(b) Designation. -- Upon request of a taxpayer or a local government, the Secretary of Commerce shall designate whether an area is a development zone that meets the conditions of subsection (a) of this section. (c) Relationship With Enterprise Tiers. -- For the purpose of the wage standard requirement of G.S. 105-129.3(b), the credit for investing in machinery and equipment allowed in G.S. 105-129.9, and the credit for worker training allowed in G.S. 105-129.11, a development zone is considered an enterprise tier one area. For all other purposes, a development zone has the same enterprise tier designation as the county in which it is located.

"§ 105-129.4. Eligibility; forfeiture.

(a) Type of Business. -- A taxpayer is eligible for a credit allowed by G.S. 105-129.12 if the real property for which the credit is claimed is used for a central administrative office that creates at least 40 new jobs. A taxpayer is eligible for the other credits allowed by this Article if the taxpayer engages in one of the following types of businesses and the jobs with respect to which a credit is claimed are created in that business, the machinery and equipment with respect to which a credit is claimed are used in that business, and the research and development for which a credit is claimed are carried out as part of that business:

Jobs transferred from one area in the State to another area in the State are not considered new jobs for purposes of this subsection.

(b) Wage Standard. -- A taxpayer is eligible for the credit for creating jobs or the credit for worker training if the jobs for which the credit is claimed meet the wage standard at the time the taxpayer applies for the credit. A taxpayer is eligible for the credit for investing in machinery and equipment, the credit for research and development, or the credit for investing in real property for a central administrative office if the jobs at the location with respect to which the credit is claimed meet the wage standard at the time the taxpayer applies for the credit. Jobs meet the wage standard if they pay an average weekly wage that is at least equal to the applicable percentage times the applicable average weekly wage for the county in which the jobs will be located, as computed by the Secretary of Commerce from data compiled by the Employment Security Commission for the most recent period for which data are available. The applicable percentage for jobs located in an enterprise tier one area is one hundred percent (100%). The applicable percentage for all other jobs is one hundred ten percent (110%). The applicable average weekly wage is the lowest of the following: (i) the average wage for all insured private employers in the county, (ii) the average wage for all insured private employers in the State, and (iii) the average wage for all insured private employers in the county multiplied by the county income/wage adjustment factor. The county income/wage adjustment factor is the county income/wage ratio divided by the State income/wage ratio. The county income/wage ratio is average per capita income in the county divided by the annualized average wage for all insured private employers in the county. The State income/wage ratio is the average per capita income in the State divided by the annualized average wage for all insured private employers in the State.

(b1) Large Investment. -- A taxpayer who is otherwise eligible for a tax credit under this Article becomes eligible for the large investment enhancements provided for credits under this Article if the Secretary of Commerce certifies that the taxpayer will purchase or lease, and place in service in connection with the eligible business within a two-year period, at least one hundred fifty million dollars ($150,000,000) worth of one or more of the following: real property, machinery and equipment, or central administrative office property. If the taxpayer fails to make the level of investment certified within this two-year period, the taxpayer forfeits the large investment enhancements as provided in subsection (d) of this section.

(b2) Health Insurance. -- A taxpayer is eligible for a credit for creating jobs or for worker training under this Article if the taxpayer provides health insurance for the positions for which the credit is claimed at the time the taxpayer applies for the credit. A taxpayer is eligible for the other credits under this Article if the taxpayer provides health insurance for all of the full-time positions at the location with respect to which the credit is claimed at the time the taxpayer applies for the credit. For the purposes of this subsection, a taxpayer provides health insurance if it pays at least fifty percent (50%) of the premiums for health care coverage that equals or exceeds the minimum provisions of the basic health care plan of coverage recommended by the Small Employer Carrier Committee pursuant to G.S. 58-50-125.

Each year that a taxpayer claims an installment or carryforward of a credit allowed under this Article, the taxpayer must provide with the tax return the taxpayer's certification that the taxpayer continues to provide health insurance for the jobs for which the credit was claimed or the full-time jobs at the location with respect to which the credit was claimed. If the taxpayer ceases to provide health insurance for the jobs during a taxable year, the credit expires and the taxpayer may not take any remaining installment or carryforward of the credit.

(b3) Environmental Impact. -- A taxpayer is eligible for a credit allowed under this Article only if the taxpayer certifies that, at the time the taxpayer applies for the credit, the taxpayer has not had and does not reasonably expect to have a materially adverse effect on the environment at the business location with respect to which the credit is claimed. The Secretary of Commerce will provide the Department of Environment and Natural Resources a list of all taxpayers making this certification. The Department of Environment and Natural Resources may conduct random audit checks to verify taxpayers' certifications. The Department of Environment and Natural Resources must notify the Department of Revenue of any taxpayer certifications it determines are not accurate.

(b4) Safety and Health Programs. -- A taxpayer is eligible for a credit allowed under this Article only if the taxpayer certifies that, as of the time the taxpayer applies for the credit, at the business location with respect to which the credit is claimed, the taxpayer has no outstanding citations under the Occupational Safety and Health Act and has had no serious violation as defined in G.S. 95-127 within the last three years. The Secretary of Commerce will provide the Department of Labor a list of all taxpayers making this certification. The Department of Labor may conduct random audit checks to verify taxpayers' certifications. The Department of Labor must notify the Department of Revenue of any taxpayer certifications it determines are not accurate.

(c) Repealed by Session Laws 1998-55, s. 1.

(d) Forfeiture. -- A taxpayer forfeits a credit allowed under this Article if the taxpayer was not eligible for the credit at the time the taxpayer applied for the credit. In addition, a taxpayer forfeits a large investment enhancement of a tax credit if the taxpayer fails to make the level of investment certified by the Secretary of Commerce under subsection (b1) of this section within the required two-year period. A taxpayer that forfeits a credit under this Article is liable for all past taxes avoided as a result of the credit plus interest at the rate established under G.S. 105-241.1(i), computed from the date the taxes would have been due if the credit had not been allowed. The past taxes and interest are due 30 days after the date the credit is forfeited; a taxpayer that fails to pay the past taxes and interest by the due date is subject to the penalties provided in G.S. 105-236. If a taxpayer forfeits the credit for creating jobs or the credit for investing in machinery and equipment, the taxpayer also forfeits any credit for worker training claimed for the jobs for which the credit for creating jobs was claimed or the jobs at the location with respect to which the credit for investing in machinery and equipment was claimed.

(e) Change in Ownership of Business. -- The sale, merger, acquisition, or bankruptcy of a business, or any transaction by which an existing business reformulates itself as another business, does not create new eligibility in a succeeding business with respect to credits for which the predecessor was not eligible under this Article. A successor business may, however, take any installment of or carried-over portion of a credit that its predecessor could have taken if it had a tax liability. The acquisition of a business is a new investment that creates new eligibility in the acquiring taxpayer under this Article if any of the following conditions are met:

(1) The business closed before it was acquired.

(2) The business was required to file a notice of plant closing or mass layoff under the federal Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, 29 U.S.C. § 2102, before it was acquired.

(3) The business was acquired by its employees through an employee stock option transaction or another similar mechanism.

(f) Development Zone Project Credit. -- Subsections (a) through (b4) of this section do not apply to the credit for development zone projects provided in G.S. 105-129.13.

"§ 105-129.5. Tax election; cap.

(a) Tax Election. -- The credits provided in this Article are allowed against the franchise tax levied in Article 3 of this ~~Chapter and~~ Chapter, the income taxes levied in Article 4 of this ~~Chapter. The credit for investing in central administrative office property provided in G.S. 105-129.12 is also allowed against~~ Chapter, and the gross premiums tax levied in Article 8B of this Chapter. The taxpayer shall elect the tax against which a credit will be claimed when filing the return on which the first installment of the credit is claimed. This election is binding. Any carryforwards of the credit must be claimed against the same tax.

(b) Cap. -- The credits allowed under this Article may not exceed fifty percent (50%) of the tax against which they are claimed for the taxable year, reduced by the sum of all other credits allowed against that tax, except tax payments made by or on behalf of the taxpayer. This limitation applies to the cumulative amount of credit, including carryforwards, claimed by the taxpayer under this Article against each tax for the taxable year. Any unused portion of a credit with respect to a large investment may be carried forward for the succeeding 20 years. Any unused portion of any other credit may be carried forward for the succeeding five years.

"§ 105-129.6. Application; reports.

(a) Application. -- To claim the credits allowed by this Article, the taxpayer must provide with the tax return the certification of the Secretary of Commerce that the taxpayer meets all of the eligibility requirements of G.S. 105-129.4 or G.S. 105-129.13, as applicable, with respect to each credit. A taxpayer shall apply to the Secretary of Commerce for certification of eligibility. The application must be on a form provided by the Secretary of Commerce and must contain any information necessary for the Secretary of Commerce to determine whether the taxpayer meets the eligibility requirements. In addition, the application must state the number of jobs to be created that are located within a development zone, the number of jobs to be created that are expected to be filled by employees residing within the development zone, and the number of jobs to be created that are expected to be filled by employees residing within a census tract or census block group that has more than twenty percent (20%) of its population below the poverty level according to the most recent federal decennial census.

If the Secretary of Commerce determines that the taxpayer meets all of the eligibility requirements of G.S. 105-129.4 or G.S. 105-129.13, as applicable, with respect to a credit, the Secretary shall issue a certificate describing the location with respect to which the credit is claimed, outlining the eligibility requirements for the credit, and stating that the taxpayer meets the eligibility requirements. If the Secretary of Commerce determines that the taxpayer does not meet all of the eligibility requirements of G.S. 105-129.4 or G.S. 105-129.13, as applicable, with respect to a credit, the Secretary must advise the taxpayer in writing of the eligibility requirements the taxpayer fails to meet. The Secretary of Commerce may adopt rules in accordance with Chapter 150B of the General Statutes that are needed to carry out the Secretary of Commerce's responsibilities under this section.

(a1) Fee. -- When filing an application for certification under this section, the taxpayer must pay the Department of Commerce a fee ~~of seventy-five dollars ($75.00). Fees collected under this subsection are receipts of the Department of Commerce.~~ of five hundred dollars ($500.00) for each credit the taxpayer intends to claim with respect to a location that is in an enterprise tier three, four, or five area, subject to a maximum fee of one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500) per taxpayer per taxable year. If the taxpayer applies for certification for a credit that relates to locations in more than one enterprise tier area, the fee is based on the highest-numbered enterprise tier area.

The Secretary of Commerce shall retain one-fourth of the proceeds of the fee imposed in this section for the costs of administering this section. The Secretary of Commerce shall credit the remaining proceeds of the fee imposed in this section to the Department of Revenue for the costs of administering and auditing the credits allowed in this Article. The proceeds of the fee are receipts of the Department to which they are credited.

(b) Reports. -- The Department of Commerce shall report to the Department of Revenue and to the Fiscal Research Division of the General Assembly by May 1 of each year the following information for the 12-month period ending the preceding April 1:

(1) The number of applications for each credit allowed in this Article.

(2) The number and enterprise tier area of new jobs with respect to which credits were applied for.

(3) The cost of machinery and equipment with respect to which credits were applied for.

(4) The number of new jobs created within development zones, and the percentage of those jobs that were filled by residents of the zones.

"§ 105-129.7. Substantiation.

To claim a credit allowed by this Article, the taxpayer must provide any information required by the Secretary of Revenue. Every taxpayer claiming a credit under this Article shall maintain and make available for inspection by the Secretary of Revenue any records the Secretary considers necessary to determine and verify the amount of the credit to which the taxpayer is entitled. The burden of proving eligibility for the credit and the amount of the credit shall rest upon the taxpayer, and no credit shall be allowed to a taxpayer that fails to maintain adequate records or to make them available for inspection.

"§ 105-129.8. Credit for creating jobs.

(a) Credit. -- A taxpayer that meets the eligibility requirements set out in G.S. 105-129.4, has five or more employees for at least 40 weeks during the taxable year, and hires an additional full-time employee during that year to fill a position located in this State is allowed a credit for creating a new full-time job. The amount of the credit for each new full-time job created is set out in the table below and is based on the enterprise tier of the area in which the position is located. In addition, if the position is located in a development zone, the amount of the credit is increased by four thousand dollars ($4,000) per job.

Area Enterprise Tier	Amount of Credit
Tier One	$12,500
Tier Two	4,000
Tier Three	3,000
Tier Four	1,000
Tier Five	500

A position is located in an area if more than fifty percent (50%) of the employee's duties are performed in the area. The credit may not be taken in the taxable year in which the additional employee is hired. Instead, the credit shall be taken in equal installments over the four years following the taxable year in which the additional employee was hired and shall be conditioned on the continued employment by the taxpayer of the number of full-time employees the taxpayer had upon hiring the employee that caused the taxpayer to qualify for the credit.

If, in one of the four years in which the installment of a credit accrues, the number of the taxpayer's full-time employees falls below the number of full-time employees the taxpayer had in the year in which the taxpayer qualified for the credit, the credit expires and the taxpayer may not take any remaining installment of the credit. The taxpayer may, however, take the portion of an installment that accrued in a previous year and was carried forward to the extent permitted under G.S. 105-129.5.

Jobs transferred from one area in the State to another area in the State shall not be considered new jobs for purposes of this section. If, in one of the four years in which the installment of a credit accrues, the position filled by the employee is moved to an area in a higher- or lower-numbered enterprise tier, or is moved from a development zone to an area that is not a development zone, the remaining installments of the credit shall be calculated as if the position had been created initially in the area to which it was moved.

(b) Repealed by Session Laws 1989, c. 111, s. 1.

(b1), (c) Repealed by Session Laws 1996, Second Extra Session, c. 13, s. 3.3.

(d) Planned Expansion. -- A taxpayer that signs a letter of commitment with the Department of Commerce to create at least twenty new full-time jobs in a specific area within two years of the date the letter is signed qualifies for the credit in the amount allowed by this section based on the area's enterprise tier and development zone designation for that year even though the employees are not hired that year. The credit shall be available in the taxable year after at least twenty employees have been hired if the hirings are within the two-year commitment period. The conditions outlined in subsection (a) apply to a credit taken under this subsection except that if the area is redesignated to a higher-numbered enterprise tier or loses its development zone designation after the year the letter of commitment was signed, the credit is allowed based on the area's enterprise tier and development zone designation for the year the letter was signed. If the taxpayer does not hire the employees within the two-year period, the taxpayer does not qualify for the credit. However, if the taxpayer qualifies for a credit under subsection (a) in the year any new employees are hired, the taxpayer may take the credit under that subsection.

(e), (f) Repealed by Session Laws 1996, Second Extra Session, c. 13, s. 3.3.

"§ 105-129.9. Credit for investing in machinery and equipment.

(a) Credit. -- If a taxpayer that has purchased or leased eligible machinery and equipment places it in service in this State during the taxable year, the taxpayer is allowed a credit equal to seven percent (7%) of the excess of the eligible investment amount over the applicable threshold. Machinery and equipment is eligible if it is capitalized by the taxpayer for tax purposes under the Code and is not leased to another party. In addition, in the case of a large investment, machinery and equipment that is not capitalized by the taxpayer is eligible if the taxpayer leases it from another party. The credit may not be taken for the taxable year in which the equipment is placed in service but shall be taken in equal installments over the seven years following the taxable year in which the equipment is placed in service.

(b) Eligible Investment Amount. -- The eligible investment amount is the lesser of (i) the cost of the eligible machinery and equipment and (ii) the amount by which the cost of all of the taxpayer's eligible machinery and equipment that is in service in this State on the last day of the taxable year exceeds the cost of all of the taxpayer's eligible machinery and equipment that was in service in this State on the last day of the base year. The base year is that year, of the three immediately preceding taxable years, in which the taxpayer had the most eligible machinery and equipment in service in this State.

(c) Threshold. -- The applicable threshold is the appropriate amount set out in the following table based on the enterprise tier of the area where the eligible machinery and equipment are placed in service during the taxable year. If the taxpayer places eligible machinery and equipment in service in more than one area during the taxable year, the threshold applies separately to the eligible machinery and equipment placed in service in each area. If the taxpayer places eligible machinery and equipment in service in an area over the course of a two-year period, the applicable threshold for the second taxable year is reduced by the eligible investment amount for the previous taxable year.

Area Enterprise Tier	Threshold
Tier One	$ -0-
Tier Two	100,000
Tier Three	200,000
Tier Four	500,000
Tier Five	1,000,000

(d) Expiration. -- If, in one of the seven years in which the installment of a credit accrues, the machinery and equipment with respect to which the credit was claimed are disposed of, taken out of service, or moved out of State, the credit expires and the taxpayer may not take any remaining installment of the credit. The taxpayer may, however, take the portion of an installment that accrued in a previous year and was carried forward to the extent permitted under G.S. 105-129.5.

If, in one of the seven years in which the installment of a credit accrues, the machinery and equipment with respect to which the credit was claimed are moved to an area in a higher-numbered enterprise tier, or are moved from a development zone to an area that is not a development zone, the remaining installments of the credit are allowed only to the extent they would have been allowed if the machinery and equipment had been placed in service initially in the area to which they were moved.

(e) Planned Expansion. -- A taxpayer that signs a letter of commitment with the Department of Commerce to place specific eligible machinery and equipment in service in an area within two years after the date the letter is signed may, in the year the eligible machinery and equipment are placed in service in that area, calculate the credit for which the taxpayer qualifies based on the area's enterprise tier and development zone designation for the year the letter was signed. All other conditions apply to the credit, but if the area has been redesignated to a higher-numbered enterprise tier or has lost its development zone designation after the year the letter of commitment was signed, the credit is allowed based on the area's enterprise tier and development zone designation for the year the letter was signed. If the taxpayer does not place part or all of the specified eligible machinery and equipment in service within the two-year period, the taxpayer does not qualify for the benefit of this subsection with respect to the machinery and equipment not placed in service within the two-year period. However, if the taxpayer qualifies for a credit in the year the eligible machinery and equipment are placed in service, the taxpayer may take the credit for that year as if no letter of commitment had been signed pursuant to this subsection.

"§ 105-129.10. Credit for research and development.

(a) General Credit. -- A taxpayer that claims for the taxable year a federal income tax credit under section 41(a) of the Code for increasing research activities is allowed a credit equal to five percent (5%) of the State's apportioned share of the taxpayer's expenditures for increasing research activities. The State's apportioned share of a taxpayer's expenditures for increasing research activities is the excess of the taxpayer's qualified research expenses for the taxable year over the base amount, as determined under section 41 of the Code, multiplied by a percentage equal to the ratio of the taxpayer's qualified research expenses in this State for the taxable year to the taxpayer's total qualified research expenses for the taxable year.

(b) Alternative Credit. -- A taxpayer that claims the alternative incremental credit under section 41(c)(4) of the Code for increasing research activities is allowed a credit equal to twenty-five percent (25%) of the State's apportioned share of the federal credit claimed. The State's apportioned share of the federal credit claimed is the amount of the alternative incremental credit the taxpayer claimed under section 41(c)(4) of the Code for the taxable year multiplied by a percentage equal to the ratio of the taxpayer's qualified research expenses in this State for the taxable year to the taxpayer's total qualified research expenses for the taxable year. For the purpose of this subsection, the amount of the alternative incremental credit claimed by a taxpayer is determined without regard to any reduction elected under section 280C(c) of the Code.

(c) Definitions. -- As used in this section, the terms "qualified research expenses" and "base amount" have the meaning provided in section 41 of the Code. Notwithstanding G.S. 105-228.90(b), as used in this section, the term "Code" means the Internal Revenue Code as enacted as of January 1, 1999.

"§ 105-129.11. Credit for worker training.

(a) Credit. -- A taxpayer that provides worker training for five or more of its eligible employees during the taxable year is allowed a credit equal to the wages paid to the eligible employees during the training. Wages paid to an employee performing his or her job while being trained are not eligible for the credit. For positions located in an enterprise tier one area, the credit may not exceed one thousand dollars ($1,000) per employee trained during the taxable year. For other positions, the credit may not exceed five hundred dollars ($500.00) per employee trained during the taxable year. A position is located in an area if more than fifty percent (50%) of the employee's duties are performed in the area.

(b) Eligibility. -- An employee is eligible if the employee is in a full-time position not classified as exempt under the Fair Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. § 213(a)(1) and meets one or more of the following conditions:

(1) The employee occupies a job for which the taxpayer is eligible to claim an installment of the credit for creating jobs.

(2) The employee is being trained to operate machinery and equipment for which the taxpayer is eligible to claim an installment of the credit for investing in machinery and equipment.

"§ 105-129.12. Credit for investing in central administrative office property.

(a) Credit. -- If a taxpayer that has purchased or leased real property in this State begins to use the property as a central administrative office during the taxable year, the taxpayer is allowed a credit equal to seven percent (7%) of the eligible investment amount. The eligible investment amount is the lesser of (i) the cost of the property and (ii) the amount by which the cost of all of the property the taxpayer is using in this State as central administrative offices on the last day of the taxable year exceeds the cost of all of the property the taxpayer was using in this State as central administrative offices on the last day of the base year. The base year is that year, of the three immediately preceding taxable years, in which the taxpayer was using the most property in this State as central administrative offices. In the case of property that is leased, the cost of the property is not determined as provided in G.S. 105-129.2 but is considered to be the taxpayer's lease payments over a seven-year period, plus any expenditures made by the taxpayer to improve the property before it is used as the taxpayer's central administrative office if the expenditures are not reimbursed or credited by the lessor. The maximum credit allowed a taxpayer under this section for property used as a central administrative office is five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000). The entire credit may not be taken for the taxable year in which the property is first used as a central administrative office but shall be taken in equal installments over the seven years following the taxable year in which the property is first used as a central administrative office. The basis in any real property for which a credit is allowed under this section shall be reduced by the amount of credit allowable.

(b) Mixed Use Property. -- If the taxpayer uses only part of the property as the taxpayer's central administrative office, the amount of the credit allowed under this section is reduced by multiplying it by a fraction the numerator of which is the square footage of the property used as the taxpayer's central administrative office and the denominator of which is the total square footage of the property.

(c) Expiration. -- If, in one of the seven years in which the installment of a credit accrues, the property with respect to which the credit was claimed is no longer used as a central administrative office, the credit expires and the taxpayer may not take any remaining installment of the credit. If, in one of the seven years in which the installment of a credit accrues, part of the property with respect to which the credit was claimed is no longer used as a central administrative office, the remaining installments of the credit shall be reduced by multiplying it by the fraction described in subsection (b) of this section. If, in one of the seven years in which the installment of a credit accrues, the total number of employees the taxpayer employs at all of its central administrative offices in this State drops by 40 or more, the credit expires and the taxpayer may not take any remaining installment of the credit.

In each of these cases, the taxpayer may nonetheless take the portion of an installment that accrued in a previous year and was carried forward to the extent permitted under G.S. 105-129.5.

"§ 105-129.13. Credit for development zone projects.

(a) Credit. -- A taxpayer who contributes cash or property to a development zone agency for an improvement project in a development zone is allowed a credit equal to twenty-five percent (25%) of the value of the contribution. A contribution is for an improvement project for the purposes of this section if the agency receiving the contribution contracts in writing to use the contribution for the project and agrees in the contract to repay to the taxpayer, with interest, any part of the contribution not used for the project. The credit may not be taken for the year in which the contribution is made but must be taken for the taxable year beginning during the calendar year in which the application for the credit becomes effective as provided in this section.

(b) Definitions. -- The following definitions apply in this section:

(1) Community development corporation. -- A nonprofit corporation that meets all of the following conditions:

a. It is chartered pursuant to Chapter 55A of the General Statutes and is tax-exempt pursuant to section 501(c)(3) of the Code.

b. Its primary mission is to develop and improve low-income communities and neighborhoods through economic and related development.

c. Its activities and decisions are initiated, managed, and controlled by the constituents of those local communities.

d. Its primary function is to act as deal maker and packager of projects and activities that will increase its constituency's opportunities to become owners, managers, and producers of small businesses, to obtain affordable housing, and to obtain jobs designed to produce positive cash flow and curb blight in the targeted community.

(2) Community development purpose. -- A purpose for which a city is authorized to expend funds under G.S. 160A-456, 160A-457, and 160A-457.2.

(3) Control. -- A person controls an entity if the person owns, directly or indirectly, more than ten percent (10%) of the voting securities of that entity. As used in this subdivision, the term 'voting security' means a security that (i) confers upon the holder the right to vote for the election of members of the board of directors or similar governing body of the business or (ii) is convertible into, or entitles the holder to receive upon its exercise, a security that confers such a right to vote. A general partnership interest is a voting security.

(4) Development zone agency. -- Any of the following agencies that the Department of Commerce certifies will undertake an improvement project in a development zone:

a. A community-based development organization qualified under 24 C.F.R. § 570.204 to receive community development block grant funds under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, 42 U.S.C. § 5301, et seq., to carry out a neighborhood revitalization project, a community economic development project, or an energy conservation project.

b. A community action agency that has been officially designated as such pursuant to section 210 of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, Public Law 88-452, 78 Stat. 508 and which has not lost its designation as a result of a failure to comply with the provisions of that act.

c. A community development corporation.

d. A community development financial institution certified by the United States Department of the Treasury under the Community Development Banking and Financial Institutions Act of 1994, 12 U.S.C. § 4701, et seq.

e. A community housing development organization qualified under the HOME Investment Partnerships Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 12701, 12704, and 24 C.F.R. § 92.2.

f. A local housing authority created under Article 1 of Chapter 157 of the General Statutes.

(5) Improvement project. -- A project to construct or improve real property for community development purposes or to acquire real property and convert it for community development purposes. Construction or improvement includes services provided by a development zone agency directly related to the construction or improvement, and project development fees charged by a developer for the construction or improvement.

(c) Certification. -- Before certifying that a development zone agency will undertake an improvement project in a development zone, the Secretary must require the agency to provide sufficient documentation to establish the identity of the agency, the nature of the project, and that the project is for a community development purpose and is located in a development zone. The Secretary of Commerce shall not certify a development zone agency under this section if the agency, any of the agency's officers or directors, or any partner of the agency has ever used any part of a contribution made under this section for any purpose other than an improvement project.

(d) Limitations. -- A taxpayer who claims a credit under this subsection must identify in the application the development zone agencies to which the taxpayer made contributions and the amount contributed to each. No credit is allowed for a contribution if the taxpayer is related to the development zone agency as defined in section 1313 of the Code or if the taxpayer controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with an affiliate of the development zone agency. No credit is allowed to the extent the taxpayer receives anything of value in exchange for the contribution.

(e) Application. -- To be eligible for the tax credit provided in this section, in addition to the application required under G.S. 105-129.6, the taxpayer must file an application for the credit with the Secretary of Revenue on or before April 15 of the year following the calendar year in which the contribution was made. The Secretary may grant extensions of this deadline, as the Secretary finds appropriate, upon the request of the taxpayer, except that the application may not be filed after September 15 of the year following the calendar year in which the contribution was made. An application is effective for the year in which it is timely filed. The application must be on a form prescribed by the Secretary and must include any supporting documentation that the Secretary may require. If a contribution for which a credit is applied for was of property rather than cash, the taxpayer must include with the application a certified appraisal of the value of the property contributed.

(f) Ceiling. -- The total amount of all tax credits allowed to taxpayers under this section for contributions made in a calendar year may not exceed four million dollars ($4,000,000). The Secretary of Revenue must calculate the total amount of tax credits claimed from the applications filed under this section. If the total amount of tax credits claimed for contributions made in a calendar year exceeds four million dollars ($4,000,000), the Secretary must allow a portion of the credits claimed by allocating a total of four million dollars ($4,000,000) in tax credits in proportion to the size of the credit claimed by each taxpayer. If a credit is reduced pursuant to this subsection, the Secretary must notify the taxpayer of the amount of the reduction of the credit on or before December 31 of the year the application was filed. The Secretary's allocations based on applications filed pursuant to this section are final and will not be adjusted to account for credits applied for but not claimed.

(g) Forfeiture. -- A taxpayer forfeits a credit allowed under this section to the extent the development zone agency uses the taxpayer's contribution for any purpose other than an improvement project. Each development zone agency certified by the Department of Commerce must file with the Department of Commerce annual financial statements audited in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and in accordance with Government Audit Standards developed by the Comptroller General of the United States. The annual statements are required each time the agency receives a contribution eligible for the credit allowed under this section until the entire contribution has been used for improvement projects. If the Department of Commerce determines that a development zone agency has used part or all of a contribution for any purpose other than an improvement project, the Department must notify the Secretary of Revenue of the forfeiture, the taxpayer who made the contribution, and the amount forfeited."

The Secretary shall prescribe the periods of time, whether monthly, quarterly, semiannually, or otherwise, with respect to which refunds may be claimed, and shall prescribe the time within which, following these periods, an application for refund may be made.

An applicant for refund shall furnish the following information and any proof of the information required by the Secretary:

(1) A list identifying the fuel, lubricants, repair parts, and accessories purchased by the applicant inside or outside this State during the refund period.
(2) The purchase price of the items listed in subdivision (1) of this subsection.

For each applicant, the Secretary shall compute the amount to be refunded as follows. First, the Secretary shall determine the ratio of the number of miles the applicant operated its motor vehicles, railroad cars, locomotives, and airplanes in this State during the refund period to the number of miles it operated them both inside and outside this State during the refund period. Second, the Secretary shall determine the applicant's proportional liability for the refund period by multiplying this mileage ratio by the purchase price of the items identified in subdivision (1) of this subsection and then multiplying the resulting product by the tax rate that would have applied to the items if they had all been purchased in this State. Third, the Secretary shall refund to each applicant the excess of the amount of sales and use taxes the applicant paid in this State during the refund period on these items over the applicant's proportional liability for the refund period."

PART III. AFFORDABLE HOUSING TAX CREDIT

Section 10. The title of Article 3B of Chapter 105 of the General Statutes reads as rewritten:

"ARTICLE 3B.

"Business Tax ~~Credit.~~ Credits."

Section 11. Article 3B of Chapter 105 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 105-129.16A. Credit for low-income housing.

(a) Credit. -- A taxpayer that is allowed for the taxable year a federal income tax credit for low-income housing under section 42 of the Code with respect to a qualified North Carolina low-income building, is allowed a credit under this Article equal to twenty-five percent (25%) of the total federal credit allowed during the 10-year federal credit period with respect to that building. The credit must be taken in equal installments over the five years beginning in the first taxable year in which the federal credit is claimed for that building.

(b) Definitions. -- The definitions in section 42 of the Code apply in this section. In addition, as used in this section the term 'qualified North Carolina low-income building' means a qualified low-income building that meets any of the following conditions:

(1) It is located in an area that, at the time the federal credit is allocated to the building, is a tier one or two enterprise area, as defined in G.S. 105-129.3, or is a development zone, as defined in G.S. 105-129.3A.

(2) It is located in an area that, at the time the federal credit is allocated to the building, is a tier three or four enterprise area, and forty percent (40%) of its residential units are both rent-restricted and occupied by individuals whose income is fifty percent (50%) or less of area median gross income as defined in the Code.

(3) It is located in an area that, at the time the federal credit is allocated to the building, is a tier five enterprise area, and forty percent (40%) of its residential units are both rent-restricted and occupied by individuals whose income is thirty-five percent (35%) or less of area median gross income as defined in the Code.

(c) Expiration. -- If, in one of the five years in which an installment of the credit under this section accrues, the taxpayer is no longer eligible for the corresponding federal credit with respect to the same qualified North Carolina low-income building, then the credit under this section expires and the taxpayer may not take any remaining installment of the credit. The taxpayer may, however, take the portion of an installment that accrued in a previous year and was carried forward to the extent permitted under G.S. 105-129.17.

(d) Forfeiture. -- If the taxpayer is required under section 42(j) of the Code to recapture all or part of a federal credit under that section with respect to a qualified North Carolina low-income building, the taxpayer forfeits the corresponding part of the credit allowed under this section with respect to that qualified North Carolina low-income building. A taxpayer that forfeits a credit under this section is liable for all past taxes avoided as a result of the credit plus interest at the rate established under G.S. 105-241.1(i), computed from the date the taxes would have been due if the credit had not been allowed. The past taxes and interest are due 30 days after the date the credit is forfeited; a taxpayer that fails to pay the past taxes and interest by the due date is subject to the penalties provided in G.S. 105-236."

Section 12. Reserved.

Section 13. G.S. 105-129.17 reads as rewritten:

"§ 105-129.17. Tax election; cap.

(a) Tax Election. -- The ~~credit~~ credits allowed in this Article ~~is~~ are allowed against the franchise tax levied in Article 3 of this Chapter or the income taxes levied in Article 4 of this Chapter. The taxpayer must elect the tax against which ~~the~~ a credit will be claimed when filing the return on which the first installment of the credit is claimed. This election is binding. Any carryforwards of ~~the~~ a credit must be claimed against the same tax.

(b) Cap. -- The ~~credit~~ total credits allowed in this Article may not exceed fifty percent (50%) of the tax against which ~~it is~~ they are claimed for the taxable year, reduced by the sum of all other credits allowed against that tax, except tax payments made by or on behalf of the taxpayer. This limitation applies to the cumulative amount of credit, including carryforwards, claimed by the taxpayer under this Article against each tax for the taxable year. Any unused portion of the ~~credit~~ credits may be carried forward for the succeeding five years."

Section 14. G.S. 105-129.18 reads as rewritten:

"§ 105-129.18. Substantiation.

To claim the ~~credit~~ credits allowed by this Article, the taxpayer must provide any information required by the Secretary of Revenue. Every taxpayer claiming a credit under this Article must maintain and make available for inspection by the Secretary of Revenue any records the Secretary considers necessary to determine and verify the amount of the credit to which the taxpayer is entitled. The burden of proving eligibility for the credit and the amount of the credit rests upon the taxpayer, and no credit may be allowed to a taxpayer that fails to maintain adequate records or to make them available for inspection."

Section 15. G.S. 105-129.19 reads as rewritten:

"§ 105-129.19. Reports.

The Department of Revenue shall report to the Legislative Research Commission and to the Fiscal Research Division of the General Assembly by May 1 of each year the following information for the 12-month period ending the preceding April 1:

(1) The number of taxpayers that claimed the ~~credit~~ credits allowed in this Article.

(2) The cost of business property with respect to which business property credits were claimed.

(2a) The location of each qualified North Carolina low-income building with respect to which a low-income housing credit was claimed.

(3) The total cost to the General Fund of the credits claimed."

Section 16. G.S. 105-241.1(e) reads as rewritten:

"(e) Statute of Limitations. -- There is no statute of limitations and the Secretary may propose an assessment of tax due from a taxpayer at any time if (i) the taxpayer did not file a proper application for a license or did not file a return, (ii) the taxpayer filed a false or fraudulent application or return, or (iii) the taxpayer attempted in any manner to fraudulently evade or defeat the tax.

If a taxpayer files a return reflecting a federal determination as provided in G.S. 105-29, 105-130.20, 105-159, 105-160.8, 105-163.6A, or 105-197.1, the Secretary must propose an assessment of any tax due within one year after the return is filed or within three years of when the original return was filed or due to be filed, whichever is later. If there is a federal determination and the taxpayer does not file the required return, the Secretary must propose an assessment of any tax due within three years after the date the Secretary received the final report of the federal determination. ~~If~~

If a taxpayer forfeits a tax credit ~~pursuant to G.S. 105-163.014 or Article 3A of~~ or tax benefit pursuant to forfeiture provisions of this Chapter, the Secretary must assess any tax due as a result of the forfeiture within three years after the date of the forfeiture. If a taxpayer elects under section 1033(a)(2)(A) of the Code not to recognize gain from involuntary conversion of property into money, the Secretary must assess any tax due as a result of the conversion or election within the applicable period provided under section 1033(a)(2)(C) or section 1033(a)(2)(D) of the Code. If a taxpayer sells at a gain the taxpayer's principal residence, the Secretary must assess any tax due as a result of the sale within the period provided under section 1034(j) of the Code.

In all other cases, the Secretary must propose an assessment of any tax due from a taxpayer within three years after the date the taxpayer filed an application for a license or a return or the date the application or return was required by law to be filed, whichever is later.

If the Secretary proposes an assessment of tax within the time provided in this section, the final assessment of the tax is timely.

A taxpayer may make a written waiver of any of the limitations of time set out in this subsection, for either a definite or an indefinite time. If the Secretary accepts the taxpayer's waiver, the Secretary may propose an assessment at any time within the time extended by the waiver."

PART IV. INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT FUND CHANGES

Section 17. G.S. 143B-437.01(a) reads as rewritten:

"(a) Creation and Purpose of Fund. -- There is created in the Department of Commerce the Industrial Development Fund to provide funds to assist the local government units of the most economically distressed counties in the State in creating jobs in certain industries. The Department of Commerce shall adopt rules providing for the administration of the program. Those rules shall include the following provisions, which shall apply to each grant from the fund:

(1) The funds shall be used for (i) installation of or purchases of equipment for eligible industries, (ii) structural repairs, improvements, or renovations of existing buildings to be used for expansion of eligible industries, or (iii) construction of or improvements to new or existing water, sewer, gas, or electrical utility distribution lines or equipment for existing or new or proposed industrial buildings to be used for eligible industries. To be eligible for funding, the water, sewer, gas, or electrical utility lines or facilities shall be located on the site of the building or, if not located on the site, shall be directly related to the operation of the specific eligible industrial activity.

(1a) The funds shall be used for projects located in economically distressed counties except that the Secretary of Commerce may use up to one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) to provide emergency economic development assistance in any county that is documented to be experiencing a major economic dislocation.

(2) The funds shall be used by the city and county governments for projects that will directly result in the creation of new jobs. The funds shall be expended at a maximum rate of five thousand dollars ($5,000) per new job created up to a maximum of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) per project.

(3) There shall be no local match requirement if the project is located in an enterprise tier one area as defined in G.S. 105-129.3.

(4) The Department may authorize a local government that receives funds under this section to use up to two percent (2%) of the funds, if necessary, to verify that the funds are used only in accordance with law and to otherwise administer the grant or loan.

(5) No project shall be funded unless the Secretary of Commerce finds that the proposed project will not have a materially adverse effect on the environment. The Secretary of Commerce shall not make this finding unless the Secretary has first received a certification from the Department of Environment and Natural Resources that the proposed project will not have a materially adverse effect on the environment."

Extend Sunsets on Bill Lee Act and Business Property Credit. The William S. Lee Quality Jobs and Business Expansion Act was enacted in 1996, effective beginning with the 1996 tax year, with a sunset effective in 2002. The Act required the Department of Commerce to report annually on the credits allowed by the Act. Before 1996, North Carolina had made little use of tax incentives to lure businesses to the State. Even without incentives, North Carolina was consistently one of the top states in attracting industry. The array of credits authorized by the William S. Lee Act was viewed as an experiment, to be evaluated in five years to determine whether the incentives were cost effective and actually affected behavior, or merely provided tax reductions to businesses that would have located or expanded in any case. Section 1 of this bill would extend the 2002 sunset for an additional five years, to 2007.

The 1996 legislation that enacted the William S. Lee Act also provided a tax credit for investing in tangible personal property that is used by the taxpayer in connection with a business or for the production of income and is capitalized by the taxpayer for tax purposes under the Code. The amount of the credit is 4.5% of the cost of the property placed in service, not to exceed $4,500 per taxpayer per year. The credit must be taken in five equal installments beginning in the year the property is placed in service. This business property credit is less restricted than the credit for investment in machinery and equipment in that there is no minimum wage requirement, no minimum amount of investment requirement, and no [illegible] of business requirement. The business property tax credit is set to expire in 2002. Section 1 of this bill would extend the business property tax credit's 2002 sunset for an additional five years, to 2007.

Incentives for Interstate Passenger Air Carrier Hubs. This bill would provide three incentives for interstate passenger air carriers with hubs in this State. A hub is defined in Section 6 of the bill as the airport where the carrier has allocated at least 60% of its aircraft property tax value and at which the majority of its boarding passengers are connecting from other airports, not originating at that airport. The only carrier that meets this definition in North Carolina at this time is U.S. Airways, whose hub is in Charlotte. Midway Airlines, whose hub is at Raleigh-Durham, should qualify by the end of 1999.

The first incentive for passenger air carriers is to provide that the Bill Lee Act definition of central administrative offices includes centralized training offices at an air carrier's hub, effective beginning with the 1999 tax year. This change would allow the air carrier to qualify for the central administrative office credit, described below, as well as for the existing Bill Lee Act credit for creating jobs, credit for investing in machinery and equipment, credit for research and development, and credit for worker training. These credits could be taken with respect to the training center only.

The central administrative office credit is allowed to taxpayers that purchase or lease real property to be used as central administrative office property with 40 or more employees. The amount of the credit is equal to 7% of the eligible investment amount and may not exceed $500,000. The credit is taken in seven equal installments over the seven years following the taxable year in which the property is first used as a central administrative office.

The second incentive for passenger air carriers is a sales tax exemption for the carrier's purchases of aircraft lubricants, parts, and accessories for use at its hub, effective beginning May 1, 1999. These purchases would otherwise be subject to sales tax at 6%, but interstate air carriers are allowed a partial refund of the tax under G.S. 105-164.14(a). In 1998, the General Assembly enacted a similar exemption for air couriers (Federal Express), effective January 1, 2001.

The third incentive for passenger air carriers is a sales tax reduction from 6% to 1% with an $80 cap, for purchases of aircraft simulators for flight crew training for use at the hub, effective beginning May 1, 1999. The tax reduction would also apply to interstate air couriers. U.S. Airways plans to establish a flight crew training center at its Charlotte hub, where it would use aircraft simulators.

Incentive for Nonprofit Insurance Companies. Section 5 of this bill would provide a sales tax refund to certain nonprofit insurance companies for State and local taxes they pay on building materials, supplies, fixtures, and equipment that become a part of their real property and on capitalized computer systems hardware and software.. The refund would become effective beginning with taxes paid on May 1, 1999. The building materials refund expires for taxes pad on or after January 1, 2008. To qualify for this refund, the insurance company must be operated for the exclusive purpose of providing insurance products to nonprofit charitable organizations and their employees. In addition, the Secretary of Commerce must have certified that the insurance company will invest at least $20 million in this State. TIAA, which has announced plans to build an office in Mecklenburg County, fits this description.[1] If TIAA fails to make the $20 million investment within five years after it first receives a refund, it forfeits all refunds it received as a result of this incentive.

[1] There may be one or more other nonprofit insurance companies that could qualify, but only if they make a $20 million investment.

Incentives for Enterprise Tiers One and Two. The bill would provide three incentives for developm in enterprise tier one and two counties, which are the counties considered most in need of econo development based on high unemployment, low per capita income, and low population growth.[2] The first incentive extends all of the Bill Lee Act credits to electronic mail order houses that create at least 250 jobs located in an enterprise tier one or two county. The second incentive extends all of the Bill Lee Act credits to certain customer service centers located in an enterprise tier one or two county. An eligible customer service center is a subdivision of a telecommunications or financial services company that provides support services to the company's customers by telephone to support the company's products and services. To qualify, at least 60% of the center's calls must be incoming. This requirement will prevent telemarketing operations from qualifying. The credits allowed under the Bill Lee Act, which the bill would extend to these electronic mail order houses and customer service centers effective January 1, 2000, are the credit for creating jobs, the credit for investing in machinery and equipment, the credit for research and development, the credit for worker training, and the credit for investing in central administrative office property.

The third incentive allows an annual sales tax refund on taxes paid at 6% (6.5% in Mecklenburg County) on capitalized machinery and equipment sold to a taxpayer engaged in one of the businesses eligible for Bill Lee Act credits, for use in an enterprise tier one or two county. This provision would become effective for taxes paid on or after January 1, 2000. In addition to tier one and two customer service centers and electronic mail order houses discussed above, the following businesses are eligible for Bill Lee Act credits: air courier services, central administrative offices (with at least 40 new jobs), data processing, manufacturing, warehousing, and wholesale trade.

Incentives for Small Counties. This bill would allow certain counties to qualify for a lower enterp tier designation, effective January 1, 2000. Under the Bill Lee Act, all counties are divided into f enterprise tiers, ranked by economic distress as measured by a formula that combines unemployment, per capita income, and population growth. Those counties in lower-numbered tiers receive more favorable incentives than those in higher tiers. First, this bill changes the rules for assigning enterprise tier designations to provide that the tier number that would otherwise be assigned by the formula is reduced by one for counties that have a population of less than 50,000 and also have more than 18% of their residents below the federal poverty level. Under this provision, Alleghany, Ashe, Beaufort, Cherokee, Perquimans, Scotland, Vance, and Yancey Counties would move from tier two to tier one; Bladen, Hoke, Jones, Madison, Pamlico, and Pasquotank Counties would move from tier three to tier two; and Duplin, Greene, and Watauga Counties would move from tier four to tier three.

Second, the bill provides that a county that has a population of less than 25,000 cannot be designated higher than tier three. Under this provision, Polk and Currituck Counties would move from tier five to tier three.

Close Development Zone Loopholes. In 1998, the General Assembly amended the Bill Lee Act to provide additional incentives for businesses that locate or expand in development zones, which are economically distressed areas located within cities. The statutory conditions for qualifying as a development zone were designed to target only these relatively small, economically distressed areas. The statutory conditions contained loopholes, however, that allowed large areas outside of cities to qualify, even if they were not economically distressed throughout. This bill would close those loopholes, effective for development zone designations made on or after January 1, 2000.

The 1998 legislation defined a development zone as an area that meets all of the following conditions: (1) consists of one or more contiguous census tracts, block groups, or both, (2) has a population of 1,000 or more, at least 20% of whom are below the poverty level, and (3) is located at least partly in a city with a population over 5,000. This bill closes the loopholes in this definition by requiring that:

- Every census tract and census block group in the zone must be located in whole or in part within the primary corporate limits of the city.
- Every census tract and census block group in the zone must have more than 10% of its population below the poverty level, or must be immediately adjacent to a tract or group that has more than 20% of its population below the poverty level.
- None of the census tracts or census block groups may be located in another development zone.

This bill would also shorten the period during which designation as a development zone is effective, from four years to two years, and require zone applicants to notify every city in which part of the proposed zone would be located.

The following enhanced incentives apply in development zones: If a business locates in a development zone, the wage standard it has to meet is the same as for tier one counties -- slightly lower than the standard for other counties. In addition, if a business locates in a development zone, its maximum worker training credit is $1,000 rather than $500, it receives an additional $4,000 per job on its jobs tax credit, and there is no threshold for the credit for investing in machinery and equipment.

Credit for Development Zone Projects. This bill would create a new tax credit for taxpayers that contribute cash or property to certain nonprofit agencies to be used for an improvement project in a development zone. An improvement project is a project to construct or improve real property for community development purposes or to acquire real property and convert it for community development purposes. The new credit would become effective beginning with the 2000 tax year.

The credit allowed is 25% of the amount contributed by the taxpayer. The total amount of credits that may be allowed in a taxable year is capped at $4 million. Taxpayers are required to apply to the Secretary of Revenue for these credits. If the total amount applied for in a year exceeds $4 million, the Secretary will reduce each applicant's credit proportionally.

The credit is allowed for contributions to a development zone agency, defined as a community action agency, a community-based development organization, a community development corporation, a community development financial institution, a community housing development organization, or a local housing authority. To qualify for the credit, all of the following conditions must be met:

- The agency must contract in writing to use the contribution for an improvement project in a development zone and to repay the taxpayer with interest if the contribution is not so used.

- The Department of Commerce must certify that the agency will undertake an improvement proje[redacted] a development zone.[3] To support this certification, the agency must provide the Depart[redacted] documentation establishing the identity of the agency, the nature of the project, and that the project is for a community development purpose in a development zone.
- The taxpayer must be unrelated to the agency and must not control, be controlled by, or be under common control with the agency.
- The taxpayer must not receive anything of value for the contribution.

A taxpayer forfeits the tax credit for a contribution to the extent the development zone agency uses the contribution for anything other than an improvement project in a zone. Development zone agencies are required to file with the Department of Commerce annual, audited financial statements. If the Department of Commerce finds that any part of a contribution was used for a purpose other than an improvement project, it must notify the Department of Revenue of the resulting forfeiture.

Affordable Housing Tax Credit. Section 11 of the bill would create a new tax credit for rehabilitating or constructing low-income housing, effective for buildings allocated federal credits on or after January 1, 2000. The credit is equal to a percentage of the amount of the taxpayer's federal credit for low-income housing with respect to eligible North Carolina low-income housing. The credit is 75% for buildings located in tier one or two and 25% for buildings located in other tiers. North Carolina low-income housing is eligible if it meets one of the following conditions:

- It is located in a tier one or two enterprise area.
- It is located in a tier three or four enterprise area and has at least 40% of its residential units tha[redacted] rent-restricted and are occupied by individuals whose income is 50% or less of area median gr[redacted] income.
- It is located in a tier five enterprise area and has at least 40% of its residential units that are rent-restricted and are occupied by individuals whose income is 35% or less of area median gross income.

The credit is not taken in one year but is spread out over five years beginning when the federal credit is first claimed for the building. The federal credit is first claimed either when the building is placed in service, or the next year, at the taxpayer's election. The federal credit is taken over eleven years.

The federal credit requires that either (1) at least 20% of the residential units are rent-restricted and occupied by individuals whose income is 50% or less of area median gross income or (2) at least 40% of the residential units are rent-restricted and occupied by individuals whose income is 60% or less of area gross income. By providing a higher credit for tier one and two projects and by limiting the State credit to projects that are either in tier one or two or serve lower-income residents, the bill is designed to steer investments toward these projects.

The federal credit requires that the low-income housing be used for that purpose for at least 30 years. If this requirement is not met, all or part of the taxpayer's credit is recaptured. Under the proposed State credit, if federal recapture is required, the taxpayer forfeits the North Carolina credit to the same extent. In addition, if the taxpayer no longer qualifies for the federal credit during one of the five years a State installment could otherwise be claimed, the taxpayer is no longer eligible for the State credit. This situation could occur if the taxpayer sold its interest in the low-income housing.

Under federal law, a limited amount of credit is allowed to each state each year, and these credits are allocated among applicants based on selection criteria designed to reward projects that will serve the lowest income tenants for the longest periods. At least 10% of the credits each year must be set aside for projects sponsored by nonprofits. The amount of federal credit allocated to North Carolina will be $9.2 million for the 2000 through 2002 tax years and is expected to increase to $13 million for the 2003 and 2004 tax years. By limiting the State credit to a percentage of the federal credit, the bill automatically caps the potential revenue loss to the State.

Extend Bill Lee Act Credits to Insurance Company Administrative Offices. This bill would allow all the Bill Lee Act credits to be taken against gross premiums tax, effective beginning in the 1999 tax year. Currently, only the real property credit for central administrative offices may be taken against gross premiums tax.

In 1997, the General Assembly (1) extended the Bill Lee Act credits to central administrative offices that created at least 40 new jobs and (2) created a new tax credit for taxpayers who purchase or lease real property to be used as central administrative office property. In 1998, the General Assembly allowed the real property credit for central administrative offices to be taken against the gross premiums tax as well as against the income tax and the corporate franchise tax. Insurance companies pay gross premiums tax in lieu of income tax. The 1998 legislation did not change the rule that the other Bill Lee Act credits could be taken against only income tax and corporate franchise tax. The 1998 change created a situation in which insurance companies and other businesses are treated differently with respect to central administrative offices. A business, other than an insurance company, that builds a central administrative office can take against income tax not only the real property credit for that office, but also the jobs credit, the investment tax credit, and the worker training credit. An insurance company can take against gross premiums tax only the real property credit, but not the jobs credit, the investment tax credit, or the worker training credit. By extending the other Bill Lee Act credits to gross premiums tax, this bill would provide uniform treatment for insurance companies and other businesses that build central administrative offices.

Quality Jobs Assurance. The purpose of the original William S. Lee Act was to provide incentives for "high quality jobs." Accordingly, under current law, only certain industries qualify for the Bill Lee Act credits and a taxpayer must meet a wage standard with respect to the jobs at the locations for which it claims a credit. This bill would add three additional standards to assure that credits are allowed only with respect to high quality jobs. First, the taxpayer would be required to pay at least 50% of basic health insurance coverage for the full-time positions for which it takes a credit. Second, the taxpayer would be required to certify that the business location with respect to which it claims a credit has not had a significant environmental violation in the last five years and has no pending enforcement actions for significant environmental violations. Third, the taxpayer would be required to certify that the business location with respect to which it claims a credit has no outstanding or unresolved OSHA citations and has had no serious violation within the last three years. The Department of Environment and Natural Resources and the Department of Labor would be authorized to audit the environmental and OSHA certifications, respectively, and report to the Department of Revenue if they determine that a certification was inaccurate.

Application, Fee, and Information Changes. A taxpayer that wishes to claim a Bill Lee Act credit must apply to the Department of Commerce for certification that it meets the eligibility requirements for the credit. The application must include information to enable the Department of Commerce to determine the applicant's eligibility, and be accompanied by a $75 fee to defray part of the costs of administering the program. This bill would require applicants to include information necessary to enable the Department of Commerce to provide data required in its periodic reports to the General Assembly. This data will assist the General Assembly in evaluating the cost effectiveness of the Bill Lee Act credits.

The bill would also eliminate the $75 fee for credits claimed with respect to enterprise tier one and two counties. For other credits, the fee is increased to $500 per credit claimed, not to exceed $1,500 per taxpayer. The Department of Commerce would retain ¼ of the fee proceeds for the costs of administering the program, and remit the remaining proceeds to the Department of Revenue for its use in administering and auditing the Bill Lee Act credits. These changes become effective 30 days after the bill becomes law.

The Bill Lee Act incentives recommended by the Department of Commerce over the last four years have contained many conditions and standards a taxpayer must meet in order to be eligible for the incentives. The incentives also contain what are known as "clawback" provisions, which require a taxpayer to forfeit a targeted incentive if it turns out the taxpayer did not meet the conditions for qualifying for the incentive, and to lose future installments of a tax credit if the job or investment on which the credit was based does not remain in place. This bill would amend G.S. 105-129.7 to require taxpayers that claim Bill Lee Act credits to include with their tax returns information about whether the jobs and investments have remained in place and whether other conditions have been met. Section 2.1 of this bill would allow the Department of Revenue to share this information with the Employment Security Commission and the Department of Commerce; this sharing could enable the Department of Commerce to evaluate whether the incentives are accomplishing their purpose of creating high-quality jobs throughout the State.

Clarify Business Definitions and Refunds. This bill would clarify the statutory definitions of the types of businesses that are eligible for the Bill Lee Act credits. In 1998, the General Assembly changed statutory references from the Standard Industrial Classifications (SIC) to the North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) to conform to the federal system adopted effective January 1, 1999. This system is used to classify most of the data available about industries or kinds of business in the economy. Upon review of the NAICS system, it was discovered that further terminology changes were needed to the Bill Lee Act definitions to assure that the credits would be available to the types of businesses covered by the prior law's definitions.

Section 9 of this bill would clarify that interstate air carriers are allowed a partial refund of sales taxes paid on fuel, effective October 1, 1999. This clarification will not change the way the law is currently administered.

Research and Development Credit. This bill would modify the research and development credit so that it would not automatically expire if the corresponding federal credit expires. The credit for research and development is allowed only to taxpayers that claim one of the federal research and development credits. In past years, the federal credit has expired and then been renewed retroactively, creating uncertainty for taxpayers. This bill amends the State credit so that it is based on the federal credit as of January 1, 1999. Expiration of the federal credit will not affect the State credit. If the federal credit is later modified, the General Assembly can consider whether to update its cross-reference to adopt the federal modifications.

Industrial Development Fund Environmental Certification. Section 17 of this bill would require, as a condition for funding from the Industrial Development Fund (Building Renovation Fund), that a project receive certification from the Department of Environment and Natural Resources that it will not have a significant adverse effect on the environment. This change would become effective when the bill becomes law.

Commerce to Pursue Interstate Cooperative Efforts. Section 18 of this bill requires the Department of Commerce to encourage reasonable interstate agreements and federal legislation to control the use of excessive incentives in interstate competition in luring businesses from one state to another. The Department is to report on these efforts by March 1, 2000, and March 1, 2001.

Sunset Tax Credits Every Five Years. The corporate and individual income tax laws include numerous tax credits that have been enacted over the years in order to encourage behavior considered beneficial to the State. These tax credits are tax expenditures that, like appropriations, spend public funds for the benefit of certain businesses, interest groups, and other taxpayers. Unlike appropriations, however, these tax credits may continue in perpetuity, without periodic review by the General Assembly. In order to allow the General Assembly the opportunity to consider each tax credit on its merits from time to time to determine whether it continues to serve a public purpose that justifies its cost to the public, Section 19 of this bill states that the tax credits should be sunset at least every five years. The bill states that those businesses, interest groups, and other taxpayers who benefit from the tax credits are encouraged to come forward to demonstrate the continued need for each tax credit as the sunset date approaches. The bill states that it is the intent of the General Assembly to review the tax credits and renew all that continue to serve a valid public purpose. Section 20 of the bill provides for the first sunset date for most tax credits. The sunsets are provided in 2003 and 2005, so that the review can take place in the long session of the General Assembly. The sunset dates are staggered to avoid the need to review an excessive number of credits in one year. The only tax credits not addressed in Section 20 are (1) those that already have a sunset date, (2) the recently enacted investment incentives for recycling facilities, (3) the $60 per child credit for children, (4) the credit for the dependent care expenses, and (5) the credit for the disabled.

CVS bringing center, up to 600 new jobs to Warren County

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CVS Corp. announced yesterday that it will build a distribution center employing up to 600 in low-income Warren County and close its center seven miles away in Henderson.

Executives with CVS, the nation's largest drugstore chain, joined Gov. Jim Hunt in Warrenton to announce construction of the $60 million center in Manson. The 750,000-square-foot center for N.C. CVS stores will be in Manson and employ 250 workers initially, but the company said it plans to add 350 more workers by 2002.

The short trip from Henderson to Manson could mean up to $3.4 million in extra tax credits for CVS because it would create new jobs in a county identified among the state's poorest by legislators and the Commerce Department. CVS will close its Henderson distribution center when the Manson one opens. The nearly 200 employees at the Henderson center will be transferred to Manson.

CVS will pay employees an average of $26,400 a year, according to a news statement from Hunt's office. Warren County's median annual wage is $17,345. "This investment is a positive step for CVS and Warren County, and shows the promise of opportunity for rural North Carolina," Hunt said in the statement.

The center should be completed by late next year or early 2001. CVS plans to equip it with computerized sorting and conveyor systems. CVS said it would have been too expensive to retrofit and expand the Henderson center with the new equipment, said Linda Weiner, a Commerce Department spokeswoman.

"This is a much better move for us," said Todd Andrews, a spokesman for the company, based in Woonsocket, R.I.

North Carolina was one of several states competing for the high-tech center, Weiner said.

CVS is eligible for tax credits under the William S. Lee Quality Jobs and Expansion Act for every new job it creates. Under the law, the state's 100 counties are divided into five tiers based on population growth, unemployment and per-capita income.

Tier One counties, such as Warren County, receive the highest credits, $12,500 a job. CVS is moving from Vance County, a Tier Two county where companies can receive credits of $4,000 for each new job.

Should CVS increase its work force in Warren County from 200 to 600 by 2002, it would be rewarded with tax credits totaling $5 million. If the new jobs had been created in Vance County, the company would have received $1.6 million in credits, $3.4 million less.

Andrews and Weiner said that the higher tax credits in Warren County played a role in CVS choosing the state, but said that the company had not pitted Warren County against Vance County.

Onslow jobs plentiful as '99 begins

Low unemployment rate attributed to growth in several Onslow County economic areas

BY FRANCINE SAWYER
DAILY NEWS STAFF

New restaurants, telemarketing firms and a robust economy are contributing to a lower unemployment rate as Onslow County heads into the new year.

Unemployment figures for Jacksonville and Onslow County, which have held steady for more than a year, fell in November to 3.4 percent. The numbers, tabulated in November, reflect a trend statewide. Fifty-seven of 100 North Carolina counties reported lower unemployment numbers for the month.

Jacksonville's unemployment rate was 3.7 percent in October.

Ralph Leeds, N.C. Employment Security Commission Manager in Jacksonville said the rate has held steady for the past 18 months.

He contributed it to the military bases in Onslow County and the fact that tourism and seasonal work do not cause the figures to fluctuate so wildly as in coastal counties and towns such as Wilmington and Morehead City.

Jacksonville's labor force is 45,890 and employment was 44,340 while there were 1,500 unemployed.

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENS AFFECTED: Department of Revenue

EFFECTIVE DATE: Taxes paid on or after January 1, 2000.

AMENDMENT SUMMARY: If a business is eligible for the Bill Lee Act tax credits and located in a Tier 1 or 2 county, a state and local sales and use tax refund would be granted on the purchase of building materials, building supplies, fixtures, and equipment that become a part of real property. In addition, the purchaser must, within 3 years of receiving the refund, use the proceeds for site development, infrastructure, or other real property improvements in a Tier 1 or 2 county.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY: The first step in the analysis was to estimate a hypothetical refund amount for the whole state. This was accomplished by reviewing a number of sources of potential data on plant and equipment investment and attempting to adjust the data to fit the definition of eligible items for refund. Some data reviewed includes 1998 annual business investment and job creation tabulation of the N.C. Department of Commerce, state sales tax data tabulated for lumber and building material merchants and electrical contractors, national data on investment in industrial buildings (allocated by FRD to North Carolina), and the 1992 Census of Manufacturers for North Carolina (contained investment data). After reviewing this data, a statewide number was selected that represented a consensus of all of the sources.

The next step was to allocate the data to the Tier 1 and 2 counties. This was achieved by reviewing county specific data on business announcement of the Department of Commerce, personal property tax data, and sales tax data for lumber and building material dealers. A consensus of these allocation factors suggested that 5.5% of the purchases would be made by businesses in Tier 1 and 2 counties.

Finally, an adjustment was made for the fact that some of the equipment purchases by manufacturers may be taxed at 1%, $80 limit, versus the assumed 4% state and 2% local tax for other items. This adjustment reduces the state cost and means that the local cost is slightly less than 50% of the state cost because there is no local tax on items taxed at less than the full state rate.

TECHNICAL CONSIDERATIONS: The refunds are granted during the state fiscal year following the fiscal year of purchase. The estimate for the first full year was grown by 6.3%, which approximates the estimated statewide growth of personal income used in the budget forecast Due to the lack of state or national data that conforms exactly to the definition of items eligible for the tax refund, the estimates provided should be considered approximations.

To: Members of the House Finance Committee

The Jones County Commissioners employed Masters and Associates to evaluate the problem we have with the tier formula. He has prepared the attached report which is a comparative study of the State of North Carolina Enterprise Tier System and other provisions authorized by the William S. Lee Act.

Presently, the William S. Lee Act is under consideration for amendment that would provide for a slightly more equitable way of determining tier classification and development zone designation for all 100 counties in the State.

Unfortunately, although an improvement, the proposed amendment does not go far enough. This amendment proposes various "exceptions" to the methods used to classify tier classification when what is really needed is a modification to the formula used at this time.

The enclosed report is an analysis of the current method used to assign tier classifications and development zones. We have also included suggested legislative changes to the House Bill 1303 amendment. We hope that given the opportunity, this material will allow you to see the current deficiencies in the William S. Lee Act and its unfairness to small rural counties like Jones.

Respectfully,

Larry P. Meadows

ECONOMIC DEVELOPER

Senator John Kerr
526 Legislative Office Building
Raleigh, NC 27601

Dear Senator Kerr:

SUBJECT: Further Tier Level Analysis

Robert Masters and Pete Miller briefed me on their May 27 meeting with you regarding the tier comparison analysis with all Tier One counties using several different economic factor options. Mr. Masters reported that you would be interested to see the three options he was using in his comparison used on all 100 counties in order to see how much "movement" there would be by the counties from one tier to the other. We would also like to see this done. We prefer using the following economic factors to determine distress and how all 100 counties would fall out in the different tiers. These factors were used in our Option 2.

% Population Growth
Median Family Income
Average Three-Year Unemployment Population Density (Square Mile)
Poverty Rate
% Manufacturing Jobs

All three of the different economic factor options are attached. We further recommend that the Commerce Department use 20 positions in each tier level using the three suggested options. We would like to see how the counties fall out in such a scenario in addition to the number of county positions in the current tiers. We are also curious as to how the number of county positions in each tier was determined. Tier 1 has 13 counties. Tier 2 has 14. Tier 3 has 26. Tier 4 has 25, and Tier 5 has 25 counties.

We wholeheartedly agree with you that these further comparisons need to be made, and we strongly recommend that you and other legislators require the Commerce Department to make these comparisons and report back to you and other legislators. We also want a copy. Please advise me whether or not you feel comfortable in asking Commerce to do this additional comparison.

One last thought—we believe that the population exceptions you made in SB 1115, and which are contained in HB 1303, are not the answer in determining true economic distress of the counties. These exceptions will probably lead to further exceptions and will leave the tier system in total disarray.

Respectfully,

Roy Fogle

Fairness & Equity in the William S. Lee Act

Executive Summary

History of the Enterprise Tier System

In 1996, the North Carolina General Assembly enacted the William S. Lee Quality Jobs and Business Expansion Act to provide modest incentives for business and industrial growth in our State. This Act established several types of important tax credits for new jobs that may be created. The actual amount of credit received is directly related to an Enterprise Tier Classification. Five Tiers have been established. All 100 counties are assigned to a Tier based on a formula.

A county's tier classification is also very important when attempting to qualify as an applicant for various State sponsored grant programs. Generally speaking, the higher a county's tier classification, the less likely that county is to be rewarded financial assistance by the State of North Carolina. Many counties are unfamiliar with the methods used by the State to determine their "level of distress". For many counties, the method used has been de-facto standard and readily accepted without analysis.

Background

A Comprehensive Report on the Assignment of County Tier Classifications was prepared during November, 1997 for the County Commissioners in Jones County. This report was prepared because the elected officials in Jones County were concerned that the current method used by the State of North Carolina to determine "levels of distress" for all 100 counties was not fair and equitable in its application to small rural counties such as Jones.

That report evaluated the current method of determining Tier Classification. This was done by using other economic statistical data in addition to that data currently used, to compare the 13 counties in the North Carolina Global TransPark region. Appendix A is the current Tier Ranking for all 100 counties. Appendix B is the ranking of distress for the 13 Global TransPark counties using various economic factors. Essentially, that report indicated that when other standard statistical data was evaluated in addition to the three limited factors currently used by the State, the ranking of

Jones County compared to other counties was far more accurate and consistent.

1. The findings of this report indicated that a change in the current formula used to calculate distressed was needed.

2. The use of more economic data, rather than merely the three statistics currently used, provided a much more accurate level of distress for all 100 counties.

This Addendum Report is a further compilation of data that compares levels of distress for Jones, Duplin, and Greene County with those 13 counties currently ranked Tier 1 or most distressed by the State of North Carolina Commerce Department. Once again, additional economic statistical data was used and the results were the same. The more factors considered in the formula, the more accurate the results and ranking of the counties. When more than the three factors currently used were included in the ranking, Jones, Duplin and Greene counties became more competitive with existing Tier 1 counties. This report examines the reasons for this disparity.

Inconclusive Data

Currently, the North Carolina Department of Commerce uses only three (3) economic and demographic indicators to measure the level of economic distress for all 100 counties. Appendix D shows the current method used to determine Tier Classification and three other options that were considered but not used. The use of only three factors is a basic flaw in the current system. Whatever methodology is used, it must embrace a broader range of indicators that measure distress in vastly different counties throughout our state.

Fairness & Equity in the William S. Lee Act

Current Economic Factors Used

1. Ranking by three (3) year average unemployment rate
2. Ranking by three (3) year average per capita income
3. Ranking by percentage (%) growth in population

Flaws in Current System:

1. Only 3 Factors Used. Is not Comprehensive Enough
2. Uses Per Capita Income as a Measurement of Income Levels. Nearly All Other Government Programs Use Median Family Income.
3. Does not rank small, rural counties with low population densities.
4. Does not measure levels of poverty.
5. Does not measure economic activity from retail sales and resultant sales tax revenues for the counties.
6. Does not measure the development of manufacturing jobs which is a principal goal of economic development.

Fairness & Equity in the William S. Lee Act

Why Not Per Capita Income?

1. Per Capita Income is based on an average statistical measurement. Any use of averages is unfair to counties with smaller populations. This is because a few higher income persons can greatly skew what appears to be the working person's disposable income.

2. Since the last 1990 Census, per capita income includes much more than personal family earnings such as:
   - Corporate Income
   - Farm Subsidies
   - Transfer Payments

3. Even the State Commerce Department admits that per capita income is not an accurate measure of wealth. The reason Commerce used per capita income instead of median family income was because only the former was available each year. Right now, the State Data Center has median family income data for 1998.

Results

The result of using such a limited scope for ranking distress is that smaller, rural, and poor counties find themselves ranked in the same Tier with other counties that are much more affluent.

The assignment of a proper and equitable tier classification is vitally important because benefits in the form of the Bill Lee Act Tax Incentives are distributed according to the assigned tier. Many grants offered by the State of North Carolina also use the tier classification system to assist in determining the need for a grant.

Small, rural counties need to be able to offer more of these incentives since they lack other financial resources to use for recruiting new industrial clients.

New Statistical Analysis

Appendix E – A matrix of statistical data and various options for using additional distress criteria. Note the affect of using additional criteria on the ranking between counties.

Conclusions

1. The current methods used to calculate levels of distress are far too simplistic and incomplete. Other vital characteristics and economic factors must be included in the determination of distress.

2. "Exceptions" to tier classifications such as those presented in the current Senate Bill 1115 would not be necessary if the method used to calculate distress was more diversified and complete. Any blanket exceptions will be unfair to certain counties and over time, result in other exceptions being granted.

The North Carolina Department of Commerce published a document titled Enterprise Tier Formula Report, dated April 15, 1999. That report analyzed seven (7) economic indicators and proposed four (4) options for using those factors in a formula for determining distress for all 100 counties. Some of the economic indicators used were not "standard" or used extensively by professional economic developers or even the Federal government.

None of the options presented in their report used median family income as a statistical measurement. The Commerce report stated that "none of the options presented yielded significant different results.." This is only true because more diversified and meaningful data was not used.

This Report needs to be expanded to include the more standard indicators presented in this report for all 100 counties.

Fairness & Equity in the William S. Lee Act

Tier System Recommendations

1. Eliminate Per Capita Income and Substitute Median Family Income as a more accurate measurement of income levels consistent with other Federal and State Programs.
2. Add the Most Current Actual or Estimated Poverty Rate to the Calculation. Currently, the U. S. Census Bureau has published estimated poverty rates for 1995.
3. Add Population Density to the Calculation. Density is a More Accurate Method of Identifying rural counties. Rural Counties Have a Low Population Density and Comparatively Lower Total Populations. The County's Population and Density Aid in Identifying Those Counties with a Limited Tax Base and Financial Resources.
4. Add an Economic Indicator that Measures the Number of Manufacturing Jobs. One Primary Purpose of the Bill Lee Act is to Attract New Manufacturing Firms. Progress in this Regard should be Measured.
5. Add Gross Retail Sales to the Mix. This Statistic Measures Overall Economic Prosperity and it also Measures the County's Ability to Generate Sales Tax Revenue.
6. Redistribute the Tier Structure to Have 20 Counties In Each Tier Classification. This Would Result in More Counties in the Lower Tiers Than Are Present Today.

Recommended Changes in Development Zones

The current requirements for establishing an Economic Development Zone under the William S. Lee Act are also unfair to rural counties.

Provisions need to be made for counties with a total population of less than 25,000 that do not have a municipality greater than 5,000 people. An additional requirement should be that the county must have at least one census tract where poverty exceeds 20%. Under this change, the following counties would be eligible for the establishment of development zones.

We concur with this option presented in the recently completed study by the Department of Commerce but feel that any population requirement should be lifted since some counties such as Jones, have no cities with populations of at least 1,000 people.

See Next Page for Potential Development Zone Counties.

Action Needed

1. Suspend further action on HB 1303 until further analysis is conducted using additional statistical criteria. Although the provisions of the amendment offered by HB 1303 improve the current Tier Classification System, the changes involve "exceptions" to the results of a flawed formula.

2. Changes to the Lee Act should not be predicated on "exceptions". Make changes to the formula that take into consideration the "exceptions" for small counties as proposed in the proposed amendment.

3. Adopt the enterprise tier formula presented as Option #2 and changes to the Economic Development Zone criteria presented in this report as the most fair and equitable to all 100 counties in the State of North Carolina. See Appendix E for the six economic indicators used in this proposed formula.

Proposed Legislation is attached as Appendix F.

Legislative Note

If these proposed amendments presented to the General Assembly cannot be adopted during this session, then the Department of Commerce should be directed to perform a complete analysis of the Tier Classification System using the seven (7) statistical criteria presented in this report. This analysis should also include provisions for placing 20 counties in each of the five tier designations.

THE JONES COUNTY ECONOMIC DISTRESS STUDY

November, 1997

The Jones County Commissioners commissioned a study to look at, compare and analyze 16 different economic statistical factors that are indicators of economic distress and/or economic growth using the 13 Global TransPark Region counties as the study base. In 1997, Jones County is a Tier 3 county using the three factors that the Commerce Department relies on.

This Study ranked Jones County 13th (at the economic distress bottom) nine (9) times. Jones ranked number one in the Per Capita Income category, ahead of Greenville, (Pitt County); Goldsboro (Wayne county); New Bern, (Craven County); Kinston (Lenoir County); Jacksonville, (Onslow County); Wilson (Wilson County); and Rocky Mount (Nash – Edgecomb Counties).

Tier Formula Options Presented by Commerce Department Study

OPTIONS

After an extensive analysis of these various enterprise tier formula options the Department, with the aid of the W.S. Lee Act Study Taskforce, narrowed the number of options to those that seemed the most appropriate in light of the aforementioned considerations. The analysis of the options included a rank order correlation (Note: Rank order correlation measures the closeness of the relationship between two sets of rankings.) This analysis revealed that there is very little difference in the rankings of counties under most methods. With this in mind, the taskforce chose the current method and three others as described below (See Appendix E for specific formula component definitions) for more in-depth analysis.

ENTERPRISE TIER FORMULA COMPONENTS

Option 1

- Population Growth (1990-1997)
- Unemployment Rate (36 Month Average: July 1995-June 1998)
- Per Capita Income (3 Year Average: 1995-1998)

Note: This is the method currently used.

Option 2

- Unemployment Rate (36 Month Average: July 1995-June 1998)
- Net Earnings per Capita (1996)
- Food Stamp Recipiency Rate (1997)

Note: This substitutes two measures correlated with poverty rates for population growth and per capita income measures.

Option 3

- Unemployment Rate (36 Month Average: July 1995-June 1998)
- Average Annual Private Insured Wage (1996)
- Food Stamp Recipiency Rate (1997)

Note: This substitutes a poverty measure for population growth and a measure of wages for per capita income.

Option 4

- Unemployment Rate (36 Month Average: July 1995-June 1998)
- Net Earnings per Capita (1996)
- Food Stamp Recipiency Rate (1997)
- Property Valuation per Capita (1997)

Note: This adds a measure of tax base and substitutes two measures correlated with poverty rates for population growth and per capita income measures.

The Endless Subsidy Cycle

GLORIA WHISENHUNT is mad. And while her anger is unlikely to alter the history of American government, it may well serve as a warning shot for politicians and economic development practitioners who are a little too quick with the cash.

Whisenhunt is a hairdresser from Forsyth County, North Carolina, where Winston-Salem is located. In 1996, after six years as a county school board member, she won election to the Forsyth County board of commissioners. The very first item on which she had to vote, she recalls, was a request from the local economic development organization that the county pay for the infrastructure serving a new industrial park. The county had to bear the cost, she and her fellow commissioners were told, because otherwise Forsyth County would be at a competitive disadvantage with other communities around the South that were paying such costs.

Reluctantly, she voted in favor of the payment, hoping that would be the end of it. But it wasn't. A short time later, the economic development specialists were back—this time asking the county to provide a cash subsidy to the first business seeking to move into the industrial park. She balked, and again the specialists insisted that if Forsyth did not take this step, the county would be placed in a competitive disadvantage. This time, she said no. As a small-business owner, she believed that giving subsidies to some businesses and not others wasn't fair. Also, she didn't see where or how the endless cycle of subsidies would stop. "I didn't feel like I was doing what I should be doing for existing taxpayers," says Whisenhunt.

And so Gloria Whisenhunt began a crusade to implement the economic development equivalent of a non-proliferation treaty. She drafted a model resolution that was passed by her colleagues on the Forsyth County board of commissioners. The resolution states the county's desire to eliminate cash subsidies to businesses for economic development purposes, and it commits the county to such a course of action—if most other local governments in the Southeast do so as well.

Whisenhunt soon began stumping the conventions of the county officials to encourage others to do the same. "Most communities publicly express their disapproval of incentives, yet many also admit to feeling addicted to the process," she would say in her stump speech. "Often, it is the smaller counties which have had some recent success with incentives that are the most reluctant to kick the habit." Her crusade got a lot of attention, not only in North Carolina but in economic development circles around the country.

The story of Gloria Whisenhunt would seem little more than a colorful yarn about a local commissioner tilting at windmills except for the fact that it came at a time when North Carolinians were debating the merits of economic incentives to lure prosperous businesses into specific locations around the state. Last year, after a vigorous debate, the legislature approved a law granting tax breaks to two businesses seeking to build new plants. Nucor Corp., a Charlotte-based steel company, received about $160 million in tax credits and tax exemptions for building a recycling plant in Hertford County, a rural area in northeastern North Carolina. And Federal Express received $115 million for building a sorting hub in Guilford County between Greensboro and Winston-Salem. The Nucor plant delivered 300 jobs, the FedEx hub 1,500.

The Nucor/FedEx deal was not the first piece of legislation in North Carolina permitting state and local tax breaks for economic development, but it was the most important. The resulting subsidies were sizable indeed. FedEx is one of America's most successful companies, yet the state was giving the company more than $76,000 per job. And the price tag for Nucor was more than a half-million dollars per job—a figure that exceeds even many of the sweetheart auto-plant deals of the 1980s and represents a big shift for a state that had resisted playing the smokestack-chasing game in recent years.

Politicians express a lot of concern about giving tax incentives to private business. But they vote for them anyway.

So, just as Gloria Whisenhunt suggested in her stump speech, a lot of North Carolina legislators played the issue both ways. They expressed concern about providing financial incentives to private companies—and then voted for the bill. Now that the bill has passed, North Carolina localities (especially rural ones) will have far more freedom to lure companies with tax breaks.

