§ 58-242. Approval by commissioner of insurance of automobile liability insurance rates.—Every person, association or corporation authorized to transact automobile liability and/or property damage and/or collision insurance business within this state shall file with the commissioner of insurance on or before their effective date, the classification of risks, rules, rates, and rating plans, for writing such insurance, approved or made by such insurer or by any rating oganization of which it is a member, none of which shall become effective until approved by the commissioner of insurance. The commissioner of insurance shall within fifteen days after the filing of each classification of risks, rules, rates and rating plans indicate in writing his approval or disapproval thereof with his reasons therefor. Such filing may be made on behalf of an insurer by the rating organization of which it is a member. Any bureau organized in this state for making and/or administering automobile rates and rating plans shall provide for equal representation of stock and non-stock insurers upon its governing and all other committees and shall admit to membership any insurer applying therefor. (1933, c. 283, s. 1.)

The most important feature of this legislation is the authorization of rate regulation by the commissioner of insurance. Insurance premium rate regulation has been generally upheld as an exercise of the police power, since insurance is a business affected with a public interest. See 11 N. C. Law Rev. 233.

§ 58-243. Compliance with fixed rates mandatory.—Every person, association, or corporation authorized to transact the aforesaid insurance business within this state shall comply with the rates and rules affecting such rates of the rating organization in which it has membership or whose rates it adopts as its standard, or with the rates and rules which such insurer has filed with the commissioner of insurance. (1933, c. 283, s. 2.)

§ 58-244. Adjustment of unreasonable rates.—It shall be the duty of the commissioner of insurance, after due notice and a hearing before him, to order an adjustment of rates on any such risks or classes of risks whenever it shall be found by him that such rates are excessive or unreasonable or that any insurer is discriminating unfairly between its policyholders whose risks are of essentially the same hazard. The findings, determinations and orders of the commissioner of insurance shall be subject to review on their merits by appeal to the superior court of Wake county. (1933, c. 283, s. 3.)

§ 58-245. Refunds by mutuals and exchanges unaffected.—Nothing in this article shall be construed to limit the method of determining rates or plan of operation of any mutual insurance company or inter-insurance exchange in this state, or prevent refund to all policyholders of the same class of any portion of the annual premium not required to defray the expense of such insurance. (1933, c. 283, s. 4.)

§ 58-246. North Carolina automobile rate administrative office created; objects and functions.—There is hereby created a bureau to be known as the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office which office shall be established in the compensation rating and inspection bureau of North Carolina, created under § 97-102 and shall be a branch and under the management of the general manager of the compensation rating and inspection Bureau of North Carolina, with the following objects, functions and sources of income:

(a) To maintain rules and regulations and fix maximum rates for automobile bodily injury, property damage and collision insurance and equitably adjust the same as far as practicable in accordance with the hazard of the different classes of risks as established by said bureau.

(b) To furnish upon request of any person carrying this form of insurance in the state or to any member of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office, upon whose risk a rate has been promulgated, information as to the rating, including the method of its capitulation, and to encourage safety on the highways and streets of the state, by offering reduced premium rates under a uniform system of experience rating as may be approved by the commissioner of insurance. (1939, c. 394, s. 1.)

§ 58-247. Membership as a prerequisite for writing insurance; governing committee; rules and regulations; expenses; commissioner of insurance ex officio chairman.—Before the commissioner of insurance shall grant permission to any stock, nonstock, or reciprocal insurance company or any other insurance organization to write automobile bodily injury, property damage and collision insurance in this state, it shall be a requisite that they shall subscribe to and become members of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office.

(a) Each member of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office writing the above classes of insurance in North Carolina shall, as a requisite thereto, be represented in the aforesaid bureau and shall be entitled to one representative and one vote in the administration of the affairs of the bureau. They shall, upon organization, elect a governing committee which governing committee shall be composed of equal representation by stock and nonstock members.

(b) The bureau, when created, shall adopt such rules and regulations for its orderly procedure, as shall be necessary for its maintenance and operation. The expense of such bureau shall be borne by its members by quarterly contributions to be made in advance, such contributions to be made in advance by prorating such expense among the members in accordance with the amount of gross premiums derived from automobile bodily injury, property damage and collision insurance in North Carolina during the preceding year ending December 31, 1938, and members entering such bureau since that date to advance an amount to be fixed by the governing committee. After the first fiscal year of operation of the bureau the necessary expense of the bureau shall be advanced by the members in accordance with rules and regulations to be established and adopted by the governing committee.

(c) The commissioner of insurance of the state of North Carolina, or such deputy as he may appoint, shall be ex-officio chairman of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office and shall preside over all meetings of the governing committee or other meetings of the bureau and it shall be his duty to determine any controversy that may arise by reason of a tie vote between the members of the governing committee. (1939, c. 394, s. 2.)

§ 58-248. Personnel and assistants; general manager; authority of commissioner of insurance.—In order to carry into effect the objects of §§ 58-246 to 58-248, the bureau members shall immediately elect its governing committee who shall employ and fix the salaries of such personnel and assistants as are necessary, but the general manager of the compensation rating and inspection bureau of North Carolina shall be the general manager also of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office and the commissioner of insurance is hereby authorized to compel the production of all books, data, papers and records and any other data necessary to compile statistics for the purpose of determining the pure cost and expense loading of automobile bodily injury, property damage and collision insurance in North Carolina and this information shall be available and for the use of the North Carolina automobile rate administrative office for the capitulation and promulgation of rates on automobile bodily injury, property damage and collision insurance. All such rates compiled and promulgated by such bureau shall be submitted to the commissioner of insurance for approval and no such rates shall be put into effect in this state until approved by the commissioner of insurance and not subsequently disapproved: Provided §§ 58-246 to 58-248 shall not apply to publicly owned vehicles. (1939, c. 394, s. 3.)

SUBCHAPTER VI. ACCIDENT AND HEALTH INSURANCE.

Art. 26. Nature of Policies.

§ 58-249. Form, classification, and rates to be approved by commissioner of insurance.—No policy of insurance against loss or damage from the sickness or the bodily injury or death of the insured by accident shall be issued or delivered to any person in this state until a copy of the form thereof and of the classification of risks and the premium rates pertaining thereto have been filed with the commissioner of insurance; nor shall it be so issued or delivered until the expiration of thirty days after it has been so filed unless the commissioner shall sooner give his written approval thereto. If the commissioner shall notify, in writing, the company, society, or other insurer which has filed such form that it does not comply with the requirements of law, specifying the reasons for his opinion, it shall be unlawful thereafter for any such insurer to issue any policy in such form. The action of the commissioner in this regard shall be subject to review by any court of competent jurisdiction; but nothing in this article shall be construed to give jurisdiction to any court not already having jurisdiction. (1911, c. 209, s. 1; 1913, c. 91, s. 1; C. S. 6477.)

§ 58-250. Specifications as to form of policy.—No such policy shall be so issued or delivered (1) unless the entire money and other considerations therefor are expressed in the policy; nor (2) unless the time at which the insurance thereunder takes effect and terminates is stated in a portion of the policy preceding its execution by the insurer; nor (3) if the policy purports to insure more than one person; nor (4) unless every printed portion thereof and of any endorsements or attached papers shall be plainly printed in type of which the face shall be not smaller than ten point; nor (5) unless a brief description thereof be printed on its first page, and on its filing back in type of which the face shall not be smaller than fourteen point; nor (6) unless the exceptions of the policy be printed with the same prominence as the benefits to which they apply: Provided, however, that any portion of such policy which purports, by reason of the circumstances under which a loss is incurred, to reduce any indemnity promised therein to an amount less than that provided for the same loss occurring under ordinary circumstances shall be printed in bold-face type and with greater prominence than any other portion of the text of the policy. (1913, c. 91, s. 2; C. S. 6478.)

§ 58-251. Standard provisions in policy.—Every such policy so issued shall contain certain standard provisions, which shall be in the words and in the order hereinafter set forth and be preceded in every policy by the caption "Standard Provisions." In each standard provision, wherever the the word "insurer" is used, there shall be substituted therefor "company" or "corporation" or "association" or "society" or such other word as will properly designate the insurer.

1. Provisions Relative to Contract.—A standard provision relative to the contract may be in either of the following two forms: Form (A) to be used in policies which do not provide for reduction of indemnity on account of change of occupation, and Form (B) to be used in policies which do so provide. If Form (B) is used and the policy provides indemnity against loss from sickness, the words "or contracts sickness" may be inserted therein immediately after the words "in the event that the insured is injured."

(A) This policy includes the endorsements and attached papers, if any, and contains the entire contract of insurance. No reduction shall be made in any indemnity herein provided by reason of change in the occupation of the insured or by reason of his doing any act or thing pertaining to any other occupation.

(B) This policy includes the endorsements and attached papers, if any, and contains the entire contract of insurance except as it may be modified by the insurer's classification of risks and premium rates in the event that the insured is injured after having changed his occupation to one classified by the insurer as more hazardous than that stated in the policy, or while he is doing any act or thing pertaining to any occupation so classified, except ordinary duties about his residence or while engaged in recreation, in which event the insurer will pay only such portion of the indemnities provided in the policy as the premium paid would have purchased at the rate but within the limits so fixed by the insurer for such more hazardous occupation.

If the law of the state in which the insured resides at the time this policy is issued requires that prior to its issue a statement of the premium rates and classification of risks pertaining to it shall be filed with the state official having supervision of insurance in such state, then the premium rates and classification of risks mentioned in this policy shall mean only such as have been last filed by the insurer in accordance with such law; but if such filing is not required by such law then they shall mean the insurer's premium rates and classification of risks last made effective by it in such state prior to the occurrence of the loss for which the insurer is liable.

2. Changes in the Contract.—A standard provision relative to changes in the contract shall be in the following form: No statement made by the applicant for insurance not included herein shall avoid the policy or be used in any legal proceeding hereunder. No agent has authority to change this policy or to waive any of its provisions. No change in this policy shall be valid unless approved by an executive officer of the insurer and such approval be endorsed hereon.

3. Reinstatement of Policy.—A standard provision relative to reinstatement of policy after lapse may be in either of the three following forms: Form (A) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from accident; Form (B) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from sickness; and Form (C) to be used in policies which insure against loss from both accident and sickness.

(A) If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy, but only to cover loss resulting from accidental injury thereafter sustained.

(B) If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy, but only to cover such sickness as may begin more than ten days after the date of such acceptance.

(C) If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy, but only to cover accidental injury thereafter sustained and such sickness as may begin more than ten days after the date of such acceptance.

4. Time of Notice of Claim.—A standard provision relative to time of notice of claim may be in either of the three following forms: Form (A) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from accident: Form (B) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from sickness, and Form (C) to be used in policies which insure against loss from both accident and sickness. If Form (A) or Form (C) is used the insurer may at its option add thereto the following sentence: "In event of accidental death immediate notice thereof must be given to the insurer."

(A) Written notice of injury on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the date of the accident causing such injury.

(B) Written notice of sickness on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within ten days after the commencement of the disability from such sickness.

(C) Written notice of injury or of sickness on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the date of the accident causing such injury or within ten days after the commencement of disability from such sickness.

5. Sufficient Notice of Claim.—A standard provision relative to sufficiency of notice of claim shall be in the following form, and the insurer shall insert in the blank space such office and its location as it may desire to designate for the purpose of notice:

Such notice given by or in behalf of the insured or beneficiary, as the case may be, to the insurer at ..... or to any authorized agent of the insurer, with particulars sufficient to identify the insured, shall be deemed notice to the insurer. Failure to give notice within the time provided in this policy shall not invalidate any claim, if it shall be shown not to have been reasonably possible to give such notice and that notice was given as soon as was reasonably possible.

6. Furnishing Forms for Proof of Loss.—A standard provision relative to furnishing forms for the convenience of the insured in submitting proof of loss shall be as follows:

The insurer, upon receipt of such notice, will furnish to the claimant such forms as are usually furnished by it for filing proofs of loss. If such forms are not so furnished within fifteen days after the receipt of such notice the claimant shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this policy as to proof of loss upon submitting within the time fixed in the policy for filing proofs of loss, written proof covering the occurrence, character, and extent of the loss for which claim is made.

7. Filing Proof of Loss.—A standard provision relative to filing proof of loss shall be in such one of the following forms as may be appropriate to the indemnities provided:

(A) Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office within ninety days after the date of the loss for which claim is made.

(B) Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office within ninety days after the termination of the period of disability for which the company is liable.

(C) Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office in case of claim for loss of time from disability within ninety days after the termination of the period for which the insurer is liable, and in case of claim for any other loss within ninety days after the date of such loss.

8. Examination of Person and Autopsy. — A standard provision relative to examination of the person of the insured and relative to autopsy shall be in the following form: The insurer shall have the right and opportunity to examine the person of the insured when and so often as it may reasonably require during the pendency of claim hereunder, and also the right and opportunity to make an autopsy in case of death where it is not forbidden by law.

9. Time of Payments.—A standard provision relative to the time within which payments other than those for loss of time on account of disability shall be made may be in either of the following two forms, which may be omitted from any policy providing only indemnity for loss of time on account of disability. The insurer shall insert in the blank space either the word "immediately" or appropriate language to designate such period of time, not more than sixty days, as it may desire: Form (A) to be used in policies which do not provide indemnity for loss of time on account of disability, and Form (B) to be used in policies which do so provide.

(A) All indemnities provided in this policy will be paid ..... after receipt of due proof.

(B) All indemnities provided in this policy for loss other than that of time on account of disability will be paid ..... after receipt of due proof.

10. Periodical Payments.—A standard provision relative to periodical payments of indemnity for loss of time on account of disability shall be in the following form, and may be omitted from any policy not providing for such indemnity. The insurer shall insert in the first blank space of the form appropriate language to designate the proportion of accrued indemnity it may desire to pay, which proportion may be all or any part not less than one-half, and in the second blank space shall insert any period of time not exceeding sixty days:

Upon request of the insured and subject to due proof of loss ..... accrued indemnity for loss of time on account of disability will be paid at the expiration of each ..... during the continuance of the period for which the insurer is liable, and any balance remaining unpaid at the termination of such period will be paid immediately upon receipt of due proof.

11. Indemnity Payments.—A standard provision relative to indemnity payments may be in either of the two following forms: Form (A) to be used in policies which designate a beneficiary, and Form (B) to be used in policies which do not designate any beneficiary other than the insured:

(A) Indemnity for loss of life of the insured is payable to the beneficiary, if surviving the insured, and otherwise to the estate of the insured. All other indemnities of this policy are payable to the insured.

(B) All the indemnities of this policy are payable to the insured.

12. Cancellation of Policy by Insured.—A standard provision providing for cancellation of the policy at the instance of the insured shall be in the following form: If the insured shall at any time change his occupation to one classified by the insurer as less hazardous than that stated in the policy, the insurer, upon written request of the insured, and surrender of the policy, will cancel the same and return to the insured the unearned premium.

13. Rights of Beneficiary.—A standard provision relative to the rights of the beneficiary under the policy shall be in the following form and may be omitted from any policy not designating a beneficiary: Consent of the beneficiary shall not be requisite to surrender or assignment of this policy, or to change of beneficiary, or to any other changes in the policy.

14. Limiting Time of Action.—A standard provision limiting the time within which suit may be brought upon the policy shall be as follows: No action at law or in equity shall be brought to recover on this policy prior to the expiration of sixty days after proof of loss has been filed in accordance with the requirements of this policy, nor shall such action be brought at all unless brought within two years from the expiration of the time within which proof of loss is required by the policy.

15. Time Limitations.—A standard provision relative to time limitations of the policy shall be as follows: If any time limitation of this policy with respect to giving notice of claim or furnishing proof of loss is less than that permitted by the law of the state in which the insured resides at the time this policy is issued, such limitation is hereby extended to agree with the minimum period permitted by such law. (1911, c. 209, s. 1; 1913, c. 91, s. 3; C. S. 6479.)

Editor's Note.—Section 11 (A) provides that if beneficiary is dead the indemnity is to be paid to the estate of the insured. This provision is different from provisions in regard to beneficiaries in straight life policies, for in the latter case the rights of the beneficiary go to his or her heirs.

Action on Policy Not Delivered.—Where a policy of accident insurance has been issued before the accident in suit, and its delivery by error or oversight of the insurer has been delayed beyond that time, and the premiums have been paid, the action thereon may be maintained. Clark v. Federal Life Ins. Co., 193 N. C. 166, 136 S. E. 291.

Amputation—Time Limit.—Where among other things in a policy of accident insurance, that to recover for the loss of a foot, it is provided that the foot must have been amputated within thirty days from the date of the accident: Held, the stipulation is a valid and enforceable one, whatever the insured's reason for a delay in amputating the foot may have been, when not consented to by the insurer. Clark v. Federal Life Ins. Co., 193 N. C. 166, 136 S. E. 291.

Same—Loss of Time.—Where an accident insurance policy creates a liability for loss of time and a foot, but restricts the right of the insured to recover loss on only one of them: Held, the provision is valid, and he may not recover for both in his action. Clark v. Federal Life Ins. Co., 193 N. C. 166, 136 S. E. 291.

Waiver of Strict Performance.—If the insured is not required to pay his premiums promptly, and is injured when the premiums are not paid he can recover for injuries received, for the act of the insurer in allowing the payments to get behind amount to a waiver. Moore v. General Accident, etc., Corp., 173 N. C. 532, 92 S. E. 362.

Waiver of Proof of Loss.—Where an insurer denies all liability under its policy of accident insurance, covering the death of the insured, and refuses to proceed with the investigation respecting it, its action is a waiver of its requirements as to the proof of death and the clause in the policy forbidding the bringing of any suit upon it until after three months from the filing of the proofs. Moore v. General Accident, etc., Corp., 173 N. C. 432, 92 S. E. 362.

Subsection 5.—In Nelson v. Jefferson Standard Life Ins. Co., 199 N. C. 443, 154 S. E. 752, it was said that the General Assembly realizing that a hard and fast rule should not always be applied, put in the provision in this section, subsec. 5, relative to reasonable notice, to meet varying contingencies that might arise. Rand v. Home Ins. Co., 206 N. C. 760, 767, 174 S. E. 749.

Notice to Be Given by Beneficiary.—Where under the provisions of a policy of accident insurance certain benefits are to be paid to the insured, with distinct provision that in case of accident resulting in death a certain sum is to be paid a beneficiary, the latter, during the lifetime of the insured, is not required to give the ten days notice of the injury which resulted in his death, but only the notice provided for from the time of the latter event; the interpretation of the policy being that the assured and the beneficiary shall each be given notice of the event upon which his claim depends. Moore v. General Accident, etc., Corp., 173 N. C. 532, 92 S. E. 362.

Double Indemnity—Fault of Insured.—Where a policy of life insurance gives double indemnity if the death of the insured has been caused by "external, violent, and accidental means," no recovery can be had of the extra indemnity when such death is caused by the killing of the insured by a third person, and the insured was in the wrong in commencing the fight, and the aggressor, under such circumstances as would render a homicide likely as a result of his own misconduct. Clay v. State Ins. Co., 174 N. C. 642, 94 S. E. 289.

What Amounts to Total Disability.—A provision in an insurance policy that the insurer will pay a certain sum when the insured has become wholly disabled by bodily injuries and permanently, continuously, and wholly prevented thereby from pursuing any and all gainful occupations, will be construed as expressed, and the liability of the insurer thereunder will not be extended so as to include a total disability of the insured to perform his trade or vocation when other gainful occupations are still open to him. Buckner v. Jefferson Standard Life Ins. Co., 172 N. C. 762, 90 S. E. 897.

Cited in Nelson v. Jefferson Standard Life Ins. Co., 199 N. C. 443, 447, 154 S. E. 752; Gorham v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co., 214 N. C. 526, 200 S. E. 5.

§ 58-252. Certain provisions forbidden in policy.—No such policy shall be issued or delivered which contains any provision (1) relative to cancellation at the instance of the insurer; or (2) limiting the amount of indemnity to a sum less than the amount stated in the policy and for which the premium has been paid; or, (3) providing for the deduction of any premium from the amount paid in settlement of claim; or, (4) relative to other insurance by the same insurer; or, (5) relative to the age limits of the policy; unless such provisions, which are hereby designated as optional standard provisions, shall be in the words and in the order in which they are set forth in the next section, but the insurer may at its option omit from the policy any such optional standard provisions. Such optional standard provisions if inserted in the policy shall immediately succeed the standard provisions named in this article. (1911, c. 209, s. 2; 1913, c. 91, s. 4; C. S. 6480.)

§ 58-253. Optional standard provisions.—The optional standard provisions which may be used in the policy are as follows:

1. Cancellation of Policy by Insurer.—The insurer may cancel this policy at any time by written notice delivered to the insured or mailed to his last address as shown by the records of the insurer, together with cash or the insurer's check for the unearned portion of the premiums actually paid by the insured, and such cancellation shall be without prejudice to any claim originating prior thereto.

2. Reduction of Indemnity.—If the insured shall carry with another company, corporation, association, or society other insurance covering the same loss without giving written notice to the insurer, then in that case the insurer shall be liable only for such portion of the indemnity promised as the said indemnity bears to the total amount of like indemnity in all policies covering such loss, and for the return of such part of the premiums paid as shall exceed the pro rata for the indemnity thus determined.

3. Deduction of Premium.—Upon the payment of claim hereunder any premium then due and unpaid or covered by any note or written order may be deducted therefrom.

4. Other Insurance.—An optional standard provision relative to other insurance by the same insurer which shall be in such one of the following forms as may be appropriate to the indemnities provided, and in the blank spaces of which the insurer shall insert such upward limits of indemnity as are specified by the insurer's classification of risks, filed as required by this article:

(A) If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity in excess of $--------, the excess insurance shall be void, and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

(B) If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured, be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity for loss of time on account of disability in excess of $-------- weekly, the excess insurance shall be void, and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

(C) If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured, be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity for loss other than that of time on account of disability in excess of $--------, or the aggregate indemnity for loss of time on account of disability in excess of $-------- weekly, the excess insurance of either kind shall be void, and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

5. Age Limits.—An optional standard provision relative to the age limits of the policy, which shall be in the following form and in the blank spaces of which the insurer shall insert such number of years as it may elect: The insurance under this policy shall not cover any person under the age of .....years nor over the age of..... years. Any premium paid to the insurer for any period not covered by this policy will be returned upon request. (1911, c. 209, s. 2; 1913, c. 91, s. 4; C. S. 6481.)

§ 58-254. Conflicting provisions forbidden; terms in policy.—No such policy shall be issued or delivered if it contains any provision contradictory, in whole or part, of any provisions hereinbefore in this article designated as "Standard Provisions" or as "Optional Standard Provisions"; nor shall any endorsements or attached papers vary, alter, extend, be used as a substitute for, or in any way conflict with any of the "Standard Provisions" or the "Optional Standard Provisions"; nor shall such policy be issued or delivered if it contains any provision purporting to make any portion of the charter, constitution, or by-laws of the insurer a part of the policy unless such portion of the charter, constitution, or by-laws shall be set forth in full in the policy, but this prohibition shall not be deemed to apply to any statement of rates or classification of risks filed with the commissioner of insurance in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1911, c. 209, s. 3; 1913, c. 91, s. 5; C. S. 6482.)

Art. 27. General Regulations.

§ 58-255. False statement in application.—The falsity of any statement in the application for any policy covered by this subchapter shall not bar the right to recovery thereunder unless such false statement was made with actual intent to deceive or unless it materially affected either the acceptance of the risk or the hazard assumed by the insurer. (1913, c. 91, s. 6; C. S. 6483.)

§ 58-256. Waiver by insurer.—The acknowledgment by any insurer of the receipt of notice given under any policy covered by this subchapter, or the furnishing of forms for filing proofs of loss, or the acceptance of such proofs, or the investigation of any claim thereunder, shall not operate as a waiver of any of the rights of the insurer in defense of any claim arising under such policy. (1913, c. 91, s. 7; C. S. 6484.)

§ 58-257. Alteration of application.—No alteration of any written application for insurance by erasure, insertion, or otherwise, shall be made by any person other than the applicant without his written consent, and the making of any such alteration without the consent of the applicant shall be a misdemeanor. If such alteration shall be made by any officer of the insurer, or by any employee of the insurer, with the insurer's knowledge or consent, then such act shall be deemed to have been performed by the insurer thereafter issuing the policy upon such altered application. (1913, c. 91, s. 8; C. S. 6485.)

§ 58-258. Construction of policy.—A policy issued in violation of this subchapter shall be held valid, but shall be construed as provided in this subchapter, and when any provision in such a policy is in conflict with any provision of this subchapter, the rights, duties, and obligations of the insurer, the policyholder, and the beneficiary shall be governed by the provisions of this subchapter. (1913, c. 91, s. 9; C. S. 6486.)

§ 58-259. Provisions of laws of other states.—The policies of insurance against accidental bodily injury or sickness issued by an insurer not organized under the laws of this state may contain, when issued in this state, any provision which the law of the state, territory, or district of the United States under which the insurer is organized, prescribed for insertion in such policies; and the policies of insurance against accidental bodily injury or sickness issued by an insurer organized under the laws of the state may contain, when issued or delivered in any other state, territory, district, or country, any provisions required by the laws of the state, territory, district, or country in which the same are issued, anything in this subchapter to the contrary notwithstanding. (1911, c. 209, s. 4; 1913, c. 91, s. 10; C. S. 6487.)

§ 58-261. Certain policies of insurance not affected.—1. Nothing in this subchapter shall apply to or affect any policy of liability or workmen's compensation insurance or any general or blanket policy of insurance issued to any municipal corporation or department thereof, or to any corporation, copartnership, association, or individual employer, police or fire department, underwriters' corps, salvage bureau, or like associations or organizations, where the officers, members, or employees or classes or departments thereof are insured for their individual benefit against specified accidental bodily injuries or sickness while exposed to the hazards of the occupation or otherwise, in consideration of a premium intended to cover the risks of all the persons insured under such policy.

2. Nothing in this subchapter shall apply to or in any way affect contracts supplemental to contracts of life or endowment insurance where such supplemental contracts contain no provisions except such as operate to safeguard such insurance against lapse or to provide a special surrender value therefor in the event that the insured shall be totally and permanently disabled by reason of accidental bodily injury or by sickness, nor to contracts issued as supplements to life insurance contracts or contracts of endowment insurance, and intended to increase the amount insured by such life or endowment contracts in the event that the death of the insured shall result from accidental bodily injuries: Provided, that no such supplemental contracts shall be issued or delivered to any person in this state unless and until a copy of the form thereof has been submitted to and approved by the commissioner of insurance under such reasonable rules and regulations as he shall make concerning the provisions in such contracts, and their submission to an approval by him.

3. Nothing in this subchapter shall apply to or in any way affect fraternal benefit societies.

4. The provisions of this subchapter contained in clause (5) of § 58-250, and clauses two, three, eight, and twelve of § 58-251, may be omitted from railroad ticket policies sold only at railroad stations or at railroad ticket offices by railroad employees. (1911, c. 209, s. 5; 1913, c. 91, s. 12; 1921, c. 136, s. 5; C. S. 6489.)

§ 58-262. Punishment for violation.—Any company, association, society, or other insurer or any officer or agent thereof, which or who issues or delivers to any person in this state any policy in wilful violation of the provisions of this subchapter, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars for each offense, and the commissioner of insurance may revoke the license of any company, corporation, association, society, or other insurer of another state or country, or of the agent thereof, which or who wilfully violates any provision of this subchapter. (1911, c. 209, s. 6; 1913, c. 91, s. 13; C. S. 6490.)

SUBCHAPTER VII. FRATERNAL ORDERS AND SOCIETIES.

Art. 28. Fraternal Orders.

§ 58-263. General insurance law not applicable.—Nothing in the general insurance laws, except such as apply to fraternal orders or fraternal societies, shall be construed to extend to benevolent associations, incorporated under the laws of this state that only levy an assessment on the members to create a fund to pay the family of a deceased member and make no profit therefrom, and do not solicit business through agents. Such benevolent associations providing death benefits in excess of three hundred dollars to any one person, or disability benefits not exceeding three hundred dollars in any one year to any one person, or both, shall be known as "fraternal benefit societies"; and those providing benefits of three hundred dollars or less shall be known as "fraternal orders." (Rev., s. 4794; 1899, c. 54, s. 87; 1901, c. 706, s. 2; 1913, c. 46; C. S. 6491.)

Cross Reference.—As to other assessment insurance, see §§ 58-105 et seq.

Editor's Note.—See 12 N. C. Law Rev. 374.

Laws Governing.—Williams v. Supreme Conclave, 172 N. C. 787, 90 S. E. 888, and Wilson v. Supreme Conclave, 174 N. C. 628, 94 S. E. 443, were decided in regard to policies issued before this act. This statute makes it clear that fraternal and assessment orders shall be governed by their own rules and regulations as authorized by the state of their origin. Hollingsworth v. Supreme Council, 175 N. C. 615, 96 S. E. 81. This case gives a long discussion of the application of this law and alters the rule as applied in former cases.

Same—Fraternal Benefit Associations.—This section groups benevolent life insurance companies providing death benefits in excess of $300, in any year to any one person, as fraternal benefit associations, and those of $300 or less, as fraternal orders, and sec. 58-264, relating to fraternal orders, does not apply, and hence fraternal benefit associations fall within the provision of sec. 58-126, that statements or descriptions in the application for the policy are deemed representations and not warranties, which will not avoid a recovery, when untrue, unless material. Gay v. Woodmen of the World, 179 N. C. 210, 102 S. E. 195.

§ 58-264. Fraternal orders defined.—Every incorporated association, order, or society doing business in this state on the lodge system, with ritualistic form of work and representative form of government, for the purpose of making provision for the payment of benefits of three hundred dollars or less in case of death, sickness, temporary or permanent physical disability, either as the result of disease, accident, or old age, formed and organized for the sole benefit of its members and their beneficiaries, and not for profit, is hereby declared to be a "fraternal order." Societies and orders which do not make insurance contracts or collect dues or assessments therefor, but simply pay burial or other benefits out of the treasury of their orders, and use their funds for the purpose of building homes or asylums for the purpose of caring for and educating orphan children and aged and infirm people in this state, shall not be considered as "fraternal orders" or "fraternal benefit societies" under this subchapter; and such order or association paying death or disability benefits may also create, maintain, apply, or disburse among its membership a reserve or emergency fund as may be provided in its constitution or by-laws; but no profit or gain may be added to the payments made by a member. (Rev., s. 4795; 1899, c. 54, s. 88; 1901, c. 706, s. 3; 1907, c. 936; 1913, c. 46; C. S. 6492.)

Cross Reference.—See § 58-263 and note thereto.

§ 58-265. Funds derived from assessments and dues.—The fund from which the payment of benefits, as provided for in § 58-264, shall be made, and the fund from which the expenses of such association, order or society shall be defrayed, shall be derived from assessments or dues collected from its members. Such societies or associations shall be governed by the laws of the state governing fraternal orders or societies, and are exempt from the provisions of all general insurance laws of this state, and no law hereafter passed shall apply to such societies unless fraternal orders or societies are designated therein. (Rev., s. 4796; 1899, c. 54, s. 89; 1901, c. 706, s. 2; 1913, c. 46; C. S. 6493.)

Use of Funds Received.—The funds received from assessment are trust funds for orphans and widows and are not subject to use for any other purpose, therefore attachment will not lie. Brenizer v. Royal Arcanum, 141 N. C. 409, 53 S. E. 835.

Assessments Not Governed by Insurance Law.—A fraternal society or association is governed by its own charter and by-laws and an assessment in accordance with its own laws is valid. Hollingsworth v. Supreme Council, 175 N. C. 615, 96 S. E. 81.

§ 58-266. Appointment of member as receiver or collector; appointee as agent for order or society; rights of members.—Assessments and dues referred to in §§ 58-264 and 58-265 may be collected, receipted, and remitted by a member or officer of any local or subordinate lodge of any fraternal order or society when so appointed or designated by any grand, district, or subordinate lodge or officer, deputy, or representative of the same, there being no regular licensed agent or deputy of said grand lodge charged with said duties; but any person so collecting said dues or assessments shall be the agent or representative of such fraternal order or society, or any department thereof, and shall bind them by their acts in collecting and remitting said amounts so collected. Under no circumstances, regardless of any agreement, by-laws, contract, or notice, shall said officer or collector be the agent or representative of the individual member from whom any such collection is made; nor shall said member be responsible for the failure of such officer or collector to safely keep, handle, or remit said dues or assessments so collected, in accordance with the rules, regulations, or by-laws of said society; nor shall said member, regardless of any rules, regulations, or by-laws to the contrary, forfeit any rights under his certificate of membership in said fraternal benefit society by reason of any default or misconduct of any said officer or member so acting. (1921, c. 139; C. S. 6493(a).)

Where plaintiff's evidence showed that it had been the custom of defendant mutual benefit association's collecting agents, to collect dues after the due date but within thirty days thereof, that defendant's home office knew of this custom, and that insured made payment of the dues for the preceding month within thirty days of the due date and died prior to the customary time for the collection of dues for the following month, it was held that the evidence was sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the question of defendant's waiver of the provisions of its certificate and by-laws, requiring certificate of good health before reinstating a policy upon payment of premium after the due date, and upon the verdict of the jury plaintiff was entitled to judgment for the amount of the policy, less the dues for the month not paid. Shackelford v. Sovereign Camp, W. O. W., 209 N. C. 633, 184 S. E. 691.

§ 58-267. Meetings of governing body; principal office; separation of races.—Any such society or order incorporated and organized under the laws of this state may provide for the meeting of its supreme legislative or governing body in any other state, province, or territory wherein such society has subordinate lodges, and all business transacted at such meetings is as valid in all respects as if the meetings were held in this state; but the principal business office of such society shall always be kept in this state. No fraternal order or society or beneficiary association shall be authorized to do business in this state under the provisions of this article, whether incorporated under the laws of this or any other state, province, or territory, which associates with, or seeks in this state to associate with, as members of the same lodge, fraternity, society, association, the white and colored races with the objects and purposes provided in this article. (Rev., s. 4797; 1899, c. 54, s. 91; 1913, c. 46; C. S. 6494.)

§ 58-268. Conditions precedent to doing business.—Any such fraternal, beneficiary order, society, or association as defined by this chapter, chartered and organized in this state or organized and doing business under the laws of any other state, district, province, or territory, having the qualifications required of domestic societies of like character, upon satisfying the commissioner of insurance that its business is proper and legitimate and so conducted, may be admitted to transact business in this state upon the same conditions as are prescribed by this chapter for admitting and authorizing foreign insurance companies to do business in this state, except that such fraternal orders shall not be required to have the capital required of such insurance companies. (Rev., s. 4798; 1899, c. 54, s. 92; 1901, c. 706, s. 2; 1903, c. 438, s. 9; 1913, c. 46; C. S. 6495.)

Requirements for Admission to Do Business.—Fraternal insurance orders are subject to the same rules, regulations, and supervision as foreign insurance companies, when operated from beyond the State, except that they are not required to make the deposit or have the paid up capital required of other companies. State v. Arlington, 157 N. C. 640, 73 S. E. 122.

Attachment of Funds.—Assessments received are impressed with a trust for widows and orphans and cannot be reached by attachment. Brenizer v. Royal Arcanum, 141 N. C. 409, 53 S. E. 835; Blackwell v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 141 N. C. 117, 53 S. E. 833.

§ 58-269. Certain lodge systems exempt.—The following beneficial orders or societies shall be exempt from the requirements of this chapter, and shall not be required to pay any license tax or fees nor make any report to the commissioner of insurance, unless the assessment collected for death benefits by the supreme lodge amount to at least three hundred dollars in one year: Beneficial fraternal orders, or societies incorporated under the laws of this state, which are conducted under the lodge system which have the supreme lodge or governing body located in this state, and which are so organized that the membership consists of members of subordinate lodges; that the subordinate lodges accept for membership only residents of the county in which such subordinate lodge is located; that each subordinate lodge issues certificates, makes assessments, and collects a fund to pay benefits to the widows and orphans of its own deceased members and their families, each lodge independently of the others, for itself and independently of the supreme lodge; that each lodge controls the fund for this purpose; that in addition to the benefits paid by each subordinate lodge to its own members, the supreme lodge provides for an additional benefit for such of the members of the subordinate lodges as are qualified, at the option of the subordinate lodge members; that such organization is not conducted for profit, has no capital stock, and has been in operation for ten years in this state.

The commissioner of insurance may require the chief or presiding officer, or the secretary, to file annually an affidavit that such organization is entitled to this exemption. (1911, c. 199; C. S. 6496.)

Applied in Equitable Trust Co. v. Widows' Fund of Oasis, etc., Temples, 207 N. C. 534, 177 S. E. 799.

§ 58-271. Lodge system defined.—A society having a supreme governing or legislative body and subordinate lodges or branches, by whatever name known, into which members are elected, initiated, and admitted in accordance with its constitution, laws, rules, regulations, and prescribed ritualistic ceremonies, which subordinate lodges or branches are required by the laws of such society to hold regular or stated meetings at least once in each month, is deemed to be operating on the lodge system. (1913, c. 89, s. 2; C. S. 6498.)

§ 58-272. Representative form of government defined.—A society is deemed to have a representative form of government when it provides in its constitution and laws for a supreme legislative or governing body, composed of representatives elected either by the members or by delegates elected directly or indirectly by the members, together with such other members as may be prescribed by its constitution and laws: Provided, that the elective members constitute a majority in number and have not less than two-thirds of the votes, nor less than the votes required to amend its constitution and laws; and Provided further, that the meetings of the supreme or governing body, and the election of officers, representatives, or delegates, are held as often as once in four years. The members, officers, representatives, or delegates of a fraternal benefit society shall not vote by proxy. (1913, c. 89, s. 3; C. S. 6499.)

§ 58-273. Organization.—1 Application.—Ten or more persons, citizens of the United States, and a majority of whom are citizens of this state, who desire to form a fraternal benefit society, as defined by this article, may make and sign (giving their addresses) and acknowledge before some officer competent to take acknowledgment of deeds, articles of incorporation in which shall be stated:

a. The proposed corporate name of the society, which shall not so closely resemble the name of any society or insurance company already transacting business in this state as to mislead the public or lead to confusion.

b. The purpose for which it is formed—which shall not include more liberal powers than are granted by this article: Provided, that any lawful social, intellectual, educational, charitable, benevolent, moral, or religious advantages may be set forth among the purposes of the society—and the mode in which its corporate powers are to be exercised.

c. The names, residences, and official titles of all the officers, trustees, directors, or other persons who are to have and exercise the general control and management of the affairs and funds of the society for the first year or until the ensuing election at which all such officers shall be elected by the supreme legislative or governing body, which election shall be held not later than one year from the date of the issuance of the permanent certificate.

2. Papers and Bond Filed.—Such articles of incorporation and duly certified copies of the constitution and laws, rules and regulations, and copies of all proposed forms of benefit certificates, applications therefor, and circulars to be issued by such society, and a bond in the sum of five thousand dollars, with sureties approved by the commissioner of insurance, conditioned upon the return of the advance payments, as provided in this section, to applicants, if the organization is not completed within one year, shall be filed with the commissioner of insurance, who may require such further information as he deems necessary.

3. Preliminary License.—If the purposes of the society conform to the requirements of this article, and all provisions of law have been complied with, the commissioner of insurance shall so certify to the secretary of state and upon his issuing the articles of incorporation shall furnish the incorporators a preliminary license authorizing the society to solicit members as hereinafter provided.

4. Completion of Organization.—Upon receipt of such license from the commissioner of insurance the society may solicit members for the purpose of completing its organization, and shall collect from each applicant the amount of not less than one regular monthly payment, in accordance with its table of rates as provided by its constitution and laws, and shall issue to each applicant a receipt for the amount so collected. But no such society shall incur any liability other than for such advanced payments, nor issue any benefit certificate nor pay or allow, or offer or promise to pay or allow, to any person any death or disability benefit until actual bona fide applications for death benefit certificates have been secured upon at least five hundred lives for at least one thousand dollars each, or the largest amount written on any one person, and all such applicants for death benefits shall have been regularly examined by legally qualified practicing physicians, and certificates of such examinations have been duly filed and approved by the chief medical examiner of such society; nor until there shall be established ten subordinate lodges or branches into which said five hundred applicants have been initiated; nor until there has been submitted to the commissioner of insurance under oath of the president and secretary, or corresponding officers of such society, a list of such applicants, giving their names, addresses, date examined, date approved, date initiated, name and number of the subordinate branch of which each applicant is a member, amount of benefits to be granted, rate of stated periodical contributions, which shall be sufficient to provide for meeting the mortuary obligation contracted, when valued for death benefits upon the basis of the national fraternal congress table of mortality, as adopted by the national fraternal congress, August twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, or any higher standard, at the option of the society, and for disability benefits by tables based upon reliable experience, and for combined death and permanent total disability benefits by tables based upon reliable experience, with an interest assumption not higher than four per cent per annum; nor until it shall be shown to the commissioner of insurance by the sworn statement of the treasurer, or corresponding officer of such society, that at least five hundred applicants have each paid in cash at least one regular monthly payment as herein provided per one thousand dollars of indemnity to be effected, which payments in the aggregate shall amount to at least twenty-five hundred dollars. Such advanced payments shall be credited to the mortuary or disability fund on account of such applicants, and no part thereof may be used for expenses, but such payments shall be held in trust and returned to the applicants if the organization is not completed within one year as hereinafter provided.

5. License Issued.—The commissioner of insurance may make such examination and require such further information as he deems advisable, and, upon presentation of satisfactory evidence that the society has complied with all the provisions of law, he shall issue to such society a certificate or license to that effect. Such certificate shall be prima facie evidence of the existence of such society at the date of such certificate.

6. One-year Limit.—No preliminary certificate or license granted under the provisions of this section shall be valid after one year from its date, or after such further period, not exceeding one year, as may be authorized by the commmissioner of insurance, upon cause shown unless the five hundred applicants herein required have been secured and the organization has been completed as herein provided; and the articles of incorporation and all proceedings thereunder shall become null and void in one year from the date of such preliminary certificate, or at the expiration of such extended period, unless the society shall have completed its organization and commenced business as herein provided.

7. Discontinuance. — When any domestic society shall have discontinued business for the period of one year, or has less than four hundred members, its charter shall become null and void. 1913, c. 89, s. 11; C. S. 6500.)

§ 58-274. Constitution and by-laws.—Each society shall have power to make a constitution and by-laws for the government of the society, the admission of its members, the management of its affairs, and the fixing and readjusting of the rates of contribution of its members from time to time; it shall have the power to change or amend such constitution and by-laws, and it shall have such other powers as are necessary and incidental to carrying into effect the objects and purposes of the society. (1913, c. 89, s. 11; C. S. 6501.)

§ 58-275. Amendments to constitution and by-laws.—Every society transacting business under this article shall file with the commissioner of insurance a duly certified copy of all amendments of or additions to its constitution and laws within ninety days after the enactment of the same. Printed copies of the constitution and laws as amended, changed or added to, certified by the secretary or corresponding officer of the society, shall be prima facie evidence of the legal adoption thereof. (1913, c. 89, s. 19; C. S. 6502.)

§ 58-276. Waiver of the provisions of the laws.—The constitution and laws of the society may provide that no subordinate body, nor any of its subordinate officers or members, shall have the power or authority to waive any of the provisions of the laws and constitution of the society, and the same shall be binding on the society and each and every member thereof, and on all beneficiaries of members. (1913, c. 89, s. 17; C. S. 6503.)

Editor's Note.—See Shackelford v. Sovereign Camp, W. O. W., 209 N. C. 633, 184 S. E. 691, where a distinction is made betwen waiver by local agents, prohibited by this section, and a custom of dealing established over a period of years to the knowledge of the home office.

§ 58-277. Place of meeting; location of office.—Any domestic society may provide that the meetings of its legislative or governing body may be held in any state, district, province, or territory wherein such society has subordinate branches, and all business transacted at such meetings shall be as valid in all respects as if such meetings were held in this state; but its principal office shall be located in this state. (1913, c. 89, s. 15; C. S. 6504.)

society shall not be individually liable for the payment of any disability or death benefit provided for in the laws and agreements of such society; but the same shall be payable only out of the funds of such society and in the manner provided by its laws. (1913, c. 89, s. 16; C. S. 6505.)

§ 58-279. Qualifications for membership.—Any society may admit to beneficial membership any person not less than sixteen and not more than sixty years of age, who has been examined by a legally qualified physician, and whose examination has been supervised and approved in accordance with the laws of the society: Provided, that any beneficiary member of such society who shall apply for a certificate providing for disability benefits need not be required to pass an additional medical examination therefor. Nothing herein contained shall prevent such society from accepting general or social members. (1913, c. 89, s. 6; C. S. 6506.)

§ 58-280. Benefits.—1. Every society transacting business under this article shall provide for the payment of death benefits, and may provide for the payment of benefits in case of temporary or permanent physical disability, either as the result of disease, accident, or old age, and for monuments or tombstones to the memory of its deceased members, and for the payment of funeral benefits: Provided, the period of life at which the payment of benefits for disability on account of old age shall commence shall not be under seventy years. Such society shall have the power to give a member, when permanently disabled or on attaining the age of seventy, all or such portion of the face value of his certificate as the laws of the society may provide; but nothing contained in this article shall be so construed as to prevent the issuing of benefit certificates for a term of years less than the whole of life, which are payable upon the death or disability of the member occurring within the term for which the benefit certificate may be issued. Such society shall, upon written application of the member, have the power to accept a part of the periodical contributions in cash, and charge the remainder, not exceeding one-half of the periodical contribution, against the certificate, with interest payable or compounded annually at a rate not lower than four per cent per annum; but this privilege shall not be granted except to societies which have readjusted or may hereafter readjust their rates of contributions, and to contracts affected by such readjustment.

2. Any society which shall show by the annual valuation hereinafter provided for that it is accumulating and maintaining the reserve not lower than the usual reserve computed by the American experience table and four per cent interest, may grant to its members extended and paid-up protection, or such withdrawal equities as its constitution and laws may provide; but such grants shall in no case exceed in value the portion of the reserve to the credit of such members to whom they are made. (1913, c. 89, s. 4; C. S. 6507.)

§ 58-281. Beneficiaries.—The payment of death benefits shall be confined to wife, husband, relative by blood to the fourth degree, father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, stepfather, stepmother, step-children, children by legal adoption, or to a person or persons dependent upon the member, or, with the consent of the society, any charitable institution maintained by the society; and if after the issuance of the original certificate the member shall become dependent upon an incorporated charitable institution, he shall have the privilege, with the consent of the society, to make such institution his beneficiary. Within the above restrictions each member shall have the right to designate his beneficiary, and, from time to time, have the same changed in accordance with the laws, rules and regulations of the society, and no beneficiary shall have or obtain any vested interest in such benefit until the same has become due and payable upon the death of the member. Any society may, by its laws, limit the scope of beneficiaries within the above classes.

Provided, however, that any member or insured named in any contract or certificate of insurance issued by any beneficial fraternal order, lodge, society, or other insurance association, who has neither lawful spouse nor offspring, shall have the right, without regard to the amount payable thereunder, to have the death benefit provided for in any such contract or certificate of insurance made payable, or to have the named beneficiary changed, to the estate of such member or insured, or to his or her executors or administrators, and to make a testamentary disposition of the proceeds thereof, or to have such death benefit made payable, or to have the named beneficiary changed, to a trustee to be named by such member or insured, and to impress the proceeds in the hands of such trustee with a trust, the terms and provisions of the charter, rules, by-laws and regulations of any such beneficial fraternal order, lodge, society, or other insurance association, to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided further, that in case a husband or wife is designated as beneficiary and subsequently comes absolutely divorced from the member or insured, such divorce shall automatically annul the designation. (1913, c. 89, s. 5; 1931, c. 161; 1937, c. 178; C. S. 6508.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 inserted the words "or with the consent of the society, any charitable institution maintained by the society," beginning in line seven of this section.

The 1937 amendment added the provisos at the end of this section.

See 13 N. C. Law Rev. 95.

This section has heretofore confined the beneficiaries of fraternal insurance policies, with minor exceptions, to relatives and dependents of the insured. As amended, this section now permits the insured to name in addition, as beneficiaries, his estate, or a trustee, anything in the constitution or by-laws of the association to the contrary notwithstanding. A third provision adds that after absolute divorce a wife named as beneficiary loses her rights as such. The effect of the first and third of these provisions is clear. In permitting the insured to designate his estate as beneficiary, the amendment brings fraternal insurance more closely in line with old line insurance. It perhaps renders the proceeds of such a policy available to creditors of a deceased insured and permits wider use of fraternal insurance for investment purposes. In rare instances it will allow a member of an order, who has no near relatives or dependents, to take out such insurance where he heretofore has been prevented from so doing. In destroying the rights of a divorced wife as beneficiary, this section does for an insured what he might unintentionally have neglected to do. The provision permitting the naming of a trustee as beneficiary seems designed to counteract the effects of the recent case of Equitable Trust Co. v. Widows' Fund of Oasis and Omar Temples, 207 N. C. 534, 177 S. E. 799, holding invalid an attempt to name as beneficiary a corporate trustee. As amended, however, the section is ambiguous. It does not make clear whether the trustee may be a corporation, or whether he must be a natural person. And it leaves unclear whether the beneficiaries of the trust must be relatives or dependents of the insured. If not, the amendment gives the insured carte blanche, by the device of a trust, to name any beneficiary he desires. Such is not in keeping with the usual purpose of fraternal benefit insurance. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 357-358.

Legal dependent means something more than one who is deriving support from another. It imports one who has the right to invoke the aid of the law to require support. And the status of a wife living with her husband as being his legal dependent, entitled in law to his support, is recognized by our statutes. Junior Order United American Mechanics v. Tate, 212 N. C. 305, 308, 193 S. E. 397, 113 A. L. R. 1514.

Payment of Dues Alone Is Not Sufficient to Create Lien against Certificate or Vest Interest in It.—Where insured's wife was named beneficiary, and after her death insured's brother, who became the beneficiary under the terms of the certificate as insured's nearest blood relation, kept the certificate in force until the death of the insured a short time thereafter, it was held that under the terms of the certificate the insured's brother was entitled to the proceeds thereof, to the exclusion of the wife's nephew who claimed under the will of the wife, the payment of dues or premiums alone being insufficient to create a lien against the certificate, or the proceeds thereof, and the wife at no time having any vested interest as the named beneficiary which she could bequeath by will. Sorrell v. Sovereign Camp, W. O. W., 209 N. C. 226, 183 S. E. 400.

A contract in the form of a life insurance policy with a mutual benefit society, which contract stipulates that insured agrees that the society is a Fraternal Benefit Society as defined by § 58-270, is a Fraternal Benefit Contract, not an insurance policy, and governed by this section. Equitable Trust Co. v. Widows' Fund of Oasis, etc., Temples, 207 N. C. 534, 177 S. E. 799.

Right to Change Beneficiary.—The doctrine was fully set forth by the Court of Errors and Appeals of New Jersey, where the court said: "By the terms of such contracts (those of benefit societies) the beneficiary may be changed by the mere will of the member and without the beneficiary's consent. In such case the right of the beneficiary is not property, but a mere expectancy, dependant on the will of the member to whom the certificate is issued. For this reason the beneficiary's interest in the certificate and contract evidenced thereby differs totally from the interest of a beneficiary named in an ordinary life insurance policy containing no provision for the designation of a new beneficiary. The cases, so far as I can discover, are agreed upon this doctrine. This principle is now so well settled that no further authorities need be cited." Pollock v. Hardy, 150 N. C. 211, 214, 63 S. E. 940.

Same—One Disqualified to Take.—A policy of life insurance of a fraternal order is limited to the wife, certain relations and dependents by this statute, with the right of the assured to change the beneficiary at any time, and where he has named his wife as beneficiary and afterwards substitutes the name of another, disqualified to take under the statute, such attempted change is not a revocation of the provisions of the policy first issued and leaves it in force. Andrews v. Most Worshipful Grand Lodge, 189 N. C. 697, 128 S. E. 4.

Bigamous Wife's Right to Recover.—A fraternal assessment benefit association having a representative form of government may, by its contract and constitution, confine the beneficiaries to certain blood relatives, wife, affianced wife, persons dependent upon the member, etc., in conformity with the laws of the State wherein it has its head organization; and where such beneficiary sues upon a policy, claiming as the wife of the deceased member, and it appears that in fact the marriage was bigamous, she may not recover, though the certificate states she was his wife. Applebaum v. United Commercial Travelers, 171 N. C. 435, 88 S. E. 722.

An incorporated trust company, authorized by a trust agreement to collect the proceeds of life insurance policies on the life of the trustor upon his death, may not be named beneficiary in a Fraternal Benefit Contract on the trustor's life, the trustee not being a natural person nor a charitable institution as defined by this section, and being empowered to use the funds for purposes other than for the benefit of the trustor's kindred. Equitable Trust Co. v. Widows' Fund of Oasis, etc., Temples, 207 N. C. 534, 177 S. E. 799.

§ 58-282. Benefit certificates.—Every certificate issued by any such society shall specify the amount of benefit provided thereby, and shall provide that the certificate, the charter, or articles of incorporation or, if a voluntary association, the articles of association, the constitution and laws of the society, and the application for membership and medical examination, signed by the applicant, and all amendments to each thereof, shall constitute the agreement between the society and the member; and copies of the same certified by the secretary of the society, or corresponding officer, shall be received in evidence of the terms and conditions thereof. Any changes, additions, or amendments to the charter or articles of incorporation, or articles of association if a voluntary association, constitution or laws duly made or enacted subsequent to the issuance of the benefit certificate, shall bind the member and his beneficiaries, and shall govern and control the agreement in all respects the same as though such changes, additions, or amendments had been made prior to and were in force at the time of the application for membership. (1913, c. 89, s. 7; C. S. 6509.)

Recovery of Policy Holder When Policy Cancelled.—Where a fraternal benefit society has issued a policy of life insurance to a member, and has changed its plan of business so as to impair the vested rights of the insured under his contract, and refuses to accept the proper premium, and declares the policy void, the insured may maintain his action to recover of the insurer the principal sum of money he has paid on his policy, and simple interest thereon. Wilson v. Supreme Conclave, 174 N. C. 628, 94 S. E. 443.

Altering Constitution or By-Laws.—A general consent of a policy-holder in an assessment fraternal benefit society that the company may thereafter alter or amend its constitution or by-laws does not authorize the society to make such changes therein as will impair the vested right of its members and policy-holders arising under their contract of insurance with the company. Wilson v. Supreme Conclave, 174 N. C. 628, 94 S. E. 443.

Same—Suspension of Members.—Where fraternal benefit insurance societies are required to file certified copy of changes made in their constitution and by-laws with the Insurance Commission within 90 days, and fail to do so, they may not, while thus in default, suspend a member for noncompliance therewith. Wilson v. Supreme Conclave, 174 N. C. 628, 94 S. E. 443.

Proof of Forfeiture of Benefits.—A stipulation in a policy of endowment in a fraternal order requiring the member to be in good standing at the time of his death, and that "the records of the Grand Lodge shall sustain the same," must be construed in reference to provisions in the charter and by-laws of the order, that the member can only be suspended for failure to pay his dues for six months, of which notice shall be given him; and an order or suspension made in his absence will not have the effect of suspending him from benefits when there is no evidence that he had failed to pay his dues for the stated period or that notice had been given in accordance with the constitution and by-laws. Wilkie v. National Council J. O. U. A. M., 151 N. C. 527, 66 S. E. 579, cited and distinguished. Lyons v. Knights of Pythias, 172 N. C. 408, 90 S. E. 423.

False Representations of Insured.—Where an insurance policy in a fraternal order is issued in violation of certain restrictions contained in the constitution and by-laws of the company, and there is evidence tending to show that this fact was known at the time to the applicant, and the policy was issued by reason of false and material statements on the part of the applicant, the company is not estopped, as a conclusion of law, from resisting payment of the policy because of the fact that the agent of the company also knew that the applicant's statements were false. Robinson v. Brotherhood, 170 N. C. 545, 87 S. E. 537.

Nonpayment of Dues.—"It is well settled that in an action upon a life insurance policy the burden of proof is upon the insurance company to show nonpayment of dues or other matters to avoid the policy, when the certificate of insurance has been put in evidence and the death has been shown. Wilkie v. National Council, J. O. U. A. M., 147 N. C. 637, 61 S. E. 580." Harris v. National Council, J. O. U. A. M., 168 N. C. 357, 359, 84 S. E. 405.

Waiver of Defects in Policy.—A policy in the insurance department of a fraternal order cannot be recovered on when issued by a local agent contrary to its rules and regulations as contained in its constitution and by-laws, unless the defect has been waived by the company or it is in some way estopped from insisting on the forfeiture. Robinson v. Brotherhood, 170 N. C. 545, 87 S. E. 537.

§ 58-283. Benefits not subject to debts.—No money or other benefit, charity or relief or aid to be paid, provided, or rendered by any such society or association for the relief of employees including railroad and other relief associations shall be liable to attachment, garnishment, or other process, or be seized, taken, appropriated, or applied by any legal or equitable process or operation of law to pay any debt or liability of a member or beneficiary or any other person who may have a right thereunder, either before or after payment. (1913, c. 89, s. 18; 1925, c. 83; C. S. 6510.)

Funds Become Trust Funds.—Where the constitution of a foreign fraternal insurance society provided for the creation of a fund to be raised from assessments upon its members for the benefit of widows and orphans of deceased members, any money paid to such fund is impressed with the qualities of a trust for the special purposes expressed, and such fund in the hands of a local collector, which he was bound to pay over to the society's treasurer, is not subject to an attachment by a creditor of the society. Brenizer v. Royal Arcanum, 141 N. C. 409, 53 S. E. 835.

In 3 N. C. Law Rev. at p. 130 in considering this section it is said: it "provides that in the case of fraternal benefit societies, no money or other relief furnished by such societies shall be liable to attachment, garnishment, or other process, to pay any debt or liability of a member or beneficiary, 'either before or after payment.'" Chapter 83 extends this exemption so as to apply to any "society or association for the relief of employees, including railroad and other relief associations."

§ 58-284. Certificates of insurance to members.—Any fraternal benefit society authorized to do business in this state which shall accumulate and maintain the reserves, on all certificates hereafter issued, required by the American Experience Table of Mortality, with Craig's or Buttolph's Extension thereof, or the Standard Industrial Table of Mortality, with an interest assumption of not more than three and one-half per centum per annum, or the American Men Ultimate Table of Mortality, with Bowerman's Extension thereof, with an interest assumption of not more than three and one-half per centum per annum, or some higher standard, may accept members in such manner and upon such showing of eligibility, and issue to its members such forms of certificates in such amounts and payable to such beneficiaries as may be authorized by the society; and such society may issue benefit certificates of insurance to any such members in an amount or amounts not exceeding five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars on the aggregate without medical examination, upon health and character information satisfactory to the society. The provisions of this section shall apply to children under sixteen years of age of members of such society.

This section shall not affect or apply to any organization or society which limit their membership to persons engaged in one or more hazardous occupations in the same or similar lines of business, or in any way affect or repeal any law that now applies to such organizations or societies. (1941, c. 74.)

Editor's Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 491.

§ 58-285. Funds provided.—1. Any society may create, maintain, invest, disburse, and apply an emergency, surplus, or other similar fund in accordance with its laws. Unless otherwise provided in the contract, such funds shall be held, invested and disbursed for the use and benefit of the society, and no member or beneficiary shall have or acquire individual rights therein or become entitled to any apportionment or the surrender of any part thereof, except as provided in subsection two of § 58-280. The funds from which benefits shall be paid and the funds from which the expenses of the society shall be defrayed shall be derived from periodical or other payments by the members of the society and accretions of said funds. But no society, domestic or foreign, shall hereafter be incorporated or admitted to transact business in this state which does not provide for stated periodical contributions sufficient to provide for meeting the mortuary obligations contracted, when valued upon the basis of the national fraternal congress table of mortality as adopted by the national fraternal congress, August twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, or any higher standard, with interest assumption not more than four per cent per annum, nor write or accept members for temporary or permanent disability benefits except upon tables based upon reliable experience, with an interest assumption not higher than four per cent per annum.

2. Deferred payments or installments of claims shall be considered as fixed liabilities on the happening of the contingency upon which such payments or installments are thereafter to be paid. Such liability shall be the present value of such future payments or installments upon the rate of interest and mortality assumed by the society for valuation, and every society shall maintain a fund sufficient to meet such liability regardless of proposed future collections to meet any such liabilities. (1913, c. 89, s. 8; C. S. 6511.)

§ 58-286. Investment of funds.—Every society shall invest its funds only in securities permitted by the laws of this state for the investment of the assets of life insurance companies: Provided, that any foreign society permitted or seeking to do business in this state, which invests its funds in accordance with the laws of the state in which it is incorporated where it has such laws, shall be held to meet the requirements of this article for the investment of funds. (1913, c. 89, s. 9; C. S. 6512.)

Cross References.—As to investment in bonds guaranteed by the United States, see § 53-44. As to investment in bonds or notes secured by mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration, see § 53-45. See also § 53-60 as to investments in Federal Farm loan bonds, and § 142-29 as to investment in refunding bonds of North Carolina.

§ 58-287. Application of funds.—Every provision of the laws of the society for payment by its members, in whatever form made, shall distinctly state the purpose of the same and the proportion thereof which may be used for expenses, and no part of the money collected for mortuary or disability purposes or the net accretions of either or any of said funds shall be used for expenses. (1913, c. 89, s. 10; C. S. 6513.)

§ 58-288. Powers of existing societies retained; reincorporation.—Any society now engaged in transacting business in this state may exercise all of the rights conferred by this article, and all the rights, powers, and privileges now exercised or possessed by it under its charter or articles of incorporation not inconsistent with this article, if incorporated; or, if it be a voluntary association, it may incorporate hereunder. But no society already organized shall be required to reincorporate hereunder, and any such society may amend its articles of incorporation from time to time in the manner provided by law. (1913, c. 89, s. 12; C. S. 6514.)

§ 58-289. Mergers and transfers.—No domestic society shall merge with or accept the transfer of the membership or funds of any other society unless such merger or transfer is evidenced by a contract in writing, setting out in full the terms and conditions of such merger or transfer, and is filed with the commissioner of insurance of this state, together with a sworn statement of the financial condition of each of the societies, by its president and secretary or corresponding officers, and a certificate duly verified under oath of said officers of each of the contracting societies that such merger or transfer has been approved by a vote of two-thirds of the members of the supreme legislative or governing body of each of the societies.

Upon the submission of such contract, financial statements, and certificates, the commissioner of insurance shall examine the same, and if he shall find such financial statements to be correct and the contract to be in conformity with the provisions of this section, and that such merger or transfer is just and equitable to the members of each of the societies, he shall approve the merger or transfer, issue his certificate to that effect, and thereupon the contract of merger or transfer shall be of full force and effect.

In case such contact is not approved, the fact of its submission and its contents shall not be disclosed by the commissioner of insurance. (1913, c. 89, s. 13; C. S. 6515.)

§ 58-290. Accident societies may be licensed.—Any fraternal benefit society heretofore organized and incorporated, and operating within the definition set forth in this article, providing for benefits in case of death or disability resulting solely from accidents, but which does not obligate itself to pay death or sick benefits, may be licensed under the provisions of this article, and shall have all the privileges and be subject to all the provisions and regulations of this article, except the provisions requiring medical examinations, valuations of benefit certificates, and that the certificate shall specify the amount of benefits. (1913, c. 89, s. 27; C. S. 6517.)

§ 58-291. Certain societies not included.—Nothing contained in this article shall be construed to affect or apply to societies which limit their membership to any one hazardous occupation, nor to an association of local lodges of a society now doing business in this state which provides death benefits not exceeding five hundred dollars to any one person or disability benefits not exceeding three hundred dollars in any one year to any one person, or both, nor to any contracts of reinsurance business on such plan in this state, nor to domestic societies which limit their membership to the employees of a particular city or town, designated firm, business house, or corporation, nor to domestic lodges, orders, or associations of a purely religious, charitable, and benevolent description, which do not provide for a death benefit of more than one hundred dollars, or for disability benefits of more than one hundred and fifty dollars to any one person in any one year. The commissioner of insurance may require from any society such information as will enable him to determine whether such society is exempt from the provisions of this article. (1913, c. 89, s. 26; 1925, c. 70, s. 2; C. S. 6518.)

Service on Resident Secretary Valid. — Personal service on resident secretary of fraternal insurance association allowed to do business in the State without a license under this section and §§ 58-15, 58-221, and 58-251, held valid service on the association in action on policy. Winchester v. Grand Lodge of Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, 203 N. C. 735, 167 S. E. 49.

§ 58-292. Reports to commissioner of insurance.

1. Annual Report. — Every society transacting business in this state shall annually, on or before the first day of March, file with the commissioner of insurance, in such form as he may require, a statement, under oath of its president and secretary or corresponding officers, of its condition and standing on the thirty-first day of December next preceding, and of its transactions for the year ending on that date, and also shall furnish such other information as the commissioner may deem necessary to a proper exhibit of its business and plan of working. The commissioner may at other times require any further statement he may deem necessary to be made relating to such society.

2. Valuation of Certificates.—In addition to the annual report herein required, each society shall annually report to the commissioner a valuation of its certificates in force on December thirty-first, last preceding, excluding those issued within the year for which the report is filed, in cases where the contributions for the first year in whole or in part are used for current mortality and expenses. Such report of valuation shall show, as contingent liabilities, the present mid-year value of the promised benefits provided in the constitution and laws of such society under certificates then subject to valuation; and as contingent assets, the present mid-year value of the future net contributions provided in the constitution and laws as the same are in practice actually collected. At the option of any society, in lieu of the above, the valuation may show the net value of the certificates subject to valuation hereinbefore provided, and the net value, when computed in case of monthly contributions, may be the mean of the terminal values for the end of the preceding and of the current insurance years.

3. Valuation Ascertained.—Such valuation shall be certified by a competent accountant or actuary, or, at the request and expense of the society, verified by the actuary of the department of insurance of the home state of the society, and shall be filed with the commissioner within ninety days after the submission of the last preceding annual report. The legal minimum standard of valuation for all certificates, except for disability benefits, shall be the national fraternal congress table of mortality as adopted by the national fraternal congress, August twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, or, at the option of the society, any higher table; or, at its option, it may use a table based upon the society's own experience of at least twenty years and covering not less than one hundred thousand lives with interest assumption not more than four per centum per annum. Each such valuation report shall set forth clearly and fully the mortality and interest basis and the method of valuation. Any society providing for disability benefits shall keep the net contributions for such benefits in a fund separate and apart from all other benefit and expense funds and the valuation of all other business of the society: Provided, that where a combined contribution table is used by a society for both death and permanent total disability benefits, the valuation shall be according to tables of reliable experience, and in such case a separation of the funds shall not be required.

4. Test of Solvency.—The valuation herein provided for shall not be considered or regarded as a test of the financial solvency of the society, but each society shall be held to be legally solvent so long as the funds in its possession are equal to or in excess of its matured liabilities.

5. Report Mailed to Members.—A report of such valuation and an explanation of the facts concerning the condition of the society thereby disclosed shall be printed and mailed to each beneficiary member of the society not later than June first of each year; or, in lieu thereof, such report of valuation and showing of the society's condition as thereby disclosed may be published in the society's official paper, and the issue containing the same mailed to each beneficiary member of the society. (1913, c. 89, s. 20; C. S. 6519.)

§ 58-293. Additional or increased rates.—The laws of such society shall provide that if the stated periodical contributions of the members are insufficient to pay all matured death and disability claims in full, and to provide for the creation and maintenance of the funds required by its laws, additional, increased, or extra rates of contribution shall be collected from the members to meet such deficiency; and such laws may provide that, upon the written application or consent of the member, his certificate may be charged with its proportion of any deficiency disclosed by valuation, with interest not exceeding five per cent per annum. 1913, c. 89, s. 20; C. S. 6520.)

§ 58-294. Provisions to insure future security.—If the valuation of the certificates, as hereinbefore provided, on December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, shall show that the present value of future net contributions, together with the admitted assets, is less than the present value of the promised benefits and accrued liabilities, such society shall thereafter maintain said financial condition at each succeeding triennial valuation in respect of the degree of efficiency as shown in the valuation as of December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen. If at any succeeding triennial valuation such society does not show at least the same condition, the commissioner shall direct that it thereafter comply with the requirements herein specified. If the next succeeding triennial valuation after the receipt of such notice shall show that the society has failed to maintain the condition required herein, the commissioner may, in the absence of good cause shown for such failure, institute proceedings for the dissolution of such society, in accordance with the provisions of this article, or in the case of a foreign society, its license may be canceled in the manner provided in this article.

Any such society, shown by any triennial valuation, subsequent to December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, not to have maintained the condition herein required, shall, within two years thereafter, make such improvement as to show a percentage of deficiency not greater than as of December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, or thereafter, as to all new members admitted, to be subject, so far as stated rates of contributions are concerned, to the provisions of this article, applicable in the organization of new societies: Provided, that the net mortuary or beneficiary contributions and funds of such new members shall be kept separate and apart from the other funds of the society. If such required improvement is not shown by the succeeding triennial valuation, then the new members may be placed in a separate class and their certificates valued as an independent society in respect of contributions and funds. (1913, c. 89, s. 20(a); C. S. 6521.)

§ 58-295. Valuation on accumulation basis; tabular basis.—In lieu of the requirements of the two preceding sections, any society accepting in its laws the provisions of this section may value its certificates on a basis herein designated "accumulation basis," by crediting each member with the net amount contributed for each year, and with interest at approximately the net rate earned and by charging him with his shares of the losses for each year, herein designated "cost of insurance," and carrying the balance, if any, to his credit. The charge for the cost of insurance may be according to the actual experience of the society applied to a table of mortality recognized by the law of this state, and shall take into consideration the amount at risk during each year, which shall be the amount payable at death, less the credit to the member. Except as specifically provided in its articles or laws or contracts, no charge shall be carried forward from the first valuation hereunder against any member of any past share of losses exceeding the contributions and credit. If, after the first valuation, any member's share of losses for any year exceeds his credit, including the contribution for the year, the contribution shall be increased to cover his share of the losses. Any such excess share of losses chargeable to any member may be paid out of a fund or contributions especially created or required for such purpose.

Any member may transfer to any plan adopted by the society with net rates on which tabular reserves are maintained, and on such transfer shall be entitled to make such application of his credit as provided in the laws of the society.

Certificates issued, rerated, or readjusted on a basis providing for adequate rates with adequate reserves to mature such certificates upon assumptions for mortality and interest recognized by the law of this state, shall be valued on such basis, herein designated the "Tabular Basis": Provided, that if on the first valuation under this section a deficiency in reserve shall be shown for any such certificate, the same shall be valued on the accumulation basis.

Whenever, in any society having members upon the tabular basis and upon the accumulation basis, the total of all costs of insurance provided for any year shall be insufficient to meet the actual death and disability losses for the year, the deficiency shall be met for the year from the available funds after setting aside all credits in the reserve; or from increased contributions or by an increase in the number of assessments applied to the society as a whole or to classes of members as may be specified in its laws. Savings from a lower amount of death losses may be returned in like manner as may be specified in its laws.

If the laws of the society so provide, the assets representing the reserves of any separate class of members may be carried separately for such class as if in an independent society, and the required reserve accumulation of such class so set apart shall not thereafter be mingled with the assets of other classes of the society.

A table showing the credits to individual members for each age and year of entry and showing opposite each credit the tabular reserve required on the whole life or other plan of insurance specified in the contract, according to assumptions for mortality and interest recognized by the law of this state and adopted by the society, shall be filed by the society with each annual report, and also be furnished to each member before July first of each year.

In lieu of the aforesaid statement there may be furnished to each member within the same time a statement giving the credit for such member and giving the tabular reserve and level rate required for a transfer carrying out the plan of insurance specified in the contract. No table or statement need be made or furnished where the reserves are maintained on the tabular basis.

For this purpose individual bookkeeping accounts for each member shall not be required, and all calculations may be made by actuarial methods.

Nothing herein contained shall prevent the maintenance of such surplus over and above the credits on the accumulation basis and the reserves on the tabular basis pursuant to its laws; nor be construed as giving to the individual member any right or claim to any such reserve or credit other than in manner as expressed in the contract and its laws; nor as making any such reserve or credits a liability in determining the legal solvency ot the society. (1913, c. 89, s. 20(b); C. S. 6522.)

§ 58-296. Examination of domestic societies.—The commissioner of insurance, or any person he may appoint, shall have power of visitation and examination into the affairs of any domestic society. He may employ assistants for the purpose of such examination, and he, or any person he may appoint, shall have free access to all the books, papers, and documents that relate to the business of the society, and may summon and qualify as witness under oath and examine its officers, agents, and employees or other persons in relation to the affairs, transactions, and condition of the society.

The expense of such examination shall be paid by the society examined upon statement furnished by the commissioner of insurance, and the examination shall be made at least once in three years. (1913, c. 89, s. 21; C. S. 6523.)

§ 58-297. Proceedings for dissolution.—When after examination the commissioner of insurance is satisfied that any domestic society has failed to comply with any provision of this article, or is exceeding its powers, or is not carrying out its contracts in good faith, or is transacting business fraudulently; or whenever any domestic society, after the existence of one year or more, shall have a membership of less than four hundred (or shall determine to discontinue business), the commissioner of insurance may present the facts relating thereto to the attorney-general who shall, if he deem the circumstances warrant, commence an action in quo warranto in a court of competent jurisdiction, and such court shall thereupon notify the officers of such society of a hearing, and if it shall then appear that such society should be closed, it shall be enjoined from carrying on any further business, and a receiver shall be appointed to take possession of its books, papers, moneys, and other assets and immediately, under the direction of the court, proceed to close its affairs and distribute its funds to those entitled thereto.

No such proceedings shall be commenced by the attorney-general against any such society until after notice has been duly served on its chief executive officers and a reasonable opportunity given to it, on a date to be named in the notice, to show cause why such proceedings should not be commenced. (1913, c. 89, s. 21; C. S. 6524.)

§ 58-298. Proceedings only by attorney-general.—No application for injunction against or proceedings for the dissolution of or the appointment of a receiver for any such domestic society or branch thereof shall be entertained by any court in this state unless the same is made by the attorney-general. (1913, c. 89, s. 22; C. S. 6525.)

§ 58-299. Examination of foreign societies.—The commissioner of insurance or any person whom he may appoint may examine any foreign society transacting or applying for admission to transact business in this state. The commissioner may employ assistants, and he, or any person he may appoint, shall have free access to all the books, papers, and documents that relate to the business of the society, and may summon and qualify as witness under oath and examine its officers, agents, and employees and other persons in relation to the affairs, transactions, and condition of the society. He may, in his discretion, accept in lieu of such examination the examination of the insurance department of the state, territory, district, province, or country where such society is organized. The actual expenses of examiners making any such examination shall be paid by the society upon statement furnished by the commissioner of insurance.

If any such society or its officers refuse to submit to such examination or to comply with the provisions of the section relative thereto, its authority to write new business in this state shall be suspended or license refused until satisfactory evidence is furnished the commissioner relating to its condition and affairs, and during such suspension the society shall not write new business in this state. (1913, c. 89, s. 23; C. S. 6526.)

§ 58-300. No adverse publications. — Pending, during, or after an examination or investigation of any such society, either domestic or foreign, the commissioner of insurance shall make public no financial statement, report, or finding, nor shall he knowingly permit to become public any financial statement, report, or finding affecting the status, standing, or rights of any such society, until a copy thereof has been served upon the society, at its home office, nor until the society has been afforded a reasonable opportunity to answer any such financial statement, report, or finding, and to make such showing in connection therewith as it may desire. (1913, c. 89, s. 24; C. S. 6527.)

§ 58-301. Revocation of license.—When the commissioner of insurance on investigation is satisfied that any foreign society transacting business under this article has exceeded its powers, or has failed to comply wth any provisions of this article, or is conducting business fraudulently, or is not carrying out its contracts in good faith, he shall notify the society of his findings, and state in writing the grounds of his dissatisfaction, and after reasonable notice require the society, on a date named, to show cause why its license should not be revoked. If on the date named in the notice such objections have not been removed to the satisfaction of the commissioner, or the society does not present good and sufficient reasons why its authority to transact business in this state should not at that time be revoked, he may revoke the authority to continue business in this state. All decisions and findings of the commissioner made under the provisions of this section may be reviewed by proper proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction, as provided in this article. (1913, c. 89, s. 25; C. S. 6528.)

§ 58-302. Criminal offenses.—Any person, officer, member, or examining physician of any society authorized to do business under this article who shall knowingly or wilfully make any false or fraudulent statement or representation in or with reference to any application for membership, or for the purpose of obtaining money from or benefit in any society transacting business under this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Any person who shall solicit membership for, or in any manner assist in procuring membership in any fraternal benefit society not licensed to do business in this state, or who shall solicit membership for, or in any manner assist in procuring membership in any such society not authorized as herein provided, to do business as herein defined in this state, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars.

Any society, or any officer, agent, or employee thereof, neglecting or refusing to comply with, or violating, any of the provisions of this article, the penalty for which neglect, refusal, or violation is not specified in this section, shall be fined not exceeding two hundred dollars upon conviction thereof. (1913, c. 89, s. 28; C. S. 6529.)

In case the parties corporate to such a contract shall have been incorporated in separate states, or territories, such contract shall be submitted as herein provided to the commissioner of insurance of each of such incorporating states, or territories, to be considered and approved separately by each of such commissioners of insurance. XII. The right, if given, of one or more of the limited partners to priority over other limited partners, as to contributions or as to compensation by way of income, and the nature of such priority,

XIII. The right, if given, of the remaining general partner or partners to continue the business on the death, retirement or insanity of a general partner, and

XIV. The right, if given, of a limited partner to demand and receive property other than cash in return for his contribution.

(b) File for record the certificate in the office of the clerk of the superior court.

(2) A limited partnership is formed if there has been substantial compliance in good faith with the requirements of paragraph (1). (1941, c. 251, s. 2.)

§ 59-3. Business which may be carried on.—A limited partnership may carry on any business which a partnership without limited partners may carry on. (1941, c. 251, s. 3.)

§ 59-4. Character of limited partner's contribution.—The contributions of a limited partner may be cash or other property, but not services. (1941, c. 251, s. 4.)

§ 59-5. A name not to contain surname of limited partner; exceptions.—(1) The surname of a limited partner shall not appear in the partnership name, unless

(a) It is also the surname of a general partner, or

(b) Prior to the time when the limited partner became such the business had been carried on under a name in which his surname appeared.

(2) A limited partner whose name appears in a partnership name contrary to the provisions of paragraph (1) is liable as a general partner to partnership creditors who extend credit to the partnership without actual knowledge that he is not a general partner. (1941, c. 251, s. 5.)

§ 59-6. Liability for false statements in certificate.—If the certificate contains a false statement, one who suffers loss by reliance on such statement may hold liable any party to the certificate who knew the statement to be false

(a) At the time he signed the certificate, or

(b) Subsequently, but within a sufficient time before the statement was relied upon to enable him to cancel or amend the certificate, or to file a petition for its cancellation or amendment as provided in § 59-25, subsection (3). (1941, c. 251, s. 6.)

§ 59-7. Limited partner not liable to creditors.—A limited partner shall not become liable as a general partner unless, in addition to the exercise of his rights and powers as a limited partner, he takes part in the control of the business. (1941, c. 251, s. 7.)

Cross Reference.—As to nature of liability of a general partner, see § 59-45.

§ 59-8. Admission of additional limited partners.—After the formation of a limited partnership, additional limited partners may be admitted upon filing an amendment to the original certificate in accordance with the requirements of § 59-25. (1941, c. 251, s. 8.)

§ 59-9. Rights, powers and liabilities of a general partner.—A general partner shall have all the rights and powers and be subject to all the restrictions and liabilities of a partner in a partnership without limited partners, except that without the written consent or ratification of the specific act by all the limited partners, a general partner or all of the general partners have no authority to

(a) Do any act in contravention of the certificate,

(b) Do any act which would make it impossible to carry on the ordinary business of the partnership,

(c) Confess a judgment against the partnership,

(d) Possess partnership property, or assign their rights in specific partnership property, for other than a partnership purpose,

(e) Admit a person as a general partner,

(f) Admit a person as a limited partner, unless the right so to do is given in the certificate,

(g) Continue the business with partnership property on the death, retirement or insanity of a general partner, unless the right so to do is given in the certificate. (1941, c. 251, s. 9.)

§ 59-10. Rights of a limited partner.—(1) A limited partner shall have the same rights as a general partner to

(a) Have the partnership books kept at the principal place of business of the partnership, and at all times to inspect and copy any of them,

(b) Have on demand true and full information of all things affecting the partnership, and a formal account of partnership affairs whenever circumstances render it just and reasonable, and

(c) Have dissolution and winding up by decree of court.

(2) A limited partner shall have the right to receive a share of the profits or other compensation by way of income, and to the return of his contribution as provided in §§ 59-15 and 59-16. (1941, c. 251, s. 10.)

§ 59-11. Status of person erroneously believing himself a limited partner.—A person who has contributed to the capital of a business conducted by a person or partnership erroneously believing that he has become a limited partner in a limited partnership, is not, by reason of his exercise of the rights of a limited partner, a general partner with the person or in the partnership carrying on the business, or bound by the obligations of such person or partnership; provided that on ascertaining the mistake he promptly renounces his interest in the profits of the business, or other compensation by way of income. (1941, c. 251, s. 11.)

§ 59-12. One person both general and limited partner.—(1) A person may be a general partner and a limited partner in the same partnership at the same time.

(2) A person who is a general, and also at the same time a limited partner, shall have all the rights and powers and be subject to all restrictions of a general partner; except that, in respect to his contribution, he shall have the rights against the other members which he would have had if he were not also a general partner. (1941, c. 251, s. 12.)

§ 59-13. Loans and other business transactions with limited partner.—(1) A limited partner also may loan money to and transact other business with the partnership, and, unless he is also a general partner, receive on account of resulting claims against the partnership, with general creditors, a pro rata share of the assets. No limited partner shall in respect to any such claim

(a) Receive or hold as collateral security any partnership property, or

(b) Receive from a general partner or the partnership any payment, conveyance, or release from liability, if at the time the assets of the partnership are not sufficient to discharge partnership liabilities to persons not claiming as general or limited partners.

(2) The receiving of collateral security, or a payment, conveyance, or release in violation of the provisions of paragraph (1) is a fraud on the creditors of the partnership. (1941, c. 251, s. 13.)

§ 59-14. Relation of limited partners inter se.—Where there are several limited partners the members may agree that one or more of the limited partners shall have a priority over other limited partners as to the return of their contributions, as to their compensation by way of income, or as to any other matter. If such an agreement is made it shall be stated in the certificate, and in the absence of such a statement all the limited partners shall stand upon equal footing. (1941, c. 251, s. 14.)

§ 59-15. Compensation of limited partner.—A limited partner may receive from the partnership the share of the profits or the compensation by way of income stipulated for in the certificate; provided, that after such payment is made, whether from the property of the partnership or that of a general partner, the partnership assets are in excess of all liabilities of the partnership except liabilities to limited partners on account of their contributions and to general partners. (1941, c. 251, s. 15.)

§ 59-16. Withdrawal or reduction of limited partner's contribution.—(1) A limited partner shall not receive from a general partner or out of partnership property any part of his contribution until

(a) All liabilities of the partnership, except liabilities to general partners and to limited partners on account of their contributions, have been paid or there remains property of the partnership sufficient to pay them,

(b) The consent of all members is had, unless the return of the contribution may be rightfully demanded under the provisions of paragraph (2), and

(c) The certificate is cancelled or so amended as to set forth the withdrawal or reduction.

(2) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (1) a limited partner may rightfully demand the return of his contribution

(a) On the dissolution of a partnership, or

(b) When the date specified in the certificate for its return has arrived, or

(c) After he has given six months' notice in writing to all other members, if no time is specified in the certificate either for the return of the contribution or for the dissolution of the partnership.

(3) In the absence of any statement in the certificate to the contrary or the consent of all members, a limited partner, irrespective of the nature of his contribution, has only the right to demand and receive cash in return for his contribution.

(4) A limited partner may have the partnership dissolved and its affairs wound up when

(a) He rightfully but unsuccessfully demands the return of his contribution, or

(b) The other liabilities of the partnership have not been paid, or the partnership property is insufficient for their payment as required by paragraph (1) (a) and the limited partner would otherwise be entitled to the return of his contribution. (1941, c. 251, s. 16.)

§ 59-17. Liability of limited partner to partnership.—(1) A limited partner is liable to the partnership

(a) For the difference between his contribution as actually made and that stated in the certificate as having been made, and

(b) For any unpaid contribution which he agreed in the certificate to make in the future at the time and on the condition stated in the certificate.

(2) A limited partner holds as trustee for the partnership

(a) Specific property stated in the certificate as contributed by him, but which was not contributed or which has been wrongfully returned, and

(b) Money or other property wrongfully paid or conveyed to him on account of his contribution.

(3) The liabilities of a limited partner as set forth in this section can be waived or compromised only by the consent of all members; but a waiver or compromise shall not affect the right of a creditor of a partnership, who extended credit or whose claim arose after the filing and before a cancellation or amendment of the certificate, to enforce such liabilities.

(4) When a contributor has rightfully received the return in whole or in part of the capital of his contribution, he is nevertheless liable to the partnership for any sum, not in excess of such return with interest, necessary to discharge its liabilities to all creditors who extended credit or whose claims arose before such return. (1941, c. 251, s. 17.)

§ 59-18. Nature of limited partner's interest in the partnership.—A limited partner's interest in the partnership is personal property. (1941, c. 251, s. 18.)

§ 59-19. Assignment of limited partner's interest.—(1) A limited partner's interest is assignable.

(2) A substituted limited partner is a person admitted to all the rights of a limited partner who has died or has assigned his interest in a partnership.

(3) An assignee, who does not become a substituted limited partner, has no right to require any information or account of the partnership transactions or to inspect the partnership books; he is only entitled to receive the share of the profits or other compensation by way of income, or the return of his contribution, to which his assignor would otherwise be entitled.

(4) An assignee shall have the right to become a substituted limited partner if all the members (except the assignor) consent thereto or if the assignor, being thereunto empowered by the certificate, gives the assignee that right.

(5) An assignee becomes a substituted limited partner when the certificate is approximately amended in accordance with § 59-25.

(6) The substituted limited partner has all the rights and powers, and is subject to all the restrictions and liabilities of his assignor, except those liabilities of which he was ignorant at the time he became a limited partner and which could not be ascertained from the certificate.

(7) The substitution of the assignee as a limited partner does not release the assignor from liability to the partnership under §§ 59-6 and 59-17. (1941, c. 251, s. 19.)

Cross Reference.—As to assignment of a partner's interest, see § 59-57.

§ 59-20. Effect of retirement, death or insanity of a general partner.—The retirement, death or insanity of a general partner dissolves the partnership, unless the business is continued by the remaining general partners

(a) Under a right so to do stated in the certificate, or

(b) With the consent of all members. (1941, c. 251, s. 20.)

§ 59-21. Death of limited partner.—(1) On the death of a limited partner his executor or administrator shall have all the rights of a limited partner for the purpose of settling his estate, and such power as the deceased had to constitute his assignee a substituted limited partner.

(2) The estate of a deceased limited partner shall be liable for all his liabilities as a limited partner. (1941, c. 251, s. 21.)

§ 59-22. Rights of creditors of limited partner.—(1) On due application to a court of competent jurisdiction by any judgment creditor of a limited partner, the court may charge the interest of the indebted limited partner with payment of the unsatisfied amount of the judgment debt; and may appoint a receiver, and make all other orders, directions, and inquiries which the circumstances of the case may require.

(2) The interest may be redeemed with the separate property of any general partner, but may not be redeemed with partnership property.

(3) The remedies conferred by paragraph (1) shall not be deemed exclusive of others which may exist.

(4) Nothing in this article shall be held to deprive a limited partner of his statutory exemption. (1941, c. 251, s. 22.)

§ 59-23. Distribution of assets.—(1) In settling accounts after dissolution the liabilities of the partnership shall be entitled to payment in the following order:

(a) Those to creditors, in the order of priority as provided by law, except those to limited partners on account of their contributions, and to general partners,

(b) Those to limited partners in respect to their share of the profits and other compensation by way of income on their contributions,

(c) Those to limited partners in respect to the capital of their contributions,

(d) Those to general partners other than for capital and profits,

(e) Those to general partners in respect to profits,

(f) Those to general partners in respect to capital.

(2) Subject to any statement in the certificate or to subsequent agreement, limited partners share in the partnership assets in respect to their claims for capital, and in respect to their claims for profits or for compensation by way of income on their contributions respectively, in proportion to the respective amounts of such claims. (1941, c. 251, s. 23.)

§ 59-24. When certificate shall be cancelled or amended.—(1) The certificate shall be cancelled when the partnership is dissolved or all limited partners cease to be such.

(2) A certificate shall be amended when

(a) There is a change in the name of the partnership or in the amount or character of the contribution of any limited partner,

(b) A person is substituted as a limited partner,

(c) An additional limited partner is admitted,

(d) A person is admitted as a general partner,

(e) A general partner retires, dies or becomes insane, and the business is continued under § 59-20,

(f) There is a change in the character of the business of the partnership,

(g) There is a false or erroneous statement in the certificate,

(h) There is a change in the time as stated in the certificate for the dissolution of the partnership or for the return of a contribution,

(i) A time is fixed for the dissolution of the partnership, or the return of a contribution, no time having been specified in the certificate, or

(j) The members desire to make a change in any other statement in the certificate in order that it shall accurately represent the agreement between them. (1941, c. 251, s. 24.)

§ 59-25. Requirements for amendment and for cancellation of certificate.—(1) The writing to amend a certificate shall

(a) Conform to the requirements of § 59-2, subsection (1) (a) as far as necessary to set forth clearly the change in the certificate which it is desired to make, and

(b) Be signed and sworn to by all members, and an amendment substituting a limited partner or adding a limited or general partner shall be signed also by the member to be substituted or added, and when a limited partner is to be substituted, the amendment shall also be signed by the assigning limited partner.

(2) The writing to cancel a certificate shall be signed by all members.

(3) A person desiring the cancellation or amendment of a certificate, if any person designated in paragraphs (1) and (2) as a person who must execute the writing refuses to do so, may petition the superior court to direct a cancellation or amendment thereof.

(4) If the court finds that the petitioner has a right to have the writing executed by a person who refuses to do so, it shall order the clerk of the superior court in the office where the certificate is recorded to record the cancellation or amendment of the certificate; and where the certificate is to be amended, the court shall also cause to be filed for record in said office a certified copy of its decree setting forth the amendment.

(5) A certificate is amended or cancelled when there is filed for record in the office of the clerk of the superior court where the certificate is recorded

(a) A writing in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (1), or (2) or

(b) A certified copy of the order of court in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (4).

(6) After the certificate is duly amended in accordance with this section, the amended certificate shall thereafter be for all purposes the certificate provided for by this article. (1941, c. 251, s. 25.)

§ 59-26. Parties to actions.—A contributor, unless he is a general partner, is not a proper party to proceedings by or against a partnership, except where the object is to enforce a limited partner's right against or liability to the partnership. (1941, c. 251, s. 26.)

(a) The amount of the original contribution of each limited partner, and the time when the contribution was made, and

(b) That the property of the partnership exceeds the amount sufficient to discharge its liabilities to persons not claiming as general or limited partners by an amount greater than the sum of the contributions of its limited partners.

(2) A limited partnership formed under any statute of this state prior to the adoption of this article, until or unless it becomes a limited partnership under this article, shall continue to be governed by the provisions of existing law, except that such partnership shall not be renewed unless so provided in the original agreement. (2) But any association formed under any other statute of this state, or any statute adopted by authority, other than the authority of this state, is not a partnership under this article, unless such association would have been a partnership in this state prior to the adoption of this article; but this article shall apply to limited partnerships except in so far as the statutes relating to such partnerships are inconsistent herewith. (1941, c. 374, s. 6.)

Cross Reference.—As to limited partnerships, see §§ 59-1 to 59-30.

§ 59-37. Rules for determining the existence of a partnership.—In determining whether a partnership exists, these rules shall apply:

(1) Except as provided by § 59-46 persons who are not partners as to each other are not partners as to third persons.

(2) Joint tenancy, tenancy in common, tenancy by the entireties, joint property, common property, or part ownership does not of itself establish a partnership, whether such co-owners do or do not share any profits made by the use of the property.

(3) The sharing of gross returns does not of itself establish a partnership, whether or not the persons sharing them have a joint or common right or interest in any property from which the returns are derived.

(4) The receipt by a person of a share of the profits of a business is prima facie evidence that he is a partner in the business, but no such inference shall be drawn if such profits were received in payment:

(a) as a debt by installments or otherwise,

(b) as wages of an employee or rent to a landlord,

(c) as an annuity to a widow or representative of a deceased partner,

(d) as interest on a loan, though the amount of payment vary with the profits of the business,

(4) A conveyance to a partnership in the partnership name, though without words of inheritance, passes the entire estate of the grantor unless a contrary intent appears. (1941, c. 374, s. 8.)

Part 3. Relations of Partners to Persons Dealing with the Partnership.

§ 59-39. Partner agent of partnership as to partnership business.—(1) Every partner is an agent of the partnership for the purpose of its business, and the act of every partner, including the execution in the partnership name of any instrument, for apparently carrying on in the usual way the business of the partnership of which he is a member binds the partnership, unless the partner so acting has in fact no authority to act for the partnership in the particular matter, and the person with whom he is dealing has knowledge of the fact that he has no such authority.

(2) An act of a partner which is not apparently for the carrying on of the business of the partnership in the usual way does not bind the partnership unless authorized by the other partners.

(3) Unless authorized by the other partners or unless they have abandoned the business, one or more but less than all the partners have no authority to:

(a) Assign the partnership property in trust for creditors, or on the assignee's promise to pay the debts of the partnership,

(b) Dispose of the goodwill of the business,

§ 59-40. Conveyance of real property of the partnership.—(1) Where title to real property is in the partnership name, any partner may convey title to such property by a conveyance executed in the partnership name; but the partnership may recover such property unless the partner's act binds the partnership under the provisions of paragraph (1) of § 59-39, or unless such property has been conveyed by the grantee of a person claiming through such grantee to holder for value without knowledge that the partner, in making the conveyance, has exceeded his authority.

(2) Where title to real property is in the name of the partnership, a conveyance executed by a partner, in his own name, passes the equitable interest of the partnership, provided the act is one within the authority of the partner under the provisions of paragraph (1) of § 59-39.

(3) Where title to real property is in the name of one or more, but not all the partners, and the record does not disclose the right of the partnership, the partners in whose name the title stands may convey title to such property, but the partnership may recover such property if the partners' act does not bind the partnership under the provisions of paragraph (1) of § 59-39, unless the purchaser or his assignee, is a holder for value, without knowledge.

(4) Where the title to real property is in the name of one or more or all the partners, or in a third person in trust for the partnership, a conveyance executed by a partner in the partnership name, or in his own name, passes the equitable interest of the partnership, provided the act is one within the authority of the partner under the provisions of paragraph (1) of § 59-39.

(5) Where the title to real property is in the names of all the partners a conveyance executed by all the partners passes all their rights in such property. (1941, c. 374, s. 10.)

§ 59-41. Partnership bound by admission of partner.—An admission or representation made by any partner concerning partnership affairs within the scope of his authority as conferred by this article is evidence against the partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 11.)

Cross Reference.—As to admission after the statute of limitations has run, see § 1-27.

§ 59-42. Partnership charged with knowledge of or notice to partner.—Notice to any partner of any matter relating to partnership affairs, and the knowledge of the partner acting in the particular matter, acquired while a partner or then present to his mind, and the knowledge of any other partner who reasonably could and should have communicated it to the acting partner, operate as notice to or knowledge of the partnership, except in the case of a fraud on the partnership committed by or with the consent of that partner. (1941, c. 374, s. 12.)

§ 59-43. Partnership bound by partner's wrongful act.—Where, by any wrongful act or omission of any partner acting in the ordinary course of the business of the partnership or with the authority of his copartners, loss or injury is caused to any person, not being a partner in the partnership, or any penalty is incurred, the partnership is liable therefor to the same extent as the partner so acting or omitting to act. (1941, c. 374, s. 13.)

§ 59-44. Partnership bound by partner's breach of trust.—The partnership is bound to make good the loss:

(a) Where one partner acting within the scope of his apparent authority receives money or property of a third person and misapplies it; and

(b) where the partnership in the course of its business receives money or property of a third person and the money or property so received is misapplied by any partner while it is in the custody of the partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 14.)

§ 59-45. Nature of partner's liability.—All partners are liable

(a) Jointly and severally for everything chargeable to the partnership under §§ 59-43 and 59-44.

(b) Jointly for all other debts and obligations of the partnership; but any partner may enter into a separate obligation to perform a partnership contract. (1941, c. 374, s. 15.)

§ 59-46. Partner by estoppel.—(1) When a person, by words spoken or written or by conduct, represents himself, or consents to another representing him to any one, as a partner in an existing partnership or with one or more persons not actual partners, he is liable to any such person to whom such representation has been made, who has, on the faith of such representation, given credit to the actual or apparent partnership, and if he has made such representation or consented to its being made in a public manner, he is liable to such person, whether the representation has or has not been made or communicated to such person so giving credit by or with the knowledge of the apparent partner making the representation or consenting to its being made.

(a) When a partnership liability results, he is liable as though he were an actual member of the partnership.

(b) When no partnership liability results, he is liable jointly with the other persons, if any, so consenting to the contract or representation as to incur liability, otherwise separately.

(2) When a person has been thus represented to be a partner in an existing partnership, or with one or more persons not actual partners, he is an agent of the persons consenting to such representation to bind them to the same extent and in the same manner as though he were a partner in fact, with respect to persons who rely upon the representation. Where all the members of the existing partnership consent to the representation, a partnership act or obligation results; but in all other cases it is the joint act or obligation of the person acting and the persons consenting to the representation. (1941, c. 374, s. 16.)

§ 59-47. Liability of incoming partner.—A person admitted as a partner into an existing partnership is liable for all the obligations of the partnership arising before his admission as though he had been a partner when such obligations were incurred, except that this liability shall be satisfied only out of partnership property. (1941, c. 374, s. 17.)

Part 4. Relations of Partners to One Another.

§ 59-48. Rules determining rights and duties of partners.—The rights and duties of the partners in relation to the partnership shall be determined, subject to any agreement between them, by the following rules:

(a) Each partner shall be repaid his contributions, whether by way of capital or advances to the partnership property and share equally in the profits and surplus remaining after all liabilities, including those to partners, are satisfied; and must contribute towards the losses, whether of capital or otherwise, sustained by the partnership according to his share in the profits.

(b) The partnership must indemnify every partner in respect of payments made and personal liabilities reasonably incurred by him in the ordinary and proper conduct of its business, or for the preservation of its business or property.

(c) A partner, who in aid of the partnership makes any payment or advance beyond the amount of capital which he agreed to contribute, shall be paid interest from the date of the payment or advance.

(d) A partner shall receive interest on the capital contributed by him only from the date when repayment should be made.

(e) All partners have equal rights in the management and conduct of the partnership business.

(f) No partner is entitled to remuneration for acting in the partnership business, except that a surviving partner is entitled to reasonable compensation for his services in winding up the partnership affairs.

(g) No person can become a member of a partnership without the consent of all the partners.

(h) Any difference arising as to ordinary matters connected with the partnership business may be decided by a majority of the partners; but no act in contravention of any agreement between the partners may be done rightfully without the consent of all the partners. (1941, c. 374, s. 18.)

Cross Reference.—As to rights and liabilities of limited partners, see §§ 59-10 to 59-17.

§ 59-49. Partnership books.—The partnership books shall be kept, subject to any agreement between the partners, at the principal place of business of the partnership, and every partner shall at all times have access to and may inspect and copy any of them. (1941, c. 374, s. 19.)

§ 59-50. Duty of partners to render information.—Partners shall render on demand true and full information of all things affecting the partnership to any partner or the legal representative of any deceased partner or partner under legal disability. (1941, c. 374, s. 20.)

§ 59-51. Partner accountable as a fiduciary.—(1) Every partner must account to the partnership for any benefit, and hold as trustee for it any profits derived by him without the consent of the other partners from any transaction connected with the formation, conduct or liquidation of the partnership or from any use by him of its property.

(2) This section applies also to the representatives of a deceased partner engaged in the liquidation of the affairs of the partnership as the personal representatives of the last surviving partner. (1941, c. 374, s. 21.)

Cross Reference.—As to criminal liability for appropriation of partnership funds by a partner, see §§ 14-97 and 14-98.

§ 59-52. Right to an account.—Any partner shall have the right to a formal account as to partnership affairs:

(a) if he is wrongfully excluded from the partnership business or possession of its property by his copartners,

(b) if the right exists under the terms of any agreement,

(c) as provided by § 59-51,

(d) whenever other circumstances render it just and reasonable. (1941, c. 374, s. 22.)

§ 59-53. Continuation of partnership beyond fixed term.—(1) When a partnership for a fixed term or particular undertaking is continued after the termination of such term or particular undertaking without any express agreement, the rights and duties of the partners remain the same as they were at such termination, so far as is consistent with a partnership at will.

(2) A continuation of the business by the partners or such of them as habitually acted therein during the term, without any settlement or liquidation of the partnership affairs, is prima facie evidence of a continuation of the partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 23.)

Part 5. Property Rights of a Partner.

§ 59-54. Extent of property rights of a partner.—The property rights of a partner are (1) his rights in specific partnership property, (2) his interest in the partnership, and (3) his right to participate in the management. (1941, c. 374, s. 24.)

§ 59-55. Nature of a partner's right in specific partnership property.—(1) A partner is coowner with his partners of specific partnership property holding as a tenant in partnership.

(2) The incidents of this tenancy are such that:

(a) A partner, subject to the provisions of this article and to any agreement between the partners, has an equal right with his partners to possess specific partnership property for partnership purposes; but he has no right to possess such property for any other purpose without the consent of his partners.

(b) A partner's right in specific partnership property is not assignable except in connection with the assignment of rights of all the partners in the same property.

(c) A partner's right in specific partnership property is not subject to attachment or execution, except on a claim against the partnership. When partnership property is attached for a partnership debt the partners, or any of them, or the representatives of a deceased partner, cannot claim any right under the homestead or exemption laws.

(d) On the death of a partner his right in specific partnership property vests in the surviving partner or partners, except where the deceased was the last surviving partner, when his right in such property vests in his legal representative. Such surviving partner or partners, or the legal representative of the last surviving partner, has no right to possess the partnership property for any but a partnership purpose.

(e) A partner's right in specific partnership property is not subject to dower, curtesy, or allowances to widows, heirs, or next of kin. (1941, c. 374, s. 25.)

Cross Reference.—As to survivor in joint tenancy for partnership purposes, see § 41-2.

§ 59-56. Nature of partner's interest in the partnership.—A partner's interest in the partnership is his share of the profits and surplus, and the same is personal property. (1941, c. 374, s. 26.)

§ 59-57. Assignment of partner's interest.—(1) A conveyance by a partner of his interest in the partnership does not of itself dissolve the partnership, nor, as against the other partners in the absence of agreement, entitle the assignee, during the continuance of the partnership, to interfere in the management or administration of the partnership business or affairs, or to require any information or account of partnership transactions, or to inspect the partnership books; but it merely entitles the assignee to receive in accordance with his contract the profits to which the assigning partner would otherwise be entitled.

(2) In case of a dissolution of the partnership, the assignee is entitled to receive his assignor's interest and may require an account from the date only of the last account agreed to by all the partners. (1941, c. 374, s. 27.)

Cross Reference.—As to assignment of a limited partner's interest, see § 59-19.

§ 59-58. Partner's interest subject to charging order.—(1) On due application to a competent court by any judgment creditor of a partner, the court which entered the judgment, order or decree, or any other court, may charge the interest of the debtor partner with payment of the unsatisfied amount of such judgment debt with interest thereon; and may then or later appoint a receiver of his share of the profits, and of any other money due or to fall due to him in respect of the partnership, and make all other orders, directions, accounts and inquiries which the debtor partner might have made, or which the circumstances of the case may require.

(2) The interest charged may be redeemed at any time before foreclosure, or in case of a sale being directed by the court may be purchased without thereby causing a dissolution:

(a) With separate property, by any one or more of the partners, or

(b) With partnership property, by any one or more of the partners with the consent of all the partners whose interests are not so charged or sold.

(3) Nothing in this article shall be held to deprive a partner of his right, if any, under the exemption laws, as regards his interest in the partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 28.)

Cross Reference.—As to right of creditors of a limited partner, see § 59-22.

Part 6. Dissolution and Winding Up.

§ 59-59. Dissolution defined.—The dissolution of a partnership is the change in the relation of the partners caused by any partner ceasing to be associated in the carrying on as distinguished from the winding up of the business. (1941, c. 374, s. 29.)

§ 59-60. Partnership not terminated by dissolution.—On dissolution the partnership is not terminated, but continues until the winding up of partnership affairs is completed. (1941, c. 374, s. 30.)

§ 59-61. Causes of dissolution.—Dissolution is caused: (1) Without violation of the agreement between the partners,

(a) by the termination of the definite term or particular undertaking specified in the agreement,

(b) by the express will of any partner when no definite term or particular undertaking is specified,

(c) by the express will of all partners who have not assigned their interests or suffered them to be charged for their separate debts, either before or after the termination of any specific term or particular undertaking,

(d) by the expulsion of any partner from the business bona fide in accordance with such a power conferred by the agreement between the partners;

(2) in contravention of the agreement between the partners, where the circumstances do not permit a dissolution under any other provision of this section, by the express will of any partner at any time;

(3) by any event which makes it unlawful for the business of the partnership to be carried on or for the members to carry it on in partnership;

(4) by the death of any partner, unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise;

(5) by the bankruptcy of any partner or the partnership;

(6) by decree of court under § 59-62. (1941, c. 374, s. 31; 1943, c. 384.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment added to subsection (4) the words "unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise."

§ 59-62. Dissolution by decree of court.—(1) On application by or for a partner the court shall decree a dissolution whenever:

(a) A partner has been declared a lunatic in any judicial proceeding or is shown to be of unsound mind,

(b) a partner becomes in any other way incapable of performing his part of the partnership contract,

(c) a partner has been guilty of such conduct as tends to affect prejudicially the carrying on of the business,

(d) a partner wilfully or persistently commits a breach of the partnership agreement, or otherwise so conducts himself in matters relating to the partnership business that it is not reasonably practicable to carry on the business in partnership with him,

(e) the business of the partnership can only be carried on at a loss,

(f) other circumstances render a dissolution equitable.

(2) On the application of the purchaser of a partner's interest under §§ 59-57 and 59-58:

(a) After the termination of the specified term or particular undertaking,

(b) At any time if the partnership was a partnership at will when the interest was assigned or when the charging order was issued. (1941, c. 374, s. 32.)

§ 59-63. General effect of dissolution on authority of partner.—Except so far as may be necessary to wind up partnership affairs or to complete transactions begun but not then finished, dissolution terminates all authority of any partner to act for the partnership,

(1) with respect to the partners,

(a) when the dissolution is not by the act, bankruptcy or death of a partner; or

(b) when the dissolution is by such act, bankruptcy or death of a partner, in cases where § 59-64 so requires,

(2) with respect to persons not partners, as declared in § 59-65. (1941, c. 374, s. 33.)

§ 59-64. Right of partner to contribution from copartners after dissolution.—Where the dissolution is caused by the act, death or bankruptcy of a partner, each partner is liable to his copartners for his share of any liability created by any partner acting for the partnership as if the partnership had not been dissolved unless

(a) the dissolution being by act of any partner, the partner acting for the partnership had knowledge of the dissolution, or

(b) the dissolution being by the death or bankruptcy of a partner, the partner acting for the partnership had knowledge or notice of the death or bankruptcy. (1941, c. 374, s. 34.)

§ 59-65. Power of partner to bind partnership to third persons after dissolution.—(1) After dissolution a partner can bind the partnership except as provided in paragraph (3)

(a) by any act appropriate for winding up partnership affairs or completing transactions unfinished at dissolution;

(b) by any transaction which would bind the partnership if dissolution had not taken place, provided the other party to the transaction

(I) had extended credit to the partnership prior to dissolution and had no knowledge or notice of the dissolution; or

(II) though he had not so extended credit, had nevertheless known of the partnership prior to dissolution, and, having no knowledge or notice of dissolution, the fact of dissolution had not been advertised in a newspaper of general circulation in the place (or in each place if more than one) at which the partnership business was regularly carried on.

(2) The liability of a partner under paragraph (1) (b) shall be satisfied out of partnership assets alone when such partner had been prior to dissolution

(a) unknown as a partner to the person with whom the contract is made; and

(b) so far unknown and inactive in partnership affairs that the business reputation of the partnership could not be said to have been in any degree due to his connection with it.

(3) The partnership is in no case bound by any act of a partner after dissolution

(a) where the partnership is dissolved because it is unlawful to carry on the business, unless the act is appropriate for winding up partnership affairs; or

(b) where the partner has become bankrupt; or

(c) where the partner has no authority to wind up partnership affairs; except by a transaction with one who

(I) had extended credit to the partnership prior to dissolution and had no knowledge or notice of his want of authority; or

(II) had not extended credit to the partnership prior to dissolution, and, having no knowledge or notice of his want of authority, the fact of his want of authority has not been advertised in the manner provided for advertising the fact of dissolution in paragraph (1) (b) (II).

(4) Nothing in this section shall affect the liability under § 59-46 of any person who after dissolution represents himself or consents to another representing him as a partner in a partnership engaged in carrying on business. (1941, c. 374, s. 35.)

§ 59-66. Effect of dissolution on partner's existing liability.—(1) The dissolution of the partnership does not of itself discharge the existing liability of any partner.

(2) A partner is discharged from any existing liability upon dissolution of the partnership by an agreement to that effect between himself, the partnership creditor and the person or partnership continuing the business; and such agreement may be inferred from the course of dealing between the creditor having knowledge of the dissolution and the person or partnership continuing the business.

(3) Where a person agrees to assume the existing obligations of a dissolved partnership, the partners whose obligations have been assumed shall be discharged from any liability to any creditor of the partnership who, knowing of the agreement, consents to a material alteration in the nature or time of payment of such obligations.

(4) The individual property of a deceased partner shall be liable for all obligations of the partnership incurred while he was a partner but subject to the prior payment of his separate debts. (1941, c. 374, s. 36.)

§ 59-67. Right to wind up.—Unless otherwise agreed the partners who have not wrongfully dissolved the partnership or the legal representative of the last surviving partner, not bankrupt, has the right to wind up the partnership affairs; provided, however, that any partner, his legal representative or his assignee, upon cause shown, may obtain winding up by the court. (1941, c. 374, s. 37.)

§ 59-68. Rights of partners to application of partnership property.—(1) When dissolution is caused in any way, except in contravention of the partnership agreement, each partner, as against his copartners and all persons claiming through them in respect of their interest in the partnership, unless otherwise agreed, may have the partnership property applied to discharge its liabilities, and the surplus applied to pay in cash the net amount owing to the respective partners. But if dissolution is caused by expulsion of a partner, bona fide under the partnership agreement, and if the expelled partner is discharged from all partnership liabilities, either by payment or agreement under § 59-66, subsection (2), he shall receive in cash only the net amount due him from the partnership.

(2) When dissolution is caused in contravention of the partnership agreement the rights of the partners shall be as follows:

(a) Each partner who has not caused dissolution wrongfully shall have

(I) all the rights specified in paragraph (1) of this section, and

(II) the right, as against each partner who has caused the dissolution wrongfully, to damages for breach of the agreement.

(b) The partners who have not caused the dissolution wrongfully, if they all desire to continue the business in the same name, either by themselves or jointly with others, may do so, during the agreed term for the partnership and for that purpose may possess the partnership property, provided they secure the payment by bond approved by the court, or pay to any partner who has caused the dissolution wrongfully, the value of his interest in the partnership at the dissolution, less any damages recoverable under clause (2) (a) (II) of this section, and in like manner indemnify him against all present or future partnership liabilities.

(c) A partner who has caused the dissolution wrongfully shall have:

(I) If the business is not continued under the provisions of paragraph (2) (b) all the rights of a partner under paragraph (1), subject to clause (2) (a) (II), of this section,

(II) if the business is continued under paragraph (2) (b) of this section, the right as against his copartners and all claiming through them in respect of their interests in the partnership, to have the value of his interest in the partnership, less any damages caused to his copartners by the dissolution, ascertained and paid to him in cash, or the payment secured by bond approved by the court, and to be released from all existing liabilities of the partnership; but in ascertaining the value of the partner's interest the value of the goodwill of the business shall not be considered. (1941, c. 374, s. 38.)

§ 59-69. Rights where partnership is dissolved for fraud or misrepresentation.—Where partnership contract is rescinded on the ground of the fraud or misrepresentation of one of the parties thereto, the party entitled to rescind is, without prejudice to any other right, entitled,

(a) to a lien on, or right of retention of, the surplus of the partnership property after satisfying the partnership liabilities to third persons for any sum of money by him for the purchase of an interest in the partnership and for any capital or advances contributed by him; and

(b) to stand, after all liabilities to third persons have been satisfied, in the place of the creditors of the partnership for any payments made by him in respect of the partnership liabilities; and

(c) to be indemnified by the person guilty of the fraud or making the representation against all debts and liabilities of the partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 39.)

§ 59-70. Rules for distribution.—In settling accounts between the partners after dissolution, the following rules shall be observed, subject to any agreement to the contrary:

(a) The assets of the partnership are

(I) the partnership property,

(II) the contributions of the partners necessary for the payment of all the liabilities specified in clause (b) of this section.

(b) The liabilities of the partnership shall rank in order of payment, as follows:

(I) Those owing to creditors other than partners,

(II) those owing to partners other than for capital and profits,

(III) those owing to partners in respect of capital,

(IV) those owing to partners in respect of profits.

(c) The assets shall be applied in the order of their declaration in clause (a) of this section to the satisfaction of the liabilities.

(d) The partners shall contribute, as provided by § 59-48, subsection (a) the amount necessary to satisfy the liabilities; but if any, but not all, of the partners are insolvent, or, not being subject to process, refuse to contribute, the other partners shall contribute their share of the liabilities, and, in the relative proportions in which they share the profits, the additional amount necessary to pay the liabilities.

(e) An assignee for the benefit of creditors or any person appointed by the court shall have the right to enforce the contributions specified in clause (d) of this section.

(f) Any partner or his legal representative shall have the right to enforce the contributions specified in clause (d) of this section, to the extent of the amount which he has paid in excess of his share of the liability.

(g) The individual property of a deceased partner shall be liable for the contributions specified in clause (d) of this section.

(h) When partnership property and the individual properties of the partners are in possession of a court for distribution, partnership creditors shall have priority on partnership property and separate creditors on individual property, saving the rights of lien or secured creditors as heretofore.

(i) Where a partner has become bankrupt or his estate is insolvent the claims against the separate property shall rank in the following order:

(I) Those owing to separate creditors,

(II) Those owing to partnership creditors,

(III) Those owing to partners by way of contribution. (1941, c. 374, s. 40.)

Cross Reference.—As to distribution of assets of a limited partnership, see § 59-23.

§ 59-71. Liability of persons continuing the business in certain cases.—(1) When any new partner is admitted into an existing partnership, or when any partner retires and assigns (or the representative of the deceased partner assigns) his rights in partnership property to two or more of the partners, or to one or more of the partners and one or more third persons, if the business is continued without liquidation of the partnership affairs, creditors of the first or dissolved partnership are also creditors of the partnership so continuing the business.

(2) When all but one partner retire and assign (or the representative of a deceased partner assigns) their rights in partnership property to the remaining partner, who continues the business without liquidation of partnership affairs, either alone or with others, creditors of the dissolved partnership are also creditors of the person or partnership so continuing the business.

(3) When any partner retires or dies and the business of the dissolved partnership is continued as set forth in paragraphs (1) and (2) of this section, with the consent of the retired partners or the representative of the deceased partner, but without any assignment of his right in partnership property, rights of creditors of the dissolved partnership and of the creditors of the person or partnership continuing the business shall be as if such assignment had been made.

(4) When all the partners or their representatives assign their rights in partnership property to one or more third persons who promise to pay the debts and who continue the business of the dissolved partnership, creditors of the dissolved partnership are also creditors of the person or partnership continuing the business.

(5) When any partner wrongfully causes a dissolution and the remaining partners continue the business under the provisions of § 59-68, subsection (2) (b), either alone or with others, and without liquidation of the partnership affairs, creditors of the dissolved partnership are also creditors of the person or partnership continuing the business.

(6) When a partner is expelled and the remaining partners continue the business either alone or with others, without liquidation of the partnership affairs, creditors of the dissolved partnership are also creditors of the person or partnership continuing the business.

(7) The liability of a third person becoming a partner in the partnership continuing the business, under this section, to the creditors of the dissolved partnership shall be satisfied out of the partnership property only.

(8) When the business of a partnership after dissolution is continued under any conditions set forth in this section the creditors of the dissolved partnership, as against the separate creditors of the retiring or deceased partner or the representative of the deceased partner, have a prior right to any claim of the retired partner or the representative of the deceased partner against the person or partnership continuing the business on account of the retired or deceased partner's interest in the dissolved partnership or on account of any consideration promised for such interest or for his right in partnership property.

(9) Nothing in this section shall be held to modify any right of creditors to set aside any assignment on the ground of fraud.

(10) The use by the person or partnership continuing the business of the partnership name, or the name of a deceased partner as part thereof, shall not of itself make the individual property of the deceased partner liable for any debts contracted by such person or partnership. (1941, c. 374, s. 41.)

§ 59-72. Rights of retiring or estate of deceased partner when the business is continued.—When any partner retires or dies, and the business is continued under any of the conditions set forth in § 59-71, subsections (1, 2, 3, 5, 6), or § 59-68, subsection (2) (b), without any settlement of accounts as between him or his estate and the person or partnership continuing the business, unless otherwise agreed, he or his legal representative as against such persons or partnership may have the value of his interest at the date of dissolution ascertained, and shall receive as an ordinary creditor an amount equal to the value of his interest in the dissolved partnership with interest, or, at his option or at the option of his legal representative, in lieu of interest, the profits attributable to the use of his right in the property of the dissolved partnership; provided that the creditors of the dissolved partnership as against the separate creditors, or the representative of the retired or deceased partner, shall have priority on any claim arising under this section, as provided by § 59-71, subsection (8). (1941, c. 374, s. 42.)

§ 59-73. Accrual of actions.—The right to an account of his interest shall accrue to any partner, or his legal representative, as against the winding up partners or the surviving partners or the person or partnership continuing the business, at the date of dissolution, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary. (1941, c. 374, s. 43.)

Art. 3. Surviving Partners.

§ 59-74. Surviving partner to give bond.—Upon the death of any member of a partnership, the surviving partner shall, within thirty days, execute before the clerk of the superior court of the county where the partnership business was conducted, a bond payable to the state of North Carolina, with sufficient surety conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties in the settlement of the partnership affairs. The amount of such bond shall be fixed by the clerk of the court; and the settlement of the estate and the liability of the bond shall be the same as under the law governing administrators and their bonds. (1915, c. 227, ss. 1, 2, 3; C. S. 3277.)

Death of Partner Dissolves.—The death of a partner works, by operation of law, a dissolution of the firm. George on Partnership, 257; Bates on Partnership, sec. 610; Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 568, 47 S. E. 618.

Applied in Reel v. Boyd, 198 N. C. 214, 151 S. E. 192.

§ 59-75. Effect of failure to give bond.—Upon the failure of the surviving partner to execute the bond provided for in § 59-74, the clerk of the superior court shall, upon application of any person interested in the estate of the deceased partner, appoint a collector of the partnership, who shall be governed by the same law governing an administrator of a deceased person. (1915, c. 227, s. 4; C. S. 3278.)

Cross Reference.—As to the law governing an administrator of a deceased person, see chapter 28.

§ 59-76. Surviving partner and personal representative make inventory.—When a member of any partnership dies the surviving partner, within sixty days after the death of the deceased partner, together with the personal representative of the deceased partner, shall make out a full and complete inventory of the assets of the partnership, including real estate, if there be any, together with a schedule of the debts and liabilities thereof, a copy of which inventory and schedule shall be retained by the surviving partner, and a copy thereof shall be furnished to the personal representative of the deceased partner. (Rev., s. 2540; 1901, c. 640; C. S. 3279.)

Not Retroactive.—This section does not apply to actions then pending and is not retroactive. Bank v. Hodgin, 129 N. C. 247, 39 S. E. 959.

Property Vests in Surviving Partner.—The surviving copartner has the closing up of partnership affairs, the reduction of personal property to cash and the settlement of partnership affairs, and, under Revisal 1905, sec. 1579, now section 41-2, the title to this class of personal property vests at once in the surviving partner and not in the personal representative of the deceased partner. Sherrod v. Mayo, 156 N. C. 144, 72 S. E. 216.

Same—Duty.—After the dissolution of a firm by the death of one of the partners, it is the duty of the surviving partner to settle up the joint estate in the manner most conducive to the interest of all persons interested. Calvert v. Miller, 94 N. C. 600.

"Although as to future dealings," remarks Story, "the partnership is terminated by the death of one partner, yet for some purposes, it may be said to subsist, and the rights, duties, powers and authorities of the survivors remain, so far as is necessary to enable them to wind up and settle the affairs of the partnership." Story Part., Sec. 344. Quoted with approval in Calvert v. Miller, 94 N. C. 600, 603.

Same—Rights.—It is the right as well as the duty of a surviving partner to close up the affairs of the firm. He has the right, therefore, to receive and to collect the debts and assets of the partnership, and apply the same toward the payment of the debts and liabilities of the firm. Story on Partnership, sec. 344; Weisel v. Cobb, 114 N. C. 22, 18 S. E. 943; Hodgin v. Peoples' Nat. Bank, 124 N. C. 540, 32 S. E. 887; Hodgin v. Bank, 128 N. C. 110, 111, 38 S. E. 294.

Same—Same—To Create New Debts.—A surviving partner has no right to create or contract new debts binding upon the partnership, except to the extent of purchasing new material and making new debts so far as may be necessary to work up unfinished material and sell the same. Howell v. Boyd Mfg. Co., 116 N. C. 806, 22 S. E. 5.

Same—Power to Endorse Note.—A surviving partner has no power after dissolution to renew or endorse a firm note in the name of the firm. Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618.

A surviving partner who, more than two years after dissolution of the firm, indorsed a note in the firm name for the renewal of notes outstanding similarly indorsed, was individually liable on such indorsement, though it did not bind the firm. Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618.

Same—Impressed with a Trust.—The death of a partner, in the absence of any stipulation in the articles of copartnership to the contrary, works an immediate dissolution, and the title to the assets vests in the surviving partner, impressed with a trust to close up the partnership business, pay the debts and turn over to his personal representative the share of the deceased partner. Walker v. Miller, 139 N. C. 448, 52 S. E. 125.

When Danger of Misapplication of Funds.—In case of danger of misapplication by the surviving partner of partnership funds, the court would certainly, in behalf of the representatives of a deceased partner, interfere and restrain by injunction the surviving partner from such acts, or grant other proper relief; and there is no reason why they should not interfere in behalf of a creditor in such a case. Hodgin v. Bank, 128 N. C. 110, 111, 38 S. E. 294.

When Surviving Partner Is Agent of Executor.—Where one of the members of a firm was constituted its general managing agent by the articles of partnership, and upon the death of one partner his executor consented to a continuance of the business, it was held that the manager became the agent of the executor as well as of the other surviving member, and a demand and refusal to account are necessary to terminate the agency and put the statute of limitations in operation. Patterson v. Lilly, 90 N. C. 82.

When Property Held in Common.—An arrangement between distributees and legatees to permit their property with the consent and co-operation of the representatives of the deceased partners to remain in common and to be used for their joint benefit, adopting the name of the old firm, constitutes a partnership. Walker v. Miller, 139 N. C. 448, 52 S. E. 125.

Personal Property Exemptions.—A surviving partner of an insolvent firm is not entitled to have his personal property exemptions paid out of the partnership assets. Southern Commission Co. v. Porter, 122 N. C. 692, 30 S. E. 119.

Competency of Witness.—In an action for goods sold to a firm, the testimony of one partner, who admitted his liability by failing to answer, that the goods were furnished by the plaintiff on the order of the firm, is not competent as against the executor of the deceased partner or against the firm. Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124 N. C. 643, 32 S. E. 980; Moore v. Palmer, 132 N. C. 969, 44 S. E. 673.

A surviving partner, who assigns partnership property of an insolvent firm to pay his own debts pro rata with those of the firm, cannot be allowed to testify that he did not thereby intend to defraud the firm creditors. Southern Commission Co. v. Porter, 122 N. C. 692, 30 S. E. 119.

When Representative Not Subject to Suit.—The representative of a deceased partner cannot be sued while there is a surviving partner. Burgwin v. Hostler, 1 N. C. 167.

§ 59-77. When personal representative may take inventory; receiver.—If the surviving partner neglect or refuse to have such inventory made, the personal representative of the deceased partner may have the same made in accordance with the provisions of § 59-76. Should any surviving partner fail to take such an inventory or refuse to allow the personal representative of the deceased partner's estate to do so, such personal representative of the deceased partner's estate may forthwith apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a receiver for such partnership, who shall thereupon proceed to wind up the same and dispose of the assets thereof in accordance with law. (Rev., s. 2541; 1901, c. 640, s. 2; C. S. 3280.)

Receiver Appointed When Assignee Holds for Indefinite Time.—Where an assignment was made by a surviving partner of an insolvent firm, and the assignee was empowered to continue the business for an indefinite term, a receiver might be appointed to administer the partnership fund among the creditors though the deed was not set aside. Southern Commission Co. v. Porter, 122 N. C. 692, 30 S. E. 119.

When Surviving Partner Appointed Receiver.—Where the surviving partner of a firm is appointed receiver of the firm, he cannot maintain an action against one who, as surety for the accommodation of the deceased partner indorsed the latter's note, which was discounted by the firm, if it appears that the assets of the partnership are sufficient to pay its debts and leave a surplus against the deceased partner's share of which the note can be charged. Patton v. Carr, 117 N. C. 176, 23 S. E. 182.

Duty of Assignee to Charge Interest.—Where the surviving partner of a firm conveyed the assets to an assignee to settle the estate, it was the duty of the assignee, notwithstanding a contrary custom existing in the town where the business has been conducted, to charge and collect interest on all good overdue accounts from the end of a year after dissolution of the copartnership, and he is liable to the surviving partner for his failure to do so. Weisel v. Cobb, 118 N. C. 11, 24 S. E. 782.

Same—Assignee Liable for Interest.—The assignee of a surviving partner is chargeable with interest on the partnership moneys kept by him after twelve months from the time he assumed the trust until he disbursed it. Weisel v. Cobb, 118 N. C. 11, 24 S. E. 782.

§ 59-78. Notice to creditors.—Every surviving partner, within thirty days after the death of the deceased partner, shall notify all persons having claims against the partnership which were in existence at the time of the death of the deceased partner, to exhibit the same to the surviving partner within twelve months from the date of first publication of such notice. The notice shall be published once a week for four weeks in a newspaper (if there be any) published in the county where the partnership existed. If there should be no newspaper published in the county, then the notice shall be posted at the courthouse and four other public places in the county. (Rev., s. 2542; 1901, c. 640, s. 3; C. S. 3281.)

Where a dissolution of a firm occurs by operation of law, by the death of one of the partners, the giving of notice of such dissolution is not necessary to prevent liability from attaching to the estate of the deceased partner or of the surviving partners for any future contracts made in the name of the firm. Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618.

§ 59-79. Debts paid pro rata; liens.—All debts and demands against a copartnership, where one partner has died, shall be paid pro rata, except debts which are a specific lien on property belonging to the partnership. (Rev., s. 2543; 1901, c. 640, s. 4; C. S. 3282.)

When Interest of Firm Demands Creation of Debt.—While a surviving partner cannot enter into contracts, or create liabilities which will bind the estate of his deceased partner, yet he is not bound to sacrifice the interests of the firm, and if he contracts debts, bona fide, for the interest of the common property, he may pay them out of the common fund. Calvert v. Miller, 94 N. C. 600.

Same—Creditors Advancing Funds to Market Product.—Where a surviving partner has purchased materials and contracted new debts to complete unfinished products and placed the finished article on the market, the creditors advancing the necessary funds are entitled to pay out of assets of the partnership. Howell v. Boyd Manufacturing Co., 116 N. C. 806, 22 S. E. 5.

Personal Debt as Set-Off.—In an action brought by a surviving partner for a debt, a debt due from him may be pleaded as a set-off. Hogg v. Ashe, 2 N. C. 471.

But a defendant cannot avail herself of a debt due to her by a deceased member of the firm, though the contract between the latter and the defendant was that the debt, being for the board of his partner, should be paid out of the assets of the store in which the plaintiff and the defendant were copartners. Norment v. Johnston, 32 N. C. 89.

Division Not Permitted before Settlement.—"There can be no division of partnership property," in the language of Ruffin, C. J., in Baird v. Baird, 21 N. C. 524, "until all the accounts of the partnership have been taken and the clear interest of each partner ascertained." Mendenhall v. Benbow, 84 N. C. 646, 650.

Prior Encumbrance.—The claims of a surviving partner upon the proceeds of sale of the deceased partner's half of the real estate (here mill property), to reimburse him to the amount of half the expenditures incurred in the conduct of the joint business and improvements put upon the property, constitute a prior encumbrance and must be paid, to the postponement of creditors of the deceased partner. Mendenhall v. Benbow, 84 N. C. 646.

When Assignment for Indefinite Term Fraudulent.—An assignment by a surviving partner of an insolvent firm for an indefinite term, the assignee to have the right to employ servants and to replenish the stock, and out of the proceeds to pay firm debts, and also the individual debts of the survivor pro rata, is fraudulent as against creditors. Southern Commission Co. v. Porter, 122 N. C. 692, 30 S. E. 119.

When Bank May Not Apply Deposits to Debts.—When a bank knew that the plaintiff was the only surviving partner of a firm, and that he was making deposits as such, it had no right to apply them to the payment of a debt created by the partnership before its dissolution, without the consent of the depositor. Hodgin v. National Bank, 125 N. C. 503, 34 S. E. 709, 712.

Accommodation Indorser of Note for Member of Firm.—A note executed by a member of a partnership to a third party who, as surety for the accommodation of the maker, indorses it and receives no benefit from it, cannot be subject to an action at law against the indorser by the firm, nor in case of the death of the maker of the note can the surviving partner maintain an action on the note against the accommodation indorsers unless the firm is insolvent. Patton v. Carr, 117 N. C. 176, 23 S. E. 182.

§ 59-80. Effect of failure to present claim in twelve months.—In an action brought on a claim which was not presented within twelve months from the first publication of the general notice to creditors, the surviving partner shall not be chargeable for any assets that he may have paid in satisfaction of any debts before such action was commenced, nor shall any costs be recovered in such action against the surviving partner. (Rev., s. 2544; 1901, c. 640, s. 5; C. S. 3283.)

§ 59-81. Procedure for purchase by surviving partner.—1. Appraisal of Property.—The surviving partner may, if he so desire, make application to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the partnership existed, after first giving notice to the executor or administrator of the time of the hearing of such application, for the appointment of three judicious, disinterested appraisers, one of whom may be named by the surviving partner, one by the representative of the deceased partner's estate, and the third named by the two appraisers selected, whose duty it shall be to make out under oath a full and complete inventory and appraisement of the entire assets of the partnership, including real estate if there be any, together with a schedule of the debts and liabilities thereof, and to deliver the same to the surviving partner; they shall also deliver a copy to the executor or administrator, and file a copy with the clerk of the court.

2. Surviving Partner May Purchase.—The surviving partner may, with the consent of the executor or administrator of the deceased partner and the approval of the clerk of the superior court by whom such executor or administrator was appointed, purchase the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership assets at the appraised value thereof, including the good will of the business, first deducting therefrom the debts and liabilities of the partnership, for cash or upon giving to the executor or administrator his promissory note or notes, with good approved security, and satisfactory to the executor or administrator, for the payment of the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership assets.

3. Surviving Partner to Give Bond.—In case the surviving partner shall avail himself of the privilege of purchasing such interest as provided for in this section, he shall give bond to the executor or administrator with surety for the payment of the debts and liabilities of the partnership, and for the performance of all contracts for which the partnership is liable.

4. Sale of Real Estate.—In case of such sale of the real estate belonging to the partnership, the title to the real estate so purchased shall not pass until the sale thereof has been reported to and confirmed by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the partnership was located, in a special proceeding to which the widow and heirs at law or devisees of the deceased partner are duly made parties. (Rev., s. 2545; 1901, c. 640, s. 6; 1911, c. 12; C. S. 3284.)

§ 59-82. Surviving partner to account and settle.—In case the surviving partner shall not avail himself of the privilege of purchasing the interest of the deceased partner, he shall, within twelve months from the death of the deceased partner, file with the clerk of the superior court of the county where the partnership was located, an account, under oath, stating his action as surviving partner, and shall come to a settlement with the executor or administrator of the deceased partner: Provided, that the clerk of the superior court shall have power, upon good cause shown, to extend the time within which said final settlement shall be made. The surviving partner for his services in settling the partnership estate shall receive commissions to be allowed by the court, and in no case to exceed five per cent out of the share of the deceased partner. (Rev., s. 2546; 1901, c. 640, s. 7; C. S. 3285.)

Editor's Note.—The English doctrine is that surviving partners, trustees, etc., are not entitled to commissions or compensation for their services. However, the doctrine has met with little favor in the American courts. The rule in America has been to allow commissions. The rule was laid down in this State, by Mr. Chief Justice Ruffin in Boyd v. Hawkins, 17 N. C. 195. It seems that the great Chief Justice correctly pointed out the reason for the difference between the English and the American rule in that case. In England persons acting in a fiduciary capacity are not practically at any trouble or expense about their trusts, because the whole business is managed through attorneys. In this country the custom is different. The surviving partner himself looks after the closing out of the business, often involving much time and expense.

The holding of the courts and the tendency of legislation in this State has been to provide compensation for persons acting in a fiduciary character. Yet, it was 1901 before the Legislature finally confirmed the rule laid down by the court by statutory enactment.

Presumption of Equal Interest. — In the absence of evidence to the contrary, each partner is presumed to be equally interested in the joint business. State v. Brower, 93 N. C. 344.

If an agreement for a common or special partnership appears to have existed between parties for the purchase of property, with intent to sell the same for the profit of the parties, and no express agreement be proved adjusting the division or share of the profits, the law extends the concern to all the goods purchased by either of the parties; and the parties are entitled to share the profits, without regard to the payments or advances made by either for the purpose of effecting the purchase, if there be no contract as to the amount of the advances to be made by them respectively. Taylor v. Taylor, 6 N. C. 70.

Note Arising Out of Business.—In stating an account between an executor and the surviving partner of the testator, it is not error to charge the surviving partner with the value of a note due the testator of the plaintiff individually, if such note arose from or grew out of the business of the co-partnership business. Royster v. Johnson, 73 N. C. 474.

Compensation.—Under the law of this State, a surviving partner is entitled to reasonable compensation for his services in settling up the partnership business. Royster v. Johnson, 73 N. C. 474. See Editor's Note above.

In Weisel v. Cobb, 118 N. C. 11, 24 S. E. 782, it was held that two and one-half per cent commissions on receipt and disbursement was enough to be allowed the assignee for his services, under the circumstances in that case.

Loss.—Where the surviving partner has acted in good faith in a fiduciary character he is not chargeable with loss. Thompson v. Rogers, 69 N. C. 361.

§ 59-83. Accounting compelled.—In case any surviving partner fails to come to a settlement with the executor or administrator of the deceased partner within the time prescribed by law, the clerk of the superior court may, at the instance of such executor, administrator or other person interested in such deceased partnership estate, cite the surviving partners to a final settlement as provided for by law in the case of executors and administrators. (Rev., s. 2547; 1901, c. 640, s. 8; C. S. 3286.)

Cross Reference.—As to compelling account by executors and administrators, see §§ 28-118 and 28-122.

§ 59-84. Settlement otherwise provided for.—When the original articles of partnership in force at the death of any partner or the will of a deceased partner make provision for the settlement of the deceased partner's interest in the partnership, and for a disposition thereof different from that provided for in this chapter, the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership shall be settled and disposed of in accordance with the provisions of such articles of partnership or of such will. (Rev., s. 2545; 1901, c. 640, s. 6; C. S. 3287.)

Art. 4. Business Under Assumed Name Regulated.

§ 59-85. Certificate filed; contents.—No person shall hereafter carry on, conduct or transact business in this state under assumed name, or under any designation, name or style other than the real name of the individual owning, conducting or transacting such business, unless such person shall file in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such person owns, conducts or transacts, or intends to own, conduct or transact such business, or maintain an office or place of business, a certificate setting forth the name under which such business owned is or is to be conducted or transacted, and the true or real full name of the person owning, conducting or transacting the same, with the home and post-office address of such person. The certificate shall be executed and duly acknowledged by the person so owning, conducting or intending to conduct such business: Provided, that the selling of goods by sample or through traveling agents or traveling salesman, or by means of orders forwarded by the purchaser through the mails, shall not be construed for the purpose of this section as conducting or transacting business so as to require the filing of such certificates. (1913, c. 77, s. 1; C. S. 3288.)

Cross Reference.—As to use of title of certified public accountant by a partnership, see § 93-4.

Highly Penal.—The section is of a highly penal character, and its meaning will not be extended by interpretation to include cases that do not come clearly within its provision. Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176 N. C. 82, 97 S. E. 54.

Purpose and Operation.—This statute manifestly is for the protection of creditors of persons who fail to comply with its provisions, or of others who do business with them. The consequences of a violation of the statute are prescribed by sec. 59-88. They seem to be limited to punishment as a misdemeanor, for it is expressly provided that failure to comply with this section, shall not prevent a recovery in a civil action by the person who shall violate the statute. Farmers' Bank, etc., Co. v. Murphy, 189 N. C. 479, 127 S. E. 527, 529.

The section was enacted as a police regulation to protect the general public from fraud and imposition, and a person violating the same may not enforce a contract in our courts made in the course of such business, though the statute does not expressly invalidate such transactions. Courtney v. Parker, 173 N. C. 479, 92 S. E. 324. The rule laid down in this case is now changed by legislative enactment.

The intent of chapter 77, Public Laws 1913, now this and the following sections of this article, requiring that a partnership under an assumed name shall file a certificate in the office of the clerk of the superior court setting forth the name under which the business is conducted, with the full names and addresses of the persons owning and conducting it, etc., was to prevent fraud or imposition upon those dealing therewith, and to afford them means for knowing the statute and responsibility of the concern with which they deal. Price v. Edwards, 178 N. C. 493, 101 S. E. 33.

When Not Applicable.—It does not apply between partners who are presumed to know these conditions; and a surviving partner may maintain his action against the heirs of the dead one to recover his share in the assets of a partnership in a legitimate business, notwithstanding the business had been conducted in the name solely of the dead partner, and the requirements of the statute had not been complied with. Price v. Edwards, 178 N. C. 493, 101 S. E. 33.

Same—Surname of Proprietors. — Where a partnership business is being conducted under the surname of the proprietors in such manner as to afford a reasonable and sufficient guide to a correct knowledge of the individuals composing the firm, chapter 77, Laws 1913, forbidding the carrying on or transacting business under an "assumed name," etc., does not apply. Befarah v. Spell, 176 N. C. 193, 96 S. E. 949.

Same—A Silent Partner.—Where a partnership in a legitimate business has been conducted in the name of one of the partners alone, as between themselves, chapter 77, Public Laws 1913, now this article does not apply, and an action of the silent partner to recover his share of the assets from the other is not founded upon any wrong, and the principles relating to such transactions do not apply, or avoid his recovery. Price v. Edwards, 178 N. C. 493, 101 S. E. 33.

Cited in Patterson v. Southern Ry. Co., 214 N. C. 38, 198 S. E. 364.

§ 59-86. Index of certificates kept by clerk.—The several clerks of the superior court of this state shall keep an alphabetical index of all persons filing certificates provided for herein, and for the indexing and filing of such certificates they shall receive a fee of twenty-five cents. A copy of such certificates duly certified to by the clerk in whose office the same shall be filed shall be presumptive evidence in all courts of law in this state of the facts therein contained. (1913, c. 77, s. 2; C. S. 3289.)

§ 59-87. Corporations and limited partnerships not affected.—This article shall in no way affect or apply to any corporation created and organized under the laws of this state, or to any corporation organized under the laws of any other state and lawfully doing business in this state, nor shall it in any manner affect the right of any persons to form limited partnerships as provided by the laws of this state. (1913, c. 77, s. 3; C. S. 3290.)

§ 59-88. Violation of article misdemeanor.—Any person owning, carrying on or conducting or transacting business as aforesaid, who shall fail to comply with the provisions of this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not exceeding thirty days: Provided, however, that the failure of any person or persons owning, carrying on, or conducting or transacting business as aforesaid, to comply with the provisions of this article shall not prevent a recovery by said person or persons in any civil action brought in any of the courts of this state. (1913, c. 77, s. 4; 1919, c. 2; C. S. 3291.)

Nature of Section.—As stated in Courtney v. Parker, infra, and reaffirmed in Price v. Edwards, infra, this statute is "a police regulation to protect the general public, as heretofore stated, from fraud and imposition." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

Application.—In Courtney v. Parker, 173 N. C. 479, 92 S. E. 324, it was held that the statute was enacted as a police regulation to protect the general public from fraud and imposition, and a person violating the same may not enforce a contract made in the course of such business, though the statute does not expressly invalidate such transactions. See note infra.

This statute was further considered by the court in Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176 N. C. 82, 97 S. E. 54. In that case, Courtney v. Parker, supra, was distinguished, and the plaintiffs allowed to recover without filing the certificate required by sec. 59-85, because the title of the plaintiffs' firm, Jennette Bros., afforded a reasonable and sufficient guide to correct knowledge of the individuals composing the firm, and therefore did not come clearly within the doctrine of "assumed" names. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 630. See note following immediately hereafter.

When Courts Will Not Lend Aid.—The courts will not lend their aid to extend a highly penal statute, although it is within the police power, unless the case comes within the letter of the law, and also within its meaning and palpable design. It is just as clearly the policy of the law that it will not lend its aid in enforcing a claim founded on its own violation. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

In Jennette v. Coppersmith, supra, the court, reviewing Courtney v. Parker, after referring to the highly penal character of this statute, says: "It should not be extended or held to include cases that do not come clearly within its provision." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

Same—Act Not Forbidden by Statute.—In Hines v. Norcott, 176 N. C. 123, 130, 96 S. E. 899, the court held that this statute did not apply, because the action did not arise out of the doing of an act forbidden by the statute. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 630.

Same—When Transaction Illegal.—In Fineman v. Faulkner, 174 N. C. 13, 16, 93 S. E. 384, L. R. A. 1918F 337, the plaintiff had not violated any statute, but was suing the administrator of Mamie Faulkner who was engaged in an illegal business, and the court says: "In all the cases in which recovery has been denied, it will be found that either the consideration or the transaction was illegal or the vendor participated in the illegal purposes of the purchaser." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 630. See notes supra.

Same—Courtney v. Parker Overruled by 1919 Amendment.—The foregoing were decided by the court prior to the enactment of chapter 2, Public Laws 1919. This enactment added the proviso now appearing in this section, and this proviso had the effect to change the decision in Courtney v. Parker, supra, as to violations of section 59-85. The legislative intent is clear, not only in the act itself, but the title: "An act to amend chapter 77 of the Public Laws of 1913, regulating the use of assumed names in partnerships, so as to permit recovery in actions brought by a partnership which has failed to register." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

In Real Estate Co. v. Sasser, 179 N. C. 497, 498, 103 S. E. 73, the court considers this statute (Public Laws 1913, ch. 77) together with chapter 2, Public Laws 1919, now contained in sections 59-85 to 59-88, inclusive, and allows the plaintiff to recover, although he was carrying on a real estate business, and he admitted direct violation of this statute. The court says that this amendment (chapter 2, Public Laws 1919) applied to pending actions and to transactions prior to its enactment, in the absence of a saving clause (36 Cyc. 1164). And, since it is a mere police regulation, it may be abolished at any time and no vested rights are acquired under it. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

Same—Contracts Not Void.—It is clear by express enactment, that the Legislature intended by adding the proviso that the punishment should be confined to the fine or imprisonment, set out in this section, but that contracts made by persons carrying on or conducting or transacting business in violation of this statute, should not be void. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

§ 59-89. Person trading as "company" or "agent" to disclose real parties.—If any person shall transact business as trader or merchant, with the addition of the words "factor," "agent," "& Company" or "& Co.," or shall conduct such business under any name or style other than his own, except in case of a corporation, and fail to disclose the name of his principal or partner by a sign placed conspicuously at the place wherein such business is conducted, then all the property, stock of goods and merchandise, and choses in action purchased, used and contracted in the course of such business shall, as to creditors, be liable for the debts contracted in the course of such business by the person in charge of same. Provided, this section shall not apply to any person transacting business under license as an auctioneer, broker, or commission merchant; in all actions under this section it is incumbent on such trader or merchant to prove compliance with the same. (Rev., s. 2118; 1905, c. 443; C. S. 3292.)

Cross Reference.—As to running of the statute of limitations against an undisclosed party, see § 1-28.

Chapter 60. Railroads and Other Carriers.

Art. 1. General Provisions.

§ 60-1. Application to existing railroads; special charters.—All existing railroad corporations within this state shall respectively have and possess all the powers and privileges contained in this chapter; and they shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities and provisions of this chapter not inconsistent with their charters. This chapter shall govern and control, anything in any special act of assembly creating a railroad corporation to the contrary notwithstanding, unless in the act of the general assembly creating the corporation the section or sections of this chapter intended to be repealed shall be specially referred to by number and, as such, specially repealed. (Rev., s. 2566; Code, ss. 701, 1982; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 45; C. S. 3412.)

Editor's Note.—Railroad companies are common carriers, receiving from the state a delegation of a portion of its sovereign powers for the public good; and being agents and, in the place and stead of the government, exercising public duties, they are therefore, subject to legislative as well as judicial control. The sections comprising this chapter are the result of the exercise of this power by the legislature of North Carolina.

To What Charters Applicable.—This section governs and controls all charters granted after its enactment. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 27, 10 S. E. 1041

Does Not Affect Subsequent Legislation.—The section is like any other act of the legislature and is subject to any subsequent legislation, and is only useful in construing the meaning of subsequent legislation when it is doubtful. It cannot have the effect to prevent antagonistic legislation at a subsequent date. Watauga, etc., R. Co. v. Ferguson, 169 N. C. 70, 71, 85 S. E. 156.

Repeal by Implication Not Favored. — "This provision very plainly shows that it was the intention of the legislature that the general railroad act should apply, and that its important provisions should not be repealed, either by implication or by hasty legislation. It is but an affirmance of the principle that the repeal by implication of a general law by a private statute is not favored. But the statute goes a step further, and prescribes a rule of construction under which the private act, even if it be inconsistent with the provisions of the general law, shall not repeal them 'unless they are specially referred to by number, and, as such, specially repealed'." Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 27, 10 S. E. 1041.

Consequently a provision of a charter that the railroad shall have the power to condemn land under the "same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the North Carolina Railroad Company," is invalid. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 10 S. E. 1041, cited as conclusive in Livermon v. Roanoke, etc., R. R. Co., 109 N. C. 52, 55, 13 S. E. 734.

Cited in Land v. Wilmington & Weldon R. Co., 107 N. C. 72, 12 S. E. 125; Rumbough v. Southern Improvement Co., 106 N. C. 461, 11 S. E. 528.

§ 60-2. Roads not to be established unless authorized by law.—If any person or corporation, not being expressly authorized thereto, shall make or establish any canal, turnpike, tramroad, railroad or plankroad, with the intent that the same shall be used to transport passengers other than such persons, or the members of such corporation, or to transport any productions, fabrics or manufactures other than their own, the person or corporation so offending, and using the same for any such purpose, shall forfeit and pay fifty dollars for every person and article of produce so transported.

This section shall not apply to any narrow-gauge railroad, tramroad or toll road made and established and maintained solely by the owner of the lands upon which said road may be, the principal business of which is the transportation of logs, lumber and articles for the owners of such railroad or tramroad: Provided, that the utilities commission shall have power to authorize lumber companies, having logging roads, to transport all kinds of commodities other than their own and passengers and to charge therefor reasonable rates to be approved by said commission. (Rev., s. 2598; Code, s. 1717; R. C., c. 61, s. 37; 1874-5, c. 83; 1901, c. 282; 1907, c. 531; 1911, c. 160; 1915, c. 6; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3413.)

Violation by Company Can Not Be Set Up as Defense.—A lumber company cannot avail itself of the defense, in an action for damages, that it was prohibited by this section, from building a standard-gauge railroad, in consideration of which it had obtained the plaintiff's timber at a less price than its actual value; for if the stipulation to construct the road is invalid, the plaintiffs, though they should be particeps criminis, are not in pari delicto. Herring v. Cumberland Lumber Co., 159 N. C. 382, 383, 74 S. E. 1011.

§ 60-3. Conductor and certain other employees to wear badges.—Every conductor, baggage-master, engineer, brakeman or other servant of any railroad corporation employed on a passenger train, or at stations for passengers, shall wear upon his hat or cap a badge which shall indicate his office and the initial letters of the title of the corporation by which he is employed. No conductor or collector without such badge shall be entitled to demand or receive from any passenger any fare or ticket, or to exercise any of the powers of his office; and no officer or servant without such badge shall have authority to meddle or interfere with any passenger, his baggage or property. (Rev., s. 2604; Code, s. 1958; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 30; C. S. 3414.)

Cross Reference.—As to badge of railroad police, see § 60-85.

§ 60-4. Actions for penalties to be in name of state.—All penalties imposed by this chapter may, unless otherwise provided, be sued for in the name of the state. (Rev., s. 2647; Code, s. 1976; 1885, c. 221; C. S. 3415.)

Cross Reference.—As to venue of actions against railroads, see § 1-81.

The penalty prescribed by section 60-112 for failure to transport within a reasonable time is given directly to the party aggrieved, and an action therefor is not required to be brought in the name of the state. Robertson v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

§ 60-5. Discrimination in charges misdemeanor.—If any common carrier shall directly or indirectly by special rate, rebate, drawback, or other device, charge, demand, collect or receive from any person a greater or less compensation for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of passengers or property subject to the provisions of law than it charges, demands or collects or receives from any other person or persons for doing for him or them a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions; or shall make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic in any respect whatsoever; or shall subject any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality or any particular description of traffic to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect whatsoever, such person or corporation shall be upon conviction thereof fined not less than one thousand nor more than five thousand dollars for each and every offense. (Rev., s. 3749; 1899, c. 164, s. 13; C. S. 3416.)

Cross References.—As to failure to receive and forward freight, see §§ 60-111 and 60-112. As to rules of the utilities commission to prevent discrimination, see § 62-56. As to discrimination between connecting lines, see § 62-143.

Editor's Note.—At common law it was an indictable offense for a common carrier to unjustly discriminate between members of the public; and by constitutional and statutory provisions in a number of states, including North Carolina by this section, unlawful discrimination makes the carriers subject to prosecution.

The sine qua non for a prosecution under this section is that the variance in charge constituting the discrimination must be for "a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions." This language seems to be patterned after the Act of Congress of 1887, c. 104, section 2, U. S. Comp. Stat., 1901, p. 3155, which regulates the same subject in interstate commerce, and is found in substantially the same form in all of the state laws. For example the Kentucky statute is held not to apply to a discrimination in charges for the transportation of freight unless the shipments are of the same class from and to the same point and upon the same condition. See Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 105 Ky. 179, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1099, 48 S. W. 416, 43 L. R. A. 550.

Section Is Remedial.—"The statutes enacted for the enforcement of the duties of common carriers, imposing penalties, are not intended to simply penalize railroads, but to secure prompt, efficient service to all and not a favored few." Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 585, 64 S. E. 578.

It will be observed, as said by Clark, C. J., in Lumber Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 136 N. C. 479, 487, 48 S. E. 813, that this section is substantially like that portion of the English "Traffic Act" known as the "Equality Clause" and the "Interstate Commerce Act." The fundamental purpose underlying all of this legislation, both in England and this country, is, as said by Mr. Justice White, in New York, etc., R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Comm., 200 U. S. 361, 26 S. Ct. 272, 50 L. Ed. 515, that "Whilst seeking to prevent unjust and unreasonable rates, to secure equality of rates as to all, and destroy favoritism, these last being accomplished by requiring the publication of tariffs and by prohibiting secret departures from such tariffs, and forbidding rebates, preferences, and all other forms of unjust discrimination, to this extent and for these purposes, the statute is remedial, and is, therefore, entitled to receive that interpretation which reasonably accomplishes the great public purpose which it was enacted to subserve. . . . What was that purpose? It was to compel the carrier as a public agent to give equal treatment to all."

Declaratory of Common Law.—This section is declaratory of the common law and secures to every person the right to participate in the use of the facilities furnished, or which it is its duty to furnish, by a common carrier upon terms of equality, in regard to price, and otherwise, and free from unlawful discrimination. Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 141 N. C. 171, 53 S. E. 823.

Recovery of Excess.—Where a higher freight charge was paid than that charged other shippers, the payment is not to be considered voluntary, and the excess may be recovered back upon account for money had and received, and it is not necessary that at the time of payment there should have been any protest. Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 141 N. C. 171, 53 S. E. 823.

What Constitutes Unlawful Discrimination.—A common carrier is guilty of unlawful discrimination by the principles of the common law, and the terms of this section when it charges one person for service rendered a larger sum than is charged another person for like service under substantially similar conditions. Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 141 N. C. 171, 53 S. E. 823.

A carrier cannot rightfully charge one shipper $2.50 per 1,000 feet for hauling his logs if it, at the same time, for the same service, under substantially similar circumstances, carried logs for other persons at $2.10 per 1,000 feet in consideration of the shipment of the manufactured products over its railroad. Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 141 N. C. 171, 53 S. E. 823.

