a limited partner, shall have all the rights and powers and be subject to all restrictions of a general partner; except that, in respect to his contribution, he shall have the rights against the other members which he would have had if he were not also a general partner. (1941, c. 251, s. 12.)

§ 59-13. Loans and other business transactions with limited partner.—(1) A limited partner may lend money to and transact other business with the partnership, and, unless he is also a general partner, receive on account of resulting claims against the partnership, with general creditors, a pro rata share of the assets.

No limited partner shall in respect to any such claim:

(a) Receive or hold as collateral security any partnership property, or
(b) Receive from a general partner or the partnership any payment, conveyance, or release from liability, if at the time the assets of the partnership are not sufficient to discharge partnership liabilities to persons not claiming as general or limited partners.

(2) The receiving of collateral security, or a payment, conveyance, or release in violation of the provisions of paragraph (1) is a fraud on the creditors of the partnership. (1941, c. 251, s. 13.)

§ 59-14. Relation of limited partners inter se.—Where there are several limited partners the members may agree that one or more of the limited partners shall have a priority over other limited partners as to the return of their contributions, as to their compensation by way of income, or as to any other matter. If such an agreement is made it shall be stated in the certificate, and in the absence of such a statement all the limited partners shall stand upon equal footing. (1941, c. 251, s. 14.)

§ 59-15. Compensation of limited partner.—A limited partner may receive from the partnership the share of the profits or the compensation by way of income stipulated for in the certificate; provided, that after such payment is made, whether from the property of the partnership or that of a general partner, the partnership assets are in excess of all liabilities of the partnership except liabilities to limited partners on account of their contributions and to general partners. (1941, c. 251, s. 15.)

§ 59-16. Withdrawal or reduction of limited partner’s contribution.—(1) A limited partner shall not receive from a general partner or out of partnership property any part of his contribution until:

(a) All liabilities of the partnership, except liabilities to general partners and to limited partners on account of their contributions, have been paid or there remains property of the partnership sufficient to pay them,

(b) The consent of all members is had, unless the return of the contribution may be rightfully demanded under the provisions of paragraph (2), and

(c) The certificate is cancelled or so amended as to set forth the withdrawal or reduction.

(2) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (1)
§ 59-17. Liability of limited partner to partnership.—(1) A limited partner is liable to the partnership
(a) For the difference between his contribution as actually made and that stated in the certificate as having been made, and
(b) For any unpaid contribution which he agreed in the certificate to make in the future at the time and on the condition stated in the certificate.
(2) A limited partner holds as trustee for the partnership
(a) Specific property stated in the certificate as contributed by him, but which was not contributed or which has been wrongfully returned, and
(b) Money or other property wrongfully paid or conveyed to him on account of his contribution.
(3) The liabilities of a limited partner as set forth in this section can be waived or compromised only by the consent of all members; but a waiver or compromise shall not affect the right of a creditor of a partnership for any sum, not in excess of such return asascertained from the certificate.
(4) When a contributor has rightfully received the return in whole or in part of the capital of his contribution, he is nevertheless liable to the partnership for any sum, not in excess of such return with interest, necessary to discharge its liabilities to all creditors who extended credit or whose claims arose before such return. (1941, c. 251, s. 17.)

§ 59-18. Nature of limited partner's interest in the partnership.—A limited partner's interest in the partnership is personal property. (1941, c. 251, s. 18.)

§ 59-19. Assignment of limited partner's interest.—(1) A limited partner's interest is assignable.
(2) A substituted limited partner is a person admitted to all the rights of a limited partner who has died or has assigned his interest in a partnership.
(3) An assignee, who does not become a substituted limited partner, has no right to require any information or account of the partnership transactions or to inspect the partnership books;
he is only entitled to receive the share of the profits or other compensation by way of income, or the return of his contribution, to which his assignor would otherwise be entitled.
(4) An assignee shall have the right to become a substituted limited partner if all the members (except the assignor) consent thereto or if the assignor, being thereunto empowered by the certificate, gives the assignee that right.
(5) An assignee becomes a substituted limited partner when the certificate is approximately amended in accordance with § 59-25.
(6) The substituted limited partner has all the rights and powers, and is subject to all the restrictions and liabilities of his assignor, except those liabilities of which he was ignorant at the time he became a substituted limited partner and which could not be ascertained from the certificate.
(7) The substitution of the assignee as a limited partner does not release the assignor from liability to the partnership under §§ 59-6 and 59-17. (1941, c. 251, s. 19.)

Cross Reference.—As to assignment of a partner's interest, see § 59-37.

§ 59-20. Effect of retirement, death or insanity of a general partner.—The retirement, death or insanity of a general partner dissolves the partnership, unless the business is continued by the remaining general partners
(a) Under a right so to do stated in the certificate, or
(b) With the consent of all members. (1941, c. 251, s. 20.)

§ 59-21. Death of limited partner.—(1) On the death of a limited partner his executor or administrator shall have all the rights of a limited partner for the purpose of settling his estate, and such power as the deceased had to constitute his assignee a substituted limited partner.
(2) The estate of a deceased limited partner shall be liable for all his liabilities as a limited partner. (1941, c. 251, s. 21.)

§ 59-22. Rights of creditors of limited partner.—(1) On due application to a court of competent jurisdiction by any judgment creditor of a limited partner, the court may charge the interest of the indebted limited partner with payment of the unsatisfied amount of the judgment debt; and may appoint a receiver, and make all other orders, directions, and inquiries which the circumstances of the case may require.
(2) The interest may be redeemed with the separate property of any general partner, but may not be redeemed with partnership property.
(3) The remedies conferred by paragraph (1) shall not be deemed exclusive of others which may exist.
(4) Nothing in this article shall be held to deprive a limited partner of his statutory exemption. (1941, c. 251, s. 22.)

§ 59-23. Distribution of assets.—(1) In settling accounts after dissolution the liabilities of the partnership shall be entitled to payment in the following order:
(a) Those to creditors, in the order of priority as provided by law, except those to limited part-nners on account of their contributions, and to general partners,
(b) Those to limited partners in respect to their share of the profits and other compensation by way of income on their contributions, (c) Those to limited partners in respect to the capital of their contributions,
(d) Those to general partners other than for capital and profits,
(e) Those to general partners in respect to profits,
(f) Those to general partners in respect to capital,
(2) Subject to any statement in the certificate or to subsequent agreement, limited partners share in the partnership assets in respect to their claims for capital, and in respect to their claims for profits or for compensation by way of income on their contributions respectively, in proportion to the respective amounts of such claims. (1941, c. 251,
s. 23.)
§ 59-24. When certificate shall be cancelled or amended.—(1) The certificate shall be cancelled when the partnership is dissolved or all limited partners cease to be such.
(2) A certificate shall be amended when
(a) There is a change in the name of the partnership or in the amount or character of the contribution of any limited partner,
(b) A person is substituted as a limited partner,
(c) An additional limited partner is admitted,
(d) A person is admitted as a general partner,
(e) A general partner retires, dies or becomes insane, and the business is continued under § 59-20,
(f) There is a change in the character of the business of the partnership,
(g) There is a false or erroneous statement in the certificate,
(h) There is a change in the time as stated in the certificate for the dissolution of the partnership or for the return of a contribution,
(i) A time is fixed for the dissolution of the partnership, or the return of a contribution, no time having been specified in the certificate, or (j) The members desire to make a change in any other statement in the certificate in order that it shall accurately represent the agreement between them. (1941, c. 251, s. 24.) § 59-25. Requirements for amendment and for cancellation of certificate.—(1) The writing to amend a certificate shall
(a) Conform to the requirements of § 59-3, subsection (1) (a) as far as necessary to set forth clearly the change in the certificate which it is desired to make, and
(b) Be signed and sworn to by all members, and an amendment substituting a limited partner or adding a limited or general partner shall be signed also by the member to be substituted or added, and when a limited partner is to be substituted, the amendment shall also be signed by the assigning limited partner.
(2) The writing to cancel a certificate shall be signed by all members.
(3) A person desiring the cancellation or amendment of a certificate, if any person designated in paragraphs (1) and (2) as a person who must execute the writing refuses to do so, may petition the superior court to direct a cancellation or amendment thereof.
(4) If the court finds that the petitioner has a right to have the writing executed by a person who refuses to do so, it shall order the clerk of the superior court in the office where the certificate is recorded to record the cancellation or amendment of the certificate; and where the certificate is to be amended, the court shall also cause to be filed for record in said office a certified copy of its decree setting forth the amendment.
(5) A certificate is amended or cancelled when there is filed for record in the office of the clerk of the superior court where the certificate is recorded.
(a) A writing in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (1), or (2) or
(b) A certified copy of the order of court in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (4).
(6) After the certificate is duly amended in accordance with this section, the amended certificate shall thereafter be for all purposes the certificate provided for by this article. (1941, c. 251, s. 25.)
§ 59-26. Parties to actions.—A contributor, unless he is a general partner, is not a proper party to proceedings by or against a partnership, except where the object is to enforce a limited partner's right against or liability to the partnership. (1941, c. 251, s. 26.) § 59-27. Name of article.—This article may be cited as the Uniform Limited Partnership Act.
(1941, c. 251, s. 27.)
that statutes in derogation of the common law are to be strictly construed shall have no application to this article.
(2) This article shall be so interpreted and construed as to effect its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it.
(3) This article shall not be so construed as to impair the obligations of any contract existing when the article goes into effect, nor to affect any action on proceedings begun or right accrued before this article takes effect. (1941, c. 251, s. 28.) § 59-29. Rules for cases not provided for in this article.—In any case not provided for in this article the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant, shall govern. (1941, c. 251, s. 29.) § 59-30. Provisions for existing limited partnerships.—(1) A limited partnership formed under any statute of this state prior to March 15, 1941, may become a limited partnership under this article by complying with the provisions of § 59-2; provided the certificate sets forth
(a) The amount of the original contribution of each limited partner, and the time when the contribution was made, and
(b) The property of the partnership exceeds the amount sufficient to discharge its liabilities to persons not claiming as general or limited partners by an amount greater than the sum of the contributions of its limited partners.
(2) A limited partnership formed under any statute of this state prior to the adoption of this article, until or unless it becomes a limited partnership under this article, shall continue to be governed by the provisions of existing law, except that such partnership shall not be renewed unless so provided in the original agreement. (1941, c. 251,
s. 30.)
Editor's Note.—Section 31 of the Uniform Limited Par-nership Act (1941, c. 251, s. 31) repealed §§ 3258-3276 of the Consolidated Statutes, as amended, except in so far as said sections affect limited partnerships existing on March 15, 1941, when the act became effective.

Art. 2. Uniform Partnership Act.

§ 59-31. Name of article.—This article may be cited as Uniform Partnership Act. (1941, c. 374, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Uniform Partnership Act became effective March 15, 1941.

For comment on this enactment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 499.

§ 59-32. Definition of terms.—In this article, "court" includes every court and judge having jurisdiction in the case.

"Business" includes every trade, occupation, or profession.

"Person" includes individuals, partnerships, corporations, and other associations.

"Bankrupt" includes bankrupt under the Federal Bankruptcy Act or insolvent under any state insolvent act.

"Conveyance" includes every assignment, lease, mortgage, or encumbrance.

"Real property" includes land and any interest or estate in land. (1941, c. 374, s. 2.)

§ 59-33. Interpretation of knowledge and notice.—(1) A person has "knowledge" of a fact within the meaning of this article not only when he has actual knowledge thereof, but also when he has knowledge of such other facts as in the circumstances show bad faith.

(2) A person has "notice" of a fact within the meaning of this article when the person who claims the benefit of the notice: (A) states the fact to such person, or (B) delivers through the mail, or by other means of communication a written statement of the fact to such person or to a proper person at his place of business or residence. (1941, c. 374, s. 3.)

§ 59-34. Rules of construction.—(1) The rule that statutes in derogation of the common law are to be strictly construed shall have no application to this article.

(2) The law of estoppel shall apply under this article.

(3) The law of agency shall apply under this article.

(4) This article shall be so interpreted and construed as to effect its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it.

(5) This article shall not be construed so as to impair the obligations of any contract existing when the article goes into effect, nor to affect any action or proceedings begun or right accrued before this article takes effect. (1941, c. 374, s. 4.)

§ 59-35. Rules for cases not provided for in this article.—In any case not provided for in this article the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant, shall govern. (1941, c. 374, s. 5.)

§ 59-36. Partnership defined.—(1) A partnership is an association of two or more persons to carry on as co-owners a business for profit.

(2) But any association formed under any other statute of this state, or any statute adopted by authority, other than the authority of this state, is not a partnership under this article, unless such association would have been a partnership in this state prior to the adoption of this article; but this article shall apply to limited partnerships except in so far as the statutes relating to such partnerships are inconsistent herewith. (1941, c. 374, s. 6.)

Cross Reference.—As to limited partnerships, see §§ 59-1 to 59-30.

§ 59-37. Rules for determining the existence of a partnership.—In determining whether a partnership exists, these rules shall apply:

(1) Except as provided by § 59-46 persons who are not partners as to each other are not partners as to third persons.

(2) Joint tenancy, tenancy in common, tenancy by the entirety, joint property, common property, or part ownership does not of itself establish a partnership, whether such co-owners do or do not share any profits made by the use of the property.

(3) The sharing of gross returns does not of itself establish a partnership, whether or not the persons sharing them have a joint or common right or interest in any property from which such returns are derived.

(4) The receipt by a partner of a share of the profits of a business is prima facie evidence that he is a partner in the business, but no such inference shall be drawn if such profits were received in payment:

(a) as a debt by installments or otherwise.

(b) as wages of an employee or rent to a landlord.

(c) as an annuity to a widow or representative of a deceased partner.

(d) as interest on a loan, though the amount of payment vary with the profits of the business.

(e) as the consideration for the sale of a good-will of a business or other property by installment or otherwise. (1941, c. 374, s. 7.)

Cross Reference.—That a lessor and lessee are not partners, see §§ 74-1 and 42-1.

§ 59-38. Partnership property.—(1) All property originally brought into the partnership stock or subsequently acquired by purchase or otherwise, on account of the partnership, is partnership property.

(2) Unless the contrary intention appears, property acquired with partnership funds is partnership property.

(3) Any estate in real property may be acquired in the partnership name. Title so acquired can be conveyed only in the partnership name.

(4) A conveyance to a partnership in the partnership name, though without words of inheritance, passes the entire estate of the grantor unless a contrary intent appears. (1941, c. 374, s. 8.)

Part 3. Relations of Partners to Persons Dealing with the Partnership.

§ 59-39. Partner agent of partnership as to partnership business.—(1) Every partner is an agent of the partnership for the purpose of its business, and the act of every partner, including the execution in the partnership name of any instrument, for apparently carrying on in the usual way the business of the partnership of which he is a member binds the partnership, unless the partner so acting has in fact no authority to act for the partnership in the particular matter, and the person with whom he is dealing has knowledge of the fact that he has no such authority.

(2) An act of a partner which is not apparently for the carrying on of the business of the partnership in the usual way does not bind the partnership unless authorized by the other partners.

(3) Unless authorized by the other partners or unless they have abandoned the business, one or more but less than all the partners have no authority to:

(a) Assign the partnership property in trust for creditors, or on the assignee's promise to pay the debts of the partnership,
(b) Dispose of the goodwill of the business,
(c) Do any other act which would make it impossible to carry on the ordinary business of a partnership,
(d) Confess a judgment,
(e) Submit a partnership claim or liability to arbitration or reference.

(4) No act of a partner in contravention of a restriction on authority shall bind the partnership to persons having knowledge of the restriction.

(1941, c. 374, s. 9.)

§ 59-40. Conveyance of real property of the partnership.—(1) Where title to real property is in the partnership name, any partner may convey title to such property by a conveyance executed in the partnership name; but the partnership may recover such property unless the partner's act binds the partnership under the provisions of paragraph (1) of § 59-39, or unless such property has been conveyed by the grantee of a person claiming through such grantee to holder for value without knowledge that the partner, in making the conveyance, has exceeded his authority.

(2) Where title to real property is in the name of the partnership, a conveyance executed by a partner, in his own name, passes the equitable interest of the partnership, provided the act is one within the authority of the partner under the provisions of paragraph (1) of § 59-39.

(3) Where title to real property is in the name of one or more, but not all partners, and the record does not disclose the right of the partnership, the partners in whose name the title stands may convey title to such property, but the partnership may recover such property if the partner's act does not bind the partnership under the provisions of paragraph (1) of § 59-39, unless the purchaser or his assignee, is a holder for value, without knowledge.

(4) Where the title to real property is in the name of one or more or all the partners, or in a third person in trust for the partnership, a conveyance executed by a partner in the partnership name, or in his own name, passes the equitable interest of the partnership, provided the act is one within the authority of the partner under the provisions of paragraph (1) of § 59-39.

(5) Where the title to real property is in the names of all the partners a conveyance executed by all the partners passes all their rights in such property. (1941, c. 374, s. 10.)

§ 59-41. Partnership bound by admission of partner.—An admission or representation made by any partner concerning partnership affairs within the scope of his authority as conferred by this article is evidence against the partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 11.)

Cross Reference.—As to admission after the statute of limitations has run, see § 1-97.

§ 59-42. Partnership charged with knowledge of or notice to partner.—Notice to any partner of any matter relating to partnership affairs, and the knowledge of any partner acting in the particular matter, acquired while a partner or then present to his mind, and the knowledge of any other partner who reasonably could and should have communicated it to the acting partner, operate as notice to or knowledge of the partnership, except in the case of a fraud on the partnership committed by or with the consent of that partner. (1941, c. 374, s. 12.)

§ 59-43. Partnership bound by partner's wrongful act.—Where, by any wrongful act or omission of any partner acting in the ordinary course of the business of the partnership or with the authority of his copartners, loss or injury is caused to any person, not being a partner in the partnership, or any penalty is incurred, the partnership is liable therefor to the same extent as the partner so acting or omitting to act. (1941, c. 374, s. 13.)

§ 59-44. Partnership bound by partner's breach of trust.—The partnership is bound to make good the loss:

(a) Where one partner acting within the scope of his apparent authority receives money or property of a third person and misapplies it; and
(b) Where the partnership in the course of its business receives money or property of a third person and the money or property so received is misapplied by any partner while it is in the custody of the partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 14.)

§ 59-45. Nature of partner's liability.—All partners are liable

(a) Jointly and severally for everything chargeable to the partnership under §§ 59-43 and 59-44.
(b) Jointly for all other debts and obligations of the partnership; but any partner may enter into a separate obligation to perform a partnership contract. (1941, c. 374, s. 15.)

Cross References.—As to liability of a limited partner, see §§ 59-5 and 59-7. As to personal liability of corporate managing a partnership, see § 55-60. As to procedure in an action against a partnership, see §§ 1-113 and 1-72.

§ 59-46. Partner by estoppel.—(1) When a person, by words spoken or written or by conduct, represents himself, or consents to another representing him to any one, as a partner in an existing partnership or with one or more persons not actual partners, he is liable to any such person to whom such representation has been made, who has, on the faith of such representation, given credit to the actual or apparent partnership, and if he has made such representation or consented to its being made in a public manner, he is liable to such person, whether the representation has or has not been made or communicated to such person so giving credit by or with the knowledge of the apparent partner making the representation or consenting to its being made.

(a) When a partnership liability results, he is liable as though he were an actual member of the partnership.

(b) When no partnership liability results, he is liable jointly with the other persons, if any, so concerned with the partnership business may be done rightfully without the consent of all the partners. (1941, c. 374, s. 18.)

§ 59-47. Liability of incoming partner.—A person admitted as a partner into an existing partnership is liable for all the obligations of the partnership arising before his admission as though he had been a partner when such obligations were incurred, except that this liability shall be satisfied only out of partnership property. (1941, c. 374, s. 17.)

Part 4. Relations of Partners to One Another.

§ 59-48. Rules determining rights and duties of partners.—The rights and duties of the partners in relation to the partnership shall be determined, subject to any agreement between them, by the following rules:

(a) Each partner shall be repaid his contributions, whether by way of capital or advances to the partnership property and share equally in the profits and surplus remaining after all liabilities, including those to partners, are satisfied; and must contribute towards the losses, whether of capital or otherwise, sustained by the partnership according to his share in the profits.

(b) The partnership must indemnify every partner in respect of payments made and personal liabilities reasonably incurred by him in the ordinary and proper conduct of its business, or for the preservation of its business or property.

(c) A partner, who in aid of the partnership makes any payment or advance beyond the amount of capital which he agreed to contribute, shall be paid interest from the date of the payment or advance.

(d) A partner shall receive interest on the capital contributed by him only from the date when repayment should be made.

(e) All partners have equal rights in the management and conduct of the partnership business.

(f) No partner is entitled to remuneration for acting in the partnership business, except that a surviving partner is entitled to reasonable compensation for his services in winding up the partnership affairs.

(g) No person can become a member of a partnership without the consent of all the partners.

(h) Any difference arising as to ordinary matters connected with the partnership business may be decided by a majority of the partners; but no act in contravention of any agreement between the partners may be done rightfully without the consent of all the partners. (1941, c. 374, s. 18.)

Cross Reference.—As to rights and liabilities of limited partners, see §§ 59-10 to 59-17.

§ 59-49. Partnership books.—The partnership books shall be kept, subject to any agreement between the partners, at the principal place of business of the partnership, and every partner shall at all times have access to and may inspect and copy any of them. (1941, c. 374, s. 19.)

§ 59-50. Duty of partners to render information.—Partners shall render on demand true and full information of all things affecting the partnership to any partner or the legal representative of any deceased partner or partner under legal disability. (1941, c. 374, s. 20.)

§ 59-51. Partner accountable as a fiduciary.—

(1) Every partner must account to the partnership for any benefit, and hold as trustee for it any profits derived by him without the consent of the other partners from any transaction connected with the formation, conduct or liquidation of the partnership or from any use by him of its property.

(2) This section applies also to the representatives of a deceased partner engaged in the liquidation of the affairs of the partnership as the personal representatives of the last surviving partner. (1941, c. 374, s. 21.)

Cross Reference.—As to criminal liability for appropriation of partnership funds by a partner, see §§ 14-97 and 14-98.

§ 59-52. Right to an account.—Any partner shall have the right to a formal account as to partnership affairs:

(a) if he is wrongfully excluded from the partnership business or possession of its property by his co-partners,

(b) if the right exists under the terms of any agreement.

(c) as provided by § 59-51,

(d) whenever other circumstances render it just and reasonable. (1941, c. 374, s. 22.)

§ 59-53. Continuation of partnership beyond fixed term.—(1) When a partnership for a fixed term or particular undertaking is continued after the termination of such term or particular undertaking without any express agreement, the rights and duties of the partners remain the same as they were at such termination, so far as is consistent with a partnership at will.

(2) A continuation of the business by the partners or such of them as habitually acted therein during the term, without any settlement or liquidation of the partnership affairs, is prima facie evidence of a continuation of the partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 23.)

Part 5. Property Rights of a Partner.

§ 59-54. Extent of property rights of a partner.—The property rights of a partner are (1) his rights in specific partnership property, (2) his interest in the partnership, and (3) his right to participate in the management. (1941, c. 374, s. 24.)

§ 59-55. Nature of a partner’s right in specific partnership property.—(1) A partner is co-owner with his partners of specific partnership property holding as a tenant in partnership.

(2) The incidents of this tenancy are such that:

(a) A partner, subject to the provisions of this article and to any agreement between the partners, has an equal right with his partners to possess specific partnership property for partnership purposes; but he has no right to possess such property for any other purpose without the consent of his partners.
§ 59-56. Nature of partner's interest in the partnership.—A partner's interest in the partnership is his share of the profits and surplus, and the same is personal property. (1941, c. 374, s. 26.)

§ 59-57. Assignment of partner's interest.—(1) A conveyance by a partner of his interest in the partnership does not of itself dissolve the partnership, nor, as against the other partners in the absence of agreement, entitle the assignee, during the continuance of the partnership, to interfere in the management or administration of the partnership business or affairs, or to require any information or account of partnership transactions, or to inspect the partnership books; but it merely entitles the assignee to receive in accordance with his contract the profits to which the assigning partner would otherwise be entitled.

(2) In case of a dissolution of the partnership, the assignee is entitled to receive his assignor's interest and may require an account from the date only of the last account agreed to by all the partners. (1941, c. 374, s. 27.)

Cross Reference.—As to assignment of a limited partner's interest, see § 59-19.

§ 59-58. Partner's interest subject to charging order.—(1) On due application to a competent court by any judgment creditor of a partner, the court which entered the judgment, order or decree, or any other court, may charge the interest of the debtor partner with payment of the unsatisfied amount of such judgment debt with interest thereon; and may then or later appoint a receiver of his share of the profits, and of any other money due or to fall due to him in respect of the partnership, and make all other orders, directions, accounts and inquiries which the debtor partner might have made, or which the circumstances of the case may require.

(2) The interest charged may be redeemed at any time before foreclosure, or in case of a sale being directed by the court may be purchased without thereby causing a dissolution:

(a) With separate property, by any one or more of the partners, or
(b) With partnership property, by any one or more of the partners with the consent of all the partners whose interests are not so charged or sold.

(3) Nothing in this article shall be held to deprive a partner of his right, if any, under the exemption laws, as regards his interest in the partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 28.)

Cross Reference.—As to right of creditors of a limited partner, see § 59-22.

§ 59-59. Dissolution defined.—The dissolution of a partnership is the change in the relation among the partners caused by any partner ceasing to be associated in the carrying on as distinguished from the winding up of the business. (1941, c. 374, s. 29.)

§ 59-60. Partnership not terminated by dissolution.—On dissolution the partnership is not terminated, but continues until the winding up of partnership affairs is completed. (1941, c. 374, s. 30.)

§ 59-61. Causes of dissolution.—Dissolution is caused:

(1) Without violation of the agreement between the partners,

(a) by the termination of the definite term or particular undertaking specified in the agreement,

(b) by the express will of any partner when no definite term or particular undertaking is specified,

(c) by the express will of all partners who have not assigned their interests or suffered them to be charged for their separate debts, either before or after the termination of any specific term or particular undertaking,

(d) by the expulsion of any partner from the business bona fide in accordance with such a power conferred by the agreement between the partners;

(2) in contravention of the agreement between the partners, where the circumstances do not permit a dissolution under any other provision of this section, by the express will of any partner at any time;

(3) by any event which makes it unlawful for the business of the partnership to be carried on or for the members to carry it on in partnership;

(4) by the death of any partner, unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise;

(5) by the bankruptcy of any partner or the partnership;

(6) by decree of court under § 59-62. (1941, c. 374, s. 51; 1943, c. 384.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment added to subsection (d) the words "unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise."

§ 59-62. Dissolution by decree of court.—(1) On application by or for a partner the court shall decree a dissolution whenever:

(a) A partner has been declared a lunatic in any judicial proceeding or is shown to be of unsound mind,

(b) a partner becomes in any other way incapable of performing his part of the partnership contract,

(c) a partner has been guilty of such conduct as tends to affect prejudicially the carrying on of the business,

(d) a partner wilfully or persistently commits a breach of the partnership agreement, or otherwise so conducts himself in matters relating to the partnership business that it is not reasonably practicable to carry on the business in partnership with him.

e) the business of the partnership can only be carried on at a loss,

f) other circumstances render a dissolution equitable.

(2) On the application of the purchaser of a partner's interest under §§ 59-57 and 59-58:

(a) After the termination of the specified term or particular undertaking,

(b) At any time if the partnership was a partnership at will when the interest was assigned or when the charging order was issued. (1941, c. 374, s. 32.)

§ 59-63. General effect of dissolution on authority of partner.—Except so far as may be necessary to wind up partnership affairs or to complete transactions begun but not then finished, dissolution terminates all authority of any partner to act for the partnership,

(1) with respect to the partners,

(a) when the dissolution is not by the act, bankruptcy or death of a partner; or

(b) when the dissolution is by such act, bankruptcy or death of a partner, in cases where § 59-64 so requires,

(2) with respect to persons not partners, as declared in § 59-65. (1941, c. 374, s. 33.)

§ 59-64. Right of partner to contribution from copartners after dissolution.—Where the dissolution is caused by the act, death or bankruptcy of a partner, each partner is liable to his copartners for his share of any liability created by any partner acting for the partnership as if the partnership had not been dissolved unless

(a) the dissolution being by act of any partner, the partner acting for the partnership had knowledge or notice of his want of authority, or

(b) the dissolution being by the death or bankruptcy of a partner, the partner acting for the partnership had knowledge or notice of the death or bankruptcy. (1941, c. 374, s. 34.)

§ 59-65. Power of partner to bind partnership to third persons after dissolution.—(1) After dissolution a partner can bind the partnership except as provided in paragraph (3)

(a) by any act appropriate for winding up partnership affairs or completing transactions unfinished at dissolution;

(b) by any transaction which would bind the partnership if dissolution had not taken place, provided the other party to the transaction

(I) had extended credit to the partnership prior to dissolution and had no knowledge or notice of the dissolution; or

(II) though he had not so extended credit, had nevertheless known of the partnership prior to dissolution, and, having no knowledge or notice of dissolution, the fact of dissolution had not been advertised in a newspaper of general circulation in the place (or in each place if more than one) at which the partnership business was regularly carried on.

(2) The liability of a partner under paragraph (1) (b) shall be satisfied out of partnership assets alone when such partner had been prior to dissolution (a) unknown as a partner to the person with whom the contract is made; and

(b) so far unknown and inactive in partnership affairs that the business reputation of the partnership could not be said to have been in any degree due to his connection with it.

(3) The partnership is in no case bound by any act of a partner after dissolution

(a) where the partnership is dissolved because it is unlawful to carry on the business, unless the act is appropriate for winding up partnership affairs; or

(b) where the partner has become bankrupt; or

(c) where the partner has no authority to wind up partnership affairs; except by a transaction with one who

(I) had extended credit to the partnership prior to dissolution and had no knowledge or notice of his want of authority; or

(II) had not extended credit to the partnership prior to dissolution, and, having no knowledge or notice of his want of authority, the fact of his want of authority has not been advertised in the manner provided for advertising the fact of dissolution in paragraph (1) (b) (II).

(4) Nothing in this section shall affect the liability under § 59-48 of any person who after dissolution represents himself or consents to another representing him as a partner in a partnership engaged in carrying on business. (1941, c. 374, s. 35.)

§ 59-66. Effect of dissolution on partner's existing liability.—(1) The dissolution of the partnership does not of itself discharge the existing liability of any partner.

(2) A partner is discharged from any existing liability upon dissolution of the partnership by an agreement to that effect between himself, the partnership creditor and the person or partnership continuing the business; and such agreement may be inferred from the course of dealing between the creditor having knowledge of the dissolution and the person or partnership continuing the business.

(3) Where a person agrees to assume the existing obligations of a dissolved partnership, the partners whose obligations have been assumed shall be discharged from any liability to any creditor of the partnership who, knowing of the agreement, consents to a material alteration in the nature or time of payment of such obligations.

(4) The individual property of a deceased partner shall be liable for all obligations of a dissolved partnership, the partners whose obligations have been assumed shall be discharged from any liability to any creditor of the partnership who, knowing of the agreement, consents to a material alteration in the nature or time of payment of such obligations.

§ 59-67. Right to wind up.—Unless otherwise agreed the partners who have not wrongfully dissolved the partnership or the legal representative of the last surviving partner, not bankrupt, has the right to wind up the partnership affairs; provided, however, that any partner, his legal representative or his assignee, upon cause shown, may obtain winding up by the court. (1941, c. 374, s. 37.)

§ 59-68. Rights of partners to application of partnership property.—(1) When dissolution is caused in any way, except in contravention of the partnership agreement, each partner, as against his copartners and all persons claiming through them in respect of their interest in the partnership, unless otherwise agreed, may have the partnership property applied to discharge its liabilities, and the surplus applied to pay in cash the net amount owing to the respective partners. But if dissolution is caused by expulsion of a partner, bona fide under the partnership agreement, and if the expelled partner is discharged from all partnership liabilities, either by payment or agreement under § 59-66, subsection (2), he shall receive in cash only the net amount due him from the partnership.

(2) When dissolution is caused in contravention of the partnership agreement the rights of the partners shall be as follows:

(a) Each partner who has not caused dissolution wrongfully shall have

(I) all the rights specified in paragraph (1) of this section, and

(II) the right, as against each partner who has caused the dissolution wrongfully, to damages for breach of the agreement.

(b) The partners who have not caused the dissolution wrongfully, if they all desire to continue the business in the same name, either by themselves or jointly with others, may do so, during the agreed term for the partnership and for that purpose may possess the partnership property, provided they secure the payment by bond approved by the court, or pay to any partner who has caused the dissolution wrongfully, the value of his interest in the partnership at the dissolution, less any damages recoverable under clause (2) (a) (II) of this section, and in like manner indemnify him against all present or future partnership liabilities.

(c) A partner who has caused the dissolution wrongfully shall have:

(I) if the business is not continued under the provisions of paragraph (2) (b) all the rights of a partner under paragraph (1), subject to clause (2) (a) (II) of this section,

(II) if the business is continued under paragraph (2) (b) of this section, the right as against his copartners and all claiming through them in respect of their interests in the partnership, to have the value of his interest in the partnership, less any damages caused to his copartners by the dissolution, ascertained and paid to him in cash, or the payment secured by bond approved by the court, and to be released from all existing liabilities of the partnership; but in ascertaining the value of the partner's interest the value of the surplus of the partnership property after satisfying the partnership liabilities to third persons for any sum of money by him for the purchase of an interest in the partnership and for any capital or advances contributed by him; and

(b) to stand, after all liabilities to third persons have been satisfied, in the place of the creditors of the partnership for any payments made by him in respect of the partnership liabilities; and

(c) to be indemnified by the person guilty of the fraud or making the representation against all debts and liabilities of the partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 39.)

§ 59-70. Rules for distribution.—In settling accounts between the partners after dissolution, the following rules shall be observed, subject to any agreement to the contrary:

(a) The assets of the partnership are

(I) the partnership property,

(II) the contributions of the partners necessary for the payment of all the liabilities specified in clause (b) of this section.

(b) The liabilities of the partnership shall rank in order of payment, as follows:

(I) Those owing to creditors other than partners,

(II) those owing to partners other than for capital and profits,

(III) those owing to partners in respect of capital,

(IV) those owing to partners in respect of profits.

(c) The assets shall be applied in the order of their declaration in clause (a) of this section to the satisfaction of the liabilities.

(d) The partners shall contribute, as provided by § 59-48, subsection (a) the amount necessary to satisfy the liabilities; but if any, but not all, of the partners are insolvent, or, not being subject to process, refuse to contribute, the other partners shall contribute their share of the liabilities, and, in the relative proportions in which they share the profits, the additional amount necessary to pay the liabilities.

(e) An assignee for the benefit of creditors or any person appointed by the court shall have the right to enforce the contributions specified in clause (d) of this section.

(f) Any partner or his legal representative shall have the right to enforce the contributions specified in clause (d) of this section, to the extent of the amount which he has paid in excess of his share of the liability.

(g) The individual property of a deceased partner shall be liable for the contributions specified in clause (d) of this section.

(h) When partnership property and the individual properties of the partners are in possession of a court for distribution, partnership creditors shall have priority on partnership property and separate creditors on individual property, saving the rights of lien or secured creditors as heretofore.

(i) Where a partner has become bankrupt or his estate is insolvent the claims against the separate property shall rank in the following order:

(I) Those owing to separate creditors,

(II) Those owing to partnership creditors,

(III) Those owing to partners by way of contribution. (1941, c. 374, s. 40.)

Cross Reference.—As to distribution of assets of a limited partnership, see § 59-23.

§ 59-71. Liability of persons continuing the business in certain cases.—(1) When any new partner is admitted into an existing partnership, or when any partner retires and assigns (or the representative of the deceased partner assigns) his rights in partnership property to two or more of the partners, or to one or more of the partners and one or more third persons, if the business is continued without liquidation of the partnership affairs, creditors of the first or dissolved partners.
ship are also creditors of the partnership so continuing the business.

(2) When all but one partner retire and assign (or the representative of a deceased partner assigns) their rights in partnership property to the remaining partner, who continues the business without liquidation of partnership affairs, either alone or with others, creditors of the dissolved partnership are also creditors of the person or partnership so continuing the business.

(3) When any partner retires or dies and the business of the dissolved partnership is continued as set forth in paragraphs (1) and (2) of this section, with the consent of the retired partners or the representative of the deceased partner, but without any assignment of his right in partnership property, rights of creditors of the dissolved partnership and of the creditors of the person or partnership continuing the business shall be as if such assignment had been made.

(4) When all the partners or their representatives assign their rights in partnership property to one or more third persons who promise to pay the debts and who continue the business of the dissolved partnership, creditors of the dissolved partnership are also creditors of the person or partnership continuing the business.

(5) When any partner wrongfully causes a dissolution and the remaining partners continue the business under the provisions of § 59-68, subsection (2)(b), either alone or with others, and without liquidation of the partnership affairs, creditors of the dissolved partnership are also creditors of the person or partnership continuing the business.

(6) When a partner is expelled and the remaining partners continue the business either alone or with others, without liquidation of the partnership affairs, creditors of the dissolved partnership are also creditors of the person or partnership continuing the business.

(7) The liability of a third person becoming a partner in the partnership continuing the business, under this section, to the creditors of the dissolved partnership shall be satisfied out of the partnership property only.

(8) When the business of a partnership after dissolution is continued under any conditions set forth in this section, to the creditors of the dissolved partnership, as against the separate creditors of the retiring or deceased partner or the representative of the deceased partner, have a prior right to any claim of the retired partner or the representative of the deceased partner against the person or partnership continuing the business on account of the retired or deceased partner's interest in the dissolved partnership or on account of any consideration promised for such interest or for his right in partnership property.

(9) Nothing in this section shall be held to modify any right of creditors to set aside any assignment on the ground of fraud.

(10) The use by the person or partnership continuing the business of the partnership name, or the name of a deceased partner as part thereof, shall not of itself make the individual property of the surviving partner liable for any debts contracted by such person or partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 41.)
COMPETENCY OF WITNESS.—In an action for goods sold to a firm, the testimony of one partner, who admitted his liability by failing to answer, that the goods were furnished by the plaintiff on the order of the firm, is not competent as against the executor, administrator, or surviving partner of the firm. Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124 N. C. 643, 32 S. E. 980; Moore v. Palmer, 132 N. C. 599, 44 S. E. 673.

§ 59-78. Notice to creditors.—Every surviving partner, within thirty days after the death of the deceased partner, shall notify all persons having claims against the partnership which were in existence at the time of the death of the deceased partner, to exhibit the same to the surviving partner. The notice shall be served personally, or mailed to the last known address of the debtor. The notice shall be published once a week for four weeks in a newspaper published in the county where the partnership existed. If there should be no newspaper published in the county, then the newspaper shall be published at the courthouse and disposed of the assets thereof in accordance with law. (Rev. s. 2541; 1901, c. 640, s. 2; C. S. 3280.)

When representative not subject to suit.—The representative of a deceased partner cannot be sued while there is a surviving partner. Burgwin v. Hostler, 1 N. C. 167.

§ 59-77. When personal representative may take inventory; receiver.—If the surviving partner neglect or refuse to have such inventory made, the personal representative of the deceased partner may have the same made in accordance with the provisions of § 59-76. Should any surviving partner fail to take such an inventory or refuse to allow the personal representative of the deceased partner's estate to do so, such personal representative of the deceased partner's estate may forthwith apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a receiver for such partnership, who shall thereupon proceed to wind up the same and dispose of the assets thereof in accordance with law. (Rev. s. 2541; 1901, c. 640, s. 2; C. S. 3280.)

Receivers appointed when assignee holds for indefinite term.—Where an assignee is held by a surviving partner of an insolvent firm, and the assignee was empowered to continue the business for an indefinite term, a receiver might be appointed to administer the partnership fund among the creditors, although the need for such a receiver was not shown. Southern Commission Co. v. Porter, 122 N. C. 692, 30 S. E. 119.

When representative not subject to suit.—The representative of a deceased partner cannot be sued while there is a surviving partner. Burgwin v. Hostler, 1 N. C. 167.
§ 59-79. Debts paid pro rata; liens.—All debts and demands against a copartnership, where one partner has died, shall be paid pro rata, except debts which are a specific lien on property belonging to the partnership. (Rev., s. 2543; 1901, c. 640, s. 4; C. S. 3283.)

When Interest of Firm Demands Creation of Debt.—While a surviving partner cannot enter into contracts, or create liabilities which will bind the estate of his deceased partner, yet he is not bound to sacrifice the interests of the firm, and lose the benefit of a joint business for the interest of the common property, he may pay them out of the common fund. Calvert v. Miller, 94 N. C. 600.

Same.—Creditors Advancing Funds to Market Product.—Where a surviving partner has purchased materials and contracted new debts to complete unfinished products and placed the finished article on the market, the creditors advancing the necessary funds are entitled to pay out of assets set off by a surviving partner. Howel v. Boyd Manufacturing Co., 116 N. C. 806, 22 S. E. 5.

Personal Debt as Set-Off.—In an action brought by a surviving partner for the payment of a debt due him, a debt due to the deceased partner may be pleaded as a set-off. Hogg v. Ashe, 2 N. C. 471.

But a defendant cannot avail herself of a debt due to her by a deceased member of the firm, though the contract between the latter and the defendant was that the debt, being for the board of his partner, should be paid out of the assets of the store in which the plaintiff and the defendant were partners. Carter v. Ny, 1768, 23 N. Y. 182.

Division Not Permitted before Settlemen.—"There can be no division of partnership property," in the language of Ruffin, C. J., in Baird v. Baird, 21 N. C. 534, "until all the accounts of the partnership have been taken and the clear balance of partnership property pro rata, is fraudulent as against creditors." Mendenhall v. Benbow, 84 N. C. 646, 650.

Prior Encumbrance.—The claim of a surviving partner upon the proceeds of sale of the deceased partner’s half of the real estate (here mill property), to reimburse him to the amount of half the expenditures incurred in the conduct of the joint business and improvements put upon the property, constitute a prior encumbrance and must be paid to the postmortem creditors of the deceased partner. Mendenhall v. Benbow, 84 N. C. 646.

When Assignment for Indefinite Term Fraudulent.—An assignment by a surviving partner of an insolvent firm for an indefinite term, the assignee to have the right to employ servants and to replenish the stock, and out of the proceeds pay all debts, and also the individual debts of the survivor pro rata, is fraudulent as against creditors. Southern Commission Co. v. Porter, 122 N. C. 692, 30 S. E. 119.

When Bank May Not Apply Deposits to Debts.—When a bank knew that the plaintiff was the only surviving partner of a firm, and that he was making deposits as such, it had no right to apply them to the payment of a debt created by the partnership before its dissolution, without the consent of the debtor. Hodgins v. National Bank, 125 N. C. 503, 34 S. E. 709, 712.

Accommodation Indorser of Note for Member of Firm.—A note executed by a member of a partnership to a third party who, as surety for the accommodation of the maker, indorses it and receives no benefit from it, cannot be subject to action at law against the indorser by the firm, nor in the case of the death of the maker of the note can the surviving partner maintain an action on the note against the accommodation indorsers unless the firm is insolvent. Patton v. Carr, 117 N. C. 176, 23 S. E. 182.

§ 59-80. Effect of failure to present claim in twelve months.—In an action brought on a claim which was not presented within twelve months from the first publication of the general notice to creditors, the surviving partner shall not be paid in satisfaction of any debts before such action was commenced, nor shall any costs be recovered in such action against the surviving partner. (Rev., s. 2544; 1901, c. 640, s. 5; C. S. 3283.)

§ 59-81. Procedure for purchase by surviving partner.—1. Appraisal of Property.—The surviving partner may, if he so desire, make application to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the partnership existed, after first giving notice to the executor or administrator of the time of the hearing of such application, for the appointment of three judicious, disinterested appraisers, one of whom may be named by the surviving partner, one by the representative of the deceased partner’s estate, and the third named by the two appraisers selected, whose duty it shall be to make out under oath a full and complete inventory and appraisement of the entire assets of the partnership, including real estate if there be any, together with a schedule of the debts and liabilities thereof, and to deliver the same to the surviving partner; they shall also deliver a copy to the executor or administrator, and file a copy with the clerk of the court.

2. Surviving Partner May Purchase.—The surviving partner may, with the consent of the executor or administrator of the deceased partner and the approval of the clerk of the superior court by whom such executor or administrator was appointed, purchase the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership assets at the appraised value thereof, including the good will of the business, first deducting therefrom the debts and liabilities of the partnership, for cash or upon giving to the executor or administrator his promissory note or notes, with good approved security, and satisfactory to the executor or administrator, for the payment of the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership assets.

3. Surviving Partner to Give Bond.—In case the surviving partner shall assign himself the privilege of purchasing such interest as provided for in this section, he shall give bond to the executor or administrator with surety for the payment of the debts and liabilities of the partnership, and for the performance of all contracts for which the partnership is liable.

4. Sale of Real Estate.—In case of such sale of the real estate belonging to the partnership, the title to the real estate so purchased shall not pass until the said thereof has been reported to and confirmed by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the partnership was located, in a special proceeding to which the widow and heirs at law or devisees of the deceased partner are duly made parties. (Rev., s. 2545; 1901, c. 640, s. 6; 1911, c. 12; C. S. 3284.)

§ 59-82. Surviving partner to account and settle. In case the surviving partner shall not avail himself of the privilege of purchasing the interest of the deceased partner, he shall, within twelve months from the death of the deceased partner, file with the clerk of the superior court of the county where the partnership was located, an account, under oath, stating his action as surviving partner, and shall come to a settlement with the executor or administrator of the deceased partner: Provided, that the clerk of the superior court shall have power, upon good cause shown, to extend the time within which said final settlement shall be made. The surviving partner for his services in settling the partnership estate shall receive commissions to be allowed by the court, and in no case to exceed five per cent out of the share of the deceased and administrators, see §§ 28-118 and 28-122, cern to all the goods purchased by either of the parties; and faith in a fiduciary character he is not chargeable with loss. That two and one-half per cent commissions on receipt and evidence to the contrary, each partner is presumed to be equally partner is entitled to reasonable compensation for his services, under the circumstances in that case. It appears to have existed between parties for the purchase of partners, and no express agreement be proved adjusting the parties are entitled to share the profits, without regard to the value of a note due the testator of the plaintiff individually, the account by a partnership, see § 93-4. Loss.—Where the surviving partner has acted in good faith in a fiduciary character he is not chargeable with loss. Thompson v. Rogers, 69 N. C. 361.

§ 59-83. Accounting compelled.—In case any surviving partner fails to come to a settlement with the executor or administrator of the deceased partner within the time prescribed by law, the clerk of the superior court may, at the instance of such executor, administrator or other person interested in such deceased partnership estate, cite the surviving partners to a final settlement as provided for by law in the case of executors and administrators. (Rev., s. 2547; 1901, c. 640, s. 8; C. S. 3286.)

Cross Reference.—As to compelling account by executors and administrators, see §§ 28-118 and 28-122.

§ 59-84. Settlement otherwise provided for.—When the original articles of partnership in force at the death of any partner or the will of a deceased partner make provision for the settlement of the deceased partner's interest in the partnership, and for a disposition thereof different from that required by either of the preceding sections of this chapter, the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership shall be settled and disposed of in accordance with provisions of such articles of partnership or of such will. (Rev., s. 2545; 1901, c. 640, s. 6; C. S. 3287.)

Art. 4. Business Under Assumed Name Regulated.

§ 59-85. Certificate filed; contents.—No person shall hereafter carry on, conduct or transact business in this state under assumed name, or under any designation, name or style other than the real name of the individual owning, conducting or transacting such business, unless such person file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such person owns, conducts or transacts, or intends to own, conduct or transact such business, or maintain an office or place of business, a certificate setting forth the name under which such business owned is or is to be conducted or transacted, and the true or real full name of the person owning, conducting or transacting the same, with the home and post-office address of such person. The certificate shall be executed and duly acknowledged by the person so owning, conducting or intending to conduct such business: Provided, that the selling of goods by sample or through traveling agents or traveling salesman, or by means of orders forwarded by the purchaser through the mails, shall not be construed for the purpose of this section as conducting or transacting business so as to require the filing of such certificates. (1913, c. 77, s. 1; C. S. 3288.)

Cross Reference.—As to use of title of certified public accountant by a partnership, see § 93-4.

Highly Penal.—The section is of a highly penal character, and its meaning will not be extended by interpretation to include cases of fraud or imposition. Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176 N. C. 82, 97 S. E. 54.

Purpose and Operation.—This statute manifestly is for the protection of the persons who have done business with the firm as conducting or transacting business so as to render them liable for the consequences of a violation of the statute are prescribed by sec. 59-88. They seem to be limited to punishment as a misdemeanor, for it is expressly provided that failure to comply with this section, shall not prevent a recovery in a civil action by the person who shall violate the statute. Farmers' Bank, etc., Co. v. Murphy, 189 N. C. 479, 127 S. E. 527, 533. A section is inserted to protect the public from fraud and imposition, and a person violating the same may not enforce a contract in our courts made in the course of such business, though the statute does not expressly invalidate such transactions. Courtney v. Parker, 173 N. C. 479, 92 S. E. 324. The rule laid down in this case is now changed by legislative enactment.

Public Laws of 1913, c. 77, s. 1. This section requires all persons and the following sections of this article, requiring that a partnership under an assumed name shall file a certificate in the office of the clerk of the superior court setting forth the name under which the business is conducted, with the full names and addresses of the persons owning and conducting it, etc., was to prevent fraud or imposition upon those dealing therewith, and to afford them means for knowing the name of the business and the person or persons with whom they dealt. Price v. Edwards, 178 N. C. 493, 101 S. E. 33.

When Not Applicable.—It does not apply between partners who are presumed to know each other's business, and a surviving partner may maintain his action against the heirs of the deceased one to recover his share in the assets of a partnership in a legitimate business, notwithstanding the business had been conducted under the unregistered name of such deceased partner, and the requirements of the statute had not been complied with. Price v. Edwards, 178 N. C. 493, 101 S. E. 33.

Same.—Surname of Proprietors. Where a partnership business is being conducted under the surname of the proprietor in such manner as to afford a reasonable and sufficient guide and notice to the public that the firm was actually conducting the firm, chapter 77, Laws 1913, forbidding the carrying on or transacting business under an "assumed name," etc., does not apply. Belafar v. Spell, 176 N. C. 193, 96 S. E. 399.

Same.—A Silent Partner. Where a partnership in a legitimate business has been conducted in the name of one of the partners alone, as between themselves, chapter 77, Public Laws 1913, now this article does not apply, and an action of § 59-86. Index of certificates kept by clerk.—The several clerks of the superior court of this state shall keep an alphabetical index of all persons filing certificates provided for herein, and for the indexing and filing of such certificates they shall receive a fee of twenty-five cents. A copy of such certificates duly certified to by the clerk in whose office the same shall be filed shall be presumptive evidence in all courts of law in this state of the facts therein contained. (1913, c. 77, s. 2; C. S. 3289.)

§ 59-87. Corporations and limited partnerships not affected.—This article shall in no way affect or apply to any corporation created and organized under the laws of any other state and doing business in this state, nor shall it in any manner affect the right of any persons to form limited partnerships as provided by the laws of this state. (1913, c. 77, s. 3; C. S. 3290.)

§ 59-88. Violation of article misdemeanor.—Any person owning, carrying on or conducting or transacting business as aforesaid, who shall fail to comply with the provisions of this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not exceeding thirty days: Provided, however, that the failure of any person or persons owning, carrying on, or conducting or transacting business as aforesaid, to comply with the provisions of this article shall not prevent a recovery by said person or persons in any civil action brought in any of the courts of this state. (1913, c. 77, s. 4; 1919, c. 2; C. S. 3291.)

Nature of Section.—As stated in Courtney v. Parker, infra and infra v. & Co., a violation of this statute is "a police regulation to protect the general public, as heretofore stated, from fraud and imposition," Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

Application.—In Courtney v. Parker, 173 N. C. 479, 92 S. E. 234, it was held that the statute was enacted as a police regulation to protect the general public from fraud and imposition, and a person violating the same may not enforce a contract made in the course of such business, though the statute does not expressly invalidate such transactions. See note infra.

This statute was further considered by the court in Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176 N. C. 82, 97 S. E. 54. In that case, Courtney v. Parker, supra, was distinguished, and the plaintiffs alleged to recover without filing the certificate required by sec. 59-85, because the title of the plaintiffs' firm, Jennette Bros., afforded a reasonable and sufficient guide to correct knowledge of the individuals composing the firm, and therefore did not come clearly within the doctrine of "assumed" names. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 630. See note following immediately hereafter.

When Courts Will Not Lend Aid.—The courts will not lend their aid to extend a highly penal statute, although it is within the police power, unless the certificate is in every material particular presented within the letter of the law, and also within its meaning and palpable design. It is just as clearly the policy of the law that it will not lend its aid in enforcing a claim founded on its own violation. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

In Jennette v. Coppersmith, supra, the court, reviewing Courtney v. Parker, after referring to the highly penal character of this statute, says: "It should not be extended or held to include cases that do not come clearly within its provision." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

Same—Act not forbidden by statute.—In Hines v. Norscott, 176 N. C. 123, 130, 96 S. E. 899, the court held that this statute did not apply, because the action did not arise out of the doing of an act forbidden by the statute. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 630.

Same—When transaction illegal.—In Fineman v. Faulkner, 174 N. C. 13, 16, 93 S. E. 384, L. R. A. 1916F 337, the plaintiff had not violated any statute, but was suing the Administrator of Mamie Faulkner who was engaged in an illegal business, and the court says: "In all the cases in which recovery has been denied, it will be found that either the consideration or the transaction was illegal or the vendor participated in the illegal purposes of the purchaser." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 630. See notes supra.

Same—Courtney v. Parker overruled by 1919 Amendment.—The foregoing were decided by the court prior to the enactment of chapter 2, Public Laws 1919. This enactment added the proviso now appearing in this section, and this proviso had the effect to change the decision in Courtney v. Parker, supra, as to violations of section 59-85. The legislative intent is clear, not only in the act itself, but the title: "An act to amend chapter 77 of the Public Laws of 1913, relating to assumed names and the acquirement of the right to permit recovery in actions brought by a partnership which has failed to register." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

In Real Estate Co. v. Sasser, 179 N. C. 497, 498, 103 S. E. 73, the court considers this statute (Public Laws 1913, ch. 77) together with chapter 2, Public Laws 1919, now contained in sections 59-85 to 59-88, inclusive, and allows the plaintiff to recover, although he was carrying on a real estate business, and he admitted direct violation of this statute. The court says that this amendment (chapter 2, Public Laws 1919) applied to pending actions and to transactions prior to its enactment, in the absence of a saving clause (36 Cyc. 1164). And, since it is a mere police regulation, it may be abolished at any time and no vested rights are acquired under it. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

Same—Contracts Not Void.—It is clear by express enactment, that the Legislature intended by adding the proviso that the provision should be confined to the police or prison, set out in this section, but that contracts made by persons carrying on or conducting or transacting business in violation of this statute, and under license as an auctioneer, broker, or commission merchant, or held to include cases that do not come clearly within its proviso, are not affected.—This article shall in no way affect or apply to any corporation created and organized under the laws of any other state and doing business in this state, nor shall it in any manner affect the right of any persons to form limited partnerships as provided by the laws of this state. (1913, c. 77, s. 3; C. S. 3290.)

§ 59-89. Person trading as "company" or "agent" to disclose real parties.—If any person shall transact business as trader or merchant, with the addition of the words "factor," "agent," "& Company" or "& Co.," or shall conduct such business under any name or style other than his own, except in case of a corporation, and fail to disclose the name of his principal or partner by a sign placed conspicuously at the place wherein such business is conducted, then all the property, stock of goods and merchandise, and choses in action purchased, used and contracted in the course of such business shall, as to creditors, be liable for the debts contracted in the course of such business by the person in charge of same. Provided, this section shall not apply to any person carrying on a real estate business, under license as an auctioneer, broker, or commission merchant; and in all actions under this section it is incumbent on such trader or merchant to prove compliance with the same. (Rev., s. 2118; 1905, c. 443; C. S. 3292.)

60-142. Street-cars to have fenders; failure to provide them misdemeanor.

§ 60-1. Application to existing railroads; special charters.—All existing railroad corporations within this state shall respectively have and possess all the powers and privileges contained in this chapter; and they shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities and provisions of this chapter not inconsistent with their charters. This chapter shall govern and control, anything in any special act of assembly creating a railroad corporation to the contrary notwithstanding, unless in the act of the general assembly creating the corporation the section or sections of this chapter intended to be repealed shall be specially referred to by number and, as such, specially repealed. (Rev., s. 2566; Code, ss. 701, 1982; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 45; C. S. 3412.)

Editor's Note.—Railroad companies are common carriers, receiving from the state a delegation of a portion of its sovereignty powers, duties and liabilities of the same character and nature as those of the state, and in the place and stead of the government, exercising public duties, they are therefore, subject to legislative as well as judicial control. The sections comprising this chapter are the result of the exercise of this power by the legislature of North Carolina.

To What Charters Applicable.—This section governs and controls all charters granted after its enactment. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 15, 27, 10 S. E. 1914.

Does Not Affect Subsequent Legislation.—The section is like any other act of the legislature and is subject to any subsequent legislation, and is only useful in construing the meaning of subsequent legislation when it is doubtful. It cannot have the effect to prevent antagonistic legislation at a subsequent date. Watsaugs, etc., R. Co. v. Ferguson, 169 N. C. 26, 71 S. E. 145.

Repeal by Implication Not Favor.—“This provision very plainly shows that it was the intention of the legislature that the general railroad act should apply, and that any inconsistent provision should not be repealed, either by implication or by hasty legislation. It is but an affirmation of the principle that the repeal by implication of a general law by a private statute is not favored. But the statute goes a step further, and prescribes a rule of construction under which the private act, even if it be inconsistent with the provisions of the general law, shall not repeal them unless they are specially referred to by number, and, as such, specially repealed.” Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 27, 10 S. E. 1914.

Consequently a provision of a charter that the railroad shall have the power to condemn land under the “same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the North Carolina Railroad Company,” is invalid. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 10 S. E. 1914, cited as conclusive in Livermon v. Roanoke, etc., R. R. Co., 109 N. C. 46, 62 S. E. 1913; Rumbough v. Southern Improvement Co., 162 N. C. 183, 62 S. E. 125; C. S. 3414.

Sec. 60-144. Right of eminent domain.

Violations of the provisions of the general law, shall not repeal them “unless in the act of the general assembly creating the corporation the section or sections of this chapter intended to be repealed shall be specially referred to by number and, as such, specially repealed.” Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 27, 10 S. E. 1914.

Cross Reference.—As to badge of railroad police, see § 60-85.

§ 60-2. Roads not to be established unless authorized by law.—If any person or corporation, not being expressly authorized thereto, shall make or establish any canal, turnpike, tramroad, railroad or plankroad, with the intent that the same shall be used to transport passengers other than such persons, or the members of such corporation, or to transport any productions, fabrics or manufactures other than their own, the person or corporation so offending, and using the same for any such purpose, shall forfeit and pay fifty dollars for every person and article of produce so transported.

This section shall not apply to any narrow-gauge railroad, tramroad or toll road made and established and maintained solely by the owner of the lands upon which said road may be, the principal business of which is the transportation of logs, lumber and articles for the owners of such railroad or tramroad. Provided, that the utilities commission shall have power to authorize lumber companies, having logging roads, to transport all kinds of commodities other than their own and passengers and to charge therefor reasonable rates to be approved by said commission. (Rev., s. 2598; Code, s. 1717; R. C., c. 61, s. 37; 1874-5, c. 83; 1901, c. 282; 1907, c. 531; 1911, c. 160; 1915, c. 6; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3413.)

Violation by Company Can Not Be Set Up as Defense.—A lumber company cannot avail itself of the defense, in an action for damages, that it was prohibited by this section, from building a standard-gauge railroad, in consideration of which it had obtained the plaintiff’s timber at a less price than its actual value; for if the stipulation to construct the railroad is invalid, the plaintiffs, though they should be parties to such contracts, are not in pari delicto. Herring v. Cumberland Lumber Co., 159 N. C. 382, 383, 74 S. E. 1911.

§ 60-3. Conductor and certain other employees to wear badges.—Every conductor, baggage-master, engineer, brakeman or other servant of any railroad corporation employed on a passenger train, or at stations for passengers, shall wear upon his hat or cap a badge which shall indicate his office and the initial letters of the title of the corporation by which he is employed. No conductor or collector without such badge shall be entitled to demand or receive from any passenger any fare or ticket, or to exercise any of the powers of his office; and no officer or servant without such badge shall have authority to meddle or interfere with any passenger, his baggage or property. (Rev., s. 2640; Code, s. 1958; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 30; C. S. 3414.)

Cross Reference.—As to badge of railroad police, see § 60-85.

§ 60-4. Actions for penalties to be in name of state.—All penalties imposed by this chapter may, unless otherwise provided, be sued for in the name of the state. (Rev., s. 2647; Code, s. 1976; 1885, c. 224; C. S. 3415.)

Cross Reference.—As to venue of actions against railroads, see § 1-81.

The penalty prescribed by section 60-112 for failure to transport within a reasonable time is given directly to the party aggrieved, and an action therefor is not required to be brought in the name of the state. Robertson v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

§ 60-5. Discrimination in charges misdemeanor.—If any common carrier shall directly or indirectly by special rate, rebate, drawback, or other device, charge, demand, collect or receive from any person a greater or less compensation for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of passengers or property subject to the provisions of law than it charges, demands or collects or receives from any other person or persons for doing for him or them a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions; or shall make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic in any respect whatsoever; or shall subject any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality or any particular description of traffic to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect whatsoever, such person or corporation shall, if convicted, be fined not less than one thousand nor more than five thousand dollars for each and every offense.