All of this means that Commissioner Whisenhunt is angrier than ever. So far, she's gotten very few takers on her non-proliferation idea. But the mere fact that she has been able to get so much publicity suggests that the spiraling trend toward economic development incentives has taken a toll on our state and local political system. And in that may lie the beginning of the end for ill-considered tax-incentive giveaways. G

EDITOR'S VIEWPOINT

Incentives resolution a good idea that won't fly

With her dignified manner and her soft southern accent, Gloria Whisenhunt does not come across as a revolutionary. Nor, I am certain, do her cohorts on the Forsyth County (N.C.) Board of Commissioners. But their resolution vowing to limit the use of incentives for economic development is the legislative equivalent of tossing tea in Boston Harbor. Unfortunately, it is destined to be much less successful.

Incentives, Whisenhunt believes, actually reverse Robin Hoodism taking money from the taxpayers and giving it to corporate America. The idea has always made her nervous. "I have a small business," she says, "and many of my friends have small businesses. All of us think it would have been a shot in the arm for us to have gotten a little help when we were starting out. But we didn't, and now we're being asked to spend our money to help the big guys?"

Forsyth County's resolution, which made the rounds at the July meeting of the National Association of Counties, elicits a number of responses. Some people get a wistful "If-Only" look in their eyes. Some just roll their eyes, and a few are downright hostile.

Many point out that, it's easy to be Forsyth County, home to Winston-Salem, and be opposed to incentives. Winston-Salem, they point out, has a median income of nearly $30,000, a Triple-A rating, an enviable quality of life, and a strong business community that is composed of both manufacturing and agriculture.

That is not true of, oh, say, Perry County, Ala. "This is a very depressed area," says Perry County Commissioner Johnny Flowers, whose area has benefitted from incentives that lured Mercedes-Benz to the state. "All people want is a job." Flowers, however, acknowledges the perception problem of offering taxpayer money to Mercedes-Benz at the same time every educational ranking that comes down the pike shows Alabama among the nation's bottom five states.

Additionally, not all businesses are thrilled with the idea of incentives. Long-time local companies, for example, are raising questions about the appropriateness of treating the new kid on the block better than the old stalwart.

Forsyth County officials know that theirs is an uphill climb. The resolution, in fact, points out that "it is difficult for one local government to unilaterally withdraw from the present ... environment without risking serious long-term consequences."

"People are reluctant to unilaterally disarm," says Forsyth County Commission Chairman Pete Brunstetter.

You've got to hand it to the Forsyth County commissioners though. It's not always easy being first, and that's a big windmill they're tilting at.

TAKING A STAND AGAINST THE USE OF INCENTIVES

by Gloria Whisenhunt

The use of incentives by state and local governments to attract new businesses has become a dangerous way of doing business. It has created a competition between communities that often results in neither the perceived winner nor the loser emerging victorious. It is little better than a blood-letting.

In North Carolina, the Forsyth County Board of Commissioners would like to see local and state governments voluntarily work together to restore common sense to the economic development process and business attraction. The board believes that the incentives race has gone too far.

Too often, companies are shopping all communities. This has the effect of distorting the proper role of government in the marketplace by pitting communities against each other in bidding contests that spiral out of control. What begins as a community's attempt to increase the number of jobs ends up more like extortion than economic development.

To put this in perspective, it is important to be clear about the role that governments should play in this process. Local governments should be about achieving: a good education system; adequate infrastructure; public safety; reasonable tax rates; and reasonable development regulations.

Local governments should not be about providing tax breaks and direct payments to industries, or public expenditures for anything other than traditional public purposes. These purposes may include: street and utility extensions; community college training programs; business recruitment and promotion; and site development where the local market is unable to provide the sites.

The time has come to stop the excessive tax breaks and the incentive gimmicks that are really direct cash payments to businesses. Voluntary restraint is the answer; otherwise Congress or the state legislatures may feel obliged to get involved in this and begin imposing their own regulations.

Taking Action

Forsyth County has already initiated a campaign to limit economic incentives and has received a mixed response. Most communities publicly express their disapproval of incentives, yet many also admit to feeling addicted to the process. They fear that they must remain on the incentives treadmill in order to grow and sustain their communities. Often, it is the smaller counties, which have had some recent success with incentives, that are the most reluctant to kick the habit.

Forsyth County, with a population of 280,000 people, has a healthy economy with a triple-A bond rating. The county has been very successful with competitive incentive packages and will continue with that game plan if it must.

However, it is the feeling of the county commissioners that what all local governments need is to give some thought to returning to their fundamental governmental responsibilities and allow the resulting quality of life that they are able to produce be what they offer in the economic development market place. To that end, on December 22, 1997, the Forsyth commissioners adopted the following model resolution encouraging local and state governments to limit the use of public funds for incentives for economic development:

"Whereas, the Forsyth County Board of Commissioners and most of the citizens of this community would prefer not to have to use public money to pay incentives to attract new businesses or to facilitate expansion of existing business; and,

Whereas, public expenditures for economic development should be limited to education, workforce development, the provision of roads, utilities and other infrastructure, recruitment and promotion; and development of business/industrial parks when adequate sites are not otherwise available; and,

Whereas, it is difficult for one local government to unilaterally withdraw from the present competitive economic development environment without risking serious long term economic consequences for the community and its citizens; and,

Whereas, state or federal legislation to regulate economic development strategies is not the most desirable way to correct the present situation of unhealthy competition using public funds.

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Forsyth County Board of Commissioners that all local and state governments are encouraged to voluntarily adopt economic development policies which do not rely on incentives. tax adjustments or other use of public funds, except for traditional public purposes, and

Be it further resolved that Forsyth County will actively and energetically promote this concept among state and local governments; and,

Be it further resolved that Forsyth County will discontinue the use of incentives with public funds, on or about January 1, 1999, if a substantial number of other local governments in North Carolina and the Southeast have adopted a similar policy."

Gloria D. Whisenhunt is a Commissioner of Forsyth County, North Carolina

Statement Concerning HB 1411

Gloria D. Whisenhunt
Member, Forsyth County Board of Commissioners

Good morning/afternoon. I am Gloria Whisenhunt, a member of the Forsyth County Board of Commissioners. We appreciate the opportunity to comment on this legislation.

We are here to speak in particular about Section 4 of this bill. Section 4 would require the Department of Commerce "to develop an interstate compact to prohibit or reduce the use of tax and economic incentives for interstate competition".

For about two years now, Forsyth County has been waging a campaign to encourage local governments to voluntarily end the incentives race. We believe that public expenditures on behalf of economic development should be limited to traditional public purposes such as street and utility extensions and community college training – not for other kinds of incentives that are nothing less than a cash contribution to an industry's bottom line.

We have pursued our case with the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners and the National Association of Counties. Our campaign has been noted in City and State magazine and in Governing magazine.

We find other local governments are sympathetic – they would like to quit the incentives rat race – but they are afraid to. Among North Carolina counties the biggest concern is often the fear of losing an industry to a county in Virginia or South Carolina. Our counties are concerned about the incentive packages offered by other states.

That's why the kind of interstate compact proposed in this legislation is so important. We are not as comfortable about the idea of federal legislation to reduce interstate competition. We wish the incentives race could be ended by voluntary agreements. But we have talked to many people who believe action at the federal level may be necessary.

We support the idea of developing an interstate compact to end or reduce the use of tax and economic incentives for interstate competition.

Thank you.

RESOLUTION ENCOURAGING LOCAL AND STATE GOVERNMENTS TO LIMIT THE USE OF PUBLIC FUNDS FOR INCENTIVES FOR ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

WHEREAS, the Forsyth County Board of Commissioners and most of the citizens of this community would prefer not to have to use public money to pay "incentives" to attract new businesses or to facilitate expansion of existing businesses; and,

WHEREAS, public expenditures for economic development should be limited to education, workforce development; the provision of roads, utilities and other infrastructure; recruitment and promotion; and, development of business/industrial parks when adequate sites are not otherwise available; and,

WHEREAS, it is difficult for one local government to unilaterally withdraw from the present competitive economic development environment without risking serious long term economic consequences for the community and its citizens; and,

WHEREAS, State or Federal legislation to regulate economic development strategies is not the most desirable way to correct the present situation of unhealthy competition using public funds.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Forsyth County Board of Commissioners that all local and state governments are encouraged to voluntarily adopt economic development policies which do not rely on incentives, tax adjustments or other use of public funds, except for traditional public purposes, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that Forsyth County will actively and energetically promote this concept among State and local governments; and,

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that Forsyth County will discontinue the use of incentives with public funds, on or about January 1, 1999, if a substantial number of other local governments in North Carolina and the Southeast have adopted a similar policy.

Onslow jobs plentiful as '99 begins

Low unemployment rate attributed to growth in several Onslow County economic areas

BY FRANCINE SAWYER
DAILY NEWS STAFF

New restaurants, telemarketing firms and a robust economy are contributing to a lower unemployment rate as Onslow County heads into the new year.

Unemployment figures for Jacksonville and Onslow County, which have held steady for more than a year, fell in November to 3.4 percent. The numbers, tabulated in November, reflect a trend statewide. Fifty-seven of 100 North Carolina counties reported lower unemployment numbers for the month.

Jacksonville's unemployment rate was 3.7 percent in October.

Ralph Leeds, N.C. Employment Security Commission Manager in Jacksonville said the rate has held steady for the past 18 months.

He contributed it to the military bases in Onslow County and the fact that tourism and seasonal work do not cause the figures to fluctuate so wildly as in coastal counties and towns such as Wilmington and Morehead City.

Jacksonville's labor force is 45,890 and employment was 44,340 while there were 1,500 unemployed.

AN ACT TO AUTHORIZE THE APPOINTMENT BY THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE OF THE SENATE OF MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE CERTIFICATION ENTITY FOR THE PHASE II SETTLEMENT FUNDS, TO PROVIDE THE MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS LIMITED IMMUNITY FROM CIVIL LIABILITY, AND TO PROVIDE AN EXEMPTION FROM STATE INCOME TAX FOR INTEREST, INVESTMENT EARNINGS, AND GAINS OF CERTAIN TRUST FUNDS.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1.(a) The General Assembly finds that:

(1) Philip Morris, Inc., Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corporation, Lorillard Tobacco Company, and R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company (hereinafter, the "tobacco companies") have proposed to create a National Tobacco Grower Settlement Trust under which the tobacco companies will pay, during a 12-year period, a base amount of approximately five billion one hundred fifty million dollars ($5,150,000,000) into a trust to provide payments to tobacco growers and allotment holders in 14 grower states, including North Carolina, for the purposes of ameliorating potential adverse economic consequences of likely changes in the tobacco market on grower states.

(2) The tobacco companies desire that the money paid into trust be divided among tobacco producers and allotment holders in accordance with a plan designed and approved by a certification entity in each state.

(3) The tobacco companies desire that in larger grower states, including North Carolina, the certification entity be a nonprofit corporation governed by a board of directors consisting of the following public officials and persons appointed by public officials: the Governor, who shall serve as chair of the board of directors; the Commissioner of Agriculture, who shall serve as vice-chair; the Attorney General, who shall serve as secretary; a State Senator appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate; a State Representative appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives; two members of the North Carolina congressional delegation; and four to seven citizens appointed by the Governor.

(4) It is in the public interest that these officials and citizens serve on the board of directors and determine the distribution of these private trust funds to tobacco producers and allotment holders in North Carolina.

Section 1.(b) The Governor, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate are authorized to appoint members of the board of directors of the certification entity as provided in Section 1.(a)(3), and the public officials referred to in Section 1.(a)(3) are authorized to serve on that board.

Section 1.(c) No member of the certification entity for the National Tobacco Grower Trust Fund is subject to civil liability for any act or omission arising out of the performance of the member's duties as a member or officer of the certification entity. This section does not apply to liability arising from willful or wanton misconduct, intentional wrongdoing, or the operation of a motor vehicle.

Section 2. G.S. 105-130.5(b) is amended by adding a new subdivision to read:

"(b) The following deductions from federal taxable income shall be made in determining State net income:

(18) Interest, investment earnings, and gains of a qualified settlement fund, the settlors of which are two or more manufacturers that signed a settlement agreement with this State to settle existing and potential claims of the State against the manufacturers for damages attributable to a product of the manufacturers, if it meets all of the following conditions:

a. The purpose of the fund is to address potential adverse economic consequences resulting from a decline in demand of the manufactured product expected to occur because of market restrictions and other provisions in the settlement agreement.

b. A court of this State approves and retains jurisdiction over the fund.

c. At least twenty-five percent (25%) of the distributions from the fund are made in accordance with certifications that meet the criteria in the settlement agreement and are made by a nonprofit entity, the governing board of which includes State officials."

Section 3. G.S. 105-134.6(b) is amended by adding a new subdivision to read:

"(b) Deductions. -- The following deductions from taxable income shall be made in calculating North Carolina taxable income, to the extent each item is included in taxable income:

(15) Interest, investment earnings, and gains of a trust, the settlors of which are two or more manufacturers that signed a settlement agreement with this State to settle existing and potential claims of the State against the manufacturers for damages attributable to a product of the manufacturers, if it meets all of the following conditions:

HOUSE BILL 74:
Phase II Funds/Immunity/Tax-Exempt

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House Finance	Introduced by:	Rep. Baker
Date:	June 24, 1999	Summary by:	Cindy Avrette
Version:	PCS for 2nd Edition		Committee Counsel
	H74-CSRB-6/23

SUMMARY: The finance portion of House Bill 74 is in sections 2 and 3 of the proposed committee substitute. These sections provide a corporate and trust income tax exemption for the interest, investment earnings, and gains of a trust that is established to compensate those who suffer economic loss as a result of a settlement agreement between North Carolina and one or more manufacturers to settle claims of the states against the manufacturers for damages arising from a product of the manufacturers.

BACKGROUND: Several states and tobacco manufacturers are parties to a Master Settlement Agreement dated November 23, 1998, that settled existing and potential claims of the states against the manufacturers for damages arising from the tobacco products of the manufacturers. The settlement agreement contains provisions, such as market restrictions, that are expected to result in a decline in demand for the tobacco products. As part of the consideration for settling the claims, the MSA obligates the parties to the agreement to address these economic concerns of the tobacco growers and tobacco quota holders.

To meet this requirement, the parties have agreed to establish a trust called the National Tobacco Grower Settlement Trust. The manufacturers have agreed to pay up to $5.15 billion over the next 12 years into the trust. Proceeds from the trust will be allocated directly to tobacco growers and tobacco allotment holders based on a state plan developed by a state board. The funds will not be paid to the state for disbursement. The Superior Court of Wake County must approve the trust and the payments made under it. A banking entity will serve as the trustee.

The trust is designed to be a qualified settlement fund under the Internal Revenue Code. As such, it is taxable as a corporate taxpayer at the rate of a trust. The primary benefit of being a qualified settlement fund is that the manufacturers who contribute the principal to the fund may claim a tax deduction on the contributions when they are paid into the fund. If it is determined that the trust does not meet the requirements of a qualified settlement fund, its taxation does not change because contributions to a trust are not included in its gross income. However, the manufacturers would not be able to claim a deduction on their contributions until the money is distributed to the growers and quota holders.

For federal and state tax purposes, the contributions to the trust are tax exempt. To calculate North Carolina taxable income for both corporations and trusts, one begins with federal taxable income. Since the contributions are not included in income for federal tax purposes, they are not included in income for State tax purposes. However, the interest, investment earnings, and gains, of both a qualified settlement fund and a trust are taxable for federal and State purposes. Some states exempt qualified settlement funds from state income tax. To maximize the amount of funds distributed to those who suffer economic loss because of the Master Settlement Agreement, it is desirable to locate the settlement fund in a state that does not tax it. Because of the State's role in producing the economic loss, and the desire to have the settlement fund be located in North Carolina, this bill exempts the interest, investment earnings, and gains of the settlement fund from State income tax.

BILL ANALYSIS: Section 2 of the bill provides a corporate tax deduction from federal taxable income on the interest, investment earnings, and gains earned on funds in a qualified settlement fund that meets the following conditions:

1. The settlors of the fund are two or more manufacturers that signed a settlement agreement with North Carolina to settle existing and potential claims of the State against the manufacturers for damages attributable to a product of the manufacturers.
2. The purpose of the fund is to address potential adverse economic consequences resulting from a decline in demand of the manufactured product expected to occur because of market restrictions and other provisions in the settlement agreement.
3. A court of North Carolina approves and retains jurisdiction over the fund.
4. At least 25% of the distributions from the fund are made in accordance with certifications that meet the criteria in the settlement agreement and are made by a nonprofit entity, the governing board of which includes State officials.

Section 3 of the bill provides a similar tax deduction for trusts. The provision is put in both the corporate and trust tax laws in case it is determined that the trust does not meet the requirements of a qualified settlement fund.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO STRENGTHEN THE SEDIMENTATION POLLUTION CONTROL ACT OF 1973 AND TO REQUIRE THAT THE EXAMINATION FOR A GENERAL CONTRACTOR'S LICENSE INCLUDE QUESTIONS THAT TEST AN APPLICANT'S KNOWLEDGE OF THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE SEDIMENTATION POLLUTION CONTROL ACT OF 1973.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. G.S. 113A-54.1 reads as rewritten:

"§ 113A-54.1. Approval of erosion control plans.

(a) A draft erosion control plan must contain the applicant's address and, if the applicant is not a resident of North Carolina, designate a North Carolina agent for the purpose of receiving notice from the Commission or the Secretary of compliance or noncompliance with the plan, this Article, or any rules adopted pursuant to this Article. The Commission shall approve, approve with modifications, or disapprove a draft erosion control plan for those land-disturbing activities for which prior plan approval is required within 30 days of receipt. The Commission shall condition approval of a draft erosion control plan upon the applicant's compliance with federal and State water quality laws, regulations, and rules. Failure to approve, approve with modifications, or disapprove a completed draft erosion control plan within 30 days of receipt shall be deemed approval of the plan. If the Commission disapproves a draft erosion control plan or a revised erosion control plan, it must state in writing the specific reasons that the plan was disapproved. Failure to approve, approve with modifications, or disapprove a revised erosion control plan within 15 days of receipt shall be deemed approval of the plan. The Commission may establish an expiration date for erosion control plans approved under this Article.

(b) If, following commencement of a land-disturbing activity pursuant to an approved erosion control plan, the Commission determines that the plan is inadequate to meet the requirements of this Article, the Commission may require any revision of the plan that is necessary to comply with this Article. Failure to approve, approve with modifications, or disapprove a revised erosion control plan within 15 days of receipt shall be deemed approval of the plan.

(c) The ~~Director of the Division of Land Resources~~ Commission shall disapprove an erosion control plan if ~~the plan, when implemented,~~ implementation of the plan would result in a violation of rules adopted by the Environmental Management Commission to protect riparian buffers along surface waters. The Director of the Division of Land Resources may disapprove an erosion control plan upon finding that an applicant or a parent, subsidiary, or other affiliate of the applicant:

(1) Is conducting or has conducted land-disturbing activity without an approved plan, or has received notice of violation of a plan previously approved by the Commission or a local government pursuant to this Article and has not complied with the notice within the time specified in the notice;

(2) Has failed to pay a civil penalty assessed pursuant to this Article or a local ordinance adopted pursuant to this Article by the time the payment is due;

(3) Has been convicted of a misdemeanor pursuant to G.S. 113A-64(b) or any criminal provision of a local ordinance adopted pursuant to this Article; or

(4) Has failed to substantially comply with State rules or local ordinances and regulations adopted pursuant to this Article.

(d) In the event that an erosion control plan is disapproved by the Director pursuant to subsection (c) of this section, the Director shall state in writing the specific reasons that the plan was disapproved. The applicant may appeal the Director's disapproval of the plan to the Commission. For purposes of this subsection and subsection (c) of this section, an applicant's record may be considered for only the two years prior to the application date."

Section 2. G.S. 113A-57(4) reads as rewritten:

"(4) No person shall initiate any land-disturbing activity on a tract if more than one acre is to be uncovered unless, 30 or more days prior to initiating the activity, an erosion and sedimentation control plan for such activity is filed with the agency having jurisdiction. The agency having jurisdiction shall forward to the Director of the Division of Water Quality a copy of each erosion and sedimentation control plan for a land-disturbing activity that involves the utilization of ditches for the purpose of de-watering or lowering the water table of the tract."

Section 3. G.S. 113A-61(b1) reads as rewritten:

"(b1) A local government shall condition approval of a draft erosion control plan upon the applicant's compliance with federal and State water quality laws, regulations, and rules. A local government shall disapprove an erosion control plan if ~~the plan, when implemented,~~ implementation of the plan would result in a violation of rules adopted by the Environmental Management Commission to protect riparian buffers along surface waters. A local government may disapprove an erosion control plan upon finding that an applicant or a parent, subsidiary, or other affiliate of the applicant:

(1) Is conducting or has conducted land-disturbing activity without an approved plan, or has received notice of violation of a plan previously approved by the Commission or a local government pursuant to this Article and has not complied with the notice within the time specified in the notice;

(2) Has failed to pay a civil penalty assessed pursuant to this Article or a local ordinance adopted pursuant to this Article by the time the payment is due;

(3) Has been convicted of a misdemeanor pursuant to G.S. 113A-64(b) or any criminal provision of a local ordinance adopted pursuant to this Article; or

(4) Has failed to substantially comply with State rules or local ordinances and regulations adopted pursuant to this Article."

Section 4. G.S. 113A-64(a) reads as rewritten:

"(a) Civil Penalties. --

(1) Any person who violates any of the provisions of this Article or any ordinance, rule, or order adopted or issued pursuant to this Article by the Commission or by a local government, or who initiates or continues a land-disturbing activity for which an erosion control plan is required except in accordance with the terms, conditions, and provisions of an approved plan, is subject to a civil penalty. The maximum civil penalty for a ~~violation, other than a violation of a stop-work order issued under G.S. 113A-65.1, is five hundred dollars ($500.00). The maximum civil penalty for a violation of a stop-work order~~ violation is five thousand dollars ($5,000). ~~No penalty shall be assessed until the person alleged to be in violation has been notified of the violation as provided in G.S. 113A-61.1(b).~~ A civil penalty may be assessed from the date ~~the notice of violation is served.~~ of the violation. Each day of a continuing violation shall constitute a separate violation.

(2) The Secretary or a local government that administers an erosion and sediment control program approved under G.S. 113A-60 shall determine the amount of the civil penalty and shall notify the person who is assessed the civil penalty of the amount of the penalty and the reason for assessing the penalty. The notice of assessment shall be served by any means authorized under G.S.

1A-1, Rule 4, and shall direct the violator to either pay the assessment or contest the assessment within 30 days by filing a petition for a contested case under Article 3 of Chapter 150B of the General Statutes. If a violator does not pay a civil penalty assessed by the Secretary within 30 days after it is due, the Department shall request the Attorney General to institute a civil action to recover the amount of the assessment. If a violator does not pay a civil penalty assessed by a local government within 30 days after it is due, the local government may institute a civil action to recover the amount of the assessment. The civil action may be brought in the superior court of any county where the violation occurred or the violator's residence or principal place of business is located. A civil action must be filed within three years of the date the assessment was due. An assessment that is not contested is due when the violator is served with a notice of assessment. An assessment that is contested is due at the conclusion of the administrative and judicial review of the assessment.

(3) In determining the amount of the penalty, the Secretary shall consider the degree and extent of harm caused by the violation, the cost of rectifying the damage, the amount of money the violator saved by noncompliance, whether the violation was committed willfully and the prior record of the violator in complying or failing to comply with this Article.

(4) Repealed by Session Laws 1993 (Reg. Sess., 1994), c. 776, s. 11.

(5) The clear proceeds of civil penalties collected by the Department or other State agency under this subsection shall be remitted to the Civil Penalty and Forfeiture Fund in accordance with G.S. 115C-457.2. Civil penalties collected by a local government under this subsection shall be credited to the general fund of the local government as nontax revenue."

Section 5. G.S. 113A-54.2(a) reads as rewritten:

"(a) The Commission may establish a fee schedule for the review and approval of erosion control plans under this Article. In establishing the fee schedule, the Commission shall consider the administrative and personnel costs incurred by the Department for reviewing the plans and for related compliance activities. ~~The total amount of fees collected under this section in any fiscal year may not exceed one-third of the total administrative and personnel costs incurred by the Department for reviewing the plans and for related compliance activities in the prior fiscal year.~~ An application fee may not exceed fifty dollars ($50.00) per acre of disturbed land shown on an erosion control plan or of land actually disturbed during the life of the project."

Section 6. G.S. 113A-61.1(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) If the Secretary, a local government that administers an erosion and sediment control program approved under G.S. 113A-60, or other approving authority determines that the person engaged in the land-disturbing activity has failed to comply with this Article, the Secretary, local government, or other approving authority shall immediately serve a notice of violation upon that person. The notice may be served by any means authorized under G.S. 1A-1, Rule 4. A notice of violation shall specify a date by which the person must comply with this Article and inform the person of the actions that need to be taken to comply with this Article. Any person who fails to comply within the time specified is subject to ~~the~~ additional civil and criminal penalties for a continuing violation as provided in G.S. 113A-64."

Section 7. G.S. 87-10(b), as amended by Section 1 of S.L. 1999-123, reads as rewritten:

"(b) The Board shall conduct an examination, either oral or written, of all applicants for license to ~~ascertain~~ ascertain, for the classification of license for which the applicant has applied: (i) the ability of the applicant to make a practical application of ~~his~~ the applicant's knowledge of the profession of ~~contracting;~~ contracting; ~~under the classification contained in the application, and to ascertain~~ (ii) the qualifications of the applicant in reading plans and specifications, knowledge of estimating costs, construction, ~~ethics~~ ethics, and other similar matters pertaining to the contracting ~~business~~ business; (iii) the knowledge of the applicant as to the responsibilities of a contractor to the public and of the requirements of the laws of the State of North Carolina relating to contractors, ~~construction and liens.~~ construction, and liens; and (iv) the applicant's knowledge of requirements of the Sedimentation Pollution Control Act of 1973, Article 4 of Chapter 113A of the General Statutes, and the rules adopted pursuant to that Article. If the results of the examination of the applicant shall be satisfactory to the Board, then the Board shall issue to the applicant a certificate to engage as a general contractor in the State of North Carolina, as provided in said certificate, which may be limited into five classifications as ~~the common use of the terms are known -- that is,~~ follows:

(1) Building contractor, which shall include private, public, commercial, industrial and residential buildings of all ~~types;~~ types.

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT(S) & PROGRAM(S) AFFECTED: The Department of Environment and Natural Resources, Land Resource Division and the North Carolina General Contractors Licensing Board.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 1, 1999 and applies to land-disturbing activity that occurs on or after that date.

BILL SUMMARY: The bill makes several changes to the existing Sedimentation Control Act of 1973. The Sedimentation Control Act requires that a person conducting a land disturbing activity involving the uncovering of more than one acre to file an erosion control plan at least 30 days in advance. It also outlines several erosion and sedimentation limitation practices and devises that must be used during construction and after the project is completed. The bill raises the maximum civil penalty for a violation of the act to $5,000. It also clarifies that the penalty can be assessed from the date of the original violation and that additional penalties can apply for continued violations. The bill also removes the cap on the total amount of fees collected under this program. The bill also clarifies that a plan approval is conditional on the applicant's compliance with federal and state laws, regulations and rules. The legislation also states that certain types of erosion control plans must be forwarded to the Division of Water Quality. Finally, the bill mandates that questions on the Sedimentation Control Act be included on the general contractors licensing exam.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY: There are three potential fiscal impacts to the bill. First, the bill increases the maximum civil penalty for a violation of the Sedimentation Control Act to $5,000. The current maximum charge is $500. The Division of Land Resources estimates that in FY 1996-97 forty (40) cases were referred to enforcement. In FY 1997-98 that number increased to seventy-four (74). The Division reports that very few violators were actually charged the maximum per day penalty of $500. In FY 1996-97 there were three cases where civil penalties of $500 per day were charged. In FY 1997-98 there were four such cases. The Division can not effectively estimate the how often they would charge the new maximum per day penalty of $5,000. Therefore, while there could be a small revenue increase as a result of this portion of the bill, an accurate fiscal estimate is not possible.

The second potential fiscal impact relates to removing the fee cap. Currently the Department can not charge more than $50 per acre. Also, the total amount collected can not excess 1/3 of the administrative and personnel costs associated with the program in the previous fiscal year. The Division of Land Resources reports that 1/3 cap is the true constraint. The current per acre fee is now approximately $20. If the 1/3 expenditure cap was removed, the Division could increase their fee to as much as $50. In FY 1996-97 the Division collected $515,031 in per acre fees. In 1997-98 that amount increased to $580,565. These numbers suggest that fees were charged on approximately 29,000 acres in FY 1997-98. Assuming the Division increased the fee to $50, and the number of acres included remained at approximately 29,000, the fee revenue will increase to approximately $1,450,00. This is an increase of approximately $869,435. These funds are deposited in a special non-reverting account in the Department of Environment and Natural Resources and are used to offset the cost of the sedimentation program.

The third potential impact relates to changes in the general contractor's exam. The bill requires that the general contractor exam be modified to include questions about the Sedimentation Control Act. The Department of Insurance staffs the General Contractor's Licensing Board. Because the Division of Land Resources in DENR has agreed to write the questions, the cost to the Department of Insurance should be minimal.

HOUSE BILL 1290:
Limit Recycling Tax Incentives

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House Finance	Introduced by:	Rep. Luebke
Date:	June 17, 1999	Summary by:	Cindy Avrette
Version:	PCS for 1st Edition H1290-CSLC-5/6		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 1290 limits the special tax treatment for certain equipment and facilities used for recycling, waste reduction, or resource recovery so that the tax benefit is realized by companies starting in the business. It limits the tax incentives in two ways:

- A taxpayer must apply to the Department of Environment and Natural Resources within two years after the facility or equipment is acquired to be certified for the special tax treatment.
- The property tax exemption for real property is limited to three years after the date the certification is issued.

The proposed committee substitute exempts a large recycling facility or a major recycling facility qualified under G.S. 105-129.26 from the limitations imposed by this bill. The bill becomes effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 2000.

CURRENT LAW: In 1975, the General Assembly provided several tax benefits for capital investments in recycling and resource recovering facilities or equipment to encourage recycling, reduction, and resource recovery. Resource recovering is the process of obtaining material or energy resources from solid waste or the process of collecting, sorting, or otherwise preparing solid waste for reuse or recycling. Recycling is the process by which materials that have been recovered from solid waste are transformed into new products in such a manner that the original materials lose their identity.

To qualify for the special tax treatment, a taxpayer must obtain a certificate from the Department of Environment & Natural Resources certifying that the facility or equipment has actually been purchased, installed, or constructed, that it is in conformance with all DENR rules, and that recycling or resource recovery is the primary purpose of the facility or equipment. The special tax benefits include:

- Franchise tax. A corporation may deduct the cost of purchasing, constructing, and installing recycling and resource recovering facilities and equipment from its surplus and undivided profits. The franchise tax is levied on the total amount of a corporation's capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits. G.S. 105-122(b)
- Corporate income tax. In lieu of a depreciation allowance, a corporation may choose to amortize the cost of purchasing, constructing, and installing recycling and resource recovering facilities and equipment over a 60 months period. If a corporation chooses to amortize its costs, it may deduct any amortization taken in excess of the depreciation allowed under the Code from its federal taxable income for the purposes of deriving its North Carolina taxable income. G.S. 105-130.10(2); G.S. 105-130.5(b)(6)

- Property tax. Recycling and resource recovering facilities and equipment are excluded from property tax. G.S. 105-275(8)b. A taxpayer must apply for the exemption during the January listing period. After the exemption has been approved, the owner does not need to file an application in subsequent years unless something happens necessitating a change in the valuation of the property, use of the property, or eligibility for the exemption.

In 1998, the General Assembly provided tax incentives for "large" and "major" recycling facilities located in Tier One counties at the time of initial construction. A recycling facility is a plant that manufactures products, most of which are made from at least 50% post-consumer waste material. A large recycling facility is one that will involve at least $150 million in new investment and 155 new jobs within a two-year period. A major recycling facility is one that will involve at least $300 million in new investment and 250 new jobs within a four-year period. One of the tax incentives given to major recycling facilities is an expanded version of the existing property tax exemption for property used for recycling. Under general law, to qualify for exemption, the property must be used exclusively for recycling and have recycling as its primary purpose. Effective beginning with the 1999-2000 property tax year, major recycling facilities may qualify for the tax exemption if the property is used predominantly for recycling and has recycling as a purpose. The Department of Environment and Natural Resources determined that these changes would be necessary to prevent a major recycling facility from being disqualified because it adds fillers or other materials to the post-consumer waste material when manufacturing products.

BILL ANALYSIS: With the exception of the tax benefits for large and major recycling facilities, the proposed committee substitute for House Bill 1290 tightens the special tax treatment afforded to facilities, equipment, and property used primarily for the purpose of recycling or resource recovery of or from solid waste. The bill limits the credit in two ways:

- It requires a taxpayer to apply for certification for the tax incentives within two years of the date the facility or equipment is acquired. If the application is made later than two years after the facility or equipment is acquired, the Department will not certify it as qualifying for the tax incentives.
- It provides that the property tax exemption for real property that qualifies for the exemption is limited to three years after the date the certificate is issued. The certification for the exemption cannot be renewed or reissued for that applicant or a related person. A related person is defined in the Code to include all of the following:
  - Two corporations that are members of the same controlling group.
  - An S corporation and another S corporation if the same persons own more than 50% in value of the outstanding stock of each corporation.
  - An S corporation and a C corporation, if the same persons own more than 50% in value of the outstanding stock of each corporation.
  - An individual and a corporation more than 50% in value of the outstanding stock of which is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the individual.
  - A partnership and a person owning, directly or indirectly, more than 50% of the capital interest, or the profits interests, in the partnership.
  - Two partnerships in which the same persons own, directly or indirectly, more than 50% of the capital interests or profits interests.

FISCAL IMPACT

Yes ( ) No ( ) No Estimate Available (X)

See "Assumptions and Methodology"

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENTAFFECTED: Department of Environment and Natural Resources

EFFECTIVE DATE: Taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 2000.

BILL SUMMARY: Removes special corporate income, franchise, and property tax treatment for equipment and facilities used for recycling, waste reduction, or resource recovery when the property is acquired more than 2 years prior to the application date for certification by the Department of Environment and Natural Resources. In addition, the bill limits the certification of real property for special tax treatment to 3 years and the certificate shall not be renewed or reissued for that applicant or a related person.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY: The enactment of the bill will increase state general fund and local government revenues in future years by an unknown amount (at this time there is no data on the total cost of the special treatment). In addition, discussions with representatives of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources indicate that the bill will reduce the number of certificate applications.

(6) Short-term lease or rental. -- A lease or rental that is not a long-term lease or rental.

~~(7) U-drive-it passenger vehicle. -- Defined in G.S. 20-4.01.~~"

(c) Application. -- To be eligible for the tax credit provided in this section, the taxpayer must file an application for the credit with the Secretary on or before April 15 of the year following the calendar year in which the investment was made. The Secretary may grant extensions of this deadline, as the Secretary finds appropriate, upon the request of the taxpayer, except that the application may not be filed after September 15 of the year following the calendar year in which the investment was made. An application is effective for the year in which it is timely filed. The application shall be on a form prescribed by the Secretary and shall include any supporting documentation that the Secretary may require. If an investment for which a credit is applied for was paid for other than in money, the taxpayer shall include with the application a certified appraisal of the value of the property used to pay for the investment. The definitions in G.S. 105-164.3 and the following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Authority. -- A regional public transportation authority or a regional transportation authority created pursuant to Article 26 or Article 27 of Chapter 160A of the General Statutes.

The tax imposed by this subdivision does not apply to receipts derived from ~~coin or token-operated~~ coin, token, or card-operated washing machines, extractors, and dryers. The tax imposed by this subdivision does not apply to gross receipts derived from services performed for resale by a retailer that pays the tax on the total gross receipts derived from the services."

Section 33. G.S. 105-164.4(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) Certificate of Registration. -- Before a person may engage in business as a retailer or a wholesale merchant, the person must obtain a certificate of registration from the Department. To obtain a certificate of registration, a person must register with the Department and pay fifteen dollars ($15.00).

A certificate of registration is valid unless it is revoked for failure to comply with the provisions of this Article or becomes void. A certificate ~~issued to a retailer~~ becomes void if, for a period of 18 months, the retailer or wholesale merchant to whom it was issued files no returns or files returns showing no sales."

Section 34. G.S. 105-164.13(4d) reads as rewritten:

"(4d) The lease or rental of ~~burlap~~ tobacco sheets used in handling tobacco in the warehouse and transporting tobacco to and from the warehouse."

Section 35.(a) G.S. 105-187.43 reads as rewritten:

"§ 105-187.43. (Effective July 1, 1999) Payment of the tax.

(a) ~~Monthly Return.~~ Payment. -- The tax imposed by this Article is payable monthly to the Secretary. A monthly tax payment is due by the last day of the month that follows the month in which the tax accrues. The tax imposed by this Article on piped natural gas delivered to a sales or transportation customer accrues when the gas is delivered. The tax payable on piped natural gas received by a person who has direct access to an interstate pipeline for consumption by that person accrues when the gas is received.

(b) Small Underpayments. -- A person is not subject to interest on or penalties for an underpayment of a monthly amount due if the person timely pays at least ninety-five percent (95%) of the amount due and includes the underpayment with the next return the person files.

(c) Return. -- A return is due quarterly. A quarterly return covers a calendar quarter and is due by the last day of the month that follows the quarter covered by the return."

Section 35.(b) G.S. 105-187.44 reads as rewritten:

"§ 105-187.44. (Effective July 1, 1999) Distribution of part of tax proceeds to cities.

(a) City Information. -- A ~~monthly~~ quarterly return filed under this Article must indicate the amount of tax attributable to the following:

(1) Piped natural gas delivered during the ~~month~~ quarter to sales or transportation customers in each city in the State.

(2) Piped natural gas received during the ~~month~~ quarter in each city in the State by persons who have direct access to an interstate gas pipeline and who receive the gas for their own consumption.

If a tax return does not state this information, the Secretary must determine how much of the tax proceeds are to be attributed to each city.

(b) Distribution. -- Within 75 days after the end of each calendar quarter, the Secretary must distribute to the cities part of the tax proceeds collected under this Article during that quarter. The amount to be distributed to a city is one-half of the amount of tax attributable to that city for that quarter under subsection (a) of this section."

Section 36. G.S. 105-194 reads as rewritten:

"§ 105-194. Death of donor within three years; time of assessment.

~~Where~~ If a donor dies within three years after filing a return, gift taxes may be assessed at any time within ~~said~~ those three years, or on or before the date of final settlement of the donor's State estate or inheritance taxes, whichever is later."

Section 37. G.S. 105-253(a) reads as rewritten:

"(a) Any officer, trustee, or receiver of any corporation or limited liability company required to file a report with the Secretary who has custody of funds of the corporation or company and who allows the funds to be paid out or distributed to the stockholders of the corporation or company without having remitted to the Secretary any State taxes that are due is personally liable for the payment of the tax."

Section 38.(a) G.S. 105-275 is amended by adding a new subdivision to read:

"(41) Objects of art held by the North Carolina State Art Society, Incorporated."

Section 38.(b) G.S. 140-15 reads as rewritten:

"~~§ 140-15. Exemption from taxes.~~

~~All gifts made to the North Carolina State Art Society, Incorporated, shall be exempt from State gift and inheritance taxes, and objects of art held by the Society shall be exempt from ad valorem taxes.~~"

Section 39. G.S. 160A-31(e2), as enacted by S.L. 1999-19, as it applies to the Town of Huntersville, reads as rewritten:

"(e2) Annexation of property subject to annexation under subsection (e1) of this section shall become effective as to each tract of such property or such part thereof on the last day of the month in which that tract or part thereof becomes ineligible for classification pursuant to ~~G.S. 105-227.4~~ G.S. 105-277.4 and no longer meets the requirements of subdivision (e1)(2) of this section. Until annexation of a tract or a part of a tract becomes effective pursuant to this subsection, the tract or part of a tract is not subject to taxation by the city under Article 12 of Chapter 105 of the General Statutes, nor is the tract or part of the tract entitled to services provided by the city. When annexation becomes effective pursuant to this subsection as to a tract or part of a tract, the city shall provide all required services upon payment of city taxes."

Section 40. This act does not affect the rights or liabilities of the State, a taxpayer, or another person arising under a statute amended or repealed by this act before the effective date of its amendment or repeal; nor does it affect the right to any refund or credit of a tax that accrued under the amended or repealed statute before the effective date of its amendment or repeal.

Section 41. Except as otherwise provided in this act, this act is effective when it becomes law.

SENATE BILL 55:
Revenue Laws Technical Changes

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee: House Finance
Date: June 24, 1999
Version: PCS for 3rd Edition
S55-PCSSC-001

Introduced by: Senator Cochrane
Summary by: Martha Walston & Martha Harris, Staff Attorneys, and Mary Shuping, Research Assistant.

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 55 makes a number of technical and clarifying changes to various revenue laws and related statutes and makes one substantive change. The substantive change in Part I of the bill broadens the scope of the transit authority vehicle leasing tax to include more types of vehicles. Part II of the bill makes technical and clarifying changes, and was originally recommended by the Revenue Laws Study Commission.

BILL ANALYSIS: Part I of Senate Bill 55, in sections 1 through 4, broadens the scope of the transit authority vehicle leasing tax to include more vehicles, effective July 1, 1999. Under current law, a regional public transportation authority or a regional transportation authority may levy a privilege tax on a retailer who leases or rents U-drive-it passenger vehicles or motorcycles. The tax rate may not exceed 5% of the gross receipts derived from the short-term (less than 365 continuous days) lease or rental of these vehicles. This tax is added to the lease or rental price and paid by the lessee. Senate Bill 55 broadens the scope of this tax to apply to all motor vehicles as defined in G.S. 105-164.3.

"Motor vehicle" means a vehicle that is designed primarily for use upon the highways and is either self-propelled or propelled by a self-propelled vehicle. Motor vehicle does not include the following: a moped, special mobile equipment, tow dolly exempt from title and registration requirements, implements of husbandry, a manufactured home, mobile office, or a mobile classroom, and road construction or road maintenance machinery or equipment.

"U-drive-it passenger vehicles" are passenger vehicles rented or leased and to be operated by the lessee. They do not include vehicles leased or rented to public school authorities for driver-training instruction. Passenger vehicles also do not include pickup trucks and other property hauling vehicles.

Part II. of Senate Bill 55 makes numerous technical and clarifying changes to the revenue laws and related statutes. The following table provides a section-by-section analysis of the proposed changes.

Section	Explanation
5	Corrects an incorrect effective date for the income tax treatment of enhanced wireless 911 fees.
6	Updates list of debtors' property that is retained free of creditors' claims, to add Roth IRAs to regular IRAs and to update terminology for regular IRAs.
7	Reinstates increase in notary commission fee from $25 to $30 that was enacted in the 1998 budget bill but was deleted inadvertently by another 1998 bill. This fee increase would become effective July 1, 1999.
8 – 15	Changes references to the inheritance tax, which was replaced with an estate tax effective for the estates of decedents dying on or after January 1, 1999.

16 Corrects a grammatical error by deleting the word "or" in G.S. 93B-15.

17 Deletes language in G.S. 105-32.8 that a person "is subject to the penalties in G.S. 105-236" when that person fails to report a federal correction or determination of the maximum state death tax credit allowed an estate or of the maximum state generation-skipping transfer tax credit allowed. Failure to report to the Secretary of Revenue would still result in forfeiture of the right to any refund due by reason of the determination. Since repeal of the inheritance tax laws, there are no penalties in G.S. 105-236 that apply to this section.

18 Combines G.S. 105-37.1(Amusements) and G.S. 105-38 (Amusements-Circuses and other traveling amusements) into one statute. These are the amusements subject to 3% gross receipts tax.

19 Clarifies that tax on motion picture shows is an admissions tax. This tax is imposed at the rate of 1% on gross receipts. Also moves the exemption language for certain motion pictures to the list of exemptions in G.S. 104-40 (Amusements exempt from tax).

20 Repeals G.S. 105-109.1 because it is no longer needed. This statute provides that interest will be assessed on the taxes on gross receipts levied on amusements in G.S. 105-37.1 and G.S. 105-38, the tax on installment paper dealers, and the tax on publishers of newsprint publications. This interest runs from the time these taxes were due until paid. This statute is no longer needed now that Article 9 (General Administration; Penalties and Remedies) applies to the privilege license statutes. This repeal also clarifies that interest applies to late payments of the 1% gross receipts tax on movies.

21 Repeals G.S. 105-113 because it is obsolete. This statute requires the sheriff of each county and clerk of the board of alderman of each city to make an annual report to the Secretary of Revenue containing the name and business of every person in his county or city required to obtain a State license under Article 2 of Chapter 105 of the General Statutes.

22 Clarifies that the possession of more than six hundred cigarettes on which tax has been paid to (was "bearing the tax stamp of") another state or country, by any person other than a licensed distributor, is prima facie evidence that the cigarettes are possessed in violation of the Article governing the tobacco products tax. The underlined language clarifies how the Department currently administers this Article. This change is needed because there are states that do not use stamps.

23 Updates the statutory cross-references in the Unauthorized Substance tax law.

24 Clarifies scope of franchise tax to include savings and loan associations, as enacted in 1998.

25 Clarifies that a corporation that owes franchise tax but not income tax must apportion its franchise tax using the apportionment formula that would apply to income tax if the corporation were subject to that tax. The law is silent on this issue, and this new language sets out the Department's position.

26 Removes references to repealed statutes and modernizes statutory language.

27 Restores the word "generator" which was inadvertently deleted in 1998.

28 Changes "Division" to "Part" to conform to new terms enacted in 1998.

29 Changes the reference to the Code section in G.S. 105-152(e). This statute concerns joint tax liability and the innocent spouse. In the IRS Restructuring Act of 1998, the Code section 6013(e) was deleted and substituted in section 6015.

30 Removes reference to repealed statute.

31 Changes "Division" to "Part" to conform to new terms enacted in 1998.

32 Transfers the definitions of "moped" and "special mobile equipment" from Chapter 20 to the sales tax statute in Chapter 105, and then places a cross-reference to the sales tax statute in Chapter 20. These items are subject to sales tax. The Department of Revenue, rather than the DMV, administers the sales tax on special mobile equipment.

33 Adds the term "card-operated" to the sales tax exemption from receipts derived from coin or token-operated washing machines, extractors, and dryers. New technology permits the use of credit and debit cards on this equipment, and the Department has administratively allowed the sales tax exclusion for equipment operated with cards.

34 Clarifies that the certificate of registration filed with the Department by a retailer who makes taxable sales is void if for a period of 18 months the retailer files no returns or files returns showing no sales. Some retailers make only wholesale sales or exempt sales. Those retailers do not need to file sales tax returns and their certificate should not be void because they fail to file a return for a period of 18 months. There was a similar provision in the law prior to its rewrite last session.

35 Deletes the word "burlap" from the reference to the sales tax exemption for the lease or rental of burlap tobacco sheets used in handling tobacco in the warehouse and transporting tobacco to and from the warehouse. This change is necessary because tobacco sheets are now made of other material.

36 Clarifies the filing requirement for the excise tax on piped natural gas. Payment is required monthly and a return is required quarterly. The Department is currently administering the filing requirement this way.

37 Changes references to the inheritance tax, which was replaced with an estate tax effective for the estates of decedents dying on or after January 1, 1999.

38 Adds reference to limited liability companies to conform to remainder of statute.

39 Revises and recodifies a statute that included redundant references to the taxability of property transferred to a tax-exempt nonprofit corporation.

40-46 Deletes references to "annual filing" of motor carrier reports and makes conforming changes to reflect quarterly reports to conform to administrative practice. The Department of Revenue does not allow annual filing because of International Fuel Tax Agreement requirements.

Changes are also made to the reference for gasoline and other motor fuel to "motor fuel and alternative fuel". These references were not changed when tax at the rack was enacted and need to be updated. Section 45 also conforms the registration of motor carriers with the current administrative practice.

47-48	Conforms motor fuel penalty hearing statute to other hearing procedure statutes. Also clarifies that a request for a hearing must explain why the person is not liable for the penalty.
49	Corrects an incorrect statute reference.
50	Savings clause
51	Effective date

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT(S) & PROGRAM(S) AFFECTED: Department of the Secretary of State, Department of Revenue, Triangle Transit Authority

EFFECTIVE DATE: Part I (Triangle Transit Authority) is effective July 1, 1999 and applies to contracts entered into on or after that date. Part II, section 7 (notary fee) becomes effective July 1, 1999. All remaining sections become effective when it becomes law.

BILL SUMMARY: Part one of the bill broadens the tax base for the Triangle Transit Authority's 5% gross receipts tax on rental vehicles. Part two of the bill makes numerous technical and conforming changes to the Revenue Laws and related statutes.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:

Part One – Triangle Transit Authority

Part one of the bill allows the Triangle Transit Authority to begin taxing the short-term rental of heavy trucks and trailers. G.S. 105 – 551 permits a regional public transportation authority or a regional transportation authority to levy a privilege tax of up to 5% on businesses leasing or renting U-drive-it passenger vehicles or motorcycles. This bill broadens the tax base for these authorities by striking the words "U-drive-it passenger vehicles or motorcycles" and replacing them with the term "motor vehicles". A motor vehicles is defined in GS 105-164.3 as a vehicle "designed primarily for use upon the highways and is either self propelled or propelled by a self-propelled vehicle". A motor vehicle does not include a moped, special mobile equipment, tow dolly, farm tractor, or road construction equipment.

The Department of Revenue's Tax Research Division has determined that a 5% tax on the gross receipts of heavy truck and trailer rental businesses in Durham, Orange, and Wake counties will generate an additional $1 million in revenue each year for the Triangle Transit Authority. This estimate is based on highway use tax returns from four major truck and/or trailer leasing companies in the state that account for 75% of the business in this market. The tax returns are for the 8% gross receipts tax on short-term rentals these businesses pay to the state. Since Durham, Orange, and Wake counties have 12% of the population and motor vehicle registrations in North Carolina, it was assumed that 12% of the truck and trailer leasing business in the state is done in these three counties.

Part Two – Revenue Laws Technical Changes

Except for Section 7, the changes in this bill have no fiscal impact on the General Fund. Section 7 reinstates a $5 increase in the notary commission fee that was enacted by the 1998 General Assembly in SB 1366 (Chapter 212). Section 29A.9 of SB 1366 increased the nonrefundable fee for notarial commissions from $25 to $30. Unfortunately, SB 1552 (Chapter 228) was also enacted to make changes in the Notary Act and it did not increase the fee. When statute 10A-7 was codified, it was determined that the fee would remain $25 despite legislative intent to increase the fee.

The $5 notarial fee increase is estimated to generate the following revenue:

2000-2001	76,665
2001-2002	78,750
2002-2003	80,890

Since this estimate was included in the budgeted revenues for 1998-99 and in future year projections, these revenues will not increase the budget. However, failure to pass this bill will result in the reduction of estimated General Fund revenues.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO PROMOTE ELECTRONIC COMMERCE BY REPEALING THE SALES TAX REGISTRATION FEE AND TO MAKE OTHER CHANGES TO THE TAX LAWS AND RELATED STATUTES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. G.S. 105-164.4(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) Certificate of Registration. -- Before a person may engage in business as a retailer or a wholesale merchant, the person must obtain a certificate of registration from the Department. To obtain a certificate of registration, a person must register with the ~~Department and pay fifteen dollars ($15.00).~~ Department.

A certificate of registration is valid unless it is revoked for failure to comply with the provisions of this Article or becomes void. A certificate issued to a retailer becomes void if, for a period of 18 months, the retailer files no returns or files returns showing no sales."

Section 2. G.S. 105-88 reads as rewritten:

"§ 105-88. Loan ~~agencies or brokers.~~ agencies.

No real estate mortgage broker is required to obtain a privilege license under this section merely because the broker advances the broker's own funds and takes a security interest in real estate to secure the advances and when, at the time of the advance, the broker has already made arrangements with others for the sale or discount of the obligation at a later date and does so sell or discount the obligation within the period specified in the arrangement or extensions thereof; or when, at the time of the advance the broker intends to sell the obligation to others at a later date and does, within 12 months from date of initial advance, make arrangements with others for the sale of the obligation and does sell the obligation within the period specified in the arrangement or extensions thereof; or because the broker advances the broker's own funds in temporary financing directly involved in the production of permanent-type loans for sale to others; and no real estate mortgage broker whose mortgage lending operations are essentially as described above is required to obtain a privilege license under this section.

(c) At the time of making any such loan, the person, or officer of the firm or corporation making the ~~same,~~ loan, shall give to the borrower in writing in convenient form a statement showing the amount received by the borrower, the amount to be paid back by the borrower, ~~and~~ the time in which ~~said~~ the amount is to be paid, and the rate of interest and discount agreed upon.

SENATE BILL 1112:
No Sales Tax Fee/Other Changes

BILL ANALYSIS

To:	House Finance	Sponsor:	Senator Kerr
Date:	June 23, 1999	Summary by:	Martha H. Harris & Cindy Avrette
Version:	PCS for 2nd Edition S1112-CSRBX-6/23		Staff Attorney

SUMMARY: Promotes electronic commerce by repealing the sales tax registration fee and makes other changes to the tax laws and related statutes.

BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1 repeals the $15 sales tax registration fee effective January 1, 2000. This fee is payable at the time a person applies for and obtains a sales tax registration number. The elimination of the fee will better enable the Department to begin receiving sales and use tax reports electronically.

Section 2 provides that check cashers and pawnbrokers are subject to the same annual $750 privilege license tax as loan agencies, effective July 1, 1999. The tax must be paid for each location.

Section 3 removes the requirement that the line on the income tax form authorizing a contribution to the Political Parties Financing Fund be color contrasted with the color scheme of the remainder of the income tax return. Beginning next year, the income tax returns will have a uniform drop-out ink color for purposes of optical character reading. With the implementation of optical character reading, the color contrast requirement is not compatible with efficient processing of the millions of tax returns filed each year because the contrast color would interfere with recognition of the proper fields.

Sections 4 and 12 clarify the definition of a utility for sales tax purposes and move an exemption from the definition section to the exemption section. These sections become effective when they become law.

Section 5 exempts durable medical equipment and medical sundries, which are eligible for coverage under Medicare and Medicaid, from State and local sales tax. The exemption only applies to items purchased on prescription or by a Certificate of Medical Need. While the item must be eligible under Medicare or Medicaid, it can be purchased by anyone with a prescription. Therefore, the bill exempts Medicare, Medicaid, and some private pay purchases of certain durable medical equipment and medical sundries. Durable medical equipment includes a variety of medical items such as wheelchairs, IV bag holders, and cane stands. Medical sundries are easily and frequently disposed of items like latex gloves, gauze, medical tape, and syringes. This section becomes effective October 1, 1999.

Sections 6 and 7 provide that all prescription drugs are exempt from sales tax, effective October 1, 1999. All of the drugs exempt from sales tax are placed in one statutory subdivision. Section 7 repeals one of the exemptions because it is incorporated into Section 6.

Section 8 simplifies the sales tax treatment of traded-in items by removing the sales tax exemption for traded-in items. Under the current law, the sale of a traded-in item is not subject to sales tax IF the person who traded-in the item paid the full amount of sales tax on the new item the person purchased. Retailers have a very difficult time maintaining sufficient records to document the amount of tax paid on a new item and how that relates to the traded-in item. This administrative problem is exacerbated in the area of farm equipment, which is subject to a reduced sales tax rate of 1%, with an $80 cap. This section becomes effective October 1, 1999.

Section 9 deletes the language that a nonprofit corporation must be chartered or incorporated within North Carolina for two years before its sales are tax exempt. This restriction is constitutionally suspect because there appears to be no rational basis for the distinction. This section becomes effective October 1, 1999.

Section 10 repeals an unconstitutional sales tax exemption for the sale of paper, ink, and other tangible personal property to commercial printers and commercial publishers for use as component parts of free circulation publications that contain advertising of a general nature. The exemption applies primarily to publications such as "The Village Advocate". It does not apply to other free circulation publications, such as a real estate guide. To be constitutional, the exemption needs to be expanded to include all free circulation publications or it needs to be repealed. This section repeals it. This section becomes effective October 1, 1999.

Section 11 adds "governmental entity" as a donee in the sales tax exemption of tangible personal property that is purchased by a retailer for resale or is manufactured or purchased by a wholesale merchant for resale and then withdrawn from inventory and donated by the retailer or merchant to a nonprofit organization. This change would allow contributions to governmental entities such as schools to qualify for the sales tax exemption. This section becomes effective October 1, 1999.

Section 13 increases the percentage that may be added to a patron's bill as a tip without that amount being subject to sales tax, effective October 1, 1999. A service charge, or tip, imposed on a meal is subject to sales tax if it exceeds 15% of the amount charged for the meal. Some restaurants add a slightly higher gratuity to a meal served to large parties. This section increases the amount that may be added to a bill as a tip without being subject to sales tax from 15% to 20%.

Section 14 provides that a local airport authority created by a local act of the General Assembly may apply for an annual refund of State and local sales taxes paid by it. Under the current law, the authorities may receive an annual refund if the local act creating it provided for the refund. Of the 33 local airport authorities created by the General Assembly, more than half have the statutory language necessary to receive the refund. Earlier this session, the General Assembly amended the local act creating two of the other authorities to give them the necessary authority to receive the refund.

Sections 15 and 17 provide that the Secretary of Revenue may waive the penalty for bad checks, effective October 1, 1999. The Secretary has the authority to waive all other tax penalties for good cause.

Section 16 rewrites the tax penalties for negligence, effective October 1, 1999. Currently, in the case of income tax, a 25% penalty applies if the taxpayer understates taxable income by an amount equal to or greater than ¼ of gross income. For other taxes, the 25% penalty applies if the taxpayer understates tax liability by an amount equal to or greater than ¼ of actual liability. Thus, the 25% penalty is harder to trigger for income taxes than for other taxes. This section would limit the trigger based on gross income to individual income taxes. Thus, corporate income taxes would trigger the 25% penalty if liability is understated by at least ¼, not just if taxable income is understated by at least ¼ of gross income.

Section 18 amends the tax secrecy statute to allow the Department to communicate with local law enforcement officers concerning administration of the unauthorized substances tax. This section is effective when it becomes law.

Section 19 amends G.S. 105-266(c)(1) to give taxpayers the same amount of time to request a refund that the Department has to make an assessment. The Department can currently assess for a longer period of time than a person can get a refund. Taxpayers voluntarily extend the time for the Department to assess in some circumstance, but this does not extend the time for getting refund if any overpayments are found. This amendment would automatically extend the time to request a refund when the taxpayers agrees to extend the time the Department can assess. This section becomes effective when it becomes law.

Sections 20 and 21 repeal the requirement that bulk end users and retailers of undyed diesel fuel get a license. This information can be obtained from Agriculture if it is needed and it imposes an unnecessary requirement on businesses.

Sections 22, 24, and 27 address a problem of special mobile equipment and the motor fuel tax. Special mobile equipment is a vehicle that has a permanently attached crane, mill, ditch-digging apparatus, or similar apparatus. The vehicle is driven on the highway only to get to and from a non-highway job. It is not designed or used primarily for the transportation of persons or property. It should not be paying motor fuel tax on the fuel used for a non-highway purpose. However, under the current law, it cannot use dyed (untaxed) diesel fuel nor can it receive a refund of the motor fuel tax paid on clear (taxed) diesel fuel. Section 22 provides that dyed (untaxed) diesel fuel may be used in special mobile equipment, effective October 1, 1999. Section 24 allows a quarterly refund for tax paid on fuel used in special mobile equipment, effective for taxes paid on or after January 1, 1999. As a result of these changes, the motor fuel used in special mobile equipment will be subject to sales tax, which is credited to the General Fund, as opposed to the motor fuel tax, which is credited to the Highway Fund and the Highway Trust Fund. Section 27 seeks to reduce the loss to the Highway Fund by increasing the registration fee for special mobile equipment from $20 to $40, effective January 1, 2000.

Section 23 clarifies that a motor fuel supplier discount is not allowed if the tax is not paid on time.

Section 25 repeals an unnecessary statute requiring certain fuel importers to register, effective when it becomes law.

Section 26 clarifies that vehicles leased to individuals who live in this State must be registered in this State, effective when this act becomes law.

Section 28 expands the maximum width of special mobile equipment from 96 inches to 102 inches, effective when this act becomes law.

Section 29 clarifies that vehicles towed by special mobile equipment may carry property that does not exceed the weight of the towed vehicle, effective when this act becomes law.

Section 30 allows the Department of Revenue to use information in the State Directory of New Hires for the purpose of administering the taxes it has a duty to collect. The State Directory of New Hires was established in 1997 to assist in the location of persons owing child support.. The Department of Health and Human Services maintains it. Every employer in the State must report to the Directory the hiring of every employee for whom a federal W-4 form is required to be completed. The report must contain the name, address, and social security number of the newly hired employee and the name, address, and federal and State tax ID number of the employer. This section becomes effective when it becomes law.

Section 24 (fuel tax refunds to special mobile equipment) applies to taxes paid on or after January 1, 1999. The remainder of this act is effective when it becomes law.

BILL SUMMARY: This bill amends various tax laws and related statutes.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:
The following is a section by section analysis of SB 1112 PCS:

Section 1
This section repeals the $15 sales tax certificate of registration fee charged to new businesses. The number of registrations in recent years is as follows:

FY 1995-96	34,559
FY 1996-97	38,193
FY 1997-98	36,609

In 1998 and 1999, sales tax registrations are averaging approximately 3,000 a month. Assuming the continuation of the current registration rate, this section will eliminate the $15 fee for 36,000 businesses each year. The General Fund revenue loss will be $540,000 per year. The FY 1999-00 revenue loss will be $270,000 due to a January 1, 2000 effective date.

This section imposes an annual $750 privilege license tax on each location of a check cashing or pawnbroker business. As of May 28, 1999, there are 195 check cashing businesses in North Carolina with 975 locations. The number of check cashing businesses has grown tremendously since 1997 when the state approved SB 312 (1997 SL, chapter 391) regulating the industry and approving the delayed deposit of personal checks. The Consumer Finance Administrator at the Office of the Commissioner of Banks thinks the check cashing market has now reached a saturation point and receives only two or three applications per month for new locations. This fiscal note assumes the number of check cashing businesses will peak at 1,000 in FY 1999-00. The $750,000 in revenue from the $750 tax on 1,000 locations will be deposited in the General Fund. With the 1997 law scheduled to sunset on July 1, 2001, it is uncertain how many locations will exist in FY 2001-02 and beyond.

As for pawnbrokers, there is no exact data on the number of businesses in the state. Prior to 1997, pawnbrokers were subject to an annual privilege license tax of $275 (formerly GS 105-50). The Department of Revenue reports that the number of pawnbrokers paying the privilege tax declined from 584 in FY 1993-94 to 356 in FY 1996-97. The past chair of the NC Pawn Brokers Association estimates there are 450 pawnbrokers in the state. The Consumer Finance Administrator at the Office of the Commissioner of Banks found 500 pawnbrokers in an internet phone directory search in 1997. This fiscal note will assume 450 pawnbroker locations and no future growth. The $750 annual privilege tax will result in $337,500 in revenue to the General Fund each year.

Section 3
Cost avoidance – if not removed, the color contrast requirement in the law could interfere with the processing of tax returns by optical character reader.

Section 4
No fiscal impact – clarifies definition of utility.

Section 5

This section exempts from state and local sales tax all durable medical equipment and medical sundries that are eligible for coverage under Medicare or Medicaid. This section is identical to SB 884, Medical Equipment Sales Tax, for which a fiscal note was filed on April 23, 1999. Only a brief explanation of the fiscal impact of this section will appear in this fiscal note.

Durable Medical Equipment (DME) includes a variety of medical items such as wheelchairs, IV bag holders, and cane stands. Medical sundries are easily and frequently disposed of items like latex gloves, gauze, medical tape, and syringes. The exemption only applies to items purchased on prescription or by a Certificate of Medical Need. According to the Department of Revenue, there are currently 49 DME items covered by Medicare that are taxable under North Carolina law. The Department determined that these items are taxable because they are not designed to "correct or alleviate a physical aliment" (G.S. 105 – 164.13 (12) exempts items that correct or alleviate a physical aliment from sales tax). Since the tax applies to all 49 DME and sundry items regardless of the form or type of payment, the tax should be applied to all private pay, Medicare, and Medicaid sales.

Based on information from the federal Health Care Finance Administration and from a survey of the 110 member North Carolina Association of Medical Equipment Suppliers (NCAMES), Fiscal Research Division staff determined that this sales tax exemption would produce a state and local revenue loss of $900,000 in the FY 1999-00. According to the federal Health Care Financing Administration's Office of the Actuary, national health spending is expected to grow at a rate of 6.5% annually through 2001 and 7.5% a year between 2001 and 2007. These growth rates are used in the chart below to calculate the revenue loss for this exemption in future years.

	1999-00	2000-01	2001-02	2002-03	2003-04
State	0.60	0.64	0.68	0.73	0.79
Local	0.30	0.32	0.34	0.37	0.39
Total	0.90	0.96	1.02	1.10	1.18

The actual amount shown for FY 1999-00 on page one reflects the adjustment for the October 1, 1999 effective date.

Section 6

Section 6 repeals the remaining state and local sales tax on prescription drugs. Most prescription drugs are either exempt from State and local sales and use taxes or are refundable. Drugs purchased with a prescription, prescription drugs distributed free of charge by the manufacturer of the drugs, and prescription drugs purchased for use in the commercial production of animals are already exempt from sales tax. Most hospitals receive refunds of State and local sales and use taxes paid on prescription drugs acquired by the hospital. The only entities that pay tax on prescription drugs are 1) physicians and other medical professionals who buy the drugs to administer to patients in the course of their practice and 2) state hospitals, (other than the UNC hospitals), four state psychiatric hospitals, Alcohol and Drug Treatment Centers, and Mental Retardation Centers.

The Department of Revenue Sales and Use Tax Division estimates the state and local tax loss from this exemption to be $2.4 million in FY 1999-00. This estimate is considerably less than an estimate made in 1997 for SB 41 due to recent Tax Review Board decisions which held that physicians can be retail sellers of prescription drugs and therefore sales are exempt. The estimate is based on information obtained from sales and use tax audits of medical and dental practices and from an AMA survey. The number of medical professionals was obtained from the Census of Service Industries for North Carolina. The Department did not estimate any growth in the volume of prescription sales or in prescription drug prices. Data from State Employee Health Benefit Plan's self-insured indemnity program show that prescription drug prices increase 15% to 19% a year. This fiscal note uses a 17% inflation rate, the midpoint of this range. The October 1, 1999 effective date will reduce the FY 1999-00 revenue loss by one fourth.

Section 7

No fiscal impact - incorporates the exemption of prescription drugs distributed free of charge by the drug manufacturer into the language in Section 6.

Section 8

This section removes a sales tax exemption for trade-in items. More exactly, the exemption is for "a used article taken in trade, or a series of trades, as a credit or part payment on the sale of a new article if tax is paid on the sales price of the new article". When a similar law change was proposed in 1991, the Department of Revenue estimated that removing the exemption would result in a $750,000 to $1,000,000 annual revenue gain. The Department has not recalculated the amount since that time. Both the Sales Tax Division and the Tax Research Division of the Department of Revenue believe there has been limited growth in this area. Based on audit results they believe that many dealers are already charging the tax in the bill. Therefore, while the price of traded-in items has grown significantly, the actual potential loss has not grown, or grown moderately. As a result, the Department believes that $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 would be an accurate estimate for the current year. The fiscal note uses the mid-point of these two numbers, $1,250,000, for the fiscal estimate of the General Fund loss. There is no information on the local sales tax loss. Most items in this category are taxed at the 1%, $80 maximum state tax only.

Section 9

This section deletes the requirement that a nonprofit corporation must be chartered or incorporated in North Carolina for two years before its sales are tax exempt. The Director of the Sales Tax Division of the Department of Revenue believes the fiscal impact of this section is negligible, because few nonprofits are rejected for tax exemption status.

Section 10

This section repeals a sales tax exemption for free circulation publications such as shoppers' guides. The Department of Revenue Sales and Use Tax Division reports that the state tax loss for this exemption is $2.5 million a year. Thus repeal of this exemption will provide a revenue gain of $2.5 million to the General Fund each year. The corresponding local sales tax gain will be $1.25 million each year. The October 1, 1999 effective date will reduce the FY 1999-00 revenue gain to $1,875,000 for the General Fund and $937,500 for local governments.

Section 11

This section allows a sales tax exemption for corporate contributions of inventory to governmental entities. There have been no taxpayer complaints about the existing law, but Department officials perceive this as a future problem. No fiscal estimate is available, but the Department of Revenue believes that the impact is insignificant.

Section 12
No fiscal impact – this existing language is being moved to the exemption section of the sales tax statutes.

Section 13
No fiscal impact – this increases the allowable service charge or tip on meals from 15% to 20%.

Section 14
Not yet available - Of the 33 local airport authorities in North Carolina, 15 directly receive refunds of sales and use tax (2 of this number were approved in 1999 by HB 708) and 5 receive refunds through their city or county government. The General Assembly's Fiscal Research Division is surveying the remaining 13 airports to determine the amount of tax to be refunded by this provision. However, the fiscal impact of this section should be small given that the airports approved in HB 708, Brunswick and Sanford-Lee, will receive refunds averaging only $1125 per year in state and local sales tax.

Sections 15 & 17
No estimate available – the language allowing the Secretary of Revenue to waive penalties for bad checks is permissive. If the Secretary of Revenue chooses to waive a substantial number of penalties, there will be a small revenue loss.

Section 16
No estimate available. The Department of Revenue assesses very few penalties for negligence. This section could produce a small revenue gain for the General Fund if penalties are easier to assess on corporate taxpayers.

Section 18
No fiscal impact – technical change.

Section 19
No estimate available. By extending the time a taxpayer can request a refund, this section might produce a small revenue loss. However, the Department of Revenue has received only a small number of complaints about the current refund policy.

Sections 20 & 21
No fiscal impact – since there was no fee for this license, its repeal will not harm the Highway Fund.

Sections 22 & 24
No estimate available. These sections will produce a small revenue loss to the Highway Fund and the Highway Trust Fund, but the Department of Revenue cannot provide the data needed to quantify the loss. Currently operators of special mobile equipment buy enough tax paid clear diesel fuel to cover their miles driven on the highway. For off highway use, the equipment operators use dyed, non-tax diesel fuel. If they request a refund for tax paid on clear fuel, their refunds are processed annually. By providing that dyed fuel may be used in special mobile equipment, this section codifies an administrative practice allowed by the Department of Revenue. However, the Highway Fund will lose the tax paid currently on diesel fuel for highway use. For those that apply for a refund, it will speed up the refund process and the state will lose interest on invested funds.

Section 23
No fiscal impact – motor fuel suppliers pay by electronic funds transfer and have not paid late, but this section does clarify discount policy.

Section 25
No fiscal impact – according to Revenue, the statute requiring bonded fuel importers to register is unnecessary due to the lack of importers in this category.

Section 26
No fiscal impact - codifies the administrative practice used by the Division of Motor Vehicles to register vehicles leased out of state.

Section 27
The fee for special mobile equipment is doubled by section 27. As of January 1, 2000, the fee will increase from $20 a year to $40 on 2,058 pieces of special mobile equipment. This fee increase will produce a $41,160 revenue gain for the Highway Fund each year. It is difficult to project future year growth in the volume of vehicles registered, because there has been no consistent pattern of registration in the last five years. Equipment numbers have increased and declined in recent years.

Section 28
No fiscal impact – equipment operators now can apply for overweight or oversize permits for larger width.

Section 29
No estimate available – this section may reduce DMV revenue from penalties, but no data are available to quantify the amount.

Section 30
No fiscal impact – broadens access to information.

SENATE AND HOUSE JOINT FINANCE COMMITTEE MEETING
TUESDAY, JUNE 29, 1999
8:30 AM AND 1:00 PM – ROOM 643

1:00 PM – SESSION

Senator John Kerr, CoChairman of the Senate Finance Committee, called the Meeting to order for the afternoon Session. He called on Ms. Eva Klein to come and complete her presentation from the Morning Session. Senator Soles moved for adoption of a proposed committee substitute for the purpose of discussion to SB 912 – Bonds for Higher Ed., motion passed. Senator Kerr turned the meeting over to Ms. Klein to explain the report that took 18 months to work on and complete. At this time, Ms. Klein gave a slide presentation of their findings on the 16 University Campuses.

After the slide presentation, Senator Kerr asked if there were people outside of the members of the committee that would like to speak on the bill. Mr. George Leef, Director of the Pope Center for Higher Education Policy spoke. Mr. Jim Blackburn of the N. C. County Commissions' Association spoke on behalf of the Bill. Mr. Charles Fuller of the N. C. Center for Sound Economy spoke on the Bill. He stated that he does not oppose the bonds but feels that the issue should be brought before the public for a vote. HB 1233:
Structural Pest Control Act Amendments

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House Agriculture	Introduced by:	Representative Hill
Date:	June 28, 1999	Summary by:	Barbara Riley
Version:	PCS		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY:

House Bill 1233 makes several changes to the Structural Pest Control Statutes, including a clarification of the responsibilities of the Department of Agriculture and the Structural Pest Control Committee,the allowance of branch offices, and the increase of annual licensing fees.

BACKGROUND:

Structural pest control is the control of household pests and wood destroying insects, including inspection, identification, and the use of pesticides and other substances to eradicate or control pests in household structures, commercial buildings and other structures and outside areas. G.S. 105-65.24(23). The structural pest control industry is regulated under the Structural Pest Control Act, Article 4C of Chapter 106 of the General Statutes. The act is administered by Structural Pest Control Division (the Division) of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services. Currently, the Director of the Division is appointed by the Commissioner of Agriculture, who also sets out the Director's duties and authority. The Act also provides for the appointment of a Structural Pest Control Committee (SPCC) that is charged with making the final agency decisions on licensing matters and authorized to make rules on training and education requirments, examination scores, methods and materials to be used in pest control work, safety, credentials and other matters. The membership of the SPCC includes one member appointed by the Commissioner who is not in the structural pest business, one member appointed by the Commissioner who is an employee of NCDA, one member appointed by the Dean of the College of Ag at NCSU who is on the entomology faculty, one member appointed by the Secretary of Health and Human Services who is an epidemiolgist, two members appointed by the Governor who are actively engaged in the structural pest control business, and two members appointed by the General Assembly.

BILL ANALYSIS:

The first portion of House Bill 1233 rewrites the provisions of G.S. 106-65.23 clarifying the powers and duties of the Commissioner and those of the SPCC with respect to the administration of the structural pest control law. The bill provides that Commissioner shall have the power to:

Administer and enforce the provisions of the Act and the rules adopted thereunder.

Assign administrative and enforcement duties.

Direct the work of the Division's employees and personnel assigned to the SPCC.

Develop proposed rules and programsfor consideration for adoption by the SPCC.

Monitor and evaluate existing programs and report on these to the SPCC.

Attend and keep records of the meetings of the SPCC.

Perform othere duties assigned by the SPCC.

The SPCC is given the authority to:

Adopt rules and make policies as provided for in the Article.

Issue, deny, suspend, revoke, modify or restrict licenses.

Report annually to the Board of Agriculture.

In addition, the amendments to Article 4C allow the SPCC a larger role in the selection and oversight of the Director of the Division. Currently appointed by the Commissioner, the bill provides that the Director shall be chosen from a list of nominees provided by the SPCC. The Director's duties are to be set by the Commissioner in consultation with the SPCC and the Director is to be answerable to both the Commissioner and the SPCC for the operation of the Division.

Section 2 of the bill rewrites definitions. The term "call office" is deleted and replaced with the term "branch office". A branch office is any office under the management of a licensee that is not a home office. The term "home office" is redefined to mean the place of business identified to the Division as the principle place of business. The term "licensee" is redefined to mean a person qualified and holding a license for any phase of structural pest control.

Section 3 of the bill makes two substantial changes to G.S. 106-65.25 regarding prohibited acts.

The first major change provides some flexibility to persons who wish to engage in the structural pest control business. Curently such a person must himself be licensed. The amendment would allow a person to advertise, engage in, or supervise work in any phase of structural pest control, or otherwise act in the capacity of structural pest control licensee if the person either is licensed or employes a licensee as a full time regular employee responsible for each phase of structural pest control.

The second major change would allow a licensee to establish branch offices, the maximum number of which is to be set by the SPCC but in no event fewer than two branch offices in addition to a home office. It is unlawful for a licensee to establish more branch offices than allowed by rule, to fail to supervise the work performed out of any office under his management, to allow his license to be used by a person or company for which he is not a full-time regular employee, use prohibited materials or devices or use approved pesticides or devices in an unapproved manner, or to use or supervise the use of a restricted use pesticide for which he is not licensed.

Other portions of G.S. 106-65.25 are also rewritten for clarity and moved within the section.

Section 4 of the bill amends G.S. 106-65.26(d) expanding the bases for refusing to allow a license applicant to sit for an examination. As rewritten these will include violations of G.S. 106-65.25(b), regarding the operation and supervision of branch offices, and felonies, in addtion to crimes involving moral turpitude.

Section 5 of the bill amends G.S. 106-65.27(c1) to allow the SPCC to grant an additional 90 days during which a structural pest control business may operate without a licensee assigned to it in the event of the death or disability of the licensee.

Sec tion 6 of the bill ads a new subsection to G.S. 106-65.28 that would curtail the commercial use of any pesticide, material, or device for which the SPCC has requested information from the manufacturer or registrant but that request has been denied. Such pesticides and other material may only be used by an individual applying the material on his own property.

Section 7 of the bill would allow the SPCC to adopt rules that would require manufacturers and registrants of pesticides and other materials to provide efficacy data and other technical information on such products. Confidential information provided under these rules is not required to be disclosed by the Division or SPCC.

Section 8 of the bill provides the Division with discretion as to the number of inspections it conducts of work done by licensees.

Section 9 of the bill raises the fee for any one phase of structural pest control from $125 to $150 per year. Each additional phase license fee is raised from $50 to $65. The fee for each subphase license is raised from $10 to $15 annually.

Section 10 of the bill amends G.S. 106-65.33, Violation of Article, to provide that the SPCC and the Commissioner are not required under the provisions of Article 4C to initiate criminal or administrative proceedings for minor violations of the article if the SPCC or Commissioner determins that the public interest would be adequately served by written warning.