Embargoes Prohibited.—A common carrier cannot place an embargo on its customer or patron so as to discriminate against him or those dealing with him, and for such unjust discrimination the carrier is indictable under this section. Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 64 S. E. 578.

Allegations.—There are discriminations which require more explicit allegations, as for instance, illegal rebates upon freight charges, and the like, U. S. v. Hanley, 71 Fed. 672, but as the common carrier carries for hire, the allegation that it gave a person named undue preference by transporting him free ex vi termini alleges discrimination. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 125 N. C. 666, 671, 34 S. E. 527.

§ 60-6. Discrimination by rebate or reduced charges, misdemeanor. — Any railroad company doing business in the state, or officer or agent thereof, who shall give to any person or shipper any advantage over another person or shipper under like circumstances, by way of any rebate or reduced rate not authorized by law or by the North Carolina utilities commission, or which shall make charges for shipments of freight in violation of the law as to railroad freight rates, contained in article 8 of the chapter Utilities Commission, or shall willfully discriminate in the matter of service in favor of one person or corporation against another in like circumstances, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and such corporation shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than one hundred dollars and such officer or agent shall be fined or imprisoned or both, in the discretion of the court; and any shipper or consignee of any freight in the state of North Carolina who shall knowingly accept any rebate or other consideration or services from any railroad company which is not allowed or given other shippers or consignees under like or similar circumstances, and which is not allowed by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1907, c. 217, s. 2; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3417.)

Cross Reference.—As to person allowing or accepting rebate, see § 60-116.

§ 60-7. Discrimination against connecting lines and violation of certain rules of the utilities commission misdemeanor.—If any common carrier shall not afford all reasonable, proper and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic between its respective lines and for the forwarding and delivering of passengers and freights to and from its several lines and those connecting therewith, or shall discriminate in its rates and charges against such connecting lines, or if any connecting line shall not make as close connection as practicable for the convenience of the traveling public, or shall not obey all rules and regulations made by the utilities commission relating to trackage, it shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor exceeding five thousand dollars for each and every offense. (Rev., s. 3751;

1899, c. 164, s. 21; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3418.)

Cross Reference.—See § 62-143.

§ 60-8. Discrimination against the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad misdemeanor; venue.—If any railroad in North Carolina shall discriminate against the freights received from the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad, or shall make rates by which, either directly or indirectly, by rebates or otherwise, freights may be delivered at less rates when received from other points than from points along the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad in proportion to distance hauled, it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars for each and every violation thereof. An indictment for the misdemeanor may be found and tried in the courts where the goods were either shipped or delivered, but the court in which the indictment for the offense is first found shall have exclusive jurisdiction. (Rev., s. 3750; 1889, c. 358; C. S. 3419.)

Art. 2. Incorporation, Officers, and Stock of Railroad.

§ 60-9. Articles of association; contents; signature; filing.—Any number of persons, not less than six, at least one of whom shall be a citizen and resident of this state, may form a company for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating a railroad for public use in the conveyance of persons and property, or for the purpose of maintaining and operating any unincorporated railroad already constructed for the like public use; and for that purpose may make and sign articles of association, in which shall be stated the name of the company, the number of years the same is to continue, the places from and to which the road is to be constructed or maintained and operated, the length of such road as near as may be, and the name of each county in this state through or into which it is made or intended to be made, the amount of the capital stock of the company, which shall not be less than five thousand dollars for every mile of road constructed or proposed to be constructed, and the number of shares of which the capital stock shall consist, and the names and places of residence of six directors of the company, at least one of whom shall be a citizen and resident of this state, upon whom legal process may be served, who shall manage its affairs for the first year, or until others are chosen in their places. Each subscriber to such articles of association shall subscribe thereto his name, place of residence, and the number of shares of stock he agrees to take in the company. On compliance with the provisions of § 60-10, such articles of association may be filed in the office of the secretary of state, who shall indorse thereon the day they are filed, and record the same in a book to be provided by him for that purpose; and thereupon the persons who have so subscribed such articles of association, and all persons who shall become stockholders in such company, shall be a corporation by the name specified in such articles of association, and shall possess the powers and privileges granted to railroad corporations by this chapter. The articles of association of any company formed under the provisions of this chapter, or the charter of any railroad company formed under a special act, may be amended as provided in §§ 55-30 and 55-31 and said §§ 55-30 and 55-31 are hereby made to apply to railroad companies: Provided, no amendment may be made changing the nature of the company's business, extending its corporate existence or authorizing any powers other than those authorized by this chapter. Provided further, that the capital stock provision or provisions of this section shall not apply to any railroad corporation chartered for the purpose of leasing a railroad already in existence and in operation, and such railroad company so chartered shall have a paid-in capital stock of not less than five thousand dollars ($5,000.00). (Rev., s. 2548; Code, s. 1932; 1871-2, c. 138; 1905, c. 187; 1907, c. 472, ss. 1, 2; 1921, c. 117; 1939, c. 60; C. S. 3420.)

Cross References.—As to requirement of certificate of convenience and necessity for construction and operation of utilities, see § 62-101. As to amendments of charter of railroad, see also § 60-11.

Editor's Note.—The last sentence of this section with the proviso thereto relative to amendments of articles of associations and carriers, was added by the Public Laws of 1921.

The 1939 amendment added the second proviso.

Section Provides Exclusive Method of Creating.—The legislature has in this and the two following sections manifested a clear and positive intention that railroad corporations shall not be created by the action of associated persons otherwise than as provided in such sections. Bradley v. Ohio River & C. Ry. Co., 119 N. C. Appx. 918, 926.

Not Applicable to Continuing Existence.—This section refers only to the mode and manner of creating railroad corporations, and not as to the methods of continuing the existence and operation of railroad franchises in the hands of purchasers at judicial sales. Bradley v. Ohio River & C. Ry. Co., 119 N. C. Appx., 918, 927.

Effect of Noncompliance.—The filing and recording by the secretary of state of articles of association of a proposed railroad company, if not such as required by law, is a nullity. Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413, 43 S. E. 913.

May Be Declared Void by Court.—Where the articles of incorporation of a railroad company are upon their face void, though not subject to collateral attack, the trial court will so declare in a proceeding to condemn land by right of eminent domain claimed thereunder. Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413, 43 S. E. 913.

§ 60-10. Prerequisites of filing; stock subscription; affidavit of directors; payment of fees.—Such articles of association shall not be filed and recorded in the office in the secretary of the state until at least one thousand dollars of stock for every mile of railroad proposed to be made is subscribed thereto, and five per cent paid thereon in good faith, and in cash, to the directors named in the articles of association; nor until there is indorsed thereon or annexed thereto an affidavit made by at least three of the directors named in such articles, that the amount of stock required by this section has been in good faith subscribed and five per cent paid in cash thereon as aforesaid, and that it is intended in good faith to construct or to maintain and operate the road mentioned in such articles of association, which affidavit shall be recorded with the articles of association, as aforesaid; nor until said directors shall pay the taxes and fees provided for under the chapter Corporations, Article 14, entitled Taxes and Fees. (Rev., s. 2549; Code, s. 1933; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 2; 1905, c. 168; C. S. 3421.)

after organized under the laws of this State, whether under a special act, or otherwise, may, in the manner provided by § 55-31, as heretofore amended, amend its certificate of incorporation, articles of association or charter, for the purpose of increasing or decreasing its capital stock, changing its name, changing the par value of the shares of its capital stock, creating one or more classes of common or preferred stock, creating shares of stock with or without nominal or par value, or for any purpose authorized by statutes now in force relating to the amendment of certificates of incorporation, articles of association or charters of corporations: Provided, however, that in case of a consolidated railroad company, heretofore or hereafter organized under a special act or general laws of this State and of any other state or states, a new class or classes of stock may be created upon authorization by vote of such amount of the outstanding capital stock, in no case less than a majority thereof, as may be prescribed by the provisions of the agreement of consolidation in pursuance of which such consolidated company was formed. (1929, c. 261.)

Cross Reference.—As to exchange by a corporation of par value shares of stock for no par value shares, see § 55-80.

§ 60-12. Copy of articles evidence of incorporation.—A copy of any articles of association filed and recorded in pursuance of this article and of the record thereof, with a copy of the affidavit aforesaid indorsed thereon or annexed thereto, and certified to be a copy by the secretary of state, shall be presumptive evidence of the incorporation of such company, and of the facts therein stated. (Rev., s. 2550; Code, s. 1934; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 3; C. S. 3422.)

§ 60-13. Opening of subscription books.—When such articles of association and affidavit are filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, the directors named in such articles of association may, in case the whole of the capital stock is not before subscribed, open books of subscription to fill up the capital stock of the company in such places and after giving such notice as they may deem expedient, and may continue to receive subscriptions until the whole of the capital stock is subscribed. (Rev., s. 2551; Code, s. 1935; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 4; C. S. 3423.)

§ 60-14. How stock paid for; forfeiture for nonpayment. — The directors may require the subscribers to the capital stock of the company to pay the amounts by them respectively subscribed in such manner and in such installments as they may deem proper. If any stockholder shall neglect to pay any installment as required by a resolution of the board of directors, the said board shall be authorized to declare his stock and all previous payments thereon forfeited for the use of the company, but they shall not declare it so forfeited until they shall have caused a notice in writing to be served on him personally, or the same to be deposited in the postoffice, properly directed to him at the post office nearest his usual place of residence, stating that he is required to make such payment at the time and place specified in such notice, and that if he fails to make the same, his stock and all previous payments thereon will be forfeited for the use of the company, which notice shall be served as aforesaid at least sixty days previous to the day on which payment is required to be made. (Rev., s. 2554; Code, s. 1938; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 7; C. S. 3424.)

Cross Reference.—As to construction companies taking stock in railroad as payment, see § 55-64.

§ 60-15: Repealed by Session Laws 1943, c. 543.

§ 60-16. Stockholders' liability for unpaid stock and to laborers; notice.—Each stockholder of any such company shall be individually liable to the creditors of such company to an amount equal to the amount unpaid on the stock held by him, for all the debts and liabilities of such company until the whole amount of the capital stock so held by him shall have been paid to the company, and all the stockholders of any such company shall be jointly and severally liable for the debts due or owing to any of its laborers and servants, other than contractors, for personal services for thirty days service performed for such company, but shall not be liable to an action therefor before an execution shall be returned unsatisfied in whole or in part against the corporation, and the amount due on such execution shall be the amount recoverable with costs against such stockholder. Before such laborer or servant shall charge such stockholders for such thirty days service he shall give them notice in writing within twenty days after the performance of such service that he intends to hold them liable, and shall commence such action therefor within thirty days after the return of such execution unsatisfied as above mentioned; and every such stockholder, against whom any such recovery by such laborer or servant shall have been had, shall have a right to recover the same of the other stockholders in such corporation in ratable proportion to the amount of the stock they shall respectively hold with himself. (Rev., s. 2556; Code, s. 1940; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 10; C. S. 3426.)

§ 60-17. Liability of trustees and other fiduciaries holding stock.—No person holding stock in any such company as executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, and no person holding such stock as collateral security, shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company. The estates in the hands of such executor, administrator, guardian or trustee shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator or intestate or the ward or person interested in such trust fund would have been if he had been living and competent to act and hold the same stock in his own name, and a person pledging such stock shall be considered as holding the same, and shall be liable as a stockholder accordingly. (Rev., s. 2557; Code, s. 1941; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 11; C. S. 3427.)

§ 60-18. Directors and presidents.—There shall be a board of six directors, one of whom shall be elected president, of every corporation formed under this article, to manage its affairs. The directors shall be chosen annually by a majority of the votes of the stockholders voting at such election, in such manner as may be prescribed in the by-laws of the corporation, and they may and shall continue in office until others are elected in their places. In the election of directors each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote personally or by proxy on every share held by him thirty days previous to any such election, and vacancies in the board of directors shall be filled in such manner as shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the corporation. The inspectors of the first election of directors shall be appointed by the board of directors named in the articles of association. No person shall be a director or president unless he shall be a stockholder owning stock absolutely in his own right and qualified to vote for directors at the election at which he shall be chosen; and at every election of directors the books and papers of such company shall be exhibited to the meeting, if a majority of the stockholders present shall require it. (Rev., s. 2552; Code, s. 1936; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 5; C. S. 3428.)

§ 60-19. Appointment of officers and agents.—The president and directors shall appoint a treasurer and secretary and such other officers and agents as shall be prescribed by the by-laws. (Rev., s. 2553; Code, s. 1937; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 6; C. S. 3429.)

§ 60-20. Officials to account to successors.—The president and directors of the several railroads, and all persons acting under them, are hereby required upon demand to account with the president and directors elected or appointed to succeed them, and shall transfer to them forthwith all the money, books, papers, choses in action, property and effects of every kind and description belonging to such company. (Rev., s. 2648; Code, s. 2001; 1870-1, c. 72, ss. 1, 3; C. S. 3430.)

Cross References.—As to criminal liability for failure to account to successors, see § 14-253. As to embezzlement by officers of a railroad, see §§ 14-94 and 14-95.

Art. 3. County Subscriptions in Aid of Railroads.

§ 60-21. Counties may subscribe stock.—The boards of commissioners of the several counties shall have power to subscribe stock to any railroad company when necessary to aid in the construction of any railroad in which the citizens of the county may have an interest. (Rev., s. 2558; Code, s. 1996; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 1; C. S. 3431.)

Cross Reference.—As to an incorporated town encouraging the building of railroads, see § 158-1.

Editor's Note.—As this section appeared in the Code of 1883 it permitted subscription when necessary to aid in the completion of any railroad. This phraseology was the cause of some litigation as it was doubtful whether the section was applicable only to those railroads which were partially completed or whether it extended to all such companies. The Supreme Court of North Carolina adhered consistently to the former view, while the Federal Courts adopted the latter. The decisions of the Federal Courts were made statutory by the substitution in the Revisal of 1905, of the word "construction" for the word "completion." For the North Carolina cases prior to this substitution see Com'rs v. Snuggs, 121 N. C. 394, 28 S. E. 539; Com'rs v. Payne, 123 N. C. 432, 31 S. E. 711; Graves v. Commissioners, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134. For the controlling federal cases see Com'rs v. Coler, 113 Fed. 705; Wilkes County v. Coler, 190 U. S. 107, 47 L. Ed. 971, 23 S. Ct. 738; Stanly County v. Coler, 190 U. S. 437, 47 L. Ed. 1126, 23 S. Ct. 811.

Interest of Citizens of County.—The same state and federal cases which were in conflict upon the question of whether this section referred to all railroads or only those partially completed (see Editor's Note above) were also at variance upon the sufficiency of interest requisite to authorize the subscription. The state cases maintained the position that the interest must be direct and in and of the county subscribing, while the federal cases were decided on the theory that a public interest would suffice. The best statement of this rule is found in Coler v. Commissioners, 89 Fed. 257 where it is said: "The section does not require the citizens to have a direct pecuniary interest in the road, but a public interest, such as is created by the building of a railroad into the county, and the fixing of one of the termini therein, is sufficient to fulfill the condition and authorize a subscription to its stock by the county, and the issuance of bonds and levying of taxes to carry out the same."

Burden of Proving Validity.—Where the recitals in railroad bonds are that they were issued under a particular act of the Legislature, the burden of validating them, as made under this section, is on the party alleging their validity. Graves v. Commissioners, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134.

§ 60-22. Election on question of county aid.—The board of commissioners of any county proposing to take stock in any railroad company shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed, and if a majority of the board shall vote for the proposition, this shall be entered of record, which record shall show the amount proposed to be subscribed, to what company, and whether in bonds, money or other property, and thereupon the board shall order an election, to be held on a notice of not less than thirty days, for the purpose of voting for or against the proposition to subscribe the amount of stock agreed on by the board of county commissioners. If a majority of the qualified voters of the county shall vote in favor of the proposition, the board of county commissioners, through their chairman, shall have power to subscribe the amount of stock proposed by them and submitted to the people, subject to all the rules, regulations and restrictions of other stockholders in such company: Provided, that the counties, in the manner aforesaid, shall subscribe from time to time such amounts, either in bonds or money, as they may think proper. (Rev., s. 2559; Code, s. 1997; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 2; C. S. 3432.)

Editor's Note.—Section 160-62 and Article VII, section 7 of the Constitution require a popular vote for the contraction of debts by cities and towns except in the case of necessary expenses.

Vote on Two Subscriptions.—Where the question of subscription to two different railway corporations is to be submitted to a vote, it is improper and irregular to submit them as a single proposition, at the same election and on the same ballot. Goforth v. Rutherford Ry. Constr. Co., 96 N. C. 535, 2 S. E. 361.

§ 60-23. Conduct of election.—All elections ordered under § 60-22 shall be held by the sheriff under the laws and regulations provided for the election of members of the general assembly. The votes shall be compared by the boards of county commissioners, who shall make a record of the same. (Rev., s. 2560; Code, s. 1998; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 3; C. S. 3433.)

§ 60-24. Interest on bonds.—In case the county shall subscribe the amount proposed in bonds, the board of commissioners shall have power to fix the rate of interest, not to exceed the rate of six per cent, when the principal on said bonds shall be payable and at what place, and shall also fix the time and places of paying the interest, and shall also determine the mode and manner of paying the same; and also to raise by taxation, from year to year, the amount necessary to meet the interest on such bonds. (Rev., s. 2561; Code, s. 1999; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 4; C. S. 3434.)

No Estoppel by Payment of Interest.—The payment of interest from year to year on the bonds is not an estoppel, does not validate them. Commissioners v. Payne, 123 N. C. 432, 31 S. E. 711.

§ 60-25. Collection and disposition of taxes authorized.—The taxes authorized by this article to be raised for the payment of interest or principal shall be collected by the sheriff or tax collector in like manner as ad valorem taxes, and be paid into the hands of the county treasurer, to be used by the chairman of the board of county commissioners as directed by this article. (Rev., s. 2562; Code, s. 2000; 1868-9, c. 171, s. 5; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 3435.)

Cross Reference.—As to the collection of taxes generally, see § 105-372 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment inserted the words "or tax collector" and substituted the words "ad valorem" for the words "other state."

Art. 4. Township Subscriptions in Aid of Railroads.

Editor's Note. — In Graves v. Com'rs, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134, it was held that section 60-21 did not apply to townships and that there existed no provision authorizing the aid from townships similar to that which might be afforded by counties under section 60-21. The Supreme Court, however, has held in several cases, that, despite the absence of express statutory provisions townships may by observing the constitutional requirements, issue bonds to aid in the construction of railroads. Wood v. Oxford, 97 N. C. 227, 2 S. E. 653; Brown v. Commissioners, 100 N. C. 92, 5 S. E. 178; Jones v. Commissioners, 107 N. C. 248, 12 S. E. 69; Wittkowsky v. Com'rs, 150 N. C. 90, 94, 63 S. E. 275. See also, McCracken v. Greensboro, etc., R. Co., 168 N. C. 62, 84 S. E. 30. It would seem that these latter cases are made statutory by the enactment of this article in 1917.

§ 60-27. Election on question of township aid.—The board of commissioners of any county proposing to take stock, for the use and benefit of any township, as mentioned in § 60-26, shall meet and agree upon the amount to be subscribed for such township, and if a majority of the board shall vote for the proposition, this shall be entered of record, which record shall show the amount proposed to be subscribed, and for what township, to what company, and whether in bonds, money or other property; and thereupon the board shall order an election, to be held upon a notice of not less than thirty days, in each and every township for whose use and benefit such subscription is proposed to be made for the purpose of voting for or against the proposition to subscribe the amount agreed on by the board of commissioners. If a majority of the qualified voters of the township for whose use and benefit such subscription is proposed to be made shall vote in favor of the proposition, the board of county commissioners through their chairman shall have power to subscribe the amount of stock proposed by them, and submitted to the voters, for the use and benefit of such township, subject to all the rules, regulations, and restrictions of other stockholders in such railroad company: Provided, that the township, in the manner aforesaid, shall subscribe from time to time such amounts, either in bonds or money, as it may think proper. (1917, c. 64, s. 2; C. S. 3437.)

§ 60-28. Conduct of election; canvass of votes.—All elections ordered under § 60-27 shall be held by the sheriff of the county in which such township is located, under such laws and regulations as are now or may hereafter be provided for the election of members of the general assembly. The votes of each township for whose use and benefit subscription under this article is proposed to be made shall be compared and the results of such election determined by the board of commissioners of the county in which such township is located, who shall make a record of the same. (1917, c. 64, s. 3; C. S. 3438.)

§ 60-29. Bond issue; special tax.—In case the township shall authorize, at the election herein provided for, a subscription of the amount proposed in bonds, the board of commissioners shall have power to fix the rate of interest, not to exceed the rate of six per cent, when the principal of such bonds shall be payable, and at what place, and shall also fix the time and place for paying interest, and shall also determine the mode and manner of paying the same. The board of commissioners shall, in order to provide for the payment of the bonds and interest thereon authorized to be issued by this article, compute and levy each year at the time of levying the county taxes a sufficient tax upon the property in any township authorizing the issuing of bonds under this article to pay the interest on the bonds issued on account of and for the use and benefit of such township, and shall also levy a sufficient tax to create a sinking fund to provide for the payment of such bonds at maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected annually and under the same laws and regulations as shall be in force for levying and collecting other county taxes. (1917, c. 64, s. 4; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 3439.)

Editor's Note. — The 1943 amendment struck out the words "and state" formerly appearing after the word "county" in the fourteenth line.

§ 60-30. Levy, collection, and disposition of tax.—The tax authorized by this article to be raised for the payment of interest and principal shall be levied by the board of commissioners of the county in which such township is located, at such times as is now or hereafter may be fixed for levying ad valorem county taxes, against the taxable property located in such township, in addition to the regular ad valorem county taxes assessable against such property. The tax shall be collected by the sheriff or tax collector or other collecting officer of the county in which such township is located in like manner as ad valorem taxes are collected, and shall be paid into the hands of the county treasurer, to be used by the chairman of the board of commissioners as directed by this article. (1917, c. 64, s. 5; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 3440.)

Cross Reference.—As to the collection of taxes generally, see §§ 105-372 et seq.

Editor's Note. — The 1943 amendment substituted the words "ad valorem" for former references to state and other taxes.

§ 60-31. Tax to be kept separate.—The taxes levied and collected under the provisions of this article shall be kept separate and apart from all other ad valorem taxes levied and collected in the county in which such township shall be located. (1917, c. 64, s. 6; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 3441.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment substituted in the fourth line the words "ad valorem" for the words "state and county."

§ 60-32. Townships may subscribe to purchase of railroad corporations. — The board of commissioners of the several counties of the state shall have power to make subscriptions, for the use and benefit of any township in their several counties, for the purpose of purchasing or aiding in the purchase of any railroad corporation now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state which shall be dissolved or whose property and franchises are proposed to be sold privately or under execution, judicial decree, deed in trust, mortgage, or other conveyance, and all the provisions of this article shall apply as fully and as well to such subscriptions as they do to subscriptions to stock to aid in the construction of railroads. (1917, c. 64, s. 1; 1919, c. 130, s. 1; C. S. 3442.)

§ 60-33. Election on question of purchase; proxies to represent stock.—The county commissioners shall, upon the petition of one-fourth of the qualified voters of any township mentioned in § 60-32, order an election and submit the question of such subscription according to the terms of the petition. At such election five persons shall be chosen as proxies to represent such stock, if the vote shall be in favor of the subscription, in all respects as fully as if private promoters, corporators or holders of such stock. They shall be eligible to the position of director or other office in the corporation. They shall hold office until the first Monday in December following the next general election and until their successors chosen at such general election shall qualify. Such proxies shall be chosen at the general election every two years as township officers are. They shall have authority, alone, if sole purchasers, and with the proxies from other townships and others participating in the purchase, if not acting alone, to purchase such railroad property and franchise, and shall constitute a new corporation upon compliance with law as in other cases of a dissolution and sale of railroad property and franchise. (1917, c. 64, s. 2; 1919, c. 130, s. 2; C. S. 3443.)

§ 60-34. Increase of interest; procedure.—Whenever the board of county commissioners of any county has subscribed for the use and benefit of any township to any interest in any railroad or railroad corporation, as provided in this article, and the majority of the proxies chosen to represent the stock or interest of the township in such railroad shall certify to the board of commissioners that in their opinion the interest of the township in said railroad or railroad corporation should be increased, the board of county commissioners shall order an election to be held in such township, upon the petition of one-fourth of the qualified voters of such township, in the same manner as provided in this article, and if the majority of the qualified voters of such township shall vote in favor of the proposition contained in the petition the county commissioners shall execute and deliver the bonds authorized, levy and collect in the township and dispose of the tax, as authorized in this article. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 117, s. 1.)

§ 60-35. Execution and sale of bonds for increase of interest.—Said bonds shall be executed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners of such county, attested by the clerk of said board, who shall affix the seal of the board, and deliver the same to the board of proxies representing said township.

The board of proxies shall advertise said bonds as provided by law, and faithfully apply the same to the purposes set forth in the petition for the election. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 117, ss. 2, 3.)

§ 60-36. Organization of proxies; report; vacancies.—The proxies chosen at each general election shall qualify and organize on the first Monday in December, elect a chairman, vice-chairman and secretary, and they shall annually in each year file with the board of county commissioners a copy of the report required by law to be made to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Any vacancy occurring in the board of proxies shall be filled by the board of proxies until the next general election. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 117, ss. 4, 5.)

Art. 5. Powers and Liabilities.

§ 60-37. Powers of railroad corporations enumerated.—Every railroad corporation shall have power:

1. To Survey and Enter on Land.—To cause such examination and surveys for its proposed railroad to be made as may be necessary to the selection of the most advantageous route; and for such purpose, by its officers or agents and servants, to enter upon the lands or waters of any person, but subject to responsibility for all damages which shall be done thereto.

Cross Reference.—As to right of entry on land, see § 40-3.

Conflicting Locations.—As between two railroad companies the first location belongs to that company which first defines and marks its route and adopts the same for its permanent location by authoritative corporate action. Fayetteville Street Ry. v. Aberdeen & R. R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

2. To Condemn Land under Eminent Domain.—To appropriate land and rights therein by condemnation, as provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Cross Reference.—As to condemnation by right of eminent domain, see § 40-2 et seq. As to amount of land which may be condemned, see § 40-29.

Editor's Note.—Since railroads are quasi-public corporations they are given by the state the power to take, by proper proceedings the necessary lands upon which to build their roads. Nor will the courts enjoin a railroad corporation from condemning land for a public purpose on the ground that the corporation was irregularly organized. In Powers v. Hazelton, etc., R. Co., 33 Ohio St. 429, it was held that a land-owner could not be permitted to prove, as a defense to condemnation proceedings instituted by a regularly organized railroad corporation, that the company was incorporated not for a public use, but for the private purposes of the corporators only, and that there was no public necessity for the road. See, also, Wellington, etc., R. Co. v. Cashie, etc., R. Co., 114 N. C. 690, 19 S. E. 646.

Land May Be Taken from Another Railroad.—Land acquired by one railroad company under a legislative grant of the right of eminent domain, and not necessary for the exercise of its franchise or the discharge of its duties, is liable to be taken under the law of eminent domain for the use of another railroad company. North Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 83 N. C. 489.

3. To Take Property by Grant.—To take and hold such voluntary grants of real estate and other property as shall be made to it to aid in the construction, maintenance and accommodation of its railroad; but the real estate received by voluntary grant shall be held and used for the purposes of such grant only.

Editor's Note.—Railroads can acquire real estate only by statutory authority. After the authority is granted, either by general legislation, charter or implied power, property may be acquired by purchase, grant, dedication, adverse possession, license or by condemnation under the power of eminent domain.

In 1 Elliott on Rys., sec. 390, the general principle is stated as follows:

"The rule is well established that a railroad corporation cannot acquire and hold lands for any purposes except such as are authorized by statute. The authority must be conferred by legislation or it does not exist. It is, however, not necessary that the authority should be expressly conferred. It may be implied." See Wallace v. Moore, 178 N. C. 114, 115, 100 S. E. 237.

Extending User of Right of Way.—While a railroad can use only the part of its right of way actually occupied, whenever the necessities of the company require it, it can extend its user of the right of way to the extent of the statutory right for additional tracks or other railroad purposes. Tighe v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 176 N. C. 239, 244, 97 S. E. 164; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Bunting, 168 N. C. 579, 84 S. E. 1009; R. R. v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 264, 55 S. E. 263.

4. To Purchase and Hold Property.—To purchase and hold and use all such real estate and other property as may be necessary for the construction and maintenance of its railroad and the stations and other accommodations necessary to accomplish the object of its incorporation.

Cross Reference.—As to adverse possession of property owned by a railroad, see § 1-44.

5. To Grade and Construct Road.—To lay out its road, not exceeding one hundred feet in width, and to construct the same; to take, for the purpose of cuttings and embankments, as much more land as may be necessary for the proper construction and security of the road; and to cut down any standing trees that may be in danger of falling on the road, making compensation therefor as provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Cross Reference.—See also § 40-29.

Change of Grade.—A railroad company has a right to change the grade of its road-bed or to remove it to any point on its right of way. Brinkley v. Sou. R. Co., 135 N. C. 654, 47 S. E. 791.

6. To Intersect with Highways and Waterways.—To construct its road across, along or upon any stream of water, water-course, street, highway, plankroad, turnpike, railroad or canal which the route of its road shall intersect or touch; but the company shall restore the stream or water-course, street, highway, plankroad or turnpike road, thus intersected or touched, to its former state or to such state as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness. Nothing in this chapter contained shall be construed to authorize the erection of any bridge or any other obstruction across, in or over any stream or lake navigated by steam or sail boats, at the place where any bridge or other obstructions may be proposed to be placed, nor to authorize the construction of any railroad not already located in, upon or across any streets in any city without the assent of the corporation of such city.

Cross References.—As to the power of the utilities commission to regulate crossings, see § 62-50. As to the duty of railroads to construct and maintain bridges which it has necessitated building, see §§ 136-75 and 136-78; as to their duty to provide cattle guards, see § 60-48.

Editor's Note.—The right of railroad companies to cross highways is limited to the necessities of the crossing and no greater rights can be claimed than those reasonably necessary to accomplish the purpose of the crossing. It is the duty of a railway company constructing its line across a public highway to do so in such a manner as to interfere with the right of the public to the use of the highway as little as possible and to restore the highway to as safe a condition for travel as before the crossing was made so far as it can reasonably and practicably be done. A railroad company that has constructed its line across a highway may lay such additional parallel tracks as are reasonably necessary for it in the transaction of its business.

Duty to Public.—While railroad corporations are given the right and power to construct their roads across streets, highways, etc., they must maintain a safe and convenient crossing there, making it, as far as they can, as safe and convenient to the public as it would have been had the railroad not been built. Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 563, 36 S. E. 115.

Whole Street Cannot Be Appropriated.—In Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Raleigh, 219 Fed. 573, 581, in construing this section it is said: "It is doubtful whether the language of the section can be construed to authorize the exclusive appropriation of the street. The sidewalk is a portion of the street appropriated to the use of pedestrians. To construe the grant of the right to construct its road 'across, along, or upon' a street, always of much greater width than a railroad track and the cross-ties, as a grant of the right to occupy the entire street or sidewalk, is not permissible in the light of the recognized rule of construction of such grants of power. How is it possible to restore the street to 'its former state' if the track occupies its entire width? Statutes must be given a reasonable construction."

Assent of City an Essential Power.—The assent to the use of the street by a railroad company is often a most essential power, necessary to be used for the benefit of the people of the city. Griffin v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 312, 314, 64 S. E. 16.

Court Cannot Review Grant.—The action of the board of aldermen in authorizing a railroad company to use a certain street for legitimate railroad purposes, the laying and use of tracks, etc., when the statutory power is given, is not reviewable by the courts at the instance of an owner of land on the street, claiming that some other street should have been so used. Griffin v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 312, 64 S. E. 16.

Cited in Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 563, 567, 36 S. E. 115.

7. To Intersect with Other Railroads.—To cross, intersect, join and unite its railroad with any other railroad before constructed, at any point on its route, and upon the grounds of such other company, with the necessary turnouts, sidings and switches and other conveniences in furtherance of the object of its connections. Every company whose railroad is or shall be hereafter intersected by any new railroad shall unite with the owners of such new railroad in forming such intersections and connections and grant the facilities aforesaid, and if the two corporations cannot agree upon the amount of compensation to be made therefor, or the points and manner of such crossings and connections, the same shall be ascertained and determined by commissioners to be appointed by the court as is provided in the chapter Eminent Domain.

Cross Reference.—As to appointment of the commissioners, see § 40-11 et seq.

Editor's Note.—In Elliott on Railroads, p. 1687, the author says, "This provision (that the companies shall unite in agreement) has the effect of a condition precedent to the right to invoke the aid of the statute, and a complaint or instrument to condemn a crossing hereunder must show that the companies were unable to agree. If there is a waiver of an agreement or of an effort to agree, that fact should be alleged. Negotiations had with officers of the road sought to be crossed, who assume to act in its behalf, although they have no authority to so act, will be sufficient to constitute an effort to agree, unless the person with whom such officers act has knowledge of their lack of authority. The burden of proof is upon the petitioner to show that there was a failure to agree. It must be made to appear before a crossing will be granted when so required by the statute authorizing the condemnation, that the crossing is necessary."

Railroad Decides Necessity of Intersection. — Where a railroad company has a right to condemn a way across the track of another company to manufacturing plants for a spur track to which the other company also has its siding, in competition for freight, the question whether it is necessary for the plaintiff company to build its spur is one in its discretion; and controversies as to whether the defendant could and would shift the plaintiff's cars on its own track advantageously to the plaintiff, and for a reasonable charge, are immaterial. Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 161 N. C. 531, 78 S. E. 68.

No Restriction of Right Except Voluntary.—A railroad company having the power of condemnation across the road of another company should exercise this right with regard to the convenience of both parties and with as little interference with the use of the other party of its own track as can be obtained without a great increase in its cost and inconvenience. But the courts cannot restrict this right to be exercised by a railroad to cases in which the courts may approve its reasonableness or expediency. Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 165 N. C. 425, 81 S. E. 617.

Agreement or Condemnation Necessary for Entry. — Under this section one road cannot enter on the right-of-way of another for the purpose of connecting therewith without previous agreement, or condemnation proceedings. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Durham, etc., Ry. Co., 104 N. C. 658, 10 S. E. 659.

Parol Agreement Ineffectual.—A parol agreement to allow one railroad company to extend its track on the right-of-way of another, for the purpose of connecting therewith, is a mere license, revocable at the will of the licensor, and will not operate as an estoppel although the licensee has entered and made valuable improvements. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Durham, etc., Ry. Co., 104 N. C. 658, 10 S. E. 659.

8. To Transport Persons and Property.—To take and convey persons and property on its railroad by the power or force of steam, electricity or animals, or by any mechanical power, and to receive compensation therefor.

Cross References.—As to the railroad's duty to transport, see § 60-75. As to power of utilities commission to prevent discrimination in service, see § 62-56. As to discrimination in charges, see §§ 60-5, 60-6, and 62-56.

Charter May Confer Right to Lease.—The charter of a railroad company conferring the right to transport passengers and freight, and giving the power to "farm out" the right of transportation, authorizes the company to execute a valid lease of its property and franchises to another railroad company. Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 854.

9. To Erect Stations and Other Buildings.—To erect and maintain all necessary and convenient buildings, stations, fixtures and machinery for the accommodation and use of its passengers, freight and business.

Cross References.—As to power of utilities commission to regulate the establishment of stations, see § 62-41 et seq. As to power of railroad companies to condemn land for union depots, see § 40-4. As to abandonment or relocation of a station by a railroad, see § 62-53.

10. To Borrow Money, Issue Bonds and Execute Mortgages.—From time to time to borrow such sums of money as may be necessary for completing and finishing or operating its railroad, and to issue and dispose of its bonds for any amount so borrowed, and to mortgage its corporate property and franchises and to secure the payment of any debt contracted by the company for the purposes aforesaid, and the directors of the company may confer on any holder of any bond issued for money borrowed, as aforesaid, the right to convert the principal due or owing thereon into stock of such company at any time under such regulations as the directors may see fit to adopt.

Cross Reference.—As to control of the utilities commission over pledge of assets, issuing securities, etc., see § 62-81 et seq.

Corporation Has Power to Issue Bonds.—A railroad corporation has power to contract debts, and every corporation possessing such power must also have power to acknowledge its indebtedness under its corporate seal, i. e., to make and issue its bonds. Commissioners v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 77 N. C. 289.

11. To Lease Rails.—To lease iron rails to any person or corporation for such time and upon such terms as may be agreed on by the contracting parties, and upon the termination of the lease by expiration, forfeiture or surrender, to take possession of and remove the rails so leased as if they had never been laid.

12. To Establish Hotels and Eating Houses. —To purchase, lease, hold, operate or maintain eating-houses, hotels and restaurants for the accommodation of the traveling public along the line of its road. (Rev., ss. 2567, 2575; Code, s. 1957; 1887, c. 341; 1889, c. 518; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 29; C. S. 3444.)

§ 60-38. Engaging in unauthorized business.—It shall be unlawful for any railroad company incorporated under the laws of this State, or any railroad company incorporated under the laws of any other state and operating one or more railroads in this State, to engage in any business other than the business authorized by its or their charter.

Any railroad company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in the discretion of the court. (Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 80.)

§ 60-39. Power to aid in construction of connecting and branch lines.—Any railroad or other transportation company shall have the right to aid in the construction of any railroad or branch railroad in this or an adjoining state connected with it directly or indirectly, if the construction of such railroad or branch railroad is authorized by law. (Rev., s. 2567, subsec. 12; 1885, c. 108, s. 1; C. S. 3445.)

§ 60-40. Power to seize fuel.—If any railroad or other transportation company finds it necessary, in order to prevent delays in the transportation of freight or passengers, to take possession of coal, wood, or other fuel not its own property and convert it to its own use without an agreement with the owner thereof, it shall notify such owner within three days of such taking that his property has been appropriated, giving the date thereof, and shall, within a period of thirty days, pay for such coal, wood or other fuel at the invoice price at place of shipment, plus twenty-five per cent. Should the transportation company fail to notify the consignee or owner within such three days or pay for the coal, wood or other fuel at the invoice price at place of shipment, plus twenty-five per cent as above provided, within thirty days after converting the same to its own use, it shall in addition forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of twenty-five dollars for the first day of failure to notify such consignee of the appropriation of the fuel, or its failure to pay for the same, and five dollars for each day thereafter in which it shall fail to notify such consignee or pay for the same. (Rev., s. 2617; 1903, c. 590, s. 4; 1907, c. 467; C. S. 3446.)

§ 60-41. Agreements for through freight and travel.—The directors representing the stock held in the various railroad corporations are hereby authorized and empowered to enter into such agreements and terms with each other as to secure through freight and travel without the expense of transfer of freight, or breaking the bulk thereof, at different points along the lines, and for this purpose may use the road or roads and the rolling stock of such corporations or companies on such terms as may be agreed upon by them. (Rev., s. 2640; Code, s. 1995; 1866-7, c. 105; C. S. 3447.)

§ 60-42. Intersection with highways. — Whenever the track of a railroad shall cross a highway, turnpike or plankroad, such highway, turnpike or plankroad may be carried under or over the track, as may be found most expedient; and in cases where an embankment or cutting shall make a change in the line of such highway, turnpike or plankroad desirable, then such corporation may take such additional lands for the construction of the road, highway, turnpike or plankroad on such new line as may be deemed requisite by the directors. Unless the land so taken shall be purchased for the purposes aforesaid, compensation therefor shall be ascertained in the manner prescribed in the chapter Eminent Domain, and duly made by such corporation to the owners and persons interested in such land. The same when so taken shall become a part of such intersecting highway, turnpike or plankroad in such manner and by such tenure as the adjacent parts of the same highway, turnpike or plankroad may be held for highway purposes. (Rev., s. 2568; Code, s. 1954; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 26; C. S. 3448.)

Cross References.—See also § 60-37, paragraph 6, and § 60-43. As to the power of the utilities commission to regulate crossings, see § 62-50. As to ascertaining the compensation for land taken, see § 40-11 et seq.

§ 60-43. Obstructing highways; defective crossings; failure to repair after notice misdemeanor. —Whenever, in their construction, the works of any railroad corporation shall cross established roads or ways, the corporation shall so construct its works as not to impede the passage or transportation of persons or property along the same. If any railroad corporation shall so construct its crossings with public streets, thoroughfares or highways, or keep, allow or permit the same at any time to remain in such condition as to impede, obstruct or endanger the passage or transportation of persons or property along, over or across the same, the governing body of the county, city or town, or other public road authority having charge, control or oversight of such roads, streets or thoroughfares may give to such railroad notice, in writing, directing it to place any such crossing in good condition, so that persons may cross and property be safely transported across the same. If the railroad corporation shall fail to put such crossing in a safe condition for the passage of persons and property within thirty days from and after the service of the notice, it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court. Each calendar month which shall elapse after the giving of the notice and before the placing of such crossing in repair shall be a separate offense. This section shall in no wise be construed to abrogate, repeal or otherwise affect any existing law now applicable to railroad corporations with respect to highway and street crossings; but the duty imposed and the remedy given by this section shall be in addition to other duties and remedies now prescribed by law. (Rev., s. 2569; Code, s. 1710; R. C., c. 61, s. 30; 1874-5, c. 83; 1915, c. 250, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 3449.)

Cross References.—As to the power of the utilities commission to regulate crossings, see § 62-50. As to duty of railroad to maintain bridges it makes necessary, see § 136-75. As to duty of railroad to provide drawbridge, see § 136-78. As to venue in an action against a railroad, see § 1-81.

Editor's Note.—Section 62-50 confers authority upon the utilities commissioner to abolish grade crossings by a railroad company when by the operation of the railroads they become dangerous or inconvenient to the public traveling along their highways or private ways.

Duty Required.—While railroad corporations are given the right and power to construct their roads across streets, highways, etc., they must maintain a safe and convenient crossing there, making it, as far as they can, as safe and convenient to the public as it would have been had the railroad not been built. Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 563, 36 S. E. 115.

Not Restricted to Public Highway.—This section does not restrict the defendant's duty to crossings of "public highways," but uses the broader and generic term "highways," which might include any road used by the public as a mill and church road and in going to town, as was this road. Goforth v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 569, 570, 57 S. E. 209.

Same—Applies to Private Crossings. — An "established road or way" which a railroad company may not obstruct in crossing it with its tracks extends to those whose use is of a private nature, and not necessarily those dedicated to a public use, and in such instances, where the rights of a railroad and the rights of the public to the use of their roads or ways conflict, the former must give place to the latter. Tate v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 168 N. C. 523, 84 S. E. 808.

"Negligent Construction" Defined.—By "negligent construction" is meant such an improper construction of the crossing, whether arising from negligence, indifference, or motives of economy, as unnecessarily increases the danger of using the public highway. Raper v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 563, 36 S. E. 115. But the mere fact that a crossing is dangerous does not necessarily impute negligence to the railroad company. Edwards v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 129 N. C. 78, 39 S. E. 730, 731.

Presumption That Crossing Is Safe. — One has the right to assume that a railroad company has discharged its duty to the public by keeping the crossing in safe condition. Tankard v. Roanoke R., etc., Co., 117 N. C. 558, 23 S. E. 46.

Indictment.—An indictment charging a railroad company with obstructing a public road by the use of plank at a crossing, is fatally defective if it does not charge the manner of the misuse of the plank. State v. Roanoke R., etc., Co., 109 N. C. 860, 13 S. E. 719.

It is a fatal variance in an indictment for obstructing a highway at a railroad crossing, to prove that the defendant permitted for some time a dangerous hole to remain in the crossing. State v. Roanoke R., Co., 109 N. C. 860, 13 S. E. 719.

When Injury Might Have Been Caused by Defective Crossing.—Under this section it is error for the trial court to sustain a motion of nonsuit on competent evidence from which the jury could have found that, if defendant's crossing over a neighborhood road had not been negligently left in a dangerous condition, plaintiff would not have been injured by the slipping and falling thereon of the mule upon which he was riding. Goforth v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 569, 57 S. E. 209.

§ 60-44. Service of notice of defective crossings.—The notice required by § 60-43 may be served upon the agent of the offending railroad located nearest to the defective or dangerous crossing about which the notice is given, or it may be served upon the section master whose section includes such crossing. Such notice may be served by delivering a copy to such agent or section master, or by letter properly stamped, registered and addressed to either of such persons. (1915, c. 250, s. 1; C. S. 3450.)

§ 60-45. Change in location of highways.—In order to prevent the frequent crossing of such road or ways, or in cases where it may be necessary to occupy the same, the corporation may change the roads and ways so as to avoid such crossing and occupation, and to such points as may be deemed expedient. (Rev., s. 2570; Code, s. 1711; R. C., c. 61, s. 31; 1874-5, c. 83; C. S. 3451.)

May Change County Road.—A railroad company may make a change in a county road that does not necessarily impair its usefulness. Brinkley v. Sou. R. Co., 135 N. C. 654, 47 S. E. 791.

§ 60-46. Damages due to change in location.—For any injury done to the lands of persons by taking them under § 60-45, the value thereof shall be assessed in like manner as is provided for assessing damages to real estate for taking lands under the chapter Eminent Domain. (Rev., s. 2571; Code, s. 1712; R. C., c. 61, s. 32; 1874-5, c. 83; C. S. 3452.)

Cross Reference.—As to manner of assessing damages when the parties cannot agree, see § 40-11 et seq.

§ 60-47. Old road not to be impeded until new road is made.—Before any part of an established road or way shall be impeded by any railroad corporation, the new road or way shall be prepared and made equally good with the portion proposed to be discontinued; and then the same shall be deemed a part of the original road or way, and shall be kept up and repaired as before the change. (Rev., s. 2572; Code, s. 1713; R. C., c. 61, s. 33; 1874-5, c. 83; C. S. 3453.)

§ 60-48. Cattle-guards and private crossings; failure to erect and maintain misdemeanor.—Every incorporated company owning, operating or constructing, or which shall hereafter own, operate or construct, or any company which shall hereafter be incorporated and shall own, operate or construct any railroad passing through and over the land of any person now enclosed, or which may hereafter become enclosed, shall, at its own expense, construct and constantly maintain, in good and safe condition, good and sufficient cattle-guards at the points of entrance upon and exit from such enclosed land, and shall also make and keep in constant repair crossings to any plantation road thereupon. Every railroad corporation which shall fail to erect and constantly maintain the cattle-guards and crossings provided for by this section shall be liable to an action for damages to any party aggrieved, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined in the discretion of the court.

So far as this section relates to cattle-guards, the utilities commission is hereby authorized, directed and empowered to adopt such good and sufficient make of cattle-guard now upon the market as is best suited for turning stock. When such guard is selected, approved and authorized by the commission any company operating in this state which shall procure, install and maintain and keep in good and safe condition on its line of road such guard so selected by the commission shall be deemed and held in all suits, actions or proceedings in all the courts of this state to have complied with the conditions of this section in installing a good and sufficient cattle-guard: Provided, that any railroad company operating in this state may make application to the commission to adopt for its road any particular brand or make of cattle-guard, and if the commission shall approve and authorized the use of such guard, it shall, if kept and maintained in good and sufficient condition at all times by such railroad company, be deemed and held in all actions, suits or proceedings in any court of this state a good and sufficient cattle-guard. (Rev., ss. 2601, 3753; Code, s. 1975; 1883, c. 394, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1915, c. 127; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3454.)

Applies to Town Lot.—This section which requires railroads to construct cattle guards at the point of entrance upon and exit from enclosed lands, applies to a town lot as well as in the county. Shepard v. Suffolk & C. R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137.

Adoption of Stock Law.—The adoption of the stock law does not abrogate this section in a locality. Shepard v. Suffolk & C. R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137.

Joinder of Actions.—Where plaintiff's complaint contained two causes of action, one to recover damages alleged to have been caused by defendant's ponding water back on plaintiff's land; the other to recover damages for a breach of duty on the part of defendant in not putting up sufficient cattle-guards as required by this section, this was an improper joinder of causes of action, the first being for injury to property, a tort, while the second arose "upon contract" for the breach of an implied contract to perform a statutory duty. Hodges v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 105 N. C. 170, 10 S. E. 917.

§ 60-49. Change of route of railroad.—The directors of any railroad corporation may by a vote of two-thirds of their whole number at any time alter or change the route, or any part of the route, of their road, if it shall appear to them that the line can be improved thereby, and they shall have the same right and power to acquire title to any lands required for the purposes of the company in such altered or changed route, as if the road had been located there in the first instance; but no such alteration shall be made in any city or town after the road shall have been constructed, unless the same is sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds of the corporate authorities of such city or town. In case of any alteration made in the route of any railroad after the company has commenced grading, compensation shall be made to all persons for injury so done to any lands that may have been donated to the company. When any route or line is abandoned in the exercise of the power herein granted, full compensation shall be made by the company for all money, labor, bonds or material contributed to the construction of the road-bed or its superstructure by those so interested by their contributions in the abandoned route or line. All the provisions of this chapter relative to the first location and to acquiring title to land shall apply to every such new or altered portion of the route. (Rev., s. 2573; Code, s. 1953; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 25; 1889, c. 391; 1893, c. 396, s. 3; C. S. 3455.)

Cross Reference.—As to the duty of the utilities commission to require railroads to enter towns, see § 62-52.

Authority Necessary to Change Route.—While a railroad company has no power to change its route without legislative authority, it is not necessary that this power should be given in the charter or a direct amendment thereto, but it may be given by charter or by special enactment or by the general railroad laws of the State. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 55 S. E. 292.

Original Rights May Be Retained.—Variations in a route over which a railroad may run do not affect the identity of a corporate body that builds it, where subsequent acts are amendatory of the original charter and give permission for a deflection from the line first projected; and the right to exemption of property from tax granted in the original charter, is retained unimpaired. Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. Commissioners, 88 N. C. 519.

When Corporation Commission Orders Change.—This section requiring that a contemplated change in the route of a railroad in a city can only be made when sanctioned by a two-thirds vote of the aldermen, only applies where the railroad of its own volition, and for its own convenience, contemplates a change of route, and not to a case where the Corporation Commission, acting under express legislative authority and direction, require the railroad to make the change for the convenience of the general public. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 55 S. E. 292.

Right to Change Grade.—A railroad company has a right to change the grade of its roadbed or to remove it to any point on its right of way. Brinkley v. Sou. R. Co., 135 N. C. 654, 47 S. E. 791.

Cited in North Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Central. etc., R. Co., 83 N. C. 489, 494.

§ 60-50. Forfeiture for failure to begin or complete railroad.—If any railroad corporation shall not within three years after its articles of association are filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, or the passage of its charter, begin the construction of its road and expend thereon ten per cent of the amount of its capital, or shall not finish the road and put it in operation in ten years from the time of filing its articles of association or passage of its charter as aforesaid, its corporate existence and powers shall cease. (Rev., s. 2564; Code, s. 1980; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 43; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 142; C. S. 3456.)

State Must Institute Forfeiture Proceedings.—The failure of a railroad company to organize under an act of incorporation within the two years prescribed, does not prevent a valid organization thereafter, unless forfeiture has been declared in proceedings instituted by the state. Railroad v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263.

The State alone, acting through the Attorney-General, may institute a proceeding against a railroad company to forfeit its charter under the provisions of this section for failure to begin construction of the railroad and complete the same within the two separate periods therein prescribed. Brummitt v. Snow Hill Ry. Co., 197 N. C. 381, 148 S. E. 444.

Same—Waiver of Forfeiture.—If the legislature knowing the ground of forfeiture deals with the corporation as if it were lawfully existing it thereby waives its right of forfeiture. Attorney-General v. Petersburg, etc., R. Co., 28 N. C. 456.

Where a railroad company has not commenced the construction of its road within three years after its charter has been granted as required by this section, and thereafter by statute the Legislature declares that certain bonds issued by a township to aid in the construction of the railroad shall be valid, and the county has acted in recognition of the existence of the corporation, the State by its acquiescence in the delay and by its recognizing the railroad company as an existing corporation has waived its right to insist on a forfeiture. Brummitt v. Snow Hill Ry. Co., 197 N. C. 381, 148 S. E. 444.

Same—Attorney-General Cannot Bring Action.—The attorney-general cannot of his own motion bring an action to vacate the charter of a corporation. Attorney-General v. Railroad, 134 N. C. 481, 46 S. E. 959.

Same—Cannot Be Attacked in Condemnation Proceedings.—The existence of a railroad corporation can not be attacked or questioned in an action brought by it to condemn land for its purposes. Wellington, etc., R. Co. v. Cashie, etc., R. Co., 114 N. C. 690, 19 S. E. 646.

Forfeiture for Failure to Comply with Either of Time Limits.—Construing this section as to the forfeiture of the charter of a railroad company when construction of the proposed road is not commenced within three years or completed and put into operation within ten years after its charter has been granted, to make the two provisions consistent it is held that they are not alternative, and upon the failure of a railroad to comply with either one of the provisions, the suit of the Attorney-General will be maintained in the absence of acts or conduct upon the part of the sovereign that amount to a waiver of the default. Brummitt v. Snow Hill Ry. Co., 197 N. C. 381, 148 S. E. 444.

§ 60-51. Secretary of state may extend time to begin railroad in certain cases.—In all cases where railroad companies have been chartered by the act of the general assembly or the charter of any railroad company has been amended by act of the general assembly, during or subsequent to the session of one thousand nine hundred and eleven, but where construction work has not begun in accordance with the provisions of § 60-50 or having been begun such construction work has not been completed, the secretary of state may in the exercise of his sound discretion, upon application of any such railroad company and the payment to the state of the same fees as provided in § 55-158, extend from time to time for periods of two years the time within which to begin or renew construction work as required by § 60-50; and the fact of extending the time by the secretary of state, as herein provided, shall, for the period of such extension, fully and to all intents and purposes, renew corporate existence and corporate powers as fully as the same are conferred in the original charter. (1919, c. 19; 1921, c. 184; 1923, c. 245; C. S. 3457.)

Editor's Note.—In 1921, by Public Laws 1921, ch. 184, this section was amended so as to include railroads whose charters had been amended since 1911. At the same time the provision regarding construction work begun but not completed was added. By Public Laws 1923, ch. 245, the legislature made the granting of any extension of time for beginning, renewing or completing, work on railroads within the state discretionary with the secretary of state, instead of obligatory as heretofore.

§ 60-52. Forfeiture for preferences to shippers.—In the event of any contract having been entered into by any railroad company in this state with any person or company, whereby preferences or exclusive rights of transportation, either in priority or in arrangements, are given to such person or company, the attorney-general is hereby instructed to institute proceedings against such railroad company for a forfeiture of its charter. (Rev., s. 2563; Code, s. 1969; 1865-6, resolution ratified December 14, 1865; C. S. 3458.)

§ 60-53. Obtaining temporary track across railroad.—Wherever any railroad line track and right of way shall lie between any body of merchantable timber or quarry or other kind or class of heavy property requiring machinery for transportation and any body of navigable water over which such property could be floated or shipped, and the owner of such timber or property shall desire to transport such property to water for purpose of floating or shipping, such property owner shall have the right to file petition before the utilities commission for a right to cross such railroad with any other railroad track or tramway. The procedure for the hearing of the petition shall be same as other proceedings of the commission. The commission shall hear the facts and if it be found reasonably necessary that the railroad track and right of way shall be crossed by a temporary railroad track the commission shall so order and prescribe the payment of the expense and the cost. (1931, c. 448; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

Cited in Waldroup v. Ferguson, 213 N. C. 198, 195 S. E. 615.

§ 60-54. Shelter at railroad division points required; failure to provide, a misdemeanor.—It shall be the duty of every person, firm, or corporation that may now or hereafter own, control, or operate any line of railroad in the state of North Carolina, to erect and maintain at every division point where cars are regularly taken out of trains for repairs or construction work, or where other railroad equipment is regularly made, repaired, or constructed, a building or shed with a suitable and sufficient roof over the repair and construction track or tracks so as to provide that all men or employees permanently employed in the construction and repair of cars, trucks, or other railroad equipment of whatever description shall be under shelter and protected during snows, rains, sleets, hot sunshine, and other inclement weather: Provided, the utilities commission shall have the power to direct the points at which sheds shall be erected, and the character of the sheds: Provided further, that such order shall only be made after a hearing of which public notice shall have been given.

Any person, firm, or corporation failing to comply with the requirements of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and for each offense shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars. Each day of such failure shall constitute a separate offense. (1913, c. 65; 1913, c. 117; 1933, c. 134; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 6557.)

§ 60-55. Railroad employees to be paid twice a month.—All persons, firms, companies, corporations, or associations owning, leasing, or operating any railroad or railroads, wholly or partially within this state, shall pay and settle with their employees engaged or employed in shops, round-houses, or repair shops within this state at least twice in each month, which settlements shall not be less than two weeks nor more than three weeks apart, and shall, in such settlements, pay such employees the full amounts due them for their work and services up to the date of the preceding settlement, and such payment shall be made in lawful money of the United States, or by check or cash order redeemable by the maker thereof for its face value in lawful money of the United States upon demand of or presentation by the lawful holder thereof: Provided, this section shall not apply to repair shops where less than ten employees are engaged. (1915, c. 92; C. S. 6558.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be the only North Carolina enactment of its kind. 15 N. C. L. Rev. 266.

Art. 6. Hours of Service for Employees of Carriers.

§ 60-56. Maximum continuous service.—It shall be unlawful for any common carrier, its officers or agents, subject to this article, to require or permit any employee, subject to this article, to be or remain on duty for a longer period than sixteen consecutive hours, and whenever any such employee of such common carrier shall have been continuously on duty for sixteen hours he shall be relieved and not required or permitted again to go on duty until he has had at least ten consecutive hours off duty; and no such employee who has been on duty sixteen hours in the aggregate in any twenty-four-hour period shall be required or permitted to continue or again go on duty without having had at least eight consecutive hours off duty: Provided, that no operator, train dispatcher, or other employee who by the use of the telegraph or telephone dispatches, reports, transmits, receives, or delivers orders pertaining to or affecting train movements shall be required or permitted to be or remain on duty for a period longer than nine hours in any twenty-four-hour period in all towers, offices, places, and stations continuously operated night and day, nor for a longer period than thirteen hours in all towers, offices, places, and stations operated only during the daytime, except in case of emergency, when the employees named in this proviso may be permitted to be and remain on duty for four additional hours in a twenty-four-hour period on not exceeding three days in any week: Provided further, the utilities commission may, after a full hearing in a particular case and for good cause shown, extend the period within which a common carrier shall comply with the provisions of this proviso as to such case. (1911, c. 112, s. 2; 1933, c. 134; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 6565.)

§ 60-57. Penalty for violation.—Any such common carrier, or any officer or agent thereof, requiring or permitting any employee to go, be or remain on duty in violation of § 65-56 shall be liable to a penalty of not to exceed five hundred dollars for each and every violation, to be recovered in suit or suits to be brought in the name of the state of North Carolina on relation of the utilities commission in the superior court of Wake county or of the county in which the violation of this article occurred; and it shall be the duty of the said utilities commission to bring such suits upon satisfactory information lodged with it; but no such suit shall be brought after the expiration of one year from date of such violation; and it shall be the duty of said utilities commission to lodge with the proper solicitors information of any such violations as may come to its knowledge. In all prosecutions under this article the common carrier shall be deemed to have had knowledge of all acts of all its officers and agents: Provided, that the provisions of this article shall not apply to any case of casualty or unavoidable accident or the act of God; nor where the delay was the result of a cause not known to the carrier or its officer or agent in charge of such employee at the time the said employee left a terminal, and which could not have been foreseen: Provided further, that the provisions of this article shall not apply to the crews of wrecking or relief trains: Provided further, this article shall not be construed to impose a penalty upon any common carrier for any act done in violation of the act of congress, ratified March the fourth, one thousand nine hundred and seven, and entitled "An act to promote the safety of employees and travelers upon railroads by limiting the hours of service of employees thereon," or any acts amendatory thereof. (1911, c. 112, s. 3; C. S. 6566.)

§ 60-58. Utilities commission to enforce article.—It shall be the duty of the utilities commission to execute and enforce the provisions of this article, and all powers granted to the utilities commission are extended to it in the execution thereof. (1911, c. 112, s. 4; 1933, c. 134, ss. 7, 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 6567.)

Art. 7. Lease, Sale, and Reorganization.

§ 60-59. Lessee of noncompeting railroad may acquire its stock; merger of lessor.—Any railroad corporation or its successors, being the lessee of the road of any other noncompeting railroad corporation, may take a surrender or transfer of the capital stock of the stockholders, or any of them, in the corporation whose road is held under lease, and issue in exchange therefor the like additional amount of its own capital stock at par, or on such other terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the two corporations; and whenever the greater part of the capital stock of any such corporation shall have been so surrendered or transferred, the directors of the corporation taking such surrender or transfer shall thereafter, on a resolution electing so to do, to be entered on their minutes, become ex officio the directors of the corporation whose road is so held under lease, and shall manage and conduct the affairs thereof as provided by law; and whenever the whole of such capital stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred, and a certificate thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state under the common seal of the corporation to whom such surrender or transfer shall have been made, the estate, property, rights, privileges and franchises of the corporation whose stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred shall thereupon vest in and be held and enjoyed by the corporation to whom such surrender or transfer shall have been made, and as fully and entirely, without charge or diminution, as the same were before held and enjoyed, and be managed and controlled by the board of directors of the corporation to whom the surrender or transfer of such stock shall have been made in the corporate name of such corporation. But the property, rights, franchises and profits of every corporation so surrendered, transferred or leased shall hereafter always be liable to taxation, and shall never be exempt therefrom. The rights of any stockholder not so surrendering or transferring his stock shall not be in any way affected thereby, nor shall existing liabilities or the rights of creditors of the corporation where stock shall have been so surrendered or transferred be in any way affected or impaired by this section. (Rev., s. 2574; Code, s. 1994; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 57; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 119, s. 2; C. S. 3459.)

Cross References.—As to conditional sales or leases of railroad property, see § 47-24. As to taxation of leased railroad, see § 105-367.

Editor's Note.—The stockholders of the old corporation cannot be compelled to become stockholders of the new corporation without their consent and do not become such until they have actively participated in the transfer by exchanging their old stock for the new.

A railroad corporation has no power to consolidate with another railroad company so as to form a single corporation unless this authority is granted by legislative act. Under this section no consolidation can take place until one corporation holds all of the capital stock of another.

The sentence reserving the right of taxation is a saving clause to prevent the operation of Tennessee v. Whitworth, 117 U. S. 139, 6 S. Ct. 649, 29 L. Ed. 833, which held that all special privileges, including exemption from taxation, of the old corporation were inherited by the new.

When New Corporation Formed.—Where a new corporation is formed out of two existing corporations, these latter ceasing thereafter to exist, the law forming the new corporation governs and controls its corporate functions and rights. Cheraw & Salisbury R. Co. v. Commissioners, 88 N. C. 519.

Legislative Act Authorizing Consolidation.—An act authorizing the consolidation of certain railroad corporations upon a vote of a majority of the stockholders and allowing a stockholder actual value for his stock in lieu of taking stock in the consolidated company, is valid. Spencer v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 137 N. C. 107, 49 S. E. 96.

§ 60-60. Lease or merger of competing carrier declared a misdemeanor.—No railroad or other transportation company or its officers, now or hereafter doing business in this state, shall purchase, lease, absorb, take over, buy stock in, merge with or in any way secure an interest in a competing line of railroad or other transportation company, nor shall any railroad or other transportation company or its officers enter into any contract, agreement or understanding with a competing line of railroad or other transportation company calculated to defeat or which may defeat or lessen competition in this state. All such contracts, purchases or sales shall be void. Any violation of this section shall make the corporation or person so offending guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction the offender shall be fined in the discretion of the court. This section shall not prevent railroads independently owned and operated in this state, and not exceeding one hundred miles in length, from selling their roads and property. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 119, ss. 2, 3; C. S. 3460.)

§ 60-61. Acquisition of interest in or lease of noncompeting branch or connecting lines.—Any railroad or other transportation company may acquire and hold or guarantee, or endorse the bonds or stocks of, or may lease any railroad or branch railroad, or other transportation line in this or adjoining state connecting with it directly or indirectly. But no railroad or other transportation company or its officers shall acquire, hold or guarantee the bonds or stock of, or lease or be leased to, or purchase or buy or consolidate with or be merged into, any parallel or competing railroad or other transportation company, nor shall any railroad or other transportation company or its officers sell any of its stock or bonds to any holding or voting company or its officers, whereby such consolidation or merger may be effected, and any such purchase, contract, merger or sale shall be void. This provision shall not prevent railroads independently owned and operated in this state, and not exceeding one hundred miles in length, from selling their roads and property. (Rev., s. 2567, subsec. 13; 1885, c. 108, s. 2; 1908, c. 119, ss. 1, 3; C. S. 3461.)

Lease Beyond Time Granted for Corporate Existence. — Where the term of a lease of property of a railroad company extends beyond the time fixed by its charter for the corporate existence of the lessor, such a lease is valid for the period of the corporate life of the lessor, and will extend beyond that period if the charter is renewed, and the lessor's corporate existence is thereby extended, and by this process it may endure for the full term. Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 854.

Lessor Responsible for Torts. — The lessor of a railroad is responsible for the torts committed by the lessee in the operation of the leased road, and in the exercise of its franchise. Mitchell v. Sou. R. Co., 176 N. C. 645, 97 S. E. 628; Hill v. Director-General, 178 N. C. 607, 610, 101 S. E. 376.

Same—Granting New Trial to Lessee Railroad.—When the lessor railroad company is sued jointly with its lessee company for damages caused by the alleged negligence of the lessee, and after verdict the lessor moves for judgment upon the verdict, but makes no motion for a new trial, while the lessee company moves for a new trial, and both motions are refused and both defendants appeal from the judgment rendered against them, the granting a new trial to the lessee vacates the judgment as to both defendants. Tillett v. Lynchburg, etc., R. Co., 115 N. C. 662, 663, 20 S. E. 480.

§ 60-62. Purchaser at mortgage or execution sale of railroads may incorporate.—Whenever the purchaser of the real estate, track and fixtures of any railroad corporation which has heretofore been sold, or may hereafter be sold, by virtue of any mortgage executed by such corporation or execution issued upon any judgment or decree of any court, shall acquire title to the same in the manner prescribed by law, such purchaser may associate with him any number of persons, and make and acknowledge and file articles of association as prescribed in this chapter. Such purchaser and his associates shall thereupon be a new corporation, with all the powers, privileges and franchises and subject to all of the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 2552; Code, s. 1936; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 5; C. S. 3462.)

Cross Reference.—As to contents of articles of assiciation, prerequisites for fiiling, etc., see § 60-9 et seq.

Railroad May Be Sold.—A railroad is the subject of private property, and in that character is liable to be sold, unless the sale be forbidden by the Legislature; not the franchise, but the land itself constituting the road. State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297.

Corporation Not Dissolved by Sale.—A railroad corporation is not dissolved by the sale of its road. State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297.

Purchaser Takes Rights of Old Company.—On the foreclosure of a mortgage given by a railroad company, the purchaser takes the rights that the company had acquired in relation to its right of way under its charter. Barker v. Sou. R. Co., 137 N. C. 214, 49 S. E. 115.

Cited in Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 184, 176 S. E. 298.

§ 60-63. On dissolution or sale of railroads purchaser becomes a corporation.—When any railroad corporation shall be dissolved, or its property sold and conveyed under any execution, deed of trust, mortgage or other conveyance, the owner or purchaser shall constitute a new corporation upon compliance with law. (Rev., s. 2565; Code, s. 2005; C. S. 3463.)

Corporate Existence Not Extinguished by Sale. — The sale of a railroad under a second mortgage and a conveyance thereunder, subject to the first mortgage upon its franchise and corporate property, did not extinguish the corporate existence of the company nor release it from liability to the public for the manner in which it is operated. James v. Western North Carolina R. Co., 121 N. C. 523, 28 S. E. 537.

Same—When Sale Effects Dissolution.—In order that the sale of the franchise and property of a railroad corporation under mortgage shall have the effect of a dissolution of such corporation another corporation must be provided, to take its place, and assume and discharge the obligations to the public growing out of the grant of the franchise, and until that is done the old corporation continues to exist and when it is done the new corporation will be a domestic corporation. James v. Western North Carolina R. Co., 121 N. C. 523, 28 S. E. 537.

Property Must Be Associated with Franchises.—The property of railroads must be kept in association with their franchises to preserve value; to give credit to such corporations; to secure creditors and keep railroads in operation for the benefit of the public. Bradley v. O. R. & C. Ry. Co., Appx. 119 N. C. 918, 927.

Same—Object.—The legislative purpose, as clearly manifested in this section, is that the property of railroads must be kept in association with their franchises, to preserve value, to give credit to such corporations, to secure creditors, and keep railroads in operation for the benefit of the public, which was the primary object of the legislature in bestowing such corporate franchises. Bradley v. Ohio, etc., Ry. Co., 78 Fed. 387, 393.

Sale under Second Mortgage.—The effect of the sale of a railroad company's franchises and property under a second mortgage, subject to a first mortgage which was assumed by the purchaser, is to place the purchaser in the place of the mortgagor in its relation to the trustee of the first mortgage, with the right to run and operate the road as agent of the mortgagor, but the old corporation was not extinguished, but is still in existence and liable for damages caused by the mal-administration of its agent which liability can be enforced against the property which it allows the purchaser to use. James v. Western North Carolina R. Co., 121 N. C. 523, 28 S. E. 537.

Art. 8. Liability of Railroads for Injuries to Employees.

§ 60-64. Common carrier defined.—The term "common carrier," as used in this article, shall include the receiver or receivers, or other persons or corporations charged with the duty of the management of the business of a common carrier. (1913, c. 6, s. 5; C. S. 3464.)

Editor's Note.—This article, regulating the liability of railroads for injuries to employees, was enacted prior to the adoption of the Workmen's Compensation Act, §§ 97-1 to 97-122. Section 97-13 expressly provides that the Workmen's Compensation Act is not applicable to railroads or railroad employees and that this article is not repealed. According to that section, however, the exemption as to railroads does not apply to electric street railroads and their employees.

§ 60-65. Fellow-servant rule abrogated; defective machinery.—Any servant or employee of any railroad company operating in this state who shall suffer injury to his person, or the personal representative of any such servant or employee who shall have suffered death in the course of his services or employment with such company, by the negligence, carelessness or incompetence of any other servant, employee or agent of the company, or by any defect in the machinery, ways or appliances of the company, shall be entitled to maintain an action against such company. Any contract or agreement, expressed or implied, made by any employee of such company to waive the benefit of this section shall be null and void. (Rev., s. 2646; 1897 (Pr.), c. 56; 1915, c. 256; C. S. 3465.)

I. EDITOR'S NOTE.

In Hobbs v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 107 N. C. 1, 12 S. E. 124, it was held that a railroad company was not liable for injury to its servants, resulting from the negligence of a fellow servant. In that case the attention of the legislature was called to the fact that many of the states had by legislative enactment abrogated the fellow servant rule in so far as it applied to railroad employees. Thereupon there ensued a strenuous discussion for and against the passage of a similar statute in North Carolina. In 1897 such a statute was passed and its constitutionality sustained in Hancock v. Norfolk, etc., Railway, 124 N. C. 222, 32 S. E. 679. By several decisions of the United States Court similar statutes in other states have been held not to be in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution.

In Mott v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 234, 237, 42 S. E. 601, it was sought to curtail and restrict this section so that it should apply only to employees engaged in operating trains, but the court held the contrary and said: "The language of the statute is both comprehensive and explicit. It embraces injuries sustained by 'any servant or employee of any railway company . . . in the course of his services or employment with said company.' The plaintiff was an employee and was injured in the course of his employment."

However, to come within the provisions of this section a railroad must be "operating" and not "under construction."

The succeeding section was passed after congress had passed a similar statute applicable to employees engaged in interstate commerce. It is not as broad as this section for it applies only to common carriers by railroad. See Editor's Note under that section.

The act applies only to employees who are engaged in duties connected with or incidental to the operation of railroads, logging roads or tramroads. Gurganous v. Camp Mfg. Co., 204 N. C. 525, 168 S. E. 833.

II. FELLOW-SERVANT RULE.

Abrogation of Fellow-Servant Rule.—This section is an unconditional abrogation of the kindred doctrines of Fellow Servant and Assumption of Risk as applied to railroad companies. Coley v. North Carolina R. Co., 129 N. C. 407, 409, 40 S. E. 195.

Rule Abrogated Only as to Railroads.—The law relating to the doctrine of fellow-servants has been only modified in regard to its application to those employed by railroad companies operating in this state. Robinson v. Ivey & Co., 193 N. C. 805, 138 S. E. 173.

Applies to Any Department of Railroad.—The provisions of this section apply to an injury negligently inflicted by a fellow-servant in any department of a railroad being operated. Buckner v. Madison County R. Co., 164 N. C. 201, 80 S. E. 225.

Applies to Street Railways.—This section applies to street railways. Brookshire v. Asheville Elect. Co., 152 N. C. 669, 68 S. E. 215; Hemphill v. Buck Creek Lumber Co., 141 N. C. 487, 54 S. E. 420. But see § 97-13 and Editor's Note to § 60-64.

Applicable to Logging Roads.—This section has been held to apply to logging roads. Moore v. Rawls, 196 N. C. 125, 144 S. E. 552.

Applies to Manufacturing Company Operating Spur Track.—This section applies to a manufacturing corporation which owns and operates a spur track on its grounds as incidental to its main business, with respect to servants employed in such service. United States Leather Co. v. Howell, 151 Fed. 444; Hairston v. United States Leather Co., 143 N. C. 512, 55 S. E. 847.

Does Not Apply to Railroad under Construction. — This section does not apply to an employee engaged in building a trestle for the extension of a railroad, at a point some miles from the track on which trains are being operated. Nicholson v. Railroad, 138 N. C. 516, 51 S. E. 40; Bailey v. Meadows Co., 152 N. C. 603, 68 S. E. 11.

Kind of Employment. — The provisions of this section applying to railroads do not require that the servant, at the time of the injury, should be engaged in the running or operation of a train, but applies to any other kind of service, whether more or less dangerous. Mincey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 161 N. C. 467, 77 S. E. 673.

Applies to All Employees.—This section operates on all employees of the company, whether in superior, equal, or subordinate positions. Fitzgerald v. Southern R. Co., 141 N. C. 530, 54 S. E. 391; Bloxham v. Stave etc. Corp., 172 N. C. 37, 89 S. E. 1013.

Section Read into Contract.—Where a contract of service with the defendant railroad was made in this State, the provisions of this section must be read into the contract, and there being no evidence that the service was to be performed altogether in another State, it would seem that the relative rights and liabilities of the parties are fixed by the terms of the contract. Miller v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 45, 53 S. E. 726.

Injury When Duty Delegated to Another.—Where a railroad company delegated its duty of loading a car to a lumber company making a shipment, it is liable for any injury to its own employee caused by negligence of the employees of the lumber company in loading the car. Britt v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 242, 56 S. E. 910.

Injury in Loading Logs—Where a tram railroad is engaged in loading logs and a fellow-servant of the plaintiff engaged in the scope of his employment in loading the logs, negligently caused one of the logs to drop upon the plaintiff and injure him the defendant is liable in damages for the negligent injury proximately caused. Lilley v. Interstate Cooperage Co., 194 N. C. 250, 139 S. E. 369.

Injury by Falling Tree.—This section applies where an employee was injured by a tree falling upon him as he was riding on the car of defendant's logging road in the performance of his duties, a change of wind having deflected the tree from its expected course, so that it struck the tops of smaller trees and thence fell upon the plaintiff, the engineer should reasonably have seen the danger in time for him to have stopped the train and avoided the injury, after the course of the falling tree had been unexpectedly deflected. Bloxham v. Stave, etc., Corp., 172 N. C. 37, 89 S. E. 1013.

Defective Ladder.—Where two employees of a railroad company are instructed to do certain work, requiring the use of a ladder, and a discarded ladder, which proves defective, is selected from several supplied by the company, the others being sound, and one of the employees sustains a fall because of the defect and sues for damages therefor, this section applies. Mincey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 161 N. C. 467, 77 S. E. 673.

Flagman at Crossing.—Where the plaintiff was employed by a railroad to warn pedestrians of approaching trains at a public crossing and to signal the engineer, and the plaintiff was injured by the defendant's negligence when he had crossed the platform on a train and was on the lowest step of the car for the performance of his duty on the other side, the evidence is sufficient upon the question of employment to sustain a verdict in plaintiff's favor. West v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 174 N. C. 125, 93 S. E. 479.

Engineer Injured by Assistant's Negligence.—It was the duty of a railroad company to furnish its engineer, a competent person to assist him in fixing his locomotive, when such assistance is necessary from the character of the work being done; and the defendant is liable in damages when the assistant fails to exercise ordinary care to prevent an injury, such failure being the proximate cause of the injury. Horton v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 145 N. C. 132, 58 S. E. 993.

Death by Fellow-Servant's Pistol. — Where a baggage agent of a railroad company, in the course of his employment in getting some baggage checks from a drawer to a desk in the baggage room, removes a pistol which he knew to be loaded, takes it in his hand, and in a careless manner opens another drawer to the desk, and in doing so causes the pistol to fire, and kills his assistant, his negligent acts are attributable to the company employing him. Moore v. Southern R. Co., 165 N. C. 439, 81 S. E. 603.

Catching Hand between Cross-Tie and Rail.—The plaintiff was employed by a railroad to replace the crossties under the rails of the road. While a tie was being depressed into position by his fellow servant his hand was caught between the end of the tie and the rail and injured. The plaintiff had no explanation to make of the occurrence, except "he had his hand on the tie to bear it down, and it went over and the end flew up and caught his hand." It was held that the injury was the result of an accident in doing work of a simple nature, and a recovery should have been denied as a matter of law. Lloyd v. Southern R. Co., 168 N. C. 646, 85 S. E. 10.

III. ASSUMPTION OF RISK.

Editor's Note.—After the passage of a similar Federal Statute applying to employees engaged in interstate commerce this legislature enacted section 60-68. It is not as broad as this section for it applies only to common carriers.

General Considerations. — The doctrine of assumption of risk is that an employee assumes the risk of accidents and injuries incident to the business properly operated. He does not assume the risk caused by the negligence of the company, in not furnishing proper appliances or in any other respect. Horton v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 175 N. C. 472, 474, 95 S. E. 883.

The employee assumes no risk in the proper use of defective appliance after notifying the employer thereof, who promises to remedy the defect; but he must use them with proper regard to their known condition, and, failing in this, he would be guilty of contributory negligence, which would bar his recovery. Britt v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 242, 56 S. E. 910.

It is not the mere working in the presence of an obvious defect in an appliance furnished by the master that will constitute contributory negligence on the part of the servant; and assurances on the part of the former that needed repairs will be made will frequently relieve the latter of this charge, which might otherwise bar his recovery of damages for an injury thereby sustained by him. Bissell v. Greenleaf-Johnson Lumber Co., 152 N. C. 123, 67 S. E. 259.

Defense of Assumption of Risk Eliminated.—In an action for negligence against a railroad company operating in this state, the defense of working on in the presence of a defective appliance or machine, usually dealt with under the head of assumption of risk, has been eliminated by this section; but if, apart from the element of assumption of risk, the plaintiff in his own conduct has been careless in a manner which amounts to contributory negligence, his action fails, except in extraordinary cases. Biles v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 143 N. C. 78, 55 S. E. 512.

Under the construction of this section assumption of risk is not available. Moore v. Rawls, 195 N. C. 125, 128, 144 S. E. 552.

Duty to Furnish Safe Tools.—It is the master's duty to furnish the servant such tools as are reasonably safe and suitable for the work in which he is engaged, and in general use. Eplee v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 293, 71 S. E. 325; Bissell v. Greenleaf Johnson Lumber Co., 152 N. C. 123, 67 S. E. 259. If he fails to do so he exposes the servant to extraordinary risks. Moore v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 111, 53 S. E. 745.

Same—Acquiescence in Use.—The master's acquiescence in the use of an appliance for some purpose other than that for which it was intended puts him in the same position as if the appliance had been originally furnished for that purpose. Wallace v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 646, 54 S. E. 399.

Obviously Defective Machinery. — The use of machinery obviously defective will not prevent a person from a recovery for an injury resulting therefrom, unless the apparent danger is so great that its assumption would amount to a reckless indifference of probable consequences. Coley v. North Carolina R. Co., 129 N. C. 407, 40 S. E. 195.

When Plaintiff Causes Own Injury. — When under instructions from his superior officer the plaintiff, in repairing a piece of machinery, with knowledge of its defects, negligently caused an injury to himself in such manner as it was his duty in repairing to prevent, he cannot recover, and this section has no application. Mathis v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 162, 56 S. E. 864.

Liability Not Affected by Act of Shipper.—The duty of the railroad company to have a crosspiece used to keep steady lumber on flat cars secured in a reasonably safe manner for the use to which its servants customarily put it is not affected by the fact that the shipper puts it on in loading the car. Wallace v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 646, 54 S. E. 399.

Question for Jury. — Where the employee of a railroad company, in intrastate commerce, was ruptured while handling heavy baggage at the station by the unaided use of his personal strength, when the company had promised to furnish him a truck proper for the service, the use of which would have avoided the injury, it is for the jury to determine whether the defendant was negligent in failing to supply the truck, or whether the plaintiff assumed the risk in attempting to lift the trunk. Hines v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 185 N. C. 72, 116 S. E. 175; see also, Horton v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 175 N. C. 472, 95 S. E. 883; Wallace v. Tallahassee Power Co., 176 N. C. 558, 97 S. E. 611.

Failure to Equip Car with Automatic Couplers. — Where the jury found that the plaintiff was injured by the negligence of the defendant in failing to have its cars equipped with automatic couplers, the only defense open to the defendant, in the absence of any evidence of recklessness, was whether plaintiff was injured in the course of his service and employment. Hairston v. United States Leather Co., 143 N. C. 512, 55 S. E. 847.

Defective Coupler.—In an action for an injury alleged to have been sustained from a defective coupler, the use of a defective coupler was a violation of a positive duty, and, in connection with an express order of the superintendent to make the coupling, was continuing negligence, and the causa causans of the injury. Liles v. Fosburg Lumber Co., 142 N. C. 39, 54 S. E. 795; Sears v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 169 N. C. 446, 86 S. E. 176.

Engine without Handhold Along Pilot Beam.—Where the plaintiff's evidence shows that he was at the time of the injury at the usual position provided for the purpose on the pilot of the engine by order of his superiors and in the necessary performance of his duties, and that he was thrown and injured because the engine did not have the usual handhold along the pilot beam and that he did not know it was lacking when he got on, and was guilty of no carelessness, his right of action is established. Biles v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 143 N. C. 78, 55 S. E. 512.

Exposed Screw or Power Drill.—A power drill furnished by the master to the servant for boring holes in iron plates, leaving an exposed set-screw thereon dangerous in operating the drill and which are usually covered or countersunk, is not a proper tool for the purpose, and the master is liable in damages proximately caused by the defect. Eplee v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 293, 71 S. E. 325.

Improper Ladder—Where it is the custom of a railroad company to furnish ladders to its painters and one of them so employed had not been furnished with a proper ladder, but with an ordinary ladder that extended beyond the steep roof of the building upon which he was at work and the ladder fell over and struck the plaintiff, causing him to fall and the injury would not have occured if a proper ladder or appliance had been furnished, the evidence was sufficient to take the case to the jury upon the issue of the defendant's actionable negligence. Jones v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 194 N. C. 227, 139 S. E. 242.

Defective Handcar.—Where plaintiff was injured in consequence of using a defective hand car which he had theretofore repeatedly reported to his employer as defective, and had been promised another, the railroad is liable. Boney v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 145 N. C. 248, 58 S. E. 1082.

Evidence.—Direct evidence of negligence is not required, but the same may be inferred from acts and attendant circumstances, and if the facts proved establish the more reasonable probability that the defendant has been guilty of actionable negligence, the case cannot be withdrawn from the jury, though the possibility of accident may arise on the evidence. Fitzgerald v. Southern R. Co., 141 N. C. 530, 54 S. E. 391.

Cited in Stewart v. Black Wood Lumber Co., 193 N. C. 138, 140, 136 S. E. 385; Stamey v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 197 N. C. 391, 393, 148 S. E. 436; Hawkins v. Rowland Lumber Co., 198 N. C. 475, 476, 152 S. E. 169.

§ 60-66. Injuries through fellow-servants or defective appliances.—Every common carrier by railroad shall be liable in damages to any person suffering injury while he is employed by such carrier, or in the case of the death of such employee, to his or her personal representative, for such injury or death resulting in whole or in part from the negligence of any of the officers, agents or employees of such carrier, or by reason of any defect or insufficiency, due to its negligence, in its cars, engine, appliances, machinery, track, road-bed, works, boats, wharves, or other equipment. (1913, c. 6, s. 1; C. S. 3466.)

Cross References.—As to action for death by wrongful act generally, see § 28-173. As to venue of an action against a railroad, see § 1-81.

Editor's Note.—This section applies only to employees engaged exclusively in intrastate commerce. There is a federal statute similar in its provisions which applies to employees engaged in interstate commerce. See 45 U. S. C. § 51. Rights accruing under the latter statute may be enforced in the state courts as well as the federal courts.

There is a distinction between the state and federal statute as to the basis of the damage assessed. Under the State statute the damages are based upon the present worth of the net pecuniary value of the life of the deceased. Ward v. North Carolina R. Co., 161 N. C. 179, 186, 176 S. E. 717. Under the United States statute the damages are based upon the pecuniary loss sustained by the beneficiary. North Carolina R. Co. v. Zachary, 232 U. S. 248, 34 S. Ct. 305, 58 L. Ed. 591.

There is also a distinction as to the beneficiary. Under the State statute the jury assesses the value of the life of the decedent in solido, which is disbursed under the statute of distributions. Under the United States statute, the jury must find as to each plaintiff what pecuniary benefit each plaintiff had reasons to expect from the continued life of the deceased, and the recovery must be limited to compensation of those relatives in the proper class who are shown to have sustained such pecuniary loss. The personal representatives sue for the benefit of the next of kin. See Horton v. Sea Board Air Line R. Co., 175 N. C. 472, 477, 95 S. E. 883.

The difference between section 60-65 and this section is very marked. The former applies to all railroads, while this section applies only to a common carrier by railroad. See Williams v. Kinston Mfg. Co., 175 N. C. 226, 227, 95 S. E. 366.

Under section 28-173 none of the amount recovered in action for death by wrongful act belongs to the estate of the deceased and none of it is liable for the payment of his debts.

"Common Carrier" Defined.—A common carrier is one who, by virtue of his calling, undertakes for compensation to transfer personal property from one place to another for all persons as choose to employ him. Williams v. Kinston Mfg. Co., 175 N. C. 226, 227, 95 S. E. 366.

Statute Applicable.—The federal and state courts have concurrent jurisdiction and the question of which statute will apply depends upon whether or not the employee was engaged in interstate commerce. West v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 174 N. C. 125, 93 S. E. 479; Renn v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 170 N. C. 128, 86 S. E. 964. See also Capps v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 178 N. C. 558, 101 S. E. 216.

When Interstate Question Immaterial. — In an action brought by a switchman of the defendant's train crew to recover damages for alleged negligence of the defendant in providing an improper coupler on a train made up and ready to start for a destination beyond the State, the question whether the train was an interstate one, or the plaintiff was at the time engaged in interstate commerce, is not material, since the enactment of this section which, in this respect, is substantially identical with the Federal statute. Sears v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 169 N. C. 446, 86 S. E. 176.

As to the time within which the action must be brought, under the federal act, see Belch v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 176 N. C. 22, 96 S. E. 640; King v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 176 N. C. 301, 97 S. E. 29.

Effect of Nonsuit in Action under Federal Act.—A judgment as of nonsuit upon the merits of an action brought by the administratrix of an injured employee of a railroad company under the Federal Employers' Liability Act will not operate as a bar to the same cause brought under the laws of this State, §§ 60-66, 60-67, the law and facts applicable to the first not being identical with those applicable to the second. Fuquay v. A. & W. Ry. Co., 199 N. C. 499, 155 S. E. 167.

Cited in Stamey v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 197 N. C. 391, 393, 148 S. E. 436.

§ 60-67. Contributory negligence no bar, but mitigates damages. — In all actions hereafter brought against any common carrier by railroad to recover damages for personal injury to an employee, or where such injuries have resulted in his death, the fact that the employee may have been guilty of contributory negligence shall not bar a recovery, but the damages shall be diminished by the jury in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to such employee: Provided, however, that no such employee who may be injured or killed shall be held to have been guilty of contributory negligence in any case where the violation by such common carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employees contributed to the injury or death of such employee. (1913, c. 6, s. 2; C. S. 3467.)

Editor's Note.—The provisions of this section apply only to employees engaged exclusively in intrastate commerce. There is a similar federal statute which applies to employees engaged in interstate commerce. See 45 U. S. C. § 53.

In an action brought in a court of common law there could be no recovery for negligence by a plaintiff whose default contributed to the injury. The common law rule was that there could be no recovery for injuries where it appeared that the person injured was guilty of contributory negligence, or, in other words, where the injury was the result of the united, mutual, concurring and contemporaneous negligence of the parties to the tranaction. This section abolishes the common law rule and substitutes the doctrine of comparative negligence, reducing the damage but not barring the action.

There is a vital difference between contributory negligence and assumption of risk, which is thus stated, 1 Labatt on Master and Servant, secs. 305 and 306, as follows: "Assumed risk is founded upon the knowledge of the employee, either actual or constructive, of the risks to be encountered, and his consent to take the chance of injury therefrom. Contributory negligence implies misconduct, the doing of an imprudent act by the injured party, or his dereliction in failing to take proper precaution for his personal safety. The doctrine of assumed risk is founded upon contract, while contributory negligence is solely matter of conduct." This distinction has often been approved by the United States Supreme Court in cases under the Employers' Liability Act. Seaboard Air Line Railway v. Horton, 233 U. S. 492. 58 L. Ed. 1062, 34 S. Ct. 635; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 235 U. S. 376, 59 L. Ed. 277, 35 S. Ct. 130.

See 13 N. C. Law Rev. 256.

In General.—The doctrine of comparative negligence is only recognized by our courts in instances coming within the meaning of the Federal Employers' Liability Act, and this section, and then only for the purpose of mitigating the damages or as a partial defense. Moore v. Chicago Bridge, etc., Works, 183 N. C. 438, 111 S. E. 776.

Contributory Negligence Question for Jury.—Under this section, the plaintiff is entitled to have his cause submitted to the jury, for, as herein provided, contributory negligence is no longer a bar to an action by an employee against the railroad for injuries sustained during his employment, and the question of assumption of risk was for the jury, the burden of proof being upon the defendant. Hines v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 185 N. C. 72, 75, 116 S. E. 175.

In Hines v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 185 N. C. 72, at p. 75, 116 S. E. 175, it is said: "Assumption of risk is also a matter of defense analogous to contributory negligence to be passed upon by the jury who are to say whether the employee voluntarily assumed the risk; it is not enough to show merely that he worked on, knowing the danger. Lloyd v. Hines, 126 N. C. 359, 35 S. E. 611; the numerous cases cited thereto in the Anno. Ed.; C. S., 3468 [§ 60-68.]" West v. Fontana Mining Corporation, 198 N. C. 150, 155, 150 S. E. 884.

When Jury Fails to Allow for Contributory Negligence.—Where the plaintiff's complaint demands damages in a certain amount in his action involving the issues of negligence and contributory negligence, and the application of the rule of comparative negligence under the provisions of this section the fact that the jury has rendered a verdict for damages to the full amount demanded in the complaint under a proper instruction does not alone show that the jury had failed to follow the rule of damages prescribed in such instances, and the verdict will not on that ground be disturbed on appeal. Brooks v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 194 N. C. 141, 138 S. E. 532.

Evidence Raising Issue for Jury.—In an action for a deceased employee's negligent death, the fact that it was caused by a head-on collision on defendant railroad company's trestle, in broad daylight, with another of its cars, is some evidence that the defendant's negligence proximately caused the employee's death, and raises the issue for the determination of the jury though the intestate might have been guilty of contributory negligence. Hinnant v. Tidewater Power Co., 187 N. C. 288, 121 S. E. 540.

The section applies only to employees who are engaged in duties connected with or incidental to the operation of railroads, logging roads or tramroads. Gurganous v. Camp Mfg. Co., 204 N. C. 525, 168 S. E. 833.

Negligence in Obtaining Improper Ladder.—The failure of a railroad company to furnish an employee engaged in the scope of his employment in painting a station house, a proper ladder or appliance which caused the injury in suit comes within the provisions of this section, and the contributory negligence of the plaintiff is not a complete bar to his recovery, but only to be considered by the jury in diminution of the damages. Jones v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 194 N. C. 227, 139 S. E. 242.

Motion to Nonsuit.—Where plaintiff, while performing his duty coupled a car attached to defendant's locomotive, while not in motion, and the injury was caused by the sudden movement of the locomotive by the engineer, without a signal from the plaintiff, contrary to practice, though there was evidence of contributory negligence, its establishment would not be a complete defense, under this section, and upon a motion to nonsuit, evidence that the engineer properly acted on the signal of another employee will not be considered. Lamm v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 74, 110 S. E. 659.

Federal Statute.—The rule under the federal statute is substantially the same as that prescribed by this section. Contributory negligence is not a complete bar to the recovery of damages by an employee of a railroad company caused by the latter in interstate commerce, in an action brought under the Federal Employers' Liability Act, the admeasurement being that of comparative negligence by which the jury, under conflicting evidence, reduces the recovery in accordance with the relative negligence of the employee. Cobia v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 188 N. C. 487, 125 S. E. 18; Hinnant v. Tidewater Power Co., 187 N. C. 288, 121 S. E. 540; Ballew v. Asheville, etc., R. Co., 186 N. C. 704, 120 S. E. 334; Moore v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 185 N. C. 189, 116 S. E. 409.

Applied in Byers v. Boice Hardwood Co., 201 N. C. 75, 159 S. E. 3; Bateman v. Brooks, 204 N. C. 176 167 S. E. 627.

Cited in Ingle v. Southern R. Co., 167 N. C. 636, 83 S. E. 744; Ballew v. Asheville, etc., R. Co., 186 N. C. 704. 120 S. E. 334; Stamey v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 197 N. C. 391, 393, 148 S. E. 436; Hawkins v. Rowland Lumber Co., 198 N. C. 475, 476, 152 S. E. 169.

§ 60-68. Assumption of risk as defense.—In any action brought against any common carrier under or by virtue of any of the provisions of this article to recover damages for injuries to, or the death of, any of its employees, such employee shall not be held to have assumed the risk of his employment in any case where the violation by such common carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employees contributed to the injury or death of such employee, or the death or injury was caused by negligence. (1913, c. 6, s. 3; C. S. 3468.)

Editor's Note.—Section 60-65 is an earlier section similar in its import. It applies to all railroads in North Carolina while this section applies only to common carriers.

Applied in Bateman v. Brooks, 204 N. C. 176, 167 S. E. 627.

Cited in Ingle v. Southern R. Co., 167 N. C. 636, 83 S. E. 744; Stamey v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 197 N. C. 391, 393, 148 S. E. 436.

§ 60-69. Contracts and rules exempting from liability void; set-off.—Any contract, rule, regulation or device whatsoever, the purpose and intent of which shall be to enable any common carrier by railroad to exempt itself from any liability created by this article, shall to that extent be void: Provided, that in any action brought against such common carrier, under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this article, such common carrier may set off therein any sum it has contributed or paid to any insurance or relief benefit, or indemnity that may have been paid to the injured employee, or the person entitled thereto, on account of the injury or death for which such action was brought. (1913, c. 6, s. 4; C. S. 3469.)

Accepting Benefit from Relief Department.—A relief department of a railroad for providing hospitals for employees contributed to by the employees and the company under the control and management of the company, is but an agency of the company; and a stipulation in the contract with its employee that in the case of accident he must accept the benefit of the contract and release the company from liability, is prohibited by the provisions of this section. Barden v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 318, 67 S. E. 971; Herring v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 168 N. C. 555, 84 S. E. 863.

§ 60-70. Provisions of this article applicable to logging roads and tramroads.—The provisions in this article relating to liability for damages shall also apply to logging roads and tramroads. (1919, c. 275; C. S. 3470.)

Editor's Note.—Before the enactment of this section provisions of section 60-65 were held, by judicial construction, to apply to logging roads and tramroads. See Roberson v. Greenleaf-Johnson Lumber Co., 154 N. C. 328, 70 S. E. 630; Buckner v. Madison County R. Co., 164 N. C. 201, 80 S. E. 225.

However, in Williams v. Kinston Mfg. Co., 175 N. C. 226, 95 S. E. 366. (decided in 1918) it was held that a logging road was not a common carrier within the meaning of section 60-67 and that the doctrine of comparative negligence was not applicable to actions for injuries sustained by employees of such roads. This decision seems to have engendered the legislative enactment enunciated by this section which was passed in 1919.

In a recent decision, Lilley v. Interstate Cooperage Co., 194 N. C. 250, 139 S. E. 369, the rule of the section, as to tram railroads, applied, and it is held that section 60-67 is operative as to such railroads.

The provisions of §§ 60-67, 60-65, are applicable to tram or logging roads under the provisions of this section. Sampson v. Jackson Bros. Co., 203 N. C. 413, 166 S. E. 181.

The employee must be engaged in duties connected with or incidental to the operation of such roads. Gurganous v. Camp Mfg. Co., 204 N. C. 525, 168 S. E. 833.

Comparative Negligence Rule Applies.—Under this section contributory negligence is no longer a bar to injuries received in the operation of a logging road, but such negligence mitigates damages. In other words, comparative negligence is now, under the law, applicable to logging roads. Moore v. Rawls, 196 N. C. 125, 129, 144 S. E. 552, citing McKinish v. Lumber Co., 191 N. C. 836, 133 S. E. 163.

Narrow-Gauge Logging Road. — A small narrow-gauge road running through the woods and used for the purpose only of transporting logs to the defendant's sawmill, with the cars loaded with logs pulled up a grade by means of a steam skidder, the wire cables operating around a drum upon the skidder, is a logging road within the intent and meaning of this section and an employee negligently injured by such company is not barred of his right to recover damages when caused by a fellow-servant; and contributory negligence is only considered in determination of the amount of damages the injured employee has sustained. Stewart v. Blackwood Lumber Co., 193 N. C. 138, 136 S. E. 385; Brooks v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 194 N. C. 141, 138 S. E. 532.

Applied in Bateman v. Brooks, 204 N. C. 176, 167 S. E. 627.

Cited in Hawkins v. Rowland Lumber Co., 198 N. C. 475, 476, 152 S. E. 169; Stamey v. Suncrest Lumber Co., 197 N. C. 391, 393, 148 S. E. 436.

Art. 9. Construction and Operation of Railroads.

§ 60-71. Map of route to be served with summons for condemnation.—Whenever it shall become necessary to condemn any land for the purposes of a railroad, at the time that the summons for such condemnation is served there shall also be served by the railroad company a map showing how the line of the road is located on the land sought to be condemned, and a profile showing the depth of the cuts and the height of the embankments on the land so sought to be condemned, and at what points on such land such cuts and embankments are located. This section shall not apply to street railways. (Rev., s. 2599; Code, s. 1952; 1893, c. 396, s. 2; 1901, c. 6, s. 3; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 24; C. S. 3471.)

Section Mandatory. — These conditions must be complied with before any company can construct any part of its road. Durham, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 16, 23, 10 S. E. 1041.

Same—Defect May Be Cured by Amendment.—The failure to serve a map and profile with the summons in condemnation proceedings as required by this section may be cured by amendment. State v. Wells, 142 N. C. 590, 55 S. E. 210.

Cited in Gastonia v. Glenn, 218 N. C. 510, 11 S. E. (2d) 459.

§ 60-72. Map of railroad to be made and filed.—Every railroad corporation shall, within a reasonable time after its road shall be constructed, cause to be made a map and profile thereof, and of the land taken or obtained for the use thereof, and shall file the same in the office of the utilities commission. Every such map shall be drawn on a scale and on paper to be designated by the utilities commission, and shall be certified and signed by the president or engineer of such corporation. (Rev., s. 2600; Code, s. 1977; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 41; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3472.)

Purpose of Section.—By this section railroad corporations are required, within a reasonable time after their road is constructed, to file a map and profile of their route and of land condemned for its use with the Corporation Commission. But this is for the information of that body and is not required as a part of a correct and completed location. Fayetteville Street Railway v. Railroad, 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

Survey Unnecessary When Old Road-Bed Adopted. — Where the line of a railroad is clearly defined by the existence of an old road-bed which is entered on and staked out by the agents of the company, and the route so marked is approved and adopted by the directors as its permanent location, in such case a survey by engineers is not essential. Fayetteville Street Railway v. Railroad, 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

Profile Must Show Fills and Cuts.—The profile required to be filed must show whether there will be any "fills" or "cuts" on the land sought to be condemned. Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413, 43 S. E. 913.

Railroad Completed before Section Passed. — Where the railroad was completed through the locus in quo prior to the passage of this section, it was not necessary to the validity of the location that a map of the route should be filed. Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 100, 12 S. E. 741.

§ 60-73. Joint construction by railroads having same location.—Whenever two railroad companies shall, for a portion of their respective lines, embrace the same location of line; they may by agreement provide for the construction of so much of said line as is common to both of them, by one of the companies, and for the manner and terms upon which the business thereon shall be performed. Upon the making of such an agreement, the company that is not to construct the part of the line which is common to both may terminate its line at the point of intersection, and may reduce its capital to a sum of not less than five thousand dollars for each mile of the road proposed to be constructed. (Rev., s. 2602; Code, s. 1983; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 46; C. S. 3473.)

§ 60-74. Construction of part of line in another state.—Whenever after due examination it shall be ascertained by the directors of any railroad company that a part of the line of railroad proposed to be made between any two points in this state ought to be located and constructed in an adjoining state, it may be so located and constructed by a vote of two-thirds of all the directors. The sections of such railroad within this state shall be considered a connected line, and the directors may reduce the capital specified to such amount as may be deemed proper, but not less than the amount required by law for the number of miles of railroad to be actually constructed in this state. (Rev., s. 2603; Code, s. 1984; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 47; C. S. 3474.)

Cross Reference.—As to amount of capital required by law, see § 60-9.

§ 60-75. Carriage must be according to public schedule.—Every railroad corporation shall start and run its cars for the transportation of passengers and property at regular times to be fixed by public notice, and shall furnish sufficient accommodation for the transportation of all such passengers and property as shall, within a reasonable time previous thereto, be offered for transportation at the place of starting and the junction of other railroads and at usual stopping places established for receiving and discharging way passengers and freights for that train, and shall take, transport and discharge such passengers and property at, from and to such places, on the due payment of the freight or fare legally authorized therefor, and shall be liable to the party aggrieved, in an action for damages, for any neglect or refusal in the premises. (Rev., s. 2611; Code, s. 1963; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 35; C. S. 3475.)

Cross References.—As to the powers of the utilities commission to prevent discrimination in transportation facilities, see § 62-56. As to rate regulation, see § 62-122 et seq.

Editor's Note.—Railroads are great public service corporations and are public agents in the sense that they are created for the purpose of transporting goods and passengers. In accepting the grant of rights and franchises from the state the railroad corporation impliedly assumes the duties of a common carrier. Because their functions are public they have no right to choose their passengers and customers but must under substantially similar conditions treat all those who seek transportation alike. This is a common law duty and is only reaffirmed in this section. It applies alike to individuals, receivers and trustees.

The carrier is not bound to accept every person as a passenger. It may make reasonable rules and regulations and require those who would become passengers to conform to such rules. Prima facie every person is entitled to be carried as a passenger but a railroad company may refuse to accept a person by showing that because of his condition or conduct, or even because of his character he is not a fit person to enter the train with other persons. See Elliott on Railroads, sections 1577 et seq.

Similarly, a railroad company is not bound to accept all freight that is offered it for transportation. It is only a common carrier as to those goods which are of the kind usually or professedly carried. Goods may properly be refused which are dangerous or which are in an unfit condition for transportation. See Elliott on Railroads, sec. 1466.

Reaffirmance of Common Law Rule.—The requirement to furnish accommodations within a reasonable time is but a reaffirmance of the common law (leaving the courts to say what time was reasonable). Alsop v. Southern Exp. Co., 104 N. C. 278, 285, 10 S. E. 297.

Duty to Provide Transportation.—It is the duty of a common carrier to provide sufficient means of transportation for all freight and passengers which its business naturally brings to it, and an unusual occasion by which a greater demand upon it is temporarily made will not relieve it of the obligation if, by the use of reasonable foresight, it could have been provided for. Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956.

When Contract of Carriage Begins. — The contract of carriage by a common carrier begins when a passenger comes upon the carrier's premises or conveyance with the purpose of buying a ticket, within a reasonable time or after having purchased a ticket; and the relation, once constituted, continues until the journey contracted for is concluded and the passenger has left or has had reasonable time to leave such premises. Hansley v. Jamesville, etc., R. Co., 115 N. C. 602, 20 S. E. 528.

Trains Need Not Stop at All Stations.—It is a reasonable regulation of the defendant that certain trains shall not stop at all stations, provided there are enough to serve the purposes of local travel. Hutchinson v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 123, 52 S. E. 263.

Schedule Is Offer.—Under this section, the printed schedule of trains is an offer, which is accepted by a person when he asks for a ticket, and he has the right to be transported by the first train stopping at his destination. Coleman v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 351, 50 S. E. 690.

Passenger on Baggage Car. — A person who gets on a blind baggage car, though having a ticket, but not having told the conductor that he had it, and the conductor not having seen it, is not entitled to recover as a passenger for injuries received by being pulled off the train by the conductor. McGraw v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 264, 47 S. E. 758.

Ticket Not Good on Particular Train. — It is the duty of the defendant to have an agent at the gate to examine the tickets and allow no one to get upon a train which does not stop at his destination. Not having done this, but having received the plaintiff into the train, without objection, with a ticket calling for a regular station, as her destination, and nothing on its face to show it was not good on that train, and she not knowing that that train did not stop there, it was the duty of the defendant to stop the train at that point for her. Hutchinson v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 123, 52 S. E. 263.

Where Conductor Fails to Return Ticket.—Where plaintiff purchased through transportation to a destination to reach which it was necessary to change, and the conductor on the first train neglected to return passenger's ticket, he having no money, and, when the conductor of the second train asked for his fare, vainly attempted to borrow from men who had been on the first train with him, it was negligence on the conductor's part not to have satisfied himself by inquiring of such men whether plaintiff had been on the train with them prior to reaching the changing point, before ejecting plaintiff. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 13, 86 S. E. 166.

Injury Caused by Misdirection of Agent. — The plaintiff, who missed his train by misdirection of the defendant's agent and his refusal to sell him a ticket, can recover for any injury proximately caused by being put out of the station into the cold weather while waiting for the next train. Coleman v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 351, 50 S. E. 690.

Ejected Passenger Has Right of Action.—Under this section a passenger, ejected from train of defendant road for failure to pay again fare which he had paid once upon purchasing ticket, has a right of action. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 13, 86 S. E. 166.

Same—Passenger Need Not Pay Additional Fare to Prevent Ejection. — Under this section where a passenger is about to be wrongfully ejected from a train, having paid his fare thereon, but being unable to produce his ticket, it is not incumbent on him, by paying money which the conductor has no right to exact, to avoid ejection from the train, as he is not required to buy again his right to remain on the train to his destination. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 13, 86 S. E. 166.

Duty to Stop Train at Passenger's Station.—A passenger on a railway train is entitled, as a matter of right, to have the train stop at a station to which he has purchased his ticket; and where his destination is a flag station at which the train fails to stop, attributable to the neglect of the conductor in failing to take up the passenger's ticket in time, the railroad company is answerable for the consequent damages. Elliott v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 166 N. C. 481, 82 S. E. 853.

Carrier under No Duty to Delay Trains.—A common carrier of passengers is under no obligation to delay the departure of its trains, or to look after the safety of persons who attempt to enter them, when they have been stopped long enough to allow passengers to embark and disembark; but it may be liable for injuries incurred by one who, by the invitation or command of persons in charge of the trains, attempt to get on or off while the cars are in motion. Browne v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 34, 12 S. E. 958.

Failure to Transport Passenger. — Where the plaintiff purchased a ticket from defendant's agent at a regular station before the time advertised for the arrival and departure of its trains at that place, and was in readiness to get aboard, but the train ran by, making no effort to stop, although it had room in its cars for plaintiff; the plaintiff was entitled to punitive damages, in the absence of sufficient excuse shown by the defendant. Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956.

Action May Be Brought in Tort or Contract.—A person who has sustained injuries by reason of the failure of a railroad company to provide proper means of transportation or operate its trains as required by this section may bring an action on contract, or in tort, independent of the statute. Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956.

Same—Damages.—If the tort is the result of simple negligence, damages will be restricted to such as are compensatory; but if it was willful, or committed with such circumstances as show gross negligence, punitive damages may be given. Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956.

Where a railroad company, negligently and by reason of defective and inadequate equipment, failed to carry a passenger to whom it had sold an excursion ticket back to its starting point, but no personal injury or indignity was inflicted upon him, the passenger's right of action is ex contractu and not in tort, and hence exemplary or punitive damages cannot be recovered. Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, which was overruled in Hansley v. Jamesville, etc., R. Co., 115 N. C. 602, 20 S. E. 528, is reinstated, but the ground of the judgment is changed. Hansley v. Jamesville, etc., R. Co., 117 N. C. 565, 23 S. E. 443, 32 L. R. A. 551, 53 A. S. R. 600.

If a train arrives after its schedule time, or misses connection, or delays a passenger at his destination after the schedule time, unless the delay is caused by no fault of the carrier, the passenger has a right to recover compensation for the loss of time and actual expenses. Coleman v. Southern R. Co., 138 N. C. 351, 50 S. E. 690.

Failure to Stop at Flag Station.—Where plaintiff went to a flag station on a railroad a reasonable time before the arrival of a train on which he intended to take passage and, by reason of absence of the agent and the failure of the engineer to see his signal, the train did not stop for him, the railroad is liable for the actual damages sustained by the plaintiff. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1005, 30 S. E. 343.

Same—Stepping Off Moving Train at Conductor's Suggestion.—Where a train on which plaintiff was a passenger, did not stop at the station to which he had paid his fare, and the conductor agreed that he would slow up the train at a safe place for plaintiff to alight the plaintiff consented to jump off and went upon the platform as the train slowed up, but seeing a "go ahead" signal from the rear, did not step for that reason; and then, feeling the increased motion of the train, he stepped off believing he was at a safe place and relying upon the conductor's promise to put him off at a safe place, and was injured, the evidence of the defendant's negligence was sufficient to be submitted to the jury. Cable v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 892, 29 S. E. 377.

Same—When Punitive Damages Allowed. — It is only when the railway engineer actually sees the signal of an intended passenger at a flag station and wilfully passes him by that punitive damages will be allowed in an action for damages, and the burden of showing the reckless disregard of plaintiff's rights is upon the latter. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1005, 30 S. E. 343.

Passenger Carried by Station.—Under this section when a passenger is carried by his station, he is entitled to damages, and this, though there is no bodily harm, or actual damages. If it is done recklessly or wilfully he is entitled to punitive damages. Hutchison v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 123, 52 S. E. 263, overruling Smith v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 130 N. C. 304, 41 S. E. 481.

Under the well settled rules of law, and plainly under this section a railroad company is liable for nominal damages for its negligence in failing to stop its train and conveying a passenger beyond the destination to which he had paid his fare, it being a regular station on the line. Cable v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 892, 29 S. E. 377.

Basis of Exemplary Damages.—The true ground for allowing exemplary damages in an action against a railroad company for damages on account of its negligence is personal injury, or (in the absence of personal injury) insult, indignity, contempt, etc., to which the law imputes bad motive towards the plaintiff. Hansley v. Jamesville, etc., R. Co., 117 N. C. 565, 23 S. E. 443.

Carrier May Demand Prepayment of Freight.—A common carrier has a right to demand the prepayment of charges for transportation before receiving freight for shipment to one individual, although it may have an established custom to accept shipments to its other patrons without such prepayment. Allen v. Cape Fear, etc., R. Co., 100 N. C. 397, 6 S. E. 105.

Same—May Demand It of Particular Shipper.—A common carrier may demand prepayment of freight charges before shipment to any station, and from one shipper, though not required of others. It should appear, however, that a plaintiff had notice of such regulation. Randall v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 612, 13 S. E. 137.

§ 60-76. Arrangement of cars in passenger trains.—In forming a passenger train, baggage, freight, merchandise or lumber cars shall not be placed in rear of the passenger cars, except in case of accident, or when the cars are provided with automatic couplers or brakes. If any officer or agent of a railroad company, in forming a passenger train, shall direct or knowingly suffer an arrangement of the cars different from the one herein provided for, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor: Provided, the criminal liability hereby imposed shall not apply to officers and agents of the Wilmington sea-coast railroad company. (Rev., ss. 2612, 3747; Code, s. 1971; 1871-2, c. 138; 1893, c. 331; 1895, c. 212; C. S. 3476.)

§ 60-77. Unauthorized manufacture or sale of switch-lock keys misdemeanor.—It shall be unlawful for any person to make, manufacture, sell or give away to any other person any duplicate key to any lock used by any railroad company in this state on its switches or switch tracks, except upon the written order of that officer of such railroad company whose duty it is to distribute and issue switch-lock keys to the employees of such railroad company. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1909, c. 795; C. S. 3477.)

§ 60-78. Willful injury to railroad property misdemeanor.—If any person shall willfully do or cause to be done any act or acts whatever whereby any building, construction or work of any railroad corporation, or any engine, machine or structure or any matter or thing appertain-ing to the same shall be stopped, obstructed, impaired, weakened, injured or destroyed, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3756; Code, s. 1974; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 39; C. S. 3478.)

Cross Reference.—As to injury to property of railroad, see also §§ 14-278 and 14-279.

§ 60-79. Headlights on locomotives on main lines.—Every company, corporation, lessee, manager or receiver owning or operating a railroad in this state is hereby required to equip and maintain and use upon every locomotive in operation in railroad service on main lines in this state an electric or power headlight of at least one thousand five hundred candlepower, measured without the aid of a reflector. This section shall not apply to locomotive engines regularly used in switching cars or trains, to locomotive engines used exclusively between sunup and sundown, and to locomotive engines going to and returning from repair shops when ordered in for repairs; neither shall this section apply to independently owned and operated railroad companies in this state whose mileage of road in this state is one hundred and twenty-five miles or less, nor to railroad companies having only lines extending into this state, no one of which is one hundred miles in length in this state. The utilities commission may relieve from the operation of this section such locomotives and roads, or parts or sections or branches of roads, upon which the said utilities commission may deem electric or power headlights not advisable. Should an engine start on a trip with the headlight in good working condition, and from some unavoidable cause such headlight becomes disabled and cannot be repaired on the line of the road on which such run is being made, there shall be nothing in this section to prevent such engine from continuing on its trip, and the railroad company shall not be liable for prosecution on account of such failure to repair. Any company, corporation, lessee, manager or receiver violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1909, c. 446; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3479.)

Proximate Cause of Death.—Evidence failing to show how deceased was killed, whether walking along railroad tracks or at platform, and showing that he was intoxicated at the time, does not show that the violation of this section was the proximate cause of death. Owens v. Southern Ry. Co., 33 F. (2d) 870.

Burden of Proof.—It is negligence for a railroad company not to equip its locomotives with electric headlights, with the burden on the company to plead and prove that it had one in use at the time complained of or that its use was excepted by the statute, when relevant to the inquiry, Barnes v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 168 N. C. 512, 84 S. E. 805, citing Powers v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 166 N. C. 599, 82 S. E. 972. But see McNeill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 167 N. C. 390, 83 S. E. 704.

§ 60-80: Repealed by Session Laws 1943, c. 543.

§ 60-81. Negligence presumed from killing livestock.—When any cattle or other livestock shall be killed or injured by the engine or cars running upon any railroad, it shall be prima facie evidence of negligence on the part of the railroad company in any action for damages against such company: Provided, that no person shall be allowed the benefit of this section unless he shall bring his action within six months after his cause of action shall have accrued. (Rev., s. 2645; Code, s. 2326; 1856-7, c. 7; C. S. 3482.)

Cross Reference.—As to venue of an action against a railroad, see § 1-81.

Editor's Note.—Several of the earlier cases notably Doggett v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 81 N. C. 459, and Durham v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 82 N. C. 352, stated that, where the facts are known and show there was no negligence on the part of the railroad, the presumption created by this section does not apply. But the language used by the Court in these cases is calculated to produce an erroneous impression and it would have been much more accurate to have said that the prima facie case here created is rebutted where the undisputed facts show there was no negligence on the part of the defendant, than to say the statute did not apply to such a case. There is no exception in the statute. It is in terms general and applies alike to all cases of killing stock by a railroad. The rule is thus stated in the later cases. See Hardison v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 120 N. C. 492, 494, 26 S. E. 630.

In some of the early decisions it was said that when livestock were injured by the engine or cars of a railroad company and an action thereon was brought within six months, this section raised a presumption of negligence and cast upon the defendant the burden of rebutting such presumption. Bethea v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 279, 10 S. E. 1045; Carlton v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 104 N. C. 365, 10 S. E. 516. But it is now the established rule, as settled by the later and prevailing cases, that "prima facie evidence of negligence" means no more than evidence sufficient to carry the case to the jury, and to justify, but not compel, a verdict as for a negligent wrong.

Plaintiff Must Prove Case.—Where a railroad train runs into, kills or injures livestock and turkeys of the owner along its tracks, and he brings his action for damages within the statutory six months, the prima facie case of negligence raised by the statute is sufficient to take the case to the jury, but does not change the burden of proving the issue of negligence from the plaintiff. Ferrell v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 190 N. C. 126, 129 S. E. 155.

Section Applies When Facts Known. — The presumption of negligence in killing live stock, when the action is brought within six months, applies where the facts were known. Hanford v. Southern R. Co., 167 N. C. 277, 279, 83 S. E. 470.

Applies When Stock under Control of Person. — The statutory presumption of negligence for killing live stock, when the action is brought within six months, is not rebutted by showing that the live stock were under the control of a person at the time. Randall v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 104 N. C. 410, 10 S. E. 691.

Same—When Horse Hitched to Buggy. — The statutory presumption of negligence of a railroad company in killing live stock, when the action is brought within six months, applies whether a horse, the subject of the action, was hitched to a buggy at the time or running at large. Hanford v. Southern R. Co., 167 N. C. 277, 83 S. E. 470.

Where it is proven or admitted that cattle had been killed by the train of a railroad company within six months before the action was brought, there is a presumption that the killing was caused by the negligence of such company, and this presumption arises from the fact of killing, where the animal is hitched to a wagon or cart, as well as where it is straying at large when killed. Randall v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 107 N. C. 748, 12 S. E. 605.

Does Not Apply to Fowls.—No presumption of negligence against a railroad company is raised by the mere fact of killing fowls, etc., upon its track in the operation of its trains. This section makes it prima facie evidence of negligence in respect only to "cattle and other live stock," which does not include "geese" or other fowl within its terms. James v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 166 N. C. 572, 82 S. E. 1026.

Same—Nor to Dogs.—The killing of a dog by a street railway is not prima facie evidence of negligence. Moore v. Charlotte Elect. R., etc., Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822.

Same—Nor When Horses Run into Trestle.—In an action against a railroad company for damages for injuries to horses, where the evidence showed that the horses were injured by running into a trestle, and that the train was 100 yards from the trestle when they were injured, and stopped 100 feet from the trestle this section does not apply. Ramsbottom v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 138 N. C. 38, 50 S. E. 448.

How Presumption Rebutted.—In an action against a railroad company for killing certain mules of the plaintiff, where negligence is established by force of this section, it can only be rebutted by showing that by the exercise of due diligence the stock could not have been seen in time to save them. Pippen v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 75 N. C. 54.

This rule can only be rebutted by showing that the agents of such railroad company used all proper precautions to guard against damage. It is not sufficient to prove that there was probably no negligence. Battle v. W. & W. Railroad, 66 N. C. 343.

Same—Presumption Not Repelled. — Where plaintiff's horse had been injured on a railroad by the running of a train against it, and it was doubtful from defendant's testimony whether the brakes had been applied to the wheels of the train after the animal was discovered to be on track, the prima facie case of negligence made by this section was not repelled. Clark v. Western North Carolina Railroad, 60 N. C. 109.

Same—Instructions. — Where the killing of stock by a railroad is admitted or proven, the trial judge may instruct the jury that a certain state of facts, if believed by them, would rebut the presumption of negligence, but not that certain evidence, though uncontradicted, would do so. Baker v. Roanoke, etc., R. Co., 133 N. C. 31, 45 S. E. 347.

When Owner Permits Cattle to Stray on Railroad Track. —If the owner of cattle permit them to stray off and get upon the track of a railroad and they are killed or hurt, the railroad company is not liable unless the train was being carelessly run, or by the exercise of proper care after the animals were discovered the injury could have been avoided or prevented. Doggett v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 81 N. C. 459.

Effect of Local Stock Law.—The prima facie evidence of negligence on the part of a railroad company in a suit for damages for killing stock is not impaired by a local act requiring stock to be fenced in, but the defendant must repel the presumption by satisfactory proof to the jury. Roberts v Richmond, etc., R. Co., 88 N. C. 560.

No Duty to Cut Down Weeds.—A railroad company is not negligent in failing to cut down bushes or weeds on the right-of-way beyond the portion over which it is exercising actual control for corporate purposes, though a horse is killed as a result of the engineer's inability to see him on account of the weeds. Ward v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 358, 13 S. E. 926.

Measure of Damages.—The measure of damages when a cow is killed by a train is the difference in the value of the cow and that of the beef. Roberts v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 88 N. C. 560.

When Judge May Direct Verdict.—This section applies to all cases of killing stock by a railroad and while the presumption of negligence arising from the killing may be rebutted, it is only where the undisputed facts show there was no negligence that the trial judge should direct a verdict for the defendant. Hardison v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 120 N. C. 492, 26 S. E. 630.

Defendant Not Entitled to Nonsuit. — Where a plaintiff makes a prima facie case by suing for the killing of a cow within six months, the defendant is not entitled to nonsuit on the ground that such prima facie case is rebutted by the evidence of the defendant. Davis v. Railroad Co., 134 N. C. 300, 46 S. E. 515.

Applied in Aycock v. W. & W. R. Road Co., 51 N. C. 231; Wilson v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 90 N. C. 69; Snowden v. Norfolk, etc., Railroad, 95 N. C. 93; Carlton v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 104 N. C. 365, 10 S. E. 516.

Cited in State v. Divine, 98 N. C. 778, 4 S. E. 477; Cable v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 892, 897, 29 S. E. 377.

Art. 10. Railroad and Other Company Police.

§ 60-82. Railway conductors and station agents declared special police.—All passenger conductors of railroad trains and station or depot agents are hereby declared to be special police of the state of North Carolina, with full power and authority to make arrests for offenses committed in their presence or view, or for felony, or on sworn complaint for misdemeanor, except that the conductors shall have such power only on board of their respective trains or their railroad right of way, and the agents at their respective stations; and such conductors and agents may cause any person so arrested by them to be detained and delivered to the proper authority for trial as soon as possible. Nothing contained in the provisions of this section shall have the effect to relieve any such railroad company from any civil liability now existing by statute or under the common law for the act or acts of such conductors, station or depot agents, in unlawfully exercising or attempting to exercise the powers herein conferred. (1907, c. 470, ss. 3, 4; C. S. 3483.)

Editor's Note.—For article discussing arrest without a warrant, see 15 N. C. Law Rev. 101.

Conductor Has Power of Peace Officer.—A conductor on a railroad passenger train is held to a high degree of care in looking after and protecting passengers on his train, and he is clothed, to some extent, with the powers of a peace officer. Brown v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 161 N. C. 573, 77 S. E. 777.

§ 60-83. Governor may appoint and commission police for railroad, etc., companies; civil liability of companies.—Any corporation operating a railroad on which steam or electricity is used as the motive power or any electric or water-power company or construction company or manufacturing company or motor vehicle carrier may apply to the governor to commission such persons as the corporation or company may designate to act as policemen for it. The governor upon such application may appoint such persons or so many of them as he may deem proper to be such policemen, and shall issue to the persons so appointed a commission to act as such policemen. Nothing contained in the provisions of this section shall have the effect to relieve any such company from any civil liability now existing by statute or under the common law for the act or acts of such policemen, in exercising or attempting to exercise the powers conferred by this section. (Rev., ss. 2605, 2606; Code, ss. 1988, 1989; 1871-2, c. 138, ss. 51, 52; 1907, c. 128, s. 1; 1923, c. 23; 1933, c. 61; 1943, c. 676, ss. 1, 4; C. S. 3484.)

Cross Reference.—As to venue of an action against a railroad, see § 1-81.

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by Public Laws 1923, ch. 23, so as to include manufacturing companies.

Public Laws 1933, c. 61, added the last sentence of the section. The act further provided that causes of action existing February 16, 1933, should not be affected thereby.

The 1943 amendment made this section applicable to motor vehicle carriers. It also struck out the word "railroad" before the word "company" in the third sentence.

A railroad policeman appointed pursuant to this section, is prima facie a public officer, but the question of whether a particular act is done as an employee of the railroad company or as a public officer is a question to be determined from the nature of the act, whether it relates to vindication and enforcement of public justice or whether it is in the scope of duties owed to the company by reason of employment. Tate v. Southern Ry. Co., 205 N. C. 51, 169 S. E. 816.

Cited in Stanley v. Southern R. Co., 160 N. C. 323, 76 S. E. 221.

§ 60-84. Oath, bond, and powers of company police.—Every policeman so appointed shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe the usual oath. Such oath, with a copy of the commission, shall be filed with the utilities commission, and such policemen shall severally possess within the limits of each county in which the railroad or motor vehicle carrier for which such policemen are appointed may run or in which the company may be engaged in work or business all the powers of policemen in the several towns, cities and villages in any such county: Provided, that every policeman appointed under this and § 60-83 shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, enter into bond in the sum of five hundred dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, with good and sufficient surety, to be passed upon and accepted by and filed with the utilities commission. (Rev., s. 2607; Code, s. 1990; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 53; 1907, c. 128, s. 2; 1907, c. 462; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; 1943, c. 676, s. 2; C. S. 3485.)

Cross Reference.—As to the oath required, see § 11-11.

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote portions of this section appearing before the proviso.

§ 60-85. Company police to wear badges.—Such railroad police shall, when on duty, severally wear a metallic shield with the words "Railway Police" and the name of the corporation for which appointed inscribed thereon, and this shield shall always be worn in plain view except when such police are employed as detectives. (Rev., s. 2608; Code, s. 1991; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 54; C. S. 3486.)

Cross Reference.—As to badges of conductor and certain other railroad employees, see § 60-3.

§ 60-86. Compensation of company police.—The compensation of such police shall be paid by the companies for which the policemen are respectively appointed, as may be agreed on between them. (Rev., s. 2609; Code, s. 1992; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 55; C. S. 3487.)

§ 60-87. Police powers cease on company's filing notice.—Whenever any company shall no longer require the services of any policeman so appointed as aforesaid, it may file a notice to that effect in the office of the governor and the office of the utilities commission and thereupon the power of such officer shall cease and determine. (Rev., s. 2610; Code, s. 1993; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 56; 1943, c. 676, s. 3; C. S. 3488.)

Editor's Note. — The 1943 amendment substituted the words "office of the governor and the office of the utilities commission" for the words "several offices in which notice of such appointment was originally filed."

Art. 11. Joint Rates.

§ 60-88. Carriers permitted to establish joint rates. — Any operating railroad company is authorized and directed to enter into arrangements for the establishment of joint rates and through routes with common carriers by water and with other such railroad companies for the transportation of persons and/or property transported wholly within the State of North Carolina by such carrier by water and such railroad company. (1931, c. 195.)

Art. 12. Carriage of Passengers.

§ 60-89. Railroad passenger rates established.—No railroad company doing business as a common carrier of passengers in the state of North Carolina shall, except as herein provided, charge, demand or receive for transporting any passenger and his or her baggage, not exceeding in weight two hundred pounds, from any station on its railroad in North Carolina to any other station on its road in North Carolina, a rate in excess of three cents per mile: Provided, however, that independently owned and operated railroad companies in North Carolina whose mileage of road in this state is one hundred miles or less may charge a rate twenty per cent higher than the rate above specified; but this proviso shall not extend to branch lines of railroad companies controlling over one hundred miles of road, whether chartered in or out of the state: Provided further, this section shall not apply to railroads hereafter built less than fifty miles in length. For transporting children under twelve years and over five years old, one-half of the rate above prescribed may be charged. For transporting children under five years old, accompanied by any person paying fare, no charge whatever shall be made. Where the amount of the ticket at the prescribed rate would amount to any figure between two multiples of five, the price of the ticket shall be the multiple of five which is nearest the price of the ticket at the rate above mentioned; or, in the event that the amount is equidistant between the multiples of five, the price charged for the ticket shall be on the basis of the higher of those two multiples of five. No charge less than ten cents shall be required. A charge of fifteen cents may be added to the fare of any passenger when the same is paid on the train, if the ticket might have been procured within a reasonable time before the departure of the train. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 51, s. 1; C. S. 3489.)

Cross References.—As to free carriage, see § 62-134. As to rate regulation in general, see § 62-122 et seq. As to passenger's baggage, see § 60-119. As to duty of the railroad to file rates with the utilities commission, see § 62-68.

Editor's Note.—Formerly the maximum charge allowed by this section was two and one-half cents per mile. This section was amended by Public Laws 1920, Ex. Sess., ch. 51, sec. 1, and the maximum rate allowed raised to three cents per mile. At the same time the proviso allowing a twenty per cent higher rate for railroads less than one hundred miles in length was added.

Federal Control of Rates.—The provisions of this section apply only to fixing rates for intrastate carriers, and cannot be applied to interstate carriers, as control of the rates charged by the latter is vested in the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Interstate Commerce Commission in fixing rates cannot by their order fix rates between points that are remotely internal and from which no prejudice to interstate commerce can arise. But it can fix rates on intrastate carriers where such rate as fixed by the State is a discrimination against interstate or foreign commerce. See R. R. Comm. v. C. B. & Q. R. R. Co., 257 U. S. 563, 66 L. Ed. 236, 42 S. Ct. 232.

Right to Put Off Child on Train with Parent.—Where a conductor has taken up the ticket of a person traveling with his child for whom a half ticket is required, but has not been purchased, and who is unable to pay the fare of the child with the extra fare allowed when a ticket has not been regularly purchased, his right to put the child off the train is dependent upon the return of the ticket he has collected from the father, or its equivalent. Landford v. Southern R. Co., 165 N. C. 653, 81 S. E. 998.

§ 60-90. Rates on leased or controlled lines.—In the case that any railroad company operating as a common carrier of passengers in the state of North Carolina is owned, controlled or operated by lease or other agreement by any other railroad company doing business in the state, the rate for carrying passengers thereon shall be determined for such railroad company by the rate prescribed by § 60-89 for the railroad company which owns, controls or operates the same. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 2; C. S. 3490.)

§ 60-91. Violations of passenger rates misdemeanor.—Any railroad company violating any of the provisions of §§ 60-89 and 60-90, or counseling, ordering or directing any employee, agent or servant to violate any of such provisions, by charging, demanding or receiving any rate greater than that fixed by such sections, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars; and any agent, servant or employee of any railroad company who shall violate either § 60-89 or § 60-90 shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 3; C. S. 3491.)

Cross References.—As to charging unreasonable freight rates, see § 60-115. As to free carriage, see § 62-134.

§ 60-92. Accepting or giving free transportation illegally misdemeanor.—Any persons, except those permitted by law, who accept free transportation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court; and any railroad, or its employees or agents, giving free transportation of any kind whatsoever, except that permitted by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than two thousand dollars for each offense. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 4; C. S. 3492.)

Cross Reference.—As to persons entitled to free carriage, see §§ 62-133 and 62-134.

Editor's Note.—For cases arising previous to the enactment of this section see State v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1052, 30 S. E. 133; McNeill v. Railroad Co., 135 N. C. 682, 47 S. E. 765.

§ 60-93. Powers of utilities commission over rates limited.—The utilities commission shall have no power to change, alter, modify or in any way affect the enforcement or operation of any of the provisions of the preceding sections of this article, except as the same shall be therein specifically authorized, or the enforcement of any penalties for violating the provisions thereof. (Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 144, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3493.)

Cross Reference.—As to regulation of rates by the utilities commission, see § 62-122 et seq.

§ 60-94. Separate accommodations for different races.—All railroad and steamboat companies engaged as common carriers in the transportation of passengers for hire, other than street railways, shall provide separate but equal accommodations for the white and colored races at passenger stations or waiting-rooms, and also on all trains and steamboats carrying passengers. Such accommodations may be furnished by railroad companies either by separate passenger cars or by compartments in passenger cars, which shall be provided by the railroads under the supervision and direction of the utilities commission: Provided, that this shall not apply to relief trains in cases of accident, to Pullman or sleeping cars, or through express trains that do not stop at all stations and are not used ordinarily for traveling from station to station, to negro servants in attendance on their employers, to officers or guards transporting prisoners, nor to prisoners so transported. (Rev., s. 2619; 1899, c. 384; 1901, c. 213; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3494.)

Cross References.—As to duty of utilities commission to require separate waiting rooms, see § 62-44. As to separation of races by motor carriers, see § 62-109; by street interurban and suburban railways, see § 60-135.

Conductor Directing White Passengers to Colored Coach.—When a railroad company has furnished equal and separate accommodations on its train for the white and colored races, no penalties may be recovered by reason of the conductor merely directing a few white passengers to take the coach set apart for the colored people. Merritt v. Atlantic Coast Line R., 152 N. C. 281, 67 S. E. 579.

Sheriff with Colored Prisoner.—Where the conductor of a train requires a white sheriff to go into the coach provided for colored people with a colored prisoner in his custody, traveling with him on the train, without any evidence that he did so in a harsh or abusive manner, or that the accommodations furnished were unequal to those of the other coach, damages sought by the sheriff will be denied as a matter of law. Huff v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 171 N. C. 203, 88 S. E. 344.

Power of Corporation Commission to Require Bus Lines to Provide Equal Separate Accommodations for Races.—The Corporation Commission is given plenary power by statute to require bus lines operating between points within the State in carrying passengers for hire, which are public-service corporations, to provide indiscriminatory separate accommodations for the carriage of white and negro passengers, and for their separate accommodations at the bus stations, the working out of the plans or details for the purpose being vested largely within the discretion of the Commission, and where this is done without racial discrimination it is not objectionable as being in contravention of Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Federal Constitution. Hotels, theatres, etc., distinguished from public-service corporations, and the policy of our State with regard to the equal treatment of the negro race discussed by Mr. Justice Clarkson. Corporation Commission v. Transportation Committee, 198 N. C. 317, 151 S. E. 648.

§ 60-95. Certain carriers may be exempted from requirement.—The utilities commission is hereby authorized to exempt from the provisions of § 60-94 steamboats, branch lines and narrow-gauge railroads and mixed trains carrying both freight and passengers, if in its judgment the enforcement of the same be unnecessary to secure the comfort of passengers by reason of the light volume of passenger traffic, or the small number of colored passenger travelers on such steamboats, narrow-guage railroads, branch lines or mixed trains. (Rev., s. 2620; 1899, c. 384, s. 2; 1901, c. 213; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3495.)

§ 60-96. Use of same coach in emergencies.—When any coach or compartment car for either race shall be completely filled at a station where no extra coach or car can be had, and the increased number of passengers could not be foreseen, the conductor in charge of such train may assign and set apart a portion of a car or compartment assigned for passengers of one race to passengers of the other race. (Rev., s. 2621; 1899, c. 384, s. 3; C. S. 3496.)

§ 60-97. Penalty for failing to provide separate coaches.—Any railroad or steamboat company failing to comply in good faith with the provisions of §§ 60-94 to 60-96 shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars per day, to be recovered in an action brought against such company by any passenger on any train or boat of any railroad or steamboat company which is required by this chapter to furnish separate accommodations to the races, who has been furnished accommodations on such railroad train or steamboat only in a car or compartment with a person of a different race in violation of law. (Rev., s. 2622; 1899, c. 384, s. 5; C. S. 3497.)

§ 60-98. Exceptions to requirement of separate coaches and toilets.—As to trains consisting of not more than one passenger car unit, operated principally for the accommodation of local travel, although operated both intrastate and interstate and irrespective of the motive power used, the utilities commission is authorized to make such rules and regulations for the separation of the races and with regard to toilet facilities as in its best judgment may be feasible and reasonable in the circumstances, and the rules and regulations established pursuant to this authority shall be exceptions to the provisions of §§ 60-94 and 60-107. (1935, c. 270; 1941, c. 97, s. 5.)

§ 60-99. Unused tickets to be redeemed.—When any round-trip ticket is sold by a railroad or other transportation company, it shall be the duty of such company to redeem the unused portion of said ticket by allowing to the holder thereof the difference between the cost thereof and the price of a one-way ticket between the stations for which such round-trip ticket was sold. Whenever any one-way or regular ticket is sold by a railroad or other transportation company, and not used by the purchaser, it shall be the duty of the company selling the ticket to redeem it at the price paid for it. All railroad and other transportation companies shall redeem in money all mileage tickets known as five-hundred, thousand and two-thousand mile tickets, sold by them, if presented within a year from the date of the sale, when as much as fifty per centum of such ticket has been used by the purchaser, by paying the same price per mile paid for it, or shall allow the original holder to ride it out. (Rev., s. 2627; 1891, c. 290; 1893, c. 249; 1895, c. 83, ss. 2, 3; 1897, c. 418; C. S. 3503.)

§ 60-100. Ticket may be refused intoxicated person; prohibited entry misdemeanor. — The ticket agent of any railroad, steamboat or other transportation company shall at all times have power to refuse to sell a ticket to any person applying for the same who may at the time be intoxicated. The conductor, captain or other person in charge of any railroad car, steamboat or other conveyance for the use of the traveling public shall at all times have power to prevent any intoxicated person from entering such car, boat or other conveyance. If any intoxicated person, after being forbidden by the conductor, captain or other person having charge of any such railroad train, steamboat or other conveyance for the use of the traveling public, shall enter such train, boat or other conveyance, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., ss. 2625, 2626, 3757; 1885, c. 358, ss. 1, 2, 3; C. S. 3504.)

Cross References.—As to public drinking on railway passenger cars, see § 14-333. As to sale of whiskey on railroad cars, see § 18-70.

When Exemplary Damages Allowed.—In an action for damages for refusal to allow a person with a ticket to board a train because he was intoxicated, exemplary damages will be allowed if such refusal was made with malice, undue force, or insult. Story v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 133 N. C. 59, 45 S. E. 349.

§ 60-101. Entering cars after being forbidden misdemeanor.—No person shall enter any railroad passenger car, baggage car, mail car or caboose car, or go upon the platform of such cars, after being forbidden so to do by the conductor, his assistants, the baggage-master or other person in charge of such cars, unless the person enter such cars or go upon such platforms as a passenger or in some official capacity authorized by law, or on business with a passenger or some official or employee of the railroad, or for some other like purpose. Any person violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding ten dollars. (Rev., s. 3752; Code, s. 1979; 1883, c. 351; C. S. 3505.)

Cross References.—As to breaking into or entering railroad cars with felonious intent, see § 14-56. As to train robbery, see §§ 14-88 and 14-89.

§ 60-102. Riding in first-class cabin with second-class ticket misdemeanor.—If any passenger purchasing or holding a second-class ticket, after being requested or directed by any captain or other officer in charge of any steamboat in this state, riding in any first-class cabin, refuses to pay the difference between a first-class and a second-class fare or rate, or refuses to go into the second-class cabin, when there shall be a comfortable second-class cabin on such steamboat, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Any justice of the peace in the county where such offense is committed shall have jurisdiction of the offense, upon sworn complaint of any officer of such steamboat company. (Rev., s. 3761; 1903, c. 795; C. S. 3506.)

§ 60-103. Passenger refusing to pay fare and violating rules may be ejected.—If any passenger shall refuse to pay his fare, or violate the rules of a railroad corporation, it shall be lawful for the conductor of the train and servants of the corporation to put him and his baggage out of the cars, using no unnecessary force, at any usual stopping place or near any dwelling house, as the conductor shall elect, on stopping the train. (Rev., s. 2629; Code, s. 1962; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 34; C. S. 3507.)

Permission to Ride in Express Car. — Where a party shipped horses by express with an agreement that he should ride in the same car he cannot ride in the passenger coach without paying his fare. Teeter v. Southern Exp. Co., 172 N. C. 616, 90 S. E. 761.

Ejecting Person on Baggage Car.—A person who gets on a blind baggage car, though having a ticket, but not having told the conductor that he had it, and the conductor not having seen it, is not entitled to recover as a passenger for injuries received by being pulled off the train by the conductor. McGraw v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 264, 47 S. E. 758.

Mileage Book Holder Must Comply with Terms. — The holder of a mileage book must comply with its terms if reasonable opportunity is given, as he may be ejected. McNairy v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 172 N. C. 505, 90 S. E. 497; Mason v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 159 N. C. 183, 75 S. E. 25.

Ejection of Party Refusing to Show Mileage Book.—When a purchaser of a mileage book from a railroad company is riding on an exchange ticket, and refuses, without excuse, to show his mileage book, in connection with the ticket, to the conductor on the train, he is not regarded as a passenger, and the conductor has the right to eject him from the train. Mason v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 159 N. C. 183, 75 S. E. 25.

Evidence of Drunkenness Inadmissible.—In an action for wrongful ejection from a train, evidence of drunkenness of plaintiff is not admissible, where the answer simply denies the wrongful ejection alleged in the complaint. Raynor v. Wilmington Seacoast R. Co., 129 N. C. 195, 39 S. E. 821.

Ejection by Failure of Conductor to Return Ticket. — Where the conductor failed to return ticket to passenger to be used on another train, and the passenger was ejected therefrom for lack of the ticket, the railroad is liable for all damages attending the ejection. Sawyer v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 171 N. C. 13, 86 S. E. 166.

How Conductor May Eject Passenger.—The conductor of a railroad train is authorized to expel without using unnecessary force one who refuses to pay regular fare, at any point where he may safely get off provided it be "at any usual stopping place or near any dwelling house, as the conductor shall elect, on stopping the train"; and provided further that the ejected person is not willfully and wantonly exposed to danger of life or limb. Roseman v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 112 N. C. 709, 16 S. E. 766.

Person Must Be Ejected Near Station or House. — The railroad company owed a duty to plaintiff ejected from its train to put her off the train at a suitable and proper place, either at a station or near a house, even though she had not been rightfully a passenger. Bullock v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 66, 67 S. E. 60.

Flag Station Not a Usual Stopping Place.—A place along a railroad company's track is not a usual stopping place within the meaning of this section when it is merely a flag station without shelter, and the nearest dwelling three-quarters of a mile away; and where one traveling on the train has been put off at such place at 9 o'clock in the night for failure to exchange his mileage for a ticket, and was informed by the conductor that it was "a rather poor place to spend the night," it does not preclude his recovery, for the company's violation of the statute, that he again boarded the train and complied with the conductor's demand in paying the additional charge required of those who have no ticket. McNairy v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 172 N. C. 505, 90 S. E. 497.

Carrier Not Liable for Unusual Results. — A conductor requiring an intoxicated man to leave the train for nonpayment of fare does not render the carrier liable for the death of the man from exposure, where the conductor did not have reasonable ground to believe that the man was unable to find his way or walk to the nearest house or to the railroad station, or even to his own father's house, which was not far away. Roseman v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 112 N. C. 709, 16 S. E. 766.

Reliance on Agent's Statements.—The purchaser of a ticket may rely upon the statements of the railroad agent as to trains, connection, validity of ticket, etc., and if the passenger is ejected as a result of the agent's mistake the railroad is liable. Creech v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 174 N. C. 61, 93 S. E. 453; Hallman v. Southern R. Co., 169 N. C. 127, 130, 85 S. E. 298.

§ 60-104. Beating way on trains misdemeanor; venue.—If any person, other than a railroad employee in the discharge of his duty, without authority from the conductor of the train or by permission of the engineer, and with the intention of being transported free and without paying the usual fare for such transportation, rides or attempts to ride on top of any car, coach, engine or tender, on any railroad in this state, or on the draw-heads between cars, or under cars, on truss rods, or trucks, or in any freight car, or on a platform of any baggage car, express car or mail car on any train, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. Any person charged with a violation of this section may be tried in any county in this state through which such train may pass carrying such person, or in any county in which such violation may have occurred or may be discovered. (Rev., s. 3748; 1899, c. 625; 1905, c. 32; C. S. 3508.)

Effect on Liability of Insurance Co.—A policy of accident insurance that excepts from the company's full liability diseases contracted before the date of the policy, "nor for sickness due to immorality or the violation of law," does not of itself exclude such liability for an injury caused by the plaintiff stealing a ride on a railway train, made a misdemeanor by this section, unless the plaintiff's act was so reckless as to withdraw it from the class of accidents covered by the policy. Poole v. Imperial Mut. Life, etc., Co., 188 N. C. 468, 125 S. E. 8.

§ 60-105. Injury while on platform or in other prohibited places.—In case any passenger on any railroad shall be injured while on the platform of a car or on any baggage, wood or freight car, in violation of the printed regulations of the company posted up at the time in a conspicuous place inside its passengers cars then in the train, such company shall not be liable for the injury: Provided, such company at the time furnish room inside its passenger cars sufficient for the proper accommodation of its passengers. (Rev., s. 2628; Code, s. 1978; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 42; C. S. 3509.)

Cross Reference.—As to injury while riding on platform of street car, see § 60-140.

Effect of Posting Notice.—When this section has been complied with, a rule of a railroad company prohibiting passengers from going on the platform while the train is in motion is given the force and effect of a state law, barring a recovery for injuries sustained under such circumstances. Shaw v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 143 N. C. 312, 55 S. E. 713.

Notice Need Be Only in English.—This section requires only that the notice to be placed by a railroad company in its coach, relieving the company from liability to a passenger injured while riding on the platform, etc., shall be in English, and the fact that such passenger cannot read that language is immaterial. Bane v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 176 N. C. 247, 97 S. E. 11.

Riding on Platform Prima Facie Negligence. — It is prima facie negligence for a passenger to voluntarily ride on the platform of a rapidly moving train. Wagner v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 147 N. C. 315, 61 S. E. 171.

Same—Not Applicable When Passenger Alighting.—This section is for the protection of passengers and should be reasonably construed, and has no application when the injury complained of has been received as the passenger was alighting at a regular station after the train had stopped for that purpose, though he may have ridden in violation of the statute before the train had stopped. Kearney v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 158 N. C. 521, 74 S. E. 593.

Same—When Getting on. — One who is on the passenger platform of a railroad company at its station with the purpose of becoming a passenger on its expected train is entitled to the protection due a passenger from dangerous conditions and usages there. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 173 N. C. 494, 92 S. E. 321.

Cited in Roberson v. Carolina Taxi Service, 214 N. C. 624, 200 S. E. 363.

§ 60-106. Checking baggage; liability for loss.—A check shall be affixed to every parcel of baggage when taken for transportation by the agent or servant of any railroad corporation, if there is a handle, loop or fixture so that the same can be attached upon the parcel or baggage so offered for transportation, and a duplicate thereof given to the passenger or person delivering the same on his behalf; and if such check be refused on demand, the corporation shall pay to such passenger the sum of ten dollars, to be recovered in a civil action; and further, no fare or toll shall be collected or received from such passenger, and if such passenger shall have paid his fare the same shall be refunded by the conductor in charge of the train, and on producing the check, if his baggage shall not be delivered to him, he may, by an action, recover the value of such trunk or baggage. (Rev., s. 2623; Code, s. 1970; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 36; C. S. 3510.)

§ 60-107. Cars and toilets to be kept clean.—Every person or railroad company, whether incorporated or not, engaged in the regular business of carrying passengers on his or its railroad cars in this state, shall have such cars cleaned, brushed, dusted and the windows washed, if needed, at least once each day, and shall in each car, in which male and female passengers are carried, have therein a toilet-room for each sex, and have the same kept clean and decent. Any person or corporation engaged in the business aforesaid who shall willfully or negligently fail or refuse to give orders to his or its agent in charge of such cars to comply with the requirements of this section, shall forfeit twenty dollars for each day of such failure or refusal, to be recovered by any person suing therefor. (1907, c. 474, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 3511.)

Cross Reference.—As to exception to this section, see § 60-98.

§ 60-108. Evidence of failure to order cleaning of cars; violation of orders misdemeanor.—The willful or negligent refusal or the failure on the part of the conductor or manager of any passenger car named in § 60-107 to comply with such section shall be received as evidence of failure or refusal of such person or railroad company to give the orders therein provided for. Moreover, such conductor or manager shall be guilty of a misdemeanor if he fail or refuse to carry out such orders of the persons or company mentioned in the said section. (1907, c. 474, s. 3; C. S. 3512.)

§ 60-109. Surcharge on Pullman car transportation.—It shall be unlawful for any railroad or Pullman car company doing business in North Carolina to collect from any person within the boundaries of North Carolina any surtax or surcharge for Pullman car transportation from one point to any other point within the bounds of the state of North Carolina; but nothing in this section shall be construed to affect in any way the charge which any railroad or Pullman car company may require for transportation on interstate travel. (1923, c. 147; C. S. 3512(a).)

Editor's Note.—It was said in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 305, that the power exercised in this section is clearly within the power of the state, and has been observed by carriers since its passage.

Art. 13. Carriage of Freight.

§ 60-110. No charge in excess of printed tariffs; refunding overcharge; penalty.—No railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company engaged in the carriage of freight and no telegraph company or telephone company shall demand, collect or receive for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of property or transmission of messages more than the rates appearing in the printed tariff of such company in force at the time such service is rendered, or more than is allowed by law. In case of any overcharge, contrary to the provisions of this section, the person aggrieved may file with any agent of the company collecting or receiving greater compensation than the amount allowed a written demand, supported by a paid freight bill and an original bill of lading or duplicate thereof for refund of overcharge, and a maximum period of sixty days shall be allowed such company to pay claims filed under this section. Any company failing to refund such overcharge within the time allowed shall forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of twenty-five dollars for the first day and five dollars per day for each day's delay thereafter until said over charge is paid, together with all costs incurred by the party aggrieved: Provided, the total forfeiture shall not exceed one hundred dollars. (Rev., ss. 2642, 2643, 2644; 1903, c. 590, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 3514.)

Cross References.—As to power of the utilities commission to fix rates generally, see § 62-122. As to railroad freight rates, see § 62-135 et seq. As to action for double of overcharge in railroad freight rates, see § 62-138. As to venue of an action against a railroad, see § 1-81. As to schedule of rates as evidence, see § 62-132. As to long and short hauls, see § 62-128. As to contracts as to rates, see § 62-129. As to duty to file schedule of rates with the utilities commission, see § 62-68.

Constitutionality of Section.—This section is not unconstitutional as in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, or the Commerce Clause of said Constitution, and the acts passed in pursuance thereof. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 59 S. E. 355; Iron Works v. Southern R. Co., 148 N. C. 469, 62 S. E. 595; Hardware Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 170 N. C. 395, 86 S. E. 1025.

Not Applicable to Interstate Shipment.—Under the Interstate Commerce Act, as amended, Congress, in the exercise of the constitutional powers conferred on it, has taken entire control of rates upon interstate shipments of goods, and this section is inoperative, as to such shipments. Hdw. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 170 N. C. 395, 86 S. E. 1025.

For earlier cases holding contra, see Macon County Supply Co. v. Tallulah Falls R. Co., 166 N. C. 82, 82 S. E. 13; Thurston v. Southern R. Co., 165 N. C. 598, 81 S. E. 785.

Burden of Proof.—The burden is upon the plaintiff to show that a freight rate charged and collected by the carrier on an interstate shipment was in excess of its tariff required of the carrier to be published, when he seeks to recover this excess and the State statutory penalty; and where the shipment has been routed over one line of connecting carriers and the tariff filed by the carrier over another route is shown, it affords no evidence as to the rate of the actual route of the shipment, and, in the absence of further evidence, a judgment as of nonsuit should be granted. Hdw. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 170 N. C. 395, 86 S. E. 1025.

Penalty Enforceable though Charges Small.—The penalty fixed by this section to enforce the duty of the carrier in regard to proper charges for transporting freight and refund of overcharges, and which cannot in any event exceed $100, is enforceable for a default established against defendant, though the particular transportation charges may appear disproportionately small. It is on failure to return small amounts wrongfully overcharged that penalties are especially required. In large matters the claimant can better afford the cost of litigation. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 129, 59 S. E. 359.

Rates Need Not Be Same for Both Directions.—In shipments to a great distance, special circumstances, such as flow of traffic, may justify a higher rate between two points in one direction than in the opposite; and in an action for the recovery of the penalty under this section, it is error for the judge below in effect to charge the jury that such tariff rate published between the two points for freight moving in an opposite direction to that of the shipment in question was conclusive, and that they should be governed in their verdict as to the overcharge accordingly. Scull & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 180, 56 S. E. 876.

Agent as Party Aggrieved.—Where under agreement with his principal the agent of a manufacturer is obligated to pay the freight charges on shipments made to him, and upon demand of the carrier he has paid its unlawful charges on a shipment, he is the party aggrieved, and may maintain his action to recover the excess, and also the penalty when settlement has not been made within sixty days, when he has filed written demand supported by the original freight bill and the original or duplicate bill of lading, etc. Tilley v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 363, 90 S. E. 309.

Freight Charge on Undelivered Shipment.—Where the defendant collected freight charges for an entire shipment, as invoiced and originally billed, and the sum of 96 cents was paid as freight on that part of the shipment which was "short" and not delivered, this was an overcharge, and failure to refund such overcharge after the 60 days allowed for investigation rendered the defendant liable for the penalty denounced by this section. Cottrell v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 141 N. C. 383, 54 S. E. 288.