Cross References.—As to failure to receive and forward freight, see §§ 60-111 and 60-112. As to rules of the utilities commission to prevent discrimination, see § 62-56. As to discrimination between connecting lines, see § 62-143.

Editor's Note.—At common law it was an indictable offense for any carrier to give or receive a preference or advantage to members of the public; and by constitutional and statutory provisions in a number of states, including North Carolina by this section, unlawful discrimination makes the carriers subject to prosecution.

The sine qua non for a prosecution under this section is that the variance in charge constituting the discrimination must be for "a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions." This is substantially the same form in all of the state laws. For example the Kentucky statute is held not to apply to a discrimination in charges for the transportation of freight unless the shipments are of the same class from and to the same point and upon the same condition. See Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 105 Ky. 179, 20 Ky. I. Rep. 1099, 48 S. W. 416, 43 L. R. A. 550.

Section Is Remedial.—"The statutes enacted for the enforcement of the duties of common carriers, imposing penalties, are not intended to simply penalize railroads, but to secure prompt, efficient service to all and not a favored few." Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 585, 64 S. E. 615.

It will be observed, as said by Clark, C. J., in Lumber Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 136 N. C. 479, 487, 48 S. E. 813, that this section is substantially like that portion of the English "Traffic Act" known as the "Equality Clause" and the "Equalization Clause." The fundamental purpose which it was enacted to be patterned after the Act of Congress of 1887, c. 104, section 2, U. S. Comp. Stat., 1901, p. 3155, which regulates the same subject in interstate commerce, and is found in substantially the same language in all of the state laws. The principle of the Kentucky statute is held not to apply to a discrimination in charges for the transportation of freight unless the shipments are of the same class from and to the same point and upon the same condition. See Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Conn., 105 Ky. 179, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1099, 48 S. W. 416, 43 L. R. A. 550.

Section Is Remedial.—"The statutes enacted for the enforcement of the duties of common carriers, imposing penalties, are not intended to simply penalize railroads, but to secure prompt, efficient service to all and not a favored few." Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 585, 64 S. E. 615.

It will be observed, as said by Clark, C. J., in Lumber Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 136 N. C. 479, 487, 48 S. E. 813, that this section is substantially like that portion of the English "Traffic Act" known as the "Equality Clause" and the "Equalization Clause." The fundamental purpose which it was enacted to be patterned after the Act of Congress of 1887, c. 104, section 2, U. S. Comp. Stat., 1901, p. 3155, which regulates the same subject in interstate commerce, and is found in substantially the same language in all of the state laws. The principle of the Kentucky statute is held not to apply to a discrimination in charges for the transportation of freight unless the shipments are of the same class from and to the same point and upon the same condition. See Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Conn., 105 Ky. 179, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1099, 48 S. W. 416, 43 L. R. A. 550.

§ 60-8. Discrimination against the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad misdemeanor; venue;—If any railroad in North Carolina shall discriminate against the freights received from the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad, or shall make rates by which, either directly or indirectly, by rebates or otherwise, freights may be delivered at less rates when received from other points than from points along the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad in proportion to distance hauled, it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars for each and every violation thereof. An indictment for the misdemeanor may be found and tried in the courts where the goods were either shipped or delivered, but the court in which the indictment for the offense is first found shall have exclusive jurisdiction. (Rev., s. 3750; 1889, c. 358; C. S. 3419.)

Art. 2. Incorporation, Officers, and Stock of Railroad.

§ 60-9. Articles of association; contents; signature; filing;—Any number of persons, not less than six, at least one of whom shall be a citizen and resident of this state, may form a company for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating a railroad for public use in the conveyance of persons and property, or for the purpose of maintaining and operating any unincorporated railroad already constructed for the like public use; and for that purpose may make and sign articles of association, in which shall be stated the name of the company, the number of years the same is to continue, the places from and to which the road is to be constructed or maintained and operated, the length of such road as near as may be, and the name of each county in this state through or into which it is made or intended to be made, the amount of the capital stock of the company, which shall not be less than five thousand dollars for every mile of road constructed or proposed to be constructed, and the number of shares of which the capital stock shall consist, and the names and places of residence of six directors of the company, at least one of whom shall be a citizen and resident of this state, upon whom legal process may be served, who shall manage its affairs for the first year, or until others are chosen in their places. Each subscriber to such articles of association shall subscribe thereto his name, place of residence, and the number of shares of stock he agrees to take in the company. On compliance with the provisions of § 60-10, such articles of association may be filed in the office of the secretary of state, who shall indorse thereon the day they are filed, and record the same in a book to be provided by him for that purpose; and thereupon the persons who have so subscribed such articles of association, and all persons who shall become stockholders in such company, shall be a corporation by the name specified in such articles of association, and shall possess the powers and privileges granted to railroad corporations by this chapter. The Articles of association of any company formed under the provisions of this chapter, or the charter of any railroad company formed under a special act, may be amended as provided in §§ 55-30 and 55-31 and said §§ 55-30 and 55-31 are hereby made to apply to railroad companies: Provided, no amendment may be made changing the nature of the company, the name of the railroad, extending the franchise or authorizing any powers other than those authorized by this chapter. Provided further, that the capital stock provision or provisions of this section shall not apply to any railroad corporation chartered for the purpose of leasing a railroad already in existence and in operation, and such railroad company so chartered shall have a paid-in capital stock of not less than five thousand dollars ($5,000.00). (Rev., s. 2548; Code, s. 1932; 1871-2, c. 138; 1905, c. 187; 1907, c. 472; ss. 1, 2; 1921, c. 117; 1939, c. 60; C. S. 3420.)

Cross References.—As to requirement of certificate of convenience and necessity for construction and operation of utilities, see § 99-29. As to amendments of charter of railroad, see also § 60-11.

Editor's Note.—The last sentence of this section with the proviso thereto relative to amendments of articles of associations and carriers, was added by the Public Laws of 1921.

The 1939 amendment added the second proviso.

Section Provides Exclusive Method of Creating.—The legislature has in this and the two following sections manifested a clear and positive intention that railroad corporations shall not be created by the action of associated persons otherwise than as provided in such sections. Bradley v. Ohio River & C. Ry. Co., 119 N. C. Appx., 918, 927.

Not Applicable to Continuing Existence.—This section refers only to the mode and manner of creating railroad corporations, and not to the methods of continuing the existence and operation of railroad franchises in the hands of purchasers at judicial sales. Bradley v. Ohio River & C. Ry. Co., 119 N. C. Appx., 918, 927.

Effect of Noncompliance.—The filing and recording by the secretary of state of articles of association of a proposed railroad company, if not such as required by law, is a nullity. Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Strood, 132 N. C. 413, 45 S. E. 913.

May Be Declared Void by Court.—Where the articles of incorporation of a railroad company are upon their face void, though not subject to collateral attack, the trial court will so declare in refusing to condemn land by right of eminent domain claimed thereunder. Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Strood, 132 N. C. 413, 45 S. E. 913.

§ 60-10. Prerequisites of filing; stock subscription; affidavit of directors; payment of fees.—Such articles of association shall not be filed and recorded in the office in the secretary of the state until at least one thousand dollars of stock for every mile of railroad proposed to be made is subscribed thereto, and five per cent paid thereon in good faith, and in cash, to the directors named in the articles of association; nor until there is indorsed thereon or annexed thereto an affidavit made by at least three of the directors named in such articles, that the amount of stock required by this section has been in good faith subscribed and five per cent paid in cash thereon as aforesaid, and that it is intended in good faith to construct or to maintain and operate the road mentioned in such articles of association, which affidavit shall be recorded with the articles of association, as aforesaid; nor until said directors shall pay the taxes and fees provided for under the chapter Corporations, Article 14, entitled Taxes and Fees. (Rev., s. 2549; Code, s. 1933; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 2; 1905, c. 168; C. S. 3421.)

§ 60-11. Amendment of charter by railroad; changing value of and issuing stock without par value.—Any railroad company heretofore or hereafter organized under the laws of this State, whether under a special act, or otherwise, may, in the manner provided by § 55-31, as heretofore amended, amend its certificate of incorporation, articles of association or charter, for the purpose of increasing or decreasing its capital stock, changing its name, changing the par value of the shares of its capital stock, creating one or more classes of common or preferred stock, creating shares of stock with or without nominal or par value, or for any purpose authorized by statutes now in force relating to the amendment of certificates of incorporation, articles of association or charters of corporations: Provided, however, that in case of a consolidated railroad company, heretofore or hereafter organized under a special act or general laws of this State and of any other state or states, a new class or classes of stock may be created upon authorization by vote of such amount of the outstanding capital stock, in no case less than a majority thereof, as may be prescribed by the provisions of the agreement of consolidation in pursuance of which such consolidated company was formed. (1989, c. 261.)

Cross Reference.—As to exchange by a corporation of par value shares of stock for no par value shares, see § 55-80.

§ 60-12. Copy of articles evidence of incorporation.—A copy of any articles of association filed and recorded in pursuance of this article and of the record thereof, with a copy of the affidavit aforesaid indorsed thereon or annexed thereto, and certified to be a copy by the secretary of state, shall be presumptive evidence of the incorporation of such company, and of the facts therein stated. (Rev., s. 2550; Code, s. 1934; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 3; C. S. 3422.)

§ 60-13. Opening of subscription books.—When such articles of association and affidavit are filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, the directors named in such articles of association may, in case the whole of the capital stock is not before subscribed, open books of subscription to fill up the capital stock of the company in such places and after giving such notice as they may deem expedient, and may continue to receive subscriptions until the whole of the capital stock is subscribed. (Rev., s. 2551; Code, s. 1935; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 4; C. S. 3423.)

§ 60-14. How stock paid for; forfeiture for nonpayment.—The directors may require the subscribers to the capital stock of the company to pay the amounts by them respectively subscribed in such manner and in such installments as they may deem proper. If any stockholder shall neglect to pay any installment as required by a resolution of the board of directors, the said board shall be authorized to declare his stock and all previous payments thereon forfeited for the use of the company, but they shall not declare it so forfeited until they shall have caused a notice in writing to be served on him personally, or the same to be deposited in the postoffice, properly directed to him at the post office nearest his usual place of residence, stating that he is required to make such payment at the time and place specified in such notice, and that if he fails to make the same, his stock and all previous payments thereon will be forfeited for the use of the company, which notice shall be served as aforesaid at least sixty days previous to the day on which payment is required to be made. (Rev., s. 2554; Code, s. 1938; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 7; C. S. 3424.)

Cross Reference.—As to construction companies taking stock in railroad as payment, see § 55-64.

§ 60-15: Repealed by Session Laws 1913, c. 543.

§ 60-16. Stockholders’ liability for unpaid stock and to laborers; notice.—Each stockholder of any such company shall be individually liable to the creditors of such company to an amount equal to the amount unpaid on the stock held by him, for all the debts and liabilities of such company until the whole amount of the capital stock so held by him shall have been paid to the company, and all the stockholders of any such company shall be jointly and severally liable for the debts due or owing to any of its laborers and servants, other than contractors, for personal services for thirty days service performed for such company, but shall not be liable to an action therefor before an execution shall be returned unsatisfied in whole or in part against the corporation, and the amount due on such execution shall be the amount recoverable with costs against such stockholder. Before such laborer or servant shall charge such stockholders for such thirty days service he shall give them notice in writing within twenty days after the performance of such service that he intends to hold them liable, and shall commence such action therefor within thirty days after the return of such execution unsatisfied as above mentioned; and every such stockholder, against whom any such recovery by such laborer or servant shall have been had, shall have a right to recover the same of the other stockholders in such corporation in ratable proportion to the amount of the stock they shall respectively hold with himself. (Rev., s. 2556; Code, s. 1940; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 10; C. S. 3426.)

§ 60-17. Liability of trustees and other fiduciaries holding stock.—No person holding stock in any such company as executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, and no person holding such stock as collateral security, shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company. The estates in the hands of such executor, administrator, guardian or trustee shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator or intestate or the ward or person interested in such trust fund would have been if he had been living and competent to act and hold the same stock in his own name, and a person pledging such stock shall be considered as holding the same, and shall be liable as a stockholder accordingly. (Rev., s. 2557; Code, s. 1941; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 11; C. S. 3427.)

§ 60-18. Directors and presidents.—There shall be a board of six directors, one of whom shall be elected president, of every corporation formed under this article, to manage its affairs. The directors shall be chosen annually by a majority of the votes of the stockholders voting at such election, in such manner as may be prescribed in the by-laws of the corporation, and they may and shall continue in office until others are elected in their places. In the election of directors each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote person—ally or by proxy on every share held by him thirty days previous to any such election, and vacancies in the board of directors shall be filled in such manner as shall be prescribed by the directors of the corporation. The inspectors of the first election of directors shall be appointed by the board of directors named in the articles of association. No person shall be a director or president unless he shall be a stockholder owning stock absolutely in his own right and qualified to vote for directors at the election at which he shall be chosen; and at every election of directors the books and papers of such company shall be exhibited to the meeting, if a majority of the stockholders present shall require it. (Rev., s. 2552; Code, s. 1936; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 3; C. S. 3428.)

§ 60-19. Appointment of officers and agents.—
The president and directors shall appoint a treasurer and secretary and such other officers and agents as shall be prescribed by the by-laws. (Rev., s. 2553; Code, s. 1937; 1871-5, c. 138, s. 6; C. S. 3429.)

§ 60-20. Officials to account to successors.—
The president and directors shall appoint a trustee and secretary and such other officers and agents as shall be prescribed by the by-laws. (Rev., s. 2553; Code, s. 1937; 1871-5, c. 138, s. 6; C. S. 3429.)

The decisions of the Federal Courts were made statutory by this section referred to all railroads or only those partially used by the counties. See § 14-253. As to embezzlement by officers of a railroad, see §§ 14-94 and 14-95.

Art. 3. County Subscriptions in Aid of Railroads.

§ 60-21. Counties may subscribe stock.—The boards of commissioners of the several counties shall have power to subscribe stock to any railroad company when necessary to aid in the construction of any railroad in which the citizens of the county may have an interest. (Rev., s. 2558; Code, s. 1996; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 1; C. S. 3431.)

Cross Reference.—As to an incorporated town encouraging the building of railroads, see § 158-1.

Editor's Note.—As this section appeared in the Code of 1883 it permitted subscription when necessary to aid in the completion of any railroad. This phraseology was the cause of some litigation as it was doubtful whether the section was applicable only to those railroads which were partially completed or whether it extended to all such companies. The Supreme Court of North Carolina adhered consistently to the former view, while the Federal Courts adopted the latter. The decisions of the Federal Courts were made statutory by the substitution in the Revisal of 1905, of the word “construction” for the word “completion.” For the North Carolina cases prior to this substitution see Com'rs v. Smuggs, 121 N. C. 394, 28 S. E. 539; Com'rs v. Payne, 123 N. C. 432, 31 S. E. 711; Graves v. Commissioners, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134. For the controlling federal cases see Com'rs v. Color, 112 Fed. 705; Wilkes County v. Color, 190 U. S. 107, 47 L. Ed. 971, 23 S. Ct. 718; Stanly County v. Coler, 190 U. S. 437, 47 L. Ed. 1125, 23 S. Ct. 815.

Editor's Note.—County Subscriptions.—The same state and federal cases which were in conflict upon the question of whether this section referred to all railroads or only those partially completed (see Editor's Note above) were also at variance upon the sufficiency of interest requisite to authorize the subscription. The state cases maintained the position that the interest must be direct and in and of the county subscribing, while the federal cases were in conflict upon the question of whether a public interest would suffice. The best statement of this rule is found in Coler v. Commissioners, 89 Fed. 257 where it is said: "The section does not require the citizens to have a direct pecuniary interest in the road, but a public interest, such as is created by the building of a railroad into the county, and the necessity of bonds and levying of taxes to carry out the same." Burden of Proving Validity.—Where the recitals in railroad bonds are that they were issued under a particular act of the legislature, the burden of validating them, as made under this section, is on the party alleging their validity. Graves v. Commissioners, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134.

§ 60-22. Election on question of county aid.—
The board of commissioners of any county proposing to take stock in any railroad company shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed, and if a majority of the board shall vote for the proposition, this shall be entered of record, which record shall show the amount proposed to be subscribed, to what company, and whether in bonds, money or other property, and thereupon the board shall order an election, to be held on a notice of not less than thirty days, for the purpose of voting for or against the proposition to subscribe to the amount agreed upon by the board of county commissioners. If a majority of the qualified voters of the county shall vote in favor of the proposition, the board of county commissioners, through their chairman, shall have power to subscribe the amount of stock proposed by them and submitted to the people, subject to all the rules, regulations and restrictions of other stockholders in such company: Provided, that the counties, in the manner aforesaid, shall subscribe from time to time such amounts, either in bonds or money, as they may think proper. (Rev., s. 2559; Code, s. 1997; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 2; C. S. 3432.)

Editor's Note.—Section 160-62 and Article VII, section 7 of the Constitution require a popular vote for the contrac- tion of debts by cities and towns except in the case of neces-sary expenses. Vote on Two Subscriptions.—Where the question of subscription to two different railroad corporations is to be submitted to a vote, it is improper and irregular to submit them as a single proposition, at the same election and on the same ballot. Goforth v. Rutherford Ry. Constr. Co., 96 N. C. 535; § 8 E. 361.

§ 60-23. Conduct of election.—All elections ordered under § 60-22 shall be held by the sheriff under the laws and regulations provided for the election of members of the general assembly. The votes shall be compared by the boards of county commissioners, who shall make a record of the same. (Rev., s. 2560; Code, s. 1998; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 3; C. S. 3433.)

§ 60-24. Interest on bonds.—In case the county shall subscribe the amount proposed in bonds, the board of commissioners shall have power to fix the rate of interest, not to exceed the rate of six per cent, and upon the payment of interest on the bonds the county shall be liable for and shall pay the same at the rates from time to time fixed by the county. (Rev., s. 2561; Code, s. 1999; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 4; C. S. 3434.)

No Estoppel by Payment of Interest.—The payment of interest from year to year on the bonds is not an estoppel, but does not validate them. Commissioners v. Payne, 123 N. C. 432, 31 S. E. 711.

§ 60-25. Collection and disposition of taxes authorized.—The taxes authorized by this article to be raised for the payment of interest or principal shall be collected by the sheriff or tax collector in like manner as ad valorem taxes, and be paid into the hands of the county treasurer, to be used by the chairman of the board of county commissioners as directed by this article. (Rev., s. 2562; Code, s. 2000; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 5; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 3435.)

Cross Reference.—As to the collection of taxes generally, see § 105-372 et seq.

Editor's Note.— The 1943 amendment inserted the words “or tax collector” that substituted the words “ad valorem” for the words “other state.”

Art. 4. Township Subscriptions in Aid of Railroads.

§ 60-26. Townships may subscribe stock.—The board of commissioners of the several counties of the state shall have power to subscribe stock for the use and benefit of any township in their several counties, when necessary to aid in the construction of any railroad, which is now or may hereafter be incorporated under the laws of this state, in which the citizens of such county may have an interest. (1917, c. 64, s. 1; C. S. 3436.)

Editor's Note. — In Graves v. Com‘rs, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134, it was held that section 60-21 did not apply to other state.

§ 60-27. Election on question of township aid.—The board of commissioners of any county proposing to take stock, for the use and benefit of any township, shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed for such township, as mentioned in § 60-26, shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed for such township, and if a majority of the board shall vote for the proposition, this shall be entered of record, which record shall show the amount proposed to be subscribed, and for what township, to what company, and whether in bonds, money or other property; and thereupon the board shall order an election, to be held upon a notice of not less than thirty days, in each and every township for whose use and benefit such subscription is proposed to be made. If a majority of the qualified voters of the township for whose use and benefit such subscription is proposed to be made shall vote in favor of the proposition, the board of county commissioners through their chairman shall have power to subscribe the amount of stock proposed by them, and submitted to the voters, for the use and benefit of such township, subject to all the rules, regulations, and restrictions of other stockholders in such railroad company: Provided, that the township, in the manner aforesaid, shall subscribe from time to time such amounts, either in bonds or money, as it may think proper. (1917, c. 64, s. 2; C. S. 3437.)

§ 60-28. Conduct of election; canvass of votes.—All elections ordered under § 60-27 shall be held by the sheriff of the county in which such township is located, under such laws and regulations as are now or may hereafter be provided for the election of members of the general assembly. The votes of each township for whose use and benefit subscription under this article is proposed to be made shall be compared and the results of such election determined by the board of commissioners of the county in which such township is located, who shall make a record of the same. (1917, c. 64, s. 3; C. S. 3438.)

§ 60-29. Bond issue; special tax.—In case the township shall authorize, at the election herein provided for, a subscription of the amount proposed in bonds, the board of commissioners shall have power to fix the rate of interest, not to exceed the rate of six per cent, when the principal of such bonds shall be payable, and at what place, and shall also fix the time and place for paying interest, and shall also determine the mode and manner of paying the same. The board of commissioners shall, in order to provide for the payment of the bonds and interest authorized to be issued by this article, compute and levy each year at the time of levying the county taxes a sufficient tax upon the property in any township authorizing the issuance of bonds under this article to pay the interest on the bonds issued on account of and for the use and benefit of such township, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of such bonds at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes. (1917, c. 64, s. 4; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 3459.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment struck out the words “and state” formerly appearing after the word “county” in the fourteenth line.

§ 60-30. Levy, collection, and disposition of tax.—The tax authorized by this article to be raised for the payment of interest and principal shall be levied by the board of commissioners of the county in which such township is located, at such times as is now or hereafter may be fixed for levying ad valorem county taxes, against the taxable property located in such township, in addition to the regular ad valorem county taxes assessable against such property. The tax shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes. (1917, c. 64, s. 6; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 3440.)

Cross Reference.—As to the collection of taxes generally, see §§ 105-372 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment substituted the words “ad valorem” for former references to state and other taxes.

§ 60-31. Tax to be kept separate.—The taxes levied and collected under the provisions of this article shall be kept separate and apart from all other ad valorem taxes levied and collected in the county in which such township shall be located. (1917, c. 64, s. 6; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 3441.)

Editor’s Note.—The 1943 amendment substituted in the fourth line the words “ad valorem” for the words “state and county.”
§ 60-32. Townships may subscribe to purchase of railroad corporations. — The board of commissioners of the several counties of the state shall have power to make subscriptions, for the use and benefit of any township in their several counties, for the purpose of aiding in the purchase of any railroad corporation now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state which shall be dissolved or whose property and franchises are proposed to be sold privately or under execution, judicial decree, deed in trust, mortgage, or other conveyance, and all the provisions of this article shall apply as fully and as well to such subscriptions as they do to subscriptions to stock to aid in the construction of railroads. (1917, c. 64, s. 1; 1919, c. 130, s. 1; C. S. 3442.)

§ 60-33. Election on question of purchase; proxies to represent stock. — The county commissioners shall, upon the petition of one-fourth of the qualified voters of any township mentioned in § 60-32, order an election and submit the question of such subscription according to the terms of the petition. At such election five persons shall be chosen as proxies to represent such stock, if the vote shall be in favor of the subscription, in all respects as fully as if private promoters, corporators or holders of such stock. They shall be eligible to the position of director or other office in the corporation. They shall hold office until the first Monday in December following the next general election and until their successors chosen at such general election shall qualify. Such proxies shall be chosen at the general election every two years as township officers are. They shall have authority, alone, if sole purchasers, and with the proxies from other townships and others participating in the purchase, if not acting alone, to purchase such railroad property and franchise, and shall constitute a new corporation upon compliance with law as in other cases of a dissolution and sale of railroad property and franchise. (1917, c. 64, s. 2; 1919, c. 130, s. 2; C. S. 3443.)

§ 60-34. Increase of interest; procedure. — Whenever the board of county commissioners of any county has subscribed for the use and benefit of any township to any interest in any railroad or railroad corporation, as provided in this article, and the majority of the proxies chosen to represent the stock or interest of the township in such railroad shall certify to the board of commissioners that in their opinion the interest of the township in said railroad or railroad corporation should be increased, the board of county commissioners shall order an election to be held in such township, upon the petition of one-fourth of the qualified voters of such township, in the same manner as provided in this article, and if the majority of the qualified voters of such township shall vote in favor of the proposition contained in the petition the county commissioners shall execute and deliver the bonds authorized, levy and collect in the township and dispose of the tax, as authorized in this article. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 117, s. 1.)

§ 60-35. Execution and sale of bonds for increase of interest. — Said bonds shall be executed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners of such county, attested by the clerk of said board, who shall affix the seal of the board, and deliver the same to the board of proxies representing said township. The board of proxies shall advertise said bonds as provided by law, and faithfully apply the same to the purposes set forth in the petition for the election. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 117, ss. 2, 3.)

§ 60-36. Organization of proxies; report; vacancies. — The proxies chosen at each general election shall qualify and organize on the first Monday in December, elect a chairman, vice-chairman and secretary, and they shall annually in each year file with the board of county commissioners a copy of the report required by law to be made to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Any vacancy occurring in the board of proxies shall be filled by the board of proxies until the next general election. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 117, ss. 4, 5.)

Art. 5. Powers and Liabilities.

§ 60-37. Powers of railroad corporations enumerated. — Every railroad corporation shall have power:

1. To Survey and Enter on Land. — To cause such examination and surveys for its proposed railroad to be made as may be necessary to the selection of the most advantageous route; and for such purpose, by its officers or agents and servants, to enter upon the lands or waters of any person, but subject to responsibility for all damages which shall be done thereto.

Cross Reference. — As to right of entry on land, see § 40-3.

Conflicting Locations. — As between two railroad companies the first location belongs to that company which first defines and marks its route and adopts the same for its permanent location by authoritative corporate action. Fayetteville Street Ry. v. Aberdeen & R. R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

2. To Condemn Land under Eminent Domain. — To appropriate land and rights therein by condemnation, as provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Cross Reference. — As to condemnation by right of eminent domain, see § 40-2 et seq. As to amount of land which may be condemned, see § 40-29.

Editor's Note. — Since railroads are quasi-public corporations they are given by the state the power to take, by proper proceedings the necessary lands upon which to build their roads. Nor will the courts enjoin a railroad corporation from condemning land for a public purpose on the ground that the corporation was irregularly organized. In Powers v. Hazelton, etc., R. Co., 33 Ohio St. 429, it was held that a land-owner could not be permitted to prove, as a defense to condemnation proceedings instituted by a regularly organized railroad corporation, that the company was incorporated not for a public use, but for the private purposes of the corporators only, and that there was no public necessity for the road. See, also, Wellington, etc., R. Co. v. Cashie, etc., R. Co., 114 N. C. 690, 19 S. E. 646.

Land May Be Taken from Another Railroad. — Land acquired by one railroad company under a legislative grant of the right of eminent domain, and not necessary for the exercise of its franchise or the discharge of its duties, is liable to be taken under the law of eminent domain for the use of another railroad company. North Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 83 N. C. 489.

3. To Take Property by Grant. — To take and hold such voluntary grants of real estate and other property as shall be made to it to aid in the construction, maintenance and accommodation of its railroad; but the real estate received by volumtary grant shall be held and used for the purposes of such grant only. Railroad companies can acquire real estate only by statutory authority. After the authority is granted, either by general legislation, charter or implied power, property may be acquired by purchase, grant, dedication, adverse possession or by condemnation under the power of eminent domain.

In 1 Elliott on Ry., sec. 390, the general principle is stated as follows: "It is well established that a railroad corporation cannot acquire and hold lands for any purposes except as authorized by statute. The authority must be conferred by legislation or it does not exist; it is, however, not necessary that the authority should be expressly conferred. It may be implied." See Wallace v. Moore, 178 N. C. 114, 115, 100 S. E. 239.

4. To Purchase and Hold Property.—To purchase and hold and use all such real estate and other property as may be necessary for the construction and maintenance of its railroad and the stations and other accommodations necessary to accomplish the object of its incorporation.

Cross Reference.—As to adverse possession of property owned by a railroad, see § 1-44.

5. To Grade and Construct Road.—To lay out its road, not exceeding one hundred feet in width, and to construct the same; to take, for the purpose of cuttings and embankments, as much more land as may be necessary for the proper construction and security of the road; and to cut down any standing trees that may be in danger of falling on the road, making compensation therefor as provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Cross Reference.—See also § 40-29.

Change of Grade.—A railroad company has a right to change the grade of its road-bed or to remove it to any point on its right of way. Binkley v. Sou. R., Co., 135 N. C. 654, 47 S. E. 791.

6. To Intersect with Highways and Waterways.—To construct its road across, along or upon any stream of water, water-course, street, highway, plankroad, turnpike, railroad or canal which the route of its road shall intersect or touch; but the company shall restore the stream or water-course, street, highway, plankroad or turnpike road, thus intersected or touched, to its former state or to such state as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness. Nothing in this chapter contained shall be construed to authorize the erection of any bridge or any other obstruction across, in or over any stream or lake navigated by steam or sail boats, at the place where the same is proposed to be placed, nor to authorize the construction of any railroad not already located in, upon or across any streets in any city without the assent of the corporation of such city.

Cross References.—As to the power of the utilities commission to regulate crossings, see § 62-50. As to the duty of railroads to construct and maintain bridges which it has necessitated building, see §§ 136-75 and 136-78; as to their duty to provide cattle guards, see § 60-48.

Editor's Note.—The right of railroad companies to cross highways is limited to the necessities of the crossing and no greater right than that reasonably necessary to accomplish the purpose of the crossing. It is the duty of a railroad company constructing its line across a public highway to do so in such a manner as to interfere with the right of the public to the use of the highway as little as possible and to restore the highway to as safe a condition for travel as before the crossing was made so far as it can be done, and prevent any company that has constructed its line across a highway may lay such additional parallel tracks as are reasonably necessary for the transaction of its business.

Duty to Public.—While railroad companies are given the right and power to construct their roads across streets, highways, etc., they must maintain a safe and convenient crossing thereon, so as far as possible to accommodate the public to the public as it would have been had the railroad not been built. Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R., Co., 126 N. C. 567, 56 S. E. 155.

Whole Street Cannot Be Appropriated.—In Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Raleigh, 219 Fed. 573, 581, in construing this section it is said: "It is doubtful whether the language of the section can be construed to authorize the exclusive appropriation of the street. The sidewalk is a portion of a street appropriated to the use of pedestrians. To construe the grant of the right to construct its road 'across, along, or upon' a street or a road, always of much greater width than a railroad track and the cross-ties, as a grant of the right to occupy the entire street or sidewalk, is not permissible in the light of the recognized rule of construction of such grants of power. How is it possible to restore the street to its former state' if the track occupies its entire width? Statutes must be given a reasonable construction.

Assent of the Corporation.—Essential to the use of the street by a railroad company is often a most essential power, necessary to be used for the benefit of the people of the city. Griffin v. Southern R. Co., 190 N. C. 312, 314, 64 S. E. 16.

Court Cannot Review Grant.—The action of the board of aldermen in authorizing a railroad company to use a certain street for legitimate railroad purposes, the laying and use of tracks, etc., when the statutory power is given, is not reviewable by the courts at the instance of an owner of land on the street, claiming that some other street should have been so used. Griffin v. Southern R. Co., 190 N. C. 312, 64 S. E. 16.

Cited in Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R., Co., 126 N. C. 567, 56 S. E. 115.

7. To Intersect with Other Railroads.—To cross, intersect, join and unite its railroad with any other railroad before constructed, at any point where any railroad, and also with another company, with the necessary turnouts, sidings and switches and other conveniences in furtherance of the object of its connections. Every company whose railroad is or shall be hereafter intersected by any new railroad shall unite with the owners of such new railroad in forming such intersections and connections and grant the facilities aforesaid, and if the two corporations cannot agree upon the amount of compensation to be made therefor, or the points and manner of such crossings and connections, the same shall be ascertained and determined by commissioners to be appointed by the court as is provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Cross Reference.—As to appointment of the commissioners, see § 61-9.

Editor's Note.—In Elliott on Railroads, p. 1687, the author says, "This provision (that the companies shall unite in agreement) has the effect of a condition precedent to the right to invoke the aid of the statute, and a complaint or instrument to condemn a crossing hereunder must show that the companies were unable to agree. If there is a waiver of an agreement or of an effort to agree, that fact should be alleged. Negotiations had with officers of the road sought to be crossed, who assume to act in its behalf, although not authorized to do so, have the effect of authorizing the company to constitute an effort to agree, unless the person with whom such officers act has knowledge of their lack of authority. The burden of proof is upon the petitioner to show that negotiations were in good faith and not a method of delay. It may be made to appear before a crossing will be granted when so required by the statute authorizing the condemnation, that the crossing was necessary and proper."

Railroad Decides Necessity of Intersection. — Where a railroad company has a right to condemn a way across the track of another company to manufacturing plants for a spur track to which the other company also has its siding, in competition for freight, the question whether it is necessary for the plaintiff company to build its spur is one in its discretion; and controversies as to whether the defendant could and would shift the plaintiff to its own track advantageously to the plaintiff, and for a reasonable charge, are immaterial. Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 161 N. C. 531, 78 S. E. 68.

No Restriction of Right Except Voluntary.—A railroad company having the power of condemnation across the road of another company should exercise this right with regard to the convenience of both parties and with as little interference with the use of the other party of its own track as can be obtained without a great increase in its cost and inconvenience. But the courts cannot restrict this right to be exercised in the cases in which the owner may approve its reasonableness or expediency. Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 165 N. C. 425, 81 S. E. 617.

Agreement or Condemnation Necessary for Entry. — Under this section one road cannot enter on the right-of-way of another for the purpose of connecting therewith without previous agreement, or condemnation proceedings. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Durham, etc., Ry., 194 N. C. 368, 10 S. E. 659.

Parol Agreement Ineffectual.—A parol agreement to allow one railroad company to extend its track on the right-of-way of another, for the purpose of connecting therewith, is a mere license, revocable at the will of the licensor, and will not operate as an estoppel although the licensee has entered one railroad to cases in which the owner may approve its reasonableness or expediency. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Durham, etc., Ry., 194 N. C. 368, 10 S. E. 659.

8. To Transport Persons and Property.—To take and convey persons and property on its railroad by the power or force of steam, electricity or animals, or by any mechanical power, and to receive compensation therefor.

Cross References.—As to the railroad's duty to transport, see § 60-75. As to power of utilities commission to prevent discrimination in service, see § 62-56. As to discrimination in service, see § 60-75. As to power of utilities commission to prevent discrimination in charges, see §§ 60-5, 60-6, and 62-56.

Charter May Confer Right to Lease.—The charter of a railroad company conferring the right to transport passengers and freight, and giving the power to "farm out" the right of transportation, authorizes the company to execute a valid lease of its property and franchises to another railroad company. Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 534.

9. To Erect Stations and Other Buildings.—To erect and maintain all necessary and convenient buildings, stations, fixtures and machinery for the accommodation and use of its passengers, freight and bondholders.

Cross References.—As to power of utilities commission to regulate the establishment of stations, see § 62-41 et seq. As to power of railroad companies to condemn land for union depots, see § 49-4. As to abandonment or relocation of a station by a railroad, see § 62-53.

10. To Borrow Money, Issue Bonds and Execute Mortgages.—From time to time to borrow such sums of money as may be necessary for completing and finishing or operating its railroad and to issue and dispose of its bonds for any amount so borrowed, and to mortgage its corporate property and franchises and to secure the payment of any debt contracted by the company for the purposes aforesaid, and the directors of the company may confer on any holder of any bond issued for money borrowed, as aforesaid, the right to convert the principal due or owing thereon into stock of such company at any time under such regulations as the directors may see fit to adopt.

Cross References.—As to control of the utilities commission over pledge of assets, issuing securities, etc., see § 69-52.

Corporation Has Power to Issue Bonds.—A railroad corporation has power to contract debts, and every corporation possessing such power must also have power to acknowledge its indebtedness under its corporate seal, i. e., to make and issue its bonds. Commissioners v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 77 N. C. 269.

11. To Lease Rails.—To lease iron rails to any person or corporation for such time and upon such terms as may be agreed on by the contracting parties, and upon the termination of the lease by expiration, forfeiture or surrender, to take possession of and remove the rails so leased as if they had never been laid.

12. To Establish Hotels and Eating Houses.—To purchase, lease, hold, operate or maintain eating-houses, hotels and restaurants for the accommodation of the traveling public along the line of its road. (Rev., ss. 2567, 2575; Code, s. 1957; 1887, c. 341; 1889, c. 518; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 29; C. S. 3444.)

§ 60-38. Engaging in unauthorized business.—It shall be unlawful for any railroad company incorporated under the laws of this State, or any railroad company incorporated under the laws of any other state and operating one or more railroads in this State, to engage in any business other than the business authorized by its or their charter.

Any railroad company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in the discretion of the court. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 60.)

§ 60-39. Power to aid in construction of connecting and branch lines.—Any railroad or other transportation company shall have the right to aid in the construction of any railroad or branch railroad in this or an adjoining state connected with it directly or indirectly, if the construction of such railroad or branch railroad is authorized by law. (Rev., s. 2567, subsec. 12; 1885, c. 108, s. 1; C. S. 3445.)

§ 60-40. Power to seize fuel.—If any railroad or other transportation company finds it necessary, in order to prevent delays in the transportation of freight or passengers, to take possession of, use and convert it to its own property and convert it to its own use without an agreement with the owner thereof, it shall notify such owner within three days of such taking that his property has been appropriated, giving the date thereof, and shall, within a period of thirty days, pay for such coal, wood or other fuel at the invoice price at place of shipment, plus twenty-five per cent. Should the transportation company fail to notify the consignee or owner within such three days or pay for the coal, wood or other fuel at the invoice price at place of shipment, plus twenty-five per cent as above provided, within thirty days after converting the same to its own use, it shall in addition forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of twenty-five dollars for the first day of failure to notify such consignee of the appropriation of the fuel, or its failure to pay for the same, and five dollars for each day thereafter in which it shall fail to notify such consignee or pay for the same. (Rev., s. 5617; 1903, c. 590, s. 4; 1907, c. 467; C. S. 3446.)

§ 60-41. Agreements for through freight and traffic.—The directors representing the stock held in the various railroad corporations are hereby authorized and empowered to enter into such agreements and terms with each other as to secure through freight and travel without the expense of transfer of freight, or breaking the bulk thereof, at different points along the lines, and for this purpose may use the road or roads and the rolling stock of such corporations or companies on such terms as may be agreed upon by them. (Rev., s. 2640; Code, s. 1995; 1866-7, c. 105; C. S. 3447.)

§ 60-42. Intersection with highways. — Whenever the track of a railroad shall cross a highway, turnpike or plankroad, such highway, turnpike or plankroad may be carried under or over the track, as may be found most expedient; and in cases where an embankment or cutting shall make a change in the line of such highway, turnpike or plankroad desirable, then such corporation may take such additional lands for the construction of the road, highway, turnpike or plankroad on such new line as may be deemed requisite by the directors. Unless the land so taken shall be purchased for the purposes aforesaid, compensation therefor shall be ascertained in the manner prescribed in the chapter Eminent Domain, and when the land is purchased for the purposes aforesaid, compensation for land taken, see § 40-11 et seq.

Cross References.—See also § 60-37, paragraph 6, and § 60-43. As to the power of the utilities commission to regulate railroad crossings, see § 62-50. As to duty of railroad company when by the operation of the railroads they become dangerous or inconvenient to the public traveling along their highways or private ways.

§ 60-43. Service of notice of defective crossings; failure to repair after notice, misdeemeanor. — Whenever, in the construction, the works of any railroad corporation shall cross established roads or ways, the corporation shall so construct its works as not to impede the passage or transportation of persons or property along the same. If any railroad corporation shall so construct its crossings with public streets, thoroughfares or highways, or keep, allow or permit the same at any time to remain in such condition as to impede, obstruct or endanger the passage or transportation of persons or property along, over or across the same, the governing body of the county, city or town, or other public road authority having charge, control or oversight of such roads, streets or thoroughfares may give to such railroad notice, in writing, directing it to place any such crossing in good condition, so that persons may cross and property be safely transported across the same. If the railroad corporation shall fail to put such crossing in a safe condition for the passage of persons and property within thirty days from and after the service of the notice, it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court. Each calendar month which shall elapse after the giving of the notice and before the placing of such crossing in repair shall be a separate offense. This section shall in no wise be construed to abrogate, repeal or otherwise affect any existing law now applicable to railroad corporations with respect to highway and street crossings; but the duty imposed and the remedy given by this section shall be in addition to other duties and remedies now prescribed by law. (Rev., s. 2569; Code, s. 1710; R. C., c. 61, s. 30; 1874-5, c. 83; 1915, c. 250, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 3449.)

Cross References.—As to the power of the utilities commission to regulate crossings, see § 62-50. As to duty of railroad to maintain bridges it makes necessary, see § 136-75. As to duty of railroad to provide drawbridge, see § 136-76. As to venue in an action against a railroad, see § 1-81.

Editor's Note.—Section 62-50 confers authority upon the utilities commissioner to abolish grade crossings by a railroad company when by the operation of the railroads they become dangerous or inconvenient to the public traveling along their highways or private ways.

§ 60-44. Service of notice on grade crossings.—The right and power to construct their roads across streets, highways, etc., they must maintain a safe and convenient crossing there, making it, as far as they can, as safe and convenient as it would have been had the railroad not been built. Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 563, 36 S. E. 115.

A Not Restricted to Public Highway.—This section does not restrict the defendant's duty to crossings of "public highways," but uses the broader and generic term "highways," which might include any road used by the public as a mill road, church road and in going to town, as was this road. Goforth v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 569, 570, 57 S. E. 229.

Same— Applies to Private Crossings. —An "established road or way" which a railroad company may not obstruct in crossing it in good condition extends to those which were of a private nature, and not necessarily those dedicated to a public use, and in such instances, where the rights of a railroad and the rights of the public to the use of their roads or ways conflicted, the former must give way to the latter. Tate v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 168 N. C. 533, 84 S. E. 898.

"Negligent Construction" Defined.—By "negligent construction" is meant such an improper construction of the crossing, whether arising from negligence, indifference, or motives of economy, as unnecessarily increases the danger of using the public highway. Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 563, 36 S. E. 115. But the mere fact that a crossing is dangerous does not necessarily impute negligence to the railroad company. Edwards v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 115 N. C. 740, 1879 N. C. 253.

Presumption That Crossing Is Safe.—One has the right to assume that a railroad company has discharged its duty to the public by keeping the crossing in safe condition. Tankers v. Roanoke R., etc., Co., 109 N. C. 860, 13 S. E. 719.

Indictment.—An indictment charging a railroad company with obstructing a public road by the use of plank at a crossing, is fatally defective if it does not charge the manner of the use of the plank. State v. Roanoke R., etc., Co., 109 N. C. 860, 13 S. E. 719.

When Injury Might Have Been Caused by Defective Crossing.—Under this section it is error for the trial court to sustain a motion for nonsuit on competent evidence from which the jury could have found that, if defendant's crossing over the public road was negligently left in a dangerous condition, plaintiff would not have been injured by the slipping and falling thereon of the mule upon which he was riding. Goforth v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 569, 57 S. E. 229.

§ 60-45. Change in location of highways.—In order to prevent the frequent crossing of such road or ways, or in cases where it may be necessary to occupy the same, the corporation may change the roads and ways so as to avoid such crossing and occupation, and to such points as may be deemed expedient. (Rev., s. 2570; Code, s. 1711; R. C., c. 61, s. 31; 1874-5, c. 83; C. S. 3451.)

May Change County Road.—A railroad company may make a change in a county road that does not necessarily impair its usefulness. Brinkley v. Sou. R. Co., 135 N. C. 624, 47 S. E. 791.

§ 60-46. Damages due to change in location.—For any injury done to the lands of persons by taking them under § 60-45, the value thereof shall be assessed in like manner as is provided for assessing damages to real estate for taking lands under the chapter Eminent Domain. (Rev., s. 2571; Code, s. 1712; R. C., c. 61, s. 32; 1874-5, c. 83; C. S. 3452.)

Cross Reference.—As to manner of assessing damages when the parties cannot agree, see § 40-11 et seq.

§ 60-47. Old road not to be impeded until new road is made.—Before any part of an established road or way shall be impeded by any railroad corporation, the new road or way shall be prepared and made equally good with the original road or way, and shall be kept up and repaired as before the change. (Rev., s. 2572; Code, s. 1713; R. C., c. 61, s. 33; 1874-5, c. 83; C. S. 3453.)

§ 60-48. Cattle-guards and private crossings; failure to erect and maintain misdemeanor.—Every incorporated company owning, operating or constructing, or which shall hereafter own, operate or construct any railroad passing through and to have complied with the conditions of this section in installing a good and sufficient cattle-guard: Provided, that any railroad company operating in this state may make application to the commission to adopt for its road any particular brand or make of cattle-guard, and if the commission shall approve and authorized the use of such guard, it shall, if kept and maintained in good and sufficient condition at all times by such railroad company, be deemed and held in all actions, suits or proceedings in any court of this state a good and sufficient cattle-guard. (Rev., ss. 2601, 3753; Code, s. 1915, c. 127; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3454.)

Applies to Town Lot.—This section which requires railroads to construct cattle guards at the point of entrance upon and exit from enclosed lands, applies to a town lot as well as in the county. Shepard v. Suffolk & C. R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137.

Adoption of Stock Law.—The adoption of the stock law does not abrogate this section in a locality. Shepard v. Suffolk & C. R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137.

Joinder of Actions.—Where plaintiff's complaint contained two causes of action, one to recover damages alleged to have been caused by defendant's ponding water on plaintiff's land; the other to recover damages for a breach of duty on the part of defendant in not putting up sufficient cattle-guards as required by this section, this was an improper joinder of causes of action because of the jury's being for injury to property, a tort, while the second arose "upon contract" for the breach of an implied contract to perform a statutory duty. Hodges v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 105 N. C. 176, 10 S. E. 297.

Cited in Allen v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 102 N. C. 389, 9 S. E. 4. Concurring opinion of Avery, J., in Allen v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 515, 522, 11 S. E. 175, 1915, c. 127; 1933, c. 394, ss. 1, 2; 1915, c. 127; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3454.)

§ 60-49. Change of route of railroad.—The directors of any railroad corporation may by a vote of two-thirds of their whole number at any time alter or change the route, or any part of the route, of their road, if it shall appear to them that the line can be improved thereby, and they shall have the same right and power to acquire title to any lands required for the purposes of the company in such altered or changed route, as if the road had been located there in the first instance; but no such alteration shall be made in any city or town after the road shall have been constructed, unless the same is sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds of the corporate authorities of such city or town. In case of any alteration made in the route of any railroad after the company has commenced grading, compensation shall be made to all persons for injury so done to any lands that may have been donated to the company. When any route or line is abandoned in the exercise of the power herein granted, full compensation shall be made by the company for all money, labor, bonds or material contributed to the construction of the road-bed or its superstructure by those so interested by their contributions in the abandoned route or line. All the provisions of this chapter relative to the first location and to acquiring title to land shall apply to every such new or altered portion of the route. (Rev., s. 2575; Code, s. 1915, c. 127; 1933, c. 394, ss. 1, 2; 1915, c. 127; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3455.)

Cross Reference.—As to the duty of the utilities commission to require railroads to enter towns, see § 62-52.

Authority Necessary to Change Route.—While a railroad company has no power to change its route without legislative authority, it is not necessary that this power should be given in the charter or a direct amendment thereto, but it may be given by charter or by special enactment or by the general retained laws of the State. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 55 S. E. 292.

Original Rights May Be Retained.—Variations in a route over which a railroad may run do not affect the identity of the corporation itself, or its right to build it, where subsequent acts are amending or the original charter and give permission for a deflection from the line first projected; and the right to exemption of property from tax granted in the original charter is retained unimpaired. Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. Commissioners, 88 N. C. 519.

When Corporation Commission Orders Change.—This section requires that a contemplated change in the route of a railroad of its own volition, and for its own convenience, construction of its road and extending the same within the two separate periods therein prescribed. Brummitt v. Snow Hill Ry. Co., 197 N. C. 381, 148 S. E. 444.

Right to Change Grade.—A railroad company has a right to change the grade of its roadbed or to remove it to any point on its right of way. Brinkley v. Sou. R. Co., 135 N. C. 489, 494.

§ 60-50. Forfeiture for failure to begin or complete railroad.—If any railroad corporation shall not within three years after its articles of association are filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, or the passage of its charter, begin the construction of its road and extend theron ten per cent of the amount of its capital, or shall not finish the road and put it in operation in ten years from the time of filing its articles of association or passage of its charter as aforesaid, its corporate existence and powers shall cease. (Rev., s. 2564; Code, s. 1980; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 43; Ex. Sess. 1903, c. 142; C. S. 5456.)

State Must Institute Forfeiture Proceedings.—The failure of a railroad company to organize under an act of incorporation within the two years prescribed, does not prevent a valid organization thereafter, unless forfeiture has been declared in proceedings instituted by the state. Railroad v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263.

The State alone, acting through the Attorney-General, may institute a proceeding against a railroad company to forfeit its charter under the provisions of this section for failure to begin or complete the construction of the railroad within the same within the two separate periods therein prescribed. Brummitt v. Snow Hill Ry. Co., 197 N. C. 381, 148 S. E. 444.

Suspension of Forfeiture.—If the legislature knowing the ground of forfeiture deals with the corporation as if it were lawfully existing it thereby waives its right of forfeiture. Attorney-General v. Petersburg, etc., R. Co., 28 N. C. 456.

Where a railroad company has not commenced the construction of its road within three years after its charter has been granted as required by this section, and thereafter by statute the Legislature declares that certain bonds issued by a township to aid in the construction of the railroad shall be valid, and the county has acted in recognition of the existence of the corporation, the State by its acquiescence in the delay and by its recognizing the railroad company as an existing corporation has waived its right of forfeiture. Brummitt v. Snow Hill Ry. Co., 197 N. C. 381, 148 S. E. 444.

Same.—Attorney-General Cannot Bring Action.—The attorney-general cannot of his own motion bring an action to begin railroad in certain cases—In all cases where railroad companies have been chartered by the act of the general assembly or the charters of any railroad company has been amended by act of the general assembly, during or subsequent to the session of one thousand nine hundred and eleven, but where construction work has not been begun in accordance with the provisions of § 60-50 or having been begun such construction work has not been completed, the secretary of state may in the exercise of his sound discretion, upon application of any such railroad company and the payment to the state of the same fees as provided in § 55-158, extend from time to time for periods of two years the time within which to begin and renew construction work is required by § 60-50; and the fact of extending the time by the secretary of state, as herein provided, shall, for the period of such extension, fully and to all intents and purposes, renew corporate existence and corporate powers as the same are conferred in the original charter. (1919, c. 181; 1923, c. 214; C. S. 3457.)

Editor's Note.—In 1921, by Public Laws 1921, ch. 184, this section was amended so as to include railroads whose charters had been amended since 1911. At the same time the provision requiring construction work begun but not completed was added. By Public Laws 1923, ch. 245, the legislature made the granting of any extension of time for beginning, renewing or completing, work on railroads within the state discretionary with the secretary of state, in stead of obligatory as heretofore.

§ 60-52. Forfeiture for preferences to shippers.—In the event of any contract having been entered into by any railroad company in this state with any person or company conferring upon that company any preferential or exclusive rights of transportation, either in priority or in arrangements, are given to such person or company, the attorney-general is hereby instructed to institute proceedings against such railroad company for a forfeiture of its charter. (Rev., s. 2563; Code, s. 1969; 1865-6, resolution ratified December 14, 1865; C. S. 3458.)

§ 60-53. Obtaining temporary track across railroad.—Wherever any railroad line track and right of way shall lie between any body of merchantable timber or quarry or other kind or class of heavy property required for the construction of any body of navigable water over which such property could be floated or shipped, and the owner of such timber or property shall desire to transport such property to water for purposes of floating or shipping, such property owner shall have the right to file petition before the utilities commission for a right to cross such railroad with any other railroad track or tramway. The procedure for the hearing of the petition shall be same as other proceedings of the commission. The commission shall hear the facts and if it be found reasonably necessary that the railroad track and right of way shall be crossed by a temporary railroad track the commission shall so order and § 60-54. Shelter at railroad division points required; failure to provide, a misdemeanor.—It shall be the duty of every person, firm, or corporation that may now or hereafter own, control, or operate any line of railroad in the state of North Carolina, to erect and maintain at every division point where cars are regularly taken out of trains for repairs or construction work, or where other railroad equipment is regularly made, repaired, or constructed, a building or shed with a suitable and sufficient roof over the repair and construction track or tracks so as to provide that all men or employees permanently employed in the construction and repair of cars, trucks, or other railroad equipment of whatever description shall be under shelter and protected during snows, rains, sleets, hot sunshine, and other inclement weather: Provided, the utilities commission shall have the power to direct the points at which sheds shall be erected, and the character of the sheds: Provided further, that such failure shall constitute a separate offense. Any person, firm, or corporation failing to comply with the requirements of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and for each offense shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars. Each day of such failure shall constitute a separate offense.

§ 60-56. Maximum continuous service.—It shall be the duty of every common carrier, its officers or agents, subject to this article, to require or permit any employee, subject to this article, to be or remain on duty for a longer period than sixteen consecutive hours, and whenever any such employee of such common carrier shall have been continuously on duty for sixteen hours in the aggregate in any twenty-four-hour period shall be required or permitted to continue or again go on duty without having had at least eight consecutive hours off duty: Provided, that no operator, train dispatcher, or other employee who by the use of the telegraph or telephone dispatches, reports, transmits, receives, or delivers orders pertaining to or affecting train movements shall be required or permitted to be or remain on duty for a period longer than nine hours in any twenty-four-hour period in all towers, offices, places, and stations continuously operated night and day, nor for a longer period than thirteen hours in all towers, offices, places, and stations operated only during the daytime, except in case of emergency, when the employees named in this proviso may be permitted to be and remain on duty for four additional hours in a twenty-four-hour period on not exceeding three days in any week: Provided further, the utilities commission may, after a full hearing in a particular case and for good cause shown, extend the period within which a common carrier shall comply with the provisions of this proviso as to such case. (1911, c. 112, s. 2; 1938, c. 134; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 6556.)

§ 60-57. Penalty for violation.—Any such common carrier, or any officer or agent thereof, requiring or permitting any employee to go, be or remain on duty in violation of this article shall be liable to a penalty of not to exceed five hundred dollars for each and every violation, to be recovered in suit or suits to be brought in the name of the state of North Carolina on relation of the utilities commission in the superior court of Wake county or of the county in which the violation of this article occurred; and it shall be the duty of the said utilities commission to bring such suits upon satisfactory information lodged with it; but no such suit shall be brought after the expiration of one year from date of such violation; and it shall be the duty of said utilities commission to lodge with the proper solicitors information of any such violations as may come to its knowledge. In all prosecutions under this article the common carrier shall be deemed to have had knowledge of all acts of all its officers and agents: Provided, that the provisions of this article shall not apply to any case of casualty or unavoidable accident or the act of God; nor where the delay was the result of a cause not known to the carrier or its officer or agent in charge of such employee at the time the said employee left a terminal, and which could not have been foreseen: Provided further, that the provisions of this article shall not apply to the crews of wrecking or relief trains: Provided further, this article shall not be construed to impose a penalty upon any common carrier for any act done in violation of the act of congress, ratified March the fourth, one thousand nine hundred and seven, and entitled "An act to promote the safety of employees and travelers upon railroads by limiting the hours of service of employees thereon," or any acts amendatory thereof. (1911, c. 112, s. 3; C. S. 6556.)
§ 60-58. Utilities commission to enforce article.

—It shall be the duty of the utilities commission to execute and enforce the provisions of this article, and all powers granted to the utilities commission by this act are hereby extended to it in the execution thereof. (1911, c. 112, s. 4; 1935, c. 134, ss. 7, 8; 1941, c. 6567.)

Art. 7. Lease, Sale, and Reorganization.

§ 60-59. Lessee of noncompeting railroad may acquire its stock; merger of lessor.—Any railroad corporation or its successors, being the lessee of the road of any other noncompeting railroad corporation, may take a surrender or transfer of the capital stock of the stockholders, or any of them, in the corporation whose road is held under lease, and issue in exchange therefor the like additional amount of its own capital stock at par, or on such other terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the two corporations, and whenever the greater part of the capital stock of any such corporation shall have been so surrendered or transferred, the directors of the corporation taking such surrender or transfer shall thereafter, on a resolution electing so to do, to be entered on their minutes, become ex officio the directors of the corporation whose road is so held under lease, and shall manage and conduct the affairs thereof as provided by law; and whenever the whole of such capital stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred, and a certificate thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state under the common seal of the corporation to whom such surrender or transfer shall have been made, the estate, property, rights, privileges, and franchises of the corporation whose stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred shall thereupon vest in and be held and enjoyed by the corporation to whom such surrender or transfer shall have been made, and as fully and entirely, without charge or diminution, as the same were before held and enjoyed, and be managed and controlled by the board of directors of the corporation to whom the surrender or transfer of such stock shall have been made in the corporate name of such corporation.

But the property, rights, franchises and profits of every corporation so surrendered, transferred or leased shall hereafter always be liable to taxation, and shall never be exempt therefrom. The rights of any stockholder not so surrendering or transferring his stock shall not be in any way affected thereby, nor shall existing liabilities or the rights of creditors of the corporation where stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred be in any way affected or impaired by this section. (Rev., s. 2567, subsec. 13; 1885, c. 108, s. 2; 1908, c. 119, ss. 1, 3; C. S. 3461.)

Cross References.—As to conditional sales or leases of railroad property, see § 47-24. As to taxation of leased railroad, see § 105-367.

Editor's Note.—The stockholders of the old corporation cannot be compelled to become stockholders of the new corporation without their consent and do not become such until they have actually participated in the transfer by executing the old stock for the new.

A railroad corporation has no power to consolidate with another railroad company so as to form a single corporation unless this be done by legislative act. Under this section no consolidation can take place until one corporation holds all of the capital stock of another.

The sentence reserving the right of taxation is a saving clause to prevent the operation of Tennessee v. Whitworth, 117 U. S. 139, 6 S. Ct. 649, 29 L. Ed. 833, which held that all special privileges, including exemption from taxation, of the old corporation were inherited by the new.

When New Corporation Formed.—When a new corporation is formed out of two existing corporations, these latter ceasing thereafter to exist, the law forming the new corporation governs and controls its corporate functions and rights. Cheraw & Salisbury E. Co. v. Commissioners, 88 N. C. 519.

Legislative Act Authorizing Consolidation.—An act authorizing the consolidation of certain railroad corporations upon a vote of a majority of the stockholders and allowing a stockholder actual value for his stock in lieu of taking stock in the consolidated company, is valid. Spencer v. Railroad Air Line R. Co., 137 N. C. 107, 49 S. E. 96.

§ 60-60. Lease or merger of competing carrier declared a misdemeanor.—No railroad or other transportation company or its officers, now or hereafter doing business in this state, shall purchase, lease, absorb, take over, buy stock in, merge with or in any way secure an interest in a competing line of railroad or other transportation company, nor shall any railroad or other transportation company or its officers enter into any contract, agreement or understanding with a competing line of railroad or other transportation company calculated to defeat or which may defeat or lessen competition in this state. All such contracts, purchases or sales shall be void. Any violation of this section shall make the corporation or person so offending guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction the offender shall be fined in the discretion of the court. This section shall not prevent railroads independently owned and operated in this state, and not exceeding one hundred miles in length, from selling their roads and property. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 119, ss. 2, 3; C. S. 3460.)

§ 60-61. Acquisition of interest in or lease of noncompeting branch or connecting lines.—Any railroad or other transportation company may acquire and hold or guarantee, or endorse the bonds or stocks of, or may lease any railroad or branch railroad, or other transportation line in this or adjoining state connecting with it directly or indirectly. But no railroad or other transportation company or its officers shall acquire, hold or guarantee the bonds or stock of, or lease or be leased to, or purchase or buy or consolidate with or be merged into, any parallel or competing railroad or other transportation company, nor shall any railroad or other transportation company or its officers sell any of its stock or bonds to any holding or voting company or its officers, whereby such consolidation or merger may be effected, and any such purchase, contract, merger or sale shall be void. This provision shall not prevent railroads independently owned and operated in this state, and not exceeding one hundred miles in length, from selling their roads and property. (Rev., s. 2567, subsec. 13; 1885, c. 108, s. 2; 1908, c. 119, ss. 1, 3; C. S. 3461.)

Lease Beyond Time Granted for Corporate Existence.—Where the term of a lease of property of a railroad company extends beyond the time fixed by its charter for the corporate existence of the lessor, such a lease is valid for the period of the corporate life of the lessor, and will extend beyond that period if the charter is extended, and the lessor's corporate existence is thereby extended, and in this process it may endure for the full term. Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 854.

Lessee Responsible for Torts.—The lessee of a railroad is responsible for the torts committed by the lessee in the operation of the leased road, and in the exercise of its franchises. Mitchell v. Sou. R. Co., 176 N. C. 645, 97 S. E. 628; Hill v. Director-General, 178 N. C. 607, 610, 101 S. E. 376.
§ 60-62. Purchaser at mortgage or execution sale of railroads may incorporate.—Whenever the purchaser of the real estate, track and fixtures of any railroad corporation which has heretofore been and subject to all of the provisions of this chapter, with all the powers, privileges and franchises his associates shall thereupon be a new corporation, prerequisites for filing, etc., see § 60-9 et seq.

§ 60-63. On dissolution or sale of railroads purchaser becomes a corporation.—When any railroad corporation shall be dissolved, or its property sold and conveyed under any execution, deed of trust, mortgage or other conveyance, the owner or purchaser shall constitute a new corporation upon compliance with law. (Rev., s. 2552; Code, s. 1936; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 5; C. S. 3402.)

Cross Reference.—As to contents of articles of association, prerequisites for filing, etc., see § 60-9 et seq.

Railroad May Be Sold.—A railroad is the subject of private property, and in that character is liable to be sold, unless the sale be forbidden by the Legislature; not the franchise, but the land constituting the road. State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297.