Section 11 of the bill amends the civil penalties portion of Article 4C to authorize the SPCC to impose a civil penalty for violations of G.S. 106-65.28(a)(14) and (15). Subsection (14) prohibits applying a substance that contains the active ingredients of a registered pesticide but is not a registered pesticide. Subsection (15) prohibits combining a substance whose application is prohibited pursuant to Subsection (14) with any other substance to apply as a pesticide or for any other reason. The amendment also provides that a civil penalty may be levied against any person who violates the provisions of Article 4C or the rules adopted thereunder by the SPCC.

The act becomes effective October 1, 1999.

Short Title: Coastal Recreational Fishing License. (Public)

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO ESTABLISH A COASTAL RECREATIONAL FISHING LICENSE.

Whereas, the State of North Carolina has one of the most diverse fisheries in the United States; and

Whereas, the General Assembly recognizes that for many citizens fishing is an important recreational activity and that recreational fishing is a source of great personal enjoyment and satisfaction; and

Whereas, the General Assembly recognizes the importance of providing plentiful fishery resources to maintain and enhance tourism as a major contributor to the economy of the State; and

Whereas, the General Assembly recognizes that commercial fishermen perform an essential function by providing wholesome food for the citizens of the State, nation, and world, and thereby properly earn a livelihood; and

Whereas, the General Assembly recognizes the economic contribution and important heritage of traditional full-time and part-time commercial fishing; and

Whereas, the General Assembly recognizes the need to protect our coastal fishery resources and to balance the commercial and recreational interests through better management of these resources; and

Whereas, the General Assembly is committed to the continued viability of both recreational and commercial fishing industries in the State; and

Whereas, the General Assembly intends that the commercial fishing industry be allowed to continue to take fish by means of all methods traditionally employed in commercial fishing operations, including the use of nets and trawls; and

Whereas, the General Assembly finds that in order to protect coastal fishery resources, it is essential that the recreational as well as the commercial fishing sectors provide data on use of fishery resources for the development of scientifically valid plans to manage fishery resources; and

Whereas, the General Assembly finds that it is essential to the success of efforts to better manage fishery resources that both the recreational and commercial fishing sectors are involved in and support these efforts; Now, therefore,

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. Chapter 113 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new Article to read:

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO ESTABLISH A COASTAL RECREATIONAL FISHING LICENSE.

Whereas, the State of North Carolina has one of the most diverse fisheries in the United States; and

Whereas, the General Assembly recognizes that for many citizens fishing is an important recreational activity and that recreational fishing is a source of great personal enjoyment and satisfaction; and

Whereas, the General Assembly recognizes the importance of providing plentiful fishery resources to maintain and enhance tourism as a major contributor to the economy of the State; and

Whereas, the General Assembly recognizes that commercial fishermen perform an essential function by providing wholesome food for the citizens of the State, nation, and world, and thereby properly earn a livelihood; and

Whereas, the General Assembly recognizes the economic contribution and important heritage of traditional full-time and part-time commercial fishing; and

Whereas, the General Assembly recognizes the need to protect our coastal fishery resources and to balance the commercial and recreational interests through better management of these resources; and

Whereas, the General Assembly is committed to the continued viability of both recreational and commercial fishing industries in the State; and

Whereas, the General Assembly intends that the commercial fishing industry be allowed to continue to take fish by means of all methods traditionally employed in commercial fishing operations, including the use of nets and trawls; and

Whereas, the General Assembly finds that in order to protect coastal fishery resources, it is essential that the recreational as well as the commercial fishing sectors provide data on use of fishery resources for the development of scientifically valid plans to manage fishery resources; and

Whereas, the General Assembly finds that it is essential to the success of efforts to better manage fishery resources that both the recreational and commercial fishing sectors are involved in and support these efforts; Now, therefore,

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

These sections become effective when the act becomes law.

BILL SUMMARY: Establishes general provisions governing a coastal recreational fishing license. Sets out a fee structure for the sale of coastal recreational fishing licenses. Recodifies the existing recreational commercial gear license. Creates the Sealife Enhancement Fund to hold the proceeds from the sale of the new coastal recreational fishing license and provides for the allocation of the proceeds upon direction of the Marine Fisheries Commission.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:

REVENUES

Total revenue from the sale of Coastal Recreational Fishing Licenses (CRFL) proposed in House Bill 1434 is estimated using data collected by the Division of Marine Fisheries through annual Marine Recreational Fishery Statistics Surveys. The surveys include direct interviews with approximately 20,000 anglers at various public access points along the North Carolina coast, as well as telephone interviews with 20,000 additional, randomly selected persons.

Information obtained through the surveys is used to estimate the total number of marine or coastal anglers in North Carolina, the total number of coastal fishing trips annually and the mode of fishing (i.e. from a man-made structure, beach or bank, charter/head boat or private boats).

The following two tables summarize the results of the annual survey over the last five years:

Table 1:

Estimated Number of Marine Recreational Anglers in NC, 1993-1997

	Coastal Residents	Non-Coastal Residents	Out-of State	Total Anglers
1997	321,520	163,261	840,679	1,325,460
1996	260,000	176,000	708,000	1,144,000
1995	340,000	216,000	721,000	1,277,000
1994	409,000	256,000	815,000	1,480,000
1993	398,000	224,000	745,000	1,367,000
5 Year Average	345,704	207,052	765,936	1,318,692
Percentage of Total	26%	16%	58%

	Man-made	Beach/Bank	Charter Boats	Private Boats	Total
1997	1,272,993	1,704,436	294,890	1,509,565	4,781,884
1996	1,246,284	1,802,507	243,156	1,312,645	4,604,592
1995	1,437,773	2,020,224	203,719	1,330,754	4,992,470
1994	1,595,701	1,904,294	186,188	1,483,954	5,170,137
1993	1,316,431	1,832,538	130,929	1,436,184	4,716,082
5 Year Average	1,373,836	1,852,800	211,776	1,414,620	4,853,033
Percentage of Total	28%	38%	4%	29%

Based on the five-year average number of estimated marine anglers (Table 1), there are 1,318,692 potential licensees. However, the bill provides for a number of general exemptions and individual licenses at no charge, reducing the number of potential anglers subject to the coastal recreational fishing license fees. Table 3 outlines the adjustments necessary to estimate the number of anglers who may be required to purchase a license:

Table 3: Calculation of Adjusted Total Number of Anglers

Total Number of Anglers, 5 year average:		1,318,692
No Charge Licenses, General Exemptions, Attrition
1. Standard/Retired Standard Commercial Fishing License (SCFL/RSCFL)	20,000
2. Wildlife Resources Commission - Lifetime Resident Comprehensive Fishing License and Lifetime Sportsman Combination License Holders (87,686 issued; assume 90% will seek CRFL)	78,917
Less SCFL/RSCFL, WRC Lifetime		98,917
Subtotal		1,219,775
3. Subsistence, Permanently Handicapped/Disabled, Disabled Veteran, Legally Blind, Attrition (Assume 15% of subtotal anglers to capture persons eligible for no charge licenses and possible attrition; note recent annual fluctuation in total anglers)	182,966
4. Persons < 16 Years of Age (1997 North Carolina Marine Recreational Fishery Statistics Survey indicates 7.2% of coastal anglers are under the age of 16; assume 8% of subtotal anglers will fall under this exemption)	97,582
5. Persons age 65 and over (1997 North Carolina Marine Recreational Fishery Statistics Survey indicates 8.1% of coastal anglers are age 65 and over; assume 9% of subtotal anglers will fall under this exemption)	109,780
Less Other No Charge Licenses, General Exemptions, Attrition		390,328
Adjusted Total Number of Anglers		829,447

According to the Division of Marine Fisheries, applying the percentages associated with each type of fishing trip (Table 2) to the adjusted total number of anglers (Table 3) provides a rough estimate of the number of anglers engaging in that particular mode of fishing. Table 4 provides a breakdown of total anglers by type of fishing trip:

Table 4: Estimated Marine Recreational Anglers by Type of Fishing Trip

	Man-made	Beach/Bank	Charter Boats	Private Boats	Total
Adjusted for no charge licenses, general exemptions and attrition	234,807	316,668	36,195	241,777	829,447

Note: Because the Marine Recreational Fishery Statistics Survey does not include private entry points, such as personally owned piers or docks, man-made structures are assumed to be commercial or other public fishing piers and structures.

These numbers can be used to estimate the number of additional exemptions as specified in the bill and the number of anglers purchasing CRFLs as follows:

Table 5: Calculation of Anglers Purchasing Coastal Recreational Fishing Licenses

Adjusted Total Number of Anglers		829,447
Blanket Licenses and Specific Fishing Related Exemptions
1. Beach/Bank Exemption	316,668
2. Charter/Head/Dive Boat Blanket (Assume 30% of charter boat fishermen will purchase a CRFL to fish using a different means; therefore 70% will fall under the blanket license)	25,337
3. Ocean Fishing Pier Blanket (Assume 30% of pier fishermen will purchase a CRFL to fish using a different means, therefore 70% of those persons fishing from man-made structures will fall under the blanket license.	164,365
Less Blanket Licenses and Exemptions		506,370
Adjusted Total Number of Anglers Purchasing CRFLs		323,077

The estimated revenue from the sale of the Coastal Recreational Fishing License as outlined in the bill follows:

This revenue estimate is based on the following assumptions:

1. Since the total number of anglers can vary significantly from year to year (Table 1), possible attrition was accounted for in calculating the number of potential anglers subject to the CRFL fees (Table 3). However, a comparison of total anglers in 1993 versus 1997, indicates very little change over the five-year period; therefore, no additional attrition or growth is assumed in projecting future revenues.

2. The license provisions become effective March 1, 2001. License revenue for the 2000-01 fiscal year is assumed to be one-fourth of the annual amount.

3. Lifetime licenses are assumed to be 0.50% of total sales. The sale of lifetime licenses to persons under age 70 accounted for 0.89% of total Wildlife Resources Commission (WRC) license sales in the 1997-98 fiscal year. Because House Bill 1434 contains a beach and shore-based structure exemption and blanket licenses, the sale of lifetime CRFLs is anticipated to account for a lower percentage of total sales than Wildlife experiences.

4. The distribution of lifetime license sales among the various age groupings is based on the sale WRC lifetime licenses.

5. Distribution of license sales among the short-term licenses is assumed to be 70% for the standard or annual license, 25% for the weekly and 5% for the daily.

6. The Division of Marine Fisheries estimates revenue from the Charter/Head Boat Blanket CRFL based on known charter boat operations and average vessel lengths to be $23,700 annually.

7. The Division of Marine Fisheries estimates revenue from the Ocean Fishing Pier Blanket CRFL based on the known number of piers and average lengths to be $84,180 annually.

The proceeds from the sale of recreational licenses are to be credited to the Sealife Enhancement Fund established in the bill. The Marine Fisheries Commission is responsible for directing the use of the funds in accordance with the specified percentages and limitations established in the bill. The allocation of funds for administration may not exceed 10%.

Other Revenue Issues

The bill repeals the current pier license of $0.50 per linear foot. The Division of Marine Fisheries currently retains the proceeds from this fee to offset operating costs. The division estimates the repeal of this fee will reduce annual revenue by $8,418.

House Bill 1434 also changes the amount to be retained by authorized license agents from the sale of Recreational Commercial Gear Licenses (RCGL). The licenses will go on sale July 1, 1999. Agents are currently authorized to charge $1.00 in addition to the NC resident RCGL fee of $35.00. The bill changes this practice to reimburse the agent 6% of the license fee or $2.10 per license sold. The Division expects 10,000 RCGLs will be sold annually through license agents, reducing annual revenue by $21,000.

EXPENDITURES

This analysis assumes the coastal license program will be automated and integrated with the existing license system operated by the Wildlife Resources Commission. However, the WRC must provide prior approval before system modification and development proceeds.

Wildlife Resources Commission

The Division of Marine Fisheries would like to take advantage of the automated licensing system employed by the Wildlife Resources Commission and the large network of WRC License Agents to sell CRFLs.

To accommodate the additional license types, the Wildlife system will require some modification and upgrades. Based on the license proposal in House Bill 1434, the WRC estimates the cost for software modification to be $150,000 and the cost of system upgrades to accommodate additional license agents and increased volume to be $350,000. Point of sale computer equipment will be provided to any new agent selling the CRFLs. Assuming 200 business owners in coastal counties choose to sell the licenses, an additional $280,000 ($1,400 per agent) will be required for hardware costs. The total up front cost for license system modification and equipment will require a General Fund appropriation of $780,000.

Division of Marine Fisheries

Integration of the Marine Fisheries licensing system with the Wildlife licensing system will also require up front General Fund expenditures for system development. The division estimates that $1,008,086 will be required in the 1999-2000 fiscal year for additional hardware, software development and related information technology expenses. Funds are needed in the 1999-2000 fiscal year to ensure that the system is complete and operational by March 1, 2001 when the licenses go on sale.

The division also anticipates requiring additional staff and operating support to administer the CRFL program. An administrative officer will oversee management of the license program and will serve as the primary contact with the WRC. A computer programmer will be responsible for system maintenance, quality control and data transfer. A computer tech position is needed to provide technical assistance to license agents. An accounting clerk will be responsible for tracking license sales, deposits and auditing sales records. Two processing assistants will issue licenses, handle questions concerning license requirements and regulations, and data entry in the Morehead and Columbia offices. For the purposes of this analysis positions are assumed to be effective September 1, 2000, or six months prior to the effective date of the licenses to allow for recruitment and training. Operating support for the 2000-01 fiscal year is assumed to be one half the annual amount since the licenses will not go on sale until March 1, 2001.

In addition, the division will pay a per transaction fee to the Wildlife Resources Commission to cover the commission's costs for technical support, hardware maintenance, and communication charges associated with the transfer of data to and from agents. The transaction fee will be based on expected volume of license sales.

Beginning July 1, 1999 the WRC will sell the Recreational Commercial Gear License (RCFL) on behalf of the Division of Marine Fisheries. Wildlife will receive $3.50 per license sold, or 10% of the $35.00 resident RCGL fee. For the purposes of this analysis, the per transaction fee is assumed to be 10% of the CRFL fee.

The total estimated budget requirements for Marine Fisheries to implement the Coastal Recreational Fishing License requirements is outlined in the following table:

The bill authorizes up to 10% of the funds credited to the Sealife Enhancement Fund to be used for administrative costs. Based on the revenue projections outlined on page 4 (Table 6), this allowance will not cover the required expenditures beginning with the 2000-01 fiscal year. Assuming the Marine Fisheries Commission authorizes the maximum for administration, a General Fund appropriation will be required to cover the remainder as follows:

Total revenue from the sale of Coastal Recreational Fishing Licenses (CRFL) proposed in House Bill 1434 is estimated using data collected by the Division of Marine Fisheries through annual Marine Recreational Fishery Statistics Surveys. The surveys include direct interviews with approximately 20,000 anglers at various public access points along the North Carolina coast, as well as telephone interviews with 20,000 additional, randomly selected persons.

Information obtained through the surveys is used to estimate the total number of marine or coastal anglers in North Carolina, the total number of coastal fishing trips annually and the mode of fishing (i.e. from a man-made structure, beach or bank, charter/head boat or private boats).

The following two tables summarize the results of the annual survey over the last five years:

Table 1:

Based on the five-year average number of estimated marine anglers (Table 1), there are 1,318,692 potential licensees. However, the bill provides for a number of general exemptions and individual licenses at no charge, reducing the number of potential anglers subject to the coastal recreational fishing license fees. Table 3 outlines the adjustments necessary to estimate the number of anglers who may be required to purchase a license:

Table 3: Calculation of Adjusted Total Number of Anglers

Total Number of Anglers, 5 year average:		1,318,692
No Charge Licenses, General Exemptions, Attrition
1. Standard/Retired Standard Commercial Fishing License (SCFL/RSCFL)	20,000
2. Wildlife Resources Commission - Lifetime Resident Comprehensive Fishing License and Lifetime Sportsman Combination License Holders (87,686 issued; assume 90% will seek CRFL)	78,917
Less SCFL/RSCFL, WRC Lifetime		98,917
Subtotal		1,219,775
3. Subsistence, Permanently Handicapped/Disabled, Disabled Veteran, Legally Blind, Attrition (Assume 15% of subtotal anglers to capture persons eligible for no charge licenses and possible attrition; note recent annual fluctuation in total anglers)	182,966
4. Persons < 16 Years of Age (1997 North Carolina Marine Recreational Fishery Statistics Survey indicates 7.2% of coastal anglers are under the age of 16; assume 8% of subtotal anglers will fall under this exemption)	97,582
5. Persons age 65 and over (1997 North Carolina Marine Recreational Fishery Statistics Survey indicates 8.1% of coastal anglers are age 65 and over; assume 9% of subtotal anglers will fall under this exemption)	109,780
Less Other No Charge Licenses, General Exemptions, Attrition		390,328
Adjusted Total Number of Anglers		829,447

According to the Division of Marine Fisheries, applying the percentages associated with each type of fishing trip (Table 2) to the adjusted total number of anglers (Table 3) provides a rough estimate of the number of anglers engaging in that particular mode of fishing. Table 4 provides a breakdown of total anglers by type of fishing trip:

Table 4: Estimated Marine Recreational Anglers by Type of Fishing Trip

	Man-made	Beach/Bank	Charter Boats	Private Boats	Total
Adjusted for no charge licenses, general exemptions and attrition	234,807	316,668	36,195	241,777	829,447

Note: Because the Marine Recreational Fishery Statistics Survey does not include private entry points, such as personally owned piers or docks, man-made structures are assumed to be commercial or other public fishing piers and structures.

These numbers can be used to estimate the number of additional exemptions as specified in the bill and the number of anglers purchasing CRFLs as follows:

Table 5: Calculation of Anglers Purchasing Coastal Recreational Fishing Licenses

Adjusted Total Number of Anglers		829,447
Blanket Licenses and Specific Fishing Related Exemptions
1. Beach/Bank Exemption	316,668
2. Charter/Head/Dive Boat Blanket (Assume 30% of charter boat fishermen will purchase a CRFL to fish using a different means; therefore 70% will fall under the blanket license)	25,337
3. Ocean Fishing Pier Blanket (Assume 30% of pier fishermen will purchase a CRFL to fish using a different means, therefore 70% of those persons fishing from man-made structures will fall under the blanket license.	164,365
Adjusted Total Number of Anglers Purchasing CRFLs		323,077

The estimated revenue from the sale of the Coastal Recreational Fishing License as outlined in the bill follows:

Table 6: Estimated Revenue Generated by Coastal Recreational Fishing License

Less License Agent Fee (6%)			$0	($37,176)	($148,704)	($148,704)
Net Revenue from CRFL Receipts -- Credited to the Sealife Enhancement Fund			$0	$582,425	$2,329,699	$2,329,699

This revenue estimate is based on the following assumptions:

1. Since the total number of anglers can vary significantly from year to year (Table 1), possible attrition was accounted for in calculating the number of potential anglers subject to the CRFL fees (Table 3). However, a comparison of total anglers in 1993 versus 1997, indicates very little change over the five-year period; therefore, no additional attrition or growth is assumed in projecting future revenues.

2. The license provisions become effective March 1, 2002. License revenue for the 2001-02 fiscal year is assumed to be one-fourth of the annual amount.

3. Lifetime licenses are assumed to be 0.50% of total sales. The sale of lifetime licenses to persons under age 70 accounted for 0.89% of total Wildlife Resources Commission (WRC) license sales in the 1997-98 fiscal year. Because House Bill 1434 contains a beach and shore-based structure exemption and blanket licenses, the sale of lifetime CRFLs is anticipated to account for a lower percentage of total sales than Wildlife experiences.

4. The distribution of lifetime license sales among the various age groupings is based on the sale of WRC lifetime licenses.

5. Distribution of license sales among the short-term licenses is assumed to be 70% for the standard or annual license, 30% for the ten day.

6. The Division of Marine Fisheries estimates revenue from the Charter/Head Boat Blanket CRFL based on known charter boat operations and average vessel lengths to be $23,700 annually.

7. The Division of Marine Fisheries estimates revenue from the Ocean Fishing Pier Blanket CRFL based on the known number of piers and average lengths to be $16,836 annually.

The proceeds from the sale of recreational licenses are to be credited to the Sealife Enhancement Fund established in the bill. The Marine Fisheries Commission is responsible for directing the use of the funds in accordance with the specified percentages and limitations established in the bill. The allocation of funds for administration may not exceed 10%.

Other Revenue Issues

The bill repeals the current pier license of $0.50 per linear foot. The Division of Marine Fisheries currently retains the proceeds from this fee to offset operating costs. The division estimates the repeal of this fee will reduce annual revenue by $8,418.

House Bill 1434 also changes the amount to be retained by authorized license agents from the sale of Recreational Commercial Gear Licenses (RCGL). The licenses will go on sale July 1, 1999. Agents are currently authorized to charge $1.00 in addition to the NC resident RCGL fee of $35.00. The bill changes this practice to reimburse the agent 6% of the license fee or $2.10 per license sold. The Division expects 10,000 RCGLs will be sold annually through license agents, reducing annual revenue by $21,000.

EXPENDITURES

This analysis assumes the coastal license program will be automated and integrated with the existing license system operated by the Wildlife Resources Commission. However, the WRC must provide prior approval before system modification and development proceeds.

Wildlife Resources Commission

The Division of Marine Fisheries would like to take advantage of the automated licensing system employed by the Wildlife Resources Commission and the large network of WRC License Agents to sell CRFLs.

To accommodate the additional license types, the Wildlife system will require some modification and upgrades. Based on the license proposal in House Bill 1434, the WRC estimates the cost for software modification to be $150,000 and the cost of system upgrades to accommodate additional license agents and increased volume to be $350,000. Point of sale computer equipment will be provided to any new agent selling the CRFLs. Assuming 200 business owners in coastal counties choose to sell the licenses, an additional $280,000 ($1,400 per agent) will be required for hardware costs. The total up front cost for license system modification and equipment will require a General Fund appropriation of $780,000. Funds are needed in the 2000-01 fiscal year to ensure that the system is complete and operational by March 1, 2002 when the licenses go on sale.

Division of Marine Fisheries

Integration of the Marine Fisheries licensing system with the Wildlife licensing system will also require up front General Fund expenditures for system development. The division estimates that $1,008,086 will be required in the 2000-01 fiscal year for additional hardware, software development and related information technology expenses. Funds are needed in the 2000-01 fiscal year to ensure that the system is complete and operational by March 1, 2002 when the licenses go on sale.

The division also anticipates requiring additional staff and operating support to administer the CRFL program. An administrative officer will oversee management of the license program and will serve as the primary contact with the WRC. A computer programmer will be responsible for system maintenance, quality control and data transfer. A computer tech position is needed to provide technical assistance to license agents. An accounting clerk will be responsible for tracking license sales, deposits and auditing sales records. Two processing assistants will issue licenses, handle questions concerning license requirements and regulations, and data entry in the Morehead and Columbia offices. For the purposes of this analysis positions are assumed to be effective September 1, 2001, or six months prior to the effective date of the licenses to allow for recruitment and training. Operating support for the 2001-02 fiscal year is assumed to be one half the annual amount since the licenses will not go on sale until March 1, 2002.

In addition, the division will pay a per transaction fee to the Wildlife Resources Commission to cover the commission's costs for technical support, hardware maintenance, and communication charges associated with the transfer of data to and from agents. The transaction fee will be based on expected volume of license sales.

Beginning July 1, 1999 the WRC will sell the Recreational Commercial Gear License (RCFL) on behalf of the Division of Marine Fisheries. Wildlife will receive $3.50 per license sold, or 10% of the $35.00 resident RCGL fee. For the purposes of this analysis, the per transaction fee is assumed to be 10% of the CRFL fee.

The total estimated budget requirements for Marine Fisheries to implement the Coastal Recreational Fishing License requirements is outlined in the following table:

The bill authorizes up to 10% of the funds credited to the Sealife Enhancement Fund to be used for administrative costs. Based on the revenue projections outlined on page 4 (Table 6), this allowance will not cover the required expenditures beginning with the 2001-02 fiscal year. Assuming the Marine Fisheries Commission authorizes the maximum for administration, a General Fund appropriation will be required to cover the remainder as follows:

Proposed Committee Substitute for House Bill 1434

(Coastal Recreational Fishing License)

H1434-PCS3451-RT

The Proposed Committee Substitute for HB 1434 makes the following changes to the Second Edition of the bill:

Clarifies that the Coastal Recreational Fishing License requirement only applies to coastal fishing waters.

Replaces the $3.50, One Week Coastal Recreational Fishing License (CRFL) with a $5.00, Ten Day CRFL.

Deletes the $1.00, One Day CRFL.

Exempts holders of a Standard Commercial Fishing License or Retired Standard Commercial Fishing License from the requirement to hold a CRFL in order to engage in recreational fishing by means of recreational gear.

Adds a December 31, 2002 sunset to the provision that allows the holder of a Wildlife Resources Commission Lifetime Resident Comprehensive Fishing License or a Lifetime Sportsman Combination License to obtain a free Lifetime CRFL.

Reduces the fee for the Ocean Fishing Pier Blanket CRFL from $5.00 per linear foot to $1.00 per linear foot.

Conforms an exemption to the Recreational Commercial Gear License requirement with S.L. 99-0209, which became law June 28, 1999.

Provides that for purposes of the Sealife Enhancement Fund, "License revenues" means net proceeds from the sale of the CRFL. This clarifies that license agents will receive a fee for the sale of the CRFL prior to the deposit of license proceeds into the Sealife Enhancement Fund.

Clarifies that the Sealife Enhancement Fund is a nonreverting fund.

Changes the allowable distribution of moneys from the Sealife Enhancement Fund as follows

- Increases the percentage of moneys that must be used for resource and habitat enhancement from 25% to 40% and adds an illustrative list of the types of activities to be funded for resource and habitat enhancement.
- Decreases the maximum percentage of moneys to be used for Law Enforcement from 25% to 15%.
- Adds an illustrative list of the types of activities to be funded for marine fisheries research.
- Decreases the maximum percentage of moneys to be used for grants from 10% to 5%.

Replaces the requirement that the Department of Environment and Natural Resources refund to each license agent 6% of the value of each license sold with a provision that authorizes each license agent to deduct a fee of 6% from the amount collected for each license.

Replaces the March 1, 2001 effective date with a March 1, 2002 effective date.

"ARTICLE 2.

"Security Interest Bonds for Financing Capital Facilities for The University of North Carolina.

"§ 116D-5. Short title.

This Article may be cited as the University Improvement Security Interest Bonds Finance Act.

"§ 116D-6. Findings and purpose.

The General Assembly finds that:

(1) Article IX of the North Carolina Constitution requires the General Assembly to maintain a public system of higher education comprising The University of North Carolina, that the benefits of the University, as far as practicable, be extended to the people of North Carolina without expense.

(2) Recent studies have shown that billions of dollars will be necessary to repair and renovate the current facilities of the University, to expand the facilities to meet future enrollment demands, to modernize existing facilities of the University in order for the University to continue to provide excellent educational opportunities for the people of North Carolina, and to meet the challenges of changing technologies and globalization of economies.

(3) The University is one of the most valuable assets of the State, and the State cannot afford to permit the quality of the University to decline due to failure to maintain, expand, and modernize the facilities of the University. The failure to expend the required amounts to maintain, modernize, and expand the University will have a significant negative impact upon the continuing quality of the University. Such a negative impact is unacceptable to the citizens of the State.

(4) The University's capital facilities have been and will continue to be provided from University funds on hand, direct appropriations by the State, the proceeds of University self-liquidating debt obligations, and the proceeds of State general obligation bonds secured by a pledge of the faith and credit of the State. There is a need, however, for the use of alternative financing methods to facilitate funding capital facilities when circumstances and conditions warrant the use of financing methods other than those currently used.

(5) The use of State of North Carolina University Improvement Security Interest Bonds, secured by a lien on or security interest in University property acquired, constructed, or improved with the bond proceeds, with the payments of principal and interest appropriated by the General Assembly, will provide flexibility to the State in the financing of facilities for the University and will permit the State to take advantage of changing financial and economic environments.

"§ 116D-7. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Bonds. -- Bonds authorized to be issued under this Article, including refunding bonds.

(2) Notes. -- Notes issued under this Article.

(3) University improvement security interest bonds. -- Bonds authorized to be issued under this Article, including refunding bonds.

"§ 116D-8. Authorization of bonds and notes.

The State Treasurer may, by and with the consent of the Council of State, issue and sell, at one time or from time to time, university improvement security interest bonds of the State to be designated 'State of North Carolina University Improvement Security Interest Bonds', with any additional designations as may be determined to indicate the issuance of bonds from time to time, or notes of the State. Except as otherwise provided by this Article, the aggregate amount of bonds and notes issued pursuant to this Article shall not exceed two billion seven hundred million dollars ($2,700,000,000). The bonds and notes shall be issued in the following years up to the following amounts:

Fiscal Year	Aggregate Amount
1999-2000	$240,000,000
2000-2001	480,000,000
2001-2002	700,000,000
2002-2003	640,000,000
2003-2004	640,000,000

If less than the aggregate amount of bonds or notes authorized to be issued in a fiscal year is issued in that fiscal year, the balance for that fiscal year may be issued in any subsequent fiscal year. Refunding bonds and notes issued pursuant to G.S. 116D-11(f) shall not be included in the limitation on the aggregate amount of bonds and notes that may be issued pursuant to this Article.

The proceeds of bonds or notes issued under this Article shall be applied to finance the cost of improvement, construction, and acquisition of capital facilities for the University or to refund any outstanding bonds or notes issued under this Article. The capital facilities to be improved, constructed, or acquired with the proceeds of bonds or notes shall be determined as provided in G.S. 116D-9.

"§ 116D-9. Designation of capital facilities and preconditions to bond issuance.

The capital facilities to be financed in whole or in part with the proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds shall be set forth in legislation enacted from time to time by the General Assembly. The proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds shall not be expended to pay the costs of any capital facilities other than those set forth in that legislation.

"§ 116D-10. Security; other requirements.

(a) Security. -- To secure payment of the principal of and interest on bonds or notes issued under this Article, the State may create a lien on or a security interest in one or more of the following:

(1) In all or any part of the capital facilities to be financed by the bonds or notes.

(2) In the case of construction of improvements on real property, in all or some portion of the land on which the improvements are to be located or in all or part of the improvements.

(3) In the case of renovations or improvements to or the installation of fixtures in existing facilities, in all or some portion of the existing facilities, or in all or part of the renovations or improvements.

Chapter 146 of the General Statutes does not apply to any transfer of the State's interest in property authorized by this Article, whether to a deed of trust trustee or other secured party as security for university improvement security interest bonds, or to a purchaser of property in connection with a foreclosure or similar conveyance of property to realize upon the security for university improvement security interest bonds following the State's default on its obligations under the bonds or notes or any trust agreement or other instrument securing payment of the bonds or notes. The security for an issue of bonds shall be set forth in general terms in the resolution of the Council of State authorizing the issuance of the bonds. The property that will be the subject of a lien, deed of trust, or security interest to secure the bonds need not bear any particular relationship to the principal amount of the bonds or notes. The State may grant multiple liens or security interests in a capital facility to the extent not otherwise limited by the terms of other issues of bonds or notes.

(b) Default. -- If university improvement security interest bonds are secured by a lien, deed of trust, or security interest in multiple items of property, the mortgage, deed of trust, or security agreement or other instrument creating the lien, deed of trust, or security interest shall provide that if the State defaults on its obligations with respect to university improvement security interest bonds, the Board of Governors, on behalf of the State, shall determine the order in which the property comprising the security shall be sold or otherwise conveyed to satisfy the obligations of the State. In carrying out the provisions of this subsection, the Board of Governors shall endeavor to select for sale or conveyance to satisfy the obligations of the State those items of property that, in the judgment of the Board of Governors, if sold, would result in the least amount of interruption to the operations of the University as a whole and its ability to carry out its mission. Any determination made by the Board of Governors in carrying out this endeavor shall be conclusive. Nothing in this subsection prohibits the sale or conveyance of up to all of the property securing university improvement security interest bonds to the extent necessary to satisfy the obligations of the State under the bonds.

(c) Governor's Budget. -- Documentation relating to any bonds or notes may include provisions requiring the Governor to submit in the Governor's budget proposal, or in any amendments or supplements to the budget proposal, appropriations necessary to make the payments required to pay the bonds or notes.

(d) Appropriations. -- Amounts payable by the State in respect of an issue of bonds or notes during any fiscal period shall be limited to funds appropriated for that purpose by the General Assembly in its discretion.

(e) State Liability. -- No deficiency judgment may be rendered against the State in any action for breach of any obligation contained in an issue of bonds or notes or any trust agreement or other instrument securing payment of the bonds or notes. The taxing power of the State is not and may not be pledged directly or indirectly to secure any moneys due under an issue of bonds or notes. In the event that the State fails to pay any payments required under or with respect to an issue of bonds or notes, whether on account of a failure by the General Assembly to appropriate sufficient funds for the payment or for some other reason, the net proceeds received from the sale or other disposition of the capital facilities subject to the lien or security interest securing the bonds or notes shall be applied to satisfy the payment obligations in accordance with the deed of trust, security agreement, or other documentation relating to the lien or security interest, and the net proceeds are hereby appropriated for the purpose of making those payments. Any net proceeds in excess of the amount required to satisfy the obligations of the State under an issue of bonds or notes shall be paid to the State Treasurer for deposit to the General Fund.

(f) Nonsubstitution Clause. -- No documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes may contain a nonsubstitution clause that restricts the right of the State to (i) continue to provide a service or conduct an activity or (ii) replace or provide a substitute for any capital facility financed or purchased by the bonds or notes.

(g) Terms Protecting Lender. -- The documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes may contain provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the owners of the bonds or notes that are reasonable and proper and not in violation of law. It may include covenants setting forth the duties of the State in respect of the purposes to which the proceeds of the bonds or notes may be applied, the disposition and application of any appropriations of the State, and the duties of the State with respect to the capital facilities financed, including, without limitation, the payment of the costs of insurance and maintenance of the capital facilities, the terms under which the collateral securing the bonds may be released or substitute collateral may be delivered, the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds or notes similarly secured, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys.

(h) Statement on Face of Bonds. -- Bonds issued under this Article shall contain on their face a statement to the effect that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the State or of any political subdivision or instrumentality of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of or the interest on the bonds.

"§ 116D-11. Issuance of bonds and notes.

(a) Terms and Conditions. -- Bonds or notes may bear any dates, may be serial or term bonds or notes, or any combination of these, may mature in any amounts and at any times, not exceeding 25 years from their dates, may be payable at any places, either within or without the United States, in any coin or currency of the United States that at the time of payment is legal tender for payment of public and private debts, may bear interest at any rates, which may vary from time to time, and may be made redeemable before maturity, at the option of the State or otherwise as may be provided by the State, at any prices, including a price greater than the face amount of the bonds or notes, and under any terms and conditions, all as may be determined by the State Treasurer, by and with the consent of the Council of State.

(b) Signatures; Form and Denomination; Registration. -- Bonds or notes may be issued in certificated or uncertificated form. If issued in certificated form, bonds or notes shall be signed on behalf of the State by the Governor or shall bear the Governor's facsimile signature, shall be signed by the State Treasurer or shall bear the State Treasurer's facsimile signature, and shall bear the Great Seal of the State or a facsimile of the Seal impressed or imprinted on them. If bonds or notes bear the facsimile signatures of the Governor and the State Treasurer, the bonds or notes shall also bear a manual signature which may be that of a bond registrar, trustee, paying agent, or designated assistant of the State Treasurer. The form and denomination of bonds or notes, including the provisions with respect to registration of the bonds or notes and any system for their registration, shall be as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this Article.

(c) Manner of Sale; Expenses. -- Subject to the approval by the Council of State as to the manner in which bonds or notes shall be offered for sale, whether at public or private sale, whether within or without the United States, and whether by publishing notices in certain newspapers and financial journals, mailing notices, inviting bids by correspondence, negotiating contracts of purchase or otherwise, the State Treasurer is authorized to sell bonds or notes at one time or from time to time at any rates of interest, which may vary from time to time, and at any prices, including a price less than the face amount of the bonds or notes, as the State Treasurer may determine. All expenses incurred in the preparation, sale, and issuance of bonds or notes shall be paid by the State Treasurer from the proceeds of bonds or notes or other available moneys.

(d) Application of Proceeds. -- The proceeds of any bonds or notes shall be used solely for the purposes for which the bonds or notes were issued and shall be disbursed in the manner and under the restrictions, if any, that the Council of State may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of, or in any trust agreement securing, the bonds or notes.

Any additional moneys which may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States or any agency or department thereof or from any other source to aid in financing the cost of a capital facility may be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this Article.

(e) Notes; Repayment. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to borrow money and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

(1) For anticipating the sale of bonds, the issuance of which the Council of State has approved, if the State Treasurer considers it advisable to postpone the issuance of the bonds.

(2) For the payment of interest on or any installment of principal of any bonds then outstanding, if there are not sufficient funds in the State treasury with which to pay the interest or installment or principal as they respectively become due.

(3) For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes authorized in this Article.

(4) For the purposes authorized in this Article.

(5) For refunding bonds or notes as authorized in this Article.

Funds derived from the sale of bonds or notes may be used in the payment of any bond anticipation notes issued under this Article. Funds provided by the General Assembly for the payment of interest on or principal of bonds shall be used in paying the interest on or principal of any notes and any renewals thereof, the proceeds of which have been used in paying interest on or principal of the bonds.

(f) Refunding Bonds and Notes. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to issue and sell refunding bonds and notes for the purpose of refunding bonds or notes issued pursuant to this Article and to pay the cost of issuance of the refunding bonds or notes. The refunding bonds and notes may be combined with any other issues of State bonds and notes similarly secured. Refunding bonds or notes may be issued at any time prior to the final maturity of the debt or obligation to be refunded. The proceeds from the sale of any refunding bonds or notes shall be applied to the immediate payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded or, if not required for the immediate payment of the bonds or notes being refunded, the proceeds shall be deposited in trust to provide for the payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded and to pay any expenses incurred in connection with the refunding. Money in a trust fund may be invested in (i) direct obligations of the United States government, (ii) obligations the principal of and interest on which are guaranteed by the United States government, (iii) obligations of any agency or instrumentality of the United States government if the timely payment of principal and interest on the obligations is unconditionally guaranteed by the United States government, or (iv) certificates of deposit issued by a bank or trust company located in the State if the certificates are secured by a pledge of any of the obligations described in (i), (ii), or (iii) above having an aggregate market value, exclusive of accrued interest, equal at least to the principal amount of the certificates so secured. This section does not limit the duration of any deposit in trust for the retirement of bonds or notes being refunded but that have not matured and are not presently redeemable, or if presently redeemable, have not been called for redemption.

(g) Trust Agreement. -- In the discretion of the State Treasurer, any bonds and notes issued under the provisions of this Article may be secured by a trust agreement or similar instrument by and between the State and a corporate trustee or by a resolution of the Council of State providing for the appointment of a corporate trustee. The corporate trustee may be, in either case, any trust company or bank having the powers of a trust company within or without the State. The trust agreement or resolution may provide for security, and pledges and assignments with respect to the security, as permitted under this Article and may provide for the granting of a lien or security interest in the property as authorized in G.S. 116D-10. The trust agreement or resolution may contain provisions for the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds and notes, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys. All bonds and notes issued under this Article shall be equally and ratably secured as provided in the trust agreement or resolution, without priority by reasons of number, or dates of bonds or notes, execution, or delivery, in accordance with the provisions of this Article and of the trust agreement or resolution. The trust agreement or resolution may, however, provide that the bonds or notes shall, to the extent and in the manner prescribed in the trust agreement or resolution, be subordinated and junior in standing, with respect to the payment of principal and interest and to the security thereof, to any other bonds or notes. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company that may act as depositary of the proceeds of bonds or notes, revenues, or any other money under this Article to furnish any indemnifying bonds or to pledge any securities as may be required by the State Treasurer. Any trust agreement or resolution may set out the rights and remedies of the owners of any bonds or notes and of any trustee, and may restrict the individual rights of action by the owners. In addition to the foregoing, any trust agreement or resolution may contain other provisions that the State Treasurer considers reasonable and proper for the security of the owners of any bonds or notes. Expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of any trust agreement or resolution may be treated as a part of the cost of any capital facility or as an administrative charge and may be paid from the proceeds of the bonds or notes or from any other available funds.

"§ 116D-12. Variable rate demand bonds and notes.

(a) In fixing the details of bonds and notes, the State Treasurer may provide that the bonds and notes may:

(1) Be made payable from time to time on demand or tender for purchase by the owner, if a credit facility supports the bonds or notes, unless the State Treasurer specifically determines that a credit facility is not required upon a finding and determination by the State Treasurer that the absence of a credit facility will not materially and adversely affect the financial position of the State and the marketing of the bonds or notes at a reasonable interest cost to the State.

(2) Be additionally supported by a credit facility.

(3) Be made subject to redemption or a mandatory tender for purchase prior to maturity.

(4) Bear interest at rates that may vary from any periods of time, as may be provided in the proceedings providing for the issuance of the bonds or notes, including, without limitation, any variations as may be permitted pursuant to a par formula.

(5) Be made the subject of a remarketing agreement whereby an attempt is made to remarket bonds or notes to new purchasers prior to their presentment for payment to the provider of the credit facility or to the State.

(b) If the aggregate principal amount payable by the State under a credit facility is in excess of the aggregate principal amount of bonds or notes secured by the credit facility, whether as a result of the inclusion in the credit facility of a provision for the payment of interest for a limited period of time or the payment of a redemption premium, or for any other reason, then the amount of authorized but unissued bonds or notes during the term of the credit facility shall not be less than the amount of the excess, unless the payment of the excess is otherwise provided for by agreement of the State executed by the State Treasurer.

"§ 116D-13. Other agreements.

The State Treasurer may authorize, execute, obtain, or otherwise provide for bond insurance, investment contracts, credit and liquidity facilities, interest rate swap agreements and other derivative products, and any other related instruments and matters the State Treasurer determines are desirable in connection with the issuance of bonds or notes. The State Treasurer is authorized to employ and designate any financial consultants, underwriters, and bond attorneys to be associated with any bond issue under this Article as the State Treasurer considers necessary.

"§ 116D-21. Purpose.

"§ 116D-22. Definitions.

a. Rents, charges, or fees to be derived by the Board of Governors or the institution from any activities conducted at the institution.

c. Funds to be received under a contract or a grant agreement, including 'overhead costs reimbursement' under a grant agreement, entered into by the Board of Governors or the institution to the extent the use of the funds is not restricted by the terms of the contract or grant agreement or the use of the funds as provided in this Article does not violate the restriction.

Obligated resources do not include funds appropriated to the Board of Governors or the institution from the General Fund by the General Assembly from funds derived from general tax and other revenues of the State, and obligated resources do not include tuition payment by students.

(4) Special obligation bonds. -- Bonds issued under this Article to finance the cost of a special obligation project, which bonds are secured by and payable from obligated resources designated by the Board of Governors at the time the issuance of the bonds is authorized in accordance with this Article.

(5) Special obligation bond project. -- Any capital facilities located or to be located at an institution for the purpose of carrying out the mission of that institution and designated specifically by the Board of Governors as a 'special obligation bond project' for purposes of this Article. A special obligation bond project need not necessarily consist of buildings or facilities that are expected to generate 'self-liquidating revenues' to the Board of Governors or the institution from direct rentals, charges, or fees from the services provided by the building or facility, and may include facilities such as classroom buildings, administration buildings, research facilities, libraries, and equipment that do not produce direct, or indirect, income to the Board of Governors or the institution.

"§ 116D-23. Credit and taxing power of State not pledged; statement on face of bonds.

Special obligation bonds issued under this Article shall not constitute a debt or liability of the State or any political subdivision of the State or a pledge of the faith and credit of the State or of any political subdivision of the State. Special obligation bonds shall be secured solely by the obligated resources pledged to their payment. All of the special obligation bonds shall contain on their face a statement to the effect that neither the State nor the Board of Governors is obligated to pay the bonds or the interest on the bonds except from the obligated resources pledged for payment and that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the State or of any political subdivision or instrumentality of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of or the interest on the bonds. The issuance of special obligation bonds under this Article does not directly or indirectly or contingently obligate the State or any political subdivision of the State to levy or to pledge any taxes for the bonds.

"§ 116D-24. General powers of Board of Governors.

The Board of Governors is authorized, subject to the requirements of this Article, to do all of the following:

(1) Determine the location and character of any special obligation bond project, to acquire, construct, and provide the project, and to maintain, repair, and operate and enter into contracts for the management, lease, use, or operation of all or any portion of any special obligation bond project and any existing facilities.

(2) Issue special obligation bonds to pay all or any part of the cost of a special obligation bond project, and to fund or refund any bonds previously issued by the Board of Governors to finance facilities designated as a special obligation bond project.

(3) Fix and revise from time to time and charge and collect fees, rates, rents, charges, and other income for the use of and for the services furnished by the institution that are designated as obligated resources in connection with a special obligation bond issue.

(4) Establish and enforce, and to agree through any resolution or trust agreement authorizing or securing bonds under this Article to make and enforce, rules for the use of and services rendered by the institution of the income or receipts to be obtained from the use or services designated as obligated resources in connection with a special obligation bond issue.

(5) Acquire, hold, lease, and dispose of real and personal property in the exercise of its powers and the performance of its duties and to lease all or any part of a special obligation bond project and any existing facilities for any periods of years, not exceeding 40 years, upon any terms and conditions as the Board of Governors determines, subject to the provisions of G.S. 143-341.

(6) Employ consulting engineers, attorneys, accountants, construction and financial experts, superintendents, managers, and any other employees and agents as may be necessary in its judgment in connection with a special obligation bond project and existing facilities, and to fix their compensation.

(7) Enter into all contracts and agreements necessary or incidental to the performance of its duties and the execution of its powers under this Article.

(8) Receive and accept from any federal, State, or other public agency and any private agency, person, or other entity donations, loans, grants, aid, or contributions of any money, property, labor, or other things of value for a special obligation bond project or any other services provided by the institution that is designated as the obligated resource in connection with a special obligation bond issue, and to agree to apply and use them in accordance with the terms and conditions under which they are provided.

(9) Do all acts and things necessary or convenient to carry out the powers granted by this Article.

"§ 116D-25. Consultation with the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations.

Whenever this Article requires the approval of the Director of the Budget of an action, the Director of the Budget may consult with the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations before giving approval.

"§ 116D-26. Issuance of special obligation bonds and bond anticipation notes.

(a) Authority. -- The Board of Governors may issue, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, at one time or from time to time, special obligation bonds of the Board of Governors for the purpose of paying all or any part of the cost of acquiring, constructing, or providing a special obligation project. Before issuing special obligation bonds, the Board of Governors shall first adopt a resolution (i) setting forth the designation by the Board of Governors that the buildings or facilities to be financed by the bond issue are the special obligation bond project being financed and (ii) designating the obligated resources that will secure and be the source of payment of the special obligation bonds to be issued. The Board of Governors shall not issue any special obligation bonds unless the Board of Governors finds that sufficient obligated resources are reasonably expected to be available (i) to pay the principal and interest on the special obligation bonds proposed to be issued, (ii) to create and maintain any reserves for the payment of the special obligation bonds, to the extent the Board of Governors is required to maintain reserves for this purpose by the terms of the trust agreement or resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds, and (iii) to provide for the maintenance and operation of the facilities that are to generate the obligated resources to the extent the Board of Governors is required to maintain those facilities by the terms of the trust agreement or resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Article, the proceeds of special obligation bonds to be secured by obligated resources derived from the operation of or activities at one institution may not be applied to finance a special obligation project to be located at another institution.

(b) Approval Required. -- The Board of Governors shall not issue any special obligation bonds for a project at an institution unless the board of trustees of that institution has approved the issuance of bonds for that project. The Board of Governors shall not issue special obligation bonds under this Article until the effective date of legislation enacted by the General Assembly authorizing the undertaking of the special obligation bond project to be financed and fixing the maximum aggregate principal amount of special obligation bonds that shall be issued for that purpose. In submitting proposed special obligation bond projects to the General Assembly for approval, the Board of Governors shall submit information on the need for each project, project costs, estimates of increased operating costs upon completion, estimated debt service requirements, and the sources and amounts of obligated resources to be pledged for the repayment of the bonds. If the obligated resources to repay the bonds or to operate the proposed project potentially involve increased costs to students or to the General Fund, these costs shall be identified in the Board of Governors' submission.

Except as provided in this Article, special obligation bond projects may be undertaken, special obligation bonds may be issued, and other powers vested in the Board of Governors under this Article may be exercised by the Board without obtaining the consent of any department, division, commission, board, bureau, or agency of the State and without any other proceedings or the happening of any other conditions or things other than those proceedings, conditions, or things which are specifically required by this Article.

(c) Term; Form. -- The special obligation bonds of each issue shall be dated, shall mature at any times not exceeding 25 years from their dates, shall bear interest at any rates as may be determined by the Board of Governors, and may be redeemable before maturity at the option of the Board, at any prices and under any terms and conditions as may be fixed by the Board prior to the issuance of the special obligation bonds. The Board of Governors shall determine the form and manner of execution of the special obligation bonds and shall fix the denominations of the special obligation bonds and the places of payment of principal and interest, which may be at any bank or trust company within or without the State. Notwithstanding any of the other provisions of this Article or any recitals in any special obligation bonds issued under the provisions of this Article, all special obligation bonds shall be negotiable instruments under the laws of this State, subject only to the provisions for registration in a resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or a trust agreement securing the bonds. The Board of Governors may sell the special obligation bonds in any manner, at public or private sale, and for any price, as it may determine to be for its best interests.

(d) Proceeds; Additional Bonds. -- The proceeds of the special obligation bonds of each issue shall be used solely for the purpose for which the bonds have been authorized and shall be disbursed in the manner and under such restrictions, if any, as the Board of Governors may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the bonds or in the trust agreement securing them. Unless otherwise provided in the authorizing resolution or in the trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds, if the proceeds of the special obligation bonds, by error of estimates or otherwise, are less than the cost of the special obligation bond project, additional bonds may in like manner be issued to provide the amount of the deficit and shall be deemed to be of the same issue and shall be entitled to payment from the same fund without preference or priority of the bonds first issued for the same purpose.

The resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds, and any trust agreement securing them, may also contain limitations upon the issuance of additional special obligation bonds as the Board of Governors considers proper, and the additional special obligation bonds must be issued under the restrictions and limitations prescribed by the resolution or trust agreement.

(e) Temporary Bonds; Notes. -- Before preparing definitive bonds, the Board of Governors may, under like restrictions, issue interim receipts or temporary bonds exchangeable for definitive bonds when the bonds have been executed and are available for delivery. The Board may also provide for the replacement of any bonds which become mutilated, destroyed, or lost.

The Board of Governors may enter into or negotiate a note with an acceptable bank or trust company in lieu of issuing special obligation bonds for the financing of special obligation bond projects covered under this Article. The terms and conditions of any note of this nature shall be in accordance with the terms and conditions surrounding issuance of the special obligation bonds.

(f) Bond Anticipation Notes. -- The Board of Governors may issue, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, at one time or from time to time, bond anticipation notes of the Board of Governors in anticipation of the issuance of special obligation bonds authorized by this Article. The principal of and the interest on these notes shall be payable solely from the proceeds of special obligation bonds or renewal notes or, in the event bond or renewal note proceeds are not available, from the obligated resources designated for their payment. The notes of each issue shall be dated, shall mature at any times not exceeding two years from their dates, shall bear interest at any rates as may be determined by the Board of Governors, and may be redeemable before maturity, at the option of the Board of Governors, at any prices and under any terms and conditions as may be fixed by the Board of Governors prior to the issuance of the notes. The Board shall determine the form and the manner of execution of the notes and shall fix the denominations of the notes and the places of payment of principal and interest, which may be at any bank or trust company within or without the State. Notwithstanding any of the other provisions of this Article or any recitals in any notes issued under the provisions of this Article, all notes shall be negotiable instruments under the laws of this State, subject only to the provisions for registration in a resolution authorizing the issuance of the notes or any trust agreement securing the bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being issued. The Board of Governors may sell the notes in any manner, at public or private sale, and for any price, as it may determine to be for its best interests.

The proceeds of the notes of each issue shall be used solely for the purpose for which the special obligation bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being issued have been authorized, and the note proceeds shall be disbursed in any manner and under any restrictions as the Board of Governors may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the notes or bonds or in the trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds.

The resolution providing for the issuance of notes, and any trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being authorized, may also contain limitations upon the issuance of additional notes as the Board of Governors considers proper, and such additional notes shall be issued under the restrictions and limitations prescribed by the resolution or trust agreement. The Board may also provide for the replacement of any notes which shall become mutilated, destroyed, or lost.

Except as provided in this Article, notes may be issued under this Article and other powers vested in the Board of Governors under this Article may be exercised by the Board without obtaining the consent of any department, division, commission, board, bureau, or agency of the State and without any other proceedings or the happening of any other conditions or things than those proceedings, conditions, or things which are specifically required by this Article.

Unless the context indicates otherwise, the word 'bonds', wherever used in this Article, include the words 'bond anticipation notes'.

"§ 116D-27. Trust agreement; money received deemed trust funds; insurance; remedies.

(a) Trust Agreement Securing Bonds. -- In the discretion of the Board of Governors and subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, any special obligation bonds issued under this Article may be secured by a trust agreement by and between the Board of Governors and a corporate trustee, which may be any trust company or bank having the powers of a trust company within or without the State. The trust agreement or the resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds may pledge or assign the obligated resources designated as security for the special obligation bonds, but shall not convey or mortgage any property of the institution. The trust agreement or resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds may contain provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the holders of the special obligation bonds that are reasonable and proper and not in violation of law, including covenants setting forth the duties of the Board of Governors in relation to the acquisition, construction, or provision of any of the charging and collecting of any rates, fees, or charges that have been designated as obligated resources, the maintenance, repair, operation, and insurance of any property of the institution, and the custody, safeguarding, and application of all moneys. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of the State which may act as depositary of the proceeds of special obligation bonds or funds securing special obligation bonds to furnish any indemnifying bonds or to pledge any securities as may be required by the Board of Governors. A trust agreement or resolution may set forth the rights and remedies of the holders of the special obligation bonds and the rights, remedies, and immunities of the trustee or trustees, if any, and may restrict the individual right of action by the holders. In addition to the foregoing, a trust agreement or resolution may contain other provisions the Board of Governors considers reasonable and proper for the security of the holders. All expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of the trust agreement or resolution may be treated as a part of the cost of the special obligation bond projects for which the special obligation bonds are issued or as an expense of operation of the special obligation bond project.

(b) Trust Funds. -- All moneys received pursuant to the authority of this Article, whether as proceeds from the sale of bonds, or as obligated resources, are trust funds to be held and applied solely as provided in this Article. The Board of Governors may provide for the payment of all or part of the proceeds of the sale of the special obligation bonds and the obligated resources to any officer, board, or depositary that it may designate for their custody, and may provide for their method of disbursement, with any safeguards and restrictions it may determine. Any officer with whom, or any bank or trust company with which, moneys are deposited shall act as trustee of the moneys and shall hold and apply them for the purposes of this Article, subject to any requirements provided in this Article and in the resolution or trust agreement, authorizing or securing the special obligation bonds.

(c) Insurance. -- Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law, the Board of Governors may carry insurance on any special obligation bond projects and any existing facilities in any amounts and covering any risks it considers advisable.

(d) Remedies. -- Any holder of special obligation bonds issued under this Article and the trustees under a trust agreement, except to the extent the rights given in this section may be restricted by the trust agreement or the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds, may, either at law or in equity, by suit, action, mandamus, or other proceedings, protect and enforce any and all rights under the laws of the State or granted under this Article or under the trust agreement or resolution, and may enforce and compel the performance of all duties required by this Article or by the trust agreement or resolution to be performed by the Board of Governors or by any of its officers, including the fixing, charging, and collecting of obligated resources.

"§ 116D-28. Fixing and collecting obligated resources.

(a) Board to Provide Sufficient Resources. -- For the purpose of aiding in the financing of a special obligation bond project and to provide security to the owners of the special obligation bonds issued to finance the special obligation bond project, the Board of Governors is authorized, to the extent the generation of the obligated resources is in the control of the Board, to fix, revise from time to time, charge, and collect the rents, charges, fees, or other revenues constituting the obligated resources. Fees and other revenue sources constituting obligated resources may be imposed or increased only with the approval of the Board of Governors. As long as any special obligation bonds issued under this Article and payable from those obligated resources are outstanding, the obligated resources, to the extent within the control of the Board of Governors, shall be so fixed and adjusted, with relation to other funds available, as to provide funds pursuant to the requirements of the resolution or trust agreement authorizing or securing the special obligation bonds and at least sufficient to pay the principal of and the interest on the special obligation bonds as they become due and payable, to assure the continued collection of the obligated resources, and to create and maintain reserves for these purposes. A sufficient amount of the obligated resources, except any part that may be necessary to pay the cost of maintenance, repair, and operation, and to provide reserves for these purposes and for renewals, replacements, extensions, enlargements, and improvements as may be provided for in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or in the trust agreement securing the same, shall be set aside at regular intervals as may be provided in the resolution or trust agreement authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds in a sinking fund which is hereby pledged to, and charged with, the payment of the principal of and the interest on the special obligation bonds as they become due and the redemption price or the purchase price of special obligation bonds retired by call or purchase as provided in the resolution or trust agreement. This pledge shall be valid and binding from the time it is made, the obligated resources so pledged and thereafter received by the Board of Governors shall immediately be subject to the lien of the pledge without any physical delivery of the pledge or further act, and the lien of the pledge shall be valid and binding as against all parties having claims of any kind in tort, contract, or otherwise against the Board of Governors, irrespective of whether the parties have notice of the pledge. Neither the resolution nor any trust agreement by which a pledge is created need be filed or recorded except in the records of the Board of Governors. The use and disposition of moneys to the credit of the sinking fund shall be subject to the provisions of the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or of the trust agreement securing the bonds.

(b) State Pledge. -- The State pledges to, and agrees with, the holders of any special obligation bonds or notes issued by the Board of Governors pursuant to this Article that as long as any of the special obligation bonds or notes are outstanding and unpaid, the State will not limit or alter the rights vested in the Board of Governors at the time of issuance of the special obligation bonds or notes to set the terms and conditions of the special obligation bonds or notes and to fulfill the terms of any agreements made with the bondholders or noteholders. The State shall in no way impair the rights and remedies of the bondholders or noteholders until the special obligation bonds or notes and all costs and expenses in connection with any action or proceedings by or on behalf of the bondholders or noteholders are fully paid, met, and discharged.

"§ 116D-29. Vesting powers in committee.

The Board of Governors may authorize its budget and finance committee to sell any special obligation bonds which the Board has, with the approval of the Director of the Budget, authorized to be issued under this Article in any manner and under any limitations or conditions as the Board prescribes and to perform other functions under this Article the Board determines.

"§ 116D-30. Refunding bonds.

The Board of Governors may, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, issue from time to time refunding bonds for the purpose of refunding any bonds by the Board under this Article or under any Article of Chapter 116 of the General Statutes, including the payment of any redemption premium on them and any interest accrued or to accrue to the date of redemption of the bonds refunded. The Board of Governors is further authorized, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, to issue from time to time refunding bonds for the combined purpose of (i) refunding any bonds issued by the Board under this Article or under any Article of Chapter 116 of the General Statutes, including the payment of any redemption premium on them and any interest accrued or to accrue to the date of redemption of the bonds, and (ii) paying all or any part of the cost of acquiring or constructing any additional special obligation bond projects.

This Article, as applicable, governs the issuance of refunding bonds, their maturities and other details, the rights and remedies of their holders, and the rights, powers, privileges, duties, and obligations of the Board of Governors with respect to them.

"§ 116D-31. Additional and alternative method.

This Article provides an additional and alternative method for the doing of the things authorized and is supplemental and additional to powers conferred by other laws, including G.S. 116-175 to G.S. 116-185, inclusive and G.S. 116-197 and G.S. 116-198, and is not in derogation of or repealing any powers now existing under any other law, whether general, special, or local. The issuance of special obligation bonds or refunding bonds under this Article, however, need not comply with the requirements of any other law applicable to the issuance of bonds.

"ARTICLE 4.

"Community Colleges Facilities Security Interest Finance Act.

"§ 116D-40. Short title.

This Article may be cited as the Community College Facilities Security Interest Finance Act.

"§ 116D-41. Findings and purpose.

The General Assembly finds as follows:

(1) There is a continuing need for capital facilities for the State's community colleges, many of which will continue to be provided from current appropriations by counties, proceeds of various types of indebtedness incurred by counties for community college purposes, appropriations by the State, and the proceeds of State general obligation bonds secured by a pledge of the faith and credit of the State. There is a need, however, for the use of alternative financing methods such as authorized in this Article to facilitate the providing of capital facilities when circumstances and conditions warrant the providing of capital facilities through a financing method other than those previously used.

(2) The use of State of North Carolina Community College Security Interest Bonds, secured by a lien on or security interest in the community college property acquired, constructed, or improved with the bond proceeds, and the payment of principal and interest on which are subject to appropriation at the discretion of the General Assembly, will provide financing flexibility to counties and the State and permit the counties and the State to take advantage of changing financial and economic environments.

"§ 116D-42. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Bonds. -- Bonds authorized to be issued under this Article, including refunding bonds.

(2) Community college. -- Defined in G.S. 115D-2.

(3) Community college security interest bonds. -- Bonds authorized to be issued under this Article, including refunding bonds.

(4) Community Colleges System Office. -- The North Carolina Community Colleges System Office, created by Article 1 of Chapter 115D of the General Statutes, or if the Community Colleges System Office is abolished or otherwise divested of its functions under this Article, the public body succeeding it in its principal functions, or upon which are conferred by law the rights, powers, and duties given by this Article to the Community Colleges System Office.

(5) Notes. -- Notes issued under this Article.

"§ 116D-43. Authorization of bonds and notes.

Upon the application of the Community Colleges System Office, the State Treasurer may, by and with the consent of the Council of State, issue and sell, at one time or from time to time, community college security interest bonds of the State to be designated 'State of North Carolina Community College Security Interest Bonds', with any additional designations as may be determined to indicate the issuance of bonds from time to time, or notes of the State. Except as otherwise provided by this Article, the aggregate amount of bonds and notes issued pursuant to this Article shall not exceed three hundred million dollars ($300,000,000). Refunding bonds and notes issued pursuant to G.S. 116D-46(f) shall not be included in the limitation on the aggregate amount of bonds and notes that may be issued pursuant to this Article.

The proceeds of bonds or notes issued under this Article shall be applied to finance the cost of grants to be made by the State to community colleges to finance the cost of capital facilities for the community college or to refund any outstanding bonds or notes issued under this Article. The capital facilities to be improved, constructed, or acquired with the proceeds of bonds or notes shall be determined as provided in G.S. 116D-44.

"§ 116D-44. Designation of capital facilities and preconditions to bond issuance.

The capital facilities to be financed in whole or in part with the proceeds of community college security interest bonds shall be described in legislation enacted from time to time by the General Assembly. The proceeds of community college security interest bonds shall not be expended to pay the costs of any capital facilities other than those described in that legislation.

"§ 116D-45. Security; other requirements.

(a) Security. -- To secure payment of the principal of and interest on bonds or notes issued under this Article, each community college that receives a grant pursuant to this Article, and each county to the extent it owns the capital facilities to be acquired or improved by a grant from the State pursuant to this Article, may create a lien on or a security interest in one or more of the following:

(1) In all or any part of the capital facilities to be financed by the bonds or notes.

(2) In the case of construction of improvements on real property, in all or some portion of the land on which the improvements are to be located or in all or part of the improvements.

(3) In the case of renovations or improvements to or the installation of fixtures in existing facilities, in all or some portion of the existing facilities or in all or part of the renovations or improvements.

The security for an issue of bonds shall be set forth in general terms in the resolution of the Council of State authorizing the issuance of the bonds. The property that will be the subject of a lien, deed of trust, or security interest to secure the bonds need not bear any particular relationship to the principal amount of the bonds or notes. A community college or county may grant multiple liens or security interests in a capital facility to the extent not otherwise limited by the terms of other issues of bonds or notes.

(b) Default. -- If community college security interest bonds are secured by a lien, deed of trust, or security interest in multiple items of property, the mortgage, deed of trust, or security agreement or other instrument creating the lien, deed of trust, or security interest shall provide that if the State defaults on its obligations with respect to community college security interest bonds, the Community Colleges System Office, on behalf of the State, shall determine the order in which the property comprising the security shall be sold or otherwise conveyed to satisfy the obligations of the State. In carrying out the provisions of this subsection, the Community Colleges System Office shall endeavor to select for sale or conveyance to satisfy the obligations of the State those items of property that, in the judgment of the Community Colleges System Office, if sold, would result in the least amount of interruption to the operations of the State's community college system as a whole and its ability to carry out its mission. Any determination made by the Community Colleges System Office in carrying out this endeavor shall be conclusive. Nothing in this subsection prohibits the sale or conveyance of up to all of the property securing community college security interest bonds to the extent necessary to satisfy the obligations of the State under the bonds.

(c) Governor's Budget. -- Documentation relating to any bonds or notes may include provisions requiring the Governor to submit in the Governor's budget proposal, or in any amendments or supplements to the budget proposal, appropriations necessary to make the payments required to pay the bonds or notes.

(d) Appropriations. -- Amounts payable by the State in respect of an issue of bonds or notes during any fiscal period shall be limited to funds appropriated for that purpose by the General Assembly in its discretion.

(e) State Liability. -- No deficiency judgment may be rendered against the State in any action for breach of any obligation contained in an issue of bonds or notes. The taxing power of the State is not and may not be pledged directly or indirectly to secure any moneys due under an issue of bonds or notes. In the event that the State fails to pay any payments required under or with respect to an issue of bonds or notes, whether on account of a failure by the General Assembly to appropriate sufficient funds for the payment or for some other reason, the net proceeds received from the sale or other disposition of the capital facilities subject to the lien or security interest securing the bonds or notes shall be applied to satisfy the payment obligations in accordance with the deed of trust, security agreement, or other documentation relating to the lien or security interest, and the net proceeds are hereby appropriated for the purpose of making those payments. Any net proceeds in excess of the amount required to satisfy the obligations of the State under an issue of bonds or notes shall be paid to the State Treasurer for deposit to the General Fund.

(f) Nonsubstitution Clause. -- No documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes may contain a nonsubstitution clause that restricts the right of the State, a community college, or a county to (i) continue to provide a service or conduct an activity or (ii) replace or provide a substitute for any capital facility financed or purchased by the bonds or notes.

(g) Terms Protecting Lender. -- The documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes, or relating to the security for an issue of bonds or notes, may contain provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the owners of the bonds or notes that are reasonable and proper and not in violation of law. The documentation may include covenants setting forth the duties of the State or a community college in respect of the purposes to which the proceeds of the bonds or notes may be applied, the disposition and application of any appropriations of the State, and the duties of the State or a community college with respect to the capital facilities financed, including, without limitation, the payment of the costs of insurance and maintenance of the capital facilities, the terms under which the collateral securing the bonds may be released or substitute collateral may be delivered, the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds or notes similarly secured, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys.

(h) Statement on Face of Bonds. -- Bonds issued under this Article shall contain on their face a statement to the effect that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the State or of any political subdivision or instrumentality of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of or the interest on the bonds.

"§ 116D-46. Issuance of bonds and notes.

(a) Terms and Conditions. -- Bonds or notes may bear any dates, may be serial or term bonds or notes, or any combination of these, may mature in any amounts and at any times, not exceeding 25 years from their dates, may be payable at any places, either within or without the United States, in any coin or currency of the United States that at the time of payment is legal tender for payment of public and private debts, may bear interest at any rates, which may vary from time to time, and may be made redeemable before maturity, at the option of the State or otherwise as may be provided by the State, at any prices, including a price greater than the face amount of the bonds or notes, and under any terms and conditions, all as may be determined by the State Treasurer, by and with the consent of the Council of State.

(b) Signatures; Form and Denomination; Registration. -- Bonds or notes may be issued in certificated or uncertificated form. If issued in certificated form, bonds or notes shall be signed on behalf of the State by the Governor or shall bear the Governor's facsimile signature, shall be signed by the State Treasurer or shall bear the State Treasurer's facsimile signature, and shall bear the Great Seal of the State or a facsimile of the Seal impressed or imprinted on them. If bonds or notes bear the facsimile signatures of the Governor and the State Treasurer, the bonds or notes shall also bear a manual signature which may be that of a bond registrar, trustee, paying agent, or designated assistant of the State Treasurer. The form and denomination of bonds or notes, including the provisions with respect to registration of the bonds or notes and any system for their registration, shall be as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this Article.

(c) Manner of Sale; Expenses. -- Subject to the approval by the Council of State as to the manner in which bonds or notes shall be offered for sale, whether at public or private sale, whether within or without the United States, and whether by publishing notices in certain newspapers and financial journals, mailing notices, inviting bids by correspondence, negotiating contracts of purchase or otherwise, the State Treasurer is authorized to sell bonds or notes at one time or from time to time at any rates of interest, which may vary from time to time, and at any prices, including a price less than the face amount of the bonds or notes, as the State Treasurer may determine. All expenses incurred in the preparation, sale, and issuance of bonds or notes shall be paid by the State Treasurer from the proceeds of bonds or notes or other available moneys.

(d) Application of Proceeds. -- The proceeds of any bonds or notes shall be used solely for the purposes for which the bonds or notes were issued and shall be disbursed in the manner and under the restrictions, if any, that the Council of State may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of, or in any trust agreement securing, the bonds or notes.

Any additional moneys which may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States or any agency or department thereof or from any other source to aid in financing the cost of a capital facility may be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this Article.

(e) Notes; Repayment. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to borrow money and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

(1) For anticipating the sale of bonds the issuance of which the Council of State has approved, if the State Treasurer considers it advisable to postpone the issuance of the bonds.

(2) For the payment of interest on or any installment of principal of any bonds then outstanding, if there are not sufficient funds in the State treasury with which to pay the interest or installment or principal as they respectively become due.

(3) For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes authorized in this Article.

(4) For the purposes authorized in this Article.

(5) For refunding bonds or notes as authorized in this Article.

Funds derived from the sale of bonds or notes may be used in the payment of any bond anticipation notes issued under this Article. Funds provided by the General Assembly for the payment of interest on or principal of bonds shall be used in paying the interest on or principal of any notes and any renewals thereof, the proceeds of which have been used in paying interest on or principal of the bonds.

(f) Refunding Bonds and Notes. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to issue and sell refunding bonds and notes for the purpose of refunding bonds or notes issued pursuant to this Article and to pay the cost of issuance of the refunding bonds or notes. The refunding bonds and notes may be combined with any other issues of State bonds and notes similarly secured. Refunding bonds or notes may be issued at any time prior to the final maturity of the debt or obligation to be refunded. The proceeds from the sale of any refunding bonds or notes shall be applied to the immediate payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded or, if not required for the immediate payment of the bonds or notes being refunded, the proceeds shall be deposited in trust to provide for the payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded and to pay any expenses incurred in connection with the refunding. Money in a trust fund may be invested in (i) direct obligations of the United States government, (ii) obligations the principal of and interest on which are guaranteed by the United States government, (iii) obligations of any agency or instrumentality of the United States government if the timely payment of principal and interest on the obligations is unconditionally guaranteed by the United States government, or (iv) certificates of deposit issued by a bank or trust company located in the State if the certificates are secured by a pledge of any of the obligations described in (i), (ii), or (iii) above having an aggregate market value, exclusive of accrued interest, equal at least to the principal amount of the certificates so secured. This section does not limit the duration of any deposit in trust for the retirement of bonds or notes being refunded but that have not matured and are not presently redeemable, or if presently redeemable, have not been called for redemption.

(g) Trust Agreement. -- In the discretion of the State Treasurer, any bonds and notes issued under the provisions of this Article may be secured by a trust agreement or similar instrument by and between the State and a corporate trustee or by a resolution of the Council of State providing for the appointment of a corporate trustee. The corporate trustee may be, in either case, any trust company or bank having the powers of a trust company within or without the State. The trust agreement or resolution may provide for security and pledges and assignments with respect to the security, as permitted under this Article, and may provide for the granting of a lien or security interest in the property as authorized in G.S. 116D-10. The trust agreement or resolution may contain provisions for the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds and notes, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys. All bonds and notes issued under this Article shall be equally and ratably secured as provided in the trust agreement or resolution, without priority by reasons of number, or dates of bonds or notes, execution, or delivery, in accordance with the provisions of this Article and of the trust agreement or resolution. The trust agreement or resolution may, however, provide that the bonds or notes shall, to the extent and in the manner prescribed in the trust agreement or resolution, be subordinated and junior in standing, with respect to the payment of principal and interest and to the security thereof, to any other bonds or notes. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company that may act as depositary of the proceeds of bonds or notes, revenues, or any other money under this Article to furnish any indemnifying bonds or to pledge any securities as may be required by the State Treasurer. Any trust agreement or resolution may set out the rights and remedies of the owners of any bonds or notes and of any trustee, and may restrict the individual rights of action by the owners. In addition to the foregoing, any trust agreement or resolution may contain other provisions that the State Treasurer considers reasonable and proper for the security of the owners of any bonds or notes. Expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of any trust agreement or resolution may be treated as a part of the cost of any capital facility or as an administrative charge and may be paid from the proceeds of the bonds or notes or from any other available funds.

"§ 116D-47. Variable rate demand bonds and notes.

(a) In fixing the details of bonds and notes, the State Treasurer may provide that the bonds and notes may:

(1) Be made payable from time to time on demand or tender for purchase by the owner, if a credit facility supports the bonds or notes, unless the State Treasurer specifically determines that a credit facility is not required upon a finding and determination by the State Treasurer that the absence of a credit facility will not materially and adversely affect the financial position of the State and the marketing of the bonds or notes at a reasonable interest cost to the State.

(2) Be additionally supported by a credit facility.

(3) Be made subject to redemption or a mandatory tender for purchase prior to maturity.

(4) Bear interest at rates that may vary from any periods of time, as may be provided in the proceedings providing for the issuance of the bonds or notes, including, without limitation, any variations as may be permitted pursuant to a par formula.

(5) Be made the subject of a remarketing agreement whereby an attempt is made to remarket bonds or notes to new purchasers prior to their presentment for payment to the provider of the credit facility or to the State.

(b) If the aggregate principal amount payable by the State under a credit facility is in excess of the aggregate principal amount of bonds or notes secured by the credit facility, whether as a result of the inclusion in the credit facility of a provision for the payment of interest for a limited period of time or the payment of a redemption premium, or for any other reason, then the amount of authorized but unissued bonds or notes during the term of the credit facility shall not be less than the amount of the excess, unless the payment of the excess is otherwise provided for by agreement of the State executed by the State Treasurer.

"§ 116D-48. Other agreements.

The State Treasurer may authorize, execute, obtain, or otherwise provide for bond insurance, investment contracts, credit and liquidity facilities, interest rate swap agreements and other derivative products, and any other related instruments and matters the State Treasurer determines are desirable in connection with the issuance of bonds or notes. The State Treasurer is authorized to employ and designate any financial consultants, underwriters, and bond attorneys to be associated with any bond issue under this Article as the State Treasurer considers necessary.

"§ 116D-49. Procurement of capital facilities.

Any laws, rules, or regulations of the State that relate to the acquisition and construction of capital facilities shall apply to the capital facilities financed pursuant to this Article."

Section 2.(b) The Director of the Budget is empowered, when the Director of the Budget determines it is in the best interest of the State and the University to do so, and if the cost of a particular capital facility is less than the amount allocated for it, to use the excess funds to meet increased cost of other capital facilities itemized in this section and located at the same institution. The Director of the Budget shall report to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations on changes made under this subsection. In addition, any capital facility and the amount of the allocation for it set forth above may be changed from time to time as the General Assembly may decide, except that the General Assembly may not delete or remove from funding any capital improvement that has been pledged as security for university improvement security interest bonds that have been issued if such a change would impair the security of the owners of the university improvement security interest bonds. The provisions of G.S. 116-11(9) with respect to appropriations to the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall not apply to proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds and notes issued pursuant to Article 2 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act.

Section 2.(c) Allocations to the costs of a capital improvement or undertaking in each case may include allocations to pay the costs set forth in this act in connection with the issuance of university improvement security interest bonds for that capital improvement or undertaking.

Section 2.(d) The proceeds of two hundred eighty-two million six hundred forty-eight thousand two hundred twelve dollars ($282,648,212) university improvement security interest bonds authorized by this act and allocated in subsection (a) of this section for matching gift incentive program projects shall be allocated and expended for particular projects as provided in this subsection. The Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall employ a private consultant to develop a list of capital facilities which are to be funded jointly from these bonds and private donations. The Board of Governors shall submit this list of recommended projects, including the proposed matching requirements by the University or its constituent or affiliated institutions, to the General Assembly by April 1, 2000. The matching requirements must be based on analyses of the fund-raising capabilities of each institution as determined by a private consultant in order to maximize private fund-raising for capital projects. The proceeds of these bonds or notes shall not be issued or allocated until the General Assembly authorizes the issuance of some or all of these bonds or notes and appropriates the proceeds for specific projects by separate legislative action at any subsequent session.

Section 2.(e) The validity of university improvement security interest bonds and notes issued under Article 2 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act, is not affected by any subsequent adjustment of allocations, or by any failure to comply with the reporting requirements provided in this act.

Section 3. Proceeds of Community College Security Interest Bonds. -- (a) The proceeds of community college security interest bonds and notes, including any premium thereon, except the proceeds of community college security interest bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by bond anticipation notes or the proceeds of refunding bonds or notes, shall be allocated and expended for paying the cost of community college capital facilities, to the extent and as provided in Article 4 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act and subject to change as provided in this act, to be located at the following community colleges:

Section 3.(b) Except as provided in subsection (d) of this section, a community college may use the bond proceeds allocated in subsection (a) of this section only in accordance with the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's report on the capital allocation and repairs and renovations funding formula. Funds allocated for repair and renovations must be used in accordance with exhibit 5-6 of the Funding Formula Study: Phase 3 Report, submitted May 15, 1998. Funds allocated for new construction must be used in accordance with exhibits 15 and 16 of the Funding Formula Study: Phase 4 Report, submitted February 4, 1999. New construction funds allocated by the report to a specific site may not be allocated to another site. Each community college shall submit to the State Board of Community Colleges a statement (i) proposing the capital facilities to be financed with the proceeds of community college security interest bonds allocated to that community college, (ii) certifying that the proposed site is included in the consultant's report referred to in this section, (iii) certifying that the community college is prepared to proceed with the construction, acquisition, or improvement of the proposed capital facilities, and (iv) demonstrating that the applicable matching requirements have been or will be met.