What Demand Must Specify.—Where the carrier has demanded and received an unlawful freight charge for a shipment, and the party aggrieved has made written demand of the carrier for payment of the overcharge, required by the statute, it is not necessary, in order to maintain an action for the penalty imposed upon the carrier failing to settle in sixty days, that the written demand specify the penalty, or that demand therefor was made in the justice's court or alleged in the complaint filed on appeal therefrom. Tilley v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 363, 90 S. E. 309.

Same—Separate Demand in Same Envelope.—The mere fact that the plaintiff, inclosed separate written demands in the same envelope and gave an aggregate amount thereof in a letter accompanying them, does not affect the demands being specific, when the overcharges were separate and distinct, the demand made specifically as to each, accompanied separately with the paid freight bill and duplicate bill of lading, and each demand was complete in itself; and such is a compliance with the provisions of this section. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 129, 59 S. E. 359.

§ 60-111. Penalty for failure to receive and forward freight tendered.—Agents or other officers of railroad and other transportation companies whose duty it is to receive freights shall receive all articles of the nature and kind received by such company for transportation whenever tendered at a regular depot, station, wharf or boat landing, and every loaded car tendered at a sidetrack, or any warehouse connected with the railroad by a siding, and shall forward the same by the route selected by the person tendering the freight under existing laws; and the transportation company represented by any person refusing to receive such freight shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved the sum of fifty dollars for each day such company refuses to receive such shipment of freight, and all damages actually sustained by reason of the refusal to receive freight. If such loaded car be tendered at any siding or warehouse at which there is no agent, notice shall be given to an agent at the nearest regular station at which there is an agent that such car is loaded and ready for shipment. (Rev., s. 2631; Code, s. 1964; 1903, cc. 444, 693; C. S. 3515.)

Cross References.—As to power of utilities commission to prevent discrimination, see § 62-56. As to venue of an action against a railroad, see § 1-81. As to the regulation of the shipment of inflammable substances and explosives, see § 62-58.

This section is constitutional as applied to intrastate shipments. Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 205 N. C. 85, 170 S. E. 129.

Section Strictly Construed.—This is a penal statute and must be strictly construed. Cox v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 459, 62 S. E. 556.

Intrastate Shipments.—The penalty imposed by this section is not a burden upon interstate commerce when shipments are intrastate. Wampum Cotton Mills v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 150 N. C. 612, 64 S. E. 588.

Interstate Shipments.—In Reid v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 753, 64 S. E. 874, it was held that the penalty provided for by the provisions of this section would apply to interstate shipments, the same not being a burden on interstate commerce. In reviewing the same case the United States court reversed this decision and held that the section could not apply to interstate shipments. Southern Ry. Co. v. Reid, 222 U. S. 424, 32 S. Ct. 140, 56 L. Ed. 257.

Requisites of Valid Tender.—This section provides that the tender be made at a regular station and that the articles tendered be of the nature and kind received by the carrier for transportation, and it is necessary in an action for the penalty to show that the character of the shipment and place of tender are such as fall within its provisions. Olive v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 279, 67 S. E. 583.

Same—Sufficiency of Complaint.—A complaint alleging that plaintiff tendered to a carrier at a certain station a certain quantity of loose lumber for shipment, etc., which the defendant wrongfully and unlawfully refused to receive, states a good cause of action, since it would be inferred, to be thereafter shown by proof, that this station referred to was a regular station, and that loose lumber was an article usually received by the carrier. Olive v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 152 N. C. 279, 67 S. E. 583.

Meaning of "Whenever Tendered."—The words "whenever tendered" can only be qualified by supplying the ellipsis "within the usual hours adopted by the public for the transaction of such business at the place where the tender is made." Alsop v. Southern Express Co., 104 N. C. 278, 10 S. E. 297.

Requisites for Daily Penalty.—In order for the daily penalty to attach to the carrier for continually refusing to accept freight for shipment under the provisions of this section, it is necessary for actual or constructive tender thereof to be made to the carrier each day; and where cattle are the subject of shipment, evidence that the shipment had been refused and that the shipper kept the cattle near the depot and told the defendant's agent thereof, and that he would deliver them when notified that the company would receive them, is insufficient except as to the first penalty. Bane v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 171 N. C. 328, 88 S. E. 477.

When the common carrier permits a shipper to load a car with his goods and refuses to receive it for shipment or to issue a bill of lading, it is a refusal to receive the goods for shipment, under this section; and when the shipper leaves the goods in the car, with request for shipment, and by his conduct, understood by the railroad, makes his tender continuous, each day's delay is a separate refusal, within the meaning of the statute, to which the penalty will apply. Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 64 S. E. 578.

Same—Placing Goods in Depot.—Placing a shipment of goods in the depot of the carrier, prepared for and with request for shipment, and thus leaving them there, makes each day's delay by the carrier "a refusal to ship," under this section, and the carrier, thus refusing, is responsible for the penalty. Burlington Lumber Co. v. Southern R. Co., 152 N. C. 70, 67 S. E. 167.

Money Tendered After Regulation Hours.—Where money was tendered to the agent of an express company at a regular station for shipment at 2 o'clock P. M., and the trains carrying express freight in the direction of the place to which it was to be consigned passed only at 12:55 o'clock each day, a regulation of the company that money would be received for shipment only on the morning before the train on which it was to be transported passed, would not protect the company in an action brought to recover a penalty incurred by violation of this section. Alsop v. Southern Express Co., 104 N. C. 278, 10 S. E. 297.

Meaning of "Under Existing Laws."—The words "under existing laws," in this section, qualify the word "forward," and are used in reference to the rules governing the legal relations of consignor, consignee and the connecting lines. Alsop v. Southern Express Co., 104 N. C. 278, 10 S. E. 297.

Who Is the "Party Aggrieved."—The shipper of the goods is the "party aggrieved," and is the one entitled to sue for the penalty prescribed in this section which arises from the wrongful refusal of the carrier's agent to accept them for transportation. Reid v. Southern R. Co., 149 N. C. 423, 63 S. E. 112.

Same—Consignee of Goods Shipped on Approval.—A consignee to whom goods are shipped on approval owes a duty to the consignor to return them if they are unsatisfactory, and he must do so to relieve himself of liability to the consignor; and he is the party aggrieved, under this section, and may maintain his action thereunder for the penalty prescribed upon the refusal of the carrier to accept them for shipment. Burlington Lumber Co. v. Southern R. Co., 152 N. C. 70, 67 S. E. 167.

Same—Agent of Attaching Creditor.—The penalty prescribed by this section is for the person who is interested in having the goods shipped, and whose legal right in respect thereto is denied; and a person may not maintain an action for the penalty, as the party aggrieved, who has no right or interest in the goods tendered by him for shipment, except as agent or attorney for an attaching creditor and surety on his attachment bond, after the debt has been paid and the goods released. McRackan v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 150 N. C. 331, 63 S. E. 1042.

Goods Not Delivered to Carrier.—When the plaintiff did not deliver the goods to the carrier because they could not be transported by a train then getting ready to leave the station, but carried it back and shipped it the next day, a nonsuit should be allowed. Cox v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 459, 62 S. E. 556.

No Penalty for Refusal to Accept Loose Hay.—Where the Corporation Commission has authorized and fixed and approved the charges for the transportation of baled hay, without expressly requiring its acceptance by the carrier when unbaled or loose, and by express provision it does not require the carrier to receive "cotton or other merchandise and warehouse the same unless the articles offered are in good shipping condition, etc., the carrier is not liable, for the penalty prescribed by this section, for refusing to receive for shipment a car-load of loose hay, such shipments evidently being of such a character as to endanger the property, not only of the carrier, but that of others received by the carrier for shipment. Tilley v. Norfolk & Western R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 77 S. E. 994.

Embargo on Consignee's Freight. — A railroad company may show, in defense to an action for refusal to receive goods for shipment when tendered, such matters as would excuse its failure to do so at common law, unavoidable conditions then existing, over which it had no control; when a carrier has refused a shipment of the nature and kind it was its business to receive, and which it could have received at the point tendered without working a hardship or oppression, it is no defense for it to show that, for the reason of the consignee's blocking the freight yards at destination, an embargo had been placed by the railroad for shipments tendered to be forwarded to him there. Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 575, 64 S. E. 578.

Embargo by Connecting Carrier.—The penalty imposed by this section is enforcible against a railroad company refusing to receive freight when tendered, though to reach destination it was necessary for another road to receive and transport it beyond the junctional point; and it is no valid excuse that the connecting line had laid an embargo on the consignee, for it was the duty of the initial carrier to transport the goods and make a tender to the connecting line to be relieved of the penalty. Wampum Cotton Mills v. Carolina & Northwestern R. Co., 150 N. C. 612, 64 S. E. 588.

When Rate Unknown.—Where the defendant carrier refused to receive for shipment goods tendered to it, basing its right to refuse upon the ground that it was necessary for the shipment to go over lines of connecting carriers in order to reach its destination and that no joint rate had been made, and the plaintiff offered to prepay the freight, and asked for a bill of lading, it was the duty of the defendant to accept the shipment, forward it to its connecting line; and to use reasonable means of ascertaining the rate of freight, by wire if necessary, for the issuance of a through bill of lading. Reid v. Southern R. Co., 153 N. C. 490, 69 S. E. 618.

In an action to recover the penalties alleged to have been incurred under this section, for refusing to receive freight for transportation, where the plaintiff delivered freight for shipment at the defendant's station and tendered the charges, and an agent received the freight for storage, but refused to give a bill of lading because he did not know the freight rates, and kept the freight twelve days there was a refusal "to receive for transportation," and the action is brought under the proper statute. Twitty v. Southern R. Co., 141 N. C. 355, 53 S. E. 957.

Mismarking of Part of Shipment.—In an action to recover a penalty against a carrier for failing to ship one of four packages consigned for shipment under a single bill of lading, the defendant is estopped to claim as a defense that the mismarking of three of the packages was a sufficient excuse for failing to ship the fourth. Grocery Co. v. Sou. R. Co., 136 N. C. 396, 48 S. E. 801.

Freight Not Consigned to Regular Station.—A refusal of the carrier's agent to receive, at its depot, freight, and transportation charges therefor, destined for a point on the carrier's road which was only a siding, and was not a regular station, is wrongful, and subjects the carrier to the penalty prescribed by this section when the refusal is on the ground that the agent did not know where the given destination was, and it appears that he could have ascertained that freight was ordinarily shipped there on way bills made out to a regular station on the carrier's road some two miles distant therefrom. Reid v. Southern R. Co., 149 N. C. 423, 63 S. E. 112.

Tender of Freight Eight Minutes before Train. — Where the plaintiff tendered to the defendant thirty crates of strawberries at a small station requiring only one agent to attend to the various duties of express, telegraph, and railroad agent, and the train from which the shipment was intended was seen approaching the depot about eight minutes before its arrival, a charge of the court that it was for the jury to determine whether, under the circumstances, the tender of the shipment for that train was in time was not open to plaintiff's objection. Shaw v. Southern Express Co., 171 N. C. 216, 88 S. E. 222.

Need Not Accept Express for All Trains.—An express company is not liable for damages and the statutory penalties of this section for refusing to receive a shipment of thirty crates of strawberries for a certain train not carrying accommodations for shipments of this character, though it had taken, on occasion, a few berries thereon for the plaintiff, when it so advertised, the shipper knew of it, and accommodations on other daily trains were specially provided. Shaw v. Southern Express Co., 171 N. C. 216, 88 S. E. 222.

Conclusiveness of Referee's Findings.—Where in an action to recover the prescribed penalties under this section the referee finds upon ample evidence in a hearing in which no error of law is committed, that the shipment came within a certain classification, and that the shipper tendered the correct amount for such classification, and the finding is approved by the trial court, such finding is conclusive on appeal, and the carrier may not successfully contend that the shipment came within another classification for which higher freight charges were prescribed, and where a higher tariff has been charged on one shipment the shipper is entitled to recover the excess paid. Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 205 N. C. 85, 170 S. E. 129.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—Evidence that shipper's contract to deliver certain merchandise was canceled because of carrier's wrongful refusal to accept the merchandise for shipment is sufficient to support the referee's finding of actual damages, profits which would have been certainly realized but for carrier's wrongful refusal of the shipment being recoverable under this section. Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 205 N. C. 85, 170 S. E. 129.

§ 60-112. Penalty for failure to transport within reasonable time.—It shall be unlawful for any railroad company, steamboat company, express company or other transportation company doing business in this state to omit or neglect to transport within a reasonable time any goods, merchandise or other articles of value received by it for shipment and billed to or from any place in the state of North Carolina, unless otherwise agreed upon between the company and the shipper, or unless the same be burned, stolen or otherwise destroyed, or unless otherwise provided by the North Carolina utilities commission.

Any company violating any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit to the party aggrieved the sum of fifteen dollars for the first day and two dollars for each succeeding day of such unlawful detention or neglect where such shipment is made in carload lots, and in less quantities there shall be a forfeiture in like manner of ten dollars for the first day and one dollar for each succeeding day, but the forfeiture shall not be collected for a period exceeding thirty days.

In reckoning what is a reasonable time for such transportation, it shall be considered that such transportation company has transported freight within a reasonable time if it has done so in the ordinary time required for transporting such articles of freight between the receiving and shipping stations. A delay of two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at one intermediate point for each hundred miles of distance or fraction thereof over which such freight is to be transported shall not be charged against the transportation company as unreasonable and shall be held to be prima facie reasonable, and a failure to transport within such time shall be held prima facie unreasonable. This section shall be construed to refer not only to delay in starting the freight from the station where it is received, but to require the delivery at its destination within the time specified: Provided, that if such delay shall be due to causes which could not in the exercise of ordinary care have been foreseen, and which were unavoidable, then upon the establishment of these facts to the satisfaction of the justice of the peace or jury trying the cause, the defendant transportation company shall be relieved from any penalty for delay in the transportation of freight, but it shall not be relieved from the costs of such action. In all actions to recover penalties against a transportation company under this section, the burden of proof shall be upon the transportation company to show where the delay, if any, occurred. (Rev., s. 2632; 1903, c. 590, s. 3; 1905, c. 545; 1907, cc. 217, 461; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3516.)

Cross Reference.—As to venue of actions against a railroad, see § 1-81.

Editor's Note.—Under this section as it formerly prevailed, a penalty was imposed for unreasonable delay in the transportation of goods. Construing the statute in Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 93, 56 S. E. 697 the Court held that the term "transportation" did not include a delivery to consignee at the point of destination, and if goods shipped by a carrier had been properly placed at the point of destination, no penalty was incurred under this section for a negligent delay in delivery from the car or warehouse of the company. Subsequently the Legislature amended the statute so as to include delays in delivery after transportation had ceased.

For a review of the history of legislative penalties for the refusal of railroads to transport freight, see Grocery Co. v. Sou. R. Co., 136 N. C. 396, 48 S. E. 801.

Constitutionality of Section.—This section is in the nature of a police regulation and is constitutional and valid. Owens v. Hines, 178 N. C. 325, 100 S. E. 617; Davis v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 68, 60 S. E. 722.

It does not deny to the carrier the equal protection of the laws. Rollins v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 146 N. C. 153, 59 S. E. 671; Grocery Co. v. Sou. R. Co., 136 N. C. 396, 48 S. E. 801.

Common Law Duty.—This section does not supersede or alter the duty of a carrier at common law, but merely enforces an admitted duty and superadds a penalty. Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 137 N. C. 478, 50 S. E. 1.

Section Strictly Construed.—This is a penal statute and must be strictly construed. Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 93, 56 S. E. 697.

Does Not Apply to Interstate Shipments.—A penalty may not be recovered of the carrier of an interstate shipment for negligent delay in transportation, under this section. Bivens Bros. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 176 N. C. 414, 97 S. E. 215. See, also, Hickory Marble Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 53, 60 S. E. 719.

Same—Although Both Terminal Points in State.—A penalty under this section cannot be recovered for the failure of a railroad company to transport freight within a reasonable time, when the initial and terminal points are within the State, but the shipment necessarily passes into another State in transitu. Such is interstate commerce and cannot be interferred with by the State. Shelby Ice, etc., Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 66, 60 S. E. 721.

Two Days Allowed at Initial Point.—Under this section, the carrier is allowed two days at the initial point for the transportation of freight instead of the one day allowed by section 1-593. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277.

Same—No Deduction for Receipt and Delivery.—Under this section the two days at the initial point are allowed for the purpose of giving a reasonable time to begin the transportation; the forty-eight hours at each intermediate point are allowed for the necessary change of cars or unloading and loading; and it is not a reasonable construction of the statute to deduct the day of the receipt and the day of delivery from the time thus fixed. Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 236, 59 S. E. 55.

Deductible Time Allowed Applies to Actions for Penalty as Well as Damages.—The deductible time allowed by this section in computing "reasonable time," to wit, "two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at one intermediate point for each hundred miles distance or fraction thereof," applies to actions brought to recover the penalty given by said section and fixing the amount thereof, and not to actions for damages only. Talley v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 198 N. C. 492, 493, 152 S. E. 390.

"Intermediate Point" Defined.—An "intermediate point" for which time is allowed under this section, in transporting freight is only where the freight is transferred to another road. Davis v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 207, 59 S. E. 53.

In shipment of less than car-load lots a point where they are ordinarily transferred from one car to another in transit, at a junctional point on the same road, is an intermediate point, within the meaning of this section. Blue Ridge Collection Agency v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 593, 61 S. E. 462.

Same—Transfer at Carrier's Distributing Point.—When a car-load intrastate shipment necessarily is transferred without breaking bulk from one road of the carrier's system to another thereof at a general distributing point in the carrier's system in order to reach destination, the carrier is allowed thereat the statutory time for transportation at such point as an intermediate point. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277.

"Ordinary Time" a Question for Jury.—The question of "ordinary time" for the transportation of freight by the carrier, in a suit for a penalty for failure to transport, under this section, is a question of fact for the jury. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277; Shelby Ice, etc., Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 66, 60 S. E. 721.

In an action for the recovery of a penalty under this section, it was for the jury to find what was "ordinary" time, under the surrounding circumstances, and whether the defendant transported freight within such time; also, the amount of recovery after allowing for the "lay days," etc., provided by this section. It is error for the trial court to instruct the jury, if they believed the evidence, to answer the issue in a certain way or in a sum certain. Davis v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 68, 60 S. E. 722.

Same—No Fixed Rule.—This section does not fix a "hard and fast" rule in defining reasonable time. From the "ordinary time" within which the jury find the goods should have been transported and delivered, the court must deduct two days at the "initial point" and forty-eight hours at each "intermediate point," and for all time in excess thereof the statutory penalty may be recovered. Jenkins v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 178, 59 S. E. 663.

Same—Burden of Proof.—When the evidence discloses that the time taken by the railroad company for transporting goods, etc., was prima facie reasonable as fixed by the statute, the question of reasonable time is one for the jury to measure by the statutory standard, the burden of proof being upon the plaintiff. Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 93, 56 S. E. 697.

Same—Evidence.—In an action to recover the penalty given by this section, the burden of proof is on the plaintiff to show that the carrier failed to transport and deliver the goods within a reasonable time, which is defined to be the "ordinary time" required to transport and deliver. This may be shown by proving the distance over which the goods are to be transported and the time consumed therein. From this evidence the jury may, as a matter of common knowledge and observation, draw the conclusion whether, in view of the usual speed of freight trains, the time consumed, the distance, and other conditions the carrier has failed to transport and deliver within a reasonable time. Jenkins v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 178, 59 S. E. 663.

Same—Illustrations.—When there is evidence that the time in transporting a certain shipment from one station to another on the same railroad, leading directly to the point of destination, and only 25 miles apart, was twelve days, the jury will be permitted, from their common observation and experience, to consider and determine the question of ordinary time between the two points, and in the absence of explanation by defendant, fix the amount of wrongful delay. Rollins v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 146 N. C. 153, 59 S. E. 671.

When it is admitted that certain articles were received by defendant, to be transported and delivered to plaintiff, the party aggrieved, both points being in the State, the distance separating them 58 miles, with but one intermediate point between the place of shipment and destination, and that they were not delivered to plaintiff within twenty-one days, the delay was unreasonable. Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 236, 59 S. E. 55. The official headnote to this case is misleading.—Ed. Note.

Computation of Time.—The time in which railroads shall transport freight shall be computed by excluding the first day and including the last, except when the last day falls on Sunday. Davis v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 207, 59 S. E. 53.

When the carrier was allowed two days time for a shipment at an intermediate point, and therefore could not deliver it before Sunday, delivery on the next succeeding day was a compliance with the law. Blue Ridge Collection Agency v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 593, 61 S. E. 462.

In a suit for penalty against the carrier for failure to transport freight, under this section, the defense that the last day, being Sunday, should not be counted, under section 60-80, is unavailable when it is made to appear that the delay chargeable began to run and to be counted from the Saturday preceding; for the charge for delay having once begun to run, it continues to run without deduction for Sundays or holidays. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277; Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 236, 59 S. E. 55.

Issues.—An issue which presupposes a failure on defendant's part in its duty to transport freight, in an action for penalty, under this section, is objectionable. Davis v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 68, 60 S. E. 722.

Who Entitled to Recover.—The real "party aggrieved" is entitled to recover the penalty, under this section, irrespective of the question of knowledge of or notice to the defendant. Cardwell v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 218, 59 S. E. 673.

Who Is "Party Aggrieved."—The plaintiff may maintain his action against the defendant railroad company, under this section, for wrongful failure to transport certain goods received by the latter, and bill of lading issued by it to plaintiff, when it appears that plaintiff shipped the goods to be for his benefit sold by the consignee, and that he (the plaintiff) was the one who alone acquired the right to demand the service to be rendered by the defendant, and was the party aggrieved. Rollins v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 146 N. C. 153, 59 S. E. 671.

When the consignor ships goods to be sold for his own benefit, he is the "party aggrieved," under this section, and the proper party plaintiff. Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

Same—Party Whose Legal Right Denied.—The plaintiff is entitled to recover the penalty as the "party aggrieved," under this section, for the defendant's wrongfully failing to transport freight within a reasonable time, where the facts show that, from the attendant circumstances or terms of the agreement, he is the one whose legal right is denied and who is alone interested in having the transportation properly made. Cardwell v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 218, 59 S. E. 673.

Same—Goods Not to Be Paid for until Delivery.—When the consignor had agreed with the consignee that the latter was only required to pay for the intrastate shipment when it reached its destination, the consignor may maintain his action for delay in transitu, as the party aggrieved. Davis v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 68, 60 S. E. 722.

When, by the contract or agreement between a vendor and vendee of goods, the goods are to be "received, inspected and weighed" by the vendee before any part of the purchase price is payable, the title does not vest in the vendee, and the vendor is the "party aggrieved" under the meaning of this section. Elliott v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 235, 71 S. E. 339.

Same—Notice Immaterial.—When it is shown that the plaintiff is the "party aggrieved," under this section, it is of no importance and bears in no way on the justice of plaintiff's demand or of defendant's obligation, whether defendant knew who was the party aggrieved, either at the inception of the matter or at any other time. Rollins v. Seaboard Air Line Railway, 146 N. C. 153, 59 S. E. 671.

Action Not Brought "on Relation of State."—Under this section, the action for penalty is given directly to the party aggrieved, and is not required to be brought "on relation of the State." If it were, that would be a mere informality, which could be remedied by amendment. Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

No Right to Hold Freight Full Time Limit.—This section providing that a carrier shall not allow any freight to remain at any "intermediate point" for more than forty-eight hours, does not authorize the carrier to hold it at each of such points the extreme limit, without any necessity for detaining it at all. Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 137 N. C. 478, 50 S. E. 1.

When Transportation Ceases.—Transportation ceases when the duty of the carrier as a warehouseman commences, and in respect to freight transported in carload lots, when the car reaches destination and is placed for unloading. What particular parts of the carrier's tracks and freight yards may be used for such purposes must of necessity be left to its discretion, but the car must be reasonably accessible and placed for delivery before transportation is fully ended. Brooks Mfg. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 152 N. C. 665, 669, 68 S. E. 243.

Transportation does not cease when a car-load is placed by the carrier within the yard limits of the point of destination. Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 407, 61 S. E. 277.

Delivery Does Not Have to Be on Private Tracks.—This section does not apply to a delivery on the private tracks of a consignee; but to avoid the penalty it is required of the carrier to place for delivery a carload shipment on its track at destination at a place reasonably accessible. Brooks Mfg. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 152 N. C. 665, 68 S. E. 243.

When Goods Travel over Several Lines.—When the initial carrier delivers goods to its connecting carrier, necessary for them to be by it further transported to their destination, and an unreasonable delay occurs, without evidence as to which carrier was responsible for the delay, the defendant, the initial carrier is liable for the entire delay, the burden of proof being upon it as the party having the evidence peculiarly within its own knowledge or possession. Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 145 N. C. 236, 59 S. E. 55.

Same—Parties to Action.—Where an intrastate shipment of goods is transported over connecting lines to its destination, it is proper for the trial court to make both roads parties to an action to recover the penalty for the failure to transport safely and within a reasonable time, the burden being upon each defendant to show that it had not failed in its duty. Sellars Hosiery Mills v. Southern R. Co., 174 N. C. 449, 93 S. E. 952.

When Bill of Lading Not Presumptive Evidence.—When it was the consignor's duty to load a car for shipment, which had been placed at its mill by the carrier, and the carrier's agent gave a bill of lading upon the statement of the consignor that the car had been loaded, without being required to verify the statement, the bill of lading is not presumptive evidence of the receipt of the contents of the car, and the question is an open one for the jury in a suit by the consignee for the penalty, for failure to deliver under this section. Peele v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 149 N. C. 390, 63 S. E. 66.

Negligent Default in Delivery.—This section extends the penalty to cases of negligent default in the carrier's making delivery of the freight to the consignee. Mitchell v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 183 N. C. 162, 110 S. E. 859.

Duty to Notify Consignee.—Where a shipment of goods is delivered to a railroad company for transportation, the title vests in the consignee, with the duty resting upon the carrier on the arrival of the goods at destination to notify the consignee and make delivery. This principle applies to a side-station when notification of arrival should have been given from a nearby station, and the inquiring consignee was there misinformed as to the arrival, and the car in the meanwhile was broken into and the shipment stolen. Acme Mfg. Co. v. Tucker, 183 N. C. 303, 111 S. E. 525.

Burden of Proof as to Destruction of Goods.—The burden of proof is on the carrier to show that it is relieved of the penalty prescribed by this section, under the provision thereof, because the goods were "burned, stolen or destroyed." That the goods were placed in defendant's car by the initial carrier, that search had been made therefor, without stating how thorough, and the absence of evidence that the goods had since been seen, is no evidence that they were "burnt, stolen or destroyed." Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

Verdict Incomplete.—Where it is established by the jury that a consignment of goods was carried to the delivering point by the carrier, which failed to deliver to the consignee, or to notify him, and the goods are lost while in its possession, the verdict is incomplete when there was no issue submitted as to whether the carrier, who is a party to the action, was in default in not delivering it to the consignee. Acme Mfg. Co. v. Tucker, 183 N. C. 303, 111 S. E. 525.

Sufficiency of Evidence on Motion for Nonsuit.—Where a shipment of various articles was transported by the carrier to destination, and all were received by the consignee, except one of them, which was missing, and remained in the carrier's warehouse beyond the statutory reasonable time the motion for nonsuit was properly denied. Mitchell v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 183 N. C. 162, 110 S. E. 859.

Joinder of Actions.—An action for damages against a carrier for a lost shipment, and one for the penalty for unreasonable delay given by this section, do not merge into each other. They arise on contract and may be joined in the same action. Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 148 N. C. 323, 62 S. E. 413.

Regulation of Dangerous Article.—The Corporation Commission is given the power to make orders and regulations for the safety, etc., of shippers or patrons of any public-service corporation, and particularly to regulate the shipment of articles rendering transportation dangerous, such as inflammable articles of freight. Tilley v. Norfolk & Western R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 77 S. E. 994.

§ 60-113. Flume companies exercising right of eminent domain become common carriers.—All flume companies availing themselves of the right of eminent domain under the provisions of the chapter Eminent Domain shall become public carriers of freight, for the purposes for which they are adapted, and shall be under the direction, control and supervision of the utilities commission in the same manner and for the same purposes as is by law provided for other public carriers of freight. (1907, c. 39, s. 4; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3517.)

Local Modification.—Duplin: 1911, c. 214.

§ 60-114. Freight charges to be at legal rates; penalty for failure to deliver to consignee on tender of same.—All common carriers doing business in this state shall settle their freight charges according to the rate stipulated in the bill of lading, provided the rate therein stipulated be in conformity with the classifications and rates made and filed with the interstate commerce commission in case of shipments from without the state and with those of the utilities commission of this state in case of shipments wholly within this state, by which classifications and rates all consignees shall in all cases be entitled to settle freight charges with such carriers; and it shall be the duty of such common carriers to inform any consignee of the correct amount due for freight according to such classification and rates. Upon payment or tender of the amount due on any shipment which has arrived at its destination according to such classification and rates, such common carrier shall deliver the freight in question to the consignee. Any failure or refusal to comply with the provisions hereof shall subject such carrier so failing or refusing to a penalty of fifty dollars for each such failure or refusal, to be recovered by any consignee aggrieved by any suit in any court of competent jurisdiction. (Rev., s. 2633; 1905, c. 330, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3518.)

Cross References.—As to obligations and rights of carriers upon bills of lading, see § 21-9 et seq. As to the power of the utilities commission to regulate delivery, see § 62-55. As to railroad freight rates, see § 62-135 et seq. As to venue of an action against a railroad, see § 1-81.

Constitutionality of Section.—The penalty for failure of a common carrier to deliver freight, as prescribed by this section, shipped from beyond the State, after it has been unloaded from its cars and while in the depot, is constitutional and not a burden upon interstate commerce. Hockfield v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181; Jeans v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 164 N. C. 224, 80 S. E. 242.

A railroad company owes it as a common-law duty to deliver freight upon tender of lawful charges by the consignee, and, in the absence of a conflicting regulation by Congress, this section, imposing a penalty upon default of the railroad company therein, is constitutional and valid, and is an aid to, rather than a burden upon, interstate commerce. Harrill Bros. v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 532, 57 S. E. 383.

Foreign Corporation Bound to Obey Laws.—Where a railroad corporation chartered by another state, leases a railroad chartered by this state, it is bound to observe and obey all laws of this state regulating the business of transportation. Hines v. Wilmington, etc., R., 95 N. C. 434.

Intrastate Rebilling of Interstate Shipment.—An interstate shipment of goods which was missent, bill of lading lost, and rebilled from one point in the State to another therein, is an intrastate shipment, and upon the carrier's violating the provisions of this section, the penalty therein accrues. Hockfield v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181.

Section Not Cumulative.—This section imposes only one penalty for the refusal of the railroad company to deliver freight upon demand and tender of charges, and it is not cumulative upon more than one demand for the same offense. Harrill Bros. v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 532, 57 S. E. 383.

Consignee Must Produce Bill of Lading.—A consignee must produce, upon the carrier's demand, a bill of lading for a prepaid shipment of goods in the carrier's possession. Jeans v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 164 N. C. 224, 80 S. E. 242.

Insufficient Notice to Consignee.—Notice given by a carrier of the arrival of goods to a transfer company in the habit of hauling consignor's goods from the depot is not of itself sufficient notice to the consignee. Hockfield v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181.

Burden of Proof.—Where the consignee brings his action to recover the value of a shipment of goods from the carrier, shows that the shipment was addressed to him, was prepaid, in the carrier's possession at destination, and a demand for delivery, the burden is on the carrier to show a valid reason for its refusal to deliver the shipment. Jeans v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 164 N. C. 224, 80 S. E. 242.

No Liability for Unlawful Shipment.—A druggist who has not received a valid license to sell intoxicating liquors for the purposes and in the manner indicated, may not recover of the carrier the penalty provided by this section, for the failure to deliver such liquors to him for the purpose of sale, for such are unlawful and prohibited. Smith v. Southern Express Co., 166 N. C. 155, 82 S. E. 15.

Carrier Cannot Collect Storage for Illegal Detainment.—A carrier cannot enforce collection of storage charges arising from its wrongful refusal to deliver goods to consignee. Hockfield v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 419, 64 S. E. 181.

Agent Ignorant of Amount of Charges.—It is no defense to an action to recover a penalty for refusing to deliver shipment upon tender of freight charges by the consignee, for the defendant company to show its agents did not know the correct amount of the charges because of the defendant's failure to file its schedule of rates. Harrill Bros. v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 532, 57 S. E. 383.

Rate When Smaller Cars Furnished.—Where a consignor requested two cars of a certain standard size and the carrier furnished four cars of a smaller size the rate for the shipment must be the same. Yorke Furniture Co. v. Railroad, 162 N. C. 138, 78 S. E. 67.

§ 60-115. Charging unreasonable freight rates misdemeanor.—If any railroad company doing business in this state shall charge, collect, demand or receive more than a fair and reasonable rate of toll or compensation for the transportation of freight of any description, or for the use and transportation of any railroad car upon its track or any of the branches thereof or upon any railroad in this state which has the right, license or permission to use, operate or control the same, it shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five hundred nor more than five thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 3768; 1899, c. 164, s. 12; C. S. 3519.)

Cross References.—See also § 62-135. As to action for double of overcharge, see § 62-138. As to penalty for wilful overcharge, see § 62-139. As to violation of passenger rates, see § 60-91.

§ 60-116. Allowing or accepting rebates or pooling freights misdemeanor. — If any person shall be concerned in pooling freights or shall directly or indirectly allow or accept rebates on freights he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not less than twelve months. (Rev., s. 3762; Code, s. 1968; 1879, c. 237, s. 2; C. S. 3520.)

Cross Reference.—As to a railroad or officer thereof allowing a rebate, see § 60-6.

§ 60-117. Partial charges for partial deliveries.—Whenever any freight of any kind shall be received by any common carrier in this state to be delivered to any consignee in this state, and a portion of the same shall not have been received at the place of destination, it shall not be lawful for the carrier to demand any part of the charges for freight or transportation due for such portion of the shipment as shall not have reached the place of destination. The carrier shall be required to deliver to the consignee such portion of the consignment as shall have been received upon the payment or tender of the freight charges due upon such portion. But nothing in this section shall be construed as interferring with, or depriving a consignor, or other person having authority, of his rights of stoppage in transitu. (Rev., s. 2641; 1893, c. 495; C. S. 3521.)

§ 60-118. Placing cars for loading.—Whenever any person, firm or corporation intending to ship freight makes a written application to any railroad company for cars to be loaded in carload lots with any kind of freight embraced in the tariffs of the company, stating in the application the character of the freight, the number of cars wanted, the station, depot, siding, wharf or boat-landing on the line of the company whence the shipment is to be moved, and its final destination, the railroad company shall furnish the cars within four days from seven o'clock a. m., the day following such application. The application must be delivered to the agent of the railroad company at the station at or nearest the point of shipment. Any railroad company failing to furnish the cars named in such written application shall be subject to a penalty of five dollars per car per day for each car not furnished, to be recovered by the person, firm or corporation making application: Provided, that the railroad company, before furnishing the cars upon such application, may require the person, firm or corporation applying for the same to deposit five dollars for each car so demanded at the time the application is made, which deposit of five dollars for each car may be retained by the said railroad company as a forfeit for trackage in case the car or cars are not loaded within forty-eight hours after notice of the placement of car or cars in accordance with demand: Provided, that the utilities commission may excuse from the penalties imposed by this section independent lines not owned, operated, or controlled by any other line or system when trackage is less than one hundred miles. (1907, c. 217, s. 3; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3522.)

Cross Reference.—As to the power of the utilities commission to make rules for loading cars, see § 62-59.

Carrier Entitled to Notice.—The carrier is entitled to reasonable notice from the shipper for placing a car to be loaded, and when written notice is required by its rules, the rule may be waived or abandoned by a verbal agreement. Futch v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 178 N. C. 282, 100 S. E. 436.

Same—No Liability for Penalty unless Four Days Notice Given.—A railway company is not liable for the penalty for failure to furnish cars to those who apply in writing when the company is not allowed the four days therein specified within which to furnish them, notwithstanding the railway company did not furnish them for twenty-three days. McDuffie v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 145 N. C. 397, 59 S. E. 122.

When Action Not Brought for Penalty.—Where the recovery of the penalty is not sought, but the action is to recover damages for the carrier's failure to receive and ship the goods, a written demand for the cars is not required, and a verbal one is sufficient. Bell v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 163 N. C. 180, 79 S. E. 421.

Failure to Furnish Ventilated Cars.—When a railroad company fails in its duty to furnish the shipper a ventilated car for transporting his fruit, and furnishes a box car instead, the company is not relieved from liability solely by the fact that the shipper knew his fruit was forwarded in a box car. Forrester & Co. v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 553, 61 S. E. 524.

Interstate Shipment.—An action may be brought in the state courts to recover damages for failure to furnish cars to be used in interstate commerce. Smart v. Tallulah Falls R. Co., 173 N. C. 650, 92 S. E. 929.

Cited in Pinehurst Peach Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 201 N. C. 176, 159 S. E. 359.

§ 60-119. Baggage and freight to be carefully handled.—All railroad and steamboat companies shall handle with care all baggage and freights placed with them for transportation, and they shall be liable in damages for any and all injuries to the baggage or freight of persons from whom they have collected fare or charged freight, while the same is under their control. Upon proof of injury to baggage or freight in the possession or under the control of any such company it shall be presumed that the injury was caused by the negligence of the company. (Rev., s. 2624; 1897, c. 46; C. S. 3523.)

Cross References.—As to power of the utiliities commission to regulate the delivery of baggage, see § 62-55. As to conveying livestock in a cruel manner, see § 14-363. As to sanitation of cars, see § 130-279. As to carrier's liability for misdelivery, see § 21-11.

Delivery Necessary.—To fix the responsibility for lost baggage upon a railroad company, either as a common carrier or warehouseman, a delivery, actual or constructive, including an acceptance by the company, is necessary; and in order to a valid delivery the general rule is that when baggage is taken by others to the station, and to places where baggage is usually received, some kind of notice must be given to the agent authorized to receive it. Williams v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 260, 71 S. E. 346.

Same—Estoppel.—The requisites of the general rule to affect delivery of baggage of a passenger to a railroad company in order to hold the company liable may become modified by a custom of the latter to consider and treat baggage as received when left at a given place, without further notice. Williams v. Southern R. Co., 155 N. C. 260, 71 S. E. 346.

Stipulations Limiting Liability.—Stipulations upon a railroad ticket, limiting the liability of the carrier in a specified sum "unless a greater value has been declared by the owner and excess charges paid thereon at the time of taking passage," and similar provisions in a bill of lading for the transportation of freight, are void as an attempt on the part of the carrier to contract against its own negligence. Cooper v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 161 N. C. 400, 77 S. E. 339.

A common carrier cannot contract with a passenger against the loss of baggage by its negligence. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. C. 590, 42 S. E. 964.

Liability for Non-Personal Baggage.—While the obligation of a carrier of passengers is limited to ordinary baggage, yet if it knowingly permits a passenger, either with or without payment of an extra charge, to take articles as baggage which are not properly such, it will be liable for their loss or for damage to them, though it may have been without any fault. Trouser Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 382, 51 S. E. 973.

When Liability as Carrier Ceases.—When the baggage has arrived at its destination and has been deposited at the usual or customary place of delivery and kept there a sufficient time for the passenger to claim and remove the same, the company's liability as a common carrier ceases, and it is thereafter liable only as a warehouseman, and bound to the use of ordinary care. Trouser Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 382, 51 S. E. 973.

Liability When Passenger Not Carried.—When there is no partnership arrangements between connecting lines of railroads, and a passenger buys a through ticket from a carrier to his destination on a connecting line, checks his trunk through to his destination and voluntarily returns to the starting point without going upon the road of the connecting lines, the latter carrier is not liable as insurer of the contents of the trunk from larceny by reason of taking the trunk to its destination, storing it there in its baggage room until its return was requested and then forwarding it to the junctional point, without compensation. Kindley v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 151 N. C. 207, 65 S. E. 897.

Baggage Not on Same Train.—The passenger's right to a limited amount of baggage as a part of the consideration for the price of his ticket is upon the condition that the baggage accompany the passenger on the same train; and where without any default on the part of the carrier, its agent, without further charge, has the baggage forwarded on a later train, the carrier's liability is not that of an insurer, but of a gratuitous bailee, under the rule of the prudent man, and attaches only in instances of gross negligence. Perry v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 171 N. C. 158, 88 S. E. 156.

§ 60-120. Claims for loss of or damage to goods; filing and adjustment.—Every claim for loss of or damage to property while in possession of a common carrier, including every express company, firm or corporation doing an express business within the state, shall be adjusted and paid within ninety days in case of shipments wholly within the state and within four months in case of shipments from without the state, after the filing of such claim with the agent of such carrier at the point of destination of such shipment, or point of delivery to another common carrier, by the consignee, or at the point of origin by the consignor, when it shall appear that the consignor was the owner of the shipment: Provided, that no such claim shall be filed until after the arrival of the shipment, or some part thereof, at the point of destination, or until after the lapse of a reasonable time for the arrival thereof.

In every case such common carrier shall be liable for the amount of such loss or damage, together with interest thereon from the date of the filing of the claim therefor until the payment thereof. Failure to adjust and pay such claim within the periods respectively herein prescribed shall subject each common carrier so failing to a penalty of fifty dollars for each and every such failure, to be recovered by any consignee aggrieved (or consignor, when it shall appear that the consignor was the owner of the property at the time of shipment and at the time of suit, and is, therefore, the party aggrieved), in any court of competent jurisdiction: Provided, that unless such consignee or consignor recover in such action the full amount claimed, no penalty shall be recovered, but only the actual amount of the loss or damage, with interest as aforesaid; and that no penalty shall be recoverable under the provisions of this section where claims have been filed by both the consignor and consignee, unless the time herein provided has elapsed after the withdrawal of one of the claims.

Causes of action for the recovery of the possession of the property shipped, for loss or damage thereto, and for the penalties herein provided for, may be united in the same complaint. (Rev., s. 2634; 1905, c. 330, ss. 2, 4, 5; 1907, c. 983; 1911, c. 139; C. S. 3524.)

Cross Reference.—As to venue of an action against a railroad, see § 1-81.

Section Strictly Construed.—This is a penal statute, and in order to recover, the plaintiff must bring his case strictly within its terms. Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., 190 N. C. 605, 130 S. E. 305.

Section Must Be Followed.—The penalty imposed by this section is to enforce obedience to the mandate of the law by punishment of the carrier, and the statute must be strictly construed, requiring the consignee to bring his case clearly within its language and meaning; and in order to recover the penalty, the consignee must file his claim with the agent as the statute directs, and the filing thereof with another of the carrier's agents is insufficient. Eagles Co. v. East Carolina Ry., 184 N. C. 66, 113 S. E. 512.

Who May Bring Action.—Ordinarily the title to a shipment of goods by common carrier passes to the consignee upon their acceptance by the carrier, and he may sue for damages thereto in transit; but when it is shown that the consignee refused to accept the damaged goods, and that the sale has been canceled by consent, the consignor may maintain his action against the carrier for damages. Aydlett v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 47, 89 S. E. 1000.

Joinder of Causes of Action.—A recovery of the value of a shipment of goods and the penalties for the refusal of the carrier to deliver and for the failure to settle the claim within the statutory period, may be united in the same action. Jeans v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 164 N. C. 224, 80 S. E. 242.

Same—Issues Separate and Distinct.—In an action against a railroad company to recover damages to a shipment of goods and the penalty for the failure of defendant to pay the same within 90 days, as allowed by this section, the issues raised are entirely separate and distinct from each other, and the trial judge may set aside the verdict on the second issue, and retain that on the first one, for a retrial. Hussey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 183 N. C. 7, 110 S. E. 599.

Carrier Cannot Contract against Own Negligence.—A common carrier may relieve itself from liability as an insurer upon a contract reasonable in its terms and founded upon a valuable consideration, but it cannot so limit its responsibility for loss or damage resulting from its negligence. Everett v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 138 N. C. 68, 50 S. E. 557; Mitchell v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671.

Owner Cannot Refuse Damaged Goods.—Damages to a shipment of goods by a railroad company, caused by the carrier's negligence, does not justify the owner in refusing to accept them on that account, unless the damages are sufficient to render the goods practically worthless. He must accept the goods and sue for the damages upon the refusal of the carrier to pay them. Whittington v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 501, 90 S. E. 505.

Prima Facie Case.—In an action against the carrier for damages for the destruction of a shipment of freight by fire, a prima facie case is made out when the plaintiff shows the receipt of the freight for transportation and its nondelivery. Osborne v. Southern Ry. Co., 175 N. C. 594, 96 S. E. 34; Everett v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 138 N. C. 68, 50 S. E. 557.

Same—Limited Liability.—In cases of limited liability, proof of shipment and loss or injury makes a prima facie case for the shipper, and then the burden is upon the carrier to show that the circumstances of the loss bring it within the excepted causes, and when this is shown, the burden still rests upon the carrier of showing that the loss or injury was not due to its own negligence. Mitchell v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671.

Connecting Carriers—Duty Assumed by Carrier.—Where a carrier accepts goods for transportation, in the absence of a special contract, it assumes the duty of safely carrying, within a reasonable time, the goods to the end of its line, and delivering them in like condition to the connecting carrier. Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 137 N. C. 478, 50 S. E. 1.

Same—When Duty of Safe Carriage Attaches.—The duty of safe carriage attaches as the goods pass into the custody of each company, and ceases only when they are safely delivered to its successor. Lindley v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 88 N. C. 547.

Same—Burden of Proof as to Safe Delivery.—On proof that a carrier received goods in good condition, the burden of proof rests upon such carrier to show delivery in the same condition to the next carrier or to the consignee, such proof being peculiarly within its power. Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 137 N. C. 478, 50 S. E. 1.

Same—Evidence.—To show that the freight was in good condition when it was delivered by the defendant to a connecting line, evidence that it is the custom of agents of such lines to examine freights before receiving them, and if found in good condition to forward them, and that such examination was made and forwarding was done, is admissible. Knott v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 98 N. C. 73, 3 S. E. 735.

Same—Prima Facie Case.—Where a shipment of goods is received by the consignee from the final carrier in bad condition, and there is evidence that this carrier received the goods from its connecting carrier in good condition, a prima facie case of negligence is made out against the delivering carrier, and presents sufficient evidence thereof to be submitted to the jury, with the burden of proof on it. Lyon v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 165 N. C. 143, 81 S. E. 1.

Same—Presumption of Damage.—Among connecting lines of railway, that one in whose hands goods are found damaged is presumed to have caused the damage and the burden is upon it to rebut the presumption. Gwyn Harper Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Central R., 128 N. C. 280, 38 S. E. 894; Mitchell v. Carolina Central R. Co., 124 N. C. 236, 32 S. E. 671; Morganton Mfg. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 121 N. C. 514, 28 S. E. 474.

Same—Goods Found Damaged at Destination. — When goods are shipped over several connecting lines of carriers and are found in a damaged condition at destination, there is a rebuttable presumption that the injury was negligently inflicted by the last carrier. Boss v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 156 N. C. 70, 72 S. E. 93. This is on the principle that as the carrier is peculiarly in a position to know the facts, the burden of proof should rest on it. Beville v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 159 N. C. 227, 74 S. E. 349.

Same—Liability for Negligence of Connecting Carrier.—A railroad company whose line is one of several connecting roads between places from and to which freight is shipped, in the absence of a special contract, or proof of copartnership by which each of the connecting lines will become liable for the contracts of the others, is not responsible for damages for negligence occurring beyond its terminus. Knott v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 98 N. C. 73, 3 S. E. 735.

But where two or more common carriers unite in forming an association creating a through line for the transportation of freight, payment of tariff charges to be made at the beginning or end of the transportation, with through bills of lading, the freight charges to be divided according to the respective mileage of the companies, they become a copartnership and each line is liable for any damage resulting from delay or otherwise on any part of the through line, notwithstanding a provision in the bill of lading that each company shall be liable only for loss or damage occurring on its own line. Rocky Mount Mills v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 119 N. C. 693, 25 S. E. 854.

Same — Interstate Shipments. — The Interstate Commerce Act and Carmack Amendment placed the entire regulation of interstate commerce under Federal control, and the penalty provided for by this section for failure of a carrier to pay a claim in the time prescribed does not apply to interstate shipments. See Morphis v. Express Co., 167 N. C. 139, 83 S. E. 1. These acts made the initial carrier liable for damages to a shipment made over connecting lines. However this does not relieve the intermediate or delivering carrier of responsibility for its own negligence, or prevent the state court from requiring the carriers to show which is responsible for the damage. See Aydlett v. Norfolk Sou. R. Co., 172 N. C. 47, 89 S. E. 100. And notice of damages to the initial carrier of an interstate shipment of goods is sufficient notice to the connecting carrier. Gilikin v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 174 N. C. 137, 93 S. E. 469.

While the initial carrier may also be held liable for damages to a shipment made over connecting lines, a direction of the court relieving it from liability does not necessarily relieve the carrier whose negligence caused the damages. Gilikin v. Railroad, 174 N. C. 137, 93 S. E. 469.

Parol Agreement to Ship Sufficient.—When a carrier has received goods for transportation over its own and a connecting line which were not delivered, and upon consignor's parol request it has them reshipped to the initial or starting point, the latter agreement for reshipment, though resting in parol, is sufficient in an action for damages to the goods occurring while in the carrier's possession. Lyon v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 165 N. C. 143, 81 S. E. 1.

Filing of Claim Prerequisite to Penalty.—A consignor of a shipment of goods is required by this section to file his claim with the agent of the common carrier at the point of its origin, and this he must have done to maintain his action against the carrier for the penalty prescribed for its failure to settle for its loss, or damage thereto, within ninety days, etc. Hamlet Grocery Co. v. Southern R. Co., 170 N. C. 241, 87 S. E. 57.

Same—Carrier May Regulate.—A stipulation in a bill of lading denying the carrier's liability for damages unless written notice of such claim be filed within a specified period is in derogation of the common law, and while it will be upheld if reasonable, the burden of proof is on the carrier to show that it is. Phillips v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 172 N. C. 86, 89 S. E. 1057.

A stipulation that they must be filed in four months is reasonable. Culbreth v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 169 N. C. 723, 86 S. E. 624. An allowance of sixty days is reasonable. Gwyn-Harper Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Central R., 128 N. C. 280, 38 S. E. 894. But an allowance of thirty days is unreasonable. Gwyn-Harper Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Central R., 128 N. C. 280, 38 S. E. 894.

Same—Notice to Agent.—Where the second carrier in the connected line of shipment causes damages to the shipment by improperly loading it, it may not defeat an action to recover such damages, when the required notice within four months has been filed with and accepted without comment by it, on the ground that such notice had not been filed with the initial or final carrier under the terms of the contract of carriage. The doctrine of notice to the agent is applicable here. Aydlett v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 47, 89 S. E. 1000.

Same—Omission of Amount of Loss. — It is not required that a claimant state the amount of his loss, in his claim for damages against a carrier. McRary v. Southern Ry. Co., 174 N. C. 563, 94 S. E. 107.

Same—Interstate Shipments.—The Federal statutes, while recognizing the right of the carrier to stipulate for the filing of claims within a reasonable period, provide that if the loss or damage is due to a delay in transit by negligence no notice shall be required as a condition precedent to recovery. Mann v. Transportation Co., 176 N. C. 104, 96 S. E. 731.

Same — By Mail.—The essential things for the proper filing of the claim against the common carrier for damages, and for the penalty under the provisions of this section, being its delivery to and acceptance by the carrier's designated agent, such filing is not restricted to its manual delivery, but the same may be done through the agency of the United States mail. The delivery of the mail will be presumed. Eagles Co. v. East Carolina Railway, 184 N. C. 66, 113 S. E. 512.

Same—Necessity of Written Demand.—A penal statute is to be strictly construed, and the provisions of this section are not complied with when oral demand is made, as such cannot be filed under the ordinary acceptance of the word and does not afford the carrier the protection that a written demand would give. Thompson v. Southern Express Co., 147 N. C. 343, 61 S. E. 182. But failure to file a formal written demand is no bar to a recovery from the carrier of actual damages sustained. Hinkle v. Southern Ry. Co., 126 N. C. 932, 36 S. E. 348; Kime v. Sou. R. Co., 153 N. C. 398, 69 S. E. 264.

Stipulations May Be Waived.—The stipulation in a live-stock bill of lading requiring that notice in writing be given the carrier's agent at destination, of claim for damages to the animals shipped, before they are removed or mingled with other animals, may be waived by the carrier's agent at the delivering point. Newborn v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 205, 87 S. E. 37.

Recovery Must Equal Claim.—In order to recover the penalty for failure to settle a claim for damages within ninety days, etc., the burden is on plaintiff to show that the amount of his recovery be at least equal to the amount of his written demand. Watkins v. American Railway Express Co., 190 N. C. 605, 130 S. E. 305.

Settlement after Penalty Accrues.—The proviso that consignee must first recover the full amount claimed is only to protect the carrier against excessive demands and not to discourage settlements for losses, and the plaintiff's right to recover the penalty in such suits is not lost by accepting settlement for damages for full amount claimed after the penalty had accrued. Rabon v. Atlantic Coast Line R., 149 N. C. 59, 62 S. E. 743.

Plaintiff Must Prove Failure to Settle.—The burden is on plaintiff to show that the common carrier has failed to settle his claim in ninety days, etc., after written demand under the provisions of this section, applying to intrastate shipments, and the prima facie case made out by showing the unreasonable delay in the delivery of the shipment is not sufficient. Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., 190 N. C. 605, 130 S. E. 305.

Measure of Damages for Delay.—In the trial of an action against a railroad company for loss occasioned by its delay in transporting machinery shipped over its line by plaintiff which was engaged in equipping a cotton factory, where it appeared that workmen employed by the plaintiff were forced to remain idle, though under pay of plaintiff, the measure of plaintiff's damages was the interest on the unemployed capital, the wages paid to workmen and such other costs and expenses incurred by plaintiff in consequence of the delay. Rocky Mount Mills v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 119 N. C. 693, 25 S. E. 854.

§ 60-121. Existing remedies to continue.—Section 60-120 shall not deprive any consignee of any rights or remedies now existing against common carriers in regard to freight charges or claims for loss or damage to freight, but shall be deemed and held as creating an additional liability upon such common carriers. (Rev., s. 2635; 1905, c. 330, s. 5; C. S. 3525.)

Common Law Remedies.—The common law remedies of shippers and passengers are not taken away by the provisions of this chapter. Bell v. Norfolk Sou. R. Co., 163 N. C. 180, 79 S. E. 42, and cases there cited.

Action May Be Brought in Contract or Tort.—A person who has sustained injuries by reason of the failure of a railroad company to provide proper means of transportation or operate its trains may bring an action on contract, or in tort, independent of the statute. Purcell v. Richmond & Danville R. Co., 108 N. C. 414, 12 S. E. 954, 956; Va-Carolina Peanut Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 155 N. C. 148, 71 S. E. 71.

§ 60-122. Carrier's right against prior carrier.—Any common carrier, upon complying with the provisions of §§ 60-114 and 60-120, shall have all the rights and remedies herein provided for against a common carrier from which it receives the freight in question. (Rev., s. 2636; 1905, c. 330, s. 3; C. S. 3526.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of utilities commission to act as arbitrator in disputes between carriers, see § 62-61.

§ 60-123. Regulation of demurrage.—No railroad or other transportation company doing business in the state shall make any charge on account of demurrage while a car, whether the same be a refrigerator car or not, is being loaded for shipment, until it has remained at the place of loading for forty-eight hours from the time it has been so placed; but the utilities commission may change this provision, if it considers it unreasonable, under the power vested in it under the chapter Utilities Commission, to make regulations as to demurrage and the loading of cars. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 55; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3527.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of utilities commission to regulate demurrage, see § 62-59.

§ 60-124. Shipment of livestock on Scuppernong river regulated; violation of regulations misdemeanor.—If any transportation company or common carrier shall receive livestock for shipment at any of the landings or shipping points on Scuppernong river, Columbia excepted, between the hours of sunset and sunrise, or shall during the time any livestock may be held for shipment at any landing or shipping point on such river, Columbia excepted, fail to keep the same in a covered pound or inclosure, supplied with necessary food and drinking water, and at all times in full view of the public, such transportation company, common carrier, or the agent of either, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3675; 1903, c. 283; C. S. 3528.)

§ 60-125. Carload shipments of watermelons regulated; violation of regulations misdemeanor.—It shall be the duty of all common carriers to furnish the weights of all carload shipments of watermelons originating within the state to the shippers thereof within forty-eight hours after receipt of the same. Any common carrier violating the provisions of this section shall upon conviction be fined ten dollars for each offense. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 68; C. S. 3529.)

§ 60-126. Express companies to settle promptly for cash-on-delivery shipments; penalty.—Every express company which shall fail to make settlement with the consignor of a cash-on-delivery shipment, either by payment of the moneys stipulated to be collected upon the delivery of the articles so shipped or by the return to such consignor of the article so shipped, within twenty days after demand made by the consignor and payment or tender of payment by him of the lawful charges for transportation, shall forfeit and pay to such consignor a penalty of twenty-five dollars, where the value of the shipment is twenty-five dollars or less; and, where the value of the shipment is over twenty-five dollars, a penalty equal to the value of the shipment; the penalty not to exceed fifty dollars in any case: Provided, no penalty shall be collectible where the shipments, through no act of negligence of the company, is burned, stolen or otherwise destroyed: Provided further, that the penalties here named shall not be in derogation of any right the consignor may now have to recover of the company damages for the loss of any cash-on-delivery shipment or for negligent delay in handling the same. (1909, c. 866; C. S. 3530.)

§ 60-127. Failure to place name on produce shipped misdemeanor.—Any person, firm or corporation selling or offering for sale or consignment any barrel, crate, box, case, package or other receptacle containing any berries, fruit, melons, potatoes, vegetables, truck or other produce of any kind whatsoever, to be shipped to any point within or without the state of North Carolina, without the true name of the grower or packer either written, printed, stamped or otherwise placed thereon in distinct and legible characters, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, that this section shall not apply to railroads, express companies and other transportation companies selling or offering for sale, for transportation or storage charges or any other charges accruing to such railroads, express companies or other transportation companies, any barrel, crate, box, case, package, or other receptacle containing berries, fruit, melons, potatoes, vegetables, truck or other produce. (1915, c. 193; C. S. 3531.)

§ 60-128. Unclaimed freight to be sold.—Every railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company which shall have had unclaimed freight, not perishable, in its possession for a period of six months, may proceed to sell the same at public auction, and out of the proceeds may retain the charges of transportation and storage of such freight and the expenses of the advertisement and sale thereof; but no such sale shall be made until the expiration of four weeks from the first publication of notice of such sale in a state paper and also in a newspaper published at or nearest the place at which such freight was directed to be left, and also at the place where such sale is to take place. The expenses incurred for advertising shall be a lien upon such freight in a ratable proportion according to the value of each article, package or parcel, if more than one. (Rev., s. 2637; Code, s. 1985; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 48; C. S. 3532.)

What Storage Charges Allowed for.—Storage charges are allowed the carrier for the service rendered in taking care of the goods, the inconvenience to the warehouseman, and the liability for their safe custody if they do not exercise proper care. Holloman v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 372, 90 S. E. 292.

Same—When Consignee Refuses Good. — Where a consignee of goods wrongfully refuses to receive goods on account of excessive charge made for their transportation, no demurrage charges are collectible by the carrier, but only reasonable storage charges, until, in the exercise of its rights under this section, it could properly dispose of the goods and thereby be relieved of further charge concerning them. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. New Bern Iron Works, 172 N. C. 188, 90 S. E. 149.

Applies to Interstate Shipment.—This section applies to interstate as well as intrastate shipments, in the absence of any interfering regulation by Congress or of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. New Bern Iron Works, 172 N. C. 188, 90 S. E. 149.

§ 60-129. Sale of unclaimed perishable freight.—In case such unclaimed freight shall in its nature be perishable, then the same may be sold as soon as it can be, on giving the notice required in § 60-128, after its receipt at the place where it was directed to be left. (Rev., s. 2638; Code, s. 1986; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 49; C. S. 3533.)

§ 60-130. Funds from unclaimed freight to be paid to state university.—Such railroad, steamboat, express or other transportation company shall make an entry of the balance of the proceeds of the sale, if any, of each parcel of freight owned by or consigned to the same person, as near as can be ascertained, and at any time within five years thereafter shall refund any surplus so retained to the owner of such freight, his heirs or assigns, on satisfactory proof of such ownership; if no person shall claim the surplus within five years, such surplus shall be paid to the state university. (Rev., s. 2639; Code, s. 1987; 1871-2, c. 138, s. 50; C. S. 3534.)

Cross Reference.—As to unclaimed personalty escheating to the University of North Carolina, see § 116-23.

§ 60-131. Sale of unclaimed baggage or freight; notice; sale of neglected property.—Any common carrier which has had in its possession on hand at any destination in this state any article whether baggage or freight, for a period of sixty days from its arrival at destination, which said carrier cannot deliver because unclaimed, may at the expiration of said sixty days sell the same at public auction at any point where in the opinion of the carrier the best price can be obtained: Provided, however, that notice of such sale shall be mailed to the consignor and consignee, by registered mail, if known to such carrier, not less than fifteen days before such sale shall be made; or notice of the sale shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published at the point of sale: Provided, that if there is no such paper published at such point, the publication may be made in any paper having a general circulation in the state: Provided further, however, that if the nondelivery of said article is due to the consignee's and consignor's rejection of it, then such article may be sold by the carrier at public or private sale, and at such time and place as will in the carrier's judgment net the best price, and this without further notice to either consignee or consignor, and without the necessity of publication. (1921, c. 124, s. 1; C. S. 3534(a).)

§ 60-132. Sale of live or perishable or cheap freight.—Where the article referred to in § 60-131 is live freight, or perishable freight, or freight of such low value as would not bring the accrued transportation and other charges if held for sixty days as provided in said section, the common carrier may, with or without advertisement, sell the same in such manner and at such time and in such place as will best in its judgment protect the interests of the carrier, the consignor and the consignee, and whenever practicable the consignor and consignee shall be notified of the proposed sale of such live or perishable freight, or freight of such low value. (1921, c. 124, s. 2; C. S. 3534(b).)

§ 60-133. Record of articles and prices; deduction of expenses; payment of balance.—The carrier shall keep a record of the articles sold, and of the prices obtained therefor, and shall, after deducting all charges and expenses of the sale, including advertisement, if advertised, pay the balance to the owner of such articles on demand therefor made at any time within two years from the date of the sale. (1921, c. 124, s. 3; C. S. 3534(c).)

Art. 14. Street and Interurban Railways.

§ 60-134. May build and maintain water-power plants.—Where any street or interurban railway company owns lands on one or both sides of a stream which can be used in developing a water-power, and desires to erect and maintain a water-power plant for the purpose of generating electricity to be used in operating such railway, then such railway company shall have the power to erect, maintain and operate such water-power plant for such purpose, and may build, maintain and operate any and all dams, ponds, canals, bridges, ferries, aqueducts, flumes, water-ways, wasteways, reservoirs, and all works, machinery, houses, shops and buildings necessary for the use and operation of a water-power plant for generating electricity. Whenever such company shall not own the entire water-front, or all of the lands, water rights, or other easements necessary to be used in fully developing such water-power, it shall have the power to acquire any other lands, water rights or easements which may be needed to fully develop such water-power; and if the company cannot agree with the owners for the purchase of such lands, water rights or other easements, the same may be condemned by the railway company for that purpose, and the procedure shall be the same as that provided for the condemnation of lands for railroads: Provided, that no dwelling house, yard, garden, orchard or burial-ground shall be condemned for such purpose: Provided further, that such company shall not have the power to condemn any water-power, right or property of any person, firm or corporation engaged in the actual service of the general public, where such power, right or property is being used or held to be used or to be developed for use in connection with or in addition to any power actually used by such person, firm or corporation serving the general public. Any surplus electric power generated by any plant erected under the provisions of this section may be sold by such company upon reasonable terms. (1907, c. 302; 1913, c. 94; C. S. 3535.)

Burden of Proof.—Where a quasi-public corporation brings action for condemnation, and the defendant resists upon the ground that the lands or power sought to be taken are protected by the statute, the burden of proof is upon the defendant to bring the lands or water-power within the provision of the statutes excepting them. Blue Ridge Interurban R. Co. v. Hendersonville Light, etc., Co., 171 N. C. 314, 88 S. E. 245.

Land to Be Used in Developing Power.—A public-service corporation, owning lands on one bank of stream, cannot condemn across the stream and take the water rights held in the stream by another public-service corporation, when it appears that the defendant holds its lands across the stream to supply power to operate its electric light and power plant, with which it is supplying such light and power to its patrons. Blue Ridge Interurban R. Co. v. Hendersonville Light, etc., Co., 169 N. C. 471, 86 S. E. 296; Blue Ridge Interurban R. Co. v. Oates, 164 N. C. 167; 80 S. E. 398.

§ 60-135. Separate accommodations for different races; failure to provide misdemeanor.—All street, interurban and suburban railway companies, engaged as common carriers in the transportation of passengers for hire in the state of North Carolina, shall provide and set apart so much of the front portion of each car operated by them as shall be necessary, for occupation by the white passengers therein, and shall likewise provide and set apart so much of the rear part of such car as shall be necessary, for occupation by the colored passengers therein, and shall require as far as practicable the white and colored passengers to occupy the respective parts of such car so set apart for each of them. The provisions of this section shall not apply to nurses or attendants of children or of the sick or infirm of a different race, while in attendance upon such children or such sick or infirm persons. Any officer, agent or other employee of any street railway company who shall willfully violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1907, c. 850, ss. 1, 5, 7; 1909, c. 851; C. S. 3536.)

Cross Reference.—As to railroads providing separate accommodations, see § 60-94.

"Willful," as used in a criminal statute, means something more than an intention to do a thing; it implies the doing of an act purposely and deliberately, without authority or careless whether one has the right to do the act or not, in violation of law. State v. Harris, 213 N. C. 758, 197 S. E. 594.

§ 60-136. Passengers to take certain seats; violation of requirement misdemeanor.—Any white person entering a street car or other passenger vehicle or motor bus for the purpose of becoming a passenger therein shall, in order to carry out the purposes of § 60-135, occupy the first vacant seat or unoccupied space nearest the front thereof, and any colored person entering a street car or other passenger vehicle or motor bus for a like purpose shall occupy the first vacant seat or unoccupied space nearest the rear end thereof, provided, however, that no contiguous seat on the same bench shall be occupied by white and colored passengers at the same time, unless and until all the other seats in the car have been occupied. Upon request of the person in charge of the street car or other passenger vehicle or motor bus, and when necessary in order to carry out the purpose of providing separate seats for white and colored passengers, it shall be the duty of any white person to move to any unoccupied seat toward or in the front of the car, vehicle or bus, and the duty of any colored person to move to any unoccupied seat toward or in the rear thereof, and the failure of any such person to so move shall constitute prima facie evidence of an intent to violate this section. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Any such person may also be ejected from the car, vehicle or bus by the person charged with the operation thereof. Each person now or hereafter charged with the operation of any such street car, passenger vehicle or motor bus is hereby invested with police powers and authority to carry out the provisions of this section. (1907, c. 850, ss. 2, 6; 1939, c. 147; C. S. 3537.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment inserted the words "or other passenger vehicle or motor bus" in the first sentence. It also inserted the second sentence and made other changes in the section.

§ 60-137. No liability for mistake in assigning passengers to wrong seat.—No street, suburban or interurban railway company, its agents, servants or employees, shall be liable to any person on account of any mistake in the designation of any passenger to a seat or part of a car set apart for passengers of the other race. (1907, c. 850, s. 8; C. S. 3538.)

§ 60-138. Misconduct on car; riding on front platform misdemeanor.—It shall be unlawful for any passenger to expectorate upon the floor or any other part of any street-car, or to use, while thereon, any loud, profane or indecent language, or to make any insulting or disparaging remark to or about any other passenger or person thereon within his or her hearing. It shall likewise be unlawful for any passenger to stand willfully upon the front platform, fender, bumper, running-board or steps of such car while the same is in motion, whether such passenger has or has not paid the usual fare for riding on such car. Any person willfully violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. He may also be ejected from the car by the conductor and other agent or agents charged with the operation of such car, who are hereby invested with police powers to carry out the provisions of this section. (1907, c. 850, ss. 3, 6; C. S. 3539.)

§ 60-139. Sections 60-135 to 60-138 extended to motor busses used as common carriers.—The provisions of §§ 60-135 to 60-138 are hereby extended to motor busses operated in the urban, interurban or suburban transportation of passengers for hire, and to the operator or operators thereof, and the agents, servants, and employees of such operators. (1933, c. 489.)

Applied in State v. Harris, 213 N. C. 758, 197 S. E. 594.

§ 60-140. Passenger riding on rear platform assumes risk; copies of section to be posted.—Any passenger who shall ride upon the rear platform of any street-car in motion, when there is room for such passenger either to sit or stand inside the car, shall be deemed to have assumed all the risks of being injured while so riding, as the result of any act of the street-car company: Provided, that such company shall make it appear that such passenger would not have been injured had he been on the inside of said car: Provided further, that before any street, interurban or suburban railway shall be allowed to invoke the provisions of this section it shall have copies thereof printed and framed and one copy hung in each end of all cars operated on its lines, and shall further have a placard hung in a conspicuous place on the rear of such cars, which shall read as follows: "Passengers are warned not to ride on this platform," and a placard hung on each side of open cars in a conspicuous place, which shall read as follows: "Passengers are warned not to ride on the running board." (1907, c. 850, s. 4; C. S. 3540.)

Cross Reference.—As to injury while on train platform, see § 60-105.

§ 60-141. Street-cars to have vestibule fronts; failure to provide them misdemeanor.—All street passenger railway companies shall use vestibule fronts, of frontage not less than four feet, on all passenger cars run by them on their lines during the latter half of the month of November and during the months of December, January, February and March of each year: Provided, that such companies shall not be required to close the sides of the vestibules: Provided further, that such companies may use cars without vestibule fronts in cases of temporary emergency in suitable weather, not to exceed four days in any one month within the period herein prescribed for the use of vestibule fronts. The utilities commission is hereby authorized to make exemptions from the provisions of this section in cases where in their judgment the enforcement of this section is unnecessary. Any such company that shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day of such refusal or failure. (Rev., ss. 2615, 3800; 1901, c. 743; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3541.)

Duty of Street Car Company.—A street car company owes the duty to its passengers to use a high degree of care to see that they safely alight from its cars. Woods v. North Carolina Public-Service Corporation, 174 N. C. 697, 94 S. E. 459.

Plaintiff Must Prove Casual Connection.—The plaintiff must show a casual connection between the violation by defendant of this section and the injury sustained. Rich v. Asheville Electric Co., 152 N. C. 689, 68 S. E. 232.

§ 60-142. Street cars to have fenders; failure to provide them misdemeanor.—All street passenger railway companies shall use practical fenders in front of all passenger cars run by them. The utilities commission is hereby authorized to make exemptions from the provisions of this section in cases where in their judgment the enforcement of this section is unnecessary. Any such company that shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day of such refusal or failure. (Rev., ss. 2616, 3801; 1901, c. 743, s. 2; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3542.)

"Practical Fenders."—The "practical fenders" required for street cars by this section are those which are efficient for the purpose of protecting human life, etc., or the most approved appliance in general use, and a violation of this statute is negligence per se. Smith v. Charlotte Elec. Ry. Co., 173 N. C. 489, 92 S. E. 382.

Violation Negligence Per Se.—The violation of this section by a street car company, in failing to provide a "practical fender" for its car, causing an injury, is evidence of actionable negligence per se. Hanes v. Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 191 N. C. 13, 131 S. E. 402; Ingle v. Asheville Power, etc., Co., 172 N. C. 751, 90 S. E. 953.

Travelers by Vehicles Protected. — The requirement of this section, that all street cars when operated must have practical fenders on the lead end thereof, applies to the protection of those traveling by vehicles, automobiles, etc. Hanes v. Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 191 N. C. 13, 131 S. E. 402.

Burden of Proof as to Exemption.—The burden of proof is on a street railway company to show that the Corporation Commission, in its judgment, had found it unnecessary to enforce the provisions of this section, requiring the use of "practical fenders" on their street cars, in an action to recover damages caused by its negligence in not using them. Smith v. Charlotte Elec. Ry. Co., 173 N. C. 489, 92 S. E. 382.

Exemption of All Companies Unauthorized.—This section does not authorize an exemption of all the street railway companies by the Corporation Commission, as this amounts to a suspension of the statute. Henderson v. Durham Traction Co., 132 N. C. 779, 44 S. E. 598.

Evidence.—In an action for the killing of a dog by a street car, it is not competent to show the condition of the fenders on particular cars other than the one by which the dog was killed, it being shown that the fenders were different on different cars. Moore v. Electric Ry., etc., Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822.

Art. 15. Electric Interurban Railways.

§ 60-143. Organization.—Any electric interurban railway company, whether organized under the laws of this or any other State, may construct, maintain and operate electric interurban railways and engage in business in this State. (1927, c. 33, s. 1.)

§ 60-144. Right of eminent domain.—Any such company may exercise the right of eminent domain under the provisions of chapter forty and acts amendatory thereof, and for the purpose of constructing its roads and other works, shall have the powers given railroad corporations by this chapter, and acts amendatory thereof, except that no such company when organized under the laws of another state shall operate any part of its line of railway in this State by steam motive power, or as a part of a general steam railroad system of transportation. (1927, c. 33, s. 2.)

§ 60-145. Status defined.—All such companies shall be deemed public service corporations and shall be subject to the laws of this State regulating such corporations. (1927, c. 33, s. 3.)

Art. 16. Pipe Line Companies.

§ 60-146. Right of eminent domain conferred upon pipe line companies; other rights.—Any pipe line company transporting or conveying natural gas, gasoline, crude oil, or other fluid substances by pipe line for the public for compensation, and incorporated under the laws of the state of North Carolina, may exercise the right of eminent domain under the provisions of chapter forty and acts amendatory thereof, and for the purpose of constructing and maintaining its pipe lines and other works shall have all the rights and powers given railroads and other corporations by chapters fifty-six and sixty and acts amendatory thereof, provided the pipe lines of such companies transporting or conveying natural gas, gasoline, crude oil, or other fluid substances shall originate within this state. Nothing herein shall prohibit any such pipe line company granted the right of eminent domain under the laws of this state from extending its pipe lines from within this state into another state for the purpose of transporting natural gas into this state, nor to prohibit any such pipe line company from conveying or transporting natural gas, gasoline, crude oil, or other fluid substances from within this state into another state. All such pipe lines companies shall be deemed public service companies and shall be subject to the laws of this state regulating such corporations. (1937, c. 280.)

Cross Reference.—As to supervision by the utilities commission, see § 62-30.

Editor's Note.—Both chapters 108 and 280 of the Public Laws 1937, apply only to pipe lines originating in North Carolina. Chapter 108 amends § 40-2. See 15 N. C. L. Rev. 364.

Chapter 61. Religious Societies.

§ 61-1. Trustees may be appointed and removed.—The conference, synod, convention or other ecclesiastical body representing any church or religious denomination within the state, as also the religious societies and congregations within the state, may from time to time and at any time appoint in such manner as such body, society or congregation may deem proper, a suitable number of persons as trustees for such church, denomination, religious society, or congregation. The body appointing may remove such trustees or any of them, and fill all vacancies caused by death or otherwise. (Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796, c. 457, ss. 1, 2; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76; C. S. 3568.)

Applies Only to Religious Societies.—This section applies only to religious societies and not to educational institutions. Allen v. Baskerville, 123 N. C. 126, 127, 31 S. E. 383; Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

Society May Remove Trustee.—Under the provisions of this section, a religious society may remove a trustee of church property who proves faithless to his trust, and may fill any vacancy thus created. Nash v. Sutton, 117 N. C. 231, 23 S. E. 178. Faithlessness is not required, however, it may remove trustees at will. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 72 S. E. 617.

Same—Trustee May Maintain Action.—A duly appointed trustee of a religious society may maintain an action for the removal of faithless or incompetent trustees, and compel them to convey the property held by them to the purposes for which it was designed, and such trustee may also maintain an action to set up a lost deed executed for the benefit of the cestui que trust. Nash v. Sutton, 109 N. C. 550, 14 S. E. 77.

Same—Member May Maintain Action.—In the absence of competent trustee and a governing body authorized to appoint trustees, any member of a religious society has such a beneficial interest as will enable him, in behalf of fellow members, to maintain such action as may be necessary to protect their common interest. Nash v. Sutton, 109 N. C. 550, 14 S. E. 77.

Same—Section Not Affected by Church Rule.—A church has authority to appoint a "suitable number" of its own trustees for the purpose of acquiring and holding church property, and remove them or any of them at will, and where the congregational regulations of the denomination with which a church is affiliated has provided a notice to be given for the trial of "offenses," it does not apply to the election or removal of trustees nor take from the church its rights when in conflict with the statutes. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 72 S. E. 617.

When All Trustees Are Dead.—Upon the death of the last survivor of a board of trustees named in a deed for property to be used as a "Baptist church and for the education of the youths of the colored race," it was held that their successors will be appointed under section 45-9, by the clerk of the court. Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

Voluntary Withdrawal of Members.—What amounts to a voluntary withdrawal of members from a religious association is a question of law. Perry v. Tupper, 74 N. C. 722.

Cited in dissenting opinion of Faircloth, C. J., in Tilley v. Ellis, 119 N. C. 233, 245, 26 S. E. 29.

§ 61-2. Trustees may hold property.—The trustees and their successors have power to receive donations, and to purchase, take and hold property, real and personal, in trust for such church or denomination, religious society or congregation; and they may sue or be sued in all proper actions, for or on account of the donations and property so held or claimed by them, and for and on account of any matters relating thereto. They shall be accountable to the churches, denominations, societies and congregations for the use and management of such property, and shall surrender it to any person authorized to demand it. (Rev., ss. 2670, 2671; Code, ss. 3667, 3668; R. C., c. 97; 1796, c. 457, ss. 1, 3; 1844, c. 47; 1848, c. 76; C. S. 3569.)

Cross References.—As to charitable trusts generally, see §§ 36-19 et seq. As to certain religious associations presumed to be incorporated, see § 55-13.

Applies Only to Property Held for Religious Purposes.—This section applies only to property held for religious purposes and not to property held in trust for a "Baptist church and for the education of the youths of the colored race." Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

No General Capacity of Acquisition.—Religious societies or their trustees have not a general capacity of acquisition; they can only take for the use of the society. Trustees v. Dickenson, 12 N. C. 189.

And by a conveyance to trustees, for purposes forbidden by the policy of the law, nothing passes. Trustees v. Dickenson, 12 N. C. 189.

Original Trustees May Sue though Not Legally Appointed.—Where a conveyance is made to three persons for a certain tract of land, as trustees for a church, a suit of trespass may be brought by them against the wrongdoers, though they may not have been appointed trustees according to law. Walker v. Fawcett, 29 N. C. 44.

It is only when a suit is brought by persons, who claim as "successors," that the question arises, whether the original bargainees were duly chosen the trustees of a religious congregation, and whether the persons suing were also duly chosen trustees, so as to give them legally the character of "successors" to the former, and thereby vest in them the title to the property, which is necessary to support an action. Walker v. Fawcett, 29 N. C. 44.

Trustees Are Agents.—The trustees of a church are merely agents and have no property interest as against the governing body of the church. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 527, 72 S. E. 617.

Same—May Mortgage Property.—A congregation taking possession of a church cannot contest the validity of a mortgage given by the trustees for the purchase money on the ground that it was ultra vires. Rountree v. Blount, 129 N. C. 25, 39 S. E. 631.

Same—Parties to Enforce Bequest.—Where a testator provides for building a fence around a certain chapel cemetery, the trustees of the chapel are the proper parties to require the executor to perform this provision. Cabe v. Vanhook, 127 N. C. 424, 37 S. E. 464.

Same—Cannot Recover for individual Suffering.—In suit by the trustees of a church against a railroad company for the improper use of its terminal or depot at or near the manse of the church, no recovery can be had for any physical suffering upon the part of their pastor, his family, or the individuals composing the congregation. Taylor v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 145 N. C. 400, 59 S. E. 129.

Title Vested Individually.—The title to church property is vested in the trustees individually and they may recover at law, though in the writ and declaration they style themselves "trustees." Walker v. Fawcett, 29 N. C. 44.

Church Has Right to Use of Property.—A church of the congregational system having elected certain trustees to supersede several theretofore elected, holds the church property through those trustees later elected, and has the right to the use of the church for religious services without molestation from the trustees removed, or from its conference. Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 72 S. E. 617.

Interest of Individual Member.—An individual member of a religious society has an equitable interest in the property held by the society. Nash v. Sutton, 117 N. C. 231, 23 S. E. 178.

Title Not in Controversy in Contest between Trustees.—In a contest between two committees, each claiming to be the rightful board of trustees, to hold the same title in trust for the same beneficial owner, the title does not come in controversy. Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

Levy on Communion Service. — A communion service of a church is not liable to seizure and sale under an execution by a pastor for salary due him. Lord v. Hardie, 82 N. C. 241.

Liability of Trustees.—The trustees of a church are liable for material ordered by one of their number and used in building the church although the order was not authorized. Tull v. Trustees, 75 N. C. 424. But the building committee of a church is not liable for injuries received by a workman. Wilson v. Clark, 110 N. C. 364, 14 S. E. 962.

§ 61-3. Title to lands vested in trustees, or in societies.—All glebes, lands and tenements, heretofore purchased, given, or devised for the support of any particular ministry, or mode of worship, and all churches and other houses built for the purpose of public worship, and all lands and donations of any kind of property or estate that have been or may be given, granted or devised to any church or religious denomination, religious society or congregagtion within the state for their respective use, shall be and remain forever to the use and occupancy of that church or denomination, society or congregation for which the glebes, lands, tenements, property and estate were so purchased, given, granted or devised, or for which such churches, chapels or other houses of public worship were built; and the estate therein shall be deemed and held to be absolutely vested, as between the parties thereto, in the trustees respectively of such churches, denominations, societies and congregations, for their several use, according to the intent expressed in the conveyance, gift, grant or will; and in case there shall be no trustees, then in such churches, denominations, societies and congregations, respectively, according to such intent. (Rev., s. 2672; Code, s. 3665; R. C., c. 97, s. 1; 1776, c. 107; 1796, c. 457, s. 4; C. S. 3570.)

Cross Reference.—See notes to the preceding section.

Editor's Note.—The rights of an individual member of the congregation under the congregational system is discussed in Conference v. Allen, 156 N. C. 524, 526, 72 S. E. 617; and the connectional system is discussed in Kerr v. Hicks, 154 N. C. 265, 268, 70 S. E. 468; Tilley v. Ellis, 119 N. C. 233, 242, 26 S. E. 29; Gold v. Cozart, 173 N. C. 612, 614, 92 S. E. 600; Simmons v. Allison, 118 N. C. 763, 770, 24 S. E. 716.

No Legal Provision for Diffusing Christianity.—There is no provision in our laws for donations, to be employed in any general system of diffusing the knowledge of Christianity throughout the earth. Bridges v. Pleasants, 39 N. C. 26.

Applies Only to Religious Societies.—This section applies only to religious societies and not to educational institutions. Allen v. Baskerville, 123 N. C. 126 127, 31 S. E. 383.

Specific Trust Must Be Imperative.—A specific trust will not be superimposed upon a title conveyed to a religious congregation, authorizing the courts to interfere and control the management and disposition of the property, unless this is the clear intent of the grantor expressed in language which should be construed as imperative. Hayes v. Franklin, 141 N. C. 599, 54 S. E. 432.

Purpose Must Be Definite.—A bequest for religious charity must, in this State, be to some definite purpose, and to some body or association of persons having a legal existence and with capacity to take. Bridges v. Pleasants, 39 N. C. 26.

Division of Devised Property.—Where a will devised certain lands to the diocese of a church and afterwards the diocese was divided into two dioceses the land becomes the property of both and not that of the diocese in which the land happens to be and in which the testator resided. Trustees v. Trustees, 102 N. C. 442, 9 S. E. 310.

Title by Adverse Possession.—A church holding real property for a hundred years, and using it for religious purposes, acquires a fee-simple title by adverse possession, independent of the validity of its deed. Gold v. Cozart, 173 N. C. 612, 92 S. E. 600.

Amount Insufficient.—A provision in a will that a church is to be built from certain funds will not fail because there is not sufficient amount of the funds to build a church as large as directed by the testator. Paine v. Forney, 128 N. C. 237, 38 S. E. 885.

No Trust Created.—The recital in a deed conveying land to the vestry and wardens of a church that it was made "for the purpose of aiding in the establishment of a Home for Indigent Widows or Orphans, or in the promotion of any other charitable or religious objects to which the property may be appropriated" by the grantee, creates no trust, and the grantee can convey a perfect title. St. James v. Bagley, 138 N. C. 384, 50 S. E. 841.

Doctrine of Cy-Pres Not Applicable.—In the case of devises to charitable purposes, the doctrine of cy-pres does not obtain in this State. Bridges v. Pleasants, 39 N. C. 26.

Cited in dissenting opinion of Faircloth, C. J., in Tilley v. Ellis, 119 N. C. 233, 245, 26 S. E. 29.

§ 61-4. Trustees may convey property.—The trustees of any religious body may mortgage or sell and convey in fee simple any land owned by such body, when directed so to do by such church, congregation, society or denomination, or its committee, board or body having charge of its finances, and all such conveyances so made or heretofore made, or hereafter to be made, shall be effective to pass the land in fee simple to the purchaser or to the mortgagee for the purposes in such conveyances or mortgage expressed; and they may sell or mortgage its personal property. (Rev., s. 2673; 1855, c. 384; 1889, c. 484; C. S. 3571.)

Sale to Promote Testator's Purpose.—Where a testator devised lands to the trustees of a certain church, "to be held by them as a rectory or residence for the ministers of said church; that the same shall not be disposed of, sold, or used in any other way or for any other purpose than the one designated," the trustees might sell the property if the purpose declared would be promoted thereby; or the court might order a sale under its general equity power. Church v. Ange, 161 N. C. 314, 77 S. E. 239.

Same—Lease of Part of Property.—Where land was conveyed to a church for the purpose of maintaining a church for worship, the court will not restrain the officers of the church from leasing a small portion of the lot for erecting a store. Hayes v. Franklin, 141 N. C. 599, 54 S. E. 432.

Cited in Bond v. Tarboro, 217 N. C. 289, 7 S. E. (2d) 617, 127 A. L. R. 695.

§ 61-5. Authority of bishops, ministers, etc., to acquire, hold and transfer property; prior transfers validated.—Whenever the laws, rules, or ecclesiastic polity of any church or religious sect, society or denomination, commits to its duly elected or appointed bishop, minister or other ecclesiastical officer, authority to administer its affairs, such duly elected or appointed bishop, minister or other ecclesiastical officer shall have power to acquire by gift, purchase or otherwise, and to hold, improve, mortgage, sell and convey the property, real or personal, of any such church or religious sect, society or denomination, for the purposes, in the manner and otherwise as authorized and permitted by its laws, rules or ecclesiastic polity; and in the event of the transfer, removal, resignation or death of any such bishop, minister or other ecclesiastical officer, the title and all rights with respect to any such property shall pass to and become vested in his duly elected or appointed successor immediately upon appointment or election, and pending appointment or election of such successor, such title and rights shall be vested in such person or persons as shall be designated by the laws, rules or ecclesiastic polity of such church or religious sect, society or denomination.

All deeds, deeds of trust, mortgages, wills or other instruments made prior to March 24, 1939, to or by a duly elected or appointed bishop, minister or other ecclesiastical officer, who, at the time of the making of any such deed, deed of trust, mortgage, will or other instrument, or thereafter, had authority to administer the affairs of any church, religious sect, society or denomination under its laws, rules or ecclesiastic polity, transferring property, real or personal, of any such church or religious sect, society or denomination, are hereby ratified and declared valid; and all transfers of title and rights with respect to property, prior to March 24, 1939, from a predecessor bishop, minister or other ecclesiastical officer who has resigned or died, or has been transferred or removed, to his duly elected or appointed successor, by the laws, rules or ecclesiastic polity of any such church, or religious sect, society or denomination, either by written instruments or solely by virtue of the election or appointment of such successor, are also hereby ratified and declared valid.

This section shall not affect vested rights, or repeal any of the provisions of §§ 61-1 to 61-4, or of §§ 36-21 to 36-23. (1939, c. 177.)

§ 61-6. House on vacant land vests title.—All houses and edifices erected for public religious worship on vacant lands, or on lands of the state not for other purposes intended or appropriated, together with two acres adjoining the same, shall hereafter be held and kept sacred for divine worship, to and for the use of the society by which the same was originally established. (Rev., s. 2674; Code, s. 3666; R. C., c. 97, s. 2; 1778, c. 132, s. 6; C. S. 3572.)

§ 62-1. Number and appointment of commissioners; terms.—The North Carolina utilities commission shall consist of three commissioners, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the consent of the senate. The term of office of each commissioner shall be six years, provided that the first three commissioners shall be appointed one for a term of six years, one for a term of four years, and one for a term of two years, and their successors shall be appointed for a term of six years. (1941, c. 97, s. 2.)

§ 62-3. Oath of office.—Each utilities commissioner before entering upon the duties of his office shall file with the secretary of state his oath of office to support the constitution and laws of the United States and the constitution and laws of the state of North Carolina, and to well and truly perform the duties of his said office as utilities commissioner, and that he is not the agent or attorney of any utility company or public-service corporation, or an employee thereof, and that he has no interest in any such company or corporation. (1933, c. 134, s. 5; 1935, c. 280; 1939, c. 404; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-4. Present utilities commissioner appointed to new commission; chairman.—The present utilities commissioner is hereby named a commissioner of the North Carolina utilities commission for a term of six years, beginning with February first, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, and is hereby designated chairman of said commission, to hold such office during his term. Thereafter the governor of the state of North Carolina is hereby vested with the right to designate the chairman of the North Carolina utilities commission. (1941, c. 97, s. 4.)

§ 62-5. Clerical assistance.—The utilities commission shall be allowed such stenographic and other clerical assistance as it may require for the performance of the duties and functions of the said office, to be established and fixed by such department, bureau, or other state agency as may be charged by law with the duty of determining the extent of such assistance in said departments; all such stenographers, clerks, and assistants and special investigators so provided for to be appointed by the utilities commission and subject to removal or discharge by it. The salaries and compensation of such clerical assistants, special investigators, or other office force as may be allowed in the office of the utilities commission shall be fixed in the manner as now provided by law for fixing and regulating the salaries and compensation by other state departments. (1933, c. 134, s. 14; 1941, c. 97.)

Cross Reference.—As to determination of extent of assistance and regulation of salaries of stenographers, see § 143-36 and § 143-37.

§ 62-6. To report annually to governor.—It shall be the duty of the commission to make to the governor annual reports of its transactions, and recommend from time to time such legislation as it may deem advisable under the provisions of this chapter, and the governor shall have one thousand copies of such report printed for distribution. (Rev., s. 1117; 1899, c. 164, s. 27; 1911, c. 211, s. 9, 1913, c. 10, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1065.)

Reports of the Corporation Commission [now Utilities Commission] of North Carolina are matters of public record, of which the courts therein will take judicial notice. Staton v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 135, 56 S. E. 794.

§ 62-7. To keep record of receipts and disbursements. — The commission shall keep a record showing in detail all receipts and disbursements. (Rev., s. 1115; 1899, c. 164, s. 34; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1063.)

§ 62-8. To pay fees and money into treasury.—All license fees and seal tax and all other fees paid into the office of the utilities commission shall be turned into the state treasury; also all moneys received from fines and penalties. (Rev., s. 1114, 1899, c. 164, ss. 26, 33; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1064.)

§ 62-9. Adoption and use of seal; certificate.—The North Carolina Utilities Commission shall adopt a seal; and in all cases where a seal is required on any document, such seal so adopted by the utilities commission shall be sufficient; and whenever any record, paper, or document is required to be certified or evidenced by the certificate of the utilities commission or its chief clerk or wherever any act or thing is required or permitted to be evidenced by such certificate, the certificate shall be made by the utilities commission. (1933, c. 134, s. 15; 1941, c. 97, s. 7.)

§ 62-10. Public record of proceedings; chief clerk.—The utilities commission shall keep in its office at all times a record of its official acts, rulings, and transactions, which shall be public records of the state of North Carolina, and all rulings and determinations of said commission upon matters and things authorized to be passed upon by this chapter, and shall have and appoint a chief clerk, who shall be experienced in railroad and other public utilities statistics, transportation and public-service charges, and whose term of office shall be for a period of two years, and he shall file with the secretary of state the oath of office similar to that prescribed for the utilities commission. The utilities commission shall have power to remove such clerk for cause at any time. (1933, c. 134, s. 13; 1941, c. 97.)

Art. 2. Procedure before the Commission.

§ 62-11. Commission constituted court of record.—For the purpose of making investigations and conducting hearings, the utilities commission is hereby constituted a court of record and shall have all the powers and jurisdiction of a court of general jurisdiction as to all subjects embraced within this chapter. The commissioners and their clerks shall have full power to administer oaths, hear and take evidence, and said commission or commissioners shall render their decisions upon questions of law and of fact as other courts of similar jurisdiction. (1933, c. 134, s. 9; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-12. Rules of practice.—The North Carolina utilities commission hereby created shall formulate and promulgate rules of practice, including rules for hearings by one or more members of the commission, provided that as to any hearing before less than a majority of the commission, the rules shall provide for a proposed report, exceptions to said report, and a final hearing before a majority of the commission upon the record, including the exceptions. (1941, c. 97, s. 6; 1943, c. 782, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment omitted provisions relating to hearings before employees of the commission.

§ 62-13. Witnesses; production of papers; contempt. — The utilities commission shall have the same power to compel the attendance of witnesses, require the examination of persons and parties, and compel the production of books and papers, and punish for contempt, as by law is conferred upon the superior courts. (Rev., s. 1067; 1899, c. 164, ss. 1, 9, 10; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1090.)

Cross References.—As to attendance of witnesses, see § 8-59 to § 8-64. As to contempt, see §§ 5-1 et seq.

§ 62-14. Refusal of witness to testify.—If any person duly summoned to appear and testify before the utilities commission shall fail or refuse to testify without lawful excuse, or shall refuse to answer any proper question propounded to him by said commission in the discharge of duty, or shall conduct himself in a rude, disrespectful or disorderly manner before said commission deliberating in the discharge of duty, such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than one thousand dollars. (Rev., s. 3691; 1899, c. 164, s. 10; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1091.)

§ 62-15. Rules of evidence.—In all cases under the provisions of this chapter the rules of evidence shall be the same as in civil actions, except as provided by this chapter. (Rev., s. 1069; 1899, c. 164, s. 26; C. S. 1093.)

Cross Reference.—As to rules of evidence generally, see §§ 8-1 et seq.

Rule Same as in Civil Actions.—The section provides that the rules of evidence shall be the same as in other civil actions. The petitioner must prove the existence of the facts alleged as the basis for the relief sought, unless the respondent admits them or fails to answer. In case of failure to answer, the Commission will take such proof of the charge as may be deemed reasonable and proper, and make such order thereon as the circumstances of the case appear to require. Subpoenas will issue requiring the attendance of witnesses or the production of books, papers, documents, etc., relating to any matter pending before the Commission. And depositions may be taken in any cause at issue, 2 N. C. Law Rev. 74.

§ 62-16. Subpoenas; issuance; service. — All subpoenas for witnesses to appear before the commission, and notice to persons or corporations, shall be issued by the commission or its clerk and be directed to any sheriff, constable or to the marshal of any city or town, who shall execute the same and make due return thereof as directed therein, under the penalties prescribed by law for a failure to execute and return the process of any court. (Rev., s. 1070; 1899, c. 164, s. 10; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1094.)

Cross Reference.—As to penalty upon sheriff for failing to execute and return process, see § 162-14.

§ 62-17. Service of orders.—The clerk of the commission may serve any notice issued by it, and his return thereof shall be evidence of said service; and it shall be the duty of the sheriffs and other officers to serve any process, subpoenas and notices issued by the commission, and they shall be entitled therefor to the same fees as are prescribed by law for serving similar papers issuing from the superior court. (Rev., s. 1071; 1899, c. 164, s. 9; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1095.)

Cross Reference.—As to sheriffs fees, see § 162-6.

§ 62-18. Undertakings.—All bonds or undertakings required to be given by any of the provisions of this chapter shall be payable to the state of North Carolina, and may be sued on as are other undertakings which are payable to the state. (Rev., s. 1072; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; C. S. 1096.)

§ 62-19. Judgments of commission.—The Utilities Commission shall hear and determine such matter, thing, or controversy in dispute, pass upon and determine the issues of fact raised thereon, and the questions of law involved therein, and make and enter their findings and conclusions thereon as the judgment of the said utilities commission. From the decision of said utilities commission any party to said proceeding may appeal to the superior court at term as designated in and under the rules of procedure required by §§ 62-20 to 62-25, said appeal to be prosecuted and the said matter and controversy there to be heard and disposed of as is now provided by law, and upon such appeal being taken, it shall be the duty of the utilities commission to certify its decision and rulings to the said superior court as now provided by law. (1933, c. 134, s. 12; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-20. Right of appeal; how taken.—From all decisions or determinations made by the utilities commission, any party affected thereby shall be entitled to an appeal. Before such party shall be allowed to appeal, he shall, within ten days after notice of such decision or determination, file with the commission exceptions to the decision or determination of the commission, which exceptions shall state the grounds of objection to such decision or determination. If any one of such exceptions shall be overruled, then such party may appeal from the order overruling the exception, and shall, within ten days after the decision overruling the exception, give notice of his appeal. When an exception is made to the facts as found by the commission, the appeal shall be to the superior court in term time; otherwise to the judge of the superior court at chambers. The party appealing shall, within ten days after the notice of appeal has been served, file with the commission exceptions to the decision or determination overruling the exception, which statement shall assign the errors complained of and the grounds of the appeal. Upon the filing of such statement the commission shall, within ten days, transmit all the papers and evidence considered by it, together with the assignment of errors filed by the appellant, to a judge of the superior court holding court or residing in some district in which such company operates or the party resides. If there be no exceptions to any facts as found by the commission, it shall be heard by the judge at chambers at some place in the district, of which all parties shall have ten days notice. (Rev., s. 1074; 1899, c. 161, ss. 7, 28; 1903, c. 126; 1907, c. 469, s. 6; 1913, c. 127, s. 4; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1097.)

Right Confined to Parties.—The section distinctly confines the right of appeal to a party to the proceeding. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 560, 87 S. E. 785.

Appeal Limited to Party.—The right of appeal, conferred by this section, is limited to a party to the proceedings. For purposes of appeal, those who have no property or proprietary rights which are or may be affected by orders of the Commission are not such parties. An appeal by persons who are not parties to the proceeding will be dismissed by the Superior Court, for the reason that said court acquires no jurisdiction by such appeal. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 193, 145 S. E. 19; State v. Kinston, 221 N. C. 359, 20 S. E. (2d) 322.

Any Party Affected.—Under the provisions of our statute, any party affected by the order of the commission as to rates or charges for passengers by a street railway company, etc., is given the right of appeal to the court from such order. In re Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 179 N. C. 151, 101 S. E. 619.

"From all decisions or determinations made by the Corporation [now Utilities] Commission any party affected thereby shall be entitled to an appeal," must necessarily mean from a decision which affects or purports to affect some right or interest of a party to the controversy and in some way determinative of some material question involved. State v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 483, 489, 61 S. E. 271.

It is the duty of a municipality granting a charter to a corporation to operate a street car system therein which, by contract, has limited the fares to be charged passengers within a certain amount, to represent the public in proceedings upon a petition filed by the railway company before the Commission requesting that it be permitted to raise the fares beyond those limited in the contract, and the municipality may appeal through the courts as the statute prescribes, when the order is adverse to it or the interest it represents, as a "party affected by the decision and determination of the Commission," expressly provided for by the statute. In re Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 179 N. C. 151, 101 S. E. 619.

Who Are Not Parties.—Citizens seeking to have a railway station moved may not appeal from the Commission's decision, because they are not parties. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 560, 87 S. E. 785.

Notice.—When notice of appeal to the superior court is given to the Commission by a railroad company, and other requirements of the section relating thereto have been met by the company, it is sufficient without giving notice of the appeal to the complaining party in the proceedings had before the Commission, as upon this appeal the statute makes the Commission the party plaintiff. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Southern R. Co., 151 N. C. 447, 66 S. E. 427.

Same—Mandatory.—The statutory notice of an appeal by a railroad company from an order of the Commission is mandatory and cannot be extended by the consent of the parties of record. State v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 117 S. E. 563.

To Superior Court.—Appeal from the Commission must be to the superior court. Pate v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 122 N. C. 877, 29 S. E. 334.

Same—De Novo.—And there the trial will be de novo, and from thence only will a further appeal lie to the Supreme Court, governed by the rule that it must not be fragmentary, but that it shall be from a final judgment or one final in its nature. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Jurisdiction of Superior Court—Dismissal.—The jurisdiction of the superior court with respect to the trial of law and fact on appeal under this section is derivative and not original, and therefore if the Commission was without jurisdiction of the proceeding in which the order was made, from which the appeal was taken, because of the absence of a necessary party, or upon any other ground, the Superior Court is likewise without jurisdiction, and the proceeding pending therein, upon appeal, should be dismissed by said court. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 193, 145 S. E. 19.

Hearing on Appeal.—Upon appeal by a party to a proceeding before the Corporation [now Utilities] Commission from an order made therein under §§ 62-42 and 62-43, the Superior Court has jurisdiction to try and determine both issues of law and issues of fact, duly presented by assignments of error based upon exceptions duly taken by the appellant during the hearing before the Commission. The trial of such issues by the Superior Court is de novo. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 193, 145 S. E. 19, citing S. v. R. R., 161 N. C. 270, 76 S. E. 554.

This and the next following section do not contain any provision that the findings of fact by the utilities commission shall be conclusive on appeal. State v. Willis Barber, etc., Shop, 219 N. C. 709, 713, 15 S. E. (2d) 4.

Appeals from the utilities commissioner are analogous to appeals from a justice of the peace rather than appeals from a referee, and since the trial in the superior court is de novo upon issues of fact raised by the exceptions, the superior court properly refuses to pass upon appellant's exceptions to the findings of fact seriatim. State v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 218 N. C. 233, 10 S. E. (2d) 824.

Final Process. — The Commission has no power to enforce its orders and decrees by final process issuing directly therefrom, and for such purpose resort must be had to ordinary courts, either by independent proceedings or in proper instances by process issued in cases carried before such courts on appeal. State v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 483, 61 S. E. 271.

Removal to Federal Courts.—In proceedings for the removal of a cause from the state to the federal courts upon the question of diversity of citizenship under the federal statute applicable, the state court is not bound to surrender its jurisdiction until a case has been made which on the face of the petition, shows the petitioner has a right to the transfer of the cause to the federal courts. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Southern R. Co., 151 N. C. 447, 66 S. E. 427.

Same—Diverse Citizenship.—Assuming that the mere fact that an order of the Commission made to compel the carrier to change the location and conditions of its depot to promote the convenience, security and accommodation of the public would be an invasion of interstate commerce, it does not transform the proceedings in which the order is made into "a suit at law or in equity," and, as such, removable from the superior court of the state to an inferior federal tribunal, upon the ground of diverse citizenship. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Southern R. Co., 151 N. C. 447, 66 S. E. 427.

Orders of Commission Need No Confirmation.—The utilities commission is a state administrative agency of original and final jurisdiction, and its orders require no confirmation by any court to be effective. State v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 218 N. C. 233, 10 S. E. (2d) 824.

Removal of Franchise Restriction as to Carriage of Passengers.—This section authorizes a petitioner to appeal to the superior court from an adverse ruling of the utilities commission on its petition for the removal from its franchise of a restriction in regard to the carriage of passengers, and the contention that no appeal lies from such order because the right of appeal is governed by the motor carrier laws authorizing an appeal from an order affecting franchise only when entered for violation of law, is untenable. Utilities Comm. v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 216 N. C. 325, 4 S. E. (2d) 897.

Petitioner has the right to appeal to the superior court from the denial of its petition for the removal from its franchise of a restriction prohibiting it from transportng passengers between two cities along its route in purely local traffic between the said cities. State v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 218 N. C. 233, 10 S. E. (2d) 824.

Cited in Corporation Commission v. Southern R. Co., 197 N. C. 699, 150 S. E. 335.

§ 62-21. Appeal docketed; priority of trial; burden.—The cause shall be entitled "State of North Carolina on relation of the Utilities Commission against (here insert name of appellant)," and if there are exceptions to any facts found by the commission, it shall be placed on the civil issue docket of such court and shall have precedence of other civil actions, and shall be tried under the same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the trial of other civil causes, except that the rates fixed or the decision or determination made by the commission shall be prima facie just and reasonable. (Rev., s. 1075; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1098.)

Presumptions.—The provision of this section that the decision of the utilities commissioner shall be deemed prima facie just and reasonable, merely raises a presumption of law, and places the burden of going forward with the proof upon the party appealing from the decision, but even if this section should be construed to raise a presumption of fact, an instruction that the findings and decision of the commissioner were prima facie just and reasonable gives appellee the benefit of a presumption of fact when the evidence fully apprises the jury of the substance and purport of the order. State v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 218 N. C. 233, 10 S. E. (2d) 824.

Issues of Fact.—While on appeal from the denial of a petition to remove certain restrictions from petitioner's franchise, the point at issue is the reasonableness of the commissioner's order which is a question of law, nevertheless the reasonableness of the order depends upon the attendant facts, and exceptions to the commissioner's findings upon which his order is predicated, raise issues of fact for the determination of the jury. State v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 218 N. C. 233, 10 S. E. (2d) 824.

Petitioner filed petition requesting the removal from its franchise of a restriction prohibiting it from transporting passengers between two cities along its route in purely local traffic between the said cities. The utilities commissioner denied the petition upon his findings, among others, that the present service between the two cities furnished by another carrier is ample, that there was no necessity for permitting petitioner to furnish service between the two cities, and that the removal of the restriction was not demanded by the public interest. Held: The exceptions raise issues of fact to be determined by a jury, a high degree of formality in separating findings and conclusions of fact from conclusions of law not being required, and the appeal was properly transferred to the civil issue docket and tried before a jury. Id.

Question for Decision on Appeal.—Petitioner filed petition requesting the removal from its franchise of a restriction prohibiting it from transporting passengers between two cities along its route in purely local traffic between said cities. Upon appeal to the superior court from the denial of the petition, the carrier intervening and opposing the granting of the petition objected to the refusal of the court to submit an issue as to whether the public interest demanded additional transportation facilities between the two cities and objected to the submission of the issue as to whether the public convenience and necessity required the removal of the restriction from the petitioner's franchise, contending that the sole question within the superior court's jurisdiction was whether the public convenience and necessity required additional service, and that upon an affirmative finding to this issue in the superior court the matter should be remanded to the commissioner in order that he might select the person or corporation to which he would award the franchise for such additional service. Held: The question for the decision in the superior court upon appeal is whether petitioner should be given the relief prayed and not whether the commissioner should be sustained in his ruling, and the superior court has jurisdiction to determine the matter and grant the relief prayed for upon an affirmative finding by the jury upon the issue submitted. State v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 218 N. C. 233, 10 S. E. (2d) 824.

Parties on Appeal.—In case of an appeal to the courts, the only authorized parties are the State of North Carolina on relation of the Commission as plaintiff and the railroad or other corporation as defendant. The statute is plain as to who may appeal, viz., the state and the corporation whose legal rights are affected by the decision. No one else can appeal, because they are, and under the statute can be, no other parties, and the right to appeal is of course confined to the parties to the proceeding. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 560, 561, 87 S. E. 785.

Any Relevant Evidence Admissible.—On appeal from an order of the Commission, the trial is de novo by express provision of the statute and tried under the same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the trial of other civil causes; and any relevant evidence may be there introduced, whether it had theretofore been introduced before the Commission or not. State v. Seaboard Air Line, etc., R. Co., 161 N. C. 270, 76 S. E. 554.

Irrelevant Evidence.—In a case wherein a union passenger depot had been ordered by the Commission it was reversible error in the superior court, on appeal from the Commission, for the trial judge to admit evidence as to the effect the relocation would have on property values in a near-by town, where the present station of one of the roads is located. State v. Seaboard Air Line, etc., R. Co., 161 N. C. 270, 76 S. E. 554.

§ 62-22. Appeal heard at chambers by consent.—By consent of all parties the appeal may be heard and determined at chambers before any judge of a district through or into which the railroad may extend, or any judge holding court therein, or in which the person or company does business. (Rev., s. 1076; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; C. S. 1099.)

Cited in State v. Carolina Scenic Coach Co., 218 N. C. 233, 10 S. E. (2d) 824 (dissenting opinion).

§ 62-23. Appeal to supreme court. — Either party may appeal to the supreme court from the judgment of the superior court under the same rules and regulations as are prescribed by law for appeals, except that the state of North Carolina, if it shall appeal, shall not be required to give any undertaking or make any deposit to secure the cost of such appeal, and such court may advance the cause on its docket so as to give the same a speedy hearing. (Rev., s. 1077; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; C. S. 1100.)

Cross Reference.—As to appeal generally, see §§ 1-268 et seq.

Right Confined to State and Corporation.—The section plainly indicates that the right of appeal is confined to the state and the corporation whose legal rights are affected by the Commission's order. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 560, 561, 87 S. E. 785.

Direct Appeal Does Not Lie.—An appeal will not lie directly from the Commission to the Supreme Court. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 560, 87 S. E. 785.

§ 62-24. Judgment of superior court not vacated by appeal.—Any freight or passenger rates fixed by the commission, when approved or confirmed by the judgment of the superior court, shall be and remain the established rates, and shall be so observed and regarded by an appealing corporation until the same shall be changed, revised or modified by the final judgment of the supreme court, if there shall be an appeal thereto, and until changed by the utilities commission. (Rev., s. 1079; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1101.)

§ 62-25. Judgment on appeal enforced by mandamus.—In all cases in which, upon appeal, a judgment of the utilities commission is affirmed, in whole or in part, the appellate court shall embrace in its decree a mandamus to the appellant to put said order in force, or so much thereof as shall be affirmed. (Rev., s. 1080; 1905, c. 107, s. 2; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1102.)

Performance Compelled by Mandamus.—The state court can compel performance only by resort to the high prerogative writ of mandamus, and that by authority of this section. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Southern R. Co., 151 N. C. 447, 454, 66 S. E. 427.

Under this section, the right to a mandamus to enforce a valid order is given in causes which have been carried to the superior court by appeal. State v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 483, 488, 61 S. E. 271.

§ 62-26. Peremptory mandamus to enforce order, when no appeal.—If no appeal is taken from an order or judgment of the utilities commission within the time prescribed by law, but the corporation affected thereby fails to put said order in operation, the utilities commission may apply to the judge riding the superior court district which embraces Wake County, or to the resident judge of said district at chambers, upon ten days notice, for a peremptory mandamus upon said corporation for the putting in force of said judgment or order; and if said judge shall find that the order of said commission was valid and within the scope of its powers, he shall issue such peremptory mandamus. An appeal shall lie to the supreme court in behalf of the utilities commission, or the defendant corporation, from the refusal or the granting of such peremptory mandamus. (Rev., s. 1081; 1905, c. 107; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1103.)

Mandamus to Enforce Final Order. — Where the Commission has ordered two railroad companies to erect a union depot at a junction after a hearing upon the petition of the citizens of the town, and the railroads have lost or waived their statutory right to appeal, such order is regarded as a final judgment, and mandamus proceedings to compel the enforcement of the final order upon failure of the railroads to except and appeal therefrom is the remedy authorized by the section. State v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 117 S. E. 563.

Independent Proceedings for Mandamus.—Under this section an appeal may be had by independent proceedings for mandamus to enforce a valid order from which no appeal has been taken. State v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 483, 488, 61 S. E. 271.

Orders of Commission Are Not Judgments.—The Commission makes such order as the circumstances of the case justify, but these orders are not judgments of a court. The Commission cannot issue execution to enforce them, they simply serve as the basis for judicial action in the superior court to enforce them or to punish their violation. 2 N. C. L. R. 74. See also, Mayo v. Western Union Teleg. Co., 112 N. C. 343, 16 S. E. 1006.

The Corporation "Affected".—This section also reveals what is meant by the words "any party affected thereby," for it provides, if the corporation "affected" by the order fails to obey, how obedience may be enforced. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Winston-Salem, etc., R. Co., 170 N. C. 560, 561, 87 S. E. 785.

Art. 3. Powers and Duties of the Commission.

§ 62-27. General powers of commission.—The utilities commission shall have general power and control over the public utilities and public-service corporations of the state, and such supervision as may be necessary to carry into full force and effect the laws regulating the companies, corporations, partnerships, and individuals hereinafter referred to, and to fix and regulate the rates charged the public for service, and to require such efficient service to be given as may be reasonably necessary. (1933, c. 134, s. 2; 1941, c. 97.)

Editor's Note.—The General Assembly of 1891, c. 320, passed and ratified an Act establishing a Railroad Commission, and four days later passed another Act, Laws of 1891, c. 498, making the said Commission a court of record. As was said by Clark, C. J., in Corporation Comm. v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 1, 12, 49 S. E. 191, by the passage of these Acts, "the State made a radical change in its attitude towards railroads. * * * This Act was passed after the fullest discussion for years before the people of the State. It expressed their deliberate conviction that the time had arrived when the State, in the public interest, should supervise and control the charges and the conduct of common carriers, including express companies, telegraphs, telephones, and steamboats." The Amendatory Act of 1897, c. 206, extended very greatly the jurisdiction and powers of the Commission by giving it jurisdiction over street railways, express and telegraph companies, and power to require telephone companies to extend their lines and establish new agencies, to make rules for receiving, forwarding and delivering messages. A penalty was provided for a violation of these laws.

The acts discussed above were repealed by Public Laws, 1933, c. 134. The following cases, decided before the acts were repealed, construed section 1023 as it appeared in Michie's Code of 1931, and are made available to the practitioner as an aid in construing the present law, but they must be read in the light of the former law.

For comment on this and subsequent sections, see 12 N. C. Law Rev. 292 and references therein.

Legislative Power to Regulate.—The general power of the Legislature to provide reasonable rules and regulations, directly or through a commission, has been upheld in Atlantic Exp. Co. v. Wilmington, etc, Railroad, 111 N. C. 463, 472, 16 S. E. 393, 32 Am. St. Rep. 805; in Corporation Comm. v. Seaboard Air Line System, 127 N. C. 283, 288, 37 S. E. 266, and cases there cited. Among the federal decisions, this was asserted in Munn v. Illinois, 94 U. S. 113, 24 L. Ed. 77, and has been reiterated in numerous cases since, collected in 9 Rose's Notes, pp. 21-55. And in New York is stated in People v. Budd, 117 N. Y. 1, 5 L. R. A. 566, 51 Am. St. Rep. 460. See Corporation Comm. v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 1, 14, 49 S. E. 191.

The power of the Legislature, either directly or through appropriate governmental agencies, to establish reasonable regulations for public-service corporations in matters affecting the public interests is now universally recognized, and the principle has been approved in well considered decisions dealing directly with the question. Atlantic Coast Line Railroad v. Goldsboro, 155 N. C. 356, 71 S. E. 314, affirmed on writ of error to Supreme Court of United States, 232 U. S. 548, 558, 34 S. Ct. 364, 58 L. Ed. 721; Corporation Comm. v. Seaboard Air Line Railroad, 140 N. C. 239, 52 S. E. 941; Corporation Comm. v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 1, 49 S. E. 191; In re Southern Public Utilities Co., 179 N. C. 151, 159, 101 S. E. 619.

Does Not Interfere with Interstate Commerce.—The Railroad Commission, established by c. 320, Acts of 1891 existed solely under the Constitution and laws of this State and had no recognition in the laws of the United States, and being concerned solely in domestic affairs and trade, did not interfere with interstate commerce. Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554.

Cited in Russ v. Western Union Tel. Co., 222 N. C. 504, 23 S. E. (2d) 681.

§ 62-28. To make and enforce rules for public-service corporations. — The utilities commission has power to make any necessary and proper rules, orders and regulations for the safety, comfort and convenience of passengers, shippers or patrons of any public-service corporation, and to require the observance of and to enforce the same by the company and its employees, such power being the same as that provided in this chapter in respect to railroads and other transportation companies. (1907, c. 469, s. 1a; 1913, c. 127, s. 2; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1037.)

Cross Reference.—As to duty of the utilities commission to enforce laws relative to the hours of service for employees of carriers, see § 60-58.

Legislative Intent. — There was no intention to give a schedule of the thousands of appliances used in handling the business of common carriers, nor to enumerate the countless dealings between them and their patrons, which such Commission should supervise. The clearly declared purpose was to put the control and supervision of the whole matter in the hands of an impartial commission, with power to make reasonable rules and orders, subject to the right of appeal by either party, the shipper or the carrier, to the courts, instead of leaving such dealing to the unrestricted will of one party—the carrier. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 132, 51 S. E. 793.

Power to Make Orders and Regulations.—The Commission is given the power to make orders and regulations for the safety, etc., of shippers or patrons of any public-service corporation. Tilley v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 77 S. E. 994.

§ 62-29. Express and implied powers.—The utilities commission shall also have, exercise, and perform all the functions, powers, and duties and have all the responsibilities conferred by this article, and all such other powers and duties as may be necessary or incident to the proper discharge of the duties of its office. (1933, c. 134, s. 6; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-30. Supervisory powers.—Under the rules and regulations herein prescribed and subject to the limitations hereinafter set forth, the said utilities commission shall have general supervision over the rates charged and the service given, as follows, to wit:

(1) By railroads, street railways, steamboats, canals, express and sleeping-car companies, and all persons, firms or corporations engaged in the carrying of freight or passengers or otherwise engaged as common carriers;

(2) By telephone and telegraph companies and all other companies engaged in the transmission of messages, and by all firms and individuals owning or operating telephone or telegraph lines in the state;

(3) By electric light, power, water, and gas companies, pipe lines originating in North Carolina for the transportation of petroleum products, and corporations, other than such as are municipally owned or conducted, and all other companies, corporations, or individuals engaged in furnishing electricity, electric light current, power, or in transmitting or selling the same or producing the same from the water courses of this state: Provided, that the exemption given to municipally owned or conducted electric light, power, water and gas companies from supervision by the utilities commission shall not apply to municipally owned electric light or power systems which are leased to and operated by private individuals, firms, or corporations.

(4) By all water power and hydroelectric companies or corporations now doing business in this state or which may hereafter engage in doing business in this state, whether organized under the laws of this state or under the laws of any other state or country, and such companies and corporations are deemed to be public-service companies and subject to the laws of this state regulating the same;

(5) By flume companies, corporations, other than municipal corporations, or individuals owning or operating public sewerage systems in the state of North Carolina;

And the said utilities commissioner is hereby vested under this section with all power necessary to require and compel any public utility or public-service corporation of the kinds herein designated or any other class of public utility to provide and furnish to the citizens of this state reasonable service of the kind it underakes to furnish and fix and regulate the reasonable rates and charges to be made to the citizens of the state who may be entitled to use the same under such rules and regulations as may be lawfully prescribed.

The power of control and supervision vested in the commission under this section with respect to the various classes of public service corporations and individuals engaged in furnishing the public utilities mentioned shall be the same as that vested in it in respect to railroads and other transportation companies. (1913, c. 127, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 3; 1937, c. 108, s. 2; 1941, cc. 59, 97; C. S. 1112(b).)

Cross References.—As to municipal control of public utilities, see §§ 160-282 to 160-285. As to report from municipality operating own utilities, see § 62-98.

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment inserted the reference to pipe lines in subsection (3). The 1941 amendment added the proviso at the end of subsection (3).

This section supersedes the very similar § 1035 of the Consolidated Statutes. The following cases, which were decided under that section, are given as an aid in construing the present law, but should be considered in the light of the former law.

General Considerations — Right of State to Regulate. — The right of the State to establish regulations for public service corporations, and over business enterprises in which the owners, corporate or individual, have devoted their property to a public use, and to enforce these regulations by appropriate penalties, is now and has long been too firmly established to require or permit discussion. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 138, 59 S. E. 355, citing Harrill Bros. v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 532, 57 S. E. 383; Stone & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 144 N. C. 220, 56 S. E. 932; Walker v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 163, 168, 49 S. E. 84; McGowan v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 95 N. C. 417; Branch v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 77 N. C. 347; Seaboard Air Line Railway v. Florida, 203 U. S. 261, 27 S. Ct. 109, 51 L. Ed. 175; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Humes, 115 U. S. 512, 513, 6 S. Ct. 110, 29 L. Ed. 463; Mobile v. Kimball, 102 U. S. 691, 26 L. Ed. 238; Munn v. Illinois, 94 U. S. 113, 24 L. Ed. 77. See also Whiting Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Aluminum Co., 207 N. C. 52, 60, 175 S. E. 698.

Same—Classification Must Not Be Arbitrary.—As to intrastate or domestic matters, the general assembly has the right to establish regulations for public service corporations and for business enterprises in which the owners have devoted their property to public use, and to apply these regulations to certain classes of pursuits and occupations, imposing these requirements equally on all members of a given class, the limitation of this right of classification being that the same must be on some reasonable ground that bears a just and proper relation to the attempted classification and is not a mere arbitrary selection. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 59 S. E. 355.

In Tullis v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 175 U. S. 348, 20 S. Ct. 136, 44 L. Ed. 192, Chief Justice Fuller, quotes with approval from the decision in Orient Ins. Co. v. Daggs, 172 U. S. 557, 562, 19 S. Ct. 281, 43 L. Ed. 552: "The state in exercising the power to distinguish, select, and classify objects of legislation necessarily has a wide range of discretion; it was sufficient to satisfy the demands of the constitution if the classifications were practical and not palpably arbitrary." Id.

Same—Not a Federal Question.—Whether a regulation of a state railroad commission otherwise legal is arbitrary and unreasonable because beyond the scope of the powers delegated to the commission is not a federal question. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Comm., 206 U. S. 1, 27 S. Ct. 585, 51 L. Ed. 933.

Subsection One—Legislature May Regulate Directly or Indirectly.—Railroad companies from the public nature of the business by them carried on, and the interest which the public has in their operation, are subject as to their state business to state regulation, which may be exerted either directly by the legislative authority or by administrative bodies endowed with power to that end. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Comm., 206 U. S. 1, 27 S. Ct. 585, 51 L. Ed. 933.

Same—Rate Fixing Power May Be Delegated.—The General Assembly has the power to establish a commission to supervise and regulate the rates of common carriers. Corporation Comm. v. Seaboard Air Line Railroad, 140 N. C. 239, 240, 52 S. E. 941; Corporation Comm. v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 114, et seq., 49 S. E. 191; Corporation Comm. v. Seaboard Air Line System, (Rate Case), 127 N. C. 283, 37 S. E. 266; Atlantic Exp. Co. v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393; Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., ("Track Scales case",) 139 N. C. 126, 51 S. E. 793.

Same—When State May Regulate Interstate Commerce. —The power of Congress over commerce between the states is, as a general rule, exclusive, and its inaction is equivalent to a declaration that it shall be free from any restraint which it has the right to impose, except by such statutes as are passed by the states for the purpose of facilitating the safe transmission of goods and carriage of passengers, and are not in conflict with any valid federal legislation. Colley Const. Lim. 595; Mobile v. Kimball, 102 U. S. 691, 697, 26 L. Ed. 238; Wilson v. McNamee, 102 U. S. 572, 26 L. Ed. 234; Wilson v. Blackbird Creek Marsh Co., 2 Peters, 245, 7 L. Ed. 412; Pound v. Turck, 95 U. S. 459, 24 L. Ed. 525; Turner v. Maryland, 107 U. S. 38, 2 S. Ct. 44, 27 L. Ed. 370; Morgans Steamship Co. v. Louisana, 118 U. S. 455, 6 S. Ct. 1114, 30 L. Ed. 237; Morris, etc., Co. v. Southern Exp. Co., 146 N. C. 167, 173, 59 S. E. 667.

Same—Power of Commission Over Railroads.—This section gives the Commission general control and supervision of all railroad corporations. Tilley v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 39, 77 S. E. 994.

Same—Same—Lacks Power to Appraise and Assess.— Either intentionally or accidentally, the Corporation Commission was not clothed with the power of appraising and assessing railroad property. Southern R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Comm., 97 Fed. 513, 518.

Same—When Power to Regulate Arbitrarily Exercised.— The public power to regulate railroads and the private right of ownership of such property coexist, and the one does not destroy the other; and where the power to regulate is so arbitrarily exercised as to infringe the rights of ownership the exertion is void because repugnant to the due process and equal protection clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Comm., 206 U. S. 1, 27 S. Ct. 585, 51 L. Ed. 933.

Same—When Duty of Railroad Entails Pecuniary Loss.— The state has power to compel a railroad company to perform a particular and specified duty necessary for the convenience of the public even though it may entail some pecuniary loss. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Comm. 206 U. S. 1, 27 S. Ct. 585, 51 L. Ed. 933.

Subsection Two — Telephone Company Subject to State Control.—A telephone company, acting under a quasi public franchise, is properly classified among the public service corporations, and as such is subject to public regulation and reasonable control. Clinton-Dunn Tel. Co. v. Carolina Tel., etc., Co., 159 N. C. 9, 14, 74 S. E. 636; Godwin v. Carolina Tel. Co., 136 N. C. 258, 48 S. E. 813; Leavell v. Western Union Teleg. Co., 116 N. C. 211, 21 S. E. 391; Horner v. Oxford Water, etc., Co., 163 N. C. 535, 69 S. E. 607; Griffin v. Goldsboro Water Co., 122 N. C. 206, 30 S. E. 319; Telegraph v. Telegraph Co., 61 Vt. 241; Telephone Co. v. Telegraph Co., 66 Md. 399; Yancy v. Telephone Co., 81 Ark. 486; Cumberland Tel., etc., Co. v. Kelley, 160 Fed. 316.

A local telephone company having an arrangement for the transmission of long distance messages over the lines of another company for pay, is a public-service corporation and comes within the provisions of this section. Horton v. Interstate Tel., etc., Co., 202 N. C. 610, 163 S. E. 694.

Same—Jurisdiction of Court Not Ousted. — The section giving general control of telephone companies to the Corporation Commission does not oust the court of its jurisdiction to compel the company to perform a public duty it owes to an individual. Walls v. Strickland, 174 N. C. 298, 93 S. E. 857.

Same—When Message Not Interstate Commerce. — In State v. Western Union Teleg. Co. (Albea's case), 113 N. C. 213, 18 S. E. 389, the court held that telegraphic messages transmitted by a company from and to points in this state, although transversing another state in the route, do not constitute interstate commerce and are subject to the tariff regulation of the Commission. In this it followed the unanimous opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States, delivered by Fuller, C. J., in Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 145 U. S. 192, 12 S. Ct. 806, 36 L. Ed. 672, to the same purport, Campbell v. R. R., 86 Iowa 587; Leavell v. Western Union Teleg. Co., 116 N. C. 211, 220, 21 S. E. 391.

§ 62-31. Commission to keep itself informed as to utilities.—The said utilities commission shall at all times be required to keep itself informed as to the public-service corporations hereinbefore specified and enumerated, their rates and charges for service, and the service supplied to the citizens of the state and purposes therefor; and it shall at all times be empowered and required to inquire into such service and rates charged therefor, and to fix and determine as herein provided the reasonableness thereof, and upon petition or otherwise to make full inquiry into such rates and charges in behalf of the citizens of the state, and compel and require compliance with the regulations and charges, and final determination fixed therefor under the provisions of this article, and no corporation, association, partnership, or individual, other than carriers of passengers and property by rail, express, highway and/or water, doing business in the state of North Carolina as a public-service corporation, or any other corporation herein designated, shall be allowed to increase its rate and charge for service, or change its classification in any manner whatsoever except upon petition duly filed with the utilities commission and inquiry held thereon and final determination of the reasonableness and the necessity of any such increase or change in classification or service: Provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent any public-service corporation under the jurisdiction of the commission from reducing its rates, either directly or by change in classification. (1933, c. 134, s. 16; 1937, c. 165; 1939, c. 365, ss. 1, 2; 1941, c. 97.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment changed the latter part of this section and repealed the 1937 amendment which had added a provision as to approval of rate increases in certain cases without a hearing. For a discussion of 1937 amendment, see 15 N. C. Law Rev. 365. For comment on the 1939 amendment, see 17 N. C. L. Rev. 374.

Reduction of Rates.—The proviso to this section deprived the Utilities Commission of jurisdiction over reductions in rates. This means that any railroad acting lawfully, that is, individually and with proper intent, may reduce its own rates free of the control of the Utilities Commission, but it does not mean that it can, acting unlawfully or as a result of a conspiracy with other railroads, use this uncontrolled power to injure a competitor and it does not follow that conspiracies in violation of chapter 75 are made legal by the proviso. Bennett v. Southern Ry. Co., 211 N. C. 474, 483, 191 S. E. 240.

Where certain carriers by truck sought injunctive relief against railroad carriers for reduction in rates as to certain commodities, and as between certain localities, it was held that they had no legal right to have their contract price protected against lawful competition from rail carriers, who could, under this section, reduce rates at will. Carolina Motor Service v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 210 N. C. 36, 185 S. E. 479, 104 A. L. R. 1165.

§ 62-32. To investigate companies and businesses under its control.—The commission shall from time to time visit the places of business, and investigate the books and papers of all corporations, firms or individuals engaged in the transportation of freight or passengers, the transmission of messages either by telegraph or telephone, or in the furnishing of other public utilities the supervision and control of which is vested in the utilities commission to ascertain if all the orders, rules and regulations of the utilities commission have been complied with, and shall have full power and authority to examine all officers, agents and employees of such companies, individuals, firms or corporations, and all other persons, under oath or otherwise, and to compel the production of papers and the attendance of witnesses to obtain the information necessary for carrying into effect and otherwise enforcing the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 1064; 1913, c. 127, ss. 1, 2, 7; 1917, c. 194; 1899, c. 164, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1060.)

§ 62-33. System of accounts.—The utilities commission may establish a system of accounts to be kept by the public utilities, under its jurisdiction, or may classify said public utilities and establish a system of accounts for each class, and prescribe the manner in which such accounts shall be kept. (1931, c. 455; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

Cross Reference.—As to the power of the commission to require separate accounts for interstate and intrastate business of public-service companies, see § 62-140.

§ 62-34. Reports. — The utilities commission shall at least once every twelve months require any public utility to file annual reports in such form and of such content as the commission may require and special reports concerning any matter about which the commission is authorized to inquire or to keep itself informed, or which it is authorized to enforce. All reports shall be under oath when required by the commission. (1931, c. 455; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-35. Investigations. — The utilities commission may, on its own motion and whenever it may be necessary in the performance of its duties, investigate and examine the condition and management of public utilities or any particular utility. In conducting such investigation the commission may proceed either with or without a hearing as it may deem best, but shall make no order without affording the parties affected thereby a hearing.

If after such an investigation, or investigation and hearing, the commission, in its discretion, is of the opinion that the public interest shall be more greatly conserved by an appraisal of any properties in question, the investigation of any particular construction, the audit of any accounts or books, the investigation of any contracts, or the practices, contracts or other relations between the utility in question and any holding or finance agency with which such public utility may be affiliated, it shall be the duty of the commission to report its findings and recommendation to the governor and council of state with request for an allotment from the emergency and contingency fund to defray such expense which may be granted as provided by law for expenditures from such fund or may be denied. (1931, c. 455; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-36. To fix rates for public utilities in cities. —The utilities commission shall have full power and authority to fix and establish any and all rates which any public-service or quasi public-service corporation other than railroads using steam as a motive power shall charge or exact from any person, firm or corporation in any city for the services rendered or commodity furnished. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 3, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 2783.)

City's Charter Subject to State Powers.—"The power conferred by its charter upon the city of Henderson 'to provide water and lights and to contract for same, provide for cleaning and repairing the streets, regulate the market, take proper means to prevent and extinguish fires,' is subject to the police power of the State, with respect to rates to be charged under such contracts as the city may make under its charter by a public-service corporation." Corporation Comm. v. Henderson Water Co., 190 N. C. 70, 73, 128 S. E. 465.

Contract Rate May Be Changed.—Although the rate to be charged is fixed by contract this may be changed by the Commission if it appears that the rate contracted for is too low, and the one fixed is just. The burden of proof is on the one alleging that the rate fixed by the Commission is unreasonable. Corporation Comm. v. Henderson Water Co., 190 N. C. 70, 128 S. E. 465.

Same—Rights of Party Relieved.—A public service corporation, having a contract with a city, applying to the commission for the increase of the rate contracted for with the city, and obtaining partial relief will not be granted an injunction by the Federal Court against the Commission on the grounds that the rate is confiscatory for such increase as is allowed by the Commission is that much more than could have been received under the contract with the city had the Commission refused to act. Henderson Water Co. v. Corporation Comm., 269 U. S. 278, 46 S. Ct. 112, 70 L. Ed. 273.

§ 62-37. Manner of enforcing above regulations. —The North Carolina utilities commission shall have the power to require such improvements and extensions to the service of public-service corporations mentioned in § 62-36 as it may deem necessary after the investigation of any complaint of any person, corporation, or municipality as to the inadequacy of such service. Upon application being made, the utilities commission shall proceed to hear, pass on, and determine, in the manner prescribed by law, a just or reasonable rate or charge for the service or other commodity rendered or furnished; the hearing before the utilities commission shall be governed by the law as to the commission relating to the fixing of rates and rules and orders of the commission as to the enforcement thereof by the commission. The utilities commission shall have the same power and authority in hearing and passing on any matter or case under § 62-36, enforcing or fixing of rates, supervising and regulating said corporation or otherwise as they now have under the general law. The failure or refusal to conform to or obey any decision, rule, regulation, or order made in such cases by the utilities commission shall subject said public-utility corporation or quasi public-utility corporation refusing or failing to comply herewith to the penalties provided in this chapter. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 3, s. 2; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 2784.)

§ 62-38. Sections 62-36 and 62-37 not to affect existing power.—Nothing contained in §§ 62-36 and 62-37 shall be construed to deprive the utilities commission of the authority and power which it now has under the laws of North Carolina to supervise and regulate and fix the rates for public-utility corporations or quasi public-utility corporations operating or doing business in such city. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 3, s. 3; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 2785.)

§ 62-39. To require transportation and transmission companies to maintain facilities. — The utilities commission has power to require all transportation and transmission companies to establish and maintain all such public-service facilities and conveniences as may be reasonable and just. It may require steamboat companies to provide such wharf and warehouse facilities as may be reasonable and just. (1907, c. 469, s. 2; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 52, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1038.)

§ 62-40. To authorize lumber companies to transport commodities.—The utilities commission has power to authorize lumber companies, having logging roads, to transport all kinds of commodities other than their own and passengers, and to charge therefor reasonable rates to be approved by the commission. (1915, c. 160, s. 1; 1915, c. 6; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1039.)

Establishing Joint Rate of Transportation. — A lumber company, chartered and organized for the purpose of transporting its own products, may be created a limited public carrier by the order of the Commission, under the provisions of this section. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 187 N. C. 424, 121 S. E. 767.

§ 62-41. To establish and regulate stations for freight and passengers.—The commission is empowered and directed to require, where the public necessity demands, and it is demonstrated that the revenue received will be sufficient to justify it, the establishment of stations by any company or corporation engaged in the transportation of freight and passengers in this state, and to require the erection of depot accommodations commensurate with such business and revenue, and to require the erection of accommodations for loading and unloading livestock and for feeding, sheltering and protecting the same in transportation. The commission shall not require any company or corporation to establish any station nearer to another station than five miles. (Rev., s. 1097; 1899,

c. 164, s. 2, subsec. 12; 1913, c. 155; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1040.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of utilities commission to regulate the building of shelters at railroad division points, see § 60-54.

Power to Require and Regulate Depots.—The Commission can order new depots established wherever they are needed, Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Minnesota, 193 U. S. 53, 63, 24 S. Ct. 396, 48 L. Ed. 614, and of course, has the lesser power to require proper facilities at those already established. Corporation Comm. v. Railroad, 139 N. C. 126, 130, 51 S. E. 793.

Orders Subject to Review by the Courts.—This power can not be unreasonably exercised, and such orders are subject to review by the superior and Supreme Courts. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 51 S. E. 793.

May Require Track Scales.—The Commission is empowered, under this section, to require "depot accommodations commensurate with such business and revenue", which justifies the Commission in requiring "track scales" at points along the line. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 131, 51 S. E. 793.

The court or the jury, upon proper instructions, as the case may be, should pass upon the reasonableness and necessity of an order of the Commission requiring track scales to be put in. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 51 S. E. 793.

Railroad Not Released from Private Contract.—The limitation on the powers of the Commission to require common carriers to establish stations within five miles of each other does not release the said carriers from a contract, with an individual, to maintain a flag stop within the bounds of his plantation. Parrott v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 165 N. C. 295, 81 S. E. 348.

§ 62-42. To require change, repair, and additions to stations.—The commission is empowered and directed to require a change of any station or the repairing, addition to, or change of any station house by any railroad or other transportation company in order to promote the security, convenience and accommodation of the public, and to require the raising or lowering of the track at any crossing when deemed necessary. (Rev., s. 1097; 1899, c. 164, s. 2, subsec. 13; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1041.)

Liberal Construction.—This section and section 62-43 are of a remedial nature, and will be liberally construed by the courts in favor of the exercise of the authority conferred. State v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 117 S. E. 563. See also State v. Southern R. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 145 S. E. 19.

Entire Expense on Railroad.—In New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. Ed. 269, it was held that the imposition upon a railroad company of the entire expense of a change of grade at a railroad crossing is not a violation of any constitutional right. Atlantic Coast Line Railroad v. Goldsboro, 155 N. C. 356, 359, 71 S. E. 514.

In the case of Cleveland v. Augusta, 102 Ga. 233, 29 S. E. 584, 43 L. R. A. 638, the court held that the railroad company was liable for the expense of raising its roadbed to conform to the city grade, and said that it must yield to the reasonable burden imposed by the growth and development of the country or the city, and where the public welfare demands a change or grade of the highway or street, the railroad company must, at its own expense, make such alterations in the grade of its crossings as will conform to the new grade. In the course of its opinion the court said: "Upon streets or highways crossed by it, or subsequently laid out, the railroad company must construct proper crossings (Lancaster v. R. R., 29 Neb., 412; R. R. v. Smith, 91 Ind., 119, 13 Am. & Eng. R. R. Cases, 608), and must alter, change, or otherwise reconstruct such crossings whenever the public welfare demands." Eng. v. New Haven Co., 32 Conn. 240. Quoted and approved in Atlantic Coast Line Railroad v. Goldsboro, 155 N. C. 356, 361, 71 S. E. 514.

§ 62-43. To provide for union depots.—The commission is empowered and directed to require, when practicable, and when the necessities of the case, in its judgment, require, any two or more railroads which now or hereafter may enter any city or town to have one common or union passenger depot for the security, accommodation and convenience of traveling public, and to unite in the joint undertaking and expense of erecting constructing and maintaining such union passenger depot, commensurate with the business and revenue of such railroad companies or corporations, on such terms, regulations, provisions and conditions as the commission shall prescribe. The railroads so ordered to construct a union depot shall have power to condemn land for such purpose, as in case of locating and constructing a line of railroad: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the commission to require the construction of such union depot should the railroad companies at the time of application for said order have separate depots, which, in the opinion of the commission, are adequate and convenient and offer suitable accommodations for the traveling public. (Rev., s. 1097; 1903, c. 126; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1042.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of railroads to condemn land for union station, see also, § 40-4.

Remedial in its Nature.—The statute in its principal purpose may be considered as remedial in its nature, and as to that feature will receive a liberal construction. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 399, 55 S. E. 292.

When Union Stations May Be Required.—Under the section the Commission is empowered to direct the establishment of union stations under certain conditions, to wit: when practicable, and when the necessities of the case require two or more railroads entering a city or town to have one common union passenger depot for the security, accomodation, and convenience of the traveling public. State v. Seaboard Air Line, etc., R. Co., 161 N. C. 270, 273, 76 S. E. 554.

The remedy was intended to apply to all the towns and cities in the state where, in the legal discretion of the commissioners, the move is practicable, the convenience of the traveling public requires it, and the existing facilities, in the judgment of the commissioners, are inadequate. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 401, 55 S. E. 292.

Same—Must Be Practicable.—Whenever the Commission requires and orders a union station to be built, the only restriction in the statute is when "practicable." The other matters as to the security, accommodation, and convenience of the public are simply reasons addressed to the judgment of the commissioners. When there is an appeal from their order, the sole query for a jury, under the statute, is whether the execution of the order is "practicable." The finding of the Commission that it is practicable is prima facie correct; and the burden is upon the defendant to show evidence to the contrary. State v. Seaboard Air Line, etc., R. Co., 161 N. C. 270, 274, 76 S. E. 554.

Same—To Be Commensurate with Business and Revenues.—When these conditions are found to exist, then the two railroads may be compelled to unite in the erecting, constructing, and maintaining such union passenger depot commensurate with the business and revenues of such railroad companies on such terms, regulations, provisions and conditions as the Commission shall prescribe. State v. Seaboard Air Line, etc., R. Co., 161 N. C. 270, 273, 76 S. E. 554.

New Union Station.—Under the provisions of this section and § 62-42, the commission has the power to require railroad companies subject to its jurisdiction, which have constructed or maintained a union passenger station in a city or town of the State, to construct or equip a new union passenger station in such city or town upon its finding that the present station is inadequate. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 145 S. E. 19.

Jurisdiction Original — Exercised upon Own Motion or Petition of Interested Parties. — The jurisdiction of the Commission with respect to the construction of passenger stations is original, and may be exercised either upon its own motion or upon petition of interested parties. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 145 S. E. 19.

Parties.—Under this section the commission is not without jurisdiction of a proceeding with respect to the erection, construction, and maintenance of a new union passenger station in city or town, because one or more railroad companies entering such city or town are not made parties in the proceeding. The presence of two or more railroad companies as parties is sufficient. Corporation Commission v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 145 S. E. 19.

Same—Lessor—Appeal.—Where three railroad companies use a union station in a city in connection with the operation of their railroads, two as owners, and the other as lessee of a fourth road, it is not jurisdictional before the Commission or the Superior Court on appeal under § 62-20 that in the proceedings before the Commission under this section and § 62-42 to compel them to build and maintain an adequate station, that the lessor railroad be a party, but it is not error for the trial judge to order that the lessor road be made a party and the cause proceeded with therein. State v. Southern Ry. Co., 196 N. C. 190, 145 S. E. 19.

Section Valid Exercise of Legislative Power.—The power of the Legislature to enact a statute of this character has been established by numerous and well-considered decisions of this and other courts of Supreme jurisdiction, and is no longer open to question. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 399, 55 S. E. 292; Corporation Comm. v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 239, 52 S. E. 941; Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 51 S. E. 793.

Powers Given by Necessary Implication.—The statute authorizing the Commission to order union stations to be built and maintained carries with it the power to do what is reasonably necessary to execute such order, including the use of the streets of a town for legitimate railroad purposes, the laying of tracks, etc., necessary to that end. Griffin v. Southern R. Co., 150 N. C. 312, 64 S. E. 16.

Inter and Intra-State Carriers.—The order of the Commission for the joint erection by an intrastate carrier and an interstate carrier of a union station at a junction cannot be regarded as objectionable so far as it relates to the intrastate carrier, as a burden on interstate commerce, when it appears that the commission was passing upon the petition of only a few cities or towns in the state separately and not as a part of a state wide scheme, and the expenditures required were in amount too small to affect such commerce. State v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 117 S. E. 563.

Same—"Esch-Cummings" Act Prospective.—The Federal Transportation or the "Esch-Cummings" Act is prospective in its enforcement, and cannot relate back to a final order of the Commission not appealed from, for the erection of a union station where the lines of an intrastate and interstate carrier cross each other, the execution of which has been stayed by the Commission until after the passage of the Federal Statute solely for the advantage of the carriers at their request. State v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 435, 117 S. E. 563.

Cited in Cole v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 211 N. C. 591, 191 S. E. 353.

§ 62-44. To provide for separate waiting rooms for races.—The commission is empowered and directed to require the establishment of separate waiting rooms at all stations for the white and colored races. (Rev., s. 1097; 1899, c. 64, s. 2, subsec. 14; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1043.)

Cross References.—As to separate accommodations for different races on train or steamboat, see § 60-94; on street railways, see § 60-135; on motor carriers, see § 62-109.

§ 62-45. To require construction of sidetracks.—The commission is empowered and directed to require the construction of sidetracks by any railroad company to industries already established or to be established: Provided, it is shown that the proportion of such revenue accruing to such sidetrack is sufficient within five years to pay the expenses of its construction. This shall not be construed to give the commission authority to require railroad companies to construct sidetracks more than five hundred feet in length. (Rev., s. 1097; 1899, c. 164, s. 2, subsec. 15; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1044.)

Cross Reference.—As to condemnations of land for an industrial siding, see § 40-5.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the enactment of this provision of the statute, the establishment of such sidings rested in the arbitrary will of the common carrier, who could also discontinue them at will. Such power, it will be seen at once, placed the industrial development of the state at the mercy of the railroad management, which could mar the prosperity of any plant along its line by refusing a siding, or arbitrarily discontinuing it, if established. This power could be used for both political and pecuniary advantage.

The General Assembly, while not prohibiting the carrier from continuing to establish sidings at its pleasure, deemed it wise to take the power of refusing to grant or continue such sidings out of the arbitrary will of the common carrier by authorizing the Commission to require the establishment of such sidings in proper cases. Corporation Comm. v. Seaboard Air Line Railroad, 140 N. C. 239, 241, 52 S. E. 941.

Not an Interference with Interstate Commerce.—The establishment of an industrial siding under the authority of the Commission is not an interference with interstate commerce. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. State, 216 U. S., 262, 30 S. Ct. 330, 54 L. Ed. 472, State v. Southern R. Co., 153 N. C. 559, 563, 69 S. E. 621.

Restriction upon Power.—The Commission can require a railroad company to build a side track to an industrial plant only upon the company's right of way or when the right of way is tendered. State v. Southern R. Co., 153 N. C. 559, 69 S. E. 621.

Same — Revenue. — The power conferred upon the Commission to order a railroad company to build a side track, is with the restriction that the revenue from such side track shall be "sufficient within five years to pay the expenses of construction"; and the lower court having denied the authority of the Commission in this action, the presumption is in favor of its judgment, and it will be affirmed in the absence of evidence tending to show that the revenue will be sufficient according to the terms of the statute. State v. Southern R. Co., 153 N. C. 559, 69 S. E. 621.

Same — Length. — The section confers upon the Commission the power to establish sidings under certain conditions, and restricts the exercise of such a right to 500 feet in length. Hales v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 172 N. C. 104, 90 S. E. 11, 13.

Rights of Intervening Owners.—A railroad company, of its own initiative or by virtue of a contract with private persons, can acquire no right to construct and use side tracks to private industries off their right of way and over the lands of intervening owners against the will of such owners. When they have once permanently located their line, they are, as a rule, restricted to that and the right of way incident to it. Pierce on Railroads, c. 9, p. 254; Elliot on Railroads (2d Ed.) section 930. Hales v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 172 N. C. 104, 90 S. E. 11, 13.

Non-Resident Railroad without Power of Eminent Domain. — The Commission cannot confer the power of eminent domain, and when the Legislature has not conferred such power upon a nonresident railroad company respecting the construction of a side track over the lands of others, an order of the Commission for the railroad to build such a track is void. State v. Southern R. Co., 153 N. C. 559, 69 S. E. 621; Butler v. Pen. Tobacco Co., 152 N. C. 416, 68 S. E. 12.

Cited in Aileen Mills v. Norfolk-So. R. R. Co., 194 N. C. 647, 140 S. E. 306.

§ 62-46. To require trains to be run over railroads and connections at intersections.—The commission is empowered and directed to require, when practicable and when the necessities of the traveling public, in the judgment of the commission, demand, that any railroad in this state shall install and operate one or more passenger or freight trains over its road, and also require any two or more railroads having intersecting points to make close connection at such points: Provided, that no order under this section shall be made unless the business of the railroad justifies it. (1907, c. 469, s. 3; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1045.)

Connection Contemplated One of Trains as Well as Tracks.—The connection required is one of trains as well as of tracks. The public cannot travel upon a track alone, nor upon a train without a track. Both are required to furnish facilities for traveling at all, and close connection of both to secure the convenience of the traveling public. North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 137 N. C. 1, 49 S. E. 191, 195.

Running Additional Trains.—It is within the power of a state railroad commission to compel a railroad company to make reasonable connections with other roads so as to promote the convenience of the traveling public, and an order requiring the running of an additional train for that purpose, if otherwise just and reasonable, is not inherently unjust and unreasonable because the running of such train will impose some pecuniary loss on the company. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Comm., 206 U. S. 1, 27 S. Ct. 585, 51 L. Ed. 933.

§ 62-47. May authorize operation of fast mail trains; discontinuance of passenger service.—The utilities commission is hereby empowered, whenever it shall appear wise and proper to do so, to authorize any railroad company to run one or more fast mail trains over its road, which shall stop only at such stations on the line of the road as may be designated by the company: Provided, that in addition to such fast mail train such railroad company shall run at least one passenger train in each direction over its road on every day except Sunday, which shall stop at every station on the road at which passengers may wish to be taken up or put off: Provided further, that nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing the running of local passenger trains on Sunday. The utilities commission, or its successor, however, shall have and it is hereby vested with the power in any case in which the convenience and necessity of the traveling public do not require the running of passenger trains upon its railroad to authorize such railroad company to cease the operation of passenger trains as long as the convenience and necessity of the traveling public shall not require such operation: Provided that this section and any ruling hereafter made by the utilities commission, or its successors, shall not be construed as abrogating or repealing the provisions of any charter or franchise requiring such common carrier to furnish daily freight service over its lines, nor cause the discontinuance of daily freight service where now maintained. (Rev., s. 2614; 1893, c. 97; 1933, c. 528; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 3481.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 528, added the last sentence of this section relating to discontinuance of passenger service.

§ 62-48. To inspect railroads as to equipment and facilities, and to require repair.—The commission is empowered and directed, from time to time, to carefully examine into and inspect the condition of each railroad, its equipment and facilities, in regard to the public's safety and convenience; and if any are found by it to be unsafe, it shall at once notify and require the railroad company to put the same in repair. (1907, c. 469, s. 3; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1046.)

§ 62-49. To require installation and maintenance of block system and safety devices. — The commission is empowered and directed to require any railroad company to install and put in operation and maintain upon the whole or any part of its road a block system of telegraphy or any other reasonable safety device, but no railroad company shall be required to install a block system upon any part of its road unless at least eight trains each way per day are operated on that part. (1907, c. 469, s. 1b; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1047.)

The lack of a "block system", when required, is held to be negligence per se. Gerringer v. North Carolina R. Co., 146 N. C. 32, 59 S. E. 152; Stewart v. Raleigh, etc. R. Co., 137 N. C. 687, 50 S. E. 312; Stewart v. Railroad, 141 N. C. 253, 53 S. E. 877.

§ 62-50. To regulate crossings and to abolish grade crossings.—The commission is empowered and directed to require the raising or lowering of any tracks or highway at any highway or railroad crossing, and to designate who shall pay for the same; and, when it thinks proper, partition the cost of abolishing grade crossings and the raising or lowering of said track or highway among the railroads and municipalities interested. (1907, c. 469, s. 1 (c); 1911, c. 197, s. 1; 1933, c. 34, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1048.)

Cross References.—As to intersection with highways, see § 60-42. As to obstructing highways and maintaining defective crossings, see § 60-43. As to cattleguards and private crossings, see § 60-48. As to the power of the state highway commission to require the installation of signals and other safety devices, see § 136-20.

Editor's Note.—Throughout Europe grade crossings are forbidden by law. Some few of the American States, including New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut have followed the European example and abolished such crossing. This section confers upon the Utilities Commission the power to require the track to be raised or lowered at crossings where deemed necessary.

See section 62-42 and the notes thereto.

The General Assembly can make the abolition of grade crossings by railroads imperative instead of leaving it, as now, unexercised in the discretion of the Corporation [now Utilities] Commission, and can place the cost of doing so upon the corporations, whose duty it is to remove them. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Minnesota, 208 U. S. 583, 28 S. Ct. 341, 52 L. Ed. 630, cited in Atlantic Coast Line Railroad v. Goldsboro, 155 N. C. 356, 362, 71 S. E. 514. In the meantime, like any collision, or a derailment, the act itself is prima facie negligence on the part of the railroad company. Marcom v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 200, 35 S. E. 423. This matter has heretofore been called to the public attention in Cooper v. Railroad, 140 N. C. 209, 52 S. E. 932; Wilson v. Railroad, 152 N. C. 333; 55 S. E. 257; Gerringer v. Railroad, 146 N. C. 32, 59 S. E. 152; Atlantic Coast Line Railroad v. Goldsboro, 155 N. C. 356, 71 S. E. 514, (affirmed on writ of error) Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Goldsboro, 232 U. S., 548, 34 S. Ct. 364, 58 L. Ed. 721, McMillian v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. 172 N. C. 853, 90 S. E. 683 (where the matter is fully discussed with full citation of authorities), and Bordeu v. Southern R. Co., 175 N. C. 179, 95 S. E. 146. Goff v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 179 N. C. 216, 224, 102 S. E. 320.

That the State may exercise its police power either directly, or indirectly through some delegated agency is undisputed. The fact that some particular agency is delegated does not of necessity make that exclusive. Hence, while the section gives to the Utilities Commission the power to regulate crossings and require grade crossings, it is merely a delegated power, and does not preclude the State from direct, or indirect action. See 2 N. C. Law Rev. 104.

Commission Vested with Full Power.—The Corporation [now Utilities] Commission is vested with full and complete power to compel the raising or lowering of the track, to remove all danger to those using the public roads. Gerringer v. North Carolina R. Co., 146 N. C. 32, 37, 59 S. E. 152.

Authority is conferred by statute upon the Corporation [now Utilities] Commission to abolish grade crossing by a railroad company when by the operation of the railroads they become dangerous or inconvenient to the public traveling along the highways or private ways. Tate v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 168 N. C. 523, 84 S. E. 808.

Municipal Authority. — See § 160-54 and notes thereto.