Corporation Not Dissolved by Sale.—A railroad corporation is not dissolved by the sale of its road. State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297.

Purchaser Takes Rights of Old Company.—On the foreclosure of a mortgage given by a railroad company, the purchaser takes the rights that the company had acquired in relation to its right of way under its charter. Barker v. Sou. R. Co., 137 N. C. 214, 49 S. E. 115.

Cited in Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 184, 176 S. E. 236.

§ 60-64. Common carrier defined.—The term “common carrier,” as used in this article, shall include the receiver or receivers, or other persons holding the corporate franchises. Bradley v. Ohio, etc., Ry. Co., 78 Fed. 387, 393.

Sale under Second Mortgage.—The effect of the sale of a railroad company’s franchises and property under a second mortgage, subject to a first mortgage which was assumed by the purchaser, is to place the purchaser in the place of the mortgagor in its relation to the trustee of the first mortgage. This court may be called to operate the road as agent of the mortgagor, but the old corporation was not extinguished, but is still in existence and liable for damages caused by the mal-administration of its corporate franchises. Bradley v. Ohio, etc., Ry. Co., 78 Fed. 387, 393.

§ 60-65. Fellow-servant rule abrogated; defective machinery.—Any servant or employee of any railroad company operating in this state who shall suffer injury to his person, or the personal representative of any such servant or employee who shall have suffered death in the course of his services or employment with such company, by the negligence, carelessness or incompetence of any other servant, employee or agent of the company, or by any defect in the machinery, ways or appliances of the company, shall be entitled to maintain an action against such company. Any contract or agreement, expressed or implied, made by any employee of such company to waive the benefit of this section shall be null and void. (Rev., s. 2646; 1897 (Pr.), c. 56; 1915, c. 256; C. S. 3465.)

Editor’s Note.—This article, regulating the liability of railroads for injuries to employees, was enacted prior to the adoption of the Workmen’s Compensation Act, §§ 97-1 to 97-122. Section 97-13 expressly provides that the Workmen’s Compensation Act is not applicable to railroads or railroad employees and that this article is not repealed. According to that section, however, the exemption as to railroads does not apply to electric street railways and their employees.

§ 60-66. Fellow-servant rule abrogated; defective machinery.—As to action for death by wrongful act generally, see § 28-173.

I. EDITOR’S NOTE.

In Hobbs v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 107 N. C. 1, 12 S. E. 124, it was held that a railroad company was not liable for injury to its servants, resulting from the negligence of a fellow servant. In that case the attention of the legislature was called to the fact that many of the states had enacted similar statutes. By legislative enactment abrogated the fellow servant rule in far as it applied to railroad employees. Thereupon there ensued a general discussion for and against the passage of a similar statute in North Carolina. In 1897 such a statute was passed and its constitutionality sustained in Hancock v. Norfolk, etc., Railway, 124 N. C. 222, 32 S. E. 679. By several decisions of the United States Court similar statutes in other states have been held not to be in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution.

In Mott v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 234, 237, 42 S. E. 601, it was sought to have this court and restrict this section so that it should apply only to employees engaged in operating trains, but the court held the contrary and said: "The language of the statute is both comprehensive and explicit. It embraces injuries sustained by any servant or employee of any railroad company . . . in the course of his services or employment with said company." The plaintiff was an employee and was injured in the course of his employment.”

However, to come within the provisions of this section a railroad company must be engaged in the business of constructing a railroad. The succeeding section was passed after Congress had passed a similar statute applicable to employees engaged in interstate commerce. It is not as broad as this section for it applies only to common carriers.

Injury by Falling Tree.—This section applies where an employee is injured while employed in building a railroad, or in the extension of a railroad, at a point some distance from the section of the railroad on which he was employed. Gurganous v. Camp Mfg. Co., 304 N. C. 525, 168 S. E. 333.

II. FELLOW-SERVANT RULE.

Abrogation of Fellow-Servant Rule.—This section is an unconditional abrogation of the fellow-servant rule as contained in § 60-64.

Injury When Duty Delegated to Another.—Where a railroad company delegates to another to perform a service for which the former is responsible, the latter is not liable for injuries to employees of the former. Coley v. North Carolina R. Co., 129 N. C. 407, 54 S. E. 420. But see § 97-13 and Editor’s Note § 60-65.

Abrogation Only as to Railroads.—The law relating to the doctrine of fellow-servants has been only modified in regard to its application to those employed by railroad companies operating in this state. Robinson v. Ivey & Co., 193 N. C. 635, 136 S. E. 233.

Applies to Any Department of Railroad.—The provisions of this section apply to an injury negligently inflicted by a fellow-servant in any department of a railroad being operated by a railroad company making a shipment, if the employee passes a similar statute applicable to employees engaged.

Applies to Street Railways.—This section applies to street railways which are operated in the city of Wilmington, Clay v. 669, 56 S. E. 213; Hemphill v. Buck Creek Lumber Co., 141 N. C. 407, 54 S. E. 420. But see § 97-13 and Editor’s Note § 60-65.

Applicable to Logging Roads.—This section has been held to apply to logging roads. Moore v. Rawls, 196 N. C. 125, 144 S. E. 552.

Applies to Manufacturing Company Operating Spur Track.—If the owner of a manufacturing corporation which owns and operates a spur track on its grounds as incidental to its main business, with respect to servants employed in such service, United States Leather Co. v. Henson, 121 N. C. 576, 48 S. E. 144, United States Leather Co., 143 N. C. 512, 55 S. E. 847.

Does Not Apply to Railroad under Construction.—This section does not apply to an employee engaged in building a trestle for the extension of a railroad, at a point some miles from the track on which trains are being operated. Nicholson v. Railroad, 138 N. C. 516, 51 S. E. 40; Bailey v. Meadow Co., 152 N. C. 603, 68 S. E. 11.

Kind of Employment.—The provisions of this section applying to railroads do not require that the servant, at the time he is engaged in the work, be employed on a railroad, or in the operation or performance of a service, but applies to any other kind of service, whether more or less dangerous. Mincey v. Atlantic Coastaline Ry Co.; 161 N. C. 467; 77 S. E. 673.

Under the construction of this section assumption of risk is not available. Moore v. Rawls, 195 N. C. 125, 147 S. E. 399.

Duty to Furnish Safe Tools.—It is the master's duty to furnish the servant such tools as are reasonably safe and suitable for the work in which he is engaged, and in general the cases reported by the courts hold that the employer 's negligence in furnishing a tool which is obviously defective will not prevent a person from a recovery for an injury resulting therefrom, unless the apparent danger is so great that its assumption would amount to a conscious indifference to a known defect, and this section has no application. Mathis v. Atlantic R. Co., 144 N. C. 162, 56 S. E. 864.

Same—Acquiescence in Use.—The duty of the master to furnish an appliance for some purpose other than that for which it was intended is discharged by the same position as if the appliance had been originally furnished for that purpose. Wallace v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 646, 54 S. E. 399.

Obviously Defective Machinery.—The use of machinery obviously defective will not prevent a person from a recovery for an injury resulting therefrom, unless the apparent danger is so great that its assumption would amount to a conscious indifference to a known defect, and this section has no application. Mathis v. Atlantic R. Co., 144 N. C. 162, 56 S. E. 864.

When Plaintiff Causes Own Injury.—When under instructions from his superior officer the plaintiff, in repairing a piece of machinery with knowledge of its defects, negligently caused an injury to himself in such manner as it was his duty in repairing to prevent, he cannot recover, and the evidence is not even sufficient to apply the rule of Wallace v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 162, 56 S. E. 864.

Liability Not Affected by Act of Shipper.—The duty of the railroad company to have a crosspiece used to keep step ladders in place is not a security for the personal safety of the employee, inasmuch as the manner for the use to which its servants customarily put it is not affected by the fact that the shipper puts it on in loading the car. Wallace v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 646, 54 S. E. 399.

Question for Jury.—Where the employee of a railroad company, in intrastate commerce, was ruptured while handling heavy baggage at the station by the unaided use of his personal strength, when the company had promised to furnish the servant such tools as are reasonably safe and suitable for the work in which he is engaged, and in general the cases reported by the courts hold that the employer's negligence in furnishing a tool which is obviously defective will not prevent a person from a recovery for an injury resulting therefrom, unless the apparent danger is so great that its assumption would amount to a conscious indifference to a known defect, and this section has no application. Mathis v. Atlantic R. Co., 144 N. C. 162, 56 S. E. 864.

Failure to Equip Car with Automatic Couplers.—Where the jury found that the plaintiff was injured by the negligence of the defendant in failing to have its cars equipped with automatic couplers, the only defense open to the defendant is the evidence that its negligence was such as will apply under the latter statute may be enforced in the state courts as well as the federal courts.

There is a distinction between the state and federal statute as to the basis of the damage assessed. Under the state statute the damages are based upon the present worth of the net pecuniary value of the life of the deceased. Ward v. North Carolina R. Co., 161 N. C. 179, 186, 176 S. E. 717. Under the United States statute the damages are based upon the present worth of the future pecuniary benefit which the personal representative would have sustained from a defective or insufficiency, due to its negligence, in its cars, engine, appliances, machinery, track, road-bed, works, boats, wharves, or other equipment.

Cross References.—As to action for death by wrongful act generally, see § 28-173. As to venue of an action against a railroad, see § 1-81.

Defective Coupler.—In an action for an injury alleged to have been sustained from a defective coupler, the use of a defective coupler was a violation of a positive duty, and, in connection with an express order of the superintendent to make the coupling, was continuing negligence, and the cause of the injury. Liles v. Foxburg Lumber Co., 142 N. C. 39, 54 S. E. 792; Sears v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 169 N. C. 446, 86 S. E. 176.

Motor without Handhold Along Pilot Beam.—Where the evidence shows that he was at the time of the injury at the usual position provided for the purpose on the engine without handhold along the pilot beam and that he was not thrown and injured because the engine did not have the usual handhold along the pilot beam and that he did not know the handhold was missing, the jury was not warranted in finding his act of carelessness, his right of action is established. Biles v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 143 N. C. 78, 55 S. E. 512.

Power Drill.—A power drill furnished by the master to the servant for boring holes in iron plates, leaving an exposed set-screw therein dangerous in operating the drill and which are usually covered or countersunk, is not a proper tool for the purpose and the employer is liable in damages proximately caused by the defect. Eplee v. Southern R. Co., 153 N. C. 293, 116 S. E. 325.

Improper Ladder.—Where it is the custom of a railroad company to leave an exposed set-screw thereon dangerous in operating the drill and which are usually covered or countersunk, it was held that such improper ladder was not a proper tool for the purpose and the employer is liable in damages proximately caused by the defect. Eplee v. Southern R. Co., 153 N. C. 293, 116 S. E. 325.

“Common Carrier” Defined.—A common carrier is one who, by virtue of his calling, undertakes for compensation to transport persons or property from one place to another for all persons as choose to employ him. Williams v. Kinston Mfg. Co., 175 N. C. 226, 227, 95 S. E. 366.

Statute Applicable.—The federal and state courts have concurrently held that the statute will apply only to common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. West v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 174 N. C. 125, 93 S. E. 479; Renn v. Seaboard Air

Contributory negligence no bar, but mitigates damages. — In all actions hereafter brought against any common carrier by railroad to recover damages for personal injuries to an employee, or where such injuries have resulted in his death, the fact that the employee may have been guilty of contributory negligence shall not bar a recovery, but the damages shall be diminished by the jury in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to such employee: Provided, however, that no such employee who may be injured or killed shall be held to have been guilty of contributory negligence in any case where the violation by such common carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employees contributed to the injury or death of such employee. (1913, c. 6, s. 2; C. S. 3467.)

Editor's Note.—The provisions of this section apply only to employees engaged exclusively in interstate commerce. There is a similar federal statute which applies to employees engaged in interstate commerce. See 45 U.S.C. § 53.

Effect of Nonsuit in Action under Federal Act.—A judgment as of nonsuit upon the merits of an action brought by an employee against a railroad company under the Federal Employers' Liability Act will not operate as a bar to the same cause brought under the Federal Act. See v. Atlantic Coast Line, 197 N. C. 590, 148 S. E. 436. See also Capps v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 185 N. C. 72, 116 S. E. 175. In Hines v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 197 N. C. 128, 148 S. E. 334, it was held that the question of contributory negligence is a matter to be passed upon by the jury who are to say whether the employee voluntarily assumed the risk; it is no longer a bar to an action by an employee against the defendant railroad company to recover damages or as a partial defense. Moore v. Chicago Bridge, etc., R. Co., 204 N. C. 525, 168 S. E. 833. See also Capps v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 195 N. C. 141, 138 S. E. 532.

When Jury Fails to Allow for Contributory Negligence.—Where the plaintiff's complaint demands damages in a certain amount and in his action involving the issues of negligence and contributory negligence, and the applicability of the rule of comparative negligence under the provisions of this section the fact that the jury has rendered a verdict for damages to the full amount demanded in the complaint under a proper instruction does not alone show that the jury had failed to follow the rule of damages prescribed in such instances, and the verdict will not on that ground be disturbed. Brooks v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 194 N. C. 141, 138 S. E. 532.

Evidence Raising Issue for Jury.—In an action for a deceased employee's negligent death, the fact that it was caused by the operation of an improper coupler on a train made up and run by the defendant railroad company's trestle, in broad daylight, with another of its cars, is evidence that the defendant's negligence proximately caused the employee's death, and of the determination of the jury that the intestate might have been guilty of contributory negligence. Hinnant v. Tidewater Power Co., 187 N. C. 286, 121 S. E. 540.

Contributory negligence only a bar in actions brought against a railroad company to furnish an employee engaged in duties connected with or incidental to the operation of railroads, logging roads or tramroads. Gurganous v. Camp Mig. Co., 204 N. C. 525, 168 S. E. 334.

Negligence in Obtaining Improper Ladder.—The failure of a railroad company to furnish an employee engaged in the scope of his employment in painting a station house, a water tank, a locomotive, or in any other work which comes within the provisions of this section, and the contributory negligence of the plaintiff is not a complete bar to his recovery, but only to be considered by the jury in diminution of the damages. Jones v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 194 N. C. 277, 139 S. E. 242.

Motion to Nonsuit.—Where plaintiff, while performing his duty coupled a car attached to defendant's locomotive, while in motion, and the injury was caused by the sudden movement of the locomotive by the engineer, without a signal from the plaintiff, contrary to practice, though there was evidence of contributory negligence, its establishment would not be a complete defense, under this section, and upon a motion to nonsuit, evidence that the engineer properly acted on the signal of another employee will not be considered. Vann v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 74, 119 S. E. 659.

Federal Statute.—The rule under the federal statute is substantially the same as that prescribed by this section. Contributory negligence is not a complete bar to the recovery of damages by an employee of a railroad company caused by the latter in interstate commerce, in an action brought under the Federal Employers' Liability Act, the admixture of the negligence of the latter to which the injury was caused by the sudden movement of the locomotive by the engineer, without a signal from the plaintiff, contrary to practice, though there was evidence of contributory negligence, its establishment would not be a complete defense, under this section, and upon a motion to nonsuit, evidence that the engineer properly acted on the signal of another employee will not be considered. Vann v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 74, 119 S. E. 659.

Contributory Negligence Question for Jury.—Under this section, the plaintiff is entitled to have his cause submitted to the jury, for, as herein provided, contributory negligence is no longer a bar to an action by an employee against the railroad for injuries sustained during his employment, and the question of assumption of risk was for the jury, the burden of proof devolving on the plaintiff. See v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 185 N. C. 72, 116 S. E. 175.

In General.—The doctrine of comparative negligence is only recognized by our courts in instances coming within the meaning of the Federal Employers' Liability Act, as defined in this section, and then only for the purpose of mitigating the damages or as a partial defense. See v. Chicago Bridge, etc., R. Co., 193 N. C. 113, 138 S. E. 532.
death of, any of its employees, such employee shall not be held to have assumed the risk of his employment in any case where the violation by such common carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employees contributed to the injury or death of such employee, or the death or injury caused by negligence. (1913, c. 6, s. 3; C. S. 3468.)

Editor’s Note.—Section 60-65 is an earlier section similar in its import. It applies to all railroads in North Carolina while this section applies only to common carriers.

§ 60-68. Contracts and rules exempting from liability void; set-off.—Any contract, rule, regulation or device whatsoever, the purpose and intent of which shall be to enable any common carrier by railroad to exempt itself from any liability created by this article, shall to that extent be void: Provided, that in any action brought against such common carrier, under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this article, such common carrier may set off therein any sum it has contributed or paid to any insurance or relief benefit, or indemnity that may have been paid to the injured employee, or the person entitled thereto, on account of the injury or death for which such action was brought. (1913, c. 6, s. 4; C. S. 3469.)

Accepting Benefit from Relief Department.—A relief department of a railroad for providing hospitals for employees contributed to by the employees and the company under the contract and in consideration of the contributions made by the employees and the company to such relief department; and a stipulation in the contract with its employee that in the case of an accident he must accept the benefit of the contract and release the company from liability, is prohibited by the provisions of this section. Barden v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 318, 67 S. E. 971; Herring v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 168 N. C. 555, 84 S. E. 863.

§ 60-70. Provisions of this article applicable to logging roads and tramroads.—The provisions in this article relating to liability for damages shall also apply to logging roads and tramroads. (1919, c. 275; C. S. 3470.)

Editor’s Note.—Before the enactment of this section provisions of section 60-65 were held, by judicial construction, to apply to logging roads and tramroads. See Roberson v. Greenleaf-Johnson Lumber Co., 154 N. C. 328, 70 S. E. 639; Buckner v. Madison County R. Co., 164 N. C. 201, 80 S. E. 225.

However, in Williams v. Kirston Mfg. Co., 175 N. C. 225, 95 S. E. 366. (decided in 1918) it was held that a logging road was not a common carrier within the meaning of section 60-67 and that the doctrine of comparative negligence was not applicable to actions for injuries sustained by employees of such roads. This decision seems to have enlarged the legislative enactment embraced by this section which was passed in 1919.

In a recent decision, Lilley v. Interstate Cooperage Co., 194 N. C. 250, 139 S. E. 369, the rule of the section, as to tram roads, applied, and it is held that section 60-67 is applicable as to such roads.

The provisions of §§ 60-67, 60-65, are applicable to tram or logging roads under the provisions of this section. Sampson v. Jackson Bros. Co., 203 N. C. 413, 166 S. E. 181. The doctrine of contributory negligence is to be applied in duties connected with or incidental to the operation of such roads. Garagnus v. Camp Mfg. Co., 204 N. C. 525, 168 S. E. 833.

Comparative Negligence Rule Applies.—Under this section contributory negligence is no longer a bar to a jury in injuries received in the operation of a logging road, but such negligence mitigates damages. In other words, comparative negligence is now, under the law, applicable to logging roads. Moore v. Rawls, 196 N. C. 125, 129, 144 S. E. 552, citing McKinsh v. Lumber Co., 191 N. C. 836, 131 S. E. 163.

Narrow-Gauge Logging Road.—A narrow-gauge road running through the woods and used for the purpose only of transporting logs to the defendant's sawmill, with the cars loaded with logs pulled up by a grade by means of a steam skidder, the wire cables operating along a narrow roadway from the log skidder, is a logging road within the intent and meaning of this section and an employee negligently injured by such company is not barred of his right to recover damages when caused by a fellow-servant; and contributory negligence is only considered in determination of the amount of damages the injured employee has sustained. Stewart v. Blackwood Lumber Co., 193 N. C. 138, 136 S. E. 985; Brooks v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 194 N. C. 141, 138 S. E. 532.

Art. 9. Construction and Operation of Railroads.

§ 60-71. Map of route to be served with summons for condemnation.—Whenever it shall become necessary to condemn any land for the purposes of a railroad, at the time that the summons for condemnation is served there shall also be served by the railroad company or map showing how the line of the road is located on the land sought to be condemned, and a profile showing the depth of the cuts and the height of the embankments on the land so sought to be condemned, and at what points on such land such cuts and embankments are located. This section shall not apply to street railways. (Rev., s. 2599; Code, s. 1952; 1893, c. 396, s. 2; 1901, c. 6, s. 3; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 24; C. S. 3471.)

Section Mandatory.—These conditions must be complied with before any company can construct any part of its road. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 166 N. C. 16; 10 S. E. 1041.

Same—Defect May Be Cured by Amendment.—The failure to serve a map and profile with the summons in condemnation proceedings as required by the section may be cured by amendment. State v. Wells, 142 N. C. 590, 55 S. E. 210.

§ 60-72. Map of railroad to be made and filed.—Every railroad corporation shall, within a reasonable time after its road shall be constructed, cause to be made a map and profile thereof and of the land taken or obtained for the use thereof, and shall file the same in the office of the utilities commission. Every such map shall be drawn on a scale and on paper to be designated by the utilities commission, and shall be certified and signed by the president or engineer of such corporation. (Rev., s. 2600; Code, s. 1977; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 41; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3473.)

Purpose of Section.—By this section railroad corporations are required, within a reasonable time after their road is constructed, to file a map and profile of their route and of land condemned for its use with the Corporation Commission. But this is for the information of that body and is not required as a part of a correct and completed location. Fayetteville Street Railway v. Railroad, 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

Survey Unnecessary When Old Road-Bed Adopted.—Where the line of a railroad is clearly defined by the existence of a road already in existence which is entered on and staked out by the agents of the company, and the route so marked is approved and adopted by the directors as its permanent location, in such case a survey by engineers is not essential. Fayetteville Street Railway v. Railroad, 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

Profile Must Show Fills and Cuts.—The profile required
§ 60-73. Joint construction by railroads having same location.—Whenever two railroad companies shall, for a portion of their respective lines, embrace the same location of line; they may by agreement provide for the construction of so much of said line as is common to both of them, by one of the companies, and for the manner and terms upon which the business thereon shall be performed. Upon the making of such an agreement, the company that is not to construct the part of the line which is common to both may terminate its line at the point of intersection, and may reduce its capital to a sum of not less than five thousand dollars for each mile of the road proposed to be constructed. (Rev., s. 2602; Code, s. 1983; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 46; C. S. 3473.)

§ 60-74. Construction of part of line in another state.—Whenever after due examination it shall be ascertained by the directors of any railroad company that a part of the line of railroad proposed to be made between any two points in this state ought to be located and constructed in an adjoining state, it may be so located and constructed by a vote of two-thirds of all the directors. The sections of such railroad within this state shall be considered a connected line, and the directors may reduce the capital specified to such amount as may be deemed proper, but not less than the amount required by law for the number of miles of railroad to be actually constructed in this state. (Rev., s. 2603; Code, s. 1884; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 47; C. S. 3474.)

Cross Reference.—As to amount of capital required by law, see § 60-9.

§ 60-75. Carriage must be according to public schedule.—Every railroad corporation shall start and run its cars for the transportation of passengers and property at regular times to be fixed by public notice, and shall furnish sufficient accommodation for the transportation of all such passengers and property as shall, within a reasonable time previous thereto, be offered for transportation at the place of starting and the junction of other railroads and at usual stopping places established for receiving and discharging way passengers and freights for that train, and shall take, transport and discharge such passengers and property at, from and to such places, on the due payment of the freight or fare legally authorized therefor, and shall be liable to the party aggrieved, in an action for damages, for any neglect or refusal in the premises. (Rev., s. 2611; Code, s. 1963; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 33; C. S. 3475.)

Cross References.—As to the powers of the utilities commission to prevent discrimination in transportation facilities, see § 62-56. As to rate regulation, see § 62-122 et seq.

Editor's Note.—Railroads are great public service corporations and are public agents in the sense that they are created for the purpose of transporting goods and passengers. In accepting the grant of rights and franchises from the state the railroad corporation impliedly assumes the duties of a common carrier. Because their functions are public they have no right to choose their passengers and customers but must under substantially similar conditions treat all alike. This is a common law duty and is only reaffirmed in this section. It applies alike to individuals, receivers and trustees.

The carrier is not bound to accept every person as a passenger, as was shown above, but a railroad company is bound to accept a person by showing that because of his condition or conduct, or even because of his character he is not a fit person to enter the train with others. See Elliott on Railroads, vol. 1, § 571.

Similarly, a railroad company is not bound to accept all freight that is offered it for transportation. It is only a common carrier of all goods which are legally found to be ascertained by the directors of any railroad company, and such goods may be carried by a common carrier only to the extent and upon the terms and conditions prescribed by law. See Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N.C. 413, 45 S.E. 913.

Railroad Completed before Section Passed. — Where the railroad was completed through the locus in quo prior to the passage of the section, it is not necessary to the validity of the location that a map of the route should be filed. Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 412, 12 S. E. 741.

Duty to Provide Transportation.—It is the duty of a common carrier to provide sufficient means of transportation for all freight which is essentially for the public use and which naturally brings to it, and an unusual occasion by which a greater demand upon it is temporarily made will not relieve it of the obligation if, by the use of reasonable foresight, it could have provided for. Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956.

When Contract of Carriage Begins. — The contract of carriage by a common carrier begins when a passenger comes upon the carrier's premises or conveyance with the purpose of buying a ticket, within a reasonable time or after having purchased a ticket; and the relation, once constituted, continues until the journey contracted for is concluded and the passenger has left or has had reasonable time to leave such premises. Hansley v. Jamesville, etc., R. Co., 115 N. C. 35, 19 S.E. 527.

Trains Need Not Stop at All Stations.—It is a reasonable regulation of the defendant that certain trains shall not stop at all stations, provided there are enough to serve the purposes of local travel. Hutchinson v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 123, 52 S. E. 263.

Schedule Is Offer.—Under this section, the printed schedule of trains is an offer, which is accepted by a person when he asks for a ticket, and he has the right to be transported by the first train stopping at his destination. Coleman v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 351, 50 S. E. 690.

Passenger on Baggage Car. — A person who gets on a baggage car, though having a ticket, but not having told the conductor that he had it, and the conductor not having seen it, is not entitled to recover as a passenger for injuries received while being pulled off the train by the conductor. McGraw v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 264, 47 S. E. 758.

Ticket Not Good on Particular Train. — It is the duty of the defendant to have an agent at the gate to examine the tickets and allow no one to get upon a train which does not stop at his destination. Not having done this, but having received the plaintiff into the train, without objection, with a ticket calling for a regular station, as her destination, and nothing on its face to show it was not good on that train, and she not knowing that that train did not stop there, it was the duty of the defendant to stop the train at that point for her. Hutchinson v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 121, 52 S. E. 263.

Where Conductor Fails to Return Ticket.—Where plaintiff purchased transportation to a destination to which it was necessary to change, and the conductor on the first train neglected to return passenger's ticket, he having no money, and, when the conductor of the second train asked for his fare, vainly attempted to borrow from men who had been on the first train with him, it was negligence on the conductor's part to not to have specified beforehand by indication to such men whether plaintiff had been on the train with them prior to reaching the changing point, before ejecting plaintiff. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 598, 86 S. E. 101.

Injury Caused by Misdirection of Agent. — The plaintiff, who missed his train by misdirection of the defendant's agent and his refusal to sell him a ticket, could recover for the injury sustained on being carried out of the station into the cold weather while waiting for the next train. Coleman v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 351, 50 S. E. 690.

Rejected Passenger Has Right of Action.—Under this section a passenger, ejected from train of defendant road for failure to pay again fare which he had paid once upon purchase of his ticket, as right of action. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 174, 115 S. E. 24.

Same—Passenger Need Not Pay Additional Fare to Prevent Ejection. — Under this section where a passenger is absolutely ignorant of the requirement of paying the full fare, having paid his fare thereon, but being unable to produce his ticket, it is not incumbent on him, by paying money which the conductor has no right to exact, to avoid ejection from the train, and the railroad company is liable for injuries incurred by one who, by reason of the negligence of the railroad company, was carried without proper charge on a main train on the way to his destination. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 13, 66 S. E. 166.

30. Ch. 60. Failure to Transport Passenger. — Where the plaintiff purchased a ticket from defendant's agent at a regular station before the time advertised for the arrival and departure of its trains, or to look after the safety of persons who attempt to enter them, when they have been stopped long enough to allow passengers to embark and disembark; but it may be liable for injuries incurred by one who, by reason of the negligence of the railroad company, was carried without proper charge on a main train, he stepped off believing he was at a safe place to stop, but seeing a "go ahead" signal from the rear, did not stop at the station to which he had paid his fare, it being a regular station on the line. Cable v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 892, 29 S. E. 377.

31. Ch. 60. Passenger Carry Baggage. — It is only when the railway engineer actually sees the signal of an intended passenger at a flag station and willfully passes him by that punitive damages will be allowed in an action for damages. It is not incumbent on the railroad to protect the safety of plaintiff's rights is upon the latter. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1065, 30 S. E. 343.

32. Ch. 60. Passenger Carry Baggage. — Under this section when a passenger is carried by his station, he is entitled to damages, and this, though there is no bodily harm, or actual damage. If it is done recklessly or willfully he is entitled to damages. Underwood, 144 N. C. 315, 52 S. E. 263, overruling Smith v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 130 N. C. 304, 41 S. E. 481.

33. Ch. 60. Same—May Demand Prepayment of Freight. — A common carrier has a right to demand the prepayment of charges from passengers before receiving any freight for shipment to one individual, although it may have an established custom to accept shipments to its other patrons without such prepayment. Allen v. Cape Fear, etc., R. Co., 100 N. C. 397, 6 S. E. 105.

34. Ch. 60. Same—May Demand It of Particular Shipper. — A common carrier may demand prepayment of freight charges before shipment to any station, and from one shipper, though not required of others. It should appear, however, that a plaintiff had notice of such regulation. Randall v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 612, 13 S. E. 137.

35. Ch. 60. Arrangement of cars in passenger trains. — In forming a passenger train, baggage, freight, merchandise or lumber cars shall not be placed in rear of the passenger cars, except in case of accident, or when the cars are provided with automatic couplers or brakes. If any officer or agent of a railroad company, in forming a passenger train, shall direct or knowingly suffer an arrangement of the cars different from the one herein provided for, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, The criminal liability hereby imposed shall not apply to officers and agents of the Wilmington sea-coast railroad company. (Rev., ss. 2613, 3747; Code, s. 1787-2, c. 138; 1893, c. 381; 1895, c. 212; C. S. 3476.)

36. Ch. 60. Unauthorized manufacture or sale of switch-lock keys misdemeanor. — It shall be unlawful for any person to make, manufacture, sell or give away to any other person any duplicate key or any lock used by any railroad company in such switches or switch tracks, except upon the written order or under the supervision of such railroad company whose duty it is to distribute and issue switch-lock keys to the employees of such railroad company. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined and imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1900, c. 795; C. S. 3477.)

37. Ch. 60. Willful injury to railroad property misdemeanor. — If any person shall willfully do or cause to be done any act or acts whatever whereby any building, construction or work of any railroad corporation, or any engine, machine or structure or any matter or thing pertaining to a safe place, and was injured, the evidence of the defendant's negligence was sufficient to be submitted to the jury. Cable v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 892, 29 S. E. 377.
ing to the same shall be stopped, obstructed, impaired, weakened, injured or destroyed, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev, s. 3756; Code, s. 1974; 1871-5, c. 138, s. 39; C. S. 3478.)

Cross Reference.—As to injury to property of railroad, see also §§ 14-278 and 14-279.

§ 60-79. Headlights on locomotives on main lines.—Every company, corporation, lessee, manager or receiver owning or operating a railroad in this state is hereby required to equip and maintain and use upon every locomotive in operation in railroad service on main lines in this state an electric or power headlight of at least one thousand five hundred candlepower, measured without the aid of a reflector. This section shall not apply to locomotive engines regularly used in switching cars or trains, to locomotive engines used exclusively between summit and sundown, and to locomotive engines going to and returning from repair shops when ordered in for repairs; neither shall this section apply to independently owned and operated railroad companies in this state whose mileage of road in this state is one hundred and twenty-five miles or less, nor to railroad companies having only lines extending into this state, no one of which is one hundred miles in length in this state. The utilities commission may relieve from the operation of this section such locomotives and roads, or parts or sections or branches of roads, upon which the said utilities commission may deem electric or power headlights not advisable. Should an engine start on a trip with the headlight in good working condition, and from some unavoidable cause such headlight becomes disabled and cannot be repaired on the line of the road on which such run is being made, there shall be nothing in this section to prevent such engine from continuing on its trip, and the railroad company shall not be liable for prosecution on account of such failure to repair. Any company, corporation, lessee, manager or receiver violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1909, c. 446; 1935, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3479.)

Proximate Cause of Death.—Evidence failing to show how deceased was killed, whether walking along railroad tracks or at platform, and showing that he was intoxicated at the time, does not show that the violation of this section was the proximate cause of death. Owens v. Southern Ry. Co., 33 F. (2d) 870.

Burden of Proof.—It is negligence for a railroad company not to equip its locomotives with electric headlights, with the burden on the company to plead and prove that it had in one instance at the time complained of or that its use was excepted by the statute, when relevant to the inquiry. Barnes v. Atlantic, etc., Co., 166 N. C. 512, 94 S. E. 801, citing Powers v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 166 N. C. 599, 82 S. E. 972. But see McNell v. Atlantic, etc., Co., 167 N. C. 390, 83 S. E. 704.

§ 60-80: Repealed by Session Laws 1945, c. 543.

§ 60-81. Negligence presumed from killing livestock.—When any cattle or other livestock shall be killed or injured by the engine or cars running on any railroad, it shall be prima facie evidence of negligence on the part of the railroad company in any action for damages against such company: Provided, that no person shall be allowed the benefit of this section unless he shall bring his action within six months after his cause of action shall have accrued. (Rev., s. 2645; Code, s. 2326; 1856-7, c. 7; C. S. 3482.)

Cross Reference.—As to venue of an action against a railroad, see § 1-81.

Editor's Note.—Several of the earlier cases notably Doggett v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 81 N. C. 293, and Durham v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 82 N. C. 352, where the facts are known and show there was no negligence on the part of the railroad, the presumption created by this statute does not apply. But it is the established rule of this Court in these cases is calculated to produce an erroneous impression and it would have been much more accurate to have said that the prima facie case here created is rebutted only by negative evidence that the violation of the statute was the proximate cause of death. A statute is an inquiry into the facts, the facts are known and show there was no negligence on the part of the defendant, than to say the statute did not apply to such a case. There is no exception in the statute. It is not excepted cases generally and applies broadly to cases of killing stock by a railroad. The rule is thus stated in the later cases. See Hardison v. Atlantic, etc., Co., 120 N. C. 492, 494, 26 S. E. 600.

§ 60-82. When some of the livestock killed or injured by the railroad were known to have been infected with certain diseases, it was said that when livestock were injured by the engine or cars of a railroad company and an action thereon was brought within six months, this section raised a presumption of negligence and cast upon the defendant the burden of rebutting such presumption. Bethea v. Raleigh, etc., Co., 106 N. C. 279, 10 S. E. 1045; Carlton v. Wilmington, etc., Co., 104 N. C. 279, 10 S. E. 1045, said it was settled by the later and prevailing cases, that “prima facie evidence of negligence” means no more than evidence sufficient to carry the case to the jury, and to justify, but not compel, a verdict as for a negligent wrong.§ 60-81

Section Applies When Facts Known.—The presumption of negligence raised by the statute applies whether a horse, the subject of the action, was killed by the railroad, or by another, or by both. Section applies when the action is brought within six months, applies where the facts were known. Hanford v. Southern R. Co., 167 N. C. 277, 279, 83 S. E. 470.

Appplies When Stock under Control of Person.—When the action is brought within six months, this section raised a presumption of negligence and cast upon the defendant the burden of rebutting such presumption. Bethea v. Raleigh, etc., Co., 106 N. C. 279, 10 S. E. 1045; Carlton v. Wilmington, etc., Co., 104 N. C. 279, 10 S. E. 1045, said it was settled by the later and prevailing cases, that “prima facie evidence of negligence” means no more than evidence sufficient to carry the case to the jury, and to justify, but not compel, a verdict as for a negligent wrong. § 60-81

Same.—When Horse Hitched to Buggy.—The statutory presumption of negligence of a railroad company in killing live stock, when the action is brought within six months, applies whether a horse, the subject of the action, was hitched to a buggy at the time or running at large. Hanford v. Southern R. Co., 167 N. C. 277, 279, 83 S. E. 470.

Does Not Apply to Fowls.—No presumption of negligence against a railroad company is raised by the mere fact of killing fowls, etc., upon its track in the operation of its trains. This section makes it prima facie evidence of negligence in respect only to "cattle and other live stock," which does not include "geese or other fowls within its terms. James v. Atlantic, etc., Co., 166 N. C. 579, 82 S. E. 1005.

Same.—When Horses Run into Trestle.—In an action against a railroad company for damages for injuries to horses, where the evidence showed that the horses were injured by running into a trestle, and that the train was 100 yards from the trestle when they were injured, and the train 100 yards from the trestle when it ran into the trestle, Rambottom v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 138 N. C. 38, 50 S. E. 448.

How Presumption Rebutted.—In an action against a railroad company for injuries to livestock, where negligence is established by force of this section, it can only be rebutted by showing that by the exercise of due diligence the stock could not have been seen in time to save them. J. P. Penny v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 75 N. C. 54.

This rule can only be rebutted by showing that the agents of such railroad company used all proper precautions to guard against damage. It is not sufficient to prove that there was probably no negligence. Battle v. W. & W. Railroad, 66 N. C. 343.

Same.—Negligence Not Repelled.—Where plaintiff's horse was injured on a railroad by the running of a train against it, and it was doubtful from defendant's testimony whether the brakes had been applied to the wheels of the train, the presumption is not rebutted by such prima facie case of negligence made by this section was not repelled. Clark v. Western North Carolina Railroad, 60 N. C. 109.

Same—Instructions. Where the killing of stock by a railroad is admitted or proven, the trial judge may instruct the jury that a certain state of facts, if believed by them, would raise a presumption of negligence, and that they are not evidence, though uncontradicted, would do so. Baker v. Roanoke, etc., R. Co., 133 N. C. 31, 45 S. E. 347.

When Owner Permits Cattle to Stray Off.—If the owner of cattle permit them to stray off and get upon the track of a railroad and they are killed or hurt, the railroad company is not liable unless the train was in motion whether the brakes had been applied to the wheels of the train, the prima facie case of negligence made by this section was not repelled. Clark v. Western North Carolina Railroad, 60 N. C. 109.

§ 60-85. Company police to wear badges. — Such railroad police shall, when on duty, severally wear a metallic shield with the words “Railway Police” and the name of the corporation for which appointed inscribed thereon, and this shield shall always be worn in plain view except when such police are employed as detectives. (Rev. s. 2608; Code, s. 1991; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 54; C. S. 3486.)

Cross Reference. — As to badges of conductors and certain other railroad employees, see § 60-3.

§ 60-86. Compensation of company police. — The compensation of such police shall be paid by the companies for which the policemen are respectively appointed, as may be agreed on between them. (Rev. s. 2609; Code, s. 1992; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 65; C. S. 3487.)

§ 60-87. Police powers cease on company's filing notice. — Whenever any company shall no longer require the services of any policeman so appointed as aforesaid, it may file a notice to that effect in the office of the governor and the office of the utilities commission and thereupon the power of such officer shall cease and determine. (Rev. s. 2610; Code, s. 1993; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 66; 1943, c. 676, s. 3; C. S. 3488.)

Editor's Note. — The 1943 amendment substituted the words “office of the governor and the office of the utilities commission” for the words “several offices in which notice of such appointment was originally filed.”

Art. 11. Joint Rates.

§ 60-88. Carriers permitted to establish joint rates. — Any operating railroad company is authorized and directed to enter into arrangements for the establishment of joint rates and through routes with common carriers by water and with other such railroad companies for the transportation of persons and/or property transported wholly within the State of North Carolina by such carrier by water and such railroad company. (1931, c. 195.)

§ 60-89. Railroad passenger rates established. —No railroad company doing business as a common carrier of passengers in the state of North Carolina shall, except as herein provided, charge, demand or receive for transporting any passenger his or her baggage, not exceeding in weight two hundred pounds, from any station on its railroad in North Carolina to any other station in this state is one hundred miles or less may be applied to railroads hereafter built less than fifty miles in length. For transporting children under twelve years and over five years old, one-half of the rate above prescribed may be charged. For transporting children under five years old, accompanied by any person paying fare, no charge whatever shall be made. Where the amount of the ticket at the prescribed rate would amount to any figure between two multiples of five, the price of the ticket shall be the multiple of five which is nearest the price of the ticket at the rate above mentioned; or, in the event that the amount is equidistant between the multiples of five, the price charged for the ticket shall be on the basis of the higher of those two multiples of five. No charge less than ten cents shall be required. A charge of fifteen cents may be added to the fare of any passenger when the same is paid on the train. A ticket that has been procured within a reasonable time before the commencement of the train. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 51, s. 1; C. S. 3489.)

Cross Reference. — As to free carriage, see § 62-134. As to rate regulation in general, see § 62-122 et seq. As to railroad companies operating as common carriers, see § 60-109. As to duty of the railroad companies to file rates with the utilities commission, see § 60-110.

Editor's Note. — Formerly the maximum charge allowed by this section was two and one-half cents per mile. This section was amended by Public Laws 1923, Ex. Sess., ch. 51, sec. 1, and the maximum rate allowed by this section temporarily raised to twenty-five cents per mile. At the same time the proviso allowing a twenty per cent higher rate for railroads less than one hundred miles in length was added.

Federal Control of Rates. — The provisions of this section apply only to fixed rates for intrastate carriers, and cannot be applied to interstate carriers, as control of the rates charged by the latter is vested in the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Interstate Commerce Commission in fixing rates cannot by its order fix rates between points that are remotely internal and from which no prejudice to interstate commerce can arise. But it can fix rates on intrastate carriers where such rate as fixed by the State is a discrimination against interstate or foreign commerce. (Rev., s. 2609; Code, s. 1992; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 65; C. S. 3485.)

Cross Reference. — As to the oath required, see § 11-11.

§ 60-90. Rates on leased or controlled lines. — In the case that any railroad company operating as a common carrier of passengers in the state of North Carolina is owned, controlled or operated by lease or other agreement by any other railroad company doing business in the state, the rate for carrying passengers thereon shall be determined by such railroad company, and the rate thus determined shall be regulated by § 60-89 for the railroad company which owns, controls or operates the same. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 2; C. S. 3490.)

§ 60-91. Violations of passenger rates misdemeanors. — Any railroad company violating any of the provisions of §§ 60-89 and 60-90, or counseling, ordering or directing any employee, agent or servant to violate any of such provisions, by charging, demanding or receiving any rate greater than that fixed by such sections, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars; and any agent, servant or employee of any railroad company who shall violate either § 60-89 or § 60-90 shall be § 60-92. Accepting or giving free transportation illegally misdemeanor.—Any persons, except those permitted by law, who accept free transportation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 3; C. S. 3491.)

(Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 4; C. S. 3492.)

§ 60-94. Separate accommodations for different races.—All railroad and steamboat companies engaged as common carriers in the transportation of passengers for hire, other than street railways, shall provide separate but equal accommodations for the white and colored races at passenger stations, waiting-rooms, and also on all trains and steamboats carrying passengers. Such accommodations may be furnished by railroad companies either by separate passenger cars or by compartments in passenger cars, which shall be provided by the railroads under the supervision and direction of the utilities commission: Provided, that this shall not apply to relief trains in cases of accident, to Pullman or sleeping cars, or through express trains that do not stop at all stations and are not used ordinarily for traveling from station to station, to negro servants in attendance on their employers, to officers or guards transporting prisoners, nor to prisoners so transported. (Rev., s. 2619; 1899, c. 384, s. 2; 1901, c. 213; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3495.)

Cross References.—As to regulation of rates by the utilities commission, see § 62-122 et seq.

§ 60-95. Certain carriers may be exempted from requirement.—The utilities commission is hereby authorized to exempt from the provisions of § 60-94 steamboats, branch lines and narrow-gauge railroads and mixed trains carrying both freight and passengers, if in its judgment the enforcement of the same be unnecessary to secure the comfort of passengers by reason of the light volume of passenger traffic, or the small number of passengers contained on such steamboats, narrow-gauge railroads, branch lines or mixed trains. (Rev., s. 2630; 1899, c. 384, s. 2; 1901, c. 213; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3496.)

§ 60-96. Use of same coach in emergencies.—When any coach or compartment car for either race shall be completely filled at a station where no extra coach or car can be had, and the increased number of passengers could not be foreseen, the conductor in charge of such train may assign and set apart a portion of a car or compartment assigned for passengers of one race to passengers of the other race. (Rev., s. 2621; 1899, c. 384, s. 3; C. S. 3496.)

§ 60-97. Penalty for failing to provide separate coaches.—Any railroad or steamboat company failing to comply in good faith with the provisions of §§ 60-94 to 60-95 shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars per day, to be recovered in an action brought against such company by any passenger on any train or boat of any railroad or steamboat company which is required by this chapter to furnish separate accommodations to the races, who has been furnished accommodations on such railroad train or steamboat only in a car or compartment with a person of a different race in violation of law. (Rev., s. 2622; 1899, c. 384, s. 5; C. S. 3497.)

§ 60-98. Exceptions to requirement of separate coaches and toilets.—As to trains consisting of not more than one passenger car unit, operated principally for the accommodation of local travel, although operated both intrastate and interstate and irrespective of the motive power used, the utilities commission is authorized to make such rules and regulations for the separation of the races and with regard to toilet facilities as in its best judgment may be feasible and reasonable in the circumstances, and the rules and regulations established pursuant to this authority shall be ex-
§ 60-99. Unused tickets to be redeemed.—When any round-trip ticket is sold by a railroad or other transportation company, it shall be the duty of such company to redeem the unused portion of said ticket by allowing to the holder thereof the difference between the cost thereof and the price of a one-way ticket between the stations for which such round-trip ticket was sold. Whenever any one-way or regular ticket is sold by a railroad or other transportation company, and not used by the purchaser, it shall be the duty of the company selling the ticket to redeem it at the price paid for it. All railroad and other transportation companies shall redeem in money all mileage tickets known as five-hundred thousand and two-thousand mile tickets, sold by them, if presented within a year from the date of the sale, when as much as fifty per centum of such ticket has been used by the purchaser, by paying the same price per mile paid for it, or shall release to the original holder to ride it out. (Rev. s. 2697; 1891, c. 290; 1893, c. 249; 1895, c. 83, ss. 2, 3; 1897, c. 418; C. S. 3503.)

§ 60-100. Ticket may be refused intoxicated person; prohibited entry misdemeanor.—The ticket agent of any railroad, steamboat or other transportation company shall at all times have power to refuse to sell a ticket to any person applying for the same who may at the time be intoxicated. The conductor, captain or other person in charge of any railroad car, steamboat or other conveyance for the use of the traveling public shall at all times have power to prevent any intoxicated person from entering such car, boat or other conveyance. If any intoxicated person, after being forbidden by the conductor, captain or other person having charge of any such railroad train, steamboat or other conveyance for the use of the traveling public, shall enter such train, boat or other conveyance, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev. s. 2695, 2626, 3877; 1885, c. 358, ss. 1, 2, 3; C. S. 3504.)

When Exemplary Damages Allowed.—In an action for damages for refusal to allow a person with a ticket to board a train because he was intoxicated, exemplary damages will be allowed if such refusal was made with malice, undue force, or insult. Story v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 133 N. C. 59, 45 S. E. 349.

§ 60-101. Entering cars after being forbidden misdemeanor.—No person shall enter any railroad passenger car, baggage car, mail car or caboose car, or go upon the platform of such cars, after being forbidden so to do by the conductor, his assistants, the baggage-master or other person in charge of such cars, unless the person enter such cars or go upon such platforms as a passenger or in some official capacity authorized by law, or on business with a passenger or some official or employee of the railroad, or for some other like purpose. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding ten dollars. (Rev., s. 3752; Code, s. 1979; 1893, c. 351; C. S. 3505.)

§ 60-102. Riding in first-class cabin with second-class ticket misdemeanor.—If any passenger purchasing or holding a second-class ticket, after being requested or directed by any other officer in charge of any steamboat in this state, riding in any first-class cabin, refuses to pay the difference between a first-class and a second-class fare or rate, or refuses to go into the second-class cabin, when there shall be a comfortable second-class cabin on such steamboat, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Any justice of the peace in the county where such offense is committed shall have jurisdiction of the offense, upon sworn complaint of any officer of such steamboat company. (Rev., s. 3761; 1903, c. 795; C. S. 3506.)

§ 60-103. Passenger refusing to pay fare and violating rules may be ejected.—If any passenger shall refuse to pay his fare, or violate the rules of a railroad corporation, it shall be lawful for the conductor of the train and servants of the corporation to put him and his baggage out of the cars, using no unnecessary force, at any usual stopping place or near any dwelling house, as the conductor shall elect, on stopping the train. (Rev., s. 3233; C. S. 3507.)

Permission to Ride in Express Car.—Where a party shipped horses by express with an agreement that he should ride in the same car he cannot ride in the passenger coach without paying his fare. Teeter v. Southern Exp. Co., 172 N. C. 616, 90 S. E. 761.

Ejecting Person on Baggage Car.—A person who gets on a baggage car, though having a ticket, but not having told the conductor that he had it, and the conductor not having seen it, is not entitled to recover as a passenger for injuries received by being pulled off the train by the conductor. McGraw v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 264, 47 S. E. 715.

Mileage Book Holder Must Comply With Terms.—The holder of a mileage book must comply with its terms if reasonable opportunity is given, as he may be ejected. McNary v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 130 N. C. 407, 40 S. E. 475; Mason v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 183, 75 S. E. 25.

Ejection of Party Refusing to Show Mileage Book.—When a purchaser of a mileage book from a railroad company is riding on an exchange ticket, and refuses, without excuse, to show his mileage book, in connection with the ticket, to the conductor on the train, he is not regarded as a passenger, and the conductor has the right to eject him from the train. Mason v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 183, 75 S. E. 25.

Evidence of Drunkenness Inadmissible.—In an action for wrongful ejection from a train, evidence of drunkenness of plaintiff is not admissible, where the answer simply denies the wrongful ejection alleged in the complaint. Raynor v. Wilmington Seacoast R. Co., 129 N. C. 195, 39 S. E. 821.

Ejection by Failure of Conductor to Return Ticket.—Where the conductor failed to return ticket to passenger to whom it was given, and the buyer thereof for lack of the ticket, the railroad is liable for all damages attending the ejection. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 158, 14 S. E. 166.

Roseman v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 112 N. C. 709, 16 S. E. 766.

§ 60-105. Injury while on platform or in other prohibited places.—In case any passenger on any railroad shall be injured while on the platform of a car or on any baggage, wood or freight car, in violation of the printed regulations of the company posted up at the time in a conspicuous place inside its passenger cars; such company at the time furnish room to such passenger cars sufficient for the proper accommodation of its passengers. (Rev., s. 2628; Code, s. 1978; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 48; C. S. 3508.)

Cross Reference.—As to injury while riding on platform of street car, see § 60-106.

Effect of Posting Notice.—When this section has been complied with, a rule of a railroad company prohibiting passengers from going on the platform while the train is in motion shall relieve the railroad company of the former duty of barring recovery for injuries sustained under such circumstances. Shaw v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 143 N. C. 312, 55 S. E. 719.

§ 60-106. Checking baggage; liability for loss.—A check shall be affixed to every parcel of baggage when taken for transportation by the agent or servant of any railroad corporation, if there is a handle, loop or fixture so that the same can be attached upon the parcel or baggage so offered for transportation, and a duplicate thereof given to the person presenting it. Poole v. Imperial Mut. Life, etc., Co., 4188 N.G. 3468; 125 S. E. 4298.

Notice Need Be Only in English.—This section requires only that the notice to be placed by a railroad company in its coach, relieving the company from liability to a passenger injured while riding on the platform, etc., shall be in English, and that fact that such language in the language of the state and that language is immaterial. Bane v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 176 N. C. 247, 97 S. E. 11.

Riding on Platform Prima Facie Negligence.—It is prima facie negligence for a passenger to voluntarily ride on the platform of a rapidly moving train. Wagner v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 147 N. C. 315, 61 S. E. 171.

Same—Not Applicable When Passenger Alighting.—This section is for the protection of passengers and should not be applied when the injury complained of has been received as the passenger was alighting at a regular station after the train had stopped. Same.—When Getting on. — One who is on the platform of a railroad company at the time in which such person is for the purpose of becoming a passenger on its expected train is entitled to the protection due a passenger from dangerous conditions and usages there. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 111 N. C. 464, 47 S. E. 121.

§ 60-107. Cars and toilets to be kept clean.—Every person or railroad company, whether incorporated or not, engaged in the regular business of carrying passengers on his or its railroad cars in this state, shall have such cars cleaned, brushed, dusted and the windows washed, if needed, at least once each day, and in each car, in which male and female passengers are carried, have therein a toilet-room for each sex, and have the same kept clean and decent. Any person or corporation engaged in the business aforesaid who shall willfully or negligently fail or refuse to give orders to his or its agent in charge of such cars to comply with the requirements of this section, shall forfeit twenty dollars for each day of such failure or refusal, to be recovered by any person suing therefor. (1907, c. 474, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 3511.)

Cross Reference.—As to exception to this section, see § 62-98.

§ 60-108. Evidence of failure to order cleaning of cars; violation of orders misdemeanor.—The willful or negligent refusal or the failure on the part of the conductor or manager of any passenger car named in § 60-107 to comply with such section shall be received as evidence of failure or refusal of such person or railroad company to give the orders therein provided for. Moreover, such conductor or manager shall be guilty of a misdemeanor if he fail or refuse to carry out such orders of the persons or company mentioned in the said section. (1907, c. 474, s. 3; C. S. 3512.)

§ 60-109. Surcharge on Pullman car transportation.—It shall be unlawful for any railroad or Pullman car company doing business in North Carolina to collect from any person within the boundaries of North Carolina any surtax or surcharge for Pullman car transportation from one point to any other point within the bounds of the state of North Carolina; but nothing in this section shall be construed to affect in any way the charge which any railroad or Pullman car company may require for transportation on interstate travel. (1923, c. 147; C. S. 3512(a).)

Editor's Note.—It was said in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 305, that the power exercised in this section is clearly within the power of the state, and has been observed by carriers since 1923.

Art. 13. Carriage of Freight.

§ 60-110. No charge in excess of printed tariffs; refunding overcharge; penalty.—No railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company engaged in the carriage of freight and no telegraph company or telephone company shall demand, collect or receive for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of property or transmission of messages more than the rates appearing in the printed tariff of such company in force at the time such service is rendered, or more than is allowed by law. In case of any overcharge, contrary to the provisions of this section, the person aggrieved may file with any agent of the company collecting or receiving greater compensation than the amount allowed a written demand, supported by a paid freight bill and an original bill of lading or duplicate therefor; when the demand is not refused or to be refunded, though the particular transportation charges may appear disproportionately small. It is on failure to return the demand made specifically as to each, accompanied in a letter accompanying them, does not affect the demands for investigation rendered the defendant liable for the penalty imposed upon the carrier failing to refund such overcharge after the 60 days allowed for investigation. The penalty may be recovered by the party aggrieved as a lien upon the cargo or property or transmission of messages more than the rate appearing in the printed tariff of such company, and which cannot in any event exceed $100 governing sections of this chapter, the rate of the actual route of the shipment, and, in the absence of such rates, the rates as determined or to be rendered in the transportation of goods or property or transmission of messages more than is allowed by law. In case of any overcharge, contrary to the provisions of this section, the person aggrieved may file with any agent of the company collecting or receiving greater compensation than the amount allowed a written demand, supported by a paid freight bill and an original or duplicate bill of lading, etc. Tilley v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 363, 90 S. E. 399.

Freight Charge on Undelivered Shipment.—Where the defendant collected freight charges for an entire shipment, as invoiced and originally billed, and the sum of 96 cents was paid as freight on that part of the shipment which was "short" and not delivered, this was an overcharge, and a penalty for investigation rendered the defendant liable for the penalty denounced by this section. Cottrell v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 165 N. C. 395, 86 S. E. 1025.

Burden of Proof.—The burden is upon the plaintiff to show that a freight rate charged and collected by the carrier on an interstate shipment was in excess of its tariff required of the carrier to be published, when he seeks to recover this excess and the State statutory penalty; and when the plaintiff is required to prove the actual rate and the tariff filed by the carrier, the act of the plaintiff in failing to file the certificate in due form, and the tariff as so filed, is evidence of the rate charged. Hdw. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 170 N. C. 395, 86 S. E. 1025.
§ 60-111. Penalty for failure to receive and forward freight tendered. — Agents or other officers of railroad and other transportation companies whose duty it is to receive freight shall receive all articles of the nature and kind received by such company for transportation whenever tendered at a regular depot, station, wharf or boat landing, and every loaded car tendered at a sidetrack, or any warehouse connected with the railroad by a siding, and shall forward the same by the route selected by the person tendering the freight under existing laws; and the transportation company represented by any person refusing to receive such freight shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved the sum of fifty dollars for each day such company refuses to receive such freight shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved the sum of fifty dollars for each day such company refuses to receive such freight for shipment, and all damages actually sustained by reason of the refusal to receive such freight. If a regular station is used for the purpose of receiving freight, the agent of the railway in charge of such station shall seize all such freight or goods, although not tendered at a siding or warehouse at which there is no agent, notice for each day such company refuses to receive such freight shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved the sum of fifty dollars for such delay. (Rev., s. 2631; Code, s. 1903, cc. 444, 693; C. S. 3515.)

This section is constitutional as applied to intrastate shipments. Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 205 N. C. 855, 150 N. E. 129.

Section Strictly Construed. — This is a penal statute and must be strictly construed. Cox v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 459, 62 S. E. 556.

Intrastate Shipments. — The penalty imposed by this section is not a burden upon interstate commerce when shipments are intrastate. Wampus Cotton Mills v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 150 N. C. 612, 64 S. E. 588.

Interstate Shipments. — In Reid v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 753, 64 S. E. 874, it was held that the penalty provided for by the provisions of this section would apply to interstate commerce, as it did not burden interstate commerce. In reviewing the same case the United States court reversed this decision and held that the section could not be applied to shipments between Kansas and Texas. Tenney v. Ry. Co. v. Reid, 222 U. S. 424, 32 S. Ct. 140, 56 L. Ed. 257.

Requisites of Valid Tender. — This section provides that the tender be made at a regular station and that the articles tendered be of the nature and kind required by the company for transportation, and it is necessary in an action for the penalty to show that the character of the shipment and place of tender are such as fall within its provisions. Oliver v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 279, 63 S. E. 383.

Same. — Sufficiency of Complaint. — A complaint alleging that plaintiff tendered to a carrier at a certain station a certain quantity of loose lumber for shipment, etc., which the defendant wrongfully and unlawfully refused to receive, states a good cause of action, even though the time of the tender was the 15th of February, after the train on which it was to be transported passed, would not prevent the company in an action brought to recover a penalty prescribed by this section. Also p. Southern Express Co., 104 N. C. 278, 10 S. E. 297.

Meaning of "Under Existing Laws." — The words "under existing laws," in this session, qualify the word "forward," and are used in reference to the rules governing the legal relations of consignor, consignee and the connecting lines. Also p. Southern Express Co., 104 N. C. 278, 10 S. E. 297.

Who is the "Party Aggrieved." — The person aggrieved is the "party aggrieved," and is the one entitled to sue for the penalty prescribed in this section which arises from the wrongful refusal of the carrier's agent to accept them for transportation. Reid v. Southern R. Co., 149 N. C. 423, 63 S. E. 112.

Same. — Consignee of Goods Shipped on Approval. — A consignee to whom goods are shipped on approval owes a duty to the party attaching them to refuse to receive such goods from the party in whose factory, and he must do so to relieve himself of liability to the consignor; and he is the party aggrieved, under this section, and may maintain an action for the penalty prescribed upon the refusal of the carrier to accept them for shipment. Burlington Lumber Co. v. Southern R. Co., 152 N. C. 70, 67 S. E. 167.

Same. — Agent of Attaching Creditor. — The penalty prescribed by this section is for the person who is interested in having the goods shipped, and whose legal right in respect thereto is gained; and a person may not maintain an action for the penalty, as the party aggrieved, who has no right or interest in the shipment, sue as the agent of the attaching creditor. Cox v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 279, 63 S. E. 383.

Goods Not Delivered to Carrier. — When the plaintiff did not deliver the goods to the carrier because they could not be transported, without expressly requiring its acceptance by the carrier, when unloaded or loose, and by express provision it does not require the carrier to receive "cotton or other merchandise and warehouse the same unless the articles offered to be shipped are in good shipping condition, etc., the carrier is not liable, for the penalty prescribed by this section, for refusing to receive for shipment a car-load of loose hay, such shipments evidently being of such a character as to endanger the property of the carrier by reason of their being received by the carrier for shipment. Tilley v. Norfolk & Western R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 77 S. E. 994. (Rev.)

Peremptory Refusal. — If a railroad or other common-carrier company may show, in defense to an action for refusal to receive goods for shipment when tendered, such matters as would excuse its failure to do so at common law, unavoidable conditions being excepted, and the party aggrieved cannot prove by clear and convincing evidence that the carrier has refused a shipment of the nature and kind it was its business to receive, and which it could have received at the point tendered without working a hardship or oppression, the court may instruct the jury, that if the consignee's blocking the freight yards at destination, an embargo had been placed by the railroad for shipments ten- [684] dered to be forwarded to him there. Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 64 S. E. 578.

Embargo by Connecting Carrier.—The penalty imposed by this section is enforceable against a railroad company refusing to transport goods when it was the duty of the defendant to receive the goods and make a tender to the connecting line to be relieved of the penalty. Wimpum Cotton Mills v. Caroline R. Co., 205 N. C. 85, 170 S. E. 129.