Upon receipt by the State Board of Community Colleges of the information set forth above, the Board shall add the proposed capital facilities to the next application of the Community Colleges System Office to the State Treasurer to issue bonds pursuant to G.S. 116D-43.

The board of trustees of an individual community college may use funds allocated for new construction either for new construction or for repair and renovations. The board of trustees of a community college may use funds allocated for repair and renovations only for repair and renovations, and not for new construction.

The projected allocations set forth above may be changed from time to time as the General Assembly may decide, except that the General Assembly may not delete or remove from funding any capital improvement that has been pledged as security for community college security interest bonds that have been issued if such a change would impair the security of the owners of the university improvement security interest bonds.

Section 3.(c) Community colleges are not required to match bond proceeds allocated in this section for repair and renovations. The match requirements of Chapter 115D of the General Statutes apply to bond proceeds allocated for new construction except as provided in this subsection. The consultant hired by the State Board of Community Colleges to determine funding formulas for the community college system developed an index to measure each county's ability to pay. The consultant found that some counties are unable to meet their local match requirement under Chapter 115D of the General Statutes because of inability to pay. Accordingly, community colleges are required to match bond proceeds allocated for new construction in subsection (a) or (d) of this section only as follows: Community colleges assigned a matching rate of less than forty percent (40%) in the "adjusted matching requirements" contained in exhibit 14 of the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's Funding Formula Study: Phase 4 Report, submitted February 4, 1999, are not required to match, and community colleges assigned a matching rate of forty percent (40%) or more in the adjusted matching requirements are required to match only at the assigned rate.

Section 3.(d) Each community college that was not allocated funds for new construction in the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's report on the capital allocation funding formula may receive the bond proceeds allocated to it for new construction in subsection (a) of this section only to the extent that it can document to the State Board of Community Colleges its actual need for funds for new construction, or its actual need for funds for repair and renovations in excess of the amount allocated to it for repair and renovations in subsection (a) of this section. If any community college is unable to document to the State Board of Community Colleges by January 1, 2001, these needs in the amount of its entire allocation for new construction under subsection (a) of this section, the State Board shall reallocate the excess of the allocation over the amount the college was able to document among the remaining community colleges to the extent they can document actual needs in excess of their allocations in subsection (a) of this section for new construction, repair, and renovations, or both.

Section 3.(e) The validity of community college security interest bonds and notes issued under Article 4 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act, is not affected by any subsequent adjustment of allocations or matching requirements provided in this act, or by any failure to comply with matching requirements or reporting requirements provided in this act.

Section 4. Interpretation of Act. (a) Additional Method. -- This act provides an additional and alternative method for the doing of the things authorized by this act and shall be regarded as supplemental and additional to powers conferred by other laws. Except where expressly provided, this act shall not be regarded as in derogation of any powers now existing. The authority granted in this act is in addition to other laws now or hereinafter enacted authorizing The University of North Carolina to issue self-liquidating debt or other debt secured by designated sources of funds.

Section 4.(b) Statutory References. -- References in this act to specific sections or Chapters of the General Statutes are intended to be references to those sections or Chapters as they may be amended from time to time by the General Assembly.

Section 4.(c) Liberal Construction. -- This act, being necessary for the health and welfare of the people of the State, shall be liberally construed to effect its purposes.

Section 4.(d) Severability. -- If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, that invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of the act that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this act are severable.

Section 5. This act is effective when it becomes law.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT (1) TO AUTHORIZE THE ISSUANCE OF ONE BILLION TWO HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS OF THE STATE, SUBJECT TO A VOTE OF THE QUALIFIED VOTERS OF THE STATE, TO PROVIDE FUNDS FOR CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AND GRANTS TO COMMUNITY COLLEGES FOR CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS, (2) TO AUTHORIZE THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA TO ISSUE SPECIAL OBLIGATION BONDS FOR IMPROVEMENTS TO THE FACILITIES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AND FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA HOSPITALS AT CHAPEL HILL AND OTHER FACILITIES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA HEALTH CARE SYSTEM, AND (3) TO RESTRICT THE NAMING OF STATE CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS FOR SITTING MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY AND THE COUNCIL OF STATE.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. This act shall be known as the Michael K. Hooker Higher Education Facilities Financing Act.

Section 1.1. The General Assembly finds that although The University of North Carolina is one of the State's most valuable assets, the current facilities of the University have been allowed to deteriorate due to decades of neglect and have unfortunately fallen into a state of disrepair because of inadequate attention to maintenance. It is the intent of the General Assembly to reverse this trend and to provide a mechanism to assure that the University's capital assets are adequately maintained. The General Assembly commits to responsible stewardship of these assets to protect their value over the years, as follows:

(1) The Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall require each constituent and affiliated institution to monitor the condition of its facilities and their needs or repair and renovation, and to assure that all necessary maintenance is carried out within funds available.

(2) The Board of Governors shall report annually to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations and the Joint Legislative Education Oversight Committee on the condition of the University's capital facilities, the repair, renovation, and maintenance projects being undertaken, and all needs for additional funding to maintain the facilities.

(3) It is the intent of the General Assembly to assure that adequate oversight, funding, and accountability are continually provided so that the capital facilities of the University are properly maintained to preserve the level of excellence the citizens of this State deserve. To this end, the Joint Legislative Education Oversight Committee shall report to the General Assembly annually its recommendations for legislative changes to implement this policy.

"§ 116D-8. Authorization of bonds and notes.

Subject to a favorable vote of a majority of the qualified voters of the State who vote on the question of issuing university improvement general obligation bonds in the election held as provided by law, the State Treasurer may, by and with the consent of the Council of State, issue and sell, at one time or from time to time, university improvement general obligation bonds of the State to be designated 'State of North Carolina University Improvement General Obligation Bonds', with any additional designations as may be determined to indicate the issuance of bonds from time to time, or notes of the State. Except as otherwise provided by this Article, the aggregate amount of bonds and notes issued pursuant to this Article shall not exceed one billion dollars ($1,000,000,000). The bonds and notes shall be issued in the following years up to the following amounts:

Fiscal Year	Aggregate Amount
1999-2000	$240,000,000
2000-2001	480,000,000
2001-2002	280,000,000

If less than the aggregate amount of bonds or notes authorized to be issued in a fiscal year is issued in that fiscal year, the balance for that fiscal year may be issued in any subsequent fiscal year. "§ 116D-10. Faith and credit.

The faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby pledged for the payment of the principal of and the interest on bonds and notes. The State retains the right to amend any provision of this Article to the extent it does not impair any contractual right of a bond owner.

"§ 116D-11. Issuance of bonds and notes.

(a) Terms and Conditions. -- Bonds or notes may bear any dates, may be serial or term bonds or notes, or any combination of these, may mature in any amounts and at any times, not exceeding 25 years from their dates, may be payable at any places, either within or without the United States, in any coin or currency of the United States that at the time of payment is legal tender for payment of public and private debts, may bear interest at any rates, which may vary from time to time, and may be made redeemable before maturity, at the option of the State or otherwise as may be provided by the State, at any prices, including a price greater than the face amount of the bonds or notes, and under any terms and conditions, all as may be determined by the State Treasurer, by and with the consent of the Council of State.

(b) Signatures; Form and Denomination; Registration. -- Bonds or notes may be issued in certificated or uncertificated form. If issued in certificated form, bonds or notes shall be signed on behalf of the State by the Governor or shall bear the Governor's facsimile signature, shall be signed by the State Treasurer or shall bear the State Treasurer's facsimile signature, and shall bear the Great Seal of the State or a facsimile of the Seal impressed or imprinted on them. If bonds or notes bear the facsimile signatures of the Governor and the State Treasurer, the bonds or notes shall also bear a manual signature which may be that of a bond registrar, trustee, paying agent, or designated assistant of the State Treasurer. The form and denomination of bonds or notes, including the provisions with respect to registration of the bonds or notes and any system for their registration, shall be as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this Article.

(c) Manner of Sale; Expenses. -- Subject to the approval by the Council of State as to the manner in which bonds or notes shall be offered for sale, whether at public or private sale, whether within or without the United States, and whether by publishing notices in certain newspapers and financial journals, mailing notices, inviting bids by correspondence, negotiating contracts of purchase or otherwise, the State Treasurer is authorized to sell bonds or notes at one time or from time to time at any rates of interest, which may vary from time to time, and at any prices, including a price less than the face amount of the bonds or notes, as the State Treasurer may determine. All expenses incurred in the preparation, sale, and issuance of bonds or notes shall be paid by the State Treasurer from the proceeds of bonds or notes or other available moneys.

(d) Application of Proceeds. -- The proceeds of any bonds or notes shall be used solely for the purposes for which the bonds or notes were issued and shall be disbursed in the manner and under the restrictions, if any, that the Council of State may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of, or in any trust agreement securing, the bonds or notes.

Any additional moneys which may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States or any agency or department thereof or from any other source to aid in financing the cost of a capital facility may be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this Article.

(e) Notes; Repayment. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to borrow money and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

(1) For anticipating the sale of bonds, the issuance of which the Council of State has approved, if the State Treasurer considers it advisable to postpone the issuance of the bonds.

(2) For the payment of interest on or any installment of principal of any bonds then outstanding, if there are not sufficient funds in the State treasury with which to pay the interest or installment or principal as they respectively become due.

(3) For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes authorized in this Article.

(4) For the purposes authorized in this Article.

(5) For refunding bonds or notes as authorized in this Article.

Funds derived from the sale of bonds or notes may be used in the payment of any bond anticipation notes issued under this Article. Funds provided by the General Assembly for the payment of interest on or principal of bonds shall be used in paying the interest on or principal of any notes and any renewals thereof, the proceeds of which have been used in paying interest on or principal of the bonds.

(f) Refunding Bonds and Notes. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to issue and sell refunding bonds and notes for the purpose of refunding bonds or notes issued pursuant to this Article and to pay the cost of issuance of the refunding bonds or notes. The refunding bonds and notes may be combined with any other issues of State bonds and notes similarly secured. Refunding bonds or notes may be issued at any time prior to the final maturity of the debt or obligation to be refunded. The proceeds from the sale of any refunding bonds or notes shall be applied to the immediate payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded or, if not required for the immediate payment of the bonds or notes being refunded, the proceeds shall be deposited in trust to provide for the payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded and to pay any expenses incurred in connection with the refunding. Money in a trust fund may be invested in (i) direct obligations of the United States government, (ii) obligations the principal of and interest on which are guaranteed by the United States government, (iii) obligations of any agency or instrumentality of the United States government if the timely payment of principal and interest on the obligations is unconditionally guaranteed by the United States government, or (iv) certificates of deposit issued by a bank or trust company located in the State if the certificates are secured by a pledge of any of the obligations described in (i), (ii), or (iii) above having an aggregate market value, exclusive of accrued interest, equal at least to the principal amount of the certificates so secured. This section does not limit the duration of any deposit in trust for the retirement of bonds or notes being refunded but that have not matured and are not presently redeemable, or if presently redeemable, have not been called for redemption.

(g) University Improvement Bonds Fund. -- The proceeds of university improvement general obligation bonds and notes, including premium thereon, if any, except the proceeds of bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by bond anticipation notes or the proceeds of refunding bonds or notes, shall be placed by the State Treasurer in a special fund to be designated 'University Improvement Bonds Fund'. Moneys in the University Improvement Bonds Fund shall be used for the purposes set forth in this Article.

Any additional moneys that may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States of America or any agency or department thereof or from any other source to aid in financing the cost of any university improvements authorized by this Article may be placed by the State Treasurer in the University Improvement Bonds Fund or in a separate account or fund and shall be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this act.

The proceeds of university improvement general obligation bonds and notes may be used with any other moneys made available by the General Assembly for the making of university improvements, including the proceeds of any other State bond issues, whether previously made available or which may be made available after the effective date of this Article. The proceeds of university improvement bonds and notes shall be expended and disbursed under the direction and supervision of the Director of the Budget. The funds provided by this Article for university improvements shall be disbursed for the purposes provided in this Article upon warrants drawn on the State Treasurer by the State Controller, which warrants shall not be drawn until requisition has been approved by the Director of the Budget and which requisition shall be approved only after full compliance with the Executive Budget Act, Article 1 of Chapter 143 of the General Statutes.

"§ 116D-12. Variable rate demand bonds and notes.

(a) In fixing the details of bonds and notes, the State Treasurer may provide that the bonds and notes may:

(1) Be made payable from time to time on demand or tender for purchase by the owner, if a credit facility supports the bonds or notes, unless the State Treasurer specifically determines that a credit facility is not required upon a finding and determination by the State Treasurer that the absence of a credit facility will not materially and adversely affect the financial position of the State and the marketing of the bonds or notes at a reasonable interest cost to the State.

(2) Be additionally supported by a credit facility.

(3) Be made subject to redemption or a mandatory tender for purchase prior to maturity.

(4) Bear interest at rates that may vary from any periods of time, as may be provided in the proceedings providing for the issuance of the bonds or notes, including, without limitation, any variations as may be permitted pursuant to a par formula.

(5) Be made the subject of a remarketing agreement whereby an attempt is made to remarket bonds or notes to new purchasers prior to their presentment for payment to the provider of the credit facility or to the State.

(b) If the aggregate principal amount payable by the State under a credit facility is in excess of the aggregate principal amount of bonds or notes secured by the credit facility, whether as a result of the inclusion in the credit facility of a provision for the payment of interest for a limited period of time or the payment of a redemption premium, or for any other reason, then the amount of authorized but unissued bonds or notes during the term of the credit facility shall not be less than the amount of the excess, unless the payment of the excess is otherwise provided for by agreement of the State executed by the State Treasurer.

"§ 116D-13. Other agreements.

The State Treasurer may authorize, execute, obtain, or otherwise provide for bond insurance, investment contracts, credit and liquidity facilities, interest rate swap agreements and other derivative products, and any other related instruments and matters the State Treasurer determines are desirable in connection with the issuance of bonds or notes. The State Treasurer is authorized to employ and designate any financial consultants, underwriters, and bond attorneys to be associated with any bond issue under this Article as the State Treasurer considers necessary.

"ARTICLE 3.

"Special Obligation Bonds for Improvements to the Facilities of The University of North Carolina.

"§ 116D-21. Purpose.

The purpose of this Article is to authorize the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina to issue special obligation bonds, payable from obligated resources, but with no pledge of taxes or the faith and credit of the State or any agency or political subdivision of the State, to pay the cost, in whole or in part, of improvements to the facilities of the University.

"§ 116D-22. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Existing facilities. -- Buildings and facilities then existing that generate income or receipts to the Board of Governors that are pledged, under the provisions of a resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds under this Article, to the payment of the bonds.

(2) Institution. -- Each of the institutions enumerated in G.S. 116-2, and any affiliated institutions of the University, including, without limitation, the University of North Carolina Center for Public Television, the University of North Carolina Health Care System, the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics, and the North Carolina Arboretum.

(3) Obligated resources. -- Any sources of income or receipts of the Board of Governors or the institution at which a special obligation bond project is or will be located that are designated by the Board as the security and source of payment for bonds issued under this Article to finance a special obligation bond project, including, without limitation, any of the following:

a. Rents, charges, or fees to be derived by the Board of Governors or the institution from any activities conducted at the institution.

b. Earnings on the investment of the endowment fund of the institution at which a special obligation project will be located, to the extent that the use of the earnings will not violate any lawful condition placed by the donor upon the part of the endowment fund that generates the investment earnings.

c. Funds to be received under a contract or a grant agreement, including 'overhead costs reimbursement' under a grant agreement, entered into by the Board of Governors or the institution to the extent the use of the funds is not restricted by the terms of the contract or grant agreement or the use of the funds as provided in this Article does not violate the restriction.

Obligated resources do not include funds appropriated to the Board of Governors or the institution from the General Fund by the General Assembly from funds derived from general tax and other revenues of the State, and obligated resources do not include tuition payment by students.

(4) Special obligation bonds. -- Bonds issued under this Article to finance the cost of a special obligation project, which bonds are secured by and payable from obligated resources designated by the Board of Governors at the time the issuance of the bonds is authorized in accordance with this Article.

(5) Special obligation bond project. -- Any capital facilities located or to be located at an institution for the purpose of carrying out the mission of that institution and designated specifically by the Board of Governors as a 'special obligation bond project' for purposes of this Article. A special obligation bond project need not necessarily consist of buildings or facilities that are expected to generate 'self-liquidating revenues' to the Board of Governors or the institution from direct rentals, charges, or fees from the services provided by the building or facility, and may include facilities such as classroom buildings, administration buildings, research facilities, libraries, and equipment that do not produce direct, or indirect, income to the Board of Governors or the institution.

"§ 116D-23. Credit and taxing power of State not pledged; statement on face of bonds.

Special obligation bonds issued under this Article shall not constitute a debt or liability of the State or any political subdivision of the State or a pledge of the faith and credit of the State or of any political subdivision of the State. Special obligation bonds shall be secured solely by the obligated resources pledged to their payment. All of the special obligation bonds shall contain on their face a statement to the effect that neither the State nor the Board of Governors is obligated to pay the bonds or the interest on the bonds except from the obligated resources pledged for payment and that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the State or of any political subdivision or instrumentality of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of or the interest on the bonds. The issuance of special obligation bonds under this Article does not directly or indirectly or contingently obligate the State or any political subdivision of the State to levy or to pledge any taxes for the bonds.

"§ 116D-24. General powers of Board of Governors.

The Board of Governors is authorized, subject to the requirements of this Article, to do all of the following:

(1) Determine the location and character of any special obligation bond project, to acquire, construct, and provide the project, and to maintain, repair, and operate and enter into contracts for the management, lease, use, or operation of all or any portion of any special obligation bond project and any existing facilities.

(2) Issue special obligation bonds to pay all or any part of the cost of a special obligation bond project, and to fund or refund any bonds previously issued by the Board of Governors to finance facilities designated as a special obligation bond project.

(3) Fix and revise from time to time and charge and collect fees, rates, rents, charges, and other income for the use of and for the services furnished by the institution that are designated as obligated resources in connection with a special obligation bond issue.

(4) Establish and enforce, and to agree through any resolution or trust agreement authorizing or securing bonds under this Article to make and enforce, rules for the use of and services rendered by the institution of the income or receipts to be obtained from the use or services designated as obligated resources in connection with a special obligation bond issue.

(5) Acquire, hold, lease, and dispose of real and personal property in the exercise of its powers and the performance of its duties and to lease all or any part of a special obligation bond project and any existing facilities for any periods of years, not exceeding 40 years, upon any terms and conditions as the Board of Governors determines, subject to the provisions of G.S. 143-341.

(6) Employ consulting engineers, attorneys, accountants, construction and financial experts, superintendents, managers, and any other employees and agents as may be necessary in its judgment in connection with a special obligation bond project and existing facilities, and to fix their compensation.

(7) Enter into all contracts and agreements necessary or incidental to the performance of its duties and the execution of its powers under this Article.

(8) Receive and accept from any federal, State, or other public agency and any private agency, person, or other entity donations, loans, grants, aid, or contributions of any money, property, labor, or other things of value for a special obligation bond project or any other services provided by the institution that is designated as the obligated resource in connection with a special obligation bond issue, and to agree to apply and use them in accordance with the terms and conditions under which they are provided.

(9) Do all acts and things necessary or convenient to carry out the powers granted by this Article.

"§ 116D-25. Consultation with the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations.

Whenever this Article requires the approval of the Director of the Budget of an action, the Director of the Budget may consult with the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations before giving approval.

"§ 116D-26. Issuance of special obligation bonds and bond anticipation notes.

(a) Authority. -- The Board of Governors may issue, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, at one time or from time to time, special obligation bonds of the Board of Governors for the purpose of paying all or any part of the cost of acquiring, constructing, or providing a special obligation project. Before issuing special obligation bonds, the Board of Governors shall first adopt a resolution (i) setting forth the designation by the Board of Governors that the buildings or facilities to be financed by the bond issue are the special obligation bond project being financed and (ii) designating the obligated resources that will secure and be the source of payment of the special obligation bonds to be issued. The Board of Governors shall not issue any special obligation bonds unless the Board of Governors finds that sufficient obligated resources are reasonably expected to be available (i) to pay the principal and interest on the special obligation bonds proposed to be issued, (ii) to create and maintain any reserves for the payment of the special obligation bonds, to the extent the Board of Governors is required to maintain reserves for this purpose by the terms of the trust agreement or resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds, and (iii) to provide for the maintenance and operation of the facilities that are to generate the obligated resources to the extent the Board of Governors is required to maintain those facilities by the terms of the trust agreement or resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Article, the proceeds of special obligation bonds to be secured by obligated resources derived from the operation of or activities at one institution may not be applied to finance a special obligation project to be located at another institution.

(b) Approval Required. -- The Board of Governors shall not issue any special obligation bonds for a project at an institution unless the board of trustees of that institution has approved the issuance of bonds for that project. The Board of Governors shall not issue special obligation bonds under this Article until the effective date of legislation enacted by the General Assembly authorizing the undertaking of the special obligation bond project to be financed and fixing the maximum aggregate principal amount of special obligation bonds that shall be issued for that purpose. In submitting proposed special obligation bond projects to the General Assembly for approval, the Board of Governors shall submit information on the need for each project, project costs, estimates of increased operating costs upon completion, estimated debt service requirements, and the sources and amounts of obligated resources to be pledged for the repayment of the bonds. If the obligated resources to repay the bonds or to operate the proposed project potentially involve increased costs to students or to the General Fund, these costs shall be identified in the Board of Governors' submission.

Except as provided in this Article, special obligation bond projects may be undertaken, special obligation bonds may be issued, and other powers vested in the Board of Governors under this Article may be exercised by the Board without obtaining the consent of any department, division, commission, board, bureau, or agency of the State and without any other proceedings or the happening of any other conditions or things other than those proceedings, conditions, or things which are specifically required by this Article.

(c) Term; Form. -- The special obligation bonds of each issue shall be dated, shall mature at any times not exceeding 25 years from their dates, shall bear interest at any rates as may be determined by the Board of Governors, and may be redeemable before maturity at the option of the Board, at any prices and under any terms and conditions as may be fixed by the Board prior to the issuance of the special obligation bonds. The Board of Governors shall determine the form and manner of execution of the special obligation bonds and shall fix the denominations of the special obligation bonds and the places of payment of principal and interest, which may be at any bank or trust company within or without the State. Notwithstanding any of the other provisions of this Article or any recitals in any special obligation bonds issued under the provisions of this Article, all special obligation bonds shall be negotiable instruments under the laws of this State, subject only to the provisions for registration in a resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or a trust agreement securing the bonds. The Board of Governors may sell the special obligation bonds in any manner, at public or private sale, and for any price, as it may determine to be for its best interests.

(d) Proceeds; Additional Bonds. -- The proceeds of the special obligation bonds of each issue shall be used solely for the purpose for which the bonds have been authorized and shall be disbursed in the manner and under such restrictions, if any, as the Board of Governors may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the bonds or in the trust agreement securing them. Unless otherwise provided in the authorizing resolution or in the trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds, if the proceeds of the special obligation bonds, by error of estimates or otherwise, are less than the cost of the special obligation bond project, additional bonds may in like manner be issued to provide the amount of the deficit and shall be deemed to be of the same issue and shall be entitled to payment from the same fund without preference or priority of the bonds first issued for the same purpose.

The resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds, and any trust agreement securing them, may also contain limitations upon the issuance of additional special obligation bonds as the Board of Governors considers proper, and the additional special obligation bonds must be issued under the restrictions and limitations prescribed by the resolution or trust agreement.

(e) Temporary Bonds; Notes. -- Before preparing definitive bonds, the Board of Governors may, under like restrictions, issue interim receipts or temporary bonds exchangeable for definitive bonds when the bonds have been executed and are available for delivery. The Board may also provide for the replacement of any bonds which become mutilated, destroyed, or lost.

The Board of Governors may enter into or negotiate a note with an acceptable bank or trust company in lieu of issuing special obligation bonds for the financing of special obligation bond projects covered under this Article. The terms and conditions of any note of this nature shall be in accordance with the terms and conditions surrounding issuance of the special obligation bonds.

(f) Bond Anticipation Notes. -- The Board of Governors may issue, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, at one time or from time to time, bond anticipation notes of the Board of Governors in anticipation of the issuance of special obligation bonds authorized by this Article. The principal of and the interest on these notes shall be payable solely from the proceeds of special obligation bonds or renewal notes or, in the event bond or renewal note proceeds are not available, from the obligated resources designated for their payment. The notes of each issue shall be dated, shall mature at any times not exceeding two years from their dates, shall bear interest at any rates as may be determined by the Board of Governors, and may be redeemable before maturity, at the option of the Board of Governors, at any prices and under any terms and conditions as may be fixed by the Board of Governors prior to the issuance of the notes. The Board shall determine the form and the manner of execution of the notes and shall fix the denominations of the notes and the places of payment of principal and interest, which may be at any bank or trust company within or without the State. Notwithstanding any of the other provisions of this Article or any recitals in any notes issued under the provisions of this Article, all notes shall be negotiable instruments under the laws of this State, subject only to the provisions for registration in a resolution authorizing the issuance of the notes or any trust agreement securing the bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being issued. The Board of Governors may sell the notes in any manner, at public or private sale, and for any price, as it may determine to be for its best interests.

The proceeds of the notes of each issue shall be used solely for the purpose for which the special obligation bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being issued have been authorized, and the note proceeds shall be disbursed in any manner and under any restrictions as the Board of Governors may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the notes or bonds or in the trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds.

The resolution providing for the issuance of notes, and any trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being authorized, may also contain limitations upon the issuance of additional notes as the Board of Governors considers proper, and such additional notes shall be issued under the restrictions and limitations prescribed by the resolution or trust agreement. The Board may also provide for the replacement of any notes which shall become mutilated, destroyed, or lost.

Except as provided in this Article, notes may be issued under this Article and other powers vested in the Board of Governors under this Article may be exercised by the Board without obtaining the consent of any department, division, commission, board, bureau, or agency of the State and without any other proceedings or the happening of any other conditions or things than those proceedings, conditions, or things which are specifically required by this Article.

Unless the context indicates otherwise, the word 'bonds', wherever used in this Article, include the words 'bond anticipation notes'.

"§ 116D-27. Trust agreement; money received deemed trust funds; insurance; remedies.

(a) Trust Agreement Securing Bonds. -- In the discretion of the Board of Governors and subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, any special obligation bonds issued under this Article may be secured by a trust agreement by and between the Board of Governors and a corporate trustee, which may be any trust company or bank having the powers of a trust company within or without the State. The trust agreement or the resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds may pledge or assign the obligated resources designated as security for the special obligation bonds, but shall not convey or mortgage any property of the institution. The trust agreement or resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds may contain provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the holders of the special obligation bonds that are reasonable and proper and not in violation of law, including covenants setting forth the duties of the Board of Governors in relation to the acquisition, construction, or provision of any of the charging and collecting of any rates, fees, or charges that have been designated as obligated resources, the maintenance, repair, operation, and insurance of any property of the institution, and the custody, safeguarding, and application of all moneys. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of the State which may act as depositary of the proceeds of special obligation bonds or funds securing special obligation bonds to furnish any indemnifying bonds or to pledge any securities as may be required by the Board of Governors. A trust agreement or resolution may set forth the rights and remedies of the holders of the special obligation bonds and the rights, remedies, and immunities of the trustee or trustees, if any, and may restrict the individual right of action by the holders. In addition to the foregoing, a trust agreement or resolution may contain other provisions the Board of Governors considers reasonable and proper for the security of the holders. All expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of the trust agreement or resolution may be treated as a part of the cost of the special obligation bond projects for which the special obligation bonds are issued or as an expense of operation of the special obligation bond project.

(b) Trust Funds. -- All moneys received pursuant to the authority of this Article, whether as proceeds from the sale of bonds, or as obligated resources, are trust funds to be held and applied solely as provided in this Article. The Board of Governors may provide for the payment of all or part of the proceeds of the sale of the special obligation bonds and the obligated resources to any officer, board, or depositary that it may designate for their custody, and may provide for their method of disbursement, with any safeguards and restrictions it may determine. Any officer with whom, or any bank or trust company with which, moneys are deposited shall act as trustee of the moneys and shall hold and apply them for the purposes of this Article, subject to any requirements provided in this Article and in the resolution or trust agreement, authorizing or securing the special obligation bonds.

(c) Insurance. -- Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law, the Board of Governors may carry insurance on any special obligation bond projects and any existing facilities in any amounts and covering any risks it considers advisable.

(d) Remedies. -- Any holder of special obligation bonds issued under this Article and the trustees under a trust agreement, except to the extent the rights given in this section may be restricted by the trust agreement or the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds, may, either at law or in equity, by suit, action, mandamus, or other proceedings, protect and enforce any and all rights under the laws of the State or granted under this Article or under the trust agreement or resolution, and may enforce and compel the performance of all duties required by this Article or by the trust agreement or resolution to be performed by the Board of Governors or by any of its officers, including the fixing, charging, and collecting of obligated resources.

"§ 116D-28. Fixing and collecting obligated resources.

(a) Board to Provide Sufficient Resources. -- For the purpose of aiding in the financing of a special obligation bond project and to provide security to the owners of the special obligation bonds issued to finance the special obligation bond project, the Board of Governors is authorized, to the extent the generation of the obligated resources is in the control of the Board, to fix, revise from time to time, charge, and collect the rents, charges, fees, or other revenues constituting the obligated resources. Fees and other revenue sources constituting obligated resources may be imposed or increased only with the approval of the Board of Governors. As long as any special obligation bonds issued under this Article and payable from those obligated resources are outstanding, the obligated resources, to the extent within the control of the Board of Governors, shall be so fixed and adjusted, with relation to other funds available, as to provide funds pursuant to the requirements of the resolution or trust agreement authorizing or securing the special obligation bonds and at least sufficient to pay the principal of and the interest on the special obligation bonds as they become due and payable, to assure the continued collection of the obligated resources, and to create and maintain reserves for these purposes. A sufficient amount of the obligated resources, except any part that may be necessary to pay the cost of maintenance, repair, and operation, and to provide reserves for these purposes and for renewals, replacements, extensions, enlargements, and improvements as may be provided for in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or in the trust agreement securing the same, shall be set aside at regular intervals as may be provided in the resolution or trust agreement authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds in a sinking fund which is hereby pledged to, and charged with, the payment of the principal of and the interest on the special obligation bonds as they become due and the redemption price or the purchase price of special obligation bonds retired by call or purchase as provided in the resolution or trust agreement. This pledge shall be valid and binding from the time it is made, the obligated resources so pledged and thereafter received by the Board of Governors shall immediately be subject to the lien of the pledge without any physical delivery of the pledge or further act, and the lien of the pledge shall be valid and binding as against all parties having claims of any kind in tort, contract, or otherwise against the Board of Governors, irrespective of whether the parties have notice of the pledge. Neither the resolution nor any trust agreement by which a pledge is created need be filed or recorded except in the records of the Board of Governors. The use and disposition of moneys to the credit of the sinking fund shall be subject to the provisions of the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or of the trust agreement securing the bonds.

(b) State Pledge. -- The State pledges to, and agrees with, the holders of any special obligation bonds or notes issued by the Board of Governors pursuant to this Article that as long as any of the special obligation bonds or notes are outstanding and unpaid, the State will not limit or alter the rights vested in the Board of Governors at the time of issuance of the special obligation bonds or notes to set the terms and conditions of the special obligation bonds or notes and to fulfill the terms of any agreements made with the bondholders or noteholders. The State shall in no way impair the rights and remedies of the bondholders or noteholders until the special obligation bonds or notes and all costs and expenses in connection with any action or proceedings by or on behalf of the bondholders or noteholders are fully paid, met, and discharged.

"§ 116D-29. Vesting powers in committee.

The Board of Governors may authorize its budget and finance committee to sell any special obligation bonds which the Board has, with the approval of the Director of the Budget, authorized to be issued under this Article in any manner and under any limitations or conditions as the Board prescribes and to perform other functions under this Article the Board determines.

"§ 116D-30. Refunding bonds.

The Board of Governors may, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, issue from time to time refunding bonds for the purpose of refunding any bonds by the Board under this Article or under any Article of Chapter 116 of the General Statutes, including the payment of any redemption premium on them and any interest accrued or to accrue to the date of redemption of the bonds refunded. The Board of Governors is further authorized, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, to issue from time to time refunding bonds for the combined purpose of (i) refunding any bonds issued by the Board under this Article or under any Article of Chapter 116 of the General Statutes, including the payment of any redemption premium on them and any interest accrued or to accrue to the date of redemption of the bonds, and (ii) paying all or any part of the cost of acquiring or constructing any additional special obligation bond projects.

This Article, as applicable, governs the issuance of refunding bonds, their maturities and other details, the rights and remedies of their holders, and the rights, powers, privileges, duties, and obligations of the Board of Governors with respect to them.

"§ 116D-31. Additional and alternative method.

This Article provides an additional and alternative method for the doing of the things authorized and is supplemental and additional to powers conferred by other laws, including G.S. 116-175 to G.S. 116-185, inclusive and G.S. 116-197 and G.S. 116-198, and is not in derogation of or repealing any powers now existing under any other law, whether general, special, or local. The issuance of special obligation bonds or refunding bonds under this Article, however, need not comply with the requirements of any other law applicable to the issuance of bonds.

Refunding bonds or notes may be issued at any time prior to the final maturity of the debt or obligation to be refunded. The proceeds from the sale of any refunding bonds or notes shall be applied to the immediate payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded or, if not required for the immediate payment of the bonds or notes being refunded, the proceeds shall be deposited in trust to provide for the payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded and to pay any expenses incurred in connection with the refunding. Money in a trust fund may be invested in (i) direct obligations of the United States government, (ii) obligations the principal of and interest on which are guaranteed by the United States government, (iii) obligations of any agency or instrumentality of the United States government if the timely payment of principal and interest on the obligations is unconditionally guaranteed by the United States government, or (iv) certificates of deposit issued by a bank or trust company located in the State if the certificates are secured by a pledge of any of the obligations described in (i), (ii), or (iii) above having an aggregate market value, exclusive of accrued interest, equal at least to the principal amount of the certificates so secured. This section does not limit the duration of any deposit in trust for the retirement of bonds or notes being refunded but that have not matured and are not presently redeemable, or if presently redeemable, have not been called for redemption.

(g) Community College Bonds Fund. -- The proceeds of community college general obligation bonds and notes, including premium thereon, if any, except the proceeds of bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by bond anticipation notes or the proceeds of refunding bonds or notes, shall be placed by the State Treasurer in a special fund to be designated 'Community College Bonds Fund'. Moneys in the Community College Bonds Fund shall be used for the purposes set forth in this Article.

Any additional moneys that may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States of America or any agency or department thereof or from any other source to aid in financing the cost of any community college capital facilities authorized by this Article may be placed by the State Treasurer in the Community College Bonds Fund or in a separate account or fund and shall be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this act.

The proceeds of community college general obligation bonds and notes may be used with any other moneys made available by the General Assembly for the making of grants to community colleges for capital facilities, including the proceeds of any other State bond issues, whether previously made available or which may be made available after the effective date of this Article. The proceeds of community college bonds and notes shall be expended and disbursed under the direction and supervision of the Director of the Budget. The funds provided by this Article for grants to community colleges shall be disbursed for the purposes provided in this Article upon warrants drawn on the State Treasurer by the State Controller, which warrants shall not be drawn until requisition has been approved by the Director of the Budget and which requisition shall be approved only after full compliance with the Executive Budget Act, Article 1 of Chapter 143 of the General Statutes.

"§ 116D-47. Variable rate demand bonds and notes.

(a) In fixing the details of bonds and notes, the State Treasurer may provide that the bonds and notes may:

(1) Be made payable from time to time on demand or tender for purchase by the owner, if a credit facility supports the bonds or notes, unless the State Treasurer specifically determines that a credit facility is not required upon a finding and determination by the State Treasurer that the absence of a credit facility will not materially and adversely affect the financial position of the State and the marketing of the bonds or notes at a reasonable interest cost to the State.

(2) Be additionally supported by a credit facility.

(3) Be made subject to redemption or a mandatory tender for purchase prior to maturity.

(4) Bear interest at rates that may vary from any periods of time, as may be provided in the proceedings providing for the issuance of the bonds or notes, including, without limitation, any variations as may be permitted pursuant to a par formula.

(5) Be made the subject of a remarketing agreement whereby an attempt is made to remarket bonds or notes to new purchasers prior to their presentment for payment to the provider of the credit facility or to the State.

(b) If the aggregate principal amount payable by the State under a credit facility is in excess of the aggregate principal amount of bonds or notes secured by the credit facility, whether as a result of the inclusion in the credit facility of a provision for the payment of interest for a limited period of time or the payment of a redemption premium, or for any other reason, then the amount of authorized but unissued bonds or notes during the term of the credit facility shall not be less than the amount of the excess, unless the payment of the excess is otherwise provided for by agreement of the State executed by the State Treasurer.

"§ 116D-48. Other agreements.

The State Treasurer may authorize, execute, obtain, or otherwise provide for bond insurance, investment contracts, credit and liquidity facilities, interest rate swap agreements and other derivative products, and any other related instruments and matters the State Treasurer determines are desirable in connection with the issuance of bonds or notes. The State Treasurer is authorized to employ and designate any financial consultants, underwriters, and bond attorneys to be associated with any bond issue under this Article as the State Treasurer considers necessary.

"§ 116D-49. Procurement of capital facilities.

Any laws, rules, or regulations of the State that relate to the acquisition and construction of capital facilities shall apply to the capital facilities financed pursuant to this Article."

Section 2.(b) The Director of the Budget is empowered, when the Director of the Budget determines it is in the best interest of the State and the University to do so, and if the cost of a particular capital facility is less than the amount allocated for it, to use the excess funds to meet increased cost of other capital facilities itemized in this section and located at the same institution. The Director of the Budget shall report to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations on changes made under this subsection. In addition, any capital facility and the amount of the allocation for it set forth above may be changed from time to time as the General Assembly may decide. The provisions of G.S. 116-11(9) with respect to appropriations to the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall not apply to proceeds of university improvement general obligation bonds and notes issued pursuant to Article 2 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act.

Section 2.(c) Allocations to the costs of a capital improvement or undertaking in each case may include allocations to pay the costs set forth in this act in connection with the issuance of university improvement general obligation bonds for that capital improvement or undertaking.

Section 2.(d) The validity of university improvement general obligation bonds and notes issued under Article 2 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act, is not affected by any subsequent adjustment of allocations, or by any failure to comply with the reporting requirements provided in this act.

Section 3.(b) Except as provided in this subsection and subsection (d) of this section, a community college may use the bond proceeds allocated in subsection (a) of this section only in accordance with the allocations in the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's report on the capital allocation and repairs and renovations funding formula. Funds allocated for repair and renovations must be used in accordance with exhibit 5-6 of the Funding Formula Study: Phase 3 Report, submitted May 15, 1998. Funds allocated for new construction must be used in accordance with exhibits 15 and 16 of the Funding Formula Study: Phase 4 Report, submitted February 4, 1999, up to the amounts allocated in this section.

Except as provided in this paragraph, new construction funds allocated by the report to a specific site may not be allocated to another site. If the local board of trustees of a community college determines that new construction funds allocated to a specific site are not needed at that site, the board may request that the State Board of Community Colleges reallocate those funds for new construction at another site of the community college. If the State Board of Community Colleges determines that the funds are not needed for new construction at the site for which they were originally allocated, it shall approve the reallocation to the other site and shall substitute the proposed facility at the other site in the Community Colleges System Office's application to the State Treasurer pursuant to G.S. 116D-43.

Each community college shall submit to the State Board of Community Colleges a statement (i) proposing the capital facilities to be financed with the proceeds of community college general obligation bonds allocated to that community college, (ii) certifying that the proposed site is included in the consultant's report referred to in this section or is a substitute facility at another site because the funds are not needed for new construction at the site for which they are allocated in the consultant's report, (iii) certifying that the community college is prepared to proceed with the construction, acquisition, or improvement of the proposed capital facilities, and (iv) demonstrating that the applicable matching requirements have been or will be met.

Upon receipt by the State Board of Community Colleges of the information set forth above, the Board shall add the proposed capital facilities to the next application of the Community Colleges System Office to the State Treasurer to issue bonds pursuant to G.S. 116D-43.

The board of trustees of an individual community college may use funds allocated for new construction either for new construction or for repair and renovations. The board of trustees of a community college may use funds allocated for repair and renovations only for repair and renovations, and not for new construction.

The projected allocations set forth above may be changed from time to time as the General Assembly may decide.

Section 3.(c) Community colleges are not required to match bond proceeds allocated in this section for repair and renovations. The match requirements of Chapter 115D of the General Statutes apply to bond proceeds allocated for new construction except as provided in this subsection. The consultant hired by the State Board of Community Colleges to determine funding formulas for the community college system developed an index to measure each county's ability to pay. The consultant found that some counties are unable to meet their local match requirement under Chapter 115D of the General Statutes because of inability to pay. Accordingly, community colleges are required to match bond proceeds allocated for new construction in subsection (a) or (d) of this section only as follows: Community colleges assigned a matching rate of less than forty percent (40%) in the "adjusted matching requirements" contained in exhibit 14 of the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's Funding Formula Study: Phase 4 Report, submitted February 4, 1999, are not required to match, and community colleges assigned a matching rate of forty percent (40%) or more in the adjusted matching requirements are required to match only at the assigned rate.

Section 3.(d) Each community college that was not allocated funds for new construction in the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's report on the capital allocation funding formula may receive the bond proceeds allocated to it for new construction in subsection (a) of this section only to the extent that it can document to the State Board of Community Colleges its actual need for funds for new construction, or its actual need for funds for repair and renovations in excess of the amount allocated to it for repair and renovations in subsection (a) of this section. If any community college is unable to document to the State Board of Community Colleges by January 1, 2001, these needs in the amount of its entire allocation for new construction under subsection (a) of this section, the State Board shall reallocate the excess of the allocation over the amount the college was able to document among the remaining community colleges to the extent they can document actual needs in excess of their allocations in subsection (a) of this section for new construction, repair, and renovations, or both.

Section 3.(e) The validity of community college general obligation bonds and notes issued under Article 4 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act, is not affected by any subsequent adjustment of allocations or matching requirements provided in this act, or by any failure to comply with matching requirements or reporting requirements provided in this act.

Section 4.(a) University of North Carolina Capital Plan. -- The General Assembly finds that recent studies have shown that billions of dollars will be necessary to repair and renovate the current facilities of the University, to expand the facilities to meet future enrollment demands, to modernize existing facilities of the University in order for the University to continue to provide excellent educational opportunities for the people of North Carolina, and to meet the challenges of changing technologies and globalization of economies. The amount of bonds authorized in this act for university improvements represents only a part of the demonstrated needs. The following list encompasses the critical needs of The University of North Carolina Capital Plan:

Section 4.(b) Matching Gift Incentive Program Projects. -- The critical needs capital plan set out in this section allocates two hundred eighty-two million six hundred forty-eight thousand two hundred twelve dollars ($282,648,212) for matching gift incentive program projects. The Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall employ a private consultant to develop a list of capital facilities which are to be funded jointly from these funds and private donations. The Board of Governors shall submit this list of recommended projects, including the proposed matching requirements by the University or its constituent or affiliated institutions, to the General Assembly by April 1, 2000. The matching requirements must be based on analyses of the fund-raising capabilities of each institution as determined by a private consultant in order to maximize private fund-raising for capital projects. The General Assembly will consider providing these funds for matching gift incentive program projects in accordance with this proposal.

Section 5. Interpretation of Act. (a) Additional Method. -- This act provides an additional and alternative method for the doing of the things authorized by this act and shall be regarded as supplemental and additional to powers conferred by other laws. Except where expressly provided, this act shall not be regarded as in derogation of any powers now existing. The authority granted in this act is in addition to other laws now or hereinafter enacted authorizing The University of North Carolina to issue self-liquidating debt or other debt secured by designated sources of funds.

Section 5.(b) Statutory References. -- References in this act to specific sections or Chapters of the General Statutes are intended to be references to those sections or Chapters as they may be amended from time to time by the General Assembly.

Section 5.(c) Liberal Construction. -- This act, being necessary for the health and welfare of the people of the State, shall be liberally construed to effect its purposes.

Section 5.(d) Severability. -- If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, that invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of the act that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this act are severable.

Section 6. Repair and Renovation Reports. -- The Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall report annually to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations and the Joint Legislative Education Oversight Committee on the condition of all of the University's capital facilities, including a status report on all repair, renovation, and maintenance projects being undertaken and an assessment of needs for additional funding to repair, renovate, and maintain the facilities.

The Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall also study the repairs and renovations formula currently utilized with respect to funding for the Repairs and Renovations Reserve Account to determine whether it adequately takes into account all of the appropriate maintenance needs of each constituent and affiliated institution, and shall recommend to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations and the Joint Legislative Education Oversight Committee any changes necessary to improve the formula. The Board shall make recommendations on the scope and adequacy of the methodology used to calculate the funding for the repairs and renovations reserve as specified in G.S. 143-15.2.

Section 7. Minority Business Participation. -- The goals set by G.S. 143-128 for participation in projects by minority businesses apply to projects funded by the proceeds of bonds or notes issued under this act. The following State agencies shall monitor compliance with this requirement and shall report to the General Assembly by January 1 of each year on the participation by minority businesses in these projects. The State Construction Office, Department of Administration, shall monitor compliance with regard to projects funded by the proceeds of university improvement general obligation bonds and notes and special obligation bonds and notes; the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall provide the State Construction Office any information required by the State Construction Office to monitor compliance. The Community Colleges System Office shall monitor compliance with regard to projects funded by the proceeds of community college general obligation bonds and notes.

Section 8. Private Resources for University Improvements. -- The Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall review the recommendations in the "Capital Equity and Adequacy Study" regarding the potential for increased use of private resources in providing University facilities. The Board of Governors shall study the potential for private development of these facilities as student housing, public/private partnerships for joint development of facilities, establishment of a private nonprofit corporation to assist in development of University facilities, and any other alternatives the Board considers appropriate and feasible. The Board of Governors shall develop recommendations and proposals to implement these recommendations and report these proposals to the Joint Legislative Education Oversight Committee by April 15, 2000.

Section 9. Article 36 of Chapter 143 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new section to read:

"§ 143-342.2. Restriction on naming construction projects funded by the State.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no construction project funded in whole or in part from State funds shall be named for a member of the General Assembly or the Council of State during the time the person is holding office either as a member of the General Assembly or the Council of State."

Section 10. The questions of the issuance of the bonds authorized by Articles 2 and 4 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act, and authorized by Sections 2 and 3 of this act, shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the State at the statewide primary election to be held in May 2000. Any other primary, election, or referendum validly called or scheduled by law at the time the election on the bond question provided for in this section is held may be held as called or scheduled. Notice of the election shall be given in the manner and at the times required by G.S. 163-33(8). The election and the registration of voters therefor shall be held under and in accordance with the general laws of the State. Absentee ballots shall be authorized in the election.

The State Board of Elections shall reimburse the counties of the State for all necessary expenses incurred in holding the election that are in addition to those that would have otherwise been incurred, the same to be paid out of the Contingency and Emergency Fund or other funds available to the State Board of Elections.

Ballots, voting systems authorized by Article 14 of Chapter 163 of the General Statutes, or both may be used in accordance with rules prescribed by the State Board of Elections. The bond questions to be used in the ballots or voting systems shall be in substantially the following form:

[ ] FOR [ ] AGAINST

the issuance of one billion dollars ($1,000,000,000) State of North Carolina University Improvement General Obligation Bonds constituting general obligation bonds of the State secured by a pledge of the faith and credit and taxing power of the State for the purpose of providing funds, with any other available funds, to pay the cost of capital improvements for constituent or affiliated institutions and the Center for Public Television of The University of North Carolina.

[ ] FOR [ ] AGAINST

the issuance of two hundred million dollars ($200,000,000) State of North Carolina Community College General Obligation Bonds constituting general obligation bonds of the State secured by a pledge of the faith and credit and taxing power of the State for the purpose of providing funds, together with other available funds, to make grants to community colleges to pay all or a portion of the cost of providing capital improvements.

If a majority of those voting on a bond question in the election vote in favor of the issuance of the bonds described in the question, those bonds may be issued as provided in this act. If a majority of those voting on a bond question in the election do not vote for the issuance of the bonds described in the question, those bonds shall not be issued.

The results of the election shall be canvassed and declared as provided by law for elections for State officers; the results of the election shall be certified by the State Board of Elections to the Secretary of State, in the manner and at the time provided by the general election laws of the State.

SENATE BILL 912

Short Title: UNC Financing. (Public)

Sponsors: Senator Rand.

Referred to: Rules and Operations of the Senate.

April 14, 1999

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT PERTAINING TO CAPITAL FINANCING FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. This act pertains to capital financing for The University of North Carolina.

Section 2. This act is effective when it becomes law.

HOUSE BILL 1481/SENATE BILL 912: Bonds for Higher Education

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House and Senate Finance	Sponsor:	Rep. Miller/Sen. Rand
Date:	June 29, 1999	Analysis by:	Martha H. Harris
Version:	Proposed Committee Substitute for First Edition		Staff Attorney

SUMMARY: This bill would create a new Chapter 116D of the General Statutes to establish the following mechanisms for debt financing of higher education facilities:

1. It authorizes the State to issue security interest bonds to finance $2.7 billion of capital facilities for the University of North Carolina and $300 million of capital facilities for community colleges. The bonds would be secured by a security interest in the capital facilities being financed.
2. It authorizes the UNC Board of Governors to issue special obligation bonds to finance capital facilities for the University. The bonds would be secured by the University's receipts, other than tuition or appropriations from the General Fund.

Security Interest Bonds. Article 2 of the new Chapter 116D created by this bill would authorize the State to issue university improvement security interest bonds secured by a lien on or security interest in University property acquired, constructed, or improved with the bond proceeds. Article 4 of the new Chapter 116D would authorize the State to issue community college security interest bonds secured by a lien on or security interest in community college property acquired, constructed, or improved with the bond proceeds. These security interest bonds would be repaid from the General Fund. The maximum maturity on the bonds would be 25 years.

The university improvement security interest bonds would be used for construction, improvement, and acquisition of capital facilities for constituent and affiliated institutions of The University of North Carolina, including the Center for Public Television, the UNC Health Care System, the School of Science and Mathematics, and the North Carolina Arboretum. Similarly, the community college security interest bonds would be used for grants to community colleges for construction, improvement, and acquisition of their capital facilities. The bill specifically defines capital facilities as buildings, utilities, structures, and other facilities and property developments, including streets, landscaping, equipment and furnishings in connection with a building project, and land acquisition. The facilities may include sports facilities, housing, and administrative offices as well as educational buildings.

The security interest bonds would be issuable by the Treasurer only to fund allocations established by the General Assembly; those allocations are set out in Sections 2 and 3 of this bill. The bill limits the amount of community college security interest bonds that may be issued to $300 million and limits the amount of university improvement security interest bonds that may be issued each year over five years as follows:

Fiscal Year	Aggregate Amount
1999-2000	$240,000,000
2000-2001	480,000,000
2001-2002	700,000,000
2002-2003	640,000,000

2003-2004 640,000,000

The proposed security interest bonds are not general obligation bonds and thus are not required to be approved by the voters. They are not secured by the full faith and credit or the taxing power of the State; a statement to this effect would appear on the face of the bonds. The State could choose not to appropriate funds to pay the bonds, but such a decision would have negative consequences for the State's credit rating.

The security interest bonds would be secured by a lien or security interest in all or any part of the capital facilities to be financed, including all or part of any land on which improvements are to be constructed. If the project is a renovation, the entire existing facility as well as the improvement could serve as security. In the case of community college bonds, although the bonds are issued by the State, the community college or county that owns the property would give the security interest. No deficiency judgment could be rendered against the State if the bonds were not paid. The property securing the bonds would be sold and the net proceeds would be applied to pay the bonds.

Section 2 of the bill sets out the specific projects for which university improvement security interest bonds would be issued. If the cost of a project changed, the Board of Governors could reallocate funds from one project to another, but only between projects at the same institution.

Section 2 also allocates nearly $300 million of the university improvement security interest bonds for matching gift incentive program projects. The bill directs the Board of Governors to employ a private consultant to develop a list of capital facilities to be funded jointly from the bonds and private donations. The list would include matching requirements based on each institution's fund-raising capabilities. The Board of Governors must submit the list to the General Assembly by April 1, 2000. The bonds for these projects can be issued only after the General Assembly enacts legislation allocating the proceeds for the specific projects.

Section 3 of the bill sets out the amount allocated to each community college for new construction and for repairs and renovations and requires that the allocations must be used in accordance with the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's report, which establishes the funding formula for new construction needs and repair and renovation needs at each campus. A community college could not reallocate to another campus funds that the consultant's report allocates to a specific campus. Bond proceeds allocated for repair and renovations could be used only for repair and renovations, but bond proceeds allocated for new construction could be used either for new construction or for repair and renovations.

There are some community colleges that did not have an allocation for new construction in the consultant's report, but that do have an allocation of bond proceeds for new construction in the bill. The bill provides that these community colleges may receive their new construction allocation only to the extent they can document to the State Board of Community Colleges their actual needs for new construction, or their actual needs for repair and renovations in excess of the amount allocated in the bill for repairs of renovations. If any bond proceeds could not be used because of a community college's failure to document these needs, those amounts would be pooled and reallocated by the State Board to other community colleges that were able to document actual needs in excess of the amounts already allocated for those needs in the bill.

Under general law, community colleges are required to match State capital funds on a dollar-for-dollar basis. This bill provides three limited exceptions to this requirement for the bond proceeds. First, bond proceeds allocated for repair and renovations need not be matched. Second, community colleges which the consultant's report determined had a matching ability of 40% or less, based on ability to pay, need not match allocations for new construction. Third, community colleges which the consultant's report determined had a matching ability of more than 40% must match new construction allocations only at the matching ability percentage assigned to them in the report.

UNC Special Obligation Bonds. Article 3 of the new Chapter 116D created by this bill would authorize the UNC Board of Governors to issue special obligation bonds payable with any sources of income or receipts of the Board of Governors or a constituent or affiliated institution, but not including tuition payments or appropriations from the General Fund from State revenues. The bond proceeds could be used for construction, improvement, and acquisition of any capital facilities located at UNC constituent and affiliated institutions. The maximum maturity on the bonds would be 25 years. Special obligation bonds could be issued only for projects specifically authorized by the General Assembly, as is the current practice for revenue bonds (self-liquidating bonds).

The proposed UNC special obligation bonds are not general obligation bonds and thus are not required to be approved by the voters. They are not secured by the full faith and credit or the taxing power of the State; a statement to this effect would appear on the face of the bonds. Property could not be pledged to secure the bonds. The bonds would be secured by the Board of Governors' pledge of obligated resources to serve as security for the bonds. Obligated resources, defined in proposed G.S. 116D-22, would include rents, charges, or fees to be derived by the Board of Governors or a constituent institution from any activity; earnings on the investment of an endowment fund; and funds to be received from grants and contracts. Obligated resources would not include tuition payments or appropriations of general revenues. Obligated resources derived from one institution could not be used to finance a bond project located at a different institution.

To the extent the generation of obligated resources is within the control of the Board of Governors, proposed G.S. 116D-28 would authorize and require the Board to increase the underlying fees or charges as necessary to generate sufficient revenues to pay the bonds. An individual institution could not increase a fee or charge with out approval of the Board of Governors. The Board would be required to set aside a sufficient amount of obligated resources on a regular basis into a sinking fund pledged to pay the principal and interest on the bonds. The bill provides that the State pledges and contracts that it will not limit or alter the rights vested in the Board of Governors with respect to the bonds as long as any bonds are outstanding.

The amount of special obligation bonds that could be issued is limited by the extent to which the Board of Governors finds that sufficient obligated resources are "reasonably expected" to be available to pay the debt service. In submitting proposed special obligation bond projects to the General Assembly for approval, the Board of Governors would be required to justify the need for each project and to itemize the cost of the project, the estimated operating costs upon completion, and the sources and amounts of obligated resources to be pledged for repayment of the bonds. The Board of Governors could submit a proposed project for approval by the General Assembly only if the project has been approved by the board of trustees of the institution at which the project would be located.

Reporting Requirements. The bill imposes reporting requirements to allow the General Assembly to monitor all aspects of the proposed bonds. The Board of Governors would be required to report annually to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations on (1) the university improvement security interest bonds, including total project costs, amount funded by bonds, expenditures to date, progress to completion, and estimated operating costs and their proposed source of payment; and on (2) the special obligation bonds, including, for each institution, outstanding debt, specific projects, debt service requirements, actual repayments, compliance with all applicable financial requirements, and trends and revenue streams for obligated resources. The State Treasurer would be required to report annually, and upon each issuance of university improvement security interest bonds and community college security interest bonds, on debt service requirements for the bonds. Finally, the Community Colleges System Office would be required to report quarterly to the Joint Legislative Education Oversight Committee on projects funded from community college security interest bonds, including total project costs, the amount funded by bonds, expenditures to date, and progress to completion.

HOUSE BILL 1481/SENATE BILL 912: Bonds for Higher Education

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House and Senate Finance	Sponsor:	Rep. Miller/Sen. Rand
Date:	June 28, 1999	Analysis by:	Martha H. Harris Staff Attorney
Version:	Proposed Committee Substitute for First Edition

SUMMARY: This bill would create a new Chapter 116D of the General Statutes to establish the following mechanisms for debt financing of higher education facilities:

1. It authorizes the State to issue security interest bonds to finance $2.7 billion of capital facilities for the University of North Carolina and $300 million of capital facilities for community colleges. The bonds would be secured by a security interest in the capital facilities being financed.
2. It authorizes the UNC Board of Governors to issue special obligation bonds to finance capital facilities for the University. The bonds would be secured by the University's receipts, other than tuition or appropriations from the General Fund.

Security Interest Bonds. Article 2 of the new Chapter 116D created by this bill would authorize the State to issue university improvement security interest bonds secured by a lien on or security interest in University property acquired, constructed, or improved with the bond proceeds. Article 4 of the new Chapter 116D would authorize the State to issue community college security interest bonds secured by a lien on or security interest in community college property acquired, constructed, or improved with the bond proceeds. These security interest bonds would be repaid from the General Fund. The maximum maturity on the bonds would be 25 years.

The university improvement security interest bonds would be used for construction, improvement, and acquisition of capital facilities for constituent and affiliated institutions of The University of North Carolina, including the Center for Public Television, the UNC Health Care System, the School of Science and Mathematics, and the North Carolina Arboretum. Similarly, the community college security interest bonds would be used for grants to community colleges for construction, improvement, and acquisition of their capital facilities. The bill specifically defines capital facilities as buildings, utilities, structures, and other facilities and property developments, including streets, landscaping, equipment and furnishings in connection with a building project, and land acquisition. The facilities may include sports facilities, housing, and administrative offices as well as educational buildings.

The security interest bonds would be issuable by the Treasurer only to fund allocations established by the General Assembly; those allocations are set out in Sections 2 and 3 of this bill. The bill limits the amount of community college security interest bonds that may be issued to $300 million and limits the amount of university improvement security interest bonds that may be issued each year over five years as follows:

Fiscal Year	Aggregate Amount
1999-2000	$240,000,000
2000-2001	480,000,000
2001-2002	700,000,000
2002-2003	640,000,000

2003-2004 640,000,000

The proposed security interest bonds are not general obligation bonds and thus are not required to be approved by the voters. They are not secured by the full faith and credit or the taxing power of the State; a statement to this effect would appear on the face of the bonds. The State could choose not to appropriate funds to pay the bonds, but such a decision would have negative consequences for the State's credit rating.

The security interest bonds would be secured by a lien or security interest in all or any part of the capital facilities to be financed, including all or part of any land on which improvements are to be constructed. If the project is a renovation, the entire existing facility as well as the improvement could serve as security. In the case of community college bonds, although the bonds are issued by the State, the community college or county that owns the property would give the security interest. No deficiency judgment could be rendered against the State if the bonds were not paid. The property securing the bonds would be sold and the net proceeds would be applied to pay the bonds.

Section 2 of the bill sets out the specific projects for which university improvement security interest bonds would be issued. If the cost of a project changed, the Board of Governors could reallocate funds from one project to another, but only between projects at the same institution.

Section 2 also allocates nearly $300 million of the university improvement security interest bonds for matching gift incentive program projects. The bill directs the Board of Governors to employ a private consultant to develop a list of capital facilities to be funded jointly from the bonds and private donations. The list would include matching requirements based on each institution's fund-raising capabilities. The Board of Governors must submit the list to the General Assembly by April 1, 2000. The bonds for these projects can be issued only after the General Assembly enacts legislation allocating the proceeds for the specific projects.

Section 3 of the bill sets out the amount allocated to each community college for new construction and for repairs and renovations and requires that the allocations must be used in accordance with the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's report, which establishes the funding formula for new construction needs and repair and renovation needs at each campus. A community college could not reallocate to another campus funds that the consultant's report allocates to a specific campus. Bond proceeds allocated for repair and renovations could be used only for repair and renovations, but bond proceeds allocated for new construction could be used either for new construction or for repair and renovations.

There are some community colleges that did not have an allocation for new construction in the consultant's report, but that do have an allocation of bond proceeds for new construction in the bill. The bill provides that these community colleges may receive their new construction allocation only to the extent they can document to the State Board of Community Colleges their actual needs for new construction, or their actual needs for repair and renovations in excess of the amount allocated in the bill for repairs of renovations. If any bond proceeds could not be used because of a community college's failure to document these needs, those amounts would be pooled and reallocated by the State Board to other community colleges that were able to document actual needs in excess of the amounts already allocated for those needs in the bill.

Under general law, community colleges are required to match State capital funds on a dollar-for-dollar basis. This bill provides three limited exceptions to this requirement for the bond proceeds. First, bond proceeds allocated for repair and renovations need not be matched. Second, community colleges which the consultant's report determined had a matching ability of 40% or less, based on ability to pay, need not match allocations for new construction. Third, community colleges which the consultant's report determined had a matching ability of more than 40% must match new construction allocations only at the matching ability percentage assigned to them in the report.

UNC Special Obligation Bonds. Article 3 of the new Chapter 116D created by this bill would authorize the UNC Board of Governors to issue special obligation bonds payable with any sources of income or receipts of the Board of Governors or a constituent or affiliated institution, but not including tuition payments or appropriations from the General Fund from State revenues. The bond proceeds could be used for construction, improvement, and acquisition of any capital facilities located at UNC constituent and affiliated institutions. The maximum maturity on the bonds would be 25 years. Special obligation bonds could be issued only for projects specifically authorized by the General Assembly, as is the current practice for revenue bonds (self-liquidating bonds).

The proposed UNC special obligation bonds are not general obligation bonds and thus are not required to be approved by the voters. They are not secured by the full faith and credit or the taxing power of the State; a statement to this effect would appear on the face of the bonds. Property could not be pledged to secure the bonds. The bonds would be secured by the Board of Governors' pledge of obligated resources to serve as security for the bonds. Obligated resources, defined in proposed G.S. 116D-22, would include rents, charges, or fees to be derived by the Board of Governors or a constituent institution from any activity; earnings on the investment of an endowment fund; and funds to be received from grants and contracts. Obligated resources would not include tuition payments or appropriations of general revenues. Obligated resources derived from one institution could not be used to finance a bond project located at a different institution.

To the extent the generation of obligated resources is within the control of the Board of Governors, proposed G.S. 116D-28 would authorize and require the Board to increase the underlying fees or charges as necessary to generate sufficient revenues to pay the bonds. An individual institution could not increase a fee or charge with out approval of the Board of Governors. The Board would be required to set aside a sufficient amount of obligated resources on a regular basis into a sinking fund pledged to pay the principal and interest on the bonds. The bill provides that the State pledges and contracts that it will not limit or alter the rights vested in the Board of Governors with respect to the bonds as long as any bonds are outstanding.

The amount of special obligation bonds that could be issued is limited by the extent to which the Board of Governors finds that sufficient obligated resources are "reasonably expected" to be available to pay the debt service. In submitting proposed special obligation bond projects to the General Assembly for approval, the Board of Governors would be required to justify the need for each project and to itemize the cost of the project, the estimated operating costs upon completion, and the sources and amounts of obligated resources to be pledged for repayment of the bonds. The Board of Governors could submit a proposed project for approval by the General Assembly only if the project has been approved by the board of trustees of the institution at which the project would be located.

Reporting Requirements. The bill imposes reporting requirements to allow the General Assembly to monitor all aspects of the proposed bonds. The Board of Governors would be required to report annually to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations on (1) the university improvement security interest bonds, including total project costs, amount funded by bonds, expenditures to date, progress to completion, and estimated operating costs and their proposed source of payment; and on (2) the special obligation bonds, including, for each institution, outstanding debt, specific projects, debt service requirements, actual repayments, compliance with all applicable financial requirements, and trends and revenue streams for obligated resources. The State Treasurer would be required to report annually, and upon each issuance of university improvement security interest bonds and community college security interest bonds, on debt service requirements for the bonds. Finally, the Community Colleges System Office would be required to report quarterly to the Joint Legislative Education Oversight Committee on projects funded from community college security interest bonds, including total project costs, the amount funded by bonds, expenditures to date, and progress to completion.

"ARTICLE 2.

"Security Interest Bonds for Financing Capital Facilities for The University of North Carolina.

"§ 116D-5. Short title.

This Article may be cited as the University Improvement Security Interest Bonds Finance Act.

"§ 116D-6. Findings and purpose.

The General Assembly finds that:

(1) Article IX of the North Carolina Constitution requires the General Assembly to maintain a public system of higher education comprising The University of North Carolina, that the benefits of the University, as far as practicable, be extended to the people of North Carolina without expense.

(2) Recent studies have shown that billions of dollars will be necessary to repair and renovate the current facilities of the University, to expand the facilities to meet future enrollment demands, to modernize existing facilities of the University in order for the University to continue to provide excellent educational opportunities for the people of North Carolina, and to meet the challenges of changing technologies and globalization of economies.

(3) The University is one of the most valuable assets of the State, and the State cannot afford to permit the quality of the University to decline due to failure to maintain, expand, and modernize the facilities of the University. The failure to expend the required amounts to maintain, modernize, and expand the University will have a significant negative impact upon the continuing quality of the University. Such a negative impact is unacceptable to the citizens of the State.

(4) The University's capital facilities have been and will continue to be provided from University funds on hand, direct appropriations by the State, the proceeds of University self-liquidating debt obligations, and the proceeds of State general obligation bonds secured by a pledge of the faith and credit of the State. There is a need, however, for the use of alternative financing methods to facilitate funding capital facilities when circumstances and conditions warrant the use of financing methods other than those currently used.

(5) The use of State of North Carolina University Improvement Security Interest Bonds, secured by a lien on or security interest in University property acquired, constructed, or improved with the bond proceeds, with the payments of principal and interest appropriated by the General Assembly, will provide flexibility to the State in the financing of facilities for the University and will permit the State to take advantage of changing financial and economic environments.

"§ 116D-7. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Bonds. -- Bonds authorized to be issued under this Article, including refunding bonds.

(2) Notes. -- Notes issued under this Article.

(3) University improvement security interest bonds. -- Bonds authorized to be issued under this Article, including refunding bonds.

"§ 116D-8. Authorization of bonds and notes.

The State Treasurer may, by and with the consent of the Council of State, issue and sell, at one time or from time to time, university improvement security interest bonds of the State to be designated 'State of North Carolina University Improvement Security Interest Bonds', with any additional designations as may be determined to indicate the issuance of bonds from time to time, or notes of the State. Except as otherwise provided by this Article, the aggregate amount of bonds and notes issued pursuant to this Article shall not exceed two billion seven hundred million dollars ($2,700,000,000). The bonds and notes shall be issued in the following years up to the following amounts:

Fiscal Year	Aggregate Amount
1999-2000	$240,000,000
2000-2001	480,000,000
2001-2002	700,000,000
2002-2003	640,000,000
2003-2004	640,000,000

If less than the aggregate amount of bonds or notes authorized to be issued in a fiscal year is issued in that fiscal year, the balance for that fiscal year may be issued in any subsequent fiscal year. Refunding bonds and notes issued pursuant to G.S. 116D-11(f) shall not be included in the limitation on the aggregate amount of bonds and notes that may be issued pursuant to this Article.

The proceeds of bonds or notes issued under this Article shall be applied to finance the cost of improvement, construction, and acquisition of capital facilities for the University or to refund any outstanding bonds or notes issued under this Article. The capital facilities to be improved, constructed, or acquired with the proceeds of bonds or notes shall be determined as provided in G.S. 116D-9.

"§ 116D-9. Designation of capital facilities and preconditions to bond issuance.

The capital facilities to be financed in whole or in part with the proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds shall be set forth in legislation enacted from time to time by the General Assembly. The proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds shall not be expended to pay the costs of any capital facilities other than those set forth in that legislation.

"§ 116D-10. Security; other requirements.

(a) Security. -- To secure payment of the principal of and interest on bonds or notes issued under this Article, the State may create a lien on or a security interest in one or more of the following:

(1) In all or any part of the capital facilities to be financed by the bonds or notes.

(2) In the case of construction of improvements on real property, in all or some portion of the land on which the improvements are to be located or in all or part of the improvements.

(3) In the case of renovations or improvements to or the installation of fixtures in existing facilities, in all or some portion of the existing facilities, or in all or part of the renovations or improvements.

Chapter 146 of the General Statutes does not apply to any transfer of the State's interest in property authorized by this Article, whether to a deed of trust trustee or other secured party as security for university improvement security interest bonds, or to a purchaser of property in connection with a foreclosure or similar conveyance of property to realize upon the security for university improvement security interest bonds following the State's default on its obligations under the bonds or notes or any trust agreement or other instrument securing payment of the bonds or notes. The security for an issue of bonds shall be set forth in general terms in the resolution of the Council of State authorizing the issuance of the bonds. The property that will be the subject of a lien, deed of trust, or security interest to secure the bonds need not bear any particular relationship to the principal amount of the bonds or notes. The State may grant multiple liens or security interests in a capital facility to the extent not otherwise limited by the terms of other issues of bonds or notes.

(b) Default. -- If university improvement security interest bonds are secured by a lien, deed of trust, or security interest in multiple items of property, the mortgage, deed of trust, or security agreement or other instrument creating the lien, deed of trust, or security interest shall provide that if the State defaults on its obligations with respect to university improvement security interest bonds, the Board of Governors, on behalf of the State, shall determine the order in which the property comprising the security shall be sold or otherwise conveyed to satisfy the obligations of the State. In carrying out the provisions of this subsection, the Board of Governors shall endeavor to select for sale or conveyance to satisfy the obligations of the State those items of property that, in the judgment of the Board of Governors, if sold, would result in the least amount of interruption to the operations of the University as a whole and its ability to carry out its mission. Any determination made by the Board of Governors in carrying out this endeavor shall be conclusive. Nothing in this subsection prohibits the sale or conveyance of up to all of the property securing university improvement security interest bonds to the extent necessary to satisfy the obligations of the State under the bonds.

(c) Governor's Budget. -- Documentation relating to any bonds or notes may include provisions requiring the Governor to submit in the Governor's budget proposal, or in any amendments or supplements to the budget proposal, appropriations necessary to make the payments required to pay the bonds or notes.

(d) Appropriations. -- Amounts payable by the State in respect of an issue of bonds or notes during any fiscal period shall be limited to funds appropriated for that purpose by the General Assembly in its discretion.

(e) State Liability. -- No deficiency judgment may be rendered against the State in any action for breach of any obligation contained in an issue of bonds or notes or any trust agreement or other instrument securing payment of the bonds or notes. The taxing power of the State is not and may not be pledged directly or indirectly to secure any moneys due under an issue of bonds or notes. In the event that the State fails to pay any payments required under or with respect to an issue of bonds or notes, whether on account of a failure by the General Assembly to appropriate sufficient funds for the payment or for some other reason, the net proceeds received from the sale or other disposition of the capital facilities subject to the lien or security interest securing the bonds or notes shall be applied to satisfy the payment obligations in accordance with the deed of trust, security agreement, or other documentation relating to the lien or security interest, and the net proceeds are hereby appropriated for the purpose of making those payments. Any net proceeds in excess of the amount required to satisfy the obligations of the State under an issue of bonds or notes shall be paid to the State Treasurer for deposit to the General Fund.

(f) Nonsubstitution Clause. -- No documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes may contain a nonsubstitution clause that restricts the right of the State to (i) continue to provide a service or conduct an activity or (ii) replace or provide a substitute for any capital facility financed or purchased by the bonds or notes.

(g) Terms Protecting Lender. -- The documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes may contain provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the owners of the bonds or notes that are reasonable and proper and not in violation of law. It may include covenants setting forth the duties of the State in respect of the purposes to which the proceeds of the bonds or notes may be applied, the disposition and application of any appropriations of the State, and the duties of the State with respect to the capital facilities financed, including, without limitation, the payment of the costs of insurance and maintenance of the capital facilities, the terms under which the collateral securing the bonds may be released or substitute collateral may be delivered, the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds or notes similarly secured, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys.

(h) Statement on Face of Bonds. -- Bonds issued under this Article shall contain on their face a statement to the effect that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the State or of any political subdivision or instrumentality of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of or the interest on the bonds.

"§ 116D-11. Issuance of bonds and notes.

(a) Terms and Conditions. -- Bonds or notes may bear any dates, may be serial or term bonds or notes, or any combination of these, may mature in any amounts and at any times, not exceeding 25 years from their dates, may be payable at any places, either within or without the United States, in any coin or currency of the United States that at the time of payment is legal tender for payment of public and private debts, may bear interest at any rates, which may vary from time to time, and may be made redeemable before maturity, at the option of the State or otherwise as may be provided by the State, at any prices, including a price greater than the face amount of the bonds or notes, and under any terms and conditions, all as may be determined by the State Treasurer, by and with the consent of the Council of State.

(b) Signatures; Form and Denomination; Registration. -- Bonds or notes may be issued in certificated or uncertificated form. If issued in certificated form, bonds or notes shall be signed on behalf of the State by the Governor or shall bear the Governor's facsimile signature, shall be signed by the State Treasurer or shall bear the State Treasurer's facsimile signature, and shall bear the Great Seal of the State or a facsimile of the Seal impressed or imprinted on them. If bonds or notes bear the facsimile signatures of the Governor and the State Treasurer, the bonds or notes shall also bear a manual signature which may be that of a bond registrar, trustee, paying agent, or designated assistant of the State Treasurer. The form and denomination of bonds or notes, including the provisions with respect to registration of the bonds or notes and any system for their registration, shall be as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this Article.

(c) Manner of Sale; Expenses. -- Subject to the approval by the Council of State as to the manner in which bonds or notes shall be offered for sale, whether at public or private sale, whether within or without the United States, and whether by publishing notices in certain newspapers and financial journals, mailing notices, inviting bids by correspondence, negotiating contracts of purchase or otherwise, the State Treasurer is authorized to sell bonds or notes at one time or from time to time at any rates of interest, which may vary from time to time, and at any prices, including a price less than the face amount of the bonds or notes, as the State Treasurer may determine. All expenses incurred in the preparation, sale, and issuance of bonds or notes shall be paid by the State Treasurer from the proceeds of bonds or notes or other available moneys.

(d) Application of Proceeds. -- The proceeds of any bonds or notes shall be used solely for the purposes for which the bonds or notes were issued and shall be disbursed in the manner and under the restrictions, if any, that the Council of State may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of, or in any trust agreement securing, the bonds or notes.

Any additional moneys which may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States or any agency or department thereof or from any other source to aid in financing the cost of a capital facility may be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this Article.

(e) Notes; Repayment. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to borrow money and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

(1) For anticipating the sale of bonds, the issuance of which the Council of State has approved, if the State Treasurer considers it advisable to postpone the issuance of the bonds.

(2) For the payment of interest on or any installment of principal of any bonds then outstanding, if there are not sufficient funds in the State treasury with which to pay the interest or installment or principal as they respectively become due.

(3) For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes authorized in this Article.

(4) For the purposes authorized in this Article.

(5) For refunding bonds or notes as authorized in this Article.

Funds derived from the sale of bonds or notes may be used in the payment of any bond anticipation notes issued under this Article. Funds provided by the General Assembly for the payment of interest on or principal of bonds shall be used in paying the interest on or principal of any notes and any renewals thereof, the proceeds of which have been used in paying interest on or principal of the bonds.

(f) Refunding Bonds and Notes. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to issue and sell refunding bonds and notes for the purpose of refunding bonds or notes issued pursuant to this Article and to pay the cost of issuance of the refunding bonds or notes. The refunding bonds and notes may be combined with any other issues of State bonds and notes similarly secured. Refunding bonds or notes may be issued at any time prior to the final maturity of the debt or obligation to be refunded. The proceeds from the sale of any refunding bonds or notes shall be applied to the immediate payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded or, if not required for the immediate payment of the bonds or notes being refunded, the proceeds shall be deposited in trust to provide for the payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded and to pay any expenses incurred in connection with the refunding. Money in a trust fund may be invested in (i) direct obligations of the United States government, (ii) obligations the principal of and interest on which are guaranteed by the United States government, (iii) obligations of any agency or instrumentality of the United States government if the timely payment of principal and interest on the obligations is unconditionally guaranteed by the United States government, or (iv) certificates of deposit issued by a bank or trust company located in the State if the certificates are secured by a pledge of any of the obligations described in (i), (ii), or (iii) above having an aggregate market value, exclusive of accrued interest, equal at least to the principal amount of the certificates so secured. This section does not limit the duration of any deposit in trust for the retirement of bonds or notes being refunded but that have not matured and are not presently redeemable, or if presently redeemable, have not been called for redemption.