§ 62-51. To require installation and maintenance of automatic signals at railroad intersections, etc. —The commission is empowered and directed to require, when public safety demands, when and in case two or more railroads now cross or may hereafter cross each other at a common grade, or any railroad crosses any stream or harbor by means of a bridge, to install and maintain such a system of interlocking or automatic signals as will render it safe for engines and trains to pass over such crossings or bridge without stopping, and to apportion the cost of installation and maintenance between said railroads as may be just and proper. (1911, c. 197, s. 2; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 63, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1049.)

§ 62-52. To require railroads to enter towns and maintain depots in certain cases.—Where two or more railroads may maintain freight depots and a union passenger depot within one mile of a town of two thousand population for the convenience of the inhabitants thereof, and do not enter the corporate limits of the town, it is the duty of the utilities commission, upon the petition of a majority of the qualified voters of the said town, which petition shall be properly sworn to by the signers thereof, to require and compel, where practicable, the said railroads to run their lines into or through the corporate limits of the said town, and construct, equip, and maintain suitable passenger and freight depots at some convenient place or places therein, and the passenger depot shall be a union station and be built and maintained by the several railroads according to a plan and in such a manner as shall be approved by the commission.

When a petition is filed with the utilities commission as aforesaid, the commission shall set a day for the hearing thereof, which day shall be not more than twenty days from the filing of said petition, and shall immediately cause a notice to issue to the railroads interested in the matter set out in the petition, and after the hearing of the matter on the day named in the notice, the commission, if it deem it practicable, shall thereupon cause an order to be made requiring the said railroads to build, equip, and maintain in a suitable manner roadbeds, yards and depots, and any other necessary buildings or equipment, at convenient places within the limits of said town, as to it seems proper for the needs and growth of the business and inhabitants of the said town.

The order of the utilities commission to the railroads shall name a time within which all the necessary work of entering the said town and construction of depots and other buildings shall be completed and opened to the public for the transaction of business, and the said railroads, for every day beyond the said time that they shall not be in operation according to the said order, shall pay the sum of fifty dollars for each and every day of such failure and neglect, to the board of commissioners or aldermen of said town, which shall be for the benefit of the said town, this amount to be recovered as in other actions.

This section shall also apply to any railroad that may hereafter enter into or run within one mile of the corporate limits of said town, and the utilities commission shall have the power to require such railroads to unite with the other railroads in maintaining the depots, tracks, and other structures, and also pay such part of the cost thereof as to the said utilities commission may seem proper.

The railroads have the power to condemn such quantity of lands, including gardens, yards, residences and the premises pertaining thereto, as are necessary for the purposes of this section, the condemnation proceedings to be had in the same manner as now provided by law. (1907, c. 465; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1050.)

§ 62-53. To consent to abandonment or relocation of depots.—A railroad corporation which has established and maintained for a year a passenger station or freight depot at a point upon its road shall not abandon such station or depot, nor substantially diminish the accommodation furnished by the stopping of trains, except by consent of the commission. Freight or passenger depots may be relocated upon the written approval of the commission. (Rev., s. 1098; 1899, c. 164, ss. 19, 20; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1051.)

§ 62-54. To regulate crossings of telephone, telegraph and electric power lines.—Power is conferred on the utilities commission whenever any telephone, telegraph or electric power lines cross, to require such crossings to be constructed and maintained in a safe manner, so that the wires of one line will not fall upon the other; to prescribe the manner in which this shall be done; to discontinue or prohibit such crossings where they are unnecessary and can reasonably be avoided; and to apportion the cost of proper changing and construction of such crossings among the lines interested, as to said commission may seem just: Provided, that in all crossings made dangerous by the presence of high tension wire or wires of any power or light company, the cost shall be paid by such power or light company. (1913, c. 130, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1052.)

Local Modification.—Ashe: 1929, c. 101.

§ 62-55. To regulate delivery of freight, express, and baggage.—The utilities commission shall make reasonable and just rules—

1. For the handling of freight and baggage at stations.

2. As to charges by any company or corporation engaged in the carriage of freight or express for the necessary handling and delivery of the same at all stations. (Rev., s. 1094; 1899, c. 164, s. 2, subsecs. 2, 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1053.)

Cross Reference.—As to penalty for failure to deliver freight upon tender of payment for carriage, see § 60-114.

§ 62-56. To prevent discriminations.—The utilities commission shall make reasonable and just rules and regulations—

1. To prevent discrimination in the transportation of freight or passengers, or in furnishing electricity, electric light, current, power or gas.

2. To prevent the giving, paying or receiving of any rebate or bonus, directly or indirectly, or the misleading or deceiving the public in any manner as to real rates charged for freight, express or passengers, or in furnishing electricity, electric light, current, power or gas. (Rev., s. 1095; 1899, c. 164, s. 2, subsecs. 3, 5; 1913, c. 127, s. 6; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1054.)

Cross Reference.—As to discrimination in railroad rates, see § 60-5 to § 60-8, § 60-92, and § 62-143.

Discrimination Defined.—Discrimination in freight tariffs by railroad companies, means to charge shippers of freight unequal sums for carrying the same quantity of freight equal distances; that is, more in proportion for a short than for a long distance. Hines v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 95 N. C. 434.

Discrimination by Log Road. — A railroad carrying logs to a sawmill cannot charge a shipper agreeing to ship the manufactured products by the same line less for the same service than it charges a shipper who makes no such agreement. Lumber Co. v. Railroad, 136 N. C. 479, 48 S. E. 813.

§ 62-57. To fix a standard for gas.—The utilities commission shall fix, establish and promulgate a standard of quality for gas and prescribe rules and regulations for the enforcement of and obedience to the same. (1919, c. 32; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1055.)

§ 62-58. To regulate shipment of inflammable substances.—The utilities commission is authorized and empowered to adopt and promulgate rules for the shipment of inflammable and explosive articles; cotton which has been partially consumed by fire, and such other like articles as in its opinion may be apt to render transportation dangerous. And after the promulgation of such rules, no common carrier shall be required to receive or transport any such articles except when tendered in accordance with the said rules; nor shall such common carrier be liable for any penalty for refusal to receive such article for shipment until all the rules prescribed by the utilities commission in regard to the shipments of the same shall be complied with. (1907, c. 471, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1056.)

The commission is particularly authorized to regulate the carriage of inflammable articles as freight. Tilley v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 39, 77 S. E. 994.

§ 62-59. To regulate demurrage, storage, placing, and loading of cars.—The commission shall make rules, regulations and rates governing demurrage and storage charges by railroad companies and other transportation companies; and shall make rules governing railroad companies in the placing of cars for loading and unloading and in fixing time limit for delivery of freights after the same have been received by the transportation companies for shipment. (Rev., s. 1100; 1903, c. 342; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1057.)

Cross References.—As to time before charge for demurrage may be made, see § 60-123. As to placing cars for loading, see § 60-118. As to reasonable time for transporting freight, see § 60-112.

§ 62-60. To fix rate of speed through towns; procedure.—If a railroad company is of the opinion that an ordinance of a city or town through which a line of its railroad passes regulating the speed at which trains may run while passing through said city or town, is unreasonable or oppressive, such railroad company may file its petition before the utilities commission, setting forth all the facts, and asking relief against such ordinance, and that the utilities commission prescribe the rate of speed at which trains may run through said municipality. Upon the filing of the petition a copy thereof shall be mailed, in a registered letter, to the mayor or chief officer of the town or municipality, together with a notice from the utilities commission, setting forth that on a day named in the notice the petition of the railroad company will be heard, and that the city or town named in the petition will be heard at that time in opposition to the prayer of the petition. And upon the return day of the notice the utilities commission shall hear the petition, but any hearing granted by the utilities commission shall be had at the town, city or locality where the conditions complained of are alleged to exist, or some member of the said commission shall take evidence, both for the petition and against it, at such city, town or locality, and report to the full commission before any decision is made by the commission.

Either party, petitioner or respondent, has the right to introduce testimony and to be heard by counsel; and the utilities commission, after hearing the petition, answer, evidence and argument, shall render judgment thereon. If the commission finds that such ordinance is reasonable and just the petition shall be dismissed, and the petitioner shall pay all the costs, to be taxed by the clerk to the utilities commission. If the commission is of the opinion that the ordinance is unreasonable, it shall so adjudge; and in addition thereto it shall prescribe the maximum rates of speed for passing through such town. And thereafter the railroad company may run its trains through such town or city at speeds not greater than those prescribed by the utilities commission, and the ordinance adjudged to be unreasonable shall not be enforced against such railroad company.

If the judgment of the utilities commission is in favor of the petitioner, it shall be lawful for the utilities commission to make such order as to the payment of the costs as shall seem just. It may require either party to pay the same or it may divide the same. The costs in such proceeding shall be the same as are fixed by law for similar services in the superior court. (Rev., ss. 1101, 1102, 1103; 1903, c. 552; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1058.)

Regulation within Police Power of State.—In Gladson v. Minnesota, 166 U. S. 427, 430, 17 S. Ct. 628, 41 L. Ed. 1064, the court said: "The state which created the corporation may make all needful regulations of a police character for the government of the company while operating its road within the jurisdiction. It may prescribe the rate of speed at which the trains shall run, and the places at which they shall stop, and may make any other reasonable regulations for their management in order to secure the object of its incorporation, and the safety, good order, convenience and comfort of its passengers and of the public." North Carolina Corp. Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 137 N. C. 1, 49 S. E. 191, 197.

§ 62-61. To hear and determine controversies submitted.—When a company or corporation embraced in this chapter has a controversy with another corporation or person, and all the parties to such controversy agree in writing to submit such controversy to the commission as arbitrator, the commission shall act as such, and after due notice to all parties interested shall proceed to hear the same, and its award shall be final. Such award in cases where land or an interest in land is concerned shall immediately be certified to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said land is situated, and shall by such clerk be docketed in the judgment docket for such county, and from such docketing shall be a judgment of the superior court for such county. Parties may appear in person or by attorney before such arbitrator. (Rev., s. 1073; 1899, c. 164, s. 25; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1059.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of utilities commission to settle dispute between a railroad and a drainage district, see § 156-91.

§ 62-62. To investigate accidents.—The commission may investigate the causes of any accident on a railroad or steamboat which it may deem to require investigation, and any evidence taken upon such investigation shall be reduced to writing, filed in the office of the commission, and be subject to public inspection. (Rev., s. 1065; 1899, c. 164, s. 24; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1061.)

§ 62-63. To notify of violation of rules and institute suit.—The commission, whenever in its judgment any public utility has violated any law, shall give notice thereof in writing to such corporation, and, if the violation or neglect is continued after such notice, shall forthwith present the facts to the attorney-general, who shall take such proceedings thereon as he may deem expedient. (Rev., s. 1113; 1899, c. 164, s. 8; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1062.)

Construed as Mandatory.—This provision is positive, and must be construed as being mandatory. In this case the statute of North Carolina makes it clearly the duty of the Attorney-General, when called upon, to prosecute any suit or action which may be deemed necessary to secure the enforcement of the laws of the State, in regard to the fixing of maximum rates. This section, when construed in accordance with the rule laid down in the Regan case, 154 U. S. 362, 14 S. Ct. 1047, 38 L. Ed. 1014, and the Ames case, 169 U. S. 466, 18 S. Ct. 418, 43 L. Ed. 819, clearly charges the Attorney-General with a duty in relation to the enforcement of the act in question. Southern R. Co. v. McNeill, 155 Fed. 756, 775.

Procedure.—The section provides that the Commission, whenever in its judgment any corporation has violated any law, shall first give notice of such violation to the offending corporation, and, in the event of a failure on the part of such corporation to comply with the law, to present the facts to the Attorney-General. Southern R. Co. v. McNeill, 155 Fed. 756, 775.

§ 62-64. Utilities commission authorized to enter agreement of indemnity as to oyster beds in New River.—The utilities commission is authorized and empowered to enter into a contract with the United States or the Secretary of War on behalf of the State of North Carolina, by the terms of which it shall be agreed that the State of North Carolina will save the United States free from liability for damages to oyster beds in New River arising from the dredging and maintenance of a channel ten feet deep and ninety feet wide therein, between the Inland Waterway and Jacksonville: Provided, the liability of the State of North Carolina under such contract shall not exceed the total sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000).

The enactment of this statute shall not be treated or considered as any admission on the part of the State that the owner of such oyster beds who have not executed waivers or releases prior to February 24, 1939, shall be entitled to any damages by reason of the dredging and maintenance of the said channel, and no payment shall be made on account of such claims unless and until the owners of such oyster beds shall show that there has been sustained actual damages to such oyster beds on account of the dredging and maintenance of said channel. (1939, c. 51; 1941, c. 97.)

Art. 4. Public Utilities Act of 1933

§ 62-65. Definitions.—(a) The term "corporation," when used in this article, includes a private corporation, an association, a joint stock association or a business trust.

(b) The term "person," when used in this article, includes a natural person, a partnership or two or more persons having a joint or common interest, and a corporation as hereinbefore defined.

(c) The term "municipality," when used in this article, includes a city, a county, a village, a town, and any other public corporation existing, created or organized as a governmental unit under the constitution or laws of the State.

(d) The term "commission" shall mean the utilities commission.

(e) The term "public utility," when used in this article, includes persons and corporations, or their lessees, trustees and receivers now or hereafter owning or operating in this state equipment or facilities for:

(1) Producing, generating, transmitting, delivering or furnishing gas, electricity, steam or any other agency for the production of light, heat or power to or for the public for compensation;

(2) Diverting, developing, pumping, impounding, distributing or furnishing water to or for the public for compensation;

(3) Transporting persons or property by street, suburban or interurban railways for the public for compensation;

(4) Transporting persons or property by motor vehicles for the public for compensation, but not including taxicab, operating on call, or truck transfer service in cities or towns;

(5) Transporting or conveying gas, crude oil or other fluid substance by pipe line for the public for compensation;

(6) Conveying or transmitting messages or communications by telephone or telegraph, where such service is offered to the public for compensation;

(7) The term "public utility" shall for rate making purposes only include any person producing, generating or furnishing any of the foregoing services to another person for distribution to or for the public for compensation.

The term "public utility" shall not include any person not otherwise a public utility, who furnishes the services or commodity only to himself, his employees or tenants when such service or commodity is not resold to or used by others. The business of any public utility other than of the character defined in subdivisions 1 to 7, inclusive, of subdivision (e) of this section is not subject to the provisions of this article.

(f) The term "rate," when used in this article, means and includes every compensation, charge, fare, toll, rental and classification, or any of them, demanded, observed, charged or collected by any public utility, for any service, product or commodity offered by it to the public, and any rules, regulations, practices or contracts affecting any such compensation, charge, fare, toll, rental or classification. (1933, c. 307, s. 1; c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

The provisions of this article as to rate regulation are not in conflict with chapter 75. Bennett v. Southern Ry. Co., 211 N. C. 474, 191 S. E. 240.

Cited in Russ v. Western Union Tele. Co., 222 N. C. 504, 23 S. E. (2d) 681.

§ 62-66. Rates must be just and reasonable.—Every rate made, demanded or received by any public utility, or by any two or more public utilities jointly, shall be just and reasonable. (1933, c. 307, s. 2.)

§ 62-67. Service.—Every public utility shall furnish adequate, efficient and reasonable service. (1933, c. 307, s. 3.)

§ 62-68. To file rate schedules with commission.—Under such rules and regulations as the commission may prescribe, every public utility shall file with the commission, within such time and in such form as the commission may designate, schedules showing all rates established by it and collected or enforced, or to be collected or enforced within the jurisdiction of the commission. The utility shall keep copies of such schedules open to public inspection under such rules and regulations as the commission may prescribe. (1933, c. 307, s. 4.)

Cited in Russ v. Western Union Tele. Co., 222 N. C. 504, 23 S. E. (2d) 681; High Point v. Duke Power Co., 34 F. Supp. 339.

§ 62-69. Rates varying from schedule prohibited. —No public utility shall directly or indirectly, by any device whatsoever, or in any wise, charge, demand, collect or receive from any person a greater or less compensation for any service rendered or to be rendered by such public utility than that prescribed in the schedules of such public utility applicable thereto then filed in the manner provided in this article, nor shall any person receive or accept any service from a public utility for a compensation greater or less than that prescribed in such schedules. (1933, c. 307, s. 5.)

Where, at termination of contract between city and electric company, city officials were doubtful whether it would be advantageous to adopt new schedule of electric company and elected to take current on basis from month to month, electric company was not exacting an unlawful rate by billing the city for current on rates contained in old contract rather than under new schedule. High Point v. Duke Power Co., 34 F. Supp. 339.

Cited in Russ v. Western Union Tele. Co., 222 N. C. 504, 23 S. E. (2d) 681.

§ 62-70. Discrimination prohibited. — No public utility shall, as to rates or services, make or grant any unreasonable preference or advantage to any corporation or person or subject any corporation or person to any unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage. No public utility shall establish or maintain any unreasonable difference as to rates or services either as between localities or as between classes of service. The commission may determine any questions of fact arising under this section. (1933, c. 307, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of this and related sections, see 11 N. C. Law Rev. 246.

Party Entitled to Injunctive Relief.—Where certain carriers by truck sought injunctive relief against railroad carriers for discrimination in rates against certain cities and against certain commodites, it was held that the basis for injunctive relief must be an interference or threatened interference with a legal right of the petitioner, not of a third party and that the shippers would be the real parties in interest, not the contract truck carriers. Carolina Motor Service v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 210 N. C. 36, 38, 185 S. E. 479, 104 A. L. R. 1165.

§ 62-71. Change of rates.—Unless the commission otherwise orders, no public utility shall make any changes in any rate which has been duly established under this article, except after thirty days' notice to the commission, which notice shall plainly state the changes proposed to be made in the rates then in force, and the time when the changed rates will go into effect. The utility shall also give such notice of the proposed changes to other interested persons as the commission in its discretion may direct. All proposed changes shall be shown by filing new schedules, or shall be plainly indicated upon schedules filed and in force at the time and kept open to public inspection. The commission, for good cause shown, may allow changes in rates, without requiring the thirty days' notice, under such conditions as it may prescribe. All such changes shall be immediately indicated upon its schedules by such public utility.

Whenever there is filed with the commission by any public utility any schedule stating a new rate or rates, the commission may, either upon complaint or upon its own initiative, upon reasonable notice, enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of such rate or rates; and pending such hearing and the decision thereon the commission, upon filing with such schedule and delivering to the utility affected thereby a statement in writing of its reasons therefor, may, at any time before they become effective, suspend the operation of such rate or rates, but not for a longer period than ninety (90) days beyond the time when such rate or rates would otherwise go into effect unless the commission shall find that a longer time will be required, in which case the commission may extend the period for not to exceed six (6) months: Provided, and notwithstanding any such order of suspension, the public utility may put such suspended rate or rates into effect on the date when it or they would have become effective, if not so suspended, by filing with the commission a bond in a reasonable amount approved by the commission, with sureties approved by the commission, conditioned upon the refund, in a manner to be prescribed by order of the commission to the persons entitled thereto of the amount of the excess, if the rate or rates so put into effect are finally determined to be excessive; or there may be substituted for such bond, other arrangements satisfactory to the commission for the protection of the parties interested. If the public utility fails to make refund within thirty (30) days after such final determination, any person entitled to such refund may sue therefor in any court of this state of competent jurisdiction and be entitled to recover, in addition to the amount of the refund due, all court costs, but no suit may be maintained for that purpose unless instituted within two years after such final determination. Any number of persons entitled to such refund may join as plaintiffs and recover their several claims in a single action; in which action the court shall render a judgment severally for each plaintiff as his interest may appear. During any such period of suspension the commission may, in its discretion, require that the public utility involved shall furnish to its consumers or patrons a certificate or other evidence of payments made by them. (1933, c. 307, s. 7.)

A public service corporation has a right to maintain optional schedules. High Point v. Duke Power Co., 34 F. Supp. 339.

§ 62-72. Changing unreasonable rates after hearing.—Whenever the commission, after a hearing had after reasonable notice upon its own motion or upon complaint, finds that the existing rates in effect and collected by any public utility for any service, product, or commodity, are unjust, unreasonable, insufficient or discriminatory, or in any wise in violation of any provision of law, the commission shall determine the just, reasonable and sufficient rates to be thereafter observed and in force, and shall fix the same by order as hereinafter provided. (1933, c. 307, s. 8.)

§ 62-73. Compelling telephone and telegraph companies to form continuous lines to certain points.—The commission may upon complaint, in writing, by any person, or on its own initiative after a hearing on reasonable notice, by order require any two or more telephone or telegraph companies whose lines or wires form a continuous line of communication, or could be made to do so by the construction and maintenance of suitable connections or the joint use of equipment, or the transfer of messages at common points, between different localities which can not be communicated with or reached by the lines of either company alone, where such service is not already established or provided, to establish and maintain through lines within the state between two or more such localities. The rate for such service shall be just and reasonable and the commission shall have power to establish the same, and declare the portion thereof to which each company affected thereby is entitled and the manner in which the same must be secured and paid. All necessary construction, maintenance and equipment in order to establish such service shall be constructed and maintained in such manner and under such rules, with such division of expense and labor as may be required by the commission. (1933, c. 307, s. 9.)

§ 62-74. Compelling efficient service after hearing.—Whenever the commission, after a hearing after reasonable notice had upon its own motion or upon complaint, finds that the service of any public utility is unreasonable, unsafe, inadequate, insufficient or unreasonably discriminatory, the commission shall determine the reasonable, safe, adequate sufficient service to be observed, furnished, enforced or employed and shall fix the same by its order, rule or regulation. (1933, c. 307, s. 10.)

§ 62-75. Fixing standards, classifications, etc.; testing service. — The commission may, after hearing upon reasonable notice had upon its own motion or upon complaint, ascertain and fix just and reasonable standards, classifications, regulations, practices or service to be furnished, imposed, observed and followed by any or all public utilities; ascertain and fix adequate and reasonable standards for the measurement of quantity, quality, pressure, initial voltage or other condition pertaining to the supply of the product, commodity or service furnished or rendered by any and all public utilities; prescribe reasonable regulations for the examination and testing of such product, commodity or service and for the measurement thereof; establish or approve reasonable rules, regulations, specifications and standards to secure the accuracy of all meters and appliances for measurement; and provide for the examination and testing of any and all appliances used for the measurement of any product, commodity or service of any public utility. (1933, c. 307, s. 11.)

§ 62-76. Valuing and revaluing utility property.—The commission may, on hearing after reasonable notice, ascertain and fix the value of the whole or any part of the property of any public utility insofar as the same is material to the exercise of the jurisdiction of the commission, and may make revaluations from time to time and ascertain the value of all new construction, extension and additions to the property of every public utility. (1933, c. 307, s. 12.)

§ 62-77. Establishment of accounting system. —The commission may establish a system of accounts to be kept by the public utilities, subject to its jurisdiction, or may classify said public utilities and establish a system of accounts for each class, and prescribe the manner in which such accounts shall be kept. (1933, c. 307, s. 13.)

§ 62-78. Visitorial and inspection powers of commission.—The commissioners and the officers and employees of the commission may during all reasonable hours enter upon any premises occupied by any public utility, for the purpose of making the examinations and tests and exercising any power provided for in this article, and may set up and use on such premises any apparatus and appliances necessary therefor. Such public utility shall have the right to be represented at the making of such examination, tests and inspections. (1933, c. 307, s. 14.)

§ 62-79. Annual reports. — The commission may require any public utility to file annual reports in such form and of such content as the commission may require and special reports concerning any matter about which the commission is authorized to inquire or to keep itself informed, or which it is required to enforce. All reports shall be under oath when required by the commission. (1933, c. 307, s. 15.)

§ 62-80. Investigation into management of utilities. — The commission may, on its own motion and whenever it may be necessary in the performance of its duties, investigate and examine the condition and management of public utilities or any particular utility. In conducting such investigations the commission may proceed either with or without a hearing as it may deem best, but it shall make no order without affording the parties affected thereby a hearing. (1933, c. 307, s. 16.)

§ 62-81. Permission to pledge assets or pay fees. —No public utility shall pledge its faith, credit, moneys or property for the benefit of any holder of its preferred or common stocks or bonds, nor for any other business interest with which it may be affiliated through agents or holding companies or otherwise by the authority of the action of its stockholders, directors, or contract or other agents, the compliance or result of which would in any manner deplete, reduce, conceal, abstract or dissipate the earnings or assets thereof, decrease or increase its liabilities or assets, without first making application to the commission and by order obtain its permission so to do; nor shall any such utility pay any fees, commissions or compensation of any description whatsoever to any holding, managing, operating, constructing, engineering, financing, or purchasing company or agency including subsidiary or affiliated companies, for services rendered or to be rendered without first filing copies of all proposed agreements and contracts with the commission and obtaining its approval. (1933, c. 307, s. 17.)

utility shall issue any securities, or assume any liability or obligation as lessor, lessee, guarantor, indorser, surety, or otherwise, in respect to the securities of any other person unless and until, and then only to the extent that, upon application by the utility, and after investigation by the commission of the purposes and uses of the proposed issue, and the proceeds thereof, or of the proposed assumption of obligation or liability in respect of the securities of any other person, the commission by order authorizes such issue or assumption. The commission shall make such order only if it finds that such issue or assumption (a) is for some lawful object within the corporate purposes of the utility, (b) is compatible with the public interest, (c) is necessary or appropriate for or consistent with the proper performance by the utility of its service to the public as such utility and will not impair its ability to perform that service, and, (d) is reasonably necessary and appropriate for such purpose. Any such order of the commission shall specify the purposes for which any such securities or the proceeds thereof may be used by the utility making such application. (1933, c. 307, s. 18.)

§ 62-83. Commission may approve in whole or in part or refuse approval.—The commission, by its order, may grant or deny the application provided for in the preceding section as made, or may grant it in part or deny it in part or may grant it with such modification and upon such terms and conditions as the commission may deem necessary or appropriate in the premises and may, from time to time, for good cause shown, make such supplemental orders in the premises as it may deem necessary or appropriate and may, by any such supplemental order, modify the provisions of any previous order as to the particular purposes, uses, and extent to which or the conditions under which any securities so theretofore authorized or the proceeds thereof may be applied; subject always to the requirements of the foregoing section. (1933, c. 307, s. 19.)

§ 62-84. Contents of application for permission.—Every application for authority for such issue or assumption shall be made in such form and contain such matters as the commission may prescribe. Every such application and every certificate of notification hereinafter provided for, shall be made under oath, signed and filed on behalf of the utility by its president, a vice-president, auditor, comptroller, or other executive officer having knowledge of the matters therein set forth and duly designated for that purpose by the utility. (1933, c. 307, s. 20.)

§ 62-85. Applications to receive immediate attention; continuances. — All applications for the issuance of securities or assumption of liability or obligation shall be placed at the head of the commission's docket and disposed of promptly, and all such applications shall be disposed of in thirty (30) days after the same are filed with the commission, unless it is necessary for good cause to continue the same for a longer period for consideration. Whenever such application is continued beyond thirty (30) days after the time it is filed, the order making such continuance must state fully the facts necessitating such continuance. (1933, c. 307, s. 21.)

§ 62-86. Notifying commission as to disposition of securities.—Whenever any securities set forth and described in any such application for authority or certificate of notification as pledged or held unincumbered in the treasury of the utility shall, subsequent to the filing of such application or certificate, be sold, pledged, repledged, or otherwise disposed of, by the utility, such utility shall, within ten days after such sale, pledge, repledge, or other disposition, file with the commission a certificate of notification to that effect, setting forth therein all such facts as may be required by the commission. (1933, c. 307, s. 22.)

§ 62-87. No guarantee on part of state. — Nothing herein shall be construed to imply any guarantee or obligation as to such securities on the part of the state of North Carolina. (1933, c. 307; s. 23.)

§ 62-88. Article not applicable to note issues; renewals likewise excepted.—The provisions of the foregoing sections shall not apply to notes issued by a utility for the proper purposes and not in violation of law, payable at a period of not more than two (2) years from the date thereof, and shall not apply to like notes issued by a utility payable at a period of not more than two (2) years from date thereof, to pay, retire, discharge, or refund in whole or in part any such note or notes and shall not apply to renewals thereof from time to time not exceeding in the aggregate six (6) years from the date of the issue of the original note or notes so renewed or refunded. No such notes payable at a period of not more than two (2) years from the date thereof, shall, however, in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, be paid, retired, discharged or refunded by any issue of securities of another kind of any term or character or from the proceeds thereof without the approval of the commission. (1933, c. 307, s. 24.)

§ 62-89. Not applicable to debentures of court receivers; notice to commission.—Nothing contained in this article shall limit the power of any court having jurisdiction to authorize or cause receiver's certificates or debentures to be issued according to the rules and practice obtaining in receivership proceedings in courts of equity. Within ten (10) days after the making of any such notes, so payable at periods of not more than two (2) years from the date thereof, the utility issuing the same shall file with the commission a certificate of notification, in such form as may from time to time be determined and prescribed by the commission. (1933, c. 307, s. 25.)

§ 62-90. Periodical or special reports. — The commission shall require periodical or special reports from each utility hereafter issuing any security including such notes payable at periods of not more than two (2) years from the date thereof, which shall show, in such detail as the commission may require, the disposition made of such securities and the application of the proceeds thereof. (1933, c. 307, s. 26.)

§ 62-91. Failure to obtain approval not to invalidate securities or obligations.—(a) Securities issued and obligations and liabilities assumed by a utility, for which under the provisions of this article the authorization of the commission is required, shall not be invalidated because issued or assumed without such authorization therefor having first been obtained or because issued or assumed contrary to any term or condition of such order of authorization as modified by any order supplemental thereto entered prior to such issuance or assumption. (b) Securities issued or obligations or liabilities assumed in accordance with all the terms and conditions of the order of authorization therefor shall not be affected by a failure to comply with any provision of this article or rule or regulation of the commission relating to procedure and other matters preceding the entry of such order of authorization or order supplemental thereto. (c) A copy of any order made and entered by the commission as in this article provided (duly certified by the clerk of the commission) approving the issuance of any securities or the assumption of any obligation or liability by a utility shall, in and of itself, be sufficient evidence, for all purposes, of full and complete compliance by the applicant for such approval with all procedural and other matters required precedent to the entry of such order. (d) Any utility which willfully issues any such securities, or assumes any such obligation or liability, or makes any sale or other disposition of securities, or applies any securities or the proceeds thereof to purposes other than the purposes specified in an order of the commission with respect thereto, contrary to the provisions of this article, shall be liable to a penalty of not more than ten thousand dollars, but such utility is only required to specify in general terms the purpose for which any securities are to be issued, or for which any obligation or liability is to be assumed, and the order of the commission with respect thereto shall likewise be in general terms. (1933, c. 307, s. 27.)

§ 62-92. Commission may act jointly with agency of another state where utility operates. — If a commission or other agency or agencies is empowered by another state to regulate and control the amount and character of securities to be issued by any public utility within such other state, then the utilities commission of the state of North Carolina shall have the power to agree with such commission or other agency or agencies of such other state on the issue of stocks, bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness by a public utility owning or operating a public utility both in such state and in this state, and shall have the power to approve such issue jointly with such commission or other agency or agencies and to issue joint certificate of such approval: Provided, however, that no such joint approval shall be required in order to express the consent to an approval of such issue by the state of North Carolina if said issue is separately approved by the utilities commission of the state of North Carolina. (1933, c. 307, s. 28; c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-93. Willful acts of employees deemed those of utility. — The willful act of any officer, agent, or employee of a utility, acting within the scope of his official duties of employment, shall, for the purpose of this article be deemed to be the willful act of the utility. (1933, c. 307, s. 29.)

§ 62-94. Actions to recover penalties. — Actions to recover penalties under this article shall be brought in the name of the state of North Carolina, in the county in which the offense was committed. Whenever any utility is subject to a penalty under this article, the commission shall certify the facts to the attorney-general, who shall institute and prosecute an action for the recovery of such penalty: Provided, the commission may compromise such action and dismiss the same on such terms as the court will approve. (1933, c. 307, s. 30.)

§ 62-95. Penalties to school fund.—All penalties recovered by the state in such action shall be paid into the state treasury to the credit of the school fund. (1933, c. 307, s. 31.)

§ 62-96. Abandonment and reduction of service. —Upon finding that public convenience and necessity are no longer served, or that there is no reasonable probability of a utility realizing sufficient revenue from the service to meet its expenses, the commission shall have power, after petition, notice and hearing, to authorize by order any utility to abandon or reduce its service or facilities. (1933, c. 307, s. 32.)

Order Must Be Obtained.—Where a power company discontinued its service for nonpayment of charges, the customer, upon payment of the charges, is entitled to restoration of the service where the company did not obtain an order under this section. Sweetheart Lake v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 211 N. C. 269, 271, 189 S. E. 785.

§ 62-97. Water gauging stations. — The commission may require the location, establishment, maintenance and operation of water gauging stations, and the commission and the North Carolina department of conservation and development may co-operate with each other as to such locations, construction and reports and upon the results of operation. (1933, c. 307, s. 33.)

§ 62-98. Reports from municipalities operating own utilities. — Every municipality engaged in operating any works or systems for the manufacture and supplying of gas or electricity, or purchasing same for distribution and resale, or operating telephone exchanges, shall make an annual report to the commission, verified by the oath of the general manager or superintendent thereof, on the same blanks as now provided for reports of privately owned utilities, giving the same information as required of such utilities. (1933, c. 307, s. 34.)

§ 62-99. Refusal to permit commission to inspect records made misdemeanor. — Any public utility, its officers or agents in charge thereof, that fails or refuses upon the written demand of the commission, or a majority of said commission, and under the seal of the commission, to permit the commission, its authorized representatives or employees to examine and inspect its books, records, accounts and documents, or its plant, property, or facilities, as provided for by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Each day of such failure or refusal shall constitute a separate offense and each such offense shall be punishable by a fine of not less than five hundred and not more than five thousand dollars. (1933, c. 307, s. 35.)

§ 62-100. Willful disobedience to orders of commission incurs forfeiture.—Every public utility and the officers, agents and employees thereof shall obey, observe and comply with every order made by the commission under authority of this article so long as the same shall be and remain in force. Any such person or corporation, or any officer, agent or employee thereof, who knowingly fails or neglects to obey or comply with such order, or any provision of this article, shall forfeit to the state of North Carolina not to exceed the sum of one thousand dollars for each offense. Every distinct violation of any such order or of this article shall be a separate and distinct offense, and in case of a continuing violation each day shall be deemed a separate and distinct offense.

No present provision of law shall be deemed to be repealed by this article except such as are directly in conflict therewith. (1933, c. 307, ss. 36, 37.)

Art. 5. Miscellaneous Provisions as to Public Utilities.

§ 62-101. Certificate of convenience and necessity. — No person, or corporation, their lessees, trustees or receivers shall hereafter begin the construction or operation of any public utility plant or system or acquire ownership or control of, either directly or indirectly, without first obtaining from the utilities commission a certificate that public convenience and necessity requires, or will require, such construction, acquisition, or operation: Provided, that this section shall not apply to new construction in progress on May 27, 1931, nor to construction into territory contiguous to that already occupied and not receiving similar service from another utility, nor to construction in the ordinary conduct of business.

The utilities commission is hereby empowered to make rules governing the application for, and the issuance of such certificates of public convenience and necessity. (1931, c. 455; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

Cross Reference.—As to necessity for certificate of convenience and necessity for housing projects, see § 157-28.

Editor's Note.—For article, "Public Utilities—Rural Electrification Co-operatives—Certificate of Convenience and Necessity," see 16 N. C. Law Rev. 46.

This section is not applicable to an electric membership corporation, organized under the provisions of §§ 117-6 to 117-27. And by reason of the provisions of section 117-27 of the statute under which it was organized, there was no error in the holding of the lower court that the defendant electric membership corporation was not required, before beginning the construction or operation of its facilities for serving its members by furnishing them electricity for lights and power, to obtain from the Utilities Commissioner of North Carolina a certificate that public convenience and necessity requires or will require the construction and operation of said facilities by said defendant. § 62-102. Contracts of public service corporations.—All public service corporations when requested by the utilities commission shall submit copies of contracts made with any person, firm or corporation classed as a holding, managing or operating company or selling service of any kind, and the utilities commission shall have the right to disapprove any such contract, after hearing, if in its judgment it is found to be unjust or unreasonable, and designed, or entered into for the purpose of concealing, abstracting, or dissipating the net earnings of the public service corporation receiving such services. (1931, c. 455; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

(1925, c. 50, s. 1; 1927, c. 136, s. 1; 1929, c. 193, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1937, c. 247, ss. 1, 2; 1941, c. 97.)

Editor's Note.—The Bus Law of 1925 was repealed, amended, and re-enacted by the Act of 1927.

The Act of 1929 amended subsection (q) of this section by striking out the words "under contract or" following the word "trip."

The 1937 amendment inserted the words "or over a regular route" in subsection (k), and added subsections (r), (s) and (t).

Purpose of Article.—It was the intent of this statute, to regulate the public service of automobiles on the highways of the State between cities and towns through classifications of the commission requiring a license therefor, and making a violation thereof indictable as a criminal offense. State v. Andrews, 191 N. C. 545, 132 S. E. 568.

Article Contemplates a Continuous Business.—This statute contemplates a continuous business. The "service" rendered in contemplation of this statute construed with the classifications made by the commission, does not include within the intent and meaning thereof an occasional service rendered at the request of the passenger, and not constituting a regular business of practice of a public service between or at the termini of designated or fixed routes, and an indictment under it will not be upheld. State v. Andrews, 191 N. C. 545, 132 S. E. 568.

§ 62-104. To whom applicable.—No corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, or receivers shall operate over the public highways in this state any motor vehicle or motor vehicle with trailer, as hereinbefore defined as a motor vehicle carrier, for the transportation of persons or property between cities, or between towns, or between cities and towns, or over a regular route, for compensation, except in accordance with the provisions of this article, and said operation shall be subject to control, supervision, and regulation by the commission in the manner provided by this article: Provided, that where the corporate limits of two or more cities join, they shall be treated as one for purposes of administering this article: provided, further, that nothing in this article shall prohibit a motor vehicle carrier under this article, nor any motor vehicle on which the franchise tax has been paid as provided in the current revenue act, from making casual trips on call over routes established hereunder; provided, that on said casual trips no one shall be allowed to pick up any passenger or property along the route, nor be permitted on the return trip to carry any passengers or property other than those or that included in the original trip; nor shall it apply to motor vehicles used exclusively for transporting school students from and to their homes; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively for transporting persons to or from religious services; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively in carrying the United States mail; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively in transporting farm and dairy products from the farm or dairy to warehouse, creamery or other original storage or market; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively in the distribution of newspapers from the publisher to subscribers or distributors; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively in the transportation of bona fide employees of an industrial plant to and from the places of their regular employment: Provided, that if a franchise operator shall furnish such transportation facilities to such mill or factory maintaining a residential unit of one thousand inhabitants or more, the foregoing exception shall not be operative. (1925, c. 50, s. 2; 1927, c. 136, s. 2; 1929, cc. 193, s. 1, 254, s. 1; 1935, c. 111; 1937, c. 247, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—This section was twice amended by Public Laws of 1929. Chapter 193 struck out the words "under contract or" following the word "trips" in line 20. Chapter 254 inserted in lines 18 to 20 the words "on which the franchise tax has been paid as provided in the current revenue act" in lieu of the words formerly appearing.

The amendment of 1935 added the proviso at the end of the section and the clause immediately preceding such proviso reading: "nor to motor vehicles used exclusively," etc.

The 1937 amendment inserted the words "or over a regular route" in the eighth line of this section.

A person transporting persons or property by motor vehicle for hire between cities and towns as a business, accepting all persons for the transportation who properly present themselves, must obtain the franchise required by this and the following section, unless he becomes within the exception specifically pointed out, regardless whether or not any other person or corporation holds a valid franchise covering that section of highway, while persons operating motor vehicles for hire without regard to fixed termini are required to obtain only a "for hire" license. Winborne v. Mackey, 206 N. C. 554, 174 S. E. 577; Winborne v. Browning, 206 N. C. 557, 174 S. E. 579.

The requirement of a franchise under this and following section, for hire between fixed termini which are cities or towns, is not affected by the fact that no other person or corporation has a valid franchise covering the same section of highway, nor does the exception relating to U. S. mail apply unless the motor vehicle is used exclusively for carrying mail. Winborne v. Sutton, 206 N. C. 559, 174 S. E. 580.

Motor vehicles are not "used exclusively in carrying United States mail," where they also carry passengers and property for compensation, and such operation does not come within the exception relating to United States mail under this section. Winborne v. Browning, 206 N. C. 557, 559, 174 S. E. 579.

§ 62-105. Application for franchise certificate.—Every corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, or receivers, before operating any motor vehicle upon the public highways of the State for the transportation of persons or property for compensation, within the purview of this article, shall apply to the commission and obtain a franchise certificate authorizing such operation, and such franchise certificate shall be secured in the manner following:

(a) Application for such certificate shall be made by such corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, or receivers, to the commission in the manner prescribed, and on forms furnished, by the commission.

(b) Upon the filing of said application, the commission may, in its discretion, fix a time and place for the hearing of said application. When the time and place for the hearing has been fixed, the applicant shall, at least ten days prior to said hearing, cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the territory to be served a notice reciting the fact of the filing of said application together with a statement of the time and place for the hearing of said application.

(c) At the time specified in said notice, or at such time as may be fixed by the commission, a public hearing upon said application shall be held by said commission: Provided, that in passing upon applications for certificates, the commission may take into consideration the reliability of the applicant, his court record, and any other matters tending to qualify or disqualify him as a carrier. After such hearing, the commission may issue the license certificate, or refuse to issue it, or may issue it with modifications and upon such terms and conditions as in its judgment the public convenience and necessity may require.

(d) Before granting the franchise certificate to an applicant for operation of passenger or freight motor vehicles over the public highways of the State, the commission shall request and the Highway Commission of the State shall furnish to the commission its recommendations as to the size and weight of the motor vehicles and the type of tires with which said motor vehicles may be equipped, which may be safely operated over said highways and may be operated over the same without greatly damaging them, and such recommendations made by the Highway Commission shall in all cases be observed by the commission in granting franchise certificates to applicants for operation over said highways.

(e) No license certificates shall be issued for the operation on any highway in the State of any motor propelled vehicles of greater width than eighty-six (86) inches and greater loaded weight than fifteen thousand (15,000) pounds for passenger traffic, and greater width than eighty-six (86) inches and greater loaded weight than nine (9) tons for freight traffic, and the commission shall have power at any time, when in its judgment the public convenience or safety requires, or upon request of the Highway Commission, to reduce the size and weight of motor vehicles operated upon the public highways under this article, whether upon hard-surfaced or other types of highway construction.

(f) The commission may refuse to grant any application for a franchise certificate where the granting of such application would duplicate, in whole or in part, a previously authorized similar class of service, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the commission that the existing operations are not providing sufficient service to reasonably meet the public convenience and necessity and the existing operators, after thirty days' notice, fail to provide the service required by the commission: Provided, that where two or more highways intersect within less than twenty-five miles of any incorporated city and the business of such lines transacted at such intersection is insufficient to warrant the maintenance of a bus station, then the commission may in its discretion route all operators to the next city in which a bus station is established and maintained.

(g) All applications not acted upon by the commission within sixty days from date same were filed because of request of applicant shall become null and void.

(h) No license certificate shall be issued to two or more persons until such persons have executed a partnership agreement and registered the same in each county in which they propose to operate.

(i) Applications may be tentatively granted pending purchase of equipment and equipment specifications and insurance, or bond; but no franchise certificate shall be issued until equipment has been purchased and equipment specifications and insurance, or bond, have been filed and approved.

(j) Franchise certificates may be granted to restricted common carriers as defined herein for any period in the discretion of the commission not to exceed three years.

(k) A brokerage license shall be issued to any qualified applicant therefor authorizing the whole or any part of the operations covered by the application if it is found that the applicant is fit, willing and able properly to perform the service proposed and to conform to the provisions of this article and the requirements, rules and regulations of the commission thereunder, and that the proposed service, to the extent to be authorized by the license, is or will be consistent with the public interest and policy declared herein; otherwise, such application shall be denied.

(l) No person shall engage in the business of a forwarder, subject to the provisions of this article, in intrastate operations within this state unless such person makes application to the commission and obtains a certificate issued by the commission authorizing such person to engage in such business as provided herein for other common carriers by motor vehicle: Provided, that where any such forwarder hires instead of owning motor vehicle equipment, such forwarder shall become subject to the provisions herein prescribed for brokers: Provided further, that it shall be unlawful for any such forwarder in the performance of its operation in intrastate commerce to employ or use any motor vehicle carrier which is not the lawful holder of an effective certificate issued as provided in this article. The commission may in any certificate issued restrict or prohibit the direct operation of any motor vehicles by such forwarder in intrastate commerce. Subject to the foregoing part of this subsection (l), a certificate shall be issued to any qualified applicant to conduct the business of for-warder in whole or in part, if it is found that the applicant is fit, willing and able properly to perform the service proposed and to conform to the provisions of this article and the requirements rules and regulations of the commission thereunder, and that the proposed service, to the extent to be authorized by the certificate, is or will be consistent with the public interest and policy declared by this article: otherwise, such application shall be denied. (1925, c. 50, s. 3; c. 137; 1927, c. 136, s. 3; 1931, c. 182; 1933, c. 440, s. 1; 1937, c. 247, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the proviso to subsection (f) of this section.

Prior to the 1933 amendment subsection (f) of this section provided that the commission could not refuse to grant the certificate because of the multiplicity of operators over the proposed route.

The 1937 amendment added subsections (j), (k) and (l).

Quoted in Love v. Queen City Lines, 206 N. C. 575, 577, 174 S. E. 514.

§ 62-106. Franchise certificate. — Upon granting a franchise under this article, the commission shall issue to such applicant a franchise certificate which shall expire automatically three years from the date thereof and shall contain the following matters:

(a) The name and post office address of the grantee.

(b) The public highway or highways over which, and the fixed termini between which, the grantee is permitted to operate.

(c) The kind of transportation, whether passenger or freight, in which the grantee is permitted to engage.

(d) Such additional matters as said commission may deem necessary or proper. (1927, c. 136, s. 4.)

§ 62-107. Sale or other disposition of franchise.—No franchise certificate, issued under the provisions of this article, may be assigned or transferred, or pledged, or hypothecated in any way without the written consent of the commission. (1927, c. 136, s. 5.)

§ 62-108. Insurance. — The commission shall, in granting a franchise certificate, require the applicant to procure and file with the commission acceptable liability and property damage insurance in a company licensed to do business in the State; or, in lieu of such insurance may accept bond with solvent surety, on such motor vehicles to be used in such service, in such amount as the commission may determine, insuring passengers and the public receiving personal injury by reason of an act of negligence arising from the operation of any motor vehicle by the applicant upon the public highways of the State, and for damage to baggage in the custody of the assured and for loss of baggage when checked by the assured; and insuring the passengers and the public receiving personal injury by reason of any act of negligence arising from the operation of any motor vehicle by the applicant upon the route designated in the applicant's franchise certificate, whether such motor vehicle shall be specifically named, numbered or designated in the insurance policy or bond, or not, and whether such motor vehicle be in regular or temporary use by the applicant. Such policy, or bond, shall contain such other conditions, provisions and limitations as the commission may prescribe, and shall be kept in full force and effect. Property carriers may, in the discretion of the commission, be required to secure and file acceptable cargo insurance, or bond, which shall cover damage to or loss of property only when listed on a duly prescribed and authorized bill of lading and receipted for by the assured or his agent. Before final judgment has been rendered by a competent court of jurisdiction, in any cause arising from the operation under any franchise certificate, no attachment shall lie against motor vehicles used in such operation by any motor vehicle carrier, who has filed with the commission such damage liability policy, or bond, so long as such policy or bond is in full force and effect. In any action in the courts arising out of damage to person or property, the assurer shall not be joined in the action against the assured; but upon final judgment against the assured, the assurer shall be liable within the limitations of the policy for the amount recovered and all court costs. Provided, that the commission may permit the filing by any licensed assurer of a uniform master insurance policy contract, the terms of which shall conform to the foregoing, and when approved and accepted by the commission, shall be applicable to all insurance policy contracts filed by such assurer for motor vehicle carriers under this article, and thereafter, so long as the master policy contract shall remain in force, carriers under this article may be permitted to file certificates, in such form as the commission may prescribe, evidencing fleet coverage under the term of such master policy instead of filing a separate individual policy contract in each case: Provided, that brokers and forwarders not operating motor vehicles under a certificate shall be required to file bond to cover financial responsibility not in excess of amounts required by the interstate commerce commission. (1927, c. 136, s. 6; 1937, c. 403; 1941, c. 97.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added the two provisos at the end of the section.

See 13 N. C. Law Rev. 101.

Purpose of Section.—It seems that the Legislature enacted this section to meet the decision in Harrison v. Transit Co., 192 N. C. 545, 135 S. E. 460; Williams v. Frederickson Motor Express Lines, 195 N. C. 682, 684, 143 S. E. 256; Brown v. Brevard Auto Service Co., 195 N. C. 647, 143 S. E. 258.

Joinder of Assurer Forbidden.—The provision of this section prohibiting the joinder of the assurer in an action against the assured, relates to the remedy, and its enforcement does not impair the obligations of a continuing contract of indemnity when the injury in suit occurs after the time the act went into effect. Williams v. Frederickson Motor Express Lines, 195 N. C. 682, 143 S. E. 256; Brown v. Brevard Auto Service Co., 195 N. C. 647, 143 S. E. 258.

And where an assurer was joined in such action the complaint was properly dismissed upon demurrer. Williams v. Frederickson Motor Express Lines, 195 N. C. 682, 143 S. E. 256.

§ 62-109. Regulatory powers of commission; separation of races.—The commission is hereby vested with power and authority to supervise and regulate every motor vehicle carrier under this article; to make or approve the rates, fares, charges, classifications, rules and regulations for service and safety of operation and the checking of baggage of each such motor vehicle carrier; to supervise the operation of union passenger stations in any manner necessary to promote harmony among the operators and efficiency of service to the traveling public; to fix and prescribe the speed limit, which may be less but shall not be greater than that prescribed by law; to regulate the accounts and to require the filing of annual and other reports and of other data by such motor vehicle carriers; to require the increase of equipment capacity to meet public convenience and necessity; and to supervise and regulate motor vehicle carriers in all other matters affecting the relationship between such carriers and the traveling and shipping public. The commission shall have power and authority, by general order or otherwise, to prescribe rules and regulations applicable to any and all motor vehicle carriers, and the said commission is authorized, directed and empowered, whenever the public convenience and necessity may require, to increase, or decrease, or suspend temporarily the service upon any route for which a franchise certificate has been issued; and is hereby authorized, empowered, and directed to see that such rules and regulations and all, and singularly, the provisions of this article are enforced. The commission shall require any motor vehicle carrier operating on a franchise granted by the utilities commission and coming within the provisions of this article, if engaged in the transportation of both white and colored passengers for hire, to provide separate but equal accommodations for the white and colored races at passenger stations or waiting rooms where the carrier receives passengers of both races and/or on all busses or motor vehicles operating on a route or routes over which such carrier transports passengers of both races. Such accommodations may be furnished either by separate motor vehicles or by equal accommodations in motor vehicles. Provided that any requirement as to separate accommodation for the races shall not apply to specially chartered motor vehicles or to negro servants and attendants on their employers, or to officers or guards transporting prisoners; and provided that operators of motor vehicles or bus lines or taxicabs engaged in the transportation of passengers of one race only shall not be required to provide any accommodations for the other race, and provided that an operator shall not be required to furnish any accommodations to the other race over a line or route where he has undertaken and is engaged in the transportation of passengers of only one race, and provided, further, that nothing contained in this section shall be construed to declare operators of busses and/or taxicabs common carriers. (1925, c. 50, s. 4; 1927, c. 136, s. 7; 1929, c. 216, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97.)

Cross References.—As to separate waiting rooms for races, see § 62-44. As to provisions for equal accomodations for the races traveling by railroad, see § 60-94 to § 60-98.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added all of this section beginning with the word "The" in line 33.

In Corporation Commission v. Interracial Commission, 198 N. C. 317, 151 S. E. 648 (1930), the Interracial Commission petitioned the Corporation Commission to make regulations to insure the negro traveling public separate but equal accommodations on the busses and in the passenger stations of the respondent bus companies. The petition was dismissed by the Corporation Commission on the ground that it had no power to interpret carriers by bus to be common carriers within the terms of the 1927 statute. On appeal to the Supreme Court it was held, (1) That bus lines operating within the state are common carriers, and (2) That the Corporation Commission has plenary power under the 1927 statute to require bus lines operating between points within the state in carrying passengers for hire to provide separate bus and station accommodations for white and negro passengers.

The legislature has authority to provide reasonable rules and regulations for the supervision of common carriers and to prevent unjust discriminations and preferences. This authority may be delegated to an administrative board or commission. The Corporation Commission is specifically vested by the 1927 statute with power to supervise and regulate motor vehicle carriers in matters affecting the relationship between such carriers and the traveling public. It seems clear from the language of this statute, without necessity of construction by the Corporation Commission, that the motor vehicle carriers provided for were common carriers. In accord with the policy of the state with regard to separation of races in public conveyances, the Commission should have issued orders for segregation upon the petition of the Interracial Commission.

Since the above litigation began, chapter 216, Public Laws of 1929 has gone into effect, but not being necessarily involved in the case was not thereby construed, although the Court discussed it. The statute provides that operators of motor vehicles or bus lines or taxicabs engaged in the transportation of passengers of one race only shall not be required to provide any accommodations for the other race. A state statute which requires the separation of the races, with equal accommodations, is not a denial of equal protection of the laws. But no one can be excluded by a common carrier on account of color, and a state law which authorizes race discrimination by a public carrier of passengers is unconstitutional. It is submitted therefore that the portion of the 1929 statute above set out is contrary to the equal protection clause of the fourteenth amendment.

The statute also provides that nothing contained in this act or the law amended hereby shall be construed to declare operators of busses and/or taxicabs common carriers. This provision appears to be superfluous. Whether a carrier is private or public depends upon the service it renders and not on legislation. Whether the service rendered is public or private depends on the facts, and the fourteenth amendment prevents the legislature from declaring a carrier private or public unless there is a reasonable basis of fact for so doing. 8 N. C. L. Rev. 455.

§ 62-110. Violations investigated; hearing; revocation of license; appeal.—The commission shall, at any time, upon complaint, or upon its own motion, that any operator transporting persons or property by a motor vehicle, licensed under the provisions of this or any other act by the state of North Carolina, is engaged in violating the provisions of this article or any rules or regulations prescribed by the commission, or violating any of the laws of the state with respect to the rights, duties, and privileges of motor vehicle carriers for the transportation of either persons or property on franchise certificate issued under the provisions of this article, cause an order to be issued directing the owner of the motor vehicle alleged to be engaged in any of the acts specified to appear before the commission at a fixed time and place, at which time the commission shall investigate the complaint made; and if the commission shall be satisfied after such hearing that the said motor vehicle carrier has been engaged in practice or practices violating the terms of his franchise or the rules and regulations for the enforcement thereof, or, if not a franchise carrier, has been invading the prerogatives, privileges, or rights of a duly licensed franchise carrier by operating on the route of a common carrier, by soliciting or transporting passengers or property at lower than approved rates for the common carrier, or without a bona fide contract, the commission shall issue an order requiring the suspension of such practice or practices conditioned upon the revocation of the motor vehicle license of the offending party if he shall fail within the time specified by the commission to desist from such offending practice or practices; and upon the failure of any offending motor vehicle carrier to obey such order of the commission, the commision shall certify this fact to the commissioner of motor vehicles, whereupon the commissioner of motor vehicles shall cause the license or licenses of the offending motor vehicle carrier to be canceled, and such offending carrier who shall thereafter engage in the hauling of any persons or property for compensation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and each day's operation shall constitute a separate offense: Provided, the holder of any certificate, franchise or license whose certificate, franchise or license is ordered canceled hereunder shall have the right of appeal to the superior court as is now provided by law for appeals from the commission, but no such holder shall operate pending such appeal unless permitted to do so by order of the commission. (1927, c. 136, s. 8; 1937, c. 247, s. 4; 1941, cc. 36, 97.)

Editor's Note.—This section is leveled at those carriers operating or purporting to operate under contract with particular shippers rather than operating under a franchise and serving the public generally. Such contract carriers must now have bona fide contracts. This probably means that they may not take occasional business, but must have contracts with shippers running over a period of time and calling for continued service. The provisions designed to prevent contract carriers from obtaining business by cutting rates below those of common carriers are a step in the direction already taken by other states which have set up systems of control of private contract motor carriers. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 360, 361.

§ 62-111. Cancellation of franchise certificates.

(a) Franchise certificates issued under this article shall become null and void for the following causes:

(1) For failure for thirty days to pay the franchise tax as provided by law.

(2) For abandonment of authorized operation for a period of thirty days without the written consent of the commission.

(3) For failure to begin operation within thirty days after the issuance of certificate.

(b) Such franchise certificates may be cancelled in the discretion of the commission after ten days' notice for the following causes:

(1) For failure to pay station rent where a station has been designated and the expense apportioned among the operators by the commission.

(2) For failure to provide tickets for sale at the several stations designated by the commission.

(3) For failure to check baggage as provided by this article and the commission's regulations.

(4) For failure to keep equipment in safe and sanitary condition.

(5) For operating a motor vehicle over a route established hereunder without first obtaining a motor vehicle permit therefor.

(6) For operating a motor vehicle over a route established hereunder without having insurance, or bond, as provided in § 62-108 on file with the commission and in full force and effect at the time of the operation of such motor vehicle.

(7) For failure to observe and comply with schedules and tariffs made or approved by and on file with the commission.

(8) For removing a number plate from a motor vehicle designated by the commission for such motor vehicle, or for attaching or placing on a motor vehicle a number plate not authorized or designated therefor.

(9) For the violation of any other provision of this article, or the commission's regulations, or the wilful or negligent violation of any other statute of this State, relating to the use or operation of motor vehicles on the public highways.

(10) For the violation and conviction of the criminal laws of this State, or for such other acts or conduct that may, in the opinion of the commission, disqualify such operator for rendering the public service contemplated by this article.

Sufficient notice shall be deemed to have been given under this article when notice in writing shall have been addressed to an operator and posted by registered mail to the address contained in the certificate with return receipt requested, or when such written notice has been delivered by a duly authorized agent of the commission or by any officer authorized by law to serve process in this State. (1927, c. 136, s. 10.)

§ 62-112. Depots and stations. — The commission shall designate the towns and cities in which stations shall be maintained by passenger carriers and shall prescribe the rules and regulations under which the expense shall be borne by the respective carriers using such stations and may prescribe rules and regulations governing the maintenance and operation thereof. (1927, c. 136, s. 11.)

§ 62-113. Inspection of bus stations by State Board of Health; reports; action by N. C. Utilities Commission.—The State Board of Health is hereby authorized and directed to inspect bus stations with reference to general sanitation thereof and upon inspection to file with the bus station manager, the North Carolina Utilities Commission, and any and all bus companies operating into the station a copy of the report of inspection, together with such recommendations as said State Board of Health may make. The North Carolina Utilities Commission, upon the receipt of any report of inspection is authorized and empowered to take such action with reference thereto as the public interest may require. If the North Carolina Utilities Commission shall propose any change with reference to the station inspected, it shall give notice to the bus companies affected of the time and place to be heard in connection therewith, and after hearing, the commission may make such order as in its discretion promotes the public interest. (1941, c. 228.)

§ 62-114. Baggage, express, loading, etc.—The amount of express or baggage that may be carried in any motor vehicle with passengers shall not be greater than can be safely and conveniently carried, without causing discomfort to the passengers; and no motor vehicle shall be operated with any baggage, trunk, crate, or other article extending beyond the running board on the left side of such motor vehicle; doorways and aisles of passenger motor vehicles shall be kept clear of all obstruction, and the front seat of all motor vehicles of greater passenger capacity than seven shall be considered an emergency seat, and no passenger shall be allowed to occupy the same unless all other seats of such vehicle are fully occupied. (1927, c. 136, s. 12.)

tion.—No motor vehicle carrier shall charge, demand, collect, or receive a greater or less or different compensation for the transportation of persons or property, or for any service in connection therewith, than the rates, fares, and charges applicable to such carrier as specified in its tariffs filed with and approved by the commission and in effect at the time; nor shall any such carrier refund or remit in any manner or by any device any portion of the rates, fares, or charges so specified, or extend to any person, firm, copartnership, or corporation, or other organization, or association, privileges or facilities in the transportation of persons or property except such as are regularly and uniformly extended to all; and no such carrier shall, directly or indirectly, issue, give, tender, or honor any free fares except to its bona fide officers, agents, employees, and members of their immediate families, and such persons as the commission may designate in its employ, the employ of the state highway and public works commission and/or the motor vehicle department, for the inspection of equipment and supervision of traffic upon the highways of the state: Provided, that motor vehicle carriers under the article may exchange free transportation within the limits of this section. Provided, that any motor vehicle carrier may carry free any blind preacher within the state of North Carolina upon its busses or motor vehicles operating in the state of North Carolina, under the condition that said preacher shall carry or present to such motor vehicle carrier a certificate showing what church or sect he may represent and that he is in good and regular standing with that denomination or sect. (1927, c. 136, s. 13; 1929, c. 58, s. 1; 1937, c. 247, s. 5; 1941, c. 36.)

Cross Reference.—As to free carriage, see §§ 62-133 and 62-134.

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added the clause relating to employees of the state highway and public works commission and the motor vehicle department.

The act of 1929 added the last proviso to this section.

§ 62-116. Renewal of franchise certificates.—Any holder of a franchise certificate granted under this article, which is in force and effect on the date that such certificate expires automatically under the law, who makes application for the renewal thereof, other qualifications of applicants in the discretion of the commission being equal, shall be given preference over other applicants. (1927, c. 136, s. 14.)

§ 62-117. Foreign and interstate commerce.—Neither this article nor any provisions thereof shall apply or be construed to apply to commerce with foreign nations, or commerce among the several states of this Union, or business conducted for the United States Government, except insofar as the same may be permitted under the Constitution of the United States and the acts of Congress, as construed by the United States Supreme Court. (1927, c. 136, s. 15.)

§ 62-118. Violations. — Every corporation and every officer, agent, or employee of any corporation, and every other person who wilfully violates or fails to comply with, or who procures, aids or abets the violation of any provision of this article, or who fails to obey, observe or comply with any order, decision, rule or regulation, direction or requirement of the commission, made under the provisions of this article, or any part or provision thereof, or who operates any motor vehicle for the transportation of persons or property for compensation while under the influence of intoxicating liquors or drugs or in such a reckless manner or at such a rate of speed as would endanger the safety of the passengers or any other person along such highway, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punishable by fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment, in the discretion of the court, or both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. (1927, c. 136, s. 16.)

§ 62-119. Maintenance of actions; fees; funds for enforcement; conferences, etc.—The commission shall have the right and authority to enforce by injunction or other ancillary remedy the provisions of this article or the rules and regulations made under this article.

(a) Fees.—Each applicant for a certificate shall deposit with the commission as a filing fee the sum of ten dollars ($10.00) at the time of application, and fee of one dollar ($1.00) for each motor vehicle added thereafter; and for annual re-registration for the purchase of license, number plates, or tags, a fee of twenty-five cents (25c) for each motor vehicle so re-registered; and for renewal of certificate, a fee of twenty-five cents (25c) for each motor vehicle being operated under the certificate at the time application for renewal is filed: Provided, that brokers and forwarders not applying for nor holding certificates for the operation of motor vehicles shall deposit a filing fee of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) each at the time of application and twenty-five dollars ($25.00) per annum thereafter in addition to any other tax or fee provided by law. Such fees, when received by the commission, shall be paid forthwith to the state treasurer and credited to the highway fund for enforcement purposes.

(b) Funds for Enforcement.—The highway and public works commission is hereby empowered, with the approval of the director of the budget, from time to time to appropriate sufficient funds for the use of the commission for the reasonable enforcement of this article, to be by him disbursed under the supervision of the director of the budget.

(c) Conferences and Joint Hearings.—The commission or its authorized representative is authorized to confer with and hold joint hearings with the authorities of any other state or representatives of the interstate commerce commission in connection with any matter arising under the Federal Motor Carrier Act, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, or in establishing jurisdiction under this article or the Federal Act. (1927, c. 136, s. 18; 1937, c. 247, s. 6; 1941, c. 97.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added subsections (a), (b) and (c) to this section.

§ 62-120. Construction of article.—Nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve any motor vehicle carrier, as herein defined, from any regulation otherwise imposed by law or lawful authority; neither shall chapter 136 of the Public Laws of 1927 be construed to affect any obligation arising under duty imposed by nor right of action accruing under chapter 50, Public Laws of 1925, and amendments thereto. (1927, c. 136, s. 20.)

Applied in Kelly v. Hunsucker, 211 N. C. 153, 189 S. E. 664.

§ 62-121. Enforcement employees. — The commission shall have authority to employ such persons as may be necessary to enforce the provisions of this article, and their compensation shall be fixed in the manner now provided by law. (1927, c. 136, s. 21.)

Art. 7. Rate Regulation.

§ 62-122. Commission to fix rates for public utilities.—Subject to the provisions as to passenger rates in the chapter, Railroads, and as to railroad freight rates in this chapter, the commission shall make reasonable and just rates and charges, in intrastate traffic, and regulate the same, of and for—

Cross References.—As to railroad passenger rates, see §§ 60-89 et seq. As to railroad freight rates, see §§ 62-135 et seq. As to utilities commission's authority to fix rates charged by public utilities, see also § 62-36. As to penalty for overcharge, see § 60-110. As to the regulation of rates for ferries connecting links of the state highway system, see §§ 136-84 and 136-85.

Editor's Note.—See 12 N. C. Law Rev. 289, 294, for article on "Electric Rates."

General Rate Fixing Power.—By the section the Commission is given broad and general powers to make rates for freight and passengers service. Tilley v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 39, 77 S. E. 994.

Duty to Fix Rates.—When the Commission is called upon, by either a corporation or those to whom the services are rendered, under its franchise to exercise its rate fixing power and authority, it is its duty to fix and establish just and reasonable rates to be charged for such services. Corporation Comm. v. Henderson Water Co., 190 N. C. 70, 72, 128 S. E. 465.

Power to Classify.—The Legislature has absolutely no power to classify persons, natural or artificial, engaged in precisely the same occupation, laying a tax upon some of them and exempting others, or imposing a tax not operating uniformly upon all. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 143, 59 S. E. 355.

Same—Must Not Be Arbitrary.—In Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Ellis, 165 U. S. 150, 151, 41 L. Ed. 666, 17 S. Ct. 255, it was said: "The mere fact of classification in rate regulating is not sufficient to relieve a statute from the reach of the equality clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, and in all cases it must appear, not merely that a classification has been made, but also that it is based upon some reasonable ground—something which bears a just and proper relation to the attempted classification and is not a mere arbitrary selection." Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 140, 59 S. E. 355.

"Traffic" Defined.—The word "traffic," used in the section includes the transportation and also the sale and distribution of the commodities affected. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

1. Railroads, street railways, steamboats, canal and express companies or corporations, and all other transportation companies or corporations engaged in the carriage of freight, express or passengers.

"Company" Defined.—The term "company" was used and intended to include all corporations, companies, firms or individuals who were engaged as common carriers in the transportation of freight. Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 142, 59 S. E. 355.

Supervisory Power of Commission.—The Commission is given general supervision over railways, street railways, and like companies of the State, and empowered to fix such rates, charges and tariffs as may be reasonable and just, having in view the value of the property, the cost of improvements and maintenance, the probable earning capacity under the proposed rates, the sums required to meet operating expenses, and other specific matters pertinent to such an inquiry, and these are police powers delegated to this commission, governmental so far as they extend. In re Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 179 N. C. 151, 152, 101 S. E. 619.

When Fares of Street Railway May Be Raised.—A public service street railway company, operating under a city charter, and under a contract with the city restricting the passenger fare authorized to be charged its patrons, may be authorized by the Commission to raise its charges to its passengers, when in the opinion of the Commission such is necessary for it to properly maintain its system, allowing a reasonable profit, to meet the requirements of the public for adequate, safe, and convenient service. In re Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 179 N. C. 151, 152, 101 S. E. 619.

Cannot Fix Fares by Contract.—A public service railway corporation operating in various localities may not by contract fix its passenger fares and thus prevent the Commission, under the authority conferred by statute, from determining what rates are, under the circumstances, just and reasonable, for such would authorize such companies to discriminate, unlawfully, among its patrons. In re Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 179 N. C. 151, 152, 101 S. E. 619.

2. The transmission and delivery of messages by any telegraph company, and for the rental of telephone and furnishing telephonic communication by any telephone company or corporation.

Telephone System Must Not Discriminate.—In Telegraph Co. v. Telephone Co., 61 Vt. 241, 15 Am. St. Rep. 893, 3 Am. Elec. Cases, at p. 435, it is said: "A telephonic system is simply for the transmission of intelligence and news. It is, perhaps, in a limited sense, and yet in a strict sense, a common carrier. It must be equal in its dealings with all." Walls v. Strickland, 174 N. C. 298, 300, 93 S. E. 857.

Telephones are public vehicles of intelligence, and they who own or control them can no more refuse to perform impartially the functions that they have assumed to discharge than a railway company, as a comomn carrier, can rightfully refuse to perform its duty to the public. Telephone Co. v. Telegraph Co., 66 Md., 399, at p. 414, 59 Am. Rep., 167; quoted with approval in Walls v. Strickland, 174 N. C. 298, 300, 93 S. E. 857.

In Clinton-Dunn Tel. Co. v. Carolina Tel. Co., 159 N. C. 9, 16, 74 S. E. 636, the court says of the duty and the remedy: "It is very generally recognized that a telephone company acting under a quasi public franchise, is properly classified among the public-service corporations, and as such is subject to public regulations and reasonable control, and is required to afford its service at uniform and reasonable rates and without discrimination among its subscribers and patrons for like service under the same or substantially similar conditions." Godwin v. Telephone Co., 136 N. C. 258, 48 S. E. 636; Walls v. Strickland, 174 N. C. 298, 300, 93 S. E. 857.

Same—Preference to Railroad. —A contract whereby a telegraph company gives to a railroad company a preference of business over its line to the exclusion of others is an illegal discrimination. Leavell v. Western Union Tele. Co., 116 N. C. 211, 21 S. E. 391.

Mandamus to Compel Telephonic Accommodations. — In Godwin v. Telephone Co., 136 N. C. 258, 259, 48 S. E. 636, the court declares: "A mandamus lies to compel a telephone company to place telephones and furnish telephonic facilities without discrimination for those who will pay for the same and abide by the reasonable regulations of the company." State v. Telephone Co., 52 Am. Rep. 404; Am & Eng. Ency. (2d Ed.), 1022, 19 ib., 877; Joyce on Electric Law, sec. 1036; Walls v. Strickland, 174 N. C. 298, 300, 93 S. E. 857.

When Message Transmitted Over Lines of Another Company.—Where a telegraph company has a continuous line between two points in this State, the fact that, in transmitting a message, it sent the message over the lines of another company does not excuse its violation of the rate prescribed by the Railroad Commission for the transmission of a message sent over the lines of one company. Leavell v. Western Union Tele. Co., 116 N. C. 211, 21 S. E. 391.

Messages Traversing Another State.—Telegraphic messages transmitted by a company from and to points in this State, although traversing another State in the route, are subject to the tariff regulations of the Commission of this State. State v. Western Union Tele. Co., 113 N. C. 213, 18 S. E. 389.

Public Duty to Transmit Messages.—It is the duty of a telegraph company to have sufficient facilities to transmit all the business offered to it for all points at which it has offices, since it is not a mere private duty but a public duty which its franchise authorizes it to perform. Leavell v. Western Union Teleg. Co., 116 N. C. 211, 21 S. E. 391.

Power to Ascertain Corporation in Control.—The Commission has the incidental power (subject to the right of appeal) to ascertain what particular corporation is in the control of or operates any line in this State, in order that it may exercise its authority to fix rates, as well as to know against whom to proceed for a violation of its regulations. State v. Western Union Teleg. Co., 113 N. C. 213, 18 S. E. 389.

Cited in Russ v. Western Union Tel. Co., 222 N. C. 504, 23 S. E. (2d) 681.

3. Persons, companies and corporations, other than municipal corporations, engaged in furnishing electricity, electric lights, current, power or gas, or owning or operating a public sewerage system in North Carolina.

Discrimination Remedied by Mandamus.—Where a public-service corporation has discriminated among its patrons in its charges for the same or similar service, a mandamus will lie to compel it to charge a uniform or undiscriminating rate; for the question does not require the courts to fix a rate, or pass upon its reasonableness, the lowest rate charged becoming, automatically, the proper one. North Carolina Public Service Co. v. Southern Power Co., 179 N. C. 18, 101 S. E. 593.

Rates Coextensive with State's Jurisdiction.—When the Commission has finally established, under the provisions of the statute, rates to be charged by a public-service corporation for furnishing electrical power, the rates are coextensive with the State's jurisdiction and territory, and conclusively bind all corporations, companies, or persons who are parties to the suit and have been afforded an opportunity to be heard. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Police Power of State.—The authority, conferred upon the Commission to establish reasonable and just rates of charges by a public-service corporation for furnishings to its customers electrical power, comes within the police powers of the State, and contracts previously made are subordinate to the public interest that such rates be reasonable and just, and afford the corporation supplying the service a safe return upon its investments, having proper regard to the public interest that plants of this character should be properly run and maintained. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Sale of Electricity Generated in Another State.—While the generation of electricity in another State when transported to purchasers in this State may be regarded as interstate commerce, its distribution and sale here is local to the State, permitting the Commission to establish a just and reasonable rate of charge in conformity with the statutory powers, there being no interfering act of Congress relating to the subject. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Hydroelectric Company Authorized to Sell to Other Companies.—Where a public-service corporation engages in a class of business authorized by its charter, it dedicates its property to that particular class of use, and where a hydroelectric company having a monopoly has been authorized by its charter to sell to other electric companies, etc., power, etc., for retail or distribution among customers, it may not resist the jurisdiction of our courts upon the ground that they were not legally required to do so, though the distributing or retail company is in some sense a competitor, and has the charter right to generate or manufacture its own electricity. North Carolina Pub. Service Co. v. Southern Power Co., 179 N. C. 18, 101 S. E. 593.

4. The through transportation of freight, express or passengers.

5. The use of railway cars carrying freight or passengers.

6. And shall make rules and regulations as to contracts entered into by any railroad company or corporation to carry over its line or any part thereof the car or cars of any other company or corporation.

7. And it shall make, require or approve for intrastate shipments what is known as milling-in-transit, or warehousing in transit rates on grain, or lumber to be dressed, or cotton or peanuts or tobacco.

Editor's Note.—This subsection was amended by c. 37 of the Acts of 1925, by adding at the end the provision giving the Commission "authority to make, require and approve what is known as warehousing-in-transit rates on cotton." Chapter 82 and 91 of the Public Laws of 1929, which are identical, substituted the above in lieu of the subsection as amended by the 1925 act.

Milling in Transit.—"Milling in Transit," is where freight is shipped a long distance and the carrier will, at his own cost, defray the expense of its change in form en route because of the easier handling in a more compact shape, as, for example, Cowan v. Bond, 39 Fed. 54, where a railroad company receiving cotton in Louisiana for shipment to mills in New England had it compressed en route at Vicksburg at its own expense, charging the shipper no more than if it had carried the uncompressed cotton all the way, the same privilege being open to all shippers. Lumber Co. v. Railroad, Discrimination Case, 136 N. C. 479, 486, 48 S. E. 813.

8. And, conjointly with such railroad companies, shall have authority to make special rates for the purpose of developing all manufacturing, mining, milling and internal improvements in the state.

Nothing in this chapter shall prohibit railroad or steamboat companies from making special passenger rates with excursion or other parties, also rates on such freights as are necessary for the comfort of such parties, subject to the approval of the commission.

The powers vested in the commission by this section over the several subjects enumerated shall be the same as that vested in it in respect to railroads and other transportation companies. (Rev., ss. 1096, 1099; 1899, c. 164, ss. 2, 14; 1903, c. 683; 1907, c. 469, s. 4; 1913, c. 127, s. 2; 1917, c. 194; 1925, c. 37; 1929, cc. 82, 91; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1066.)

§ 62-123. Rates established deemed just and reasonable.—The rates or charges established by the commission shall be deemed just and reasonable, and any rate or charge made by any corporation, company, copartnership or individual engaged in the businesses enumerated in the preceding section other than those so established shall be deemed unjust and unreasonable. Provided, however, that upon petition filed by any shipper or receiver of freight, and a hearing thereon, if the commission shall find the rates or charges collected to be unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory or preferential, the commission may enter an order awarding such petitioner a sum equal to the difference between such unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory or preferential rates or charges and the rates or charges found by the commission to be just and reasonable, nondiscriminatory and nonpreferential upon all shipments made or received by said petitioner within two years prior to the filing of such petition; provided, however that this shall only apply to charges assessed and collected on and/or after March 19, 1929. (1913, c. 127, s. 3; 1929, cc. 241, 342; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1067.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended twice by Public Laws of 1929. Chapter 241 inserted the first proviso and Chapter 342 added the other.

Burden of Proof.—The rates or charges, established by the Commission, shall be deemed just and reasonable. The burden was therefore upon the appellant to offer evidence sufficient for the jury to find upon appeal and under the instructions of the court, that the schedule of rates established by the Commission, in this case, was not just and reasonable to both petitioner and respondent. Corporation Comm. v. Henderson Water Co., 190 N. C. 70, 72, 128 S. E. 465.

Rates Other Than Those Fixed Deemed Unjust.—Including public-service corporations furnishing their customers electricity for power, etc., the Commission is authorized by statute to fix just and reasonable rates of charges, and when these rates are so fixed, other or lower rates are to be deemed as unjust and unreasonable. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Deemed Reasonable Until Modified.—Under the provisions of our statute, § 62-20, any party affected by the order of the Commission as to rates or charges for passengers by a street railway company, etc., is given the right of appeal to the courts from such order, and the charges so fixed are to be considered just and reasonable charges for the services rendered, unless and until they shall be changed or modified on appeal or by the further action of the commission itself. State v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 173 N. C. 413, 92 S. E. 150, was approved. In re Southern Pub. Utilities Co., 179 N. C. 151, 101 S. E. 619.

§ 62-124. How maximum rates fixed.—In fixing any maximum rate or charge, or tariff of rates or charges for any common carrier, person or corporation subject to the provisions of this chapter, the commission shall take into consideration if proved, or may require proof of, the value of the property of such carrier, person or corporation used for the public in the consideration of such rate or charge or the fair value of the service rendered in determining the value of the property so being used for the convenience of the public. It shall furthermore consider the original cost of construction thereof and the amount expended in permanent improvements thereon and the present compared with the original cost of construction of all its property within the state; the probable earning capacity of such property under the particular rates proposed and the sum required to meet the operating expenses of such carrier, person or corporation, and all other facts that will enable it to determine what are reasonable and just rates, charges and tariffs. (Rev., s. 1104; 1899, c. 164, s. 2, subsec. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1068.)

Editor's Note.—See 12 N. C. Law Rev. 289, 298, for comment on this section.

Section Controls.—In establishing rates the Commission is governed and controlled by the provision of this section. Southern R. Co. v. McNeill, 155 Fed. 756, 769.

Word "Maximum" Explained.—The word "maximum," used in an order of the Commission for fixing the rates of charges allowed to a petitioning public-service corporation, was not intended to mean that a descending rate therefrom was to be allowed under the contract set up by the customers or users, but to distinguish it from the word "minimum," which also was used in reference to the subject. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

Manner of Arriving at Rate. — Under the provisions of this section, which is a valid statute, the Commission, in fixing a reasonable and just rate of charges for public-service corporations, may make a fair estimated value of the property presently used, and in relation thereto consider the tax valuation of the plant. State v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 185 N. C. 17, 116 S. E. 178.

§ 62-125. Hearing before utilities commission upon request for change of rates, etc.—Whenever there shall be filed with the utilities commission any schedule stating an increase in any new individual or joint rate, fare, charge, or classification for the transportation of passengers or property by a public carrier or carriers by railroad, or express, or highway, or water, or any rule, regulation, or practice affecting such rate, fare, or charge, or the value of the service thereunder, the commission is hereby authorized and empowered upon complaint of any interested party or upon its own initiative at once and, if it so orders, without answer or formal pleading by the interested carrier or carriers, but upon reasonable notice, to enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of such rate, fare, or charge, or such rule, regulation, or practice, and pending such hearing and the decision thereon the commission, by filing with such schedule and delivering to the carrier or carriers affected thereby a statement in writing and its reasons for such suspension, may suspend the operation of such schedule and defer the use of such rate, fare, or charge, or such rule, regulation, or practice, for a period of ninety days, and if the proceeding has not been concluded and a final order made within such period, the commission may, from time to time, extend the period of suspension by order, but not for a longer period in the aggregate than one hundred and eighty days beyond the time when it would otherwise go into effect; and after hearing, whether completed before or after the rate, fare, charge, classification, rule, regulation, or practice goes into effect, the commission may make such order with reference thereto as would be proper in a proceeding instituted after it had become effective. If the proceeding has not been concluded and an order made within the period of suspension, the proposed change of rate, fare, or charge, or classification, rule, regulation, or practice, may go into effect at the end of such period. At any hearing involving a rate, fare, charge, or classification, increased or sought to be increased, or involving a rule, regulation, or practice, resulting in an increase, the burden of proof shall be upon the carrier to show that the increased rate, fare, charge, or classification, or rule, regulation, or practice, or the proposed increased rate, fare, charge, or classification, or the proposed rule, regulation, or practice, is just and reasonable. (1939, c. 365, s. 3; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-126. Notice required for increase in rates, etc.—No increase shall be made in any rate, fare, charge, or classification, nor shall any change be made in any rule, regulation, or practice, the result of which will be an increase, which has been published and filed by any of the transportation companies named in the preceding section, except upon not less than thirty days' notice to the commission and the public: Provided, that the commission may, in its discretion, and for good cause shown, authorize the publication and filing of increased rates, fares, charges, or classification, or rules, regulations, or practices, upon less than thirty days' notice. (1939, c. 365, s. 4; 1941, c. 97.)

§ 62-127. Revision of rates. — The commission shall from time to time, and as often as circumstances may require, change and revise or cause to be changed or revised any schedules of rates fixed by the commission, or allowed to be charged by any carrier of freight, passengers, or express, or by any telegraph or telephone company. The powers of the commission, under this section, shall be exercised with respect to railroad freight and passenger rates under the limitations prescribed by article 8 of this chapter and article 12 of the chapter entitled Railroads. (Rev., s. 1106; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1071.)

Cross Reference.—As to limitation of powers of utilities commission over railroad passenger rates, see § 60-93.

Limitation on Rate Fixing Authority.—Article 8 herein referred to is chapter 20, Laws Extra Session 1913, and it limited the authority of the Commission as to increasing the maximum rates for freight carriers. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 187 N. C. 424, 429, 121 S. E. 767.

Joint Rate between Lumber Road and Connecting Carrier.—When a lumber road is of standard gauge and of sufficient equipment and extensiveness to affect the interest of the public, the Commission may make a valid order establishing a joint rate of transportation in the same cars between it and a connecting common carrier by rail to points beyond the initial road. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 187 N. C. 424, 121 S. E. 767.

§ 62-128. Long and short hauls.—It shall be unlawful for any common carrier to charge or receive any greater compensation in the aggregate for the transportation of passengers or of like kind of property under substantially similar circumstances and conditions for a shorter than for a longer distance over the same line in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer distance; but this shall not be construed as authorizing any common carrier within the terms of this chapter to charge and receive as great compensation for a shorter as for a longer distance: Provided, however, that upon application to the commission, such common carrier may in special cases be authorized to charge less for longer than for shorter distances for the transportation of passengers or property; and the commission may from time to time prescribe the extent to which such designated common carrier may be relieved from the operation of this section: Provided, that nothing in this chapter contained shall be taken as in any manner abridging or controlling the rates of freight charged by any railroad in this state for conveying freight which comes from or goes beyond the boundaries of the state and on which freight less than local rates on any railroad carrying the same are charged by such railroads. (Rev., s. 1107; 1899, c. 164, s. 14; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 9; 1915, c. 17, s. 1; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1072.)

§ 62-129. Contracts as to rates.—All contracts and agreements between railroad companies as to rates of freight and passenger tariffs shall be submitted to the commission for inspection and correction, that it may be seen whether or not they are a violation of law or the rules and regulations of said commission, and all arrangements and agreements whatever as to the division of earnings of any kind by competing railroad companies shall be submitted to the commission for inspection and approval in so far as they affect the rules and regulations made by the commission to secure to all persons doing business with such companies just and reasonable rates of freight and passenger tariffs, and the commission may make such rules and regulations as to such contracts and agreements as may then be deemed necessary and proper, and any such agreements not approved by the commission, or by virtue of which rates shall be charged exceeding the rates fixed for freight and passengers, shall be deemed, held and taken to be violations of this chapter and shall be illegal and void. (Rev., s. 1108; 1899, c. 164, s. 6; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1073.)

§ 62-130. Rates to be published.—All carriers shall, whenever required by the commission, file with it a schedule of their rates of charges for freight and passengers, and the commission is authorized and required to publish the rates, or a summary thereof, in some convenient form for the information of the public, and quarterly thereafter the changes made in such schedules, if it deems it advisable. (Rev., s. 1109; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; 1907, c. 217, s. 5; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1074.)

Interstate Commerce.—In Virginia-Carolina Peanut Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 166 N. C. 62, 82 S. E. 1, it was held that the posting of interstate freight charges, required by a provision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was not necessary to the effectiveness of the schedule of rates, such provision being merely for the convenience of the public. See also Hardware Co. v. Seaboard Air Line, 170 N. C. 395, 86 S. E. 1025.

Effect of Private Agreements.—The rates or transportation allowed are established by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the State Corporation Commission, which may not be affected by any agreement to the contrary between the carriers or their agents or employees and the shipper; and, notwithstanding such agreement, the carrier may demand and enforce the rates established by law. Southern R. Co. v. Latham, 176 N. C. 417, 97 S. E. 234.

§ 62-131. Interstate commerce. — The utilities commission, or other body charged by law with the supervision and regulation of intrastate rates, is authorized and empowered upon its own investigation to bring such cases before the Interstate Commerce Commission, or other body of the National Government supervising and regulating the interstate freight rates, rules and practices, as in its opinion may be necessary to secure for the receivers and shippers of freight in this State such just and reasonable schedule of freight rates as in its opinion may be necessary; and is authorized to maintain before the courts of this State, or the United States, such action as in its opinion may be necessary for the enforcement of just and reasonable schedules of freight rates. In the performance of this duty the said commission shall receive upon application the services of the Attorney General of the State to represent it before the Interstate Commerce Commission or the courts of this State or the United States. (Rev., s. 1110; 1899, c. 164, s. 14; 1907, c. 469, s. 5; 1929, c. 235; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1075.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 struck out the former section and inserted in lieu thereof the above.

Cited in Inter-Island Steam Nav. Co. v. Hawaii, 305 U. S. 306, 59 S. Ct. 202, 83 L. Ed. 189.

§ 62-132. Schedule of rates to be evidence.—The schedule of rates fixed by statute or under this article shall, in suits brought against any company wherein is involved the charges of any company for the transportation of any passenger or freight or cars or unjust discrimination in relation thereto, be taken in all courts as prima facie evidence that the rates therein fixed are just and reasonable rates of charges for the transportation of passengers and freight and cars upon the railroads. All such schedules shall be received and held in all suits as prima facie evidence of the schedules of the commission without further proof than the production of the schedules desired to be used as evidence, with a certificate of the clerk of the commission that the same is a true copy of the schedule prepared or approved by it for the railroad company or corporation therein named. (Rev., s. 1112; 1899, c. 164, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1077.)

Prima Facie Evidence.—The schedules of rates are declared to be prima facie evidence that such rates are just and reasonable, by the section, which also provides for the certification of copies of all such schedules by the clerk of the Commission. Tilley v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 162 N. C. 37, 39, 77 S. E. 994.

§ 62-133. Commission entitled to free carriage. —The commission and its clerks shall be transported free of charge over all railroads and transportation lines which are under the supervision of the commission; and when traveling on official business, they may take with them experts or other agents whose services they may deem temporarily of public importance. (Rev., s. 1105; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1069.)

§ 62-134. Free carriage.—Nothing in this chapter shall prevent or prohibit—

1. The carriage, storage, or handling of property free or at reduced rates for the United States, state or municipal governments, or for charitable or educational purposes; or for any corporation or association incorporated for the preservation and adornment of any historic spot, or to the employees or officers of such company or association while traveling in the performance of their duties, provided they shall not travel further than ten miles one way on any one trip free of charge or to or from fairs or exhibitions for exhibition thereat.

2. The free carriage of destitute or homeless persons transported by charitable societies, and the necessary agents employed in such transportation; or the free transportation of persons traveling in the interest of orphan asylums or homes for the aged or infirm, or any department thereof, or traveling secretaries of Railroad Young Men's Christian Associations, or ex-Confederate soldiers attending annual reunions.

3. The use of passes for journeys wholly within this state which have been or may be issued for interstate journeys under the authority of the United States interstate commerce commission.

4. The issuance of mileage, excursion or commutation passenger tickets.

5. Common carriers from giving reduced rates to ministers of religion, or to municipal governments for the transportation of indigent persons, or to inmates of national homes or state homes for disabled volunteer soldiers, and of soldiers' and sailors' orphan homes, including those about to enter and those returning home after discharge, under arrangements with the boards of managers of said homes.

6. Common carriers from giving free carriage to their own officers and employees and members of their families, or furloughed, pensioned, and superannuated employees, persons who have become disabled or infirm in the service of such common carrier, and the remains of a person killed in the employment of a common carrier, and employees traveling for the purpose of entering the service of such common carrier, and the families of those persons named; also the families of persons killed, and the widows during widowhood, and minor children during minority of persons who died while in the service of such common carrier.

7. The principal officers of any common carrier from exchanging passes, franks or tickets with other common carriers for their officers or employees, and members of their families.

8. Transportation companies from contracting with newspapers for advertising space in exchange for transportation over their lines to such an extent as may be agreed upon between the parties for said consideration.

9. Transportation companies, if they so desire, from furnishing transportation to such agricultural extension and demonstration workers as are engaged in work in the field in efforts to increase production on the farm and to improve the farm home, when such workers are actually engaged in the performance of duties requiring travel.

10. Any common carrier that is operating under lease a railroad in this state, in which the state owns a majority of the capital stock, from giving free carriage, according to the contract of lease, to the officers and their families and the committees of the lessor owning such leased railroad, nor prevent such operating common carrier from issuing annually free transportation to ex-presidents of such lessor owning companies and their families in compliance with the contract of lease entered into by them or according to and for such period of time as may have been prescribed by any by-law of the lessor which was in force at the time such lease was made. (Rev., s. 1105; 1899, c. 164, s. 22; 1899, c. 642; 1901, c. 679, s. 2; 1901, c. 652; 1905, c. 312; 1911, cc. 49, 148; 1913, c. 100; 1915, c. 215; 1917, cc. 56, 160; C. S. 1070.)

Cross References.—As to free transportation by motor carriers, see § 62-115. As to accepting or giving free transportation illegally, see § 60-92.

Unlawful Transportation.—The transportation, by a common carrier, of any person except of the classes specified without charge, is unlawful the offense being the actual free transportation and not the issuance of the free pass. State v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1052, 30 S. E. 133.

A gratuitous passenger is not in pari delicto with the common carrier. McNeill v. Railroad Co., 135 N. C. 682, 47 S. E. 765.

Injured while Riding on Pass Illegally Issued. — The rights, privileges and protection attaching to the relation of the passenger are imposed by law upon common carriers upon consideration of the public policy, independent of contract, and arise from the nature of their public employment. Hence, one injured while riding on a pass illegally issued may recover from the railroad. McNeill v. Railroad Co., 135 N. C. 682, 47 S. E. 765.

Construction of Penal Statute.—In construing a penal statute prohibiting discrimination between passengers, the construction placed on it by common carriers generally, and by private individuals and officials, will not be considered. State v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. C. 1052, 30 S. E. 133.

Art. 8. Railroad Freight Rates.

§ 62-135. Charging or receiving greater rates forbidden.—No railroad company being engaged in the business of common carrier of property within the state of North Carolina shall charge, take, or receive any sum for carrying property entirely within the state of North Carolina between initial and terminal points which are within the state, greater than the amount specified by the utilities commission for the respective classes and commodities, and for the respective distances except in the manner and to the extent and on the conditions mentioned in this article. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 5; C. S. 1082.)

Cross References.—As to penalty for discrimination in rates, see §§ 60-5 and 60-6. As to charge in excess of printed tariffs, see § 60-110.

§ 62-136. Application for investigation of rates; appeal; rates pending appeal. — The utilities commission, or such commission or body upon which jurisdiction and power may be conferred to fix rates for the transportation of property to be charged by the railroads doing business in North Carolina, may, and upon request of any person directly interested in such charge shall, under rules and regulations fixed by law or prescribed and established by such commission, hear evidence as to the reasonableness of the maximum rates fixed by law, or by such commission or body, and establish such rates, in the manner prescribed and allowed by law, as may, in the judgment of said commission, be just, subject to the limitations fixed by this article; and from such an order of such commission any shipper or railroad company directly affected by such order may, under rules and regulations prescribed by law, or under reasonable rules and regulations prescribed by such commission, appeal to the superior court of North Carolina: Provided, that pending the appeal of any railroad company from an order of such commission fixing maximum rates, there shall be no suspension of such order of such commission.

All incorporated cities and towns in the state are deemed to be directly interested in the rates charged for the transportation of property by railroads and other common carriers operating into and out of such municipalities and in any discrimination in such rates and services as between municipalities; and, their welfare being thereby affected, any incorporated city or town in North Carolina is authorized and empowered to file its petition with the utilities commission for investigation and determination of all matters affecting rates for the transportation of property by railroads and other common carriers to or from such municipality, and also to prevent or remove any unfair or unreasonable difference or discrimination, to its prejudice or disadvantage, between the rates or the services at, in or to another such municipality within the state; and such municipality shall have the right, as a party in interest, to be represented and appear before, and to appeal from any decision which may be rendered therein by the utilities commission, in the manner provided by § 62-20. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 7; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1937, c. 401; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1083.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added the second paragraph of this section.

The authority given to municipalities to appear before the utilities commissioner and to appeal from his decisions relates to intrastate rates only, as the commissioner has no authority over interstate rates. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 366.

Commission to Investigate Rates upon Request.—This section expressly confers authority upon the Commission to investigate rates upon the request of any person directly interested. It permits that body to hear evidence as to the reasonableness of the maximum rates fixed by law or by the Commission, and to establish such rates as it may deem just. The authority conferred upon the Commission is plenary. Corporation Comm. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 187 N. C. 424, 429, 121 S. E. 767.

§ 62-137. Rates between points connected by more than one route.—When there is more than one railroad route between given points in North Carolina, and freight is routed or directed by the shipper or consignee to be transported over a shorter route, and it is in fact shipped by a longer route between such points, the rate fixed by law or by such commission for the shorter route shall be the maximum rate which may be charged, and it shall be unlawful to charge more for transporting such freight over the longer route than the lawful charge for the shorter route. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 11; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1085.)

§ 62-138. Action for double amount of overcharge; penalty.—Any railroad company in the state of North Carolina which shall charge a rate for transporting property wholly within the state of North Carolina, between terminals within the state, in excess of that fixed by law or by the lawful order of such commission or board, and which shall omit to refund the same within thirty days after written notice and demand of the person or corporation overcharged, shall be liable to an action for double the amount of such overcharge, and to a penalty of ten dollars per day for each day's delay after thirty days from such notice, in case of shipments of less than carload lots, and to a penalty of twenty dollars per day in the event of shipments of carload lots. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 12; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1086.)

Cross References.—As to overcharge and penalty therefor, see also § 60-110 and § 62-148.

§ 62-139. Double penalty.—Any such railroad company so doing business in the state of North Carolina that shall knowingly charge a rate in excess of that fixed by law or by such board or commission, for shipments wholly within the state, shall be subject to a penalty and shall pay double the penalty above prescribed. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 13; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1087.)

§ 62-140. Persons to receive penalties; accounts and receipts kept separate.—The penalties herein provided for shall be payable to the person or corporation who pays the freight or against whom the freight is charged, and such person or corporation may sue such railroad company and recover such penalty and the amount of such overcharge. The commission shall require the railroad companies, and may require all other such public-service companies as are mentioned in this chapter, to keep separate the cost of doing interstate and intrastate business in North Carolina, and to keep separate receipts from the respective classes, and to direct the manner of keeping the accounts, and to enforce, by penalties, contempt, or otherwise as the law provides, obedience to its orders. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 20, s. 14; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1088.)

Art. 9. Penalties and Actions.

§ 62-141. For violating rules.—If any railroad company doing business in this state by its agents or employees shall be guilty of the violation of the rules and regulations provided and prescribed by the commission, and if after due notice of such violation given to the principal officer thereof, if residing in the state, or, if not, to the manager or superintendent or secretary or treasurer if residing in the state, or, if not, then to any local agent thereof, ample and full recompense for the wrong or injury done thereby to any person or corporation as may be directed by the commission shall not be made within thirty days from the time of such notice, such company shall incur a penalty for each offense of five hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 1086; 1899, c. 164, s. 15; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1105.)

Section Is Valid.—The section giving authority to the Commission after notice for failure of any railroad company to make full and ample recompense for the violation of such rules and regulations to proceed in the courts, to enforce the penalties to be prescribed herein for such violation is valid without providing in detail the methods of procedure. Atlantic Exp. Co. v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393.

Duty to Enforce Rules and Orders.—While the Commission has no power to render a judgment for the payment of money, etc., it is their duty to enforce their rules and orders, and the power to do so is given by this section. State v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 483, 489, 61 S. E. 271.

Right to Investigate Complaint.—Under this section the commission had the undoubted right and it was eminently proper for them to institute an inquiry and inform themselves as to whether a complaint was grounded in truth. They were not required to institute an action for the penalty simply because a citizen feeling himself aggrieved had made a complaint before them. They did right to investigate the matter for themselves, but the end of such investigation was simply to afford them information and enable them to act intelligently in determining whether they would sue for the penalty of $500 given by the statute. State v. Southern R. Co., 147 N. C. 483, 490, 61 S. E. 271.

§ 62-142. Refusing to obey orders of commission.—Any railroad or other corporation which violates any of the provisions of this chapter or refuses to conform to or obey any rule, order or regulation of the utilities commission shall, in addition to the other penalties prescribed in this chapter, forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred dollars for each offense, to be recovered in an action to be instituted in the superior court of Wake County, in the name of the state of North Carolina on the relation of the utilities commission; and each day such company continues to violate any provision of this chapter or continues to refuse to obey or perform any rule, order or regulation prescribed by the utilities commission shall be a separate offense. (Rev., s. 1087; 1899, c. 164, s. 23; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1106.)

§ 62-143. Discrimination between connecting lines.—All common carriers subject to the provisions of this chapter shall according to their powers afford all reasonable, proper and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic between their respective lines and for the forwarding and delivering of passengers and freights to and from their several lines and those connecting therewith, and shall not discriminate in their rates, routes and charges against such connecting lines, and shall be required to make as close connection as practicable for the convenience of the traveling public. And common carriers shall obey all rules and regulations made by the commission relating to trackage. (Rev., s. 1088; 1899, c. 164, s. 21; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1935, c. 258; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1107.)

Cross Reference.—See also, § 60-7.

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 inserted the word "routes" making the section applicable as to discrimination as to routes.

As to the practice of specifying in published tariffs particular routes formed with connecting carriers, see foot note, 13 N. C. L. Rev. 364.

Declaratory of Common Law.—A similar section in the act creating the Railroad Commission was held, in Atlantic Exp. Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393, to be merely declaratory of the common law, and not to enlarge its scope.

May Require Trains to Make Connection.—The Commission has power to require a railroad company to have a train arrive at a certain station on its road at a certain schedule time, so as to connect with the train of another company. Corp. Comm. v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 1, 49 S. E. 191.

Express Facilities.—A railroad company is not compelled to furnish express facilities to another to conduct an express business over its road the same as it provides for itself or affords to any other express company. Atlantic Exp. Co. v. Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393.

§ 62-144. Failure to make reports.—Every officer, agent or employee of any railroad company, express or telegraphic company, who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to make and furnish any report required by the commission for the purposes of this chapter, or who shall willfully or unlawfully hinder, delay or obstruct the commission in the discharge of the duties hereby imposed upon it, shall forfeit and pay five hundred dollars for each offense, to be recovered in an action in the name of the state. A delay of ten days to make and furnish such report shall raise the presumption that the same was willful. (Rev., s. 1089; 1899, c. 164, s. 18; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1108.)

Construction of Similar Statute.—In construing a statute (Code of 1883, s. 1960) which provided a similar penalty against corporations for failure to make the returns into the court, in State v. Marietta, etc., Railroad, 108 N. C. 24, 12 S. E. 1041, it was held, that it could only be recovered in an action brought by the state. A private relator could not maintain the action.

§ 62-145. Offenses by railroads, not otherwise provided for.—If any railroad company shall violate the provisions of this chapter not otherwise provided for, such railroad company shall incur a penalty of one hundred dollars for each violation, to be recovered by the party injured. (Rev., s. 1090; 1899, c. 164, s. 17; C. S. 1109.)

Action Ex Contractu.—It would seem that an action for the penalty hereunder is an action ex contractu for breach of an implied contract to perform a statutory duty. State v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 437, 442, 36 S. E. 14.

Construction of Penal Statute.—The rule that a penal statute must be strictly construed, means no more than that the court, in ascertaining the meaning of such a statute, cannot go beyond the plain meaning of the words and phraseology employed in search of an intention not certainly implied by them, and when there is reasonable doubt as to the meaning of the words used in the statute, the court will not give them such an interpretation as to impose the penalty, nor will the purpose of the statute be extended by implication, so as to embrace cases not clearly within its meaning. Hines v Wilmington, etc., Railroad, 95 N. C. 434.

§ 62-146. Violation of rules, causing injury; damages; limitation.—If any railroad company doing business in this state shall, in violation of any rule or regulation provided by the commission, inflict any wrong or injury on any person, such person shall have a right of action and recovery for such wrong or injury, in any court having jurisdiction thereof, and the damages to be recovered shall be the same as in an action between individuals, except that in case of willful violation of law such railroad company shall be liable to exemplary damages: Provided, that all suits under this chapter shall be brought within one year after the commission of the alleged wrong or injury. (Rev., s. 1091; 1899, c. 164, s. 16; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1110.)

There is no requirement at common law, and no statute in the state, obliging railroad companies to fence their tracks. Jones v. Western North Carolina Railroad, 95 N. C. 328.

§ 62-147. Action for penalty; when and how brought.—An action for the recovery of any penalty under this chapter shall be instituted in the county in which the penalty has been incurred, and shall be instituted in the name of the state of North Carolina on the relation of the utilities commission against the company incurring such penalty; or whenever such action is upon the complaint of any injured person or corporation, it shall be instituted in the name of the state of North Carolina on the relation of the utilities commission upon the complaint of such injured person or corporation against the company incurring such penalty. Such action shall be instituted and prosecuted by the attorney-general or the solicitor of the judicial district in which such penalty has been incurred. The procedure in such actions, the right of appeal and the rules regulating appeals shall be the same as are now provided by law in other civil actions. (Rev., s. 1092; 1899, c. 164, s. 15; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97; C. S. 1111.)

§ 62-148. Remedies, cumulative.—The remedies given by this chapter to persons injured shall be regarded as cumulative to the remedies now given or which may be given by law against railroad corporations, and this chapter shall not be construed as repealing any statute giving such remedies. (Rev., s. 1093; 1899, c. 164, s. 26; C. S. 1112.)

The purchase price, or award for property acquired for an airport or landing field may be paid for by appropriation of moneys available therefor, or wholly or partly from the proceeds of the sale of bonds of the city, town and/or county, as the governing body and/or bodies of such city, town and/or county shall determine. (1929, c. 87, s. 6.)

§ 63-7. Airports already established declared public charge; regulations and fees for use of.—The governing body or bodies of a city, town and/or county which has or have established an airport or landing field, and acquired, leased, or set apart real property for such purpose, may construct, improve, equip, maintain, and operate the same. The expenses of such construction, improvement, maintenance, and operation shall be a city, town and/or county charge as the case may be. The governing body or bodies of a city, town and/or county may adopt regulations and establish fees or charges for the use of such airport or landing field. (1929, c. 87, s. 7.)

§ 63-8. Appropriations.—The governing body or bodies of a city, town and/or county to which this article is applicable, having power to appropriate, individually or jointly, money therein, are hefeby authorized to annually appropriate and cause to be raised by taxation in such city, town and/or county or to use from the net proceeds derived from the operation, by such city, town or county, of any public utility a sum sufficient to carry out the provisions of this article in such proportion and upon such pro-rata basis as may be determined upon by a joint board to be appointed by and from the governing body or bodies of the city, town and/or the county or individually as the case may be. Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to permit the governing bodies of any county, city or town to issue bonds under the provisions of this article without a vote of the people. (1929, c. 87, s. 8.)

§ 63-9. Partial invalidity.—If any part or parts of this article shall be held to be unconstitutional, such unconstitutionality shall not affect the validity of the remaining parts of this article. The General Assembly expressly declares that it would have passed the remaining parts of this article, if it had known that such part or parts thereof would be declared unconstitutional. (1929, c. 87, s. 9.)

Art. 2. State Regulation.

§ 63-10. Definition of terms. — In this article "aircraft" includes balloon, airplane, hydroplane, and every other vehicle used for navigation through the air. A hydroplane while at rest on water and while being operated on or immediately above water shall be governed by the rules regarding water navigation; while being operated through the air otherwise than immediately above water, it shall be treated as an aircraft. "Aeronaut" and "airman" includes aviator, pilot, balloonist, and every other person having any part in the operation of aircraft while in flight. "Passenger" includes any person riding in an aircraft but having no part in its operation. (1929, c. 190, s. 1.)

§ 63-11. Sovereignty in space. — Sovereignty in space above the lands and waters of this State is declared to rest in the State, except where granted to and assumed by the United States. (1929, c. 190, s. 2.)

§ 63-12. Ownership of space.—The ownership of the space above the lands and waters of this State is declared to be vested in the several owners of the surface beneath, subject to the right of flight described in § 63-13. (1929, c. 190, s. 3.)

§ 63-13. Lawfulness of flight.—Flight in aircraft over the lands and waters of this State is lawful, unless at such a low altitude as to interfere with the then existing use to which the land or water, or the space over the land or water, is put by the owner, or unless so conducted as to be imminently dangerous to persons or property lawfully on the land or water beneath. The landing of an aircraft on the lands or waters of another, without his consent, is unlawful, except in the case of a forced landing. For damages caused by a forced landing, however, the owner or lessee of the aircraft or the aeronaut shall be liable as provided in § 63-14. (1929, c. 190, s. 4.)

See 8 N. C. Law Rev. 281, 282.

§ 63-14. Damage on land. — The owner of every aircraft which is operated over the lands or waters of this State is absolutely liable for injuries to persons or property on the land or water beneath, caused by the ascent, descent, or flight of the aircraft, or the dropping or falling of any object therefrom, whether such owner was negligent or not, unless the injury is caused in whole or in part by the negligence of the person injured, or of the owner or bailee of the property injured. If the aircraft is leased at the time of the injury to person or property, both owner and lessee shall be liable, and they may be sued jointly, or either or both of them may be sued separately. An aeronaut who is not the owner or lessee shall be liable only for the consequences of his own negligence. The injured person, or owner or bailee of the injured property, shall have a lien on the aircraft causing the injury to the extent of the damage caused by the aircraft or objects falling from it. (1929, c. 190, s. 5.)

§ 63-15. Collision of aircraft.—The liability of the owner of one aircraft, to the owner of another aircraft, or to aeronauts or passengers on either aircraft, for damage caused by collision on land or in the air shall be determined by the rules of law applicable to torts on land. (1929, c. 190, s. 6.)

§ 63-16. Jurisdiction over crimes and torts.—All crimes, torts, and other wrongs committed by or against an aeronaut or passenger while in flight over this State shall be governed by the laws of this State; and the question whether damage occasioned by or to an aircraft while in flight over this State constitutes a tort, crime or other wrong by or against the owner of such aircraft shall be determined by the laws of this State. (1929, c. 190, s. 7.)

Cross References.—See also, § 63-24. As to criminal jurisdiction generally, see §§ 7-63 and 7-64.

§ 63-17. Jurisdiction over contracts.—All contractual and other legal relations entered into by aeronauts or passengers while in flight over this State shall have the same effect as if entered into on the land or water beneath. (1929, c. 190, s. 8.)

§ 63-18. Dangerous flying a misdemeanor.—Any aeronaut or passenger who, while in flight over a thickly inhabited area or over a public gathering within this State, shall engage in trick or acrobatic flying, or in any acrobatic feat, or shall except while in landing or taking off, fly at such a low level as to endanger the persons on the surface beneath, or drop any object except loose water or loose sand ballast, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars ($500.00) or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. (1929, c. 190, s. 9.)

§ 63-19: Repealed by Session Laws 1943, c. 543.

§ 63-20. Qualifications of operator; federal license.—The public safety requiring, and the advantages of uniform regulation making it desirable, in the interest of aeronautical progress, that a person engaging within this State in operating aircraft, in any form of aerial navigation for which a license to operate aircraft issued by the United States Government would then be required if such aerial navigation were interstate, should have the qualifications necessary for obtaining and holding such a license, it shall be unlawful for any person to engage in operating aircraft within the State, in any such form of aerial navigation, unless he have such Federal license. (1929, c. 190, s. 11.)

§ 63-21. Possession and exhibition of license certificate.—The certificate of the license, herein required, shall be kept in the personal possession of the licensee when he is operating aircraft within this State and must be presented for inspection upon the demand of any passenger, any peace officer of this State, or any official, manager or person in charge of any airport or landing field in this State upon which he shall land. (1929, c. 190, s. 12.)

§ 63-22. Aircraft; construction, design and airworthiness; federal registration. — The public safety requiring, and the advantages of uniform regulation making it desirable, in the interest of aeronautical progress, that aircraft to be operated within this State should conform, with respect to design, construction and airworthiness, to standards then prescribed by the United States Government with respect to aerial navigation of aircraft subject to its jurisdiction, it shall be unlawful for any person to operate an aircraft within this State unless it is registered pursuant to the lawful rules and regulations of the United States Government then in force, if the circumstances of such aerial navigation are of a character that such registration would be required in the case of interstate aerial navigation. (1929, c. 190, s. 13.)

§ 63-23. Penalties.—A person who violates any provision of §§ 63-20, 63-21 or 63-22 of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars ($100.00), or by imprisonment for not more than ninety days, or both; provided, however, that acts or omissions made unlawful by §§ 63-20, 63-21 or 63-22 of this article shall not be deemed to include any act or omission which violates the laws or lawful regulations of the United States. (1929, c. 190, s. 14.)

§ 63-24. Jurisdiction of state over crimes and torts retained.—Provided that this article shall not be construed as a waiver of jurisdiction of the courts of the State of North Carolina over any crime or tort committed within the State of North Carolina, and provided, further, that the General Assembly of North Carolina may at any time amend, regulate or control any of the powers which may be assumed by the United States Department of Commerce under this article. (1929, c. 190, s. 15.)

Art. 3. Stealing, Tampering with, or Operating While Intoxicated.

§ 63-25. Taking of aircraft made crime of larceny.—Any person who, under circumstances not constituting larceny shall, without the consent of the owner, take, use or operate or cause to be taken, used or operated, an airplane or other aircraft or its equipment, for his own profit, purpose or pleasure, steals the same, is guilty of larceny and is punishable accordingly. (1929, c. 90, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to larceny generally, see §§ 14-70 et seq. As to punishment, see § 14-2.

§ 63-26. Tampering with aircraft made crime.—Any person who shall without the consent of the owner, go upon or enter, tamper with or in any way damage or injure any airplane or other aircraft shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punishable by fine of not more than one hundred ($100.00) dollars or imprisonment of not more than sixty days, or both, in the discretion of the court and it shall not be necessary to conviction hereunder to show wilful or malicious intent. (1929, c. 90, s. 2.)

§ 63-27. Operation of aircraft while intoxicated made crime.—Any person who operates an airplane or other aircraft, whether on the ground or in the air while in an intoxicated condition, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by fine not to exceed one hundred dollars or by imprisonment not to exceed sixty days, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1929, c. 90, s. 3.)

Cross Reference.—As to punishment, see § 14-2.

§ 63-28. Infliction of serious bodily injury by operation of aircraft while intoxicated made felony.—Any person who, operating an airplane or other aircraft whether on the ground or in the air while in an intoxicated condition, does serious bodily injury to another shall be guilty of a felony. (1929, c. 90, s. 4.)

Art. 4. Model Airport Zoning Act.

§ 63-29. Definitions.—As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Airport" means any area of land or water designed for the landing and taking off of aircraft and utilized or to be utilized by the public as a point of arrival or departure by air.

(2) "Airport hazard" means any overhead power line, not constructed, operated and maintained according to standard engineering practices in general use, which interferes with radio communication between a publicly owned airport and aircraft approaching or leaving same, or any structure or tree which obstructs the aerial approaches of such an airport or is otherwise hazardous to its use for landing or taking off.

(3) "Political subdivision" means any municipality, city, county, or town.

(4) "Person" means any individual, firm, copartnership, corporation, company, association, joint stock association or body politic, and includes any trustee, receiver, assignee, or other similar representative thereof.

(5) "Structure" means any object constructed or installed by man, including, but without limitation, buildings, towers, smokestacks, and overhead transmission lines.

(6) "Tree" means any object of natural growth. (1941, c. 250, s. 1.)

For comment on this enactment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 548.

§ 63-30. Airport hazards not in public interest.—It is hereby found and declared that an airport hazard endangers the lives and property of users of the airport and of occupants of land in its vicinity, and also, if of the obstruction type, in effect reduces the size of the area available for the landing, taking off and maneuvering of aircraft, thus tending to destroy or impair the utility of the airport and the public investment therein, and is therefore not in the interest of the public health, public safety, or general welfare. (1941, c. 250, s. 2.)

§ 63-31. Adoption of airport zoning regulations.—(1) Every political subdivision may adopt, administer, and enforce, under the police power and in the manner and upon the conditions hereinafter prescribed, airport zoning regulations, which regulations shall divide the area surrounding any airport within the jurisdiction of said political subdivision into zones, and, within such zones, specify the land uses permitted, and regulate and restrict the height to which structures and trees may be erected or allowed to grow. In adopting or revising any such zoning regulations, the political subdivision shall consider, among other things, the character of the flying operations expected to be conducted at the airport, the nature of the terrain, the height of existing structures and trees above the level of the airport, the possibility of lowering or removing existing obstructions, and the views of the agency of the federal government charged with the fostering of civil aeronautics, as to the aerial approaches necessary to safe flying operations at the airport.

(2) In the event that a political subdivision has adopted, or hereafter adopts, a general zoning ordinance regulating, among other things, the height of buildings, any airport zoning regulations adopted for the same area or portion thereof under this article, may be incorporated in and made a part of such general zoning regulations, and be administered and enforced in connection therewith, but such general zoning regulations shall not limit the effectiveness or scope of the regulations adopted under this article.

(3) Any two or more political subdivisions may agree, by ordinance duly adopted, to create a joint board and delegate to said board the powers herein conferred to promulgate, administer and enforce airport zoning regulations to protect the aerial approaches of any airport located within the corporate limits of any one or more of said political subdivisions. Such joint boards shall have as members two representatives appointed by the chief executive officer of each political subdivision participating in the creation of said board and a chairman elected by a majority of the members so appointed.

(4) The jurisdiction of each political subdivision is hereby extended to the promulgating, administering and enforcement of airport zoning regulations to protect the approaches of any airport which is owned by said political subdivision but located outside the corporate limits of said political subdivision. In case of conflict with any airport zoning or other regulations promulgated by any other political subdivision, the regulations adopted pursuant to this section shall prevail.

(5) All airport zoning regulations adopted under this article shall be reasonable, and none shall require the removal, lowering, or other change or alteration of any structure or tree not conforming to the regulations when adopted or amended, or otherwise interfere with the continuance of any nonconforming use, except as provided in § 63-32, subsection (1).

(6) Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent trees existing at the time any zoning regulations are adopted to continue their natural growth. (1941, c. 250, s. 3.)

§ 63-32. Permits, new structures, etc., and variances.—(1) Permits.—Where advisable to facilitate the enforcement of zoning regulations adopted pursuant to this article, a system may be established by any political subdivision for the granting of permits to establish or construct new structures and other uses and to replace existing structures and other uses or make substantial changes therein or substantial repairs thereof. In any event, before any nonconforming structure or tree may be replaced, substantially altered or repaired, rebuilt, allowed to grow higher, or replanted, a permit must be secured from the administrative agency authorized to administer and enforce the regulations, authorizing such replacement, change or repair. No such permit shall be granted that would allow the structure or tree in question to be made higher or become a greater hazard to air navigation than it was when the applicable regulation was adopted; and whenever the administrative agency determines that a nonconforming structure or tree has been abandoned or more than eighty per cent torn down, destroyed, deteriorated, or decayed: (a) no permit shall be granted that would allow said structure or tree to exceed the applicable height limit or otherwise deviate from the zoning regulations; and (b) whether application is made for a permit under this paragraph or not, the said agency may by appropriate action compel the owner of the nonconforming structure or tree, at his own expense, to lower, remove, reconstruct, or equip such object as may be necessary to conform to the regulations or, if the owner of the nonconforming structure or tree shall neglect or refuse to comply with such order for ten days after notice thereof, the said agency may proceed to have the object so lowered, removed, reconstructed, or equipped. Except as indicated, all applications for permits for replacement, change or repair of nonconforming uses shall be granted.

(2) Variances. — Any person desiring to erect any structures, or increase the height of any structure, or permit the growth of any tree, or otherwise use his property, in violation of airport zoning regulations adopted under this article, may apply to the board of appeals, as provided in § 63-33, subsection (3), for a variance from the zoning regulations in question. Such variances shall be allowed where a literal application or enforcement of the regulations would result in practical difficulty or unnecessary hardship and the relief granted would not be contrary to the public interest but do substantial justice and be in accordance with the spirit of the regulations and this article.

(3) Obstruction Marking and Lighting. — In granting any permit or variance under this section, the administrative agency or board of appeals may, if it deems such action advisable to effectuate the purposes of this article and reasonable in the circumstances, so condition such permit or variance as to require the owner of the structure or tree in question to permit the political subdivision, at its own expense, to install, operate, and maintain suitable obstruction markers and obstruction lights thereon. (1941, c. 250, s. 4.)

§ 63-33. Procedure. — (1) Adoption of Zoning Regulations. — No airport zoning regulations shall be adopted, amended, or changed under this article except by action of the legislative body of the political subdivision in question, or the joint board provided for in § 63-31, subsection (3), after a public hearing in relation thereto, at which parties in interest and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard. At least fifteen days' notice of the hearing shall be published in an official paper, or a paper of general circulation, in the political subdivision or subdivisions in which the airport is located.

(2) Administration of Zoning Regulations—Administrative Agency.—The legislative body of any political subdivision adopting airport zoning regulations under this article may delegate the duty of administering and enforcing such regulations to any administrative agency under its jurisdiction, or may create a new administrative agency to perform such duty, but such administrative agency shall not be or include any member of the board of appeals. The duties of such administrative agency shall include that of hearing and deciding all permits under § 63-32, subsection (1), but such agency shall not have or exercise any of the powers delegated to the board of appeals.

(3) Administration of Airport Zoning Regulations—Board of Appeals.—Airport zoning regulations adopted under this article shall provide for a board of appeals to have and exercise the following powers:

(a) To hear and decide appeals from any order, requirement, decision, or determination made by the administrative agency in the enforcement of this article or of any ordinance adopted pursuant thereto;

(b) To hear and decide special exceptions to the terms of the ordinance upon which such board may be required to pass under such ordinance;

(c) To hear and decide specific variances under § 63-32, subsection (2). Where a zoning board of appeals or adjustment already exists, it may be appointed as the board of appeals. Otherwise, the board of appeals shall consist of five members, each to be appointed for a term of three years and to be removable for cause by the appointing authority upon written charges and after public hearing.

The board shall adopt rules in accordance with the provisions of any ordinance adopted under this article. Meetings of the board shall be held at the call of the chairman and at such other times as the board may determine. The chairman, or in his absence the acting chairman, may administer oaths and compel the attendance of witnesses. All meetings of the board shall be public. The board shall keep minutes of its proceedings, showing the vote of each member upon each question, or, if absent or failing to vote, indicating such fact, and shall keep records of its examinations and other official actions, all of which shall immediately be filed in the office of the board and shall be a public record.

Appeals to the board may be taken by any person aggrieved, or by any officer, department, board, or bureau of the political subdivision affected, by any decision of the administrative agency. An appeal must be taken within a reasonable time, as provided by the rules of the board, by filing with the agency from which the appeal is taken and with the board, a notice of appeal specifying the grounds thereof. The agency from which the appeal is taken shall forthwith transmit to the board all the papers constituting the record upon which the action appealed from was taken.

An appeal shall stay all proceedings in furtherance of the action appealed from, unless the agency from which the appeal is taken certifies to the board, after the notice of appeal has been filed with it, that by reason of the facts stated in the certificate a stay would, in its opinion, cause imminent peril to life or property. In such case proceedings shall not be stayed otherwise than by a restraining order which may be granted by the board or by a court of record on application on notice to the agency from which the appeal is taken and on due cause shown.

The board shall fix a reasonable time for the hearing of the appeal, give public notice and due notice to the parties in interest, and decide the same within a reasonable time. Upon the hearing any party may appear in person or by agent or by attorney.

The board may, in conformity with the provisions of this article, reverse or affirm, wholly or partly, or modify, the order, requirement, decision, or determination appealed from and may make such order, requirement, decision or determination as ought to be made, and to that end shall have all the powers of the administrative agency from which the appeal is taken.

The concurring vote of a majority of the members of the board shall be sufficient to reverse any order, requirement, decision, or determination of the administrative agency, or to decide in favor of the applicant on any matter upon which it is required to pass under any such ordinance, or to effect any variation in such ordinance. (1941, c. 250, s. 5.)

§ 63-34. Judicial review. — (1) Any person aggrieved by any decision of the board of appeals, or any taxpayer, or any officer, department, board, or bureau of the political subdivision, may present to the superior court a verified petition setting forth that the decision is illegal, in whole or in part, and specifying the grounds of the illegality. Such petition shall be presented to the court within thirty days after the decision is filed in the office of the board.

(2) Upon presentation of such petition the court may allow a writ of certiorari directed to the board of appeals to review such decision of the board. The allowance of the writ shall not stay proceedings upon the decision appealed from, but the court may, on application, on notice to the board and on due cause shown, grant a restraining order.

(3) The board of appeals shall not be required to return the original papers acted upon by it, but it shall be sufficient to return certified or sworn copies thereof or of such portions thereof as may be called for by the writ. The return shall concisely set forth such other facts as may be pertinent and material to show the grounds of the decision appealed from and shall be verified.

(4) The court shall have exclusive jurisdiction to affirm, modify, or set aside the decision brought up for review, in whole or in part, and if need be, to order further proceedings by the board of appeals. The findings of fact by the board, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be accepted by the court as conclusive, and no objection to a decision of the board shall be considered by the court unless such objection shall have been urged before the board, or, if it was not so urged, unless there were reasonable grounds for failure to do so.

(5) Costs shall not be allowed against the board of appeals unless it appears to the court that it acted with gross negligence, in bad faith, or with malice, in making the decision appealed from. (1941, c. 250, s. 6.)

§ 63-35. Enforcement and remedies. — Each violation of this article or of any regulations, order, or ruling promulgated or made pursuant to this article, shall constitute a misdemeanor and shall be punishable by a fine of not more than fifty dollars ($50.00) or imprisonment for not more than thirty days or by both such fine and imprisonment, and each day a violation continues to exist shall constitute a separate offense. In addition, the political subdivision within which the property is located may institute in any court of competent jurisdiction, an action to prevent, restrain, correct or abate any violation of this article, or of airport zoning regulations adopted under this article, or of any order or ruling made in connection with their administration or enforcement, and the court shall adjudge to the plaintiff such relief, by way of injunction (which may be mandatory) or otherwise, as may be proper under all the facts and circumstances of the case, in order fully to effectuate the purposes of this article and of the regulations adopted and orders and rulings made pursuant thereto. (1941, c. 250, s. 7.)

§ 63-36. Acquisition of air rights. — In any case in which: (1) it is desired to remove, lower, or otherwise terminate a nonconforming use; or (2) the approach protection necessary cannot, because of constitutional limitations, be provided by airport zoning regulations under this article; or (3) it appears advisable that the necessary approach protection be provided by acquisition of property rights rather than by airport zoning regulations, the political subdivision within which the property or nonconforming use is located or the political subdivision owning the airport or served by it may acquire, in the manner provided by the law under which municipalities are authorized to acquire real property for public purposes, such an air right, easement, or other estate or interest in the property or nonconforming use in question as may be necessary to effectuate the purposes of this article.

If any political subdivision, or if any board or administrative agency appointed or selected by a political subdivision, shall adopt, administer or enforce any airport zoning regulations which results in the taking of, or in any other injury or damage to any existing structure, such political subdivision shall be liable therefor in damages to the owner or owners of any such property and the liability of the political subdivision shall include any expense which the owners of such property are required to incur in complying with any such zoning regulations. (1941, c. 250, s. 8.)

§ 63-37. Short title.—This article shall be known and may be cited as the "Model Airport Zoning Act." (1941, c. 250, s. 10.)

§ 65-25. Sale of lots under "certificate plan"; certificate indemnity fund.—If such cemetery shall offer for sale and sell its said lots or grave spaces under plan or agreement evidenced by certificate (hereinafter referred to as "certificate plan"), which may involve the transfer of family burial plot or grave spaces, or exclusive right of interment therein, to families, individuals, or their representatives, conditioned upon the continuance or cessation of human life or upon limited pay plan or plans where death of certificate holder prior to payment of all sums due to be paid thereunder may terminate his or her liability for further payment, such cemetery shall set aside and reserve unencumbered and shall keep unencumbered lots or grave spaces suitable for burial in sufficient number to enable the cemetery to comply with the terms of each certificate issued, and shall set aside and deposit with the trustee of its perpetual care fund an additional one dollar per grave space sold, same to be known as "certificate indemnity fund" and continue the making of such deposit until from such sales the total deposits to credit of said fund shall amount to five thousand dollars, same to be held and invested separate and apart from the perpetual care fund of such cemetery, as a fund to indemnify lot and grave space purchasers against loss by reason of the cemetery's failure to reserve, unencumbered, the identical grave space(s) selected by purchaser, if selection has been made, and if not, a sufficient number of grave spaces suitable for burial to enable the cemetery to comply with the terms of its certificate, such fund to be calculated, become due, be deposited and invested, and the cemetery to become liable therefor, only in like manner as for such cemetery's perpetual care fund, and shall be maintained and kept separate so long as there is outstanding any liability of cemetery to reserve grave space under a certificate issued on the above plan, but income therefrom shall be paid to cemetery for such use as income from its perpetual care fund may be used. (1939, c. 323, s. 2.)

§ 66-24. Identification marks required. — All electrical materials, devices, appliances and equipment offered for sale, exposed for sale at retail to the general public, or disposed of by gift as premiums or in any similar manner shall have the maker's name, trademark, or other identification symbol placed thereon, together with such other markings giving voltage, current, wattage, or other appropriate ratings as may be necessary to determine the character of the material, device, appliance or equipment and the use for which it is intended; and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to remove, alter, change or deface the maker's name, trademark or other identification symbol. (1933, c. 555, s. 2.)

§ 66-25. Acceptable listings as to safety of goods.—The electrical inspector shall accept, without further examination or test, the listings of Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., as evidence of safety of such materials, etc., so long as the listing continues in effect to his knowledge and, so long as information and experience have not demonstrated, in his judgment, that any specific listed materials, etc., are not safe.

The electrical inspector may accept as evidence of safety of such materials, etc., where not of types for which such Underwriters' laboratories listings are in effect, such evidence by way of records of tests and examinations by bodies he deems properly qualified, as he deems necessary to assure him of the safety of such materials, etc. But such acceptance cannot be made to apply to other than the stock of materials, etc., for which such evidence has been specifically secured. One body whose evidence of safety shall be accepted by the electrical inspector for specific stocks is the insurance commission of the state of North Carolina, if the stock in question has been submitted to the examinations and tests required by that commission, and that commission has certified that in its judgment the stock conforms to the state law, to the requirements of this article, and to any additional requirements deemed necessary for safety in the judgment of that commission.

The electrical inspector may decline to accept any evidence of safety other than that provided by Underwriters' laboratories listings, for specific materials, etc., of types for which such listings are available.

The electrical inspector, in accepting listings of Underwriters' laboratories, shall keep in file as far as practicable, copies of all Underwriters' laboratories listings in effect, and copies of the recorded standards, requirements, test and examinations of Underwriters' laboratories for such materials, etc., or shall when necessary refer to the files of such information maintained by the insurance commission of North Carolina. The words "electrical inspector" when used in this article shall be construed to refer to any duly licensed and employed electrical inspector of the state or any governmental agency thereof. (1933, c. 555, s. 3.)

§ 66-26. Legal responsibility of proper installations unaffected.—This article shall not be construed to relieve from or to lessen the responsibility or liability of any party owning, operating, controlling or installing any electrical materials, devices, appliances or equipment for damages to persons or property caused by any defect therein, nor shall the electrical inspector be held as assuming any such liability by reason of the approval of any material, device, appliance or equipment authorized herein. (1933, c. 555, s. 4.)

§ 66-27. Violation made misdemeanor. — Any person, firm or corporation who shall violate any of the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty ($50.00) dollars or imprisonment for not more than thirty days. When such article or chattel has been sold in commerce, any asserted intangible rights shall be deemed to have passed to the purchaser upon the purchase of the chattel itself, and the right to further restrict the use made of phonograph records or electrical transcriptions, whose sole value is in their use, is hereby forbidden and abrogated.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to deny the rights granted any person by the United States Copyright Laws. The sole intendment of this enactment is to abolish any common law rights attaching to phonograph records and electrical transcriptions, whose sole value is in their use, and to forbid further restrictions of the collection of subsequent fees and royalties on phonograph records and electrical transcriptions by performers who were paid for the initial performance at the recording thereof. (1939, c. 113.)

Cited in Champion Shoe Machinery Co. v. Sellers, 197 N. C. 30, 32, 147 S. E. 674.

The measure of damages for property damaged while in the care of a storage or warehouse company is the difference between the market value of the property in its damaged condition and what it would have sold for, if undamaged, on the day of its return to the owner. Art. 9. Collection of Accounts.

§ 66-41. Permit from Insurance Commissioner.—Any person, firm or corporation within the State of North Carolina engaging in the collection of accounts for a percentage consideration of the account collected, or upon any other basis than regular employment, shall, before engaging in such business within the State of North Carolina, apply to and receive from the Insurance Commissioner, a permit to engage in such business, which permit shall at all times be prominently displayed in the main office of the person, firm, or corporation to whom or to which the permit is issued, and the number of said permit shall be printed in bold type upon all letterheads, stationery and forms used by the person, firm or corporation holding said permit. (1931, c. 217, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The title of the Act from which this section was taken includes detective agencies, but the body of the act makes no reference to such agencies.

§ 66-42. Application to Commissioner for permit.—The person, firm, or corporation desiring to secure a permit as provided in § 66-41, shall make application to the Insurance Commissioner upon such form as the Commissioner may provide, and shall submit with such application any and all information which the Commissioner may require to assist him in determining the financial condition, business integrity, method of operation and protection to the public offered by the person, firm or corporation filing the application. All information submitted shall be sworn to by the responsible officer, member of the firm, or individual, as in each case necessary, and the Commissioner shall have the right to require any and all additional information which, in his judgment, might assist him in determining whether or not the applicant is entitled to the permit sought. (1931, c. 217, s. 2.)

§ 66-43. Hearing granted applicant if application declined; appeal.—If, for any reason, upon the application made and upon the consideration of the data submitted with the application or items, the Commissioner shall be of the opinion that a permit should not be issued to the applicant, he shall decline the same, giving notice of his action to the applicant. Following notice, the applicant shall have ten days within which to submit additional information in support of his application, and if, upon further hearing upon the application and additional information, the Commissioner shall again decline to issue the permit, the applicant shall have the right to appeal to the Superior Court and his appeal shall stand for hearing in the Superior Court of the County of Wake, and the evidence, data and information submitted to the Commissioner shall constitute the record in the Superior Court, and the same shall be heard by the Judge of the Superior Court to determine whether or not the Commissioner had evidence sufficient to justify his action. (1931, c. 217, s. 3.)

§ 66-44. Application fee; issuance of permit; contents and duration.—Upon the filing of the application and information hereinbefore required, the commissioner may require the applicant to pay a fee of $50.00, and no permit may be issued until this fee is paid. The commissioner may issue a permit if he finds it proper, and in that case no part of the $50.00 shall be returned. If the application is denied, the commissioner shall retain $5.00 of the application fee and return the remainder to the applicant. The $5.00 so retained upon applications not granted, and the full fee of $50.00 upon applications granted, shall be used in paying the expenses incurred in connection with the consideration of such applications and the issuance of such permits.

Each permit shall state the name of the applicant, his place of business, and the nature and kind of business he is engaged in. The commissioner shall assign to the permit a serial number for each year beginning with July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one. Each permit shall be for a period of one year, beginning with July first and ending with June thirtieth of the following year. (1931, c. 217, s. 4.)

§ 66-45. Revocation of permit.—If the Commissioner shall have issued any permit to any person, firm, or corporation as herein provided, and shall have information that the holder of the permit is not conducting his business in a business-like way, he shall notify the holder of the permit of a date for a hearing, which notice shall name a time and place for the hearing, and at which hearing any and all evidence as to the conduct of the business may be heard by the Commissioner. If, upon the hearing of the evidence, the Commissioner shall be of the opinion that the applicant is not entitled to the permit, the Commissioner shall cancel said permit, after which time it shall be unlawful for the person, firm or corporation whose permit is cancelled to engage in the business covered by the permit. If the permit be cancelled upon hearing, either the holder of the permit or the complaining party shall have the right to appeal as hereinbefore provided in case the application is denied, and the record of the hearing before the Commissioner shall be the record in the Superior Court upon which the Judge shall determine whether or not the Commissioner had sufficient evidence upon which to base his action. (1931, c. 217, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—Though "business-like way," as used in this section, is an exceedingly indefinite standard of conduct, the statute is probably valid, in view of the right of appeal to the courts. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 390.

§ 66-46. Rules and regulations; schedule of fees.—The Commissioner shall have the right to make any rules or regulations necessary to enforce the provisions of this article and may approve schedules of fees and methods of collecting the same, or make any other rule or regulation necessary to secure the proper conduct of the business referred to in this article. (1931, c. 217, s. 6.)

§ 66-47. Violation of article a misdemeanor.—Any person, firm or corporation who shall engage in the business referred to in this article without first receiving a permit, or who shall fail to secure a renewal of his permit upon the expiration of the license year, or shall engage in the business herein referred to after the permit has been canceled as herein provided, or who shall fail or refuse to furnish the information required of the Commissioner, or who shall fail to observe the rules and regulations made by the Commissioner pursuant to this article, shall, upon conviction, be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable in the discretion of the court. (1931, c. 217, s. 7.)

§ 66-48. Disposition of fees.—All fees collected hereunder shall be credited to the account of the Insurance Commissioner for the specific purpose of providing the personnel, equipment and supplies necessary to enforce this article, but the Director of the Budget shall have the right to budget the revenues received in accordance with the requirements of the Commissioner for the purposes herein required, and at the end of the fiscal year, if any sum whatever shall remain to the credit of the Commissioner, derived from the sources herein referred to, the same shall revert to the General Treasury of the State to be appropriated as other funds. (1931, c. 217, s. 8.)

§ 66-49. Attorneys at law and local county agencies excepted.—Nothing in this article shall be construed to apply to legally licensed attorneys at law engaged in the practice of the profession of law unless, however, such attorneys shall engage in the business herein referred to under a trade name or as a corporation, nor shall this article apply or be construed to apply to any person, firm or corporation whose business of collecting accounts is limited to the collection of such accounts against debtors having residence in the county of the residence of such person or firm, or the principal office of such corporations so engaged in such business. (1931, c. 217, s. 9.)

Art. 10. Fair Trade.

§ 66-50. Title of article.—This article may be known and cited as the "Fair Trade Act." (1937, c. 350, s. 10.)

§ 66-51. Definitions.—The following terms, as used in this article, are hereby defined as follows:

(a) "Commodity" means any subject of commerce.

(b) "Producer" means any grower, baker, maker, manufacturer, bottler, packer, converter, processor or publisher.

(c) "Wholesaler" means any person selling a commodity other than a producer or retailer.

(d) "Retailer" means any person selling a commodity to consumers for use.

(e) "Person" means an individual, a corporation, a partnership, an association, a joint-stock company, a business trust or any unincorporated organization. "Person" shall not include the state of North Carolina or any of its political sub-divisions. (1937, c. 350, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of the act from which this article was codified, see 15 N. C. Rev., No. 4, p. 367.

§ 66-52. Authorized contracts relating to sale or resale of commodities bearing trademark, brand or name.—No contract relating to the sale or resale of a commodity which bears, or the label or container of which bears, the trade-mark, brand, or name of the producer or distributor of such commodity and which commodity is in free and open competition with commodities of the same general class produced or distributed by others, shall be deemed in violation of any law of the state of North Carolina by reason of any of the following provisions which may be contained in such contract:

(a) That the buyer will not resell such commodity at less than the minimum price stipulated by the seller.

(b) That the buyer will require of any dealer to whom he may resell such commodity an agreement that he will not, in turn, resell at less than the minimum price stipulated by the seller.

(c) That the seller will not sell such commodity:

(1) To any wholesaler, unless such wholesaler will agree not to resell the same to any retailer unless the retailer will in turn agree not to resell the same except to consumers for use and at not less than the stipulated minimum price, and such wholesaler will likewise agree not to resell the same to any other wholesaler unless such other wholesaler will make the same agreement with any wholesaler or retailer to whom he may resell; or

(2) To any retailer, unless the retailer will agree not to resell the same except to consumers for use and at not less than the stipulated minimum price. (1937, c. 350, s. 2.)

Article Is Constitutional.—The North Carolina Fair Trade Act, permitting the manufacturer or distributor of trade-marked goods to establish the minimum retail sale price of such goods by contract with wholesalers and retailers, and providing that sale by retailers not parties to the contracts at prices less than those stipulated in the contracts should be deemed unfair competition, is not void as creating or tending to create monopolies in contravention of Art. I, § 31, of the state Constitution, since the restrictions imposed by the act are limited and apply solely to trade-marked goods in their vertical distribution from manufacturer or distributor through the wholesalers and retailers to the consumer, which goods are sold by the retailer in competition with goods of the same general class of other manufacturers or, in the case of patented goods, in competition with comparable products of other manufacturers, and therefore the act does not create or tend to create a monopoly by horizontal agreements between persons in the same business in competition with each other. Lilly & Co. v. Saunders, 216 N. C. 163, 4 S. E. (2d) 528, 125 A. L. R. 1308.

The North Carolina Fair Trade Act, permitting the establishment of minimum retail prices on trade-marked goods by agreement, does not deprive a retailer not a party to a contract with the manufacturer or distributor of any property right in preventing such retailer from selling the trade-marked article at a price less than that stipulated by contract, since such retailer acquires title with knowledge and subject to the stipulations relative to the minimum retail price permitted by the law in protecting the property right of the manufacturer or distributor in his trade-mark and good will, which property right subsists while the goods bear his trade-mark, even after he has parted with title of the commodity itself. Id.

Nor is it a special act regulating trade in contravention of Constitution, Art. II, § 29. Id.

Nor is it unconstitutional as a delegation of legislative authority. Id.

§ 66-53. Certain evasions of resale price restrictions, prohibited.—For the purpose of preventing evasion of the resale price restrictions imposed in respect of any commodity by any contract entered into pursuant to the provisions of this article (except to the extent authorized by the said contract):

(a) The offering or giving of any article of value in connection with the sale of such commodity;

(b) The offering or the making of any concession of any kind whatsoever (whether by the giving of coupons or otherwise) in connection with any such sale; or

(c) The sale or offering for sale of such commodity in combination with any other commodity shall be deemed a violation of such resale prices restriction, for which the remedies prescribed by § 66-56 shall be available. (1937, c. 350, s. 3.)

§ 66-54. Contracts with persons other than the owner of the brand, etc., not authorized.—No minimum resale price shall be established for any commodity, under any contract entered into pursuant to the provisions of this article, by any person other than the owner of the trade-mark, brand or name used in connection with such commodity or a distributor specifically authorized to establish said price by the owner of such trade-mark, brand or name. (1937, c. 350, s. 4.)

§ 66-55. Resales not precluded by contract.—No contract containing any of the provisions enumerated in § 66-52 shall be deemed to preclude the resale of any commodity covered thereby without reference to such contract in the following cases:

(a) In closing out the owner's stock for the bona fide purpose of discontinuing dealing in any such commodity and when plain notice of the fact is given to the public: Provided, the owner of such stock shall give to the producer or distributor of such commodity prompt and reasonable notice in writing of his intention to close out said stock, and an opportunity to purchase such stock at the original invoice price;

(b) When the trade-mark, brand or name is removed or wholly obliterated from the commodity and is not used or directly or indirectly referred to in the advertisement or sale thereof;

(c) When the goods are altered, second-hand, damaged or deteriorated and plain notice of the fact is given to the public in the advertisement and sale thereof, such notice to be conspicuously displayed in all advertisements and to be affixed to the commodity;

(d) By any officer acting under an order of court.

(e) When any commodity is sold to a religious, charitable or educational organization or institution, provided such commodity is for the use of such organization or institution and not for resale. (1937, c. 350, s. 5.)

§ 66-56. Violation of contract declared unfair competition.—Wilfully and knowingly advertising, offering for sale or selling any commodity at less than the price stipulated in any contract entered into pursuant to the provisions of this article, whether the person so advertising, offering for sale or selling is or is not a party to such contract, is unfair competition and is actionable at the suit of any person damaged thereby. (1937, c. 350, s. 6.)

Retailer Deemed to Contract in Contemplation of Article.—The fact that a manufacturer or distributor of trade-marked commodities permits the sale of such commodities to a noncontracting retailer does not preclude the manufacturer or distributor from maintaining a suit against such retailer under this article, since the manufacturer or distributor has the option to obtain a contract or rely upon the statute, and since the sale to the noncontracting retailer does not confer upon him the right to violate the statute with reference to which he is deemed to have contracted in making the purchase. Lilly & Co. v. Saunders, 216 N. C. 163, 4 S. E. (2d) 528, 125 A. L. R. 1308.

Permanent Injunction Authorized.—This section authorizes a suit by a manufacturer or distributor protected by the act against a noncontracting retailer to permanently enjoin such retailer from selling trade-marked commodities of the manufacturer or distributor in violation of the act upon allegations of accrued and prospective irreparable damages. Lilly & Co. v. Saunders, 216 N. C. 163, 4 S. E. (2d) 528, 125 A. L. R. 1308.

Reasonable Profit Is No Defense.—The fact that a retailer makes a reasonable profit upon trade-marked articles is no defense in a suit against such retailer for selling such articles at a price below that allowed by this article, since the standard of the statute is one of retail price and not of reasonable profit. Lilly & Co. v. Saunders, 216 N. C. 163, 4 S. E. (2d) 528, 125 A. L. R. 1308.

§ 66-57. Exemptions.—This article shall not apply to any contract or agreement between or among producers or distributors or, except as provided in sub-division (c) of § 66-52, between or among wholesalers, or between or among retailers, as to sale or resale prices. This article shall not apply to any prices offered in connection with or contracts or purchases made by the state of North Carolina or any of its agencies, or any of the political subdivisions of the said state. (1937, c. 350, s. 7.)

Art. 11. Government in Business.

§ 66-58. Sale of merchandise by governmental units.—It shall be unlawful for any unit or agency of the state government or any individual employee or employees of any such unit or agency in his, or her, or their capacity as employee or employees of said unit or agency to purchase for or sell to any person, firm or corporation any article of merchandise in competition with citizens of the state: Provided, however, that as regards educational institutions, the provisions of this section shall not apply to articles produced incident to the operation of an instructional department, or incident to educational research, or to articles of merchandise incident to classroom work, meals, books and/or other articles of merchandise not exceeding fifteen cents in value when sold to members of the educational staff, or staff auxiliary to education, or sold to duly enrolled students, or to members of charitable institutions, or on occasion to immediate members of the families of members of the educational staff or of duly enrolled students: Provided further, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to the sale of meals, or merchandise aforesaid, to persons attending meetings or conventions at state institutions as invited guests of such institutions, or to the products of experiment stations at any state institution: Provided further, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to the sale of learned journals or books, or to the business operation of endowment funds established for the purpose of producing income for educational purposes: Provided further, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to counties and municipalities, to the state board of health, to the division of purchase and contract, to the state highway and public works commission, to state hospitals for the insane, to the state commission for the blind, to the North Carolina school for the blind at Raleigh, to the North Carolina school for the deaf at Morganton, to Appalachian State Teachers College at

Boone, to Western Carolina Teachers College at Cullowhee, or to any state correctional institutions or agencies, or to farm, dairy, livestock, or poultry products of any state institution or agency; provided that nothing in this section shall apply to Highlands School in Macon county; provided further, that this section shall not be construed to apply to any high school or public school: Provided further, that this section shall not apply to child-caring institutions or orphanages receiving state aid.

Any person knowingly or willfully violating the provisions of this section shall be subject to a fine of ten dollars for each such violation. (1939, c. 122.)

Art. 12. Coupons for Products of Photography.

§ 66-59. Title of article.—The title of this article shall be "An Act to Prevent the Perpetration of Certain Fraudulent Practices by Photographers within the State of North Carolina." (1943, c. 25, s. 1.)

§ 66-60. Definitions.—The term "photographer" as used herein shall mean any individual, firm, partnership, association, corporation, or other group or combination acting as a unit.

The term "coupon" as used herein shall mean any coupon, certificate, receipt or similar device, by whatever name called.

The term "solicitor" as used herein shall mean any agent, salesman, employee, solicitor, canvasser, or any other person acting for or on behalf of a photographer. (1943, c. 25, s. 2.)

§ 66-61. Coupons redeemable in products of photography prohibited unless bond given.—No photographer or solicitor shall sell or issue any coupon, whether for a consideration or otherwise, purporting to be exchangeable, redeemable, or payable, in whole or in part, for any product of photography, including photographs, coloring, tinting, frames, mounts, folders, copying or the reproduction of photographs, and all other products of photography, unless the principal for which said business is conducted shall first file with the clerk of the superior court in each and every county in which said business is to be conducted a good and sufficient bond in the principal sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00), the condition of such bond being that the principal shall well and truly discharge all contracts, representations and other obligations made by said principal and all contracts, representations and other obligations made by any solicitor of such principal. (1943, c. 25, s. 3.)

§ 66-62. Method of withdrawing bond.—The coupons, as above defined, issued in any county shall be serially numbered, and before any bond, herein required to be filed, can be withdrawn, the principal on said bond shall file a sworn statement with the clerk of the superior court, in a form approved by said clerk, showing the lowest and highest serial number of the coupon, the total number issued, and the total number that has been redeemed. On the unredeemed coupons, the said principal shall show the name and address of the person to whom the said coupon was issued; that each of said persons have been notified, in writing, at the address shown, at least thirty (30) days prior thereto, to redeem said coupons, or otherwise that said coupon would become void on a day certain stated in said notice. (1943, c. 25, s. 4.)

§ 66-63. Remedies for loss sustained through non-performance of obligation in connection with sale of coupons.—Any person sustaining any loss or damage by reason of any photographer or solicitor failing to fully perform and discharge any contract, representation or other obligation in connection with the sale of any coupon purporting to be exchangeable, redeemable or payable, in whole or in part, for any product of photography, whether such contract, promise or representation be made by the photographer or solicitor, may recover in any court of competent jurisdiction against the principal and his, her or its surety, the sum of twenty-five dollars ($25.00), in addition to any actual loss or damage sustained, and any amount so recovered shall be a specific lien on the bond filed as herein required. (1943, c. 25, s. 5.)

§ 66-64. Violation a misdemeanor.—Any person violating the provisions of this article, including the make of any false statement in the affidavit required under § 66-62, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1943, c. 25, s. 6.)

Art. 13. Miscellaneous Provisions.

§ 66-65. Indemnity bonds required of agents, etc., to state maximum liability and period of liability.—Wherever any person, firm, or corporation, engaged in the business of merchandising any articles whatsoever, shall require of its agents, solicitors, salesmen, representatives, consignees, or peddlers, or other persons selling or handling its merchandise, as a condition precedent to selling or handling any of the merchandise of said person, firm, or corporation, that such agents, solicitors, salesmen, representatives, consignees, or peddlers should furnish and provide a bond or guaranty or indemnity contract guaranteeing the full and faithful accounting of moneys collected from such merchandise, such bond or indemnity contract shall state specifically therein the maximum amount of money or other liability which the principal and the sureties or guarantors thereof undertake thereby to pay in event of default of said bond or indemnity or guaranty contract; and said bond or indemnity or guaranty contract shall also state specifically the period of time during which liability may be incurred on account of any default in said bond or indemnity or guaranty contract.

Any bond or indemnity or guaranty contract which does not comply with the provisions of this section shall be null and void and no action may be maintained against the surety or guarantor to recover any sum due thereon in any court of this state. (1943, c. 604, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 66-66. Manufacture or sale of anti-freeze solutions compounded with inorganic salts or petroleum distillates prohibited.—The manufacture or sale of anti-freeze solutions which are designated, intended, advertised, or recommended by the manufacturer or seller for use in the cooling systems of motor vehicles or gasoline combustion engines, and which are compounded with calcium chloride, magnesium chloride, sodium chloride, or other inorganic salts or with petroleum distillates is hereby prohibited.

Any person, firm, or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished in the discretion of the court. (1943, c. 625, ss. 1, 2.)

Chapter 67. Dogs.

Art. 1. Owner's Liability.

§ 67-1. Liability for injury to livestock or fowls.—If any dog, not being at the time on the premises of the owner or person having charge thereof, shall kill or injure any livestock or fowls, the owner or person having such dog in charge shall be liable for damages sustained by the injury, killing, or maiming of any livestock, and costs of suit. (1911, c. 3, s. 1; C. S. 1669.)

Cross References.—As to dog-fighting, a misdemeanor, see § 14-362. As to admittance of dogs to bedrooms by innkeeper or guest, a misdemeanor, see § 72-7; but see also provision for "seeing-eye" dogs, § 67-29.

Editor's Note.—By the ancient common law dogs were considered as of too base a nature to be the subject of larceny. But now they are deemed property for which an action will lie for wrongful injury. As to liability for wrongfully killing a dog, see Beasley v. Byrum, 163 N. C. 3, 79 S. E. 270; State v. Smith, 156 N. C. 628, 72 S. E. 321.

Property in dogs is recognized by the law and they are protected against wanton and needless injury for which a civil action for damages may be maintained by the owner. Dodson v. Mock, 20 N. C. 282; Mowery v. Salisbury, 82 N. C. 175.

The property in dogs therefore, is not of the same character as that of ordinary domestic animals, in which the right of property is absolute, but it is of an imperfect or qualified nature. Sentell v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 166 U. S. 698, 701, 17 S. Ct. 693, 41 L. Ed. 1169.

The law authorizes the killing of a dog found on a man's premises in the act of attempting to destroy his sheep, calves, conies in a warren, deer in a park or other reclaimed animals used for human food and unable to defend themselves. § 67-2. Permitting bitch at large.—If any person owning or having any bitch shall knowingly permit her to run at large during the erotic stage of copulation he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (Rev., s. 3303; Code, s. 2501; 1862-3, c. 41, s. 2; C. S. 1670.)

§ 67-3. Sheep-killing dogs to be killed.—If any person owning or having any dog that kills sheep or other domestic animal, upon satisfactory evidence of the same being made before any justice of the peace of the county, and the owner duly notified thereof, shall refuse to kill it, and shall permit such dog to go at liberty, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, and the dog may be killed by any one if found going at large. (Rev., s. 3304; Code, s. 2500; 1862-3, c. 41, s. 1; 1874-5, c. 108, s. 2; C. S. 1671.)

§ 67-4. Failing to kill mad dog.—If the owner of any dog shall know, or have good reason to believe, that his dog, or any dog belonging to any person under his control, has been bitten by a mad dog, and shall neglect or refuse immediately to kill the same, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars to him who will sue therefor; and the offender shall be liable to pay all damages which may be sustained by any one, in his property or person, by the bite of any such dog, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., s. 3305; Code, s. 2499; R. C., c. 67; C. S. 1672.)

Cross References.—As to killing mad dogs, see §§ 67-14, 67-27. As to rabies, vaccination, etc., generally, see §§ 106-364 et seq.

Actual Knowledge Unnecessary.—In an action under this section it is not necessary to prove that the biting dog was in fact mad. The words "good reason to believe" apply both to the condition of the biting dog and to the fact that the dog was bitten by a mad dog. Wallace v. Douglas, 32 N. C. 79.

Dog Can Be Destroyed.—If owner refuses to destroy a dog, which is mad or is bitten by a mad dog, he subjects himself to the possibility of a fine and imprisonment and the dog can be destroyed by order of the justice issuing the warrant under this section. Beasley v. Byrum, 163 N. C. 3, 4, 79 S. E. 270.

For the effect of contributory negligence on the part of the person bitten by a mad dog, see Holton v. Moore, 165 N. C. 549, 81 S. E. 779.

Art. 2. License Taxes on Dogs.