When Rate Unknown.—Where the defendant carrier refused to receive for shipment goods tendered to it, basing its refusal to receive the goods upon the fact that the rate was unknown, and the defendant carrier tendered the freight for storage, and refused to receive the goods, the defendant carrier was estopped to claim as a defense that a penalty was imposed for refusal on the ground that the agent did not know where the given destination was distant therefrom. Reid v. Southern R. Co., 149 N. C. 423, 49 S. E. 618.

In an action to recover the penalties alleged to have been incurred under this section, for refusing to receive freight for transportation, where the plaintiff delivered freight for transportation to the defendant agent, and the agent refused to receive the freight, the plaintiff was entitled to recover for the value of the freight. Reid v. Southern R. Co., 149 N. C. 423, 49 S. E. 618.

§ 60-112 Penalty for failure to transport within a reasonable time.—It shall be unlawful for any railroad company, steamboat company, express company or other transportation company doing business in this state to omit or neglect to transport within a reasonable time any goods, merchandise or other articles of value received by it for shipment and billed to or from any place in the state of North Carolina, unless otherwise agreed upon between the company and the shipper, or unless the same be burned, stolen or otherwise destroyed, or unless otherwise provided by the North Carolina utilities commission.

Any company violating any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of fifteen dollars for the first day and two dollars for each succeeding day of such unlawful detention or neglect where such shipment is made in carload lots, and in less quantities than a carload lot, the same shall be a forfeiture in like kind upon ten dollars for the first day and one dollar for each succeeding day, but the forfeiture shall not be collected for a period exceeding thirty days.

In reckoning what is a reasonable time for such transportation, it shall be considered that such transportation company has transported freight within a reasonable time if it has done so in the ordinary time required for transporting such articles of freight between the receiving and shipping stations. A delay of two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at any one intermediate point for each hundred miles of distance or fraction thereof over which such freight is to be transported shall not be charged against the transportation company as unreasonable and shall be held to be prima facie reasonable, and a failure to transport such freight within such time shall be held prima facie unreasonable. This section shall not be construed to refer not only to delay in starting the freight from the station where it is received, but to require the delivery at its destination within the time specified: Provided, that if such delay shall be due to causes which could not in the exercise of ordinary care have been foreseen, and which were unavoidable, then upon the establishment of these facts to the satisfaction of the jury the defendant transportation company shall be relieved from any penalty for delay in the transportation of freight, but it shall not be relieved from the costs of such action. In all actions to recover penalties against a transportation company under this section, the burden of proof shall be upon the transportation company to show where the delay, if any, occurred.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—Evidence that shipper's contract to deliver certain merchandise was canceled because of car-rider's wrongful refusal to accept the merchandise for shipment is sufficient to support the referee's finding of actual damages, profits which would have been certainly realized but for carrier's wrongful refusal of the shipment being recoverable under this section. Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 205 N. C. 85, 170 S. E. 129.

Editor's Note.—Under this section as it formerly prevailed, a penalty was imposed for unreasonable delay in the transportation of goods. Construing the statute in Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 93, 55 S. E. 697 the Court held that the term "transportation" did not include a delivery to consignee at the point of destination, and if goods shipped by a carrier had been properly placed at the point of destination, no penalty was incurred under this section for a negligent delay in delivery from the car or warehouse of the company. Subsequently the Legislature amended the statute so as to include delays in delivery after the goods have been transported and delivered to the party aggrieved, both points being in the State, the distance separating them 58 miles, with but one intermediate point between the place of shipment and destination, and that they were not delivered to plaintiff within twenty-one days, the delay was unreasonable. Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 91, 56 S. E. 697.

2—40 [625]

Section Strictly Construed.—This is a penal statute and must be strictly construed. Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 93, 57 S. E. 671.

Does Not Apply to Interstate Shipment.—A penalty may not be recovered of the carrier of an interstate shipment for the failure to transport freight within a reasonable time, when the initial and terminal points are in different States, but the shipper tendered the freight and necessary time is lost in transit. Such is interstate commerce and cannot be interfered with by the State. Shelby Ice, etc., Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 66, 60 S. E. 721.

Days at Initial Point.—Under this section, the carrier is allowed two days at the initial point for the transportation of freight instead of the one day allowed by section 1-593. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 29. See also, Hickory Marble Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 593, 61 S. E. 719.

Such is interstate commerce and cannot be interfered with by the State. Shelby Ice, etc., Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 66, 60 S. E. 721.

Days at Initial Point.—Under this section, the carrier is allowed two days at the initial point for the transportation of freight instead of the one day allowed by section 1-593. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 29.

Same.—Although Both Terminal Points in State.—A penalty cannot be recovered for the failure of a railroad company to transport freight within a reasonable time, when the initial and terminal points are in the State, but the shipper tendered the freight and necessary time is lost in transit. Such is interstate commerce and cannot be interfered with by the State. Rollins v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 146 N. C. 178, 59 S. E. 663.

Same.—Burden of Proof.—When the evidence discloses that the time taken by the railroad company for transporting goods, etc., was prima facie reasonable as fixed by the statute, it is for the jury to determine from the evidence whether or not such measure by the statutory standard, the burden of proof lying upon the plaintiff. Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 141 N. C. 91, 56 S. E. 697.

Same.—Evidence.—In an action to recover the penalty given by this section, the burden of proof is on the plaintiff to show that the carrier failed to transport and deliver the freight and deliver within a reasonable time. Jenkins v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 178, 59 S. E. 663.

—Ordinary Time? Defined.—An "ordinary point" for which time is allowed under this section, in transporting freight is only where the freight is transferred to an- other road. Davis v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 407, 59 S. E. 53.

—Intermediate Point. Defined.—An "intermediate point" for which time is allowed under this section, in transporting freight is only where the freight is transferred to another road. Davis v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 407, 59 S. E. 53.

—Transfer at Carrier's Distributing Point.—When a car-load intrastate shipment necessarily is transferred with- out breaking bulk from one road of the carrier's system to another road at a distributing point in the car- rier's system in order to reach destination, the carrier is al- lowed thereat the statutory time for transportation at such point, unless the time thus fixed for transfer is unreasonable. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277.

—Ordinary Time? A Question for Jury.—The question of "ordinary time" for the transportation of freight by the car- rier is a question of fact for the jury. In an action for recovery on this section, it is for the jury to find what was "ordinary time," under the surrounding circumstances, and whether the de- fendant failed to transport the freight within such time; also the amount of recovery after allowing for the "lay days," etc., provided by this section. It is error for the trial court to in- struct the jury, if they believed the evidence, to answer the issue in a certain way or in a sum certain. Davis v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 59 S. E. 663.

Computations of Time.—The time in which railroads shall be allowed to transport freight shall be computed by excluding the first day and including the last, except when the last day falls on Sunday. Davis v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 207, 59 S. E. 50.

When the carrier was allowed two days time for a ship- ment at an intermediate point, and therefore could not de- liver it before Sunday, delivery on the next succeeding day would be in accordance with the terms of the contract. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277; Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 407, 59 S. E. 53.

Issues.—An issue which presupposes a failure on defen- dant's part in its duty to transport freight, in an action for penalty, under this section, is objectionable. Davis v. South- ern R. Co., 145 N. C. 407, 59 S. E. 53.

—Why Entitled to Recover.—The real "party aggrieved" is entitled to recover the penalty, under this section, irrespec- tive of the party who is the party of knowledge, the de- signation of the party aggrieved appearing in the section. Cardwell v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 218, 59 S. E. 674.

—Who Is "Party Aggrieved."—The plaintiff may maintain his action against the railroad company, under this section, for wrongful failure to transport certain goods received by the latter, and bill of lading issued by it to plaintiff, when it appears that plaintiff shipped the goods by another railroad, and that the carrier (the defendant or plaintiff) was the one who alone acquired the right to de- mand the service to be rendered by the defendant, and was the party aggrieved. Rollins v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 146 N. C. 153, 59 S. E. 671.
When the consignor ships goods to be sold for his own benefit, he is the "party aggrieved," under this section. Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 68 S. E. 413.

§ 60-114

Freight charges to be at legal rates; penalty for failure to deliver to consignee on tender of same.—All flume companies exercising right of eminent domain become common carriers.—All flume companies availing themselves of the right of eminent domain under the provisions of the chapter Eminent Domain shall become public carriers of freight, for the purposes for which they are adapted, and shall be subject to the direction, control and supervision of the utilities commission in the same manner and for the same purposes as is by law provided for other public carriers of freight. (1907, c. 39, s. 4; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. §317.)

Local Modification.—Duplicat. 1921, c. 214.

§ 60-114. Freight charges to be at legal rates; penalty for failure to deliver to consignee on tender of same.—All common carriers doing business in this state shall settle their freight charges according to the rate stipulated in the bill of lading, provided the rate therein stipulated be in conformity with the classifications and rates made and filed with the interstate commerce commission in case of shipments from without the state.
the state and with those of the utilities commission of this state in case of shipments wholly within this state, by which classifications and rates all consignees shall in all cases be entitled to settle freight charges with such carriers; and it shall be the duty of such common carriers to inform any consignee of the correct amount due for freight according to such classification and rates. Upon payment or tender of the amount due on any shipment which has arrived at its destination according to such classification and rates, all common carriers shall deliver freight in question to the consignee. Any failure or refusal to comply with the provisions hereof shall subject such carrier so failing or refusing to a penalty of fifty dollars for each such failure or refusal, to be recovered by any consignee aggrieved by any suit in any court of competent jurisdiction. (Rev., s. 2633; 1905, c. 330, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3518.)

Constitutionality of Section.—The penalty for failure of a common carrier to deliver freight to the consignee, a penalty which by this section has been assessed against a railroad company which has the right, license or permission to use, operate or control the same, is constitutional and not a burden upon interstate commerce. Hockfield v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181.

Foreign Corporation Bound to Obey Laws.—A railroad corporation chartered by another state, leaves a railroad chartered by this state, it is bound to observe and obey all laws of this state regulating the business of transportation. Hines v. Wilmington, etc., R., 95 N. C. 434.

Intrastate Rebilling of Interstate Shipment.—An interstate shipment of goods which has been mislaid or unloaded and rebilled from one point in the State to another therein, is an intrastate shipment, and upon the carrier's violating the provisions of this section, the penalty therein accrues. Hockfield v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181.

Section Not Cumulative.—This section imposes only one penalty for the refusal of the railroad company to deliver freight upon demand and tender of charges, and it is not cumulative upon more than one demand for the same offense. Harrill Bros. v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 524, 144 S. E. 242.

Consignee Must Produce Bill of Lading.—A consignee must produce, upon the carrier's demand, a bill of lading for a prepaid shipment of goods in the carrier's possession. Jeans v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 164 N. C. 224, 80 S. E. 242.

Insufficient Notice to Consignee.—Notice given by a carrier of the arrival of goods to a transfer company in the habit of hauling consignor's goods from the depot is not of itself sufficient notice to the consignor. Callow v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181.

Express Co., 166 N. C. 155, 82 S. E. 15.

Agent Ignorant of Amount of Charge.—It is no defense to an action to recover a penalty for refusing to deliver shipment upon tender of freight charges by the consignee, for the defendant company to show its agents did not know the correct amount of charges because of the defendant's failure to file its schedule of rates. Harrill Bros. v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 524, 57 S. E. 383.

Rate When Smaller Cars Furnished.—Where a consignor requested two cars of a certain standard size and the carrier furnished four cars of a smaller size the rate for the shipment must be the same. Yorke Furniture Co. v. Railroad, 162 N. C. 138, 78 S. E. 67.

§ 60-115. Charging unreasonable freight rates misdemeanor.—If any railroad company doing business in this state shall charge, collect, demand or receive more than a fair and reasonable rate of toll or compensation for the transportation of freight of any description, or for the use and transportation of any railroad car upon its track or any of the branches thereof or upon any railroad in this state which has the right, license or permission to use, operate or control the same, it shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five hundred nor more than five thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 3768; 1899, c. 164, s. 12; C. S. 3519.)

Cross References.—See also § 62-135. As to action for double of overcharge, see § 62-138. As to penalty for wilful overcharge, see § 62-139. As to violation of passenger rates, see § 60-91.

§ 60-116. Allowing or accepting rebates or pooling freights misdemeanor.—If any person shall be concerned in pooling freights or shall directly or indirectly allow or accept rebates on freights he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not less than twelve months. (Rev., s. 3762; Code, s. 1968; 1879, c. 237, s. 2; C. S. 3520.)

Cross References.—As to a railroad or officer thereof allowing a rebate, see § 60-6.

§ 60-117. Partial charges for partial deliveries. —Whenever any freight of any kind shall be received by any common carrier in this state to be delivered to any consignee in this state, and a portion of the same shall not have been received at the place of destination, it shall not be lawful for the carrier to demand any part of the charges for freight or transportation due for such portion of the shipment as shall not have reached the place of destination. The carrier shall be required to deliver to the consignee such portion of the consignment as shall have been received or delivered, or to deliver in whole the shipment and collect the full freight charges due upon such portion. But nothing in this section shall be construed as interfering with, or depriving a consignor, or other person having authority, of his rights of stoppage in transitu. (Rev., s. 2611; 1893, c. 495; C. S. 3521.)

§ 60-118. Placing cars for loading.—Whenever an individual, firm or corporation intending to ship freight makes a written application to any railroad company for cars to be loaded in carload lots with any kind of freight embraced in the tariffs of the company, stating in the application the character of the freight, the number of cars wanted, the station, depot, siding, wharf or boatlanding on the line of the company whence the shipment is to be moved, and its final destination, the railroad company shall furnish the cars.
within four days from seven o'clock a. m., the day following such application. The application must be delivered to the agent of the railroad company at the station at or nearest the point of shipment. Any railroad company failing to furnish the cars named in such written application shall be subject to a penalty of five dollars per car per day for each car not furnished, to be recovered by the person, firm or corporation making application: Provided, that the railroad company, before furnishing the cars upon such application, may require the person, firm or corporation applying for the same to deposit five dollars for each car may be retained by the said railroad company as a forfeit for trackage in case the car or cars are not loaded within forty-eight hours after notice of the placement of car or cars in accordance with demand: Provided, that the utilities commission may excuse from the penalties imposed by this section line companies not owned, operated, or controlled by any other line or system when trackage is less than one hundred miles. (1907, c. 217, s. 3; 1983, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3522.)

Cross Reference.—As to the power of the utilities commission to regulate the delivery of baggage, see § 62-55. As to common carriers, see § 60-120.

Carrier Entitled to Notice.—The carrier is entitled to reasonable notice from the shipper for placing a car to be loaded, and when written notice is required by its rules, the rule may be waived or abandoned by a verbal agreement. Futch v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 178 N. C. 282, 100 S. E. 436.

Same.—No Liability for Penalty unless Four Days Notice Given.—When a railroad company is not liable for the penalty for failure to furnish cars to those who apply in writing when the company is not allowed the four days therein specified within which to furnish them, notwithstanding the railway company did not furnish them for twenty-three days. Duffie v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 145 N. C. 397, 399 S. E. 122.

When Action Not Brought for Penalty.—Where the recov- ery of the penalty is not sought, but the action is to recover damages for the carrier's failure to receive and ship the goods, a written demand for the cars is not required, and a verbal one is sufficient. Bell v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 161 N. C. 400, 77 S. E. 339.

Cross Reference.—As to power of the utilities commission to regulate the delivery of baggage, see § 62-55. As to common carriers, see § 60-120.

Failure to Furnish Ventilated Cars.—When a railroad company fails in its duty to furnish the shipper a ventilated car for transporting his fruit, and furnishes a box car instead, the box car was not furnished by the company, and that the shipper knew his fruit was forwarded in a box car. Forrester & Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 553, 61 S. E. 594.

Interstate Shipment.—An action may be brought in the state courts to recover damages for failure to furnish cars to be used in interstate commerce. Smart v. Tallulah Falls R. Co., 173 N. C. 650, 92 S. E. 929.

§ 60-119. Baggage and freight to be carefully handled.—All railroad and steamboat companies shall handle with care all baggage and freights placed with them for transportation, and they shall be liable in damages for any and all injuries or damage to the baggage or freight of persons from whom they have collected fare or charged freight, while the same is under their control. Upon proof of injury to baggage or freight in the possession or unladen condition of such company, it shall be presumed that the injury was caused by the negligence of the company. (Rev., s. 9694; 1897, c. 46; C. S. 3583.)

Cross Reference.—As to the power of the utilities commission to regulate the delivery of baggage, see § 62-55. As to conveyance livestock in a cruel manner, see § 14-363. As to sanitary inspection, see § 130-279. As to carrier's liability for misdelivery, see § 21-11.

Delivery Necessary.—To fix the responsibility for lost bag-gage upon a railroad company, either as a common carrier or warehouseman, a delivery, actual or constructive, including an acceptance by the company, is necessary; and in order to render valid delivery the general rule is that when baggage is taken by the agent of the company, at the station, the baggage is usually received, some kind of notice must be given to the agent authorized to receive it. Williams v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 260, 71 S. E. 346.

Same.—Estoppel.—The requisites of the general rule to affect delivery of baggage of a passenger to a railroad company in order to hold the company liable may become modi- fied by a custom of the latter to consider and treat baggage as received when left at a given place, without further notice. Williams v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 260, 71 S. E. 346.

§ 60-120. Liability for Non-Personal Baggage.—While the obligation of a carrier of passengers is limited to ordinary baggage, yet if it knowingly permits a passenger, either with or without payment of an extra charge, to take articles as baggage which are not such as are commonly carried, and as are carried for payment of an extra charge, the bill of lading for the transportation of freight, are void as an attempt on the part of the carrier to contract against its own negligence. Cooper v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 161 N. C. 400, 77 S. E. 339.

Liability for Non-Personal Baggage.—While the obligation of a carrier of passengers is limited to ordinary baggage, yet if it knowingly permits a passenger, either with or without payment of an extra charge, to take articles as baggage which are not such as are commonly carried, and as are carried for payment of an extra charge, the bill of lading for the transportation of freight, are void as an attempt on the part of the carrier to contract against its own negligence. Cooper v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 161 N. C. 400, 77 S. E. 339.

When Liability as Carrier Ceases.—When the baggage has arrived at its destination and has been deposited at the usual or customary place of delivery and kept there a sufficient time for the passenger to claim and remove the same, the company's liability as a common carrier ceases, and it is thereafter liable only as a warehouseman, and bound to the use of ordinary care. Trouser Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 382, 51 S. E. 972.

Liability When Passenger Not Carried.—When there is no partnership arrangement between connecting lines of rail- roads, and a passenger fails to forward his baggage to his destination on a connecting line, checks his trunk through to his destination and voluntarily returns to the starting point without going upon the road of the connecting lines, the latter carrier is not liable as insurer of the contents of the trunk from larceny by reason of taking the trunk to its destination, storing it there in its baggage room until its return was requested and then forwarding it to the junc- tional point, without compensation. Kinsley v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 131 N. C. 207, 65 S. E. 897.

Baggage Not on Same Train.—The passenger's right to a particular amount of baggage as expressed in the price of his ticket is upon the condition that the baggage accompany the passenger on the same train; and where there is no default on the part of the carrier, its agent, without furnishing the baggage to a passenger, the carrier, agent or company, is not liable as insurer of the contents of the trunk from larceny by reason of taking the trunk to its destination, storing it there in its baggage room until its return was requested and then forwarding it to the junc- tional point, without compensation. Perry v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 171 N. C. 158, 88 S. E. 156.

§ 60-120. Claims for loss of or damage to goods; filing and adjustment.—Every claim for loss of or damage to property while in possession of a common carrier, including every express company, firm or corporation doing an express business within the state, shall be adjusted and paid within ninety days in case of shipments wholly within the state and within four months in case of shipments from without the state, after the filing of such claim with the agent of such carrier at the point of delivery of such shipment, or point of delivery to another common carrier, or for damage to them, though it may have been without any fault. Trouser Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 382, 51 S. E. 972.
liable for the amount of such loss or damage, together with interest thereon from the date of the filing of the claim therefor until the payment thereof. Failure to do so shall render such common carrier subject to the same penalty and the same procedure as herein provided for by this section for failure of a carrier to show to the satisfaction of the carrier that the circumstances of the loss bring it within the excepted causes, and when this is shown, the burden still rests upon the carrier of showing that the loss or injury was not due to its own negligence. Mitchell v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671.

Connecting Carriers—Duty Assumed by Carrier.—Where a carrier accepts goods for transportation in bad condition, the burden of proof rests upon such carrier to show delivery in the same condition to the next carrier or to the consignee, such proof being peculiarly within its power. Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 137 N. C. 478, 59 S. E. 735.

Same—Presumption of Damage.—Among connecting lines of railway, that one in whose hands goods are found damaged is presumed to have caused the damage, and the burden is upon it to rebut the presumption. Gwyn Harper Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Central R., 125 N. C. 280, 38 S. E. 894; Mitchell v. Carolina Central R., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671; Morgan Mfg. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 121 N. C. 514, 28 S. E. 474.

Same—Goods Found Damaged at Destination.—When goods are found damaged at the destination, and are found in a damaged condition at destination, there is a rebuttable presumption that the injury was negligently inflicted by the last carrier. Boss v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R. 156 N. C. 706, 69 S. E. 355. Even if the goods are shipped under a special contract, or such contract is inapplicable, as the carrier is peculiarly in a position to know the facts, the burden of proof should rest on the consignee. Beville v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 159 N. C. 257, 74 S. E. 474.

Same—Liability for Negligence of Connecting Carrier.—A railroad company whose line is one of several connecting lines between places from and to which freight is shipped, in the absence of a special contract, or proof of copartnership by which each of the connecting lines will become liable for the contracts of the others, is not responsible for damages for negligence occurring beyond its terminus. Knott v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 98 N. C. 73, 3 S. E. 735.

same Interstate Shipments. — The Interstate Commerce Act and Carmack Amendment placed the entire regulation of interstate commerce under Federal control. This is on the principle that the Government is peculiarly in a position to know the facts, the burden of proof should rest on the consignee. Beville v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 159 N. C. 257, 74 S. E. 474.

§ 60-120 CH. 60. RAILROADS AND OTHER CARRIERS § 60-120

Prima Facie Case.—In an action against the carrier for damages for the destruction of a shipment of freight by fire, a prima facie case is made out when the plaintiff shows the receipt of the freight for transportation and its nondelivery. Osborne v. Southern Ry., 175 N. C. 994, 96 S. E. 34; Everett v. Central R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671.

Same.—Limited Liability.—In cases of limited liability, proof of shipment and loss or injury makes a prima facie case for the owner, but the burden still rests upon the carrier to show that the circumstances of the loss bring it within the excepted causes, and when this is shown, the burden still rests upon the carrier of showing that the loss or injury was not due to its own negligence. Mitchell v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671.

Cross Reference.—As to venue of an action against a railroad, see § 1-31.

Section Strictly Construed.—This is a penal statute, and in order to recover, the plaintiff must bring his case strictly within its terms. Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., 190 N. C. 1005, 130 S. E. 355.

Section Must Be Followed.—The penalty imposed by this section is to enforce obedience to the mandate of the law by punishment of the carrier, and the statute must be strictly construed, requiring the consignee to bring his case clearly within its language and meaning; and in order to recover, the penalty, the consignee must file his claim with the agent as the statute directs, and the filing thereof with another of the carrier's agents is insufficient. Eagles Co. v. East Carolina Ry., 184 N. C. 66, 113 S. E. 512.

Who May Bring Action.—Ordinarily the title to a shipment passes to the consignee by common carrier passes to the consignee upon their acceptance by the carrier, and he may sue for damages thereto in transit; but when it is shown that the consignee was not the owner of the property at the time of shipment and at the time of suit, and is, therefore, the party aggrieved, in any court of competent jurisdiction: Provided, that unless such consignee or consignee recover in such action the full amount claimed, no penalty shall be recovered; but only the actual amount of the loss or damage, with interest as aforesaid; and that no penalty shall be recoverable under the provisions of this section where claims have been filed by both the consignor and consignee, unless the time herein provided has elapsed after the withdrawal of one of the claims.

Causes of action for the recovery of the possession of the property shipped, for loss or damage thereto, and for the penalties herein provided for, may be united in the same complaint. (Rev., s. 2634; 1905, c. 330, ss. 2, 4, 5; 1907, c. 983; 1911, c. 199; C. S. 3524.)

Cross Reference.—As to venue of an action against a railroad company to recover damages to a shipment of goods and the penalties for the refusal of the defendant to pay the value of a shipment of goods and the penalty for the failure of defendant to pay the same within 90 days, as allowed by this section, the issues may be united in the same complaint. (Rev., s. 2634; 1905, c. 330, ss. 2, 4, 5; 1907, c. 983; 1911, c. 199; C. S. 3524.)

Prima Facie Case.—In an action against the carrier for damages for the destruction of a shipment of freight by fire, a prima facie case is made out when the plaintiff shows the receipt of the freight for transportation and its nondelivery. Osborne v. Southern Ry., 175 N. C. 994, 96 S. E. 34; Everett v. Central R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671.

Same.—Limited Liability.—In cases of limited liability, proof of shipment and loss or injury makes a prima facie case for the owner, but the burden still rests upon the carrier to show that the circumstances of the loss bring it within the excepted causes, and when this is shown, the burden still rests upon the carrier of showing that the loss or injury was not due to its own negligence. Mitchell v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671.
ages to a shipment made over connecting lines. However this provision does not relieve the intermediate or delivering carrier of responsibility for its own negligence, or prevent the state court from requiring the carrier to show which is responsible for the damage. See Aydlett v. Norfolk Sou. R. Co., 133 N. C. 861, 48 S. E. 815. A claim made directly to the initial carrier of an interstate shipment of goods is sufficient notice to the connecting carrier. Gilikin v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 86, 89 S. E. 1057. If the initial carrier may also be held liable for damages to a shipment made over connecting lines, a direction of the court relieving it from liability does not necessarily relieve the intermediate or delivering carrier of responsibility for its own negligence, or prevent the state court from requiring the carrier to show which is responsible for the damage. Gilikin v. Railroad, 174 N. C. 137, 93 S. E. 469.

Parol Agreement to Ship Sufficient.—When a carrier has received goods for transportation over its own and a connecting line, and in answer to a parol request it has them reshipped to the initial or starting point, the latter agreement for reshipment, though resting in parol, sustains an action for damages against the carrier for the damages sustained while in the carrier’s possession. Lyon v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 165 N. C. 143, 81 S. E. 1.

Filing of Claim Prerequisite to Penalty.—A consignor of a shipment of goods is required by this section to file a claim with the agent of the common carrier at the point of origin, and this he must have done to maintain his action against the carrier for the penalty prescribed for its failure to settle a claim for damages within ninety days, etc. Gwyn-Harper Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Central R., 128 N. C. 30, 38 S. E. 894. But an allowance of thirty days is unreasonable. Gwyn-Harper Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Central R., 128 N. C. 260, 38 S. E. 894.

Same—Notice to Agent.—Where the second carrier in the connecting line causes damages to the ship- ment by improperly loading it, it may not defeat an action to recover such damages, when the required notice within four months has been filed with and accepted without comment by it, on the ground that such notice had not been filed with the initial or final carrier under the terms of the contract of carriage. The doctrine of notice to the agent is applicable here. Aydlett v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 47, 89 S. E. 1000.

Same—Omission of Amount of Loss. — It is not required that the claimant state the amount of his loss, in his claim for damages against a carrier. McRary v. Southern Ry., 174 N. C. 563, 94 S. E. 107.

Same— Interstate Shipments.—The Federal statutes, while recognizing carriers’ rights to stipulate for the filing of claims within a reasonable period, provide that if the loss or damage is due to a delay in transit by negligence no notice shall be required as a condition precedent to recovery. Mann v. Transportation Co., 176 N. C. 104, 96 S. E. 731.

Same — By Mail.—The essential things for the proper filing of the claim against the common carrier for damages, and for the penalty under the provisions of this section, being its delivery to and acceptance by the carrier’s designated agent, such filing is not restricted to a manual delivery. Such an action can be done by mail and accepted as being made within the United States mail. The delivery of the mail will be presumed. Eagles v. East Carolina Railroad, 184 N. C. 701, 115 S. E. 714.

Same—Necessity of Written Demand.—A penal statute is to be strictly construed, and the provisions of this section are not complied with when oral demand is made, as such cannot be filed under the ordinary acceptance of the word mailed, and the carrier may not be deprived of the right to demand that a written demand be given. Thompson v. Southern Express Co., 147 N. C. 343, 61 S. E. 182. But failure to file a formal written demand does not necessarily relieve the carrier of actual damages sustained. Hinkle v. Southern Ry., 136 N. C. 933, 36 S. E. 348; Kime v. Sou. R. Co., 135 N. C. 361, 36 S. E. 349.

Stipulations May Be Waived.—The stipulation in a live-stock bill of lading requiring that notice in writing be given the carrier’s agent at destination, of claim for damages to the animals shipped, before they are released mingled with other animals, may be waived by the carrier’s agent at the delivering point. Newborn v. Louisville, etc. R. Co., 155 N. C. 575, 70 S. E. 37.

Recovery Must Equal Claim.—In order to recover the penalty for failure to settle a claim for damages within ninety days, etc., the burden is on plaintiff to show that the amount of his recovery be not less than the amount of his written demand. Watkins v. American Railway Express Co., 190 N. C. 605, 130 S. E. 305.

Settlement after Penalty Prerequisite.—The proviso that the consignor must first recover the full amount claimed is only to protect the carrier against excessive demands and not to discourage settlements for losses, and the plaintiff’s right to recover the penalty in such suits is not lost by accepting an unreasonable settlement for damages for full amount claimed after the penalty had accrued. Rabon v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 149 N. C. 231, 75 S. E. 576.

Plaintiff Must Prove Failure to Settle.—The burden is on plaintiff to show that the common carrier has failed to settle his claim in ninety days, etc., after written demand under the provisions of this section, applying to interstate shipments, and the prima facie case made out by showing the unreasonable delay in the delivery of the shipment is not sufficient. Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., 190 N. C. 605, 130 S. E. 305.

Measure of Damages for Delay.—In the trial of an action against a railroad company for loss occasioned by its delay in transporting machinery shipped over its line by plaintiff which was engaged in equipping a cotton factory, where it appeared that workmen employed by the plaintiff were forced to remain idle, though under pay of plaintiff, the measure of plaintiff’s damages was the wages paid to workmen and such other costs and expenses incurred by plaintiff in consequence of the delay. Rocky Mount Mills v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 119 N. C. 691, 25 S. E. 854.

§ 60-121. Existing remedies to continue.—Section 60-120 shall not deprive any consignee of any rights or remedies now existing against common carriers in regard to freight charges or claims for loss or damage to freight, but shall be deemed and held as creating an additional liability upon such common carriers. (Rev. s. 2635; 1905, c. 330, s. 5; C. S. 3252.)

Common Law Remedies.—The common law remedies of shippers and passengers are not taken away by the provisions of this chapter. Bell v. Norfolk Sou. R. Co., 163 N. C. 797, 75 S. E. 422, and cases there cited.

Action May Be Brought in Contract or Tort.—A person who has sustained injuries by reason of the failure of a railroad company to provide proper means of transporta- tion or to transport goods or passengers in a reasonable time or in a reasonable manner, or to perform any contract or in tort, independent of the statute. Purcell v. Richmond & Danville R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956; Va.-Carolina Peanut Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 155 N. C. 418, 171 S. E. 561, 571.

§ 60-122. Carrier’s right against prior carrier. — Any common carrier, upon complying with the provisions of §§ 60-114 and 60-120, shall have all the rights and remedies herein provided for against a common carrier from which it receives the freight in question. (Rev. s. 2636; 1905, c. 330, s. 3; C. S. 3252.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of utilities commission to act as arbitrator in disputes between carriers, see § 63-61.

§ 60-123. Regulation of demurrage.—No railroad or other transportation company doing business in the state shall make any charge on account of demurrage while a car, whether the same be a re- frigerator car or not, is being loaded for shipment, until it has remained at the place of loading for forty-eight hours from the time it has been so placed; but the utilities commission may change this provision, if it considers it unreasonable, under the power vested in it under the chapter Utilities Commission, to make regulations as to demurrage and the loading of cars. (Ex. Ses. 1913, c. 55; 1923, c. 154, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3927.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of utilities commission to regulate demurrage, see § 62-59.
§ 60-124. Shipment of livestock on Scuppernong river regulated; violation of regulations misdemeanor.—If any transportation company or common carrier shall receive livestock for shipment at any of the landings or shipping points on Scuppernong river, Columbia excepted, between the hours of sunset and sunrise, or shall during the time any livestock may be held for shipment at any landing or shipping point on such river, Columbia excepted, fail to keep the same in a covered pound or inclosure, supplied with necessary food and drinking water, and at all times in full view of the public, such transportation company, common carrier, or the agent of either, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3675; 1903, c. 283; C. S. 3528.)

§ 60-125. Carload shipments of watermelons regulated; violation of regulations misdemeanor.—It shall be the duty of all common carriers to furnish the weights of all carload shipments of watermelons originating within the state to the shippers thereof within forty-eight hours after receipt of the same. Any common carrier violating the provisions of this section shall upon conviction be fined ten dollars for each offense. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 68; C. S. 3529.)

§ 60-126. Express companies to settle promptly for cash-on-delivery shipments; penalty.—Every express company which shall fail to make settlement with the consignor of a cash-on-delivery shipment, either by payment of the moneys stipulated to be collected upon the delivery of the articles so shipped or by the return to such consignor of the article so shipped, within twenty days after demand made by the consignor and payment or tender of payment by him of the lawful charges for transportation, shall forfeit and pay to such consignor a penalty of twenty-five dollars, where the value of the shipment is twenty-five dollars or less; and, where the value of the shipment is over twenty-five dollars, a penalty equal to the value of the shipment; the penalty not to exceed fifty dollars in any case: Provided, no penalty shall be collectible where the shipment, through no act of negligence of the company, is burned, stolen or otherwise destroyed: Provided further, that the penalties here named shall not be in derogation of any right the consignor may now have to recover of the company damages for the loss of any cash-on-delivery shipment or for negligent delay in handling the same. (1909, c. 866; C. S. 3530.)

§ 60-127. Failure to place name on produce shipped—misdeemeanor.—Any person, firm or corporation selling or offering for sale or consignment any barrel, crate, box, case, package or other receptacle containing any berries, fruit, melons, potatoes, vegetables, truck or other produce of any kind whatsoever, to be shipped to any point within or without the state of North Carolina, without the true name of the grower or packer either written, printed, stamped or otherwise placed thereon in distinct and legible characters, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, that this section shall not apply to railroads, express companies and other transportation companies selling or offering for sale, for transportation or storage charges or any other charges accruing to such railroads, express companies or other transportation companies, any barrel, crate, box, case, package, or other receptacle containing berries, fruit, melons, potatoes, vegetables, truck or other produce. (1915, c. 193; C. S. 3531.)

§ 60-128. Unclaimed freight to be sold.—Every railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company which shall have had unclaimed freight, not perishable, in its possession for a period of six months, may proceed to sell the same at public auction, and out of the proceeds may retain the charges of transportation and storage of such freight and the expenses of the advertisement and sale thereof; but no such sale shall be made until the expiration of four weeks from the first publication of notice of such sale in a state paper and also in a newspaper published at or nearest the place at which such freight was directed to be left, and also at the place where such sale is to take place. The expenses incurred for advertising shall be a lien upon such freight in a ratable proportion according to the value of each article, package or parcel, if more than one. (Rev., s. 2637; Code, s. 1985; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 48; C. S. 3532.)

What Storage Charges Allowed for.—Storage charges are allowed the carrier for the service rendered in taking care of the goods, the inconvenience to the warehouseman, and the liability for their safe custody if they do not exercise proper care. Holloman v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 372, 90 S. E. 292.

Same—When Consignee Refuses Good.—Where a consignee of goods wrongfully refuses to receive goods on account of excessive charge made for their transportation, no demurrage charges are collectible by the carrier, but only reasonable storage charges, until, in the exercise of its rights under this section, it could properly dispose of the goods and thereby be relieved of further charge concerning them. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. New Bern Iron Works, 172 N. C. 188, 90 S. E. 149.

Applies to Interstate Shipment.—This section applies to interstate as well as intrastate shipments, in the absence of any interfering regulation by Congress or of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. New Bern Iron Works, 172 N. C. 188, 90 S. E. 149.

§ 60-129. Sale of unclaimed perishable freight.—In case such unclaimed freight shall in its nature be perishable, then the same may be sold as soon as it can be, on giving the notice required in § 60-128, after its receipt at the place where it was directed to be left. (Rev., s. 2638; Code, s. 1986; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 49; C. S. 3533.)

§ 60-130. Funds from unclaimed freight to be paid to state university.—Such railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company shall make an entry of the balance of the proceeds of the sale, if any, of each parcel of freight owned by or consigned to the same person, as near as can be ascertained, and at any time within five years thereafter shall refund any surplus so retained to the owner of such freight, his heir, or assigns, on satisfactory proof of such ownership; if no person shall claim the surplus within five years, such surplus shall be paid to the state university. (Rev., s. 2639; Code, s. 1987; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 50; C. S. 3534.)

Cross Reference.—As to unclaimed personality escheating to the University of North Carolina, see § 116-23.
§ 60-131. Sale of unclaimed baggage or freight; notice; sale of neglected property.—Any common carrier which has had in its possession on hand at any destination in this state any article whether baggage or freight, for a period of sixty days from its arrival at destination, which said carrier cannot deliver because unclaimed, may at the expiration of said sixty days sell the same at public auction at any point where in the opinion of the carrier the best price can be obtained: Provided, however, that notice of such sale shall be mailed to the consignor and consignee, by registered mail, if known to such carrier, not less than fifteen days before such sale shall be made; or notice of the sale shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published at the point of sale: Provided, that if there is no such paper published at such point, the publication may be made in any paper having a general circulation in the state: Provided further, however, that if the nondelivery of said article is due to the consignee’s and consignor’s rejection of it, then such article may be sold by the carrier at public or private sale, and at such time and place as will in the carrier’s judgment net the best price, and this without further notice to either consignee or consignor, and without the necessity of publication. (1921, c. 124, s. 1; C. S. 3534(a).)

§ 60-132. Sale of live or perishable or cheap freight.—Where the article referred to in § 60-131 is live freight, or perishable freight, or freight of such low value as would not bring the accrued transportation and other charges if held for sixty days as provided in said section, the common carrier may, with or without advertisement, sell the same in such manner and at such time and in such place as will best in its judgment protect the interests of the carrier, the consignor and the consignee, and whenever practicable the consignor and consignee shall be notified of the proposed sale of such live or perishable freight, or freight of such low value. (1921, c. 124, s. 2; C. S. 3534(b).)

§ 60-133. Record of articles and prices; deduction of expenses; payment of balance.—The carrier shall keep a record of the articles sold, and of the prices obtained therefor, and shall, after deducting all charges and expenses of the sale, including advertisement, if advertised, pay the balance to the owner of such articles on demand therefor made at any time within two years from the date of the sale. (1921, c. 124, s. 3; C. S. 3534(c).)

§ 60-134. May build and maintain water-power plants.—Where any street or interurban railway company owns lands on one or both sides of a stream which can be used in developing a water-power, and desires to erect and maintain a water-power plant for the purpose of generating electricity to be used in operating such railway, then such railway company shall have the power to erect, maintain and operate such water-power plant for such purpose, and may build, maintain and operate any and all dams, ponds, canals, bridges, ferries, aqueducts, flumes, water-ways, wasteways, reservoirs, and all works, machinery, houses, shops and buildings necessary for the use and operation of a water-power plant for generating electricity. Whenever such company shall not own the entire water-front, or all of the lands, water rights, or other easements necessary to be used in fully developing such water-power, it shall have the power to acquire any other lands, water rights or easements which may be needed to fully develop such water-power; and if the company cannot agree with the owners for the purchase of such lands, water rights or other easements, the same may be condemned by the railway company for that purpose, and the procedure shall be the same as that provided for the condemnation of lands for railroads: Provided, that no dwelling house, yard, garden, orchard or burial-ground shall be condemned for such purpose: Provided further, that such company shall not have the power to condemn any water-power, right or property of any person, firm or corporation engaged in the actual service of the general public, where such power, right or property is being used or held to be used or to be developed for use in connection with or in addition to any power actually used by such person, firm or corporation serving the general public. Any surplus electric power generated by any plant erected under the provisions of this section may be sold by such company upon reasonable terms. (1907, c. 302; 1913, c. 94; C. S. 3535.)

§ 60-135. Separate accommodations for different races; failure to provide misdemeanor.—All street, interurban and suburban railway companies, engaged as common carriers in the transportation of passengers for hire in the state of North Carolina, shall provide and set apart so much of the front portion of each car operated by them as shall be necessary, for occupation by the white passengers therein, and shall likewise provide and set apart so much of the rear part of such car as shall be necessary, for occupation by the colored passengers therein, and shall require as far as practicable the white and colored passengers to occupy the respective parts of such car so set apart for each of them. The provisions of this section shall not apply to nurses or attendants of children or of the sick or infirm of a different race, while in attendance upon such children or such sick or infirm persons. Any officer, agent or other employee of any street railway company who shall wilfully violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of...
of such car while the same is in motion, whether such passenger has or has not paid the usual fare for riding on such car. Any person willfully violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. He may also be ejected from the car by the conductor and other agent or agents charged with the operation of such car, who are hereby invested with police powers to carry out the provisions of this section. (1907, c. 850, ss. 3, 6; C. S. 3539.)

§ 60-139. Sections 60-135 to 60-138 extended to motor busses used as common carriers.—The provisions of §§ 60-135 to 60-138 are hereby extended to motor busses operated in the urban, interurban or suburban transportation of passengers for hire, and to the operator or operators thereof, and the agents, servants, and employees of such operators. (1933, c. 489.)

§ 60-140. Passenger riding on rear platform assumes risk; copies of section to be posted.—Any person who shall ride upon the rear platform of any street-car in motion, when there is room for such person to sit or stand inside the car, shall be deemed to have assumed all the risks of being injured while so riding, as the result of any act of the street-car company; Provided, that such company shall make it appear that such passenger would not have been injured had he been on the inside of said car: Provided further, that before any street, interurban or suburban railway shall be allowed to invoke the provisions of this section it shall have copies thereof printed and framed and one copy hung in each end of all cars operated on its lines, and shall further have a placard hung in a conspicuous place on the rear of such cars, which shall read as follows: "Passengers are warned not to ride on this platform," and a placard hung on each side of open cars in a conspicuous place, which shall read as follows: "Passengers are warned not to ride on the running board." (1907, c. 850, s. 4; C. S. 3540.)

Cross Reference.—As to injury while on train platform, see § 60-105.

§ 60-141. Street-cars to have vestibule fronts; failure to provide them misdemeanor.—All street passenger railway companies shall use vestibule fronts, of frontage not less than four feet, on all passenger cars run by them on their lines during the latter half of the month of November and during the months of December, January, February and March of each year: Provided, that such companies shall not be required to close the sides of the vestibules: Provided further, that such companies may use cars without vestibule fronts in cases of temporary emergency in suitable weather, not to exceed four days in any one month within the period herein prescribed for the use of vestibule fronts. The utilities commission is hereby authorized to make exemptions from the provisions of this section in cases where in their judgment the enforcement of this section is unnecessary. Any such company that shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than the court. (1907, c. 850, ss. 1, 5, 7; 1909, c. 851; C. S. 3536.)

Cross Reference.—As to railroads providing separate accommodations, see § 60-94.

"Willful," as used in a criminal statute, means something more than an intention to do a thing; it implies the doing of an act purposely and deliberately, without authority or carelessness whether one has the right to do the act or not, in violation of law. State v. Harris, 213 N. C. 758, 197 S. E. 594.

§ 60-136. Passengers to take certain seats; violation of requirement misdemeanor.—Any white person entering a street car or other passenger vehicle or motor bus for the purpose of becoming a passenger therein shall, in order to carry out the purposes of § 60-135, occupy the first vacant seat or unoccupied space nearest the front thereof, and any colored person entering a street car or other passenger vehicle or motor bus for a like purpose shall occupy the first vacant seat or unoccupied space nearest the rear end thereof, provided, however, that no contiguous seat on the same bench shall be occupied by white and colored passengers at the same time, unless and until all the other seats in the car have been occupied. Upon request of the person in charge of the street car, or other passenger vehicle or motor bus, and when necessary in order to carry out the purpose of providing separate seats for white and colored passengers, it shall be the duty of any white person to move to any unoccupied seat toward or in the front of the car, vehicle or bus, and the duty of any colored person to move to any unoccupied seat toward or in the rear thereof, and the failure of any such person to so move shall constitute prima facie evidence of an intent to violate this section. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Any such person may also be ejected from the car, vehicle or bus by the person charged with the operation thereof. Each person now or hereafter charged with the operation of any such street car, passenger vehicle or motor bus is hereby invested with police powers and authority to carry out the provisions of this section. (1907, c. 850, ss. 2, 6; 1939, c. 147; C. S. 3537.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment inserted the words "or other passenger vehicle or motor bus" in the first sentence. It also inserted the second sentence and made other changes in the section.

§ 60-137. No liability for mistake in assigning passengers to wrong seat.—No street, suburban or intercity railway company, its agents, servants or employees, shall be liable to any person on account of any mistake in the designation of any passenger to a seat or part of a car set apart for passengers of the other race. (1907, c. 850, s. 8; C. S. 3538.)

§ 60-138. Misconduct on car; riding on front platform misdemeanor.—It shall be unlawful for any passenger to expectorate upon the floor or any other part of any street-car, or to use, while thereon, any loud, profane or indecent language, or to make any insulting or disparaging remark to or about any other passenger or person thereon within his or her hearing. It shall likewise be unlawful for any passenger to stand willfully upon the front platform, fender, bumper, running-board or steps
§ 60-142. Street cars to have fenders; failure to provide them misdemeanor.—All street passenger railway companies shall use practical fenders in front of all passenger cars run by them. The utilities commission is hereby authorized to make exemptions from the provisions of this section in cases where in their judgment the enforcement of this section is unnecessary. Any such company that shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day of such refusal or failure. (Rev., ss. 2616, 3801; 1901, c. 743, s. 2; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3549.)

“Practical Fenders.”—The “practical fenders” required for street cars by this section are those which are efficient for the purpose of protecting human life, etc., or the most approved appliance in general use, and a violation of this statute is negligence per se. Smith v. Charlotte Elec. Ry. Co., 171 N. C. 489, 92 S. E. 382.

Violation Negligence Per Se.—The violation of this section by a street car company, in failing to provide a “practical fender” for its car, causing an injury, is evidence of actionable negligence per se. Hanes v. Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 191 N. C. 13, 131 S. E. 402; Ingle v. Asheville Electric Power, etc., Co., 172 N. C. 751, 90 S. E. 953.

Travelers by Vehicles Protected.—The requirement of this section, that all street cars when operated must have practical fenders on the lead end thereof, applies to the protection of those traveling by vehicles, automobiles, etc. Hanes v. Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 191 N. C. 13, 131 S. E. 402.

Burden of Proof as to Exemption.—The burden of proof is on a street railway company to show that the Corporation Commission, in its judgment, had found it unnecessary to enforce the provisions of this section, requiring the use of “practical fenders” on their street cars, in an action to recover damages caused by its negligence in not using them. Smith v. Charlotte Elec. Ry. Co., 173 N. C. 489, 92 S. E. 382.

Exemption of All Companies Unauthorized.—This section does not authorize an exemption of all the street railway companies by the Corporation Commission, as this amounts to a suspension of the statute. Henderson v. Durham Traction Co., 132 N. C. 779, 44 S. E. 598.

Evidence.—In an action for the killing of a dog by a street car, it is not competent to show the condition of the fenders on particular cars other than the one by which the dog was killed, it being shown that the fenders were different on different cars. Moore v. Electric Ry., etc., Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822.

Art. 15. Electric Interurban Railways.

§ 60-143. Organization.—Any electric interurban railway company, whether organized under the laws of this or any other State, may construct, maintain and operate electric interurban railways and engage in business in this State. (1927, c. 33, s. 1.)

§ 60-144. Right of eminent domain.—Any such company may exercise the right of eminent domain under the provisions of chapter forty and acts amendatory thereof, and for the purpose of constructing its roads and other works, shall have the powers given railroad corporations by this chapter, and acts amendatory thereof, except that no such company when organized under the laws of another state shall operate any part of its line of railway in this State by steam motive power, or as a part of a general steam railroad system of transportation. (1927, c. 33, s. 2.)

§ 60-145. Status defined.—All such companies shall be deemed public service corporations and shall be subject to the laws of this State regulating such corporations. (1927, c. 33, s. 3.)

Art. 16. Pipe Line Companies.

§ 60-146. Right of eminent domain conferred upon pipe line companies; other rights.—Any pipe line company transporting or conveying natural gas, gasoline, crude oil, or other fluid substances by pipe line for the public for compensation, and incorporated under the laws of the State of North Carolina, may exercise the right of eminent domain under the provisions of chapter forty and acts amendatory thereof, and for the purpose of constructing and maintaining its pipe lines and other works shall have all the rights and powers given railroads and other corporations by chapters fifty-six and sixty and acts amendatory thereof, provided the pipe lines of such companies transporting or conveying natural gas, gasoline, crude oil, or other fluid substances shall originate within this state. Nothing herein shall prohibit any such pipe line company granted the right of eminent domain under the laws of this state from extending its pipe lines from within this state into another state for the purpose of transporting natural gas into this state, nor to prohibit any such pipe line company from conveying or transporting natural gas, gasoline, crude oil, or other fluid substances from within this state into another state. All such pipe lines companies shall be deemed public service companies and shall be subject to the laws of this state regulating such corporations. (1937, c. 280.)

Cross Reference.—As to supervision by the utilities commission, see § 69-30.

Editor's Note.—Both chapters 108 and 280 of the Public Laws 1937, apply only to pipe lines originating in North Carolina. Chapter 108 amends § 40-2. See 15 N. C. L. Rev. 364.
§ 61-1. Trustees may be appointed and removed.—The conference, synod, convention or other ecclesiastical body representing any church or religious denomination within the state, as also the religious societies and congregations within the state, may from time to time and at any time appoint in sufficient manner as such body, society or congregation may deem proper, a suitable number of persons as trustees for such church, denomination, religious society, or congregation. The body appointing may remove such trustees or any of them, and fill all vacancies caused by death or otherwise. (Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796, c. 457, ss. 1, 2; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76; C. S. 3568.)

Applies Only to Religious Societies.—This section applies only to religious societies and not to educational institutions. (Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796, c. 457, ss. 1, 2; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76; C. S. 3568.)

Society May Remove Trustee.—Under the provisions of this section, a religious society may remove a trustee of church property who proves faithless to his trust, and may remove trustees at will. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 550, 14 S. E. 77.

Same—Trustee May Maintain Action.—A duly appointed trustee of a religious society may maintain an action for the removal of faithless or incompetent trustees, and compel them to convey the property held by them to the purposes for which it was designed, and such trustee may also maintain an action to set up a lost deed executed for the benefit of the cestui que trust. Nash v. Sutton, 117 N. C. 231, 23 S. E. 178.

Same—Member May Maintain Action.—In the absence of competent trustee and a governing body authorized to appoint trustees, any member of a religious society has such a beneficial interest as will enable him, in behalf of fellow members, to maintain such action as may be necessary to protect their common interest. Nash v. Sutton, 109 N. C. 559, 14 S. E. 77.

Same—Section Not Affected by Church Rule.—A church has authority to appoint a "suitable number" of its own trustees for the purpose of acquiring and holding church property, and remove them or any of them at will, and where the congregational regulations of the denomination with which a church is affiliated has provided a notice to be given for the trial of "offenses," it does not apply to the election or removal of trustees nor take from the church its rights when in conflict with the statutes. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 72 S. E. 617.

When All Trustees Are Dead.—Upon the death of the last survivor of a board of trustees named in a deed for property to be used as a "Baptist church and for the education of the youth of the colored race," it was held that their successors, under section 45-9, by the clerk of the court. Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

Voluntary Withdrawal of Members.—What amounts to a voluntary withdrawal of members from a religious association is a question of law. Perry v. Tupper, 74 N. C. 722.

§ 61-2. Trustees may hold property.—The trustees and their successors have power to receive donations, and to purchase, take and hold property, real and personal, in trust for such church or denomination, religious society or congregation; and they may sue or be sued in all proper actions, for or on account of the donations and property so held or claimed by them; and for and on account of any matters relating thereto. They shall be accountable to the churches, denominations, societies and congregations for the use and management of such property, and shall render to it any person authorized to demand it. (Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796, c. 457, ss. 1, 3; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76; C. S. 3569.)

Cross References.—As to charitable trusts generally, see §§ 36-39 et seq. As to certain religious associations presumed to be incorporated, see §§ 55-13.

Applies Only to Property Held for Religious Purposes.—This section does not apply to property held or acquired not for religious purposes and not to property held in trust for a "Baptist church and for the education of the youth of the colored race." Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

General Capacity of Acquisition.—Religious societies or their trustees have not a general capacity of acquisition; they can only take for the use of the society. Trustees v. Dickens, 12 N. C. 189.

And by a conveyance to trustees, for purposes forbidden by the policy of the law, nothing passes. Trustees v. Dickens, 12 N. C. 189.

Original Trustees May Sue though Not Legally Appointed.—Where a conveyance is made to three persons for a certain tract of land, as trustees for a church, a suit of trespass may be brought by them against the wrongdoers, in which they may have a right to recover. Rountree v. Blount, 129 N. C. 550, 52 S. E. 77.

Same—Mortgage Property.—A congregation taking possession of a church cannot contest the validity of a mortgage given by the trustees for the purchase money on the ground that it was ultra vires. Rountree v. Blount, 129 N. C. 550, 52 S. E. 77.

Same—Parties to Enforce Bequest.—Where a testator provides for building a fence around a certain chapel cemetery, the trustees of the chapel are the proper parties to require the executor to perform this provision. Cabe v. Vanhook, 127 N. C. 424, 37 S. E. 404.

Same—Can Not Recover for Individual Suffering.—In suit by the trustees of a church against a railroad company for the improper use of its terminal or depot at or near the manse of the church, no recovery can be had for any physical suffering upon the part of their pastor, his family, or the individuals engaged in the church work. Cabe v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 145 N. C. 400, 59 S. E. 129.

Title Vested Individually.—The title to church property is vested in the trustees individually and they may recover at law, though in the writ and declaration they style themselves "trustees." Walker v. Fawcett, 29 N. C. 44.

Church Has Right to Use of Property.—A church of the congregational system having elected certain trustees to succeed several therebefore elected, holds the church property through those trustees later elected, and has the right to the use of the church for religious services without molestation from the trustees removed, or from its conference. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 550, 72 S. E. 617.

Interest of Individual Member.—An individual member of a religious society has an equitable interest in the property held by the society. Nash v. Sutton, 117 N. C. 231, 23 S. E. 178.
Title Not in Controversy in Contest between Trustees.—In a contest between two committees, each claiming to be the rightful board of trustees, to hold the same title in trust, and in the absence of facts to establish the contrary in controversy. Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

Levy on Communion Service.—A communion service of a church is not liable to seizure and sale under an execution by a pastor for salary due him. Lord v. Hardie, 82 N. C. 241.

Liability of Trustees.—The trustees of a church are liable for material ordered by one of their number and used in building the church although the order was not authorized. Tull v. Trustees, 75 N. C. 424. But the building committee of a church is not liable for injuries received by a workman from their negligence in the construction of a church. Paine v. Forney, 128 N. C. 237, 58 S. E. 885.

No Trust Created.—The recital in a deed conveying land to the vestry and wardens of a church that it was made "for the purpose of aiding in the establishment of a Home for In- digent Widows or Orphans, or in the promotion of any other charitable or religious objects to which the property might be appropriated" by the grantee, creates no trust, and the grantee can convey a perfect title. St. James v. Bagley, 138 N. C. 384, 50 S. E. 841.

Doctrine of Cy-Près Not Applicable.—In the case of devises for charitable purposes, a devisee will not obtain in this State. Bridges v. Pleasant, 39 N. C. 26.

§ 61-3. Title to lands vested in trustees, or in societies.—All glebes, lands and tenements, here-tofore purchased, given, or devised for the support of any particular ministry, or mode of worship, and all churches and other houses built for the purpose of public worship, and all lands and donations of any kind of property or estate that have been or may be given, granted or devised to any church or religious denomination, religious society or congregation within the State for their respective use, shall be and remain forever to the use and occupancy of that church or denomination, society or congregation for which the glebes, lands, tenements, property and estate were so purchased, given, granted or devised, or for which such churches, chapels or other houses of worship were so built; and the estate therein shall be deemed and held to be absolutely vested, as between the parties thereto, in the trustees respectively of such churches, denominations, societies and congregations, for their several uses, according to the intent expressed in the conveyance, gift, grant or will; and in case there shall be no trustees, then in such churches, denominations, societies and congregations, respectively, according to such intent. (Rev., s. 2672; Code, s. 3665; R. C., c. 97, s. 1; 1776, c. 107: 1796, c. 457, s. 4; C. S. 3570.)

Cross Reference.—See notes to the preceding section.

Exception.—An individual member of an individual congregation under the congregational system is discussed in Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 526, 72 S. E. 617; and the connectional system is discussed in Kerr v. Hicks, 154 N. C. 565, 600, 117 S. E. 527, 528; Bridges v. Penn, 154 N. C. 524, 242, 26 S. E. 29; Gold v. Cozart, 173 N. C. 612, 614, 92 S. E. 600; Simmons v. Allison, 118 N. C. 763, 770, 24 S. E. 716.

No Legal Provision for Diffusing Christianity.—There is no provision in our laws for donations, to be employed in any general system of diffusing the knowledge of Christianity throughout the earth. Bridges v. Pleasant, 39 N. C. 26.

 Applies Only to Religious Societies.—This section applies only to religious societies and not to educational institutions. Allen v. Baskerville, 124 N. C. 126, 127, 31 S. E. 383.

Specific Trust Must Be Imperative.—A specific trust will not be superimposed upon a title conveyed to a religious congregation, authorizing the courts to interfere and control the management and disposition of the property, unless this is the clear intent of the grantor expressed in language which should be construed as imperative. Hayes v. Franklin, 141 N. C. 359, 54 S. E. 423.

Perpetuity Must Be Preserved.—A bequest for religious charity must, in this State, be to some definite purpose, and to some body or association of persons having a legal existence and with capacity to take. Bridges v. Pleasant, 39 N. C. 26.

Division of Devised Property.—Where a will devises certain lands to the diocese of a church and afterwards the diocese was divided into two dioceses the land becomes the property of both and not that of the diocese in which the land happens to be or is to be or will be. Clark v. Clark, 110 N. C. 364, 14 S. E. 902. Trustees v. Trustees, 102 N. C. 442, 9 S. E. 310.

Title by Adverse Possession.—A church holding real property for a hundred years, and using it for religious purposes, acquires a fee-simple title by adverse possession, independent of the validity of its deed. Gold v. Cozart, 173 N. C. 612, 92 S. E. 600.

Amount Insufficient.—A provision in a will that a church is to be built from certain funds will not fail because there is not sufficient amount of the funds to build a church as large as directed in the testator. Paine v. Forney, 128 N. C. 237, 58 S. E. 885.

No Trust Created.—The recital in a deed conveying land to the vestry and wardens of a church that it was made "for the purpose of aiding in the establishment of a Home for In- digent Widows or Orphans, or in the promotion of any other charitable or religious objects to which the property might be appropriated" by the grantee, creates no trust, and the grantee can convey a perfect title. St. James v. Bagley, 138 N. C. 384, 50 S. E. 841.

Doctrine of Cy-Près Not Applicable.—In the case of devises for charitable purposes, a devisee will not obtain in this State. Bridges v. Pleasant, 39 N. C. 26.

§ 61-4. Trustees may convey property.—The trustees of any religious body may mortgage or sell and convey in fee simple any land owned by such body, when directed so to do by such church, congregation, society or denomination, or its committee, board or body having charge of its finances, and all such conveyances so made or hereafter made, or hereafter to be made, shall be effective to the land so conveyed to the purchaser or to the mortgagee, to the same extent in such conveyances or mortgage expressed; and they may sell or mortgage its personal property. (Rev., s. 2673; 1855, c. 384; 1889, c. 484; C. S. 3571.)

Sale to Promote Testator's Purpose.—Where a testator devised lands to the trustees of a certain church, "to be held by them as a rectory or residence for the ministers of said church; that the same shall not be disposed of, sold, or used in any other way or for any other purpose than the one designated," the trustees might sell the property if the purpose declared would be promoted thereby; or the court might order a sale under its general equity power. Church v. Angel, 161 N. C. 314, 77 S. E. 239.

Same.—Lease of Part of Property.—Where land was conveyed to a church for the purpose of maintaining a church for worship, the court will not restrain the officers of the church from leasing a small portion of the lot for erecting a store. Hayes v. Franklin, 141 N. C. 359, 54 S. E. 423.

§ 61-5. Authority of bishops, ministers, etc., to acquire, hold and transfer property; prior transfers validated.—Notwithstanding the laws, rules, or ecclesiastical polity of any church or religious sect, society or denomination, commits to its duly elected or appointed bishop, minister or other ecclesiastical officer, authority to administer its affairs, such duly elected or appointed bishop, minister or other ecclesiastical officer shall have power to acquire by gift, purchase or otherwise, and to hold, improve, mortgage, sell and convey the property, real or personal, of any such church or religious sect, society or denomination, for the purposes, in the manner and otherwise as authorized and permitted by its laws, rules or ecclesiastical polity; and in the event of the transfer, removal, resignation or death of any such bishop, minister or other ecclesiastical officer, the title and all rights with respect to any such property shall pass to and become vested in his duly elected or appointed successor immediately upon appointment or election, and pending appointment or election of such successor, such title and all rights shall be vested in such person or persons as shall be designated by the laws, rules or ecclesiastical polity of such church or religious sect, society or denomination.