(g) Trust Agreement. -- In the discretion of the State Treasurer, any bonds and notes issued under the provisions of this Article may be secured by a trust agreement or similar instrument by and between the State and a corporate trustee or by a resolution of the Council of State providing for the appointment of a corporate trustee. The corporate trustee may be, in either case, any trust company or bank having the powers of a trust company within or without the State. The trust agreement or resolution may provide for security, and pledges and assignments with respect to the security, as permitted under this Article and may provide for the granting of a lien or security interest in the property as authorized in G.S. 116D-10. The trust agreement or resolution may contain provisions for the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds and notes, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys. All bonds and notes issued under this Article shall be equally and ratably secured as provided in the trust agreement or resolution, without priority by reasons of number, or dates of bonds or notes, execution, or delivery, in accordance with the provisions of this Article and of the trust agreement or resolution. The trust agreement or resolution may, however, provide that the bonds or notes shall, to the extent and in the manner prescribed in the trust agreement or resolution, be subordinated and junior in standing, with respect to the payment of principal and interest and to the security thereof, to any other bonds or notes. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company that may act as depositary of the proceeds of bonds or notes, revenues, or any other money under this Article to furnish any indemnifying bonds or to pledge any securities as may be required by the State Treasurer. Any trust agreement or resolution may set out the rights and remedies of the owners of any bonds or notes and of any trustee, and may restrict the individual rights of action by the owners. In addition to the foregoing, any trust agreement or resolution may contain other provisions that the State Treasurer considers reasonable and proper for the security of the owners of any bonds or notes. Expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of any trust agreement or resolution may be treated as a part of the cost of any capital facility or as an administrative charge and may be paid from the proceeds of the bonds or notes or from any other available funds.

"§ 116D-12. Variable rate demand bonds and notes.

(a) In fixing the details of bonds and notes, the State Treasurer may provide that the bonds and notes may:

(1) Be made payable from time to time on demand or tender for purchase by the owner, if a credit facility supports the bonds or notes, unless the State Treasurer specifically determines that a credit facility is not required upon a finding and determination by the State Treasurer that the absence of a credit facility will not materially and adversely affect the financial position of the State and the marketing of the bonds or notes at a reasonable interest cost to the State.

(2) Be additionally supported by a credit facility.

(3) Be made subject to redemption or a mandatory tender for purchase prior to maturity.

(4) Bear interest at rates that may vary from any periods of time, as may be provided in the proceedings providing for the issuance of the bonds or notes, including, without limitation, any variations as may be permitted pursuant to a par formula.

(5) Be made the subject of a remarketing agreement whereby an attempt is made to remarket bonds or notes to new purchasers prior to their presentment for payment to the provider of the credit facility or to the State.

(b) If the aggregate principal amount payable by the State under a credit facility is in excess of the aggregate principal amount of bonds or notes secured by the credit facility, whether as a result of the inclusion in the credit facility of a provision for the payment of interest for a limited period of time or the payment of a redemption premium, or for any other reason, then the amount of authorized but unissued bonds or notes during the term of the credit facility shall not be less than the amount of the excess, unless the payment of the excess is otherwise provided for by agreement of the State executed by the State Treasurer.

"§ 116D-13. Other agreements.

The State Treasurer may authorize, execute, obtain, or otherwise provide for bond insurance, investment contracts, credit and liquidity facilities, interest rate swap agreements and other derivative products, and any other related instruments and matters the State Treasurer determines are desirable in connection with the issuance of bonds or notes. The State Treasurer is authorized to employ and designate any financial consultants, underwriters, and bond attorneys to be associated with any bond issue under this Article as the State Treasurer considers necessary.

"ARTICLE 3.

"Special Obligation Bonds for Improvements to the Facilities of The University of North Carolina.

"§ 116D-21. Purpose.

The purpose of this Article is to authorize the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina to issue special obligation bonds, payable from obligated resources, but with no pledge of taxes or the faith and credit of the State or any agency or political subdivision of the State, to pay the cost, in whole or in part, of improvements to the facilities of the University.

"§ 116D-22. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Existing facilities. -- Buildings and facilities then existing that generate income or receipts to the Board of Governors that are pledged, under the provisions of a resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds under this Article, to the payment of the bonds.

(2) Institution. -- Each of the institutions enumerated in G.S. 116-2, and any affiliated institutions of the University, including, without limitation, the University of North Carolina Center for Public Television, the University of North Carolina Health Care System, the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics, and the North Carolina Arboretum.

(3) Obligated resources. -- Any sources of income or receipts of the Board of Governors or the institution at which a special obligation bond project is or will be located that are designated by the Board as the security and source of payment for bonds issued under this Article to finance a special obligation bond project, including, without limitation, any of the following:

a. Rents, charges, or fees to be derived by the Board of Governors or the institution from any activities conducted at the institution.

b. Earnings on the investment of the endowment fund of the institution at which a special obligation project will be located, to the extent that the use of the earnings will not violate any lawful condition placed by the donor upon the part of the endowment fund that generates the investment earnings.

c. Funds to be received under a contract or a grant agreement, including 'overhead costs reimbursement' under a grant agreement, entered into by the Board of Governors or the institution to the extent the use of the funds is not restricted by the terms of the contract or grant agreement or the use of the funds as provided in this Article does not violate the restriction.

Obligated resources do not include funds appropriated to the Board of Governors or the institution from the General Fund by the General Assembly from funds derived from general tax and other revenues of the State, and obligated resources do not include tuition payment by students.

(4) Special obligation bonds. -- Bonds issued under this Article to finance the cost of a special obligation project, which bonds are secured by and payable from obligated resources designated by the Board of Governors at the time the issuance of the bonds is authorized in accordance with this Article.

(5) Special obligation bond project. -- Any capital facilities located or to be located at an institution for the purpose of carrying out the mission of that institution and designated specifically by the Board of Governors as a 'special obligation bond project' for purposes of this Article. A special obligation bond project need not necessarily consist of buildings or facilities that are expected to generate 'self-liquidating revenues' to the Board of Governors or the institution from direct rentals, charges, or fees from the services provided by the building or facility, and may include facilities such as classroom buildings, administration buildings, research facilities, libraries, and equipment that do not produce direct, or indirect, income to the Board of Governors or the institution.

"§ 116D-23. Credit and taxing power of State not pledged; statement on face of bonds.

Special obligation bonds issued under this Article shall not constitute a debt or liability of the State or any political subdivision of the State or a pledge of the faith and credit of the State or of any political subdivision of the State. Special obligation bonds shall be secured solely by the obligated resources pledged to their payment. All of the special obligation bonds shall contain on their face a statement to the effect that neither the State nor the Board of Governors is obligated to pay the bonds or the interest on the bonds except from the obligated resources pledged for payment and that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the State or of any political subdivision or instrumentality of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of or the interest on the bonds. The issuance of special obligation bonds under this Article does not directly or indirectly or contingently obligate the State or any political subdivision of the State to levy or to pledge any taxes for the bonds.

"§ 116D-24. General powers of Board of Governors.

The Board of Governors is authorized, subject to the requirements of this Article, to do all of the following:

(1) Determine the location and character of any special obligation bond project, to acquire, construct, and provide the project, and to maintain, repair, and operate and enter into contracts for the management, lease, use, or operation of all or any portion of any special obligation bond project and any existing facilities.

(2) Issue special obligation bonds to pay all or any part of the cost of a special obligation bond project, and to fund or refund any bonds previously issued by the Board of Governors to finance facilities designated as a special obligation bond project.

(3) Fix and revise from time to time and charge and collect fees, rates, rents, charges, and other income for the use of and for the services furnished by the institution that are designated as obligated resources in connection with a special obligation bond issue.

(4) Establish and enforce, and to agree through any resolution or trust agreement authorizing or securing bonds under this Article to make and enforce, rules for the use of and services rendered by the institution of the income or receipts to be obtained from the use or services designated as obligated resources in connection with a special obligation bond issue.

(5) Acquire, hold, lease, and dispose of real and personal property in the exercise of its powers and the performance of its duties and to lease all or any part of a special obligation bond project and any existing facilities for any periods of years, not exceeding 40 years, upon any terms and conditions as the Board of Governors determines, subject to the provisions of G.S. 143-341.

(6) Employ consulting engineers, attorneys, accountants, construction and financial experts, superintendents, managers, and any other employees and agents as may be necessary in its judgment in connection with a special obligation bond project and existing facilities, and to fix their compensation.

(7) Enter into all contracts and agreements necessary or incidental to the performance of its duties and the execution of its powers under this Article.

(8) Receive and accept from any federal, State, or other public agency and any private agency, person, or other entity donations, loans, grants, aid, or contributions of any money, property, labor, or other things of value for a special obligation bond project or any other services provided by the institution that is designated as the obligated resource in connection with a special obligation bond issue, and to agree to apply and use them in accordance with the terms and conditions under which they are provided.

(9) Do all acts and things necessary or convenient to carry out the powers granted by this Article.

"§ 116D-25. Consultation with the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations.

Whenever this Article requires the approval of the Director of the Budget of an action, the Director of the Budget may consult with the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations before giving approval.

"§ 116D-26. Issuance of special obligation bonds and bond anticipation notes.

(a) Authority. -- The Board of Governors may issue, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, at one time or from time to time, special obligation bonds of the Board of Governors for the purpose of paying all or any part of the cost of acquiring, constructing, or providing a special obligation project. Before issuing special obligation bonds, the Board of Governors shall first adopt a resolution (i) setting forth the designation by the Board of Governors that the buildings or facilities to be financed by the bond issue are the special obligation bond project being financed and (ii) designating the obligated resources that will secure and be the source of payment of the special obligation bonds to be issued. The Board of Governors shall not issue any special obligation bonds unless the Board of Governors finds that sufficient obligated resources are reasonably expected to be available (i) to pay the principal and interest on the special obligation bonds proposed to be issued, (ii) to create and maintain any reserves for the payment of the special obligation bonds, to the extent the Board of Governors is required to maintain reserves for this purpose by the terms of the trust agreement or resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds, and (iii) to provide for the maintenance and operation of the facilities that are to generate the obligated resources to the extent the Board of Governors is required to maintain those facilities by the terms of the trust agreement or resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Article, the proceeds of special obligation bonds to be secured by obligated resources derived from the operation of or activities at one institution may not be applied to finance a special obligation project to be located at another institution.

(b) Approval Required. -- The Board of Governors shall not issue any special obligation bonds for a project at an institution unless the board of trustees of that institution has approved the issuance of bonds for that project. The Board of Governors shall not issue special obligation bonds under this Article until the effective date of legislation enacted by the General Assembly authorizing the undertaking of the special obligation bond project to be financed and fixing the maximum aggregate principal amount of special obligation bonds that shall be issued for that purpose. In submitting proposed special obligation bond projects to the General Assembly for approval, the Board of Governors shall submit information on the need for each project, project costs, estimates of increased operating costs upon completion, estimated debt service requirements, and the sources and amounts of obligated resources to be pledged for the repayment of the bonds. If the obligated resources to repay the bonds or to operate the proposed project potentially involve increased costs to students or to the General Fund, these costs shall be identified in the Board of Governors' submission.

Except as provided in this Article, special obligation bond projects may be undertaken, special obligation bonds may be issued, and other powers vested in the Board of Governors under this Article may be exercised by the Board without obtaining the consent of any department, division, commission, board, bureau, or agency of the State and without any other proceedings or the happening of any other conditions or things other than those proceedings, conditions, or things which are specifically required by this Article.

(c) Term; Form. -- The special obligation bonds of each issue shall be dated, shall mature at any times not exceeding 25 years from their dates, shall bear interest at any rates as may be determined by the Board of Governors, and may be redeemable before maturity at the option of the Board, at any prices and under any terms and conditions as may be fixed by the Board prior to the issuance of the special obligation bonds. The Board of Governors shall determine the form and manner of execution of the special obligation bonds and shall fix the denominations of the special obligation bonds and the places of payment of principal and interest, which may be at any bank or trust company within or without the State. Notwithstanding any of the other provisions of this Article or any recitals in any special obligation bonds issued under the provisions of this Article, all special obligation bonds shall be negotiable instruments under the laws of this State, subject only to the provisions for registration in a resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or a trust agreement securing the bonds. The Board of Governors may sell the special obligation bonds in any manner, at public or private sale, and for any price, as it may determine to be for its best interests.

(d) Proceeds; Additional Bonds. -- The proceeds of the special obligation bonds of each issue shall be used solely for the purpose for which the bonds have been authorized and shall be disbursed in the manner and under such restrictions, if any, as the Board of Governors may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the bonds or in the trust agreement securing them. Unless otherwise provided in the authorizing resolution or in the trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds, if the proceeds of the special obligation bonds, by error of estimates or otherwise, are less than the cost of the special obligation bond project, additional bonds may in like manner be issued to provide the amount of the deficit and shall be deemed to be of the same issue and shall be entitled to payment from the same fund without preference or priority of the bonds first issued for the same purpose.

The resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds, and any trust agreement securing them, may also contain limitations upon the issuance of additional special obligation bonds as the Board of Governors considers proper, and the additional special obligation bonds must be issued under the restrictions and limitations prescribed by the resolution or trust agreement.

(e) Temporary Bonds; Notes. -- Before preparing definitive bonds, the Board of Governors may, under like restrictions, issue interim receipts or temporary bonds exchangeable for definitive bonds when the bonds have been executed and are available for delivery. The Board may also provide for the replacement of any bonds which become mutilated, destroyed, or lost.

The Board of Governors may enter into or negotiate a note with an acceptable bank or trust company in lieu of issuing special obligation bonds for the financing of special obligation bond projects covered under this Article. The terms and conditions of any note of this nature shall be in accordance with the terms and conditions surrounding issuance of the special obligation bonds.

(f) Bond Anticipation Notes. -- The Board of Governors may issue, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, at one time or from time to time, bond anticipation notes of the Board of Governors in anticipation of the issuance of special obligation bonds authorized by this Article. The principal of and the interest on these notes shall be payable solely from the proceeds of special obligation bonds or renewal notes or, in the event bond or renewal note proceeds are not available, from the obligated resources designated for their payment. The notes of each issue shall be dated, shall mature at any times not exceeding two years from their dates, shall bear interest at any rates as may be determined by the Board of Governors, and may be redeemable before maturity, at the option of the Board of Governors, at any prices and under any terms and conditions as may be fixed by the Board of Governors prior to the issuance of the notes. The Board shall determine the form and the manner of execution of the notes and shall fix the denominations of the notes and the places of payment of principal and interest, which may be at any bank or trust company within or without the State. Notwithstanding any of the other provisions of this Article or any recitals in any notes issued under the provisions of this Article, all notes shall be negotiable instruments under the laws of this State, subject only to the provisions for registration in a resolution authorizing the issuance of the notes or any trust agreement securing the bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being issued. The Board of Governors may sell the notes in any manner, at public or private sale, and for any price, as it may determine to be for its best interests.

The proceeds of the notes of each issue shall be used solely for the purpose for which the special obligation bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being issued have been authorized, and the note proceeds shall be disbursed in any manner and under any restrictions as the Board of Governors may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the notes or bonds or in the trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds.

The resolution providing for the issuance of notes, and any trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being authorized, may also contain limitations upon the issuance of additional notes as the Board of Governors considers proper, and such additional notes shall be issued under the restrictions and limitations prescribed by the resolution or trust agreement. The Board may also provide for the replacement of any notes which shall become mutilated, destroyed, or lost.

Except as provided in this Article, notes may be issued under this Article and other powers vested in the Board of Governors under this Article may be exercised by the Board without obtaining the consent of any department, division, commission, board, bureau, or agency of the State and without any other proceedings or the happening of any other conditions or things than those proceedings, conditions, or things which are specifically required by this Article.

Unless the context indicates otherwise, the word 'bonds', wherever used in this Article, include the words 'bond anticipation notes'.

"§ 116D-27. Trust agreement; money received deemed trust funds; insurance; remedies.

(a) Trust Agreement Securing Bonds. -- In the discretion of the Board of Governors and subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, any special obligation bonds issued under this Article may be secured by a trust agreement by and between the Board of Governors and a corporate trustee, which may be any trust company or bank having the powers of a trust company within or without the State. The trust agreement or the resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds may pledge or assign the obligated resources designated as security for the special obligation bonds, but shall not convey or mortgage any property of the institution. The trust agreement or resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds may contain provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the holders of the special obligation bonds that are reasonable and proper and not in violation of law, including covenants setting forth the duties of the Board of Governors in relation to the acquisition, construction, or provision of any of the charging and collecting of any rates, fees, or charges that have been designated as obligated resources, the maintenance, repair, operation, and insurance of any property of the institution, and the custody, safeguarding, and application of all moneys. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of the State which may act as depositary of the proceeds of special obligation bonds or funds securing special obligation bonds to furnish any indemnifying bonds or to pledge any securities as may be required by the Board of Governors. A trust agreement or resolution may set forth the rights and remedies of the holders of the special obligation bonds and the rights, remedies, and immunities of the trustee or trustees, if any, and may restrict the individual right of action by the holders. In addition to the foregoing, a trust agreement or resolution may contain other provisions the Board of Governors considers reasonable and proper for the security of the holders. All expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of the trust agreement or resolution may be treated as a part of the cost of the special obligation bond projects for which the special obligation bonds are issued or as an expense of operation of the special obligation bond project.

(b) Trust Funds. -- All moneys received pursuant to the authority of this Article, whether as proceeds from the sale of bonds, or as obligated resources, are trust funds to be held and applied solely as provided in this Article. The Board of Governors may provide for the payment of all or part of the proceeds of the sale of the special obligation bonds and the obligated resources to any officer, board, or depositary that it may designate for their custody, and may provide for their method of disbursement, with any safeguards and restrictions it may determine. Any officer with whom, or any bank or trust company with which, moneys are deposited shall act as trustee of the moneys and shall hold and apply them for the purposes of this Article, subject to any requirements provided in this Article and in the resolution or trust agreement, authorizing or securing the special obligation bonds.

(c) Insurance. -- Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law, the Board of Governors may carry insurance on any special obligation bond projects and any existing facilities in any amounts and covering any risks it considers advisable.

(d) Remedies. -- Any holder of special obligation bonds issued under this Article and the trustees under a trust agreement, except to the extent the rights given in this section may be restricted by the trust agreement or the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds, may, either at law or in equity, by suit, action, mandamus, or other proceedings, protect and enforce any and all rights under the laws of the State or granted under this Article or under the trust agreement or resolution, and may enforce and compel the performance of all duties required by this Article or by the trust agreement or resolution to be performed by the Board of Governors or by any of its officers, including the fixing, charging, and collecting of obligated resources.

"§ 116D-28. Fixing and collecting obligated resources.

(a) Board to Provide Sufficient Resources. -- For the purpose of aiding in the financing of a special obligation bond project and to provide security to the owners of the special obligation bonds issued to finance the special obligation bond project, the Board of Governors is authorized, to the extent the generation of the obligated resources is in the control of the Board, to fix, revise from time to time, charge, and collect the rents, charges, fees, or other revenues constituting the obligated resources. Fees and other revenue sources constituting obligated resources may be imposed or increased only with the approval of the Board of Governors. As long as any special obligation bonds issued under this Article and payable from those obligated resources are outstanding, the obligated resources, to the extent within the control of the Board of Governors, shall be so fixed and adjusted, with relation to other funds available, as to provide funds pursuant to the requirements of the resolution or trust agreement authorizing or securing the special obligation bonds and at least sufficient to pay the principal of and the interest on the special obligation bonds as they become due and payable, to assure the continued collection of the obligated resources, and to create and maintain reserves for these purposes. A sufficient amount of the obligated resources, except any part that may be necessary to pay the cost of maintenance, repair, and operation, and to provide reserves for these purposes and for renewals, replacements, extensions, enlargements, and improvements as may be provided for in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or in the trust agreement securing the same, shall be set aside at regular intervals as may be provided in the resolution or trust agreement authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds in a sinking fund which is hereby pledged to, and charged with, the payment of the principal of and the interest on the special obligation bonds as they become due and the redemption price or the purchase price of special obligation bonds retired by call or purchase as provided in the resolution or trust agreement. This pledge shall be valid and binding from the time it is made, the obligated resources so pledged and thereafter received by the Board of Governors shall immediately be subject to the lien of the pledge without any physical delivery of the pledge or further act, and the lien of the pledge shall be valid and binding as against all parties having claims of any kind in tort, contract, or otherwise against the Board of Governors, irrespective of whether the parties have notice of the pledge. Neither the resolution nor any trust agreement by which a pledge is created need be filed or recorded except in the records of the Board of Governors. The use and disposition of moneys to the credit of the sinking fund shall be subject to the provisions of the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or of the trust agreement securing the bonds.

(b) State Pledge. -- The State pledges to, and agrees with, the holders of any special obligation bonds or notes issued by the Board of Governors pursuant to this Article that as long as any of the special obligation bonds or notes are outstanding and unpaid, the State will not limit or alter the rights vested in the Board of Governors at the time of issuance of the special obligation bonds or notes to set the terms and conditions of the special obligation bonds or notes and to fulfill the terms of any agreements made with the bondholders or noteholders. The State shall in no way impair the rights and remedies of the bondholders or noteholders until the special obligation bonds or notes and all costs and expenses in connection with any action or proceedings by or on behalf of the bondholders or noteholders are fully paid, met, and discharged.

"§ 116D-29. Vesting powers in committee.

The Board of Governors may authorize its budget and finance committee to sell any special obligation bonds which the Board has, with the approval of the Director of the Budget, authorized to be issued under this Article in any manner and under any limitations or conditions as the Board prescribes and to perform other functions under this Article the Board determines.

"§ 116D-30. Refunding bonds.

The Board of Governors may, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, issue from time to time refunding bonds for the purpose of refunding any bonds by the Board under this Article or under any Article of Chapter 116 of the General Statutes, including the payment of any redemption premium on them and any interest accrued or to accrue to the date of redemption of the bonds refunded. The Board of Governors is further authorized, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, to issue from time to time refunding bonds for the combined purpose of (i) refunding any bonds issued by the Board under this Article or under any Article of Chapter 116 of the General Statutes, including the payment of any redemption premium on them and any interest accrued or to accrue to the date of redemption of the bonds, and (ii) paying all or any part of the cost of acquiring or constructing any additional special obligation bond projects.

This Article, as applicable, governs the issuance of refunding bonds, their maturities and other details, the rights and remedies of their holders, and the rights, powers, privileges, duties, and obligations of the Board of Governors with respect to them.

"§ 116D-31. Additional and alternative method.

This Article provides an additional and alternative method for the doing of the things authorized and is supplemental and additional to powers conferred by other laws, including G.S. 116-175 to G.S. 116-185, inclusive and G.S. 116-197 and G.S. 116-198, and is not in derogation of or repealing any powers now existing under any other law, whether general, special, or local. The issuance of special obligation bonds or refunding bonds under this Article, however, need not comply with the requirements of any other law applicable to the issuance of bonds.

"ARTICLE 4.

"Community Colleges Facilities Security Interest Finance Act.

"§ 116D-40. Short title.

This Article may be cited as the Community College Facilities Security Interest Finance Act.

"§ 116D-41. Findings and purpose.

The General Assembly finds as follows:

(1) There is a continuing need for capital facilities for the State's community colleges, many of which will continue to be provided from current appropriations by counties, proceeds of various types of indebtedness incurred by counties for community college purposes, appropriations by the State, and the proceeds of State general obligation bonds secured by a pledge of the faith and credit of the State. There is a need, however, for the use of alternative financing methods such as authorized in this Article to facilitate the providing of capital facilities when circumstances and conditions warrant the providing of capital facilities through a financing method other than those previously used.

(2) The use of State of North Carolina Community College Security Interest Bonds, secured by a lien on or security interest in the community college property acquired, constructed, or improved with the bond proceeds, and the payment of principal and interest on which are subject to appropriation at the discretion of the General Assembly, will provide financing flexibility to counties and the State and permit the counties and the State to take advantage of changing financial and economic environments.

(2) Community college. -- Defined in G.S. 115D-2.

(3) Community college security interest bonds. -- Bonds authorized to be issued under this Article, including refunding bonds.

(4) Community Colleges System Office. -- The North Carolina Community Colleges System Office, created by Article 1 of Chapter 115D of the General Statutes, or if the Community Colleges System Office is abolished or otherwise divested of its functions under this Article, the public body succeeding it in its principal functions, or upon which are conferred by law the rights, powers, and duties given by this Article to the Community Colleges System Office.

(5) Notes. -- Notes issued under this Article.

"§ 116D-43. Authorization of bonds and notes.

Upon the application of the Community Colleges System Office, the State Treasurer may, by and with the consent of the Council of State, issue and sell, at one time or from time to time, community college security interest bonds of the State to be designated 'State of North Carolina Community College Security Interest Bonds', with any additional designations as may be determined to indicate the issuance of bonds from time to time, or notes of the State. Except as otherwise provided by this Article, the aggregate amount of bonds and notes issued pursuant to this Article shall not exceed three hundred million dollars ($300,000,000). Refunding bonds and notes issued pursuant to G.S. 116D-46(f) shall not be included in the limitation on the aggregate amount of bonds and notes that may be issued pursuant to this Article.

The proceeds of bonds or notes issued under this Article shall be applied to finance the cost of grants to be made by the State to community colleges to finance the cost of capital facilities for the community college or to refund any outstanding bonds or notes issued under this Article. The capital facilities to be improved, constructed, or acquired with the proceeds of bonds or notes shall be determined as provided in G.S. 116D-44.

"§ 116D-44. Designation of capital facilities and preconditions to bond issuance.

The capital facilities to be financed in whole or in part with the proceeds of community college security interest bonds shall be described in legislation enacted from time to time by the General Assembly. The proceeds of community college security interest bonds shall not be expended to pay the costs of any capital facilities other than those described in that legislation.

"§ 116D-45. Security; other requirements.

(a) Security. -- To secure payment of the principal of and interest on bonds or notes issued under this Article, each community college that receives a grant pursuant to this Article, and each county to the extent it owns the capital facilities to be acquired or improved by a grant from the State pursuant to this Article, may create a lien on or a security interest in one or more of the following:

(1) In all or any part of the capital facilities to be financed by the bonds or notes.

(2) In the case of construction of improvements on real property, in all or some portion of the land on which the improvements are to be located or in all or part of the improvements.

(3) In the case of renovations or improvements to or the installation of fixtures in existing facilities, in all or some portion of the existing facilities or in all or part of the renovations or improvements.

The security for an issue of bonds shall be set forth in general terms in the resolution of the Council of State authorizing the issuance of the bonds. The property that will be the subject of a lien, deed of trust, or security interest to secure the bonds need not bear any particular relationship to the principal amount of the bonds or notes. A community college or county may grant multiple liens or security interests in a capital facility to the extent not otherwise limited by the terms of other issues of bonds or notes.

(b) Default. -- If community college security interest bonds are secured by a lien, deed of trust, or security interest in multiple items of property, the mortgage, deed of trust, or security agreement or other instrument creating the lien, deed of trust, or security interest shall provide that if the State defaults on its obligations with respect to community college security interest bonds, the Community Colleges System Office, on behalf of the State, shall determine the order in which the property comprising the security shall be sold or otherwise conveyed to satisfy the obligations of the State. In carrying out the provisions of this subsection, the Community Colleges System Office shall endeavor to select for sale or conveyance to satisfy the obligations of the State those items of property that, in the judgment of the Community Colleges System Office, if sold, would result in the least amount of interruption to the operations of the State's community college system as a whole and its ability to carry out its mission. Any determination made by the Community Colleges System Office in carrying out this endeavor shall be conclusive. Nothing in this subsection prohibits the sale or conveyance of up to all of the property securing community college security interest bonds to the extent necessary to satisfy the obligations of the State under the bonds.

(c) Governor's Budget. -- Documentation relating to any bonds or notes may include provisions requiring the Governor to submit in the Governor's budget proposal, or in any amendments or supplements to the budget proposal, appropriations necessary to make the payments required to pay the bonds or notes.

(d) Appropriations. -- Amounts payable by the State in respect of an issue of bonds or notes during any fiscal period shall be limited to funds appropriated for that purpose by the General Assembly in its discretion.

(e) State Liability. -- No deficiency judgment may be rendered against the State in any action for breach of any obligation contained in an issue of bonds or notes. The taxing power of the State is not and may not be pledged directly or indirectly to secure any moneys due under an issue of bonds or notes. In the event that the State fails to pay any payments required under or with respect to an issue of bonds or notes, whether on account of a failure by the General Assembly to appropriate sufficient funds for the payment or for some other reason, the net proceeds received from the sale or other disposition of the capital facilities subject to the lien or security interest securing the bonds or notes shall be applied to satisfy the payment obligations in accordance with the deed of trust, security agreement, or other documentation relating to the lien or security interest, and the net proceeds are hereby appropriated for the purpose of making those payments. Any net proceeds in excess of the amount required to satisfy the obligations of the State under an issue of bonds or notes shall be paid to the State Treasurer for deposit to the General Fund.

(f) Nonsubstitution Clause. -- No documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes may contain a nonsubstitution clause that restricts the right of the State, a community college, or a county to (i) continue to provide a service or conduct an activity or (ii) replace or provide a substitute for any capital facility financed or purchased by the bonds or notes.

(g) Terms Protecting Lender. -- The documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes, or relating to the security for an issue of bonds or notes, may contain provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the owners of the bonds or notes that are reasonable and proper and not in violation of law. The documentation may include covenants setting forth the duties of the State or a community college in respect of the purposes to which the proceeds of the bonds or notes may be applied, the disposition and application of any appropriations of the State, and the duties of the State or a community college with respect to the capital facilities financed, including, without limitation, the payment of the costs of insurance and maintenance of the capital facilities, the terms under which the collateral securing the bonds may be released or substitute collateral may be delivered, the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds or notes similarly secured, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys.

(h) Statement on Face of Bonds. -- Bonds issued under this Article shall contain on their face a statement to the effect that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the State or of any political subdivision or instrumentality of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of or the interest on the bonds.

"§ 116D-46. Issuance of bonds and notes.

(a) Terms and Conditions. -- Bonds or notes may bear any dates, may be serial or term bonds or notes, or any combination of these, may mature in any amounts and at any times, not exceeding 25 years from their dates, may be payable at any places, either within or without the United States, in any coin or currency of the United States that at the time of payment is legal tender for payment of public and private debts, may bear interest at any rates, which may vary from time to time, and may be made redeemable before maturity, at the option of the State or otherwise as may be provided by the State, at any prices, including a price greater than the face amount of the bonds or notes, and under any terms and conditions, all as may be determined by the State Treasurer, by and with the consent of the Council of State.

(b) Signatures; Form and Denomination; Registration. -- Bonds or notes may be issued in certificated or uncertificated form. If issued in certificated form, bonds or notes shall be signed on behalf of the State by the Governor or shall bear the Governor's facsimile signature, shall be signed by the State Treasurer or shall bear the State Treasurer's facsimile signature, and shall bear the Great Seal of the State or a facsimile of the Seal impressed or imprinted on them. If bonds or notes bear the facsimile signatures of the Governor and the State Treasurer, the bonds or notes shall also bear a manual signature which may be that of a bond registrar, trustee, paying agent, or designated assistant of the State Treasurer. The form and denomination of bonds or notes, including the provisions with respect to registration of the bonds or notes and any system for their registration, shall be as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this Article.

(c) Manner of Sale; Expenses. -- Subject to the approval by the Council of State as to the manner in which bonds or notes shall be offered for sale, whether at public or private sale, whether within or without the United States, and whether by publishing notices in certain newspapers and financial journals, mailing notices, inviting bids by correspondence, negotiating contracts of purchase or otherwise, the State Treasurer is authorized to sell bonds or notes at one time or from time to time at any rates of interest, which may vary from time to time, and at any prices, including a price less than the face amount of the bonds or notes, as the State Treasurer may determine. All expenses incurred in the preparation, sale, and issuance of bonds or notes shall be paid by the State Treasurer from the proceeds of bonds or notes or other available moneys.

(d) Application of Proceeds. -- The proceeds of any bonds or notes shall be used solely for the purposes for which the bonds or notes were issued and shall be disbursed in the manner and under the restrictions, if any, that the Council of State may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of, or in any trust agreement securing, the bonds or notes.

Any additional moneys which may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States or any agency or department thereof or from any other source to aid in financing the cost of a capital facility may be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this Article.

(e) Notes; Repayment. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to borrow money and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

(1) For anticipating the sale of bonds the issuance of which the Council of State has approved, if the State Treasurer considers it advisable to postpone the issuance of the bonds.

(2) For the payment of interest on or any installment of principal of any bonds then outstanding, if there are not sufficient funds in the State treasury with which to pay the interest or installment or principal as they respectively become due.

(3) For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes authorized in this Article.

(4) For the purposes authorized in this Article.

(5) For refunding bonds or notes as authorized in this Article.

Funds derived from the sale of bonds or notes may be used in the payment of any bond anticipation notes issued under this Article. Funds provided by the General Assembly for the payment of interest on or principal of bonds shall be used in paying the interest on or principal of any notes and any renewals thereof, the proceeds of which have been used in paying interest on or principal of the bonds.

(f) Refunding Bonds and Notes. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to issue and sell refunding bonds and notes for the purpose of refunding bonds or notes issued pursuant to this Article and to pay the cost of issuance of the refunding bonds or notes. The refunding bonds and notes may be combined with any other issues of State bonds and notes similarly secured. Refunding bonds or notes may be issued at any time prior to the final maturity of the debt or obligation to be refunded. The proceeds from the sale of any refunding bonds or notes shall be applied to the immediate payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded or, if not required for the immediate payment of the bonds or notes being refunded, the proceeds shall be deposited in trust to provide for the payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded and to pay any expenses incurred in connection with the refunding. Money in a trust fund may be invested in (i) direct obligations of the United States government, (ii) obligations the principal of and interest on which are guaranteed by the United States government, (iii) obligations of any agency or instrumentality of the United States government if the timely payment of principal and interest on the obligations is unconditionally guaranteed by the United States government, or (iv) certificates of deposit issued by a bank or trust company located in the State if the certificates are secured by a pledge of any of the obligations described in (i), (ii), or (iii) above having an aggregate market value, exclusive of accrued interest, equal at least to the principal amount of the certificates so secured. This section does not limit the duration of any deposit in trust for the retirement of bonds or notes being refunded but that have not matured and are not presently redeemable, or if presently redeemable, have not been called for redemption.

(g) Trust Agreement. -- In the discretion of the State Treasurer, any bonds and notes issued under the provisions of this Article may be secured by a trust agreement or similar instrument by and between the State and a corporate trustee or by a resolution of the Council of State providing for the appointment of a corporate trustee. The corporate trustee may be, in either case, any trust company or bank having the powers of a trust company within or without the State. The trust agreement or resolution may provide for security and pledges and assignments with respect to the security, as permitted under this Article, and may provide for the granting of a lien or security interest in the property as authorized in G.S. 116D-10. The trust agreement or resolution may contain provisions for the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds and notes, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys. All bonds and notes issued under this Article shall be equally and ratably secured as provided in the trust agreement or resolution, without priority by reasons of number, or dates of bonds or notes, execution, or delivery, in accordance with the provisions of this Article and of the trust agreement or resolution. The trust agreement or resolution may, however, provide that the bonds or notes shall, to the extent and in the manner prescribed in the trust agreement or resolution, be subordinated and junior in standing, with respect to the payment of principal and interest and to the security thereof, to any other bonds or notes. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company that may act as depositary of the proceeds of bonds or notes, revenues, or any other money under this Article to furnish any indemnifying bonds or to pledge any securities as may be required by the State Treasurer. Any trust agreement or resolution may set out the rights and remedies of the owners of any bonds or notes and of any trustee, and may restrict the individual rights of action by the owners. In addition to the foregoing, any trust agreement or resolution may contain other provisions that the State Treasurer considers reasonable and proper for the security of the owners of any bonds or notes. Expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of any trust agreement or resolution may be treated as a part of the cost of any capital facility or as an administrative charge and may be paid from the proceeds of the bonds or notes or from any other available funds.

"§ 116D-47. Variable rate demand bonds and notes.

(a) In fixing the details of bonds and notes, the State Treasurer may provide that the bonds and notes may:

(1) Be made payable from time to time on demand or tender for purchase by the owner, if a credit facility supports the bonds or notes, unless the State Treasurer specifically determines that a credit facility is not required upon a finding and determination by the State Treasurer that the absence of a credit facility will not materially and adversely affect the financial position of the State and the marketing of the bonds or notes at a reasonable interest cost to the State.

(2) Be additionally supported by a credit facility.

(3) Be made subject to redemption or a mandatory tender for purchase prior to maturity.

(4) Bear interest at rates that may vary from any periods of time, as may be provided in the proceedings providing for the issuance of the bonds or notes, including, without limitation, any variations as may be permitted pursuant to a par formula.

(5) Be made the subject of a remarketing agreement whereby an attempt is made to remarket bonds or notes to new purchasers prior to their presentment for payment to the provider of the credit facility or to the State.

(b) If the aggregate principal amount payable by the State under a credit facility is in excess of the aggregate principal amount of bonds or notes secured by the credit facility, whether as a result of the inclusion in the credit facility of a provision for the payment of interest for a limited period of time or the payment of a redemption premium, or for any other reason, then the amount of authorized but unissued bonds or notes during the term of the credit facility shall not be less than the amount of the excess, unless the payment of the excess is otherwise provided for by agreement of the State executed by the State Treasurer.

"§ 116D-48. Other agreements.

The State Treasurer may authorize, execute, obtain, or otherwise provide for bond insurance, investment contracts, credit and liquidity facilities, interest rate swap agreements and other derivative products, and any other related instruments and matters the State Treasurer determines are desirable in connection with the issuance of bonds or notes. The State Treasurer is authorized to employ and designate any financial consultants, underwriters, and bond attorneys to be associated with any bond issue under this Article as the State Treasurer considers necessary.

"§ 116D-49. Procurement of capital facilities.

Any laws, rules, or regulations of the State that relate to the acquisition and construction of capital facilities shall apply to the capital facilities financed pursuant to this Article."

Section 2. Proceeds of University Improvement Security Interest Bonds. -- (a) The proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds and notes, including any premium thereon, except the proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by bond anticipation notes or the proceeds of refunding bonds or notes, shall be allocated and expended for paying the cost of university capital facilities, to the extent and as provided in Article 2 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act and subject to change as provided in this act, as follows:

Section 2.(b) The Director of the Budget is empowered, when the Director of the Budget determines it is in the best interest of the State and the University to do so, and if the cost of a particular capital facility is less than the amount allocated for it, to use the excess funds to meet increased cost of other capital facilities itemized in this section and located at the same institution. The Director of the Budget shall report to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations on changes made under this subsection. In addition, any capital facility and the amount of the allocation for it set forth above may be changed from time to time as the General Assembly may decide, except that the General Assembly may not delete or remove from funding any capital improvement that has been pledged as security for university improvement security interest bonds that have been issued if such a change would impair the security of the owners of the university improvement security interest bonds. The provisions of G.S. 116-11(9) with respect to appropriations to the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall not apply to proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds and notes issued pursuant to Article 2 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act.

Section 2.(c) Allocations to the costs of a capital improvement or undertaking in each case may include allocations to pay the costs set forth in this act in connection with the issuance of university improvement security interest bonds for that capital improvement or undertaking.

Section 2.(d) The proceeds of two hundred eighty-two million six hundred forty-eight thousand two hundred twelve dollars ($282,648,212) university improvement security interest bonds authorized by this act and allocated in subsection (a) of this section for matching gift incentive program projects shall be allocated and expended for particular projects as provided in this subsection. The Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall employ a private consultant to develop a list of capital facilities which are to be funded jointly from these bonds and private donations. The Board of Governors shall submit this list of recommended projects, including the proposed matching requirements by the University or its constituent or affiliated institutions, to the General Assembly by April 1, 2000. The matching requirements must be based on analyses of the fund-raising capabilities of each institution as determined by a private consultant in order to maximize private fund-raising for capital projects. The proceeds of these bonds or notes shall not be issued or allocated until the General Assembly authorizes the issuance of some or all of these bonds or notes and appropriates the proceeds for specific projects by separate legislative action at any subsequent session.

Section 2.(e) The validity of university improvement security interest bonds and notes issued under Article 2 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act, is not affected by any subsequent adjustment of allocations, or by any failure to comply with the reporting requirements provided in this act.

Section 3. Proceeds of Community College Security Interest Bonds. -- (a) The proceeds of community college security interest bonds and notes, including any premium thereon, except the proceeds of community college security interest bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by bond anticipation notes or the proceeds of refunding bonds or notes, shall be allocated and expended for paying the cost of community college capital facilities, to the extent and as provided in Article 4 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act and subject to change as provided in this act, to be located at the following community colleges:

Section 3.(b) Except as provided in subsection (d) of this section, a community college may use the bond proceeds allocated in subsection (a) of this section only in accordance with the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's report on the capital allocation and repairs and renovations funding formula. Funds allocated for repair and renovations must be used in accordance with exhibit 5-6 of the Funding Formula Study: Phase 3 Report, submitted May 15, 1998. Funds allocated for new construction must be used in accordance with exhibits 15 and 16 of the Funding Formula Study: Phase 4 Report, submitted February 4, 1999. New construction funds allocated by the report to a specific site may not be allocated to another site. Each community college shall submit to the State Board of Community Colleges a statement (i) proposing the capital facilities to be financed with the proceeds of community college security interest bonds allocated to that community college, (ii) certifying that the proposed site is included in the consultant's report referred to in this section, (iii) certifying that the community college is prepared to proceed with the construction, acquisition, or improvement of the proposed capital facilities, and (iv) demonstrating that the applicable matching requirements have been or will be met.

Upon receipt by the State Board of Community Colleges of the information set forth above, the Board shall add the proposed capital facilities to the next application of the Community Colleges System Office to the State Treasurer to issue bonds pursuant to G.S. 116D-43.

The board of trustees of an individual community college may use funds allocated for new construction either for new construction or for repair and renovations. The board of trustees of a community college may use funds allocated for repair and renovations only for repair and renovations, and not for new construction.

The projected allocations set forth above may be changed from time to time as the General Assembly may decide, except that the General Assembly may not delete or remove from funding any capital improvement that has been pledged as security for community college security interest bonds that have been issued if such a change would impair the security of the owners of the university improvement security interest bonds.

Section 3.(c) Community colleges are not required to match bond proceeds allocated in this section for repair and renovations. The match requirements of Chapter 115D of the General Statutes apply to bond proceeds allocated for new construction except as provided in this subsection. The consultant hired by the State Board of Community Colleges to determine funding formulas for the community college system developed an index to measure each county's ability to pay. The consultant found that some counties are unable to meet their local match requirement under Chapter 115D of the General Statutes because of inability to pay. Accordingly, community colleges are required to match bond proceeds allocated for new construction in subsection (a) or (d) of this section only as follows: Community colleges assigned a matching rate of less than forty percent (40%) in the "adjusted matching requirements" contained in exhibit 14 of the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's Funding Formula Study: Phase 4 Report, submitted February 4, 1999, are not required to match, and community colleges assigned a matching rate of forty percent (40%) or more in the adjusted matching requirements are required to match only at the assigned rate.

Section 3.(d) Each community college that was not allocated funds for new construction in the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's report on the capital allocation funding formula may receive the bond proceeds allocated to it for new construction in subsection (a) of this section only to the extent that it can document to the State Board of Community Colleges its actual need for funds for new construction, or its actual need for funds for repair and renovations in excess of the amount allocated to it for repair and renovations in subsection (a) of this section. If any community college is unable to document to the State Board of Community Colleges by January 1, 2001, these needs in the amount of its entire allocation for new construction under subsection (a) of this section, the State Board shall reallocate the excess of the allocation over the amount the college was able to document among the remaining community colleges to the extent they can document actual needs in excess of their allocations in subsection (a) of this section for new construction, repair, and renovations, or both.

Section 3.(e) The validity of community college security interest bonds and notes issued under Article 4 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act, is not affected by any subsequent adjustment of allocations or matching requirements provided in this act, or by any failure to comply with matching requirements or reporting requirements provided in this act.

Section 4. Interpretation of Act. (a) Additional Method. -- This act provides an additional and alternative method for the doing of the things authorized by this act and shall be regarded as supplemental and additional to powers conferred by other laws. Except where expressly provided, this act shall not be regarded as in derogation of any powers now existing. The authority granted in this act is in addition to other laws now or hereinafter enacted authorizing The University of North Carolina to issue self-liquidating debt or other debt secured by designated sources of funds.

Section 4.(b) Statutory References. -- References in this act to specific sections or Chapters of the General Statutes are intended to be references to those sections or Chapters as they may be amended from time to time by the General Assembly.

Section 4.(c) Liberal Construction. -- This act, being necessary for the health and welfare of the people of the State, shall be liberally construed to effect its purposes.

Section 4.(d) Severability. -- If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, that invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of the act that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this act are severable.

Section 5. This act is effective when it becomes law.

President Friday:

In response to your request for information yesterday, please note the following:

1. Bonds for Higher Education – The packet includes the legislation (SB 912) and supporting information. The projects are listed in the bill and also in a supplemental schedule. The projects for North Carolina School of the Arts total $42.5 million as noted on the clipped page.

2. Aid to Private Colleges Programs – A schedule shows the Program budgets and the House and Senate Expansion budgets. As you know, the Conferees are at work to settle the differences.

3. 1999-2000 Tuition Rates – A schedule shows the tuition rate increases approved by the Board of Governors in March and the rates are incorporated into both the House and Senate budget bills. The Senate special provision related to possible increases of up to $250 in 2000-01 and up to $250 more in 2001-02 would be on top of these tuition rates for 1999-2000 shown in the schedule.

4. The Lost Colony Operating Funds – There is $260,000 in recurring funds included in the Senate's budget bill; I found no comparable item in the House's budget. Of course, this is a difference for the Conferees to settle. A copy of the supporting Senate Appropriation Committee report item is highlighted and attached.

A FIRM FOUNDATION: A PLAN FOR BUILDING UNC'S FUTURE

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS:

Message #1: Over two centuries, North Carolina has built one of the finest public university systems in the world. UNC campuses belong to the people of North Carolina, and these important state assets have many buildings that are now outmoded, inadequate, and falling apart. Given UNC's critical role in ensuring the state's economic and social future, North Carolina must act now to meet UNC's staggering capital needs.

- UNC is responding to the proactive initiative of the General Assembly, which in 1997 called for a comprehensive study of the relative equity and adequacy of capital facilities on UNC campuses. As required by an amendment to the provision enacted in the 1998 short session, the report by outside consultant Eva Klein also included a ten-year capital spending plan for UNC.

- As documented by Klein, nearly 800 UNC buildings need significant repairs or modernization, with the greatest deficiencies found in science and technology labs. For every modern building in good condition, Klein found scores with bad wiring, leaks, outdated essential equipment, and inadequate infrastructure. Building rehabilitation is by far the largest component of UNC's ten-year capital plan. [APPROPRIATE TO OFFER HIGHEST-PRIORITY EXAMPLES FOR CAMPUS AND/OR REGION.]

- Prior to 1993, the state did not provide a steady source of funds for the repair and renovation of state-owned buildings. Over the past five years, UNC's annual share of the Reserve for Repairs and Renovations has provided roughly 2.5% of estimated replacement costs toward the upkeep of campus buildings, but these critical funds fail to address decades of deferred maintenance and the need to modernize antiquated buildings.

- UNC expects to enroll some 48,000 additional students over the next decade. Six campuses, including the four largest, have space shortages today. By 2008, ten campuses will be at or beyond their physical capacity.

Message #2: The cost of delay is escalating, and we cannot postpone the arrival of the nearly 50,000 additional students already in the educational pipeline.

- UNC campuses need a substantial infusion of capital funding now because it generally takes several years to finance, design, and build new facilities. Major renovations also require significant lead time and logistical planning.

- Time is money. While inflation is averaging less than 3% annually, the State Construction Office estimates a construction inflation factor of 5%. Deferred maintenance costs are rising at a similar rate, and our buildings are deteriorating faster because of UNC's immense backlog of overdue repairs.

- UNC is maximizing resources to minimize costs. To lessen the need for new space, UNC has adopted the most stringent space-utilization standards of any public university system in the nation. Our classrooms are to be used for more hours of the day and night on more days of the week. In planning for enrollment growth, the University plans to use existing capacity to the fullest extent possible and to promote economies of scale.

Message #3: As graphically depicted in Klein's report, North Carolina's traditional pay-as-you-go approach to capital funding will fall far short of the amount needed to repair, modernize, and expand UNC facilities. Two pieces of proposed legislation drafted under the direction of State Treasurer Harlan Boyles would provide well-established financing alternatives that would enable UNC to implement its ten-year capital plan. Given anticipated enrollment growth and the lengthy lead time required to construct new state buildings and modernize old ones, it is critical than such legislation be passed during this legislative session.

- Over the years, the General Assembly has been generous to UNC when capital funds were available. Since 1989, the state has appropriated roughly $87 million per year for UNC projects. But because of the state's traditional pay-as-you-go approach, capital funding has fluctuated widely, ranging from $1.6 million in 1990 to $125 million in 1997. This practice also has favored new construction over renovations.

- Over the past 75 years, more than 40% of capital construction on UNC campuses has been funded with non-appropriated dollars. Given the authority, UNC is committed to do even more to tap all available resources (University bonds, private sector development, private giving) to supplement and leverage state funding.

- Other states have demonstrated that revenue can be earmarked for capital financing without draining funds from other needs, lowering the state's bond rating, or raising taxes. These states have gained the ability to spend more than ten times their current revenues for repairs to retire outstanding bond debt. Many states that once followed that pay-as-you-go philosophy have earmarked revenues to retire outstanding bond debt.

- In the current market, annual debt service in the amount of $125 million—UNC's 1997 appropriation—would support more than $1.5 billion in needed repairs, modernization, and new construction.

- Following the advice of Treasurer Boyles, the UNC Board of Governors has unanimously endorsed in concept proposed legislation that would provide new and expanded mechanisms for financing UNC's capital needs:

  ⇒State Bonds. This proposed legislation would permit the state to issue "limited obligation" bonds to finance capital improvements for the University. These bonds would not obligate the taxing authority of the state, but essentially would create a moral obligation to repay. The financed projects would be pledged as security for the debt. The indebtedness would be repaid from state appropriations over a specified period of years. Bond financing would—for the first time—provide a predictable revenue stream of sufficient size to meet UNC's long-term capital needs.

  ⇒ University Bonds. This proposed legislation would authorize the UNC Board of Governors to issue bonds to be repaid from "obligated" resources, defined sources of income available to the campus carrying out a given capital project. Available income sources would include rents, charges or fees collected by the institution, investments earning on endowment funds, and overhead receipts. The board would not issue bonds by pledging state appropriations or tuition receipts.

UNC Capital Equity/Adequacy Study

"The Board of Governors of . . . shall study the relative equity and adequacy of the physical facilities of its constituent institutions. The study shall consider the condition of the facilities, whether or not facilities are comparable among the campuses given the different missions of the institutions, comparable adequacy of the physical facilities given the size and projected growth of the school, and such other factors deemed appropriate by the Board of Governors."

1997 Session, Senate Bill 352, Section 10.1(b)

The University of North Carolina

UNC Capital Equity/Adequacy Study

"The Board of Governors shall contract with a private consulting firm with expertise in higher education matters to assess the additional capital needs of the constituent institutions of The University of North Carolina. The needs assessment shall project the needs for capital funding for a 10-year period, and shall include a detailed plan for making funding allocations based on the priorities of needs.

The plan shall provide a detailed capital spending plan for the next 10 years to assist the General Assembly in making funding decisions relating to [UNC], as the State plans for major increases in enrollment in higher education and prepares its citizens to compete in a global economy."

1998 Session, Senate Bill 1366, Section 11.4(c)

UNC Capital Equity/Adequacy Study

Findings — Current Capacity

- UNC has enough capacity system wide to meet current enrollment levels; however
  - Not all capacity is where it is needed
  - Six institutions have current capacity needs
- 10 institutions have some underutilized space, but also have needs for specific types of space
- Laboratories and study space are in short supply
- Classrooms and offices are not in short supply

UNC Capital Equity/Adequacy Study

Findings — Condition and Quality

- Quality is a greater problem than capacity
- Cost to meet quality standards is approximately $3 billion
- Non-appropriated buildings are in better physical condition than appropriated ones
- Current resources do not address repair backlog
- Major renovations must become greater priority
- Of amount estimated for major renovations, $652 million would retrofit science laboratories

The University of North Carolina

UNC Capital Equity/Adequacy Study

Findings — Future Capacity

By 2008...

- Existing capacity will be absorbed
- Specific space needs will exist on all campuses
- Based on enrollment targets, greatest needs will exist at NCSU, UNC-CH, ECU and UNCC
- Greatest space needs will be laboratory, office, study, and student services
- Classroom space will remain sufficient

The University of North Carolina

UNC Capital Equity/Adequacy Study

Recommendations —Capital Equity

- Honor the past – but focus on the future
- Commit fully to the need for all 16 universities
- Set aggressive growth targets with overall quality and market appeal strategies
- Significantly enlarge the "pie" (available funding)

Conclusions — Overview of Funding Issues

- Competitive posture will require continued investments in renewal and expansion
- Annual "pie" is too small for identified needs
- Pay-as-you-go overemphasizes new construction
- Pay-as-you-go is not explicit capital development policy
- Insufficient emphasis on private fundraising

Financing Alternatives — Proposed by State Treasurer

Limited Obligation Bonds

- Indebtedness on the "State's Balance Sheet"
- Secured by a lien or a security interest in University property
- Issuance of the bonds would indicate the intent of the General Assembly to provide funds for debt repayment

Special Obligation Bonds

- Indebtedness on the "University's Balance Sheet"
- The debt would be repaid from rents, fees, endowment earnings, overhead receipts or any other defined revenue stream except for funds derived from general tax revenues or tuition receipts

"ARTICLE 2.

"Security Interest Bonds for Financing Capital Facilities for The University of North Carolina.

"§ 116D-5. Short title.

This Article may be cited as the University Improvement Security Interest Bonds Finance Act.

"§ 116D-6. Findings and purpose.

The General Assembly finds that:

(1) Article IX of the North Carolina Constitution requires the General Assembly to maintain a public system of higher education comprising The University of North Carolina, that the benefits of the University, as far as practicable, be extended to the people of North Carolina without expense.

(2) Recent studies have shown that billions of dollars will be necessary to repair and renovate the current facilities of the University, to expand the facilities to meet future enrollment demands, to modernize existing facilities of the University in order for the University to continue to provide excellent educational opportunities for the people of North Carolina, and to meet the challenges of changing technologies and globalization of economies.

(3) The University is one of the most valuable assets of the State, and the State cannot afford to permit the quality of the University to decline due to failure to maintain, expand, and modernize the facilities of the University. The failure to expend the required amounts to maintain, modernize, and expand the University will have a significant negative impact upon the continuing quality of the University. Such a negative impact is unacceptable to the citizens of the State.

(4) The University's capital facilities have been and will continue to be provided from University funds on hand, direct appropriations by the State, the proceeds of University self-liquidating debt obligations, and the proceeds of State general obligation bonds secured by a pledge of the faith and credit of the State. There is a need, however, for the use of alternative financing methods to facilitate funding capital facilities when circumstances and conditions warrant the use of financing methods other than those currently used.

(5) The use of State of North Carolina University Improvement Security Interest Bonds, secured by a lien on or security interest in University property acquired, constructed, or improved with the bond proceeds, with the payments of principal and interest appropriated by the General Assembly, will provide flexibility to the State in the financing of facilities for the University and will permit the State to take advantage of changing financial and economic environments.

"§ 116D-7. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Bonds. -- Bonds authorized to be issued under this Article, including refunding bonds.

(2) Notes. -- Notes issued under this Article.

(3) University improvement security interest bonds. -- Bonds authorized to be issued under this Article, including refunding bonds.

"§ 116D-8. Authorization of bonds and notes.

The State Treasurer may, by and with the consent of the Council of State, issue and sell, at one time or from time to time, university improvement security interest bonds of the State to be designated 'State of North Carolina University Improvement Security Interest Bonds', with any additional designations as may be determined to indicate the issuance of bonds from time to time, or notes of the State. Except as otherwise provided by this Article, the aggregate amount of bonds and notes issued pursuant to this Article shall not exceed two billion seven hundred million dollars ($2,700,000,000). The bonds and notes shall be issued in the following years up to the following amounts:

Fiscal Year	Aggregate Amount
1999-2000	$240,000,000
2000-2001	480,000,000
2001-2002	700,000,000
2002-2003	640,000,000
2003-2004	640,000,000

If less than the aggregate amount of bonds or notes authorized to be issued in a fiscal year is issued in that fiscal year, the balance for that fiscal year may be issued in any subsequent fiscal year. Refunding bonds and notes issued pursuant to G.S. 116D-11(f) shall not be included in the limitation on the aggregate amount of bonds and notes that may be issued pursuant to this Article.

The proceeds of bonds or notes issued under this Article shall be applied to finance the cost of improvement, construction, and acquisition of capital facilities for the University or to refund any outstanding bonds or notes issued under this Article. The capital facilities to be improved, constructed, or acquired with the proceeds of bonds or notes shall be determined as provided in G.S. 116D-9.

"§ 116D-9. Designation of capital facilities and preconditions to bond issuance.

The capital facilities to be financed in whole or in part with the proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds shall be set forth in legislation enacted from time to time by the General Assembly. The proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds shall not be expended to pay the costs of any capital facilities other than those set forth in that legislation.

"§ 116D-10. Security; other requirements.

(a) Security. -- To secure payment of the principal of and interest on bonds or notes issued under this Article, the State may create a lien on or a security interest in one or more of the following:

(1) In all or any part of the capital facilities to be financed by the bonds or notes.

(2) In the case of construction of improvements on real property, in all or some portion of the land on which the improvements are to be located or in all or part of the improvements.

(3) In the case of renovations or improvements to or the installation of fixtures in existing facilities, in all or some portion of the existing facilities, or in all or part of the renovations or improvements.

Chapter 146 of the General Statutes does not apply to any transfer of the State's interest in property authorized by this Article, whether to a deed of trust trustee or other secured party as security for university improvement security interest bonds, or to a purchaser of property in connection with a foreclosure or similar conveyance of property to realize upon the security for university improvement security interest bonds following the State's default on its obligations under the bonds or notes or any trust agreement or other instrument securing payment of the bonds or notes. The security for an issue of bonds shall be set forth in general terms in the resolution of the Council of State authorizing the issuance of the bonds. The property that will be the subject of a lien, deed of trust, or security interest to secure the bonds need not bear any particular relationship to the principal amount of the bonds or notes. The State may grant multiple liens or security interests in a capital facility to the extent not otherwise limited by the terms of other issues of bonds or notes.

(b) Default. -- If university improvement security interest bonds are secured by a lien, deed of trust, or security interest in multiple items of property, the mortgage, deed of trust, or security agreement or other instrument creating the lien, deed of trust, or security interest shall provide that if the State defaults on its obligations with respect to university improvement security interest bonds, the Board of Governors, on behalf of the State, shall determine the order in which the property comprising the security shall be sold or otherwise conveyed to satisfy the obligations of the State. In carrying out the provisions of this subsection, the Board of Governors shall endeavor to select for sale or conveyance to satisfy the obligations of the State those items of property that, in the judgment of the Board of Governors, if sold, would result in the least amount of interruption to the operations of the University as a whole and its ability to carry out its mission. Any determination made by the Board of Governors in carrying out this endeavor shall be conclusive. Nothing in this subsection prohibits the sale or conveyance of up to all of the property securing university improvement security interest bonds to the extent necessary to satisfy the obligations of the State under the bonds.

(c) Governor's Budget. -- Documentation relating to any bonds or notes may include provisions requiring the Governor to submit in the Governor's budget proposal, or in any amendments or supplements to the budget proposal, appropriations necessary to make the payments required to pay the bonds or notes.

(d) Appropriations. -- Amounts payable by the State in respect of an issue of bonds or notes during any fiscal period shall be limited to funds appropriated for that purpose by the General Assembly in its discretion.

(e) State Liability. -- No deficiency judgment may be rendered against the State in any action for breach of any obligation contained in an issue of bonds or notes or any trust agreement or other instrument securing payment of the bonds or notes. The taxing power of the State is not and may not be pledged directly or indirectly to secure any moneys due under an issue of bonds or notes. In the event that the State fails to pay any payments required under or with respect to an issue of bonds or notes, whether on account of a failure by the General Assembly to appropriate sufficient funds for the payment or for some other reason, the net proceeds received from the sale or other disposition of the capital facilities subject to the lien or security interest securing the bonds or notes shall be applied to satisfy the payment obligations in accordance with the deed of trust, security agreement, or other documentation relating to the lien or security interest, and the net proceeds are hereby appropriated for the purpose of making those payments. Any net proceeds in excess of the amount required to satisfy the obligations of the State under an issue of bonds or notes shall be paid to the State Treasurer for deposit to the General Fund.

(f) Nonsubstitution Clause. -- No documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes may contain a nonsubstitution clause that restricts the right of the State to (i) continue to provide a service or conduct an activity or (ii) replace or provide a substitute for any capital facility financed or purchased by the bonds or notes.

(g) Terms Protecting Lender. -- The documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes may contain provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the owners of the bonds or notes that are reasonable and proper and not in violation of law. It may include covenants setting forth the duties of the State in respect of the purposes to which the proceeds of the bonds or notes may be applied, the disposition and application of any appropriations of the State, and the duties of the State with respect to the capital facilities financed, including, without limitation, the payment of the costs of insurance and maintenance of the capital facilities, the terms under which the collateral securing the bonds may be released or substitute collateral may be delivered, the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds or notes similarly secured, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys.

(h) Statement on Face of Bonds. -- Bonds issued under this Article shall contain on their face a statement to the effect that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the State or of any political subdivision or instrumentality of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of or the interest on the bonds.

"§ 116D-11. Issuance of bonds and notes.

(a) Terms and Conditions. -- Bonds or notes may bear any dates, may be serial or term bonds or notes, or any combination of these, may mature in any amounts and at any times, not exceeding 25 years from their dates, may be payable at any places, either within or without the United States, in any coin or currency of the United States that at the time of payment is legal tender for payment of public and private debts, may bear interest at any rates, which may vary from time to time, and may be made redeemable before maturity, at the option of the State or otherwise as may be provided by the State, at any prices, including a price greater than the face amount of the bonds or notes, and under any terms and conditions, all as may be determined by the State Treasurer, by and with the consent of the Council of State.

(b) Signatures; Form and Denomination; Registration. -- Bonds or notes may be issued in certificated or uncertificated form. If issued in certificated form, bonds or notes shall be signed on behalf of the State by the Governor or shall bear the Governor's facsimile signature, shall be signed by the State Treasurer or shall bear the State Treasurer's facsimile signature, and shall bear the Great Seal of the State or a facsimile of the Seal impressed or imprinted on them. If bonds or notes bear the facsimile signatures of the Governor and the State Treasurer, the bonds or notes shall also bear a manual signature which may be that of a bond registrar, trustee, paying agent, or designated assistant of the State Treasurer. The form and denomination of bonds or notes, including the provisions with respect to registration of the bonds or notes and any system for their registration, shall be as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this Article.

(c) Manner of Sale; Expenses. -- Subject to the approval by the Council of State as to the manner in which bonds or notes shall be offered for sale, whether at public or private sale, whether within or without the United States, and whether by publishing notices in certain newspapers and financial journals, mailing notices, inviting bids by correspondence, negotiating contracts of purchase or otherwise, the State Treasurer is authorized to sell bonds or notes at one time or from time to time at any rates of interest, which may vary from time to time, and at any prices, including a price less than the face amount of the bonds or notes, as the State Treasurer may determine. All expenses incurred in the preparation, sale, and issuance of bonds or notes shall be paid by the State Treasurer from the proceeds of bonds or notes or other available moneys.

(d) Application of Proceeds. -- The proceeds of any bonds or notes shall be used solely for the purposes for which the bonds or notes were issued and shall be disbursed in the manner and under the restrictions, if any, that the Council of State may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of, or in any trust agreement securing, the bonds or notes.

Any additional moneys which may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States or any agency or department thereof or from any other source to aid in financing the cost of a capital facility may be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this Article.

(e) Notes; Repayment. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to borrow money and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

(1) For anticipating the sale of bonds, the issuance of which the Council of State has approved, if the State Treasurer considers it advisable to postpone the issuance of the bonds.

(2) For the payment of interest on or any installment of principal of any bonds then outstanding, if there are not sufficient funds in the State treasury with which to pay the interest or installment or principal as they respectively become due.

(3) For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes authorized in this Article.

(4) For the purposes authorized in this Article.

(5) For refunding bonds or notes as authorized in this Article.

Funds derived from the sale of bonds or notes may be used in the payment of any bond anticipation notes issued under this Article. Funds provided by the General Assembly for the payment of interest on or principal of bonds shall be used in paying the interest on or principal of any notes and any renewals thereof, the proceeds of which have been used in paying interest on or principal of the bonds.

(f) Refunding Bonds and Notes. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to issue and sell refunding bonds and notes for the purpose of refunding bonds or notes issued pursuant to this Article and to pay the cost of issuance of the refunding bonds or notes. The refunding bonds and notes may be combined with any other issues of State bonds and notes similarly secured. Refunding bonds or notes may be issued at any time prior to the final maturity of the debt or obligation to be refunded. The proceeds from the sale of any refunding bonds or notes shall be applied to the immediate payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded or, if not required for the immediate payment of the bonds or notes being refunded, the proceeds shall be deposited in trust to provide for the payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded and to pay any expenses incurred in connection with the refunding. Money in a trust fund may be invested in (i) direct obligations of the United States government, (ii) obligations the principal of and interest on which are guaranteed by the United States government, (iii) obligations of any agency or instrumentality of the United States government if the timely payment of principal and interest on the obligations is unconditionally guaranteed by the United States government, or (iv) certificates of deposit issued by a bank or trust company located in the State if the certificates are secured by a pledge of any of the obligations described in (i), (ii), or (iii) above having an aggregate market value, exclusive of accrued interest, equal at least to the principal amount of the certificates so secured. This section does not limit the duration of any deposit in trust for the retirement of bonds or notes being refunded but that have not matured and are not presently redeemable, or if presently redeemable, have not been called for redemption.

(g) Trust Agreement. -- In the discretion of the State Treasurer, any bonds and notes issued under the provisions of this Article may be secured by a trust agreement or similar instrument by and between the State and a corporate trustee or by a resolution of the Council of State providing for the appointment of a corporate trustee. The corporate trustee may be, in either case, any trust company or bank having the powers of a trust company within or without the State. The trust agreement or resolution may provide for security, and pledges and assignments with respect to the security, as permitted under this Article and may provide for the granting of a lien or security interest in the property as authorized in G.S. 116D-10. The trust agreement or resolution may contain provisions for the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds and notes, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys. All bonds and notes issued under this Article shall be equally and ratably secured as provided in the trust agreement or resolution, without priority by reasons of number, or dates of bonds or notes, execution, or delivery, in accordance with the provisions of this Article and of the trust agreement or resolution. The trust agreement or resolution may, however, provide that the bonds or notes shall, to the extent and in the manner prescribed in the trust agreement or resolution, be subordinated and junior in standing, with respect to the payment of principal and interest and to the security thereof, to any other bonds or notes. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company that may act as depositary of the proceeds of bonds or notes, revenues, or any other money under this Article to furnish any indemnifying bonds or to pledge any securities as may be required by the State Treasurer. Any trust agreement or resolution may set out the rights and remedies of the owners of any bonds or notes and of any trustee, and may restrict the individual rights of action by the owners. In addition to the foregoing, any trust agreement or resolution may contain other provisions that the State Treasurer considers reasonable and proper for the security of the owners of any bonds or notes. Expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of any trust agreement or resolution may be treated as a part of the cost of any capital facility or as an administrative charge and may be paid from the proceeds of the bonds or notes or from any other available funds.

"§ 116D-12. Variable rate demand bonds and notes.

(a) In fixing the details of bonds and notes, the State Treasurer may provide that the bonds and notes may:

(1) Be made payable from time to time on demand or tender for purchase by the owner, if a credit facility supports the bonds or notes, unless the State Treasurer specifically determines that a credit facility is not required upon a finding and determination by the State Treasurer that the absence of a credit facility will not materially and adversely affect the financial position of the State and the marketing of the bonds or notes at a reasonable interest cost to the State.

(2) Be additionally supported by a credit facility.

(3) Be made subject to redemption or a mandatory tender for purchase prior to maturity.

(4) Bear interest at rates that may vary from any periods of time, as may be provided in the proceedings providing for the issuance of the bonds or notes, including, without limitation, any variations as may be permitted pursuant to a par formula.

(5) Be made the subject of a remarketing agreement whereby an attempt is made to remarket bonds or notes to new purchasers prior to their presentment for payment to the provider of the credit facility or to the State.

(b) If the aggregate principal amount payable by the State under a credit facility is in excess of the aggregate principal amount of bonds or notes secured by the credit facility, whether as a result of the inclusion in the credit facility of a provision for the payment of interest for a limited period of time or the payment of a redemption premium, or for any other reason, then the amount of authorized but unissued bonds or notes during the term of the credit facility shall not be less than the amount of the excess, unless the payment of the excess is otherwise provided for by agreement of the State executed by the State Treasurer.

"§ 116D-13. Other agreements.

The State Treasurer may authorize, execute, obtain, or otherwise provide for bond insurance, investment contracts, credit and liquidity facilities, interest rate swap agreements and other derivative products, and any other related instruments and matters the State Treasurer determines are desirable in connection with the issuance of bonds or notes. The State Treasurer is authorized to employ and designate any financial consultants, underwriters, and bond attorneys to be associated with any bond issue under this Article as the State Treasurer considers necessary.

"ARTICLE 3.

"Special Obligation Bonds for Improvements to the Facilities of The University of North Carolina.

"§ 116D-21. Purpose.

The purpose of this Article is to authorize the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina to issue special obligation bonds, payable from obligated resources, but with no pledge of taxes or the faith and credit of the State or any agency or political subdivision of the State, to pay the cost, in whole or in part, of improvements to the facilities of the University.

"§ 116D-22. Definitions.

The following definitions apply in this Article:

(1) Existing facilities. -- Buildings and facilities then existing that generate income or receipts to the Board of Governors that are pledged, under the provisions of a resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds under this Article, to the payment of the bonds.

(2) Institution. -- Each of the institutions enumerated in G.S. 116-2, and any affiliated institutions of the University, including, without limitation, the University of North Carolina Center for Public Television, the University of North Carolina Health Care System, the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics, and the North Carolina Arboretum.

(3) Obligated resources. -- Any sources of income or receipts of the Board of Governors or the institution at which a special obligation bond project is or will be located that are designated by the Board as the security and source of payment for bonds issued under this Article to finance a special obligation bond project, including, without limitation, any of the following:

a. Rents, charges, or fees to be derived by the Board of Governors or the institution from any activities conducted at the institution.

b. Earnings on the investment of the endowment fund of the institution at which a special obligation project will be located, to the extent that the use of the earnings will not violate any lawful condition placed by the donor upon the part of the endowment fund that generates the investment earnings.

c. Funds to be received under a contract or a grant agreement, including 'overhead costs reimbursement' under a grant agreement, entered into by the Board of Governors or the institution to the extent the use of the funds is not restricted by the terms of the contract or grant agreement or the use of the funds as provided in this Article does not violate the restriction.

Obligated resources do not include funds appropriated to the Board of Governors or the institution from the General Fund by the General Assembly from funds derived from general tax and other revenues of the State, and obligated resources do not include tuition payment by students.

(4) Special obligation bonds. -- Bonds issued under this Article to finance the cost of a special obligation project, which bonds are secured by and payable from obligated resources designated by the Board of Governors at the time the issuance of the bonds is authorized in accordance with this Article.

(5) Special obligation bond project. -- Any capital facilities located or to be located at an institution for the purpose of carrying out the mission of that institution and designated specifically by the Board of Governors as a 'special obligation bond project' for purposes of this Article. A special obligation bond project need not necessarily consist of buildings or facilities that are expected to generate 'self-liquidating revenues' to the Board of Governors or the institution from direct rentals, charges, or fees from the services provided by the building or facility, and may include facilities such as classroom buildings, administration buildings, research facilities, libraries, and equipment that do not produce direct, or indirect, income to the Board of Governors or the institution.

"§ 116D-23. Credit and taxing power of State not pledged; statement on face of bonds.

Special obligation bonds issued under this Article shall not constitute a debt or liability of the State or any political subdivision of the State or a pledge of the faith and credit of the State or of any political subdivision of the State. Special obligation bonds shall be secured solely by the obligated resources pledged to their payment. All of the special obligation bonds shall contain on their face a statement to the effect that neither the State nor the Board of Governors is obligated to pay the bonds or the interest on the bonds except from the obligated resources pledged for payment and that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the State or of any political subdivision or instrumentality of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of or the interest on the bonds. The issuance of special obligation bonds under this Article does not directly or indirectly or contingently obligate the State or any political subdivision of the State to levy or to pledge any taxes for the bonds.

"§ 116D-24. General powers of Board of Governors.

The Board of Governors is authorized, subject to the requirements of this Article, to do all of the following:

(1) Determine the location and character of any special obligation bond project, to acquire, construct, and provide the project, and to maintain, repair, and operate and enter into contracts for the management, lease, use, or operation of all or any portion of any special obligation bond project and any existing facilities.

(2) Issue special obligation bonds to pay all or any part of the cost of a special obligation bond project, and to fund or refund any bonds previously issued by the Board of Governors to finance facilities designated as a special obligation bond project.

(3) Fix and revise from time to time and charge and collect fees, rates, rents, charges, and other income for the use of and for the services furnished by the institution that are designated as obligated resources in connection with a special obligation bond issue.

(4) Establish and enforce, and to agree through any resolution or trust agreement authorizing or securing bonds under this Article to make and enforce, rules for the use of and services rendered by the institution of the income or receipts to be obtained from the use or services designated as obligated resources in connection with a special obligation bond issue.

(5) Acquire, hold, lease, and dispose of real and personal property in the exercise of its powers and the performance of its duties and to lease all or any part of a special obligation bond project and any existing facilities for any periods of years, not exceeding 40 years, upon any terms and conditions as the Board of Governors determines, subject to the provisions of G.S. 143-341.

(6) Employ consulting engineers, attorneys, accountants, construction and financial experts, superintendents, managers, and any other employees and agents as may be necessary in its judgment in connection with a special obligation bond project and existing facilities, and to fix their compensation.

(7) Enter into all contracts and agreements necessary or incidental to the performance of its duties and the execution of its powers under this Article.

(8) Receive and accept from any federal, State, or other public agency and any private agency, person, or other entity donations, loans, grants, aid, or contributions of any money, property, labor, or other things of value for a special obligation bond project or any other services provided by the institution that is designated as the obligated resource in connection with a special obligation bond issue, and to agree to apply and use them in accordance with the terms and conditions under which they are provided.

(9) Do all acts and things necessary or convenient to carry out the powers granted by this Article.

"§ 116D-25. Consultation with the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations.

Whenever this Article requires the approval of the Director of the Budget of an action, the Director of the Budget may consult with the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations before giving approval.

"§ 116D-26. Issuance of special obligation bonds and bond anticipation notes.

(a) Authority. -- The Board of Governors may issue, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, at one time or from time to time, special obligation bonds of the Board of Governors for the purpose of paying all or any part of the cost of acquiring, constructing, or providing a special obligation project. Before issuing special obligation bonds, the Board of Governors shall first adopt a resolution (i) setting forth the designation by the Board of Governors that the buildings or facilities to be financed by the bond issue are the special obligation bond project being financed and (ii) designating the obligated resources that will secure and be the source of payment of the special obligation bonds to be issued. The Board of Governors shall not issue any special obligation bonds unless the Board of Governors finds that sufficient obligated resources are reasonably expected to be available (i) to pay the principal and interest on the special obligation bonds proposed to be issued, (ii) to create and maintain any reserves for the payment of the special obligation bonds, to the extent the Board of Governors is required to maintain reserves for this purpose by the terms of the trust agreement or resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds, and (iii) to provide for the maintenance and operation of the facilities that are to generate the obligated resources to the extent the Board of Governors is required to maintain those facilities by the terms of the trust agreement or resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Article, the proceeds of special obligation bonds to be secured by obligated resources derived from the operation of or activities at one institution may not be applied to finance a special obligation project to be located at another institution.

(b) Approval Required. -- The Board of Governors shall not issue any special obligation bonds for a project at an institution unless the board of trustees of that institution has approved the issuance of bonds for that project. The Board of Governors shall not issue special obligation bonds under this Article until the effective date of legislation enacted by the General Assembly authorizing the undertaking of the special obligation bond project to be financed and fixing the maximum aggregate principal amount of special obligation bonds that shall be issued for that purpose. In submitting proposed special obligation bond projects to the General Assembly for approval, the Board of Governors shall submit information on the need for each project, project costs, estimates of increased operating costs upon completion, estimated debt service requirements, and the sources and amounts of obligated resources to be pledged for the repayment of the bonds. If the obligated resources to repay the bonds or to operate the proposed project potentially involve increased costs to students or to the General Fund, these costs shall be identified in the Board of Governors' submission.

Except as provided in this Article, special obligation bond projects may be undertaken, special obligation bonds may be issued, and other powers vested in the Board of Governors under this Article may be exercised by the Board without obtaining the consent of any department, division, commission, board, bureau, or agency of the State and without any other proceedings or the happening of any other conditions or things other than those proceedings, conditions, or things which are specifically required by this Article.

(c) Term; Form. -- The special obligation bonds of each issue shall be dated, shall mature at any times not exceeding 25 years from their dates, shall bear interest at any rates as may be determined by the Board of Governors, and may be redeemable before maturity at the option of the Board, at any prices and under any terms and conditions as may be fixed by the Board prior to the issuance of the special obligation bonds. The Board of Governors shall determine the form and manner of execution of the special obligation bonds and shall fix the denominations of the special obligation bonds and the places of payment of principal and interest, which may be at any bank or trust company within or without the State. Notwithstanding any of the other provisions of this Article or any recitals in any special obligation bonds issued under the provisions of this Article, all special obligation bonds shall be negotiable instruments under the laws of this State, subject only to the provisions for registration in a resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or a trust agreement securing the bonds. The Board of Governors may sell the special obligation bonds in any manner, at public or private sale, and for any price, as it may determine to be for its best interests.

(d) Proceeds; Additional Bonds. -- The proceeds of the special obligation bonds of each issue shall be used solely for the purpose for which the bonds have been authorized and shall be disbursed in the manner and under such restrictions, if any, as the Board of Governors may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the bonds or in the trust agreement securing them. Unless otherwise provided in the authorizing resolution or in the trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds, if the proceeds of the special obligation bonds, by error of estimates or otherwise, are less than the cost of the special obligation bond project, additional bonds may in like manner be issued to provide the amount of the deficit and shall be deemed to be of the same issue and shall be entitled to payment from the same fund without preference or priority of the bonds first issued for the same purpose.

The resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds, and any trust agreement securing them, may also contain limitations upon the issuance of additional special obligation bonds as the Board of Governors considers proper, and the additional special obligation bonds must be issued under the restrictions and limitations prescribed by the resolution or trust agreement.