§ 67-5. Amount of tax.—Any person owning or keeping about him any open female dog of the age of six months or older shall pay annually a license or privilege tax of two dollars. Any person owning or keeping any male dog, or female dog other than an open female dog of the age of six months or older, shall pay annually on each dog so owned or kept a license or privilege tax of one dollar. (1919, c. 116, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 1673.)

Local Modification.—Cherokee: 1933, c. 90; Clay: 1933, c. 301; Graham: 1931, c. 35; Macon: 1933, c. 301; Swain: 1933, c. 149.

Cross Reference.—As to credit of vaccination fee on dog tax, see § 106-372.

Constitutional Exercise of Police Power.—A statute imposing a specified tax upon all persons owning or keeping a dog within a certain county is for the privilege of keeping the dog therein and comes under the police regulations of the county. It is therefore constitutional and valid and will not be restrained. Newall v. Green, 169 N. C. 462, 86 S. E. 291; McAlister v. Yancey County, 212 N. C. 208, 193 S. E. 141.

§ 67-6. License tags; optional with county commissioners.—To every person paying the license or privilege tax prescribed in § 67-5 there shall be issued by the sheriff a metal tag bearing county name, a serial number, and expiration date, which shall be attached by owner to a collar to always be worn by any dog when not on premises of the owner or when engaged in hunting. The superintendent of public instruction shall at all times keep on hand a supply of tags to be furnished the sheriffs of the several counties. Provided, that the county commissioners of each county shall, by order duly made in regular session, make an order determining whether the collar and tag shall be applied to that county. (1919, c. 116, s. 2½; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 37; C. S. 1674.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by ch. 37, Ex. Sess. 1920 by having the metal tags kept by the superintendent of public instruction. They were formerly kept by the commissioner of agriculture.

§ 67-7. Dogs to be listed; penalty for failure to list.—It shall be the duty of every owner or keeper of a dog to list the same for taxes at the same time and place that other personal property is listed, and the various tax listers in the state shall have proper abstracts furnished them for listing dogs for taxation, and any person failing or refusing to list such dog or dogs shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. The owner of the home or lessee of such owner shall be responsible for listing of any dog belonging to any member of his family. (1919, c. 116, s. 3; C. S. 1675.)

Local Modification.—Mitchell: Pub. Loc. 1925, c. 265. (See § 67-18.)

§ 67-8. When tax is due.—The license or privilege tax herein imposed shall be due and payable on the first day of October of each and every year. (1919, c. 116, s. 3; 1943, c. 119; C. S. 1676.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment omitted a provision as to penalty for failure to pay tax.

§ 67-9. Receipt for tax a license.—Upon the payment to the sheriff or tax collector of the license or privilege tax aforesaid, such sheriff or tax collector shall give the owner or keeper of such dog or dogs a receipt for the same which shall constitute a license under the provisions of this article. (1919, c. 116, s. 3; C. S. 1677.)

§ 67-10. Tax listers to make inquiry, compile reports; compensation.—The tax listers for each township, town, and city in this state shall annually, at the time of listing property as required by law, make diligent inquiry as to the number of dogs owned, harbored, or kept by any person subject to taxation. The list-takers shall, on or before the first day of July in each year, make a complete report to the sheriff or tax collector on a blank form furnished them by the proper authority, setting forth the name of every owner of any dog or dogs, how many of each and the sex owned or kept by such person. The county commissioners may pay the tax listers for such services such amounts as may be just out of the money arising under this article. (1919, c. 116, ss. 4, 6; C. S. 1678.)

§ 67-11. Purchasers to ascertain listing.—Any person coming in possession of any dog or dogs after listing time shall immediately ascertain whether such dog or dogs have been listed for taxes or not, and if not so listed, it is hereby made the duty of such owner or keeper of such dog or dogs to go to the sheriff or tax collector of his county and list such dog or dogs for taxes, and it is made the duty of the owner or keeper of such dog or dogs to pay the privilege or license tax as is herein provided for in other cases. (1919, c. 116, s. 4; C. S. 1679.)

§ 67-12. Permitting dogs to run at large at night; penalty; liability for damage.—No person shall allow his dog over six months old to run at large in the night time unaccompanied by the owner or by some member of the owner's family, or some other person by the owner's permission. Any person intentionally, knowingly, and willfully violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, and shall also be liable in damages to any person injured or suffering loss to his property or chattels. (1919, c. 116, s. 5; C. S. 1680.)

Local Modification.—Buncombe, Halifax, New Hanover,

Wake: 1925, c. 314; Watauga: Pub. Loc. 1927, c. 503. (See § 67-18.)

Cross Reference.—As to permitting dogs to run at large on Capitol Square, see § 14-396.

Valid Exercise of Police Power.—A city ordinance which prohibits the owner from allowing dogs to run at large without muzzles is a valid exercise of the police power. State v. Clifton, 152 N. C. 800, 67 S. E. 751.

§ 67-13. Proceeds of tax to school fund; proviso, payment of damages; reimbursement by owner.—The money arising under the provisions of this article shall be applied to the school funds of the county in which said tax is collected: Provided, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners, upon complaint made to them of injury to person or injury to or destruction of property by any dog, upon satisfactory proof of such injury or destruction, to appoint three freeholders to ascertain the amount of damages done, including necessary treatment, if any, and all reasonable expenses incurred, and upon the coming in of the report of such jury of the damage as aforesaid, the said county commissioners shall order the same paid out of any moneys arising from the tax on dogs as provided for in this article. And in cases where the owner of such dog or dogs is known or can be ascertained, he shall reimburse the county to the amount paid out for such injury or destruction. To enforce collection of this amount the county commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to sue for the same. Provided, further that all that portion of this section after the word, "collected" in line three, shall not apply to Anson, Beaufort, Bladen, Caldwell, Chatham, Columbus, Currituck, Davie, Duplin, Durham, Gates, Graham, Harnett, Hertford, Lincoln, McDowell, Moore, New Hanover, Perquimans, Rowan, Rutherford, Scotland, Stokes, Transylvania, Union, Wayne and Yadkin counties. Cross Reference.—As to provision that it shall be unlawful for proceeds of dog taxes to be used for other than school purposes, see § 115-382.

In General.—This section is a police regulation not estopping the defendant in the county's action from establishing any defense available to him under the pleadings, nor does it change the method of procedure as to the burden of proof, or otherwise, except that it limits recovery of the injured person, electing to proceed under this statute, to a sum not exceeding the amount thereunder ascertained. Board v. George, 182 N. C. 414, 109 S. E. 77.

Mandamus Will Lie.—Where a person having a legal right to recover under this section, makes satisfactory proof to the county commissioners of injury inflicted by a dog, it is the legal duty of the commissioners to appoint freeholders to ascertain the amount of damage done, and mandamus will lie to compel them to perform this duty. White v. Holding, 217 N. C. 329, 7 S. E. (2d) 825.

Constitutional.—This section does not deprive the defendant of a jury trial, and it is constitutional. Board v. George, 182 N. C. 414, 109 S. E. 77.

Testimony of Non-Expert Witness.—Admission of judgment of a non-expert witness upon the personal observation of the carcass of the sheep, as to the length of time it had been killed, is not erroneous as the expression of a theoretical or scientific opinion. Board v. George, 182 N. C. 414, 109 S. E. 77.

Right to Trial by Jury.—The ascertainment of damages by three disinterested freeholders, and the payment thereof by county commissioners from the dog taxes, with the right of the county to sue to recover the amount so paid from the owner of the dog if known or discovered, as provided by this section, reserves to such owner the right to a trial by jury in the action of the commissioners, and does not permit recovery in excess of the sum awarded for the damages caused as ascertained under the provisions of the statute. Board v. George, 182 N. C. 414, 109 S. E. 77.

Cost of Assessment.—In an action by the county, under this section, the reasonable cost of the services of the persons chosen to make the assessment, which is paid by the county, is a part of the money paid on account of the injury or destruction caused by the dog, and defendant's exception thereto will not be sustained. Semble, the question of the reasonableness of this amount is a question for the jury, when aptly and properly raised and presented. Board v. George, 182 N. C. 414, 109 S. E. 77.

§ 67-14. Mad dogs, dogs killing sheep, etc., may be killed.—Any person may kill any mad dog, and also any dog if he is killing sheep, cattle, hogs, goats, or poultry. (1919, c. 116, s. 8; C. S. 1682.)

Cross References.—As to liability of owner who fails to kill sheep-killing dog, see § 67-3. As to liability of owner who fails to kill mad dog, see § 67-4. As to protection of listed dogs, see § 67-27.

§ 67-15. Dogs, when listed, personal property; larceny of dog a misdemeanor. — All dogs, when listed for taxes, become personal property and shall be governed by the laws governing other personal property: Provided, the larceny of any dog upon which aforesaid tax has been paid shall be a misdemeanor. (1919, c. 116, s. 9; C. S. 1683.)

Cross Reference.—As to larceny of a listed dog, see §§ 14-84, 67-27.

Not Larceny.—In the absence of a statute, stealing a dog is not larceny in this State. State v. Holder, 81 N. C. 527.

§ 67-16. Failure to discharge duties imposed under this article. — Any person failing to discharge any duty imposed upon him under this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall pay a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or be imprisoned not more than thirty days. (1919, c. 116, s. 10; C. S. 1684.)

§ 67-17: Deleted.

This section has been deleted as it appeared to be local legislation of the type contemplated by § 67-18 and repealed by that section. It was held to have been so repealed in McAlister v. Yancey County, 210 N. C. 208, 193 S. E. 141.

§ 67-18. Application of article.—This article, §§ 67-5 to 67-18, inclusive, is hereby made applicable to every county in the State of North Carolina, notwithstanding any provisions in local, special or private acts exempting any county or any township or municipality from the provisions of the same enacted at any General Assembly commencing at the General Assembly of nineteen hundred and nineteen and going through the General Assembly of nineteen hundred and twenty-nine. (1929, c. 318.)

Applied in McAlister v. Yancey County, 212 N. C. 208, 193 S. E. 141.

Art. 3. Special License Tax on Dogs.

§ 67-19. Nothing in this article abrogated by

Art. 2; special tax an additional tax. — Nothing contained in Article 2 of this chapter shall have the effect of abrogating any of the provisions of this article, and the special license tax on dogs provided for under this article shall be in addition to the license tax on dogs provided for under Article 2 of this chapter: Provided that Article 2 shall not be construed as repealing any existing ordinance of any city or town or any ordinance of any city or town hereafter enacted, regulating the keeping or use of dogs in cities and towns. (1919, c. 116, s. 11; Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 53; C. S. 1685.)

Editor's Note.—The proviso to this section was added by ch. 53, Ex. Sess. 1920.

§ 67-20. Special dog tax submitted to voters on petition. — Upon the written application of one-third of the qualified voters of any county in this state made to the board of commissioners of such county, asking that an election be held in said county to adopt the provisions of this article for levying and collecting a special dog tax in said county, it shall be the duty of said board of commissioners from time to time to submit the question of "special dog tax" or "no special dog tax" to the qualified voters of said county; and if at any such election a majority of the votes cast shall be in favor of said special dog tax, then the provisions of this article shall be in full force and effect over the whole of said county, and the special dog tax hereinafter provided for shall be levied and collected in said county; but if a majority of the votes cast at such election shall be against said special dog tax, then the provisions of this article shall not apply to any part of said county. (1917, c. 206, s. 1; C. S. 1686.)

§ 67-21. Conduct of elections.—Every election held under the provisions of this article shall be held and conducted under the same rules and regulations and according to the same penalties provided by law for the election of members of the general assembly: Provided, that no such election shall be held in any county oftener than once in two years. (1917, c. 206, s. 3; C. S. 1687.)

§ 67-22. Commissioners to provide for registration; ballots and machinery. — The board of commissioners of any county in this state in which an election is to be held under the provisions of this article may provide for a new registration of voters in said county if they deem necessary, or they may provide for the use of the registration of voters in effect at the general election for county officers in said county next preceding the holding of the election hereunder, and they shall appoint such officers as may be necessary to properly hold such election and shall designate the time and places for holding such elections, and make all rules, regulations, and do all other things necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this article. (1917, c. 206, s. 4; C. S. 1688.)

§ 67-23. Canvass of votes and returns.—At the close of said election the officers holding same shall canvass the vote and certify the returns to the said board of commissioners of said county, and the said board of commissioners shall canvass the said returns and declare the results of said election in the manner now provided by law for holding special-tax school elections. (1917, c. 206, s. 4; C. S. 1689.)

§ 67-24. Contents and record of petition; notice of election. — The qualified voters of any county who shall make written application to the board of commissioners of said county asking that an election be held under the provisions of this article shall designate and insert in said application the amount of special dog tax to be levied and collected in said county, which tax shall not exceed the sum of five dollars nor be less than the sum of one dollar for each dog, whether male or female, and the board of commissioners shall have said written application, specifying the amount of said special dog tax to be voted for in said county, recorded in the records of their proceedings, and shall cause to be published in some newspaper published or circulated in said county, and posted at the courthouse door and five other public places in said county, a notice of the time and places for holding said election and specifying the amount of tax to be voted for in said county. (1917, c. 206, s. 5; C. S. 1690.)

§ 67-25. License tax.—Any person or persons, firm or corporation, owning or keeping any dog or dogs, whether male or female, in any county which shall adopt the provisions of this article for the levy and collection of said special dog tax shall pay annually a license or privilege tax on each dog, whether male or female, such sum or sums as may be designated and inserted in the written application of the qualified voters of said county asking for said election and as recorded in the proceedings of the board of county commissioners of said county, which shall not exceed the sum of five dollars nor be less than the sum of one dollar for each dog: Provided, the tax voted for and levied on female dogs may be greater than the tax on male dogs, but in no event shall said special tax exceed the sum of five dollars, nor be less than the sum of one dollar for any dog, whether male or female. (1917, c. 206, s. 6; C. S. 1691.)

Local Tax Valid.—The Legislature may empower the authorities of a town to regulate the manner in which dogs may be kept in the said town. Hence a tax levied under this authority is constitutional and valid. Mowery v. Salisbury, 82 N. C. 175.

§ 67-26. Collection and application of tax.—The special dog tax voted for under the provisions of this article shall be due and collectible at the same time and in the same manner as provided by law for the collection of taxes on other personal property in said county, and shall be collected by the collector of other taxes in said county in the same manner and under the same penalties provided by law for collection of taxes on other personal property in said county, and shall be applied to the road fund, or school fund, of said county, as may be directed by the board of commissioners of said county. (1917, c. 206, s. 8; C. S. 1692.)

Cross Reference.—As to application of the proceeds of the general dog tax, see § 67-13.

§ 67-27. Listed dogs protected; exceptions.—Any person who shall steal any dog which has been listed for taxation as herein provided shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court; and any person who shall kill any dog the property of another, after the same has been listed as herein provided, shall be liable to the owner in damages for the value of such dog. Nothing in this article shall prevent the killing of a mad dog, sheepkilling dog, or egg-sucking dog on sight, when off the premises of its owner, and the owner shall not recover any damages for the loss of such dog. (1917, c. 206, s. 9; C. S. 1693.)

Cross References.—As to listed dogs as personal property, see § 67-15. As to larceny of taxed dogs, a misdemeanor, see § 14-84.

§ 67-28. Application of article to counties having dog tax.—Any county in this state which now has a local law taxing dogs may, by election in the manner herein provided for, accept the provisions of this article, and if adopted by a majority of the qualified voters of said county at such election, the local law taxing dogs in such county shall thereby be repealed and annulled, and the provisions of this article shall be in full force and effect in such county. (1917, c. 206, s. 10; C. S. 1694.)

Art. 4. "Seeing-Eye" Guide Dogs.

§ 67-29. Accompanying blind persons in public conveyances, etc.—Any blind person accompanied by a dog described as a "seeing-eye dog," or any dog educated by a recognized training agency or school, which is used as a leader or guide, is entitled with his dog to the full and equal accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of all public conveyances, and all places of public accommodation, subject only to the conditions and limitations applicable to all persons not so accompanied. (1943, c. 111.)

Chapter 68. Fences and Stock Law.

Art. 1. Lawful Fences.

Art. 2. Division Fences.

Art. 3. Stock Law.

Art. 1. Lawful Fences.

§ 68-1. Fences to be five feet high.—Every planter shall make a sufficient fence about his cleared ground under cultivation, at least five feet high, unless otherwise provided in this chapter, unless there shall be some navigable stream or deep watercourse that shall be sufficient, instead of such fence, and unless his lands shall be situated within the limits of a county, township or district wherein the stock law may be in force. (Rev., s. 1660; Code, s. 2799; R. C., c. 48, s. 1; 1777, c. 121, s. 2; 1791, c. 354, s. 1; C. S. 1827.)

Local Modification.—Bertie, Buncombe, Carteret, Hyde, Madison, McDowell, New Hanover, Northampton, Pamlico: C. S. 1829.

Requirements Mandatory.—Proof that plaintiff's fence is a "good ordinary one" such as the neighbors have, does not dispense with the obligation imposed by this section. Runyan v. Patterson, 87 N. C. 343.

A pasture field is not "ground under cultivation," within the meaning of this section, irrespective of whether it is woods pasture or cleared pasture. State v. Perry, 64 N. C. 305, 306.

The word "planter" as used in this section does not include hirelings, laborers or employees who have no discretion as to the plans for fencing. State v. Taylor, 69 N. C. 543.

Effect of Failure to Comply with Section.—If the statutory requirement is not complied with one cannot recover damages caused by animals of another, although the animal may be vicious and the fences are "good ordinary ones" such as the plaintiff's neighbors have. Runyan v. Patterson, 87 N. C. 343.

Cited in State v. Anderson, 123 N. C. 705, 31 S. E. 219.

§ 68-2. Local: Four and a half feet in certain counties.—A fence four and one half feet high is a lawful fence in the counties of Alleghany, Bladen, Brunswick, Burke, Caldwell, Cherokee, Craven, Cumberland, Currituck, Davie, Davidson, Duplin, Harnett, Henderson, Jackson, Lenoir, Perquimans, Randolph, Richmond, Robeson, Rutherford, Sampson, Tyrrell, Yancey, Wake, Washington and Wilkes. This section does not apply to stock-law fences. (Rev., s. 1661; 1889, c. 175; 1891, c. 36; 1905, c. 333; 1909, cc. 55, 94; P. L. 1911, c. 15; C. S. 1828.)

Local Modification.—Tyrrell: C. S. 1828.

§ 68-3. Watercourse made lawful fence by county commissioners.—Any five electors, residents of the same county, may apply to the board of commissioners of the county, at any regular meeting of the same, by written petition praying that any watercourse, or any part of any watercourse, in the county, may be made a lawful fence. Notice of such petition shall be posted forty days at the courthouse door, by the clerk of the board, before such petition shall be acted upon. Upon the hearing of such petition, the board of county commissioners is authorized to declare any watercourse, or any part of any watercourse to which the petition applies, a lawful fence. And the several acts of the general assembly, declaring certain watercourses, in part or in whole, lawful fences, are so far repealed as to enable the board of commissioners of any county to declare any of such acts, or parts thereof, to be null and void in said county. Any order made under this section shall be of record and signed by the chairman, and may be rescinded by the board of commissioners at any regular meeting. (Rev., s. 1663; Code, ss. 2808, 2809, 2810; 1872-3, c. 98; C. S. 1830.)

§ 68-4. Injury to wire fence forbidden.—If any person shall willfully destroy, cut or injure any part of a wire fence or a fence composed partly of wire and partly of wood situated on the land of another, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days or fined not exceeding fifty dollars. (Rev., s. 3413; 1889, c. 516; C. S. 1831.)

Purpose of Section.—This section is not in conflict with section 14-144, as that section was meant to protect the inclosure while this one was meant to protect the fences irrespective of whether or not they enclosed any field. State v. Biggers, 108 N. C. 760, 12 S. E. 1024.

§ 68-5. Local: Building unguarded barbed-wire fences along public highways.—If any person shall erect or maintain a barbed-wire fence along any public road or highway, and within ten yards thereof, without putting a railing, smooth wire, board or plank on the top of such fence not less than three inches in width, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined or imprisoned at the discretion of the court. This section shall apply to the counties of Rowan, Swain, Catawba, Greene, Richmond, Stokes, Rutherford, Forsyth, Yadkin, Brunswick, Durham, Wilkes, Stanly, Cumberland, Iredell, Macon and Mitchell: Provided, that in Rutherford county only a railing or plank shall be used at the top of such fence. (Rev., s. 3769; 1895, c. 65; 1899, c. 43; 1899, c. 225; 1905, c. 220; 1909, cc. 318, 604, 629, 810; C. S. 4422.)

Art. 2. Division Fences.

§ 68-6. Division fences maintainable jointly.—Where two or more persons have lands adjoining, which are either cultivated or used as a pasture for stock, the respective owners of each piece of land shall make and maintain one-half of the fence upon the dividing line. (Rev., s. 1664; Code, s. 2800; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 1; C. S. 1832.)

§ 68-7. Remedy against delinquent owner.—If any person who is liable to build or keep up a part of any division fence fails at any time to do so, the owner of the adjoining land, after notice, may build or repair the whole, and recover of the delinquent one-half of the cost before any court having jurisdiction. (Rev., s. 1670; Code, s. 2807; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 7; C. S. 1833.)

Only Civil Liability.—A violation of this section does not subject the wrongdoer to indictment. His liability is civil only. State v. Watson, 86 N. C. 626.

§ 68-8. Fence erected because of changed use of land.—If the owner of a tract of land, who chooses neither to cultivate it, to use it as a pasture, nor to permit his stock to run on it, afterwards uses it in either of these ways and does not so enclose his stock that they cannot enter on the lands of an adjoining owner, he shall refund to such owner one-half the value of any fence erected by the latter on the dividing line. (Rev., s. 1665; Code, s. 2801; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 2; C. S. 1834.)

§ 68-9. When owner may remove his part of division fence.—If any owner of land liable to contribute for the keeping up of a division fence determines neither to cultivate his land nor permit his stock to run thereon, he may give the adjoining owner three months notice of his determination; and in that case, at any time after the expiration of such notice and between the first day of January and the first day of March, but at no other time, he may remove the half of the fence kept up by himself, and shall be no longer liable to keep up the same. (Rev., s. 1671; Code, s. 2802; 1903, c. 20; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 8; 1883, c. 111; C. S. 1835.)

Counties Not Subject to Stock Law.—In counties where the "stock law" is applicable, this section will not be applied and a division fence may be dispensed with at any time without notice. State v. Edmonds, 121 N. C. 679, 28 S. E. 545.

Liability for Violating.—A violation of this section will not subject one to indictment. State v. Watson, 86 N. C. 626.

§ 68-10. Proceeding to value division fence.—The value of such fence shall be ascertained as follows: Either owner may summon the other to appear before any justice of the peace of the township in which the dividing line is situate; or if it be situate in more than one township, then before any justice of the peace of any township in which any part of it is situate. In his summons he shall name a certain day, not less than five days after the summons, for the appearance of the defendant; he shall also state the purpose of the summons to be the adjustment of all matters in controversy respecting the dividing fence between the parties. The justice shall hear the complaint and defense. If the facts be found such as entitle either party to demand contribution of the other, the justice shall call on the complainant to name an indifferent person, qualified to act as a juror of the township, and if the complainant refuses the justice shall name one for him. The justice shall then call on the defendant to name an indifferent person, qualified to act as a juror of the township, and if the defendant refuses the justice shall name one for him. The justice shall then name a third indifferent person. These three persons, or any two of them, shall view the premises and decide all matters in controversy between the parties, relating to a fence on the dividing line. They shall make a written report to the justice, who shall give judgment thereon, and for the costs, which shall be paid by the owners of the several pieces of land equally. The jurors shall each receive one dollar per day. The fees of the justice and constable shall be as in other cases. Either party may appeal as provided in other cases of justices' judgments. (Rev., s. 1666; Code, s. 2803; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 3; C. S. 1836.)

§ 68-11. Contents of jurors' report.—The report of the jurors shall also state the kind of fence which ought to be kept up, and assign to each owner, in such manner as that it may be identified, the part which he shall keep up. (Rev., s. 1667; Code, s. 2804; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 4; C. S. 1837.)

§ 68-12. Register to record report.—The justice shall return the report, together with a transcript of the proceedings, to the register of deeds of his county for registration. The justice shall collect from the parties the fees of the register, and pay the same to him. (Rev., s. 1668; Code, s. 2805; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 5; C. S. 1838.)

§ 68-13. Final judgment on report; effect.—The final judgment upon the report of the jurors shall be binding on the owners of the respective lands and their assigns, so long as such ownership shall continue, or until the same shall be set aside, modified or reversed. (Rev., s. 1669; Code, s. 2806; 1868-9, c. 275, s. 6; C. S. 1839.)

§ 68-14. Removal of common fence misdemeanor.—If any person owning, occupying, cultivating or being in possession of any lands under a common fence protecting the lands, crops or property of others, shall remove such fence or any part thereof during the time in which any crops are growing or being actually cultivated thereon, or property is protected by such fence, and before such crops are harvested, without the consent and permission of such person or persons whose crop or property is protected by such common fence, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply when ninety days notice of such removal shall have been given to all persons owning, cultivating or in possession of lands surrounded by such common fence, or having property protected thereby, and when thereafter such fence shall be removed between the first day of January and the first day of March following such notice of intended removal. (Rev., s. 3412; Code, s. 2820; 1903, c. 20; C. S. 1840.)

Editor's Note.—When a fence is altogether on the land of a person, although used as a common fence he has the right to move it and he is not subject to criminal prosecution, but a civil right might arise under sec. 68-9. State v. Watson, 86 N. C. 626. Neither will an indictment lie for removing a fence when the party removing the fence has possession of the land on both sides of the fence although title may be in the prosecutor, and the defendant is only a tenant by curtesy. State v. Williams, 44 N. C. 197.

Art. 3. Stock Law.

§ 68-15. Term "stock" defined. — The word "stock" in this chapter shall be construed to mean horses, mules, colts, cows, calves, sheep, goats, jennets, and all neat cattle, swine and geese. (Rev., s. 1681; Code, s. 2822; C. S. 1841.)

Local Modification.—Currituck: 1937, c. 389; Dare: 1935, c. 263; 1937, c. 213; Onslow: 1935, c. 151; 1937, c. 356; Robeson: 1917, c. 662.

Dogs.—A dog is not "stock" within the meaning of the section, but is nevertheless subject to larceny. Meekins v. Simpson, 176 N. C. 130, 96 S. E. 894.

§ 68-16. County elections.—Upon the written application of one-fifth of the qualified voters of any county made to the board of commissioners thereof, it shall be the duty of the commissioners from time to time to submit the question of "stock law" or "no stock law" to the qualified voters of said county. And if at any such election a majority of the votes cast is in favor of "stock law," then the provisions of this chapter relating to the stock law shall be in force over the whole of said county. (Rev., s. 1672; Code, s. 2812; C. S. 1842.)

Cross Reference.—As to "majority of qualified voters," see N. C. Const., Art. VII, sec. 7.

In General.—In a county where only a part of the townships have stock laws, an election covering the whole county is held valid, and it does not interfere with the principles of local self-government. Smalley v. Board, 122 N. C. 607, 29 S. E. 904; Perry v. Board, 130 N. C. 558, 41 S. E. 787.

Mandamus to Compel Election.—When a petition duly signed by the required number of voters is filed with the commissioners, and they refuse to call an election, mandamus may be brought to compel them to grant the petition. Perry v. Board, 130 N. C. 558, 41 S. E. 787.

§ 68-17. Township elections.—Upon the written application of one-fifth of the qualified voters in any township, made to the board of commissioners of the county wherein the township is situated, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to submit the question of "stock law" or "no stock law" to the qualified voters of the township; and if at any such township election a majority of the votes cast is in favor of "stock law," then the stock law shall be in force in said township. (Rev., s. 1673; Code, s. 2813; C. S. 1843.)

In General.—The fact that a township has "stock laws" does not bar the voters in that township from voting in a county election. Smalley v. Board, 122 N. C. 607, 29 S. E. 904.

§ 68-18. District elections.—Upon the written application of one-fifth of the qualified voters of any district or territory, whether the boundaries of said district follow township lines or not, made to the board of county commissioners at any time, and setting forth well-defined boundaries of the district, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to submit the question of "stock law" or "no stock law" to the qualified voters of the district, and if at any such election a majority of the votes cast is in favor of "stock law," then the stock law shall be in force over the whole of said district. (Rev., s. 1674; Code, s. 2814; C. S. 1844.)

"Well Defined Boundaries."—The words are not too indefinite to admit of proof to locate the boundaries where the beginning is "at a certain tract of land," and the difficulty as to the uncertainty of the point of beginning is removed where there is a call for the boundaries of lands of successive proprietors, thence to a certain point. Newsom v. Earnheart, 86 N. C. 391.

Right to Join Districts.—The commissioners have no power when several districts adjoin each other to unite them into one territory, provide for the construction of one boundary fence, and assess a uniform tax on all the real property in the several districts so united to meet the expense of the fence. Bradshaw v. Board, 92 N. C. 278.

§ 68-19. Local: How territory released from stock law.—Upon the written application of a majority of the qualified voters in any district, territory or well defined boundary, made to the board of county commissioners, at any time, setting forth that the citizens of said district, territory or boundary are within the stock-law boundary, and are desirous of being released from the laws governing stock-law territory, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to submit the question of "no stock law" or "stock law" to the qualified voters of said district or territory, and if at any such election a majority of the votes cast is against stock law, then the said district or territory shall be released and free from the operation of the stock law: Provided, the expense incurred in changing the fence in such boundary, district or territory so released be paid by the property holders in such boundary, district or territory, and that the commissioners of the county levy the tax to pay the same on the property holders of such boundary, district or territory so released, but they shall not be further liable for keeping up said stock-law fence: Provided, that in any territory where stock law now prevails no election against stock law shall be held in less than two years from the date of the election adopting stock law in said territory: Provided further, that if "no stock law" should carry, it shall not take effect until six months from the date of its ratification: Provided still further, that neither "stock law" nor "no stock law" shall take effect during crop season.

Local Modification.—Currituck: 1937, c. 389; Dare: 1935, c. 263; 1937, c. 213.

Editor's Note.—It was at one time the public policy of the State to allow stock to run at large. Jones v. Witherspoon, 52 N. C. 555. A land holder was required to inclose his fields to protect his crops. But this policy has now been changed and except in cases of a petition and majority vote by the residents of a county or district for "no stock-law" the stock must be kept within the close of the owner.

When a "no stock-law" is duly passed, before the stock can be turned out to run at large the district or county passing such law must be inclosed so that the stock will not range out of "no stock-law" territory and on the crops of others, not in the "no stock-law" territory. Marsburn v. Jones, 176 N. C. 516, 97 S. E. 422.

This section provides that the expense incurred in building such a fence shall be paid by a tax on the property holders of the district or county. This certainly does not authorize a tax solely upon the real estate in the county or district. Hawes v. Commissioners, 175 N. C. 268, 95 S. E. 482. Therefore, to raise this fund an election must be held and authority granted by the majority of the voters. Marsburn v. Jones, 176 N. C. 516, 97 S. E. 422.

Section 68-34 provides for a tax on the real property of a district or county, but that section is applicable only to districts or counties that pass the "stock-law" and cannot be applied to those passing "no stock-law."

§ 68-20. How election conducted.—Every election under this chapter shall be held and conducted under the same rules and regulations and according to the same penalties provided by law for the election of members of the general assembly: Provided, no such county, township or district election shall be held oftener than once in any one year, although the boundaries of such district may not be the same. (Rev., s. 1676; Code, s. 2815; C. S. 1846.)

§ 68-21. Powers and duties of county commissioners.—The board of commissioners of the county may provide for a new registration of voters, designate places for holding elections, and make all regulations, and do all other things necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this chapter relating to the stock law. (Rev., s. 1677; Code, s. 2826; C. S. 1847.)

Building and Repairing Fences.—County commissioners are not required by the stock-law to personally superintend the fence around the no fence territory; they discharge their duty under the statute when they levy the necessary taxes, appoint the committees, etc., to keep the fence in repair. State v. Commissioners, 97 N. C. 388, 1 S. E. 641.

But an owner of stock, however, who resides outside of such territory, is not liable to have his stock impounded within such territory, unless the county commissioners have kept the fence in good repair. In such case the presumption is that the fence is in good order, and the burden of showing the contrary on the party alleging it. Coor v. Rogers, 97 N. C. 143, 1 S. E. 613.

§ 68-22. Admission of lands adjoining stock-law territory.—Any person, or any number of persons, owning land in a county, district or township which shall not adopt the stock law, or adjoining any county, township or district where a stock law prevails, may have his or their lands enclosed within any fence built in pursuance of this chapter. All such adjacent lands, when so enclosed, shall be subject to all the provisions of law with respect to livestock running at large within the original district so enclosed, as if it were a part of the township, county or district with which it is hereby authorized to be enclosed. Any number of landowners, whose lands are contiguous, may at any time build a common fence around all their lands, with gates across all public highways; and no livestock shall run at large within any such enclosure, under the pains and penalties prescribed in this chapter. (Rev., s. 1678; Code, s. 2821; C. S. 1848.)

Cited in Edwards v. Supervisors, 127 N. C. 62, 37 S. E. 73.

§ 68-23. Allowing stock at large in stock-law territory forbidden.—If any person shall allow his livestock to run at large within the limits of any county, township or district in which a stock law prevails or shall prevail pursuant to law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (Rev., s. 3319; Code, s. 2811; 1889, c. 504; C. S. 1849.)

Editor's Note.—For act declaring Nash county to be stock law territory, see Session Laws 1943, c. 451.

This section implies knowledge, consent or willingness on the part of the owner that the animals be at large, or negligence equivalent thereto, and the mere fact that animals are at large does not raise the presumption that the owner permits them to run at large, nor does the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur apply upon the establishment of the fact that animals are found at large. Gardner v. Black, 217 N. C. 573, 9 S. E. (2d) 10.

Cited in State v. Brigman, 94 N. C. 888; dissenting opinion, Daniels v. Homer, 139 N. C. 219, 252, 51 S. E. 992.

§ 68-24. Impounding stock at large in territory.—Any person may take up any livestock running at large within any township or district wherein the stock law shall be in force and impound the same; and such impounder may demand fifty cents for each animal so taken up, and twenty-five cents for each animal for every day such stock is kept impounded, and may retain the same, with the right to use it under proper care, until all legal charges for impounding said stock and for damages caused by the same are paid, the damages to be ascertained by two disinterested freeholders, to be selected by the owner and the impounder, the freeholders to select an umpire, if they cannot agree, and their decision to be final. (Rev., s. 1679; Code, s. 2816; C. S. 1850.)

Local Modification.—Camden, Currituck, Gates, Pasquotank, Perquimans: Pub. Loc. 1927, c. 327.

Cross Reference.—As to larceny of stock and malicious injury thereto, see § 14-85.

Constitutionality. — This and the following sections are constitutional. Hogan v. Brown, 125 N. C. 251, 34 S. E. 411. And resident owners may be required to pay a higher penalty than non-resident owners. Broadfoot v. Fayetteville, 121 N. C. 418, 28 S. E. 515.

Not Applicable to Stock in Control.—This section does not authorize the taking up and impounding of livestock unless running at large, and does not apply to cows securely tied to trees under the immediate control of the owner with the permission of the lessee of the land, and it is forcible trespass to take them away over the protest of the owner, to prevent which the owner may use all necessary force, unless the taking is by appropriate legal proceedings. Kirkpatrick v. Crutchfield, 178 N. C. 348, 100 S. E. 602. See also, State v. Hunter, 118 N. C. 1196, 24 S. E. 708.

Strays from No Fence Territory.—In State v. Mathis, 149 N. C. 546, 548, 63 S. E. 99, Connor, J., said: "While it is usual for the counties or townships which adopt a 'stock law' to build a common fence, it is not necessary that they do so." In State v. Garner, 158 N. C. 630, 74 S. E. 458, the court held that the owner of cattle who permits them to run at large in fence territory, but they stray across the line into a no-fence territory, is liable, though he does not turn them out for that purpose. Owen v. Williamston, 171 N. C. 57, 59, 87 S. E. 959.

Liability for Killing Strayers.—Under this section one has the power to take up a stray, and the law requires that he do so in preference to killing or injuring it. If he wantonly kills such stray, he is guilty of a misdemeanor. State v. Brigman, 94 N. C. 888. See sec. 14-366.

Applied in Beasley v. Edwards, 211 N. C. 393, 190 S. E. 221.

§ 68-25. Owner notified; sale of stock; application of proceeds.—If the owner of such stock be known to the impounder he shall immediately inform the owner where his stock is impounded, and if the owner shall for two days after such notice willfully refuse or neglect to redeem his stock, then the impounder, after ten days written notice posted at three or more public places within the township where the stock is impounded, and describing the stock and stating place, day and hour of sale, or if the owner be unknown, after twenty days notice in the same manner, and also at the courthouse door, shall sell the stock at public auction, and apply the proceeds in accordance with the provisions of this article, and the balance he shall turn over to the owner if known, and if the owner be not known, to the county commissioners for the use of the school fund of the district wherein said stock was taken up and impounded, subject in their hands for six months to the call of the legally entitled owner. (Rev., s. 1680; Code, s. 2817; C. S. 1851.)

Cross-Reference.—As to constitutionality, see notes to preceding section.

Where a party lawfully impounds a sow, sells same under provisions of a recorder's judgment, and pays himself his lawful fees for impounding the sow and his damages caused by the sow, and pays to the owner the amount due him out of the purchase price, the owner may not complain. Beasley v. Edwards, 211 N. C. 393, 190 S. E. 221.

Cited in dissenting opinion, Daniels v. Homer, 139 N. C. 219, 252, 51 S. E. 992.

§ 68-26. Impounding unlawfully misdemeanor.—If any person shall willfully and unlawfully toll, drive, or in any way move any other person's horse, mule, ass, neat cattle, sheep, hog, goat, or dog, from the range or elsewhere, into any stock-law district, or into the limits of any city or town having the right to impound or destroy the same, with intent to secure the poundage or other penalty, or with intent to injure the owner of such animal, or to require him to pay any poundage or penalty on account of such animal, or for hire or reward, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. If any person shall unlawfully and willfully remove any animal above named from any lawful inclosure, with intent to injure the owner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3309; 1895, c. 141, s. 1; C. S. 1852.)

§ 68-27. Illegally releasing or receiving impounded stock misdemeanor.—If any person unlawfully receives or releases any impounded stock, or unlawfully attempts to do so, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., s. 3310; Code, s. 2819; 1889, c. 504; C. S. 1853.)

§ 68-28. Impounded stock to be fed and watered.—If any person shall impound, or cause to be impounded in any pound or other place, any animal, and shall fail to supply to the same during such confinement a sufficient quantity of good and wholesome food and water, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., s. 3311; Code, s. 2484; 1891, c. 65; 1881, c. 368, s. 3; C. S. 1854.)

§ 68-29. Right to feed impounded stock; owner liable.—In case any animal is at any time impounded as aforesaid, and shall continue to be without necessary food and water for more than twelve successive hours, it shall be lawful for any person from time to time, and as often as it shall be necessary, to enter into and upon any such pound or other place in which any animal shall be so confined, and to supply it with necessary food and water so long as it shall remain so confined. Such person shall not be liable to any action for such entry, and the reasonable cost of such food and water may be collected by him of the owner of such animal. (Rev., s. 1682; Code, s. 2485; 1881, c. 368, s. 4; C. S. 1855.)

In General.—The law recognizes the difference between an impounding fee and a charge for food; for sec. 68-24 prescribes the impounding fees for taking up stock running at large, and this section prescribes for payment of feeding such stock when taken up. The former fees go to the officer or the town or county, and the latter is a humane provision without which the stock might suffer for want of food and water. Owen v. Williamston, 171 N. C. 57, 60, 87 S. E. 959.

§ 68-30. Injuring lands in stock-law territory by riding or driving.—If any person, by riding or driving upon the lands of another without permission, or while driving livestock along any roadway, public or private, shall willfully, deliberately or recklessly do or permit to be done any actual injury to said land, or to the crops or other property growing or being thereon, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. But no such offender shall be proceeded against unless the party injured, or some one in his behalf, shall cause a warrant to be issued or an indictment to be found against the party offending, within fifteen days after the commission of the offense. (Rev., s. 3321; Code, s. 2828; 1889, c. 118; C. S. 1856.)

§ 68-31. Owner in stock-law territory allowing stock outside.—If any person having stock within the limits of a stock-law territory shall allow the same to run at large beyond the boundaries of said territory, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days: Provided, that a person owning or renting land outside of the stock-law territory may turn his stock upon the said land outside of the stock-law district. (Rev., s. 3322; Code, s. 2827; 1889, c. 266; 1885, c. 371; C. S. 1857.)

§ 68-32. Stock-law territory to be fenced around.—The stock-law authorized by this chapter shall not be enforced until a fence has been erected around any territory proposed to be enclosed, with gates on all the public roads passing into and going out of said territory: Provided, all streams which are or may be declared to be lawful fences shall be sufficient boundaries, in lieu of fences: Provided further, no fence shall be erected along the boundary lines of any county, township or district where a stock law prevails. (Rev., s. 1683; Code, s. 2823; C. S. 1858.)

§ 68-33. Commissioners may declare natural barrier sufficient fence.—In any county in the state in which or in any portion of which the stock law is now in force or may hereafter be adopted, the county commissioners of said county in their discretion may declare any watercourse, mountain, mountain range or parts of same, and also other natural and sufficient obstruction along the line of said stock-law territory to be and constitute a sufficient stock-law fence, and in that event such watercourse, mountain, mountain range or part thereof and obstructions so declared by said commissioners shall be and constitute a lawful fence to all intents and purposes. (Rev., s. 1684; 1901, c. 542; C. S. 1859.)

In General.—It is competent for the county commissioners to forbid stock from running at large within the county, and declare a mountain range, a creek, or other natural line, a fence as the limit within which the law shall operate, and it is not a valid defence that no fence had been built on the line to prevent the stock from the adjoining county to run at large on his side of the line when one is prosecuted for allowing his stock to run at large. State v. Mathis, 149 N. C. 546, 63 S. E. 99.

§ 68-34. Assessment of landowners for fence.—For the purpose of building stock-law fences, the board of commissioners of the county may levy and collect a special assessment upon all real property, taxable by the county, within the county, township or district which may adopt the stock law, but no such assessment shall be greater than one-fourth of one per centum on the value of said property. (Rev., s. 1685; Code, s. 2824; C. S. 1860.)

Cross Reference.—As to tax for no stock-law fence, see notes to sec. 68-19.

In General.—In Busbee v. Commissioners, 93 N. C. 143, Smith, C. J., says: "But these local assessments are not under all the restraints put upon the taxing power. They stand upon a different footing and rest upon the equitable and just consideration that lands rendered more valuable by the improvements ought to contribute to the expense of making the improvements, and that these expenses ought not to fall upon the entire body of the taxpayers. The advantage is to the land, and to the persons only as owners of the land."

This section does not authorize the imposition of the assessment on the real estate of a township withdrawn from the benefit of the stock law by express legislative enactment for the purpose of raising money to replace the money withdrawn from the general fund to pay the expenses of fences erected by the commissioners. Harper v. Commissioners, 133 N. C. 106, 45 S. E. 526.

Constitutionality.—This section does not come within the prohibition of the State Constitution providing for uniform tax, as this is not of the nature of a tax, but is an assessment to defray expenses of local improvements, although called a tax by the Legislature. Shuford v. Commissioners, 86 N. C. 552; Cain v. Commissioners, 86 N. C. 8.

When Applicable.—The provisions of this section apply both to the cases where the adoption of the stock law is dependent on a popular vote, and where it is made absolute by an act of the General Assembly. Busbee v. Commissioners, 93 N. C. 143.

District in Two Counties.—If the district organized lies in two counties the assessment shall be as if it was all in one county. Commissioners v. Commissioners, 92 N. C. 180.

Railroad's Liability.—The roadbed and right of way of a railroad are liable to an assessment for local improvements. Commissioners v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 216, 45 S. E. 566.

Assessment Must be for Stock-Law Fences Only.—An assessment by a county upon the real estate to build a fence for the purpose of keeping the stock in anti-stock-law territory from trespassing is unauthorized by law. Hawes v. Commissioners, 175 N. C. 268, 95 S. E. 482.

§ 68-35. Condemnation of land for fence.—If the owner of any land objects to the building of any fence herein allowed, his land, not exceeding twenty feet in width, shall be condemned for the fenceway in accordance with the procedure specified in the article Condemnation Proceedings under the chapter Eminent Domain. (Rev., s. 1686; Code, s. 2825; C. S. 1861.)

§ 68-36. Injury to stock-law fences misdemeanor in stock-law territory.—If any person willfully tears down, or in any manner breaks a fence or gate, or leaves open a gate erected around a stock-law territory, or willfully breaks any enclosure within any township, district or county where a stock law is in force, and wherein any stock is confined, so that the same may escape therefrom, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., s. 3411; Code, s. 2820; 1889, c. 504; C. S. 1862.)

Cited in State v. Dunn, 95 N. C. 697, 698.

§ 68-37. Impounder violating stock law misdemeanor.— If any impounder willfully misappropriates money that he may receive from sale of stock impounded, or in any manner willfully violates any provisions of the law in regard thereto, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., s. 3312; Code, s. 2820; 1889, c. 504; C. S. 1863.)

Cited in State v. Dunn, 95 N. C. 697, 698.

§ 68-38. Local: Depredations of domestic fowls in certain counties.—In the counties and parts of counties hereinafter enumerated, where the stock law prevails, it shall be unlawful for any person to permit any turkeys, geese, chickens, ducks or other domestic fowls to run at large, after being notified as provided in this section, on the lands of any other person while such lands are under cultivation in any kind of grain or feedstuff, or while being used for gardens or ornamental purposes.

Any person so permitting his fowls to run at large, after having been notified to keep them up, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding five dollars or imprisoned not exceeding five days, or if it shall appear to any justice of the peace that after two days notice any person persists in allowing his fowls to run at large and fails or refuses to keep them upon his own premises, then the said justice of the peace may, in his discretion, order any sheriff, constable or other officer to kill said fowls when so depredating. § 68-40. Counties divided by railroad.—Wherever the railroad referred to in § 68-39 shall divide a county so that a part of the county lies east and a part west of the said railroad, then the whole of said county shall be "stock law territory," and under the provisions of this article from and after January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two. (1921, c. 50, s. 2; C. S. 1864(b).)

§ 68-41. Repeal of local laws or regulations.—Sections 68-39 and 68-40 shall not be construed to repeal or change local laws or regulations regarding the subject-matter covered by those sections except so far as said local laws and regulations actually conflict with the provisions thereof and prevent the proper enforcement of said provisions, and the said local laws, rules, and regulations on the subject-matter similar to that covered by said sections shall remain in full force and effect, except as they do and until they do actually interfere with the enforcement of the said provisions. (1921, c. 230; C. S. 1864(c).)

Chapter 69. Fire Protection.

Art. 1. Investigation of Fires and Inspection of Premises.

Art. 2. Fire-Escapes.

Art. 3. State Volunteer Fire Department.

Art. 1. Investigation of Fires and Inspection of Premises.

§ 69-1. Fires investigated; reports; records.— The insurance commissioner and the chief of the fire department, or chief of police where there is no chief of fire department, in municipalities and towns, and the sheriff of the county where such fire occurs outside of a municipality, are hereby authorized to investigate the cause, origin, and circumstances of every fire occurring in such municipalities or counties in which property has been destroyed or damaged, and shall specially make investigation whether the fire was the result of carelessness or design. A preliminary investigation shall be made by the chief of fire department or chief of police, where there is no chief of fire department in municipalities, and by the sheriff of the county where such fire occurs outside of a municipality, and must be begun within three days, exclusive of Sunday, of the occurrence of the fire, and the insurance commissioner shall have the right to supervise and direct the investigation when he deems it expedient or necessary. The officer making the investigation of fires shall forthwith notify the insurance commissioner, and must within one week of the occurrence of the fire furnish to the commissioner a written statement of all the facts relating to the cause and origin of the fire, the kind, value, and ownership of the property destroyed, and such other information as is called for by the blanks provided by the commissioner. The insurance commissioner shall keep in his office a record of all fires occurring in the state, together with all facts, statistics, and circumstances, including the origin of the fires, which are determined by the investigations provided for by this article. This record shall at all times be open to public inspection. (Rev., s. 4818; 1899, c. 58; 1901, c. 387; 1903, c. 719; C. S. 6074.)

Cross Reference.—As to provision requiring the insurance company to notify the insurance commissioner of the losses to property by fire, before payment thereof, see § 58-161.

§ 69-2. Insurance commissioner to make examination; arrests and prosecution. — It is the duty of the insurance commissioner to examine, or cause examination to be made, into the cause, circumstances, and origin of all fires occurring within the state to which his attention has been called in accordance with the provisions of § 69-1, or by interested parties, by which property is accidentally or unlawfully burned, destroyed, or damaged, whenever in his judgment the evidence is sufficient, and to specially examine and decide whether the fire was the result of carelessness or the act of an incendiary. The commissioner shall, in person, by deputy or otherwise, fully investigate all circumstances surrounding such fire, and, when in his opinion such proceedings are necessary, take or cause to be taken the testimony on oath of all persons supposed to be cognizant of any facts or to have means of knowledge in relation to the matters as to which an examination is herein required to be made, and shall cause the same to be reduced to writing. If he is of the opinion that there is evidence sufficient to charge any person with the crime of arson, or other wilful burning, he shall cause such person to be arrested, charged with such offense, and prosecuted, and shall furnish to the solicitor of the district all such evidence, together with the names of witnesses and all the information obtained by him, including a copy of all pertinent and material testimony taken in the case. (Rev., s. 4819; 1899, c. 58, s. 2; 1901, c. 387, s. 2; 1903, c. 719; C. S. 6075.)

§ 69-3. Powers of commissioner in investigations.—The insurance commissioner, or his deputy appointed to conduct such examination, has the powers of a trial justice for the purpose of summoning and compelling the attendance of witnesses to testify in relation to any matter which is by provisions of this article a subject of inquiry and investigation, and may administer oaths and affirmations to persons appearing as witnesses before them. False swearing in any such matter or proceeding is perjury and shall be punished as such. The commissioner or his deputy has authority at all times of the day or night, in performance of the duties imposed by the provisions of this article, to enter upon and examine any building or premises where any fire has occurred, and other buildings and premises adjoining or near the same. All investigations held by or under the direction of the commissioner or his deputy may, in their discretion, be private, and persons other than those required to be present by the provisions of this article may be excluded from the place where the investigation is held, and witnesses may be kept apart from each other and not allowed to communicate with each other until they have been examined. (Rev., s. 4820; 1899, c. 58, s. 3; 1901, c. 387, s. 3; C. S. 6076.)

§ 69-4. Inspection of premises; dangerous material removed.—The insurance commissioner, or the chief of fire department or chief of police where there is no chief of fire department, or local inspector of buildings in municipalities where such officer is elected or appointed, has the right at all reasonable hours, for the purpose of examination, to enter into and upon all buildings and premises in their jurisdiction. It is the duty of the insurance commissioner to require in all municipalities of the state that such officers make in their respective municipalities annual inspection of the buildings therein and quarterly inspection of all premises within the fire limits, and report in detail the results of their inspection to the insurance commissioner upon blanks furnished by him. When any of such officers find in any building or upon any premises combustible material or inflammable conditions dangerous to the safety of such building or premises they shall order the same to be removed or remedied, and this order shall be forthwith complied with by the owner or occupant of such building or premises. The owner or occupant may, within twenty-four hours, appeal to the insurance commissioner from the order, and the cause of the complaint shall be at once investigated by his direction, and unless by his authority the order of the officer above named is revoked it remains in force and must be forthwith complied with by the owner or occupant. The insurance commissioner, fire chief, or fire committee shall make an immediate investigation as to the presence of combustible material or the existence of inflammable conditions in any building or upon any premises under their jurisdiction upon complaint of any person having an interest in such building or premises or property adjacent thereto. The commissioner may, in person or by deputy, visit any municipality and make such inspections alone or in company with the local officer. The local inspector shall be paid by the municipality a reasonable salary or proper fees to be fixed by its governing board. (Rev., s. 4821; 1899, c. 58, s. 4; 1901, c. 387, s. 4; 1903, c. 719; C. S. 6077.)

Cross Reference.—As to regulation of buildings by municipalities, see §§ 160-115 et seq.

§ 69-5. Deputy investigators.—It shall be the duty of the insurance commissioner to appoint two or more persons as deputies, whose particular duty it shall be to investigate forest fires and endeavor to ascertain the persons guilty of setting such fires and cause prosecution to be instituted against those who, as a result of such investigation, are deemed guilty. (Rev., s. 4823; 1899, c. 58, s. 6; 1901, c. 387, s. 6; 1903, c. 719, s. 2; 1915, c. 109, s. 2; 1919, c. 186, s. 7; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 119; C. S. 6078.)

Editor's Note.—The provision as to the appointment of deputies to investigate forest fires, and the prosecution of guilty persons, was inserted by the amendment of 1924.

Cited in O'Neal v. Wake County, 196 N. C. 184, 189, 145 S. E. 28.

§ 69-6. Reports of insurance commissioner.—The insurance commissioner shall submit annually, as early as consistent with full and accurate preparation, and not later than the first day of June, a detailed report of his official action under this article, and it shall be embodied in his report to the general assembly. He shall, in his annual report, make a statement of the fires investigated, the value of property destroyed, the amount of insurance, if any, the origin of the fire, when ascertained, and the location of the property damaged or destroyed, whether in town, city, or country. (Rev., s. 4824; 1899, c. 58, s. 7; 1901, c. 387, s. 7; 1915, c. 109, s. 1; C. S. 6079.)

§ 69-7. Fire prevention and fire prevention day.—It is the duty of the insurance commissioner and superintendent of public instruction, as far as practicable, to provide, except to schools taught in one-story houses, a pamphlet containing printed instructions for properly conducting fire drills in schools, and the superintendent or principal of every public school in this State, except schools taught in one-story houses, shall conduct at least one fire drill every month during the regular school session, such fire drills to include all children and teachers and the use of all ways of egress, and the Insurance Commission and Superintendent of Public Instruction shall further provide for the teaching of "Fire Prevention" in the colleges and schools of the state, and to arrange for a text-book adapted to such use. The ninth day of October of every year shall be set aside and designated as "Fire Prevention Day," and the governor shall issue a proclamation urging the people to a proper observance of the day, and the insurance commissioner shall bring the day and its observance to the attention of the officials of the municipalities of the state, and especially to the firemen, and where possible arrange suitable programs to be followed in its observance. (1915, c. 166, s. 5; 1925, c. 130; C. S. 6080.)

Editor's Note.—The provision requiring the commissioner to provide for a pamphlet of fire drill instructions, and the provision making it a duty of the superintendent or principal of every public school to conduct monthly fire drills, are new with the amendment of 1925.

Art. 2. Fire-Escapes.

§ 69-8. Construction of buildings regulated.—All hotels, lodging houses, school dormitories, hospitals, sanitariums, apartment houses, flats, tenement houses and all buildings other than private dwellings not over three stories in height, in which rooms are to be rented or leased or let or offered for rent, let or leased for living or sleeping purposes, hereafter constructed in this state shall be constructed so that the occupants of all rooms above the first floor shall have unobstructed access to two separate and distinct ways of egress extending from the uppermost floor to the ground, such ways of egress to be so arranged in reference to rooms that in case of fire on one stairway the other stairway can be reached by the occupant without his or her having to pass the stairway involved. Entrance to all such ways of egress aforementioned in this section shall be from corridors or hallways of not less than three feet in width, and in no case shall entrance to such ways of egress be through a room or closet, and where such building is in the opinion of the insurance commissioner of sufficient size to require more than two ways of egress the "National Fire Protection Association" standard governing corridors and stair areas shall be adhered to. Every hotel, lodging house, school dormitory, hospital, sanatorium, apartment house, flat, tenement or other building, other than a private dwelling not over three stories in height, in which rooms are rented, leased, let or offered for rent, leased or let, shall forthwith, at the owner's expense, be provided with additional ways of egress as the insurance commissioner shall deem practicable in order that the object of this article may be accomplished and that existing dangers may not be perpetuated. (1909, c. 637, s. 1; 1923, c. 149, s. 4; C. S. 6081.)

Editor's Note.—Although the general subject matter of this section remains unaltered, its substance and provisions have been so altered by the amendment of 1923 as to leave no basis of comparison between the old and the new sections. For the provisions of the old section therefore, that section should be consulted.

Nonsuit Held Proper.—These actions to recover for personal injuries and for wrongful death resulting from a fire in defendants' building, the third floor of which was rented for sleeping quarters, were founded on this section, upon allegations that defendants failed to have two exits from the sleeping quarters in case of fire. All the evidence tended to show that the building was constructed prior to 1913, and there was no evidence that the insurance commissioner ever deemed practical that the building should be provided with any additional ways of egress in order that the dangers existing should be terminated. It was held that defendants' motion to nonsuit was properly allowed, since plaintiffs fail to bring themselves within the statute relied upon. Woods v. Hall, 214 N. C. 16, 197 S. E. 557.

§ 69-9. Places of public amusement, how constructed.—Every theater, opera house, or other like place of public amusement shall have as many doors for egress therefrom as may be necessary and can be made consistently with the proper strength of the building; all such doors shall be hung so as to open outwardly, or both outwardly and inwardly; and the seats therein shall be arranged in rows properly spaced, with aisles of adequate width, so as to afford easy egress therefrom. All scenery shall be made as secure against becoming inflamed as reasonably practical, and also all reasonably practical arrangements shall be made for the constant supply of water and other means for extinguishment of fires, and they shall be kept constantly effective during the presence of an audience. The insurance commissioner may require all theaters to be equipped with a front curtain of asbestos or other fireproof material, to be furnished by owners of the building, and this curtain shall be raised and lowered not less than twice before each performance, in order to guarantee its being in perfect working order. (1909, c. 637, s. 2; C. S. 6082.)

§ 69-10. Doors in certain buildings to open outwardly.—In all public schoolhouses and other buildings, and also all theaters, assembly rooms, halls, churches, factories with more than ten employees, and all other buildings or places of public resort where people are accustomed to assemble (excepting schoolhouses and churches of one room on the ground floor) which shall hereafter be erected, together with all those heretofore erected and which are still in use as such buildings or places of resort, the doors for ingress and egress shall be so hung as to open outwardly from the audience rooms, halls, or workshops of such buildings or places, or the doors may be hung on double hinges, so as to open with equal ease outwardly or inwardly. And it is further provided that, in order to safeguard the public from the dangers of fire and contingencies arising and resulting therefrom in places of this kind, and the owner or owners from unnecessary confusion and expense, plans for all such theaters, opera houses, moving picture shows, and other like places of amusement to be hereafter erected shall be submitted to and approved, as to the safety of the building from fire and the occupants in case of fire, by the insurance commissioner before work is begun on the building. This requirement shall apply also where any building standing or part thereof is to be changed to use as a theater, opera house, moving picture show or other like place of amusement. (1909, c. 637, s. 3; 1923, c. 149, s. 1; C. S. 6083.)

Editor's Note.—The number of employees which would bring certain buildings enumerated near the beginning of the section within the operation of this section was reduced from twenty to ten, by the amendment of 1923. The provision, in the latter part of the section, that the plans of buildings to be erected shall be submitted to and approved by the insurance commissioner before work is begun, is also new with the amendment of 1923.

§ 69-11. Fire-escapes to be provided.—All factories, manufacturing establishments or workshops of three or more stories in height, in which ten or more people are employed above the first floor thereof, shall be provided with one or (if the proper officials shall deem necessary) more outside fire-escapes, not less than six feet in length and three feet in width, properly and safely constructed, guarded by iron railings not less than three feet in length and taking in at least one door and one window or two windows at each story and connected with the interior by easily accessible and unobstructed openings; and the fire escapes shall connect by iron stairs not less than twenty-four inches wide, the steps to be not less than six inches tread, placed at not more than an angle of forty-five degrees slant, and protected by a well secured hand-rail on both sides, with a twelve-inch wide drop ladder from the lowest platform reaching to the ground. Each story of all factories, manufacturing establishments or workshops of three or more stories in height shall be amply supplied with means for extinguishing fires. All the main doors, both inside and outside, in factories, except fire doors, shall open outwardly, when the proper official shall so direct, and no outside or inside door of any building wherein operatives are employed shall be locked, bolted, or otherwise fastened during the hours of labor so as to prevent egress. (1909, c. 637, s. 4; 1923, c. 149, s. 2; C. S. 6084.)

bring certain buildings enumerated near the beginning of the section within the operation of this section was reduced from thirty to ten, by the amendment of 1923.

§ 69-12. Ways of escape provided.—Every building now or hereafter used, in whole or in part, as a public building, public or private institution, schoolhouse, church, theater, public hall, place of assembly or place of public resort, and every building in which twenty or more persons are employed, allowed or accustomed to assemble or accommodated above the second story in a factory, workshop, office building or mercantile or other establishment, when the owner or agent of the owner of the buildings is notified in writing by the insurance commissioner or one of his deputies, shall be provided with proper ways of egress or other means of escape from fire sufficient for the use of all persons accommodated, assembled, employed, lodging or residing in such building or buildings, and such ways of egress and means of escape shall be kept free from obstructions, in good repair, and ready for use. Every room above the second story in any such building in which twenty or more persons are employed shall be provided with more than one way of egress by stairways on the inside or outside of the building. All doors in any building subject to the provisions of this article shall open outwardly, if the insurance commissioner or one of his deputies shall so direct in writing. (1909, c. 637, s. 5; 1923, c. 149, s. 3; 1927, c. 55, s. 1; C. S. 6085.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1923, buildings where people are "allowed or accustomed to assemble or accommodated," and by the amendment of 1927, office buildings where people are employed, are brought within the operation of this section.

§ 69-13. Enforcement by insurance commissioner.—The insurance commissioner is charged with the execution of this article, and he or the chief of the fire department is vested with all privileges, duties, and obligations placed upon them in this chapter, in regard to the inspection of buildings, for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this article in regard to the buildings and requirements herein. Any owner or occupant of premises failing to comply with the provisions of this article, in accordance with the orders of the authorities above specified, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each day's neglect. If any owner or lessee of any building referred to in this article shall deem himself aggrieved by any ruling or order of any chief of fire department or local inspector, he may within twenty-four hours appeal to the insurance commissioner, and the cause of complaint shall at once be investigated by the direction of the commissioner, and unless by his authority the order or ruling is revoked it shall remain in full force and effect and be forthwith complied with by the owner or lessee. (1909, c. 637, s. 6; C. S. 6086.)

Art. 3. State Volunteer Fire Department.

§ 69-14. Purpose of article.—The purpose of this article shall be the creation of a state volunteer fire department to provide protection for property lying outside the boundaries of municipalities, and to render assistance anywhere within the state of North Carolina, in municipalities or counties, in emergencies caused by fire, floods, tornadoes, or otherwise, in the manner and subject to the conditions provided in this article. (1939, c. 364, s. 1.)

§ 69-15. Personnel. — The personnel of the North Carolina state volunteer fire department shall consist of all active members of the organized fire departments, who are members of the North Carolina state firemen's association, of municipalities whereof the governing bodies shall subscribe to and endorse this article. (1939, c. 364, s. 2.)

§ 69-16. Organization. — The North Carolina state fire marshal shall be chief of the state volunteer fire department; regular municipal fire chiefs shall be assistant chiefs; assistant chiefs shall be deputy chiefs; battalion chiefs, captains; lieutenants and privates shall hold the same positions that they occupy in their municipal companies. When engaged in rendering assistance at the scene of any emergency, the ranking officer of the first department arriving at the scene of the emergency shall have complete charge of all operations until the arrival of a superior officer. All subordinate officers and men shall act under the direction of such ranking officer. Whenever present at the scene of an emergency, the chief shall have full and complete control and authority over operations of all members of the department. (1939, c. 364, s. 3.)

§ 69-17. Acceptance by municipalities. — Any municipality having an organized fire department and desiring to participate in the establishment of the state volunteer fire department, may do so by a resolution of the governing body accepting and endorsing the provisions of this article: Provided, that acceptance shall not be compulsory. (1939, c. 364, s. 4.)

§ 69-18. Withdrawal.—Any municipality which has accepted the provisions of this article may withdraw its fire departments from membership in the state volunteer fire department by resolution of the governing body thereof. Notice of such withdrawal shall be given to the state fire marshal and withdrawal shall not become effective until sixty (60) days after his receipt thereof. (1939, c. 364, s. 5.)

§ 69-19. Dispatching firemen and apparatus from municipalities. — Municipalities endorsing this article shall retain full and complete control and authority in sending or permitting firemen and apparatus to go beyond the limits of the municipality. The governing bodies of such municipalities shall designate and authorize a person, and at least two alternates, who shall have authority to grant or deny permission to firemen and apparatus to leave the municipality in all cases where request is made for assistance beyond its corporate limits, and the municipality shall, through the office of its municipal fire chief, furnish to the office of the state insurance commissioner, and to the secretary of the North Carolina state firemen's association, a list of the persons so authorized by the municipality. The secretary of the state firemen's association shall furnish to all municipalities and counties accepting this article a list of all such persons so designated in all municipalities within the state. (1939, c. 364, s. 6.)

§ 69-20. No authority in state volunteer fire department to render assistance to non-accepting counties.—The state volunteer fire department shall not have authority to render assistance in any emergency occurring within a county which has not accepted the terms and conditions of this article by resolution of the board of county commissioners: Provided, that nothing in this article shall be construed to prevent any municipality from voluntarily permitting its fire department to render assistance in any emergency, notwithstanding that it may arise in a county which has failed to accept this article. (1939, c. 364, s. 7.)

§ 69-21. Acceptance by counties.—Any county desiring to accept the benefits of this article may do so by resolution of the board of county commissioners. The board may make the necessary appropriation therefor and levy annually taxes for payment of the same as a special purpose, in addition to any tax allowed by any special statute for the purposes enumerated in § 153-9, and in addition to the rate allowed by the constitution. Any such county may thereupon make agreements and enter into contracts with respect to payment for services rendered by the state volunteer fire department within its boundaries in the following manner:

The county may contract with any municipality which has accepted the terms of this article, whether within or without said county, to pay to such municipality an annual fee as a consideration for the municipality providing equipment and carrying compensation insurance which will enable it to respond to calls from within the county so contracting, and to pay an additional sum per truck for each mile traveled from the station house to the scene of the emergency, and to pay an additional sum per truck per hour or fraction thereof for the use of its water or chemical pumping equipment. Said sums shall be paid to the city within thirty (30) days after such services have been performed: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the county and municipality from adopting a different schedule of fees in cases where those provided above shall be considered excessive or inadequate: Provided, that if the emergency shall occur within the limits of another city or town, such city or town and not the county wherein it lies shall be responsible for the payments and shall assume all liabilities as provided in this section. (1939, c. 364, s. 8.)

§ 69-22. Municipalities not to be left unprotected.—At no time shall the entire personnel or equipment of any municipal fire department be absent from the municipality in response to a call to another municipality, or other place lying at a distance exceeding two miles from the corporate limits, but there shall remain within the municipal limits such personnel and equipment as in the judgment of the local fire chief might provide sufficient protection during the absence of the remainder. (1939, c. 364, s. 9.)

§ 69-23. Rights and privileges of firemen; liability of municipality.—When responding to a call and while working at a fire or other emergency outside the limits of the municipality by which they are regularly employed or in volunteer fire service, all members of the state volunteer fire department shall have the same authority, rights, privileges and immunities which are afforded them while responding to calls within their home municipality. In permitting its fire department or equipment to attend an emergency or answer a call beyond the municipal limits, whether under the terms of this article or otherwise, a municipality shall be deemed in exercise of a governmental function, and shall hold the privileges and immunities attendant upon the exercise of such functions within its corporate limits. (1939, c. 364, s. 10).

§ 69-24. Relief in case of injury or death.—In case of injury or death of any member of the state volunteer fire department arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties while such member is assisting at any emergency arising beyond the limits of the municipality with which he is connected, or while going to or returning from the scene of such emergency, such fireman shall be entitled to compensation under the terms of the North Carolina Workmen's Compensation Act, and the municipality with which he is connected shall be liable for the compensation provided under that Act. (1939, c. 364, s. 11.)

§ 69-25. Sums from contingent fund of state made available for administration of article.—In order to assist in carrying out the purposes of this article the governor may, from time to time, make provisions for assistance to the North Carolina state firemen's association in a sum not to exceed two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500.00), in any one year, out of the contingent fund appropriated in the General Appropriation Act. One-half of the amount so provided shall, in each instance, go to the state firemen's relief fund, and one-half to the expenses of the said association incurred in carrying out the provisions of this article. (1939, c. 364, s. 12.)

Chapter 70. Indian Antiquities.

§ 70-1. Private landowners urged to refrain from destruction.—Private owners of lands containing Indian relics, artifacts, mounds or burial grounds are urged to refrain from the excavation or destruction thereof and to forbid such conduct by others, without the cooperation of the director of the state museum and the secretary of the North Carolina Historical Commission or without the assistance or supervision of some person designated by either as qualified to make scientific archaeological explorations. (1935, c. 198, s. 1.)

§ 70-2. Possessors of relics urged to commit them to custody of state agencies.—All persons having in their possession collections of Indian relics, artifacts, and antiquities which are in danger of being lost, destroyed or scattered are urged to commit them to the custody of the North Carolina State Museum, the North Carolina Historical Commission, or some other public agency or institution within the State which is qualified to preserve and exhibit them for their historic, scientific and educational value to the people of the State. (1935, c. 198, s. 2.)

§ 70-3. Preservation of relics on public lands.—It shall be the duty of any person in charge of any construction or excavation on any lands owned by the State, by any public agency or institution, by any county, or by any municipal corporation, to report promptly to and preserve for the director of the state museum or the secretary of the North Carolina Historical Commission any Indian relic, artifact, mound, or burial ground discovered in the course of such construction or excavation. (1935, c. 198, s. 3.)

§ 70-4. Destruction or sale of relic from public lands made misdemeanor.—Any person who shall excavate, disturb, remove, destroy or sell any Indian relic or artifact, or any of the contents of any mound or burial ground, on or from any lands owned by the State, by any public agency or institution, by any county, or by any municipal corporation, except with the written approval of the director of the state museum or the secretary of the North Carolina Historical Commission, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1935, c. 198, s. 4.)

Chapter 71. Indians.

§ 71-1. Cherokee Indians of Robeson County; rights and privileges.—The persons residing in Robeson, Richmond, and Sampson counties, who have heretofore been known as "Croatan Indians" or "Indians of Robeson County," together with their descendants, shall hereafter be known and designated as "Cherokee Indians of Robeson County," and by that name shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges heretofore or hereafter conferred, by any law or laws of the state of North Carolina, upon the indians heretofore known as the "Croatan Indians" or "Indians of Robeson County." In all laws enacted by the General Assembly of North Carolina relating to said indians subsequent to the enactment of said chapter fifty-one of the Laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-five, the words "Croatan Indians" and "Indians of Robeson County" are stricken out and the words "Cherokee Indians of Robeson County" inserted in lieu thereof. (Rev., s. 4168; 1885, c. 51, s. 2; 1911, c. 215; P. L. 1911, c. 263; 1913, c. 123; C. S. 6257.)

Cross Reference.—See annotations to § 116-85.

§ 71-2. Separate privileges in schools and institutions.—Such Cherokee indians of Robeson county and the indians of Person county, defined in the chapter Education, § 115-66, shall be entitled to the following rights and privileges:

1. Separate schools, with the educational privileges provided in the chapter Education.

2. Suitable accommodations in the state hospital for the insane at Raleigh, as provided in the chapter Hospitals for the Insane, in the article entitled Organization and Management.

3. The sheriffs, jailers, or other proper authorities of Robeson and Person counties shall provide in the common jails of said counties, and in the homes for the aged and infirm thereof, separate cells, wards, or apartments for such indians in all cases where it shall be necessary under the laws of this state to commit any of said indians to such jails or county homes. (1911, c. 215, s. 6; 1913, c. 123; P. L. 1913, c. 22; C. S. 6258.)

Cross References.—See annotations to § 116-85. For separate schools in certain counties, see § 115-66; for care of insane, see § 122-5.

§ 71-3. Chapter not applicable to certain bands of Cherokees.—Neither this chapter nor any other act relating to said "Cherokee Indians of Robeson County" shall be construed so as to impose on said indians any powers, privileges, rights, or immunities, or any limitations on their power to contract, heretofore enacted with reference to the eastern band of Cherokee indians residing in Cherokee, Graham, Swain, Jackson, and other adjoining counties in North Carolina, or any other band or tribe of Cherokee indians other than those now residing, or who have since the Revolutionary War resided, in Robeson county, nor shall said "Cherokee Indians of Robeson County," as herein designated, be subject to the limitations provided in the chapter Contracts Requiring Writing, in § 22-3, entitled Contracts with Cherokee Indians. (1913, c. 123, s. 5; C. S. 6259.)

Chapter 72. Inns, Hotels and Restaurants.

Art. 1. Innkeepers.

§ 72-1. Must furnish accommodations.—Every innkeeper shall at all times provide suitable food, rooms, beds and bedding for strangers and travelers whom he may accept as guests in his inn or hotel. (Rev., s. 1909; 1903, c. 563; C. S. 2249.)

Cross References.—As to innkeeper's lien on baggage, see §§ 44-30 to 44-32. As to obtaining entertainment at hotels and boarding houses without paying therefor, see § 14-110. For distinctions between "boarder" and "guest," see notes under the following section.

What Constitutes an Inn Generally.—A public inn or hotel is a public house of entertainment for all who choose to visit it, and where all transient persons who may choose to come will be received as guests, for compensation; and it does not lose its character as such by reason of its being located at a summer resort or a watering place, or by taking some as boarders by a special contract or for a definite time. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 59 S. E. 1037.

Sleeping Car Not an Inn.—Though a "sleeping car" is a place for the reception of travelers, it is not an "inn." Garrett v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 737, 90 S. E. 903.

Boarding House.—A boarding house is as well known and as distinguishable from every other house in every city, village, and the country as an inn or tavern. It is a house where the business of keeping boarders generally is carried on, and which is held out by the owner or keeper as a place where boarders are kept. State v. McRae, 170 N. C. 712, 713, 86 S. E. 1039.

Distinction Between Inn and Boarding House.—It is the publicly holding a place out as one where all transient persons who may choose to come will be received as guests for compensation that is the principal distinction between a hotel and a boarding house. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 370, 59 S. E. 1037.

When Guest Can Be Ejected.—Guests of a hotel, and travelers or other persons entering it with the bona fide intent of becoming guests, can not be lawfully prevented from going in, or be put out, by force, after entrance, provided they are able to pay the charges and tender the money necessary for that purpose, if requested by the landlord, unless they be persons of bad or suspicious character, or of vulgar habits, or so objectionable to the patrons of the house, on account of the race to which they belong, that it would injure the business to admit them to all portions of the house, or unless they attempt to take advantage of the freedom of the hotel to injure the landlord's chances of profit derived either from his inn or any other business incidental to or connected with its management and constituting a part of the provision for the wants or pleasure of his patrons. State v. Steele, 106 N. C. 766, 782, 11 S. E. 478.

Same—Obedience to Rules.—A guest's right of occupancy of a hotel is dependent upon proper behavior and decent conduct and obedience to reasonable rules and regulations of the proprietors; for a breach of such implied conditions they may be summarily removed. Hutchins v. Durham, 118 N. C. 457, 24 S. E. 723.

Same—Remedy.—Guests at a hotel can not maintain ejectment if evicted, but can only sue for damages if wrongfully turned out. Hutchins v. Durham, 118 N. C. 457, 24 S. E. 723.

One Not a Guest Is a Licensee.—One who is in a hotel for social purposes, at the invitation of one of its guests, is a licensee, at the will of its management, and may be forbidden the premises for improper conduct. Money v. Travelers Hotel Co., 174 N. C. 508, 93 S. E. 964.

Same—Can Be Expelled.—When persons, unobjectionable on account of character or race, enter a hotel not as guests, but intent on pleasure or profit, to be derived from intercourse with its inmates, they are there not of right, but under an implied license that the landlord may revoke at any time, because barring the limitation imposed by holding out inducements to the public to seek accommodation at his inn, the proprietor occupies it as his dwelling house, from which he may expel all who have not acquired rights growing out of the relation of guests, and must drive out all who, by their bad conduct, create a nuisance and prove an annoyance to his patrons. State v. Steele, 106 N. C. 766, 782, 11 S. E. 478.

Same—Same—Force Allowable.—The broad rule laid down by Wharton (1 Cr. L., sec. 625), is that the proprietor of a public house has a right to request a person who visits it, not as a guest or on business with guests, to depart, and if he refuse, the innkeeper has a right to lay his hands gently on him and lead him out, and if resistance be made, to employ sufficient force to put him out. For so doing, he can justify his conduct on a prosecution for assault and battery. State v. Steele, 106 N. C. 766, 784, 11 S. E. 478.

Other Rights of Innkeeper.—An innkeeper has, unquestionably, the right to establish a news stand or a barber shop in his hotel, and to exclude persons who come for the purpose of vending newspapers or books, or of soliciting employment as barbers, and, in order to render his business more lucrative, he may establish a laundry or a livery stable in connection with his hotel, or an innkeeper may contract with the proprietor of a livery stable in the vicinity to secure for the latter, as far as he legitimately can, the patronage of his guests in that line for a per centum of the proceeds or profits derived by such owner of vehicles and horses from dealing with the patrons of the public house. After concluding such contracts, the innkeeper may make, and, after personal notice to violators, enforce a rule excluding from his hotel the agents and representatives of other livery stables who enter to solicit the patronage of his guests. State v. Steele, 106 N. C. 766, 783, 11 S. E. 478.

§ 72-2. Liability for loss of baggage.—Innkeepers shall not be liable for loss, damage or destruction of the baggage or property of their guests except in case such loss, damage, or destruction results from the failure of the innkeeper to exercise ordinary, proper and reasonable care in the custody of such baggage and property; and in case of such loss, damage or destruction resulting from the negligence and want of care of the said innkeeper he shall be liable to the owner of the said baggage and property to an amount not exceeding one hundred dollars. Any guest may, however, at any time before a loss, damage or destruction of his property, notify the innkeeper in writing that his property exceeds in value the said sum of one hundred dollars, and shall upon demand of the innkeeper furnish him a list or schedule of the same, with the value thereof, in which case the innkeeper shall be liable for the loss, damage or destruction of said property because of any negligence on his part for the full value of the same. Proof of the loss of any such baggage, except in case of damage or destruction by fire, shall be prima facie evidence of the negligence of said hotel or innkeeper. (Rev., s. 1910; 1903, c. 563, s. 2; C. S. 2250.)

What Constitutes Boarding House Keeper.—The keeper of a boarding house is one who reserves the right to select and choose his patrons and takes them in only by special arrangement, and usually for a definite time. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 370, 59 S. E. 1037.

Same—Not an Innkeeper.—One who entertains strangers only occasionally, although he receives compensation for it, is not an innkeeper. State v. Mathews, 19 N. C. 424.

Boarder and Guest Distinguished.—In 16 A. and E. Enc. (2 Ed.), it is said: "The essential difference between a boarder and a guest at an inn lies in the character in which the party comes—that is, whether he is a transient person or not, and, accordingly, one who stops at an inn as a transient or a guest, with all the rights, privileges, and liberties incident to that station. On the other hand, one who seeks accommodation with a view to permanency, as to make the place his home for the time being, is not a guest, but a boarder. The length of his stay, however, is not of itself ordinarily decisive, for he will continue to be a guest as long as he remains in the transitory condition of that relation." Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 371, 59 S. E. 1037.

Liability Extends to Guest.—When one is received at a public inn or hotel and entertained as a guest, without any prearrangement as to terms or time, but on the implied invitation held out to the public generally, he is a transient only—a guest and not a boarder—and entitled to recover of the defendant innkeeper as such. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 59 S. E. 1037.

Same—Common Law Liability.—The decisions of this State are to the effect that, in the absence of statutory regulation, the keeper of a public inn, or hotel, which is the modern and more frequently used term, is responsible to his guest for the safety of the latter's goods, chattels, and money, when placed infra hospitum and which he has with him for the purposes of his journey. The proprietor is held to be an insurer to the extent that he must make good to the guest all loss or damage arising from any cause except the act of God or the public enemy, or the fault of the guest himself or his agents or servants. Quinton v. Courtney, 2 N. C. 40; Neal v. Wilcox, 49 N. C. 146; Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 369, 59 S. E. 1037.

The exacting requirement of the common law, established in a ruder time, from reasons of public policy, in many instances and under modern conditions may operate with great harshness, and the matter has been very generally made the subject of legislation by which the landlord's obligations have been limited, both in kind and amount. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 369, 59 S. E. 1037.

Ordinary Care Now Required.—Even at a public inn or hotel, one who holds the position as a regular boarder or lodger can only hold the proprietor to the exercise of ordinary care on the part of himself and his employees. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 370, 59 S. E. 1037.

Liability for Personal Injuries.—The innkeeper is not insurer of his guest's personal safety, but his liability does extend to injuries received by the guest from being placed in an unsafe room. This is a matter peculiarly within the innkeeper's knowledge and entirely beyond the control of the guest. In that particular he is peculiarly within the innkeeper's power and protection. Ten Broeck v. Wells, 47 Fed. 679; Patrick v. Springs, 154 N. C. 270, 272, 70 S. E. 395.

Same—Negligence of Guest.—The guest must use reasonable care on his part to protect himself, and if he is himself negligent and could have avoided the injury by due care, he cannot recover. Patrick v. Springs, 154 N. C. 270, 273, 70 S. E. 395.

§ 72-3. Safekeeping of valuables. — It is the duty of innkeepers, upon the request of any guest, to receive from said guest and safely keep money, jewelry and valuables to an amount not exceeding five hundred dollars; and no innkeeper shall be required to receive and take care of any money, jewelry or other valuables to a greater amount than five hundred dollars: Provided, the receipt given by said innkeeper to said guest shall have plainly printed upon it a copy of this section. No innkeeper shall be liable for the loss, damage or destruction of any money or jewels not so deposited. (Rev., s. 1911; 1903, c. 563, s. 3; C. S. 2251.)

§ 72-4. Loss by fire.—No innkeeper shall be liable for loss, damage or destruction of any baggage or property caused by fire not resulting from the negligence of the innkeeper or by any other force over which the innkeeper had no control. Nothing herein contained shall enlarge the limit of the amount to which the innkeeper shall be liable as provided in preceding sections. (Rev., s. 1912; 1903, c. 563, s. 4; C. S. 2252.)

§ 72-5. Negligence of guest.—Any innkeeper against whom claim is made for loss sustained by a guest may show that such loss resulted from the negligence of such guest or of his failure to comply with the reasonable and proper regulations of the inn. (Rev., s. 1914; 1903, c. 563, s. 7; C. S. 2253.)

Cross References.—As to liability for personal injuries and effect of negligence of guest, see notes under § 72-2; as to innkeeper's lien on baggage, see §§ 44-30 to 44-32.

§ 72-6. Copies of this article to be posted.—Every innkeeper shall keep posted in every room of his house occupied by guests, and in the office, a printed copy of this article and of all regulations relating to the conduct of guests. This chapter shall not apply to innkeepers, or their guests, where the innkeeper fails to keep such notices posted. (Rev., s. 1913; 1903, c. 563, ss. 5, 6; C. S. 2254.)

Effect of Noncompliance with Section.—Where the provision of this section is not complied with the principle of the common law obtains and the keeper is liable as at common law. Holstein v. Phillips, 146 N. C. 366, 369, 59 S. E. 1037.

§ 72-7. Admittance of dogs to bedrooms.—It shall be unlawful for any innkeeper or guest owning, keeping, or who has in his care a dog or dogs, to permit such a dog or dogs admittance to any bedroom or rooms used for sleeping purposes in any inn or hotel.

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall pay a fine not to exceed fifty dollars or be imprisoned not more than thirty days. (1927, c. 67.)

Cross Reference.—As to special provisions for "Seeing-Eye" dogs, see § 67-29.

Art. 2. Sanitary Inspection and Conduct.

§ 72-8. Annual inspection and certificate by state board of health.—For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article the state board of health is authorized and required to inspect, through its officers or agents, without cost to the hotels or hospitals, all hotels and restaurants, hospitals and sanitariums, public and private, in the state once a year. If upon inspection of any hotel or restaurant, hospital or sanitarium, it shall be found that this article has been fully complied with, the secretary of the state board of health shall issue a certificate to that effect to the person operating the same, and such certificate shall be kept posted in plain view in some conspicuous place in said hotel or restaurant, hospital or sanitarium. (1917, c. 66, s. 23; 1923, c. 173; C. S. 2277.)

Editor's Note.—This section, originally passed in 1917, was repealed by Public Laws 1921, Chapter 186, sec. 22. However in 1923 this section was amended and reinstated in the Code, Public Laws, 1923, Chapter 173. The effect of the amendment was to include hospitals and sanitariums, public and private, under the provision for inspection by the State Board of Health.

§ 72-9. Definitions; "hotel"; "transient guest"; "restaurant".—A "hotel" within the meaning of this article is any inn or public lodging-house where transient guests are lodged for pay. The term "transient guest" within the meaning of this article shall mean one who puts up for less than one week at a time at such hotel. The term "restaurant" as used in this article shall include lunch counters, cafes and all other establishments whatsoever where lunches, meals or food in any form are prepared for and/or served to the public for immediate consumption. Nothing in this article shall be construed as affecting private boarding houses where the majority of the patrons receive boarding accommodations for periods of a week or longer at a time. (1921, c. 186, s. 1; 1935, c. 169; C. S. 2283(a).)

Editor's Note.—This section was so changed by the amendment that a comparison of the old with the new is necessary to determine the full extent.

§ 72-10. Charges for rooms; posting.—Every transient hotel shall keep posted in a conspicuous place in the office a list of its charges for rooms, with or without meals, in accordance with the plan or plans on which the hotel is operated, giving the exact transient rate, and shall also keep posted in each room the rate for that room, with or without meals, in accordance with its plan as stated above, giving the transient rate per day and week, and the rate for each person in the room. (1921, c. 186, s. 2; C. S. 2283(b).)

§ 72-11. Water-closets, bathrooms, and washbowls.—In all cities, towns, or villages where a system of water-works and sewerage is maintained for public use, every hotel therein accessible to water main and sewer main shall be equipped with suitable water-closets for the accommodation of its guests, which water-closets shall be connected and tapped by proper plumbing with such water and sewerage systems, and there shall be some adequate means of flushing said water-closets with the water in such manner as to prevent sewer gas from arising therefrom. The water-closets and bathrooms must be sufficiently lighted to permit the reading of ordinary newspaper type (18) inches from the normal eye. The washbowls of the main wash-room of such hotel must be connected and tapped and equipped in similar manner, both as to method and time; all such equipment to be paid for by the owner. (1921, c. 186, s. 3; C. S. 2283(c).)

§ 72-12. Receptacles holding water screened. "Standing water" defined.—The proprietor of every hotel and restaurant shall keep all cisterns, tanks, and other receptacles containing standing water screened or otherwise so covered as to prevent the entrance of flies, mosquitoes, and other disease-carrying insects. The term "standing water" as used in this article shall mean water that remains for ten days or more in a cistern, tank, or other receptacle. (1921, c. 186, s. 4; C. S. 2283(d).)

§ 72-13. Water to be analyzed. Discontinuance of use.—A sample of water used in every hotel and restaurant, except in cases where the water is derived from some public water supply, shall be sent by the proprietor to the state laboratory of hygiene for analysis twice each year, with a certificate that it is the water used in such hotel or restaurant, and if the sample is found by said laboratory to be unfit for the use that is made of the water in the hotel or restaurant, the further use of such water shall be discontinued until permission is granted by the state board of health to resume the use of such water. (1921, c. 186, s. 5; C. S. 2283(e).)

§ 72-14. Door and window screens. Mosquito bar for beds. Fly paper and fly traps.—The proprietor or keeper of every hotel or restaurant shall keep screened the doors, windows, and all openings of the kitchen and dining-room with suitable mesh-wire gauze from the first of April to the first of December. Every hotel shall have all bedroom windows screened, or else provide each bed with a mosquito bar for the use of its patrons for protection against flies, mosquitoes and other insects, and it shall be the duty of the proprietor or keeper of every hotel and restaurant to use such other means, as fly-paper, fly-traps, etc., as may be necessary to keep the restaurant, kitchen, and dining-room reasonably free from flies. (1921, c. 186, s. 6; C. S. 2283(f).)

§ 72-15. Minimum floor and air space. Beds.—In every sleeping room the minimum floor area shall be sixty (60) square feet per bed, and under no circumstances shall there be provided less than five hundred (500) cubic feet of air space per bed. There shall always be space in each room, and the arrangement of each room shall be such that there may be a space of two feet between any beds in the room. All beds shall be so arranged that the air shall circulate freely under each. In no hotel shall beds or bunks in the same room or apartment be placed one above another: Provided, that this section shall not apply in cases of emergency. (1921, c. 186, s. 7; C. S. 2283(g).)

§ 72-16. Lighting of rooms. Window space. Blinds or shades.—Each room in every hotel hereafter constructed shall be well lighted, with outside window space not less than one-eighth (⅛) the floor space. Each window in every hotel now existing or hereafter constructed shall be provided with either blinds having hinges and shutters or slats freely movable and in good working order, or with a movable shade which effectively excludes the light when drawn. (1921, c. 186, s. 8; C. S. 2283(h).)

§ 72-17. Pillow-slips and sheets; clean sets.—All hotels shall hereafter provide each bed, bunk, cot, or other sleeping place for the use of guests with pillow-slips, under and top sheets to be of sufficient width to cover the mattress thereof, and to be at least ninety (90) inches long. All pillow-slips and sheets, after being used by one guest, must be washed and ironed before used by another guest, a clean set being furnished each succeeding guest. (1921, c. 186, s. 9; C. S. 2283(i).)

§ 72-18. Beds and furnishings to be kept clean and free from vermin.—All beds, bedclothing, mattresses, and pillows shall always be kept clean and free from vermin. (1921, c. 186, s. 10; C. S. 2283(j).)

§ 72-19. Rooms to be disinfected and aired.—Every room, after being occupied by any one known or suspected to be suffering from tuberculosis, diphtheria, or any contagious disease, must be thoroughly disinfected as prescribed by the state board of health before further occupancy; and every room, after being occupied by any one known or suspected to be suffering from measles or whooping-cough, must be thoroughly aired for twenty-four (24) hours before subsequent occupancy. (1921, c. 186, s. 11; C. S. 2283(k).)

§ 72-20. Towels.—All hotels shall furnish each guest with a clean towel; and the use of the roller or other towels used in common is prohibited in all hotels and restaurants. (1921, c. 186, s. 12; C. S. 2283(l).)

§ 72-21. Refrigerators, ice boxes, and cold storage rooms. Kitchens.—The refrigerator, ice boxes, and cold-storage rooms of all hotels or restaurants must be kept free from foul and unpleasant odors, mold, and slime. The kitchen must be well lighted and ventilated, the floor clean, and the side walls and ceilings free from cobwebs and accumulated dirt. (1921, c. 186, s. 13; C. S. 2283(m).)

§ 72-22. Tableware and kitchen utensils. Reservice of food. — All dishes, tableware, and kitchen utensils must be thoroughly washed and rinsed with clean water after using; food served to customers when part of same has been used must not again be served to other customers. (1921, c. 186, s. 14; C. S. 2283(n).)

§ 72-23. Protection and removal of garbage.—All garbage must be kept covered and protected from flies, in barrels or galvanized iron cans, and removed at least twice a week. (1921, c. 186, s. 15; C. S. 2283(o).)

§ 72-24. Requirements for lodging-houses. — Every lodging-house accepting transient guests shall at all times be kept free from filth and rubbish in or on the premises belonging to or connected with the same. All water-closets, washbasins, baths, windows, fixtures, fittings, and painted surface shall at all times be kept clean and in good repair. The floors, walls, and ceilings of all rooms, passages, and stairways must at all times be clean and in good repair. (1921, c. 186, s. 16; C. S. 2283(p).)

§ 72-25. Rules prescribed by state board of health. Inspections. Rating. — For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article the state board of health is authorized and required to prepare reasonable rules and regulations, and an official score card for showing numerically the rating of hotels and restaurants that come within the meaning of this article. The state board of health, through its officers or agents, shall inspect all hotels and restaurants coming within the meaning of this article at least once a year, and give to every hotel and restaurant inspected a rating in accordance with the aforementioned score card. It shall be the duty of the inspector to leave with the management of said hotel or restaurant at the time of inspection a copy of his report. The said board shall publish at various times the ratings given to the various hotels and restaurants that have been inspected by its officers or agents, and shall furnish to each hotel and restaurant a certificate with the rating given to the hotel stated thereon. The proprietor or manager of the hotel or restaurant, upon the receipt of the aforesaid certificate, shall post it in a conspicuous place where it may be easily observed by guests, and shall remove and destroy the said certificate one year after the date written thereon, or sooner when called upon to do so by an officer or agent of the state board of health. When more than one inspection of a hotel or restaurant is made within any one year, the state board of health shall issue a new certificate of inspection, and upon the receipt of the new certificate the proprietor or manager of the hotel or restaurant shall remove and destroy the certificate previously issued and replace it with the later certificate. (1921, c. 186, s. 18; C. S. 2283(r).)

(1921, c. 186, s. 20; C. S. 2283(t).)

§ 72-29. Inspector to swear out warrants.—It shall be the duty of the inspector, in case he shall have knowledge of any violation of this article, to swear out a warrant against the person offending. (1921, c. 186, s. 21; C. S. 2283(u).)

§ 72-43. Operation without license made misdemeanor.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to engage in such business without first obtaining a license therefor. § 72-46. State board of health to regulate sanitary conditions of hotels, cafes, etc.—For the better protection of the public health, the state board of health is hereby authorized, empowered, and directed to prepare and enforce rules and regulations governing the sanitation of hotels, cafes, restaurants, tourist homes, tourist camps, summer camps, lunch and drink stands, sandwich manufacturing establishments, and all other establishments where food is prepared, handled, and served to the public at wholesale or retail for pay, or where transient guests are served food or provided with lodging for pay. The state board of health is also authorized, empowered, and directed to prepare a system of grading all such places, and no such establishment shall operate which receives a grade less than C. § 72-47. Chapter 73. Mills.

Art. 1. Public Mills.

Art. 2. Condemnation for Mill by Owner of One Bank of Stream.

Art. 3. Condemnation for Races, Waterways, etc., by Owner of Mill or Millsite.

Art. 4. Recovery of Damages for Erection of Mill.

Art. 1. Public Mills.

§ 73-1. Public mills defined. — Every water grist-mill, steam mill, or wind-mill, that grinds for toll, is a public mill. (Rev., s. 2119; Code, s. 1846; R. C., c. 71, s. 1; 1777, c. 122, s. 1; C. S. 2531.)

Cited in Hyatt v. Myers, 73 N. C. 232, 240; Branch v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 77 N. C. 347, 349.

§ 73-2. Miller to grind according to turn; tolls regulated.—All millers of public mills shall grind according to turn, and shall well and sufficiently grind the grain brought to their mills, if the water will permit, and shall take no more toll for grinding than one-eighth part of the indian corn and wheat, and one-fourteenth part for chopping grain of any kind; and every miller and keeper of a mill making default therein shall, for each offense, forfeit and pay five dollars to the party injured: Provided, that the owner may grind his own grain at any time. (Rev., s. 2120; Code, s. 1847; R. C., c. 71, s. 6; 1777, c. 122, s. 10; 1793, c. 402; 1905, c. 694; 1907, c. 367; C. S. 2532.)

Local Modification.—Bertie, Hertford, Hyde: 1933, c. 150; Chowan: 1937, c. 4; Cleveland: 1933, c. 158; Franklin, Northampton: 1929, c. 129; Lenoir: 1929, c. 139; Pamlico, Robeson: 1929, c. 311; Pender: 1933, c. 298; Sampson: 1937, c. 164.

§ 73-3. Measures to be kept; tolls by weight or measure.—All millers shall keep in their mills the following measures, namely, a half-bushel and peck of full measure, and also proper toll-dishes for each measure; but the toll allowed by law may be taken by weight or measure at the option of the miller and customer. (Rev., s. 2121; Code, s. 1848; 1885, c. 202; R. C., c. 71, s. 7; 1777, c. 122, s. 11; C. S. 2533.)

§ 73-4. Keeping false toll-dishes misdemeanor.—If any owner, by himself or servant, keeping any mill, shall keep any false toll-dishes, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3679; Code, s. 1848; R. C., c. 71, s. 7; 1777, c. 122, s. 11; C. S. 2534.)

"False Toll Dishes" Defined.—The words "false toll dish," as used in the statute, mean a toll dish measuring more than one-eighth of a half bushel. State v. Perry, 50 N. C. 252. The measure kept need not be averred in the indictment. Id.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—An indictment for keeping false toll dishes was sufficiently supported by proving measures ot one-seventh and one-sixth of a half bushel were kept. State v. Perry, 50 N. C. 252.

But an indictment for keeping a false toll dish is not sustained by proof that the mill owner took one-sixth part of each half bushel with a half gallon toll dish. State v. Nixon, 50 N. C. 257.

Art. 2. Condemnation for Mill by Owner of One Bank of Stream.

§ 73-5. Special proceedings; parties; summons.—Any person wishing to build a water mill, who has land on only one side of a stream, shall issue a summons returnable to the superior court of the county in which the land sought to be condemned, or some part of it, lies, against the persons in possession and the owners of the land on the opposite side of the stream, and against such others as have an interest in the controversy, and the procedure shall be as is provided in other special proceedings, except so far as the same may be modified by this chapter. (Rev., s. 2122; Code, s. 1849; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 1; C. S. 2535.)

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of eminent domain proceedings, see §§ 40-1 et seq.

Corporation That Erects Mills Generally.—The Legislature, in providing for the condemnation of land for the purpose of erecting mills thereon, classifies a corporation that erects mills generally as one of those private corporations which enjoys a prerogative franchise because of some powers or duties, which it is to perform for the public, and to that extent is quasi public. Bass v. Roanoke Nav., etc., Co., 111 N. C. 439, 454, 16 S. E. 402.

Withdrawal of Verbal Consent to Maintain Dam.—The plaintiff built a mill, and, with the verbal consent of the defendant, constructed a dam across a stream upon land of the latter after the mill had been in operation for several years, the defendant withdrew his consent to the further use of the land for this purpose, and notified the plaintiff to level the dam, which he failed to do. Thereupon the defendant caused the obstruction to be removed. In an action by the plaintiff for damages, it was held that the plaintiff should have taken a conveyance of the easement, or pursued the remedy pointed out for the condemnation of land for mill purposes. Kivett v. McKeithan, 90 N. C. 106.

Cited in Benbow v. Robbins, 71 N. C. 338; Gwaltney v. Scottish Carolina Timber, etc., Co., 111 N. C. 547, 550, 564, 16 S. E. 692.

§ 73-6. Commissioners to be appointed.—If no just cause is shown against the building of such mill, the court shall appoint three freeholders, one of whom shall be chosen by the plaintiff, another by the defendants, and the third by the court, or if the plaintiff or defendants refuse or fail, or unreasonably delay to name a commissioner, the court shall name one in lieu of such delinquent party. These commissioners may be changed from time to time by permission of the court for just cause shown. (Rev., s. 2123; Code, s. 1850; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 2; C. S. 2536.)

Right of Appeal.—Defendants have a right to appeal from an interlocutory order of the court appointing freeholders to view, lay off and value land for a mill site. Minor v. Harris, 61 N. C. 322.

§ 73-7. Meeting to be appointed and commissioners notified; witnesses examined.—The third commissioner shall cause the others to be notified of the time and place of meeting, and shall preside at their meetings. They may, if necessary, summon and examine witnesses, who shall be sworn by the presiding commissioner. Any commissioner named by or for either of the parties who, without just cause, fails to attend any meeting notified by the president, shall forfeit and pay to the opposite party fifty dollars; and if the president, in like manner, unreasonably delays to notify the other commissioners of a meeting, or fails to attend one that is appointed, he shall forfeit and pay to the plaintiff fifty dollars, and to the defendant a like sum. (Rev., s. 2124; Code, s. 1851; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 3; C. S. 2537.)

§ 73-8. Oath and duty of commissioners.—The commissioners shall be sworn by some officer qualified to administer an oath to act impartially between the parties, and to perform the duties herein imposed on them honestly and to the best of their ability. They shall view the premises where the mill is proposed to be built, and shall lay off and value a portion of the land of the plaintiff, not to exceed one acre in area, and an equal area of land of the defendants opposite thereto, and report their proceedings to the court within a reasonable time, not exceeding sixty days. (Rev., s. 2125; Code, s. 1852; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 4; C. S. 2538.)

§ 73-9. Contents of commissioners' report.—The report of the commissioners shall set forth:

1. The location, quantities and value of the several areas laid off by them.

2. Whether either of them includes houses, gardens, orchards or other immediate conveniences.

3. Whether the proposed mill will overflow another mill or create a nuisance in the neighborhood.

4. Any other matter upon which they have been directed by the court to report, or which they may think necessary to the doing of full justice between the parties. (Rev., s. 2126; Code, s. 1853; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 5; C. S. 2539.)

§ 73-10. When building not to be allowed.—If the area laid off on the land of either party take away houses, gardens, orchards, or other immediate conveniences; or if the mill proposed will overflow another mill, or will create a nuisance in the neighborhood, the court shall not allow the proposed mill to be built. (Rev., s. 2127; Code, s. 1854; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 6; C. S. 2540.)

Cross Reference.—As to restrictions on condemnation of dwelling houses, gardens and burial grounds, see § 40-10.

In General.—The court is forbidden to confirm a report which takes away houses, etc., even though erected before the proceedings are commenced. Burgess v. Clark, 35 N. C. 109.

Denial of Injunction.—An injunction will not be granted to restrain the erection of a dam when money damages will suffice. Burnett v. Nicholson, 72 N. C. 334.

§ 73-11. Power of court on return of report.—If the report is in favor of building the proposed mill, and is confirmed, then the court may, in its discretion, allow either the plaintiff or defendant to erect such mill at the place proposed, and shall order the costs, and the value of the opposite area, to be paid by the party to whom such leave is granted; and upon such payment, the party to whom such leave is granted shall be vested with title in fee to the opposite area. Such payment may be made into court for the use of the parties entitled thereto. (Rev., s. 2128; Code, s. 1855; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 7; C. S. 2541.)

§ 73-12. Time for beginning and building mill; to be kept up.— The person to whom leave is granted shall, within one year, begin to build such water mill, and shall finish the same within three years; and thereafter keep it up for the use and ease of its customers, or such as shall be customers to it; otherwise, the said land shall return to the person from whom it was taken, or to such other person as shall have his right, unless the time for finishing the mill, for reasons approved by the court, be enlarged. (Rev., s. 2129; Code, s. 1856; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 8; C. S. 2542.)

§ 73-13. Rebuilding mill after destruction.—If a water mill belonging to a minor, a person of unsound mind, or imprisoned, falls, burns, or is otherwise destroyed, such person and his heirs shall have three years to rebuild and repair the same, and any person under any disability aforesaid shall have three years from the removal of the disability. (Rev., s. 2130; Code, s. 1857; 1903, c. 74, ss. 1, 2; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 9; C. S. 2543.)

Art. 3. Condemnation for Races, Waterways, etc., by Owner of Mill or Millsite.

§ 73-14. Special proceedings; summons.—Any person who has land on one or both sides of a stream and wishes to build a water mill, or has a water-mill already built and may find it necessary for the better operation of said mill or the building of the said mill to convey water either to or from his mill by ditch, waterway, drain, mill-race or tail-race, or in any other manner, over the lands of any other person, or erect a dam to pond said water over the lands of any other person, or raise any dam already built, may make application by petition in writing to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the said lands to be affected, or a greater part thereof, are situated, for the right to so convey the said water or pond the same by the erection of a dam or the raising of any dam already built; and the procedure shall be as in other special proceedings. (Rev., s. 2131; 1905, c. 534, s. 1a, k; C. S. 2544.)

§ 73-15. Contents of petition. — The petition shall specify the lands to be affected, the name of the owner of said lands, and the character of the ditch, race, waterway or drain or pond intended to be made, and said owner or owners shall be made parties defendant. The petition shall state the distance desired to be condemned on each side of the ditch, waterway or drain to be constructed or erected, and not more than thirty feet from each bank can be condemned. (Rev., s. 2132; 1905, c. 534, s. 1b; C. S. 2545.)

§ 73-16. Commissioners to be appointed.—Upon the hearing of the petition, if the prayer thereof be granted, the clerk shall appoint three disinterested persons qualified to act as jurors, and not connected either by blood or marriage with the parties, appraisers to assess the damage, if any, that will accrue to the said lands by the contemplated work, and shall issue a notice to them to meet upon the premises on a day specified, not to exceed ten days from the date of said notice. (Rev., s. 2133; 1905, c. 534, s. 1c; C. S. 2546.)

§ 73-17. Oath and duty of commissioners.—The appraisers having met, shall take an oath before some officer qualified to administer oaths to faithfully perform their duty and to do impartial justice in the case, and shall then examine all the lands in any way to be affected by the said work and assess the damage thereto and make report thereof under their hands and seals to the clerk from whom the notice issued, who shall have power to confirm the same. (Rev., s. 2134; 1905, c. 534, s. 1d; C. S. 2547.)

§ 73-18. Assessment of damages.—In determining the amount of such compensation to be paid to the owners of the said lands and assessing the damages thereto by reason of the erection or construction of such waterway, ditch, drain or dam, they shall make an allowance or deduction on account of any benefits which the parties in interest may derive from the construction or erection of such waterway, ditch, drain or dam, and shall ascertain the damages, as near as may be, to the extent it may damage each acre of land so appropriated or occupied by the said mill-owner. The damage assessed by the appraisers under this article shall include all damages that the owners shall thereafter suffer or be entitled to by reason of the construction of the said waterways, races, ditches or dams. (Rev., s. 2135; 1905, c. 534, s. 1e, m; C. S. 2548.)

§ 73-19. When commissioners' report not to be affirmed.—If the area laid off on the lands of either party take away houses, gardens, orchards or immediate conveniences, or if the mill proposed or erected will overflow another mill of pond water within two hundred feet of another mill, or will overflow or pond water within two hundred feet of the millsite or premises of a person who has the right under this chapter, or by the authority of law, to rebuild a mill after its destruction, or if the mill create a nuisance in the neighborhood, the court shall not allow the report of the appraisers to be affirmed. (Rev., s. 2136; 1905, c. 534, s. 1g; C. S. 2549.)

§ 73-20. When petitioner may enter on lands.—After the return of the appraisers and the confirmation thereof the petitioner shall have full right and power to enter upon said lands and make such ditches, waterways, drains, races or other necessary works and construct such dams: Provided, he has first paid or tendered the damage assessed as above to the owner of such lands or his known or recognized agent in this state. If the owner is a nonresident and has no known agent in this state, the amount so assessed shall be paid by the petitioner into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county for the use of such owner: Provided further, that the mill-owner shall not be compelled to pay said damages so assessed unless he shall enter upon such lands and make ditches, drains or other works or erect such dam. (Rev., s. 2137; 1905, c. 534, s. 11; C. S. 2550.)

§ 73-21. Owner of mills and millsites protected.—No other person shall have the right to erect or maintain any dam, ditch, waterway, drain or race that will overflow or pond water within two hundred feet of the millsite or premises of any person or body corporate who shall have erected a mill, dam, ditch, drain or race under the provisions of this chapter, or of any millsite owned by any person who has the right under this chapter, or by the authority of law, to rebuild a mill after its destruction. When any person violates the provisions of this section the owner of said mill or millsite shall have a right of action against said person to tear down said dam or other works so built or erected to the extent herein forbidden and to abate the same as prescribed by law for the abatement of nuisances. (Rev., s. 2138; 1905, c. 534, s. 1h; C. S. 2551.)

§ 73-22. Report to be registered.—The petitioner, or any other person interested, may have the said assessment registered upon the certificate of the clerk, and shall pay the register the usual legal fees for registering such instruments in his office. (Rev., s. 2139; 1905, c. 534, s. 1i; C. S. 2552.)

§ 73-23. Fees of appraisers.—Each appraiser shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for each day actually employed in making said assessment, to be paid by the petitioner. (Rev., s. 2140; 1905, c. 534, s. 1j; C. S. 2553.)

§ 73-24. Obstructing mill races or dams a misdemeanor.—Any person who shall obstruct any drain, ditch or dam constructed under this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., 3381; 1905, c. 534, s. 1l; C. S. 2554.)

Art. 4. Recovery of Damages for Erection of Mill.

§ 73-25. Action in superior court; procedure.—Any person conceiving himself injured by the erection of any grist-mill, or mill for other useful purposes, may issue his summons returnable before the judge of the superior court of the county where the damaged land or any part thereof lies, against the persons authorized to be made parties defendant. In his complaint he shall set forth in what respect and to what extent he is injured, together with such other matters as may be necessary to entitle him to the relief demanded. The court shall then proceed to hear and determine all the questions of law and issues of fact arising on the pleadings as in other civil actions. (Rev., s. 2141; Code, s. 1858; 1876-7, c. 197, s. 1; C. S. 2555.)

Exclusiveness of Remedy.—Ordinarily, in cases to which this section applies, the remedy given must be pursued. Kinsland v. Kinsland, 186 N. C. 760, 120 S. E. 358.

Section Does Not Apply to Trespass.—The remedy under this section does not apply to an action for damages for a trespass committed on the plaintiff's land. Henley v. Wilson, 77 N. C. 216.

Sufficiency of Description.—A petition for damages, caused by the erection of a mill upon the stream below, which described it as a "grist-mill" without calling it a public mill, or a grist-mill grinding for toll, was sufficient. Little v. Stanback, 63 N. C. 285.

Proper Issue.—In an action for damages resulting from ponding water upon plaintiff's land, caused by the erection of defendant's milldam, an issue involving the amount of annual damage done thereby is the proper one to be submitted to the jury. Hester v. Broach, 84 N. C. 252.

Procedure to Assess Damages.—In a petition for damages for ponding water back, where, in the county court the plaintiff's right to relief is denied, the proper course is to impanel a jury to try the allegations made in bar of such right, and if such allegations are found for the plaintiff, the proper course is then to order a jury on the premises to assess the damages, but in all cases where there is an appeal to the superior court, the facts are to be ascertained by a jury at bar, but in that court, those issues pertaining to the question of relief, and those issues as to that of damages, are to be separately submitted. Jones v. Clarke, 52 N. C. 418.

Easement Limited to Mill Purposes.—Where the lower proprietor has acquired an easement in the lands of the upper proprietor to pond water back thereon from a dam erected on his own land to operate a public mill, the exercise of this right under the easement does not affect the title to the submerged land of the upper proprietor or subject the upper proprietor to an action for damages that will start the running of the statute of limitations, nor will this use of the water ponded on the land of the upper proprietor by the lower proprietor for fishing with hook and seine ripen into his exclusive use for these purposes. Thomas v. Morris, 190 N. C. 244, 129 S. E. 623.

Liability for Defect in Bridge.—Where water was thrown, by the erection of a mill dam, upon the highway, and the former proprietor of the mill had built bridges over the water, which, during his ownership, he repaired, and which were also repaired by the present proprietor, who did no other work on the roads, it was held that the present proprietor was answerable in damages to an individual who sustained an injury by reason of a defect in one of the bridges. Mulholland v. Brownrigg, 9 N. C. 349.

Proof of Ownership.—In an action for overflowing the plaintiff's land, he need not prove his title, though it be set forth in the declaration, for possession alone is sufficient to support this action against a wrongdoer. Yeargain v. Johnston, 1 N. C. 180, cited in notes in 41 L. R. A. 749; 59 L. R. A. 901.

Plaintiff Entitled to Nominal Damage.—Instructions to a jury, that if a plaintiff sustains no injury from the ponding of water upon his mill wheel, still he is entitled to nominal damages, are correct. Little v. Stanback, 63 N. C. 285, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 819.

A motion for a new trial for failure of the court to instruct the jury to return at least nominal damages, because some overflow was admitted, it appearing that no such instruction was asked, that the admission was qualified and the testimony conflicting, and that there was evidence to show that no damage was actually done, was properly refused in the discretion of the court. McGee v. Fox, 107 N. C. 766, 12 S. E. 369.

Same—Injury Unnecessary.—In an action for damages for the maintenance of a dam across a stream, the plaintiff is entitled to recover nominal damages, without showing an injury capable of being estimated, or one that is perceptible in the sense that it is attended with some actual damage; for the mere fact of ponding back the water on plaintiff's premises is sufficient to entitle him to nominal damages. Chaffin v. Fries Mfg. Co., 135 N. C. 95, 47 S. E. 226, rehearing denied in 136 N. C. 364, 48 S. E. 770.

If the water be ponded back on the land of another by the erection of a milldam, he is entitled, in the remedy by petition, to nominal damages, whether there be actual damage or not. Wright v. Stowe, 49 N. C. 516.

Measure of Damages.—The measure of damages for backing water on land by means of a dam is the difference in the value of the land before and after the injury complained of. Borden v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 174 N. C. 72, 93 S. E. 442.

Permanent Damages.—In an action for backing water on plaintiff's land by means of a dam, the plaintiff is entitled to permanent damages, past, present, and prospective. Borden v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 174 N. C. 72, 93 S. E. 424.

Damages to Health.—Damages may be given for injury to health as well as to land by overflowing. Gillet v. Jones, 18 N. C. 339. See also, Waddy v. Johnson, 27 N. C. 333.

Exemplary Damages.—In an action for overflowing plaintiff's land by the erection of a milldam, where a recovery has been had before, and the nuisance was not abated, plaintiff can recover sufficient exemplary damages to compel an abatement of the nuisance. Carruthers v. Tillman, 2 N. C. 501, cited in 59 L. R. A. 881.

Damage Only When Stream is Swollen.—Where the erection of a mill on a stream causes the water to overflow the land of a proprietor above only when the stream is swollen, that circumstance will not excuse such party from damages altogether, but will only diminish the quantum of such damages. Pugh v. Wheeler, 19 N. C. 50, cited in notes in 30 L. R. A. 667; 41 L. R. A. 749; 59 L. R. A. 819, 877.

Decrease of Custom.—Where, in suit for damages for ponding water, it appeared that plaintiff sustained injury to his mill by reason of defendant's erecting another mill and dam lower down on the same stream, the measure of damages was the amount of the damages actually sustained by plaintiff up to the time of trial; and, in estimating the same, the decrease of custom (in the matter of toll) could not be considered. Burnett v. Nicholson, 86 N. C. 99, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 896.

Counterclaim Inadmissible.—In an action for damages for ponding water back on plaintiffs' land, it was no error for the judge to charge that defendants could not set up as offset and counterclaim any benefit which plaintiff had received thereby, and add that the jury should, upon all the evidence, ascertain if plaintiff had sustained any damage. McGee v. Fox, 107 N. C. 766, 12 S. E. 369.

Action May Be Brought at Any Time.—Ponding a stream so as to throw the water over the land of a proprietor above, which the water did not before cover, gives him a good cause of action at any time when he may wish to use his land, unless he has granted the easement, either actually, or by presumption of law from the length of time he has permitted the easement to be enjoyed. Pugh v. Wheeler, 19 N. C. 50.

Easement Not Granted by Payment of Judgment.—The payment of a judgment for ponding water by a milldam does not amount to the purchase by defendant of an easement to pond back water on plaintiff's land. Candler v. Asheville Elect. Co., 135 N. C. 12, 47 S. E. 114.

§ 73-26. When dams, etc., abated as nuisances.—When damages are recovered in final judgment in such civil actions, and execution issues and is returned unsatisfied, and the plaintiff is not able to collect the same either because of the insolvency of the defendant or by reason of the exemptions allowed to defendant, the judge shall, on the facts being made to appear before him by affidavit or other evidence, order that the dam, or portion of the dam, or other cause creating the injury, shall be abated as a nuisance, and he shall have power to make all necessary orders to effect this purpose. (Rev., s. 2142; Code, s. 1859; 1876-7, c. 197, s. 3; C. S. 2556.)

When Applicable.—This section applies where water is ponded upon the plaintiff's land by a dam constructed on the property of another or where a trespass of like character is committed, because at common law an action could be brought each day so long as the trespass continued. But the statute does not apply and was never intended to apply to an actual entry upon the complainant's premises and the construction thereon of a dam for the purpose of ponding water and retaining possession. Kinsland v. Kinsland, 188 N. C. 810, 811, 125 S. E. 625.

Denial of Injunction.—An injunction will not be granted to restrain the erection of a dam whereby the mill wheel of the plaintiff is flooded so as to become useless. Burnett v. Nicholson, 72 N. C. 334.

For such an injury damages will adequately compensate, and should the annual damage exceed twenty dollars the plaintiff is remitted to his common-law action, and can compel an abatement of the nuisance. Burnett v. Nicholson, 72 N. C. 334.

Where the owner of land adjoining an old mill site sought to enjoin the erection of a new mill, and it was ascertained by a verdict, that the mill, though injurious to the health of the plaintiff's family, was advantageous to the public, relief was refused; especially as the old mill was erected before the plaintiff purchased. Eason v. Perkins, 17 N. C. 38.

When Injunction Granted.—In the case of the erection of a milldam, a court of equity will not interfere by injunction, unless it be shown that it will be a public nuisance, or, if it will be a private nuisance only to an individual, unless it manifestly appears, that so great a difference will exist between the injury to the individual and the public convenience as will bear no comparison, or that the erection of the dam will be followed by irreparable mischief. Bradsher v. Lea, 38 N. C. 301.

Existence of Another Remedy.—On application for an injunction to restrain the defendant from building a new mill, on the ground that the construction of the dam would injure the land of the plaintiff and the health of his family, testimony being heard, the court held that it is not every slight or doubtful injury that will justify the use of the extraordinary power of injunction to restrain a man from using his property as his interests may demand, especially as, if the injury apprehended should result, the complainant may resort to law for damages. Wilder v. Strickland, 55 N. C. 386, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 851.

When Demand and Allegation of Insolvency Unnecessary.—The demand for damages in the complaint for ponding water upon and injuring the lands of the upper proprietor required by this section, is not necessary when the relief sought is to enjoin the maintenance of a dam on the plaintiff's own land by the defendant's trespass thereon, and the abatement of the nuisance thus caused, and the trespass being continuing, the allegation of defendant's insolvency is not necessary. Kinsland v. Kinsland, 188 N. C. 810, 125 S. E. 625.

Cited in Hester v. Broach, 84 N. C. 252.

§ 73-27. Judgment for annual sum as damages.—A judgment giving to the plaintiff an annual sum by way of damages shall be binding between the parties for five years from the issuing of the summons, if the mill is kept up during that time, unless the damages are increased by raising the water or otherwise.

In all cases where the final judgment of the court assesses the yearly damage of the plaintiff as high as twenty dollars, nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prevent the plaintiff, his heirs or assigns, from suing as heretofore, and in such case the final judgment aforesaid shall be binding only for the year's damage preceding the issuing of the summons. (Rev., ss. 2143, 2144; Code, ss. 1860, 1861; 1868-9, c. 158, ss. 12, 14; C. S. 2557.)

Assessment Cannot Be Beyond Preceding Year.—In proceedings under the statute for ponding water on plaintiff's land, the jury have no right to go back further than one year in assessing damages, but if they do, the error may be corrected by the court only giving judgment for one year preceding the issuing of the summons. Goodson v. Mullen, 92 N. C. 207.

Judgment May Be for Sum in Gross.—Where, in an action for damages to land by ponding water on it, the jury found that the land was damaged eighty dollars per year, it was not erroneous for the court to give judgment for a sum in gross, and not for each year's damages. Goodson v. Mullen, 92 N. C. 207, 211.

Recurring Causes of Action.—Case for nuisance in erecting a mill will lie for every fresh continuance after action brought; heavy damages are not usual in the first verdict, but in a second action the damages should be high to compel an abatement of the nuisance. —— v. Deberry, 2 N. C. 248, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 836.

Conclusiveness of Damages.—In a proceeding to recover damages for ponding water by a milldam, the verdict of the jury and the judgment of the court thereon are conclusive as to the assessment of damages, up to the time when such judgment was rendered. An application for relief from damages, assessed for a period subsequent to the time of the judgment, can only be heard if the dam is taken away or lowered. Beatty v. Conner, 34 N. C. 341.

Judgment Not Res Judicata.—An action to abate a dam and for damages to land caused by the ponding back of water was submitted to arbitrators to find whether plaintiffs were entitled to damages, and, if so, distinguishing in finding the same between those from permanent injuries and annual damages for five years from a certain date. The arbitrators assessed "the permanent damage of the plaintiffs to this date to their lands" at a certain sum, and also awarded a certain annual damage for each of the five years. Judgment was entered on the award, the judgment providing that the execution should be subject to the provisions of section 73-26. The judgment was not res judicata of plaintiff's right to recover damages after the termination of the five-year period for all except a fresh injury, since the judgment contemplated the removal of the dam at the end of the five years. Candler v. Asheville Elect. Co., 135 N. C. 12, 47 S. E. 114.

§ 73-28. Final judgment; costs and execution.—If the final judgment of the court is that the plaintiff has sustained no damage, he shall pay the costs of his proceeding; but if the final judgment is in favor of the plaintiff, he shall have execution against the defendant for one year's damage, preceding the issuing of the summons, and for all costs: Provided, that if the damage adjudged does not amount to five dollars, the plaintiff shall recover no more costs than damages. And if the defendant does not annually pay the plaintiff, his heirs or assigns, before it falls due, the sum adjudged as the damages for that year, the plaintiff may sue out execution for the amount of the last year's damage, or any part thereof which may remain unpaid. (Rev., s. 2145; Code, s. 1862; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 15; C. S. 2558.)

Chapter 74. Mines and Quarries.

Art. 1. Operation of Mines and Quarries.

Art. 2. Inspection of Mines and Quarries.

Art. 1. Operation of Mines and Quarries.

§ 74-1. Lessor not held partner of lessee.—No lessor of property, real or personal, for mining purposes, although the lessor may receive an uncertain sum of the proceeds or net profits, or any other consideration, which, though uncertain at first, may afterwards become certain, shall be held as a partner of the lessee; nor shall any of the legal or equitable relations or liabilities of copartners exist between them, unless it is so stipulated in the contract between the lessor and lessee. (Rev., s. 4930; Code, s. 3292; R. C., c. 72; 1830, c. 46; C. S. 6896.)

Cross Reference.—For provision making this article applicable to quarries, see § 74-24.

§ 74-2. Minors under sixteen not to be employed.—No minor under sixteen years of age shall be allowed to work in any mine, and in all cases of minors applying for work the agent of such mine shall see that the provisions of this section are not violated; and the inspector may, when doubt exists as to the age of any person found working in any mine, examine under oath such person and his parents, or other witnesses, as to his age. (Rev., s. 4931; 1897, c. 251, s. 7; 1919, c. 100, s. 6; C. S. 6897.)

§ 74-3. Operator to furnish timber. — The owner, agent, or operator of every coal mine shall keep a supply of timber constantly on hand, and shall deliver the same to the working place of the miner, and no miner shall be held responsible for accident which may occur in the mine where the provisions of this section have not been complied with by the owner, agent, or operator thereof, resulting directly or indirectly from the failure to deliver such timber. (Rev., s. 4932; 1897, c. 251, s. 8; C. S. 6898.)

§ 74-4. Unused mines to be fenced.—All underground entrances to any place not in actual course of working or extension shall be properly fenced across the whole width of such entrance so as to prevent persons from inadvertently entering the same. (Rev., s. 4933; 1897, c. 251, s. 5; C. S. 6899.)

§ 74-5. Means of ingress and egress provided.—No owner or agent of any coal mine worked by shaft shall permit any person to work therein unless there are, to every seam of coal worked in such mine, at least two separate outlets, separated by natural strata of not less than one hundred feet in breadth, by which shafts or outlets distinct means of ingress and egress are always available to the persons employed in the mine; but it is not necessary for the two outlets to belong to the same mine if the persons employed therein have safe, ready, and available means of ingress or egress by not less than two openings. This section shall not apply to opening a new mine while being worked for the purpose of making communications between the two outlets, so long as not more than twenty persons are employed at one time in such mine; neither shall it apply to any mine or part of a mine in which the second outlet has been rendered unavailable by reason of the final robbing of pillars previous to abandonment, as long as not more than twenty persons are employed therein at any one time. The cage or cages and other means of egress shall at all times be available for the persons employed when there is no second outlet. The escapement shafts shall be fitted with safe and available appliances, which shall always be kept in a safe condition, by which the persons employed in the mine may readily escape in case an accident occurs; and in no case shall an air shaft with a ventilating furnace at the bottom be construed to be an escapement shaft within the meaning of this section. To all other coal mines, whether slopes or drifts, two such openings or outlets must be provided within twelve months after shipments of coal have commenced from such mine; and in case such outlets are not provided as herein stipulated, it shall not be lawful for the agent or owner of such slope or drift to permit more than ten persons to work therein at any one time. (Rev., s. 4934; 1897, c. 251, s. 4; C. S. 6900.)

§ 74-6. Hoisting engines; how operated.—No owner or agent of any mine operated by a shaft or slope shall place in charge of any engine used for lowering into or hoisting out of mines persons employed therein any but experienced, competent, and sober engineers, and no engineers in charge of such engine shall allow any persons except as may be deputed for such purposes by the owner or agent to interfere with it or any part of the machinery, and no person shall interfere or in any way intimidate the engineer in the discharge of his duties, and in no case shall more than six men ride on any cage or car at one time, and no person shall ride upon a loaded cage or car in any shaft or slope. (Rev., s. 4935; 1897, c. 251, s. 6; 1911, c. 183; C. S. 6901.)

§ 74-7. Ventilation. — The owner or agent of any coal mine, whether shaft, slope, or drift, shall provide and maintain for every such mine an amount of ventilation of not less than one hundred cubic feet per minute per person employed in such mine, which shall be circulated and distributed throughout the mine in such a manner as to dilute, render harmless and expel the poisonous and noxious gases from every working place in the mine. No working place shall be driven more than sixty feet in advance of a break-through or airway, and all break-throughs or airways, except those last made near the working places of the mine, shall be closed up by brattice trap-doors, or otherwise, so that the currents of air in circulation in the mine may spread to the interior of the mine when the persons employed in such mine are at work. All mines governed by this chapter shall be provided with artificial means of producing ventilation, such as forcing or suction fans, exhaust steam furnaces, or other contrivances of such capacity and power as to produce and maintain an abundant supply of air, and all mines generating fire damp shall be kept free from standing gas. (Rev., s. 4936; 1897, c. 251, s. 5; C. S. 6902.)

§ 74-8. Daily examinations; safety lamps.—Every working place shall be examined every morning with a safety lamp by a competent person before any workmen are allowed to enter the mine. All safety lamps used in examining mines, or for working therein, shall be the property of the operator of the mine, and a competent person shall be appointed, who shall examine every safety lamp before it is taken into the workings for use, and ascertain it to be clean, safe, and securely locked, and safety lamps shall not be used until they have been so examined and found safe and clean and securely locked, unless permission be first given by the mine foreman to have the lamps used unlocked. No one except the duly authorized person shall have in his possession a key, or any other contrivance, for the purpose of unlocking any safety lamp in any mine where locked lamps are used. No matches or any other apparatus for striking lights shall be taken into any mine, or parts thereof, except under the direction of the mine foreman. (Rev., s. 4937; 1897, c. 251, ss. 5, 6; C. S. 6903.)

§ 74-9. Report of ventilation.—The mine foreman shall measure the ventilation at least once a week, at the inlet and outlet, and also at or near the face of all the entries, and the measurement of air so made shall be noted on blanks furnished by the inspector; and on the first day of each month the mine boss of each mine shall sign one of such blanks, properly filled with the actual measurement, and present the same to the inspector. (Rev., s. 4938; 1897, c. 251, s. 6; C. S. 6904.)

§ 74-10. Notice of opening or changing mines given.—The owner, agent, or manager of any mine shall give notice to the inspector in the following cases: 1. When any working is commenced for the purpose of opening a new shaft, slope, or mine, to which this chapter applies. 2. When any mine is abandoned, or the working thereof discontinued. 3. When the working of any mine is recommenced after an abandonment or discontinuance for a period exceeding three months. 4. When a squeeze or crush, or any other cause or change, may seem to affect the safety of persons employed in the mine, or when fire occurs. (Rev., s. 4939; 1897, c. 251, s. 7; C. S. 6905.)

§ 74-11. Notice of accidents given.—The owner, agent, or manager of every mine shall, within twenty-four hours next after any accident or explosion, whereby loss of life or personal injury may have been occasioned, send notice, in writing, by mail or otherwise, to the inspector, and shall specify in such notice the character and cause of the accident, and the name or names of the persons killed and injured, with the extent and nature of the injuries sustained. When any personal injury of which notice is required to be sent under this section results in the death of the person injured, notice in writing shall be sent to the inspector within twenty-four hours after such death comes to the knowledge of the owner, agent, or manager; and when loss of life occurs in any mine by explosion, or accident, or results from personal injuries so received, the owner, agent, or manager of such mine shall notify the coroner of the county in which such mine is situated, and the coroner shall hold an inquest upon the body of the person whose death has been thus caused, and inquire carefully into the cause thereof, and return a copy of the finding of the jury and all the testimony to the inspector. (Rev., s. 4940; 1897, c. 251, s. 6; C. S. 6906.)

§ 74-12. Report to inspector.—The owner, lessee, or agent in charge of any mine or quarry, or who is engaged in mining or quarrying or producing any mineral whatsoever in this state, shall, on or before the thirtieth day of January in every year, send to the office of the inspector upon blanks to be furnished by him a correct return, specifying with respect to the preceding calendar year the quantity of coal, iron ore, fire-clay, limestone, or other mineral product of such mine or quarry, and the number of persons ordinarily employed in or about such mine or quarry below and above ground, distinguishing the persons and labor below ground and above ground: Provided, that nothing in this section shall require the owner, lessor or agent in charge of any quarry who does not employ more than ten persons to work in any one quarry at the same time, to file or make any of the reports required under this section. (Rev., s. 4941; 1897, c. 251, s. 3; 1939, c. 223, s. 2; C. S. 6907.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1939 amendment the report was required to be made on or before the thirtieth of November.

§ 74-13. Liability for injuries.—For any injury to person or property occasioned by any wilful violation of this chapter, or any wilful failure to comply with its provisions, by any owner, agent, or manager of the mine, a right of action shall accrue to the party injured for any damage he may sustain thereby; and in any case of loss of life by reason of such wilful neglect or failure a right of action shall accrue to the personal representative of the deceased, as in other actions for wrongful death. (Rev., s. 4942; 1897, c. 251, s. 6; C. S. 6908.)

§ 74-14. Punishment for violation.—If any person shall knowingly violate any of the provisions of the law relating to mines or shall do anything whereby the life or health of persons or the security of any mine and machinery is endangered, or if any miner or other person employed in any mine governed by the statutes shall intentionally or wilfully neglect or refuse to securely prop the roof of any working place under his control, or neglect or refuse to obey any orders given by the superintendent of a mine in relation to the security of a mine in the part thereof where he is at work and for fifteen feet back of his working place, or if any miner, workman, or other person shall knowingly injure any water-gauge, barometer, air-course, or brattice, or shall obstruct or throw open any airways, or shall handle or disturb any part of the machinery of the hoisting engine or signaling apparatus or wire connected therewith, or air pipes or fittings, or open a door of the mine and not have the same closed again, whereby danger is produced either to the mine or those that work therein, or shall enter any part of the mine against caution, or shall disobey any order given in pursuance of law, or shall do any wilful act whereby the lives and health of the persons working in the mine or the security of the mine or the machinery thereof is endangered, or if the person having charge of a mine whenever loss of life occurs by accident connected with the machinery of such mine or by explosion shall neglect or refuse to give notice thereof forthwith by mail or otherwise to the inspector and to the coroner of the county in which such mine is situated, or if any such coroner shall neglect or refuse to hold an inquest upon the body of the person whose death has been thus caused, and return a copy of his findings and a copy of all the testimony to the inspector, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned in the county jail not more than thirty days, or both. (Rev., s. 3797; 1897, c. 251, s. 8; C. S. 6909.)

Art. 2. Inspection of Mines and Quarries.

§ 74-15. Commissioner of labor to inspect mines and quarries.—The Commissioner of Labor, acting through the director of the division of standards and inspection of the Department of Labor, shall perform the duties of mine inspector as provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 4943; 1897, c. 251, s. 1; 1931, c. 312; C. S. 6910.)

Cross Reference.—For provision making this article applicable to quarries, see § 74-24.

§ 74-16. Inspector to examine mines.—It shall be the duty of the inspector to examine all the mines in the state as often as possible to see that all the provisions and requirements of this chapter are strictly observed and carried out; he shall particularly examine the works and machinery belonging to any mine, examine into the state and condition of the mines as to ventilation, circulation, and condition of air, drainage, and general security. (Rev., s. 4944; 1897, c. 251, s. 2; C. S. 6911.)

§ 74-17. May enter to make examinations. — For the purpose of making the inspection and examinations provided for in this chapter, the inspector shall have the right to enter any mine at all reasonable times, by night or by day, but in such manner as shall not unnecessarily obstruct the working of the mine; and the owner or agent of such mine is hereby required to furnish the means necessary for such entry and inspection; the inspection and examination herein provided for shall extend to fire-clay, iron ore, and other mines as well as coal mines. (Rev., s. 4945; 1897, c. 251, s. 2; C. S. 6912.)

§ 74-18. Death by accident investigated. — Upon receiving notice of any death resulting from accident it shall be the duty of the inspector to go himself, or send a representative, at once to the mine in which the death occurred and inquire into the cause of the same, and to make a written report fully setting forth the condition of that part of the mine where such death occurred and the cause which led to the same; which report shall be filed by the inspector in his office as a matter of record and for future reference. (Rev., s. 4946; 1897, c. 251, s. 6; C. S. 6913.)

§ 74-19. Record of examinations. — He shall make a record of all examinations of mines, showing the date when examination is made, the condition in which the mines are found, the extent to which the laws relating to mines and mining are observed or violated, the progress made in the improvements and security of life and health sought to be secured by the provisions of this chapter, number of accidents, injuries received, or deaths in or about the mines, the number of mines in the state, the number of persons employed in or about each mine, together with all such other facts and information of public interest, concerning the condition of mines, development and progress of mining in the state as he may think useful and proper, which record shall be filed in the office of the inspector, and as much thereof as may be of public interest to be included in his annual report. (Rev., s. 4947; 1897, c. 251, s. 2; C. S. 6914.)

§ 74-20. Papers to be preserved.—He shall keep in his office and carefully preserve all maps, surveys, and other reports and papers required by law to be filed with him, and so arrange and preserve the same as shall make them a permanent record of ready, convenient, and connected reference. (Rev., s. 4948; 1897, c. 251, s. 3; C. S. 6915.)

§ 74-21. Inspector to enforce law; counsel furnished.—In case of any controversy or disagreement between the inspector and the owner or operator of any mine or the persons working therein, or in case of conditions or emergencies requiring counsel, the inspector may call on the governor for such assistance and counsel as may be necessary. If the inspector finds any of the provisions of this chapter violated or not complied with by any owner, lessee, or agent in charge, unless the same is within a reasonable time rectified, and the provisions of this chapter fully complied with, he shall institute an action in the name of the state to compel the compliance therewith. The inspector shall exercise a sound discretion in the enforcement of this chapter. (Rev., s. 4949; 1897, c. 251, s. 2; C. S. 6916.)

§ 74-22. Operation enjoined when law violated. —On application of the inspector, after suit brought as directed in § 74-21, any court of competent jurisdiction may enjoin or restrain the owner or agent from working or operating such mine until it is made to conform to the provisions of this chapter; and such remedy shall be cumulative, and shall not take the place of or affect any other proceedings against such owner or agent authorized by law for the matter complained of in such action. (Rev., s. 4950; 1897, c. 251, s. 7; C. S. 6917.)

§ 74-23. Report to governor. — The inspector shall annually make report to the governor of all his proceedings, the condition and operation of the different mines of the state, and the number of mines and the number of persons employed in or about such mines, the amount of coal, iron ore, limestone, fire-clay, or other mineral mined in this state; and he shall enumerate all accidents in or about the mines, and the manner in which they occurred, and give all such other information as he thinks useful and proper, and make such suggestions as he deems important relative to mines and mining, and any legislation that may be necessary on the subject for the better preservation of the life and health of those engaged in such industry. (Rev., s. 4951; 1897, c. 251, s. 3; C. S. 6918.)

§ 74-24. Articles one and two made applicable to quarries.—For the purpose of providing for the safety of workers in quarries in North Carolina, the provisions of articles one and two of this chapter, relating to the operation and inspection of mines are hereby made applicable to quarries in so far as such provisions are suitable to the operation and inspection of quarries. (1939, c. 223, s. 1.)

Art. 3. Waterways Obtained.

§ 74-25. Water and drainage rights obtained.— Any person or body corporate engaged or about to engage in mining, who may find it necessary for the furtherance of his operations to convey water either to or from his mine or mines over the lands of any other person or persons, may make application by petition in writing to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the lands to be affected or the greater part are situate, for the right so to convey such water. The owner of the lands to be affected shall be made a party defendant, and the proceeding shall be conducted as other special proceedings. (Rev., s. 4953; Code, ss. 3293, 3294, 3300; 1871-2, c. 158, ss. 1, 3; C. S. 6920.)

Cross Reference.—As to reports not required of small quarries, see § 74-12.

§ 74-26. The petition, what to contain. — The petition shall specify the lands to be affected, the name of the owner of such lands, and the character of the ditch or drain intended to be made. (Rev., s. 4954; Code, s. 3294; 1871-2, c. 158, s. 3; C. S 6921.)

§ 74-27. Appraisers; appointment and duties.— Upon the hearing of the petition, if the prayer thereof be granted, the clerk shall appoint three disinterested persons, qualified to act as jurors, and not connected either by blood or marriage with the parties, appraisers to assess the damage, if any, that will accrue to the lands by the contemplated work, and shall issue a notice to them to meet upon the premises at a day specified, not to exceed ten days from the date of such notice. The appraisers having met, shall take an oath before some officer qualified to administer oaths to faithfully perform their duty and to do impartial justice in the case, and shall then examine all the lands in any way to be affected by such work, and assess the damage thereto, and make report thereof under their hands and seals to the clerk from whom the notice issued. (Rev., s. 4955; Code, ss. 3295, 3296, 3299; 1871-2, c. 158, ss. 4, 5, 9; C. S. 6922.)

§ 74-28. Confirmation of report; payment of damages; rights of petitioner. — After the filing of the report and confirmation thereof by the clerk, who shall have power to confirm or, for good cause, set aside the same, the petitioner shall have full right and power to enter upon such lands and make such ditches, drains, or other necessary work: Provided, he has first paid or tendered the damages, assessed as above, to the owner of such lands or his known and recognized agent, if he be a resident of this state, or have such agent in this state. If the owner be a nonresident and have no known agent in this state, the amount so assessed shall be paid by the petitioner into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county for the use of such owner. (Rev., s. 4957; Code, s. 3298; 1871-2, c. 158, s. 12; C. S. 6923.)

§ 74-29. Registration of report.—The petitioner, or any other person interested, may have the report of the appraisers registered upon the certificate of the clerk and shall pay the register a fee of twenty-five cents therefor. (Rev., s. 4957; Code, s. 3298; 1871-2, c. 158, s. 8; C. S. 6924.)

§ 74-30. Obstructing mining drains. — If any person shall obstruct any drain or ditch constructed under the provisions of this chapter, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3380; Code, s. 3301; 1871-2, c. 158, s. 12; C. S. 6925.)

§ 74-31. Disposition of waste.—In getting out and washing the products of kaolin and mica mines, the persons engaged in such business shall have the right to allow the waste, water, and sediment to run off into the natural courses and streams. (1917, c. 123; 1937, c. 378; C. S. 6926.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment, which made this section applicable to mica mines, provides: "This act shall not affect pending litigation."

Art. 4. Adjustment of Conflicting Claims.

§ 74-32. Liability for damage for trespass. — If any owner or person in possession of any mine or mining claim shall enter upon, either on the surface or underground, any mine or mining claim, the property of another, and shall mine or carry away any valuable mineral therefrom, he shall be liable to the owner of the mine so trespassed upon for double the value of all such mineral mined or carried away and for all other damages; and the value of the mineral mined or carried away shall be presumed to be the amount of the gross value ascertained by an average assay of the excavated material or vein or ledge from which it was taken. If such trespass is wrongfully and wilfully made, punitive damages may be allowed. (1913, c. 51, s. 1; C. S. 6927.)

Action by Cotenant.—Where tenants in common, under the erroneous impression that they owned the fee, removed valuable minerals from the property, upon suit by the other tenant in common for damages under this section and admission by the defendants of the cotenancy, removal and value, plaintiff was entitled to judgment on the pleadings, though not to the damages provided in this section. Jones v. McBee, 222 N. C. 152, 22 S. E. (2d) 226.

Cited in Carolina Mineral Co. v. Young, 211 N. C. 387, 190 S. E. 520.

§ 74-33. Persons entitled to bring suit.—The owner of a mine in this state, or any person in possession under a lease or other contract, may maintain an action to recover damages to such property arising from the operation of any adjacent mine by the owner thereof or other person in possession and working the same under lease or contract, and also to prevent the continuance of the operation of the adjacent mine in such a manner as to injure or endanger the safety of the complainant's mine. (1913, c. 51, s. 1; C. S. 6928.)

§ 74-34. Application and order for survey.—The person entitled to bring an action, as provided in § 74-33, may apply to any judge of the superior court having jurisdiction to grant injunctions and restraining orders, and obtain an order of survey in the following manner: He shall file an affidavit giving the names of the parties and the location as near as may be, of the mine complained of; the location of the plaintiff's mine, and that he has reason to believe that the defendant, or his agents or employees, are or have been trespassing upon his mine, or working the defendant's mine in such a manner as to damage or endanger the plaintiff's property. Upon the filing of the affidavit, the judge shall cause a notice to be issued to the defendant or his agents, stating the time and place and before whom the application will be heard, and requiring them to appear, in not less than ten nor more than twenty days from the date thereof, and show cause why an order of survey should not be granted. Upon the hearing, and for good cause shown, the judge shall grant an order directed to some competent disinterested surveyor or mining engineer, or both, as the case may be, who shall proceed to make the necessary examination and surveys, as directed by the court, and report their action to the court. The persons selected by the judge to make the survey and examination shall be residents of the state, and, before entering upon the discharge of their duty, shall take and subscribe an oath that they will fairly and impartially survey the mines described in the petition. In all other respects, except as stated above, the surveyors appointed by the judge shall proceed as in surveys in disputed boundaries. (1913, c. 51, s. 2; C. S. 6929.)

§ 74-35. Free access to mine for survey.—Upon the order made for the survey in the manner, at the time, and by the persons mentioned in the order, which shall include a representative of the party making the application, who shall not be one of the surveyors, there shall be given free access to the mine for the purpose of survey, and any interference with the persons acting under the order of survey shall be contempt of court and punished accordingly. If the persons named in the order of survey so require, they, with their instruments, shall be carefully lowered and raised in and out of the mine with the cage, bucket, or skip ordinarily used in the shafts of the mine; and they may demand of the owner of the mine, or his manager or agent, that they be so raised and lowered at a speed agreeable to them and not to endanger their comfort and safety or to injure the accuracy of their instruments. The owner of the mine, his managers or agents, shall be liable in damages to the persons making the examination for any injury to them or to their instruments, caused by the careless and negligent operation of any bucket, cage, or skip at such a high rate of speed as to injure the persons or their instruments while being lowered or raised in the mine. (1913, c. 51, s. 2; C. S. 6930.)

§ 74-36. Costs of the survey.—The costs of the order and survey shall be paid by the person making the application; but if he shall maintain an action and recover damages for the injury done or threatened prior to such survey and examination, the costs of the order and survey shall be taxed against the defendant as other costs in the action. The party obtaining the survey shall be liable for any unnecessary injury done to the property examined and surveyed in making the survey. (1913, c. 51, s. 2; C. S. 6931.)

Chapter 75. Monopolies and Trusts.

§ 75-1. Combinations in restraint of trade illegal.—Every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce in the state of North Carolina is hereby declared to be illegal. Every person or corporation who shall make any such contract expressly or shall knowingly be a party thereto by implication, or who shall engage in any such combination or conspiracy, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof such person shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court, whether such person entered into such contract individually or as an agent representing a corporation, and such corporation shall be fined in the discretion of the court not less than one thousand dollars. (1913, c. 41, s. 1; C. S. 2559.)

History of Chapter.—See Shute v. Shute, 176 N. C. 462, 465, 97 S. E. 392.

Monopoly Defined.—"A monopoly consists in the ownership or control of so large a part of the market supply or output of a given commodity as to stifle competition, restrict the freedom of commerce, and give the monopolist control over prices." State v. Atlantic Ice, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 742, 747, 188 S. E. 412, quoting Black's Law Dictionary (3d Ed.), p. 1202.

In the modern and wider sense monopoly denotes a combination, organization, or entity so extensive and unified that its tendency is to suppress competition, to acquire a dominance in the market, and to secure the power to control prices to the public harm with respect to any commodity which people are under a practical compulsion to buy. State v. Atlantic Ice, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 742, 747, 188 S. E. 412, citing Massachusetts v. Dyer, 243 Mass. 472, 138 N. E. 296.

Agreement Not to Compete May Be Forbidden.—Persons and corporations cannot be ordered to compete, but they properly can be forbidden to give directions, or make agreements, not to compete. State v. Craft, 168 N. C. 208, 213, 83 S. E. 772.

Agreement Not to Sell to Particular Individual.—A complaint alleging that defendants conspired and agreed not to sell plaintiff ice, and that as a result thereof plaintiff's business was ruined, fails to state a cause of action, this and the following sections not being applicable. Lineberger v. Colonial Ice Co., 220 N. C. 444, 17 S. E. (2d) 502.

Reduction of Prices to Consuming Public No Defense. — Plaintiff, a carrier by truck, instituted this action against certain railroad companies, to recover damages to his business, which he alleged resulted from an unlawful conspiracy between defendants to reduce transportation rates in order to eliminate plaintiff as a competitor, with the purpose of raising rates after competition had been removed. Defendants alleged that the reduction in rates resulted in lower prices to the consuming public on the products on which the rates had been reduced. Held: The matter alleged does not constitute a defense to the action, since the express policy of the state is against both the raising and lowering of prices by unlawful means for an unlawful purpose, and since the law is interested in preserving competition rather than obtaining for the public temporary benefits from price wars in which competition is extinguished. Patterson v. Southern Ry. Co., 214 N. C. 38, 198 S. E. 364.

A general averment without allegation of specific facts is insufficient to constitute a cause of action, under this and following sections. State v. Standard Oil Co., 205 N. C. 123, 124, 170 S. E. 134.

Stated in Bennett v. Southern Ry. Co., 211 N. C. 474, 191 S. E. 240.

Cited in Patterson v. Southern Ry. Co., 219 N. C. 23, 12 S. E. (2d) 652.

§ 75-2. Any restraint in violation of common law included.—Any act, contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce which violates the principles of the common law is hereby declared to be in violation of § 75-1. (1913, c. 41, s. 2; C. S. 2560.)

Cross Reference.—As to difference between "partial restraint" and "general restraint," see annotations to § 75-5.

Distinction between Common Law and Modern Rules.—Originally at common law, agreements in restraint of trade were held void as being against public policy. The position, however, has been more and more modified by the decisions of the courts until it has come to be the very generally accepted principle that agreements in partial restraint of trade will be upheld when they are "founded on valuable considerations, are reasonably necessary to protect the interests of the parties in whose favor they are imposed, and do not unduly prejudice the public interest." Mar-Hof Co. v. Rosenbacker, 176 N. C. 330, 331, 97 S. E. 169. The distinction may now be made between "general restraint" and "partial restraint." Morehead Sea Food Co. v. Way & Co., 169 N. C. 679, 86 S. E. 603.

§ 75-3. Burden of proof as to reasonableness on defendant.— All contracts, combinations in the form of trust, and conspiracies in restraint of trade or commerce prohibited in §§ 75-1 and 75-2 are hereby declared to be unreasonable and illegal, unless the persons entering into such contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce can show affirmatively upon an indictment or civil action for violation of §§ 75-1 and 75-2 that such contract, combination in the form of trust, conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce does not injure the business of any competitor, or prevent any one from becoming a competitor because his or its business will be unfairly injured by reason of such contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce. (1913, c. 41, s. 3; C. S. 2561.)

§ 75-4. Contracts to be in writing.—No contract or agreement hereafter made, limiting the rights of any person to do business anywhere in the state of North Carolina shall be enforceable unless such agreement is in writing duly signed by the party who agrees not to enter into any such business within such territory: Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to legalize any contract or agreement not to enter into business in the state of North Carolina, or at any point in the state of North Carolina, which contract is now illegal, or which contract is made illegal by any other section of this chapter. (1913, c. 41, s. 4; C. S. 2562.)

§ 75-5. Particular acts defined.—In addition to the matters and things hereinbefore declared to be illegal, the following acts are declared to be unlawful, that is, for any person, firm, corporation, or association directly or indirectly to do or to have any contract, express or knowingly implied, to do any of the acts or things specified in any of the subsections of this section.

1. To agree or conspire with any other person, firm, corporation or association to put down or keep down the price of any article produced in this state by the labor of others, which article the person, firm, corporation or association intends, plans or desires to buy.

2. To make a sale of any goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things of value whatsoever in North Carolina, whether directly or indirectly, or through any agent or employee, upon the condition that the purchaser thereof shall not deal in the goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things of value of a competitor or rival in the business of the person, firm, corporation or association making such sales.

3. To willfully destroy or injure, or undertake to destroy or injure, the business of any opponent or business rival in the state of North Carolina with the purpose or intention of attempting to fix the price of anything of value when the competition is removed.

4. To directly or indirectly buy or sell within the state, through himself or itself, or through any agent of any kind or as agent or principal, or together with or through any allied, subsidiary or dependent person, firm, corporation or association, any article or thing of value which is sold or bought, in the state to injure or destroy or undertake to injure or destroy the business of any rival or opponent, by lowering the price of any article or thing of value sold, so low, or by raising the price of any article or thing of value bought, so high as to leave an unreasonable or inadequate profit for a time, with the purpose of increasing the profit on the business when such rival or opponent is driven out of business, or his or its business is injured.

5. To deal in any thing of value within the state of North Carolina, to give away or sell, at a place where there is competition, such thing of value at a price lower than is charged by such person, firm, corporation or association for the same thing at another place, where there is not good and sufficient reason, on account of transportation or the expense of doing business, for charging less at the one place than at the other, with the view of injuring the business of another.

6. To engage in buying or selling any thing of value in North Carolina, to make or have any agreement or understanding, express or implied, with any other person, firm, corporation or association, not to buy or sell such things of value within certain territorial limits within the state, with intention of preventing competition in selling or to fix the price or prevent competition in buying of such things of value within these limits: Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to prevent an agent from representing more than one principal; but nothing in this proviso shall be construed to authorize two or more principals to employ a common agent for the purpose of suppressing competition or lowering prices: Provided, further, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent a person, firm or corporation from selling his or its business and good will to a competitor, and agreeing in writing not to enter the business in competition with the purchaser in a limited territory, as is now allowed under the common law: Provided, such agreement shall not violate the principles of the common law against trusts and shall not violate the provisions of this chapter. (1913, c. 41, s. 5; C. S. 2563.)

Restrictive Stipulations in Sale.—Transactions involving the sale and disposition of a business trade or profession between individuals with stipulations restrictive of competition on the part of the vendor do not, as a rule, tend to unduly harm the public and are ordinarily sustained to the extent required to afford reasonable protection to the vendee in the enjoyment of property or proprietary rights he has bought and paid for, and to enable a vendor to dispose of his property at its full and fair value. Mar-Hof Co. v. Rosenbacker, 176 N. C. 330, 97 S. E. 169.

Test as to Reasonableness.—A valid contract in partial restraint of trade, while primarily for the advantage of the purchaser of a business, inures to the benefit of the seller by enhancing the value of the good-will and enabling him to obtain a better price for the sale of his business, the test as to territory being whether the restraint agreed upon is such as to afford a fair protection to the interest of the party in whose favor it is given, and not so large as to interfere with the interest of the public; and such will not be held to be unreasonable when they do not affect the public and go no further than to remove the danger to the purchaser of competition with the seller. Morehead Sea Food Co. v. Way & Co., 169 N. C. 679, 86 S. E. 603.

Contract Not to Engage in Competing Business.—A provision of an agreement for the sale of a partner's interest that he would not again engage in the mercantile business in a certain town or near enough thereto to interfere with plaintiff's business was not in violation of this section. Wooten v. Harris, 153 N. C. 43, 68 S. E. 898.

An exchange of the defendant's fish business for stock in the plaintiff company, with an agreement not to engage in similar business for ten years within 100 miles is valid, and not in violation of this section. Morehead Sea Food Co. v. Way, & Co., 169 N. C. 679, 86 S. E. 603.

Reasonableness of Agreement to Raise Price Immaterial.—An agreement among dealers in a necessary article of food, to raise its price, is an indictable offense at the common law, and evidence that dealers controlling a large part of the supply of milk in a town having by agreement raised its price, testimony is irrelevant that a dealer not a party to the agreement had also raised the price of his milk to his customers, or whether the agreement was reasonable or necessary for the article to yield a profit in its sale. State v. Craft, 168 N. C. 208, 83 S. E. 772.

Same—Intent Immaterial. — The intent of milk dealers combining to raise the price of milk is immaterial. State v. Craft, 168 N. C. 208, 83 S. E. 772.

Illegal Division of Territory.—Under a contract dividing a county into separate territory, within which each of the respective parties was not to interfere with the business of the other in operating cotton gins, etc., the plaintiff sold the defendant a cotton ginning plant, the latter agreeing to remove the plant and not to again operate one there, the intent of the agreement was a division of territory, with the object to eliminate competition therein, and the agreement will not be enforced. Shute v. Shute, 176 N. C. 462, 97 S. E. 392.