All deeds, deeds of trust, mortgages, wills or other instruments made prior to March 24, 1939, [637] to or by a duly elected or appointed bishop, minister or other ecclesiastical officer, who, at the time of the making of any such deed, deed of trust, mortgage, will or other instrument, or thereafter, had authority to administer the affairs of any church, religious sect, society or denomination under its laws, rules or ecclesiastic polity, transferring property, real or personal, of any such church or religious sect, society or denomination, are hereby ratified and declared valid; and all transfers of title and rights with respect to property, prior to March 24, 1939, from a predecessor bishop, minister or other ecclesiastical officer who has resigned or died, or has been transferred or removed, to his duly elected or appointed successor, by the laws, rules or ecclesiastic polity of any such church, or religious sect, society or denomination, either by written instruments or solely by virtue of the election or appointment of such successor, are also hereby ratified and declared valid.

This section shall not affect vested rights, or repeal any of the provisions of §§ 61-1 to 61-4, or of §§ 36-21 to 36-23. (1939, c. 177.)

§ 61-6. House on vacant land vests title.—All houses and edifices erected for public religious worship on vacant lands, or on lands of the state not for other purposes intended or appropriated, together with two acres adjoining the same, shall hereafter be held and kept sacred for divine worship, to and for the use of the society by which the same was originally established. (Rev., s. 2674; Code, s. 5666; R. C., c. 97, s. 2; 1778, c. 132, s. 6; C. S. 3572.)

Art. 1. Organization of the Commission.

§ 62-1. Number and appointment of commissioners; terms.—The North Carolina utilities commission shall consist of three commissioners, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the consent of the senate. The term of office of each commissioner shall be six years, provided that the first three commissioners shall be appointed one for a term of six years, one for a term of four years, and one for a term of two years, and their successors shall be appointed for a term of six years. (1941, c. 97, s. 2.)

§ 62-2. Salaries of commissioners.—The salary of the commissioners shall be as follows: chairman, six thousand and six hundred dollars ($6,600.00) per annum; commissioners, six thousand dollars ($6,000.00) each per annum; and the term of office for each commissioner shall begin on the first day of February, beginning with one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, provided, however, that the two commissioners to be named to new commission; chairman.—The president by the utilities commission and subject to the performance of the duties and functions of said commission, to hold such office during his term. The utilities commission shall be allowed such stenographic and other clerical assistance as it may require on any document, such seal so adopted by the courts therein will take judicial notice. Staton v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 135, 56 S. E. 794.

§ 62-5. Clerical assistance.—The utilities commission shall be allowed such stenographic and other clerical assistance as it may require for the performance of the duties and functions of the said office, to be established and fixed by such department, bureau, or other state agency as may be charged by law with the duty of determining the extent of such assistance in said departments; all such stenographers, clergers, and assistants and special investigators so provided for to be appointed by the utilities commission and subject to removal or discharge by it. The salaries and compensation of such clerical assistants, special investigators, or other office force as may be allowed in the office of the utilities commission shall be fixed in the manner as now provided by law for fixing and regulating the salaries and compensation by other state departments. (1933, c. 134, s. 14; 1941, c. 97.)

Cross Reference.—As to determination of extent of assistance and regulation of salaries of stenographers, see § 143-26 and § 143-37.

§ 62-6. To report annually to governor.—It shall be the duty of the commission to make to the governor annual reports of its transactions, and recommend from time to time such legislation as it may deem advisable under the provisions of this chapter, and the governor shall have one thousand copies of such report printed for distribution. (Rev., s. 1117; 1899, c. 164, s. 27; 1911, c. 211, s. 9, 1913, c. 10, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1065.)

§ 62-7. To keep record of receipts and disbursements.—The commission shall keep a record showing in detail all receipts and disbursements. (Rev., s. 1115; 1899, c. 164, s. 34; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1063.)

§ 62-8. To pay fees and money into treasury.—All license fees and seal tax and all other fees paid into the office of the utilities commission shall be turned into the state treasury; also all moneys received from fines and penalties. (Rev., s. 1114, 1899, c. 164, ss. 26, 33; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1064.)

§ 62-9. Adoption and use of seal; certificate.—The North Carolina Utilities Commission shall adopt a seal; and in all cases where a seal is required on any document, such seal so adopted by the utilities commission shall be sufficient; and whenever any record, paper, or document is required to be certified or evidenced by the certificate of the utilities commission or its chief clerk or wherever any act or thing is required or permitted to be evidenced by such certificate, the certificate shall be made by the utilities commission. (1933, c. 134, s. 15; 1941, c. 97, s. 7.)

§ 62-10. Public record of proceedings; chief clerk.—The utilities commission shall keep in its office at all times a record of its official acts, rulings, and transactions, which shall be public records of the state of North Carolina, and all rulings and determinations of said commission upon matters and things authorized to be passed upon by this chapter, and shall have and appoint a chief clerk, who shall be experienced in railroad and other public utilities statistics, transportation and public-service charges, and whose term of office shall be for a period of two years, and he shall file with the secretary of state the oath of office similar to that prescribed for the utilities commission. The utilities commission shall have power to remove such clerk for cause at any time. (1933, c. 134, s. 13; 1941, c. 97.)

Art. 2. Procedure before the Commission.

§ 62-11. Commission constituted court of record.—For the purpose of making investigations and conducting hearings, the utilities commission is hereby constituted a court of record and shall have all the powers and jurisdiction of a court of general jurisdiction as to all subjects embraced within this chapter. The commissioners and their clerks shall have full power to administer oaths, hear and take evidence, and said commission or commissioners shall render their decisions upon questions of law and of fact as other courts of similar jurisdiction. (1933, c. 134, s. 9; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-12. Rules of practice.—The North Carolina utilities commission hereby created shall formulate and promulgate rules of practice, including rules for hearings by one or more members of the commission, provided that as to any hearing before less than a majority of the commission, the rules shall provide for a proposed report, exceptions to said report, and a final hearing before a majority of the commission upon the record, including the exceptions. (1941, c. 97, s. 6; 1943, c. 788, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment omitted provisions relating to hearings before employees of the commission.

§ 62-13. Witnesses; production of papers; contempt. — The utilities commission shall have the same power to compel the attendance of witnesses, require the examination of persons and parties, and compel the production of books and papers, as is provided for contempt, as by law is conferred upon the superior courts. (Rev., s. 1067; 1899, c. 164, ss. 1, 9, 10; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1906.)

Cross References.—As to attendance of witnesses, see § 8-59 to § 8-64. As to contempt, see §§ 5-1 et seq.

§ 62-14. Refusal of witness to testify.—If any person duly summoned to appear and testify before the utilities commission shall fail or refuse to testify without lawful excuse, or shall refuse to answer any proper question propounded to him by said commission in the discharge of its duty, or shall conduct himself in a rude, disrespectful or disorderly manner before said commission deliberating in the discharge of its duty, such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than one thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 2691; 1899, c. 164, s. 10; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1091.)

§ 62-15. Rules of evidence.—In all cases under the provisions of this chapter the rules of evidence shall be the same as in civil actions, except as provided by this chapter. (Rev., s. 1069; 1899, c. 164, s. 96; C. S. 1089.)

Cross References.—As to rules of evidence generally, see §§ 8-1 et seq.

Rule Same as in Civil Actions.—The section provides that the rules of evidence shall be the same as in civil actions. The question presented is whether the provisions of the section, as alleged as the basis for the relief sought, unless the respondent admits them or fails to answer. In case of failure to answer, the Commission will take such proof of the charge as may be deemed reasonable and proper, and make such order thereon as the circumstances of the case appear to require. Subpoenas will issue requiring the attendance of witnesses or the production of books, papers, documents, etc., relating to any matter pending before the Commission. And depositions may be taken in any cause at issue, 2 N. C. Law Rev. 74.

§ 62-16. Subpoenas; issuance; service. — All subpoenas for witnesses to appear before the commission, and notice to persons or corporations, shall be issued by the commission or its clerk and be directed to any sheriff, constable or to the marshal of any city or town, who shall execute the same and make due return thereof as directed therein, under the penalties prescribed by law for a failure to execute and return the process of any court. (Rev., s. 1070; 1899, c. 164, s. 10; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1094.)

Cross Reference.—As to penalty upon sheriff for failing to execute and return process, see § 162-14.

§ 62-17. Service of orders.—The clerk of the commission may serve any notice issued by it, and his return thereof shall be evidence of said service; and it shall be the duty of the sheriffs and other officers to serve any process, subpoenas and notices issued by the commission, and they shall be entitled therefor to the same fees as are prescribed by law for serving similar papers issuing from the superior court. (Rev., s. 1071; 1899, c. 164, s. 9; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1093.)

Cross Reference.—As to sheriffs fees, see § 162-6.

§ 62-18. Undertakings.—All bonds or undertakings required to be given by any of the provisions of this chapter shall be payable to the state of North Carolina, and may be sued on as are other undertakings which are payable to the state. (Rev., s. 1072; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; C. S. 1096.)

§ 62-19. Judgments of commission.—The Utilities Commission shall hear and determine such matter, thing, or controversy in dispute, pass upon and determine the issues of law involved therein, and make and promulgate their findings and conclusions thereon as the judgment of the said utilities commission. From the decision of said utilities commission any party to said proceeding may appeal to the superior court at term as designated in and under the rules of procedure required by §§ 62-20 to 62-25, said appeal to be prosecuted and the said matter and controversy thereon to be heard and disposed of as is now provided by law, and upon such appeal being taken, it shall be the duty of the utilities commission to certify its decision and rulings to the said superior court as now provided by law. (1933, c. 134, s. 12; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-20. Right of appeal; how taken.—From all decisions or determinations made by the utilities commission, any party affected thereby shall be entitled to an appeal. Before such party shall be allowed to appeal, he shall, within ten days after notice of such decision or determination, file with the commission exceptions to the decision or determination of the commission, which exceptions shall state the grounds of objection to such decision or determination. If any one of such exceptions shall be overruled, then such party may appeal from the order overruling the exceptions, and shall, within ten days after the decision overruling the exception, give notice of his appeal. When an exception is made and the case as found by the commission, the appeal shall be to the superior court in term time; otherwise to the judge of the superior court at chambers. The party appealing shall, within ten days after the notice of appeal has been served, file with the commission exceptions to the decision or determination overruling the exception, which statement shall assign the errors complained of and the grounds of the appeal. Upon the filing of such statement the commission shall, within ten days, transmit all the papers and evidence considered by it, together with the assignment of errors filed by the appellant, to a judge of the superior court holding court at some place in the district in which such company operates or the party resides. If there be no exceptions to any facts as found by the commission, it shall be heard by the judge at chambers at some place in the district, of which all parties shall have ten days notice. (Rev., s. 1074; 1899, c. 161, ss. 7, 28; 1903, c. 126; 1907, c. 469, s. 6; 1913, c. 127, s. 4; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1097.)

Right Confined to Parties.—The section distinctly confines the right of appeal to a party to the proceeding. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 550, 87 S. E. 783.

Appeal Limited to Party.—The right of appeal, conferred by this section, is limited to a party to the proceedings. For purposes of appeal, those who have no property or interest in the proceeding or who are not parties by law are not thereby made parties. A party may appeal from any decision of any administrative agency within the state when the order is adverse to it or the interest it represents, when the order is made by an administrative agency of the state, and from the final decision of such agency, unless the decision is final in its nature. N. GC. 560, 87 S. E. 785.

From all decisions or determinations made by the Corporation [now Utilities] Commission any party affected thereby is entitled to appeal, and from a decision of the corporation any party affected thereby is entitled to appeal. C. S. 1097. Sections 619. For purposes of appeal, those who have no property or interest in the proceeding are not such parties. An appeal by those who have no property or interest, if not properly taken, will be dismissed by the court, for the reason that said persons who are not parties to the proceeding will be entitled to an appeal, must necessarily mean persons who are not parties to the proceeding.

WHO ARE NOT PARTIES.—Citizens seeking to have a railroad company, etc., order set aside, for the reason that said order is adverse to it or the interest it represents, when the order is made by a railroad company from an order of the Commission is removable from the superior court of the state to an inferior federal tribunal, upon the ground of diverse citizenship. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Southern R. Coz 197 N. C. 193, 195 S. E. 19, citing S. v. R. R., 161 N. C. 270, 76 S. E. 554.

Right Confined to Parties.—The section distinctly confines the right of appeal to a party to the proceeding. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 550, 87 S. E. 783.

Notice.—When notice of appeal to the superior court is given to the Commission by a railroad company, and other requirements of the section relating thereto have been met by the company, it is sufficient without giving notice of the appeal to the complaining party in the proceedings had before the Commission, as upon this appeal the statute makes the Commission the party plaintiff. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Southern Ry. Co., 170 N. C. 550, 87 S. E. 785.

Same.—Mandatory.—The statutory notice of an appeal by a railroad company from an order of the Commission is mandatory and cannot be extended by the consent of the parties of record. State v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 177 S. E. 563.

Same.—De Novo.—And there the trial will be de novo, and from thence only will a further appeal lie to the Supreme Court, governed by the rule that it must not be fragmentary, but shall be upon the record made within a reasonable time at its own instance. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Jurisdiction of Superior Court.—Disability.—The jurisdiction of the superior court with respect to the trial of law and fact on appeal under this section is derivative and not original, and therefore if the Commission was without jurisdiction of the proceeding in which the order was made, from which the appeal was taken, because of the absence of a necessary party, or upon any other ground, the superior Court is likewise without jurisdiction, and the proceeding pending therein, shall be dismissed by the superior court. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 191, 145 S. E. 19. Hearing on Appeal.—Upon appeal by a party to a proceeding before the Corporation Commission from an order made therein under §§ 62-42 and 62-43, the Superior Court has jurisdiction to try and determine both issues of law and issues of fact, duly presented by assignment of errors. Upon the filing of such exceptions daily taken by the appellant during the hearing before the Commission. The trial of such issues by the Superior Court is de novo. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 191, 145 S. E. 19, citing S. v. R. R., 161 N. C. 270, 76 S. E. 554.

This and the next following section do not contain any provision that the findings of fact by the utilities commission shall be conclusive on appeal. State v. Willis Barber, etc., State v. Burns, 219 N. C. 13, 15, 161 S. E. 721.

Same.—Diverse Citizenship.—Assuming that the mere fact that an order of the Commission made to compel the carrier to increase the fares charged for passengers by a street railway company, etc., for the purpose of increasing the public revenue, because of the increased cost of operation, to promote the convenience, security and accommodation of the public would be an invasion of interstate commerce, it does not transform the proceedings in issue out of a suit raised by the exceptions, and, as such, removable from the superior court of the state to an inferior federal tribunal, upon the ground of diverse citizenship. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Southern R. Co., 170 N. C. 560, 87 S. E. 785.

Removal to Federal Courts.—In proceedings for the removal of a cause from the state to the federal courts upon the question of diversity of citizenship under the federal jurisdiction applicable, the state court is not bound to surrender its orders and decrees by final process issuing directly therefrom, and for such purpose resort must be had to ordinary courts, either by independent proceedings or by process issued in cases carried before such courts on appeal. State v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 483, 61 S. E. 271.

Removal of Franchise Restriction as to Carriage of Passengers.—This section authorizes a petitioner to appeal from the order of the utilities commission on its petition for the removal from its franchise of a restriction in regard to the carriage of passengers, and the contention that no appeal lies from the decision, because the right of appeal is governed by the motor carrier laws authorizing an appeal from an order affecting franchise only when entered for violation of law, is untenable. State v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 216 N. C. 225, 4 S. E. (2d) 897.

Petitioner has the right to appeal to the superior court from the denial of its petition for the removal from its franchise of a restriction prohibiting it from transporting passengers between two cities along its route in purely local traffic between the said cities. State v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 216 N. C. 225, 4 S. E. (2d) 897.

Same.—Mandatory.—The statutory notice of an appeal by a railroad company from an order of the Commission is mandatory and cannot be extended by the consent of the parties of record. State v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 177 S. E. 563.

To Superior Court.—Appeal from the Commission must be to the superior court. Pate v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 137 N. C. 269, 72 S. E. 334.

Same.—De Novo.—And there the trial will be de novo, and from thence only will a further appeal lie to the Supreme Court, governed by the rule that it must not be fragmentary, but shall be upon the record made within a reasonable time at its own instance. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Jurisdiction of Superior Court.—Disability.—The jurisdiction of the superior court with respect to the trial of law and fact on appeal under this section is derivative and not original, and therefore if the Commission was without jurisdiction of the proceeding in which the order was the same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the trial of other civil causes, except that the rates fixed or the decision or determination made by the commission shall be prima facie just and reasonable. (Rev., s. 1075; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1098.)

Preliminary.—The provision of this section that the decision of the utilities commissioner shall be deemed final and conclusive upon the evidence, and that the right of appeal is confined to the superior court, and the right to appeal is of course confined to the party to the proceeding. North Carolina Corp. v. United States, 161 N. C. 270, 76 S. E. 554.

Issues of Fact.—While on appeal from the denial of a petition to remove certain restrictions from petitioner's franchise, the point at issue is the reasonableness of the commissioner's order which is a question of law, nevertheless the reasonableness of the order depends upon the attendant facts, and exceptions to the commissioner's findings as to which his order is predicated, raise issues of fact for the determination of the jury. State v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 213 N. C. 233, 10 S. E. (2d) 824.

Petitioner filed petition requesting the removal from its franchise of a restriction prohibiting it from transporting passengers between two cities along its route in purely local traffic between the cities. The utilities commissioner denied the petition upon his findings, among others, that the present service between the two cities furnished by another carrier is ample, that there was no necessity for permitting petitioner to furnish service between the two cities and that the removal of the restriction was not demanded by the public interest. Held: The exceptions raise issues of fact, and exceptions to the commissioner's findings upon the party appealing from the decision, but even if this section should be construed to raise a presumption of fact, an instruction that the findings and decision of the utilities commissioner shall be deemed prima facie just and reasonable gives the appellee the benefit of a presumption of fact when the evidence plainly indicates that the right of appeal is confined to the superior court by appeal. State v. Southern R. Co., 170 N. C. 560, 561, 87 S. E. 785.

Right Confined to State and Corporation.—The section plainly indicates that the right of appeal is confined to the state and the corporation whose legal rights are affected by the commissioner's order. North Carolina Corp. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 560, 561, 87 S. E. 785.

Direct Appeal Does Not Lie.—An appeal will not lie directly from the Commission to the Supreme Court. North Carolina Corp. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 560, 561, 87 S. E. 785.

Judgment of superior court not vacated by appeal.—Any freight or passenger rates fixed by the commission, when approved or confirmed by the judgment of the superior court, shall be and remain the established rates, and shall be so observed and regarded by an appealing corporation until the same shall be changed, revised or modified by the final judgment of the supreme court, if there shall be an appeal therefrom, and until changed by the utilities commission. (Rev., s. 1079; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1101.)

Irrelevant Evidence.—In a case wherein a union passenger depot had been ordered by the Commission it was reversible error in the superior court, on appeal from the Commission, for the trial judge to admit evidence as to the effect the relocation would have on property values in a near-by town, where the present station of one of the roads is located. State v. Seaboard Air Line, etc., R. Co., 161 N. C. 270, 75 S. E. 554.

Appeal Heard at Chambers by Consent.—By consent of all parties the appeal may be heard and determined at chambers before any judge of a district through or into which the railroad may extend, or any judge holding court therein, or in which the person or company does business. (Rev., s. 1076; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; C. S. 1099.)

corporation affected thereby fails to put said order in operation, the utilities commission may apply to the judge riding the superior court district which embraces Wake County, or to the resident judge of said district sitting at chambers, upon ten days notice, for a peremptory mandamus upon said corporation for the putting in force of said judgment or order; and if said judge shall find that the order of said commission was valid and within the scope of its powers, he shall issue such peremptory mandamus. An appeal shall lie to the supreme court in behalf of the utilities commission, or the defendant corporation, from the refusal or granting of such peremptory mandamus. (Rev. c. 1911, c. 97; C. S. 1103.)

Mandamus to Enforce Final Order.—Where the commission has ordered two railroad companies to erect a union depot at a junction after a hearing upon the petition of the citizens of the town, and the railroads have lost or waived their statutory right to appeal, such order is regarded as a final judgment, to enforce them or to compel the execution of the final order upon failure of the railroads except and appeal therefrom is the remedy authorized by the section. State v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 117 S. E. 271.

Independent Proceedings for Mandamus.—Under this section an appeal may be had by independent proceedings for mandamus to enforce a valid order from which no appeal has been taken. State v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 483, 488, 61 S. E. 271.

Orders of Commission Are Not Judgments.—The commission makes such order as the circumstances of the case justify, but these orders are not judgments of a court. The commission cannot issue execution to enforce them, they simply serve as the basis for judicial action in the superior court to enforce them or to punish their violation. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 785, 184 S. E. 393, 32 Am. St. Rep. 805; in Corporation Comm. v. Sea-board Air Line Railroad, 127 N. C. 283, 57 S. E. 266, and cases there cited. Among the federal decisions, this was asserted in Munn v. Illinois, 94 U. S. 113, 24 L. Ed. 77, and has been reiterated in numerous cases. See Rose's Notes, pp. 21-55. And in New York is stated in People v. Budd, 117 N. Y. 1, 5 L. R. A. 566, 51 Am. St. Rep. 460. See Corporation Comm. v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 1, 14, 49 S. E. 191.

Does Not Interfere with Interstate Commerce.—The Railroad Commission, as established by the Constitution and laws of this State and having been created solely in the public interest, and being concerned solely in domestic affairs and trade, did not interfere with interstate commerce. Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554.

§ 62-28. To make and enforce rules for public-service corporations. The utilities commission has power to make any necessary and proper rules, orders and regulations for the safety, comfort and convenience of passengers, shippers or patrons of any public-service corporation, and to require the observance of and to enforce the same by the company and its employees, such power being the same as that provided in this chapter in respect to railroads and other transportation companies. (1907, c. 469, s. 1a; 1913, c. 127, s. 2; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1037.)

Cross Reference.—As to duty of the utilities commission to enforce rules against companies, see § 60-608.

Legislative Intent.—There was no intention to give a schedule of the thousands of appliances used in handling the business of common carriers, nor to enumerate the countless powers between them and their patrons, which such Commission should supervise. The clearly declared purpose was to put the control and supervision of the whole matter in the hands of an impartial commission. Legislative History.—The power to make rules and regulations for the protection of the rights of appeal by either party, the shipper or the carrier, to the courts, including such dealing to the unrestricted will be by one party—the carrier. Corporation Comm. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 132, s. E. 793.

Power to Make Orders and Regulations.—The Commission is given power to make orders and regulations for the public utilities corporation. Tilley v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 77 S. E. 994.

§ 62-29. Express and implied powers.—The utilities commission shall have, exercise, and perform all the functions, powers, and duties, and have all the regulations, powers, and duties, and to perform all the functions, powers, and duties of the utilities commission, as may be necessary or incident to the proper discharge of the duties of this office. (1933, c. 134, s. 6; 1941, c. 97.)
§ 62-30. Supervisory powers.—Under the rules and regulations herein prescribed and subject to the limitations hereinafter set forth, the said utilities commission shall have general supervision over the rates charged and the service given, as follows, to wit:

(1) By railroads, street railways, steamboats, canals, express and sleeping-car companies, and all persons, firms or corporations engaged in the carrying of freight or passengers or otherwise engaged as common carriers;

(2) By telephone and telegraph companies and all other companies engaged in the transmission of messages, and by all firms and individuals owning or operating telephone or telegraph lines in the state;

(3) By electric light, power, and water companies, pipe lines originating in North Carolina for the transportation of petroleum products, and corporations, other than as such as are municipally owned or conducted, and all other companies, corporations, or individuals engaged in furnishing electricity, electric light current, power, or in transmitting or selling the same or producing the same from the water courses of this state: Provided, that the exemption given to municipally owned or conducted electric light, power, and water companies from supervision by the utilities commission shall not apply to municipally owned electric light or power systems which are leased to, and operated by private individuals, firms, or corporations.

(4) By all water power and hydroelectric companies or corporations now doing business in this state or which may hereafter engage in doing business in this state, whether organized under the laws of this state or under the laws of any other state or country, and such companies and corporations are deemed to be public-service companies and subject to the laws of this state regulating the same;

(5) By flume companies, corporations, other than municipal corporations, or individuals owning or operating public sewerage systems in the state of North Carolina;

And the said utilities commissioner is hereby vested under this section with all power necessary to require and compel any public utility or public-service corporation of the kinds herein designated or any other class of public utility to provide and furnish to the citizens of this state reasonable service of the kind it undertakes to furnish and fix and regulate the rates of service and charges to be made to the citizens of the state who may be entitled to use the same under such rules and regulations as may be lawfully prescribed.

The power of control and supervision vested in the commission under this section with respect to the various classes of public service corporations and individuals engaged in furnishing the public utilities mentioned shall be the same as that vested in it in respect to railroads and other transportation companies (1913, c. 127, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 3; 1937, c. 108, s. 2; 1941, cc. 59, 97; C. S. 1112(b.).)

Cross References.—As to municipal control of public utilities, see §§ 160-262 to 160-285. As to report from municipality operating own utilities, see § 62-99.

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment inserted the reference to pipe lines in subsection (3). The 1941 amendment added the proviso at the end of subsection (3).

This section supersedes the very similar § 62-30 of the Consolidated Statutes. The following cases, which were decided under that section, are given as an aid in construing the present law, but should be considered in the light of the former law.

General Considerations — Right of State to Regulate. — The right of the state to regulate the rates for public service corporations, and over business enterprises in which the owners, corporate or individual, have devoted their property to a public use, and to enforce these regulations by appropriate penalties, is now and for all time will be established to require or permit discussion. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 138, 59 S. E. 355, citing Harrill v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 532, 57 S. E. 383; Stone & Co. v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 230, 57 S. E. 912; Walker v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 168, 168, S. E. 473; McGowan v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 95 N. C. 417; Branch v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 140 N. C. 539, 54 L. Ed. 175; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Humes, 115 U. S. 513, 515, 6 S. Ct. 218, 240, 52 S. E. 941; Corporation Comm. v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 126, 44 L. Ed. 192, Chief Justice Fuller, quotes with approval from the decision in Orient Ins. Co. v. Dagg, 172 U. S. 557, 563, 19 L. Ed. 552: "The state in exercising the power to distinguish, select, and classify objects of legislation necessarily has a wide range of discretion; it was sufficient to satisfy the demands of the constitution if the classifications were practical and not palpably arbitrary.

Same—Classification Must Not Be Arbitrary.—An attempt to intrust or domesticate matters, the general assembly has the right to establish regulations for public service corporations and for business enterprises in which the owners have devoted their property to public use, and to apply these regulations to certain classes of occupations, in imposing these requirements equally on all members of a given class, the limitation of this right of classification being that the same must be on some rational ground that bears a just and proper relation to the attempted classification and is not a mere arbitrary selection. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 59 S. E. 355.

Same—Not a Federal Question.—Whether a regulation of a state railroad commission otherwise legal is arbitrary and beyond the power of the commission beyond the powers delegated to the commission is not a federal question. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Comm., 206 U. S. 1, 17 S. Ct. 585, 51 L. Ed. 933.

Same—Legislature May Regulate Directly or Indirectly.—Railroad companies from the public nature of the business by them carried on, and the interest which the public has in their operation, are subject as to their state business to state regulation, which may be exerted either directly by the legislative authority or by administrative bodies endowed with power to that end. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Comm., 206 U. S. 1, 17 S. Ct. 585, 51 L. Ed. 933.

Same—Rate Fixing Power May Be Delegated.—The general assembly has the power to establish a commission to supervise and regulate the rates of common carriers. Corporation Comm. v. Seaboard Air Line Railroad, 140 N. C. 239, 240, 52 S. E. 941; Corporation Comm. v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 114, et seq., 49 S. E. 191; Corporation Comm. v. Seaboard Air Line System, (Rate Case), 127 N. C. 283, 51 L. Ed. 952: "The state in exercising the power to distinguish, select, and classify objects of legislation necessarily has a wide range of discretion; it was sufficient to satisfy the demands of the constitution if the classifications were practical and not palpably arbitrary.

Same—Classification Must Not Be Arbitrary.—As to issuing regulations, the power of the state is not a federal question. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., ("Track Scales case"), 139 N. C. 126, 51 L. Ed. 952.

Same—When State May Regulate Interstate Commerce. —The power of Congress over commerce between the states is, as a general rule, exclusive, and its inaction is equivalent to a declaration that it shall be free from any restraint which it has the right to impose, except by such states as are passed by the states for the purpose of facilitating the free transmission of goods and carriage of passengers, and are not in conflict with any valid federal law. William & Maryland Const. Lim. 595; Mobile v. Kimball, 102 U. S. 691, 697, 26 L. Ed. 238; Wilson v. McNamara, 102 U. S. 572, 26 L. Ed. 234; Wilson v. Blackbird Creek Marsh Co., 2 Peters, 245, 7 L. § 62-31. Commission to keep itself informed as to utilities.—The said utilities commission shall at all times be able, and shall keep itself informed as to the public-service corporations heretibfore specified and enumerated, their rates and charges for service, and the service supplied to the citizens of the state and purposes therefor; and it shall at all times be empowered and required to inquire into such service and rates charged therefor, and to fix and determine as herein provided the reasonableness thereof, and upon petition or otherwise to make full inquiry into such rates and charges in behalf of the citizens of the state, and compel and require compliance with the regulations and charges, and final determination fixed therefor under the provisions of this article, and not to sustain any of these regulations otherwise than the public-service corporation, or any other corporation here- in designated, shall be allowed to increase its rate and charge for service, or change its classification in any manner whatsoever except upon petition duly filed with the utilities commission and inquiry held thereon and final determination of the reasonableness and the necessity of any such increase or change in classification or service; Provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent any public-service corporation under the jurisdiction of the commission from reducing its rates, either directly or by change in classification. (1933, c. 134, s. 16; 1937, c. 165; 1939, c. 365, ss. 1, 2; 1941, c. 97.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment changed the latter part of this section and repealed the 1937 amendment which had added a provision as to approval of rate increases in certain cases without a hearing. For a discussion of 1937 amendment, see 15 N. C. Law Rev. 205. For comment on the 1939 amendment, see 17 N. C. L. Rev. 374.

§ 62-32. To investigate companies and businesses under its control.—The commission shall from time to time visit the places of business, and investigate the books and papers of all corporations, firms or individuals engaged in the transportation of freight or passengers, the transmission of messages or in the furnishing of other public utilities, the supervision and control of which is vested in the utilities commission to ascertain if all the orders, rules and regulations of the utilities commission have been complied with, and shall have full power and authority to examine all officers, agents and employees of such corporations, firms or individuals, firms and other persons, under oath or otherwise, and to compel the production of papers and the attendance of witnesses to obtain the information necessary for carrying into effect and otherwise enforcing the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 1064; 1913, c. 127, ss. 1, 2, 7; 1917, c. 194; 1899, c. 164, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1060.)

§ 62-33. System of accounts.—The utilities commission may establish a system of accounts to be kept by the public utilities, under its jurisdiction, or may classify said public utilities and establish a system of accounts as between certain localities; and where the power to regulate is so arbitrarily exercised as to infringe the rights of the owner or lessee of railroad property, Southern R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Comm., 211 N. C. 109, 163 S. E. 694.

Where certain carriers by truck sought injunctive relief against railroad carriers for reduction in rates as to certain commodities, and as between certain localities, it was held that they had no legal right to have their contracts protected against lawful competition from railroad carriers, who could, under this section, reduce rates at will. Trujillo Motor Service Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 210 N. C. 35, 183 S. E. 479, 104 A. L. R. 1165.

§ 62-34. Reports.—The utilities commission shall at least once every twelve months require any public utility to file annual reports in such form and of such content as the commission may require and special reports concerning any matter about which the commission is authorized to inquire or to keep itself informed, or which is authorized to enforce. All reports shall be under oath when required by the commission. (1931, c. 455; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)
§ 62-33. Investigations. — The utilities commission may, on its own motion and whenever it may be necessary in the performance of its duties, investigate and examine the condition and management of public utilities or any particular utility. In conducting such investigation the commission may proceed either with or without a hearing as it may deem best, but shall make no order without affording the parties affected thereby a hearing. If after such an investigation, or investigation and hearing, the commission, in its discretion, is of the opinion that the public interest shall be more greatly conserved by an appraisal of any properties in question, the investigation of any particular construction, the audit of any accounts or books, the investigation of any contracts, or the practices, contracts or other relations between the utility in question and any holding or finance agency with which such public utility may be affiliated, it shall be the duty of the commission to report its findings and recommendation to the governor and council of state with request for an allotment from the emergency and continuity fund to defray such expense which may be granted as provided by law for expenditures from such fund or may be denied. (1931, c. 455; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-36. To fix rates for public utilities in cities. — The utilities commission shall have full power and authority to fix and establish any and all rates which any public-service or quasi public-service corporation other than railroads using steam as motive power shall charge or exact from any person, firm or corporation in any city for the services rendered or commodity furnished. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 3, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 2783.)

City's Charter Subject to State Powers. — The power conferred by its charter upon the city of Henderson "to provide water and lights and to contract for same, provide for cleaning and repairing the streets, regulate the market, take proper means to prevent and extinguish fires," is subject to the following rules, with the exception of the power charged under such contracts as the city may make under its charter by a public-service corporation. Corporation Comm. v. Henderson Water Co., 190 N. C. 70, 128 S. E. 465.

Contract Rate May Be Changed. — Although the rate to be charged is fixed by contract this may be changed by the Commission if it appears that the rate contracted for is too low, and the one fixed is just. The burden of proof is on the one alleging that the rate fixed by the Commission is unreasonable. Corporation Comm. v. Henderson Water Co., 196 N. C. 70, 128 S. E. 465.

Same—Rights of Party Relieved. — A public service corporation, having a contract with a city, applying to the commission for the increase of the rate contracted for with the city, and obtaining partial relief will not be granted an injunction by the Federal Court against the Commission on the grounds that the rate is confiscatory for such increase as is allowed. It is not inconsistent with the terms of the contract which has been received under the contract with the city had the Commission refused to act. Henderson Water Co. v. Corporation Comm., 186 U. S. 278, 46 S. Ct. 112, 70 L. Ed. 273.

§ 62-37. Manner of enforcing above regulations. — The North Carolina utilities commission shall have the power to require such improvements and extensions to the service of public-service corporations mentioned in § 62-36 as it may deem necessary after the investigation of any complaint of any person, corporation, or municipality as to the inadequacy of such service. Upon application being made, the utilities commission shall proceed to hear, pass on, and determine, in the manner prescribed by law, a just or reasonable rate or charge for the service or other commodity rendered or furnished; the hearing before the utilities commission shall be governed by the law as to the commission relating to the fixing of rates and rules and orders of the commission as to the enforcement thereof by the commission. The utilities commission shall have the same power and authority in hearing and passing on any matter or case under § 62-36, enforcing or fixing of rates, supervising and regulating said corporation or otherwise as they now have under the general law. The failure or refusal to conform to or obey any decision, rule, regulation, or order made in such cases by the utilities commission shall subject said public-utility corporation or quasi public-utility corporation refusing or failing to comply herewith to the penalties provided in this chapter. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 3, s. 2; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 2784.)

§ 62-38. Sections 62-36 and 62-37 not to affect existing power. — Nothing contained in §§ 62-36 and 62-37 shall be construed to deprive the utilities commission of the authority and power which it now has under the laws of North Carolina to supervise and regulate and fix the rates for public-utility corporations or quasi public-utility corporations or quasi public-service corporation other than railroads doing business in such city. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 3, s. 3; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 2785.)

§ 62-39. To require transportation and transmission companies to make a register. — The utilities commission has power to require all transportation and transmission companies to establish and maintain all such public-service facilities and conveniences as may be reasonable and just. It may require steamboat companies to provide such wharf and warehouse facilities as may be reasonable and just. (1907, c. 469, s. 2; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 52, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1038.)

§ 62-40. To authorize lumber companies to transport commodities. — The utilities commission has power to authorize lumber companies, having logging roads, to transport all kinds of commodities other than their own and passengers, and to charge therefor reasonable rates to be approved by the commission. (1915, c. 160, s. 1; 1915, c. 6; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1039.)

Establishing Joint Rate of Transportation. — A lumber company, chartered and organized for the purpose of transporting its own products, may be created a limited public carrier by the order of the Commission, under the provisions of this section. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 187 N. C. 424, 121 S. E. 767.

§ 62-41. To establish and regulate stations for freight and passengers. — The commission is empowered and directed to require, where the public necessity demands, and it is demonstrated that the revenue received will be sufficient to justify it, the establishment of stations by any company or corporation engaged in the transportation of freight and passengers in this state, and to require the erection of depot accommodations commensurate with such business and revenue, and to require the erection of accommodations for loading and unloading livestock and for feeding, sheltering and protecting the same in transportation. The commission shall not require any company or corporation to establish any station nearer to another station than five miles. (Rev. s. 1097; 1899, [ 647 ]
§ 62-42. To provide for union depots.—The commission is empowered and directed to require a change of any station or the repairing, addition to, or change of any station house by any railroad or other transportation company, in order to promote the security, convenience and accommodation of the public, and to require the raising or lowering of the track at any crossing when deemed necessary. (Rev. s. 1907; 1899, c. 164, s. 2, subsec. 13; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1940.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of utilities commission to regulate the building of shelters at railroad division points, see § 63-54.

Power to Require and Regulate Depots.—The Commission can order new depots established wherever they are needed, Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 131, 51 S. E. 793. The court or the jury, upon proper instructions, as the case may be, shall pass upon the reasonableness and necessity of an order of the Commission requiring track scales to be put in. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 131, 51 S. E. 793.

May Require Track Scales.—The Commission is empowered, under this section, to require "depot accommodations commensurate with such business and revenue," which satisfies the Commission in requiring "track scales" at points along the line. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 131, 51 S. E. 793.

The court or the jury, upon proper instructions, as the case may be, shall pass upon the reasonableness and necessity of an order of the Commission requiring track scales to be put in. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 131, 51 S. E. 793.

§ 62-42. To require change, repair, and additions to stations.—The commission is empowered and directed to require a change of any station or the repairing, addition to, or change of any station house by any railroad or other transportation company in order to promote the security, convenience and accommodation of the public, and to require the raising or lowering of the track at any crossing when deemed necessary. (Rev. s. 1907; 1899, c. 164, s. 2, subsec. 13; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1940.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of railroads to condemn land for union station, see also, § 62-43.

Remedial in its Nature.—The statute in its principal purpose may be considered as remedial in its nature, and as such, as that feature which distinguishes it from a mere exercise of police power. State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 399, 55 S. E. 292.

When Union Stations May Be Required.—Under the section the Commission is empowered to direct the establishment of union stations under certain conditions, to wit: when practicable, and when the necessities of the case require two or more railroads entering a city or town to have one common union passenger depot for the security, accommodation, and convenience of the traveling public. State v. Seaboard Air Line, etc., R. Co., 161 N. C. 270, 274, 76 S. E. 354.

Whenever the remedy was intended to apply to all the towns and cities in the state where, in the legal discretion of the commissioners, the move is practicable, the convenience of the traveling public requires it, and the existing facilities, in the judgment of the commissioners, are inadequate. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 401, 55 S. E. 292.

Same.—Must Be Practicable.—Whenever the Commission requires and orders a union station to be built, the only restriction in the statute is when "practicable." The other matters as to the security, accommodation, and convenience of the public apply to the judgment of the commissioners. When there is an appeal from their order, the sole query for a jury, under the statute, is whether the execution of the order is "practicable." The remedy was intended to apply to all the towns and cities in the state where, in the legal discretion of the commissioners, the move is practicable; and the burden is upon the defendant to show evidence to the contrary. State v. Seaboard Air Line, etc., R. Co., 161 N. C. 270, 274, 76 S. E. 354.

Same.—With Business and Revenues.—When these conditions are found to exist, then the two railroads may be compelled to unite in the erecting, constructing, and maintaining such union passenger depot commensurate with the business and revenues of such railroad companies on such terms, regulations, provisions and conditions as the Commission shall prescribe. State v. Seaboard Air Line, etc., R. Co., 161 N. C. 270, 274, 76 S. E. 354.

New Union Station.—Under the provisions of this section and § 62-43, the commission has the power to require railroad companies to construct, or to alter, a new passenger station in a city or town of the State, to construct or equip a new passenger station in any city or town upon the finding that the present station is inadequate. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 145 S. E. 19.

Jurisdiction Original.—Exercised Upon Own Motion or Petition of Railroad Companies.—When the Commission with respect to the construction of passenger stations is original, and may be exercised either upon its own motion or upon petition of interested parties. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 145 S. E. 19.

Parties.—Under this section the commission is not without jurisdiction of a proceeding with respect to the erection, construction, and maintenance of a new union passenger station in any city or town, because one or more railroad companies entering such city or town are not made parties in the proceeding. The presence of two or more

Same—Lessor—Appeal.—Where three railroad companies use a union station in a city in connection with the operation of their railroads, two as owners, and the other as lessee of a fourth road, it is not jurisdictional before the Commission or the Superior Court on appeal under § 62-20 that in the proceedings before the Commission under this section and § 62-42 to compel them to build and maintain an additional sidetrack. The lessor railroad be a party, but it is not error for the trial Court to order that the lessor railroad be made a party and the cause proceed with therein. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 145 S. E. 19.

Transportation or the "Esch-Cummings" Act is prospective. —The commission is empowered and directed to require the construction of sidetracks by any railroad company to industries already established or that may establish itself in the state. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 117 S. E. 563.

Powers Given by Necessary Implication.—The statute authorizing the Commission to order union stations to be built and maintained carries with it the power to do what is reasonably necessary to execute such order, including the use of the streets of a town for legitimate railroad purposes, if the laying of tracks, etc., necessary to that end. Griffin v. Southern Ry., 190 N. C. 48, 137 S. E. 16.

Inter and Intra-State Carriers.—In ordering the Commission for the joint erection by an intrastate carrier and an interstate carrier of a union station at a junction cannot be regarded as taking the part of the Commission. The matter is left to the intrastate carrier, as a burden on interstate commerce, when it appears that the commission was passing upon the petition of only a few cities or towns in the state separately and not as a part of a state-wide solution, and that expenditures required were in amount too small to affect such commerce. State v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 117 S. E. 563.

Same—"Esch-Cummings" Act Prospective.—The Federal Transportation or the "Esch-Cummings" Act is prospective in its enforcement, and cannot relate back to a final order of the Commission not appealed from, for the erection of a union station at a junction, which station is to be served by an intrastate and interstate carrier cross each other, the execution of which has been stayed by the Commission until after the passage of the Federal Statute solely for the advantage of the carriers at their request. State v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 117 S. E. 563.

§ 62-44. To provide for separate waiting rooms for races. The commission is empowered and directed to require the establishment of separate waiting rooms at all stations for the white and colored races. (Rev. s. 1097; 1899, c. 239, s. 94; 1941, c. 117, s. 19.)

Cross References.—As to separate accommodations for different races on train or steamboat, see § 60-94; on street railways, see § 60-135; on motor carriers, see § 62-109.

§ 62-45. To require construction of sidetracks.—The commission is empowered and directed to require the construction of sidetracks by any railroad company to industries already established or to be established: Provided, it is shown that the proportion of such revenue accruing to such sidetrack is sufficient within five years to pay the expenses of its construction. This shall not be construed to give the commission authority to require railroad companies to construct sidetracks more than five hundred feet in length. (Rev. s. 1097; 1899, c. 164, s. 2, subsec. 15; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1044.)

Cross Reference.—As to condemnations of land for an industrial sideway, see § 405.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the enactment of this provision of the statute, the establishment of such sidings rested in the arbitrary will of the common carrier, who could also discontinue them at will. Such power, it will be seen at the mercy of the railroad management, which could mar the prosperity of any plant along its line by refusing a siding, or arbitrarily disconnecting it, if established. This power could be used for both political and pecuniary advantage. The General Assembly, while not prohibiting the carrier from continuing to establish sidings at its pleasure, deemed it wise to take the power of refusing to grant or continue such sidings away from the common carrier by authorizing the Commission to require the establishment of such sidings in proper cases. Corporation Comm. v. Seaboard Air Line Railroad, 140 N. C. 239, 241, 52 S. E. 941.

Restriction upon Power.—The Commission can require a railroad company to continue or build a side track for an industrial plant only upon the company's right of way or upon the right of way is tendered. State v. Southern R. Co., 193 N. C. 559, 69 S. E. 621.

Same—Revenue.—The power conferred upon the Commission to order a railroad company to build a side track, is with the restriction that the revenue from such side track shall be sufficient within five years to pay the expenses of its construction. The Federal Court having denied the authority of the Commission in this section, the presumption is in favor of its judgment, and it must be presumed that the revenue will be sufficient according to the terms of the statute. State v. Southern R. Co., 153 N. C. 559, 69 S. E. 461.

Same—Length.—The section confines upon the Commission the power to establish sidings under certain conditions, and restricts the exercise of such a right to a length in length to build a side track other than that which the commission ordered or directed. Hales v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 172 N. C. 104, 90 S. E. 11, 13.

Rights of Intervening Owners.—A railroad company, of its own initiative or by virtue of a contract with private persons, can acquire no right to construct and use side tracks to private industries off their right of way and over the lands of intervening owners against the will of such owners. When they have once permanently located their lines, they are not entitled to construct and use side tracks over the lands of intervening owners against the will of way incident to it. Pierce on Railroads, c. 9, p. 254; Elliot on Railroads (3d Ed.) section 930. Hales v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 172 N. C. 104, 90 S. E. 11, 13.

Non-Resident Railroad without Power of Eminent Domain.—The Commission cannot confer the power of eminent domain, and when the Legislature has not conferred such power upon a nonresident railroad company respecting the construction of a side track over the lands of others, it is not jurisdictional by an order of the Commission for the railroad to build such a track over the lands of others. State v. Southern R. Co., 193 N. C. 559, 69 S. E. 621; Butler v. Pen. Tobacco Co., 152 N. C. 416, 68 S. E. 12.

§ 62-46. To require trains to be run over railroad tracks and connections at intersections.—The commission is empowered and directed to require, when practicable and when the necessities of the traveling public, in the judgment of the commission, demand, that any railroad in this state shall install and operate one or more passenger or freight trains over its road, and also require any two or more railroads having intersecting points to make close connection at such points: Provided, the order under this section shall be made under the business of the railroad justifies it. (1907, c. 469, s. 3; 1941, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1045.)

Connection Contemplated One of Trains as Well as Tracks.—The connection required is one of trains as well as of tracks. The public cannot travel upon a track alone, nor upon a track only to an inter-change point, for such facil- nishes for traveling at all, and close connection of both to secure the convenience of the traveling public. Whitaker v. Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 137 N. C. 1, 49 S. E. 191, 192.

Running Additional Trains.—It is within the power of a state railroad commission to compel a railroad company to operate additional trains for the purpose of promoting the convenience of the traveling public, and an order requiring the running of an additional train for that purpose is not a violation of the "Esch-Cummings" Act. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 137 N. C. 1, 49 S. E. 191, 192.
§ 62-47. To inspect railroads as to equipment and facilities, and to require repair.—The commission is empowered and directed, from time to time, to fully examine into and inspect the condition of each railroad, its equipment and facilities, in regard to the public's safety and convenience; and if any are found by it to be unsafe, it shall at once notify and require the railroad company to put the same in repair. (1907, c. 469, s. 3; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1046.)

§ 62-49. To require installation and maintenance of block system and safety devices. — The commission is empowered and directed to require any railroad company to install and put in operation and maintain upon the whole or any part of its road a block system of telegraphy or any other reasonable safety device, but no railroad company shall be required to install a block system upon any part of its road unless at least eight trains each way per day are operated on that part. (1907, c. 469, s. 1b; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1047.)

The lack of a "block system" when required, is held to be negligence per se. Gerringer v. North Carolina R. Co., 146 N. C. 32, 59 S. E. 132; Stewart v. Raleigh, etc. R. Co., 137 N. C. 687; 50 S. E. 312; Stewart v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 253, 53 S. E. 857.

§ 62-50. To regulate crossings and to abolish grade crossings.—The commission is empowered and directed to require the raising or lowering of any train on any highway at any highway or railroad crossing, and to designate who shall pay for the same; and, when it thinks proper, partition the cost of abolishing grade crossings and the raising or lowering of said track or highway among the railroads and municipalities interested. (1907, c. 469, s. 1 (c); 1911, c. 197, s. 1; 1933, c. 34, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1048.)

Cross References.—As to intersection with highways, see § 60-42. As to obstructing highways and maintaining defective crossings, see § 60-43. As to cattleguards and private crossings, see § 60-44. As to the power of the state highway commission to require the installation of signals and other safety devices, see § 136-20.

Editor's Note.—Throughout Europe grade crossings are forbidden by law. Some few of the American States, including New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut have followed the European example and abolished such crossing. This section confers upon the Utilities Commission the power to require the track to be raised or lowered at crossings where deemed necessary.
§ 62-52. To require railroads to enter towns and maintain depots in certain cases.—Where two or more railroads may maintain freight depots and a union passenger depot within one mile of a town of two thousand population for the convenience of the inhabitants thereof, and do not enter the corporate limits of the town, it is the duty of the utilities commission, upon the petition of a majoritv of the qualified voters of the said town, which petition shall be properly sworn to, to require and compel, where practicable, the said railroads to run their lines into or through the corporate limits of the said town, and construct, equip, and maintain suitable passenger and freight depots at some convenient place or places therein, and the passenger depot shall be a union station and be built and maintained by the several railroads according to a plan and in such a manner as shall be approved by the commission.

When a petition is filed with the utilities commission as aforesaid, the commission shall set a day for the hearing thereof, which day shall be not more than twenty days from the filing of said petition, and shall immediately cause a notice to issue to the railroads interested in the matter set out in the petition, and after the hearing of the matter on the day named in the notice, the commission, if it deem it practicable, shall thereupon cause an order to be made requiring the said railroads to build, equip, and maintain in a suitable manner roadbeds, yards and depots, and any other necessary buildings or equipment, at convenient places within the limits of said town, as to it seems proper for the needs and growth of the business and inhabitants of the said town.

The order of the utilities commission to the railroads shall name a time within which all the necessary work of entering the said town and construction of depots and other buildings shall be completed and opened to the public for the transaction of business, and the said railroads, for every day beyond the said time that they shall not be in operation according to the said order, shall pay the sum of fifty dollars for each and every day of such failure and neglect, to the order of the utilities commission whenever such depots are substantially diminished or abandoned, which shall be for the benefit of the said town, this amount to be recovered as in other actions.

This section shall also apply to any railroad that may hereafter enter into or run within one mile of the corporate limits of said town, and the utilities commission shall have the power to require such railroads to unite with the other railroads in maintaining the depots, tracks, and other structures, and also pay such part of the cost thereof as to the said utilities commission may seem proper.

The railroads have the power to condemn such quantity of lands, including gardens, yards, residences and the premises pertaining thereto, as are necessary for the purposes of this section, the condemnation proceedings to be had in the same manner as now provided by law. (1907, c. 465; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1050.)

§ 62-53. To consent to abandonment or relocation of depots.—A railroad corporation which has established and maintained for a year a passenger station or freight depot at a point upon its road shall not abandon such station or depot, nor substantially diminish the accommodation furnished by the stopping of trains, except by the order of the commission. Freight or passenger depots may be relocated upon the written approval of the commission. (Rev., s. 1098; 1899, c. 164, ss. 19, 20; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1051.)

§ 62-54. To regulate crossings of telephone, telegraph and electric power lines.—Power is conferred on the utilities commission whenever any telephone, telegraph or electric power lines cross, to require such crossings to be constructed and maintained in a safe manner, so that the wires of one line will not fall upon the other; to prescribe the manner in which this shall be done; to discontinue or prohibit such crossings where they are unnecessary and can reasonably be avoided; and to apportion the cost of proper changing and construction of such crossings among the lines interested, as to said commission may seem just: Provided, that in all crossings made dangerous by the presence of high tension wire or wires of any power or light company, the cost shall be paid by such power or light company. (1913, c. 130, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1052.)

Local Modification.—Ashe: 1929, c. 101.

§ 62-55. To regulate delivery of freight, express, and baggage.—The utilities commission shall make reasonable and just rules—

1. For the handling of freight and baggage at stations.

2. As to charges by any company or corporation engaged in the carriage of freight or express for the necessary handling and delivery of the same at all stations. (Rev., s. 1094; 1899, c. 164, s. 2, subsecs. 2, 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1053.)

Cross Reference.—As to penalty for failure to deliver freight upon tender of payment for carriage, see § 60-114.

§ 62-56. To prevent discriminations.—The utilities commission shall make reasonable and just rules and regulations—

1. To prevent discrimination in the transportation of freight or passengers, or in furnishing electricity, electric light, current, power or gas.

2. To prevent the giving, paying or receiving of any rebate or bonus, directly or indirectly, or the misleading or deceiving the public in any manner as to real rates charged for freight, express or passengers, or in furnishing electricity, electric light, current, power or gas. (Rev., s. 1095; 1899, c. 164, s. 2, subsecs. 3, 5; 1913, c. 130, s. 6; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1054.)

Cross Reference.—As to discrimination in railroad rates, see § 60-5 to § 60-9, § 62-92, and § 62-143.

Discrimination Defined.—In discrimination in freight tariffs by railroad companies, means to charge shippers of freight unequal sums for carrying the same quantity of freight equal distances; that is, more in proportion for a short than for a long distance. Hines v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 95 N. C. 434.

Discrimination in Log Road.—A railroad carrying logs to a sawmill cannot charge a shipper agreeing to ship the manufactured products by the same line less for the same service than for a long distance. Hines v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 136 N. C. 479, 48 S. E. 813.
§ 62-57. To fix a standard for gas.—The utilities commission shall fix, establish and promulgate a standard of quality for gas and prescribe rules and regulations for the enforcement of and obedience to the same. (1919, c. 32; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1958.)

§ 62-58. To regulate shipment of inflammable substances.—The utilities commission is authorized and empowered to adopt and promulgate rules for the shipment of inflammable and explosive articles; cotton which has been partially consumed by fire, and such other like articles as in its opinion may be apt to render transportation dangerous. And after the promulgation of such rules, no common carrier shall be required to receive or transport any such articles except when tendered in accordance with the said rules; nor shall such common carrier be liable for any penalty for refusal to receive such article for shipment until all the rules prescribed by the utilities commission in regard to the shipments of the same shall be complied with. (1907, c. 471, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1958.)

The commission is particularly authorized to regulate the carriage of inflammable and explosive articles as freight. Tilley v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 39, 77 S. E. 994.

§ 62-59. To regulate demurrage, storage, placing, and loading of cars.—The commission shall make rules, regulations and rates governing demurrage and storage charges by railroad companies and other transportation companies; and shall make rules governing railroad companies in the placing of cars for loading and unloading and in fixing time limit for delivery of freight after the same have been received by the transportation companies for shipment. (Rev., ss. 1100; 1903, c. 342; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1957.)

Cross References.—As to time before charge for demurrage may be made, see § 60-113. As to placing cars for loading, see § 60-118. As to reasonable time for transporting freight, see § 60-112.

§ 62-60. To fix rate of speed through towns; procedure.—If a railroad company is of the opinion that an ordinance of a city or town through which a railroad company passes or in its opinion may be made which at which trains may run while passing through said city or town, is unreasonable or oppressive, such railroad company may file its petition before the utilities commission, setting forth all the facts, and asking relief against such ordinance, and that the utilities commission prescribe the rate of speed at which trains may run through said municipality. Upon the filing of the petition a copy thereof shall be mailed, in a registered letter, to the mayor or chief officer of the town or municipality, together with a notice from the utilities commission, setting forth that on a day named in the notice the petition of the railroad company will be heard, and that the city or town named in the petition will be heard at that time in opposition to the prayer of the petition. And upon the return day of the notice the utilities commission shall hear the petition, but any hearing granted by the utilities commission shall be had at the town, city or locality where the conditions complained of are alleged to exist, or some member of the said commission shall take evidence, both for the petition and against it, at such city, town or locality, and report to the full commission before any decision is made by the commission.

Either party, petitioner or respondent, has the right to introduce testimony and to be heard by counsel; and the utilities commission, after hearing the petition, answer, evidence and argument, shall render judgment thereon. If the commission finds that such ordinance is reasonable and just the petition shall be dismissed, and the petitioner shall pay all the costs, to be taxed by the clerk to the utilities commission. If the commission is of the opinion that the ordinance is unreasonable, it shall so adjudge; and in addition thereto it shall prescribe the maximum rates of speed for passing through such town. And thereafter the railroad company may run its trains through such town or city at speeds not greater than those prescribed by the utilities commission, and the ordinance adjudged to be unreasonable shall not be enforced against such railroad company.

If the judgment of the utilities commission is in favor of the petitioner, it shall be lawful for the utilities commission to make such order as to the payment of the costs as shall seem just. It may require either party to pay the same or it may divide the same. The costs in such proceeding shall be the same as are fixed by law for similar services in the superior court. (Rev., ss. 1101, 1102, 1103; 1903, c. 552; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1958.)

§ 62-61. To regulate within the Police Power of State.—In Gladden v. Minnesota, 166 U. S. 427, 430, 17 S. Ct. 628, 41 L. Ed. 1064, the court said: "The state which created the corporation may make all needful regulations of a police character for the government of the company while operating its road within the jurisdiction. It may prescribe the rate of speed at which the trains shall run, and the places at which they shall stop, and may make any other reasonable regulations for their management in order to secure the object of its incorporation, and the safety, good order, convenience and comfort of its passengers and of the public." North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 137 N. C. 1, 49 S. E. 193, 197.

§ 62-62. To hear and determine controversies submitted.—When a company or corporation embraced in this chapter has a controversy with another corporation or person, and all the parties to such controversy agree in writing to submit such controversy to the commission as arbitrator, the commission shall act as such, and its award shall be final. Such award may be presented to the court in any case where land or an interest in land is concerned shall immediately be certified to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said land is situated, and shall by such clerk be docketed in the judgment docket for such county, and from such docketing shall be a judgment of the superior court for such county. Parties may appear in person or by attorney before such arbitrator. (Rev., ss. 1073; 1899, c. 164, s. 25; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1959.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of utilities commission to settle dispute between a railroad and a drainage district, see § 156-91.

§ 62-62. To investigate accidents.—The commission may investigate the causes of any accident on a railroad or steamboat which it may deem to require investigation, and any evidence taken upon such investigation shall be reduced to writing, filed in the office of the commission, and be subject to [693]
§ 62-63. To notify of violation of rules and institute suit.—The commission, whenever in its judgment any public utility has violated any law, shall give notice thereof in writing to such corporation, and, if the violation or neglect is continued after such notice, shall forthwith present the facts to the attorney-general, who shall take such proceedings thereon as he may deem expedient. (Rev., s. 1113; 1899, c. 164, s. 8; 1935, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1062.)

Construed as Mandatory.—This provision is positive, and must be construed as being mandatory. In this case the statute of North Carolina makes it clearly the duty of the Attorney-General, when called upon, to prosecute any suit or action which may be deemed necessary to secure the enforcement of the laws of the State, in regard to the fixing of maximum rates. This section, when construed in accordance with the rule laid down in the Regan case, 154 U. S. 362, 14 S. Ct. 1047, 38 L. Ed. 1014, and the Ames case, 169 U. S. 466, 18 S. Ct. 418, 43 L. Ed. 819, clearly charges the Attorney-General with a duty in relation to the enforcement of the act in question. Southern R. Co. v. McNell, 155 Fed. 756, 775.

§ 62-64. Utilities commission authorized to enter agreement of indemnity as to oyster beds in New River.—The utilities commission is authorized and empowered to enter into a contract with the United States or the Secretary of War on behalf of the State of North Carolina, by the terms of which it shall be agreed that the State of North Carolina will save the United States free from liability for damages to oyster beds in New River arising from the dredging and maintenance of a channel ten feet deep and ninety feet wide therein, between the Inland Waterway and Jacksonville: Provided, the liability of the State of North Carolina, by the terms of which it shall be agreed that the State of North Carolina will save the United States free from liability for damages to oyster beds in New River arising from the dredging and maintenance of a channel ten feet deep and ninety feet wide therein, between the Inland Waterway and Jacksonville: Provided, the liability of the State of North Carolina under such contract shall not exceed the total sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000).

The enactment of this statute shall not be treated as a waiver or release by any party of the State that the owner of such oyster beds who have not executed waivers or releases prior to February 24, 1939, shall be entitled to any damages by reason of the dredging and maintenance of the said channel, and no payment shall be made on account of such claims unless and until the owners of such oyster beds shall show that there has been sustained actual damages to such oyster beds on account of the dredging and maintenance of said channel. (1939, c. 51; 1941, c. 97.)

Art. 4. Public Utilities Act of 1933

§ 62-65. Definitions.—(a) The term "corporation," when used in this article, includes a private corporation, an association, a joint stock association or a business trust.

(b) The term "person," when used in this article, includes a natural person, a partnership or two or more persons having a joint or common interest, and a corporation as hereinbefore defined.

(c) The term "municipality," when used in this article, includes a city, a county, a village, a town, and any other public corporation existing, created or organized as a governmental unit under the constitution or laws of the State.

(d) The term "commission" shall mean the utilities commission.

(e) The term "public utility," when used in this article, includes persons and corporations, or their lessees, trustees and receivers now or hereafter owning or operating in this state equipment or facilities for:

1. Producing, generating, transmitting, delivering or furnishing gas, electricity, steam or any other agency for the production of light, heat or power to or for the public for compensation;
2. Diverting, developing, pumping, impounding, distributing or furnishing water to or for the public for compensation;
3. Transporting persons or property by street, suburban or interurban railways for the public for compensation;
4. Transporting persons or property by motor vehicles for the public for compensation, but not including taxicab, operating on call, or truck transfer service in cities or towns;
5. Transporting or conveying gas, crude oil or other fluid substance by pipe line for the public for compensation;
6. Conveying or transmitting messages or communications by telephone or telegraph, where such service is offered to the public for compensation;
7. The term "public utility" shall for rate making purposes only include any person producing, generating or furnishing any of the foregoing services to another person for distribution to or for the public for compensation.