(e) Temporary Bonds; Notes. -- Before preparing definitive bonds, the Board of Governors may, under like restrictions, issue interim receipts or temporary bonds exchangeable for definitive bonds when the bonds have been executed and are available for delivery. The Board may also provide for the replacement of any bonds which become mutilated, destroyed, or lost.

The Board of Governors may enter into or negotiate a note with an acceptable bank or trust company in lieu of issuing special obligation bonds for the financing of special obligation bond projects covered under this Article. The terms and conditions of any note of this nature shall be in accordance with the terms and conditions surrounding issuance of the special obligation bonds.

(f) Bond Anticipation Notes. -- The Board of Governors may issue, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, at one time or from time to time, bond anticipation notes of the Board of Governors in anticipation of the issuance of special obligation bonds authorized by this Article. The principal of and the interest on these notes shall be payable solely from the proceeds of special obligation bonds or renewal notes or, in the event bond or renewal note proceeds are not available, from the obligated resources designated for their payment. The notes of each issue shall be dated, shall mature at any times not exceeding two years from their dates, shall bear interest at any rates as may be determined by the Board of Governors, and may be redeemable before maturity, at the option of the Board of Governors, at any prices and under any terms and conditions as may be fixed by the Board of Governors prior to the issuance of the notes. The Board shall determine the form and the manner of execution of the notes and shall fix the denominations of the notes and the places of payment of principal and interest, which may be at any bank or trust company within or without the State. Notwithstanding any of the other provisions of this Article or any recitals in any notes issued under the provisions of this Article, all notes shall be negotiable instruments under the laws of this State, subject only to the provisions for registration in a resolution authorizing the issuance of the notes or any trust agreement securing the bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being issued. The Board of Governors may sell the notes in any manner, at public or private sale, and for any price, as it may determine to be for its best interests.

The proceeds of the notes of each issue shall be used solely for the purpose for which the special obligation bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being issued have been authorized, and the note proceeds shall be disbursed in any manner and under any restrictions as the Board of Governors may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the notes or bonds or in the trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds.

The resolution providing for the issuance of notes, and any trust agreement securing the special obligation bonds in anticipation of which the notes are being authorized, may also contain limitations upon the issuance of additional notes as the Board of Governors considers proper, and such additional notes shall be issued under the restrictions and limitations prescribed by the resolution or trust agreement. The Board may also provide for the replacement of any notes which shall become mutilated, destroyed, or lost.

Except as provided in this Article, notes may be issued under this Article and other powers vested in the Board of Governors under this Article may be exercised by the Board without obtaining the consent of any department, division, commission, board, bureau, or agency of the State and without any other proceedings or the happening of any other conditions or things than those proceedings, conditions, or things which are specifically required by this Article.

Unless the context indicates otherwise, the word 'bonds', wherever used in this Article, include the words 'bond anticipation notes'.

"§ 116D-27. Trust agreement; money received deemed trust funds; insurance; remedies.

(a) Trust Agreement Securing Bonds. -- In the discretion of the Board of Governors and subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, any special obligation bonds issued under this Article may be secured by a trust agreement by and between the Board of Governors and a corporate trustee, which may be any trust company or bank having the powers of a trust company within or without the State. The trust agreement or the resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds may pledge or assign the obligated resources designated as security for the special obligation bonds, but shall not convey or mortgage any property of the institution. The trust agreement or resolution providing for the issuance of special obligation bonds may contain provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the holders of the special obligation bonds that are reasonable and proper and not in violation of law, including covenants setting forth the duties of the Board of Governors in relation to the acquisition, construction, or provision of any of the charging and collecting of any rates, fees, or charges that have been designated as obligated resources, the maintenance, repair, operation, and insurance of any property of the institution, and the custody, safeguarding, and application of all moneys. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of the State which may act as depositary of the proceeds of special obligation bonds or funds securing special obligation bonds to furnish any indemnifying bonds or to pledge any securities as may be required by the Board of Governors. A trust agreement or resolution may set forth the rights and remedies of the holders of the special obligation bonds and the rights, remedies, and immunities of the trustee or trustees, if any, and may restrict the individual right of action by the holders. In addition to the foregoing, a trust agreement or resolution may contain other provisions the Board of Governors considers reasonable and proper for the security of the holders. All expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of the trust agreement or resolution may be treated as a part of the cost of the special obligation bond projects for which the special obligation bonds are issued or as an expense of operation of the special obligation bond project.

(b) Trust Funds. -- All moneys received pursuant to the authority of this Article, whether as proceeds from the sale of bonds, or as obligated resources, are trust funds to be held and applied solely as provided in this Article. The Board of Governors may provide for the payment of all or part of the proceeds of the sale of the special obligation bonds and the obligated resources to any officer, board, or depositary that it may designate for their custody, and may provide for their method of disbursement, with any safeguards and restrictions it may determine. Any officer with whom, or any bank or trust company with which, moneys are deposited shall act as trustee of the moneys and shall hold and apply them for the purposes of this Article, subject to any requirements provided in this Article and in the resolution or trust agreement, authorizing or securing the special obligation bonds.

(c) Insurance. -- Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law, the Board of Governors may carry insurance on any special obligation bond projects and any existing facilities in any amounts and covering any risks it considers advisable.

(d) Remedies. -- Any holder of special obligation bonds issued under this Article and the trustees under a trust agreement, except to the extent the rights given in this section may be restricted by the trust agreement or the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds, may, either at law or in equity, by suit, action, mandamus, or other proceedings, protect and enforce any and all rights under the laws of the State or granted under this Article or under the trust agreement or resolution, and may enforce and compel the performance of all duties required by this Article or by the trust agreement or resolution to be performed by the Board of Governors or by any of its officers, including the fixing, charging, and collecting of obligated resources.

"§ 116D-28. Fixing and collecting obligated resources.

(a) Board to Provide Sufficient Resources. -- For the purpose of aiding in the financing of a special obligation bond project and to provide security to the owners of the special obligation bonds issued to finance the special obligation bond project, the Board of Governors is authorized, to the extent the generation of the obligated resources is in the control of the Board, to fix, revise from time to time, charge, and collect the rents, charges, fees, or other revenues constituting the obligated resources. Fees and other revenue sources constituting obligated resources may be imposed or increased only with the approval of the Board of Governors. As long as any special obligation bonds issued under this Article and payable from those obligated resources are outstanding, the obligated resources, to the extent within the control of the Board of Governors, shall be so fixed and adjusted, with relation to other funds available, as to provide funds pursuant to the requirements of the resolution or trust agreement authorizing or securing the special obligation bonds and at least sufficient to pay the principal of and the interest on the special obligation bonds as they become due and payable, to assure the continued collection of the obligated resources, and to create and maintain reserves for these purposes. A sufficient amount of the obligated resources, except any part that may be necessary to pay the cost of maintenance, repair, and operation, and to provide reserves for these purposes and for renewals, replacements, extensions, enlargements, and improvements as may be provided for in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or in the trust agreement securing the same, shall be set aside at regular intervals as may be provided in the resolution or trust agreement authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds in a sinking fund which is hereby pledged to, and charged with, the payment of the principal of and the interest on the special obligation bonds as they become due and the redemption price or the purchase price of special obligation bonds retired by call or purchase as provided in the resolution or trust agreement. This pledge shall be valid and binding from the time it is made, the obligated resources so pledged and thereafter received by the Board of Governors shall immediately be subject to the lien of the pledge without any physical delivery of the pledge or further act, and the lien of the pledge shall be valid and binding as against all parties having claims of any kind in tort, contract, or otherwise against the Board of Governors, irrespective of whether the parties have notice of the pledge. Neither the resolution nor any trust agreement by which a pledge is created need be filed or recorded except in the records of the Board of Governors. The use and disposition of moneys to the credit of the sinking fund shall be subject to the provisions of the resolution authorizing the issuance of the special obligation bonds or of the trust agreement securing the bonds.

(b) State Pledge. -- The State pledges to, and agrees with, the holders of any special obligation bonds or notes issued by the Board of Governors pursuant to this Article that as long as any of the special obligation bonds or notes are outstanding and unpaid, the State will not limit or alter the rights vested in the Board of Governors at the time of issuance of the special obligation bonds or notes to set the terms and conditions of the special obligation bonds or notes and to fulfill the terms of any agreements made with the bondholders or noteholders. The State shall in no way impair the rights and remedies of the bondholders or noteholders until the special obligation bonds or notes and all costs and expenses in connection with any action or proceedings by or on behalf of the bondholders or noteholders are fully paid, met, and discharged.

"§ 116D-29. Vesting powers in committee.

The Board of Governors may authorize its budget and finance committee to sell any special obligation bonds which the Board has, with the approval of the Director of the Budget, authorized to be issued under this Article in any manner and under any limitations or conditions as the Board prescribes and to perform other functions under this Article the Board determines.

"§ 116D-30. Refunding bonds.

The Board of Governors may, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, issue from time to time refunding bonds for the purpose of refunding any bonds by the Board under this Article or under any Article of Chapter 116 of the General Statutes, including the payment of any redemption premium on them and any interest accrued or to accrue to the date of redemption of the bonds refunded. The Board of Governors is further authorized, subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget, to issue from time to time refunding bonds for the combined purpose of (i) refunding any bonds issued by the Board under this Article or under any Article of Chapter 116 of the General Statutes, including the payment of any redemption premium on them and any interest accrued or to accrue to the date of redemption of the bonds, and (ii) paying all or any part of the cost of acquiring or constructing any additional special obligation bond projects.

This Article, as applicable, governs the issuance of refunding bonds, their maturities and other details, the rights and remedies of their holders, and the rights, powers, privileges, duties, and obligations of the Board of Governors with respect to them.

"§ 116D-31. Additional and alternative method.

This Article provides an additional and alternative method for the doing of the things authorized and is supplemental and additional to powers conferred by other laws, including G.S. 116-175 to G.S. 116-185, inclusive and G.S. 116-197 and G.S. 116-198, and is not in derogation of or repealing any powers now existing under any other law, whether general, special, or local. The issuance of special obligation bonds or refunding bonds under this Article, however, need not comply with the requirements of any other law applicable to the issuance of bonds.

"ARTICLE 4.

"Community Colleges Facilities Security Interest Finance Act.

"§ 116D-40. Short title.

This Article may be cited as the Community College Facilities Security Interest Finance Act.

"§ 116D-41. Findings and purpose.

The General Assembly finds as follows:

(1) There is a continuing need for capital facilities for the State's community colleges, many of which will continue to be provided from current appropriations by counties, proceeds of various types of indebtedness incurred by counties for community college purposes, appropriations by the State, and the proceeds of State general obligation bonds secured by a pledge of the faith and credit of the State. There is a need, however, for the use of alternative financing methods such as authorized in this Article to facilitate the providing of capital facilities when circumstances and conditions warrant the providing of capital facilities through a financing method other than those previously used.

(2) The use of State of North Carolina Community College Security Interest Bonds, secured by a lien on or security interest in the community college property acquired, constructed, or improved with the bond proceeds, and the payment of principal and interest on which are subject to appropriation at the discretion of the General Assembly, will provide financing flexibility to counties and the State and permit the counties and the State to take advantage of changing financial and economic environments.

(2) Community college. -- Defined in G.S. 115D-2.

(3) Community college security interest bonds. -- Bonds authorized to be issued under this Article, including refunding bonds.

(4) Community Colleges System Office. -- The North Carolina Community Colleges System Office, created by Article 1 of Chapter 115D of the General Statutes, or if the Community Colleges System Office is abolished or otherwise divested of its functions under this Article, the public body succeeding it in its principal functions, or upon which are conferred by law the rights, powers, and duties given by this Article to the Community Colleges System Office.

(5) Notes. -- Notes issued under this Article.

"§ 116D-43. Authorization of bonds and notes.

Upon the application of the Community Colleges System Office, the State Treasurer may, by and with the consent of the Council of State, issue and sell, at one time or from time to time, community college security interest bonds of the State to be designated 'State of North Carolina Community College Security Interest Bonds', with any additional designations as may be determined to indicate the issuance of bonds from time to time, or notes of the State. Except as otherwise provided by this Article, the aggregate amount of bonds and notes issued pursuant to this Article shall not exceed three hundred million dollars ($300,000,000). Refunding bonds and notes issued pursuant to G.S. 116D-46(f) shall not be included in the limitation on the aggregate amount of bonds and notes that may be issued pursuant to this Article.

The proceeds of bonds or notes issued under this Article shall be applied to finance the cost of grants to be made by the State to community colleges to finance the cost of capital facilities for the community college or to refund any outstanding bonds or notes issued under this Article. The capital facilities to be improved, constructed, or acquired with the proceeds of bonds or notes shall be determined as provided in G.S. 116D-44.

"§ 116D-44. Designation of capital facilities and preconditions to bond issuance.

The capital facilities to be financed in whole or in part with the proceeds of community college security interest bonds shall be described in legislation enacted from time to time by the General Assembly. The proceeds of community college security interest bonds shall not be expended to pay the costs of any capital facilities other than those described in that legislation.

"§ 116D-45. Security; other requirements.

(a) Security. -- To secure payment of the principal of and interest on bonds or notes issued under this Article, each community college that receives a grant pursuant to this Article, and each county to the extent it owns the capital facilities to be acquired or improved by a grant from the State pursuant to this Article, may create a lien on or a security interest in one or more of the following:

(1) In all or any part of the capital facilities to be financed by the bonds or notes.

(2) In the case of construction of improvements on real property, in all or some portion of the land on which the improvements are to be located or in all or part of the improvements.

(3) In the case of renovations or improvements to or the installation of fixtures in existing facilities, in all or some portion of the existing facilities or in all or part of the renovations or improvements.

The security for an issue of bonds shall be set forth in general terms in the resolution of the Council of State authorizing the issuance of the bonds. The property that will be the subject of a lien, deed of trust, or security interest to secure the bonds need not bear any particular relationship to the principal amount of the bonds or notes. A community college or county may grant multiple liens or security interests in a capital facility to the extent not otherwise limited by the terms of other issues of bonds or notes.

(b) Default. -- If community college security interest bonds are secured by a lien, deed of trust, or security interest in multiple items of property, the mortgage, deed of trust, or security agreement or other instrument creating the lien, deed of trust, or security interest shall provide that if the State defaults on its obligations with respect to community college security interest bonds, the Community Colleges System Office, on behalf of the State, shall determine the order in which the property comprising the security shall be sold or otherwise conveyed to satisfy the obligations of the State. In carrying out the provisions of this subsection, the Community Colleges System Office shall endeavor to select for sale or conveyance to satisfy the obligations of the State those items of property that, in the judgment of the Community Colleges System Office, if sold, would result in the least amount of interruption to the operations of the State's community college system as a whole and its ability to carry out its mission. Any determination made by the Community Colleges System Office in carrying out this endeavor shall be conclusive. Nothing in this subsection prohibits the sale or conveyance of up to all of the property securing community college security interest bonds to the extent necessary to satisfy the obligations of the State under the bonds.

(c) Governor's Budget. -- Documentation relating to any bonds or notes may include provisions requiring the Governor to submit in the Governor's budget proposal, or in any amendments or supplements to the budget proposal, appropriations necessary to make the payments required to pay the bonds or notes.

(d) Appropriations. -- Amounts payable by the State in respect of an issue of bonds or notes during any fiscal period shall be limited to funds appropriated for that purpose by the General Assembly in its discretion.

(e) State Liability. -- No deficiency judgment may be rendered against the State in any action for breach of any obligation contained in an issue of bonds or notes. The taxing power of the State is not and may not be pledged directly or indirectly to secure any moneys due under an issue of bonds or notes. In the event that the State fails to pay any payments required under or with respect to an issue of bonds or notes, whether on account of a failure by the General Assembly to appropriate sufficient funds for the payment or for some other reason, the net proceeds received from the sale or other disposition of the capital facilities subject to the lien or security interest securing the bonds or notes shall be applied to satisfy the payment obligations in accordance with the deed of trust, security agreement, or other documentation relating to the lien or security interest, and the net proceeds are hereby appropriated for the purpose of making those payments. Any net proceeds in excess of the amount required to satisfy the obligations of the State under an issue of bonds or notes shall be paid to the State Treasurer for deposit to the General Fund.

(f) Nonsubstitution Clause. -- No documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes may contain a nonsubstitution clause that restricts the right of the State, a community college, or a county to (i) continue to provide a service or conduct an activity or (ii) replace or provide a substitute for any capital facility financed or purchased by the bonds or notes.

(g) Terms Protecting Lender. -- The documentation relating to an issue of bonds or notes, or relating to the security for an issue of bonds or notes, may contain provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the owners of the bonds or notes that are reasonable and proper and not in violation of law. The documentation may include covenants setting forth the duties of the State or a community college in respect of the purposes to which the proceeds of the bonds or notes may be applied, the disposition and application of any appropriations of the State, and the duties of the State or a community college with respect to the capital facilities financed, including, without limitation, the payment of the costs of insurance and maintenance of the capital facilities, the terms under which the collateral securing the bonds may be released or substitute collateral may be delivered, the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds or notes similarly secured, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys.

(h) Statement on Face of Bonds. -- Bonds issued under this Article shall contain on their face a statement to the effect that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the State or of any political subdivision or instrumentality of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of or the interest on the bonds.

"§ 116D-46. Issuance of bonds and notes.

(a) Terms and Conditions. -- Bonds or notes may bear any dates, may be serial or term bonds or notes, or any combination of these, may mature in any amounts and at any times, not exceeding 25 years from their dates, may be payable at any places, either within or without the United States, in any coin or currency of the United States that at the time of payment is legal tender for payment of public and private debts, may bear interest at any rates, which may vary from time to time, and may be made redeemable before maturity, at the option of the State or otherwise as may be provided by the State, at any prices, including a price greater than the face amount of the bonds or notes, and under any terms and conditions, all as may be determined by the State Treasurer, by and with the consent of the Council of State.

(b) Signatures; Form and Denomination; Registration. -- Bonds or notes may be issued in certificated or uncertificated form. If issued in certificated form, bonds or notes shall be signed on behalf of the State by the Governor or shall bear the Governor's facsimile signature, shall be signed by the State Treasurer or shall bear the State Treasurer's facsimile signature, and shall bear the Great Seal of the State or a facsimile of the Seal impressed or imprinted on them. If bonds or notes bear the facsimile signatures of the Governor and the State Treasurer, the bonds or notes shall also bear a manual signature which may be that of a bond registrar, trustee, paying agent, or designated assistant of the State Treasurer. The form and denomination of bonds or notes, including the provisions with respect to registration of the bonds or notes and any system for their registration, shall be as the State Treasurer may determine in conformity with this Article.

(c) Manner of Sale; Expenses. -- Subject to the approval by the Council of State as to the manner in which bonds or notes shall be offered for sale, whether at public or private sale, whether within or without the United States, and whether by publishing notices in certain newspapers and financial journals, mailing notices, inviting bids by correspondence, negotiating contracts of purchase or otherwise, the State Treasurer is authorized to sell bonds or notes at one time or from time to time at any rates of interest, which may vary from time to time, and at any prices, including a price less than the face amount of the bonds or notes, as the State Treasurer may determine. All expenses incurred in the preparation, sale, and issuance of bonds or notes shall be paid by the State Treasurer from the proceeds of bonds or notes or other available moneys.

(d) Application of Proceeds. -- The proceeds of any bonds or notes shall be used solely for the purposes for which the bonds or notes were issued and shall be disbursed in the manner and under the restrictions, if any, that the Council of State may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of, or in any trust agreement securing, the bonds or notes.

Any additional moneys which may be received by means of a grant or grants from the United States or any agency or department thereof or from any other source to aid in financing the cost of a capital facility may be disbursed, to the extent permitted by the terms of the grant or grants, without regard to any limitations imposed by this Article.

(e) Notes; Repayment. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to borrow money and to execute and issue notes of the State for the same, but only in the following circumstances and under the following conditions:

(1) For anticipating the sale of bonds the issuance of which the Council of State has approved, if the State Treasurer considers it advisable to postpone the issuance of the bonds.

(2) For the payment of interest on or any installment of principal of any bonds then outstanding, if there are not sufficient funds in the State treasury with which to pay the interest or installment or principal as they respectively become due.

(3) For the renewal of any loan evidenced by notes authorized in this Article.

(4) For the purposes authorized in this Article.

(5) For refunding bonds or notes as authorized in this Article.

Funds derived from the sale of bonds or notes may be used in the payment of any bond anticipation notes issued under this Article. Funds provided by the General Assembly for the payment of interest on or principal of bonds shall be used in paying the interest on or principal of any notes and any renewals thereof, the proceeds of which have been used in paying interest on or principal of the bonds.

(f) Refunding Bonds and Notes. -- By and with the consent of the Council of State, the State Treasurer is authorized to issue and sell refunding bonds and notes for the purpose of refunding bonds or notes issued pursuant to this Article and to pay the cost of issuance of the refunding bonds or notes. The refunding bonds and notes may be combined with any other issues of State bonds and notes similarly secured. Refunding bonds or notes may be issued at any time prior to the final maturity of the debt or obligation to be refunded. The proceeds from the sale of any refunding bonds or notes shall be applied to the immediate payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded or, if not required for the immediate payment of the bonds or notes being refunded, the proceeds shall be deposited in trust to provide for the payment and retirement of the bonds or notes being refunded and to pay any expenses incurred in connection with the refunding. Money in a trust fund may be invested in (i) direct obligations of the United States government, (ii) obligations the principal of and interest on which are guaranteed by the United States government, (iii) obligations of any agency or instrumentality of the United States government if the timely payment of principal and interest on the obligations is unconditionally guaranteed by the United States government, or (iv) certificates of deposit issued by a bank or trust company located in the State if the certificates are secured by a pledge of any of the obligations described in (i), (ii), or (iii) above having an aggregate market value, exclusive of accrued interest, equal at least to the principal amount of the certificates so secured. This section does not limit the duration of any deposit in trust for the retirement of bonds or notes being refunded but that have not matured and are not presently redeemable, or if presently redeemable, have not been called for redemption.

(g) Trust Agreement. -- In the discretion of the State Treasurer, any bonds and notes issued under the provisions of this Article may be secured by a trust agreement or similar instrument by and between the State and a corporate trustee or by a resolution of the Council of State providing for the appointment of a corporate trustee. The corporate trustee may be, in either case, any trust company or bank having the powers of a trust company within or without the State. The trust agreement or resolution may provide for security and pledges and assignments with respect to the security, as permitted under this Article, and may provide for the granting of a lien or security interest in the property as authorized in G.S. 116D-10. The trust agreement or resolution may contain provisions for the terms and conditions of the issuance of additional bonds and notes, and the custody, safeguarding, investment, and application of all moneys. All bonds and notes issued under this Article shall be equally and ratably secured as provided in the trust agreement or resolution, without priority by reasons of number, or dates of bonds or notes, execution, or delivery, in accordance with the provisions of this Article and of the trust agreement or resolution. The trust agreement or resolution may, however, provide that the bonds or notes shall, to the extent and in the manner prescribed in the trust agreement or resolution, be subordinated and junior in standing, with respect to the payment of principal and interest and to the security thereof, to any other bonds or notes. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company that may act as depositary of the proceeds of bonds or notes, revenues, or any other money under this Article to furnish any indemnifying bonds or to pledge any securities as may be required by the State Treasurer. Any trust agreement or resolution may set out the rights and remedies of the owners of any bonds or notes and of any trustee, and may restrict the individual rights of action by the owners. In addition to the foregoing, any trust agreement or resolution may contain other provisions that the State Treasurer considers reasonable and proper for the security of the owners of any bonds or notes. Expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of any trust agreement or resolution may be treated as a part of the cost of any capital facility or as an administrative charge and may be paid from the proceeds of the bonds or notes or from any other available funds.

"§ 116D-47. Variable rate demand bonds and notes.

(a) In fixing the details of bonds and notes, the State Treasurer may provide that the bonds and notes may:

(1) Be made payable from time to time on demand or tender for purchase by the owner, if a credit facility supports the bonds or notes, unless the State Treasurer specifically determines that a credit facility is not required upon a finding and determination by the State Treasurer that the absence of a credit facility will not materially and adversely affect the financial position of the State and the marketing of the bonds or notes at a reasonable interest cost to the State.

(2) Be additionally supported by a credit facility.

(3) Be made subject to redemption or a mandatory tender for purchase prior to maturity.

(4) Bear interest at rates that may vary from any periods of time, as may be provided in the proceedings providing for the issuance of the bonds or notes, including, without limitation, any variations as may be permitted pursuant to a par formula.

(5) Be made the subject of a remarketing agreement whereby an attempt is made to remarket bonds or notes to new purchasers prior to their presentment for payment to the provider of the credit facility or to the State.

(b) If the aggregate principal amount payable by the State under a credit facility is in excess of the aggregate principal amount of bonds or notes secured by the credit facility, whether as a result of the inclusion in the credit facility of a provision for the payment of interest for a limited period of time or the payment of a redemption premium, or for any other reason, then the amount of authorized but unissued bonds or notes during the term of the credit facility shall not be less than the amount of the excess, unless the payment of the excess is otherwise provided for by agreement of the State executed by the State Treasurer.

"§ 116D-48. Other agreements.

The State Treasurer may authorize, execute, obtain, or otherwise provide for bond insurance, investment contracts, credit and liquidity facilities, interest rate swap agreements and other derivative products, and any other related instruments and matters the State Treasurer determines are desirable in connection with the issuance of bonds or notes. The State Treasurer is authorized to employ and designate any financial consultants, underwriters, and bond attorneys to be associated with any bond issue under this Article as the State Treasurer considers necessary.

"§ 116D-49. Procurement of capital facilities.

Any laws, rules, or regulations of the State that relate to the acquisition and construction of capital facilities shall apply to the capital facilities financed pursuant to this Article."

Section 2. Proceeds of University Improvement Security Interest Bonds. -- (a) The proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds and notes, including any premium thereon, except the proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by bond anticipation notes or the proceeds of refunding bonds or notes, shall be allocated and expended for paying the cost of university capital facilities, to the extent and as provided in Article 2 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act and subject to change as provided in this act, as follows:

Section 2.(b) The Director of the Budget is empowered, when the Director of the Budget determines it is in the best interest of the State and the University to do so, and if the cost of a particular capital facility is less than the amount allocated for it, to use the excess funds to meet increased cost of other capital facilities itemized in this section and located at the same institution. The Director of the Budget shall report to the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations on changes made under this subsection. In addition, any capital facility and the amount of the allocation for it set forth above may be changed from time to time as the General Assembly may decide, except that the General Assembly may not delete or remove from funding any capital improvement that has been pledged as security for university improvement security interest bonds that have been issued if such a change would impair the security of the owners of the university improvement security interest bonds. The provisions of G.S. 116-11(9) with respect to appropriations to the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall not apply to proceeds of university improvement security interest bonds and notes issued pursuant to Article 2 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act.

Section 2.(c) Allocations to the costs of a capital improvement or undertaking in each case may include allocations to pay the costs set forth in this act in connection with the issuance of university improvement security interest bonds for that capital improvement or undertaking.

Section 2.(d) The proceeds of two hundred eighty-two million six hundred forty-eight thousand two hundred twelve dollars ($282,648,212) university improvement security interest bonds authorized by this act and allocated in subsection (a) of this section for matching gift incentive program projects shall be allocated and expended for particular projects as provided in this subsection. The Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall employ a private consultant to develop a list of capital facilities which are to be funded jointly from these bonds and private donations. The Board of Governors shall submit this list of recommended projects, including the proposed matching requirements by the University or its constituent or affiliated institutions, to the General Assembly by April 1, 2000. The matching requirements must be based on analyses of the fund-raising capabilities of each institution as determined by a private consultant in order to maximize private fund-raising for capital projects. The proceeds of these bonds or notes shall not be issued or allocated until the General Assembly authorizes the issuance of some or all of these bonds or notes and appropriates the proceeds for specific projects by separate legislative action at any subsequent session.

Section 2.(e) The validity of university improvement security interest bonds and notes issued under Article 2 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act, is not affected by any subsequent adjustment of allocations, or by any failure to comply with the reporting requirements provided in this act.

Section 3. Proceeds of Community College Security Interest Bonds. -- (a) The proceeds of community college security interest bonds and notes, including any premium thereon, except the proceeds of community college security interest bonds the issuance of which has been anticipated by bond anticipation notes or the proceeds of refunding bonds or notes, shall be allocated and expended for paying the cost of community college capital facilities, to the extent and as provided in Article 4 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act and subject to change as provided in this act, to be located at the following community colleges:

Section 3.(b) Except as provided in subsection (d) of this section, a community college may use the bond proceeds allocated in subsection (a) of this section only in accordance with the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's report on the capital allocation and repairs and renovations funding formula. Funds allocated for repair and renovations must be used in accordance with exhibit 5-6 of the Funding Formula Study: Phase 3 Report, submitted May 15, 1998. Funds allocated for new construction must be used in accordance with exhibits 15 and 16 of the Funding Formula Study: Phase 4 Report, submitted February 4, 1999. New construction funds allocated by the report to a specific site may not be allocated to another site. Each community college shall submit to the State Board of Community Colleges a statement (i) proposing the capital facilities to be financed with the proceeds of community college security interest bonds allocated to that community college, (ii) certifying that the proposed site is included in the consultant's report referred to in this section, (iii) certifying that the community college is prepared to proceed with the construction, acquisition, or improvement of the proposed capital facilities, and (iv) demonstrating that the applicable matching requirements have been or will be met.

Upon receipt by the State Board of Community Colleges of the information set forth above, the Board shall add the proposed capital facilities to the next application of the Community Colleges System Office to the State Treasurer to issue bonds pursuant to G.S. 116D-43.

The board of trustees of an individual community college may use funds allocated for new construction either for new construction or for repair and renovations. The board of trustees of a community college may use funds allocated for repair and renovations only for repair and renovations, and not for new construction.

The projected allocations set forth above may be changed from time to time as the General Assembly may decide, except that the General Assembly may not delete or remove from funding any capital improvement that has been pledged as security for community college security interest bonds that have been issued if such a change would impair the security of the owners of the university improvement security interest bonds.

Section 3.(c) Community colleges are not required to match bond proceeds allocated in this section for repair and renovations. The match requirements of Chapter 115D of the General Statutes apply to bond proceeds allocated for new construction except as provided in this subsection. The consultant hired by the State Board of Community Colleges to determine funding formulas for the community college system developed an index to measure each county's ability to pay. The consultant found that some counties are unable to meet their local match requirement under Chapter 115D of the General Statutes because of inability to pay. Accordingly, community colleges are required to match bond proceeds allocated for new construction in subsection (a) or (d) of this section only as follows: Community colleges assigned a matching rate of less than forty percent (40%) in the "adjusted matching requirements" contained in exhibit 14 of the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's Funding Formula Study: Phase 4 Report, submitted February 4, 1999, are not required to match, and community colleges assigned a matching rate of forty percent (40%) or more in the adjusted matching requirements are required to match only at the assigned rate.

Section 3.(d) Each community college that was not allocated funds for new construction in the State Board of Community Colleges' consultant's report on the capital allocation funding formula may receive the bond proceeds allocated to it for new construction in subsection (a) of this section only to the extent that it can document to the State Board of Community Colleges its actual need for funds for new construction, or its actual need for funds for repair and renovations in excess of the amount allocated to it for repair and renovations in subsection (a) of this section. If any community college is unable to document to the State Board of Community Colleges by January 1, 2001, these needs in the amount of its entire allocation for new construction under subsection (a) of this section, the State Board shall reallocate the excess of the allocation over the amount the college was able to document among the remaining community colleges to the extent they can document actual needs in excess of their allocations in subsection (a) of this section for new construction, repair, and renovations, or both.

Section 3.(e) The validity of community college security interest bonds and notes issued under Article 4 of Chapter 116D of the General Statutes, as enacted by this act, is not affected by any subsequent adjustment of allocations or matching requirements provided in this act, or by any failure to comply with matching requirements or reporting requirements provided in this act.

Section 4. Interpretation of Act. (a) Additional Method. -- This act provides an additional and alternative method for the doing of the things authorized by this act and shall be regarded as supplemental and additional to powers conferred by other laws. Except where expressly provided, this act shall not be regarded as in derogation of any powers now existing. The authority granted in this act is in addition to other laws now or hereinafter enacted authorizing The University of North Carolina to issue self-liquidating debt or other debt secured by designated sources of funds.

Section 4.(b) Statutory References. -- References in this act to specific sections or Chapters of the General Statutes are intended to be references to those sections or Chapters as they may be amended from time to time by the General Assembly.

Section 4.(c) Liberal Construction. -- This act, being necessary for the health and welfare of the people of the State, shall be liberally construed to effect its purposes.

Section 4.(d) Severability. -- If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, that invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of the act that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this act are severable.

Section 5. This act is effective when it becomes law.

TESTIMONY OF CHARLES F. FULLER

DIRECTOR, NORTH CAROLINA CITIZENS FOR A SOUND ECONOMY

before the

HOUSE and SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEES of the

NORTH CAROLINA GENERAL ASSEMBLY

June 29, 1999

Good morning. Mr. Chairman and members of both the House and Senate Finance Committees, I come to you today on behalf of North Carolina Citizens for a Sound Economy. North Carolina CSE is an affiliate of Citizens for a Sound Economy, a 250,000-member non-profit organization advocating free market solutions to public policy problems. The 6,000-strong North Carolina Chapter established an office this year to bring a common sense message of limited government, lower taxes, and reduced regulation to the people of North Carolina.

Historically, the citizens of North Carolina have had the opportunity to vote on bond proposals for the university system. However, the General Assembly is considering a five billion dollar bond issue that bypasses the public's traditional role in approving the state's education bond issues. North Carolina CSE is concerned that such a move would put the state's consumers at risk for higher taxes. It was reported today in the News & Observer that bypassing the people's right to vote on the University Bond Issue will cost taxpayers 39 million dollars.

Let me detail for you 10 reasons why you should let the people vote:

Reason number one why you should let the people vote!

- Approving billions of dollars in spending for the University system, without a vote of the people, does not address the underlying problems. Much of the consultant's report detailing the university system's needs is an indictment of poor management of our physical buildings and facilities. Before approving new bonds and placing the state billions of dollars more in debt, inefficient management practices in the university system should be eliminated. Let the people vote.

Reason number two why you should let the people vote!

- Although the new bonds are said to be targeted toward urgent spending needs, a number of the planned expenditures are far from urgent, including a six million dollar indoor tennis and volleyball center, a ten million dollar music and theater complex, and one million dollars in landscaping at the School of Arts. All totaled, the plan includes more than one hundred million dollars for sports and arts projects. Let the people vote.

Reason number three why you should let the people vote!

- Any one of you here today, if you saved the State of North Carolina 39 million dollars, you would rightfully be hailed a hero. So why would the leadership of the General Assembly bypass the voters, put them in debt billions of dollars, risk higher taxes down the road, and make the taxpayers pay 39 million dollars for the privilege? I say again, let the people vote and save the taxpayers 39 million dollars!

Reason number four why you should let the people vote!

- The voters have chosen wisely in the past. North Carolina's consumers have allowed for the creation of a university system that has a national reputation. We are all proud of our university system. If the case can be made regarding needs, voters will respond. Let the people vote.

Reason number five why you should let the people vote!

- Placing the state an additional five billion dollars in debt could raise taxes. According to our state treasurer it will. In fact, Treasurer Harlan Boyles had this to say last year, "Unless the state's spending philosophy changes, which of late includes mountains of borrowed money, the next governor of North Carolina will face the largest tax increases or the largest budget reductions ever experienced in our history." Voters should be allowed to vote, especially when their taxes may go up to pay the bill. This is another good reason to let the people vote!

Reason number six why you should let the people vote!

- The budget just approved by both houses does not include repayment of the illegal intangibles tax collected by the state between 1991 and 1994. Why should the state be allowed to borrow more money when taxpayers that are owed a refund from an illegal tax have not been repaid? This just does not make sense. Let the people vote!

Reason number seven why you should let the people vote!

- Debt obligates future generations and taxpayers to pay the bills. Citizens should be encouraged to vote, especially when it is obligating their children and grandchildren to pay the bill. Let the people vote!

Reason number eight why you should let the people vote!

- The proposal to increase university spending requires a more thorough evaluation. A private consultant spent two years surveying close to 800 buildings in the university system in order to determine the needs of the system. Now the General Assembly is rushing through a massive spending plan without proper time for lawmakers or the public to review the proposal. Maybe that is why the Greensboro News & Record reported last week that Representative George Miller said their decisions are made in the back room. Two years to review and only two days to decide on spending almost five billion dollars? Let the people vote!

Reason number nine why you should let the people vote!

- As I understand, the University system will not ask for any additional building funds for 10 years if this bond package is approved. Does anyone in this room really believe that will be the case? Another good reason why we should place these issues on the ballot and let the people vote!

Reason number ten why you should let the people vote!

- It's the right thing to do! Let the people vote and save them 39 million dollars!

There indeed may be some real building needs in the University system, but it was built by the people, paid for by the people, and the people deserve a right to vote because they are the ones that will be making payments on this debt for many years to come.

Let the people vote!

Mr. Chairman, thank you for your time and I request a copy of my remarks be placed in the minutes to this meeting.

Limited Obligation Bonds for UNC Improvements

- Limited obligation bonds are not secured by a pledge by the State of its taxing power to secure their payment and, as authorized by the voters in an amendment to the Constitution in 1970, the use of limited obligation bonds is within the discretionary powers granted to the General Assembly by the people of North Carolina.

- General obligation bonds are secured by a pledge by the State of its taxing power to secure their payment and, when such pledge is made, voter approval is usually required. However, the General Assembly has authorized and the State has issued $147 million of non-voted 2/3 bonds since 1987, while additional bonds totaling some $4.5 billion have been submitted to and approved by the voters since 1993

- Since a pledge of the taxing power usually requires a bond referendum, it is often necessary to determine and identify the projects to be funded very early in the process. The ability to change those projects is limited. Limited obligation bonds offer greater flexibility in determining and planning what projects will be funded.

- The proposed plan of finance calls for financing the required improvements immediately, then using projected "pay as you go" funding and applying those monies to debt service rather than capital funding.

Impact Of The Proposed University Bonds Upon The State's Credit Rating

At the beginning of this century, Governor Charles Aycock saw in North Carolina's children a bright new future for our State, if only we would educate them and give them the tools to improve their standing in the bold new century that awaited them.

Today, we stand on the brink of a new century and face a similar challenge. Those who assess our credit worthiness factor into their ratings how we meet our present and future obligations. They will be more impressed, I believe, to know that we recognize the importance of continuing to support and build one of the best higher education systems in the nation than if they saw we had fallen short of that challenge.

There's no question that we can afford to borrow these funds for the University. We cannot afford to do otherwise. It's simply a question of priorities. The use of borrowed funds, with an obligation to repay the debt incurred over a period of years, serves to reinforce the notion that the physical properties of our University system would be placed among the highest claim on the future resources of our State's general fund. And, no longer would these needs be considered as an "after-thought" to all other governmental requests.

Does the State have the capacity to borrow $3 billion without jeopardizing its credit worthiness?

> Certainly, the State of North Carolina has the capacity to borrow this amount without adversely affecting its credit worthiness. The decision to borrow has more to do with the purposes for which the proceeds will be spent than any other factor. In this instance maintenance and preservation of the University's ability to serve its people in the excellent tradition of the past two hundred years are paramount.

Why advocate the use of Limited Obligation Bonds as opposed to General Obligation Bonds?

> The Constitution recognizes that under our representative form of government, broad authority is given to the elected members of the General Assembly. While the Constitution of North Carolina clearly prohibits the issuance of General Obligation Bonds without a specific vote of approval by the people, no such prohibition exists for Limited Obligation Bonds. It should be noted that Limited Obligation Bonds do not pledge the State's taxing power as do the issuance of General Obligation Bonds and that is a very important difference, both for taxpayers and for bond holders. The lending public has come to accept indebtedness when secured by the assets of the borrowers.

Will Limited Obligation Bonds require a higher rate of interest than General Obligation Bonds?

> Yes. We have been advised by the rating agencies that these Limited Obligation Bonds likely will be rated one notch below the State's Triple A credit rating at AA+. Using this analysis, the additional cost will be approximately 1/8 of one percent greater than for Triple A rated bonds.

Dear Legislative Friend of Education,

June 24, 1999

The Council of UNC Alumni Association Presidents was formed ten years ago to support the UNC System in improving the margins of excellence for which the system has traditionally been known. We represent over 750,000 University Alumni, the great majority of whom live, work, and vote in North Carolina.

We are writing and will be contacting you in your home district in support of the two bills on University Capital Facilities Finance and Special Obligation Bonds for Improvements to the Facilities of the University of North Carolina. You have already been contacted by many obvious supporters of the University including Administrators, Chancellors, and Trustees who have provided you with compelling information from the Eva Klein consultant's report on repair, modernization, and construction needs as well as State Treasurer Harlan Boyles' innovative financial recommendations. Given the surprising defeat of the Wake county education bonds and the possible delay in Charlotte, we believe it even more important that you and the NC Legislature act with courage and dispatch on the subject bills.

The Council represents an independent and pervasive voice seeking your support based solely on our long term commitment to excellence in the University specifically and Education in general. We are already on record as offering thousands of mentoring volunteers for GEAR UP North Carolina, a grant application for 7-8th grade student intervention as well as offering even larger volunteer support for Governor Hunt's "First in America by 2010" challenge. The Council has previously geared up for a state-wide promotion of University Bonds which the Legislature supported five years ago.

In summary, the Council supports education initiatives from Smart Start to post graduate studies. We believe education provides the primary fuel for the economic and cultural engine of North Carolina. We applaud the Governor's "First in America" initiative; the State Treasurer's financing alternatives initiative; and the Legislature's Community College financing initiative as well as originating the Klein study. We wish to further applaud you for passing these two important capital financing bills.

We are asking for your help. You can ask us for our help as well. Please contact us at (919) 557-1259 with any questions.

Sincerely,

Carol Lesley

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATIVE PROPOSALS

University Capital Facilities Finance Act (State Bonds)

- The Act provides for the issuance of "limited obligation" bonds to finance capital facilities for the University. Limited obligation bonds do not require a vote of the people.
- In essence, the General Assembly would have a moral obligation to provide for the repayment of the bonds.
- The bonds would be secured by a lien on or a security interest in University property.
- The proceeds of the bonds would be applied to finance the cost of improvement, construction, and acquisition of capital facilities as determined by the Board of Governors.
- Amounts payable by the State are "limited to funds appropriated for such purpose by the General Assembly." During an interim period, bonds could be issued if the Director of the Budget filed a certificate with the State Treasurer stating that sufficient funds are available to make debt service payments.

Special Obligation Bonds for Improvements to the Facilities of the University of North Carolina (University Bonds)

- Authorizes the Board of Governors to issue bonds, payable from "obligated" resources, but with no pledge of taxes or the faith and credit of the State.
- Obligated resources shall mean any sources of income or receipts of the Board or the institution at which a special obligation bond project is located including, without limitation, rents, charges or fees to be derived by the Board or the institution from any activities conducted at the institution, earnings on the investment of the endowment fund of the institution, and overhead receipts. Obligated resources do not include appropriations by the General Assembly and do not include tuition payments by students.
- "The Board of Governors is authorized to determine the location and character of any special obligation bond project and to acquire, construct and provide the same to maintain, repair and operate and enter into contracts for the management, lease, use or operation of all or any portion of any special obligation bond project and any existing facilities."
- Under the draft legislation, bonds issued are approved by the Director of the Budget. The Director of the Budget may consult with the Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations.

Section 11.4. Section 10.1 of S.L. 1997-443 reads as rewritten:
"Section 10.1. (a) The funds appropriated to the Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina for equity funds are to address relative inequities in State operating funding revealed through a study of the constituent institutions in the university system. The General Assembly notes that the study dealt with equity based upon current funding from State appropriations and tuition for operations and did not consider historical equity in funding for physical facilities or funding from non-State sources. Therefore, in making this appropriation, the General Assembly does not conclude that the total funding of any institution, including specifically the historically black universities, is adequate in light of all considerations.
(b) Based on findings of the Legislative Study Commission on the Status of Education at The University of North Carolina, the General Assembly is still concerned about perceived differences in the quality of capital facilities on the different campuses, which may impact the ability of some campuses to attract students and faculty. Since the Board of Governors has recently completed studies of equity of funding for operating costs among the constituent institutions and of the Board of Governors' capital improvements request process, it is timely that the question of equity of facilities be addressed.

The Board of Governors of The University of North Carolina shall study the relative equity and adequacy of the physical facilities of its constituent institutions. The study shall consider the condition of the facilities, whether or not facilities are comparable among the campuses given the different missions of the institutions, comparable adequacy of the physical facilities given the size and projected growth of the school, and such other factors deemed appropriate by the Board of Governors. The study shall include all facilities contributing to the accomplishment of the campuses' missions. First, the Board of Governors shall study those facilities considered central to the academic missions of the campuses that are generally supported from General Fund appropriations. Secondly, the Board of Governors shall study those facilities that contribute to the overall missions of the campuses, including residential, dining, research, and other facilities regardless of the sources of funding. The Board of Governors shall consider its policies on funding of self-liquidating projects and whether those policies contribute to any inequities among the campuses, including the overall costs to the students.
(c) The Board of Governors shall contract with a private consulting firm with expertise in higher education matters to assess the additional capital needs of the constituent institutions of The University of North Carolina. The needs assessment shall project the needs for capital funding for a 10-year period, and shall include a detailed plan for making funding allocations based on the priorities of needs.

The plan shall provide a detailed capital spending plan for the next 10 years to assist the General Assembly in making funding decisions relating to The University of North Carolina, as the State plans for major increases in enrollment in higher education and prepares its citizens to compete in a global economy. The plan shall include considerations of the costs and changes in capital needs caused by new technologies and alternative systems for delivery of higher education services.

The consultant shall visit each campus in The University of North Carolina system to understand the needs of each campus based on their assigned missions, physical needs, and plans.

The Board and its consultant shall provide interim progress reports to the General Assembly on a periodic basis. The Board of Governors shall report to the General Assembly by April 15, 1999, with the results of its study and plan.

Of the funds appropriated to the Board of Governors for fiscal year 1998-99, up to two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) may be reallocated for the purposes of this section, including funds that would normally revert to the General Fund at the end of the fiscal year.

This Special Provision represents an historic milestone in that, to the best of our knowledge, it is the first comprehensive, systematic review of UNC's capital needs ever conducted.

A Firm Foundation: Proposed Capital Financing Legislation for the University of North Carolina

BACKGROUND:

In April 1999 the UNC Board of Governors approved Building for the New Millennium, the report emerging from a comprehensive study--called for in a 1997 special provision--of the relative equity and adequacy of capital facilities on the 16 University of North Carolina campuses. As required by a follow-up provision enacted in the 1998 short session, the report also included a ten-year capital spending plan for UNC.

Prepared by higher education consultant Eva Klein, the report documented woefully outmoded buildings, mounting deferred maintenance, and a looming shortage of critical science, technology, and study facilities. For every modern building in good condition, Klein found scores with bad wiring, leaks, outdated essential equipment, and inadequate infrastructure. The report identified capital needs totaling $6.9 billion.

The report proposed that UNC's capital needs be financed through increased funding from the General Assembly, coupled with new University-based funding, private-sector development, and increased private giving. In addition, Klein concluded that the state's traditional pay-as-you-go approach to capital funding would fall far short of the amount needed to repair, modernize, and expand UNC facilities and that alternative financing--principally bond financing--was needed to effectively implement the ten-year capital plan.

Under the direction of State Treasurer Harlan Boyles, bond counsel have prepared draft legislation for consideration by the General Assembly that would enable the state and UNC to use well-established methods of capital financing to address the University's staggering needs. Given anticipated enrollment growth and the lengthy lead time required to construct new state buildings and modernize old ones, it is critical that such legislation be passed during this legislative session.

THE PROBLEM:

Over two centuries, North Carolina taxpayers, the University, and its students have built one of the best public university systems in the world. UNC campuses belong to the people of North Carolina, and these important state assets have many buildings that are now outmoded, inadequate, and falling apart.

- UNC expects to enroll some 48,000 additional students over the next decade. Six campuses, including the four largest, have space shortages today. By 2008, ten campuses will be at or beyond their physical capacity.
- As documented in the Klein report, nearly 800 UNC buildings need significant repairs or modernization, with the greatest deficiencies found in science and technology labs. Building rehabilitation is by far the largest component of UNC's ten-year capital plan.
- Prior to 1993, the state did not provide a steady source of funds for the repair and renovation of state-owned buildings. Over the past five years, UNC's annual share of the Reserve for Repairs and Renovations has provided roughly 2.5% of estimated replacement costs toward the upkeep of campus buildings, but these critical funds fail to address decades of deferred maintenance and the need to modernize antiquated buildings.

- Over the years, the General Assembly has been generous to UNC when capital funds were available. Since 1989, the state has appropriated an average of $86.7 million per year for UNC projects. But because of the state's traditional pay-as-you-go approach, capital funding to UNC has fluctuated widely, ranging from $1.6 million in 1990 to $125 million in 1997. This practice also has favored new construction over renovations.
- The cost of new construction is escalating. While inflation is averaging less than 3% annually, the State Construction Office estimates a construction inflation factor of 5%. Deferred maintenance costs are rising at a similar rate.

THE SOLUTION:

Over the past 75 years, more than 40% of capital construction on UNC campuses has been funded with non-appropriated dollars. Given the authority, UNC is committed to do even more to tap all available resources (University bonds, private sector development, private giving) to supplement and leverage state funding.

In her report, Klein strongly recommended that the state and UNC explore alternatives to North Carolina's traditional method of pay-as-you-go financing for University construction. Other states have demonstrated that various revenue streams can be earmarked for capital financing without draining funds from other needs, lowering the state's bond rating, or raising taxes. These states have gained the ability to spend more than ten times their current revenues for repairs, modernization, and construction. Many states that once followed that pay-as-you-go philosophy have earmarked revenues to retire outstanding bond debt. In the current market, annual debt service in the amount of $125 million--UNC's 1997 appropriation--would support more than $1.5 billion in needed repairs, modernization, and new construction.

In coming weeks, we will ask legislators to consider legislation that would provide new mechanisms for financing UNC's capital needs:

Proposed University Capital Facilities Finance Act. This legislation would permit the state to issue "limited obligation" bonds to finance capital improvements for the University. These bonds would not obligate the tax authority of the state, but essentially would create a moral obligation to repay. The financed projects would be pledged as security for the debt. The indebtedness would be repaid from state appropriations over a specified period of years. Bond financing would--for the first time--provide a predictable revenue stream of sufficient size to meet UNC's long-term capital needs.

Proposed Special Obligation Bonds for Improvements to Facilities of the University of North Carolina. This legislation would authorize the UNC Board of Governors to issue bonds to be repaid from "obligated" resources, defined sources of income available to the campus carrying out a given capital project. Available income sources would include rents, charges or fees collected by the institution, investments earnings on endowment funds, and overhead receipts. The board would not issue bonds by pledging state appropriations or tuition receipts.

UNC Report on Capital Equity/Adequacy: Major Findings and Conclusions

FINDINGS: CONDITION AND QUALITY

- Quality is a greater problem than capacity
- Cost to meet quality standards is approximately $3 billion
- Non-appropriated buildings are in better physical condition that appropriated ones
- Current resources do not address repair backlog
- Major renovations must become greater priority
- Of amount estimates for major renovations, $653 million would retrofit science labs

FINDINGS: CURRENT CAPACITY

- UNC has enough capacity systemwide to meet current enrollment levels; however,
  - > Not all capacity is where it is needed
  - > Six campuses have current capacity needs
- Ten campuses have some underutilized space, but also have needs for specific types of space
- Laboratories and study space are in short supply
- Classrooms and offices are not in short supply

FINDINGS: PRELIMINARY TEN-YEAR CAPITAL NEEDS

• Rehabilitation	$3.00 billion
• Current Capacity	$0.45 billion
• Future Capacity	$1.15 billion
• Other/Special	$2.30 billion	TOTAL NEEDS = $6.90 BILLION

FINDINGS: TOTAL UNC CAPITAL FUNDING BY SOURCE, 1925-1997

• Appropriated from state funds	58%
• Non-appropriated	42%

CONCLUSIONS: OVERVIEW OF FUNDING ISSUES

- Competitive posture will require continued investments in renewal and expansion
- Annual "pie" is too small for identified needs
- Pay-as-you-go overemphasizes new construction
- Pay-as you-go is not explicit capital development policy
- Insufficient emphasis on private fundraising

A FIRM FOUNDATION: A PLAN FOR BUILDING UNC'S FUTURE

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Doesn't financing by debt obligate resources that will limit the flexibility of future sessions of the General Assembly?

The University is an ongoing obligation of the State, one that is now facing a huge backlog of deferred maintenance and unprecedented enrollment increases. If the General Assembly continues its pay-as-you-go approach, it will pass on to future legislatures a problem greater than the $6.9-billion capital challenge it faces today. UNC campuses are among the most important assets of the State, and they must be maintained. The "limited obligation" bonds proposed by Treasurer Boyles would make the State's financial response to the problem more predictable and manageable. As the Treasurer explains, the General Assembly would be transforming real but unfunded obligations into securitized, bonded ones.

Will this financing legislation constitute UNC's total capital request for the next five years?

The resources generated by the bonds would provide financing for the University's major construction and renovation needs over the next five years. However, the annual Repair and Renovation funds (R&R) provided pursuant to statute would be expected to continue. If UNC did not continue to receive R&R for routine maintenance and repair, we would not only compound UNC's existing deferred maintenance problems, but create new ones as well.

Is there accountability for how the bond funds will be used?

The final form of the legislation authorizing bond financing is not clear, but there certainly would be oversight by and accountability to the General Assembly. We expect that for new construction, the University would submit a capital plan to the General Assembly for approval each year; whereas for major modernization and renovation projects, the process might require approval by the Government Operations Committee (not unlike the process currently in place for our Repair and Renovations request).

How would the projects to be financed with bond funds be selected?

The Board of Governors has approved a five-year capital plan prepared under the direction of Eva Klein & Associates in collaboration with the 16 campuses. Priorities will be determined by the General Assembly, with the recommendations of the Board of Governors.

What kinds of University revenues could be used for the "special obligation" bonds?

Currently, UNC campuses have authority to use student fees, user fees, and room and board charges to service debt for statutorily specified facilities. In addition to these historic sources for debt service, the proposed "special obligation" bond legislation would permit use of other campus-based revenues such as overhead receipts and interest earnings on endowment funds. Campuses would not be permitted to use tuition receipts or State appropriations to service debt on the "special obligation" bonds.

Do the "special obligation" or university bonds offer any advantages to the smaller campuses?

Yes. Even today, every UNC campus builds some facilities on a "self-liquidating" basis, and such projects would be financed in the future with "special obligation" bonds. The University's capital funding plan contemplates that as a whole, UNC will continue its historic pattern of providing approximately 40% of the funds for capital facilities. But the ability of campuses to support special obligation bonds varies. By necessity, the smaller campuses will depend more heavily on State-issued bonds. The ability of the larger campuses to take greater advantage of the special obligation bonds should reduce pressure on the State resources—to the benefit of smaller campuses.

Why should the State issue these new "limited obligation" bonds instead of "general obligation" bonds, which would be subject to a vote of the people?

Authorizing the use of "limited obligation" bonds is entirely consistent with the powers granted to the General Assembly in the Constitution. Local governments in North Carolina have successfully used financing mechanisms similar to "limited obligation" bonds for many years. The obligations created by these bonds are "limited" as opposed to "general" because the taxing power of the State is not pledged. Only in that latter case is a vote required by the State Constitution.

As a practical matter, the use of "limited obligation" bonds provides more flexibility to the General Assembly and the University with respect to future projects. In the case of general obligation bonds, all funds typically must be committed to specified projects before bonds are authorized. In the case of "limited obligation" bonds, the State could authorize the bonds and specify highest priority projects now, while retaining the flexibility to select, design, and schedule future projects as campus needs and enrollment levels change.

Finally, with the decline in interest rates in recent years, the differential in interest rates between general obligation bonds and limited obligation bonds or other kinds of special debt has narrowed substantially.

Why should the State commit to UNC bonds when the public schools and community colleges have such dire needs, as well?

The University is committed to a strong educational system at all levels and is doing everything within its power to help strengthen the public schools and increase collaboration with the community colleges.
The General Assembly called for an independent study of the University's capital needs, which has produced one of the most comprehensive, documented assessments of higher education facilities in the nation. The real needs of the State's other education sectors do not negate the fact that UNC buildings are State obligations and that the pay-as-you-go approach has allowed these valuable State assets to deteriorate.

UNC is acknowledged as one of the best public university systems in the nation. How can it possibly have capital needs of this magnitude if the quality is so high?

UNC buildings have been constructed over two centuries, and as they age, facilities inevitably become outdated or require structural repairs. In decades past, it was sometimes possible to use stop-gap approaches to modify old laboratories or equipment to serve modern functions. But the accelerating pace of scientific and technological change has made such attempts increasingly futile. Nothing short of major retrofits or renovations can adapt antiquated laboratories to accommodate 21st century science, for example.

UNC faculty have continued to teach in such inadequate facilities largely because of the University's national stature and out of loyalty to specific campuses. They also have drawn hope from the State's demonstrated commitment to address the University's huge backlog of capital needs, as evidenced by a queue of partially funded buildings that would require in excess of $400 million to complete.

Finally, a significant portion of the funding needs relate directly to the capacity of our campuses to meet current and future demand. We must be ready to accommodate some 48,000 additional new students by 2008. Six of the 16 campuses are at or beyond their physical capacity now and cannot admit significant numbers of new students without capital investment. The other campuses also have needs relating to enrollment growth.

CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORIZATION OF NON-VOTED PUBLIC DEBT IN NORTH CAROLINA

The Constitution of North Carolina authorizes the General Assembly to empower The University of North Carolina to borrow money and issue bonds for its repayment with or without a vote of the people of the State, as the General Assembly determines to be in the best interest of the State.

In 1967, the Supreme Court of North Carolina in the case of Vance County v. Royster, 271 N.C. 53, had occasion to interpret Article VII, Section 6 of the Constitution as it then read:

> "Sec. 6. No debt or loan except by a majority of voters. No county, city, town, or other municipal corporation shall contract any debt, pledge its faith or loan its credit, nor shall any tax be levied or collected by any of the officers of the same except for the necessary expenses thereof, unless approved by a majority of those who shall vote thereon in any election held for such purpose."

The specific issue before the Court was whether a contract entered into by Vance County to pay the federal government $1,250 a year for 25 years for the use of land for a public airport constituted a "debt" that required the approval of the voters of the county to be valid.

The Supreme Court concluded that the lease did constitute a "debt" that required voter approval under the Constitution--and that any enforceable contractual obligation except revenue bonds required a popular vote of approval. The result was a substantial restraint on what had generally been thought by local government lawyers to be the ability of local (and state) governments to borrow money without a vote of the people so long as the faith and credit of the borrowing unit were not pledged to its repayment.

The General Assembly of 1967 created the Local Goverment Study Commission to make a thorough study of the structure, organization, powers, and financing of local government in North Carolina. In its report, filed with the 1969 General Assembly, that Commission recommended, among other matters, that "[t]he General Assembly should have authority to determine what contracts other than contracts creating general obligation debt must be submitted to popular vote." [Report of the Local Government Study Commission, 1968, p. 7.] One stated intent of the Commission was to overrule the Vance County decision.

Pursuant to that recommendation and others, the Study Commission proposed a general revision of the constituitonal provisions with respect to public finance, especially Article

V, the finance article. That Commission's recommendation was endorsed by the North Carolina State Constitution Study Commission (1968). It was enacted with minor revisions by the 1969 General Assembly, ratified by the qualified voters of the State in 1970, and took effect by its own terms in 1973. [N. C. Sess. Laws 1969, ch. 1200.] (The delayed effective date was to allow time for the enactment of implementing legislation.) The provisions of the Constitution relevant to the proposed bond issue date from that amendment.

The pertinent provisions of the Constitution with respect to state and local government borrowing are closely similar in language and in legal effect. Thus most court interpretations of the provisions with respect to local government apply as well to state government borrowing.

Article V, Section 3, of the Constitution now reads in part:

> "The General Assembly shall have no power to contract debts secured by a pledge of the faith and credit of the State, unless approved by a majority of the qualified voters of the State who vote thereon, except for . . . [several narrowly defined purposes, such as suppressing riots, or] for any other lawful purpose, to the extent of two-thirds of the amount by which the State's outstanding indebtedness shall have been reduced during the next preceding biennium." [Emphasis supplied.]

Article V, Section 4, contains a virtually identical provision with respect to the contracting of debt by local governments. That provision the Supreme Court was called upon to interpret in 1991 in Wayne County Citizens Association v. Wayne County Board of Commissioners, 328 N.C. 24. The county had entered into an installment purchase contract with a financial institution whereby the county contracted to make annual payments to the institution for a specified period in return for the erection of court, jail, and office buildings for the use of the county. The county by its contract expressly denied that it was making a pledge of its faith and credit to pay the lender; its security was limited to a security interest in the land on which the buildings stood. While it was anticipated that the annual payments would be made by the county from tax funds, the contract expressly provided that such payments would be discretionary on the part of the county. And in the event of foreclosure by the creditor, a deficiency judgment against the county was contractually prohibited.

The Supreme Court found that the contact was not a violation of Article V, Section 4, despite the lack of a provision for a public vote on the issuance of debt, because there was no pledge of the faith and credit of the borrowing county--that is, no commitment of the taxing power of the county--to secure repayment. On that point, the Supreme Court wrote:

> "Plaintiffs argue that . . . [the authorizing statute] is unconstitutional because the statute allows the County to enter into an agreement pursuant to which the County may expend tax revenues in future years without a vote of the people. We find no merit in this argument. What is being pledged as security is the constitutionally significant factor. Unlike general obligation bonds, wherein the taxing power of the governmental unit is pledged, in installment purchase contracts, only the property improved is pledged. The possibility that appropriations which might include income from tax revenues will be used to repay the indebtedness under the contact is not a constitutionally significant factor." [Emphasis supplied.] 328 NC. at 31.

Thus it is clear that the Constitution of North Carolina, as interpreted by our State Supreme Court, empowers the General Assembly to authorize The University of North Carolina to issue the proposed university improvement security interest bonds without a pledge of the faith and credit of the State being given for their redemption, and as no pledge of the faith and credit of the State is to be given, no vote of the people of the State is required to authorize the bonds.

RECOGNIZE COMMITTEE CO-CHAIRS PRESENT

[Representatives Luebke, Allen, and Miller; Senators Hoyle and Kerr]

- Good morning, and thank you for the opportunity to share with you the University of North Carolina's response to the capital financing plan proposed in Senate Bill 912 and House Bill 1481.
- I appear before you this morning with the sadness of one who lost a dear colleague during the night. As you may have heard on the news, Chancellor Michael Hooker passed away during the night. When I left Carmen Hooker at 5:00 this morning, her ~~last~~ parting words to me were words of encouraging support to come to this hearing armed with the support of Michael Hooker as well as the many strong supporter of this University here in this room this morning. N.B: Kerr Scott, Holshouser, President Friday.

my friends + colleagues

- Among the 50 states, North Carolina stands alone in her strong and historic support of higher education. This state has in large part defined itself by the character of its great university -- yesterday, today and it is my hope, tomorrow. This state has invested generously in the University of North Carolina for more than two centuries now. And the return on that investment has been nothing short of remarkable. Today our 16-campus University is acknowledged not just as the oldest, but as one of the very best public university systems in this country and one of this state's greatest assets. This is a tribute, first and foremost, to the sustained commitment and leadership of the General Assembly. Yet the passage of time has taken a serious toll on the physical condition of our campuses.

- The General Assembly acknowledged the pressing capital needs of the University some two years ago, when you called for a comprehensive, independent study of the equity and adequacy of all University facilities, as well as for the development of a detailed capital plan to address identified shortcomings.

- Over the past 18 months, consultant Eva Klein has engaged the Board of Governors in one of the most thorough, well-documented assessments of capital facilities ever conducted by a university system. Like you, we were at first stunned by the magnitude and seriousness of the problems identified: a crushing backlog of deferred maintenance; the imperative to renovate and retrofit outmoded science facilities and other buildings for modern uses; and the need for new and updated facilities to manage projected enrollment growth of nearly 50,000 students.

- So as we approached the completion of the assignment given to the Unviersity by the General Assembly, we asked Eva to help us forge a rigorous capital plan that was in proper alignment with the University's enrollment planning and the academic missions of each campus. We believe the Phase I five-year plan ratified by the Board of Governors and transmitted to the legislature accomplishes this goal. To lessen the need for new space, UNC has adopted the most stringent space-utilization standards of any public university system in the nation, and in planning for enrollment growth, we will use existing capacity to the fullest extent possible and promote economies of scale.

- Over the years, the General Assembly has been generous to UNC when capital funds were available. But as so starkly revealed by Eva's report, North Carolina's traditional pay-as-you-go approach to capital funding will fall far short of the amount needed to repair, modernize, and expand UNC facilities. We are grateful that Treasurer Boyles brought his vast experience and expertise to the problem and helped devise a sound, fiscally responsible solution. And we are equally grateful that this proposed financing strategy has been embraced by President Pro Tem Basnight, Speaker Black, Governor Hunt, and many others business and government leaders. The Chancellors of our campuses and their staffs have worked intensively to provide the detailed information about facility needs and building condition.

- The General Assembly's approval of the financing legislation advanced in Senate Bill 912 and House Bill 1481 would provide a rare opportunity for us to recapitalize—to rebuild—the University of North Carolina for a stronger future. Such investment now is absolutely essential if we are to prepare for unprecedented enrollment growth; to prepare our campuses to take advantage of technological change and to be more productive and competitive in research and technology transfer. Never before in the history of America has a university education been more important. ~~For~~ We are witnessing the transition to a knowledge-based economy in which our greatest competitive advantage is our people and the skills, innovation, and know-how they bring to the table.

- For more than two centuries, the fortunes and future of UNC and the state of North Carolina have been inextricably linked. Our forefathers had the vision, the faith, and the courage to create the first public university in America. Today we ask for that same sort of vision. I ask you to make an investment in an institution that is a proven income-generator for our state. I urge you to invest in the University in the spirit of your forebears—in the certainly that this is an investment in our future.

EDITORIAL

N.C. university system needs funds to shore up facilities

UNC President Molly Broad's first couple of years in North Carolina have brought some pleasant surprises and some major challenges.

Broad was delighted by the "love affair" between North Carolinians and their university system, she said, but dismayed to find the degree to which the 16-campus system is micro-managed by state legislators and regulations.

Broad and the UNC Board of Governors were more than dismayed, they were "astonished" she said, when an independent consultant they hired at the direction of the General Assembly reported on the university system's capital fund needs.

"The university is unbelievably undercapitalized for our current mission," she said, "Much less for the challenges we face."

More than 800 buildings system-wide are in serious need of repair. Some are in such bad condition the consultant recommended they be torn down and replaced. The cost to do maintenance that has been too long deferred and to retrofit 1950s buildings for teaching 21st-century science and technology: $3 billion. The cost to meet the challenge of providing services for an increased enrollment of 50,000 students expected in the next 10 years: $3.9 billion. Total capital needs: $6.9 billion.

Two factors are primarily responsible for the sad state of many of the university system's buildings. First, the state has always funded its capital fund needs on a pay-as-you-go basis. Legislators have been generous to the university when funds were available, but funds weren't always available. Moreover, the way legislators have been lobbied for specific buildings for specific campuses has favored new construction over maintenance or renovation of old buildings. Second, before 1993, the state didn't provide a steady source of maintenance funds. The amount the university system has received since then has not been nearly enough to address the need for maintenance too long deferred and the need to modernize antiquated buildings.

Broad and her team have worked closely with state treasurer Harlan Boyles to come up with a plan for addressing UNC's desperate capital fund needs. They've put together two pieces of proposed legislation that would allow the system to begin solving the problem.

The first would permit the state to issue limited obligation bonds to finance capital needs. Tax dollars would not be legally obligated to pay for projects funded this way. The projects themselves would be pledged as security on the debt. But the state would, of course, have a moral obligation to pay for the projects from state appropriations over a specified number of years. One big advantage is that the bond money would create a predictable revenue stream.

The second piece of legislation would permit the UNC Board of Governors to issue bonds to be repaid from revenue it receives on rents, fees, investment earnings on endowment funds, etc. The university would not be allowed to issue bonds pledging to repay them with state appropriations or with tuition receipts.

About 60 percent of the total capital needs would be paid for with state bonds and about 40 percent with the university bonds. That's consistent with the fact that over the past 75 years, more than 40 percent of capital construction on UNC campuses has been funded with money from private giving or other money not appropriated by the General Assembly.

Broad insists that one of the primary goals those designing these proposals had in mind was to avoid the need for significant increases in in-state tuition.

Treasurer Boyle's office has prepared two pieces of draft legislation and they've been discussed with the leadership in the state House and Senate. They proposed legislation is currently under review by legislative staff. Broad's hope is that the legislation will be introduced and approved during the current session. Otherwise, the university will, in all likelihood, get very little capital funding during the current year. That would be a tragedy given the extent of the need and the crush of students on their way.

North Carolina has one of the oldest and best university systems in the country. It is one of the state's most valuable assets and one of its proudest treasures. It's an investment we must protect and enhance.

Q&A: UNC President Molly Broad charts future

Editor's note: University of North Carolina President Molly Broad recently met with the Asheville Citizen-Times Editorial Board. Following are her comments and her responses to questions from the board.

Broad: One of the major priorities for the University of North Carolina over the coming years will be to serve an unprecedented increase in projected enrollment – something like 50,000 more students over the course of the next 10 years. Part of how we have been addressing preparation for that enrollment growth has included evaluating the condition of our physical facilities and determining what physical changes we will need to accommodate that growth.

We were encouraged in doing that by the Legislature that wrote a special provision that mandated that the university hire an independent outside consulting service and build a 10-year capital plan for all 16 campuses...

The staggering conclusion of that analysis is that the university is dramatically undercapitalized and the estimated cost of that recapitalization of the university is $6.9 billion over 10 years. Three billion of it – nearly half of the entire amount – is for rehabilitation and modernization of existing facilities. There are some 800 buildings across the 16 campuses that comprise the university that will require major repair and renovation. And that is wh[illegible]l lead the $3 billion worth of [illegible]nization costs ...

We have a proposal that 60 percent of this $6.9 billion over 10 years would be funded by the state and 40 percent by the university.

We have been operating the university in a pay-as-you-go way, a phrase that does not accurately depict what is meant, because what we have really been doing is, as a state, putting money into a capital budget from year to year on the basis of what is left over.

So the state has been providing money on whatever is left over after the operating budget has been funded and some years it has been very little; other years it has been seemingly quite generous. The last two years that has averaged $120 million. Over the last 10 years we have received $87 million on average per year in capital. But it has been wholly inadequate to the needs of what is now a huge university and one that is very important to the future of the state. And so the conclusion was that this method of financing capital was inadequate to the current and future needs of the state. And that we needed to find some way of infusing additional capital.

We w[illegible]very closely with the state treasurer who has been the architect for gaining the triple A bond rating – the only state in the country, I believe, that has this high bond rating – by engaging in fiscally prudent actions on the part of the state. So that was the first place that we turned to in seeking advice and help because although our needs are great, it seemed essential that we find a fiscally prudent strategy for addressing those needs. And so we've worked closely with (state Treasurer) Harlan Boyles in the design in the development of a legislative initiative that would authorize two kinds of bonds, one on the state's balance sheet and the other on the university's balance sheet to simply define the differences between the two kinds of instruments.

The state bonds would be issued in the name of the university with some kind of property lien, some building that would be pledged against the bonds for the bond-holders, but coupled with an expression of legislative intent to fund on an annual basis the debt service to repay those bonds.

But other revenues, whether it is from residents halls, parking fees, earnings on endowment, athletic fees, research grants and contracts, all of the other sources of revenue would be pledged by the university to support those bonds. If you look at what the rating agencies say about the state of North Carolina, Moody's or Standard and Poors, that have given us this triple A rating, you would find quite intere[illegible]

"I will not be at all surprised if we see a quite significant escalation in post baccalaureate education (in Western North Carolina) and everywhere around the state. Whether that post baccalaureate education will in all cases lead to what you and I see as a master's degree or Ph.D., I think is less clear."

ingly that the investment of this state in its universities is viewed as one of the major factors for the economic strength of North Carolina. And the investment of prior generations in creating such a strong university is viewed as an important part with a significant return on that investment.

So why would Harlan Boyles recommend as strongly as he is recommending and supporting these instruments? In part it is explained by what the rating agency says about the underlying economic strength of North Carolina. And in part it is that the university of North Carolina is an asset of the state. It is owned by the state, it is one of the most important assets of this state and failure to invest in and maintain these facilities, not only will escalate the cost over the long haul but diminish the effectiveness of the university – which after all is a major contributor to the growth and prosperity of the state.

And so the state treasurer is actively supporting this initiative. We are seeking authorization from the General Assembly, hopefully during this session of the legislature. Otherwise it appears we may not have any capital budget in this session of the General Assembly. We would like to get at implementation of the plan.

Question: Most of us are familiar with the bonds that are authorized via referenda. These would not be authorized that way. Talk about the importance of those bonds in the context of how you have framed them, without going to the people.

Broad: I think there are several important reasons for doing it the way Harlan has proposed. One of those is that this will be a plan that evolves from year to year on the basis of what enrollment growth we actually realize.... We have laid out a plan that would fully utilize each of the campuses and as you know some of our campuses are small. They don't achieve the economies of scale and our plan anticipates that those campuses would grow more rapidly than the large campuses.

Question: Including UNCA?

Broad: Except UNC Asheville, where the mission is being an undergraduate liberal arts program with small classes. UNCA and the School of the Arts would be the exception to the general notion. Now, if our assumptions aren't realized and some of those small campuses like North Carolina A&T, Elizabeth City State University, Western Carolina, etc., if they don't grow as we plan, we are going to adapt this plan accordingly from year to year. General obligation bonds, in that sense, are a very blunt instrument. You get to write one proposition that goes on the ballot. You typically have to spell out each and every project, and it just didn't seem as if was going to work for what is clearly a dynamic and changing set of circumstances. And we also felt it was important for the General Assembly to evaluate the effectiveness of implementation from construction management and cost accountability and planning ...

Question: Is there the risk that tuition might have to be raised somewhere down the road to help repay the university's portion of that? Meaning that while tuition itself couldn't necessarily be used, by raising tuition, you could free up money from some other source, endowments or some other source?

Broad: That is quite explicitly not the intention ...

Question: Who is going to set the priorities for which buildings should be funded and will this alleviate some of the politics?

Broad: The procedure will be as it has been. That is, each campus will build its capital plan and capital priorities. That plan will be reviewed by the Board of Governors. I would say we are so much better informed today than the university was, say 10 years ago, about what our needs are. I think our priorities are going to be clearer, cleaner, stronger. But it will go to the General Assembly. And the General Assembly then will approve a capital plan and capital expenditures for each new capital construction project. What is different is where the financing source will come from.

Question: Here in Asheville just a mile from where we sit right now, the dropout rate of African-American male students is almost 60 percent. Do you have a concern that unless something is done by the university system or by the public that underwrites secondary education in Asheville and throughout our state that the university system – particularly the top-rated schools, like UNC-Chapel Hill – could become a university for the elite, for those who are white, whose families and communities support them and help them get through school?

Broad: Such an outcome would be inconsistent with all the history and the ideals of this university from its very earliest conception – more than 200 years ago, and would be inconsistent with the pattern right up to today.

From the university's perspective, I believe the greater problem is the college-going rate. It isn't the character or the diversity or the openness of the university. It's that not enough North Carolinians try to come to the university. Our educational attainment is below the national average ... So one of the strategies that we're embarking upon is a program we call Pathways that would begin with youngsters in the seventh grade and with their parents to talk to them about career options, to lay out what they need to take in high school in order to be admissible to the university and to help their parents plan for the cost of the university education....

Question: Do you have any specific ways or suggestions for high schools to do a better job preparing students for college.

Broad: Well, we are giving some serious thought to utilizing new approaches that are described as portfolio evaluation as a part of admission to the university, and I think, by extension, requirements for high school graduation. One of the main thrusts of these portfolios is for students to demonstrate, not just in a test score but to actually demonstrate through their own work what they know and can do.

"I have begun to gather a group of people who are willing to help to frame an approach and a strategy to assist the university in getting freed up from the regulatory red tape."

Question: Western North Carolinians claim that they don't have opportunities for graduate education here. I wonder if you acknowledge that as a real need and if there are plans to enhance those offerings?

Broad: ...I will not be at all surprised if we see a quite significant escalation in post baccalaureate education here and everywhere around the state. Whether that post baccalaureate education will in all cases lead to what you and I see as a master's degree or Ph.D., I think is less clear. Some of these may be intensive post baccalaureate experiences that lead to a variety of kinds of certificates, but I believe that graduate level education will be and must be expanded...

Question: You have been here about a year and a half. What has been a surprise?

Broad: Most of the surprises have been very positive. This state has a deep and abiding belief in its university in a way you do not find most places in this country. It is a belief that is rooted to the history of this state in which the university was launched within days after becoming a state and has been sustained over the years. And the university has received support from this state when other parts of the state budget have suffered. It has been amazing truly remarkable sustained commitment to the values of a great university, and the belief on the part of citizens who may have never stepped foot on a university campus.... It is almost a love affair that this state has with its university.

Perhaps the biggest surprise on the negative side might even be the flip side of the coin. Mainly that the state regulates this university, instructs it, micromanages it. These words all have different charges but the essence of it is that the state is intimately involved in guiding the course of the university that in this day and time has resulted in a bureaucracy that makes it very difficult for a university to be nimble. And in a time of great change these campuses have to be nimble, they have to be able to change directions, to start something new, to move quickly and it is very hard to move quickly.

Question: What would it take to change that?

Broad: It's a great challenge to me. But I have begun to talk with wise people who don't have a selfinterest. It's very hard because I have such an abiding self-interest in achieving this. I'm trying to find other people who don't have an ax to grind, who don't have a self-interest.... I have begun to gather a group of people who are willing to help to frame an approach and a strategy to assist the university in getting freed up from the regulatory red tape.

Question: Can you give us one example?

Broad: The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill engaged in a competitive process for who would provide these computers to their incoming students. And they got an incredible deal from IBM. Appalachian State University would like to piggyback onto the terms of that contract. Makes sense, huh?