Exclusive Sale for Specified Period.—A contract made in good faith between a vendor and purchaser of a certain particular make or character of a manufactured product that restricts the former from selling articles of the same make or kind to other dealers within the town wherein the purchaser conducts his mercantile business, and which requires the expenditure of large sums of money and much time in advertising the goods and popularizing them on the local market, does not come within the intent and meaning of this chapter; and in vendor's action for the purchase price the seller may recover damages as a counterclaim for breach of the seller's contract in that respect. Mar-Hof Co. v. Rosenbacker, 176 N. C. 330, 97 S. E. 169.

An agreement that a retailer should handle a certain product upon condition that he should not sell like products of other manufacturers within the same price range is held prohibited by this section, and unenforceable in our courts, and does not fall within subsection (6), permitting, in the absence of an intent to stifle competition, a contract granting the seller an exclusive agency for a product within a certain territory. Florsheim Shoe Co. v. Leader Dept. Store, 212 N. C. 75, 193 S. E. 9.

Contract to Sell at Label Price.—A contract of sale of merchandise for resale by the buyer, which stipulates that the buyer will not sell the merchandise except at label prices and will not sell or permit the sale of any other similar merchandise, is violative of this section. Standard Fashion Co. v. Grant, 165 N. C. 453, 81 S. E. 606.

A contract for sale of cafe and good will for a period of five years does not affect the interest of the public or fall within the terms of subsection 6 of this section. Hill v. Davenport, 195 N. C. 271, 141 S. E. 752.

Discrimination Not Allowed.—Where a public-service corporation has acquired the exclusive right to furnish hydro-electric power and light to municipalities, and to other public-service corporations, for distribution to consumers, including subsidiary companies that it controls, it may not discriminate among its patrons under the same or substantially similar conditions as to the rate charged, or select its customers. North Carolina Public Serv. Co. v. Southern Power Co., 179 N. C. 18, 101 S. E. 593.

Attempt to Drive Competitor out of Business.—An indictment charging that the employees of a rival company in the sale of lawful commodities had combined together to break up their competitor's business by systematically following its salesmen from house to house and place to place and to so abuse, vilify, and harass them as to deter them in their lawful business and to break up their sales; that they falsely represented that their rival company was composed of a set of thieves and liars, endeavoring to cheat and defraud the people, etc., charges a conspiracy indictable at common law. State v. Dalton, 168 N. C. 204, 83 S. E. 693.

Grant of Municipal Franchise.—A private sale of public utilities by the city authorities to an electrical power plant with a grant of a municipal franchise does not create or tend towards a monopoly. Allen v. Reidsville, 178 N. C. 513, 101 S. E. 267.

Ordinance Restricting Sale of Commodity.—A municipal ordinance prohibiting the sale of milk within the city without a permit, is not invalid as tending to create a monopoly although the permit "may be suspended or revoked at any time for cause." State v. Kirkpatrick, 179 N. C. 747, 103 S. E. 65.

Contract in Violation of Section Unenforceable.—A contract made in violation of the terms of this section will not be enforced. Standard Fashion Co. v. Grant, 165 N. C. 453, 81 S. E. 606; Shute v. Shute, 176 N. C. 462, 465, 97 S. E. 392.

Threats to Retaliate unless Competition Withdrawn.—Threats by one ice company that it would sell ice in the town of a second ice company, if that company continued to supply ice to a rival of the first company are not prohibited by this section. Smith v. Morganton Ice Co., 159 N. C. 151, 74 S. E. 961.

The refusal by wholesalers of ice to sell a retailer on the same terms as those offered to other retailers in the city is not a violation of this section, it not appearing that the parties were business competitors. Rice v. Ashville Ice, etc., Co., 204 N. C. 768, 169 S. E. 707.

The violation of this section is made criminal by § 75-6, and as ordinarily the violation of a criminal statute may not be enjoined, individuals who apprehend injury by such violation are afforded a remedy by indictment and prosecution under § 1-5. Carolina Motor Service v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 210 N. C. 36, 185 S. E. 479, 104 A. L. R. 1165.

The provisions of the monopoly statutes apply to railroads just as they do to individuals and other corporations. Bennett v. Southern Ry. Co., 211 N. C. 474, 482, 191 S. E. 240.

Subdivision three sufficiently defines the offense therein prohibited and is constitutional. State v. Atlantic Ice, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 742, 188 S. E. 412.

Coal Dealers Held to Be Competent Witnesses.—Where in the prosecution for violation of subdivision three of this section the State was allowed to introduce the testimony of coal dealers in the same city as to the cost of handling coal, the opinion testimony being based upon complicated and detailed facts relating to costs of buying, shipping, trucking, handling, shrinkage, labor, repairs, etc., the witnesses having had years of experience in operating their respective businesses in the city, it was held that the witnesses were experts and their opinion testimony was competent and was properly received in evidence. State v. Atlantic Ice, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 742, 188 S. E. 412.

Proper Instruction as to Injuring or Destroying Competitors.—In a prosecution for violating this section relating to monopolies, an instruction that a person violates this section if he lowers the price of the product in question for the purpose of injuring or destroying competitors, and then, after competition is removed, he sells at a higher price to the detriment of the public, was held without error. State v. Atlantic Ice, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 742, 188 S. E. 412.

"Willful" Defined.—That willful means the wrongful doing of an act without justification or excuse, was held a correct definition. State v. Atlantic Ice, etc., Co., 210 N. C. 742, 188 S. E. 412.

Combination of Railroads to Eliminate Motor Truck Competition.—A combination of railroads for the purpose of reducing rates on gasoline transportation within a certain area with the intent to eliminate motor truck competition and with the further purpose of raising and fixing a higher rate on the same commodity after the elimination of competition is a violation of this section. Bennett v. Southern Ry. Co., 211 N. C. 474, 191 S. E. 240.

Cited in Brown v. Norfolk So. R. Co., 208 N. C. 423, 181 S. E. 279; Lewis v. Archbell, 199 N. C. 205, 154 S. E. 11.

§ 75-6. § 75-7. Persons encouraging violation guilty. —Any person, being either within or without the state, who encourages or wilfully allows or permits any agent or associates in business in this state to violate any of the provisions of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in § 75-6. (1913, c. 41, s. 6; C. S. 2565.)

§ 75-8. Continuous violations separate offenses. —Where the things prohibited in this chapter are continuous, then in such event, after the first violation of any of the provisions hereof, each week that the violation of such provision shall continue shall be a separate offense. § 75-9. Duty of attorney-general to investigate. —The attorney-general of the state of North Carolina shall have power, and it shall be his duty, to investigate, from time to time, the affairs of all corporations doing business in this state, which are or may be embraced within the meaning of the statutes of this state defining and denouncing trusts and combinations against trade and commerce, or which he shall be of opinion are so embraced, and all other corporations in North Carolina doing business in violation of law; and all other corporations of every character engaged in this state in the business of transporting property or passengers, or transmitting messages, and all other public-service corporations of any kind or nature whatever which are doing business in the state for hire. Such investigation shall be with a view of ascertaining whether the law or any rule of the Utilities Commission or Commission of Banks is being or has been violated by any such corporation, officers or agents or employees thereof, and if so, in what respect, with the purpose of acquiring such information as may be necessary to enable him to prosecute any such corporation, its agents, officers and employees for crime, or prosecute civil actions against them if he discovers they are liable and should be prosecuted. (1913, c. 41, s. 8; 1931, c. 243, s. 5; 1933, c. 134, s. 8; 1941, c. 97, s. 5; C. S. 2567.)

§ 75-10. Power to compel examination. — In performing the duty required in § 75-9, the attorney-general shall have power, at any and all times, to require the officers, agents or employees of any such corporation, and all other persons having knowledge with respect to the matters and affairs of such corporations, to submit themselves to examination by him, and produce for his inspection any of the books and papers of any such corporations, or which are in any way connected with the business thereof; and the attorney-general is hereby given the right to administer oath to any person whom he may desire to examine. He shall also, if it may become necessary, have a right to apply to any judge of the supreme or superior court, after five days notice of such application, for an order on any such person or corporation he may desire to examine to appear and subject himself or itself to such examination, and disobedience of such order shall constitute contempt, and shall be punishable as in other cases of disobedience of a proper order of such judge. (1913, c. 41, s. 9; C. S. 2568.)

§ 75-11. Person examined exempt from prosecution.—No person examined, as provided in § 75-10 shall be subject to indictment, prosecution, punishment or penalty by reason or on account of anything disclosed by him upon such examination, and full immunity from prosecution and punishment by reason or on account of anything so disclosed is hereby extended to all persons so examined. (1913, c. 41, s. 9; C. S. 2569.)

§ 75-12. Refusal to furnish information; false swearing.—Any corporation unlawfully refusing or willfully neglecting to furnish the information required by this chapter, when it is demanded as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than one thousand dollars: Provided, that if any corporation shall in writing notify the attorney-general that it objects to the time or place designated by him for the examination or inspection provided for in this chapter, it shall be his duty to apply to a judge of the supreme or superior court, who shall fix an appropriate time and place for such examination or inspection, and such corporation shall, in such event, be guilty under this section only in the event of its failure, refusal or neglect to appear at the time and place so fixed by the judge and furnish the information required by this chapter. False swearing by any person examined under the provisions of this chapter shall constitute perjury, and the person guilty of it shall be punishable as in other cases of perjury. (1913, c. 41, s. 10; C. S. 2570.)

§ 75-13. Criminal prosecution; solicitors to assist; expenses.—The attorney-general in carrying out the provisions of this chapter shall have a right to send bills of indictment before any grand jury in any county in which it is alleged this chapter has been violated or in any adjoining county, and may take charge of and prosecute all cases coming within the purview of this chapter, and shall have the power to call to his assistance in the performance of any of these duties of his office which he may assign to them any of the solicitors in the state, who shall, upon being required to do so by the attorney-general, send bills of indictment and assist him in the performance of the duties of his office. (1913, c. 41, s. 13; C. S. 2571.)

§ 75-14. Action to obtain mandatory order.—If it shall become necessary to do so, the attorney-general may prosecute civil actions in the name of the state on relation of the attorney-general to obtain a mandatory order to carry out the provisions of this chapter, and the venue shall be in any county as selected by the attorney-general. (1913, c. 41, s. 11; C. S. 2572.)

§ 75-15. Actions prosecuted by Attorney-General.—It shall be the duty of the attorney-general, upon his ascertaining that the laws have been violated by any trust or public-service corporation, so as to render it liable to prosecution in a civil action, to prosecute such action in the name of the state, or any officer or department thereof, as provided by law, or in the name of the state on relation of the attorney-general, and to prosecute all officers or agents or employees of such corporations, whenever in his opinion the interests of the public require it. (1913, c. 41, s. 12; C. S. 2573.)

§ 75-16. Civil action by person injured; treble damages.—If the business of any person, firm or corporation shall be broken up, destroyed or injured by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of the provisions of this chapter, such person, firm or corporation so injured shall have a right of action on account of such injury done, and if damages are assessed by a jury in such case judgment shall be rendered in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for treble the amount fixed by the verdict. (1913, c. 41, s. 14; C. S. 2574.)

Causal Relation Between Violation and Injury Must Be Shown.—Section 75-5 condemns a contract of sale only when such sale is made "upon the condition" that the purchaser shall not deal in the goods or merchandise of a competitor of the seller, and in order for a party to recover damages for a breach of the statute under the provisions of this section, he must show a violation of the statute and a causal relation between the violation and injury to his business. Lewis v. Archbell, 199 N. C. 205, 154 S. E. 11. See Bennett v. Southern Ry. Co., 211 N. C. 474, 191 S. E. 240.

Who May Bring Action.—The contention that an action for the violation of this chapter resulting in injury to a party's business can only be brought by the attorney general is contrary to the provisions of this section. Bennett v. Southern Ry. Co., 211 N. C. 474, 191 S. E. 240.

Chapter 76. Navigation.

Art. 1. Cape Fear River.

Art. 1. Cape Fear River.

§ 76-1. Board of commissioners of navigation and pilotage. — A board of commissioners of navigation and pilotage for the Cape Fear river and bar, to consist of five members, at least four of whom shall be residents of New Hanover County, and none of whom shall be licensed pilots, is hereby created. The members of the board shall be appointed by the governor and their terms of office shall begin on the fifteenth day of April of the year in which they are appointed and continue for four years and until their successors shall be appointed and qualified. They shall be and are hereby declared to be commissioners for a special purpose, within the purview of section seven, article fourteen, of the constitution of North Carolina. It shall be the duty of the governor to appoint, on or before the fifth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, and on or before the fifth day of April of every fourth year thereafter, the members of said board of commissioners. A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum and may act in all cases. The board shall have power to fill vacancies in its membership as they occur during their term, to appoint a clerk to record in a book, rules, orders and proceedings of the board, and the board shall have authority in all matters that may concern the navigation of waters from seven miles above Negro-head Point downwards, and out of the bar and inlets. They shall annually, on the first Monday in May, appoint a harbor master for the port of Wilmington. (1921, c. 79, s. 1; C. S. 6943(a).

Editor's Note.—The cases discussed below were decided under section C. S. 6943, now repealed. However, these cases seem applicable to the present law as the provisions of former section 6943 are substantially set forth in the instant section.

Constitutionality.—This article is constitutional as it is an exercise of the State's right to regulate pilotage, and should be construed liberally as a part of the maritime law. It does not create a monopoly or grant special priviliges, but only regulates for the protection of the public. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N. C. 88, 60 S. E. 920.

The Legislature may confer upon a local board of commissioners of navigation and pilotage authority to mark out cruising grounds for pilot boats. Morse v. Heide, 152 N. C. 625, 68 S. E. 173.

Time of Appointment.—The time of making the appointment of commissioners is merely directory, and if appointment is made after the fifth day of April, but before the fifteenth day of April, it is valid. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N. C. 88, 60 S. E. 920.

§ 76-2. Rules to regulate pilotage service.—The board shall from time to time make and establish such rules and regulations respecting the qualifications, arrangements, and station of pilots as to them shall seem most advisable, and shall impose such reasonable fines, forfeitures and penalties as may be prescribed for the purpose of enforcing the execution of such rules and regulations. The board shall also have power and authority to prescribe, reduce, and limit the number of pilots necessary to maintain an efficient pilotage service for the Cape Fear River and bar, as in its discretion may be necessary: Provided, that the present number of eleven pilots now actively engaged in the service shall not be reduced except for cause or by resignation, disability, or death. When, in the opinion of a majority of the board, the best interests of the port of Wilmington, the state of North Carolina, and the pilotage service shall require it, the board shall have power and authority to organize all pilots licensed by it into a mutual association, under such reasonable rules and regulations as the board may prescribe; any licensed pilot refusing to become a member of such association shall be subject to suspension, or to have his license revoked, at the discretion of the board. (1921, c. 79, s. 2; 1927, c. 158, s. 1; C. S. 6943(b).)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1927 inserted the second sentence.

Reasonable Regulations.—A rule and regulation of the board to the effect that pilots shall not cruise beyond certain territory and that no pilot, except under certain unusual circumstances, shall be entitled to his fee for such services if they be tendered beyond the cruising ground they had laid off, is valid and reasonable. Morse v. Heide, 152 N. C. 625, 68 S. E. 173.

§ 76-3. Examination and licensing of pilots. — The board, or a majority of them, may from time to time examine, or cause to be examined, such persons as may offer themselves to be pilots for the Cape Fear river and bar, and shall give to such as are approved commissions under their hands and the seal of the board, to act as pilots for the river and bar; and the number of pilots so commissioned, not exceeding fifteen at any one time, shall be left to the discretion of the board, but the limitation as to number herein shall not deprive the board of the power to issue license to any person who is a duly licensed pilot at the time of the passage of this article. (1921, c. 79, s. 3; 1927, c. 158, s. 2; C. S. 6943(c).)

Editor's Note.—The 1927 amendment substituted the word "may" for the word "shall" near the first part of this section.

Limiting Number of Pilots.—The limiting of the number of pilots, and providing for examinations and qualifications, is a valid exercise of the police powers and is not such a grant of special privileges to certain persons as is provided against by the Constitution. St. George v. Hardie, 147 N. C. 88, 60 S. E. 920.

§ 76-4. Appointment and regulation of pilots' apprentices.—The board, when it deems necessary for the best interests of the port, is hereby authorized to appoint in its discretion apprentices, and to make and enforce reasonable rules and regulations relating to apprentices. No apprentice shall be required to serve for a longer period than three years in order to obtain a license to pilot vessels of a draught of not exceeding fifteen feet, and one year thereafter for a license to pilot vessels of a draught of more than fifteen feet. No one shall be entered as an apprentice who is of the age of more than twenty-five years. (1921, c. 79, s. 4; 1927, c. 158, s. 3; C. S. 6943(d).)

Editor's Note.—The words "appoint in its discretion apprentices, and to" appearing in lines 3 and 4 were inserted by the 1927 amendment.

§ 76-5. Classes of licenses issued. — The board shall have authority to issue two classes of licenses as follows:

(1) A license to pilot vessels whose draught of water does not exceed eighteen feet, to such applicants above the age of twenty-one years who have served as apprentices for such length of time as is required by the rules and regulations of the board to entitle such applicant to such license;

(2) An unlimited or full license to those who have served at least one year under a license of the first class: Provided, that the board shall have power to appoint pilots without reference to apprenticeship record as in its judgment the service may require. (1921, c. 79, s. 5; 1927, c. 158, s. 4; C. S. 6943(e).)

Editor's Note.—The word "eighteen" was substituted for "fifteen" in subsection one and the proviso at the end of subsection two was added by the 1927 amendment.

§ 76-6. Renewal of license; license fee. — All licenses shall be renewed annually upon payment of a fee of five dollars ($5): Provided, the holder of such license shall have, during the year preceding the date for such renewal, complied with the provisions of this article and the reasonable rules and regulations prescribed by the board under authority hereof. (1921, c. 79, s. 6; C. S. 6943(f).)

§ 76-7. Expenses of the board. — Each pilot, or the association of pilots, when organized as in this article provided, shall pay over to the board under such reasonable rules as the board shall prescribe two per cent (2%) of each and every pilotage fee received, for the purpose of providing funds to defray the necessary expenses of the board. In the event that the total of the sums so paid over in any one year shall exceed the expenses of the board, the excess, upon being duly ascertained, shall be paid over to the fund for the benefit of widows and orphans of the deceased pilots, as said fund is now constituted and provided for by law. (1921, c. 79, s. 7; C. S. 6943(g).)

§ 76-8. Pilots to give bond. — Every person before being commissioned as a pilot shall give bond for the faithful performance of his duties, with two or more sureties, payable to the state of North Carolina in the sum of five hundred dollars ($500); the board may, from time to time, and as often as it may deem necessary, enlarge the penalty of the bond, or require new or additional bonds to be given in a sum or sums not to exceed in all, one thousand dollars ($1,000). Every bond taken of a pilot shall be filed with and preserved by the board, in trust for every person, firm, or corporation, who shall be injured by the neglect or misconduct of such pilots, and any person, firm, or corporation, so injured may severally bring suit for the damage by each one sustained. (1921, c. 79, s. 8; C. S. 6943(h).)

§ 76-9. Permission to run as pilots on steamers; other ports.—The board shall have power to grant permission in writing to any pilot in good standing and authorized to pilot vessels, to run regularly as pilots on steamers running between the port of Wilmington and other ports of the United States, under such rules and regulations as the board shall prescribe. (1921, c. 79, s. 9; C. S. 6943(i).)

§ 76-10. Cancellation of licenses. — The board shall have the power to call in and cancel the license of any pilot who has refused or neglected, except in case of sickness, his duty as a pilot for a period of six months in succession, and any pilot who has been absent from the state for a longer period than six months in succession shall, upon his return, surrender his license to the board, or the board may declare the same void, except when such absence has been under permission from the board as provided in § 76-9. (1921, c. 79, s. 10; C. S. 6943(j).)

§ 76-11. Jurisdiction over disputes as to pilotage. — Each member of the board shall have power and authority to hear and determine any matter of dispute between any pilot and any master of a vessel, or between pilots themselves, respecting the pilotage of any vessel and any one of them may issue a warrant against any pilot for the recovery of any demand which one pilot may have against another, relative to pilotage, and for the recovery of any forfeiture or penalty provided by law, relating to pilotage on Cape Fear river and bar, or provided by any by-law or rule or regulation enacted by the board by virtue of any such law, which warrant the sheriff or any constable in New Hanover or Brunswick counties, shall execute together with any other process authorized by this article. On any warrant issued as herein provided any one of said commissioners may give judgment for any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500), and may issue execution thereon, in like manner as is provided for the issuing of execution on judgments rendered by justices of the peace, which writ of execution shall be executed agreeably to the law regulating the levy and sale under executions issuing from courts of justices of the peace. Any member of the board shall have authority to issue summons for witnesses and to administer oaths, and hearings before any member of the board of any matters as provided in this section shall conform as nearly as may be to procedure provided by law in courts of justices of the peace. From any judgment rendered by any member of the board, either party shall have the right of appeal to the superior court of New Hanover or Brunswick counties, in like manner as is provided for appeals on judgments of justices of the peace. (1921, c. 79, s. 11; C. S. 6943(k).)

Editor's Note.—For dictum questioning the validity of the provisions of this section allowing members of the board to hear and determine disputes between pilots and masters of vessels, etc., see St. George v. Hardie, 147 N. C. 88, 60 S. E. 920.

§ 76-12. Retirement of pilots from active service. — The board shall have and is hereby given authority in its discretion, and under such reasonable rules and regulations as it may prescribe, to retire from active service any pilot who shall become physically or mentally unfit to perform his duties as pilot, and to provide for such pilot or pilots so retired such compensation as the board shall deem proper: Provided, however, that no pilot shall be retired, except with his consent, for physical or mental disability, unless and until such pilot shall have first been examined by the public health officers or county physicians of New Hanover or Brunswick counties, and such public health officers or physicians shall have certified, either separately or jointly, to the board the fact of such physical or mental disability. (1921, c. 79, s. 12; C. S. 6943(l).)

§ 76-13. When employment compulsory; rates of pilotage. — All vessels, coastwise or foreign, over sixty (60) gross tons, shall on and after the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, take a state licensed pilot from sea to Southport, and from Southport to sea, and the rates of pilotage shall be the rates given in column number one below, designated "From sea to Southport, or vice versa;" the employment of pilots from Southport to Wilmington and from Wilmington to Southport is optional, but any vessel taking a pilot from Southport to Wilmington, or from Wilmington to Southport, shall employ only a state licensed pilot, and the rate of pilotage shall be the rates in column number two below, designated "From Southport to Wilmington, or vice versa."

Under the Federal Law.—Vessels passing through the inland waterways of the State are exempt from the pilot laws by the State statutes, subject to the proviso of this section; and, under the Federal Statutes, whether a vessel has a gross tonnage of more than fifteen tons should be determined by the method prescribed by the Federal statutes requiring a pilot; and in an action for damages alleged to have been caused by defendant's negligence in a collision, it is reversible error for the trial judge to direct an affirmative answer to the issue of contributory negligence in navigating without a pilot upon plaintiff's assertion that his vessel would carry thirty tons. Harris v. Slater, 187 N. C. 163, 121 S. E. 437.

§ 76-45. Bond of pilot. — Every person, before he obtains a commission or a branch to be a pilot, shall give bond with two sufficient sureties payable to the state of North Carolina, in the sum of five hundred dollars, with condition for the due and faithful discharge of his duties, and the duties of his apprentices; and the body appointing such pilot may, from time to time, and as often as they may deem it necessary, enlarge the penalty of the bond, or require new and additional bonds to be given; and every bond taken of a pilot shall be filed with, and preserved by, the said body appointing such pilot in trust for every person that shall be injured by the neglect or misconduct of such pilot, or his apprentices; who may severally bring suit thereon for the damage by each one sustained. (Rev., s. 307; Code, s. 3487; R. C., c. 85, s. 6; 1784, c. 207, s. 3; C. S. 6986.)

Cross References.—As to pilots' bonds generally, see § 76-8. As to action on official bond, see § 109-34.

§ 76-46. Pilots to have spyglasses.—Every pilot, within such convenient time as the commissioners may direct, who has control over the waters within which he acts, shall furnish himself with a good telescope or spyglass, under the penalty of fifty dollars, to be paid to the commissioners. (Rev., s. 4973; Code, s. 3517; R. C., c. 85, s. 27; 1790, c. 320, s. 3; C. S. 6987.)

§ 76-47. Acting as pilot without license.—If any person shall act as a pilot, who is not qualified and licensed in the manner prescribed in this chapter, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than $50.00 and not less than $25.00, or imprisoned not more than thirty days at the discretion of the court: Provided, that should there be no licensed pilot in attendance, any person may conduct into port any vessel in danger from stress of weather or in a leaky condition. (Rev., s. 4974; Code, s. 3519; R. C., c. 85, s. 29; 1783, c. 194, s. 3; 1784, c. 208, s. 4; 1933, c. 325; C. S. 6988.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 325, struck out the former provision and inserted the present reading in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 76-48. Penalty on pilot neglecting to go to vessel having signal set.—When any pilot shall see any vessel on the coast, having a signal for a pilot, or shall hear a gun of distress fired off the coast, and shall neglect or refuse to go to the assistance of such vessel, such pilot shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars, to be recovered in the name of the state, one-half to the use of the informer and the other half to the master of the vessel, unless such pilot is then actually in charge of another vessel. (Rev., s. 4975; Code, s. 3521; R. C., c. 85, s. 31; 1784, c. 207, s. 10; 1790, c. 320, s. 2; 1783, c. 194, s. 6; C. S. 6989.)

§ 76-49. Pilots may be removed.—Unless otherwise provided in the first article of this chapter for the Cape Fear river, whenever any pilot appointed, as authorized in this chapter, shall, on trial, be found incompetent, or shall be guilty of improper conduct by intoxication or otherwise, or of any misbehavior in his office, or shall absent himself from the state for a period of six months, the pilot so offending may be removed from his office by the board of commissioners under whose authority he is acting, by a notice to him in writing; and if after such removal he shall attempt to take charge of any vessel, he shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars for the use of said board. And it shall be the duty of the board to put up a written notice of the removal, in the public places within the port, or publish it in some convenient newspaper. But no pilot for the navigation of Hatteras inlet shall be required to surrender or forfeit his branch by reason of absence from the state for a period of less than six months. (Rev., s. 4976; Code, ss. 3518, 3490; 1869-70, c. 235, s. 7; 1881, c. 261, s. 2; R. C., c. 85, s. 28; R. S., c. 88, ss. 7, 31, 35; 1784, c. 207, s. 4; 1819, c. 1025, s. 4; 1800, c. 565; 1876-7, c. 22; 1881, c. 261, s. 1; C. S. 6990.)

Entitled to Fees Until Removed.—A duly licensed pilot may recover charges for his services, and while his failure to have his boat registered and numbered will cause a forfeiture of his license, the lawful pilotage charges for the service of such boat is recoverable by him until the commissioners of navigation and pilotage have acted thereon and revoked his license. Davis v. Heide & Co., 161 N. C. 476, 77 S. E. 691.

§ 76-50. Pilots refused, entitled to pay. — If a branch pilot shall go off to any vessel bound in, and offer to pilot her over the bar, the master or commander of such vessel, if he refuses to take such pilot, shall pay to such pilot, if not previously furnished with one, the same sum as is allowed by law for conducting such vessel in, to be recovered before a justice of the peace, if the sum be within his jurisdiction: Provided, that the first pilot, and no other, who shall speak such vessel so bound in shall be entitled to the pay provided for in this section. (Rev., s. 4978; Code, s. 3522; R. C., c. 85, s. 32; 1871-2, c. 117; C. S. 6991.)

§ 76-51. Pay of pilots when detained by vessel. —Every master of a vessel who shall detain a pilot at the time appointed, so that he cannot proceed to sea, though wind and weather should permit, shall pay to such pilot three dollars per day during the time of his actual detention. (Rev., s. 4979; Code, s. 3495; 1858-9, c. 23, s. 7; C. S. 6992.)

§ 76-52. Rates of pilotage annexed to commission.—The commissioners of navigation for the several ports of this state shall annex to the branch or commission, by them given to each pilot, a copy of the fees to which such pilot is entitled. (Rev., s. 4980; Code, ss. 3497, 3536; R. C., c. 85, ss. 9, 38; 1784, c. 208, s. 4; 1796, c. 470, s. 5; C. S. 6993.)

§ 76-53. Harbor masters; how appointed.—The several boards of commissioners of navigation may appoint a harbor master for their respective ports. They shall appoint a clerk to keep books, in which shall be recorded all their proceedings. (Rev., s. 4981; Code, s. 3525; R. C., c. 85, s. 35; C. S. 6994.)

§ 76-54. Commissioners of navigation may hold another office.—A commissioner of navigation and pilotage shall be deemed a commissioner for a special purpose within the meaning of section seven of article fourteen of the constitution of North Carolina, so as not to be prohibited from holding at the same time with his commissionership another office under the national or state governments. (Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 76; C. S. 6995.)

§ 76-55. Commissioners of navigation to designate place for trash.—The several boards of commissioners established by this chapter may, subject to such regulations as the United States may make, designate the places whereat, within the waters under their several and respective control, may be cast and thrown ballast, trash, stone, and like matter. (Rev., s. 4982; Code, s. 3537; R. C., c. 85, s. 40; R. S., c. 88, ss. 23, 24, 45; 1833, c. 146, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1846, c. 60, s. 3; C. S. 6996.)

Cited in State v. Eason, 114 N. C. 787, 796, 19 S. E. 88.

§ 76-56. Harbor master; how appointed where no board of navigation.—Where no board of navigation exists the governing body of any incorporated town, situated on any navigable water course, shall have power to appoint a harbor master for the port, who shall have the same power and authority in their respective ports as the harbor master of Wilmington is by this chapter given for that port, and shall receive like fees and no others. (Rev., s. 4983; C. S. 6997.)

§ 76-57. Rafts to exercise care in passing buoys, etc., penalty.—If any person having charge of any raft passing any buoy, beacon, or day-mark, shall not exercise due diligence in keeping clear of it, or, if unavoidably fouling it, shall not exercise due diligence in clearing it, without dragging from its position such buoy, beacon, or day-mark, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by fine not to exceed fifty dollars. (Rev., s. 3545; Code, s. 3087; 1883, c. 165, s. 3; C. S. 6998.)

§ 76-58. Interfering with buoys, beacons, and day-marks.—If any person shall moor any kind of vessel, or any raft or any part of a raft, to any buoy, beacon, or day-mark placed in the waters of North Carolina by the authority of the United States lighthouse board, or shall in any manner hang on with any vessel or raft, or part of a raft, to any such buoy, beacon, or day-mark, or shall wilfully remove, damage, or destroy any such buoy, beacon, or day-mark, or shall cut down, remove, damage, or destroy any beacon erected on land in this state by the authority of the said United States lighthouse board, or through unavoidable accident run down, drag from its position, or in any way injure any buoy, beacon, or day-mark, as aforesaid, and shall fail to give notice as soon as practicable of having done so, to the lighthouse inspector of the district in which said buoy, beacon, or day-mark may be located, or to the collector of the port, or, if in charge of a pilot, to the collector of the port from which he comes, he shall for every such offense be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not to exceed two hundred dollars, or imprisoned not to exceed three months, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3546; Code, s. 3085; 1858-9, c. 58, ss. 2, 3; 1883, c. 165, s. 1; C. S. 6999.)

Chapter 77. Rivers and Creeks.

Art. 1. Commissioners for Opening and Clearing Streams.

Art. 2. Obstructions in Streams.

Art. 1. Commissioners for Opening and Clearing Streams.

§ 77-1. County Commissioners to appoint commissioners.—Where any inland river or stream runs through the county, or is a line of their county, the boards of commissioners of the several counties may appoint commissioners to view such river or stream, and make out a scale of the expense of labor with which the opening and clearing thereof will be attended; and if the same is deemed within the ability of the county, and to be expedient, they may appoint and authorize the commissioners to proceed in the most expeditious manner in opening and clearing the same. (Rev., s. 5297; Code, s. 3706; 1887, c. 370; C. S. 7363.)

Cross Reference.—As to building bridges, see §§ 136-68 et seq.

§ 77-2. Flats and appurtenances procured. — The board of county commissioners appointing the commissioners may direct them to purchase or hire a flat with a windlass and the appurtenances necessary to remove loose rock and other things, which may by such means be more easily removed, and allow the same to be paid for out of the county funds. (Rev., s. 5299; Code, s. 3708; R. C., c. 100, s. 3; 1785, c. 242, s. 2; C. S. 7365.)

§ 77-3. Laid off in districts; passage for fish.— The board of county commissioners may appoint commissioners to examine and lay off the rivers and creeks in their county; and where the stream is a boundary between two counties, may lay off the same on their side; in doing so they shall allow three-fourths for the owners of the streams for erecting slopes, dams and stands; and one-fourth part, including the deepest part, they shall leave open for the passage of fish, marking and designating the same in the best manner they can; and if mills are built across such stream, and slopes may be necessary, the commissioners shall lay off such slopes, and determine the length of time they shall be kept open; and such commissioners shall return to their respective boards of county commissioners a plan of such slopes, dams, and other parts of streams viewed and surveyed. (Rev., s. 5301; Code, s. 3710; R. C., c. 100, s. 5; 1787, c. 272, s. 1; C. S. 7367.)

Cross References.—As to obstructing passage of fish in streams, see §§ 113-251, 113-252 and 113-299. As to erecting artificial islands or lumps in public waters, see § 14-133. As to injuries to dams and water channels of mills and factories, see § 14-142. See annotations to § 77-4.

§ 77-4. Gates and slopes on milldams.—The commissioners appointed by the board of county commissioners to examine and lay off the rivers and creeks within the county, or where the stream is a boundary between counties, shall have power to lay off gates, with slopes attached thereto, upon any milldam built across such stream, of such dimensions and construction as shall be sufficient for the convenient passage of floating logs and other timber, in cases where it may be deemed necessary by the said board of county commissioners; and they shall return to the board of county commissioners appointing them a plan of such gates, slopes, and dams in writing. (Rev., s. 5302; Code, s. 3712; 1858-9, c. 26, s. 1; C. S. 7368.)

Only Applicable to Floatable Streams.—It would seem that these sections were passed entirely with reference to floatable streams because without condemnation the Commissioners would have no right to enter upon and clean out beds of streams which were not natural highways. Commissioners v. Catawba Lumber Co., 116 N. C. 731, 744, 21 S. E. 941.

Dams Built under Permit.—Authority over streams, conferred upon county commissioners while it stands and is unimpeached by allegations of fraud or other illegal conduct, is a bar to the remedy by injunction. Therefore, a defendant will not be restrained from erecting a dam across a steam, when he is proceeding under the permit and direction of the commissioners. McLaughlin v. Hope Mfg. Co., 103 N. C. 100, 9 S. E. 307.

Cited in Gwaltney v. Scottish Carolina Timber, etc., Co., 111 N. C. 547, 550, 566, 16 S. E. 692.

§ 77-5. Owner to maintain gate and slope.— Upon the confirmation of the report made by the commissioners, and notice thereof given to the owner or keeper of said mill, it shall be his duty forthwith to construct, and thereafter to keep and maintain, at his expense, such gate and slope, for the use of persons floating logs and other timber as aforesaid, so long as said dam shall be kept up, or until otherwise ordered by the board of county commissioners. (Rev., s. 5303; Code, s. 3713; 1858-9, c. 26, s. 2; C. S. 7369.)

§ 77-6. Gates and slopes discontinued. — The commissioners appointed as aforesaid, at any time that they may deem such gate and slope no longer necessary, may report the fact to their respective boards of county commissioners, and said boards of county commissioners may order the same to be discontinued. (Rev., s. 5304; Code, s. 3714; 1858-9, c. 26, s. 3; C. E. 7370.)

§ 77-7. Failure of owner of dam to keep gates, etc.—If any owner or keeper of a mill, whose dam is across any stream, shall fail to build a gate and slope therein, or thereafter to keep and maintain the same as required by commissioners to lay off rivers and creeks, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3383; Code, s. 3715; 1858-9, c. 26, s. 4; C. S. 7371.)

§ 77-8. Repairing breaks. — Wherever any stream of water which is used to propel machinery shall be by freshet or otherwise diverted from its usual channel so as to impair its power as used by any person, such person shall have power to repair the banks of such stream at the place where the break occurs, so as to cause the stream to return to its former channel. (Rev., s. 5305; Code, s. 3716; 1879, c. 53, s. 1; C. S. 7372.)

§ 77-9. Entry upon lands of another to make repairs.—In case the break occurs on the lands of a different person from the one utilizing the stream, the person utilizing the stream shall have power to enter upon the lands of such other person to repair the same, and in case such person objects, the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the break occurs shall, upon application of the party utilizing the stream, appoint three disinterested freeholders, neither of whom shall be related to either party, who after being duly sworn shall lay off a road if necessary by which said person may pass over the lands of such other person to the break and repair said break from time to time as often as may be necessary, so as to cause the stream to return to its original channel, and assess any damage which may thereby be occasioned: Provided, the party upon whose land the work is proposed to be done shall have five days notice in writing served on him or left at his place of residence: Provided further, that it shall be the duty of said commissioners to assess the damages of any one on whose land the road shall be laid off to be paid by the applicant for said road: Provided, also, that either party shall have the right of appeal to the superior court. (Rev., s. 5306; Code, s. 3717; 1879, c. 53, s. 2; C. S. 7373.)

§ 77-10. Draws in bridges. — Whenever the navigation of any river or creek which, in the strict construction of law, might not be considered a navigable stream, shall be obstructed by any bridge across said stream, it shall be lawful for any person owning any boat plying on said stream to make a draw in such bridge sufficient for the passage of such boat; and the party owning such boat shall construct and maintain such draw at his own expense, and shall use the same in such manner as to delay travel as little as possible. (Rev., s. 5307; Code, s. 3719; 1879, c. 279, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 7374.)

Cited in Staton v. Wimberly, 122 N. C. 107, 29 S. E. 63.

§ 77-11. Public landings.—The board of county commissioners may establish public landings on any navigable stream or watercourse in the county upon petition in writing. Unless it shall appear to the board that the person owning the lands sought to be used for a public landing shall have had twenty days' notice of the intention to file such petition, the same shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the board until the succeeding meeting of the board, and notice thereof shall be posted during the same period at the court house door. At said meeting of the board, the allegations of the petition shall be heard, and if sufficient reason be shown, the board shall order the establishment of the public landing.

The board is authorized to enter upon any land and locate a public landing after service of notice on the landowner that a landing is to be established under the authority of this section. If the board and landowner cannot agree on the damages, if any, the board shall, on the expiration of sixty days from the completion of the landing, cause to be summoned three disinterested freeholders of the county, who shall go upon the land and assess the damages and benefits according to the general law. All damages assessed shall be a county charge. In assessing damages, the jury shall take into consideration any special benefits accruing to the landowner, and if such benefits exceed the damages, the amount of such excess of benefits shall be assessed against the landowner and constitute a lien on the land adjoining the landing, and shall be collected in the same manner as county taxes. The board shall order how the costs shall be paid.

No suit shall be instituted by a landowner for damages for the location of the landing earlier than sixty days, nor later than six months, after the completion of the landing. Either party may appeal to the Superior Court for the assessment of damages and benefits, where the matter shall be heard de novo by the court and jury. No cost shall be awarded against the county upon appeals when the recovery awarded on appeal is not more favorable to the appellant than the award of the referees. All places heretofore established as public landings shall remain such. (Rev., ss. 2684, 2685, 5308; Code, ss. 2038, 2040, 2982; R. C. c. 60, s. 1; c. 101, ss. 2, 4; 1784, c. 206, s. 4; 1789, c. 303; 1790, c. 331, s. 3; 1793, c. 386; 1813, c. 862, s. 1; 1822, c. 1139, s. 2; 1869, c. 20, s. 8, sub-sec. 29; 1872-3, c. 189, s. 3; 1879, c. 82, s. 9; 1917, c. 284, s. 33; 1919, c. 68; C. S. 3667, 3762, 3763, 7375.)

Art. 2. Obstructions in Streams.

§ 77-12. Obstructing passage of boats.—If any person shall obstruct the free passage of boats along any river or creek, by felling trees, or by any other means whatever, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3561; Code, s. 3711; R. C., 100, s. 6; 1796, c. 460, s. 2; C. S. 7376.)

Cross Reference.—See annotations under following section.
Cited in Hutton v. Webb, 124 N. C. 749, 757, 33 S. E. 169.

§ 77-13. Obstructing streams a misdemeanor.—If any person shall wilfully fell any tree, or wilfully put any obstruction, except for the purposes of utilizing water as a motive power, in any branch, creek, or other natural passage for water, whereby the natural flow of water through such passage is lessened or retarded, and whereby the navigation of such stream by any raft or flat may be impeded, delayed, or prevented, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not to exceed fifty dollars, or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days. Nothing in this section shall prevent the erection of fish-dams or hedges which do not extend across more than two-thirds of the width of any stream where erected, but if extending over more than two-thirds of the width of any stream, the said penalties shall attach. (Rev., s. 3559; Code, s. 1123; 1872-3, c. 107, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 7377.)

Motive Power Defined.—Water used in "sluicing" is not used as a "motive power" within the meaning of this section. The section has obvious reference to the use of the energies of water dammed, as a moving force, and not to the operation of the current in motion. State v. Duplin Canal Co., 91 N. C. 637.

Applicable Only to Navigable Streams.—The word "and" between the words "retarded" and "whereby" replaced "or" by judicial construction. The Supreme Court saying "But it cannot be supposed that an intelligent Legislature meant that every obstruction of a stream, no matter how insignificant, private, or removed from public access or use, shall be indictable and subject the offender to fine and imprisonment." State v. Pool, 74 N. C. 402.

Applicable Though Stream is Private Property.—The bed of a lake or water course may be private property, but if the waters are navigable in their natural state the public have an easement of navigation in them, which easement the owner of the soil cannot obstruct. State v. Narrows Island Club, 100 N. C. 477, 5 S. E. 411.

When Malice Must Be Shown. — In an action wherein actual damages were claimed, with punitive damages, for damming a navigable stream, made a misdemeanor by this section, it was held that to recover punitive damages it was insufficient to show merely that the stream was obstructed to plaintiff's damage, it being necessary to prove, in such cases, malice, fraud, wanton or willful disregard of the plaintiff's rights, or other circumstances of recklessness or aggravation. Warren v. Coharie Lumber Co., 154 N. C. 34, 69 S. E. 685.

Indictment. — The indictment under this section must charge that the obstruction was not "for the purpose of utilizing." Such a charge is not necessary in an indictment for obstructing waters, at common law. State v. Narrows Island Club, 100 N. C. 477, 5 S. E. 411.

Same—Compared with Common Law Rule.—At common law it was an offense to obstruct any navigable stream, but by this section, unless the act is willful and not for the purpose of utilizing the water as a motive power the offense is not indictable. State v. Narrows Island Club, 100 N. C. 477, 5 S. E. 411; State v. Baum, 128 N. C. 600, 38 S. E. 900.

Railroad Bridges.—A railroad bridge built over a navigable stream if obstructing passage of vessels is a nuisance, and tearing a portion of it down so that vessels may pass is not indictable. State v. Parrott, 71 N. C. 311.

Cited in Gwaltney v. Scottish Carolina Timber, etc., Co., 111 N. C. 547, 550, 571, 16 S. E. 692.

Chapter 78. Securities Law.

§ 78-1. Title.—This chapter may be cited and shall be known as the "Securities Law" of the State of North Carolina. (1925, c. 190, s. 1; 1927, c. 149, s. 1; 1943, c. 104, s. 1.)

I. GENERALLY.

Editor's Note.—An article discussing the history of blue sky laws and summarizing the various statutes will be found in 3 N. C. Law Rev. 150 et seq. The North Carolina cases are also discussed.

The Act of 1927 repealed the law of 1925 and substituted the following provisions therefor. See Durham Citizens Hotel Corp. v. Dennis, 195 N. C. 420, 422, 142 S. E. 578.

The 1943 amendment substituted the words "Securities Law" for the words "Capital Issues Law."

The annotations set forth here include cases decided under the present statutes—placed under the analysis line "I. Generally."—and cases decided under §§ 6363 to 6375, Consolidated Statutes, prior to their repeal by Public Laws 1925, c. 190 and Public Laws 1927, c. 149, s. 26—placed under appropriate analysis lines. Said §§ 6363 to 6375 pertained to similar subject matter and it is believed the decisions construing those provisions will be of value in considering the present chapter.

This Regulation Is within Police Power.—The regulation of the sale of securities for the protection of the public is within the police power of the state. State v. Allen, 216 N. C. 621, 5 S. E. (2d) 844.

Application of Chapter.—This chapter applies where money is invested in stock, securities, profit-sharing agreements, etc., with the purpose of securing an income from the employment of the money, and a contract whereby the owner of a copyright system gives the exclusive right to another to operate the system in certain counties, and in return is to receive a percentage of the gross receipts from the operation of the system, with further provision for a division of net profits from sales or contracts written by either party, does not contemplate the placing of money in a way to secure an income from its employment, but the earning of a portion of the gross receipts in return for individual services, and the agreement is not a profit-sharing scheme or investment contract within the intent and meaning of the statute. State v. Heath, 199 N. C. 135, 153 S. E. 855.

II. NOTE TO SECTION 6363, CONSOLIDATED STATUTES.

Constitutionality.—It is within the police powers of a state to pass a statute for the protection of its citizens against the sale to them of worthless shares of stock in speculative companies in the exercise of a reserved power in the state from that granted to the general government, and does not contravene either the State or Federal Constitution. State v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 191 N. C. 634, 132 S. E. 792.

The purpose is to protect the general public from "wild cat" organizers, promoters and their agents, whether foreign or domestic, preying upon an unsuspecting and confiding public by selling "blue-sky stock," without obtaining license and giving bond. Id.

"The laws of Massachusetts on the subject have been copied with few exceptions throughout the country. This class of legislation has come to be known as the 'Blue Sky Laws.' The object, of course, of the 'Blue Sky Laws' is not only to keep worthless stock off the market but to make actual values and par values correspond. Thus, if the par value of a share of stock is one hundred dollars, the part of the assets of the corporation represented by a share of stock must be worth one hundred dollars." 1 N. C. Law Rev. 27.

Scope of Section.—It is an "investment company" offering to the public an investment in lands and fig orchards in Georgia. It is also offering the "obligation of said corporation" to cultivate said land, and giving its contract to make title in compliance with certain terms; and, lastly, it is offering for sale, such "evidences of property." Under all three of these provisions it is within the scope of this section. State v. Agey, 171 N. C. 831, 833, 88 S. E. 726.

Limitations of Suit.—Contracts of indemnity against loss, or surety bonds, for the faithful performance of a building contract are regarded in the nature of contracts of insurance coming under the provisions of this section and any conflicting restriction in such contract as to the time of bringing an action to recover damages for the breach of the contract is void. Guilford Lumber Mfg. Co. v. Johnson, 177 N. C. 44, 45, 97 S. E. 732.

Process and Service.—This section does not require service of process upon the insurance commissioner, in cases of bonding companies, although license is issued by the insurance commissioner; service on local agent is sufficient. Pardue v. Absher, 174 N. C. 676, 678, 94 S. E. 414.

Agent's Liability for Violation.—The failure or refusal of the corporation to comply with the requirements of our statutes to obtain license makes the defendant, its agent, guilty of the offense charged. State v. Agey, 171 N. C. 831, 88 S. E. 726.

One who sells certificates of shares of stock in a corporation upon a commission basis without having obtained a license to do so, comes within the inhibition of this statute, though the sale may have been effected by another acting through such solicitor without compensation. Burlington Hotel Corp. v. Bell, 192 N. C. 620, 621, 135 S. E. 616.

Enforcement of Contract.—Where a subscription contract for purchase of shares of stock in a corporation was procured by one who has not obtained a license from the Insurance Commissioner, the contract is not enforcible against such subscriber. Burlington Hotel Corp. v. Bell, 192 N. C. 620, 621, 135 S. E. 616.

Contracts To Be Executed Out of State.—Where a foreign corporation has issued a bond indemnifying a North Carolina concern against loss under a contract with an agency, located in another State, established to collect moneys, etc., for insurance premiums, which bond was delivered to the agent to be sent to the indemnified here for approval and acceptance, the contract of indemnity is to be construed and enforced in accordance with our own laws. Dixie Fire Ins. Co. v. American Bonding Co., 162 N. C. 384, 385, 78 S. E. 430.

Domestic Corporations.—This section applies to sales of stock in a domestic corporation as well as a foreign one, irrespective of whether the same was either fraudulently procured or falls within the intent and meaning of the "Blue-Sky" law. Burlington Hotel Corp. v. Bell, 192 N. C. 620, 135 S. E. 616.

Notes given for the purchase of shares of stock in a corporation being organized are not void for noncompliance with the provisions of sections 6363 and 6367, when the shares were not put upon the market by agents, or commissions paid to anyone for procuring subscriptions thereto. Burlington Hotel Corporation v. Bell, 192 N. C. 620, 135 S. E. 616, cited and distinguished. Durham Citizens Hotel Corp. v. Dennis, 195 N. C. 420, 142 S. E. 578.

Cited in Hotel Corporation v. Dixon, 196 N. C. 265, 145 S. E. 244.

III. NOTE TO SECTION 6367, CONSOLIDATED STATUTES.

Fraudulent Representations.—If the agent selling the stock represents to the plaintiff that certain parties would devote their time to the business, and that the statute has been complied with, and that the stock would not be sold below a certain price, such representation if false within the knowledge of the defendant constitutes actionable fraud. McNair v. Southern States Finance Co., 191 N. C. 710, 133 S. E. 85.

Knowledge of the Plaintiff.—When plaintiff did not know, and was not in a position to know of the falsity of the representations as made to him the parties will not be considered in pari delicto. McNair v. Southern States Finance Co., 191 N. C. 710, 133 S. E. 85.

Recovery of Damages.—A purchaser of shares of stock may recover damages upon the false representations of the seller that all of the provisions of the Blue-Sky Law, this section, had been complied with, with the burden of proof on the purchaser, the plaintiff in the action, to show his damages arising therefrom. McNair v. Southern Finance Co., 191 N. C. 710, 711, 133 S. E. 85.

Domestic Corporations.—This law was at first applied only to foreign corporations but by chapter 121, Public Laws 1919, it was made to apply as well to domestic corporations. The law appears in toto in 6363-6375, and the provision which in itself is known as the "Blue-Sky" law, is section 6367. 3 N. C. Law Rev. 151.

The requirements of this section as to soliciting the purchase of shares of stock in a certain corporation in accordance with certain conditions, applies by statutory amendment of 1919, not only to corporations formed in other states, but also to domestic corporations. Seminole Phosphate Co. v. Johnson, 188 N. C. 419, 124 S. E. 859. See also Burlington Hotel Corp. v. Bell, 192 N. C. 620, 135 S. E. 616.

Notes Given for Stock.—Where a negotiable note is given for shares of stock in a corporation, solicited in violation of the Blue-Sky Law, the note is voidable against a holder who has acquired it with notice of the illegality or fraud in the procurement of the instrument. Planters Bank, etc., Co. v. Felton, 188 N. C. 384, 124 S. E. 849.

IV. NOTE TO SECTION 6372, CONSOLIDATED STATUTES.

Liability for Principal's Act.—The State has a right to require evidence of good faith, of assets, and of responsibility from nonresident parties offering to sell to our people "investments" or "evidences of property" on contracts. An agent of a company who fails to do this, in defiance of our laws, is properly found guilty. State v. Agey, 171 N. C. 831, 836, 88 S. E. 726.

§ 78-2. Definitions.—

(a) The term "person" shall mean and include a natural person, firm, partnership, association, syndicate, joint-stock company, unincorporated company or organization, trust, incorporated or unincorporated, and any corporation organized under the laws of the District of Columbia, or of any state or territory of the United States, or of any foreign government. As used herein, the term "trust" shall be deemed to include a common law trust, but shall not include a trust created or appointed under or by virtue of a last will and testament or by a court of law or equity.

(b) The term "securities" or "security" shall include any note, stock certificate, stock, treasury stock, bond, debenture, whiskey warehouse receipt, evidence of indebtedness, transferable certificate of interest or participation, certificate of interest in a profit-sharing agreement, any instrument representing any interest or right in or under any oil, gas or mining lease, fee or title, or rights or interests in land from which petroleum or minerals are, or are intended to be produced, certificate of interest in an oil, gas or mining lease, collateral trust certificate, any transferable share, investment contract, or beneficial interest in or title to property or profits or any contract or agreement in the promotion of a plan or scheme whereby one party undertakes to purchase the increase or production of the other party from the article or thing sold under the plan or scheme, or whereby one party is to receive the profits arising from the increase or production of the article or thing sold under the plan or scheme, or any other instrument commonly known as security.

(c) The term "sale" shall include any agreement whereby a person transfers or agrees to transfer either the ownership of or an interest in a security. Any security given or delivered with or as a bonus on account of any purchase of securities, or of any other thing shall be deemed to constitute a part of the subject of such purchase and to have been sold for value. "Sale," or "sell" shall also include an attempt to sell, an option of a purchase or sale, a solicitation of a sale, a subscription, or an offer to sell, either directly or by agent, or by a circular letter, advertisement, or otherwise; but nothing herein shall limit or diminish the full meaning of the term "sell" or "sale" as used by or accepted in courts of law or equity: Provided, that a privilege pertaining to a security giving the holder the privilege to convert such security into another security of the same issuer shall not be deemed a sale, or offer to sell, or option of sale of such other security within the meaning of this definition and such privilege shall not be construed as affecting the status of the security to which such privilege pertains with respect to exemption or registration under the provisions of this chapter, but when such privilege of conversion shall be exercised such conversion shall be subject to the limitations hereinafter provided in subsection (8) of § 78-4; and provided further, that the issue or transfer of a right pertaining to a security entitling the holder to subscribe to another security of the same issuer, when such right is issued or transferred with the security to which it pertains, shall not be deemed a sale or offer to sell or option of sale of such other security within the meaning of this definition, and such right shall not be construed as affecting the status of the security to which such right pertains with respect to exemption or registration under the provisions of this chapter; but the sale of such other security upon the exercise of such right shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter.

(d) The term "issuer" shall include every person who proposes to issue or who issues or who has issued or shall hereafter issue any security (sold or to be sold, offered or to be offered for sale).

(e) The term "intangible assets" shall mean and include patents, formulae, good will, promotions, trade brands, franchises, evidences of indebtedness or corporate securities, titles or rights in and to intangible property, and all other like assets.

(f) "Tangible assets" shall mean all assets other intangible assets, as above defined.

(g) "Mortgage" shall be deemed to include a deed of trust to secure a debt. (1925, c. 190, s. 2; 1927, c. 149, s. 2; 1933, c. 432; 1943, c. 104, ss. 2, 3.)

Editor's Note.—The enforcement and administration of this chapter was formerly intrusted both under Public Laws 1925, c. 190, s. 2, and Public Laws 1927, c. 149, s. 2, to a member of the corporation commission to be designated by the governor. With the abolition of the corporation commission and the creation of the office of utilities commissioner, the administration of the chapter was transferred to that officer. See Public Laws 1933, c. 134, s. 8. However, Public Laws 1937, c. 194, provided for the transfer of the powers, duties, functions, and authority of the utilities commissioner with reference to the Capital Issues Law to the secretary of state, who now administers this chapter.

The 1943 amendment inserted in subsection (b) the words "whiskey warehouse receipt." It also inserted in said subsection the words "any instrument representing any interest or right in or under any oil, gas or mining lease, fee or title, or rights or interests in land from which petroleum or minerals are, or are intended to be produced."

Value of Property Does Not Affect Definition as a Security.—In a prosecution for violation of the Capital Issues Law the fact that the property sold is of little value is irrelevant to the question of whether the property is a security as defined by the statute. State v. Allen, 216 N. C. 621, 5 S. E. (2d) 844.

Certificate of Interest in Oil, etc., Lease.—An oil lease which by its terms amounted to a conveyance of real estate is not a certificate of interest in an oil, gas or mining lease or any other security as that term is defined in this section. State v. Allen, 216 N. C. 621, 5 S. E. (2d) 844.

§ 78-3. Exempted securities.—Except as hereinafter provided, the provisions of this chapter shall not apply to any security which, at the time of sale thereof, is within any of the following classes of securities:

approval of any security so listed on any stock exchange in a city of five hundred thousand population as above defined, or any other approved stock exchange, and thereafter such security shall not be entitled to the benefit of this exemption, except upon further order of the secretary of state.

(f) Any security issued by, and representing an interest in, or a direct contract obligation of a bank, trust company or savings institution, which bank, trust company or savings institution is incorporated under the laws of, and subject to the examination, supervision and control of the United States, or of any state or territory of the United States, or of any insular possession thereof: Provided, this section shall not apply to any security based upon mortgages on real estate nor to saving institutions and trust companies not approved by the commissioner of banks of the State of North Carolina.

(m) Any security other than common stock outstanding and in the hands of the public for a period of not less than five years upon which no default in payment of principal, interest or dividend exists and upon which no such default has occurred for a continuous immediately preceding period of five years.

(n) Any security which, under the laws of this State, is a legal investment for savings banks of trust funds.

(o) Securities issued by a domestic corporation, partnership, association, company, syndicate or trust owning a property, business or industry which has been in continuous operation for not less than three years prior thereto, and which has shown during a period of not less than two years nor more than five years prior to the close of its last fiscal year preceding the offering of such securities average annual net earnings, after deducting all prior charges, not including the charges or prior securities to be retired out of the proceeds of such sale, as follows:

See Editor's Note under preceding section.

§ 78-4. Transactions exempted from operation of this chapter.—Except as hereinafter provided, the provisions of this chapter shall not apply to the sale or the offering for sale of any security in any of the following transactions, viz.:

is not made in the course of repeated and successive transactions of a like character by such owner or on his account by the representative of such owner, and neither such owner nor his representative is the maker or issuer or underwriter of such security.

(4) The sale of, or offer to sell such security to any bank, savings institution, trust company, insurance company, or to any corporation.

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added the second sentence of subsection 6 of this section.

§ 78-5. Burden of proof as to such transactions.—It shall not be necessary to negative any of the aforesaid exemptions in any complaint, information, indictment or proceeding laid or brought under this chapter in either a court of law or equity, or before the secretary of state, in either a civil or a criminal action or suit. The sale, unless the transaction is exempted from the operation of this chapter, of any security not exempt from the provisions of this chapter as hereinbefore provided and not admitted to the record and recorded as hereinafter provided, shall be prima facie evidence of the violation of this chapter and the burden of proof of any such exemption shall be upon the party claiming the benefit thereof. (1925, c. 190, s. 5; 1927, c. 149, s. 5.)

§ 78-6. Registration of securities.—No securities except of a class exempt under any of the provisions of § 78-3 or unless sold in any transaction exempt under any of the provisions of § 78-4 shall be sold within this State unless such securities shall have been registered by notification or by qualification as hereinafter defined. Registration of stock shall be deemed to include the registration of rights to subscribe to such stock if the notice under § 78-7 or the application under § 78-8 for registration of such stock includes a statement that such rights are to be issued. (1925, c. 190, s. 6; 1927, c. 149, s. 6.)

§ 78-7. Advertisement of securities.—It shall be unlawful hereafter:

(1) To advertise in this State, through or by means of any prospectus, circular, price list, letter, order blank, newspaper, periodical or otherwise, or

(2) To circulate or publish any newspaper, periodical or either written or printed matter in which any advertisement in this section specified shall appear, or

(3) To circulate any prospectus, price list, order blanks, or other matter for the purpose of inducing or securing any subscriptions to or sale of any security or securities not exempted under any of the provisions of § 78-3, and not sold or to be sold in one of the transactions exempted under the provisions of § 78-4 and except as provided in § 78-8, unless and until the requirements of § 78-6 have been fully complied with and such advertising matter has been filed and approved by the secretary of state. (1925, c. 190, s. 7; 1927, c. 149, s. 7.)

§ 78-8. Registration by notification.—The following classes of securities shall be entitled to registration by notification in the manner provided in this section:

(1) Securities issued by a corporation, partnership, association, company, syndicate or trust owning a property, business or industry which has been in continuous operation not less than three years, and which has shown during a period of not less than two years, nor more than five years, next prior to the close of its last fiscal year preceding the offering of such securities, average annual net earnings, after deducting all prior charges not including the charges upon securities to be retired out of the proceeds of sale, as follows:

(a) In the case of interest bearing securities, not less than one and one-half times the annual interest charge thereon and upon all other outstanding interest bearing obligations of equal rank.

(b) In the case of preferred stock, not less than one and one-half times the annual dividend requirements on such preferred stock and on all other outstanding stock of equal rank.

(c) In the case of common stock not less than five per centum upon all outstanding common stock of equal rank, together with the amount of common stock then offered for sale reckoned upon the price at which such stock is then offered for sale or sold. The ownership by a corporation, partnership, association, company, syndicate or trust or more than 50 per cent of the outstanding voting stock of a corporation shall be construed as the proportionate ownership of the property, business or industry of such corporation, and shall permit the inclusion of the earnings of such corporation, applicable to the payment of dividends upon the stock so owned in the earnings of the corporation, partnership, association, company, syndicate, or trust issuing the securities sought to be registered by notification.

(2) Any bond or notes secured by a first mortgage upon agricultural lands used and valuable for agricultural purposes (not including oil, gas or mining property or leases), or upon city, town or village real estate situated in any State or territory of the United States or in the District of Columbia or in the Dominion of Canada as follows:

(a) When the mortgage is a first mortgage upon such agricultural lands, used and valuable for agricultural purposes, and when the aggregate face value of such bonds or notes, not including interest notes, or coupons secured thereby, does not exceed 60 per centum of the then fair market value of said lands plus 60 per centum of the insured value of any improvements thereon; or,

(b) When the mortgage is a first mortgage upon city, town or village real estate and when the aggregate face value of such bonds or notes, not including interest notes or coupons, secured by such real estate or leaseholds does not exceed 60 per centum of the then fair market value of said mortgaged real estate or leaseholds, respectively, including any improvements appurtenant thereto, and when said mortgaged property is used principally to produce through rental a net annual income, after deducting operating expenses and taxes, or has a fair rental value, after deducting operating expenses and taxes, at least equal to the annual interest, plus not less than 3 per centum of the principal of said mortgage indebtedness.

(3) Bonds or notes secured by first lien on collateral pledged as security for such bonds or notes with a bank or trust company as trustee, which bank or trust company is incorporated under the laws of and subject to examination and supervision by the United States or by a state of the United States, which collateral shall consist of (a) a principal amount of first mortgage bonds or notes conforming to the requirements of any one or more of the provisions of subsection (2) of this section and/or (b) a principal amount of obligations secured as hereinafter in this subsection provided, and/or (c) a principal amount of obligations of the United States, and/or (d) cash, equal to not less than 100 per cent of the aggregate principal amount of all bonds or notes secured thereby. The portion of such collateral referred to in clause (b) shall consist of obligations secured by a first lien on a principal amount of first mortgage bonds or notes conforming to the requirements of subsection (2) of this section, and/or a principal amount of obligations of the United States and/or cash equal to not less than 100 per cent of the aggregate principal amount of such obligations so secured thereby, and all such pledged securities including cash so securing such obligations shall have been deposited with a bank or trust company as trustee, which bank or trust company is incorporated under the laws of and subject to examination and supervision by the United States or by a state of the United States.

Securities entitled to registration by notification shall be registered by the filing by the issuer or by any registered dealer interested in the sale thereof in the office of the secretary of state of a statement with respect to such securities containing the following:

(a) Name of issuer.

(b) A brief description of the security including amount of the issue.

(c) Amount of securities to be offered in the State.

(d) A brief statement of the facts which show that the security falls within one of the classes in this section defined.

(e) The price at which the securities are to be offered for sale.

In the case of securities falling within the class defined by subsection (1), if the circular to be used for the public offering is not filed with the statement, then a copy of such circular shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state within two days thereafter, or within such further time as the secretary of state shall allow.

In the case of securities falling within the classes defined by subsections (2) and (3) the circular to be used for the public offering shall be filed with the statement.

The filing of such statement in the office of the secretary of state and the payment of the fee hereinafter provided shall constitute the registration of such security. Upon such registration, such securities equal to the amount so registered by notification may be sold in this State by any registered dealer by giving notice in the manner hereinafter provided in § 78-19, subject, however, to the further order of the secretary of state as hereinafter provided.

If, at any time, in the opinion of the secretary of state, the information contained in the statement or circular filed is misleading, incorrect, inadequate, or incomplete, or the sale or offering for sale of the security may work or tend to work a fraud or, in the opinion of the secretary of state, be contrary to good business practices, the secretary of state may require from the person filing such statement such further information as may, in his judgment, be necessary to establish the classification of such security as claimed in said statement, or to enable the secretary of state to ascertain whether the sale of such security would be fraudulent, or would result in fraud, and the secretary of state may also suspend the right to sell such security pending further investigation by entering an order specifying the grounds for such action, and by notifying personally by mail, telephone or telegraph the person filing such statement and every registered dealer who shall have notified the secretary of state of an intention to sell such security. The refusal to furnish information required by the secretary of state, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the secretary of state, may be a proper ground for the entry of such order of suspension. Upon the entry of any such order of suspension no further sales of such security shall be made until the further order of the secretary of state, unless the person to be affected by such order shall file with the secretary of state a bond in a penalty to be fixed by him in some solvent surety company licensed in the State of North Carolina, to pay all such damages as might be sustained by any purchaser of such security, which bond shall be made payable to the State of North Carolina and sued upon by any person damaged by such sale.

In the event of the entry of such order of suspension the secretary of state shall upon request give a prompt hearing to the parties interested. If no hearing is requested within a period of twenty (20) days from the entry of such order, or if upon such hearing the secretary of state shall determine that any such security does not fall within a class entitled to registration under this section, or that the sale thereof would be fraudulent or would result in fraud or the continued sale of the same, is in his opinion contrary to good business practices, he shall enter a final order prohibiting sales of such security, with his findings with respect thereto: Provided, that if the finding with respect to such security is that it is not entitled to registration under this section, the applicant may apply for registration by qualification by complying with the requirements of § 78-9. Appeals from such final order may be taken as hereinafter provided. If, however, upon such hearing, the secretary of state shall find that the security is entitled to registration under this section, and that its sale will neither be fraudulent nor result in fraud, or that the continued sale thereof is not contrary to good business practices, he shall forthwith enter an order revoking such order of suspension and such security shall be restored to its status as a security registered under this section, as of the date of such order of suspension.

At the time of filing the statement, as hereinbefore prescribed in this section, the applicant shall pay to the secretary of state a filing fee of ten dollars and a fee of one-twentieth of one per cent of the aggregate par value of the securities to be sold in this State for which the applicant is seeking registration, but in no case shall such latter fee be less than twenty-five dollars, and not exceeding one hundred and fifty dollars. In the case of stock having no par value, the price at which such stock is to be offered to the public, shall be deemed to be the par value of such stock. (1927, c. 149, s. 8.)

§ 78-9. Registration by qualification.—All securities required by this chapter to be registered before being sold in this State, and not entitled to registration by notification, shall be registered only by qualification in the manner provided by this section.

The secretary of state shall receive and act upon applications to have securities registered by qualification and may prescribe forms on which he may require such applications to be submitted. Applications shall be in writing and shall be duly signed by the applicant and sworn to by a proper person, and filed in the office of the secretary of state and may be made either by the issuer of the securities for which registration is applied or by any registered dealer desiring to sell the same within this State.

The secretary of state may require the applicant to submit to the secretary of state the following information respecting the issuer and such other information as he may, in his judgment, deem necessary to enable him to ascertain whether such securities shall be registered pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(a) The names and addresses of directors, trustees and officers, if the issuer be a corporation or association or trust organized or existing under the common law (as hereinbefore defined), of all partners, if the issuer be a partnership, and of the issuer if the issuer be an individual.

(b) The location of the issuer's principal business office and of its principal office in this State, if any, and if not, the name of its process officer within this State.

(c) The purposes of incorporation, (if incorporated) and the general character of the business actually to be transacted by the issuer, and the purpose of the proposed issue.

(d) A statement of the capitalization of the issuer; a balance sheet showing the amount and general character of its assets and liabilities on a day not more than sixty (60) days prior to the date of filing such balance sheet; a detailed statement of the plan upon which the issuer proposes to transact business; a copy of the security for the registration of which application is made; and a copy of all circulars, prospectuses, advertisements or other descriptions of such securities then prepared by or for such issuer, and/or by or for such applicant (if the applicant shall not be the issuer) to be used for distribution or publication in this State.

(e) A statement of the amount of the issuer's income, expenses, and fixed charges during the last fiscal year, or if in actual business less than one year, then for such time as the issuer has been in actual business.

(f) A statement showing the price at which such security is proposed to be sold, together with the maximum amount of commission or other form of remuneration to be paid in cash or otherwise, directly or indirectly, for or in connection with the sale, or offering for sale, of such securities.

(g) A detailed statement showing the items of cash, property, services, patents, good will and any other consideration for which such securities have been or are to be issued in payment.

(h) The amount of capital stock which is to be set aside and disposed of as promotion stock, and a statement of all stock issued from time to time as promotion stock.

(i) If the issuer is a corporation, there shall be filed with the application a certified copy of its articles of incorporation with all amendments and of its existing by-laws, if not already on file in the office of the secretary of state of this State. If the issuer is a trustee there shall be filed with the application a copy of all instruments by which the trust is created or declared and in which it is accepted and acknowledged. If the issuer is a partnership or an unincorporated association, or joint stock company, or any other form of organization whatsoever, there shall be filed with the application a copy of its articles of partnership or association and all other papers pertaining to its organization, if not already on file in the office of the secretary of state of this State.

All of the statements, exhibits, and documents of every kind required by the secretary of state under this section, except properly certified public documents, shall be verified in such manner and form as may be required by the secretary of state.

With respect to securities required to be registered by qualification under the provisions of this section, the secretary of state may by order duly entered fix the maximum amount of commission or other form of remuneration to be paid in cash or otherwise directly or indirectly, for or in connection with the sale or offering for sale of such securities which shall in no case exceed ten per cent of the actual sale price of the security.

At the time of filing the information, as hereinbefore prescribed in this section, the applicant shall pay to the secretary of state a filing fee of twenty-five dollars and, upon the entry of an order for the registration of the securities, shall pay to the secretary of state a fee of one-tenth of one per cent of the aggregate par value of the securities to be sold in this State, for which the applicant is seeking registration, but in no case shall such latter fee be less than twenty-five dollars, and not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars. In case of stock having no par value the price at which such stock is to be offered to the public shall be deemed to be the par value of such stock. (1927, c. 149, s. 9.)

(1) As soon as practicable after the filing of an application, under § 78-9, the secretary of state shall examine the application, statements and documents so filed; and if he deems it advisable, may make or cause to be made such inspection, examination, audit and investigation of the business and affairs of the issuer as he may deem necessary or advisable, which said inspection, examinations, audit and investigation, shall be at the expense of the applicant. As a part of the aforesaid inspection, examination, audit and investigation, the secretary of state may, if he deems it necessary or advisable, cause an appraisal to be made of the property or assets of the issuer or parts thereof. Appraisals herein provided for may be made by three disinterested appraisers, and the secretary of state is authorized to nominate and appoint such appraisers, who shall be paid not more than twenty-five dollars per day and their actual expenses while so employed, which compensation and expenses shall be paid by the applicant. The secretary of state may require a bond sufficient to cover the expense of any such inspection, examination, audit or investigation as may be deemed necessary by the secretary of state in connection with the application before, or after the granting of such application for registration.

(2) The secretary of state shall make a complete report of the inspection, investigation, examination, etc., of the business and affairs of the applicant above provided for, which record shall include a copy of the appraisal aforesaid, provided such an appraisal be made. (1925, c. 190, s. 10; 1927, c. 149, s. 10.)

§ 78-11. Hearing before secretary of state.—The secretary of state shall, within fifteen days after the filing of the report of such investigation, give the applicant a hearing, if he so desires.

(1) If the secretary of state shall act favorably upon the application, he shall issue an order, directing that such securities be admitted to record in the register of qualified securities, hereinafter provided for. The secretary of state shall keep a permanent record of all proceedings, findings, judgments and orders. In granting to an applicant the privilege of offering securities to the public in the State of North Carolina the secretary of state may impose such reasonable conditions, either precedent or concurrent thereto, as in his judgment may be necessary or advisable. If the statement containing information as to securities, as provided for in § 78-9, shall disclose that any such securities or any securities senior thereto shall have been or shall be intended to be issued for any patent right, copyright, trademark, process, lease, formulae or good will, or for promotion fees or expenses or for other intangible assets, the amount and nature thereof shall be fully set forth and the secretary of state may require that such securities so issued in payment of such patent right, copyright, trade-mark, process, lease, formulae or good will, or for promotion fees or expenses, or for other intangible assets shall be delivered in escrow to the secretary of state or other depository satisfactory to the secretary of state under an escrow agreement that the owners of such securities shall not be entitled to withdraw such securities from escrow until all other stockholders who have paid for their stock in cash shall have been paid a dividend, or dividends aggregating not less than six per cent for three years, shown to the satisfaction of said secretary of state to have been actually earned on the investment in any common stock so held, and in case of dissolution or insolvency during the time such securities are held in escrow, that the owners of such securities shall not participate in the assets until after the owners of all other securities shall have been paid in full: Provided, that during the period such securities shall be held in escrow, the secretary of state shall have the right to vote such stock in person, or by proxy as he shall deem advisable.

(2) If, however, the secretary of state shall, in any case, believe from all the evidence:

(a) That the sale of such securities would work a fraud, deception or imposition upon the purchaser thereof; or

(b) That the articles of incorporation or association, declaration of trust, charter, constitution, by-laws, or other organization papers of the issuer are unfair, unjust, inequitable, illegal or oppressive; or

(c) That the issuers or guarantors of such securities are insolvent, or are in failing circumstances, or are not trustworthy; or

(d) That the issuer's plan of business is unfair, inequitable, dishonest or fraudulent; or

(e) That the issuer's literature or advertising is misleading or calculated to deceive purchasers or investors; or

(f) That the securities offered or to be offered; issued or to be issued in payment for property or assets, either tangible or intangible, are so in excess of the reasonable value thereof as to indicate fraud or bad faith; or

(g) That the enterprise or business of either the issuers or of the applicant, is unlawful or against public policy; or

(h) That the sale of such securities is a mere scheme of either the issuer or the applicant to dispose of worthless securities of no real intrinsic value, at the expense of the purchasers of said securities; or

(i) That the sale of such securities is contrary to good business practices.

Then the secretary of state shall refuse to admit said securities to record in the register of qualified securities, or if such securities are admitted to record, such action may at any time thereafter be revoked by the secretary of state for any of the reasons set out in this section, subsection two, and it shall thereafter be unlawful to sell such securities in this State or to circulate any advertisement thereof.

In any case the secretary of state either before granting or after granting any application for registration by qualification under § 78-9, shall have the right to require of the applicant a bond, the form whereof shall be prescribed and the surety approved by the secretary of state, penalty whereof shall be fixed by the secretary of state at not more than twenty per centum of the sales price of the securities issued or proposed or authorized to be issued. The said bond shall be with surety and payable to the State of North Carolina, conditioned that the facts set forth in the application for such permit and in all other documents required by this chapter to be filed with the secretary of state are true, and that the provisions of this chapter shall be strictly complied with, and that all moneys from the sale of such securities will be used for the proper purpose or purposes as set forth in the security sold and in the papers filed with the secretary of state; and that the contract of the promoter as set forth in the securities issued will be complied with and also that all statements set forth in all literature or advertising matter used or circulated in connection with the sale, or offer of sale, of such securities shall be the truth; and that the contract of the promoter shall be fulfilled. Except when the surety offered is a surety company authorized to do business in this State, it shall be the duty of the secretary of state to satisfy himself that such surety is amply solvent before accepting the same.

Any person who shall be induced to purchase any securities covered by such bond by reason of any misrepresentation of any material fact concerning such securities, contained in said application or other documents submitted in connection therewith or furnished to the secretary of state, upon its request or any other written or printed matter issued or used by the person making such sale or its, or his, agents in making such sale, or shall have suffered loss by reason of the fact that moneys paid by him to the said seller of such securities or the seller's agent, have not been applied to the proper purpose set forth in the security sold or the papers filed with the secretary of state, or that the seller has failed or refused to comply with his contract, as set forth in the security issued, shall have the right to bring suit upon the bond above provided for, and such bond shall be security for such person for his losses; but such person shall not be entitled to recover more than the money paid, or the actual value of the property given, or the labor performed, in exchange for such securities, with legal interest from the date of payment or the performance of the services or the transfer of property. One or more recoveries upon such bond shall not vitiate the same, but it shall remain in full force and effect, but no recoveries upon such bond shall ever exceed the full amount of same, and upon suits being commenced in excess of the amount of same, the secretary of state may require a new bond, and, if the same is not given within thirty days the secretary of state may revoke the registration herein provided for: Provided, however, that any suit or action instituted under this section shall be commenced within one year from the date of any such sale. During the thirty days after notice to file a new bond, the securities shall not be sold or offered for sale. (1925, c. 190, s. 11; 1927, c. 149, s. 11.)

§ 78-12. No representation to be made of endorsement.—No person, dealer, or agent shall represent any securities sold under the provisions of this chapter as being endorsed or recommended by the state of North Carolina or any officer thereof, nor shall he make any mention whatever of their being recorded or admitted to record in the state of North Carolina. (1925, c. 190, s. 12; 1927, c. 149, s. 12.)

§ 78-13. Register of qualified securities.—The secretary of state shall keep and maintain a permanent register of qualified securities and shall enter therein the names and amounts of all securities the privilege of offering which to the public in the State of North Carolina has been granted by the secretary of state, and the date thereof, and such other data as the secretary of state may deem proper. All securities admitted to record and recorded in such register shall be deemed, for the purpose of this chapter, to have been fully qualified for sale in the State of North Carolina and thereafter any person may lawfully sell or offer for sale any part of such issue as recorded; subject, however, to the provisions of this chapter. Such register shall be open to inspection by the public. (1925, c. 190, s. 13; 1927, c. 149, s. 13.)

§ 78-14. Report to secretary of state.—Every issuer whose securities have been admitted to record and recorded as herein provided, may be required during the offering of such securities to file within thirty days after the close of business on December thirty-first, March thirty-first, June thirtieth, and September thirtieth, of each year, and at such other times as may be required by the secretary of state, a statement, verified under oath by some person having actual knowledge of the facts therein stated, setting forth, in such form as may be prescribed by the secretary of state, the financial condition, the amount of assets and liabilities, of such issuer on the above dates and such other information as said secretary of state may require. It shall be unlawful for any issuer subject to the provisions of this chapter, who refuses or fails to comply with the provisions of this section, or for his agent or agents, to thereafter sell such securities in this State. (1925, c. 190, s. 14; 1927, c. 149, s. 14.)

§ 78-15. Examination and examiners. — The records and the business affairs of every company or person, whose securities have been admitted to record in the register of qualified securities shall be subject to examination and inspection by the secretary of state or upon his direction by his assistants, accountants, or examiners, at any time said secretary of state may deem it advisable; and such company or person shall pay a fee for each of such examinations of not to exceed twenty-five dollars ($25) for each day or fraction thereof, plus the actual traveling and hotel expenses of said secretary of state, his assistant, accountant or examiner, that he is absent from the capital of the State for the purpose of making such examination. (1925, c. 190, s. 15; 1927, c. 149, s. 15.)

§ 78-16. Complaints, investigations, findings of facts.—The secretary of state may, upon his own initiative or upon the complaint of any reasonable person, hold such public hearings or make or have made such special inspection, examination or investigation as he may deem necessary, in connection with the promotion, sale or disposal in this State of any security or securities, to determine whether the same constitutes a violation of law; and the said secretary of state, his assistant or deputy shall have power and authority:

(1) To issue subpœnas and process compelling the attendance of any person and the production of any paper, records or books relating to any matter of which the secretary of state has jurisdiction under this article, and

(2) To administer an oath to any person whose testimony may be required on such inspection, examination, or investigation. Upon the conclusion of any such hearing, inspection, examination or investigation the secretary of state may make findings of fact concerning the matter or matters investigated. Such findings of facts shall be admissible in evidence in any suit or action, at law or in equity, instituted under any of the laws of this State, and shall be prima facie evidence of the truth of the matters therein found by said secretary of state, and,

(3) To maintain by injunction or other remedy any action in any court of competent jurisdiction in this State for the purpose of enforcing this chapter, or making investigations. (1925, c. 190, s. 16; 1927, c. 149, s. 16.)

§ 78-17. Certain information and records open to inspection by public.—All information received by the secretary of state shall be kept open to public inspection at all reasonable hours, and the secretary of state shall supply to the public upon request copies of any papers on record with the secretary of state at charges equaling the cost of typing same; and the secretary of state shall have power and authority to place in a separate file, not open to the public except on his special order, any information which he deems in justice to the person filing the same should not be made public. An exemplification of the record under the hand of the secretary of state, or of his deputy, shall be good and sufficient evidence of any record made or entered by the secretary of state. A certificate under the hand of the department of state or his deputy or assistant and the seal of the department of state showing that the securities in question have not been recorded in the register of qualified securities, shall constitute prima facie evidence that such securities have not been qualified for sale pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, and shall be admissible in evidence in any proceeding, either civil or criminal, instituted under any of the laws or statutes of this State. (1925, c. 190, s. 17; 1927, c. 149, s. 17.)

§ 78-18. Appeal.—Any interested person being dissatisfied with any findings, rulings, or judgments of the secretary of state if final and made after a formal hearing elsewhere provided for in this chapter, may, within thirty days after the making and issuance thereof, appeal to the superior court. Any interested person aggrieved by any other order or the failure of the secretary of state to make an order under any of the provisions of this chapter shall, if a hearing is not otherwise provided for, upon written request to the secretary of state and within thirty days after the filing of such request, be entitled to a hearing. The secretary of state shall rule upon the subject matter of such hearing, and any interested person may, within thirty days after the making and issuance of his ruling or order, appeal to the superior court. In all cases of appeals from the secretary of state to the superior court, the record made before such secretary shall thereupon be certified to the superior court of the county in which such interested person may reside, or any county adjoining thereto in the discretion of said secretary of state and thereafter the parties may plead and such procedure may be had as in other causes within the jurisdiction of said superior court, and after the issues shall have been determined by the court or jury, as the case may be, such judgment shall be rendered by the court as the findings may require. Appeals may be taken from the decision of the superior court to the supreme court by either party in the same manner as is provided by law in other civil cases, but the secretary of state may appeal without bond. Pending any such appeal, the said findings, rulings, orders and judgments of the secretary of state shall be prima facie evidence that they are just and reasonable and that the facts found are true, and shall remain in full force and effect, if no such suit be brought within said thirty days, said findings, ruling, order or judgment shall become final and binding. (1925, c. 190, s. 18; 1927, c. 149, s. 18.)

§ 78-19. Dealers and salesmen; registration.—No dealer or salesman shall carry on business in the State of North Carolina as such dealer or salesman, or sell securities, including any securities exempted under the provisions of § 78-3, unless he has been registered as dealer or salesman in the office of the secretary of state pursuant to the provisions of this section. Every applicant for registration shall file in the office of the secretary of state, pursuant to the provisions of this section, an application in writing, duly signed and sworn to, in such form as the secretary of state may prescribe, giving particulars concerning the business reputation of the applicant. The secretary of state, in his discretion, may require that the applicant shall have been a bona fide resident of the State of North Carolina for a term not to exceed two years prior to the filing of the application. The names and addresses of all persons approved for registration as dealers or salesmen shall be recorded in a register of dealers and salesmen kept in the office of the secretary of state, which shall be open to public inspection. Every registration under this section shall expire on the thirty-first day of March in each year, but the same may be renewed. The fee for such registration and for each annual renewal thereof shall be fifty dollars in the case of dealers, and ten dollars in the case of salesmen. Registration may be refused or a registration granted may be cancelled by the secretary of state if, after reasonable notice and a hearing, the secretary of state determines that such applicant or dealer or salesman so registered (1) has violated any provision of this chapter or any regulation made hereunder; or (2) has made a material false statement in the application for registration; or (3) has been guilty of a fraudulent act in connection with any sale of securities in the State of North Carolina, or has been or is engaged in making fictitious or pretended sales or purchases of any such securities or has been engaged in any practice or transaction or course of business relating to the purchase or sale of securities which is fraudulent or in violation of law; or (4) has demonstrated his unworthiness to transact the business of dealer or salesman. It shall be sufficient cause for refusal or cancellation of registration in the case of a partnership, corporation or unincorporated association or trust estate, if any member of the partnership, or any officer or director of the corporation, association or trust estate has been guilty of any act or omission which would be cause for refusing or cancelling the registration of an individual dealer or salesman. The word "dealer" as used in this section shall include every person other than a salesman, who in the State of North Carolina engages, either for all or part of his time, directly or through an agent, in the business of offering for sale, selling or otherwise dealing in securities, including securities exempted under the provisions of § 78-3, or of purchasing or otherwise acquiring such securities from another person with the purpose of reselling them or of offering them for sale to the public for a commission or at a profit, or who deals in futures on market quotations of prices or values of any securities, or accepts margins on prices or values of said securities. The word "salesman," as used in this section shall include every person employed, appointed or authorized by another person to sell securities in any manner in the State of North Carolina. No person shall be registered as a salesman except upon the application of the person on whose behalf such salesman is to act. It shall be unlawful for any person required to register under the provisions of this section to sell any security to any person in the State of North Carolina without having registered, or after such registration has expired or been cancelled and not renewed.

Provided, however, that employees of a company, or of a company directly controlling such company, or the general agent of a domestic corporation, securities of which are exempted under the provisions of § 78-3, may sell or solicit or negotiate for the sale or purchase of any such securities of such company in the territory served by such company or in which it operates without being considered as salesmen or dealers within the meaning of this chapter and without being required to register under its provision.

The partners of a partnership and the executive officers of a corporation or other association registered as a dealer may act as salesmen during such time as such partnership, corporation or association is so registered without further registration as salesmen. Changes in registration occasioned by changes in the personnel of a partnership or in the principals, copartners, officers or directors of any dealer may be made from time to time by written application setting forth the facts with reference to such change.

Every registered dealer who intends to offer any security of any issue, registered or to be registered, shall notify the secretary of state in writing of his intention so to do. The notice shall contain the name of the dealer and shall state the name of the security to be offered for sale, and whenever a dealer shall have prepared such notice and shall have forwarded the same by registered mail, postage prepaid, and properly addressed to the secretary of state, such dealer, as to the contents of such notice and filing thereof, shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this paragraph. Any issuer of a security required to be registered under the provisions of this chapter, selling such securities except in exempt transactions as defined in § 78-4, shall be deemed a dealer within the meaning of this section and required to comply with all the provisions hereof. (1925, c. 190, s. 19; 1927, c. 149, s. 19.)

Cross Reference.—See Editor's Note under § 78-2.

§ 78-20. Assistants, clerks, etc., employment of.—It shall be the duty of the secretary of state to administer and enforce the provisions of this chapter, and he may appoint such clerks and other assistants as may from time to time be needed. (1925, c. 190, s. 20; 1927, c. 149, s. 20.)

Cross Reference.—See Editor's Note under § 78-2.

§ 78-21. Fee paid into State Treasury; expenses of administration.—All fees herein provided for shall be collected by the secretary of state and shall be paid over to the State Treasurer to go into the general fund; as well as all fees, per diems, expenses, etc., of appraisers, assistants, and investigators as herein provided, and all other expenses and fees required by this chapter. (1925, c. 190, s. 21; 1927, c. 149, s. 21.)

§ 78-22. Remedies. — Every sale or contract for sale made in violation of any of the provisions of this chapter shall be voidable at the election of the purchaser and the person making such sale or contract for sale and every director, officer or agent of or for such seller, if such director, officer or agent shall have participated or aided in any way in making such sale shall be jointly and severally liable to such purchaser in an action at law in any court of competent jurisdiction upon tender to the seller of the securities sold or of the contract made for the full amount paid by such purchaser: Provided, that no action shall be brought for the recovery of the purchase price after two years from the date of such sale or contract for sale: and provided further, that no purchaser otherwise entitled shall claim or have the benefit of this section who shall have refused or failed within sixty days to accept the voluntary offer of the seller to take back the security in question and to refund the full amount paid by such purchaser and court costs, together with interest on such amount for the period from the date of payment by such purchaser down to the date of repayment, such interest to be computed.

(a) In case such securities consist of interest-bearing obligations at the same rate as provided in such obligations; and

(b) In case such securities consist of other than interest bearing obligations at the rate of six per centum per annum; less, in every case, the amount of any income from said securities that may have been received by such purchaser. (1925, c. 190, s. 22; 1927, c. 149, s. 22.)

§ 78-23. Violation of chapter; punishment. — (a) Whoever for the purpose of procuring the registration of any security by notification under this chapter, shall knowingly make or cause to be made any false representation of a material fact to the secretary of state shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one year or more than five years or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(b) Whoever shall sell or cause to be sold, or offer to sell or cause to be offered for sale, any security in this State, which is not exempt under any of the provisions of § 78-3, unless sold in any transaction exempt under any of the provisions of § 78-4, and which such securities so sold, or caused to be sold or so offered for sale or caused to be offered for sale shall not have been registered as provided in this chapter, shall be guilty of a violation of this chapter, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for a period of not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(e) Whoever, for the purpose of procuring the registration by qualification of any security under this chapter, shall suppress or withhold any information from the secretary of state which he possesses and which if submitted by him to the secretary of state would render such security incompetent to be registered by qualification under and pursuant to the terms of this chapter, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this chapter, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(f) Whoever sells or causes to be sold, or offers for sale or causes to be offered for sale, any security in this State after having been notified by the secretary of state that the registration of such securities has been cancelled, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this chapter, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(g) Whoever sells or causes to be sold, or offers for sale or causes to be offered for sale, any security in this State after being notified by the commissioner to stop the sale of such security pending the investigation provided for in § 78-8, or pending the filing of the bond which may be required under § 78-11, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this chapter, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(i) Whoever sells or causes to be sold, or offers for sale or causes to be offered for sale, any security in this State after his registration as provided in § 78-19, has been cancelled by the secretary of state as provided by § 78-19, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of said § 78-19, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not less than one, nor more than five years, or fined in any sum not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or both.

(j) Whoever for the purpose of procuring the registration of any dealer or agent under this

(1925, c. 190, s. 23; 1927, c. 149, s. 23.)

Cross Reference.—See Editor's Note under § 78-2.

Statute Strictly Construed.—The penal provision of this chapter making the sale of securities in violation thereof a felony, must be strictly construed and the terms of the statute cannot be extended beyond the plain implication of words used. State v. Allen, 216 N. C. 621, 5 S. E. (2d) 844.

Applied in State v. Pelley, 221 N. C. 487, 20 S. E. (2d) 850.

Chapter 79. Strays.

Sec.
79-1. Notice to owner of stray, or to register of deeds.
79-2. Owner may reclaim.
79-3. When and how strays sold.
79-4. Failure to comply with stray law misdemeanor.

§ 79-1. Notice to owner of stray, or to register of deeds.—Any person who shall take up any stray horse, mare, colt, mule, ass or jennet, neat cattle, hog or sheep, shall within ten days after taking up such stray inform the owner, if to him known, if not, he shall inform the register of deeds of the supposed age, marks, brands and color of the stray, and that the same was taken up at his plantation or place of abode; whereupon the register of deeds shall record such information in a book kept by him for that purpose, for which service the taker-up of the stray shall pay a fee of twenty-five cents, except for hogs and sheep, for which the fee shall be ten cents. The register of deeds shall at once publish a notice of the taking up of such stray, by posting the same at the courthouse door, and if the cost does not exceed two dollars, then in some newspaper published in the county. Such notices shall be published for thirty days, and shall contain a full and complete description of the stray and of all marks or brands on the same, and when and where the same was taken up. The fees for publishing such notices shall be paid by the party taking up the stray. (Rev., s. 2833; Code, s. 3768; 1874-5, c. 258, s. 2; C. S. 3951.)

Cross Reference.—As to license to look for strays upon the lands of another, see § 14-134.

§ 79-2. Owner may reclaim.—When any stray has been taken up, the owner may at any time before a sale reclaim such stray by proving his ownership and paying to the party capturing the same the actual costs paid the register of deeds as provided in § 79-1, together with the actual costs of keeping such stray, as fixed by the county commissioners. The board of commissioners of the several counties shall fix a scale of costs for keeping strays. (Rev., s. 28-34; C. S. 3952.)

§ 79-3. When and how strays sold. — If the owner of any stray shall fail to claim the same within thirty days after the publication of the notice required by law, the person taking up the stray shall cause the stray to be appraised by the nearest magistrate and two freeholders, none of whom shall receive any fees for such services. Such appraisement shall give a full and accurate description of such stray and shall by the magistrate be returned to the register of deeds, and by him recorded in his book for strays; and the register of deeds shall issue an order to the sheriff directing him to sell such stray, and the sheriff shall sell such stray at public auction after ten days public advertisement as for sales of personal property under execution; and out of the proceeds he shall pay the cost of publishing the notices as to strays, the costs of keeping and the cost of sale, and shall pay the surplus to the county treasurer for the benefit of the public school fund of the county. The county board of education shall, at any time within twelve months after such funds have been paid to the county treasurer, upon due proof of ownership, issue an order commanding the county treasurer to pay to the owner of the stray the net amount paid the county treasurer as the proceeds of the sale of the stray. (Rev., s. 2835; C. S. 3953.)

§ 79-4. Failure to comply with stray law misdemeanor.—If any person shall fail to comply with any of the requirements of law as to strays, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (Rev., s. 3306; C. S. 3954.)

Cross Reference.—As to fences and stock law, see §§ 68-1 et seq.

Chapter 80. Trademarks, Brands, etc.

Art. 1. Trademarks.

§ 80-1. Adoption and filing for registry. — It shall be lawful for any person to adopt for his protection and file for registry, as in this chapter provided, any label, trademark, term or design that has been used or is intended to be used for the purpose of designating, making known or distinguishing any goods, wares, merchandise or products of labor that have been or may be wholly or partly made, manufactured, produced, prepared, packed or put on sale by any such person, or to or upon which any work or labor has been applied or expended by any such person, or by any member of any corporation, or association or union of workingmen, that has adopted and filed for registry any such label, trademark, term or design, or announcing or indicating that the same have been made in whole or in part by any such person or corporation, or association or union of workingmen, or by any member thereof.

The word "person" as used in this article includes associations or unions of workingmen, whether incorporated or unincorporated. Any duly authorized officer or agent of any such association or union may act in its behalf in securing for the association or union the benefits and protection of this article. (Rev., s. 3012; 1903, c. 271; 1941, c. 255, s. 1; C. S. 3971.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the words "or association or union of workingmen" in the first paragraph and added the second paragraph. It is deemed expedient at this point to quote at length from the opinion of the court delivered by Mr. Justice Bynum in Blackwell v. Wright, 73 N. C. 310, 312. The learned Justice lays down the theory upon which is based the law dealing with trademarks, brands, etc. His theory is, in part, as follows: "Every manufacturer has the unquestionable right to distinguish the goods that he manufactures and sells by a peculiar mark or device, so that they may be known as his in the market, and he may thus secure the profits which their superior reputation as his may be the means of gaining. If, therefore, the inventor or manufacturer adopts a label, symbol or trademark to distinguish the article he thus manufactures and sells, no other person has the right to adopt his label or trademark, or one so like his as to induce the public to suppose the article to which it is affixed is the manufacture of the inventor. This rule is grounded upon a two-fold reason: 1st, that the public may be protected from being imposed upon by a spurious or inferior article, as an imitation or counterfeit almost always is; and 2nd, that the inventor may have the exclusive benefit of the reputation which his skill has given to the article made by him. When one, therefore, adopts a symbol or device, and affixes it to the goods he thus manufactures and puts upon the market, the law will throw its protection around the trade-mark thus affixed, as his property and a thing of value. And it would seem to be immaterial whether an infringing trade-mark is adopted by fraud or mistake, for the injury is the same. When an article, not of his manufacture, is sold with the mark or device affixed, which he has adopted to distinguish his own goods, a damage results to him. His label indicates to his customers that the article is made or sold by him, or by his authority, and he will be protected against any who attempt to pirate upon the good will of his friends or customers by using such sign without his authority." American Trade-Mark Cases, 142, 72, 87.

Name of Town or Locality.—It seems, that the name of a town or locality cannot be exclusively appropriated as a trade-mark. Tob. Co. v. McElwee, 94 N. C. 425.

Use of Surname.—As a rule, a trade mark cannot be taken in a surname, and any one named Bingham could start a school called the "Bingham School," in the absence of proof of intent to injure, or fraudulently attract the benefit of the good name and reputation acquired by a previously existing "Bingham School." Brown Chemical Co. v. Meyer, 139 U. S. 540, 11 S. Ct. 625, 35 L. Ed. 247; 2 Beach Inj., sec. 762. And certainly there could be no confusion between a Bingham School at Asheville and a school even of the identically same name at Mebane, N. C. Investor Pub. Co. v. Robinson, 82 Fed. 56; Bingham School v. Gray, 122 N. C. 699, 707, 30 S. E. 304.

It is beyond the scope of the powers of the State Legislature to establish a monopoly in a family name or to confer a patent right in its use. Bingham School v. Gray, 122 N. C. 699, 709, 30 S. E. 304, 41 L. R. A. 243.

But one may, by contract, conclude himself from the use of his own name in a given business, and the agreement will be enforced by the courts. Zagier v. Zagier, 167 N. C. 616, 83 S. E. 913.

§ 80-2. Property rights protected by filing for registry.—Whenever any person shall adopt and file for registry any label, trademark, term or design pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, the property, privileges, rights, remedies and interests in and to any such label, trademark, term or design, and in and to the use of same, provided or given by this chapter to, or otherwise conferred upon or enjoyed by, the person filing the same for the registry, shall be fully and completely secured, preserved and protected as the property of those entitled to the same before any such label, trademark, term or design has been actually applied to any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor, and put upon the market for sale or otherwise, and before any use or appropriation of any such label, trademark, term or design has been made in connection with any such goods, wares, merchandise or product of labor, as well as after the same has been used or applied to designate, make known or distinguish any such goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor and they have been put upon the market. (Rev., s. 3013; 1903, c. 271, s. 2; C. S. 3972.)

§ 80-3. Filing to be with secretary of state; contents of affidavits; fees.—Any person who has heretofore adopted and used, or shall hereafter adopt and use any label, trademark, term or design, as in this chapter provided, may file the same for registry in the office of the secretary of state, by leaving two copies, facsimiles or counterparts thereof, with the said secretary, and filing therewith a statement in the form of an affidavit, subscribed and sworn to by any such person, or by any officer, agent or attorney, if a corporation or association or union of workingmen, specifying the person by whom any such label, trademark, term or design is filed, and the class or character of the goods, wares, merchandise or products of labor to which the same has been or is intended to be appropriated or applied, and that the person so filing the same has the right to the use of the said label, trademark, term or design, and that no other person, firm or corporation has the right to such use, either in the identical form or in any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, without the permission or authority of the person filing the same, and that the copies, facsimiles or counterparts filed therewith are true and correct copies, facsimiles or counterparts of the genuine label, trademark, term or design of the person filing the same; and there shall be paid for such registry a fee of five dollars to the secretary of state for the use of the state, and the same recording fees required by law for recording certificate of organization of corporations. (Rev., s. 3014; 1903, c. 271, s. 3; 1935, c. 60; 1941, c. 255, s. 2; C. S. 3973.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 increased the registry fee from one to five dollars. The 1941 amendment inserted after the word "corporation" in the eleventh line the words, "or association or union of workingmen."

§ 80-4. Registration; certified copies evidence; fees.—The secretary of state, upon the filing of any such label, trademark, term or design that is not in conflict with § 80-6, shall register the same, and shall deliver to the person filing the same as many certified copies thereof, with his certificate of such registry, as any such person may request, and for every such copy and certificate there shall be paid to the secretary of state, for the use of the state, a fee of one dollar; and any such certified copy and certificate shall be admissible in evidence and competent and sufficient proof of the adoption, filing and registry of any such label, trademark, term or design, by any such person in any action or judicial proceeding in any of the courts of this state, and of due compliance with the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 3015; 1903, c. 271, s. 4; C. S. 3974.)

§ 80-5. Transfer of trademarks.—The right to use any registered label, trademark, term or design shall be granted only by an instrument in writing, duly filed in the office of the secretary of state. The fees for recording or filing such transfer and issuing copies thereof shall be the same as for filing such label, trademark, term or design. (Rev., s. 3016; C. S. 3975.)

§ 80-6. Similar trademarks refused registration.—It shall not be lawful for the secretary of state to register for any person any label, trademark, term or design that is in the identical form of any other label, trademark, term or design theretofore filed by any other person, or that bears any such near resemblance thereto as may be calculated to deceive, or that would be liable to be mistaken therefor. (Rev., s. 3017; 1903, c. 271, s. 5; C. S. 3976.)

§ 80-7. Fraudulent registration; penalty. — Any person who shall file or procure the filing and registry of any label, trademark, term or design in the office of the secretary of state under the provisions of this chapter, by making any false or fraudulent representations or declarations, with fraudulent intent, shall be liable to pay any damages sustained in consequence of any such registry, to be recoverd by or in behalf of the party injured thereby. (Rev., s. 3018; 1903, c. 271, s. 5; C. S. 3977.)

§ 80-8. Use of counterfit trademarks unlawful.—Whenever any person has adopted and filed for registry any label, trademark, term or design, as provided by law, and the same shall have been registered pursuant to law, it shall be unlawful for any other person to manufacture, use, sell, offer for sale, or in any way utter or circulate any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trademark, term or design, or have in possession, with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor to which or on which any counterfeit or imitation of any such label, trademark, term or design is attached, affixed, printed, stamped, impressed or displayed, or to sell or dispose of, or offer to sell or dispose of, or have in possession with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares, merchandise, or product of labor contained in any box, case, can or package to which or on which any such counterfeit or imitation is attached, affixed, printed, stamped, impressed or displayed. (Rev., s. 3019; 1903, c. 271, s. 6; C. S. 3978.)

When Injunction Granted.—If it appears that the trademark alleged to be imitation, though resembling the complainant's in some respects, would not probably deceive the ordinary mass of purchasers, an injunction will not be granted. An imitation is colorable, and will be enjoined, which requires a careful inspection to distinguish its mark and appearance from that of the manufacture imitated. Blackwell v. Wright, 73 N. C. 310, 313.

§ 80-9. Unauthorized use unlawful; use under license.—Whenever any person has adopted and registered any label, trademark, term or design, as provided by law, it shall be unlawful for any other person to make any use, sale, offer for sale or display of the genuine label, trademark, term or design of any such person filing the same, or to have any such genuine label, trademark, term or design in possession with intent that the same shall be used, sold, offered for sale, or displayed, or that the same shall be applied, attached or displayed in any manner whatever to or on any goods, wares or merchandise, or to sell, offer to sell, or dispose of, or have in possession with intent that the same shall be sold or disposed of, any goods, wares or merchandise in any box, case, can or package to or on which any such genuine label, trademark, term or design of any such person is attached, affixed, or displayed, or to make any use whatever of any such genuine label, trademark, term or design, without first obtaining in every such case the license of the person adopting, filing and registering the same; and any such license may be revoked and terminated at any time upon notice, and thereafter any use thereof shall be unlawful. (Rev., s. 3020; 1903, c. 271, s. 7; C. S. 3979.)

When Relief Granted.—Before the owner of a trade-mark can call upon the courts for relief, he must show not only that he has a clear legal right to the trade-mark, but that there has been a plain violation of it; and where a violation is alleged, the true inquiry is, whether the mark of the defendant is so assimilated to that of the plaintiff as to deceive purchasers. And it will make no difference whether the party designed to mislead the public or whether the symbol adopted was calculated to deceive. Blackwell v. Wright, 73 N. C. 310, 313.

§ 80-10. Remedies; damages; destruction of counterfeits. — Any person who has registered any label, trademark, term or design under the provisions of this chapter shall have a right of action against any person for the unauthorized use of such label, trademark, term or design, and the courts shall by appropriate remedies prevent the unauthorized or unlawful use, manufacture or display of any label, trademark, term or design, or the imitation or counterfeit thereof, or the sale, disposal or display of any articles of property on which any counterfeit or imitation of any registered label, trademark, term or design, or on which any genuine label, trademark, term or design may be used or displayed without proper authority; and shall further secure and protect all persons in all rights of property and interest which they may have in any label, trademark, term or design registered under this chapter; and the court shall award to the plaintiff any and all damages resulting from any such wrongful use of any such label, trademark, term or design; and any counterfeit or imitation of any labels, trademarks, terms or designs, and any die, engraving, mould or mechanical device or the manufacture of the same in the possession or under the control of the defendant, shall be delivered up to an officer of the court, to be destroyed, and any such genuine labels, trademarks, terms or designs in the possession or under the control of any such defendant shall be delivered to the plaintiff: Provided, however, no restraining order or injunction granted to any association or union of workingmen to prevent violations of this article shall have the effect of impounding or preventing the free flow into the channels of commerce of any goods, wares, merchandise or products already manufactured or in the process of manufacture to which any label, trademark, term or design has been affixed at the time of the institution of the action in which the injunctive relief is sought, unless the owner or manufacturer of said goods, wares, merchandise or products has permitted the affixing of such label, trademark, term or design with the actual knowledge that it was being used or affixed in violation of the provisions of this article. (Rev., s. 3021; 1903, c. 271, s. 8; 1941, c. 255, s. 3; C. S. 3980.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the proviso at the end of this section.

§ 80-11. Concurrent action for penalty.—In addition to any other rights, remedies or penalties provided by this chapter, and as concurrent therewith, any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this chapter shall be liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars, to be recovered by any person who has filed any such label, trademark, term or design. (Rev., s. 3022; 1903, c. 271, s. 9; C. S. 3981.)

§ 80-12. Use of private marks or labels to defraud; punishment.—If any person shall knowingly and willfully forge or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be forged or counterfeited, the private marks, tokens, stamps or labels of any mechanic, manufacturer or other person, being a resident of the United States, with intent to deceive and defraud the purchasers, mechanics, or manufacturers of any goods, wares or merchandise whatsoever, upon conviction thereof he shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars and not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment of not less than thirty days or more than five years, or both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3852; Code, s. 1038; 1870-1, c. 253, s. 1; C. S. 3982.)

§ 80-13. Selling goods with forged marks or labels, misdemeanor.—If any person shall vend any goods, wares or merchandise having thereon any forged or counterfeited marks, tokens, stamps or labels purporting to be the marks, tokens, stamps or labels of any person being a resident of the United States, knowing the same at the time of the purchase thereof by him to be forged or counterfeited, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3850; Code, s. 1039; 1870-1, c. 253, s. 2; C. S. 3983.)

§ 80-14. Misbranding sacks to defraud, misdemeanor.—If any person shall knowingly use the mark or brand of any other person on any sack, or shall knowingly impress on any sack the mark or brand of another person, with intent to defraud or for the purpose of enhancing the value of his own property, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3851; Code, s. 1040; 1874-5, c. 225; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 3984.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment struck out the words "and punished as if convicted of larceny" formerly appearing at the end of this section.

Art. 2. Timber Marks.

§ 80-15. Timber dealers may adopt.—Any person dealing in timber in any form shall be known as a timber dealer and as such may adopt a trademark, in the manner and with the effect in this article provided. (Rev., s. 3023; 1903, c. 261, s. 1; C. S. 3985.)

§ 80-16. How adopted, registered and published. — Every such dealer desiring to adopt a trademark may do so by the execution of a writing in form and effect as follows:

Such writing shall be acknowledged or proved for record in the same manner as deeds are acknowledged or proved, and shall be registered in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the principal office or place of business of such timber dealer may be, in a book to be kept for that purpose marked Registry of Timber Marks, also in office of secretary of state, and a copy thereof shall be published at least once in each week for four successive weeks in some newspaper printed in such county, or if there be no such newspaper printed therein, then in some newspaper of general circulation in such county. (Rev., s. 3024; 1889, c. 142; 1903, c. 261, s. 2; C. S. 3986.)

§ 80-17. Property in and use of trademarks.—Every trademark so adopted shall, from the date thereof, be the exclusive property of the person adopting the same. The proprietor of such trademark shall, in using the same, cause it to be plainly stamped, branded or otherwise impressed upon each piece of timber upon which the same is placed. (Rev., s. 3025; 1889, c. 142; 1903, c. 261, ss. 3, 4; C. S. 3987.)

§ 80-18. Effect of branding timber purchased.—When timber is purchased by the proprietor of any such trademark, and the said trademark is placed thereon as hereinbefore provided, such timber shall thenceforth be deemed the property of such purchaser, without any other or further delivery thereof, and such timber shall thereafter be at the risk of the purchaser, unless otherwise provided by contract in writing between the parties. (Rev., s. 3026; 1889, c. 142; 1903, c. 261, s. 6; C. S. 3988.)

§ 80-19. Trademark on timber evidence of ownership.—In any action, suit or contest in which the title to any timber, upon which any trademark has been placed as aforesaid, shall come in question, it shall be presumed that such timber was the property of the proprietor of such trademark, in the absence of satisfactory proof to the contrary. (Rev., s. 3027; 1903, c. 261, s. 7; C. S. 3989.)

§ 80-20. Fraudulent use of timber trademark, misdemeanor. — If any person shall use or attempt to use any timber trademark without the written consent of the proprietor thereof, or falsely and fraudulently place any trademark on timber not the property of the owner of such trademark without his written consent, or intentionally and without lawful authority remove, deface or destroy any timber trademark or the imprint thereof on any timber or intentionally put any such timber in such a position or place so remote from the stream from which it was taken or on which it was afloat as to render it inconvenient or unnecessarily expensive to replace the same in such stream, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3854; 1903, c. 261, ss. 3-5; C. S. 3990.)

§ 80-21. Larceny of branded timber.—If any person shall knowingly and unlawfully buy, sell, take and carry away, secrete, destroy or convert to his own use, any timber upon which a trademark is stamped, branded or otherwise impressed, or shall knowingly and unlawfully buy, sell, take and carry away, secrete, destroy or convert to his own use, any timber upon which a trademark has been intentionally and without lawful authority removed, defaced or destroyed, he shall be deemed guilty of larceny thereof and punished as in other cases of larceny. (Rev., s. 3853; 1903, c. 261, s. 5; C. S. 3991.)

§ 80-22. Altering timber trademark crime. — If any person shall willfully change, alter, erase or destroy any registered timber mark or brand put or cut upon any logs, timber, lumber or boards, except by the consent of the owner thereof, with intent to steal the said logs or timber, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both. (Rev., s. 3855; 1889, c. 142, s. 3; 1903, c. 41; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 3992.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment struck out the words "if the same shall have been done with a felonious intent, such person shall be guilty of larceny and punished as for that offense."

§ 80-23. Possession of branded logs without consent, misdemeanor. — If any person shall knowingly and willfully take up or have in his possession any log, timber, lumber or board upon which a registered timber mark or brand has been put or cut, except by the consent of the owner thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both. (Rev., s. 3856; 1889, c. 142, s. 4; 1903, c. 42; C. S. 3993.)

Art. 3. Mineral Waters and Beverages.

§ 80-24. Description of name, labels, or marks filed and published.—Any person, partnership or corporation engaged in manufacturing, bottling, selling or dealing in mineral, soda or aerated waters, beers, lager-beer, milk or other beverages, in kegs, boxes, trays, crates, bottles, syphons, barrels, casks, or other vessels, with his name or other marks or devices printed, impressed, or otherwise produced thereon, or upon labels pasted thereon, shall file with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which his principal office or place of business (or in case of a foreign corporation, its principal office or place of business or agency) is located, a description of the names, marks, or devices so used by him, and cause such description to be printed twice a week for two successive weeks in some daily newspaper published in said county, if there be a daily newspaper published therein, and if not, then in some newspaper published in said county once a week for two successive weeks. The description of the names, marks or devices, before being filed as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person filing the same, or in case of a partnership, by a partner, or in case of a corporation, by one of its officers or managers, and shall be acknowledged by the person signing the same as his act, or as the act of said partnership or corporation, before an officer competent to take acknowledgment of deeds. or package of cotton, or for other just cause; but, if such deductions are made, the nature of such deductions shall be indicated upon the principal weight ticket which shall also show the gross weight of the cotton, the amount deducted as tare, and the net weight of said cotton. (Rev., s. 3816; Code, s. 1007; 1874-5, c. 58, ss. 1, 3; 1943, c. 762, s 2; C. S. 5085.)

Surveys in another county; data as to variation recorded.—Before making surveys in any county other than the one in which the magnetic instrument and instruments for linear measure to be used have already been tested, said surveyor shall procure in writing from the register of deeds of the county in which said monuments have been established, nearest to the point where the survey is to be made, a statement giving the declination of the magnetic needle for the year in which it was last determined, and the rate and direction of the variation of said magnetic needle since that time, and this data shall be recorded as a part of the record of his survey. (Rev., s. 3078; 1899, c. 665, s. 1; C. S. 8079.)

Currituck.—The first to extend from the Virginia state line to Judy's cove; the second to extend from the Judy's cove to Josephus Baum's fish house; the third to extend from Josephus Baum's fish-house to the county line of Dare.

Editor's Note.—In the early case of Etheridge v. Jones, 30 N. C. 100, the question arose as to the right of the commissioners to take possession of a stranded ship without the consent of the master. It was held in that case that the commissioners did not have exclusive control of a wrecked vessel and the master or owner could take control of and dispose of a wrecked vessel without any responsibility to the commissioners.

The case of Hitfield v. Baum, 35 N. C. 394, 395, lays down the rule that there is an easement or right of way reserved by necessity for any person to enter over the land of another for the purpose of reaching and carrying away the cargo of a wrecked vessel.

§ 82-2. Commissioners of wrecks; appointment, residence and term of office. — The governor, whenever it may be necessary, shall appoint a commissioner of wrecks for each of the districts designated in § 82-1. Each commissioner shall reside in the district for which he is appointed, unless separated by navigable waters, in which case the distance shall not exceed three miles. The restrictions as to residence shall not apply to Hyde county. No person who holds any office of profit or trust under the laws of the United States or the state of North Carolina, nor any person who is a pilot, shall hold the office of commissioner of wrecks. The term of office shall be for two years. (Rev., s. 5440; 1899, c. 79, ss. 10, 12, 13; 1903, c. 85; 1907, c. 398; C. S. 8083.)

§ 82-3. Commissioners to give bond.—Every person appointed a commissioner of wrecks shall enter into a bond, with good and sufficient surety, in the sum of two thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina and conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties. This bond shall be approved by the board of county commissioners and deposited in the office of the clerk of the superior court. (Rev., s. 305; 1899, c. 79, s. 10; C. S. 8084.)

§ 82-4. Commissioners to take oath of office.—Every person appointed a commissioner of wrecks, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall go before some officer duly authorized to administer oaths and take an oath to perform faithfully the duties of his office, and the oaths to support the constitution of the state and of the United States. (Rev., s. 5441; 1899, c. 79, s. 11; C. S. 8085.)

§ 82-5. Duty of commissioners.—Upon the earliest intelligence given that any ship or vessel is stranded, it shall be the duty of the commissioner in whose district the same is stranded, or his duly authorized agent, to repair at once to such wrecked ship or vessel, and upon the permission of its master to summon immediately a sufficient number of men who, acting under the direction of the commissioner or his agent, shall at once proceed to save the cargo and material of such wrecked vessel. As soon as any such stranded property is saved it shall be immediately placed under guard, one guard to be selected by the commissioner or owner representing the same, and one other guard to be selected by the salvors. Such goods or stranded property shall be kept under strict guard until sold or the salvors are paid as provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 5442; 1899, c. 79, s. 14; 1901, c. 178; C. S. 8086.)

§ 82-6. Salvage to be paid, or its payment secured, before release of goods. — Every person who assists in saving such cargo or material shall, within thirty days after saving the same, be paid a reasonable reward by the owner or master of the stranded vessel, or by the merchant whose vessel or goods are saved. In default of payment of a reasonable compensation the goods or other property so saved shall remain in the joint custody of the commissioner and salvors until all such charges are paid, or until the payment thereof is secured to the satisfaction of the parties saving such goods or other property. (Rev., s. 5443; 1899, c. 79, ss. 14, 15; C. S. 8087.)

§ 82-7. Adjustment of salvage when the parties cannot agree.—If the parties shall disagree touching the amount of reward or salvage to be paid to the persons employed, the commander, owner, or commissioner who represents the property saved shall choose one disinterested person, and the salvors shall nominate one other, who shall adjust and ascertain the same. If the persons thus chosen cannot agree, they shall choose one other indifferent person as umpire to decide between them: Provided, that the amount to be paid the salvors shall be determined and agreed upon before sale is made of such property. (Rev., s. 5444; 1899, c. 79, s. 16; C. S. 8088.)

§ 82-8. Sale of wrecked property for salvage; compensation of commissioner.—If the owner of the vessel, or the property which has been saved, shall fail for thirty days after the salvage has been ascertained, either by agreement or as provided for in § 82-7, to pay such salvage, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of wrecks in charge of such stranded or wrecked vessel or other property to sell the same at public sale, after first advertising such sale in the same manner as is required for sales of personal property under execution. Each commissioner shall provide himself with books and shall record in them all such sales by him made. He shall receive for selling any such wrecked or stranded property five per centum on the amount of sales, and in addition thereto he shall receive his actual expenses incurred in going to and returning from the place of the wreck, or where the property is stranded, to be paid out of the gross amount of such sales. At any public sale of stranded property, the salvors may select one person and the commissioner one other, who shall keep an accurate account of the sales, make the collections, settle with the commissioner his fees, and pay to the salvors the amount agreed on or awarded by the referees. (Rev., s. 5445; 1899, c. 79, s. 17; 1901, c. 178; 1905, c. 66; C. S. 8089.)

§ 82-9. Compensation of commissioner when there is no sale.—If any owner or merchant shall remove any such goods or other stranded property from the custody of any commissioner without a sale, then such commissioner shall receive, in addition to his actual expenses incurred for the purposes mentioned in § 82-8, two and one-half per centum on the amount of the value of such property, which amount shall be ascertained in the same manner as is provided for ascertaining the amount of the reward to be paid salvors in those cases where such reward cannot be determined by agreement. No commissioner shall receive any salvage or other reward except the commission prescribed in this chapter. (Rev., s. 5446; 1899, c. 79, ss. 17, 18; 1905, c. 66; C. S. 8090.)

§ 82-10. Sale of unclaimed property.—Whenever any vessel, cargo, or material of any ship or vessel or any other property shall be cast ashore or taken up at sea and brought to shore, and no person is present to claim the same as owner, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of the district where the same is brought or cast ashore to take charge of such property and to proceed to advertise and sell it at public sale, first giving twenty days notice of such sale at three public places. On making any such sale the commissioner shall, out of the gross proceeds thereof, retain a commission of five per centum as his compensation and the amount awarded to the salvors pursuant to the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 5447; 1899, c. 79, ss. 19, 20; C. S. 8091.)

§ 82-11. Proceeds of sale to be paid to clerk of superior court.—When any commissioner shall undertake to sell any property where no person is or has been present to claim the same, it shall be his duty to notify the clerk of the superior court of his county of such sale. After any such sale is made, the commissioner shall forward to such clerk the proceeds of the sale, after deducting his commission of five per centum and paying the salvors the amount awarded to them as provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 5448; 1899, c. 79, s. 21; C. S. 8092.)

§ 82-12. Disposition of proceeds of sale by clerk.—It shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court to make a record and keep an account of all moneys received by him from any commissioner of wrecks, and he shall advertise in some weekly newspaper published in North Carolina the amount so received, giving a true description of the marks, numbers, and kinds of goods or other stranded property, for which the same was sold. Each commissioner shall give the clerk of the superior court all necessary information for the proper enforcement of this section in each return made by him to the clerk. The clerk shall advertise for the space of sixty days, and if no person shall come to claim the money within a year and a day from the date of advertisement, then the clerk holding such money shall transmit the same, after deducting one per centum for his trouble and also after deducting the cost of advertising, to the treasurer of the state for the benefit of the public school funds. (Rev., s. 5449; 1899, c. 79, s. 22; C. S. 8093.)

§ 82-13. Proof of ownership of property sold.—If any person shall claim to be the owner of any property sold as provided in § 82-10 and shall present his claim to the clerk holding the money arising from the sale of such property, it shall be the duty of such person to prove his title to the satisfaction of the clerk. If any person making a claim to such property be unknown to the clerk, then the clerk shall submit such claim to the consideration of three disinterested persons, one of whom shall be chosen by the claimant, and the decision of such referees shall always be final. (Rev., s. 5450; 1899, c. 79, s. 23; C. S. 8094.)

§ 82-14. Stranded property to be reported; failure to report misdemeanor.—If any person shall find any wrecked or stranded property on or near the seashore, no person being present to claim the same, he shall as soon as possible give information thereof to the nearest commissioner of wrecks, who shall advertise and sell the same as provided in this chapter. If such finder shall refuse to report the goods so found, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., ss. 3548, 5451; 1899, c. 79, s. 24; C. S. 8095.)

§ 82-15. Expenses to be deducted from proceeds of sales.—All necessary expenses shall be deducted from the gross proceeds of any sales made under this chapter. Such necessary expenses shall include only the cost of advertising, guarding, and surveying, when a survey is called. (Rev., s. 5452; 1899, c. 79, s. 19; C. S. 8096.)

§ 82-16. Violation of chapter a misdemeanor.—If any person shall violate any of the provisions of this chapter he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3562; 1899, c. 79, s. 26; C. S. 8097.)

§ 82-17. Commissioner violating chapter liable for double damages and guilty of a misdemeanor.—If any commissioner of wrecks shall by fraud or wilful neglect violate any of the provisions of this chapter, or abuse the trust reposed in him, he shall forfeit and pay double the amount of damages to the party aggrieved. He shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall forfeit his office and shall thereafter be incapable of acting as commissioner. (Rev. s. 3563; 1899, c. 79, s. 25; C. S. 8098.)

§ 82-18. Interfering with commissioner in the discharge of his duties.—If any person shall wilfully and unlawfully resist, delay, or obstruct any commissioner of wrecks in discharging or attempting to discharge his duties as such commissioner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3564; 1905, c. 66, s. 2; C. S. 8099.)

Chapter 83. Architects.

§ 83-1. Architecture defined.—For the purpose of this chapter, the practice of architecture consists of rendering or offering to render for compensation design and/or related supervision services, of an aesthetic and/or structural nature, for the construction of buildings, structures or projects, wherein the safeguarding of life, health, and property and the promotion of the public welfare may be involved. An architect is a person who practices architecture as herein defined; provided that nothing herein shall prevent a building contractor from drafting designs and plans without compensation for use by him in constructing or repairing buildings for the owner. (1915, c. 270, s. 9; 1941, c. 369, s. 3; C. S. 4985.)

Editor's Note.—Tht 1941 amendment inserted the above in place of the former section.

For comment on this amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 446.

§ 83-2. State board of architectual examination and registration; creation; membership; vacancies.—There shall be a state board of architectural examination and registration, consisting of five members, to be appointed by the governor in the following manner, to wit: Within thirty days after the ninth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, the governor shall appoint five persons who are reputable architects residing in the state of North Carolina, who have been engaged in the practice of architecture at least ten years. The five persons so appointed by the governor shall constitute the board of architectural examination and registration, and they shall be appointed for one, two, three, four, and five years, respectively. Thereafter, in each year, the governor in like manner shall appoint one licensed architect to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of office, the term of such new members to be for five years. If vacancy shall occur in the board for any cause, the same shall be filled by the appointment of the governor. (1915, c. 270, s. 1; C. S. 4986.)

§ 83-3. Oath of members. — Each member of the state board of architectural examination and registration shall, before entering upon the discharge of the duties of his office, take and file with the secretary of state an oath in writing to properly perform the duties of his office as a member of said board, and to uphold the constitution of North Carolina and the constitution of the United States. (1915, c. 270, s. 2; C. S. 4987.)

§ 83-4. Organization of board; officers; treasurer's bond.—The said board shall, within thirty days after its appointment by the governor, meet in the city of Raleigh, at a time and place to be designated by the governor, and organize by electing a president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, each to serve for one year. Said board shall have power to make such by-laws, rules, and regulations as it shall deem best, provided the same are not in conflict with the laws of North Carolina. The treasurer shall give bond in such sum as the board shall determine, with such security as shall be approved by the board, said bond to be conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office and for the faithful accounting of all moneys and other property as shall come into his hands. (1915, c. 270, s. 1; C. S. 4988.)

§ 83-5. Seal of board.—The board shall adopt a seal for its own use. The seal shall have the words "Board of Architectural Examination and Registration, State of North Carolina," and the Secretary shall have charge, care, and custody thereof. (1915, c. 270, s. 5; C. S. 4989.)

§ 83-6. Meeting of board; quorum.—The board shall meet once a year in July of each succeeding year, for the purpose of electing officers and transacting such other business as may properly come before it. Due notice of such annul meeting, and the time and place thereof, shall be given to each member by letter, sent to his last postoffice address at least ten days before the meetings, and thirty days notice of such annual meeting shall be given in some newspaper published in the city of Raleigh, at least once a week for four weeks preceding such meeting. Three members of the board shall constitute a quorum. (1915, c. 270, s. 1; C. S. 4990.)

§ 83-7. Record of proceedings and of registration.—The secretary shall keep a record of the proceedings of the board and registration for all applicants for registration and admission to practice architecture, giving the name and location of the institution or place of training where the applicant was prepared for the practice of architecture, and such other information as the board may deem proper and useful. This registration shall be prima facie evidence of all matters recorded therein. (1915, c. 270, s. 1; C. S. 4991.)

§ 83-8. Examination and certificate of applicant.—Any person hereafter desiring to be registered and admitted to the practice of architecture in the state shall make a written application for examination to the board of architectural examination and registration, on a form prescribed by the board, giving his name, age (which shall not be less than twenty-one years), his residence, and such evidence of his qualification and proficiency as may be prescribed by said board, which application shall be accompanied by twenty-five dollars. If said application is satisfactory to the board, then the applicant shall be entitled to an examination to determine his qualifications. If the result of the examination of any applicant shall be satisfactory to the board, then the board shall issue to the applicant a certificate to practice architecture in North Carolina. Any person failing to pass such examination may be reëxamined at any regular meeting of the board without additional fee. (1915, c. 270, s. 3; 1919, c. 336, s. 1; C. S. 4992.)

§ 83-9. Refusal, revocation, or suspension of certificates.—Said board may refuse to grant certificate to any person convicted of a felony, or who, in the opinion of the board, has been guilty of gross, unprofessional conduct, or who is addicted to habits of such character as to render him unfit to practice architecture. The board of architectual examination and registration may suspend for a period or revoke the certificate of admission to practice, and forbid practice by any architect upon conviction, after a fair and impartial trial, of any dishonest practice, unprofessional conduct, or incompetence. For the purpose of such trial, the board shall have full power to subpœna and examine witnesses under oath as to the facts of the case. Any architect against whom charges are preferred shall have not less than sixty days notice before the trial of his case, and shall have the right to have witnesses subpœnaed in his behalf, and of being heard in person and by counsel. Any such trial shall be open to the public. (1915, c. 270, s. 5; 1919, c. 336, s. 3; C. S. 4993.)

§ 83-10. Examination fees; expenses of board.—All examination fees shall be paid in advance to the treasurer of said board of architectural examination and registration. The state of North Carolina shall not be liable for the compensation of any members or officers of said board. All expenses incurred by said board in the necessary discharge of their duties shall be paid out of funds derived from examination fees herein provided for, and shall be paid by the treasurer upon warrant drawn by the secretary and approved by the president. The said board shall have the power to determine what are necessary expenses and to fix the salaries of the respective officers. (1915, c. 270, s. 6; C. S. 4994.)

§ 83-11. Annual renewal of certificate; fee.—Every architect continuing his practice in the state shall, on or before the first day of July in each year, obtain from the board of architectural examination and registration a renewal of his certificate for the ensuing year upon the payment of a fee of five dollars, and upon failure to do so shall have his certificate of admission to practice revoked, but such certificate may be renewed at any time within one year upon the payment of a fee of ten dollars. (1919, c. 336, s. 2; C. S. 4995.)

§ 83-12. Holding out as architect without having certificate, provisos.—Any person not registered under this chapter who shall advertise or put up a sign or card or other device, or in any other way hold himself out to the public as an architect, or practice arichitecture as herein defined, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars: Provided, however, that nothing herein shall prevent any person from making plans or data for buildings for themselves: Provided, further, that nothing in this chapter shall prevent any person from selling or furnishing plans for the construction of residence or farm or commercial buildings of a value not exceeding fifteen thousand dollars; provided, further, that nothing in this chapter shall prevent any registered engineer duly licensed in this state from furnishing design or supervision services for plants or structures which are elements of engineering projects or utilities: And provided further, that nothing in this chapter shall prevent the procuring of plans and specifications from an architect residing outside of this state. Nonresident architects who come within the state to do business shall be subject to the same examination and upon same terms and conditions as resident applicants, unless such nonresident architects are permitted to engage in business in this state under the terms of the preceding section. (1915, c. 270, s. 4; 1941, c. 369, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 4996.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted in the first sentence the words "or practice architecture as herein defined." It also inserted the second and third provisos and made changes in the first proviso.

§ 83-13. Seal of registered architect; plans to bear seal.—Every architect who shall have obtained from said board a certificate, shall have a seal which must contain the name of the architect, his place of business, and the words "Registered Architect, of North Carolina," and he shall stamp all drawings and specifications issued from his office, for use in this state, with an impression of said seal. (1915, c. 270, s. 7; C. S. 4997.)

§ 83-14. County record of registered architects; fees.—Every person holding a certificate of said board to practice architecture shall have said certificate recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he resides or has his principal office. Said clerk shall record the same in a book to be kept by him, entitled "Record of Architecture," and the clerk shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for recording such certificate: Provided, however, that in any counties where the clerk is on a salary and not on a fee basis, then the said fee of one dollar shall be paid into the county treasury. It shall be unlawful for any person to hold himself out as an architect until said certificate shall have been recorded, and any person found guilty of holding himself out as an architect without registration of his certificate, as aforesaid, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not more than fifty dollars, in the discretion of the court. (1915, c. 270, s. 8; C. S. 4998.)

§ 83-15. Copy to registered architects.—A notice and copy of this chapter shall be mailed by the secretary of the state board of architectural examination and registration to each architect in and out of the state to whom a certificate has been issued under this chapter. (1919, c. 336, s. 3; C. S. 4993.)

Chapter 84. Attorneys at Law.

Art. 1. Qualifications of Attorney; Unauthorized Practice of Law.

§ 84-1. Oaths taken in open court.—Attorneys before they shall be admitted to practice law shall, in open court before a justice of the supreme or judge of the superior court, take the oath prescribed for attorneys, and also the oaths of allegiance to the state, and to support the constitution of the United States, prescribed for all public officers, and the same shall be entered on the records of the court; and, upon such qualification had, and oath taken, may act as attorneys during their good behavior. (Rev., s. 209; Code, s. 19; R. C., c. 9, s. 3; 1777, c. 115, s. 8; C. S. 197.)

Non-Resident Attorneys. — As this section requires the oath of allegiance to the state, it debars a citizen of another state from obtaining a license to practice law and a non-resident attorney does not acquire the right to practice habitually in this state by having been previously allowed, through the courtesy of the courts, to appear in special cases. Manning v. Roanoke, etc., R. Co., 122 N. C. 824, 828, 28 S. E. 963.

§ 84-2. Persons disqualified.—No clerk of the superior or supreme court, nor deputy or assistant clerk of said courts, nor register of deeds, nor sheriff, nor any justice of the peace, nor county commissioner shall practice law. Persons violating this provision shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than two hundred dollars. This section shall not apply to Confederate soldiers. (Rev., ss. 210, 3641; Code, ss. 27, 28, 110; 1870-1, c. 90; 1883, c. 406; 1871-2, c. 120; 1880, c. 43; C. C. P., s. 424; 1919, c. 205; 1933, c. 15; 1941, c. 177; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 198.)

Local Modification.—Burke: 1933, c. 135; Madison: 1935, c. 214.

Editor's Note.—Registers of deeds were, by Public Laws 1933, c. 15, added to the list of these excluded from practice.

The 1943 amendment made the former second paragraph of this section into a new section designated as § 84-2.1. That paragraph had been added by tht 1941 amendment.

§ 84-2.1. "Practice law" defined.—The phrase "practice law" as used in this chapter is defined to be performing any legal service for any other person, firm or corporation, with or without compensation, specifically including the preparation of deeds, mortgages, wills, trust instruments, reports of guardians, trustees, administrators, or executors, abstracting or passing upon titles, the preparation and filing of petitions for use in any court, or assisting by advice, counsel, or otherwise in any such legal work; and to advise or give opinion upon the legal rights of any person, firm or corporation: Provided, that the above reference to particular acts which are specifically included within the definition of the phrase "practice law" shall not be construed to limit the foregoing general definition of such term, but shall be construed to include the foregoing particular acts, as well as all other acts within said general definition. (Rev., ss. 210, 3641; Code, ss. 27, 28, 110; 1870-1, c. 90; 1883, c. 406; 1871-2, c. 120; 1880, c. 43; C. C. P., s. 424; 1919, c. 205; 1933, c. 15; 1941, c. 177; 1943, c. 543; C. S. 198.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1943 amendment this section appeared as the second paragraph of § 84-2. It had been added as said paragraph by the 1941 amendment. For comment on the 1941 act, see 19 N. C. L. Rev. 454.

What Constitutes Practicing Law. — To constitute a practicing of law, within the prohibition of this section, it is necessary that the person charged with its violation shall have customarily or habitually held himself out to the public as a lawyer, or that he demanded compensation for his services as such. State v. Bryan, 98 N. C. 644, 4 S. E. 522.

The fact that a person on one occasion acted as an attorney for a party to an action, is some evidence for the jury to consider, but is not conclusive of the question. Id.

§ 84-3. Officers of inferior courts disqualified in certain cases.—No judge or prosecuting attorney of any recorder's, municipal, or county court shall appear in any other court on behalf of the defendant in a criminal action, where such criminal action has been tried in the court of such officer. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars. (1917, c. 213; C. S. 199.)

Local Modification.—Iredell: 1917, c. 213, s. 3.

§ 84-4. Corporations and persons other than members of state bar prohibited from practicing law; exceptions. — It shall be unlawful for any corporation or any person or association of persons, except members of the bar of the state of North Carolina admitted and licensed to practice as attorneys at law, to appear as attorney or counsellor-at-law in any action or proceeding in any court in this state or before any judicial body or the North Carolina industrial commission or the unemployment compensation commission; to maintain, conduct, or defend the same, except in his own behalf as a party thereto; or, by word, sign, letter, or advertisement, to hold out himself, or themselves, as competent or qualified to give legal advice or counsel, or to prepare legal documents, or as being engaged in advising or counselling in law or acting as attorney or counsellor-at-law, or in furnishing the services of a lawyer or lawyers; and it shall be unlawful for any person or association of persons except members of the Bar, for a fee or any consideration, to give legal advice or counsel, perform for or furnish to another legal services, or, for or without a fee or any consideration, to prepare directly or through another for another person, firm or corporation, any will or testamentary disposition, or instrument of trust serving purposes similar to those of a will, except life insurance trusts, or, for a fee or any consideration, to organize corporations or prepare for another person, firm or corporation, any other legal document. Provided, that nothing herein shall prohibit any person from conferring with a person, firm or corporation with respect to the creation of a fiduciary relationship, or from coöperating with a licensed attorney of another in preparing any such legal document, if such attorney maintains his own place of business and is not an officer of a corporation represented by such person; or from drawing a will for another in an emergency wherein the imminence of death leaves insufficient time to have the same drawn and its execution supervised by a licensed attorney at law. (1931, c. 157, s. 1; 1937, c. 155, s. 1.)

Cross Reference.—As to officers disqualified to practice law, see § 84-2.

Editor's Note.—The act from which this section was codified became effective April 1, 1931, and provided that it should not apply to or affect "litigation now pending in any court."

The 1937 amendment inserted the words "or the unemployment compensation commission" immediately preceding the first semicolon in this section.

This section is constitutional and valid, the right to practice law being subject to legislative regulation within constitutional restrictions and limitations, and the statute not being in contravention of any provision of the state or federal constitutions. Seawell v. Carolina Motor Club, 209 N. C. 624, 184 S. E. 540.

The right to practice law is personal and may not be exercised by a corporation either directly or indirectly by employing lawyers to practice for it. Seawell v. Carolina Motor Club, 209 N. C. 624, 184 S. E. 540.

What Is Deemed Practice of Law.—The practice of law is not limited to the conduct of cases in court, but embraces, in its general sense, legal advice and counsel and the preparation of legal documents and contracts by which legal rights are secured, although such matter may or may not be pending in court. Seawell v. Carolina Motor Club, 209 N. C. 624, 184 S. E. 540.

Services of Motor Clubs Held to Violate Section.—Where defendant corporations, as a part of their services, were engaged in giving legal advice, in employing attorneys for members, in allowing lay members of the incorporated club to write letters on club stationery to persons involved in accidents with members of the club advising that such persons were liable in damages in law for negligence in causing such accidents, and in drawing up receipts stating that a certain sum was received as settlement of such damages when collections were made as a result of such letters, they were held to be engaged in the practice of law in violation of this section. Seawell v. Carolina Motor Club, 209 N. C. 624, 184 S. E. 540.

§ 84-5. Further prohibition as to practice of law by corporation; exceptions.—It shall be unlawful for any corporation to practice or appear as an attorney for any person other than itself in any court in this state, or before any judicial body or the North Carolina industrial commission or the unemployment compensation commission, or hold itself out to the public or advertise as being entitled to practice law; and no corporation shall organize corporations, or draw agreements, or other legal documents not relating to its lawful business, or draw wills, or practice law, or give legal advice not relating to its lawful business; or hold itself out in any manner as being entitled to do any of the foregoing acts, by or through any person orally or by advertisement, letter or circular: Provided, that the foregoing shall not prevent a corporation from employing an attorney in regard to its own affairs or in any litigation to which it may be a party. Provided, further, that the above provisions of this section and § 84-4 shall not be construed to prohibit a person or corporation acting in a fiduciary capacity from transacting the necessary clerical business incidental to the routine or usual administration of estates, trusts, guardianships, or other similar fiduciary capacities, such as offering wills for probate in common form, securing authority to expend principal as guardian or trustee, filing accounts, preparing and filing tax returns of every nature, and other such administrative acts, where no special compensation is charged for such service and no compensation whatever is charged or received other than the usual commissions allowed by the court for administering the trust, or provided for by the instrument creating the trust or other fiduciary relationship. And provided, further, that nothing herein shall prohibit any insurance company from causing to be defended, or prosecuted, or from offering to cause to be defended, through lawyers of its own selection, the insured in policies issued or to be issued by it, in accordance with the terms of such policies; and shall not prohibit one such licensed attorney at law from acting for several common carriers and/or other corporations and/or associations or any of its subsidiaries pursuant to arrangement between said corporations and/or associations. (1931, c. 157, s. 2; 1937, c. 155, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment inserted the words "or the unemployment compensation commission" immediately preceding the first semicolon in this section.

§ 84-6. Exacting fee for conducting foreclosures prohibited to all except licensed attorneys.—It shall be unlawful to exact, charge, or receive any attorney's fee for the foreclosure of any mortgage under power of sale, unless the foreclosure is conducted by a licensed attorney at law of North Carolina, and unless the full amount charged as attorney's fee is actually paid to and received and retained by such attorney, without being directly or indirectly shared with or rebated to any one else, and it shall be unlawful for any such attorney to make any showing that he has received such a fee unless he has received the same, or to share with or rebate to any other person, firm, or corporation such fee or any part thereof received by him; but such attorney may divide such fee with another licensed attorney at law maintaining his own place of business and not an officer or employee of the foreclosing party, if such attorney has assisted in performing the services for which the fee is paid, or resides in a place other than that where the foreclosure proceedings are conducted, and has forwarded the case to the attorney conducting such foreclosure. (1931, c. 157, s. 3.)

§ 84-7. Solicitors, upon application, to bring injunction or criminal proceedings. — The solicitor of any of the superior courts shall, upon the application of any member of the Bar, or of any bar association, of the State of North Carolina, bring such action in the name of the State as may be proper to enjoin any such person, corporation, or association of persons who it is alleged are violating the provisions of §§ 84-4 to 84-8, and it shall be the duty of the solicitors of this State to indict any person, corporation, or association of persons upon the receipt of information of the violation of the provisions of §§ 84-4 to 84-8. (1931, c. 157, s. 4.)

Cross Reference.—As to the power of the North Carolina State Bar to investigate and enjoin unauthorized practice of law, see § 84-37.

§ 84-8. Punishment for violations; legal clinics of law schools excepted.—Any person, corporation, or association of persons violating the provisions of §§ 84-4 to 84-8 shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. Provided, that §§ 84-4 to 84-8 shall not apply to any law school or law schools conducting a legal clinic and receiving as their clientage only those persons unable financially to compensate for legal advice or services rendered. (1931, c. 157, s. 5; 1931, c. 347.)

§ 84-9. Unlawful for any one except attorney to appear for creditor in insolvency and certain other proceedings.—It shall be unlawful for any corporation, or any firm or other association of persons other than a law firm, or for any individual other than an attorney duly licensed to practice law, to appear for another in any bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding, or in any action or proceeding for or growing out of the appointment of a receiver, or in any matter involving an assignment for the benefit of creditors, or to present or vote any claim of another, whether under an assignment or transfer of such claim or in any other manner, in any of the actions, proceedings or matters hereinabove set out. (1931, c. 208, s. 2.)

Cross Reference.—As to unlawful solicitation of claims of creditors in insolvency, etc., proceedings, see § 23-46.

§ 84-10. Violation of preceding section a misdemeanor.—Any individual, corporation, or firm or other association of persons violating any provision of § 84-9 shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1931, c. 208, s. 3.)

Art. 2. Relation to Client.

§ 84-11. Authority filed or produced if requested.—Every attorney who claims to enter an appearance for any person shall, upon being required so to do, produce and file in the clerk's office of the court in which he claims to enter an appearance, a power or authority to that effect signed by the persons or some one of them for whom he is about to enter an appearance, or by some person duly authorized in that behalf, otherwise he shall not be allowed so to do: Provided, that when any attorney claims to enter an appearance by virtue of a letter to him directed (whether such letter purport a general or particular employment), and it is necessary for him to retain the letter in his own possession, he shall, on the production of said letter setting forth such employment, be allowed to enter his appearance, and the clerk shall make a note to that effect upon the docket. (Rev., s. 213; Code, s. 29; R. C., c. 31, s. 57; C. S. 200.)

Cross Reference.—As to general and specific appearances, see § 1-11.

Sufficiency of Writing. — The power of attorney which a lawyer may be required to file, pursuant to this section, is some writing addressed to him by the client or an agent for the client. Therefore, letters written by the client to third persons expressing qualification because of the employment of a particular attorney will not suffice to supply the want of power. Day v. Adams, 63 N. C. 254.

A power of attorney, signed by the purchaser of a note, in the name of the payee, is sufficient authority under this section for an attorney at law to appear in a cause in court, although the agent has no written authority to make the power. Johnson v. Sikes, 49 N. C. 70.

A power of attorney, given by a married woman, under this section, to dismiss an action need not be registered. Hollingsworth v. Harman, 83 N. C. 153, 154.

Time of Demand for Authority. — In Reece v. Reece, 66 N. C. 377 it is held that the defendant has the right, because of this section, to demand the authority at the return term of a summons.

If the demand for the power of attorney be made at the return term, it is the practice and within the discretion of the judge to extend the time; if, however, such demand is not made at the proper time, and before the right to appear has been recognized it comes too late, unless there be peculiar circumstances tending to excuse the party for not making it in apt time. Reece v. Reece, 65 N. C. 377.

After an attorney has entered an appearance and has been recognized by the court as attorney in the cause, no written authority can be required of him at a subsequent time. This evidently means that the opposite party shall not call in question his authority, unless he does so within the time and in accordance with the provision of this section. New Bern v. Jones, 63 N. C. 606, 607; Day v. Adams, 63 N. C. 254, 256.

When Client Present. — If a written authority be required under this section the attorney must produce the same, even if his client is present at the bar of the court. Day v. Adams, 63 N. C. 254, 256.

Authority to Dismiss Action. — Upon special appearance of the attorneys of a husband whose property has been attached by the wife, for the purpose of dismissing the action, the court should, on motion made, require them to file their written authority under this section. Walton v. Walton, 178 N. C. 73, 100 S. E. 176.

§ 84-12. Failure to file complaint, attorney liable for costs.—When a plaintiff is compelled to pay the costs of his suit in consequence of a failure on the part of his attorney to file his complaint in proper time, he may sue such attorney for all the costs by him so paid, and the receipt of the clerk may be given in evidence in support of such claim. (Rev., s. 214; Code, s. 22; R. C., c. 9, s. 5; 1786, c. 253, s. 6; C. S. 201.)

Power of Courts to Compel Payment. — This section is not exhaustive, and the courts have power to order counsel to pay costs of cases in which they have been guilty of gross negligence (even of a kind not included in this section) such conduct being a sort of contempt. Ex parte Robins, 63 N. C. 309.

§ 84-13. Fraudulent practice, attorney liable in double damages.—If any attorney commits any fraudulent practice, he shall be liable in an action to the party injured, and on the verdict passing against him, judgment shall be given for the plaintiff to recover double damages. (Rev., s. 215; Code, s. 23; R. C., c. 9, s. 6; 1743, c. 37; C. S. 202.)

Aliens Prevented from Practicing. — In Ex parte Thompson, 10 N. C. 355, 362, the court said "No one should be presented to the public under the panoply of such a license (to practice law), against whom an injured suitor would not have the full benefit of such legal remedy as the laws of the state provide, in the event of fraudulent or negligent practice." Hence the court reasoned that an alien could not be admitted to practice, as actions under this section would be removable to the United States courts.

Presumption of Fraud. — The relation of attorney and client is one of a fiduciary character, and gives rise to a presumption of fraud when the former, in dealing with the latter, obtains an advantage. Egerton v. Logan, 81 N. C. 172.

Art. 3. Arguments.

§ 84-14. Court's control of argument.—In all trials in the superior courts there shall be allowed two addresses to the jury for the state or plaintiff and two for the defendant, except in capital felonies, when there shall be no limit as to number. The Judges of the Superior Court are authorized to limit the time of argument of Counsel to the jury on the trial of actions, civil and criminal as follows: To not less than one hour on each side in misdemeanors and appeals from Justices of the peace; to not less than two hours on each side in all other civil actions and in felonies less than capital; in capital felonies, the time of argument of Counsel may not be limited otherwise than by consent, except that the court may limit the number of those who may address the jury to three Counsel on each side. Where any greater number of addresses or any extension of time are desired, motion shall be made, and it shall be in the discretion of the judge to allow the same or not, as the interests of justice may require. In jury trials the whole case as well of law as of fact may be argued to the jury. (Rev., s. 216; 1903, c. 433; 1927, ch. 52; C. S. 203.)

Discretion of Court. — The trial judge has a large discretion in controlling and directing the argument of counsel, but, under this section, this does not include the right to deprive a litigant of the benefit of his counsel's argument when it is confined within proper bounds and is addressed to the material facts of the case. Puett v. Caldwell, etc., R. Co., 141 N. C. 332, 53 S. E. 852; Irvin v. Southern R. Co., 164 N. C. 5, 17, 80 S. E. 78.

It is the duty of the judge to interfere when the remarks of counsel are not warranted by the evidence and are calculated to mislead or prejudice the jury. State v. Howley, 220 N. C. 113, 16 S. E. (2d) 705.

Arguing Law and Fact. — It is reversible error for the trial judge not to permit attorneys to argue law to the jury and to apply in the argument the decisions of the court as provided by this section. Howard v. Western Union Tel. Co., 170 N. C. 495, 87 S. E. 313.

Failure to charge upon a certain point is reversible error especially after counsel has argued the whole case "as well of law as of fact" as is permitted by this section. Nichols v. Fibre Co., 190 N. C. 1, 128 S. E. 471. It is the duty of the trial judge to instruct the jury upon the law, and he may correctly tell them to disregard the law as argued to them by counsel. Sears, Roebuck & Co. v. Banking Co., 191 N. C. 500, 132 S. E. 468.

Same—Reading and Commenting on Reported Cases. — As counsel have the right under this section to argue "the whole case as well as law as of fact," they may read to the jury reported cases and comment thereon; but the facts contained in the cases cannot be read as evidence of their existence in another case. Horah v. Knox, 87 N. C. 483.

Reading Dissenting Opinion as Law of Case.—It is not permissible for counsel, in his argument to the jury, to read a dissenting opinion by a Justice of the Supreme Court as the law of the case over the defendant's objection, and where this has been done a new trial will be awarded on the defendant's exception thereto. It is the duty of the trial court, either to direct counsel not to read the dissenting opinion or to plainly and unequivocally instruct that the dissenting opinion had no legal bearing upon the case. Conn v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 201 N. C. 157, 159 S. E. 331.

Limitation of Argument under Former Section. — See State v. Miller, 75 N. C. 73.

Art. 4. North Carolina State Bar.

§ 84-15. Creation of North Carolina State Bar as an agency of the state.—There is hereby created as an agency of the State of North Carolina, for the purposes and with the powers hereinafter set forth, the North Carolina State Bar. (1933, c. 210, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For a review of this section and those immediately following, see 11 N. C. Law Rev. 191.

Quoted in In re Parker, 209 N. C. 693, 184 S. E. 532.

§ 84-16. Membership and privileges.—The membership of the North Carolina state bar shall consist of three classes, active, honorary and inactive.

The active members shall be all persons who shall have heretofore obtained, or who shall hereafter obtain, a license or certificate, which shall at the time be valid and effectual, entitling them to practice law in the state of North Carolina, who shall have paid the membership dues hereinafter specified, unless classified as an inactive member by the council as hereinafter provided. No person other than a member of the North Carolina state bar shall practice in any court of the state, except foreign attorneys as provided by statute.

The honorary members shall be (a) the chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court of North Carolina; (b) the judges of the superior courts of North Carolina; (c) all former judges of the above-named courts resident in North Carolina, but not engaged in the practice of law; (d) judges of the district courts of the United States and of the circuit court of appeals resident in North Carolina.

Inactive members shall be all persons found by the Council to be not engaged in the practice of law and not holding themselves out as practicing attorneys and not occupying any public or private positions in which they may be called upon to give legal advice or counsel or to examine the law or to pass upon the legal effect of any act, document, or law.

Only active members shall be required to pay annual membership fees, and shall have the right to vote. A member shall be entitled to vote at all annual or special meetings of the North Carolina state bar, and at all meetings of and elections held by the bar of each of the judicial districts in which he resides: Provided, that if he desires to vote with the bar of some district in which he practices, other than that in which he resides, he may do so upon filing with the resident judge of the district in which he desires to vote, and with the resident judge of the district in which he resides (and, after the North Carolina state bar shall have been organized as hereinafter set forth, with the secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina state bar), his statement in writing that he desires to vote in such other district: Provided, however, that in no case shall he be entitled to vote in more than one district. (1933, c. 210, s. 2; 1939, c. 21, s. 1; 1941, c. 344, ss. 1, 2, 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment inserted the requirement as to payment of membership dues in the second paragraph.

The 1941 amendment, in making this section applicable to inactive members, changed the first two paragraphs and inserted the fourth paragraph.

For comment on the 1941 amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 453.

For comment on the 1939 amendatory act, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 341.

§ 84-17. Government.—The government of the North Carolina state bar shall be vested in a council of the North Carolina state bar, hereinafter referred to as the "council," consisting of one councillor from each judicial district of the state, to be appointed or elected as hereinafter set forth, and the officers of the North Carolina state bar, who shall be ex officio members during their respective terms of office. Notwithstanding any provisions of this article as to the voting powers of members, the council shall be competent to exercise the entire powers of the North Carolina state bar in respect of the interpretation and administration of this article, the acquisition, lease, sale, or mortgage of property, real or personal, the seeking of amendments hereto, and all other matters, except as otherwise directed or overruled, as in § 84-33 provided. The councillors elected shall serve as follows: Those elected from the first, fourth, seventh, tenth, thirteenth, sixteenth, and nineteenth districts shall serve for one year from the date of their elections; those elected from the second, fifth, eighth, eleventh, fourteenth, seventeenth, and twentieth districts shall serve for two years from the date of their election; and those elected from the third, sixth, ninth, twelfth, fifteenth, and eighteenth districts shall serve for three years from the date of their election: Provided, that upon the election of successors to the councillors first elected, the term of office and the period for which such councillors are elected shall be three years from the date of election.

All councillors elected from any additional judicial districts shall be elected for a term of three years. (1933, c. 210, s. 3; 1937, c. 51, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1937, c. 51, s. 1, struck out the former last paragraph of this section providing: "Neither a councillor nor any officer of the council or of the North Carolina state bar shall be deemed as such to be a public officer as that phrase is used in the constitution and laws of the state of North Carolina."

For a discussion of the 1937 amendment to this and the following three sections, see 15 N. C. Law Rev. 330 et seq.