The term "public utility" shall not include any person not otherwise a public utility, who furnishes the services or commodity only to himself, his employees or tenants when such service or commodity is not resold to or used by others. The business of any public utility other than of the character defined in subdivisions 1 to 7, inclusive, of subdivision (e) of this section is not subject to the provisions of this article.

(f) The term "rate," when used in this article, means and includes every compensation, charge, fare, toll, rental and classification, or any of them, demanded, observed, charged or collected by any public utility, for any service, product or commodity offered by it to the public, and any rules, regulations, practices or contracts affecting any such compensation, charge, fare, toll, rental or classification. (1933, c. 307, s. 1; c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

The provisions of this article as to rate regulation are not in conflict with chapter 78. Bennett v. Southern Ry. Co. 111 N. C. 474, 191 S. E. 240.

§ 62-66. Rates must be just and reasonable.—Every rate made, demanded or received by any public utility, or by any two or more public utilities jointly, shall be just and reasonable. (1933, c. 307, s. 2.)

§ 62-67. Service.—Every public utility shall furnish adequate, efficient and reasonable service. (1933, c. 307, s. 3.)

§ 62-68. To file rate schedules with commission.—Under such rules and regulations as the commission may prescribe, every public utility shall file with the commission, within such time and in such form as the commission may designate, schedules showing all rates established by it and collected or enforced, or to be collected or enforced within the jurisdiction of the commission. The utility shall keep copies of such schedules open to public inspection under such rules and regulations as the commission may prescribe. (1933, c. 307, s. 4.)

§ 62-69. Rates varying from schedule prohibited.—No public utility shall directly or indirectly, by any device whatsoever, or in any wise, charge, demand, collect or receive from any person a greater or less compensation for any service rendered or to be rendered by such public utility than that prescribed in the schedules of such public utility applicable thereto then filed in the manner provided in this article, nor shall any person receive or accept any service from a public utility for a compensation greater or less than that prescribed in such schedules. (1933, c. 307, s. 5.)

Where, at termination of contract between city and electric company, city officials were doubtful whether it would be advantageous to adopt new schedule of electric company and elected to take current on basis from month to month, electric company was not exacting an unlawful rate by billing the city for current on rates contained in old contract rather than under new schedule. High Point v. Duke Power Co., 34 F. Supp. 339.

§ 62-70. Discrimination prohibited.—No public utility shall, as to rates or services, make or grant any unreasonable preference or advantage to any person or subject any corporation or person to any unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage. No public utility shall establish or maintain any unreasonable difference as to rates or services either as between localities or as between classes of service. The commission may determine any questions of fact arising under this section. (1933, c. 307, s. 6.)

Editor’s Note.—For a discussion of this and related sections, see 11 N. C. Law Rev. 246.

Party Entitled to Injunctive Relief.—Where certain carriers by truck sought injunctive relief against railroad carriers for discrimination in rates against certain cities and against certain commodities, it was held that the basis for injunctive relief must be an interference or threatened interference with a legal right of the petitioner, not of a third party and that the shippers would be the real parties in interest, not the contract truck carriers. Carolina Motor Service v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 210 N. C. 36, 38, 185 S. E. 479, 104 A. L. R. 1165.

§ 62-71. Change of rates.—Unless the commission otherwise orders, no public utility shall make any changes in any rate which has been duly established under this article, except after thirty days’ notice to the commission, which notice shall plainly state the changes proposed to be made in the rates then in force, and the time when the changed rates will go into effect. The utility shall also give such notice of the proposed changes to other interested persons as the commission in its discretion may direct. All proposed changes shall be shown by filing new schedules, or shall be plainly indicated upon schedules filed and in force at the time and kept open to public inspection. The commission, for good cause shown, may allow changes in rates, without requiring the thirty days’ notice, under such conditions as it may prescribe. All such changes shall be immediately indicated upon its schedules by such public utility.

Whenever there is filed with the commission by any public utility any schedule stating a new rate or rates, the commission may, either upon complaint or upon its own initiative, upon reasonable notice, enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of such rate or rates; and pending such hearing and the decision thereon the commission, upon filing with such schedule and delivering to the utility affected thereby a statement in writing of its reasons therefor, may, at any time before they become effective, suspend the operation of such rate or rates, but not for a longer period than ninety (90) days beyond the time when such rate or rates would otherwise go into effect unless the commission shall find that a longer time will be required, in which case the commission may extend the period for not to exceed six (6) months: Provided, and notwithstanding any such order of suspension, the public utility may put such suspended rate or rates into effect on the date when it or they would have become effective, if not so suspended, by filing with the commission a bond in a reasonable amount approved by the commission, with sureties approved by the commission, conditioned upon the refund, in a manner to be prescribed by order of the commission to the persons entitled thereto of the amount of the excess, if the rate or rates so put into effect are finally determined to be excessive; or there may be substituted for such bond, other arrangements satisfactory to the commission for the protection of the parties interested. If the public utility fails to make refund within thirty (30) days after such final determination, any person entitled to such refund may sue therefor in any court of this state of competent jurisdiction and be entitled to recover, in addition to the amount of the refund due, all court costs, but no suit may be maintained for that purpose unless instituted within two years after such final determination. Any number of persons entitled to such refund may join as plaintiffs and recover their several claims in a single action; in which action the court shall render a judgment severally for each plaintiff as his interest may appear. During any such period of suspension the commission may, in its discretion, require that the public utility involved shall furnish to its consumers or patrons a certificate or other evidence of payments made by them. (1933, c. 307, s. 7.)

§ 62-72. Changing unreasonable rates after hearing.—Whenever the commission, after a hearing had after reasonable notice upon its own motion or upon complaint, finds that the existing rates in effect and collected by any public utility for any service, product, or commodity, are unjust, unreasonable, insufficient or discriminatory, or in any wise in violation of any provision of law, the commission shall determine the just, reasonable and sufficient rates to be therefrom observed and in force, and shall fix the same by order as hereinafter provided. (1933, c. 307, s. 8.)

§ 62-73. Compelling telephone and telegraph companies to form continuous lines to certain points.—The commission may upon complaint, in writing, by any person, or on its own initiative after a hearing on reasonable notice, by order require any two or more telephone or telegraph companies whose lines or wires form a continuous line of communication, or could be made to do so by the construction and maintenance of suitable connections or the joint use of equipment, or the transfer of messages at common points, between different localities which can not be communicated with or reached by the lines of either company alone, where such service is not already established or provided, to establish and maintain through lines within the state between two or more such localities. The rate for such service shall be just and reasonable and the commission shall have power to establish the same, and declare the portion thereof to which each company affected thereby is entitled and the manner in which the same must be secured and paid. All necessary construction, maintenance and equipment in order to establish such service shall be constructed and maintained in such manner and under such rules, with such division of expense and labor as may be required by the commission. (1933, c. 307, s. 9.)

§ 62-74. Compelling efficient service after hearing.—Whenever the commission, after a hearing on reasonable notice had upon its own motion or upon complaint, finds that the service of any public utility is unreasonable, unsafe, inadequate, insufficient or unreasonably discriminatory, the commission shall determine the reasonable, safe, adequate sufficient service to be observed, furnished, enforced or employed and shall fix the same by its order, rule or regulation. (1933, c. 307, s. 10.)

§ 62-75. Fixing standards, classifications, etc.; testing service. — The commission may, after hearing upon reasonable notice had upon its own motion or upon complaint, ascertain and fix just and reasonable standards, classifications, regulations, practices or service to be furnished, imposed, observed and followed by any or all public utilities; ascertain and fix adequate and reasonable standards for the measurement of quantity, quality, pressure, initial voltage or other condition pertaining to the supply of the product, commodity or service furnished or rendered by any and all public utilities; prescribe reasonable regulations for the examination and testing of such product, commodity or service and for the measurement thereof; establish or approve reasonable rules, regulations, specifications and standards to secure the accuracy of all meters and appliances for measurement; and provide for the examination and testing of any and all appliances used for the measurement of any product, commodity or service of any public utility. (1933, c. 307, s. 11.)

§ 62-76. Valuing and revaluing utility property.—The commission may, on hearing after reasonable notice, ascertain and fix the value of the whole or any part of the property of any public utility insofar as the same is material to the exercise of the jurisdiction of the commission, and may make revaluations from time to time and ascertain the value of all new construction, extension and additions to the property of every public utility. (1933, c. 307, s. 15.)

§ 62-77. Establishment of accounting system. —The commission may establish a system of accounts to be kept by the public utilities, subject to its jurisdiction, or may classify said public utilities and establish an account system for each class, and prescribe the manner in which such accounts shall be kept. (1933, c. 307, s. 13.)

§ 62-78. Visitorial and inspection powers of commission.—The commissioners and the officers and employees of the commission may, during all reasonable hours enter upon, search, examine, test, inspect, make and test appliances necessary therefor. Such public utility shall have the right to be represented at the making of such examination, tests and inspections. (1933, c. 307, s. 14.)

§ 62-79. Annual reports. — The commission may require any public utility to file annual reports in such form and of such content as the commission may require and special reports concerning any matter about which the commission is authorized to inquire or to keep itself informed, or which it is required to enforce. All reports shall be under oath when required by the commission. (1933, c. 307, s. 15.)

§ 62-80. Investigation into management of utilities. — The commission may, on its own motion and whenever it may be necessary in the performance of its duties, investigate and examine the condition and management of public utilities or any particular utility. In conducting such investigations the commission may proceed either with or without a hearing as it may deem best, but it shall make no order without affording the parties affected thereby a hearing. (1933, c. 307, s. 16.)

§ 62-81. Permission to pledge assets or pay fees. —No public utility shall pledge its faith, credit, moneys or property for the benefit of any holder of its preferred or common stocks or bonds, nor for any other business interest with which it may be affiliated through agents or holding companies or otherwise by the authority of the action of its stockholders, directors, or contract or other agents, the compliance or result of which would in any manner deplete, reduce, conceal, abstract or dissipate the earnings or assets thereof, decrease or increase its liabilities or assets, without first making application to the commission and by order obtain its permission so to do; nor shall any such utility pay any fees, commissions or compensation of any description whatsoever to any holding, managing, operating, constructing, engineering, financing, or purchasing company or agency including subsidiary or affiliated companies, for services rendered or to be rendered without first filing copies of all proposed agreements and contracts with the commission and obtaining its approval. (1933, c. 307, s. 17.)

§ 62-82. Assumption of certain liabilities and obligations to be approved by commission.—No utility shall issue any securities, or assume any liability or obligation as lessor, lessee, guarantor, indorser, surety, otherwise, in respect to the securities of any other person unless and until, and then only to the extent that, upon application by the utility, and after investigation by the commission of the purposes and uses of the proposed issue, and the proceeds thereof, or of the proposed assumption of obligation or liability in respect of the securities of any other person, the commission by order authorizes such issue or assumption. The commission shall make such order only if it finds that such issue or assumption (a) is for some lawful object within the corporate purposes of the utility, (b) is compatible with the public interest, (c) is necessary or appropriate for or consistent with the proper performance by the utility of its service to the public as such utility and will not impair its ability to perform that service, and, (d) is reasonably necessary and appropriate for such purpose. Any such order of the commission shall specify the purposes for which any such securities or the proceeds thereof may be used by the utility making such application. (1933, c. 307, s. 18.)

§ 62-83. Commission may approve in whole or in part or refuse approval.—The commission, by its order, may grant or deny the application provided for in the preceding section as made, or may grant it in part or deny it in part or may grant it with such modification and upon such terms and conditions as the commission may deem necessary or appropriate, in the premises and may, from time to time, for good cause shown, make such supplemental orders in the premises as it may deem necessary or appropriate; and may, by any such supplemental order, modify the provisions of any previous order as to the particular purposes, uses, and extent to which or the conditions under which any securities so theretofore authorized or the proceeds thereof may be applied; subject always to the requirements of the foregoing section. (1933, c. 307, s. 19.)

§ 62-84. Contents of application for permission.—Every application for authority for such issue or assumption shall be made in such form and contain such matters as the commission may prescribe. Every such application and every certificate of notification hereinafter provided for, shall be made under oath, signed and filed on behalf of the utility by its president, a vice-president, auditor, controller, or other executive officer having knowledge of the matters thereinafter set forth and duly designated for that purpose by the utility. (1933, c. 307, s. 20.)

§ 62-85. Applications to receive immediate attention; continuances. — All applications for the issuance of securities or assumption of liability or obligation shall be placed at the head of the commission's docket and disposed of promptly, and all such applications shall be disposed of in thirty (30) days after the otherwise filed with the commission, unless it is necessary for good cause to continue the same for a longer period for consideration. Whenever such application is continued beyond thirty (30) days after the time it is filed, the order making such continuance must state fully the facts necessitating such continuance. (1933, c. 307, s. 21.)

§ 62-86. Notifying commission as to disposition of securities.—Whenever any securities set forth and described in any such application for authority or certificate of notification as pledged or held unencumbered in the treasury of the utility shall, subsequent to the filing of such application or certificate, be sold, pledged, repledged, or otherwise disposed of, by the utility, such utility shall, within ten days after such sale, pledge, repledge, or other disposition, file with the commission a certificate of notification to that effect, setting forth therein all such facts as may be required by the commission. (1933, c. 307, s. 22.)

§ 62-87. No guarantee on part of state.—Nothing herein shall be construed to imply any guarantee or obligation as to such securities on the part of the state of North Carolina. (1933, c. 307; s. 23.)

§ 62-88. Article not applicable to note issues; renewals likewise excepted.—The provisions of the foregoing sections shall not apply to notes issued by a utility for the proper purposes and not in violation of law, payable at a period of not more than two (2) years from the date thereof, and shall not apply to like notes issued by a utility payable at a period of not more than two (2) years from date thereof, to pay, retire, discharge, or refund in whole or in part any such note or notes and shall not apply to renewals thereof from time to time not exceeding in the aggregate six (6) years from the date of the issue of the original note or notes so renewed or refunded. No such notes payable at a period of not more than two (2) years from the date thereof, shall, however, in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, be paid, retired, discharged or refunded by any issue of securities of another kind of any term or character or from the proceeds thereof without the approval of the commission. (1933, c. 307, s. 24.)

§ 62-89. Not applicable to debentures of court receivers; notice to commission.—Nothing contained in this article shall limit the power of any court having jurisdiction to authorize or cause receiver's certificates or debentures to be issued according to the rules and practice obtaining in receivership proceedings in courts of equity. Within ten (10) days after the making of any such notes, so payable at periods of not more than two (2) years from the date thereof, the utility issuing the same shall file with the commission a certificate of notification, in such form as may from time to time be determined and prescribed by the commission. (1933, c. 307, s. 25.)

§ 62-90. Periodical or special reports. — The commission shall require periodical or special reports from each utility hereafter issuing any security including such notes payable at periods of not more than two (2) years from the date thereof, which shall show, in such detail as the commission may require, the disposition made of such securities and the application of the proceeds thereof. (1933, c. 307, s. 26.)

§ 62-91. Failure to obtain approval not to invalidate securities or obligations.—(a) Securities issued and obligations and liabilities assumed by a utility, for which under the provisions of this article the authorization of the commission is required, shall not be invalidated because issued or assumed without such authorization therefor having first been obtained or because issued or assumed contrary to any term or condition of such order of authorization as modified by any order supplemental thereto entered prior to such issuance or assumption. (b) Securities issued or obligations or liabilities assumed in accordance with all the terms and conditions of the order of authorization therefor shall not be affected by a failure to comply with any provision of this article or rule or regulation of the commission relating to procedure and other matters preceding the entry of such order of authorization or order supplemental thereto. (c) A copy of any order made and entered by the commission as in this article provided (dually certified by the clerk of the commission) approving the issuance of any securities or the assumption of any obligation or liability by a utility shall, in and of itself, be sufficient evidence, for all purposes, of full and complete compliance by the applicant for such approval with all procedural and other matters required precedent to the entry of such order. (d) Any utility which willfully issues any such securities, or assumes any such obligation or liability, or makes any sale or other disposition of securities, or applies any securities or the proceeds thereof to purposes other than the purposes specified in an order of the commission with respect thereto, contrary to the provisions of this article, shall be liable to a penalty of not more than ten thousand dollars, but such utility is only required to specify in general terms the purpose for which any securities are to be issued, or for which any obligation or liability is to be assumed, and the order of the commission with respect thereto shall likewise be in general terms. (1933, c. 307, s. 27.)

§ 62-92. Commission may act jointly with agency of another state where utility operates. — If a commission or other agency or agencies is empowered by another state to regulate and control the utility and character of securities to be issued by any public utility within such other state, then the utilities commission of the state of North Carolina shall have the power to agree with such commission or other agency or agencies of such other state on the issue of stocks, bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness by a public utility owning or operating a public utility both in such state and in this state, and shall have the power to approve such issue jointly with such commission or other agency or agencies and to issue joint certificate of such approval: Provided, however, that no such joint approval shall be required in order to express the consent to an approval of such issue by the state of North Carolina if said issue is separately approved by the utilities commission of the state of North Carolina. (1933, c. 307, s. 28; c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-93. Willful acts of employees deemed those of utility. — The willful act of any officer, agent, or employee of a utility, acting within the scope of his official duties of employment, shall, for the purpose of this article be deemed to be the willful act of the utility. (1933, c. 307, s. 29.)

§ 62-94. Actions to recover penalties. — Actions to recover penalties under this article shall be brought in the name of the state of North Carolina, in the county in which the offense was committed. Whenever any utility is subject to a penalty under this article, the commission shall certify the facts to the attorney-general, who shall institute and prosecute an action for the recovery of such penalty: Provided, the commission may compromise such action and dismiss the same on such terms as the court will approve. (1933, c. 307, s. 30.)

§ 62-95. Penalties to school fund. — All penalties recovered by the state in such action shall be paid into the state treasury to the credit of the school fund. (1933, c. 307, s. 31.)

§ 62-96. Abandonment and reduction of service. — Upon finding that public convenience and necessity are no longer served, or that there is no reasonable probability of a utility realizing sufficient revenue from the service to meet its expenses, the commission shall have power, after order any utility to abandon or reduce its service or facilities. (1933, c. 307, s. 32.)

Order Must Be Obtained. — Where a power company discontinues its service for nonpayment of charges, the customer, upon payment of the charges, is entitled to restoration of the service where the company did not obtain an order under this section. Sweetheart Lake v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 211 N. C. 269, 271, 189 S. E. 785.

§ 62-97. Water gauging stations. — The commission may require the location, establishment, maintenance and operation of water gauging stations, and the commission and the North Carolina department of conservation and development may co-operate with each other as to such locations, construction and reports and upon the results of operation. (1933, c. 307, s. 33.)

§ 62-98. Reports from municipalities operating own utilities. — Every municipality engaged in operating any works or systems for the manufacture and supplying of gas or electricity, or purchasing same for distribution and resale, or operating telephone exchanges, shall make an annual report to the commission, verified by the oath of the general manager or superintendent thereof, on the same blanks as now provided for reports of privately owned utilities, giving the same information as required of such utilities. (1933, c. 307, s. 34.)

§ 62-99. Refusal to permit commission to inspect records made misdemeanor. — Any public utility, its officers or agents in charge thereof, that fails or refuses upon the written demand of the commission to supply a majority of said commission, and under the seal of the commission, to permit the commission, its authorized representatives or employees to examine and inspect its books, records, accounts and documents, or its plant, property, or facilities, as provided for by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Each day of such failure or refusal shall constitute a separate offense and each such offense shall be punishable by a fine of not less than five hundred and not more than five thousand dollars. (1933, c. 307, s. 35.)

§ 62-100. Willful disobedience to orders of commission incurs forfeiture. — Every public utility and the officers, agents and employees thereof shall obey, observe and comply with every order or direction made by the commission under authority of this article; and as long as the same shall be in force. Any such person or corporation, or any officer, agent or employee thereof, who knowingly fails or neglects to obey or comply with such order, or any provision of this article, shall forfeit to the state of North Carolina not to exceed the sum of one thousand dollars for each offense. Every distinct violation of any such order or of this article shall be a separate and distinct offense, and in case of a continuing violation each shall be deemed a separate and distinct offense.

No present provision of law shall be deemed to be repealed by this article except as such are directly in conflict therewith. (1933, c. 307, ss. 36, 37.)

Art. 5. Miscellaneous Provisions as to Public Utilities.

§ 62-101. Certificate of convenience and necessity.—No person, or corporation, their lessees, trustees or receivers shall thereafter begin the construction or operation of any public utility plant or system or acquire ownership or control of, either directly or indirectly, without first obtaining from the utilities commission a certificate that public convenience and necessity requires, or will require, such construction, acquisition, or operation: Provided, that this section shall not apply to new construction in progress on May 27, 1931, nor to construction into territory contiguous to that already occupied and not receiving similar service from another utility, nor to construction in the ordinary conduct of business.

The utilities commission is hereby empowered to make rules governing the application for, and the issuance of such certificates of public convenience and necessity. (1931, c. 455; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

Cross Reference.—As to necessity for certificate of convenience and necessity for housing projects, see § 157-27.

Editor's Note.—For article, "Public Utilities—Rural Electrification Co-operatives—Certificate of Convenience and Necessity," see 16 N. C. Law Rev. 46.

This section is not applicable to an electric membership corporation, organized under the provisions of §§ 117-6 to 117-27. And by reason of the provisions of section 117-27 of the statute under which it was organized, there was no error in the holding of the lower court that the defendant electric membership corporation was not required, before beginning the construction or operation of its facilities for serving its members by furnishing them electricity for lights and power, to obtain from the Utilities Commissioner of North Carolina a certificate that public convenience and necessity requires or will require the construction and operation of said facilities by said defendant. McGuinn v. High Point, 219 N. C. 56, 13 S. E. (2d) 48 (opinion of Clarkson, J.).

§ 62-102. Contracts of public service corporations.—All public service corporations when requested by the utilities commission shall submit copies of contracts made with any person, firm or corporation classed as a holding, managing or operating company or selling service of any kind, and the utilities commission shall have the right to disapprove any such contract, after hearing, if in its judgment it is found to be unjust or unreasonable, and designed, or entered into for the purpose of concealing, abstracting, or dissipating the net earnings of the public service corporation receiving such services. (1931, c. 455; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-103. Definitions.—In all matters relating to the administration of this article, whenever and wherever the following terms are used they shall be construed and defined as follows:

(a) The term “article” means this article.
(b) The term “state” means the State of North Carolina.
(c) The term “person” means an individual, a firm or a co-partnership.
(d) The term “corporation” means a corporation, a company, an association or a joint-stock association.
(e) The term “commission” means the Utilities Commission of North Carolina.
(f) The term certificate means the franchise certificate, granting authority to a motor vehicle carrier to operate motor vehicle service over a specific route.
(g) The term “driver’s permit” means the permit issued, after examination, authorizing a person to drive a motor vehicle operating under the article.
(h) The term “vehicle permit” means the card, or other marker, bearing the identification of the motor vehicle and the highway routing.
(i) The term “motor vehicles” means vehicles driven by gas, oil, electric or steam motors and not operated on rails.
(j) The term “trailer” means a vehicle without attached motor, designed for carrying property wholly on its own structure and for being drawn by a motor vehicle.
(k) The term “motor vehicle carrier” means every corporation or person, as the term “corporation” and the term “person” are hereinbefore defined, or the lessees, trustees or receivers owning, controlling, operating or managing any motor vehicle used in the business of transporting persons or property for compensation between cities, or between towns, or between cities and towns, or over a regular route, over the public highways of the state, as public highways are defined herein.
(l) The term “city” means any collection of people incorporated pursuant to the provisions of section four, article eight, of the Constitution of North Carolina.
(m) The term “town” means any unincorporated community, point, or collection of people having a geographical name by which it may be generally known and is so generally designated.
(n) The term “service” means that motor vehicle service which is held out to the public and of which the public may avail itself at will for transportation over the public highways between cities or between towns, or between cities and towns, irrespective of whether the service is upon regular schedule or otherwise.
(o) The term “public highway” means every street, road or highway in this State, whether within or without the corporate limits of any municipality.
(p) The term “between fixed termini or over a regular route" means the termini or route, respectively, between or over which any motor vehicle carrier usually or ordinarily operates any motor vehicle, even though there may be periodical or irregular departures from such termini or route.

(q) The term "casual trip" means a trip on call for the purpose of transporting passengers or property to a given destination and return, or either.

(r) The term "broker" means any person not included in the term "motor vehicle carrier" and not a bona fide employee or agent of any such carriers, who or which as principal or agent sells or offers for sale any transportation, or negotiates for or holds himself, or itself, out by solicitation, advertisement, or otherwise, as one who sells, furnishes, contracts, or arranges for such transportation for compensation, either directly or indirectly.

(s) The term "forwarder" means any person not included in the terms "motor vehicle carrier" or "broker" as herein defined, who or which is engaged in the receipt of bills for property received by it for transportation, forwarding, or consolidating or for distribution by any medium of transportation or combination of mediums of transportation, and who is not a carrier by rail, water, air or express, and other than the operations of a bona fide warehousemen.

(t) The term "restricted common carrier by motor vehicle" means any person not included in the definition "common carrier by motor vehicle" who or which undertakes, whether directly or by lease or other arrangement, to transport passengers or property restricted to any class or classes of passengers or to any class, kind or commodity or property by motor vehicle for compensation, whether over regular or irregular routes, and/or "excursion passenger vehicles" as defined in § 20-38 subsection (q). (1925, c. 50, s. 1; 1927, c. 136, s. 1; 1929, c. 193, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1937, c. 247, ss. 1, 2; 1941, c. 97.)

Editor's Note.—The Bus Law of 1925 was repealed, amended, and re-enacted by the Act of 1927.

The Act of 1929 amended subsection (q) of this section by striking out the words "under contract or" following the word "or".

The 1937 amendment inserted the words "or over a regular route" in subsection (k), and added subsections (r), (s) and (t).

Purpose of Article.—It was the intent of this statute, to regulate the public service of automobiles on the highways of the State between cities and towns through classifications of the commission requiring a license therefor, and making a violation thereof indictable as a criminal offense. State v. Andrews, 191 N. C. 545, 132 S. E. 568.

Article Contemplates a Continuous Business.—This statute contemplates a continuous business. The "service" rendered in contemplation of this statute construed with the classifications made by the commission, does not include without limitation, the making of an occasional delivery or service rendered at the request of the passenger, and not constituting a regular business of practice of a public service between or at the termini of designated or fixed routes, and an indictment under it will not be upheld. State v. Andrews, 191 N. C. 545, 132 S. E. 568.

§ 62-104. To whom applicable.—No corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, or receivers shall operate over the public highways in this state any motor vehicle or motor vehicle with trailer, as hereinbefore defined as a motor vehicle carrier, for the transportation of persons or property between cities, or between towns, or between cities and towns, or over a regular route, for compensation, except in accordance with the provisions of this article, and said operation shall be subject to control, supervision, and regulation by the commission in the manner provided by this article:

Provisions that which franchise or corporate limits of two or more cities join, they shall be treated as one for purposes of administering this article: provided, further, that nothing in this article shall prohibit a motor vehicle carrier under this article, nor any motor vehicle on which the franchise tax has been paid as provided in the current revenue act, from making casual trips on call over routes established hereunder; provided, that on said casual trips no one shall be allowed to pick up any passenger or property along the route, nor be permitted on the return trip to carry any passengers or property other than those or that included in the original trip; nor shall any motor vehicles used exclusively for transporting school students from and to their homes; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively for transporting persons to or from religious services; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively in transporting farm and dairy products from the farm or dairy to warehouse, creamery or other original storage or market; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively in the distribution of newspapers from the publisher to subscribers or distributors; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively by the trade's and or employees of an industrial plant to and from any places of their regular employment: Provided, that if a franchise operator shall furnish such transportation facilities to such mill or factory maintaining a residential unit of one thousand inhabitants or more, the foregoing exception shall not be operative. (1925, c. 50, s. 2; 1927, c. 136, s. 2; 1929, c. 193, s. 1, 254, s. 1; 1935, c. 111; 1937, c. 247, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—This section was twice amended by Public Laws of 1929. Chapter 190 struck out the words "under contract or" following the word "trips" in line 20. Chapter 254 inserted in lines 18 to 20 the words "on which the franchise tax has been paid as provided in the current revenue act" in lieu of the words formerly appearing.

The amendment of 1925 added "or" after the term "creek" and to the end of the section and the clause immediately preceding such proviso reading: "nor to motor vehicles used exclusively." etc.

The 1937 amendment inserted the words "or over a regular route" in the eighth line of this section.

A person transporting persons or property by motor vehicles for hire between cities and towns to or as a business, excepting all persons for the transportation who properly present themselves, must obtain the franchise required by this and the following section, unless he becomes within the exception specifically pointed out, regardless whether or not any other person or corporation holds a valid franchise covering that section of highway, while persons operating motor vehicles for hire without regard to fixed termini are required to obtain only a "for hire" license. Winborne v. Mackey, 206 N. C. 554, 174 S. E. 577; Winborne v. Browning, 174 S. E. 580.

The requirement of a franchise under this and following sections, for hire between fixed termini which are cities or towns, is not affected by the fact that no other person or corporation has a valid franchise covering the same section of highway, nor does the exception relating to U. S. mail apply unless the motor vehicle is used exclusively for carrying mail. Winborne v. Sutton, 206 N. C. 559, 174 S. E. 580.

Motor vehicles are not "used exclusively in carrying United States mail" or any other passengers and property for compensation, and such operation shall not come within the exception relating to United States mail under this section. Winborne v. Browning, 206 N. C. 557, 559, 174 S. E. 579.

§ 62-105. Application for franchise certificate.—Every corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, or receivers, before operating any motor vehicle included in the term "motor vehicle carrier" and not a bona fide employee or agent of any such carriers, who or which as principal or agent sells or offers for sale any transportation, or negotiates for or holds himself, or itself, out by solicitation, advertisement, or otherwise, as one who sells, furnishes, contracts, or arranges for such transportation for compensation, either directly or indirectly.
vehicle upon the public highways of the State for the transportation of persons or property for compensation, within the purview of this article, shall apply to the commission and obtain a franchise certificate authorizing such operation, and such franchise certificate shall be secured in the manner following:

(a) Application for such certificate shall be made by such corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, or receivers, to the commission in the manner prescribed, and on forms furnished, by the commission.

(b) Upon the filing of said application, the commission may, in its discretion, fix a time and place for the hearing of said application. When the time and place for the hearing have been fixed, the applicant shall, at least ten days prior to said hearing, cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the territory to be served a notice reciting the fact of the filing of said application together with a statement of the time and place for the hearing of said application.

(c) At the time specified in said notice, or at such time as may be fixed by the commission, a public hearing upon said application shall be held by said commission: Provided, that in passing upon applications for certificates, the commission may take into consideration the reliability of the applicant, his court record, and any other matters tending to qualify or disqualify him as a carrier. After such hearing, the commission may issue the license certificate, or refuse to issue it, or may issue it with modifications and upon such terms and conditions as in its judgment the public convenience and necessity may require.

(d) Before granting the franchise certificate to an applicant for operation of passenger or freight motor vehicles over the public highways of the State, the commission shall request and the Highway Commission of the State shall furnish to the commission its recommendations as to the size and weight of the motor vehicles and the type of tires with which said motor vehicles may be equipped, which may be safely operated over said highways and may be operated over the same without greatly damaging them, and such recommendations made by the Highway Commission shall in all cases be observed by the commission in granting franchise certificates to applicants for operation over said highways.

(e) No license certificates shall be issued for the operation on any highway in the State of any motor propelled vehicles of greater width than eighty-six (86) inches and greater loaded weight than fifteen thousand (15,000) pounds for passenger traffic, and greater width than eighty-six (86) inches and greater loaded weight than nine (9) tons for freight traffic, and the commission shall have power at any time, when in its judgment the public convenience or safety requires, or upon request of the Highway Commission, to reduce the size and weight of motor vehicles operated upon the public highways under this article, whether upon hard-surfaced or other types of highway construction.

(f) The commission may refuse to grant any application for a franchise certificate where the granting of such application would duplicate, in whole or in part, a previously authorized similar class of service, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the commission that the existing operations are not providing sufficient service to reasonably meet the public convenience and necessity and the existing operators, after thirty days' notice, fail to provide the service required by the commission: Provided, that where two or more highways intersect within less than twenty-five miles of any incorporated city and the business of such lines transacted at such intersection is insufficient to warrant the maintenance of a bus station, then the commission may in its discretion authorize all operators to the next city in which a bus station is established be maintained.

(g) All applications not acted upon by the commission within sixty days from date same were filed because of request of applicant shall become null and void.

(h) No license certificate shall be issued to two or more persons until such persons have executed a partnership agreement and registered the same in each county in which they propose to operate.

(i) Applications may be tentatively granted pending purchase of equipment and equipment specifications and insurance, or bond; but no franchise certificate shall be issued until equipment has been purchased and equipment specifications and insurance, or bond, have been filed and approved.

(j) Franchise certificates may be granted to restricted common carriers as defined herein for any period in the discretion of the commission not to exceed three years.

(k) A brokerage license shall be issued to any qualified applicant therefor authorizing the whole or any part of the operations covered by the application if it is found that the applicant is fit, willing and able properly to perform the service proposed to and to conform to the provisions of this article and the requirements, rules and regulations of the commission thereunder, and that the proposed service, to the extent to be authorized by the license, is or will be consistent with the public interest and policy declared herein; otherwise, such application shall be denied.

(l) No person shall engage in the business of a forwarder, subject to the provisions of this article, in intrastate operations within this state unless such person makes application to the commission and obtains a certificate issued by the commission authorizing such person to engage in such business as provided herein for other common carriers by motor vehicle: Provided, that where any such forwarder hires instead of owning motor vehicle equipment, such forwarder shall become subject to the provisions herein prescribed for brokers: Provided further, that it shall be unlawful for any such forwarder in the performance of its operation in intrastate commerce to employ or use any motor vehicle carrier which is not the lawful holder of an effective certificate issued as provided in this article. The commission may in any certificate issued restrict or prohibit the direct operation of any motor vehicles by such forwarder in intrastate commerce. Subject to the foregoing part of this subsection (l), a certificate shall be issued to any qualified applicant to conduct the business of for-warder in whole or in part. If it is found that the applicant is fit, willing and able properly to perform the service proposed and to conform to the provisions of this article and the requirements of rules and regulations of the commission thereunder, and that the proposed service, to the extent to be authorized by the certificate, is or will be consistent with the public interest and policy declared by this article, otherwise, such application shall be denied. (1925, c. 50, s. 3; c. 137; 1927, c. 136, s. 3; 1931, c. 182; 1933, c. 440, s. 1; 1937, c. 247, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the provision to subsection (d) of this section.

Prior to the 1933 amendment subsection (f) of this section provided that the commission could not refuse to grant the certificate because of the multiplicity of operators over the proposed route.

The 1933 amendment added subsections (j), (k) and (l).

§ 62-108. Franchise certificate.—Upon granting a franchise under this article, the commission shall issue to such applicant a franchise certificate which shall expire automatically three years from the date thereof and shall contain the following matters:

(a) The name and post office address of the grantee.
(b) The public highway or highways over which, and the fixed termini between which, the grantee is permitted to operate.
(c) The kind of transportation, whether passenger or freight, in which the grantee is permitted to engage.
(d) Such additional matters as said commission may deem necessary or proper. (1927, c. 136, s. 4.)

§ 62-107. Sale or other disposition of franchise.—No franchise certificate, issued under the provisions of this article, may be assigned or transferred, or pledged, or hypothecated in any way without the written consent of the commission. (1927, c. 136, s. 5.)

§ 62-108. Insurance.—The commission shall, in granting a franchise certificate, require the applicant to procure and file with the commission acceptable liability and property damage insurance in a company licensed to do business in the State; or, in lieu of such insurance may accept bond with solvent surety, on such motor vehicles to be used in such service, in such amount as the commission may determine, insuring passengers and the public receiving personal injury by reason of an act of negligence arising from the operation of any motor vehicle by the applicant upon the public highways of the State, and for damage to baggage in the custody of the assured and for loss of baggage when checked by the assured; and insuring the passengers and the public receiving personal injury by reason of any act of negligence arising from the operation of any motor vehicle by the applicant upon the route designated in the applicant's franchise certificate, whether such motor vehicle shall be specifically named, numbered or designated in the insurance policy or bond, or not, and whether such motor vehicle be in regular or temporary use by the applicant. Such policy, or bond, shall contain such other conditions, provisions and limitations as the commission may prescribe, and shall be kept in full force and effect. Property carriers may, in the discretion of the commission, be required to secure and file acceptable cargo insurance, or bond, which shall cover damage or loss of property only when listed on a duly prescribed and authorized bill of lading and received for by the assured or his agent. Before final judgment has been rendered by a competent court of jurisdiction, in any case arising from the operation under any franchise certificate, no attachment shall lie against motor vehicles used in such operation by any motor vehicle carrier, who has filed with the commission such damage liability policy, or bond, so long as such policy or bond is in full force and effect.

In any action in the courts arising out of damage to person or property, the assured shall not be joined in the action against the assured; but upon final judgment against the assured, the assured shall be liable within the limitations of the policy for the amount recovered and all court costs. Provided, that the commission may permit the filing by any licensed assured of a uniform master insurance policy contract, the terms of which shall conform to the foregoing, and when approved and accepted by the commission, shall be applicable to all insurance policy contracts filed by such assured for operating vehicles and otherwise under this article, and thereafter, so long as the master policy contract shall remain in force, carriers under this article may be permitted to file certificates, in such form as the commission may prescribe, evidencing fleet coverage under the term of such master policy instead of filing a separate individual policy contract in each case. Provided, that brokers and forwarders not operating motor vehicles under a certificate shall be required to file bond to cover financial responsibility not in excess of amounts required by the interstate commerce commission. (1927, c. 136, s. 4; 1937, c. 403; 1941, c. 97.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added the two provisos at the end of the section.

Purpose of Section.—It seems that the Legislature enacted this section to meet the decision in Harrison v. Transit Co., 192 N. C. 682, 143 S. E. 256; Brown v. Brevard Auto Service Co., 195 N. C. 647, 143 S. E. 256; and where an assurer was joined in such action the com-not be greater than that prescribed by law; to regulate the accounts and to require the filing of annual and other reports and of other data by such motor vehicle carriers; to require the increase of equipment capacity to meet public convenience and necessity; and to supervise and regulate motor vehicle carriers in all other matters affecting the relationship between such carriers and the traveling and shipping public. The commission shall have power and authority, by general order or otherwise, to prescribe rules and regulations applicable to any and all motor vehicle carriers, and the said commission is authorized, directed and empowered, whenever the public convenience and necessity may require, to increase, or decrease, or suspend temporarily the service upon any route for which a franchise certificate has been issued; and is hereby authorized, empowered, and directed to see that such rules and regulations and all, and singularly, the provisions of this article are enforced. The commission shall require any motor vehicle carrier operating on a franchise granted by the utilities commission and coming within the provisions of this article, if engaged in the transportation of both white and colored passengers for hire, to provide separate but equal accommodations for the white and colored races at passenger stations or waiting rooms where the carrier receives passengers of both races and/or on all busses or motor vehicles operating on a route or routes over which such carrier transports passengers of both races. Such accommodations may be furnished either by separate motor vehicles or by equal accommodations in motor vehicles. Provided that any requirement as to separate accommodation for the races shall not apply to specially chartered motor vehicles or to negro servants and attendants on their employers, or to officers or guards transporting prisoners; and provided that operators of motor vehicles or bus lines or taxicabs engaged in the transportation of passengers of only one race shall not be required to provide any accommodations for the other race, and provided that an operator shall not be required to furnish any accommodations to the other race over a line or route where he has undertaken and is engaged in the transportation of passengers of only one race, and provided, further, that nothing contained in this section shall be construed to declare operators of busses and/or taxicabs common carriers. (1925, c. 50, s. 4; 1927, c. 136, s. 7; 1929, c. 216, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

Cross References.—As to separate waiting rooms for races, see § 62-44. As to provisions for equal accommodations for the races, see § 62-94; § 60-98.

Editor’s Note.—The Act of 1929 added part of this section, beginning with the word “The” in line 33.

In Corporation Commission v. Interracial Commission, 198 N. C. 317, 151 S. E. 648 (1930), the Interracial Commission petitioned the Corporation Commission to make regulations to insure the negro traveling public separate but equal accommodations on the busses and in the passenger stations of the respondent bus companies. The petition was dismissed by the Corporation Commission on the ground that it had no power to interpret carriers by bus to be common carriers within the terms of the 1927 statute. On appeal to the Supreme Court, it was held, (1) That bus lines operating within the state are not carriers under any (2) That the provisions for the supervision of common carriers and to prevent unjust discriminations and preferences. This authority may be delegated to an administrative board or commission, and Corporation Commission or other such body created for the purpose, and the powers and duties of such board or commission are to be exercised in accordance with the policy of the state. It is submitted that the Fourteenth Amendment prevents the legislature from declaring a carrier private or public unless there is a reasonable basis of fact for so doing. N. C. L. Rev. 495.
whereupon the commissioner of motor vehicles shall cause the license or licenses of the offending motor vehicle carrier to be canceled, and such offending carrier who shall thereafter engage in the hauling of any persons or property for compensation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and each day's operation shall constitute a separate offense: Provided, the holder of any certificate, franchise or license whose certificate, franchise or license is ordered canceled hereunder shall have the right of appeal to the superior court as is now provided by law for appeals from the commission. But no such holder shall operate pending such appeal unless permitted to do so by order of the commission. (1927, c. 136, s. 8; 1937, c. 247, s. 4; 1941, c. 36, s. 97.)

Editor's Note.—This section is leveled at those carriers operating or purporting to operate under contract with particular shippers rather than operating under a franchise and serving the public generally. Such contract carriers must now have bona fide contracts. This probably means that they may not take occasional business, but must have contracts which will last over a period of time and calling for continued service. The provisions designed to prevent contract carriers from obtaining business by cutting rates below those of common carriers are a step in the direction already taken by other states which have set up systems of control of private contract motor carriers. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 360, 361.

§ 62-111. Cancellation of franchise certificates. (a) Franchise certificates issued under this article shall become null and void for the following causes:

1. For failure for thirty days to pay the franchise tax as provided by law.
2. For abandonment of authorized operation for a period of thirty days without the written consent of the commission.
3. For failure to begin operation within thirty days after the issuance of certificate.
4. Such franchise certificates may be cancelled in the discretion of the commission after ten days' notice for the following causes:
   a. For failure to pay station rent where a station has been designated and the expense apportioned among the operators by the commission.
   b. For failure to provide tickets for sale at the several stations designated by the commission.
   c. For failure to check baggage as provided by this article and the commission's regulations.
   d. For failure to keep equipment in safe and sanitary condition.
   e. For operating a motor vehicle over a route established hereunder without first obtaining a permit therefor.
   f. For operating a motor vehicle over a route established hereunder without having insurance, or bond, as provided in § 62-108 on file with the commission and in full force and effect at the time of the operation of such motor vehicle.
   g. For failure to observe and comply with schedules and tariffs made or approved by and on file with the commission.
   h. For removing a number plate from a motor vehicle designated by the commission for such motor vehicle, or for attaching or placing on a motor vehicle a number plate not authorized or designated therefor.
   i. For the violation of any other provision of this article, or the commission's regulations, or the willful or negligent violation of any other statute of this State, relating to the use or operation of motor vehicles on the public highways.
   j. For the violation and conviction of the criminal laws of this State, or for such other acts or conduct that may, in the opinion of the commission, disqualify such operator for rendering the public service contemplated by this article.

Sufficient notice shall be deemed to have been given under this article when notice in writing shall have been addressed to an operator and posted by registered mail to the address contained in the certificate with return receipt requested, or when such written notice has been delivered by a duly authorized agent of the commission or by any officer authorized by law to serve process in this State. (1927, c. 136, s. 10.)

Cross References.—As to sale under execution and cancellation of franchise for failure to pay franchise tax, see § 20-99. As to forfeiture of railroad charter for preferences to shippers, see § 60-52.

§ 62-112. Depots and stations. — The commission shall designate the towns and cities in which stations shall be maintained by passenger carriers and shall prescribe the rules and regulations under which the expense shall be borne by the respective carriers using such stations and may prescribe rules and regulations governing the maintenance and operation thereof. (1927, c. 136, s. 11.)

§ 62-113. Inspection of bus stations by State Board of Health; reports; action by N. C. Utilities Commission. — The State Board of Health is hereby authorized and directed to inspect bus stations with reference to general sanitation thereof and upon inspection to file with the bus station manager, the North Carolina Utilities Commission, and any and all bus companies operating into the station a copy of the report of inspection, together with such recommendations as said State Board of Health may make. The North Carolina Utilities Commission, upon the receipt of any report of inspection is authorized and empowered to take such action with reference thereto as the public interest may require. If the North Carolina Utilities Commission shall propose any change with reference to the station inspected, it shall give notice to the bus companies affected of the time and place to be heard in connection therewith, and after hearing, the commission may make such order as in its discretion promotes the public interest. (1941, c. 228.)

§ 62-114. Baggage, express, loading, etc.—The amount of express or baggage that may be carried in any motor vehicle with passengers shall not be greater than can be safely and conveniently carried, without causing discomfort to the passengers; and no motor vehicle shall be operated with any baggage, trunk, crate, or other article extending beyond the running board on the left side of such motor vehicle; doorways and aisles of passenger motor vehicles shall be kept clear of all obstruction, and the front seat of all motor vehicles of greater passenger capacity than seven shall be considered an emergency seat, and no passenger shall be allowed to occupy the same unless all other seats of such vehicle are fully occupied. (1937, c. 136, s. 12.)

tion.—No motor vehicle carrier shall charge, demand, collect, or receive a greater or less or different compensation for the transportation of persons or property, or for any service in connection therewith, than the rates, fares, and charges applicable to such carrier as specified in its tariffs filed with and approved by the commission and in effect at the time; nor shall any such carrier refund or remit in any manner or by any device any portion of the rates, fares, or charges so specified, or extend to any person, firm, copartnership, or corporation, or other organization, or association, privileges or facilities in the transportation of persons or property except such as are regularly and uniformly extended to all; and no such carrier shall, directly or indirectly, issue, give, tender, or honor any free fares except to its bona fide officers, agents, employees, and members of their immediate families, and such persons as the commission may designate in its employ, the employ of the state highway and public works commission and/or the motor vehicle department, for the inspection of equipment and supervision of traffic upon the highways of the state: Provided, that motor vehicle carriers under the article may exchange free transportation within the limits of this section. Provided, that any motor vehicle carrier may carry free any blind preacher within the state of North Carolina upon its busses or motor vehicles operating in the state of North Carolina, under the condition that said preacher shall carry or present to such motor vehicle carrier a certificate showing what church or sect he may represent and that he is in good and regular standing with that denomination or sect. (1927, c. 136, s. 13; 1929, c. 58, s. 1; 1937, c. 247, s. 8; 1941, c. 36.)

Cross Reference.—As to free carriage, see §§ 62-133 and 62-134.

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added the clause relating to employees of the state highway and public works commission and the motor vehicle department.

The act of 1929 added the last proviso to this section.

§ 62-116. Renewal of franchise certificates.—Any holder of a franchise certificate granted under this article, which is in force and effect on the date that such certificate expires automatically under the law, who makes application for the renewal thereof, other qualifications of applicants in the discretion of the commission being equal, shall be given preference over other applicants. (1927, c. 136, s. 14.)

§ 62-117. Foreign and interstate commerce.—Neither this article nor any provisions thereof shall apply or be construed to apply to commerce with foreign nations, or commerce among the several states of this Union, or business conducted for the United States Government, except insofar as the same may be permitted under the Constitution of the United States and the acts of Congress, as construed by the United States Supreme Court. (1927, c. 136, s. 15.)

§ 62-118. Violations.—Every corporation and every officer, agent, or employee of any corporation, and every other person who wilfully violates or fails to comply with, or who procures, aids or abets the violation of any provision of this article, or who fails to obey, observe or comply with any order, decision, rule or regulation, direction or requirement of the commission, made under the provisions of this article, or any part or provision thereof, or who operates any motor vehicle for the transportation of persons or property for compensation while under the influence of intoxicating liquors or drugs or in such a reckless manner or at such a rate of speed as would endanger the safety of the passengers or any person along such highway, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punishable by fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment, in the discretion of the court, or both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. (1927, c. 136, s. 16.)

§ 62-119. Maintenance of actions; fees; funds for enforcement; conferences, etc.—The commission shall have the right and authority to enforce by injunction or other ancillary remedy the provisions of this article or the rules and regulations made under this article. (a) Fees.—Each applicant for a certificate shall deposit with the commission as a filing fee the sum of ten dollars ($10.00) at the time of application, and fee of one dollar ($1.00) for each motor vehicle added thereafter; and for annual re-registration for the purchase of license, number plates, or tags, a fee of twenty-five cents (25¢) for each motor vehicle so re-registered; and for renewal of certificate, a fee of twenty-five cents (25¢) for each motor vehicle being operated under the certificate at the time application for renewal is filed; Provided, that brokers and forwarders not applying for nor holding certificates for the operation of motor vehicles shall deposit a filing fee of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) each at the time of application and twenty-five dollars ($25.00) per annum thereafter in addition to any other tax or fee provided by law. Such fees, when received by the commission, shall be paid forthwith to the state treasurer and credited to the highway fund for enforcement purposes. (b) Funds for Enforcement.—The highway and public works commission is hereby empowered, with the approval of the director of the budget, from time to time to appropriate sufficient funds for the use of the commission for the reasonable enforcement of this article, to be by him disbursed under the supervision of the director of the budget. (c) Conferences and Joint Hearings.—The commission or its authorized representative is authorized to confer with and hold joint hearings in connection with the authorities of any other state or representatives of the interstate commerce commission in connection with any matter arising under the Federal Motor Carrier Act, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, or in establishing jurisdiction under this article or the Federal Act. (1927, c. 136, s. 18; 1937, c. 247, s. 6; 1941, c. 97.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added subsections (a), (b) and (c) to this section.

§ 62-120. Construction of article.—Nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve any motor vehicle carrier of the duties and responsibilities defined in the act regulating otherwise imposed by law or lawful authority; neither shall chapter 136 of the Public Laws of 1927 be construed to affect any obligation arising under duty imposed by nor right of action accruing under chapter 50, Public Laws of 1925, and amendments thereto. (1927, c. 136, s. 20.)

§ 62-121. Enforcement employees.—The commission shall have authority to employ such persons as may be necessary to enforce the provisions of this article, and their compensation shall be fixed in the manner now provided by law. (1927, c. 136, s. 21.)

Art. 7. Rate Regulation.

§ 62-122. Commission to fix rates for public utilities.—Subject to the provisions as to passenger rates in the chapter, Railroads, and as to railroad freight rates in this chapter, the commission shall make reasonable and just rates and charges, including state-street traffic, and regulate the same, of and for—

Efland v. State. —§ 12 N. C. Law Rev. 289, 294, for article on "Electric Rates."

General Rate Fixing Power.—By the section the commission is given broad and general powers to make rates for fixed and reasonable rates, and to establish, by statute, just and reasonable rates to be charged for such services. Corporation Comm. v. Henderson Water Co., 190 N. C. 70, 72, 128 S. E. 465.

Power to Classify.—The Legislature has absolutely no power to classify persons, natural or artificial, engaged in the same line of business, paying certain premiums required to meet operating expenses, and other specific matters pertinent to such an inquiry, and these are police powers delegated to this commission by the authority of the State, and as such are subject to public regulations and reasonable control, and is required to afford its service at uniform and reasonable rates and without discrimination among its subscribers and patrons for like service under the same or substantially similar conditions." Godwin v. Telephone Co., 190 N. C. 274, 133 S. E. 636; Walls v. Strickland, 174 N. C. 298, 300, 93 S. E. 857.

Same—Preference to Railroad.—A contract whereby a telegraph company gives to a railroad company a preference over other companies in the transmission of a message sent over the lines of one company to place telephones and furnish telephonic facilities for the transmission and delivery of messages, and for the transmission of intelligence and news. Godwin v. Telephone Co., 190 N. C. 274, 133 S. E. 636; Walls v. Strickland, 174 N. C. 298, 300, 93 S. E. 857.

When Message Transmitted Over Lines of Another Company.—Where a telegraph company has a continuous line between two points, by which it can order or confirm a telegram without the intervention of a messenger, it is absolutely necessary for it properly to maintain its system, allowing a reasonable profit, to meet the requirements of the public for adequate, safe, and convenient service. In re Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 122 N. C. 173, 29 S. E. 619.

When Fares of Street Railway May Be Raised.—A public service street railway company, operating under a city charter, and with the city restraining the passenger fare authorized to be charged its patrons, may be authorized by the commission to raise its charges to its passengers, when in the opinion of the commission such is necessary for it to properly maintain its system, allowing a reasonable profit, to meet the requirements of the public for adequate, safe, and convenient service. In re Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 122 N. C. 173, 29 S. E. 619.

CANNOT FIX RATES BY CONTRACT.—A public service railway company operating in various localities may not by contract fix its passenger fares and thus prevent the commission from exercising the authority conferred by statute, for determining what rates are, under the circumstances, just and reasonable, for such would authorize such companies to discriminate, unlawfully, among its patrons. In re Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 122 N. C. 173, 29 S. E. 619.

2. The transmission and delivery of messages by any telegraph company, and for the rental of telephone and furnishing telephonic communication by any telephone company or corporation.

Telephone System Must Not Discriminate.—In Telegraph Co. v. Telephone Co., 61 Vt. 241, 15 Am. St. Rep. 893, 3 Am. Elec. Cases, at p. 435, it is said: "A telephonic system is simply for the transmission of intelligence and news. It is, perhaps, in a limited sense, and yet in a strict sense, a common carrier. It must be equal in its dealings with all."

Telephones are public vehicles of intelligence, and they who own or control them can no more refuse to perform impartially the functions they have assumed to discharge than a railway company, as a common carrier, can refuse to discharge these functions. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 142, 59 S. E. 355.

In Clinton-Dunn Tel. Co. v. Carolina Tel. Co., 159 N. C. 9, 16, 74 S. E. 636, the court says of the duty and the remedy: "It is very generally recognized that a telephone company acting under a quasi public franchise, is properly classified among the public-service corporations, and as such is subject to public regulations and reasonable control, and is required to afford its service at uniform and reasonable rates and without discrimination among its subscribers and patrons for like service under the same or substantially similar conditions." Godwin v. Telephone Co., 190 N. C. 274, 133 S. E. 636; Walls v. Strickland, 174 N. C. 298, 300, 93 S. E. 857.

Mandamus to Compel Telegraphic Accommodations.—In Godwin v. Telephone Co., 156 N. C. 258, 259, 48 S. E. 365, the court declares: "A mandamus lies to compel a telephone company to place telephones and furnish telephonic facilities at the standard rates and under substantially similar conditions to other companies for like service, and abide by the reasonable regulations of the company." State v. Telephone Co., 52 Am. Rep. 404; Am. & Eng. Encyc. (2d Ed.), 1022, 19 ib., 877; Joyce on Electric Law, sec. 1036; Walls v. Strickland, 174 N. C. 298, 300, 93 S. E. 857.

When Message Transmitted Over Lines of Another Company.—Where a telegraph company has a continuous line between two points, by which it can order or confirm a telegram without the intervention of a messenger, it is absolutely necessary for it to properly maintain its system, allowing a reasonable profit, to meet the requirements of the public for adequate, safe, and convenient service. In re Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 122 N. C. 173, 29 S. E. 619.

Messages Transcending State Lines.—Telegraphic messages transmitted by a company from and to points in this State, although traversing another State in the route, are subject to the tariff regulations of the commission of this State. State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 113 N. C. 213, 18 S. E. 389.

Public Duty to Transmit Messages.—It is the duty of a telegraph company to transmit all messages over lines fixed by the commission to transmit all the business offered to it for all points at which it has offices, since it is not a mere private duty but a public duty which its franchise authorizes it to perform. Leavell v. Western Union Tel. Co., 98 N. C. 498, 37 S. E. 455.

Power to Ascertain Corporation in Control.—The commission has the incidental power (subject to the right of appeal) to determine whether a corporation is in the control of or operates any line in this State, in which it may exercise its authority to fix rates, as well as to know against whom to proceed for a violation of its regulations. State v. Western Union Tel. Co., 113 N. C. 213, 18 S. E. 389.

Cited in Russ v. Western Union Tel. Co., 222 N. C. 504, 23 S. E. (2d) 681. [665]
3. Persons, companies, and corporations, other than municipal corporations, engaged in furnishing electricity, gas, heat, light, water, gas, or owning or operating a public sewerage system in North Carolina.

Discrimination Remedied by Mandamus.—Where a public-service corporation has discriminated among its patrons in its charges for the same or similar service, a mandamus may be obtained to compel it to charge a uniform discriminating rate; for the question does not require the courts to fix a rate, or pass upon its reasonableness, the lowest rate charged becoming automatically, the proper rate. Corporation v. Service Co. v. Southern Power Co., 179 N. C. 18, 101 S. E. 593.

Rates Coextensive with State's Jurisdiction.—When the Commission has finally established, under the provisions of the statute, a rate or charge by a public service corporation for furnishing electrical power, the rates are coextensive with the State's jurisdiction and territory, and conclusive on all corporations, companies, or persons who are parties to the suit and have been afforded an opportunity to be heard. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Police Power of State.—The authority, conferred upon the Commission to establish reasonable and just rates of charges by a public-service corporation for furnishing its customers electrical power, comes within the police powers of the State. Rates so made are subordinate to the public interest that such rates be reasonable and just, and afford the corporation supplying the service a safe return on the investment invested proper regard to the public interest that plants of this character, and their operation and maintenance. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Sale or Use of Electricity Generated in Another State.—While the generation of electricity in another State when transported to purchasers in this State may be regarded as interstate commerce, its distribution and sale here is local, and the laws of the State may regulate it. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Hydroelectric Company Authorized to Sell to Other Companies.—Where a public-service corporation engages in a class of business authorized by its charter, it dedicates its property to that particular class of use, and where a hydroelectric company having a monopoly has been authorized by its charter to sell to other electric companies, etc., power, etc., for retail or distribution among customers, it may not resist the jurisdiction of our courts upon the ground that they were not legally required to do so, though the district in which each company is in a sense a competitor, and has the charter right to generate and distribute its own electricity. North Carolina Pub. Service Co. v. Southern Power Co., 179 N. C. 18, 101 S. E. 593.

4. The through transportation of freight, express or passengers.

5. The use of railway cars carrying freight or passengers.

6. And shall make rules and regulations as to contracts entered into by any railroad company or corporation to carry over its line or any part thereof the car or cars of any other company or corporation.

7. And it shall make, require or approve for in-transit shipments what is known as milling-in-transit, or warehousing in transit rates on grain, or cotton or peanuts or tobacco.

Editor's Note.—This subsection was amended by c. 37 of the Acts of 1925, by adding at the end the provision giving the Commission "authority to make, require and approve what is known as warehousing-in-transit rates on cotton." Corpus Juris of 1929, which is identical, substituted the above in lieu of the subsection as amended by the 1925 act.

Milling in Transit." Where freight is shipped a long distance and the carrier will, at its own cost, defray the expense of its change in form en route because of the easier handling in a more compact shape, as, for example, Cowan v. Bond, 39 Fed. 54, where a railroad company receiving cotton in Louisiana for shipment to mills in New England had it compressed en route at Vicksburg at its own expense, charging the shipper no more than if it had carried the uncompressed cotton all the way, the same privilege being open to all shippers. Lumber Co. v. Railroad Commission (Case 156 N. C. 479, 48 S. E. 813.

8. Any railroad, or with such railroad companies, shall have authority to make special rates for the purpose of developing all manufacturing, mining, milling and industrial improvements in the state.

Nothing in this chapter shall prohibit railroad or steamboat companies from making special passenger rates with excursion or other parties, also rates on such freights as are necessary for the comfort of such parties, subject to the approval of the commission.

The powers vested in the commission by this section over the several subjects enumerated shall be the same as that vested in it in respect to railroads and other transportation companies. (Rev., ss. 1096, 1099; 1899, c. 164, ss. 2, 14; 1903, c. 683; 1907, c. 465, ss. 4; 1913, c. 127, s. 2; 1917, c. 194; 1925, c. 37; 1929, cc. 82, 91; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1068.)

§ 62-123. Rates established deemed just and reasonable.—The rates or charges established by the commission shall be deemed just and reasonable, and any rate or charge made by any corporation, company, copartnership or individual engaged in the businesses enumerated in the preceding section other than those so established shall be deemed unjust and unreasonable. Provided, however, that this may be petitioned by any shipper or receiver of freight, and a hearing thereon, if the commission shall find the rates or charges collected to be unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory or preferential, the commission may enter an order awarding such petitioner a sum equal to the difference between such unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory or preferential rates or charges and the rates or charges found by the commission to be just and reasonable, nondiscriminatory and nonpreferential upon all shipments made or received by said petitioner within two years prior to the filing of such petition; provided, however, that this shall only apply to charges assessed and collected on and/or after March 19, 1929. (1913, c. 134, s. 8; 1929, cc. 1, 441, 342; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1067.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended twice by Public Laws of 1929. Chapter 241 inserted the first proviso and Chapter 342 added the other.

Burden of Proof.—The rates or charges, established by the Commission, shall be deemed just and reasonable. The burden was therefore upon the appellant to offer evidence sufficient for the jury to find upon appeal and under the instruction that the schedule of rates established by the Commission, in this case, was not just and reasonable to both petitioner and respondent. Corporation Comm. v. Henderson Water Co., 190 N. C. 70, 72, 128 S. E. 495.