I signed off on it, said what a great idea. But no dice. The State Office of Procurement wouldn't let us do it. Now I am sure I don't understand all of the laws that they face and for which they need to stand accountable, so I am not being critical. I have not walked in their shoes. But from where I sit, the public purpose has been served. There has been open competition – the lowest price was awarded the contract. A small campus who couldn't leverage that market on their own could be the beneficiary. The vendor was willing. The logic of it is hard for me from where I set to understand, why this doesn't make enormous good sense.

Question: Sometimes we ask visitors who are in positions of authority and responsibility to give themselves a letter grade. So what's the letter grade for your performance?

Broad: Well, we have just spoken about the area where I think my performance is inadequate to the important goal, namely to achieve streamlining of the organization and make it possible for those campuses to be nimble. In other areas of the university, I feel very good about where we're heading and our ability to achieve the goals that we have. So I guess I give myself a B.

Daily News

In-Depth Study Needed Along With Full Truth

It is shocking news to hear that at the University of North Carolina we have some 700 buildings of one type or another which need renovating. But beyond the number of buildings is the estimated cost of repairing those buildings. We read that it will require more than $7 billion to do the complete job as it should be done.

The news about the university property takes on added significance when we read that Harlan Boyles, North Carolina treasurer, has come up with a plan which will bring a good measure of relief. In fact, some UNC leaders are already offering support for the Boyles plan. Molly Broad, president of the Greater University, seems to be enthusiastic about the plan.

Mr. Boyles is well-known as a man who does not believe in spending money foolishly. He is a true conservative, and when he recognizes that North Carolina must do something now about this situation, it seems to be time for all of us to sit up and take notice.

Under the plan as presented and as we understand the state would issue $2 billion in bonds and the university would issue $1.5 billion in bonds. The idea of the university issuing bonds is a new concept for this state to consider. Insofar as we know or believe, state universities have not in past years issued bonds.

Each session of our legislature appropriates money for university use in building repair or renovation. According to Dr. Broad, the money appropriated will just about equal the payments on the bonds on the annual basis.

We look at the proposition and frankly we doubt that there is any newspaper editor in North Carolina who can give a learned opinion on what to do. However, many of us realize the urgent needs and when we look at the Boyles plan, we cannot say that it offers the best answer. But we can and do say that this plan ought to be given in-depth study. We did not realize that we had as many as 700 buildings in need of attention.

Now some of these buildings are dormitories; some are classrooms; some are for special use; all play a part in the overall scheme of educating our young people.

There is one question which people over the state will be asking. Suppose the university cannot pay the annual bill and interest on bonds issued by the university — who pays then? We must suppose that the state of North Carolina must come to the rescue. Still, there are many other questions which will be asked and many answers yet to be given.

This is a huge matter and one which cannot and must not be taken lightly. The university system has been told to prepare to admit some 40,000 more students over the next 20 years.

And while we are dealing the educational cards, never allow us to forget the community college system.

Bonds a creative solution to university needs

As a principle, pay-as-you-go has a lot to recommend it. But it's not always practical.

If we all followed the principle, for instance, most of us wouldn't have houses or cars or other big-ticket items because we'd have to save up the full amount of the cost before we made our purchase.

That's the same way the North Carolina university system has built its buildings and done its repairs and renovations. University administrators ask the General Assembly each year for money to build or renovate certain buildings and the work isn't done until the funds are appropriated by legislators.

But, especially given the state's current growth mode, that isn't working anymore.

A consultant says the 16 university campuses will need about $7 billion (yes, billion) in construction to cope with 800 buildings in need of renovation and repair and to provide enough additional space to care for an anticipated enrollment growth of 48,000 students over the next decade.

There is no way pay-as-you-go can solve that crisis.

So the UNC Board of Governors is asking the General Assembly for legal authority to issue $3.5 billion in bonds. Of that, $2 billion would be repaid by the legislature over the next 20 years.

The other $1.5 billion would be university system bonds that would be repaid from student fees, dormitory rents, research grant overhead, endowment earnings and other non-tuition revenue the universities collect.

UNC President Molly Broad makes a strong case for the "limited obligation" and "special obligation" bonds. Many states and even local governments have used this approach to try to catch up with serious backlogs. So it is not something new — just new for the university system.

We feel particularly optimistic about the wisdom of adopting the bonding program because it is suggested by State Treasurer Harlan Boyles, a very conservative guardian of North Carolina's dollars.

Boyles said Friday, "We're here to help because it's a good investment and the needs are critical. You need an infusion of funds immediately so you can head off some of the deteriorating circumstances you now see."

Senate President Pro Tem Marc Basnight is an enthusiastic backer of Broad's proposal — an important ally in getting the necessary legislation passed.

One problem that could arise is that the General Assembly would stop appropriating building funds during the years it is paying debt service on the bonds. That would be a foolish mistake because it would be creating an additional backlog of expensive building repair and renovation that future legislators would be forced to deal with.

Serious problems require innovative and creative solutions. Legislators should honor the Boyles-Broad plan and give quick approval to bills permitting the $3.5 billion in bonds.

Some ideas we could do without Pssst. Can I interest you in a crummy idea? How about six of them from the General Assembly, which has been meeting since January in Raleigh?

Now don't get me wrong. The legislature has been doing many worthwhile things during the session. But I don't count playing loan shark, sugar daddy, bookie and gate keeper among those worthwhile things. Here are six crummy ideas being debated in the legislature:

Rob Christensen

CRUMMY IDEA ONE: Let's call it the loan-sharking enabling act. The finance companies want the legislature to give them authority to jack up interest rates — in some instances as high as 36 percent. This is at a time when most interest rates are near historic lows.

This could cost the state's waitresses, janitors, maids and other working stiffs up to $40 million per year. Many of these finance companies are not mom-and-pop operations but are subsidiaries of such banking giants as First Union and Bank of America.

Two bills affecting different parts of the industry have already passed either the House or the Senate. What's next, a bill, enabling finance companies to hire somebody to break your knee caps if you don't pay on time?

CRUMMY IDEA TWO: More sweetheart deals for big business. The state has been involved in a bidding war with other states to provide taxpayer incentives to companies that create jobs.

I'm not a hard-liner here. I can see giving money for a Nucor or a Wisconsin Tissue to open big plants in poor rural counties. But since when is go-go Charlotte an impoverished area? The Senate last week passed a bill that would allow financial incentives for US Airways and for TIAA-CREF, a New York-based pension-fund manager, both of which are planning new facilities in Charlotte. The bill also extends the incentives program, called the Bill Lee Act, from 2002 until 2007 even though studies have yet to prove that incentives are worth all the money.

CRUMMY IDEA THREE: The lottery. Turns the state into a bookie, promotes gambling and is a notoriously unreliable source of money for the state. Other than that, it's a great idea. Bills are pending in the Senate and House.

CRUMMY IDEA FOUR: Incumbents lining their own pockets. The House has been considering a bill to provide longevity pay for lawmakers — ranging from an extra $669 after five years to an extra $2,008 after 20 years. Companies award longevity pay to valuable long-term employees to reward their loyalty and to help keep them from changing jobs. Tell me again, why we should reward legislators who stick around 20 years?

CRUMMY IDEA FIVE: The Dark Ages are back. The legislature last week made Bermuda Run, a gated golf course community near Winston-Salem, an incorporated town. This idea was very popular in the Middle Ages, when cities built walls around them to keep away raiding Normans or Vikings. I can see Bermuda Run having trouble with turf grass, but Visigoths?

CRUMMY IDEA SIX: The UNC Board of Governors wants authority to borrow $3.5 billion for university construction without submitting the bonds to the voters in the form of a referendum. I'm not saying repairs and new buildings aren't needed. But whatever happened to faith in the citizens who built one the country's great university systems? I bet the finance companies would be willing to loan UNC the money, if Molly Broad doesn't mind paying a 36 percent vigorish.

UNC group pushes bond bills

UNC's Board of Governors steps up efforts to find new ways to finance buildings.

By Tim Thornton

The lobbying has been extensive. It's about to become intense.

The UNC Board of Governors Committee on Public Affairs met by conference call Thursday afternoon to coordinate the push for legislation that would give UNC two new ways to finance buildings. UNC officials consider the legislation critical to raising the $6.9 billion a consultant's report says the system needs to spend on its campuses between now and 2008.

WANT TO KNOW MORE?

UNC-TV will air a segment on the state of UNC's buildings and the proposals for funding at 10 p.m. Friday.

Two UNC finance bills are expected to be introduced next week.

One proposal would allow the state to issue bonds using university property as collateral. Called limited obligation bonds, they would be paid through state appropriations.

The second proposal would allow the Board of Governors to issue bonds that would be paid with virtually any university-generated income except tuition.

"One of the concerns I have right now is that we don't lose our sense of urgency," said Clifton Metcalf, UNC's vice president for state governmental affairs. "This session is really moving along."

In the past, funding options for capital projects have been limited to general obligation bonds, which require voter approval; self-liquidating projects, which are paid for by the revenue a project generates; and pay-as-you-go, the option the system has depended most heavily upon.

Pay-as-you-go, according to a consultant's report, "has put at risk the university's ability to compete nimbly in an increasingly competitive, technology-driven economy."

Legislation that would authorize the new funding options hasn't been filed, but the campaign to convince legislators to support the bills is already more than 2 months old.

UNC President Molly Broad and state Treasurer Harlan Boyles have presented the universities' case to the General Assembly leadership, the chairmen of the House appropriations and finance committees, the House Democratic caucus, the House Republican caucus and the House black caucus.

Metcalf has made the schools' case to the Senate GOP caucus and the governor's staff.

Broad and Ben Ruffin, chairman of the UNC Board of Governors, have briefed the chairmen of the board of trustees of each of the universities in the system. The chairmen have passed on the information to the trustees. The trustees have been calling and visiting legislators.

Broad and J.B. Milliken, UNC's vice president for public affairs and university advancement, have been visiting newspaper editorial boards.

Members of the Board of Governors have been assigned to contact specific legislators.

On Thursday, members of the Committee on Public Affairs were assigned to make sure their fellow board members make those calls.

Committee member Helen Marvin urged her colleagues to contact legislators they would vote for, even if those legislators aren't on their assigned list. "That makes an impression on them if they know they can count on you for a vote," Marvin said.

Jim Phillips, the committee chairman, emphasized the importance of meeting with legislators rather than contacting them by telephone or mail.

"This has got to be a conversation," Phillips said. "We've got a lot of information to impart."

Metcalf told the committee that the response from lawmakers has been very positive so far.

Some have questioned the magnitude of UNC's building and renovation plans, but "you hear very few people who are openly opposed to it," he said.

Metcalf also said, even though the bills haven't been filed yet, advocates for community colleges and other groups have expressed an interest in having their names added to the bill — to allow them to use the same bonding procedures the legislation would give to UNC. That's something Boyles warned the Board of Governors against.

Former Gov. James Holshouser, a member of the committee, echoed Boyles' warning.

"I'm afraid if you get too many people on the Christmas tree it's going to fall down," he said.

Community colleges have own building plan

● Community colleges may benefit from UNC spending proposals.

BY TIM THORNTON
Staff Writer

On Thursday, members of the UNC Board of Governors worried that community colleges might try to hitch a ride on the board's request to trade pay-as-you-go financing for bonds.

On Friday, the president of the community college system said the deal had been done more than a week ago.

"I'm afraid if you get too many people on the Christmas tree it's going to fall down," former Gov. James Holshouser warned his fellow UNC board members.

The next day, Martin Lancaster, president of the community college system, said the General Assembly leadership has assured him that "we also will benefit from any solution that will develop to serve university infrastructure needs."

to raising the $6.9 billion a consultant's report says the system needs to spend on its campuses by 2008.

Two bills are being prepared that would give the UNC system and the state more options for financing construction.

One would let the state issue bonds using university property as collateral. These would be paid off with state appropriations. The second bill would let the Board of Governors issue bonds that could be paid off with virtually any university-generated income except tuition.

In the past, the university has had only three ways to pay for building projects:

- General-obligation bonds, which require voter approval;
- Self-liquidating projects, which are paid for by the revenue a project generates;
- Pay-as-you-go, the option the system has depended most heavily upon.

A consultant who has been studying the UNC system for more than 1½ years said the principal weakness of a pay-as-you-go policy is it deals with year-to-year needs without a long-range plan.

Pay-as-you-go, the report added, has favored new construction over renovation, maintenance and modernization.

It also "has put at risk the university's ability to compete nimbly in an increasingly competitive, technology-driven economy."

"If our proposal has long coattails or otherwise helps the community colleges then we would be pleased."

Molly Broad,
UNC president

When state Treasurer Harlan Boyles unveiled the legislative proposals at the Board of Governors' May meeting, he warned against allowing too many amendments to get attached to the UNC bills.

"If you load the wagon too heavily, no matter how worthy the causes ... it may be self-defeating," he said.

"My initial reaction," Boyles said Friday, "was that we shouldn't load the wagon too heavily until we establish some comfort and direction from the General Assembly."

Lancaster said the community colleges have overcome that concern.

Community college buildings already can be used as collateral, Boyles said: County governments own them, and local governments have been able to use this kind of bonding for years.

The difference, he said, is that now the bonds must be paid off with local government funds. If community colleges piggyback onto the UNC legislation, the state will foot the bill.

That change, Boyles warned in May, could make the legislation too expensive to get through the General Assembly.

Instead of piggybacking on the UNC bill, the community colleges have their own bill creating new bonding power. The community college's bill can't be exactly like the proposed UNC legislation because "the state can't place a lien on property it doesn't own," Boyles said.

The bill being created for community colleges would let counties issue bonds, using community-college property as collateral, but the state would agree to pay off the bond.

UNC President Molly Broad said she doesn't believe the amount of money attached to the community-college bonds is great enough to turn the General Assembly away from the new bonds.

The UNC package includes $3.5 billion in bonds. The highest figure being discussed for the community college bonds is $500 million.

UNC is refining its building plan

6-9-99

By TIM THORNTON, Staff Writer
News & Record

Greensboro's university chancellors are happy about UNC's tentative building plan.

"I'm very pleased," UNCG Chancellor Patricia Sullivan said. "I'm really pleased if we can get this."

N.C. A&T Chancellor Edward Fort said he is pleased because it acknowledges a consultant's findings that A&T and UNCG are among the neediest campuses in the UNC system and sets to do something about that.

At the General Assembly's request, the UNC Board of Governors has developed a 10-year plan for construction, renovation and modernization on UNC campuses. The board hired Eva Klein & Associates to evaluate UNC's buildings and infrastructure and to determine what needs to be done so they can accommodate the system's needs through 2008. After 18 months, the firm produced a plan with a $6.9 billion price tag.

On Monday, Klein presented the board's Committee on Budget and Finance with a more detailed 5-year plan, one that names specific projects on specific campuses. "It is important that you realize this is a draft," Klein told the committee.

Today, the university chancellors will get a chance to share their opinions of that draft with Klein, UNC President Molly Broad and UNC general administration staff.

The report officially will be presented to the full Board of Governors on Thursday.

system, according to the version the committee saw Monday. N.C. State would get $300 million, the second-highest total.

The report recommends that UNCG and A&T each receive $150 million, which is money Klein said Greensboro's campuses desperately need.

"That's mainly corrective work for a campus that is just about falling down," Klein said of UNCG. "The same is true of A&T."

"Greensboro has buildings going back 90 years with only a paint job," Klein said. "There is a huge, huge, inventory of aged and crumbling space on those campuses dating back to the 19th century."

UNCG would get money for three new buildings, the renovation and modernization of six others, and improvements in road, heating, water, electrical and sewer systems. The campus also would get $10 million to buy more land.

The draft calls for $36.4 million for a new science building, $5.25 million for new research space and $21.6 million for a replacement for the McIver building.

"If we had our druthers," Sullivan said, "McIver would be our first priority. ... In order to do a new McIver we have to get the land."

McIver was originally on the list as a renovation project, but Sullivan said renovating the building would be more expensive than replacing it. The Board of Governors may consider a renovation project under those circumstances if the building has historical significance, Sullivan said, but "that's not a historic building. ... It's a building in very bad shape."

The new science building was in the works before Klein's study began. "They're designing it now," Sullivan said.

UNCG's Petty Science Building is on a list with A&T's Hines Hall and a science building at N.C. Central University that Klein is particularly adamant about replacing.

"We morally can't teach science in those buildings any longer," she said.

A&T also would get money for two new buildings, 12 building renovations, a new chancellor's residence, improved walkways, a bicycle lane and land purchases. The plan also mentions five demolition projects and sets aside money for a pedestrian mall on Laurel Street with a bell tower to provide a distinctive image to the university."

Fort said, "We have a need for a modernization of the entrance to our campus so it presents a look as a university should."

But one of the largest single expenses is a central cooling plant. The price tag is $26.25 million.

The other big-ticket projects include $29.47 million for a classroom and laboratory complex, $21.8 million for Hines Hall's replacement, and $10.7 million for renovations to Carver Hall.

There's also $6.3 million to buy land. "That's something we've been seeking for years," Fort said.

Klein told the committee some chancellors seem worried that the second half of this 10-year plan won't happen. Neither Sullivan nor Fort is among those worried chancellors.

Sullivan said she is convinced that if UNC uses money wisely and shows what it can do for students, faculty and the university system, the General Assembly will provide the funding that the Klein report indicates the system needs.

If the state legislators weren't serious, Fort asked, "Why would they have instructed the system to commission such a study?"

Although the projects in this draft "cover substantially the things that seem to be the most pressing needs on each campus," Klein said, this represents the first half of a 10-year plan.

"I have to tell you," she said, "there will still be needs at the end of the day when this project is over."

Critical needs for the UNC System

Remember the muffler commercial that warned: "Pay me now or pay me later."

The UNC System's Board of Governors is facing such a situation, but in reality, the governors have no choice. They need $7 billion now to prop up the infrastructure of this state's most important resource, its university system.

That is the price tag placed on the capital needs of the 16-member university system. It's a lot of money for a state that is cutting taxes, but state Treasurer Harlan Boyles has a plan to raise it. What the plan needs is the signature of our General Assembly.

The UNC system has traditionally taken a pay-as-you-go approach to capital needs for its member institutions. That approach has been much more favorable to the more prestigious universities, such as the ones in Chapel Hill and Raleigh, than it has to minority universities, such as the one in Pembroke.

The University of North Carolina at Pembroke is hoping that the current legislative session delivers money for a regional center. A new science building is also on UNCP's most-needed list.

Boyles' plan would provide enough cash that both of UNCP's needs could be met, and would also help assure that none of our universities would have to settle for the shortest stick.

Boyles proposes that the General Assembly approve the sale of two new kinds of bonds. The state would repay one set of bonds with money that it has used annually to met the UNC System's capital needs. The universities themselves would pay off the second set of bonds with revenue that is generated through dormitory and parking receipts, athletic events, fees and other such sources.

The plan has the support of the governors. Boyles told them earlier this month: "To rely on the pay-as-you-go-system would mean we would be getting further and further behind. And in the eyes of a business person, that would not be good."

Boyles even went so far as to call the funding needs a "moral obligation" that the state must meet. Our lawmakers would be wise to listen to Boyles and move quickly to douse this threat to a state treasure.

UNC system seeks loans for renovations

Pay as you go method can't keep up with 791 buildings

By ERIC FERRERI
The Herald-Sun

DURHAM — Until recently, the UNC system's method of paying for renovations to its buildings was simple.

Need some repairs? No problem, as long as there's cash available. No cash? Then the project gets stuck on the back burner until money is freed.

That system, referred in financing circles as the "pay as you go" method, works relatively well for any single building renovation project. But when you have 791 buildings in need of large-scale improvements, there's no way to find enough cash.

The UNC system's Board of Governors took a dramatic step toward solving that problem Friday, endorsing a plan set forth by State Treasurer Harlan Boyles that would let the state borrow the money to get the work started immediately.

Under two proposed pieces of legislation, bonds would be sold to raise about half of the estimated $6.9 billion the system will need during the next decade to fix and improve decaying laboratories, inadequate classrooms and undersized offices at UNC's 16 universities across the state.

The legislation would provide $3.5 billion that would be spent during the next five years and would take roughly 15 to 20 years to pay back.

For too many years, the UNC system has relied on the shortsighted pay-as-you-go method of financing. Boyles told board members who met Friday at N.C. Central.

"Pay as you go is dependent on resources available at the time," he said. "If there's no money, there's no improvements. We've relied upon, too heavily, a pay as you go system that relied on cash at hand."

And university officials say they don't have time to wait.

Across the system, officials are preparing for an influx of students during the next decade that will surely stretch the boundaries of some campuses. About 48,000 additional students are expected to arrive on UNC campuses in the next 10 years.

This enrollment surge necessitates new residence halls and academic buildings, as well as renovations to existing facilities. Thus, the bonding proposal is all the more vital, Boyles said.

"We face a critically important challenge in accommodating the influx of enrollment we anticipate," said Molly Broad, president of the UNC system.

"If we fail to meet that need, our economy and quality of life in North Carolina will suffer. From our point of view, this [legislation] is an imperative. There are [about] 50,000 students coming our way, and we can't postpone when they arrive at our door."

There are two pieces of legislation that will go to the General Assembly for approval. One is for the sale of limited obligation bonds, which will be sold by the state. As new buildings are built or existing buildings are renovated, those buildings will be used as collateral against the bonds used to pay for the work.

The second type would be special obligation bonds, issued by the university. They will be issued for specific, revenue-producing projects such as a residence hall that brings in student fees or a parking deck that collects parking fees. In those cases, the anticipated revenues will be pledged as collateral.

These funding models, while foreign to UNC, are common at other universities as well as on a smaller scale in many North Carolina cities and counties, officials say.

For many university officials, the money can't come fast enough. Many UNC campuses have found themselves handcuffed by a lack of money to do wide-scale improvements.

A recent higher education consultant's report on the state of disrepair of so many buildings made many officials take notice.

"The university is one of the most important assets of this state, yet we find that asset is in significantly diminished condition," Broad said.

"Buildings have deteriorated. Buildings that no longer serve the research function of a major university."

On the UNC Chapel Hill campus, officials have long advocated for an alternative to the pay-as-you-go method of financing, said James Ramsey, Carolina's vice chancellor for finance and administration.

"It's the way to go," he said of the bonding proposal. "We've been promoting debt financing for six to nine months because of the needs on our campus. We think it's critical."

Of the 791 buildings in need of repair, officials have found 19 that may be demolished because the cost of renovating them would be more than simply replacing them. But officials still must evaluate whether those buildings can be converted for other uses. And some of those buildings also may hold historical significance that would necessitate their preservation.

Many legislators were caught by surprise two months ago when officials first started talking dollar figures in relation to capital repairs. But by now, UNC officials say they're confident legislators have gotten past the sticker shock and understand the need for sweeping improvements.

"We're asking for things that are a dire necessity, to protect our investment," said Ben Ruffin, chairman of the Board of Governors. "They understand that."

Rob Lamme, a spokesman for N.C. Senate President Pro Tempore Marc Basnight, said Friday that Basnight is convinced the bond issuance is the best way to pay the overwhelming costs.

"The UNC system has been an engine for our state's economic development through this entire century, and he wants to make sure that remains true in the next one," Lamme said.

UNC will seek power to issue bonds

DURHAM — The UNC Board of Governors agreed Friday to ask the legislature for new laws that would allow the state and the university to borrow billions of dollars for campus construction.

University leaders hope to secure at least $3.5 billion through bonds to move ahead quickly on an estimated $6.9 billion in overdue renovations and new buildings. They have said they need extensive improvements to be able to accommodate an extra 48,000 students in the next decade as the college-age population swells.

State Treasurer Harlan Boyles, who has advised UNC President Molly Broad on financing options, presented the plan to the board Friday at N.C. Central University.

"As the state's banker, I am here to say we want to be of help," Boyles told the governing board. "We're here to be of help because it's a good investment and the needs are critical. You need an infusion of funds immediately so you can head off some of the deteriorating circumstances you now see."

The board unanimously endorsed Boyles' suggestion for bonds — to be issued by the state and the university.

In the coming weeks, legislators will debate bills that would authorize two types of bonds, neither of which would require voter approval.

One bill would permit the state to issue "limited obligation" bonds, which would essentially create a moral obligation — but not a legal one — on the state to repay the debt. UNC leaders hope to secure $2 billion through this method — to be repaid over 20 years by annual appropriations from the legislature.

The other bill would allow the UNC board to issue "special obligation" bonds to be repaid from defined sources of income — dorm rents, student fees, endowment earnings and overhead receipts from research grants. Tuition could not be used. UNC leaders hope to raise $1.5 billion through this type of bond, which is very similar to revenue bonds already used routinely to build parking decks and residence halls.

UNC Board member Jim Phillips Jr. said he was optimistic about the plan's chances in the legislature. It already has received strong support from Senate President Pro Tem Marc Basnight.

UNC System President Molly Broad and State Treasurer Harlan Boyles will unveil a plan Friday that would use bonds to help pay for billions of dollars in renovation and construction needs at the system's 16 campuses.

A consultant has warned UNC system leaders it will take up to $6.9 billion to refurbish and expand campuses to accommodate an anticipated enrollment growth of 48,000 students in the next decade.

Broad and Boyles hope bonds can pay that bill. The bonds would not need voter approval, even though some of them would be repaid through tax dollars. The legislature would set the amount to be borrowed, although it's unlikely they would agree to the full $6.9 billion.

If the legislature signs onto the plan, it would mark a departure from the state's usual pay-as-you-go strategy for such building needs — a strategy that has delayed many campus projects since ready money tends to be scarce.

"We have 50,000 more students who will be heading our way in 10 years," Broad said Wednesday. "Since we can't postpone their arrival, we can't wait to update these facilities."

While Broad has already enlisted the support of legislative leaders, some legislators are wary when they hear the word "bond."

"It's easy to say, 'Let's go out and get bonds,' " said N.C. Sen. Bob Rucho, R-Mecklenburg. "Bonds are no panacea. . . . That's just not the answer to all the questions."

Rucho admits, though, that number crunchers have thrown some startling figures at the UNC system this year.

Eva Klein, a consultant hired by the state to assess the condition of all 16 universities, found $6.9 billion in needed improvements and new construction. She urged legislators to fund that bill by looking beyond their annual budget allotments.

In a separate study, university leaders have predicted the system's 16 schools must absorb 48,000 more students in the next decade to handle the state's growth.

Finding the money to handle all of that is the big problem.

Traditionally, the state annually provides the system money for new building and renovation needs, but the amount is inconsistent. While it has averaged $86.7 million since 1989, it has ranged from $1.6 million in 1990 to $125 million in 1997.

"This (plan) will begin the public dialogue. It's a conversation that could go on for some time."

MOLLY BROAD
UNC SYSTEM PRESIDENT

Still, it's never been enough to do all the work that needs to be done, Broad said.

Now, with Klein's sobering billion-dollar figures, Broad and state treasurer Boyles are calling on the state to provide more money up front through bonds.

Under the plan she and Boyles have penned and will present to the Board of Governors Friday:

- The state would be asked to issue limited obligation bonds. To pay them off, the state would redirect the UNC system's annual capital budget to debt relief.

For example, rather than give the system $200 million next year to fix and build facilities, the legislature would use that money to pay off the bonds.

That way, Broad says, the system would get its capital funding up front in a lump sum without the legislature "breaking the bank."

- The Board of Governors would have authority to issue bonds for campuses needing the money. The campuses would then repay their debt through money collected from such things as dorm rents, food receipts and parking fees — but not tuition.

Broad hopes for legislative approval this session. If she gets it, the bonds could be issued within six months and the system could completely finance partially-funded projects, renovate the most desperate facilities and build new ones to accommodate growth at the system's burgeoning campuses, like UNC Charlotte.

UNC system board endorses bonds for its capital needs

The board that governs North Carolina's university system endorsed a plan Friday to seek billions of dollars in bonds to pay for extensive renovations and build new facilities at the 16 UNC campuses.

UNC System President Molly Broad and State Treasurer Harlan Boyles have drafted two pieces of legislation that would help pay for $6.9 billion in rehab and construction costs recently identified by a consultant.

One piece of legislation would permit the state to issue "limited obligation" bonds that would be repaid with capital funding the state usually gives the UNC system annually.

The second piece would give the Board of Governors power to issue "special obligation" bonds to campuses. The campuses would repay the bonds with money raised through such means as parking, student fees or dorm rents.

The proposal gives the UNC system the money to make critical repairs up front, rather than forcing it wait for the money piecemeal in its annual budget. The plan now goes to the General Assembly to seek sponsors.

Broad hopes to see legislative action this session.

Moral obligations

Funding proposal for UNC's critical needs makes sense

Jaws dropped and eyes popped when an education consultant told the University of North Carolina board of governors that the 16-campus system had capital needs approaching $7 billion. How could the state keep up with repairs and renovations, let alone provide space for an expected 48,000 additional students, at a time when lawmakers were merrily cutting taxes and limiting choices?

Boyles

Here's how, says state Treasurer Harlan Boyles: Create two new kinds of bonds that will allow the university to jump-start its capital needs response with more than $3 billion in spending for renovations and new facilities, and pay the money back over 20 years. Mr. Boyles, one of the nation's tightest-fisted state financial officers, has developed bond proposals that he says other states have used to deal with similar problems. "It's a good investment and the needs are critical," he added.

His proposal would work this way: The legislature would create and the state would issue limited obligation bonds that would be repaid through annual legislative appropriations equal to about what the legislature has allocated to the university for capital spending over the past decade. The General Assembly would also create special obligation bonds to be issued by the UNC board of governors and repaid through revenue streams available on the campuses — dormitory and parking receipts, athletic proceeds, research overhead and other sources of cash.

This would represent a starkly different approach to funding capital needs on UNC campuses — but it also represents the most promising approach. New tax sources seem out of the question, and the legislature faces tough choices this year thanks to tax cuts and having to repay taxpayers for levies that have been ruled unconstitutional. The old pay-as-you-go method is inadequate at a time when there are so many construction needs and when so many new students will arrive on university campuses in the next decade.

"To rely on the pay-as-you-go-system would mean we would be getting further and further behind," Mr. Boyles told the board of governors Friday. "And in the eyes of any business person, that would not be good."

Mr. Boyles' proposal, developed in conjunction with university leaders, makes sense. Key legislators are beginning to recognize that, and are warming to the idea. Some lawmakers think it's such a good idea, in fact, that they are proposing the community colleges piggyback on the plan, too.

But that might limit the effectiveness of the bonds in several significant ways, hamstringing the state's ability to provide needed facilities on UNC campuses. The university system, after all, is the brightest gem and most important asset of the state, while community colleges are the crown jewels of the counties. They have significant needs as well, and deserve adequate funding in separate legislation.

UNC President Molly Broad and Treasurer Boyles deserve credit for developing the proposals and building public and legislative support for them. As Mr. Boyles puts it, the funding needs are not so much a legal obligation as "a moral obligation" of the state. The bond plan would turn these unfunded obligations into long-lasting state assets that would contribute to continued progress and economic prosperity. The General Assembly should listen — and approve the UNC bonds package.

Official: Proposed UNC construction bonds could benefit ECU

■ UNC President Molly Broad and state Treasurer Harlan Boyles will unveil a plan to fund up to $6.9 billion to refurbish and expand the system's 16 campuses.

Staff, wire reports

A plan to use bonds for billions in UNC system construction needs would greatly benefit ECU, one school official said.

University of North Carolina President Molly Broad and state Treasurer Harlan Boyles will unveil a plan today to fund up to $6.9 billion to refurbish and expand the system's 16 campuses to accommodate an anticipated enrollment growth of 48,000 students in the next decade.

The state's General Assembly, which has always appropriated capital funds on a year-to-year basis, will have to approve the plan.

"This would be a major impact to East Carolina if there would be a bond issue and it were to pass," said Richard Ringeisen, ECU vice chancellor for academic affairs.

A bond issue would be an improvement over the pay-as-you-go practice used by universities, including ECU, Ringeisen said.

"ECU could plan when we could construct our buildings as opposed to asking each year for funds from the legislature," he said.

He noted that the more than $30 million in renovations to Joyner Library were funded through state bonds.

A consultant has warned UNC leaders that it will take up to $6.9 billion to prepare for the expected enrollment boom.

"We have 50,000 more students who will be heading our way in 10 years," Ms. Broad said Wednesday. "Since we can't postpone their arrival, we can't wait to update these facilities."

That influx of students will be felt by ECU, triggering the need for more classrooms and laboratories, especially with Chancellor Richard Eakin's goal of increasing enrollment by about 9,000 students in the next 10 years.

Topping ECU's list of building priorities is a science and technology center. The school has asked the state legislature for $53 million to construct the facility.

However, Ringeisen said a bond issue probably will not materialize in time to pay for the center.

"We still hope to have the science and technology building funded (this legislative session), because the bond issue is a relatively long process," he said.

Site preparation is expected to begin this summer using $3 million provided by the state legislature.

If lawmakers are unable to find money for the project this year, bonds "would give us assurance it could be funded in the distant future," Ringeisen said.

"We must have it," he said of the new facility.

The bonds would not need voter approval, even though some of them would be repaid through tax dollars.

The Legislature would set the amount to be borrowed, but it's unlikely that lawmakers would agree to the full $6.9 billion. Boyles has been working with UNC administrators on a borrowing plan legislators can accept.

If the Legislature signs onto the plan, it would mark a departure from the state's usual pay-as-you-go strategy for such building needs — a strategy that has delayed many campus projects.

Traditionally, the state annually provides the UNC system money for new building and renovation needs, but the amount is inconsistent. While it has averaged $86.7 million since 1989, it has ranged from $1.6 million in 1990 to $125 million in 1997.

Still, it's never been enough to do all the work that needs to be done, Broad said.

Now, Ms. Broad and Boyles are calling on the state to provide more money up front through bonds.

Today, Boyles will brief the UNC Board of Governors on two bills. One would authorize limited obligation bonds, the other would allow special obligation bonds.

Boyles compared limited obligation bonds to a home mortgage. They would be secured by liens on university property and paid for through annual appropriations from the General Assembly.

If the General Assembly were to take $200 million and apply that money to debt payment instead of capital projects, UNC could sell $2 billion to $2.5 billion in bonds, roughly a third of what the system needs over the next decade, Boyles said. It would take 15 to 20 years to pay those bonds off, Boyles said. If the whole $6.9 billion were funded that way, the annual debt payment would be about $700 million.

Special obligation bonds would be paid with what Boyles called "unencumbered resources the campuses would generate," for example, various fees charged to students.

The financing proposals are likely to occupy a good deal of the Board of Governors' time this week, beginning with today's meeting of the Committee on Budget and Finance.

"This will begin the public dialogue," Ms. Broad said. "It's a conversation that could go on for some time.

UNC CAPITAL NEEDS

System ditches pay-as-you-go

The UNC system Board of Governors has taken prudent steps to prepare the system's 16 universities for the next century. The board has approved a plan allowing universities to borrow money to pay for critical improvements and renovations.

State lawmakers would be wise to give this timely legislation full consideration when it comes before them. Allowing universities to borrow money by way of general obligation bonds is an idea whose time is past due. The system has traditionally relied on the outdated pay-as-you-go method to pay for its new buildings and renovations.

But the problem with pay-as-you go is that sorely needed capital improvements are often delayed because there is no money on hand to pay for them. And while pay-as-you-go is fiscally prudent in the short term, it could prove to be a long-term liability if buildings on the system's 16 campuses are allowed to further deteriorate. System officials say 791 buildings need repair and that 19 of them may have to be demolished because renovation would be too costly.

The funding plan recommended by State Treasurer Harlan Boyles on Friday calls for $6.9 billion in bonds to be issued over the next 10 years. The money would be used to make badly needed repairs to laboratories, classrooms and offices. Roughly half of that amount, $3.5 billion, would be spent over the next five years.

The plan will come in two parts for state lawmaker's consideration: One would authorize the sale of general obligation bonds by the state. The new buildings would be used as collateral against the bonds to pay for the work. The other would permit universities to issue special obligation bonds. These bonds would be tied to specific revenue-producing projects like residence halls. Fees collected would be pledged as collateral.

The General Assembly's approval of this proposal couldn't come soon enough for a university system expecting 48,000 additional students to flood its 16 campuses over the next 10 years. New dormitories, new academic buildings and major renovations to existing facilities will be in demand before the signatures dry on the documents authorizing the bonds.

"If we fail to meet that need, our economy and quality of life in North Carolina will suffer," says Molly Broad, president of the UNC system. "From our point of view, this is an imperative."

It certainly is.

UNC wants construction bonds

Campuses suffering from decades of neglect

BY JANE STANCILL
STAFF WRITER

The University of North Carolina system, facing a $6.9 billion construction and renovation tab, wants permission from the legislature to borrow $3.5 billion and begin construction immediately.

According to a plan drawn up under the direction of state Treasurer Harlan Boyles, the university system wants new laws that would allow both the state and the university to issue bonds to pay for capital improvements on the public campuses. UNC leaders want the state to issue bonds for $2 billion and the campuses to issue bonds for $1.5 billion over the next five years. The debt would be paid over 20 years.

'Do we continue to sweep the circumstances under the rug or move forward ... ?'

State Treasurer Harlan Boyles

If UNC is successful, the money would transform its 16 campuses into modern universities with high-tech classrooms and sophisticated laboratories. The scheme would also be a major departure from the way the university system historically has paid for new buildings — by relying on inconsistent annual appropriations from the state.

That pay-as-you-go system simply hasn't worked, Boyles said Wednesday. Now the university has little choice but to borrow money to catch up on a huge backlog of facility repairs.

"The university has a serious problem," he said. "The dollar amounts are quite staggering. The question is: Do we continue to sweep the circumstances under the rug or move forward with a very positive strategy for dealing with the needs?"

According to a recent report by a higher education consultant, the state's campuses are in deplorable condition after decades of neglect. The state has dedicated regular money for repairs only since 1993, and about 800 buildings are due for significant renovation. Rapid improvements are needed if the campuses are to accommodate 48,000 extra students by 2008, UNC officials say.

Boyles will present the financing plan Friday to the UNC Board of Governors. Already, discussions are under way between top UNC officials and the legislative leadership.

Rep. Leo Daughtry of Smithfield was skeptical of the idea.

"It's not a new thing," said Daughtry, who recently stepped down as Republican caucus leader in the House to prepare for a campaign for governor. "It's a question of how much debt the state can handle." He said the legislature also needs to keep in mind the needs of the community college system.

If legislators approve the bond proposal, the UNC system could borrow billions of dollars almost immediately — kick-starting a construction boom but also saddling the state and the universities with long-term debt.

The state would pay off the debt annually for two decades — but the payments wouldn't be much more than what the state already spends on UNC construction, Boyles and UNC President Molly Broad said.

Instead of appropriating an annual capital budget for the universities, the legislature would have to commit the money to debt service payments each year until the debt was paid off. Last year, the General Assembly appropriated $125 million to the UNC system; if the state paid annual debt service at the same level, it could support more than $1.5 billion in construction, UNC officials say.

The campuses would pay off their loans using receipts from dormitory rent, student fees, endowment income and overhead receipts from a burgeoning research enterprise. According to the draft legislation, the universities would not be allowed to use tuition receipts or annual operating money from the state to pay debt.

Broad on Wednesday noted that most public universities sell bonds to pay for capital improvements.

"The advantage for us is that we would receive a significant infusion of capital at a time when we're preparing for unprecedented enrollment growth," she said.

The State University of New York received $2 billion recently from state-issued bonds, and the University of Connecticut has a $1.2 billion bond-financed building spree under way, she said.

Boyles said the state-issued bonds, called "limited obligation bonds," are the type used successfully by counties and cities for almost two decades. Those bonds, which do not require voter approval, have been used to finance schools, courthouses and recreational facilities.

The university-issued bonds, called "special obligation bonds," would require the campuses to identify defined revenue streams to borrow for specific projects.

If the scheme works, the university system would likely be given the green light to expand its use of bonds in the future, Boyles said.

The question is whether the General Assembly will be willing to push the debt onto future legislatures.

Broad said she was optimistic.

"I think they're beginning to feel a little more comfortable with the feasibility of this."

Expensive catch-up

The University of North Carolina system looks to bonds as an alternative to 'pay as you go' as a means of financing building improvements. The needs are plain, and the proposal deserves careful study.

It would be a radical change in a state that has always taken a conservative approach to finances. But the University of North Carolina system's leaders believe they face a crisis with worn-out and outdated buildings, at a time when enrollments are expected to soar. Rather than pay for renovation projects as money becomes available from the General Assembly, university leaders want the state, and the university, to issue bonds totalling $3.5 billion — in effect providing borrowed money that would be available for use over the next five years and be paid back over the next 20 years. The state would issue $2 billion worth of bonds, and the university $1.5 billion.

President Molly Broad of the UNC system accurately characterizes the difference as that between paying cash up front — meaning that a relatively modest amount of work could be done in a given year — and paying for buildings as one would pay for a house. That approach enables one to move in immediately and then repay a loan over time.

Broad makes a credible case that the money is, in fact, needed right now. She cites a consultant's finding that 800 buildings are due for renovation and that repairs have been significantly neglected. (The consultant's estimate for all the system's renovation and construction needs to cope with an anticipated enrollment boom within 10 years is nearly $7 billion.)

Broad's argument is supported by State Treasurer Harlan Boyles, the guardian of North Carolina's top-flight credit rating and a man not known to be reckless with a public buck. Boyles is to present the financing proposal to UNC's Board of Governor's today.

At a time when education dollars are stretched thinly over the university system, the community college system and the public schools, a means of financing UNC's needs other than the traditional one of "pay as you go" is attractive.

Obviously, the idea needs a painstaking look from the General Assembly, where legislators will doubtless have many questions. But it does deserve that look, and not a dismissal as too much of a departure from the familiar way of doing business. (And though it may be different for North Carolina, bond issues for universities' capital projects have been used by other states.)

The UNC system, with its 16 campuses, is indeed an economic and cultural jewel that it is in the state's profound interest to nurture and protect. The community college system is also an asset whose value is growing steadily. And the public schools have long been underfunded and under-appreciated. Reconciling the various needs of public education with the available funding, or despite a shortage of funds, is a puzzle that can be solved only with creative thinking. The university's proposition is one such creative and plausible idea, one of a number of alternatives that the legislature should, and must, explore.

UNC bond issue sought

By Jane Stancill
STAFF WRITER

DURHAM — The UNC Board of Governors agreed Friday to ask the legislature for new laws that would allow the state and the university to borrow billions of dollars for campus construction.

University leaders hope to secure at least $3.5 billion through bonds to move ahead quickly on an estimated $6.9 billion in overdue renovations and new buildings. They have said they need extensive improvements to be able to accommodate an extra 48,000 students in the next decade as the college-age population swells.

State Treasurer Harlan Boyles, who has advised UNC President Molly Broad on financing options, presented the plan to the board Friday at N.C. Central University.

"As the state's banker, I am here to say we want to be of help," Boyles told the governing board. "We're here to be of help because it's a good investment and the needs are critical. You need an infusion of funds immediately so you can head off some of the deteriorating circumstances you now see."

The board unanimously endorsed Boyles' suggestion for bonds — to be issued by the state and the university.

In the coming weeks, legislators will debate bills that would authorize two types of bonds, neither of which would require voter approval.

One bill would permit the state to issue "limited obligation" bonds, which would essentially create a moral obligation — but not a legal one — on the state to repay the debt. UNC leaders hope to secure $2 billion through this method — to be repaid over 20 years by annual appropriations from the legislature.

The other bill would allow the UNC board to issue "special obligation" bonds to be repaid from defined sources of income — dorm rents, student fees, endowment earnings and overhead receipts from research grants. Tuition could not be used. UNC leaders hope to raise $1.5 billion through this type of bond, which is very similar to revenue bonds already used routinely to build parking decks and residence halls.

UNC Board member Jim Phillips Jr. said he was optimistic about the plan's chances in the legislature. It already has received strong support from Senate President Pro Tem Marc Basnight.

Many states already use both types of bonds, as have counties and municipalities in North Carolina, Phillips said. He predicts the legislature will accept the idea.

"The question becomes how much debt are you going to incur," he said. "I don't know where that number will end up — how much money they'll feel comfortable committing."

If the legislation passes and the bonds are issued, the General Assembly likely would not appropriate annual building funds for the university during years of heavy debt service payments. But Broad said she hoped the university would still be eligible for money from the state's annual repair and renovation budget — even during the debt payoff. "If not, in 10 years we will find ourselves having repaired the old problems and created a whole set of new ones," she said.

Last month, a higher education consultant told UNC leaders that some 800 aging buildings on the state's campuses need significant renovation — after decades of neglect. The state did not allocate regular renovation funds to universities until 1993. New building projects have always been funded by the state on a cash-in-hand basis.

"It's clear that pay-as-you-go wasn't working," said Marye Anne Fox, the N.C. State chancellor. "This is the most reasonable option. It requires a vote of faith, but I think the university has earned this faith."

UNC board may renounce old pay-as-you-go tradition

The UNC Board of Governors is considering legislation that would authorize borrowing for buildings.

BY TIM THORNTON
Staff Writer

It may be the first nail in the coffin of North Carolina's pay-as-you-go tradition.

When the UNC Board of Governors meeting adjourns on Friday, the board will have discussed, considered and perhaps endorsed legislation that would allow the UNC system to finance at least part of its $6.9 billion building campaign by selling bonds.

"It's unrealistic to think that the General Assembly can do much with that without borrowing money," state Treasurer Harlan Boyles said. He has been working, along with UNC general administration staff, on a borrowing plan legislators can accept.

On Friday, Boyles will brief the board on two bills that have come from that work. One would authorize limited obligation bonds, the other would allow special obligation bonds.

Boyles compared limited obligation bonds to a home mortgage. They would be secured by liens on university property and paid for through annual appropriations from the General Assembly. If the General Assembly were to take the $200 million it has traditionally devoted to capital projects, Boyles said, and apply that money to debt payment instead, UNC could sell $2 billion to $2.5 billion in bonds, roughly a third of what the system needs over the next decade. It would take 15 to 20 years to pay those bonds off, Boyles said. If the whole $6.9 billion were funded that way, the annual debt payment would be about $700 million.

Special obligation bonds would be paid with what Boyles called "unencumbered resources the campuses would generate," for example, various fees charged to students.

Boyles said two other UNC financing bills have been considered. One would deal with student housing, the other with the university hospital system. "We haven't made much progress on the second two except for jaw-boning," Boyles said.

This drastic change in financing is being considered because of a report the Board of Governors sent to the General Assembly last month. The plan, "Building for the New Millennium," is the result of a yearlong study by Eva Klein and Associates Ltd., an education consultant from northern Virginia.

"The pay-as-you-go policy is not working," Klein told the board at its April meeting. "It's not working for Pembroke and it's not working for Chapel Hill. If you have a policy that's not working for your small institutions and not working for your large institutions, you should take a look at it."

UNC President Molly Broad has echoed Klein's assessment. Broad told a group of Triad civic, business and government leaders assembled at the Greensboro Hilton last month that pay-as-you-go "is not going to be adequate. It hasn't been adequate, or we wouldn't be in the position we find ourselves in now."

Boyles will take his versions of the financing bills to the meeting Friday and said he assumes members of the board will have their versions, too. The essence of the proposals will be the same, he said.

Boyles said Wednesday afternoon he thought UNC General Administration had the most current drafts. General Administration said the most up-to-date version was in the treasurer's office.

"It's very fluid," Boyles said.

The financing proposals are likely to occupy a good deal of the Board of Governors' time this week.

Discussions will begin today when the Committee on Budget and Finance addresses the issues raised in a letter from committee member Ray Farris. Farris's main concern is that the board stay deeply involved in decisions.

"This is not staff decision-making material," he said.

The Committee on Public Affairs will discuss the legislation needed to implement the Klein report's recommendations just before Boyles makes his presentation about that legislation to the full board Friday.

Committee chairman Jim Phillips, a Greensboro attorney, said, "I'm not exactly sure how they're going to play this whole thing" but "I'm excited and optimistic that we've got a chance to deal with this problem sooner rather than later."

OUR VIEWS

A sensible way to build UNC

If the University of North Carolina's 16 campuses are to have the buildings their students will need in coming years, there seems only one logical way to pay for them: borrow the money.

That would be a departure for the state, which traditionally has paid for university improvements in cash.

But thanks to reckless tax cuts and a couple of expensive legal setbacks, the state doesn't have that kind of cash these days. Even if it did, it probably wouldn't have enough to meet the needs of the university system.

It's growing at a rapid rate as new students pour in and older North Carolinians go back to school to improve their job skills, change careers and enrich their intellectual lives.

To make matters worse, a consultant has concluded that many existing buildings need to be renovated and modernized.

The bill for all this is put at a hair-raising $6.9 billion.

It should ease the anxieties of knowledgeable North Carolinians to learn that the borrowing plan to finance this project comes from Harlan Boyles, the super-cautious state treasurer.

With the approval of that respected authority on government spending, the university will ask the General Assembly for permission to quickly issue $3.5 billion in bonds. It says its yearly loan payments over 20 years would be close to what it now spends to put up buildings on a pay-as-you go basis.

The figures are huge, of course, but so are the figures you swallow when you get a mortgage to buy a home. That's what the university would be doing – getting a mortgage to build homes for its universities.

Unless the Honorables can come up with a better way to get that kind of money, they ought to agree to the university's request.

It makes sense.

UNC plan would use bonds to help pay for campus construction

Proposal departs from system's usual pay-as-you-go approach to building needs

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHAPEL HILL

The University of North Carolina board of governors is being asked to consider a proposal that would authorize borrowing for building needs and end the state's pay-as-you-go tradition.

UNC President Molly Broad and state Treasurer Harlan Boyles will introduce a plan today to use bonds to help pay for billions of dollars in construction needs at the system's 16 campuses.

A consultant has warned UNC leaders that it will take up to $6.9 billion to refurbish and expand campuses to accommodate a enrollment growth of 48,000 students in the next 10 years.

"We have 50,000 more students who will be heading our way in 10 years," Broad said Wednesday.

"Since we can't postpone their arrival, we can't wait to update these facilities."

The bonds would not need voter approval, even though some of them would be repaid through tax dollars.

The General Assembly would set the amount to be borrowed, but it is unlikely that legislators would agree to the full $6.9 billion.

Boyles has been working with UNC administrators on a borrowing plan that legislators might find acceptable.

If the legislature signs onto the plan, it would be a departure from the state's usual pay-as-you-go strategy for building needs — a strategy that has delayed many campus projects.

Traditionally, the state provides the UNC system money each year for new building and renovation needs, but the amount is inconsistent.

Although it has averaged $86.7 million since 1989, it has ranged from $1.6 million in 1990 to $125 million in 1997.

It has never been enough to do all the work that needs to be done, Broad said.

Broad and Boyles are calling on the state to provide more money up front through bonds.

Boyles will brief the board of governors today on two proposals.

One would authorize limited-obligation bonds, the other would allow special-obligation bonds.

Boyles compared limited-obligation bonds to a home mortgage.

They would be secured by liens on university property and paid for through annual appropriations from the General Assembly.

If the General Assembly were to take $200 million and apply that money to debt payment instead of capital projects, UNC could sell $2 billion to $2.5 billion in bonds, roughly a third of what the system needs over the next decade, Boyles said.

It would take 15 to 20 years to pay off those bonds.

If the whole $6.9 billion were financed that way, the annual debt payment would be about $700 million.

Special-obligation bonds would be paid with what Boyles called "unencumbered resources the campuses would generate," for example, various fees charged to students.

"This will begin the public dialogue," Broad said.

"It's a conversation that could go on for some time."

UNC told it must hasten repairs

State treasurer says system needs infusion of cash; board of governors approves a proposal for bond bills

By William L. Holmes
JOURNAL REPORTER

DURHAM

State Treasurer Harlan Boyles told leaders of the University of North Carolina system that they need to have the power to finance their building projects or they risk letting the system continue its slide into disrepair.

"We've relied too heavily on a pay-as-you-go system that relied on . . . cash on hand," Boyles told the UNC board of governors at its monthly meeting yesterday. "You need an infusion of cash immediately so you can head off some of the deterioration."

A consultant recently estimated that the system needs $6.9 billion for expansion and repairs to accommodate an expected growth of nearly 50,000 students during the next 10 years.

HARLAN BOYLES

Boyles and Molly Broad, the system's president, have prepared some legislation that would allow the university to use two kinds of bonds to pay for its building projects.

Limited obligation bonds would allow the university to use the building as collateral for the bonds, similar to a home mortgage.

Special obligation bonds would allow a university to pledge its future receipts of rent, fees or other money as payment for the project.

Some cities and counties in North Carolina have used similar bonds to pay for courthouses, social-services buildings and schools.

Several other states allow the issuance of bonds for construction.

But the UNC system has always paid for its buildings with cash appropriated by the General Assembly. The legislation would end that tradition.

The board of governors voted unanimously to support the bills, although they have not been introduced.

"These are drafts, and the likelihood is great that they will be changed before they are introduced and after they are introduced," said Jim Phillips, a Greensboro lawyer who is the chairman of the board's public-affairs committee.

The university could issue the bonds as soon as six months after the bills are approved by the General Assembly, Phillips said. The General Assembly would determine how much the system can borrow, and it is unlikely that legislators would approve $6.9 billion worth of bonds at once.

Buildings that have been partially supported by the

UNC BONDS

General Assembly would receive the first money collected by the sale of the bonds.

The bonds would not be subject to public vote, although they would be paid with tax money.

Robert F. Warwick, another member of the board, questioned whether the state would want to commit to paying off debt yearly for building projects.

The General Assembly has given the university an average of $86.7 million for building projects since 1989, ranging from $1.6 million in 1990 to $125 million in 1997. The system could pay off $2 billion in bonds with annual payments of about $200 million for 15 or 20 years, Boyles said.

The system would continue to seek money for repairs and upkeep beyond what it commits for debt, Broad said.

Otherwise, the 16 public universities in the state may face the same backlog of problems in 10 years.

Ben Ruffin, the chairman of the board of governors, said he expects the General Assembly to approve the bills.

"It's not a situation that we invented," he said.

"We are asking them for things that are a dire necessity to protect the investment."

Tough Choices for UNC

Over the next decade, the University of North Carolina system's 16 campuses will be expected to accommodate 48,000 more students than are currently enrolled. Undoubtedly, that will require the expansion of university facilities, which will require money.

But the numbers being bounced around in Raleigh and Chapel Hill are high enough to cause some pretty intense sticker shock.

MOLLY BROAD

An outside consultant hired by the UNC system to assess the situation warns that it will take up to $6.9 billion to refurbish and expand campuses to accommodate the anticipated growth in enrollment — far more than the General Assembly could be expected to provide in the time frame the money will be needed.

Facing up to that reality, UNC President Molly Broad and State Treasurer Harlan Boyles broke with tradition Friday and unveiled a plan to the UNC Board of Governors to use bonds to help pay for the billions of dollars in construction.

Throughout the history of the UNC system, expansion has been paid for through appropriations, student fees and tuition.

This pay-as-you-go tradition has allowed the UNC system to be free of massive debt, but it has also caused delays in many campus projects.

The General Assembly annually provides the UNC system money for new building and renovation needs, but the amount has been inconsistent. While it has averaged $86.7 million since 1989, it has ranged from $1.6 million in 1990 to $125 million in 1997.

Still, that's never been enough money to do all the work that's needed, system administrators say, and buildings on some campuses, especially the smaller ones with historically minority enrollment, have slipped into disrepair.

Though it's doubtful that state legislators and the UNC board will approve borrowing the full $6.9 billion, it is clear that the system needs money, a lot of it, now.

If the General Assembly were to take $200 million and apply that money to debt payment instead of capital projects, UNC could sell $2 billion to $2.5 billion in bonds, roughly a third of what the system needs over the next decade, Boyles said Friday.

It would take 15 to 20 years to pay those bonds off.

If the whole $6.9 billion were provided that way, the annual debt payment would be about $700 million. Even though some of these massive bonds would be repaid through tax dollars, they would not require voter approval.

The citizens of North Carolina have always made our public universities, recognized as among the best in the nation, a priority, and generous appropriations of tax dollars have kept tuition relatively low.

But our state's growing population and the ever increasing percentage of students seeking a college education are about to force some tough choices. As unappealing as it will be to put the UNC system and the state in hock for billions, bonds may have to be part of that hard reality.

Computer Science Facility. Will consolidate computer science activities currently housed in 3 separate buildings. The existing facility is is not large enough to support this quickly growing program, which is crucial to the University's overall growth. Further, the renovations required to support this level of new technology would greatly challenge the integrity of Carolina Hall, which is a 1925 structure.	Project is recommended because WSSU has been willing to forego other new facility requests. May be useful to do another review of potential for accommodation in an existing facility. If not feasible, then should be funded as new facility.	5,748,330
New Physical and Life Sciences Building-Phase I. Replacement facility for Hill Hall, with FCQI of 1.39. New classroom, laboratory, and office building for use by the departments of Physical Sciences and Life Sciences.	Project needed as replacement facility for life sciences and physical sciences programs since Hill Hall is requested to be demolished (See Hill Hall demolition in Phase II).	12,109,545
Bldg 37-Anderson School Building. Renovation and modernization and change of use. To renovate approximately 20,000 SF of space for the new need--Early Childhood/Gerontology Program.	WSSU has agreed to renovate Anderson for this new need instead of requesting a new facility.	6,917,905
Health Center Building and Bldg 10-Old Nursing Building. Renovation and modernization and re-use for new need. Renovate the Old Health Center and the connecting second floor of the Old Nursing Building to provide an adequate expanded and updated Health Center facility for this campus population and required related functions. SACS accreditation will be difficult to obtain without due to lack of existing facility.	WSSU has agreed to this combined renovation instead of requesting a new Health Center facility. This is combined estimate for Old Health Center and Old Nursing.	2,265,865
Bldg 1-Carolina Hall. Renovation and modernization.	Renovate facility for existing Mathematics program and relocate academic support services from Hauser building to this facility	4,270,688
Bldg 28-Hauser Union. Renovation and modernization and change of use. To house the Diggs Art Gallery, so that space can be freed up in Library.	WSSU has agreed to renovate Hauser to house the Diggs Art Gallery instead of requesting a new facility.	3,895,461

HOUSE BILL 1084:
County Bonds for Landbanking

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House Finance	Introduced by:	Rep. McMahan
Date:	June 30, 1999	Summary by:	Cindy Avrette
Version:	PCS for 1st Edition H1084-CSRBX-6/21		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 1084 clarifies that a county may issue general obligation bonds to purchase land, to use either immediately or in the future, for corporate, community college, and school purposes. The proposed committee substitute adds the phrase "present or future" on page 2, line 16 at the request of the bond attorneys to reflect the intended purpose of the bill.

CURRENT LAW: The Local Government Bond Act lists the purposes for which a county may issue general obligation bonds. Those purposes include land for corporate purposes, providing for community college facilitates, providing for school facilities, and providing for any purpose for which it is authorized to appropriate money. For each of these purposes, the bond money can be used to pay capital costs. The term "capital costs" is defined to include the costs of all property useful for the purpose authorized.

Bonds issued to provide land for corporate purposes or to provide for a purpose for which a county may appropriate money must be approved by the voters. As a general rule, general obligation bonds issued for community college and school purposes are also subject to a vote of the people. The Constitution does provide that bonds issued for certain purposes, including community college and school purposes, may be issued without a vote of the people to the extent that the aggregate principal sum does not exceed two-thirds of the amount by which the outstanding indebtedness of the issuing county has been reduced during the next preceding fiscal year.

BILL ANALYSIS: While it is clear that current law allows a county to issue bonds to pay the costs of acquiring land for corporate, community college, and school purposes, it is not clear whether it can acquire the land for these purposes in the future. The current provision that authorizes the expenditure of bond proceeds to pay land costs is normally associated with the immediate use of the land for the purposes for which the bond itself was issued. The situation presented in this bill is slightly different. The primary purpose of the bonds being issued under the authority created by this bill is the purchase of the land itself.

While it can be inferred from current law that a county could issue bonds for the purpose of "landbanking" property for corporate, community college, or school purposes, it is not clear. This bill clarifies the matter by providing specific, clear statutory authorization for the issuance of bonds for this purpose.

BILL SUMMARY: The bill authorizes counties to issue bonds to purchase land for multiple use for present or future county, community college, and public school purposes.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:
The bill clarifies the statutory authority of counties to issue General Obligation bonds to purchase land for multiple uses instead of issuing a General Obligation bond for each land use. Some bond attorneys have advised the State Treasurer that counties already have the authority for landbanking, but this bill clearly states county bond powers in order to avoid any court challenges.

Proposed Committee Substitute H1289-PCSX8148-RB

Short Title: 1999 Fee Bill. (Public)

April 15, 1999

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO SET THE PUBLIC UTILITY REGULATORY FEES, TO SET THE INSURANCE REGULATORY CHARGE, TO IMPOSE THE INSURANCE REGULATORY CHARGE ON SERVICE CORPORATIONS AND ON HEALTH MAINTENANCE ORGANIZATIONS IN THE YEAR 2000, AND TO ALLOW THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AND CONSUMER SERVICES TO IMPOSE FEES THAT REFLECT THE ACTUAL COST OF RENDERING THE SERVICE.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. The percentage rate to be used in calculating the public utility regulatory fee under G.S. 62-302(b)(2) is nine-hundredths percent (0.09%) of each public utility's North Carolina jurisdictional revenues earned during each quarter that begins on or after July 1, 1999.

Section 2. The annual fee imposed on The North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation under G.S. 62-302(b1), as enacted by House Bill 476, 1999 General Assembly, S.L. 1999-180, for the 1999-2000 fiscal year is two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000).

Section 3. The percentage rate to be used in calculating the insurance regulatory charge under G.S. 58-6-25 is seven percent (7%) for the 1999 calendar year.

Section 4. G.S. 58-6-25 reads as rewritten:

"§ 58-6-25. Insurance regulatory charge.

(a) Charge Levied. -- There is levied on each insurance company an annual charge for the purposes stated in subsection (d) of this section. ~~As used in this section, the term "insurance company" means a company that pays the gross premiums tax levied in G.S. 105-228.5 and G.S. 105-228.8, except a service corporation subject to Article 65 of this Chapter. A health maintenance organization subject to Article 67 of this Chapter is not subject to those taxes and is therefore not subject to the charge levied in this section.~~ The charge levied in this section is in addition to all other fees and taxes. The percentage rate of the charge is established pursuant to subsection (b) of this section. For each insurance company that is not an Article 65 corporation nor a health maintenance organization, the rate is applied to ~~charge shall be at a percentage rate of~~ the company's premium tax liability for the taxable year. For Article 65 corporations and health maintenance organizations, the rate is applied to a presumed premium tax liability for the taxable year calculated as if the corporation or organization were an insurer providing health insurance. In determining an insurance company's premium tax liability for a taxable year, the following shall be disregarded:

(1) Additional taxes imposed by G.S. 105-228.8.
(2) The additional local fire and lightning tax imposed by G.S. 105-228.5(d)(4).
(3) Any tax credits for guaranty or solvency fund assessments under G.S. 105-228.5A or G.S. 97-133(a).
(4) Any tax credits allowed under Chapter 105 of the General Statutes other than tax payments made by or on behalf of the taxpayer.

(b) Rates. -- The rate of the charge for ~~the 1991 taxable year shall be six and five-tenths percent (6.5%). For subsequent taxable years, the rate~~ each taxable year shall be the percentage rate established by the General Assembly. When the Department prepares its budget request for each upcoming fiscal year, the Department shall propose a percentage rate of the charge levied in this section. The Governor shall submit that proposed rate to the General Assembly each fiscal year. The General Assembly shall set by law the percentage rate of the charge levied in this section. The percentage rate may not exceed the rate necessary to generate funds sufficient to defray the estimated cost of the operations of the Department for each upcoming fiscal year, including a reasonable margin for a reserve fund. The amount of the reserve may not exceed one-third of the estimated cost of operating the Department for each upcoming fiscal year. In calculating the amount of the reserve, the General Assembly shall consider all relevant factors that may affect the cost of operating the Department or a possible unanticipated increase or decrease in North Carolina premiums or other charge revenue.

(c) Returns; When Payable. -- The charge levied on each health maintenance organization is payable March 15 following the end of each calendar year. The charge levied on each insurance company other than a health maintenance organization is payable at the time the insurance company remits its premium tax. If the insurance company is required to remit installment payments of premiums tax under G.S. 105-228.5 for a taxable year, it shall also remit installment payments of the charge levied in this section for that taxable year at the same time and on the same basis as the premium tax installment payments. Each installment payment shall be equal to at least thirty-three and one-third percent (33.3%) of the insurance company's regulatory charge liability incurred in the immediately preceding taxable year.

Every insurance company shall, on or before the date the charge levied in this section is due, file a return on a form prescribed by the Secretary of Revenue. The return shall state the company's total North Carolina premiums or presumed premiums for the taxable year and shall be accompanied by any supporting documentation that the Secretary of Revenue may by rule require.

HOUSE BILL 1289
PROPOSED COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO SET THE PUBLIC UTILITY REGULATORY FEES, TO SET THE INSURANCE REGULATORY CHARGE, TO IMPOSE THE INSURANCE REGULATORY CHARGE ON SERVICE CORPORATIONS AND ON HEALTH MAINTENANCE ORGANIZATIONS, AND TO ALLOW THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE TO IMPOSE FEES THAT REFLECT THE ACTUAL COST OF RENDERING THE SERVICE.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. The percentage rate to be used in calculating the public utility regulatory fee under G.S. 62-302(b)(2) is nine-hundredths percent (0.09%) of each public utility's North Carolina jurisdictional revenues earned during each quarter that begins on or after July 1, 1999.

Section 2. The annual fee imposed on The North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation under G.S. 62-302(b1), as enacted by House Bill 476, 1999 General Assembly, S.L. 1999-____, for the 1999-2000 fiscal year is two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000).

Section 3. The percentage rate to be used in calculating the insurance regulatory charge under G.S. 58-6-25 is six and one-half percent (6.5%) for the 1999 calendar year.

Section 4. G.S. 58-6-25 reads as rewritten:

"§ 58-6-25. Insurance regulatory charge.

(a) Charge Levied. -- There is levied on each insurance company an annual charge for the purposes stated in subsection (d) of this section. ~~As used in this section, the term "insurance company" means a company that pays the gross premiums tax levied in G.S. 105-228.5 and G.S. 105-228.8, except a service corporation subject to Article 65 of this Chapter. A health maintenance organization subject to Article 67 of this Chapter is not subject to those taxes and is therefore not subject to the charge levied in this section.~~ The charge levied in this section is in addition to all other fees and taxes. The percentage rate of the charge is established pursuant to subsection (b) of this section. Fore each insurance company that is not an Article 65 corporation nor a health maintenance organization, the rate is applied to ~~charge shall be at a percentage rate of~~ the company's premium tax liability for the taxable year. For Article 65 corporations and health maintenance organizations, the rate is applied to a presumed premium tax liability for the taxable year calculated as if the corporation or organization were an insurer providing health insurance. In determining an insurance company's premium tax liability for a taxable year, the following shall be disregarded:

(1) Additional taxes imposed by G.S. 105-228.8.
(2) The additional local fire and lightning tax imposed by G.S. 105-228.5(d)(4).
(3) Any tax credits for guaranty or solvency fund assessments under G.S. 105-228.5A or G.S. 97-133(a).
(4) Any tax credits allowed under Chapter 105 of the General Statutes other than tax payments made by or on behalf of the taxpayer.

(b) Rates. -- The rate of the charge for ~~the 1991 taxable year shall be six and five-tenths percent (6.5%). For subsequent taxable years, the rate~~ each taxable year shall be the percentage rate established by the General Assembly. When the Department prepares its budget request for each upcoming fiscal year, the Department shall propose a percentage rate of the charge levied in this section. The Governor shall submit that proposed rate to the General Assembly each fiscal year. The General Assembly shall set by law the percentage rate of the charge levied in this section. The percentage rate may not exceed the rate necessary to generate funds sufficient to defray the estimated cost of the operations of the Department for each upcoming fiscal year, including a reasonable margin for a reserve fund. The amount of the reserve may not exceed one-third of the estimated cost of operating the Department for each upcoming fiscal year. In calculating the amount of the reserve, the General Assembly shall consider all relevant factors that may affect the cost of operating the Department or a possible unanticipated increase or decrease in North Carolina premiums or other charge revenue.

(c) Returns; When Payable. -- The charge levied on each health maintenance organization is payable March 15 following the end of each taxable year. The charge levied on each insurance company other than a health maintenance organization is payable at the time the insurance company remits its premium tax. If the insurance company is required to remit installment payments of premiums tax under G.S. 105-228.5 for a taxable year, it shall also remit installment payments of the charge levied in this section for that taxable year at the same time and on the same basis as the premium tax installment payments. Each installment payment shall be equal to at least thirty-three and one-third percent (33.3%) of the insurance company's regulatory charge liability incurred in the immediately preceding taxable year.

Every insurance company shall, on or before the date the charge levied in this section is due, file a return on a form prescribed by the Secretary of Revenue. The return shall state the company's total North Carolina premiums or presumed premiums for the taxable year and shall be accompanied by any supporting documentation that the Secretary of Revenue may by rule require.

(d) Use of Proceeds. -- The Insurance Regulatory Fund is created in the State treasury, under the control of the Office of State Budget and Management. The proceeds of the charge levied in this section and all fees collected under Articles 69 through 71 of this Chapter and under Articles 9 and 9C of Chapter 143 of the General Statutes shall be credited to the Fund. The Fund shall be placed in an interest-bearing account and any interest or other income derived from the Fund shall be credited to the Fund. Moneys in the Fund may be spent only pursuant to appropriation by the General Assembly and in accordance with the line item budget enacted by the General Assembly. The Fund is subject to the provisions of the Executive Budget Act, except that no unexpended surplus of the Fund shall revert to the General Fund. All money credited to the Fund shall be used to reimburse the General Fund for the following:

(1) Money appropriated to the Department of Insurance to pay its expenses incurred in regulating the insurance industry and other industries in this State.

(2) Money appropriated to State agencies to pay the expenses incurred in regulating the insurance industry, in certifying statewide data processors under Article 11A of Chapter 131E of the General Statutes, and in purchasing reports of patient data from statewide data processors certified under that Article.

(3) Money appropriated to the Department of Revenue to pay the expenses incurred in collecting and administering the taxes on insurance companies levied in Article 8B of Chapter 105 of the General Statutes.

(e) Definitions. -- The following definitions apply in this section:

(1) Article 65 corporation. -- Defined in G.S. 105-228.3.

(2) Insurance company. -- A company that pays the gross premiums tax levied in G.S. 105-228.5 and G.S. 105-228.8 or a health maintenance organization.

(3) Insurer. -- Defined in G.S. 105-228.3."

Section 5. G.S. 106-6.1 reads as rewritten:

"§ 106-6.1. ~~Fees not to exceed actual cost.~~ Fees.

~~Fees or charges established by any board or commission within the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services for services rendered or for duties performed shall not exceed the actual cost to the Department of rendering such service or performing such duty. As used herein, "cost" shall mean expenses incurred for mileage, subsistence, postage, computer time, salaries, materials, supplies, or other similar expenses which are incurred as a direct result of rendering the service or performing the duty. As used herein, "cost" shall not include fixed overhead expenses such as buildings, equipment, machinery, or other similar expenses which are indirectly related to a particular service or duty.~~ A board or commission within the Department of Agriculture may establish fees or charges for the services it provides. The Board of Agriculture, subject to the provisions of Chapter 146 of the General Statutes, may establish a rate schedule for the use of facilities operated by the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services."

Section 6. Sections 1 and 2 of this act become effective July 1, 1999. The remainder of this act is effective when it becomes law.

HOUSE BILL 1289:
Set Regulatory Fees/Expand Insurance Regulatory Fee

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House Finance	Introduced by:	Rep. Luebke
Date:	June 16, 1999	Summary by:	Cindy Avrette
Version:	PCS for 1st Edition H1289-CSRB-6/15		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: The proposed committee substitute for House Bill 1289 sets the public utility regulatory fee at 0.09%, it sets the public utility regulatory fee on The North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation at $200,000, it sets the insurance regulatory charge at 6.5%, it imposes the insurance regulatory charge on HMOs, Blue Cross Blue Shield of NC, and Delta Dental of NC, and it allows the Department of Agriculture to consider indirect costs when establishing its fee schedule.

PUBLIC UTILITY REGULATORY FEE: Section 1 sets the public utility regulatory fee for fiscal year 1999-2000 at 0.09%. The rate maintains the current 0.09% rate set in fiscal year 1997-98. The utility regulatory fee was imposed in 1989. Its purpose is to defray the State's cost in regulating public utilities. The regulatory fee is imposed on all utilities that are subject to regulation by the North Carolina Utilities Commission. The fee is a percentage of the utility's North Carolina jurisdictional revenues. In general, jurisdictional revenue is revenue derived from providing utility service in North Carolina.

In addition to funding the State's cost in regulating public utilities, the money in the Utilities Commission and Public Staff Fund was used last biennium to finance the work of the Study Commission on the Future of Electric Service in North Carolina. Legislation has been introduced this session, House Bill 777 and Senate Bill 266, to continue funding this Commission with revenue from the Fund for the upcoming fiscal year. The General Assembly established the Commission in 1997. The purpose of the Commission is to examine the cost, adequacy, availability, and pricing of electric rates and service in North Carolina to determine whether legislation is necessary to assure an adequate and reliable source of electricity and an economical, fair, and equitable rates for all consumers of electricity in North Carolina.

Section 2 of the bill establishes the public utility regulatory fee to be paid by The North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation for the 1999-2000 fiscal year at $200,000. This section becomes effective if and only if House Bill 476 is enacted. The General Assembly ratified this bill on June 10. It has been presented to the Governor to sign. House Bill 476 authorizes electric membership corporations to form subsidiary corporations that may provide energy services and products, telecommunications services and products, and water and wastewater collection and treatment. The subsidiaries must fully compensate the electric membership corporation for its use of the corporation's personnel, services, equipment, and property. Under House Bill 476, the Utilities Commission is charged with regulating this aspect of the subsidiary's business. To pay for the cost of this regulation, the bill creates a flat regulatory fee to be paid The North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation to the Utilities Commission and Public Staff Fund. The General Assembly must establish the flat fee amount each year. This bill sets the fee amount at $200,000 for the 1999-2000 fiscal year.

INSURANCE REGULATORY CHARGE: Section 3 increases the insurance regulatory charge from 6% to 6.5%. This charge was first imposed in 1991. Its purpose is to make the Department of Insurance receipt-supported and thereby eliminate General Fund support of the Department. The regulatory fee is imposed on insurance companies that pay the gross premiums tax, other than service corporations such as Blue Cross Blue Shield and Delta Dental Corporation. Health maintenance organizations do not pay the regulatory charge because they do not pay the gross premiums tax. The charge is a percentage of the insurance company's premiums tax liability.

In 1995, the General Assembly eliminated the insurance audit and examination fees for insurance companies, HMOs, medical corporations, and guaranty associations. The revenue generated by these audit fees was an estimated $4.5 million annually. Consequently, the costs of the audits are now paid for by the insurance regulatory charge as part of the costs of regulating the insurance industry.

Section 4 of the bill imposes the regulatory charge on the HMOs and the medical corporations. The fee is levied on an imaginary amount of dollars the HMOs and medical corporations would owe if they paid the gross premiums tax at the 1.9% rate like other insurers. HMOs do not pay the gross premiums tax. Medical corporations pay the gross premiums tax at a rate of one-half of one percent (0.05%).

AGRICULTURAL FEES AND CHARGES: Section 5 allows the Department of Agriculture to consider its indirect costs when establishing its fees and charges. Under current law, the term "costs" is defined for purposes of the fees and charges the Department may impose. Under the definition, the Department can consider expenses such as mileage, computer time, salaries, supplies, etc. It may not consider fixed overhead expenses such as buildings, equipment, machinery, or other similar expenses which are indirectly related to a particular service or duty. This limitation is troublesome when rental rates and fees are established for the use of agency facilities at fairs and agricultural centers because most of the Department's costs are in the form of fixed overhead expenses. The Appropriations Committee has indicated that a "break even" philosophy should be followed at fairs, agricultural centers, and farmers' markets. The revision of this statute is needed for the Department to be able to establish a "break even" rental rate for these types of facilities. The Department must continue to establish rental rates and fees under the provisions of the Administrative Procedures Act.

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT(S) & PROGRAM(S) AFFECTED: N.C. Department of Insurance, N.C. Utilities Commission/Public Staff, and N.C. Department of Agriculture.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Section 1 becomes effective July 1, 1999. The remainder becomes effective when it becomes law.

BILL SUMMARY: Each year the General Assembly must set the regulatory fees for the insurance industry and public utilities. The bill sets the public utility regulator fee at nine-hundredths percent (0.09%) of each public utility's North Carolina jurisdictional revenues. It also sets a flat fee of $200,000 to be assessed on the North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation. This funding is to cover the costs associated with the Commission's new oversight responsibilities as outlined in H.B. 486. The bill also sets the insurance regulatory fee at 6.5 percent of a company's premiums tax liability. The bill applies the insurance regulatory fee to Health Maintenance Organizations (HMO). The rate for HMOs is based on a "presumed premiums tax liability". This presumed liability is calculated on what these companies would have paid in premiums tax if they were liable for such a tax (the HMOs do not pay a premiums tax). The bill applies the fee to a presumed premiums tax liability of 1.9% of the company's premium base. The bill also presumes an Article 65 corporate tax liability of 1.9% of their premium base. (Their actual premiums tax rate is 0.5%). The HMO payment is due on March 15th of each year for the previous year's tax. All other companies remit the fee when they pay the premiums tax.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY: The bill sets three fees - the public utilities regulatory fee, the electric membership corporation regulatory fee, and the insurance regulatory fee. The bill also authorizes the Department of Agriculture to charge fees that exceed the direct costs associated with an event. Currently the Department's fees for participation in fairs, festivals, and farmers markets can reflect only the direct cost of that involvement.

Public Utilities Regulatory Fee: The legislation sets the utilities regulatory fee at 0.09% of each public utilities' North Carolina jurisdictional revenues earned during each quarter that begins on or after July 1, 1999. (This maintains the current 0.09% rate set in fiscal year 1998-99.) The revenue generated from this fee supports the operations of the North Carolina Utilities Commission and Public Staff.

G.S. 62-302(b)(2) states that the percentage rate established by the General Assembly and assessed by the Commission "may not exceed the amount necessary to generate funds sufficient to defray the estimated cost of the operations of the Commission and Public Staff for the upcoming fiscal year, including a reasonable margin for a reserve fund." The Utilities Commission estimates that combined operations of the Commission and the Public Staff in FY 1999-2000 will require expenditures of not less than $10,244,533. Revenues generated by the proposed utilities regulatory fee are estimated to be $8,500,000. The balance will be derived from other revenues generated by Commission fees and charges, or from the Accumulated Fee Margin Reserve Account.