§ 84-18. Election of councillors.—Within thirty days after this article shall have gone into effect the judge of each judicial district shall, by notice posted at the front door of each courthouse within his district and by such other means as he shall think desirable, call a meeting of the attorneys residing within his district, and any others who may declare in writing their desire to be affiliated with that district, as hereinabove provided, for the purpose of organizing the bar of the district, the said meeting to be held at a place deemed by the judge to be convenient, on a day fixed, not less than twenty nor more than thirty days from posting of notice. At that meeting such attorneys as attend shall constitute a quorum, and shall forthwith form such organization herein referred to as the "district bar," as they may deem advisable, of which organization all active members of the North Carolina state bar entitled to vote in that district shall be members. The district bar shall be the subdivision of the North Carolina state bar for that judicial district, and shall adopt such rules, regulations and by-laws not inconsistent with this article as it shall see fit, a copy of which shall be transmitted to the secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina state bar when organized; and copies of any amendments of such rules, regulations, and by-laws shall likewise be sent to said secretary-treasurer. The district bar so formed shall, at the time of its formation, elect a councillor to represent that district, and all subsequent elections of councillors, whether for regular terms or to fill vacancies, shall be held as provided by the said rules, regulations, and by-laws so adopted by the district bar. In case the judge of any judicial district, by reason of physical disability or otherwise, shall fail to call the meeting aforesaid within thirty days after this article shall have gone into effect, the same may be called within thirty days thereafter by any two attorneys residing in said district, by written notice signed by them and delivered to the clerk of the court of each county in the district to be posted at the front door of each courthouse as aforesaid, the said meeting to be held on a day fixed not less than twenty nor more than thirty days after the posting of said notice; and thereupon the same proceedings shall take place as though the meeting had been called by the judge as aforesaid. Any clerk to whom any such notice shall be delivered to be posted shall immediately post the same and shall write upon the said notice the exact date and time when the same is so posted. In case more than one notice shall be posted hereunder by different groups of attorneys, that posted first in point of time shall prevail and be deemed to be the notice provided for under this article. Pending the organization of the council as hereinafter provided, notification of the election of each councillor shall be sent within five days after such election by the secretary of the district bar to the clerk of the supreme court of North Carolina; but after the organization of the council such notices shall be sent to its secretary-treasurer. In case neither the judge nor any two members shall call a meeting as aforesaid, a councillor for the said district, residing therein, shall be named at a meeting of such members of the council as shall have been elected in accordance herewith, to serve until such district bar shall be organized under the provisions of this article (except as to the time for calling meetings), either on the call of the judge of the district court or of two members of the bar, and shall have elected a councillor to serve for the unexpired term of the councillor so named. (1933, c. 210, s. 4.)

§ 84-19. Change of judicial districts.—In the event that a new district shall hereafter be carved out of an existing district, the councillor for the old district shall remain in office and continue to represent the district constituting that portion of the old district in which he resides or with which he has elected to be affiliated; and within thirty days after the division of the old district shall have become effective, or so soon thereafter as practicable, the same procedure shall be followed for the organization of the North Carolina state bar, constituting the remaining and unrepresented portion of the old district, and for the election of a councillor to represent the same, as is prescribed by § 84-18; and if a new district or more than one new district shall be formed by a recombination or reallocation of the counties in more than one existing district, the same procedure shall be followed as is prescribed by § 84-18, in said new district, or in each of them if there be more than one, within thirty days after the election or appointment of the judge or judges thereof; but in that event the office of councillor for each of the old districts the counties in which shall have been so recombined into or reallocated to such new district or districts shall cease, determine, and become vacant so soon as the bar or bars of such new district, or all of such new districts if there shall be more than one, shall have been organized and shall have elected a councillor or councillors therefor, but not earlier: Provided, that if at such time any councillor whose office shall thus become vacant be actually serving upon a committee before which there is pending any trial of a case of professional misconduct or malpractice, he shall, notwithstanding the election of a new councillor, continue to serve as councillor for the purpose of trying such case until judgment shall have been rendered therein. (1933, c. 210, s. 5.)

§ 84-20. Compensation of councillors. — The members of the council and members of committees when actually engaged in the performance of their duties, including committees sitting upon disbarment proceedings, shall receive as compensation, not exceeding ten ($10.00) dollars per day for the time spent in attending meetings, together with an expense allowance as follows: For subsistence—hotel and meals—not exceeding four dollars per day; for transportation, actual mileage, except when using personally owned automobiles, in which case a sum not exceeding five cents per mile of travel. The council shall determine per diem, subsistence and mileage to be paid. Such allowance as may be fixed by the council shall be paid by the secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina state bar upon certified statements presented by each member. (1933, c. 210, s. 6; 1935, c. 34.)

Editor's Note.—The part of this section following the colon was added by the 1935 amendment. The provision requiring that the members be "actually engaged in the performance of their duties" was also added.

§ 84-21. Organization of council; publication of rules, regulations and by-laws.—Upon receiving notification of the election of a councillor for each judicial district, or, if such notification shall not have been received from all said districts, within one hundred and twenty (120) days after this article shall have gone into effect, the clerk of the supreme court of North Carolina shall call a meeting of the councillors of whose election he shall have been notified, to be held in the city of Raleigh not less than twenty days nor more than thirty days after the date of said call; and at the meeting so held the councillors attending the same shall proceed to organize the council by electing officers, taking appropriate steps toward the adoption of rules and regulations, electing councillors for judicial districts which have failed to elect them, and taking such other action as they may deem to be in furtherance of this article. The regular term of all officers shall be one year, but those first elected shall serve until the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five. The council shall be the judge of the election and qualifications of its own members. When the council shall have been fully organized and shall have adopted such rules, regulations and by-laws, not inconsistent with this article, as it shall deem necessary or expedient for the discharge of its duties, the secretary-treasurer shall file with the clerk of the supreme court of North Carolina a certificate, to be called the "certificate of organization," showing the officers and members of the council, with the judicial districts which the members respectively represent, and their post office addresses, and the rules, regulations and by-laws adopted by it; and thereupon the chief justice of the supreme court of North Carolina, or any judge thereof, if the court be then in vacation, shall examine the said certificate and, if of opinion that the requirements of this article have been complied with, shall cause the said certificate to be spread upon the minutes of the court; but if of opinion that the requirements of this article have not been complied with, shall return the said certificate to the secretary-treasurer with a statement showing in what respects the provisions of this article have not been complied with; and the said certificate shall not be again presented to the chief justice of the supreme court or any judge thereof, until any such defects in the organization of the council shall have been corrected, at which time a new certificate of organization shall be presented and the same course taken as hereinabove provided, and so on until a correct certificate showing the proper organization of the council shall have been presented, and the organization of the council accordingly completed. Upon (a) the entry of an order upon the minutes of the court that the requirements of this article have been complied with, or (b) if for any reason the chief justice or judge should not act thereon within thirty days, then, after the lapse of thirty days from the presentation to the chief justice or judge, as the case may be, of any certificate of organization hereinabove required to be presented by the secretary-treasurer, without either the entry of an order or the return of said certificate with a statement showing the respects in which this article has not been complied with, the organization of the council shall be deemed to be complete, and it shall be vested with the powers herein set forth; and the certificate of organization shall thereupon forthwith be spread upon the minutes of the court. A copy of the certificate of organization, as spread upon the minutes of the court, shall be published in the next ensuing volume of the North Carolina Reports. The rules and regulations set forth in the certificate of organization, and all other rules and regulations which may be adopted by the council under this article, may be amended by the council from time to time in any manner not inconsistent with this article. Copies of all such rules and regulations adopted subsequently to the filing of the certificate of organization, and of all amendments so made by the council, shall be certified to the chief justice of the supreme court of North Carolina, entered by it upon its minutes, and published in the next ensuing number of the North Carolina Reports: Provided, that the court may decline to have so entered upon its minutes any of such rules, regulations and amendments which in the opinion of the chief justice are inconsistent with this article. (1933, c. 210, s. 7.)

§ 84-22. Officers and committees of the North Carolina State Bar.—The officers of the North Carolina State Bar shall be a president, a first vice-president, a second vice-president, and a secretary-treasurer, who shall be deemed likewise to be the officers, with the same titles, of the council. Their duties shall be prescribed by the council. The president and vice-presidents shall be elected by the members of the North Carolina State Bar at its annual meeting, and the secretary-treasurer shall be elected by the council. All officers shall hold office for one year and until their successors are elected and qualified. The officers need not be members of the council. (1933, c. 210, s. 8; 1941, c. 344, ss. 4, 5.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1941 amendment there was only one vice-president.

§ 84-23. Powers of council.—Subject to the superior authority of the general assembly to legislate thereon by general laws, and except as herein otherwise limited, the council is hereby vested, as an agency of the state, with the control of the discipline, disbarment and restoration of attorneys practicing law in this state: Provided, that from any order suspending an attorney from the practice of law and from any order disbarring an attorney, an appeal shall lie in the manner hereinafter provided, to the superior court of the county wherein the attorney involved resides. The council shall have power to administer this article; to formulate and adopt rules of professional ethics and conduct; to publish an official journal concerning matters of interest to the legal profession, and to do all such things necessary in the furtherance of the purposes of this article as are not prohibited by law. (1933, c. 210, s. 9; 1935, c. 74, s. 1; 1937, c. 51, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The words "and restoration" were inserted by the amendment of 1935.

Prior to the 1937 amendment an appeal lay "as of right" to the regular superior court judge.

In State v. Hollingsworth, 206 N. C. 739, 175 S. E. 99, construing former § 205, it was held that the court was without authority to set aside a judgment of disbarment on motion, especially since the enactment of this and subsequent sections.

Plea of Guilt.—Where an attorney has confessed his guilt in open court to four crimes, all involving moral turpitude, and he has been disbarred from practicing in the district court of the United States, disbarment must ultimately result regardless of this and the following sections. In re Brittain, 214 N. C. 95, 96, 197 S. E. 705.

§ 84-24. Admission to practice.—The provisions of the law now obtaining with reference to admission to the practice of law, as amended, and the rules and regulations prescribed by the supreme court of North Carolina with reference thereto, shall continue in force until superseded, changed or modified by or under the provisions of this article.

For the purpose of examining applicants and providing rules and regulations for admission to the bar including the issuance of license therefor, there is hereby created the board of law examiners, which shall consist of seven members of the bar, elected by the council of the North Carolina state bar, who need not be members of the council. No teacher in any law school, however, shall be eligible. The members of the board of law examiners elected from the bar shall each hold office for a term of three years: Provided, that the members first elected shall hold office, two for one year, two for two years, and two for three years.

The secretary of the North Carolina state bar shall be the secretary of the board, and serve without additional pay. The board of law examiners shall elect a member of said board as chairman thereof, who shall hold office for such period as said board may determine.

The examination shall be held in such manner and at such times as the board of law examiners may determine, but no change in the time or place shall become effective within one year from the date upon which the change is determined.

The board of law examiners, subject to the approval of the council, shall by majority vote, from time to time, make, alter and amend such rules and regulations for admission to the bar as in their judgment shall promote the welfare of the state and the profession: Provided, that any change in the educational requirements for admission to the bar shall not become effective within two years from the date of the adoption of such change.

All such rules and regulations, and modifications, alterations and amendments thereof, shall be recorded and promulgated as provided in § 84-21 in relation to the certificate of organization and the rules and regulations of the council.

Whenever the Council shall order the restoration of license to any person as authorized by § 84-32, it shall be the duty of the Board of Law Examiners to issue a written license to such person, noting thereon that the same is issued in compliance with an order of the Council of The North Carolina State Bar, whether the license to practice law was issued by the Board of Law Examiners or the Supreme Court in the first instance. (1933, c. 210, s. 10; c. 331; 1935, cc. 33, 61; 1941, c. 344, s. 6.)

Cross References.—As to discipline and disbarment, see § 84-28. As to restoration of license to practice law, see § 28-32.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendments of 1935, this section provided that a member of the supreme court should act as a member of the board of law examiners. Public Laws 1935, c. 61, struck out this provision and changed the number of members of the bar serving on the board from six to seven. Public Laws 1935, c. 33, repealed provisions relative to fees of applicants and to compensation of the board, previously included in this section, by enacting new and different provisions. These subjects are now provided for in §§ 84-25 to 84-27.

The 1941 amendment added the paragraph at the end of this section.

§ 84-25. Fees of applicants.—All applicants for examination before the board of law examiners for license to practice law in North Carolina shall pay a filing fee of one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) and shall deposit with the secretary of the board of law examiners the sum of twenty-two and 0/100 ($22.00) dollars, of which sum two dollars shall be a deposit to pay for license, if issued. Any applicant who shall fail to pass examination shall receive a refund of twelve dollars from said twenty-two dollars deposit. (1935, c. 33, s. 1.)

§ 84-26. Pay of board of law examiners.—Each member of the board of law examiners shall receive the sum of fifty dollars for his services in connection with each examination and shall receive his actual expenses of travel and subsistence while engaged in duties assigned to him, provided that for transportation by the use of private automobile the expense of travel shall not exceed five cents per mile. (1935, c. 33, s. 2; 1937, c. 35.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1937 amendment the maximum for subsistence was four dollars per day.

§ 84-27. Surplus received from applicants directed to supreme court library.—After the payment of all expenses incurred in connection with each examination held by the board of law examiners and expenses of said board at such meetings as may be necessary for the performance of its additional duties, the said board of law examiners shall cause to be paid at the end of each fiscal year of the State of North Carolina to the Supreme Court of North Carolina for its use in connection with the maintenance of its library, such surplus then remaining with said board of law examiners from fees received from applicants for examination. (1935, c. 33, s. 3.)

§ 84-28. Discipline and disbarment.—The council or any committee of its members appointed for that purpose shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all complaints, allegations, or charges of malpractice, corrupt or unprofessional conduct, or the violation of professional ethics, made against any member of the North Carolina state bar; may administer the punishments of private reprimand, suspension from the practice of law for a period not exceeding twelve months, and disbarment as the case shall in their judgment warrant, for any of the following causes: 1. Commission of a criminal offense showing professional unfitness; 2. Detention without a bona fide claim thereto of property received or money collected in the capacity of attorney; 3. Soliciting professional business; 4. Conduct involving willful deceit or fraud or any other unprofessional conduct; 5. Detention without a bona fide claim thereto of property received or money collected in any fiduciary capacity; 6. The violation of any of the canons of ethics which have been adopted and promulgated by the council of the North Carolina state bar; may invoke the processes of the courts in any case in which they deem it desirable to do so, and shall formulate rules of procedure governing the trial of any such person which shall conform as near as may be to the procedure now provided by law for hearings before referees in compulsory references. Such rules shall provide for notice of the nature of the charges and an opportunity to be heard; for a complete record of the proceedings for purposes of appeal to the superior court of the county wherein the attorney involved resides on the record made before the council or the committee as the case may be. Upon such appeal to the superior court the accused attorney shall have the right to a trial by jury of the issues of fact arising on the pleadings, but such trial shall be only upon the written evidence taken before the trial committee or council. From the decision of the superior court the council and the accused attorney shall each have the right of appeal to the supreme court of North Carolina. Trial before the committee appointed for that purpose by the council shall be held in the county in which the accused member resides: Provided, however, that the committee conducting the hearing shall have power to remove the same to any county in which the offense, or any part thereof, was committed, if in the opinion of such committee the ends of justice or convenience of witnesses require such removal. The procedure herein provided shall apply in all cases of discipline or disbarments arising under this section. (1933, c. 210, s. 11; 1937, c. 51, s. 3.)

Cross References.—As to restoration of license, see § 84-32. As to issuance of written license upon restoration of license, see § 84-24.

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment so changed this section that a comparison here is not practicable.

The cases treated under this section were decided under those sections which appeared in Michie's Code of 1931 as §§ 204 and 205, the provisions of which were substantially similar to this section.

Constitutionality. — This section, and the other sections of this article, taken from the act of 1871, are constitutional. Ex parte Schenck, 65 N. C. 353.

The aforesaid act does not take away any of the inherent rights which are absolutely essential in the administration of justice. Id.

Civil Action. — Proceedings brought under this section are of a civil nature. In the Matter of Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190.

Not an "Enabling Act." — The act of 1871, upon which this and the other sections of this article are based, failed to provide any power to take the place of the power formerly invested in the courts, and so is a disabling statute. Kane v. Haywood, 66 N. C. 1; In the Matter of Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190.

Disbarment Is to Protect Public.—An order disbarring an attorney upon his conviction of a felony is not entered as additional punishment, but as a protection to the public. State v. Spivey, 213 N. C. 45, 195 S. E. 1.

Indictment Necessary. — By a proper construction of this section, the court is shorn of its power to disrobe an attorney, except in the single instance where he has been indicted for some criminal offense, showing him unfit to be trusted in the discharge of the duties of his profession, and upon such indictment has either been convicted or plead guilty. Kane v. Haywood, 66 N. C. 1, 2.

Conviction or Confession of Guilt. — The words "conviction" and "confession," as used in the section, must be construed to convey the idea that the party has been convicted by a jury or has in open court declined to take issue by the plea of not guilty, and confessed himself guilty. Kane v. Haywood, 66 N. C. 1, 2.

So the admission of an attorney in an answer to a rule to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt for failure to pay money into court, not being voluntary, is not a confession in open court as contemplated by this section. Id.

Same — Conviction in Foreign State. — This section does not confer upon the court the power to disbar an attorney because he has been "convicted" in the courts of another state or of the United States. In the Matter of Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190.

Nature of Offense. — Under the acts of 1871, upon which this action was originally based, conviction of a "criminal offense" showing untrustworthiness was sufficient basis for disbarment; but by the act of 1907 conviction of a "felony" was necessary; construing these provisions together the court, in State v. Johnson, 171 N. C. 799, 88 S. E. 437, holds that the two provisions are consistent and reconcilable (a view evidently adopted by the revision commission of 1920, as the section now contains the language of both provisions), and further stated that the conviction of a criminal offense—the illegal sale of liquor —is sufficient grounds for disbarment as showing the attorney unfit for practice. See also State v. Johnson, 174 N. C. 345, 93 S. E. 847.

In the instant case it having appeared to the court that the defendant was guilty of an infamous misdemeanor, converted to a felony by §§ 14-1, 14-3, the court by virture of its inherent power was authorized to order his name stricken from the rolls of attorneys and his license to practice law in the state of North Carolina returned to the supreme court which issued it. State v. Spivey, 213 N. C. 45, 48, 195 S. E. 1.

Confession of a Felony.—A plea of guilty to an indictment charging defendant with wilfully, feloniously, secretly, and maliciously giving aid and assistance to his codefendant by manufacturing evidence, altering and destroying original records in the office of the Commissioner of Revenue, etc., was held a confession of a felony, and ground for disbarment if defendant is a practicing attorney under former section 205. State v. Harwood, 206 N. C. 87, 173 S. E. 24.

Fine and imprisonment is not the appropriate remedy to be applied to an attorney who, by reason of moral delinquency or other cause, has shown himself to be an unworthy member of the profession. Kane v. Haywood, 66 N. C. 1, 3.

Detention of Money or Property.—Under this section the detention of money received in his professional capacity without bona fide claim thereto is ground for the disbarment of an attorney. In re Encoffery, 216 N. C. 19, 3 S. E. (2d) 425.

§ 84-29. Concerning evidence and witness fees. —In any investigation of charges of professional misconduct the council and any committee thereof shall have power to summon and examine witnesses under oath, and to compel their attendance, and the production of books, papers, and other documents or writings deemed by it necessary or material to the inquiry. Each summons or subpoena shall be issued under the hand of the secretary-treasurer or the president of the council or the chairman of the committee appointed to hear the charges, and shall have the force and effect of a summons or subpoena issued by a court of record, and any witness or other person who shall refuse or neglect to appear in obedience thereto, or to testify or produce the books, papers, or other documents or writings required, shall be liable to punishment for contempt either by the council or its committee, but with the right to appeal therefrom. Depositions may be taken in any investigations of professional misconduct as in civil proceedings; but the council or the committee hearing the case may, in its discretion, whenever it believes that the ends of substantial justice so require, direct that any witness within the state be brought before it. Witnesses giving testimony under a subpoena before the council or any committee thereof or by deposition shall be entitled to the same fees as in civil actions.

In cases heard before the council or any committee thereof, if the party shall be convicted of the charges against him, he shall be taxed with the cost of the hearings: Provided, however, that such bill of costs shall not include any compensation to the members of the council or committee before whom the hearings are conducted. (1933, c. 210, s. 12.)

§ 84-30. Rights of accused person.—Any person who shall stand charged with an offense cognizable by the council or any committee thereof shall have the right to invoke and have exercised in his favor the powers of the council and its committees in respect of compulsory process for witnesses and for the production of books, papers, and other writings and documents, and shall also have the right to be represented by counsel. (1933, c. 210, s. 13.)

§ 84-31. Designation of prosecutor; compensation.—Whenever charges shall have been preferred against any member of the bar, and the council shall have directed a hearing upon the charges, it shall also designate some member of the bar to prosecute said charges in such hearings as may be held, including hearing upon appeals in the superior and supreme courts. The council may allow the attorney performing such services at its request such compensation as it may deem proper. (1933, c. 210, s. 14.)

§ 84-32. Records and judgments and their effect; restoration of licenses.—In the case of persons charged with an offense cognizable by the council or any committee thereof, a complete record of the proceedings and evidence taken before the council or any committee thereof shall be made and preserved in the office of the secretary-treasurer, but the council may, upon sufficient cause shown and with the consent of the person so charged, cause the same to be expunged and destroyed. Final judgments of suspension or disbarment shall be entered upon the judgment docket of the superior court of the county wherein the accused resides, and also upon the minutes of the supreme court of North Carolina; and such judgment shall be effective throughout the state.

Whenever any attorney has been deprived of his license, the council, in its discretion, may restore said license upon due notice being given and hearing had and satisfactory evidence produced of proper reformation of the licentiate before restoration. (1933, c. 210, s. 15; 1935, c. 74, s. 2.)

Cross Reference.—As to issuance of written license upon restoration of license to practice, see § 84-24.

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 struck out the words "under the provisions of this article" after the word "license" in line two of the second paragraph.

§ 84-33. Annual and special meetings.—There shall be an annual meeting of the North Carolina state bar, open to all members in good standing, to be held at such place and time after such notice (but not less than thirty days) as the council may determine, for the discussion of the affairs of the bar and the administration of justice; and special meetings of the North Carolina state bar may be called, on not less than thirty days' notice, by the council, or on the call, addressed to the council, of not less than twenty-five per cent of the active members of the North Carolina state bar; but at special meetings no subjects shall be dealt with other than those specified in the notice. Notice of all meetings, whether annual or special, may be given by publication in such newspapers of general circulation as the council may select, or, in the discretion of the council, by mailing notice to the secretary of the several district bars or to the individual active members of the North Carolina state bar. The North Carolina state bar shall not take any action in respect of any decision of the council or any committee thereof relating to admission, exclusion, discipline or punishment of any person or other action, save after notice in writing of the action of the council or committee proposed to be directed or overruled, which notice shall be given to the secretary-treasurer thirty days before the meeting, who shall give, by mail, at least fifteen days notice to the members of the North Carolina state bar, and unless at the meeting two-thirds of the members present and voting shall favor the motion to direct or overrule At any annual or special meeting ten per cent of the active members of the bar shall constitute a quorum; but there shall be no voting by proxy. (1933, c. 210, s. 16.)

§ 84-34. Membership fees and list of members. — Every active member of the North Carolina State Bar shall on or before the first day of January, nineteen hundred and thirty-four, pay to the secretary-treasurer, without demand therefor, in respect of the calendar year nineteen hundred and thirty-three, a membership fee of three dollars, and shall thereafter, prior to the first day of July of each year, beginning with and including the year nineteen hundred and thirty-four, pay to the secretary-treasurer, in respect of the calendar year in which such payment is herein directed to be made, an annual membership fee of three dollars, and shall thereafter, prior to the first day of July of each year, beginning with the calendar year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, pay to the secretary-treasurer, in respect to the calendar year in which such payment is herein directed to be made, an annual membership fee of five dollars; and in every case the member so paying shall notify the secretary-treasurer of his correct post-office address. The said membership fee shall be regarded as a service charge for the maintenance of the several services prescribed in this article, and shall be in addition to all fees now required in connection with admissions to practice, and in addition to all license taxes now or hereafter required by law. The said fee shall not be prorated: Provided, that no fee shall be required of an attorney licensed after this article shall have gone into effect until the first day of July of the second calendar year (a "calendar year" for the purposes of this article being treated as the period from January first to December thirty-first) following that in which he shall have been licensed; but this proviso shall not apply to attorneys from other states admitted on certificate. The said fees shall be disbursed by the secretary-treasurer on the order of the council. The secretary-treasurer shall annually, at a time and in a law magazine or daily newspaper to be prescribed by the council, publish an account of the financial transactions of the council, in a form to be prescribed by it. The secretary-treasurer shall compile and keep currently correct from the names and post-office addresses forwarded to him and from any other available sources of information a list of members of the North Carolina state bar and furnish to the clerk of the superior court in each county, not later than the first day of October in each year, a list showing the name and address of each attorney for that county who has not complied with the provisions of this article. The name of each of the active members who shall be in arrears in the payment of membership fees for one or more calendar years shall be furnished to the presiding judge at the next term of the superior court after the first day of October of each year, by the clerk of the superior court of each county wherein said member or members reside, and the court shall thereupon take such action as is necessary and proper. The names and addresses of such attorneys so certified shall be kept available to the public. The commissioner of revenue is hereby directed to supply the secretary-treasurer, from his record of license tax payments, with any information for which the secretary-treasurer may call in order to enable him to comply with this requirement. (1933, c. 210, s. 17; 1939, c. 21, ss. 2, 3.)

Cross Reference.—As to who is an active member, see § 84-16.

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment so changed this section that a comparison here is not practicable. For comment on the 1939 amendatory act, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 341.

§ 84-35. Saving as to North Carolina Bar Association.—Nothing in this article contained shall be construed as affecting in any way the North Carolina Bar Association, or any local bar association. (1933, c. 210, s. 18.)

§ 84-36. Inherent powers of courts unaffected. —Nothing contained in this article shall be construed as disabling or abridging the inherent powers of the court to deal with its attorneys. (1937, c. 51, s. 4.)

C. S., 204, 205, restricting the power of courts to disbar attorneys, were repealed by § 20, ch. 210, Public Laws of 1933, and the statutory method of disbarment, provided by the Act of 1933, is not exclusive, but to the contrary recognizes the inherent power of the courts, and the courts have jurisdiction to order the disbarment of an attorney upon his conviction of an infamous misdemeanor, converted to a felony by §§ 14-1 and 14-3. State v. Spivey, 213 N. C. 45, 195 S. E. 1; State v. Johnson, 174 N. C. 345, 93 S. E. 847.

§ 84-37. State bar may investigate and enjoin unauthorized practice.—The council or any committee of its members appointed for that purpose may inquire into and investigate any charges or complaints of unauthorized or unlawful practice of law. The council may bring or cause to be brought and maintain in the name of the North Carolina state bar an action or actions, upon information or upon the complaint of any private person or of any bar association against any person, partnership, corporation or association and any employee, agent, director, or officer thereof who engages in rendering any legal service or makes it a practice or business to render legal services which are unauthorized or prohibited by law or statutes relative thereto. No bond for cost shall be required in such proceeding.

(a) In an action brought under this section the final judgment if in favor of the plaintiff shall perpetually restrain the defendant or defendants from the commission or continuance of the act or acts complained of. A temporary injunction to restrain the commission or continuance thereof may be granted upon proof or by affidavit, that the defendant or defendants have violated any of the laws or statutes applicable to unauthorized or unlawful practice of law. The provisions of statute or rules relating generally to injunctions as provisional remedies in actions shall apply to such a temporary injunction and the proceedings thereunder.

(b) The venue for actions brought under this section shall be the superior court of any county in which such acts constituting unauthorized or unlawful practice of law are alleged to have been committed or in which there appear reasonable grounds that they will be committed or in the county where the defendants in such action reside.

(c) The plaintiff in such action shall be entitled to examination of the adverse party and witnesses before filing complaint and before trial in the same manner as provided by law for the examination of parties.

(d) This section shall not repeal or curtail any remedy now provided in cases of unauthorized or unlawful practice of law, and nothing contained herein shall be construed as disabling or abridging the inherent powers of the court in such matters. (1939, c. 281.)

Cross Reference.—As to the power of any solicitor of any of the superior courts to bring injunction or criminal proceedings, see § 84-7.

Editor's Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 342.

Chapter 85. Auctions and Auctioneers.

Art. 1. In General.

Art. 2. Auction Sales of Articles Containing Hidden Value.

Art. 1. In General.

§ 85-1. Application of article.—The provisions of this article shall apply only to sales of jewelry and silverware at public auction, and to the auctioneers conducting or engaged in such sales.

This article does not affect any sale of jewelry or silverware (1) by auction of jewelry or silverware made pursuant to and in execution of any order, decree, or judgment of the courts of the United States or of this state; or (2) made in consequence of any assignment of property and estate for benefit of creditors; or (3) made by executors, administrators, collectors, or guardians; or (4) made pursuant to any law touching the collection of any tax or duty, or sale of any wrecked goods. (Rev., s. 220; Code, s. 2284; R. C., c. 10, s. 6; 1923, c. 243, s. 1; C. S. 4999.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1923, ch. 243 takes auction sales other than sales of jewelry and silverware, and auctioneers engaged in such sales out of the provisions of this article.

Auctioneer is the agent of both buyer and seller, and the entry on his lists, taken in connection with the advertisement, is a compliance with the statute of frauds. Cherry v. Long, 61 N. C. 466; Woodruff v. Trust Co., 173 N. C. 546, 92 S. E. 496; Dickerson v. Summons, 141 N. C. 325, 53 S. E. 850.

Authority of auctioneer to vary conditions of sale confirmed as agent of hirer. Satterfield v. Smith, 33 N. C. 60.

Authority of Auctioneer to Explain Conditions.—An advertisement of a sale of property by an auctioneer may be explained at the time of sale. Rankin v. Matthews, 29 N. C. 286.

Liability of Surety.—Since it is the duty of an auctioneer to pay over to his employer the proceeds of sales made by him, sureties on his official bond, which is conditioned that he will do whatsoever the law requires, are liable to his employers for proceeds of sale which he withholds. Comm'rs v. Holloway, 10 N. C. 234.

Bidders presumed to be acquainted with terms when the terms of auction are advertised or otherwise published. Christmas v. Jenkins, 3 N. C. 395.

§ 85-2. Appointment; bond.—No person shall exercise or conduct the trade or business of an auctioneer in this state or offer to conduct any such trade or business described in this article unless such person shall hold a license issued by the commissioner of revenue, and no license shall issue to any person who is not a resident of the state of North Carolina, and who has not been a bona fide resident for at least two years prior to the date when such application for license is filed with the Department of Revenue. The license shall issue only upon the filing of a bond in the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00), with such conditions and sureties as may be required and approved by the commissioner of revenue. The license shall expire on the first day of April following, unless the authority is sooner revoked by the Commissioner of Revenue, and such authority shall be subject to revocation at any time by such officer for the causes and in the manner set forth in § 85-9. The fees for each license shall be two hundred dollars ($200.00). (Rev., s. 217; Code, s. 2281; 1889, c. 40; 1891, c. 576; R. C., c. 10, s. 1; 1923, c. 243, s. 1; 1941, c. 131; C. S. 5000.)

Editor's Note.—The act of 1923, ch. 243 made two years bona fide residence a prerequisite to application for a license; raised the bond required to $5,000 and the license fee to $200. The insurance commissioner was given power to revoke a license for failure to comply with the terms of the act, or for other cause. See 1 N. C. Law Rev. 302.

The 1941 amendment substituted the words "commissioner of revenue" for "insurance commissioner," and the words "department of revenue" in lieu of "insurance department."

§ 85-3. Requirements of law and of commissioner of revenue; false statement.—No person who shall conduct the business of an auctioneer in the state shall fail to comply with any provision of the law or any requirement of the commissioner of revenue pursuant to the law, and no such person shall make or cause to be made any false statement in any report required of him, and upon any violation of any section of this article, the commissioner of revenue may revoke his license to do business in this state. (1923, c. 243, s. 2; 1941, c. 131; 1941, c. 230, s. 2; C. S. 5000(a).)

§ 85-4. Punishment for violation of law.—Any person violating any of the provisions of this article shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars or by imprisonment in jail or worked on the roads for not exceeding two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment. (1923, c. 243, s. 3; C. S. 5000(b).)

§ 85-5. License tax by counties and municipalities.—Nothing in this article shall be construed to take away from the counties, cities or towns of this state any right or rights which they may now have, or may hereafter have, to levy a license tax on persons exercising or conducting the trade or business of an auctioneer. (1923, c. 243, s. 4; C. S. 5000(c).)

§ 85-6. Account semiannually; pay over moneys received.—It is the duty of such auctioneers, on the first days respectively of October and April, to render to the clerks of the superior court of their respective counties a true and particular account in writing of all the moneys made liable to duty by law, for which any jewelry or silverware may have been sold at auction, and also at private sale, where the price of the jewelry and silverware sold at private sale was fixed or agreed upon or governed by any previous sale at auction of any jewelry and silverware of the same kind; which account shall contain a statement of the gross amount of sales by them made for each particular person or company at one time, the date of each sale, the names of the owners of the jewelry and silverware sold, and the amount of the tax due thereon, which tax they shall pay as directed by law. The statement shall be subscribed by them and sworn to before the clerk of the said court, who is hereby authorized to administer the oath. And it is their further duty to account with and pay to the person entitled thereto the moneys received on the sales by them made. (Rev., s. 218; Code, s. 2282; R. C., c. 10, s. 2; C. S. 5001.)

§ 85-7. Acting without appointment; penalty.—No person shall exercise the trade or business of an auctioneer by selling any jewelry or silverware by auction or by any other mode of sale whereby the best or highest bidder is deemed to be the purchaser, unless such person is appointed an auctioneer pursuant to this article, on pain of forfeiting to the state for every such sale the sum of two hundred dollars, which shall be prosecuted to recovery by the solicitor of the district. (Rev., s. 219; Code, s. 2283; R. C., c. 10, s. 5; C. S. 5002.)

§ 85-8. Commissions; one per cent to town.—Auctioneers are entitled to such compensation as may be agreed upon, not exceeding two and a half per cent on the amount of sales; and auctioneers of incorporated towns shall retain and pay one per cent of the gross amount of sales to the commissioners or other authority of their respective towns. (Rev., s. 221; Code, s. 2285; R. C., c. 10, s. 7; C. S. 5003.)

Auctioneer's Fee Payable out of Trustee's Commissions.—See Duffy v. Smith, 132 N. C. 38, 43 S. E. 501.

§ 85-9. Power of Commissioner of Revenue to revoke licenses of auctioneers.—The Commissioner of Revenue of the State of North Carolina shall have power to revoke an auctioneer's license, upon the conviction of the auctioneer by any court of competent jurisdiction of the State of North Carolina of any of the offenses hereinafter set out, or upon a finding by the Commissioner of Revenue that such auctioneer is guilty of any of the offenses hereinafter set out, to-wit: (1) fraud; (2) failing to account for or to remit any money or properties coming into his possession which belong to others; (3) forgery, embezzlement, obtaining money under false pretense, larceny, conspiracy to defraud, or like offense or offenses; (4) false representations as to the origin, genuineness, cost to seller, value, or other matters relating to the sale of any property then or thereafter to be offered for sale at auction; (5) conviction of any crime involving moral turpitude either in this State or any other state; (6) making any false statement in the application for license; (7) violating any of the provisions of the laws of this State relating to sales at auction. Provided, that no license shall be revoked upon a finding by the Commissioner of Revenue except by charges preferred. The accused shall be furnished a written copy of such charges and given not less than twenty days' notice of the time and place when the Commissioner shall accord a full and fair hearing on the charges. From any action of the Commissioner of Revenue depriving the accused of his license, the accused shall have the right of appeal to the Superior Court of the county of his residence, upon filing notice of appeal within ten days of the decision of the Commission of Revenue. The trial in the Superior Court shall be heard de novo as in the case of an appeal from a justice of the peace. (1941, c. 230, s. 1.)

Art. 2. Auction Sales of Articles Containing Hidden Value.

§ 85-10. Application of article.—The provisions of this article shall relate to all persons, firms and corporations who shall sell or offer to sell any of the goods, wares and merchandise hereinafter enumerated by means of auction sale of same conducted either by themselves or licensed auctioneers, except that it shall not apply to receivers, trustees in bankruptcy, trustees acting under a bona fide mortgage or deed of trust, trustees acting under the provisions of a will, any person acting under orders of any court, or to administrators or to executors while acting as such or to the bona fide holder of an article pledged to secure a debt. (1941, c. 371, s. 1.)

§ 85-11. Sale of certain articles in violation of article prohibited.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to offer for sale or sell to the highest bidder at an auction sale furs, objects of art, artware, glassware, silver plated ware, chinaware, gold, silver, precious or semi-precious stones, jewelry, watches, clocks, or gems of any kind, except as hereafter provided. (1941, c. 371, s. 2.)

§ 85-12. Licensing of auction merchants.—Before selling or offering for sale any of the articles hereinabove mentioned, the person, firm or corporation which is to conduct such auction sale shall apply to and obtain from the revenue department of the state of North Carolina a license or permit to engage in the activity covered by this article and pay therefor to the commissioner of revenue the sum of two hundred dollars ($200.00) for such license or permit. The license or permit issued by the revenue department shall entitle the person, firm or corporation named therein to conduct the auction sale as provided in this article in one county, and upon payment of one half of the fee for each additional county, such person, firm or corporation shall have authority to conduct auction sales in additional counties for which the tax has been paid. No person or copartnership shall receive any license or permit to conduct any such sale unless such person or a member of the copartnership is and has been for a period of one year prior to the issuance of the permit a resident of the state of North Carolina and is and has been for a period of six months prior thereto a resident of one of the counties for which he seeks permit, and no corporation shall receive a license or permit to conduct such sale unless such corporation is either a domestic corporation of the state of North Carolina or a foreign corporation which has complied with all requirements of the state of North Carolina and domesticated in North Carolina. (1941, c. 371, s. 3.)

§ 85-13. Bond prerequisite for license.—Before any person, firm or corporation shall offer for sale or sell at public auction any of the goods hereinabove described, such person, firm or corporation shall obtain the permit provided in § 85-12 and shall file with the commissioner of revenue a good and sufficient bond in the penal sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00), executed by a corporate surety licensed to do business in North Carolina or by two individual sureties who own real property in the state of North Carolina of a net value of twice the amount of such bond and who shall have justified on such bond before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such individual sureties reside. Said bond shall be kept in full force and effect during the period for which such license is issued and for a period of one year thereafter. The conditions of said bond are to provide that the surety or sureties are irrevocably appointed as process agents on whom any process issued against the person, firm or corporation conducting such sale may be served, and shall further provide that the person, firm or corporation conducting said sale will pay all valid judgments secured against such person, firm or corporation on causes of action arising out of such sales by auction. (1941, c. 371, s. 4.)

§ 85-14. Conduct of sales by licensed auctioneer required.—An auctioneer duly licensed as such by the state of North Carolina shall be present and in charge of any such auction sale. (1941, c. 371, s. 5.)

§ 85-15. Regulation of bidding at sales. — At any such auction sale, no person interested either directly or indirectly as seller, and no person employed by any person interested either directly or indirectly as seller, shall bid on any articles offered for sale, and no person shall act as a fictitious bidder, or what is commonly known as a "capper," "booster," "by-bidder" or "shiller," and no person shall bid or offer to bid or pretend to buy an article sold or offered for sale at any such auction by prearranged agreement with any person interested in the sale directly or indirectly as seller. (1941, c. 371, s. 6.)

§ 85-16. Written description of articles purchased furnished to purchaser upon demand.—At any such auction sale any person who shall purchase any article may have the right to demand of the person, firm or corporation conducting such sale, at the time the sale is made or within forty-eight hours thereafter, a written description of the merchandise so purchased, which description shall be accurate and full, and shall give the name of the manufacturer or producer of such merchandise, if known; shall state whether the merchandise is an original, a copy, a reproduction, new or used, genuine or artificial, and shall also incorporate all representations made to induce persons to bid on such merchandise; such statement shall be deemed to be the representations upon which the merchandise is purchased, and upon a refusal to give such statement as herein provided, the sale may, at the option of the purchaser, be rescinded, in which event the purchaser shall have the privilege of demanding a return of all sums paid on account of such purchase. A notice of the right of a purchaser to demand such a statement shall be conspicuously displayed in each room where such auction shall take place. (1941, c. 371, s. 7.)

§ 85-17. Application of Fair Trade Act.—No sale shall be made at such auction sales which shall violate the provisions of the North Carolina Fair Trade Act. (1941, c. 371, s. 8.)

§ 85-18. Presence of merchant at sales required; responsibility for auctioneer's acts.—At all sales by auction conducted under the provisions of this article, the person, firm or corporation conducting such sale shall be present at all times in person or by an agent duly authorized in writing to represent such person, firm or corporation, and the person, firm or corporation conducting such sale shall be responsible for acts done and words spoken by the auctioneer or his assistants in furthering the sales by auction. (1941, c. 371, s. 9.)

§ 85-19. Statements in advertisements deemed representations; merchandise not as advertised.—At all such auction sales, all statements contained in the advertising of such sales shall be considered and deemed representations inducing purchasers to bid on and buy the merchandise advertised, and in the event any such merchandise shall not be as advertised, the purchaser thereof shall, at his option, be entitled to rescind such sale and have the right, upon such rescission, to demand and receive any sums paid by him on account of such purchase. (1941, c. 371, s. 10.)

§ 85-20. False and fraudulent advertising, labelling, etc., prohibited.—No person, firm or corporation conducting any such sale shall advertise any merchandise falsely or fraudulently, either by word of mouth, written or published advertisement, or other forms of advertisement, nor shall any such person, firm or corporation permit any article to be displayed or offered for sale which shall be falsely tagged, labeled or branded. (1941, c. 371, s. 11.)

§ 85-21. False statements as to value or costs prohibited.—No person, firm or corporation conducting any such sale shall allow or permit any false statement to be made by any person connected with such sale, either directly or indirectly, as seller, as to the value of any such merchandise being sold or as to the cost to the seller of any such merchandise being sold. (1941, c. 371, s. 12.)

§ 85-22. Application of article to agents.—The provisions of this article shall apply to the person, firm or corporation conducting such sale, whether such person, firm or corporation is the owner of the merchandise being sold, or selling such merchandise for others. (1941, c. 371, s. 13.)

§ 85-25. Purpose of article.—It is the purpose of this article to provide for the protection of the public in purchasing articles containing a hidden value, which is not and cannot be determined except by persons having special knowledge thereof, when such articles are sold at public auction, where there is not ample time for deliberation and appraisal of such merchandise, and where the purchaser, by reason of the manner of sale, of necessity must rely principally upon the representations made by the seller as to value of said merchandise. (1941, c. 371, s. 18.)

§ 85-26. Rights and privileges conferred by article are additional to rights, etc., under other laws.—The rights and privileges herein granted to any purchaser shall be in addition to all other rights, privileges or remedies which such purchaser might otherwise have under the laws of North Carolina, and the provisions of this article shall not be deemed to deprive any such purchaser of any rights or remedies which he otherwise would have had. Chapter 86. Barbers.

§ 86-1. Necessity for certificate of registered barber or apprentice. — No person or combination of persons shall, either directly or indirectly, practice or attempt to practice barbering as hereinafter defined in the State of North Carolina without a Certificate of Registration either as a Registered Apprentice or as a Registered Barber issued pursuant to the provisions of this chapter by the State Board of Barber Examiners hereinafter established. (1929, c. 119, s. 1; 1941, c. 375, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment struck out the words "for pay" formerly appearing after the word "shall" in line two.

For comment on the 1941 amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 447.

Constitutionality.—This chapter, known as the Barber's Act, relates to the public health and is constitutional as a valid exercise of the police power of the State. State v. Lockey, 198 N. C. 551, 152 S. E. 693.

Application.—The provisions of this chapter apply to proprietor barbers, as in this case the owner and operator of a one-chair barber shop. State v. Lockey, 198 N. C. 551, 152 S. E. 693.

Cited in James v. Denny, 214 N. C. 470, 199 S. E. 617.

§ 86-2. What constitutes practice of barbering.—Any one or combination of the following practices shall constitute the practice of barbering in the purview of this chapter:

(a) Shaving or trimming the beard, or cutting the hair.

(b) Giving facial or scalp massages, or treatments with oils, creams, lotions and other preparations either by hand or mechanical appliances.

(c) Singeing, shampooing or dyeing the hair or applying hair tonics.

(d) Applying cosmetic preparations, antiseptics, powders, oils, clays and lotions to the scalp, neck or face. (1929, c. 119, s. 2; 1941, c. 375, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment struck out the words "when done for pay" formerly appearing after the word "practices" in line two.

§ 86-3. Qualifications for issuance of certificates of registration.—No person shall be issued a certificate of Registration as a Registered Apprentice by the State Board of Barber Examiners, hereinafter established

(a) Unless such person is at least seventeen years of age.

(b) Unless such person passes a satisfactory physical examination prescribed by said Board of Barber Examiners.

(c) Unless each person has completed at least a six months' course in a reliable Barber School or College approved by said Board of Barber Examiners.

(d) Unless such person passes the examination prescribed by the Board of Barber Examiners and pays the required fees hereinafter enumerated. (1929, c. 119, s. 3.)

§ 86-4. Registered apprentice must serve under Registered Barber and take examination before opening shop.—No Registered Apprentice, registered under the provisions of this chapter, shall operate a barber shop in the State, but must serve his period of apprenticeship under the direct supervision of a Registered Barber, as required by § 86-5.

Every Registered Apprentice when eligible shall take the examination to receive a certificate of registration as a Registered Barber. No Registered Apprentice shall be permitted to practice for a period of more than three years without passing the required examination to receive a certificate of registration as a Registered Barber. (1929, c. 119, s. 4; 1941, c. 375, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added the paragraph at the end of this section.

§ 86-5. Period of apprenticeship; affidavit; qualifications for certificate as Registered Barber. —Any person to practice barbering as a Registered Barber, must have worked as a Registered Apprentice for a period of at least eighteen months under the direct supervision of a Registered Barber, and this fact must be demonstrated to the Board of Barber Examiners by the sworn affidavit of three Registered Barbers, or such other methods of proof as the Board may prescribe and deem necessary. A Certificate of Registration as a Registered Barber shall be issued by the Board hereinafter designated, to any person who is qualified under the provisions of this chapter, or meets the following qualifications:

(a) Who is qualified under the provisions of § 86-3;

(b) Who is at least nineteen years of age;

(c) Who passes a satisfactory physical examination as prescribed by said Board;

(d) Who has practiced as a Registered Apprentice for a period of eighteen months, under the immediate personal supervision of a Registered Barber; and

(e) Who has passed a satisfactory examination, conducted by the Board, to determine his fitness to practice barbering, such examination to be so prepared and conducted, as to determine whether or not the applicant is possessed of the requisite skill in such trade, to properly perform all the duties thereof, including the ability of the applicant in his preparation of tools, shaving, hair-cutting, and all the duties and services incident thereto, and has sufficient knowledge concerning diseases of the face, skin and scalp, to avoid the aggravation and spreading thereof in the practice of said trade. (1929, c. 119, s. 5.)

§ 86-6. State Board of Barber Examiners; appointment and qualifications; governor; term of office and removal.—A board to be known as the State Board of Barber Examiners is hereby established to consist of three members appointed by the Governor of the State. Each member shall be an experienced barber, who has followed the practice of barbering for at least five years in the State. The members of the first Board appointed shall serve for six years, four years and two years, respectively, after appointed, and members appointed thereafter shall serve for six years. The Governor, at his option, may remove any member for good cause shown and appoint members to fill unexpired terms. (1929, c. 119, s. 6.)

§ 86-7. Office; seal; officers and secretary; bond.—The Board shall maintain a suitable office in Raleigh, North Carolina, and shall adopt and use a common seal for the authentication of its orders and records. Said Board shall elect its own officers, and in addition thereto, shall elect a full time Secretary, which Secretary shall receive an annual salary not to exceed three thousand dollars, such salary as well as all other expenses of said Board, to be paid only out of the revenue derived from fees collected under the provisions of this chapter. Said full time Secretary, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall execute to the State of North Carolina a satisfactory bond with a duly licensed bonding company in this State as surety or other acceptable surety; such bond to be in the penal sum of not less than ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) and conditioned upon the faithful performance of the duties of his office and the true and correct accounting of all funds received by him. Said full time secretary shall turn over to the State Treasurer to be credited to the State Board of Barber Examiners all funds collected or received by him under this chapter, such funds to be held and expended under the supervision of the Director of the Budget, exclusively for the enforcement and administration of the provisions of this chapter, subject to the limitations hereof. Provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed to authorize any expenditure in excess of the amount available from time to time in the hands of the State Treasurer derived from fees collected under the provisions of this chapter and received by the said State Treasurer in the manner aforesaid. (1929, c. 119, s. 7; 1941, c. 375, s. 4; 1943, c. 53, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote the provisions relating to the secretary, thereby omitting the sentence added by the 1941 amendment which provided that the board should employ such agents, assistants, and attorneys as it might deem necessary.

§ 86-8. Salary and expenses; employees; audit; annual report to Governor.—Each member of the Board of Barber Examiners shall receive for his services an annual salary of three thousand dollars ($3,000.00), payable in equal monthly installments, and shall be reimbursed for his actual expenses, and shall receive not less than five cents (5c) per mile for the distance traveled in performance of his duties, which said salary and expense and all other salaries and expenses in connection with the administration of this chapter, shall be paid upon warrant drawn on the State Treasurer, solely from the funds derived fom the fees collected and received under this chapter. The board shall employ such agents, assistants and attorneys as it may deem necessary. Each member of the Board of Barber Examiners, and each of its agents and assistants who collect any moneys or fees in the discharge of their duties, shall execute to the State of North Carolina a bond in the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties of office, and the true accounting for all funds collected. There shall be annually made by the State Auditing Department, a complete audit and examination of the receipts and disbursements, and the State Board of Barber Examiners shall report annually to the Governor, a full statement of its receipts and expenditures, and also a full statement of its work during the year, together with such recommendations as it may deem expedient. (1929, c. 119, s. 8; 1943, c. 53, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 86-9. Application for examination; payment of fee.—Each applicant for an examination shall:

(a) Make application to the Board on blank forms prepared and furnished by the full-time Secretary, such application to contain proof under the applicant's oath of the particular qualifications of the applicant.

(b) Pay to the Board the required fee.

All applications for said examination must be filed with the full-time Secretary at least thirty days prior to the actual taking of such examination by applicants. (1929, c. 119, s. 9.)

Purpose of Fees—Constitutionality.—The fees prescribed for barbers who are subject to the provisions of this chapter are for the expenses and enforcement of the act, which is necessary to the public health and welfare, and not an annual occupation tax imposed for revenue, and the payment of the barber's license tax under the Revenue Act does not affect the obligation to pay the fees prescribed by the Barber's Act, and assessment of the fees thereunder is constitutional. State v. Lockey, 198 N. C. 551, 552, 152 S. E. 693.

§ 86-10. Board to conduct examinations not less than four times each year.—The Board shall conduct examinations of applicants for Certificates of Registration to practice as Registered Barbers, and of applicants for Certificate of Registration to practice as Registered Apprentices, not less than four times each year, at such times and places as will prove most convenient, and as the Board may determine. The examination of applicants for Certificates of Registration as Registered Barbers and Registered Apprentices shall include such practical demonstration and oral and written tests as the Board may determine. (1929, c. 119, s. 10.)

§ 86-11. Issuance of certificates of Registration.—Whenever the provisions of this chapter have been complied with, the Board shall issue, or have issued, a Certificate of Registration as a Registered Barber or as a Registered Apprentice, as the case may be. (1929, c. 119, s. 11.)

§ 86-12. Barbers from other states; temporary permits.—Persons who have practiced barbering in another state or county for a period of not less than two years, and who move into this State, shall prove and demonstrate their fitness to the Board of Barber Examiners, as herein created, before they will be issued a Certificate of Registration to practice barbering, but said Board may issue such temporary permits as are necessary. (1929, c. 119, s. 12; 1941, c. 375, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment inserted the words "for a period of not less than two years."

§ 86-13. Procedure for registration.—The procedure for the registration of present practitioners of barbering shall be as follows:

(a) If such person has been practicing barbering for a shorter period of time than eighteen months, he shall, upon paying the required fee, and making an affidavit to that effect to the Board of Barber Examiners, be issued a Certificate of Registration as an Apprentice.

(b) If such person has been practicing barbering in the State of North Carolina for more than eighteen months, he shall upon paying the required fee and making an affidavit to that effect, to the Board of Barber Examiners, be issued a Certificate of Registration as a Registered Barber.

(c) All persons, however, who are not actively engaged in the practice of barbering, at the time this chapter is enacted into law, shall be required to take the examination herein provided, and otherwise comply with the provisions of this chapter before engaging in the practice of barbering. (1929, c. 119, s. 13.)

§ 86-14. Procedure for registration of barbers not registered under section 86-13.—The procedure for the registration of present practitioners of barbering who were not registered under § 86-13, shall be as follows:

(b) All persons, however, who do not make application prior to January 1, 1938, shall be required to take the examination prescribed by the State Board of Barber Examiners, and otherwise comply with the provisions of this chapter before engaging in the practice of barbering. (1937, c. 138, s. 3.)

§ 86-15. Fees.—The fee to be paid by applicant for examination to determine his fitness to receive a certificate of registration, as a registered apprentice, shall be five ($5.00) dollars, and such fee must accompany his application. The annual license fee of an apprentice shall be three ($3.00) dollars. The fee to be paid by an applicant for an examination to determine his fitness to receive a certificate of registration as a registered barber shall be fifteen ($15.00) dollars, and such fee must accompany his application. The annual license fee of a registered barber shall be five ($5.00) dollars. All licenses, both for apprentices and for registered barbers, shall be renewed as of the thirtieth day of June of each and every year, and such renewals for apprentices shall be three ($3.00) dollars, and for registered barbers five ($5.00) dollars. The fee for restoration of an expired certificate for registered barbers shall be seven ($7.00) dollars, and restoration of expired certificate of an apprentice shall be four ($4.00) dollars: Provided, the difference between the fees being charged on March 13, 1937, and the fees herein provided for shall be used exclusively for the employment of additional inspectors and the payment of their necessary expenses of inspection, it being the purpose of this chapter to provide as nearly as possible equal inspection throughout the state of North Carolina. The fees herein set out are not to be increased by the board of barber examiners, but said board may regulate the payment of said fees and prorate the license fees in such manner as it deems expedient. (1929, c. 119, s. 14; 1937, c. 138, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment increased the fees charged under this section and inserted the provision as to use of additional fees.

§ 86-16. Persons exempt from provisions of chapter. — The following persons are exempt from the provisions of this chapter while engaged in the proper discharge of their professional duties.

(a) Persons authorized under the laws of the State to practice medicine and surgery.

(b) Commissioned medical or surgical officers of the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Hospital Service.

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment substituted "exclusively for females" in subsection (f) for the former "in hairdressing and beauty shops patronized by women."

§ 87-4. First meeting of board; officers; secretary-treasurer and assistants.—The said board shall, within thirty days after its appointment by the Governor, meet in the city of Raleigh, at a time and place to be designated by the Governor, and organize by electing a chairman, a vice chairman, and a secretary-treasurer, each to serve for one year. Said board shall have power to make such by-laws, rules and regulations as it shall deem best, provided the same are not in conflict with the laws of North Carolina. The secretary-treasurer shall give bond in such sum as the board shall determine, with such security as shall be approved by the board, said bond to be conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office and for the faithful accounting of all moneys and other property as shall come into his hands. The secretary-treasurer need not be a member of the board, and the board is hereby authorized to employ a full time secretary-treasurer, whose salary shall not exceed thirty-six hundred dollars ($3600.00) per annum, and such other assistants and make such other expenditures as may be necessary to the proper carrying out of the provisions of this article. At the April meeting in each year the board shall elect officers. Special meetings may be held at such times as the board may provide in the by-laws it shall adopt. Due notice of each meeting and the time and place thereof shall be given to each member in such manner as the by-laws may provide. Three members of the board shall constitute a quorum. (1925, c. 318, s. 6.)

§ 87-7. Records of board; disposition of funds.—The secretary-treasurer shall keep a record of the proceedings of the said board and shall receive and account for all moneys derived from the operation of this article. Any funds remaining in the hands of the secretary-treasurer to the credit of the board after the expenses of the board for the current year have been paid shall be paid over, to the Greater University of North Carolina for the use of its engineering department. The board has the right, however, to retain at least ten per cent of the total expense it incurs for a year's operation to meet any emergency that may arise. (1925, c. 318, s. 7.)

§ 87-8. Records; roster of licensed contractors. — The secretary-treasurer shall keep a record of the proceedings of the board and a register of all applicants for license showing for each the date of application, name, qualifications, place of business, place of residence, and whether license was granted or refused. The books and register of this board shall be prima facie evidence of all matters recorded therein. A roster showing the names and places of business and of residence of all licensed general contractors shall be prepared by the secretary of the board during the month of January of each year; such roster shall be printed by the board out of funds of said board as provided in § 87-7. On or before the first day of March of each year the board shall submit to the governor a report of its transactions for the preceding year, and shall file with the secretary of state a copy of such report, together with a complete statement of the receipts and expenditures of the board, attested by the affidavits of the chairman and the secretary, and a copy of the said roster of licensed general contractors. (1925, c. 318, s. 8; 1937, c. 429, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment eliminated the requirement for mailing roster of contractors to clerks.

§ 87-9. Compliance with federal highway act, etc.; contracts financed by federal road funds.—Nothing in this article shall operate to prevent the state highway and public works commission from complying with any act of congress and any rules and regulations promulgated by the United States secretary of agriculture for carrying out the provisions of the Federal Highway Act, or shall apply to any person, firm or corporation proposing to submit a bid or enter into contract for any work to be financed in whole or in part with federal aid road funds in such manner as will conflict with any act of congress or any such rules and regulations of the United States secretary of agriculture. (1939, c. 230.)

§ 87-10. Application for license; examination;

certificate; renewal.—Anyone hereafter desiring to be licensed as a general contractor in this state shall make and file with the board, thirty days prior to any regular or special meeting thereof, a written application on such form as may then be by the board prescribed for examination by the board, which application shall be accompanied by the sum of sixty dollars ($60.00) if the application is for an unlimited license, or forty dollars ($40.00) if the application is for an intermediate license, or twenty dollars ($20.00) if the application is for a limited license; the holder of an unlimited license shall be entitled to engage in the business of general contracting in North Carolina unlimited as to the value of any single project, the holder of an intermediate license shall be entitled to engage in the practice of general contracting in North Carolina but shall not be entitled to engage therein with respect to any single project of a value in excess of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000.00), the holder of a limited license shall be entitled to engage in the practice of general contracting in North Carolina but the holder shall not be entitled to engage therein with respect to any single project of a value in excess of seventy-five thousand dollars ($75,000.00) and the license certificate shall be classified as hereinafter set forth. Before being entitled to an examination an applicant must show to the satisfaction of the board from the application and proofs furnished that the applicant is possessed of a good character and is otherwise qualified as to competency, ability and integrity, and that the applicant has not committed or done any act, which, if committed or done by any licensed contractor would be grounds under the provisions hereinafter set forth for the suspension or revocation of contractor's license, or that the applicant has not committed or done any act involving dishonesty, fraud, or deceit, or that the applicant has never been refused a license as a general contractor nor had such license revoked, either in this state or in another state, for reasons that should preclude the granting of the license applied for, and that the applicant has never been convicted of a felony: Provided, no applicant shall be refused the right to an examination without being given an opportunity upon such notice, as may be prescribed by the board, to appear before the board and produce evidence in support of his application.

The board shall conduct an examination, either oral or written, of all applicants for license to ascertain the ability of the applicant to make a practical application of his knowledge of the profession of contracting, under the classification contained in the application, and to ascertain the qualifications of the applicant in reading plans and specifications, knowledge of estimating costs, construction, ethics and other similar matters pertaining to the contracting business and knowledge of the applicant as to the responsibilities of a contractor to the public and of the requirements of the laws of the state of North Carolina relating to contractors, construction and liens. If the results of the examination of applicant shall be satisfactory to the board, then the board shall issue to the applicant a certificate to engage as a general contractor in the state of North Carolina, as provided in said certificate, which may be limited into four classifications as the common use of the terms are known—that is, (1) building contractor; (2) highway contractor; (3) public utilities contractor; and, (4) specialty contractor, which shall include those whose operations as such are the performance of construction work requiring special skill and involving the use of specialized building trades or crafts, but which shall not include any operations now or hereafter under the jurisdiction, for the issuance of license, by any board or commission pursuant to the laws of the state of North Carolina.

If an applicant is an individual, examination may be taken by his personal appearance for examination, or by the appearance for examination of one or more of his responsible managing employees, and if a co-partnership or corporation, or any other combination or organization, by the examination of one or more of the responsible managing officers or members of the personnel of the applicant, and if the person so examined shall cease to be connected with the applicant, then in such event the license shall remain in full force and effect for a period of thirty days thereafter, and then be cancelled, but the applicant shall then be entitled to a re-examination, all pursuant to the rules to be promulgated by the board: Provided, that the holder of such license shall not bid on or undertake any additional contracts from the time such examined employee shall cease to be connected with the applicant until said applicant's license is reinstated as provided in this article.

Anyone failing to pass this examination may be re-examined at any regular meeting of the board without additional fee. Certificate of license shall expire on the first day of December following the issuance or renewal and shall become invalid on that day unless renewed, subject to the approval of the board. Renewals may be effected any time during the month of January without re-examination, by the payment of a fee to the secretary of the board of thirty dollars ($30.00) for unlimited license, twenty dollars ($20.00) for intermediate license and ten dollars ($10.00) for limited license: Provided, the classification herein provided for shall not apply to contracts of the state highway and public works commission. (1925, c. 318, s. 9; 1931, c. 62, s. 2; 1937, c. 328; 1937, c. 429, s. 3; 1941, c. 257, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment substituted the above in lieu of the former section. For comment on the amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 446.

§ 87-11. Revocation of license; charges of fraud, negligence, incompetency, etc.; hearing thereon; notice of charges; reissuance of certificate.—The board shall have the power to revoke the certificate of license of any general contractor licensed hereunder who is found guilty of any fraud or deceit in obtaining a license, or gross negligence, incompetency or misconduct in the practice of his profession, or wilful violation of any provisions of this article. Any person may prefer charges of such fraud, deceit, negligence or misconduct against any general contractor licensed hereunder; such charges shall be in writing and sworn to by the complainant and submitted to the board. Such charges, unless dismissed without hearing by the board as unfounded or trivial, shall be heard and determined by the board within thirty days after the date in which they were preferred. A time and place for such hearing shall be fixed by the board and held in the county in which said charges originated or such other county as the board may designate. A copy of the charges, together with the notice of the time and place of hearing, shall be legally served on the accused at least fifteen days before the fixed date for the hearing, and in the event that such service cannot be effected fifteen days before such hearing, then the date of hearing and determination shall be postponed as may be necessary to permit the carrying out of this condition. At said hearing the accused shall have the right to appear personally and by counsel and to cross-examine witnesses against him, her or them, and to produce evidence of witnesses in his, her or their defense. If after said hearing at least four members of the board vote in favor of finding the accused guilty of any fraud or deceit in obtaining license, or of gross negligence, incompetency or misconduct in practice the board shall revoke the license of the accused.

The board may reissue a license to any person, firm or corporation whose license has been revoked: Provided, three or more members of the board vote in favor of such reissuance for reasons the board may deem sufficient.

The board shall immediately notify the secretary of state of its finding in the case of the revocation of a license or of the reissuance of a revoked license.

A certificate of license to replace any certificate lost, destroyed or mutilated may be issued subject to the rules and regulations of the board. (1925, c. 318, s. 10; 1937, c. 429, s. 4.)

Cross Reference.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see §§ 150-1 to 150-8.

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment so changed this section that a comparison here is not practical.

§ 87-12. Certificate evidence of license.—The issuance of a certificate of license or limited license by this board shall be evidence that the person, firm or corporation named therein is entitled to all the rights and privileges of a licensed or limited licensed general contractor while the said license remains unrevoked or unexpired. (1925, c. 318, s. 11; 1937, c. 429, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment inserted the words "or limited license" in this section.

§ 87-13. Unauthorized practice of contracting; impersonating contractor; false certificate; giving false evidence to board; penalties.—Any person, firm or corporation not being duly authorized who shall contract for or bid upon the construction of any of the projects or works enumerated in § 87-1, without having first complied with the provisions hereof, or who shall attempt to practice general contracting in this state, except as provided for in this article, and any person, firm, or corporation presenting or attempting to file as his own the licensed certificate of another or who shall give false or forged evidence of any kind to the board or to any member thereof in maintaining a certificate of license or who falsely shall impersonate another or who shall use an expired or revoked certificate of license, and any architect or engineer who receives or considers a bid from any one not properly licensed under this article, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall for each such offense of which he is convicted be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars or imprisonment of three months, or both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court. And the board may, in its discretion, use its funds to defray the expense, legal or otherwise, in the prosecution of any violations of this article. (1925, c. 318, s. 12; 1931, c. 62, s. 3; 1937, c. 429, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment made an insertion in the first part of this section, and added the last sentence.

The reference to architect or engineer was inserted by the 1931 amendment.

§ 87-14. Regulations as to issue of building permits.—Any person, firm or corporation, upon making application to the building inspector or such other authority of any incorporated city, town or village in North Carolina charged with the duty of issuing building or other permits for the construction of any building, highway, sewer, grading or any improvement or structure where the cost thereof is to be ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) or more, shall, before he be entitled to the issuance of such permit, furnish satisfactory proof to such inspector or authority that he is duly licensed under the terms of this article to carry out or superintend the same, and that he has paid the license tax required by the Revenue Act of the state of North Carolina then in force so as to be qualified to bid upon or contract for the work for which the permit has been applied; and it shall be unlawful for such building inspector or other authority to issue or allow the issuance of such building permit unless and until the applicant has furnished evidence that he is either exempt from the provisions of this article or is duly licensed under this article to carry out or superintend the work for which permit has been applied; and further, that the applicant has paid the license tax required by the State Revenue Act then in force so as to be qualified to bid upon or contract for the work covered by the permit; and such building inspector, or other such authority, violating the terms of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not more than fifty dollars ($50.00). (1925, c. 318, s. 13; 1931, c. 62, s. 4; 1937, c. 429, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1937 amendment this section related to exemptions from article.

§ 87-15. Copy of article included in specifications; bid not considered unless contractor licensed.—All architects and engineers preparing plans and specifications for work to be contracted in the state of North Carolina shall include in their invitations to bidders and in their specifications a copy of this article or such portions thereof as are deemed necessary to convey to the invited bidder, whether he be a resident or nonresident of this state and whether a license has been issued to him or not, the information that it will be necessary for him to show evidence of a license before his bid is considered. (1925, c. 318, s. 14; 1937, c. 429, s. 8; 1941, c. 257, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment added a second sentence to this section which was struck out by the 1941 amendment.

Art. 2. Plumbing and Heating Contractors.

§ 87-16. Board of Examiners; appointment; term of office.—For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article there is hereby created a State Board of Examiners of Plumbing and Heating Contractors, consisting of seven members to be appointed by the Governor within sixty days after February 27, 1931. The said board shall consist of one member from the Engineering School of the Greater University of North Carolina, one member from the State Board of Health, one member to be a plumbing inspector from some city of the State, one licensed master plumber and one heating contractor, one member from the division of public health of the Greater University of North Carolina, and one member to be a licensed air conditioning contractor. The term of office of said members shall be so designated by the Governor that the term of one member shall expire each year. Thereafter in each year the Governor shall in like manner appoint one person to fill the vacancy on the board thus created. Vacancies in the membership of the board shall be filled by appointment by the Governor for the unexpired term. Whenever the word "board" is used in this article, it shall be deemed and held to refer to the state board of examiners of plumbing and heating contractors. (1931, c. 52, s. 1; 1939, c. 224, s. 1.)

Local Modification.—Carteret, Towns of Morehead City, Beaufort and Atlantic Beach; Moore, Towns of Southern Pines and Pinehurst; New Hanover; Stanly, Town of Albemarle: 1935, c. 338; Burke: 1939, c. 297; Surry, Town of Elkin: 1939, c. 297; Anson: 1939, c. 308; Durham and Wake: 1939, c. 381.

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment increased the members of the board from five to seven and added the last sentence.

§ 87-17. Removal, qualifications and compensation of members; allowance for expenses.—The Governor may remove any member of the board for misconduct, incompetency or neglect of duty. Each member of the board shall be a citizen of the United States and a resident of this State at the time of his appointment. Each member of the board shall receive ten dollars per day for attending sessions of the board or of its committees, and for the time spent in necessary traveling in carrying out the provisions of this article, and in addition to the per diem compensation, each member shall be reimbursed by the board from funds in its hands for necessary traveling expenses and for such expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions hereof, as shall be approved by a majority of the members of the board. (1931, c. 52, s. 2.)

§ 87-18. Organization meeting; officers seal; examination of witnesses and taking of testimony.—The board shall within thirty days after its appointment meet in the city of Raleigh and organize, and shall elect a chairman and secretary and treasurer, each to serve for one year. Thereafter said officers shall be elected annually. The secretary and treasurer shall give bond approved by the board for the faithful performance of his duties, in such sum as the board may, from time to time determine. The board shall have a common seal and shall formulate rules to govern its actions. (1931, c. 52, s. 3; 1939, c. 224, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment struck out the following words "and each member of the board shall be empowered to administer oaths and have power to compel the attendance of witnesses, and it may take testimony and proofs concerning all matters within its jurisdiction."

§ 87-19. Regular and special meetings; quorum.—The board after holding its first meeting as hereinbefore provided, shall thereafter hold at least two regular meetings each year. Special meetings may be held at such times and places as the by-laws and/or rules of the board provide; or as may be required in carrying out the provisions hereof. A quorum of the board shall consist of not less than three members. (1931, c. 52, s. 4.)

§ 87-20. Record of proceedings and register of applicants; reports. — The board shall keep a record of its proceedings and a register of all applicants for examination, showing the date of each application, the name, age and other qualifications, place of business and residence of each applicant. The books and records of the board shall be prima facie evidence of the correctness of the contents thereof. On or before the first day of March of each year the board shall submit to the Governor a report of its activities for the preceding year, and file with the Secretary of State a copy of such report, together with a statement of receipts and expenditures of the board attested by the chairman and secretary. (1931, c. 52, s. 5.)

§ 87-21. Definitions; contractors licensed by board; towns excepted.—For the purpose of this article plumbing shall be deemed and held to include the plumbing system of a building consisting of water supply distributing pipes, the fixtures and fixture traps, soil, waste and vent pipes, all with their devices, appurtenances and connections, and all within, adjacent to or connected with the building, however shall not include the repair or installation of water supply pipe from the street to plumbing fixtures not connected with the sewerage or ventilating systems or to the repair or replacement of outside water faucets. For the purpose of this article heating shall be deemed and held to include all heating systems of a building requiring the use of high or low pressure steam, vapor, hot water, warm or conditioned air, and all piping, ducts, connections or mechanical equipment appurtenant thereto within, adjacent to or connected with the building. Any person, firm or corporation, who, for a valuable consideration, installs, alters or restores or offers to install, alter or restore either plumbing or heating, or both, as defined in this article, shall be deemed to be engaged in the business of either plumbing or heating contracting, or both, as the case may be. All persons, firms or corporations, whether resident or nonresident of the state of North Carolina, before engaging in either the plumbing or heating contracting business, or both, as defined in this article, shall first apply to the state board of examiners of plumbing and heating contractors for examination and shall procure a license. Each application shall be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of the annual license fee required by this article. In order to promote the health, comfort, and safety of the people of the state of North Carolina in the regulation of the business of plumbing or heating contracting, the board shall give each applicant for license an examination designed to ascertain the technical and practical knowledge of the applicant concerning the analysis of plans and specifications, estimating costs, construction, fundamentals of design and installation, sanitation, fire hazards, and related subjects. Regular examinations shall be given by the board in the months of February and August of each year; and additional examinations may be given at such other time as the board may deem necessary. Any person, firm or corporation may demand in writing a special examination, and upon payment by the applicant of the cost of holding such examination and the deposit of the amount of the annual license fee, the board in its discretion will fix a time and place for such examination to be given, not less than ten nor more than thirty days from receipt of the written demand and the deposit of the cost. As the result of such examination, all applicants found by the board to be qualified to engage in and carry on the business of either plumbing or heating contracting, or both, as defined in this article, shall be entitled to and shall receive a license to do so. The said board shall have authority to issue a limited heating license to any applicant who establishes to the satisfaction of the board, by such examination, that he is qualified to engage in the business of heating contracting by the installation, alteration and renovation of any one or more types of heating systems, but such limited license shall authorize the licensee to engage in the heating contracting business only to the extent and under the conditions recited in the license. The board shall, within thirty days after March 30, 1939, meet and classify the business of heating contracting into the following groups for the purpose of issuing limited licenses as provided in this article: Group number one to consist of the installation, alteration or restoration of all heating systems which involve the use of high or low pressure steam, vapor, hot water and all piping, ducts, connections or mechanical equipment appurtenant thereto, within, adjacent or connected with a building; group number two to consist of the installation, alteration or restoration of all air conditioning systems which provide conditioned air for comfort cooling by the lowering of temperature within a building, including all parts and accessories necessary thereto. Persons, firms or corporations now holding licenses for heating contracting in accordance with the provisions of §§ 87-16 to 87-27 shall be granted, without examination, a limited heating license under group number one as classified under this section. Section 87-25 shall not apply to any person, firm or corporation engaged in the business of heating contracting as classified under group number two as defined in this section prior to January first one thousand nine hundred and forty. Employees who work under the supervision and jurisdiction of a person, firm or corporation, licensed in accordance with the provisions of this article, shall not be required to apply for and obtain a license while so engaged. The requirements of this article shall apply only to persons, firms or corporations engaged in the business of either plumbing or heating contracting, or both, in cities or towns having a population of more than thirty-five hundred. (1931, c. 52, s. 6; 1939, c. 224, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—This section was so changed by the 1939 amendment that a comparison here is not practicable.

Classification Valid.—If the classification of the subjects of taxation, provided for in this section, is not arbitrary and unjust it cannot be regarded in law as a breach of the rule of uniformity. Classification by population is not in itself arbitrary, unreasonable, or unjust. Roach v. Durham, 204 N. C. 587, 591, 169 S. E. 149.

Plumbing and Heating Contracting. — A journeyman plumber, duly licensed under the ordinances of a municipality, who furnishes no materials, supplies or fixtures, but merely attaches or replaces fixtures, and does not install plumbing systems or make substantial alterations thereof, is not engaged in carrying on the business of plumbing and heating contracting within this section, since plumbing is defined in the act in terms of the "plumbing system" and the act refers to plumbing and heating "contractors", and even granting that the definition in the act is ambiguous and is susceptible to a construction which would include journeyman plumbers, the court could not adopt such construction, since the statute must be given that construction which is favorable to defendant and tends least to interfere with personal liberty. State v. Mitchell, 217 N. C. 244, 7 S. E. (2d) 567.

§ 87-22. License fee based on population; expiration and renewal; penalty.—All persons, firms, or corporations engaged in the business of either plumbing or heating contracting, or both, in cities or towns of ten thousand inhabitants or more shall pay an annual license fee of fifty dollars, and in cities or towns of more than thirty-five hundred and less than ten thousand inhabitants an annual license fee of twenty-five dollars. In the event the board refuses to license an applicant, the license fee deposited shall be returned by the board to the applicant. All licenses shall expire on the last day of December in each year following their issuance or renewal. It shall be the duty of the secretary and treasurer to cause to be mailed to every licensee registered hereunder notice to his last known address of the amount of fee required for renewal of license, such notice to be mailed at least one month in advance of the expiration of said license. In the event of failure on the part of any person, firm or corporation to renew the license certificate annually and pay the fee therefor during the month of January in each year, the board shall increase said license fee ten per centum for each month or fraction of a month that payment is delayed; provided that the penalty for nonpayment shall not exceed the amount of the annual fee, and provided, further that no penalty will be imposed if one-half of the annual license fee is paid in January and the remaining one-half in June of each year. (1931, c. 52, s. 7; 1939, c. 224, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—This section was so changed by the 1939 amendment that a comparison here is not practicable.

§ 87-23. Revocation or suspension of license for cause.—The board shall have power to revoke or suspend the license of any plumbing or heating contractor, or both, who is guilty of any fraud or deceit in obtaining a license, or who fails to comply with any provision or requirement of this article, or for gross negligence, incompetency, or misconduct, in the practice of or in carrying on the business of either a plumbing or heating contractor, or both, as defined in this article. Any person may prefer charges of such fraud, deceit, gross negligence, incompetency, misconduct, or failure to comply with any provision or requirement of this article, against any plumbing or heating contractor, or both, who is licensed under the provisions of this article. All of such charges shall be in writing and verified by the complainant, and such charges shall be heard and determined by the board within ninety days after the same are received by it. A time and place for such hearing shall be fixed by the board and a copy of said charges together with notice of the time and place of hearing, shall be furnished to the person, firm, or corporation accused at least thirty days before the date fixed for the hearing.

At said hearing the person accused shall have the right to appear personally, or by counsel, and be heard in defense of said charges. Upon the conclusion of said hearing, if the board finds that the license of the accused person should be revoked or suspended for any one or more of the causes set forth in this section, the board shall enter upon its records a resolution revoking or suspending the license and furnish a copy of said resolution to the accused. Any person, firm, or corporation whose license shall be revoked or suspended by the board shall have the right to appeal to the superior court of the county in which the accused maintains his or its principal place of business, said appeal to be perfected within thirty days after receipt of the board's resolution by the accused, but not thereafter. (1931, c. 52, s. 8; 1939, c. 224, s. 5.)

Cross Reference.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see §§ 150-1 to 150-8.

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment inserted the words "or suspend" near the beginning of the section and made other changes.

Purpose of Law.—The manifest purpose of the law is to promote the health, comfort, and safety of the people by regulating plumbing and heating in public and private buildings. Roach v. Durham, 204 N. C. 587, 591, 169 S. E. 149.

§ 87-24. Re-issuance of revoked licenses; replacing lost or destroyed licenses.—The board may in its discretion re-issue license to any person, firm or corporation whose license may have been revoked: Provided, three or more members of the board vote in favor of such re-issuance for reasons deemed sufficient by the board. A new certificate of registration to replace any license which may be lost or destroyed may be issued subject to the rules and regulations of the board. (1931, c. 52, s. 9.)

§ 87-25. Violations made misdemeanor; employees of licensees excepted.—Any person, firm or corporation who shall engage in or offer to engage in, or carry on the business of either plumbing or heating contracting, or both, as defined in § 87-21, without first having been licensed to engage in such business, or businesses, as required by the provisions of this article; or any person, firm or corporation holding a limited heating license under the provisions of this article who shall practice or offer to practice or carry on any type of heating contracting not authorized by said limited license; or any person, firm or corporation who shall give false or forged evidence of any kind to the board, or any member thereof, in obtaining a license, or who shall falsely impersonate any other practitioner of like or different name, or who shall use an expired or revoked license, or who shall violate any of the provisions of this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction fined not less than one hundred dollars or imprisoned for not more than three months, or both, in the discretion of the court. Employees, while working under the supervision and jurisdiction of a person, firm or corporation licensed in accordance with the provisions of the article, shall not be construed to have engaged in the business of either plumbing or heating contracting, or both. (1931, c. 52, s. 10; 1939, c. 224, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment so changed this section that a comparison here is not practicable.

Acts Not Constituting Contracting.—A journeyman plumber, contracting and agreeing with various persons to perform labor required to install certain plumbing at a stipulated lump sum price, and who does not maintain a fixed place of business or sell or contract to furnish materials, supplies or fixtures of any kind, and who fails to obtain a license from the state board of examiners of plumbing and heating contractors, is not guilty of a misdemeanor under the provisions of this section, since his occupation does not constitute carrying on the "business of plumbing and heating contracting" within the meaning of the penal provisions of the statute. State v. Ingle, 214 N. C. 276, 199 S. E. 10.

§ 87-26. Only one person in partnership or corporation need have license.—A corporation or partnership may engage in the business of either plumbing or heating, or both, provided one or more persons connected with such corporation or partnership is registered and licensed as herein required; and provided such licensed person shall execute all contracts, exercise general supervision over the work done thereunder and be responsible for compliance with all the provisions of this article. (1931, c. 52, s. 12; 1939, c. 224, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added the part of the section appearing after the semi-colon, and omitted a provision as to receiving license without examination.

§ 87-27. License fees payable in advance; application of.—All license fees shall be paid in advance to the secretary and treasurer of the board, and by him held as a fund for the use of the board. The compensation and expenses of the members of the board as herein provided, the salaries of its employees, and all expenses incurred in the discharge of its duties under this article shall be paid out of such fund, upon the warrant of the president and secretary and treasurer: Provided, upon the payment of the necessary expenses of the board as herein set out, and the retention by it of twenty-five per centum of the balance of funds collected hereunder, the residue, if any, shall be paid to the state treasurer. (1931, c. 52, s. 13; 1933, c. 57; 1939, c. 224, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 57, made a former proviso applicable in towns of less than 10,000 instead of 5,000, and added a proviso relating to renewals. These provisos were omitted by the 1939 amendment.

It is obvious that the pervading intent of this section is to provide for the maintenance of the board and not to impose a tax as a part of the general revenue of the State and thereby exclude the operation of the police power. It is true that the act does not in express words authorize the exercise of this power, but in our opinion it appears by implication that the exercise of such power was intended. Roach v. Durham, 204 N. C. 587, 591, 169 S. E. 149.

Art. 3. Tile Contractors.

§ 87-28. License required of tile contractors.—In order to protect the health and safety of the people of North Carolina any person, firm or corporation desiring to engage in tile contracting within the state of North Carolina as defined in this article shall make application in writing for license to the North Carolina licensing board for tile contractors: Provided, that the provisions of this article shall not apply to state colleges, hospitals and other state buildings. (1937, c. 86, s. 1; 1941, c. 219, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The first fourteen words of the section were added by the 1941 amendment, which changed the last word in the section from "institutions" to "buildings."

For comment on the 1941 amendment, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 446.

For comment on 1939 amendment to this article, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 337.

§ 87-29. Tile contracting defined. — Engaging in tile contracting for the purpose of this article is defined to mean any person, firm or corporation who for profit undertakes to lay, set or install ceramic tile, marble, or terrazzo floors or walls in buildings for private or public use. (1937, c. 86, s. 2; 1939, c. 75, s. 1; 1941, c. 219, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment omitted a proviso added by the 1939 amendment. It also substituted other words for the former words "engages in tile contracting business in the state of North Carolina."

§ 87-30. Licensing board created; membership; appointment and removal.—The North Carolina licensing board for tile contractors shall consist of five members, each of whom shall be a reputable tile contractor residing in the state of North Carolina who has been engaged in the business of tile contracting for at least five years. The members of the first board shall be appointed within sixty days after March 1, 1937, for terms of one, two, three, four, and five years by the governor, and the governor in each year thereafter shall appoint one licensed tile contractor to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of office, the term of such new member to be for five years. If vacancy shall occur in the board for any cause the same shall be filled by appointment of the governor. The governor shall have the power to remove from office any member of said board for incapacity, misconduct, or neglect of duty. (1937, c. 86, s. 3.)

§ 87-31. Oath of office; organization; meetings; authority; compensation.—The members of said board shall qualify by taking an oath of office in writing to be filed with the secretary of state to uphold the constitution of the United States and the constitution of North Carolina and to properly perform the duties of his office. The board shall elect a president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer. A majority of the members of the board shall constitute a quorum. Regular meetings shall be held at least twice a year, at such time and place as shall be deemed most convenient. Due notice of such meetings shall be given to all applicants for license in such manner as the by-laws may provide. The board may prescribe regulations, rules, and by-laws for its own proceedings and government and for the examination of applicants not in conflict with the laws of North Carolina. Special meetings may be held upon a call of three members of the board. Each member of the board shall receive for his services the sum of ten ($10.00) dollars per day for each and every day spent in the performance of his duties, and shall be reimbursed for all necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of his duties. (1937, c. 86, s. 4.)

§ 87-32. Secretary-treasurer, duties and bond; seal; annual report to governor.—It shall be the duty of the secretary-treasurer to keep a record of all proceedings of the board and all licenses issued, and to pay all necessary expenses of the board out of the funds collected, and he shall give such bond as the board shall direct. All funds in excess of the sum of one hundred ($100.00) dollars remaining in the hands of the secretary-treasurer, after all of the expenses of the board for the current year have been paid, shall be paid over to the Greater University of North Carolina for the use of the ceramic engineering department of North Carolina State College to be devoted by it to the development of the safe, proper, and sanitary uses of tile. The board shall adopt a seal to be affixed to all of its official documents, and shall make an annual report of its proceedings to the governor on or before the first day of March of each year, which report shall contain an account of all moneys received and disbursed. (1937, c. 86, s. 5.)

§ 87-33. Applications for examinations; fee; qualifications of applicants.—Any person desiring to be examined by said board shall at least two weeks prior to the holding of an examination file an application upon the prescribed form to be furnished by the board. Each applicant upon making an application shall pay to the secretary-treasurer of the board an examination fee of twenty-five dollars ($25.00). To qualify and obtain a license such applicant must be a citizen of the United States, or person who has duly declared his intention of becoming such citizen, who shall have had at least two years experience, or its equivalent, next preceding the date of his application for license as a tile, marble and terrazzo student or mechanic, possessing the knowledge to specify the proper kind of tile, marble and terrazzo floors or walls for use in private or public buildings, and the ability to lay, set or install tile, marble and terrazzo in accordance with specifications and blue prints ordinarily used in the tile contracting business. (1937, c. 86, s. 6; 1941, c 219, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment changed the wording of the first sentence, added the present second sentence and omitted a provision relating to registration and certificate thereof.

§ 87-34. Fee for annual renewal of registration; license revoked for default; penalty for reinstatement.—Every licensed tile contractor who desires to continue in business in this state shall annually, on or before the first day of January of each year, pay to the secretary-treasurer of the board the sum of fifty ($50.00) dollars for which he shall receive a renewal of such registration, and in case of the default of such registration by any person the license shall be revoked. Any licensed tile contractor whose license has been revoked for failure to pay the renewal fee, as herein provided, may apply to have the same regranted upon payment of all renewal fees that should have been paid, together with a penalty of ten ($10.00) dollars. (1937, c. 86, s. 7.)

§ 87-35. Power of board to revoke or suspend licenses; charges; notice and opportunity for hearing; appeal.—The board shall have the power after hearing to revoke or suspend the license of any tile contractor upon satisfactory proof that such license was secured by fraud or deceit practiced upon the board, or upon satisfactory proof that such tile contractor is guilty of gross negligence, incompetency, or inefficiency in carrying on the business of tile contracting. Each charge against any contractor submitted to the board shall be in writing and sworn to by the complainant: Provided, however, that before any license shall be revoked or suspended the holder thereof shall have notice of the specific charge or charges preferred, and at a date specified in said notice, at least thirty days after legal service thereof, be given public hearing, and have an opportunity to appear, cross-examine witnesses, and to produce evidence. Any person being aggrieved by the action of the board shall have the right of appeal to the superior court. (1937, c. 86, s. 8.)

Cross Reference.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see §§ 150-1 to 150-8.

Editor's Note.—While the provision as to examination of applicants refers only to those who were not so engaged at the time the statute went into effect, the provisions as to revocation refer to all. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 326.

§ 87-36. No examination required of present contractors.—All persons, firms or corporations now actively engaged in the tile contracting business in the state of North Carolina shall upon filing affidavit with the board be entitled to and receive a license without examination upon payment of the annual license fee. (1937, c. 86, s. 9; 1939, c. 75, s. 3; 1941, c. 219, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment added a proviso exempting persons entering into contracts where the contract price did not exceed two hundred and fifty dollars. The 1941 amendment inserted the words "be entitled to" and omitted the proviso added by the 1939 amendment.

§ 87-37. License to one member of firm, etc., sufficient; employees exempt; restricted application of article.—Any firm, partnership or corporation may engage in the tile contracting business in this state, provided, one member of said firm, partnership or corporation is a licensed tile contractor actually employed by said firm, partnership or corporation, and personally present in charge of such tile contracting work. No license shall be required of any mechanic or employee of a licensed tile contractor performing duties for the employer. Provided, however, that none of the provisions of this article shall apply to jobs in which the total cost of tile, labor and other materials necessary for laying same is less than one hundred and fifty dollars ($150.00). (1937, c. 86, s. 10; 1941, c. 219, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment made changes in the wording of the first sentence and added the proviso at the end of the section.

§ 87-38. Penalty for misrepresentation or fraud in procuring or maintaining license certificate.—Any person, firm, or corporation not being duly licensed to engage in tile contracting in this state as provided for in this article who engages therein, and any person, firm, or corporation presenting as his own the license certificate of another or who shall give false or forged evidence of any kind to the board or any member thereof in maintaining a certificate of license, or who shall falsely impersonate another, or who shall use an expired or revoked certificate of license, or an architect, engineer or contractor who receives or considers a bid from any one not properly licensed under this article, shall be guilty of misdemeanor, and for each offense of which he is convicted be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred ($200.00) dollars, or by imprisonment of not less than two months or both fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1937, c. 86, s. 11; 1939, c. 75, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment inserted the words "who engages therein" after the word "article" in line three.

Prior to the amendment it was held that the section failed to define the acts prohibited, the doing of which should constitute a misdemeanor, and that such fatal deficiency could not be supplied by judicial interpolation of words to constitute a criminal offense. State v. Julian, 214 N. C. 574, 200 S. E. 24.

Art. 4. Electrical Contractors.

§ 87-39. Board of examiners created; members appointed and officers; terms; principal office; meetings; quorum; compensation and expenses.—A state board of examiners of electrical contractors is hereby created, which shall consist of the state electrical engineer, who shall act as chairman of the board, the secretary of the association of electrical contractors of North Carolina, and three other members to be appointed by the governor as follows: One from the faculty of the engineering school of the Greater University of North Carolina, one person who is serving as chief electrical inspector of a municipality in the state of North Carolina, and one representative of a firm, partnership or corporation located in the state of North Carolina and engaged in the business of electrical contracting. Of the three appointed members one shall be appointed for a term of one year, one for a term of two years, and one for a term of three years, and until their respective successors are appointed and qualified; and thereafter each appointment shall be for a term of three years. The principal office of the board shall be at such place as shall be designated by a majority of the members thereof. The board of examiners shall hold regular meetings quarterly and may hold special meetings on call of the chairman. They shall annually appoint and at their pleasure remove a secretary-treasurer, who need not be a member of the board, and whose duties shall be prescribed and whose compensation shall be fixed by the board. Three members of the board shall constitute a quorum. The appointive members of the board shall be entitled to receive the sum of seven dollars ($7.00) and actual and necessary expenses for each day actually devoted to the performance of their duties under this article: Provided, however, that none of the expenses of said board or the compensation or expenses of any officer thereof or any employee shall ever be paid or payable out of the treasury of the state of North Carolina; and neither the board nor any officer or employee thereof shall have any power or authority to make or incur any expense, debt or other financial obligation binding upon the state of North Carolina. (1937, c. 87, s. 1.)

§ 87-40. Board to appoint secretary-treasurer within thirty days; bond required; oath of membership.—The board of examiners of electrical contractors shall within thirty days after its appointment meet at the time and place designated by the chairman and appoint a secretary-treasurer. The secretary-treasurer shall give a bond approved by the board for the faithful performance of his duties in such form as the board may from time to time prescribe. The board shall have a common seal and shall formulate rules to govern its actions and may take testimony and proof concerning all matters within its jurisdiction. Before entering upon the performance of their duties hereunder each member of the board shall take and file with the secretary of state an oath in writing to properly perform the duties of his office as a member of said board, and to uphold the constitution of North Carolina and the constitution of the United States. § 87-41. Seal for board; duties of secretary-treasurer; surplus funds; contingent or emergency fund.—The board shall adopt a seal for its own use. The seal shall have inscribed thereon the words "board of examiners of electrical contractors, state of North Carolina," and the secretary shall have charge and custody thereof. The secretary-treasurer shall keep a record of the proceedings of said board and shall receive and account for all moneys derived under the operations of this article. Any funds remaining in the hands of the secretary-treasurer to the credit of the board after the expenses of the board for the current year have been paid shall be paid over to the electrical engineering department of the Greater University of North Carolina to be used for electrical experimentations: Provided, however, the board shall have the right to retain as a contingent or emergency fund ten per cent of such gross receipts in each year of its operation. (1937, c. 87, s. 3.)

§ 87-42. Board to give examinations and issue licenses.—It shall be the duty of the board of examiners of electrical contractors to receive all applications for licenses filed by persons, or representatives of firms or corporations seeking to enter upon or continue in the electrical contracting business within the state of North Carolina, as such business is herein defined, and upon proper qualification of such applicant to issue the license applied for; to prescribe the conditions of examination of, and, subject to the provisions of this article, to give examinations to all persons who are under the provisions of this article required to take such examination. (1937, c. 87, s. 4.)

§ 87-43. Persons required to obtain licenses; examination required; licenses for firms or corporations.—No person, firm or corporation shall engage in the business of installing, maintaining, altering or repairing within the state of North Carolina any electric wiring, devices, appliances or equipment for which a permit is now or may hereafter be required by the statutes of the state of North Carolina, or by municipal or county ordinances in the county in which such work is undertaken, dealing with the erection and inspection of buildings and fire protection and electrical installation unless such person, firm or corporation shall have received from the board of examiners of electrical contractors an electrical contractor's license: Provided, however, that the provisions of this article shall not apply (a) to the installation, construction, or maintenance of power systems for the generation and primary and secondary distribution of electric current ahead of the customer's meter; (b) to the installation, construction, maintenance, or repair of telephone, telegraph, or signal systems by public utilities; (c) to any mechanic employed by a licensee of this board; (d) to the installation, construction or maintenance of electrical equipment and wiring for temporary use by contractors in connection with the work of construction; (e) to the installation, construction, maintenance or repair of electrical wiring, devices, appliances or equipment by persons, firms or corporations, upon their own property, who maintain in regular and full-time employment electricians, when such electricians are employed and engaged exclusively by such persons, firms or corporations; (f) to the installation, construction, maintenance or repair of electrical wiring, devices, appliances or equipment by state institutions and private educational institutions which maintain a private electrical department. No license shall be issued by said board without an examination of the applicant for the purpose of ascertaining his qualifications for such work, but no such examination shall be required for the annual renewal of such license: Provided, however, that persons, firms or corporations residing in the state of North Carolina on March 1, 1937, who have paid the license fees required of electrical contractors by the State Revenue Act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, upon proper certification or establishment of such fact, shall be granted a license by the board of examiners under this article without examination. Firms or corporations shall be eligible to secure licenses from the board of examiners provided they have in their respective organizations at least one person duly qualified as an electrical contractor under the provisions of this article. No license or renewal of any license shall be issued to any applicant until the fees herein prescribed shall have been paid. (1937, c. 87, s. 5.)

§ 87-44. Fees for licenses.—Before a license is granted to any applicant, and before any expiring license is renewed, the applicant shall pay to the board of examiners of electrical contractors a fee in such an amount as is herein specified for the license to be granted or renewed as follows:

For a Class 1, Electrical Contractor's License, state-wide $25.00
For a Class 2, Electrical Contractor's License, for one county only 5.00
(1937, c. 87, s. 6.)

§ 87-45. Licenses expire on June 30th, following issuance; renewal; fees used for administrative expense.—Each license issued hereunder shall expire on June thirtieth following the date of its issuance, and shall be renewed by the board of examiners of electrical contractors upon application of the holder of the license and payment of the required fee at any time within thirty days before the date of such expiration. Licenses renewed subsequent to the date of expiration thereof may in the discretion of the board be subject to a penalty not exceeding ten per cent. The fees collected for licenses under this article shall be used for the expenses of the board of examiners in carrying out the provisions of this article, subject to the provisions herein made with reference to payment of surplus to the electrical engineering department of the Greater University of North Carolina for electrical experimental purposes. (1937, c. 87, s. 7.)

§ 87-46. Examination before local examiner.—In order that applicants for licenses hereunder who are by the provisions of this article required to take an examination before the issuance thereof shall not be subject to any unreasonable inconvenience in connection therewith, the board of examiners of electrical contractors may, and upon the request of the board of commissioners of any county shall delegate to the electrical inspector of the county in which such applicant resides, or if there be no county electrical inspector, then to the electrical inspector of any municipality therein, the authority to conduct examinations of such applicant or applicants residing in such county, such examination, however, to be as prescribed by the board of examiners. In such an event the local examiner herein provided for shall transmit to the board of examiners of electrical contractors the results of such examination, and, if approved by the board, licenses on the basis of such examination shall be issued to the applicants upon the payment of the fees herein prescribed. (1937, c. 87, s. 8.)

§ 87-47. License signed by chairman and secretary-treasurer under seal of board; display in place of business required; register of licenses; records. — Licenses issued hereunder shall be signed by the chairman and the secretary-treasurer of the board of examiners, under the seal of the board. Every holder of license shall keep his certificate of license displayed in a conspicuous place in his principal place of business. The secretary of the board shall keep a register of all licenses to electrical contractors, which said register shall be open during the ordinary business hours for public inspection. The board of examiners shall keep minutes of all of its proceedings and an accurate record of its receipts and disbursements, which record shall be audited at the close of each fiscal year by a certified public accountant, and within thirty days after the close of each fiscal year a summary of its proceedings and a copy of the audit of its books shall be filed with the governor and the treasurer of the state. (1937, c. 87, s. 9.)

§ 87-48. Licenses not assignable or transferable; suspension or revocation.—No license issued in accordance with the provisions of this article shall be assignable or transferable. Any such license may, after hearing, be suspended for a definite length of time or revoked by the board of examiners if the person, firm or corporation holding such license shall wilfully or by reason of incompetence violate any of the statutes of the state of North Carolina, or any ordinances of any municipality or county relating to the installation, maintenance, alteration or repair of electric wiring, devices, appliances or equipment. (1937, c. 87, s. 10.)

Cross Reference.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see §§ 150-1 to 150-8.

Editor's Note.—While the provision as to examination of applicants refers only to those who were not so engaged at the time the statute went into effect, the provision as to revocation refers to all. There is no provision for an appeal to the superior court, but an electrical contractor whose license is suspended or revoked undoubtedly has such a right. 15 N. C. Law Rev. 326, 327.

§ 87-49. License does not relieve compliance with codes or laws.—Nothing in this article shall relieve the holder or holders of licenses issued under the provisions hereof from complying with the building or electrical codes or statutes or ordinances of the state of North Carolina, or of any county or municipality thereof, now in force or hereafter enacted. (1937, c. 87, s. 11.)

§ 87-50. Responsibility for negligence; non-liability of board.—Nothing in this article shall be construed as relieving the holder of any license issued hereunder from responsibility or liability for negligent acts on the part of such holder in connection with electrical contracting work; nor shall the board of examiners of electrical contractors be accountable in damages, or otherwise, for the negligent act or acts of any holder of such license. (1937, c. 87, s. 12.)

§ 87-51. Penalty for violation of article.—Any person, firm or corporation who shall violate any of the provisions of this article, or who shall engage or undertake to engage in the business of electrical contracting as herein defined, without first having obtained a license under the provisions of this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) or more than fifty dollars ($50.00) for each offense. Conviction of a violation of this article on the part of a holder of a license issued hereunder shall automatically have the effect of suspending such license until such time as it shall have been reinstated by the board of examiners of electrical contractors. (1937, c. 87, s. 13.)

§ 88-6. Operator. — "Operator" is any person who is not a manager, itinerant, or apprentice cosmetologist, who practices cosmetic art under the direction and supervision of a managing cosmetologist. (1933, c. 179, s. 6.)

§ 88-7. Itinerant cosmetologist; application of chapter.—"Itinerant cosmetologist" is any person who practices as a business cosmetic art outside of a cosmetic art shop, beauty parlor, or hairdressing establishment, either in going from house to house or from place to place at regular, or irregular intervals: Provided, this chapter shall not apply to persons attending female institutions of learning, who defray the cost or a part of the cost of such attendance by the occasional practice of cosmetic art as defined herein, or to persons practicing the cosmetic art in rural communities without the use of mechanical appliances. (1933, c. 179, s. 7.)

§ 88-10. Qualifications for certificate of registration.—No person shall be issued a certificate of registration as a registered apprentice by the state board of cosmetic art examiners, hereinafter established—

(a) Unless such person is at least eighteen years of age.

(c) Unless such person has completed at least one thousand hours in classes in a reliable cosmetic art school, or college approved by said board of cosmetic art examiners.

(d) Unless such person passes the examination prescribed by the board of cosmetic art examiners and pays the required fees hereinafter enumerated. (1933, c. 179, s. 10; 1941, c. 234, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment substituted "one thousand" for "four hundred and eighty" formerly appearing in subsection (c).

For comment on the 1941 amendemnt, see 19 N. C. Law Rev. 447.

§ 88-11. When apprentice may operate shop.—No registered apprentice, registered under the provisions of this chapter, shall operate a cosmetic art beauty shop, beauty parlor, or hairdressing establishment in this state, but must serve his or her period of apprenticehip under the direct supervision of a registered managing cosmetologist as required by this chapter: Provided, however, that any apprentice who, on June 30, 1933, is regularly employed under the direct supervision of one who is entitled to registration as a managing cosmetologist under the provisions of § 88-19 shall, upon recommendation of such managing cosmetologist, and upon passing a satisfactory physical examination, be entitled to registration as a registered cosmetologist. (1933, c. 179, s. 11.)

§ 88-12. Qualifications for registered cosmetologist. — Any person to practice cosmetic art as a registered cosmetologist must have worked as a registered apprentice for a period of at least six months under the direct supervision of a registered managing cosmetologist, and this fact must be demonstrated to the board of cosmetic art examiners by the sworn affidavit of three registered cosmetologists, or by such other methods of proof as the board may prescribe and deem necessary. A certificate of registration as a registered cosmetologist shall be issued by the board, hereinafter designated, to any person who is qualified under the provisions of this chapter, or meets the following qualifications:

whether or not the applicant is possessed of the requisite skill in such trade, to properly perform all the duties thereof, and services incident thereto, and has sufficient knowledge concerning the diseases of the face, skin, and scalp, to avoid the aggravation and spreading thereof in the practice of said profession. (1933, c. 179, s. 12.)

§ 88-13. State board of cosmetic art examiners created; appointment and qualifications of members; term of office; removal for cause. — A board to be known as the state board of cosmetic art examiners is hereby established, to consist of three members appointed by the governor of the State. (1933, c. 179, s. 13; 1935, c. 54, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Several changes were made in this section by the amendment of 1935. The requirement that the appointee shall be free from connection with a school or college is new as was also the requirement for following "all branches" of the cosmetic art. Prior to the amendment the section provided that the first appointees should serve for three years, two years, and one year respectively.

The secretary shall keep and preserve all the records of the board, issue all necessary notices and perform such other duties, clerical and otherwise, as may be imposed upon such secretary by said board of cosmetic art examiners. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to authorize any expenditure in excess of the amount available from time to time in the hands of the state treasurer, derived from fees and fines collected under the provisions of this chapter and received by the state treasurer in the manner aforesaid. (1933, c. 179, s. 14; 1943, c. 354, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote this section.

§ 88-15. Compensation and expenses of board members; inspectors; reports; budget; audit. — Each member of the board of cosmetic art examiners shall receive for such services an annual salary in an amount to be fixed by the director of the budget, and shall be reimbursed for actual necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of such duties, not to exceed five dollars ($5.00) per day for subsistence, plus the actual traveling expenses, or an allowance of five cents (5c) per mile where such member uses his or her personally owned automobile.

The inspectors or agents so appointed shall perform such duties as may be prescribed by the board. Any inspector appointed under authority of this section or any member of the board shall have the authority at all reasonable hours to examine cosmetic art shops, beauty parlors, hair dressing establishments, cosmetic art schools, colleges, academies or training schools with respect to and in compliance with the provisions of this chapter. The inspectors and agents appointed under authority of this chapter shall make such reports to the board of cosmetic art examiners as said board may require. The said board shall on, or before June first of each year, submit a budget to the director of the budget for the ensuing fiscal year, which shall begin July first of each year. The said budget so submitted shall include all estimated receipts and expenditures for the ensuing fiscal year including the estimated compensation and expenses of board members. The said budget shall be subject to the approval of the director of the budget and no expenditures shall be made unless the same shall have been set up in the budget adopted by the board of cosmetic art examiners, and approved by the director of the budget of the state of North Carolina; that all salaries and expenses in connection with the administration of this chapter shall be paid upon a warrant drawn on the state treasurer, said warrants to be drawn by the secretary of the board and approved by the state auditor.

The provisions of the Executive Budget Act and the Personnel Act shall fully apply to the administration of this chapter.

There shall be annually made by the auditor of the state of North Carolina a full audit and examination of the receipts and disbursements of the state board of cosmetic art examiners. The state board shall report annually to the governor a full statement of receipts and disbursements and also a full statement of its work during the year. (1933, c. 179, s. 15; 1935, c. 54, s. 3; 1941, c. 234, s. 2; 1943, c. 354, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The 1943 amendment rewrote this section. The 1935 act had added two paragraphs relating to inspectors and reports which were rewritten by the 1941 amendment.

§ 88-16. Applicants for examination.—Each applicant for an examination shall:

(a) Make application to the board of cosmetic art examiners on blank forms prepared and furnished by the full time secretary, such application to contain proof under the applicant's oath of the particular qualifications of the applicant.

(b) Pay to the secretary of the said board the required examination fee, hereinafter established.

(c) All applications for said examination must be filed with the full time secretary at least thirty days prior to the actual taking of such examination by applicant. (1933, c. 179, s. 16.)

§ 88-17. Regular and special meetings of board; examinations. — The board of cosmetic art examiners shall meet four times a year in the months of January, April, July and October on the first Tuesday in each of said months, for the purpose of transacting all business of the board of cosmetic art examiners and to conduct examinations of applicants for certificates of registration to practice as registered cosmetologists, and of applicants for certificates of registration to practice as registered apprentices, meetings to be held at such places as the board may determine to be most convenient for such examinations. The examinations conducted for applicants for certificates of registration as registered cosmetologists and registered apprentices shall be open to all applicants, and shall include such practical demonstration and oral and written tests as the said board may determine. The chairman of the board is hereby authorized and empowered to call a meeting of said board whenever necessary, said meetings to be in addition to the quarterly meetings hereinbefore provided for. (1933, c. 179, 17; 1935, c. 54, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1935 this section provided for examination at least three times each year. The last sentence of the section was added by the amendment.

§ 88-18. Certificate of registration. — Whenever the provisions of this chapter have been complied with, the said board shall issue or cause to be issued, a certificate of registration as registered cosmetologist, or as a registered apprentice to the applicant, as the case may be. (1933, c. 179, s. 18.)

§ 88-19. Admitting operators from other states.—Persons who have practiced cosmetic art in another state and who move into this state shall prove and demonstrate his, or her fitness, physical and otherwise, as set out in §§ 88-10 and 88-12, to the board of cosmetic art examiners, as herein created, and as herein provided, before they will be issued a certificate of registration to practice cosmetic art, but said board may issue such temporary permits as are necessary. (1933, c. 179, s. 19.)

§ 88-20. Registration procedure.—The procedure for the registration of present practitioners of cosmetic art shall be as follows:

(a) Every person who has been practicing cosmetic art in North Carolina and who is practicing such art on June 30, 1933, upon making an affidavit to that effect, and complying with the provisions of this chapter as to physical fitness, and upon paying the required fee to the board of cosmetic art examiners shall be issued a certificate of registration as a registered cosmetologist.

(b) Any person who, on June 30, 1933, is operating a shop as a managing cosmetologist, shall, upon making an affidavit to that effect, and complying with the provisions of this chapter as to physical fitness and upon paying the required fee to the board of cosmetic art examiners be issued a certificate of registration as a managing cosmetologist.

(c) Any person who, on June 30, 1933, is regularly employed under a person who has registered as a managing cosmetologist shall be entitled to register as a cosmetologist as provided in § 88-11.

(d) All persons who are not actively engaged in the practice of cosmetic art on June 30, 1933, shall be required to comply with all of the provisions of this chapter.

(e) All persons, however, who do not make application prior to January 1, 1942, shall be required to take the examination prescribed by the State Board of Cosmetic Art Examiners and otherwise comply with the provisions of this chapter, as amended, before engaging in the practice of cosmetic art. (1933, c. 179, s. 20; 1941, c. 234, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment added subsection (e). Paragraph (a) prescribes a mandatory duty, and the board of examiners has no discretionary power to refuse to issue the certificate in such instance, and therefore a complaint in suit for mandamus alleging full compliance with the provisions of the statute in this respect and the refusal of the board to issue the certificate to plaintiff, is not demurrable. Poole v. State Board of Cosmetic Art Examiners, 221 N. C. 199, 19 S. E. (2d) 635.

§ 88-21. Fees required.—The fee to be paid by an applicant for a certificate of registration to practice cosmetic art as an apprentice shall be three dollars. The fee to be paid by an applicant for examination to determine his or her fitness to receive a certificate of registration as a registered cosmetologist shall be five dollars. The annual license fee of a registered cosmetologist shall be three dollars fifty cents, while the annual license fee of a registered apprentice shall be two dollars fifty cents. All licenses, both for apprentices and registered cosmetologists, shall be renewed as of the 30th day of June each and every year; such renewals for apprentices shall be two dollars fifty cents, and for registered cosmetologists three dollars fifty cents. The fees herein set out shall not be increased by the board of cosmetic art examiners, but said board may regulate the payment of said fees and pro-rate the license fees in such manner as it deems expedient. The fee for registration of an expired certificate for a registered cosmetologist shall be five dollars and registration of an expired certificate of an apprentice shall be three dollars. (1933, c. 179, s. 21.)

§ 88-22. Persons exempt.—The following persons are exempt from the provisions of this chapter while engaged in the proper discharge of their professional duties:

(a) Persons authorized under the laws of the state to practice medicine and surgery.

(b) Commissioned medical or surgical officers of the United States army, navy, or marine hospital services.

(c) Registered nurses.

(d) Undertakers.

(e) Registered barbers.

(f) Manicurists as herein defined. (1933, c. 179, s. 22.)

§ 88-23. Rules and regulations of board. — The state board of cosmetic art examiners shall have authority to make reasonable rules and regulations for the sanitary management of cosmetic art shops, beauty parlors, hairdressing establishments, cosmetic art schools, colleges, academies and training schools, hereinafter called shops and schools, and to have such rules and regulations enforced. The duly authorized agents of said board shall have authority to enter upon and inspect any shop or school at any time during business hours. A copy of the rules and regulations adopted by said board and approved by the state board of health shall be furnished from the office of the board or by the above mentioned authorized agents to the owner or manager of each shop or school in the State, and such copy shall be kept posted in a conspicuous place in each shop and school. (1933, c. 179, s. 23; 1935, c. 54, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 made this section applicable to academies and training schools.

§ 88-24. Posting of certificates. — Every holder of a certificate of registration shall display it in a conspicuous place adjacent to or near his, or her work chair. (1933, c. 179, s. 24.)

§ 88-25. Annual renewal of certificates.—Every registered cosmetologist and every registered apprentice, who continues in active practice or service shall annually, on or before June 30th, of each year, file with the secretary of the board, a renewal certificate as to physical fitness, renew his, or her certificate of registration which has not been renewed prior to, or during the month of July in any year, and which shall expire on the first day of August in that year. A registered cosmetologist, or a registered apprentice whose certificate of registration has expired may have his or her certificate restored immediately upon payment of the required restoration fee, and furnishing to the secretary of the board renewal certificate as to physical fitness. Any registered cosmetologist who retires from the practice of cosmetic art for not more than three years may renew his or her certificate of registration upon payment of the required restoration fee, and by furnishing to the secretary of the board renewal certificate as to physical fitness. (1933, c. 179, s. 25.)

§ 88-26. Causes for revocation of certificates. —The board of cosmetic art examiners may either refuse to issue or renew, or may suspend, or revoke any certificate of registration for any one, or combination of the following causes:

(a) Conviction of a felony shown by certified copy of the record of the court of conviction.

(b) Gross malpractice, or gross incompetency, which shall be determined by the board of cosmetic art examiners.

(c) Continued practice by a person knowingly having an infectious, or contagious disease.

(d) Advertising by means of knowingly false, or deceptive statements.

(e) Habitual drunkenness, or habitual addiction to the use of morphine, cocaine, or other habit-forming drugs.

(f) The commission of any of the offenses described in § 88-28, sub-sections (c), (d), (f) and (g). (1933, c. 179, s. 26; 1941, c. 234, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The 1941 amendment substituted "(c), (d), (f) and (g)" for the words "three, four and six" formerly appearing in subsection (f).

§ 88-27. Hearing on charges. — The board may neither refuse to issue, nor refuse to renew, nor suspend, nor revoke any certificate of registration, however, for any of these causes, unless the person accused has been given at least thirty days notice in writing of the charge against him or her and public hearing by the board of cosmetic art examiners.

(a) Upon the hearing of any such proceeding, the board may administer oaths and may procure by its subpoena, the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant books and papers.

(b) Any cosmetologist in the state whose case has been passed upon by the board of cosmetic art examiners shall have the right to appeal to the superior court of the state, which court may in its discretion reverse, or modify any order made by the said board of cosmetic art examiners. (1933, c. 179, s. 27; 1939, c. 218, s. 1.)

Cross Reference.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see §§ 150-1 to 150-8.

§ 88-28. Acts made misdemeanors. — Each of the following constitutes a misdemeanor punishable upon conviction by a fine of not less than $10.00 and not more than $50.00, or imprisonment for not less than ten days, or more than thirty days:

(a) The violation of any of the provisions of § 88-1.

(b) Permitting any person in one's employ, supervision, or control to practice as an apprentice unless that person has a certificate of registration as a registered apprentice.

(c) Permitting any person in one's employ, supervision, or control, to practice as a cosmetologist unless that person has a certificate as a registered cosmetologist.

(d) Obtaining, or attempting to obtain, a certificate of registration for money other than required fee, or any other thing of value, or by fraudulent misrepresentations.

(e) Practicing or attempting to practice by fraudulent misrepresentations.

(f) The willful failure to display a certificate of registration as required by § 88-24.

(g) The willful and continued violation of the reasonable rules and regulations adopted by the state board of cosmetic art examiners, and approved by the state board of health, for the sanitary management of shops and schools. (1933, c. 179, s. 28.)

Variance.—Where defendant was tried upon a warrant charging that she permitted persons in her employ to practice as apprentices without certificate of registration as registered apprentices or registered cosmetologists, and the jury returned a special verdict to the effect that defendant permitted unlicensed students to work in her school, there is a fatal variance between the warrant and the special verdict and a failure of proof, and the adjudication that defendant was not guilty is affirmed. State v. McIver, 216 N. C. 734, 6 S. E. (2d) 493.

§ 88-29. Records to be kept by board.—The board of cosmetic art examiners shall keep a record of its proceedings relating to the issuance, refusal, renewal, suspension and revocation of certificates of registration. This record shall also contain the name, place of business, and residence of each registered cosmetologist and registered apprentice, and the date and number of his certificate of registration. This record shall be open to public inspection during all days, excepting Sundays and legal holidays. (1933, c. 179, s. 29.)

§ 89-2. Private practice.—Nothing in this chapter shall be construed as requiring registration for the purpose of practicing engineering or land surveying by an individual, firm, or corporation on property owned or leased by said individual, firm, or corporation, unless the same involves the public safety or health. (1921, c. 1, s. 2; C. S. 6055(c).)

§ 89-3. State board of registration for engineers and surveyors.—There is hereby created a state board of registration for engineers and land surveyors, hereinafter called the "board," consisting of five members, who shall be appointed by the governor within sixty days after this chapter becomes effective. At least two members of such board shall be appointed from the engineering faculty of the North Carolina state college of agriculture and engineering of the University of North Carolina. Not more than three members of said board shall be from the same branch of the profession of engineering. The members of the first board shall be appointed to serve for the following terms: Two members for one year, two members for two years, and one member for four years; said terms ending on the thirty-first day of December of the succeeding year. On the expiration of each of said terms the term of office of each newly appointed or reappointed member of the board shall be for a period of four years and shall terminate on the thirty-first day of December. Each member shall hold over after the expiration of his term until his successor shall be duly appointed and qualified. The governor may remove any member of the board for misconduct, incompetency, or neglect of duty. Vacancies in the membership of the board, however created, shall be filled by appointment by the governor for the unexpired term. (1921, c. 1, s. 3; C. S. 6055(d).)

§ 89-4. Requisites for appointment; pay.—Each member of the board shall be a citizen of the United States and a resident of this state at the time of his appointment. He shall have been engaged in the practice or teaching of his profession for at least ten years. Each member of the board shall receive ten dollars ($10) per day for attending sessions of the board or of its committees, and for the time spent in necessary travel, and, in addition, shall be reimbursed for all necessary traveling, incidental, and clerical expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of this chapter. (1921, c. 1, s. 4; C. S. 6055(e).)

§ 89-5. Certificate of appointment; oath; certificate of registration; seal; by-law.—Each member of the board shall receive a certificate of appointment from the governor, and before beginning his term of office he shall file with the secretary of state the constitutional oath of office. Each member of the board first created shall receive a certificate of registration under this chapter from the governor of the state. The board shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses, may administer oaths and may take testimony and proofs concerning all matters within its jurisdiction. The board shall adopt and have an official seal, which shall be affixed to all certificates of registration granted; and shall make all by-laws and rules not inconsistent with law, needed in performing its duty. (1921, c. 1, s. 5; C. S. 6055(f).)

§ 89-6. Meetings; notice; quorum.—The board shall hold a meeting within thirty days after its members are first appointed, and thereafter shall hold at least two regular meetings each year. Special meetings shall be held at such times as the by-laws of the board may provide. Notice of all meetings shall be given in such manner as the by-laws may provide. The board shall elect annually from its members a chairman, a vice-chairman, and a secretary. A quorum of the board shall consist of not less than three members. (1921, c. 1, s. 6; C. S. 6055(g).)

§ 89-7. Fund of board; bond of secretary of board.—The secretary of the board shall receive and account for all moneys derived from the operation of this chapter and shall pay them to the state treasurer, who shall keep such moneys in a separte fund, to be known as the "Fund of the Board of Registration for Engineers and Land Surveyors," which fund shall be continued from year to year, and shall be drawn against only for the purpose of this chapter as herein provided. All expenses certified by the board as properly and necessarily incurred in the discharge of its duties, including authorized compensation, shall be paid out of said fund on the warrant of the auditor of the state, issued on requisition signed by the chairman and secretary of the board: Provided, however, that at no time shall the total of warrants issued exceed the total amount of funds accumulated under this chapter. The secretary of the board shall give a surety bond satisfactory to the state treasurer, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties. The premium on said bond shall be regarded as a proper and necessary expense of the board. (1921, c. 1, s. 7; C. S. 6055(h).)

§ 89-8. Record of proceedings and register of applicants; roster of engineers and surveyors; annual report.—The board shall keep a record of its proceedings and a register of all applicants for registration showing for each the date of application, name, age, education and other qualifications, place of business and place of residence, and whether the applicant was rejected or a certificate of registration granted, and the date of such action. The books and register of the board shall be prima facie evidence of all matters recorded therein. A roster showing the names and places of business and of residence of all registered engineers and land surveyors shall be prepared by the secretary of the board during the month of January of each year; such roster shall be printed by the board out of the fund of the said board as provided in § 89-7, and a copy mailed to and placed on file by the clerk of each incorporated city, town and county in the state. On or before the first day of March of each year the board shall submit to the governor a report of its transactions for the preceding year, and shall file with the secretary of state copy of such report, together with a complete statement of the receipts and expenditures of the board, attested by the affidavits of the chairman and the secretary, and a copy of the said roster of registered engineers and registered surveyors. (1921, c. 1, s. 8; C. S. 6055(i).)

§ 89-9. Certificates; issuance; fees; eligibility of applicants.—The board shall, on application therefor, on prescribed form, and the payment of a fee of twenty-five dollars ($25) by engineers, or the payment of a fee of ten dollars ($10) by land surveyors, issue a certificate of registration:

(1) To any person who submits evidence satisfactory to the board that he or she is fully qualified to practice engineering, or land surveying, such evidence after January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, to include an examination, oral or written; or

(2) To any person who holds a like unexpired certificate of registration issued to him or her by proper authority in any state or territory of the United States in which the requirements for the registration of engineers or land surveyors are of a standard satisfactory to the board: Provided, however, that the engineering registration board of said states or territories shall grant full and equal reciprocal registration rights and privileges to North Carolina registrants: Provided, however, that no person shall be eligible for registration who is under twenty-one years of age, who is not a citizen of the United States, who does not speak and write the English language, who is not of good character and repute.

Unless disqualifying evidence be before the board, the following facts established in the application shall be regarded as prima facie "evidence satisfactory to the board," that the applicant is fully qualified to practice engineering or land surveying, or both:

(a) Five (5) or more years of active engagement in engineering, or three or more years active practice in land surveying, February 25, 1921: Provided, however, each year of teaching, or of study satisfactorily completed, in a college of standing satisfactory to the board shall be considered as equivalent to one year of such active practice: Provided further, the period spent in the army, navy, marine corps, or other government service of the United States in the late war by any student whose engineering education was interrupted by such services shall also be counted as equivalent to an equal period of active practice: Provided, however, application for registration is made within twelve (12) months after February 25, 1921.

(b) Graduation, after a course of not less than four (4) years, in engineering from a school or college approved by the board as of satisfactory standing.

(c) Full membership in the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Institute of Chemical Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, American Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, or such other national or state engineering or architectural societies as may be approved by the board, the requirements for full membership of which are not lower than the requirements for full membership in the professional societies or institutes named above.

Applicants for registration, in cases where the evidence originally presented in the application does not appear to the board conclusively or warranting the issuance of a certificate, may present further evidence which may include the results of a required examination, for the consideration of the board.

In case the board denies the issuance of a certificate to an applicant, the registration fee deposited shall be returned by the board to the applicant. (1921, c. 1, s. 9; C. S. 6055(j).)

Local Modification.—Macon: Pub. Loc. 1927, c. 657.

§ 89-10. Expiration and renewal of certificates. —Certificates of registration shall expire on the last day of the month of December following their issuance or renewal, and shall become invalid on that date unless renewed. It shall be the duty of the secretary of the board to notify by mail every person registered hereunder of the date of the expiration of his certificate and the amount of the fee required for its renewal for one year; such notice shall be mailed at least one month in advance of the date of the expiration of said certificate. Renewal may be effected at any time during the month of January by the payment of a fee of five dollars ($5) to the secretary of the board. The failure on the part of any registrant to renew his certificate annually in the month of January, as required above, shall not deprive such person of the right of renewal thereafter, but the fee paid for the renewal of a certificate after the month of January shall be increased ten per cent for each month or fraction of a month that payment for renewal is delayed: Provided, however, that the maximum fee for a delayed renewal shall not exceed twice the normal fee. (1921, c. 1, s. 9; C. S. 6055(k).)

§ 89-11. Revocation of license; reissue of revoked license; reinstatement; lost certificate. — The board shall have the power to revoke the certificate of registration of any engineer or land surveyor registered hereunder who is found guilty of any fraud or deceit in obtaining a certificate of registration, or gross negligence, incompetency or misconduct in the practice of engineering or land surveying. Any person may prefer charges of such fraud, deceit, negligence, incompetency or misconduct against any engineer or land surveyor registered hereunder; such charges shall be in writing and sworn to by the complainant and submitted to the board. Such charges, unless dismissed without hearing by the board as unfounded or trivial, shall be heard and determined by the board within three (3) months after the date on which they are preferred. Hearings shall be in the county of the residence of the person whose license is involved; provided that after notice such person and the board may agree that the hearing may be held in some other county. A copy of the charges, together with a notice of the time and place of hearing, shall be legally served on the accused at least thirty (30) days before the date fixed for the hearing, and in the event that such service cannot be effected thirty (30) days before such hearing, then the date of hearing and determination shall be postponed as may be necessary to permit the carrying out of this condition. At said hearing the accused shall have the right to appear personally and by counsel, and to cross-examine witnesses against him or her and to produce evidence or witnesses in his or her defense. If after said hearing the board unanimously votes in favor of finding the accused guilty of any fraud or deceit in obtaining the certificate or of gross negligence, incompetency, or misconduct in the practice of engineering or land surveying, the board shall revoke the certificate of registration of the accused. The board may reissue a certificate of registration to any person whose certificate has been revoked: Provided, three or more members of the board vote in favor of such reissuance for reasons the board may deem sufficient. The board shall immediately notify the secretary of state and the clerk of each incorporated city, town or county in the state of its findings in the case of the revocation of a certificate of registration or of its reissuance of a revoked certificate of registration. A new certificate of registration to replace any certificate lost, destroyed or mutilated may be issued, subject to the rules and regulations of the board. (1921, c. 1, s. 10; 1939, c. 218, s. 2; C. S. 6055(l).)

Cross Reference.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see §§ 150-1 to 150-8.

§ 89-12. Evidence carried by certificate; seal of registrant. — The issuance of a certificate of registration by the board shall be evidence that the person named therein is entitled to all the rights and privileges of a registered engineer or registered land surveyor, or both, while the said certificate remains unrevoked or unexpired. Each registrant hereunder shall, upon registration, obtain a seal of the design authorized by the board, bearing the registrant's name and the legend "registered engineer," or "registered land surveyor." Plans, specifications, plats and reports issued by a registrant shall be stamped with said seal during the life of registrant's certificate, but it shall be unlawful for any one to stamp or seal any document or documents with said seal after the certificate of the registrant named thereon has expired or has been revoked unless said certificate has been renewed or reissued. (1921, c. 1, s. 11; C. S. 6055(m).)

§ 89-13. Acts declared misdemeanors; punishment.—Any person, who, after February 25, 1922, is not legally authorized to practice engineering or land surveying in this state, according to the provisions of this chapter, and shall practice or offer to practice engineering or land surveying in this state, except as provided in §§ 89-14 and 89-16, and any person presenting or attempting to file as his own the certificate of registration of another, or who shall give false or forged evidence of any kind to the board, or to any member thereof, in obtaining a certificate of registration, or who shall falsely impersonate any other practitioner, of like or different name, or who shall use an expired or revoked certificate of registration, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall for each such offense of which he is convicted be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) or by imprisonment for three (3) months, or by both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. (1921, c. 1, s. 12; C. S. 6055(n).)

§ 89-14. Exemptions from operation of chapter. —The following shall be exempted from the provisions of this chapter:

(a) Any person or persons offering to practice in this state, as an engineer or land surveyor, not a resident of and having no established place of business in this state.

(b) Practice as an engineer or land surveyor in this state by any person not a resident of this state, and having no established place of business in this state, when this practice does not aggregate more than thirty (30) days in any calendar year: Provided, that said person is legally qualified for such professional service in his own state or country.

(c) Practice as an engineer or land surveyor in this state by any person not a resident of this state and having no established place of business in this state, or any person resident in this state but whose arrival in the state is recent: Provided, however, such person shall have filed an application for registration as an engineer or land surveyor and shall have paid the fee provided for in § 89-9. Such exemption shall continue for only such reasonable time as the board requires in which to consider and grant or deny the said application for registration.

(d) Engaging in engineering and land surveying work as an employee, or assistant, of a registered engineer or a registered land surveyor, or as an employee or assistant of a nonresident engineer or a nonresident land surveyor, provided for in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, provided that said work as an employee may not include responsible charge of design or supervision.

(e) Practice of engineering or land surveying by any person not a resident of and having no established place of business in this state, as a consulting associate or an architect, engineer or a land surveyor registered under the provisions of this chapter: Provided, the nonresident is qualified for such professional service in his own state or country.

(f) Practice of engineering and land surveying solely as an officer or as an employee of the United States. (1921, c. 1, s. 13; C. S. 6055(o).)

§ 89-15. Corporations and partnerships. — A corporation or partnership may engage in the practice of engineering or land surveying in this state: Provided, the person or persons connected with such corporation or partnership in charge of the designing or supervision which constitutes such practice is or are registered as herein required of engineers and land surveyors. The same exemptions shall apply to corporations and partnerships as apply to individuals under this chapter. (1921, c. 1, s. 14; C. S. 6055(p).)

§ 89-16. Land surveying. — Land surveying as covered by this chapter refers only to surveys for the determination of areas, or for the establishment or reëstablishment of land boundaries and the subdivision and platting of land, and making plats, maps, and drawing descriptions of the lands or lines so surveyed, platted or investigated. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed as prohibiting a duly qualified registered engineer from making land surveys; nor as prohibiting any person from doing land surveying provided he does not represent himself to be a registered land surveyor. (1921, c. 1, s. 15; C. S. 6055(q).)

Local Modification.—Cumberland: 1937, c. 110.

§ 89-17. Fees of surveyors and chain-carriers.— Surveyors appointed by courts to survey any lands the boundaries of which may come in question in any suit or proceeding pending therein, or called upon by the commissioners to assist in surveying and dividing the lands of intestates or others, held in common, shall receive the following fees, and no other, namely: For every survey on an entry containing three hundred acres or less, one dollar and sixty cents, and for every hundred more than that quantity, forty cents; for surveying lands in dispute, by order of court, traveling to and from the place, and performing the duty, two dollars per day, or such greater sum as the court may allow; for assisting in surveying and dividing the lands of intestates, or others, held in common, when called upon by the commissioners appointed to make partition, or in laying off dower, traveling to and from the place, and performing the duty, two dollars per day. For assisting in surveying and allotting the homestead exemption of any person when summoned to do so by the sheriff or other lawful officer, for traveling to and from the place and performing the duty, two dollars per day, which shall be taxed in the bill of costs. In all surveys made by order of the court, the chain-carriers shall be allowed such compensation as the court may determine, not exceeding one dollar each per day; and in matters of disputed boundary, which may come in question, in any suit, the court may make to the surveyor such allowance for plots as it may deem reasonable, which, with the allowance to chain-carriers, shall be taxed as costs. (Rev., s. 2802; Code, s. 3754; 1893, c. 58, s. 2; 1905, cc. 182, 263; C. S. 3921.)

Local Modification.—Cabarrus: 1935, c. 202.

§ 90-2. Board of examiners.—In order to properly regulate the practice of medicine and surgery, there shall be established a board of regularly graduated physicians, to be known by the title of The Board of Medical Examiners of the State of North Carolina, which shall consist of seven regularly graduated physicians. (Rev., s. 4492; Code, s. 3123; 1858-9, c. 258, ss. 3, 4; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 1; C. S. 6606.)

(Rev., s. 4494; Code, s. 3128; 1858-9, c. 258, s. 11; C. S. 6608.)

§ 90-5. Meetings of board.—The board of medical examiners may assemble once in every year in the city of Raleigh, and shall remain in session from day to day until all applicants who may present themselves for examination within the first two days of this meeting have been examined and disposed of; other meetings in each year may be held at some suitable point in the state if deemed advisable. (Rev., s. 4495; 1915, c. 220, s. 1; 1935, c. 363; C. S. 6609.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 substituted the word "may" for the word "shall" near the beginning of this section.

§ 90-6. Regulations governing applicants for license, examinations, etc.—The board of medical examiners is empowered to prescribe such regulations as it may deem proper, governing applicants for license, admission to examinations, the conduct of applicants during examinations, and the conduct of examinations proper. (1921, c. 47, s. 5; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 2; C. S. 6610.)

§ 90-7. Bond of secretary.—The secretary of the board of medical examiners shall give bond with good surety, to the president of the board, for the safe-keeping and proper payment of all moneys that may come into his hands. (Rev., s. 4497; Code, s. 3134; 1858-9, c. 258, s. 17; C. S. 6611.)

§ 90-8. Officers may swear applicants and summon witnesses. — The president and secretary of the board of medical examiners of this state shall have power to administer oaths to all persons who may apply for examination before the board, or to any other persons deemed necessary in connection with performing the duties of the board as imposed by law. The board shall have power to summon any witnesses deemed necessary to testify under oath in connection with any cause to be heard before it; or to summon any licentiate against whom charges are preferred in writing, and the failure of the licentiate, against whom charges are preferred, to appear at the stated time and place to answer to the charges, after due notice or summons has been served in writing, shall be deemed a waiver of his right to said hearing, as provided in § 90-14. (1913, c. 20, s. 7; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 3; C. S. 6612.)

§ 90-9. Examination for license; scope; conditions and prerequisites.—It shall be the duty of the board of medical examiners to examine for license to practice medicine or surgery, or any of the branches thereof, every applicant who complies with the following provisions: He shall, before he is admitted to examination, satisfy the board that he has an academic education equal to the entrance requirements of the University of North Carolina, or furnish a certificate from the superintendent of public instruction of the county that he has passed an examination upon his literary attainments to meet the requirements of entrance in the regular course of the state university. He shall exhibit a diploma or furnish satisfactory proof of graduation from a medical college in good standing requiring an attendance of not less than four years, and supplying such facilities for clinical and scientific instruction as shall meet the approval of the board; but the requirement of four years attendance at a school shall not apply to those graduating prior to January the first, nineteen hundred.

The examination shall cover the following branches of medical science: anatomy, embryology, histology, physiology, pathology, bacteriology, surgery, pediatrics, medical hygiene, chemistry, pharmacy, materia medica, therapeutics, obstetrics, gynecology, and the practice of medicine.

If on such examination the applicant is found competent, the board shall grant him a license authorizing him to practice medicine or surgery or any of the branches thereof.

Five members of the board shall constitute a quorum, and four of those present shall be agreed as to the qualification of the applicant. (Rev., s. 4498; 1913, c. 20, ss. 2, 3, 6; 1921, c. 47, s. 1; C. S. 6613.)

Constitutional Discrimination.—"That the statute is not in violation of the State Constitution is thoroughly discussed and held in State v. Vandoran, 109 N. C. 864, 14 S. E. 32. It is not to be questioned that the law making power of the State has the right to require an examination and certificate as to the competency of persons desiring to practice law or medicine." State v. Call, 121 N. C. 643, 645, 28 S. E. 517; State v. Siler, 169 N. C. 314, 84 S. E. 1015.

§ 90-10. Two examinations, preliminary and final, allowed.—It shall be the duty of the state board of medical examiners to examine any applicant for license to practice medicine on the subjects of anatomy, histology, physiology, bacteriology, embryology, pathology, medical hygiene, and chemistry, upon his furnishing satisfactory evidence from a medical school in good standing, and supplying such facilities for anatomical and laboratory instruction as shall meet with the approval of the board, that he has completed the course of study in the school upon the subjects mentioned. The board shall set to the credit of such applicant upon its record books the grade made by him upon the examination, which shall stand to the credit of such applicant; and when he has subsequently completed the full course in medicine and presents a diploma of graduation from a medical college in good standing, requiring a four years course of study of medicine for graduation, and when he has completed the examination upon the further branches of medicine, to wit, pharmacy, materia medica, therapeutics, obstetrics, gynecology, pediatrics, practice of medicine and surgery, he shall have accounted to his credit the grade made upon the former examination, and if then upon such completed examination he be found competent, said board shall grant him a license to practice medicine and surgery, and any of the branches thereof. (1921, c. 47, s. 2; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 4; C. S. 6614.)

§ 90-11. Qualification of applicant for license.—Every person making application for a license to practice medicine or surgery in the state shall be not less than twenty-one years of age, and of good moral character, before any license can be granted by the board of medical examiners: Provided, that the age requirement shall not apply to students taking the examinations of the first two years in medicine. (1921, c. 47, s. 3; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 5; C. S. 6615.)

§ 90-12. Limited license. — The board may, whenever in its opinion the conditions of the locality where the applicant resides are such as to render it advisable, make such modifications of the requirements of the preceding sections, both as to application for examination and examination for license, as in its judgment the interests of the people living in that locality may demand, and may issue to such applicant a special license, to be entitled a "Limited License", authorizing the holder thereof to practice medicine and surgery within the limits only of the districts specifically described therein. The holder of the limited license practicing medicine or surgery beyond the boundaries of the district as laid down in said license shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each and every offense; and the board is empowered to revoke such limited license, in its discretion, after due notice. The clerk of the superior court, in registering the holder of a limited license, shall copy upon the certificate of registration and upon his record the description of the district given in the license. (1909, c. 218, s. 1; C. S. 6616.)

§ 90-13. When license without examination allowed.—The board of medical examiners shall in their discretion issue a license to any applicant to practice medicine and surgery in this state without examination if said applicant exhibits a diploma or satisfactory proof of graduation from a medical college in good standing, requiring an attendance of not less than four years and a license issued to him to practice medicine and surgery by the board of medical examiners of another state. (1907, c. 890; 1913, c. 20, s. 3; C. S. 6617.)

§ 90-14. Board may rescind license.—The board shall have the power to revoke and rescind any license granted by it, when, after due notice and hearing, it shall find that any physician licensed by it has been guilty of grossly immoral conduct, or of producing or attempting to produce a criminal abortion, or, by false and fraudulent representations, has obtained or attempted to obtain, practice in his profession, or is habitually addicted to the use of morphine, cocaine or other narcotic drugs, or has by false or fraudulent representations of his professional skill obtained, or attempted to obtain, money or anything of value, or has advertised or held himself out under a name other than his own, or has advertised or publicly professed to treat human ailments under a system or school of treatment or practice other than that for which he holds a license, or is guilty of any fraud or deceit by which he was admitted to practice, or has been guilty of any unprofessional or dishonorable conduct unworthy of, and affecting, the practice of his profession, or has been convicted in any court, state or federal, of any felony or other criminal offense involving moral turpitude. Upon the hearing before said board of any charge involving a conviction of such felony or other criminal offense, a transcript of the record thereof certified by the clerk of the court in which such conviction is had, shall be sufficient evidence to justify the revocation or rescinding of such license. The findings and action of said board shall, in all such cases and hearings, be final and conclusive. And, for any of the above reasons, the said board of medical examiners may refuse to issue a license to an applicant. The said board of medical examiners may, in its discretion, restore a license so revoked and rescinded, upon due notice being given and hearing had, and satisfactory evidence produced of reformation of the licentiate. (1921, c. 47, s. 4; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 6; 1933, c. 32; C. S. 6618.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 32, substituted the above section for the former reading. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

Unprofessional Conduct. — While the board does not have the power to revoke a license on the sole ground that the holder thereof has been convicted of the violation of a criminal statute in force in the State or in the United States, the board has the power to revoke a license upon a finding that the holder thereof was guilty of unprofessional conduct in that he had violated the provisions of the act. Board of Medical Examiners v. Gardner, 201 N. C. 123, 159 S. E. 8.

Appeal.—The appeal from the State Board of Medical Examiners allowed to a physician whose license has been revoked for immoral conduct in the practice of his profession, follows the procedure allowed in analogous cases, and the intent of the Legislature is interpreted to give a trial de novo in the Superior Court wherein the jury are to decide upon the evidence adduced before them the facts involved in the issue. State v. Carroll, 194 N. C. 37, 138 S. E. 339.

§ 90-15. License fee; salaries, fees, and expenses of board.—Each applicant for examinations shall pay to the treasurer of the board of medical examiners of the state of North Carolina a fee of fifteen dollars ($15) before being admitted to the examination: Provided, however, that in the case of applicants taking the examinations in two halves, as provided in § 90-10, the fee shall be seven and one-half dollars ($7.50) for each of the two half examinations. Whenever any license is granted without examination, as authorized in § 90-13, the applicant shall pay to the treasurer of the board a fee of fifty dollars ($50). Whenever a limited license is granted, as provided in § 90-12, the person shall pay to the treasurer of the board a fee of fifteen dollars ($15). A fee of five dollars ($5) shall be paid for each duplicate license. All fees shall be paid in advance to the treasurer of the board of medical examiners of the state of North Carolina, to be by him held as a fund for the use of said board. The compensation and expenses of the members and officers of said board, and all expenses proper and necessary in the opinion of said board, to the discharge of its duties under and to enforce the laws regulating the practice of medicine or surgery shall be paid out of such funds, upon the warrant of the president and secretary of said board. The salaries and fees of the officers and members of the said board shall be fixed by the board, but shall not exceed ten dollars ($10) per day per member, and railroad fare and hotel expenses; and no expense shall be created to exceed the income from fees herein provided. Any unexpended sum or sums of money remaining in the treasury of the said board at the expiration of the terms of office of the members thereof, shall be paid over to their successors after their election and qualification as such. (Rev., s. 4501; Code, s. 3130; 1858-9, c. 258, s. 13; 1913, c. 20, ss. 4, 5; 1921, c. 47, s. 5; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 7; C. S. 6619.)

§ 90-16. Board to keep record; publication of names of licentiates; transcript as evidence.—The board of examiners shall keep a regular record of its proceedings in a book kept for that purpose, together with the names of the members of the board present, the names of the applicants for license, and other information as to its actions. The board of examiners shall cause to be entered in a separate book the name of each applicant to whom a license is issued to practice medicine or surgery, along with any information pertinent to such issuance. The board of examiners shall publish the names of those licensed in three daily newspapers published in the state of North Carolina, within thirty days after granting the same. A transcript of any such entry in the record books, or a certificate that there is not entered therein the name and proficiency or date of granting such license of a person charged with the violation of the provisions of this article, certified under the hand of the secretary and the seals of the board of medical examiners of the state of North Carolina, shall be admitted as evidence in any court of this state when it is otherwise competent. (Rev., s. 4500; Code, s. 3129; 1858-9, c. 258, s. 12; 1921, c. 47, s. 6; C. S. 6620.)

§ 90-17. Blanks furnished clerk.—It shall be the duty of the medical society of the state of North Carolina to prescribe proper form of certificates required by this article and all such blanks and forms as the clerk may need to enable him to perform his duties under this article. (Rev., s. 4505; 1889, c. 181, s. 7; 1899, c. 93, s. 4; C. S. 6621.)

§ 90-18. Practicing without license; practicing defined; penalties.—No person shall practice medicine or surgery, or any of the branches thereof, nor in any case prescribe for the cure of diseases unless he shall have been first licensed and registered so to do in the manner provided in this article, and if any person shall practice medicine or surgery without being duly licensed and registered, as provided in this article, he shall not be allowed to maintain any action to collect any fee for such services. The person so practicing without license shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than fifty dollars ($50) nor more than one hundred ($100), or imprisoned at the discretion of the court for each and every offense.

Any person shall be regarded as practicing medicine or surgery within the meaning of this article who shall diagnose or attempt to diagnose, treat or attempt to treat, operate or attempt to operate on, or prescribe for or administer to, or profess to treat any human ailment, physical or mental, or any physical injury to or deformity of another person: Provided, that the following cases shall not come within the definition above recited:

1. The administration of domestic or family remedies in cases of emergency.

2. The practice of dentistry by any legally licensed dentist engaged in the practice of dentistry and dental surgery.

3. The practice of pharmacy by any legally licensed pharmacist engaged in the practice of pharmacy.

4. The practice of medicine and surgery by any surgeon or physician of the United States army, navy, or public health service in the discharge of his official duties.

5. The treatment of the sick or suffering by mental or spiritual means without the use of any drugs or other material means.

6. The practice of optometry by any legally licensed optometrist engaged in the practice of optometry.

7. The practice of midwifery by any woman who pursues the vocation of midwife.

8. The practice of chiropody by any legally licensed chiropodist when engaged in the practice of chiropody, and without the use of any drug.

9. The practice of osteopathy by any legally licensed osteopath when engaged in the practice of osteopathy as defined by law, and especially § 90-129.

10. The practice of chiropractic by any legally licensed chiropractor when engaged in the manual adjustment of the twenty-four spinal vertebrae of the human body and without the use of drugs.

11. The practice of medicine or surgery by any reputable physician or surgeon in a neighboring state coming into this state for consultation with a resident registered physician. This proviso shall not apply to physicians resident in a neighboring state and regularly practicing in this state.

12. Physicians who have a diploma from a regular medical college or were practicing medicine and surgery in this state prior to the seventh day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, and who are properly registered as required by law.

13. Any person practicing Radiology as hereinafter defined shall be deemed to be engaged in the practice of medicine within the meaning of this article. "Radiology" shall be defined as, that method of medical practice in which demonstration and examination of the normal and abnormal structures, parts or functions of the human body are made by use of x-rays. Any person shall be regarded as engaged in the practice of Radiology who makes or offers to make, for a consideration, a demonstration or examination of a human being or a part or parts of a human body by means of fluoroscopic exhibition or by the shadow imagery registered with photographic materials and the use of x-rays; or holds himself out to diagnose or able to make or makes any interpretation or explanation by word of mouth, writing or otherwise of the meaning of such fluoroscopic or registered shadow imagery of any part of the human body by use of x-rays; or who treats any disease or condition of the human body by the application of x-rays or radium. Nothing in this subsection shall prevent the practice of Radiology by any person licensed under the provisions of Articles 2, 7, 8, and 12 of this chapter. (Rev., ss. 3645, 4502; Code, s. 3122; 1858-9, c. 258, s. 2; 1885, c. 117, s. 2; 1885, c. 261; 1889, c. 181, ss. 1, 2; 1921, c. 47, s. 7; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 8; 1941, c. 163; C. S. 6622.)

Editor's Note.—This section was amended in 1921. Before these changes it provided against practice without license, and that an unlicensed practitioner could not maintain an action to collect fees for service, $25 was the minimum fine for practicing without license. The section was not applicable to mid-wives, physicians with diplomas granted before March 7, 1883, and reputable physicians from out of the state called in for consultation only. Puckett v. Alexander, 102 N. C. 95, 8 S. E. 767, holds that one not licensed to practice cannot collect for service. The contract was entered into before the act of 1885 which allowed one who graduated from a medical college before 1880 to practice.

The 1941 amendment added subsection 13.

Constitutionality.—This statute is not invalid, as it is the exercise of police power to protect the public, and is not the creation of a monopoly. State v. Call, 121 N. C. 643, 28 S. E. 517.

Nonmedicine Physicians.—The statute is applicable only to one holding himself out as a medical physician. If one cures by other means he is not subject to this statute. State v. Biggs, 133 N. C. 729, 46 S. E. 401.

A patent medicine vendor cannot hold himself out as a physician, and then avoid the statute by only prescribing his own products. State v. Van Doran, 109 N. C. 864, 14 S. E. 32.

§ 90-19. Practicing without registration; penalties.—Any person desiring to engage in the practice of medicine or surgery shall personally appear before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he resides or practices, for registration as a physician or surgeon. The person so applying shall produce and exhibit before the clerk of the superior court a license obtained from the board of medical examiners of the state. The clerk shall thereupon register the date of registration, with the name and residence of such applicant, in a book to be kept for this purpose in his office marked "Register of Physicians and Surgeons," and shall issue to him a certificate of registration under the seal of the superior court of the county upon the form furnished him by the medical society of North Carolina, for which the clerk shall be entitled to collect from said applicant a fee of twenty-five cents. The person obtaining such certificate shall be entitled to practice medicine or surgery, or both, in the county where the same was obtained, and in any other county in this state; but if he shall remove his residence to another county he shall exhibit said certificate to the clerk of such other county and be registered, which registration shall be made by said clerk without fee or charge.

Any person who practices or attempts to practice medicine or surgery in this state without first having registered and obtained the certificate required in this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or be imprisoned at the discretion of the court, for each and every offense: Provided, this section shall not apply to women pursuing the vocation of midwife, nor to reputable physicians or surgeons resident in a neighboring state coming into this state for consultation with a registered physician of this state. (Rev., ss. 3646, 4504; 1889, c. 181, ss. 4, 5; 1891, c. 420; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 44, s. 9; C. S. 6623.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment Ex. Sess. 1921 the part of this section allowing registration upon presentment of a diploma issued by a regular medical college prior to March 7, 1885 or making oath that he was practicing medicine or surgery in this state prior to the last mentioned date, was omitted.

What Constitutes Practicing.—To constitute the offense of practicing medicine without registration, etc., it is not necessary to allege or prove the person practiced upon; it is sufficient if the defendant held himself out to the public as a physician. State v. Van Doran, 109 N. C. 894, 14 S. E. 32.

§ 90-20. Clerk punishable for illegally registering physician.—If any clerk of the superior court shall register, or issue a certificate to, any person practicing medicine or surgery in any other manner than that prescribed by law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than two hundred dollars and shall be removed from office. (Rev., s. 3647; 1889, c. 181, s. 6; C. S. 6624.)

§ 90-21. Certain offenses prosecuted in superior court; duties of attorney-general.—In case of the violation of the criminal provisions of §§ 90-18 to 90-20, the attorney-general of the state of North Carolina, upon complaint of the board of medical examiners of the state of North Carolina, shall investigate the charges preferred, and if in his judgment the law has been violated, he shall direct the solicitor of the district in which the offense was committed to institute a criminal action against the offending persons. A solicitor's fee of five dollars shall be allowed and collected in accordance with the provisions of § 6-12. The board of medical examiners may also employ, at their own expense, special counsel to assist the attorney-general or the solicitor.

Exclusive original jurisdiction of all criminal actions instituted for the violations of §§ 90-18 to 90-20 shall be in the superior court, the provisions of any special or local act to the contrary notwithstanding. (1915, c. 220, s. 2; C. S. 6625.)

Art. 2. Dentistry.

§ 90-22. Board of dental examiners continued; membership; term of office; vacancies; present members hold over.—The North Carolina state board of dental examiners heretofore created by chapter one hundred and thirty-nine, Public Laws, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine and by chapter one hundred and seventy-eight, Public Laws one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, is hereby continued as the agency of the State for the regulation of the practice of dentistry in this State, said board to consist of six (6) members of the North Carolina dental society, to be elected by the said society at its annual meeting; said members so elected to be commissioned by the governor for a period of three years or until their successors are elected, commissioned and qualified. Any vacancy in the said board shall be filled by a member of the North Carolina dental society to be elected by said board by and with the consent and approval of the executive committee of the North Carolina dental society, and commissioned by the governor to hold office for the unexpired term to which elected. Nothing in this article and no provision of this section shall in any way change the terms of office of the members of the North Carolina state board of dental examiners as now constituted, and said members of said board shall hold their office for the term to which they have been elected. (1935, c. 66, s. 1.)

§ 90-23. Officers; common seal. — The North Carolina state board of dental examiners shall, at each annual meeting thereof, elect one of its members president and one secretary-treasurer. The common seal which has already been adopted by said board, pursuant to law, shall be continued as the seal of said board. (1935, c. 66. s. 2.)

§ 90-24. Quorum; adjourned meetings.—Four (4) members of said board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business and at any meeting of the board, if four (4) members are not present at the time and the place appointed for the meeting, those members of the board present may adjourn from day to day until a quorum is present, and the action of the board taken at any adjourned meeting thus had shall have the same force and effect as if had upon the day and at the hour of the meeting called and adjourned from day to day. (1935, c. 66, s. 2.)

§ 90-25. Records and transcripts.—The said board shall keep a record of its transactions at all annual or special meetings and shall provide a record book in which shall be entered the names and proficiency of all persons to whom licenses may be granted under the provisions of law. The said book shall show, also, the license number and the date upon which such license was issued and shall show such other matters as in the opinion of the board may be necessary or proper. Said book shall be deemed a book of record of said board and a transcript of any entry therein or a certification that there is not entered therein the name, proficiency and license number or date of granting such license, certified under the hand of the secretary-treasurer, attested by the seal of the North Carolina state board of dental examiners, shall be admitted as evidence in any court of this State when the same shall otherwise be competent. (1935, c. 66, s. 2.)

§ 90-26. Annual and special meetings. — The North Carolina state board of dental examiners shall meet annually on the fourth Monday in June of each year at such place as may be determined by the board, and at such other times and places as may be determined by action of the board or by any four (4) members thereof. Notice of the place of the annual meeting and of the time and place of any special or called meeting shall be given by advertising a copy of said notice in at least three daily newspapers published in this State at least ten days prior to said meeting. At the annual meeting or at any special or called meeting, the said board shall have the power to conduct examination of applicants and to transact such other business as may come before it, provided that in case of a special meeting, the purpose for which said meeting is called shall be stated in the notice. (1935, c. 66, s. 3.)

§ 90-27. Judicial powers; additional data for records. — The president of the North Carolina state board of dental examiners, and/or the secretary-treasurer of said board, shall have the power to administer oaths, issue subpoenas requiring the attendance of persons and the production of papers and records before said board in any hearing, investigation or proceeding conducted by it. The sheriff or other proper official of any county of the State shall serve the process issued by said president or secretary-treasurer of said board pursuant to its requirements and in the same manner as process issued by any court of record. The said board shall pay for the service of all process, such fees as are provided by law for the service of like process in other cases.

Any person who shall neglect or refuse to obey any subpoena requiring him to attend and testify before said board or to produce books, records or documents shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

The board shall have the power, upon the production of any papers, records or data, to authorize certified copies thereof to be substituted in the permanent record of the matter in which such books, records or data shall have been introduced in evidence. (1935, c. 66, s. 4.)

§ 90-28. By-laws and regulations. — The North Carolina state board of dental examiners shall have the power to make necessary by-laws and regulations, not inconsistent with the provisions of this article, regarding any matter referred to in this article and for the purpose of facilitating the transaction of business by the said board. (1935, c. 66, s. 5.)

§ 90-29. Necessity for license; dentistry defined; certain practices exempted. — No person shall engage in the practice of dentistry in this State or attempt to do so without first having applied for and obtained a license for such purpose from the said North Carolina state board of dental examiners, or without first having obtained from said board a certificate of renewal of license for the calendar year in which such person proposes to practice dentistry.

A person shall be deemed to practice dentistry in this State within the meaning of this article and this section of this article, who represents himself as being able to remove stains and accretions from teeth, diagnose, treat, operate or prescribe for any disease, pain, injury, deficiency, deformity or physical condition of the human teeth, alveolar process, gums or maxillary bones and associated tissues or parts and/or who offers or undertakes by any means or methods to remove stains or accretions from teeth, diagnose, treat, operate or prescribe for any disease, pain, injury, deficiency, deformity or physical condition of the same, or to take impressions of the teeth or jaws and/or who owns, maintains or operates an office for the practice of dentistry, and/or who engages in any of the practices included in the curricular of recognized and approved dental schools or colleges.

The fact that a person uses any dental degree or designation or any card, device, directory, poster, sign or other media whereby he represents himself to be a dentist practicing in the State, shall constitute prima facie evidence that such person is engaged in the practice of dentistry.

The following practices, acts, and operations, however, shall be exempt from the provisions of this article:

(a) Any act in the practice of his profession by a duly licensed physician or surgeon.