Rates Other Than Those Fixed Deemed Unjust.—Including public-service corporations furnishing their customers electricity for power, etc., the Commission is authorized by statute to fix just and reasonable rates. The burden of proof was on the Commission that these rates are so fixed, other or lower rates are to be deemed unjust and unreasonable. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Deemed Reasonable Until Modified.—Under the provisions of our statute, § 62-20, any party affected by the order of the Commission as to rates or charges for passengers by direct rail or steamboat lines, or to the courts from such order, and the charges so fixed are to be considered just and reasonable charges for the services rendered, unless and until they shall be changed or modified on appeal or by the further action of the commission.
§ 62-124. How maximum rates fixed.—In fixing any maximum rate or charge, or tariff of rates or charges for any common carrier, person or corporation subject to the provisions of this chapter, the commission shall take into consideration if proved, or may require proof of, the value of the property of such carrier, person or corporation used for the public in the consideration of such rate or charge or the fair value of the service rendered in determining the value of the property so being used for the convenience of the public. It shall furthermore consider the original cost of construction thereof and the amount expended in permanent improvements thereon and the present compared with the original cost of construction of all its property within the state; the probable earning capacity of such property under the particular rates proposed and the sum required to meet the operating expenses of such carrier, person or corporation, and all other facts that will enable it to determine what are reasonable and just rates, charges and taxes. (Rev., s. 138; 1939, c. 164, s. 2, subsec. 1; 1935, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1068.)

Editor’s Note.—See 12 N. C. L. Rev. 289, 298, for comment on this section.

Section Controls.—In establishing rates the Commission is governed and controlled by the provisions of this section, Southern R. Co. v. McNeill, 155 Fed. 755, 760.

Word “Maximum” Explained.—The word “maximum,” used in an order of the Commission for fixing the rates of charges allowed to a petitioning public-service corporation, was not intended to mean that a descending rate therefrom was to be allowed under the contract set up by the customer or users, but to distinguish it from the word “minimum,” which also was used in reference to the subject. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Manner of Arriving at Rate. — Under the provisions of this section, which is a valid statute, the Commission, in fixing a reasonable and just rate of charges for public-service corporations, may make a fair estimated value of the property presently used, and in relation thereto consider the taxes, and all other charges, and operating expenses of the applicant. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

§ 62-125. Hearing before utilities commission upon request for change of rates, etc.—Whenever there shall be filed with the utilities commission any schedule stating an increase in any new individual or joint rate, fare, charge, or classification for the transportation of passengers or property by a public carrier or carriers by railroad, or express, or highway, or water, or any rule, regulation, or practice affecting such rate, fare, or charge, or the value of the service thereunder, the commission is hereby authorized and empowered upon complaint of any interested party or upon its own initiative at once and, if so ordered without answer or formal pleading by the interested carrier or carriers, but upon reasonable notice, to enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of such rate, fare, or charge, or such rule, regulation, or practice, and pending such hearing and the decision thereon the commission, by filing with such schedule and delivering to the carrier or carriers affected thereby a statement in writing and its reasons for such suspension, may suspend the operation of such schedule and defer the use of such rate, fare, or charge, or such rule, regulation, or practice, for a period of ninety days, and if the proceeding has not been concluded and a final order made within such period, the commission may, from time to time, extend the period of suspension by order, but not for a longer period in the aggregate than one hundred and eighty days beyond the time when it would otherwise go into effect; and after hearing, whether completed before or after the rate, fare, charge, classification, rule, regulation, or practice goes into effect, the commission may make such order with reference thereto as would be proper in a proceeding instituted after it had become effective. If the proceeding has not been concluded and an order made within the period of suspension, the proposed change of rate, fare, or charge, or classification, rule, regulation, or practice, may take effect, at the end of such period. At any hearing involving a rate, fare, charge, or classification, increased or sought to be increased, or involving a rule, regulation, or practice, resulting in an increase, the burden of proof shall be upon the carrier to show that the increased rate, fare, charge, or classification, rule, regulation, or practice, the proposed increased rate, fare, charge, or classification, or the proposed rule, regulation, or practice, is just and reasonable. (1939, c. 365, s. 3; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-126. Notice required for increase in rates, etc.—No increase shall be made in any rate, fare, charge, or classification, nor shall any change be made in any rule, regulation, or practice, the result of which will be an increase, which has been published and filed by any of the transportation companies named in the preceding section, except upon not less than thirty days’ notice to the commission and the public: Provided, that the commission may, in its discretion, and for good cause shown, authorize the publication and filing of increased rates, fares, charges, or classification, or rules, regulations, or practices, upon not less than thirty days’ notice. (1939, c. 365, s. 4; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-127. Revision of rates. —The commission shall from time to time, and as often as circumstances may require, change and revise or cause to be changed or revised any schedules of rates fixed by the commission, or allowed to be charged by any carrier of freight, passengers, or express, or by any telegraph or telephone company. The powers of the commission, under this section, shall be exercised with respect to railroad freight and passenger rates under the limitations prescribed by article 8 of this chapter and article 12 of the chapter entitled Railroads. (Rev., s. 1106; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1071.)

Cross Reference.—As to limitation of powers of utilities commission over railroad passenger rates, see § 60-93.

Limitation on Rate Fixing Authority. —Article 8 herein referred to is chapter 20, Laws Extra Session 1913, and it limited the authority of the Commission as to increasing the maximum rates for freight carriers. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 187 N. C. 424, 429, 121 S. E. 767.

Joint Rate between Lumber Road and Connecting Carrier. —When a lumber road is of standard gauge and of sufficient equipment and extensiveness to affect the interest of the public, the Commission may make a valid order establishing a joint rate of transportation between it and a connecting common carrier by rail to points beyond the initial road. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 187 N. C. 424, 121 S. E. 767.

§ 62-128. Long and short hauls. —It shall be unlawful for any common carrier to charge or re-receive any greater compensation in the aggregate for the transportation of passengers or of like kind of property under substantially similar circumstances and conditions for a shorter than for a longer distance over the same line in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer distance; but this shall not be construed as authorizing any common carrier within the terms of this chapter to charge and receive as great compensation for a shorter as for a longer distance: Provided, however, that upon application to the commission, such common carrier may in special cases be authorized to charge less for longer than for shorter distances for the transportation of passengers or property; and the commission may from time to time prescribe the extent to which such designated common carrier may be relieved from the operation of this section: Provided, that nothing in this chapter contained shall be taken as in any manner abridging or controlling the rates of freight charged by any railroad in this State for conveying freight which comes from or goes beyond the boundaries of the state and on which freight less than local rates on any railroad conveying the same are charged by such railroads. (Rev., s. 1107; 1899, c. 164, s. 14; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 9; 1915, c. 17, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1072.)

§ 62-129. Contracts as to rates.—All contracts and agreements between railroad companies as to rates of freight and passenger tariffs shall be submitted to the commission for inspection and correction, that it may be seen whether or not they are a violation of law or the rules and regulations of said commission, and all arrangements and agreements whatever as to the division of earnings of any kind by competing railroad companies shall be submitted to the commission for inspection and approval in so far as they affect the rules and regulations made by the commission to secure to all persons doing business with such companies just and reasonable rates of freight and passenger tariffs, and the commission may make such rules and regulations as to such contracts and agreements as may then be deemed necessary and proper, and any such agreements not approved by the commission, or by virtue of which rates shall be charged exceeding the rates fixed for freight and passengers, shall be deemed, held and taken to be violations of this chapter and shall be illegal and void. (Rev., s. 1108; 1899, c. 164, s. 8; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1073.)

§ 62-130. Rates to be published.—All carriers shall, whenever required by the commission, file with it a schedule of the rates for charges for freight and passengers, and the commission is authorized and required to publish the rates, or a summary thereof, in some convenient form for the information of the public, and quarterly thereafter the changes made in such schedules, if it deems it advisable. (Rev., s. 1109; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; 1907, c. 217, s. 5; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1074.)

Interstate Commerce.—In Virginia-Carolina Peanut Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line Co., 166 N. C. 63, 82 S. E. 1, it was much the same position of interstate freight rates, required by a provision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was not necessary to the effectiveness of the schedule of rates, such provision being merely for the convenience of the pub-§ 62-134. Free carriage.—Nothing in this chapter shall prevent or prohibit—

1. The carriage, storage, or handling of property free or at reduced rates for the United States, state or municipal governments, or for charitable or educational purposes; or for any corporation or association incorporated for the preservation and adornment of any historic spot, or to the employees or officers of such company or association while traveling in the performance of their duties, provided they shall not travel further than ten miles one way on any one trip free of charge or to or from fairs or exhibitions for exhibition thereof.

2. The free carriage of destitute or homeless persons transported by charitable societies, and the necessary agents employed in such transportation; or the free transportation of persons traveling in the interest of orphan asylums or homes for the aged, or infant, or any department thereof, or traveling secretaries of Railroad Young Men's Christian Associations, or ex-Confederate soldiers attending annual reunions.

3. The use of mileage or excursion or commutation passenger tickets.

4. Common carriers from giving reduced rates to ministers of religion, or to municipal governments for the transportation of indigent persons, or to inmates of national homes or state homes for disabled volunteer soldiers, and of soldiers' and sailors' orphan homes, including those about to enter and those returning home after discharge, under arrangements with the boards of managers of said homes.

5. Common carriers from giving free carriage to their own officers and employees and members of their families, or furloughed, pensioned, and supernumerated employees, persons who have become disabled or infirm in the service of such common carrier, and the remains of a person killed in the employment of a common carrier, and employees traveling for the purpose of entering the service of such common carrier, and the families of those persons named; also the families of persons killed, and the widows during widowhood, and minor children during minority of persons who died while in the service of such common carrier.

6. The principal officers of any common carrier from exchanging passes, franks or tickets with other common carriers for their officers or employees, and members of their families.

7. Transportation companies from contracting with newspapers for advertising space in exchange for transportation over their lines to such an extent as may be agreed upon between the parties for said consideration.

8. Transportation companies, if they so desire, from furnishing transportation to such agricultural extension and demonstration workers as are engaged in work in the field in efforts to increase production on the farm and to improve the farm home, when such workers are actually engaged in the performance of duties requiring travel.

9. Any common carrier that is operating under lease a railroad in this state, in which the state owns a majority of the capital stock, from giving free carriage, according to the contract of lease, to the officers and their families and the committees of the corporation owning such leased railroad, nor prevent such operating committee from issuing annually free transportation to employees of such lessor owning companies and their families in compliance with the contract of lease entered into by them or according to and for such period of time as may have been prescribed by any by-law of the lessor which was in force at the time such lease was made. (Rev., s. 1105; 1899, c. 164, s. 22; 1899, c. 642; 1901, c. 679, s. 2; 1901, c. 652; 1905, c. 313; 1911, cc. 49, 148; 1913, c. 100; 1915, c. 215; 1917, cc. 56, 160; C. S. 1070.)

Cross References.—As to free transportation by motor carriers, see § 62-115. As to accepting or giving free transportation illegally, see § 62-92.

Unlawful Transportation.—The transportation, by a common carrier, of any person except of the classes specified without charge, is unlawful the offense being the actual free transportation and not the issuance of the free pass. State v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1052, 30 S. E. 133.

A gratuitous passenger is not in pari delito with the common carrier. McNeill v. Railroad Co., 135 N. C. 682, 47 S. E. 765.

Injured while Riding on Pass Illegally Issued. — The right, privileges and protection attaching to the relation of passenger and common carrier is dependent upon consideration of the public policy, independent of contract, and arise from the nature of their public employment. Hence, one injured while riding on a pass illegally issued may recover from the railroad. McNeill v. Railroad Co., 135 N. C. 682, 47 S. E. 765.

Construction of Penal Statute.—In construing a penal statute prohibiting discrimination between passengers, the construction placed on it by common carriers generally, and by private individuals and officials, will not be considered. State v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1052, 30 S. E. 133.

Art. 8. Railroad Freight Rates.

§ 62-135. Charging or receiving greater rates forbidden.—No railroad company being engaged in the business of common carrier of property within the state of North Carolina shall charge, take, or receive any sum for carrying property entirely within the state of North Carolina between initial and terminal points which are within the state, greater than the amount specified by the utilities commission for the respective classes and commodities, and for the respective distances except in the manner and to the extent and on the conditions mentioned in this article. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 5; C. S. 1083.)

Cross References.—As to penalty for discrimination in rates, see §§ 60-5 and 60-6. As to charge in excess of printed tariffs, see § 60-110.

§ 62-136. Application for investigation of rates; appeal; rates pending appeal. — The utilities commission, or such commission or body upon which jurisdiction and power may be conferred to fix rates for the transportation of property to be charged by the railroads doing business in North Carolina, may, and upon request of any person directly interested in such charge shall, under rules and regulations fixed by law or prescribed and established by such commission, hear evidence as to the reasonableness of the maximum rates fixed by law, or by such commission or body, and establish such rates, in the manner prescribed and allowed by law, as may, in the judgment of said commission, be just, subject to the limitations fixed by this article; and from such an order of such commission any shipper or railroad company directly affected by such order may, under rules and regulations prescribed by such commission, appeal to the superior court of North Carolina: Provided, that pending the appeal of any railroad company from an order of such commission fixing the rate fixed by such order shall be no suspension of such order of such commission.

All incorporated cities and towns in the state are deemed to be directly interested in the rates charged for the transportation of property by railroads and other common carriers operating into and out of such municipalities and in any discrimination in such rates and services as between municipalities; and, their welfare being thereby affected, any incorporated city or town in North Carolina is authorized and empowered to file its petition with the utilities commission for investigation and determination of all matters affecting rates for the transportation of property by railroads and other common carriers to or from such municipality, to prevent or remove any unreasonable difference or discrimination, to its prejudice or disadvantage, between the rates or the services at, in or to another such municipality within the state; and such municipality shall have the right, as a party in interest, to be represented and appear before, and to appeal from any decision which may be rendered thereon by the utilities commission, in the manner provided by § 62-20. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1937, c. 401; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1903.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added the second paragraph of this section.

The authority given to municipalities to appear before the utilities commissioner and to appeal from his decisions relates to intrastate rates only, as the commissioner has no authority over interstate rates. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 366.

Commission to Investigate Rates upon Request.—This section expressly confers authority upon the Commission to investigate rates upon the request of any person directly interested. It permits that body to hear evidence as to the reasonableness of the maximum rates fixed by law or by the Commission, and to establish such rates as it may deem just. The authority conferred upon the Commission is plainly legislative. Atlantic Exp. Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 187 N. C. 424, 429, 121 S. E. 767.

§ 62-137. Rates between points connected by more than one route.—When there is more than one railroad route between given points in North Carolina, and freight is routed or directed by the shipper or consignee to be transported over a shorter route, and it is in fact shipped by a longer route between such points, the rate fixed by law or by such commission for the shorter route shall be the maximum rate which may be charged, and it shall be unlawful to charge more for transporting such freight over the longer route than the lawful charge for the shorter route. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 11; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1085.)

§ 62-138. Action for double amount of overcharge; penalty.—Any railroad company in the state of North Carolina which shall charge a rate for transporting property wholly within the state of North Carolina, between terminals within the state, in excess of that fixed by law or by the lawful order of such commission or board, and which shall omit to refund the same within thirty days after written notice and demand of the person or corporation overcharged, shall be liable to an action for double the amount of such overcharge, and to a penalty of ten dollars per day for each day's delay after thirty days from such notice, in case of shipments of less than carload lots, and to a penalty of twenty dollars per day in the event of shipments of carload lots. (Ex. Sess. 1919, c. 80, s. 12; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1085.)

Cross References.—As to overcharge and penalty therefor, see also § 62-110 and § 62-145.

§ 62-139. Double penalty.—Any railroad company so doing business in the state of North Carolina that shall knowingly charge a rate in excess of that fixed by law or by such board or commission for shipments wholly within the state, shall be subject to a penalty and shall pay double the penalty above prescribed. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 13; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1087.)

§ 62-140. Persons to receive penalties; accounts and receipts kept separate.—The penalties herein provided for shall be payable to the person or corporation who pays the freight or against whom the freight is charged, and such person or corporation may sue such railroad company and recover such penalty and the amount of such overcharge. The commission shall require the railroad companies, and may require all other public-service companies as are mentioned in this chapter, to keep separate the cost of doing interstate and intrastate business in North Carolina, and to keep separate receipts from the respective classes, and to direct the manner of keeping the accounts, and to enforce, by penalties, contempt, or otherwise as the law provides, obedience to its orders. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 14; 1933, c. 194, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1088.)

Art. 9. Penalties and Actions.

§ 62-141. For violating rules.—If any railroad company doing business in this state by its agents or employees shall be guilty of the violation of the rules and regulations provided and prescribed by the commission, and if after due notice of such violation given to the principal officer thereof, if residing in the state, or, if not, to the manager or superintendent or secretary or treasurer if residing in the state, or, if not, to any local agent thereof, ample and full remuneration for the wrong or injury done thereby to any person or corporation as may be directed by the commission shall not be made within thirty days from the time of such notice, such company shall incur a penalty for each offense of five hundred dollars. (Rev. s. 1086; 1899, c. 164, s. 15; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1105.)

Section Is Valid.—The section giving authority to the Commission after notice for failure of any railroad company to make full and ample remuneration for the violation of such rules and regulations to proceed in the courts, to enforce the penalties to be prescribed herein for such violation is valid without providing in detail the methods of procedure. Atlantic Exp. Co. v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393.

Duty to Enforce Rules and Orders.—While the Commission has no power to render a judgment for the payment of money, etc., it is their duty to enforce their rules and orders, and the power to do so is given by this section. Smith v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 536, 71 S. E. 398.

Right to Investigate Complaint.—Under this section the Commission had the undoubted right and it was eminently proper for them to institute an inquiry and inform them... selves as to whether a complaint was grounded in truth. They were not required to institute an action for the penalty simply because a citizen feeling himself aggrieved had made a complaint before them. They did right to investigate the matter for themselves, but the end of such investigation was simply to afford them information and enable them to act intelligently in determining whether they would sue for the penalty of $500 given by the statute.

§ 62-142. Refusing to obey orders of commission.—Any railroad or other corporation which violates any of the provisions of this chapter or refuses to conform to or obey any rule, order or regulation of the utilities commission shall, in addition to the other penalties imposed by this chapter, forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred dollars for each offense, to be recovered in an action to be instituted in the superior court of Wake County, in the name of the state of North Carolina on the relation of the utilities commission; and each day such company continues to violate any provision of this chapter or continues to refuse to obey or perform any rule, order or regulation prescribed by the utilities commission shall be a separate offense. (Rev., s. 1087; 1899, c. 164, s. 23; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1106.)

§ 62-143. Discrimination between connecting lines.—All common carriers subject to the provisions of this chapter shall according to their powers afford all reasonable, proper and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic between their respective lines and for the forwarding and delivering of passengers and freight to and from their several lines and those connecting therewith, and shall not discriminate in their rates, routes and charges against such connecting lines, and shall be required to make as close connection as practicable for the convenience of the traveling public. And common carriers shall obey all rules and regulations made by the commission relating to trackage. (Rev., s. 1088; 1899, c. 164, s. 21; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1935, c. 258; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1107.)

Cross Reference.—See also, § 60-7.

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 inserted the word "routes" making the section applicable to discrimination in routes.

As to the practice of specifying in published tariffs particular routes formed with connecting carriers, see foot note, 13 N. C. L. Rev. 364.

Declaratory of Common Law.—A similar section in the act creating the Railroad Commission was held, in Atlantic Exp. Co. v. Wilmington, etc., 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393, to be merely declaratory of the common law, and not to enlarge its scope.

May Require Trains to Make Connection.—The commission has power to require a railroad company to have a train arrive at a certain station on its road at a certain schedule time, so as to connect with the train of another company. Corp. Comm. v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 1, 49 S. E. 191.

Express Facilities.—A railroad company is not compelled to furnish express facilities to another to conduct an express business over its road the same as it provides for it—self or affords to any other express company. Atlantic Exp. Co. v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393.

§ 62-144. Failure to make reports.—Every officer, agent or employee of any railroad company, express or telegraphic company, who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to make and furnish any report required by the commission for the purposes of this chapter, or who shall wilfully or unlawfully hinder, delay or obstruct the commission in the discharge of the duties hereby imposed upon it, shall forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred dollars for each offense, to be recovered in an action in the name of the state. A delay of ten days to make and furnish such report is conclusive of the presumption that the same was willful. (Rev., s. 1089; 1899, c. 164, s. 18; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1108.)

Construction of Similar Statutes.—In construing a statute (Code of 1883, s. 160) which provided a similar penalty against corporations for failure to make the returns into the court, in State v. Marietta, etc., Railroad, 108 N. C. 647, 10 S. E. 79, it was held, that it could only be recovered in an action brought by the state. A private relator could not maintain the action.

§ 62-145. Offenses by railroads, not otherwise provided for.—If any railroad company shall violate the provisions of this chapter not otherwise provided for, such railroad company shall incur a penalty of one hundred dollars for each violation, to be recovered by the party injured. (Rev., s. 1090; 1899, c. 164, s. 17; C. S. 1109.)

Action Ex Contractu.—It would seem that an action for the penalty hereunder is an action ex contractu for breach of an implied contract to perform a statutory duty. State v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 126 N. C. 434, 36 S. E. 14.

Construction of Penal Statute.—The rule that a penal statute must be strictly construed, means no more than that the court, in ascertaining the meaning of such a statute, cannot go beyond the plain meaning of the words and phraseology employed in search of an intention not certainly implied by them, and where there is reasonable doubt as to the meaning of the words used in the statute, the court will not give them such an interpretation as to impose the penalty, nor will the purpose of the statute be extended by implication, so as to embrace cases not clearly within its meaning. Hines v Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 35 N. C. 454.

§ 62-146. Violation of rules, causing injury; damages; limitation.—If any railroad company doing business in this state shall, in violation of any rule or regulation provided by the commission, inflict any wrong or injury on any person, such person shall have a right of action and recovery for such wrong or injury, in any court having jurisdiction thereof, and the damages to be recovered shall be the same as in an action between individuals, except that in case of willful violation of law such railroad company shall be liable to exemplary damages: Provided, that all suits under this chapter shall be brought within one year after the commission of the alleged wrong or injury. (Rev., s. 1091; 1899, c. 164, s. 16; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1110.)

There is no requirement at common law, and no statute in the state, obliging railroad companies to fence their tracks. Jones v. Western North Carolina Railroad, 95 N. C. 328.

§ 62-147. Action for penalty; when and how brought.—An action for the recovery of any penalty under this chapter shall be instituted in the court in which the penalty has been incurred, and shall be instituted in the name of the state of North Carolina on the relation of the utilities commission against the company incurring such penalty; or whenever such action is upon the complaint of any injured person or corporation, it shall be instituted in the name of the state of North Carolina on the relation of the utilities commission against the company incurring such penalty. Such action shall be instituted and prosecuted by the attorney-general or the solicitor of the judicial district in which such penalty has been incurred. The procedure in such actions, the right of appeal and the rules regulating appeals shall be the same as are now provided by law in other civil actions. (Rev., s. 1092; 1899, c. 164, s. 15; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1111.)

§ 62-148. Remedies, cumulative.—The remedies given by this chapter to persons injured shall be regarded as cumulative to the remedies now given or which may be given by law against railroad corporations, and this chapter shall not be construed as repealing any statute giving such remedies. (Rev., s. 1093; 1899, c. 164, s. 26; C. S. 1112.)

Chapter 63.

Art. 1. Municipal Airports.

§ 63-1. Definition.—Airport or landing field for the purposes of this article is defined as any plot of land or water formally set aside, and designated as a place where aircraft may land or take off. (1929, c. 87, s. 1.)

§ 63-2. Cities and towns authorized to establish airports.—The governing body of any city or town in this state is hereby authorized to acquire, establish, construct, own, control, lease, equip, improve, maintain, operate, and regulate airports or landing fields for the use of airplanes and other aircraft, either within or without the limits of such cities and towns and may use for such purpose or purposes any property suitable therefor that is now or may at any time hereafter be owned or controlled by such city or town. (1929, c. 87, s. 2.)

Cross References.—As to power of eminent domain, see §§ 63-5 and 63-6. As to adoption of airport zoning regulations, see §§ 63-31 et seq.

§ 63-3. Counties authorized to establish airports.—The governing body of any county in this state is hereby authorized to acquire, establish, construct, own, control, lease, equip, improve, maintain, operate, and regulate airports or landing fields for the use of airplanes and other aircraft within or without the limits of such counties, and may use for such purpose or purposes any property suitable therefor that is now or may at any time hereafter be owned or controlled by such county. (1929, c. 87, s. 3.)

§ 63-4. Joint airports established by cities and towns and counties.—The governing bodies of any city, town and county in this state are hereby authorized to jointly acquire, establish, construct, own, control, lease, equip, improve, maintain, operate, and regulate airports or landing fields for the use of airplanes and other aircraft within or without the limits of such cities, towns and counties, and may use for such purpose or purposes any property suitable therefor that is now or may at any time hereafter be jointly owned or controlled by such city, town and county. (1929, c. 87, s. 4.)

§ 63-5. Airport declared public purpose; eminent domain.—Any lands acquired, owned, controlled, or occupied by such cities, towns, and/or counties, for the purposes enumerated in §§ 63-2, 63-3 and 63-4, shall and are hereby declared to be acquired, owned, controlled and occupied for a public purpose, and such cities, towns and/or counties shall have the right to acquire property for such purpose or purposes under the power of eminent domain as and for a public purpose. (1929, c. 87, s. 5.)

§ 63-6. Acquisition of sites; appropriation of moneys.—Private property needed by a city, town and/or county for an airport or landing field may be acquired by gift or devise or shall be acquired by purchase if the city town and/or county is or are able to agree with the owners on the terms thereof, and otherwise by condemnation, in the manner provided by law under which the city, town and/or county is or are authorized to acquire real property for public purposes, other than street purposes, or if there be no such law, in the manner provided for and subject to the provisions of the condemnation law. The purchase price, or award for property acquired for an airport or landing field may be paid for by appropriation... of moneys available therefor, or wholly or partly from the proceeds of the sale of bonds of the city, town and/or county, as the governing body and/or bodies of such city, town and/or county shall determine. (1929, c. 87, s. 6.)

Cross References.—As to proceedings for eminent domain, see §§ 40-11 et seq. As to zoning regulations and acquisition of air rights, see §§ 63-31, 63-32 and 63-36.

§ 63-7. Airports already established declared public charge; regulations and fees for use of.—The governing body or bodies of a city, town and/or county which has or has established an airport or landing field, and acquired, leased, or set apart real property for such purpose, may construct, improve, equip, maintain, and operate the same. The expenses of such construction, improvement, maintenance, and operation shall be a city, town and/or county charge as the case may be. The governing body or bodies of a city, town and/or county may adopt regulations and establish fees or charges for the use of such airport or landing field. (1929, c. 87, s. 7.)

§ 63-8. Appropriations.—The governing body or bodies of a city, town and/or county to which this article is applicable, having power to appropriate, individually or jointly, money therein, are hereby authorized to annually appropriate and cause to be raised by taxation in such city, town and/or county or to use from the net proceeds derived from the operation, by such city, town or county, of any public utility a sum sufficient to carry out the provisions of this article in such proportion and upon such pro-rata basis as may be determined upon by a joint board to be appointed by and from the governing body or bodies of the city, town and/or the county individually as the case may be. Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to permit the governing bodies of any county, city or town to issue bonds under the provisions of this article without a vote of the people. (1929, c. 87, s. 8.)

§ 63-9. Partial invalidity.—If any part or parts of this article shall be held to be unconstitutional, such unconstitutionality shall not affect the validity of the remaining parts of this article. The General Assembly expressly declares that it would have passed the remaining parts of this article, if it had known that such part or parts thereof would be declared unconstitutional. (1929, c. 87, s. 9.)

Art. 2. State Regulation.

§ 63-10. Definition of terms.—In this article “aircraft” includes balloon, airplane, hydroplane, and every other vehicle used for navigation through the air. A hydroplane while at rest on water and while being operated on or immediately above water shall be governed by the rules regarding water navigation; while being operated through the air otherwise than immediately above water, it shall be treated as an aircraft. “Aeronaut” and “airman” includes aviator, pilot, balloonist, and every other person having any part in the operation of aircraft while in flight. “Passenger” includes any person riding in an aircraft but having no part in its operation. (1929, c. 190, s. 1.)

§ 63-11. Sovereignty in space. — Sovereignty in space above the lands and waters of this State is declared to rest in the State, except where granted to and assumed by the United States. (1929, c. 190, s. 2.)

§ 63-12. Ownership of space.—The ownership of the space above the lands and waters of this State is declared to be vested in the several owners of the surface beneath, subject to the right of flight described in § 63-13. (1929, c. 190, s. 3.)

§ 63-13. Lawfulness of flight.—Flight in aircraft over the lands and waters of this State is lawful, unless at such a low altitude as to interfere with the then existing use to which the land or water, or the space over the land or water, is put by the owner, or unless so conducted as to be imminently dangerous to persons or property lawfully on the land or water beneath. The lawfulness of an aircraft in the lands or waters of another, without his consent, is unlawful, except in the case of a forced landing. For damages caused by a forced landing, however, the owner or lessee of the aircraft or the aeronaut shall be liable as provided in § 63-14. (1929, c. 190, s. 4.)

§ 63-14. Damage on land. — The owner of every aircraft which is operated over the lands or waters of this State is absolutely liable for injuries to persons or property on the land or water beneath, caused by the ascent, descent, or flight of the aircraft, or the dropping or falling of any object therefrom, whether such owner was negligent or not, unless the injury is caused in whole or in part by the negligence of the person injured, or of the owner or bailee of the property injured. If the aircraft is leased at the time of the injury to person or property, both owner and lessee shall be liable, and they may be sued jointly, or either or both of them may be sued separately. An aeronaut who is not the owner or lessee shall be liable only for the consequences of his own negligence. The injured person, or owner or bailee of the injured property, shall have a lien on the aircraft causing the injury to the extent of the damage caused by the aircraft or objects falling from it. (1929, c. 190, s. 5.)

§ 63-15. Collision of aircraft.—The liability of the owner of one aircraft, to the owner of another aircraft, or to aeronauts or passengers on either aircraft, for damage caused by collision on land or in the air shall be determined by the rules of law applicable to torts on land. (1929, c. 190, s. 6.)

§ 63-16. Jurisdiction over crimes and torts. — All crimes, torts, and other wrongs committed by or against an aeronaut or passenger while in flight over this State shall be governed by the laws of this State and the question whether damage occasioned by or to an aircraft while in flight over this State constitutes a tort, crime or other wrong by or against the owner of such aircraft shall be determined by the laws of this State. (1929, c. 190, s. 7.)

Cross References.—See also, § 63-24. As to criminal jurisdiction generally, see §§ 7-63 and 7-64.

§ 63-17. Jurisdiction over contracts.—All contractual and other legal relations entered into by aeronauts or passengers while in flight over this State shall have the same effect as if entered into on the land or water beneath. (1929, c. 190, s. 8.)
§ 63-18. Dangerous flying a misdemeanor.—Any aeronaut or passenger who, while in flight over a thickly inhabited area or over a public gathering within this State, shall engage in trick or acrobatic flying, or in any acrobatic feat, or shall except while in landing or taking off, fly at such a low level as to endanger the persons on the surface beneath, or drop any object except loose water or loose sand ballast, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars ($500.00) or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. (1929, c. 190, s. 9.)

§ 63-19: Repealed by Session Laws 1943, c. 543.

§ 63-20. Qualifications of operator; federal license.—The public safety requiring, and the advantages of uniform regulation making it desirable, in the interest of aeronautical progress, that a person engaging within this State in operating aircraft, in any form of aerial navigation for which a license to operate aircraft issued by the United States Government would then be required if such aerial navigation were interstate, should have the qualifications necessary for obtaining and holding such a license, it shall be unlawful for any person to engage in operating aircraft within the State, in any such form of aerial navigation, unless he have such Federal license. (1929, c. 190, s. 11.)

§ 63-21. Possession and exhibition of license certificate.—The certificate of the license, herein required, shall be kept in the personal possession of the licensee when he is operating aircraft within this State and must be presented for inspection upon the demand of any passenger, any peace officer of this State, or any official, manager or person in charge of any airport or landing field in this State upon which he shall land. (1929, c. 190, s. 12.)

§ 63-22. Aircraft; construction, design and airworthiness; federal registration.—The public safety requiring, and the advantages of uniform regulation making it desirable, in the interest of aeronautical progress, that aircraft to be operated within this State should conform, with respect to aeronautical progress, that aircraft to be operated within this State and must be presented for inspection upon the demand of any passenger, any peace officer of this State, or any official, manager or person in charge of any airport or landing field in this State upon which he shall land. (1929, c. 190, s. 12.)

§ 63-23. Penalties.—A person who violates any provision of §§ 63-20, 63-21 or 63-22 of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars ($100.00), or by imprisonment for not more than ninety days, or both; provided, however, that acts or omissions made unlawful by §§ 63-20, 63-21 or 63-22 of this article shall not be deemed to include any act or omission which violates the laws or lawful regulations of the United States. (1929, c. 190, s. 14.)

Art. 3. Stealing, Tampering with, or Operating While Intoxicated.

§ 63-25. Taking of aircraft made crime of larceny.—Any person who, under circumstances not constituting larceny shall, without the consent of the owner, take, use or operate or cause to be taken, used or operated, an airplane or other aircraft or its equipment, for his own profit, purpose or pleasure, steals the same, is guilty of larceny and is punishable accordingly. (1929, c. 90, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to larceny generally, see §§ 14-70 et seq. As to punishment, see § 14-2.

§ 63-26. Tampering with aircraft made crime.—Any person who shall without the consent of the owner, go upon or enter, tamper with or in any way damage or injure any airplane or other aircraft shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punishable by fine of not more than one hundred ($100.00) dollars or imprisonment of not more than sixty days, or both, in the discretion of the court and it shall not be necessary to conviction hereunder to show wilful or malicious intent. (1929, c. 90, s. 2.)

Cross References.—As to punishment, see § 14-2.

§ 63-27. Operation of aircraft while intoxicated made crime.—Any person who operates an airplane or other aircraft, whether on the ground or in the air while in an intoxicated condition, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by fine not to exceed one hundred dollars or by imprisonment not to exceed sixty days, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1929, c. 90, s. 3.)

Cross References.—As to punishment, see § 14-2.

§ 63-28. Infliction of serious bodily injury by operation of aircraft while intoxicated made felony.—Any person who, operating an airplane or other aircraft whether on the ground or in the air while in an intoxicated condition, does serious bodily injury to another shall be guilty of a felony. (1929, c. 90, s. 4.)

§ 63-29. Definitions.—As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Airport" means any area of land or water designed for the landing and taking off of aircraft and utilized or to be utilized by the public as a point of arrival or departure by air.

(2) "Airport hazard" means any overhead power line, not constructed, operated and maintained according to standard engineering practices in general use, which interferes with radio communication between a publicly owned airport and aircraft approaching or leaving same, or any structure or tree which obstructs the aerial approaches of such an airport or is otherwise hazardous to its use for landing or taking off.

(3) "Political subdivision" means any municipality, city, county, or town.
§ 63-30. Airport hazards not in public interest.—It is hereby found and declared that an airport hazard endangers the lives and property of users of the airport and of occupants of land in its vicinity, and also, if of the obstruction type, in effect reduces the size of the area available for the landing, taking off and maneuvering of aircraft, thus tending to destroy or impair the utility of the airport and the public investment therein, and is therefore not in the interest of the public health, public safety, or general welfare. (1941, c. 250, s. 1.)

§ 63-31. Adoption of airport zoning regulations.—(1) Every political subdivision may adopt, administer, and enforce, under the police power and in the manner and upon the conditions hereinafter prescribed, airport zoning regulations, which regulations shall divide the area surrounding any airport within the jurisdiction of said political subdivision into zones, and, within such zones, specify the land uses permitted, and regulate and restrict the height to which structures and trees may be erected or allowed to grow. In adopting or revising any such zoning regulations, the political subdivision shall consider, among other things, the character of the flying operations expected to be conducted at the airport, the nature of the terrain, the height of existing structures and trees above the level of the airport, the possibility of lowering or removing existing obstructions, and the views of the agency of the federal government charged with the fostering of civil aeronautics, as to the aerial approaches necessary to safe flying operations at the airport.

(2) In the event that a political subdivision has adopted, or hereafter adopts, a general zoning ordinance regulating, among other things, the height of buildings, any airport zoning regulations adopted for the same area or portion thereof under this article, may be incorporated in and made a part of such general zoning regulations, and be administered and enforced in connection therewith, but such general zoning regulations shall not limit the effectiveness or scope of the regulations adopted pursuant to this article.

(3) Any two or more political subdivisions may agree, by ordinance duly adopted, to create a joint board and delegate to said board the powers herein conferred to promulgate, administer and enforce airport zoning regulations to protect the aerial approaches of any airport located within the corporate limits of any one or more of said political subdivisions. Such joint boards shall have as members two representatives appointed by the chief executive officer of each political subdivision participating in the creation of said board and a chairman elected by a majority of the members so appointed.

(4) The jurisdiction of each political subdivision is hereby extended to the promulgating, administering and enforcement of airport zoning regulations to protect the approaches of any airport which is owned by said political subdivision but located outside the corporate limits of said political subdivision. In case of conflict with any airport zoning or other regulations promulgated by any other political subdivision, the regulations adopted pursuant to this section shall prevail.

(5) All airport zoning regulations adopted under this article shall be reasonable, and none shall require the removal, lowering, or other change or alteration of any structure or tree not conforming to the regulations when adopted or amended, or otherwise interfere with the continuance of any nonconforming use, except as provided in § 63-32, subsection (1).

(6) Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent trees existing at the time any zoning regulations are adopted to continue their natural growth. (1941, c. 950, s. 3.)

§ 63-32. Permits, new structures, etc., and variances.—(1) Permits.—Where advisable to facilitate the enforcement of zoning regulations adopted pursuant to this article, a system may be established by any political subdivision for the granting of permits to establish or construct new structures and other uses and to replace existing structures and other uses or make substantial changes therein or substantial repairs thereof. In any event, before any nonconforming structure or tree may be replaced, substantially altered or repaired, rebuilt, allowed to grow higher, or replanted, a permit must be secured from the administrative agency authorized to administer and enforce the regulations, authorizing such replacement, change or repair. No such permit shall be granted that would allow the structure or tree in question to be made higher or become a greater hazard to air navigation than it was when the applicable regulation was adopted; and whenever the administrative agency determines that a nonconforming structure or tree has been abandoned or more than eighty per cent torn down, destroyed, deteriorated, or decayed: (a) no permit shall be granted that would allow said structure or tree to exceed the applicable height limit or otherwise deviate from the zoning regulations; and (b) whether application is made for a permit under this paragraph or not, the said agency may by appropriate action compel the owner of the nonconforming structure or tree, at his own expense, to lower, remove, reconstruct, or equip such object as may be necessary to conform to the regulations or, if the owner of the nonconforming structure or tree shall neglect or refuse to comply with such order for ten days after notice thereof, the said agency may proceed to have the object so lowered, removed, reconstructed, or equipped. Except as indicated, all applications for permits for replacement, change or repair of nonconforming uses shall be granted.

(2) Variances.—Any person desiring to erect any structures, or increase the height of any structure, or permit the growth of any tree, or otherwise use his property, in violation of airport zoning regulations adopted under this article, may apply to the board of appeals, as provided in § 63-33, subsection (3), for a variance from the zoning regulations in question. Such variances shall be allowed where a literal application or enforcement of the regulations would result in practical difficulty or unnecessary hardship and the relief granted would not be contrary to the public interest but do substantial justice and be in accordance with the spirit of the regulations and this article.

(3) Obstruction Marking and Lighting. — In granting any permit or variance under this section, the administrative agency or board of appeals may, if it deems such action advisable to effectuate the purposes of this article and reasonable in the circumstances, so condition such permit or variance as to require the owner of the structure or tree in question to permit the political subdivision, at its own expense, to install, operate, and maintain suitable obstruction markers and obstruction lights thereon. (1941, c. 250, s. 4.)

§ 63-33. Procedure. — (1) Adoption of Zoning Regulations. — No airport zoning regulations shall be adopted, amended, or changed under this article except by action of the legislative body of the political subdivision in question, or the joint board provided for in § 63-31, subsection (3), after a public hearing in relation thereto, at which parties in interest and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard. At least fifteen days' notice of the hearing shall be published in an official paper, or a paper of general circulation, in the political subdivision or subdivisions in which the airport is located.

(2) Administration of Zoning Regulations—Administrative Agency. — The legislative body of any political subdivision adopting airport zoning regulations under this article may delegate the duty of administering and enforcing such regulations to any administrative agency under its jurisdiction, or may create a new administrative agency to perform such duty, but such administrative agency shall not be or include any member of the board of appeals. The duties of such administrative agency shall include that of hearing and deciding all permits under § 63-32, subsection (1), but such agency shall not have or exercise any of the powers delegated to the board of appeals.

(3) Administration of Airport Zoning Regulations—Board of Appeals. — Airport zoning regulations adopted under this article shall provide for a board of appeals to have and exercise the following powers:

(a) To hear and decide appeals from any order, requirement, decision, or determination made by the administrative agency in the enforcement of this article or of any ordinance adopted pursuant thereto;

(b) To hear and decide special exceptions to the terms of the ordinance upon which such board may be required to pass under such ordinance;

(c) To hear and decide specific variances under § 63-32, subsection (2). Where a zoning board of appeals or adjustment already exists, it may be appointed as the board of appeals. Otherwise, the board of appeals shall consist of five members, each to be appointed for a term of three years and to be removable for cause by the appointing authority upon written charges and after public hearing. The board shall adopt rules in accordance with the provisions of any ordinance adopted under this article. Meetings of the board shall be held at the call of the chairman and at such other times as the board may determine. The chairman, or in his absence the acting chairman, may administer oaths and compel the attendance of witnesses. All meetings of the board shall be public. The board shall keep minutes of its proceedings, showing the vote of each member upon each question, or, if absent or failing to vote, indicating such fact, and shall keep records of its examinations and other official actions, all of which shall immediately be filed in the office of the board and shall be a public record.

Appeals to the board may be taken by any person aggrieved, or by any officer, department, board, or bureau of the political subdivision affected, by any decision of the administrative agency. An appeal must be taken within a reasonable time, as provided by the rules of the board, by filing with the agency from which the appeal is taken and with the board, a notice of appeal specifying the grounds upon which the appeal is taken from which the appeal is taken shall forthwith transmit to the board all the papers constituting the record upon which the action appealed from was taken.

An appeal shall stay all proceedings in furtherance of the action appealed from, unless the agency from which the appeal is taken certifies to the board, after the notice of appeal has been filed with it, that by reason of the facts stated in the certificate a stay would, in its opinion, cause imminent peril to life or property. In such case proceedings shall not be stayed otherwise than by a restraining order which may be granted by the board or by a court of record on application on notice to the agency from which the appeal is taken and on due cause shown.

The board shall fix a reasonable time for the hearing of the appeal, give public notice and due notice to the parties in interest, and decide the same within a reasonable time. Upon the hearing any party may appear in person or by agent or by attorney.

The board may, in conformity with the provisions of this article, reverse or affirm, wholly or partly, or modify, the order, requirement, decision, or determination appealed from and may make such order, requirement, decision or determination as ought to be made, and to that end shall have all the powers of the administrative agency from which the appeal is taken.

The concurring vote of a majority of the members of the board shall be sufficient to reverse any order, requirement, decision, or determination of the administrative agency, or to decide in favor of the applicant on any matter upon which it is required to pass under any such ordinance, or to effect any variation in such ordinance. (1941, c. 250, s. 5.)

§ 63-34. Judicial review. — (1) Any person aggrieved by any decision of the board of appeals, or any taxpayer, or any officer, department, board, or bureau of the political subdivision, may present to the superior court a verified petition setting forth that the decision is illegal, in whole or in part, and specifying the grounds of the illegality. Such petition shall be presented to the court with-

§ 65-1 CHAPTER 65. CEMETERIES—RURAL

Chapter 65. Cemeteries.

Sec. 65-1. County commissioners to provide list of public and abandoned cemeteries. It shall be the duty of the boards of county commissioners of the various counties in the state to prepare and keep on record in the office of the register of deeds a list of all public cemeteries in the counties outside the limits of incorporated towns and cities, and not established and maintained for the use of an incorporated town or city, together with the names and addresses of the persons in possession and control of the same. To such list shall be added a list of the public cemeteries in the rural districts of such counties which have been abandoned, and it shall be the duty of the boards of county commissioners to furnish to the division of publications in the office of the Secretary of State copies of the lists of such public and abandoned cemeteries, to the end that it may furnish to the boards, for the use of the persons in control of such cemeteries, suitable literature, suggesting methods of taking care of such places. (1917, c. 101, s. 1; 1939, c. 316; C. S. 5019.)

§ 65-2. Appropriations by county commissioners. To encourage the persons in possession and control of the public cemeteries referred to in § 65-1 to take proper care of and to beautify such cemeteries, to mark distinctly their boundary line with evergreen hedges or rows of suitable trees, and otherwise to lay out the grounds in an orderly manner, the board of county commissioners of any county, upon being notified that two-thirds of the expense necessary for so marking and beautifying any cemetery has been raised by the local governing body of the institution which owns the cemetery, and is actually in hand, is hereby required to appropriate from the general fund of the county one-third of the expense necessary to pay for such work, the amount appropriated by the board of commissioners in no case to exceed fifteen dollars for each cemetery. (1917, c. 101, s. 2; C. S. 5020.)

§ 65-3. County commissioners to have control of abandoned cemeteries. The county commissioners of the various counties are required to take possession and control of all abandoned public cemeteries in their respective counties, to see that the boundaries and lines are clearly laid out, defined, and marked, and to take proper steps to preserve them from encroachment, and they are hereby authorized to appropriate from the general fund of the county whatever sums may be necessary from time to time for the above purposes. (1917, c. 101, s. 3; C. S. 5021.)

Art. 2. Care of Confederate Cemetery.

§ 65-4. State highway and public works commission to furnish labor.—The state highway and public works commission is hereby authorized and directed to furnish at such time, or times, as may be convenient, such prisoner's labor as may be available, to properly care for the Confederate Cemetery situated in the City of Raleigh, such services to be rendered by the State's prisoners without compensation. (1927, c. 224, s. 1; 1933, c. 172.)

Art. 3. Cemeteries for Inmates of County Homes.

§ 65-5. County commissioners may establish new cemeteries.—The boards of county commissioners of the various counties in the state are authorized and empowered to locate and establish new graveyards or cemeteries upon the lands of their respective counties for the burial of the inmates of the county homes. (1917, c. 151, s. 1; C. S. 5022.)

§ 65-6. Removal and reinterment of bodies.—Whenever the county commissioners have established new graveyards or cemeteries, they are authorized and empowered to remove to such graveyards or cemeteries all bodies of deceased inmates of the county homes. (1917, c. 151, s. 2; C. S. 5023.)

Art. 4. Trust Funds for the Care of Cemeteries.

§ 65-7. Money deposited with clerk of superior court.—For the maintenance and preservation of graves, burial plats, graveyards and cemeteries which may be neglected, any person, firm, or corporation may, by will or otherwise, place in the hands of the clerk of the superior court of any county in the state where such grave or lot is located any sum of money not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two thousand dollars, the income from which is to be used for keeping in good condition any grave, burial plat, graveyard, or cemetery in the county in which the money is placed, with specific instructions as to the use of the fund. (1917, c. 155, s. 1; C. S. 5024.)

§ 65-8. Separate record of accounts to be kept.—It shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court to keep a separate record for keeping account of the money deposited as above provided, to keep a perpetual account of the same therein, and to record therein the specific instructions about the use of the income on such money. He shall see that the income is spent according to such specific instructions, and shall make report of the same from year to year in the same manner as if it were guardian funds. (1917, c. 155, s. 1; C. S. 5025.)

§ 65-9. Funds to be kept perpetually.—All money placed in the office of the superior court clerk in accordance with this article shall be held perpetually, and no one shall have authority to withdraw or change the direction of the income on same. (1917, c. 155, s. 2; C. S. 5026.)

§ 65-10. Investment of funds.—Such money shall be invested in the same manner as is provided by law for the investment of other trust funds by the clerk of the superior court. (1917, c. 155, s. 3; 1943, c. 97, s. 1; C. S. 5027.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 65-11. Clerk's bond and fees; substitution of bank or trust company as trustee.—The official bond of the clerk of the superior court shall be liable for all such sums as shall be paid over to him on account of the provisions of this article. The clerk shall receive for his services and responsibilities a commission of ten per cent on the net income each year of such money; and the fees or commissions so received by him under this article shall not be taken into consideration as a part of his salary.

In lieu of the provisions of the first paragraph of this section, the clerk of the superior court may, with the consent and approval of the sheriff and register of deeds, appoint any bank or trust company authorized to do business in this state as trustee for the funds authorized to be paid into his office by virtue of this article; provided, that no bank or trust company shall be appointed as such trustee unless such bank or trust company is authorized and licensed to act as fiduciary under the laws of this state.

Before any clerk shall turn over such funds to the trustee so appointed, he shall require that the trustee so named qualify before him as such trustee in the same way and manner and to the same extent as guardians are by law required to so qualify. After such trustee has qualified as herein provided, all such funds coming into its hands may be invested by it only in the securities set out in § 5-55 and the income therefrom invested for the purposes and in the manner heretofore set out in this article. All trustees appointed under the provisions of this article shall render and file in the office of the clerk of the superior court all reports that are now required by law of guardians. (1917, c. 155, ss. 3, 4; 1939, c. 18; 1943, c. 97, s. 2; C. S. 5028.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added the second and third paragraphs. The 1943 amendment rewrote the first sentence of this section.

§ 65-12. Funds exempt from taxation.—All money referred to in the preceding sections of this article shall be exempt from all state, county, township, town, and city taxes. (1917, c. 155, s. 4; C. S. 5029.)

Cross Reference.—See notes and sections referred to under § 65-11.

Art. 5. Removal of Graves.

§ 65-13. Removal to enlarge or erect churches, etc., or to establish hydro-electric reservoirs.—In those cases where any church authorities desire to enlarge a church building and/or erect a new church and/or parish house and/or parsonage and where it becomes necessary or expedient to remove certain graves in order to secure the necessary room for such enlargement, it shall be lawful for such church authorities after thirty days' notice to the relatives of deceased, if any are known, and if none are known, then after notice posted at the church door for a like time, to remove such graves to a suitable plat in the church cemetery, or in another cemetery, due care being taken to protect tombstones and replace them properly, so as to leave the graves in as good con-

Art. 6. Cemetery Associations.

§ 65-15. Land holdings.—All cemetery associations or corporations created by any local, private or special act or resolution before January tenth, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen are authorized and fully empowered to hold amounts of land in excess of the limitation provided in the local, private or special act or resolution incorporating or chartering such cemetery association or corporation. (1923, c. 76, s. 1; C. S. 5030(b).)

§ 65-16. Change of name of association or corporations.—Any corporation or association chartered or incorporated by any special act of the legislature, as set forth in § 65-15, is authorized and fully empowered to change the name of such association or corporation by a majority vote of its directors, and upon such change in name it shall be the duty of the officers of the board of directors of such corporation or association to file with the secretary of state, and in the case of any incorporated by any special act of the legislature, as set forth in § 65-15, to change the name, which resolution must show the act of the legislature creating or incorporating the same, and the reasons for the change thereof. (1923, c. 76, s. 2; C. S. 5030(c).)

§ 65-17. Words and phrases defined.—When used in this article, the term "cemetery," "public cemetery," or "owner or owners" of such cemetery, as used in this article, includes only such corporations, associations, partnerships, or individuals, as are engaged in the operation for private gain or profit of a public cemetery for the interment of the dead of the human race or the sale of grave space or interment rights therein, and who advertise or offer perpetual care of grave space in connection therewith.

§ 65-18. Cemeteries to which article applies.—This article shall apply only to public cemeteries which are privately owned and operated for private gain or profit which may hereafter be established for such purpose, and which may advertise or offer perpetual care of grave space in connection therewith. (1943, c. 644, s. 1.)

Local Modification.—Buncombe: 1943, c. 644, s. 20.

§ 65-19. Removal after abandonment of cemetery.—When any person, firm, or corporation, owns any land on which is situated any cemetery or burying ground, and where it becomes necessary and expedient in the opinion of the governing body of the county or town in which any such graves are situated to remove said graves, it shall be lawful for such person, firm or corporation, after thirty days' notice to the relatives of the deceased persons buried therein, if any are known, and if none are known, then after thirty days' notice printed in some newspaper published in said county where said property lies, and if no newspaper is published in said county, then by posting notice at the courthouse door of said county, to remove said graves to a suitable plot in some other cemetery, due care being taken to protect tombstones and replace them properly so as to leave the graves in as good condition as before removal: Provided, that all of said work shall be done under the supervision of the county health officer and the board of county commissioners: Provided, further, that the conveyance of the land without reservation of the burying ground shall itself be evidence of the abandonment of the same sufficient for the purposes of this section. (1927, c. 175, s. 1.)
The words "burial commissioner," "burial association commissioner," or "commissioner" used herein shall be deemed to refer to the burial association commissioner of North Carolina, and the words "sale" or "conveyance," as used herein, unless obviously used in some other sense, shall be deemed to refer to and authorize any form of contract by means of which cemetery transfers or agrees to transfer to purchaser title to or exclusive right of interim in a grave space or family burial plot. (1943, c. 644, s. 2.)

§ 65-20. Reports by cemeteries to burial association commissioner.—Every such public cemetery shall, on or before July first one thousand nine hundred and forty-three, and on or before February first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-four, and on February first of each year thereafter, file or cause to be filed with the burial association commissioner of North Carolina, in his office in Raleigh, on forms to be supplied by said commissioner, a report giving the name of the cemetery, name of all owners thereof, name of managing or directing head, including name of sales manager or agency handling sales, if any, and stating whether or not such cemetery offers, directly or indirectly, or advertises perpetual care of burial lots or spaces sold to the public, together with copy of all forms of agreements offered to prospective purchasers, and shall, with said first report, file a plat of such cemetery, showing, as of date of ratification of this article, number and location of all lots actually surveyed and permanently staked, together with such other information as may be required under § 65-25, and as may be required by burial association commissioner of North Carolina. (1943, c. 644, s. 3.)

§ 65-21. Information as to perpetual care fund to be reported.—If such cemetery shall report that it advertises or claims to provide the perpetual care of lots or grave spaces included in its property, such report shall state the amount of its perpetual care fund as of date of above required report, manner of computing same, how and by whom controlled, description of securities in which fund is invested, and copies of all agreements entered into by the cemetery relating thereto. (1943, c. 644, s. 4.)

§ 65-22. Requirements for advertising of perpetual care fund.—No such cemetery shall hereafter cause or permit advertising of perpetual care fund in connection with the sale or offer for sale of its property unless the amount deposited in said fund from all sales made subsequent to the passage of this article shall be equal to not less than four dollars per grave space, sold, said sum to be deposited in perpetual care fund as provided in § 65-23. (1943, c. 644, s. 5.)

§ 65-23. Trustee for perpetual care fund; irrevocable trust agreement; investments.—The perpetual care fund for any cemetery licensed hereunder, as hereinafter authorized, shall immediately be turned over to a reliable trustee, to be approved by the North Carolina burial association commissioner, under an irrevocable trust agreement for safekeeping and for investment only in such securities as may now or hereafter be approved for the investment by a domestic insurance company of its legal reserve. The trustee may, by permission of said burial association commissioner, be changed from time to time, but the trust shall be irrevocable, and the form and substance of the agreement relating thereto shall be approved by the burial association commissioner. (1943, c. 644, s. 6.)

§ 65-24. Amount set aside in perpetual care fund; use of income.—Such cemetery shall set aside in its perpetual care fund not less than four dollars per grave space hereafter sold. The income on or derived from the investment of such fund may be used to defray expense of development, upkeep and maintenance of such cemetery. (1943, c. 644, s. 7.)

§ 65-25. Sale of lots under "certificate plan"; certificate indemnity fund.—If such cemetery shall offer for sale and sell its said lots or grave spaces under plan or agreement evidenced by certificate (hereinafter referred to as "certificate plan") which may involve the transfer of family burial plot or grave spaces, or exclusive right of interim therein, to families, individuals, or their representatives, conditioned upon the continuance or cessation of human life or upon limited pay plan or plans where death of certificate holder prior to payment of all sums due to be paid thereunder may terminate his or her liability for further payment, such cemetery shall set aside and reserve unencumbered and shall keep unencumbered lots or grave spaces suitable for burial in sufficient number to enable the cemetery to comply with the terms of each certificate issued, and shall set aside and deposit with the trustee of its perpetual care fund an additional one dollar per grave space sold, same to be known as "certificate indemnity fund" and continue the making of such deposit until from such sales the total deposits to credit of said fund shall amount to five thousand dollars, same to be held and invested separate and apart from the perpetual care fund of such cemetery, as a fund to indemnify lot and grave space purchasers against loss by reason of the cemetery's failure to reserve, unencumbered, the identical grave space(s) selected by purchaser, if selection has been made, and if not, a sufficient number of grave spaces suitable for burial to enable the cemetery to comply with the terms of its certificate, such fund to be calculated, become due, be deposited and invested, and the cemetery to become liable therefor, only in like manner as for such cemetery's perpetual care fund, and shall be maintained and kept separate so long as there is outstanding any liability of cemetery to reserve grave space under a certificate issued on the above plan, but income therefrom shall be paid to cemetery for such use as income from its perpetual care fund may be used. When such liability no longer exists, said fund shall become a part of the perpetual care fund of such cemetery. Any certificate holder sustaining any loss due to failure of the cemetery to comply with all of the provisions of this section shall have a right of action therefor against said cemetery and upon obtaining a final judgment, such certificate holder shall be entitled to an order directing said trustee to pay the amount of said judgment. Every cemetery licensed under this article shall set aside for and deposit in its perpetual care fund not less than four dollars per grave space agreed by cemetery to be reserved under certificate, or sold by cemetery under any other form of contract: Provided, purchaser is not in default in the payment of any premium or installment becoming due under such certificate or contract, such amount to become due to and be deposited in said fund as such payments are received by the cemetery: Provided, the total amount which said cemetery shall be required to pay into said fund annually shall be only such sum as may be equal to total amount of perpetual care deposit to become due under such certificate or contract, divided by the number of years required to purchase by the purchaser to qualify to receive conveyance agreed by cemetery to be made under such certificate or contract, or, if sale has been made under certificate providing for payment of premiums for life, division shall be by life expectancy of certificate holder, computed under American Men Table of Mortality: Provided, further, if purchaser shall pay off or otherwise discharge his or her obligations, as evidenced by certificate or contract, in advance of due date, the deposit of perpetual care shall be ratably increased. Perpetual care earned or deposited under contracts which are in default at time report to the burial association commissioner is required to be made hereunder, shall be deducted and shall not be considered in arriving at above total. The income only resulting from the investment of such fund may be used in the sole discretion of the cemetery for the purpose of defraying expense of developing and maintaining the cemetery. Detailed report of amount due to be deposited in such fund, showing the amount actually deposited therein, listed securities in which same is invested, and giving such other details as shall be required by the burial association commissioner, shall be made to said commissioner annually on the first day of February in each and every year, and more frequently if said commissioner, in his discretion, so requires. Upon compliance with the terms of this article, including the provisions contained in this section, such cemetery shall be licensed by burial association commissioner and may issue its contracts of sale of grave space or interment rights therein on the certificate plan and on any other plan not prohibited by law. A cemetery complying with all provisions of this article, excepting only those provisions authorizing the cemetery to operate under the certificate plan, shall be entitled to be licensed hereunder, but any cemetery failing to qualify to so operate shall not be entitled to issue or enter into a contract under such plan. (1943, c. 644, s. 8.)

§ 65-26. License and provision for perpetual care requisite for establishment of cemetery.—No corporation, association, partnership, or individual, shall, after the ratification of this article, be permitted to establish a public cemetery for private gain or profit without obtaining a license therefor, as provided in this article, and without providing for the perpetual care of such cemetery in accordance with the terms of this article, including the setting aside of an initial perpetual care fund of not less than five thousand dollars, and more frequently if said commissioner, in his discretion, so requires. Any such cemetery owner or manager who fails to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined two hundred dollars, or imprisoned for not exceeding thirty days. (1943, c. 644, s. 13.)

§ 65-27. Deposits in perpetual care fund when fund amounts to $100,000.00.—When the amount deposited in the perpetual care fund of such cemetery shall amount to one hundred thousand dollars, anything in this article to the contrary notwithstanding, the amount to be deposited in said fund thereafter shall be equal to not less than two dollars per grave space, instead of four dollars, said sum to be deposited in the perpetual care fund as provided in § 65-23. (1943, c. 644, s. 10.)

§ 65-28. Amount of deposits for perpetual care fund in certain instances.—Where such cemetery shall sell its lots for not exceeding thirteen dollars or less than eight dollars per grave space, as to such grave space so sold the amount to be deposited in the perpetual care fund shall be three dollars per grave space; if such lots shall be sold for not exceeding eight dollars per grave space, the amount deposited in the perpetual care fund shall be two dollars per grave space. (1943, c. 644, s. 11.)

§ 65-29. Agreements as to retention of perpetual care fund where cemetery property sold to municipality.—In event of the voluntary purchase by any city or town of a cemetery providing perpetual care of lots under this article, it shall be lawful for the cemetery to provide in its agreement with purchasers that in event of the voluntary purchase by such municipality of such cemetery property, such cemetery may retain for its own use any amount accumulated in such perpetual care fund on sale of lots made subsequent to the ratification of this article: Provided, such municipality purchasing and accepting a conveyance of said cemetery property shall, as part consideration for making by such cemetery of said conveyance, assume in writing all obligations of such cemetery in connection with the maintenance thereof. (1943, c. 644, s. 12.)