The Utilities Commission indicates that the status of the Accumulated Fee Margin Reserve is as follows:

Balance as of 6/30/99	$ 7,414,519
Add: Estimated Collections and Interest for FY 1999-2000 using 0.09%	$ 9,400,000
Total Funds Available	$16,814,519
Less: Estimated FY 1999-2000 Expenditures Reimbursable from Fees	$(10,244,553)*
Estimated Margin Reserve for Period Ending 6/30/2000	$ 6,569,966

 The Utilities Commission indicates that potential costs incurred by the Legislative Study Commission on the Future of Electric Service in North Carolina are not included in FY 1999-2000 estimated expenditures. That cost, if any, is not estimated at this time. House Bill 777 and Senate Bill 26, both introduced this session, extend the authorization of study commission expenses from the reserve fund through FY 1999-2000. Both bills have been referred to their respective chambers' appropriations committees for consideration.*

Based on the projected Fee Margin Reserve, the fee of 0.09% should be sufficient to cover the operations of the Utilities Commission and Public Staff.

North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation (EMC) Regulatory Fee: House Bill 1289 PCS also establishes a regulatory fee to be paid by the North Carolina EMC totaling $200,000. This fee relates back to House Bill 476, which authorizes electric membership corporations to form subsidiary corporations to provide additional services beyond traditional electric services. House Bill 476 charges the Utilities Commission with regulating these new subsidiaries. The North Carolina EMC will now be required to remit an annual fee to the Utilities Special Fund to pay for the cost of this regulation. The Utilities Commission estimates that $200,000 will be sufficient to cover these anticipated costs in FY 1999-2000.

Insurance Regulatory Fee: This portion of the bill changes the existing law in three ways. First, the bill sets the insurance regulatory charge effective for calendar year 1999 at 6.5%. (This is an increase of 0.5% over the previous year). The charge is based on a percentage of a company's premiums tax liability for the taxable year. Every insurance company subject to the premiums tax levied under G.S. 105-228.5 is required to pay the insurance regulatory charge.

Companies that do not pay the premiums tax calculate what their premiums tax liability would be if they were liable for the tax. This is called the "presumed premiums tax". This presumed premiums tax is used to determine the regulatory fee liability.

G.S. 58-6-25(b) states that the percentage rate, set annually, cannot exceed the rate necessary to generate funds sufficient to defray the estimated cost of operating the Department of Insurance for the upcoming year including a reasonable margin for a reserve fund. The reserve fund should not exceed one-third of the estimated operating cost. The revenue collected from the charge is deposited into the Insurance Regulatory Fund invested with the State Treasurer and managed by the Office of State Budget and Management. Funds generated by the regulatory charge are used to reimburse the General Fund for the amount appropriated to the Department of Insurance.

The historic base against which the fee is charged, and the associated rate, is listed below.

	1997-98	1998-99
Estimated Gross Premiums Tax	$268 million	$281 million
Regulatory Rate	0.0875	0.06
Total Revenue	$23.45 million	$16.86 million

The historic base excludes Health Maintenance Organizations, and includes Article 65 companies (Blue Cross/Blue Shield and Delta Dental) at a reduced rate.

If the fee were levied only on companies in the existing base, and at the existing presumed premiums tax rate, the revenue for 1999-00 would be as follows:

	1999-00
Estimated Gross Premiums Tax	$295.05 million
Regulatory Rate	0.065
Total Revenue	$19.18 million

The bill also adds HMOs to the list of companies that are charged a regulatory fee. The Department of Insurance estimates that the HMOs will add approximately $34.2 million to the base against which the regulatory fee is charged. This is based on their presumed premiums tax liability. Applying the 6.5% regulatory fee to the $34.2 million creates an additional $2.2 million in regulatory fee revenue.

Finally, the bill increases the base associated with Blue Cross/Blue Shield and Delta Dental. These are Article 65 companies. Both of these companies pay premiums taxes at a reduced rate. While all other insurance companies with a premiums tax liability pay at the rate of 1.9%, these companies pay at a reduced 0.5% rate. The regulatory fee is charged on their reduced premiums tax amount. The bill increases the presumed rate for these companies to 1.9%. The Department of Insurance estimates that this will add $4.1 million to the base against which the regulatory fee is charged. As a result, this portion of the bill increases revenue by $286,450.

When totaled, the three changes to the insurance regulatory fee statutes create $21.7 million in revenue. However the Department estimates that $3.3 million in refunds will be made to companies that overpaid their surcharge in previous years. Thus, the net collections will be $18.4 million. The Department estimates that the operating expenditures for 1999-2000 will be approximately $21 million and that the reserve fund will have a beginning balance of $8.7 million. The total available from the reserve fund ($8.7 million) and the estimated net collections ($18.4 million) will be $27.1 million. The total available less the estimated operating expenditures of $21 million will leave a year-end reserve balance of $6.1 million, which is slightly less than one-third of the estimated operating expenditures.

Based on the above, the regulatory surcharge rate of 6.5% assessed against companies in the existing base, HMOs, and Article 65 companies is sufficient to defray the estimated cost of the operations of the Department including a reasonable reserve fund.

Agricultural Fees: Under current law the Department of Agriculture can charge fees for participation in fairs, festivals and farmers markets. Under current law the fee can only reflect the marginally cost associated with a particular participant or vendor. They can not use the fees to address the fixed costs of these events. This includes ongoing maintenance and repairs. This portion of the bill would allow the Department to increase their fees to include more than just the marginal costs. The Department has not established a new proposed fee schedule, and can not estimate how much additional revenue they hope to receive as a result of the bill. As a result, no fiscal estimate is possible on this portion of the bill.

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House Finance	Introduced by:	Senator Cochrane
Date:	June 24, 1999	Summary by:	Martha Walston & Martha Harris, Staff Attorneys, and Mary Shuping, Research Assistant.
Version:	PCS for 3rd Edition S55-PCSSC-001

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 55 makes a number of technical and clarifying changes to various revenue laws and related statutes and makes one substantive change. The substantive change in Part I of the bill broadens the scope of the transit authority vehicle leasing tax to include more types of vehicles. Part II of the bill makes technical and clarifying changes, and was originally recommended by the Revenue Laws Study Commission.

BILL ANALYSIS: Part I of Senate Bill 55, in sections 1 through 4, broadens the scope of the transit authority vehicle leasing tax to include more vehicles, effective July 1, 1999. Under current law, a regional public transportation authority or a regional transportation authority may levy a privilege tax on a retailer who leases or rents U-drive-it passenger vehicles or motorcycles. The tax rate may not exceed 5% of the gross receipts derived from the short-term (less than 365 continuous days) lease or rental of these vehicles. This tax is added to the lease or rental price and paid by the lessee. Senate Bill 55 broadens the scope of this tax to apply to all motor vehicles as defined in G.S. 105-164.3.

"Motor vehicle" means a vehicle that is designed primarily for use upon the highways and is either self-propelled or propelled by a self-propelled vehicle. Motor vehicle does not include the following: a moped, special mobile equipment, tow dolly exempt from title and registration requirements, implements of husbandry, a manufactured home, mobile office, or a mobile classroom, and road construction or road maintenance machinery or equipment.

"U-drive-it passenger vehicles" are passenger vehicles rented or leased and to be operated by the lessee. They do not include vehicles leased or rented to public school authorities for driver-training instruction. Passenger vehicles also do not include pickup trucks and other property hauling vehicles.

Part II. of Senate Bill 55 makes numerous technical and clarifying changes to the revenue laws and related statutes. The following table provides a section-by-section analysis of the proposed changes.

Section	Explanation
5	Corrects an incorrect effective date for the income tax treatment of enhanced wireless 911 fees.
6	Updates list of debtors' property that is retained free of creditors' claims, to add Roth IRAs to regular IRAs and to update terminology for regular IRAs.
7	Reinstates increase in notary commission fee from $25 to $30 that was enacted in the 1998 budget bill but was deleted inadvertently by another 1998 bill. This fee increase would become effective July 1, 1999.
8 – 15	Changes references to the inheritance tax, which was replaced with an estate tax effective for the estates of decedents dying on or after January 1, 1999.

16 Corrects a grammatical error by deleting the word "or" in G.S. 93B-15.

17 Deletes language in G.S. 105-32.8 that a person "is subject to the penalties in G.S. 105-236" when that person fails to report a federal correction or determination of the maximum state death tax credit allowed an estate or of the maximum state generation-skipping transfer tax credit allowed. Failure to report to the Secretary of Revenue would still result in forfeiture of the right to any refund due by reason of the determination. Since repeal of the inheritance tax laws, there are no penalties in G.S. 105-236 that apply to this section.

18 Combines G.S. 105-37.1(Amusements) and G.S. 105-38 (Amusements-Circuses and other traveling amusements) into one statute. These are the amusements subject to 3% gross receipts tax.

19 Clarifies that tax on motion picture shows is an admissions tax. This tax is imposed at the rate of 1% on gross receipts. Also moves the exemption language for certain motion pictures to the list of exemptions in G.S. 104-40 (Amusements exempt from tax).

20 Repeals G.S. 105-109.1 because it is no longer needed. This statute provides that interest will be assessed on the taxes on gross receipts levied on amusements in G.S. 105-37.1 and G.S. 105-38, the tax on installment paper dealers, and the tax on publishers of newsprint publications. This interest runs from the time these taxes were due until paid. This statute is no longer needed now that Article 9 (General Administration; Penalties and Remedies) applies to the privilege license statutes. This repeal also clarifies that interest applies to late payments of the 1% gross receipts tax on movies.

21 Repeals G.S. 105-113 because it is obsolete. This statute requires the sheriff of each county and clerk of the board of alderman of each city to make an annual report to the Secretary of Revenue containing the name and business of every person in his county or city required to obtain a State license under Article 2 of Chapter 105 of the General Statutes.

22 Clarifies that the possession of more than six hundred cigarettes on which tax has been paid to (was "bearing the tax stamp of") another state or country, by any person other than a licensed distributor, is prima facie evidence that the cigarettes are possessed in violation of the Article governing the tobacco products tax. The underlined language clarifies how the Department currently administers this Article. This change is needed because there are states that do not use stamps.

23 Updates the statutory cross-references in the Unauthorized Substance tax law.

24 Clarifies scope of franchise tax to include savings and loan associations, as enacted in 1998.

25 Clarifies that a corporation that owes franchise tax but not income tax must apportion its franchise tax using the apportionment formula that would apply to income tax if the corporation were subject to that tax. The law is silent on this issue, and this new language sets out the Department's position.

26 Removes references to repealed statutes and modernizes statutory language.

27 Restores the word "generator" which was inadvertently deleted in 1998.

28 Changes "Division" to "Part" to conform to new terms enacted in 1998.

29 Changes the reference to the Code section in G.S. 105-152(e). This statute concerns joint tax liability and the innocent spouse. In the IRS Restructuring Act of 1998, the Code section 6013(e) was deleted and substituted in section 6015.

30 Removes reference to repealed statute.

31 Changes "Division" to "Part" to conform to new terms enacted in 1998.

32 Transfers the definitions of "moped" and "special mobile equipment" from Chapter 20 to the sales tax statute in Chapter 105, and then places a cross-reference to the sales tax statute in Chapter 20. These items are subject to sales tax. The Department of Revenue, rather than the DMV, administers the sales tax on special mobile equipment.

33 Adds the term "card-operated" to the sales tax exemption from receipts derived from coin or token-operated washing machines, extractors, and dryers. New technology permits the use of credit and debit cards on this equipment, and the Department has administratively allowed the sales tax exclusion for equipment operated with cards.

34 Clarifies that the certificate of registration filed with the Department by a retailer who makes taxable sales is void if for a period of 18 months the retailer files no returns or files returns showing no sales. Some retailers make only wholesale sales or exempt sales. Those retailers do not need to file sales tax returns and their certificate should not be void because they fail to file a return for a period of 18 months. There was a similar provision in the law prior to its rewrite last session.

35 Deletes the word "burlap" from the reference to the sales tax exemption for the lease or rental of burlap tobacco sheets used in handling tobacco in the warehouse and transporting tobacco to and from the warehouse. This change is necessary because tobacco sheets are now made of other material.

36 Clarifies the filing requirement for the excise tax on piped natural gas. Payment is required monthly and a return is required quarterly. The Department is currently administering the filing requirement this way.

37 Changes references to the inheritance tax, which was replaced with an estate tax effective for the estates of decedents dying on or after January 1, 1999.

38 Adds reference to limited liability companies to conform to remainder of statute.

39 Revises and recodifies a statute that included redundant references to the taxability of property transferred to a tax-exempt nonprofit corporation.

40-46 Deletes references to "annual filing" of motor carrier reports and makes conforming changes to reflect quarterly reports to conform to administrative practice. The Department of Revenue does not allow annual filing because of International Fuel Tax Agreement requirements.

Changes are also made to the reference for gasoline and other motor fuel to "motor fuel and alternative fuel". These references were not changed when tax at the rack was enacted and need to be updated. Section 45 also conforms the registration of motor carriers with the current administrative practice.

47-48	Conforms motor fuel penalty hearing statute to other hearing procedure statutes. Also clarifies that a request for a hearing must explain why the person is not liable for the penalty.
49	Corrects an incorrect statute reference.

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT(S) & PROGRAM(S) AFFECTED: Department of the Secretary of State, Department of Revenue, Triangle Transit Authority

EFFECTIVE DATE: Part I (Triangle Transit Authority) is effective July 1, 1999 and applies to contracts entered into on or after that date. Part II, section 7 (notary fee) becomes effective July 1, 1999. All remaining sections become effective when it becomes law.

BILL SUMMARY: Part one of the bill broadens the tax base for the Triangle Transit Authority's 5% gross receipts tax on rental vehicles. Part two of the bill makes numerous technical and conforming changes to the Revenue Laws and related statutes.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:

Part One – Triangle Transit Authority

Part one of the bill allows the Triangle Transit Authority to begin taxing the short-term rental of heavy trucks and trailers. G.S. 105 – 551 permits a regional public transportation authority or a regional transportation authority to levy a privilege tax of up to 5% on businesses leasing or renting U-drive-it passenger vehicles or motorcycles. This bill broadens the tax base for these authorities by striking the words "U-drive-it passenger vehicles or motorcycles" and replacing them with the term "motor vehicles". A motor vehicles is defined in GS 105-164.3 as a vehicle "designed primarily for use upon the highways and is either self propelled or propelled by a self-propelled vehicle". A motor vehicle does not include a moped, special mobile equipment, tow dolly, farm tractor, or road construction equipment.

The Department of Revenue's Tax Research Division has determined that a 5% tax on the gross receipts of heavy truck and trailer rental businesses in Durham, Orange, and Wake counties will generate an additional $1 million in revenue each year for the Triangle Transit Authority. This estimate is based on highway use tax returns from four major truck and/or trailer leasing companies in the state that account for 75% of the business in this market. The tax returns are for the 8% gross receipts tax on short-term rentals these businesses pay to the state. Since Durham, Orange, and Wake counties have 12% of the population and motor vehicle registrations in North Carolina, it was assumed that 12% of the truck and trailer leasing business in the state is done in these three counties.

Part Two – Revenue Laws Technical Changes

Except for Section 7, the changes in this bill have no fiscal impact on the General Fund. Section 7 reinstates a $5 increase in the notary commission fee that was enacted by the 1998 General Assembly in SB 1366 (Chapter 212). Section 29A.9 of SB 1366 increased the nonrefundable fee for notarial commissions from $25 to $30. Unfortunately, SB 1552 (Chapter 228) was also enacted to make changes in the Notary Act and it did not increase the fee. When statute 10A-7 was codified, it was determined that the fee would remain $25 despite legislative intent to increase the fee.

The $5 notarial fee increase is estimated to generate the following revenue:

1999-2000	$74,635
2000-2001	76,665
2001-2002	78,750
2002-2003	80,890

Since this estimate was included in the budgeted revenues for 1998-99 and in future year projections, these revenues will not increase the budget. However, failure to pass this bill will result in the reduction of estimated General Fund revenues.

SENATE BILL 290:
Lobbying Law Amendments

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee: House Finance
Date: June30, 1999
Version: 2nd Edition

Introduced by: Senator Brad Miller
Summary by: Jeffrey Hudson
Staff Attorney &
Mary Shuping, Research Asst.

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 290 increases the amounts of two late filing fees that apply to the expense reports of lobbyists and lobbyists' principals.

CURRENT LAW: Current law requires each lobbyist and lobbyist's principal to file two expense reports each year with the Secretary of State's Office. (A "lobbyist's principal" is the entity on whose behalf the lobbyist influences or attempts to influence legislative action.) One report covers activities from January 1 until the last day of the regular session, and the other report covers the period from the last day of the session until the end of the calendar year. The first report must be filed within 60 days after the end of the regular session, and the second report must be filed by February 28 after the end of the calendar year. A report that is not filed within these time limits is late and is subject to a $10.00 late penalty. A report must be filed even if there were no expenditures made during the reporting period.

The reports must list amounts paid, the person who was paid, and the legislators who benefited in six categories: transportation, lodging, entertainment, food, other items over $25.00, and contributions. A principal's report must also list compensation paid to lobbyists.

BILL ANALYSIS: Senate Bill 290 changes the late filing fee to $10.00 per day for the first 30 days a report is late and then $50.00 per day for each day after the first 30 days, not to exceed $1,000.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act is effective January 1, 2000.

REVENUES	0	May result in a $600 - $9000 revenue increase

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT(S) & PROGRAM(S) AFFECTED: Secretary of State.

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 1, 2000.

BILL SUMMARY: This bill will increase the penalty for filing a late lobbying expense report with the Secretary of State's office. Currently there is a one time late fee of $10.00. The bill increases the late fee to $10.00 per day for the first $30.00 days, and $50.00 per day thereafter. The maximum total fine is $1000.00. It also increases the penalty for non-compliance with the requirement, moving it to a Class A1 misdemeanor. Under current law the non-compliance is a Class 1 misdemeanor.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY: According to the Secretary of State's office, there are 429 lobbyists and 527 principals for the 1999 session.

The same source reports that there were 610 lobbyists and 656 principals for the 1997-8 biennium legislative sessions (1266 total). End of session reports were due to that office by October 27, 1997. One hundred sixty (160) lobbyists and principals did not file their reports by that date. Thus, 13% of lobbyists and principals were late filers. The Secretary of State reports that reporting late fees created $950 in revenue in 1997. The average number of late filers for all four reporting periods (two post session expense reports and two supplemental reports) in the 1997-98 biennium was 147. The lobbyist average is 65. The average number of late filing principals is 90.

During the 1996 session, North Carolina had 584 lobbyists and 636 principals (1220 total). Of these principals and lobbyists, 278 submitted late reports. Therefore, in 1996, approximately 22.8% of the lobbyists and principals were late reporters. Late reporting fee estimates are not available for the 1996 session.

The Secretary of State's office believes that the number of late filers declined from 1995-96 to 1997-98 as a result of their increased efforts to contact lobbyists and principals about their reporting requirements.

North Carolina is one of only four states that link their reporting to the legislative calendar. Two of these states tie their reporting dates exclusively to the legislative calendar. North Carolina and West Virginia link their reporting period to the legislative session and annual dates. Of the states with a similar reporting calendar, one does not access a dollar penalty, and another addresses the issue only when the late reporting is "willful and intentional" requiring court action. Neither drew revenue from penalties in 1997. The third state, New Mexico, charges a penalty of $50 per day, to a maximum of $5000. New Mexico revenue data is not available.

In surrounding states, only Georgia does not have a penalty. The average total late fee collections from the two states that provided revenue information, South Carolina and Florida, is $4,275. In both states approximately 4% of lobbyists and principals were diligent in the 1997. Both have a progressive penalty system somewhat similar to the bill. Florida's penalty structure is most similar, with a $50 per day fee and no maximum.

Assuming the 4% experience in Florida and South Carolina applied, under the bill North Carolina could expect approximately 50 individuals to be delinquent under the new system (1995-96 biennium and 1997-8 biennium average number of lobbyist and principals, times 4%). Given the experiences of Florida and South Carolina, these individuals would likely pay between $25 and $100 in fines, for potential revenue of $1250 to $5000 each filing period. This would be a revenue increase of $300 to $4050 after each legislative session, and a similar increase at the close of each calendar year. (1999-00 numbers are not used in this analysis because the current date is less than half way through the biennium. Therefore, these numbers are likely to increase next year). Since filings are required twice a year, the annual potential revenue increase is $600 - $9,000.

Judicial Branch

According to the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC), their database does not have an offense code for G.S. 120-47.9. Therefore they have no information on how often lobbyists may be charged with this offense. However, they do not expect a significant fiscal impact from the increase in the penalty from a Class 1 to a Class A1 misdemeanor. In order to be charged with the misdemeanor, a lobbyist must not have filed on time, or filed late and paid the late filing fee. They also must not have taken advantage of a filing extension. The Fiscal Research Division believes that the minimal fiscal impact of the bill could be absorbed within existing resources.

Because the revenue portion of the bill does not go into effect until January 1, 2000, and the reports are not due until 60 days after the close of the legislative session, there is no FY 1999-00 impact.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT ALLOWING COUNTIES TO PROVIDE AFFORDABLE HOUSING FOR PERSONS OF LOW AND MODERATE INCOME.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

The General Assembly finds and declares that the purpose of this act is to provide authority for counties in North Carolina to provide funds for residential housing construction, new or rehabilitated, and to provide for the sale or rental of housing to persons and families of low and moderate income. (3) Under procedures and standards established by the county, to convey property by private sale to any public or private entity that provides affordable housing to persons of low or moderate income. The county shall include as part of any such conveyance covenants or conditions that assure the property will be developed by the entity for sale or lease to persons of low or moderate income.

(4) Under procedures and standards established by the county, to convey residential property by private sale to persons of low or moderate income in accordance with G.S. 160A-267 and any terms and conditions that the board of commissioners may determine."

Section 3. G.S. 153A-149(c) is amended by adding a new subdivision to read:

"(15b) Housing. -- To undertake housing programs for low- and moderate-income persons as provided in G.S. 153A-378."

Section 4. G.S. 159-48(c) reads as rewritten:

"(c) Each county is authorized to borrow money and issue its bonds under this Article in evidence of the debt for the purpose of, in the case of subdivisions (1) through (4a) of this subsection, paying any capital costs of any one or more of the purposes and, in the case of ~~subdivision (5)~~ subdivisions (5) and (6) of this subsection, to finance the cost of the purpose:

(1) Providing community college facilities, including without limitation buildings, plants, and other facilities, physical and vocational educational buildings and facilities, including in connection therewith classrooms, laboratories, libraries, auditoriums, administrative offices, student unions, dormitories, gymnasiums, athletic fields, cafeterias, utility plants, and garages.

A housing project may provide housing for persons of other than low or moderate income if at least forty percent (40%) of the units in the project are exclusively reserved for persons of low or moderate income. No rent subsidy may be paid from bond proceeds."

Section 5. This act is effective when it becomes law.

EFFECTIVE DATE: When it becomes law.

BILL SUMMARY: S 708. AFFORDABLE HOUSING. ALLOWING COUNTIES HAVING A POPULATION IN EXCESS OF 500,000 TO PROVIDE AFFORDABLE HOUSING FOR PERSONS OF LOW AND MODERATE INCOME. Adds new GS 153A-378 authorizing counties above 500,000 in population to appropriate and expend funds for residential housing construction (new and rehabilitated) for sale or rental to persons and families of low and moderate income. Board may acquire real property, contract for improvements, and sell the property by private sale to persons of low or moderate income or to public or private entities that provide housing to persons of low or moderate income. Amends GS 153A-149(c) to allow counties to levy property taxes for the purpose and GS 153A-48(c) to permit borrowing money for the purpose. New GS 153A-48(c)(6) provides that a housing project may provide housing for persons other than those of low or moderate income if at least 20% of the units in the project are exclusively reserved for those of low or moderate income. Bond proceeds may not be used for rent subsidies.[1]

[1] Daily Bulletin, Institute of Government, UNC-Chapel Hill, Vol. 1999, April 1, 1999.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY: Senate Bill 708 provides authorizing legislation to North Carolina counties for the purpose of providing affordable housing opportunities for persons of low and moderate income. The bill applies only to counties with a population in excess of 500,000. According to the Office of State Planning's 1997 Certified County Population Estimates, Wake and Mecklenburg counties would qualify under this designation.

There is no reliable manner in which to estimate the number of instances in which counties would choose to exercise the new powers added under G.S. 153A-378, nor is there a reliable estimate of the costs the counties would subsequently incur. The bill addresses project costs by amending current law [G.S. 153A-149(c)], allowing counties to levy property taxes in order to provide affordable housing, and permits counties to borrow funds for those same purposes [(G.S. 159-48(c)]. Senate Bill 708 is permissive and does not require counties with populations in excess of 500,000 to exercise this option.

Physical Therapy Fees

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee: House Finance
Date: June 30, 1999
Version: 1st Edition

Introduced by: Senator Kerr
Summary by: Mary Shuping
Research Assistant

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 799 increases the maximum fees that the North Carolina Board of Physical Therapy Examiners may charge.

BACKGROUND: The North Carolina Board of Physical Therapy Examiners has the authority to determine the qualifications for licensure and to issue, deny, suspend, or revoke the licenses of physical therapists and physical therapist assistants.

Licensed physical therapists evaluate and treat patients using various rehabilitative procedures. Licensed physical therapist assistants work under the supervision of a licensed physical therapist. Persons who wish to become either licensed physical therapists or physical therapy assistants must have graduated from an accredited program.

CURRENT LAW & BILL ANALYSIS: Senate Bill 799 would raise the maximum fees that could be charged by the Board. These fees have not been increased since 1985. The current and proposed fee structure is as follows:

TYPE OF FEE*	CURRENT MAXIMUM FEE	PROPOSED MAXIMUM FEE
Each application for licensure	$100.00	$200.00
License renewal (all licenses are renewed annually)	$40.00	$150.00
Transfer/verification/ replacement certificate	$15.00	$45.00
Examination retake	$30.00	$100.00
Late renewal	$20.00	No change
Licensure revival (in addition to renewal)	$25.00	$75.00
Directory	$5.00	$25.00
Licensee lists; labels	$60.00	$250.00
Computer diskette	N/A	$450.00

* Includes fees for both physical therapists and physical therapist assistants.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The act is effective when it becomes law.

BILL SUMMARY: The bill increases the maximum fee amounts that can be charged by the North Carolina Board of Physical Therapy Examiners.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:
The North Carolina Board of Physical Therapy Examiners' statutory fee structure has not changed since 1985. The Board is now charging the highest fees allowed by statute. SB 799 increases the maximum statutory fees, but the Board plans to gradually increase fees to the statutory maximum. The chart on page two of this fiscal note shows the fee amounts and revenue from the current Board fees, the fees proposed by the Board if the law is enacted, and the maximum fees allowed by SB 799. Based on 1998 licenses, the Board would earn an additional $156,330 a year on the fees it intends to charge in the year 2000. If the Board charged the maximum fees allowed, it would earn an additional $807,310 a year.

The Board of Physical Therapy Examiners projects a 5% annual growth rate for all the above categories except license lists. This 5% growth rate was applied to the base year 1998 and used to increase each category annually until 2004. (see chart below) Instead of the maximum allowed by SB 799, this fiscal note assumes the Board recommended rates until the year 2005.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO PROVIDE AN EXCEPTION TO THE LATE LISTING PENALTY FOR CERTAIN REAL PROPERTY IN COUNTIES THAT HAVE NOT ADOPTED PERMANENT LISTING AND TO PHASE IN PERMANENT LISTING IN ALL COUNTIES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. It is the intent of the General Assembly to encourage all counties to adopt a permanent property tax listing system in accordance with G.S. 105-303(b). The General Assembly finds that permanent listing is more convenient for taxpayers and more efficient for counties. To encourage counties to adopt permanent listing in the next few years, Section 2 of this act prohibits counties that have not adopted such a system from charging late listing penalties in certain circumstances. Section 3 of this act requires all counties to adopt permanent listing systems by the 2004 tax year.

Section 2. G.S. 105-312(h) reads as rewritten:

"(h) Computation of Penalties. -- Having computed each year's taxes separately as provided in subsection ~~(g), above,~~ (g) of this section, there shall be added a penalty of ten percent (10%) of the amount of the tax for the earliest year in which the property was not listed, plus an additional ten percent (10%) of the same amount for each subsequent listing period that elapsed before the property was discovered. This penalty shall be computed separately for each year in which a failure to list occurred; and the year, the amount of the tax for that year, and the total of penalties for failure to list in that year shall be shown separately on the tax records; but the taxes and penalties for all years in which there was a failure to list shall be then totalled on a single tax receipt. The penalty provided in this section does not apply to real property if there have been no improvements to the property since it was last listed and there has been no change in ownership since it was last listed."

Section 3. Effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 2004, G.S. 105-303(b) reads as rewritten:

"(b) ~~With the approval of the Department of Revenue, the board of county commissioners may install a permanent listing system. (The Department's approval shall not, however, be required for any such system installed prior to April 3, 1939.)~~ The board of commissioners of each county must install a permanent listing system. Each county must obtain the approval of the Department of Revenue for its permanent listing system. Under such a system the provisions of subdivisions (b)(1) through ~~(b)(4), below, shall~~ (b)(4) of this subsection apply.

(1) The assessor ~~shall be~~ is responsible for listing all real property on the abstracts and tax records each year in the name of the owner of record as of the day as of which property is to be listed under G.S. 105-285.

(2) Persons whose duty it is to list real property under the provisions of G.S. 105-302 ~~shall be~~ are relieved of that duty, but annually, during the listing period established by G.S. 105-307, ~~such persons shall~~ these persons must furnish the assessor with the information concerning improvements on and separate rights in real property required by G.S. 105-309(c)(3) through (c)(5).

(3) The penalties imposed by G.S. 105-308 and 105-312 ~~shall not be imposed for~~ do not apply to failure to list real property for taxation, but they ~~shall be imposed for~~ apply to failure to comply with the provisions of subdivision ~~(b)(2), above,~~ (b)(2) of this subsection with respect to reporting the construction or acquisition of improvements on and separate rights in real property. In such a case, the penalty prescribed by G.S. 105-312 shall be computed on the basis of the tax imposed on the improvements and separate rights.

(4) The Department of Revenue may authorize the board of county commissioners to make additional modifications of the listing requirements of this Subchapter, ~~but no such modification shall conflict with the provisions of~~ as long as the modifications do not conflict with subdivisions (b)(1) through ~~(b)(3), above.~~ (b)(3) of this subsection."

Section 4. Section 3 of this act is effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 2004. The remainder of this act is effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 1999. Section 2 of this act is repealed effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 2004.

SENATE BILL 817:
Real Property Tax Penalty

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House Finance	Introduced by:	Senator Ballance
Date:	June 30, 1999	Summary by:	Cindy Avrette
Version:	2nd Edition		Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: Senate Bill 817 requires each county to install a permanent listing system effective for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 2004. For taxable years until 2004, the 10% late listing penalty will not apply to property that has not been improved or transferred since it was last listed.

CURRENT LAW: Ninety-four counties have implemented a permanent listing system for property tax purposes. Under a permanent listing system, the assessor is responsible for listing all real property for property tax purposes instead of the owner. The owner of the property does not need to respond to the listing form unless the property has been improved or transferred since the last listing. The 10% late listing penalty does not to property listed under a permanent listing system. However, the penalty does apply if the taxpayer fails to furnish the assessor with information concerning improvements to the property not reflected on the listing form.

The late listing penalty applies to property that should have been listed for tax purposes but is not. When the property is "discovered", the property is taxed for the year it was discovered and the preceding five years it escaped taxation. Each year's taxes are computed separately. A late listing penalty equal to 10% of the amount of the tax for the earliest year the property was not listed is added to the amount of tax due. The penalty is computed separately for each year the failure to list occurred.

BILL ANALYSIS: Section 1 states the intent of the General Assembly to encourage all counties to adopt a permanent property tax listing system. There are only six counties that have not adopted a system: Clay, Graham, Swain, Vance, Warren, and Yancey.

Section 2 provides that the 10% penalty on discovered property does not apply to real property if there have been no improvements to the property since it was last listed and there has been no change in ownership since it was last listed. This section is repealed effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 2004.

Section 3 requires the board of commissioners of each county to install a permanent listing system. This section is effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 2004.

Martha Walston, counsel to the Senate Finance Committee, contributed to this summary.

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT(S) & PROGRAM(S) AFFECTED: County and municipal governments, the North Carolina Department of Revenue, Property Tax Division.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Section 3 of this act is effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 2004. The remainder of this act is effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 1999. Section 2 of this act is repealed effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 2004.

BILL SUMMARY: The legislation makes two changes to real property tax law. First, it provides an exception to the late listing penalty for property that has not been improved or transferred since it was last listed. This is generally referred to as unimproved discovered property. This applies only in counties were there is no permanent listing system. Second, it requires that each county install a permanent listing system. This system must be approved by the Department of Revenue, and implemented by the 2004 tax year.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY: According to the Department of Revenue, as of January 1, 1999 there were six counties without a permanent listing system. These counties are Clay, Graham, Swain, Vance, Warren, and Yancey. All of the remaining 94 counties have some version of a permanent listing system.

Under a permanent listing system, real property is assumed to remain the same, unless the county has reason to believe otherwise. In counties without a permanent system, the assessor requires property owners to listing their real property each year. According to the Department of Revenue, many counties have a permanent system, but also use a post card reminder system to give property owners a convenient opportunity to declare any significant modifications or unrecorded transfers. In the case of residential property, a significant modification would include building a deck or garage, or increasing the overall footprint of the home. When a permanent listing system is used, assessors often depend on inspection and permit officials for much of their information on property improvements.

According to the Department of Revenue, the amount of discovered property in a county is generally very insignificant each year, unless the county performs an audit. Counties are only required to audit one-eighth of their exempt property each year. There are no requirements to audit property that produces income for the county. Because there is no data available on the amount of discovered property, the associated penalty amounts, or how much of that property is held by the same owner and unimproved, no fiscal estimate is possible on this portion of the bill. However, the bill has the potential to decrease penalty income in the six counties that do not have a permanent listing system. Since provision of the bill expires in 2004, there will be no fiscal impact after that date.

The requirement that all counties have a permanent listing system by 2004 could have a fiscal impact on the six counties without such a system. No information is available at this time on the cost of developing a permanent system.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO EXEMPT FROM PROPERTY TAX MODIFIED MOTOR VEHICLES OWNED BY DISABLED VETERANS WHO ARE ELIGIBLE FOR FEDERAL SPECIAL EQUIPMENT ALLOWANCES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. G.S. 105-275 is amended by adding a new subdivision to read:

"(5a) A motor vehicle owned by a disabled veteran that is altered with special equipment to accommodate a service-connected disability. As used in this section, disabled veteran means a person as defined in 38 U.S.C. § 101(2) who is entitled to special automotive equipment for a service-connected disability, as provided in 38 U.S.C. § 3901."

Section 2. This act is effective for taxes imposed for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 1999.

HOUSE BILL 133
Exempt Disabled Veteran Vehicles

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House Finance	Sponsor:	Rep. Rogers
Date:	June 30, 1999	Analysis by:	Martha H. Harris
Version:	Second Edition		Staff Attorney

SUMMARY: Exempts from property tax motor vehicles (1) owned by veterans with certain service-related disabilities and (2) altered with special equipment to accommodate the service-related disability, effective for tax years beginning July 1999. Because motor vehicles are taxed on a staggered schedule, it is not too late for the exemption to take effect at this time. To receive the exemption, the vehicle owner must first file an application with the county assessor.

This bill is a transportation committee substitute for the original bill. The original bill exempted from property tax all motor vehicles owned by veterans with combat-related total disabilities, and provided for the State to reimburse counties for their resulting revenue losses. The original bill was estimated to cost the State nearly $300,000 a year. The transportation committee substitute changed the exemption to one that applies to vehicles altered to accommodate veterans with certain service-related disabilities, and removed the reimbursement provision. This change resulted in a smaller estimated loss, less than $130,000 a year, and shifted the impact of the loss from the State to local governments.

Under federal law, veterans with certain service-related disabilities qualify for an allowance for equipment to adapt a vehicle to accommodate the disability. Vehicles owned by those veterans and so altered would be eligible for this property tax exemption. The service-related disabilities that qualify a veteran are loss of one or both hands or feet, permanent loss of use of one or both hands or feet, or permanent impairment of vision of both eyes. The veteran must file an application to receive the exemption. Once an approved exemption is on file, it remains in effect and the vehicle is omitted from the tax rolls. The application need not be renewed each year.

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT(S) & PROGRAM(S) AFFECTED: Department of Revenue

EFFECTIVE DATE: Effective for taxable years beginning on or after July 1, 1999.

BILL SUMMARY:
The proposed bill exempts from property tax those motor vehicles owned by disabled veterans who are eligible for federal special equipment allowances.

BACKGROUND:
Veterans who have a service-connected loss of one or both hands or feet, a permanent loss of use of one or both hands or feet, or permanent impairment of vision of both eyes qualify for federal automobile assistance. The United States Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) offers a one-time payment of up to $8,000 toward the purchase of an automobile. The VA will also pay for adaptive equipment and for the repair, replacement, or reinstallation of adaptive equipment.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:
The North Carolina Division of Veterans Affairs in the Department of Administration reports that 1,560 veterans living in North Carolina are entitled to a federal automobile grant or adaptive equipment allowance for service-connected disabilities. For this fiscal note, it is assumed that each veteran will claim the property tax exemption for one vehicle. The average value of a vehicle in North Carolina is $7,632 in 1999. This vehicle value is the average of vehicle valuations taken from Cabarrus, Orange, Haywood, Surry, Halifax, and Sampson counties. A company that provides vehicle tax values to county tax assessors statewide provided the data for 1999 vehicle values.

Since it is difficult to predict whether this veteran population will trade, buy, or retain their vehicles in the next five years, the average vehicle price is adjusted by a national inflation rate for light vehicles. A Standard & Poor's DRI national forecast for light vehicles (cars and trucks) in January 1999 predicted an increase in car values as follows:

1999 1%
2000 1.3%
2001 1.6%
2003 1.7%

Without a printout of addresses for disabled veterans, a statewide tax rate is used to estimate the fiscal impact of this bill. The unified property tax rate for all government jurisdictions in North Carolina has fluctuated from .994 per $100 of assessed valuation in 1993-94 to .968 per $100 in 1997-98. Due to pressures in many counties to build schools and provide other services, an estimated rate of $1.00 per $100 of assessed value is used in this note.

Using the variables mentioned above, the revenue impact is calculated as follows:

	Average Car Values	DRI Inflation est.	Disabled Veterans	Value of Exempted Property	Unified Property Tax Rate	Property Tax Exempted
1999-00	$7,632	1.0%	1,560	$11,905,920	$1.00	$119,059
2000-01	$7,731	1.3%	1,560	$12,060,360	$1.00	$120,604
2001-02	$7,855	1.6%	1,560	$12,253,800	$1.00	$122,538
2002-03	$8,012	2.0%	1,560	$12,498,720	$1.00	$124,987
2003-04	$8,148	1.7%	1,560	$12,710,880	$1.00	$127,109

HOUSE BILL 1010:
Cotton Gins, Warehouses, Merchants

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House Finance	Introduced by:	Representative Hill
Date:	July 1, 1999	Summary by:	Mary Shuping
Version:	2nd Edition		Research Assistant

SUMMARY: House Bill 1010 requires all cotton gins, cotton warehouses, and cotton merchants to be registered. The bill also establishes the registration fee and bond requirements and provides that operation without registration is a Class 2 misdemeanor.

CURRENT LAW & BILL ANALYSIS: Under current law, there is no requirement that cotton gins, warehouses, or merchants be registered.

House Bill 1010 would regulate cotton gins, warehouses, and merchants, as follows:

Cotton Gins, Cotton Warehouses, and Cotton Merchants would be required to register with the Commissioner of Agriculture before engaging in business. A "cotton warehouse" is an enclosure in which producer-owned cotton is stored or held for longer than 48 hours. A "cotton merchant" is a person who buys cotton for the purpose of resale, or acts as a broker or agent for the producer. The term does not include someone who buys cotton for his own use.

Registration Fee; Bond. Cotton gins, cotton merchants, and cotton warehouses would be required to register with the Department of Agriculture by July 1 of each year. The annual fee for registration is $25.00. In addition, cotton warehouses that are not licensed and bonded under the U.S. Warehouse Act must submit a bond in the amount of $300,000.

Records; Receipts; Denial of Registration. Cotton gins, cotton warehouses, cotton merchants, and cotton cooperatives or associations are required to keep records of producer-owned cotton transactions for 7 years and cannot dispose of the cotton without consent from the producer. Gins are required to give a document showing the bale number and weight for each bale to the grower within 48 hours. Finally, these entities are required to assist agents of the NC Department of Agriculture in inspection of records and weighing or re-weighing cotton bales samples. Violations of these requirements are grounds for denial, suspension, or revocation of registration.

Operation Without Registration is punishable as a Class 2 misdemeanor.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The act is effective January 1, 2000.

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT(S) & PROGRAM(S) AFFECTED: North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 1, 2000.

BILL SUMMARY: The legislation requires that all cotton gins, cotton merchants, cotton warehouses and cotton marketing cooperative associations that gin, sell, or warehouse cotton register with the state. They must also pay a $25.00 annual fee. The fee is due on July 1 of each year. The registration must be conspicuously displayed at the place of business. The bill also requires that registration applications for cotton warehouses also include a bond of $300,000. No bond is required if the person involved is licensed and bonded under the U.S. Warehouse Act. Additionally the bill directs that gins, merchants, warehouses and cooperative associations maintain transaction records for seven years. Cotton gins must also, within 48 hours of ginning, make documents available to those who provided the cotton, showing the bale number and weight for each bale ginned. The bill also requires that gins, merchants, warehouses and cooperative associations get written consent from the producer before the product is sold or committed. The same organizations must also assist the Agriculture Commissioner and his agents when inspecting records or weighing cotton bales. Violation of any of the recording, sale, or assistance provisions is grounds for denial, suspension, or revocation of registration. Engaging in this business without the appropriate registration is punishable as a Class 2 misdemeanor. The Commission is authorized to apply for an injunction to prevent violations of the act.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY: Under the legislation, each cotton gin, warehouse, merchant, and cooperative engaged in one or more of these businesses must register and pay a $25.00 annual fee. The Department of Agriculture reports that there where 48 cotton gins, 28 cotton warehouses, and 20 cotton merchants in 1997. Assuming each paid the $25.00 annual fee, the potential revenue is as follows:

	Number	Potential Revenue
Cotton Gins	48	1,200
Cotton Warehouses	28	700
Cotton Merchants	20	500
TOTAL	96	2,400

The fiscal note assumes no significant growth in the number of gins, warehouses, or merchants in the next five years.

The bill also makes operating a gin, warehouse or merchant without a registration a Class 2 misdemeanor. Because the maximum prison time associated with a Class 2 misdemeanor is 60 days, and the number of violations is expected to be extremely low, Fiscal Research does not anticipate the bill will create a cost to the prison system.

The Department of Agriculture reports that the registration and inspection processes outlined in the bill can be handled by existing staff.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT TO AUTHORIZE PUBLIC HOSPITALS TO ENGAGE IN INSTALLMENT PURCHASE FINANCING AND TO ISSUE REVENUE ANTICIPATION NOTES.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. G.S. 160A-20(h) is amended by adding a new subdivision to read:

"(h) As used in this section, the term 'unit of local government' means any of the following:

(12) A nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital as defined in G.S. 159-39."

Section 2. G.S. 160A-20 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

"(e1) A nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital may only enter into a contract pursuant to this section if the nonprofit corporation or association will have an ownership interest in the property being financed, including a leasehold interest, and the security interest granted in such property being financed shall only be to the extent of such property interest. In addition, any contract entered into by a nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital pursuant to this section is subject to the approval of the city, county, hospital district, or hospital authority which owns such hospital. Approval of the city, county, hospital district, or hospital authority may be withheld only under one or more of the following circumstances:

(1) The contract would cause the city, county, hospital district, or hospital authority to breach or violate any covenant in an existing financing instrument entered into by such entity.

(2) The contract would restrict the ability of the city, county, hospital district, or hospital authority to incur anticipated bank eligible indebtedness under federal tax laws.

(3) The entering into of the contract would have a material adverse impact on the credit ratings of the city, county, hospital district, or hospital authority or otherwise materially interfere with an anticipated financing by such entity."

Section 3. G.S. 159-170 reads as rewritten:

"§ 159-170. Revenue anticipation notes.

(a) Authorization; Term. -- A unit of local government or a nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital as defined in G.S. 159-39, is authorized to borrow money for the purpose of paying appropriations made or expenses budgeted or incurred for the current fiscal year in anticipation of the receipt of revenues, other than taxes, estimated in its budget to be realized or collected in cash during the fiscal year, and to issue its negotiable notes in evidence thereof. A nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital may only borrow money pursuant to this section if it is legally entitled to collect and pledge such revenues to the payment of the noted as provided in this section. A revenue anticipation note shall mature not later than 30 days after the close of the fiscal year in which it is issued, and may not be renewed beyond that time.

(b) Limit on Amount; Disclosure. -- No revenue anticipation loan shall be made if the amount thereof, together with the amount of all revenue anticipation notes authorized or outstanding on the date the loan is authorized, would exceed eighty percent (80%) of the revenues of the issuing ~~unit,~~ unit or the nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital, other than taxes, estimated in its budget to be realized or collected in cash during the fiscal year. Each revenue anticipation note shall bear on its face a statement to the effect that it is payable solely from budgeted nontax revenues of the issuing unit ~~and~~ or the nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital and that the faith and credit of the issuing unit or, in the case of revenue anticipation notes issued by a nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital, the local government unit that owns the public hospital are not pledged for the payment of the ~~note, and~~ note. Each note shall also bear on its face or reverse the following certificate signed by the finance officer: 'This note and all other revenue anticipation notes of ~~(issuing unit)~~ (issuer) authorized or outstanding as of (date) amount to eighty percent (80%) or less of the budgeted nontax revenues for the current fiscal year as of the above date.' No revenue anticipation note shall be valid without this certificate.

(c) Faith and Credit Not Pledged. -- Revenue anticipation notes issued under this section shall be special obligations of the issuing ~~unit.~~ unit or the nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital. Neither the credit nor the taxing power of the issuing ~~unit~~ unit or, in the case of revenue anticipation notes issued by a nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital, the local government unit that owns the public hospital may be pledged for the payment of revenue anticipation ~~notes, and no~~ notes. No holder of a revenue anticipation note shall have the right to compel the exercise of the taxing power by the issuing unit or, in the case of revenue anticipation notes issued by a nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital, the local government unit that owns the public hospital or the forfeiture of any of its property in connection with any default thereon.

(d) Any revenue anticipation notes issued by a nonprofit corporation or association operating or leasing a public hospital pursuant to this section are subject to the approval of the city, county, hospital district, or hospital authority which owns the hospital. Approval of the city, county, hospital district, or hospital authority may be withheld only under one or more of the following circumstances:

(1) The contract would cause the city, county, hospital district, or hospital authority to breach or violate any covenant in an existing financing instrument entered into by such entity.

(2) The contract would restrict the ability of the city, county, hospital district, or hospital authority to incur anticipated bank eligible indebtedness under federal tax laws.

(3) The entering into of the contract would have a material adverse impact on the credit ratings of the city, county, hospital district, or hospital authority or otherwise materially interfere with an anticipated financing by such entity."

Section 4. This act is effective when it becomes law.

HOUSE BILL 1120:
Authorize Public Hospital Debt

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee: House Finance
Date: July 1, 1999
Version: 2nd Edition

Introduced by: Rep. Wright
Summary by: Cindy Avrette
Committee Counsel

SUMMARY: House Bill 1120 authorizes public hospitals to engage in installment purchase financing and to issue revenue anticipation bonds. The bill becomes effective when it becomes law.

CURRENT LAW: A public hospital is a hospital that meets one of the following conditions:

- Is operated by a county, city, hospital district, or hospital authority.
- Is owned by a county, city, hospital district, or hospital authority and operated by a nonprofit corporation or assocation, a majority of whose board of directors or trustees are appointed by the governing body of a county, city, hospital district, or hospital authority.
- Is a hospital on whose behalf a county or city has issued and has outstanding general obligation or revenue bonds, or to which a county or city makes current appropriations.

A public hospital has exclusive control of its own budgeting and accounting, without supervision from the county, city, or the Local Government Commission (LGC). However, financing capital debt is more restricted. Public hospitals may issue revenue bonds, subject to the approval and conditions of the LGC. Counties and cities may issue general obligation bonds to provide hospital facilities and services.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 1120 authorizes two additional forms of capital financing for public hospitals: installment purchase financing and revenue anticipation bonds.

Sections 1 and 2 of the bill expand the use of installment purchase financing to public hospitals. The public hospitals hope that installment financing will enable them to respond more rapidly to their capital financing needs, such as equipment, land, and facilities. Section 1 expands the definition of "unit of local government" to include "public hospitals". As a unit of local government, public hospitals will be able to finance the purchase of real or personal property by installment contracts that create in the property purchsed a security interest to secure payment of the urchase price to the person or entity financing the purchase. One type of installment financing is certificates of participation. A certificate of participation is similar to a bond, but is less costly than holding abond referendum and issuing bonds. Section 2 requires the the county or city that owns the hospitl to approve of any installment financing contract that a public hospital signs. The county or city must approve the contract unless it determines that the contract would adversely affect its credit worthiness, an anticipated bond issuance, or an existing bond order.

Section 3 would allow public hospitals to issue revenue anticipation bonds. A revenue anticipation bond would allow a public hospital to borrow money to pay expenses in the current fiscal year, to be repaid from the receipt of nontax revenues to be collected later in the fiscal year. A public hospital may not issue revenue anticipation bonds unless the local government unit that owns the facility and the LGC approve the issuance. The public hospitals desire this legislation as a means of obtaining a line of credit from financial institutions to secure a means of revenue in case insurers or the hospital cannot process claims in the year 2000.

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT(S) & PROGRAM(S) AFFECTED: Public Hospitals and Local Governments that lease or contract for public hospital services.

EFFECTIVE DATE: When it becomes law.

BILL SUMMARY: G.S. 160A-20(h) allows counties, cities and specifically named local authorities to use installment financing for capital projects. The bill adds non-profit corporations or associations that are operating or leasing a public hospital to this list. It also authorizes pubic hospitals and the non-profit corporations or associations that operate or lease public hospitals to issue revenue anticipation notes. The bill requires that the unit of local government that owns the hospital approve these contracts and notes. The legislation also outlines under what circumstances the local government can reject the request.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY: Under G.S. 160A-20, units of local government have the ability to finance the purchase of property through installment contracts. The term "local unit of government," as defined in subpart (h), currently includes counties, cities, water and sewer authorities, certain airport authorities, area mental health and substance abuse authorities, and certain school districts with independent taxing authority. The bill adds nonprofit corporations or associations operating or leasing a public hospital to the list. There is no direct impact on state or local revenues from these additions because the bill only gives them an additional financing tool.

Under G.S. 159-170 units of local government are authorized to borrow money to pay current year expenses. The notes are held in anticipation of future revenues. The legislation authorizes nonprofit organizations or associations that operate or lease public hospitals to take advantage of this financing option, under certain circumstances. There is no direct impact on state or local revenues from these additions because the bill only gives them an additional financing tool.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act is effective when it becomes law.

BILL SUMMARY:
The bill establishes the Locksmith Licensing Act. Locksmiths would be required to obtain a license, renewable every three years.

BACKGROUND:
The Legislative Committee on New Licensing Boards recommended the licensing of locksmiths in its report published on June 21, 1999. According to the Associated Locksmiths of America (ALOA), the following states license locksmiths: California, Nevada, Nebraska, Illinois, Louisiana, and New Jersey.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:
The North Carolina Locksmith Association (NCLA) has approximately 250 members and purports to represent one-third of the locksmiths in the state. If correct, then approximately 750 locksmiths will be subject to licensure in FY 1999-00 when HB 1177 is enacted. The NCLA believes the number of new locksmiths in the state will increase 8% to 10% each year over the next five years. This fiscal note will assume the lower growth rate of 8% for licensees as follows:

	FY 1999-00	FY 2000-01	FY 2001-02	FY 2002-03	FY 2003-04
Licensees	750	810	875	945	1,020

New licensees will be taking an examination created by the North Carolina Locksmith Licensing Board and pay a $200 exam fee. Current and future locksmiths will pay a $100 license fee every three years. The following chart shows the projected revenue from the fees in this bill.

	FY 1999-00	FY 2000-01	FY 2001-02	FY 2002-03	FY 2003-04

Corrective action may not be ordered by the Board during the pendency of any civil action arising from the same facts or circumstances alleged in the notice of hearing. For purposes of this section, residential construction is defined as any construction activity required to conform to the residential building code adopted by the North Carolina State Building Code Council pursuant to G.S. 143-138.

Any person may prefer charges of such fraud, deceit, negligence or misconduct against any general contractor licensed hereunder; such charges shall be in writing and sworn to by the complainant and submitted to the Board. The Board may suspend collection of this fee for any year upon a determination that the amount in the Fund is sufficient to meet likely disbursements from the Fund for that year. The Board shall notify city and county building inspectors when it suspends collection of the fee."

Section 5. Chapter 87 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new Article to read:

"ARTICLE 1B.

"Homebuilder Responsibility Act.

"§ 87-15.13. Title, purpose.

The General Assembly finds that the outstanding natural and cultural resources, educational, employment, and recreational opportunities, and other values of the State have made it one of the most attractive places in the nation to live. The General Assembly finds that the present population growth and anticipated future growth of the State has created tremendous opportunities in the residential construction business. This growth also has placed pressure on existing resources, including trained labor, appropriate home sites, and governmental inspection agencies. The General Assembly finds that a home constitutes one of the largest purchases most consumers will ever make and that it is material to the general welfare and public interest that homes be constructed free from major construction defects and substantial building code violations. It is the purpose of this act, therefore, to help protect homebuyers from the losses that result when general contractors and new home vendors engage in dishonest or incompetent conduct and to ensure that residential homes are constructed in a workmanlike manner and are free from major construction defects or substantial violations of the North Carolina State Building Code.

"§ 87-15.14. Definitions.

The following definitions apply to this Article:

(1) 'Board'. -- The State Licensing Board for General Contractors.

(2) 'Licensed contractor'. -- Any person required to obtain a license as a general contractor pursuant to Article 1 of Chapter 87 of the General Statutes.

(3) 'Residential construction'. -- Any construction activity required to conform to the residential building code adopted by the North Carolina State Building Code Council pursuant to G.S. 143-138.

"§ 87-15.15. Additional licensing requirements; experience.

The Board shall develop and implement rules establishing minimum experience requirements for persons applying for licensure to perform any type of residential construction for which a general contractor's license is required pursuant to Article 1 of this Chapter. In establishing the experience requirement the Board may consider both practical and management experience. The rules adopted by the Board may provide credit for a portion of any experience requirement for technical training or certification or for a bachelors or graduate degree in architecture, engineering, construction management, or related area. In no event shall the experience requirement exceed a total of four years. This section shall not apply to persons to whom the Board has issued a general contractor's license pursuant to G.S. 87-10(b) on or before January 1, 2000."

"§ 87-15.16. Insurance.

(a) Each licensed contractor performing residential construction shall at all times maintain at least the minimum commercial general liability insurance coverage established by the Board pursuant to subsection (b) of this section.

(b) The Board shall adopt rules establishing the amounts of commercial general liability insurance that a licensee performing residential construction shall be required to carry. In no event shall the Board require insurance coverage in excess of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) per occurrence. Verification of insurance coverage shall be made in a manner satisfactory to the Board.

"§ 87-15.17. Homebuilders to list license number.

Any person who undertakes to perform residential construction and who must be licensed as a general contractor pursuant to Article 1 of this Chapter, and who advertises their services in any publication, shall include in the publication in legible type the license number issued to them by the Board."

Section 7. State and local code enforcement officials inspecting existing residential buildings are encouraged to report to the State Licensing Board for General Contractors substantial violations of the North Carolina State Building Code found during the conduct of their inspections. For purposes of this section, a residential building is one that is required to be constructed in accordance with the requirements of the residential building code adopted by the North Carolina State Building Code Council pursuant to G.S. 143-138.

Section 8. This act constitutes a recent act of the General Assembly within the meaning of G.S. 150B-21.1. The State Licensing Board for General Contractors may adopt temporary rules to implement the provisions of this act.

Section 9. This act becomes effective January 1, 2000.

HOUSE BILL 1254:
Homebuilder Responsibility

BILL ANALYSIS

Committee:	House Finance	Introduced by:	Representative Earle
Date:	July 14, 1999	Summary by:	Mary Shuping
Version:	New PCS for 2nd Edition H1254-CSRB-7/13		Research Assistant

SUMMARY: House Bill 1254 lowers the dollar amount of structural improvements requiring a general contractor's license; expands the disciplinary authority of the General Contractors Licensing Board; amends the definition of "reimbursable loss" for the Homeowners Recovery Fund; increases the permit fee for single-family dwelling units, and increases the amount of the fee remitted to the Homeowners Recovery Fund; and establishes the Homebuilder Responsibility Act.

The proposed committee substitute incorporates the amendments previously adopted by the House Finance Committee changing the cost of construction requiring a general contractors license from $5,000 in the 2nd edition of the bill to $15,000, and correcting a typographical error in existing law. The proposed committee substitute also makes several other changes. All changes are bolded in the bill summary.

CURRENT LAW & BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1. Current law provides that any person, firm or corporation who, for a fixed price, commission, wage or fee, undertakes construction or the managing of construction projects where the cost is $30,000 or more is deemed a "general contractor." House Bill 1254 lowers the threshold for the construction cost from $30,000 to $15,000 (was $5,000 under the 2nd edition of the bill).

Note: Under current law, the following persons are exempt from the general contractor licensure requirements:

- Persons, firms, or corporations who erect industrial equipment, power plant equipment, radial brick chimneys, and monuments.
- Persons who construct or alter dwellings on their own land, provided it is solely for the occupancy of that person and that person's family for at least 12 months following completion.
- Farmers who construct or alter buildings on their own land for use in farming.

Section 2 of the bill expands the powers of the General Contractors' Licensing Board (Board) to discipline general contractors. Current law allows only for the revocation of a license for fraud, deceit, gross negligence, incompetency, misconduct, or willful violation of the Article. In addition to revocation, House Bill 1254 allows the Board to suspend, refuse to renew, or restrict a license for any of these reasons and provides the Board with the additional authority to revoke, suspend, refuse to renew, or restrict licenses for:

- Violations of the State Building Code that create a substantial risk of personal injury or substantial property damage.

- Failure to take corrective action as ordered by the Board. In addition, with the consent of the complainant, the Board may order a contractor to take corrective action in cases involving residential construction if the Board finds that the contractor engaged in fraud or deceit, or was grossly negligent, or incompetent. However, the Board may not order corrective action when a civil action is pending.

Finally, this section also allows the Board to revoke, suspend, or restrict the ability of any person to act as a qualifying party for a license to practice general contracting for any co-partnership or corporation if the person committed any of the above violations.

Section 3 modifies the definition of "reimbursable loss" under the Homeowners Recovery Act. Current law provides that a reimbursable monetary loss 1) results from dishonest or incompetent conduct by a general contractor; 2) is not paid, in whole or in part, by the contractor who caused the loss; and 3) is not covered by a bond, surety agreement, or an insurance contract. HB 1254 provides that a monetary loss is not paid in whole or in part by the contractor when the person has recovered less than 10% of the judgement against the contractor (was less than 25% of the judgement in the 2nd edition of the bill).

Section 4 increases the permit fee for the construction or alteration of single family dwelling units from $5.00 to $10.00, and increases the amount of that fee placed in the Homeowners Recovery Fund from $4.00 to $8.00.

Section 5 establishes a new Article entitled the "Homebuilder Responsibility Act". The PCS adds clarifying definitions for "Building contractor" and "Residential contractor" to conform with the current definitions in G.S. 87-10, and uses these terms throughout the Article. The Board is required to implement rules establishing minimum experience requirements for persons applying for licensure as building contractors or residential contractors . In establishing the rules, the Board may consider both practical and management experience, and the Board may provide credit for a portion of any experience requirement for technical training, or a bachelors or graduate degree in architecture, engineering, construction management or a related area. The experience requirement cannot exceed four years. Finally, persons who have been issued a general contractor's license prior to January 1, 2000 are exempt from the additional licensing requirements.

The bill also requires the Board to mandate that building contractors and residential contractors maintain commercial general liability insurance coverage. The Board will set the amount of coverage; however, the maximum amount of insurance the Board may require is $500,000 per occurrence.

Finally, the bill requires building contractors and residential contractors to include their license number in all advertisements.

Section 6 encourages State and local code enforcement officials to report substantial violations of the residential building code to the Board.

Section 7 allows the Board to adopt temporary rules to implement the act.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The act becomes effective January 1, 2000.

SUMMARY: House Bill 1254 lowers the dollar amount of structural improvements requiring a general contractor's license; expands the disciplinary authority of the General Contractors Licensing Board; amends the definition of "reimbursable loss" for the Homeowners Recovery Fund; increases the permit fee for single-family dwelling units, and increases the amount of the fee remitted to the Homeowners Recovery Fund; and establishes the Homebuilder Responsibility Act.

CURRENT LAW & BILL ANALYSIS:

Section 1. Current law provides that any person, firm or corporation who, for a fixed price, commission, wage or fee, undertakes construction or the managing of construction projects where the cost is $30,000 or more is deemed a "general contractor." House Bill 1254 lowers the threshold for the construction cost from $30,000 to $5,000.

Note: Under current law, the following persons are exempt from the general contractor licensure requirements:

- Persons, firms, or corporations who erect industrial equipment, power plant equipment, radial brick chimneys, and monuments.
- Persons who construct or alter dwellings on their own land, provided it is solely for the occupancy of that person and that person's family for at least 12 months following completion.
- Farmers who construct or alter buildings on their own land for use in farming.

Section 2 of the bill expands the powers of the General Contractors' Licensing Board (Board) to discipline general contractors. Current law allows only for the revocation of a license for fraud, deceit, gross negligence, incompetency, misconduct, or willful violation of the Article. In addition to revocation, House Bill 1254 allows the Board to suspend, refuse to renew, or restrict a license for any of these reasons and provides the Board with the additional authority to revoke, suspend, refuse to renew, or restrict licenses for:

- Violations of the State Building Code that create a substantial risk of personal injury or substantial property damage.
- Failure to take corrective action as ordered by the Board. In addition, with the consent of the complainant, the Board may order a contractor to take corrective action in cases involving residential construction if the Board finds that the contractor engaged in fraud or deceit, or was grossly negligent, or incompetent. However, the Board may not order corrective action when a civil action is pending.

Finally, this section also allows the Board to revoke, suspend, or restrict the ability of any person to act as a qualifying party for a license to practice general contracting for any co-partnership or corporation if the person committed any of the above violations.

Section 3 modifies the definition of "reimbursable loss" under the Homeowners Recovery Act. Current law provides that a reimbursable monetary loss 1) results from dishonest or incompetent conduct by a general contractor; 2) is not paid, in whole or in part, by the contractor who caused the loss; and 3) is not covered by a bond, surety agreement, or an insurance contract. HB 1254 provides that a monetary loss is not paid in whole or in part by the contractor when the person has recovered less than 25% of the judgement against the contractor.

Section 4 increases the permit fee for the construction or alteration of single family dwelling units from $5.00 to $10.00, and increases the amount of that fee placed in the Homeowners Recovery Fund from $4.00 to $8.00.

Section 5 establishes a new Article entitled the "Homebuilder Responsibility Act". The Board is required to implement rules establishing minimum experience requirements for general contractors who perform residential construction. In establishing the rules, the Board may consider both practical and management experience, and the Board may provide credit for a portion of any experience requirement for technical training, or a bachelors or graduate degree in architecture, engineering, construction management or a related area. The experience requirement cannot exceed four years. Finally, persons who have been issued a general contractor's license prior to January 1, 2000 are exempt from the additional licensing requirements.

The bill also requires the Board to mandate that residential construction contractors maintain commercial general liability insurance coverage. The Board will set the amount of coverage; however, the maximum amount of insurance the Board may require is $500,000 per occurrence.

Finally, the bill requires that general contractors who perform residential construction must include their license number in all advertisements.

(There is no Section 6 in the bill.)

Section 7 encourages State and local code enforcement officials to report substantial violations of the residential building code to the Board.

Section 8 allows the Board to adopt temporary rules to implement the act.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The act becomes effective January 1, 2000.

PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENT(S) & PROGRAM(S) AFFECTED: General Contractors Licensing Board and Local Governments.

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 1, 2000.

BILL SUMMARY: The bill makes several changes to the state's building laws. The legislation lowers the threshold value for structural improvements that trigger statutory general contractor status to $5,000. Under current law the trigger is $30,000. The bill expands the disciplinary sanctions the Board can impose to include suspensions, restrictions, or a refusal to renew. It also expands the grounds for which the Board can take disciplinary action. The bill modifies the definition of reimbursable monetary loss. It also increases the permit fee for single-family residential dwelling units, and the alteration of those units, to $10.00. Eight dollars ($8.00) of that amount is forward to the General Contractors Licensing Board for the Homeowner Recovery Fund, and local governments retain two dollars ($2.00). Under current law the permit fee is $5.00 and $4.00 of that amount is forwarded to the licensing board. The bill authorizes the board to develop minimum experience requirements for residential general contractors, and places some restrictions on those requirements. It also adds new insurance requirements for residential contractors. Finally, the bill requires that general contractor who advertise include their license number, in legible type, in the advertisement.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY: The only potential fiscal impact of the bill relates to the permit fees. The North Carolina General Contractors Licensing Board reports FY 1998-permit revenue of $227,433. In FY 1997 the board collected $246,544. This was at the rate of four dollars ($4.00) per permit. Thus in FY 1998 these fees raised $56,858 per dollar of permit fee. Because there is no clear trend in permit fees a flat annual amount of $57,000 is used to estimate future revenue. Under the bill the permit fee amount is increased to $10.00. Eight dollars of this amount is forwarded to the General Contractors Licensing Board. This is a four-dollar increase over what is currently sent to the licensing board. Therefore, the board will see an annual $228,000 increase (4 times $57,000). The local governments will also see a one-dollar increase (from one-dollar to two dollars) and an associated revenue increase of $57,000 annually. The 1999-00 estimate in the chart is adjusted to account for the effective date.

The permit funding forwarded to the licensing board must be deposited in the Homeowner Recovery Fund. This is a non-reverting fund.

BACKGROUND:
A state sales tax of 4% and local sales tax of 2% is imposed on the gross receipts of businesses "operating a dry-cleaning, pressing, or hat blocking establishment, a laundry, or any similar business, engaged in the business of renting clean linen or towels or wearing apparel, or any similar business, or engaged in the business of soliciting cleaning, pressing, hat blocking, laundering or linen rental business for any of these businesses." A 1% sales tax with a $80 maximum is applied to sales of dry-cleaning and laundering machinery. Items used in the dry-cleaning and laundering process such as starch, soap, cleaning fluids, hangers, and bags are exempted from sales and use tax.

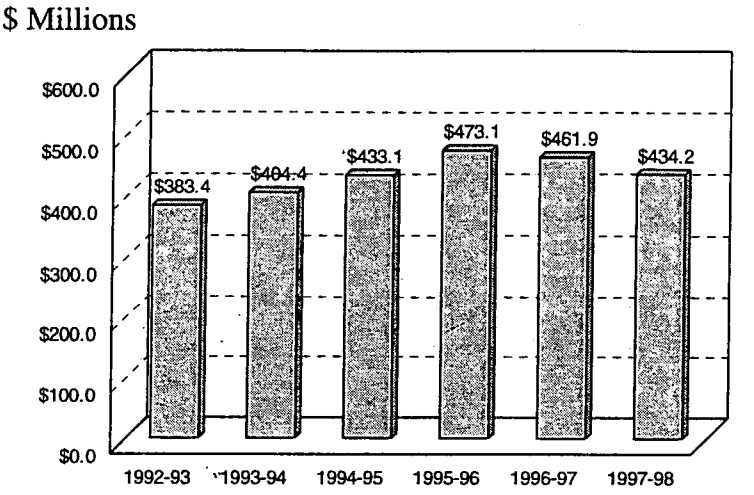
ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODOLOGY:

REVENUE

The gross retail sales for laundries and dry cleaners have declined in recent years from a high of $473.1 million in 1995-96 to $434.3 million in 1997-98. Gross retail sales in the current fiscal year are on pace to finish at $431 million. This fiscal note will assume gross retail sales of $435 million a year with no growth.

GROSS RETAIL SALES FOR LAUNDRIES AND DRY CLEANERS



Gross retail sales includes both taxable and nontaxable sales reported on monthly and semimonthly sales and use tax returns. To estimate the impact of HB 1326, nontaxable sales must be removed from the equation. Dividing sales tax collection by 4%, then dividing that result by gross retail sales provides the percentage of taxable sales. From 1993 to 1999, the percentage of taxable sales ranged from 81.6% in FY 1996-97 to 90.3% in the first seven months of 1998-99 (see chart below). This fiscal memo will assume the midpoint of this range or 87.9%. If $435 million in gross retail sales of laundry and dry-cleaning services each year, then 87.9% or $382,365,000 in sales are taxable.

	Sales Tax Collected	Gross Retail Sales	Percent (%) Taxable
FY 1998-99	$ 9,075,796	$251,316,232	90.3%
FY 1997-98	$15,225,715	$434,290,844	87.6%
FY 1996-97	$15,085,579	$461,954,623	81.6%
FY 1995-96	$16,091,521	$473,132,389	85.0%
FY 1994-95	$15,234,188	$433,121,056	87.9%
FY 1993-94	$14,426,870	$404,433,777	89.2%
FY 1992-93	$13,689,558	$383,399,394	89.3%

A 4% state sales tax on $383.4 million in dry-cleaning, laundry and linen rental services is equal to $15.34 million. HB 1326 transfers a portion of these state sales tax receipts from dry cleaning and laundry services from the General Fund to the Dry-Cleaning Solvent Cleanup Fund as follows:

	% of Tax Transferred	Amount Transferred
FY 1999-00
FY 2000-01
FY 2001-02	15%	$2.3 million
FY 2002-03	30%	$4.6 million
FY 2003-04	45%	$6.9 million
FY 2004-05	60%	$9.2 million
FY 2005-06	60%	$9.2 million

AN ACT TO MAKE TECHNICAL AND OTHER CHANGES REGARDING LIMITED PARTNERSHIPS AND THE NORTH CAROLINA REVISED UNIFORM LIMITED PARTNERSHIP ACT, TO CLARIFY THE LIMIT OF LIABILITY IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS, TO PROVIDE FOR THE REGISTRATION OF FOREIGN LIMITED LIABILITY PARTNERSHIPS, AND TO REQUIRE ANNUAL REPORTS BY LIMITED LIABILITY PARTNERSHIPS.

The General Assembly of North Carolina enacts:

Section 1. G.S. 1-79 reads as rewritten:

"§ 1-79. Domestic ~~corporations.~~ corporations, limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and registered limited liability partnerships.

This subsection does not affect the joint and several liability of a shareholder, a director, or an officer of a professional corporation for any taxes owed by the professional corporation under Chapter 105 of the General Statutes or Article 3 of Chapter 119 of the General Statutes."

(2) The street address, and the mailing address if different from the street address, of the registered office, the county in which the registered office is located, and the name of its registered agent at that office in this State, and a statement of any change of the registered office or registered agent, or both.
(3) The street address and telephone number of its principal office.
(4) A brief description of the nature of its business.
(5) The fiscal year end of the partnership.

If the information contained in the most recently filed annual report has not changed, a certification to that effect may be made instead of setting forth the information required by subdivisions (2) through (4) of this subsection. The Secretary of State shall make available the form required to file an annual report.

(b) Information in the annual report must be current as of the date the annual report is executed on behalf of the registered limited liability partnership or the foreign limited liability partnership.

(c) The annual report shall be delivered to the Secretary of State by the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the registered or foreign limited liability partnership's fiscal year. The annual report must be accompanied by a fee of two hundred dollars ($200.00).

(d) If an annual report does not contain the information required by this section, the Secretary of State shall promptly notify the reporting registered or foreign limited liability partnership in writing and return the report to it for correction. If the report is corrected to contain the information required by this section and delivered to the Secretary of State within 30 days after the effective date of notice, it is deemed to be timely filed.

(e) Amendments to any previously filed annual report may be filed with the Secretary of State at any time for the purpose of correcting, updating, or augmenting the information contained in the annual report.

(f) The Secretary of State may revoke the registration of a registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership if the Secretary of State determines that:

(1) The registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership has not paid, within 60 days after they are due, any penalties, fees, or other payments due under this Chapter;
(2) The registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership does not deliver its annual report to the Secretary of State on or before the date it is due;
(3) The registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership has been without a registered agent or registered office in this State for 60 days or more; or

(g) If the Secretary of State determines that one or more grounds exist under subsection (f) of this section for revoking the registration of the registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership, the Secretary of State shall mail the registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership written notice of that determination. If, within 60 days after the notice is mailed, the registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership does not correct each ground for revocation or demonstrate to the reasonable satisfaction of the Secretary of State that each ground does not exist, the Secretary of State shall revoke the registration of a registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership by signing a certificate of revocation that recites the ground or grounds for revocation and its effective date. The Secretary of State shall file the original certificate of revocation and mail a copy to the registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership.

(h) A registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership whose registration is revoked under this section may apply to the Secretary of State for reinstatement not later than five years after the effective date of the revocation. Section 10. Chapter 59 of the General Statutes is amended by adding a new Article to read:

"ARTICLE 4A.

"Foreign Limited Liability Partnerships.

"§ 59-90. Law governing foreign limited liability partnership.

(a) The law of the state or jurisdiction under which a foreign limited liability partnership is formed governs relations among the partners and between the partners and the partnership and the liability of partners for obligations of the partnership.

(b) A foreign limited liability partnership may not be denied a statement of foreign registration by reason of any difference between the law under which the partnership was formed and the law of this State.

(c) A statement of foreign registration does not authorize a foreign limited liability partnership to engage in any business or exercise any power that a partnership may not engage in or exercise in this State as a registered limited liability partnership.

"§ 59-91. Statement of foreign registration.

(a) Before transacting business in this State, a foreign limited liability partnership must file an application for registration as a foreign limited liability partnership. The application must contain:

(1) The name of the foreign limited liability partnership that satisfies the requirements of the State or other jurisdiction under whose law it is formed and ends with the words "registered limited liability partnership" or "limited liability partnership" or the abbreviation "R.L.L.P.", "L.L.P.", "RLLP", or "LLP".
(2) The street address of the partnership's principal office.
(3) The name and street address, and the mailing address if different from the street address, for the partnership's registered agent and registered office for service of process, and the county in which the registered office is located.
(4) A brief statement of the business in which the partnership is engaged.
(5) A deferred effective date, if any.
(6) The fiscal year end of the partnership.

The foreign limited liability partnership shall deliver with the completed application a certificate of existence, or a document with similar import, duly authenticated by the secretary of state or other official having custody of the records of registered limited liability partnerships in the state or country under whose law it is registered.

(b) The registered agent of a foreign limited liability partnership for service of process must be (i) an individual who is a resident of this State and whose business office is identical with the registered office; (ii) a domestic corporation, nonprofit corporation, or limited liability company whose business office is identical with the registered office; or (iii) a foreign corporation, nonprofit corporation, or limited liability company authorized to transact business in this State whose business office is identical with the registered office. The sole duty of the registered agent to the foreign limited liability partnership is to forward to the foreign limited liability partnership at its last known address any notice, process, or demand that is served on the registered agent.

(c) An application for registration as a foreign limited liability partnership must be accompanied by a fee of one hundred twenty-five dollars ($125.00).

(d) The Secretary of State shall register a partnership that submits a completed application for registration as a foreign limited liability partnership with the required fee.

(e) The status of a partnership as a foreign limited liability partnership is effective on the later of the date the registration is filed or a date specified in the statement. The status remains effective, regardless of changes in the partnership, until it is voluntarily withdrawn by filing with the Secretary of State a written withdrawal notice executed by one or more partners or revoked pursuant to G.S. 59-84.4(f).

(f) An amendment or withdrawal of a registration is effective on the later of the date it is filed or a deferred effective date specified in the amendment or withdrawal.

(g) An application for registration as a foreign limited liability partnership must be executed by one or more partners.

(h) A foreign limited liability partnership authorized to transact business in this State shall be subject to the provisions of G.S. 59-84.4 regarding annual reports and revocation of registration.

"§ 59-92. Effect of failure to register.

(a) A foreign limited liability partnership transacting business in this State may not maintain an action or proceeding in this State unless it has in effect a registration as a foreign limited liability partnership.

(b) The failure of a foreign limited liability partnership to have in effect a registration as a foreign limited liability partnership does not impair the validity of a contract or act of the foreign limited liability partnership or preclude it from defending an action or proceeding in this State.

(c) A limitation on personal liability of a partner is not waived solely by transacting business in this State without a registration as a foreign limited liability partnership.

(d) A foreign limited liability partnership failing to register as a foreign limited liability partnership as required by this Article shall be liable to the State for the years or parts thereof during which it transacted business in this State without having registered in an amount equal to all fees and taxes which would have been imposed by law upon the foreign limited liability partnership had it duly applied for and received such permission, plus interest and all penalties imposed by law for failure to pay such fees and taxes. In addition, the foreign limited liability partnership shall be liable for a civil penalty of ten dollars ($10.00) for each day, but not to exceed a total of one thousand dollars ($1,000) for each year or part thereof, it transacts business in this State without having registered. The Attorney General may bring actions to recover all amounts due the State under the provisions of this subsection.

"§ 59-93. Activities not constituting transacting business.

(a) Without excluding other activities that may not constitute transacting business in this State, a foreign limited liability partnership shall not be considered to be transacting business in this State for the purposes of this Article by reason of carrying on in this State any one or more of the following activities:

(1) Maintaining or defending any action or suit or any administrative or arbitration proceeding or effecting the settlement thereof or the settlement of claims or disputes;

(2) Holding meetings of its partners or carrying on other activities concerning its internal affairs;

(3) Maintaining bank accounts or borrowing money in this State, with or without security, even if such borrowings are repeated and continuous transactions;