(b) The rendering of dental relief in emergency cases in the practice of his profession by a physician or surgeon licensed as such and registered under the laws of this State, unless he undertakes to reproduce or reproduces lost parts of the human teeth in the mouth, or to restore or replace in the human mouth, lost or missing teeth.

(c) The practice of dentistry in the discharge of their official duties by dentists in the United States army, the United States navy, the United States public health service, the United States veterans bureau, or other federal agency.

(d) The teaching of dentistry in dental schools or colleges as may be conducted in the State of North Carolina and approved by the said North Carolina state board of dental examiners, and the practice of dentistry by students in dental schools or colleges so approved when such students are acting under the direction and supervision of registered and licensed dentists acting as instructors.

(e) The practice of dentistry by licensed dentists of another state, territory or country at meetings of the North Carolina dental society, or component parts thereof, meetings of dental colleges or other like dental organizations while appearing as clinicians, or when appearing in emergency cases upon the specific call of dentist duly licensed under the provisions of this article.

(f) The making, either upon written orders, prescriptions, casts, models or impressions furnished by a duly licensed dentist of artificial restorations, substitutes, appliances or materials for the correction of disease, loss, deformity, malposition, discoloration, fracture, injury to the jaws, teeth, lips, gums, cheeks, palate or associated tissues or parts. (1935, c. 66, s. 6.)

§ 90-30. Examination and licensing applicants; qualifications; causes for refusal to grant license; void licenses. — The North Carolina state board of dental examiners shall grant licenses to practice dentistry to such applicants who are graduates of a reputable dental institution, who, in the opinion of a majority of the board, shall undergo a satisfactory examination of proficiency in the knowledge and practice of dentistry, subject, however, to the further provisions of this section and of the provisions of this article.

The applicant shall be of good moral character, at least twenty-one years of age at the time the application for examination is filed. The application shall be made to the said board in writing and shall be accompanied by evidence satisfactory to said board that the applicant is a person of good moral character, has an academic education, the standard of which shall be determined by the said board; that he is a graduate of and has a diploma from a reputable dental college or the dental department of a reputable university or college recognized, accredited and approved as such by the said board.

The North Carolina state board of dental examiners is authorized to conduct both written or oral and clinical examinations of such character as to thoroughly test the qualifications of the applicant, and may refuse to grant license to any person who, in its discretion, is found deficient in said examination, or to any person guilty of cheating, deception or fraud during such examination, or whose examination discloses to the satisfaction of the board, a deficiency in academic education.

The North Carolina state board of dental examiners may refuse to grant a license to any person guilty of a crime involving moral turpitude, or gross immorality, or to any person addicted to the use of alcoholic liquors or narcotic drugs to such an extent as, in the opinion of the board, renders the applicant unfit to practice dentistry.

Any license obtained through fraud or by any false representation shall be void ab initio and of no effect. (1935, c. 66, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—The following cases were decided under C. S. section 6631, now repealed. However, these cases seem equally applicable to the present law as the provisions of former section 6631 are substantially set forth in the instant section.

Mandamus to Procure License.—The courts cannot by a mandamus compel the board of dental examiners to certify contrary to what they have declared to be truth. If the board refused to examine an applicant, upon his compliance with the regulations, the court could by mandamus compel them to examine him, but not to issue him a certificate, when the preliminary qualification required by law, that the applicant shall be found proficient and competent by the examining board, is lacking. Burton v. Furman, 115 N. C. 166, 20 S. E. 443; Loughran v. Hickory, 129 N. C. 281, 40 S. E. 46; Ewbank v. Turner, 134 N. C. 77, 83, 46 S. E. 508.

Failure of Clerk to Furnish Blanks.—A defendant, under an indictment for practicing dentistry without complying with the statute, is not excused because the designated officers had not furnished, as required of them, blanks upon which to make the statement. State v. Hicks, 143 N. C. 689, 57 S. E. 441.

Delay in Filing Verified Statement.—Time for filing the statement to practice dentistry is not of the essence of the enactment; by a compliance therewith a person will be entitled to a certificate to be registered. State v. Hicks, 143 N. C. 689, 57 S. E. 441.

Burden of Proof.—Under an indictment the burden of proof is upon the defendant to show he comes under the provision of this section and that he practiced dentistry in the State before the specified time, or has filed the required statement. State v. Hicks, 143 N. C. 689, 57 S. E. 441.

§ 90-31. Annual renewal of licenses. — The laws of North Carolina now in force, having provided for the annual renewal of any license issued by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners, it is hereby declared to be the policy of this State, that all licenses heretofore issued by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners or hereafter issued by said board are subject to annual renewal and the exercise of any privilege granted by any license heretofore issued or hereafter issued by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners is subject to the issuance on or before the first day of January of each year of a certificate of renewal of license.

On or before the first day of January of each year, each dentist engaged in the practice of dentistry in North Carolina shall make application to the North Carolina state board of dental examiners and receive from said board, subject to the further provisions of this section and of this article, a certificate of renewal of said license.

The application shall show the serial number of the applicant's license, his full name, address and the county in which he has practiced during the preceding year, the date of the original issuance of license to said applicant and such other information as the said board from time to time may prescribe, at least six months prior to January first of any year. (1935, c. 66, s. 8.)

§ 90-32. Contents of original license. — The original license granted by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners shall bear a serial number, the full name of the applicant, the date of issuance and shall be signed by the president and the majority of the members of the said board and attested by the seal of said board and the secretary thereof. The certificate of renewal of license shall bear a serial number which need not be the serial number of the original license issued, the full name of the applicant and the date of issuance. (1935, c. 66, s. 8.)

§ 90-33. Displaying license and current certificate of renewal.—The license and the current certificate of renewal of license to practice dentistry issued, as herein provided, shall at all times be displayed in a conspicuous place in the office of the holder thereof and whenever requested the license and the current certificate of renewal shall be exhibited to or produced before the North Carolina state board of dental examiners or to its authorized agents. (1935, c. 66, s. 8.)

§ 90-34. Refusal to grant renewal license. — For cause satisfactory to it or to a majority thereof, the North Carolina state board of dental examiners may refuse to issue a certificate of renewal of license upon any application made to it therefor, and the applicant whose certificate of renewal of license is refused, for cause by said board, shall not be authorized to practice dentistry in North Carolina until said board shall, in its discretion, renew the license of the applicant. (1935, c. 66, s. 8.)

§ 90-35. Duplicate licenses. — When a person is a holder of a license to practice dentistry in North Carolina or the holder of a certificate of renewal of license, he may make application to the North Carolina state board of dental examiners for the issuance of a copy or a duplicate thereof accompanied by a fee of two dollars. Upon the filing of the application and the payment of the fee, the said board shall issue a copy or duplicate. (1935, c. 66, s. 8.)

§ 90-36. Licensing practitioners of other states. —The North Carolina state board of dental examiners may, in its discretion, issue a license to practice dentistry in this State without an examination other than clinical to a legal and ethical practitioner of dentistry who moves into North Carolina from another state or territory of the United States, whose standard of requirements is equal to that of the State of North Carolina and in which such applicant has conducted a legal and ethical practice of dentistry for at least five (5) years, next preceding his or her removal and who has not, during his period of practice, been charged with violation of the ethics of his profession, nor with the violation of the laws of the state which issued license to him, or of the criminal laws of the United States, nor whose license to practice dentistry has been revoked or suspended by a duly constituted authority.

Application for license to be issued under the provisions of this section shall be accompanied by a certificate from the dental board or like board of the State from which said applicant removed, certifying that the applicant is the legal holder of a license to practice dentistry in that State, and for a period of five (5) years immediately preceding the application has engaged in the practice of dentistry; is of good moral character and that during the period of his practice no charges have been filed with said board against the applicant for the violation of the laws of the State or of the United States, or for the violation of the ethics of the profession of dentistry.

Application for a license under this section shall be made to the North Carolina state board of dental examiners within the six (6) months of the date of the issuance of the certificate hereinbefore required, and said certificate shall be accompanied by the diploma or other evidence of the graduation from a reputable, recognized and approved dental college, school or dental department of a college or university.

Any license issued upon the application of any dentist from any other state or territory shall be subject to all of the provisions of this article with reference to the license issued by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners upon examination of applicants and the rights and privileges to practice the profession of dentistry under any license so issued shall be subject to the same duties, obligations, restrictions and the conditions as imposed by this article on dentists originally examined by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners. (1935, c. 66, s. 9.)

§ 90-37. Certificate issued to dentist moving out of state. — Any dentist duly licensed by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners, desiring to move from North Carolina to another state, territory or foreign country, if a holder of a certificate of renewal of license from said board, upon application to said board and the payment to it of the fee in this article provided, shall be issued a certificate showing his full name and address, the date of license originally issued to him, the date and number of his renewal of license, and whether any charges have been filed with the board against him. The board may provide forms for such certificate, requiring such additional information as it may determine proper. (1935, c. 66, s. 10.)

§ 90-38. Licensing former dentists who have moved back into state or resumed practice. — Any person who shall have been licensed by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners to practice dentistry in this State who shall have retired from practice or who shall have moved from the state and shall have returned to the state, may, upon a satisfactory showing to said board of his proficiency in the profession of dentistry and his good moral character during the period of his retirement, be granted by said board a license to resume the practice of dentistry upon making application to the said board in such form as it may require and upon the payment of the fee of ten dollars. The license to resume practice, after issuance thereof, shall be subject to all the provisions of this article. (1935, c. 66, s. 11.)

This section is constitutional and valid as an exercise of the police power of the state for the good and welfare of the people. Allen v. Carr, 210 N. C. 513, 187 S. E. 809.

And its provisions bear alike upon all classes of persons referred to. Hence the requirement made by the board that the plaintiff make to it a satisfactory showing of his proficiency in the profession of dentistry is no discrimination against the plaintiff. Allen v. Carr, 210 N. C. 513, 519, 187 S. E. 809.

Mandamus will not lie to control the decision of the board in the exercise of its discretionary power under this section, the extent of mandamus in such cases being limited to compel the exercise of the discretionary power, but not to control the decision reached in its exercise. Allen v. Carr, 210 N. C. 513, 187 S. E. 809.

Licensed Dentist Removing from State Must Take Second Examination upon Return.—A dentist licensed by the State Board of Dental Examiners, who thereafter moves from this state and practices his profession successively in other states, upon examination and license by them, and then returns to this state, must obtain a license to resume practice here by passing a second examination by the State Board of Dental Examiners, although such dentist has continuously practiced dentistry since he was first licensed by the State Board. Allen v. Carr, 210 N. C. 513, 187 S. E. 809.

§ 90-39. Fees collectible by board.—In order to provide the means of carrying out and enforcing the provisions of this article and the duties devolving upon the North Carolina state board of dental examiners, it shall charge and collect for: (a) each applicant for examination, a fee of twenty dollars; (b) each certificate of renewal of license, a fee of two dollars; (c) each certificate of practice to a resident dentist desiring to change to another state or territory, a fee of five dollars; (d) each license issued to a legal practitioner of another state or territory to practice in this State, a fee of twenty dollars; (e) each license to resume the practice issued to a dentist who has retired from the practice of dentistry, or has removed from and returned to the state, a fee of ten dollars. (1935, c. 66, s. 12.)

§ 90-40. Unauthorized practice; penalty. — If any person shall practice or attempt to practice dentistry in this State without first having passed the examination and obtained a license from the North Carolina board of dental examiners; or, if a period of more than one year has elapsed since the issuance of his license, and he shall practice without first having obtained a certificate of renewal of license; or shall practice or attempt to practice dentistry while his license is revoked, or suspended, or when a certificate of renewal of license has been refused; or shall violate any of the provisions of this article for which no specific penalty has been provided, or shall practice dentistry under any name other than his own name, said person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined in the sum of fifty ($50.00) dollars for the first offense.

Whenever any person shall have been convicted once in this State of the violation of chapter one hundred and thirty-nine, Public Laws of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, and/or chapter one hundred and seventy-eight, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and/or amendments to said acts and/or of this article, and shall practice, or attempt to practice, dentistry in violation of the provisions of this article, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1935, c. 66, s. 13.)

Editor's Note.—The following case was decided under C. S. section 6647, now repealed. However, this case seems applicable to the present law as the provisions of former section 6647 are substantially set forth in the instant section.

Constitutionality.—The legislature has constitutional authority to regulate the practice of dentistry, and a conviction for violating this section is proper. State v. Hicks, 143 N. C. 689, 57 S. E. 441.

§ 90-41. Revocation or suspension of license. —Whenever it shall appear to the North Carolina state board of dental examiners that any dentist who has received license to practice dentistry in this State, or who has received from the said board of dental examiners a certificate of renewal of license, has been guilty of fraud, deceit or misrepresentation in obtaining his license, or of gross immorality, or is an habitual user of intoxicants or drugs, rendering him unfit for the practice of dentistry, or has been guilty of malpractice, or is grossly ignorant or incompetent or has been guilty of wilful neglect in the practice of dentistry, or has been employing unlicensed persons to perform work which, under this article, can be legally done or performed only by persons holding a license to practice dentistry in this State, or of practicing deceit or other fraud upon the public or individual patients in obtaining or attempting to obtain practice, or has been guilty of fraudulent and/or misleading statements of his art, skill or knowledge, or of his method of treatment or practice, or any offense involving moral turpitude, or has by himself or another, solicited or advertised in any manner for professional business, or has been guilty of any other unprofessional conduct in the practice of dentistry, or in the procurement of license has filed, as his own, a diploma or license of another, or a forged diploma or a forged or false affidavit of identification or qualification, the board may revoke the license of such person, or may suspend the license of such person for such period of time as, in the judgment of said board, will be commensurate with the offense committed: Provided, however, it shall not be considered advertising within the meaning of this article for a dentist, duly authorized to practice in this State, to place a card containing his name, telephone number and office address and office hours in a registry or other publication, or to place upon the window or door of his office his name followed by the word, "dentist."

The North Carolina state board of dental examiners is authorized and empowered to appoint an investigator to ascertain the facts with reference to any information coming to the attention of the said board respecting the violation of any of the provisions of this article, or of any act heretofore in effect in this State.

Such investigator so appointed by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners is thereupon authorized and directed to make an investigation as to any information coming to his attention with reference to the violation of the provisions of this article or any act in force at the time of said violation, and formulate a statement of charges which the said board, upon presentation by the said investigator, shall cause to be served upon the dentist so accused. Said notice shall contain the statement of a time and place at which the charges against the accused shall be heard before the board or a quorum thereof, which time shall not be less then ten (10) days from the date of service of said statement and notice.

At the time and place named in said notice, the said board shall proceed to hear the charges against the accused upon competent evidence, oral or by deposition, and at said hearing said accused shall have the right to be present in person and/or represented by counsel. After hearing all the evidence, including such evidence as the accused may present, the board shall determine its action and announce the same.

From any action of the board depriving the accused of his license, or certificate of renewal of license, the accused shall have the right of appeal to the superior court of the county wherein the hearing was held, upon filing notice of appeal within ten days of the decision of the board. The record of the hearing before the North Carolina state board of dental examiners shall constitute the record upon appeal in the superior court and the same shall be heard in the superior court as in the case of consent references. (1935, c. 66, s. 14.)

Editor's Note.—The case discussed below was decided under C. S. section 6649, now repealed. However, this case seems equally applicable to the present law as the provisions of former section 6649 are substantially set forth in the instant section.

This section only makes the use of false advertising, or the circulation of fraudulent and misleading statements, unlawful, and the corollary follows that the use of truthful advertising and circulation of truthful statements are not unlawful, solicitation and advertising not being synonymous terms. In re Owen, 207 N. C. 445, 447, 177 S. E. 403.

Advertising, or the circulation of statements, without the taint of falsity or fraud, either by newspaper or sign, although paid for, cannot be construed as a violation of this section. Id.

§ 90-42. Restoration of revoked license. — Whenever any dentist has been deprived of his license, the North Carolina state board of dental examiners, in its discretion, may restore said license upon due notice being given and hearing had, and satisfactory evidence produced of proper reformation of the licentiate, before restoration. (1935, c. 66, s. 14.)

§ 90-43. Compensation and expenses of board. — Each member of the North Carolina state board of dental examiners shall receive as compensation for his services in the performance of his duties under this article a sum not exceeding ten dollars for each day actually engaged in the performance of the duties of his office, said per diem to be fixed by said board, and all legitimate and necessary expenses incurred in attending meetings of the said board.

The secretary-treasurer shall, as compensation for his services, both as secretary-treasurer of the board and a member thereof, be allowed a reasonable annual salary to be fixed by the board and shall, in addition thereto, receive all legitimate and necessary expenses incurred by him in attending meetings of the board and in the discharge of the duties of his office.

All per diem allowances and all expenses paid as herein provided shall be paid upon voucher drawn by the secretary-treasurer of the board who shall likewise draw voucher payable to himself for the salary fixed for him by the board.

The board is authorized and empowered to expend from funds collected hereunder such additional sum or sums as it may determine necessary in the administration and enforcement of this article. (1935, c. 66, s. 15.)

§ 90-44. Annual report of board.—Said board, shall, on or before the fifteenth day of February in each year, make an annual report as of the thirty-first day of December of the year preceding, of its proceedings, showing therein the examinations given, the fees received, the expenses incurred, the hearings conducted and the result thereof, which said report shall be filed with the governor of the State of North Carolina. (1935, c. 66, s. 15.)

§ 90-45. Exemption from jury duty.—All dentists duly licensed by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners and/or the holders of certificate of renewal of license from said board shall be exempt from service as jurors in any of the courts of this State. (1935, c. 66, s. 16.)

§ 90-46. Filling prescriptions.—Legally licensed druggists of this State may fill prescriptions of dentists duly licensed by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners. (1935, c. 66, s. 17.)

§ 90-47. Restrictions on lectures and teaching. — Lectures on the science of dentistry shall not be made in North Carolina in connection with the demonstration, promotion or distribution of any product or products used or claimed to be useful in the promotion of the health of the oral cavity, except after specific authority has been granted by the North Carolina state board of dental examiners, nor shall the science of dentistry be taught in North Carolina except by duly licensed dentists acting as teachers in a duly organized school or college of dentistry or a dental department of a college or university. (1935, c. 66, s. 18.)

§ 90-48. Rules and regulations of board; violation a misdemeanor.—The North Carolina state board of dental examiners shall be and is hereby vested, as an agency of the State, with full power and authority to enact rules and regulations governing the practice of dentistry within the State, provided such rules, and regulations are not inconsistent with the provisions of this article. Such rules and regulations shall become effective thirty days after passage, and the same may be proven, as evidence, by the president and/or the secretary-treasurer of the board, and/or by certified copy under the hand and official seal of the secretary-treasurer. A certified copy of any rule or regulation shall be receivable in all courts as prima facie evidence thereof if otherwise competent, and any person, firm, or corporation violating any such rule, regulation, or by-law shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, subject to a fine of not more than fifty ($50.00) dollars or imprisonment for not more than thirty days. (1935, c. 66, s. 19.)

Art. 3. The Licensing of Mouth Hygienists, to Teach and Practice Mouth Hygiene in Public Institutions.

§ 90-49. Qualifications and examinations of applicants.—Any person of good moral character who holds a grade "A" teacher's certificate issued by the Department of Education of the State of North Carolina, may be licensed to practice mouth hygiene in conjunction with the teaching of health subjects in the public institutions and public schools of the State as is hereinafter provided in this article.

Such person shall be a graduate in Mouth Hygiene from an approved school for such technical training, said approval to be by the North Carolina State Board of Dental Examiners. Upon the completion of such course or courses and upon the payment of a fee of ten dollars ($10.00), which shall not be returned, the applicant for such license shall apply to the North Carolina State Board of Dental Examiners, at their annual meeting which shall be held on the fourth Monday of June, or at any other such time as they deem necessary, for an examination on such subjects as said Board shall deem essential for the practice of mouth hygiene in this State; and if the examination is satisfactory to said Board of Dental Examiners, the applicant shall be registered and licensed by said Board as a mouth hygienist to practice as such only in the public institutions and public schools of the State. (1929, c. 304, s. 1.)

§ 90-50. By whom employed; duties. — Only public institutions and public school authorities of the State may employ such licensed mouth hygienist, whose clinical work shall be under the direct supervision of the dentist who shall be at the head of the Bureau of Mouth Hygiene of the State Board of Health. The duties of a mouth hygienist shall be to examine mouths of inmates of said institutions and of pupils of said public schools without expense, to make such charts and records as the head of said Bureau shall require, and to furnish copies of the same to the guardians or teachers of those examined.

Such hygienist shall teach mouth hygiene and the proper care of the teeth and may recommend mouth washes, clean stains, remove deposits and accretions from the exposed surfaces of the teeth of said inmates and pupils, but shall not perform any other operation on the teeth or tissues of the mouth or body. Provided that no pupil may be so examined and treated over the written objection of such child's parents or guardian. (1929, c. 304, s. 2.)

§ 90-51. Revocation or suspension of license.—The State Board of Dental Examiners shall have the power to revoke or suspend the license of any mouth hygienist, who shall violate the provisions of this article, and the proceedings to revoke or suspend said license shall be the same as are provided in the case of suspension or revoking the license of a dentist as set out in §§ 90-22 to 90-48 of this Code. (1929, c. 304, s. 3.)

§ 90-52. Penalty for violation of article.— Any person falsely claiming to have a mouth hygienist's license, or who shall practice or attempt to practice mouth hygiene without first having been duly licensed thereto, as provided in this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined twenty-five dollars for each and every offense; any person, who, having been so licensed to practice mouth hygiene in said public institutions and public schools, fails to display the said license, or who practices or attempts to practice mouth hygiene elsewhere than in said public institutions and public schools, as hereinbefore provided, in this article, shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined twenty-five dollars for each and every offense and shall also forfeit her license to practice mouth hygiene in the said institutions and schools. (1929, c. 304, s. 4.)

Art. 4. Pharmacy.

Part 1. Practice of Pharmacy.

§ 90-53. North Carolina pharmaceutical association.—The North Carolina pharmaceutical association, and the persons composing the same, shall continue to be a body politic and corporate under the name and style of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association, and by said name have the right to sue and be sued, to plead and be impleaded, to purchase and hold real estate and grant the same, to have and to use a common seal, and to do such other things and perform such other acts as appertain to bodies corporate and politic not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the state. (Rev., s. 4471; Code, s. 3135; 1881, c. 355, s. 1; C. S. 6650.)

§ 90-54. Object of pharmaceutical association.—The object of the association is to unite the pharmacists and druggists of this state for mutual aid, encouragement, and improvement; to encourage scientific research, develop pharmaceutical talent, to elevate the standard of professional thought, and ultimately restrict the practice of pharmacy to properly qualified druggists and apothecaries. (Rev., s. 4472; Code, s. 3136; 1881, c. 355, s. 2; C. S. 6651.)

§ 90-55. Board of pharmacy; election; terms; vacancies.—The board of pharmacy shall consist of five persons licensed as pharmacists within this state, who shall be elected and commissioned by the governor as hereinafter provided. The members of the present board of pharmacy shall continue in office until the expiration of their respective terms, and the rules, regulations, and by-laws of said board, so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of this article, shall continue in effect. The North Carolina pharmaceutical association shall annually elect a resident pharmacist from its number to fill the vacancy annually occurring in said board, and the pharmacist so elected shall be commissioned by the governor and shall hold office for the term of five years and until his successor has been duly elected and qualified. In case of death, resignation, or removal from the state of any member of said board of pharmacy, the said board shall elect in his place a pharmacist who is a member of said North Carolina pharmaceutical association, who shall be commissioned by the governor as a member of the said board of pharmacy for the remainder of the term. It shall be the duty of a member of the board of pharmacy, within ten days after receipt of notification of his appointment and commission, to appear before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he resides and take and subscribe an oath to properly and faithfully discharge the duties of his office according to law. (Rev., s. 4473; 1905, c. 108, ss. 5-7; C. S. 6652.)

§ 90-56. Election of officers; bonds; annual meetings.—The board of pharmacy shall elect two officers, a president and a secretary-treasurer, who shall hold their offices until their successors shall have been elected and qualified. The president shall be elected from the membership of the board. The secretary-treasurer may or may not be a member of the board, as the board shall determine. The secretary-treasurer shall give bond in such sum as may be prescribed by the board, conditioned for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office acording to law, and said bond shall be made payable to the North Carolina board of pharmacy and approved by said board. The said board shall hold an annual meeting at such time and place as it may provide by rule for the examination of candidates and for the discharge of such other business as may legally come before it, and said board may hold such additional meetings as may be necessary for the examination of candidates and for the discharge of any other business. (Rev., s. 4474; 1905, c. 108, s. 8; 1923, c. 82; C. S. 6653.)

§ 90-57. Powers of board; reports; quorum; records.—The board of pharmacy shall have a common seal, and shall have the power and authority to define and designate nonpoisonous domestic remedies, to adopt such rules, regulations, and by-laws, not inconsistent with this article, as may be necessary for the regulation of its proceedings and for the discharge of the duties imposed under this article, and shall have power and authority to employ an attorney to conduct prosecutions and to assist in the conduct of prosecutions under this article, and for any other purposes which said board may deem necessary. The said board of pharmacy shall keep a record of its proceedings and a register of all persons to whom certificates of license as pharmacists and permits have been issued, and of all renewals thereof; and the books and register of the said board, or a copy of any part thereof, certified by the secretary, attested by the seal of said board, shall be taken and accepted as competent evidence in all the courts of the state. The said board of pharmacy shall make annually to the governor and to the North Carolina pharmaceutical association written reports of its proceedings and of its receipts and disbursements under this article, and of all persons licensed to practice as pharmacists in this state. A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of all business. (Rev., s. 4475; 1905, c. 108, s. 9; 1907, c. 113, s. 1; C. S. 6654.)

§ 90-58. Compensation of secretary and board.—The secretary of the board of pharmacy shall receive such salary as may be prescribed by the board, and shall be paid his necessary expenses while engaged in the performance of his official duties. The other members of the said board shall receive the sum of ten dollars for each day actually employed in the discharge of their official duty and their necessary expenses while engaged therein: Provided, that the compensation and expenses of the secretary and members of the said board of pharmacy and all disbursements for expenses incurred by the said board in carrying into effect and executing the provisions of this article shall be paid out of the fees received by the said board. (Rev., s. 4476; 1905, c. 108, s. 10; 1921, c. 57, s. 2; C. S. 6655.)

§ 90-59. Secretary to investigate and prosecute.—Upon information that any provision of this article has been or is being violated by any member, the secretary of the board of pharmacy or any one appointed by the said board of pharmacy shall promptly make investigations of such matters, and, upon probable cause appearing, shall file complaint and prosecute the offender. All fines and penalties prescribed in this article shall be recoverable by suit in the name of the people of the state. In all prosecutions for the violation of any of the provisions of this article, a certificate under oath by the secretary of the board of pharmacy shall be competent and admissible as evidence in any court of the state that the person so charged with the violation of this article is not a registered pharmacist or assistant pharmacist, as required by law. (Rev., s. 4477; 1905, c. 108, s. 11; 1923, c. 74, s. 1; C. S. 6656.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment to this section by Public Laws 1923 investigation and prosecution was restricted to the secretary of the board and there was no provision for admission as evidence of a certificate of the secretary under oath. The effect is to make more effective the provisions of this section by directing any member of the Board of Pharmacy, or any person appointed by the Board to investigate and prosecute violations of the aforementioned article, in addition to the Secretary of the Board; and by making a certificate under oath by the secretary of the Board competent and admissible as evidence in any court of the state, a person charged with violation of such law is not duly licensed. See 1 N. C. Law Rev. 300.

§ 90-60. Fees collectible by board.—The board of pharmacy shall be entitled to charge and collect the following fees: For the examination of an applicant for license as a pharmacist ten dollars; for renewing the license as a pharmacist or an assistant pharmacist, five dollars; for issuing a permit to a physician to conduct a drug store in a village of not more than five hundred inhabitants, ten dollars; for the renewal of permit to a physician to conduct a drug store in a village of not more than five hundred inhabitants, five dollars. All fees shall be paid before any applicant may be admitted to examination or his name placed upon the register of pharmacists or before any license or permit, or any renewal thereof, may be issued by the board. (Rev., s. 4478; 1905, c. 108, s. 12; 1921, c. 57, s. 3; C. S. 6657.)

§ 90-61. Application and examination for license, prerequisites.—Every person licensed or registered as a pharmacist on February 4, 1905, under the laws of this state shall be entitled to continue in the practice of his profession until the expiration of the term for which his certificate of registration or license was issued. Every person who shall desire to be licensed as a pharmacist shall file with the secretary of the board of pharmacy an application, duly verified under oath, setting forth the name and age of the applicant, the place or places at which and the time he has spent in the study of the science and art of pharmacy, the experience in the compounding of physicians' prescriptions which the applicant has had under the direction of a legally licensed pharmacist, and such applicant shall appear at a time and place designated by the board of pharmacy and submit to an examination as to his qualifications for registration as a licensed pharmacist. The application referred to above shall be prepared and furnished by the board of pharmacy.

In order to become licensed as a pharmacist, within the meaning of this article, an applicant shall be not less than twenty-one years of age, he shall present to the board of pharmacy satisfactory evidence that he has had four years experience in pharmacy under the instruction of a licensed pharmacist, and that he is a graduate of a reputable school or college of pharmacy, and he shall also pass a satisfactory examination of the board of pharmacy: Provided, however, that the actual time of attendance at a reputable school or college of pharmacy, not to exceed three years, may be deducted from the time of experience required. Provided, further, that any person legally registered or licensed as a pharmacist by another state board of pharmacy, and who has had fifteen years continuous experience in North Carolina under the instruction of a licensed pharmacist next preceding his application shall be permitted to stand the examination to practice pharmacy in North Carolina upon application filed with said board. Any person who has had two years of college training and has been filling prescriptions in a drug store or stores for twenty years or longer may take the examination as provided in the above proviso. (Rev., ss. 4479, 4480; 1905, c. 108, s. 13; 1915, c. 165; 1921, c. 52; 1933, c. 206, ss. 1, 2; 1935, c. 181; 1937, c. 94; C. S. 6658.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 206, inserted the last proviso of this section relative to pharmacists in another state taking the examination in North Carolina. The 1937 amendment abolished the time restriction formerly appearing in the proviso.

In the first proviso of the second paragraph of this section the maximum deductible time was increased from two to three years by Public Laws of 1935, c. 181.

The provisions of this section, as amended in 1933, relative to a pharmacist licensed by another state, do not entitle a person meeting the qualifications of this act and being of the required age to be permitted to stand the examination upon his application therefor filed after 1 July, 1933, although he has previously made other applications therefor and has been permitted to stand examinations of the board held prior to 1 July, 1933, and has failed to pass such examinations, the request filed after 1 July, 1933, for a "re-examination" being in legal effect an application for an examination de novo, nor is this result affected by the fact that the board has permitted applicants who failed to pass the examination to stand a subsequent examination without filing a new application, and the issuance of a writ of mandamus directing the board to permit such applicant to stand the examination upon his application filed after 1 July, 1933, is error. McNair v. North Carolina Board of Pharmacy, 208 N. C. 279, 180 S. E. 78.

§ 90-62. When license issued.—If an applicant for license as pharmacist has complied with all the requirements of §§ 90-60 and 90-61, the board of pharmacy shall enroll his name upon the register of pharmacists and issue to him a license, which shall entitle him to practice as a pharmacist up to the first day of January next ensuing, as provided in this article for the annual renewal of every registration. (Rev., s. 4481; 1905, c. 108, s. 15; 1921, c. 68, s. 1; C. S. 6659.)

§ 90-63. Certain assistant pharmacists may take registered pharmacist's examination; no original assistants' certificates issued after January 1, 1939.—Every person who is the holder of a certificate as a registered assistant pharmacist, issued prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, shall be admitted to the registered pharmacist examination. After January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, the board shall not issue an original certificate to any person as a registered assistant pharmacist: Provided, however, that nothing in this section shall prevent any person who was registered as an assistant pharmacist prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, from continuing to practice as a registered assistant pharmacist. (1937, c. 402.)

§ 90-64. When license without examination issued.—The board of pharmacy may issue licenses to practice as pharmacists in this state, without examination, to such persons as have been legally registered or licensed as pharmacists by other boards of pharmacy, if the applicant for such license shall present satisfactory evidence of the same qualifications as are required from licentiates in this state, and that he was registered or licensed by examination by such other board of pharmacy, and that the standard of competence required by such board of pharmacy is not lower than that required in this state. All applicants for license under this section shall, with their application, forward to the secretary of the board of pharmacy the same fees as are required of other candidates for license. (Rev., s. 4482; 1905, c. 108, s. 16; C. S. 6660.)

§ 90-65. When license refused or revoked; fraud.—The board of pharmacy may refuse to grant a license to any person guilty of felony or gross immorality, or who is addicted to the use of alcoholic liquors or narcotic drugs to such an extent as to render him unfit to practice pharmacy; and the board of pharmacy may, after due notice and hearing, revoke a license for like cause, or any license which has been procured by fraud. Any license or permit, or renewal thereof, obtained through fraud or by any fraudulent or false representations shall be void and of no effect in law. (Rev., s. 4483; 1905, c. 108, ss. 17, 25; C. S. 6661.)

§ 90-66. Expiration and renewal of license; failure to renew misdemeanor.—Every licensed pharmacist or assistant pharmacist who desires to continue in the practice of his profession, and every physician holding a permit to sell drugs in a village of not more than six hundred inhabitants, shall within thirty days next preceding the expiration of his license or permit, file with the secretary and treasurer of the board of pharmacy an application for the renewal thereof, which application shall be accompanied by the fee hereinbefore prescribed. If the board of pharmacy shall find that an applicant has been legally licensed in this state, and is entitled to a renewal thereof, or to a renewal of a permit, it shall issue to him a certificate attesting that fact. And if any pharmacist or assistant pharmacist shall fail, for a period of six days after the expiration of his license, to make application to the board for its renewal, his name shall be erased from the register of licensed pharmacists and assistant pharmacists and such person, in order to again become registered as a licensed pharmacist or assistant pharmacist shall be required to pay the same fee as in the case of original registration. And if any holder of a permit to sell drugs in a village of not more than six hundred inhabitants shall fail, for a period of sixty days after the expiration of his permit, to make application for the renewal thereof, his name shall be erased from the register of persons holding such permits, and he may be restored thereto only upon the payment of the fee required for the granting of original permit. The registration of every license and every permit issued by the board shall expire on the thirty-first day of December next ensuing the granting thereof: Provided, that the board of pharmacy, in its discretion, shall have the power to issue a license or permit, or renewals thereof, to any person whose license or permit has been revoked by operation of law or by the board of pharmacy, or whose renewal thereof has been refused by the board of pharmacy, after the expiration of one year from the date of such revocation of license or permit, or refusal of a renewal thereof, upon satisfactory proof that such person is entitled to such license or permit, or to a renewal thereof.

Every holder of a license or permit as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist, who after the expiration thereof continues to carry on the business for which the license or permit was granted, without renewing the same as required by this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than five nor more than twenty-five dollars. (Rev., ss. 3653, 4484; 1905, c. 108, ss. 18, 19, 27; 1911, c. 48; 1921, c. 68, s. 2; C. S. 6662.)

§ 90-67. License to be displayed; penalty.—Every certificate or license to practice as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist and every permit to a practicing physician to conduct a pharmacy or drug store in a village of not more than six hundred inhabitants, and every last renewal of such license or permit, shall be conspicuously exposed in the pharmacy or drug store or place of business of which the pharmacist, or other person to whom it is issued, is the owner or manager, or in which he is employed.

The holder of such license, permit, or renewal who fails to expose it as required by this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than five nor more than twenty-five dollars, and each day that such license, permit, or renewal thereof shall not be exposed shall be held to constitute a separate and distinct offense. (Rev., ss. 3651, 4485; 1905, c. 108, ss. 18, 26; 1921, c. 68, s. 3; C. S. 6663.)

§ 90-68. Unlicensed person not to use title of pharmacist; penalty.—It shall be unlawful for any person not legally licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist to take, use or exhibit the title of pharmacist or assistant pharmacist or licensed or registered pharmacist, or the title druggist or apothecary, or any other title, name, or description of like import.

Every person who violates this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars. (Rev., ss. 3652, 4486; 1905, c. 108, ss. 22, 29; 1921, c. 68, s. 4; C. S. 6664.)

§ 90-69. Purity of drugs protected; seller responsible; adulteration misdemeanor. — Every person who shall engage in the sale of drugs, chemicals, and medicines shall be held responsible for the quality of all drugs, chemicals, and medicines he may sell or dispense, with the exception of those sold in the original packages of the manufacturers, and also those known as "patent or proprietary medicines."

If any person engaged in the sale of drugs, chemicals, and medicines shall intentionally adulterate, or cause to be adulterated, or exposed to sale knowing the same to be adulterated, any drugs, chemicals, or medical preparations, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, and if he is a licensed pharmacist or assistant pharmacist his name shall be stricken from the register of licensed pharmacists and assistant pharmacists. (Rev., ss. 3648, 4488; Code, s. 3145; 1881, c. 355, s. 11; 1897, c. 182, s. 7; 1905, c. 108, s. 3; 1921, c. 68, s. 5; C. S. 6665.)

§ 90-70. Prescriptions preserved; copies furnished.—Every proprietor or manager of a drug store or pharmacy shall keep in his place of business a suitable book or file, in which shall be preserved for a period of not less than five years the original of every prescription compounded or dispensed at such drug store or pharmacy. Upon the request of the prescribing physician, or of the person for whom such prescription was compounded or dispensed, the proprietor or manager of such drug store or pharmacy shall furnish a true and correct copy of such prescription, and said book or file of original prescriptions shall at all times be open to the inspection and examination of duly authorized officers of the law or other persons authorized and directed by the board of pharmacy to make such inspection and examination. (Rev., s. 4490; 1905, c. 108, s. 21; C. S. 6666.)

§ 90-71. Selling drugs without license prohibited; drug trade regulated.—It shall be unlawful for any person not licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist within the meaning of this article to conduct or manage any pharmacy, drug or chemical store, apothecary shop or other place of business for the retailing, compounding, or dispensing of any drugs, chemicals, or poison, or for the compounding of physicians' prescriptions, or to keep exposed for sale at retail any drugs, chemicals, or poison, except as hereinafter provided, or for any person not licensed as a pharmacist within the meaning of this article to compound, dispense, or sell at retail any drug, chemical, poison, or pharmaceutical preparation upon the prescription of a physician or otherwise, or to compound physicians' prescriptions except as an aid to and under the immediate supervision of a person licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist under this article. Provided, that during the temporary absence of the licensed pharmacist in charge of any pharmacy, drug or chemical store, a licensed assistant pharmacist may conduct or have charge of said store. And it shall be unlawful for any owner or manager of a pharmacy or drug store or other place of business to cause or permit any other than a person licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist to compound, dispense, or sell at retail any drug, medicine, or poison, except as an aid to and under the immediate supervision of a person licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to interfere with any legally registered practitioner of medicine in the compounding of his own prescriptions, nor with the exclusively wholesale business of any dealer who shall be licensed as a pharmacist or who shall keep in his employ at least one person who is licensed as a pharmacist, nor with the selling at retail of nonpoisonous domestic remedies, nor with the sale of patent or proprietary preparations which do not contain poisonous ingredients, nor, except in cities and towns wherein there is located an established drug store, and except in the counties of Avery, Bertie, Cleveland, Cabarrus, Cumberland, Duplin, Forsyth, Gaston, Guilford, Halifax, Harnett, Iredell, Henderson, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Nash, Pender, Moore, New Hanover, Orange, Richmond, Rockingham, Robeson, Rowan, Scotland, and Wilson, shall this section be construed to interfere with the sale of paregoric, Godfrey's Cordial, Aspirin, alum, borax, bicarbonate of soda, calomel tablets, castor oil, compound carthartic pills, copperas, cough remedies which contain no poison or narcotic drugs, cream of tartar, distilled extract witch hazel, epsom salts, harlem oil, gum asafetida, gum camphor, glycerin, peroxide of hydrogen, petroleum jelly, saltpetre, spirit of turpentine, spirit of camphor, sweet oil, and sulphate of quinine, nor with the sale of poisonous substances which are sold exclusively for use in the arts or for use as insecticides when such substances are sold in unbroken packages bearing a label having plainly printed upon it the name of the contents, the word "Poison," the vignette of the skull and crossbones, and the name of at least two readily obtainable antidotes.

In any village of not more than six hundred inhabitants the board of pharmacy may, after due investigation, grant any legally registered practicing physician a permit to conduct a drug store or pharmacy in such village, which permit shall not be valid in any other village than the one for which it was granted, and shall cease and terminate when the population of the village for which such permit was granted shall become greater than six hundred. (Rev., s. 4487; 1905, c. 108, s. 4; 1921, c. 68, s. 6; Ex. Sess. 1924, c. 116; C. S. 6667.)

Local Modification.—Johnston: 1929, c. 249; Onslow, McDowell: 1925, c. 27.

Editor's Note.—In 3 N. C. Law Rev. in considering this section it is said: it "prohibits the sale of drugs without a license and regulates the drug trade. It excepts from the requirements of a license physicians who compound their own prescriptions, also the sale of non-poisonous domestic remedies and patent medicines containing no poisonous ingredients.

"Ch. 116 Act 1924 adds to these exceptions a list of some thirty drugs and remedies, such as paregoric, aspirin, bicarbonate of soda, calomel, castor oil, camphor, etc. These may be sold by anybody without a pharmaceutical license, provided there is no established drug store in the same town. The act does not apply in twenty-six counties, which further restricts it.

"Since most of the list of drugs named are harmless in ordinary use, it may be safe enough to allow the small, country store-keeper to sell them, but the statute makes an opening which might lead to worse things. There may be a question whether paregoric, a strong narcotic, should ever be sold except upon a doctor's prescription. Similarly with other drugs in the list. It seems that the legislature would have done better to leave the details of drug-selling to the State Board of Pharmacy or to some other expert group who understand the nature and effect of drugs and the danger involved in allowing them to be sold by anybody."

§ 90-72. Compounding prescriptions without license.—If any person, not being licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist, shall compound, dispense, or sell at retail any drug, medicine, poison, or pharmaceutical preparation, either upon a physician's prescription or otherwise, and if any person being the owner or manager of a drug store, pharmacy, or other place of business, shall cause or permit any one not licensed as a pharmacist or assistant pharmacist to dispense, sell at retail, or compound any drug, medicine, poison, or physician's prescription contrary to the provisions of this article, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars. (Rev., s. 3649; 1905, c. 108, s. 24; 1921, c. 68, s. 7; C. S. 6668.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment Public Laws 1921 this section was made applicable to assistant pharmacists.

Sale by a Clerk.—Where a clerk in a drug store unlawfully sells intoxicating liquor without the knowledge and against the orders of the owner, the owner is not liable for the act of the clerk. State v. Neal, 133 N. C. 689, 45 S. E. 756; State v. Kittelle, 110 N. C. 560, 15 S. E. 103, distinguished.

Stated in McNair v. North Carolina Board of Pharmacy, 208 N. C. 279, 282, 180 S. E. 78.

§ 90-73. Conducting pharmacy without license.—If any person, not being licensed as a pharmacist, shall conduct or manage any drug store, pharmacy, or other place or business for the compounding, dispensing, or sale at retail of any drugs, medicines, or poisons, or for the compounding of physicians' prescriptions contrary to the provisions of this article, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars, and each week such drug store or pharmacy or other place of business is so unlawfully conducted shall be held to constitute a separate and distinct offense. (Rev., s. 3650; 1905, c. 108, s. 23; C. S. 6669.)

§ 90-74. Pharmacist obtaining license fraudulently.—If any person shall make any fraudulent or false representations for the purpose of procuring a license or permit, or renewal thereof, either for himself or for another, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars; and if any person shall wilfully make a false affidavit or any other false or fraudulent representation for the purpose of procuring a license or permit, or renewal thereof, either for himself or for another, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to like punishment as is now prescribed for the crime of perjury. (Rev., s. 3654; 1905, c. 108, s. 25; C. S. 6670.)

§ 90-75. Registration of drug stores and pharmacies.—The Board of Pharmacy shall require and provide for the annual registration of every drug store and pharmacy doing business in this State; the proprietor of every drug store or pharmacy opening for business after January 1, 1928, shall apply to the Board of Pharmacy for registration and it shall be unlawful for any drug store or pharmacy to do business until so registered; the fee for such registration, whether original or annual, shall be one dollar ($1), and upon the payment thereof the Board of Pharmacy shall issue permit to applicant entitled to receive same. All permits issued under this section shall expire on December thirty-first of each year.

The terms "drug store" and "pharmacy" as used herein shall mean any store or other place in which drugs, medicines, chemicals, poisons, or prescriptions are compounded, dispensed, or sold at retail, or which uses the title "drug store," "pharmacy" or "apothecary" or any combination of such titles, or any title or description of like import: Provided, that nothing in this section shall apply to the sale of domestic remedies, patent and proprietary preparations, and insecticides as set out and provided for in paragraph two of § 90-71. (1927, c. 28, s. 1.)

§ 90-76. Substitution of drugs, etc., prohibited.—Any person or corporation engaged in the business of selling drugs, medicines, chemicals, or preparations for medical use or of compounding or dispensing physicians' prescriptions, who shall, in person or by his or its agents or employees, or as agent or employee of some other person, knowingly sell or deliver to any person a drug, medicine, chemical preparation for medicinal use, recognized or authorized by the latest edition of the United States Pharmacopœia and National Formulary, or prepared according to the private formula of some individual or firm, other or different from the drug, medicine, chemical or preparation for medicinal use, recognized or authorized by the latest edition of the United States Pharmacopœia and National Formulary, or prepared according to the private formula of some individual or firm, ordered or called for by such person, or called for in a physician's prescription, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court: Provided, that this section shall apply to registered drug stores and their employees only. (1937, c. 59.)

Part 2. Dealing in Specific Drugs Regulated.

§ 90-77. Poisons; sales regulated; label; penalties.—It shall be unlawful for any persons to sell or deliver to any person any of the following described substances or any poisonous compound, combination, or preparation thereof, to-wit: The compounds and salts of arsenic, antimony, lead, mercury, silver and zinc, oxalic and hydrocyanic acids and their salts, the concentrated mineral acids, carbolic acid, the essential oils of almonds, pennyroyal, tansy and savine, croton oil, creosote, chloroform, chloral hydrate, cantharides, or any aconite, belladonna, bitter almonds, colchicum, cotton root, conium, cannabis indica, digitalis, hyoscyamus, nux vomica, opium, ergot, cannabis stramonius, or any of the poisonous alkaloids or alkaloidal salts or other poisonous principles derived from the foregoing, or cocaine or any other poisonous alkaloids or their salts, or any other virulent poisons, except in the manner following: It shall first be learned by due inquiry that the person to whom delivery is made is aware of the poisonous character of the substance, and that it is desired for a lawful purpose, and the box, bottle, or other package shall be plainly labeled with the name of the substance, the word "Poison," and the name of the person or firm dispensing the substance.

Before a delivery is made of any of the following substances, to wit, the compounds and salts of arsenic, antimony and mercury, hydrocyanic acid and its salts, strychnine and its salts, and the essential oil of bitter almonds, there shall be recorded in a book kept for the purpose the name of the article, the quantity delivered, the purpose for which it is required as represented by the purchaser, the date of delivery, the name and address of the purchaser, the name of the dispenser, which book shall be preserved for at least five years and shall at all times be open to the inspection of the proper officers of the law: Provided, that the foregoing provision shall not apply to articles dispensed upon the order of persons believed by the dispenser to be lawfully authorized practitioners of medicine or dentistry: Provided, also, that the record of sale and delivery above mentioned shall not be required of manufacturers and wholesalers who shall sell any of the foregoing substances at wholesale; but the box, bottle, or other package containing such substances, when sold at wholesale, shall be properly labeled with the name of the substance, the word "Poison," and the name and address of the manufacturer or wholesaler: Provided further, that it shall not be necessary to place a poison label upon, or to record the delivery of, the sulphide of antimony or the dioxide or carbonate of zinc or lead, or of colors ground in oil and intended for use as paint, or paris green, when dispensed in the original package of the manufacturer or wholesaler, or calomel, paregoric, or other preparations of opium containing less than two grains of opium to the fluid ounce, nor in the case of preparations containing any of the substances named in this section when in a single box, bottle, or other package, or when the bulk of two fluid ounces or the weight of two avoirdupois ounces does not contain more than an adult medicinal dose of such poisonous substance.

If any person shall sell or deliver to any person any poisonous substance specified in this section without labeling the same and recording the delivery thereof in the manner prescribed, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars. (Rev., ss. 3655, 4489; 1905, c. 108, ss. 20, 28; C. S. 6671.)

§ 90-78. Certain patent cures and devices; sale and advertising forbidden.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association, or corporation in the state, or any agent thereof, to sell or offer for sale any proprietary or patent medicine or remedy purporting to cure cancer, consumption, diabetes, paralysis, Bright's disease, or any other disease for which no cure has been found, or any mechanical device whose claims for the cure or treatment of disease are false or fraudulent; and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association, or corporation in the state, or agent thereof, to publish in any manner, or by any means, or cause to be published, circulated, or in any way placed before the public any advertisement in a newspaper or other publication or in the form of books, pamphlets, handbills, circulars, either printed or written, or by any drawing, map, print, tag, or by any other means whatsoever, any advertisement of any kind or description offering for sale or commending to the public any proprietary or patent medicine or remedy purporting to cure cancer, consumption, diabetes, paralysis, Bright's disease, or any other disease for which no cure has been found, or any mechanical device for the treatment of disease, when the North Carolina board of health shall declare that such device is without value in the treatment of disease.

Any person, firm, association, or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offense. Each sale, offer for sale, or publication of any advertisement for sale of any of the medicines, remedies, or devices mentioned in this section shall constitute a separate offense. (1917, c. 27, ss. 1, 2, 3; C. S. 6684.)

Editor's Note.—In 4 N. C. Law Rev. it is said: "There is a statute in this State which makes it unlawful for any person to publish any advertisement of any patent medicine or remedy purporting to cure cancer, consumption, diabetes, paralysis, Bright's disease, or any other disease for which no cure has been found or any mechanical device for the treatment of disease when the North Carolina Board of Health shall declare that such device is without value in the treatment of disease. This curious statute puts too heavy a burden on the advertising manager, for who is to say whether there is a cure for a disease or whether a device is of value in the treatment of disease."

§ 90-79. Certain patent cures and devices; enforcement of law.—To provide for the efficient enforcement of § 90-78, the same shall be under the supervision and management of the North Carolina board of pharmacy, and it shall be the duty of all registered pharmacists to report immediately any violations thereof to the secretary of the board of pharmacy, and any wilful failure to make such report shall have the effect of revoking his license to practice pharmacy in this state. (1917, c. 27, ss. 4, 5; C. S. 6685.)

§ 90-80. Department of agriculture to analyze patent medicines.—The chemists and other experts of the department of agriculture shall, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the board of pharmacy, and upon request of the secretary of said board, make an analytical examination of all samples of drugs, preparations, and compounds sold or offered for sale in violation of §§ 90-78 and 90-79. (1917, c. 27, s. 6; C. S. 6686.)

§ 90-81. Hypnotic drugs defined and enumerated.—In §§ 90-81 to 90-85, unless the context otherwise requires, the words "hypnotic drug" include:

Sulphonmethane (sulphonal).

Sulphonethylmethane (trional).

Diethyl sulphonedrethylmethane (tetronal).

Dietyl barbituric acid (barbital), or any of the foregoing by whatsoever trade name or designation; or any compound, preparation, mixture or solution thereof; or any salt or derivative thereof or of barbituric acid possessing hypnotic properties or effects.

Chloral hydrate or any mixture or solution thereof containing twenty grains or more thereof to the fluid ounce. (1931, c. 162, s. 1.)

§ 90-82. Sale prohibited except by physicians and pharmacists.—No person other than a licensed pharmacist, a duly licensed physician, doctor of dental surgery, or doctor of veterinary surgery shall sell or offer to sell any hypnotic drug to consumers or have such drug in his possession with intent to sell or give away to consumers. (1931, c. 162, s. 2.)

§ 90-83. Limitation on quantity that may be sold; exception; record of sales. — No hypnotic drug as defined in §§ 90-81 to 90-85 may be sold in quantities exceeding twelve therapeutic doses, except to persons known to be suffering with epilepsy: Provided, however, that nothing in §§ 90-81 to 90-85 shall apply to prescriptions of duly licensed physicians, doctors of dental surgery, or doctors of veterinary surgery.

Any person dispensing any hypnotic drug coming under the provisions of §§ 90-81 to 90-85, other than upon prescription, shall record in a book kept for the purpose the name of the article sold, the quantity delivered, the date of delivery, the name and address of the purchaser and the name of the dispenser, which record shall at all times be open to the inspection of the proper officer of the law. (1931, c. 162, s. 3.)

§ 90-84. Dispensing of drugs by physicians in lawful practice.—Nothing in §§ 90-81 to 90-85 shall be construed to limit the sale of hypnotic drugs to, nor to the dispensing of hypnotic drugs in the course of their professional practice by, duly licensed physicians, doctors of dental surgery or doctors of veterinary surgery lawfully practicing their profession in this State, or to registered retail or wholesale pharmacists, or to hospitals and other institutions for the treatment of defective, afflicted, sick and injured persons. (1931, c. 162, s. 4.)

§ 90-85. Violation of sections 90-81 to 90-85 a misdemeanor.—Any person who shall violate any provision of §§ 90-81 to 90-85 shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction therefor for the first offence shall be fined not more than twenty-five dollars, and upon conviction of the second offence shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars. (1931, c. 162, s. 5.)

§ 90-94. Prescribing, administering or dispensing by physicians or dentists. — A physician or a dentist, in good faith and in the course of his professional practice, only, may prescribe on a written prescription, administer, or dispense narcotic drugs or may cause the same to be administered by a nurse or interne under his direction and supervision. Such a prescription shall be dated and signed by the person prescribing on the day when issued and shall bear the full name and address of the patient for whom the narcotic drug is prescribed and the full name, address and registry number under the federal narcotic laws of the person prescribing, providing he is required by those laws to be so registered. (1935, c. 477, s. 8.)

§ 90-97. Article not applicable in certain cases. —Except as otherwise herein specifically provided, this article shall not apply to the following cases:

(2) Prescribing, administering, compounding, dispensing or selling at retail of liniments, ointments, and other preparations that are susceptible of external use only and that contain narcotic drugs in such combinations as prevent their being readily extracted from such liniments, ointments, or preparations, except that this article shall apply to all liniments, ointments, and other preparations that contain coca leaves in any quantity or combinations.

(3) The exemptions authorized by this section shall be subject to the following conditions:

(a) The medicinal preparation, or the liniment, ointment, or other preparation susceptible of external use only, prescribed, administered, dispensed, or sold, shall contain, in addition to the narcotic drug in it, some drug or drugs conferring upon it medicinal qualities other than those possessed by the narcotic drug alone.

(b) Such preparation shall be prescribed, administered, compounded, dispensed and sold in good faith as a medicine, and not for the purpose of evading the provisions of this article.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the kind and quantity of any narcotic drug that may be prescribed, administered, compounded, dispensed, or sold, to any person or for the use of any person or animal, when it is prescribed, administered, compounded, dispensed, or sold, in compliance with the general provisions of this article. (1935, c. 477, s. 9.)

§ 90-98. Records of drugs dispensed; records of manufacturers and wholesalers; records of pharmacists; written orders unnecessary for certain drugs; invoices rendered with sales. — Every physician, dentist, veterinarian, or other person who is authorized to administer or professionally use narcotic drugs shall keep a record of such drugs received by him, and a record of all such drugs administered, dispensed, or professionally used by him otherwise than by prescription. It shall, however, be deemed a sufficient compliance with this section if any such person using small quantities or solutions or other preparations of such drugs for local application shall keep a record of the quantity, character, and potency of such solutions or other preparations purchased or made up by him, and of the dates when purchased or made up, without keeping a record of the amount of such solution or other preparation applied by him to individual patients.

Manufacturers and wholesalers shall keep records of all narcotic drugs compounded, mixed, cultivated, grown, or by any other process produced or prepared, and of all narcotic drugs received and disposed of by them, in accordance with the provisions of this section.

Pharmacists and pharmacy owners shall keep records of all narcotic drugs received and disposed of by them, in accordance with the provisions of this article.

The keeping of a record required by or under the federal narcotic law shall constitute the only record required to be kept by every person who purchases for resale or who sells narcotic drug preparations exempted.

Written orders shall not be required for the sale of cannabis indica or cannabis sativa, or peyote and mara huanna, and the provisions of the article in respect to written orders and records shall not apply to cannabis indica, cannabis sativa, peyote and mara huanna, but manufacturers and wholesalers of cannabis indica, cannabis sativa, peyote and mara huanna shall be required to render with every sale of cannabis indica or cannabis sativa, peyote and mara huanna, an invoice, whether such sale be for cash or on credit; and such invoice shall contain the date of such sale, the name and address of the purchaser, and the amount of cannabis indica or cannabis sativa or peyote and mara huanna so sold.

Every purchaser of cannabis indica, cannabis sativa or peyote and mara huanna from a wholesaler or manufacturer shall be required to keep the invoice rendered with such purchase for a period of two years. (1935, c. 477, s. 10.)

§ 90-99. Labeling packages containing drugs.— Whenever a manufacturer sells or disposes of a narcotic drug and whenever a wholesaler sells and dispenses a narcotic drug in a package prepared by him, he shall securely affix to each package in which that drug is contained a label showing in legible English the name and address of the vendor and the quantity, kind and form of narcotic drug contained therein. No person, except a pharmacist for the purpose of filling a prescription under this article, shall alter, deface or remove any label so affixed. (1935, c. 477, s. 11.)

§ 90-100. Labeling containers of drugs dispensed on prescriptions. — Whenever a pharmacist sells or dispenses any narcotic drug on prescription issued by a physician, dentist, or veterinarian he shall affix to the container in which such drug is sold or dispensed, a label showing his own name, address, and registry number, or the name, address and registry number of the pharmacist or pharmacy owner for whom he is lawfully acting; the name and address of the patient, or, if the patient is an animal, the name and address of the owner of the animal and the species of the animal; the name, address and registry number of the physician, dentist or veterinarian, by whom the prescription was written; and such directions as may be stated on the prescription. No person shall alter, deface or remove any label so affixed as long as any of the original contents remain. (1935, c. 477, s. 11.)

§ 90-101. Lawful possession in original containers. — A person to whom or for whose use any narcotic drug has been prescribed, sold or dispensed by a physician, dentist, pharmacist, or other person authorized under the provisions of this article, the owner of any animal for which any such drug has been prescribed, sold, or dispensed by a veterinarian, may lawfully possess it only in the container in which it was delivered to him by the person selling or dispensing the same. (1935, c. 477, s. 12.)

§ 90-102. Common carriers and warehousemen excepted; other persons exempt.—The provisions of this article restricting the possessing and having control of narcotic drugs shall not apply to common carriers or to warehousemen while engaged in lawfully transporting or storing such drugs, or to any employees of the same acting within the scope of his employment; or to public officers or employees in the performance of their official duties requiring possession or control of narcotic drugs; or to temporary incidental possession by employees or agents of persons lawfully entitled to possession, or by persons whose possession is for the purpose of aiding public officers in performing their official duties. (1935, c. 477, s. 13.)

§ 90-103. Places unlawfully possessing drugs declared nuisances.—Any store, shop, warehouse, dwelling house, building, vehicle, boat, aircraft, or any place whatever, which is resorted to by narcotic drug addicts for the purpose of using narcotic drugs or which is used for the illegal keeping or selling of the same shall be deemed a common nuisance. No person shall keep or maintain such common nuisance. (1935, c. 477, s. 14.)

§ 90-104. Forfeiture and disposition of drugs unlawfully possessed. — All narcotic drugs the lawful possession of which is not established, or the title to which cannot be ascertained, which have come into the custody of a peace officer, shall be forfeited, and disposed of as follows:

(a) The court or magistrate having jurisdiction shall immediately notify the state board of pharmacy and unless otherwise requested within fifteen days by the state board of pharmacy in accordance with sub-section (b) of this section shall order such narcotic drugs forfeited and destroyed. A record of the place where said drugs were seized, of the kinds and quantities of drugs so destroyed, and of the time, place and manner of destruction, shall be kept, and a return under oath, reporting said destruction, shall be made to the court or magistrate and to the United States commissioner of narcotics, by the officer who destroys them.

(b) Upon written application by the state board of pharmacy the court or magistrate by whom the forfeiture of narcotic drugs has been decreed may order the delivery of them except heroin and its salts and derivatives to said state board of pharmacy for distribution or destruction, as hereinafter provided.

(c) Upon application by any hospital within this State, not operated for private gain, the state board of pharmacy may in its discretion deliver any narcotic drugs that have come into its custody by authority of this section to the applicant for medicinal use. The state board of pharmacy may from time to time deliver excess stocks of such drugs to the United States commissioner of narcotics, or shall destroy the same.

(d) The state board of pharmacy shall keep a full and complete record of all drugs received and of all drugs disposed of, showing the exact kinds, quantities and forms of such drugs; the persons from whom received and to whom delivered; by whose authority received, delivered and destroyed; and the dates of the receipt, disposal, or destruction, which record shall be open to inspection by all federal and state officers charged with the enforcement of federal and state narcotic laws. (1935, c. 477, s. 15.)

Editor's Note.—The case treated below was decided under C. S. section 6679, now repealed, which made the possession of certain drugs unlawful. This case is made available to the practitioner as an aid in construing the present law, but must be read in the light of the former law.

Constructive Possession.—"In State v. Lee, 164 N. C. 533, 80 S. E. 405, the Court held that under this statute the guilty possession was not necessarily actual possession, but that the statutory presumption could arise from the constructive possession; that the statute includes actual and constructive possession." State v. Ross, 168 N. C. 130, 131, 83 S. E. 307.

§ 90-105. Prescriptions, stocks, etc., open to inspection by officials.—Prescriptions, orders and records, required by this article, and stocks of narcotic drugs shall be open for inspection only to federal, state, county and municipal officers, whose duty it is to enforce the laws of this State or of the United States relating to narcotic drugs. No officer having knowledge by virtue of his office of any such prescription, order or record shall divulge such knowledge, except in connection with a prosecution or proceeding in court or before a licensing board or officer to which prosecution or proceeding the person to whom such prescriptions, orders or records relate is a party. (1935, c. 477, s. 16.)

§ 90-106. Fraudulent attempts to obtain drugs prohibited.—No person shall obtain or attempt to obtain a narcotic drug, or procure or attempt to procure the administration of a narcotic drug (a) by fraud, deceit, misrepresentation, or subterfuge; or (b) by the forgery or alteration of a prescription or of any written order; or (c) by the concealment of a material fact; or (d) by the use of false name or the giving of a false address.

(a) Information communicated to a physician in an effort unlawfully to procure a narcotic drug, or unlawfully to procure the administration of any such drug, shall not be deemed a privileged communication.

(b) No person shall wilfully make a false statement in any prescription, order, report, or record, required by this article.

(c) No person shall, for the purpose of obtaining a narcotic drug, falsely assume the title of, or represent himself to be, a manufacturer, wholesaler, pharmacist, pharmacy owner, physician, dentist, veterinarian, or other authorized person.

(d) No person shall make or utter any false or forged prescription or written order.

(e) No person shall affix any false or forged label to a package or receptacle containing narcotic drugs. (1935, c. 477, s. 17.)

§ 90-107. Application of certain restrictions. — The provisions of § 90-106 shall apply to all transactions relating to narcotic drugs under the provisions of § 90-97 in the same way as they apply to transactions under all other sections. (1935, c. 477, s. 18.)

§ 90-108. Possession of hypodermic syringes and needles regulated.—No person except a manufacturer or a wholesaler or a retail dealer in surgical instruments, pharmacist, physician, dentist, veterinarian, nurse or interne shall at any time have or possess a hypodermic syringe or needle or any instrument or implement adapted for the use of habit forming drugs by subcutaneous injections and which is possessed for the purpose of administering habit forming drugs, unless such possession be authorized by the certificate of a physician issued within the period of one year prior hereto. (1935, c. 477, s. 19.)

§ 90-109. Burden on defendant to prove exemption. — In any complaint, information, or indictment, and in any action or proceeding brought for the enforcement of any provision of this article, it shall not be necessary to negative any exception, excuse, proviso, or exemption, contained in this article, and the burden of proof of any such exception, excuse, proviso, or exemption shall be upon the defendant. (1935, c. 477, s. 20.)

§ 90-110. State board of pharmacy and peace officers to enforce article.—It is hereby made the duty of the state board of pharmacy, its officers, agents, inspectors and representatives, and of all peace officers within the State, and of all state's attorneys, to enforce all provisions of this article, except those specifically delegated, and to coöperate with all agencies charged with the enforcement of the laws of the United States, of this State and of all other states, relating to narcotic drugs. (1935, c. 477, s. 21.)

§ 90-111. Penalties for violation. — Any person violating any provision of this article shall, upon conviction, be punished for the first offense by a fine not exceeding one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars or by imprisonment for not exceeding three years, or both; and for any subsequent offense by a fine not exceeding three thousand dollars ($3,000.00) or by imprisonment for not exceeding five years, or both. (1935, c. 477, s. 22.)

Editor's Note.—The cases discussed below were decided under C. S. section 6683, now repealed. These cases are made available to the practitioner as an aid in construing the present law, but they must be read in the light of the former law.

This section confers no power on the Board to revoke the license of a physician who has been convicted of its violation. Board of Medical Examiners v. Gardner, 201 N. C. 123, 127, 159 S. E. 8.

Power of Board to Renew Revoked License.—When the license of a pharmacist convicted of the unlawful sale of cocaine, etc., is revoked, the board has no authority to renew the license upon the tender of the prescribed fee of $2. Thomas v. Board, 152 N. C. 373, 67 S. E. 925.

§ 90-112. Double jeopardy. — No person shall be prosecuted for a violation of any provision of this article if such person has been acquitted or convicted under the federal narcotic laws of the same act or commission, which, it is alleged, constitutes a violation of this article. (1935, c. 477, s. 23.)

§ 90-113. Construction of article. — This article shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose and to make uniform the laws of those states which enact it. (1935, c. 477, s. 25.)

Art. 6. Optometry.

§ 90-114. Optometry defined. — The practice of optometry is hereby defined to be the employment of any means, other than the use of drugs, medicines, or surgery, for the measurement of the powers of vision and the adaptation of lenses for the aid thereof; and in such practices as above defined, the optometrist may prescribe, give directions or advice as to the fitness or adaptation of a pair of spectacles, eyeglasses or lenses for another person to wear for the correction or relief of any condition for which a pair of spectacles, eyeglasses or lenses are used, or to use or permit or allow the use of instruments, test-cards, test types, test lenses, spectacles or eyeglasses or anything containing lenses, or any device for the purpose of aiding any person to select any spectacles, eyeglasses or lenses to be used or worn by such last mentioned person or by any other person. (1909, c. 444, s. 1; 1923, c. 42, s. 1; C. S. 6687.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment Public Laws 1923 the part of this section following the semi-colon was added.

The purpose of the amendment "is to raise the standards of the practice of optometry in North Carolina. Its chief effect upon this section is the requirement of two years attendance at a recognized optical college, eliminating the option of two years under a registered optometrist, the raising of the examination fee from $10 to $20, and the raising of the compensation of the Board of Examiners from $5 to $10 for each day spent in the duties of the office." 1 N. C. Law Rev. 300.

§ 90-115. Practice without registration unlawful.—After the passage of this article it shall be unlawful for any person to practice optometry in the state unless he has first obtained a certificate of registration and filed the same, or a certified copy thereof, with the clerk of the superior court of his residence, as hereinafter provided. Within the meaning of this article, a person shall be deemed as practicing optometry who does, or attempts to, sell, furnish, replace, or duplicate, a lens, frame, or mounting, or furnishes any kind of material or apparatus for ophthalmic use, without a written prescription from a person authorized under the laws of the State of North Carolina to practice optometry, or from a person authorized under the laws of North Carolina to practice medicine: Provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not prohibit persons or corporations from selling completely assembled spectacles, without advice or aid as to the selection thereof, as merchandise from permanently located or established places of business, nor shall it prohibit persons or corporations from making mechanical repairs to frames for spectacles; nor shall it prohibit any person, firm, or corporation engaged in grinding lenses and filling prescriptions from replacing or duplicating lenses on original prescriptions issued by a duly licensed optometrist, and oculist. (1909, c. 444, s. 2; 1935, c. 63; C. S. 6688.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added all of this section except the first sentence.

§ 90-116. Board of examiners in optometry. — There is hereby created a board, whose duty it shall be to carry out the purposes and enforce the provisions of this article, and which shall be styled the "North Carolina State Board of Examiners in Optometry." This board shall be elected by the North Carolina State Optometric Society and commissioned by the governor and shall consist of five regular optometrists who are members of the North Carolina state optometric society and who have been engaged in the practice of optometry in the state for five years. The terms of the members shall be as follows: One for one year, one for two years, one for three years, one for four years, one for five years. The terms of members thereafter appointed shall be for five years. The members of the board, before entering upon their duties, shall respectively take all oaths taken and prescribed for other state officers, in the manner provided by law, which shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and the board shall have a common seal. The North Carolina State Optometric Society shall have the power to fill all vacancies on said board for unexpired terms, and members so elected shall be commissioned by the governor. (1909, c. 444, s. 3; 1915, c. 21, s. 1; 1935, c. 63; C. S. 6689).

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added the last two sentences of the section.

§ 90-117. Organization; meetings and powers thereat; records, witnesses and evidence. — The board of examiners shall choose, at the first regular meeting and annually thereafter, one of its members as president and one as secretary and treasurer. The board shall make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, as may be necessary to the proper performance of its duties, and each member may administer oaths and take testimony concerning any matter within the jurisdiction of the board. A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum. The board shall meet at least once a year, the times and places of meeting to be designated by the president and secretary. The secretary of the board shall keep a full record of its proceedings, which shall at all reasonable times be open to public inspection. The president, secretary-treasurer, or any member of the board shall have power in connection with any matter within the jurisdiction of the board to summon and examine witnesses under oath and to compel their attendance and the production of books, papers, or other documents or writings deemed by it necessary or material to the inquiry. Each summons or subpoena shall be issued under the hand of the secretary-treasurer or the president of the board and shall have the force and effect of a summons or subpoena issued by a court of record, and any witness who shall refuse or neglect to appear in obedience thereto or to testify or produce books, papers, or other documents or writings required shall be liable to punishment for contempt by the board. Said board shall pay to any witness subpoenaed before it the fees and per diem as paid witnesses in civil actions in the superior court of the county where such hearing is held. (1909, c. 444, s. 4; 1935, c. 63; C. S. 6690.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 reduced the number of meetings from twice a year to once a year and added the last three sentences.

§ 90-118. Examination for practice; prerequisites; registration. — Every person, before beginning to practice optometry in this state after the passage of this article, shall pass an examination before the board of examiners. The examination shall be confined to such knowledge as is essential to practice of optometry. Every applicant for examination at the time of examination must comply with the following conditions:

1. He must be twenty-one years of age.

2. He shall file with the secretary of the board a certificate of good moral character, signed by two reputable citizens of this state; but an applicant from another state may have such certificate signed by any state officer of the state from which he comes.

3. He shall satisfy the board that he has been in actual attendance in approved school of optometry, and that he holds a certificate of graduation from said school, which school shall be approved by the North Carolina Board of Examiners in Optometry.

4. He must pay to the board for the use of the board the sum of twenty dollars, and if he shall successfully pass the examination he shall pay to the secretary for the use of the board a further sum of five dollars on the issuance to him of the certificate: Provided, the applicant may stand any subsequent examination by paying an additional fee of five dollars.

Every person successfully passing the examination shall be registered in the board registry, which shall be kept by the secretary, as licensed to practice optometry, and he shall also receive a certificate of registration, to be signed by the president and secretary of the board: Provided, that any person holding a certificate by examination to practice optometry in another state where the qualifications prescribed are equal to the qualifications required in this state may be licensed without examination on the same conditions and on the payment of the same fees as are required of other applicants. (1909, c. 444, s. 5; 1915, c. 21, ss. 2, 3, 4; 1923, c. 42, ss. 2, 3; 1935, c. 63; C. S. 6691.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 changed the requirements of subsection 3 and substituted the last words of subsection 4 "by paying an additional fee of five dollars" for the words "without paying another fee."

Where one discontinues the practice of optometry and engages in other business for eighteen years, this will not constitute an abandonment of his license to practice so as to make him a "beginner" within the meaning of this section when no action was taken by the board as provided in § 90-123 since such revocation of the certificate is the only method prescribed by statute for foreclosing the right to practice the profession after an optometrist has been admitted to such practice. Mann v. North Carolina State Board of Examiners, 206 N. C. 853, 855, 175 S. E. 281.

§ 90-119. Persons in practice before passage of statute.—Every person who had been engaged in the practice of optometry in the state for two years prior to the date of the passage of this article shall hereafter file an affidavit as proof thereof with the board. The secretary shall keep a record of such persons who shall be exempt from the provisions of the preceding section. Upon payment of three dollars he shall issue to each of them certificates of registration without the necessity of an examination. Failure on the part of a person so entitled within six months of the enactment of this article to make written application to the board for the certificate of registration accompanied by a written statement, signed by him and duly verified before an officer authorized to administer oaths within this state, fully setting forth the grounds upon which he claims such certificate, shall be deemed a waiver of his right to a certificate under the provisions of this section. A person who has thus waived his right may obtain a certificate thereafter by successfully passing examination and paying a fee as provided herein. (1909, c. 444, ss. 6, 7, 9; C. S. 6692.)

§ 90-120. Filing of certificate by licensee; fees; failure to file, certified copies.—Each recipient of the certificate of registration shall present the same for record to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he resides, and shall pay a fee of fifty cents for recording the same. The clerk shall record it in a book to be provided by him for that purpose. Any person so licensed, before engaging in the practice of optometry in any other county, shall file the certificate for record with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he desires to practice, and pay the clerk for recording it a fee of fifty cents. Any failure, neglect, or refusal on the part of a person holding a certificate to file it for record, for thirty days after the issuance thereof, shall forfeit the certificate and it shall become null and void. Upon the request of any person entitled to a certificate of registration the board shall issue a certified copy thereof, and upon the fact of the loss of the original being made to appear, the certified copy shall be recorded in lieu of the original, and the board shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for recording such certified copy. (1909, c. 444, s. 8; C. S. 6693.)

§ 90-121. Certificate to be displayed at office.—Every person to whom a certificate of examination or registration is granted shall display the same in a conspicuous part of his office wherein the practice of optometry is conducted. (1909, c. 444, s. 10; C. S. 6694.)

§ 90-122. Compensation of boards; surplus funds.—Out of the funds coming into possession of said board each member thereof may receive as compensation the sum of ten dollars for each day he is actually engaged in the duties of his office and mileage of five cents per mile for all distances necessarily traveled in going to and coming from the meetings of the board. Such expenses shall be paid from the fees and assessments received by the board under the provisions of this article, and no part of the salary or other expenses of the board shall ever be paid out of the state treasury. All moneys received in excess of per diem allowance and mileage, as above provided, shall be held by the secretary as a special fund for meeting expenses of the board and carrying out the provisions of this article, and he shall give the state such bond as the board shall from time to time direct for the faithful performance of his duties, and the board shall make an annual report of its proceedings to the governor on the first Monday in January of each year, which report shall contain an account of all moneys received and disbursed by them pursuant to this article. The secretary-treasurer shall receive from the funds of the board such salary as may be determined by the board. (1909, c. 444, s. 11; 1923, c. 42, s. 4; 1935, c. 63; C. S. 6695.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added the last sentence of this section.

§ 90-123. Annual fees; failure to pay; revocation of license; collection by suit.—For the use of the board in performing its duties under this article, every registered optometrist shall, in every year after the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven pay to the board of examiners the sum of not exceeding fifteen ($15.00) dollars, the amount to be fixed by the board, as a license fee for the year. Such payments shall be made prior to the first day of April in each year, and in case of default in payment by any registered optometrist his certificate may be revoked by the board at the next regular meeting of the board after notice as herein provided. But no license shall be revoked for non-payment if the person so notified shall pay, before or at the time of consideration, his fee and such penalty as may be imposed by the board. The penalty imposed on any one person so notified as a condition of allowing his license to stand shall not exceed five and no/100 dollars ($5.00). The board of examiners may collect any dues or fees provided for in this section by suit in the name of the board. The notice hereinbefore mentioned shall be in writing, addressed to the person in default in the payment of dues or fees herein mentioned at his last known address as shown by the records of the board, and shall be sent by the secretary of the board by registered mail, with proper postage attached, at least twenty (20) days before the date upon which revocation of license is considered, and the secretary shall keep a record of the fact and of the date of such mailing. The notice herein provided for shall state the time and place of consideration of revocation of the license of the person to whom such notice is addressed. (1909, c. 444, s. 12; 1923, c. 42, s. 5; 1933, c. 492; 1937, c. 362, s. 1; C. S. 6696.)

Editor's Note.—The 1933 amendment so changed this section that a comparison here is not practical.

The 1937 amendment changed the date in the first sentence from 1932 to 1937 and increased the annual license fee from five to fifteen dollars.

The valid statutory method of revoking a license to practice optometry as provided by this section is exclusive and must be first resorted to and in the manner specified therein. Mann v. North Carolina State Board of Examiners, 206 N. C. 853, 855, 175 S. E. 281.

§ 90-124. Revocation and regrant of certificate.—The board shall have the power to make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with the laws of the State of North Carolina, as may be necessary and proper for the regulation of the practice of the profession of optometry, and for the performance of its duties. The board shall have the power to revoke any certificate of registration granted by it under this article for conviction of crime, habitual drunkenness, gross incompetence, contagious or infectious disease; and the board shall likewise have the power to revoke any such certificate of registration upon the finding by the board that the holder of such certificate has been guilty of unethical conduct or practice. Unethical practice as herein stipulated as a condition for revocation of license shall include the following:

(1) Advertising the "free examination of the eyes," "free consultation," "consultation without obligation," "free advice," or any words or phrases of similar import which convey, or are calculated to convey, the impression to the public that the eyes are examined free, or of a character tending to deceive or mislead the public, or in the nature of "bait advertising";

(2) Use of advertising, directly or indirectly, whether printed, radio, display, or of any other nature which seeks or solicits practice on any installment payment plan;

(3) House-to-house canvassing or peddling, directly or through any agent or employee, for the purpose of selling, fitting, or supplying frames, mounting, lenses, or other opthalmic products.

Before any certificate shall be so revoked for any of the grounds or reasons herein set forth, the holder thereof shall be served with a written notice by any officer authorized to serve civil summons. The said notice shall inform the holder of the charge or charges against him and shall specify the day, which shall be at least 30 days from the date of the issuance of the notice, the place, and the time of the hearing before the board. The holder of the certificate shall have an opportunity to produce testimony in his behalf, and to confront the witnesses against him. Any person whose certificate has been revoked for any of the grounds or reasons herein set forth, or on account of non-payment of dues, may, after the expiration of ninety days, and within two years, apply to the board to have same regranted, and upon a showing satisfactory to the said board, and at the discretion of the board, license to practice optometry may be restored to such person. (1909, c. 444, s. 13; 1935, c. 63; C. S. 6697.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1935, c. 63, struck out the former section and inserted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 90-125. Practicing under other than own name or as a salaried or commissioned employee.—It shall be unlawful for any person licensed to practice optometry under the provisions of this article to advertise, practice, or attempt to practice under a name other than his own, except as an associate of or assistant to an optometrist licensed under the laws of the state of North Carolina; and it shall be likewise unlawful for any corporation, lay body, organization, group, or lay individual to engage, or undertake to engage, in the practice of optometry through means of engaging the services, upon a salary or commission basis, of one licensed to practice optometry or medicine in any of its branches in this state. Likewise, it shall be unlawful for any optometrist licensed under the provisions of this article to undertake to engage in the practice of optometry as a salaried or commissioned employee of any corporation, lay body, organization, group, or lay individual. (1935, c. 63; 1937, c. 362, s. 2.)

Editor's Note. — The 1937 amendment inserted the words "or medicine in any of its branches" near the end of the first sentence.

Where Suit to Enjoin Enforcement of Section Not Allowed by Federal Court.—Defendants had been enjoined by a state court for an alleged violation of this section. In a suit brought in the district court to enjoin the enforcement of this section, as violating the commerce clause and due process and equal protection clauses of the constitution, it was held that this was a suit to enjoin the decree of a state court and was prohibited by a federal statute. Ritholz v. North Carolina State Board of Examiners, 18 F. Supp. 409.

§ 90-126. Violation of article forbidden. — Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this article, and any person who shall hold himself out to the public as a practitioner of optometry without a certificate of registration provided for herein, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction may be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than four months, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1909, c. 444, s. 14; C. S. 6698.)

§ 90-126.1. Board may enjoin illegal practices. —In view of the fact that the illegal practice of optometry imminently endangers the public health and welfare, and is a public nuisance, the North Carolina state board of optometry may, if it shall find that any person is violating any of the provisions of this article, apply to the superior court for a temporary or permanent restraining order or injunction to restrain such person from continuing such illegal practices. If upon such application, it shall appear to the court that such person has violated, or is violating, the provisions of this article, the court shall issue an order restraining any further violations thereof. All such actions by the board for injunctive relief shall be governed by the provisions of article thirty-seven of the chapter on "Civil Procedure:" Provided, such injunctive relief may be granted regardless of whether criminal prosecution has been or may be instituted under the provisions of § 90-126. (1943, c. 444.)

§ 90-127. Application of article. — Nothing in this article shall be construed to apply to physicians and surgeons authorized to practice under the laws of North Carolina, except the provisions contained in § 90-125, or prohibit persons to sell spectacles, eyeglasses, or lenses as merchandise from permanently located and established places of business. (1909, c. 444, s. 15; 1937, c. 362, s. 3; C. S. 6699.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment inserted the reference to § 90-125.

§ 90-128. Repeal of laws; exception.—Nothing in the provisions amending §§ 90-114, 90-118, 90-122, and 90-123, shall repeal any of the provisions of § 90-127. (1923, c. 42, s. 7; C. S. 6699(b).)

Art. 7. Osteopathy.

§ 90-129. Osteopathy defined.—For the purpose of this article osteopathy is defined to be the science of healing without the use of drugs, as taught by the various colleges of osteopathy recognized by the North Carolina Osteopathic Society, Incorporated. (1907, c. 764, s. 8; 1913, c. 92, s. 3; C. S. 6700.)

§ 90-130. Board of examiners; membership; officers; meetings.—There shall be a state board of osteopathic examination and registration, consisting of five members appointed by the governor, in the following manner, to wit: within thirty days after this article goes into effect the governor shall appoint five persons who are reputable practitioners of osteopathy, selected from a number of not less than ten who are recommended by the North Carolina osteopathic society, and this number may be increased to fifteen, upon the request of the governor; the recommendation of the president and secretary being sufficient proof of the appointees' standing in the profession; and said appointees shall constitute the first board of osteopathic examination and registration. Their term of office shall be so designated by the governor that the term of one member shall expire each year. Thereafter in each year the governor shall in like manner appoint one person to fill the vacancy in the board thus created, from a number of not less than five, who are recommended by the state osteopathic society; the term of said appointee to be for five years. A vacancy occurring from any other cause shall be filled by the governor for the unexpired term in the same manner as last above stated. The board shall, within thirty days after its appointment, meet in the city of Raleigh, and organize by electing a president, secretary and treasurer, each to serve for one year. Thereafter the election of said officers shall occur annually. The treasurer and secretary shall each give bond, approved by the board, for the faithful performance of their respective duties, in such sum as the board may from time to time determine. The board shall have a common seal, and shall formulate rules to govern its actions; and the president and secretary shall be empowered to administer oaths. The board shall meet in the city of Raleigh at the call of the president, in the month following the election of its officers, and in July of each succeeding year, and at such other times and places as a majority of the board may designate. Three members of the board shall constitute a quorum, but no certificate to practice osteopathy shall be granted on an affirmative vote of less than three. The board shall keep a record of its proceedings, and a register of all applicants for certificates, giving the name and location of the institution granting the applicant the degree of doctor of or diploma in osteopathy, the date of his or her diploma, and also whether the applicant was rejected or a certificate granted. The record and registers shall be prima facie evidence of all matters recorded therein. (1907, c. 764, s. 1; 1913, c. 92, s. 1; 1937, c. 301, s. 1; C. S. 6701.)

Editor's Note.—The 1937 amendment struck out the words "or other nondrug-giving school of medical practice" formerly appearing after the word "osteopathy" in the next to the last sentence.

§ 90-131. Examination and certification of applicant; prerequisites.—Any person, before engaging in the practice of osteopathy in this state, shall, upon the payment of a fee of twenty-five dollars, make application for a certificate to practice osteopathy to the board of osteopathic examination and registration on a form prescribed by the board, giving, first, his name, age (which shall not be less than twenty-one years), and residence; second, evidence that such applicant shall have, previous to the beginning of his course in osteopathy, a certificate of examination for admission to the freshman class of a reputable literary or scientific college, a diploma from a high school, academy, state normal school, college, or university, approved by aforesaid board; third, the date of his diploma, and evidence that such diploma was granted on personal attendance and completion of a course of not less than four terms of five months each, and after July, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, of four terms of not less than nine months each in three separate years; fourth, the name of the school or college of osteopathy from which said applicant was a graduate, and which shall have been in good repute as such at the time of the granting of his diploma, as determined by the board. The board may, in its discretion, accept, as the equivalent of any part or all of the second, third, and fourth requirements, evidence of five or more years reputable practice of osteopathy, provided such substitution be specified in the certificate, if the facts thus set forth, and to which the applicant shall be required to make affidavit, shall meet the requirements of the board, as prescribed by its qualifications for the practice of osteopathy, which shall include the subjects of anatomy, physiology, physiological chemistry, toxicology, osteopathic pathology, bacteriology, osteopathic diagnosis, hygiene, osteopathic obstetrics and gynecology, minor surgery, principals and practice of osteopathy, and such other subjects as the board may require. A physician's certificate issued by a reputable school of osteopathy to a graduate from a reputable school of medicine, after an attendance of not less than two terms of nine months each in two separate years, may be accepted by the board on the same terms as a diploma, and the holder thereof be subject to the same regulations in all other respects as other applicants before the board. The board may refuse to grant a certificate to any person convicted of a felony, or of gross unprofessional conduct, or who is addicted to any vice to such a degree as to render him unfit to practice osteopathy, and may, after due notice and hearing, revoke such certificate for like cause. (1907, c. 764, s. 2; 1913, c. 92, s. 1; C. S. 6702.)

In General.—Those who practice and receive pay for the treatment of human diseases without the use of drugs, and who are not licensed osteopaths, are required to take the examination and receive the license provided for by statute. State v. Siler, 169 N. C. 314, 84 S. E. 1015.

This case was decided before §§ 90-139 to 90-157 were passed.—Ed. Note.

§ 90-132. When examination dispensed with; temporary permit.—The board may, upon the payment of a fee of two dollars, grant a certificate to practice osteopathy in this state without examination, if application therefor is filed within ninety days after the passage of this act, to any person having a diploma from a legally chartered school or college of osteopathy, which was in good standing at the time of issuing of such diploma as defined by the board, and who shall meet the requirements of the board in other respects, and who was in active practice in this state at the time of the passage of this article.

The board may, in its discretion, dispense with an examination in the case, first, of an osteopathic physician duly authorized to practice osteopathy in any other state or territory, or the District of Columbia, who presents a certificate of license issued after an examination by the legally constituted board of such state, territory, or District of Columbia, accorded only to applicants of equal grade with those required in this state; or, second, an osteopathic physician who has been in the actual practice of osteopathy for five years, who is a graduate of a reputable school of osteopathy, who may desire to change his residence to this state, and who makes application on a form to be prescribed by the board, accompanied by a fee of twenty-five dollars.

The secretary of the board may grant a temporary permit until a regular meeting of the board, or to such time as the board can conveniently meet, to one whom he considers eligible to practice in the state, and who may desire to commence the practice immediately. Such permit shall only be valid until legal action of the board can be taken. In all the above provisions the fee shall be the same as charged to applicants for examination. (1907, c. 764, s. 2; C. S. 6703.)

§ 90-133. Fees held by board; salaries; payment of expenses.—All fees shall be paid in advance to the treasurer of the board, to be by him held as a fund for the use of the state board of osteopathic examination and registration. The compensation and expenses of the members and officers of said board, and all expenses proper and necessary, in the opinion of said board, to discharge its duties under and to enforce the law, shall be paid out of such fund, upon the warrant of the president and secretary of said board, and no expense shall be created to exceed the income of fees or fines as herein provided. The salaries shall be fixed by the board, but shall not exceed ten dollars per day per member, and railroad and hotel expenses. (1907, c. 764, s. 3; C. S. 6705.)

§ 90-134. Subject to state and municipal regulations.—Osteopathic physicians shall observe and be subject to all state and municipal regulations relating to the control of contagious diseases, the reporting and certifying of births and deaths, and all matters pertaining to public health, the same as physicians of other schools of medicine, and such reports shall be accepted by the officers or department to whom the same are made. (1907, c. 764, s. 4; C. S. 6706.)

§ 90-135. Record of certificates; fees. — Every person holding a certificate from the state board of examination and registration shall have it recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which he or she expects to practice. Until such certificate is filed for record, the holder shall exercise none of the rights or privileges therein conferred. Said clerk of the county shall keep in a book for that purpose a complete list of all certificates recorded by him, with the date of the recording of each certificate. Each holder of a certificate shall pay to said clerk a fee of one dollar for making such record. (1907, c. 764, s. 5; C. S. 6707.)

§ 90-136. Revocation or suspension of license. —The North Carolina state board of osteopathic examination and registration may refuse to issue a license to any one otherwise qualified, and may suspend or revoke any license issued by it to any osteopathic physician, who is not of good moral character, and/or for any one or any combination of the following causes:

1. Conviction of a felony, as shown by a certified copy of the record of the court of conviction;

2. The obtaining of or an attempt to obtain a license, or practice in the profession, or money, or any other thing of value, by fraudulent misrepresentations;

3. Gross malpractice;

4. Advertising by means of knowingly false or deceptive statements;

5. Advertising, practicing, or attempting to practice under a name other than one's own;

6. Habitual drunkenness or habitual addiction to the use of morphine, cocaine, or other habit-forming drugs.

Each of the following acts constitutes a misdemeanor, punishable upon conviction by a fine of not less than twenty-five ($25.00) dollars nor more than two hundred ($200.00) dollars; or imprisonment for not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or both in the discretion of the court:

1. The practice of osteopathy or an attempt to practice osteopathy, or professing to do so without a license;

2. The obtaining of or an attempt to obtain a license, or practice in the profession, or money, or any other thing of value by fraudulent misrepresentation;

3. The making of any wilfully false oath or affirmation whenever an oath or affirmation is required by this article;

4. Advertising, practicing or attempting to practice osteopathy under a name other than one's own.

The state board may neither suspend nor revoke any license, however, for any of the causes hereinabove set forth unless the person accused has been given at least twenty days notice in writing of the charge against him and a public hearing had by said board, or a quorum thereof.

At the time and place named in said notice the said board, or a quorum thereof, shall proceed to hear the charges against the accused upon competent evidence, oral or by deposition, and at said hearing said accused shall have the right to be present in person and/or represented by counsel. After hearing all the evidence, including such evidence as the accused may present, the board shall determine its action and announce the same.

From any action of the board depriving the accused of his license, or certificate of renewal of license, the accused shall have the right of appeal to the superior court of the county wherein the hearing was held, upon filing notice of appeal within ten days of the decision of the board. The record of the hearing before the North Carolina state board of osteopathic examination and registration shall constitute the record upon appeal in the superior court. (1937, c. 301, s. 3.)

§ 90-137. Restoration of revoked license. — Whenever any osteopath has been deprived of his license, the North Carolina state board of osteopathic examination and registration, in its discretion, may restore said license upon due notice being given and hearing had, and satisfactory evidence produced of proper reformation of the licentiate before restoration. (1937, c. 301, s. 3.)

§ 90-138. Objects of North Carolina osteopathic society.—The object of the North Carolina osteopathic society shall be to unite the osteopaths of this state for mutual aid, encouragement, and improvements; to encourage scientific research in the laws of health and treatment of diseases of the human family; to elevate the standard of professional thought and conduct in the practice of osteopathy and to restrict the practice of osteopathy to persons educated and trained in the science and possessing a diploma from a reputable college of osteopathy. (1907, c. 764, s. 7; C. S. 6709.)

Art. 8. Chiropractic.

§ 90-139. Creation and membership of board of examiners. — There is hereby created and established a board to be known by the name and style of the state board of chiropractic examiners. The board shall be composed of three practicing chiropractors of integrity and ability, who shall be residents of the state, and no more than two members of said board shall be graduates from the same school or college of chiropractic. (1917, c. 73, s. 1; C. S. 6710.)

Editor's Note.—The case of State v. Gibson, 169 N. C. 381, 85 S. E. 7, was decided before this and following sections were passed. The above cited case applied the rule laid down in § 90-131 to all nondrug-giving practitioners.

§ 90-140. Appointment; term; successors; recommendations. — The governor shall appoint the members of the state board of chiropractic examiners, whose terms of office shall be as follows: One member shall be appointed for a term of one year from the close of the next regular annual meeting of the North Carolina chiropractic association; one member shall be appointed for a term of two years from such time, and one member shall be appointed for a term of three years from such time. Annually thereafter, at the time of the annual meeting or immediately thereafter the governor shall appoint one member of the state board of chiropractic examiners, whose term of office shall be three years, and such members of the board of examiners shall be appointed from a number of not less than five who shall be recommended by the North Carolina chiropractic association. (1917, c. 73, s. 2; 1933, c. 442, s. 1; C. S. 6711.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 442, changed "North Carolina board of chiropractors" to "North Carolina chiropractic association."

§ 90-141. Organization and vacancies. — The board of chiropractic examiners shall elect such officers as they may deem necessary, and in case of a vacancy, caused by death or in any other manner, a majority of the board shall have the right to fill the vacancy by the election of some other member of the North Carolina chiropractic association. (1917, c. 73, s. 4; 1933, c. 442, s. 1; C. S. 6713.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 442, changed "North Carolina board of chiropractors" to "North Carolina chiropractic association."

§ 90-142. Rules and regulations. — The state board of chiropractic examiners may adopt suitable rules and regulations for the performance of their duties. (1919, c. 148, s. 4; C. S. 6714.)

§ 90-143. Definitions of chiropractic; examinations; educational requirements.—Chiropractic is herein defined to be the science of adjusting the cause of disease by realigning the twenty-four movable vertebrae of the spine, releasing pressure on nerves radiating from the spine to all parts of the body, and allowing the nerves to carry their full quota of health current (nerve energy) from the brain to all parts of the body. It shall be the duty of the board of examiners to examine all applicants who shall furnish satisfactory proof of good character and of graduation from a regular chiropractic school of good standing, and such examination shall embrace such branches of study as are usually included in the regular course of study for chiropractors in chiropractic schools or colleges of good standing, including especially an examination of each applicant in the science of chiropractic as herein defined. Every applicant for license shall furnish to said board of examiners sufficient and satisfactory evidence that, prior to the beginning of his course in chiropractic, he had obtained a high school education, or what is equivalent thereto, entitling him to admission in a reputable college or university; and he shall also exhibit to said board of chiropractic examiners, or satisfy them that he holds, a diploma from a reputable chiropractic college, and not a correspondence school, and that said diploma was granted to him on a personal attendance and completion of a regular four years' course in such chiropractic college, and such applicant shall be examined in the following studies: Chiropractic analysis, chiropractic philosophy, chiropractic neurology, palpation, nerve tracing, microscopy, histology, anatomy, gynecology, jurisprudence, chemistry, pathology, hygiene, physiology, embryology, eye, ear, nose, and throat, dermatology, symptomology, spinography, chiropractic orghopody, and the theory, teaching and practicing of chiropractic.

Provided further, that the said state board of chiropractic examiners may license by reciprocity, upon application, any chiropractor holding a license issued to him by a regular board of chiropractic examiners in another state when said board is satisfied that such applicant has educational qualifications, or the equivalent thereof, equal to those prescribed by said board for admission to practice chiropractic in this state, and upon proof of good moral character and that he has practiced chiropractic under such license for at least one year. (1917, c. 73, s. 5; 1919, c. 148, ss. 1, 2, 5; 1933, c. 442, s. 1; 1937, c. 293, s. 1; C. S. 6715.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 442, changed "North Carolina board of chiropractors" to "North Carolina chiropractic association." The act also raised the personal attendance course from three to four years.

The 1937 amendment struck out the last sentence in this section and inserted the above provision in lieu thereof.

Discretionary Power of Board.—Chapter 73, Public Laws 1917, establishing a board of chiropractic examiners, gives this board large discretionary powers to examine and license applicants to practice this science, and to pass upon their other qualifications specified therein; and, construed with its amendatory act of 1919, ch. 148, under § 2, it is provided that those practicing chiropractics in this State prior to 1918 may receive their license upon proof of good character and proper proficiency upon examination; it is also provided that those so practicing prior to 1917 shall be granted a license without examination. Neither the proviso of the Laws of 1918 or 1917 dispenses with the discretionary power of the board to pass upon the requisites of good character, or the fact as to whether the applicants thereunder had been bona fide practitioners for the requisite time, into which the courts will not inquire, and a mandamus will not lie. Hamlin v. Carlson, 178 N. C. 431, 101 S. E. 22.

§ 90-144. Annual meetings. — The board of chiropractic examiners and the North Carolina chiropractic association shall hold their annual meetings at the same time and place. But the said board of examiners may, in their discretion, meet not more than three days in advance of the annual meeting of the North Carolina chiropractic association. (1917, c. 73, s. 6; 1933, c. 442, s. 1; C. S. 6716.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 442, changed "North Carolina board of chiropractors" to "North Carolina chiropractic association."

§ 90-145. Grant of license; temporary license.— The board of chiropractic examiners at such regular annual meeting of the board shall grant to each applicant who is found to be competent, upon examination, a license authorizing him or her to practice chiropractic in North Carolina. Any two members of said board may grant a temporary license to any applicant who shall comply with the requirements of this article as to proof of good character and of graduation from a chiropractic school or college as prescribed in this article; but such temporary license shall not continue in force longer than until the next annual meeting of the said board of examiners, and in no case shall a temporary license be granted to an applicant who has already been refused a license by the board of examiners at an annual meeting. (1917, c. 73, s. 7; C. S. 6717.)

§ 90-146. Graduates from other states. — A graduate of a regular chiropractic school who comes into this state from another state may be granted a license by the board of examiners as required in his article. (1917, c. 73, s. 8; C. S. 6718.)

§ 90-147. Practice without license a misdemeanor.—Any person practicing chiropractic in this state without having first obtained a license as provided in this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1917, c. 73, s. 9; C. S. 6719.)

§ 90-148. Records of board. — The secretary of the board of chiropractic examiners shall keep a record of the proceedings of the board, giving the name of each applicant for license, and the name of each applicant licensed and the date of such license. (1917, c. 73, s. 10; C. S. 6720.)

§ 90-149. Application fee.—Each applicant shall pay the secretary of said board a fee of twenty-five dollars. (1917, c. 73, s. 11; C. S. 6721.)

§ 90-150. Exempt from jury service. — All duly licensed chiropractors of this state shall be exempt from service as jurors in any of the courts of this state. (1933, c. 442, s. 2.)

§ 90-151. Extent and limitation of license.—Any person obtaining a license from the board of chiropractic examiners shall have the right to practice the science known as chiropractic, in accordance with the method, thought, and practice of chiropractors, as taught in recognized chiropractic schools and colleges, but shall not prescribe for or administer to any person any medicine or drugs, nor practice osteopathy or surgery. (1917, c. 73, s. 12; 1933, c. 442, s. 3; C. S. 6722.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 442, inserted, near the middle of this section, the words "as taught in recognized chiropractic schools and colleges."

§ 90-152. Registration of license. — Any person desiring to engage in the practice of chiropractic, having first obtained a license as herein provided, shall appear before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he resides, or proposes to practice, for registration as a chiropractor. He shall produce and exhibit to the said clerk a license obtained from the board of chiropractic examiners, and upon such exhibition the clerk shall register the name and residence of the applicant, giving the date of such registration, in a book to be kept for the purpose of registering chiropractors, and shall issue to him a certification of such registration under the seal of the superior court of such county, for which the clerk shall be entitled to collect from said applicant a fee of fifty cents. The person obtaining such certificate shall be entitled to practice chiropractic anywhere in this state; but if he shall remove his residence to another county, he shall exhibit said certificate to the clerk of the superior court of such other county and be registered. Any one receiving a temporary license as provided in this article shall not be entitled to register, but may practice anywhere in this state during the time such temporary license shall be in force. (1917, c. 73, s. 13; C. S. 6723.)

§ 90-153. Licensed chiropractors may practice in public hospitals.—A licensed chiropractor in this state may have access to and practice chiropractic in any hospital or sanitarium in this state that receives aid or support from the public. (1919, c. 148, s. 3; C. S. 6724.)

§ 90-154. Grounds for refusal or revocation of license. — The board of chiropractic examiners may refuse to grant or may revoke a license to practice chiropractic in this state, upon the following grounds: Immoral conduct, bad character, the conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude, habitual intemperance in the use of ardent spirits, narcotics, or stimulants to such an extent as to incapacitate him or her for the performance of such professional duties. (1917, c. 73, s. 14; C. S. 6725.)

§ 90-155. Annual fee for renewal of license. — All persons practicing chiropractic in this state shall, on or before the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January in each year after licenses issued to them as herein provided, pay to the secretary of the board of chiropractic examiners a renewal license fee of ten ($10.00) dollars, the payment of which, and a receipt from the secretary of the board, shall work a renewal of the license fee for twelve months.

Any license or certificate granted by the board under this article shall automatically be cancelled if the holder thereof fails to secure a renewal within three months from the time herein provided; but any license thus cancelled may, upon evidence of good moral character and proper proficiency, be restored upon the payment of fifteen ($15.00) dollars. (1917, c. 73, s. 15; 1933, c. 442, s. 4; 1937, c. 293, s. 2; C. S. 6726.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1937 amendment the fee specified in the first paragraph was two dollars and the fee in the second paragraph was ten dollars.

§ 90-156. Pay of board and authorized expenditures.—The members of the board of chiropractic examiners shall receive their actual expenses, including railroad fare and hotel bills, when meeting for the purpose of holding examinations, and performing any other duties placed upon them by this article, such expenses to be paid by the treasurer of the board out of the moneys received by him as license fees, or from renewal fees. The board shall also expend out of such fund so much as may be necessary for preparing licenses, securing seal, and all other necessary expenses in connection with the duties of the board. (1917, c. 73, s. 16; C. S. 6727.)

§ 90-157. Chiropractors subject to state and municipal regulations. — Chiropractors shall observe and be subject to all state and municipal regulations relating to the control of contagious and infectious diseases. (1917, c. 73, s. 17; C. S. 6728.)

Art. 9. Trained Nurses.

§ 90-158. Board of examiners. — A board of nurse examiners composed of five members, to consist of three registered nurses to be elected by the North Carolina State Nurses' Association, and one representative each from the North Carolina State Medical Society and the North Carolina State Hospital Association, is hereby created to be known by the title "The North Carolina Board of Nurse Examiners."

The members of the first board elected under this article shall serve as follows: The representative of the North Carolina State Medical Society and the representative of the North Carolina State Hospital Association shall serve for a term expiring June 1, 1925, or until their successors are qualified; and the three registered nurses elected by the North Carolina State Nurses' Association shall serve for a term expiring June 1, 1926, or until their successors are qualified. Thereafter, each member of said board shall serve a term of three years, or until his or her successor is appointed. The board shall fill any vacancy for an unexpired term.

The Board of nurse examiners is hereby empowered to prescribe such regulations as it may deem proper, governing applicants for licenses, admission to examinations, the conduct of applicants during examinations, and the conduct of the examinations proper with the approval of the standardization board hereinafter created. (1917, c. 17, s. 1; 1925, c. 87, s. 2; 1931, c. 56; C. S. 6729.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to Public Laws of 1925 it was provided by this section that there be two physicians on the board elected by the state medical society. A provision for the appointment of an inspector of the training schools by the nurse association was omitted, and there is a new provision giving the board power to make rules and regulations, by the amendment.

The Act of 1931 merely changed "The Board of Nurse Examiners of North Carolina" to its present title.

§ 90-159. Committee on standardization. — A joint committee on standardization, consisting of three members appointed from the North Carolina state nurses' association, and four members from the North Carolina state hospital association, whose members shall serve for a term of three years, or until their successors are elected, is hereby created. The joint committee on standardization shall advise with the board of nurse examiners herein created in the adoption of regulations governing the education of nurses, and shall jointly with the North Carolina board of nurse examiners have power to establish standards and provide minimum requirements for the conduct of schools of nursing of which applicants for examination for nurse's license under this chapter must be graduates before taking such examination. (1925, c. 87, s. 3; 1931, c. 56; 1933, c. 203.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out the second sentence of this section and inserted the one above in lieu thereof.

Public Laws of 1933, c. 203, changed the number of members from the North Carolina State Hospital Association from three to four, and inserted the provision making the exercise of power joint with the North Carolina board of nurse examiners.

§ 90-160. Educational director of schools of nursing. — An educational director of schools of nursing shall be annually appointed by the North Carolina State Nurses' Association, who shall report annually to the board of nurse examiners, and to the North Carolina State Hospital Association. Such director shall be a registered nurse, her duties and compensation to be fixed by the board of nurse examiners and the standardization board. (1925, c. 87, s. 4.)

§ 90-161. Organization of board; seal; officers; compensation.—Three members of the board shall constitute a quorum, two of whom shall be nurses.

The board shall adopt and have custody of a seal and shall frame by-laws and regulations for its own government and for the execution of the provisions of this article. The officers of said board shall be a president and a secretary-treasurer, both to be elected from its nurse members. The treasurer shall give bond in such sum as may be fixed in the by-laws, and the premium therefor to be paid from the treasury of said board. The members of the board shall receive such compensation in addition to actual traveling and hotel expenses as shall be fixed by the board. The secretary-treasurer may receive an additional salary to be fixed by the board, said expenses and salaries to be paid from fees received by the board under the provisions of this article, and in no case to be charged upon the treasury of the State.

All moneys received in excess of said allowance, and other expenses provided for, shall be held by the secretary-treasurer for the expenses of the board and for extending nursing education in the State. (1917, c. 17, s. 2; 1925, c. 87, s. 5; C. S. 6730.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to Public Laws 1925, four dollars per diem and actual traveling and hotel expenses was the compensation of each member of the board.

§ 90-162. Meetings for examination; prerequisites for applicants. — The board of nurse examiners of North Carolina shall convene not less frequently than once annually, and at any time ten or more applicants shall notify the secretary-treasurer that they desire an examination. Thirty days prior to such meetings notice stating time and place of examination shall be published in one nursing journal and three daily State papers.

At such meetings it shall be the duty of the board of nurse examiners to examine graduate nurses applying for license to practice their profession in North Carolina. An applicant must prove to the satisfaction of the board that he or she is twenty-one years of age, is of good moral character, and has graduated from high school or has equivalent credits.

Applicants shall have graduated from a school of nursing connected with a general hospital giving a three years' course of practical and theoretical instruction, which said hospital meets the minimum requirements and standards for the conduct of schools of nursing which may have been set up and established by the joint committee on standardization provided for in § 90-159. Such schools of nursing may give credit for college work on the three years' course to the extent and as may be approved by the board of nurse examiners, such credits not to total more than one year for any one person. (1917, c. 17, s. 3; 1925, c. 87, s. 6; 1931, c. 56; C. S. 6731.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1925 added a provision that schools shall meet the requirements of the American Nurse's Association formerly appearing in the third paragraph of this section. The Act of 1931 struck out this paragraph and inserted another in lieu thereof. This Act struck out from the second paragraph the words "receive at least one year of high school education or its equivalent," and inserted in lieu thereof the words: "graduated from high school or has equivalent credits."

§ 90-163. Scope of examination; fees; licensing. —Examinations shall be held in anatomy and physiology, materia medica, dietetics, hygiene and elementary bacteriology, obstetrical, medical and surgical nursing, nursing of children, contagious diseases and ethics of nursing, and such other subjects as may be prescribed by the examining board. The subject of contagious diseases may be given in theory only. If on examination the applicant should be found competent, the board shall grant a license authorizing him or her to register as herein provided and to use the title "registered nurse," signified by the letters "R. N."

Before an applicant shall be permitted to take such an examination he or she shall pay to the secretary of the examining board an examination fee of ten dollars. In the event of the failure of the applicant to pass examination, one-half of the above named fee shall be returned to the applicant. (1917, c. 17, s. 4; 1925, c. 87, s. 7; C. S. 6732.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws 1925.

§ 90-164. Licenses and certificates without examination; fee.—The board of nurse examiners shall have authority to issue licenses without examination to nurses registered in other states: Provided, that said states shall maintain an equivalent standard of registration requirements. The examination fee shall accompany each such application for license.

The board shall also have power in the exercise of its discretion to issue a license without examination to any applicant who has been duly registered as a registered nurse under the laws of another state: Provided, said applicant possesses qualifications at least equal to those required by the State of North Carolina. The fee for license without examination shall be twenty-five dollars ($25.00). (1917, c. 17, s. 5; 1925, c. 87, s. 8; C. S. 6733.)

Editor's Note.—The second paragraph of this section is new with Public Laws 1925.

§ 90-165. Only licensed nurses to practice.—On and after February 28, 1925, all "trained," "graduate," "licensed," or "registered" nurses must obtain licenses from the board of nurse examiners before practicing their profession in this State, and before using the abbreviation "R. N." must obtain certificates of registration from the clerk of the Superior Court of any county as hereinafter provided; but nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to any nurse who is qualified and practicing her profession on February 28, 1925. (1917, c. 17, s. 6; 1917, c. 288; 1925, c. 87, s. 9; C. S. 6734.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1925 omitted a former proviso preventing the section having retroactive effect, otherwise it is substantially the same.

§ 90-166. Certain persons not affected by this article.—This article shall not be construed to affect or apply to the nursing of the sick by friends or members of the family. (1917, c. 17, s. 7; 1925, c. 87, s. 10; 1931, c. 56; C. S. 6735.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws 1925.

The Act of 1931 struck out the whole of this section and inserted in lieu thereof the above.

§ 90-167. Temporary nursing in state. — The board of nurse examiners may make reasonable rules of comity allowing registered nurses from other states to do temporary nursing in this State. (1925, c. 87, s. 10½.)

§ 90-168. Registration of nurses.—The clerk of the Superior Court of any county, upon presentation to him of a license from the State Board of Nurse Examiners issued at a date not more than twelve months previous, shall enter the date of registration and the name and residence of the holder thereof in a book to be kept in his office for this purpose, and marked "record of registered nurses," and shall issue to the applicant a certificate of such registration, under the seal of the Superior Court of the county upon a form to be prescribed by the board of nurse examiners. For such registration he shall charge a fee of fifty cents. (1917, c. 17, s. 8; 1925, c. 87, s. 11; C. S. 6736.)

Editor's Note. — This section was re-enacted without change by the Public Laws 1925.

§ 90-169. Revocation of license. — The board shall have power to revoke the license of any registered nurse upon conviction of gross incompetence, dishonesty, intemperance, or any act derogatory to the morals or standing of the profession of nursing. No license shall be revoked except upon charges preferred. The accused shall be furnished a written copy of such charges, and given not less than twenty days notice of the time and place when said board shall accord a full and fair hearing on the same. Upon the revocation of a license and certificate the name of the holder thereof shall be stricken from the roll of registered nurses in the hands of the secretary of the board, and by the clerk of the Superior Court from his register upon notification of such action by said secretary. (1917, c. 17, s. 9; 1925, c. 87, s. 12; C. S. 6737.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws 1925.

§ 90-170. Violation of article misdemeanor. — Any person procuring license under this article by false representation, or who shall refuse to surrender a license which has been revoked in the manner prescribed in the preceding section, or who shall use the title "trained", "graduate," "licensed" or "registered nurse," or the abbreviation "R. N." without having first obtained a license, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. Each act shall constitute a new offense. (Rev., s. 3656; 1917, c. 17, s. 10; 1925, c. 87, s. 13; C. S. 6738.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws 1925.

The superintendent of the North Carolina sanatorium for the treatment of tuberculosis shall be ex officio dean of the training school for nurses, and he shall have power and authority to appoint such faculty, prescribe such course or courses of lectures, study and clinical work, and award such diplomas, certificates, or other evidence of the completion of such course or courses as he may think wise and proper, and perform such other functions and do such other acts as he may think necessary in the conduct of the said training school. (1915, c. 163, ss. 1, 2; C. S. 6739.)

They shall keep a regular record of their proceedings in a book to be kept for that purpose, which shall always be open for inspection, and shall keep a record of all applicants for a certificate and of all who are granted a certificate, and shall publish the names of the successful applicants at least once each year in two newspapers published in the state. Editor's Note.—The 1939 amendment changed the definition of the practice of photography.

Constitutionality.—This and following sections, providing for regulating and licensing photographers, sets up sufficiently definite standards of competency, ability and integrity, and requires the licensing board to issue licenses to all applicants who meet these qualifications without discrimination, an applicant having recourse at law for any arbitrary acts of the board, and the statute does not violate due process of law, nor deprive any person of fundamental, inalienable rights, nor create a monopoly in contravention of the state constitution. State v. Lawrence, 213 N. C. 674, 197 S. E. 586, 116 A. L. R. 1366.

What Constitutes Engaging in Photography.—To solicit persons to have their photographs taken, arrange for the sitting, and actually have the camera present and take what is popularly called a picture, but in fact is a "negative," which is the outline of the subject on glass, is engaging within the state in the profession or business of photography within the meaning of this section. Lucas v. Charlotte, 14 F. Supp. 163, 167.

Applied in State v. Lueders, 214 N. C. 558, 200 S. E. 22.

§ 92-2. State board of photographic examiners created; terms of office.—A state board of photographic examiners is hereby created, which shall consist of five members, all of whom shall be residents of the State of North Carolina and shall have had not less than five (5) years experience as professional photographers, who shall be commissioned by the governor and hold office as follows: Two for one year, two for two years and one for three years, their successors to be commissioned by the governor for a term of three years. (1935, c. 155, art. 2, s. 1; 1935, c. 318.)

§ 92-3. Chairman and secretary.—The members of the state board of photographic examiners shall annually elect one of their number to act as chairman, and appoint and at their pleasure remove a secretary, who need not be a member of the board, and whose compensation shall be fixed by the board. The said secretary shall also act as treasurer and shall perform the duties prescribed by this chapter and such other duties as the board may from time to time direct. (1935, c. 155, art. 2, ss. 2, 3.)

§ 92-4. Pay and expenses; principal office; quorum.—The members of the board upon the certification by the majority of said members shall receive the sum of seven dollars and actual and necessary expenses for each day actually devoted to the performance of their duties under this chapter. The principal office of the board shall be at such place designated by a majority of the members of the board. Three members of the board shall constitute a quorum. (1935, c. 155, art. 2, ss. 4-6.)

§ 92-5. Organization meeting; bond of secretary-treasurer; powers of board.—The board of photographic examiners shall within thirty days after its appointment, meet in the city of Raleigh, and organize and shall elect a chairman and appoint a secretary-treasurer. The secretary-treasurer shall give bond approved by the board for the faithful performance of his duties, in such sum as the board may, from time to time, determine. The board shall have a common seal and shall formulate rules to govern its actions, and it may take testimony and proof concerning all matters within its jurisdiction. (1935, c. 155, art. 3, s. 1.)

§ 92-6. Record of proceedings.—The said board shall keep a record of its proceedings relating to issuance, refusal, renewal, suspension and revocation of certificates of registration. This record shall also contain the name, place of business and residence of every registered photographer and registered apprentice, and the date and number of his certificate of registration. This record shall be open to public inspection at all reasonable times. (1935, c. 155, art. 3, s. 2.)

§ 92-7. Rules and orders. — The board may adopt and enforce all rules and orders necessary to carry out the provisions of this chapter. Every rule or order of the board shall be available for public inspection in the office of the board. (1935, c. 155, art. 3, s. 3.)

§ 92-8. Conduct of hearings.—The board is authorized to conduct hearings in any part of the state or may designate any member of the board so to do, which hearing shall be held pursuant to the rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by the board. (1935, c. 155, art. 3, s. 4.)

§ 92-9. Appointment and removal of assistants. — Said board shall have the power to appoint and at its pleasure remove any technical, legal, or other assistants as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this chapter and to prescribe their powers and duties and fix their compensation. (1935, c. 155, art. 3, s. 5.)

§ 92-10. Examination and licensing of applicants; temporary certificates.—The board shall provide for the examination of applicants who desire to practice photography in this state, and shall collect fees, as hereinafter provided, for such examinations and issue certificates of registration and licenses to practice photography to anyone who shall qualify as to competency, ability and integrity. The board may issue temporary certificates to practice photography until such time as the board shall hold an examination, provided such applicants are, in the opinion of the board, entitled thereto, and provided that application and deposit for examination is made at the time of application for such temporary license, and such certficate shall be null and void after the next examination held by the board, and provided further, that no such applicant shall, thereafter, be eligible to apply for and receive a temporary certificate. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 1.)

§ 92-11. Qualifications of applicants for examination.—Prior to any applicant being admitted to an examination or licensed, said board shall have the power to require proof as to the technical qualifications, business record and moral character of such applicant, and if an applicant shall fail to satisfy the board in any or all of these respects, the board may decline to admit said applicant to examination, or to issue license. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 2.)

Section Constitutional.—This section, providing that the board of examiners may require proof as to the business record of an applicant for photographer's license does not set up an unconstitutional method of ascertaining the qualifications of an applicant, the "business record" not being of itself a test to be applied by the board, but being merely a suggested source which the board may consider in determining the applicant's competency, ability and integrity. State v. Lawrence, 213 N. C. 674, 197 S. E. 586, 116 A. L. R. 1366.

§ 92-12. Semi-annual examinations; separate certificate for two branches of photography.— The board shall provide a place and give a written, and/or an oral and/or a practical examination at least twice a year to all duly qualified applicants covering the two branches of photography, to-wit: Photography and photo-finishing. Separate certificates shall be provided for each branch. A certificate for one branch shall not permit the practicing in the other branch, although any photographer may hold certificates in both branches if qualified under this chapter. All applicants may take the examination in either or both branches and the examination fee as hereinafter set forth shall cover both branches if taken at the same time. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 3.)

§ 92-13. Application for license; examination fees; examination requirements. — Every person desiring to commence the practice of photography in this State shall file an application for a license with the board on a form prescribed by it. At the time of making such application the applicant shall deposit with the board an examination fee of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars: Provided, that the examination fees for persons engaged exclusively in the development, finishing, and/or enlarging of kodak pictures shall be in the sum of fifteen ($15.00) dollars. All applicants must appear for examination at the time and place designated by the board and shall present such references and credentials as the board may require, and shall give satisfactory evidence as to their competency and fitness to conduct the practice of photography based on their technical knowledge, their business record and their moral character. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 4.)

§ 92-14. No fees refunded; fees for additional examinations.—No fee for examination shall in any case be refunded, but in case the applicant fails in the first examination he may take three subsequent examinations in the branches in which he failed and the fee for each such subsequent examination shall be ten ($10.00) dollars. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 5.)

§ 92-15. Registration and licensing of successful applicants.—Every applicant successfully passing such examination shall be registered in the records of the board as a qualified photographer in the branch or branches in which he has been successful, and shall receive a license signed by the chairman and secretary of said board authorizing the applicant to practice photography in the branch or branches in which he has been successful in this State. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 6.)

§ 92-16. Requirements for students or apprentices.—Every person desiring to commence the study of photography in this State for the purpose of practicing photography shall file a certificate signed by a duly licensed photographer that the said person has started to study photography with the said licensed photographer and that said student or apprentice commenced his studies or work prior to the date of the certificate, and such other information as the board may require. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 7.)

§ 92-17. Licenses not transferable.—No license shall be transferable, nor shall it be issued to any person, firm or corporation, designed to operate under an assumed or fictitious name. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 8.)

§ 92-18. Licensing without examination of photographers now practicing; license fee. — The board shall, upon application, issue a license to every photographer who has been continuously engaged in the practice of photography and/or photo-finishing in this State for one year next preceding the passage of this chapter, without examination. All applications for license under this section shall be accompanied by a fee of five ($5.00) dollars, in addition to the annual license fee hereinafter prescribed, and such application must be made within thirty days after notification from the board. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 9.)

§ 92-19. Annual license fees for business establishments and employees.—All licensees who maintain an established place for the practice of photography and/or photo-finishing in the State of North Carolina, or who are not employees of an established place for the practice of photography and/or photo-finishing in the State of North Carolina, shall pay an annual license fee of five ($5.00) dollars. All licensees who are employees of an established place in the State of North Carolina for the practice of photography and/or photo-finishing shall pay an annual license fee of three ($3.00) dollars. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 10.)

Cross References.—As to state-wide privilege tax for photographers, see § 105-41. As to requirement of bond by photographers who sell certain coupons redeemable for photographs, see § 66-61.

Not Interference with Interstate Commerce.—It was contended that the taxes under this section and § 105-41 were a burden upon and an interference with interstate commerce and therefore void. The court held that the fact that the negatives of photographs, after the taking, were sent to another state to be finished, does not make the transaction one of interstate commerce. Lucas v. Charlotte, 86 F. (2d) 394, 396.

§ 92-20. Conduct of business unless registered prohibited.—No person, firm or corporation shall sell, offer for sale, or solicit orders for any product of photography unless duly registered under the terms of this chapter, or employed by a person, firm or corporation duly registered under the terms of this chapter. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 11.)

§ 92-21. Display of license.—Every recipient of a license to practice photography or photo-finishing shall keep such license conspicuously displayed on his business premises. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 12.)

§ 92-22. Time of payment of license fees;

powers conferred by various fees.—All annual license fees prescribed by this chapter shall be paid to the board on or before the first day of July of each year. The board shall issue its receipt for every payment. The annual establishment fee of five ($5.00) dollars shall entitle the licensee, if otherwise qualified, to practice photography and photo-finishing. The annual employees' fee of three ($3.00) dollars shall entitle the licensee, if otherwise qualified, to practice photography and photo-finishing, but only for and on behalf of a duly registered photographer or photo-finisher. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 13.)

§ 92-23. Revocation of license; reinstatement.—Should any licensee fail or neglect to pay his annual license on or before the first day of July of every year, the board shall notify him that his license will be revoked and unless said fee is paid in full on or before the first day of August of the same year, the board shall revoke said license.

(a) Any photographer and/or photo-finisher whose license has been revoked for failure to pay the annual license fee may make application to the board for reinstatement. Such application shall be accompanied by a fee of five ($5.00) dollars, in addition to the regular license fee required. If the board shall find the applicant to be guilty of no violation of this chapter other than default in payment of annual license fees he may be immediately reinstated.

(b) The board shall have the power to revoke any license granted by it to any photographer and/or photo-finisher or apprentice found by the board to be guilty of fraud or unethical practices or of wilful misrepresentation, or found guilty under the laws of the State of North Carolina of any crime involving moral turpitude.

(c) Before any license is revoked, except for failure to pay the annual license fee, the holder thereof shall be given notice, in writing, either personally or by mailing by registered mail to his last known address, setting forth the charges against him and the time and place for a hearing to be had on such charges, which such charges must be filed in writing under oath with said board, and the said hearing shall be not less than thirty days from the time of the service of the said notice. The person charged shall be given a public hearing at which he may be represented by counsel and he shall have an opportunity to enter a defense and produce witnesses on his behalf. The board on such hearing shall provide a competent stenographer for the purpose of taking a complete record of such hearing, which record shall be filed with the board.

(d) If at such hearing of the accused the board shall be satisfied that the accused has been guilty of the offense charged it shall thereupon, without further notice, revoke the license of the person so accused: Provided, the accused shall not be barred the right of appeal to the superior courts. (1935, c. 155, art. 4, s. 14; 1939, c. 218, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to uniform procedure for suspension or revocation of licenses, see chapter 150. As to prevention of certain fraudulent practices by photographers, see §§ 66-59 to 66-64.

§ 92-24. Violation of chapter a misdemeanor; separate offenses; disposition of fines and forfeitures.—Any person violating any of the provisions of this chapter, or engaging in any of the activities or practices herein defined without being duly licensed as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined the sum of not less than fifty ($50.00) dollars, nor more than two hundred ($200.00) dollars for the first offense, and shall be imprisoned not more than thirty days, and/or fined not exceeding two hundred ($200.00) dollars for any subsequent offense. Each and every violation hereof shall constitute a separate offense: Provided, all fines paid for violations of this chapter or bail forfeiture collected for appearances given by virtue of any process issued from any of the courts of this state shall be paid one-half to the treasurer of the county where such process was issued for the general fund of such county and one-half to the state treasurer to be by him deposited to the credit of the general funds of the State. (1935, c. 155, art. 5.)

§ 92-26. Records of proceedings and moneys received.—The secretary-treasurer shall keep a record of the proceedings of the said board and shall receive and account for all moneys derived from the operation of this chapter. (1935, c. 155, art. 7, s. 1.)

§ 92-27. Expenses of administration.—All expenses of administering this chapter shall be paid upon order of the board from the funds derived from the examination, license fees and penalties herein prescribed, and, in no event, shall such expense exceed the income from said sources. (1935, c. 155, art. 7, s. 2.)

§ 92-28. Persons exempted.—Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to apply to:

(a) Persons in the employ of or acting under contract to newspapers or periodical publications: Provided, that this exemption shall apply only with respect to negatives and photographs made for newspapers and publication: And provided further, that such negatives or photographs are not sold or offered for sale, or otherwise disposed of for profit to any purchaser or user other than newspapers, publications, press agencies or associations serving newspapers and publications. (1935, c. 155, art. 10.)

Chapter 93. Public Accountants.

§ 93-1. "Public accounting" defined.—The term "Practice of Public Accounting" as used in this chapter is defined as follows:

A person engages in the practice of public accounting, within the meaning and intent of this chapter, who offers his or her services to the public as one who is qualified to render professional service in the analysis, verification and audit of financial records and the interpretation of such service through statements and reports. (1925, c. 261, s. 1; 1929, c. 219, s. 1.)

In Scott v. Gillis, 197 N. C. 223, 226, 148 S. E. 315, it was held that plaintiff and defendant were certified Public Accountants, citing this and the following sections.

(1925, c. 261, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—This section was reviewed in 3 N. C. Law Rev. 149.

This act was probably intended to cure defects and omissions of the former statutes. Respass v. Rex Spinning Co., 191 N. C. 809, 813, 133 S. E. 391.

As to construction of prior law, see notes under section 93-12.

§ 93-4. Use of title by firm.—It shall be unlawful for any firm, copartnership, or association to assume or use the title of certified public accountant, or to use any words, letters, abbreviations, symbols or other means of identification to indicate that the members of such firm, copartnership or association have been admitted to practice as certified public accountants, unless each of the members of such firm, copartnership or association first shall have received a certificate of qualification from the State Board of Accountancy admitting him to practice as a certified public accountant. (1925, c. 261, s. 4.)

§ 93-5. Use of title by corporation.—It shall be unlawful for any corporation to assume or use the title of certified public accountant, or to use any words, letters, abbreviations, symbols or other means of identification to indicate that such corporation has received a certificate of qualification from the State Board of Accountancy admitting it to practice as a certified public accountant. (1925, c. 261, s. 5.)

§ 93-6. Practice without certificate unlawful; corporations; exceptions.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, copartnership or association to engage in the practice of public accounting in the State of North Carolina unless such person, or each of the members of such firm, copartnership or association first shall have received from the State Board of Accountancy a certificate of qualification admitting him to practice as a certified public accountant. It shall be unlawful for any corporation to engage in the practice of public accounting in the State of North Carolina: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the practicing of the profession of public accounting by any person, firm, copartnership, association, or corporation who shall on March 10, 1925, be engaged in the practice of public accounting and maintaining an office as a public accountant in the State of North Carolina, or an accountant who has served two years or more as a civil service employee of the Federal government in the capacity of senior field auditor. (1925, c. 261, s. 6.)

§ 93-7. Registration of accountants already practicing.—Any person, firm, copartnership, association or corporation who shall on March 10, 1925, be engaged in the practice of public accounting and maintaining an office as a public accountant in the State of North Carolina, may, within six months thereafter, apply to the State Board of Accountancy for registration as a public accountant, and the State Board of Accountancy, upon the production of satisfactory evidence that such applicant was engaged in the practice of public accounting and maintaining an office as a public accountant in the State of North Carolina on March 10, 1925, shall register such person, firm, copartnership, association or corporation. Such registration shall be conclusive evidence of the right of such person, firm, copartnership, association or corporation to engage in the practice of public accounting in the State of North Carolina, but such registration shall not be construed in any way as indicating that the State of North Carolina or the State Board of Accountancy has approved the educational and professional experience and qualifications of the registrant. (1925, c. 261, s. 7.)

§ 93-8. Use of title "public accountant" without qualification.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, copartnership, association or corporation, not having qualified under this chapter, to assume or use the style of title of public accountant, or other means of indentification to indicate that such person, firm, copartnership, or association or corporation is engaged in the practice of public accounting in the State of North Carolina: Provided, however, that the inhibitions of this section shall not be construed to apply to any person, firm, copartnership, association or corporation who on March 10, 1925, was engaged in the practice of public accounting and maintaining an office as a public accountant in the State of North Carolina. (1925, c. 261, s. 8.)

§ 93-9. Assistants need not be certified.—Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prohibit the employment by a certified public accountant, or by any person, firm, copartnership, association, or corporation permitted to engage in the practice of public accounting in the State of North Carolina, of persons who have not received certificates of qualification admitting them to practice as certified public accountants, as assistant accountants or clerks: Provided, that such employees work under the control and supervision of certified public accountants or public accountants, and do not certify to any one the accuracy or verification of audits or statements; and provided further, that such employees do not hold themselves out as engaged in the practice of public accounting. (1925, c. 261, s. 9.)

§ 93-10. Persons certified in other states.—A public accountant who holds a valid and unrevoked certificate as a certified public accountant, or its equivalent, issued under authority of any state, or the District of Columbia, and who resides without the State of North Carolina, may perform work within the State: Provided, that he register with the State Board of Accountancy and comply with its rules regarding such registration. (1925, c. 261, s. 10.)

§ 93-11. Not applicable to officers of state, county or municipality.—Nothing herein contained shall be construed to restrict or limit the power or authority of any State, county or municipal officer or appointee engaged in or upon the examination of the accounts of any public officer, his employees or appointees. (1925, c. 261, s. 12.)

Cross References.—As to municipal accounting, see § 160-290. As to county accounting systems, see § 153-30.

§ 93-12. Board of accountancy; powers and duties.—The State Board of Accountancy shall consist of four persons to be appointed by the Governor, all of whom shall be the holders of valid and unrevoked certificates as certified public accountants heretofore issued under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifty-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, or issued under the provisions of this chapter. They shall hold office for the term of three years and until their successors are appointed: Provided, that no appointments to the board shall be made under the provisions of this chapter until the expiration of the terms of the members of the present board. The powers and duties of the board shall be as follows:

(1) To elect from its members a president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer. The members of the board shall be paid, for the time actually expended in pursuance of the duties imposed upon them by this chapter, an amount not exceeding ten dollars ($10) per day, and they shall be entitled to necessary traveling expenses.

(2) To employ legal counsel and clerical assistance and to fix the compensation of same, and to incur such other expenses as may be deemed necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this chapter.

(3) To formulate rules for the government of the board and for the examination of applicants for certificates of qualifications admitting such applicants to practice as certified public accountants.

(4) To hold written or oral examinations of applicants for certificates of qualification at least once a year, or oftener, as may be deemed necessary by the board.

(5) To issue certificates of qualification admitting to practice as certified public accountants each applicant, who, being the graduate of an accredited high school or having an equivalent education, shall have had at least two years experience or its equivalent next preceding the date of his application on the field staff of a certified public accountant or public accountant, one of which shall have been as a senior or accountant in charge, and who shall receive the endorsement of three certified public accountants of any state as to his eligibility to become a certified public accountant; or who, in lieu of the two years experience or its equivalent, above mentioned, shall have had one year's experience after graduating from a recognized school of accountancy; or an accountant who has served two years or more as a civil service employee of the Federal government in the capacity of senior field auditor, and who shall have passed a satisfactory examination in "theory of accounts," "practical accounting," "auditing," "commercial law" and other related subjects.

(6) In its discretion to grant certificates of qualification admitting to practice as certified public accountants such applicants who shall be the holders of valid and unrevoked certificates as certified public accountants, or the equivalent, issued by or under the authority of any state, or territory of the United States or the District of Columbia; or who shall hold valid and unrevoked certificates or degrees as certified public accountants, or the equivalent, issued under authority granted by a foreign nation; when in the judgment of the board the requirements for the issuing or granting of such certificates or degrees are substantially equivalent to the requirements established by this chapter: Provided, however, that such applicants signify their intention of engaging in the practice of public accounting within the State.

(7) To charge for each examination and certificate provided for in this chapter a fee of twenty-five dollars. This fee shall be payable to the secretary-treasurer of the board by the applicant at the time of filing application. If at any examination an applicant shall have received a passing grade in one subject, he shall have the privilege of one reëxamination at any subsequent examination held within eighteen months from the date of his application upon payment of a reexamination fee of fifteen dollars. In no case shall the examination fee be refunded, unless in the discretion of the board the applicant shall be deemed ineligible for examination.

(8) To require the renewal of all certificates of qualification annually on the first day of July, and to charge and collect a fee not to exceed five dollars for such renewal.

(9) The board shall have the power to revoke any certificate issued under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifty-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, or issued under the provisions of this chapter, for good and sufficient cause: Provided, that written notice shall have been mailed to the holder of such certificate at his last known address thirty days before any hearing thereof, stating the cause of such contemplated action, and appointing a time for a hearing thereon by the board, and provided further, that no certificate shall be revoked until such hearing shall have been had. At all such hearings the Attorney General of the State, or one of his assistants designated by him, shall sit with the board with all the powers of a member thereof.

(10) Within sixty days after March 10, 1925, the board shall formulate rules for the registration of those persons, firms, copartnerships, associations or corporations who, not being holders of valid and unrevoked certificates as certified public accountants issued under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifty-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, and who, having on March 10, 1925, been engaged in the practice of public accounting and maintaining an office as a public accountant in the State of North Carolina, shall, under the provisions of § 93-7 apply to the board for registration as public accountants. The board shall maintain a register of all persons, firms, copartnerships, associations or corporations who have made application for such registration and have complied with the rules of registration adopted by the board.

(11) Within sixty days after March 10, 1925, the board shall formulate rules for registration of these public accountants who are qualified to practice under this chapter and who under the provisions of § 93-10 are permitted to engage in work within the State of North Carolina. The board shall have the power to deny or withdraw the privilege herein referred to for good and sufficient reasons.

(12) To submit to the Commissioner of Revenue the names of all persons who have qualified under this chapter as practitioners of public accountancy, and who have complied with the rules of the board. The Commissioner of Revenue shall issue only to those whose names are so submitted to him by the board a license for the privilege of practicing the profession of public accountancy, and the license so issued shall be evidence of his registration with the board.

(13) The board shall keep a complete record of all its proceedings and shall annually submit a full report to the Governor.

(14) All fees collected on behalf of the State Board of Accountancy, and all receipts of every kind and nature, as well as the compensation paid the members of the board and the necessary expenses incurred by them in the performance of the duties imposed upon them by this chapter, shall be reported annually to the State Treasurer. Any surplus remaining in the hands of the board over the amount of three hundred dollars shall be paid to the State Treasurer at the time of submitting the report, and shall go to the credit of the general fund: Provided, that no expense incurred under this chapter shall be charged against the State.

(15) Any certificate of qualification issued under the provisions of this chapter, or issued under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifty-seven of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, shall be forfeited for the failure of the holder to renew same and to pay the renewal fee therefor to the State Board of Accountancy within thirty days after demand for such renewal fee shall have been made by the State Board of Accountancy. (1925, c. 261, s. 11; 1939, c. 218, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to uniform revocation of licenses, see chapter 150. As to privilege tax, see § 105-41.

Editor's Note.—Chapter 157, Public Laws of 1913, codified as C. S. 7008 to 7024, was expressly repealed by the Public Laws of 1925, c. 261. However, as many of the provisions of the old act were reenacted by the repealing act and will be found in this chapter, the constructions of the 1913 act are here inserted.

In General.—The provisions of the act creating and incorporating the State Board of Accountancy, confers upon its members continuous quasi-judicial powers as an arm of the State Government in which the people of the State are interested, both as to their administration and to a certain extent in the funds of the board, the compensation of members being paid by fees fixed by law, any surplus to be deposited in the State Treasury, and in these, and in other respects, its members are to be regarded as State officials to the extent of their duties specified in the statute. State v. Scott, 182 N. C. 865, 109 S. E. 789.

Exercise of Police Power.—Our statutes creating a State Board of Accountancy and giving them authority to pass upon applications and issue licenses to those qualified as public accountants are within the exercise of the police powers of the State, in which the public, as well as one to whom a certificate has been issued, is interested; and the State is also interested in the requirement that moneys collected and not necessary to the purposes of the act be turned into the State Treasury. State v. Scott, 182 N. C. 865, 109 S. E. 789.

When License Not Required.—Section 7023 of the Consolidated Statutes does not embrace within its terms an isolated instance of the employment of a firm of certified public accountants licensed in another state, who send their representative to this state to acquire information from the books of a corporation for a statement of its condition to be made out in the state in which the auditing concern is authorized to do business. Respass v. Rex Spinning Co., 191 N. C. 809, 133 S. E. 391.

Holding Examination Beyond State Boundaries.—The exercise of the powers of the State Board of Accountancy, the members of which are to be regarded as State officials, is coextensive with the State boundaries, and may not be exercised beyond them, the word jurisdiction embracing not only the subject-matter coming within the powers of officials, but also the territory within which the powers are to be exercised. State v. Scott, 182 N. C. 865, 109 S. E. 789.

The legislative intent will not be construed by implication to extend the exercise of a quasi-judicial power by public officers to places beyond the State boundaries, as where the statute creates a State Board of Accountancy, gives it the power to examine and license applicants, and states that the board may do so "at such place as it may designate;" for the presumption being against the exercise of such extra territorial power, the discretion of the board in the exercise of this power will be confined to places within the boundaries of this State. State v. Scott, 182 N. C. 865, 109 S. E. 789.

Where a statute prescribes the means for the exercise of a power granted by the act, no other or different means can be implied as being more effective or convenient, and the Legislature having incorporated a State Board of Public Accountancy, giving it the power to determine upon examination whether applicants for licenses therein are qualified to receive them, it is for the courts of the State, upon proper action, to pass upon the question of whether the board acts ultra vires in holding an examination beyond the boundaries of the State upon the request of nonresident desiring to obtain a certificate, and a declaration in the fixing of such place that it would be the last time the board would hold an examination outside the State is not binding or controlling on the question. State v. Scott, 182 N. C. 865, 109 S. E. 789.

§ 93-13. Violation of chapter; penalty.—Any violation of the provisions of this chapter shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof the guilty party shall be fined not less than fifty dollars and not exceeding two hundred dollars for each offense. (1925, c. 261, s. 11.)

Division XIII. Employer and Employee.

Chapter 94. Apprenticeship.

§ 94-1. Purpose.—The purposes of this chapter are: To open to young people the opportunity to obtain training that will equip them for profitable employment and citizenship; to set up, as a means to this end, a program of voluntary apprenticeship under approved apprentice agreements providing facilities for their training and guidance in the arts and crafts of industry and trade, with parallel instruction in related and supplementary education; to promote employment opportunities for young people under conditions providing adequate training and reasonable earnings; to relate the supply of skilled workers to employment demands; to establish standards for apprentice training; to establish an apprenticeship council and local and state joint apprenticeship committees to assist in effectuating the purposes of this chapter; to provide for a director of apprenticeship within the department of labor; to provide for reports to the legislature and to the public regarding the status of apprentice training in the state; to establish a procedure for the determination of apprentice agreement controversies; and to accomplish related ends. (1939, c. 229, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For comment on this enactment, see 17 N. C. Law Rev. 327.

§ 94-2. Apprenticeship council.—The commissioner of labor shall appoint an apprenticeship council, composed of three representatives each from employer and employee organizations respectively. The state official who has been designated by the state board for vocational education as being in charge of trade and industrial education shall ex officio be a member of said council, without vote. The terms of office of the members of the apprenticeship council first appointed by the commissioner of labor shall expire as designated by the commissioner at the time of making the appointment: One representative each of employers, employees, being appointed for one year; one representative each of employers, employees, being appointed for two years, and one representative each of employers and employees for three years. Thereafter, each member shall be appointed for a term of three years. Any member appointed to fill a vacancy occurring prior to the expiration of the term of his predecessor shall be appointed for the remainder of said term. Each member of the council not otherwise compensated by public monies, shall be reimbursed for transportation and shall receive such per diem compensation as is provided generally for boards and commissions under the biennial Maintenance Appropriation Acts for each day spent in attendance at meetings of the apprenticeship council.

The apprenticeship council shall meet at the call of the commissioner of labor and shall aid him in formulating policies for the effective administration of this chapter. Subject to the approval of the commissioner, the apprenticeship council shall establish standards for apprentice agreement which in no case shall be lower than those prescribed by this chapter, shall issue such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the intent and purposes of said chapter, and shall perform such other functions as the commissioner may direct. Not less than once a year the apprenticeship council shall make a report through the commissioner of labor of its activities and findings to the legislature and to the public. (1939, c. 229, s. 2.)

§ 94-3. Director of apprenticeship.—The commissioner of labor is hereby directed to appoint a director of apprenticeship which appointment shall be subject to the confirmation of the state apprenticeship council by a majority vote. The commissioner of labor is further authorized to appoint and employ such clerical, technical, and professional help as shall be necessary to effectuate the purposes of this chapter. (1939, c. 229, s. 3.)

§ 94-4. Powers and duties of director of apprenticeship.—The director, under the supervision of the commissioner of labor and with the advice and guidance of the apprenticeship council is authorized to administer the provisions of this chapter; in cooperation with the apprenticeship council and local and state joint apprenticeship committees, to set up conditions and training standards for apprentice agreements, which conditions or standards shall in no case be lower than those prescribed by this chapter; to act as secretary of the apprenticeship council and of each state joint apprenticeship committee; to approve for the council if in his opinion approval is for the best interest of the apprentice, any apprentice agreement which meets the standards established under this chapter; to terminate or cancel any apprentice agreement in accordance with the provisions of such agreement; to keep a record of apprentice agreements and their disposition; to issue certificates of completion of apprenticeship; and to perform such other duties as are necessary to carry out the intent of this chapter: Provided, that the administration and supervision of related and supplemental instruction for apprentices, coordination of instruction with job experiences, and the selection and training of teachers and coordinators for such instruction shall be the responsibility of state and local boards responsible for vocational education. (1939, c. 229, s. 4.)

§ 94-5. Local and state joint apprenticeship committees.—A local joint apprenticeship committee may be appointed, in any trade or group of trades in a city or trade area, by the apprenticeship council, whenever the apprentice training needs of such trade or group of trades justifies such establishment: Provided, that when a state joint apprenticeship committee in any trade or group of trades shall have been established, as hereinafter authorized, such state committee shall thereafter have the power of appointment of local joint apprenticeship committees in the trade or group of trades which it represents. Such local joint apprenticeship committee shall be composed of an equal number of employer and employee representatives chosen from names submitted by the respective local employer and employee organizations in such trade or group of trades. In a trade or group of trades in which there is no bona fide local employer or employee organization, the committee shall be appointed from persons known to represent the interests of employers and of employees respectively. The function of a local joint apprenticeship committee shall be: To cooperate with school authorities in regard to the education of apprentices; in accordance with the standards set up by the apprenticeship committee for the same trade or group of trades, where such committee has been appointed, to work in an advisory capacity with employers and employees in matters regarding schedule of operations, application of wage rates, and working conditions for apprentices and to specify the number of apprentices which shall be employed locally in the trade under apprentice agreements under the chapter; and to adjust apprenticeship disputes, subject to the approval of the director. Until the appointment of a state joint apprenticeship committee for any trade or group of trades, as hereinafter provided, the local joint apprenticeship committee for that trade or group of trades shall, for the city or trade area for which it is appointed, exercise the functions of the state joint apprenticeship committee for the said trade or group of trades which it represents.

When two or more local joint apprenticeship committees have been established in the state for a trade or group of trades, or at the request of any trade or group of trades, the apprenticeship council may appoint a state joint apprenticeship committee for such trade or group of trades, composed of an equal number of employer and employee representatives chosen from names submitted by the respective employer and employee organizations. In a trade or group of trades in which there is no bona fide employer or employee organization, the apprenticeship council may appoint such a committee from persons known to represent the interests of employers and employees respectively. The functions of a state joint apprenticeship committee shall be: To coordinate the activities of local joint apprenticeship committees in the trade or group of trades which it represents; to ascertain the prevailing rate for journeymen in the respective trade areas within the state in such trade or trades and specify the graduated scale of wages applicable to apprentices in such trade or trades in each such area; to ascertain employment needs in such trade or trades and specify the appropriate current ratio of apprentices to journeymen; and to make recommendations for the general good of apprentices engaged in the trade or trades represented by the committee. The members of a state joint apprenticeship committee shall be reimbursed for transportation and shall receive such per diem compensation as is provided generally for boards and commissions under the biennial Maintenance Appropriation Acts for each day spent in attendance at meetings of the committee. (1939, c. 229, s. 5.)

§ 94-6. Definition of an apprentice.—The term "apprentice", as used herein, shall mean a person at least sixteen years of age who is covered by a written agreement, with an employer, an association of employers, or an organization of employees acting as employer's agent, and approved by the apprenticeship council; which apprentice agreement provides for not less than four thousand hours of reasonably continuous employment for such person for his participation in an approved schedule of work experience and for at least one hundred forty-four hours per year of related supplemental instruction. The required hours for apprenticeship agreements may vary in accordance with standards adopted by local or state joint apprenticeship committees, subject to approval of the state apprenticeship council and commissioner of labor. (1939, c. 229, s. 6.)

§ 94-7. Contents of agreement. — Every apprentice agreement entered into under this chapter shall contain:

(1) The names of the contracting parties.

(2) The date of birth of the apprentice.

(3) A statement of the trade, craft, or business which the apprentice is to be taught, and the time at which the apprenticeship will begin and end.

(4) A statement showing the number of hours to be spent by the apprentice in work and the number of hours to be spent in related and supplemental instruction, which instruction shall be not less than one hundred forty-four hours per year: Provided, that in no case shall the combined weekly hours of work and of required related and supplemental instruction of the apprentice exceed the maximum number of hours of work prescribed by law for a person of the age and sex of the apprentice.

(5) A statement setting forth a schedule of the processes in the trade or industry division in which the apprentice is to be taught and the approximate time to be spent at each process.

(6) A statement of the graduated scale of wages to be paid the apprentice and whether the required school time shall be compensated.

(7) A statement providing for a period of probation of not more than five hundred hours of employment and instruction extending over not more than four months, during which time the apprentice agreement shall be terminated by the director at the request in writing of either party, and providing that after such probationary period the apprentice agreement may be terminated by the director by mutual agreement of all parties thereto, or cancelled by the director for good and sufficient reason. The council at the request of a joint apprentice committee may lengthen the period of probation.

(8) A provision that all controversies or differences concerning the apprentice agreement which cannot be adjusted locally in accordance with § 94-5 shall be submitted to the director for determination as provided for in § 94-10.

(9) A provision that an employer who is unable to fulfill his obligation under the apprentice agreement may with the approval of the director transfer such contract to any other employer: Provided, that the apprentice consents and that such other employer agrees to assume the obligations of said apprentice agreement.

(10) Such additional terms and conditions as may be prescribed or approved by the director not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter. (1939, c. 229, s. 7.)

§ 94-8. Approval of apprentice agreements; signatures.—No apprentice agreement under this chapter shall be effective until approved by the director. Every apprentice agreement shall be signed by the employer, or by an association of employers or an organization of employees as provided in § 94-9, and by the apprentice, and if the apprentice is a minor, by the minor's father: Provided, that if the father be dead or legally incapable of giving consent or has abandoned his family, then by the minor's mother; if both father and mother be dead or legally incapable of giving consent, then by the guardian of the minor. Where a minor enters into an apprentice agreement under this chapter for a period of training extending into his majority, the apprentice agreement shall likewise be binding for such a period as may be covered during the apprentice's majority. (1939, c. 229, s. 8.)

§ 94-9. Rotation of employment.—For the purpose of providing greater diversity of training or continuity of employment, any apprentice agreement made under this chapter may in the discretion of the director of apprenticeship be signed by an association of employers or an organization of employees instead of by an individual employer. In such a case, the apprentice agreement shall expressly provide that the association of employers or organization of employees does not assume the obligation of an employer but agrees to use its best endeavors to procure employment and training for such apprentice with one or more employers who will accept full responsibility, as herein provided, for all the terms and conditions of employment and training set forth in said agreement between the apprentice and employer association or employee organization during the period of each such employment. The apprentice agreement in such a case shall also expressly provide for the transfer of the apprentice, subject to the approval of the director, to such employer or employers who shall sign in written agreement with the apprentice, and if the apprentice is a minor with his parent or guardian, as specified in § 94-8, contracting to employ said apprentice for the whole or a definite part of the total period of apprenticeship under the terms and conditions of employment and training set forth in the said agreement entered into between the apprentice and employer association or employee organization. (1939, c. 229, s. 9.)

§ 94-10. Settlement of controversies or complaints.—Under the complaint of any interested person or upon his own initiative, the director may investigate to determine if there has been a violation of the terms of an apprentice agreement, made under this chapter, and he may hold hearings, inquiries, and other proceedings necessary to such investigations and determination. The parties to such agreement shall be given a fair and impartial hearing, after reasonable notice in writing thereof. All such hearings, investigations and determinations shall be made under authority of reasonable rules and procedures prescribed by the apprenticeship council, subject to the approval of the commissioner of labor.

The determination of the director shall be filed with the commissioner. If no appeal therefrom is filed with the commissioner within ten days after the date thereof, as herein provided, such determination shall become the order of the commissioner. Any person aggrieved by any determination or action of the commissioner, may appeal therefrom to the council, who shall hold a hearing thereon after due notice in writing to the interested parties. Any party to an apprentice agreement aggrieved by an order or decision of the council may appeal to the courts on questions of law. The decision of the council shall be final on the questions of fact. The decision of the council shall be conclusive if such appeal therefrom shall not be filed within thirty days after the date of such order or decision.

No person shall institute any action for the enforcement of any apprentice agreement, or damages for the breach of any apprentice agreement, made under this chapter, unless he shall first have exhausted all administrative remedies provided by this section. (1939, c. 229, s. 10.)

§ 94-11. Limitation.—Nothing in this chapter or in any apprentice agreement approved under this chapter shall operate to invalidate any apprenticeship provision in any collective agreement between employers and employees, setting up higher apprenticeship standards. (1939, c. 229, s. 11.)

Chapter 95. Department of Labor and Labor Regulations.

Art. 1. Department of Labor.

Art. 1. Department of Labor.

§ 95-1. Department of labor established.—A Department of Labor is hereby created and established. The duties of said department shall be exercised and discharged under the supervision and direction of a commissioner, to be known as the Commissioner of Labor. (Rev., s. 3909; 1919, c. 314, s. 4; 1931, c. 312, s. 1; C. S. 7309.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 312, effected a reorganization of the Department of Labor and Printing, henceforth to be known as the Department of Labor. Sec. 17 of the act provided: "This act shall be in force and effect from and after April first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one: Provided, that the Child Welfare Commission shall continue operating under existing laws until June thirtieth in order to complete the year's program of inspections, use printed material and complete statistical studies, but the Executive Secretary, the Commissioner of Labor, with the approval of the Governor, shall proceed to complete plans for reorganization of Department of Labor to be made effective promptly July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one."

In 9 N. C. Law Rev. 413, 414, it is said: "There are some disappointing features and omissions in connection with the plan of reorganization. In the first place, the writer is of the opinion that the Commissioner of Labor should be appointed by the Governor rather than elected by popular vote. This office calls for an expert, and there is little reason to think that the person who is likely to be elected will possess the necessary qualifications. Secondly, there is complete absence of advisory boards to confer with and advise the Commissioner or heads of any of the several divisions. There seems little justification for burdening the Division of Standards and Inspections with the duty of collecting information and statistics concerning water-power, agriculture, dairying, etc. To be sure, these matters are important, and have a bearing, directly or indirectly, on the welfare of the working classes of the State. But so does almost any other aspect of economic activity that could be mentioned. Such inquiry properly belongs to other departments, and should not be required of a department that is going to have its hands full with matters with which it should properly concern itself. The practice of making the labor department a catch-all for all sorts of duties which other departments should, but do not do, is one that is altogether too common, and one that is not conducive to effective administration. Finally, the absence of machinery of any sort for the settlement of industrial disputes is a matter of some surprise. In view of the recent experiences in Gastonia, Marion, and elsewhere within the State it is almost incomprehensible. While the presence of such machinery by no means guarantees that disputes will be settled promptly and effectively, or at all, for that matter, the experience of other states which have such machinery, with competent men administering it, would seem to fully warrant its establishment. This omission, together with the above duties imposed upon the Division of Statistics and Inspections which are somewhat foreign to its primary purpose, seem to the writer the most serious defects in the plan of the reorganization which in most other respects is fairly satisfactory."

§ 95-2. Election of commissioner; term; salary; vacancy.—The commissioner of labor shall be elected by the people in the same manner as is provided for the election of the secretary of state. His term of office shall be four years, and he shall receive a salary of six thousand and six hundred dollars ($6600.00) per annum. Any vacancy in the office shall be filled by the governor, until the next general election.