§ 65-30. Burial association commissioner to administer article; examinations.—This article shall be administered by the burial association commissioner of North Carolina, who shall make periodic examination of affairs of such cemeteries to ascertain whether they are in fact complying with the terms hereof. Examinations shall be made not less frequently than once a year and more frequently if by him deemed necessary. (1943, c. 644, s. 13.)

§ 65-31. Violation of article a misdemeanor.—Any such cemetery owner or manager who fails to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined two hundred dollars, or imprisoned for not exceeding thirty days. (1943, c. 644, s. 14.)

§ 65-32. Licenses for persons selling grave space; revocation.—All persons offering to sell grave space in any plan herein authorized shall be licensed by said commissioner without payment of any license fee, and such license, for good cause shown, may, in the discretion of the commissioner, be revoked. (1943, c. 644, s. 15.)

§ 65-33. Certain powers delegated to cemetery manager.—The superintendent, manager, and assistant superintendent of such cemetery shall have all the powers of a deputy sheriff of the county in which such cemetery is located to enforce the law, maintain order, abate nuisances, and prevent vandalism in such cemetery. (1943, c. 644, s. 16.)

§ 65-34. Prosecution of violations; revocation and restoration of license; article part of contracts.—It shall be the duty of the burial commissioner to prosecute or cause to be prosecuted all violations of this article, and upon the conviction of the owner or manager of a public cemetery of such violation, and upon failure of such owner or manager to correct such violation within thirty days thereafter, then, in addition to such other penalties as may result from such conviction, the burial commissioner may, in his discretion, revoke the license of such cemetery. Said commissioner may, in his discretion, upon application by such cemetery, thereafter restore to it its license if such cemetery corrects the violation of this article, on account of which its owner or manager was convicted, as well as any other violations thereof known to the commissioner. This article shall be written into and become a part, where applicable, of all contracts and certificates issued hereunder. (1943, c. 644, s. 17.)

§ 65-35. Effect of certain other laws.—This article shall not be subject to any other laws respecting insurance companies of any class, nor shall same be subject to the laws affecting the sale of securities or laws affecting mutual burial or assessment insurance associations, excepting only as this article, or amendments hereof, shall expressly provide. (1943, c. 644, s. 18.)

§ 65-36. Article not to apply to certain counties or cemeteries.—This article, anything to the contrary notwithstanding, shall not apply to any county, which, according to the last United States census, had a population of less than twenty-five thousand, nor shall it apply to any existing cemetery which does not advertise or charge for perpetual care of lots offered for sale to the public. Such existing cemetery shall have the right to advertise and provide perpetual care of its lots and to be licensed hereunder upon depositing in a perpetual care fund the amount per grave space applicable under the terms hereof. (1943, c. 644, s. 19.)

§ 66-5. Penalty for sale without inspection.—If any person shall sell any article of forage or provision, of which inspection is required in accordance with this article, without the same having been inspected as required, he shall, for every offense, forfeit and pay one hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 4672; Code, s. 3054; R. C., c. 60, s. 77; 1850, c. 74, s. 2; C. S. 5073.)

§ 66-6. Penalty on master receiving without inspection.—No master or commander of any vessel shall take on board any cask or barrel or other commodity, liable to inspection as aforesaid, without its being inspected and branded as required, under the penalty of two hundred dollars for each offense. (Rev., s. 4673, 4658; Code, ss. 3036, 3037; R. C., c. 60, s. 59; 1784, c. 206, s. 6; C. S. 5074.)

Local Modification.—Town of New Bern: C. S. 3074.

§ 66-7. Who to pay inspectors' fees; penalty for extortion.—The fees of inspectors shall be paid by the purchaser or exporter of the articles inspected, and if any inspector shall receive any greater fees than are by law allowed, he shall forfeit and pay ten dollars for every offense to any person suing for the same. (Rev., s. 4673; Code, s. 3055; R. C., c. 60, s. 79; 1824, c. 1254, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 5075.)

§ 66-8. Firewood in towns.—All firewood sold in incorporated towns shall be sold by the cord and not otherwise; and each cord shall contain eight feet in length, four feet in height and four feet in breadth; and shall be cored by the seller, under the penalty of two dollars for each offense, to the use of the informer. (Rev., s. 4667; Code, s. 3049; R. C., c. 60, s. 72; 1784, c. 211; 1880, c. 401; C. S. 5081.)
§ 66-9. Gas and electric light bills to show reading of meter.—It shall be the duty of all gas companies and electric light companies selling gas and electricity to the public to show, among other things, on all statements or bills rendered to consumers, the reading of the meter at the end of the preceding month, and the reading of the meter at the end of the current month, and the amount of electricity, in kilowatt hours, and of gas, in feet, consumed for the current month.

Any gas or electric light company failing to render bills or statements, as provided for in this section, shall be subject to a penalty of ten dollars for each violation of this section or failure to render such statements, recoverable before a justice of the peace by any person suing for the same; but this section shall not apply to bills and accounts rendered customers on flat rate contracts. (1915, c. 859; C. S. 5082.)

§ 66-10. Failure of junk dealers to keep record of purchases misdemeanour.—Every person, firm, or corporation buying brass or copper, or any other metal, or any rubber, or leather and rubber belts and belting, as junk, shall keep a register and shall keep therein a true and accurate record of each purchase, showing the description of the article purchased, the name from whom purchased, the amount paid for the same, the date thereof, and also any and all marks or brands upon said metal, rubber, or leather and rubber belts and belting. The said register and the metal and rubber, and leather and rubber belts and belting purchased shall be at all times open to the inspection of the public. A failure to comply with these requirements or the making of a false entry concerning such metals, rubber, or leather, or rubber belts or belting shall constitute a misdemeanor. (1917, c. 46; C. S. 5090.)

Local Modification.—Anson, Buncombe, Caldwell, Davidson, Randolph, Robeson: C. S. 5090; Stanly: 1939, c. 154.

§ 66-11. Dealing in certain metals regulated; purchasing from minors; violations of section misdemeanour.—Every person, firm, or corporation buying railroad brasses or any composition metal specially used in the operation of trains, or brasses, composition metals, or copper of the kind or quality used by manufacturing or power plants, shall keep a register and shall keep therein a true and accurate record of each purchase, showing the name of the person from whom purchased, the amount paid for the same, the date thereof, and also any and all marks or brands upon said metal, rubber, or leather and rubber belts and belting purchased shall be at all times open to the inspection of the public. A failure to comply with these requirements or the making of a false entry concerning such metals, rubber, or leather, or rubber belts or belting shall constitute a misdemeanor. (1915, c. 109, s. 12, II; C. S. 5114.)

§ 66-12. Requirements for matches permitted to be sold.—No person, association, or corporation shall manufacture, store, offer for sale, sell or otherwise dispose of or distribute white phosphorous, single-dipped, strike-anywhere matches of the type popularly known as “parlor matches”; nor manufacture, store, sell, offer for sale, sell or otherwise dispose of, or distribute, white phosphorous, double-dipped, strike-anywhere matches or any other type of double-dipped matches, unless the bulb or first dip of such match is composed of a so-called safety or inert composition, non-ignitable on an abrasive surface; nor manufacture, store, sell, or offer for sale, otherwise dispose of or distribute matches which when packed in a carton of five hundred approximate capacity and placed in an oven maintained at a constant temperature of two hundred degrees F., will ignite in eight hours; nor manufacture, store, offer for sale, sell or otherwise dispose of, or distribute, blazer, or so-called white-matches, whether of the so-called safety or strike-anywhere type. (1915, c. 109, s. 12, I; C. S. 5113.)

§ 66-13. Packages to be marked.—No person, association, or corporation shall offer for sale, sell or otherwise dispose of, or distribute, any matches, unless the package or container in which such matches are packed bears, plainly marked on the outside thereof, the name of the manufacturer and the brand or trade-mark under which the matches are sold, disposed of, or distributed. (1915, c. 109, s. 12, II; C. S. 5114.)

§ 66-14. Storage and packing regulated.—No more than one case of each brand of matches of any type or manufacture shall be opened at any one time in the retail store where matches are sold or otherwise disposed of; nor shall loose boxes or paper-wrapped packages of matches be kept on shelves or stored in such retail stores at a height exceeding five feet from the floor; all matches when stored in warehouses must be kept only in properly secured cases, and not piled to a height exceeding ten feet from the floor; nor be stored within a horizontal distance of ten feet from any boiler, furnace, stove, or other like heating apparatus; nor within a horizontal distance of twenty-five feet from any explosive material kept or stored on the same floor. All matches shall be packed in boxes or suitable packages, containing not more than seven hundred matches in the two portions shall be placed in one box or package; provided, however, that when more than three hundred matches are packed in any one box or package the said matches shall be arranged in two nearly equal portions, the heads of the matches in the two portions shall be placed in opposite directions, and all boxes containing three hundred and fifty or more matches shall have placed over the matches a center-holding or protecting strip, made of chip board, not less than one and one-quarter inches wide; said strip shall be flanged down to hold the matches in position when the box is nested into the shock or withdrawn from it. (1915, c. 109, s. 12, II; C. S. 5115.)
§ 66-15. Shipping containers regulated. — All match boxes or packages shall be packed in a strong shipping containers or cases; maximum number of match boxes or packages contained in any one shipping container or case shall not exceed the following number:

No shipping container or case constructed of fiber board, corrugated fiber board, or wood, nailed or wirebound, shall exceed a weight, including its contents, of seventy-five pounds; and no lock-cornered wooden case containing matches shall have a weight, including its contents, exceeding eighty-five pounds; nor shall any other article or commodity be packed with matches in any such container or case; and all such containers and cases in which matches are packed shall have plainly marked on the outside of the container or case the words “Strike-anywhere Matches” or “Strike-on-the-Box Matches.” (1915, c. 109, s. 12, III; C. S. 5116.)

§ 66-16. Violation of article a misdemeanor. — Any person, association, or corporation violating any of the provisions of this article shall be fined for the first offense not less than five dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars, and for each subsequent violation not less than twenty-five dollars. (1915, c. 109, s. 13, IV; C. S. 5117.)

Art. 3. Candy and Similar Products.

§ 66-17. Sale, etc., of candy or other food not complying with health and pure food laws.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, or agent of any person, firm or corporation, to consign, sell, possess or use any candy or other product within this state that does not comply with all federal and state health and pure food laws in force and effect in North Carolina. (1939, c. 323, s. 1.)

Editor’s Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 384.

§ 66-18. Manufacturer to pay tax upon products consigned to person, etc., other than licensed wholesale or retail merchant.—Any manufacturer of candy or similar products, or the agent of such manufacturer, who consigns any such products to any person, firm or corporation, or from the agent of any such manufacturer, of the names and addresses of all consignors, other than licensed merchants, to whom consignment of such merchandise is made. (1939, c. 323, s. 4.)

§ 66-19. Regulations as to possession and sale.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation other than a licensed wholesale or retail merchant in the state of North Carolina to consign, possess or use any article upon which the tax provided for in § 66-18 preceding is payable, or for any consignee to sell such product, unless the manufacturer thereof is registered with the commissioner of revenue of the state of North Carolina for payment of said tax. (1939, c. 323, s. 3.)

§ 66-20. Commissioner of revenue may require reports. — The commissioner of revenue shall have authority to require a report, at such times as he may require, from every person, firm or corporation manufacturing candy or similar products, or from the agent of any such manufacturer, of the names and addresses of all consignors, other than licensed merchants, to whom consignment of such merchandise is made. (1939, c. 323, s. 5.)

§ 66-21. Violators deprived of legal redress. —The consignor shall not have the right to sue in any court of law in this state for the collection of monies resulting from the sale of merchandise sold in violation of this article. (1939, c. 323, s. 5.)

§ 66-22. Violations made misdemeanor.—Any person convicted for the violation of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100.00) or imprisonment for not exceeding thirty days or both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court. (1939, c. 323, s. 6.)

Art. 4. Electrical Materials, Devices, Appliances and Equipment.

§ 66-23. Sale of electrical goods regulated.—Every person, firm or corporation before selling, offering for sale or exposing for sale, at retail to the general public or disposing of by gift as premiums or in any similar manner any electrical material, devices, appliances or equipment shall first determine if such electrical materials, devices, appliances and equipment comply with the provision of this article. (1933, c. 555, s. 1.)

§ 66-24. Identification marks required. — All electrical materials, devices, appliances and equipment offered for sale, exposed for sale at retail to the general public, or disposed of by gift as premiums or in any similar manner shall have the maker’s name, trademark, or other identification symbol placed thereon, together with such other markings giving voltage, current, wattage, or other appropriate ratings as may be necessary to determine the character of the material, device, appliance or equipment and the use for which it is intended; and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to remove, alter, change or deface the maker’s name, trademark or other identification symbol. (1933, c. 555, s. 2.)

§ 66-25. Acceptable listings as to safety of goods. —The electrical inspector shall accept, without further examination or test, the listings of Underwriters’ Laboratories, Inc., as evidence of safety of such materials, etc., so long as the listing continues in effect to his knowledge and, so long as information and experience have not demonstrated, in his judgment, that any specific listed materials, etc., are not safe.

The electrical inspector may accept as evidence of safety of such materials, etc., where not of § 66-26. Legal responsibility of proper installations unaffected.—This article shall not be construed to relieve from or to lessen the responsibility or liability of any party owning, operating, controlling or installing any electrical materials, devices, appliances or equipment for damages to persons or property caused by any defect therein, nor shall the electrical inspector be held as assuming any such liability by reason of the approval of any material, device, appliance or equipment authorized herein. (1933, c. 555, s. 3.)

§ 66-27. Violation made misdemeanor.—Any person, firm or corporation who shall violate any of the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred ($500.00) dollars or imprisonment for not more than thirty days. (1933, c. 555, s. 5.)

Art. 5. Sale of Phonograph Records or Electrical Transcriptions.

§ 66-28. Prohibition of rights to further restrict or to collect royalties on commercial use.—When any phonograph record or electrical transcription, upon which musical performances are embodied, is sold in commerce for use within the state, all asserted common law rights to further restrict or to collect royalties on the commercial use made of such recorded performances by any person is hereby abrogated and expressly repealed. When such article or chattel has been sold in commerce, any asserted intangible rights shall be deemed to have passed to the purchaser upon the purchase of the chattel itself, and the right to further restrict the use made of phonograph records or electrical transcriptions, whose sole value is in their use, is hereby forbidden and abrogated.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to deny the rights granted any person by the United States Copyright Laws. The sole intendment of this enactment is to abolish any common law rights attaching to phonograph records and electrical transcriptions, whose sole value is in their use, and to forbid further restrictions of the collection of subsequent fees and royalties on phonograph records and electrical transcriptions by performers who were paid for the initial performance at the recording thereof. (1939, c. 113.)

§ 66-29. Agreements for spraying, pruning, etc. —Every person, firm or corporation, who shall sell, barter or exchange any nursery stock in the state of North Carolina, who shall promise or agree, either in the written contract of sale, orally or otherwise, that such person, firm or corporation, selling, exchanging or bartering such nursery stock, will spray, prune or otherwise look after or service such nursery stock for any period of time after the said sale is made, shall before engaging in such business in the state of North Carolina post with the commissioner of agriculture a good and sufficient bond in the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) payable to the state of North Carolina, and conditioned that such person or corporation, shall well and truly comply with the contract of sale containing such promise and agreements either written or oral.

This regulation shall apply to any agent or employee of any person, firm or corporation engaging in such business in the state of North Carolina, but one bond given by the principal shall be sufficient for all agents representing such principal. (1939, c. 189.)

Art. 7. Tagging Secondhand Watches.

§ 66-30. Definitions.—The following terms as used in this article are hereby defined as follows:

(a) "Person" means a person, firm, partnership or corporation, but shall not include a receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, trustee under a mortgage deed of trust or contract securing any indebtedness, and executor or administrator while acting as such, or any person acting under an order of court or as a licensed pawnbroker.

(b) "Consumer" means an individual, firm, partnership, association or corporation, who buys for their own use or for the use of another, but not for resale.

(c) "Secondhand watch" means a watch as a whole, or any part thereof, which has previously been sold to a consumer, or a watch whose case or movement, serial numbers or other distinguishing numbers or identification marks have been erased, defaced, removed, altered or covered, or a watch any part of which has been replaced by parts from another make or model watch. (1941, c. 244, s. 1.)

§ 66-31. Tags required; "sell" defined.—Any person, or agent or employee thereof, who sells a secondhand watch, as herein defined, shall affix and keep affixed to the same a tag with the words "secondhand" legibly written or printed thereon in the English language. For the purpose of this subsection, "sell" includes an offer to sell or exchange, expose for sale or exchange, possess with intent to sell or exchange and to sell or exchange.

§ 66-32. Invoices delivered to purchasers; duplicate invoices, open to inspection.—Any person, or an agent or employee thereof, who sells a secondhand watch, shall deliver to the purchaser a written invoice or bill of sale, setting forth the name and address of the seller, the name and address of the purchaser, the date of the sale, and a full description of the secondhand watch so sold, with the serial numbers, if any, or other distinguishing numbers or identification marks on its case and movements. A duplicate of such invoice or bill of sale shall be kept on file by the vendor for at least one year from the date of such sale, and such duplicate shall be open to inspection during all business hours by any peace officer or by any person authorized by any such peace officer to make an investigation regarding same. (1941, c. 244, s. 3.)

§ 66-33. Advertisements.—Any person advertising in any manner secondhand watches for sale shall state in such advertising that the watches so advertised are secondhand watches. (1941, c. 244, s. 4.)

§ 66-34. Violation of article made misdemeanor.—Any person violating any of the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty ($50.00) dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty (30) days, or both. (1941, c. 244, s. 5.)

§ 66-35. Who may become public warehousemen.—Any person or any corporation organized under the laws of this state whose charter authorizes it to engage in the business of a warehouseman may become a public warehouseman and authorized to keep and maintain public warehouses for the storage of cotton, goods, wares, and other merchandise as hereinafter prescribed upon giving the bond hereinafter required. (Rev., s. 3029; 1901, c. 678; 1919, c. 212; C. S. 5118.)

Cited in Champion Shoe Machinery Co. v. Sellers, 197 N. C. 30, 147 S. E. 674.

§ 66-36. Bond required.—Every person or every corporation organized under § 66-35, to become a public warehouseman, except such as shall have a capital stock of not less than five thousand dollars, shall give bond in a reliable bonding or surety company, or an individual bond with sufficient sureties, payable to the state of North Carolina, in an amount not less than ten thousand dollars, to be approved, filed with and recorded by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the warehouse is located, for the faithful performance of the duties of a public warehouseman; but if such person or corporation has a capital stock of not less than five thousand dollars, then it shall not be required to give the bond mentioned in this section. (Rev., s. 3030; 1901, c. 678, s. 2; 1905, c. 540; 1908, c. 56; 1919, c. 212; C. S. 5119.)

§ 66-37. Person injured may sue on bond.—Whenever such warehouseman fails to perform any duty or violates any of the provisions of this article, any person injured by such failure or violation may bring an action in his name and to his own use in any court of competent jurisdiction on the bond of said warehouseman. (Rev., s. 3030; 1901, c. 678, s. 2.)

Carrier's Liability as Warehouseman.—The liability of a common carrier continues until notice is given consignee of arrival of shipment of goods at destination and a reasonable time given to remove it. Thereafter the carrier's liability is that of a warehouseman. Poythress v. Durham & Southern R. Co., 148 N. C. 391, 62 S. E. 515.

Cited in Champion Shoe Machinery Co. v. Sellers, 197 N. C. 30, 147 S. E. 674.

§ 66-38. When insurance required; storage receipts.—Every such warehouseman shall, when requested thereto in writing by a party placing property with it on storage, cause such property to be insured; every such warehouseman shall give to each person depositing property with it for storage a receipt therefor. (Rev., s. 3032; 1901, c. 678, s. 4; 1905, c. 540, s. 2; C. S. 5121.)

Cross Reference.—As to Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act, see §§ 27-1 et seq.

§ 66-39. Books of account kept; open to inspection.—Every such warehouseman shall keep a book in which shall be entered an account of all its transactions relating to warehousing, storing, and insuring cotton, goods, wares, and merchandise, and to the issuing of receipts therefor, which books shall be open to the inspection of any person actually interested in the property to which such entry relates. (Rev., s. 3035; 1901, c. 678, s. 7; C. S. 5122.)

§ 66-40. Unlawful disposition of property stored.—If any person unlawfully sells, pledges, lends, or in any other way disposes of or permits or is a party to the unlawful selling, pledging, lending, or other disposition of any goods, wares, merchandise, or any property in a public warehouse, without the authority of the party who deposited the same, he shall be punished by a fine not to exceed two thousand dollars and by imprisonment in the state's prison for not more than three years; but no officer, manager, or agent of such public warehouse shall be liable to the penalties provided in this section unless, with the intent to injure or defraud any person, he so sells, pledges, lends, or in any other way disposes of the same, or is a party to the selling, pledging, lending, or other disposition of any goods, wares, merchandise, article, or thing so deposited.

(Rev., s. 3831; 1901, c. 678, s. 11; C. S. 5123.)

Cross Reference.—As to warehouse receipts, see §§ 27-1 et seq.

§ 66-41. Permit from Insurance Commissioner.

—Any person, firm or corporation within the State of North Carolina engaging in the collection of accounts for a percentage consideration of the account collected, or upon any other basis than regular employment, shall, before engaging in such business within the State of North Carolina, apply to and receive from the Insurance Commissioner, a permit to engage in such business, which permit shall at all times be prominently displayed in the main office of the person, firm, or corporation to whom or to which the permit is issued, and the number of said permit shall be printed in bold type upon all letterheads, stationery and forms used by the person, firm or corporation holding said permit. (1931, c. 217, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The title of the Act from which this section was taken includes detective agencies, but the body of the act makes no reference to such agencies.

§ 66-42. Application to Commissioner for permit.—The person, firm, or corporation desiring to secure a permit as provided in § 66-41, make application to the Insurance Commissioner upon such form as the Commissioner may provide, and shall submit with such application any and all information which the Commissioner may require to assist him in determining the financial condition, business integrity, method of operation and protection to the public officered by the person, firm or corporation filing the application. All information submitted shall be sworn to by the responsible officer, member of the firm, or individual, as in each case necessary, and the Commissioner shall have the right to require any and all additional information which, in his judgment, might assist him in determining whether or not the applicant is entitled to the permit sought. (1931, c. 217, s. 2.)

§ 66-43. Hearing granted applicant if application declined; appeal.—If, for any reason, upon the application made and upon the consideration of the data submitted with the application or items, the Commissioner shall be of the opinion that a permit should not be issued to the applicant, he shall decline the same, giving notice of his action to the applicant. Following notice, the applicant shall have ten days within which to submit additional information in support of his application, and if, upon further hearing upon the application and additional information, the Commissioner shall again decline to issue the permit, the applicant shall have the right to appeal to the Superior Court and his appeal shall stand for hearing in the Superior Court of the Wake County of Wake, and the evidence, data and information submitted to the Commissioner shall constitute the record in the Superior Court, and the same shall be heard by the Judge of the Superior Court to determine whether or not the Commissioner had evidence sufficient to justify his action. (1931, c. 217, s. 3.)

§ 66-44. Application fee; issuance of permit; contents and duration.—Upon the filing of the application and information hereinafter required, the commissioner may require the applicant to pay a fee of $50.00, and no permit may be issued until this fee is paid. The commissioner may issue a permit if he finds it proper, and in that case no part of the $50.00 shall be returned. If the application is denied, the commissioner shall retain $5.00 of the application fee and return the remainder to the applicant. The $5.00 so retained upon applications not granted, and the full fee of $50.00 upon applications granted, shall be used in paying the expenses incurred in connection with the consideration of such applications and the issuance of such permits.

Each permit shall state the name of the applicant, his place of business, and the nature and kind of business he is engaged in. The commissioner shall assign to the permit a serial number for each year beginning with July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one. Each permit shall be for a period of one year, beginning with July first and ending with June thirtieth of the following year. (1931, c. 217, s. 4.)

§ 66-45. Revocation of permit.—If the Commissioner shall have issued any permit to any person, firm, or corporation as herein provided, and shall have information that the holder of the permit is not conducting his business in a business-like way, he shall notify the holder of the permit of a date for a hearing, which notice shall name a time and place for the hearing, and at which hearing any and all evidence as to the conduct of the business may be heard by the Commissioner. If, upon the hearing of the evidence, the Commissioner shall be of the opinion that the applicant is not entitled to the permit, the Commissioner shall cancel said permit, after which time it shall be unlawful for the person, firm or corporation whose permit is cancelled to engage in the business covered by the permit. If the permit be cancelled upon hearing, either the holder of the permit or the complaining party shall have the right to appeal as hereinbefore provided in case the application is denied, and the record of the hearing before the Commissioner shall be the record in the Superior Court upon which the Judge shall determine whether or not the Commissioner had sufficient evidence upon which to base his action. (1931, c. 217, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—Though "business-like way," as used in this section, is an exceedingly indefinite standard of conduct, the statute is probably valid, in view of the right of appeal to the courts. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 390.

§ 66-46. Rules and regulations; schedule of fees.—The Commissioner shall have the right to make any rules or regulations necessary to enforce the provisions of this article and may approve schedules of fees and methods of collecting the same, or make any other rule or regulation necessary to secure the proper conduct of the business referred to in this article. (1931, c. 217, s. 6.)

§ 66-47. Violation of article a misdemeanor.

—Any person, firm or corporation who shall engage in the business referred to in this article without first receiving a permit, or who shall fail to secure a renewal of his permit upon the expiration of the license year, or shall engage in the business herein referred to after the permit has been canceled as herein provided, or who shall fail or refuse to furnish the information required of the Commissioner, or who shall fail to observe the rules and regulations made by the Commissioner pursuant to this article, shall, upon conviction, be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable in the discretion of the court. (1931, c. 217, s. 7.)

§ 66-48. Disposition of fees.—All fees collected hereunder shall be credited to the account of the Insurance Commissioner for the specific purpose of providing the personnel, equipment and supplies necessary to enforce this article, but the Director of the Budget shall have the right to budget the revenues received in accordance with the requirements of the Commissioner for the purposes herein required, and at the end of the fiscal year, if any sum whatever shall remain to the credit of the Commissioner, derived from the sources herein referred to, the same shall revert to the General Treasury of the State to be appropriated as other funds. (1931, c. 217, s. 8.)

§ 66-49. Attorneys at law and local county agencies excepted.—Nothing in this article shall be construed to apply to legally licensed attorneys at law engaged in the practice of the profession of law unless, however, such attorneys shall engage in the business herein referred to under a trade name or as a corporation, nor shall this article apply or be construed to apply to any person, firm or corporation whose business of collecting accounts is limited to the collection of such accounts against debtors having residence in the county of the residence of such person or firm, or the principal office of such corporations so engaged in such business. (1931, c. 217, s. 9.)

Art. 10. Fair Trade.

§ 66-50. Title of article.—This article may be known and cited as the “Fair Trade Act.” (1937, c. 350, s. 10.)

§ 66-51. Definitions.—The following terms, as used in this article, are hereby defined as follows: (a) “Commodity” means any subject of commerce. (b) “Producer” means any grower, baker, maker, manufacturer, bottler, packer, converter, processor or publisher. (c) “Wholesaler” means any person selling a commodity other than a producer or retailer. (d) “Retailer” means any person selling a commodity to consumers for use. (e) “Person” means an individual, a corporation, a partnership, an association, a joint-stock company, a business trust or any unincorporated organization. “Person” shall not include the state of North Carolina or any of its political subdivisions. (1937, c. 350, s. 1.)

Editor’s Note.—For a discussion of the act from which this article was codified, see 15 N. C. Rev., No. 4, p. 357.

§ 66-52. Authorized contracts relating to sale or resale of commodities bearing trademark, brand or name.—No contract relating to the sale or resale of a commodity which bears, or the label or container of which bears, the trade-mark, brand, or name of the producer or distributor of such commodity and which commodity is in free and open competition with commodities of the same general class produced or distributed by others, shall be deemed in violation of any law of the state of North Carolina by reason of any of the following provisions which may be contained in such contract: (a) That the buyer will not resell such commodity at less than the minimum price stipulated by the seller. (b) The buyer will agree to resell any article of such commodity to consumers for use at not less than the stipulated minimum price. (c) That the seller will not sell such commodity: (1) To any wholesaler, unless such wholesaler agrees not to resell the same to any retailer unless the retailer will agree not to resell the same except to consumers for use and at not less than the stipulated minimum price, and such wholesaler will likewise agree not to resell the same to any other wholesaler unless such other wholesaler will make the same agreement with any wholesaler or retailer to whom he may resell; or (2) To any retailer, unless the retailer agrees not to resell the same except to consumers for use and at not less than the stipulated minimum price. (1937, c. 350, s. 2.)

Article Is Constitutional.—The North Carolina Fair Trade Act, permitting the manufacturer or distributor of trade-marked goods to establish the minimum retail sale price of such goods by contract with wholesalers and retailers, and providing that sale by retailers not parties to the contracts at prices less than those stipulated in the contracts should be deemed unfair competition, is not void as creating or tending to create monopolies in contravention of Art. I, § 31, of the state Constitution, since the restrictions imposed by the act are limited and apply solely to trade-marked goods in their vertical distribution from manufacturer or distributor through the wholesalers and retailers to the consumer, which goods are sold by the retailer in competition with goods of the same general class of other manufacturers or, in the case of patented goods, in competition with comparable products of other manufacturers, and therefore the act does not create or tend to create a monopoly by horizontal agreements between persons in the same business in competition with each other. Lilly & Co. v. Saunders, 216 N. C. 163, 4 S. E. (2d) 528, 125 A. L. R. 130 (1936).

The North Carolina Fair Trade Act, permitting the establishment of minimum retail prices on trade-marked goods by agreement, does not deprive a retailer not a party to a contract with the manufacturer or distributor of any property right in preventing such retailer from selling the trade-marked article at a price less than that stipulated by contract, since such retailer acquires title with knowledge and subject to the stipulations relative to the minimum retail price permitted by the law. Lilly & Co. v. Saunders, 216 N. C. 163, 4 S. E. (2d) 528, 125 A. L. R. 130 (1936).

Nor is it a special act regulating trade in contravention of Constitution, Art. II, § 29. (1937, c. 350, s. 10.)

§ 66-53. Certain evasions of resale price restrictions, prohibited.—For the purpose of preventing evasion of the resale price restrictions imposed in respect of any commodity by any contract entered into pursuant to the provisions of this article (except to the extent authorized by the said contract): (a) The offering or giving of any article of value in connection with the sale of such commodity;

(b) The offering or the making of any concession of any kind whatsoever (whether by the giving of coupons or otherwise) in connection with any such sale;
(c) The sale or offering for sale of such commodity in combination with any other commodity shall be deemed a violation of such resale prices restriction, for which the remedies prescribed by § 66-56 shall be available. (1937, c. 350, s. 3.)

§ 66-54. Contracts with persons other than the owner of the brand, etc., not authorized.—No minimum resale price shall be established for any commodity, under any contract entered into pursuant to the provisions of this article, by any person other than the owner of the trade-mark, brand or name used in connection with such commodity or a distributor specifically authorized to establish said price by the owner of such trade-mark, brand or name. (1937, c. 350, s. 4.)

§ 66-55. Resales not precluded by contract.—No contract containing any of the provisions enumerated in § 66-53 shall be deemed to preclude the resale of any commodity covered thereby without reference to such contract in the following cases:
(a) In closing out the owner’s stock for the bona fide purpose of discontinuing dealing in any such commodity and when plain notice of the fact is given to the public: Provided, the owner of such stock shall give to the producer or distributor of such commodity prompt and reasonable notice in writing of his intention to close out said stock, and an opportunity to purchase such stock at the original invoice price;
(b) When the trade-mark, brand or name is removed or wholly obliterated from the commodity and is not used or directly or indirectly referred to in the advertisement or sale thereof;
(c) When the goods are altered, second-hand, damaged or deteriorated and plain notice of the fact is given to the public in the advertisement and sale thereof, such notice to be conspicuously displayed in all advertisements and to be affixed to the commodity;
(d) By any officer acting under an order of court.
(e) When any commodity is sold to a religious, charitable or educational organization or institution, provided such commodity is for the use of such organization or institution and not for resale. (1937, c. 350, s. 5.)

§ 66-56. Violation of contract declared unfair competition.—Wilfully and knowingly advertising, offering for sale or selling any commodity at less than the price stipulated in any contract entered into pursuant to the provisions of this article, whether the person so advertising, offering for sale or selling is or is not a party to such contract, is unfair competition and is actionable at the suit of any person damaged thereby. (1937, c. 350, s. 6.)

Retailer Deemed to Contract in Contemplation of Article.—The fact that a manufacturer or distributor of trade-marked commodities permits the sale of such commodities to a noncontracting retailer does not preclude the manufacturer or distributor from maintaining a suit against such retailer under this article, since the manufacturer or distributor has the option to obtain a contract or rely upon the statute, and since the sale to the noncontracting retailer does not confer upon him the right to violate the statute with reference to which he is deemed to have contracted in making the purchase. Lilly & Co. v. Saunders, 216 N. C. 163, 4 S. E. (2d) 528, 125 A. L. R. 1308.

Permanently Injunction Authorized.—This section authorizes a suit by a manufacturer or distributor protected by the act against a noncontracting retailer to permanently enjoin such retailer from selling trade-marked commodities of the manufacturer or distributor in violation of the act upon allegations of accrued and prospective irreparable damages. Lilly & Co. v. Saunders, 216 N. C. 163, 4 S. E. (2d) 528, 125 A. L. R. 1308.

Reasonable Profit Is No Defense.—The fact that a retailer makes a reasonable profit upon trade-marked articles is no defense in a suit against such retailer for selling such articles at a price below that allowed by this article, since the standard of the statute is one of retail price and not of reasonable profit. Lilly & Co. v. Saunders, 216 N. C. 163, 4 S. E. (2d) 528, 125 A. L. R. 1308.

§ 66-57. Exemptions.—This article shall not apply to any contract or agreement between or among producers or distributors or, except as provided in sub-division (c) of § 66-52, between or among wholesalers, or between or among retailers, as to sale or resale prices. This article shall not apply to any prices offered in connection with or contracts or purchases made by the state of North Carolina or any of its agencies, or any of the political subdivisions of the said state. (1937, c. 350, s. 7.)

§ 66-58. Sale of merchandise by governmental units.—It shall be unlawful for any unit or agency of the state government or any individual employee or employees of any such unit or agency in his, or her, or their capacity as employee or employees of said unit or agency to purchase for or sell to any person, firm or corporation any article of merchandise in competition with citizens of the state: Provided, however, that as regards educational institutions, the provisions of this section shall not apply to articles produced incident to the operation of an instructional, department, or incident to educational research, or articles of merchandise incident to classroom work, meals, books and/or other articles of merchandise not exceeding fifteen cents in value when sold to members of the educational staff, or staff auxiliary to education, or sold to duly enrolled students, or to members of charitable institutions, or on occasion to immediate members of the families of members of the educational staff or of duly enrolled students: Provided further, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to the sale of meals, or merchandise aforesaid, to persons attending meetings or conventions at state institutions as invited guests of such institutions, or to the products of experiment stations at any state institution: Provided further, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to the sale of learned journals or books, or to the business operation of endowment funds established for the purpose of producing income for educational purposes: Provided further, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to counties and municipalities, to the state board of health, to the division of purchase and contract, to the state highway and public works commission, to state hospitals for the insane, to the state commission for the blind, to the North Carolina school for the blind at Raleigh, to the North Carolina school for the deaf at Morganton, to Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone, to Western Carolina Teachers College at Cullowhee, or to any state correctional institutions or agencies, or to farm, dairy, livestock, or poultry products of any state institution or agency; provided that nothing in this section shall apply to Highlands School in Macon county; provided further, that this section shall not be construed to apply to any high school or public school. Provided further, that this section shall not apply to child-caring institutions or orphanages receiving state aid.

Any person knowingly or willfully violating the provisions of this section shall be subject to a fine of ten dollars for each such violation. (1939, c. 122.)

§ 66-59. Title of article.—The title of this article shall be “An Act to Prevent the Perpetration of Certain Fraudulent Practices by Photographers within the State of North Carolina.” (1943, c. 25, s. 1.)

§ 66-60. Definitions.—The term “photographer” as used herein shall mean any individual, firm, partnership, association, corporation, or other group or combination acting as a unit.

The term “coupon” as used herein shall mean any coupon, certificate, receipt or similar device, by whatever name called.

The term “solicitor” as used herein shall mean any agent, salesman, employee, solicitor, canvasser, or any other person acting for or on behalf of a photographer. (1943, c. 25, s. 2.)

§ 66-61. Coupons redeemable in products of photography prohibited unless bond given.—No photographer or solicitor shall sell or issue any coupon, whether for a consideration or otherwise, purporting to be exchangeable, redeemable, or payable, in whole or in part, for any product of photography, including photographs, coloring, tinting, frames, mounts, folders, copying or the reproduction of photographs, and all other products of photography, unless the principal for which said business is conducted shall first file with the clerk of the superior court in each and every county in which said business is to be conducted a good and sufficient bond in the principal sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00), the condition of such bond being that the principal shall well and truly discharge all contracts, representations and other obligations made by said principal and all contracts, representations and other obligations made by any solicitor of such principal. (1943, c. 25, s. 3.)

§ 66-62. Method of withdrawing bond.—The coupons, as above defined, issued in any county shall be serially numbered, and before any bond, herein required to be filed, can be withdrawn, the principal on said bond shall file a sworn statement with the clerk of the superior court, in a form approved by said clerk, showing the lowest and highest serial number of the coupon, the total number issued, and the total number that has been redeemed. On the unredeemed coupons, the said principal shall show the name and address of the person to whom the said coupon was issued; that each of said persons have been notified, in writing, at the address shown, at least thirty (30) days prior thereto, to redeem said coupons, or otherwise that said coupon would become void on a day certain stated in said notice. (1943, c. 25, s. 4.)

§ 66-63. Remedies for loss sustained through non-performance of obligation in connection with sale of coupons.—Any person sustaining any loss or damage by reason of any photographer or solicitor failing to fully perform and discharge any contract, representation or other obligation in connection with the sale of any coupon purporting to be exchangeable, redeemable or payable, in whole or in part, for any product of photography, whether such contract, promise or representation be made by the photographer or solicitor, may recover in any court of competent jurisdiction against the principal and his, her or its surety, the sum of twenty-five dollars ($25.00), in addition to any actual loss or damage sustained, and any amount so recovered shall be a specific lien on the bond filed as herein required. (1943, c. 25, s. 5.)

§ 66-64. Violation a misdemeanor.—Any person violating the provisions of this article, including the make of any false statement in the affidavit required under § 66-62, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1943, c. 25, s. 6.)

§ 66-65. Indemnity bonds required of agents, etc., to state maximum liability and period of liability.—Wherever any person, firm, or corporation, engaged in the business of merchandising any articles whatsoever, shall require of its agents, solicitors, salesmen, representatives, consignees, or peddlers, or other persons selling or handling its merchandise, as a condition precedent to selling or handling any of the merchandise of said person, firm, or corporation, that such agents, solicitors, salesmen, representatives, consignees, or peddlers should furnish and provide a bond or guaranty or indemnity contract guaranteeing the full and faithful accounting of moneys collected from such merchandise, such bond or indemnity contract shall state specifically therein the maximum amount of money or other liability which the principal and the sureties or guarantors thereof undertake thereby to pay in event of default of said bond or indemnity or guaranty contract; and said bond or indemnity or guaranty contract shall also state specifically the period of time during which liability may be incurred on account of any default in said bond or indemnity or guaranty contract.

Any bond or indemnity or guaranty contract which does not comply with the provisions of this section shall be null and void and no action may be maintained against the surety or guarantor to recover any sum due thereon in any court of this state. (1943, c. 604, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 66-66. Manufacture or sale of anti-freeze solutions compounded with inorganic salts or petroleum distillates prohibited.—The manufacture or sale of anti-freeze solutions which are designated, intended, advertised, or recommended by the manufacturer or seller for use in the cooling systems of motor vehicles or gasoline combustion engines, and which are compounded with calcium Art. 1. Owner's Liability.

§ 67-1. Liability for injury to livestock or fowls.

If any dog, not being at the time on the premises of the owner or person having charge thereof, shall kill or injure any livestock or fowls, the owner or person having such dog in charge shall be liable for damages sustained by the injury, killing, or maiming of any livestock, and costs of suit. (1911, c. 3, s. 1; C. S. 1669.)

Editor's Note.—By the ancient common law dogs were considered as of too base a nature to be the subject of larceny. But now they are deemed property for which an action will lie for wrongful injury. As to liability for wrongfully killing a dog, see Beasley v. Byrum, 163 N. C. 3, 79 S. E. 270; State v. Smith, 156 N. C. 628, 72 S. E. 321.

The property in dogs therefore, is not of the same character as that of ordinary domestic animals, in which the right of property is absolute, but it is of an imperfect or qualified nature. Sentell v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 166 U. S. 698, 701, 17 S. Ct. 693, 41 L. Ed. 1169.

The law authorizes the killing of a dog found on a man's premises in the act of attempting to destroy his sheep, calves, cows in a warren, deer in a park or other reclaimed animals used for human food and unable to defend themselves. 67-29. Accompanying blind persons in public conveyances, etc.

Perry v. Phipps, 32 N. C. 259. See also, 1 Enc. Dig. 347 et seq.

§ 67-4. Failing to kill mad dog.—If the owner of any dog shall know, or have good reason to believe, that his dog, or an animal belonging to any person under his control, has been bitten by a mad dog, and shall neglect or refuse immediately to kill the same, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars to him who will sue therefor; and the offender shall be liable to pay all damages which may be sustained by any one, in his property or person, by the bite of any such dog, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, finally, not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev. s. 3305; Code, s. 2499; R. C. c. 67; C. S. 1672.)

Cross References.—As to killing mad dogs, see §§ 67-14, 67-27. As to rabies, vaccination, etc., generally, see §§ 106-370 et seq.

Actual Knowledge Unnecessary.—In an action under this section it is not necessary to prove that the biting dog was in fact mad. The words "good reason to believe" apply both to the condition of the biting dog and to the fact that the dog was bitten by a mad dog. Wallace v. Douglas, 32 N. C. 79.

Dog Can Be Destroyed.—If owner refuses to destroy a dog, which is mad or is bitten by a mad dog, he subjects himself to the possibility of a fine and imprisonment and the dog can be destroyed by order of the justice issuing the warrant under this section. Beasley v. Byrum, 153 N. C. 3, 4, 79 S. E. 270.

For the effect of contributory negligence on the part of the person bitten by a mad dog, see Holton v. Moore, 165 N. C. 549, 61 S. E. 779.

Art. 2. License Taxes on Dogs.

§ 67-5. Amount of tax.—Any person owning or keeping about him any open female dog of the age of six months or older shall pay annually a license or privilege tax of two dollars. Any person owning or keeping any male dog, or female dog other than an open female dog of the age of six months or older, shall pay annually on each dog so owned or kept a license or privilege tax of one dollar. (1919, c. 116, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 1673.)

Local Modification.—Cherokee: 1933, c. 90; Clay: 1933, c. 301; Graham: 1931, c. 35; Macon: 1933, c. 301; Swain: 1933, c. 149.

Cross Reference.—As to credit of vaccination fee on dog tax, see § 106-92.

Constitutional Exercise of Police Power.—A statute imposing a specified tax upon all persons owning or keeping a dog within a certain county is for the privilege of keeping the dog therein and comes under the police regulations of the state. It is therefore constitutional and valid and will not be restrained. Newall v. Green, 169 N. C. 423, 66 S. E. 299; McAlister v. Vance County, 212 N. C. 208, 193 S. E. 141.

§ 67-6. License tags; optional with county commissioners.—To every person paying the license or privilege tax prescribed in § 67-5 there shall be issued by the sheriff a metal tag bearing county name, a serial number, and expiration date, which shall be attached by owner to a collar to always be worn by any dog when not on premises of the owner or when engaged in hunting. The superintendent of public instruction shall at all times keep on hand a supply of tags to be furnished the sheriffs of the several counties. Provided, that the county commissioners of each county shall, by order duly made in regular session, make an order determining whether the collar and tag shall be applied to that county. (1919, c. 116, s. 25; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 37; C. S. 1674.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by ch. 37, Ex. Sess. 1920 by having the metal tags kept by the superintendent of public instruction. They were formerly kept by the commissioner of agriculture.

§ 67-7. Dogs to be listed; penalty for failure to list.—It shall be the duty of every owner or keeper of a dog to list the same for taxes at the same time and place that other personal property is listed, and the various tax lists in the state shall have proper abstracts furnished them for listing dogs for taxation, and any person failing or refusing to list such dog or dogs shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. The owner of the home or residence of such owner shall be responsible for listing of any dog belonging to any member of his family. (1919, c. 116, s. 3; C. S. 1675.)

Local Modification.—Mitchell: Pub. Loc. 1925, c. 265. (See § 67-12.)

§ 67-8. When tax is due.—The license or privilege tax herein imposed shall be due and payable on the first day of October of each and every year. (1919, c. 116, s. 3; 1943, c. 119; C. S. 1676.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment omitted a provision as to penalty for failure to pay tax.

§ 67-9. Receipt for tax a license.—Upon the payment to the sheriff or tax collector of the license or privilege tax aforesaid, such sheriff or tax collector shall give the owner or keeper of such dog or dogs a receipt for the same which shall constitute a license under the provisions of this article. (1919, c. 116, s. 3; C. S. 1677.)

§ 67-10. Tax listers to make inquiry, compile reports; compensation.—The tax listers for each township, town, and city in this state shall annually, at the time of listing property as required by law, make diligent inquiry as to the number of dogs owned, harbored, or kept by any person subject to taxation. The list-takers shall, on or before the first day of July in each year, make a complete report to the sheriff or tax collector on a blank form furnished them by the proper authority, setting forth the name of every owner of any dog or dogs, how many of each and the sex owned or kept by such person. The county commissioners may pay the tax listers for such services such amounts as may be just out of the money arising under this article. (1919, c. 116, ss. 4, 6; C. S. 1678.)

§ 67-11. Purchasers to ascertain listing.—Any person coming in possession of any dog or dogs after listing time shall immediately ascertain whether such dog or dogs have been listed for taxes or not, and if not so listed, it is hereby made the duty of such owner or keeper of such dog or dogs to go to the sheriff or tax collector of his county and list such dog or dogs for taxes, and it is made the duty of the owner or keeper of such dog or dogs to pay the privilege or license tax as is herein provided for in other cases. (1919, c. 116, s. 4; C. S. 1679.)

§ 67-12. Permitting dogs to run at large at night; penalty; liability for damage.—No person shall allow his dog over six months old to run at large in the night time unaccompanied by the owner or when engaged in hunting. The superintendent of public instruction shall at all times keep on hand a supply of tags to be furnished the sheriffs of the several counties. Provided, that the county commissioners of each county shall, by order duly made in regular session, make an order determining whether the collar and tag shall be applied to that county. (1919, c. 116, s. 25; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 37; C. S. 1674.)
§ 67-13. Proceeds of tax to school fund; proviso, payment of damages; reimbursement by owner.—The money arising under the provisions of this article shall be applied to the school funds of the county in which said tax is collected. Provided, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners, upon complaint made to them of injury to person or injury to or destruction of property by any dog, upon satisfactory proof of such injury or destruction, to appoint three freeholders to ascertain the amount of damages done, including necessary treatment, if any, and all reasonable expenses incurred, and upon the coming in of the report of such jury of the damage as aforesaid, the said county commissioners shall order the same paid out of any moneys arising from the tax on dogs as provided for in this article. And in cases where the owner of such dog or dogs is known or can be ascertained, he shall reimburse the county to the owner of such dog or dogs is known or can be ascertained, he shall reimburse the county to

§ 67-20. Special dog tax submitted to voters on petition. — Upon the written application of one-third of the qualified voters of any county in this state made to the board of commissioners of such county, asking that an election be held in said county to adopt the provisions of this article for levying and collecting a special dog tax in said county, it shall be the duty of said board of commissioners from time to time to submit the question of "special dog tax" or "no special dog tax" to the qualified voters of said county; and if at any such election a majority of the votes cast shall be in favor of said special dog tax, then the provisions of this article shall be in full force and effect over the whole of said county, and the special dog tax hereinafter provided for shall be levied and collected in said county; but if a majority of the votes cast at such election shall be against said special dog tax, then the provisions of this article shall not apply to any part of said county. (1917, c. 206, s. 1; C. S. 1686.)

§ 67-21. Conduct of elections.—Every election held under the provisions of this article shall be held and conducted under the same rules and regulations and according to the same penalties provided by law for the election of members of the general assembly: Provided, that no such election shall be held in any county oftener than once in two years. (1917, c. 206, s. 3; C. S. 1687.)

§ 67-22. Commissioners to provide for registration; ballots and machinery. — The board of commissioners of any county in this state in which an election is to be held under the provisions of this article may provide for a new registration of voters in said county if they deem necessary, or they may provide for the use of the registration of voters in effect at the general election for county officers in said county next preceding the holding of the election hereunder, and they shall appoint such officers as may be necessary to properly hold such election and shall designate the time and places for holding such elections, and make all rules, regulations, and do all other things necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this article. (1917, c. 206, s. 4; C. S. 1688.)

§ 67-23. Canvass of votes and returns.—At the close of said election the officers holding same shall canvass the vote and certify the returns to the said board of commissioners of said county, and the said board of commissioners shall canvass the said returns and declare the results of said election in the manner now provided by law for holding special-tax school elections. (1917, c. 206, s. 4; C. S. 1689.)

§ 67-24. Contents and record of petition; notice of election. — The qualified voters of any county who shall make written application to the board of commissioners of said county asking that an election be held under the provisions of this article shall designate and insert in said application the amount of special dog tax to be levied and collected in said county, which tax shall not exceed the sum of five dollars nor be less than the sum of one dollar for each dog, whether male or female, and the board of commissioners shall have said written application, specifying the amount of said special dog tax to be voted for in said county, recorded in the records of their proceedings, and shall cause to be published in some newspaper published or circulated in said county, and posted at the courthouse door and five other public places in said county, a notice of the time and places for holding said election and specifying the amount of tax to be voted for in said county. (1917, c. 206, s. 5; C. S. 1690.)

§ 67-25. License tax.—Any person or persons, firm or corporation, owning or keeping any dog or dogs, whether male or female, in any county which shall adopt the provisions of this article for the levy and collection of said special dog tax shall pay annually a license or privilege tax on each dog, whether male or female, such sum or sums as may be designated and inserted in the written application of the qualified voters of said county asking for said election and as recorded in the proceedings of the board of county commissioners of said county, which shall not exceed the sum of five dollars nor be less than the sum of one dollar for each dog: Provided, the tax voted for and levied on female dogs may be greater than the tax on male dogs, but in no event shall said special tax exceed the sum of five dollars, nor be less than the sum of one dollar for any dog, whether male or female. (1917, c. 206, s. 6; C. S. 1691.)

Local Tax Valid.—The Legislature may empower the authorities of any city or town to regulate the manner in which dogs may be kept in the said town. Hence a tax levied under this authority is constitutional and valid. Mowery v. Salisbury, 82 N. C. 175.

§ 67-26. Collection and application of tax.—The special dog tax voted for under the provisions of this article shall be due and collectible at the same time and in the same manner as provided by law for the collection of taxes on other personal property in said county, and shall be collected by the collector of other taxes in said county in the same manner and under the same penalties provided by law for collection of taxes on other personal property in said county, and shall be applied to the road fund, or school fund, of said county, as may be directed by the board of commissioners of said county. (1917, c. 206, s. 8; C. S. 1692.)

Cross Reference.—As to application of the proceeds of the general dog tax, see § 67-13.

§ 67-27. Listed dogs protected; exceptions.—Any person who shall steal any dog which has been listed for taxation as herein provided shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court; and any person who shall kill any dog the property of another, after the same has been listed as herein provided, shall be liable to the owner in damages for the value of such dog. Nothing in this article shall prevent the killing of a mad dog, sheep-killing dog, or egg-sucking dog on sight, when off the premises of its owner, and the owner shall not recover any damages for the loss of such dog. (1917, c. 206, s. 9; C. S. 1693.)

Cross References.—As to listed dogs as personal property, see § 67-15. As to larceny of taxed dogs, a misdemeanor, see § 14-84.

§ 67-28. Application of article to counties having dog tax.—Any county in this state which now has a local law taxing dogs may, by election in the manner herein provided for, accept the provisions of this article, and if adopted by a majority of the qualified voters of said county at such election, the local law taxing dogs in such county shall thereby be repealed and annulled, and the provisions of this article shall be in full force and effect in such county. (1917, c. 206, s. 10; C. S. 1694.)

§ 67-29. Accompanying blind persons in public conveyances, etc.—Any blind person accompanied by a dog described as a “seeing-eye dog,” or any dog educated by a recognized training agency or school, which is used as a leader or guide, is entitled with his dog to the full and equal accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of all public conveyances, and all places of public accommodation, subject only to the conditions and limitations applicable to all persons not so accompanied. (1943, c. 111.)

Chapter 68. Fences and Stock Law.

Sec. 68-1. Fences to be five feet high.
68-2. Local: Four and a half feet in certain counties.
68-3. Watercourse made lawful fence by county commissioners.
68-4. Injury to wire fence forbidden.
68-5. Local: Building unguarded barbed-wire fences along public highways.

Art. 2. Division Fences.

68-6. Division fences maintainable jointly.
68-7. Remedy against delinquent owner.
68-8. Fence erected because of changed use of land.
68-9. When owner may remove his part of division fence.
68-10. Proceeding to value division fence.
68-12. Register to record report.
68-13. Final judgment on report; effect.

Art. 3. Stock Law.

68-15. Term “stock” defined.
68-16. County elections.
68-17. Township elections.
68-18. District elections.
68-20. How election conducted.

Art. 1. Lawful Fences.

§ 68-1. Fences to be five feet high.—Every planter shall make a sufficient fence about his cleared ground under cultivation, at least five feet high, unless otherwise provided in this chapter, unless there shall be some navigable stream or deep watercourse that shall be sufficient, instead of such fence, and unless his lands shall be situated within the limits of a county, township or district wherein the stock law may be in force. (Rev., s. 1660; Code, s. 2790; R. C., c. 48, s. 1; 1777, c. 121, s. 2; 1791, c. 354, s. 1; C. S. 1827.)

Requirements Mandatory.—Proof that plaintiff’s fence is a “good ordinary one” such as the neighbors have, does not dispense with the obligation imposed by this section. Runyan v. Patterson, 87 N. C. 343.

A pasture field is not “ground under cultivation,” within the meaning of this section, irrespective of whether it is woods pasture or cleared pasture. State v. Perry, 64 N. C. 305, 306.

The word “planter” as used in this section does not include hirelings, laborers or employees who have no discretion as to the plans for fencing. State v. Taylor, 69 N. C. 547.

Effect of Failure to Comply with Section.—If the statujury requirement is not complied with one cannot recover damages caused by animals of another, although the animal may be vicious and the fences are “good ordinary ones” such as the plaintiff’s neighbors have. Runyan v. Patterson, 67 N. C. 341.

§ 68-2. Local: Four and a half feet in certain counties.—A fence four and one half feet high is a lawful fence in the counties of Alleghany, Bladen, Brunswick, Burke, Caldwell, Cherokee, Craven, Cumberland, Currituck, Davie, Davidson, Duplin, Harnett, Henderson, Jackson, Lenoir, Perquimans, Randolph, Richmond, Robeson, Rutherford, Sampson, Tyrrell, Yancey, Wake, Washington and Wilkes. This section does not apply to stock-law fences. (Rev., s. 1661; 1889, c. 175; 1891, c. 55; 1905, c. 333; 1909, cc. 55, 94; P. L. 1911, c. 15; C. S. 1828.)

Local Modification.—Tyrrell: C. S. 1828.

§ 68-3. Watercourse made lawful fence by county commissioners.—Any five electors, residents of the same county, may apply to the board of commissioners of the county, at any regular meeting of the same, by written petition praying that any watercourse, or any part of any watercourse, in the county, may be made a lawful fence. Notice of such petition shall be posted forty days at the courthouse door, by the clerk of the board, before such petition shall be acted upon. Upon the hearing of such petition, the board of county commissioners is authorized to declare any watercourse, or any part of any watercourse, to which the petition applies, a lawful fence. And the several acts of the general assembly, declaring certain watercourses, in part or in whole, lawful fences, are so far repealed as to enable the board of commissioners of any county to declare any of such acts, or parts thereof, to be null and void in said county. Any order made under this section shall be of record and made under this section shall be of record and signed by the chairman, and may be rescinded by the board of commissioners at any regular meeting. (Rev., s. 1662; Code, ss. 2808, 2809, 2810; 1872-3, c. 98; C. S. 1830.)

§ 68-4. Injury to wire fence forbidden.—If any person shall willfully destroy, cut or injure any part of a wire fence or a fence composed partly of wire and partly of wood situated on the land of another, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days or fined not exceeding fifty dollars. (Rev., s. 3413; 1889, c. 516; C. S. 1891.)

Purpose of Section.—This section is not in conflict with section 14-144, as that section was meant to protect the inclosure of whether or not they enclosed any field. State v. Biggers, 109 N. C. 760, 12 S. E. 1034.

§ 68-5. Local: Building ungualled barbed-wire fences along public highways.—If any person shall erect or maintain a barbed-wire fence along any public road, or and within ten yards thereof, without putting a railing or plank at the top of such fence not less than three inches in width, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court. This section shall apply to the counties of Rowan, Swain, Catawba, Greene, Richmond, Stokes, Rutherford, Forsyth, Yadkin, Brunswick, Durham, Wilkes, Stanly, Cumberland, Iredell, Macon and Mitchell: Provided, that in Rutherford county only a railing or plank shall be used at the top of such fence. (Rev., s. 3769; 1893, c. 65; 1899, c. 43; 1899, c. 225; 1903, c. 220; 1909, cc. 318, 604, 628, 810; C. S. 4423.)

Art. 2. Division Fences.

§ 68-6. Division fences maintainable jointly.—Where two or more persons have lands adjoining, which are either cultivated or used as a pasture for stock, the respective owners of each piece of land shall make and maintain one-half of the fence upon the dividing line. (Rev., s. 1664; Code, s. 2800; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 1; C. S. 1832.)

§ 68-7. Remedy against delinquent owner.—If any person who is liable to build or keep up a part of any division fence fails at any time to do so, the owner of the adjoining land, after notice, may build or repair the whole, and recover of the delinquent one-half of the cost before any court having jurisdiction. (Rev., s. 1670; Code, s. 2807; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 7; C. S. 1833.)

Only Civil Liability.—A violation of this section does not subject the wrongdoer to indictment. His liability is civil only. State v. Watson, 86 N. C. 636.

§ 68-8. Fence erected because of changed use of land.—If the owner of a tract of land, who chooses neither to cultivate it, to use it as a pasture, nor to permit his stock to run on it, afterwards uses it in either of these ways and does not so enclose his stock that they cannot enter on the lands of an adjoining owner, he shall refund to such owner one-half the value of any fence erected by the latter on the dividing line. (Rev., s. 1665; Code, s. 3801; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 2; C. S. 1834.)

§ 68-9. When owner may remove his part of division fence.—If any owner of land liable to contribute for the keeping up of a division fence determines neither to cultivate his land nor permit his stock to run thereon, he may give the adjoining owner three months notice of his determination; and in that case, at any time after the expiration of such notice and between the first day of January and the first day of March, but at no other time, he may remove the half of the fence kept up by himself, and shall be no longer liable to keep up the same. (Rev., s. 1671; Code, s. 2802; 1903, c. 20; 1868-9, c. 375, s. 8; 1883, c. 111; C. S. 1835.)

Counties Not Subject to Stock Law.—In counties where the “stock law” is applicable, this section will not be applied and a division fence may be dispensed with at any time without notice. State v. Edmonds, 121 N. C. 679, 28 S. E. 154.

Liability for Violating.—A violation of this section will not subject one to indictment. State v. Watson, 86 N. C. 636.

§ 68-10. Proceeding to value division fence.—The value of such fence shall be ascertained as follows: Either owner may summon the other to appear before any justice of the peace of the township in which the dividing line is situated; or if it be situate in more than one township, then before any justice of the peace of any township in which any part of it is situate. In his summons he shall name a certain day, not less than five days after the summons, for the appearance of the defendant; he shall also state the purpose of the summons to be the adjustment of all matters in controversy respecting the dividing fence.
between the parties. The justice shall hear the complaint and defense. If the facts be found such as entitle either party to demand contribution of the other, the justice shall call on the complainant to name an indifferent person, qualified to act as a juror of the township, and if the complainant refuses the justice shall name one for him. The justice shall then call on the defendant to name an indifferent person, qualified to act as a juror of the township, and if the defendant refuses the justice shall name one for him. The justice shall then name a third indifferent person. These three persons, or any two of them, shall view the premises and decide all matters in controversy between the parties, relating to a fence on the dividing line. They shall make a written report to the justice, who shall give judgment thereon, and for the costs, which shall be paid by the owners of the several pieces of land equally. The jurors shall each receive one dollar per day. The fees of the justice and constable shall be as in other cases. Either party may appeal as provided in other cases of justices' judgments. (Rev., s. 1666; Code, s. 2803; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 3; C. S. 1836.)

§ 68-11. Contents of jurors' report.—The report of the jurors shall also state the kind of fence which ought to be kept up, and assign to each owner, in such manner as that it may be identified, the part which he shall keep up. (Rev., s. 1667; Code, s. 2804; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 4; C. S. 1837.)

§ 68-12. Register to record report.—The justice shall return the report, together with a transcript of the proceedings, to the register of deeds of his county for registration. The justice shall collect from the parties the fees of the register, and pay the same to him. (Rev., s. 1668; Code, s. 2805; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 5; C. S. 1838.)
